

Welcome to the Digital DIGBY COURIER 1877-1978

100th Birthday

The hundredth anniversary of the Digby Weekly Courier has brought to mind some fond memories as contained in the following historical chapter of the writer. But first, I wish to congratulate the current editor of the Courier, Mrs. J.M. (Edith) Wallis, for a job well done over the years and still being well done. Good service rendered with great fortitude.

According to any record, I have at hand, the Digby Courier, in one hundred years of publication, was controlled under the same family management for 42 years, 1931 to 1973, under the control of Wallis Print Limited, the late J.J. Wallis became editor of The Courier, the second time, in 1929, and at the same time of the business, which he had been running for some time previously and which became Wallis Print Limited sometime between 1929 and 1931.

I well remember the last year of the twenties when I worked in the printing plant with the husband and father of the late J.J. Wallis. Sometime in 1928 or early 1929, the late J.J. Wallis (Mac), son of "J.J." engaged me to work every day after school hours, Saturdays, and for some months after full time. The place of work was in the building of the late J.J. Wallis then Digby town hall on First Avenue. J.J. Wallis then worked occasionally at the print shop but mostly across the street at the Courier office which was then located on land in the general area where The Royal Bank of Canada is now.

Wallis Job Print operated in 1929 with a staff of four consisting of J.J. Wallis, J.M. Wallis, Miss Eva Haynes, who later became Mrs. George Kicup, and myself. I was in the staff in the left up-stairs. "J.J." occasionally worked in the printing plant but mostly at the Courier office. "Mac" worked nearly full time at all the different jobs at the Job Print, and I, worked at various duties, most of the time being spent at operating printing presses.

We worked ten-hour days, six days a week. "J.J." and "Mac" sometimes worked overtime. I worked only the regular hours being paid a weekly wage which was comparatively good for those times and my lack of experience. I received four or five dollars a week for working after school hours to six o'clock and on Saturday all day, and nine dollars a week for full weeks after finishing school. A two or three dollar a week raise was offered to me in the fall of 1929 for me to stay on at printing, but I had made up my mind to enter a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, starting salary of $300. The bank salary figured out about the same per hour as for the printing job. Nevertheless, the congenial atmosphere of the printing plant those days, and, experience however short, were helpful and appreciated by me.

"J.J." was very jovial in his occasional trip to the Job Print and did considerable kidding all in good fun. "Mac" was a witty person who mixed in a good natured sarcasm now and then for one reason or another. Eva most always had good answers to all the kidding she was called upon to take, and, generally held her own in a quiet sort of way, always in a friendly way. We four all got along very well indeed. However, I do remember that some days did seem long and weary because of the monotony of some repetitious jobs.

In spite of the great demand for printing those last boom days of the twenties, business generally being brisk, it looked to me that people had to work long and hard to make any decent profit. There was including treatment... However, nails and finger ends were dead and I was soon back to work.

Now and then a printing job had a lull on parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad those days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would do that job on the largest press, in spite of the fact that we always opened an outside door to lessen the effects on the constitution.

One of the jobs I had to do, being the junior and printers' devil on the staff, was to clean now and then. One day not long after I started my job at the printing plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily, he thought the remark pretty good and suitable.

Sometimes the gasoline engine or a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and the "Mac" the fix-it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results, "Mac" would then stand back and cuss quite strenuously, then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of cussing."

On other occasions when some gadget refused duty for me and, seemed to be broken, "Mac" would say, "use a little oil," and sure enough, often that is all it took. How often since, have I thought of the value of that remark and the actual need of "oil" in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and, in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1928 got together just before dark one evening and decided to initiate the newly built outdoor Pines Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just east of the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys; no thought or time for bathing suits up to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in, the rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korean), was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent druggist for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale lobster king merchant; and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me "how about writing your version of the story told about 'The Marooning of Jerome'." I had heard and read at least two somewhat different stories about the man who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Digby County. When found this man's tongue had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and, possibly of some considerable wealth. However the only thing the man could or would ever say after being found and cared for by some family in the French shore was, something that sounded like the word "Jerome". He either could not, or, would not, write anything about who he was or why he was left the way he was. Well, it was, and is, one of Digby County's mystery stories, and, different ideas have been expressed over the years concerning this man. However my response to "Mac" was, I felt no urge to write anything more or different about this man. The mystery seemed to have been very well explored in the mind of many people, and, he was a sort of curiosity for many people who visited where he lived in many years.

Three years later I was quite back and forth on the street that I had been back and forth on, I had a clanking noise, powered by a... I remember it... "J.J." was noted...

Digby 172 Years Ago

Compiled by David Sanford

From the files of the Courier of January 23, 1867, the following account has been copied concerning Digby in 1800.

"Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us by friends is a copy of the Saint John Gazette of May, 1802, says the Telegraph and among other advertisements contained in the issue before us is one describing the town and township of Digby, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this area we are told the township of Digby extends from the Gulf of Annapolis westward to the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 130,000 acres." The town plot is thus described.

"The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1783, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to older countries, left the whole free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of which was "J.J.'s" daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Melvin O. Tibert, Freeport, Digby Co.) Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters; I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print". I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like: embossing, stapling, perforating, counting, cutting and trimming paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, but, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "pi", the printers name for a confused mess.

There was a taste of trying to sell job printing outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls around town, spent most of the time at one particular house (I spent much time) and got an order, but,

"LION BRAND" CORDAGE

Is Made in Canada

THE FACT that there is no cordage manufactured that will give you better value for your money, is the chief reason why you should insist on LION BRAND, but there are other reasons.

There is some imported rope on the market of inferior quality. Cheap rope will not give you the service required. Avoid all chances of loss and disaster by insisting on LION BRAND. Our new factory at Halifax is equipped with the most modern machinery, ensuring a product that will stand every test.

Whether it be manila fishing net head ropes, lobster rope, standing or running rigging for vessels, marline, wrapping twine, or any kind of cordage used for marine, lumbering, mining, or agricultural purposes, remember that it is being made at Halifax, and if you insist on LION BRAND you will get a product that will not disappoint you.

Ask for LION BRAND Cordage.

HAYING

Experimental Farms Note

The cutting and curing of hay is an operation requiring the exercise of prompt action and sound judgment if a maximum yield of hay of suitable quality is to be saved. Towards this end there are several factors which should receive consideration. The time or stage of cutting is of prime importance since it affects both yield and quality. Usually the most profitable yield is obtained when the crop is cut when in blossom or just past that stage, say when one third of the bloom has disappeared. Ordinarily the tendency is to leave the commencement of haying too late for proper curing during the latter part of the season, due to over ripeness of the crop. It is advisable, therefore, to plan to start the work during the period when there is the least possibility of loss. Begging haying early is good practice. Clover and alfalfa cut slightly immature will make better hay under favourable weather conditions than left until fairly ripe. Besides, an early start will allow for loss of time through broken weather during the haying season and will ensure a heavier second crop which may be utilized for hay, seed and pasture purposes.

With regard to methods of curing, no definite rule or rules of procedure can be laid down to meet all requirements. A successful hayer must so speedily "know his business" a knowledge that is acquired only by long experience with vagaries of weather, periods of cutting, conditions of curing, etc. To become efficient in this work requires one vigilant and with ability to contend with emergencies.

Clovers and alfalfa are more difficult to cure than timothy and other grasses. They are more succulent, absorb rain more readily and the leaves, the most valuable part of the plant, are more easily broken off than the leaf blades of grasses. They should be cut when free from dew or other moisture, and dried, for placing in cocks, by the agency of wind rather than sun as far as possible. Exposure to rain or even heavy dew will change the green leaves to dark brown and make them crisp and readily broken off by handling. Rain and dew will also extract the aroma of fragrance, a quality essential in making hay palatable and attractive.

Mixed hay, timothy and other grasses cure more readily than clover and are not affected to such an extent by unfavourable weather conditions. Otherwise the general principles of curing laid down for clover and alfalfa apply. Timothy grown for market purposes may be cut at a later period than is recommended for ordinary farm feeding purposes. Market conditions demand well matured, though not over ripe, hay.

POTATO BEETLES VERY ABUNDANT

(By G. E. Sanders.)

It has been years since potato beetles were as abundant as they are this season. Even present indications of a large proportion of the fields will require treatment within a week of the appearance of the plants if the maximum crop, is to be grown. On account of the fact that the adults or hard shells can very seldom be completely controlled by the early spray it would be good business for all potato growers to make plans for thorough spraying with poisoned Bordeaux when the plants are about ten inches high.

If the plants are attacked by adult beetles within two weeks of their appearance it is probable that the best treatment would be to dust the young plants with arsenate of lime. Spraying with arsenate of lime two pounds to forty gallons would be equally effective. Arsenate of lime or paris green may be used if arsenate of lime is not available.

When the plants are ten inches high or when the leaves or buds or soft shells are open called, apply growers should spray very thoroughly with a poisoned Bordeaux made up of—

- 4 lbs. copper sulphate.
- 1 lbs. lime.
- 1 1/2 lbs. arsenate of lime.

On making the Bordeaux the lime and the copper sulphate should be dissolved separately in upwards of ten gallons of water and then poured together. In using arsenate of lime as an insecticide it is best to add it to the completed Bordeaux.

In New Brunswick where arsenate of lime is not available in all sections, arsenate of soda which is a more potent insecticide than arsenate of lime may be used in Bordeaux only in the place of arsenate of lime.

Poisoned Bordeaux made according to the above formula should be applied every two weeks during the entire season after the plants are ten inches high. This will insure freedom from both insects and fungus diseases.

Spraying four or five times in the manner described will give an average increase in crop of about 100 bushels per acre, and the total cost will be in the neighbourhood of fifteen dollars per acre. On this account spraying potatoes is like buying potatoes for fifteen cents per bushel.

Too many make the mistake of not applying enough spray. At least eighty gallons should be applied per acre on each application. Forty gallons is not enough to control other insects or diseases and the spraying is done with a hand pump it is best to go over the field twice, once each way on each application. Thorough potato spraying is probably the most profitable operation that can be conducted on the ordinary farm; as the returns will average more than six times the cost. In other words the profits from potato spraying average over 500 per cent. Years ago, there were no potato beetles and no blight in the country and there was no need of spraying potatoes. Within forty years conditions have changed, and insect and fungus diseases introduced. To-day in order to grow maximum crops of potatoes the plants must be protected from these comparatively new insect and fungus pests by spraying.

TALISMANS OF DEATH

Tragedy Stalks in Wake of Charms in British Museums.

There is the mummy of the high priestess Amen-Ra in the British Museum. The priestess belonged to the royal family of Egypt. A party of four young Englishmen obtained the mummy about 30 years ago in Egypt. One of the young men was crippled before they left that country, and another was shot shortly before reaching England. A third died suddenly and the fourth followed him after losing a large fortune.

The sister of the last hastily presented the mummy to the museum. The man who drove it there died within a week, while one who helped to carry it into the building soon afterward had both legs cut off in a railway accident.

The first man who attempted to photograph the mummy case fell, smashed his camera and cut his face severely. The first writer who described the ill luck that followed it died soon afterward.

Finally, the daughter of the Marquess of Salisbury, who went to look at the mummy, fell and sprained her ankle!

Another ill luck-bringer that was thrown out of the house and given to the museum was a carved teak-wood image of Buddha.

It was stolen from a Buddhist temple in lower Burma by a sea captain. When the ship carrying it was near Liverpool a fire broke out on board. The crew threw the image overboard, believing the idol was responsible, and they reached port in safety.

The image was washed ashore in Wales and claimed by its owner, the captain. Soon afterward he died. His daughters kept the Buddha in their house for several years, during which time one of them died suddenly, though perfectly healthy. Then it was given to the museum.

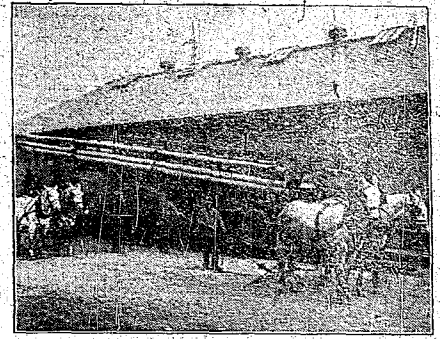

An Indian idol is said to have been responsible for the assassination of President Carnot of France. It belonged to one of the rulers of India and there was a tradition that the idol bestowed power with one hand and death with the other.

Ruler after ruler who possessed the idol was assassinated. When Great Britain conquered India, the idol, then in the possession of a rajah who lost his life fighting against the British, fell into British hands. It continued to bring evil fortune in its train, however.

Among its possessors who died suddenly before it reached President Carnot were a major of British cavalry a Brahmin prince, a rich money-lender and a old dealer in antiquities.

Carnot was not an ambitious man, but when he became possessed of the idol fame and power came to him unexpectedly. When he became President, Carnot began to receive letters threatening his life. In May, 1899, less than two years

INTEREST CREATED IN FISHING CIRCLES

Canadian Packers of Sardines Will Have to Change Name of Their Product.

Will the Canadian packers of sardines have to change the name of their product, is a question which is creating some interest in fishing circles. Some years before the war the French Congress of sardine packers took action in the British courts, charging Norwegian firms with violating the provisions of the Merchandise Marks Act by applying a false trade description, namely, "sardines," to fish packed in tins with oil. The case dragged along in the British courts for years, and it was not long ago that the high court upheld the French claim, ruling that the Norwegians had no right to apply the description "sardines" to bristlings packed in oil. This has compelled the Norwegians to change the name of their pack of bristlings when offered in the British market, but they continue to send their product to the United States and Canada under the name of sardines. The British high court found that the name sardine is and always has been limited by eminent restaurateurs and high-class dealers in provisions and canned goods to immature pickard packed in oil tins. By this decision Canadian and American packers must drop the word sardines from labels on fish intended for export to either France or Britain, and the question of coining a trade name has become one of interest. Now that the war is over the French interests may follow up their legal victory and bring action to prohibit the use of the word sardine by packers of small-herring selling their products in Canada and the United States.

On this side of the Atlantic there is a branch of the clupeid family, whose name is herring, commonly known as herring, and canners both in the United States and Canada have been packing these fish under the name sardines, each adopting such camouflage as suits their taste. In Maine they call them American sardines, while in Nova Scotia they go the whole way and boldly dub them sardines, prefixing their firm name. The Department of Fisheries of Canada has a regulation which permits the canning of any small coarctoid fish as sardines.

Some of the new names which have been suggested to designate the Canadian pack of small herring are "Canadians," "Fundy-fish," "Fundlings," "Acadians," "Brunlets," "Novawicks," "Princellets," "Herringtons," "Cluplings."

Large quantities of the Canadian sardines have been sent across the ocean during the war for use by the troops, British and Canadian.

Miss Boulet, of Paris who has just died at Perpignan, at the age of 75 has left her whole fortune to France, to be devoted to the work of rebuilding churches destroyed by the Germans. The amount will exceed 500,000 francs, or $100,000.

after his election, he was shot at and wounded.

On July 13, 1891, another attempt was made on his life, but again failed. Finally in June, 1894, the President was fatally stabbed by Santo Cerario.

Mme. Carnot, who time and time again had implored her husband to get rid of the idol, gave instructions for it to be destroyed. It was smashed to pieces by workmen with sledge hammers.

WONDER MENAGERIE

John Robinson's Circus Carries a Remarkable Collection of Rare Wild Beasts, Birds and Reptiles.

Circus patrons usually observe a menagerie with an avid intense interest but few of them give consideration to the tremendous expense involved in the maintenance of rare animals, in these days of high cost of living.

The John Robinson Circus, which will show in Digby on Tuesday, July 1st, maintains a menagerie the value of which has been variously estimated at from $100,000 to $150,000—and these figures do not include cage cost and maintenance of cages, transportation nor feeding. To feed the John Robinson menagerie each day involves the expenditure of approximately $4,000. Many of the animals are sustained on a diet of fresh, clean beef, while others require special cereals all of which means a liberal outlay of money.

The housekeeper or breadwinner knows something of the expense when the fact is mentioned, that fresh choice cuts of beef must be used for the majority of the animals. The John Robinson circus management insists upon choice food for menagerie animals regardless of cost, and this is largely responsible for the excellent appearance of the carnivorous animals, which have elicited so many compliments from patrons this season. The John Robinson menagerie compares favorably with that of any traveling organization and is well worth a visit. Featured are three herds of elephants and "Comos," the only baby Hippopotamus, in captivity. This baby will be shown in the monster free street parade, which will leave the circus grounds promptly at ten thirty o'clock. Two performances will be given in the main tent which comfortably seats 10,000 people. The doors will be opened at one and seven o'clock and the performances will start promptly at two and eight.

This will be the only circus to visit Nova Scotia this summer. The railroads will run special excursions and your railroad agents will tell you all about them.

ART FOR MANY

"I do not want art for a few," said William Morris, "any more than education for a few, or freedom for a few"—and civic art is essentially public art. It has been likened to a fire built upon the market place, where every one may light his torch, which private art is a fire built upon a hearthstone which will blaze and die out with the rise and fall of fortunes.

"Beauty in art is truth bathed in the impression, the emotion that is received from nature. Seek truth and exactitude, but with the envelope of sentiment which you felt at first. If you have been generous in your emotion you will be able to pass it on to others."—Industrial Arts Magazine.

Mrs. Ernest Raymond was a passenger to St. John on June 20th, teaching Centreville again on June 23rd.

Mrs. Theriault, of East Ferry, has lately been visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arch Hersey.

Miss Elvira Graham, who has spent the past two weeks with friends and relatives at Westport and Freeport, has returned home.

Laurie Byerett arrived here on June 18th, from Halifax, to which place, after a few days at his home, he is planning to return.

Mr. Thos F. Anderson, Secretary of the New England Shoe & Leather Association, Boston, Mass., spent a few days among friends in Centreville this week.

Mrs. Derwell Outhouse and Mrs. Fred Morehouse spent a few days of last week in Sable Cove, where they were working in the interests of the Methodist parsonage there.

Ralph Graham, of Centreville, N. S., spent the week end at the home of his parents, Capt. and Mrs. Robt. Graham.

His work will now keep him busy at "The Pines" Hotel in Digby, for a few weeks before going back to Centreville.

Among the candidates from Centreville for Provincial Examinations this term are—Ethel Morehouse and Ance Dakin for Gr. XI, (B), and Vera Vidto, Florence Holgate, Evelyn Norton and Ance Morehouse for Gr. IX, (D). They will take the examinations at Digby Station.

We are also glad to see for the week end those of our friends who are at present employed in Freeport, and also those of their Freeport friends who occasionally drop in with them. Last week the happy crowd, in their motor boat, was accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Miller of Freeport.

Centreville is glad to welcome home again another of her soldier boys, Major Edwin Graham, Mr. Graham who for the past few months has been in Toronto for medical treatment, came first to Windsor, N. S., where he attended the Methodist Conference, lately held there, and is now at the home of his parents, Capt. and Mrs. Robt. Graham. On Sunday evening, June 22nd, Mr. Graham, having accepted an invitation to give an address from the Baptist pulpit, gave us the privilege of listening to a very interesting and instructive sermon.

We are glad to welcome home again Reginald Shaw and Gladys Morehouse, who have successfully completed their course at the Normal College, Toronto, N. S. Each has now a First Class (B) Diploma, and will in the near future be taking their places among others in that noble profession, the instructing and developing of the youthful mind. Miss Morehouse was accompanied by Miss Marguerite Teed of Freeport, who has also taken a Normal Course, obtaining her Second Rank (C) Diploma. Having

News of Weymouth

Miss Silvie Maise is visiting her aunt, Miss Agnes Maise.

Willie Theriault, of Bellevue's Cove, spent a few days in town this week.

Mrs. Lennie Steinhil and daughter, Miss Florence, of Boston, are the guests of Mrs. Forbes Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. William Boudreau, of Yarmouth, are in town, and Mrs. Dennis Doucet, of this town.

We are pleased to report Mrs. Amy Bron, who has been on the sick list for several weeks, slowly but surely improving in health.

Miss Billie Corbin, of the D. A. R. station staff at Weymouth went to Halifax on Friday returning on Tuesday. Mr. Corbin motored as far as Annapolis with friends.

Lt. Charles Stehelin arrived home from France on Saturday. His many friends are glad to welcome him home. Lt. Stehelin looks the picture of health and none the worse for his five years of service.

Miss Barbara Hallett, who is training as nurse at Newton Centre Mass., arrived in Yarmouth on Saturday and spent a day with her sisters, Mrs. Dr. Heltunne, of Yarmouth, and her sister and brother-in-law in Weymouth on Sunday.

Miss Mildred Lent, the popular post office assistant is spending a well deserved vacation of two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Lent, of Tusket, Yarmouth County. Miss Lent motored to Yarmouth on Friday with Miss Daisy Hallett and Stanley Hallett.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Davidson arrived in town last Wednesday and were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Davidson for a few days. Mr. Davidson has sold his dwelling and returned to St. Stephen on Saturday. Dr. Davidson remained a few days visiting friends and left for his future home at St. Stephen on Tuesday.

His Grace, the Most Rev. B. J. McCarthy, Archbishop of Halifax held a confirmation at St. Joseph's Church on Tuesday morning at eight o'clock. A Mass said by his Grace preceded the ceremony.

A very instructive sermon in French was given by Rev. Father Phelan, curate at St. Mary's Cathedral, Halifax, who accompanies the archbishop on his confirmation tour. Quite a number of girls and boys were confirmed. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Gaudet represented the children's god fathers and godmothers.

On Tuesday afternoon three arrived home Pte. Israel Melanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin C. Melanson, of Weymouth Mills. Pte. Melanson went across with the first depot battalion in 1918 and was severely wounded in the heavy fighting last August, having sustained the loss of a leg. We regret that the people of Weymouth apparently do not appreciate the self sacrifice and gallantry of our brave soldier lads. Quite a large crowd was at the station, yet not a burial, not a single cheer was given. We feel that the very least we can do is to give them a hearty welcome home.

On several occasions, and many times from outsiders, that Weymouth seemingly overlooks the heroism of its soldiers. This sounds bad. And yet it goes on from day to day. There is perhaps a consolation in the thought that there are only a very small number of the boys to come home. Perhaps Weymouthians are tired of cheering!

WE have tried to deal squarely with our subscribers in arrears—but the square dealing has been all on one side. Since June 1 we have sent bills out to the amount of over $500—and have received $12. As we have pointed out before the profits of the Courier's forty-five years of existence are tied up in delinquent subscription accounts. We are not going to keep on begging for the money which belongs to us and we have decided that on July 15th we will cut off all subscribers who owe us for over two years, unless they have made arrangements to pay; on August 15th we will cut off all who owe for over one year; and on September 15th we will cut off all who are not paid in advance. After September 15th the Digby Weekly Courier will be a "strictly paid in advance, stop at the end of subscription" paper. We are spending a lot of money and time to make the Courier the best weekly in Eastern Canada and we cannot afford to give it away.

FOUND HIS PLACE

Youngster Who Made Good as Food-Producer.

Factory Hand Lost, but a Massachusetts' Community Is Richer Because Boy Decided That He Would Take to Gardening.

Four years ago a garden-club boy in Massachusetts faced what would have seemed even to an adult a hard problem. Born in Italy, but thoroughly inculcated with American ideas of the necessity of education, James was told by his father while in the eighth grade that no longer could he be kept in school. His future path was to lie toward the meaty factory.

Believing, because of his garden-club experience under the auspices of the local leader for the United States department of agriculture, that he could earn as well by potting outside of school hours as he could in a factory by devoting his whole time, he finally obtained permission from his father to try it. So successful was he that James was willing he should enter the plumb grade in the fall.

The next spring the superintendent let him have land to use for a large garden. To ten boys he had selected from the upper grammar grades he had proposed to pay so much an hour and to give each a garden plot. The following excellent advice he offered them in addition: "If you are going to quit, quit now while it is cool and not when it is hot next August."

By fall he had decided that enough could be earned in the summers to enable him to attend high school and the agricultural college later on. Now Junior in high school, he has a good-sized hothouse under lease, where he raises cabbage, cauliflower and tomato plants; he owns an auto truck to haul his produce; he has bank accounts and pays his bills by check, and owns at least one government bond.

With all the school and business cares, he still has time to look after his home matters of his younger brothers and sisters, visiting their teachers and watching their progress. A factory hand, probably only a mechanic one, has been lost, but a good deal of good has been gained through the vision given James by his boy's agricultural club leader.

Powerful Explosive.
The liquid oxygen explosive appears, from notices in the German technical press, to have been developed as a mining substitute for nitric explosives, which had been all taken for military purposes. It was discovered a score of years ago that when a carbonaceous material is saturated with liquid oxygen and ignited by a fuse or electricity, the carbon and oxygen combine violently and successive trials were made in blasting. This explosive, called "oxyquint," is now doing duty quite extensively in breaking up coal and potash. In seeking a combustible, experiments were made with a mixture of gasoline and industrial ether, pulverized cork, dry wood pulp and dried peat, but the best results were obtained with lamplack. This is placed in a suitable cartridge. In the use of the explosive the filled cartridge is immersed for half an hour in liquid oxygen in a special container, and then, with an ignition system quickly attached, is placed in the borehole and tamped and exploded. The effects are nearly equal to those from the same weight of dynamite. The serious disadvantage of the method is the necessity of liquefying the oxygen at the time of its use; but a very great advantage is safety in transportation, and especially complete lack of danger from unexploded cartridges. The oxygen evaporates in about ten minutes, leaving simply inert lamplack.

Monster Devil Fish.
The announcement is made that a monster devil fish weighing 1,700 pounds and measuring 12 feet from tip to tip, has been captured three miles out from Deer Island, near Biloxi, Miss., by local fishermen, who brought the fish to Biloxi and placed on exhibition. The fish, a species which is seldom seen so close to shore, was caught in a trawl net by Pat Moran, and it took three power boats to haul the fish into port. It had a mouth measuring four feet across, in order to pass a rope through it, fishermen had to use an immense ear.

When one vessel attempted to bring the fish ashore it played with the boat as with a toy, and two other power boats came to its assistance. Many people viewed the monster.

Blank Check in Bird's Nest.
A bird's nest that had fallen from a tree in a park near Baltimore, Md., after it had weathered many a hard wind, has just been placed in the North Carolina hall of history in Raleigh alongside war relics and other things because the bird used local building material in the form of a blank check of a Raleigh bank, in making its home safe and snug. The distance between Raleigh and Baltimore is about 205 miles by rail, but it is much shorter as the crow flies. Ornithologists says the nest is either that of a robin or a thrush.

The Real Treasure.
"Pa, there's a burglar in the dining room."
"That's all right. So long as he takes nothing but the silverware I'm not going to bother him. Wake me again though if you hear him going to the basement. I'll die before I'll let him get away with our hard coal."

Embarrassing.
"What do you think of women in politics?"
"Embarrassing," answered Miss Gayden. "I can't be sure whether a beautiful man is going to propose to you or merely ask you for your vote."

Cutworm Killing.
Cutworms which pass the winter as partially grown larvae are generally starved out by fall plowing, as their food is buried under the soil. White grubs are destroyed more easily by deep fall plowing because this insect burrows nearly to the plow-depth line during October, and being turned up at that time cannot hibernates again before winter sets in.

Making Hedgehog Useful.
If a scarcity of metals were to result in a scarcity of gramophone needles an excellent substitute can be found in the spines of the back of a hedgehog. This discovery is due to an officer of the Argyll and Sutherland's. The spines allow one to hear even the words of the singer and every note of the song in the softest renderings.

Salada Tea.
A writer in the London Chronicle asserts that the human eye never changes its expression, so no doubt he is correct in that assertion. We may take it for granted, if he is just a writer, that he never discovered this for himself, but is merely recording a fact that has been demonstrated by scientific observers. The eye apparently expresses a variety of emotions, and writers as a class are continually recording these changing expressions with all the adjectives which they can command. The heroes, heroines and villains of fiction are always registering emotions with their eyes, and when you read the convincing descriptions you simply have to believe them. What is more, any day that the movie you can see, the heroes, heroines and villains actually performing these stunts with their eyes. You don't have to take the word of an author for it; the movie actors furnish the Q. E. D.

So what is the use of contradicting facts that are universally recognized? Most of us meet and talk with several dozen persons every day, and we pass hundreds of others in the street. You observe the eyes of any of those persons you cannot fail to note that they reveal one or another mental or emotional state. The eyes are so full of information that they are glistening, wet, languid, mischievous, or what not, as the case may be. They also reflect boldness, timidity, self-assurance, diffidence, coquetry, and a variety of dominant temperamental attributes.

However, we are told that the eyes never behave in any such fashion, and we are forced to believe it. The eyes themselves are incapable of emotional change. Lovers are always having eyes "flash with rage" and all that sort of thing, and most of us are convinced that we have frequently seen eyes flash. But no rage or emotion of any sort can change the glistening of the eye. The flashing or glistening of the eye depends wholly upon reflected light. That light is reflected from two places, the pupil and the white, and neither can be brightened or governed by the mental or emotional state. The effect of the changing expressions of the eye is really given by the various flexing of the muscles in the flesh surrounding the eye and by the eyelids. The flashing effect is undoubtedly produced by a wide opening of the lids, which exposes more of the white for light reflection. In a "winking" eye it is not the eye but the lids and the surrounding muscles that really twinkle. As a matter of fact, a first-class glass eye would appear to be just as expressive emotionally as a natural eye.—E. H. Young, in Providence Journal.

This Bug Has a Cow's Face.
You would perhaps not notice this cowlike face and fur collar unless you should use a pocket lens, which every scout should have. The you will find the monochamus or Sawyer beetle extremely interesting, says Edward F. Bigelow, scout naturalist, discussing this "curious insect in Boys' Life." These beautiful, brown and gray beetles are including the antennae, about an inch and a quarter long. The antennae or feelers are as long as the body in the case of the female and twice as long in the male.

When shall you look for these curious beetles? Search among the needle-like leaves of the pine and fir. The larvae are found in the sound wood of these trees. Sometimes the mature beetles occur in such numbers as to do real injury to the trees, but ordinarily they are not very plentiful, and most scouts are not familiar with them, even where they are fairly abundant.

AND WATER IS CHEAP, TOO!

The Digby Depot
The Digby Depot
To the Editor of the Courier:
Six—Will you kindly give me a few lines of your valuable space to refer to a matter of great interest to the travelling public and which will be increasing as the hot weather comes on. It is the water supply at the depot to which I allude. Knowing the importance of the search for whisky would be the travellers look for a tap with refreshing drinker's water and a place to rinse the hands at the depot. The water supply is so scanty that the dust and grime of travel. Such refreshment helps over the tedious waiting spot. Only the initiated however are able to discover these commodities. It was only after years of travel that I secured the information which I freely pass on to others. There are two sources of supply open to the public, the first which I discovered some years ago was in a neighboring stable and I can vouch for the water. Unfortunately today the stable was locked and after a diligent search I discovered in the kitchen of the depot restaurant the refreshing beverage. I shall never forget the kindness of the lady who left her counter and secured me the water to day. It tasted even better than the whiskey of the olden days. To rinse the hands and face washed of their travel stains is another and simple matter. The present low rates with which our generous railroad authorities favor the public are fortunately sufficient to provide wash water in the same abundance it does the drinking water. The wash basin and faucet is unfortunately is camouflaged from the innocent public by the Royal Bank and Post Office. I persevered and found it behind the kitchen of the depot. When once the dusty traveller has discovered it, he feels that no end of praise is to be given to the energy and good will of the kind and friendly ladies who have taken to accommodate their patrons at the same low tariff schedule above mentioned. Thanking you for space Mr. Editor.
One of the Dusty Travellers.

What It Means To Be "Cashiered"

Many people read with interest recently the decisions given in the court martial at St. John, especially that reference to Lt. Col. McAvity, who was cashiered. Only a few of those who read the news could tell what "cashiered" means. "Cashiering" prevents the officer cashiered from re-entering the military service of his country in any capacity. During the war just ended there have been some instances of exceptions to this rule on account of exceptional services rendered an assumed name or in an allied army. Dismissal from the service is slightly milder than cashiering but prevents the dismissed officer from ever resuming commissioned rank. A reprimand will always stand against the military record of an officer. The reduction to the ranks of a warrant officer amounts to the loss of all commissions which he has received in military life and always will stand against his future progress.

RECEPTION

Last Thursday afternoon a pleasant time, one which will long be remembered, was spent at the home of Mrs. Annie Peters, Westport. Mrs. Peters invited the ladies of the Red Cross auxiliary, and the returned soldiers and their wives to tea with her and her two sons, Eustace and Eugene, who both served in the war. Over forty were present. Tea was served at 5:30. The dining room was prettily decorated with flags and flowers, and the tables were laden with all kinds of good things. The returned heroes and the President of the Red Cross, Mrs. E. O. Peters, presided at the table. The mothers of the soldier lads were seated at the first table. Everyone who partook of the tea praised the cooks who seemed to know just what the Red Cross needed. After tea all met in the parlors and Mrs. E. O. Peters read a tribute to Mrs. Peters for being the first to contribute to the Red Cross. She had borne their absence and said she must be a proud mother. Mrs. Arthur Peters spoke a few words of welcome to the ladies. Mrs. Peters read a poem composed by Mr. Bowers welcoming the boys home but there was news that the money had been broken. This was read by two women who gave their all. Mr. Edgar Peters and J. Corp. Peters, returned from the front. Mrs. E. O. Peters presided at the organ and the boys sang. The boys, led by Mrs. O. Peters, gave some trench songs which received great applause. Mrs. Peters, in his pleasing manner, thanked Mrs. Peters for her kindness and hospitality. Real Live Testimonials Given to Prof. Hamilton
Office on Birch street, Digby
Trusting this maybe a benefit and convince doubting ones who suffer. I cannot find words to express my thanks to Professor Hamilton for what has done for me. It is 20 years back that I felt the effects of that dreaded disease rheumatism in my hips and legs and Bright's disease of the kidneys. I tried doctors in the States and Canada and different remedies but failed to cure the disease. The doctor they could not cure me, but in vain the last five years I became a total cripple my legs dragged up and down joints stiff so that I could not move them nor use crutches and the last six months I could not lay down or sleep the pain being so severe in both legs that I could sit on a chair and suffer without a moment's rest. I gave up hopes my wife and friends expecting me to die at any moment. So, one day a friend called and told me to check up that there was a lot of people going to join together and see if the Professor would cure. I said send at once for I can't stand this pain much longer and don't want to take morphine. I wanted to die with my senses. So, on the arrival of the Professor I commenced treatment at once and all clearest. I felt I still had no hopes but after a fair treatment I felt an improvement and the pain 16 months the pains are gone and I can go to bed and have a good night's sleep. What a change, what a blessing to feel good once again. My legs are getting straight and I can walk some without crutches and do quite a lot of work each day. I am one among hundreds who can testify to the Professor's ability to cure rheumatism and Bright's disease. Anyone desiring to be cured should go to the Professor at Digby, N.S. C.P.R. EXHIBIT OF CANADIAN NATURAL RESOURCES AT WINDSOR STATION MONTREAL

Visualizing in a striking manner a large number of the diverse natural resources of Canada, the Canadian Pacific Railway has opened to the public an exhibit at the Windsor Street Station, Montreal. This exhibit, which is situated in a room immediately adjoining the main entrance to the station on Osborne Street, has been prepared by the collaboration of the Quebec Government and the C. P. R. One half comprises the Quebec exhibit, consisting of samples of the resources of the province—lumber, asbestos, and other minerals, grain, maple sugar, fur-bearing animals, such as the ermine, marten, mink, fox and beaver, and fish and game birds.

The C. P. R. exhibit has been gathered from the entire Dominion. A splendid display of grains produced in the fertile fields of Western Canada is a special feature. Supplementing this is a big collection of fruits, forestry products and minerals. A number of colored transparencies show the methods used in developing the forest resources of Canada, from the primary state to the finished product, such as wooden ships. Other transparencies illustrate some of the summer resorts along the company's lines. Complete and recent statistics of all the country's resources add conviction to the display. The exhibit is installed in handsome showcases, brilliantly lit, and it is interesting to know that all the material used in the construction room is exclusively Canadian.

WHERE THE RAILWAYS STAND

Canadian National Railways, Office of the President, Toronto, Ont., June 16th, 1919

TO ALL EMPLOYEES: In view of the action of the Federated Trades Schedule Committee ordering a cessation of work by shopmen on Canadian Railways on Wednesday next the 18th, it is hereby stated that those identified with Railway Service should be informed of the circumstances which led up to the present situation.

The Federation of Railway Shopmen in Canada claim to constitute Division No. 4, of the Railway Employees' Dept., American Federation of Labor, Divisions 1, 2, and 3 including the same trades in the United States. It is understood that the membership of the Canadian Division represents about ten per cent of the whole, ninety per cent of the membership being in the United States. The American Divisions applied to the United States Railroad Administration in the latter part of 1918 for certain concessions in respect to rates and working conditions, and negotiations have been proceeding since the first of the year, without so far as known, any threat of a cessation of work being made, although a final agreement has not yet been reached.

The Canadian Division presented substantially similar demands about April 1st and negotiations with the Canadian Railway War Board commenced about the 1st of May. During the ensuing negotiations certain points were tentatively agreed upon including the establishment of a straight eight-hour day and the Saturday half-holiday for the back-shop men. As a result of request for a definite statement on the part of the Railways, the War Board on June 9th delivered a letter to the Federated Trades Schedule Committee in which reference was made to the concession of the straight eight-hour day, together with Saturday half-holiday for back-shop men, and other points tentatively agreed upon and suggested that consideration of rates should be deferred until decision was reached in United States, subject to the understanding that rates finally agreed upon would be applicable from May 1st.

This Federated Trades Schedule Committee immediately replied rejecting this suggestion, demanding immediate consideration of rates, and threatening cessation of work unless this was done.

In connection with this correspondence, the Board stated its willingness to refer the questions in dispute to either Canadian Railway Board of Adjustment No. 1, or to a Board of Conciliation under the Lemieux Act, but the Committee has declined to accept either of these offers. It is therefore apparent the Committee, for reasons best known to themselves, do not desire to continue negotiations, and has positively closed all efforts towards a peaceful settlement.

In view of the fact that extraordinarily large increases were granted to Canadian Railway shopmen in 1918, involving the payment of many millions of dollars, the rates established being generally similar to those in the United States, it is obvious that Canadian Railways cannot consistently consider enormous additional increases until the conditions under which competing lines in the United States will operate are known. Attention is drawn to the fact that practically all other classes of labour on Canadian Railways have accepted the rates established in United States.

The fact that the Railway companies have offered two different methods of arbitrating the questions in dispute, namely by a Board of Conciliation under the Lemieux Act and the Canadian Railway Board of Adjustment No. 1 (this Board consisting of six labour representatives and six railway representatives) and that both have been refused by the Committee, the Committee also declining to await the decision in the United States notwithstanding the fact that 90 per cent of their members are interested in this award, which has been under consideration for sometime, seems to establish the Committee's position as being one of refusing to adopt peaceable means of settlement.

The drastic action contemplated must necessarily injure the interests of all concerned and bring about inconvenience and possible suffering to large numbers of innocent people who have no means whatever of controlling the situation. The Canadian Railways, generally, have recognized the principle of collective bargaining for many years, being practically pioneers in this respect and have no quarrel with Trades Unions, recognizing the right of employees to organize if they so desire.

The Canadian Railways have already recognized the 8 hour day for various classes of labour, and at an

Why Young Men Enter the Profession Will Remain a Mystery.

The average salary for preachers in 12 leading denominations is $774 a year. That's $2.12 a day.

The average preacher is married, most of them are raising children, feeding them, clothing them, buying medicine for them, sending them to school.

The average preacher works seven days a week.

He must wear good clothes; his wife must dress well; and his children cannot appear in tattered and torn rags.

The congregation insists that the preacher and his family must not display any sign of poverty and the preacher must wear the same always. He must have a cheery word for every man, woman and child he meets. He must not complain.

Once in a while a preacher quits the pulpit and takes another job—one that will leave something in his pay envelope after taking out the tolls of butcher, candlestick maker and baker. Then his congregation speaks of his "fall from grace" and he is branded as an outcast.

The preacher ought to preach. What right has he to "stew" and fret about shoes for his children, food for the table, and the declining years of his life?

And above all, the preacher should never mention his pay envelope, for his congregation has arrived at the conclusion that their pastor will reap his reward in the hereafter. No human being could desire a greater reward.

So the congregation distributes haloes, passes to paradise and reserved seats in heaven to its pastor. Having been thus generous in the matter of spiritual rewards, the members of the average congregation hand over about two cents a day which totals the munificent sum of $2.12 every 24 hours for the preacher.

You know, the average congregation imagines its pastor never would get to heaven unless it permitted him to preach to it each Sunday. That's the impression the preacher must receive every time he gets his lean pay envelope.

So he goes on preaching and praying for his employers and for everybody else under the sun. We suppose there are times when a preacher gets to pray for himself and preach to himself. Usually, though, the average preacher has his hands full preaching to and praying for his congregation.

When he's not preaching and praying he is visiting the sick and helpless, the aged and the backslider. Aside from these duties he has nothing else beyond attending to the lawn socials, the half dozen or so church societies, the boys and girls, the Sunday school, the choir, soliciting money for a new church roof; collecting for home and foreign missions; burying us and marrying us; baptizing us and converting us. Once in a while the average $2.12 congregation will permit its pastor to take exercise moving the church lawn, or sweeping snow off the sidewalk.

Truly is the laborer worthy of his "higher." The only trouble in the matter of the preacher's higher is that the congregation expects the Lord to pay about 88 per cent, of the "higher."

It is better to increase the contents of the preacher's pay envelope than to contribute for homes for aged pastors; and it is more pleasing to preachers to get regular-sized pay envelopes while they live than bronze tablets after they are dead.

early date in the present negotiations agreed to extend it to the shopmen. Therefore, these two important features do not enter into this case. It would appear in this instance that the action of the Federated Trades Schedule Committee was cancelled for and not in the best interests of their Organization or the Country at large.

The action of the Committee is most regrettable inasmuch as it must result in great loss of wages to workers generally and cause grave inconvenience to the public. In the interests of all concerned, including practically all classes of railway employees, it is sincerely hoped that better counsel prevail.

D. B. HANN, President.
