

THE DIGBY COURIER

CENTENNIAL EDITION

SEPTEMBER 18, 1974

Welcome to the Digital DIGBY COURIER

1877-1978

100th Birthday

The hundredth anniversary of the Digby Weekly Courier has brought to mind some fond memories as contained in the following historical chapter of the writer. But first, I wish to congratulate the current editor of the Courier, Mrs. J.M. (Edith) Wallis, for a job well done over the years and still being well done, good service rendered with great fortitude.

According to any record, I have at hand, the Digby Courier, in one hundred years of publication, was controlled under the same family management for 42 years, 1931 to 1973, under the control of Wallis Print Limited. The late J.J. Wallis became editor of The Courier the second time, in 1929, and at the same time of the business, which he had been running for some time previously and which became Wallis Print Limited sometime between 1929 and 1931.

I well remember the last year of the twenties when I worked in the office of the son with the husband and father of the late J.J. Wallis, the Courier. Sometime in 1928 or early 1929, the late J.M. Wallis (Mac), son of "J.J." engaged me to work every day after school hours, Saturdays, and for some months after full time. The place of work was in the building of the present Digby town hall on First Avenue. J.J. Wallis then worked occasionally at the print shop but mostly across the street at the Courier office which was then located on land in the general area where The Royal Bank of Canada is now.

Wallis Job Print operated in 1929 with a staff of four consisting of J.J. Wallis, J.M. Wallis, Miss Eva Haynes, who later became Mrs. George Kicup, and myself. I was the youngest of the staff in early 1929.

Eva's job was to run the staff in the left up-stairs. "J.J." occasionally worked at the printing plant but mostly at the Courier office. "Mac" worked nearly full time at all the different jobs at the Job Print, and I worked at various duties, most of the time being spent at operating printing presses.

We worked ten-hour days, six days a week. "J.J." and "Mac" sometimes worked overtime. I worked only the regular hours being paid a weekly wage which was comparatively good for those times and my lack of experience. I received four or five dollars a week for working after school hours to six o'clock and on Saturday all day, and nine dollars a week for full weeks after finishing school. A two or three dollar a week raise was offered to me in the fall of 1929 for me to stay on at printing, but I had made up my mind to enter a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, starting salary of $300. The bank salary figured out about the same per hour as for the printing job. Nevertheless, the congenial atmosphere of the printing plant those days, and, experience however short, were helpful and appreciated by me.

"J.J." was very jovial in his occasional trip to the Job Print and did considerable kidding all in good fun. "Mac" was a witty person who mixed in a good natured sarcasm now and then for one reason or another. Eva most always had good answers to all the kidding she was called upon to take, and, generally held her own in a quiet sort of way, always busy setting type. We four all got along very well indeed. However, I do remember that some days did seem long and weary because of the monotony of some repetitious jobs.

In spite of the great demand for printing those last boom days of the twenties, business generally being brisk, it looked to me that people had to work long and hard to make any decent profit. There was including treatment of the hands. However, nails and finger ends were used and I was soon back to work.

Now and then a printing job had a dose on parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad those days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would do that job on the largest press, in spite of the fact that we always opened an outside door to lessen the effects on the constitution.

One of the jobs I had to do, being the junior and printers' devil on the staff, was to clean out and then, one day not long after I started my job at the printing plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily, he thought the remark pretty good and suitable.

Sometimes the gasoline engine or a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and after "Mac" the fix-it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results, "Mac" would then stand back and cuss quite strenuously, then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of cussing."

On other occasions when some gadget refused duty for me and, seemed to be broken, "Mac" would say, "use a little oil," and sure enough, often that is all it took. How often since, have I thought of the value of that remark and the actual need of "oil" in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and, in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1929 got together just before dark one evening and decided to initiate the newly built outdoor Pines Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just east of the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys; no thought or time for bathing suits up to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in, the rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korean), was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent druggist for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale lobster king merchant; and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me "how about writing your version of the story told about 'The Marooning of Jerome'." I had heard and read at least two somewhat different stories about the man who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Digby County. When found this man's tongue had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and possibly of some considerable wealth. However the only thing the man could or would ever say after being found and cared for by some family in the French shore was, something that sounded like the word "Jerome". He either could not, or, would not, write anything about who he was or why he was left the way he was. Well, it was, and is, one of Digby County's mystery stories, and, different ideas have been expressed over the years concerning this man. However my response to "Mac" was, I felt no urge to write anything more or different about this man. The mystery seemed to have been very well explored in the mind of many people, and, he was a sort of curiosity for many people who visited where he lived for many years.

Three years later, I was quite alone in the street that I lived back and forth, led a boat clanking noise, powered by a small engine, and a "plur", and as I remember it, it was a "plur". "J.J." was noted for his sense of humor and his sense of humor.

Years ago, during the time Mr. Wallis was editor of the Scott Act (Prohibition Law) in the town of Digby, about and advocated by some people, a boys' conference was held in the town of Digby.

Digby 172 Years Ago

Compiled by David Sanford

From the files of the Courier of January 23, 1867, the following account has been copied concerning Digby in 1800.

"Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us by friends is a copy of the Saint John Gazette of May, 1802, says the Telegraph and among other advertisements contained in the issue before us is one describing the town and township of Digby, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this area we are told the township of Digby extends from the Gulf of Annapolis westward to the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 130,000 acres." The town plot is thus described:

"The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1783, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to older countries, left the whole side to be bought proved by about who now reside detached, built dwellings with orchards, and some fishery and. It has communal parts of the communal provisions in a cheap, built readily to be from many circumstances, probability of place of some shipbuilding, the West India a cheap and of residence.

This advertisement, dated at Digby, December, 1802, were to be a No. 100.

free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of which was some Digby's daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Melvin O. Tibert, Freeport, Digby Co.) Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters; I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print". I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like: embossing, stapling, perforating, counting, cutting and trimming paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, but, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "pi", the printers name for a confused mess.

There was a taste of trying to sell job printing outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls around town, spent most of the time at one particular house, and got an order, but, it was much time and got an order, but,

THE DIGBY WEEKLY COURIER

Digby, July 21, 1905.

—It is regretted that complaints that persons were denied admission into the court house at the recent preliminary examination of George Young and Kinsley Melanson, who were said to be at the court room, were not taken into consideration. When the court adjourned at noon and the doors were opened, so great a number of persons who had been waiting outside forced their way in, that it was with the greatest difficulty the sheriff and judge were able to get the prisoners into their cells. In the afternoon the place was so packed that it was impossible for the witnesses to get into the court room. The court representatives were present during the entire day, and occupied with other persons a place at the bar. Agony After Eating

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS CURE THE WORST CASES OF INDIGESTION.

"I suffered so much with indigestion that my life had become a burden," says Miss Nellie A. Smith, of New York, N. Y. "Every time I took even the lightest meal it caused me hours of agony. The trouble caused a choking sensation in my throat, and my heart, which was so weak, began to beat so fast that I could not sleep. I bought medical aid, and tried several medicines, but without getting any benefit. My sister, who lived at a considerable distance, and who had been an invalid, wrote me about this time that she had been cured through using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and this decided me to give them a fair trial, practically as a last resort. In the course of a few weeks there was a notable change in my condition. I began to relish my meals. From that on I began to gain strength, and by the time I had used several boxes, all signs of the trouble had vanished. I was once more enjoying good health, and I have not since had any return of the trouble. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure indigestion, and they make the rich red blood that brings tone and strength to the stomach. Nearly all the common ailments are due to bad blood, and with the bad blood is turned into good blood by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the trouble disappears. That is why these pills cure anæmia, heart palpitation, general debility, kidney trouble, rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, and nervous troubles, such as neuralgia, paralysis, and St. Vitus' dance. It is why they bring ease and comfort at all stages of womanhood and girlhood, and cure their secret ailments when the blood supply becomes weak, scanty, and impure. You must get the genuine pills. Substitutes and imitations which some dealers offer never cure anything. When you buy the pills, look for the full name Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is printed on the wrapper around each box. Sold by all dealers or sent by mail direct to the manufacturer, Dr. J. C. Williams, at six boxes for $2.50, by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Lower Greenville

(To be late for town.)

Mr. and Mrs. Star Mills go to Lynn, Mass., this week to spend the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Mills will be with Louis J. Delap and will go to the U. S.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hudson returned to their home in Lynn on Wednesday.

Freel Bryant, of Philadelphia, is spending his vacation with his mother, Mrs. Mary Bryant, at Digby.

D. W. B. Reid, of Reid & Archibald, Halifax, has been at the terminal pier for several days. On Sunday over one hundred accepted him, and he returned home to go to Digby, on his trip to attend service on return all expressed themselves greatly pleased with the trip.

Facial Paralysis.

Mr. W. J. Bennett, Western Hills, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "My face was twisted out of shape with facial paralysis, and I was unable to do anything but the persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I have been entirely cured, and have regained my work strong and healthy. I have gained weight and feel that I have a new lease of life."

Economy of Space

When Henry Ward Beecher was on a trip to the far west many years ago he was invited at his hotel in a little town to deliver a lecture on a religious subject. He was a hunter and scout and the great preacher was especially cordial to him. Before the lecture he gave away one of Mr. Beecher's travelling companions took him to task.

"I marvel at the warmth of your greeting to that man," he said.

"Didn't you notice his eyes—how remarkably close together they were?" That is a bad sign.

"Not in his case," said Mr. Beecher. "Didn't you observe his nose? It is high and thin—the nose of a great man. With a nose like that, why should his eyes be close together?"

Mr. Beecher's judgment of his caller was correct, as subsequent history attested.

Not a Messenger Boy.

A beggar accosted a man on the street the other day and poured out a tale of woe, to which the gentleman politely listened. He then took out a card bearing his name, which was a well known philanthropist who contributes largely to an organization working for the relief of the poor. The man begged to the man after writing an introductory note there on. The beggar turned away with disgust written on his face and with the parting remark:

"Say, day, I'm a messenger boy."

One Sided.

Mr. T.—I think I shall give up my business my dear. I might as well have any enjoyment out of my money. Mrs. T.—Oh, not yet, Samuel! But when you are dead I intend to give you a kicking and send a little of the world.

The Self-Propelled Drive.

One is in the habit nowadays of seeing brutes absolutely self-propelled, almost jumping, bounding, leaping, and nodding to their friends. Mothers and sisters never cry nowadays at the sight of a dog.

Oddities.

Because a man cannot hear a dew drop is so big that he is deaf, it is a sign of blindness that he never saw a horse fly, a board walk, a stone fence, a dog's pants, a rope walk or a woman.

The Kiss Fatal.

Brother—Which one of those Pen-guins is it that you don't like? Sister—Which? Some one might have said. When the crowd comes up I'll kiss her twice.

The Provincial Exhibition Will Be Well Worth Seeing

We are now in the Provincial Exhibition month and this week the fair at Halifax, is in full swing. Exhibition week will be a good time for people from all over the province to visit the metropolis, making the trip an annual event. The exhibition will open on the 13th and the next day a week of horse racing began for purses aggregating $4,800. On the second day a series of fishing boat races, by that day also the grand stand performance will be in full swing. The exhibition will be in all its glory.

One of its great features will be the thrilling "Leaping the Chasm" by a circus rider who comes down a steep descent and is carried by his tremendous momentum across a long open space in mid air, after a descent by which the chasm is reached. The pyrotechnic display at night will be of unexampled splendour, concluding with the Sea of Japan, a most realistic scene in firework.

The regular departments of the exhibition will be kept up to the standard of the past. There will be the addition of a building devoted exclusively to art and the display of women's work and skill, and another for the sole purpose of housing, in permanent form, the exhibits of the exhibition, which will be of unexampled splendour, concluding with the Sea of Japan, a most realistic scene in firework.

Overreached Himself.

An old farmer had a choice lot of cows, and a neighbour, seeing the herd in the pasture, asked how much he could have his pick of one. "Twenty-five dollars," said the owner. "All right," said the neighbour, "I'll be around tomorrow and select one." The next day the owner of the cows told his hired man to drive the poor poor cow in the lot to the barn. When the hired man appeared to buy a cow. He missed one, however, and was suspicious. "How is this? You said I could have my pick of the lot. Where is that cow?" "Oh, that cow you don't want," said the owner. "She is old and no good, so I placed her in the barn. You don't want her. But the hired man, on having that cow, he suspected she was the best one of the lot. "All right, then," said the owner. "Drive that cow out, John. The cow was driven out, and the buyer would not look at the rest, but purchased her at once and drove her home. A day or two afterward he came back and told the owner of his purchase. He wanted him to take the cow back but the old fellow refused saying that he had had his pick.

Antiquity of Wire.

The manufacture of wire is of very ancient origin. It has been traced back to the earliest Egyptian history. Specimens of wire exist in the Egyptian tombs, and it is supposed that the wire was used to bind the mummies.

Born for a Lawyer

WHY HIS MOTHER RECOMMENDED HIM TO COLONEL INGERSOLL.

Among the stories which Colonel B. Ingersoll delighted to tell was the following about the writer of "America's Most Popular Men."

While studying law with a firm out west the colonel found himself alone in the office one day. He was interrupted by the entrance of a raw boned, sharp featured country lawyer, who ambled into the room leading a freckle faced, red eyed ten-year-old boy by the hand.

"Air you a lawyer?" he began.

On being answered in the affirmative the colonel said to the boy, "What brought your boy here to town, for the purpose of binding him out at the 'lawyer's' trade?"

The lawyer, who was morally drunk, then asserted that Jim was a boy lawyer and that all he needed was a chance.

"But, madam," objected the colonel, "he is only a young fellow to begin the study of law."

"Too young, indeed!" snuffed the fond mother contemptuously. "You don't know Jim. He was born for a lawyer."

Much amused, the colonel asked her on what grounds she based her hopes for the future of the boy, for her darling child.

"Why," said she, "when he was only seven he did me a trick, and he couldn't do another like it, he got killed for it. When he was eight he got gassy and put on more airs than a prize horse at a country fair, and now, Lord bless me, he just freezes on to everything he can lay his hands on."

Point Ledge.

THE RESULT OF THE GENIUS OF BARBARA UTTMAN OF SAXONY.

A little known example of inventive genius in woman is that afforded by Barbara Uttman of Saxony and her point ledge so long in fashionable use all over the world. She invented the process and apparatus for manufacturing this beautiful handwork, which has since given employment to millions of operators and which, in its line, has proved a boon to the world.

"Say, day, I'm a messenger boy."

One Sided.

Mr. T.—I think I shall give up my business my dear. I might as well have any enjoyment out of my money. Mrs. T.—Oh, not yet, Samuel! But when you are dead I intend to give you a kicking and send a little of the world.

The Self-Propelled Drive.

One is in the habit nowadays of seeing brutes absolutely self-propelled, almost jumping, bounding, leaping, and nodding to their friends. Mothers and sisters never cry nowadays at the sight of a dog.

The Pandora Reservoir

The Pandora is the only range with a reservoir stamped in one single piece of steel and enamelled. It is the only reservoir without seams, rivets or places to catch dirt. It has no sharp angles. All angles are made with rounding curves, and the whole reservoir is beautifully enamelled.

McClary's are the only range makers in Canada with a plant for making enamelled steel reservoirs, and that is why the Pandora is the only range that has a one-piece reservoir.

Get SCOTT'S Emulsion

When you go to a drug store and ask for Scott's Emulsion you know what you want; the man knows you ought to have it. Don't be surprised, though, if you are offered something else. Wines, cordials, extracts, etc., of cod liver oil are plentiful but don't imagine you are getting cod liver oil when you take them. Every year for thirty years we've been increasing the sales of Scott's Emulsion. Why? Because it has always been better than any substitute for it.

I heard a new story the other day about the well-known subject of marriage. It seemed a happy couple went to New York for a honeymoon trip and put up at one of the large hotels, being assigned to a room on the top floor. The husband was afflicted with rheumatism and was obliged to lie down, and the wife embraced the opportunity to visit the city. She went to the dry goods emporium where she had shopped when she returned to the States. She was moved to the tenth floor in the building, and when she returned home by moving elevator car, she became bewildered and lost track of her room. The clerk wanted to know the number of the room, and she, among the long corridors, trying to remember the number and finally to recall what she thought was the right door, opened the tenth. She noticed the sign "Honey, Honey, this is the room where you can find out what there is no response" and the sign said, "Honey, Honey, this is Mabel's room." The clerk said, "This is madam, this is not a bedchamber, this is a madhouse." It required the services of three bell boys and a maid to strain out matters.

Mechanics, Farmers, Sportsmen
The word and advice the young man gave, oil, grease, oil and frost, paint and varnish, and the mechanic's name was the name of the Albert Toilet Soap Co., Inc.

A Young Wife's Dilemma

Perhaps there are no longer any portraits to a young wife or man who is related to make home happy by the proper knowledge of her duties as a wife. She is doubly responsible for the well-being of the young man who is her life is wholly unsuited for her and has to pick up, as we have, knowledge instead of existing. The young man who is a member of the economic economy is an important of the requirements of a young and as much moral obligation on the young man to be a man that that professional information
