

THE DIGBY COURIER

CENTENNIAL EDITION

SEPTEMBER 18, 1974

Welcome to the Digital DIGBY COURIER

1877-1978

100th Birthday

The hundredth anniversary of the Digby Weekly Courier has brought to mind some fond memories as contained in the following historical chapter of the writer. But first, I wish to congratulate the current editor of the Courier, Mrs. J.M. (Edith) Wallis, for a job well done over the years and still being well done, good service rendered with great fortitude.

According to any record, I have at hand, the Digby Courier, in one hundred years of publication, was controlled under the same family management for 42 years, 1931 to 1973, under the control of Wallis Print Limited. The late J.J. Wallis became editor of The Courier the second time, in 1929, and at the same time of the business, which he had been running for some time previously and which became Wallis Print Limited sometime between 1929 and 1931.

I well remember the last year of the twenties when I worked in the office of the son with the husband and father of the late J.J. Wallis, the Courier. Sometime in 1928 or early 1929, the late J.M. Wallis (Mac), son of "J.J." engaged me to work every day after school hours, Saturdays, and for some months after full time. The place of work was in the building of the present Digby town hall on First Avenue. J.J. Wallis then worked occasionally at the print shop but mostly across the street at the Courier office which was then located on land in the general area where The Royal Bank of Canada is now.

Wallis Job Print operated in 1929 with a staff of four consisting of J.J. Wallis, J.M. Wallis, Miss Eva Haynes, who later became Mrs. George Kicup, and myself. I was added to the staff in early 1929.

Eva's job was to run the printing plant but mostly at the Courier office. "Mac" worked nearly full time at all the different jobs at the Job Print, and I worked at various duties, most of the time being spent at operating printing presses.

We worked ten-hour days, six days a week. "J.J." and "Mac" sometimes worked overtime. I worked only the regular hours being paid a weekly wage which was comparatively good for those times and my lack of experience. I received four or five dollars a week for working after school hours to six o'clock and on Saturday all day, and nine dollars a week for full weeks after finishing school. A two or three dollar a week raise was offered to me in the fall of 1929 for me to stay on at printing, but I had made up my mind to enter a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, starting salary of $300. The bank salary figured out about the same per hour as for the printing job. Nevertheless, the congenial atmosphere of the printing plant those days, and, experience however short, were helpful and appreciated by me.

"J.J." was very jovial in his occasional trip to the Job Print and did considerable kidding all in good fun. "Mac" was a witty person who mixed in a good natured sarcasm now and then for one reason or another. Eva most always had good answers to all the kidding she was called upon to take, and, generally held her own in a quiet sort of way, always busy setting type. We four all got along very well indeed. However, I do remember that some days did seem long and weary because of the monotony of some repetitious jobs.

In spite of the great demand for printing those last boom days of the twenties, business generally being brisk, it looked to me that people had to work long and hard to make any decent profit. There was including treatment of the hands. However, nails and finger ends were used and I was soon back to work.

Now and then a printing job had a dose on parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad those days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would do that job on the largest press, in spite of the fact that we always opened an outside door to lessen the effects on the constitution.

One of the jobs I had to do, being the junior and printers' devil on the staff, was to clean up now and then. One day not long after I started my job at the printing plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily, he thought the remark pretty good and suitable.

Sometimes the gasoline engine or a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and after "Mac" the fix-it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results, "Mac" would then stand back and cuss quite strenuously, then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of cussing."

On other occasions when some gadget refused duty for me and, seemed to be broken, "Mac" would say, "use a little oil," and sure enough, often that is all it took. How often since, have I thought of the value of that remark and the actual need of "oil" in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and, in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1929 got together just before dark one evening and decided to initiate the newly built outdoor Pines Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just east of the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys; no thought or time for bathing suits up to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in, the rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korean), was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent druggist for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale lobster king merchant; and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me "how about writing your version of the story told about 'The Marooning of Jerome'." I had heard and read at least two somewhat different stories about the man who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Digby County. When found this man's tongue had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and possibly of some considerable wealth. However the only thing the man could or would ever say after being found and cared for by some family in the French shore was, something that sounded like the word "Jerome". He either could not, or, would not, write anything about who he was or why he was left the way he was. Well, it was, and is, one of Digby County's mystery stories, and, different ideas have been expressed over the years concerning this man. However my response to "Mac" was, I felt no urge to write anything more or different about this man. The mystery seemed to have been very well explored in the mind of many people, and, he was a sort of curiosity for many people who visited where he lived for many years.

Three years later, I was quite alone in the street that I lived back and forth, led a boat clanking noise, powered by a small engine, and a "plur", and as I remember it, it was a "plur". "J.J." was noted for his sense of humor and his stories. In 1928 during the time Mr. Wallis was editor of the Scott Act (Prohibition Law) he was about and advocated by some people, and attached a boys' conference to the event.

Digby 172 Years Ago

Compiled by David Sanford

From the files of the Courier of January 23, 1867, the following account has been copied concerning Digby in 1800.

"Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us by friends is a copy of the Saint John Gazette of May, 1802, says the Telegraph and among other advertisements contained in the issue before us is one describing the town and township of Digby, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this area we are told the township of Digby extends from the Gulf of Annapolis westward to the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 130,000 acres." The town plot is thus described:

"The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1783, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to older countries, left the whole side to be bought proved by about who now reside detached, built dwellings with orchards, and some fishery and. It has communal parts of the common provisions in a cheap, built readily to be from many circumstances, probability of place of some shipbuilding, the West India a cheap and of residence.

This advertisement, dated at Digby, December, 1800, were to be a No. 100.

free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of which was "J.J.'s" daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Melvin O. Tibert, Freeport, Digby Co.) Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters; I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print". I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like: embossing, stapling, perforating, counting, cutting and trimming paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, but, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "pi", the printers name for a confused mess.

There was a taste of trying to sell job printing outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls around town, spent most of the time at one particular house, and got an order, but, it was much time and got an order, but,

Years and experiments with. The last time I saw him of personal interest, was after one day when he sent and talked with him was, after one day when he had a week he wanted me to visit him at his home. He had recently returned from the Novascotian after a long absence. I made the visit and enjoyed the experience very much.

A disparaging mind is a limited ratty, unhealthy mind. It can neither see nor acknowledge good in others. It is a jealous mind; it is positively painful to it to hear others well spoken of, praised or commended for any virtue or good point. If it cannot deny the existence of the alleged good it will seek to minimize it by malicious "if" or "but" or try in some other way to throw a doubt on the character of the person referred to.

Unfrocked Rector Writes His Story

REV. J. L. COOKE RETCHED AND WHY HE IS HAPPY IN HIS MISERY.

The New York World publishes the story of the life of Jere Knute Cooke, rector of St. George's Church, Hemsted, I. I., who eloped with Floretta Whaley, a young girl, as written by himself.

With their child they are now in San Francisco, and under the name of "Balaola" they are seeking out a meagre existence.

Commenting his story Cooke says: To write the story of my shame and wrongdoing, to lay bare all the secrets which I have kept so closely guarded, is a task which I have undertaken.

As a rector of St. George's I was a man of high position and high respect. I was a man of high position and high respect.

At last, by spelling out each word, I told the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE DIGBY WEEKLY COURIER

Capt. L. H. Porter sailed from New York on Saturday on the steamship Umbria for Liverpool, G. B., en route to Belfast, where he will look after the interest of the United Fruit Co., in the construction of three steamers now being built for that company by builders Clarke & Co., one of which he will command when she is put in commission.

Your correspondent observes that the paragraph concerning the brig J. A. Pierce going the rounds of the papers, has called up in the minds of some of your contributors reminiscences. The writer was at the launching of this vessel. She was built on land owned by the late Cornwall Anderson who formerly resided at Litchfield. He supplied the timber. I. W. Oliver was foreman and Lawrence Delap, Esq., manager. Capt. John Delap took charge when she was launched with Capt. George McCray as mate and Capt. Israel Delap as second mate. All that I have named have passed into the spirit world years ago and still the old craft survives. After the Pierce was launched Mr. Delap purchased lands two miles west of Litchfield and started a yard there and built a number of vessels. The Merlin (not Merling) was dismantled in 1866 and consequently the plank must have been from the yard Mr. Delap removed to, that Mr. Ellis used to board her with. I am certain as to the date, my father being one of the purchasers of the Merlin and the first time her new owners had her under sail was to go from Littlewood's wharf, where she was refitted to Digby to grapple for an anchor which was lost off that port when she was first brought up the river.

Another Railway Story.

FERRY FROM SAINT ANDREW'S TO DIGBY; D. A. R. TO HALIFAX.

(St. Andrew's Beacon)

A new railway rumor has struck town. A pipe drummer brought it here, but whether it is a pipe dream or the real thing we won't undertake to say.

As the story goes, the C. P. R. has in view the running of a ferry line from St. Andrews to Digby and the acquirement of the D. A. R., the object being to make quick connection with the port of Halifax and cut out the I. O. R. It is said that agent of the C. P. R. have recently "taken stock" of the D. A. R., and know to a pound of spikes just what the road is worth.

It is further said that the C. P. R. have recently acquired the ferry steamers running between Windsor and Detroit and that these will be brought to the Bay of Fundy and put on the St. Andrews-Digby route.

That's the story. You can take it or leave it. So many stories have passed this way without stopping to make our acquaintance that we are a little doubtful about this one.

Death of Mr. Matthew Kinney.

Our Ashmore correspondent sends us the following: Mr. Matthew Kinney died at his home in Gilbert's Cove, Digby Co. N. S., April 24th. He had been sick quite a long time. On Saturday previous he was taken suddenly worse and never rallied. His going home was very peaceful. He leaves a widow and two daughters, Mrs. David J. Handsaker, Digby, and Miss Ida Kinney, to mourn the loss of a kind husband and father; also one granddaughter, Mrs. John Connell, St. John, (nee Sadie M. K. White) and two great grandchildren, two brothers, Jacob Kinney, Haverhill, Mass., and George Kinney, Weymouth; one sister, Mrs. Edward Crosby, Carlton, Yarmouth Co.

He was baptized over fifty years ago by Rev. Charles Randall, of precious memory, and united with the Weymouth Baptist church. The deceased was the son of the late Heman and Sarah Wyman Kinney and aged sixty-nine years. He was united in marriage Dec. 21st, 1862, with Eliza Jane Lewis, daughter of the late Abraham Lewis. Mr. Kinney was mail carrier between Sissiboo Station and Gilbert's Cove for four years, since that time he kept a grocery store, and drove a delivery team as long as his health permitted. The funeral took place at his late home Sunday afternoon and was largely attended, showing the esteem in which he was held by his many friends. The services were conducted by Rev. McCabe; text Phil. 3:21. The following was one of his favorite hymns:

Now I am coming to Jordan's river
See the angels standing by;
Take me, Jesus, claim your soldier,
For I'm not afraid to die.

Life's morn will soon be waning
And the evening bells untolled,
I have a friend that will stand by me
Till the pearly gates unfold.

5,000 Facts About Canada.

The 1908 Edition is out of that most useful and valuable booklet, "5,000 Facts about Canada," compiled by Frank Yeigh of Toronto who is widely known throughout the Dominion as an authority on things Canadian. Nearly 25,000 copies were sold of the 1907 edition, the demand coming from every part of this Continent and the British Empire. The idea worked out, that of a concrete fact in a sentence, is an excellent one, the date being arranged under such self-indexing titles as area, agriculture, banking, commerce, finances, mining, railways, wheat fields, etc. The wealth of material contained in small space is a revelation to even a well informed Canadian of the standing and resources of the country. The book is published at 25 cents a copy by The Canadian Facts Publishing Co. 667 Spadina Avenue, Toronto, Canada, or may be had from new dealers.

Picturesque Bear River

(Bear River News.)

Among the new books soon to be published is one of local interest and by local talent. This book is entitled "Historical Glimpses of Picturesque Bear River," and is written by Miss Lennie D. Wade. This interesting little book had its origin in a paper read before the Bear River Literary Society, and as it contained information valuable in promoting the prominence of this town before the general public, the Society requested that it be published. Since its reading many details of more than passing interest have been brought to light and further information has been added.

This work is now in the hands of the printer and will be issued about the first of June.

[The COURIER job department will commence work on the above booklet next week. It will be appropriately illustrated and when completed should meet with a large sale.]

Two New Post Offices.

Mr. Copp, Digby's energetic representative at Ottawa, has succeeded in getting two more new post offices in this county which will prove a great convenience to those who reside in the respective villages. One of them is at Weymouth mills to be called Karlton with Mr. Stephen Prime as postmaster, and the other out at Weymouth Falls with Mr. Thomas, Langdale, postmaster. While Mr. Copp takes an interest in everything that pertains to the welfare of his constituency, he has always shown himself particularly interested in the matter of postal improvements and anything that would be of benefit to our fishermen and those who are engaged in marine matters, as will be seen by a glance at the additional light houses and buoys along our coast since he has been our representative.

Another Paper Says Good-Bye.

The Western Annapolis Sentinel, successor to the Bear River Telephone, bade its readers good-bye in its issue of last Friday and has ceased publication. It was printed in the office of the Bridgetown Monitor. Until a few years ago the Monitor was one of the best papers published in the Annapolis Valley and was considered by the Nova Scotia papers a valuable exchange. Since that date it has changed editors so many times and also its form and general make up that it does not appear at all like the old weekly whose visits were so much appreciated. To return to its old form is a good move and we wish our contemporary the continued success it deserves.

An Attractive Booklet

The New Brunswick Tourists Association sends out a well printed and attractive booklet descriptive of the advantages of New Brunswick as a tourist and sporting resort. Copies will be sent free on Application to the secretary, Miss Annie E. Tingey, St. John, N. B. New Brunswick boasts a magnificent climate, beautiful scenery and the finest trout and fly fishing on the continent. Good summer resorts and many other features make it a tourist resort and a sportsman's paradise.

S. of T.

On April 22nd, 1848, the Grand Division was organized at Yarmouth. This annual session is thus the diamond jubilee of the Order, and it is worthy of mention that of the original six divisions which then formed the Grand Division, three are still alive, viz., Milton No. 4 at Milton, Concord No. 5 at Barrington and Union No. 6 at Digby.

The International Sunday School Convention.

The twelfth Triennial Convention of the International Sunday School Association, will be held in Louisville, Ky., June 18-28.

There will be 2,214 delegates appointed by the State, Provincial and Territorial Associations of the United States and Canada, in addition to the officers of the Association, the Executive Committee, the Lesson Committee, the International Vice-President from each Association, and the General Secretaries. This will make a company of nearly 2,500 delegates, who will be accompanied by hundreds of the officers, teachers and members of the Sunday Schools of the International Field.

Every Sunday School Worker who can be present, is urged to attend this great Convention which will be an inspiration to advancement in all departments of the Sunday School Work. Nova Scotia can send 16 delegates who will be entitled to entertainment on the Harvard Plan while in Louisville, and have other special privileges. These delegates are appointed by the Executive Committee of the Nova Scotia and Bermuda Sunday School Association and those who wish to be included in this number should correspond with Headquarters Office, Room 20, Queen Buildings, Halifax, N. S., at an early date. It is much to be desired that many more than the number of delegates will be in attendance and it is hoped that a large number will decide to go.

There will be an Adult Bible Class Session of the Convention on Friday afternoon, June 19th, and a Teacher Training Session, including an exhibit of Teacher Training material, besides other special features. While the Convention Sessions will not begin till Thursday afternoon, the Elementary Department, Field Workers, and other organizations will meet earlier in the week. Conferences on the Adult Bible Class and Teacher Training Course will be held on Wednesday, June 17th.

Good Entertainers Coming

OUR NEW YORK LETTER

Hooligans Figure in Every Day Life in the Great City.

UNREST IN THE BIG METROPOLIS—AMBITION TO BUILD FORTUNES—A GREAT NUMBER OF INVENTORS—A LAND OF MILK AND HONEY—MAY DAY IN BROOKLYN.

(Special Correspondence to the Courier.)

NEW YORK, May 6th, 1908.—There is an unrest here that seems to be the impelling power to do big things. At the bottom of this unrest is the ambition to build fortunes, hence the great number of inventors who apply weekly and monthly and yearly to the Patent Office, Washington, to secure rights on all kinds of inventions (ingenious, useful and the reverse), rights more often than not infringed upon by others.

This is truly a land of milk and honey for men of inventive genius, from the common toy creator to such inventors as Edison and a host of lesser lights. But the acute minds seem to take advantage of their ears, their eyes and incidentally capital. This has a good deal to do with their success. But all are after the dollar!

Holland, of submarine-boat fame, had years of disappointments and hanging on (to use a slangism) by the skin of his teeth till he met some measure of success. But Holland is not alone in this respect; there are others who've gone down to the grave with the meagerest success, discouraged and broken-hearted.

I could give you a long list of names (the failures, the derelicts of fortune), but where's the use!

May 1st, opened with a tremendous upheaval of sentiment in Brooklyn. Such a gala day had not yet been seen in any of the Boroughs. The opening of the extension of the subway from Borough Hall to the Long Island Depot was the biggest fete day in its history. Along the line of march (for the civic and military processions) there must have been well onto a million sight-seers. The crowd was so thick that it was impossible to get through their lines. Indeed the writer had to go a mile out of his way to reach his residence, which aptly reminded him of the old saw, "the longest way round is the nearest way home."

Hoodlums (a sort of hybrid hooligan) thugs, pick-pockets, "strong-arm" men, etc., were out in great force but not in holiday attire as it happened. This undesirable class of citizen is very human and very humorous on occasions, thanks to the thousands of uniformed police and "plain-clothes" men along the route, from Borough Hall to Bedford Avenue. As a result, the American hooligan (outside his small-beer humorous sallies to the work and shop girls who passed) was perforce compelled to garb the mental part of him in Sabbathian attire, or the long arm and long club of the policeman might be called into strenuous use. It is upon such occasions that one sees how necessary a well-trained police force is. Meet a few of the same hoodlums alone, in some by-path of one of the parks, and the story is at once different. It's then a black-jack or orduly depleting you of whatever little change you have in your possession. But when a hooligan (American of course) has to behave he does so with some grace and a fund of good humored edifying to see. But, bless you, it's the long night-stick and the "nippers" that the tough is in dread of, and the sentence which may await him from Judge Dike or some of the other severe judges of the Borough who have a knowledge of the thug and his ways, and who show him scant mercy?

Now though Brooklyn has its subway extended a mile (and a splendid method of transit it is), it will take several months to fill in excavations and whip the thoroughfares into something like shape. Nevertheless, it is the greatest boom the people have ever had, and the impetus to reality is such that it will make Brooklyn a very desirable residing place, where there are tens of thousands of beautiful homes with all the latest sanitary improvements and tens of thousands more which will spring up as other bridges (spanning the East River) and other subways will be built.

The Brooklyn Daily Eagle (one of the most conservative and important newspapers in this country) has had much to do with these changed and favored conditions, from the building of the East River Bridge (opened to the public in 1884) up to the present extension of the tube. The Eagle has been a constant and earnest agitator for progress, from the erection of the great Bridge to this last grand achievement of the engineering art (the tube under the river) which now carries its human freight from Flatbush Avenue Station to Bronx Park, a distance of more than sixteen miles for one single fare of five cents.

Think of it! Think of the insuperable obstacles which had to be surmounted to accomplish this gigantic task. But ambition and the dollar were the levers and the outcome one of the marvellous successes of the centuries!

There is a mighty corporation which has spread its tentacles throughout Greater New York and other cities. Its restaurants are palaces; its help chiefly women, intelligent and attractive girls. All along Broadway and in every part of Greater New York the Childs' restaurants loom out, and are still acquiring other sites. In all there are perhaps two hundred of them. The fitting of some of these great eating resorts cost close on $50,000, so that they are veritable palaces. Everything in the Childs' Corporation goes like clockwork. The wheels are skillfully set. No jar, no expostulation; everyone knows what's expected and everyone does it, or gets out.

The floors are tiled and laid on the waitresses' feet. These girls have at least ten hours' hard work, during which time they are steadily on the go, whether customers are present or not. They all seem to enjoy fairly good health. They forget the trotting up and down after a few months of ceaseless work, but nevertheless I have been told that the strain from eleven o'clock till about 7.30 has on them rather the opposite than a beneficial effect. Many last for a time, then their condition forces them into less strenuous ways of livelihood. I experience a feeling of compassion for these waitresses, more especially in the torrid heat of such months as July and August, when New York is like some monster oven.

The political situation in the States is not changed to any appreciable extent. With the wish father to the thought (in spite of all denials to the contrary) Theodore Roosevelt may try his luck once more in the White House, by accepting a renomination.

CORRESPONDENCE.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for communications under this heading.)

To the Editor of the Courier

DEAR SIR:—Granting you will allow me a few lines space, I would like to ask if the voters and taxpayers of Culloden district, have forgotten we need a representative.

Since the death of our talented Councillor Alex. Daley no step has been taken to fill the position so long held by him which he filled so well as to be returned term after term. I think, Sir, that the rate payers had better be moving and find our man soon, as this season of the year the roads and bridges need most careful attention.

I think if we look over the district we can find many who would fill the position to perfection, taking the south end of the district there is L. D. Norton, then again in the middle section you will find Wm. Ross, coming again to the North section you will find Jno. Chesley Hanspiker or Jno. Ross. All these men are thorough business men and men who have conducted their own business successfully, and either would make Culloden a representative to be proud of.

Thanking you for the space,
I remain,

RATHPATER.

Culloden, May 7, 1908

To the Editor of the Courier

DEAR SIR:—I would like to bring to the notice of the readers of your valuable paper the condition of a piece of public highway known as the Mallett Road between the D. A. R. station and the Post Office at the Cove, a distance of some 3½ miles. For a number of years this road has not had any money expended on it and it is therefore in a rather serious condition. Why is it that money has been appropriated to all other roads with the exception of this one. The ditches on either side are so clogged that when it rains a large portion of the road is covered with water. Mr. Editor, it is really dangerous to life and limb and we think it is high time something was done. Indeed the road is little better than a cart track over rocks and cradle hills. Now twice every day each way the mail has to be taken over this road. I think if some of our government leaders were to take a trip over this said road, especially when the train is late and fast driving is necessary to make connections they would conclude it was high time something was done.

Thanking you for your valuable space.

Seeley, the government inspector of hulls and equipment of passenger steamers, was in town for some days this week and while here made a thorough inspection of the D. A. R. boats. Speaking to The Times, Captain Seeley was loud in his praises of the conditions which he found to exist on these steamers. He declared that the life saving apparatus and appliances were sufficient in quality and quantity and that the fire fighting equipment was entirely adequate. Captain Seeley commented strongly on the thorough cleanliness which characterized all the boats.

ST. JOHN, May 7.—Harold H. Gregg, a school teacher at Long Beach, Queens County, was seriously injured by the accidental discharge of a shot gun on Saturday afternoon. Gregg, along with two companions, was out duck shooting on the St. John River between Williams Point and Oak Point.

After a short illness Mr. Chas. T. Harris passed away on Monday morning the 11th inst., at 1.30. The deceased was a son of the late Moses Harris and leaves a wife, one son, one daughter and one sister to mourn their loss. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon from his residence, Rev. Mr. Carter, pastor of the Baptist Church, of which the deceased was a member, officiating. The remains were taken to Smith's Cove for interment. Fire has again made its appearance in Deep Brook and removed an old land mark. An old unused house supposed to have been set on fire in some way by a hobo who was seen in that vicinity just before the fire broke out, which was about 4 o'clock Monday morning. The west end of the house was built by one John Vroom and when his son Isaac, who was the grandfather of some of our oldest inhabitants was married, he built a larger piece on the east end. Some thirty-five years ago the place was owned by Mr. Geo. Worthylake and is therefore more commonly known as the Worthylake property. Mr. Worthylake sold to the present owner, Mr. Albert Carty.

As noted in last week's COURIER, this place has lost another of its aged residents in the death of Capt. Benj. Hunt. Up to a few months ago Mr. Hunt had enjoyed a remarkable health for a man of his years, and he will be greatly missed from our midst, especially from the preaching service of the churches on which he was a constant attendant. He had been a member of the Baptist church for many years and had also been a great help and taken a deep interest in the Methodist church which was directly across the street from his home. The COURIER extends its deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.

Is the world growing better or worse? We think that the part of it represented by Smith's Cove is growing better at any rate, and we give the following story to back it up. Just about a year ago one of our neighbours Mrs. Herbert Woodman had a white spread taken from off the grass near her home. We are glad to say this is something that does not happen very often in Smith's Cove. However, this thing did happen this time and Mrs. Woodman had long ago given up all hope of ever hearing from it again. But last Monday morning upon going out she spied a bundle carefully tied up and lying on the verandah of their log cabin and upon opening it, lo, and behold it was the long lost spread. Mrs. Woodman is glad to get the missing article home again and desires to take this opportunity to thank the one, whoever it may have been, who so practically obeyed the voice of an awakening conscience.

THE COME AND SEE SIGN

It means that a permanent inspection is extended to anyone to come and verify any and all statements made in the advertisements of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a purely vegetable compound made from roots and herbs—without drugs.

Do the women of America continually use as much of it as we tell you? Come and see. Lydia E. Pinkham, and there are many women who are asked to write? Come and see. In the vast private correspondence with sick women, contacted by woman only, and the letters kept strictly confidential.

Have they really got letters from over one million, one hundred and twenty women correspondents? Come and see. Have they proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured thousands of these women? Come and see.

This advertisement is only for doubters. The great army of women who know from their own personal experience that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female ills will still go on using and being benefited by it; but the poor doubting, suffering woman must, for her own sake, be taught confidence, for she alone might just as well remain her only.

THROW AWAY LINIMENTS

Here's the Prescription to Cure Rheumatism.

Liniments only reach the skin and the medicine does not enter the system. They simply deaden the nerve for a time. When the effect wears off, the pain returns worse than ever.

Now, the only possible way to cure rheumatism is to prevent any more from being formed. Logically, the only way to do this is to keep the blood pure and clean.

The direct passenger service between New York and Boston—all the way by water via Long Island Sound and the Atlantic Ocean—was inaugurated for the season of 1908 on Monday, May 11th.

The Express Triple Screw Turbine Steamships Yale and Harvard were built especially for this route and their patronage at once demonstrated the great interest of travellers.

The service was popular from the start. The great steamships were tested to their capacity on every trip, and the confidence of the enterprise seems assured.

The Yale and Harvard maintain an hourly speed of 24 miles and make the New York and Boston route in 15 hours—leaving either city every day in the week at five o'clock in the evening; due in the other city at 10 o'clock.

The route followed by the Metropolitan Line is something new and is by way of Sandy Hook, Nantucket Light-Sail, etc.

Time He Quit

Time He Quit.

A professional gentleman, who was accustomed to take his morning glass, stepped into a saloon and going up to the bar called for whiskey. A seedy individual stepped up to him and said: "I say, squire, can't you ask an unfortunate fellow to join you?"

He was annoyed by the man's familiarity, and roughly told him: "I am not in the habit of drinking with tramps."

The tramp replied: "You need not be cranky and high-minded, yes."

friend. I venture to say that I am in of just as good family as you are, have as much as you at all times before me. I took to drink, was just as respectable as you are. What is more, I always knew how to act the gentleman. Take my word for it, you stick to whiskey, and it will bring you to just the same place I am."

Struck with his words, the gentleman just down his glass and turned to look at him. His eyes were bloodshot, his face bloated, his boots misshapen his clothing filthy.

"Then he said: "Was it drink that made you like this?"

"Yes, it was; and it will bring you to the same place I am in."

Picking up his untouched glass, he poured its contents upon the floor and said, "Then its time I quit," and left.

the saloon never to enter again.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CO., LIMITED,
Vancouver, B. C.

GENTLEMEN,—In January last, Francis Leclare, one of the men employed working in the lumber woods, had a tree fall on him, crushing him fearfully. He was when found, placed on a sled and taken home, where grave fears were entertained for his recovery, his hips being badly bruised and his body turned black from his ribs to his feet. We used MINARD'S LINIMENT on him, and he was freely to disdain the pain and with the use of three bottles he was completely cured and able to return to his work.

Longboat Quit in Race.

Toronto, May 17.—In a ten mile race at West Toronto, held under the C. A. A. U. auspices Saturday, Longboat the Indian, quit at about two-thirds of the distance with a pain in his side. There is a stiff bill at Lam-beth and as Longboat had a boil on his leg, and was not in good shape, he gave up there.

Do You Feel Used Up?

You're discouraged and played out—scarcely enough energy to think, and less to work on. The reason? You are run down, blood is thin, nerves are like Indian rubber, not like steel as they ought to be. Use Ferronol and the tired feeling will go—it can't stay because rich nutritious blood and the bodily rigors of Ferrozene makes, crowds out weakness every kind. Use Ferrozene and you'll feel like a fighting king—full of energy—filled with ambition—ever ready to work. No strengthening tonic so potent. Neglect not day longer. All dealers sell Ferrozene in 5 ct. boxes.

NEW YORK, May 18.—William L. Marsh, an aged wealthy man, who today told that he undoubtedly would die within this week of hydrophobia, calmly turned away with the remark that he would be ready for the sun-moon when it came. Without.

Don't Neglect Your Cough.

You may dislike taking medicine—coughs are best cured without medicine. The modern treatment is "Catachormine"—it is a dose-it's a healing vapor, full of pine the surfaces and the walls. It spreads on the ceilings that are weak, and seeps from the joints. Every spot that is congested is healed. Irritation is soothed away, phlegm and secretions are cleaned out, and all symptoms of cold and catarrh are cured. Nothing so quick, so sure, so pleasant as Calathophone. In 1c. and 3c. sizes at all dealers.

Westport Fog Alarm and Boar's Head Light.

A COURIER REPRESENTATIVE VISITS BRIER AND LONG ISLAND LIGHTS.

The COURIER man has on several occasions visited Northern Point Light, so well and faithfully kept by Mr. Charles Buckman, and has also visited Western Light, Brier Island, Peter's Island Light and Boar's Head Light. The latter on Long Island marks the northern entrance to Petite Passage.

Last week Mr. Braddish Morrell, the keeper of the Brier Island Fog Alarm, especially invited the editor to drive with him to Western light and we certainly enjoyed an hour of the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Morrell in their comfortable cottage recently erected by the government. We were shown through the boiler room and the new engine room where three handsome engines are kept in first-class order by the popular keeper. Everything was neatness about the buildings from foundation to roof and reflects much credit on Mr. Morrell and his estimable wife.

Mr. J. N. Peters, the keeper of Western light, was absent at the time of our visit enjoying a few hours' fishing. His cottage and light are also kept in first class condition and is one of the principal lights on the coast.

At Boar's Head, we found the keeper Mr. Frank Ruggles, on duty as usual and enjoyed two visits to the light at sunset, watching with interest the ingenious mechanism which causes the flash and listened with pleasure to Mr. Ruggles' explanation of the working of the entire outfit. Mr. Ruggles is a thorough mechanic and well calculated for the responsible position he holds.

Harvard Yale Steamships

THE NEW EXPRESS TURBINES ARE IMMENSELY POPULAR AND ARE MAKING FASTEST TIME ON RECORD BETWEEN BOSTON AND NEW YORK.

It was a foregone conclusion, based upon the experience of last season that the patronage for the new express turbine steamships Harvard and Yale of the Metropolitan Steamship Company plying between Boston and New York on the outside all the way by water line, would be large. This conclusion has been more than verified even during the first week of the season, for night after night the passenger list has exceeded anticipations, and it has steadily increased. There is therefore no longer any question as to the popularity of the venture. It satisfies the most skeptical, not alone in the matter of steamship accommodations which surpass anything on the Atlantic Seaboard, but also in that other equally, if not even more important respect, a time schedule. One of the first questions asked by the average business man, on learning of the establishment of this express passenger service of the Metropolitan Steamship Company between Boston and New York, is whether the Harvard and Yale are adhering to their schedule; in other words making the trip between the two cities on time. This means, to be exact, fifteen hours from port to port. They are doing even better, for all last week, with the ships leaving India Wharf, Boston, and Pier 45 North River (at the foot of East 10th St.) every evening at 5 o'clock, they invariably reached their destinations before 7.30 the following morning. Considering the distance covered, this experience is indeed remarkable and a revelation. It furnishes the best possible argument for the new celebrated turbine type of steamship which, it may be said, is the very highest as well as the latest scientific example of steam marine propulsion.

The equipment and furnishings of the Harvard and Yale, it may be said, challenging all contradiction, that they are superb. The table is unexcelled by that of any strictly first-class hotel or restaurant, and the service is on a par, while in the matter of accommodations, there are besides the regular staterooms nearly two score of the larger equipped with private baths, hot and cold water and other toilet accessories of the most approved design.

The route followed by the Metropolitan outside line steamers from Boston is by way of Massachusetts Bay, thence around Cape Cod and the Atlantic Ocean, through Nantucket Sound, Vineyard Sound, again out on the Atlantic Ocean, and finally, through Long Island Sound, past Hell Gate, to their moorings at Pier 45 on North River, leaving New York and Boston at 5 o'clock in the evening, long before sunset, the opportunity for sight seeing for passengers, as the Harvard and Yale steam down the harbors, is unsurpassed, and the view, not alone of the shipping in general, but also of the cities themselves, New York, Brooklyn, Boston, with the State House, Bunker Hill, and all the rest of that grand panorama which meets the eye is indescribable.

The regular passenger fare on the Metropolitan Steamship Line is only $3.65 and the prices of staterooms range from $1.00 upwards.

St. John's Big Show.

Preparations for the Exhibition in St. John this fall are now in full swing. The dates for the show are from September 12 to September 19th. The most successful business men of St. John are helping to make the Exhibition successful. The provincial government assists to the extent of a Five Thousand Dollar grant and the city of St. John gives $3000 to help along the enterprise. The buildings are being put in splendid shape, the prizes announced are greater than ever, the arrangements already made for special attractions are such as to guarantee most successful and varied entertainment for any big crowd.

St. John is splendidly situated for an exhibition. The railroads and steamboat companies have promised attractive excursion ticket rates, and there will be no excuse for anyone in the provinces not making the trip on those pleasant early September days.

Come Back to Nova Scotia.

People are coming home from the United States in numbers, and many are writing from there to friends here asking if there is anything to do here, for the times are so hard in the United States that they are, or shortly will be, out of work. Yes, we would say, there is lots to do here, come back to the land. Take the farms off the old people's hands and work them manfully. Farming was never better here, a market for all that can be raised, and insufficient help to raise it, and prices in the zenith. Come back to the land and be happy. You may not grow violently rich in a very short time, but have you done so in the United States? We will guarantee that you will be better off here in ten years than you would be in the United States in the same time, and live easier, and be more permanently comfortable and contented. Come back to the land.—Exchange.

Pleasure Boats in Westport.

MR. E. C. BOWERS' YACHT COMPLETED—
MR. S. T. PAYSON HAS A PRETTY BOAT.

While there are many pretty boats at Westport, both sail and power, used for fishing and commercial purposes, very few boats are in commission for pleasure. However, Westport has two pleasure boats worthy of note. We refer to Mr. E. C. Bowers' hunting cabin launch, 33 feet long, built by Mr. E. W. Southern Keeper of Peters' Island Light. She was designed by Carlton Wilby of Detroit, Michigan. Several changes have been made, however, by the builder, who has also installed the engine which is a 10 h. p. Lloyd motor manufactured in Kentville, N. S., and is similar to the celebrated Buffalo motor so popular in the United States. This boat will be fitted with signal mast and up-to-date equipment for cruising either on short or long runs.

The other pleasure boat is an open launch with large cockpit forward and was especially built by Kinney, boat builder at Clarke's Harbor, for Mr. S. T. Payson, president of the Insular S. S. Co. This handsome little craft is fitted with a 6 h. p. Mianus motor swinging a 21 inch propeller with a 30 inch pitch and should develop considerable speed.

Both boats will probably visit Digby during the present summer.

Fire Costs I. C. R. About $15,000.

BLAZE AT BATHURST DESTROYS FREIGHT AND COAL SHEDS AND BURNS LEGERE'S HOTEL.

BATHURST, May 25.—A disastrous fire occurred near the I. C. R. station here this morning between one and two o'clock. The I. C. R. freight and coal sheds were burned to the ground and the fire then spread to the hotel owned by J. P. Legere just across the street. The hotel was entirely destroyed. All the contents of the I. C. R. freight shed were burned, and a snowplough standing near the shed was also destroyed. The blaze was first discovered in the end of the freight shed. It is supposed to have started by a spark from a special locomotive which passed a short time before. The stables in connection with Legere's hotel were also burned to the ground. Some of the furniture was removed from the hotel and the loss will be considerable on the buildings and contents. There was $5,500 insurance on Legere's buildings and furniture, which were valued at ten thousand dollars. The loss to the railway is estimated at fifteen thousand dollars. It is difficult to tell the exact loss, as the amount of freight in the shed is not known.

Young Elopers Detained at Boston.

Boston, May 25.—When the steamer Halifax docked at Commercial wharf this morning, two Boston inspectors stepped aboard and placed under arrest Joe Balfie and pretty Sabine Lucas, who eloped from Dartmouth. They were given a hearing before a board of special inquiry, when the girl admitted that she ran away from home with Balfie. She denied any abduction, stating she came here of her own free will. The couple will probably be sent back to Nova Scotia, and an officer is expected from Halifax to take them back.

"I don't care what mama says," said the pretty young girl with flashing eyes. "I love Joe, and am going to be his wife some day, no power can stop us from becoming man and wife."

Business Dull on the D. A. R.

In a conversation with a St. John reporter on Wednesday, Mr. Giffins, of the D. A. R., said among other things that business on his road was slack at the present time. Tourists had not yet commenced to enter the provinces. The influx this year of fish and game seekers and lovers of summer resort life would depend altogether upon weather conditions, and if we had a cool summer it would likely mean that very few would come to the provinces. No particular preparations were being made for tourists, he said, until the extent of their numbers was known. The company would undoubtedly have a steamer running to Quebec during the tercentenary.

Steamers Collide.

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 25.—Dense fog banks which have been sweeping in from the Atlantic for several days, enveloping the seaboard hereabouts and delaying shipping, caused two coastwise steamships—the Clyde Line vessel Seminole and an unknown steamer to run today upon the shoals that fringe the New Jersey coast, caused a collision between two steamers to-night in the harbor, which threw over 300 passengers into a panic; generally snarled ferryboat service in the harbor and kept two trans-Atlantic liners hugging their anchorage off Sandy Hook all night.

Fish Traps in St. Mary's Bay.

Several large well built deep water fish traps have recently been completed on the north side of St. Mary's Bay. The Sandy Cove Fish Trap Co., in which Coun. Saunders is interested, completed one last week in which there is 23 feet of water at low tide. Mr. Samuel Gidney, proprietor of the Digby & Westport telephone line, has another up-to-date trap at Mink Cove. These traps should pick up a lot of herring and mackerel during the summer months. We wish the owners every success.

NATURE AND A WOMAN'S WORK

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

Nature and a woman's work combined have produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they relied upon the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease and mitigate suffering. The Indians on our Western Plains today can produce roots and herbs for every ailment, and cure diseases that baffled the most skilled physicians who have spent years in the study of drugs.

From the roots and herbs of the field Lydia E. Pinkham more than thirty years ago gave to the world a remedy for the peculiar ills, more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Mrs. J. M. Tweedie, 12 Napassee Street, Toronto, Canada, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was a great sufferer from female troubles, the best doctors bearing down upon me, and during my monthly periods I suffered so I had to go to bed, and for a long time but the doctor's treatment failed to help me. My husband saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and sent me a bottle for me. I commenced its use and it cured me. I am now a healthy woman and I will be an entirely different woman. I also found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made childbirth much easier for me. I would recommend your Vegetable Compound to every woman who is afflicted with female troubles."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Tweedie, it will do for other suffering women.

Immense Trees.

(British Columbia Paper.)

A fair sample of one of British Columbia's famous trees has been taken out by the Diplock-Wright Lumber Co., at their mill on Quenah Bay.

The tree after having been felled, measured 220 feet to the first limb, and the butt log about 8 feet 6 inches in diameter.

The tree is now cut into pieces of logs measuring from 16 feet to 32 feet in length and are excellent specimens of lumber.

The new company has made good progress since the resumption of operations a short time ago.

An average of 52 men is being employed and the mill has been running almost continuously since operations began.

The company estimates almost entirely to local trade, which has consumed a great portion of the cut up to date.

Outside of the lumber supply on hand in case of rush orders.

It is estimated that the mill will produce about a million feet of lumber in the next few months.

The mill is situated in the vicinity of the mouth of the Fraser River, and the logs are floated down the river.

DIGBY COUNTY NEWS

Supplement to THE DIGBY WEEKLY COURIER

DIGBY, FRIDAY, JUNE 5, 1908

Freeport.

Mrs. Reuben Thurber has gone to Grand Manan to visit her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hains went to St. John Thursday, returning Saturday.

Mrs. Roland Outhouse, of Tiverton, has been the guest of Mrs. Leonard Ring for a few days.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hains has returned home from the United States, where she spent the winter.

Miss Nina Powell came home from Lequille, Anna Co.; last week, and is the guest of her parents.

Mr. Ralph Outhouse, of Tiverton, and Miss Lennie Crowell, of Sandy Cove, were quietly married at the parsonage on Sunday evening, May 31st, by the pastor, Rev. A. H. Saunders.

The Ladies' Industrial Society meets every week on Thursday evening at the home of one of its members. It has a large membership (each member paying twenty-five cents per annum), but not a large number attending regularly, especially at this time of the year. Of late some one has said, "what is the good of this Society? I guess it is only a place where a few women meet to gossip—discussing the new minister's latest sermon, or so and so has a very stylish hat."

Now Mr. Editor, your correspondent being a member of this society, I would like to give your readers in this community a little idea of the amount of work done during the past year. Five quilts have been pieced and three quilted, several fancy sofa cushions made, eight or ten aprons and as many more pairs of socks knit, handkerchiefs, an amount of crochet work, besides several other pieces of work, some completed, others nearing completion.

Nearly two hundred dollars have been taken in. With this money the ell chamber in the parsonage has been finished and the whole house thoroughly cleaned, papered and painted. Other work done, of which I have not time to mention. About one hundred and fifty dollars has been paid out, leaving on hand a balance of forty dollars. Our President at present is Mrs. James Outhouse, and not a more capable woman for the position could be found. She has not missed a meeting of the Society in eight months. The money is well kept by Mrs. Willie V. Perry and the minutes by Mrs. Chas. Moore. With such faithful officers the Society will never go down. Now I would like to ask that "someone" if this Society is not doing a little good?

He was a passenger on board the Boston boat the night she ran down the Fame and reports a wild scene. He has followed the sea for a number of years but never saw anything like it in all his travels.

Quite a storm visited this place on Tuesday night, June 2nd. About 11 p. m. the rain poured down in torrents, accompanied by wind which blew almost a hurricane and hail about the size of peas. The electrical display was rather appalling to the timid, although the thunder was too far distant to do any damage. The storm was of short duration.

Some of our neighbours have gone in for boxing and last week there was quite a trush between two young men which required quite seriously for one of them. We would advise them to practice a little more before they try to entertain the public. We do not believe in that kind of amusement, but then there are others who think differently about such things.

Capt. Gilkinson, of the Salvation Army, is to give his farewell here Friday. The Captain has made many friends in this place because of his earnest and faithful preaching of the gospel, and his consistent christian life. His meetings here have been attended by power, many souls have been blessed through his faithful efforts, a number are rejoicing in a new found hope, and their influence are being felt in our church life. The prayers of God's people here will go with him, that he may be of equal blessing in his new field, and we would suggest that a special offering be given him on Friday night to help show our appreciation of his work for this community.

DEATH OF MRS. FRED SMITH.

Not for a long time has anything occurred that has cast such a sudden and universal gloom over our village as that of the death of Mrs. Fred Smith which occurred on Friday afternoon, May 22nd. Hardly eleven months before she had come to this place and to the home in which she died, a happy bride. Her friends had wished for her a long and happy married life, but it was not to be. The silent messenger which is ever on the go, calling the happy as well as the sad, the young as well as the old, had called her and she had to leave her happy home, her young husband and her infant child. Although she had been a resident of this place hardly a year, she had by her constant christian life won the confidence and esteem of all who had come to know her. She will be missed in the church with which she had united by letter only a few months before, and where her voice was always heard in the prayer meeting when she was able to attend. Deep sympathy is felt for the young husband who has had his home broken up before by the death of both his father and mother only a day or two apart, when he was but 17 years of age, and when after boarding out for a number of years, he had once more settled in a happy home life, he has again had his home broken up. Our sympathy will also go out to the motherless babe and the widowed mother, and to the other members of the afflicted family. The funeral service was held from the home on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Her pastor Rev. Henry Carter, of the Baptist church here, officiating. A very large number of people were present, both from this place and from Landsdowne, her former home.

Destroy the Caterpillars.

THEY ARE NOT DIFFICULT TO DISTINGUISH DURING THE MONTH OF JUNE.

We reprint the following interesting correspondence from Monday's Halifax Chronicle: 16 April, 1907, the presence of the brown-tailed moth was first recognized in this Province. Immediately as thorough a search was instituted as could be made during the spring; till the caterpillars had left their nests and the leaves unfolded and prevented further search for nests. As the season was late, we were able to locate the entire infested region and determine approximately in which localities they were more numerous. During June, spraying outfits were sent to many of the sections where the nests were more abundant and where they had not all been gathered before the caterpillars had left them. The little brown, hairy caterpillars pass the winter in the nests, but abandon them as soon as the foliage appears. As I have just completed a careful inspection of the infested area again this spring, it will be well to compare the conditions now with those of a year ago.

The North Mountain, Annapolis and St. Mary's Bay formed the northern limit last year and they remain the same this year. There is no evidence that the moths have crossed them yet. Nor have they been found further south on the South Mountain than they were last year. Last spring a nest was found in Yarmouth County near the Digby border, and scattering nests were found throughout Clare. They became more abundant east till at Doucetville they were numerous and were common in North and South Range, Plympton, Barton, Acacia Valley, Marshalltown, Joggins, Smith's Cove and Bear River, east to Deep Brook. It was in these parts of Digby County that the spraying outfits were sent. The spraying covered most of the localities, except Bear River, when the season had advanced so far that the caterpillars were transforming to moths.

This spring there are very few nests west of a line drawn directly south from the town of Digby. Where thousands of nests were found last year, very few have been found this year. Thus the western boundary has been moved east nearly across Digby County.

On the other hand, more nests have been found from Smith's Cove, east, to Deep Brook, especially around Bear River, than ever before and more than in the rest of the Province. Scattering nests occur throughout Annapolis County, but some progress has been made in preventing their becoming numerous. In Kings County there were a number of nests found last spring, but this spring very few have been found. These have been along the sides of the Valley, near the mountains. There is no evidence that a nest escaped destruction in Kings County last spring. Those found this spring were probably from moths carried east into the County by winds.

The conditions at present are very encouraging. The infested area has been greatly reduced and excepting the Bear River district the moths have been well kept under control. The public are alive to the importance of destroying the insects and have accomplished already the control of the pest. If they continue to pursue the same course in the future there are reasonable prospects that this insect will not become the serious pest here that it is in New England.

The nests this season are smaller than last year, but contain as many caterpillars and these are apparently as healthy as they were last spring. It is important that watch should be kept for the clusters of these caterpillars during the coming month and where found every caterpillar should be destroyed. The caterpillar is not difficult to distinguish in June. It spins no tent, but is more or less gregarious. It is brown and hairy, but without conspicuous tufts of hairs. There are two broken white lines down the back, one at each side, and two coral red spots just back of the centre of the back.

To come to Brier Island specifically, it may be stated that the improvement at this station was made on the recommendation of the Shipping Federation of Canada and was part of a comprehensive system of improvements extending from the Strait of Belle Isle to the head of the great lakes, and including several other stations in Nova Scotia.

The manufacturers of the Canadian instrument were invited to submit a price for the supply of the necessary machinery to improve all the stations above referred to, and there appears to be a general satisfaction expressed in every case except Brier Island where the conditions are peculiar.

The island is situated at the extremity of a long neck of land dividing St. Mary's Bay from the main waters of the Bay of Fundy, and the old whistle was used to sound on both sides of this neck of land. The new instrument which was intended primarily to assist the large navigating passing into the Bay of Fundy for the first time, and which had to pass at a considerable distance from the island, was arranged to throw the sound out to sea on both sides of the neck of land.

Mr. Dingwall was Superintendent of the Eastern Sunday School in Williamsburg, for nine years and License Commissioner for Gloucester and Tax Collector for Charlottetown for four years continuously. Read how strongly Mr. Dingwall comes out in favor of "Fruit-tives."

Barbery of the Smaller Birds.

Feeble birds are humming birds. So unkind are these charming creatures that they readily will enter open windows of houses if they see the flowers within.

They even have been known to visit the artificial flowers on a woman's hat when she was walking out, and other writers speak of their taking sugar from between a person's lips. In a room they get confused, and being frail they are apt to injure themselves by striking against objects.

It is of use to try to keep them in captivity says the Chicago Tribune, unless possibly it were in a greenhouse, where there were plenty of flowers, for no artificial food ever has been found which will nourish them. Even in a greenhouse they probably would kill themselves by flying against the glass.

Even in health there is a large accumulation of matter in the system, which if not destroyed, breaks through the skin in the form of pimples and boils. No kind of soap, so far as we know, is able to drive out this matter. It is only by the use of the "Fruit-tives" that the system can be purified, and the skin restored to its normal condition. The "Fruit-tives" are a simple, pleasant, and effective remedy for all skin diseases, and for all ailments of the system.

The gardener at the Jardin des Plantes in Paris gave an underground deer two of the first ripe figs to take to one of the geygnons. On the way the man gave way to temptation and ate one of the figs. The deer, however, did not seem to mind this, and ate the other one.

"Where is the other fig?" said the governor to him, having been told of the present beforehand. "But how could you do that?" "Like this," said the servant, swallowing the other.

"Success on the farm is more the result of good management than of good soil. The good manager will succeed on poor soil, and the poor manager will fail on good soil. Give some of your time to the planning of your work, so as to ensure that you are up against it in the best manner possible."

When food is not properly digested, it causes indigestion, and the system is unable to derive the full benefit from the food. The "Fruit-tives" are a simple, pleasant, and effective remedy for all indigestion, and for all ailments of the system.

Purdy, was a highly pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Titus on the arrival of a son, the 7th.

Her life was a busy one and though of late years her strength failed she kept actively employed until stricken down with malady that terminated her life. The funeral which was very largely attended, took place on Sunday, Rev. Mr. West conducting the services.

On Tuesday the community was shocked to hear that Robert P. Wade had been found on the shore in front of his place dead. Deceased had been in very poor health for a long time and when strong enough was accustomed to stroll about the farm. It is supposed he had gone down to the shore to look at the fence and passing on to the beach stumbled and fell striking the rocks with sufficient force to render him unconscious and the tide partly submerging his body, death resulted. Mr. Wade was a man possessed of more than average knowledge and was honest and upright in all his dealings. He leaves a widow, two sons and one daughter. The daughter, Mrs. C. S. Bird, residing in Lynn.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

(Special Correspondence to the Courier.

NEW YORK, June 10, 1908.—A group of newspaper men sat in a well-known Brooklyn Chop-house, discussing Secretary of War Taft's speech delivered on Memorial Day, at General Grant's tomb, Riverside Drive, New York City.

"I always thought Taft a much over-rated man," spoke up one of the scribes, "but I never did think he would prove so tactless as he did on Saturday, when he raked up the past of General Grant, much of which was mere heresay, and not a little bit from the whole cloth by the envious and malicious. Grant had his enemies like many other great men, and no doubt had his failures, too, as a business man and as a farmer. He was not suited to either occupation. But when his opportunity came, and the nation needed a leader, General Grant showed the heroic stuff that was in him. This was the unassuming simple minded soldier who saved the Union, and who, as victor over Lee, showed the innate nobility of his character more than any other conqueror recorded in the history of the world. And yet Mr. Taft in his tactless speech tried to make capital out of a few minor faults which had better been left unsaid."

"It is certain that Secretary Taft acted without the respect due to so great a man," declared another writer, "and worse still for himself, his uncalled-for strictness will have the effect of defeating his aspirations for a presidential nomination. And even if he should get the nomination, he'll never be elected after his Memorial Day's speech. But I've little faith in the tact of big fat men, anyhow, however clever they may be in other lines. These Falstaffian proportions down a man in my opinion. One exception I'll admit,—Ex-President Cleveland."

"But Cleveland had a powerful personality," interposed a third scribe. "He never talked assnity. Taft did. And more than this, in the presence of the dead soldier's son and wife who listened with impassive faces, while internally humiliated and indignant. The etiquette of Army life prevented any outburst of the indignation really felt by them."

"In any event Taft made a bad break," said the first speaker. "In my opinion it was worse than Burchard's 'Rum, Romanism and Rebellion' speech, which as we all know defeated Jim Blaine for the Presidency. Blaine would have been elected by a swinging plurality but for Dr. Burchard's tactless three 'R's.' It's no wonder Blaine at the time paraphrased, 'save me from my friends.' The tactless doctor defeated the greatest statesman we had of the period."

Some of the newspapers are making an effort to explain Taft's speech and to whitewash the big Secretary; but they might as well try to sprout a pair of wings on his broad fat shoulders.

Here are a few of the mildest opinions of that speech to the editor of the New York World, from men important in the Republic's affairs: "I was not aware of the facts stated by Secretary Taft and am anxious to disbelieve them. If they are true, I regret that the Secretary rejoiced to revive them and give them world-wide publicity at the tomb of the matchless general whose victories in arms saved the American Union from dismemberment and gave freedom and the ballot to four million (now ten million) of colored citizens of the United States."

WILLIAM E. CHANDLER.

"Former U. S. Senator from New Hampshire."

"For obvious reasons I do not care to criticize what Secretary Taft thought it appropriate to say at General Grant's tomb beyond the single remark that while General Grant may have had some weaknesses it is evident that Secretary Taft has his weaknesses also."

I. B. FORAKER.

"United States Senator from Ohio." The worst of all weaknesses in a man is to talk too much. Mr. Taft has this to perfection. Is there no possible process which could reduce Secretary Taft's weight and fondness for hearing his own voice simultaneously. Here's a line for some successful specialists.

But without going further here are a few mild specimens of Secretary Taft's speech, spoken in the hearing of the dead hero's son, bound hand and foot, so to speak, without the power to say one word in his illustrious father's defence:

"It is time that Grant received an education at West Point, but certainly, nothing was developed in him to indicate his fitness or ability to meet great responsibilities. He did well in the Mexican War, as did other lieutenants. He manifested as regimental quartermaster energy and familiarity with his duties. But in 1854 he resigned from the Army because he had to. He had yielded to the weakness of a taste for strong drink, and rather than be court-martialed he left the Army. He returned from Vancouver on the Pacific Coast, to his family in St. Louis without money, without property—a disheartened man. He accepted from his father-in-law a loan of seventy-five acres of land, upon which he constructed a house for his family to live in, and there he carried on farming operations. His chief business seemed to be that of selling wood and cutting it, and piling it in the back yards of well-to-do people in St. Louis. After six years of this life he gave up farming because of ill-health and went into the real estate business. He failed in this. His associate dissolved the partnership. Then at last his father offered him $600 as a clerk in his leather store at Galena, Ill., and then he moved from St. Louis. He worked here for a year also. During these seven years, though everything looked dark, he overcame in a great measure his weakness for strong drink. But he was so constituted that it seemed impossible for him to earn a livelihood even when he had given hostages to fortune in the shape of a wife and four children."

Now, Secretary Taft's father was in President Grant's cabinet, so in posing as a friend of the Grant family, might not the dead general's wrath cry in bitterness of spirit: "Oh, save me from my friends!"

Where was the necessity of "Big Bill" raking up the unpleasant past, even if it were true, which General John A. Logan's widow professes to doubt. General Pryor, the distinguished jurist and southerner, raps "Big Bill" with no infantile touch on his figurative knuckles. And the members of the grand army to a man are at his metaphorical throat and will go him one better at the convention; and this is no idle prophecy. "Big Bill" Taft will never fill the Presidential chair. His fatal slip was he talked too much and talked in the wrong direction.

The popular and wellknown Vaudeville actor, James Dolan, at one time Vice President of the great theatrical organization, The White Rats, has met a sad and irreparable loss in the death of his only child, Arthur Dolan. This estimable young man who had just attained his majority after several years of patient suffering, passed away on Friday, May 29th. He was the well beloved of his generous hearted parents, and of all who had the good fortune to know him. During Mr. Dolan's last theatrical tour in Canada his son Arthur accompanied him and it seemed then that there was a prospect of his recovery. But the disease was too deep seated. As the months flew by he grew weaker and weaker, and the best trained medical skill in New York could not save him. He died as he had lived, a lovable, exemplary young man, a deep thinker and a kindly, considerate companion.

Old-Fashioned Hospitality

HOW STRANGERS ARE ENTERTAINED IN TIVERTON.

My grandmother has little patience with the formal calls and visits of modern times, frequently saying that when she was young no guest ever left her house without being invited to a meal.

"Yes," says grandfather, "we kept house for thirty years, and I have always brought my friends home to meals whenever I chose—and that was pretty often—and I never saw your grandmother the least put out about it."

Then great-aunt Hannah told her experience as a country minister's wife. In those days the parsonage was a haven of rest for ministers and their families, for agents of Bible, temperance and missionary societies, for poor young men acting as book agents in order to get an education, and, in general, for every one in trouble or distress. Was this a relic of the days of monasteries, when the hospice was the refuge of weary travellers?

Grandmother and great-aunt compared notes as to the supplies of food always kept on hand and as to the little disturbance caused by the arrival of unexpected guests. Then followed regrets that the generous and informal hospitality of those good old days was gone forever, a loss due to a more complicated and elaborate manner of living, and particularly to the servants who rule modern households.

That the old fashioned hospitality is not wholly extinct is proved by an experience last summer. Five of us had sailed over St. Mary's Bay, Nova Scotia, to Digby Neck, and by the Petite Passage, landed at the little fishing village of Tiverton. After climbing the bluff and starting on our walk toward the village, the heavy wraps which had been necessary on the water proved so burdensome, that we stopped at a small unpainted house and asked permission to leave them while we went on to see the sights of the town. The beaming, motherly woman who presided over the simple home accepted the charge as a privilege and proudly told us of the beauties of the neighborhood, evidently the centre of the world to her.

After walking the length of the street, we climbed the cliffs on the top of which the lighthouse is perched, and looked over a foreground of pointed firs to the fishing boats at anchor in the bay, the white sails flecking the deep blue water beyond and the ocean losing itself in the distant sky line—a view worth coming many miles to see. Then, retracing our steps past the fish flakes, where men, women and children were piling and covering heaps of drying fish against the dew or rain of the night, we came again to the house. Its mistress greeted us with the words: "Supper's all ready for you. Now, don't say a word, but just come right in and make yourselves at home. I know you're tired and hungry, and a cup of tea'll taste good."

There were five of us, utter strangers to this hospitable soul, but we could not have had a heartier welcome from an old friend. Evidently the only way for us to do was to accept in the spirit in which the invitation was offered and trust that we should be allowed to pay for our meal. She had made hot biscuits, but their was cold bread for those who preferred it, also cake, cookies, honey, delicious wild strawberry jam, milk, and of course, the tea.

But when we spoke of paying, we found it as impossible as it would be to offer money to a friend whom we had visited. She was only too happy to have this opportunity of ministering to our wants, and as we reluctantly said good-bye and started toward our boat, "Come again next summer," she called cheerily after us, and it seemed like a farewell blessing.

The wind died down on our homeward trip, and as we lay, three hours becalmed in the darkness, we had ample opportunity to appreciate the kindness, except for which we should have been hungry, and she knew that we were "city folks," accustomed to a different style of living, she was not ashamed to welcome us to her humble kitchen table. Though she was poor in the world's goods, she was rich in brotherly kindness and she freely gave us the best she had.

Has this sort of whole-hearted hospitality died out of life? We do not believe it. There is still some genuine hospitality left even in our cities. We happened to know of one home in which are entertained every week students from a theological seminary, fifty miles distant. These young men are strangers to the hostess, and are invited solely to give them the opportunity of a Sunday in a great city where they may hear noted preachers and study for themselves the methods of Sunday schools and mission churches of which they have read. And this generous woman avers that she receives more than she gives, for even in these short visits she has come in touch with earnest young lives, and, in the intimate talks by the open fire after Sunday evening service, she has learned of struggles and aspirations, of disappointments and hopes, which have broadened her outlook, increased her sympathies and strengthened her faith.

Another hospitable woman shares her beautiful summer home with school teachers, who cherish their fortnight at "Hillcrest" as one of their sunniest memories. They are not personal friends of their hostess, but are invited because they have no home of their own, and are faithful workers who deserve a two weeks' complete rest, where the good things of life are offered them without money and without price. And she, too, insists that she receives from her guests more than she gives.—Martha Clarke Rankin in Congregationalist and Christian World.

Two Steamships Collide.

NEW YORK, June 16.—With her bow stove in, her stern broken and her forepeak flooded with water, the steamer Hugin, which sailed from New York for Cuba, several days ago, limped back to port this morning with a story of a collision at sea.

The other vessel, the British steamer Coya, bound from the West Coast of South America, also was badly damaged, but she succeeded in reaching Norfolk without assistance.

The collision occurred at 10:15 o'clock on the night of June 18th, when the steamers were 128 miles southeast by south of Cape Hatteras. They met head-on, and as both were heavily laden, the impact was sufficient to shatter the bows of both vessels. Fortunately no one on either vessel was injured and after hurried temporary repairs had been made the steamers started for port.

The Coya continued on to Norfolk and the Hugin turned about and came back to New York for repair.

NOTHING BUT THE BEST!

Mr. Elijah Mullen purchased a yoke of very fine oxen from Mr. Henry Kinney. There seems to be quite a movement in stock and a number of cattle have changed hands.

There seems to be an abundance of strawberries, but owing to the continued dry weather the fruit is of small size. We hope the recent rain will be beneficial to the crop.

Capt. Geo. Mallett, Weymouth, who went to the Marine Hospital, Yarmouth, last week has returned and is at present the guest of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Hogan.

Mr. James Melanson, Weymouth Falls, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Kate LeBlanc, on Tuesday. He went to Plympton for the road-machine, which will be used on the Weymouth road district the last of the week.

We always thought there was no better medium for bringing the attention of the public to our wants than through the columns of the newspaper. Report says that after having read the description of the Mallett Road in the COURIER, the authorities sent a man to inspect said road with the intention of making the necessary repairs. We trust that such may be the case as the road is in a deplorable condition which should be remedied as soon as possible. We hear also there is to be a bridge put in at the corner near Kinney hill. This will be a boon to the travelling public as the one there at present is in a dangerous condition.

Rod and Gun's Birthday Number.

With the issue for June, "Rod and Gun and Motor Sports in Canada," published by W. J. Taylor, at Woodstock, Ont., enters upon its tenth year, and produces as a birthday number, one that has not been surpassed by any of the fine issues that have preceded it. Every one of the many articles appeals to sportsmen and lovers of outdoor life and may be read with interest. The record-breaking moose hunt of Dr. W. L. Munroe in New Brunswick through which, for the first time in the history of the Province, the record is held by an outsider is rightly given a prominent position. Fishermen have their interests well looked after. In addition to a paper on Live Bait: How to Procure and preserve the same, a story of Herring Fishing in the Rideau, and one descriptive of a One Hundred Mile Canoe Trip in a Search After Bass, by C. H. Hooper, must secure attention from those who find their most enjoyable recreation in fishing. Judge Fraleck reminds us of old times in a delightfully reminiscent article on the wayside Tavern and the Shooting Match. The scarcity of partridges, a subject of so much comment amongst sportsmen, is discussed, the conclusion arrived at being that in all probability the birds have been killed off by a disease which has been general in its character and results. Variety is given in an exploration paper entitled Fresh Fields in the Rockies; In a Boys' Camp in Temagami and others. My Experience in Shotguns and a Review of Guns and Gunning, raise many questions connected with firearms which cannot fail to interest all shooters. The departments are one and all up-to-date and the number testifies to the leading position attained by the magazine and the strength with which it commences its tenth year of vigorous life.

SENATOR COMEAU'S

RESOLUTION.

It Has Created a Lot of Favorable Comment.

It WILL PROBABLY BRING ABOUT A SPECIAL CHANGE IN THE RE-GULATIONS RESPECTING THE IMPRISON-MENT OF JUVENILE CONVICTS.

The notice of motion being called:
That in the opinion of this House steps should be taken to provide an institution for the keeping of juvenile convicts separate from older criminals.

Hon. Mr. Comreau said: I desire a few words with regard to the subject of Dominion penitentiaries; or more especially, I might say, with regard to the system prevailing, under which the inmates are there confined to one common institution, which provides no real distinction between the young and the old; the tempted to be gradually and the redeemable or the incorrigible.

I think that it is the peculiar province of this honorable House, which is called upon to consider after session to initiate a general act of legislation of a general nature, to devote some time to the subject of the imprisonment of juveniles, where the welfare of any class of people is concerned, and to provoke the discussion of those questions which are of the greatest importance to the country.

And it is the conditions under which the penitentiaries were created will go far toward convincing the inquiring mind that they were called into existence with one object in view, namely the punishment of crime.

Perhaps I should add to this, and say with the view also of providing a place of detention for those persons who had been proved to be dangerous members of society, and had by some act brought themselves within the reach of the criminal law. Punishment of crime and the elimination of the dangerous element was, then, the prime object in view, in the establishment of these territorial houses of detention.

Let us turn the long and imprisonment usually carried with it an obligation on the part of those capable thereof, of being taught some trade or of acquiring the means to some labor or one another.

It is a means of keeping them mildly occupied, and thereby tend to reduce the danger from too many idle hands.

And the people there in the assembly of the Black and the Whites met one another. And he said and said to the multitude, "Lo these be words of my brother, yet his talk is mighty;
he is the Black and the Whites met and he is a liar, while I speak truth.
Therefore should this people choose me for a mighty councillor, for I am wise and true and I shall give you salary yet another thousand drachmas."
And Mendakismus rose—

Here the clay tablet was broken. It is to be regretted that this most interesting portion should be incomplete. It rests as follows:

"Now the Whites held their meeting upon a certain day. Then rose the scribe Nidius, the shining one.
And he was mighty among the Whites,
for they were simple and he was crafty.
And he said to the Whites, 'Lo these be the words of my brother, yet his talk is mighty; he is the Black and the Whites met and he is a liar, while I speak truth. Therefore should this people choose me for a mighty councillor, for I am wise and true and I shall give you salary yet another thousand drachmas.'"

Legless With only one Arm. Yet a Hero.

HOW AN EIGHTEEN YEAR OLD CRIPPLE SAVED THE LIVES OF TWO BOYS

NEW YORK, June 20.—The World says today: With stumps for legs, stump for his right arm and his left hand minus several fingers, Joseph Gilligan, 18 years old, swam to the rescue of two boys in a gravel pit pond at Morris Plains, N. J., and saved their lives. Alexander Patterson and Augustus Monahan, twelve years old each, were in an old boat in the pond, which is near the Lackawanna Railroad tracks at Morris Plains. The pond is about ten feet at its greatest depth, and it was at this point the boys upset the boat while playing. Patterson could not swim, and he clasped Monahan around the neck. Before he was dragged down, Monahan cried for help. Gilligan was sitting with other boys in the shade of a tree, but out of sight of the pond. He had been showing his friends the artificial limbs his parents had procured for him. He had unstrapped the limbs when he heard the cries for help. Not stopping to put them on Gilligan hurried to the pond.

Plunging in, he swam to the spot where the boys were struggling, and grasped the two lads and pushed them apart. He then swam with one hand and pushed Patterson ashore.

Returning, Gilligan sought Monahan, who was sinking. The cripple also pushed him ashore. The two boys, grateful for their rescue, carried him to their home, where he received dry clothing.

Gilligan ten years ago was run over by a trolley car in Brooklyn. He lost one leg above the knee and the other below the knee, his right arm was taken off at the elbow, and three fingers from his left hand. He learned to swim a few years ago.

Closing Door Against Hindoos.

ALL FUTURE COMERS MUST HAVE AT LEAST $200 EACH.

OTTAWA, June 19.—With view to restricting immigration from India to Canada an order-in-council has been passed making it compulsory that every Indian immigrant 18 years of age, or over, shall have in his possession at least two hundred dollars on landing in Canada. It is understood that the regulation is made with the consent of the British Government, although as a result of the regulations passed on the return of Mr. MacKenzie King from England and the action of the Indian authorities in discouraging any further immigration of Hindoos to this country, the influx has practically stopped. The government has found that there is still a loop hole or two by which Hindoos, attracted by stories of high wages in British Columbia might still get into Canada. In order to forestall any possible influx this summer the regulation has been passed.

The order in council does not specifically mention India as the country particularly effected by it, but it is couched in general language. India, however, is the only country to which it will apply.

Nova Scotia Good Enough

The Secretary for Agriculture, Prof. Melville Cumming and the Secretary of Industries and Immigration, Arthur S. Barnstead, returned to Halifax on Saturday from short tours through the Western parts of the Province. They report agricultural conditions in the western part of the province were never more hopeful. The warm days and rain have assured good crops. Ideal weather prevailed for the setting of the apples, and the promise is everywhere excellent. The fruit growers by constant spraying hold in check the pests that would otherwise cause much havoc. While at Caledonia Mr. Barnstead heard of Nova Scotians who were returning from the United States and settling on the farms in that section. The Secretary related that in the course of his trip through the Valley he had interviewed many prosperous farmers who had come from England and Scotland, some five, some ten, some twenty and thirty years and had made a comfortable living off the farm and in some cases had amassed tidy little sums in the Bank and had valuable farms that were increasing in value every year. They had adapted themselves to the conditions of life and many were emphatic in the statement that they would never think of returning to their old homes.

Wireless on The Great Lakes

Wireless telegraphy proved of inestimable value during the past season in the movement of vessels on the great lakes. By its use, the captains of vessels were kept in almost constant touch with the offices of their companies and in many instances orders were given them changing plans by which thousands of dollars were saved to the shipowners, under circumstances which could not have been accomplished in any other manner. In some cases, it is said, that rush messages were delivered in three minutes' time. The value of the service in this capacity is demonstrated by the fact that although it was not fully in operation until the latter part of the season, no less than 70,000 words were exchanged. At the opening of the season there were but two stations in operation and three were put into service.

Prohibition in Alabama

(Boston Herald)

Those who dance should pay the piper. But the Alabama majority, which voted for prohibition and cut off a considerable part of the State's revenue, now refuse to pay a "one-cent" tax for the purpose of providing the school funds with the $8000, which was the usual contribution from the liquor fees. Teachers' salaries and school terms will have to be reduced as a consequence. The virtues of prohibition in Alabama may be admirable, but if they are acquired at the cost of popular education their value is debatable. Of course, it will be said that education should not lean on license fees. Very well, but if the voters will not make up the deficit for the sake of the schools—what then?

Wreckage From Fame

(Gloucester Times.)

A report has reached this city that the side of a vessel, with three dories attached, came ashore recently at Wood Island, on the Maine coast, just to the eastward of Cape Porpoise.

It is believed here that the wreckage must be a piece of the ill-fated schooner Fame, which was run down recently on Cashes, by the steamer Boston. The fact that the boat of the steamer Boston, which was put over at the time of the collision and lost, drifted in on the Maine coast and was picked up off Matinicus recently, by the fishing schooner Wesley W. Sinnett, lends color to the story that the wreckage is probably that of the schooner Fame.

Lighter than Aluminium

Under the name of magnalium, Dr. L. Mach has produced alloys of aluminum and magnesium which, while considerably lighter than pure aluminum, are harder than that metal and better suited, it is asserted, for working. With 15 per cent. of magnesium the alloy is said to resemble brass in the readiness with which it submits to the operations of turning, boring and cutting. By increasing the magnesium 25 per cent. an alloy resembling bronze is produced, but the color is silvery white.
