The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1763, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to other countries, left the whole

HOSPITAL? OR NOT?

More "PASSING THE BUCK."

What's the use of a town meeting to settle a question already settled?

The Hospital project is almost unanimously endorsed. The Board of Trade after a full and lengthy discussion gave its unqualified endorsement.

The Town Council, perhaps rightly, wants to throw the responsibility back on the public because they recognize that the Council is a public servant elected to carry out the wishes of the public.

The present Council is not likely to ignore the public as was done with the lighting plant (though we still burn costly slab-wood.)

Well, fellow citizens, if it's up to us, "LET'S GO!" Let us be on hand to say what we think, and vote as we think. And say, let's DO SOME THINKING before we go. Why not work together—the public and the Council? The Council has its faults, but you and I know that every member will try to carry out your wishes for the profit of the town, therefore if you have a worth-while idea, speak it out, back it up and boost it.

What about the Hospital? Do we want it? Do we need it? Can we afford it? The public answers "yes, YES, YES."

The people want a Hospital here. It is cheap Life Insurance.

A Digby Hospital is needed for the benefit and safety of every resident in the county.

The town is well able to pay its share. If the Council can vote increase in salaries and 100.00 for alleged starving miners, it can vote enough to preserve the inestimable advantages of a local haven for our own sick.

Somebody started a yarn that the town would have to make up any losses if the hospital does not pay. That is false and absurd. The town is not responsible for any deficiencies. The Hospital Board must look after their own business. Let that be distinctly understood.

Come to the meeting next Monday night. The fate of the hospital hangs upon a single thread.

CHANGE OF NAME

This week we have to chronicle the passing of a firm name with which the readers of The Courier must be familiar, and the birth of an entirely new one, the Digby Furniture & Undertaking Company having become "Funeral Services, Limited." This concern commenced business some three years ago—taking over the business of J. Fred Rice, who in turn succeeded his father (the founder) some twenty-one years ago.

No change of ownership, management or nature of the business is being made, other than that of name as reported.

See A. Keen (the Managing Partner) and his assistant salesman, whose photos have of late been regularly appearing in this firm's advertisements; will continue to render those services which their organization, their experience and modern facilities have made possible.

A PUBLIC MEETING OF RATEPAYERS TO VOTE ON HOSPITAL GRANTS

Council Seeks Authority Before Granting $500 And Passing Resolution—Meeting Monday Evening At Court House

"Resolved, that the ratepayers of the Town of Digby authorize the Town Council to pass a resolution declaring the local hospital to be a Public Hospital, and make an annual grant of $500.00."

The following resolution was passed by the Town Council at their regular meeting Monday evening, and was moved by Coun. Raymond, and seconded by Coun. Merkel.

The subject was brought up for discussion when Coun. Aymr, before passing the estimates, told the Council that two requisitions had been handed to the Council, one calling for an annual grant of $500 and the other that a ratepayers meeting be called so the Public may be given correct information on the situation. The town must give $500 before the hospital can be incorporated, declared Coun. Aymr, and the Council did not feel like assuming the responsibility for the granting of $500 annually. Who is going to be responsible for the deficit if the Town Council authorizes incorporation, declared Coun. Aymr. The Board of Incorporators could not be expected to assume all responsibility, and eventually the Council would have to make good a deficit.

Coun. Lindstrom was in accord with the remark of Coun. Aymr. If we give $500, then the town is responsible for the hospital. We are looking after the ratepayers' money, and should call a ratepayers meeting, discuss the matter, and if they authorize the Council to give the grant as outlined, then the Council is not responsible and will be able by the decision of the ratepayers.

It was then moved that a ratepayers meeting be called for Monday evening next, April 6, in the Court House, and the usual notice published in the press. This was seconded and carried.

$100 VOTED BY TOWN COUNCIL FOR SUFFERERS

Clerk Instructed To Forward Cheque Immediately To Relief Committee In Cape Breton

The Town Council in regular session Monday evening voted the sum of $100 for the relief of sufferers in Cape Breton, and the Clerk was authorized to forward a cheque for the amount at once to the Relief Committee.

His Worship Mayor Anderson brought the matter before the members of the Council, and remarked that he had received two telegrams, which told that great distress was prevalent in Cape Breton at the present time, and recommended that the Council make a grant. His Worship said he did not know whose fault it was, the British Empire Steel or the labor union, for the cause of the present trouble, and it was not up to the Council to decide, but he did think the time had arrived when the town should do something in order to relieve the suffering and want, and prevent women and children from starving to death.

Coun. Lindstrom thought it was absurd to say what the outcome of the present trouble would be, and certain newspapers were making political capital out of the present distress in Cape Breton, which was not so bad as complained of in certain papers.

Coun. Aymr, who had spent some 14 years in Cape Breton, said there was poverty in that section at the best of times, especially when men were only allowed to work two or three days a week.

Coun. Merkel moved that the sum of $100 be forwarded to the Relief Committee at once. This was seconded and carried unanimously.

Just Talks—On Common Themes

On "Rediscovery of the Spirit"

TO GET into plain words what is going on in the scientific and philosophical world is difficult.

We are troubled in science and in professions by long words. The notion that we must have exact words for exact reactions in science and medicine has led to the construction of words out of Greek, that are unpronounceable and not to be understood or remembered.

It is, therefore, difficult to say what I am going to try to say, and get it across in plain everyday language.

But, so far as this column of this newspaper is concerned, it has been saying over and over again for five or six years what now appears to be the conclusion of modern science and philosophy.

And these conclusions are as follows: We are passing out of a period of materialism into the period of rediscovery of God and the Soul of Man.

I am led to this restatement by the article which has just appeared in the Forum for March, written by Henry Fairfield Osborn. He asserts that this is exactly what is happening. He ascribes the beginnings of it to the World War which started the spiritual movement, because it aroused a host of mechanism and placed a new value on the spiritual conduct of people.

We feel that this should encourage the churches which need encouragement. If finally the biologist and the physiologist and the psychologist join in this movement and start on a service of rediscovery of the spirit of man, they will be adding to the movement and make it so distinctive that it will sweep the world into a new revival.

We see many signs of this in certain civic movements such as the Rotarians of 28 different countries in the world, uniting to put into active working power, the spirit of the Golden Rule. This happens to a creed in which all may join. There is not a religion on earth that does not carry it. We have recently compiled a series of different expressions of the Golden Rule and find them in every religion ever put into formal creed. Pagan or Christian, Jewish or Gentile, all have it.

Robert A. Millikan, the latest Nobel Prize man in physics, says that from his point of view there are only two ideas or beliefs upon which the well or the woe of the human race depends and the most important thing in the world is a belief in the reality of spiritual and moral values. "If I have made any contribution to biology, which I consider to be permanent, it is the profession that living nature is purposive. This purpose pervades all nature from nebulae to man."

This is not an old-fashioned statement—but comes from the foremost living student of the physical universe. He deals with materials; he discovers a purpose in all of it. And it matters not so much what you wish to call it. Call it what you please. Herbert Spencer called it the Unknowable. Wordsworth called it "Wisdom and Spirit of the Universe." It is a purpose and a source and a cause.

It seems odd, that one day this week, three of us fell to discussing this very thing. I had expressed the well-understood dilemma of Science; that Science has never been able to get back to a cause. Science dissects the rainbow, but cannot tell us why the deflection of light thru the prism of the rain drops dissolves light into its colors. If it can do that, it does not know why light has color. If it determines that it cannot tell us why color at all. The farther and farther it goes toward causes the less it understands.

Finally one of the gentlemen said, "We think and think until we lose our power of imagination; then we are compelled to set up a causative force and we start forward again from that."

Dr. J. Albert Thompson, who is a great philosopher, out of Edinburgh or Aberdeen, Scotland, says the nearest we can get to a solution is that the direction of progress is from within. If we get back to the nebula for a starting point, then we must see that the Cosmos of the Nebula was within itself and that in reality there was never any Chaos except as there is chaos to be subdued by the Cosmos, even as the steam engine turns the steam into cosmos. There can be nothing in the end that was not in the beginning; except that cosmos becomes universal.

If the preachers will have less fear of science and more faith in their own teaching, they will better interpret science into the pulpit. The most stirring spectacle of illiteracy is a bill passed by a southern legislature to exclude the teaching of evolution. What it should have done is assist science to find the spirit that "evolves."

We have tried to enforce the same thought regarding ourselves. We are machines for converting the chaos of life into progress. We are physical, mental, spiritual. We have been neglecting the spiritual. It is being rediscovered by science as positive and functional.

Perhaps plain speaking about it, not as an abstract thing but as scientific proposition may afford preachers a wider field. The New Testament will back it up; but we may be benefited also by the effort to show that the Spirit exists, that it is as existent as the mind; that it is distinct from the mind as is the man at the wheel of the automobile, different from the mechanism that operates to his guidance, his judgment and his choice of highways.

named Webber, charged with allowing his car to stand on the Public Highway with the motor running, unattended. The accused appeared before Stipendiary Havey on Monday morning and pleaded guilty, and was fined the sum of $5.00. Webber was given a severe reprimand by Stipendiary Havey, who said that the penalty for violating the Motor Vehicle Act was severe. Law and order must be respected in the town of Digby, and due respect given to the Police Officer who has been appointed to see that the law is enforced, declared Stipendiary Havey. Every man, woman and child in the town should assist Chief Bent in the performance of his duties.

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 1

Tea as a Beverage

Tea first became known in China nearly 3000 years before Christ. In that country tea was greatly prized, both for its remarkable qualities as a beverage and for the almost religious ceremony attached to the drinking of it. Up to the sixth century, tea was used only for medicinal purposes. Even in the seventeenth century it cost $25.00 to $50.00 per pound. All tea caddies were constantly kept under lock and key. Today when even fine quality like "SALADA" costs less than one-third of a cent per cup, it is not surprising that the consumption of tea is increasing tremendously.

Still Another Advantage
For Smokers

Nothing can ever replace the pleasure—the solace—the comfort and enjoyment afforded by Tobacco. But the charm of the leaf is largely due to its full rich flavor, and until recently, the perfection of this feature was often marred by heat of stores and warehouses, especially during Winter, and the dryness of the atmosphere during Summer, which caused the tobacco to lose its original freshness and fragrance.

The chance of this taking place is now entirely eliminated by the famous vacuum (air-tight) tin. Whether a man smokes cut tobacco, or prefers to cut it himself as he requires it, or whether he chews tobacco, he can now be assured of securing his favorite brands in the same perfect condition as they left the factory. The richness of flavor, the delicate fragrance, the moisture, and the famous wonderful innovation—the famous vacuum (air-tight) tin, which is sure to bring increased enjoyment to all who chew.

The story of how the famous Sir Walter Raleigh first introduced Tobacco to civilization is common knowledge. But the leaf which he and his contemporaries indulged in was crude smoking to the brands enjoyed by smokers today. The history of development of tobacco is a record of a long series of innovations, modifications and devices, all planned to make it more enjoyable to the consumer. But probably none of these has been so great an improvement from the devotee's point of view, as the famous Vacuum (air-tight) tin, in which the Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada Limited is now packing several of their leading brands of cut smoking, plug smoking, and plug chewing tobacco.

Toronto Mother Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ontario.—"I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a splendid medicine to take before and after confinement. A small book was put in my door one day advertising Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines, and as I did not feel at all well at the time I went and got a bottle of Vegetable Compound right away. I soon began to notice a difference in my general health. I was full of aches and pains at the time and thought I had every complaint going, but I can truthfully say your medicine certainly did me good. I can and will speak highly of it and I know it will do other women good who are sick and ailing if they will only give it a fair trial. Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills are splendid for constipation. You are welcome to use my letter if you think it will help any one. Mrs. HANNA WINTERWOOD, 543 Quebec Street, Toronto, Ontario.

The expectant mother is wise if she considers carefully this statement of Mrs. Winterwood. It is but one of a great many, all telling the same story—general relief results.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for use during this period. The experience of other women who have found this medicine a blessing is proof of its great merit. Why not try it now yourself?

Weddings

WEBSTER—COSBY
A quiet wedding took place at the Methodist Parsonage, Bear River, on March 25, when Rev. C. M. Mack united in marriage Josephine, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cosby, of Smith's Cove, to Albert E. Webster, son of Mrs. and the late A. J. Webster, of Ipswich, London, England. The bride who was attended by her mother was becomingly attired in her travelling suit of navy blue serge with pearl grey hat and wore her wrist watch, gift of the groom. The groom was supported by Frank Cosby, brother of the bride. After the ceremony the happy couple left for St. John, New Brunswick, where they are taking up their residence on the groom's farm at Coburg, Ontario.

THE NEW TARIFF

A Customs Duty Placed on Slack coal
Ann Electricity When Exported—
Duty on Soft Coal Reduced

Hon. James A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance, presented the National Budget for 1925 in the Dominion House last week. There are no outstanding changes in the sales tax or the income tax, but concessions are made to several individual industries. The most important of the tariff changes may be summarized as follows:

1. An increase in the customs duty on slack coal from 14 cents per ton to 50 cents per ton, and a reduction in the duty on other forms of bituminous coal from 53 cents to 50 cents per ton.

2. Authorization of an export tax of $1.95 per horsepower a year on all electric power exported from the Dominion.

3. Appointment of an advisory board of experts to advise the Minister of Finance on matters relating to the tariff and other forms of taxation.

4. A change in the anti-dumping law designed to assist the Government in protecting Canadian manufacturers from the unfair competition of foreign manufacturers located in countries where the currency has been depreciated.

5. Substantial reductions in the customs duty on deep-well-drilling machinery, engines used in boats owned by individual fishermen, and farm sleds, and increases in the amount of drawback on materials used for the manufacture of these articles.

6. Restoration of the 27 1-2 per cent, general tariff on rolling mill rolls, which were placed on the free list last.

7. Exemption of lasts and patterns used in the manufacture of boots and shoes, and vegetable plants from the sales tax.

When the Paper Doesn't Come

My father says the paper that he reads ain't put up right. He finds a lot of fault, he does, persuin' it at night. He says there ain't a single thing in it worth while to read. And that it doesn't print the kind of stuff the people need. He tosses it aside and says, it's strictly on the bum.

But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come! He reads about the wedding and he snorts like all get out. He reads the social don'ts with a most derisive shout. He says they make the paper for the women folks alone. He'll read about the parties and he'll fume and fret and groan; He says of information it doesn't have a crumb.

But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come? He's always first to grab it and he reads it through clean through. He doesn't miss a item or a want ad—that is true. He says it don't know what we want, the "blasted newspaper guys." I'm going to take a day sometime and go and put 'em wise. Sometimes it seems as tho' they must be deaf and blind and dumb— But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come!

"I want a man to work on my farm. I don't give dancing lessons; I have no piano. I can't serve plank steak three times a day. I do give three square meals, a real hot, fat wages. If any man who knows a cow from a talking machine can hear an alarm clock, and get up at five of a morning, wants a job, I will agree not to treat him like one of the family, but a darn sight better." An advertisement in "The Home Recorder."

Start the Week With a Smile

Rate Employer—Late again; have you ever done anything on time?
Clerk—I bought a car.

A pessimist given the choice of two evils chooses both, while an optimist chooses neither but looks about for a weapon with which to destroy them.

On Thursday he took a display sign off a lady's blouse and put it on a bathtub. The sign read: "How would you like to see your best girl in this for $2.75. They fired him Friday."

Deacon Flint—Jane, if I die I wish you'd marry Deacon Smith.
Mrs. Deacon Flint—And why, Amos?
Deacon Flint—Well, the Deacon beat me on a host trade once.

Mike—'Tis a fine kid ye have there. A magnificent head and noble features. Say, could you lend me a couple of dollars?
Pat—I could not. 'Tis me wife's child by her first husband.

A little, battered driver chugged painfully up to the gate of a race track. The gatekeeper demanded the usual fee for parking space, calling out: "A dollar for the car."

"Sold!" said the owner, with a sigh of relief.

An itinerant salesman, undeterred by the poverty-stricken appearance of one house, tried to sell the head of a certain article. He got this reply: "Say, I only spent one dime in all my life for foolishness, and that was for a pair of socks."

"My husband's employees must think a lot of him."
"How come?"
"Why, the other night he came home all tired out and I heard him say in his sleep, 'Jim, I'll raise you ten.' And business is so dull, too."

"Well, here you are," said the doctor, "a pill for the kidneys, a tablet for the indigestion, and another pill for the nerves."

"But look here, doctor," said the patient, "how will the little beggar know where to go when they're inside?"

Rastus—"Boy, it was so cold whar I cum from we had to frow watch out de window an' slide down de icicle to git out ob de house."
More—"You talk nuffins. Whar I lib it is so cold we gotta build fahs udah de cows to stop 'em from givin' ice cream."

An Irishman stood looking at an electrical contrivance, when an inventor walked over to him and asked: "Some machine; I wonder who the inventor is?" The Irishman looked at him and replied: "Shure it was a son o' the soil. Can't you see his name there—'Pat Pending.'"

The canny Scot was not quite sure whether business might not keep him away from his evening meal. "Fannie, my girl," said he to his wife, "ere he's left home in the morning, 'if I'm able to be home I'll ring me up at 6 precisely. Diana tak the receiver off, and then I'll no ha' to pit in me two-pence."

"Yes, father," said the young man just out of college. "I've graduated; and my education is complete. I suppose I know about everything worth knowing; now I must find a large field where I can use it to the best advantage."

"Son," replied the old gentleman, "there is the ten-acre field, and you kin have it all to yourself."

"Why," said the insurance agent, "insurance is the greatest thing in the world. No man should be without it. I even carry a $50,000 policy, payable to my wife."

"It's too much," said the harassed taxpayer. "What excuse can you give her for living."

A confident widower called to see a widow who owned a fine farm. He said without sitting down: "I'm a business man, I don't waste no time. Will you marry me? I'd like yer answer now."

"I'm a business woman," she said. "I wouldn't marry you if you had a million dollars, now git."

A chap was arrested for assault and battery and brought before the judge. Judge (to prisoner)—What is your name, your occupation and what are you charged with?

Prisoner—My name is Sparks, I am an electrician and I'm charged with battery. Judge—Officer, put this guy in a dry cell.

The devil looked up from his daily register. "I see you got a fellow named Sherman here."

"Yes," said Beetzubub, "he came in with the last lot."

"Well, see if he is any relation to a general of that name who said war was hell, and he is give him the limit. I ain't going to stand for people slandering hell that way."

A man who believed he knew all about parrots undertook to teach what he thought to be a young, mute bird to say "Hello!" in the lesson. Going up to the cage, he repeated "that word in a clear voice for several minutes, the parrot paying not the slightest attention. At the final "Hello!" the bird opened one eye, gazed at the man, and snapped out, "Line's busy."

A scuffling match was arranged between an Englishman and an Irishman. The Englishman won with ease, and for fun stopped several times during the race.

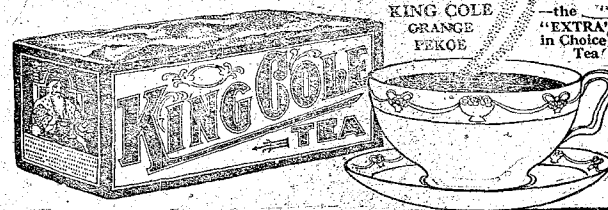

After the race the Irishman came in for a lot of chaff, in view of the overwhelming nature of his defeat, but he merely shrugged his shoulders.

"Faith," he said, "if Oi had had the loop reel he took, Oi could have beaten him easily."

Public Meeting At Court House Monday Evening Was Largely Attended—Able Addresses In Favor of Scheme Delivered By Drs. DuVernet, Roberts And Dickie

VOTE STOOD 45 FOR HOSPITAL AND 33 AGAINST

The hospital question, which has been a live issue in Digby for upwards of eight months, was finally settled on Monday evening, when at one of the largest attended and most orderly meetings ever held in the Court House, the ratepayers, by a vote of 45 to 33 voted in favor of a Public Hospital for the Municipality and Town of Digby, and by their vote the Town Council have been authorized to pass a resolution making the present hospital a Public Hospital and also making an annual grant of $500 towards such an institution.

That the vote in favor of the hospital was a popular one, was evidenced by the applause which greeted the announcement that a majority had voted in favor of the resolution which was passed at the last regular meeting of the Town Council. Fully 85 per cent. of the citizens present, who did not have the privilege of voting on the question, were in favor of carrying on the good work which was started several months ago by the medical men of the town and county.

While no strenuous opposition was given to the resolution, two of the Councillors of the town, P. W. Holdsworth and S. A. Aymer, by their remarks, were in favor of the town council's great decision. Mr. Holdsworth did not think a hospital could be financed, and read statements of various hospitals throughout the Province (which were highly capitalized) showing in each case a large deficit was really larger than the estimated operating expenses of the Digby Hospital. Several other citizens, who did not want to oppose the project, were lukewarm in their support, but the climax came when a highly esteemed lady of the town, Mrs. M. Merkel, called upon those present to forget the money part of the question and to think a little about the saving of lives, and the work which such an institution will do for humanity.

It was a noticeable fact that few speakers, however prominent their positions, were greeted with more than perfunctory applause, when opposing the hospital. This would indicate that there arguments were weak, or their views unpopular.

The meeting opened at eight o'clock. His Worship Mayor, Alfred Boden, was called upon to read the resolution which had been passed at the last meeting of the Town Council, which was placed before the meeting. Dr. E. DuVernet, moved, seconded by W. W. Hayden, that the resolution be accepted and placed before the meeting for discussion.

Dr. E. DuVernet, who has been working for the past several months, in cooperation with Drs. Roberts and Dickie, to get a hospital permanently established in the town, was the first speaker, and his remarks were timely and to the point and listened to with rapt attention by the large audience. Dr. DuVernet outlined what had been done during the past several months, when a petition was circulated through out the town a few weeks ago, calling upon Council to make a grant of $500, a good deal of propaganda had been found to be circulated against the hospital, by those opposing the project, but some of the statements circulated had been of a malicious character. A letter read at the last meeting of the Council, from B. W. Tobin, Montreal, was of a malicious nature, and the Clerk was asked to read the letter to the ratepayers, which was immediately done. Dr. DuVernet claimed the letter was a sample of what was going on in opposition to a hospital, and he regretted that the writer was not present, and characterized it as a combination of falsehoods, veiled slander and bombast.

Dr. DuVernet claimed he had nothing whatever to do with the killing of the hospital which was proposed several years ago by the late Mrs. S. C. Hogg of Providence. Very few people in the town knew anything about the work which was carried on at that time, and to prove that he had nothing whatever to do with the killing of the project as at first outlined, he read letters which had passed between himself and the lady in question. After working on the scheme for six months, and on the eve of bringing the matter to a head, the lady passed away.

After Dr. DuVernet, Mr. DuVernet, stating that she wanted to do something for Digby, a place which she loved. Plans had been prepared for a hospital costing in the vicinity of $30,000. Dr. Everett of Boston was looking after the matter for Mrs. Hogg. Considerable correspondence had passed back and forth, but on April 1, 1913, a letter was received by Dr. DuVernet, from Mrs. Hogg, who stated that she had given over the plans, and sources of maintenance, and as it cost more to run it than she anticipated did not want to throw such a burden on the few who would have it in charge and eventually prove a failure, and so decided to give up the project. If she was spared, perhaps at some future time she could do something to show her love for Digby. Dr. DuVernet immediately replied to the last letter received asking the lady to reconsider her decision, but Mrs. Hogg would not alter the decision that she had come to.

After reading the correspondence, Dr. DuVernet asked the ratepayers, from the evidence produced, if they thought him guilty of opposing the establishment of a hospital in Digby? Since that time the hospital question has come up under altogether different lines. For the town itself, it would not be feasible to start a hospital, but the proposition now considered was of a different nature, as the Municipality was back of the scheme. The speaker outlined what had been done since the inception of the present hospital, the suffering it had relieved and the lives which had been saved. At first he was a lukewarm supporter of the scheme, but now he was an enthusiastic supporter. Dr. DuVernet pleaded to the ratepayers not to strangle the hospital in its infancy, but give it a chance to live, "because you know as well as I do that accidents and disease will happen with lightning rapidity. Surely you would not want to kill a baby because it may increase your taxes?" The speaker closed his remarks by asking all present to support the institution and give it a chance to make good.

Dr. Roberts followed, and explained to the ratepayers the estimated cost of running a hospital such as was proposed. The matter of financing was taken at every angle, and the total expense for the year would be approximately $5,744.32. Dr. Roberts said the Board of Trustees were not trying to thrust a white elephant on the public and were not trying to cover up anything. He paid a tribute to Miss Hill for her faithfulness in the past and the good work she had done. If each and every individual would get behind the hospital and work together, the town would mean nothing to this community. Each and every one should think twice before casting a ballot for or against the resolution.

Dr. Dickie, of Barton, asked for permission to address the ratepayers, which was granted by His Worship. The great question at the present time was, "How are we going to raise the money?" That seemed to be worrying the ratepayers of both town and county a good deal.

All over the Municipality people realized the need of a hospital, and the question of finance was bothering a good many. He did not know that any hospital could get along without a deficit. The setting down to figures of a large number of the patients will come from the County, therefore he thought it only just and fair that the Municipality should bear the larger part of a deficit. The people did not want to see the hospital closed, but the ratepayers voted against the scheme, the present hospital would be closed immediately. Dr. Dickie asked the ratepayers to carefully consider the matter before casting their vote.

Several questions were asked by T. C. Lynch, regarding the resolution, whether the town would be liable for any deficit if the resolution was passed. Town Clerk Boden, in replying, stated that from legal advice secured, the town would have no further liability than the amount they decided to vote toward the hospital. The question uppermost in the minds of the people was, who were liable should a deficit occur? Coun. Holdsworth read statements showing that Miss Hill had made no money in the running of the hospital. The Town Council, Holdsworth also read minutes of a Council meeting held last year, where Dr. DuVernet stated that the medical man would not see Miss Hill as a competitor of the scheme, and he did not think Dr. DuVernet was consistent in his views. The speaker could not see why the Town Council should father the hospital. They must appoint a man on the Board, and as far as he could see, despite legal advice, the town was responsible for all losses. We should have co-operation between the Municipality and the Town Council, the former to give a vote of $1,000. He was opposed to the Town Council giving grant and passing the resolution. The medical men could go ahead and organize a hospital themselves, without the assistance of any person. All who were in favor of a hospital in Digby could not support a hospital, but a trust, and then come to the Council and ask for a donation.

Dr. DuVernet replied to some of the remarks made by Coun. Holdsworth. Regarding not being consistent, the speaker believed and still believes that the town itself could not support a hospital, but the present scheme was something different, as two thirds of the support will come from the County. The hospital would not be run at a loss, and a call would be made on the people whenever necessary.

The matter of the Provincial Health Officer approving the present building was taken up by a question asked by Frank W. Nicholson. Extracts from a letter received from Dr. Jost at Halifax were read by Clerk Boden, showing that the Provincial officers would not hinder the hospital from getting a grant, but would assist in every possible way.

Coun. Aymer followed along the same lines as Coun. Holdsworth, and in his opinion, should the resolution pass, the Town Council would have to make good any losses.

Dr. W. F. Reed expressed his opinion on the scheme outlined and at the beginning stated that the hospital had been given a trial for six months, as the medical men were anxious to find out how such an institution would go in the town. Miss Hill had made no money out of the scheme, and since the Board are obliged to pay $150 for the services of a matron and the use of a building, he did not see how the money could be raised. He thought the Municipality should not turn about and be called to pay a deficit. If there was a scheme in running a hospital without a deficit, then we

On "Best Educated Men"

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, for his times, was the best educated man that America has ever produced. And it may be of encouragement to poor lads of these times in Digby County and throughout Nova Scotia to know that Franklin had almost no opportunities of schooling. He educated himself.

When Franklin was 12 years old his school days were over, and he was apprenticed to his brother as a printer's devil. He was the 15th child in a family of 17, born in Boston. Unable to get along with his brother James, an editor of those days, who did not edit much of anything, Ben quit and went to Philadelphia just as C. H. K. Curtis did and with about as much money. He had a dollar and a quarter in his pocket.

When he was 42 he had accumulated $75,000, a great deal of money for those days. It gave him an income of about $4,000 a year. This was all he wanted. So he sold out his business and devoted himself to study, to service and to humanity. He had then lived just exactly one-half of his days. Even if he had died then, his life would have been considered as one of the most useful of history.

Franklin educated himself at the printer's case. So many other men have educated themselves at the same job, that this is nothing so remarkable. Probably the greatest and best school for those who have never had the regular schools is the printer's case. I suppose that one could name you a thousand great men who have been so educated—poets, novelists, scientists, statesmen. It is a constant school—this setting by hand as was formerly done, and is done in The Courier office today, every letter and every word of the writings of great minds. Men have learned in this way, all languages and all principles.

In our day we have seen some of the greatest artists in literature from among those who have followed the newspaper or the printer's work—such as Mark Twain, Howells, Kipling and many others.

Franklin, by way of the printer's art and by way of his own writings as a force-put, created such immortal works as Poor Richard's, and such creative works as applied so, particularly to practical living. He originated that remarkable society called "the Junto," which was the first Rotary Club.

Franklin accomplished a simple and direct style, yet adorned with words of great energy and fitness. Purely plain and understandable writings has power to convey thoughts. It is a proper vehicle—so is a cart or an ox-team. But Franklin had charm also. He drove the reader along in a swift-moving vehicle with many fine trappings, not enough to lumber it and make it heavy. This style of writing is difficult to achieve. It runs along on a straight line, moves swiftly; takes you to the appointed place amid great delight at its beauty and its luxury.

Franklin knew what he knew and knew why he was sure about it. His Junto led to the establishment of a great many things that now are established as great benefits to all the world.

From it came the establishment of the Philadelphia Public Library. From this society came the movement for better public streets. They started the agitation for paving and lighting the streets of Philadelphia.

They started and established a High School for a certain form of higher education chiefly at that time to study English branches. This grew into the now famous University of Pennsylvania.

It is said that the Junto did more to fix in the life of Franklin the close study of service to others than any other thing that he ever did. It created the study habit and brought about the habit of study. These things made him what he became. Every member of this club, at the beginning was a printer. It started with twelve members and never was enlarged beyond forty. All of the original members became very distinguished men. This cannot have been a mere accident. The association must have had something to do with it. Their constant study of practical things and their study of ethics and duty may have recreated the entire twelve.

After Franklin quit making money he did not quit service.

Many men sit over their wealth like an old hen over china eggs. They neither tackle nor hatch. They simply hoard their money and suspect everyone who comes to them to ask them for a bit of help for fellow-men. They do not think—in many instances—that the money that they have obtained came largely from the public. Franklin felt that he had a duty to the world and had no desire to die to leave wealth. He had no vicarious interest in what people might say of him, when dead—"He left a lot," who will get his money." He never gave up anything while he lived; but he has taken nothing with him. Franklin spent his money wisely for serviceable things, maintaining himself reasonably in order that he might work for his country and for society.

He became a famous scientist and was made a member of every learned society on earth, that was worth belonging to as a member. He became a great leader, signing almost all the important documents. He was linguist, statesman, financier, philosopher, printer, business man, inventor. His inventions were all practical.

He died at 84 and left his money in such a way that it is working today in Boston and Philadelphia to educate and improve poor boys.

It was Franklin's wisdom to esteem his Trade first of all. In spite of his worldly possessions, his degrees, his titles, his vast honors, every lad especially his own, he did not write his epitaph in any of these languages. He wrote his own epitaph for his tombstone in terms of his TRADE. "The body of Benjamin Franklin, Printer. Like the cover of an old book, its contents torn out, and strip of its lettering and giving lies here, food for worms. Yet the work itself shall not be lost, for it will (as he believed) appear once more in a new and more beautiful edition. Corrected and amended by the Author."

OUR NEW BAND AS AN ASSET

In speaking about bands and town bands in particular, we sometimes hear people carelessly say, "What good is a band in a town, anyway?" Well, first take inventory of the fellow who makes the remark. You may have reason to allow the silly question to go unanswered. But regarding the remark, more serious, let us say that a good band is one of the most useful things a town or community can possess. It is one of the best advertisements a town can have.

Emerson says something about the town making a beaten path. Well, a good band will make all the roads leading to the town beaten paths, even though the town's other attractions be not enormous; every merchant is benefited by the good hand. The promoters of business and musical enterprises all day have the satisfaction of knowing that their civic demonstrations from time to time will be successful, because they are a first class band to lead the parade and attract the crowd.

A band composed of able players is a tower of strength to any town or section of country. It cultivates the public mind to a high class of music, and does it right at your door, too. Every enterprising citizen will boost the band wherever he goes.

LEAD YOUR JOB

In your office you may leave work unfinished, depending on the next day to clean it up. Next day, when your work comes to you, or you may be delayed, and what gets ahead of you today is added to what you neglected to do yesterday. The day after you begin a mad race to catch up. Errors creep in, and in your haste you do not keep up the usual high standard of work which you ought to maintain. Men and women work with feverish haste when they have not planned their work, and so it is better to lay out a plan of procedure and make each day take care of its work. It pays in every way to keep ahead of your job.

THE PAPER MARK PASSES

On July 5 the old paper marks will cease to be legal tender in Germany. They have been called in and the Reichsbank will give one new reichsmark for one trillion old marks.

The spree is over. The fever is ended. Delirium is no more. All that remains is the headache and the nausea. At the peak of the movement the figures were dazzling. In September of 1924 the note circulation of the Reichsbank was 1,620,611,000,000,000,000 marks. Stated verbally, if that is any help the figure was something like sextillions. If every piece of gold, every house, factory, railroad, farm, bridge, oil well, automobile, radio set, neckties and toothbrushes in the United States and Canada were available for redemption of this currency, they would be able to redeem it at face gold value only one mark in every billion. Germany is now redeeming its old marks at one-trillionth of their original value and even then will require several hundred million dollars.

Thus a picturesque currency passes. No longer will everybody in Germany have the satisfaction of being a trillionaire in order to keep his money. But a man cannot be robbed of his dreams. In every hamlet in Germany, in every city of the United States and Canada there will be marks on the wall. They will be kept in bureau drawers, in trunks in attics, under mattresses and rafters, even in safe deposit boxes. People bought these in faith that the mark would "come back". That faith is not wholly dead. Economists and bankers may point out that any redemption now is politically, psychologically, and inconceivable but they will not be heard everywhere, and they will not be believed everywhere they are heard.

WORRYING ABOUT IT

The hardest work you ever do is worrying about it. What makes an hour resemble two is worrying about it. They grow more slowly when you sit at work and sigh again. And think of the work ahead and then keep worrying about it. Just buckle up and buckle in—by now, not worry, you will win. Just worrying about it. It is the labor and its fruit. It is the work and its joy. It is the work and its joy. It is the work and its joy.

How To Get The Hydro

Editor Courier:—

SIR—Is the Middleton-Yarmouth district an economic or a political proposition? It has been definitely established on official authority that there is a sharp distinction between the Nova Scotia Power Commission and the Nova Scotia Government. The Nova Scotia Power Commission operates as a corporate entity and not as a department of the government. The Nova Scotia Power Commission will not commence actual development in the district (Middleton-Yarmouth) until contracts are in hand for a sufficient amount of power to warrant such development from an economic standpoint. The majority of citizens will probably agree that economic motives control such an imperative development, although the Nova Scotia Government has a certain power of regulation over all undertakings closely related to the welfare of the people.

Town committees are in resolutions, which if placed before the Commission are good reminders that the people along the Bay of Fundy desire the Hydro. These resolutions do little actual good. There is a way of solving the problem and at the same time saving the taxpayers' money. If it is being proposed that the people as usual will foot the bill, START AN ECONOMIC FAIR SIZED BUSINESS. WHEN YOU TAKE THE POWER, AND MAKE IT AN ECONOMIC SUCCESS. Not as easy as it sounds, but possible, and it will be likely necessary before the Middleton-Yarmouth development will ever be carried out.

Perhaps town councils and other parties could broadcast the industrial merits and privileges of the district to foreign provinces, as well as the beauty of the scenery to foreign tourists.

Although the fundamental principle of the Hydro is to develop the country, it must have a fairly reliable load to start on. Any one can see from the "Estimated Power and Energy Chart" for the Middle-Yarmouth district that a single industry (the Bear River Pulp Mill) is at present the main pillar in the economic development of the district. From a total consumption of 9,470,000 Kw. hrs. per year for the whole Middle-Yarmouth district, the pulp mill is scheduled to take 4,320,000 Kw. hrs. per year, or nearly one-half.

But if it is not feasible to electrify the district, New Brunswick, Yarmouth, and a development at Bear River, how about the district from Weymouth to Yarmouth? The development on the St. John River? Recent preliminary report on such a development shows that enough power can be generated from one source to the St. John to supply the Weymouth-Yarmouth district at an annual production cost of less than 2 cents per Kw. hr. at substitution.

Weddings

GRANT-MARSHALL

A wedding of interest to a wide circle of friends was solemnized at 3.30 Tuesday morning, March 31st, in St. Peter's Episcopal church, Weymouth North, when Letitia Isabel Grant, daughter of Mrs. Johnson Grant, was united in marriage to Capt. Haines R. Marshall, both of this place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. Taylor. The church was prettily decorated with ferns and both cut and potted flowers. The bride who was given away by her brother, Blanchard Grant, wore a tailored suit of navy serge with green hat and squirrel ears, and carried a shower bouquet of carnations and sweet peas. The bride was assisted by her little niece, Elizabeth Hood, and Albert Hood supported the groom. The ushers were Arch Ruggles and Caird Nicholl. Mrs. Skrimmer presided at the organ. The happy couple left on the ten o'clock train for Halifax. They were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts of linen, cut glass, silver and money. The groom's gift to the bride was a substantial cheque.

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 2

Tea Production Today

If the Chinese, who first discovered tea, had realized the possibilities of the trade and had studied the nature and requirements of the plant, China might still be the largest tea producing country. Centuries of neglect, however, stunted the growth and caused the quality to deteriorate. In the mountains of Ceylon and India, tea was found to flourish. Scientific methods of cultivation and manufacture were introduced with remarkable results. Now the finest tea grown in the world and by far the largest quantity comes from these countries. "SALADA" is mainly blended from flavoury India and Ceylon teas.

Wife—"My husband certainly does enjoy smoking in his den. Has your husband a den?"
Knife—"No, he grows all over the house."

Late Wife (discussing husband on front steps fiddling with door knob):
"What are you doing there, Webster?"
Husband (continuing to turn knob):
"Shh! I'm trying to get fittabber!"

"Why, pa, this is roast beef!" exclaimed little Jim at dinner one evening when Mr. Brown, a guest of honor, said to him:
"Why, you told me this morning that you were going to bring an old mutton-head home for dinner this evening!"

Dealer: "What! You say Mrs. De Witt bought a gallon of gasoline to kindle her kitchen fire! Didn't you tell her not to?"
Clerk: "No, I thought we might be able to sell her a new cook stove."

Two sweethearts from Aberdeen were rambling around when they came to a movie. The young man ran his eye over the front of the building. It rested on title in large letters—"The Woman Pays."
"Jean," he said, "I think we'll gang in there."

"Why, don't you attend church?" asked the minister of a non-attendant.
"Well, I'll tell you, sir. The first time I went to church they poured water in my face, the second time they tied me to a woman, I've had to keep ever since."
"Yes," said the minister, "and the next time you go, they'll throw dirt on you."

The other day a man dashed into Grand Central Station with just one minute to catch the Twentieth Century. He made the ticket window in a series of slides, skirts and jerks.
"Quick! Give me a round trip ticket!" he gasped.
"Where to?"
"B back here, you dumbo!"

To be honest, to be kind—to earn a little and spend a little less, to make upon the whole a family happier for his presence, to renounce when that shall be necessary and not to be embittered, to keep a few friends, but these without capitalization—all on the same grim conditions, to keep friends with himself—here is a look for all that a man has of fortune and delicacy.

A Chinese newspaper contains this letter from an applicant for work:
"Sir—I am Wang. I can drive a type-writer with good noise and my English is great. My last job has left I self from me for the good reason that the large man has died. It was on account of no fault of mine. So, honorable sir, what about it? If I can be of big use to you, I will arrive on some date that you should guess."

Sergeant (drilling awkward squad)—
"Attention, company, lift up your left leg and hold it straight out in front of you!"
One of the men held up his right leg by mistake. This brought his right-hand companion's left leg and his own right leg close together. The officer, seeing this, exclaimed angrily:
"And who is that blooming galoot over there holding up both legs?"

Once a city man out of work had "hired out" to a farmer. At four o'clock in the morning, the newly employed hired man was called to breakfast. A few minutes later the old farmer was astonished to see the man walking off down the road.
"Say! Come back and eat breakfast 'fore you go to work!" he yelled after him.
"I ain't going to work," the man called back.
"I'm going to find a place where I can stay all night."

Three times the red-faced "prospect" had pushed the young Scotch insurance agent down a long flight of stairs. The third time he turned to his work, satisfied that he had seen the last of the persistent young man.
But not the door opened, and a smiling Scotch face peered in. "Well, now," said the agent, "we've had our little bit of fun together so, all joking aside, how about the insurance?"

It was proposed to establish the honor system in a large Eastern penitentiary. The matter was put up to the prisoners themselves, it being figured that they would know better than anyone whether they could play the game honorably. It was put to a vote.
"Hey Mailey," said one tough citizen to another, "did yer vote for the honor system?"
"Sure, kid, four times."

The morning faded into afternoon, which in turn was shadowed by the coming of the night. It was cold and grey but the anger moved not, save to taste the read just his bait. He'd been there for many weary hours, when a friend chanced to stroll along the river bank.
"Hello, George," he cried, "How many have you got?"
George looked up rather vacantly and responded:
"When I get this one I'm after and four more I'll have five."

The oyster is the bane of our existence. More debutantes have lost their social position on account of it than any other single food. The following story illustrates the point.
Tom was visiting the seashore for the first time. He had never seen or tasted an oyster. His friend Bill was anxious that he should do so, so Bill took him into a restaurant and ordered a dozen raw ones.
"Now, Tom," said Bill, "you eat the oysters while I telephone. You'll enjoy 'em."
When Bill returned from the phone booth there was one oyster of unusual size still on Tom's plate.
"What's the matter, Tom, can't you eat that one?"
"No, it's too big."
"Well, look here. I'll show you how to eat it." With this he picked up a fork and ate the oyster. "Easy, isn't it?" Bill exclaimed.
"Sure," said Tom, "but will it stay down now?"
"Of course, it will, Tom."
"Well, that's funny; I tried it three times

would be doing something which heretofore has not been done in the province. Those who voted for the project were honor bound to contribute money for the upkeep of the hospital. Hospitals cost money, and if the people can support each other, it was their duty to vote for it, but he did not think the Town Council should be called upon to bear the burden.

Coun. Holdsworth at this point said he did not want the people to think that he was opposed to the hospital or that he was throwing cold water on the project.

Fritz Dakin said he came to the meeting for information and he had received same. In speaking on the question, he did not see how we were going to raise $1,500 for a hospital and $1,500 for the V. O. N. One or the other would have to go out of business.

Mrs. M. Merkel declared that all the gentlemen who had spoken on the question had talked nothing but dollars and cents. They should think of something more, and that of humanity. We who work for the V. O. N., declared the speaker, and also all other organizations, were also willing to work for the hospital.

W. Farnum closed the discussion by stating that the hospitals mentioned by Coun. Holdsworth were those having a capitalization of between $50,000 and $100,000, and each year had to meet a big interest bill. He knew two hospitals, which were on a paying basis, one in Canada and the other in Calais, Me. All the speakers were talking about dollars and cents, little realizing what a hospital meant. He was never so thankful as when he came to the meeting several months ago and voted to give the present scheme a trial, and little did he dream at that time that three of his children would have to be sent to hospitals for treatment. Leave the matter of dollars and cents alone, declared Mr. Farnum. We are not starting a hospital with over-capitalization. We have no big interest bill to pay. None of us tonight knew just how quick and when we may need a hospital, and need it badly.

The vote was then taken, and resulted in 33 voting for the resolution, and 33 against.

Why did every opponent stress the false conception of our responsibility for losses? Common sense, and a knowledge of the laws of incorporation, verified by competent legal advice disposes of that bugbear. Let's hear no more of it.

Copra Cargo From Rabaul

(Vancouver Exchange)

Bearing one of the largest shipments of copra ever brought to this port, the C. G. M. freighter Canadian Planter, Capt. J. E. Roop, arrived at midnight Sunday from Rabaul, New Britain, and is now discharging at the wharves pier.

This was the first time the vessel had been in the "Cannibal Islands" and the sailors were very interested in the port. Their visions of wild natives were badly upset, however, for they found that Rabaul is a quiet civilized town of considerable importance. However, after they had steamed into the harbor, pulled alongside one of the four concrete piers and hitched their mooring lines to staunch coconut trees, some of the crew set out to inspect the place.

Everywhere were quiet natives engaged in their usual tasks. The entire white population of about 3000, scattered about in cool clothing or sat in shaded places to make the best of the extreme heat. The visitors did likewise.

They were told that the head-hunters and cannibals are now few and far apart. However, they found that the inhabitants of the Blue Mountains, less than fifty miles distant, were still glad to have a chance to eat human beings. This worried them somewhat and they resolved to maintain their sense of direction so that they could easily reach the ship should the occasion arise.

During their stay everything was quiet. All day long motor lorries came and went between the plantations and the receiving sheds while nimble natives carried the copra out into the pier to feed the ship's hungry holds. In a few days the Canadian Planter had her cargo of 2000 tons safely stowed away, and the vessel headed for home. On the run to Vancouver the crew found little adventure to discuss and were forced to talk of what "fun" might have been if the wild men had come down from the Blue Mountains.

As well as the copra, the Canadian Planter has 3000 tons of corn and various cases of tinware taken on at Brisbane and 300 tons of general loaded at Sydney, outward she will load for Montreal.

Capt. Roop is a native of Bear River, and his many friends in this country will be interested in the above.

BETTER IN EVERY WAY

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ingomar, N. S.—"I took your medicine for a run-down condition and inward troubles. I had pains in my right side so bad at times that I could not walk any distance. I saw about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and have taken five bottles of it. I am better in every way and you can use my letter to help other women."—Mrs. ALVITA M. PENNY, Ingomar, N. S.

Nervous Breakdown Relieved

Toronto, Ontario.—"It is pretty hard to explain the feelings in nervous troubles. I felt low spirited, had pains in my head and eyes, always crying, and did not want to go anywhere. I do knitting and fancy work, and I would get irritable after a few minutes of work. I have been in Canada five years and have been this way ever since I came. I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel better. It seems to make me eat, and I must say I am feeling more jolly. I have great faith in your medicine because of what it has done for my husband's sister and she recommended it to me."—Mrs. A. STARR, 10 Bursfield Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

All druggists sell this dependable medicine, and women suffering from these troubles so common to their sex should give it a trial now.

"Child's Eyelids Inflamed Stuck Together and Bled"

Mr. E. P. Kneball, Etobicoke, Ont., writes: "Our little girl from birth was troubled with inflamed eyelids and in spite of several remedies, grew worse until at the age of six months her eyes could not be opened after sleep without bleeding, a waxy discharge sticking the lids together and adhering with great tenacity. The child's grandmother then consulted by mail, and both responded with a little sample box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. These were used as directed, and lasted until we could obtain a further supply from Edmonton. Improvement was very marked from the first application. The waxy discharge was easier removed and did not reappear. Inflammation subsided and has not returned."

Just Talks--On Common Themes

On "A Friendly Hand"

THIS is such a common thing that it seems trite to take up your time talking about it. Buy maybe it is worth while after all and it amounts to this--when a fellow is down and feeling blue, lay your hand on his shoulder in a friendly sort of way.

I was all choked up the other day. I was about as tired and down-cast as anyone ever was. Things were going badly; I was tired and discouraged. I went in to a certain shop where the proprietor was very discouraging and indifferent to what I was seeking.

Then I came back and in came a friend, hobbling on his cane. He had come to tell me that he liked something I had written. He had come for no other purpose. He came along and laid his hand on my shoulder and said the sweetest things to me about my work and my endeavors such as they are. I was all choked up. He left me, with eyes brighter, purpose more steady, heart singing; all because the old chap put his hand on my shoulder in a friendly sort of way. Then I went and found a poem of James Whitcomb Riley's that I knew about. I had a hard job to find it; but I did find it and I wanted to find it just because it says exactly what I felt like saying and what I think ought to be said to others every once in a while.

It was this: and bear in mind it was by Riley:--

When a man ain't got a cent,
And he's feeling kinda blue,
And the clouds hang dark and heavy
An' won't let the sunshine thru--
It's a great thing, O my brethren,
For a fellow just to lay
His hand upon your shoulder
In a friendly sort o' way.

It makes a man feel curious--
It makes the tear drops start--
An' you sort o' feel a flutter
In the region of your heart!
You can't look up and meet his eyes;
You don't know what to say
When his hand is on your shoulder
In a friendly sort o' way.

Oh, the world's a curious compound,
With its honey and its gall,
With its cares and bitter crosses--
But a good world after all.
An' a good God must have made it--
Leastways, that is what I say
When a hand is on my shoulder
In a friendly sort o' way.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

Poor Riley--yet Great Riley. I shall never forget the day a friend told me how he had gone to interview Riley and did not know a word to say to him.

So he said to my friend: "Boy, don't ask me about poetry. I have opinions about so many other things that I get sick of poetry altogether." And so he talked about life, philosophy of living, kindness chiefly--so that my friend knew what Riley had in his mind that day. He used to live in Indianapolis and he was a newspaper man. Riley always wanted to please others. He wrote his first poem to recite to dinner-parties and he hated to publish them because he would then have nothing original to repeat to the boys.

What a world was before this overworked newspaper man who had such periods of despair and exaltation. He tasted the gall and the bitterness and he also sang from high above the clouds.

That first little book that was printed before Riley wanted it--because a friend put his hand in a kindly way upon his shoulder, has become priceless. If you find one, "The Old Swimmer's Hole and 11 Others" with the imprint of the Hitt Publishing Co., don't give it away. If no one had ever put his hand on Jim Riley's shoulder there never would have been that string of immortal books which he wrote out of that impulse of George Hitt.

It's a good world after all. Lestwise that's what I say when a hand is on my shoulder in a friendly sort of way.

So if it costs you no pang; if you do it in the spirit of pure, friendliness and not as a pose or a duty, you will find that a hand-pat, a little extra pressure when you're a friendly landlance; a little sympathy in sorrow; a letter to the bereaved; a word now and then of cheer; a little human thoughtfulness will be a good thing.

It may be that for years and years, that man will remember it. I may be that the little thing will endure longer in his mind than anything else and we are all vain enough and properly so, to want to be remembered.

—E. S.

RIVERSIDE INN AT BRIDGETOWN BADLY DAMAGED

Popular Manager of Pines Suffers Heavy Loss By Fire--Damage Estimate at $25,000

The southern half of Riverside Inn Bridgetown, was gutted by a fire which started about five o'clock Saturday morning in the basement and spread with great rapidity as its point of origin was just below the back stairs. The loss is $25,000 partially covered by insurance. There were a few guests in the house at the time and all got out in safety.

The girls employed in the hotel to the number of six slept in the part of the hotel which was destroyed and while they escaped the flames most of their clothing was ruined. The cook, Miss Comeau, escaped in her night dress. There might have been a serious loss of life had not the proprietor, O. C. Jones, heard his son Robert cough and getting up to go to his room, found the hallway and room full of smoke.

Others in the hotel were quickly aroused and an alarm sent in. Steps were directed towards saving furniture on the two lower floors. A considerable amount of this was taken out but most of it badly damaged by water. For over two hours firemen fought the flames and were favored by a lack of wind.

Our Editorials Commended

The Courier is gratified and grateful for the many appreciative comments which have been made by readers upon its editorial policy and the character of the articles which have appeared from time to time in that department of the paper. We appreciate these all the more because they have in most cases come from those who are recognized as an authority on such matters. Our constituency is rather unusual one, and our readers include naturally men and women of more than ordinary intellectual endowment. That we have been able to merit their good opinion is of great encouragement to us in carrying on of our somewhat arduous duties. The demands upon the editor and manager of a small town weekly are many and varied and include much beside strictly literary work.

Our conviction is that the editorial columns should form a strong feature of any well conducted journal and that the editor is justified in discussing any subject to which it seems to him the attention of his readers might be profitably directed. Many among our readers are eminently qualified thus to the editor to undertake this work, and we cordially invite the co-operation of these in the moulding of public sentiment along right lines. We are not afraid of criticism of either character, and shall be glad to open our columns at any time to communications that may appear to us to be in the public interest. Apart from making enough to pay the necessary publication expenses, and incidentally to furnish a living for the publishers, the chief motive of this paper is to promote the moral and material welfare of those among whom it makes its weekly visits, and we gladly welcome the best assistance that is within reach.

The Mayor's Term

A bill to amend the towns incorporation act so as to make the term of mayors of provincial towns two years instead of one has passed its second reading in the House of Assembly and has been referred to the committee on law amendments.

One can never be sure of the date of any bill in the Legislature until it is finally passed, unless it is a government bill, and this one, we understand, is a private bill. It is to be hoped, however, that it will go through. This improvement in the system of town government has been advocated by the press, including this paper, for a number of years, and has also won the support and approval of many actively engaged in civic politics in various parts of the province. The city of Sydney also, we are not mistaken, is seeking a similar amendment to its charter at the present session of the Legislature.

It has always been an anomaly that councillors are elected for two years and a mayor for only one. The longer term is more important in the case of the latter, for usually a progressive policy in a town is initiated by the mayor, and one year is often too short to put into effect a policy regarding a matter of importance, when the mayor must be defeated at the next election with his policy only partly carried out. Also, in most towns a mayor is given a second term by acclamation. To make two years the regular term would therefore only conform to what is the usual practice, besides saving the towns the expense of having an annual election of mayor, and giving a newly elected mayor a free mind to devote to carrying out his policies without having before him the possibility or probability of having to contest an election in twelve months.

There are some other respects also in which the towns incorporation act could be remodelled to advantage, but this improvement anyway should be carried through.

The Small Town At A Premium

No longer will they poke fun at the small town, for it is coming into its own. Small towns can no longer be a source of reproach to the big town, because with such increase comes a pushing out of its population into the smaller communities, and especially in the less driven home that the small town is ideal for free breathing and for clean, happy and joyous lives. The reason is plain. Congested cities are not as desirable for homes as suburban localities, unless one is able to own a home along millionaires row. Smack stacks and tall buildings make for efficiency, but do not necessarily for virtue. The city will continue to grow, and come, when the smaller communities can provide for the needs of citizenship as well, or better, than the big cities. It has great open spaces while the city has not. Its schools and churches are more accessible, just as efficient and not without the distractions common to more populous districts. Greatest of them all, the small town provides an opportunity for friendship, for knowing and for meeting and greeting the other fellow. There always will remain an unchallenged aspect over that of the big city. It is the eternal struggle of quality and quantity.

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 3

Mountain-Grown Teas Best

The tea plant grows best in the pure cool atmosphere of a mountain tea garden. The higher the garden, the finer and more delicious the flavour of the tea. This is partly due to the clear sunshine on a high mountain side, partly to the more invigorating air, partly to the more frequent rainfall and perfect drainage. The largest and roughest leaf grown at an elevation of 7000 feet is much superior in flavour to the tiniest tip grown only 2000 feet above sea-level. All teas used in the "SALADA" blends are grown from 4000 feet to 7,500 feet elevation. The trademark "SALADA" is a guarantee of quality.

"Best Thing in the World For Delicate Girls"

Mrs. John Bennett, Boggy Creek, Man., writes: "My little girl had organic nervous trouble, could not sleep, had severe headaches and fainting spells. This went on for three years, and three doctors helped her very little. After reading of what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food had done for others, I got some for her. She is now so well that she is like a different child. She is fourteen years old and looks the picture of health."

SPECIAL EASTER MUSIC IN BEAR RIVER CHURCHES

Services Largely Attended And Greatly Enjoyed—Anthems Well Rendered

METHODIST CHURCH

The services in the Methodist church on Easter Sunday were of a high order. The church was decorated with flowers and tributes in memory of prominent members of former days. Appropriate sermons were delivered by the Pastor, and a full choir rendered a program of music that will long be remembered.

EASTER BASKETS

On Sunday afternoon the boys and girls of the Junior Crusade Club of the Preparatory Room met and filled some thirty Easter Baskets, which they had made in "drawing class" with fruit, home made candy and mayflowers and containing at Easter Greeting card painted by them. These they carried in person to some of their "but-in" friends that they might enjoy a bit of cheer on the Glad Day.

BAPTIST CHURCH

On Sunday evening the Baptist Mission Band assisted by the choir, presented their annual Easter Concert. The church of the church was tastefully decorated with potted plants, ferns and Easter flowers and was in fact a house of loveliness while the children with their radiant faces and in costume for their several parts told their stories of Easter joy in a most pleasing manner. They all gave their parts remarkably well. Perhaps special mention could be made of The Sunbeams, Silver Lining Girls, The Pantomime illustrating the death and resurrection of Christ and the Easter Brand Boy.

The audience also had the privilege of listening to Rev. E. G. Gullison, of the Presbyterian Church from India, who gave an interesting and instructive address, and at the close of the service paid tribute to the choir and the children for their excellent program.

WRIGLEY'S "after every meal"

Parents—encourage the children to care for their teeth! Give them Wrigley's! It removes food particles from the teeth. Strengthens the gums. Combats acid mouth. Refreshing and beneficial!

April

I had forgotten how the wind Comes down across the hills In early Spring—frail—whispering— And how the valley fills With pale blue shadows, and the scent Of something sweet, and indolent.

I had forgotten how the trees A-top the stand, and how The stony, many timbered leaves Burst from each tiny bough I had forgotten that the sky Could ever be as blue Or that the beauty of the world Utters, forever, you.

Oh, once we wandered, hand in hand, Those lovely roads along. And then we thought to understand The very angels' song! And then we did not greatly care If skies were dull or clear, Or if the world was beautiful— Our secrets were more dear— A secret that our hearts had learned To treasure, each in each, A beauty that the eye, the ear, The tongue could never reach. Possessing this what did we care If earth were hideous or fair?

But now alone I tread the ways Of April's swift, enchanted days. Was your heart April's? Is that why You gave it—and then hurried by?

SEALING TIGHT KNOT RIGHT

BABY'S COLDS

Children's delicate digestions are easily disturbed by too much "coddling." Still, the little ones' cold troubles cannot be neglected.

At the very first sign of croup, sore throat, or any other cold trouble, apply Vick's VapoRub over the throat and chest. There is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on. Colds go away, croup is usually relieved in 15 minutes.

The New "Shin Plasters"

The third issue of 25 cent paper bills commonly known as "shin plasters," to appear in the fifty years since the first bills were issued is now being put into circulation. The new bills are neater and more artistic in design, and show a decided improvement over the old type. They are expected to be in wide circulation in the near future.

George Peters, representing the Great West Life Insurance company, is spending a short vacation in Boston, Mass.

Lewis Morse, of the Maritime Fish Corporation staff, who has been spending a few days in Montreal, returned home on Saturday.

Miss Mae Dugas, of Marshalltown, and cousin, Edna Dugas, of Brighton, spent the week-end at Doucetteville, visiting friends.

Dr. H. Roberts, accompanied by Mrs. Roberts and baby, leave on Tuesday next on a visit to Boston, Williamsport, Penn. Dr. Roberts will be absent from Digby about two weeks.

Miss A. L. Fitzpatrick, of Halifax, representing Nestle's Milk, is holding a demonstration this week at A. R. Turnbull's store. Miss Fitzpatrick has had considerable experience in the demonstration of evaporated milk, and citizens of the town are invited to see the advantage of the opportunity which has been given them by the Nestle Milk Company.

The town meeting called for last Wednesday night was a failure, partly owing to the absence of all old members except four, which did not give a quorum for the transaction of business. The business of re-organizing. This absence is not believed to be an intentional blocking of votes to form a new band in Digby, but it has been noticed that some of the old members are not enthusiastic for the new organization, and are giving no encouragement to the younger members who seem very anxious to get started. This is not a failure, but a failure to give a quorum. We have no band now, and never will have until more united and friendly efforts are made by all members, who should attend all meetings of the Digby Band of Trade.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Trask, of St. John, who has been spending a few days in town, returned home this week.

Forest Binger left Tuesday on a business trip to Halifax. While in the city Mr. Binger attended the Auto show.

Miss Muriel Redmond, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. E. Trask, for the past six months, returned to Halifax.

Miss Helen Smallie, of St. John, spent the Easter holidays in Digby, the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Smallie.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Blatt, who have been visiting Mrs. Blatt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Weeber, returned to Boston on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thibault, accompanied by their son, left on Friday to spend Easter with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Melanson, Weymouth.

Miss Francis Brooks, of the Academy staff, who spent Easter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Brooks, in Weymouth, returned on Monday.

A meeting of the Ladies' Hospital Aid will be held in the Town Hall on Wednesday afternoon, April 22nd, at 3 o'clock.

A large attendance is expected. Willard J. Robbins, who has been spending the winter with relatives in Little River, left for Cape Breton on Monday, accompanied by his daughters, Bernice and Bernice.

Character and Strength come from Strife. Like the Diamond, we become valuable only after the most painstaking and arduous work. We all come out of the rough—we all demand cutting and polishing and shaping before we are able to stand out beautiful and inspiring.

"Resolved: That the powder puff is of more value to the human race than staccato or hairgroom," was the subject for a recent debate in an eastern college. The judges decided that no man can be handsome when his hair is standing on end and the cheeks look the devil's.

A proposal to restore the pre-war excursion rates on the railways is again before Parliament. While conditions have changed greatly in the last ten years, making the running of excursion trains much more costly, it looks as if the railways were losing good business in not encouraging holiday and week end traffic.

Judging by the number of enquiries by citizens who have lost sums of money, in regard to a recent advertisement in "Money Found," in The Courier, there must be a considerable number of dishonest people in this town, as these lost purses and bills must have been found by someone. Be honest above all things.

An English actor at the beginning of the long run of a play in Chicago took an apartment close to the railroad. He abandoned it after a week's occupancy. "I think I could have become used to the trains going by at night," he said, "but every morning at eight o'clock two engines came under my window and roared until noon."

Though a great deal has been accomplished the past few years in beautifying small towns, we have still a lot to learn regarding the commercial value of attractive surroundings. People are impressed by the good appearance of a town, they talk about it, like to stop there and come back again, and they are more likely to be beautiful if the spirit of beauty pervades its citizens and they have the will to do it. The cost is small.

The members were informed by the Chairman of the meeting that the hospital would be known as the Digby General Hospital.

It was moved and seconded that the Ladies' Hospital Aid meet on the 1st Wednesday of each month at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Frank Jones was selected as Convener of Entertainment Committee, which includes Mrs. H. Roberts, Miss Louise Fries, Mrs. H. H. Adams, M. Merkel, Miss DuVerne, Mrs. Carl Birdridge.

Mrs. Howard Anderson was elected Convener of the Hospital Supply Committee, with the following members: Mrs. W. W. Hayden, Mrs. W. Young, Mrs. P. Wormald, Mrs. Warrington, Frank Hazelton, Miss Frances Casswell, Mrs. A. A. Dillan, Mrs. E. F. McBride, Mrs. A. J. Dillan.

Visiting Committee, Flower Committee to be appointed at each regular meeting. Miss Margaret Stewart was appointed corresponding secretary.

The ladies of the town showed great interest in the work which they have been called upon to undertake. The Courier believes that citizens throughout the town and county will support them in the work which they are undertaking. The fact is up to all citizens to unite and make it successful. The Digby County Hospital was very badly needed in the county, as was evidenced by the interest taken in the Ratepayers' meeting which was held at the Court House last week. That it can be a self-supporting institution with the co-operation of every citizen is beyond a doubt. We feel sure that nothing will be left undone to place the Digby General Hospital on a sound financial basis.

This is but one of the many quality features of the new Chevrolet that are daily making thousands of people ask: "How can they produce such fine cars to sell at such low prices?"

Start the Week With a Smile

"Are you ready, dear?" John called.
"Yes, I'll be down in a minute," I've only my hat to put on."
"All right. I'll have time to shave before we go."

"It looks very much like rain today," remarked a milkman, as he handed a housekeeper her basket of milk.
"Yes," agreed the latter, as she peered into the jug, "it usually does."

"Hullo, old bean, had an accident with the car? Hope it wasn't serious?"

"Not a bit. Only a couple of pedestrians injured, and the motor wasn't even scratched. Jolly glad, too, for I'd just had it revarnished."

A pedestrian was confronted in a dark alley by a hold-up man. "Hand over your money, or I'll blow your brains out."

"Blow away," was the calm reply. "You can live in New York without brains, but you must have money."

A poorly nourished dietitian was telling a mother that she must have her children eat porridge, milk, fruit and vegetables.

In response to the objection that the children disliked these foods the visitor said he had been raised on them.

"Well," said the mother, "you ain't no ad for them cats."

Rastus Jackson, a thoroughly married negro, was one day approached by a life insurance agent.

"Better let me write you a policy," Rastus, suggested the agent.

"No, sah," declared Rastus emphatically. "Ah ain't any too safe at home as it is."

Lady, to man at bookstall—"I want an entertaining novel to read in the train; I should like the style to be rather pathetic, too."

Bookstall clerk—"Will the 'Last Days of Pompeii' do?"

Lady—"Pompeii? I never heard of him. What did he die of?"

Clerk—"I'm not sure; I think it was some kind of an eruption!"

They were on their honeymoon and were staying in a big modern hotel. The bride had been shopping, and coming back to the hotel, went direct to the room she believed hers and rapped a gentle little rap.

"Honey! Honey! Let me in."

A great bass voice came through the closed door, saying: "Madam! This is a beehive. This is a bathroom."

First Sergeant (separating two scrapping Marines): "Hey, stop that fighting. What is the trouble?"

First Marine: "He called me a fool."

First Sergeant (to second Marine): "Did you really call this man a fool?"

Second Marine: "Well, the more I look at him the more likely it seems that I did."

Then the fight started all over again.

An Italian had been warned to beware of rattlesnakes, but was assured that they would give the warning rattle before striking. The next day he was eating his lunch on a pine log when he saw a big rattler coiled a few feet from him. He eyed the serpent, and began lifting his legs over the log. He had hardly got them out of the way before the snake's fangs hit the bark beneath him.

Son of a gunna!" yelled Pietro. "Why you no rigga da ball?"

A lady prison visitor was going her rounds. "Have you ever struggled against the consequences of temptation?" she inquired of one ferocious looking fellow.

"Yes, ma'am, I have," he answered. "Ah! I suppose if you had fought just a little harder you wouldn't be here today?"

"Well, ma'am," said the prisoner modestly.

"I did the best I could. It took five policemen to get me to the station!"

On a trial in a certain court in this state, when the witness on the stand was being subjected to a merciless cross-examination, in answering one question the witness nodded. Whereupon the court stenographer, who was crowding the limit to get it all and could not see the witness, at once demanded, "Answer that question!" to which the witness replied: "I did answer it; I nodded my head."

The stenographer, without a moment's hesitation, came right back with: "Well, I heard it rattle, but could not tell whether it was up and down, or from side to side."

Two young kindergarten teachers, intelligent and attractive, while riding downtown in a street car were engaged in animated discussion. In the seat, behind them sat a good-natured, fatherly looking Irishman enjoying a nap. Finally one kindergarten inquired of the other:

"How many children have you?"

"Twenty-two," she replied. "And how many have you?"

"Oh, I have only nineteen," replied the first.

At this point the Irishman, now wide awake with excitement, leaned forward in his seat, and without any formality inquired in a loud voice:

"What part of Ireland did youse come from?"

A Scotchman was strolling through the market place in Glasgow one day and close at his heels followed his faithful collie. Attracted by a fine display of shell and other fish the Scot stopped to examine, perhaps to purchase. The dog stood by, gently wagging its tail, while its master engaged the fishmonger in conversation.

Unfortunately for the beastie, its tail dropped for a moment over a big basketful of fine, live lobsters. Instantly one of the largest lobsters snapped its claws on the tail, and the surprised collie dashed off through the market, yelping with pain, while the lobster hung on grimly, although dashed violently from side to side. The fishmonger for a moment was speechless with indignation; then, turning to his prospective customer, he bawled:

"Moon moon whastie to yer dog."

"Hoots, mon," returned the other complacently, "whastie to yer lobster!"

Just Talks On Common Themes

On "Self-Examination"

IT HAS occurred to me that we do not examine ourselves as much as we should. This came to me as I stood in the corridors of a certain building the other night and heard people contend for their own opinions so vigorously.

Perhaps ninety per cent of the conclusions are reached thru opinions based on self. And this self extends to constitutions, how the voters will regard one's attitude.

If we examined our mental processes honestly we would come to the conclusion in most cases that our attitude toward others is entirely different from our attitude to ourselves.

Arnold Bennett says in his writing "I must admit that in the seclusion of my mind, though I say not a word, I am constantly blaming others. I act as tho I had shouted to the world 'Cleanse the way, every one, for I am coming.' Everyone does not clear out of the way. I did not really expect everyone to clear out of the way. But I act as tho I had expected it. I blame. Hence kindness, cheerfulness, are rendered vastly more difficult to me."

What we ought to think about is that the other beings whom I run into and who as I see it are opposing me are the people out of whom I have to make my happiness. I cannot change them except by example and by such influence out of my own happiness as I can exert. They have a place in the evolution of society. They are precisely my equals in Nature. They have as much right to their opinions, their creeds, their happiness as I have.

Other people are mirrors frequently of ourselves. If we are sour and crabbed, they are likely to be the same. I shall not repeat my skirts in a car because the other man has a dinner pail and smells of sweat. I have, speaking personally, gotten my biggest inspirations from chance acquaintances in smoking cars on passenger trains.

I have never found any profit in revenge. Nor any comfort in hating. Not that I profess to be any saint, in that respect. It is simply that people interest me, that I have no set notions about class and have no regard whatever for the other people's beliefs or religions. I am not so sure of my own as to prescribe the faith of the other chap. I do not enjoy a snob, and if he is not interesting enough to be a type out of which I can make copy, then I prefer the society of Marcus Aurelius whom I carry with me chiefly for reading on trains. He is good company and he makes me want to examine my own soul to find its shortcomings. And I know what the worst of them are—anybody can do that, if he will confess to himself now and then.

I know of nothing better for a man than to sit himself up against his own criticisms and discover just what sort of a chap he would consider another chap to be who was just like himself.

Then the next best thing is to take those whom you do not like and try to understand. Seek to find out why they act as they do under the circumstances. Usually when a person is a liar and a thief and a bad lot generally, there is some trouble with him—a sort of diseased condition. You may reasonably chalk up a credit for yourself if you have escaped.

If you can do this you will gradually lose the preposterous habit of blaming others for everything that they do that does not agree with what you think they should have done.

If you do this you have laid the foundations for that quiet, unshakable habit of self-possession that is the preliminary to a conduct that is according to reason and to a thorough efficiency.

I have found that of all things that satisfies in any ticklish condition of business, the safest thing is to think of the other man first. You will find that if you do this, he will usually be inclined to meet you half way in settlement. The other day a situation came up in business that threatened to stop a large contract. It was ironed out, by the simple method of laying the entire difficulty in its phases before the other man and leaving it for him to settle. He saw the case in a new light.

Back of this is a determination to be happy, whatever befall. I heard a prominent attorney say the other day that if he were going thru the world again he would be a "hog"—meaning thoroughly selfish and crowding to the trough.

But he did not mean it. This man is one of the sweetest of men, has the greatest number of friends. He radiates happiness. He can be counted on to say "Yes" when it is a matter of favor; and never to say "No" to an appeal if he can avoid it. But he says "No" when the occasion demands.

I know of no man who more frequently sizes himself up than he. It was a great many years ago that the "Kingdom of God is within you." That means that you have a place inside of you where you can sprout kindness and happiness if you will only look for it.

Cultivate the habit of frequent introspection and self-examination. Maybe the other fellow is not so bad. Maybe he will find out that you are not so bad as he thinks.

This is a sermon—free. It costs nothing extra. If followed out it will do you good.

BOOKLET ADVERTISE BEAR RIVER

Neighboring Town Making Strong Bid For Tourist Trade—Five Thousand Booklets Being Distributed

The Bear River Board of Trade has just issued an attractive six page booklet, advertising the beauty of the town and its surroundings.

This is the first time since 1914 that the pretty town of Bear River has made any attempt to bid for the tourist trade, and this week five thousand folders are being distributed throughout the United States and Canada.

Bear River has a number of new hotels, boarding houses and private homes that are open to the tourist and inviting bungalow sites abound. From the surrounding farms the finest food is procurable—fresh vegetables and fruit, pure milk and cream, choice broiler chickens and lamb—while from the sea comes fish in abundance.

Bear River is justly called "The Switzerland of Nova Scotia." Ages ago a convulsion of nature cleft the mighty valley and piled up the imposing hills. Views of these are most beautiful and varied; the scenery up and down the river is equal to the Swiss lakes; while the sunsets surpass description. The days are most enjoyable, the nights refreshingly cool, with the breezes through the valley coming in with the Fanny tides.

The Way Women Dress

Irvin S. Cobb, the well known author, says: "To my masculine understanding it appears that at present women's fashions are sadder than they have been since I was old enough to have an appreciative eye for a well dressed female. Sadder, by the same token, smarter. To be sure, there are extremes. I'm old-fashioned enough to be just a trifle shocked when I behold a grandmother with one leg in the grave and the other in knee pants. But when I look back on those by-gone days when Madame Yale and the Seven Sutherland Sisters were reigning goddesses; when every woman carried wads of hair—her own or some other woman's—piled high on her head; when with laces and balloon sleeves and tight-laced corsets she zealously strove to torture and distort her shape out of all resemblance to the good Lord's design; when she bount her arms to her sides and tight bodices and fettered her feet with long trailing crippling skirts to drag in the dirt of the street and to pick up germs. And I say to myself that despite the blight of occasional extremists, the composite picture of womanhood is this day and hour an exceedingly lovely picture."

A. F. MCMAHON, President of the Maritime Development Association, Kentville.

Port Wade

Mrs. Jas. McVinnie, who has been visiting relatives in Centreville, returned home on Saturday.

Miss Hazel Casey, a student at Modern Business College, St. John, is spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hazel Casey. The new primer, class room, built and furnished by the "Beacon Lights" class of the Baptist Sunday School, was occupied for the first time on Sunday last.

Invitations are out this week to a Roll Call and church reunion of the Lower Granville Baptist church to be held on Sunday May 2nd, at Port Wade. This gathering promises to be of unusual interest, and a suitable programme is being provided.

On Friday evening, a surprise party and shower were given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hayden in honor of Miss Lydia Everett, who it is rumored, will be one of the principals in a pleasing event to take place in the near future. That Miss Everett is quite popular, was evidenced by the large number of gifts. After the reading of an original poem, the company spent an enjoyable evening with music and charades, and lastly partook of an elaborate luncheon of ice cream, cake and other dainties.

The Sdr. Souvenir, Capt. Out-house, is at the Pier here taking in a cargo from the Port Wade Lumber Co. for an American port.

Rev. A. J. Prosser spoke to a large and appreciative audience in the U. Church on Sunday afternoon in the interest of child welfare.

Culloden

Mr. and Mrs. Burket, Sell of Mount Pleasant, spent Sunday with relatives in this place.

Miss Frances Campbell spent the week end in Digby with her sister, Miss Nora Campbell.

DEADLOCK IN STRIKE SITUATION

Negotiations To Settle Cape Breton Strike Broken Off At Halifax On Saturday Last

The deadlock in Cape Breton continues and negotiations have been broken off. Hope had been entertained that when President Wolvin, of the British Empire Steel Corporation, met in conference with Mr. Lewis, International President, and other heads of the United Mine Workers, with Premier Armstrong present, a compromise might be reached which would result in the re-opening of the mines, even if certain matters in dispute had to be left for later adjustment. Both parties to the dispute proved obdurate, and a settlement seems as far off as ever. The Company flatly refuses to continue the 1924 scale of wages, and the men as flatly refuse to accept less. Mr. Lewis declares that the United Mine Workers of America will stand behind the miners of Cape Breton. Premier Armstrong says he has not abandoned hope but will continue his efforts to secure a settlement. He pays a high tribute to Mr. Lewis, and to District President McLeod, of the Mine Workers, for their attitude during the conference; and intimated that if the deadlock continued it might be necessary to force a settlement by legislation. President Wolvin protested against the Government grant of $20,000 for the relief of sickness in the affected areas and he is credited with saying to the representatives of the mine workers: "Well, we are going out from this conference prepared to do our dirtiest, and we presume you intend doing the same." That would seem to suggest a better conflict, but Mr. Wolvin probably spoke in a moment of exasperation, and did not pause to measure his words. The company in refusing to restore the 1924 scale of wages, declares that it cannot compete under such conditions with American and foreign mines, and points out that it has already lost the contract to supply the Newfoundland Railway with Cape Breton coal, being greatly underbid by British and American operators. It contends that with lower wages there would be more work per man in the mines, and the total annual earnings of each workman would be increased. The mines have now been closed for more than six weeks. R. R. for the miners has been pointing in from as far west as Winnipeg, and public interest in the struggle has increased from week to week. The next move is up to Premier Armstrong, whose efforts to bring about an amicable settlement of the dispute have failed just when the public were anticipating an agreement. Large numbers of people have left the mining areas and if the deadlock continues more will undoubtedly go.

Invitations are out this week to a Roll Call and church reunion of the Lower Granville Baptist church to be held on Sunday May 2nd, at Port Wade. This gathering promises to be of unusual interest, and a suitable programme is being provided.

The most important magazine in its field the world over deserves a page to Mr. Bridge Box, praising its "attractive and colorful cover" and the idea of enclosing playing cards and score sheets with a pound of chocolates. Presidents of large American corporations, managers and other officials have written to Mr. Bridge Box as a gift for Bridge friends and a prize at games.

So occasionally a Maritime industry can pioneer not merely in Canada, but the continent. Of course Mr. Bridge's Chocolates themselves proved that long ago.

Appreciated Radio
Talk On Fish

(Gloucester Times)

Now that the Boosters have returned from a successful tour of advertising Gloucester in the South, another bit of the good work seems to have been accomplished by the recent radio broadcast of the major Club from Station W.B.Z. Boston.

The following letter has been received by Fred E. Morris, vice president and general manager of the Nova Scotia Fisheries, Inc., concerning his talk on fish.

Tiverton, Nova Scotia,
March 22, 1925

Fred E. Morris,
Gloucester, Mass.
Friend Morris:—A great surprise was in store for me when last night I put the phones of our little radio to my ears and listened to you speak on Gloucester and codfish.

You did fine, in fact, all the people from Gloucester did splendidly. But you and your manager (I think that is what they called him anyway) they said he was from Gloucester (High school) did exceptionally fine.

I got up there do you think they would let me speak on Tiverton and hake? I told Norman Robbins about it. He sends congratulations.

Yours respectfully,
B. Blackford.

Would they let him speak if he got up there? Who wouldn't want to hear a man speak if he is as well known as "By" Blackford? A natural born humorist (and a practical joker as many a victim can testify), a "good fellow," a philosopher, and a man thoroughly acquainted with the fish business. Tiverton deserves to be broadcasted as one of the finest fishing centres in the province, and "By" Blackford is the man to do it. While Gloucester is broadcasting why should Nova Scotia keep quiet? We've got to go after foreign business in the same way as many an American fishing industry is doing. If "By" Blackford or other Nova Scotians will take over an advertisement to vertice our great industries, thousands will sit up and take notice.

Obituary

JOHN SANFORD

John Sanford a well known colored resident of Bear River passed away Wednesday morning at 5 o'clock, after a short illness. He was born in Guadalupe over 80 years ago, and came to this country about 1860, where he married Capt. Cumberston of Granville. He was for many years in the employ of Alpheus Marshall and B. E. Riley. Requiem Mass was held at nine o'clock Thursday morning in St. Francis Church, interment in the Catholic cemetery. "John" was a familiar face in the town and his cheerful smile will be very much missed by a great many.

MRS. ROBERT BELL

The community of Hill Grove has suffered a severe loss in the death of Mrs. Robert Bell, who passed to her reward on April 11. Mrs. Bell was one of those old fashioned, godly, dignified persons, who commanded the respect and love of all her neighbours and friends. She lived in North Range during her early life and was an outstanding worker in the church and community. For 28 years she was President of the North Range Aid. In 1911 she moved to Hill Grove and inaugurated the Aid in that District and was appointed President and remained in that office until her decease. For 7 years was president of both Aids. She was one of the staunchest supporters of Hill Grove church and her loss is indeed a great blow. The funeral was conducted by the Rev. F. L. E. Nunn, Pastor, on Tuesday, 14th. The church being crowded with sorrowing friends. Her unflinching courage and moral fidelity to her very convictions throughout 53 years is an outstanding example of the saving and keeping power of the Christ. She leaves to mourn their loss her husband Robert Bell, one brother, Herbert McNeill, and one sister Mrs. Chas. Shearline, of North Range, and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bell.

Sheriff H. B. Bishop was attending the Court at Clare this week.

A Pie Sale will be held for school benefit in the Marshalltown school house, on Friday evening, May 1st.

Rev. Wm. Driffield is attending the Church of England Synod, which is meeting at Halifax this week.

Rufus Connor is asking town vendor during the absence of A. L. M. Snelley, who is at present in Halifax.

He who knows not, and knows not that he knows not, is a fool. Avoid him. He who knows not, and knows that he knows not, is simple. Teach him. He who knows and knows not that he knows, is asleep. Wake him. But he who knows and knows that he knows, is a wise man. Follow him.

A great advertising company says: "Never hesitate as to what medium to use when country trade is wanted. There is but one which will accomplish the purpose: the local weekly newspaper. It is read thoroughly everywhere in the town and district. It has more influence with its own people than all the dailies combined."

The death occurred at Halifax early Wednesday morning of Lewis Weir, a very popular young man of Digby, in his 19th year. Deceased has been suffering for some time, and his death was not unexpected. He was at one time a member of the Digby hockey team, and well liked by all with whom he came in contact. Full details will appear in our next issue.

In future the Alma House at Marshalltown will be open to visitors on Wednesday afternoon instead of Sunday as formerly. C. J. Thomas, the caretaker, who deserves great credit for the manner in which the Alma House has been kept during the past, and the Courier feels sure that citizens will endeavor to carry out the latest move on the part of Mr. Thomas.

Films showing modern method of growing Strawberries and Raspberries and canning all kinds of fruits will be shown at the meeting of the Digby County Farm-ers Association, which takes place in the Temperance Hall, Acadiaville, on Wednesday evening next. The hall should be crowded to capacity, as address by Fred Blair of the Experimental Farm, Kentville, and F. G. J. Conant of the Dominion Atlantic Railway, will also be given.

Last week, while going through the woods at Marshalltown, a citizen noticed what at first looked like an empty grave, which seemed to have been dug a few hours previously, and after thinking the matter over decided that some parties were making an attempt to bury a quantity of booze. A careful watch was kept on the place for several days, but according to latest reports, "an attempt" what you have been made to "bury" the ground, and why parties should go to the trouble of digging the "grave" and not using same remains a mystery to the finder.

Rev. Ralph Gullison of Wolfville, home on furlough from India, spoke to a large audience at the Baptist Church on Sunday evening. He took as his subject the experience of one D. S. Sarna, the last Brahmin Convert whom he baptized before leaving India, whom he described as one of the many unrecaptured Telugu slaves won for Christ in that intensely interesting country. Two things at least were made clear to us by the address. First that the converts from the high castes in India still have to pay a tremendous price for their change of faith in ostracism, boycott of every kind and severe persecution, and secondly that the Church on its knees in prayer work ministers to-day as it did in New Testament times. Mr. Gullison was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. Sherman during his stay at Deep Brook.

There was great joy in the house of Joseph Berry on Monday, April 20th, when their eldest son, Boyd of Annapolis, back after an absence of four years, walked in and gave his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Berry, a complete surprise. Boyd will spend a short vacation here. He was accompanied by his wife, who will take a more extended vacation. She will spend two months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Berry at Bear River and visit Boston before returning to her home in the West.

Bobby, just home from his first visit to the country, was telling the folks of his home. "I had a very good time, and on the farm they get milk from cows, and it's just as good as any."

Friend—"What's your baby going to be when he grows up?"
Financier—"A blackmailer, I'm afraid. We have to give him something every little while to keep him quiet."

Singleton—"They have machines now that can tell when a man is lying. Ever seen one?"
Wedmore—"Seen one?" By gosh, I married one."

"Pat and Mike were gazing up at an aeroplane."
"Pat—How would you like to be up there with that aeroplane?"
Mike—"Deborah, I'd hate to be up there without it."

"See here, you old rascal, why didn't you tell me this horse was lame before I bought him?"
"Wal the feller that sold him to me didn't say nothin' about it, so I thought was a secret."

Steward—"I thought I'd just bring you a little something to eat up here on deck, sit and save you trouble."

Passenger—"Thanks, steward; save me a little more trouble and throw it over the rail."

What profession is your boy Josh going to select?"
"I'm going to educate him to be a lawyer," replied Farmer Courtless. "He's naturally argumentative and bent on 'makin' out other peoples' troubles and he might jes' as well get paid for his time."

Sandy was heading disgustedly against a pillar of the golf shelter road.
"What's the matter, Sandy, not playing today?"
"didn't ya hear o' the accident I had? I lost me ball!"

Breathes there a man with soul so dead, Who never to some other hath said, "By golly—this little old bus of mine is some car. You know that hip-hill over near George Wicker's place? Well, sir, you just oughta seen me—," etc., etc.

A youngster was looking at the donkey in the store window. "Mother, doesn't that donkey look like Uncle Ben?"
"Hush!" replied the mother, "you mustn't say such things. 'Oh, it's all right, mother, the donkey is only made of chocolate. It can't hear anything."

Lady—"Tobe, I'm sorry to hear your wife got a divorce."
Tobe—"Vassum, done gone back to Alabama."

Lady—"Who will do my washing now?"
Tobe—"Well, mum, I co'tin' again, and I co'tin' again."

An Iowa girl, en route to visit friends in New York, entered the city by the Hudson tunnel, then took the subway to their address.

"What do you think of the city?" they asked on arrival.
"I couldn't say," she replied. "I've had only a woman's eye view."

A Scotch store-keeper whom we all know, bought a fine new cash register the other day. He would not ring up a five-cent cigar sale, and on being asked why, replied, "Oh, I'll use foreign it. I keep truck in mah head until I get a dollar and then I ring it up. It saves wear and tear on the machine."

Mother had come in from the farm to visit her daughter in the city. After the kiss of greeting she noticed her daughter's bobbed hair. Her eyes opened wide in astonishment.

"Well, my girl's sake, Lizzy," she exclaimed, "you never even writ me you had the typhoid."

The young husband had arrived home to find his wife in tears.

"Whatever is the matter, darling?" he inquired. "Oh, dearest!" she sobbed. "I've worked hard all the afternoon mending your stockings, because you ate so fond of them, and they've turned out to be sponge cakes!"

A man was trying to sell a horse. The animal was wind-broken but sleek. The owner trotted him around for inspection, and bringing him back to the prospect, he stroked the horse's back and remarked, "Hark he how he coughs!"

The prospect said, as he looked at the heaving flank of the animal, "Eyah, his coat's all right, but I don't like his pants."

A man visiting a country town in Maine went to the local barber shop for a shave. The barber made several slips with his razor and each time he would paste a small piece of paper over the cut to stop the bleeding. When the operation was over the victim handed the man a dollar. "Keep the change, barber," he said. "It is worth a dollar to be shaved by so versatile an artist. What man, you're a barber, butcher, and paper-hanger, all in one."

Two golfers sliced their drives into the rough, and went in search of the balls. They searched for a long time without success.

A woman watched them with sympathetic eyes.

At last, after the search had proceeded half an hour, she beckoned to them and said sweetly, "I have I'm not interrupting gentlemen, but would it be cheating if I told you where they were?"

A farmer wrote to the editor of an agricultural paper asking for a method of eradicating his orchard of the grasshopper plague. In the same mail the editor received a request for advice from an anxious mother about her baby twins who were having a hard time teething.

The editor's stenographer mixed the replies with the result that the farmer received the following: "Wrap dandelion seeds around their teats."

The anxious mother received this startling advice: "Cover with dry straw. Soak thoroughly with coal oil and apply a match! The little pests will soon stop bothering you."

Perhaps you are using good tea. We think "Red Rose" extra good. Won't you try it?

COULD NOT SLEEP NIGHTS

Pains and Headaches Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dublin, Ontario.—"I was weak and irregular, with pains and headaches, and could not sleep nights. I learned about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by reading the letters in the newspapers and tried it because I wanted to get better. I have got good results from it as I feel a lot stronger and am not troubled with such bad headaches as I used to be and am more regular. I am gaining in weight all the time and I tell my friends what kind of medicine I am taking. You may use my letter as a help to others."

Mrs. JAMES RAGHO, Box 13, Dublin, Ontario.

Halifax Nurse Recommends

Halifax, N. S.—"I am a maternity nurse and have recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to many women who were childless, also to women who need a good tonic. I am English and my husband is American, and he told me of Lydia E. Pinkham while in England. I would appreciate a copy or two of your little book on women's ailments. I have one which I keep to hand. I will willingly answer letters from any woman asking about the Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. S. M. COLEMAN, 24 Unlacked Street, Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Signs of Spring

The guide, Steve Lixie hooked and landed the first spring run salmon of the season caught in the Annapolis River at Paradise on Saturday April 11th. It weighed seven and a half pounds, and again on Tuesday April 14th, he safely landed a seventeen pounder. Two salmon of about eight pounds each were caught at Round Hill also on Sat. 11th inst.

This is exceptionally early for Paradise, as the first fish are usually taken at S. Stevens pool on the Nictaux River.

Swallows were seen in Annapolis Co., as early as Good Friday, which some residents consider about a month ahead of their usual appearance.

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 4

The Two Types of Tea

There are two distinct types of tea, namely Black Tea and Green Tea. Both are made from the same bush and both are equally pure. The difference is in the process of manufacture which gives each a different flavour. Black Tea after it is plucked is withered and partially 'fired' or dried, then allowed to oxidize by being exposed to the air. This gives Black Tea its dark reddish colour when drawn. Green tea is immediately steamed after plucking, which prevents oxidation. There are delicious blends of "SALADA" in both of these types and also a unique blend of Black and Green Tea Mixed. All are sold in four qualities.

Lawyer stand up in court before jurors and the presence of large audiences and denounce men, as law, scoundrels, thieves and perjurers, and when the court is held in the morning, to harbor no ill-will against them. But let a newspaper faintly intimate that a man's character is blameworthy and he will come from a horse pistol, stand a libel suit, or suffer from the what people think to be the greatest of all mortification - lose a subscriber.

Farmers in the County should not fail to attend the meeting of the Digby County Association which is being held in the Temperance Hall, Acaciaville, on Wednesday evening next. Used to think that a mad was selfish that would pass a fellow on the road with an empty car and let him keep on walking, but have decided here of late that he is a wise man rather than a fool man. When the crooks have all the guns and the honest folks have none, then he will be still wiser. It seems that our folks want to make the highway safe for the bandit and extremely dangerous for the citizen. Any crook can stop you, car or the pretence of being a prohibition officer and you can't have any gun and the crook will be the one to suffer. The crook of the highway find on the fanatics.

John B. Greig, of Yarmouth, after fifty years as engineer, either as chief, first or second, on various steamers well known in the Nova Scotia passenger trade, has quitted the service and will now reside on his farm at Yarmouth. A citizen of Westport had the unique experience of awaking one morning last week to find that his wife had disappeared, and after making enquiries also found that $1,000 had been withdrawn from his bank account. A visit was made to Digby, and the services of Frank Jones, K.C., have been secured and some interesting developments may be looked for within a few days.

A large number of tickets have already been sold, and the committee by purchasing a ticket for the Dance. Tickets can be purchased from members of the Hospital Committee, or at the Travellers' Inn.

Digby got a surprise when it awoke Monday morning to find everything blanketed in white. The extremely cold winds of Saturday and Sunday were evidently the precursors of snow - advance agents as it were, to announce that winter was making an unexpected and somewhat unwelcome call upon spring, just as she had got her house cleaned of the last traces of her former occupancy. At 10 o'clock it looked as if snow might turn to rain, but it refused to change its guise. The snow just kept on with the wind blowing a blanket all night long so that there was quite a thick covering on everything Monday morning. Early birds had their claws nipped, and venturesome grass, leaves on trees and early spring garden flowers shivered and shrivelled with indignation and cold. It was a shock that made them bow their smiling faces in dismay. Every body got out the discarded overshoes, gaiters and goloshes and tramped to work with set jaws and discontented eyes.

Which Class Are You In?

There are two classes of people in this world. One of these classes is composed of the people who cheerfully and willingly do their duty at all times, and who, therefore, make possible all the benefits any organization can give. In fact, it may be said that they are the creators of wealth. The other class are the ones who want all the benefits and all the good things of life, but they are not willing to contribute their share toward the production thereof. To which of these classes do you belong? If to the latter, do you not think that you ought to transfer over to the former?

This Lassie Has Her Colds "Rubbed Away"

The mother of this attractive little girl, Mrs. E. E. Ennam, of 215 Seventh Ave., N. E., Portage La Prairie, Man., is one of the many Canadian mothers who are enthusiastic about the wonderful value Vicks VapoRub for treating children's colds. Mrs. Ennam writes: "My little girl had croup at night pretty badly and Vicks did her a lot of good. I have also used it with very satisfactory results for head and chest colds."

Vicks is just "rubbed on" for sore throat, tonsillitis, bronchitis, croup or deep chest colds. When so applied, Vicks has a double direct action: internally medicated vapors are inhaled while, at the same time, externally, it is absorbed through and stimulates the skin.

Just Talks—On Common Themes

On 'What Every Woman Knows About Bobbing'

It is about all over—maybe there are yet a few hesitating where the brook and river meet. And they will get in after the overture and when the lot has been all told.

For if there is an antique Lady in the Land who has not had her hair bobbed, she is likely to come in on the ebb, when it will be hard pulling to be fashionable under the circumstances.

When fashion "rages," better rage along. After it has been debated for two years in the kitchen, in the parlor, in the salon and in bed after the lights are out, whether or not to have the "glory of womanhood" clipped or shingled or clapped, it is oft too late, to make a "hit."

I saw a girl about seven or eight this week, back to. She had on a plaid yellow and green skirt, ending just above her red and green garters. She had on a fur coat made of white-fur, trimmed with fur from the buff Wampago. The bottom of the coat was just up under her arms. When she stood she bowed out just like a child that had never had her legs straightened with a set of ball and chain. Above her neck she was as gay as a bed of Phlox. She wore a tippet of what is also known as a "fur-piece" made out of a full length hide of the ten-tailed Eldeweiss. All of the tails were standing out straight and mingling with her robbity-bob-bob frizzes which jangled as she gayly shook her head, like sweet-bells jangled out of tune. When the sun struck thru her hair it looked like the sun setting on the Wabash in the fade-away of the thrilling movie, entitled "All for Love."

I moved around to see the Child. I even crossed the street. And when I saw the babe, she was over 70 years old if a day. I felt sure that she was such as keep a pair of scales in the bath room and eat balanced rations on a Fork. She is one of those ladies who are so built that they show their knee-caps when they sit in a sleepy hollow chair to take a position of needed relaxation. She has "banted" in her day and has tried all of the Obesity medicines since they discovered Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. That's my notion of the Child.

I have no fault to find, no criticism to make. But I only hope that some of these Fountains of Youth Ladies will not wake up some day and find that styles have changed. Looking so young today and suddenly finding that it has become the fashion to look just as old as the Family Record in the Old Bible Says, will be a Tough Thing. There will be a Hill to be an aging in a couple of weeks that will sting like an Adder. If it should happen that she can't wear Beads any longer or call up the "1891 Whist Club" of which she is a Charter Member and ask if all of the "girls" will be at the club this afternoon, she will feel like a Dead Moth in a piece of Burlap.

It has been hard to follow the styles lately, especially for those who happened to be born forty or fifty years ago. And it is something that must be done, if one is to keep abreast the times. Every woman has a perfectly proper ambition to look like Mary Pickford, and stay so until it became useless to try. Beauty parlors do a lot. They take the real Vintage ladies and often make them look like post-war Home Brew. A Permanent Wave has made many a home happy. Often it is a subject for the Hague Tribunal, whether a Woman shall wave or just Bob on a wave. While they don't imagine what young girls are thinking of when they cut off hair that has been growing for years, yet it is a sure relief not to have to do it up. That royalty is "thinking of doing it." And "my neuritis has been growing lately and it is SUCH a job to list one's arms so much every morning."

Every mail, every copy of the daily newspaper, every cable from Europe and South America relates how now "Leading Ladies" had bobbed. Some of the most intellectual women in the world had bobbed. The President of the International W. C. T. U. was considering it.

When this woman of whom I speak talked with her husband after retiring, instead of the old line about "Where have you been this evening? And why can't you occasionally stay at home a day or two consecutively?" "Mrs Pinkley has had her hair bobbed what DO you think. My hair is actually getting to be such a burden."

And he feeds her the old line: "You look good enough to me but if it will please you, go to it. I'm used to it. You won't shock me none; but I wish to Heaven you would lower your skirts."

Finally she goes and has the hair surgeon do the deed. She trembles all over like a reed shaken in the wind. She has not actually decided whether to have a shingle or a bob or a bump or a lawn. She has not decided whether to have it left long around the Ears or cut short over the jugular. Some people have told her that with her round and youthful face, she should have it cut with a sort of effect like that of the approach to King Tut's Tomb—an easy, up-grade look. She would like it snippy and snappy; but not too girlish. If possible she would like it to look as tho it had been cut as the result of a Fever. What is this "sloping effect" like the approach to the residence of a large Landed Estate? She would like something like that.

"I see," says the barber who works by the job and not by the hour, and who is already plugging in the juice on the horse-clippers. What you want is the latest style that we call the Ukalele Bob. It is just between the shingle and the Dormer Window style. We use it exclusively on round and if you will pardon me, rather youthful faces. Some call the style The Baby Doll.

In the meantime he has started the old clippers on a bob that he can do with his eyes shut. The clippers just know how all by themselves. Set them going and they will give a lady-hair-cut that will carry any name in a cross-wind puzzle from Enu to Ogre. Hair falls like a thunder shower and before she knows it she is looking into the mirror with a hand-glass at a fair thing known as "First Flash of Girlhood." Some call it "Four Flush."

Then she goes home by the back street and cries an hour and then begins to brag about what a relief it is when you wash your hair not to have to stay in the whole afternoon and hang your head over the radiator.

And tomorrow Paris may say that "no one bobs, and it REALLY has been out of fashion among Exclusive Ladies for over a year."

Then she will buy hair at the shop and build a shed roof over the Shingle.

TOWN COUNCIL ADOPT ASSESSMENT ROLL ON INCOME --- TO PROTEST

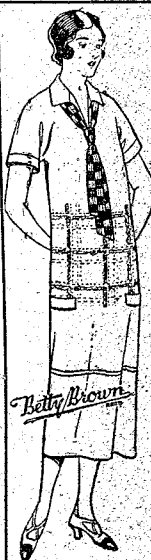

Ratepayers Strenuously Opposed Action Of Council Which Legal Men Claim Was Illegally Done

Despite the pleadings of influential ratepayers in the town, as well as the advice of two legal men, the Town Council at their regular session on Monday evening, decided to adopt the assessment roll, which had been referred back to the Assessors for the addition of Income, and accepted same as presented to the Council with a few changes.

The Council Chamber was well filled when the meeting opened at 8:30, and within a few minutes standing room was at a premium and a large number of citizens were obliged to stand in the hallway. The meeting was in continuous session until 11:45, and will go down on record as being one of the longest and most interesting meetings held in Digby for some years. And those who were fortunate to be present listened with rapt attention to the addresses which were given by Frank Jones, K. C., Frank W. Nichols, Dr. E. DuVernet, H. B. Short, and others. Considerable information was given on Income Assessment, and a number of those who addressed the meeting did not object against being assessed, but they did object and in very strong language, on the manner in which the Council had gone about the matter at this late date, all claiming that it was done illegally.

His Worship Mayor Anderson was in the chair, and all the Council members were present. After the usual routine, Frank Jones, K. C., addressed the Council, claiming that he was among those who had been assessed on Income, and asked permission to make a few remarks. Mr. Jones said that this was an unusual thing for him to do, to appeal against an assessment, as he had been paying taxes in the town for upwards of forty years, and this was the first time that he

it his duty to advise the Council. Town Clerk Boden, replying to Mr. Jones, stated that he did not wish the idea to get abroad that the members of the Council or Assessors were doing an illegal act, because they were NOT. Mr. Boden paid a high compliment to Mr. Jones during the latter's term of office as solicitor for the town, and felt that the advice given by this legal gentleman should not be considered lightly. There was nothing illegal about the action of the Town Council or the Assessors. Mr. Jones had quoted section 21, but he asked that gentleman to read section 35, which gave the Assessors authority to assess at any time. The Assessors had neglected to add income when the Roll was presented to the Town Council, and the Appeal Court refused to accept same and had it sent back for the assessment on income. They were perfectly legal in their action, and he felt satisfied that the Council could collect this special assessment.

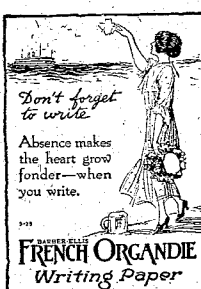

Mr. Jones replied, stating that the section read by Mr. Boden was for the Appeal Court, and not for the Town Council. He was perfectly willing to pay a legal tax, but not one which was illegally imposed. The present tax was an injustice upon the ratepayers, in the way it was made, as there was no chance whatever to appeal. It would be better for the Council to omit the Assessment this year, even if it was a loss to the town, than to commit an act of injustice and illegality.

Mr. Russell, one of the Assessors appointed by the Town Council, upheld the stand he had taken on income assessment in former years, and when the question was brought up he refused to sign the roll unless the word Income was deleted. The Chief Assessor told him that income was not to be assessed. He did not know what he was doing regarding assessment. If the law had been carried out then the present delegation would not be present. If the Schedules had been filled out in the proper way by ratepayers, no trouble would have ensued and all would have had a chance to appeal. One of the Assessors remarked that if income was assessed, he would resign.

Dr. E. DuVernet, who occupied the Chief Magistrate's chair for upwards of three years, stated that the Statutes can be made to read many ways. The law does not say that income must be assessed, but "shall be liable to taxation." The town had a perfect right to omit that tax. In 1919 he had filled out his Schedule, with income included, but it was ignored by the Assessors as the town had decided not to assess on income. Was he liable to a penalty as outlined by several gentlemen? When the Roll was completed by the Assessors, there had been no idea of assessing income. It had been sent back twice, and the Roll should be sent back a third time. No one had appeared before him, asking what his income was. He appealed against the tax which had been imposed upon him, stating that the amount was an exaggeration.

Frank Nichols wanted to know how the Assessors had arrived at their decision, and the amount imposed on each individual? Mr. Boden replied, stating that the Assessors were not supplied with figures, and had no way to determine what should be charged, and these gentlemen were absolutely in the dark.

The tax was illegal in the first place, declared Mr. Nichols, and the only way the Assessors could arrive at a decision was to have fonder—when

the Schedule filled out. Mr. Nichols advised the Council to let the thing right, as they had made a wrong step, and were imposing this tax in an illegal manner.

H. B. Short stated that this was the first opportunity he had to appear before the Council for some time, and congratulated Mayor Anderson on his elevation to the Chief Magistrate's chair, stating that he was the youngest man to hold such an office since the town was incorporated. He wished him every success, as well as those who sat around the Council Board. Regarding the present assessment on income, Mr. Short agreed with the previous speakers and believed that an illegal step had been taken. It was not fair and equitable, and the income tax was what the town needed. He was not a member of the town who did not pay on real estate. The city of Halifax did not assess on income, and Digby had decided to drop this tax for seven years. It was a very unwise move to adopt it this year, and when the Council did assess on income, all should be assessed. Mr. Short said he was willing to pay his share but not someone else's share, and advised the Council to go after everyone next year at the proper time.

Addresses were also given by T. E. C. Lynch, the Town Clerk, Capt. Snow, Dr. McGregor, each appealing against their assessment.

Coun. Holdsworth, acted as spokesman for the Town Council and endeavored to explain the attitude taken by the Council on the matter of income assessment. While he was on the Council Board he was going to do his duty, and see that the laws of the town were carried out. Coun. Holdsworth got into several heated arguments with various speakers, and stood firm on the stand the Council had taken.

After several of those who appealed against the assessment, had appeared before the Council, the crowd dispersed and the Council got down to business.

Coun. Merkel stated that the whole matter drifted back to the appointment of a Town Solicitor, and thought that the legal men of the town should be able to explain the law more fully than the Town Clerk.

Coun. Lindstrom was not clear on the Assessment Act, and the matter was explained by Coun. Holdsworth, who said that the Assessors had a perfect right to add any assessment on the Roll until the 30th day of June.

Several of the Councilors thought that the present objection against the tax was a matter of talk, and the speakers had no ground whatever to stand on.

Coun. Aymar moved that the rate book as presented to the Council, be accepted. This was seconded by Coun. Holdsworth and carried unanimously.

The assessment Roll, as submitted by the Assessors, with few minor changes, was on motion of Coun. Holdsworth and Raymond accepted.

At this time Coun. Merkel and the Town Clerk got into a heated argument over the signing of the Assessment Roll, but after the matter was fully explained, the Roll was duly signed and the meeting adjourned.

Those who addressed the meeting did not appeal against their assessment, but the way the Council had gone about the matter. According to the remarks of several gentlemen, the matter will be thrashed out in the courts, where the assessment is paid by a number of those assessed.

Obituary

LEONARD L. WITTING

The many friend in Digby County, and throughout Nova Scotia, will regret to hear of the death of Leonard L. Witting, which occurred at Long Beach, California, a few days ago, after a short illness.

Mr. Witting has been a summer visitor here for upwards of twelve years, and was one of the most successful business men in the County. He was a member of the Sandy Cove, overlooking the Bay of Fundy. He was a man who was well liked by all with whom he came in contact and was held in high esteem by the people of Sandy Cove. During his summer visits he took a deep interest in the affairs of the County and last summer spoke highly of the possibilities of a summer colony at Sandy Cove, offering to interest capital in the scheme.

LOUIS WEIR

Digby lost one of its most popular young men when the death occurred in the Tuberculosis sanatorium at Halifax on Wednesday last, of Louis Weir, at the early age of 19 years. He was one of Digby's most promising athletes, starred in hockey, and was among the best "goalies" in the province. He was a member of the High School championship team of 1923 and but for this illness would easily have made a place on one of the senior teams. He was also a member of the Digby championship baseball team, and his batting and base running always featured the game.

The funeral was held on Friday afternoon with interment in the Methodist cemetery. Rev. Mr. Watts officiating. As a last tribute and mark of respect, the merchants of the town suspended business at 12 noon, and the funeral procession passed along the streets.

At Danvers on April 4th, after a lingering illness, Henry Lewis passed away at the advanced age of 83 years. He leaves to mourn nine children: Budd, Loran Harry and Mrs. Leslie Marshall, of Danvers; Mrs. R. Dwyer, of Weymouth; Mrs. Flora Prime of Boston; Mrs. H. Theriault of East Ferry; Mrs. Percy Sullivan of Hasset; and Mrs. Wm. Barr of Portland.

The Gardener's Born

My neighbor on the left is working feverishly in the late afternoon, turning the earth and inserting mysterious seeds. My neighbor on the right is poring over the catalogues of fertilizer and drawing faint lines in his garden while his wife scolds and drags other lines. My neighbor over the back fence stands on his porch and dreams of the blue and red and yellow, that soon will flick his grounds. I walk pitifully up and down my twelve square feet of yard and sigh. Such things are not for me. Gardeners are even the least of them, are born and not made; and gardening is not in my blood. My family could never grow anything but children and debts and moustaches. Not, you must understand, that we haven't tried. It used to be our yearly habit to array ourselves in overalls (the whole family) and go through the motions of planting a sweet pea. But it never did anything.

Sandy Cove

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mitchell and two daughters, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ray and Mrs. L. S. Neiv, of Middleboro, spent Sunday with Mrs. Carrie Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sypher of St. John, spent Sunday at the Sydney House.

Mrs. Wm. Burns, Jr., returned home Monday after having spent the past week at Metegan.

SOME AMERICAN MAIL

"Would you mind informing me of the price of your Bridge Box? I noticed an article in Printers Ink which handed it as an original idea and would like to have a box for a 'bridge fiend' friend of mine." - Elber C. Hebrun, Philadelphia.

"The Bridge Box mentioned in Printers Ink Monthly for February is a very clever idea and would be most unique for prizes. Can they be obtained direct from you?" Mrs. Alfred M. Fogg, Sanford, Me.

Inquiries from points scattered all over the States come in couched in similar vein. We Canadians are lucky to be able to buy the Bridge Box for so little, and so easily.

Just Talks--On Common Themes

On "Be Yourself"

HERE are a good many men in the insane hospitals who think that they are Napoleon or King George and a good many women who think that they are Queen Victoria or Mary Queen of Scots.

There are a good many people outside of the asylums who think they ought to spend money like Rockefeller or behave like Captains of Industry when they are not, pretending to be far more than they are.

This is another chapter on looking one's self over and taking an inventory of what one really is. For this, nothing is so helpful as to run up against the other fellow occasionally.

When I happen on to a chap who begins by telling me what he has done instead of telling me what he wants of my time, I get tired. One came in the other day to sell a new organization for idealistic reform. He took twenty minutes telling me what he had done in certain cities in Canada and for the life of me I could not find out what he wanted of my time.

When I asked him what he wanted he would begin, "I made a speech the other night and I told the audience that this was the most useful general organization. We are backed by So and So, who is one of the richest men in the country and we have such names as these on our board of directors. He was vexed because I could not seem to spare the additional time necessary.

Trouble was—he was not selling me a plan; but was talking about himself.

It is best to forget one's self and think of the end to be attained. If you are making a speech, think of what you are saying and not about the audience or how it is taking it. If it is good, the audience will take it all right.

I suppose that Ben Franklin succeeded as a diplomat in the foreign courts because he was just himself. He was plain and unassuming and did not esteem his title. When you find a man who sticks to his title and nothing else matters so much as deference to his position in some office retreat, he is not likely to be so great. Henry Ford has no office and has no titles in the job. When you find a business leader who is just the "old man," you are likely to have a pretty good leadership.

JES' BE WHAT YOU IS

Don't be what you ain't
Jes' be what you is
If you is not what you am,
Then you am not what you is;
If you is jes' a little tadpole,
Don't try to be a frog.
If you se jest a common tail,
Don't try to wag the dog.
If you se jes' a little pebble,
Don't try to be the beach.
You can always pass the plate—
If you can't exhort and preach,
Don't be what you ain't—
Jes' be what you is;
For the man who plays it square,
Sure's a-goin' to get 'this.

I don't know who wrote those lines; but they come pretty near to being good common-sense philosophy.

Nothing makes the world so sick as to see a person "just putting on airs." They want "conferences" in which they can sit back in the chair and cross examine the workers about the things they have read in "system" and find fault, because things have not been done on the blue-heck instead of on the back of a piece of paper, which would work good in law. If one pass by a dignitary who happens to be playing golf and does it just to oblige a customer who wants the job and wants it then, the System is destroyed and nothing is proper and nobody is happy.

The person is a tadpole trying to be a frog.

There is an enormous dearth of common-sense in business all of the time and never a greater dearth than now. The chief thing in business is the contented and satisfied customer. It never pays to put on airs in the shop. Nor does it pay to get "hot under the collar" just for the fun of being able to say later that you "bawled a man out."

Anyone can get mad—it takes a regular chap to keep his temper. Power vested in one man will get its own way for a time; but the additions on the other side of the book will ultimately unseat the gentleman in power.

He may think the storm has blown over; but it never does. It spreads like wild-fire. The only way he can be as great as he thinks he is, is to use his power for justice and the right. Looking at one's self as "system" and find fault, because things have not been done on the blue-heck instead of on the back of a piece of paper, which would work good in law. If one pass by a dignitary who happens to be playing golf and does it just to oblige a customer who wants the job and wants it then, the System is destroyed and nothing is proper and nobody is happy.

Just be yourself—simple and fair to yourself; honest to yourself; esteeming preferences little when they are attained by self assertion and in the end you will be happier than by pretensions and by boasting.

DIGBY PUPILS MAKE GOOD IN EXAMINATIONS

All Departments Had Successful Term
And Much Good Work Shown
In Third Report

To the School Board
Town of Digby

Sirs:—I beg to submit, for your approval, my report of the Digby Schools, for the quarter ending April 28, 1925.

The attendance during the quarter was somewhat less than that of the preceding quarters. The prevalence of sickness in the town and the consequent closing of the schools accounts for this.

The total days attendance was 10286, the average daily attendance 257, the percentage daily attendance 86 per cent.

The progress of the school as indicated by the accompanying averages was quite satisfactory. The effect of lost time was especially felt in the High School. Practically all the work allotted to this department is, however, up to date. With two exceptions all the pupils were successful applicants for the Provincial Examinations.

The proposed opening of a new department next year will permit of more efficient work in the High School and incidentally remove the congestion in the lower grades.

This is further evidence of the persistent efforts on the part of the Board to raise the standard of the School.

The actual teaching period remaining is eight weeks. The continued cooperation of parents in general is necessary to effect a favorable termination of a relatively successful year. Incidentally the present is opportune for reminding parents and pupils of the provisions of the "Compulsory School Law."

The Censo won't permit us to mention the name of a new product being made by Moirs. The reason is that it has met with such instantaneous success, that production facilities have been swamped. It is impossible to come anywhere near keep-up with orders. But just as soon as the factory begins to catch up, we'll let you in on the secret.

Tai-sung, Emperor of China, sent ambassadors to India in 627 A. D. to learn how brown sugar was made.

DIGBY CO. MILLS BUSY TRYING TO FINISH ORDERS

Much of Product is Being Sent to the United States--Men in the Woods Did Well, Is Report

Lumbering operations have been carried on on a large scale in Digby County during the past six months, and today all the mills throughout the County are busy trying to catch up with a large number of orders which have accumulated and which the mill owners were unable to fill until the present date. During the past winter a large number of men were engaged cutting timber, but owing to the light snow fall it was impossible to get the cut out of the woods.

The mill in Digby owned by H. T. Warner has been in continuous operation throughout the winter and a number of men have received steady employment. Considerable of Mr. Warner's output has been shipped by the schooners Westway which have accumulated in Boston and Longview to parties in Boston.

The mill owned by Dr. Dickie of Barton has also been busy turning out material for parties in Boston and Canada, and several cargoes have been shipped during the past winter. A mill is in operation at present and a number of men are steadily employed.

The stove mill at Jilympton, lately built by American parties, is at present busy turning out hardwood staves, which are being shipped to the United States. To date one thousand cords of hardwood have been used at this mill, and farmers have reaped a good harvest during the past winter.

At Weymouth and Meteghan several mills have been in continuous operation during the winter. A large amount of the lumber manufactured at these latter places is also being shipped weekly to the United States.

Throughout the County a large number of men have received steady employment, and while wages have not been high, still those employed have been able to receive sufficient to support their families and also save a few dollars to assist them in days to come.

Practically all of the lumber manufactured by the small mills in this vicinity have been used by hotel men in improvements to their hotels and cottages, as well as in the building of several blocks and outbuildings.

On all sides nothing but peace and contentment reigns, and with a good tourist trade this season Digby county should be one of the most prosperous and contented counties in Nova Scotia.

FRIDAY, MAY 8 1924

An Opportunity to Assist in a Clean-Up

His Worship calls upon the citizens to participate actively in an undertaking which may make Digby much more attractive.

Let's go! What a great change could be made in the appearance of Digby if for one week everybody in the town lent himself or herself enthusiastically to this endeavor to clean up the streets and the yards and the garden.

What the town is to be in appearance next week, and then the town, Digby can be made a dusty and unkempt town or a pleasant, cleanly, tidy community, just as the people of Digby determine.

A real clean-up week, with every body lending a hand, and then a really measure of public attention to keeping the town clean and bright, can make Digby many-fold more attractive.

Clean-up week pays, too. It pays, of course, in the satisfaction which it gives people to live in a bright, clean place.

But pays also in another very important way. It pays in that it reduces the fire-hazard and cuts down the fire loss. It pays in that it lessens the danger of disease, and of the spreading of disease, for disease thrives on dirt. In spotless towns disease is reduced to a minimum.

So let's go! Let's make this clean-up week one of the most successful community undertakings Digby has attempted.

How Hot Is Mars

Figures on the temperature of Mars, as observed during the recent approach, are now given out. Astronomers confine themselves to facts, but the rest of us may assume the privilege of speculating on those facts.

It appears that the temperature of Mars, at the poles, is about the same as that of the arctic regions on earth. At the equator, the temperature, at noon, in the dark spots, where, if anywhere, life exists, is about that of a cool March day in New York.

But since, for purposes of life, the extremes of heat and cold are marked by the freezing and boiling points of water, and water boils on Mars a hundred degrees cooler than on earth, this may be considered a warm temperature.

The trouble is that, on these very spots, the temperature at midnight is much colder than it ever gets in the arctic on earth. No life, therefore, could survive there unless it could stand tropical temperature every noon, and freeze solid every night. The arctic regions, with their long summer day, would be more tolerable.

Either way, life of some sort is evidently possible, and therefore probable, but life high enough to be interesting is scarcely thinkable. Certainly, nothing as high as a fern or a frog is to be pictured. And a population of lichens and barnacles would scarcely be able to teach us much about civilization. Romances about "The Martians" are hardly in order.

It Pays to Advertise

Henry M. Flagler, the Starboard Oil magnate, believed in advertising. After he had expended millions of dollars of hard, cold cash building railroads, hotels and a fleet of ships, he turned his attention to one of his big hotels wired him as follows: "Hotel empty except for band playing at one end. 'What shall I do?' The manager waited for his reply, meanwhile preparing to discharge the band and close the hotel. Soon the answer came back. 'Engage another band to play at the other end of the hotel.' Flagler advertised. He advertised intelligently. Today Florida is the mecca for tourists. Millions are spent there in patronizing the Flagler hotels and resorts. The main idea about advertising is to 'advertise intelligently.' Choose a good medium, which reaches the kind of people you want to reach. Then tell these readers what you have got to sell in an 'intelligent' manner. Tell them consistently, persistently, and they will buy!

Traic

Youth is not always as resilient as it has been pictured. Youth has its tragedies all its own that those of us of maturer years cannot feel.

A 14-year-old boy in Cincinnati shot and killed himself because his mother's death had left him with the responsibility of housework and the care of his two younger brothers. Denied the opportunity to play with other boys, he collected his books and toys in a pile, burned them and then ended his own life.

Grown men and women have killed themselves because of lost love and lost love. Youth denied play is a greater tragedy than either.

Mothers' Day

Sunday next will be observed as Mothers' Day throughout this continent. It is a fitting tribute to motherhood which keeps alive in the hearts of all who participate the debt we owe to the mothers of the country. It is not the purpose to arouse pity for the sex but to do honor to the dead and the living.

So on Sunday those who reverence and honor the sacred name "mother" will wear a white rose in memory of a departed one and a red rose to give honor to a mother who is living.

Of Post-Mortem Praises

I've noted when a fellow dies, no matter what he's been—A saintly clown or one whose life was darkly stepped in sin—

His friends forget the bitter words they spoke but yesterday,

And now they find a multitude of pretty things to say.

I fancy when I go to rest someone will bring to light

Some kindly word or goodly act long buried out of sight.

But, it's all the same to you, just give to me instead,

The bouquets which I'm living and the ones which when I'm dead.

Don't save your kisses to imprint upon my marble brow;

While countless maledictions are hurled upon me now.

Say just one kindly word to me while I mourn here alone,

And don't save all your eulogy to carve upon a stone.

What do I care if when I'm dead the Bloomingdale Gazette

Gives me a write-up with a cut in mourning border set;

It will not flatter me a bit, no matter what is said.

So kindly throw your bouquets now and knock me when I'm dead.

It may be fine, when one is dead, to have the folks talk so.

To have the flowers come in loads from friends, you know;

It may be nice to have these things for those you leave behind,

But just as far as I'm concerned, I really I'm quite alive and well to-day, and while I linger here,

Lead me a helping hand at times—give me a word of cheer.

Just change the gauge a little bit, just kindly swap the decks.

For I will be no judge of flowers when I've cashed in my checks.

The Weekly Newspaper Convention

MISS GLADYS BOURQUE

(Truro News)
Miss Nellie Gaudet, of the Truro News staff, received a telegram from the after-noon of the 30th ult. stating that Miss Gladys Bourque of Weymouth, Digby Co., a former employee of the Truro News, had passed to the Great Beyond that afternoon at 4:45 o'clock.

Miss Bourque worked with the News for some eight or nine years, resigning in October 1924, when her health failed her. She was tenderly cared for in Truro by her sister, Miss Margaret Bourque, who was sent to the Tuberculosis Incurable Hospital in Halifax. It was found that her failing health so she was taken to her home in Weymouth; and made a brave fight for life, but in the end Death conquered.

The deepest sympathy goes out to the sorrowing parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bourque, also to the four sisters left to mourn, (Emma, Mrs. Wm. Amorose, North Range, Digby Co.; Miss Margaret, Truro, who has been at home for some time helping to care for Gladys; (Joan, Mrs. Leo Legere, Moncton, (also a former News Employee) and Miss Elizabeth an invalid at home.

Deceased belonged to a Loyal French Acadian family and when War was declared one son of this family, Edward, enlisted, went to battle and was killed Overseas. This lad shortly after the War was over, died from a severe attack of Flu.

The many friends in Digby of Mrs. Mary Eleanor Dickson will regret to hear of her death, which took place suddenly at Los Angeles, California, on Monday. Mrs. Dickson was a resident in Digby during the illness and death of her sister, and remained with J. L. Peters until 1918 when she left for British Columbia and Alberta, and later moving to Los Angeles.

She leaves to mourn their two sons, Geo. A. Dickson, of St. John, and J. Edgar Dickson, of Victoria, B. C., and one daughter, Mrs. M. J. Her husband, five children, her aged mother, Mrs. Ann Sprague, two sisters, Misses Edith and Clara, and her brothers, Edward, of Boston, Charles and Walter, of Weymouth Mills, to mourn their loss. The funeral services were held at the home, conducted by Rev. A. G. Pentz. Burial was held in the Methodist cemetery. The pall bearers were: Henry N. Mack, of Bear River, and interment was made in the Bear River Cemetery.

HENRY MARSHALL

On Wednesday the death occurred at Millford Corner, of Henry Marshall at the residence of Mr. Marshall. He had only been ill a few days and his death was very sudden and unexpected.

To Establish

Canning Factory

An effort is being made by the farmers of this district and the citizens in town to establish a Community Canning Factory here on a very large scale, and an endeavor will be made to raise the sum of $10,000 as soon as possible. Citizens of the town, numbering about fifty, have signified their willingness to subscribe the sum of $100.00 each, if fifty farmers in the district will do like wise. A meeting for this purpose was held at Acadiaville last week, which was largely attended, people coming from all parts of the county. Addresses were given by Prof. Blais of the Experimental Farm at Kentville; and several other gentlemen, well versed in agriculture and general farming. At this meeting a strong committee was appointed to get together immediately and form plans, which will be submitted to those at an early date.

Messrs Jack & Cardozo, who are at present conducting a successful jam factory in this town, have consented to take charge of the proposed Community Canning Factory.

Farmers are also deeply interested in the cultivation of Strawberries and Raspberries in this section, and this season several acres of land are under cultivation. The market has been found in the United States, and the D. A. R. have promised to provide additional refrigerator cars to take care of this product if it is successful, and will assist the farmers in getting their crop on the American market.

Oddfellows' Celebrate

106th Anniversary

St George Lodge, No. 55, and Zelma Rebekah Lodge, No. 78, celebrated the 106th anniversary of the founding of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, on Sunday by attending divine service in Holy Trinity church. The weather was ideal and in consequence there was a good turnout of the brethren and sisterhood of the three-link fraternity and others, and a large congregation assembled in the spacious church.

The sermon was preached by the rector, Rev. William Driffield. His subject was "Charity," the corner stone on which all fraternal orders having for their aim the brotherhood of man, is built. He congratulated the order on its splendid record during the 106 years of its existence, and especially the Oddfellows of the Maritime Provinces for their forward movement in the opening of the home for aged Oddfellows and their dependents at Pictou.

Music of high order was rendered by the choir and the service was one which will be long remembered by those who attended.

On returning to the lodge room a vote of thanks was passed to the rector, choir and corporation of Holy Trinity for the sermon, music and courtesies extended.

Upper Clements Man Celebrates 104th Birthday

On Tuesday, Edmund Clarke entered upon his 104th year at his home in Upper Clements where he has lived for a great many years with his daughter, Mrs. Fenwick Balcom.

Mr. Clarke's memory is very clear and he not only recalls things which happened when he was a child, but can easily run back in his mind over the past hundred years and tell occurrences during that long span of years almost two life times.

For years Mr. and Mrs. Clarke had charge of the County Home in Bridgetown, afterwards they moved to Bellefleur, where Mrs. Clarke died, then Mr. Clarke moved to Annapolis to live with his daughter.

Mr. Clarke, keenly interested in all topics of the day, has the newspapers read to him every night, owing to loss of sight a year or more ago. Regular hours and plenty of outdoor exercise is the secret of good health and longevity, according to Mr. Clarke. Annapolis Royal is proud of him and he has had many messages of congratulations on his birthday.

On McLaughlin-Buick—Torque Tube Drive

THE fine engineering in McLaughlin-Buick motor cars is demonstrated by the torque tube drive. This is a steel tube which transmits the drive from the rear wheels instead of adding this important duty to the burden of the rear springs. The torque tube also encloses and protects the propeller shaft. This type of construction also holds the rear wheels in alignment regardless of road conditions

After a social hour and tea, the congregation had the pleasure of listening to an inspiring sermon by Dr. Spidle, Dean of Acadia University. This was followed by a sacred drama entitled "The Challenge of the Cross" which was effectively given by the "Ever faithful" Sunday school class.

Mrs. Curtis had been in very poor health for the past year and went to Halifax Thursday for an operation which was performed at the Victoria General Hospital on Saturday morning.

She was of a very sweet and loving disposition, and her passing will be mourned by a large circle of friends, the sympathy of all goes out to the bereaved husband and to the two young sons Walter and Harold left motherless.

Start the Week With a Smile

"I'll explain deduction," said the young student, using his knowledge in the home circle. "In our back yard, for example, is a pile of ashes. By deduction that is evidence that we've had fires going this winter."

"By the way, John," broke in his father, "you might go out and sift the evidence."

A farmer had the misfortune to have his barn burnt, but he was well insured, and went to the insurance company to collect the money. The official informed him that they intended to replace the barn, and the farmer immediately cancelled his wife's policy. "If Jennie should die," he explained, "you're not going to replace her."

The superintendent of a city Sunday school was making an appeal for a collection for a shut-in society, and he said: "Can a boy or girl tell me of any shut-in person mentioned in the Bible? Ah! I see several hands raised. That is good. This little boy right in front of me may tell me. Speak up good and loud that all will hear you, Johnnie." "Jennah," shrieked Johnnie.

In a case tried in a Western court a stone-mason was called to describe the way in which he had been assaulted by the defendant. "He walked right into me," the witness said, "and slammed me against one of my own tombstones."

"Were you hurt?" inquired the court. "Was I hurt, judge? Why, I've got a new head on me now."

"Sacred to the Memory of" stamped all the way down my back!

He was being medically examined preparatory to taking out an insurance policy. "Ever had a serious illness?" inquired the deputy. "No," was the reply. "Ever had an accident?" "No."

"Never had a single accident in your life?" "Never, except last spring when a bull tossed me over a fence." "Don't you call that an accident?" "No, Sir! He did it on purpose."

It was too rainy to go out, so Peggy and Tommy were entertaining themselves by picturing the wonderful things they would have when they grew up. "I shall have a lovely motor car," said Peggy. "So shall I," said Tommy. "And a radio," continued Peggy. "So shall I," said Tommy. "Oh, Tommy, Peggy said in an exasperated tone, 'I believe you are what they call a 'So-shall-I'."

A little boy from Canada, who had never seen a negro, was riding in New York with his uncle when he spied a colored lady.

"Uncle, why does that woman black her face?"

"She doesn't; that's her natural color."

"Is she black like that all over?"

"Why, yes," uncle replied.

The boy looked up fearfully at his uncle. "Gee, uncle, you know everything, don't you?"

A tramp knocked at a kitchen door and said: "Please, kindly, I'm a sick man. The doctor gives me this medicine, but I need something to take with it."

The lady who came to help, "Poor fellow," she said, "do you want a spoon and a glass of water?"

The tramp answered, "No, mum, I wouldn't trouble you, but this medicine haster be took after meals. Have you got a meal haster?"

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 6

Appearance of Tea No Guide

The only way to test tea is to taste it. Many people have the idea that a finely rolled and tippy tea is superior in flavour to a large rough leaf. In reality this is not of necessity the case. The altitude at which the tea plant grows determines the amount of essential oil and alkaloid theine in the leaf. The essential oil gives tea its flavour; the theine contributes the stimulating value. The only way to insure always receiving a uniform quality is to insist upon a skillfully blended and scientifically sealed tea like "SALADA" whose reliability, goodness and delicious flavour have become a household word.

"Exhausted Nerves and Palpitating Heart"

Mrs. L. Whiting, 202 King St. West, Brockville, Ont., writes:

"I took very sick with my nerves and stomach, and seemed to be all run down. At times my heart would flutter and palpitate so and I would take such weak spells in the pit of my stomach that I sometimes thought I would never get better. I tried several doctors, but it seemed nothing they gave me helped. I had almost given up hope when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I tried it, and can say it certainly has done wonders for me. I did not stop until I had taken twenty-five boxes."

Digby Preparing For Many Tourists

The distribution of upwards of 15,000 booklets advertising the attractions of Digby as a summer resort, has been started by the Publicity Committee of the Board of Trade. The booklet, which is very attractive, consists of ten pages and was prepared under the Board of Trade. It contains several excellent views of Digby and vicinity.

A big increase in tourist travel is expected this year and many of the summer hotels have been improved and enlarged. There are several new bungalows under construction at the Pines Hotel, and increased accommodation in the main dining room has also been made. New cabins have been built at the Mountain Gap in Smith's Cove and the "Harbortown" has been greatly improved, with accommodation in the main dining room for 150 guests. The cove is rapidly becoming a select summer resort and the present supply of cabins and bungalows do not meet the demand.

It is the intention to select a suitable part of the beach at Digby and erect up to date bathing houses. This improvement will probably be undertaken by a stock company. Workmen are now engaged putting Digby's famous golf links in shape for the coming season.

PAINS IN LEFT SIDE AND BACK

Other Troubles Women Often Have Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lachine, Quebec.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my left side and back, and with weakness and other troubles women so often have. I was this way about six months. I saw the Vegetable Compound advertised in the Montreal Standard and I have taken four bottles of it. I was a very sick woman and I feel so much better I would not be without it. I also use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I recommend the medicines to my friends and I am willing for you to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. M. W. Ross, 880 Notre Dame Street, Lachine, Quebec.

Doctor Said an Operation

Provost, Alberta.—"Perhaps you will remember sending me one of your books a year ago. I was in a bad condition and would suffer awful pains at times and could not do anything. The doctor said I could not have children unless I went under an operation. I read testimonials of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the papers and a friend recommended me to take it. After taking three bottles I became much better and now have a bonny baby girl four months old. I do my regular work and help a little with the chores. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and am willing for you to use this testimonial letter."—Mrs. A. Adams, Box 54, Provost, Alberta. C

TOWN COUNCIL HELD REGULAR MEETING MONY

Report Of Supt. of Streets Read And Adopted—Other Business Transacted

The Town Council met in regular session Monday evening, and it was one of the shortest and timest meetings since His Worship Mayor Anderson was elected to the office of Chief Magistrate. All the Councillors were present and His Worship Mayor Anderson occupied the chair and called the meeting to order at 8.15.

The minutes of last regular meeting were read and on motion adopted, after which a number of bills were read and ordered paid.

Frank W. Nichols appeared before the Council with regard to the assessment of $600 on personal property of Mrs. Louise Turnbull, and asked the Council to refund the taxes for this amount, as the property in question had been sold prior to the assessment being taken. On motion of Councillor Holdsworth and Aymar the request of Mr. Nichols was granted.

The Supt. of Streets, W. W. Hayden, presented his monthly report, showing a large amount of work being done on the different streets, as well as the erection of a cement walk at Oliver's corner, costing in the vicinity of $500. The report was on motion of Coun. Merkel and Warrington, adopted.

A letter was read from Sec. of Nova Scotia Municipalities, Arthur Roberts, re reports, also stating the next annual meeting of the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities would be held at Annapolis in June. The town was asked to appoint delegates to attend this meeting.

A communication was read from the Clerks of the Town of Lunenburg and Municipality, enclosing a resolution re fines collected, calling upon the governments to amend the law so that towns and Municipalities would not have to bear the expense of preliminary hearing, and that a part of fines collected would be refunded the town, and Digby was asked to pass a similar resolution. The matter was referred to the Federal Government and in session at Ottawa. On motion of Coun. Holdsworth and Lindstrom, the Clerk was instructed to forward resolution as requested.

Coun. Holdsworth moved that tenders be called for the renting of the Pavilion on the street for the summer months, and Town Clerk Boden was instructed to post a notice calling for such Tenders.

After a few minor matters the Council adjourned.

Over In France

All that is left in France of the grand pomp and picturesque, colorful splendor of the storied court of Versailles is on the backs and heads of a comparatively small army of underpaid functionaries—doormen, bank runners, chefs-de-garde of the railways, carriage starters, hearse drivers, floormen in department stores, ticket takers at places of amusement and such. They alone wear the gold braid and brass buttons. But the perfect manners, courtly dignity and surface gentility of the Louis periods were a rich spiritual legacy that has given the people of the great republic, from the lowest to the highest, a special charm which is all their own. For France is a Nation in liver, wearing the garments of a great past.

If Nobody Smiled

If nobody smiled and nobody cheered and nobody helped us along.

If each, every minute, looked after himself and the good things all went to the strong.

If nobody cared just a little for you, and nobody thought about me.

And we all stood alone to the battle of life, what a dreary old world it would be.

Small 3-Master Launched

There was a launching a few days ago from the shipyard of Jule Robicheau, Meteghan, an auxiliary schooner of about 86 tons gross, 76 net, gracefully slid off into the waters of St. Mary's Bay. Rigged with three spars, the craft was built for Captain Clifford Melanson, of Gilbert's Cove, who had the craft constructed on speculation. Until a purchaser shows up she will be engaged in the trade of carrying hardwood staves from the new mill at Gilbert's Cove to Portland, Me. The new vessel is 95 feet in length, 21 feet beam, 8.6 depth of hold. Equipped with Fairbanks-Morse crude oil twin engines of the 1925 type, and up-to-date model, the new vessel is an ideal freighter. Mr. Robicheau now holds a contract for the construction of a schooner of about eighty tons for Lockport parties, and will start building at once.

W. F. MAHON CO. PURCHASE $40,000 DEBENTURE

Halifax Firm Successful In Buying Water Debentures—Good Price Secured

The firm of W. F. Mahon & Co., Halifax, have been awarded the $40,000 Water Debentures which were offered for sale by the Town of Digby. A special meeting of the Finance Committee was held on Monday evening prior to the regular meeting of the Council, and the tender from the above firm, being the highest, was accepted.

It was impossible to get the price which the Bonds were purchased for, the Mayor and Chairmen of the Finance Committee thinking it best to keep the price from the public, but it was learned from other sources that the price submitted was in the vicinity of 99.50.

At a special meeting of the Council, held last week, seven tenders were submitted, but the Council thought it best to ask for new tenders, as the members believed that the Bonds should be at least 99.50. The firm of J. C. McIntosh & Co., Halifax, submitted the highest tenders at last week's meeting, it being 99.22.

No Morality Without Religion

Education without religion is a failure. Gradually and unconsciously at first, responsibility for education in religion has been shifted. The State has said very plainly and with some reason, "It is not my task." The college and university have said, "It is not my task." The home, while not saying it, has acted upon the principle that it was a task with which it could not cope and the Church has failed to keep step with the advance opportunity and responsibility, and we have gotten into the position that the most important element in education has been left to the whim of chance. It is little wonder that now and then we meet with an education that traces moral obligation back to some physical or psychological complex.

Just Talks—On Common Themes

On "The Silver Crown"

THERE is a story of a man who was climbing the Alps with his wife. She slipped over the side of a crevasse and the man was frantic whereas some men might look on it with equanimity.

But this man was different, he had cultivated the habit of observation. In coming along he had noticed an axe and a rope and with these he saved his wife's life. "There is no habit in the world so useful as observation. One man will go on a journey and come back having seen nothing. Another will return with broadened thought; wider range of vision and deeper concern for his fellows.

Once I read the lecture of Russell H. Conwell entitled the "Crown of Silver." It was the legend of the Silver Crown on which he based the lecture that he delivered almost as many times as he delivered the Acres of Diamond. Perhaps some of our public speakers may weave a new lecture on the subject.

In a beautiful palace was a throne of burnished gold and on the throne sat what was more wonderful to the people, a crown of silver which the emperor wore. But there was no emperor. He had died and there had been no successor. "No one would serve because they believed in Divine right and the astrologers, who worshipped the stars, could not find the man.

They had met in the throne room and had found that the stars required as a successor to the king, a man whom "the animals would follow, whom the sun serves, whom the waters obey and whom mankind love." When they could find such a man, they need not look to his family or his ancestors for he was divine.

So they went their way and the people set out to find the man of this sort. When they asked: "Have you seen a man whom animals will follow; whom the sun serves; whom the waters obey and whom mankind love?" they met with ridicule.

At last one old gray astrologer wandering in the Himalaya Mountains, overtaken by storm, was sheltered in the hut of a mountaineer. Night came and the wild beasts came to the door, the wolf, the hyena, the tiger—howling, purring, hissing and beating at the entrance to the hut. Dova came, the huntsman, and approaching at the door, made as tho to go out. The astrologer restrained him. "Don't go out; there are panthers, tigers, hyenas, wolves out there." But the huntsman said: "Lie down in peace my friend; these are acquaintances of mine." So he flung down the cord and opened the door and in came the animals. And the huntsman gave them certain dried herbs that were strung on a cord along the rafters. And the animals ate and went away.

This huntsman had "noticed" that there were antidotes for poison and ailing wild animals and he had collected these herbs and kept them for winter and these animals had seen led then and he had led them and they had gone their way many times.

The astrologer lay on his rug, as told in this legend, and he said: "The tiger follows him. But he is not a king. He is of common birth. How would he look wearing the silver crown?"

The next morning they went forth together and it was cold and they wanted a fire. And the huntsman took a crystal from a place in the wall and focused the sun on the leaves and twigs and they burst into flame. He had never been taught this but he had noticed that the crystal would focus the sun's rays and make fire.

And the astrologer said to himself: "Here is a man whom the sun serves. And last night the animals followed him, he may be the King." But on second thought he said: "No; he is of such lowly manner and birth, he can not be the king. I am much more fit to be the king."

And then they went out into the open and came to a spring where they would drink. But the winds were rebellious and rolled the spring and they could not drink. And the huntsman went back to his hut and found a bottle of fragrant oil. He had noticed that oil would calm the waters of the spring. And he poured a little on the surface and it stilled and they drank.

The astrologer said: "The waters obey him. This man MAY be king. But I hope he is not the king."

The next day they went up into the mountains and there was a dam holding back a reservoir of pure water. And the astrologer asked about it and the huntsman said, "NOTICED one day that there was a great break in the wall and into the narrow outlet of the mountain stream. And I notice that in summer the people are often in want of water. A few years ago, down on the plains they were dying of thirst. This man noticed. And so he noticed that a small dam could be made and that the waters could be held and that the people had thirsted and that the water was fine and sweet. So he rolled in the rock; dammed the stream and let the water down in the summer and again dammed its finer outlets in the winter and there was water for the sufferers on the plains at all times.

And the Astrologer asked "Do the people on the plains know of this?" And the huntsman said "O yes, I was down there a little while ago and they came about and embraced me and kissed me and seemed to love me."

And when the Astrologer knew that mankind loved him, the message of the stars was fulfilled. And he proclaimed the huntsman to be the man whom they needed for king.

And he became king and he ruled with wisdom and power and righteousness. Noticing everything, he understood all the needs of his people. He brought it to prosperity and peace.

And so, when we would have a man to rule, give us a man whom animals love, whom men love, whom the waters obey and the sun serves. And he accomplished these wonders all within human power and limitations by reason of his great gift of observation and proper understanding of human needs and desires.

Does this little story suggest to you that you keep your eyes open? What makes one man greater than another amounts to this frequently. One man sees everything and thinks ahead. Another sees nothing and thinks too late. Try the children on their observation. Teachers in schools should teach the great art of seeing.

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 8

The Consumption of Tea

Tea as a beverage is used in nearly every country in the world. It is estimated over 200 billion cups are consumed annually. Australia leads in tea drinking with an annual per capita consumption of about nine pounds, which means that every Australian consumes from six to eight cups of tea every day. The consumption per capita in England is 8½ lbs., and in Canada nearly 1 lb., but this is largely because Americans have not been able to get fine teas until comparatively recently. "SALADA" is considered one of the choicest blends on the market, and is the largest selling tea in either United States or Canada.

Here and There

According to the Alberta Provincial Department of Agriculture nearly a quarter of a million bushels of oats were shipped from that province to New Zealand for seed purposes last winter.

The Quebec Provincial Automobile Bureau estimates that well over 100,000 automobiles will be registered in that Province during the year. This will mean an increase over the 1924 registration of about 15,000 cars.

The 1924 exports of live cattle to Great Britain exceed the 1923 figures by over twenty-two thousand heads, according to the official Canadian returns. Exports to the United States also showed a slight increase.

Four small wooden vessels to act as tugs and feeders from Coronation Gulf to Herschel Islands, in the Arctic, are being built at Vancouver, B.C., to the order of the Hudsons Bay Company. They will be well powered and sheathed in iron bark.

There is now only one mine in the Crow's Nest Pass district idle. Between eight and nine thousand tons of coal are being mined there daily and the mines at Coleman, Blairmore and Bellevue are rapidly striking their stride, their output being about six thousand tons.

Although the chief beneficiaries under the new British preference proposals will be Canadian sugar, tobacco and automobiles, it is stated that Canada's wool and silk goods will also benefit to a certain extent. In the sugar preference an increase of about 25%, and in tobacco of from a fourth to sixth has been made.

By a recent Order-in-Council of the Lieutenant-Governor, promising for clearing land, which had previously been set at $6 an acre, were increased to $8. The Order also provides that the premium will be paid for a maximum of twenty acres of land and, as a result of it, a settler may obtain a grant of $160 from the Government as a reward for his work.

The annual invasion of Canada by anglers from the United States has commenced. F. N. Peet, secretary of the Isaak Walton League of Chicago, with other members of the League is catching salmon at Cains River, N.B., while a party of prominent newsmen from New York is at Lake Archambault, in the Laurentians, in quest of the elusive trout. Mr. Peet holds the world championship for casting a fly.

Walter Lindley-Jones, editor and founder of the Mercantile Guardian, of London, Eng., and an authority upon commercial matters in general, recently passed through Canada on the last leg of a journey around the world, by Canadian Pacific steamships and trains. Mr. Lindley-Jones states that a terrific boom is due in China as soon as hostilities cease there and that Great Britain and Canada will be the chief beneficiaries.

A man reached the station platform just as the 5.15 was pulling out. A little burst of speed netted him fifty feet in overcoming the train's handicap, but the best he could do was to reach the platform. He quit at the end of the long platform and returned. "Miss your train, sir?" enquired the porter cheerfully. "No, my friend," he replied, "Oh, no! I was just chasing it out of the yard. 'You oughtn't to allow it around here. Don't you see the tracks it has left.'—Even 'Red Life' by Alfred Price, M.A.

Canadians Will Return When Jobs Are Available

The following letter has been received by the Financial Post from a subscriber in Detroit: A Canadian who went to the United States to get work at his trade as a bricklayer and who is now hoping for a return of prosperity in this country in order to be able to come back and make a living here. But he is of the opinion that so long as we play into the hands of the United States in exporting our power, pulpwood and raw materials generally, the jobs which will bring Canadians back—and immigrants as well—will not be forthcoming.

Editor,
The Financial Post.

Dear Sir:

I have read your article on keeping power and pulpwood at home for use in Canada. I am a bricklayer and have spent about 17 years in Canada, and there are a few hundreds of us here and in other parts of the United States looking for Canada to pick up, and, from what I can gather, the majority of the people who have spent any time in Canada are looking for the time when things will be better so that they can go back. But you cannot expect people to stop when there is nothing for them to do, and from what I have seen as a tradesman I think the Canadians, or the men that have spent a great deal of their time in Canada, can put it all over the American machine and that is one reason why so many of them come down here, as they get steady work. So if Canada wants them to stop down here, well send all your power and all your pulpwood and everything else you have and then we need not reckon on coming back any more.

As a bricklayer I see the best of building material all over Canada, but if you were using it and working in the building trade you would find, I think, about half of the best brick and more than half, are from the United States. And when you are working here you do not see one from Canada. I think if some of the architects would specify Canadian material and boost some of their home products a little more it would help, but you hear nothing like this in Canada. I have laid brick in Canada which has cost $100 per thousand, but they could not make them in Canada they said, and they never will until they try to. Keep on hanging at some of the dumbbells and then perhaps you will get some of them to see how to keep the people when they get them.

A CANADIAN.

Obituary

ALVIN E. BERRY

Alvin E. Berry passed away on Friday May 1st, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Herbert R. Baxter, 26 Piquette Street, Belmont, Mass., after five weeks illness. For over thirty years he was resident of Waltham where he conducted a milk business. Two years ago he retired and moved to his summer home at West Rye, N. H., where he has since resided. A few weeks ago he and his wife went to visit their children in New York, Waltham and Belmont. While at the home of his daughter he was stricken and in spite of all that could be done the end came.

The funeral took place on Sunday May 3rd and was very largely attended by relatives, friends and former business associates, six of whom acted as bearers, Howard L. Stone, Wilbert Ross, George Barrow, Arthur S. Child, Amos Banks, and Charles J. R. Cahill. The services were conducted by Rev. A. A. Ridout, of the First Baptist church. Favorite hymns were sung by George Brannon including "There's a Beautiful Land on High," in the Garter hymn. Some time we'll understand. Interment was made at Mount Pleasant.

The late Mr. Berry was born at Chatham, N. S., and was the son of James Alfred Berry. At the age of seventeen he left the old home and in due time settled in Waltham. By his business ability and fine character for himself a large place and made lasting friendships. The esteem in which he was held was marked by the profusion of floral wreaths which banded the casket and filled it to overflowing in which it rested.

Just Talks--On Common Themes

On "Storms and Open Fires"

I HAVE found here and there a few people who enjoy great gales and wild storms, while snug under sheltering roofs, and my heart goes out to them in sympathy; for I find them usually to be sensitive, friendly folk calmly appreciative and perhaps, as an air, of the disposition of the house cat who comes in when the gales fly and the snow blows; to dream and purr upon the rug by the flaming fire.

I may be pardoned for being personal, for after all one knows only himself and may truly make occasional a contribution to study of complexes in true Freudian fashion. And so I recall dark nights, wandering as a boy by the river up and down where the winds were wild and the waves made much clamor among the strong piles of the old wharves of the town where I lived. I wanted the winds, warm, damp, no light in clouds; the whole world sobbing as of impending rain, rude blasts, occasional flash of rain and afar and above and from out the mysteries, the sound of mighty currents of the air, strange voice as of some other world. Especially the sound of the waves by night; a warm place on the lee; an outlook into dim, unshapely skylines; the river; the mast of a ship; the "booming" of the winds. And I liked to press my face upon the windows in storms and look out on the river and hear the tempest and turn back again to the fireside.

I find others thus inclined. A cabin in the rain with the fire on the hearth. A sound of snow ticking on the window pane. The swish of trees laden with the wet. A roar of the autumn downpour on the outside porch. These make us comforted.

I turn to my fire, then, too, and seek in it, as I have often done in wood camps, the analogies of the hearth with comforting thought of its coziness. When rock maple burns in air, hot, glowing in coals, living triumphant in its vital power. I know that I am, as it were, with the gods and goddesses—genius, strength, glory. Here are Shakespeare, Milton, Bacon, Johnson, Scott—the glorious line of those who have burned out with steady flame and much encouragement to life itself. Amid the storm and stress, these fires have never failed. They glow yet a little the morning of the next day are stirred to flame again from the coals upon the hearth. Such is the rock maple fire.

Here is the fire of white birch brilliant, flaming, easily ignited, often dying down again, quickly burned out, daring, dashing, military-like in its ready obedience to the command. The match, the torch, the sort—the brilliant, flashy people who burn quickly, frequently sulk if the wood within be damp, sizzle contentedly when things go wrong; yet when stirred again burst into flame. These are the white birch sort as one sits by the fire in the time of storm and stress. They light and cheer the world but do not live in deeper coals.

Spruce—a spruce-wood fire, gay with its resin and its accumulated pitch, and eager enough, but not really efficient. Willing to do the best that they can—so far as likeness to folks goes. Ready to burn, but hardly capable of holding out. Poor firewood; better for pulp.

Hemlock—talkative, snappy, nothing to it, sputtering and doing little, noisy and inefficient, rattling around in the fireplace and sending up a good deal of smoke. Boring, mischievous, the match, the torch, its mission to heat, to illumine, to blaze with fierce fires like rock maple.

Oak—hard, obstinate, enduring, solid, unassuming, slow-burning, requiring no acts of kindling, philosophic, introspective, judicial—like a stolid judge who sees nothing but the precedents and who has no spirituality in his soul. A dense body, impervious to outward things. A chief-justice of the old fashioned Puritan type who lies prone across the burning zeal of human love, human sympathies, human frailties and passions imposing the exact degree of combustion to the fiercer fires of human weaknesses. I see my oak stick thus a mass of timber to the warmth of human requirements. Oak is good—but hard to burn.

Mexican box—(box elder) a wood that maybe you do not know so well, but a wood that fits our needs. Beautiful to look at, pure white with a deep red heart. Burns like a flash; no great heat, to keep piling up more of it, like some folks. All show and no fire.

Beech is good middle ground, every-day sort of wood—just like most of us who live as we do in a quiet, servicable way so far as we are able. It is good wood—not material of genius like the rock maple, immortals to speak. Not like oak—not so substantial and non-inflammable. A mob of beech would be dangerous; more dangerous than a mob of spruce or fir. I watch beech burn and say "it is good folks; it burns substantially and fairly. It is good average." So beech world. So beech fairly, let it alone and it burns as well as it can and gives all it can. Its averages are good, in most things, even the weather which at night roars its messages of turmoil outside my room window.

Ash—well named. It is just like its name. A wood that when I put it on my fire, just turns to ash and does little else. A little flame; a little heat; a quick passing and, ashes! What a lot of us are just like this—quickly ashes to ashes and then oblivion. In the ash, I see hosts of little children who have never lived long; poor adventurers who have missed their chances to be oak or rock maple; wayfarers whose lives have been ruined by misadventure or by lack of the inner heart of strength and perseverance. My ash-fire burns quickly out and there are no coals.

Of all the evergreen trees, the pine is the best. It has beauty, power, fighting qualities—the one tree that has fought the broad leaved maples and the beech and stood in fastnesses by the sea, in windy places, where its branches are become gnarled and twisted and its arms still flung defiant to the storms. No maple could live on the Atlantic headlands in this storm; but there is the pine, clinging to rocks, defying the sea and the gales; lying its gains into a substance like lignum-vitae; a fighter. And ever singing—ever saying things to the birds and the waves, Whispering and sobbing. Yes, the pine burns also well—best of the soft woods. Not sputtering, not snapping; not snapping and showing off. It has LIVED. Trees that have had struggles do not talk about them, when they go to be cremated.

Trees live—have undoubted sentence of a kind and have character of distinction. They do not have power of locomotion—that is all. They give as they have received. Quick growing, quick-passing. So, we trace even in the fire-light of a stormy night, the essence of loving. Maybe, we may also find in this observation, as it is from a freckle-freese—a suggestion of our own limitations. Only we may by taking thought change, perhaps, from hemlock to oak or maple. And the tree can not.

PASTORS MEET AT DIGBY IN LAST CONVENTION

Methodist and Union Church Annual Meeting of Annapolis District, in Two Days' Session

The Annapolis District, which includes all the Methodist and Union churches from Berwick to Weymouth, began its annual convention in the Methodist church here Thursday afternoon, with the following ministers in attendance:

John G. Heckel (Chairman), M. H. Freestone, W. Harry Rackham, H. H. McNeill, L. E. Distant, A. R. Reynolds, Arthur Hocking, C. M. Mack, W. Harry Watts, A. G. Brown.

The afternoon session was wholly ministerial, and not open to the public, although there was nothing particularly mysterious or secret about it.

L. E. Distant, a probationer of the conference who for the past year has been serving as pastor of the Kingston Church, was recommended to be sent to college, and Guy E. Mossman, of Digby Neck, was received as a candidate for the ministry.

An occasion which made a very pleasant break in the convention's routine was a banquet at 6:30 in the Sunday School hall, at which the visiting members of the district, with the officials of the local church, were the guests of the ladies of the congregation, a courtesy which evoked a good deal of eloquence in appreciation.

Church Union was the theme of the public meeting in the evening, and Rev. M. H. McIntosh, of Annapolis, and Rev. C. M. Mack, of Bear River, in fine addresses told of the contribution which the Presbyterian and Methodist churches will make to the union.

The district meeting functions as a committee to prepare for the coming conference, reviewing the work of the past year, receiving reports from the local churches, and tabulating reports. This was chiefly the work of the morning's session.

The churches of the district generally reported good progress made during the year, both financially and spiritually, a number of churches reporting substantial progress.

Encouraging reports of the Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies, and of the many young people in the district were given by the Secretaries, W. Harry Watts and W. H. Rackham.

Rev. C. M. Mack was elected as the representative on the Stationing Committee.

The closing session of the afternoon completed the business of the convention, and elected the various members of the committees of conference.

FRIDAY, MAY 29, 1924

WHAT THE EDITOR THINKS

Do you ever get peeved?

Come now, make confession, for it is good for the soul.

The writer hereafter frankly admits he frequently flies into a petty rage—about nothing—and pays dearly afterwards for his dows. There is nothing that so dwells and belittles one in the estimation of others as this habit of getting easily peeved about trifling things, or nothing at all.

One who is one belittled and humiliated within the sanctuary of one's own soul, when that time comes that one regains self-possession and realizes what a fool one has been.

The sensible thing to do is quit. How easy it is to say "quit," and then go right ahead "quitting" of the "habit" and making a consummate fool of one's self.

As a matter of fact bad habits, whatever they may be, are not to be cured when the cause of provocation is present, but must be mastered when the mind is clear and in a reasoning frame.

Here is where the subjective mind can play a most important part in the role of "savior."

If one is conscious of some bad fault or habit and desirous of eliminating same (and to say many of us are not conscious of our faults, or, when conscious, anxious to get rid of them), then the subjective mind must be steadily and persistently suggested, so when the temptation comes the mind will be fortified against same, else will the same thing occur that formerly occurred from the same, or like provocation or excuse.

Repetition of corrective measures fix these strongly in the subjective mind and eventually overcome objective influences.

Talk to yourself.

Tell yourself, that you are ashamed of certain things you say or do, and that you intend to break yourself of doing or saying these things, and that the next time you feel tempted to do or say these things you are going to pause and consider and gain possession of your unworthy impulses.

Talk often to yourself, direct yourself along the line of sane and proper action, do it repeatedly, build up a bulwark of defense for the time of need.

And, should you again fall, be not discouraged, for victory is not easily attained, nor do those who attain it never fall, but they rise when they fall and press on towards their goal.

All worth while achievement in life is the result of struggle.

The chicken in the egg will die if it does not, at the proper time, struggle to break the bonds that hold it and breathe the free air.

Did you ever place an egg to your ear and hear the cry of anguish and the battle raging within of this imprisoned chick striving to pick its way out?

And think you that you can free yourself from petty habits and mannerisms by a mere wish to be free?

The soul that wins must FIGHT.

The higher the mark of attainment the fiercer the battle.

But, remember this, there is no WORTHY goal to which you may aspire that is not within your attainment—provided you are willing to fight your way to success.

That was the comment heard on all sides at the conclusion of "God Save the King" in the Bijou Dream Theatre Wednesday evening, when the following programme was rendered by The Friendship Chess, under the direction of Mrs. George Peters. Miss Isabelle Williams and William Jack, and Miss Edith Titus, Pianist.

It was a surprise to some who strolled in about eight o'clock to find that the house was already full. Late comers were forced to stand, as the hall was taxed to its utmost capacity.

It would be unfair to single out any one for special mention. The young actors played their parts well. The laughter and applause heard from all quarters showed that the audience was well pleased with the performance. And the demand for encores showed the appreciation of the musical numbers.

On reflection, one realizes that amateurs could not present such an evening's entertainment without much study and practice. One also realizes that there must have been good management behind the scenes. The young people as a body are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts.

OUR LETTER BOX

Editor Courier.

Sir—The following will be of interest to Courier readers.

Mrs. Boyd F. Bowles, retiring President of the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Club of Boston.

It is with deep regret that the members see the close of her term. She has spent two years of the most efficient work. The Club has ever known her charming manner and ever ready aid made for her a host of (lab) friends. A luncheon was given in her honor at Hotel Somerset, Boston, some two hundred attending. A very fine program was given consisting of readings, songs and speakers including Loring Briggs of the Boston Floating Hospital. Mrs. Bowles at this time carrying off the honors as being the most brilliant speaker of the occasion.

The beautiful dining hall was a bower of flowers, pink and white being the color scheme. The President received several bouquets.

Mrs. Bowles gave a luncheon at her home for her Board members who presented her with a Bridge Lamp. Her officers are very sorry to lose her as a leader, even if she did keep them moving every moment, for the Club is a charitable organization as well as a social one and the records gave a wonderful history along those lines.

The Annual Meeting with a full attendance brought Mrs. Bowles term to a close with a presentation of a specially designed Club Pin, it being a custom of the Club to present each of its retiring Presidents with this gift and there was many a tear as Mrs. Bowles stepped out of Office with her arms filled with bouquets, also presented to her at this time.

Mrs. Bowles will be remembered as Miss Elsie Best, at one time a teacher in the Academy at Digby.

IN MEMORIAM

IN LOVING MEMORY OF ROLAND HAINES, who died May 14, 1920, aged 49 years. My husband's grave is not forgotten. My heart's anguish near. And memory lingers the quiet spot. And drop a few tears. Oh, the dim and moonless night. My spirit, Roland, is with thee. We meet in memories soft and light. Where only hopes and joys entwine. I see thee now as at the door. That lonely night when we two parted. One fond goodbye, O cruel fate. My tears unbidden, hearted.

My sorrowing mother, M. L. Haines, and sister, Mrs. Edward McKay.

Barton mourns the loss of one of its oldest, most respected and best-loved residents. After a protracted and painful illness, Mrs. Perry laid aside the worn-out body and carried into the great Beyond the real self, the fine high character and energy, the selflessness and spiritual vigor that were characteristic of her before the onset of her illness.

Her mind and action, it was a joy of the bravest kind to be obliged to see herself be served where she would have been served, to resign her activities for this life forever, and fill unoccupied days. It makes those of us who are confident of a life beyond the grave very happy to find that with the escape from the suffering, hampering, fleshly garment, the dancing of the white robes of the spirit, Mrs. Perry is no longer inactive or subdued. I can vision her, eager and busy, putting all her energies into what she does. For, as I believe, we find in the future life, the fullest of our activities among the singing choirs but doing deeds of helpfulness and benevolence.

Frederick Marr, who died on May 14th, was a resident of Digby for many years. Let us be glad for her in the sure and certain hope that her aspiring soul, of vigorous mind and action, is a joy of the bravest kind to be obliged to see herself be served where she would have been served, to resign her activities for this life forever, and fill unoccupied days. It makes those of us who are confident of a life beyond the grave very happy to find that with the escape from the suffering, hampering, fleshly garment, the dancing of the white robes of the spirit, Mrs. Perry is no longer inactive or subdued. I can vision her, eager and busy, putting all her energies into what she does. For, as I believe, we find in the future life, the fullest of our activities among the singing choirs but doing deeds of helpfulness and benevolence.

BEAUTIFYING A RAILROAD SYSTEM

Strangers, travelling upon the railways in Canada find pleasure in passing through a country that is new and fresh and possessing a wild, primitive grandeur practically unspoiled. But in no small degree this pleasure is heightened and contributed to by a wonderful transformation wrought artificially by the lavish use of trees and flowers which have been planted and cultivated under the supervision of expert horticulturists employed for the purpose by the railway company.

The most striking example of what can be effected by this means is to be seen along the Canadian Pacific tracks through the Prairie Provinces, according to an article on the subject in the April "Landscape Architecture" by E. L. Chisnaut.

"Along the more than three thousand miles of main line," writes Mr. Chisnaut, "there were naturally a good many men, station agents, section foremen and others who were garden lovers and who, with the limited means at their command and to the best of their ability, cultivated little pieces of ground about the scenes of their activities. The planting of a little garden at a station, especially in certain bleak, treeless areas, was a conspicuous feature and added some little beauty to the surroundings. This gave to a higher official of the company, about thirty-five years ago, the idea of expanding the work of beautifying the grounds by assisting and encouraging agents and others in work of this kind. This took concrete form in the distribution to station agents of a booklet, 'The Beautification of the Railways,' which set forth the system of free packets of flower seeds. Inevitably, of course, some men did not bother about them but sufficient did to produce a very marked effect and make noticeably attractive those stations where the seed had been properly used and cared for."

"The impression was so striking that the Operating Department of the company proceeded to have small gardens laid out and planted at some of the principal stations and division points along the system. The result of this again was so impressive that a special study was made of the whole question, and subsequently it was decided to engage in the work thoroughly and systematically and to add an expert horticulturalist to the staff."

"The work since that time (1908) has grown tremendously, each year seeing a number of new gardens laid out about the company's stations until today the Canadian Pacific Railway has the largest number of gardens of any railway company in the world."

"Now along the steel system from coast to coast lies a series of fair gardens and shrubbery, and often the cool and refreshing shrubbery about the station constitutes the one cheerful feature of entry into a town otherwise drab and unattractive."

Start the Week With a Smile

Hero of mellerdrummer.—"Cur Where are those papers?" "They are at the blacksmith's!" "Hero. "Ha! You are having them forged!" "Silent—" "No, I am having them filed."

Mrs. Lafferty: "Ten stitches did the doctor have to take in me and now I never wanted to see you again?" "Prisoner: Yes, sir, and I told the Policeman so, but he would not believe me."

A quick doctor was boosting his medicines to a rural audience. "Yes, gentlemen," he said, "I have sold these pills for over twenty years and have never had any word of complaint. Now, what does that prove?" Voice from the crowd—"That dead men tell no tales."

"Do you like going to school, sonny?" the stranger inquired of seven-year-old Johnny. "Oh, yes, sir," was the reply. "I like going well enough, and I like coming back, too. What I hate is staying cooped up there between times."

A negro mammy had a family of boys so well behaved that one day her mistress asked: "Sally, how did you raise your boys so well?" "Ah! I tell you, missus," answered Sally. "Ah raise dem boys with a barnd stave, an' ah raise 'em frequent."

The genial but overdue boarder came downstairs. "Good evening, Mrs. Monahan," he called out cheerily. "Did you ever see anything so unsettled as the weather we are having these days?" "Well, there's your board bill," the landlady informed him pointedly.

A young matron in which the shopping instinct—as strong as a German grocer the price of lard. "Twenty-five cents a pound," he replied. "But," she said, "the price at the next corner is only 20 cents." "Well," asked Otto, "why don't you buy it down there?" "They haven't any," she explained. "Oh, I see," replied the grocer. "Then I don't have any I sell it for 10 cents."

The stigmatized man was scoring the hired man for his extravagance in wanting to carry a lantern in going to call on his best girl. "The idea!" he scoffed, "when I was courtin', I never carried a lantern; I went in the dark." The hired man proceeded to fill the lantern.

"Yes," he said sadly, "and look what you got!" "The country pastor made it a point to welcome any stranger cordially. One evening, a Swedish girl, employed as a domestic in one of the fashionable homes, was present. The minister welcomed her to the church and expressed the hope that she would be a regular attendant. Finally he said that if she would be at home some evening during the week he would call.

"Thank you," she murmured bashfully, "but I have a fever."

A new aid to good preaching has been discovered. During the past summer a suburban church asked a church bureau to send a supply for a certain Sunday. The following Monday the clerk of session called to tell how much the congregation enjoyed the preacher of the day.

"That was a fine man you sent," said he. "The people all sat up and took notice. His gestures were great; he swung his arms and certainly sent it home. Can you get him again for next Sunday?"

The minister was called on the phone and told that the congregation were so well pleased with him that they would like to have him return the following Sunday.

"Well, I'd like to," said he, "but I think I'll have to refuse. I liked the people and enjoyed the service, but there was one thing that did not appeal to me. There were too many mosquitoes!"

PAINS ACROSS THE BACK

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mitchell, Ontario.—"I have taken your medicine for a number of years. It is the only thing that has ever helped me in the house. I always keep it in the house. I took it first for pains in the back and head-ache, and now I take it for all my troubles."

"I have my home to look after and many a day I could not get up at all. I saw the advertisement in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I bought a bottle. I am feeling so much better and I always recommend it to my friends. I am writing to answer letters from women asking about this medicine and you may use this letter as a testimonial. Mrs. F. J. WASSMANN, Mitchell, Ontario."

The merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a fact well known to each other. Many women know by experience what this medicine will do and they are anxious for others to know. This testimony should cause any woman suffering from the troubles so common to being to give this well-known medicine a fair trial.

Do you know that in a recent canvass about one million of the Vegetable Compound over 220,000 replies were received. To the question, "Have you received letters from other women?" 98 per cent. replied "Yes."

This means that 98 out of every 100 women could get better health, because they have given this medicine a fair trial.

A River That Loses Itself

Poets and others have taught us to accept rivers as more or less prosaic features in Nature's general scheme of things. Tennyson, for instance, has held up the brook as a model of virtue and longevity. It is both refreshing and interesting to discover, therefore, that there are streams which do not conform to this estimable standard, but which, very much like human beings, do things that are not supposed to do, according to the accepted theories of nonconformity.

There is a river in Canada which loses itself completely and thereby has earned a rather outstanding reputation. This is the Maligne River which rises in Maligne Lake, in Jasper National Park, Alberta, and, after playing its pranks, tumbles as if it were applauding itself for its cleverness—with a great rush and roar into the steady waters of the Athabasca.

After it leaves Maligne Lake it flows for a goodly number of miles with nothing in its appearance to indicate that soon, so to speak, it is going to go some wild oats. It is when it reaches the Maligne Canyon, situated about five miles from Jasper Park Lodge, that it begins its pranks. Here it dips suddenly and, without warning, now gives into a narrow gorge it has cut for itself out of solid rock. Within a distance of fifty yards, this chasm reaches a depth of several hundred feet and it is hard to see the water which has lessened in volume. This diminution continues until only a trickle is left. Yet, before the Athabasca is reached, the river is again a roaring torrent. Only one explanation seems possible, that somewhere the river loses itself in an underground passage. The canyon is one of the many interesting spots for those who visit this magnificent playground in the Canadian Rockies every year.

This is but one of the many scenic spectacles that the tourist meets in this land of never-to-be-forgotten beauty and many are now planning to take advantage of the very low touring fares to this territory, which go into effect on the Canadian National Railways on May 14th.

Illustrated literature may be had on application to the General Passenger Department of the Canadian National Railways at Moncton, N. B.

"Nerves in Bad State Could Not Sleep"

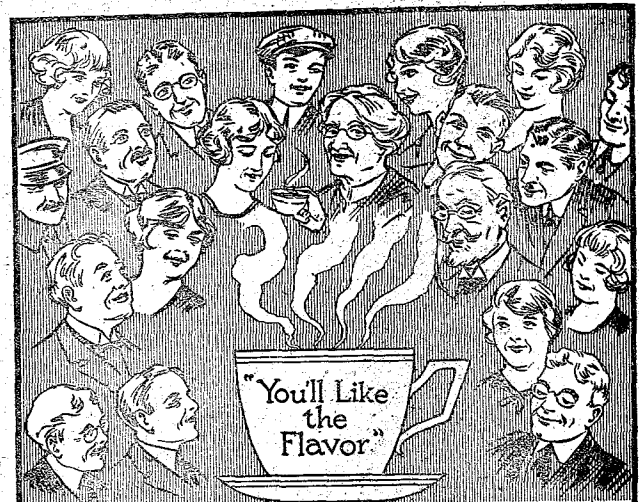

Mrs. H. N. Tardell, Harrowsmith, Ont., writes:

"My nerves were in a very bad state, and for nearly six months I did not know what it was to have a good night's rest. I could not eat, and never felt well. I heard about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and thought I would try it. After taking it for a few days I began to feel better, and soon was able to sleep well at night. My appetite also improved, and I felt stronger, and better, and after taking three boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was quite well. I have also given the Nerve Food to my little girl, with good results."
