Welcome to the Digital DIGBY COURIER

100th Birthday

The hundredth anniversary of the Digby Weekly Courier has brought to mind some fond memories as contained in the following historical chapter of the writer. But first, I wish to congratulate the current editor of the Courier, Mrs. J.M. (Edith) Wallis, for a job well done over the years and still being well done, good service rendered with great fortitude.

According to any record, I have at hand, the Digby Courier, in one hundred years of publication, was controlled under the same family management for 42 years, 1931 to 1973, under the control of Wallis Print Limited. The late J.J. Wallis became editor of The Courier the second time, in 1929, and at the same time of the business, which he had been running for some time previously and which became Wallis Print Limited sometime between 1929 and 1931.

I well remember the last year of the twenties when I worked in the office of the son with the husband and father of the late J.J. Wallis, the Courier. Sometime in 1928 or early 1929, the late J.M. Wallis (Mac), son of "J.J." engaged me to work every day after school hours, Saturdays, and for some months after full time. The place of work was in the building of the present Digby town hall on First Avenue. J.J. Wallis then worked occasionally at the print shop but mostly across the street at the Courier office which was then located on land in the general area where The Royal Bank of Canada is now.

Wallis Job Print operated in 1929 with a staff of four consisting of J.J. Wallis, J.M. Wallis, Miss Eva Haynes, who later became Mrs. George Kicup, and myself. I was in the staff in early 1929.

Eva's job was in the left up-stairs. "J.J." occasionally printing plant but mostly at the Courier office. "Mac" worked nearly full time at all the different jobs at the Job Print, and I worked at various duties, most of the time being spent at operating printing presses.

We worked ten-hour days, six days a week. "J.J." and "Mac" sometimes worked overtime. I worked only the regular hours being paid a weekly wage which was comparatively good for those times and my lack of experience. I received four or five dollars a week for working after school hours to six o'clock and on Saturday all day, and nine dollars a week for full weeks after finishing school. A two or three dollar a week raise was offered to me in the fall of 1929 for me to stay on at printing, but I had made up my mind to enter a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, starting salary of $300. The bank salary figured out about the same per hour as for the printing job. Nevertheless, the congenial atmosphere of the printing plant those days, and, experience however short, were helpful and appreciated by me.

"J.J." was very jovial in his occasional trip to the Job Print and did considerable kidding all in good fun. "Mac" was a witty person who mixed in a good natured sarcasm now and then for one reason or another. Eva most always had good answers to all the kidding she was called upon to take, and, generally held her own in a quiet sort of way, always busy setting type. We four all got along very well indeed. However, I do remember that some days did seem long and weary because of the monotony of some repetitious jobs.

In spite of the great demand for printing those last boom days of the twenties, business generally being brisk, it looked to me that people had to work long and hard to make any decent profit. There was including treatment of the hands. However, nails and finger ends were used and I was soon back to work.

Now and then a printing job had a dose on parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad those days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would do that job on the largest press, in spite of the fact that we always opened an outside door to lessen the effects on the constitution.

One of the jobs I had to do, being the junior and printers' devil on the staff, was to clean up now and then. One day not long after I started my job at the printing plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily, he thought the remark pretty good and suitable.

Sometimes the gasoline engine or a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and after "Mac" the fix-it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results, "Mac" would then stand back and cuss quite strenuously, then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of cussing."

On other occasions when some gadget refused duty for me and, seemed to be broken, "Mac" would say, "use a little oil," and sure enough, often that is all it took. How often since, have I thought of the value of that remark and the actual need of "oil" in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and, in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1929 got together just before dark one evening and decided to initiate the newly built outdoor Pines Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just east of the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys; no thought or time for bathing suits up to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in, the rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korean), was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent druggist for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale lobster king merchant; and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me "how about writing your version of the story told about 'The Marooning of Jerome'." I had heard and read at least two somewhat different stories about the man who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Digby County. When found this man's tongue had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and possibly of some considerable wealth. However the only thing the man could or would ever say after being found and cared for by some family in the French shore was, something that sounded like the word "Jerome". He either could not, or, would not, write anything about who he was or why he was left the way he was. Well, it was, and is, one of Digby County's mystery stories, and, different ideas have been expressed over the years concerning this man. However my response to "Mac" was, I felt no urge to write anything more or different about this man. The mystery seemed to have been very well explored in the mind of many people, and, he was a sort of curiosity for many people who visited where he lived for many years.

Three years later I was quite a bit older and was in the street that I lived back and forth, I had a boat clanking noise, powered by a small engine, and I was a "plur", and as I remember it, I was a "plur". "J.J." was noted for his sense of humor and his sense of humor.

Years ago, during the time Mr. Wallis was editor of the Scott Act (Prohibition Law) in the town of Digby, I attended a boys' conference in the town of Digby.

Digby 172 Years Ago

Compiled by David Sanford

From the files of the Courier of January 23, 1867, the following account has been copied concerning Digby in 1800.

"Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us by friends is a copy of the Saint John Gazette of May, 1802, says the Telegraph and among other advertisements contained in the issue before us is one describing the town and township of Digby, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this area we are told the township of Digby extends from the Gulf of Annapolis westward to the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 130,000 acres." The town plot is thus described:

"The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1783, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to older countries, left the whole side to be bought proved by about who now reside detached, built dwellings with orchards, and some fishery and. It has communal parts of the communal provisions in a cheap, built readily to be from many circumstances, probability of place of some shipbuilding, the West India a cheap and of residence.

This advertisement, dated at Digby, December, 1802, were to be a No. 100.

free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of which was some Digby's daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Melvin O. Tibert, Freeport, Digby Co.) Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters; I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print". I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like: embossing, stapling, perforating, counting, cutting and trimming paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, but, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "pi", the printers name for a confused mess.

There was a taste of trying to sell job printing outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls around town, spent most of the time at one particular house, and got an order, but,

Largest Canadian Atlantic Ship

THE EMPRESS OF SCOTLAND.
The largest liner ever assigned to the St. Lawrence route is soon to make her initial appearance at Quebec according to announcements made by the C. P. R. This steamer is their newly acquired liner the Empress of Scotland, formerly the German liner Kaiserin Augusta Victoria and she is expected to arrive at Quebec during the first week in August. The C. P. R. purchased this liner from the British government last winter when it was seen that the company's own steamers, which are now being built in England, would not be ready this season on account of the delay arising from the big strike in the ship yards there. The Empress of Scotland is of 25,000 gross tons. The liner ran after the armistice, under the Canadian house flag from Liverpool to New York. She is a first, second and third class carrier with luxurious cabin equipment. The liner was built in 1905 and was especially designed for the New York service. The Empress of Scotland will make her first sailing from Quebec on August 11. The new liner is the largest in the Canadian Atlantic service. Her dimensions are: Length, 700 feet, breadth, 77 feet, and draft of water, 34 feet.

THE "TEN DEMANDMENTS"

A big business firm in Western Canada has hung in a conspicuous place in its works the following "Ten Demands" for the benefit of its employees. They are surely worth repeating:

1. Don't lie. It wastes my time and yours. I am sure to catch you in the end, and that is the wrong end.
2. Watch your work, not the clock. A long day's work makes a long day short, and a short day's work makes my face long.
3. Give me more than I expect and I will give you more than you expect. I can afford to increase your pay if you increase my profits.
4. You owe so much to yourself you cannot afford to owe anybody else. Keep out of debt, or keep out of my shop.
5. Dishonesty is never an accident. Good men, like good women, never see temptation when they meet it.
6. Mind you own business and in time you'll have a business of your own to mind.
7. Don't do anything here which hurts your self-respect. An employee who is willing to steal for me is willing to steal from me.
8. It is none of my business what you do at night. But if dissipation affects what you do the next day, and you do half as much as I demand, you'll last half as long as you hoped.
9. Don't tell me what I'd like to hear, but what I ought to hear. I don't want a valet to my vanity, but one for my dollars.
10. Don't kick if I kick. If you're worth correcting you're worth while keeping. I don't waste time cutting specks out of rotten apples.—American Boy.

KARSDALE

Mrs. John R. Covert celebrated her seventy-ninth birthday on Friday last. She received the congratulations of many friends and entertained several of her lady friends at a birthday party. When Mrs. Covert and her guests were ushered into the dining-room, a birthday cake containing seventy-nine candles all lighted greeted their eyes. The party stood and sang "Hail to the Chief" and "God Blessings Flow", as the candles burned. Mrs. Covert, though not in robust health was able to entertain her guests and enjoyed everything to the full.

GERMAN FREEMASONS

Demand Allied Recognition and Dictate Terms Therefor

(London Times.)

A prominent German Freemason has issued a manifesto setting forth the terms on which German Freemasonry will accept recognition from other Masonic bodies. In the document in question the following paragraph occurs:

"We, German Masons, are equally in favor of reunion. But we do not want to be excluded from universal Masonry. Let no one presume to set us upon the penitent stool and make us depend on other people's favor, either from the Masonic point of view or any other. We have our German dignity and we do not puff ourselves up. But we must have equality and tolerance, and we insist upon being recognized. True tolerance includes esteem."

The document concludes with the following: "Freemasonry must not be infested with politics. We, German Freemasons, also discuss in our lodges questions of present day politics—did we not we should impoverish ourselves intellectually—but we consider these problems only from the Masonic point of view, our aim is always the moral solution. It is thus that we teach social ethics and social pedagogy. We wish to undertake the Masonic education of the Germans, as Lessing had exhorted us to do. And I believe that after this war we shall at last reach a true Masonic entente."

This manifesto seems the more impudent in view of the fact that the boycott was begun by the German lodges. It was in the early months of the war that the various German grand lodges, which are directed in matters of policy by a Central Bund, decided to hold no intercourse with Allied Freemasons. The Grand Orients of France and Belgium promptly took up the challenge, while the United Grand Lodge of England resolved "that, in order to prevent the peace and harmony of the craft being disturbed, it is necessary that all brethren of German, Austrian, Hungarian or Turkish birth should not, during the continuance of the war, and until Grand Lodge, after the treaty of peace has been signed, should otherwise determine, attend any meeting of the Grand Lodge, or of a private lodge, or any other Masonic meeting, and that such brethren be, and they are hereby, required by Grand Lodge to abstain from such attendance." This regulation remains in force.

Few people realize that the human heart is a marvelous pumping engine. Its work, from a man's cradle to his grave, is incessant and stupendous. Every single minute this wonderful engine pumps 7500 cubic inches of blood. This means that the heart pumps over 225,000 cubic feet of blood every year.

Digby, July 1st 1921

MASONIC PARADE AT ANNAPOLIS

Members of the Order Attended Service in St. Luke's Church.

There was a large Masonic gathering at Annapolis on Sunday, the occasion being the celebration of St. John the Baptist's Day (one of the patron saints of Masonry). Annapolis Royal Lodge turned out in body, and a large representation was present from Ionia Lodge, Middleton; Rothwell Lodge, Bridgetown; Keith Lodge, Bear River; and King Solomon Lodge, Digby. A procession was formed at the Masonic Temple for church services, headed by the Annapolis Royal Band, marched to St. Luke's Anglican Church, where an altar discourse was delivered by the Most Worshipful Bro. J. C. Mellor, Past Grand Chaplain, from the text, in "First Peter, 2nd chapter, 17th verse. Honor all men, love the Brethren." There was a large congregation present, and the church choir rendered special music. In the procession were Dr. Russell Wilkes, of St. John's Lodge, New York, and Brother W. H. Weldon, of New Jersey.

A FINE YACHT.

A beautiful specimen of marine architecture was put afloat in Digby a few days ago, namely the yacht Tetra, owned by E. P. Morris, of New Haven, Conn., and built by Evan Dunn, at the Racquette. Mr. Morris designed her himself and gave the order for her construction in September, 1919. Considerable difficulty was experienced in getting the proper material and actual work was not started until the spring of 1920. During that summer Mr. Morris and Mr. Dunn, working together, got the boat well advanced. In May of this year Mr. Morris arrived from New Haven and assisted in finishing her. The Tetra is keel rigged, and measures 35 feet over all, 30 feet water line, 12 feet beam and has a draft of 6 feet 2 inches. There are 27.00 pounds of iron in her keel and she will spread 1000 square feet of sail. There is not an inch of waste room on board. It cost him only $895. R.O.B. Oshawa, Ontario, equipped with electric starter and lighting, one man top of genuine fabric, ventilating windshield, demountable rims, non-flare head lights, Stewart transmission, driver's speedometer, Willard rubber threaded battery, oil gauge, four non-skid tires, tire carrier, complete tool equipment and vacuum head motor.

The dealer proved to him its running advantages over many cars of similar weight and lighting, one man top of genuine fabric, ventilating windshield, demountable rims, non-flare head lights, Stewart transmission, driver's speedometer, Willard rubber threaded battery, oil gauge, four non-skid tires, tire carrier, complete tool equipment and vacuum head motor.

A new tire would cost him only $23.55 and, if he required parts for his motor at any time, he knew the dealer could give him direct service with his factory. Within twenty-four hours, should the necessary parts be out of stock. He knew the dealer in a town of 1,200 like Digby had to carry a stock of parts at all times.

He knew his entire car, including the motor, was made in Canada, and in buying one of Canada's Standard cars he was aiding in re-establishing the exchange rate.

Should an accident occur for his car he knew that Chevrolet service could be had anywhere, because in the season of 1920, the Chevrolet car had come to the fore so fast as to eclipse the record of any other firm on the point of production in Canada, and that behind this car was the strongest industrial organization in the motor world, "General Motors."

He had only to look at the car to realize its beauty of construction and its sturdiness. Its baked enamel finish precluded any possibility of the finish of his car becoming shabby within a few weeks. He knew he was buying something "a little better" at the REMARKABLY LOW PRICE OF

He knew that at this price he was buying a car unequalled in power, construction, appearance, convenience, material, economy, dependability, comfort, design and endurance, by few cars anywhere near the price. A car after design of the larger models, not built down to a price, sacrificing quality, and therefore durability. For these and many other reasons he bought a Chevrolet.

LETTER FROM CARREL CLARKE

Dear Bear River Readers:

From the Courier that reached me some time ago I did not know the Editor was good enough to publish the letter that I wrote. So I will send another to help keep you in touch with this part of the west.

Sony Plain also boasts a paper known as the "Sunny Plain Star" which is published every Thursday.

The season here is rather back ward this year but nothing prevents our crops from being successful. The crops are promising to be larger than they have for a number of years.

Some little hail has fallen but the damage done has been limited to a few fields and on the whole has been slight.

The Department of Examinations here have today and finish June 24th after which I hope to start back to see you people a few weeks. As far as the school goes here this year has been successful for me. Although I only arrived here April 15th the school board has appointed me Principal and offered me the position of Principal for next year.

From McGowan I heard that Mr. Thibault is leaving next year. What are you doing for a Principal next year? It is a wonder that the teachers stay in the schools in the Maritime Provinces working under adverse conditions in many cases, and in some cases in the worst of the latter school districts.

The salary schedule raised there can be little hope of a high educational standard being the position of teacher is not remunerative enough to attract first class men and women.

Eggs are 20 cents per dozen and butter is 15 cents per lb. here. Can you get these prices in Bear River?

Trusting I may see most of you in the near future.

Very truly,
CARREL CLARKE

LAKE JOLLY MEN HELP COMRADE

Last Tuesday, Edith Acker, head cook at Lake Jolly Camp, was taken to hospital with appendicitis and it became apparent that an operation was necessary for him.

When this became known among the Lake Jolly men, they immediately started to help defray the expenses of their unfortunate comrade, and in a short time a sum of $20.00 was raised and presented to him.

The "invalid" was then put in a bed and the best of the time spent in the hospital. A distance of fifteen miles where he was put on the train for Halifax.

Robert Smith, Superintendent at Lake Jolly, was in charge of the party, and the assistance they rendered to Acker cannot be too highly commended.

The General Hospital states that the patient is being splendidly and should be able again within two or three weeks.

EDWARD JAGGAR
Edward Jaggar, brother of the late Bishop Jaggar, died suddenly at an o'clock Friday morning at the summer residence of his niece, Mrs. A. Louise Jaggar at St. John's.

Mr. Jaggar was unmarried, and has lived for many years in Washington, D. C., near the latter's residence.

The death of the latter one in Washington, which broke up the home in Washington, was a great loss to the family.

His family resided at St. John's, N. S., and he was a member of the St. John's Anglican Church.

Mr. Jaggar was a native of New York City. He was born in 1845. He was a business in New York for a number of years, at first with his father, Walter Jaggar of Flushing, Long Island.

Later he moved to Washington. He was a man of wide cultivation and literary taste, and had travelled much both in his own country and in Europe. He also had a great deal of musical talent, and at one time gave much attention to the piano.

He spent many winters in Nova Scotia with his brother, Bishop Jaggar, when the latter was living in St. John's.

It is expected that some of his family will soon arrive to join Miss Jaggar at Kellogg Lodge for the summer.

Mr. Jaggar was a high esteem by the people of the community, and many friends among the summer visitors.

Weather bureau figures goes to show that the windiest place in the United States is Point Reyes, Calif.

TORTURED BY TERRIBLE ECZEMA

Suffered Three Years Until She Tried "FRUITA" CREAM

"I think it my duty to tell you how much your medicine has done for me. I suffered for three years with terrible Eczema. I consulted several doctors and they did not do me any good."

"Then, I used one box of 'Sootha-Salva' and two boxes of 'Fruita-Salva' and my hands are now clear. The pain is gone and there has been no return. I think it is a marvellous cure because no other medicine did me any good and I tried all the remedies I ever heard of, without benefit until I used 'Sootha-Salva' and 'Fruita-Salva'."

"Fruita-Salva" cooled the blood and removed the cause of the disease, and 'Sootha-Salva' completed the cure."

PUNISHED BY PARALYSIS FOR A SACRILEGIOUS ACT

Italian Youth Rubbed Dog's Muzzle Against Statue of Virgin—Physicians Helped Him, but He's Barking Now and Acting Queerly.

A remarkable story of how a sacrilegious Italian was punished for his sin—an account which, it is said, has been verified by both French and Italian doctors and priests—has just reached Paris from the frontier.

While walking near Grespiana, Italy, with a friend and his dog recently a youth 19 years old passed a statue of the Virgin in a roadside shrine. His friend saluted respectfully, but the youth took his dog by the collar and rubbed the animal's muzzle against the statue. Instantly he became paralyzed in both extremities.

The youth was taken to his home and physicians were called in. After working over him for three days they succeeded in restoring his movements, but then a new phenomenon appeared and the boy began to bark like a dog day and night. Whether this is a peculiar type of auto-suggestion or a divine punishment, as is asserted by the priests, is not known, but physicians have been unable to cure the youth and have recommended that he be taken to a hospital for the insane for treatment.

The villagers are more reverent now than before when passing the shrine, but they s'rupulously avoid passing the victim's cottage without crossing themselves devoutly.

A Ghost Story of Digby

Written for the Atlantic Leader, of Halifax, by Beatrice M. Hay Shaw

The last story which can find space this week is of an entirely different type to any which I have previously recorded.

Some years ago a certain man by name Henry Morgan, for the purpose of the story, was a murderer—a woman had been killed on a highroad and suspicion had attached itself to this particular man. The trial took place in Digby, and although the man strenuously denied his guilt he was generally believed to be the culprit, and public opinion was strongly against him.

One of the ablest lawyers in Nova Scotia defended Morgan, but at the close of the trial the jury, after only half an hour's deliberation, found a verdict of guilty.

The presiding judge, adjusting the black cap on his head, and before pronouncing sentence of execution, put the stereotyped question to the prisoner as to whether he had anything to say as to why sentence of death should not be passed on him.

The prisoner made no reply, but merely fixed his eyes with an angry scowl upon the judge, who immediately uttered the words condemning Morgan to be hanged at three o'clock on the morning of Wednesday, July 4th.

When the door of the dock was opened and the constables waited to conduct the doomed man back to his cell, Morgan suddenly raised one of his shackled hands:

"Wait!" he cried, and turning to the judge, continued:

"An innocent of the crime you intend to hang me for, and if you carry out the sentence you will commit murder. I have not had a fair trial, both you and the jury were prejudiced against me. As true as there is a God in Heaven you will suffer for it. I swear that from the moment I die on the scaffold my spirit will haunt you until you will be glad to die yourself, and turning to the foreman of the jury 'you will die too'."

The constables hustled him away, and the judge together with every one else present thought no more about the matter putting down Morgan's threats as merely the last outbreak of helpless rebellion against the punishment he had, in their opinion richly deserved.

On the day when Morgan was executed the judge who had condemned him to hang in Halifax. He stated that he was awakened about three o'clock in the morning by the sound of something falling in his room—at once the thought flashed into his mind that this was the day and hour set for Morgan's execution, and at the same moment he saw the condemned man advancing towards his bedside.

Morgan's hands were tied behind his back and his feet were bound together. The white cap was drawn over his head and he wore a rope round his neck. As the judge rose up with the intention of accosting the vision the thing uttering a muffled laugh, and vanished.

He appeared again the following night, and this time the judge tried to catch him, but again he vanished with the same horrible laugh. Thoroughly frightened the judge determined to tell his man servants about the strange occurrence and though the man was openly sceptical as to the reality of the apparition, he offered to sleep in the judge's room. He did so and Morgan again appeared at the bedside but the man saw nothing. Before the end of the month, however, the people of Nova Scotia were startled and shocked to read a paragraph in the newspapers to the effect that Mr. Justice S. had committed suicide by drowning himself off Fisher's Bridge.

The foreman of the jury had become apprehensive as the date of execution of Morgan drew near, and desiring to remove himself further from the scene he went to Boston. But the apparition appeared to him there exactly as it had appeared to the judge in Halifax, and the man became nearly insane from terror.

He sold his property in Nova Scotia and left for England, but on the way there he put an end to his sufferings by shooting himself in his cabin.

Now comes the climax to the story.

About three years after the death of the foreman of the jury a man was picked up in the streets of New York in an apparently dying condition. He was taken to the city hospital, and after examination was told that he had but a short time to live. He was asked if there was anybody he wished to see and immediately requested that a clergyman be sent for. On the arrival of the priest he begged the dying man asked him to write a confession for him to the effect that he had allowed an innocent man to suffer death for a crime of his committing, and dictated the story of the murder for which Morgan had been hanged in his place.

The first Masonic funeral that ever took place in California occurred in the year 1849, and was performed over the body of a brother found drowned in the bay of San Francisco. An account of the ceremony states that upon the body of the deceased was found a silver mark of a Mark Master, upon which were engraved the initials of his name. A little further investigation revealed to the beholders the most outre exhibition of Masonic emblems that were ever drawn by a man of man on human skin. There is nothing in the history or traditions of Freemasonry equal to it. Beautifully dotted on his left arm in red and blue ink, which time could not efface, appeared all the emblems of the entered apprentice. These were the Holy Bible, the square and compass, the twenty-four inch gauge and the common gavel. There were also the Masonic pavement representing the ground floor of King Solomon's temple, the masonic vessel which surrounds it, and the blazing star, the centre of architecture—the Tuscan, Doric, Ionic, Corinthian and Composite.

In removing the garments from his body, the trowel presented itself, with all the other working tools of operative masonry, besides all the emblems peculiar to the degree of master mason. Conspicuously on his breast were the great light of masonry. Over his heart was the pot of incense. On the other parts of his person were the bee-hive, the book of constitutions, guarded by the tiler's sword, the sword pointing to a naked heart; the all-seeing eye; the anchor and ark, the hour glass, the scythe, the forty-seventh problem of Euclid; the sun, moon, stars and

In her left hand she held the pot of incense, the Masonic emblem of a pure heart, and in her uplifted right hand a sprig of acacia, the beautiful emblem of immortality and the great light of masonry. Over his heart was the pot of incense. On the other parts of his person were the bee-hive, the book of constitutions, guarded by the tiler's sword, the sword pointing to a naked heart; the all-seeing eye; the anchor and ark, the hour glass, the scythe, the forty-seventh problem of Euclid; the sun, moon, stars and

KEEP THE TOWN CLEAN HAVE CIVIC PRIDE

Every Merchant Should Make It a Point to See That The Sidewalk and Street in Front of His Place of Business Is Kept Neat and Clean.

The street men are busy these days under the supervision of the superintendent of streets, G. A. Vye, and a marked improvement is noticeable. However, keeping a town clean is a matter of individual co-operation. Civic Clean-up days are all right and most commendable, but unless the citizens constitute themselves into a permanent follow-up committee the effort of the town fathers is rendered fruitless. It may be said by some that a town clean for a day or a week is better than a town never clean, but so perverse are human things, as well as animate people, the week or the day that the town is not clean is the time a rule that it has the most disastrous effect. Any house-keeper will tell you how it is. On the other hand there is something senseless in the attitude of mind that allows the accumulation of rubbish to continue the very hour almost that previous unsightly collections have been removed.

There is a need for an accumulation of rubbish, at any time. The removal of ashes and the wastage of household is not an expensive matter, and suitable dumping places are provided by the town. A great deal of waste paper is allowed to litter the town streets is the result of indifference to the care of appearance of the town. For instance the town has placed large garbage cans in several places for the receiving of waste paper, but the majority of people apparently prefer to throw waste paper wherever they can, instead of moving a few steps to take it advantage of one of the receptacles which has been provided by the town.

It is usually an act of thoughtlessness or indifference, never a desire to produce a condition that would result in condemning the town as unclean or untidy. Nature has done very much to make Digby a beautiful place to live in and our citizens should be a little more energetic in adding to the natural beauty by taking civic pride in the appearance of its streets and surroundings.

If each merchant in the business section of the town would make it a rule to see that the sidewalk and street opposite his place of business were cleaned up every morning, it would not be a very heavy task and would produce results that would be very beneficial to all concerned, and make a brighter and cleaner town.

It is a problem in all towns, that of keeping the streets free from the accumulation of refuse, the result of daily living and moving. Practically the question of sanitary cleanliness has been grasped, and is fairly dealt with, but the matter of tidiness is one that presents difficulties, and will continue to do so until every citizen realizes that an untidy or an unsightly town is as much the concern of the individual as it is of the Board of Health and Town Council. Civic bodies do their part but the failure to obtain results is due to lack of co-operation.

During the coming three months Digby will have many visitors. Let us all "snug" up and prepare for them.

THE SCHOOLS PRESENT DAY DANGER

Professor of Social Ethics in Boston College Thinks That "Educational Caesarism" Threatened United States Schools—A Similar Evil Seems to Threaten Sections of Canada.

The Boston Globe, speaking of the lecture given by Professor Corrigan, Professor of Social Ethics in Boston College, says educational Caesarism threatens them.

The following are extracts from the Globe's report of the lecture: "Speaking before a capacity audience of masters and teachers of Greater Boston in Boston College High School, Prof. J. J. Corrigan, professor of social ethics at Boston college, declared that educational Caesarism threatened the American schools, and that the loss of parental control over the education of the young cannot but work evil to the future of the country."

"Professional educators he declared, are striving to effect an extension of their power over the schools. As a matter of fact, the schools already have got too far away from parental control."

"He contended that the professional educator is the last man in the world to be entrusted with the important task of education of the young."

"Recently it was asserted in a public educational conference that the state should take the children and educate them rather than the parents whose children they accidentally happened to be."

"That statement is communistic and pagan. It shows how far some of our public educators are ready to go in their enroachments upon the inalienable rights of parents to educate their own children."

"It is time that these professional educators were brought up with a short turn, and made to realize that they are responsible to the parents of the children, and do not educate in their own right but as the agents of the parents whose rights in the matter cannot be alienated, transferred or divested."

"Every standard writer on the subject of either law or morals from Bouvier to Chancellor Kent and Blackstone proclaims with the voice that to the parents belong the duty by rights, and increase criminally just in proportion as it weakened the influence of the home."

"Home rule and strengthened local control of the schools is the need of the hour. This question of the control of the schools is the question that vitally affects every home in the land."

Is it not a fact, that "educational Caesarism" is too much in evidence in some parts of Canada? A great many persons think so, anyway.

Young Mrs. Beecroft Had Miserable Time Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Hamilton, Ont.—"I have suffered for three years from a female trouble and consequent weakness, pain and irregularity which kept me in bed four or five days each month. I nearly went crazy with pain in my back and for about a week at a time could not do my work. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the Hamilton Spectator and I took it. Now I have no pain and am quite regular unless I overwork or stay on my feet from early morning until late at night. I keep house and do all my own work without any trouble. I have recommended the Compound to several friends. — Mrs. Emily Beecroft, 209 Victoria Ave. N., Hamilton, Ontario.

For forty years women have been telling how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored their health when suffering with female ailments. This accounts for the enormous demand for it from coast to coast. If you are troubled with such ailments, get the Compound. It is made from native roots and herbs and contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

For special advice women are asked to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of forty years experience is at your service.

CATERPILLARS DOING MUCH DAMAGE

Many Trees in Digby and Vicinity Have Been Stripped by The Invaders.—A Leading Entomologist Gives Interesting Information Regarding The Pests.

Nova Scotia is up against trouble with the "tent caterpillar" and one of the leading entomologists of the province has the following to say regarding the pest:

"When numerous they frequently strip whole trees, then descend in an army and treat adjoining trees in a similar manner. The caterpillars are mature in about a month after hatching and spin their silken cocoons in curled leaves or other sheltered situations. After remaining in this state for about three weeks, the adults will emerge as small brown moths, with two dark bands across the front wings. These moths often fly in the windows at night, being attracted by the light. The moths lay their eggs in masses of 150 to 400 in the form of a ring around the twigs, being covered with a grayish froth.

Orchards that are regularly sprayed have little to fear from this pest, but where special measures are necessary, spraying with arsenate of lead should be resorted to. A strength of 2 lbs. to 40 gallons of the dry form, or 1 lb. to 40 gallons of the dry form is sufficient for the newly hatched caterpillars, but double this strength or even stronger should be used after they are half grown or more. To prevent possibly injury to the foliage from this strong spray, an equal quantity of hydrated or water-slaked lime should be added to the spray. To protect uninfested trees from caterpillars migrating from nearby forest or orchard trees, banding with tree tanglefoot is the accepted remedy.

A related insect, the orchard tent caterpillar, distinguished from the former by its habit of making a tent in the fork of a limb and in appearance by a yellow stripe down the back in place of the row of spots, is also much in evidence this season. It may be destroyed in a similar manner or by cutting out and burning the tents, or by burning out with a torch when all the caterpillars are inside.

The "canker worm," a looping caterpillar, at first green in color, later turning to black, is also the cause of much complaint some seasons. Not only has it stripped many orchards of their leaves, but also such wild trees as oaks and maples. Light infestations are easy to handle if taken in time, 2 pounds of arsenate of lead to 40 gallons being sufficient in such cases. If supplied before the blossoms open. In cases of heavy infestations or when not taken in time, 4 or even 5 pounds to 40 gallons must be used.

Such outbreaks as the foregoing are liable to occur until spraying with poison becomes a part of the regular farm practice. Arsenate of lead is the safest poison for general purposes. The cheapest at present is arsenate of lime, which, however should not be used alone on apple foliage, but only in conjunction with Bordeaux mixture or with five times its weight of water slaked or hydrated lime. Arsenate of lime can be safely used on potatoes or other truck crops. Farmers in outlying districts should get their local dealers to keep these poisons. Paris-green is not recommended for use on fruit trees.

REMARKABLE PROPHECY WHICH CAME TRUE

The Courier has been asked to reprint the following from its own columns, published about the time of the coronation of King George. In the light of the history of the past few years it is very interesting. "A Boston despatch says: That the United States may in the future federate with the British empire and that the power that will come the fulfillment of the Abrahamic covenant, by the formation of the universal Anglo-Saxon empire," was the thought expressed by the Rev. William Hyde, of Trinity Episcopal church, Weymouth, Mass., at that church yesterday morning.

The rector illustrated his sermon with two large charts that showed the royal genealogy. Mr. Hyde, as a part of the service, read in addition to the regular Episcopal service, prayers from the coronation service and the English prayer book. These being for the king, the country, and the royal family.

"The coronation ought to be of great interest to us," said Mr. Hyde. "We may think of kings and emperors in a very ordinary way, but that is not the case. A king who is the ruler of the great empire the world has ever seen. Surely, the coronation of the ruler of such an empire is of interest, to us, for without that nation we ourselves could hardly exist. More than half of all we produce pours into the markets of that empire, and we are bound to her by laws, civilization, literature, commerce, trade and family relationship as we are bound to no other nation on earth.

Another reason why this coronation should be of interest to us is the ancestry of King George. He is a member of the royal house of Judah, as he is a descendant of King David of Israel, and so of Judah himself God said:

"(Gen. xix:10) 'The sceptre shall not depart from Judah, until Shiloh come, and unto him shall the gathering of the people be.' This God said that He would establish the throne of David forever, and that David would never cease to have a descendant. It is upon the throne of George V. is a fulfillment of the words; for he is a descendant of David and he sits upon the throne of Israel. Great Britain is the Israel of the prophets and her people are the descendants of the Ten-Tribed Kingdom of Israel, supposed to be lost among the mountains of the Medes, while the Jews that exist today are the descendants of the other kingdom, that of Judah."

Mr. Hyde quoted authorities to support his assertion that George V. is a descendant of David, of whom in 1875, according to Julius Oppert, there were more than 1,000,000 living.

After reviewing English history and describing the political situation in the empire to-day, Mr. Hyde declared that "the destruction of the British empire means the destruction will follow. Germany has shown her hatred for us many times."

"She may pretend a different feeling, but the hatred is there just the same. She has on several occasions cast long eyes on South America for colonies, and only the Monroe doctrine prevented her from seizing some of them, and she hated us because of it. During the Spanish-American war she tried to form a European coalition against us but was unable to do so because of the aid taken by Great Britain and Russia was lukewarm. We cannot forget that scene in Manila Bay.

"With Japan in the west and Germany in the east, the stars and stripes may fare badly, and for our own preservation we may be forced into an alliance with Great Britain, and thus God's plans with reference to Ephraim and Manasseh may soon be carried out. Ephraim is represented in Great Britain to-day, and Manasseh is represented in the United States."

A novel display took place at the recent marriage in London of a young society belle and a captain in the royal navy. As the couple left the church after the ceremony they passed down an avenue of swords held by the bridegroom's brother officers. On the lawn in front of the church had been placed an old time wooden battleship, from which, as the bride couple stepped into their motor car, was fired a salute from miniature guns.

In the early days of the industry there was a violent prejudice against coal in many quarters. Even Queen Elizabeth, so broad-minded in many things, could not get rid of the idea that coal was bad for the health of the country, and whenever the country gentlemen came up to London for the sittings of parliament no one in the city was permitted to light a coal fire.

NEW DAIRY REGULATIONS IN NOVA SCOTIA

The new regulations for the Province of Nova Scotia, recently passed by the Governor-in-Council, respecting cream tests at creameries, came into effect on the first of June. An outline of the new provisions has already been given to the Press, but many interested parties may have passed them over, or missed their full significance. Briefly put they are as follows:

All samples for testing at the creameries must be held at least fifteen days after testing is completed, and all such samples are subject to a retest by an inspector. Any patron who is dissatisfied may demand his own sample and have it re-tested.

The underlying principle is the protection of the producer. The new law places the responsibility on the patron himself. He has the means at hand for satisfying himself that he is being justly dealt with.

The result should be a growing confidence between creamery management and patrons. Copies of the regulations in full may be obtained at the Dairy Office, Department of Agriculture, Truro.

BENEFICIAL EFFECTS OF SCHOOL FAIRS

School fairs are to the boys and girls of the land what the larger fairs are to adults. By this time they should be thoroughly organized and programmes of proceedings prepared, the two indeed given in one publication. These fairs increase in number every year and are proving of inestimable value in the agricultural education of the young and even in beneficially influencing the more mature. Of course boys and girls clubs are the principal feeders of the fairs, but entries are usually accepted from children who are not members of any such organization. Agricultural Representatives all testify to the splendid effect the fairs are having upon farm life and agricultural pursuits generally. One, for instance, writes "I do not know of any one thing which is a greater factor in improving the farm production and the farm industry of the country than the school fairs. In addition to bringing, direct, practical results, school fairs, have had a very effective influence in encouraging teachers to take up the teaching of agriculture in the public schools." Another says: "The importance of the school fair cannot be over emphasized. It teaches our future farmers how they can take the most out of the soil. It makes our rural people better and happier." In recognition of the truth of the old adage, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" a programme of sports is usually included in the days list of proceedings.

NATURAL FREAKS IN DIGBY COUNTY

(Written for The Digby Courier by J. Alex. Deveau, Yarmouth)

When the tourist arrives at Hecanunga, a station on the Dominion Atlantic Railway, in the county of Digby, if he should leave the train, take a five miles' walk and drive to Brier Lake, he would be amply rewarded for the trouble taken. And if he were in any way a lover of nature in her quiescent state, he would never regret having turned his steps through those enchanting haunts.

The route to be followed would be for a large part through almost virgin woods, and on the way, one can see natural curiosities that merit the closest investigation. Of course, one must not expect to see grand panoramic views as in Switzerland, or even in the Rockies, but still, something that certainly merits the consideration of the lover of nature's charms.

First of all the visitor would meet with a certain kind of a mountain ridge, like the top of a mountain ridge. This ridge is about six yards wide at the top, and thirteen at the base. In height, it is sixty feet. In appearance, it resembles the construction for a railway to cross a swamp, or some other low place. On both sides of this line a lake and very wet swampy grounds. The road to Corberie passes on its summit.

What is the origin of this work? Is it a chain of mountains, which at some prehistoric date, by some disturbance of the earth's surface sank to its present state? Is it the work of human beings, or simply a freak of nature as the Giant's Causeway on the coast of Ireland? No one so far has demonstrated this. Furthermore, it is said, that this same ridge can be traced about twenty miles shoreward through the woods in the rear of Mavillette and Chetivamp.

STILL ANOTHER OF NATURE'S CURIOSITIES. At the further end of this ridge is a lake, having so far as it can be ascertained, no visible outlets. The water of this lake is pure and limpid and looks like water from a mineral spring. Its length at its longest, is about a mile and a half. In this same lake there are always to be seen four large stones. These are about a hundred feet one from the other. They come in single file one following in the wake of the other.

the other. Six years ago, when the author of this visited the place one of these stones was imbedded in the bank, nearly lost to view. The oldest settlers affirm that about twelve of these same stones have thus disappeared likewise. verily, the line of railroad it is probable that the Bear River would have been without a baseball team. This to our billy surroundings it is yet possible to obtain a suitable location for a field without going a distance from the centre of the town, and on account of being situated on the line of railroad it has not been easy in the past to get outside of it to visit us. But with the installation of the motor car into the bus, one of these disadvantages have been largely overcome. From the most pressing disadvantages, the time is the lack of funds to carry on the work of the club properly. We are, therefore, trying to tell you what money is needed, how it will be spent, and we think that you will give our representation as much support as possible when he calls on you for a contribution during the next few days. We are only asking for the things which are absolutely necessary for the maintenance of the club in order to enable them to carry out their practices in a satisfactory manner.

En the first place there is the rental of the grounds. After examining a number of possible sites, the Grounds Committee selected a field offered by one John Woodworth. This field they deemed the most level ground that they could procure, and was offered at a price lower than any other. It is actually rented at the rate of one hundred dollars per year. But the fact that the ground cannot be played on at our own fixing up, and an additional expenditure of about one hundred dollars is necessary before the ground is provided with a field upon which they can do themselves justice. And then there is the playing and maintenance, bats and balls, for the ground, and body protection in the form of all of which will take about five hundred and fifty dollars.

Tundred and fifty dollars. And it is to have the boys present and their appearance on the field, and their playing as comfortable as possible. A selection of materials for the uniforms has been made, and we expect to have the uniforms completed in time for the match with Digby on Thursday. The materials for the uniforms have been procured locally, making-up is being done to fit, and on this account it is anticipated that a complete set of uniforms will be ready in time for the match.

CONCERNING BASEBALL

To the Citizens of Bear River: In order that everyone may understand what has already been done in connection with baseball and what has still to be done before this sport can be firmly established in our community, it has been thought advisable to publish a statement indicating the measure of support that is necessary from the citizens before the success of the Club can be assured.

In the first place there are the natural disadvantages to overcome. If these were not present it is probably that Bear River would never have been without a baseball team. Owing to our hilly surroundings it is not possible to obtain a suitable location for a field some distance from the centre of the town; and on account of being situated on the line of railroad it has not been easy "in the past to get outside teams to visit us. But with the introduction of the motor car into common use of both the disadvantages have been largely overcome.

But the most pressing disadvantage at the present time is the lack of funds to carry on the work of the Club properly. We are, therefore, going to tell you what money is needed and how it will be spent, and we trust that you will give our representative as much support as possible when he calls on you for a contribution during the next few days.

We are only asking for the things that are absolutely necessary for the team in order to enable them to carry on their practices in a satisfactory manner.

In the first place there is the rental for grounds. After examining a number of possible sites, the Grounds Committee selected a field offered by Capt. John Woodworth. This field contained the most level ground that could be procured, and was offered at a lower figure than any other. It was finally rented at the rate of one hundred dollars per year. But the best of grounds cannot be played on without some fixing up, and an additional expenditure of about one hundred dollars is necessary before the boys can be provided with a field upon which they can do themselves justice.

And then there is the playing equipment necessary, bats and balls, gloves and masks, and body protectors, etc., all of which will take about one hundred and fifty dollars. And in order to have the boys present a good appearance in the field, and to make their playing as comfortable as possible, a suitable uniform is necessary. A selection of materials has already been made, and we expect to have the uniforms completed in time for the match with Digby on Thursday. The materials for the uniforms have been bought locally, and the making-up is being done locally; and on this account it is expected that a complete set of uniforms can be provided for about one hundred and fifty dollars. This amount, about one half what it would have been if the purchase had been made through one of the regular sporting goods houses.

From the above, you will therefore see that about five hundred dollars is necessary this year in order to meet the expenses of the team. But after the team is once equipped, the expenses for subsequent years will be considerably less.

Those who saw the work of the team on Thursday last, are all agreed that the boys put up a splendid exhibition of ball, especially when it is considered that they had had very little practice and have never all played together before. And that is required in order to turn out a team that will take its place with the leading teams in the Valley League, in your cordial support, backed up by sufficient dollars to give the boys a fair chance.

J. H. CUNNINGHAM,
President.

The flowers thou gavest me are dead, are dead;
And as I watched them die I asked, I said
Can you not longer stay a while
And help a mortal, time beguile?
I have drunk from off your chalice rim
Draughts from fountains far and dim,
And thoughts out of thy self were born
That find their rest in Eternal morn.
If you must die and my heart make sore,
Then I must go to Lettenye's store

Then it must be held by weaker strings.

EXHIBITION

PLANS WELL UNDER WAY

Prospects Indicate Bigger and Better Show This Fall—Larger Number of Outside Visitors Expected.

The work of putting the St. John exhibition grounds, and buildings in shape for the big September exposition is well under way and so much work was encountered that the crews have been increased. The cattle sheds are being enlarged, as much larger live stock exhibit than last year is expected. H. A. Porter, manager of the exhibition, has lately returned from Ontario, and while at Waterloo was in touch with the Brown Swiss Cattle Association officials, who told him they had heard a great deal about the excellence of the accommodation for cattle at the St. John exhibition, and intimated that they would send exhibits. If a final decision is made, a special prize will be offered for this group. Prize lists for cattle, which are larger this year than last, show that more money is being devoted to cash prizes than to cups.

The main building space is rapidly filling up. A revision of allotments for space has been made. The number of refreshment booths has been cut down to make room for more industrial exhibits. The women's department will crowd out the tea room for which there will be no space in the eastern wing.

Owing to some disappointing results in connection with the amusement features of last year's show, the management have been in direct communication with several feature firms, and have already engaged the services of a balloonist and parachute jumper.

The advertising policy has been greatly enlarged to interest people outside the province. In this way, it is expected that many former New Brunswickers will return to their native province to attend the affair. Advertisements already appearing in all the maritime papers, as well as in those farther afield. Excursion rates again are in effect on the railways, for the first time since war days, and it is anticipated that this will aid in bringing much larger numbers of visitors from outside points.

THE MYSTERY OF THE BARQUE TIBURTON

Her Cargo of Alcohol Disappeared and No One Knows Who Owns the Vessel—Capt. Mallett a Digby County Man.

The mystery connected with the Tiburton, which has kept the Boston waterfront agog ever since she put into that port some time ago while on an ostensible voyage from New York, to the west coast of Africa with 27,000 gallons of alcohol, worth $200,000 in her hold, was deepened when the craft, which is at anchor on South Boston flats, was seized by a deputy United States marshal and a keeper placed on board.

This action was taken upon the filing in the Federal Court of a libel against the vessel, by her skipper, Captain Charles W. Mallett, who is a Nova Scotian, and who alleges that he has been "fired" and that the owner named in the bill or complaint as the "Leland Steamship Lines" of New York, owes him $128,534 for wages, and sums advanced in the outfitting of the vessel and for other legitimate expenses.

Federal prohibition enforcement officers, together with customs authorities, have been watching the barque since her entrance into the harbor. On board a 20-day stirred up to renewed activity in the case, and agents acting under the direction of Supervising Director Potter, are now busily engaged in investigating the status of the mammoth cargo of spirits.

The Boston Post of Thursday says: The three-masted bark, Tiburton, bound from New York to the west coast of Africa by way of Boston, was seized by government prohibition agents last evening while lying off Governor's Island in the upper harbor. On board were found 250 steel drums of 10-gallon capacity each. When the bark left New York more than a month ago, these drums were filled with grain alcohol consigned to African ports.

Out of 52 casks examined by the prohibition agents 40 were found to be empty, four were filled with water, and eight still contained alcohol.

CLAIM BOSTON GOT IT. It is the charge of the government officers that while the ship has been lying in Boston Harbor the alcohol has been pumped out of a majority of the drums and sold to local bootlegging agencies, and that the illicit trade was taken off the vessel at night and brought in to the city on motor boats.

The search warrant for the Tiburton was issued by United States Commissioner Hayes to Acting Field Supervisors, John J. O'Donnell and J. J. Lynch only after a protracted conference with United States Attorney Harris and the prohibition officers. The technical allegation was that there has been a violation of the national prohibition act in diverting non-beverage alcohol to beverage purposes.

The Tiburton came here from New York the first week in June, ostensibly on a voyage to the west coast of Africa, to pick up additional cargo. There was no additional cargo here for her, however, and she has been lying off Governor's Island ever since June 6. Passengers on ferry boats have observed the bark for the past month and she has been the subject of much comment due to her rusty and dilapidated appearance and the strange, twisted shape of her masts.

Inquiry revealed the fact that while she was warping out of her slip on the East River at New York she struck her masts against the Brooklyn bridge and badly damaged them. She was able to make Boston, however, with the aid of a tow, 27,500 GALLONS ON BOARD. When the vessel left New York her cargo was examined by customs officials and found to be intact, according to the prohibition agents. This cargo of alcohol was valued at $250,000, there being in all 27,500 gallons of the stuff on board.

Stone & Sawyer are the local agents for the owners, according to Supervisor O'Donnell, and they have not been able to give the prohibition authorities any accurate information which will lead to the definite establishment of who actually owns the ship. According to Mr. O'Donnell, the ownership of the vessel is in doubt, because she has been sold so many times and title to her transferred so frequently that the whole thing is shrouded in a maze of legal technicalities.

The prohibition men found 50 feet of new hose and a double-action pump which, they contend, was used in pumping the alcohol out of the drums and into containers with which it was removed from the vessel. According to Mr. O'Donnell the whole thing is part of a gigantic conspiracy which may be uncovered. He says the vessel was bound for Philadelphia after leaving Boston, where it was the intention to take on a cargo of benzine and cobble stones before leaving for Africa.

ORIGIN OF FAMILIAR SURNAMES

MORAN
VARIATIONS—O'Moran, Morin, MacMorran.
RACIAL ORIGIN—Irish and Scottish.
SOURCE—Given names.
There are two sources to the family names in this group, both of them Gaelic. Strictly speaking, the family name of MacMorran does not belong in the same group with the others, but as the spellings are so similar they are likely to become confused, and undoubtedly have come so many times in the past.
The name MacMorran is Scottish, and is borne by a branch of the Clad MacMorran. The highland designation of the sept is the "Clann Mhoirein," distinguishing it as the descendants of a chieftain named "Moghron," a name which translated literally means "glave of the sea."

The names Moran, O'Moran and Morrin are Irish, and are of entirely different derivation. The correct rendering of all three of these names in the Irish language, so near as English letters can indicate it, is "MacMorran" or "O'Morran." The "La" or "O" signifies "descendants" and "Morran" is the possessive case of the given name, "Morran," a translation of which would be "a multitude."

The thoughts embodied in the origin of many of these old Celtic given names are no more difficult of comprehension than those which mark the ancient Teutonic or even the Hebrew names. It is no more strange that ancient Celtic parents should have named their child "Multitude" than that ancient Celtic parents should name their "Resolute Helmet," which is the meaning of the name William. There was, of course, a poetic or romantic significance in the origin of all given names, in that dawn of human history when men, not having names ready made for them as today, had to invent them.

A UNIQUE COMPASS.

BACK LONGITUDES

THE FACE OF THE DIAL & COMPASS

A silver mounted compass which is nearly 200 years old and is fitted with a sundial, also longitudes and latitudes of important cities and ports, was presented by a Miss Buckley, a passenger on board the Canadian Pacific liner Metagama, to Mr. E. Cox, the third class steward, as a token of gratitude while on a voyage to Canada.

Mr. Cox states that the Squire of the parish of Weston, Norfolk, presented the compass many years ago to the Rev. Buckley of Weston, who was Miss Buckley's grandfather, and when he died he left it to her. The compass is in a well-preserved green shag case, inside which is the following inscription:—

"This compass and dial was given me by Sir George Oxenden in 1773 it having been Sir Basil Jervis's, made at Paris about the year 1727 H. H."

When opened the sun dial and compass is on the face, while on the back of the compass are the longitudes and latitudes.

It was found a very valuable instrument for carrying in the old hunting days.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. Catarrhal Deafness requires constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRHAL MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or discharge from the ear. If the tube is closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRHAL MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus relieving the inflammation and restoring normal conditions. Circulars free. All Druggists. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Weekly Newspapers Are Great Community Builders

President W. Rupert Davies of the Weekly Newspaper Association in his address before the Canadian Club in Vancouver, B. C., said among other things:

"Our daily and weekly papers are in much the same position. The city daily has to deal with world affairs. When we pick up the daily paper we expect to learn the news of the world at a glance. They have the not room for the local affairs of the small places. The weekly, on the other hand, pays little attention to the affairs of the world, but a great deal of attention to the local community affairs. It deals with intimate details of the life of its readers. And this is where it gets its hold. It is welcomed to the home not as a newspaper to be hurriedly read and cast aside—but as a friend. Every word is read by every member of the family. It has something of interest to them all. The little boy of seven watches for his name in the school report. He knows what marks he made, and sees the right marks in the paper and a confidence in the paper is established that, if care is taken, is never weakened, and when he grows up and reads the opinion expressed in the editorial columns on the questions of the day, he still has confidence in them."

Some people are always either just getting over hard times, right in the midst of them, or anticipating them immediately. It's astonishing how hard times are with some of us.

Sign Legislation

An amendment made to the Criminal Code at the recent session of Parliament makes imprisonment without the option of a fine the penalty for the person who drives an automobile while intoxicated. That is a wise change in the law. The drunken automobilist is a menace and against such a menace the public must have thoroughly adequate protection.

Isn't it queer that the way in which a man who thinks himself too big for his job usually expresses that belief is by neglect of a part of his duties?

Labor—not the kind we find necessary, ourselves, but the other fellows' labor—seems of recent years to have been just one darned strike after another.

It is a piquant comment on generosity that the man who has money to give away, seldom gives, and he who would seldom has it to give.

Last week there were 462 items of local news in the Courier. One of these items was incorrect in that we stated that Mr. and Mrs. Owen Carpenter were occupying a four room cottage when as a matter of fact they were in their own cottage. Nine different persons stopped us to speak of the incorrect item. It was only referred to the 462 correct ones. And yet there are people who envy the editor!

Learn, this summer, to worship God in the big church with the green carpet and the blue dome.

REBUILDING AT ONCE.

With characteristic enterprise the owners of the Universal Garage which was destroyed by fire last week have started the work of rebuilding. As a matter of fact the place was fairly sold before a gang of men was engaged to haul away the debris. The new building, which will be built a little higher than the old one, will be the same size as the old one, namely 95 feet by 42 feet and will be as near fire-proof as it is possible to make a building. It will be built of hollow concrete blocks in alternate layers of smooth and rough face. There will be two main entrances and the office will be between them. It is expected that the new building will be ready for occupancy in five weeks. Denton & Condon have the contract.

THE LAMPS OF GOD

By Maurice K. Bala.

A few there are whose lips are sweet. There is no shadow in their eyes. Their arms are strong to bear us up. To toil and spend—for they are wise. A few there are who shine serene. Above our clouded way a gleam. God's lamps hung high to show the way. For whom we all give thanks to Him.

Little beds of flowers, little coats of paint, make a pleasant cottage out of one that isn't.

The street committee held a meeting on Wednesday to consider the grading of First Avenue and the construction of a sidewalk along the railway tracks from the old station street to the new one. It was decided that the new sidewalk be made to bring the Western Union and the Telephone poles together with the object of doing away with the poles, moving all the wires across to the western side of the street, thus making it possible to widen the street and become one of the most used thoroughfares.

A pleasing entertainment was given in the Baptist Church last Friday evening. Delightful musical numbers were given by Misses Nichols and Andrews. Rev. D. E. Hatt read and interpreted several selections from "Digby Chicksen." The bulk of the programme was given by Prof. P. J. Silvers of Boston, who showed himself a most accomplished dramatic reader and humorist. A vote of thanks to the entertainers was moved by Rev. Denton J. Neely.

Travelers along the Shore Road have recently been treated to an unusual sight at the willow tree which has been "snapped" so often and which is known as the "Ellis Willow." Here the Ellis family cat, her young kittens and her husband, had discovered a hollow place in the tree and had evidently decided it would be just the place for her kittens. Five six kittens were born and kept in secrecy until they were old enough to make their presence known and then, much to the surprise of the passer-by, six part here looking out into the wide world from a tree top. The home is now abandoned—but it was an interesting picture just the same.

T. Warner.

After last Friday no vessel of Canadian registry will be allowed to deliver catches of fish direct from the grounds at American ports, permission granted during the summer season. It was in consequence of this that the schooner, now being revoked by orders from Washington. At least half a dozen Nova Scotia schooners and a steam trawler have been marketing their fish at Boston, much to the resentment of some of the Yankee fishermen. Hereafter they will be compelled to put into Canadian ports.

THE TODDLE TOP.

The toddle top craze has struck Digby and is rapidly displacing other and more familiar forms of gambling. It was introduced here by some of the summer guests at the hotels and now there are parties of the game being played in the ordinary copper cent being used principally. This toddle top as its name implies is a small top which is spun by the fingers and the position in which it falls indicates the luck of the player. It is octagonal in shape and each side is marked, the marks being as follows: Star, T3, P1, T4, circle, P3, T4. WOULD GO FROM HOUSE TO HOUSE

Tennessee Farmer Wants to Go From House to House and Tell Everybody About Tanlac.

"If I were not so busy with my farmwork I would go from house to house and tell the people about Tanlac," said A. J. Livingston, a well-known farmer, living near Ashland City, Tenn.

"I had stomach and kidney trouble and suffered torment with my back and side. The doctors could do nothing for me so I wrote to a friend of mine in Nashville about Tanlac and he advised me to try it, saying he had heard so many favorable reports about it and sent me a bottle.

"After taking the first bottle I felt so much better for myself and the rest of the family. I told a friend of mine about it and ordered a bottle for him and he had good results. I can eat anything I want and it don't hurt me and can sleep like a log. To tell you the truth, I just simply feel like a new man. I have more strength and energy than I have had in years. It is simply the grandest medicine in the world. I would like to see all of my friends and get those who are suffering to try it and hope you will reach them through this testimonial, which I have gladly given." Tanlac, the celebrated medicine, which accomplished such remarkable result in this man's case, is a wonderful tonic, appetizer and invigorant. It builds up the system, creates a healthy appetite, promotes digestion and assimilation of the food and makes you feel strong, sturdy and well as nature intended.

This is Better Than Laxatives

One or Two Tablets Each Night For a Week Will Correct Your Constipation and Make Constant Dosing Unnecessary. Try It.

Poor digestion and assimilation means a poorly nourished body and low vitality. Poor elimination means that the waste products of the body are not removed and the blood is carried through the body.

The result is weakness, headaches, dizziness, coated tongue, bad breath, loss of energy, nervousness, poor appetite, constipation, blood, alcohol, impurities, skin eruptions and other troubles.

Ordinary laxatives, purges and cathartics—salts, oils, calomel and the like—may relieve for a few days, but their benefit can only come through the use of medicine that tones up and strengthens the digestive tract.

Get a box of Nature's Remedy and take one tablet each night for a week. You will follow with ease and find that the results are permanent. When you get accustomed to the right action you need not take medicine again and you will feel better.

Will then keep your system in good condition and your health well.

Remember, knowing well is better than doing.

Nature's Remedy (N.R. Tablets) is a natural and safe remedy for all the above and is recommended by your doctor.

Butler in the chair and N. Moore as secretary. This was doubtless the most largely attended meeting this section has had since its inception. There is a general feeling that in years past most men who have served on the board of trustees have been lax about their duties both in regard to visiting the school and also in regard to keeping the school clean inside and outside. This feeling came to the fore at this meeting. There is a strong sentiment throughout the section in favor of a woman on the board of trustees, but as there is no non-resident on the board at present, and as no woman who is a ratepayer could be found who was willing to serve, that matter had to be dropped for this year. Amos Hill was nominated to fill the vacancy on the board. Before the vote was taken Mr. Hill expressed his willingness to say a few words and stated plainly that if the people intended to vote him in, they must stand ready to back him in his efforts to punish any future injury to school property, and any rough or profane language on school premises, and also to further his efforts to keep the school and school surroundings clean. Applause and a unanimous vote followed.

Then came a discussion as to whether the section would put new hardwood floors and new sash into the old building or whether a new building would be erected. On motion of Harrison Jones a committee consisting of the present trustees, Rev. J. H. Copeland, Messrs. Wm. Lant and Hamilton, Mullen, and also Messrs. DePoffier, Herbert Journey, and Amos Hill were appointed to confer with the Inspector on this matter and report at a special meeting to be called when their report is ready.

REPORT 1921 CONVENTION WOMEN'S INSTITUTE OF NOVA SCOTIA

Members of Bear River Women's Institute.

As convener of your delegation to the Women's Institute Convention at Truro, June 15th and 16th, 1921, I beg to submit the following summary of the work of that convention.

Those who have been at the Agricultural College, will remember the Assembly room in the science building, its fine proportions, comfortable seating arrangements and excellent lighting. Imagine this room on a bright June day, well filled with an assembly of earnest faced intelligent women, and you have the setting for the gathering of delegates convened at the eighth annual convention of the Women's Institute of Nova Scotia.

The first session was called to order Wednesday morning at nine thirty o'clock Miss Helen J. MacDougall, Superintendent, presiding in her characteristic calm judicial manner. Registration showed that our members could have been present in addition a number of members of the local Women's Institute were in the audience.

Right here, allow me to say that Bear River Institute was especially honored by having one of her delegates, Mrs. W. W. Wade, selected as Secretary for the entire convention; an office which she ably occupied, keeping a comprehensive grip of the important points in each meeting and giving to the convention at every session most interesting minutes.

Reports from Institutes was the first procedure and only with all our members could have been present to hear of the different and varied activities, each inspired and developed by the need of the individual community in which that Institute belonged, and yet all in conformity with the charter regulations of our organization.

Having been a delegate to the 1920 convention, I have no hesitancy in saying that though that was certainly a revelation of the work the W. I.'s are doing in our Province this convention showed wonderful strides since last year, in the broadening scope of work, and the more varied while activities of branch institutes.

I will not particularize as to individual reports but one of the outstanding features of nearly every institute seemed to be work for and in the schools.

At Lunenburg a supervised playground has been established, and is proving of great benefit to the children. This Institute also included in its report a plea for organized effort to secure improvement in the moving pictures presented throughout this Province; a plea that this powerful influence for "weal or woe" to the morals of our young people, be directed in the channels of education, information and innocent fun, and not, as too often the case, stir their minds with the contaminating and destroying influence of obscene (unnamed yet attractive pictures) surely a worth while effort for us to make. Many institutes reported charitable work of all descriptions; "pound" parties for the poor, so called "Sunshine Boxes" filled with delicacies for the sick, contributions to the "Infants' Hospital" caring for and clothing sick poor children in the community, and one institute which has many fishermen in its neighborhood told of caring for the fatherless children those who are made so by nearly every severe storm, in the fishing season.

"Community work" had engaged many branch institutes repairing and beautifying of cemeteries, establishment of community parks, planting of shrubs and trees to beautify streets and school grounds, courses in dress-making, community singing schools, exhibits of "handicraft" (from a Quebec guild) tablets erected to war heroes, flowers to the shut-in, small libraries established, and all reports emphasized the recognized value of Institute influence in philanthropic, charitable and general community work.

Bible Hill Institute (Truro) had spent five hundred dollars in equipping its school play ground. There were only two Institutes with a larger membership than our own I. e. Oxford with sixty nine members (and I might add cash assets of $350.00) and Mahone Bay, the exact membership of which I have forgotten, but they are certainly "bloated" millionaires.

Yet, when all reports were read, your delegates, my friends, felt that Bear River certainly had earned a "place in the sun" as far as rank conferred for actual work accomplished, the kind of work not measured by dollars and cents standard, but of intrinsic value. Our publicity and library work received many favorable comments also our health course.

Miss MacDougall, on conclusion of reports, briefly summarized the years work I. e. ten new Institutes had been formed, making now a total of 72, representing over two thousand women of the Province, an increase of six hundred members since January, 1921.

Miss MacDougall also reported that the short course for girls last year at the Agricultural College was most successful. These courses consisted of dress-making, basketry,

Well, a job is like that just now isn't it?

Someone has said that a sure test for success is, "Can you save money?" The acid test if it these days is, "Have you a job?"

There was much disappointment among the members of the tennis club over the postponement of the tennis tea on Tuesday afternoon made necessary on account of inclement weather.

On a composition examination Public School pupils were asked to write on "What I Would Like To Be When I Am 21." Mary, whose father is a deacon and whose mother is inclined to be worldly, chose the subject of "Lecturer."

When he answered with brevity: "I would like to be a Christian—and also to have a complexion."

AN INSPIRING ADDRESS

The congregation of the Baptist church were afforded a treat on last Sunday when an inspiring address delivered by Rev. M. L. Orchard, Traveling Secretary of the Canadian Baptist Foreign Mission Board.

Mr. Orchard has spent a number of years in the mission field of India, and Bolivia, and presented his hearers with a message of the most inspiring nature from that ordinarily heard in a missionary address, and as a result the congregation deeply appreciated the vivid portrayal of conditions, as they exist in these countries.

Mr. Orchard's appeal is for individual contributors to the support of native teachers. A sum of fifty dollars per year is all that is needed to support one such teacher who has it in his power to instruct and train from one to two hundred of the natives.

cooking and home economics. The age limit of last year was 16 years, but this year it has been changed to 12-18 years, and will be held in Truro from July 12th to 22nd. All Institutes were urged to interest themselves in seeing that some young girls in their locality enjoyed the privileges of this course, and circulars were to be forwarded to Institutes Secretaries with the necessary information.

A course in home economics was also given last year at the College, under the department of Soldiers' Settlement Board, for soldiers' wives and a look advantage of this course, seven couples who live on the local "Bible Hill" Institute ladies equipped and conducted a day nursery for these women, with a trained nurse in attendance, thus leaving the mothers free to enjoy the very valuable instruction in successful house-keeping. In this connection I must mention that Mrs. Cox of the Soldiers' Settlement Department personally spoke to me after the session and asked me, as your presiding officer, to interest the members of our local organization in making friendly calls on the soldiers' wives, trying to interest them in the community work of the Institute.

As we were leaving the building at close of session we were, per usual custom, arranged in masses on the front porch and photographs were taken. The less said about that picture the better, and your delegates beg to be excused from the ordeal of displaying it.

Wednesday afternoon session was particularly interesting, greetings were extended from the local "Council of Women" and from Bible Hill Institute. Then followed an animated address by Mr. E. Robinson, Inspector of schools, giving, we believed, deserved hard knocks to the present school curriculum, in which all rewards in examinations go to the retentive memory of a student, not to his or her native ability.

"Why stuff a child's mind with facts of kings long since dust and forgotten?" many leaving no impression on the world's history? From the child's natural ability to be for mechanics, agriculture, business or the professions, as Mr. Robinson said, "don't run every student thru the same mold."

A very lively discussion joined in by Prof. DeWolf of the normal school and Institute delegates followed this address, showing plainly that the women of our Province are awakening to the importance of "not fitting the child to the school, but the school to the child."

We were urged by those men, prominent in educational work to assert the rights the late legislation allowing women to vote at school meetings and act as trustees has given us, to assist in establishing an ideal of public and private schools, to trust trustees to their duties, study present school curriculum and urge necessary changes, in short to give to

The local boys played the Digby team at Digby on Thursday last with very little change in the line up on either side.

Although several brilliant plays were noted the game was for the most part poorly played and numerous errors were committed by both sides.

The game was too heavy to make it interesting for the spectators and the crowd melted away after the first inning. Final score Bear River 25 Digby 1.

The ball team are indebted to W. W. Clarke for his generosity in presenting them with a new set of uniforms.

It would be difficult now to find a team presenting a better appearance on the field than the home boys.

All arrangements had been completed for a "match" between Bear River and the local team, but the local team has been dropped out of the game.

At the last moment, however, the local team was without a date for that day, and the management arranged a game with the latter team instead. A full report of this game will be given at a later date.

Wednesday evening Dr. Cumming of Normal school, gave a fine address on the "True Meaning of Community Life," followed by a most enlightening and interesting talk by Dr. Craig, Vice-Chancellor, on Public Health. Dr. Craig thanked the Institutes for the wonderful assistance given through the recent campaign for funds, which in many places was conducted solely through their organization, and asked further aid in the future.

"The most stirring and eloquent address of this session was that of the Rev. John V. MacKinnon of Halifax, subject "The Roadmap of Nova Scotia Citizenship," one of deep interest to every patriotic Nova Scotian, and with the new political status of woman, acquired thru the franchise of interest to both sexes.

Dr. MacKinnon also emphasized the fact that the hope of Nova Scotia is its child life, not in its adults, and that today, not tomorrow, is ours to place the little feet on the right road; that our task is one of service to those that will be the citizens of the future.

Thursday morning session was occupied with reports of standing committees, viz. Agriculture, Educational Legislation, Home Economics, Health and Finance presented by the convenors of each committee, except that of Agriculture which was read by Mrs. MacDonnell for Mrs. L. A. DeWolf, who was absent. This report showed wonderful activity on the part of the convenor, Mrs. DeWolf having written a paper on "Home Gardens" which had been widely distributed, and aroused much interest that she had received between one and two hundred enquiries for seeds, and advice from woman gardeners, and had herself put up and mailed over 1,000 packages of seeds, free of charge (except postage) to the recipients.

The department is still in charge of Mrs. DeWolf for the coming year, and I have no doubt she will again act as advisor to those desiring instruction and guidance in re gardening and gardens.

Mrs. Stewart (Grand Pre) convenor of the Finance Committee, reported $287.50 contributed by branch Institutes for Federation purposes, against $300.00 assessed, the balance to be made up next year.

No delegates attended the Federated Institute meeting, now in session at Edmonton, as the expense amounting to $100.00, presented a problem. At next year the Federated Convention again meets in the east, Mrs. Hamilton of Mahone Bay, was selected as our provincial delegate.

Committee on Legislation reported that the school bill allowing women to sit on the trustees and to vote at school meetings had been successfully passed thru the Legislature.

A new department "Home and School" was created in place of former "Education" committee, as being more comprehensive and giving greater scope of operation. Miss Baker, assistant director of Rural Science at Normal school was made a convenor of this committee; a most suitable selection as her training specially fitted her for this work.

Mr. A. F. Jewett, Supervisor Correspondence Course at the N. S. Technical College, presented the report on the new programme of correspondence study work for both men and women. This was started in 1916, but laid aside for returned men's training course, and was now being again actively taken up. Similar courses, under the name of U. S. A. Board of Education have 3,000 students enrolled, and 200 Nova Scotia women are at present taking American courses at an expense of $5.00 per course, while the same will be given at the Technical College at a cost of $25.00, simply the cost of tuition. The College is enabled to do this thru the assistance given by both Federal and Provincial Governments. Special posters and information will be supplied shortly and our organization is urged to interest itself in securing pupils for our different courses, some now ready for women being "Interior and Exterior Home Decoration" and "Cooking" for the year.

to his financial ability; the mother also to pay proportion of child's maintenance. Also that a provincial guardian be appointed to administer the money paid by parents and act as official guardian till age of independent earning power.

Institutes will be asked later from headquarters to sanction this appeal for the much needed legislation to guard the unfortunate waifs born under a cloud, thru no fault of their own, and give them an opportunity to make useful citizens of our Province.

A demonstration at the Bible Hill School, of use of school play grounds was given by Miss Baker Thursday afternoon, and has already been fully reported by Mrs. Wade, in the COURIER columns.

"Home Economics" was ably presented by Mrs. W. W. Baird, (a former domestic science teacher at MacDonald College) in the evening session. Mrs. Baird's personality and powers of oratory added much to her fascinating subject and brought home to her audience the fact that women having to administer the affairs of the home, governing as they do the consumption of the world's products should be methodical and business-like in that connection; also to see that each product consumed in the home should return the highest value possible, in both physical and material benefit. Just another problem for the busy woman of today, but one distinctly hers, and one she must now solve for herself.

Six important resolutions were drawn up by the Resolutions Committee, and passed by convention—a synopsis of these follows:

(1) Resolved that present Institute Education Committee be merged in "Home and School Committee".

(2) Resolved that the matter of more education along lines of patriotism and citizenship be brought to the attention of Board of Education.

(3) Resolved that the Provincial Institute register approval of bill entitled "An Act Respecting Children of Immigrant Parents".

(4) That the present dates for Provincial examinations are most expensive and inconvenient for out-of-town pupils having to remain as long, over week-end, that a protest be lodged and steps taken to remedy this.

(5) That the opening of the Public Schools in the hot days of August is not conducive to the good health of students, and the sparse attendance of the first two weeks cut down the average diminishing the county grant. Therefore resolved, that we ask to have present dates changed, as soon as regulations will permit.

One cannot close without speaking of the two very pleasant social gatherings which varied the business of the convention; tea served at the College Wednesday, the ladies of Bible Hill Institute as hostesses, and an afternoon reception given by Mrs. Cumming and the Department of Agriculture.

This report embodied only the salient points of the most important and interesting features, of the Truro convention. It would take hours to go into all details. To sum up the general impression received by your delegates, this convention was a revelation of the valuable work possible to such an organization as the Women's Institute of Nova Scotia.

Respectfully submitted,
(Sgd.) JOSEPHINE TROOP LOVETT

MOTOR BOAT MIGRACE HAS WONDERFUL NEW ENGINE

Former Digby Craft, With Speed of Twenty-four Miles An Hour, Gets Its Power From "Acadia" High Speed or Medium Duty Engine—Was In Port on Friday Last.

Much interest was caused along the waterfront Friday by the arrival of the motor boat "Migrace," bound for Bridgewater, owned by Mr. W. T. Ritchey, President and General Manager of Acadia Gas Engines, Limited, Bridgewater, N. S.

Accompanying Mr. Ritchey were Mr. E. B. Sollows, Sales Manager for Acadia Gas Engines, Limited, Mr. G. A. Hubley, Mr. J. C. A. Robertson, and Mr. A. Rafuse of Bridgewater.

Leaving Bridgewater July 14, made the run to Port Mouton then to Yarmouth. Left Yarmouth Sunday for Beaver Harbor N. B. and Monday to St. John's, returning Wednesday, 2 1/2 run Friday morning arriving in Digby about half past seven. Then leaving for Yarmouth and Bridgewater.

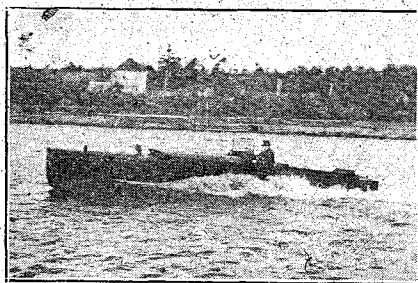

"Migrace" is of a heavy machinery construction, speed fastened 32' long, 6' wide V-bottom, hand design, equipped with electric lights, auto hood, windshield, and all forms its work economically with freedom from breakdown, as dependability and durability have not been sacrificed for extreme light weight or excessive high speed.

The cylinders, cylinder heads and pistons are made from a special case of tough bronze metal; upper crank case cast from aluminum, being rigidly reinforced by ribs and steel tie rods, insuring strength crank shaft forged from solid block open heart steel; connecting rods steel forged; cylinders and pistons ground accurately to size; cams and cam rollers hardened and ground to size; bearings lined with genuine babbit metal.

The lubrication is entirely automatic, being of the modern pressure feed, forced by a bronze gear pump, thus eliminating troublesome oilers and grease cups. A compression relief lever is provided for holding open the exhaust valves to enable easy starting.

The Acadia is equipped with two ignition systems, Bosch and modern conveniences, and has a speed of 24 miles per hour.

Mr. Ritchey's boat is equipped with the 40 H. P. "Acadia" high-speed or medium duty engine, has a 5 in. bore and 6 1/2 in. stroke, and will rank with any of the highest class 4-cycle engines manufactured in any country. Manufactured in the "Acadia" factories by expert mechanics, it places this company on the highest pinnacle in the engine trade.

As will be seen by the cut, this engine is very compact and simple in construction. Combining only necessary weight with special materials, thereby adhering strongly to the conservative and the practical in engine building, it performs its work economically with freedom from breakdown, as dependability and durability have not been sacrificed for extreme light weight or excessive high speed.

The 6 1/2 x 8 in. heavy duty 4-cycle Acadia Motors contain the same high grade material and workmanship as their high-speed motors. The upper and lower crank cases are of cast iron, instead of bronze and aluminum.

The "Acadia" heavy duty motor has been designed, constructed and tested to meet the many requirements of those branches of marine service where the utmost reliability and economy of performance—ease of handling—freedom from breakdown-fuel and general efficiency are positively required.

Accessability is a special feature of all Acadia 4-cycle engines. They have removable valves in gages, removable cylinder heads, giving quick access to the cylinders and pistons for the removal of carbon deposits. Through the combination of the movable head and easy access to the crank case, the connecting rods and pistons are readily removed through the top of the cylinder without disturbing the cylinders. A removable cam shaft through the side of the base is a special feature, in fact, every provision has been made for convenient inspection and adjustment. Large doors on the crank case and reverse gear housing afford easy access to the bearings and immediate adjustment to the reverse gear. Passages are provided for leading the water to the cylinder head, thereby preventing water from entering the cylinders.

They supply a complete electrical, water, exhaust, fuel and propeller equipment; everything necessary for installing.

The stationary engines manufactured by this Company are rapidly gaining the same position that their marine engines hold. They are now establishing agents in the inland Towns, enabling them to cater to the farming trade, and just recently they sold three carloads to one Quebec firm.

Acadia Gas Engines, Limited, are, and have been for a number of years, the largest manufacturers of motor engines in Canada, but until two years ago confined themselves exclusively to 2-cycle engines from 3 to 24 H. P. Mr. Ritchey had the besides, an amusement tax of 10 per cent on all the admissions. Those amounted to approximately $100,000. The State of New Jersey, incidentally, exacted a like sum.

The promoter of the affair, whose profits are estimated at $100,000 will also pay a large income tax. In fine, the public authorities drew at least $500,000 out of this enterprise—enough to pay for the high explosives of a little larger practice on one of their great battleships.

An increase in the exportation of wines and liquors from France in the first quarter of this year, as compared with the same period of 1913, is a surprising discovery. In the meantime France has lost two of her biggest customers for wines and brandies—Russia and the United States. Of the brandies and liquors, Germany took about half, Argentina, Turkey and England followed in that order.

Scientists place the dog first for intelligence among animals.

Trans-Canada Limited

The Trans-Canada Limited—the popular Canadian Pacific train from Montreal and Toronto to Western Canada and Pacific Coast—now saving time and money, is making the fastest time between terminals of any train in America. It makes the trip in 100 hours—Regina in 35 hours—Calgary in 36 hours—Vancouver in 37 hours—Seattle in 38 hours—Portland in 39 hours—San Francisco in 40 hours.

Passengers from the Maritime Provinces, via St. John, have choice of two train connections. The early train leaving at 3:45 P. M. Eastern time, daily except Sunday, and later train at 6:35 P. M. every day. The Trans-Canada is an all sleeping car train, carrying sleeping car passengers only, except between Montreal and Ottawa, where a limited amount of parlor car accommodation is available. All the equipment used is of the finest type, which includes the sleeping car dining car, and compartment observation car. This train affords the biggest travel treat that is possible for a transcontinental trip to contain. Passengers are able to see practically every major point of interest by daylight, including Banff and Lake Louise. Whether on business or pleasure, this train combines every comfort and convenience possible. For information, and the purchase of sleeping car accommodations, apply to local agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, or communicate with Mr. W. R. Denbigh, District Passenger Agent at St. John, N. B.

UNCLE SAM AND THE PRIZE FIGHT

Jack Dempsey received approximately $300,000 for his part in the great prize fight of July 2nd. The Federal government's tax on that total was $161,270. He will have to pay it during 1922, in four quarterly payments.

Carpentier's toll, with exemptions made for his wife and child, was $95,334 on the $250,000 which he received for every dollar of this sum he will have to pay before he sails away from the United States. This was not all of Uncle Sam's interest in the affair. He collected

THE SEALING INDUSTRY

The seal pack in the Northern Pacific waters is considered to be the most valuable herd of wild animals to the world, its value being placed at $75,000,000, and yearly increasing. After a conference in 1911 between the United States, Russia, Japan and Canada, all of whom are interested naturally, in sealing operations, and will be more so in the future. It has been computed roughly that one million seal skins are marketed every year, and to this aggregate the largest single collection is contributed by the sealers of Newfoundland operating on their own coast and off 700,000 seals have been slaughtered by the entire Newfoundland fleet in a single season. A novel method of hunting seals under the auspices of the Government of Newfoundland, is to be introduced in the spring by two Nova Scotia aviators which, if successful, may revolutionize the entire industry. The party of three men, with two aeroplanes and dirigibles of the type used to successfully during the war to "spot" submarines, will leave Montreal to join the Newfoundland sealers at St. John's. The party of thirty-five or forty, leaving for the Labrador ice fields. Hitherto the location of seal herds has been done by men in the rigging of ships whose range is naturally limited. This work it is intended to do with planes, "spotting" being possible by this means within a radius of fifty miles. The method, then, is as follows: "The aeroplanes, which carries five men besides the pilot and mechanic, descends to the ice where the animals are despatched by bullets from pump guns. The skins are then packed in bundles about the base of poles to which a flag is attached. This kind of hunting continues to the end of the season when the ice breaks up, the hunters proceeding from place to place transported by plane or by boat. The seals are then spotted. At the close of the season the vessels visit the ice breakers and pick up the bundles, being materially assisted by the planes in locating and signalling.

The seal industry originated in Newfoundland in 1782, and for some years after that the annual catch did not exceed three or four thousand skins per season. With the increasing demand for oil and skins, however, the industry grew, and more men and vessels came to engage exclusively in it. By the beginning of the nineteenth century, the annual catch exceeded 60,000 skins, and larger and larger vessels were built for the pursuit of the "latter" these were superseded by fast steamers. At the present time, though there are some sailing vessels still engaged, the steamers in the big unit in the activity and accounts for five-sixths of the catch.

Of late years the seal catch of Newfoundland has fallen off somewhat due to the heavy toll and indiscriminate killing which has been regulated by legislation. The 1908 catch, for instance, numbered 21,863 skins and that of the following year 269,220 animals. A single vessel has been known to bring in 40 St. John's catch of 42,000 and a total of nearly

The Hair or Common Seal. carries five men besides the pilot and mechanic, descends to the ice where the animals are despatched by bullets from pump guns. The skins are then packed in bundles about the base of poles to which a flag is attached. This kind of hunting continues to the end of the season when the ice breaks up, the hunters proceeding from place to place transported by plane or by boat. The seals are then spotted. At the close of the season the vessels visit the ice breakers and pick up the bundles, being materially assisted by the planes in locating and signalling.

The co-operation of the government in this new venture would assure a belief in the practicability and success of the novel enterprise, and doubtless their success, which is highly probable, will have a marked effect on seal hunting on both coasts and tend to bring about a revolution in hunting methods.

Wanted:—A Real Immigration Policy.

To Europe thousands of substantial people who in normal times would never be persuaded to leave their native lands, ready and eager to come to Canada. In Canada thousands of potential farmers close to the railways lie waiting the touch of the needed husbandman to release the teeming wealth of virgin soil. On one hand a need on the other hand the means of filling it. Yet the two cannot be brought together because, forsooth, we have no well-considered Immigration Policy.

To get the best of goods the managements of great business concerns avoid if possible buying when every one else is buying. The best products are to be obtained when demand is slack and choice is wide. And the same is true of immigration. When the world recovers when Europe is settled and has employment for her best citizens—THAT is not the time to drum up immigration for Canada. The unsuccessful and the malcontents will then predominate in west-bound ships. The time to stimulate and encourage a flow of newcomers to our empty fields is NOW when the very best kind of citizen can be readily recruited.

Canada needs a real immigration policy based on clear thinking and far seeing—rather than on the fears of what this or that section of the community may say. The class of immigrants now available in Europe is the kind we need most. On this side the facilities for placing them in productive occupations are ample and dependable. Let us encourage the good immigrant to come at once! He won't want to come when his native country is prosperous!

Immigration And The Unions

No sensible man wants to see Canada flooded with penniless strangers looking for jobs. No manufacturer or railroad management could benefit by such a swamping of the labor market as would subvert the purchasing power of the working man—the chief buyer of Canadian goods. But between this folly and the folly of discouraging immigration there is ample room for wider choice.

The farms that need settlers to grow food for our cities need them abundantly and to provide traffic for railways whose losses we must pay whether we like it or not, can today obtain a type of immigrant that has rarely been available to us before from Europe. It is true times might be better in Canada than they are, but if they were better here they would be better also in Europe and the citizens now willing to come to us would then be settled and unwilling to move. On our side, they can readily be placed on lands close to railways. They would not depress our labor market, by adding to our food production would depress instead the cost of living.

Let the average Canadian workman ask himself this: Is it cheaper for me to share $100,000,000 annual loss on the Government Railways with only 7,999,999 other Canadians, or to encourage more settlers, each bound to create more traffic for the C. N. R. thereby reducing our annual deficit, and each in the meantime constituting himself another pair of shoulders to carry a part of the loss?

The Brooklyn, N. Y., judge who has ruled that a husband's responsibility for his wife's debts ends with the purchase of household necessities; defines household necessities as goods that would ordinarily be necessary in view of the station in life of the husband and wife. Now all that is necessary is a definition of the word "necessary."

AN APPEAL FOR THE BALL TEAM.

To the Editor of the Courier:
SIR:—In the past year, there has been a great deal of talk concerning the poor prospects of the Digby baseball team. When a junior baseball team was organized this summer we certainly proved this to be so.

When our team visits another town to play, the people of Digby expect us to win, although we have no support of the citizens whatever. We have no one to encourage us, and when we put up a good game home, there is only half the attendance there should be, and we do not get enough money to meet expenses.

Recently a pie social was held in the Baptist vestry for the purpose of securing baseball suits for our team. Imagine our disgust when not one man over 20 years old attended the social. Practically all the pies were bought by members of the team. Only about was $43.00 realized and our suits are only partly paid for.

We were surprised in Bridgetown to see the interest taken by the citizens in the junior team. A large crowd were there on time to "root" for their home town boys after paying a liberal attendance fee.

Outside towns realize that we have the makings of a good team, consequently we are hooked for several games to be played in the near future. We sincerely hope that the citizens of this town will take a big interest in our team and the junior team as well. We need our own crowds that will fill that old ball field to the brim. Do not let a few citizens do it all. Everyone give a substantial offering. I thank you, Mr. Editor, for this space in your worthy paper.

A MEMBER OF THE TEAM.
JUBILEE PRESENTATION TO REV. E. F. ENGLAND.

At the conclusion of the Methodist Prayer Service on Wednesday evening, the Rev. D. B. England, who has completed fifty years of ministerial life in connection with the Nova Scotia Conference of the Methodist Church, was presented with a gold headed cane in honor of his jubilee.

The presentation was made by Rev. W. H. Watts, on behalf of the members of Windsor District and the Nova Scotia Conference. In the address which accompanied the tribute which was paid to the sterling qualities of character displayed by Mr. England throughout all the years of his ministry, faithful and successful work as a preacher and pastor, Mr. England who was completely taken by surprise, and who was deeply stirred by the love gift of his brethren, suitably replied.

In his reply he had reference to the early consecration of himself to the work of the ministry, and declared that through his life he had but one desire and that was to preach Christ by word and deed.

BROTHERS DROWN REACHING FOR HAT

Two small sons of Fletcher Sproule, eleven and nine years of age, were drowned at Lunenburg on Thursday. They were playing on a raft anchored near the shore, with their younger sister, when one of the boys dropped his hat into the water. Reaching for it he fell in and his brother, attempting to rescue him, also fell from the raft. J. D. Barjany rushed to their assistance, but was too late to save them. The boys were the eldest of seven children.

BECAME SO THIN SHE WAS AFRAID

"FRUIT-A-LIVES" Made Her Well, Strong and Vigorous

MADAME ARTHUR BEAUCHER

805 Cartier St., Montreal.

"I suffered terribly from Constipation and Dyspepsia for many years. I felt pains after eating and had gas, constant headache, and was unable to sleep at night. I was getting so thin that I was frightened, and saw several physicians who, however, did not seem able to help me.

At last, a friend advised me to take 'Fruit-a-lives'. I did so and soon I felt some relief. I continued with 'Fruit-a-lives' and in a short time, the constipation was banished, I felt no more pains or headache or the disagreeable sensations that follow dyspepsia. Now I am well, strong and vigorous."

Evangeline pple Cyder

"Evangeline" apple cyder doesn't just "happen" to be better than other cyders—it is made better—infinite pains are taken in every detail of its production. It should be good as it is made by Whiteheads, who have been established in Devonshire, England, for over 300 years.

In the selection of the fruit, the cleanliness and efficiency of the machinery, in the many stages of blending and refining, in every process right up to the final filling of the kegs or bottles, the greatest care is exercised. Also

CHERRY CARIVAL

Bear River's annual Cherry Carnival, which was held on Wednesday of last week, was attended by a large number from outside points. Due to the rain in the morning the events of the day were crowded into smaller space of time but most of them went off as per schedule. The races and water sports were well contested, the parade, however, was much smaller than usual. Bridgeport's ball team failed to arrive for the afternoon game; so a match was played between "Bear River" and the "Blue Mill" which showed a number of good plays for both teams. Dinner and supper were served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the G. W. V. A., and the hotels also catered to the crowd.

The concert in the evening was rendered by the "Schubert Quartet", which was heard here a short time before—and a full house testified to the excellence of the program. It seems a great pity that the Cherry Carnival should not be, as in former years, a community affair. Our town needs more of the community spirit, and should everyone come out and help, it could be made a day worth while. If everyone is interested, everyone will work—and the object of their work should be one for the benefit of the whole town, and not of any one factor. Let us merge our differences and be big enough to work for the common welfare!

BASE BALL

A good game at ball was played on the Club grounds on Thursday afternoon of last week, when the "Ladies" team defeated the "Home" team by a score of 11-6. This is Bear River's first defeat this season, but the visiting team put up a good game, and won by superior pitching and field work. Our boys need regular work. With more practice and good coaching they could be material to make an A-1 team, and to represent our home town to work hard, knowing they have the backing of their home town.

This is Bear River's first defeat this season, but the visiting team put up a good game, and won by superior pitching and field work. Our boys need regular work. With more practice and good coaching they could be material to make an A-1 team, and to represent our home town to work hard, knowing they have the backing of their home town.

A good game at ball was played on the Club grounds on Thursday afternoon of last week, when the "Ladies" team defeated the "Home" team by a score of 11-6. HAS THROWN HIS CRUTCHES AWAY

Halifax Man Was Unable To Walk For Rheumatism When He Began Taking Tanlac.

"I had quit work, was unable to walk, and thought the rheumatism had laid me out for good, but since taking Tanlac I have thrown my crutches away and am simply like a new man entirely," said John Olsen, 44 Dresden Row, Halifax, N. S., who has been a seafaring man for the past forty years.

"For three years I was troubled with rheumatism. My legs ached from my knees to my feet and for weeks at a time I was unable to walk a step. My knees were swollen and stiff and at times my legs were as stiff as a board. My ankles and feet would swell up so bad I couldn't get my shoes on and the muscles in my legs felt like they were tied in knots. I had sharp, shooting pains all through my legs and a good night's rest was almost impossible. Whenever I was on the ship they had to lift me out of my bunk and carry me around like a child. Last September when we arrived in Sydney I had them carry me ashore and put me on the train for Halifax, and when I reached there I couldn't walk a step.

"Well, while sitting around the house all the time I took to reading a good deal and each day I noticed the statements about Tanlac. So finally I decided to try it myself. The swelling and stiffness began to leave me and I was able to walk with the aid of crutches. I kept right on taking Tanlac until now I have thrown my crutches away, and can walk as good as I ever could in my life and the pains and aches have all disappeared. My appetite has improved and I have picked up several pounds in weight, and am feeling better and stronger than I have in many years."

Development of the West

COLONEL J. S. DENNIS.

The proceeding of the Grand Trunk Trunk Arbitration Board now sitting in Montreal in connection with the valuation and acquisition of a part of the Grand Trunk and Pacific Railways by the Canadian Government, were emphasized by a wide examination of Col. J. S. Dennis, of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Called as a witness to the history of the Canadian West, Col. Dennis, who perhaps has a wider and more personal knowledge of its growth and development than any other man, described the changes that have taken place in that great Western territory from the time when young men, in 1872, he first went West in the employ of the Department of the Interior until the present day—its early settlement and struggles, the method of land survey, first transportation lines, its agricultural beginnings, commercial extensions, mineral resources, etc., showing that the steady increase that has resulted during the period under discussion and under cross examination, giving his opinion of the future that lies before it.

Col. Dennis then went on to tell of the development of the West. He gave figures showing the increase in population for various periods; the growth of bank clearings at principal points; the increase in elevator capacity; the total land acreage and the acreage under cultivation; the growth of the railways; a description of the "Peace River country"; the amount of grain produced; the value of a settler to the railroads and the country; irrigation development and extension; mineral output and the prospect of the Alberta oil fields.

Before cross examination by the Government, counsel, and after a brief description of the proposed work of the Western Canada Colonization Company, the witness was asked to give his opinion of the outlook for future development of Western Canada. "Very briefly," said Col. Dennis, "my opinion with regard to the development of the Western Prairie Provinces is conditioned on one fact only. We have, as I have shown, at the present time, thirty-two million acres of land being cultivated, and the future of the West is dependent on the fact whether or not we have a very rapid development can be produced within the next few years, and the future of the Grand Trunk Pacific absolutely depends upon it."

"To sum up I will say that if all interests take hold of the matter intelligently and aggressively and the Government will consider the interests of the Nations' Railways and not bar the door, it is my opinion we should have a very marked movement of people to Western Canada, in fact, it will be disappointed if our immigration does not double within the next five years."

It must be plain to any sensible person who realizes this, that the stomach, liver and bowels must work in harmony if digestive troubles are to be avoided, or overcome. This fact alone explains why sufferers from indigestion, flatulence, nervousness, loss of appetite, and other ailments, should take Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) right now and start to feel better. A FEW THOUGHTS CONCERNING DIGBY

(Casually jotted down for The Courier)

That in the international beauty contest, Naples and Rio de Janeiro have nothing on Digby.

That Digby's golf course, like "The Courier," is one of the town's most valuable assets.

That June, with its apple-blossoms, lilacs and acacias, is Digby's premier month.

That Digby's private residences are about the most attractive in Canada.

That the new railway station is the biggest thing that ever happened to the place.

That Digby has greatly improved, architecturally, in the last quarter of a century.

That the "Empress" is as good a time-piece as the town clock.

That Digby sunsets are rivalled only in South America.

That "Circus Day" in Digby would make any octogenarian feel like a "kid."

That the voices of Digby's telephone girls are matched in sweetness only by those of Digby's many birds.

That a "Public Pavilion" is not supposed to be a special reservation for one throwing small boys.

That the bright young faces seen on Digby's streets during "Examination Week" are a joy to behold.

That Henry Ford should some day take a trip in one of his five-overs the Shore Road.

That the new Casino at "The Pines" certainly fills a long-felt want.

That the deforestation of Beaman's Mountain is something unthinkable.

That Digby's fire-fighting, Red Cross, and Chinese laundryman is a noble example to some of the town's caucasian citizens.

That Digby should spend more money advertising itself.

That the table-girls in Digby's hotels are the nicest in the world.

That the ivy on the Bank of Nova Scotia building is like an oasis in the Water Street desert.

That Digby isn't yet half awake to its possibilities.

That everyone who visits Digby says "I'm coming again next year, and going to stay longer."

That I have lots of other "thoughts" about Digby, but haven't time to express them.

HE CAN'T PRAISE TANLAC TOO MUCH

Halifax Man Says It Has Entirely Relieved His Wife Of Indigestion

"Tanlac restored my wife's health after she had suffered for ten years, and we cannot say too much in praise of it," said John Benzang, of 33 John St., Halifax, N. S.

"Her main trouble," he continued, "was indigestion." Her appetite was very poor and much of the time she could not retain any thing she ate. Gas formed on her stomach so bad she could hardly get her breath steadily and feels sharp pains around her heart which kept her in misery for hours. Nearly every day she had dull headaches, she was very nervous and restless and would roll and toss for hours at night and wake up in the morning as tired as when she went to bed. She lost weight and went down in health continually.

"She has taken six bottles of Tanlac now and her health is completely restored. Her appetite is splendid and her food seems to agree with her perfectly. She is gaining in weight steadily and feels so much stronger that she does her housework with ease. Her nerves are calm and steady and she sleeps well at night and is so much improved that her friends are constantly speaking of how much better she looks."

Tanlac is sold in Digby by P. W. Holdsworth and by leading druggists everywhere.

The publisher of the best Farmers' paper in the Maritime Provinces is writing to us later:

"I would like to do not know of a medicine that has stood the test of time like MINARD'S LIMENT. It has been an unflinching remedy in our house hold ever since I can remember, and has outlived dozens of would-be competitors and imitations."

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT SEA FISHES

MACKEREL

Probably none of our sea fishes is more interesting than the mackerel. For the last two months (May and June) schools of these fish have been followed by fleets of American purse-seiners and Canadian netters, in their migration up the Atlantic shore, from the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and just as eager as the fishermen have been to not this delicious pelagian, the public has been in its effort to procure it to the table.

The common mackerel is one of the best known food fishes. It is extremely strong, and the flesh is of the deep, by its swift form, metallic coloration, and technically, by the presence of a number of detached finlets between the back fin and the tail. The cut of the mouth is peculiar, the spines in the fins are feeble, the muscular system is extremely strong, and the flesh is very firm. It is in most swift-moving fishes and fishes of pelagic habits the bones of the spinal column are numerous and extremely small, an arrangement which makes for flexibility of the body.

The common mackerel is probably confined to the Atlantic, where on both European and American shores it runs in vast schools, the movement varying greatly from year to year, the preference being for cool water. Mackerel migrate northward to spawn. The female produces approximately a million eggs each year, according to Prof. Goode. These are very minute and each is provided with an oil globule which causes it to float on the surface. All of these eggs, of course do not mature.

Both the eggs and young are destroyed in great quantity by their natural enemies; hence, the reason for producing the eggs on such a large scale. The balance of nature suffices for all ordinary exterminating influences. During April or early May the mackerel strike our Atlantic coast of Carolina or Virginia where they are intercepted by a fleet of seiners from Massachusetts. These seiners which are a fine class of craft—yachts of great speed and very seaworthy, follow the schools up the coast. The first mackerel caught in southern waters are usually marketed fresh and command a high price, but as the seiners proceed north their catch is mostly salted in barrels.

While our American cousins have an extensive off-shore fishing fleet in pursuit of the mackerel, there is only one Canadian seiner operating this year. Our fishermen use dragnets or nets fixed in the bottom. The Canadian mackerel catch is thus rendered very uncertain because the schools may move to warmer waters for the winter.

The Fisheries Branch, Department of Marine and Fisheries, in 1920 instituted a scouting service to locate the mackerel schools as they approach the Nova Scotia coast, and notify the fishermen ashore. The fisheries protection cruisers, Arras and Hochelaga, which set out early in May met the mackerel and accompanied them along the coast. This year a similar service was maintained, but unfortunately both in 1920 and 1921 the schools did not follow the shore course, and hence our fishermen, who are dependent largely upon a movement inshore, did not have the success of other years.

Schools of mackerel vary greatly in size. Mackerel have been known to take three different routes after striking off the southwest shore of Nova Scotia. These routes, commonly known as the shore, inner and outer, all converge at Canso. Some schools, it is estimated, go through the Strait of Canso to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, but the great body reaches the Gulf by way of Cape Breton. After lingering for a period in the Gulf the fish disappear into deep water, returning again in the fall on their migratory course. One million barrels have been recorded on more than one occasion. A school such as this has been described as "a windrow of fish half a mile wide and 20 miles long." The bulk of mackerel taken is salted but fresh or salt they are consumed by Canadian Americans whenever available. It is estimated that the Massachusetts seiners put up about 400,000 barrels each year. Our Canadian fishery in 1919 brought 230,770 cwt., valued at approximately $1,500,000 of which 74,897 barrels were put up, valued at $1,038,000. In 1920 only 142,347 cwt. were caught, and 26,144 barrels packed.

Prof. Goode says that the mackerel when in season is one of the most delicious sea foods, ranking nutrition and palatability. Salt mackerel may be boiled as well as broiled and fresh mackerel may be treated in the same manner. A well-cured autumn mackerel he considers to be the finest of all salted fish. Generally speaking, mackerel is available on the Canadian market in the latter part of May, June, July, August, September and October.

ORIGIN OF FAMILIAR SURNAME

MacGREGOR

VARIATIONS—Gregor, Gregory, MacGregor.
RACIAL ORIGIN—Gaelic
SOURCE—A given name.

This is a true Gaelic family name, the name of a Highland clan which has one of the most romantic and unfortunate histories of any in Scotland.

It is likewise a very ancient name, far antedating the family name of England. It appeared first as a clan name about the time of King Alpin, who ascended the throne of Scotland in 787 A. D., and by one of whose sons the clan was founded. The given name from which it was taken, and which was brought into the Highlands by the migration of the Dalriadan Scots from Ireland was "Graig."

The MacGregor clan was the senior member of the confederation of clans anciently known as the Clan Alpin. It played a prominent part in the conquest of Argyle under King Alexander II., and the famous Rob Roy was a member of the clan. The period of outlawry lasted, with a brief interval under Charles II., from 1563 to 1775, with the result that members of the clan were scattered and forced to take other family names.

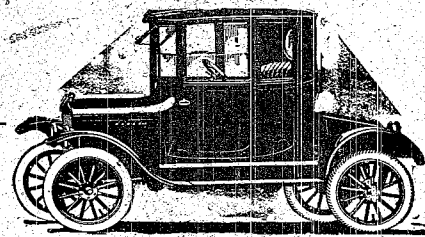

But in succeeding centuries the clan came in conflict with the Clan Campbell, and fell back upon the sword. It was the evidence of the displeasure of the Almighty at the continued violation of His day. And it looks reasonable too!

The Chinese woman is painstakingly particular as to the exact length and fullness or scantiness of her coats, skirts and trousers. And though the name of MacGregor is quite widespread today, it is not borne by nearly all who are entitled to bear it.

DIVINE ANGER AND SUNDAY ACCIDENTS

Bishop Doule of Kootenay, B. C., in his recent charge sees a national menace in the persistent abuse of the Lord's day. "No institution," he says, "is more inseparably bound up with the welfare of religion and the welfare of the nation. Where the Lord's day is kept and honored there religion flourishes, and where religion flourishes there prosperity abounds. And the converse is true also. To turn the day into a mere day of pleasure, a day of games and joy riding, a day for tea parties, dinner parties and card parties, a day marked by absence of public worship and given over to selfish indulgence, is but to invite the displeasure of Almighty God and withhold His blessing from our people. Equally pernicious," the Bishop declares, "is the growing custom of holding dances on Saturday night which are prolonged into the hours of Sunday morning and which unfit those taking part from joining in the worship of the Lord's day." The Bishop touches the vital spot. When we allow our pleasures or our business to interfere with our duty of worship or to deprive others of the opportunity of worship we not only deprive ourselves of spiritual gain, but we are courting national disaster. And a celebrated authority writes that he has no doubt the numerous Sunday accidents are the evidence of the displeasure of the Almighty at the continued violation of His day. And it looks reasonable too!

The Chinese woman is painstakingly particular as to the exact length and fullness or scantiness of her coats, skirts and trousers. And though the name of MacGregor is quite widespread today, it is not borne by nearly all who are entitled to bear it.

Is This Canada's Century?

We are fond of calling this Canada's century, comparing our status to that of the United States a hundred years ago, and settling back in a comfortable assurance that development will look after itself, and the beginning of the next century see the Dominion full blown as mature a nation as the great Republic to the south of us.

But are we going to achieve this? Perhaps. If we follow the dictates of the minority of laborers and others who have worked themselves into a frenzy over the possibility of immigration effecting a reduction in wages, regardless of the inevitable trend in this direction in the reaction of the war period,—not in a thousand years.

If we are going to take a pattern by the United States as we are prone to do in many things, a substantial healthy immigration is necessary to emigrate the wonderful development. Immigration built up the United States to the magnificent status she enjoys to day. If any citizen of this Dominion aspiring to the same destiny doubts this let him look at the figures published by the government of that country. More than thirty-four million immigrants entered the United States in the past century. In the same time the population of the country increased by 97,000,000. This is tantamount to saying that of every three people in the United States one is an immigrant.

In some of the years the total contribution of immigrants has exceeded one million. Canada's annual total is not much more than a hundred thousand and she has a larger area than the United States, and offers as great opportunities, agricultural and industrial, as the United States had to prosper in the last century.

It is a fallacy to think that development will look after itself. It must be aided. Immigration must be limited only by the desirability of the immigrants and the country's possibility of assimilation which is practically illimitable.

It is distinctly a grave risk one takes when he tries to beat a railroad train over a crossing.

Be More Patriotic.

Have you been to the movies lately? Mr. Walker has been giving us some excellent stuff—the Saturday night pictures being especially instructive and interesting. But have you noticed the lack of patriotic spirit displayed while the National anthem is played at the close?

Surely it is most deplorable that men, women and children living under such a glorious flag as ours should have so little respect for all it implies and so small a spirit of patriotism as to be unable to restrain the impulse to scramble out of the building while the strains of our beautiful National Anthem are being played. Surely we can exercise self control enough to stand attention for two minutes—if not some one should stand in front of the audience with a loaded gun until we had learned what patriotism means. Our American cousins are ahead of us in that respect—more life to us.

Life is largely a matter of unlearning all we think we know at twenty-one.

If we can see no use for our troubles, why they have none for us.

The game between Yarmouth Junior and Digby Juniors, played in Yarmouth Tuesday, resulted in a win for Digby, 12-8. The game was interesting throughout, but rather one-sided until the last inning, when the Yarmouth team made a dangerous rally scoring six runs. Our boys' batting showed up, and they also effected three snappy double-plays. Great credit is due to the Digby battery, Deane and Maise, for their splendid work. Digby Junior's next trip is to Bridgetown for the play-off with Annapolis.

A large troop of Boy Scouts are in Camp at Porters Lake under the care of Scoutmaster, Rev. D. E. Hatt and his assistant, F. L. Anderson. The boys are returning tomorrow morning. A public meeting will shortly be called for the presentation of a large number of the Scouts. Thirty-seven names are now on the list of those who have passed their tenderfoot tests.

A SPINNING BEE

"Have you ever been to a real honest to goodness 'Spinning Bee'?" Strange as it may seem a couple from Digby who were taking a trip through Shelburne county this summer had the good fortune to be present at no less an affair than a Spinning Bee.

They were passing through Sandy Point and stopped at a prosperous looking house to seek hospitality for the night. These being no hotels in sight. The lady who came to the door in answer to their ringing said that owing to the fact that this was her husband's room, she had stripped her spare room to spin in and had no other to offer them. The travellers were however invited to rest awhile and enjoy the merry making. Imagine their surprise to find no less than six spinning wheels going at full tilt in the spare room and some two or three others in the kitchen.

Noting the looks of surprise on the visitors' faces the hostess, who was an elderly woman explained that living as she did in so lonely a district she had to have something to do to keep past away the long winter hours so each year she had all the neighbours come in and spin a quantity of wool into yarn for her and in the winter she converted it into warm mittens.

The Digby lady who by the way had seen a spinning wheel before asked permission to try her hand at it and had the honor of turning a few "tolls" into the yarn that will make somebody's hands comfortable this coming winter.

The elimination fishing schooner race this year will not be held until October 1st, and the International race until October 22. It was decided by the committee at Halifax.

Evangeline Apple Cyder

"Evangeline" apple cyder doesn't just "happen" to be better than other cyders—it is made better—infinitely pains are taken in every detail of its production. It should be good as it is made by Whiteheads, who have been established in Devonshire, England, for over 300 years. In the selection of the fruit, in the cleanliness and efficiency of the machinery, in the many stages of blending and refining, in every process right up to the final filling of the kegs or bottles, the greatest care is exercised. FATHER POINT

Father Point Lighthouse, Foghorn Station and Keeper's House.

Father Point is a little Quebec town where it is still an ocean. It is here that the immigrant from European countries during the summer months gets his first human touch with Canada and Canadians. Father Point would not appeal to the ordinary tourist or holiday maker. It is off the beaten track and only reached by car from Rimouski. Its charm is merely that of hundreds of other French Canadian villages which are more accessible. The fresh breezes blow from off the St. Lawrence as they do upon countless other fishing villages along the river shore. This place is a haven for the tired, the brain-taxed, the overworked and neurotic in its meditative calm and brooding hush.

The great interest in the little hamlet is for those who go down to the sea in ships. Near the extremity of the point a modern lighthouse has been erected which each night flashes its warning light across twenty miles of water. In close proximity is the giant foghorn blasting its message when fog shrouds the light. Upon the hill stands a wireless station, which receives advice of every vessel entering the Gulf before it proceeds up the river. A coastguard and life saving station completes the precautions for the preservation of vessel and man upon the water. But greatest interest centres in the "Bureka," the sturdy little grey cement pilot boat which leaves its pier on the point to take out a river guide for all vessels going up to Quebec or Montreal. When the wireless report is received of the approach of a vessel all eyes are turned seawards and glasses and telescopes focussed upon the speck on the horizon following it as it takes shape over the rim of the sea. Larger and larger looms on what seems out to be a giant passenger liner of the Canadian Pacific bound with a heavy freight of human souls for the St. Lawrence ports. When about half a mile away or so the pilot boat leaves its pier and steams out to meet its mammoth sister. The pilot is, however, not the only man to go on board. There is the Inspector of Immigration, the Colonization Agent of the Canadian Pacific and the representatives of the passenger department of the same company, all having the same object, assisting the steamship passengers, preparing them for debarkation, and facilitating the actual landing. And so it is a goodly little number the pilot boat takes out on its short voyage.

It takes the speedy little craft but a short time to reach the big liner now merely drifting with the tide and waiting its arrival, and with a deft little swing she glides gracefully alongside, the incongruity of the pair forcibly suggesting another interpretation of "Dignity and Impudence." All the while the passengers are crowding the decks, and hanging in a dense mass over the side eagerly watching, wondering, and appraising.

The rope ladder is dropped from the liner and swings out from the side at each leave of the vessel. The pilot seizes it and climbs up hand over hand to be followed by the others who are to make the trip with the newcomers up the river. Remarks and light banter are interchanged, there is much waving of hands and fluttering of handkerchiefs, and the cheeriest of spirits prevails. Then the little boat pulls away, the Titan of the seas appears to recede, and in the echo of shouts and cheers the pilot boat turns her nose to the shore and fares and figures become obscure blurs.

The Nick in the Lapel Of Men's Coats
originated in the days of Napoleon. The Emperor tried to imitate his one time superior, General Moreau, in a campaign. Napoleon was so powerful that he was unable to express sympathy with Moreau. Therefore the general's supporters agreed to nick their coat lapels to form an M to show their loyalty. Today, in Digby, the same M can be understood to apply to Maise's up-to-date tailor.

WHEN USING WILSON'S FLY PADS

There is only one way to kill all the Flies

This is it—Darken the room as much as possible, close the windows, raise one of the blinds where the sun shines in, about eight inches, place as many Wilson's Fly Pads as possible on plates (properly wetted with water but not flooded) on the window ledge where the light is strong, leave the room closed for two or three hours, then sweep up the flies and burn them. See illustration below.

Put the plates away out of the reach of children until required in another room.

WHY RURAL LIFE IS PREFERABLE TO CITY LIFE

(By Florence Amy Holmes, of Centreville, Digby County, N. S.)

There are many reasons why I prefer rural to city life. Here are a few of them:

(1) GREATER FREEDOM AND SAFETY.

The country is the most free place that can be found. There are no police to watch every movement, or to put you in jail for throwing a pebble on the road. At night we may go to bed with the doors and windows wide open; and if anyone like the sport, they may sleep with comfort under a spruce tree without being afraid of waking in the morning to find themselves stolen. But this is not true of the city. There every door and window must be securely locked and bolted. When on the street it is necessary to guard against pickpockets and kidnappers, who dare not show their faces in the country. Altogether city life is one of watchfulness and fear, while that of the country is just the opposite, being a secure and care free one.

(2) BETTER INFLUENCES.

Influences of the country are much better than those of the city. The lives of the people are more simple and their custom less formal. Instead of being in theaters, balls and dances until two o'clock in the morning they are at home and about by nine, and awake before the sun is fairly up, getting the benefit of the early morning air, while others are in stuffy houses breathing a cubic mile of germs a minute. Country places, moreover, do not contain any "boozey" saloons or gambling dens, so the boys are at home studying their lessons, instead of running about. Country girls, too, are at home instead of keeping the sidewalks warm.

(3) BETTER HEALTH.

With hardly an exception, country people have better health than those who live in dusty, noisy cities. Country folk are strong and robust, while their city friends are thin and pale and have to spend a large part of their income for face-paint.

(4) MORE COMPLETE EDUCATION.

There are many branches of education, and a very important one of all these is nature study. But this is a subject which cannot be properly studied in the city because there are no fields or woods to select specimens from. City gardens never contain half the plants necessary for the study of botany; so it is only in the country that botany is studied as it is meant to be. City children have many places of amusement to distract them that there is little time for study. Then again, country girls, and boys too, spend more time in preparing their lessons, which would otherwise be occupied with styles and fashions.

(5) BETTER FOOD.

Food is one of the most important factors of good health, and it is not in the city but in the country that good food is obtained. The reason for this is because foods which spoil easily cannot be transported quickly enough, and so become unfit for use before reaching the tables of the people who live in large cities. Milk, which is a very essential food, is mixed with water until it just stands the test, while city people eat vegetables that country folk would give to the pigs. Often city water becomes so impure that it is necessary to buy spring water. But one advantage that city people have over others is that they often get eggs, and chickens too, at the same time and both for the same price!

(6) BETTER ENVIRONMENT.

Country surroundings are to be greatly preferred to those of the city. Besides having more and purer air, there is a great deal more light and sunshine. And even if it is warm in the country during the day, the heat is never so great as in the city, and there is always the hope of a cool evening when one can sleep without being disturbed by trains, electric cars and lights, to say nothing of fire-bells and whistles. Country people, too, have plenty of room to move about in, so there is no need of hanging the wash on the roof or planting the flower garden in boxes. In the city there is little to see but brick buildings and smoke, while country scenery is very pleasing at all times and seasons.

(7) MORE EXERCISING AMUSEMENTS.

As spring approaches and we begin to think of holidays, our mind naturally turns to the country. Here it is the pleasure-seekers flock as soon as the cold weather is fairly over. There are so many pleasant pastimes that it would be difficult to count them all. Boating, fishing, hunting and hiking, and reading under a spreading tree, or floating down a river in a canoe, are only a few of the pleasures that may be indulged in in the country in summer; while in winter there are many more. All country amusements in winter are very exciting, as well as those of summer, and not to be compared with sitting in a stuffy theater, which is the chief pastime of city-bred children, or playing in parks, where they are not allowed to pick a single flower. I am sure few persons ever thought of going to a city in summer to spend a vacation. So it is very easy to see that the country is the place for pleasure and the world's favourite playground in both winter and summer, and that the city is the place to be avoided as vacation days draw near.

It is for these, and many other reasons, that I prefer rural to city life, which reasons, I am sure, will outweigh the alluring but empty pleasures of the city.

ORIGIN OF FAMILIAR SURNAMES

MacNAB.

VARIATIONS—Abbot, Abbotson. ACCEL. ORIGIN—Scottish and English. SOURCE—Occupation.

The family name of MacNab is simply the Anglicized version of the Gaelic "Mac an Abbot." It means exactly the same thing as Abbotson, "son of abbot." From this it might be inferred, in view of the celibacy to which the clergy of both England and Scotland were bound (for both countries were Catholic) in a day when family names began to take shape, that there was scandal involved in the origin of this group of names. Such, however, is not the case. It is not possible to trace the English names to their various individual sources in all cases, of course, as they came into being here and there at different times in different parts of the country, but the Gaelic clan system permits us to trace the name in Scotland back to a single source.

MacNab is the name of one of the larger clans known as "Clann an Abbot," "the descendants of the Abbot." This particular abbot held official positions at Glendochart in the reign of King David I. He was not a priest, but a layman. The organization of the medieval abbots was not always entirely religious, and laymen often held official and administrative duties within them.

The English name in some cases may have originated as the result of a father of a family having renounced the married state and received holy orders, but the other explanation appears to be predominant.

The names Abbot and Abbotson are used by sept of the Clan MacNab.

SWORDFISH

Some Atlantic fishermen say: "Where you see swordfish you may know that mackerel are about." Corollarily, if this be so, where you know there are mackerel you may look with assurance for swordfish.

Fishermen who seek the swordfish off our Nova Scotia coast, as well as scientific men, will hardly support this statement. While the swordfish makes their appearance early in May, swordfish are seldom taken until August, so that if they are seeking the mackerel for food they're a bit late unless they expect to meet the schools on their southward migration.

The swordfish does appear to follow the same route as the mackerel up the Atlantic coast and Professor Goode would intimate that along the New England coast they follow quite close upon them.

The fishermen of Nova Scotia spear the swordfish. A platform, frequently built and elevated upon the bowsprit, gives the observer, who is also the spear-thrower, a commanding position. It swims near the surface, allowing its dorsal fin to appear above the water, as also the upper lobe of the caudal. It frequently leaps out of the water, and none of all the fishes of the sea can swim more swiftly or is more agile in its movements. The observer when he sees the fish breaking water, must be quick to throw the lance. When the weapon does go home the fisherman must prepare for a lot of work, because no creature of the deep has such a pugnacious disposition. It is played out and finally hoisted on board. The same method of capture is employed in fishing the tuna or horse mackerel on the Nova Scotia coast.

The swordfish derives its name from the fact that the bones of the upper jaw are consolidated into an elongated sword. This is its chief weapon of attack. The teeth are wholly wanting, there are no ventral fins, while the second of the two on the back is reduced to a slight finlet. The pointed head, the fins of the back and abdomen snugly fitting into grooves, the absence of ventral fins, slim, muscular body, adapt the fish for swift and powerful progression.

Professor Richard Owen, testifying in a British court as to the power of the swordfish, said: "It strikes with the accumulated force of fifteen double handed hammers. Its velocity is equivalent to that of a snail-shot, and is as dangerous in its effects as a heavy artillery projectile.

Professor Goode adds: "Many very curious instances are on record of the encounter of this fish with other fishes, or of their attack upon ships. What can be the inducement for it to attack objects so much larger than itself it is hard to surmise."

It surely seems as if a temporary insanity sometimes takes possession of the fish. It is not strange that, when harpooned, it should retaliate by attacking its assailant. An old swordfisherman told Mr. Blackford that his vessel had been struck twenty times; there are, however, many instances of entirely unprovoked attack on vessels at sea.

"It is the universal testimony of our fishermen that two are never seen swimming close together. Captain Ashby says that they are always distant from each other at least thirty or forty feet."

The pugnacity of the swordfish has become a byword. Without any special effort on my part numerous instances of their attack upon vessels have in the last ten years found their way into the pigeon-hole labeled "swordfish."

Swordfish are common on both the European and American shores of the Atlantic. They do not breed on our shores, but probably do so in the Mediterranean and other warm seas. They undergo great change in the process of development. The very young ones have the head armed with rough scales, and in no wise resemble the adults.

The swordfish is available in the Canadian markets most plentifully during the months of August and September. As a food fish it is one of the best, its dark-colored, oily flesh making excellent steaks. Its average weight is three hundred pounds with a maximum of six hundred and twenty-five pounds, and it attains a length of fifteen feet.

Nova Scotia fishermen in 1919 captured a fish of the species to the value of $96.07, representing a weight of 741.10 pounds. It was practically all marketed fresh.

The chrysanthemum, native of China, was introduced in England in 1764.

Serious consideration is being given by the administrators of the forest resources in the various provinces to a scheme for curbing the reckless carelessness of camping parties in needlessly starting forest fires. The job of extinguishing timber conflagrations resulting from the fires set by campers and cigarette smokers has cost the public treasuries such a sum of money that some means of curbing the evil will have to be devised.

Already the province of New Brunswick is considering the classification of its woodland area with a view to prohibiting the entry of fishermen and others who may employ camp fires or drop lighted tobacco and matches. A regulation might work a hardship on many sportsmen, but as a class fishermen, hunters and campers generally would have only themselves to thank for whatever penalties might be imposed upon them in the interest of forest protection. To leave the camp fire burning has been shown over and over again to have vicious possibilities. The value of the forest resource is such that not an acre of timber can be burned without the people as a whole paying a serious penalty.

James Ruggles, of Sturbridge, Mass., who has been bothered a lot this summer by one of his cows which has a habit of jumping the pasture fence, in order to break the cow of the habit brought a pair of automobile goggles, painted a fence on each lens and fitted them to the animal. "Bossy" after valiantly trying to jump the painted barriers is sticking to her own grazing grounds.

When Mrs. Philip Paley returned to her Pittsburg (Vt.) home the other day from a short vacation she found that she was unable to enter, for, in her absence, bees had taken possession of the house. She called the police, but they admitted defeat without an attempt at combat, so she set about getting aid from the Board of Health.

ACADIAN CELEBRATION

The Acadians of all parts of Canada and United States met at Church Point, this week to observe their national holiday, which falls on August 15th, the Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary, in honor of which the society is named. It was intended to hold this meeting at Grand Pre, where the Acadians have acquired the title of the people of land on which stood the old Catholic chapel, but the idea was abandoned because of lack of accommodation. It was then decided by the members to hold the Congress at Church Point. The convention was followed by a grand pilgrimage to Grand Pre, where a special program was carried out. THEBA BARA BAYS PROPERTY

The big real estate deal in which T. Beda Bara, the celebrated movie actress and her husband, are interested, has been put through this week. When they were here during the early part of the season options were secured on the properties which belonged to J. Hart. The properties included the estate, Edward Everett and Wm. W. Jefferson. They are not, as previous reports said, on the shores of the Annapolis Basin, but instead are on the Bay of Fundy shore of Digby county, on the old road leading from the Lighthouse Road to the lead to Broad Cove and comprises approximately 800 acres. They are all on the shore and stretch from the Point Prim Light to point just below the "Princess Louise" monument (erected to the memory of those who lost their lives in the Princess Louise wreck) a distance of almost two miles.

BOY SCOUTS ATTENTION!

The Digby Scouts will assemble on the Commodore's lawn on Monday next, at three o'clock, to prepare for the obligation to be taken by all Tenderfoot Scouts of the Digby Troop (including Hill Grove) on Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the Court House. They will also gather on the Commodore's lawn on Tuesday evening at seven o'clock for final instructions and will march to the Court House in a body.

OPEN-AIR BAND CONCERT IN DIGBY, AUGUST 24TH

A Band Concert, by the Annapolis Royal Concert Band, is promised for Tuesday evening at 8:30 on the Digby Band Stand near the Boat Slip, provided a popular subscription in advance is reasonably generous.

The idea, which originated with the Bandmaster, Paul Yates, is endorsed by our leading citizens, and should have the hearty support of the public. It has been over a year since Digby has had such a concert, except by circus bands, and this will be a most welcome feature in the summer's enjoyment. The A. R. C. Band consists of 24 uniformed members, among whom are several ladies, and is equipped with silver instruments of the highest grade. It is strictly amateur, no players receiving any compensation, and its membership includes many of the most prominent business and professional men of Annapolis.

Though it will cost the Band over $50.00 to give this concert, they are asking no cash guarantee, but will rely upon subscriptions and a collection at the concert which the audience will doubtless make a very generous one. The Band needs funds for its maintenance and further equipment.

SUCCESSFUL GARDEN PARTY.

A garden party held in Capt. Joe Snow's field at Fort Wade, on Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of raising funds to aid in the work of the Methodist church, was a wonderful success.
 A notable feature, and one worthy of mention, was the united efforts put forth by members of all the churches.
 Singers of the Baptist and Methodist choir met at the home of W. V. Bogart, the previous evening for rehearsal, and speeches were planned. But owing to inclement weather, the music and speaking were abandoned.
 About $200 was raised from meal tickets and ice cream. Miss Lizzie McWhinnie's sale of aprons, etc., to aid Foreign Missions netted $5.10 making a total of $103.10.

SCHOONER EDITH MONTYRE ASHORE

The schooner Edith McIntyre, which went ashore at Tiner's Point, N. B., on Friday, is still there. The tug Lord Beatty, accompanied by the government steamer Alderford, went to the point and endeavored to get the schooner off the rocks. This effort resulted in moving the schooner about four feet but it was found that she was so wedged in between the rocks that nothing could be done until the high tides due about the middle of this week.

The schooner is so tightly wedged because she ran ashore at high tide when she was sailing light and later, after she was partly filled with water, she took so much more depth that she became solidly wedged between the rocks.

She is owned and commanded by Captain Edward Dicks of Charlottetown, and had just been extensively repaired at New Brunswick.

When she first went ashore there was a rock sticking up through the schooner's bottom. The sails were stripped in case the vessel should prove to be a total loss.

PHYSICAL CULTURIST NOT "PHYSICAL TORTURIST."
 There is a difference! And Miss Edna Eugenia Lowe who comes to our Chautauqua is the former. Here is what a former co-worker of hers reports, she started in with about thirty or forty the first morning. The crowds grew larger each day, until at her last lecture she had between five and six hundred, and they came to me and asked on Saturday that I have her speak at five o'clock in the evening. She had already spoken to a large crowd in the morning. After a two-hour and ten-minute intermission, I simply announced from the platform that Miss Lowe would speak, and in five minutes the auditorium was filled. Anyone that can draw crowds like that, I should say was making good.

Evangeline Apple Cyder

"Evangeline" apple cyder doesn't just "happen" to be better than other cyders—it is made better—infinite pains are taken in every detail of its production. It should be good as it is made by Whiteheads, who have been established in Devonshire, England, for over 300 years. In the selection of the fruit, in the cleanliness and efficiency of the machinery, in the many stages of blending and refining, in every process right up to the final filling of the kegs or bottles, the greatest care is exercised. Dartmouth Man Says He Found Relief After Years
Tanlac.

"For four long years I suffered beyond words with the worst kind of stomach trouble. But thanks to Tanlac, I am now a well man and can enjoy three good square meals a day," said Robert Langille, who lives on Tulip St., Dartmouth, N. S. "I couldn't eat a thing but what would sour and ferment on my stomach and I would blow up with gas until I would almost suffocate. I lost all desire for food and was really afraid to eat because of what I would suffer afterwards. I was constipated and had dull throbbing headaches. For hours at night I would roll and toss from one side of the bed to the other, and when I got up in the morning I just felt all in and unfit for my day's work."

"After taking only a few bottles of Tanlac all my ailments have disappeared and I am feeling as well as I ever did in my life. My appetite is splendid and I can eat things that I haven't dared touch for years and never suffer the least bit from sourness, gas or indigestion. I am no longer bothered with constipation or headaches and I sleep so well at night that I get up in the mornings feeling just grand."

Tanlac is sold in Digby by P. W. Holdsworth, and by the leading druggists in every town.

SOLDIERS' MEMORIAL MONUMENT UNVEILED

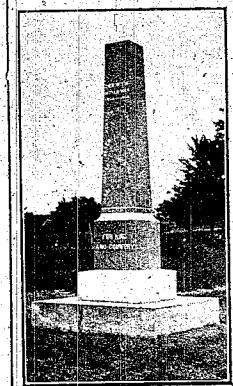

THE LAD THAT LIVES
By Maurice E. Balk

(Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.—John 15:13)

Any little boy
That I see Brings a tender glow
Over me;
Brings a living joy,
And a tear
Any little boy, Anywhere
For where I go,
When I see
Any little boy,
Quietly
Steals a little lad
To my side
Lives a little lad
Who has died.

Soldiers' Memorial Day,
St. Mary's Bay (Barton, N.S.), Aug. 17, 1921

Among the pleasing events in Digby county last week was the unveiling of a Soldiers' Memorial Monument at Barton. This took place on Wednesday afternoon but it was overshadowed as a news item by the greater events taking place at Church Point. There was a large concourse of people in attendance and the affair passed off very successfully. Following is a copy of the programme carried out:

Singing—Onward, Christian Soldiers—General Chorus.
Opening Address—J. Almon Morehouse.
Prayer—Rev. Mr. Taylor.
Address—Dr. Canard, Boston.
Address—Dr. Johnson, Barton.
Address—Dr. Dickey, Barton.
Address—Dr. Harris, Yarmouth.
Remarks—Mrs. Henley.
Address—Rev. D. M. Farquhar.
Unveiling of the Monument—M. E. Balk.

The ladies having charge of the sale of tags were very active and did a thriving business. The following comprised the committee: Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Dickey, Miss Lambertson, Miss Canard and Miss Perry.

The placing of flowers on the monument by the children was a pleasing feature of the exercises of the day.

The general committee, to whom must be given the credit for the successful carrying out of this event are Mr. Grant, Mr. Smith, Mr. McNeill, Dr. Harris, Dr. Dickey and Dr. Canard.

M. E. BALK who unveiled the Memorial Monument at Barton.

When two buildings in Chicago collapsed the other day, a large mirror on the wall of one of them was the only article of furniture that was not destroyed.

WOMEN BANK CLERKS

It is predicted in some quarters that Canadian Banks will gradually eliminate women clerks, who entered into our financial institutions in large numbers during the war. Possibly the banks may be influenced to some extent by the desire to provide jobs for men, tens of thousands of whom are now idle. It is not suggested that women clerks are not competent; on the contrary, they are said to give efficient service.

"One bank with a staff of 2,300 all told is said to have 700 women on its pay roll, which suggests that it has not been dissatisfied with its experiment of taking on women clerks."

But it seems that women do not fit into one feature of Canadian banking practice, and that is the system of promotion. Canadian banks, having branches all over the country, usually make promotions by transferring employees from one town to another, and the great majority of women will not leave their home town to accept new positions. Hence, in the Canadian banker's system of promotion has broken down, and they are considering getting rid of women employees, or at least not engaging more women except for very subordinate positions.

Joseph Gillett, of Florence, Mass., who has just passed his 99th milestone, usually works nine hours a day in his woodlot, and it was with difficulty that his friends dragged him away for a few hours last week to celebrate his birthday.

ORIGIN OF FAMILIAR SURNAMES

GOLDSMITH
VARIATIONS: — Goldschmidt, Goldschmidt, Silversmith, Silberschmidt, Silberschmidt, Nasmyth, Greensmith, Brownsmith.

PACIAL ORIGIN—English and German.

SOURCE—An occupation.

Here is another group of Smith names, some of which are widespread and some of which are uncommon.

From the fact that the German name of Goldschmidt, or Goldschmidt, is exactly the parallel of the English Goldsmith, there are many who assume that the latter is merely a translation of the German name. It is true that in a great many cases, particularly on this continent, where a very large proportion is of German descent, the German form has been changed to the English. But the name has an English origin as well. The same hold true of Silversmith. Both of these names are to be found in the medieval tax lists and records of England, together with such names as Nasmyth, Greensmith and Brownsmith. In those days, they were nearly always spelled with a "y" and bore a final "e". The "d" of course, was then as it is today, an artisan who fashioned gold into various articles of utility or adornment, while the silversmith worked in silver. The origin of the name Nasmyth is a little more obscure, but philology and social history prove that the word from which it was taken was the equivalent of "nail-smith," just as Armist, explained in a former article, is another form of "arrow-smith."

A "brownsmith" was a smith who worked in bronze, and a "greensmith" worked in lead.

PERMITS REQUIRED TO CARRY FIREARMS

All Persons Are Now Required To Get a Permit to Carry Even An Air Rifle in Public.—Can't Buy Any Firearm or Weapon Without Permit.

The hunting and shooting season of 1921 will see some drastic regulations in force, under legislation passed during the last session of the Canadian Parliament. For the benefit of readers of the Courier, the law is published in full. In order that there may be no mistake as to its provisions, copies of the act have been mailed to all dealers in guns and rifles, of all kinds. Even air rifles are covered by the law. Before any person can purchase any gun, revolver or rifle, he must first get a written permit from some person authorized to issue such permit. After he buys the weapon, he must then get a permit to carry it. He is not allowed to go any place with such weapon, beyond his home, unless he takes out a permit. This means that every person entering a place to shoot, this fall, must first obtain a permit. It is a decided change from the old order of things, but it will enable the authorities to keep close tab on all hunters. A copy of the form required by law to be filled out by the magistrate or other person issuing the permit, is to be found in this article.

SECTION 76 OF THE CRIMINAL CODE AS AMENDED TO 1921

Part 2 of Criminal Code (re-enacted).

SAVED FROM LIFELONG MISERY

And a Dangerous Operation, by Taking "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

"I suffered with all the symptoms of Female Trouble, with chronic Constipation and constant Headaches. I had pain low down in the back and sides of the body. I tried various remedies without relief, and then put myself under a doctor's care and he advised me to have an operation. I refused.

"Then I started taking 'Fruit-a-tives', and from the outset, I felt better, and this medicine has completely relieved me of all my misery and suffering. My weight was only 143 pounds and now it is 168 pounds. I am free from pain and headaches and the terrible constipation and what saved me from misery is the splendid fruit medicine, 'Fruit-a-tives'."

BENEFIT BAND CONCERT
A most successful affair was held on the tennis grounds of Dr. L. J. Lovett, on Friday evening, August 19th, when the Bear River Brass Band gave an outdoor concert, under the auspices of the Women's Institute. The grounds were prettily decorated, and Japanese lanterns suspended from the trees supplied a softened light, which with the background of natural beauty, made a scene well worth looking upon. A full program was rendered by the band, and during intermission hot tea and coffee, sandwiches and cake were served. Home-made ice cream and candy were also sold—the total proceeds amounting to $120. Hearty votes of thanks were given to the Institute by the band for the efforts put forth on their behalf—the entire proceeds going to the band fund—as well as to Dr. and Mrs. Lovett who so generously donated the use of their grounds.

Threshing

This game will be fully reported next week.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES
The Methodist congregation will hold a reception for their new pastor and wife, Rev. Carl Mack, in the Church this (Friday) evening. Committees are at work preparing to make the event a happy occasion. A large attendance is expected. Refreshments will be served.

On Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. Carl Mack, preached a very foretelling and practical sermon to a large congregation of tithing for his text: "Preach the Word." He pointed out the difference in order of worship in non-preaching and preaching churches and showed that preaching takes the place of ritual in the Methodist Church. Therefore the task that the man occupying the pulpit has upon him is a great one in that he has to understand the longings and desires of human beings and endeavor to bring God near to the people. To do this every last ounce of strength and physical power was necessary on the part of the pastor, and he hoped to do this during his

Local and General

Oakdene school opened Monday morning. The school building has undergone extensive repairs during vacation and presents a very creditable appearance, every nook and corner being thoroughly cleaned and re-painted. Bear River has reason to be proud of its school and every pupil should co-operate with the teachers in keeping it neat and clean throughout the school term.

OBITUARY

Capt. John Benson, one of the well-known figures of the town, passed away on Monday morning, August 22nd, about 9.20 o'clock. His father, Christopher Benson, was a striking figure in the early business life of the town—being for years master ship-builder for the late Alpheus Marshall, Sr.; when the father retired from active work, the son took his place and carried on his work—and has to his credit many of the finest vessels that ever sailed through Digby Gap. After the decline in wooden ship-building, he bought the marine ship at Meteghan, where he did much of the repairing and ship work in the Western part of the province. Later, on selling out, he became the representative of the American Bureau of Shipping for the Inspectorial District of Kings, Annapolis and Digby Co., a position which required constant attention during the war time boom in wooden ship-building. This strenuous all-year-round work was a severe tax on his strength, and possibly hastened the end. For the past three years Capt. Benson has been quietly at home—but failing steadily. Born in 1837, Captain Benson has been a prominent Mason since about 1869, and was one of the original members of "The Keith Lodge." In addition to building many ships, he also sailed most successfully as supercargo, and visited various other countries, such as England, South Africa, South America, West Indies, etc. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Percy Reed, and three sons: Reginald, Harold and Laurie. The funeral took place with Masonic honors on Wednesday afternoon from his late residence.

BASEBALL
The best showing of the season was made by the local team, at Bridgetown on Monday night, August 22nd, when the regular boys were opposed on vacation, and two of them motored one hundred miles to play in the game, and the team was somewhat disorganized, it still put up the best ball yet played by the Bear River aggregation. And the score against the local boys would indicate that they will have to be reckoned with the Valley League next year. At the end of the third innings Bear River was leading by a score of 2 to 1, but a few errors on the part of the home team coming at a time when the bases were full, put Bridgetown in the lead and the game finally finished 15 to 6 in favor of Bridgetown. Bridgetown has already scored 12 to 0 against Lawrenceton and 7 to 2 against the Crescents (Halifax), so Bear River is feeling elated rather than depressed over the result. It is expected that a return game will be played at Bear River on Tuesday next, August 30th.

The local team is scheduled to play its second game this week away from home. On Thursday they play a return game at Lawrenceton and it is expected that the team will be even stronger than it was at Bridgetown. The annual Farmers' picnic is to be held at Lawrenceton on the above date and a double-header will be played—Berkwick vs. Lawrenceton in the morning and the winners vs. Bear River in the afternoon. This game will be fully reported next week.

term in Bear River. He appealed to his people to make preparation for the Sabbath services, so that the greatest good may come to all through the worship of God on His day and during all the days that may come to us as pastor and people.

Rev. J. W. O'Brien and family left on Saturday last for the return trip to their home in Oxford, after an enjoyable two weeks spent in visiting among the people of their former pastorate.

The congregation had the pleasure of having Mr. O'Brien preach on Sunday, August 14th, when he occupied the pulpit at the morning services. He spoke with all his former eloquence and power, taking for his text Psalm 76-101 "Surely the Wrath of Man Shall Praise Thee, but the Remembrance of Thy Wrath Shall Thou Restrain."

The chief points emphasized were: (1) The Divine restraints of evil; (2) The Divine coercion of evil. We are not only served by evil, but we are served by evil. We need greater faith at this time in the world's history than ever before. Let us always remember that we are not joining a losing cause when we join the services of God.

THE NEW GARAGE A CREDIT TO DIGBY

The new building built by the Universal Garage Limited to replace the one destroyed by fire a few weeks ago is now practically completed. It has been open for business for two or three weeks but the carpenters were not through and the full equipment had not been installed. This garage would be a credit to a town ten times as big as Digby and it is certainly a valuable addition to the commercial buildings of this town. It is built on Prince William street, on the same lot as was occupied by the old building, and is 100 feet long by 30 feet wide. It is built of hollow concrete blocks and is the first building in town of that construction; the blocks are laid in alternate layers of smooth and rough, face making a pleasing appearance. The roof is of truss construction and is circular in form. It is covered with enameled slate covered roofing which is absolutely fireproof. Although a fire might break out and sweep the inside of the building it could not work outside on account of the concrete walls and the fireproof roof covering, and the same combination renders the building practically safe from any fire originating outside. There is a straight driveway right through the centre of the building, large double doors being placed at each end.

Immediately at the right on entering through the main entrance is the business office, which can also be entered from the yard. This is an attractive room, about 17 by 14 feet, one corner of which is partitioned off as a private office for the manager. A divided door communicates to the stock room immediately in the rear—a stock room which is spacious and light and which will hold an immense quantity of goods. A small wicket opens into the repair department which will make it very convenient for the handling of small parts and for the keeping of proper stock records. The repair shop has two large double doors entering from the main garage and three cars can be handled at one time. It is not equipped with a pit as many old time garages are, as it has been found by experience that pits cannot be kept clean. Instead of that large timbers have been placed overhead, and chain lifts provided by which any size car can be lifted clear of the floor and placed in any angle desired for convenience in working around any part. The northern end of the repair shop will be occupied by the battery service station and the free air service, so necessary a department in all garages; and the south end will be occupied by the vulcanizing department.

Gasoline, oils and greases will not be kept in the building at all except in small containers for immediate use around the cars and repair shop. A large Bowser tank has been installed at the edge of the sidewalk for gasoline, and an oil shed about 10 by 5 feet has been built in front of the garage, also of concrete blocks with a rounded roof to match the main building. (The photo as published today was taken before the oil shed was built, but the foundation can be plainly seen.)

The garage is exceptionally well ventilated and lighted and the Universal Garage Limited are to be congratulated on the splendid quarters they now occupy. The contractors for the building were Denton & Condon, a local firm which is attaining a provincial reputation for excellence and rapidity of work. The two photos published show better than words the speed with which they pushed forward the work. That of the ruins was taken by Paul Yates on July 15th, and that of the finished building on August 15th—just a month having elapsed. Denton & Condon fortunately have the ability of surrounding themselves with first-class and loyal workmen—men who were just as anxious to make a record as were the firm themselves, and this splendid building is the result.

A THRILLING FIGHT WITH FIRE IN THE BAIE DeCHALEUR

Particulars of Destruction of Three Master Schooner
Bernice R., Built in Digby County.

FATHER BOURG FIRST ACADIAN GRAND VICAR

Abbe Melanson, curé of Campbellton, N. B., well known in the literary world, has written an admirable biography of Mathurin Bourg, the first Canadian priest and Grand Vicar of Acadia for some years. This interesting contribution to Acadian, and Canadian history has recently been published by L'Imprimerie Populaire of Rimouski, Que.; the present edition is printed in French, but it is to be hoped that an English translation will be available before long, because it would be read with interest by the English speaking people of the Maritime provinces in particular and by Canadian generally. Mgr. Chénisson, Bishop of Chatham, N. B., has contributed an interesting preface to the book.

Mathurin Bourg, the first Acadian to attain the dignity of the priesthood, was born at Grand-Pré in the Land of Evangeline in 1744. When the Acadians were expelled young Bourg with his family was placed on a vessel, which set sail for Virginia. But for some reason her destination was changed, and she proceeded to Bristol, England, where her passengers were held as prisoners of war. For eight years the Bourg family lived in prison camps, and during this time young Mathurin learned English, an accomplishment which enabled him to render many good services to his compatriots in later years. When peace was finally declared between England and France the Bourg family, along with other Acadians, held in England, went to Brittany and Normandy. But they were no longer content with old France, and being homesick for the hills and valleys of Acadia, made their way back to these provinces as opportunity offered. Young Bourg, however, had resolved to become a priest, and he stayed on in Old France for some years, studying at the College of Brittany and later at the Seminary of Paris. In 1772 he returned to Canada and on September 17 of that year he was ordained priest at the Hotel Dieu in Montreal. Mgr. Briand, the aged Bishop of Carleton, who then oversaw the French Catholics throughout the Canadian provinces, was much pleased to welcome the young Acadian to the priesthood, and assigned him to service among the Acadians. Father Bourg established himself at Tracadie, in the County of Carleton, on the North Shore of the Bay of Chaleur, and from there he made visits to the Acadian settlements scattered throughout the Maritime provinces—on the St. John River, on St. Mary's Bay, and other points on the Nova Scotia coast. In these journeys he endured many hardships, often knowing hunger, and often being compelled to make camp in the snow. In these labors he spent twenty-three years.

In 1793 the Bishop offered him the charge of the Parish of St. Laurent near Montreal, and this he accepted. But the years of hard labor had told upon him, and after two years of comparative repose in St. Laurent he passed away in his 52nd year.

While the Acadian congress was in session at Church Point, N. S., the French papers of Montreal published lengthy reviews of the biography of Father Bourg.

Recently Abbe Chouinard, present curé of Carleton, initiated a movement to erect a monument in memory of the one time Grand Vicar of Acadia there, and doubtless this worthy project will make a strong appeal to all Acadians.

Meanwhile those who read the excellent biography written by Abbe Melanson will be helping the hospital at Campbellton, N. B., for the proceeds of the sale of the book will go to that institution.

Lawns of concrete have been introduced to save the trouble of watering and cutting the grass. Painted a natural-looking green, the concrete lawn appears, from a little distance, like the genuine article.

The highest sun temperature ever recorded was at a point on the Persian Gulf, where the black bulb solar thermometer has registered 137 degrees.

A thrilling fight with fire which resisted the efforts of Capt. George A. Haughn and his crew of five men and totally destroyed their three-masted schooner Bernice R. in the Baie de Chaleur, is related by the commander who, with the mate, steward and sailors escaped from the burning craft and landed at Bathurst, N. B.

The schooner Bernice R., of LaHave (N. S.) loaded a cargo of coal at Kelley's Cove, near New Campbellton (Campbellton) for the Canadian National Railway at Campbellton (N. B.) two weeks ago. While off East Port, on the Quebec side of the Baie de Chaleur, on Wednesday of last week fire started in the engine room and spread rapidly. Captain Haughn and his men fought the flames vigorously, but were driven back by the intense heat time and again. The fire extended to the side of the vessel, which soon became a fiery furnace. The crew retreated step by step as the flames continued to gain. Shortly after the schooner's sides began to blaze furiously the sails ignited and all above deck was destroyed.

Hastily snatching a few garments the crew pitched into their gasoline boat, which had been lowered for emergencies, and cut loose just in time to save their lives.

The Bernice R. was burned to the water's edge and went down to the bottom of the bay with a quick plunge when the water poured into the bowels of the deeply laden ship.

Captain Haughn and crew made the nearest telegraphic station, which happened to be the port of Capbec, where they notified the owners of the disaster. They then crossed the bay to Bathurst and later left by C. N. R. for Halifax.

The Bernice R. was built in Salmon River, Digby County in 1918 by J. N. Rafuse & Sons, Ltd. She registered 378 tons gross and 324 net. She was owned by M. J. Parks & Co. of LaHave. She was insured for $4,000.

The Bernice R. is the second vessel that has been lost recently off the north New Brunswick coast. The Rupert K. from Sydney for Campbellton with a cargo of coal, was burned to the water's edge and sank about sixty miles off the coast on Aug. 1. The crew landed at Tracadie.

BASEBALL

Bear River Defeats Lawrence town.

Spectators who witnessed the game at both Middleton and Lawrence town Thursday last claim that a better exhibition of ball was given in the Bear River vs. Lawrence town game than in the Middleton vs. Yarmouth game. At Lawrence town the game was particularly strong. The line-up of the Bears was as follows:
Pitcher, K. Hibbs, pitcher, J.
Clarke, catcher, B. Alexander, first base, E. Patterson, second base, J.
Speers, short stop, P. Speers, third base, W. Beeler, left field, W. Evans, centre field, C. Rice, right field, and for the first time this season the outfield was particularly strong. At the end of the seventh inning the score was 7 to 3 in favor of Lawrence town, but a heavy batting streak in the eighth on the part of the visitors resulted in a tie, and in the ninth Bear River scored an additional run, with a zero for Lawrence town, resulting in a win of 8 to 7 for Bear River.

The recent progress made by the local boys has been phenomenal and they deserve very special credit for their work. Two months ago they were not organized and did not even have a ball field, and to-day they are making the teams in the Valley League at St. John's and taking notice.
As well as the case of a new team in their field work is not as strong as it should be, but it is conceded that their batting is the equal of that of any other team in the Valley.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

A community service was held in the Baptist Church on Sunday evening, when the Russian Cathedral Quartet was again heard in a number of selections. This feature was indeed a real treat to all music lovers, and had it been the only concert was the whole Chautauqua course. Dr. William T. Ellis also delivered a strong and eloquent address, dividing his subject matter under three heads—
"Democracy," "Patriotism" and "Religion." The crowded house testified to the quality of the service, and all left the church feeling strengthened and uplifted by the wonderful music,

How the Indians Lived Before the Whites Came.

Before the coming of the white man there was on this continent no such numerous population as early historians would have us imagine. A study of the subject, however, managed presents the conclusion that there were never more than 250,000 aboriginal people of the thirty-five tribes and (250,000) of the century was much more than was settled.

The term "Indian" is used exclusively to designate most of the tribes were, solitary, and agricultural. They lived in villages, which were usually fortified with palisades and ditches, and the houses were made of pumpkins, etc. Notwithstanding occasional internecine wars, they were, on the whole, peaceful, and were the whites, always rapacious, who stirred them up, robbed them of their lands and drove them to wandering and death.

The solitary character of many of the tribes may be judged from the fact that the Indians of the century were usually solitary, and agricultural. They lived in villages, which were usually fortified with palisades and ditches, and the houses were made of pumpkins, etc. Notwithstanding occasional internecine wars, they were, on the whole, peaceful, and were the whites, always rapacious, who stirred them up, robbed them of their lands and drove them to wandering and death.

Evangeline Apple Cyder

"Evangeline" apple cyder doesn't just "happen" to be better than other cyders—it is made better—infinite pains are taken in every detail of its production. It should be good as it is made by Whiteheads, who have been established in Devonshire, England, for over 300 years. In the selection of the fruit, in the cleanliness and efficiency of the machinery, in the many stages of blending and refining, in every process right up to the final filling of the kegs or bottles, the greatest care is exercised. The Nick in the Lapel Of Men's Coats originated in the days of Napoleon. The Emperor tried to imitate his one time superior, General Moreau, in a conspiracy. Napoleon was so powerful that it was unsafe to express sympathy for the Emperor. The Emperor's coat-makers agreed to nick their coat lapels to form an M to show their loyalty. Today, in Digby, the same M can be understood to apply to Mulse, the up-to-date tailor.

A MINISTER WINS GUIDE'S RIFLE SHOOT

The first tournament under the auspices of the New Brunswick Guide's Association opened at Pine Cove, Marysville, Thursday afternoon with a large crowd in attendance. The afternoon was given over to trap-shooting and rifle matches; the several events being keenly contested. In the trap-shooting event, in which twenty-five birds were shot at, Sheriff Smith of Digby was winner, breaking 23. Jack Leament of Truro, was second with 21. The rifle contest, five shots at 150 yards, was won by Rev. E. W. Lester, of Marysville, with 16 points. The trap-shooting contest for guides was won by Moses Westcott of Doaktown with six birds. An excellent camp supper was served by the guides to a large number of people. The tournament continued until Saturday.

MERCHANT TELLS OF A REMARK- ABLE CASE

Writing from Maxey, Ga. A. J. Gillen, proprietor of a large department store at that place, says:

"I have a customer here who was in bed for three years and did not go to a meal at any time. She had five physicians and they gave her up. One bottle of Tanlac got her up, and the second bottle she commenced keeping house and on the third she did all the cooking and housework for a family of eight."

This sounds really incredible, but it comes unrefuted from a highly creditable source and is copied verbatim from the letter.

Tanlac is sold in Digby by P. W. Holdsworth, and by leading druggists everywhere.

CUNNINGHAM

RACIAL ORIGIN—English.

SOURCE—Descriptive of localities.

Rabbits and Scottish history are mixed up interestingly in the development of the family name of Cunningham, and so is the rabbit in ancient Anglo-Saxon times, the evolution has been as follows:

There is probably no animal which has left such an impress on the names of localities in England as the rabbit. The rabbit was most plentiful, and the old Teutons, who formed the base of the modern English stock, most naturally used his name in designating the various localities in which he abounded.

They called him the "conig" or "cony," a word for rabbit which survives in the local speech of a good many places in England today as "coney."

Thus England abounds with such names as Conington and Coningsby, which have become family names from origin.

Forms such as "de Conington," or "de Coningsby," a word for rabbit which survives in the local speech of a good many places in England today as "coney."

TOWN COUNCIL PASSES RESOLUTION OF APPRECIATION OF G. A. VYE'S SERVICES

The regular monthly meeting of the town council was held in the Council Chamber last week when there were present the Mayor H. T. Watne in the chair, Councillors W. F. Read, S. A. Keen, George Keen, F. L. Anderson and W. S. Troop.

The minutes of the last meetings were read and approved. Dr. B. DuVernet, Health officer, reported as follows: "I beg to report that everything has been very quiet re public health matters during the past three months. There have been few complaints and only two cases of infectious diseases."

G. A. Vye, superintendent of streets and water, reported as follows:

"New sidewalks have been built on Church and Sydney Streets and on 1st Avenue. Grass and weeds were cut from streets. The following streets have been repaired: Warwick, Montague, Birch, Carleton, Queen, North Water and Green Point road. Catch basin on Water St. taken up and replaced with larger one. Rebuilt old water tank at South End. One thousand feet of 1 inch galvanised pipe laid on Church St. There had been a leak on main line and one leak on 1st Avenue were repaired. Two service systems were put in at Pleasant, one for Oscar (anTassel) and one for Leo (anTassel). Service system taken up at P. W. Holdsworth's drug store and replaced with new one. All hydrants have been painted and oiled. The brook at the back of the dam at the lake has been deepened."

THE WATER IS GETTING LOW AT THE LAKE AND RESERVOIR.

The chairman of the Water Committee emphasised this and stated that if the present drought continued the question of water supply would become very serious.

It was decided to make some repairs to the face of the dam whilst it was low and the Water Committee was empowered to cement what distance in their discretion was necessary.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid:

Councillors T. E. G. Lynch and S. A. Keen were appointed to represent the Town Council with the Mayor at the Memorial Service at Clementsport on Sept. 1st.

The Clerk was authorised to get the officers of different classes of coal for Town's needs.

The Town Clerk Mr. Boden gave his report of the recent Convention of Municipalities held at Halifax for which he was thanked.

Mr. Vye, Superintendent of Street and Water for over twenty-five years, having now retired, the following resolution was unanimously passed and ordered to be placed on the Minute Book:

"That the Mayor and Councillors of the Town of Digby desire to place on record their high appreciation of the long and valued services of Mr. George A. Vye, extending over a period of more than twenty-five years as Superintendent of Streets and Water."

"They realise that Mr. Vye has had a difficult task to perform and that he has always carried out his duties with unswerving devotion."

"In his well earned retirement after such a long association with the Town's affairs Mr. Vye has the best wishes of all members of the Council, who are unanimous in expressing the hope that he will have happy years with very pleasant recollections of Digby and those with whom he has been so intimately connected; and that his future may be filled with satisfaction when contemplating so much work faithfully performed."

ORIGIN OF FAMILAR SURNAMES

COLLINS

VARIATIONS—Collin, Collin, Culhane, Cullen, O'Collins, O'Collen

RACIAL ORIGIN—Irish

SOURCE—A given name

The manner in which the English family name of Collins, and its variations, Colson, Collet and Colet, came into being has been explained in a recent article. But here is an Irish group which comes from an entirely different source.

In this case the true forms of these names, as nearly as they can be rendered with the English alphabet, are "O'Collean" and "O'Cuileann," for there are two Irish clan names, separate and distinct, which have been Anglicized indiscriminately into the foregoing spellings.

The "O'Colleans," prior to the breaking up of the clan system in Ireland, were one of the leading clans of Munster, tracing the name, which sometimes is spelled "O'Collean" to one "Collean an Catha," a free translation of this name being "young war dog." It is to be noted that the ancient Irish considered the dog as a noble animal, symbolizing that leading courage (or as the French call it, "clan") which was the ideal of the old Irish warriors.

The "O'Cuileans" or "O'Cuileanns" also were a powerful clan until they were finally dispossessed of their lands in the 13th century as a result of the Anglo-Norman invasions. Their seat was at Lower Conello, in Limerick, and the clan derives its name from a chieftain named "Cuilean," under whose leadership it first rose to the dignity of clan-ship.

Last Week In The Maritime Provinces

The chief centre of attraction from a news point of view during the week just closed was the impressive ceremony of memorial events at historic Annapolis Royal. A tercentenary, a bi-centenary and a centenary were all celebrated on the same day (Wednesday) when bronze tablets were erected perpetuating the birth of New Scotland (Nova Scotia) the establishment of the English Common Law in Canada, and the residence in Annapolis of Thomas Chandler Haliburton, author and jurist, symbolizing in a remarkable manner the doctory of race, law and literature which Nova Scotia gave to Canada. A large number of state and church dignitaries took part in the proceedings.

On Thursday at Clementsport, seven miles from Annapolis, a memorial service for the Loyalist settlers was held in old St. Edward's church, the oldest church now standing on the shores of the Annapolis Basin, which was re-opened and dedicated by the Rev. J. B. Macdonald and the Anglican and the Roman Catholic and the United Church of Canada. At the time of the American War of Independence, the church stands today with but slight changes which were made when it was restored 75 years ago. It is now the intention to put it back into its original condition with its original high pulpit and sounding board.

The province during the week was again in the grasp of the fire fiend. Forest fires were raging in many places principally in the Annapolis Valley where a large amount of property of one kind and another has been destroyed. At the time of writing the fires were still raging and unless rain comes soon serious loss will undoubtedly result. In some sections, notably in Lunenburg county, it has been proved conclusively that the fires are being deliberately set.

The Bluesones of the Maritime Provinces as a general thing take their politics very seriously, and now, with the announcement that the Meighen government is about to appeal to the people the political pot will soon be boiling. Already caucuses are being held, prospective candidates being sounded and the professional politicians and their

LARGEST AFRICAN CHURCH IN THE PROVINCE DEDICATED ON SUNDAY

The 66th annual convention of the African United Baptist Association of Nova Scotia opened at Weymouth Falls, on Saturday, Rev. M. P. Montgomery, moderator, in the chair. Many delegates from all parts of the province and from Boston were present. The association has met in Weymouth eight times in the past and the present session makes the ninth time.

The last meeting was held here nine years ago. The association of the African United Baptists is held annually in a different place and means a great deal to the people of the colored race. It is a sort of an old home week as generally the association lasts three or four days, a returning of former residents of the Falls as well as an encounter of friends and a social intercourse of residents and visitors. At these conventions old acquaintances are renewed and new ones formed. For a week past arrivals have been pouring in from everywhere by train and auto, a large number coming from the neighbouring republic, Deacon Holden, of the Hub, being a delegate to the annual conventions for several years past. The association formally opened on Saturday afternoon and at the meeting of the delegates the following officers were elected for the ensuing year. Moderator—Rev. M. P. Montgomery, of Truro, who was unanimously re-elected. Assistant Moderator—Rev. W. C. Perry, of Windsor. Treasurer—Thomas Morgan, of Weymouth. Secretary and Compiler—Jas. A. R. Kinney, of Halifax. Assistant Secretary—Rev. A. W. Wise, of A. J. Thomas, was elected chairman of the committee on Ways and Means and Rev. A. Morgan, the secretary. The address of welcome was delivered on Saturday by Deacon Thomas Langford, of Weymouth Falls, a familiar figure at the associations. Sunday was the day of all days for the people of Weymouth Falls. The day itself dawned bright and clear with old Sol shedding down soft rays of light and heat. From early morn crowds of people began weaving their way towards the "Falls" where the big event of the association week, viz., the laying of the corner stone of the new African Baptist church, took place, at four o'clock before the hour scheduled crowds filled the new church where the services were held to overflowing whilst many, many more could not get within and were forced to remain outside. At the least calculation over two thousand people were gathered in and without the church. Some one hundred autos, besides other vehicles of convenience, lined the street on both sides of the road for a quarter of a mile each way. At 5.30 the afternoon service began with the singing of hymns, special music for the occasion being supplied by the choir of the African church, of Lequile. The following was the programme: Hymn, selected.

Scripture Reading—Rev. W. C. Perry. Prayer—Rev. A. N. Morgan. Address—Rev. A. W. Thompson. Sermon and laying of corner stone—Rev. W. A. White, B. A. Historical Review of the church—Deacon Thomas Langford. Greeting Home Mission Board, Supt. Rev. E. S. Mason. African Association, J. A. R. Kinney, United Baptists, Rev. J. H. Copeland and Deacon Holden, of Boston.

The address of Rev. A. W. Thompson, a former pastor of the Weymouth Falls Church, was exceptionally good. The chief speaker of the occasion was Rev. W. A. White, pastor of the Cornwallis Street Baptist Church Halifax, who also was at one time in charge of the Weymouth Falls church. It may perhaps be of interest to know that Rev. Mr. White holds the honor of being the only colored chaplain in the British forces during the world war. He was chaplain of No. 2 Construction Co. composed entirely of men of the colored race, many of whom were from Weymouth. Mr. Kinney the very efficient secretary, to whose untiring and unselfish efforts much of the success of the association is due, appealed to those present to come to the assistance of the church by contributing to the fund set up for fifteen hundred dollars to complete the building and a very substantial collection was taken. Addresses were also made of a congratulatory nature by Rev. B. S. Mason, Supt. of Home Mission Board for the Maritime provinces; Rev. J. B. Macdonald, pastor of the Baptist church at Clementsport; Rev. J. B. Copeland, pastor of the Weymouth Baptist church, and Deacon Holden. The historical review of the church which was to have been delivered by Deacon Thomas Langford, was postponed on account of the death of his sister, Mrs. Leslie Falls, which took place in the midst of the celebration. The new church is of wooden construction set upon a cement wall. The main building is 175.56 with a chancel, two vestries and a Sunday school room. The work was contracted for by John Dunkley. There is also a steeple and a belfry. The new church when completed will certainly be a credit to the people of the Falls. It is one of the largest African churches in the provinces and seats approximately six hundred. The old church which has stood for over eighty-five years, was fast falling into decay and as it meant a large sum for repairing it was decided to build a larger one. The new church stands along side the old one, the prominent colored ministers who attended the association were Rev. W. A. White, of Halifax; Rev. A. W. Thompson of Truro; Rev. W. C. Perry of Windsor; Rev. M. P. Montgomery of New Glasgow; Rev. A. W. Wise of Preston East; Rev. A. N. Morgan, of Lequile; Anna, Co. Rev. Mr. Clements of Windsor Plains; Lie M. L. Anderson, of Hammond's Plains, Halifax and Lie W. B. Thomas.

Everything passed smoothly and quietly.

The New Brunswick Temperance Alliance is starting a "bone-dry" campaign for that province which with the plebiscite campaign, will close with the voting on October 10 on the question of whether the importation of liquor for personal use will continue to be legal in that province.

George Loder, of Summerside, N. E. I. who was convicted last December of the murder of Daniel Barry, in Pictou, was hanged in the latter town last Wednesday morning.

TORTURED BY TERRIBLE ECZEMA

Suffered Three Years Until She Tried "FRUIT-A-LIVES"

DANCE, PETER LAMARRE

"I think it my duty to tell you how much your medicine has done for me. I suffered for three years with terrible Eczema. I consulted several doctors and they did not do me any good. Then I used one box of 'Fruit-A-Lives' and my hands were no longer clear. The pain is gone and there has been no return. I think it is a marvelous cure because no other medicine did me any good and I tried all the remedies I ever heard of, without benefit until I used 'Fruit-A-Lives'." "Fruit-A-Lives" cooled the blood and removed the cause of the disease, and 'Fruit-A-Lives' completed the cure.

NERVOUS, IRRITABLE, AILING WOMEN

Mrs. Britten Tells How She Was Restored To Health After Suffering for More Than A Year.

Another Triumph for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dimondale, Mich.—"I had indigestion and a displacement and weakness, and it had been neglected so long that I was very irritable. I had been suffering every month, so that I was often obliged to lie in bed for two days at a time. I suffered for more than a year before my friends said, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' I took one bottle and another until I had taken ten bottles, then Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of these nervous feelings and made me feel like a new woman. I am now able to do my own work."—Mrs. W. D. Barrett, R. No. 2, Dimondale, Mich.
Another Michigan woman says: "I was bothered for a long time with nervous feelings and was as nervous I felt almost afraid at times. I also had a pain in my right side and was certainly in a bad way. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of these nervous feelings and made me feel like a new woman. I am now able to do my own work."—Mrs. W. D. Barrett, R. No. 2, Dimondale, Mich.
Good health is a woman's greatest asset. With it she may be the inspirer of her husband, a happy mother, and the life of the home. Without it she is a burden, a household duties are a burden, and her family is made miserable by her condition.
It is only wonder that those women were nervous and irritable after suffering for so long with these deranged conditions. Such ailments act directly upon the nervous system and it has been said that a large number of nervous disorders are the result of "the blues," and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the female organism.
The compound of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made of pure vegetable ingredients, would be a blessing to every woman who is suffering from nervousness, irritability, or any of the ailments mentioned above. It is a true and reliable remedy for all these ailments, and it is a true and reliable remedy for all these ailments.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts.

NEW FIELD FOR WOMEN.

Marjorie E. Hill is Canada's First Feminine Architect.

Provided a girl has the necessary qualifications to become an architect, there is no reason why she should not make as great a success of the profession as a man.

Miss Marjorie E. Hill, of Edmonton, Alberta, the first woman architect that Canada has produced, expresses this as her opinion of the invasion of the profession by women. She received her degree in architecture at the recent convocation of the Toronto University, and is now qualified to go into business for herself if she desires.

But that is not her idea. She believes in accumulating all the experience possible before making her start, and so, although at present her plans are not very definite, she is staying in Toronto to act as a "draftswoman" in an architect's office. Later, when building conditions improve, it is her ambition to branch out into business for herself.

"One of the greatest pleasures of my work has been the way I have been accepted by some of the men prominent in the profession throughout Canada. Many have given me encouragement and seem glad to think that women intend to enter their field," said Miss Hill. "While working as draftsman in an architect's office in the city for the last two summers I have received nothing but encouragement."

"When I first conceived the idea of becoming an architect it was shortly after my graduation in arts from the University of Alberta. My father brought home an architect's magazine one night."

"I glanced through it, and after studying various sketches and plans of houses, I thought how nice it would be to be able to do the same thing myself. From then on, I kept the idea in my head but didn't tell anyone about it. Later, when I decided definitely, I told my mother of my plans."

"I rather expected opposition, but instead, she said, 'Why, isn't that grand? I always wanted to do that myself.' But neither of us had ever said anything about it to the other."

Miss Hill then started the architectural course at the Edmonton University. But after two years' study there, and on account of so many men leaving for the front, it was decided to discontinue the course. Nothing daunted, she went to Toronto where she has been studying and getting practical experience.

In telling her ideas regarding the field open to women architects, she said that possibly one of the greatest benefits they could be to the community at large would be in designing for the "better housing system."

"There is a wonderful scope for women in this line and later I intend to make a particular study of it."

"The women should have an artistic house to live in. Everyone, no matter who they are, should be surrounded by pleasant conditions before pleasant results can be expected. So often women's houses are built in straight rows with other houses just like them, so that instead of being the result there is a monotonous sameness. No playgrounds are provided for their children and so they play on the streets with danger to their lives."

"The ideal condition for them is small, but artistic houses, with each one different, or else built in twos or threes with proper light and sanitation and playgrounds for the children."

"The convenient house for the wife is also one of her pet hobbies and will be one of the first things she will start to design. 'My ideal kitchen is one that will be no more or less than seven feet square, so that when the housewife sits on a stool in the centre of the floor she can reach anything she wants,' she said laughingly."

Use Force When Necessary.

He rushed into the merchant's office, past outer guards, secretaries and everything. "You simply can't do without it," he cried as he sat down at the busy man's desk, pulled out the desk safe and opened his contract blanks. "Can't do without what?" said the merchant in spite of himself, at the same time punching the button which rang for his butler, shipping clerk. "This book of course," said the very angry. "It tells you 45 ways of ridding yourself of pests. 'I'll take one,' said the business man grimly, and he opened the proffered book. 'Ah, I see that the 45th lesson says use force and violent means only when necessary.' They have now become necessary. And he motioned to the shipping clerk, who arrived at that moment, to do his duty."

One Better.

"Mrs. Gadspar is deeply chagrined."

"What's the trouble?"

"She thought when Mr. Gadspar built a garage capable of housing half a dozen motor cars, with sleeping quarters for the chauffeurs in the second story, that the house of all the neighbors had been put out of joint."

Was It Worth It?

Caller—"What a beautiful baby! And what is her name?"

Young Mother—"Bridget Mary Anne De Vere."

Caller—"Mercy sakes! How did you happen to give her a name like that?"

Young Mother—"Why, the cook threatened to leave when baby came, and we got her to stay by naming the baby after her."

Love's Fare.

From a novel—"He eagerly awaited every word she bestowed upon him; he had upon her every word; he lived upon the smiles she gave him." An all-consuming passion—what!

In Scotland there is still a belief that if a house door, after being opened in the morning, bangs before it is closed naturally, ill luck will follow.

An investigation into the high cost of living was begun at Sydney Mines on Monday. The investigation was commenced at the instigation of Councillor Ratteau. The committee from the Council included Councillors Ken, Ratteau and McDonald. Several bakers appeared before the council to give reasons why the price of bread should not be reduced.

A stock company has recently been organized to operate a coal mine in Gore, Hants County. This mine is situated about half a mile from the main road and three miles from the Midland Railway, and was discovered in 1905 by J. W. Murdoch, on his farm. Experts who have examined the property, claim the coal (which is soft) to be of excellent quality, and an analysis, which is being officially conducted at the Technical College by Mr. Murphy, will soon be announced. A diamond drill will be put into operation sometime in October.

The LaHave schooner Granite was libelled last Wednesday by the Dominion Coal Company for $5,000 damages to plates and fittings of the steamship Kamouraska with which the Granite was in collision off Low Point Saturday night. The Kamouraska stood by the schooner all night and was towed to Sydney in a badly smashed condition. The coal company claims the collision was due to the negligence of the crew of the schooner.

So successful has been the Louisburg sword fishing season that C. N. R. express shipping facilities have been taxed to the utmost to handle the traffic offering for Boston. On one occasion recently there were so many boxes of sword fish that a baggage car had to be pressed into service in addition to the regular express car, and even then twenty cases had to wait over to the next day.

The South Boston baseball team defeated the All Moncton team Wednesday evening by a score of 8 to 4. McNevin and Billings were the batsmen for Boston, and Fryers, Doucet and Addy Cummings performed for Moncton.

HE WAS ALARMED ABOUT HIS WIFE

Says She Was Only A Shadow Of Her Former Self Before She Began Taking Tanlac.

"My wife and I will praise Tanlac as long as we live for it is nothing less than wonderful the way it has restored her to good health again," said A. J. Johnson, of 49 Cornwallis street, Halifax, N. S.

"For about a year before she started taking Tanlac, she was in such a run-down condition that she could hardly drag around. She had no appetite and in fact she was afraid to eat very much because of what she suffered afterwards. Whatever she ate would sour and ferment and blot her up something awful. She was also troubled with terrible headaches and dizzy spells. Her nerves were in such a bad state, she lost weight and became so weak she couldn't remain up long each day. I was very worried about her, for although she had tried just about everything in the way of medicines, none of them seemed to do her any good."

"We heard of so many people being helped by Tanlac that my wife decided to give it a trial. The first bottle did her so much good that she kept on with it until now she is as well as she ever was in her life. She has a fine appetite and can eat anything without having the least trouble afterwards. She has gained ten pounds in weight and is stronger in every way. She is never bothered with headaches or dizzy spells now, and her nerves are so steady she sleeps all night and gets up in the morning feeling fine and able to do the day's work."

Tanlac is sold in Digby by P. W. Holdsworth, and by the leading druggist everywhere.

A wreath of Australian wild flowers recently arrived in England to be placed on the Unknown Warrior's grave in Westminster Abbey. The wreath was frozen in a solid block of ice and when the flowers were thawed they proved to be just as fresh as when they were gathered, in spite of their six week's journey through the tropics.

Two women write, "Greatly Benefited by taking Carnol"

The following letter is of special interest to those who are run-down in health—whether from overwork, worry or general weakness:

Dear Sirs—Myself and friend would like to let you know how very highly we think of Carnol. We are now taking an eighth bottle and the great benefit we have derived from it is undeniable. It certainly does everything the advertisements say and more. It is a genuine tonic and body builder. For my part it has varied off a bronchial trouble I am subject to every Spring.

We feel it would interest you to know this, also you are at perfect liberty to use this unsolicited testimonial if you should so wish. We both of us take pleasure in recommending to any one whom we know are feeling below par.

Wishing you every success. Yours truly, is indeed a true strength-giver. A course of Carnol will soon bring you back to strength and vigor. Carnol improves the appetite, helps the system to assimilate the food, makes good red blood and builds robust health. Carnol is pleasant to take. Many doctors prescribe Carnol during convalescence and wherever a strengthening tonic is necessary.

The Nick in the Lape! Of Men's Coats originated in the days of Napoleon. The Emperor tried to implicate his one time superior, General Moreau, in a conspiracy. Napoleon was so powerful that it was unsafe to express sympathy with Moreau. Therefore the general's supporters agreed to nick their coat-lapels to form an M to show their loyalty. Today, in Digby, the same M can be understood to apply to Mules, the up-to-date tailors.

Last Week In The Maritime Provinces

Historic Annapolis Royal: The oldest white settlement in North America with the single exception of St. Augustine, Florida, was the chief figure in Maritime Province news in the week just ended. Just as it was during the week before. But what a difference! Two weeks ago it was celebrating and holiday-making; last week one third of it was in ashes and its business centre had been completely wiped out. Fortunately the loss fell upon people who in the majority of cases were able to stand it. Already the work of re-building is under way and in a few months there will be a much improved Annapolis Royal.

Forest fires have been ravaging large stretches of timber all through the provinces, especially in Queens and Cape Breton in Nova Scotia and in several sections in New Brunswick. During the early part of the week the provinces were under a pall of smoke but heavy rains in many sections had the effect of deadening the fires although not entirely extinguishing them. But it gave the fire fighters a respite and there is a better chance of subduing them than there was a few days ago.

On a recent afternoon a fine Holstein bull when being escorted to the Truro fair station for shipment to the St. John exhibition created some consternation in that laid going town. After rushing over lawns and through garden patches, he took advantage of the open door in a leading dry goods store and decided to enter and see the styles. The animal, after trying on several hats, and tossing about some fall style coats, turned about and walked out and continued his way with his driver to the freight station. The consternation that came to the young lady clerks of the emporium when this quadruped visitor walked in was great. We have heard of a Bull in a China shop, but this is the first time on record for a pure bred Holstein Bull to visit a dry goods store.

"She is fair, fat and forty, weighing about 250 pounds," says a letter received at Halifax from Annapolis county, stating that a man from Bear River and a woman, also from that county, left Deep Brook together "in her car" last Wednesday and are now living in Halifax. She left an invalid husband and three children, while he left a wife, the letter adds. The man is said to be "dark, with a quantity of black, curly hair and is about 60."

Forbes & Brown, of Devon N.B., submitted the lowest tender for the erection of a powerhouse for Victoria Public Hospital in Fredericton, and have been awarded the contract. The price is in the neighborhood of $32,000. The contract covers all portions of the work.

Announcement of a federal election has stirred political parties in Prince Edward Island to activity. The Liberals have already picked J. E. Sinclair, M. P. and D. A. MacKinnon in the field for Queens county, and J. J. Hughes, ex M. P. for Kings. However, as yet, no nomination in Prince was represented by Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King, leader of the Liberal opposition. The Conservatives will hold a convention in Kings county Sept. 13 and conventions in Queens and in Prince will also be held shortly.

Dr. J. M. Swaine, F. G. Craig and M. B. Dunn, of the Dominion Entomological Bureau, Ottawa, were in Fredericton a few days ago in conference with J. D. Tothill, the entomologist in connection with a proposed trip to the Tobique and Upsalquitch rivers to investigate the damage done by the spruce bud worm and to see if the necessary steps are being taken to exterminate the pest.

The city of Moncton has a population of 17,396, according to correct figures issued by the census branch. This is an increase of 6,051 or 53 per cent. for the decade. Moncton's population in 1911 was 11,345, and in 1901 it was 9,026.

Quantities of excellent sized herring are now being caught about Passamaquoddy Bay. The long delayed schools of herring have at last "struck" and are welcomed. There are indications of plenty of suitable sized herring being caught in the bays and every prospect of a general opening of down east canneries, now that the supply of fish is assured. There had been considerable speculation over the catch late in August and some of the veteran fishermen had predicted that the season would be short enough, however, even with the latest strike.

The death of Ellihu Woodworth, one of Parrsboro's most prominent citizens, occurred suddenly at the age of seventy-nine years. He had been editor of the Western Chronicle, Kentville, the Chignecto Post, Sackville, and the Cumberland Leader, Parrsboro. Mr. Woodworth married Miss Elizabeth Albrow of Halifax, who died more than two years ago. He is survived by one son, Harry A. Woodworth, with the Griffith Stillings Press of Boston, and two daughters, Martha, matron of the Plymouth County Hospital, Massachusetts and Mary, at home.

Word has been received in Lyndale, (P. E. I.) of the tragic death of Roger Green, age thirty-six, formerly of that village. He was electrocuted while working for an electric light company in Los Angeles (Cal.)

Car owners are advised that according to the Lord's Day Alliance Act, no gasoline can be purchased on Sunday, in Moncton. The police department state they will rigidly enforce all provisions of the law. There in the future. Car owners must take a hint from the above and procure their gasoline supplies in advance. That projected trip for Sunday will require a store laid in ahead of time.

William K. Vanderbilt, New York financier and millionaire, may hunt tigers in the wilds of darkest Africa or may seek the four corners of the earth in quest of sport, but he will probably never have as much real sport packed into an hour and three-quarters as he had off Liverpool Saturday, when he succeeded in hooking a big tuna, perhaps the most sought after by anglers and most difficult to catch of all the things that swim. But like all the big fish it got away.

J. H. Sinclair, M. P. for Antigonish and Guysboro Counties since 1917 and who had previously represented Guysboro for 23 years, has decided to retire from public life.

The case of Millet Stewart charged with murder of the Ross at Negus, August 2nd, was still continued. Stewart pleaded not guilty and Police Magistrate Lawlor sent him for trial at the supreme court.

Liquor valued at $20,000 landed at Long Beach, near Port Morien, by smugglers, was found in an old deserted house on Sunday afternoon by Inspector Orr of the Customs Department and is now in Sydney aboard the revenue cutter Grib. The seizure was made up of 43 kegs of rum and 144 bottles of champagne, and is one of the largest made in the district for some time past.

Apparently seized by a cramp while he was swimming about fifty yards from shore at Black Point, Little Harbor, on Labor Day, John J. Grant sank before the eyes of his brothers, Rev. H. R. Grant and Alexander Grant, and was drowned before assistance could reach him. The body was recovered after an extensive search. John Grant was a druggist. He was about forty-five years of age and unmarried.

About fifty people from St. John left this week on a pilgrimage to the shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Quebec. Amongst them were Rev. Simon Oram and Rev. Roy McDonald, of the Cathedral. His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc will celebrate pontifical high mass at Ste. Anne's.

During a heavy electrical storm the Methodist church at Long Coveville was struck by lightning and the steeple took fire. As the blaze was near the top of the steeple men from the neighboring farms started in to save the main part of the building by cutting away the steeple and using the limited quantity of water at their command. They succeeded in saving the main part of the structure.

Recently an altercation arose between two ministers of the gospel as to which one should perform the

THE JOYS OF BEING A COUNTY EDITOR

MIR. EDITOR—Today being Labor Day and not being so particular about it, I would write a few lines of commendative and criticism to you on the important part you play in having the Courier—always filled with interesting home news—arrived at its destination on time—occasionally one would think ahead of time.

During the summer months we receive the paper at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, although printed at Digby around noon time on Friday many of your foreign readers are enjoying the home news at lunch the following day. You should see as sitting on a shaded piazza with temperature around 95, enjoying a good cigar and reading the week's doings at Digby, Weymouth, Bear River and surrounding villages.

I read where the Messrs. Tiffin had been fishing and that you enjoyed some of the sport; they caught, "you are a lucky dog." Sitting in your office all summer with a breeze from the basin keeping you cool and have people bring you speckled trout just from the streamers. What a life! I suppose it is about time for you to receive packages of apples, turnips, pumpkins, squash, potatoes, cabbage, and a little later choice cuts of fresh pork, mutton and other wild game, also pound patties of golden September butter, from many sources, "wrapped in linen napkins and packed in crushed ice." After the season is over, you can thank and close your ledger for the winter. Whow! who wouldn't be a county editor!

But, Mr. Editor, you deserve all these merces when we consider what the public expect from you and get.

You have to be at every train and boat. At a glance distinguish the notables from the common people for personal mention. You burial service over a corpse. The disagreeable waves of heat and was finally ended by the interposition of the undertaker. A similar dispute was in prospect at Clementsport a few days ago, when one of the ministers got possession of the body, either late at night or early the following morning and forestalled opposition by a hasty burial.

The fleeting years have thinned the ranks of the Royal British Veterans' Society, of Halifax, but the Crimean monument opposite Government House was Friday, as it has been for many years, the scene of the annual commemorative service for the fallen of Sebastopol. The service took place at six o'clock when Lieut. Governor Grant arrived and inspected the group of Veterans drawn up within the gates of St. Paul's cemetery and directly in front of the monument. This was the first year since the organization of the society, almost fifty years ago, that a Crimean Veteran has not been present among those who represented the Society, but the last of the brave little group, John Dwyer, passed away since the last anniversary.

Albert Norris, who was found Thursday night in a yard off Elm Street, St. John, with his skull fractured, died Friday morning at the General Public Hospital. The police are of the opinion that the man was murdered while the evidence of some of the neighbors tends to bear out this theory. Coroner Keegan empaneled a jury viewed the body and adjourned the holding of the inquest until Tuesday of the present week.

Wesley Doane was a victim of a run away accident at Barrington on Thursday. As the team came down a hill one shaft dropped, striking the horse's heels, causing it to bolt. Both Mr. Doane and the driver were thrown out. The driver escaped without injury, but Mr. Doane struck on a rock, causing concussion of the brain, and a few hours later hemorrhages terminated his life. He was 49 years of age and unmarried. Desmond Doane is a brother and the two sisters are resident in the United States.

ORIGIN OF FAMILAR SURNAMES

SINCLAIR.
VARIATIONS: St. Clair, St. Clare, Sinker, RACIAL: ORIGIN—Norman-French, also Scottish. SOURCE—Geographical.

In the classification of the Norman French contribution to the nomenclature of the English, must be included this group of family names.

In a sense they may be regarded as having been family names at the time of Norman invasion, though it is certain that only a minority of the men who bore it as a designation of the locality from which they came, actually bequeathed it to their descendants.

In a sense, too, the name of Sinclair may be regarded as Scottish, for it is the name of one of the clans of Scotland, but the Scottish name is subject to this same explanation of Norman French origin, which has developed from spellings which originally were by no means similar. There is a "Thomas de St. Clare" referred to in the ancient writs of Parliament, and the name occurs variously in the old documents as "St. Clare" and "St. Clair." The Scottish clan name traces back to a follower of William the Conqueror, a "Comte de Sancto-Claire," through his son William, who in the reign of King David I. of Scotland, attached himself to that monarch's court. Through grants of land at first, and intermarriage later, the Sinclair line grew into the clan system of the northern Gaels as a distinct entity, and won the recognition of King Haaco VI. of Norway, to its sway over Orkney. Other old strongholds of the clan were Caithness and Strathclyde.

must know where they come from, where they are going, who they are related to and, if possible, what business they are on.

You intend all the garden parties. You write-up to the beautiful young ladies who have charge of the different booths, showing no partiality, no matter what your honest opinion is.

You must look in at all the social dances and mention how charming each lady looked in her evening dress. (I'm stuck) watch them eat ice cream and cake (you are not supposed to have any.)

You have to apologize to the summer tourist for not having a Brass Band in Digby. I often wonder what you tell them.

You would like to see in at a game of "Fiddle Top" or "Put-and-Take" but you are afraid it will be all "put and no take."

You attend the town council meetings and listen to what each councillor has to say. You would like to report your findings in your next issue, but it would do you want to be at peace with all the world.

It would take columns to mention the many events a county editor must attend from week to week. The one you get the most out of the whole routine is free tickets to the circus once a year when you can take your friends—if you have any—and view the animals.

I did not mean to be so lengthy, but, honestly, you get your goat when I read of you receiving those speckled beauties in mid autumn, when up here we eat common fresh pollock (alias haddock) the kind that breaks water at Petite Passade every time Byron Blackford tells a funny story to strangers when crossing the ferry. I hope to see you again next summer.

Yours truly,
Summer Visitor.

Save the surface and you save all. BRANDRAM'S GENUINE B.B. WHITE LEAD

"It's been there since before I was born"

In almost every town and village can be found at least one old building which, on account of its excellent preservation, is a standing monument to the protection which good paint affords.

The surface has been saved and in consequence all has been preserved—and Time, that great tester of quality, has given the stamp of approval.

Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead has held its world's supremacy for almost two hundred years. Mixed with turpentine and pure linseed oil, as in B.H. "English" Paint, it is a most satisfactory paint.

For those who prefer to mix their own, Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead while more expensive in first cost, yet considered from the standpoint of covering capacity and permanence easily outshines all other white leads and is therefore the most economical in final cost.

For those who prefer a prepared paint, Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead can only be secured in B.H. "English" Paint.

originated in the days of Napoleon. The Emperor tried to imitate his one time superior, General Moresca, in a conspiracy. Napoleon was so powerful that it was unsafe to express sympathy with Moresca. SHE WAS ALMOST NERVOUS WRECK

Had Suffered For Four Years
But Tanlac Restores Health Says Thus and.

"At the time my wife began taking Tanlac," said John A. Hayter, of 125 Maynard St. Halifax, N. S., "she had suffered from stomach trouble for four years and was almost a complete nervous and physical wreck. She scarcely ate anything, as everything disagreed with her so bad, and often for days at a time she didn't eat a mouthful. She bloated terribly after meals and suffered from awful cramping pains in her stomach. She also had headaches and dizzy spells constantly, and was hardly able to do her housework."

"One day a friend told her about Tanlac and got her to try it. Well she eats anything she wants now without the least pain or distress, has a fine appetite and, in fact is rid of all her troubles and is doing her housework with ease. We can't praise Tanlac too highly."

Although it has been something over a year since Mrs. Hayter's experience with Tanlac she stated in an interview with a special Tanlac representative that she was still feeling fine, which is another link in the long chain of evidence regarding both the immediate and lasting results being obtained from the Master Medicine.

Tanlac is sold in Digby by P. W. Holdsworth, and by the leading druggist everywhere.

FORESTS AND GAME ACT PROVISIONS

At the last session of the Legislature the laws for the protection of Forests from fire, and the Game Laws were consolidated and united in one Act, called the Forests and Game Act. Instead of a Board of Game Commissioners, there is now a Commissioner of Forests and Game. The work of the forest rangers and that of the game wardens are now under the supervision of one officer. By cooperation between the forest rangers and game officers better protection should be afforded to both forests and game. Among the important changes made in the game laws since the last session are the following:

Partridge.—(ruffed grouse)—There will be an open season for ruffed partridges from October 15th to November 15th.

Wild Ducks.—By amendment of the regulations made by the Dominion Government under the Migratory Birds Treaty the open season for wild ducks and geese is now from October 15th to January 31st, except in the county of Cumberland, where the open season is from September 15th to December 31st, as it was last year.

A REAL FLOAT- ING PALACE

With a gross tonnage of 56,000, the White Star liner Majestic, now nearing completion, will be the largest vessel in the world. It will also be the most luxuriously fitted ship afloat. The vessel was formerly the German liner Bismarck, and will take her place in the mail and passenger service between Southampton and New York next spring. She is 956 feet in length, 102 feet from keel to boat deck, and 100 feet breadth.

Her turbine engines are of 100,000-horse-power, giving her estimated speed of 25 knots. The Majestic will burn oil, and will carry sufficient fuel for the round trip. There will be accommodation for 4,000 passengers in the three classes the liner will carry, and this will be arranged on eight steel decks, communication with which will be by electric elevators. A unique feature will be three great public halls on the promenade deck, the Lounge, the "Palm Court," and the Restaurant. Never have steel houses of such dimensions been constructed on an uppermost deck of a ship with so few internal obstructions. Opening aft of the grand vestibule, the lounge has an area of 4,000 square feet, material in the lounge is another link in the long chain of evidence regarding both the immediate and lasting results being obtained from the Master Medicine.

Blue Bird Tea
Brings Happiness

Last Week In The Maritime Provinces

More people have visited Annapolis Royal during the past week than at any time in the history of the old town, notwithstanding her many successful celebrations during the past few years. Appropriate songs such as "Are we Downhearted, No," have been sung among the ruins and the following advice was distributed throughout the crowd.

"Are we Downhearted, No! It might have been worse. What's a quarter of a million dollars, anyway? No lives lost, nobody hurt, let's mix a lot of British, a sober common sense with a little Yankee enterprise then add our native grit to the mixture and put a made in Canada town on the map. Old Port Royal is historic, antique. Let's build a better, bigger, bu-ier new Annapolis Royal, emphasize the Royal and make the world sit up and take notice. Wake up, cheer up, get busy. Take this home with you."

On Friday afternoon Thomas Miller, a twelve-year old boy, was arrested charged with setting the fire. He confessed and said the reason he did it was to see the men run with the hose.

One hundred and seventy-five miners at Port Hood are out of employment and with no visible means of earning bread and butter. J. B. McLachlin, U. M. W. Secretary, who has returned from Port Hood after a tour of inspection at the mine there, gives a very gloomy picture of conditions.

Maritime passengers on the two pilgrimage trains to St. Anne de Beaupre report a very successful excursion, much good having been derived from the pilgrimages. Several cures at the famous shrine are reported, one of them a resident of Fox Creek, New Brunswick, is said to have thrown away his crutches and walked. Two other cripples from Nova Scotia are said to have received the full use of their limbs as a result of their devotions at the shrine. In all there were about 1,500 pilgrims from the Maritime Provinces on the two trains.

Passenger traffic between North Sydney and Newfoundland shows a big decrease as compared with the 1920 season, the difference in numbers amounting to 3,590. The decrease is due to the general depression and financial stringency which has prevailed during the present season and to the high rates which have prevailed on the Reid System, until the beginning of the month, when a substantial reduction in return and single fares was made.

Stabbed in four places with terrible wounds in the neck and back, Victor Cahill, twenty-two years of age, of Alma, N. B., met death in a shocking manner Sunday presumably at the hands of a young negro as the results of a quarrel between the two men during the progress of a dance at the boarding house at Point Wolfe. The negro, Charles Brown, was at once arrested and is now in jail at Hopewell Cape awaiting trial. The tragedy has aroused intense feeling.

A Hants County motorist who had imbibed too freely of a mixture of buttermilk and alcohol, got into trouble in Halifax on Friday last. He drove in zigzag fashion and his car occasionally reached the sidewalk, thus endangering the lives of pedestrians. He was arrested and sentenced to thirty days in jail.

Rev. L. B. Gray, pastor of the Waterloo Baptist church, St. John, preached his farewell sermon Sunday evening and expects to leave this week to continue his work at the Newton theological seminary near Boston. Mr. Gray, who is a native of Amherst, N. S., graduated from Acadia University at Wolfville in 1920. He was ordained in that church last February.

Fifteen thousand barrels of Annapolis Valley apples were shipped to Great Britain during the week. The shipment is the first important one of the season in the trade. Several other large shipments are to follow.

A big bear has been prowling around the Williamson section near Newcastle N. B. for the past ten days and caused considerable destruction. When it had three sheep and thirteen turkeys killed by the animal. Walter Graham, Ernest Tozer and Clifford Hill lost two sheep each. The bear, during the night, would also visit the orchards in that section and destroy the trees. A posse started in pursuit of the bear, and on Tuesday night, Mr. Graham shot the animal as he was in the act of tearing a limb from a fruit tree. The bear weighed 350 lbs.

John McLellan, chief engineer of the Acadia Coal Company, at New Glasgow, was found dead on West Street, Whitney Pier, Sydney, on Tuesday. McLellan was the guest of Rev. Father Krassicki, a Polish priest and is believed to have walked through a bed room window to the veranda, and fallen to the street a distance of 14 feet.

Reginald Sypher, of Sandy Cove, was seriously hurt Friday when his right arm was caught in a flying belt from a threshing machine, and torn from his body. The limb was severed between the elbow and shoulder and thrown twenty-five feet away. Doctors were called and a little more of the arm was amputated. The patient is doing as well as can be expected. Much sympathy is expressed for him as he was a hard-working young man though more or less of a cripple through a stiff knee since early boyhood.

Fred Prime, a well-known fisherman, of Freeport, was drowned Friday night in company with Garfield Thurber he started in a sail boat for St. Mary's Bay on a squidding expedition. When going through the passage the boat struck a rock and capsized. Prime went overboard but Thurber managed to get on the rock. The accident was seen by Lightkeeper Peters, who went to the rescue. The water was comparatively shallow and clear and Prime's body could be plainly seen. They got him ashore, still alive, but he was too far gone and died shortly afterwards. He was 56 years old and leaves a widow, three sons and one daughter, also one brother, Howard, in St. John.

While the vessel was in port, the visitors were entertained by some of the leading citizens of Summerside, a visit to several of the most prominent fox ranches being one of the articles on the programme.

Rev. A. D. Cormier, chairman of the committee to raise a memorial at Grand Pre, left Moncton Tuesday for that historic spot in connection with his undertaking. He was accompanied by Architect Frechette, who will prepare plans of the memorial, which will take the form of a church. Father Cormier and Architect Frechette met at Grand Pre the authorities of the D. A. R., and chose the spot in their new national park, where it is proposed to erect the monument. It is expected to have the memorial completed by next summer and dedicated on the 15th of August next.

Thirteen miles from North Sydney up French Vale is a small lake, the headquarters of a new industry, the first of its kind in Nova Scotia, the breeding of muskrats for commercial purposes. About 27 acres of land, in the centre of which is a small lake, has been fenced off and streams flowing out or in have had gates installed so that visiting rats may get in, but escape is impossible. The situation is a natural muskrat ground with abundant food. It is calculated that the food supply furnished will provide for at least 5,000 rats. Started about a year ago with a large number of rats, the great number of runs and burrows indicate very material growth. One female is calculated to produce about 18 offspring per year in three litters. The rats will be allowed to multiply for some time yet before they are doomed for commercial purposes.

The skeleton of a curious South American fish has been donated to the Natural History Society's museum by Rev. Rural Dean W. H. Sampson, at St. John. The fish is known as the "crucifix fish." On its breastbone may be discerned the outlines of a Greek cross, while the back and shoulder bones of the fish resemble the figure of a Greek priest, with the cowl of his cassock about his head, pronouncing the benediction. The cross is about eight inches long and four inches wide, the figure of the priest a little larger.

The fifteen-year-old son of John Barker, who resides near Bryant's corner, Kent County, N. B., was shot on Monday evening while endeavoring to load an automatic revolver. The cartridge stuck in the chamber of the automatic while the lad was endeavoring to adjust it in place. He was working with it when in some unaccountable manner the weapon charged.

Declaring that they regarded the proposed organic union of the Presbyterian Church of Canada with other denominations as certain to produce widespread dissatisfaction, leading to the injury of the spiritual life and ultimately to the disruption of the church, the majority branch of the Presbyterian Association of Canada, formed at Halifax passed the following resolution:

"That this association affirms its determination to maintain and defend the Presbyterian Church in Canada, and further, that the association urge upon the maritime synod to overturn the general assembly that no further steps toward organic union be taken without a clear and unmistakable mandate expressed by a vote of the membership of the whole church."

James S. Flagler, acting postmaster at St. John, has received notification from Ottawa that he has been appointed postmaster. In this instance, as in several others throughout the country, the government have followed the practice of advancement of men in the service rather than the appointment of an outsider for political or other services—that is, civil service reform is in active operation. For this the government should be commended.

The tern schooner Scotia (Maiden, Captain Kohler, with a cargo of coconut oil, completed a voyage of 10,000 miles, when she dropped anchor, in her home port, Lunenburg, on Sunday. Sussex, N. B., has had another visit from burglars. The store of the Sussex Mercantile Company was broken into and goods stolen to the value of $1,000. The robbers entered the store through a cellar window and forced three doors before gaining entrance to the store proper. The goods taken were mostly furs, silk by the web, ladies' silk dresses with hats to match, and various other small articles.

Miss M. L. Donovan, secretary to the Minister of Labor, was in Yarmouth on Tuesday and met several of the employers of labor at the residence of Hon. E. C. Spence, when labor conditions in Yarmouth were gone into very fully. It seemed to be the general opinion that the outlook in Yarmouth is fairly good and that no hardships will likely be felt there this winter.

A steamer has been chartered to carry six million laths from the Bay Chaleur and Miramichi to New York on private terms.

Five drunks at St. John on Tuesday pleaded guilty and were remanded. All of them said that a stranger had given them the stuff that made them drunk. The magistrate remarked that it was very funny, but that in 31 years he had not had a few before him on the charge of being drunk, that only the Christians seemed to get drunk.

BOIL THE DRINKING WATER AFTER RAINFALLS.

(Issued by the Department of the Public Health, Ottawa, Sept. 23, 1921.)

There has been exceptionally little rain and other unusual dry weather since the people of our province this summer. This is doubtless due to the fact that there has been little rainfall, and consequently little of the surface dirt has been able to gain access to the sources of water supply.

It is to be remembered, however, that this dirt has been collecting, and will undoubtedly be washed into wells, lakes and streams when rain comes. Consequently it is most important that water for drinking or the preparation of food should, for at least four days after each rain fall, be boiled before being used.

Within three or four days, the materials which are washed in by rain will have settled, and further boiling may be unnecessary. But each succeeding rain will wash in more dirt, so that the water should be boiled during the four days which follow every rainfall.

The microbes of urine-boiling will destroy all germs which are likely to cause disease. Boiled water has a "flat" taste, which, however, can be largely corrected by pouring it several times from one pitcher into another.

To save yourselves, and especially to save the babies from the intestinal troubles which are so common in warm weather, take this simple but effective precaution: Boil the water! Save the babies!

625,000 BOTTLES SOLD IN NEW YORK

Biggest Thing Of Kind Ever Seen In That State. Declares Big Wholesaler.

The fact that 625,000 bottles of Tanfac have been sold in the state of New York since its introduction there less than one year ago, is a big business item that will attract unusual attention throughout the entire East, for nothing like it has ever happened before. It breaks all records.

Mr. George B. Evans, manager of the Gibson-Snow Company, the wholesale druggist, with branches in Albany, Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse, recently announced that the preparation was now selling in their trade territories alone at the phenomenal rate of approximately 500,000 bottles a year.

"If the present rate continues," said Mr. Evans "this state alone will probably require considerable over 750,000 bottles a year. This is a tremendous figure, but I am really conservative in making this statement."

Tanfac is sold in Digby by P. W. Holdsworth, and by the leading druggist everywhere.

Unemployment--Freight Rates--- And The Railways

THE indicator of true prosperity is employment. The presence of unemployed men, unemployed machinery, unemployed railway equipment and unemployed capital in Canada is reason enough therefore for every large Canadian business interest to study its relation to the general problem—to see whether anything in its power remains to be done to advance the general prosperity of the country.

IN this connection the railway companies have been specially interested. Freight rates touch every one and because they touch every one are always close to the public consciousness and more conveniently attached than the true causes of depression which are less easily discerned and more difficult, if not indeed impossible to control.

FURTHERMORE, the railways while joining with every one else in the general agitation for deflation of prices and wages—found themselves recently in the seemingly anomalous position of demurring when it was proposed to lower railway rates. They were made to appear as though they were endeavoring with one hand to put wages down and with the other hand to keep rates up, thereby securing for their own treasuries instead of passing on to the Canadian public, any saving effected from the wage rolls. They were placed in the equivocal position of having urged blanket increases of rates when wages went up—and of opposing blanket decreases when wages were seemingly decreased.

THE following statement is offered, therefore, with a view to expediting what the railways believe to be the true relation of railway freight rates to the question of unemployment, outlining the history of Canadian rates, explaining something of the groundwork of ratemaking and clearing up the seeming anomalies offered to, so that none may remain as possible causes for future weakening of confidence between the public and the carriers.

FREIGHT RATES AND UNEMPLOYMENT

With a large part of the world's population idle, or only partially efficient owing to wars or disturbed political conditions—with inventors in many parts of the world almost afraid to expose their inventions, organizers afraid to organize, capital hesitating to invest—a corresponding portion of the world production is missing. The total of goods available for the world is less than normal. Those who do not produce—speaking generally—cannot buy. Few purchasers—few sales; few sales do little employment. This is the great world-wide fundamental of the unemployment situation.

This condition is international, not local to Canada. If Canadian railway rates were a determining factor in making the sale prices of our export goods, in other words if Canadian prices were higher in international markets than the goods of our competitors, then railway rates would be contributing to unemployment in Canada by depressing our sales abroad, lowering the number of our customers and the orders coming to our producers.

But in the first place the real effect of freight rates on price making is a debatable point. This is proven

(1) By the fact that prices fell last Fall after the rates were increased instead of rising as the retail firms had prophesied.

(2) By the fact that a 10 per cent. reduction on western coal rates offered in order to stimulate coal movement in the Summer months, was followed by a drop in the coal tonnage offering instead of an increase.

In the second place, assuming for the purposes of argument they did have serious effect, Canadian export rates are lower and not higher than the rates in countries with which Canada may be compared. Mile for mile the haul from Western Canadian point to the end of navigation is cheaper than in the United States. The export rate on grain is lower than it was last August.

In other words, in international competition on her chief items of export Canada is helped by her railway rates. So far as international trade is concerned, they are alleviating unemployment rather than aggravating it.

Inside Canada the same is true, although it is a very difficult point to prove or disprove, the railways of Canada are sincere in claiming that, by and large, goods are carried more cheaply in Canada than in the United States. Canada had one blanket reduction of 5 per cent. last January, whereas there is still no decrease nor immediate prospect of a blanket decrease in the United States.

THE TREND OF FREIGHT RATES

With the exception of war and post-war conditions the whole tendency of freight rates in this country, as in any other progressive country of its kind, is downward. As Canada's population rises, as our industries multiply and the density of traffic becomes more nearly like that of older countries, some of the principal costs of railway service can be subdivided among a greater number of shippers and travelers, levying on each, therefore, a smaller fraction of these costs than before. For twenty years prior to the war, traffic was on the increase. For twenty years therefore, the railways have been adjusting rates downward—quite apart from special decreases put in effect by the Board of Railway Commissioners. These revisions have been skillfully applied by experienced, practical economists—that is, by the freight traffic experts of the railways, whose business it is to know all branches of industry intimately, so that the benefit of these voluntary rate adjustments would go to "Key Commodity," thus stimulating further growth of the country, increase in traffic, and in the end further reduction of rates. The difference between giving a reduction to a "Key Industry" rather than spreading over all kinds of goods is illustrated in the case of a certain small railway which by concentrating rate reductions on lumber enabled the mills of that region to remain open and the people to remain at work, whereas if the effect of the reductions had been scattered over all the goods carried by that road each family would have been able to save a small handful of silver in a year.—(Provided the decreased rates had been passed on as decreased prices by storekeepers)—but there would have been almost no employment.

So much for the day to day reductions arranged on thousands of articles by the traffic departments of the roads. In 1907 a substantial reduction in eastern rates was made. In 1914 a very material cut was applied to the West. So that the transcontinental lines entered the war period with a depressed earning power.

Now while all—even the railways—see the desirability for low freight rates, there are certain limits beyond which no one urged reductions. Of course there are theorists such as Mr. Bernard Shaw, who believed that all railway service should be free. But leaving aside views so far in advance, as yet of public opinion it is assumed by most people that a railway will give best service at least cost—because, of course, even free railways must be paid for by the taxpayer—when their managements are allowed to show their mettle by meeting obligations of their properties out of their earnings. It is usefully recognized that these obligations fall into two groups.

GROUP ONE—To pay their employees; to pay for current supplies of materials such as coal, etc.; to pay for repairs and replacement.

GROUP TWO—To pay such a wage or hire for the use of the capital which built these railways as will make Canadian Railway securities always desirable, and easily marketed whether as bonds or stocks. This involves more than the mere payment of the established rate of dividend in the case of privately owned roads. It involves the earning also of some surplus—a safety margin of income over expenditure, which will assure investors of complete safety. This principle of a surplus was definitely established by the Board of Railway Commissioners in 1914 under the chairmanship of Sir Henry Drayton—and upheld by its judgment of 1920, when the matter was again considered exhaustively. On this principal rests Canada's ability to enter the money markets wherever she may need and feel confident of bringing back funds for extending her railways as she may require in the future.

War conditions, following the Western and Eastern rate adjustments brought the railway managements sharply up against these fundamental problems. Comparing the government's figures for 1907 against 1919—the last year for which the railway blue book is available the wage bill of the railways rose 306 per cent.; coal 245 per cent.; ties 320 per cent. But neither the volume of traffic or the scale of freight rates increased in comparable degree during that period. The actual revenue per ton per mile (which is the real proof or disproof of the matter) advanced only 20 per cent. over 1907. The year 1920 enlarged the discrepancy, although an increase of 35 per cent. on Western lines and 40 per cent. in the East was supposed to yield enough additional revenue to meet the increased wages. The increased wages were effective from May 1st—the increased rates not until September 1st. The effectiveness of that increase depended on the volume of traffic remaining at a fairly high level. It did so for a time, then began to drop. Today it is very low. Nevertheless a 5 per cent. decrease was applied in January.

For the first six months of 1921 as compared to the first six months of 1920 the volume of traffic on the most fortunately situated Canadian road fell 26.72 per cent. And its revenue on this business, in spite of the higher rates, fell 11.14 per cent.

The net result of these changes has been a state of emergency in the offices of even the most fortunately situated of all Canadian roads. Wages could be paid and bills met on time. Even the usual dividend was paid and a very slight surplus—one of the factors in maintaining the reputation of Canadian railways securities, was earned. But this was only done by refusing work that must ultimately be done on current account.

Such economies cannot long be continued without eating too far into the broad safety margin which the Canadian roads maintain. Nothing but slackened speed of trains and reduced Canadian industrial efficiency can result if these savings have to be long continued. Falling traffic still further aggravates the conditions. Maintenance cannot continue to be sacrificed to protect the credit of our railway securities. Neither can be neglected.

In May the managements approached the task of reducing their wage bills. For the first time in many years it was managements and not the men who were taking the initiative. They had been forced to adopt the war time increases granted in the United States—where 92 per cent. of the membership of the railway unions lie. Therefore when the reverse movement was undertaken in that country the Canadian roads at once gave due notice and a provisional and conditional decrease of roughly 10 per cent.—corresponding to the same movement in the United States—was put in effect, tentatively, as from July 15th. This reduction has not been accepted by the United States membership of the unions, where a vote is being taken on the question—nor by the Canadian membership, who have applied for a board of conciliation. Every resource of the managements will be used to sustain this imperatively necessary and only too moderate reduction of their wage bills—which account for 60 per cent. cost of operation—they are compelled to regard the matter as still unsettled and therefore not to be considered as a basis for the reduction of railway rates—a view which a majority of the board of railway commissioners has just expressed in its judgment.

IN CONCLUSION

The railway managements welcome deflation of railway rates and are working steadily toward that end. On two grounds, however, they asked that any general decrease be deferred.

First—Because the so-called wage decreases are not yet assured and cannot be until the parallel decreases in the United States where 92 per cent. of the union membership lies (and where no general freight rate reductions have been ordered) are settled.

Second—Because the volume of traffic in the immediate future is problematical and any serious decline, if coupled with a decrease in rates, would have very grave effect on even the most favorably situated managements.

The railways have spoken against blanket decreases on the grounds that it would be in the interests of the country as a whole to concentrate any beneficial effect to be expected on "Key Commodities," rather than distribute them over all classes of goods thereby benefiting only the distributors.

They have been actuated throughout by the desire to assist in the process of deflation—objecting only when that process might seem to threaten their solvency and injure them—and through them—the ultimate interests of the Canadian public.

The Nick in the Lapel Of Men's Coats

originated in the days of Napoleon. The Emperor tried to imitate his one superior, General Moreau in a conspiracy. Napoleon was so powerful that it was unsafe to express sympathy with Moreau. Therefore the general's supporters agreed to nick their coat lapels to form an M to show their loyalty. Today, in Digby, the same M can be understood to apply to Muisse, the up-to-date tailors.

MUISE BROS., Digby

ORIGIN OF FAMILIAR SURNAME MacLAREN

VARIATION—MacLaren
FAMILIAR ORIGIN—Scottish
SOURCE—A given name

Here is another Scottish family name derived from a given name, which the progenitors of its bearers brought to Scotland from Ireland and the ancient days when the Diablic Gachs crossed over and by conquest and settlement won the dominion of the Highlands.

*The MacLarens or MacLarens are traditionally descended from "Lorn" or "Laurin," who was the son of Ebor, one of the Dalriadic chiefs who settled in Argyle in the sixth century. This "Lorn" is the same chief who is said to have given the district of Lorn its name.

The clan, for the MacLarens once constituted one of the leading clans in the Highlands, was a powerful one in the sixteenth century. This "Lorn" is the same chief who is said to have given the district of Lorn its name.

But the clan was reduced from the status of proprietorship over its land in 1138, when the earldom of Strathairn became the property of the Scottish crown, though they retained a status as feudal tenants.

But its fortunes received a setback from which they have never recovered in 1745, when it took part in the uprising which attempted to put the Stuart line, in the person of "Bonnie Prince Charlie," back on the throne of England and Scotland.

DEATH OF WORLD WAR VETERAN

Lieut. J. Brandon Wright
Aviator, Answers Last Call

(Newspaper, S. U. Herald)

News of the death of Colorado of First Lieutenant J. Brandon Wright, of the United States Army, who was killed in action during the World War, brought deep grief to the relatives and many friends of this fine young man and World War veteran.

Lieutenant Wright has been in impaired health for some time, and some weeks ago he said his family sent to Colorado with the hope that his condition would improve. Later his mother was sent for as his condition grew more alarming and she remained with him to the end.

Lieutenant Wright was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wright of this city, and was educated in the public schools, and later attended Tilton Seminary and New Hampshire College.

Lieutenant Wright won considerable fame as an aviator after entering the service, and was one of the first in the history of the world to fly across the Atlantic in a biplane from Mineola, N. Y., to San Francisco, which started October 8, 1919.

Lieut. Wright was one of the 500 aviators to make application to fly on the trip and one of the 20 chosen. Lieut. Wright was a former member of the local athletic club and also won praise in athletics at Tilton Seminary, from which institution he was graduated. He returned from France in July 1919 where he served for ten months, being with the 141st Aero Squadron, and was with the army in occupation in Germany for a time.

For some time he was stationed at Hazelhurst field, Mineola, N. Y.

No young man in this city was more highly esteemed and he had hosts of friends who loved him for his splendid characteristics.

He is survived by a wife and young child; his parents, and one sister, Mrs. Elsie Laird of this city.

The remains will leave Colorado to night and arrive in this city Monday at 1:45 p. m., and a military funeral will be held on Tuesday.

The time and place of which will be announced later. (Lieut. Wright was a son of Belle Saunders and John H. Wright, formerly of Sandy Cove.—News Editor Courier.)

Countess Von Bernstorff, wife of the former German Ambassador to the United States, again has possession of the $1,100,000 in money and securities seized in 1917 by the Alien Property Custodian.

Great Britain was within 90 days of being strangled at one period of the war, stated the prime minister of Australia recently.

A Correction

Whereas it has been stated, in certain quarters, that there are no male students at the Standard Business College, and as such a statement may convey the impression that male students are not accepted at the college above referred to, we desire to give such statement the most emphatic denial and to emphasize the fact that not only are there male students already in attendance, but that the courses of the Standard Business College are open to male as well as female students.

Last Week In The Maritime Provinces

Pembroke, a small fishing village, seven miles from Yarmouth was visited by a disastrous fire Wednesday night. When discovered at 10.30 it was right in the centre of the settlement where there are four large fish houses full of lobster bait and lobster fishing gear. All were totally destroyed. There were also four boats belonging to Frank Cushing, Harley Rose, Ronald Cushing and Claude Vickers, modern power motor boats, which were valued at $1,000 to $1,500 each and are all burnt. This fire is a calamity to the place as the loss was not covered by any insurance at all.

An event unique in the history of Yarmouth county took place at Carleton on Sunday when a magnificent black granite monument, erected to the honor and glory of six sons of that pretty village who gave their lives in the Great War was unveiled. The weather was ideal and the beautiful tinges of autumn foliage, freshened by the moderate rain of Saturday, made a setting for the impressive service that will be remembered by all present for many years to come.

The past week in Kentville has been very quiet, owing largely to the fact that all the orchardists are busy gathering in the abundant harvest of apples that this Valley is blessed with this year. While the crop is an enormous one, the preponderance of small fruit is so great that for the first time in several years all the growing orchards are enabled to do business, and so there is ample work for all who want to work. Then there is the potato crop, which is now being marketed. Shippers are paying $3.40 per barrel, and the highways are encumbered with farmers' teams hauling the festive potato to the shipping point.

John Paris was committed for trial at St. John Thursday afternoon in the police court on the charge of murdering little Sadie MacAuley after his lawyer, G. H. Lemon, of Truro, had waived the evidence of other witnesses which the prosecution intended to call later. The court room was crowded to capacity at both sessions but no hostile demonstration of any kind occurred. Paris, when asked if he had anything to say after being committed, replied that he was "not guilty." He will be brought up at the sitting of the supreme court this week.

Brice Joyce, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Joyce, Westville, was shot and instantly killed Saturday night. It appears the children, of whom there are several, got hold of a loaded rifle whilst the mother was out for a few minutes. The rifle went off and the bullet struck the little fellow in the neck. All the children are quite small.

The Royal Mail Steam Packet liner Chignecto was seized at Halifax by customs officials following the capture by the officials of two five gallon tins of overproof rum and twenty-four bottles of the same liquor, which they discovered in the quarters of the colored crew. Guns were brought into play by the customs men and police who came to their assistance before they were able to complete their search. At the gangway members of the crew demanded to know their business, but dispersed at the point of a gun drawn by one of the boarding officers. Captain Parker, master of the Chignecto, and officers of the ship met the liquor searchers at this juncture and escorted them to the crew's galley. Among pots and pans two six-gallon tins of overproof rum were located.

A meeting of the executive of the United Farmers of Nova Scotia was held at Truro Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was called to consider what action should be taken in the Province with respect to the coming Federal elections. It was decided that each county organization should decide for itself as to putting candidates in the field. T. D. Sullivan, assistant secretary, stated after the meeting that it was expected that ten candidates would be nominated in the province.

At a meeting of the Amalgamated Central Labor Union at Moncton a resolution was adopted in favor of the city taking over the Moncton Tramways, Electricity and Gas Co. property at a valuation of $165,000. A plebiscite to the question will be held Sept. 25. At a plebiscite taken about a year ago the citizens voted against taking over the property at that figure.

W. C. Cotton, barrister of Montreal, has been appointed editor of the Maritime Labor Herald, which is to be published at Glace Bay and which the men back of it hope to have going in time for the coming federal contest. Mr. Cotton, although a lawyer by profession, has identified himself with the labor movement and has had considerable experience as a writer on labor topics.

The Halifax unemployment committee have decided by a six to five vote to pay for work supplied by the city for unemployment relief, in groceries, fuel and rent. Orders covering these essentials would be given the workers. A money bonus might also be given at intervals.

The lobster formed the main theme of discussion at the maritime fishery conference at Charlottetown last week when packers, fishermen and officers held a joint meeting. Chief Inspector Fisher, of Halifax, presiding. The illegal catching of lobsters was dealt with during the discussion. Inspector Galt saying that, though this is election time pressure might be brought to bear by politicians to suspend penalties or be lax in the enforcement of the law, there would be no violations if he knew of them. The best methods of preventing the discoloration in the pack, caused by bacteria, were discussed at considerable length and Mr. Knight, the biologist, who has been conducting investigations for sometime, declared that the scientists are now ready to announce the remedy to cover all cases. Two bathtubs of an hour and a half with a cooling period between each would be helpful in killing the bacteria.

A resolution was passed calling upon the Federal Government to establish a modern cannery on the island for carrying on scientific experiments and instructional work among packers, foremen and fishermen.

The ocean-going steel yacht Sea King, built at the yards of Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, for Baron Bliss of Nassau, Bahamas Islands, was successfully launched at New Glasgow last week. Mrs. C. E. Porteous, of Quebec, sponsored the yacht.

Steps are being taken by the department of agriculture of New Brunswick to improve the general sheep breeding conditions by the proper grading of all the pure bred rams.

The services of A. E. McLaren, of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, have been secured in connection with the work of grading which was commenced at Gagetown on Monday.

New oats are making their appearance on the market in Summerside, Prince Edward Island, and are bringing around 50c to 60c for local consumption. The price on an export basis has not yet been set, and may possibly not be more than 50c. At O'Leary now oats are being quoted at 50c, and pressed hay at $25.00. At Kensington new oats are being quoted at 65c, and pressed hay at $30.

A largely attended meeting of the creditors of Peter McIntyre, Ltd. owners of the schooner Peter McIntyre, was held a few days ago at St. John, with T. H. Somerville acting as chairman. No assignment has been made, but the meeting was held to discuss conditions pertaining to the finances of the company. The assets were reported as $173,500, and the liabilities, direct and indirect, as being $125,857.53.

Fifteen hundred men will be laid off within the next ten days by the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, unless new orders are secured, it was announced at Sydney on Thursday. The mills have been working all summer on rail orders for the Canadian National Railways, but these are almost completed.

Because of the threatened unemployment situation a civic delegation consisting of Mayor Fitzgerald, A. N. McLennan, president of the board of trade, John C. Douglas, M. P., and Arthur McClellan, secretary of the Steel Workers' Union, left on Sunday night for Ottawa to ask the federal government to place further rail orders with the Dominion Steel Corporation.

The first fatality to mark the big game hunting season in New Brunswick then but two days old, occurred early on Friday evening when Haliburton Brown, aged twenty, son of Wilford Brown of St. Martins, died within an hour after he had been shot in mistake for a moose in the woods about two miles from St. Martins in St. John county. The lad expired before he could be brought out to the village of before a doctor could arrive near the scene. John Holland and Graydon Gilmartin, both of St. Martins and the latter a brother-in-law of the dead young man, both fired in the direction of Brown but which of the two rifle bullets struck him causing his death has not yet been ascertained.

Rounding, Seattoria Island, the Captain, Barkhouse, sighted an American schooner, the Hazel Jackson, at anchor, inside the three mile limit. The cutter held on her course and under the lee of Port Nova hailed a dory in which were a few fishermen. The latter had just finished killing a swordfish and the quarry was on board the dory when a boat from the cutter pulled alongside.

As the cutter cleared the boat the men scrambled on board the schooner and boarded a Boston swordfisherman. The fish and outfit were taken to Louisburg.

During the season a large number of American schooners engage in swordfishing off the south coast, and it is claimed that on one occasion they shipped 3000 port after dark and sold their catch to unscrupulous dealers.

The skippers of these boats would rather take a long chance of being caught by putting in and selling the day's catch, than to keep the fish on board and run the risk of the catch spoiling before an American port could be reached.

September with its cool mornings and cooler evenings, an off shore wind and a liberal supply of sunshine, all combine to produce climatic conditions that were ideal for carrying out a programme of sports either on land or sea and were exceptionally fortunate in Wednesday, the annual fishermen's Picnic Day at Lunenburg. The having to leave their once on interest and enthusiasm centered in the celebrations were clearly shown by the booming of cannon, the firing of bells, the playing of factory whistles, the shipping and the many flagstaffs of the town were arrayed in a gay profusion of flags and the residences were festively decorated with an abundance of flowers. Everything was in gala attire to add beauty to the surroundings and bid welcome to the many visitors of the day. The Fishermen's Picnic has become a regular and established event and the nautical population of the county make it a point not to miss any of the attractions on this occasion.

United States apple buyers have lately been in the Annapolis Valley and it is reported that about 1,000 carloads of that fruit have been purchased for shipment to the markets of that country. A large proportion of that quantity will go via Yarmouth and the Prince ships to Boston and they have already commenced to move.

A most unfortunate accident occurred at Woodstock last week to Byron Bold while driving to Upper Woodstock, with a load of cattle, they became unmanageable and pushed him off the wagon. He fell under the wheels, which passed over his left wrist, crushing it badly and also lacerating his shoulder. He was taken to the Fisher Memorial Hospital where it was found necessary to amputate the arm.

Herring fishery along the south shore still continues a failure, and the securing of bait for the fresh fisheries is now a very serious problem and as a consequence boat fishermen all along the shore are doing very little. On Monday at Cape Negro, west of eight mackerel were taken. Fishermen, when they can procure bait report fishing good on all grounds.

Police Magistrate W. A. and Mrs. Gass of Seattoria arrived home last week from a pleasant motor trip through the New England States en route to Rhode Island, where they visited Dr. and Mrs. "Roone" (nee Gass). Mr. and Mrs. Gass were accompanied by Mrs. Wm. T. Gass, Miss J. H. Dobson and Mr. Roy Gass. The party report for carrying out a programme of sports either on land or sea and were exceptionally fortunate in Wednesday, the annual fishermen's Picnic Day at Lunenburg. DIGBY WEEKLY COURIER Significant names have been secured on the petition to repeal the Scott Act in favor of the N. S. Temperance Act and it remains only to get through the legal formalities in order to secure the change. We are asked by the committee that had this matter in hand to thank all who gave assistance. It is especially the case with the local petitioners. Under the new conditions the law against traffic in intoxicating liquors will be much more stringent and much more easily enforced.

There will be a large number of visitors in town on Monday and Tuesday to attend the political meetings. It is the first time we have seen in the history of Nova Scotia that a town and its people are entertaining the leader of the opposition and the leader of the government on two days in succession. These two men, with their able lieutenants, are such outstanding figures in the political life of Canada, that they will draw people in all walks of life from hundreds of miles to hear them.

A WOMAN SENATOR FOR CANADA

Attention! Nova Scotians! Do you know— That soon—very soon—a Canadian woman may take her place in the Canadian Senate? That petitions are being circulated all over Canada, asking that Judge Emily Murphy of Edmonton be appointed Senator?

That Judge Murphy is a good woman, an outstanding woman, and that it may be a fine thing for the Senate to have her in its midst?

That Premier Meighen looks favourably on her appointment?

And that at the Dramatic and Musical Entertainment which takes place at Barton next Saturday, October 1st, Nova Scotians will be given a chance to sign a petition, asking that Judge Murphy be created Senator?

Now just who is Judge Murphy—this woman who is wife, mother, author, Juvenile Court Judge, and half a dozen other things?

Perhaps we had better let Black's "Who's Who" vouch for her! Emily F. Murphy (Janey Canuck) author.

Rev. D. E. Hatt will preach this (Friday) evening in the School house at Mt. Pleasant.

The services in all the churches next Sunday evening will revert to the seven o'clock hour.

The monthly business meeting of the Woman's Canadian Club will take place on Monday afternoon, October 1st.

Rev. D. E. Hatt will preach in the Baptist church at Roxville Sunday morning Oct. 9, at eleven o'clock. This is not next Sunday (Oct. 2) but one week from Sunday.

Two insurance adjusters were here last week to inspect the store of H. Rosenzweig recently damaged. They called it a total insurance loss and allowed the full amount which was but a small percent of the total damage.

The Yarmouth schooner Annie C. Spindler, Capt. William Snow, arrived at Yarmouth last Thursday morning from a town and its people are entertaining the leader of the opposition and the leader of the government on two days in succession.

The United Services, Methodist and Baptist, will be held next Sunday at eleven in the Methodist church and at seven in the Baptist church. There will be preaching service in the Hall at Hill Grove at three o'clock. The United prayer service will be held in the Methodist vestry next Wednesday evening at 7.45.

During the past ten days thousands of barrels of apples have passed through Digby from the Annapolis Valley to the United States markets via Yarmouth, and a large number of loaded cars are at various points along the line. The shippers are demanding quick delivery and to accommodate the traffic the D. A. R. has chartered the steamer Calcedonia now at Halifax, to come to Yarmouth. She is now due to arrive and will carry from 12,000 to 14,000 barrels.

We'll get it right some time in reference to the destruction of the Wm. Melanson property at Plympton. Our correspondent recently had it right in the first place but the statement was contradicted. It seems that Bert Wagner had bargained for the property and had made several payments but the deed had never been transferred. Since the fire his payments have been returned to him. He lost some furniture in the house.

The funeral of the late Mrs. M. C. Deaton, held last Friday afternoon was one of the largest ever seen in Digby. The boy scouts formed up at the house and the officers and members of Zeina's lodge conducted their beautiful funeral service at the grave, after the regular service had been performed by Rev. D. E. Hatt, pastor of the Baptist Church.

The pall bearers were Jas. Rice, Charles A. Carby, Guy D. Dunn, Arthur Turnbull, J. L. and Geo. H. Peters. The floral tributes were beautiful. The Courier extends its deepest sympathy to the bereaved.

The extensive repairs are completed on the Hillgrove Church and all arrangements are being made for the reopening services on October 9th. Rev. Clyde W. Robbins, a former pastor, now of Bridgetown, will preach the sermon of rededication at three o'clock on "An Enduring Monument." All the exercises will be of a most interesting character. Printed programmes are being prepared. Rev. J. H. Copeland of Weymouth will preach at 7.30. All are invited to both these services. The hospitality for which the people of the Hillgrove congregation are noted will be in evidence. It is expected that the Church will be crowded to capacity at both services.

The Premier pointed out that, under the British North America Act, men only are eligible for the Senate. "Then amend the British North America Act," blithely suggested Mrs. McClung who is selling at a loss for an answer The Premier calmly responded that he personally would sympathize with a movement toward obtaining an amendment and stated that he favoured perfect equality between men and women in politics.

Now that is "going some." What do you think about it, good people of Nova Scotia. And what will you do to help? FRANCES FENWICK WILLIAMS.

Member of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Committee of Mental Hygiene 1918-22.

Member of the War Conference of Women held at the invitation of the War Committee of the Dominion Cabinet 1918.

Premier Meighen will not oppose the appointment of a woman to the Senate? So stated Nellie McClung the well known author, who was one of a delegation to visit Ottawa in August and plead Judge Murphy's cause.

Praise God from whom all blessings flow, was then sung in closing one of the most prosperous years the society.

BEELER-DARRES.

A very pretty wedding took place in the Anglican church at Victoria, on Wednesday evening, Sept. 27th, when Miss C. J. Beeler, of Bear River, and Mr. George Darres, of New Glasgow, N. S., were united in marriage by Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Beeler. The bride, who looked very attractive in her wedding gown of white satin and georgette with the conventional veil carried a bouquet of grey anemones, was attended by her sister, Miss Edith Darres, in a delicate white dress with lace and tulle. The bridegroom carried a bouquet of asters and carnations. The groom was supported by his brother, Murray Beeler, and little daughter, Patricia, the bride-catchers being Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith, of the parish, performed the ceremony, which was a full church service, the choir singing "The Voice that Breathed Our Elder," Mrs. Joshua Simpson presiding, over the organ.

After the ceremony the guests drove to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Darres where a delicious supper was served. The young friends of the bride and bridegroom were present and after congratulations were over a dance followed in the parlour of the bride's home.

The Rev. A. W. L. Smith, rector of the parish, performed the ceremony, which was a full church service, the choir singing "The Voice that Breathed Our Elder," Mrs. Joshua Simpson presiding, over the organ.

The bride's travelling suit was navy blue with small velvet dots, and after a week in the relative privacy of home and Windsor, N. S., the happy couple will reside in Annapolis Royal, where Mr. Beeler is employed as manager. With Mr. A. West, the best wishes of all are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Beeler in their new home.

The bride, who looked very attractive in her wedding gown of white satin and georgette with the conventional veil carried a bouquet of grey anemones, was attended by her sister, Miss Edith Darres, in a delicate white dress with lace and tulle. ornament being a rope of pearls—ditto of the groom. She wore a bridal veil with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of pink Ophelia roses.

Little Miss Mabel Gault, sister of the bride, who was classically groomed in pink Organdy and carried a basket of sweet peas, made a charming little flower girl.

At the conclusion of the ceremony Miss Catherine Logan, of New Glasgow, sang a solo "Oh Promise Me", after which a reception was held in the parlour. The dining room and hall were decorated with palms, ferns and golden glow.

Mr. and Mrs. VanBuskirk left on the Ocean Limited on a honeymoon trip to Halifax and the Annapolis Valley a large number of friends being at the station to see them off. The bride's travelling costume was a suit of reindeer brown velvet with heavy trimmings and hat of pebble blue. On their return Mr. and Mrs. VanBuskirk will reside in Annapolis, and they have the best wishes of their friends for their future happiness.

Among the out of town guests were: The Misses VanBuskirk, Bear River; Miss Catherine Logan and Murray Logan, New Glasgow; and the Misses Beiler, Annapolis.

RECEPTION.

On Saturday the 15th, Frank VanBuskirk and his bride arrived at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles VanBuskirk, and on Monday evening were given a reception. About fifty guests were present and after congratulations were over a dance followed in the parlour of the bride's home.

The Nick in the Lapel Of Men's Coats originated in the days of Napoleon. The Emperor tried to immolate his one time enemy, General Moreau in a conspiracy.

Napoleon was so powerful that it was unsafe to express sympathy with Moreau. Therefore the general's supporters agreed to nick their coats to form an M to show their loyalty. Today, in Digby, the same M can be understood to apply to Maise, the up-to-date tailors.

BOY SCOUT JAMBOREE

The Boy Scout Jamboree which was held in the Bijou Dream on Monday evening was a great success in every way. It was something out of the ordinary and its very uniqueness made it decidedly entertaining. The boys, under the leadership of their scout master, Mr. Hatt, put through a very diversified programme and put it through well. They enjoyed the fun as much as the audience—and that is saying a great deal. Considering that the boy scout movement is only new here the work they have accomplished is simply marvellous and reflects great credit on their scout master and his able assistants. Following is the programme.

Part I.

THE SCOUTS ON PARADE.

1. March in.
2. Staff drill.
3. Song: Soon time to go.
(Tune "Old Black Joe")

Now are the days when our hearts are young and gay.
Now is the time when our thoughts are all of play.
Soon we must pass to a sterner life we know.
We hear the voice of the future calling
Soon time to go.

Chorus:—We're coming, we're coming
In accents soft and low.
We hear the voice of the future calling
Soon time to go.

We will not wish for the days of toil and pain.
Boyhood departed ne'er returns again.
Joyously now the stream of life shall flow
While still we hear the future calling
Soon time to go.

Trustworthy, loyal, helpful would we be Friendly to all, observing courtesy
Kindly, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, clean.
Each call of duty finds us waiting Ready and keen.

Now for a life that's happy, true and clean
Guarded from all impure, debased and mean.
When duty calls we will not answer "No".
But here we are prepared and waiting
Ready to go.

Tenting Tonight

We're tenting tonight on the old camp ground.
A troop of merry scouts,
Oh listen how the hills around
Re-echo to our shouting.

We're tramping tonight on the old camp ground.
Our fire, blazing clear,
Illumes the darkness all around
And fills our hearts with cheer.

We're tenting tonight on the old camp ground.
In safety we shall sleep.
The stars above the hills around,
Uncarved watch will keep.

4. Campfire yarn, the Scouts' Vow, Harold Robertson.

The Scouts' Vow

Wolves, Beavers, Kangaroos, Owls, listen now
While I rehearse you the Scouts' solemn vow.
Made on the Honor we all hold so dear,
Fear not to break it, have no other fear.

We vow to be loyal to God and the King,
We vow help to others in trouble to bring.
We vow to obey the Scout Law, night and day.
Let me tell you the laws we have vowed to obey.

The first is that Scouts with their Honor at stake, Must tell the whole truth in the statement they make.
They hate all deception and hiding of fact
And will not be false in word or in act.

Our Law number two shows the Patriot's part.
A loyal devotion must burn in our heart
For King and for Country; no traitor in us.

As a Scout in our ranks should dare to enrol,
And, thirdly, we promise, with no thought of pay,
To do a good turn to someone every day.
No boy who is selfish and lazy can be
A Scout on the lines of our law number three.

Number four is be friendly to all whom you meet,
To visit with the home and boys on the street.
Wherever you are keep a good, sharp lookout
To show yourself brother to every Boy Scout.

Devoted to chivalrous courtesy's cause,
In the spirit of Knighthood, the fifth of our laws

Condemns all that's vulgar and rude, and out and out.
And calls for a gentleman in each Boy Scout.
Law six makes a Scout the dumb animals friend,
From all who would harm them he aims to defend.
To use his own strength in protecting the weak,
And speak for those who for themselves cannot speak.

A Scout must obey when an order is given.
By those in command, says our law number seven.
Promptly and cheerfully he must obey.
Without any question, or needless delay.

In carrying out our Law number eight,
A Scout smiles and whistles, whatever his fate.
While others may whine and complain of their lot,
He counts difficulties a trial of pluck.

The ninth in the list of the Laws we obey
Obliges us to thrift and shows us the way.
A Scout may attain independence indeed,
With something to share with a brother in need.

Our tenth Law demands, note how much the words mean,
In thought, word and deed a Boy Scout
All things that are low and impure must depart
From him who is noble and pure in his heart.

Let these Laws all be written on every Scout's heart,
In the pride of life bear a Scout's noble part.
Beware of the sins by which many are snared,
And remember our motto is this, "Be Prepared."

WONDERFUL GAIN IN WEIGHT REPORTED

Young Woman Only Weighed
76 Pounds—Now Weighs Over 100 And Is Gaining Every Day.

"Before I began taking Tanlac I only weighed 76 pounds, I now weigh over one hundred and am gaining every day," said Miss La Rue Davis, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

"I bought my first bottle of Tanlac at Gas City, Ind., and it helped me so much that I continued using it. I have always been very delicate and suffered a great deal from stomach trouble and rheumatism. I rarely ever had any appetite and simply could not relish anything. I fell off until I only weighed 76 pounds and was so thin I looked perfectly awful. This is the condition I was in when I began taking Tanlac.

"Oh, I feel so different now. My appetite is improved. My appetite is good and I can hardly let enough to eat. Tanlac is simply grand, and I can truthfully say it is the only medicine that has ever done me any good."

Tanlac is sold in Digby by P. W. Holdsworth, and by the leading druggist everywhere.
