1877- 1978

1877-1977

Now and then a printing job had a save in parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad some days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would take you to the largest press in spite of the fact he always opened an outside door to lessen the odors on the room itself.

One of the jobs I had to do, besides putting and graders' devil on the staff, was to... I cleaned one and then... One day not long after I started to get to the grating plant. I decided to climb the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned for some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily. He thought the remark pretty good and whole.

Sometimes the gasoline engine, a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and the "Man" fix-it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results. Man would then stand back and come out dramatically then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of coaxing."

On other occasions when some group refused duty for the dead, seemed to be brokenhearted, I would say, "use a little oil" and sure enough, after that is said, "use a little oil" and sure enough, after that is said, it took. They often since, have I heard of the value of that remark and the actual need of oil in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1918 got together just before dark one evening and decided to mutilate the newly built outdoor Pease Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just out of the pool, nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys, no thought or time for bathing suits, so in the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in. The rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story was something like, "Four Boy Swims Officially Open Pease Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Carl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars, second world war and Korea; was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent draughtsman for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale apothecary, and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself, and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me how about writing your version of the story told about "The Marooning of Jerome". I did it and read it aloud to two somewhat different classes about the man who was found marooned on a beach in some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Duffy County. When I read this man's torso had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

From the files of the Chamber of January 23, 1967, the following account has been copied concerning India in 1965:

The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Bay, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles distant from the head of H. Mary's Bay. This land, and not from the water's edge, partly is level ground, and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having on an eastern aspect a view of the Annapolis Bay, and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in extent, it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth at that name. It was secured by Loyalists from New York in 1782, the point of which went nearly to Britain, as, moving to other countries, left the shore

HERALD, March 19, 5 p. m.
Not until now has it been possible to give a full and authentic account of the sinking of the Utopia, sailing light-making it difficult last night to ascertain the where what was going on at the scene of the disaster and the terrible gale making it almost impossible to communicate with the vessels until a late hour to-day. Early last evening the Utopia was seen steaming in the bay in the direction of the anchorage. When abreast of the Ironclad Anson the Utopia staggered as though unable to make headway against the terrible current. Suddenly the strong gale combined with the current swept the ill-fated vessel across the bows of the Anson and in a moment her hull was pierced and out by the stern of the Ironclad. The Utopia, after pulling clear of the Ironclad, drifted about before wind and sea. The rapid rush of water through the rent of her side caused her to settle down in five minutes from the time of the first impact.

BLUE JACKETS TO THE RESCUE.
The Anson's boats were lowered immediately as were also boats from the other vessels of the British channel squadron. The Swedish man-of-war Praya and the cable ship Amy, the Ironclads turned their powerful electric search lights on the scene of the disaster to assist the rescuers. On the shore the news spread quickly, an enormous crowd soon gathered on the parade and great excitement prevailed. Little could be seen, however, save the booming hulls of men-of-war and the white rays of the search lights falling up on the foam crests of the waves and illuminating the driving spindrift. The shrieks of the Utopia's passengers and crew could be plainly heard above the roaring of the gale. The sea was so heavy that the boats of the rescuers could not with safety approach the wreck, so they were compelled to lie to leeward, where they picked up the people as they were swept from the decks.

TERRIBLE STRUGGLES FOR LIFE.
As the Utopia's bows settled a terrible scene was witnessed from the sinking steamer made a sudden rush in masses to the forewrecking struggling for their lives and vainly seeking places of refuge. Twenty minutes later the forecastle was submerged and a large number of persons gathered there who had not dared to leap overboard with the hope of being rescued by the boats and those who had failed in their efforts to ascend the rigging, were carried away by the waves. The rescuers, blinded by the wind and rain, saw nothing but a confused struggling mass of human beings entangled with wreckage. A steam pinnace rescued all those who had taken refuge in the main rigging, but the last ones were not taken off until 11 o'clock at night. They were so exhausted that they could do nothing for themselves. The blue jackets clambered into the shrouds and passed the helpless people to the rescuers in the boats, plucky and vigorous work. While a steam pinnace belonging to the British Ironclad Immortalite was engaged in the work of rescue her screw fouled and she became helpless and drifted on the rocks. In trying to save them selves two of the sailors aboard the pinnace were drowned. The remainder were rescued.

THE TOTAL NUMBER OF DEAD.
The total number of lives lost is now placed at 576. Divers are at work recovering bodies from the wreck. Peterson, a Swedish quartermaster, who had been steering the Utopia a short time before the collision, says that just before the vessels came together he went below. While there he felt the shock of collision and rushed from below before he reached the main deck the Utopia had gone broadside upon the spur of the Anson's ram. The commander of the Utopia, Capt. McKee, was on the steamship until the last moment. Peterson said that as the Utopia was crushed by the Anson's ram he clambered up the davits of one of the steamship's boats and cut the ropes holding it. He had no time, however, to lower the boats away. As

PUBLIC SAFETY DEMANDS

That only honest and reliable medicines should be placed upon the market. It can not, therefore, be stated too emphatically, nor repeated too often, that all who are in need of a genuine Blood-purifier should be sure and ask for

Ayer's

Sarsaparilla. Your life, or that of some one near and dear to you, may depend on the use of this well-earned remedy in preference to any other preparation of similar name. It is compounded of Honduras sarsaparilla (the variety most rich in curative properties), sassafras, mandrake, yellow dock, and the loides. The process of manufacture is original, skillful, scrupulously clean, and such as to secure the very best medicinal qualities of each ingredient. This medicine is not bottled nor heated, and is, therefore, not a deceiver; but it is a compound extract, obtained by a method exclusively our own, of the best and most powerful alteratives, tonics, and diuretics known to pharmacy. For the last forty years, Ayer's

Sarsaparilla

has been the standard blood-purifier of the world—no other approaching it in popular confidence or universal demand. Its formula is approved by the leading physicians and druggists. Being pure and highly concentrated, it is the most economical of any possible blood medicine. Every purchaser of Sarsaparilla should insist upon having this preparation, and see that each bottle bears the well-known name of

J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

In every quarter of the globe Ayer's Sarsaparilla is proved to be the best remedy for all diseases of the blood. It will cure itching skin, eczema, and all the eruptions which result from impure blood, and its great popularity in the city of its manufacture.

Archbishop Walsh said: "There is no conflict between the bishops and priests and people, Mr. Parnell no longer represents a national force. He has followers here and there, possibly everywhere there seems to be some power to weaken the national ranks, and doubtless will have until the end, but...

Archbishop Walsh was asked: "Do you believe the Parnellite crisis will provoke religious schism? Is there any warrant for fears that the political feud will extend to religious grounds?"

Mr. Parnell will be interested. He has been led astray by some adherents making believe that the whole people march behind him. He will soon realize the opposite. When deposed, the clergy will understand the error and will seek to repair the wrong which the present rupture has done to the cause of home rule.

Question—"Once home rule is achieved will the condition of Ireland be ameliorated?"

Answer—"Undoubtedly it will. The present administration is infected with abuses. The day we have administrative autonomy these abuses will disappear. An immediate large reduction in the expenses of the government will lead to a burst of prosperity. Supporters of the present ministry, plead good intentions toward Ireland and toward Catholic interests. They try to show that home rule workers put home rule before the church. I know of no better test of sincerity in any cause than the sacrifices its supporters make for it. Mr. Gladstone sacrificed the position of premier for home rule. I am satisfied that he is in earnest. When the present ministry makes a similar or other substantial sacrifice for the advance of Catholic interests I shall be prepared to believe the sincerity of their professions. They make no sacrifices; they make only promises."

"See what occurred recently when Mr. Gladstone tried to move one of the few remaining vestiges of the old penal laws. It has become the fashion to say that England is a country of absolute religious freedom. The Gladstone bill of February last to open the vicarality and the other posts to Catholics was opposed by the whole party of the ministry. What an anomaly it is that the Catholic Marquis of Ripon may be vicar of India and yet a Catholic cannot be vicar in Catholic Ireland. What a farce it is to ask us to support such a ministry in the interests of the Catholic religion. In this case we have not even promises. In other matters promises in abundance are awaiting fulfillment."

Referring to the actual situation

Wonders

The country is against him. We bishops simply gave expression to our sentiments and Catholic Ireland had the courage to speak out when courage was needed. Mr. Parnell seemed to be on the point of carrying everything by storm and violence. The country was overawed. Gradually the country as a whole, emboldened by the strong moral support of the bishops and clergy, has taken courage to speak for itself. The imposture which came so near imposing itself upon Ireland now rapidly melts away. Numbers of over zealous Parnellites still stand by him—some possibly continue to believe themselves standing by the country. The elections will soon open their eyes to their deplorable error. Killikenny's lead will be followed all over Ireland.

Some few unskillful politicians have raised the cry of dictation against the bishops and priests. The bishops have not dictated. They have only given courage to the country to free itself from the intolerable dictatorship of Parnell. Ireland had made a noble rally. Though Mr. Parnell continues his mischievous work of dividing and weakening the national ranks the voice of the country is becoming clear. His dictatorship is at an end."

THE PIRATES' CAPITAL. Terrible Fate That Befell One of the Worst Pirates in the World

When the Spaniards were driven from Jamaica they left behind them a number of slaves who sought shelter in the mountains and defied the authorities. These bandits were never exterminated soon after the English occupation, but the remnant grew bolder and more numerous. They were known as the Maroons and the story of their desperate struggles for freedom, of the privileges wrung from the whites and of their assistance in suppressing the rising of the blacks in 1865, reads like a romance.

Six hundred of these troublesome marauders were transported to Nova Scotia. The descendants of the ancient Maroons are even to this day a separate people, and still enjoy the privileges granted to their ancestors.

Pirates and their bloodthirsty deeds have furnished so often the plot and theme for the melodramatist and the dime novelist that one hesitates to write about them in dead earnest. But they were no myth in the Jamaica, and no account of Jamaica's past, however brief, can omit a reference to the part they played in its history, especially as the most dreadful calamity that ever visited the island is connected with it.

The Jamaican pirates sought to throw over their marauding and pillaging expeditions and sanction of legal authority by obtaining letters of marque but they were nevertheless, pirates, pure and simple.

The rush to the new lands that are now open for settlement in several parts of the west is going on. There is no doubt that it will be increased largely during the coming months. Nearly two years ago the Oklahoma boomers were pushing their way to the Indian Territory, and thousands of them were camped beside their teams along the southern border of Kansas, anxiously waiting for opening of that region to settlers.

Many of them crossed the line before they had a right to do so, and as no crops could then be raised there were hardships and suffering among them. Some took refuge in Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas, some were driven out by Federal troops and others made their way to obscure regions, where they lived for a time on such provisions as they brought with them or as could be procured from Kansas. The boom had suffered a setback, though squatters still got into Oklahoma somehow in considerable numbers. Last year the government had trouble with the Cherokee Indians in its negotiations for the surrender of their lands, and this continued till it was evident that legal settlements could not be made on these lands in 1890.

Many boomers were again gathered on the border at the close of the year, and when the report came to them that negotiations had been closed several hundred families struck out for the lands in question. The report proved to be inaccurate. They had to return to the Kansas side of the line. The trouble has not yet been brought to a satisfactory termination, but as the adjacent lands of the Sac and Fox Indians are now open by treaty the new settlers have begun to take up claims there, though the land is not yet surveyed. It is very certain that the movement in that direction will be heavy during the next few months, or till every acre of soil has its claimant. According to a recent despatch, the "town lot boomers" are especially busy there at this time.

It is not only to Oklahoma that the land hunters are bound just now. Recently printed dispatches from northern Wisconsin describe the rush to the big strip that has been opened to claimants there. At the land offices in Ashland, Wausau and Eau Claire thousands of settlers have stood in line awaiting their turn to file their claims, and so highly have advanced places in the line been valued that round sums of money have in some cases been offered for them. At two of these offices a short time ago the homesteaders became so turbulent that a company of infantry was needed to keep order. It is probable that by this time nearly all the claims in the big strip have been taken up.

There is news also of a heavy immigration to the state of Washington on the Pacific coast. It has been in progress during the winter months, and is now very sure of enlargement. The papers there do all they can to encourage it by publishing accounts of the fine climate and fertile soil of the state, especially those parts of it west of the Cascade range and along the rivers that empty into Puget sound, which, according to the Seattle papers, beat all the rest of the world for raising grains, vegetables, berries and all sorts of "family garden truck."

Nowhere else, so it is said, "can man live and flourish so small a piece of land as in this attractive region."

Birds That Are all Feathers.

The biggest of all really powerful flying birds are, I believe, the wandering albatross and the South American condor—for the roc I reject outright as worthy only of the most restricted Arabian and nocturnal ornithology. Seen on the wing or even with the wings expanded merely, both these great existing birds have a most majestic and colossal appearance. But feathers in such cases are very deceptive; they make fine birds out of very small bodies.

For example, our well known little English sparrow, which looks so imposing in flight as it passes overhead with pinions poised, is hardly as big when plucked as a man's toy bumble bee, and weighs only half an ounce. So, too, the albatross, though its expanse of wing is said to exceed that of any other known bird, amounts sometimes to nearly ten feet from tip to tip, does not average in weight more than fifteen pounds, which is just exactly the poultreer's statement for his Christmas turkey.

As for the condor, while he spans from wing to wing some eight feet his length from beak to tail is only three and a half, and I doubt if he would pluck into anything corresponding to his magnificent outer show, though I am bound to admit that I have never tried the unpleasant experiment.—Cornhill Magazine.

The fate of Chief Commissioner Quinton and the British officers who were in command of the Ghorokhs, who were massacred at Manipur, is still unknown. A force of British troops, composed of 200 soldiers of the Bengal infantry and 80 Ghorokhs, who were marching from Shillong to Manipur to enforce the chief commissioner's escort have also been attacked and shared the same fate as their comrades at Manipur. The viceroy is hurrying troops into the province of Assam to punish the hostiles.

The attendance at the Jamaica exhibition for the 30 days succeeding its opening was over 90,000, and grand total of 300,000 is looked for before the exhibition is closed.

A Great Blessing.

THE VENERABLE BIBLE SOCIETY'S OWN ROOM.
The Venerable Bible Society's Own Room.
FARMINGTON, April 11.—The only thing of importance in the house today was the Bible election matter, which was brought up by Mr. Paine, and considerable debate took place upon it. After dinner the speaker was instructed to issue writ for the election in that county, which finally disposed of the Legislature case.
Special attention was directed to the Legislature case which had an unusually busy day of it. Along with these matters it was understood that
THE ABOLITION BILL, which had already been introduced would come up some time before Sunday for its second reading, and it is proved, for its consideration. A full committee was present and a number of visitors dropped in, although had it been more generally known that the council were to take up the destruction of the case would have been very large. It is worthy of remark that the council never looked healthier in its life and it could hardly be believed that it was in extremis. The council chamber was presented a charming appearance with its brilliant lights and harmonizing shades of carpet and furniture, but also,
THE SENATE WAS GRATING AT ITS HEART, in the midst of life it was in death. Among the visitors was a very General Blair, who as may be supposed, took the deepest interest in the progress of the bill.
A select committee of two members had been appointed to report upon the bill and after deliberation, Mr. Hill, chairman, submitted the report signed by eight members of committee, advising an addition to the bill of a section postponing the operation of the bill for three years.
Mr. Lamont offered to submit a minority report of the committee recommending the adoption of the bill intact.
Hon. Mr. Jones, however, raised the point of order that the minority report could not be received under the rules of the house and after some debate the point was sustained.
The council then went into committee of the whole on the consideration of the bill. Hon. Mr. White in the chair. All sections of the bill were passed without discussion, when Mr. Hill moved an amendment that an additional section be passed in accordance with the committee report, postponing the operation of the bill for three years.
A great deal of discussion arose pro and con regarding this amendment, nearly every councillor speaking upon it and, as it seemed, with a tendency to its favor.
Hon. Mr. Lamont made a strong appeal against it and this probably decided the question, for on the vote being taken it was found that the amendment was lost by two.
Hon. Mr. Lamont then moved a second saving clause that the bill come in operation after one year, it succeeded in getting only three votes, McLaughlin, Flewelling and Richard.
So that the legislative council is practically no more.
The bill will probably have its third reading Monday, but it is not expected that the vote will be changed.
Later
FARMINGTON, April 12.—The legislative council, which on Saturday passed the bill on the second reading, this afternoon on the bill which was introduced by Mr. Paine, and which was passed on Saturday, added extending the time of abolition till 1894. This amendment was carried by 10 to 5. This change of base has caused a great deal of political circles.—St. John Telegraph.
A DEFEAT FOR SALISBURY.
An Adverse Vote on the Question of Selling Opium in India.
LONDON, April 10.—In the house tonight the annual motion against allowing the opium traffic in India was made by Mr. Paine. The motion was carried by 160 to 130. The government was thus defeated. The result was greeted with loud cheers.
LONDON, April 10.—The government having rushed the bill through the House, stages when the Irish party were fighting over the leadership, show a determination to follow a similar policy with the bill in committee. Mr. Balfour's action in forcing closure to the House for the third time, is a gymnastic application of force majeure, as the present government have given in parliament. The want of unity among Liberals on several important points of the bill or opinion, is a serious matter among the Irish members and mightily to the government's power to crush attempts at destructive criticism of the details of the measure. If closure be liberally applied, the conservative party will be enabled to break the force of the McKinnell bill, and to do so by piecemeal arrangement as to certain articles, the Macdonald government will see abundant all efforts to secure prosperity under the Harrison administration.
They went to Church on Sunday and on Monday "Rattled."
On Saturday last a majority of the N.B. Legislative Council voted for the abolition of that body and defeated an amendment providing for a limited extension of the bill. The bill was introduced on Monday the 10th and was incorporated in the bill, and this is what the St. John Telegraph says about it:
As will be seen by Frederick despatch the bill, the council has been reversed. The responsibility for this action rests upon four of the six men recently appointed by the Government. Messrs. Balfour, Ritchie, McLaughlin and Flewelling, but finally upon the two last named, who by an act of inexcusable instability yesterday reversed the vote they had given at a previous sitting. On Saturday they voted for immediate abolition, and today they voted for the bill was carried by their votes. On Monday Mr. McLaughlin moved and Mr. Flewelling seconded a motion to recommend the bill. When this was carried by their votes they completed the force by their votes for the bill. Mr. McLaughlin seconded an amendment to prolong the life of the council till the dissolution of the legislature. This too was carried by their votes.
It is to be noted that a Sabbath intermission between the time when these two honorable gentlemen first maintained and afterwards betrayed the principle of immediate abolition. One is led to wonder what was the shrine at which they worshipped in the interim; what spasms they sang and what prayers they offered. Can it be that when about to make their exodus they were seized suddenly with a longing for the fleshpots of iniquity, mileage and perquisites?

The Boston Journal is authority for the following:
Washington, April 9.—It is discovered that Sir Charles Tupper and the Dominion officials were not frank with the American public as to the abrupt termination of his negotiations. In a note to Sir Charles Tupper said:
"In the meantime Mr. Blaine had seen the President, and the President was very anxious to see him in Washington when these negotiations were being carried on. He had made his arrangements for his visit, and Sir Charles had communicated them to Sir Julian Pauncefote, whose message, however, did not reach Ottawa until after he had left it."
In another interview he said:
"We missed a telegram which stated that the President desired to be in Washington when the negotiations were in progress. A postponement was therefore desired at a later date."
In still another he said:
"Sir Julian Pauncefote telegraphed to Ottawa, which message did not meet me before I left, saying that it would be more convenient to take up discussion of the question at a later date."
These statements, if current reports are true, are more admissions than any which have been made by the Dominion officials. A near friend of Secretary Blaine says that no such telegram was sent by Sir Julian Pauncefote to Sir Charles Tupper. The facts, according to this gentleman, are these: At the time when Sir Julian Pauncefote, in company with Sir Charles Tupper, called upon Secretary Blaine last week, they were received in an exceedingly informal way. Sir Charles Tupper himself was accorded almost no attention. Secretary Blaine had been fully informed of the outrageous attacks which Sir Charles Tupper had made on him personally in his campaign speeches. Directly after this interview Blaine saw the President, and it was decided that no conference should be held at present. Secretary Blaine sent word to Sir Julian Pauncefote that to effect without delay. A very few hours after this first interview Sir Charles Tupper was informed that to the desire of the President to be present at any conference and of his inability because of preparations for his Western trip to permit the negotiations to proceed. There was no surprise planned by the administration.
At the same time that Sir Julian Pauncefote was informed by the Secretary of State of the decision of the President and Mr. Blaine, he was also informed by a messenger to Sir Charles Tupper, and delivered, it is believed by the same messenger to Sir Julian Pauncefote. Neither Sir Charles Tupper nor Sir Julian Pauncefote, however, informed Sir Charles Tupper of the intention of Sir Charles Tupper to leave for Ottawa for Canada. Mr. Blaine and the President both understood that Sir Charles Tupper was then in the city, and the news to Tupper, officially informing him of the conclusion which had been reached immediately after Tupper and Pauncefote had called upon the Secretary of State, was sent in the care of the British Minister. But it is the case that Sir Charles Tupper had already left the city, and he was the people of the Dominion of Canada believe that inasmuch as Secretary Blaine had said that he would listen to him, he was not to be taken into consideration. He was not to be taken into consideration to make any public declaration about the matter at all. But it happens that Sir Julian Pauncefote did not deem it expedient to forward the letter to Sir Charles Tupper to communicate with the Dominion authorities the information of which he was himself possessed. No telegram was sent to Ottawa. Sir Charles Tupper actually did not leave for Ottawa until Friday or Saturday night. The fact that Sir Charles Tupper had left the city was informed upon opening the letter from the Secretary of State, which he for the first time read on Monday morning after arriving here. The result of this was to notify Sir Charles Tupper rests with Sir Julian Pauncefote.
It is a fact that President Harrison does not favor the propositions which have been submitted by Sir John Macdonald and representatives for limited reciprocity. He has stated very earnestly since Sir Charles Tupper was here last week that he does not believe in the kind of reciprocity which Sir John Macdonald proposed to be put into effect in complete reciprocity with Canada or nothing. He does not propose to be used as a means by Sir John Macdonald or by Sir Charles Tupper, or by any of the skilled diplomats of the Dominion, to bring about the negotiation of a treaty with the United States, or to break the force of the McKinnell bill, and to do so by piecemeal arrangement as to certain articles, the Macdonald government will see abundant all efforts to secure prosperity under the Harrison administration.

THE BOSTON JOURNAL IS AUTHORITY FOR THE FOLLOWING:
Washington, April 9.—It is discovered that Sir Charles Tupper and the Dominion officials were not frank with the American public as to the abrupt termination of his negotiations. In a note to Sir Charles Tupper said:
"In the meantime Mr. Blaine had seen the President, and the President was very anxious to see him in Washington when these negotiations were being carried on. He had made his arrangements for his visit, and Sir Charles had communicated them to Sir Julian Pauncefote, whose message, however, did not reach Ottawa until after he had left it."
In another interview he said:
"We missed a telegram which stated that the President desired to be in Washington when the negotiations were in progress. A postponement was therefore desired at a later date."
In still another he said:
"Sir Julian Pauncefote telegraphed to Ottawa, which message did not meet me before I left, saying that it would be more convenient to take up discussion of the question at a later date."
These statements, if current reports are true, are more admissions than any which have been made by the Dominion officials. A near friend of Secretary Blaine says that no such telegram was sent by Sir Julian Pauncefote to Sir Charles Tupper. The facts, according to this gentleman, are these: At the time when Sir Julian Pauncefote, in company with Sir Charles Tupper, called upon Secretary Blaine last week, they were received in an exceedingly informal way. Sir Charles Tupper himself was accorded almost no attention. Secretary Blaine had been fully informed of the outrageous attacks which Sir Charles Tupper had made on him personally in his campaign speeches. Directly after this interview Blaine saw the President, and it was decided that no conference should be held at present. Secretary Blaine sent word to Sir Julian Pauncefote that to effect without delay. A very few hours after this first interview Sir Charles Tupper was informed that to the desire of the President to be present at any conference and of his inability because of preparations for his Western trip to permit the negotiations to proceed. There was no surprise planned by the administration.
At the same time that Sir Julian Pauncefote was informed by the Secretary of State of the decision of the President and Mr. Blaine, he was also informed by a messenger to Sir Charles Tupper, and delivered, it is believed by the same messenger to Sir Julian Pauncefote. Neither Sir Charles Tupper nor Sir Julian Pauncefote, however, informed Sir Charles Tupper of the intention of Sir Charles Tupper to leave for Ottawa for Canada. Mr. Blaine and the President both understood that Sir Charles Tupper was then in the city, and the news to Tupper, officially informing him of the conclusion which had been reached immediately after Tupper and Pauncefote had called upon the Secretary of State, was sent in the care of the British Minister. But it is the case that Sir Charles Tupper had already left the city, and he was the people of the Dominion of Canada believe that inasmuch as Secretary Blaine had said that he would listen to him, he was not to be taken into consideration. He was not to be taken into consideration to make any public declaration about the matter at all. But it happens that Sir Julian Pauncefote did not deem it expedient to forward the letter to Sir Charles Tupper to communicate with the Dominion authorities the information of which he was himself possessed. No telegram was sent to Ottawa. Sir Charles Tupper actually did not leave for Ottawa until Friday or Saturday night. The fact that Sir Charles Tupper had left the city was informed upon opening the letter from the Secretary of State, which he for the first time read on Monday morning after arriving here. The result of this was to notify Sir Charles Tupper rests with Sir Julian Pauncefote.
It is a fact that President Harrison does not favor the propositions which have been submitted by Sir John Macdonald and representatives for limited reciprocity. He has stated very earnestly since Sir Charles Tupper was here last week that he does not believe in the kind of reciprocity which Sir John Macdonald proposed to be put into effect in complete reciprocity with Canada or nothing. He does not propose to be used as a means by Sir John Macdonald or by Sir Charles Tupper, or by any of the skilled diplomats of the Dominion, to bring about the negotiation of a treaty with the United States, or to break the force of the McKinnell bill, and to do so by piecemeal arrangement as to certain articles, the Macdonald government will see abundant all efforts to secure prosperity under the Harrison administration.
They went to Church on Sunday and on Monday "Rattled."
On Saturday last a majority of the N.B. Legislative Council voted for the abolition of that body and defeated an amendment providing for a limited extension of the bill. The bill was introduced on Monday the 10th and was incorporated in the bill, and this is what the St. John Telegraph says about it:
As will be seen by Frederick despatch the bill, the council has been reversed. The responsibility for this action rests upon four of the six men recently appointed by the Government. Messrs. Balfour, Ritchie, McLaughlin and Flewelling, but finally upon the two last named, who by an act of inexcusable instability yesterday reversed the vote they had given at a previous sitting. On Saturday they voted for immediate abolition, and today they voted for the bill was carried by their votes. On Monday Mr. McLaughlin moved and Mr. Flewelling seconded a motion to recommend the bill. When this was carried by their votes they completed the force by their votes for the bill. Mr. McLaughlin seconded an amendment to prolong the life of the council till the dissolution of the legislature. This too was carried by their votes.
It is to be noted that a Sabbath intermission between the time when these two honorable gentlemen first maintained and afterwards betrayed the principle of immediate abolition. Great $50,000.00 Cheap Cash Sale!
LETTER FROM GEO. F. STONE

To the People of this Town and County:
Wishing to avoid being ungrateful, will ask you to accept my thanks for the kind support you have been pleased to give my Great $50,000.00 Cheap Cash Sale since May '90. Altho I admit that I am short $4,500, yet I feel I have ample reason for being encouraged. Peradventure this may be the only time in the history of selling the $50,000. Let this be as it may. I appeal to you when I say that I must prove the best year, as my financial position is consequently unable to import more largely, and on better terms, than you will clearly see that I per cent profit on $50,000 sales will give me a little more and thus enable me to place my goods in the hands of my customers at about the wholesale price. This is what I am anxious to do, and it is true that any retail firm in Canada has ever done.

I respectfully ask the people in this town and county to see my stock before you buy, which will be in keeping with your own interests. My New Goods will be in April 25th.

Yours truly,

"Well, the houses in Digby look splendid—all painted so nice. I asked a boy who painted the houses in Digby, and he said:

"I asked the next boy I met the same question, and he said 'Pa.' I asked another boy, and he said 'Ma.' I told you I was puzzled; and so I asked some of the grey-haired old men, and they informed me that G. I. LETTENY & BRO. kept paint all ready mixed, in showing shades, so you can choose the colors which harmonize, and paint your own house and save a great deal.

That means more. Well we are not going with about pigs but about shingles.
What we want to do is not to ask for G. I. LETTENY & BRO. SHINGLES, but GUNTER'S.
It is a queer name, and the Shingles are queer. We use the word 'gunter' when we speak about a person or thing being different from the same being or thing as it is. That is just about what Gunter's Shingles are—they are better than any other single manufactured makes, so Gunter's Shingles are to be depended upon every time.

Washington Letter.
[From a Correspondent.]
WASHINGTON, April 17, 1891.
Advice from Rome as to the effect of the election in Italy, caused some disappointment in political circles at the Italian capital, it being characterized as "vague and inconclusive, insisting merely on the status quo." The question naturally arises: How would the letter have been received if it had insisted upon nothing? The very fact that it insisted upon nothing, maintains the position originally taken on by the Secretary makes its alleged vagueness and inconclusiveness impossible. What the dispatch probably means is that the communication of Mr. Blaine to the President, in that he does not recede from what he had said before, or rather does the contrary, he stands where he stood in the first place. Two points, it is true, are undecided, but not by reason of any indecision on the Secretary's part, if he says, the latter officer of the Government shall find that the President's line of argument on these points is certainly not clear that none can fail to understand it.

Washington Letter.
From our regular Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, May, 1, 1881.
A discussion concerning the condition of the Treasury, which has been going on fitfully ever since the adjournment of Congress, has received a new impetus from the interview with the President. It is to the effect that the Treasury holds over $250,000,000 "extraneous" to the legitimate expenses of Government. His remarks are felt by some as derogatory remarks.

of widely-circulated reports that he succeeded to an empty Treasury. Some other considerations of serious weight. The possession of the Treasury of this enormous sum of money has wholly unsuspected by the public. Secretary has repeatedly said that he had cut out all available funds and was left with only a close margin. By what statements or hints—perhaps have people been privy to him, knowing so large a sum collected from them in the shape of taxes has been without circulation? You want ground of the policy has it been kept locked up, now available and waiting to be on demand? That the people are ento know all the details of Treasury measures too clear for dispute. Has he insisted to them? The subject is strenuous upon the legislation of the Congress, by the actions of the Republicans in both Houses of Congress. It appears to be really an official statement. There will be no fruitful topic of discussion from now until the next Congress meets. The composition of the next House will be a character to require on the part of President officer abilities of the very best order. It is to the best interest of the Democratic party that the man best equipped for the place shall be put in the chair, and it is the duty of the Democratic members to do this.

There should be a man of simple heart, with a ready command of all his resources; of a high and honorable courage; tempered with a wise and discreet consideration; of large parliamentary knowledge and experience; and of a cool mind and temper; of honest part and of unfeigned fairness; of perfect command and almost limitless patience; a man of wisdom and adequate resolution. The Democratic majority in the next House contains distinguished Unionists, among whom are the several candidates for the Speakership which have been announced. Its business is to choose from them all a man who has qualities of mind and temper which

The President should have no difficulty in finding a suitable man for the Chinese mission. Mr. Denby's recall is thought to be necessary. The latter has filled the position with dignity, tact, and endurance to both governments, and in making a change care should be taken not to select Mr. Denby's successor from the ranks of those who have made Chinese extraction their special hobby, and by the emperance of their damaging representations especially to the Chinese government. It is really desirable that amiable relations be main-and between the two countries, and it would be the height of folly not to maintain and cultivate such relations, the President should select in Mr. Blair's place a man of approved discretion and ability, of broad and practical business views and of sense enough to see that the tariff question can and should be regulated without provoking retaliation or setting up barriers of commerce, not to mention against the country whose trade with us goes well above all other enlightened nations are combining or competing to secure.

Secretary Foster states that there has not been any conclusion of negotiations between the United States and Great Brit-

With regard to the sealing operations being sea during the coming season, Mr. J. Stanley Brown, who goes to Alaska to stand for the Government on the question of the sealing industry, is preparing to start, and the new agent who is to take Mr. Got in the duty of watching the work of the contractors has been selected, though the appointment has not been formally announced. He will have broad discretion in deciding whether the contractors are keeping their agreements as to size and number of animals to be killed, and if he thinks the full maximum catch ought not to be allowed will not be.

"Some years ago my life was a severe affliction. My hair began to fall out. I used such preparations for restoring it as my physicians ordered, but failed to produce any growth of hair. I then tried Ayer's Hair Vigor, several bottles recommended by druggists, and all at once a new growth of hair began to appear. The last remainder I applied was Ayer's Hair Vigor, which brought a growth of hair in 2 or 3 weeks. I used eight bottles in two years; more than was necessary as a restorative, but I liked it for that purpose. I believe Ayer's Hair Vigor possesses virtues far above those of any similar preparation now on the market."

SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD.
Never since the discovery and settlement of this country have the eyes of its sons and daughters been turned so earnestly, so solicitously and with such tenderness, to any central point or figure as they have been turned this past week to the quiet home on the banks of the Ottawa river, stricken and dying, lies the best known and foremost of Canada's citizens.

Sir John A. Macdonald was born in Glasgow, Scotland, on January 11, 1815. When but five years old his parents moved to Kingston, Canada, where John attended Grammar School, and was later on articled to George Mackenzie, a prominent barrister. At 21 he was called to the bar, and immediately distinguished himself by his able and eloquent defence of a Poole, who was unfortunate enough to engage in the rebellious disturbances of that time. In '44 he entered public life as representative for Kingston, and has from that to the present date been actively engaged in the political strife which a half century of growth and development will witness in a new country.

There have been many striking figures in Canadian politics, and many brilliant intellects and well balanced minds, but by far the most commanding in all its history has been, and must be for many a day, the aged premier whose career is now past. His great mastery over men, and his skillful piloting through the breakers that forever threatened his course, can only be appreciated by men who struggle with like difficulties. His was the soothing voice, and the suave manner, covering the deep penetration into the actuating motives of men, that brought beneath the sway of his unbounding will the conflicting and discordant elements of the most heterogeneous parliamentary representation on earth. If he was ambitious it was not the narrow ambition of selfishness. He soared to no heights, to which he was not willing his colleagues should aspire—no friends were forsaken, no favors forgotten. Dignity and reserve he took little stock in, he was pre-eminently a man of the people, and all the faults of his sublime dictatorship were hidden by the gentleness and simplicity that more easily brought him in touch with the peasant than with the prince. He had many opponents but few enemies. There were no rebellions among his followers. Even when the dark cloud that threatened to annihilate him in '73 burst with all its fury, and bared his administration, his strong magnetism kept him easily in the centre. His thorough understanding of human nature and the genius that marked his discovery of the key for every situation, held him clearly in the foreground, even among such brilliant lights as Howe, Tupper, and Cartier. He has been during forty-seven years of public life surrounded by men bringing to the arena eloquence, learning, force of intellect and high magnetic qualities, but all have been content to sit beneath the shadow of the one protecting tree and gather the fruit from its branches—the master mind was conceded by all.

His absence leaves a void in his party that no man can fill, and throws a sadness over the country to which he had given all his years his intellect and labor. If he had faults were not always resisted his necessities were urgent. And behind all there beamed a benevolence and gratitude that shed their kindly light far out over the wild sea of political life, and will be remembered and cherished long after his errors of omission and commission are forgotten.

WILL THE MINISTRY RESIGN?

Among the many important questions that now agitate the political world at Ottawa is the question "must the ministry resign in case the premier dies?" Will the dissolution which the death of the prime minister causes extend to the necessity of the ministers seeking reelection? The incident will be new in the history of Canada, and is rare in the history of any country. England, however, furnishes a recent example that might be reviewed with profit, being a parallel case. In 1852 Lord Palmerston, the British Premier died in office. His successor, Earl Russell, who called upon to form a ministry effected some changes in the cabinet, but did not require that cabinet ministers whose offices were not changed, should seek reelection. An almost similar case was that in which Disraeli succeeded Earl Derby, who had resigned on account of ill health. The cabinet members did not go back to their constituents. One clause of the Canadian statutes, however, on this point, is quoted to show that it was the intention of the framers that cabinet ministers should be considered as not having vacated their seats only in cases where the administration had not been formed. Following is the clause referred to:

Wherever any person holding the office of president of the privy council, or other of their offices as enumerated in the act, and being at the same time a member of the house of commons, resigns his office, and within one month after resignation accepts any of the said offices, he shall not vacate his seat unless the administration of which he was a member, has resigned, and a new administration been formed and has occupied the said offices.

Now assuming the administration to mean the cabinet, which in its restricted sense it is intended to mean, what is to be considered a "new administration?" Would the changes, for instance, from minister of justice to prime minister, from secretary of state to minister of railways, and from minister of agriculture to minister of the interior, constitute a new administration? It is intended to mean, what is to be considered a "new administration?" Would the changes, for instance, from minister of justice to prime minister, from secretary of state to minister of railways, and from minister of agriculture to minister of the interior, constitute a new administration?

Now assuming the administration to mean the cabinet, which in its restricted sense it is intended to mean, what is to be considered a "new administration?" Would the changes, for instance, from minister of justice to prime minister, from secretary of state to minister of railways, and from minister of agriculture to minister of the interior, constitute a new administration?

CHIEF JUSTICE DORION.

On last Sunday evening Sir Antoine Aime Dorion, the chief justice of the Queen's Bench Court of Quebec, died at his home in Montreal. Chief Justice Dorion has been for many years a prominent figure in Canadian politics. He was born in 1818, and at twenty-four was called to the bar. In '68 he was appointed an executive councillor for Lower Canada, and later for two years in the house of commons. He then received the appointment of chief justice from the Macdonald administration.

There have been few men in Canadian politics whose name will be remembered with more pride and respect than that of Chief Justice Dorion. A man of pure character and noble aims, an eloquent speaker and strong leader, he stood upon his colleagues and followers that pure and uncompromising pride of character that still distinguishes many of his political associates. The present leader of the Opposition, Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, was for many years the colleague and associate of that distinguished man, and like him has built a political career on lines of unblemished rectitude and duty, marked in many ways by perhaps greater ability, and all that confidence and esteem that attach to the name of his illustrious countryman.

THE GOVERNMENT'S MAJORITY.

There have been five divisions in the commons during the present session. On the first the government had a majority of 25, on the second 29, on the third they were defeated, on the fourth they had 18, and on the fifth 14.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The testimony already given before the privileges and elections committee in the Langvign-Tarte homicide case is of the gravest character, and leaves no room to doubt that the public chest has been for many years plundered by those who ought to be, and who were paid to be its guardians.

It is a fact that the people of the world are becoming more and more interested in the progress of the human race. This interest is not confined to the scientific and literary classes, but is spreading to the masses of the people. The people are becoming more and more conscious of their own power, and are beginning to demand a more active participation in the government of their own country. This is a natural and healthy development, and it is one of the signs of a more advanced civilization. The people are becoming more and more united, and are beginning to realize that they are all members of the same human family. This is a great step forward, and it is one that we should all encourage and support.
