Digby Weekly Courier.

Digby, N. S., January 16th, 1885.

We are quite of the opinion of our Westport correspondent, of last week, respecting the necessity that exists for having telegraph communication with the island. The position of cases have occurred similar to the one "New Year" mentions, in which valuable property has been lost in consequence of having no means of obtaining such assistance as was required. The position of the island occupies makes it a necessarily dangerous one for vessels, and an emergency may at any moment arise, which nothing but telegraphic communication would meet. The ordinary affairs of business, the changes which occur, and the intensity of competition now days, renders the merchant who is without the reach of a telegraph message, seriously handicapped in conducting his business. Besides the vicissitudes of every day life render the receipt or despatch of a telegram, often a matter of life or death. To have this line constructed, we look on as a matter of right, and we think that the government should make those in authority would be favorably looked upon.

The Times correspondent X. appears in that paper, in a most unmistakable caudal droop, the whole tone of the communication is in marked contrast with the aggression, and impertinence previously shown. The writer of the letter states that he is aware that his attack was under the circumstances most wanton, we never began this war, and now that he tries to beg the question, we do not know that we care to give this "Times" any more gratuitous attention.

A Vanity Entertainment on Thursday evening next offers a rich treat to the public. Mr. Barrett the celebrated amateur, will give a reading, while tableaux, characters, &c., with the assistance of the Digby B. Band, completes a programme such as is not often placed before the public of Digby.

A new hitch has occurred in connection with temperance legislation. The Dominion license law has been declared ultra vires. The power of licensing hotels and saloons belongs to the local legislatures. But in the opinion of the court the power of licensing wholesale spirit merchants and ships saloons is vested in the federal parliament.

The Municipal Council met on Tuesday, and proceeded to the election of a Warden. George B. Potter of Westport, and John F. Saunders of Digby, were nominated for the office. The vote was taken, and found to be a tie; but the next morning the arrival of two more Councilors, turned the scale in favor of G. B. Potter, Esq., who was accordingly selected Warden, and the real business of the session began.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We wish it to be distinctly understood that we are not responsible for opinions expressed under this heading.

To the Editor of the Courier.

Sir,—In your last issue a Westport correspondent, "More Anon," makes a base attack on the council, for from Westport, and not content with this, spends his wrath on the warden, and then, in a series of paragraphs, this startling article displays not only violent rage but a shocking disregard for truth and decency. Councillor Potter is perfectly capable of taking care of himself though he will probably not use such trash. "More Anon's" main difficulty with the assessors of the present year is that they cannot be influenced by him. When people attack the character of others they themselves should be denigrated, as they run the risk of hearing things which perhaps they think long forgotten. Perhaps "More Anon" who probably places the valuation of his property below the market value given by him is only advertising himself, and if so would not it be well for him to give his readers a sketch of how first he accumulated this property. Some of your readers may not know that it was done by the poor fishermen of Westport will long remember it. We know that "More Anon" is not all alone in this, but as one of the people whose willing tool he is, sets as an example to others, he is well aware a little value on his own oath and obligation, it is not surprising that he should try to drag others down to his own level. There is yet one other party connected with the council, the warden, and a parrot-like only because some body calls. Let "More Anon" in future appear under his real name or we shall not notice him.

M. J. PETERS, HENRY GLENN, Assessors.

Westport, Jan. 1885.

To the Editor of the Courier.

Sir,—In your paper of last week, appears a letter from Westport, which is so libellous, that if allowed to stand unnoted by us, must create a very unfavorable impression on the people of Westport. To those who possess a personal knowledge of the men whom this writer assails, it is a matter of no importance, but persons not so informed, seeing a complaint in public print, and seeing our assessors on the ground of regard for "oath or obligation" will judge us harshly. Therefore we, the undersigned business men and ratepayers of Westport, hereby declare that the character as we are well aware that the entire body of the respectable well thinking people of Westport place entire confidence in those men in the discharge of their duties.

The profits to Moody & Sankey on the sale of their revised hymn books are a bit to have reached half a million dollars. No other publications in that field have approached these in popularity. The proceeds are divided equally between the church and the school with part of his share; and it is now reported that Sankey is about to do something handsomely philanthropic.

A prominent lawyer now practicing in this city tells the following: "An old darkey was under indictment for the murder of a woman without counsel. The Judge appointed me to defend him. I was young and very fresh at the time, and it was my first case in court. My client turned to me and said: 'Yo' Honah, am the judge de lawyer what am appointed to offend me?' 'Yes,' was the reply. 'Well,' said the old darkey, 'take him away, Judge! I plects guilty.'" —New York Herald.

THE COASTLINE HOUSE IN THE COUNTRY, PITTSFIELD, MASS., Jan. 8.—Mrs. Hopkins, widow of the late California railroad millionaire, Mark Hopkins, has made changes in her plans for a residence. She is to build in the Berkshires, the east end of the house and grounds will be $50,000,000. She intends to have the most expensive house in the United States. It will be built of blue stone from a quarry which she owns and work will begin as soon as the winter opens.

The work at the quarry will be carried on day and night. The electric light will be used for the night operations. One thousand men will be employed on the job for three years.

The case of Dr. Randolph Sankey, the famous evangelist, who shot his wife and afterwards himself in New York on Sunday, is the latest serious outbreak of a very general misery. He was forty-three and his wife thirty years old. They were only married a year ago. The doctor was a man of great energy and was fond of his wife. But the report says simply that he was studious and she was fond of society. He was ready to give himself, his profession and his name to the service of the world, and he did not give her life to him; and she got a bullet in her head instead of society and he another bullet in his stomach brain.

Between Damascus and Jerusalem is a tribe of about 5,000 Hebrews which have been there probably since the beginning of the Christian era. They have neither city nor town: they live in camps. The temple is reported by a more spacious tent. They have no settled places and no religion. They are different race or religion, their ordinary language is Hebrew. In their relations with others they speak Arabic. These relations, however, are not of the nature of commerce, but of a more primitive nature, exclusively tillers of the soil and warriors. They cultivate the ground arched from head to foot, and are not to be distinguished from the nomadic life of the Bedouins. They are content to this life in their native country which they have occupied for centuries.

THE SALVATION ARMY.—The Salvation Army paraded yesterday with drums beating and banners flying, and there was no attempt to suppress them. If a drunken man makes a slight noise in the streets he is hauled in. Yesterday there was an almost constant disturbance along their route, and a crowd of hundreds of hooligans, and were received with shouts of derision. On India street their drum beating frightened Mr. James McGilchrist's horse, who ran away and knocked down a little girl named Green. After Mr. McGilchrist stopped his horse he took the child home. She was considerably injured. A small boy who threw a snowball was dragged through the streets to the police station. The Salvation Army kept on their way. They are nuisance which should be suppressed.

MONTREAL ICE CARNIVAL.—The contract for the ice has been given out, and the work commenced on the condor or cairn, about to be erected on the Champ d'Amour. The structure is to be round, tapering to a point, its diameter at the base measuring 50 feet and its height 75 feet. It will be built in a series of seven tiers, and finished with a crown, and it is intended to represent one of the old Egyptian castles which are named condors. In the construction of the cairn, 12,000 blocks of ice will be used. On the top of the cairn a condor of a snowshoe will be placed, holding in one hand a torch, the latter lighted at night by electricity. Electric light will also be used to illuminate the cairn from the inside of the structure, which is flanked by eight turrets, bearing the flags of various nations. Work had also been begun on the ice palace, to be erected on Dominion Square, opposite the Windsor Hotel.

GENERAL STEWART'S TROOPS ON THE MARCH FOR METANAH—THE MARCH FOR METANAH—THE MARCH FOR METANAH.

KORTI, Jan. 9.—It is believed the passage through the remaining cantons will be much easier than that through those already passed. Gen. Stewart's troops are in excellent spirits and present a fine appearance. Half of the Sudanese regiment will remain at Galdul. A heavy camel corps of mounted infantry and the naval brigade will go to Metanah.

CAIRO, Jan. 9.—A messenger who left today with dispatches for Lord Wolsey. He fell in with some armed natives, at some village en route, who treated him in a friendly manner and gave him correct directions as to the way. The messenger reports that the country for eighty miles out from Korti is open, but beyond that point it is dangerous from caverns of the Mahdists.

A native guide, the messenger formerly stated, had been sent from Galdul to purchase produce of the natives, but he returned without anything, and he is reported to have been badly treated. The British scouts captured four natives who left Metanah. January 1, with goods for Meriva. These men report that a detachment of Gordon's troops is at Shendi.

At Meriva, there is 2,000 strong Major Kitchener, with a few men, was scouting in the direction of Abuhale, a few miles this side of Galdul, and captured a small party of natives who carried a large quantity of goods.

LODGE, Jan. 9.—Lord Wolsey telegraphs to Korti that General Stewart and his force have started for Metanah. It is hoped that they will be able to place easily on the 15th instant. An Englishman, who has arrived at Korti from Galdul, reports that he left the latter place safe on the fourth instant.

Gen. Wolsey telegraphs the Prince of Wales that he will reach Khartoum January 24. He telegraphs the government advising it to immediately dispatch 3,000 picked troops to Sudan to operate against Osman Digna, and open up the Berber route. Wolsey recommends that Gen. Greaves be placed in command of the troops to go to Sudan, and that Gen. Dwyer act as chief of the staff. He further recommends that the expedition to reinforce the Nile expedition. It is surmised that Wolsey expects heavy fighting at Khartoum has been relieved.

St. Johns, Nfld., Jan. 9.—Another orange outrage is reported from Carleton Place, on Wednesday last. Dr. Richard Dunn, a Roman Catholic medical practitioner at Broad Cove was proceeding on a sick call, when he was overtaken by a mob of about one hundred men and boys with stones and clubs. They carried him to a place and robbed him of his money and other valuables. The school does not seem to be large enough. Flies do not grow. I have more than once heard persons speak of seeing young flies in the spring, evidently thinking that the small flies they may meet with are young individuals that will grow to their full size. The fact is, the flies of the spring are the eggs of the fly, and as large as they ever will be, and if some are smaller than others, they are different kinds of flies. The same is true of moths and butterflies.

A Widow's Smiles.

AND HOW THEY MAY COST BROKER OF BOSTON, A FORTUNE FOR BREACH OF PROMISE.

An old man, with tottering step and bent form, already past the allotted "three score years and ten" is one of the best known millionaires in the State street today, says a Boston despatch. He has been well known on the street for thirty years, and has been frequently alluded to by his colleagues as "the first barometer of the street." Close business and living almost the life of a recluse, he has succeeded in amassing an immense fortune. He is James Deshon, who now figures as the defendant in what promises to be a decidedly sensational breach of promise suit.

The plaintiff is Mrs. Lillian S. Walker, a handsome woman of about thirty years, who sets the damages to her wounded heart at $100,000. Deshon, one of the most successful of the city's millionaires, is a resident in the vicinity of the West End, where he has always resided, as he is about the stock exchange of the board of trade.

In the spring of 1882 the would be bride was carried off to a friend at the West End a charming little lady. She was pretty and accomplished and the story is that the heart of the old man was so affected that he very soon became infatuated. She was a daughter of a wealthy family, a Baltimore, and early in life married a young Southern gentleman, who died some years ago, leaving her a widow and childless. From Baltimore she removed to New York City, and some years ago, to Boston. She numbers among her relatives some of the most influential residents on Beacon Hill. After the death of her husband, Mrs. Walker became somewhat reduced in financial circumstances, and while in Boston, living with some of her wealthy friends. She died copying for lawyers, painted and wrote poetry for magazines.

James Deshon, who lived at Allston street, in a poorly furnished room up two flights, used frequently to see the widow in the neighborhood of his home and after a time he succeeded in bringing about a meeting. Mrs. Walker, who was a very pretty and accomplished woman, called and made, according to reports, regular visits to the widow. They went out upon the street together and occasionally attended the services together at the Mount Vernon Street Church on Ashburton place. Mrs. Walker alleges that Mr. Deshon promised to marry her and has had the property of that gentleman attached in the sum of $100,000. The case will soon come up in the Superior Court.

Taylor has sought to prove that plants have a dim power of intelligence, and are able, at least to some extent, to exercise as much voluntary power as certain lowly-organized animals. One proof of this is the plant's avoidance of obstacles—placed artificially in their way—by bending aside before touching.

VANDERBILT'S GIFT TO MRS. GRANT. New York, Jan. 11.—Mr. Wm. Vanderbilt has presented to Mrs. U. S. Grant, as her separate estate, the debt and judgement he holds against Gen. Grant. Also all mortgages upon the property which he holds, comprised only with the condition that the sum of $1,000,000 be paid to the United States, cities and foreign governments, and all articles of historical value and interest. Mrs. Grant, at the General's death, or if Mr. Grant died, she was to be presented to the government at Washington, where they will remain as perpetual memorials of his fame and of the history of his time. The judgement amounts to nearly $150,000.

A Year's Record.

OF THE PROGRESS OF THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY.

RAILS BEYOND COLUMBIA RIVER.

The work of construction on the C. P. R. recommenced in the latter part of last year. At the summit of the Rocky mountains, 5,300 feet above the level of the sea, and has been continued down the west slope of the Rockies to the Columbia river. Grading and track laying has been done along the Kicking Horse river, and the Columbia river, 12 of which are only temporary, viz. that portion known as the heavy grade, a short distance west of the summit, which has been built so as to hasten the work in those portions of the Columbia and Banter river valley.

A "tote" road has been built beyond the summit of the Selkirk, and will shortly be made to connect with the "tote" road on the west side, so that next summer it will be possible to travel to pass through the mountains to British Columbia without much difficulty, but will have to travel between 200 and 300 miles on horseback. Grading has not yet been closed in the mountains it will be well to carry on all winter, as the weather is much milder in the Selkirk than any point east of the mountains. It is impossible to give the amount of track laying done in any month during the year, as the work was not continuous, and the work of construction being so heavy and tedious that it could not be got along with fast enough to admit of any track laying. A large gang of men are now at work on construction in the mountain passes, and there is not the slightest doubt but that there will be a complete railway from ocean to ocean by the spring of 1886.

Work on the Port Arthur section of the Canadian Pacific has been pushed ahead with wonderful vigour lately, and Mr. Van Horne has stated that this branch of the C. P. R. will be finished from Winnipeg to Montreal in three months hence.

STATION HOUSES. The number of new station houses erected during the year 1884 has been small, but this is easily accounted for by the fact that all of the stations on the Canadian Pacific have been pushed ahead in 1882 and in 1883. The only places where they have been erected this year is at Port Arthur, Manitowish, Morden, Calgary and Camrose.

ROLLING STOCK. The amount of rolling stock added during the year has not been large and no comparison could possibly be made with the preceding years. The rolling stock added during the year, valued at $15,000 each, have arrived during the past summer, besides seven immigrant sleepers, worth $5,000 apiece and two immense locomotives, valued at $30,000 each. The other rolling stock has also been added but none of any material consequence.

BRIDGES. Five large and substantial iron bridges have been constructed during the year. The largest two were built at Medicine Hat and over the current river. The others were of smaller dimensions.

ELEVATORS. Two immense elevators have been built by the C. P. R. this year—one at Port Arthur, holding 3,000 bushels, and the other at Port Arthur, with a capacity of one million bushels. Other elevators have been erected along the C. P. R. as follows: Manitowish, 40,000 bushels; Morden, 55,000 bushels; Regina, 55,000 bushels; Moosehead, 45,000 bushels; all by the Ogilvie Milling Co.—Emerson, 27,000 bushels; by James Thompson; Gretna, 20,000 bushels; by McLean Bros.; Morris, 20,000 bushels; by Do; Manitowish, 30,000 bushels; by the Farmers Elevator Co.; and 40,000 bushels; by James McKays; Griswold, 30,000 bushels; by the Farmers Elevator Co.; Virden, 20,000 bushels; by McLean Bros.; Indian Head, 50,000 bushels; by the Bell Farm Co. There are also other elevators at different points along the line of the Canadian Pacific, but were built previous to last year.

ACCIDENTS. The Canadian Pacific can boast of being more free from accidents than any road on the continent. Perhaps the only accident of importance that the very best men are employed on this line, and are thoroughly up to their business. The damage to rolling stock resulting from accidents this year is only a trifling amount. During the year 1884, in fact no real accident has occurred during the whole year.

PASSENGER TRAFFIC. The passenger traffic over the Canadian Pacific this year has been unprecedented in the history of the road. It is estimated that there were over 1,000,000 passengers carried over the road during the year. The business done on the Port Arthur division was simply enormous, and is only an augury of what the future will be. The facilities for carrying passengers on the C. P. R. are all that can be desired, and as a matter of fact no other road on the continent is better equipped in this respect.

THE amount of freight carried over the Canadian Pacific this year is estimated at 475,000 tons. A large quantity of this was brought by Port Arthur.—Winnipeg Times.

HARD TIMES.—It is estimated that fifteen thousand persons are out of employment in St. Louis, nearly all of them in the iron and steel industry. The census of the branch of St. Louis with 17,000 day laborers, and over half of these, it is claimed, are also idle.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—Mr. W. O. Gidley, the chief clerk of the Customs Commission, in reply to a question as to why he had to leave his grain mill at Winnipeg and his mills in Ontario and Quebec, said that since the season began 600,000 barrels of American flour had been shipped into the Dominion, principally for exportation in the province of Quebec. He was unable to compete with the Minneapolis millers, for they were able to have wheat delivered in their mills at the rate of one bushel. The Minneapolis millers were able to pay the duty of 50 cents a barrel, and still undersell him. The grain mill he said, would be set in operation as soon as the Minneapolis millers advanced their price of flour a little or the Canadian grain duty was increased so that they could then out of the eastern market.

A FLAT FIGHT.

Boston, Jan. 13.—The Sullivan-Greenfield glove fight last night was decidedly flat. Sullivan was in no condition, being short winded owing to excess of the past few weeks. The men simply fixed each other and no sharp work was in vogue. The men were warned by the police previous to the fight that no stalling would be allowed, and Sullivan was awarded the fight, making the most scientific points. About 2,000 people were present.

ELEVEN PERSONS POISONED AT A PARTY IN OHIO.—PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 9.—At a party in East Liverpool, Ohio, last night eleven persons were poisoned by drinking coffee in which "hot water" had been placed. Two persons have died and the others are not expected to live. From the fact that Miss Annie Van Fossen, the daughter of the host, is not as badly poisoned as the others, she is suspected of being the guilty person.

A FIGHT ON BOARD SHIP.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 14.—A terrible fight took place yesterday on board the Barbadoes from Craig Mallen. Nine of the crew of the British barque Chilena, moored near by, boarded the Craig Mallen, and they were all drunk. The second officer ordered them off, when he was struck by one of the crew. The crew came to his assistance and for fifteen minutes there was a deadly struggle with hand spikes, belaying pins and marlin spikes. The fight continued until men fell from the rigging and were wounded and exhausted, and the deck was covered with blood. The second officer is believed to be fatally injured and one or two of the sailors may die from their wounds.

A STARTLING DISCOVERY.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—The admiralty office has just made the startling discovery that the equipment of the big iron clads of the channel squadron, lately ordered on active duty, is deficient in the matter of Shrapnel shells. During the past few years it was found that the dummy shells used for practice were the only ones in the magazine. Orders have been sent to Woolwich to supply the deficiency at once, and the foundry at which some of the shells were made is now being worked night and day.

SPAIN STILL SHAKING UP.

MADRID, Jan. 13.—Alhama was visited yesterday by a severe earthquake shock which killed Alfonso and suit were leaving the city. No damage caused. The shock was felt far as Algarrabo, where people were panic stricken. A serious calamity occurred yesterday at Nerja. The encampment of refugees in the outskirts of the town was hurried and the unfortunate people there made shelterless were exposed to a heavy snow storm, which prevailed throughout Granada.

Poetry.

A Poem of Grand Joy.

(Written for the Herald)

'Tis the holy hour of sunset,

And the hills of Gaspeaux,

Looking away to Westward,

Are bathed with crimson glow.

'Tis the holy hour of sunset,

And soft on the waving air,

The college bell is ringing,

Its call to evening prayer.

It rings with a faithful cadence,

As through a swelling shore,

Across the Bays of Miras

To the ancient Beau Sejour.

Now with a smothered sigh,

Like a voice from the buried years,

Now with a wild commingling

Of laughter and of tears.

From my station on the hill top,

I can see the old Grand Trunk,

With its thousand emerald acres,

Where the lights and shadows play.

I can see the gleam of the water,

Where the ships at anchor ride,

And the cliff like a sullen guardian,

At the gateway of the tide.

I can see the boatman trying

His wayward craft to the shore,

And the vessel's frantic striving

To reach the tide once more.

And I think how the human spirit

In its strife for liberty,

Has broken, often, from its moorings

And drifted out to sea.

And so I watch till the crimson

Fades from the western sky,

And the college bell is silent

In the belfry tower high.

And o'er the landscape strathly

The lush night comes down,

And the lights of the Acadia

Room forth through field and town.

Again from the wooden turret

The distant bell is heard,

The fair white glow of the Bourbons

Floats o'er the Cobouli shore.

And the fishing boats of the Frenchmen

Stem the tides of the Bay,

And the homes of the Norman peasants

Cluster about Grand Pre.

Again in the gathering twilight,

To hush its plaintive cry,

The acadian mother sings her child

Some old French lullaby:

And the Norman girls, with their lovers,

And the village school-children,

And the old French dances

With his Evangeline.

And there by the open church door,

As young at heart as they,

Stands the good old priest, Felicien,

And bids them all to go.

The scene has changed, and soldiers

Are playing Basque on the shore,

And o'er the Norman village

Floats the red cross of St. George.

And the bayonets of the British

Gleam in the sun at even,

And many a wall, despairing cry

Goes up to God in Heaven.

And now the flames are mantling

The houses of Grand Pre,

And the ships of the British

Sail fast towards the bay.

And tender hearts are breaking,

And the old French dances

And the village school-children,

And the old French dances

With his Evangeline.

And there by the open church door,

As young at heart as they,

Stands the good old priest, Felicien,

And bids them all to go.

The scene has changed, and soldiers

Are playing Basque on the shore,

"TOMMY"

THE BAD RESULTS OF A GOOD EXAMPLE.

On leaving Mr. Clodd's I was appointed master to the parochial school which was managed by a board or committee, and supported by a voluntary rate. Some of the members of the board took my part against the Clodd's; of whom they were envious; and so, out of spite to the old squire, because I could be seen cheap, gave me the vacant situation.

When offered the school, I hesitated about accepting it. It was not that my pride suffered; it was that I misjudged my powers. My self-confidence had received a rude shock in the house of the Clodd's. I had loved hitherto in moral suasion and had disapproved of corporal punishment. My views on this point were disturbed. You can make a razer run with a word of praise and pat, but not a donkey. I had had to do with a well-bred youth—Young

De Vaudville—and had managed him with perfect success. I had tried the Clodd's, and had failed.

Should I succeed with children of a far lower class? My diffidence and my strong Tomoeian sense of honor, forced me to accept the mastership conditionally. My tenure of the post was to be terminable at the end of the quarter, without notice on either side. I felt that, should I fail, I would be unable to continue in the situation three months more with justice to the children, the committee, and myself.

I found the school in a neglected and nearly unmanageable condition.

The pupil-teacher and the late master had played into each other's hands, giving each other half-holidays alternately on market-days, coming unexpectantly in the morning, and cutting the hour of school into shreds, spending their time together gossiping in the class-room, leaving the classes under the charge of scholars. This I stopped. The result was, that I made an enemy of the pupil-teacher, and he was about as much of a friend to me as acquaintance-making complaints, and stirring up a party against me.

I discovered that several of the children did more scratching than writing. Thereupon I laid in a supply of carbolic soap, at my own expense, and a fine tooth comb, and began operations with vigor. What a storm this raised! The parents of the urchins I had combed and carried came to me, to find out what was the matter, and I dared me to touch their children's heads again.

Those with the dirtiest brats were the most in-impatient. Never before had it been inimuted that their little ones were not so clean as you might make a meal of them. Why were they to be combed and carolized, whilst the sons and the daughters of farmers were left unmolested? They were as good as others, and as clean as those who stuck themselves up to be their betters. Several children of my withdrawn from school because of my efforts to make their heads clean. Cleanliness suits the proverb, tendances. I was the more most scrupulous to mark these and the absence in accordance with fact. I found my scrupulousness gave dissatisfaction. If a child attended half a day, I might surely stretch

a point and make it a whole attendance. When the weather was bad, some allowance must be made to them, and the children not deprived of a mark when they were practically impossible for them to attend;

besides—and here lay the sting—I was adding a penny to the rates by my niggety in this matter, and was not considering that the pockets of the ratepayers or my own, as half the grant would be allowed the master.

I now resolved to devote myself to the fulfilment of the educational department required by the act, and to do this was likely to gratify the inspectors and obtain the largest grant, and the greater the wrong done to the bulk of the scholars, the greater the satisfaction given a Whitehall. I was too con-cen-trated to do this, which would have gained me the approval of the inspector and the support of the board.

There was a poor widow who lived near the school, half blind, nearly wholly deaf, crippled with rheumatism, living only on the parish half-penny, and the sale of a few eggs and a few chickens and poultry she reared.

She had nearly white hair; the cataract in her eyes made her mlear, and gave a vacant expression to her face.

How the unfortunate creature managed to live through the winter season, I wonder to me, as she was too poor to be able to afford fuel, and too blind to collect sticks. This unfortunate creature was the object of mockery to the ill-conditioned boys of the school, who called her "Faw-kebone." They pelted her with snowballs. One day they laid a snowball on the ground before her and when she unwittingly put her stick into the loop, they pulled it tight, and she was obliged to stoop down and pull it out of her hand, so that she fell on her face in the road, which was newly metalled. The aged woman was unable to rise without assistance, and then it was for some time before she could get up, and bleeding, and that she had broken her remaining teeth.

I discovered the authors of this wanton piece of wickedness, and gave them a good hiding. My blood boiled with indignation.

They were boys who had been concerned in the matter—the same who had been gossiped in the spring and had stolen her firewood in November.

That settled matters.

The offences had been committed out of school, and I had no jurisdiction over them. I had no jurisdiction over the boys when they left the precepts of the school. I was summoned by all of the parents of the boys. I had no jurisdiction over them, and

had no jurisdiction over them, and

had no jurisdiction over them, and

had no jurisdiction over them, and

had no jurisdiction over them, and

had no jurisdiction over them, and

had no jurisdiction over them, and are also that he would have been a favorite with the parents, would have ingratiated himself into the goodwill of the committee, would have obtained a glowing report from the inspector, and a large grant from

Whitehall. I was quite sure also

that he would have been had before

the inspector, and a large grant from

Whitehall. I was quite sure also

that he would have been had before

Digby Weekly Courier.

Digby, N. S., February 13th, 1885.

England and Egypt.

INTENSE is the interest which is now centered on the critical condition of affairs in the Sudan. The satisfaction with which the news of the recent successes in that country was received, was short lived.

Khartoum, fallen, and Gordon in the hands of the Mahdi, are matters calling for the greatest exercise of statesmanship on the part of the English government, and of energy and ability on the part of Gen. Wolseley. Where the blame rests, matters not now, the prestige of Great Britain is at stake and none will doubt that she will now, as she has ever done in the past, prove her self superior to the emergency which has arisen. The resources of the Empire are boundless, and will be lavishly used to teach the Mahdi and all the Arab hordes at his back, and through them all the Mohammedan world, that having thus been forced to an exercise of her power, the ignorant and fanatical dwellers in the Sudan shall feel the full weight of England's hand. Troops are being despatched with all haste, and Canada has thousands of stalwart and able men, who will if occasion requires, fight under her blood red banner, indeed it would appear that such a movement is already begun, and that a regiment will be raised by Col. Williams at once, if the Home Government think it requisite.

Gordon's fate is as yet unknown, whether he has been killed or is held a prisoner by the Mahdi, will probably soon be discovered. We trust he is still alive for Britain can ill afford to spare him, and the lives of two such men as Gordon and Darnley are worth more than ten thousand of the worthless scum that roam those African deserts. The time for England's decadence to begin, has not yet arrived, and if Gladstone and his government do not act with that energy and promptitude which the nation feels is required, they will speedily be called upon to give place to those, in whose hands the conduct of these great issues may be safely entrusted.

It appears by the announcements that have been made, that we are to be deprived of direct steam communication with the United States for the remainder of the winter season at least. This is a move in the wrong direction, and although the early spring is not the best season, still it must seriously interfere with the shippers of fish. The fresh fish trade in particular began with the ready access to market which the Hatterly line of steamers offered, and they deserve the credit of being the first to open up a trade in which two lines of steamers afterward found employment.

To be suddenly shut off from a market in this summary manner will result in a considerable derangement to trade, and will involve the loss of many a dollar to our fishermen, which some can ill afford to spare. It would seem as if one boat at least, might be profitably employed and we feel quite sure our shippers would be more inclined to continue their patronage in the summer time to the line that throughout the winter and spring enabled them to continue their shipments.

Mrs. Dalley who shot O'Donnovan in New York City the other day, is a widow 21 years old. She was once before a London police court for attempting to commit suicide, because of the death of her child. She says she is an Englishwoman, though her mother was Irish, and told a reporter:

"I certainly intended to kill Ross and I am sorry I did not succeed. He begged for mercy. After I fired the first shot he fell out. For God's sake do not kill me. I am not acting as the agent for others. This man is the chief instrument here by which the poor are to be starved. He has a wife and a child in England, and I felt it was only justice he should fall by a woman's hand. I am sorry I did not succeed."

Ross is recovering.

This is what the Halifax Critic says about farming the poor.

Give us the man who will stop the farming of the poor in this Province, and he will have done more for humanity than all the talk and twaddle about charity ever uttered.

Let the legislature pass a law for its suppression and it will soon be done.

His arguments are unvarnished, his illustrations are vivid, his decision sound. He has spoken 70 times in Lincoln the capital of Nebraska. "Announce again that Hon. J. B. A writer from Kansas says: "Mr. Finch's audience not first in tears and then in laughter; but spell bound by a rapid logical speech addressed to the reason of his auditors." The verdict from America, where Mr. Finch lectured on the 9th, is: "Mr. Finch is decidedly the ablest & dearest of the doctrine of Prohibition ever heard here. Dairymen's Association.

We learn from the President of this Association for the benefit of the Province of Nova Scotia and P. E. Island, that arrangements are in progress for holding a meeting at Windsor, N. S., on the 11th of March, 1885. Professor Denham, a distinguished agriculturist of Quebec, is expected to be present, and will add much to the interest of the meeting, which will also be a meeting for the dairy farmers of the Province, and dairy owners from the Lower Provinces.

Butter and cheese making in their most improved aspects will be thoroughly discussed, and the latest news of the meeting will be confined to these important subjects, as will be seen by the following programme:—

1. Ways and means to be employed for securing and retaining local and export markets for our agricultural products.
2. The cow and goats.
3. The best methods for improving the quality of our Dairy products, so as to secure the largest market.
4. Most approved methods for feeding and fattening; raising and feeding of stock, and general management of a farm.
5. What steps are to be taken to secure the best prices.
6. Diseases of farm stock, care and prevention of the same.

In view of the fact that the value of these papers in animals and their products is $240,000, and in agricultural products $1,000,000, we find that about half of the people are directly engaged in husbandry. With the rapid development of the North West, and the constantly increasing demand for under-cultivation in the other Provinces, the importance of improved methods and makes to the wealth of our Dominion cannot be overestimated.

A visit to the approaching meeting, which will be held at Windsor, will be of great benefit to our farmers, and we hope many will avail themselves of this opportunity of rapid education in their ancient and noble profession. The officers of our Agricultural Society ought, by all means to be there.

We shall see what facilities of travel will be offered by the W. & A. Railway Company, who we are competitors for the building of our Missing Link.

RETURN OF THE BARQUE ST. OLAVS TO THE JOB.—RICH EXPERIENCE.

The barque St. Olav, which left port on January 25th for Liverpool, returned yesterday morning, having had a terrible and unusual experience in the bay meanwhile.

She was stranded at Puffin Island, about a mile from the shore, and was having a struggle to get to the southeast, and the signal quickly brought a crowd to Raef's Point wharf, the general opinion expressed being that the vessel was the St. Olav, which has been imprisoned in ice for some time.

On January 20th, the barque St. Olav put off to sea, and the vessel was not able to board her until she had got well inside the bay.

After passing the lagoon light she struck the ice, and the pilot assisted the crew to take in salt, most of the seamen being frost-bitten or injured.

As the vessel lay at anchor she presented a peculiar appearance. The lower sides, stern and rigging were covered in ice, except close to the water line, where the wood-work, caused by contact with the floating ice in the bay.

The appearance of the barque gave only a faint idea of her condition, and the crew were not able to get on shore until the 27th, at 11 a.m., the pilot left the vessel, and the same afternoon, during a strong wind, the captain had to run up the bay to West Beach, where he landed and on the 28th the crew were able to get on shore.

Digby Weekly Courier.

Digby, N. S., February 20th, 1885

Mr. Finch's Lecture.

Mr. Finch's lecture on Monday evening was attended by an audience that filled every seat in the hall. The white and scarlet regalia of the Good Templars were conspicuous, and the number of them present showed the great popularity of the order. A. J. Copp Esq., W. C. T. U. introduced the lecturer Mr. Finch, who is most undoubtedly a pleasing and able speaker, his arguments in favor of Prohibition were new and well arranged, and being by profession, a lawyer, his lecture throughout savoured strongly of the legal aspects which the question presented. We are pleased to understand that the receipts will be sufficient to meet the somewhat heavy expense incurred.

The Dominion Post office returns show that 412 new offices have been opened during the past year. The revenue derived from the Nova Scotia branch was $178,189, while the expenditure was $277,289. Money orders were issued to the amount of $1,531,658. The number of letters registered in the Dominion during the year was 3,090,000, of which 105 only failed to reach their destination through fire, accident or theft. Of this 105,219 were embazelled by employees of the post office, of which 21, the contents of 19 were recovered and made good by said employees. 761,731 letters were sent to the dead letter office.

Nothing of importance has as yet engaged the attention of Parliament. The report of the Minister of Public Works shows that during the fiscal year $1,266,500 have been expended on the Digby Pier. The total amount that has been spent on this wharf since Confederation is $15,636.26. The dredging cost $8,100.38 and 6,350 cubic yards of clay mud and stone were removed.

Want of space, and the voluminous character which the "White Slave" correspondence is assuming, has prevented us from publishing the letter from T. H. Adams, Esq., which appeared in the Morning Herald, a subsequent letter from that gentleman will be found among our correspondence of today.

A fire occurred at a Philadelphia Almshouse last week, and entirely destroyed a part of the Institution used for the insane. Of 684 inmates many are missing, it is thought that 28 perished. During the night many insane persons were found wandering in different parts of the city, some nearly naked.

The Nova Scotia house of assembly met yesterday. It is probable they will pass some law regarding the right to vote and that the Dominion Parliament is moving in the same direction, the laws will be assimilated and confusion at the hustings prevented.

On Monday George Lynch, Esq., and bride arrived home after a short post-nuptial excursion. They have the kind wishes of many friends for their future happiness.

The Eastern Poultry and Beekeepers Association will hold their first exhibition at New Glasgow, on Tuesday, 24th inst., and two following days.

Why do not the Street Commissioners have the snow shovelled off our sidewalks? It is a shame to have them left as they are, after every snow storm.

Buy your Hardware this year, of Lettenoy's, they have bought largely, direct from manufacturers, at a great saving.

The railroad is so blocked with snow that we had no Yarmouth mails from Monday until Thursday afternoon.

The insolvent estate of F. S. Shaw & Brothers, has been finally settled in Boston, by the Judge allowing a dividend of 30 per cent.

Two Halifax coroners quarrelled over the possession of the body of an old woman who died suddenly last week.

The harbor of St. John's, Nfld., is blocked with ice. The steamer Newfoundland is unable to leave.

Westport News.

Westport, probably has many objects of the world has ears for nothing but human news. Each mail is eagerly watched for, and every scrap of news is eagerly devoured. It is, in fact, the intelligence of the world that becomes slowly confirmed, one's heart burns with indignation that England's noble soldiers should thus fall at the hands of a treacherous Egyptian rabble. In what bold deed does this noble figure stand out to Egyptian pomp and the savagery of Arab blood thirst. Isolated for a whole year from the comforts and resources of civilization—surrounded by fanatical panting for this blood—his only safety is in the temptation to abandon the helpless women and children who look to him for protection. And yet, perhaps, twice before Gordon died. Centuries ago an Athenian sage said no man could properly be called happy before his death. Gordon is dead. Henceforth must his name forever adorn the pages of English history, but had he lived who can say what the fruits of that brilliant career might have been. Washington in his later days was haunted with pining for the treasury. In digby's North West hero stepped down from his throne and his widows broken by his own countrymen. And it is not impossible that the lion of Vicksburg and of Richmond may be remembered by posterity more on account of the system of crookedness inaugurated during his presidential incumbency than of his great achievements as a commander. Noble unselfish christian as Gordon was, yet, perhaps, twice better than he, had he been a more devoted man of Khartoum than Westport. Yet your correspondent is at a loss what to write about the Herald of last week having given full information regarding the rabbit industry.

Three deaths in the past fortnight—first child of Joseph Bancroft—an infant child of Capt. Collins Titus, and, after a lingering illness, William Thomas leaving a wife and three children.

CLAMS, HOGS AND CROWS.—Clams are very abundant at the mouth of Fraser river, Washington Territory. When the tide is out the hogs that are pastured in the adjoining woods rush down the bank and begin rooting in the sand for the luscious delicacies. No sooner are the hogs down the bank than crows light up on their shoulders, and no sooner are the clams uncovered than the birds snatch them all away. They then proceed to eat, and dropping the clams, immediately dash down after them. If the shells are not broken the first time, they ascend higher and let them fall again.—San Francisco Bulletin.

We believe this story is correct, except as to the locality, for we were always under the impression that his mode of getting clams was peculiar to the crows of Clare alone, unless some of our crows visited Fraser river and introduced the custom.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We wish it to be distinctly understood that we are not responsible for opinions expressed under this heading.

To the Editor of the Courier.

To the Municipal Council of Digby Nova Scotia.

GENTLEMEN,—I am requested by my wife, Mrs. Florence J. Foot, to acknowledge the receipt of your Resolution of Jan. 1885. In her name and my own I emphatically deny that your R. v. Statutes give you the right to subject your poor to the neglect and ill-treatment which Mr. Adams and Rev. Mr. Ambrose have shown to be their lot in Digby County, and since your Resolution entirely begs the question, and contains no evidence to the contrary, I shall remain in the conviction that the statements of the above-named gentlemen are perfectly true, and that you are unable to disprove them in any particular. I remain, Gentlemen, Yours obediently, JEFFERY FOOT.

Halifax, N. S.

To the Editor of the Courier.

DEAR SIR,—Having been a subscriber of the Courier from its birth, it is but natural that I should feel interested in what may, from time to time, appear in its columns. I have just read the letter from the pen of the Rev. J. Ambrose—under the curious heading of the "White Slaves of Digby." This letter, although written as if by one of the most learned and able of our countrymen, is a piece of pure nonsense. We are a little apart, and feelings that should not exist amongst men are creeping in, every man has an inalienable right to private judgment in matters touching his own interest and until the men of this municipality are ready to purchase a farm for the support of their poor, we may as well look for it at the hands of the Council.

We publish the following County Court rules at the request of the legal profession.

County Court, District No. Three.

1. Except during Term and the special exemption by Section 40 of the said Act, regular Chambers shall be held at the residence of the Judge every Tuesday at 10 o'clock, a.m. local time. When Tuesday is a public holiday Wednesday shall be substituted.

2. All matters for Chambers shall be entered on the Clerk's list not later than the same are to be heard, and causes not so entered shall not be heard, unless under special circumstances the Judge shall otherwise decide.

3. The Clerk's fee of 60 cents, and where the action is pending in another County, sufficient to prepare the postage and return of the papers, in cases of taxation of costs, the Clerk's fee of 20 cents shall be paid to the Clerk at the time of the entry or before the hearing, and the Clerk's fee and postage are to be paid by the party in whose favor the judgment is given.

4. No application of any kind will be received by the Judge out of Court except through a Solicitor, or where appropriate, his Clerk, or the Clerk of the Court, attending at Chambers.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO CLERKS AND DEPUTIES.

The attention of clerks and deputies is especially called to Rule 9 of the County Consolidation Act, which provides that in cases of taxation of costs, the Clerk's fee of 20 cents shall be paid to the Clerk at the time of the entry or before the hearing, and the Clerk's fee and postage are to be paid by the party in whose favor the judgment is given.

are not supported by the rich or well-to-do, but rather by the working classes. A clerk on $8 per week will drink more than his employer, and thousands of working men receiving $15 to $20 per week will spend at least one-half of it in the saloon. This ground has been so well gone over by others that we need not enlarge upon it; but it would be well when people complain of hard times or small pay to look and see how much goes into the till of the dramseller and how much misery they get in return.

This "soft thing" business was abundantly shown during the late war, and the greatest anxiety was displayed by thousands of fond parents to get their sons in some soft snap. They were patriotic, of course; they shouted "onward gallant soldiers" to those that took up the musket or buckled on the sword; but their sons must have some soft thing on some General's staff or in the departments at Washington, in fact anything to wear the straps, get good pay, obtain honors without working or fighting for them, and many there are today who are foremost in getting up Decoration Day parades and soldier's clubs who never heard the crack of a rifle or the rebel yell. Artamus Ward hit the nail on the head when he proposed to President Lincoln to raise in two days an army of brigadier generals, whom men to carry muskets were as scarce as angels' visits. This rule will apply to Wall street today. There are thousands hanging around the curbstone awaiting their opportunity to gamble or steal, it matters little to them as long as they can dress well live easy and live in hope of making their haul. Money making has become so easy for the few that attract the attention of thousands who vainly aspire to be Gouds or Vanderbilts, and who finally die in despair or find a resting place in the Tomb or Ludlow street jail. Soft things are becoming the curse of the American people, and the sooner we buckle down to the rough things of life the better it will be for us.—Hotel Gazette.

Invisible ink may be made by taking one part linseed oil, twenty parts water of ammonia and 100 parts pure water. Mix thoroughly and shake well before using. When dipped in water the writing will appear and will fade again as the paper dries.

"Well," remarked a young M. D., "I suppose the next thing will be to hunt out a good situation, and then wait for something to do, like Patience on a monument." "Yes," said a bystander, "and it won't long after you do begin before the monument will be on the patient."

earnings of ten pounds (one week) let him look to be lean and hungry at some future time for it will surely come, no matter what he thinks. To save is absolutely the only way to get a solid fortune; there is no other certain mode on earth. Those who shut their eyes and ears to these plain facts will be forever poor; and for their obstinate rejections of the truth mayhap will die in rags and filth. Let them so die and thank themselves. But no! They take a sort of recompense in cursing fortune. Great waste of breath! They might as well curse the mountains and eternal hills. For I can tell them fortune does not give away her real and substantial goods. She sells them to the highest bidder, to the hardest, wisest worker for the boon. Men never make so fatal a mistake as when they think they are more creatures of fate; 'tis the almighty folly in the world. Every man may make or mar his life, whichever way he may choose. Fortune is for those who by diligence, honesty, frugality place themselves in a position to grasp hold of fortune when it appears in view. The best evidence of diligence is the sound of the hammer in your shop at five o'clock in the morning. The best evidence of frugality is the five hundred pounds or more standing in your name at the savings' bank. The best evidence of honesty are both diligent and frugality.

SHE DIDN'T BELIEVE IT.—"Land sakes what lies they do print in the papers every day," remarked an old lady from down East, as she looked up over her paper. Maybe they expect sensible people to read and believe all their falsehoods."

"What is it now, mother?" inquired the old lady's son.

"Why see here, Wendell, this paper says in Cuba where there was trouble with the hands in the sugar bush, the sap house was guarded by musketeers. The idea of musketeers guardin' a sap house! An' that ain't the worst on it. Here it goes on to say they are fine strap-ping fellows, each full six feet high. There wa'n't no musketeers ever lived six feet high, an' I know it. Down to our house in Vermont we have got musketeers as big as anybody's an' I never saw one over three inches long in all my life. Six feet! I don't see why editors want to lie so; do you Wendell?"

"But loo", mother, it doesn't say guarded by musketeers but by musketeers. Don't you see the difference; now?"

"Yes, there's a difference, I admit, but these printers always have some woe to crawl out of their lies. I wonder they don't blame it on the poor compositor."

It is not so old. If it is seasoned, it is as bad as a wooden or porcelain pipe. The seasoning, of which poets have sung, to the hygienist, it simply indicates that the pipe has had its day, and is now saturated with tobacco-juice; and that it must be replaced by another one, or be passed through the fire to purify it, as is done in the coffee-houses of Holland. Every old pipe, browned with long use, leaves on the lips and tongue an acid and strong smelling liquid which irritates the tissues and corrodes the mucous secretions. When it has reached this condition, the finest meerschaum is no better than the meanest scorch-throat. Independently of the substances, the form of the pipe has an influence on the proportion of noxious ingredients which tobacco smoke contains. Turkish and Indian pipes, in which tobacco is burned slowly, discharging its smoke through a liquid, arrest a large proportion of the poisonous ingredients. The bowl of the German pipe retains the greater part of the oily products; the Dutch and English clay pipes retain less. The metallic pipes of Tibet, becoming heated, carry to the mouth not only brown liquids saturated with nicotine, but also a smoke hot enough to burn the tongue.—Popular Science Monthly

LONDON, Feb. 18.—The Whitehall Review states that Lord Dufferin, formerly Governor General of Canada, who recently succeeded Lord Ripon as Viceroy of India, has demanded that 20,000 British soldiers shall be sent to India as reinforcements. He makes the demand on the ground that the British garrison and field troops are absolutely weak in view of the prospect of a Russian advance upon India by the way of Afghanistan. This is not the first time that Lord Dufferin has sounded the note of alarm regarding the insufficiency of the British army in India. Some months ago he called attention to the great and growing size of the armies maintained by some of the native Princes. He pointed out the loss of British prestige and the danger to British possessions which resulted from the fact that Great Britain did not have in all India a force sufficient to defeat a combination of two or three of the native armies. At the same time he expressed his determination to equalize matters either by curbing the growth of the forces in the principal cities or by increasing the strength of the British army. The present report in the Whitehall Review is quite in line with Lord Dufferin's previous declarations, and with his well-known energy and decision of character. On the other hand, the military experts doubt that he would embarrass the Government by such a demand at such a moment, when he must know that the war establishment is being dangerously drained to supply the Russian requirements, and morning and at any time when you have the opportunity until they drop out or disappear altogether.

Old Friday sends the following: In our neighborhood live a Mr. Shaw, who had two grown up daughters. A widow lady on an adjoining farm had two sons paying their respects to these young ladies. It happened at one time this widow received straw to fill a couple of beds, and she told the older son, John, to go over to neighbor Shaw's and see if she could get the straw. John was a very bashful fellow, especially around girls. When he arrived at Mr. Shaw's they were all at the dinner-table. In a stammering way he said: "Mr. Straw, mother sent me over to see if I could get enough straw to fill a couple of beds. The old man just looked at one of the girls and then at the other and with a smile, said he guessed he could accommodate him."

SPRING WHITENESS.—Way-down Bebees desired to indulge in a few remarks on the subject of spring work. He presumed that his fellow members realized the fact that art had taken gigantic strides in the last ten years. In bygone days the finest reds were a seal for nothing better on the ceiling than whitewash laid on in separate colors and pieced in with a Roman shade of calumnie. In these days the humblest citizen demand art by the solid lead. Plain whitewash oven for an alley fence has seen its day. Every member pursuing the trade must make himself an artist and study colors and lights and shades. He must also have more pay, and Brother Bebees moved that the president appoint a committee of three to canvass the matter and report.

The president appointed Messrs. Bebees, Walpole and Blazes as such committee, and estimated that the rates for spring whitewashing should be advanced at least 25 per cent.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicines which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsy, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

suppressed natural resources of our country should be utilized and developed, and that the advance in value of property would more than pay this extraordinary increase of taxation. Now since we have been obliged to fulfill this one part of the agreement, it cannot be denied that Digby has a just demand upon the Government for the fulfillment of the conditions upon which it obliged us to invest so heavily in this scheme. In the event of a change of route, the road or the line of the Municipality, it is the duty of the Government to be reimbursed for the advance made, as well as for the cost of the same.

As we have sent up a delegation to lay these claims before the Government, we are sure that the justice of our cause will give us success.

LOCAL NEWS.

Evaporated Apples for sale at 10 cents.

To Correspondent—G. B. Potter, Esq., Warden of Municipality of Digby: In compliance with your request we will publish later in our next issue.

Gam Chawder and Baked Beans Entertainment, in the Methodist School Room, Digby, Friday evening next, 20th inst., to commence at six o'clock.

We must decline inserting any more anonymous correspondence on the treatment of the poor; therefore those who in future favor us with their communications, will please do so over their own signatures.

A large number of fishermen are, as usual at this season of the year, sending their way to Gloucester and other American fishing ports for the seasons work, some two hundred or more men passed through here during the last fortnight.

We understand the full entertainment advertised by Messrs. L. J. Le Gall and T. J. Le Gall, of Gloucester, to be of a very enjoyable character. A choice programme of vocal and instrumental music, readings, etc., is in preparation.

J. Clinton and Son are selling Flour and Meal very low for Cash.

William H. Goldspring, of Westmount, entered the woods on the 4th inst. and chopped, split, and piled 3 cords and 3 feet of spruce wood in nine hours. This is an extraordinary day's work, and it is doubtful if any other man could do so much in the same time.

Mr. Goldspring is a R. 51 inches in height, and weighs 137 lbs. He is employed by Mr. A. P. of Marshalltown.

UNUSUAL WAY OF CATCHING A SALMON.—Mr. J. B. Ellis caught a Salmon on Wednesday last week, in a most novel manner. He was fishing in the Bay of Fundy, about two miles off the entrance to Digby Basin, and was using his trawl, when a salmon took the hook (a No. 15) baited with herring, and was easily captured. The fish which weighed 15 pounds, was bought by Capt. Daley of the Royal Hotel, and is the first of the season.

A large supply of fresh Groceries just received at J. Clinton and Son's.

THE TRADE IN YARMOUTH, N. S.—It may be said that drunkenness is not an unknown vice in Yarmouth, that liquor can be had and obtained here. This is true, but these evils are very limited, and do not lead to the kind of trouble which is to be found in the country among their friends.

Now and then a case of violation of the law is brought before the Police Court and a fine of $50 or so imposed. It must not be supposed that these offences are confined to the rooms. There is nothing approaching an equipped bar room in Yarmouth county. The offences are generally men who have procured a bottle of liquor somewhere and have taken it out to the country.

If the Scott Act could be made as successful a prohibitive measure in Halifax as it has been in Yarmouth, we would advise those who believe in prohibition by all means to go on with the fight there.—Yarmouth Times.

State of Trade in England.

LONDON, March 12.—The state of labor market generally is improving. In the shipbuilding industry there is a decided change for the better. There is a revival of trade in marine engineering work. Collectors generally are busy.

There is a slight slackness in the iron trade, which will soon pass away as several new works have been started in the North. Boot and shoe making is more active, the only trouble being a strike on the part of the workers in the leather trade. The district of the unemployed is so small, that it is not a matter of much concern.

There is a decided improvement in the textile trade there is a little change. As some factories full time is continued. Trade in Scotland is very slack, and the jute industry at Dundee is so dull that 4,000 spindles have been stopped and it is feared that the spinning and manufacturing districts are being hit by a depression.

THE SIKHS IN A FIGHT.

LONDON, March 11.—A despatch from Suakin says the Indian native soldiers of Sikh regiment, were in their first engagement on Egyptian soil yesterday. A party of Osman Digna's men made an attack on one of the British outposts in the neighborhood of Suakin, and the Sikhs were sent out into the open field to repel the attack. They were splendidly handled and their showed admirable coolness and steadiness.

ALEXANDRIA, March 8.—Signs of discontent among the native population against British rule are increasing. Threats against the life of Lord Cromer, the British commander, are now frequently heard, even in the street. The same feeling prevails in Cairo.

KORTI, March 6.—The report that Gen. Wolsey has been recalled is denied. His health is improving and his eyesight is better. When the command of the Egyptian army is accepted, Wolsey will go on a tour of inspection to the Nile as far as between Assuan and Dongola. He has no intention of leaving Egypt.

LONDON, March 6.—The Times states that the territory seized by Gen. Wolsey in the Sudan is not more than four times as large as the size of Prussia. It surrounds Zanzibar, and the intention seems to be to make the Sultan of Zanzibar dependent upon Germany rather than England.

Advices from the west coast of Africa are to the effect that the Germans have landed on the British flag and hoisted the German at Victoria, the English military town situated at the head of Amba Bay, adjoining to the south. The English command protested but his opposition was of no avail.

There is a rumor of a Fenian invasion of Dublin territory; but it comes from a not very reliable source. They may make an attempt something like the raid in 1879, and will probably a compass as well as the Fenians. It is to be hoped that the British will be able to handle them through this affair.

Archibald's Pain Balsam.

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR PAINS OF ALL KINDS.

TESTIMONIAL.—I had my shoulder dislocated. I consulted twelve doctors in Philadelphia; they pronounced it the worst case ever came under their treatment. I used their medicines and different liniments, and found none to relieve me. I used Archibald's Pain Balsam. It cured me instantly of all pain, and I have never been troubled with it since.

Archibald's Pain Balsam.

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR PAINS OF ALL KINDS.

TESTIMONIAL--I had my shoulder dislocated. I consulted twelve doctors in Philadelphia; they pronounced it the worst case ever came under their treatment. I used their medicines and different liniments, and found none to relieve until I used Archibald's Pain Balsam. It cured me instantly of all pain, and I have never been troubled with it since.

LINES.

Composed by a friend, on the death of Mrs. Eliza R. Walker, who died at Hainesville, Feb. 17th, 1885.

Yes, thou art gone, but well we feel That thou art here, and that we feel
And the loneliness that steals O'er us, fills us with unrest.
We have seen the imploring gaze
Lowered in the dark, cold tomb,
And what more loved form most rest
Than the darkness and the gloom.

While our hearts so sad and lonely,
Bowing low beneath the load,
Swelling, surging, almost breaking Neath the chastening hand of God.
But we know that life does not leave,
That the grave is not its goal,
Dust thou art, to dust thou returnest,
We know not of the soul.

Well we know thy happy spirit
Mingles with the angelic throng,
And we feel that while we mourn thee,
Thou dost sing the angels song.
All thy pain and suffering ended,
Dreary days and darker nights,
All have vanished since thy death,
From below to heaven's delight.

Rest, sweet heavenly rest was given,
To thee, the life of the loved one,
Dost thou to the heavenly mansion,
There, thou'rt safe from earth's alarms,
May thy mourning cease to grieve,
To thy heavenly home above,
Where in raptures thou art looking
Up away to heaven of love.

Strange Fatalities

ATTENDING SOME OF THOSE ENGAGED IN THE GULF TRIAL.

Charles M. Reed, who assisted Mr. Schofield in the defence of Guitau, has for the third time asked Congress for an appropriation of $5000 in payment for his services without success. If he should ever succeed in getting any payment, he will probably be as much surprised as any one. Almost everybody who had anything to do with the trial, on either side, has seen more or less ill fortune since. Some of the fatalities and distresses that have visited many of those who were connected with the trial or brought in contact in any way with the case, are so remarkable coincidences, when his predictions, spiteful and malicious-like ejaculations and curses are called to mind. It is not the least striking of these coincidences that the Republicans were so much afflicted. In one of Guitau's moments of real or assumed passion, not long before his execution, he held his Bible high in air, and with his eyes rolling and teeth grinding, said that the party was doomed, and that the best Republican president was waiting. At the same time he pronounced some rambling maledictions against President Arthur, in which he asserted that his party would repudiate him and nominate Blaine, and then he swept out of existence.

At another time when he was almost foaming with passion, he shouted: "My inspired act prevented an outbreak of war, and when you have murdered me you will find that out." It has been regarded by some people here as a coincidence worth noting because so striking, that but for President Arthur's premonitory change of Mr. Blaine's policy—which the majority of state insisted was Garfield's policy—there was more than an even chance that we should have had a war with Chili. Many thought so, at least, among the president himself. Another curious coincidence occurred between Guitau's prediction that he would put a stop to factional fighting in the Republican party and the actual cessation of the hot conflict that was waged when he fired his pistol.

The list of fatalities to those who were associated with the prosecutions or defence of him is strikingly large. The district attorney, whom Guitau's vocabulary was exhausted to curse, has been gravely afflicted. The sudden death of his wife, his practical suspension during the star trial, and the loss of the office are the chief misfortunes, though by no means the only ones that have befallen him since the trial. Two of the officers who had Guitau in charge have died, one having been murdered. Of the jury that convicted him, one has died, one has been in an insane asylum, two have failed in business, and some of the rest have seen nothing but trouble since the verdict was rendered. The judge who sentenced Guitau was the owner of a hotel building that, without warning, collapsed one night last summer, killing several people and causing a heavy pecuniary loss. One of the physicians who testified that Guitau was sane was afterwards murderously attacked by an insane patient; another had serious legal trouble, while the noted clinician who testified that the accused was not responsible for his act died suddenly in the prime of life, and with an enviable and increasing reputation as a specialist. The domestic troubles of Mr. Schofield, the brother-in-law of the deceased Guitau, developed at last into a public scandal, followed by a divorce. Dr. Woodward's death was hastened, it is believed, by the nervous strain caused by his attendance on the dying president, while Dr. Bliss Blaine, the great heart by reason of his sleepless nights of Garfield, founder of the president's death that his practice was scattered, and had to meet other embarrassments. Marshall Henry, who had testified in charge, was removed from office not long after in some disgrace, while Garfield's steward, C. Crump, had the foundation for organic disease by his faithful nursing of the president, and other misfortunes were entailed, so that he had at last to close out his career by keeping a cheap restaurant in a bessement.

In view of such a list as this the superstitions find a good deal of food for comfort. Among the more ignorant of the negroes of Cuba has long been regarded as the evil one.

A Foodless Country.

THE DESERT LIKE THE SEA--NO CATCHING THE MARCH.

A distinguished African traveler and well known British officer writes to the London Telegraph: "With regard to the affairs in the Sudan, I have all along agreed with what Baker has written on the subject, and think we should not find ourselves in this mess had his advice been taken. I also agree with much of what Rassam has written. But of all the opinions I have read, those of Lesseppe are the most telling, for they come from one who has been to Khartoum, from one who truly says the desert is like the sea."

Now, we have to look sternly at the present stage of things when we are sending 10,000 fresh troops there, especially when the advice offered by such men as I have quoted has been disregarded. Can we not overcome the difficulties of the tropical Sudan? Does not every one in authority know that we are sending our troops into a sea where there are no supplies? Shall we allow our troops to starve from hunger and die from thirst? There is scarcely enough food in that land for the inhabitants, and there is less food there than ever when the country is at war. The people cannot sow nor reap. There are no stores of grain nor fodder for the animals, so what is the English force to live upon in the tropical Sudan? An answer to this may be given by the government, I myself know of none; unless we send food with our 10,000 men sufficient to last them a year, we shall be sending our troops to die in the Sudan.

It would be better to face the reality at once, and lay down a railway, even during this hot season—one by which supplies might be poured in the starving country. As to the route of the railway, two lines are open to us and the one that can be formed ought to be adopted. Wolesey's route may be impracticable now that the Nile has fallen so low. If so, then the making-Berber line is the only one; and without a railway, as there is not sufficient transport in that country. I do not see how we can save the lives of our soldiers. I really feel very anxious about this subject.

Food for our troops we are sending into the Sudan? It is a most serious question, otherwise I would not trouble you with my opinion, there is not a loaf of bread to be had except in Berber and Khartoum, and we ought to pour in flour and other necessities in abundance along with our native troops.

As to the Mahdi, our men will never catch him, dead or alive. He does not lead his troops into action, and he would not betray him. His horses may be slaughtered, but his creatures, but the Mahdi will fly with a faithful escort, and again raise into greatness and power, defying the English. True, we have captured rebels in India and Africa; but in those countries we had transport and provisions, things were better managed, and there were no desert nor wastes of marsh.

SOME GOOD RESOLUTIONS FOR BUSINESS MEN.

The better you know your business the better your chances to rise. Be in your place of business punctually at the appointed time, whatever be the hour, in summer or winter.

Have a place for everything, and keep everything in its place. Only by arrangement, method and order will business go on smoothly and regularly.

Bear in mind that goods are bought to sell, not to keep.

Endeavor to master the details of your business, and, if you are ignorant of anything that is necessary, you should know, seek for the information.

Be brisk and active in your movements, for sloth makes all things difficult.

Be conscientious in the performance of all your duties.

Avoid keeping too much stock. An overstock is the greatest essential to success.

Go frequently over your stock, and ascertain at the earliest moment the amount you have to meet at the next settling day.

Put your heart into your work, in business concentrate your thoughts upon it, strive to excel, be in earnest.

Cultivate an affable yet respectful bearing toward customers, let them be an evident willingness to please, and a manifest desire to understand and supply their wants, study always to be courteous.

Be accurate, want of accuracy in sales and in every error but also annoyance and loss.

Seek to dignify your work, never humble it, by the spirit and manner in which you do it.

In all your transactions remember that honesty is the best policy.

If an employer aims to give the greatest amount of consideration to those he employs, his conduct will be better than that of any other.

To prevent litigation or mistakes, take care that every transaction is in writing.

Keep a diary, and enter down every night short notes of matters it is important to remember correctly, which may be necessary to refer to hereafter.

Died with his Secret.

CONVICT'S FEET DISCOVERED ON A DEAD MAN'S ANKLE.

About a year ago a young man made his appearance in Grandtoun, one of the suburbs of Atlanta, Ga. He was of pleasant address, industrious, mindful of his own affairs, and soon made friends who thought highly of him. Among others he made the acquaintance of a young lady of respectable family, whom he subsequently married. The couple at once settled down to house-keeping with prospects which seemed bright enough for ordinary people. About a month ago the husband was stricken down with disease which baffled the skill of the doctors, and he died a few days ago. Several male friends of the family prepared the body for burial. About one of the dead man's ankles they found a shoe which was in a pocket. The chain had been broken off at the first link, and the poor man was unable to move the fatal ring which after death was to give the clue to his identity. The young men found their secret to be of great consequence. Calling the wife to the side of the corpse, they asked for an explanation, but she could give none. She had never seen the shoe before, and was even more mystified than the men who made the discovery. A policeman was called in and recognized the dead man as Jacob Harper, a notorious desperado, who had escaped from the penitentiary, and for whose capture a large reward was offered. The wife, then, for the first time, learned the secret, and she had been the bride of a convict, and the greatest excitement followed. On being restored to consciousness, her relatives entreated her to have nothing to do with the funeral, but she refused their entreaties, saying that her husband had done his duty by her, and she would see him buried with such honor as she could give him.

No MATTER.—No matter where pain, lameness or soreness exists, Haygard's Yellow Oil taken or applied will give immediate relief, and a positive cure quickly follows its use.

Some one has said that the man who is curious to see how the world could get along without him, can find out by sticking a cannie needle into a millpond, and then withdrawing it and looking at the hole.

At a wedding the bride was a young lady who had been a great deal of trouble in a pocket. When the question, "Who gives this woman away?" a young man present replied, "I can, but I won't."

A HEARTY RECOMMENDATION.—Jacob A. Empey, of Canimau, states that he has taken Burdock Blood Bitters with great benefit in a lingering complaint, and adds that he would gladly recommend it to all.

A DECIDED HIT.—Haygard's Yellow Oil touches the right spot every time when applied for rheumatism, neuralgia, pain, soreness or lameness, and internally for colds, sore throat, etc., it is equally infallible.

"Beggars, sir—live as could you see which is the opposite side of the street?" "Why, that side, sir" (pointing across). "Mosh obble." I was over there just now, and asked 'nother gen' in which was opp's side, he said this was."

THE QUESTION OF THE DAY.—"That is good for a cold?" is a question often asked, but seldom satisfactorily answered. We can answer to the satisfaction of all if they will follow our advice and try Haygard's Pectoral Balsam, a safe, pleasant and certain throat and lung remedy. Sold by all druggists.

A little girl having found a shelled corn under a bush in the garden brought it in, and showed it to her aunt, said: "See, auntie, what I found under the current bush. I know the old hen laid it and I'm just going to put it back in the nest and make her finish it."

WISDOM EXERCISING.—The two wags who had been discussing the merits of the Liberator, Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Care, by promulgating a series of the kidneys, by which the blood is more effectively purified, and the circulation through the natural channels is not so much impeded, and the circulation which produces rheumatism and gout. The medicine is also a fine laxative, antilithic medicine and general corrective.

THE GREAT EASTERN.—The great expectation raised by the trip of this monster ship to New Orleans, where she was to be used as a floating hotel in connection with the Exhibition, have not been realized, the boatman being still at Milford Haven, and likely to remain there. An action was brought in the Supreme Bench Division on Feb. 19, by De Mattos & Co., against the Great Eastern Steamship Company, for breach of contract. The plaintiffs claimed that they had entered into a contract with the defendants to use the Great Eastern for £50,000 plying at the same time a deposit of £2,000. The defendants broke the contract by not giving them the proper transportation of the vessel. Judgment was given for plaintiffs for £50,000 with costs.

WORK ON ENGLISH STEAMSHIPS.—The troubles in the Sudan promise to be of service to the owners of steamships, whose fleets of which are now lying in the Tyne and other English rivers. But though employment for a large number of vessels will thus be secured, the profits that will accrue must be anything but excessive. As showing the deplorable condition of the shipping trade, it is stated that the hire of troops to Sudan has been effected at the rate of 17s. 6d. per ton for one month, whereas the contract made during the Egyptian campaign of 1882 averaged 28s. per ton.—London Herald of Commerce.

A CRESCENT MOON OF LIVING.—The inventor, Silver, of Lewiston, Me., a very good paper, has been experimenting through him for the past two or three years. For several months he has eaten but one meal a day, and that about ten o'clock in the evening, immediately before retiring. He works ten hours a day at his machinery, and without eating or drinking anything but water of plaining away and dying. Mr. Silver has gained thirty-five pounds of flesh. He is not hungry until bedtime. He drinks nothing, neither tea, coffee, milk, nor food. All the fruits and vegetables which he eats are the major part of his living. He eats no meat as he believes animal food is animalizing. He lives mainly on oatmeal and graham with a little butter. His friends say he is extraordinarily good natured, strong and healthy.

Mr. W. R. Laidler, Balif, & Co., Belleville, writes: "I find Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil the best medicine I have ever used in my practice. I have used it for bruisings, scratches, wind puffs and cuts, and in every case it gave the best satisfaction. We use it as a household remedy for colds, burns, &c., and it is a perfect panacea for all such ailments. I have used it down and applying it occasionally."

Henry Clement, Almonte, writes: "For a long time I was troubled with chronic rheumatism, at times wholly disabled; I tried anything and everything recommended, but failed to get any benefit, until I was cured by Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, told me about it. I began using it both internally and externally, and before two bottles were used I was radically cured. We find it a household medicine, and for colds, burns, cuts and bruises, it has no equal."

I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, Chemist, of our city, to try Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Care, and I am thankful to say that I have not been better for years; that burning sensation and languid feeling has all gone, and food does not lie heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with best results."

AN OTTAWA DRUGGIST'S OPINION.—Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 12, 1885.—Graham's Pain Expeller has cured me of a very severe attack of Rheumatism, and I have no more suffered, and I am free to say that, in my opinion there is no medicine equals it for Rheumatism, and it is equally good for other complaints. I have found decided benefit to my family from its use. I have used it in the building recently occupied by Capt. Jas. Dixon, on Water Street, opposite the store of Capt. Eliza Payson, where he is kept to entertain all who favor him, with his patronage, with Strals or Luncheon at all hours, and at reasonable rates.

DANGERS OF DELAY.—If we were allowed to look into the future and see the fatal consequences that follow a neglected cold, how different would our course be; could we realize our duty, how differently we would seek a cure; but with many it is only when the monster disease has fastened its fangs upon our lungs that we awaken to our folly. What follows a neglected cold? Is it not a source of trouble to the lungs, bronchitis, and consumption, and many other diseases of the nature. It is worse than measles to neglect a cold, and it is folly not to have some good remedy available for this frequent complaint. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the chest and lungs is Bickel's Anti-Consumption Syrup. This medicine is composed of several medicinal herbs, which exert a most wonderful influence in curing the lungs and other diseases of the system. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, soothes irritation and drives the disease from the system. much
