Welcome to the Digital DIGBY COURIER

1877-1978

100th Birthday

The hundredth anniversary of the Digby Weekly Courier has brought to mind some fond memories as contained in the following historical chapter of the writer. But first, I wish to congratulate the current editor of the Courier, Mrs. J.M. (Edith) Wallis, for a job well done over the years and still being well done, good service rendered with great fortitude.

According to any record, I have at hand, the Digby Courier, in one hundred years of publication, was controlled under the same family management for 42 years, 1931 to 1973, under the control of Wallis Print Limited. The late J.J. Wallis became editor of The Courier the second time, in 1929, and at the same time of the business, which he had been running for some time previously and which became Wallis Print Limited sometime between 1929 and 1931.

I well remember the last year of the twenties when I worked in the office of the son with the husband and father of the late J.J. Wallis, the Courier. Sometime in 1928 or early 1929, the late J.M. Wallis (Mac), son of "J.J." engaged me to work every day after school hours, Saturdays, and for some months after full time. The place of work was in the building of the present Digby town hall on First Avenue. J.J. Wallis then worked occasionally at the print shop but mostly across the street at the Courier office which was then located on land in the general area where The Royal Bank of Canada is now.

Wallis Job Print operated in 1929 with a staff of four consisting of J.J. Wallis, J.M. Wallis, Miss Eva Haynes, who later became Mrs. George Kicup, and myself. I was in the staff in early 1929.

Eva's job was in the left up-stairs. "J.J." occasionally printing plant but mostly at the Courier office. "Mac" worked nearly full time at all the different jobs at the Job Print, and I worked at various duties, most of the time being spent at operating printing presses.

We worked ten-hour days, six days a week. "J.J." and "Mac" sometimes worked overtime. I worked only the regular hours being paid a weekly wage which was comparatively good for those times and my lack of experience. I received four or five dollars a week for working after school hours to six o'clock and on Saturday all day, and nine dollars a week for full weeks after finishing school. A two or three dollar a week raise was offered to me in the fall of 1929 for me to stay on at printing, but I had made up my mind to enter a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, starting salary of $300. The bank salary figured out about the same per hour as for the printing job. Nevertheless, the congenial atmosphere of the printing plant those days, and, experience however short, were helpful and appreciated by me.

"J.J." was very jovial in his occasional trip to the Job Print and did considerable kidding all in good fun. "Mac" was a witty person who mixed in a good natured sarcasm now and then for one reason or another. Eva most always had good answers to all the kidding she was called upon to take, and, generally held her own in a quiet sort of way, always busy setting type. We four all got along very well indeed. However, I do remember that some days did seem long and weary because of the monotony of some repetitious jobs.

In spite of the great demand for printing those last boom days of the twenties, business generally being brisk, it looked to me that people had to work long and hard to make any decent profit. There was including treatment of the hands. However, nails and finger ends were used and I was soon back to work.

Now and then a printing job had a dose on parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad those days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would do that job on the largest press, in spite of the fact that we always opened an outside door to lessen the effects on the constitution.

One of the jobs I had to do, being the junior and printers' devil on the staff, was to clean out and then, one day not long after I started my job at the printing plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily, he thought the remark pretty good and suitable.

Sometimes the gasoline engine or a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and after "Mac" the fix-it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results, "Mac" would then stand back and cuss quite strenuously, then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of cussing."

On other occasions when some gadget refused duty for me and, seemed to be broken, "Mac" would say, "use a little oil," and sure enough, often that is all it took. How often since, have I thought of the value of that remark and the actual need of "oil" in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and, in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1929 got together just before dark one evening and decided to initiate the newly built outdoor Pines Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just east of the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys; no thought or time for bathing suits up to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in, the rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korean), was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent druggist for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale lobster king merchant; and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me "how about writing your version of the story told about 'The Marooning of Jerome'." I had heard and read at least two somewhat different stories about the man who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Digby County. When found this man's tongue had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and possibly of some considerable wealth. However the only thing the man could or would ever say after being found and cared for by some family in the French shore was, something that sounded like the word "Jerome". He either could not, or, would not, write anything about who he was or why he was left the way he was. Well, it was, and is, one of Digby County's mystery stories, and, different ideas have been expressed over the years concerning this man. However my response to "Mac" was, I felt no urge to write anything more or different about this man. The mystery seemed to have been very well explored in the mind of many people, and, he was a sort of curiosity for many people who visited where he lived for many years.

Three years later, I was quite a young man, and I was back in the street that I had lived in, and I was clanking my powered up car, and I was thinking of "Jerome", and as I remember it, I was thinking of "Jerome". "J.J." was noted for his sense of humor and his sense of humor.

Digby 172 Years Ago

Compiled by David Sanford

From the files of the Courier of January 23, 1867, the following account has been copied concerning Digby in 1800.

"Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us by friends is a copy of the Saint John Gazette of May, 1802, says the Telegraph and among other advertisements contained in the issue before us is one describing the town and township of Digby, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this area we are told the township of Digby extends from the Gulf of Annapolis westward to the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 130,000 acres." The town plot is thus described:

"The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1783, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to older countries, left the whole side to be bought proved by about who now reside detached, built dwellings with orchards, and some fishery and. It has communal parts of the communal provisions in a cheap, built readily to be from many circumstances, probability of place of some shipbuilding, the West India a cheap and of residence.

This advertisement, dated at Digby, December, 1800, were to be a No. 100.

free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of which was some Digby's daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Melvin O. Tibert, Freeport, Digby Co.) Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters; I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print". I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like: embossing, stapling, perforating, counting, cutting and trimming paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, but, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "pi", the printers name for a confused mess.

There was a taste of trying to sell job printing outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls around town, spent most of the time at one particular house, and got an order, but, it was much time and got an order, but,

Years and experiments with. The last time I saw him of personal interest, was after one day when he sent and talked with him was, after one day when he had sent he wanted me to visit him at his home. He had recently returned from the Novatoch after a week's absence. I made the visit and brought back some interesting information.

New England Cars Prefer Brunettes

There are still quite a number of American cars on the streets but their numbers are growing less every day. We have got as accustomed to the number plates of the cars from New England states as we are with our own. In color they have been mostly blondes—and "gentlemen prefer blondes" it is said. Next year five of the states have decided on brunettes for the background of their plates with only one of the six favoring a lighter color. Maine and Massachusetts plates will be white numerals on a red background, Connecticut has selected white on blue. New Hampshire plates will appear as white figures on dark green, and Rhode Island cars will carry plates with white numerals on a background of black. Vermont, the only state of the six to abandon the brunettes for the blonde, has decided to use a color scheme of maroon figures on old gold. The traditional favoritism shown to the blonde appears to be lacking among New Englanders.

Weymouth Business Section Swept By Destructive Fire

A quarter of a million dollars in property loss, twenty-five stores, factories, dwellings and smaller buildings completely destroyed, but without loss of human life or serious bodily injury to any of hundreds of fire fighters is the result of a spectacular fire which swept the main business section of Weymouth Bridge. The fire, the worst there for fifty years, threatened for a time to destroy every building in the central part of the town.

The unceasing and heroic efforts of Weymouth, Digby and Yarmouth firemen and citizens of the community fighting the flames, exploding gas tanks and burning oil casks, with a disregard of their own personal safety, that was nothing less than magnificent saved the community from being totally destroyed by the blaze. Leading the fire fighters in their uphill battle were Captain R. D. Barkhouse, fire chief, Captain Arthur Moore and Lloyd Potter, manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank. The loss is a tremendous one to Weymouth a town some 1200 population, not only because the flames destroyed nearly every business establishment on the south side of the Weymouth Bridge but because to cover the estimated damage of $250,000 there was actually less than $20,000 insurance.

Among the twenty five buildings which were burned to the ground were the Community Theatre, the Melanson Hotel, the I. O. O. F. Hall and the large stores of Capt. R. D. Barkhouse, George Hankinson and H. M. Journeay.

The following were among the property owners who suffered in the disaster:—

Captain R. D. Barkhouse, general store, $15,000.

H. M. Journeay, dry goods, $40,000. George Hankinson, general store, and offices $50,000.

Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Company, $3,000.

A. H. Comeau and Company, Tailors $5,000.

J. Comeau building, barber shop, store and residence, $6,000.

Cornelius Melanson building with apartment occupied by Dr. H. J. Melanson, $5,000.

Israel Melanson, building occupied by Cyril Comeau, barber shop, pool room and apartment W. C. Comeau, $5,000.

Community Theatre, owned by Dr. H. J. Pottier, office by Dr. J. W. Cormier, millinery shop operated by Miss V. Cormier, $18,000.

Ernest Brooks, blacksmith shop $4,000.

H. I. Hollowell pool and billiards parlor, $3,000.

H. L. Hollowell residence, $3,000.

H. L. Hollowell, apartment building occupied by Mrs. Capt. Moore and Miss Maynard Watkins, $5,000.

Fred Melanson, building where fire was checked, $3,000.

Hallett & Britton, $3,000. I. O. O. F. and St. Thomas Lodge $1,000.

Brown's Jewellery Store, $5,000.

Harris garage $3,000. Siffrin Theriault, blacksmith shop, and residence $5,000. Dr. Cormier, $4,000.

Also considerable loss to occupants of other buildings and stores.

The cause of the fire which originated in the large general store of Capt. R. D. Barkhouse at 530 C. clock in the morning is not known.

Before it had been discovered by men going to work in the lumber yards directly opposite, it was all ablaze. The alarm was immediately sounded but though the local firemen were soon at their posts of duty the flames and smoke soon worked their way through into the adjoining building owned and occupied by H. M. Journeay, dry goods merchants. The blaze spread by a light breeze which developed the general store of George Hankinson, where a large amount of new merchandise was stored. From there it spread to the Maritime Telephone and Telegraph office. With all telephone lines out of service town and fire officials were hampered in their ways of communication with the outlying sections for help but cars were despatched to Digby, 20 miles distant and from there aid was sought from the surrounding district and Yarmouth, 50 miles distance.

The fire, while spectacular from the outset gave no warning of the conflagration that was to follow. The fire fighting forces of the town were fighting it on the east side when suddenly fanned by a brisk breeze shifted to the opposite side of the street. Many of the structures in the section were of great age and the heavy embers flying through the air quickly ignited the roofs. Sparks were carried for several hundred yards, and within a short time the whole south side was a roaring mass.

The fire engines of the Weymouth department was brought into play but with the whole town a mass of fire, it was of little use. To make matters worse the apparatus went on strike at the critical moment.

For a while it looked as if the entire town was doomed. Captain Barkhouse and his fire fighters, however, refused to accept defeat and with Ephraim Gates, local fire ranger, in charge, a small pumper used for forest fighting purposes, was brought into use. The tide was low, but a hole chopped through the sidewalk on the bridge enabled the firemen to get the suction hose down and the small one hundred pound engine did wonderful work.

The street, however, was soon a raging mass of flames and smoke. A few streams of water were as of much use as of a bucket of water on a magazine of T.N.T. The opportunity was at hand for the firemen to show their real mettle and show it, they did. Through flames that tore at a mad pace across the street and at risk of their lives, Captains Moore, Barkhouse, and others conveyed a load of dynamite to stop the progress of the flames.

Recovering in splendid style from a business depression that has existed for a quarter of a century the blow is a terrific one to the enterprising community of Weymouth. But leading citizens declared that evening that far from being dismayed by the terrific loss they have suffered that they will carry on and predict that out of the ruins will arise buildings that will make a bigger and better town.

Rum and Money

(This is the third of a series of editorials by a well known citizen, who is much interested in the Courier and the temperance question and who is himself, almost if not quite, a total abstainer. The fourth will appear in an early issue.)

The good book tells us that money is the root of all evil, and this is particularly true in regard to the liquor traffic. It is a part of human nature to crave costly things. The more expensive an article is, and the harder to procure, the greater is the desire for it. If silk were cheaper than cotton few people would care to wear silk garments.

In the case of some luxuries, however, the price to the consumer bears some reasonable relation to the original cost. But in the case of intoxicating liquor the difference between the original cost and the retail price is out of all reason. Liquor, in reality is cheap stuff. There is nothing to it but water with a percentage of alcohol and a little flavoring and coloring. It is said that good rum can be purchased in the West Indies as low as twenty-five cents per gallon. Allowing for the dilution which always takes place before it reaches the consumer, the present retail price is at least fifty times the original cost.

As things are now, the man who uses liquor is unmercifully fleeced. By whom? By the brewers and distillers, by the Dominion and local governments, through the customs and excise acts, the N. S. T. A., and by the bootleggers and smugglers.

The Dominion government starts the ball rolling by imposing a tax of ten dollars per gallon, on an article that costs in the first place perhaps twenty-five cents per gallon. Taking advantage of the enormous duties, the brewers and distillers start liquor manufacturing, make huge profits and amass great fortunes out of which they pay large sums to the election funds of the various political parties. The local government buys liquor on which the taxes have been paid, or pays them itself, adds a stiff profit and sells it, through the vendors, to "sick people" on doctors' certificates, for around five or six dollars per quart. Attracted by the prospect of abundance of easy money the smugglers and bootleggers appear on the scene and coolly rob the governments of a large part of the revenue which they would otherwise receive from the liquor business.

Thus the whole liquor traffic, from top to bottom, is a sordid game of grab, and the consumer pays for it through the nose, or more correctly speaking, through the mouth. It is the smugglers and bootleggers who push the business and make the most money out of it; and the laws at present in force enable them to do it. If it were sold legally, as it could be, for one dollar per quart, under proper restrictions, there would in all probability be far less of it used and every smuggler and bootlegger in the province would be automatically put out of business.

Gasoline Reduced
Two Cents

Gasoline prices throughout Nova Scotia were reduced last Wednesday to the extent of two cents per gallon, according to official notification received during that day by the Department of Highways from the Imperial Oil Company.

The new prices went into effect immediately, and apply also to the province of New Brunswick.

No change in price was reported, however, from either Quebec or Ontario. In Montreal Wednesday gasoline was selling from 26 to 32 cents per gallon. Near Windsor, Ont., it was slightly cheaper, while in Northern Ontario it was more expensive. The Provincial tax in

An Observant Citizen Writes of What He Sees and Hears

Well, the first attempt of the Temperance Reform Association to hold a meeting in Digby proved to be a big frost. A Halifax man came to hold a meeting in the Veterans' Hall last Friday evening. One or two local men attempted to get a crowd to attend and they got—three (although I heard one man say five). And that's that!

I have been looking over the names of the Halifax men who so glibly signed the manifesto and I do not believe one of them would be sincere if put to the pinch. Suppose any one of them went for a drive in the country and when he started to return found his chauffeur had been drinking. Would he trust his life in the car with him or would he fire him and engage another. Again if he decided to go home by train instead and found the driver and fireman, or either one of them, drunk, would he travel on that train? No, sir! He might like to take a drink himself but he would want prohibition for the men in charge of the train on which he was travelling; or of his auto. Take Mr. Wainwright, president of the association, himself. I do not know what street he lives on in Halifax, but if his cherished government control is carried, and the government decided to open a shop next door to his residence you would be able to hear the howl from Cape Sable to Cape North. None of the men who signed that manifesto would stand to have a shop opened next door to their residence or even on the same street—but they would be perfectly willing for some one else to be annoyed in that manner. Selfishness is at the bottom. They want a chance to have a drink themselves or to entertain their company but they would fire the man who works for them who came on his job drunk; they are willing for some inoffensive working man whose income will not allow him to live on one of the so-called better streets, to be annoyed by having a liquor shop opened next to him—but would hold their hands up in horror if one was put next door to them. Of course all these men have money and if government control should be carried there would have to be a few breweries started, thus giving their money a chance to make more money and they would sit back and hug themselves and laugh at the poor fools they had deluded into voting for them to add some more dollars to those they already had—and you will find if you look into it, that money is at the bottom of the whole movement. There may be hypocrites in Nova Scotia, made by the Nova Scotia Temperance Act, but they are only amateurs in hypocrisy compared with the leaders of the so-called temperance reform.

The condition of the oil markets in the United States has been rather unsettled of late, and this had its effect on the local markets. The United States is the primary market for crude oil and any unsettlement in conditions there would possibly make itself felt in the oil markets of the world.

As a result of the conference held at Digby last week at which deputy minister William E. F. If prohibition is to succeed, she adds, the nation must change its social habits.

The habit of drinking unfermented grape juice, apple juice and other palatable and wholesome juice is unquestionable a good one. The social technique of serving them is much like that used in serving intoxicating beverages. The practice comes easier, too, since the advent of diet fads and fruit juice cures.

It is strange, everything considered, that such drinks are not more popular than the stuff purveyed by bootleggers. They would be, if more of the drinkers were seeking honest enjoyment and well-being rather than reckless adventure.

BRING THE LIQUOR PROBLEM INTO THE BROAD DAYLIGHT

FACE THE ACTUAL FACTS

LET us as public spirited citizens of Nova Scotia face the facts of the liquor situation squarely. Let us consider the question with open minds. After investigating the facts and having reached our conclusions, let us decide to vote in the manner we honestly consider will be in the best interests of our fellow citizens and of Nova Scotia. A Plebiscite is to be held October 31st. The question is not one of prohibition. It is to indicate which form of temperance legislation the majority of our citizens think will prove most beneficial to the Province as a whole.

The Nova Scotia Temperance Act, after 13 years of trial, has been found wanting. The Act has been proven to be unworkable, in spite of the efforts of Federal and Provincial administrations to give proper law enforcement. Liquor is freely obtained through unlawful sources. The distribution of liquor has fallen into the hands of notorious bootleggers, thugs and the undesirable dregs of the underworld. Bootleggers are enriching themselves, and robbing the public treasury of revenue that should go to build good roads, assist public services, and to reduce taxation.

The situation is so serious that a change in present conditions has been endorsed by many of our prominent citizens, who have been forced to the conclusion that the present N. S. T. A. is a failure.

After careful investigation and serious consideration, these citizens have affixed their signatures to a manifesto, stating that they believe a proper system of Liquor Control is the best system of promoting True Temperance.

So that the actual facts of existing conditions may be presented to the voters, groups of prominent men interested in true temperance, have associated themselves to present the actual facts about the liquor problem. You, as citizens, are asked to study these facts, and to vote for what you conscientiously believe to be the most workable plan of liquor control.

Failure of N. S. T. A.

- FIRST: The failure to decrease actual consumption of liquor, as proven by daily press reports, of fines, raids and seizures made in every part of the Province.
- SECOND: There has been an increase in consumption of highly spirituous liquors.
- THIRD: The control of the sale of liquor has been taken from properly regulated Government sources, and placed in the hands of unlawful operators whose product is of an inferior quality, if not actually poisonous and dangerous.
- FOURTH: Conditions under the N. S. T. A. promote rather than prohibit the illegal sale of liquor and other alcoholic beverages.
- FIFTH: Conditions under the existing N. S. T. A. breed a general disrespect for all laws, encouraging perjury and destroying the honor and honesty of thousands.
- SIXTH: It has increased the number of the bootlegging fraternity; who too often masquerade under the cloak of respectability, and use the connections of honest and sincere citizens to insure the continuance of existing conditions under which such bootleggers are prospering.

What Is Government Control?

- FIRST: It is the best method yet devised, as proven by experience, to promote true temperance. It is not prohibition, but regulation under lawful auspices.
- SECOND: It means Government supervision of liquor stores managed by responsible managers with discretionary powers to restrict the sale of liquors to habitual drinkers.
- THIRD: A Government Control System discourages the use of highly spirituous liquors.
- FOURTH: It is a system that encourages a respect for law that can be enforced without injury to the public conscience. There is no need for illicit purchase. It will thus eliminate the bootlegger.
- FIFTH: It will bring about conditions in the Province under which our citizens can be sober, sane, and free.
- SIXTH: The consumption of liquor will be regulated, thus protecting our young people from the dangers of drinking in questionable and dangerous secret places.

Our Best Citizens Have Endorsed A Proper System of Government Control

A manifesto has been prepared by a group of responsible and respectable citizens who have the best interests of Nova Scotia at heart. These men are leaders in the commercial, industrial and professional life of the Province, and many of them are total abstainers.

They realize that existing conditions must be remedied, and law, order and respectability brought back to our Province. They realize that regulation, and not prohibition, is the best solution of the liquor problem, and have endorsed a plan of Government Control.

A copy of this manifesto will be mailed on request to any citizen of Nova Scotia. After reading this, without compulsion, and upon conviction as to the benefits of Government Control, citizens are asked to sign, and mail to the nearest branch of the Temperance Reform Association.

The campaign is Province-wide. Branches of our Association are being formed in every constituency of Nova Scotia, at the request of prominent citizens who believe the best method of regulating the liquor traffic and promoting true temperance, is by a system of Government Control.

Displays New Broadcast Receiver

A new Radiola combination for AC electric operation, which combines distinctive features of cabinet design with low cost is being shown by Mr. Cossaboom.

The receiver, which is designated Radiola 33, is of the console type, and stands at a height convenient for tuning from either a sitting or standing position. Tuning is accomplished by a single knob; the translucent scale of the selector dial is illuminated when the set is in operation. A volume control regulates the power output of the receiver, and another switch turns the power on and off. Skillfully painted panels which reproduce the grain of African mahogany, retain the visual appeal of wood with the inherent strength of metallic construction, in this receiver.

The tuned radio-frequency circuit, comprising three stages of radio-frequency amplification, detector, and two stages of audio-frequency amplification, is employed in Radiola 33. It utilizes four A-C Radiotrons UX-226, one UY-227, and a UX-171-A power amplifier for supplying plate voltages.

The loudspeaker 100-B, which is of the improved magnetic type, matches Radiola 33 in design and fits into a border groove on top of the receiver.

"Recent advances in receiver design and manufacture have made it possible for the public to obtain the greatest value in radio at the lowest prices since the beginning of radio art and industry," said Mr. Cossaboom in showing the set. "Radiola 33 and loudspeaker 100-B I believe set the standard of radio values even higher. This combination makes available at low cost, and without sacrifice of either quality or appearance, a product which only the most scientifically improved methods of largescale manufacture could make possible."

"In appearance, the new combination presents an entirely new note in metal cabinet design. Although it is in keeping with the tendency for simplicity of design, it has been found to harmonize well with any type of home furnishings."

There were many visitors from the States this year who made the acquaintance of MORSE'S SELECTED ORANGE PEKOE TEA for the first time. And how they all must have liked it in fact some of them liked it so well they took a few pounds of it home with them on their return.

Yesterday's heavy rain was a good thing for Weymouth even if the rest of us did not think it was necessary. It put out the embers and obviated the necessity of keeping a watch on the ruins.

Alden Elliott, one of Tiverton's up to date business men, has recently added to his real estate holdings in that place, the dwelling house and store formerly belonging to E. C. Sollows.

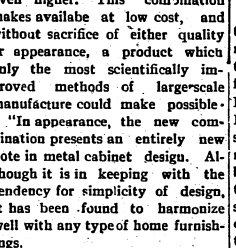

At a meeting of the firemen and fire committee of the town council held this week they decided to adopt a new set of signals for the fire alarm. In the future if the fire in south of Warwick street one blast will be blown; if in the section between Warwick and Sydney streets, two blasts, and if north of Sydney street three blasts.

The Basin has been rather a pretty sight during the summer with so many boats and yachts out to moorings—quite a number more than for years past. But now they have all been hauled up and put into winter quarters. Pleasure boating, which has been dropped to a great extent since the war, seems to be coming back a little.

Among the village notes we have received this week are some items from either Centreville or Ross—way—we cannot tell which, but they would apply to either case. There was no heading and no signature—and the envelope bore the Digby post office stamp. When will correspondents learn that they must sign everything they send in.

Some sixty young people from the Annapolis—Digby Presbytery met on Wednesday afternoon at the United Church at Annapolis for their annual convention. Rev. Frank Milligan led the meeting and Rev. Mr. Doyle, who has, this summer, been addressing such meetings all over Canada, spoke, both morning and evening, on the temperance question. Mr. Doyle strongly urged the young people to organize their groups to enlist their fighting forces on the side of the N.S.T.A. Having come directly from Ontario where he was able to obtain, first hand, his information on the success of Government Control, he still holds that prohibition, even poorly enforced as it is, is better than "Government Distribution" (as he terms it) could ever be at its best.

THE MARITIMES IN MINIATURE

One of the most striking displays at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto this year was the relief model of the Maritime Provinces staged by the Canadian National Railways. Realistic waves from the Atlantic broke on the shores, sending up showers of spray, while hidden lights cast over the display all the hues from dawn to sunset. Halifax, Saint John, Moncton and other places were built up on the exhibit, and tiny lighthouses were erected along the shores. The model was about forty feet long and twenty feet wide, while the sea effect was produced by painted canvas on rollers and sponge, cotton. Miniature trains plied their respective routes, and the whole captivated the vast throngs which daily visited the exhibit. At the top was the lettering "New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island—The Provinces by the Sea"—are famed as a paradise for the hunter and angler and recognized as possessing some of the most beautiful scenic territory in Canada."

Mr. Thurber Comes Back At Power Board

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir: I have just been reading in your issue of the 4th inst., the attempted explanation of the Chairman of the Power Board re. delay in supplying houses at Freeport with power. He says the blame for the delay was wrongly placed on the Board.

This may be so, but I would like to ask, why, in the first instance, when I applied to the Board for power (if the application was not of concern of the Board) I was not referred to whoever was the responsible party, instead of which I received not a single reply to any of my letters, except a verbal message that the power would be on within two weeks.

His statement that the cost of twenty-five poles and three quarters of a mile of wire, (which is the amount of material required for the job) would cost two thousand dollars is so obviously a misprint for two hundred that no comment is needed. Furthermore, where the President of the Power Board gets the idea that current is only required for a few months in the summer passes my comprehension as I have made no such statement either by letter or otherwise as to my knowledge these houses have been permanently occupied for the past forty years and I take it will be so occupied for many years to come and finally I may point out that one of these houses has been wired up and waiting for current since April of this year.

However I understand that the work has actually started, whether by the Power Board or by the Municipality does not concern us so long as we get the power required.

Successful School Fair At Smith's Cove

An annual event in Smith's Cove which, some five years ago, was staged as a horticultural demonstration has, this year, developed into a regular school fair with two schools competing—Lansdowne and Smiths Cove.

This event is financed and staged by the Smiths Cove Women's Institute and much credit is due that organization for its pains taking efforts to make the fair each year the best yet.

In the early spring, seeds were supplied by the Institute to girls and boys wishing to undertake home vegetable or flower gardens. These gardens were inspected regularly by Mr. Chas. Collins, the Agricultural Representative for Digby and Annapolis counties, and where necessary, garden instructions were given the girls and boys maintaining home gardens. This year the Standing Garden Prizes were awarded as follows.

Vegetable Garden—1st. Cecil Miller

2nd. Robert Kerr.

Flower Garden—1st. Sadie Kerr, 2nd Irene Smith.

The entries in all eight classes covered by the prize list were of an outstanding high quality, improvement being noticeably greater in the handwork, vegetables and flowers shown this year as compared with like exhibits shown other years.

The judging was in the hands of Mr. Chas. Collins, Mrs. Ford, Miss Jaggar, Mrs. Geo. Cossitt, Mrs. Bessler, Mrs. F. Smith and Mrs. T. O. Morgan who performed their respective duties to the general satisfaction of all—something almost unheard of at a school fair.

At the evening program an address dealing with school fairs was given by the Agricultural Representative, Mr. Chas. Collins. Between the exercises and interesting musical numbers provided by Miss Dunn and Mrs. Outhouse, teachers in the advance and Primary Departments of the Smith's Cove School, the prize essays and list of prize winners were read. The program concluded with the distribution of the prize money and the awarding of ten special prizes given jointly by the Women's Institute and Miss Florence Cossaboom for special school work done by the pupils in Miss Cossaboom's room last year while principal of the Smith's Cove school.

Splendid Progress With New Church

The blessing of the bell for the New Sacred Heart church, Doucetteville, Digby county, took place Sunday afternoon and was largely attended. Rev. Father M. Doucet, a former parish priest, officiating. A Missionary father of the Redemptorist gave the sermon. Among the clergy assisting were Rev. Father Luc Gaudet recently appointed, parish priest of St. Croix; the Reverend Father Ovee, Superior, Richard and Lequimaire, of St. Anne's College; Graham, P. P. of Annapolis; D. Comeau, P. P. of West Pubnico; E. Bourneuf, P. P. and Auguste Blinn, of St. Bernard. A supper was served in the church. More than $300 were taken. The parishioners were congratulated on the progress made on their church. The edifice is a handsome structure finished outside with asphalt shingles giving it a brick-like appearance. Although the church is not yet finished inside Mass will be said there in the future.

Vegetable and Hay Crops Below Average

Present indications are that the marketable potato crop of Nova Scotia will be only 63 per cent; the turnip crop, 60 per cent; and the hay and grain crops, 68 per cent of last year. Such was the statement made by Fred B. Kinsman, of Lakeville, Superintendent of Illustration Stations in Nova Scotia for the Federal Department of Agriculture. Mr. Kinsman has returned from a motor trip through the province, during which he visited every one of the eighteen county stations.

Supporters of N. S. T. A. Hold Large Meeting

The first public meeting held in Digby in connection with the forthcoming plebiscite was held in the Baptist Church Hall on Wednesday evening, and the speaker was Rev. John Coburn, of Toronto. Mr. Coburn proved an able speaker and was well armed with government statistics with which to clinch his arguments.

Despite the protest of the Temperance Reform people, he said this fight in Nova Scotia is being waged as in the other provinces, in the interest of the distillers and brewers. Every province, except possibly Prince Edward Island, have had similar organizations of professedly disinterested and high minded gentlemen with the same fervid denials about the liquor trade but the late customs investigation brought under oath admissions that representatives of brewers and distillers had been contributors to defeat prohibition and establish government control in these provinces.

The speaker produced a report published by the Department of Trade and Commerce in Ottawa a few weeks ago giving report of the liquor traffic and kindred matters for the past sixteen years. This report showed that the per capita consumption of liquor in Canada had a little more than doubled. The number of convictions for drunken motorists has increased by 900 per cent. There had also been a steady increase in crime and in deaths from alcoholism.

Let the people of the province of Nova Scotia understand that they are not fighting a few prominent and perhaps well intentioned gentlemen of the City of Halifax—but they are engaged in a tremendous battle with the huge liquor monopoly that is seeking to alcoholize Canada as quickly as possible. You have closed in battle with one of the biggest interests on the face of the globe, but you are winning as right always shall win, and when it is all over the people of Canada will know for once and for all that the citizens of this great province have halted the march of the liquor 'hosts and showing the way to the rest of the nation that leads to temperance in the truest sense of the word.

Nova Scotia autumnal foliage display is more brilliant than in any fall for a generation, and it will be a riot of color for the next few days. Information assembled from all over the province states that this year's autumnal show of golds and reds and greens has not been surpassed for a generation, and some experts term it the most gorgeous ever. It is a little earlier than usual in some sections and it will last a much shorter time than usual. The exceptional brilliance of this year's changing woods and the earlier appearance of the color show are due to the dry spell this summer, it is said.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty

The Nova Scotia Society for the Prevention of Cruelty are to make a drive for funds and they should be given every assistance. The work of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty is very extensive and its agents are almost constantly looking after some case which has been referred to it for investigation. Frequently, too, these cases are very deserving ones, and as a result of the investigation made by the Society, official action is taken whereby the existence of some poor dumb animal is greatly improved, while it also frequently happens that such animal is taken from his owner, and either destroyed or placed in charge of some responsible person who will provide it with better care.

The Society is entirely dependent upon public support for its existence. It has no revenue from any other source. Its officials must be qualified men, and considerable expense is involved in the proper and adequate discharge of their work. As the service the organization renders is one that must inevitably benefit the public, it is only fair that the latter should recognize their duty towards it. No right-thinking person will deny the claim of dumb animals upon

Arrive for Annual Fall Hunting Trip

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Morse, of Brooklyn, N. Y., arrived in Clementsport Tuesday. They are occupying their cottage at the Point, and will make their annual hunting trip with headquarters at their bungalow at 'Lake Annie M'rehouse'. Mr. Morse met A. S. MacMillan Tuesday on the site of the home and garage he expects to erect, and for which Mr. MacMillan has received the contract. The garage will be built this autumn, and the residence in the summer of 1930. Mr. MacMillan was calling on friends in Bear River on Tuesday.

humanity for kind treatment. Dogs and horses are faithful servants. All they ask is that their faithfulness be rewarded by kindness. Since the foundation of the S. P. C., there has been established in nearly every country a code of humane treatment towards animals. Among the manifold responsibilities modern society accepts this is not the least important. Every hand extended to help forward the society's work, is strengthening a noble ideal.

Do not forget the dance at the Ocean Gardens tonight.

During the last Institute year there have been eleven regular meetings and held two special meetings. We have a membership of 33 with an average attendance of 18. Interest has been kept in the schools. Two magazines, "Child Life" and "My Magazine" are donated to the school by the Institute. Christmas Cheer boxes were sent out to a number of homes. School prize money amounting to seventy three dollars was solicited in town and distributed at close of school year. The school children of Grades I-III visited the Institute on two occasions during the year, and gave a Health Programme and sang a number of Christmas Carols. This year our Home and School Committee have placed a copy of Major Drew's pamphlet, "The Truth about the War" in the hands of each high school pupil who is studying West's History. While this book is in the curriculum of several of the provinces, its use is being severely criticized, as it is written from a purely American viewpoint and over 175,000 copies of Major Drew's article have been placed by those interested in the various schools where West's History is used. A number of interesting papers have been given during the year. J. E. Stendman's paper, subject, "Education in our Schools"; Rev. Mr. Sawdon's paper on "Cathedrals in England"; W. G. Clarke's "Resources of Digby and Annapolis"; Major Simons paper on "Gardening". These were very interesting papers and much enjoyed by the Institute. During the year a Pantry Sale and Tea was held, proceeds $21.43 and a Rummage Sale with proceeds $45.39. Articles left from the Sale were sent to the Salvation Army Home in Halifax. A gift shoppe was carried on.

"White Empresses" to Call at Honolulu.

that flings its crest high in proud greeting or dignified farewell is now to be added to the westward route of the famous Canadian Pacific liners—the White Empresses that long ago gained for Canada the Blue Ribbon for speed on the Pacific.
Starting December 7th from Victoria and Vancouver the Empress of Canada, which has just returned to service after being equipped with the fastest and most powerful engines on the Pacific will inaugurate the new service and will call at Honolulu six days later.
Glimpses of some of the features of the "Island Paradise of the Pacific" are shown above, with (left) the giant prow of the 21,500 ton Empress of Canada. Behind the flower-decked maidens may be discerned the stately outlines of Diamond Head, famous in song and story. At the right is the Aloha Tower of the docks, that appeals a Hawaiian welcome to the traveler.
Passengers to the Orient by the new Canadian Pacific service will be given the opportunity of staying over for the next ship or of paying a visit during the twelve hours the Empresses remain in Honolulu. Visitors to the Islands who plan to leave Jack Frost behind have many options for their return voyage. Several lines have co-operated with the Canadian company, and after a long lazy winter on the sands of Waikiki Beach, travellers may return to Vancouver by the Canadian Australasian Royal Mail Line direct, or may come back by a Matson Line steamer to Portland, Seattle or San Francisco, or Los Angeles by the Los Angeles Steamship Company.

The annual convention of the liberal-conservative party in this country is to take place, according to their advertisement in another column, next Tuesday afternoon at Belliveau's Cove. Weymouth is the usual convention place for both political parties, but the destruction of the halls in that town made other arrangements necessary, and Belliveau's Cove has been decided upon by the conservatives as being the most central, therefore the most convenient.

Local Dealer Displays New Broadcast Receiver

This Model, $121.50
Table Model, $111.50

A new Radiola combination for AC electric operation which combines distinctive features of cabinet design with low cost is being shown by Mr. Cossaboon.

The receiver, which is designated Radiola 33 is of the console type, and stands at a height convenient for tuning from either a sitting or standing position. Tuning is accomplished by a single knob; the translucent scale of the selector dial is illuminated when the set is in operation. A volume control regulates the power output of the receiver, and a speaker which turns the power on and off. Skillfully painted panels which reproduce the grain of African mahogany, retain the visual appeal of wood with the inherent strength of metallic construction, is receiver.

The tuned radio-frequency circuit, comprising three stages of radio-frequency amplification, detector, and two stages of audio-frequency amplification, is employed in Radiola 33. It utilizes four A-C Radiotrons UX 226, one UY 227, and a UX-171-A power amplifier as well as a UX-289 rectifier for supplying plate voltages.

The loudspeaker 100-B, which is of the improved magnetic type, matches Radiola 33 in design and fits into a border groove on top of the receiver.

"Recent advances in receiver design and manufacture have made it possible for the public to obtain the greatest value in radio at the lowest prices since the beginning of radio and industry," said Mr. Cossaboon in showing the set. "Radiola 33 and loudspeaker 100-B believe set the standard of radio values even higher. This combination makes available at low cost, and without sacrifice of either quality or appearance, a product which only the most scientifically improved methods of large-scale manufacture could make possible."

"In appearance, the new combination presents an entirely new note in metal cabinet design. Although it is in keeping with the tendency for simplicity of design, it has been found to harmonize well with any type of home furnishings."

Quite a number of members of King Solomon Lodge, A. F. and A. Weymouth Will Be a Far Better Town

With the ashes of the great fire which laid waste half of Weymouth's business section still warm, the victims are proceeding with their program of reconstruction. A. F. Comeau, tailor, takes the lead and has cleared away the heart of the devastated area and is laying new foundations. In two months says Mr. Comeau, he will be doing business on the old site.

George O. Hankinson, is temporarily located in the Dunbar-Kemp building, formerly occupied by Blackadar's drug store. He is also erecting a shed on his wharf property and lumber is daily trucked to his lumber yard, as usual.

Dr. H. J. Pothier, proprietor of the Community theatre, will begin building operations shortly, although he does not anticipate completion this year. The burned theatre had been extensively remodelled and improved since its acquisition four years ago. Its loss, apart from entertainment is much felt commercially, especially on Saturday night. As Hankinson's hall also succumbed to flames, there is now no central accommodation for public meetings of any size.

R. D. Barkhouse, whose general store was the first to burn, is carrying on in the Beaton building in the shop adjoining his shoe store. Captain Barkhouse has put in a quantity of new stock.

Owing to the proximity of winter most of the other victims will wait till spring before rebuilding, but it seems apparent that a greater and better Weymouth will arise from the ashes in 1930.

Another proposed benefit is the widening and straightening of main street, where it divides the burned area. All business and professional men from that district are carrying on in temporary quarters.

Weddings

JOURNEY—JOURNEY

A pretty wedding was celebrated at Saint John, Monday, Oct. 7, in St. Paul's (Valley) Church, when Rev. W. H. Moorhead united in marriage, Ellen E. Journeay, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Journeay, and the late Li dley Journeay, and Geoffrey Dwight, eldest son of H. M. Journeay, of Weymouth, N. S. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, John E. Journeay. She was prettily attired in independent blue, with white shoes and stockings to match, and wore a red fox fur, the gift of the groom. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay with shower of sweetheart roses and lily of the valley.

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride's brother, Captain Pleasant Court. Those assisting in serving were Miss Blanche Journeay, Mrs. Grace T. Kewin and Mrs. Fred A. Moore. Among the many handsome gifts received were a silver flower basket from the bride's associates in the Y. P. C., and a substantial gift from the groom's associates in C. and E. Everette Ltd.

For going away the bride wore a burgundy coat with white trimmings, with hat, shoes and handbag to match. They left on the Halifax express for an extended trip through Nova Scotia. On their return they will reside at 258 Lower street, West Saint John.

OBITUARY

CAPT. CHARLES FINIGAN

Many friends throughout the Province, as well as in the United States, will learn with regret the death of Captain Charles Finigan, who died at his home in Freeport Sunday last. Although in poor health for a number of years, his death was sudden, being caused by cerebral hemorrhage. He is survived by his wife, four sons, Dr. L. M. of Shelburne, who came home last week and Ray, Victor and Avery, all of Freeport; also, by three sisters, and five brothers. Capt. Finigan was a deacon of the Freeport Baptist Church, for several years, and church treasurer until compelled by ill-health to resign. He was a member of Chippewa lodge, as well. He was a public spirited man; one who will be greatly missed in the community. He was sixty-six years of age.

MRS. F. J. WINCHESTER

On Friday last, the community of Smith's Cove was saddened to hear of the death of one of their oldest and most respected citizens, Mrs. Francis J. Winchester. Immense Catches of Fish

With their craft loaded to the gunwales, the motor boat fishermen of Long Island and Brier Island have been reaping the biggest harvest in years. Not for a long time have the catches in the small boats been so large, many of the fishermen bringing in from three to four thousand pounds, and one with a wonderful catch of 4000 pounds in one set. That is some fishing, getting the two fishermen $90 for one trip, with the price $200 per hundred pounds. The two collection boats, loaded to capacity, brought all they could carry to Digby and in spite of an extra trip of one of the collection boats to Digby there was enough left over to ship to Saint John via the S. S. "Keith" from the Islands. The Bay of Fundy and St. Mary's Bay are swarming with herring and great schools of haddock and cod are following them.

The weather during the past few days has been fine, with not much wind, thus giving the small boats a chance to make rich results.

Shetter was the daughter of the late Edward W. and Abigail Sully Potter, and widow of the late Capt. Alfred J. Winchester, who predeceased her by some forty-two years.

After her husband's death she was termed by her circle of friends, was a woman of sterling qualities and a shining example of true Christian life. Although she was seventy-six years old at the time of her death, she was always a white hair, been ready and willing to help those in need and to administer physically or spiritually to those who asked for aid.

Beside her many friends, she leaves to mourn her death, two sons, Mr. (Capt.) Robert Austin, at whose home she passed away, and Mrs. T. O. Morgan, also of Smith's Cove.

The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. E. Forbes, of the Grace United Church, on Sunday afternoon, with interment in the Sully Cemetery. The floral tributes were large and beautiful, showing to some extent, the esteem in which the deceased was held.

CARLOS G. COMEAU

The death occurred on Friday evening last, of Carlos Glenwood Comeau, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Comeau, Juggio Bridge. The deceased was sixteen years of age and had, ever since his birth been an invalid, demanding the constant care of his mother and family. His mother gave untiringly of her tenderest care and devotion through all the years of his illness.

The funeral, which was largely attended was held from his late home on Sunday afternoon. In the absence of their own pastor, Rev. C. W. Heiser, Rev. E. J. Barriss, of Bear River, officiated. The pall bearers were Harold Sully, William Roop, Wade Woodman and Robert Winchester. He leaves to mourn their loss, beside his mother and father, four sisters, Emma, of Worcester, Mass. and Mrs. Russell Woodman, Phyllis and Verne, at home, and two brothers Keith, of Worcester and Vance, at home.

Let us, then, as public-spirited citizens of Nova Scotia, face the facts of the liquor situation squarely and decide whether we prefer—

- 1.—To retain the Nova Scotia Temperance Act and insist that the Government put the same effort into its enforcement that it would find necessary in an endeavor to protect its own financial interest against bootleggers under Government sale.
- 2.—Adopt Government Sale of liquors and plunge this province into the same deplorable conditions that exist in the provinces of Canada where Government sale is in vogue. You cannot drink your province out of debt.

Business Good

The Maritime Provinces are all colored solid gold on the Babson sales and credit map of the Dominion for August. This color signifies that the sections so marked offer relatively the most favorable sales opportunities. The Maritimes are the only provinces to be all gold, though large sections of all others are so marked.

In referring particularly to Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, the report states that optimism prevails. Shipping activities are increasing; coal miners are busy; crops are in good shape, and labor is well absorbed—all of which, it is said, spells prosperity.

Manufacturers are also busy, having employed 8 per cent more workers during the last month of record than a year ago. Iron and steel plants are reported especially active. The fact that potato raising is being supplemented by dairying augurs well for the purchasing power of the Maritime farmers in coming years, it is said.

Construction is running far ahead of a year ago. Except in those districts which still specialize in the single crop of potatoes, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, it is stated, as a whole, offer excellent sales opportunities.

The N. S. T. A.

(This is the fourth of a series of editorials by a well-known citizen, who is much interested in the Courier and the Temperance question and who is himself, almost if not quite, a total abstainer. The fifth and last will appear in an early issue.)

As the time of the plebiscite approaches, and men and women are called upon to pass judgement upon the Nova Scotia Temperance Act it is not surprising that they are anxiously asking themselves the question, "How has it worked?" A tree is known by its fruit, and a law by its results. The present Act has been in force long enough to give it a fair trial. What conditions, then, has it brought about? While there is some dispute on this point in regard to facts and figures impartial observers seem to be fairly well agreed upon the following conclusions:

Drinking has not been suppressed. On the contrary it is apparently increasing, especially among young people of both sexes.

The traffic in intoxicating liquor has not been lessened. Legal importation and sale still go on, and in addition, a vast illegal trade has sprung up. Smuggling and bootlegging have become the rule, and the bootleggers are mostly young men and boys who are employed by older and larger operators, some of whom pretend to respectability.

The activity of the wet forces has increased. The extent of the liquor traffic is due to the immense profits made out of it. The present law increases those profits. Hence the increased numbers and activity of those engaged in the trade.

The activity of the dry forces has diminished. For many years those forces carried on a splendid educational work by means of total abstinence societies, lecturers, and home, school and church instruction of the young. Such a strong public sentiment was created by these means that the Prohibition Act became possible. But when this Act was passed, the dry forces thought that they had attained their object, and that the law would enforce itself or be enforced by officials. They therefore relaxed their efforts at the very time they ought to have redoubled them. The natural consequence has followed. Public sentiment in favor of prohibition has been weakening ever since. A law cannot be enforced unless public sentiment is behind it.

Respect for law and order has decreased. The Prohibition Act is only vindicated in every part of the Province. Even the attempt to enforce it has weakened. In this County there has hardly been a prosecution for illegal selling during the present year, although liquor is being illegally sold every day. Perjury in liquor cases has become the usual thing. Juries will not convict for smuggling liquor, even in the face of the strongest evidence.

If the N.S.T.A. is to be judged by present conditions, we must admit that it has not proved satisfactory. If people vote for it at the plebiscite, it will not be because they are satisfied with it, but because they are afraid of Government Control, and would rather bear the ills they have than fly to others that they know not of.

"Magic for Marigold"

A Rival for the Irresistible "Anne of Green Gables," by L. M. Montgomery

Marigold Leslie lives at Cloud of Spruce, the old Leslie homestead, on Prince Edward Island, and unless one knows Marigold it will be impossible to believe that the island gave shelter to another girl as dear and sweet and funny as was the well beloved Anne of Green Gables.

She is an only child, this Marigold, in a family of grown ups and has more than her share of relatives, the kind of relatives that hold family councils over every event in the family. Poor Marigold was almost destined to go through life as "it," or "her," so difficult was it for the widely differing clan to agree upon a name for the wee fatherless baby whose mother was judged as much too young and much too inexperienced in the matter of babies' names to have a voice in the selection. But thanks to Uncle Klon who knew nothing either about it Marigold finally got a perfectly satisfactory name and ultimately a perfectly satisfactory Aunt Marigold, but that belongs to Uncle K'lon and the part he plays in this latest of the L. M. Montgomery stories.

It is a story with grandmothers in it—a truly fascinating old grandmother who reveals herself and her youth most amazingly to Marigold, and a young grandmother who struggles desperately hard in this changing world to keep up the traditions that from time immemorial have governed grandmothers. Then there are aunts—some of the order where in its members are known as "aunties" and have queer and funny little pet names; and some, alas, of the clan whose names are never shortened and who are Aunt Sarah Jane to the end of the chapter. And there are uncles—all sorts of uncles and all de-

As Good as King Cole Tea

REPUTATION is a frail and fragile thing. It takes years to build, but it can be shattered and broken over night.

King Cole Tea has earned an enviable reputation. When we first marketed coffee we did not dare to name it King Cole, for if the coffee proved to be anything but the best, it would dim the precious reputation of King Cole Tea.

Now, however, after exhaustive tests under other names, we know we have a coffee as good as King Cole Tea. Ask for it by the name it has so proudly earned:

voted to the one small child of the family.

Marigold falls in and out of adventures; some rather pathetic, others laughably funny, and some tragic as life is tragic when we are very young. The joy of the story is that it is real and possible, and that the younger readers will like it every bit as much as will the mothers and grandmothers who have perhaps forgotten how serious life is when one is about 10 or 11, in between the times when one is sure that the world was made especially "interesting" for youth and youth alone.

PRINTER'S MISTAKES

The next time you hear a citizen yelping about typographical errors in his home paper, or any other paper, just hand him these figures to stop his tongue. In an ordinary column there are 10,000 separate letters; there are seven possible wrong positions for each letter; there are 70,000 chances to make an error, and millions of possible transpositions.

In this one short sentence: "to be or not to be", by transpositions alone, 2,759,022 errors can be made. Multiply this by seven and then by 200 and you have just about the number of mistakes it is possible to make in a single column of news matter. From fifteen to twenty columns is the ordinary setting for this paper. Let us say fifteen. There are thus 1,050,000 chances to make errors, and a matter of 3,862,630,800 possible transpositions in news columns alone. If this is overdrawn take a pencil and try a few experiments.

Newspaper people, from the devil up to the boss, are merely human and liable to err. Don't go nosing around for errors but read for the information you can get and the good you may absorb. You'll find errors enough in your daily walk of life without having to hunt for them in a newspaper.

Conservatives of Digby Meet In Annual Session

The annual convention of the conservatives party of Digby County was held at Bellevue's Cove, Tuesday afternoon, and almost every polling section was represented. Weymouth has for many years been the regular meeting place for both parties, but the destruction of the hall in that town by fire, made other arrangements necessary this year, and Bellevue's Cove was chosen because it was most central.

Reports of the officers for the past year were presented and passed.

No Province Has Ever Repealed Its Liquor Control Law

Seven Provinces of Canada Adopted Liquor Control after Experiencing Failure of Former Temperance Acts

Experience is the only teacher. The deluge of liquor and the rise of the bootlegger under the Nova Scotia Temperance Act is creating doubt and distrust in the minds of citizens as to its effectiveness as a temperance measure.

Seven provinces of Canada have replaced prohibition laws by Government Control laws, after experiencing failures of former temperance acts. Each province has made amendments to make their Control Act more effective. No province has ever repealed its Liquor Control Act.

The voice of the people in seven provinces of Canada spoke in favor of Liquor Control Laws to replace former Temperance Acts as follows: 1921, Quebec, British Columbia; 1924, Alberta, Manitoba; 1925, Saskatchewan; 1927, Ontario and New Brunswick.

Ontario Satisfied Under Liquor Control

"The consensus of opinion of the people of the province on the liquor control question, is that present conditions under the liquor control act are much preferable to those which hitherto existed and which still exist where prohibition measures are in force. Our policy should be temperance, the preaching of temperance, and the practice of temperance under a law of liberty and freedom that does not make citizens lose self-control. Other provinces of Canada have reached the same conclusion."

HON. CHARLES MCCREA, Minister of Mines,
Province of Ontario, Sept. 29, 1929

British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick are satisfied with their Liquor Control Laws, because their experience proves that the policy has been beneficial. Their Liquor Control Acts must be functioning more satisfactorily than previous liquor laws, because not one province has ever repealed its Liquor Control Act.

The Voice of the People says that Liquor Control legislation is the most satisfactory method of regulating the liquor traffic. Seven provinces are satisfied and prosperous under their liquor control acts. Their experience is worthy of careful study and serious consideration. Liquor Control for Nova Scotia is endorsed by our best citizens.

These Men Believe a Proper Liquor Control Act to be the Best Form of Temperance Legislation for Nova Scotia

I Love My Country And Am Jealous For Her Honor

Editor, The Halifax Herald:

Sir,—Many years' experience of the futility of merely human efforts to subdue the deadly traffic in intoxicants, leads me to cast my vote against Government Control.

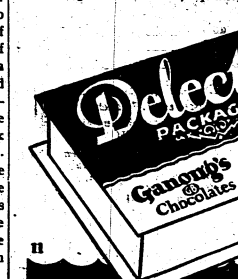

For the governments of our several provinces to go into the business of selling intoxicants in order to add to their revenue, has been demonstrated, notably in Quebec, British Columbia and Ontario, to be an appalling disgrace. They have made millions indeed, but at the price of their honor. Stainless honor is of more value than all the money in the world.

Honorable men, here and there have done their best to enforce the law; but the love of money has been too strong for the majority, and they have "SOLD THE PASS". The law-makers are themselves law-breakers, and instead of self-control we have self-indulgence spreading far and wide.

My heart goes out in a great longing for the deliverance of the unhappy slaves of the consuming passion for intoxicants. There is only one Savior from this, as from every other sinful passion, and He is able to save to the uttermost every sinner drawing near unto God through Him. My confidence is not in the Law, but in the Gospel. But, alas! rum-sellers and bootleggers have no use either for law or for the gospel. They are out for money at any price.

Christmas Tree Cutting Speeded By Heavy Rains

The annual harvest of Christmas trees in Nova Scotia for the large markets in the United States has been advanced a week or so by the recent rains, it has been stated by experts. Because of receipt of the much needed moisture, cutting will be commenced shortly. The small spruce and fir trees which are cut for the market suffered almost as much as the crops from the lack of rain previous to the recent showers and were not in fit condition to be taken from the woods. Shipping will be general about the third week in November.

Shippers who have arrived are optimistic about market conditions but stated that it was impossible to forecast prices because of the fact that they depended entirely upon supply and demand and this would not be known until a few days before Christmas.

Several hundred cars of Nova Scotia Christmas trees found their way to the homes of citizens of the United States last Yuletide, distributed by the buyers from New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago and other large centers. It is expected that as many will be shipped out of the Province this year, and this will make a considerable revenue to the farmers and small operators at a time when the lumber and pulp markets are particularly dull, and will not diminish the lumber supply as most of the trees are obtained from old pastures and cutover areas.

No article in a grocer's store requires greater care in buying than tea. For there are teas and teas. The experience of the leading grocers throughout the Maritime Provinces is that MORSE'S TEAS are always uniform in quality, delicious in flavor, and can be depended on to produce the best results in the teapot.

Acaciaville Golf Club Holds Meeting

The Acaciaville Guernsey Golf Club held its monthly meeting at the home of Katherine Bacon on Thursday evening, the 10th inst. Mr. Steele and Mr. C. M. Collins inspected the calves and announced which three should go to Amherst, to the Maritime Winter Fair.

The Club decided on a program for meetings, to consist of debates and games during the winter months. The members decided to keep their calves in good growing condition all winter so that they would make good yearlings for next year's show.

The Secretary announced that receipts from Provincial and Dominion Governments would pay their note at the Bank. Games were then enjoyed by all the members and the Club extended thanks to Mrs. Bacon for the very good refreshments served.

Printing Presses Which Made Newspaper History

In order to keep up with the times the Wallis Job Print, of this town, has this week "jacked" several old printing presses to make room for modern and speedy machinery. This probably would not call for much comment except for the fact that two of the presses done away with have, in their time, made newspaper history in Nova Scotia. One of these two presses was an old Ruggles—a make that went out of business years ago and it is very likely that this old press was the only one in existence. It must have been seventy-five years old. Mr. Wallis bought it in Meteghan twenty years ago and it was an old press then. It had been bought originally in Halifax and was used in the production of "The Burning Bush", a paper published in the interest of the Orangemen. After that paper died it printed "The Mayflower", a free lance newspaper in that city, which was in its views and a thorn in the side of hundreds of citizens. I was probably used in some job office after that until a little more than thirty years ago when it was bought in Meteghan, and on it for three or four months was published "Le Provinciale Libérale", printed partly in French and partly in English. After this paper ceased the press and a part of the display type became the property of a local carpenter, and it was from him that Mr. Wallis purchased the outfit in 1909, paying forty dollars for the plant. The body type of the Meteghan paper, and the advertising faces were purchased in Berwick and used for years in the early life of "The Register", of that town. Many people will remember how peculiar that paper used to look with accent d letters all through the reading matter.

The second press, a Country Campbell, a newspaper press, has also seen many experiences. It was bought about forty years ago by the late Valentine A. Landry for the publication in Weymouth of two papers, the Weymouth Free Press and L'Evangeline—one an English newspaper, the other French. They were two good papers, somewhat ahead of their time, but financially they were not great successes. But this did not prevent a certain amount of jealousy with the result that after these papers had been running some years someone else thought there was a fortune in a newspaper in Weymouth and started two rival sheets, good ones, too, as existing files show. Called The Sissiboo Echo and L'Acadie. In some way the latter company got some kind of a claim against the press on which the first papers were being printed and were going to take possession. The Free Press people, however, took a number of important parts of the press and dropped them down a well, much to the consternation of those who wanted it. But after some days the news leaked out, as news of this kind will in a small place, the parts were recovered and the press again put into commission but this time in the second office. But Weymouth, prosperous as it was at that time, could not support four papers and they all went out of existence except L'Evangeline, which was moved to Moncton and is still going strong in that city. The press stood idle until 1906, when the plant was leased by J. J. Wallis, who ran The Weymouth Gazette for three years when he gave it up and went into other employ. The Pelton Boys, of Yarmouth, ran the Weymouth Recorder on it for two or three issues only, after that. Then it passed into the hands of James Wallis, father of J. J., who moved it to Yarmouth and for ten years, or almost up to the time of his death, ran The Yarmouth Daily Post. After the death of Mr. Wallis it again came into the possession of the son and it was moved to Digby where it has been operating in the Wallis Job Print ever since, the last paper being printed on it being The Templar, a temperance paper published by the Grand Lodge, I. O. G. T., and which was printed in Digby the last three years of its existence.

The Wallis Job Print still owns another newspaper press with a history. It is an Acme and was used for some years in the production of The Colonial Standard, of Pictou. It is the press on which Peter Veinot, the present postmaster-general, learned his trade as a printer. After The Colonial Standard was bought and moved to New Glasgow, the press remained in Pictou, the property of the H. Millers, of biscuit fame. By them it was sold to the late Colonel Seeley, of Yarmouth, who took it to New Waterford, and for a year ran the New Waterford Press. In 1914 it was moved to Hantsport where Mr. Seeley had made up his mind to locate, but the war broke out at that time, and instead, he enlisted for the "duration." After demobilization he took charge of the Yarmouth Times and moved his Hantsport plant to Yarmouth where he stored it in his barn. After his death Mr. Wallis bought it and the press is now going to be set up as a "spare" for the Digby Weekly Courier, which is being printed by the Wallis Job Print.

Says Tourist Season is best In Ten Years

"The tourist season just closing has been an excellent one for Nova Scotia. With regard to the hotel business with which I am connected it has been the best within a period of ten years. The outlook for next summer is even brighter. There is every indication that it will be a record year." This is the opinion of Captain Spurr, proprietor of the Myrtle House at Digby, as expressed in an interview with the Halifax Herald.

"Digby is now well equipped to look after the best tourist business that is promised for next year," declared Mr. Spurr. "Besides the Myrtle House we have the new Pines and Lour Lodge and the three are a great asset, not only to Digby but to all Nova Scotia."

Captain Spurr, who has conducted the Myrtle House for the past two years, is now making improvements to the Myrtle House and its grounds in preparation for next season's business. He predicts that with the growing business there will soon be more hotels in Digby county and declares there is room and business for all of us, in that county.

GRACE UNITED CHURCH RALLY DAY

The Rally Service of Grace United Sunday School was held last Sunday morning. The service was one of the best yet held. The subject was "In Quest of Others", the scripture reading being the story of the lost sheep and the seeking shepherd. The opening number on the programme consisted in the decorating of a large white cross with flowers by the members of the junior classes. The story of the stray lamb was pleasingly told by Miss Florence Wallis, and the story of some great christian workers by Harold Robertson. The attendance was eighty-nine.

HARVEST HOME SERVICES

Harvest Home Services will be held in the United Churches of Digby next Sunday at 11 A. M. and at Bay View at 3 P. M. Contributions of flowers, fruit, vegetables, preserves, pickles will be gratefully received. A sale of these will take place at a later date, the proceeds being for church purposes.

Digby County Cattle Win at Brockton Fair

For the second time N. H. Moses, South Ohio, Yarmouth county, has secured high honors with his oxen at the Brockton, Mass., annual fair. Last year his two yokes of Nova Scotia raised oxen won in every class and were finally sold to a Massachusetts stock farmer. This season his entries—two yokes of oxen, one raised in Plympton; the other in Crosses Coques, had to compete with the oxen sold last year and the animals secured practically all the blue ribbons on all points, with the exception of the hauling prize, which was won by the heavy cattle he sold last fall. His teamster, Nazair Boudreau, Crosses Coques, came through with honors, his not only teaming the oxen taken over this year, but also those sold in 1928, and he received special mention for the capable manner in which he handled his teams.

Automatic Press Replaces Handfed Kind

The Wallis Job Print installed this week a Heidelberg Automatic Job Press, the fastest and most up-to-date machine of its kind in Western Nova Scotia. In fact there are very few similar machines in the Maritime Provinces, and those are mostly found in large city offices. This machine is the first automatic job press of any kind to be installed in this section of the province.

The Heidelberg is a very high speed press, capable of making a maximum of 3,500 printed impressions every hour (or double that quantity when fed "two on"). Its feed is entirely automatic—mechanical fingers seize and deliver the sheets of paper.

The public are invited to visit their shop on First Avenue just between the vendor and the printer and inspect the machine in operation.

A car driven by Martin J. Comeau, of Temple street, Worcester, Mass., formerly of Digby, struck the rear bumper of another car at Wellesley Hills, Mass., a few days ago causing the latter to upset, killing a five-year-old girl, named Marjorie Patterson. The latter's mother and sister were also badly hurt and are in a hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Daley, of Yarmouth, have received the news of the good success of their son Edgar Daley, now a student at Kings College School, at Windsor. He was recently one of the pupils to participate in the Maritime Interscholastic track meet held at Halifax. In it Edgar won two silver cups, one for the sixty-yard dash and the other for the 440-yard relay race. The Kings College School was well to the forefront in the final analysis of points and stood on a tie with Colchester, 18-18. The meet was under auspices of Dalhousie University and Kings College. Edgar is a nephew of A. D. Daley of Digby.

Try Magnesia For Indigestion

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and get little more than slight temporary relief—sometimes even that.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk but pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from practically any drugist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment, and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion.

C. B. Simmons Transferred To Amherst

The citizens of Digby generally, whether they had dealings with the Bank of Nova Scotia, or not, will learn with regret of the departure of C. B. Simmons, for the past seven years manager of the Digby branch of that bank, who has been transferred to Amherst. During his stay in Digby Mr. and Mrs. Simmons have won their way into the hearts of the people and have made many warm and sincere friendships. On Wednesday evening, in the hall of the United Baptist Church, a large gathering of the business and professional men of town assembled to bid farewell to him. Speeches were made by a large number present, after which the Mayor, T. E. G. Lynch, presented him, on behalf of those present, with a club bag. He will be succeeded here by Mr. Bowly, who was teller in this branch about eight years ago, and is well known. As one of the oldest business institutions in the town we welcome him and wish him every success.

BADMINTON

The young people of Trinity Church and their friends enjoyed a delightful evening of badminton, in the Parish Hall on Wednesday. Everyone present expressed an eagerness to take up this game, which is played with light-weight rackets, similar to but smaller than the tennis racket, and feathered shuttle-cocks.

This club of young people, married and single, is being formed under the leadership of Mr. Gabriel who informs us that membership is not confined to Trinity Church congregation, but any young person, married or single, may join. Plans were made for the next meeting, which is to be Monday, Oct. 28th, at 8 p. m. in the Parish Hall.

During the evening delicious refreshments were served under the patronage of Mrs. H. Hayden and Miss Edna Wright.

The editor wishes to express his thanks to Basil Porter, of Hill Grove, for a delicious roast of moose meat sent in this week.

The N. S. T. A. an Example of Unworkable Law

To the Editor of the Courier:

Our system of government is democratic in that it is by the people, and for the people and all shades of politicians are agreed that laws promoted by the Representatives of the people are strong only when the sentiment of the people is behind them; when this is absent the law loses its force and becomes ineffective.

The too-much-debated N. S. T. A. is an outstanding example of the weakness of the law through lack of support; if the people of Nova Scotia were heart and soul behind this Act, it would not be so woefully disregarded and ineffective.

With the passing of the N. S. T. A. in 1918, the Province, as well as most of the cities and towns in the province, entered into the business of the liquor traffic, through the Board of Vendors in Halifax, and the local vendors elsewhere, and every citizen in Digby, through the legal vendor and town clerk, is engaged in selling intoxicating drink; the Mayor and town councillors against their wills and good judgment are necessary parties to this; so also are the medical gentlemen who by the law are called upon to issue scripts or orders on the vendor to sell certain alcoholic liquors for medicinal purposes. It would appear that the abnormal increase of sickness that has developed of late—judging by the number of doctors' scripts issued—should be a matter of grave concern to the government as well as to residents in every community. The amount of sickness seems to increase in Digby with the influx of summer visitors, and improves suddenly in the early fall. Strange is it not?

Prohibition is a word that we hear glibly spoken, but such a thing does not exist under the N. S. T. A. Act; nor was it ever intended by the framers of that act to try and prohibit the use of alcohol—all they did was to lay down in seven lines the object of the Act and then take forty pages to give certain directions, limitations, prohibitions, and penal clauses, with the appointments of vendors, inspectors and the inclusion of medical men in the scheme of selling. Since then nearly every year book has shown some tinkering with the Act of 1918.

May I congratulate you, Sir, on the very able editorial which appeared in the last issue of the Courier; it deserved much more than a scant reading, for it contains more truth than so-called prohibitionists generally admit. The following are a few extracts from this editorial:—

"Drinking has not been suppressed. The traffic in intoxicating liquor has not been lessened. Public sentiment in favor of prohibition has been weakening. A law cannot be enforced unless public sentiment is behind it. Respect for law and order has decreased. The prohibition act is openly violated in every part of the province. Perjury in liquor cases has become the usual thing. If the N. S. T. A. is to be judged by present conditions, we must admit that it has not proved satisfactory."

and your readers know that this scathing editorial is true.

The numerous sick people who go to medical men for scripts are not the only people who drink and remember drinking is not an illegal act except in certain specified places, and they seek other available sources of beer, rum, whisky, etc., and under these circumstances it is a wonder that the illicit vendor thrives? Of course he does and will do so long as this N. S. T. A. remains. And of course, too, the bootlegger—as he is generally termed, will vote and work to retain the present act and all will vote for retention as playing into his hands.

May I be permitted to give one instance of Government Control which cannot by any person who knows be questioned or termed ineffective—I refer to England. There all liquor is subject to strict supervision, the hours of licensed sale are well defined and receive proper adherence. It was my pleasure to spend about a month there last year, during that part of the year, when sickness is most prevalent in Nova Scotia, and during my stay I visited the largest cities and mingled with the thousands of gay holiday makers at seaside watering places and places where men do congregate, and in that time I never saw a single person who gave the impression of being under the influence of drink.

Statistics show conclusively that drunkenness and the sale of hard liquors there is decreasing, whilst in Nova Scotia, under the very much lauded N. S. T. A. Act the reverse is the case, and this Act you are asked by its supporters to continue in force by your votes on the 31st. You are the arbiters in the matter and you are also those who must bear the responsibility for those votes. You cannot shift your responsibility to the shoulders of inspectors—even though they be gentlemen of the cloth who have been given a free hand; they cannot accomplish the impossible and enforce an unenforceable Act. As citizens I ask you to face the facts squarely and by your votes put the N. S. T. A. off the Statute Book.

My vote will undoubtedly be cast against the Act and I hope that yours will too.

Thanking you for your courtesy in printing this

I remain, yours faithfully
ALFRED BODEN
Town Clerk.

Talk of N.S.T.A. Failure Is All Bunkum

To the Editor of the Courier:

Dear Sir:—In the editorial column of your issue of last week appeared an article re, the N. S. T. A. The writer seems to blame this Act for many things it is not guilty of. There are many reasons why the Act is not enforced better than it is. Political interference is one of the big handicaps, notwithstanding all that the Premier and D. K. Grant, Inspector in Chief, may say to the contrary. Hostile counts in many localities is another.

It is charged that the Act has been productive of disrespect and perjury. No good citizen will show disrespect for any law that has for its object the welfare of the community. If people commit perjury, it is because they are perjurers, and the circumstances reveal the character. The fact that there is smuggling of liquor cannot be charged to the N. S. T. A., but to lax enforcement of the customs which is Federal legislation. Despite all that is being written and said to bring discredit to the N. S. T. A., it is the best legislation yet produced in Canada for the suppression of the sale of intoxicating liquor, and it is not fair to charge all the evils that are mentioned to it.

As a matter of fact the N. S. T. A. has been of a great benefit to our province, both from a moral and economic point of view.

The propaganda that has been spread over the province during the past three years has been for the sole purpose of bringing the law into disrepute, and pave the way for the open sale of liquor. Many good intentioned people have almost come to believe some of the bunkum talk that has been told them, it has been repeated so often.

Let us stick to the N. S. T. A. and hold what we have, and press for a tightening up of enforcement both federal and provincial.

M. B. S.

The Municipal Council, and especially Warden Andrews and his committee deserve great credit for the splendid work which they have put on the court house this season. This building, which is about twenty years old, had commenced to show numerous infirmities. The roof leaked, the woodwork was decaying, many of the bricks were broken and partly demolished and the building was badly in need of repairs. An architect estimated that it would take $8,000 to repair it; the council thought otherwise and decided to do it by local men and at day's work. The work has been going on for some time and an inspection of the building today shows the building, except in the rear where the men are still working, in as good condition as it was when new. And the cost has been less than $2,000.

The scallop boats have had a good week and have secured pretty good fares all around.

Coun. Hillman's Open Letter Re. Roads

Balfour Speights Esq.,
Road Superintendent,
Municipality of Digby.

Dear Balfour:—

You will please understand that I adopt this method of calling your attention to a section of our highway which is in pretty bad shape. Not by any stretch of imagination can you interpret my remarks of political effect or to disturb our most cordial relations, but if we are to submit tamely to any sort of treatment when we pay for the best, our claim of citizenship counts for naught.

I would not be so presumptuous as to tell you that I know the condition of all the highways in the County of Digby better than you do; I would not say that you have not tried to remedy conditions. I know that you have done as much as you have been permitted to do, but it seems very strange that visitors in our midst tell us about the nice travelling on the main highways and in the same breath they condemn the so called secondary roads.

Is it not a fact that some of our secondary roads are in a wretched condition, and is it not also a fact that residents or ratepayers on the secondary road contribute to the fund which is used for building and maintaining the highways? Is it not also a fact that the residents on the secondary roads, at least in some sections, have been treated most unfairly. I understand that these days money is very tight in government circles, but has any government the right to collect a lot of money for a supposedly specific purpose, and to withhold that expenditure? I think not.

I am going to refer to only one district this time:—The Culloden. The people of that district have paid a lot of money to the Highways Department. First in road tax, then in auto and gasoline taxes. What person is brave enough to assert that those people have been given value for their money? The road to Broad Cove is in such a condition that it is a shame to drive a car over it. The Lighthouse Road—you have been over it. We are not asking for a million, but we do expect the roads to be in some kind of shape. We expect only two ditches instead of four with a near ditch in the centre, and we do expect at least one ditch where one ditch used to be. You will find on the Lighthouse Road a ditch with grass now growing almost to the road level, forcing the waters out and ruining what is left of the once proud highway. I respectfully request that something be done to remedy conditions in the various sections of Culloden District.

An Appreciation of Digby General Hospital

To the editor of the Courier:

Dear Sir: May we be allowed space in your paper in which to express our thanks and appreciation for the kindness extended to us by the people of Digby, Acaacville and Hill Grove, and by the nurses and attendants at the Digby General Hospital during the recent illness of Mrs. Alben Corliss, of Salem, Mass.

Coming here for our annual vacation in July, little did we think that before we returned to Salem such a crisis would come in the life of Mrs. Corliss, and it is due to the skillful and kind treatment of Dr. MacDonald, of Halifax, Dr. Dickie, Dr. DuVernet and Mrs. Gerald Syda of Digby, and the nurses at Digby General Hospital that she is living today. Never will we be able to speak too highly of the practitioners of the medical profession in Digby, nor of the care and treatment accorded at the Digby General Hospital, where the nurses were always competent cheerful and willing in their duties.

It is impossible to thank every person individually for the interest shown during Mrs. Corliss's illness, but through the columns of your paper we wish them to know that every kindness extended to Mrs. Corliss and to us has been deeply appreciated, and to all we extend our sincere thanks.

The Plebiscite.

Before we go to press again the plebiscite will be over, and the result known. No person can tell what the result will be. At present the issue seems to be very doubtful. We hope that every one who has a vote will exercise the privilege of voting, so that there will be a full expression of public opinion on the important questions submitted to the people.

However the plebiscite may go, and whatever law may follow, we do not imagine that there will be any rapid change in the habits of the people. Those who are inclined to drink will still be able to get liquor and will continue to use it, and most of those who now abstain from drinking will continue to do so. If Prohibition carries, then there will be the same means to violate the law, and the same unsuccessful attempts to enforce it. If Government Control wins out and is used only as a means of increasing provincial revenues by pushing the sale and keeping up the price of liquor, then the Government Control law will be a greater failure than the Nova Scotia Temperance Act. Absolute prohibition in the present state of society seems to be impossible. Government Control of the right kind might be a success; but the wrong kind would only make matters worse than they are now.

In our opinion those who are opposed to the use of liquor have made two great mistakes in the past. They have failed to distinguish between temperance and total abstinence, and they have sought to employ compulsion instead of moral suasion. By denying the right of anyone to use intoxicants, even sparingly, they have taken an extreme position, which is not supported by that great body of people who can and do drink only in moderation without material harm to themselves or others, and who would be glad to join with total abstinents in preventing the abuse of liquor.

Prohibition and compulsion are unpleasant words, and human nature in this age of freedom rebels against them except in cases of the plainest necessity. The total disuse of intoxicating liquor as a beverage is not necessary however desirable it may be. Temperance and total abstinence can be attained without prohibition. The ideal of the dry forces ought to be voluntary total abstinence, and not compulsory total abstinence. Hon. Mr. McCrea of the Ontario Government put the case very well when he said: "Our policy should be temperance, the preaching of temperance, and the practice of temperance, under a law of liberty and freedom."

Whichever way the plebiscite goes let those who are opposed to use the liquor not be discouraged. They have not altogether succeeded so far because they have not employed the right methods, but they have truth and reason, and logic and decency on their side, and they will prevail in the end. In this Province they have been mostly asleep during the last few years, thinking that they had gained the battle when the Prohibition law was passed, whereas they had done nothing of the kind. Let them wake up, as they are now doing, change their tactics a little and employ education and moral suasion, in season and out of season, especially with the young. Let them elect members of Parliament both Dominion and local who are pledged to restrict the manufacture and sale of liquor, and to promote temperance and see that they do it. Let them revive their Temperance Societies and Organizations and get public sentiment working on their side. Then they will, at no very distant time, approach, if they do not fully attain, the true ideal of voluntary total abstinence and the victory will be won.

(This is the fifth and last of a series of editorials by a well known citizen, who is much interested in the Courier and the Temperance question and who himself, almost if not quite total abstainer.)

An Observant Citizen Writes of What He Sees and Hears

Well, Mr. Editor, the campaign seems to be warming up. Both sides are at it "hammer and tongs" and a great deal of eloquence, both pro and con, is being wasted, as well as tons of paper and ink—and I doubt very much if a single vote is influenced. Those who have made up their mind to vote for the N. S. T. A. will do so with no persuasion and the same applies to those who have made up their mind to vote against it. I have read the advertisements on both sides and I think the N. S. T. A. crowd are sticking closer to facts than the other side. For instance the Reform crowd state distinctly that the people of New Brunswick voted for control. They most positively did not. Premier Baxter, on the hustings, during the last campaign, stated distinctly and positively on several occasions, that government control would not be put in force until the people asked for it, only to break his word when he was put into power, when he forced the act through the legislature without the consent of the people. The voters of that province have not had a chance to express their opinion but they will and I very much fear that Baxter will go down to defeat on account of it.

What particularly impresses me is the way some of the merchants of the town and country are talking government control. If it goes into force it is going to make it all the harder for them to do business because if a man spends his cash for booze he certainly hasn't got it to spend for groceries. The booze business is a cash business and in a country where it is legally sold it is the grocers, the dry goods men and other retailers who have to extend credit—the liquor dealer will not.

I do not know that I have ever seen the demand for houses or flats so keen in Digby as it has been this season. It seems that quite a number of people want to move here to live but cannot get a place. Several of them have been travelling for Saint John houses who are covering this territory and would like to live here—a splendid class of citizen and it is too bad we are not able to accommodate them.

I was one of the small audience which listened for an hour or more to the very poor arguments put up by the Government Control speakers at the meeting Monday night. I was particularly disappointed with Furlong. Some years ago it was the custom with a few travelling salesmen when calling on a prospective customer, to deride the other fellow and his goods, "knocking," as it is familiarly called. It is not done now, because it has been found in actual practice, that "knocking" hurts the fellow who knocks more than the one knocked. A large part of Furlong's address was made up of "knocking." Rev. John Colburn, Rev. John Mutch and one or two others who are opposed to his point of view. Well the fact that "Colburn" and "Mutch" are names known almost throughout Canada and the men bearing them are very much respected, while "Furlong" was, until this reform agitation started, a name known only in his own Denary, would seem to indicate that this is a parallel case to that famous picture entitled "Dignity and Impudence" with which almost everybody is familiar.

After the notices in the city press I looked for something exceptional in Mrs. Bowman, but was surprised to find she had nothing original to offer. Her address was an essay such as could have been written by any intelligent high school girl with government reports and newspapers at hand from which to secure material. She did not, as I could see, bring forward one good argument to support her side. I was prepared to listen to the paper with a certain amount of interest until I saw where she had deliberately told an untruth about it.

She asked the audience to bear with her as she had not been able to prepare an address in the short time at her disposal, and she would read a paper which she had prepared hurriedly on the train while travelling to Halifax. Well, I want to say now that no woman living could have carried the figures she quoted in her head. That paper was prepared in some other place than on the train, and with a whole library of blue books at her elbow.

Magnesia Best for Your Indigestion

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicine and artificial digestants, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

Reformers Had Small Audience

An audience of very few if any over one hundred gathered in the Bijou, Dream Monday night to listen to W. H. Covert, K. C., Rev. J. Furlong and Mrs. A. E. Bowman, exponents of the Temperance Reform movement. Of the audience gathered seventy-five per cent. of them were advocates of the Nova Scotia Temperance Act. Of the three speakers Mr. Covert was probably the most convincing. He had a very quiet manner and told why he had personally voted against prohibition every time it had come before the people. At present, when people wanted a drink they had to get it in an underhanded way, and if they were brought before a jury, most of whom had themselves obtained liquor in the same way, they were acquitted, thus creating a general disrespect for law. If we have friends to visit us or if we visit friends it is quite common to have a glass of beer or a whisky and soda proffered and we think none the less of our host or hostess for doing it. It is quite proper and the secret and dishonorable way now being followed to obtain the beer or whiskey should be stopped and a system of government control adopted which will enable a man to come out into the open.

He was followed by Mr. Furlong, who was more or less of a disappointment. He opened by telling a so-called funny story in connection with Pussfoot Johnson and then sailed into a general attack on Rev. John Colburn, who he said, was trying to win votes by telling so-called stories of conditions in Ontario and quoting misleading figures. He went back many years and reviewed Mr. Colburn's activities as chairman of the "Committee of Forty" in Ontario and closed his remarks in reference to him by declaring him just a fanatic. He said conditions were perhaps somewhat worse in Nova Scotia under the Nova Scotia Temperance Act than they were in Ontario under the Ontario Temperance Act because of the length of our shore line which enables schooners, to land their cargoes more easily. And then he said, "I want to see our young men and young women, our middle aged men and women, be able to take a drink if they want to—that is one reason I am behind the Government Control Act." He spoke of the resolution passed by the Anglican Synod in 1915 and the efforts made to defeat it at the last Synod which were unsuccessful, and lamented that agitators had gone up and down the country quoting this resolution of 1915 as evidence that the Anglican Synod was behind the Nova Scotia Temperance Act, and said that resolution had been passed at that time because the aim of everybody at the time was to put an end to the war. On the whole his speech was a bigger argument in favor of the Nova Scotia Temperance Act than it was against it.

Mrs. Bowman was probably the greatest disappointment of the evening. Her address consisted of the reading of a paper in which the history of the Ontario Temperance Act and the succeeding government control act was reviewed. It dealt principally with dates and figures. Mayor Lynch presided and introduced the speakers. He mentioned the fact that as chief magistrate of the town he had probably been looked to to curb the activities of the bootleggers, but that, in Digby, it was impossible to do that as it would be to wet the Sahara Desert down with an atomizer.

Success

Ramsay MacDonald, accepting an honorary degree from George Washington University, said something to remember him by:

"You never can acquire anything in this world without purchasing it purchasing it by your own will and effort. You may attain high state office. It will never come to you as a gift. You may attain a high place in business, your name may be emblazoned in the newspapers and other distinctions may come to you. They are at the end of a long, hard road that only men and women of ability and energy can traverse."

This is a good doctrine at a time when so many people, especially the younger ones, seem to feel that life is largely a game of chance and bluff in which mere push and pretense will win.

Bunk and bluff do not win, though they may often seem to temporarily. Competition is keen, life itself is a severe critic, and the pretenders and easy winners are usually found out and squeezed out.

The old virtues of perseverance, courtesy and square dealing are still valid.

Health worth more than fortune
Heir to millions

THE baby to be envied is the one who is born with an inheritance of perfect health, to begin with. And who's lucky enough to have a mother who knows how to build up this fortune.

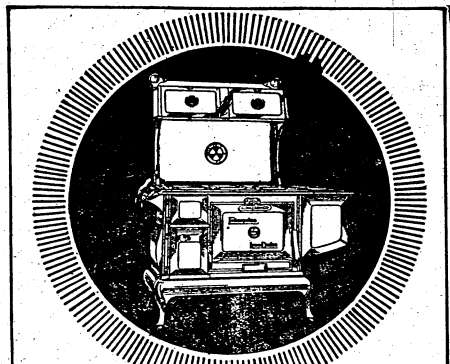

"Perhaps I'm old-fashioned," she'll say to the doctor who pronounces her child physically 100% at a baby show, "but this health certificate means more to me than all the stock certificates in the world. If my baby grows up strong and well, I'm willing to leave it to him to make a career and fortune for himself."

"Already I'm teaching him the value of regular habits. Regular sleep, regular meals, regular functions. He's never once been off schedule, not even when he was cutting teeth or traveling to the country. I make sure of that by giving him Nujol regularly."

Nujol works so easily and naturally that it won't upset a baby under any conditions. It keeps everything functioning properly. It not only prevents any excess of body poisons (we all have them) from forming but aids in their removal. It is safe and sure. Nujol was perfected by the Nujol Laboratories, 2 Park Avenue, New York.

Just try Nujol for your baby. Give it to him regularly for the next three months. See if it doesn't make things much easier for both of you. Certainly it could do no harm—for Nujol contains no drugs or medicine. Your druggist carries it. Be sure you get the genuine. Sold only in sealed packages.

Good Work

At the recent entertainments of the Chautauqua at Bear River, the ticket tax amounted to the sum of about $55.00. A Bear River lady, who desires her name withheld, conceived the brilliant idea of capturing the whole or a part of this money for the Digby General Hospital Fund. She therefore wrote to the Chairman of the Board of Censors at Halifax, stating the needs of the Hospital, and suggesting the propriety of a contribution from the Board. In reply she received the following letter which speaks for itself:—

"Halifax, Oct. 14, 1929

Dear Mrs. —

I have had an interview with the Honorable O. P. Goucher, and he has spoken very highly of your work, and expressed himself as favoring anything which would help your Committee in such a commendable enterprise. We will therefore grant you full exemption, and the tax you can use for the Hospital. Please send us a report of all tickets used, and return all unused tickets to this office, so that we may keep our records straight.

Sincerely yours
N. S. Board of Censors,
P. J. Hanifan
Chairman"

Needless to say the Hospital management highly appreciate the cleverness of this lady, and the generosity of the Board of Censors.

ADAMS—ZWICKER

On Tuesday evening of last week a pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. W. G. Guioi, at the Baptist parsonage, Middleton, when Miss Ruby F. Zwickler, daughter of Mrs. Frederica Zwickler, Middleton, and Frank E. Adams, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Loran Adams; Deep Brook, were united in marriage in the presence of a few relatives and friends. On Saturday evening a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, at which about forty invited guests were present, to extend best wishes and congratulations. Dainty refreshments were served. The out of town guests were Mrs. Howard Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson and Miss Lilian Winchester, of Digby. The beautiful display of gifts, including cut glass, silver, china, linen and money, testify of the esteem in which this young couple are held. Just previous to their marriage a miscellaneous shower was tendered them at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. W. D. Rice, Middleton, when about fifty friends were present. On their return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Adams will reside in Middleton.

"Government Control Has Failed"

1. It Drives Liquor Into the Home.

The only place in which a man may have, or drink liquor is in his own home—the foundation stone of the nation. What a menace to the family, dren, youth!

2. It Places Increased Temptation in the Way of Youth.

In Government Control provinces liquor is now found at parties and in circles where previously it was comparatively unknown.

3. It Increases the Perils of the Highway.

Drink is the chief cause of many motor accidents. An increase in drinking means an increase in these accidents. Do your wife and children drive a car?

4. It Makes You Go Into the Liquor Business Yourself.

Remember, Government Liquor Stores are OWNED BY ALL THE PEOPLE, and through their elected representative and appointed officials—OPERATED BY THE PEOPLE.

No one knew of it as it was not discovered until daylight. Mr. Drew lost all the grain raised on his farm this year, the grain he had taken as toll or payment for threshing, as well as the machinery. This week has seen some splendid fishing weather and, as the fish have been running fairly well in the Bay, the boats from Digby to Westport have done well. Of course some communities have done better than others, as is always the case, but on the whole the fishing has been above the average.

Nova Scotia apples are right in our eye now. How handsome the piles of them in the orchards look! The crop is big—almost 25 per cent over last year's. New England orchards too, have done well, but the rest of the country's apple crop is as much below last year's as we are above it, and it looks as if good prices might make 1929 one of the occasional years when the Nova Scotia thrifty farmer adds to his savings account.

Word has been received in Digby that that portion from Jones Point to Hankinson's wharf on the east side of the Sissiboo river, North Weymouth, will be open for clam digging for the balance of 1929 and next year and closed at the end of 1930 from Hankinson's wharf to the mouth of the river. The area thereafter will be open alternate years. This information will be published in the next issue of the Canadian Gazette and the regulation will go into effect at once.

The Oddfellows' Building will be a busy place on Monday evening. Downstairs, in the theatre, there will be a meeting in the interest of the N. S. T. A., at which the speakers will be Rev. Dr. S. S. Poole, of Saint John, and Rev. A. G. Pentz, of Weymouth, as well as one or two local men. Upstairs there will be the regular meeting of Zelma Rebekah Lodge first, followed at 8.30 o'clock by the annual Hallowe'en Social, one of the principal socials staged by any body in the town during the year. It is too bad that these two events clash, but there will be plenty of time for everybody to hear the addresses and then go upstairs to the social, so there is no reason why either should suffer because the other is taking place.

Ontario Election a Landslide

Ferguson Government Returned to Power with Increased Majority

After nearly three years of government control and sale of liquor, the majority of the people of Ontario appear satisfied with this solution of the liquor question introduced by Premier Ferguson three years ago. His government, returned to power in 1926 on this platform stood, he declared, ready to fall on the verdict of the people as expressed in Wednesday's general election. As a result the government is elected for another term with a greatly increased majority.

In his campaign, Mr. Ferguson promised to maintain, strengthen and give stability to the control of the sale of liquor and to improve the legislation enacted after the 1926 election in the "interests of temperance and sobriety," under responsibility of the government.

The Liberal leader, W. E. N. Sinclair, K. C., promised to consult the people on the question of a plebiscite when there was a demand for a test of the sentiment of the electorate, and J. C. Lethbridge, Progressive leader, who was defeated in Middlesex West, pledged to hold a plebiscite within a year. Both were opposed to the liquor question being involved in political campaigns.

Mr. Ferguson, opposed to plebiscites as violations of the spirit of the constitution, said he was prepared to accept the verdict of the electorate if they were dissatisfied with the liquor policy the Conservative party had adopted. He said he believed true temperance and sobriety could best be achieved in the homes, the schools and the churches, contending that 10 years of prohibition under the Ontario temperance act from 1916 to 1926 had failed to prohibit and had been unenforceable.

Mr. Ferguson appealed for a fair trial for the Liquor Control Act which he rewarded as the best solution of a difficult moral problem.

The defeat of Ellis in Leeds was reported when the election of F. J. Skinner, the Conservative member of the last House was conceded. The route of the seven candidates running under prohibition banner was therefore complete.

At three o'clock yesterday afternoon the standing of the parties were as follows:

Parent-Teachers Club Formed In North Range

A very interesting meeting was held in the school house at North Range Tuesday evening for the purpose of organizing a "Parent-Teachers Club"—the pioneer club of its kind in Digby County.

The speakers on this occasion were Prof. L. A. DeWolf and Miss Dora Baker, of the Provincial Nor-

Maritimes As Homes for Danish Settlers

Niels Anesen, a Danish Journalist representing a number of newspapers published in Denmark, has arrived in the Maritimes to make a study of the adaptability of these provinces for Danish settlers. Mr. Anesen has made a tour of Western Canada his investigations extending to Vancouver. He has visited various points in New Brunswick, including the Danish settlement at Apohaqui, and from what he has seen, expressed himself to F. C. Biette, Superintendent of Colonization for the Maritime Provinces, of the Canadian National Railways, at Moncton, as greatly impressed with the Maritimes as a possible location for Danish settlers, particularly those with families. Mr. Anesen will sail from 2 Halifax on the S. S. "Hellig Olav" tomorrow. He has been in Canada since the Spring, arriving from Denmark at Halifax, and proceeding from there to the West.

mal College at Truro. The audience listened with genuine interest to the address of the school teacher, Miss Helen M. Banks. Efforts towards this project were shown when all the adults present signed as members of the "Parent-Teachers Club."

Officers appointed were as follows: J. Vian Andrews, President; Mrs. Hubert Shortliffe, vice president; Miss Helen M. Banks, secretary; Miss Norma MacNeill, Treasurer. Programme Committee—J. Vian Andrews, chairman. Membership Committee—Mrs. James Height, chairman.

The first meeting of the club will be held on Tuesday evening, November 4th.

Mink Industry Will Repeat Fox History

A J. Trohon, the well known blacksmith, has gone into the mink business as a sideline. In the yard of his home is a nicely constructed mink house already occupied by two pairs of these sprightly little animals.

The mink industry today is at practically the same stage as was the black fox industry twelve years ago and Mr. Trohon has started raising mink in a small way from ranch stock and is enthusiastic as to the possibilities of the business. The mink is a bright-eyed little animal, full of pep, and fighter from the word go. A pair of mink today command a price of $200. Ranch stock are much tamer and thrive much better than animals caught alive by trappers and placed in captivity. The ranch stock breed more freely, are better colored and give better results all round. Some are light colored at birth, but as a rule get darker as they get older. The darker they are the better, and the bigger is the price they command.

The average female will bring forth three young mink on an average per year. It can therefore be seen that it will be a slow process to build up a good sized colony, but it is a paying proposition for the men who possess the necessary patience and who will give the animals the attention they call for. This is, we believe, the first mink ranch in Digby County, but it is likely that there will be a number of others ere long. There is one at Truro, and several ranches in P. E. Island, where fur farming is carried on apparently on a bigger scale than elsewhere in the Maritimes. The foundation stock for the P. E. I. ranches came from Nova Scotia.

There are also mink ranches in Quebec and in Western Canada. There is an unlimited market for the young animals in pairs in Ontario, and no fears need be apprehended on that score. For some years to come all mink which are raised in the Maritimes will be speedily picked up for breeding purposes and it will be a long time yet before the industry gets on the pelt basis. Here again history is repeating itself. That is how it was in the black fox industry in its early days. Even on a pelt basis the fox industry pays handsomely and it is a wonder that more Digby County farmers do not get into it. We are told that most of the farmers in P. E. Island are in the fox industry one way or another.

The mink is equally at home in the water or on the land. He will eat all the rabbits he can get hold of and is equally fond of the fresh fish he catches in the water. The mink which comes from swampy places are as a rule larger in size than the ranch-bred stock. There is a great demand for the skins, and a lady's fur coat of mink commands a fabulous price. Time was when milady paid the long price for fox furs, but apparently they got too common and now mink are the rage, and those who have money to burn will pay apparently any price that is asked for mink coats, etc. It would almost seem as if the higher the price the better they are pleased.

Mr. Trohon is intensely interested in his mink ranch and figures that in the course of a few years it will pay him handsomely. We wish him unbounded success and recommend to the speculators in our midst the possibilities of mink farming as a get-rich-quick scheme.

Music In The Schools

That instruction in music should be a regular part of all educational systems was the opinion recently expressed by Edward Johnston, the world-famous tenor, at a Kiwanis Club luncheon in London. Music is now considered a true profession and one that is particularly lucrative if struck in the right way. But apart from a professional standpoint music provides a wonderful foundation in many things. It stimulates imagination and brings out the finer qualities in a person, thus developing culture. Music seems to feed the inner man, the soul.

Everyone has a desire to sing, and singing is a natural outlet for the emotions, and all children should be taught this important study.

FAIRIES!

A child's belief in fairyland is wonderful, but a grown-up's belief in fairies is far more beautiful and lasting. We mortals cannot endure unending joy, for pleasure loses all its value in the end and then we must have something more substantial to fall back on, and what does the world need any more than it needs faith, and what is more necessary to the lives of each one of us than a belief in fairies? Because belief in fairies is only a belief in human kindness. And there is so much kindness in the world if we would only recognize it. When we fail to recognize it, you know it is only because our eyes are not kind enough to see below the surface! The old saying that "love is blind" seems to me to be very untrue, because love is so far-seeing that it sees below the surface and delights in beauties that other eyes, in their blindness, overlook. When we look for the best in people, we are never disappointed, because they give us what we expect. And it is just by this faith that we weave the airy castles that in real life shall rear their selves in structures of truth and beauty. We all like a certain amount of illusion in our lives and we do not want the illusion blasted too soon. In the hurry of life today, so many of us forget to dream and what our world needs is a belief in something—a faith, and in what better way could that faith be immortalized than through a belief in human kindness—a belief in fairies? There is too much reality. Beauty is not found in the uniformity of things, but in the harmony of things. Why can't we mix faith with facts? Why don't we dream more? And our belief in fairies will be as brightly hued bubble—a tiny dream sailing across the face of Reality.—Communicated.

Older Boys' Conference Held In Digby

The "Older Boys Conference" which has been in session here since Friday held its final session this evening in the United Church, some forty boys attended representing the centres of the two counties.

The convention opened in the United Church Hall on Friday evening. The first hour was spent in the registration of delegates, and the presentation of credentials. The Services of Worship was led by Rev. Mr. Sawden, pastor of the Bear River United Church.

Six boys, namely William Archibald, of Bridgetown; Allison Patterson, of Annapolis Royal; Eric Titus, of Freeport; Reginald Stoddard, of Lawrencetown; Howard Aikland, of Bridgetown; and Lawrence McPhee, of Digby were nominated for the grand office. Each of the nominees made a speech to present their platform before the convention.

An election resulted as follows: Grand Pretor, William Archibald; Deputy Grand Pretor, Eric Titus; Grand Comptor, Allison Patterson and Grand Scriptor, Lawrence McPhee. Each of these elected made a speech on what proposed doing during the convention.

Rev. Frank Milligan, leader of the Older Boys' Work then gave an interesting address on "Development of Thought and Building of Character" and introduced the Questionaire dealing with various questions and discussions to be brought before the boys.

Four squares were organized under the leadership of Rev. E. W. Forbes, pastor of Grace United Church, Digby; Rev. H. H. Phinney pastor of the Westport Baptist Church; G. H. Churchill, principal of the Digby Academy, and Rev. Mr. Sawden, of Bear River United Church.

The second session was conducted on Saturday morning. The service of worship was led by the deputy grand pretor, Eric Titus. Greetings were extended to the boys meeting at a similar convention at Summerside, P. E. I. The boys adjourned towards respective squares where they discussed "live problems" dealing with themselves.

After a short recreation period, Rev. E. W. Forbes gave an address on "Temperance and Youth".

At Saturday afternoon's session, the service of worship was led by the Grand Scriptor, Lawrence McPhee. After further discussion of live problems the Grand Pretor, William Archibald, gave a splendid talk on the work of the Boys Parliament held at Sackville last year. He was the delegate from Digby and Annapolis Counties, and his was very interesting and instructive one.

The boys gathered at six o'clock for a banquet in the United Church Hall. The following was the toast list:

To the King.

To Canada.—Proposed by Allison Patterson, and responded to by his worship, Mayor T. E. G. Lynch, of Digby.

To Our Parents and Homes.—Proposed by Harry Hicks, and responded to by Rev. F. E. Bishop, pastor of the Digby Baptist Church.

To the Public Schools.—Proposed by H. Aikland, and responded to by Ellis Oakes, of the teaching staff of the Digby Academy.

To the Church.—Proposed by Frank Munro, and responded to by Rev. H. H. Phinney.

To the C. G. I. T.—Proposed by Reginald Stoddard, and responded to by Frances Appleby.

To the Ladies.—Proposed by Leigh Marshall, and responded to by Mrs. E. W. Forbes.

This session was dismissed by a benediction given by Rev. A. E. Gabriel, of Trinity Church, Digby.

On Sunday afternoon a short session was held in the vestry of the Baptist Church. The service of worship was led by Rev. H. H. Phinney, after which a short address was given by Rev. Frank Milligan on "Knowing Him".

The closing session was held Sunday evening in the Grace United Church after the regular service. The boys, led by their group leaders marched over from the vestry and took their places in the front pews of the church, the Grand officers taking their seats behind the pulpit. The service was wholly in charge of the boys, led by their Grand Pretor William Archibald.

The Scripture Lesson, Luke 24:52 was read in a very pleasing way by the Deputy Pretor, Eric Titus.

It seems almost a miracle—the way "Fruit-a-tives" benefits women suffering at the change of life. "I was obliged to go to bed because of the terrible dizziness, pain and weakness," writes Mme. Every woman should follow my example and take 'Fruit-a-tives', and they would surely get the wonderful relief that I did." Try it. Your dealer has this wonderful fruit medicine—25c. and 50c. a box.

upon to lead in prayer.

William Archibald, Grand Pretor gave an address on the work of the C. S. E. T. touching on its branches of boy's work, and explaining the object of this convention. Grand Scriptor, Lawrence McPhee, read the minutes of the convention and each of the four squares into which the boys were divided read the answers that their square gave to the questionnaire on Jesus.

The "Top-Notch" badge was awarded to the "Ramay Mac Donalds" the square led by Rev. E. W. Forbes, by Rev. Mr. Milligan.

Mr. McPhee read a resolution passed by the convention dealing with the Prohibition question by which the boys endorsed the Nova Scotia Temperance Act, on the principal that Government Sale would be a means of placing greater temptation before the boys.

Resolutions of thanks to the people of Digby and to the leaders of the convention for making such a gathering possible were moved by Eric Titus, and passed unanimously. Each of the leaders gave short addresses on the work of the boy's work convention.

After the formation of the fellowship circle—a very impressive ceremony—the convention was dismissed for this season, and has been given a very pressing invitation to convene at Westport next year.

In connection with "Fire Prevention Week," observed throughout Canada and the United States between October 6 and October 13, a special telegraphic message has been sent over the entire Canadian Pacific Railway system by Grant Hall, senior vice-president of the company, urging all officers and employees of the railway to co-operate by setting a good example of fires and the removal of their causes. This has been followed up by a circular letter setting forth in detail how these objects may be accomplished.

"If the English people were well advised they would not be at all loath to invest in Canada," stated Sir William Flinders, president of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of England and Wales, a passenger on the Empress of Scotland, after attending the international congress of accountants recently held in New York. "One of the best sources of obtaining British capital is Canadian ventures in which Canadian capital is also invested, and the people connected with them of high repute and standing," he added.

Undertaken as a nation-wide movement for the promotion of British and Canadian music and to give Canada an opportunity of hearing the music which is their legitimate heritage, the unique British and Canadian concert series sponsored by the music department of the Canadian Pacific Railway will, it is announced, be under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency Viscount Wellington, Governor-General of Canada. Six Canadian centres—Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg and Toronto have been selected for the first season of recitals, and 14 artists in all will provide the programmes which are to continue at intervals during the fall and winter.

Definite steps to control the traffic in deer and moose hides which has reached large proportions, have been taken by Chief Game Warden H. B. Ritchie, of the New Brunswick Department of Lands and Mines. Last year 7,000 deer hides and about 700 moose hides were exported from New Brunswick largely to glove manufacturers in Quebec and Ontario and the states of Maine and New Hampshire. Tinsel tags must now be affixed to dead animals before transportation becomes legal.

Reports are appearing in the British press that the Prince of Wales stands to make a fortune out of oil production in his High River ranch. Some reports have estimated the possible profit as high as $5,000,000. This is regarded in the west as sheer guess work, although the Turner Valley which practically adjoins the Prince's ranch has developed oil on a large scale. Meanwhile there are no wells being drilled on the ranch though drilling is in progress about a mile away.

The prairies are usually associated with wheat and cattle, but they are also important sources of commercial fish. The third largest lake on the continent is in Manitoba and great bodies of fresh water in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta teem with fish of high quality. In one day recently 49 carloads of whitefish and pickerel were shipped from these provinces to Minneapolis, Chicago and New York.

Prize Fight Opera Premiere

When the English Music and Folk Dance Festival is held at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, from November 13 to 18, the spot light will be turned on the first performance on this continent on November 15 of "Hugh the Drover", opera by Dr. Ralph Vaughan Williams, one of the greatest of modern composers. Written around early 19th century scenes in an English village, the costumes are picturesque and the setting is peculiarly suited to the folk music which inspired the composer. The unique feature of the opera is the great prize fight between the hero and the villain, the stakes being the hand of the heroine. This is one of the most realistic scenes ever put on any stage, and is a fight from start to finish. The cries of the crowd, the staccato singing of the principal, the exhortations of the backers of the two men are blended with orchestral effects in an ensemble that is a tour de force of modern musical representation, leaving the audience breathless and as excited as if they were spectators gathered around the ring, in one of the most remarkable theatricals ever seen on the stage. The part of Hugh is to be played by Allan Jones, a brilliant tenor of Welsh extraction, who has been starring in the Deauville Opera and the Opera Comique of Paris. Cut shows grouping of the players just before commencement of the fight, with Hugh in the centre and his opponent stripped for action at left. Inset shows Allan Jones.

The carbon monoxide hazard is always with us, even in the summer season, but with the approach of cold weather the need for the warning against this danger is more pressing. Some five years ago, a life insurance company began to warn the public of this insidious hazard through advertisements, placards, posters, radio and especially with a booklet which has been circulated extensively through safety councils, chambers of commerce, automobile clubs, etc. With all that is being done through government channels and by the automobile companies, the almost daily reports of accident and death from this cause indicate the need for continued publicity and warning.

Fifty-four years ago Everett Western walked out of the old homestead at Monards, Me., and joining several other boys, started West. He left his half-brother, Percy, a baby, four months old, in a cradle in the corner. A few days ago Everett walked in by the same door he had walked out 54 years ago and Percy was there, eating his supper in the corner.

Lighthouses Kill Thousands of Birds Every Year

All the lightkeepers in Digby county can tell of the large number of birds killed by flying against the lights during the night. They seem to be blinded by the lights and dash headlong into them with fatal results. Throughout Canada the loss of bird life from this cause is very heavy.

A Western Ontario despatch reports that in one night no fewer than 1,700 birds, chiefly thrushes and warblers, dashed themselves to death against the Long Point lighthouse on the Lake Erie shore. This mortality was the heaviest of any one during the season, but hundreds of birds have lost their lives at this one lighthouse during the year, and the same must hold true of other warning signals established along the Canadian coast-line.

If the Dominion wishes to preserve that bird life for the protection of which it has already entered into a migratory bird treaty with the United States and established a number of bird sanctuaries in different parts of the country, it is evident that with the development of radio beacons as well as lighthouses, something must be done, says the Brockville Recorder to prevent the heavy mortality that is going on. This loss is the more serious when it is realized that most of those birds which have recently lost their lives on Lake Erie are of species that devour countless insects.

A suggested remedy, already adopted with success in the case of British lighthouses, is to equip them with perches upon which the birds may alight for rest. It would not cost a very large sum of money to make this addition to Canadian lighthouses and the Dominion would be the gainer to the extent of giving further protection to its birds and saving the lives of many thousands of them that now dazed and hopelessly lost, dash themselves against the lights.

An Ottawa despatch, says Methods to protect migratory birds from killing themselves by dashing into light houses in their flight are now under consideration, says officials of the Marine and Fisheries Department. In co-operation with the Interior Department, information is being collected as to the number of birds destroyed at the various lighthouses in Canadian waters. It is expected that screens and perches will be placed about the structures.

The matter was before the Light-house Board some years ago when bird-lovers were requested to offer suggestions as to the best means of saving the birds. Officials said, however, that no suitable scheme was put forward at that time.

Don't Be a Slave to Indigestion

Super-Acidity of the Stomach Needlessly Spoils the Eating Pleasures of Thousands

Thousands of people suffer daily for the good things they eat or else are slaves to their disordered stomachs—living on dissipated diet, afraid to eat the things they like for fear of pain to follow. Yet good, healthy, painless digestion is easy for most folks, for nine-tenths of all stomach misery is caused by merely an excess of acid in the stomach. And little Bismarck Magnesia, taken immediately after eating, will instantly neutralize this acid, stop food fermentation, prevent gas and sourness so that what you eat will digest just as nature intended it should. You can enjoy your next meal—and every meal—if you will get from the nearest drug store a package of Bismarck Magnesia—trial and you may soon be eating hearty meals of those foods which now disagree with you, without the slightest fear of stomach trouble.

Fishing Streams Open To The Public

That the owners of lands through fishing streams 'flow cannot keep fishermen out is a recent court decision of great importance to Nova Scotians and their visitors. The decision was given over a test case brought when a land owner on the Margaree River ordered fishermen off his lands. The press despatch is as follows:

That the land holders on the Margaree river have no river rights and that anglers can fish on any pool on the river as long as they do not trespass on private cultivated land, is the decision expressed by the Hon. W. L. Hall, in a letter received by S. P. Chalmers, secretary of the Cape Breton Tourist Association. This is a decision of far-reaching importance to the future of the Margaree famous salmon fishing pools, inasmuch as it settles the rights of land owners and anglers on the salmon fishing streams of Nova Scotia. The question was brought to the foreground this summer by the fact that a land owner along the riverfront had turned anglers off the stream which flows in front of his property and informed that on account of a crown grant he had the right to this. Certain United States tourist took exception to this procedure and the matter was taken up by the Cape Breton Tourist Association.

(404) Differences in the price of wheat at Chicago and Winnipeg and regarding of the wheat movement in western Canada is due to the view of Canadian wheat owners that its higher quality justifies holding it for export to Europe. It is said that continental buyers believe they can obtain their present requirements from the Argentine and the United States. In the explanation of this condition given out in a statement recently issued over the signatures of President of the Canadian Pacific Railway and Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railway, the present impasse between buyers and sellers is adjusted there will be a practical stoppage in the movement of grain and consequent serious effects on gross and net earnings of both the rail and water carriers.

Travelling 300 miles north of Edmonton over the waterways branch of the Northern Alberta Railway to Waterways and Fort McMurray, E. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, accompanied by a number of directors of the railway, inspected the rail wells and tar sand deposits of the region. Experts of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways are at present examining these deposits which Mr. Beatty said he was satisfied would be a great asset to Alberta.

Delegates from the Canadian Chambers of Commerce who have been convening extensively in the west of Canada, mainly on the Canadian Pacific lines, have through their national committee reiterated their stand in favor of a continuance of assisted immigration of selected British settlers of a desirable type to Canada.

Charles Reid, of the Banff Springs Golf Club, won the Prince of Wales golf trophy, famous and well known, for the year 1928. His score was 144 net, his handicap being 17. This is the first time in the history of the competition that the cup has gone to a Banff player, Calgary golfers having taken it to that city on each of the four former competitions.

Canada's reindeer industry takes a big forward step this year with the trek of 3,000 northern reindeer from Alaska into the Dominion. In November this herd, secured by the Government from the United States, will be taken to the Mackenzie river, which will take 18 months and will land the animals in 1931 on the Arctic coast east of the Mackenzie river.

Australians are "fiercely loyal" so that the Empire Trade is concerned, and buy for example, 98 per cent of their automobiles from Canadian manufacturers. Sir James Murdoch, member of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, told the Vancouver Canadian Club recently. Sir James had just returned from a cross-Canada tour by Canadian Pacific lines and was on his way back to Australia.

Settlers in the Peace River country have a definite uniformity of outlook regarding the progress of the country as a whole, said Col. J. S. Dennis, Chief Commissioner of Colonization and Immigration of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who has been inspecting the northern part of Alberta over the Northern Alberta Railways. He was astonished at the readiness of the Boards of Trade and individual business men to take a large view even where it might work temporary hardship locally.

Man Found Wandering On Highway

Ragged and unkempt, shoeless and almost naked, a man aged about forty years was found wandering on the highway Monday morning near Victoria Beach. Shortly after daybreak fishermen going to the shore noticed what appeared to be a man walking along the road some distance away from them. They did not pay much attention to the stranger but later several other residents reported seeing a ragged man walking the highway. An effort was made to locate him and he was found passing a house. The stranger was stopped and requested to enter one of the houses.

When pressed for information as to his identity he could not remember his name but repeated several times over that he came from an asylum.
Sheriff Edwards of Annapolis was notified at once and he was soon on the scene. The sheriff took charge of the unfortunate man and conveyed him to Annapolis. Neither the alms house at Annapolis or at Digby counties report the escape of any inmates. From the condition of the stranger he had apparently spent some days in the woods or wandering;
but, his beard was unkempt, no hat, coat or vest, an undershirt ripped to pieces and his trousers in shreds. His boots worn so that only the tops remained. Every effort is being made to clear up the mystery.

Digby Men Injured When Staging Falls

Three Nova Scotians, natives of Saulnierville, Digby county, were injured Thursday in Haverhill, Mass., when a staging on which they were standing preparatory to singing a roof, collapsed. The injured men, all cousins, were Leo Comeau, aged 28, Fred Comeau, age 46, and Amedee Comeau, aged 37. The parents of all three are residents of Saulnierville Station. Leo and Fred were the most seriously injured.
Leo sustained a broken nose, fractured leg and multiple bruises. Fred suffered a probable fracture of the hip and multiple bruises. Both suffered from the shock and were reported to be in extreme pain at Haverhill hospital. Their parents have been notified of their condition.

Amedee Comeau escaped with a severe shaking up, saving himself from more serious injuries when he caught hold of the gutter as the staging gave away; he hung on to the gutter until exhausted and he dropped 30 feet to the ground. He set himself for the fall, however, and was only stunned. He was able to drive his two cousins to the hospital in his auto.

Old People

Need a Tonic

Father John's Medicine Builds Them Up.

It is not uncommon for old people to be frail and weak and unable to resist the cold, as the chill of winter comes on.
This is because their body-energy is often at a low ebb. Due to advancing age, they are not able to obtain, from their ordinary food, the vital elements which are so necessary to restore strength and to maintain bodily warmth.

In just such cases as this, Father John's
Medicine has proved of the greatest benefit.
Its value, of course, lies in the fact that it is a wonderful food-tonic and body-builder.
It supplies just the nutritive elements that old people need to strengthen the body, enrich the blood and restore the vitality while its gentle, laxative effect helps to throw off the body impurities. By thus building up the system, and by soothing the irritated air passages, Father John's Medicine helps old people to get rid of coughs and colds, and to avoid taking harsh drugs.

Father John's Medicine has been used in thousands and thousands of homes, as a body-building food-tonic, for more than 75 years. It is perfectly safe, being absolutely free of alcohol and dangerous drugs.

The greatest apple crop in the history of Nova Scotia, is the almost unanimous opinion expressed by prominent fruit growers and Government experts of the province. It is estimated the crop will reach 2,500,000 barrels, at least half a million barrels more than any other crop ever raised in Nova Scotia.

In preparation for the opening of the 1929 big game hunting season in New Brunswick, 25,000 hunting licenses have been sent out from the Department of Lands and Mines to 300 vendors in all parts of the province.

E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, accompanied by a group of directors of the company, is now on his annual tour of inspection of company's properties and conditions in the west. Recent agricultural centres, experimental farms, mines and sporting plants, as well as the system itself was inspected during the tour. The inspection started September 5 from Montreal and closes at Winnipeg October 2.

"I am watching with the greatest interest the progress being achieved in the United States where railways are experts foring in the use of aeroplanes as adjuncts to their railway services," said E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, interviewed at Toronto recently. "There they are using planes by day in certain places and rail travel by night and the experiments are very interesting to me," the president added.

Two first prizes, three seconds, and a third award were won by the Canadian Pacific Railway supply farms championship Holstein herd from Strathmore, Alta., at the 66th annual provincial exhibition at New Westminster recently. This is a follow-up to the Vancouver Show where the herd led all others.

Up to the end of August, says Colonel J. S. Dennis, chief commissioner of the railway's department of colonization and development, the Canadian Pacific brought to Canada 1722 better placement in agricultural employment under the distributive schemes of the company. This is the largest number of British boys brought out to the Dominion by any one organization," says the Colonel.

Back from a month's wanderings along the line of the Dominion Atlantic Railway in Nova Scotia, Miss Juliette Gaudier de la Verendrye, noted folksong artist, stated that she has discovered 300 folksongs that were either quite unknown hitherto or else were interesting variants in melody and tune to similar songs in vogue among the French-Canadian habitants. She will sing some of them at forthcoming concerts.

During the first five months of the year 5380 farmsteads representing 852,210 acres of land were taken out in Alberta, settlement being mainly in the Edmonton, Calgary, Prairie, Peace River and Prince Albert districts.

TALK OF THE TOWN

On Saturday, (to-morrow) Miss Chisholm will put on Sale velvet hats for $1.50 each.

The Ladies Hospital Aid extends thanks to all those who contributed in any way toward the success of the recent Variety Sale, from which the sum of $100.25 was realized.

Just ten days more to Thanksgiving, not quite eight weeks to Christmas, and in less than nine weeks we will be wishing each other a Happy New Year. Surely time flies.

The Rebekah Hallowe'en Social on Monday evening was a great success in spite of the several other things taking place the same evening. A good programme of games, etc., was carried out and refreshments were served.

The beautiful weather we are having this fall is enabling the contractors of the new golf links to push their work and great progress is being made. Naturally it is their aim to get as much done as possible before the winter actually sets in causing suspension of the work.

The D. A. R. tool and trolley shed at Smith's Cove was totally destroyed by fire Friday evening. The blaze broke out about eleven o'clock, and the trolleys and section-men's tools fell prey to the flames. The origin of the fire is a mystery. The telegraph wires which passed over the building were also burned off, thus tying up telegraphic communication from the Digby offices until Saturday morning.

Mrs. Harry F. Williams entertained at bridge on Tuesday afternoon and evening. At the five tables of ladies in the afternoon the 1st, 2nd and 3rd prizes were won by Mrs. Frank Nicholas, Mrs. Roy Sypher and Mr. Frank Roop. In the evening the first prize (ladies) was won by Mrs. Frank Anderson, the second by Mrs. W. E. Tupper; the men's prize by Dr. G. V. Turnbull and the second, by R. H. Lockward.

The Soangetaba Class, of the United Sunday School, entertained many of their friends on Tuesday evening at the Life Saving Station, Bay View. About twenty-five young people left in cars for the Station early in the evening, well armed with a fish chowder supper. Arriving at their destination, they were most hospitably greeted by the members of the crew, and hastily proceeded to serve the supper. After the tea and a most enjoyable evening of dancing, the party extended a vote of thanks to their hosts and returned to Digby.

The meeting in favor of the Nova Scotia Temperance Act, held in the Bijou Dream on Monday evening was attended by about the same number of people who were present the week previously—by actual count only three different, 108 in the one case, 105 in the other. Apparently the Digby people took very little interest, at least outwardly, in the campaign. The speakers in the latter case were Rev. A. G. Pentz, of Weymouth and Rev. Dr. S. S. Poole, of Saint John—a former Yarmouth boy. As the issue has now been decided an extended report of the address is uncalled for and unnecessary, but both spoke well and left a good impression on their hearers.

Halifax Marine Gazette Makes Its Initial Bow

Volume 1, Number 1 of the "Halifax Marine Gazette," dated Thursday, October 31, 1929, has reached our office. This paper is published and edited by John T. McBride, a former Digby boy, and at one time editor of the old Digby Record.

Mr. McBride is well versed in the marine news of this province, having been for some time shipping editor of the Halifax Herald. The paper is a very well gotten up sheet, full of spicy nautical articles and news of interest not only to the sea farer but to the average citizen.

In an editorial which appears in this edition, Mr. McBride says—

"It is with a sense of deep satisfaction that I am enabled at this time to present the initial number of 'The Halifax Marine Gazette' to that portion of our people in the Maritime Provinces who are interested in marine matters.

"This publication which will appear weekly, will be devoted to the shipping interests of these three provinces down by the sea and dealing exclusively in marine news it has a purpose all its own to perform.

"I am in receipt of many letters of encouragement and with the pledged co-operation on the part of others it seems quite certain that the success of this publication is assured.

"The Courier" extends to Mr. McBride and his paper its best wishes for its success, and trust

Warne's Mill Largest Local User Of Ink In Digby

Mr. Griffith of the Montreal office of Mander Brothers, Printing Ink Manufacturers of Wolverhampton, England, made us a call on Monday. Mr. Griffith is very enthusiastic about Digby and hopes to bring his family down this way next summer.

He says that during the years he has been coming down this way making his semi-annual trips he has seen a great change in the town—for the better, most especially the past few years. The town has grown considerably, the New Pines Hotel has been built, and an all day electric service put into force. He also tells us that one of his best customers for printing inks in this section of the province is located in our town, namely H. T. Warne's box factory who use several hundred pounds of inks annually for printing on boxes. He considers from the ever increasing orders he receives from them that is one of the fastest growing enterprises in the western portion of the province.

that his paper will "live long and prosper."

Since the announcement of his intention to publish the "Halifax Marine Gazette" was made, the people of Digby have been eagerly awaiting its arrival.

New Hospital Will Occupy Ball Field

The new hospital is to be built on the grounds at present known as the ball field and which has been occupied the last few years as a camping ground for tourists. This was made possible by the action of the town council at its last meeting. A formal request was made by the Hospital Board in the following resolution which was sent to the council in a letter from the secretary:

"That the Board request the Town Council to donate, or lease to the Board, that portion of the Town Park, west of the Hospital, now known as the ball field, as a building site for the new hospital."

The council took the matter under consideration with the result that the following resolution was passed unanimously:

"Resolved that the ground known as the Base Ball Field be leased to the governors of the Digby General Hospital for a term of ninety-nine years, on payment or acknowledgment of the sum of one dollar per year, on the understanding that it is to be used for no other purpose than that of the Digby General Hospital."

Weddings

GAUDET—ROBICHAUD

St. Joseph's Church, Weymouth was the scene of a pretty event on Tuesday last week when Mrs. Sadie Robicchaud, of Corberrie, and Charles J. Gaudet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gaudet, St. Bernard's, were married.

The ceremony was performed, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends, by the pastor Rev. Father D. C. Melanson, who celebrated Nuptial High Mass.

The bride's maid was Miss Cerita Robicchaud, eldest daughter of the bride, while the groom was attended by a close friend, Ira Blance.

Following the ceremony and breakfast at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gaudet left by motor for Digby to spend the day. The happy couple, on their return to Mrs. Gaudet's home where they will reside, were greeted by about fifty of her friends. The evening was spent in games and music. A dainty luncheon was served to the guests, during the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Gaudet have the best wishes of all for a long and happy wedded life.

RICE—SULIS

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday night when Annie Charlotte, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Sulis and the late Capt. A. G. Sulis, of Deep Brook, became the bride of George Rice, of Annapolis. The wedding took place at the home of her mother in Deep Brook, and Rev. A. W. L. Smith of St. Clements Parish, was the officiating clergyman.

The bride, beautifully dressed in a gown of beige georgette, entered the room of the arm of her brother, Henry Sulis. The wedding march was played by Mrs. (Dr.) Dinsmore, of Port Clyde. Miss Clara Sulis, was maid of honor and was very tastefully dressed in black lace over peach satin.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts in silver, linen, etc., as well as money. A buffet luncheon was served after the ceremony which was witnessed by the immediate relatives of the contracting parties only. Mr. and Mrs. Rice will make their home in Annapolis Royal.

McBRIDE—BOWE

On Thursday, October 24th, 1929 a pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. E. W. Forbes, at the Methodist Parsonage, Digby, when Thelma Lois became the bride of Charles Frederick McBride, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. McBride.

Miss Bowe is the daughter of Mr. Hardy E. and the late Mrs. Bowe (nee Grace Savory)

Interesting Old Digby Newspaper Presented to Editor

Mr. Fred May presented the editor with a copy of "The Digby County News" of August 29, 1905. This is a copy of the first issue of this interesting little sheet published and sent "free to all subscribers of the Digby Courier."

The Digby County News was a four column sheet of four pages. The dimensions of the pages were 12 by 14 inches. An explanation is given that "The News" was published in order to take care of items crowded out of the previous issue of the "Courier", but the publishers had not decided whether or not they would continue publishing the additional paper.

H. T. Warne was the only local merchant to advertise in the paper, he inserted a half page ad on page three. George I. Brooks, of Bear River also carried a small advertisement for horse remedies, and there was one "blind" classified ad calling attention to a house to let. Minard's Liniment filers were also scattered throughout the paper.

The news items were mostly made up of village notes. Following are a few interesting paragraphs copied from the paper:

"Schr. Marguerite, of Weymouth from New York for Yarmouth, with a cargo of coal for Messrs. Killam Bros., ran ashore on West Chop, Vinnyard Haven, on Tuesday night. A later despatch says that she was floated on Wednesday morning, apparently uninjured, and proceeded."

"At a recent meeting of the Maritime Board of Trade held at Yarmouth, delegates were unanimous in the matter of a daily steamboat service (Sunday excepted) between Digby and Saint John throughout the entire year. It is thought that arrangements can be made to have at least a daily service for eight months during the year and alternate days during the other four. This service will prove an expensive one, but we believe it necessary and no doubt the government will assist with sufficient increase of subsidy to enable the Dominion Atlantic Railway Co. to give the service desired."

"A sad drowning accident occurred at Annapolis Saturday night. Two men named Wallace and Videto attempted to cross the river in a small boat which capsized in the strong tide which was running at the time. Wallace, who belonged to Clementsport, was drowned, Videto was saved. Wallace was single and about 23 years of age."

"Rev. S. Langille, pastor of the Baptist Church, at Centreville, is spending two weeks in Windsor. He will hold service as usual next Sunday evening."

"Those who desire to witness good horse racing should patronize the Gentlemen's Driving Park, Labor Day. We understand that the management are endeavoring to make the last race of the season a good one."

Willis Doucette Killed By Work Train

The tragic death of Willis Doucette, of Saulnierville, occurred in the Digby General Hospital, late yesterday afternoon, as the result of injuries sustained while employed with a work train crew at Clementsport earlier in the day.

It appears that Doucette in an attempt to throw off a brake with his foot, slipped, and fell, the train passing over his left leg, crushing it to a pulp. Doctors Campbell and Lovitt, of Bear River were immediately summoned and the injured man rushed to the hospital where the leg was amputated. He, however, succumbed to the shock shortly afterward.

Doucette was a man of about 33 years, married, and survived by a wife and one child.

Better Water Service For All the Town

A piece of work which is of far-reaching importance to the Town of Digby is now drawing near to completion in the extension and improvement of the water service. The work has been going on for the past two years. There was first the acquisition of Lily Lake, followed by the erection of dams to conserve the water, then the cleaning, changing and re-lining of the pipe lines. The lines have been extended up Church and Mount streets as far as Victoria street and the line is now under construction along Victoria street from Carleton to join with these two lines and thus complete the circuit. This does away with the dead ends on Carleton, Church and Mount streets and makes the whole water system one complete circuit. This will cause a better circulation, hence a better pressure and better water. It will also enable the residents on the hill to enjoy a measure of fire protection as two hydrants will be located at strategic points.

Six Wrote Examinations for Janitor

H. A. Russell, resident architect of the Department of Public Works, Halifax, was in town on Wednesday holding examinations for the position of janitor of the public building, rendered vacant by the superannuation of William Caines, who has held the position for many years. There were seven applicants for the position but only six appeared to take the examinations, namely, James Collins, who is filling the position temporarily; Gerald Syda, Archie Morehouse, Henry Stark, Jabz Appleby, all of Digby, and A. Worthylake, of Barton.

He was a shoemaker by trade and practised that business together with farming, all his working life. Fell From Apple Tree, Broke His Shoulder

The many friends of F. W. Kinney, of Barton, will regret to learn of the serious accident which befell him last Friday, when a ladder on which he was descending from an apple tree broke into three pieces causing him to fall a distance of fifteen feet. He landed on his right shoulder, which was badly smashed, and the right side of his body was severely bruised. Drs. Dickie and Harris were called and the sufferer was brought to the Digby Hospital. Owing to his somewhat advanced years it will no doubt take time for the bones to knit but Mr. Kinney is cheerful under the circumstances and this during the last day or two has shown a decided improvement. He is one of the best known men in the county and his friends will wish for him a speedy recovery.

Scallopers And Line Fishermen Doing Well

Judging from the reports that have been heard on the street the Digby scallopers are doing somewhat better this season than at this time last year. Several of the boats are dragging off Gulliver's Head with fair results.

During the past week, or so, line fishing down on the neck has been a little above the average, and good hauls have been reported at Centreville, Tiverton, and Westport and Gulliver's, some of the boats bringing in as much as 3,500 pounds to a set. Weather conditions have been fair to middling, and the fishermen are expecting to enjoy as good a fall season as last year's which was exceptional.

The schooner "Violet Pearl", Capt. Lewis, which has been helping out the steamers running between this town and Saint John by bringing general cargoes from that city, was in port again this week with a full cargo.

Parent-Teachers' Club Holds First Meeting

The first meeting of the pioneer Parent-Teachers' Club in Digby County was held on Tuesday evening in the school house at North Range, the president, J. Vian Andrews occupying the chair. This club was organized on October 29th 1929.

The minutes of the organization meeting were read, and a set of by-laws for the club were discussed and adopted. It was decided the meetings would be held on the first Tuesday of each month. The secretary of the club, Miss He'en Ranks, principal of the North Range School, and Mrs. H. Shorttilla were requested to prepare papers for discussion at the next meeting. The topic of discussion during Tuesday's meeting was "Health and Hygiene in the School" which was followed by several short readings and speeches by the members present.

The North Range Parent-Teacher's Club promises to be a very live and effective force in that community, and it is hoped that similar clubs will be organized in other rural communities of the county.

Sabbath Madness

The Sabbath, once the day of rest, is now fast becoming known as the day of eternal rest. For more people now go to an untimely death on that day than on any other day of the week. Mad motoring is responsible for this ghastly change.

The Sabbath was made for man to be sure, but not for the exercise of his utmost forces. Yefas surely as Monday rolls around, we have the gruesome front page news of the dead, the dying and the injured, who have apparently gone mad over Sunday and have paid the price.

This is not the full extent of the bad uses to which we are putting the Sabbath day, although they are the most spectacular. Add to this the list of the nerves of many a good wife, the tired body of many a husband, the unnatural stimulation of many children of the families that rise early and start out on a quest of a distance.

Past and furious driving is likely to mark such a trip, with many near accidents. The mind, body and soul undergoes almost every experience and emotion except those of rest and repose and recreation. Then the homeward journey and the sleep of exhaustion, or what is more likely, the sleeplessness of exhausted nerves.

The pendulum swings from extreme to extreme. The death like silence and stupor of the Sabbath of the past is gone and probably gone forever. But the deathly clamor of our Twentieth Century Sabbath is equally impossible. Wise motorists avoid Sunday travel as much as possible, or seek by ways and unrequited places. Or, what is best of all, use care to take them a relatively short distance to a spot where they may make the most of the day in the rest and recreation of body and spirit which alone justify the Sabbath.

How About Bootleggers?

There are many who lean to the view that as the result of the sweeping win of the Government Control forces, the bootlegging problem in the Province will not necessarily be greatly lessened, unless the Government is prepared to spend a great deal more money in combatting this illicit trade, and in franchising the Government Control Act make penalties so great and the enforcement of them so strict that it will not be profitable for the bootlegger to operate. Outside of the other Maritime Provinces, Nova Scotia is in a rather unique situation so far as the bootlegger is concerned, through the fact that smuggling is comparatively easy—much easier, in fact, along the Nova Scotia coast than is the case in either of the other Maritime Provinces. None of the other provinces face the same problem, or at least, not to the same degree. Ten dollars is saved on every gallon of rum that is smuggled in. That represents the duty which must be paid if liquor is to be legally sold. That too, to a large degree, represents the profit of the bootlegger, and thus he is able to compete successfully with legal sources of liquor supply and to have sufficient profit to both cut the price of the wet goods and have sufficient over to new home.

pay casual fines. Smuggling is not so simple in Ontario and the Prairie Provinces, and the bootlegger has less chance to successfully compete. This is going to be a pretty problem of Nova Scotia's in the near future.

Incubators In Use In Egypt Ancient Models

The incubator for hatching chickens is probably as old as history, which in the Mediterranean region runs back more than 4500 years. There were doubtless, incubators in Egypt before Moses was born, and to this day in that country they are just what they were in the lifetime of the great Hebrew leader.

The art of hatching chickens is handed down from generation to generation, from father to son, a secret craft. Baby chicks are an important article of trade, and they are produced by millions for export.

The typical Egyptian incubator is a crude and cumbersome affair when compared with the modern device. It is a building of considerable size, of sundried brick. Through it run one or more passages, and on both sides of each passage are ovens (so to call them) in two tiers. The oven at the ground level has a small door; the one directly above it is entered from beneath through a manhole. The ovens are arranged in pairs, one below and the other above. The eggs are placed in the lower oven, and a fire is lighted on the floor of the oven overhead, to furnish the warmth requisite for hatching.—San Francisco Chronicle.

WEDDINGS
DAKIN—ELDRIDGE

On Saturday last a very quiet wedding was solemnized in the Trinity Church, Saint John, when Josephine Loretta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Eldridge, of Digby, became the bride of James Daniel Dakin, also of Digby. The Rev. E. G. Lawrence, of that church, officiated. The only guest was the bride's intimate friend, Mrs. Hazel Erb, of Saint John.

Mr. and Mrs. Dakin spent the week end in Saint John, returning to Digby, where they will reside, on Monday morning. The many friends of "Tistie and Ted" will wish them much happiness in their new home.

Efforts to Make Children Into Angels By Hypnotising or Psyching Have Failed

Dr. Donald A. Laird of Colgate Writes Interesting Paper — Dr. Willard F. Read Tells Humorous Story.

"So you're a psychologist." The man who had just given me a light in the smoking compartment said in an intonation that I could have taken for astonishment, admiration, or perhaps contempt. Later I found out that he said this in anticipation.

He had to be told in complete honesty that psychologists could not tell him how to raise his children so they would be little angels and precious geniuses.

If you take the word of a small handful of psychologists for it, they can tell the waiting world how to raise children so they will be healthy, wealthy, and wise—especially wealthy and wise. If you take my word for it, and the word of the majority of psychologists, you will not pay much attention to the weighty advice about what your children should read, with whom they should sleep, how they should be caressed or not caressed, how love can replace the birch rod, how to develop strong-willed children, what will give them a lovable personality, and so on through the chapter headings which will sell any sort of book to all parents who hope to shine in the glory reflected from brilliant and charming progeny.

If a few psychologists were the only ones who believed they had the keys to child training the matter would not be so serious. But whole hordes of parents seem to believe in the all-powerfulness of psychological knowledge in rearing their children and think they can "psychic" their little dears into becoming geniuses.

I don't know whether a few psychologists have convinced parents that this is true, or whether the parents have convinced psychologists that they must have some precious private knowledge to dole out to help struggling parents; I rather believe that the parents' demand for help have produced abortive applications by psychologists, although it must be admitted that many psychologists have not turned down the compliment as they should have done if they had a scientific conscience.

A good many editors seem to think the same way that most parents do, at least this is indicated by requests I receive to prepare articles on child psychology. But when some editor asks me to prepare an article on what psychologists really do know about raising children I have reluctantly to turn the opportunity down, for all I can find to write on this positive topic would not fill two typewritten pages.

In fairness it should perhaps be stated that I received my first graduate degree for research in child psychology and that the first article I had published was on how to educate superior children and appeared of course, in the Yale Review. Since then I have written some 300 articles, and this is the second on raising children. That proportion of 2-300th about represents the real status of the field.

This state of affairs, of which most eager parents are ignorant, does not prevent psychologists from psyching their own children, although the one psychologist who probably knows more about the child mind than any other psychologist—Lewis M. Terman of Stanford University—is the quietest of the lot when it comes to telling how to raise children.

Professor Terman could do the best job of telling how, but he is devoting his time and the time of a dozen associates to reveal. Terman's mind is pregnant with facts about the child, but he is scientist enough not to miscarry these with premature applications. The ones with a little knowledge are on the alert to generalize and apply.

Some pitifully disastrous results have been achieved by psychologists in psyching their own children. It is rather common knowledge, for instance, about the distinguished psychologist who produced a spurious genius in one of his children by hypnotizing him and imparting advanced physical knowledge and character-building suggestions while the child was hypnotized. By adolescence the youth gave the appearance of genius and before he was of age had earned the degree of doctor of philosophy from a venerable eastern university for his accomplishments in the physical sciences.

Now he is one of the poorest paid clerks in a large office, has been in conflict with the law several times, is queer and erratic, and is more likely to be mistaken for the office boy than for the brilliant intellect his father thought was being developed.

Many psychologists have tried hypnotism to benefit their own children by giving hypnotic suggestions to their sleeping offspring. The most perfect case, which we have just reviewed, should later discourage these attempts.

Just a short time ago I also learned of a psychologist who attempted to hypnotize his wife so he could find out whether she had been unfaithful. His wife told my wife, and also elaborated on how she had pretended to have been hypnotized. Now it has spoiled my chances ever to hypnotize my wife—if I ever wanted to.

Then there is a rather famous case of the daughter of one of the lesser luminaries among academic psychologists.

Slightly more than 10 years ago her psychologist father was bragging to some fellow psychologist how he had solved the age-old problem in the case of his son and daughter by having them bathe together in the family bathtub that innocence might displace curiosity.

Now the son is an effeminate young bachelor who hates women, while the vivacious and attractive daughter is a high-strung young woman in her early thirties who spends much of her time amid the restorative, soothing baths of a health resort town.

Not all psychologists' psyching of their own children has terminated as depressingly as these two. There are countless highly entertaining episodes which illustrate the failure of psychology as applied by the psychologists.

Just recently, for instance, a psychologist who had never smoked was confronted with the distressing eagerness of his 10-year-old son to smoke.

Calling upon his "Sunday-best psychology" the father bought two cigars, and after dinner he and the son retired—or advanced—to the living room to smoke them behind closed blinds, on the theory that the son would be sickened and would thereby "negatively him to condition" tobacco.

It was a pretty theory and might have worked, but the father was the one that was sickened and could not attend classes the following day. The son took to the weed as a duck takes to water.

Somewhat similar was the experience of a certain midwestern psychologist who has been trying to give his young son and daughter moral lessons from life rather than from any "psychologically pernicious source such as teachings of alleged saints."

When a street carnival came to their university town of 6000 souls he thought that here would be a chance to point out the evils of gambling. So the really charming youngsters were taken to the carnival one afternoon, not as a pleasure lark as most people go, but as a source for moral lessons from life.

From a distance their father explained the foolishness of gambling and how they would each put a dime on numbers at the roulette wheel in the tent, beside the ferris wheel, watch the wheel spin around, and that would be all they would get for their money. "Now isn't gambling foolish?"

Shiny dimes were placed on three numbers, the wheel clicked, stopped, and the psychologist's family turned to leave. But the carnival operator called, "Just a second! This tall fellow in gray, who put his money on number four, wins the grand prize—a fox terrier puppy, intelligent and well bred, a companion for youth and age. Try your luck again, sir!" Now as the nearly grown puppy romps with the children the psychologist wonders just how good life itself really is as a moral instructor.

It is in the field of developing character that psychologists seem to be loudest in precepts, although Drs. Mark A. May and Hugh Hartshorn, who have done the most experimental work in this field, are very quiet about telling how to train and care for children to strengthen their moral fibre.

It is grossly in error to confuse psychological fact with the unusual ideas of one or two psychologists on how to develop strong character. Two guesses do not make a fact outside of Wall Street. Not only psychologists, but otherwise intelligent people, quickly become consummate jackasses when they are asked how to develop character.

But it was a psychologist who thought he was developing "control of impulses" when at one meal each week the center of the table was set with fresh fruits and cookies while the entire family ate only bread and water. "Stealing the will against temptation was the underlying theory as he expressed it, but to others it did not even appear as amusing as the Nova Scotia fisherman that Dr. Willard F. Read tells about.

This fisherman had the mouths of 10 children to consider in portioning the food, not to mention his own appetite, which was whetted by the tang of the sea. The fisherman was especially fond of sponge cake, but when divided among the 10 children he received scarcely more than a crumb. So when his appetite was biting and the cake was sponge he would allow the cake to be passed around the table, but as it came to the first child he would say "not you" and as it came to each of the others would repeat, "not you, not you, not you," for nine times.

Another psychologist has been regularly frightening his children so they will unlearn all fear when they find through experience that there is really nothing of which to be afraid.

These peculiar and unreasonable things psychologists do in the rearing of their own children, the lack of agreement among psychologists as to what is the right way to deal with

Stop Indigestion

Before It Begins

Don't wait for sourness, gas and the gnawing, gripping pains of indigestion to attack you before you seek relief. Stop these things before they start. Even the worst stomach sufferers avoid indigestion by forming the safe and pleasant practice of taking a little Bismarck—Bismarck—either tablets or powder—immediately after every meal. This instantly neutralizes excess acid in the stomach, prevents its further formation and really makes indigestion impossible. Food digests naturally, healthily, just as nature intended, giving the body the full benefit of its nourishing qualities. That is why Bismarck Magnesia is used every day of the world over, by many thousands of sufferer who now eat what they want with no more fear of indigestion. Druggists everywhere sell and recommend Bismarck Magnesia, a good time to start its use would be today.

Idea, Foundation

To Democritus

1720, Francis Hutcheson, in his "Inquiry into the Original of our Ideas of Beauty and Virtue", wrote: "That action is best which procures the greatest happiness for the greatest numbers; and that worst, which, in like manner, occasions misery." This is the earliest known use of the phrase "the greatest happiness of the greatest numbers." It was used by Cesare Beccaria in his "Treatise on Crimes and Punishments," first published in 1764. Later Jeremy Bentham, the English political philosopher, wrote: "Pleasure was the first (unless it was Beccaria) who taught my lips to pronounce this sacred truth—that the greatest happiness of the greatest number is the foundation of morals and legislation." The general idea conveyed by the phrase, however, is found in the writings of some of the ancient, notably Democritus.—Pathfinder Magazine.

History of The Term "Indian Summer"

Thanks to the industry of Albert Matthews, of Boston, a copious fund of information concerning the history of the term "Indian summer" was published in the year 1902, though the origin of the term then remained in doubt and does to this day. At that time the earliest known use of the name was in an entry dated October 13, 1794 in the journal of Maj. Ebenezer Denny, kept in western Pennsylvania. Three examples dated from 1790 have since been found in a journal kept by Gen. Josiah Harmar during an expedition against the Indian villages near the present site of Fort Wayne, Ind. No earlier use of the term is known in English, but the French equivalent of "Indian summer," with a description of the season, occurs in a book published in Paris in 1787, quoting a letter supposed to have been written in 1778.

The first dictionary record of the term is said to be that found in the 1841 edition of Webster. DeQuincy used the term in England in 1830, and it has long been well established throughout the English-speaking world. Alfred Austin, as poet laureate, found "An Indian Summer" a fitting title for the poem he addressed to queen Victoria on her 18th birthday, containing the lines:

"Long may the Indian summer of your days— Yet linger in the land you love so well."

Clare Teachers Hold Institute At Meteghan

The Teachers' Institute of Clare District, Digby Co., met at Meteghan on Tuesday of last week. Forty-five teachers were in attendance. Among those present were Inspector L. A. d'Entremont, Dr. DeWulf, Miss Bacon and Miss Cochran. The local Branch of the Women's Institute very kindly entertained the visitors and teachers at luncheon. The day proved one of the most enjoyable of its kind. Everyone returned to his or her school spurred on to do greater things in their own little world—the classroom. The session closed with a re-organization of the local branch of the Teacher's Union. The order of business was as follows: the enrollment of members, which totalled nearly forty. The election of officers resulted in the following appointments: President Miss Lucile LeBlanc; Vice Pres. Miss Amelia Belliveau; Secy., Miss Marguerite Lombard, Executive Committee, Miss Clara Comeau, Miss N. L. Belliveau. Miss Catherine Theriault, delegate to the Nova Scotia Teachers' Union in Halifax last march gave a report of the meeting.

The Boast Of Canada

Wheat was, and still is, the boast of Canada, and never was there a time when it has been chased off the high seas, declared Dean Rutherford, member of the Saskatchewan Royal Grain Commission. Canadian wheat has a quality of its own, he declared. "Even our number five wheat was quoted at equal and a little better than export wheat from other countries," he said.

Efforts to Make Children Into Angels

children, as well as the silence of those who really know when it comes to practical guidance, should make it rather obvious that psychology will not be ready to supplant common sense in the rearing of children for some years to come.

But this does not prevent psychologists from wanting to take charge of the children of the world so they can condition, uncondition and recondition children, although Ivan Pavlov, who has most complete knowledge, of conditioned reflex mechanisms, states flatly that he can find little warrant for applying his findings on dogs to the practical conduct of human affairs. And Pavlov is the one man in Russia who speaks his mind without fear or favor and is also not accustomed to saying what psychologists want him to say unless his judgment prompts him.

Neither has the lack of more than two pages of definite and valid information on how to develop character and virtue in childhood prevented the profitable endowment of private secondary schools which allege to develop just these things.

One such school in a large eastern city has gained an international reputation because it has the reputation of building unusual character in its students. Recent actual tests of children who had received the "exceptional ethical training" in this large school revealed that in actual life situations where natural opportunity, but not temptation was given for them to lie, cheat, and steal, these children did more of these three things and more seriously than taxicab drivers' children from plain public schools where there had been no trick psychological systems of ethical development. It may be a good psychological theory they have, but it seems to work backwards.

I may be taking the general belief in the value of psychological information for parents too seriously, for there is a wide gap between what one believes and what one does. The mother of three may believe it all at the Parent Teachers' meeting or at her Civic club, but she doesn't act upon it when her Willie comes in spattered with road tar.

This chasm between belief and practice is splendidly illustrated by the unintentional admission made by one of the foremost professional pleaders for psychological care of infants and children. Before marriage he and his wife had become interested in each other through their mutual scientific study and care of children.

Upon their marriage everyone of their acquaintances thought that in a few years there would be on record unusually complete and ingenious reports of experiments on their own children. But nothing of the sort: the lady scientist turned out to be as emotional and as partial as any mother and there will be no experimenting with her own children.

This is the crestfallen admission of her husband. It is also interesting that the psychologist-husband still believes there are no material impulses in the weaker sex, despite mother emotion overruling the "conditioned scientific reactions" of his wife to children other than his own. Women are that way, and apparently psychologists as well.

Ever since the vogue of child study circles about a quarter of a century ago, there has been a barrage of well-meant propaganda and misleadingly hopeful articles for parents on caring for children psychologically. Child study circles have dwindled. Bridge has taken the place of some of them. Parent Teacher groups have replaced others shifting the topics from what we can do for our children's minds to what we can buy for the school by giving a dance.

In practically all cities where child study bureaus had been established on an official division of the department of education they have been discontinued, or are hobnobbing freely along making surveys of the home opportunities of deaf and blind children. But the barriage of hope-inspiring literature from the pens of psychologists, real unspurious, continues and perhaps always shall because hope of parents for glory in their offspring seems to burn eternal in the maternal bosom.

The application of psychological principals in the presentation of classroom material by a teacher is entirely a different story, and one that is most encouraging scientifically. The successful educational application of psychology has unfortunately misled parents in their estimation of its virtues for their own use. Perhaps some day the train shall meet, but I doubt it. Fathers and mothers will have to be altered considerably before that glorious day arrives on the horizon.

While we are waiting for this day to dawn I don't think we need be especially concerned that our children will suffer from ignorant management. For myself, I would rather my child grew up by neglect and hard knocks from the real world itself than from any psychology. That is that he is doing and he is still out of jail, in his right mind, has an appetite, knows enough to come in out of the rain, and still lifts his hat to the ladies. I believe I have achieved a record of some sort by being the only psychologist in the world who has not experimented on or psyched his own family.

History was made in Canada when Chief Himbatoowahwah, (Himbatowahwah, Decoy), of the Ojibways, met and greeted in all friendliness Chief Ocanapoto (Deer) of the Inuits, at Caughnawaga Indian Reserve, near Montreal, recently. There is no record of these tribes ever having met before in Canadian history. The Ojibway Chief is better known as Paul Cameron, head Indian guide, for the past thirty years at Nipigon Camp, northern Ontario. He either could speak a word of the other's language and conversed through the medium of English.

Judges of the annual fishing contests held at French River, Nipigon and Devil's Gap (Lake of the Woods) hunting camps, have announced the winners as follows: W. H. Grat, of New York, and Frank S. Slossom, of Chicago, tied for the trophy in French River, with a 50-lb. muskellunge each; J. H. Lemm of Hammond, Ind., won the Nipigon trophy with a 74-lb. speckled trout closely followed by Mrs. Bundy, of Kansas City, with a 7-pounder; and A. R. Joslin, Jr., of Cincinnati, took the Devil's Gap trophy with a bass weighing 3 pounds, nine ounces.

"The destiny of Canada and Japan lie together in the great Pacific Ocean," declared Hon. Iyemasa Yokogawa, K.C.V.O., first minister to represent the Emperor of Japan, when he reached the Dominion soil here with the arrival of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France, at Vancouver recently. He was accompanied by Togo Fumimasa, Japanese Consul-General, both of them being on their way to Ottawa, where the former later delivered his credentials.

What is regarded as a record movement was made recently at the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool Elevator No. 7 at Port Arthur, when in 4 1/2 hours, 550,000 bushels of wheat were transferred from the elevator to the hold of the steamship Le Moyne. There were periods during the loading of the ship when the wheat was carried like a torrential golden river from the elevator at the rate of 2,664 bushels per minute.

Fifty different steamship lines now serve to carry Canadian products to every continent from the port of Vancouver, states a recent trade review issued by the Royal Bank of Canada. The review adds that as well as the 120 different great ports have had difficulty in maintaining their pre-war volume of trade, traffic through the port of Vancouver has experienced steady growth. From 132 ocean-going ships in 1913, the number increased to 344 in 1928. During the past year total trade of the port had a value of $280,000,000.

The largest sugar beet crop on record in Southern Alberta is being harvested in the Raymond district, centre of the industry. About 5,500 acres were sown in sugar beets this year, 2,000 more than in 1928, and the crop will on estimate yield about 55,000 tons, or 22,000 above last year's production.

First Excursion Train Was In Aid Temperance

On July 5, 1841, when a "Puffing Billy," hauling two dozen open railway "carriages"—they were called "tubs" at that time—steamed out of the station at Leicester, England, bound for Loughborough, 11 miles away, it marked an occasion memorable in railway annals, for it was the first excursion train ever run.

The train carried 570 passengers to a temperance meeting, and the organizer of the excursion was Thomas Cook, then a young printer of Market Harborough, later to become famous as the promoter of Cook's tours.—Detroit News.

Life looks rosy for him

Health worth more than fortune

THE baby to be envied is the one who is born with an inheritance of perfect health, to begin with. And who's lucky enough to have a mother who knows how to build up this fortune.

"Perhaps I'm old-fashioned," she'll say to the doctor who pronounces the child physically 100% at a baby show, but this health certificate means more to me than all the stock certificates in the world. If my baby grows up strong and well, I'm willing to leave it to him to make a career and fortune for himself.

"Already I'm teaching him the value of regular habits. Regular sleep, regular meals, regular functions. He's never once been off schedule, not even when he was cutting teeth or fussing because of the country. I make sure of that by giving him Nujol regularly."

Nujol works so easily and naturally that it won't upset a baby under any conditions. It keeps everything functioning properly. It not only prevents any excess of body poisons (we all have them from forming but aids in their removal. It is safe and sure. Nujol was perfected by the Nujol Laboratories, 26 Broadway, New York.

Just try Nujol for your baby. Give it to him regularly for the next three months. See if it doesn't make things much easier both of you. Certainly it could do no harm—for Nujol contains no drugs or medicine. Your druggist carries it. Be sure you get the genuine. Sold only in sealed packages.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Next Monday is Thanksgiving Day—hence a public holiday. The barge Daniel Munroe will lay up here again this winter. She arrived yesterday.

The Boy Scouts want a cook stove. Who has got a second-hand one they can give the boys?

The Baptist Church will hold its annual Christmas Sale in the vestry on Thursday, December 12th.

The veterans will parade to the Monument for a Memorial Service at 11 a.m., Armistice Day. They will meet at Legion rooms at 10 a.m.

The ladies of the United Church will hold their Christmas tea and sale on Tuesday, December 17th.

Mrs. Stanley Aymar entertained at six tables of bridge on Wednesday afternoon. The first prize was won by Mrs. Fritz Dakin.

The regular monthly meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses, Digby branch, will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the Court House.

A Thanksgiving Service will be held in Grace Church on Monday morning, at 11 o'clock. Rev. A. G. Pentz of Weymouth will be the preacher.

The Children's Aid Society acknowledges with thanks, the receipt of $75.92, the returns from a pie social held at Culloden, donated to the Society.

Armistice Day will be observed in Grace United Church next Sunday morning. A special form of service will be used and the music will be appropriate to the day.

Juliette Gaultier, celebrated singer of Acadian folksongs, repeated her recital given at Acadia University last week, at St. Anne's College, Church Point, on Tuesday. The invitation to present her concert was sent by Rev. Father Quo, superior of the institution, and the same program as heard at Wolfville was given.

At the regular communication of King Solomon Lodge, A. F. and A. M. held on Tuesday evening, Dr. L. H. Morse, of Lawrencetown, D. G. E., paid an official visit. Quite a number of visitors were present presenting lodges in Lynn, Mass., Toronto, Lawrencetown and Parrsboro. After the meeting refreshments were enjoyed.

Armistice Day will be observed on Sunday by the Digby Branch of the Canadian Legion by holding an open air service at the monument at 11 o'clock, afterwards attending Divine service at the Salvation Army. The local officers will be assisted on this occasion by Brigadier Tilley, of Halifax, who will also help in the other services on Saturday evening and Sunday.

The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society called for Tuesday evening was, on account of lack of advertising, a partial failure. Nine were present—more than a quorum it is true—but it could not be called a representative meeting. We believe that some announcements had been made from the pulpits but that alone will not draw a crowd. Nothing was done and the meeting was postponed until Monday, the 18th.

During the week the town has been visited by Major Rudland and "Jack" Hires, both of Halifax, the first-named the chief fire ranger of the province and the latter, connected with the Board of Fire Underwriters. They were making enquiries into the water pressure and the steps being taken for fire protection. They made a thorough investigation and expressed themselves as being very well pleased with the work done and underway. The work at Lily Lake has had the effect of giving the town twice as much water as they ever had before and the possibility of there being a scarcity is entirely eliminated.

Veterans Observe Armistice Day

The returned men of Digby, led the local troop of Boy Scouts, and to the soldier's monument on Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Forming in front of the monument, the two minutes' silence was observed by the masses who had gathered from many sections of the town to pay their homage to the fallen men from Digby, who had laid down their lives for King and country.

Dr. G. V. Turnbull read off the names of comrades inscribed on the monument and to that list the names of other comrades who have since passed on. His Worship, Mayor T. E. G. Lynch, gave a very fitting speech. He was followed by H. B. Short, M. P., who laid on the monument the wreath presented by the Government of Nova Scotia. Dr. Turnbull spoke for the returned men and tendered a vote of thanks to Mr. Boden, town clerk, who dedicated so much of his time in planning and looking after the memorial service. Mr. Boden replied to this vote of thanks and stated that this work was a work of love.

On Sunday special services were observed in the local churches. In the morning the veterans marched to the Salvation Army barracks where a special service was held for them. A special Thanksgiving service was held Monday morning in the Grace United Church. The speaker on this occasion was Rev. G. Pentz, pastor of the United Church at Weymouth.

Home of John Theriault Burned

The residence at Roxville, known as the Will Ross Place, occupied by "Blind Johnny" Theriault, was totally destroyed by fire during the night on Saturday, November 2nd. All furnishings were lost.

Mr. Theriault, who is totally blind, is the father of a large family. Since the fire the family has gone to East Ferry where they are scattered about in the various homes in that village.

Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Chute and family, of Little River, have returned after spending three weeks' vacation at Mrs. Chute's home, Indian Harbor, Halifax County. They also spent a few days at Greenfield, Queens County, en route.

Little River Monument Unveiled

A very impressive dedication and memorial service was held at the monument recently erected at the "square" Little River to the memory of Pte. Roscoe Trask, of the 112th Battalion, C. E. F., killed at Passchendaele, November 16, 1917. Age 18 years and 5 months.

After the singing of "O Canada" and the observation of two minutes' silence, the dedication service was read, and prayer offered by the Rev. C. L. Chute. Rupert Trask, who served three and one half years with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces placed the memorial wreath, and spoke of his experiences on the first Armistice Day.

Rev. C. L. Chute, who also served overseas gave an address in which he called upon the young people of the community to remember the sacrifices of the past, to bear forward the torch, and to work and pray for peace on earth. The National Anthem was sung in closing.

The Little River Monument bears the following inscription: "In honor of the World's War Veterans 1914-1918"

LIFEBOAT - WOMEN NOW!

WOMEN may soon "man" the lifeboats now, if this young lady's example is followed. Miss Lilly Allison, stewardess on the Cunard liner "Alania", is the first woman in the 90 years of Cunard history to pass the British Board of Trade examination and receive a certificate as a "lifeboatman". She is here seen receiving instructions from Third Officer MacKellar on the ship.

OBITUARY

ENSLIE STAILING

Word has been received in Digby this week of the death of a very prominent citizen of Digby in the earlier days of the town, namely Ensle Stailing, who died at the home of his daughter in Portland, Me., on Saturday last, at the age of 80 years.

Born at Annapolis Royal on the 2nd day of February, 1849, the son of the late George and Susan LeCain Stailing, moved to Digby with his parents several years later, where he and his father, under the name of G. Stailing & Son carried on a large livery business. They, in partnership with the late Mr. Rogers, conducted a mail coach service between Digby and Yarmouth, and for many years operated the mail service on Digby Neck, and before the advent of the railroad, cross country mail and coach service between Annapolis Royal and Liverpool.

The late Mr. Stailing was a member of the Digby town council in the early days of the town's incorporation, also a member of the school board.

He, with his father also ran the old International Hotel which stood on the site now occupied by the Royal Bank of Canada Building. The front of the old hotel still stands and is now the front of the home of H. T. Wayne.

Mr. Stailing was twice married, by his first wife, who was Miss Carrie Jenkins, of Yarmouth, three daughters survive him, Susan, Margaret and Martha.

He is survived by his second wife, formerly Miss Florence Jones, of Digby, also by one son and daughter, Clifford and Helen. Mrs. S. I. McKinnon and P. LeCain Wright of Digby are cousins.

Warne's Mill Makes Splendid Showing

One very noticeable feature in connection with the Armistice Day Service held in front of the Monument, was strong turnout of the employees of H. F. Warne's mill among the returned men who conducted the service. Practically one half of their number were mill employees.

This certainly speaks well for Warne's Mill, and is a splendid evidence of the type of men employed there, and also bespeaks the patriotism of Mr. Warne, whose mill was not only made short, handed on account of the enlistment of so many of his men, but was granted the upper story in his Water Street Block as recruiting headquarters during wartime.

Miss Freeborn B. Outhouse entertained about thirty of her little friends at her birthday party on Tuesday evening, Nov. 5th. She received many useful gifts also a sum of money.

Weddings

BRUCE-HALLETT

A quiet but very pretty wedding of special interest to a wide circle of friends, took place in New York City on the ninth of this month, when Miss Daisy Kathleen Hallett, youngest daughter of Dr. E. O. Hallett, of Weymouth, became the bride of Dr. Gordon Murphy Bruce, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Bruce of Shelburne. The ceremony took place at half-past three o'clock on the afternoon of Nov. 9th in the Church of the Transfiguration, and was attended by many friends and relatives.

The bride, whose glowing brunette loveliness was enhanced by her costume of deep brown tone silk velvet, fashioned on the beautifully simple lines of the princess style, was indeed a charming figure. She wore brown shoes of combined suede and kid, gloves of egg shell and an exquisite little hat of brown. She was given in marriage by her father. There were no attendants.

The bride has a great many friends in Weymouth and elsewhere whose greatest pleasure is in wishing her every happiness, and whose keenest regret is that her new home is so far from them all. Always an active member of her church, she has also been a valuable member of the women's auxiliary. She is a willing worker and gave her support to many a deserving cause, and she is known widely as a popular and talented hostess whose genuine hospitality will be much missed in her former home.

Many showers bespoke the regard of friends, one of particular interest being the large bridge and shower given in her honor by Mr. J. A. Grieson at "Beauregard", just before her departure.

Dr. Bruce is a graduate of Dalhousie Medical Class of 1925. He then took a post graduate course at Oxford, later doing special work in Montreal. He has shown splendid ability and fine perseverance which have won for him an excellent practice in New York as an eye specialist.

After the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Bruce left for Washington, D.C., for a brief wedding trip before taking up residence in their new home. Among those present at the wedding were: Dr. E. O. Hallett, Weymouth; Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Bruce, Shelburne; Dr. and Mrs. Torr, Weymouth (nee Barbara Hallett); and A. W. Bruce of New York.

An adjourned annual meeting of Digby Co. Children's Aid Society will be held in the Court House on Monday evening, November 18th at 8 o'clock. Come.

Canada Mourns Death of Hon. J. A. Robb

Hon. James Alexander Robb, Minister of Finance in the Canadian Government, died in Toronto on Monday just when he was believed to be on the road to recovery after an illness of pneumonia. In Mr. Robb, Canada possessed a man distinguished in public affairs and universally respected because of his sterling integrity and high principles, coupled with sympathetic understanding of humanity.

Not Government and Parliament alone, but all Canada, has suffered a sad and heavy loss in the death of Hon. James A. Robb, the capable, gentlemanly Minister of Finance, who passed away at Toronto Monday afternoon. For this man was more than just the holder of a portfolio: he was a citizen of sterling worth and high character and an administrator of infinite capacity for tasks weighty and perplexing.

No one ever could think of the Minister of Finance as a politician in the ordinary acceptance of the term. He was everything but that. Those who knew him long and well will look back across the years today and have difficulty in remembering when he was not one of the most popular figures at Ottawa. Even back in the times when he was a private member of the House, affectionately known as "Jim" Robb, he was beloved for his warm heart and honored for his forthright dealings.

One of the fairest of debaters, a good friend quite regardless of political affiliations, "The Valley-field Miller" won a place in the affections of all who live in the parliamentary world that is Ottawa. He became Chief Whip of his party in the House—and he was still the genial "Jim" Robb. He was "Jim" Robb to the end.

The cares of office, the multitude of duties, the importunities to which ministers of the Crown are always subjected, the criticism of his estimates, none of these things could touch the soul of the man nor ruffle his even disposition.

We of this office knew him personally, some of us knew him well, and it has been our privilege on more than one occasion to pay tribute to his fine qualities of mind and heart. We repeat those tributes today, in a sad hour for this Dominion.

Mr. Robb succeeded Mr. Fielding at the Ministry of Finance, and that did not make his task any the easier. To take up the work of "The Little Grey Man" from Nova Scotia was to have immediately set for that work the high standard in Finance of which the name Fielding was the hall-mark. But no one can fairly say that "The Little Grey Man's" work suffered at the hands of his successor.

The man who died Monday was not "spectacular," nor yet a "warrior"—he was steady, sure-footed and possessed of real, solid ability for his duties. He worked hard, because he knew there was no royal road to getting work done; knew that ministers of the Crown do not inherit "magic wands" to wave over their tasks and make them disappear, to apply to their problems and produce solutions without laborious application. He was patient, purposeful, and out of what Winston Churchill would call a "reasonable and compassionate" mind he gave the best he had to give to the great national demands that were placed upon him.

It is not a time for drawing distinctions, but it would be less than justice to his memory to fail to recognize that Hon. James Robb was one of the strong men of the Ministry. His colleagues relied upon his judgment and respected his advice. The Prime Minister must have found him a veritable tower of strength in the Cabinet. In the House he was listened to with all the respect he must have commanded behind the closed doors of the council chamber, and that respect

Auto Accidents Levy Tragic Toll

The eleven automobile accidents reported in the Halifax papers over the past week end, levied a tragic toll of three dead and sixteen injured, one of whom probably fatally. The dead are:

Robert Fullerton, 80, of Pictou, who was struck by a car driven by William R. MacKeen, died in the hospital there a few hours afterwards.

Edwin Hiscock and his twelve year old son, James, of Halifax, were killed in a crash between car and train at Enfield, Hants Co. Mrs. Edwin Hiscock, who was in the car with her husband and son is not expected to live.

Since January 1st automobile accidents, up until November 12th, have exacted a terrible toll, as follows:

Accidents	946
Killed	57
Injured	560

The fact that 57 persons have lost their lives through automobile accidents in the province of Nova Scotia this year should cause any driver to think twice before "taking chances" on the road. It is stated that the majority of automobile accidents are caused through carelessness. The old proverb, "Familiarity breeds contempt" well applies to the motorist.

Mr. Limbrey, Director of Scouting for the Province of Nova Scotia who was to be in Digby this week has had to postpone his engagement. He will be with the Digby Scouts on Nov. 19, 20, and 21.

The towing scow, Louise M. Capt. W. H. McKisley, arrived on Tuesday from Parrsboro and cleared on Wednesday for Annapolis.

extended to all quarters of Parliament.

He was older than most supposed, and while his death will come as a great shock to all, many will remember that the illness which brought the end was one from which a man of his years was not likely to recover without heavy reserves of vitality upon which to draw.

And now he is gone, after a splendid fight that was so characteristic of him. History will give him a place among those who labored well for Canada since Canada was a Dominion. His kindly heart, his high ideals, his zeal, and devotion to duty—the memory of these remain as an inspiration for all who will come after.

Iron Ore Used For Road Construction

A section of the Granville Road connecting the villages of Port Wade and Victoria D'ach, now under construction, when completed can rightly be called "the iron road."

Years ago—1909 or thereabouts, an iron mine was opened at Torbrook and Port Wade, situated across the Annapolis Basin from Digby was considered to be the logical shipping point for the ore, and right away thousands of dollars were spent in order to make Port Wade an up-to-date shipping port.

One of the finest piers in the province, with ore pits, and other accessories for handling the iron were built there, the Halifax and South Western Railway (now C. N. R.) ran a branch line down from Middleton—a distance of fifty miles or so—just to carry ore to Port Wade for shipment. Port Wade grew and prospered.

For some reason or another the ore was not of the right quality and only one or two shipments were made. The pier is now a "mere shadow of its former self," dilapidated, all its special fixtures gone, and in a very poor state of repair.

The railway, which up until a few years ago, ran a train over the line one return trip a week, has since been abandoned, and most of the rails taken up.

However, during the short iron ore boom, large quantities of ore were dumped at Port Wade, and stuck there. This ore is now being used for road making material, and quite a stretch of roadway between Port Wade and Victoria Beach is now covered with this material, instead of gravel. This District will not only have the distinction of an "iron road", but, all things considered, can boast of the most expensive bit of roadway in the province.

On Wednesday evening the usual prayer meeting of the United Church was conducted by the young people of the Sogaetha Class and the Live Wire, C. G. I. T. group. The Sogaetha class president, Harry Durant, presided, the following program was as follows: Hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past"; Thanksgiving prayer—Harry Durant; Talk on the "Temptations of Jesus"—Helen Syda, Responsive Reading, Reading "Harvest"—Frances Appleby Duest—"I came to the Garden Alone"—Harry Durant and Mary Holdsworth Hymn—"Far and Near" After the program, Mr. Forbes gave a short talk and the meeting adjourned to the little chapel at the goal where it was repeated.

Carlos Connell, who is on his vacation, spent a few days in Saint John this week.

SCHOOL PRIZES

Are the citizens of Deep Brook more public spirited in matters relating to their school than we of Digby?

Perhaps you noticed in the Deep Brook village notes published in last week's "Courier" where the citizens of that village had posted a school prize list amounting to $88.00 to be divided equally among the two departments of that school. The money has all been subscribed, and the prizes will be awarded at the end of the school year. If, in a small village, such as Deep Brook, $88 can be raised for school prizes, why can't we in Digby subscribe a proportionate amount to be distributed among the pupils of all the grades in the Digby Academy?

We understand that a small prize list is awarded to the pupils of the lower grades by the school board each year, but the sum is only a comparatively small one, and the prizes are merely taken up to the school and distributed to the pupils without much ado.

In the days when M. K. Harding was principal of the Digby Academy there was a big prize list. The prizes were formally distributed to the pupils during the first quarter of the new term. This was done in order to award prizes to those pupils who wrote the Provincial Exams.

The Commencement Exercises were held in the theatre, parents, pupils and teachers taking a great interest in them, and each pupil who received one of the generous cash prizes felt that he or she had been duly rewarded and those who did not receive prizes were inspired to work that much harder for a prize the next year, and consequently the pupils took that much more interest and care in their studies, and more pride in their school simply because of the inspiration of a prize list.

Last week the "Liverpool Advance" published the names of donors of prizes to be awarded to pupils of the Liverpool Academy next year, the list totalled $229 exclusive of a silver cup. If Liverpool can raise over $200 for school prizes, Digby citizens ought to be able to raise somewhere near that amount, and the investment would be a sound one. Think it over.

The Public Has a Short Memory

In 1904 Pyle's Pearline was favorably known to most American housewives. That year the owners spent $500,000 in advertising it. It was an outstanding success.

Three years later the owners felt it was so well known that they could afford to save that $500,000 a year. They ceased to advertise.

Eight years later, in 1915, the whole works, good will and all, was sold for $12,000. The public has a short memory.

A short time ago the writer was told by a member of the advertising department of one of the largest soap manufacturers that, according to their surveys, a manufacturer of a new brand of toilet soap today could not attain national distribution and consumption of his product for less than five million dollars or in less than five years' time. The public must be told—and told again.

Probably no advertising appropriation has received more publicity or been discussed more than that of the

AND, judging by its enormous sales, most people in Eastern Canada seem to prefer King Cole. To King Cole lovers we send this message: Try one pound of King Cole Orange Pekoe. It costs you more because it costs us more. It costs us more because we use only the tender young shoots and buds leaves of the tea plant and also because we blend into it just enough of costly, fragrant Darjeeling from the Himalayas and equally expensive, vigorous Travancore plucked when the warm monsoons sweep the hills of Southern India.

American Tobacco Company for advertising Lucky Strike cigarettes.

For advertising this single commodity and brand they appropriated $12,300,000 for the year 1929. Of this amount daily newspapers are receiving $6,500,000. The public must be constantly reminded, which is a newspaper's function.

What holds true of Lucky Strike holds true of everything people eat, wear or use. It is the function of the printer to also help to tell this story. In most communities there are a lot of merchants who haven't learned yet what their printer can do for them.—Wroe's Writings.

"Buster" Checks Up On Sports Editor

Sport Editor, Chronicle:—I enclose clipping from the sports page of a recent issue of your daily which States: "That New Glasgow, runners-up for the Nova Scotia hockey title last winter."

As I understand it, Digby Red Ravens, and Halifax Wolverines played off for the Nova Scotia title which was easily won by Halifax but which nevertheless, leaves us as runners-up. How do you explain this. I would appreciate an answer, preferably through your sports column.

Digby, N. S.

Nov. 2, 1929.

Mr. Walker: You are right. The Digby Red Ravens were the runners-up for the Nova Scotia title. This despite the fact that they were not, at any time, regarded as dangerous rivals. New Glasgow, on the other hand, gave the Halifax Wolverines a great fight for the right to continue in the series for the provincial title. The New Glasgow team is regarded in many quarters as the runners-up but this is not correct. Thanks for checking up on the story under the New Glasgow headline. Sport Editor Chronicle.

NEW SOURCES OF PAPER

The publication of a book, a magazine, and several newspapers printed on paper made from corn stalks proves that the utilization of this farm waste is at least possible if not yet profitable. Excellent specimens of paper have also been made from cotton seed, after the oil has been extracted and sold for soap or salad dressing.

In Sweden straw is made available for fine letter paper, as well as kraft and newspaper, by a new process. This consists in cutting the straw into inch lengths and then cooking it in a digester at lower temperature and pressure than customary so as to leave the glutinous substance of the straw. The same process can be applied to sugar cane and grasses.

Esparto grass is now being employed in Italy for the manufacture of artificial silk by the viscose process. A hundred pounds of esparto yield forty-two pounds of refined cellulose. The esparto shipped from Algeria, Tunisia, Tripoli and Spain amounts to over 200,000 tons a year, most of it going to England for paper.

The Australians, who blacken more clean white paper with printer's ink than any people except the Americans in proportion to their population, and who make none of it now, are experimenting with the timber of the eucalyptus, which is their most common tree. They have found it entirely feasible to prepare from it a good white grade of wood pulp, and they are hoping to get it cheap enough so they can make their own books and papers as well as their own stockings and dresses.

There is, of course, no end of sources of paper, since the material cellulose forms the fiber of all vegetation.

The congressman who proposed to print the Congressional Record on cornstalk or straw paper was a bit premature in his project, and laid himself open to the retort from those who are skeptical of the present state of the art that this is a good idea, for then the Record would decay even more quickly than does the wood-pulp paper now used. But if congressmen realized that through the use of cornstalk paper by the government printing office they would contribute to farm relief by every word they said, they would be tempted to lengthen their filibusters and extend the leave to print.

Turnips Which Are Turnips

Last week our North Range correspondent told us of a turnip raised on the farm of Jesse Wright that measured 2 feet 7 inches around and weighed 12 pounds. A short piece about this turnip also appeared, printed in black face type, in both the Halifax Chronicle and Daily Star—in fact we all thought that this was a big turnip.

However, we were disillusioned. Mr. Wright's turnip was only "a little feller" when compared with those the Saint Croix correspondent to the Halifax Chronicle tells us about. He says that one farmer there grew one which weighed 23 pounds, and that turnips ranging from 12 to 14 pounds were quite plentiful. If any local farmer can beat this, we certainly would like to hear from him.

Gulliver's Cove Runway Completed

The new ways for runways, on the beach at Gulliver's Cove are now in operation. The ways have been built under instruction from the Federal Government and run from low water mark far up the beach. They are 400 feet in length and 20 feet in width, thus assuring plenty of room for the fishing boats to be hauled up while another is being guided down into the water.

A requisition has been sent in for the gasoline engine and cable, the same to be furnished by the department, the fishermen merely paying the cost of operating the engine while it is being used to haul their boats up the beach.

Before the ways were constructed, the fishermen experienced great difficulty in getting their boats hauled up and many times were forced to leave the boats on the beach at the mercy of any sudden storm. Oxen were used in hauling the boats, making the work very tedious. The section of the beach served by the ways is exposed to northeast gales but with such an improvement in the manner of hauling their boats it will be an easy matter to keep the boats in a safe place.

This action is the result of the investigation carried on some time ago at Digby when the Royal Fisheries Commission, with Hon. A. K. MacLean as chairman, interviewed the fishermen who were delegated to attend the sittings of the commission. The fishermen representing sections of Digby Neck and Gulliver's Cove made strong representation to the commission that some system be arranged whereby the boats could be hauled up the beach with engine power.

Hon. Mr. Cardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and Colonel the Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, both of whom were in Digby this summer conducting investigations into the conditions of the fisheries in the Maritimes, were very enthusiastic over the possibility of the new system and of the aid it would be to the fishermen.

For making Lobster pot heads, lobster fishermen in Maine use a twine especially treated to prolong its life. The twine is put out by the government, and is of a greenish hue. There is none of this type in this locality and we wonder how it works out.

Obituary

EVEE V. LEBLANC

Evee V. LeBlanc, aged 53, of Little Brook, was found dead in his home Tuesday of last week by the local coroner, Armand Comeau, a neighbor of the dead man. Dr. P. Belliveau of Meteghan, was called and pronounced death due to natural causes. Although Mr. LeBlanc, who lived alone, had been in poor health for some time, he was able to go about and last Friday had been hit by a nearby resident to do some work for him this week. Another neighbor claims to have seen him sitting by the window Sunday. When Mr. Comeau came to the house, he sensed something was amiss. He pushed open the door, which was unlocked, and found the man scantily clad, and lying dead on the floor near his bed. After the arrival of the doctor, an inquest was held by Coroner Comeau and the jury, with S. Doucet as foreman, upheld the decision of the medical examiner. Mr. LeBlanc was a native of Little Brook, always made his home there and for many years conducted a farm. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Leo Melanson; also three brothers, Irene, Poly-naire, and Philip. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 6th from St. Mary's Church, Church Point.

There are few people in this province who can come up to Basil Porter's record as a hunter. On the first day of the open season Basil went out after a deer, and was

A few days later he succeeded in getting a moose. It was a dandy! We know because we impled it, and now if he didn't go and get a deer a few days ago. Can you beat it!

POULTRY TRAVEL DE LUXE

Large numbers of poultry are moving from Maritime Province points over the lines of the Canadian National Railways to Boston, Mass. Above is what has been called a hen "pullman," containing three thousand birds from Prince Edward Island. Large numbers also move from places in New Brunswick. Poultry raising is an industry to which the Maritime Provinces are particularly adapted, and it would appear to be one that pays good returns. A "by-product" of these shipments is the eggs, which are collected each day by the attendant and sold enroute. As many as a case and a half are collected during the trip.

REPRESENTING MARITIMES

Major Milton F. Gregg, V.C., M.C., with bar, of Moncton, N. B., en route to Quebec via the Canadian National Railways to take ship there for overseas to attend the Prince of Wales' dinner in London, November 9th. Major Gregg was born at Mountain Dale, N. B., and won the coveted distinction in the attack on the Marconi line near St. Oile, on September 28th, 1918. In this attack the 7th Brigade was held up, and Major Gregg, who was then a Lieutenant, crawled alone along the wire in front of the enemy's trench system until he found an opening through which he led his men, succeeding in clearing out the trench system of the enemy, and wounding a counter attack, himself killing eleven and taking twenty-five prisoners.

Corporal Herman J. Good, V.C., of Bathurst, N. B., also photographed en route via Canadian National Railways to attend the Prince of Wales' dinner in London, November 9th. Corp. Good was born at Bathurst, N. B. He won his V.C. in August, 1918. He enlisted with the 55th Battalion in June, 1915. When leading an attack his company was held up by machine gun fire. Corp. Good rushed forward alone, killed several of the machine gunners and captured the remainder of the crew. A little later while alone, he encountered a battery of 5.9" guns. Collecting three men of his section he charged the battery under point-blank fire and captured the entire crew of three guns. Corp. Good came out of the lumber woods to attend the dinner.

A ship of heroes skippered by one of themselves, was the feature of the sailing of the Duchess of York on a recent trip from Montreal. Six holders of the Victoria Cross, Britain's most coveted and most meritorious of awards, were on the vessel, which was under the command of Captain Stuart, himself a V.C. They were on their way from Canada to London to take part in the dinner by the Prince of Wales to the Victoria Cross men from all parts of the Empire, slated to be held November 9th. Other V.C.'s travelled on Canadian Pacific liners Minnedosa and Empress of Scotland.

The stage is being rapidly set for one of the outstanding developments in Canada in a decade when the English Folk Dancers and exponents of English folk dancing will hold a festival at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, November 13-15. A British opera by a British composer of world-wide fame will be produced for the first time on this continent when "Hugh the Drover," by Dr. R. Vaughan Williams, is put on during the festival, and Canada and the British Empire will be introduced to a whole new world of art and beauty.

"We are all primarily conscious of the fact that this country, measured by any of the yardsticks by which the progress of a nation can be gauged, is a very great country, notwithstanding its small stock raising and a rather inferior grain situation, both of which are, we hope, temporary," said E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, at a dinner given recently in his honor by the St. Catharines Chamber of Commerce.

Robert Hume and George Thornton, veterans of many competitions, who teamed up from Manor, Saskatchewan, in the Canadian Pacific Swine Club competition for boys and girls of the province, have carried off the silver trophy and will join the teams from the western provinces for a trip to the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto as guests of the railway.

Bituminous sand deposits of the McMurray district and along the Athabasca River will eventually furnish the large quantities of material required for waterproofing and surfacing the gravel roads of the western provinces, is the opinion of Major C. G. Ommanney, director of development for the Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal.

Coldwood Golf Course, where the second annual Empire Hotel mid-winter golf tournament will be staged in February next, is one of the finest links on the continent, declared Walter Hagen, British open golf champion, who recently played an exhibition game there. "It is a tricky course that calls for the best in a player and the park-like surroundings are ideal," he added.

George Johnson, son of Henry Johnson, locomotive engineer of 32 years' standing with the Canadian Pacific Railway, has been awarded a scholarship for five years at L'Ecole Polytechnique of Montreal, following the recent examinations for entrance at that school. He is a resident of Three Rivers, Quebec. These scholarships have been offered since 1916, since which year 45 opportunities. Free tuition have been offered by the railway.

When a White Collar Man "Goes Army"

Perhaps he doesn't learn a few things!

DON'T envy a man who "only has to work a typewriter." So we were told by Mr. Solon S. Bloom of 3845 Woodbrook Avenue, Baltimore, Md., whose health began to give way because his work gave him a bodily strain.

"I decided to get away from military training camp," says Mr. Bloom. "Thinking the rough and tumble with the army would do me good for a month, I asked the doctor what to do about my condition. 'I've seen men, I've known men,' he said, 'I know what they eat, drink, and how they live. I know catarrhs, phlegm, and all the ways men try to keep themselves regular—and the only two that go together well are Nujol and Nujol. Nujol soothes and heals the membranes and expels bodily poisons normally, naturally, easily, so that you are regular as clockwork.'"

That was what Mr. Bloom learned when he left his typewriter and went

MISS HAZEL MOREHOUSE

Word was received, by Norval Morehouse, of Lake Medway, on Sunday evening of last week, of the death of his sister, Hazel, on Saturday night, Nov. 3, at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Clarence Goward, of North Acton, Mass. Miss Morehouse, who had made her home with her aunt for several years past, was ill in July, and entered the hospital, for observation. She was supposed to have fully recovered and the news of her death, came therefore as a shock to her relatives and friends. She was 36 years of age and was a daughter of the late Charles and Rachel Morehouse of Lake Medway. Surviving are five brothers: Brock, of Sandy Cove, Norval, of Lake Medway; Arthur, and Edgar, in Mass., and Capt. Harper, in Florida; one sister, Myrtle in the United States also survives.

Ob, lad, upon life's upward grade,
In search of wealth and fame,
So do your task that men shall ask
Your address and your name.
Never withhold that little touch
Of skill or care which means so much.

The difference 'twixt good and fair
Men very quickly see;
The eyes of all on good will fall,
Wherever it may be.

The stranger asks from whence it came,
And seeks to learn the workman's name.
If you would rise above the throng
Then let your work go out
A walking ad. for you, my lad,
To spread your fame about.
For everything on earth you do

It will be remembered that a few weeks ago the Courier published a prophecy by an old weather prophet in Oldtown, Maine, that this winter would see more snow than any living man had ever seen before in this section of the country. So impressed was he with his own prophecy and so sure was that he was right he dreaded at his own age—79—to face the perils of the coming winter that he committed suicide last week by shooting himself.

Remember Nujol is not a medicine, for it contains no drugs of any kind. It is simply bodily lubrication that everybody needs.

You can get a bottle of Nujol at any good drug store, in a sealed package, for the price of a couple of good cigars. Local Fishermen Making Big Catches

What promises to be the most profitable season among the shore fishermen for the past ten years is happening right now in the county of Digby. From all quarters the reports are the same—Haddock, Cod and lots of them. Good prices prevail and the weather is exceptionally fine. During the past two weeks many boats have been put into the water by fishermen who had been engaged at various other occupations. Fish handlers employed by buyers and dealers are working overtime trying to keep up with the work of taking care of the immense quantities of fish that are being landed by the boat fishermen.

The two fish collection boats, plying between the islands and Digby, are loaded to capacity these days and all the dealers are buying heavily. Stories of exceptionally large catches are told by the fishermen and scarcely a day passes without the word of 4000 pound haul. That means a lot of money for the fishermen and a little more for a great number who are directly concerned in the success of the industry. It is a great season for the Digby fishermen and brings back to memory the days of big catches, wide markets and a goodly share of money for all.

TALK OF THE TOWN

The "Talkies" were well patronized both by the people of Digby and the surrounding country. Mr. Morehouse brought the "bus" up with a load of people from the Neck on Monday night and several cars came up from Weymouth to see the same show. Mr. Earl, operator of the machine, left on Wednesday for Saint John.

The Chicken Supper given on Thursday 7th in Trinity Parish Hall for the benefit of the Local Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses was in every way a great success. On entering the Hall the beautifully decorated tables immediately attracted the attention and produced a very pleasing effect. The snowy table clothes making a fine background for the red berries among the green spruces. Red candles, also, added their cheerful glow. Then when the Chicken Pie and all the "fixings" were brought on, there was certainly a feast of good things and everyone was filled with satisfaction as well as delicious food. The receipts amounted to $83. The committee are to be congratulated on their very successful efforts.

Capt. Wm. H. Smith of Allston, Mass.; Mrs. Wilbur M. McCrehouse, Mrs. Frank J. Pension, and Mrs. Bessie Spaulding of Lynn, are at home on account of the death of their father, the late W. K. Smith.

The death of George L. Marshall, one of the best known and most popular citizens of Marshalltown, Digby County, occurred at the home of his son, Bernard, 41 Hardwick St., Brighton, Mass., at 1.45 Wednesday morning. The remains will arrive this morning for interment at Marshalltown.

The late Mr. Marshall was born in Marshalltown 79 years ago, and resided in that community all his life. He took a very active part in the welfare of the village and of Digby county at large. For many years he was a clerk of St. Paul's Episcopal church there. In politics he was a staunch supporter of the Conservative party.

Mr. Marshall left here on the 15th of June last to visit his son in Brighton and at the same time to undergo medical treatment for the dread disease of cancer.

He is survived by his son, and his sister, Mrs. Charlotte Timpany, widow of the late Major Timpany, also by two grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Grace United Church Raises $252.

The annual congregational Rally of the Grace United Church was held in the Church Vestry on Wednesday night. The chief speaker of the evening was Rev. Dr. C. W. Young, of Stellarton, who brought before the congregation the splendid work done by mission workers of the United Church of Canada, both at home and abroad. He told several interesting stories in order to emphasize his point. He appealed to the people to give liberally to the church Maintenance and Extension Fund.

Mr. Young was followed by R. A. Abramson, treasurer of the Grace Church, who read the financial statements it stood at October 21st. In order to meet its budget for the year it would be necessary for the congregation to raise $800 between now and the end of the year. Rev. Mr. Forbes followed Mr. Abramson with a few brief remarks, and pledge cards were passed around, with the result that a sum of $252.25 was subscribed then and there, a goodly portion of this amount being paid in cash.

The two masted schooner "Bernardo" was successfully launched at Meteghan, Digby County, on Wednesday. The vessel was built by Jules Robichaud for Captains B. N. and G. E. Melanson. She is one of the finest built along these shores in many years, and is most substantially constructed. The "Bernardo" is 106 feet long by 23 wide, and 9 feet deep, grossing 121 tons. She will be used to carry freight, principally between the Saint Mary's Bayports, and New England.

Some idea of Digby's growth is formed by reading the record of the pupils of the Digby Academy as published in last week's Courier. Not only is the list a lengthy one, but a large number of the names are absolutely new ones, families who have moved to this town during the past few years, more particularly during the past year or two.

Two Severe Earth Tremors Felt in Digby

On Monday afternoon, about 4.30, two severe earth shocks, one following immediately after the other, were felt very decidedly here. These shocks were felt generally all over the eastern part of Nova Scotia.

In Digby no damage was done, although buildings were seen to shake, chairs moved from their places, and dishes rattled in the homes. At Weymouth, quantities of goods on the store shelves fell to the floor. Many cases of "nerves" were reported during the quake.

Other than a few chimneys shaken down, windows broken, and a few old barns falling, over, in various sections of the province, very little damage was done.

Prof. Kirtley Mather, head of the Harvard Department of Geology and recognized authority on earthquakes, says that the center of Monday's quake had been located at the northern end of the Fundian Fault Zone, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and just south of Newfoundland. He said that the quake which was the second to occur in the eastern part of the continent this century was of about the magnitude of the Quebec earthquake of February 28, 1925.

Following the earthquake came a terrific storm which swept over the whole town. This storm caused considerable damage in town and surrounding country.

Telephone poles and wires snapped, and the local exchanges were crippled for some time. The town was plunged into darkness for several hours. Trees were uprooted and blocked the traffic for a time in many districts.

At G. W. Connell's store a plate glass window was broken by a sign which plunged through it, and Charles MacBride's motorboat and yacht were both badly damaged by smashing against the wharf to which they were tied.

The Ladies' Hospital Aid wishes to thank all those who contributed in any way towards the success of the recent Chowder Supper, from which the sum of $48 was realized. Special thanks are extended to the committee in charge, of which Mrs. Curtis Young was the convener, and to Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hayden, who so generously gave the use of their home for the Supper.

Culloden is doing fine. Two weeks ago they held a pie social in that village, and raised a sum of $75.96 for the local Children's Aid Society. On November 30 they will hold another pie social, and the proceeds are to be divided between the two churches in the village. This shows splendid co-operation among the citizens of that community.

Next Sunday, Nov. 24th being Missionary Sunday, slides on Japan will be shown in Grace United Sunday School at the close of the session.

B.W. Tobin Supervisor of Local Scouts

Mr. S. J. Limbrey, Director of Scouting, visited Digby on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week, conducting a three evening course, known as "The Vestibule Course of Canada".

This course is meant chiefly for the adults, and its purpose an endeavor to show them what the ideals of Boy Scouting are.

He explains that the Boy Scout program is a three fold one:

1. "To keep the boys morally straight. This is done through the teaching of the Scout's Promise and Law."

2. To keep the boys mentally awake."

3. To keep the boys physically fit," done by means of camp craft games."

During Mr. Limbrey's stay here a local association for the purpose of fostering boyhood, and organizing Boy Scout Troops in an area which includes Digby, Smith's Cove, Bear River, Sandy Cove and Little River, was organized. Dr. B. W. Tobin of Digby was made District Supervisor of this organization, the other officers are as follows:

President, H. T. Warner, Digby 1st Vice President, G. W. Wightman, Digby

2nd. vice president, C. Miller, Bear River

3rd. vice president, E. Weir, Smith's Cove

Secretary-Treasurer, G. W. Connell, Digby

The following make up the executive: Rev. A. E. Gabriel, Rev. E. W. Forbes, A. J. Dillon, M. C. Denton, H. M. Warner, A. Boden, T. E. G. Lynch and F. L. Anderson, of Digby; J. E. Steadman and L. V. Harris, of Bear River; L. B. Collins, of Little River, R. G. Sypher, of Sandy Cove, and Ralph Cossitt, of Smith's Cove.

Scout masters and Troop Leaders of the various troops are members ex-officio.

Thirty men, representing the districts which come within the scope of this local organization attended the classes. The full course will comprise four series of three nights each. The other three series will likely be held at other periods during the winter.

On Tuesday night Mr. Limbrey lectured on the "History of the Organization, and Extent of the Boy Scout Movement." The Boy Scout Organization is 21 years old, with a membership of 3,000,000, representing every civilized country of the world.

He also lectured on "Scouting as a Game."

On Wednesday night, the topics of his addresses were "Patrol System and Court of Honor", "Tenderfoot Tests" and a lecture on the "Union Jack".

Last evening he spoke on "Adult Troop Committees and Duties" and "The Place of Woodcraft in Scouting".

During the whole of this course, some 40 to 60 games are demonstrated in order to emphasize the lessons. The local Scout Troop took part in these games.

In speaking of the World's Scout Jamboree at Birkenhead last summer Mr. Limbrey stated that during the ten days of the camp the Chiefs of Police in the cities of Liverpool and Birkenhead reported no misdemeanors or petty crimes among the boys, who represented 42 nations. This, he says, emphasizes the first scout law "A Scout's Honor is to be Trusted". Neither was there a "scrap" of any kind during the duration of the camp.

One outstanding statesman of the Old Country referred to the Boy Scouts as "The Junior League of Nations, because use they have done what the nations of the world have failed to do. The sons of the parents, who, a few years ago, were fighting against each other, were by the Jamboree, linked up in a World Brotherhood of Friendship. Such education must, of necessity be through the young."

Electric Service for Point Prim Lighthouse

The Digby Weekly Courier is pleased to announce that the hydro extension to Bay View is now nearly completed. The ground has been cleared and postholes prepared as far as the Life Saving Station Councillor Hillman, who as chairman of the Municipal Hydro committee, has been active in the matter of getting the extension through and received word this week that the Department of Marine and Fisheries has under their favorable consideration the connecting up of Point Prim Lighthouse with the Municipal Distribute System. Interviewed by the Courier Councillor Hillman stated that on the occasion of the visit to Digby of the Hon. Mr. Cardin, minister of Marine and Fisheries, who was accompanied by Colonel (the Hon.) J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defense he interviewed those gentlemen and received assurances from both Ministers that the matter of connecting up Point Prim Lighthouse would have their immediate attention.

It is good news for the county to know that it is being given most favorable consideration and that the Department may accept the load on condition that certain requirements necessary to such installation be met.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1929

On Missions

On Friday last a lady soliciting for the Mission Fund of the Seventh Day Adventists gave us a call, and no doubt she called on all of the homes and business places of the town, meeting with fair success.

We have no brief with that society but we feel that in a town of Digby's proportions, where three Protestant Churches, a Roman Catholic Church, and the Salvation Army are represented, all doing a splendid work in the town, and supporting mission funds of their own, beside many worthy societies and charities, such as the Digby Hospital, the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Digby Legion, the Children's Aid, the Social Service Council, and others, all deserving of the wholehearted support and co-operation of the citizens of the town, it hardly seems right to us that we should be asked to contribute to the funds of a cult not represented here, or doing work in our community. Perhaps we are taking a selfish view on this matter, but nevertheless that is the way we look at it.

Today Starts
the National Fish Week

"Canada's National Fish Week" should serve to emphasize to the people the exceptional food value of fish and the present importance and great potentialities of the Dominion's fisheries," said Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, in a statement which he made recently in reference to the selection of the week from November 22nd to November 29th as the Canada-wide fish week for 1929: "Scientist and dietitians," Hon. Mr. Cardin went on, "have uncovered facts in recent years which show that fish are among the best of foods because of their richness in vitamins and other elements, which are great aids to sound body-building and are also protectors against certain diseases, especially, perhaps, in children. And Canada is fortunate in that her commercial fishing waters are not only enormous but are inhabited by food fishes of a quality unsurpassed anywhere in the world. It is an axiom among authorities that food fishes improve in proportion to the purity and coldness of the water in which they live, and judged by this standard Canadian fish are at least equal in quality to the best that are taken anywhere.

"Up to the present time the per capita consumption of fish in Canada has not been large, much less, for instance, than the consumption in Great Britain. Different factors have contributed to this condition. Today, with improved methods of processing and distribution bringing virtually all of the many varieties of Canadian fish within the reach of the people all over the country, and with scientists and health authorities bearing increasing testimony to the high value of fish foods, there should be a steadily larger consumption of fish in all parts of the Dominion.

Most varieties of our fish are obtainable in different forms—fresh, dried, pickled, smoked, canned—so that fish may be on the table at any season of the year and may be prepared by the housewife in many different ways. It is to be said also that, in many cases at least, fish are cheaper than other foods. From the standpoint of purse as well as health and strength, it is a good rule to have fish frequently on the family menu."

Game Quite Plentiful in This Vicinity

The big game season for this year is over. Local hunters, for the most part have been very successful and many fine heads of moose and deer will adorn the dens of our local sports. Many hunters in the locality have been successful in bagging both moose and a deer, and in some instances, where more than one member of a family has been on a hunting expedition, each has been a successful hunter. We hear of a case on the Granville shore where the father and two sons were successful in shooting a moose apiece, and two of the trio succeeded in capturing a deer.

In so far as we are able to learn, Basil Porter, with a bear, moose and deer to his credit has been the most successful hunter in the vicinity. From now on the hunters will have to confine themselves to small game, and it is understood that rabbits are very plentiful on Digby Neck. One rabbit hunter who went down to Seawall recently on the lookout for rabbits says that it isn't necessary to hunt them at all down that way—"just go into the woods and sit on a stump with your gun ready, and the rabbits will come to you, and by the time you are ready to go home you will have all you want."

Partridge are reported as quite plentiful and the opinion is that when there is an open season on them, again they will be found in large numbers. A few years ago, just after the open season, they were very scarce.

Plympton

Miss Clara McGivern left Saturday for St. John, where she will spend the winter.

Mrs. Geo. Hutchings of Digby Neck, spent Thanksgiving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Warner.

Miss E. A. Smith, of Smith Cottage is entertaining her brother, U. Smith from Springfield, Mass., also Mrs. E. M. Reed and Ada M. Warner of Waltham, and Harriett Rice of Toronto.

Plans for New
Are Progressing

Promising to open up a splendid tourist resort, plans for the new summer hotel at Gilbert's Cove, Digby county, are progressing, and stock in the hotel will be offered to the investing public next week.

Plans for the summer hotel, log cabins, golf course, swimming and other facilities have been prepared by A. R. Cobb, well known Halifax architect, and call for an outlay of $300,000. A feature of the project is that the buildings and furnishings will be entirely of Nova Scotian products.

This is the first definite step towards establishing Gilbert's Cove, one of the beauty spots of the province, as a tourist resort. It is the intention of the Provincial Securities, promoters of the hotel to cater to high class tourist trade. The hotel will have 25 rooms with all modern arrangements on the second floor, while the ground floor will be given over to a spacious dining hall, lounge room, offices, billiard and card rooms, and will be one of the most up to date hotels of this kind in the eastern provinces.

There will also be 40 log cabins, made in five different designs, each with a living room, two bed rooms and modern arrangements. The furnishings will be of rustic design.

Splendid surf bathing facilities will be available, while the plans call for a salt water swimming pool to be constructed at the hotel site. There is an ideal site for a golf course, in which will be converted into an 18 hole course. Tennis and other sports will also be provided for.

The hotel will be but a few miles from the forest, where excellent hunting and fishing places are to be found. For lovers of the salt blue water, there will be boating and deep sea fishing.

A feature of the hotel building, will be a veranda 15 feet wide, encircling the building and overlooking beautiful St. Mary's Bay. Part of the veranda is to run along the side of the dining hall, having provision for 150 guests, and in addition meals may be served outside.

Interviewed recently, A. E. Titus and C. T. Ahearn, of the Provincial Securities were highly optimistic of the future of the proposed hotel.

The people of Gilbert's Cove and district are taking a keen interest in the matter, some of the outstanding men of the district having associated themselves with the project. Included on the directorate are such well known names as Capt. Bernard Melanson, Gilbert's Cove; R. W. E. Landry, M.L.A., Yarmouth; Dr. A. F. Hogan, J. A. Goodwin and Dr. H. J. Pothier of Weymouth and Major E. J. Stehelin of Church Point.

Power Board
New Turbine

A move that will have far reaching effect in the county of Digby was decided upon at a meeting of the Digby County Power Board last Saturday when that body after a careful study of the hydro possibilities in the county decided to install an additional 600 horsepower turbine and a 400 kilowatt generator at the county hydro plant at Lower Falls, Weymouth, or where the Weymouth Pulp mills were situated. This extra power will give in all a 950 h.p. plant which can be used alternative. This is considered to be a wise move on the part of the power board, as the number of consumers of light and power is increasing rapidly. Hydro is becoming popular in the rural districts, not only in the tourist centres, but throughout the county. Applications for the current are coming in almost daily. Next spring will see the start of many developments in the tourist industry and it is to meet the increasing demand that prompted the move on the part of the power board to provide more electric energy when occasion demands.

Richest in Tea Essence

AS YOU know, all King Cole Tea is good; but King Cole Orange Pekoe is supremely choice. It is blended for fullness, flavor and strength as is the ordinary King Cole, but the Orange Pekoe is made solely from the fresh, young, tender bud leaves that have just unfolded, full of succulent flavor.

Not only that—more expensive teas are blended in King Cole Orange Pekoe; aromatic Darjeelings from high up in the Himalayas, vigorous Travancore from monsoon swept hills of Southern India, costly delicacies that give character and distinctiveness to the finest tea we can blend.

You will enjoy King Cole Coffee too

THOSE WHO WORK HARD

Need the Strengthening, Nourishing Food Elements in Father John's Medicine

Men and women who work hard, who go home tired from their day's labour, often find that they catch cold easily, that they run-down in weight. This is because their food is lacking in certain body-building elements. What they need is really a special food-tonic, rich in nourishment to restore the strength, energy and tissue which is lost during the day's labour.

Father John's Medicine has proved its value to thousands of people who work hard. It gives them the strength which they do not get from their regular food. Father John's Medicine is a scientific blending of cod liver oil with other ingredients which has been so successful for more than 75 years that it has come to be known as the greatest body builder. The scientific method of preparing Father John's Medicine divides the cod liver oil into such small particles that these are readily digested to build up the weakened system.

The Missa Angelorum was sung by a choir composed of members of Children of Mary, a sodality in which the bride held membership. BODIES OF NINE DEER DISCOVERED

While making a survey in the timber near McAskill's Brook, a short distance outside of Glace Bay, Angus McAskill, came across the bodies of nine deer. The skeletons were huddled together, the heads and bones being in a mass covered with grass, indicating that they had fed perhaps two years ago. They were all dead and there was no indication of an animal battle. The last two winters have been quite mild and the feeding good, so it would look as if the deer died of disease or from eating some poisonous matter.

help in any capacity since she ceased to be our first President.

We sent as usual, one delegate to the 1928 Convention at Truro, expenses paid. We lost one good member by death, during this year, in person of Mrs. Frances Winchester. The floral tribute sent by our Institute was but a small and inadequate expression of our regret and our respect to her memory.

Our Institute has the pleasure of recording the addition of four new members as our new year opens, and the return to membership of one or two former ones.

Our financial Report shows a total of $97.00 receipts, which include membership fees, collections at meetings, donations, returns from entertainment, and proceeds from sales at September "Fair". The items paid out have already been enumerated in above summary of Secretary's Report, and amounted to $62.00.

A tribute should here be publicly paid to our most efficient and hard-working Secretary Miss Inez Rice, who has continued to act most faithfully ever since the commencement of our Smith's Cove Institute.

Whatever thrill may pervade our annual meeting for election of officers, it culminates at the moment of fear lest she should by chance decline her always unanimous reelection: No one wishes to be put in position of having to match unflinching patience and ability.

Officers for coming year 1929 30.

President, Mrs. George Weir, (re-elected)

Vice President, Mrs. George Austin (re-elected)

Secretary, Miss Inez Rice, (re-elected)

Harry Ritchie, one of the mounted constabulary, purchased an exceptionally fine horse, for general purposes, from Geo. J. Clarke's last carload. He is very proud of the animal and has had numerous chances to dispose of it.

The Fairmount Poultry Farm, Digby, J. D. Casswell, Proprietor, was awarded second and third prizes at the Amherst Winter Fair in the Record of Performance class, White Leghorns, Section 5, Class 58. In order to enter birds in this class it is necessary for them to have a 200 egg record.

The General Electric Refrigerator gives you year-round refrigeration economically, automatically. Its hermetically sealed mechanism never needs to be oiled. Of the 300,000 owners, not one has had to spend a single dollar for service or repairs.

Hydro And Municipal Taxation

To The Editor of the Courier

Sir—May I be permitted to use the columns of your paper to make a statement in reference to our hydro system and municipal taxation.

There is a misunderstanding in some quarters that I wish to make perfectly clear.

There are some who are still under the impression that the increase in our municipal rates is due to hydro expenditure, and to those good people I wish to give assurance that there never has and is not any connection whatever between municipal hydro expenditures and municipal taxation. Those two matters are as far apart as the North and South Poles, and as one statute guides municipal affairs, so does another statute control hydro. Of course it is well understood that the hydro loans are guaranteed by the county. If that were not so, we could not have that public utility municipally owned and controlled.

But it does not naturally follow that the people are taxed for the system. Hydro must pay its way, it must stand on its own feet, it must be self-supporting, and I am in a position to state that the system known as Municipal Distribution, in the Municipality of Digby, is financially in a flourishing condition and at the close of the year will show a substantial amount to the credit of our Municipal Distribution system.

JAS. F. HILLMAN
Chairman Municipal Hydro Committee.

Mrs. Raymond Lent entertained at four tables of Bridge on Wednesday evening.

Fellowship Club to be Organized in Digby

Digby is sadly lacking in what is commonly termed "Community Spirit", not because people are disloyal but owing to a sort of "group prejudice" which is always the great temper in a small community.

Now, we are not knocking the town, anyone who knocks the Community in which he earns his living is a hindrance and not a help. But there are times when so-called knocking along constructive lines does real and lasting good.

As a practical step towards building up a wholesome "Community Spirit" in Digby, there has been formed a "Fellowship Club" which meets for convenience in Trinity Parish Hall where the floor space is large enough for playing the game of Badminton, a game for young and old. Badminton is a game which can be played with a maximum of keen enjoyment by all. This club is open to all young people in the town, married and single. It meets on Monday and Wednesday evenings and Saturday afternoons.

If there is sufficient demand, additional afternoon sessions for grown-ups will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays.

During the Christmas season the Club plans to erect a huge Christmas Tree on the main business street and have it illuminated. On the evenings of Christmas week the members and their friends will gather around the tree and sing Christmas Carols. The first practise for this Community Sing-Song will be in the United Baptist Hall on Sunday evening, December 1st, at 8.30 o'clock. All young people are cordially invited to attend.

Brotherhood Hears Lecture On Australia

The Men's Brotherhood of Grace United Church met for the first time of the season on Tuesday evening last in the Church Hall. A delightful supper was served after which Rev. Mr. Rowland, of Kingston, who had spent ten years of his boyhood life in Australia, gave a very interesting illustrated lecture on that country. This island continent—as large as Canada—is spoken glibly of by writers and lecturers as "the land of opposites" but how opposite it is to the rest of the world is not realized by the average person until its peculiarities have been illustrated and explained by one who knows. The fact that Christmas comes in midsummer there is well known by everyone, but it is not generally known that most of the Australian rivers, instead of running from their source to the sea, as they do in our land, take their rise in the sea and run inland to lose themselves in the desert; that there are quadrupeds with webbed feet and hind feet with claws, with a bill for a mouth, and which lay eggs; that there are immense birds which cannot fly, and that the "lily-white swan" of the poets, is black in that country.

Mr. Rowland is an interesting speaker and gave many personal experiences during the years spent in Australia. At the close of his lecture he was tendered a vote of thanks accompanied by a hearty invitation to come again.

Irwin Cobb, when approached to buy Tuberculosis Christmas Seals became serious minded for a few minutes and advised, "Do your Christmas stamping early."

Lost Seamen Are Rescued Before Storm

Two fishermen from Parker's Cove, whose names could not be learned, and who failed to show up among the rest of fleet sailing from that village, returned on Tuesday. Efforts were made to secure assistance but the lifeboat stationed at Bay View is in Saint John undergoing repairs. Boats were sent from Digby by F. L. Anderson and other fishing boats went out from Parker's Cove and points along the Annapolis shore. A heavy storm was brewing and it was feared the fishing boat would not survive. About eight o'clock message was received from Port Wade that the fishermen had been rescued by a boat from Parker's Cove.

Digby County Farmers Association Meets

Wednesday delegates from the Digby Central, Bear River, Western Digby Neck, Gilbert's Cove, Little Brook and Meteghan Agricultural Societies met at the Court House, Digby and reorganized the Digby County Farmers' Association according to the recent changes in the Agricultural Society Act.

Prof. W. V. Longley of Truro, representing Dr. Trueman, Superintendent of Agricultural Societies, explained the changes made in the Agricultural Act at the last sitting of the Legislature, outlined the best method of proceeding for reorganization and read a suggested set of by-laws for the new association. These by-laws with a few changes to suit local conditions were after a short discussion adopted and the meeting proceeded to the election of officers.

Harry Chisholm, Bear River was appointed President; Constantine Comeau, Meteghan Vice-President; and F. H. Nichols, of Digby was re-elected Secretary-Treasurer, while Conrad Gidney, Digby Neck; Edmund Comeau, Comeauville; Goudy Nichols, Acaciaville; Zoline Comeau Little Brook; Theophilus Melanson, Gilbert's Cove; and Joseph Warren, Bear River, were appointed directors. Delegates to the Nova Scotia Farmers' Association were appointed as follows: James Stuart, Church Point, with alternate Edmond, De Veau, Meteghan; Fulton Parker, Bear River with alternate W. G. Clarke, Bear River; Fred Veniot, Gilbert's Cove, alternate Curtis Spates, Burton; D. C. MacKay, Acaciaville, with alternate Cary Morgan, Landsdowne; Auditors, Arthur Turnbull, Alfred Boden.

Following the election of officers a discussion took place as to how best this new association could function to the best advantage of the markets created by the yearly increasing tourist traffic in Digby and vicinity and it was decided to take steps to organize for marketing and to appoint a committee to outline a program for different sections of the County.

Raymond LeBlanc, Agricultural Representative, spoke of the progress made in cauliflower, and celery growing and pea canning in the Little Brook (Meteghan) section and stated that it only needed organization coupled with regular volume and quality of production to get a firm hold on the growing local markets, and organized exportable surplus could be easily taken care of.

Frank H. Nichols, Secretary-Treasurer in a few remarks at the close of the meeting stated that for some thirty years he had been Secretary of the old organization. He expressed himself as highly pleased by the energy and enthusiasm shown at this reorganization meeting and pointed out that the extent of success or failure would be in proportion to their own effort and cooperation and promised if they did their part he would not let them down on his.

H. D. Bidden, of Amherst, a native of Digby, was offered on Wednesday, the position of manager of the Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition.

Digby Fellowship Club off to a Good Start

The "Hard Times Party" held in Trinity Parish Hall on Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Digby Fellowship Club was a pronounced success. There were about 150 people present, many of them in attractive costumes, which revived "old times", some belonging to the "gay nineties" and others again witnessing present day poverty. Claude Connell was on hand with a splendid costume as usual, but some of the ladies quite surprised us with their originality in costume.

The hall was beautifully decorated with spruce, paper festoons and draperies, in all presenting an exquisite appearance and furnishing an atmosphere of general good-feeling.

The program of the evening provided amusement for all present and was as follows:—

1. Chorus—"Listen to the Band" by members of the Club. Several promising drummers made their appearance for the first time in public and one can see no reason why Digby could not have a first class Band.
2. Humorous Reading—"Grandma and the loud speaker", Mrs. Victor Turnbull.
3. Chorus—"Wedding Bells" by the Club; Soloist, Laurie Dickson.
4. Vocal Solo—"Poor Little Buttercup", Lucille Cormick.
5. Dialogue—"Chocolate Drops", Ray Winchester and Eric Bent.
6. Vocal Solo—"Three for a Jack", Rev. A. E. Gabriel.

Following this programme, folk dances and bridge were the order of the evening. Refreshments were served during the intermission. The Orchestra under the direction of Phyllis Dakin furnished the music.

The prize winners for costumes were Claude Connell, Misses Campbell, Woodman and Mason.

Special prizes for dancing contests were awarded to Misses Mosses Walker, O'Brien, Mrs. D. Daley, and Mr. Armstrong.

Feast of Saint Cecelia Observed at Church Point, Friday

The feast of St. Cecelia was observed at St. Anne's College last Friday evening, when a very pleasing concert was given in the Assembly Hall by the Musical Society. The program included selections by the college band, piano and instrumental solos and a playlet entitled "The Music Lesson." The members of the faculty and the student body were in attendance. At the close of the concert, Rev. Father Quebec, the rector, announced that the Christmas vacation would begin Dec. 19th. Prof. P. Arsenault, director of the band, arranged the program.

Digby Baptist Church Holds Successful Reunion

The Digby Baptist Church held a Roll Call and Reunion Service on Wednesday evening, November 27th at 6.30 p. m. Over 70 members and adherents sat down to the supper tables and enjoyed a scrumptious supper prepared by the ladies of the church.

After supper the Roll was called by the clerk, M. C. Denton, to which the members present responded. Several letters were read from absent members, which were accompanied by contributions.

Sympathetic and inspiring remarks were made by Bernard Havey, H. B. Short, M. P., W. H. Farnham, Miss Lavina Wilson and Mrs. Geo. Peters. An offering of over $200. was received. The purpose of the offering was to meet the denominational obligations of the church.

A short address was given by the pastor, Rev. F. E. Bishop on the "Privileges and Responsibilities of the Church", the singing of a hymn and the benediction brought to a close a very interesting and profitable service.

Digby's prospects for the 1930 Tourist season appear to be even greater than ever. In the many tourists resorts in the district, work is already being planned, or carried out, to increase accommodation and recreation facilities for next year.

At Harbor View House, Smith's Cove, new cabins are under construction. The Harbor View Colony is the pioneer log cabin colony in Nova Scotia, and there has scarcely been a year go by but what this well known resort has not been increased by several cabins. Harbor View is known all over the continent, and there are several families who have not missed spending a summer there for a score of years. Last summer a young lady was heard to make the statement that she was nineteen years of age, and this was the eighteenth summer she had spent at Harbor View. There are few summer hotels that can boast such testimonials as that.

We understand that new cabins will be added to the colonies at Victoria Beach and Port Wade. Fundy View Cottage, at Victoria Beach, is one of the infant resorts of this section of the province. It enjoys one of the finest and most scenic locations in Western Nova Scotia, overlooking the Digby Gap and the Bay of Fundy. This hotel was opened to the public about four years ago, and since then, a fair sized colony of modern cabins has grown up around it. This colony has also been increased each year, and each year becomes more and more popular.

The summer hotel people along Digby Neck are planning big improvements for next year. And it is rumored that major changes will be made at Clementsport, "the Queen of the Basin" in the spring, so far this is only rumor, and just what the changes are going to be has not been learned.

The proposed new hotel to be built at Gilbert's Cove will also be a great boon to the local tourist industry. Its site is ideal, one might say that the spot was meant by nature to be the site of a modern tourist hotel. Facilities for surf bathing are right at hand. A natural salt water swimming pool forms in the cove, which, with the skill of experts, will be converted into an up-to-date pool. The land surrounding the site, can with very little trouble be altered into a splendid golf course.

Speaking of golf courses, the new golf course at Digby which is being built by the Canadian Pacific Railway, is making rapid progress. The railway procured last summer 250 acres of land immediately adjacent to the New Pines Hotel, upon which is now being constructed an eighteen hole golf course which promises to be one of the outstanding courses in Canada. The gently rolling terrain, overlooking the wide expanse of the Annapolis Basin is splendidly suited for this purpose. The course is being laid out under the direction of Stanley Thompson who is responsible for the famous course at Banff. It is hoped that at least nine holes will be in shape for next season.

All this, with the New Boat for the Saint John-Digby Service which will be put on the route next summer ought to make next summer the biggest tourist year yet.

Maritime Provinces

General economic conditions seem to justify the optimistic spirit abroad in these provinces, which is, itself, largely the product of better conditions foreseen for the farmers. Unfavorable factors include a lessened potato acreage, with yields lower than last year's phenomenal yields, owing to lack of rain, but the crop is of fine quality. Since in the United States the potato crop is estimated at only 75 per cent of that of 1928, it is only natural to expect an increase in the Maritime potato-growing districts, which was mentioned in the Review of July as being deficient. Grain yields are high, hay crops light in one or two districts, but fodder crops in general plentiful and in good condition. Market prices, because of the crop situation elsewhere, are satisfactory. Despite poor pasturage, this argues well for the farmers, who are turning more and more to mixed farming and dairying.

The apple crop is estimated to be at least two million barrels, one of the largest in the history of the Annapolis Valley. The fruit is exceptionally clean and September rains have benefited size and color which had suffered somewhat from early drought. Large British and European crops affected prices of early apple exports, but a shortage in the exportable surplus in the United States may presently offset this influence. An unusually large crop of blueberries, exported at good prices, provided ready cash in outlying districts.

The lobster season has been satisfactory but movements are small. Cod prices are good and the West Indian and North Brazil markets are remaining firm. Some bait shortage is reported.

Reports on the lumber industry indicate a somewhat obscure condition. While large European supplies on the British market have depressed present prices, shipment from Maritime ports continue in fair volume. Considerable stock is reported as held for more remunerative prices. The United States market is dull. The lath market is still over-supplied and lath-sawing, even from waste, is unprofitable.

Coal production and shipments have exceeded all expectations, and show substantial increase over last year's figures. Iron and steel production and shipments have exceeded all expectations and show substantial increase over last year's figures. Iron and steel production has also increased and production at close to capacity is anticipated for the Fall.

Employment reached a high level at August 1st, with a less than usual seasonal decrease in September. The increases were mainly visible in the construction industries and, to some extent, in the iron and steel group. Construction activity continued at a high level and large operations upon the highways by the New Brunswick government gave considerable employment. Retail trade is reported brisk and improving. Numbers of tourists and volume of sales to them, in the season just completed, were the highest in the history of the Maritimes.

Georges Clemenceau

Georges Clemenceau, "The Tiger of France" is dead. He is the second great war time statesman of France whose careers have been closed by death within a very short time.

Clemenceau, who was the wartime premier of France, was often referred to as the "Father of Victory" and his name will go down in history with those of the world's greatest statesmen. His death occurred in Paris at 2.15 Saturday afternoon after several weeks' illness, at the age of 83 years.

In death, as in life, he rejected ostentation and ceremony. He asked that when death came to him he should be permitted merely to disappear. He wished his funeral to be as quiet, as drab, and as bare as the funerals of the millions of "his boys" killed in the long struggle which his leadership helped turn to a triumph, and caused a then feverish and grateful parliament to acclaim him "the father of victory".

champs, near his beloved Vendee, and buried upright, as his father before him. He lived and died "a man." In one of his last lucid moments of his death bed he said "I want no women; I want no tears. Let me die."

Tributes to the late Premier of France, Georges Clemenceau, were paid at Ottawa by Sir Robert Borden, Canada's war time Prime Minister and Sir George E. Foster, veteran Canadian statesman.

"In Georges Clemenceau," said Sir Robert, "France has lost one of her greatest sons. In the hours of her direct need, his indomitable spirit gave the leadership and the inspiration that were essential to victory. And when the agony had passed and the victory had been won, Demos denied him the only guardian he sought—father services to his country."

"At the peace conference ten years ago he was the most striking and picturesque personality. To him France was all in all; for her security he was unceasingly vigilant to the last ounce of his masterful ability and splendid courage."

The Dark

The dark is kind and cosy;
The dark is soft and deep;
The dark will pat my pillow
And love me as I sleep.
The dark is smooth as velvet,
And gentle as the air;
And he is good to children
And people everywhere.
The dark can see and love,
Without a bit of light.
He gives me dreams and resting;
He brings the gentle night.
God made the dark so daytime
Could close its tired eyes
And rest awhile in comfort
Beneath the starry skies.
The daytime, just like children,
Needs rest from work and play
So it can give us children
Another happy day.
God made the dark for children
And birdsies in their nest;
All in the dark He watches,
And guards us while we rest.

Georges Clemenceau

Georges Clemenceau, "The Tiger of France" is dead. He is the second great war time statesman of France whose careers have been closed by death within a very short time.

C. C. King Pleased With Tourist Prospects

C. C. King, organizer and secretary of the Land of Evangeline Tourist Association, visited the districts of Clare, Digby County, and Digby Neck recently in the interests of the association. In both sections Mr. King was received enthusiastically, especially in the Clare district. The French section, which last year seemed distrustful of the tourist proposition, is willing to do its part to put themselves before the travelling public in the coming season, realizing the possibilities in increased tourist traffic. In Little River the citizens are particularly anxious to share in the summer business for 1930, and will make every effort to bring their locality to the attention of tourists.

Mr. King was impressed with the rapid manner in which Digby County hydro power is being utilized in both sections.

At Meteghan shipyards, electric borers and hammers were operating, greatly facilitating labor. In Tiverton, Long Island, night work in Elliott's fish factory, conducted under powerful electric light, demonstrates the wonderful advances being made in the industry. Mr. King cites that fish caught and later taken from the water Tuesday afternoon were cut, wrapped, boxed, (frozen) and placed on board the steamer to go to Saint John where it would be placed in cold storage in less than twenty-four hours after being taken from the water.

Many homes have been equipped with electricity. The whole country from Digby to East Ferry, one of the most beautiful parts of Nova Scotia, hitherto unsung, is rapidly coming to the front.

Chief Scout's
Final Message at World Jamboree

The Chief Scout at the closing of the great Boy Scout Jamboree at Arrows Park, buried the hatchet of war in a cask of golden arrows, and then from the cask in front of him sent forth four arrows of peace and goodwill north, south, east and west with the following message:—
"From all the corners of the Earth you have journeyed to this great gathering of World Fellowship and Brotherhood."

Today I send you out from Arrows to all the World bearing my symbol of Peace and Fellowship, each one of you my ambassador bearing my message of Love and Fellowship on the wings of Sacrifice and Service, to the ends of the Earth. From now on, the Scout symbol of Peace is the Golden Arrow. Carry it fast and far so that all men may know the Brotherhood of Man."

The Chief Scout was seen to flick tears from his eyes at the tremendous demonstration given to him by the assembled Scouts in response to this appeal.

Strong Appeal
On Behalf
Children's Aid

To The Editor of the Courier

Dear Sir:—With your kind permission I am making this appeal through the columns of the Digby Weekly Courier to the people of the various districts of the Municipality of Digby. It is an appeal for funds to assist the Children's Aid Society in carrying on the work that in the past year or two has been so productive both from an economic and moral standpoint. As a councillor for the municipality I am in a position to state that the work performed by the Children's Aid Society in caring for neglected children has saved many dollars that would have otherwise been a charge upon the taxpayers. Homes have been found for children whom otherwise would be a burden upon the taxpayer. The monies used to pay the expenses of the Children's Aid Society is donated by both public bodies and private subscriptions.

There are many ways of raising funds, such as pie socials, dinners, bridge parties and forty-fives, subscriptions and entertainments. A pie social was held by the ladies of Broad Cove, in Culloden, recently, which netted a handsome sum that was donated to the Society.

I realize full well that every day there is an appeal somewhere by some person or other for money for this or funds for that, but in making this appeal, I feel that I am touching a responsive chord in the hearts of the people. It is the poor neglected children who will be assisted. The unfortunate waifs of humanity that are buffeted about by the waves of misfortune. Neglected, they have no chance. They, like all others, must enter into the race that leads to better things, but they have no chance. They are beaten before they start. They start out on life's journey with an empty knapsack. They are deficient, sometimes mentally, sometimes morally, sometimes physically, sometimes all three. Without a guiding hand they go down, they cannot go up.

Let us help the poor unfortunate. Thank Heaven there are not many in the county of Digby, but we can assist those few by contributing a little to the cause.

William McCafferty To Rebuild

William McCafferty, of East Ferry, has started the foundation for his new home to replace the one destroyed by fire last summer. He does not intend to commence work on the frame until next spring.

It will be remembered that the homes of McCafferty and Leonard Theriault, both of East Ferry were burned to the ground last summer while both of the owners were away. The same evening an unsuccessful attempt was made to burn McCafferty's barn but the fire, which was set under the seat of an automobile kept in the barn, smothered itself out. The barn, however, was burned on the following night. The fires were plainly of an incendiary origin.

Theriault has since moved "across the passage" to Tiverton, where he now resides. Both of these men are among the best known and respected citizens of Digby Neck.

OBITUARY

EDWARD WELCH
Very many friends will learn with deep regret of the death of Edward Welch, which occurred at his home in Westport, Saturday, Nov. 24th. His illness which lasted for some time was borne with remarkable patience and christian fortitude as he was never heard to murmur or complain.

He was a deacon of the Westport United Baptist Church, and his christian life was an example to all, and his death has cast a gloom over the community.

He is survived by a widow and one son, Charles; three sisters, Mrs. J. Denton, Westport; Mrs. Annie Cann and Mrs. Monday of the United States; three brothers, Ralph, Freeman and Howard of Westport.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon from the United Baptist Church. The services were conducted by the pastor Rev. H. H. Phinney.

Much sympathy goes out to the bereaved ones.

Lobster meal has been added to the menu of foxes in a number of Maritime Province fox ranches. A New Brunswick lobster canning factory which recently began the manufacture of meal from lobster bodies and shells, reports that it has found a market for the new product with the fox raisers who are quoted as describing the meal as excellent for feeding purposes.

Fish meal of other kinds has already been proven of great value in stock and poultry feeding. Successful employment of lobster bodies in the manufacture of meal will mean the utilization in profitable by-product operations of material which hitherto has been only the waste of the lobster canning industry.

About thirty of their friends were present and the evening passed quickly playing games and music.

Mrs. George Oickle on behalf of the friends presented Mr. and Mrs. Hubley with a silver bread tray. Both bride and groom spoke of their appreciation of the gift and of the pleasure it gave them to have their friends with them on their anniversary.

After the serving of delicious refreshments all left for their homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. Hubley very many more years of health and happiness.

Have You An Acid Stomach?

When gas, pain and distress follow a good meal, it is an almost sure sign of "too much acid" in your stomach. Get rid of it now for it is dangerous. Ulcers are apt to follow. No matter how much acid is in your stomach, you can enjoy and relish your next meal without fear of after effects, if you have some Bismarck Magnesia handy to prevent the trouble before it starts. Try it. But whatever you like, in reason, and then take a little Bismarck Magnesia to neutralize the acid, sweeten your stomach and protect the stomach lining. Doctors recommend Bismarck Magnesia—thousands use it because it positively prevents stomach trouble or stops the worst attack in less than five minutes. Get a trial package, either powder or tablets from your druggist, use as directed, and indigestion and stomach troubles will go like magic.

Rev. A. J. Prosser of Annapolis supplied the vacancy in the Baptist pulpit here on Sunday afternoon. His subject was well presented and was highly appreciated, by the congregation in attendance.

Expects Return of Acadians From the United States

That many French Canadian and Acadian families residing in decadent industrial centres of New England will return to Canada within the next six months is the confident belief of George F. Poirier, of Shediac, repatriation agent of the New Brunswick government under Hon. James A. Murray, superintendent of immigration. Mr. Poirier, who since his resignation from the teaching staff of the University of St. Joseph last June, has spent most of the time in repatriation work in such centres as Fitchburg, Gardner, Leominster, Lynn, Sanford, Salmon Falls, Newmarket, N. H., where there is a very heavy Acadian population, and where industrial conditions have long been unfavorable. He found many families would be glad to return to New Brunswick had they the means to repatriate themselves. The New Brunswick government is going part way in the direction of financial system, through the department of immigration and farm settlement board.

Mr. Poirier found deplorable conditions in Fitchburg, Mass., Salmon Falls and Newmarket, N. H., where a dozen textile mills have been shut down for ever and dismantled. Sanford and the large textile centre is undergoing severe depression also. Sanford is the home of the great Goodall Plush mills, the largest of the kind in the world, which for a long time have been running far below capacity three and four days weekly. At the present time Mr. Poirier is campaigning in Maine.

The Quebec government is also active in repatriation work. Especially in New Hampshire and Rhode Island. The Shediac Board of Trade sometime ago endorsed a Canadian repatriation policy.

The Women's Institute will hold their regular meeting on Monday afternoon, Dec. 2nd, at the home of Mrs. Hubbard.

The meeting is to take the form of a sewing party in aid of the Children's home in Halifax. A large attendance is requested.

More cups to the pound

KING COLE ORANGE PEKOE Tea costs more by the pound, but less by the cup. It is blended entirely from "small leaves." These are the tender young shoots and bud leaves of the tea plant. They are cured with slow care with the result that they have the most sap and yield the richest "liquor" in the tea pot.

This rich liquor means less tea to the cup—more cups to the pound—less money for the more delicious flavor of a truly superior tea.

Contract for building a 5,500,000 bushel grain elevator at Prescott, Ontario, on the St. Lawrence has recently been let by the Canadian Government. Its cost will be about $3,000,000 and construction must be completed by August 1, 1930. It is hoped it will be ready before the Welland Canal, built at a cost of $120,000,000 is opened before next year's grain harvest in Western Canada begins.

Official report on employment in Canada states that in October of this year conditions were exceptionally satisfactory. Reports from 707 employers with staffs totaling 1,089,583 persons showed employment at 125, based on the average for the calendar year as 120. This is the highest on record for the time of year and compares with 118.8 for October 1, 1928.

World-wide interest is being attracted by the Canadian Pacific plans to include Honolulu as a port of call on westbound voyages of the White Star Line, commencing in December. Grant Hall, vice-president of the Railway, stated at Vancouver recently. Though lack of these ships a little out of the course to Yokohama, it will still leave them their supremacy as making the fastest run between the continent and the Orient, he added.

Three functions of interest which are expected to attract hundreds of Canadian and American tourists will be staged in Victoria in the next three months. They are the Yuletide Music Festival in December, the Sea Song Festival in January, both held at the Empress Hotel, and the second annual mid-water golf tournament in February which had so outstanding a success last winter.

The 300 odd inhabitants of Foremost, Alberta, claim it as one of the busiest communities of Western Canada. In the past two years it has shipped more than 3,500,000 bushels of grain, mostly wheat. The town is also progressive in its educational and sports facilities.

Shipments of pilchard oil from the west coast of Vancouver Island are increasing yearly. One vessel recently took 650 tons in bulk destined for Europe, where margarine is still a staple diet. Sometimes whole oil is used as substitute for pilchard oil in the manufacture of margarine.

OBITUARY

CHARLES VANBUSKIRK

The death of Charles VanBuskirk, a well known and respected citizen of Bear River East occurred at his home on Sunday afternoon at 3:30. The deceased was 75 years of age, and is survived by his widow, two daughters, Emma of Bear River, and Lucy at home; two sons, Harry in the West, and Frank in Pictou, N. S., and one sister, Mrs. George T. Tupper of Bear River.

The late Mr. VanBuskirk was born in Bear River seventy-five years ago, the son of Jeremiah and Elizabeth (Merry) VanBuskirk, who were people of military and civic prominence in New Jersey, coming to Nova Scotia in 1783, and receiving a large grant of land in the upper part of Annapolis Co.

A son, LeRoy, was one of the heroes of the "Great War", losing his life in the flying service overseas.

The funeral took place from his late residence Wednesday afternoon, Rev. A. W. L. Smith, of Saint Clement's Parish, officiating. He was assisted by Rev. G. C. Durkee, of the Clementsvale Baptist Church, and by Rev. Mr. Sawdon, of the Bear River United Church. The interment was in the Mount Hope Cemetery, Bear River.

WILLIAM H. McFADDEN

At his home in Clementsport Heights on Nov. 21st, after an illness of many months, William H. McFadden passed peacefully away at the age of 77 years. He was a life long resident of Clementsport and a highly respected citizen. The funeral service held at his late home last Friday afternoon, was conducted by Rev. Geo. C. Durkee who gave a comforting message from I Cor. 15:55, "O death, where is thy sting?" "O grave, where is thy victory?" Mrs. Durkee sang very touchingly "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere". Other hymns were "Shall we meet beyond the River" and "Abide with me".

He is survived by his wife and six children; namely Mrs. C. H. Lakeman, of Pittsfield, N. H., Mrs. J. S. Rawling, of Lynn, Mass., Mrs. Carl Nichols, of Deep Brook, Clarence of Los Angeles, Cal., Arnold of Lynn, Mass., and Linley, of Clementsport. Interment took place in Clementsport Cemetery.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the widow and family who were so constant in their ministrations.

Rate Payers' Meeting

At the meeting of the Rate Payers of the district defined in the Act to allow the citizens of Bear River to tax themselves for street lights it was decided that nothing further should be done in the matter until rates were obtained for 40 and 60 watt lights.

Application to the Board of Commissioners of Public Utilities has been made for the above rates.

Weymouth Arising From Its Ruins

Weymouth is commencing to arise from its ruins. Two new business blocks are now well under way toward completion, namely, the stores of Captain R. D. Barkhouse and of H. M. Journay. Timber for other buildings is out, and it will be a short time before many others will be rebuilding. It is understood that all buildings destroyed by the fire which occurred early in October will be rebuilt, although many of them will not commence preparations until spring.

The new building blocks are being erected ten feet further back from their original sites and by that means Weymouth's front street, which was quite narrow, will be made much wider, and much safer for heavy traffic during the summer months.
Usually there was quite a congestion during rush hours near the bridge in this busy little town.

Rumours that the government is to widen or build a new bridge are quite prevalent.

Slight Blaze at Digby Hospital

About noon Monday an alarm was sounded for a fire in the Digby General Hospital which broke out around the furnace. The local firemen responded in record time, and the blaze was soon extinguished, only causing a slight damage.

Although the institution filled with smoke, the staff were able to maintain order among the patients, and no panic ensued.

Pie Fights Benefit Local Organizations

The old fashioned pie social has been the agency through which goodly sums of cash have been raised for the benefit of Digby societies and charities during the past few weeks. These pie fights seem to go over the best in the rural districts.

$75.92 was raised by this means recently by the people of Culloden, and turned over to the funds of the Digby County Children's Aid Society, and Culloden citizens are now planning to hold another such function on the 30th of this month, and will divide the proceeds between the two churches in that village.

The ladies of the Rossway United Baptist Church staged a pie social in the Rossway Hall a week ago, and were successful in clearing $45 to go toward lighting their church with electricity.

More recent functions of the same kind were held at the Cross Roads school house and a nice amount was raised for the purpose of replenishing the school library, and at Bear River, $21 was raised to be added to the Bear River Fire Equipment Fund.

The women folks are now busily engaged in preparing for the annual Christmas Trees and Sales which are held under the auspices of practically every church in the vicinity. All of the churches depend to a large extent upon these sales to assist in making up their budgets.

New Boat for Boston Yarmouth Service

It is understood that the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., were planning to build three new passenger steamships, one of which was for the Yarmouth-Boston route, likely to take the place of the Prince George which is now considered unsuited for the present requirements of the service.

Now comes a report that Captain Eugene E. O'Donnell, president of the company has sent a circular to stockholders advising them of the director's recommendation that the common stock be split by issuing two additional shares for one, following which it is planned to declare a 1 p. c. stock dividend. He states that during the present year the company has shown the greatest earning power in its history.
The cash position is excellent, and payment of the stock dividend will permit the retention of cash for a three-ship construction program.
The company can carry out this construction program and still have ample working capital if advantage is taken of the construction loan fund of the Shipping Board.

Maritime "Old Home Week" Discussed

The matter of the proposed "Old Home Summer Week" for the Maritime provinces was further discussed by the Board of Trade Council, Halifax in session Tuesday afternoon. There was a difference of opinion as in other points the month of August had been selected and it was felt this would neither be acceptable to the transportation or hotel interests. So far Amherst and Saint John have been the only places that have decided the matter.

The Secretary brought to the attention of the Council the desirability of issuing tourist literature earlier than last year and impressed the importance of having it early in the year as the Board is now receiving application from intending visitors next summer. The prospects are looking towards larger tourist traffic in 1939.

Sea Wall Weir Fishermen Enjoy Fair Season

The weir fishermen at Sea, Wall have commenced to take up the weirs for this season. They have only enjoyed a fair season this year, not so much on account of a dirth of fish, but because they were a bit late in getting their weirs down in the spring. They missed the big run of spring mackerel and big herring on this account and were only able to capture the "tail-end" of the schools.

During the summer, however, they more than broke even with their bait herring catches, and the good run of fall mackerel was practically clear profit for them.

SCOUT NOTES

The meeting opened as usual, and the Wolfe Cubs passed their tender pads in front of the troop. After the Cubs went home, a tenderfoot was passed in front of all the boys.
The patrols took up their usual work, and a few of the boys passed their first aid test. Scout Master Wright, and several of the boys, attended the service stars, and also a few proficiency badges won in the Beaver patrol. The contest for points ended last Friday with the Beaver patrol ahead, and the Scout Master gave a prize of a book to each member of that patrol.

Essays on the flying fish were read, after which the meeting closed with the regular ceremony. Next the Court of Honor met at which several new things were passed.

Mr. S. J. Limbrey, Chief Scout of Nova Scotia, was in Digby for three days last week. Each night,

Christmas Seals

Christmas is less than one month away! We do not know what steps have been taken to date, but we expect that the committee in charge of the distribution of the Anti-Tuberculosis Seals have made their plans for this year, and we hope the seals will be on sale within a very short time.

The "Tuberculosis Commission", which is financed by Christmas Seal sales, is a great life saving enterprise. It seeks to teach the public that this dread disease may be prevented through healthy habits of living, rest, fresh air, exercises and through physical examinations by doctors in order to keep track of one's general condition.

To emphasize the necessity for his means that a continuous and forceful message must be kept continually before the public. Just how far these seals will be able to spread their light this year depends upon how many seals you and I and all of us buy and use on our Holiday letters and packages. Let us all try to get a good supply the first day they are on sale.

Rev. G. C. Durkee, who for many

effect in the spring.

Local Fish Catches Slack During Week

Although the Digby County fisherman enjoyed one of the most profitable seasons they have had for a number of years during the fortnight previous to this past week, last week the receipts dwinged down to practically nothing, chiefly on account of unsuitable weather conditions.

Digby County fishermen are looking forward to the usual big run which has, for many years, come just previous to Christmas. The receipts from this catch go a long way toward making Christmas what it ought to be in the fishing districts of this county, and should this catch drop off this year, it might have the same effect as the Wall Street slump in making Santa Claus that much poorer man. Santa is a fisherman, and farmer as well as a speculator.

Petty thieves have been very active in the vicinity of North Range and Bloomfield, of late. Several hen houses have been broken into, and in many cases, valuable birds stolen. Many attempts to get into the homes have also been made.

One of these "visitors" met with a surprise the other evening. He was seen peering into a window by the lady of the house, who immediately gave an alarm. One member of the household, forthwith ran out of the house with his revolver, and seeing a man running in the direction of the nearby woods, emptied it in that direction. The night was very dark however, which was much to the advantage of the intruder.

Railway Helps In Building Cottages For New Settlers

Full approval of the Overseas Settlement Board of the British Government, which is supporting it financially, has been given the project of the Canadian National Railways' Department of Colonization and the White Star Line Canadian Service to solve to some extent, the problem of accommodation for British families working on the farms of employers in Canada. The scheme provides for the erection of suitable farm cottages in prosperous farming districts in Western Canada to house selected British families placed under the auspices of the National System and the White Star. These cottages are being carefully located in the three prairie provinces where the resident farmers are predominantly Anglo-Saxon.

Each cottage will stand in a fenced plot of ground averaging from one-half to one acre, and will be close to a good road and within easy access of the local market village, and as near as possible to the rural school. The cottages, modest but substantial, will be of two bedrooms, and the other, for larger families, consisting of a living-room and three bedrooms. Simple furniture will be provided in each cottage including a good stove. A nominal rent of three dollars a month will be charged the tenants. It is understood that families will occupy the cottages only while they are securing preliminary experience in Canadian farming, presumably for a year's time, after which it is anticipated that they will be in a position to make their own arrangements. The Canadian National Railways' farm placement service will assist in procuring employment for the newly arrived families.

C.G.I.T. Girls On Hike

The Live Wires C. G. I. T. Group of the United. Sunday School, held their meeting last Thursday evening in the form of a hike. About ten of the girls met at 8 o'clock and started to walk around the "flat iron". The moon was late in rising but they hoped to have it for their return. The air was crisp and invigorating, necessitating quick walking. They sang all the C. G. I. T. songs that they knew and many that were not C. G. I. T.

Before they arrived home all their good resolutions came to naught. Steps lagged and the singing and laughter became a trifle less spontaneous. An offer for a lift was not refused and the whole group crowded into one car and were driven to the Ocean Gardens, where they all had hot chocolate and sandwiches.

The earthquake which shook the Atlantic seaboard from New York to Newfoundland claiming 26 lives and causing $1,000,000 worth of damage in the Burin Peninsula, Newfoundland, was the most severe that had been felt in years. It took place 174 years to the day from the time of the worst recorded earthquake in New England in 1755, when panic seized several towns and more than 1400 chimneys were felled in Boston alone. The last earthquake previous to this, was on January 7, 1925. The cause was probably a slip on the earth's surface along the line of the Fundian Fault, which runs south westward under the ocean from the Bay of Fundy to Cape Ann above Gloucester. The "quake" was felt most in Cape Breton and in Newfoundland. In the latter place a fifteen foot tidal wave smashed up against the little fishing villages along thirty miles of its rocky coast bringing death and destruction in its wake. The death toll may amount as high as 40 and the means of livelihood for hundreds has been swept away.

Philip Joudrey Not Expected To Recover

Philip Joudrey, who was brought to the Yarmouth Hospital, Monday suffering from a broken neck and a fractured arm as a result of a fall from a telephone pole at Meteghan River, is not expected to recover, according to the latest report.

The injured man became unconscious, early Tuesday morning, and was in that condition most of the day and evening. Very little hope is held out for any improvement, although all that surgical aid can do has been done.

Mrs. Joudrey arrived from their home, at Italy Cross, Lunenburg County, Tuesday evening, and was taken to the hospital.

LATER

Philip Joudrey, who suffered a fracture of the neck on Monday morning at Meteghan, Digby county, when he fell from the top of a telephone pole, died at the Yarmouth Hospital Wednesday morning.

Linford Pulsifer, of Mariotts Cove, was arrested on Monday afternoon, and charged with attempted murder. It is alleged that he is the man who fired a shot through the window of Saint Stephen's Anglican Church at Chester during the course of the evening service last Sunday in an attempt to take the life of the rector, Rev. Herbert Feavey. The bullet missed the rector by a fraction of an inch.

Trinity Church

The Services at Trinity Anglican Church on Sunday will be as follows—8 a.m., Holy Communion; 11 a.m. Morning Prayer; 7 p.m., Evening Prayer. The Advent Anthem "The Great Day of the Lord" will be rendered by the Choir.

Following the Evening Service, the Community Carol Practice will be held in the Parish Hall. All persons, whether members of the church choir or not are cordially invited to join this community effort.

Trinity Choir is improving continually since their presentation of the "Harvest Cantata" which brought forth many favorable comments.

A Christmas Cantata "The Nativity of Christ" is being rehearsed and will be sung at the regular Friday Evensong, Dec. 27th at 7.30 o'clock. This Cantata is by the English composer, Caleb Simpson.

Two large flocks of geese were heard honking their way south shortly after midnight Tuesday. Judging from the geese, sleighbells, Christmas windows and the heavy advertising in this week's Courier, one commences to realize that Christmas cannot be far away.

Cecil Jones, of New Haven, Conn. son of Frank Jones, K. C. of Digby, met with a serious motorcycle accident recently and is confined in a hospital with a broken leg and other injuries.

Rev. F. C. Burnett, agent for the Digby and Yarmouth Children's Aid Societies was a visitor to town this week in the interests of the Society.

Children's Aid Will Open Drive For Members

The Digby Children's Aid Society will open a drive in the town for members, commencing Monday, December 9th. The decision was reached at a meeting of the executive held in the council chambers of the Town Hall Monday evening. Canvassers were appointed, and a thorough canvass of the town will commence on Monday morning.

The agent of the society, Rev. F. C. Burnett, was also authorized to appoint auxiliary committees in the various sections of the county, and it is hoped that in this way, that a better knowledge of the work of the society will be created in the rural districts.

It is the desire of the Courier that the citizens of the town will give the canvassers their whole hearted support when they call next week. There are some who have the wrong conception of the work of the Children's Aid Society. The Society does not seek to break up homes or to remove children from their parents, except as an absolute necessity for the child's protection. The society always first seeks to remedy conditions in the child's home.

The Society is not a "busybody" or a "mischief maker". It does not tittle-tattle into private affairs. It strives to help and not to injure. There are many parents as well as children who do not only require, but welcome the advice and assistance which the society gives.

The Society is non-political and undenominational. Every person who is interested in the welfare of children and in the social and economic well being of our country should be members and supporters of this Society.

The object of the Society is:

- To protect children from cruelty.
- To protect and care for friendless and destitute children.
- To endeavor to prevent children from becoming incorrigible or criminal.
- To endeavor to prevent children from becoming destitute or dependent on public charity.
- To teach neglectful and cruel parents their duties towards their children.
- To endeavor to provide suitable foster homes for such children as may require them.
- To co-operate with the Director of Child Welfare in every way possible for the proper treatment of delinquent and neglected children.

Each Children's Aid Society is an incorporate body completely independent of all other Societies and organizations. The Children's Aid Societies are not "run by the Government." Each Society is fully independent of Government and Municipal control, in its management.

The League of Nations gives considerable attention to child welfare and the rights of the child as set out in the "Declaration of Geneva" has become famous as the Children's Charter.

DECLARATION OF GENEVA

By the present Declaration of the Rights of the Child, commonly known as the Declaration of Geneva, men and women of all nations, recognizing that mankind owes to the Child the best that it has to give, declare and accept it as their duty that, regardless of all considerations of race, nationality or creed:

- The Child must be given the means requisite for its normal development, both materially and spiritually.
- The Child that is hungry must be fed, the child that is sick must be nursed, the child that is backward must be helped, the delinquent child must be reclaimed, and the orphan

WILLIAM E. MILLER

The death of William Edwin Miller, one of Western Nova Scotia's most widely known business men occurred at his Cliff Street residence, Yarmouth on Tuesday evening, after an illness of several weeks' duration.

In the passing of William Edwin Miller, Nova Scotia loses one of her most progressive citizens. The deceased was born in Bear River, the son of the late William and Sarah Anne (Harris) Miller. As a young man he went into the lumbering business with his father, and learned the trade most thoroughly.

After the death of his father, he entered into partnership with Clarke Brothers Limited, Bear River and carried on with that concern until they reorganized to begin the manufacture of pulp and paper in 1919. It was then that Mr. Miller withdrew and moved to Yarmouth.

Being a mill man with the experience he had, he soon saw the possibilities for development in Yarmouth County and shortly after organized the Miller-Gordon Company at Caledon. He erected a large factory and commenced the manufacturing of clothespins, dowels, washboards and other hardwood commodities with good success. That enterprise expanded rapidly and through his optimistic personality, together with his marked progressiveness for development, the name of Miller-Gordon and the firm's products are today known in many parts of the world.

The late Mr. Miller was a citizen of the broadest type, and a gentleman in all of his dealings. In Church life, he was a United Baptist, and before coming to Yarmouth, served in the capacity of Deacon in the Baptist Church at Bear River. After his removal to Yarmouth he became affiliated with the Zion Baptist Church there, and was made a member of that church. Mr. Miller was also associated with Masonry and was a member of The Keith Lodge, Bear River.

Mr. Miller was 67 years of age, and is survived by his widow and two daughters, Mr. Leslie Crosby of Yarmouth, and Miss Annie, at home; also one son, Roy D. Miller of Caledon, and two sisters, Mrs. Mark E.ddy, of Belmont, Mass., and Mrs. Annie Bogart, of Bear River.

The funeral service will be held from his late residence at 2.30 this afternoon and will be conducted by Rev. E. H. Cochrane, pastor of Zion Church. Tomorrow the remains will be taken to Bear River, where interment will be made under the auspices of the Keith Lodge.

Taking up Spurr Line at Weymouth

Men have commenced work at Weymouth to take up the rails of the three mile spur, laid some six or seven years ago, from Weymouth to the pulp mill of the Clyde and Sissiboo Pulp Company.

The line was built to bring the manufactured pulp from the mill to the railroad, where it was taken by freight to a shipping point. Most of it was transported to the "Old Country."

Thomas Burridge, of the staff of B. H. Ruggles, is working on a job for his employer at Deep Brook.

and the waif must be sheltered and succoured.

3. The Child must be first to receive relief in times of distress.

4. The Child must be put in a position to earn a livelihood, and must be protected against every form of exploitation.

5. The Child must be brought up in the consciousness that its talents must be devoted to the service of its fellowmen.

Whereupon we have this day subscribed and set our signature.

EDWARD M. COUSINS

Funeral services for the late Edward M. Cousins of 77 Cass Street, West Roxbury, were held from his late home Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. Services were conducted by the Rev. Henry A. Kernan of the Congregational Church of West Roxbury. Burial was at Mount Hope Cemetery.

The Schubert Quartette of Boston rendered three favorite selections of Mr. Cousins: "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning", "In the Garden" and "Over the Hill".

Mr. Cousins was born in Digby, N. S. November 27, 1862. He started driving public conveyances more than fifty years ago, when he drove the mail coach between Digby and Yarmouth, N. S. On going to Boston he drove stage for J. H. Hathorn & Sons, who operated the line between Northampton St., and Salem St., Charlestown. In 1883 he drove a horse car for the Middlesex Railway and was driving for the Metropolitan Railway when that road consolidated with the West End. He drove for the West End until it became a part of the Elevated system. Since then he has been with the Boston Elevated and last October completed his 47th year with that concern.

In 1889 while a motorman on the Boston Elevated road, he drove the first car that was run over the Boylston St. Bridge. It was one of the old horse cars of the Back Bay-Boylston St. Line. The opening of the bridge was a very important feature in the development of that section of the city.

Mr. Cousins is spoken of by officials of the road for his splendid service and excellent character. His personality was such that he made many friends wherever he went and retained them until his death. Floral tributes at the home showed the high esteem in which he was held and the many friends that enjoyed his companionship.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Jeddie Nickerson of Barrington, N. S.; a daughter, Mrs. Lucy M. Grant; a son, J. Edward; and a grandson, Ellsworth Grant. He is also survived by three brothers Bland W. of Manchester, N. H.; Arthur E. of Digby, N. S.; and Capt. Harry P. of Halifax, N. S.

The late Edward M. Cousins was the son of the late Capt. J. W. Cousins of Digby. He was in his 67th year.

CATHERINE THERIAULT

The death of Mrs. Catherine Theriault occurred at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Leo Blinn, Bellevue's Cove, on Tuesday morning. The deceased was in her 79th year, and is survived by four children, Alphe Theriault, of Bellevue's Cove; Miss Madara Theriault of Haverhill, Mass.; Mrs. Armetie Gaudet, St. Louis, Mo., and Mrs. Delina Blinn, with whom she was residing.

Illuminated Christmas Tree

Merchants on Water street and citizens in general will welcome the news that the Fellowship Club of Digby have decided to erect a Christmas tree near the monument on the front street.

We understand that the tree is to be lighted with over fifty electric lamps and suitably decorated. Also on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday evenings before Christmas Day, those interested will gather around the tree and sing carols.

Several persons have expressed a desire to assist in defraying the cost of this undertaking, because they believe that not only will it cheer the hearts of our people but also stimulate Christmas shopping and bring persons from outlying districts to view the tree.

The town council are supplying the electric power, free of charge, Dakin Bros. the electric wire, H. T. Warner the Christmas tree. Now we need electric bulbs, sockets, printed song-sheets and the co-operation of the merchants and citizens is here solicited to provide the money necessary to make the Christmas tree a success.

Please send in a small donation to the Christmas Tree Fund at the Courier office.

County Roads are Better After Snow

Local motorists who have been doing any driving report that the roads in the town and county have improved wonderfully since the snow has packed in, and filled up the ruts and pot holes. In some sections they are a bit rutty and rough, but on the whole, the local roads are in good condition.

The Maritime
Old Home Week

The Maritime Old Home Week has been the subject of considerable comment of late. This position was first mooted by R. W. E. Burnaby, Maritime Trade Commissioner in Toronto. Several towns and cities in the Maritime have fallen in line with the idea, and it has been the object of much favorable comment in the press.

Digby has not yet declared herself. No organization up to the present, in so far as we know, has discussed the problem, and citizens generally have not been given an opportunity to express themselves.

Of course, in Digby, "the Premier Summer Resort of the Maritimes", every summer is more or less a prolonged "Old Home Week" but then, that is no reason why we should not join hands with other towns and cities in the Maritimes, and hold one grand celebration.

Such an event will be sure to bring back to the town sons and daughters, who, in spite of many years absence from our town and county have warm feeling toward the land of their birth. Invite them home, and then give them a real week's entertainment.

The Maritime Old Home Week will most likely be held in August, which means if Digby is going to do anything it is time to get busy. This is an important matter for the local Board of Trade to consider.

Hockey!

The hockey season is with us once again, and the boys are making preparations for another big year. The Digby Ravens have held the Western Nova Scotia Championship for three successive years, and were also "the runner-ups" for the Nova Scotia Championship during the same period—Digby citizens are naturally proud of their Ravens.

There is no reason why the Digby Ravens will not make as fine a showing this year as in the past—we can hardly expect them to do better, we cannot expect a purely amateur team such as the Ravens to come out on the top when competing with the "professional-amateurs" teams as are maintained in the larger centres. However we know, and they know, that our boys have the right stuff in them, and can put up a stiff, clean game, anytime, anywhere and against any team—they are not shirkers, but are good losers, and splendid winners.

Mr. Walker, of the Bijou Dream Theatre, has granted the boys the use of his theatre for the night of December 12th, and will put on a good picture, turning the proceeds over to the team. Everybody expects to take in this event. The Ravens need and deserve the help and co-operation of all; they are one of Digby's best advertisements and boosters. One realized the truth of this statement when he remembers that last year the Digby Ravens were among the "most talked of" teams in the Maritimes.

Acadian Memorial Fund

To the Editor of the Courier:—

The Acadian Historic and War Memorial Monument, now in course of construction at Centre East Pubnico N. S., which we hope to complete next summer, will commemorate the founding of Pubnico in 1651; the erection of the Baronnie de Pomboucou in 1653; a memorial to Charles de LaTour, and the names of all the Acadians of Yarmouth County who gave their lives for their country during the Great War.

This monument, which is now all concreted, stands fifteen feet in height and six square at the base, the bricks still to be laid. It is hoped that it can be finished early next summer so as to hold a big celebration, in July or August, for its dedication. Being built on the main highway between Yarmouth and Halifax, it will, no doubt, prove an alluring attraction for tourists to visit Nova Scotia and to include the South Shore when arranging their itinerary.

Unique in design, it will also be unique in the fact that it will be the only Acadian Historic and War Memorial Monument in the Maritime Provinces, to record the events of Acadia: The cost of the monument, when completed, will be about four hundred dollars, and the grading and concreting around the base will add about one hundred additional. It will be one of the finest historic monuments in Nova Scotia.

It is being built by popular contributions, on land donated for that purpose by H. Leander d'Entremont, and the public has been very generous, donations being from one to twenty-five dollars each. We have received to date the following amount $280.60, and the expenses total $291.18.

A circular letter is being sent out in order that we may collect the necessary amount to complete the whole work as soon as we can next spring. Every contribution, with the name of the donor, is recorded in a register, which is kept in duplicate by the Treasurer. Should more money, than is required for this monument, be received, it will be made the nucleus for another fund to erect other memorials, in Yarmouth and Shelburne counties, and along the South Shore, to record the early events in the history of Acadia.

There is also a desire on the part of Historian d'Entremont to have an Acadian Museum and Library in connection with this monument, as an attraction for tourists, and he would appreciate the donation of any histories or relics. Of the latter he has already quite a collection of those ancient days.

Contributions for the Memorial Monument may be sent to either of the undersigned:

H. Leander d'Entremont
Historian and Director,
Centre East Pubnico, N.S.
James d'Entremont
Treasurer,
Middle West Pubnico, N.S.

To Get a Good Start

Hockey, the king of winter sports is again coming to the front and in a very short time, Digby fans will be eating, thinking, talking, sleeping and dreaming hockey. It has taken a little more effort than usual to get enthusiasm started this year, but the mass meeting held last Thursday night in the town hall started things going in great shape.

Mayor T. E. G. Lynch, president of the Digby Ravens Hockey Club occupied the chair, and was re-elected president for the ensuing 1929-30 season: Frank Hayden was elected vice-president, and E. J. Theriault, secretary-treasurer. Ed Webber will be the team manager. C. J. Eldridge, F. R. Eisenor and F. L. Anderson were appointed as a finance committee.

C. E. Walker, proprietor of the Bijou Dream Theatre made a very generous offer to the club. He is going to put on a show in the theatre on Thursday night, December 12th, and give the whole proceeds to the boys, there will a humdinger of a movie, and we believe that the boys themselves are going to put on a vaudeville show as well.

Dr. Tobin, Cliff. King, and Buster Walker were appointed as a committee to look after that part of the entertainment.

The boys will be selling tickets for this show, it will be best to get yours right away because they plan to sell a whack of them, and at the same time it wouldn't be a bad idea to get a few for friends and relatives. Remember that every ticket sold means that much more for the team and no champion team can operate without a little something in their treasury.

LOOK at the leaves on any bush; some are old and thick and heavy; others are young and green and tender. Only these young, tender saplings bud leaves and shoots of the tea plant are used for King Cole Orange Pekoe Tea.

Furthermore, blended with choice Assams and high-growth Ceylons, are very costly Darjeelings from high up in the Himalayas, and equally rare monsoon-plucked Travancores from the hills of Southern India.

You know how good King Cole Tea is, but King Cole Orange Pekoe, made from these tender leaves and rare, expensive crops, blended for fullness, strength and flavor, is even better than its higher price would lead you to expect.

You will enjoy King Cole Coffee too

School Is Burned at Church Point

A fire occurred last Friday morning at Church Point and burned to the ground the public school of that place. This school was directed by the Sisters of Charity who have their convent not far from the school. The alarm was given at about half past six. The fathers and the students of St. Anne's College immediately responded. When they arrived the school was full of smoke. The news was spread by telephone and in the course of half an hour several autos filled with men were on the scene, some coming from quite a distance. However, as there was practically no wind at the time, there was no danger, for the adjoining building. A very light wind was coming from the south-east. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Six Foxes Stolen From Jefferson's Ranch

Six valuable black foxes, of a total value in the vicinity of $2000, were stolen from the ranch of Jesse V. Jefferson, near the New Pines Hotel, late last Thursday night, or early on Friday morning. The loss is a great one to Mr. Jefferson, who has only been engaged in fox ranching for a short time.

The loss was discovered on Friday morning, when Mrs. Jefferson went out to feed the animals, and from the evidence left by the tracks in the snow, two persons took part in the robbery, the tracks also indicating that a light car, most like a Ford, was used.

Chief of Police A. G. Cowan is working on the case, and hopes to get results in a very short time. There have been a number of similar robberies take place in the county of late. Poultry have been stolen at North Range and Bloomfield; pigs have been stolen in other sections, and some time ago, at Centreville, a registered ram was stolen from the barn of K. P. Dakin.

In that case, Mr. Dakin did a bit of detective work on his own initiative. He was very successful and had made up his mind to go to town and swear out evidence against certain parties. The next morning when he visited his barn, he found that the ram had been returned to him, none the worse.

Mrs. John Phalen and two sons, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Frank Reed and children motored through from Halifax, and spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Denton.

The sewing circle met at the home of Mrs. George Frost last week, a goodly number being present. A jolly evening was spent as well as considerable work done for the Christmas Sale which is to take place in the near future. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. I. D. Harvey.

Government Blasting Ledge
at Culloden

Much to the satisfaction of the Culloden fishermen, work has commenced at Broad Cove, Culloden, to blast away a ledge of rock at the head of the breakwater at that place.

This ledge has put the Broad Cove fishermen to a disadvantage on account of the difficulty it made for them in hauling up their boats, and many times they have been forced to moor their boats alongside of the breakwater to the mercy of a sudden storm which might come up at any time. For this reason they have been in the habit of hauling their boats up every fall, and discontinuing fishing operations until spring when the danger of sudden squalls has passed.

This fall the boats were hauled up, and later extraordinary fishing struck in, and they found it profitable to put them back in the water again. The government has now undertaken to blast away the ledge, and to construct ways that will make it easier for the fishermen to protect their craft. It is understood that some $2000 has been allotted for this purpose.

Courage Wins Happiness in Tough Battle

Always Smiling!

YOU would think a very old lady, laid up with a broken hip, in plaster cast would be a hard person to keep happy. Yet, according to Nurse Helen V. Griffin, 64 Prospect Avenue, Hackensack, New Jersey, it can be done—if you know how.

"My patient," says Miss Griffin, "being unable to move about by herself, became very constipated. Many medicines in pill form were used with little or no results. Finally when we came home from the hospital I began the use of Nujol."

"Soon my patient became regular and comfortable, without any pain or discomfort. Now she is happy and cheerful, since regularity has begun and continued with such little trouble."

If Nujol will make an old lady feel well, who cannot move around in her bed, what will it do for you? Nurse Griffin knew how harmless Nujol is, containing no drugs or medicine, but acting only as a natural lubricant. She knew how it keeps excess of body poisons from forming (we all have them) and helps carry them away.

Women need a natural aid like Nujol just as much, if not more, than men. There are so many physical conditions they have to go through that upset their normal schedule. Just remember that all your body needs to be regular as clock-work is a simple natural lubricant. Be sure, however, that you get the right one—the one tested and approved by millions of people.

See what Nujol will do for you. You can get it at any drug store for the price of a ticket to a good movie. You will find that Nujol works easily, normally. Try it today!

You'll wonder how you ever lived without this natural, pleasant, easy way to health and happiness!

DO YOU WEIGH WHAT YOU SHOULD?

Many Thin People Build up to Normal Standards on the Body-Building Foods in Father John's Medicine.

Do you realize that unless your weight is up to normal you are actually in danger of serious illness? No better proof of this is needed than the strict rules of the insurance companies which forbid the issuance of insurance to those who are under-weight.

Many thin people find that they gain steadily in weight while taking Father John's Medicine. This is because Father John's Medicine contains cod liver oil, the greatest of all body-building foods, as well as other nutritious and tonic elements which the body must have if it is to maintain its normal weight, vigor and vitality. The regular and consistent use of Father John's Medicine brings a regular and consistent gain in health and strength to those who are pale, thin, weak and run-down.

Father John's Medicine is real food in a form of which even the frail, delicate system can easily take up.

Bay View

Reconditioned

Judson Handspeker and Walter Barnes, two boatmen of the Bay View Life Saving Station Crew, who left for Saint John on Wednesday to bring back the life boat that has been there for a general overhauling, have returned with the boat, which has been fitted out with an engine of the very latest type. Harry Benson the boat's engineer, who had been in that city for several days, came back with them.

The boat has been in Saint John for several weeks, and in the meantime, the large scallop boat and fishing fleets operating out of Digby and near by ports have had to do without the protection of the lifeboat.

WEDDINGS

HAMLIN—GILLIATT

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Thursday evening, November 21st at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Gilliatt of Jamaica Plain, Mass., when their daughter, Frances, was united in marriage to Horace Hamlin, of Norfolk, Mass. The bride, who was given away by her father, was prettily attired in a gown of new blue crepe back satin, fashioned in silhouette style with hat to match, and carried a shower bouquet of roses and sweet-peas. She was attended by Miss Marjorie Woodman, as bridesmaid, who wore a gown of hunter's green with hat to match and carried roses and carnations. Geoffrey Hamlin attended his brother as groomsmen.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home at which about fifty guests were present. The gifts were both numerous and costly. The happy couple left that evening for a honeymoon trip to the Mohawk Trail amid a shower of confetti. On their return they will reside at their new home on Main St., Norfolk, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Hamlin will have the best wishes of their many friends here, having been former residents of Smith's Cove, N. S. The bride is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gilliatt, Joggin Bridge, while the groom was at one time employed as foreman on the staff of the "Digby Weekly Courier."

MELANSON—DEVEAU

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Vincent de Paul's church at Salmon River, Tuesday morning, 26th inst., when Boneman Melanson son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvian Melanson, of Mayflower, was united in marriage to Miss Helen LeBlanc, daughter of Mrs. Rose LeBlanc, of Hectanooga. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. Maillet, rector, and was followed by nuptial High Mass. The bride looked charming in a gown of pearl-colored georgette with veil held by a coronet of orange blossoms. She was attended by her sister, Miss Lizzie LeBlanc. The groom was attended by Fred Deveau, of Hectanooga.

After Mass the party motored to the home of the groom, where a dinner was served to a number of invited guests. In the afternoon they came to Hectanooga to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Rose LeBlanc. There supper was served to over 60 guests. During the evening an informal reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Melanson received a number of costly presents including silverware, cut glass and linen. They have the best wishes of many friends.

STEVENS—RICE

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Fryeburg, Maine, Sunday, November 17th, when Miss A. Lillian Rice, of Bear River became the wife of Roy H. Stevens of Fryeburg. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Wild.

The bride is the daughter of the late Stanley Rice of Bear River, and Mrs. Samuel Stevens of Fryeburg. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stevens, Fryeburg.

They were attended by the bride's sister, Miss Vivian Rice, of Portland, and Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, parents of the groom. The bride's dress was blue silk with a blue satin hat to match.

Trees

See the forests on those hills. Destined for the paper mills! Pause amid these woodland scenes—Here are future magazines! See that pine against the sky? That is "Harpers" for July! See that Hemlock near the canyon? That's the "Woman's Home Companion!"

And this our life, exempt from public haunt. Finds tongues in trees, books in the running brooks, Sermons in stocks of corn and good in everything.

Scallop and Oyster Dredges Under Construction

Considerable assistance for the fishing industry in the Maritime Provinces is being rendered by the Department of Fisheries, Ottawa, through the provision of two specially-designed ships, generally referred to as a scallop dredge and an oyster dredge. Both these vessels are now being built by the Lunenburg Foundry Company, Lunenburg, whose tender was accepted by the Government.

Under the direction of W. A. Found, deputy minister of fisheries, these craft will be used to improve the fisheries in the Eastern Provinces, along parallel lines with assistance rendered to agriculture throughout the country. Discussing the construction of these so-called dredges, Mr. Found explained that there has been a decline in the production of oysters and scallops along the seaboard of this country and that excellent opportunities appear to exist for more adequately supplying the large market for these molluscs.

Scallops, he said, are known to exist in certain localities along the Atlantic coast line, but it is believed that they may be found in many other areas. In order to ascertain therefore, the possibilities for developing this special industry, a boat will be sent out to explore all areas in which it is likely that this species of shellfish thrives. The dredge has been so designed that it can search the ocean bed, and bring up samples of anything existing thereon. When a chart of these fruitful regions has been prepared, from which local fishermen may subsequently receive valuable information on their own districts, and the whole coast has been examined in this way, the boat can be converted without any difficulty and at very small expense for other Government services, such as preventive work.

The whole idea behind this scheme is one of fishery cultivation. Assistance is rendered to the farmer by the provision of many experimental farms throughout the country, and it is desired that the fisherman should be given similar facilities. An experimental station has already been established at Halifax, and this has proved very effective. With these two new boats, which will be ready to commence operations by the beginning of next season, and the new fiscal year, it is expected that demonstrations may be given that will prove invaluable to the fishing industry.

Even old stains can be removed by this treatment: Stretch the soiled silk over a basin and pour boiling water through the material. Then rub powdered borax over the stain, and pour more boiling water on it, and stain will be gone.

New Hospital to be Built by Day Labor

Planning of the hospital board in the town hall on Monday last to discuss details in connection with the building of the new Digby General Hospital. It was decided that the building would be done by day labor, and not by contract. A building committee consisting of W. W. Hayden Dr. W. J. Dickie and H. M. Wardie was appointed. A definite will be done in the New Year, but it is expected to get the frame out this fall. The work in the spring. The architect's concept of the new Digby Hospital, and the revised plans is on display in the window of Dr. J. Dickie's office.

Plans and certificates were approved last Sunday to 25 members of the Digby Church of Grace. The church for attendance at the service during the past week. The four highest attendances were: Wm. Pearce 50, Reginald Smith 48, Edna Cummings 45, and John 44.

To Develop Power From Gulf Stream

Advices from Havana announce that the French scientist Claude, who developed neon-gas lights and important synthetic processes, is carrying out an extensive investigation at Mantanzas, Cuba, to develop the potential heat energy of the Gulf Stream.

The surface water there is said to be 40 degrees warmer than the water 2,000 feet below. Claude expects to develop a practical means of transferring this heat energy difference potential and utilizing it. Preliminary plans involve dropping a pipe line to the bottom to bring up the cold water, taking off the power through use of a turbine engine which takes advantage of the flow of vapor set free by the proximity of water at two different temperatures. Cuban engineering authorities believe his project includes search for gases present in the water at the ocean bottom.

We must give credit to George Trohou for the way he keeps that stretch of sidewalk sanded. Others should follow his example these slippery days. It may prevent a serious accident.

"Missing" Leonard Barry Alive and Well

On Wednesday the daily press of Halifax and Saint John made a big spread of one Leonard Barry, reported "missing" since October. Barry was located that evening at Clementsvale.

Inquiries were made concerning his whereabouts to Chief of Police Cowan on Tuesday afternoon. It appears that Barry had been making his home with Charles Hall and his family at Roxville since March, and early in October, he left that home without giving any intimation as to where he was bound. At that time he was dressed in his best clothes, and had not been seen or heard of in that vicinity since.

Being of a more or less shiftless nature, little thought was taken of his "disappearance", but considering the fact that he had left his light auto truck, and all his personal belongings, including his work clothes and all fishing implements behind him, those of the household thought it was time inquiries had been made.

Barry was a returned man of some 42 years, single, and had been badly wounded at the front. His home was near Clementsport, but he had been living at various places along the Digby Neck. He stopped at the home of John Potter, at Upper Clements on Tuesday night, and left the next morning traveling in the direction of Clementsvale.

The Sears-Robuck Company, of Chicago, have announced that after the first of January the thirteen month calendar will go into effect in that corporation. It is believed that this company is the first of the great industrial organizations to take this step.

Potatoes Good Feed for Poultry

Small unmerchantable potatoes may very profitably be fed to poultry. In an experiment planned to compare boiled potatoes with corn meal in the laying mash at the Fredericton, N. B. Experimental Station, it was found that the potato fed pens did even better than when corn meal was used in the mash.

Each group was fed a scratch mixture of two parts of cracked corn, two parts wheat, and one part oats. One group received a dry mash containing equal parts of corn meal, wheat bran, wheat middlings and crushed oats. The other group received a moist mash consisting of equal parts of wheat bran, wheat middlings and crushed oats mixed with boiled potatoes. The proportions fed were two parts potatoes and one part mash. Each group received charcoal grit, milk, green feed and water.

The experiment ran from the first of December until the end of May in each of three years. The average egg production for the six month periods for three years was 82.3 for the corn meal fed lot as compared with 88.69 when the potatoes were fed. The potato feeding also showed an advantage in hatching results, as it is shown in the Report of the Station for 1928, published by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, that in all the matings the hatches were higher from the birds, both male and female, that received potatoes instead of corn meal in the mash.

In the city of Chicago the printing industry ranks second place with twenty of the leading industries of that city.

"Souvenir" has Clean Sheet for Endorsements

The schooner "Souvenir", Captain Oscar Outhouse, arrived in port Monday from Annapolis, bound for Beaver Harbor, Me., with a cargo comprising a few hundred cases of canned clams and apples.

It is not an unusual thing for the "Souvenir" to tie up at Digby at any time or season of the year, but nevertheless, the "Souvenir" is an unusual little schooner, and holds at least one world's record—she is the world's smallest three masted schooner, in the carrying trade, her gross weight is but thirty-one tons.

It is unnecessary to say much more about the schooner itself, for columns and columns have been written about her and have been published in various papers in the Maritimes and the New England States, but nevertheless there are a few things we would like to say in regard to this little schooner's register.

The original "Souvenir" was built twenty-six years ago by Captain B. Robichaud, who sailed her for three years. His name was entered on the front of the register as owner and captain. Three years later the schooner was purchased by her present owner and commander, Captain Oscar Outhouse, who endorsed the register. Shortly after Captain Outhouse took command of the "Souvenir" he was absent in the United States for one year, and during that period of time, the command was taken over by Captain Pierce MacKay, whose name appeared as an endorsee of the vessel's register. Rats later attacked the original register, and destroyed it, and a new one with Captain Outhouse's name appearing on the front page, and

To Again Discuss National Highway

The Government will be asked at the next session of Parliament to reconsider its policy with regard to aid in highway construction.

Two suggestions were advanced during this year's session. There remain some 600 miles of highway to be built to give Canada a national road from coast to coast. Most of this lies along the shore of Lake Superior, and it was asked that the government undertake its construction. The second proposal was that the granting of aid to the Provinces in road building, which was inaugurated in 1919 be revived for another five-year period.

The Prime Minister explained the reluctance of the Government to vote "earmarked" money to the Provinces—that is money granted for specific work—and neither plan was adopted. Next session the proponents of Federal aid in highway building will renew their pleas.

They are following closely the progress of plans in the United States for the Federal construction of a wool system of national "express" highways to care for fast traffic and incidentally to play an important role in reducing unemployment.

Don't forget the Christmas Tea and Sale in the Grace United Church Vestry on Tuesday next. Outside of Christmas this is the big event of the season.

When the "Souvenir" was converted into a three master in 1919, another new register was made out, similar to the first one and it still has a clean sheet for endorsements from 1919 up until the present time, Captain Outhouse has lived on board of his boat, and during that time has only lived one month on shore.

"Sanitary Market" Modern and Up-to-Date

The meat market of S. W. Titus which has for the past few weeks been undergoing a thorough remodeling, is completed, and is now ready for business.

The new "Sanitary Market" is a wonderful improvement over the old meat market. The original interior was taken out completely, hardwood floors laid, plate glass and refrigerated windows, and most up-to-date fixtures. The only thing that looks a bit like the original store is its frame.

Mr. Titus is justly proud of his store, and much credit is due him and to the contractor, M. C. Denton for the wonderful change which has been made.

The "Sanitary Market" beside a stock of meats and provisions, carry a full line of groceries and canned goods, which look exceptionally tempting as they are displayed in the silken salesman showcase, and on the newly painted and cleanly white shelves. The management of this store will specialize in heavy western beef. We wish Mr. Titus every success.

A Tragedy of Forty-six Years Ago

On the bleak, rocky coast of the Bay of Fundy, just two miles west of the familiar Point Prim Light-house, stands a small white marble monument, of the Cleopatra's Needle type. Although this monument is within hiking distance from town, there are but few of our young people who know of its existence, or of its history. Yet this little monument commemorates one of the saddest maritime tragedies to occur in the history of Digby County, the sinking of the "Princess Louise". This tragedy is still as fresh in the minds of the elder residents of this vicinity as though it had happened but yesterday, instead of forty-six years ago this month.

The "Princess Louise", a 600 ton schooner was launched from the shipyard of Jothan O'Brien, at Maccan, on the afternoon of Saturday, the first day of December 1883. The new vessel with only its masts and part of her rigging, minus her spars was taken in tow down the Maccan River to Wood's Point. It was intended that the vessel be towed to Halifax, where she would be fitted with sails and other rigging, and from Halifax her owners planned to take her across the Atlantic, in cargo, to England, where she was to be fitted with steam engines of an auxiliary type which would enable her to make better progress in a calm and to face contrary winds.

At Wood's Point, early on Sunday morning, December 2nd., Steamer "Newfield", in command of Captain Gifford, took the "Princess Louise" in tow. As progress was made down the Bay of Fundy, the wind commenced to pick up, and within a few hours, a raging storm had broken. At nine o'clock that evening the "Newfield" with the "Princess Louise" bouncing along at the end of a long two inch steel hawser were opposite the Digby Gut. The captain and crew of the "Princess Louise" thought that Captain Gifford would make through the Gut and anchor in the quieter waters of the Annapolis Basin, but evidently Captain Gifford was not familiar with the currents or surroundings.

For awhile he crept with his tow, hoping and praying that the storm would abate, but instead it reached an ever greater fury. The newly launched schooner with only a few tons of ballast on board pitched and tossed furiously. Finally the captain of the "Newfield" directed the steamer and tow across the bay intent on making Saint John. Only two or three miles had been completed upon the new course when the hawser snapped, close to the bits of the "Newfield". A snow squall was raging at the time, and the crew of the ill fated "Princess Louise" never saw the steamer again.

The helpless schooner was only a few miles off the lee shore and Captain Brown realized the serious plight of his vessel and crew. An effort was made to hoist sails, but without the upper spars, sufficient sail could not be spread to catch the wind. The vessel kept drifting closer and closer toward the rocks. A command was given to let go the anchors. This was done, but to the despair of all, the chains had not been fastened to the anchor blocks any way, and to their horror, anchors and chains slipped through the hawser holes, into the deep waters of the Bay of Fundy.

At four o'clock in the morning, with a hurricane raging, the schooner struck on the rocks and instantly piled up on her beam ends. Richard Soy, who was at the helm at the time. When the schooner struck, each one of the crew jumped for the rigging, men were clinging to the lines as Soy moved forward to secure a similar place of safety. This was the last he saw of his companions. A gigantic wave broke over the ship, broke in the hatchway, and washed the young helmsman into the hold. For seconds, which seemed like hours, he thought that he had been washed overboard, and prepared for death. Instead he discovered that he had been washed well forward, and was standing up amongst the ballast. In some manner he had received a deep gash in his forehead, and was blinded for some

Darjeeling and Travancore

THERE are tea gardens tawny up high—six thousand feet—in the Himalaya Mountains. That is where we get Darjeeling tea, famous for its rich flavor and aroma.

And there's a fine, vigorous flavor tea from the hills of Southern India known as Travancore. When picked in the period of the monsoon, when the warm, dry winds sweep over the gardens, Travancore is at its very best.

Of course, Darjeeling and monsoon-plucked Travancore are very expensive—far too costly to use in ordinary tea. But no tea is too good or too expensive to blend in King Cole Orange Pekoe.

King Cole Orange Pekoe Tea costs more—but it's worth more.

time by his own blood. Later, he encountered another form in the hold. It was young Jim Daine, and for hours these lay there, while the waves wrenched planks and timbers from the hull.

At daybreak, by superhuman efforts, Soy managed to pull himself and Daine out of the hold of the ill-fated vessel. They discovered the ship had grounded on a broad ledge which extended inland. The sea had dropped considerably. After shouting to discover whether or not any of their companions had been left alive on the ship, and receiving no answers, he decided to make a try for shore. Daine was nearly dead through exposure, and after considerable effort Soy managed to drag him through the broken planking to a point on the upper deck. From there they reached the water's edge, and managed to scramble to the shore after fighting the shallow but dangerous backwash of the waves.

It was piercing cold. Four inches of snow and ice covered the ground, and in their ice covered garments the two young men sought shelter. Daine was almost helpless. Soy was obliged to help him through the woods. Eventually the lad collapsed, and Soy, too weak to render further assistance to him, pushed ahead alone in search of possible help. Climbing a small hill, he saw a farm house in the distance, and with great fortitude, managed to reach that shelter, and secured the hospitable services of the householder, Mr. Stark, who called a neighbor, Lea Ellis, now keeper of the Point Prim Light.

Soy was given hot drink, and put to bed, the two men following his tracks through the snow until they reached Daine and brought him to shelter. Both Soy and Daine survived their fearful experience.

Richard C. Soy, now sixty-seven years of age shows no effect from that night of sea stricken horror.

Presentation Made to H. H. Marshall

A pleasing event took place Saturday afternoon at the fisheries office, Digby, when the clerk, Miss I. Williams, on behalf of the fishery officers of district number 3, presented to H. H. Marshall, former supervisor of fisheries for that district, a purse containing $100 in gold. Mr. Marshall expressed his feelings in terms of deepest gratitude and said the best recommendation a man could boast of was the confidence of those with whom he came in contact and said it was a matter of great pride to refer to the flood of letters from former officers and friends. The officers interested in the presentation were as follows: A. J. Evans, Chester; W. J. Naas, Lunenburg; C. A. Young, Mill Village; B. P. Buchanan, Liverpool; H. G. Locke, Lockport; A. S. Kenny, Sheburne; H. K. Stoddart, Atwood's Brook; C. J. D'Hanley, Yarmouth; Omar Blinn, Grosses Coques; Ralph Cossaboom, Rossway; G. E. Torrie, Digby; I. Williams, Digby; Elmer Morgan, Bear River; H. E. Scott, Wolfville; James G. d'Entremont, Middle West Publico; Capt. G. A. Baker, S. J. Amero, Isaac Ellis, Arthur Smith.

Port Wade

Miss Robar, the teacher, spent the week end at her home in Bear River East.

Edmond Baine is assisting at the fog alarm station at Point Prim, for a few weeks.

Mrs. J. W. Snow has closed her home, and is spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Parks.

Mrs. Gillian is visiting her aunt, Mrs. S. Merry.

Lloyd Longmire spent Sunday at his home here.

James Snow, of the Port Wade Lumber Co., and a crew of men are in the woods getting out timber for next year's lumber trade.

Mrs. Ansel Casey was hostess at a 15 ct. tea on Wednesday evening, the proceeds to be used for church purposes.

Willard Apt has purchased the Conly place from James Snow, and he and family are taking possession this week.

Mr. W. V. Matthews of Wilson's Beach, N. B., was calling on friends here recently.

He is hale and hearty, and apparently as active as a young man in his prime, but has never forgotten that fateful night of December 2nd, 1883, and the details of the tragedy are still vivid in his memory. Mr. Soy now resides in New Glasgow, and is deputy inspector under the N.S.T.A. He first visited the monument six years ago, on the fortieth anniversary of the tragedy.

Daine, who never fully recovered from his terrible experience, died some years ago.

The crew of the "Princess Louise" was made up as follows: Captain Brown, R.N.R.; Michael Dadey, of Halifax first mate; Jacob Singer, Shubenacadie; Alex MacKenzie, Tatagamouche; Henry Grey, Maitland; Albert Kelley, Halifax; James Chapman, Hastings; Arthur Wood, Maccan; Richard C. Soy, Amherst; and James Daine, Halifax. Certain of these members were merely volunteers, who had offered to aid in taking the vessel to Halifax.

Post Office Asking Public Cooperation

The post office department has issued a plea urging the public to do their Christmas mailing early. They are reminded also to do the mailing the early part of the week, because if the task is left until the latter part it means the bringing in of postal workers on Sundays to keep the vast amount of matter on the move.

The postoffice is again attempting to discourage the use of small cards and envelopes in the mails. In the first place there is danger of such mail not reaching its proper destination before Christmas because the cancellation stamp, which is placed on all matter at the post office, often obliterates addresses. Then again there is not sufficient space for direction for forwarding in cases where it is necessary to forward such matter in order to reach addressees.

Co-operation of manufacturers, dealers and the public generally in the elimination of small sized cards, to the end that the Postal Service may be relieved of the burden of handling them, is desired and should continue to be sought and cultivated. It is suggested that in no case should the card or envelope be smaller than 2-3/4 by 4 inches, a size somewhat larger being preferable.

Railway Man's Magazine

Railroad employees of every class from coast to coast, have been given an unexpected and wholly welcome surprise when the Frank A. Munsey Company, publishers, announced that Railroad Man's Magazine would again appear on the newstands on next Saturday, and the first of each month thereafter.

This publication, in its new form, according to officers of the publishing house, has been designed to appeal to every class of railroad men and women, and to the general public interested in railroad life and transportation affairs. Replete with fiction and feature articles, the latter illustrated with photographs.

John J. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, occupies the feature position in the contents of the December issue, which is announced for next Saturday. A gravure insert, or frontispiece, is a full portrait of Mr. Pelley, and the accompanying article is descriptive of the remarkable rise of the New Haven chief from the humble position of track hand.

Another interesting feature is an account of the part the railroads are playing in aiding the farmer—in helping him to grow two blades where but one grew before. The building and operation of the largest locomotive in the world, owned by the Northern Pacific lines, is treated and illustrated with photographs.

Fiction of a high grade plays a prominent part in making the magazine everything its publishers claim for it, and then there are regular departments in which technical questions are answered on train operation, control, engine and car troubles, and a score of other subjects, and in which railroad people are given the opportunity to relate thrilling experiences.

SCOUT NOTES

The Scout meeting was opened and a game was played, this was followed by a scout supper. Everybody had a very good time and after the meal was finished they had their usual scout work for 15 minutes. There were three boys passing the "Kims Game" in second class work and several others on first aid. When the scout work was finished the essays were read and points won by the Bear and Beaver Patrols. After the essays were read the council fire was held and the Wolf Patrol, who were on duty, entertained the scouts by readings and songs and other entertaining things. After the council fire the scouts held a general sing song 15 minutes.

The horseshoe was formed and the Fox and Wolf Patrols were given points for badges which they won in their second class and proficiency work. The meeting was closed in the usual way. The court of honor was held and there was not very much to decide so the meeting was closed for the night.

Community Progress

While Digby has much to boast of as it considers past achievements, it would be sheer folly at this stage of its community development to rest content with past laurels and cease striving for further advancement.

Digby's present high standing among centers of equal population has been won by foresight and aggressive policies in the past. This generation should be just as eager to assure an enviable future for the community as were those men of former generations who often fought a stiff, up-hill fight to gain those things upon which the town's present prestige rests.

Never before in its history has Digby been in such good position to go forward in rapid and substantial development as right now. It has all its pristine attractions plus many of relatively recent acquisition.

But to do the things that must be done if the community is to progress along desirable lines of commercial, industrial and residential expansion and betterment, there must be no diminution of that spirit of cooperation and willing effort on the part of a considerable number of citizens which has been manifested in all its past accomplishments.

And just as men and women of vision and civic consciousness have always been available in the past, so will they come to the service of the community in future hours of need.

The Inadequacy of the Country School

In the effort put forth in recent years to discover what is wrong with the open country that its sons and daughters should show such eagerness to escape from the green fields among which they were born, the school has been subjected to criticism as a contributing factor in the drift of rural youth from the country to the city. Before both the Canadian and American Commissions the present day system of education was charged with being a cause of migration from the country to the city.

The country child has three inalienable rights. He has an equal right with the city child to a good education; then he has a right to be able to receive that education without having to go from home; and he has a right to the kind of education which will most effectively prepare him for the work in life he is to do.

It is difficult to respect these rights in the average one-room school. In the first place, the schools are frequently out of date, unattractive, poorly lighted and ventilated. The inexperienced or unsuccessful teacher gravitates into the weaker communities, which of all places are most in need of trained and capable leadership. When there is added to this the little group of pupils running often to not more than fifteen and frequently less, divided into eight or nine classes, the teacher is faced with a condition which makes sound work an impossibility. There is more in a school of from six to eight grades than one teacher can possibly do well, and the small number of pupils tends to make the work uninteresting and never fails to require the formation of classes of one or two children. In the province of Ontario in 1926 there were 827 schools with 10 pupils or less, 190 with 5 or less, 69 with 3 or less, 28 with 2 or less, 8 with 1 pupil.

A study by Mr. R. H. Coates, Dominion Statistician, gives the proportion to children not attending school as follows:

when you use
MAGIC BAKING POWDER
Highest Quality,
Moderate Price.
MADE IN CANADA - NO ALUM
E.W. GILLET & CO. LTD.
TORONTO, CAN.

ing school as follows:

	Urban	Rural
Prince Edward Island	p.c. 8.72	p.c. 12.70
Nova Scotia	8.20	15.83
New Brunswick	8.95	19.82
Quebec	10.29	16.47
Manitoba	4.20	13.25
Ontario	6.35	10.34
Saskatchewan	4.92	13.46
Alberta	5.16	13.12
British Columbia	5.11	10.06

There is a very close connection, as the census returns show, between illiteracy of the parents and the proportion of illiteracy of a district and school attendance. The country child born of illiterate parents appears to have only half the chance for an education of his cousin in the city.

From the moment a child enters the country school, his training contemplates entrance to the high school, and from there he is "headed" for the teaching profession or for the University. He is not effectively trained for the work in life he is to do except it be other than on a farm.

Working expenses were decreased by 8.45 percent being $18,154,911.69, as compared with $19,831,429.17 in the similar period last year. Sins

The dictionary gives us the meaning of Sin—"transgression of God's law". There are many things we class under the heading of Sin, but are they really "transgression of God's laws"? We must be perfectly sure they are not transgression of man's laws, because if they are that, then are they sins? Sins are only mistakes. And if we knew what had gone in the makeup of the one who had sinned, if we understood the emotion that was back of the sin, would we always judge so harshly? It is so easy to misjudge what we do not understand. If we knew the motive that was behind the deed, knew the cares and trials, and perhaps disappointments that have helped to disillusion and break the spirit of the sinner, would the sin look just the same to us, I wonder? Kipling tried to plant tolerance in the hearts of his readers in his "If We Only Understood", and it seems as if the following lines which are quoted from that poem should be emblazoned in the hearts of every one of us,

"Would the grim eternal roughness
Seem—I wonder—just the same,
Should we help where we now hinder,
Should we pity where we blame?"

There was but one Perfect Man, and when the matter of an erring woman was brought to His attention by those "eye for an eye" people who longed to see her punished, He said, "Go and sin no more". He didn't say, "Go, and tell the world that they might condemn and punish you." He didn't say that, because He knew and understood things in his heart that the world was incapable of seeing. A minister once said that he thought of the world as full of sinful children, and in proportion the sins were children's offences. We have our faults eliminated by suffering, and it is because of man's inhumanity that the world never recognizes the full elimination of the sin. In the shortness of human life when a sin has been bitterly repented of, is it really kind and Christian-like to make the sinner wear forever the scarlet letter of his sin?

Peace on Earth

LUKE 2: 7-14—And she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for him in the inn. And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flocks by night; and lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them and the glory of the Lord shone around about them and they were sore afraid, and the angel said unto them, Fear not for behold, I bring you glad tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people, for unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be the sign unto you: Ye shall find the Babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the Heavenly host, praising God and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good-will toward men.

Great Britain wants more Canadian foodstuffs. The plain fact is that the increase in trade in some of our food exports to the old country is not keeping pace with the growth of demand.

Britain's markets are wide open to Canada. Because of the exhibitions of Canadian products, the activity of our Trade Commissioners, and the effects of our advertising, the British consumer is more familiar with these products than ever before, and consequently more inclined to buy. Good will in Great Britain towards Canadian products has been at a higher point than now. All the facilities of transportation for all classes of products from Canada to Great Britain have been provided.

Shall we Canadians overlook or neglect the opportunities for increased export trade which are thus laid before us?

Just because domestic markets are good, shall we as producers be so short sighted as to fail to satisfy so large a market which is more favourably inclined towards our products than ever before?

Not yet is there among our producers an adequate realization of the opportunities for increased production which present conditions in the British markets afford.

If you are a producer or dealer in foodstuffs, you can assist to your own profit in gaining a larger share of this market. Almost every community in this country stands to benefit. The result can be attained by:

1. Producing more of the kind of products the British consumer wants.
2. Keeping up a constant supply.
3. Maintaining quality standards.

Through its Commercial Intelligence Service, this Department will render valuable assistance to any exporter. Our Trade Commissioners' Offices in Britain are especially well-equipped and strategically placed to handle any export problem on behalf of Canadian exporters. Enquiries regarding British Trade receive prompt attention. Write to the Commercial Intelligence Service, Ottawa.

Digby County Fire Losses Heavy

In last week's issue of this paper was chronicled the story of a fire which destroyed the school house at Church Point, on Friday Nov. 29. To date this year, Digby County has suffered more severely from fire losses than for some time. Early in October practically the whole business section of Weymouth, below the bridge, was razed. The Weymouth fire was the most serious Digby County has suffered in years. Other serious fires this year were at Doucetteville, where early this spring, the Roman Catholic Church there was struck by lightning, and burned to the ground. This church has since been rebuilt. At Smith's Cove, the popular summer hotel "Whoned Lodge" was burned to the ground. This was a great loss not only to Mr. MacHugh, but to the whole tourist business in general.

Throughout the county, houses, barns, outbuilding, tool sheds and other buildings, beside a great many automobiles have been destroyed. In the town, losses have been comparatively light, there being only one fire, that which destroyed the house on Queen street owned by Dr. DuVernet. There has of course, been other minor losses.

We cannot recall one forest fire in the county this year, and although lightning has caused some fire damage, losses through this cause have been comparatively light in comparison with other sections of the county. There has not been a place struck by lightning inside of the Digby town limits for eight years.

One Way it is Done in Digby

A thirsty stranger arrived in town the other day. He had travelled for some distance, and knew that a good drink of "Scotch" was all that was needed to brace him up, and not being able to afford vendor's prices, he made inquiries as to where he could get something in that line. Listen to his story!

"I was told to see 'so-and-so' and after locating him, he invited me into his car. We drove to a very quiet spot, within the town limits, but hidden from houses, my friend got out of his car, went behind a spruce tree, and came back with a long neck of the 'scotch' I was craving, and charged me $4.00 for the same, and darn good stuff it was. He then drove me back to the main section of the town, and let me out, and that was all there was to that, but believe me, friends, the next time I come to Digby and am thirsty, I'm going to look around all the spruce trees first, I always did believe that a knowledge of woodcraft was essential to any man."

Friendship Lodge Confers Third Degree

F., of Bear River, turned in a body thirty strong last Friday evening when they visited the local Saint George Lodge of Oddfellows for the purpose of putting two of Saint George's candidates through their third degree. The work was beautifully done, and the ceremony an impressive one. Members of the Digby Lodge were present in a strong body.

After conferring the degree, refreshments were served.

Fascinating Links In Canada's History

Instituted with the plan of preserving all government records which pertain to the history of Canada, and which are of practical use, the Public Archives of Canada, situated in Ottawa, contain many collections of articles of intense interest.

It is necessary to delve into the history of the formation of Canada to realize the documents which are of importance at the Archives. Originally what are now the provinces of Ontario and Quebec formed the French colony of Canada, or New France, and those of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island the French colony of Acadia. What are now the western provinces, so far as they had any administration were under the control of the Hudson Bay Company. In 1791 the provinces were divided into Upper and Lower Canada and in 1840 it was officially declared to be the province of Canada.

Many papers of state were lost in this period and others were taken back to France. The original papers of the regime of 1760 are in Paris. Local records of judicial, seigniorial and minor administrative character are in Quebec.

In 1871 a petition signed by scholars and writers was presented parliament asking access to the historical records of the country. The officers of the Dominion Archives were then erected under the Minister of Agriculture.

Lord Minto, governor-general of Canada, in 1903 showed interest in the compiling of records and it was due to his zeal that the present building was built. Through his influence a very important collection of early papers in his secretary's office were deposited in the Archives. The original state papers are now housed there and records of historical importance in the possession of the Dominion Government of earlier date than 1867. The British Government contributed the great bulk of headquarters papers of the British army in North America from the end of the American Revolution war to the withdrawal of the British forces from Canada in 1870.

Not least important among such historical sources available is the collection of pictures, paintings, drawing and prints, which was really commenced in 1906. There are some 1500 framed pictures, 6,000 unframed separate pictures, and in all they number some 30,000. Manuscripts of the French and English period, maps and charts, hand-drawn, either the original copies or prints, are among the material assembled which proves invaluable to writers and historians.

War posters collected by Dr. Doughty form a very interesting collection.

The library has some 40,000 volumes as well as 6,000 pamphlets.

"A Lone Crusader"

In twenty-five years or so, when monuments have been erected to all the war heroes and those interested in perpetuating the great men of Canada are searching the records for some one to honor, they will probably find time to pay tribute to Frank J. D. Barnjum of Montreal. Every now and then some public man or public body issues a note of warning concerning the depletion of Canadian forests, but for years, month in and month out, Mr. Barnjum has been relentlessly engaged in calling attention to the imminent destruction of our forest wealth. With letters to newspapers and with a barrage of pamphlets, he makes desperate efforts to call to the attention of the authorities the need for some drastic and effective policy in connection with the preservation of the remaining tree timber limits. His last effort is an open letter to Premier MacKenzie King. He informs the premier that the responsibility for the whole matter rests directly on him. Two things, he maintains are urgently necessary: One, the immediate restriction of the whole sale cutting operations of the great companies, and the other, a systematic program which will insure the proper disposal of forest debris which accumulates in the wake of logging and pulp operations. The strange part of the whole matter is that no one seriously disputes Mr. Barnjum's contentions. There may be disagreement over the length of time during which the remaining standing timber can withstand the ravages of mill, fire and insect, but it is generally agreed that at the rate at which the destruction is proceeding, the deaththroes of all the industries based on Canada's timber cannot be long postponed. The government, it may be said, has, during the past few years, through the use of aeroplanes and the employment of more fire-rangers, made some effort to keep the fire menace under control. With every year, however, the fire menace grows, and this dry year, with a thousand fires burning in British Columbia and hundreds of others raging clear across the northern part of the Dominion, there is every prospect that the destruction will be on a greater scale than ever before. Mr. Barnjum should not be left to cry alone in the wilderness. His pleas for drastic action should be echoed in every part of Canada. It is perhaps not too much to say that the preservation of our forests is the most important national duty confronting Canada at the present time. It is not only important from the standpoint of the lumber and paper industries alone, but is of definite and critical importance to agriculture. Standing forests mean the preservation of moisture. Square miles of blackened stumps mean the disappearance of natural reservoirs; the destruction of soil; the removal of natural control of river and lake levels; that alteration for the worse, of climate, and a growing inability of the land to produce. Let the voice of Barnjum be heard! The value of what he endeavors to preserve cannot be measured in dollars and cents.

Here and There

Extremes in ocean travel were experienced recently by Baron van Hardenbroek von Leckhorst, Dutch nobleman who was in Canada purchasing black foxes for his ranch in Holland. He came to Canada on S.S. Empress of France, one of the most luxurious ships on the St. Lawrence route, but travelled back on Canadian Pacific freighter Beaverhill with the 14 pairs of valuable animals he had purchased in Prince Edward Island.

A romance of mining has been disclosed in Nova Scotia when a lone abandoned mine was investigated and found to contain one of the richest gold leads ever discovered in the province. The mine had been worked with crude methods many years ago and then given up. New claims have now been filed and prospects are very encouraging. There are said to be many abandoned mines of rich possibilities in the province.

Carrying 295 passengers and a total of almost two million Japanese oranges, first cargo of the fruit to reach Canada this year, Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia docked at Vancouver recently after a record trip from the Orient. The vessel had aboard a number of Canadian delegates to the Pacific Relations Conference held at Kyoto, Japan.

Direct contradiction of the opinion of Col. Frederick Palmer, American war correspondent, that it was the worst for Christian churches to witness the missionaries from the Orient, has been voiced by Bishop W. H. Ainsworth, Montreal, who was a passenger recently on the S.S. Empress of Asia. "Christian missions to China and Japan were never doing better than at present," said the bishop who is in charge of Eastern Missions for the Methodist Episcopal Church of the Southern United States.

The province of Nova Scotia is on the threshold of a period of unprecedented development judging from the record business being handled during the current year by the Dominion Atlantic Railway, and the scope of the preparations now under way for the development of tourist traffic," says George E. Graham, vice-president and general manager of the railway, in a recent interview.

Total amount of life insurance carried by the people of Canada is at present about $5,500,000,000 or approximately $500 for every man, woman and child in the Dominion. The United States with $750 per head of population is the only country in the world that exceeds Canada in the amount of life insurance carried.

The 1929 total yield of potatoes in Canada is estimated at 74,416,000 bushels from 545,229 acres, valued at $27,151,000 compared with 67,000,000 bushels in 1928 from 530,000 acres, valued at $27,100,000. Quebec province produced the most with 32,220,000 bushels.

"Bringing in the Boar's Head"

The Yuletide Festival inaugurated last year at Victoria will be repeated on a still more brilliant scale this coming Christmas, according to information from Canadian Pacific Railway headquarters. Those who were at the Empress Hotel last Christmas still remember the thrill that swept through the great hall when the boar's head was brought in, borne aloft on a platter by a chef in Elizabethan costume, preceded by a jester in cap and bells and followed with medieval pomp by stewards and minstrels. They still recollect the dragging in of the Yule Log, the was-sailers, the exquisite old Nativity Play, the scenes from Dickens, the singing of carols outside the Parliament Buildings, led by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province in person. They call to mind a week of merriment and good cheer which as some one happily described it, was peopled with rollicking old ghosts of the Christmas past. All these things will be seen again when the Festival starts Sunday December 22 and is continued until December 30. A fortnight later, with its locale also at the Empress Hotel, there will be held the Sea-Music Festival, January 15-18. Held at Vancouver last January, it will repeat many of the popular features then heard, including "The Order of Good Cheer", incorporating the French sea songs of the time of Champlain; "Bond for the Rio Grande," Frederick William Wallace's Sea-Chantey Ballad Opera. There will also be many new attractions with first-class singers and choirs, the whole under the musical direction of Harold Eustace Key.

CHRISTMAS

By Edgar A. Guest

"The day is just for children," some declare,

"Oh, how I pity them who think that true.

It pleases grown ups mightily, I swear

And gives them many a happy task to do,

Christmas delights the little girls and lads

And also all the mothers and the dads.

It tickles aunts and uncles by the score,

Makes grandmas merry and the grandpas smile

The dear old lady living just next door

Will tell you Christmas-Day is much worth while.

It fills the house with laughter and with noise,

And that's the sort of music age enjoys.

Christmas for children! It's for men like me

And mothers like their mothers everywhere!

No smiling youngsters happier can be.

Than those who in his merriment can share,

It's everybody's day, the young and old!

Even the grouches like it, I am told.

WILLIAM E. MILLER

The funeral of the late William Edwin Miller was held here on Saturday afternoon, from the United Baptist Church, a short service being conducted by Rev. A. A. McLeod, pastor of the Church. Part of the Church service, and the interment service at Mount Hope Cemetery, was under the auspices of "The Keith Lodge," A. F. and A. M., of which he was a member.

At the church, many viewed the remains of the man who for years had been their fellow townsman and their friend, and were saddened by the thought that his days on earth had ended.

The late Mr. Miller and his family have been greatly missed, since their removal ten years ago, and the news of his death, last week, at his Yarmouth home, came as a shock to his many personal friends and relatives in this town where he was born, and spent the greater part of his sixty-seven years of life.

His wife, two daughters, Miss Annie, Mrs. Leslie Crosby; a son, Roy D. Miller all residing in Yarmouth, survive him, and have the sympathy of the entire community.

The Provincial and local press have already expressed public sorrow at the "passing" from the business activities of his native Province, of a man of such integrity, and fine qualities of citizenship, and now those of his townspeople here, who knew him from his boyhood, who knew him as the genial steadfast friend, as the sterling Christian gentleman, desire to express their sorrow at his "passing", and add their tribute of affectionate remembrance.

"Good will toward men"—this was what the morning stars said when they sang together that morning in Bethlehem two thousand years ago. Let the same message be in all our hearts this Christmas season.

For the cents these seals bring in become the dollars that carry on the work of the Nova Scotia Tuberculosis Commission, and Christmas good will could not be more practically exemplified than by such support of the organized fight against a cruel insidious disease than can be conquered if attacked by the community with sufficient energy and persistence.

Statistics indicate that there are 600 children of school age dying in Canada each year from tuberculosis. Efforts are being made to guard the health of the children and each year sees an increase in the number of schools, nutrition classes, prevention and summer health camps where special care is provided for malnourished and under-par children and those who have been exposed to Tuberculosis.

Auto Upsets On Icy Hill

What might have been a serious accident occurred Saturday morning at Deep Brook when a sedan driven by Fred Masters turned almost completely around on the icy hill near Roland Henshaw's residence and plunged upside down in the ditch. Mrs. Harris Long, mother of Mrs. Masters, was badly cut with flying glass, while the other occupants escaped uninjured. Another car driven by a Bear River man, met with a similar accident on the same spot earlier in the day with no serious result.

Digby Christmas Spirit is Evident

There is no mistaking the fact that Christmas is coming. The local stores are taking great pains to impress this truth upon us through the agency of their attractive windows, their pleasing assortments of goods on display, purchased especially for the Christmas trade. Never before has there been such an inviting array of goods on display suggesting to Santa Claus acceptable gifts for mother, dad, sister, brother, sweetheart or friend.

The grocery and butcher stores have put in an appetizing line of Eats, and tons of nuts and candies have arrived to fill the stockings of the kiddies.

Already the school children are rejoicing in the fact that the school doors will be closed in a short time for their annual winter vacation.

And as for mails—just look through the wicket at the post office any day and you will see parcels, hundreds of 'em, and take a look at Guy's bus as it leaves any afternoon and you will wonder how it stands up with the strain, weighed down with mailbags, express parcels, etc., to say nothing of the passengers.

But then, this is nothing when compared with what it is going to be next week.

And as for ourselves. Just glance over this week's paper, and read the ads of our progressive merchants, who use the "Courier" as a medium of telling the public of their merchandise, they having proved to their own satisfaction that an advertisement in the "Courier" pays them big dividends, and stimulates Christmas trade.

With The Sink As a Wash Rack

An automobile that can be taken apart and parked in the kitchen has been invented by Engelbert Zachka of Berlin.

Although slightly under regulation size, the car can carry two passengers. The body is constructed of canvas. The garaging process of this little machine resembles the parts of a jigsaw puzzle. First, the body is detached and folded into a neat bundle, then the chassis is dismounted. Each piece that makes up the frame is numbered and fitted. Steering wheel and post, wheels, motor and body rod are separate units.

The affair has three wheels and can be assembled in a few minutes.

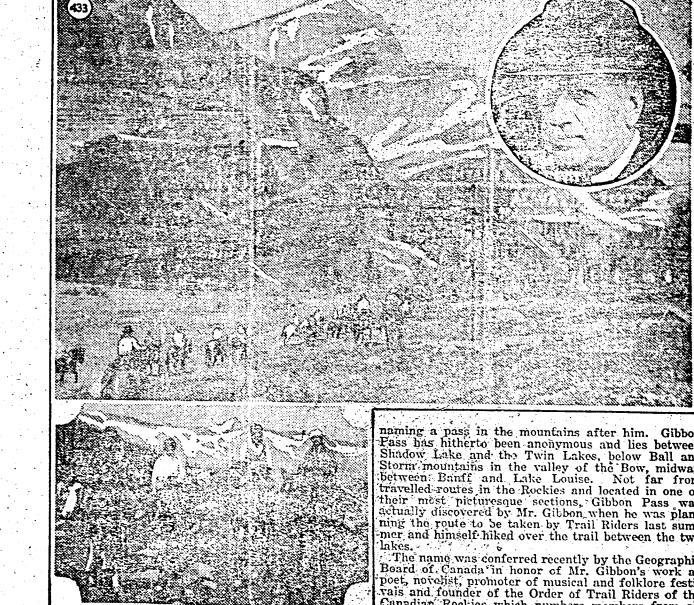

The burning question of the hour is "Who will get up and light the fire?"

GUARANTEED RELIEF

Recognition of the years of devoted labor by J. Murray Gibbon, general publicity agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in popularizing the Canadian Rockies throughout the world, has been given by naming a pass in the mountains after him. Gibbon Pass has hitherto been anonymous and lies between Shadow Lake and the Twin Lakes, below Ball and Storm mountains in the valley of the Bow, midway between Banff and Lake Louise. Not far from their most picturesque sections, Gibbon Pass was actually discovered by Mr. Gibbon when he was planning the route to be taken by Trail Riders last summer and himself linked over the trail between the two lakes.

The name was conferred recently by the Geographic Board of Canada in honor of Mr. Gibbon's work as poet, novelist, promoter of musical and folklore festivals and founder of the Order of Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies which numbers members from all parts of this continent, Europe and Australia and which has done inestimable work in bringing the glories of Canada to the knowledge of the world. The inset shows the Pass, with inset of Mr. Gibbon and, below, close-up of group of Trail Riders.

ROBISHAUD—ROBISHAUD

The marriage took place on Tuesday morning at Meteghan, Digby county, of Miss Blanche Robishaud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elise Robishaud, of Meteghan Centre, and Andre Robishaud, manager of the Meteghan creamery. The ceremony was performed in Stella Maris Church by Rev. D. J. M. Deveau, P. P., in the presence of relatives and friends. They were attended by Alphonse and Marguerite Robishaud, brother and sister of the bride. After the nuptial mass, a wedding repast was served at the home of the bride. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Alyose Robishaud, who were coming from Church Point, where they were married. The happy couple motored to Yarmouth, where they took the boat for Boston. On their return, they will reside at Meteghan.

SAULNIER—COMEAU

First Hockey Game On January 6th

It looks like a good start for the western section of the Nova Scotia Hockey League, if organization and enthusiasm counts for anything. Last Thursday night the hockey novices of Annapolis, Digby and Church Point, gathered in the town of Digby and perfected an organization that spells success for the hockey season. Four delegates were present from Church Point, representing "Les Academics", three from Annapolis Royal and four delegates from the Digby Hockey Club.

It was decided to have a three team league with Annapolis, Ravens from Digby and "Les Academics" from Church Point. Twelve games in all will be played with "Les Academics" using Victoria rink at Digby as their home rink, on account of the lack of a suitable rink at Church Point.

Each team will have the privilege of selecting a referee with the double referee system in vogue, the one condition that the referee selected by the home team shall be judge of play. A. J. Terault, of Digby, was elected president of the league, Vime McLaron, of Church Point, vice-president, and Mr. Wilsob, of Annapolis, secretary-treasurer, and an executive composed of the three team captains. The first game of the schedule, will be played at Digby on January 6th, between the Ravens and "Les Academics".

Mrs. S. W. Titus, 60, of Moncton, called there by the serious illness of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harry Titus, who is a patient in the Hospital here, suffering from "pneumonia". The latest report is that Mrs. Titus condition shows slight improvement.

NOTICE TO OUR ADVERTISERS

Our advertising rates have always been the same to local advertisers using space on the Front Page, as to those taking space on any of our other pages. We have been contemplating the discontinuance of all Front Page Advertising, but on second thought, have changed our mind, and will limit our Front Page to four or five advertisers, who will have to sign a contract agreeing to the following terms:—

1. Front page advertising will be charged at one third more than space in any other section of the paper.
2. The minimum rate will be $2.75 a week. No position will be reserved for any advertiser.
3. No advertisement may exceed fifteen inches, and will be set double column style, unless otherwise specified.
4. Copy must be in our hands before five o'clock Wednesday afternoon, otherwise we are at liberty to reprint the advertisement of the previous week.

5. Front page advertisers must sign a contract to use space at these terms for a period of not less than three months, the contract to be renewed at its expiration.

6. The management is at liberty to place other advertisements on the Front Page, when heavy advertising demands our doing so.

These regulations are to go into effect with our first issue of the New Year, and will be enforced to the letter. No exceptions will be made. All advertisers desiring to take advantage of space on the Front Page, are asked to see us at our office, or make reservation by telephoning 100. We will not personally solicit any advertiser for Front Page Positions.

We wonder who will be the first farmer in this district to specialize in growing golden-rod? An announcement has been made that Thomas A. Edison, the greatest genius the world has ever known, has discovered a process by which rubber may be made from this weed, at a cost of but 16 cents a pound! Will the time come when a field of golden-rod will be just as profitable to the farmer as a field of grain or other produce?

After a nine day passage along the coast from Yarmouth, the Weymouth tern schooner, Mary B. Brooks, Capt. George W. Brooks, arrived in Boston, sailing into port against a strong northwesterly wind and choppy sea. During the passage the vessel met with rough weather and was obliged to seek shelter in Portland Harbor. She had carried a cargo of 170,000 feet of hardwood lumber. The Mary B. Brooks will come to her home port and lay up for the remainder of the winter, after a very profitable season.

Boy Scout Troop Formed in Smith's Cove

Commencing in September, when some Smith's Cove boys got together and made an effort toward organizing a Boy Scout Troop the movement took definite shape last Friday evening, when the first four were formally invested as Tenderfoot Scouts.

Enlisting the interest of some of the older people, the effort of the boys received a distinct lift and encouragement by the visit and address made to them on September 26th by the Nova Scotia Director, Mr. J. S. Limbrey, who was at that time on his way to Digby.

It was some time before a Scoutmaster could be found to volunteer for the office, without which a Troop cannot be formed. Finally, at the end of October, Mr. Edward Payson, well known in Digby where he used to reside, consented to act in that capacity, to the pleasure and satisfaction of the boys, who from the first averaged about ten in number.

A committee of citizens was then brought together and formerly organized with Mr. Elmer Weir elected as chairman. The members of the committee present at first meeting were Elmer Weir, Oscar Morgan, Ralph Cossett, Fred Smith, Alcorn Cornell and Miss A. L. Jaggar, besides Mr. Payson himself who was then appointed Scoutmaster.

Harry Smith was unintentionally absent, and the following, fathers of the boys are official members of the committee.

The names of the boys at present interested already invested or intending to become Scouts are: Clayton Woodman, Patrol Leader; Richard Turnbull, Patrol Leader; Robert Smith and Austin Payson, Seconds; Vernon MacGregor, Arnold Comeau, Chester Brinton, Lovett Woodman, Garnet Adams, George Warren, Alfred Bailey, Aubrey Adams and Walter Claiborne of Deep Brook.

Mr. Arthur Sulis has kindly loaned a building on his land for meetings.

The County Home Christmas Tree
You will notice in another column of the "Courier" a small advertisement inserted by the superintendent of the County Home at Marshalltown and his wife, appealing for contributions for their annual Christmas Tree. Any little donation you are able to make that will help cheer the hearts of those unfortunate who have sought shelter there will be greatly appreciated. Christmas only comes once a year and the inmates of the County Home look forward to it as the big event of the year. It breaks up the regular monotony and routine of their lives, and gladdens their hearts. Help them to see Christmas with somewhat the same spirit of happiness and good cheer as we who are more fortunate than they.

Just leave your contributions at the store of A. A. Shortliffe or at H. T. Warne's, and they will be called for.

A second lot of New Brunswick foxes is to be shipped from Halifax to Sweden during December. Fifty pairs were sent over in October.

Lives and Ships Lost

Relief forces redoubled efforts tonight in a lull in the gales, which have subjected western Europe to perhaps the worst weather in a century, to reach water-logged and crippled derelicts on the high seas to which helpless men still cling.

A check-up Monday, still incomplete showed that 108 lives had been lost and 69 large ships had been stranded, sunk or seriously damaged. The end of the storm was not yet in sight with gales raging furiously from the mouth of the Elbe in the North Sea to Cape Finisterre, the northwestern extremity of Spain.

Uncle Attempts to Punish Girl For Setting Fire

As the result of an altercation at Meteghan Station, Digby county, Wednesday afternoon, J. Theriault is suffering from serious wounds about the mouth, inflicted with a large knife in the hands of his niece, Addie Theriault, and bruises about the head made by the use of a stick of cordwood by her brother, Joseph Theriault, who went to her assistance.

The girl, aged about 19, was with her brother and children skating on the lake at the rear of the barn on the property of her uncle Wednesday afternoon. They started a fire on the ice and as it was not far distant from the barn the uncle became angered and went out among the skaters and upbraided them more or less severely for what they had done. At the same time he seized Addie and attempted to chastise her. Instantly she turned upon him and with a large knife which she carried, stabbed him in the mouth. Her brother, seeing his uncle attempting to punish his sister, seized a cordwood stick of considerable size and smote Theriault over the head with such force that he was rendered unconscious. Between cuts and bruises, he is at his home in a serious condition.

JESOUS AHATONHIA

HURON CHRISTMAS CAROL
CIRCA 1641
BY FATHER JEAN DE BREBEUF
English Interpretation by J. E. Middleton

"Twas in the moon of winter time when all the birds had fled,
That Mighty Gitchi Manitou sent angel choirs instead.
Before their light the stars grew dim,
And wand'ring hunters heard the hymn:

"Jesus, your King, is born;
Jesus is born;
In Exultis Gloria!"

Within a lodge of broken bark the tender babe was found.
A ragged robe of rabbit skin wrapped his beauty round.
And as the hunter braves drew nigh,
The angel song rang loud and high:

"Jesus, your King," etc.

The earliest moon of winter time is not so round and fair
As was the ring of glory on the helpless infant there.
While Chiefs from far before Him knelt,
With gifts of fox and beaver pelt.

"Jesus, your King," etc.

O children of the forest free, O sons of Manitou,
The Holy Child of earth and heav'n is born to-day for you.
Come, kneel before the radiant Boy
Who brings you beauty, peace and joy.

"Jesus, your King," etc.

Frank Jones K.C. Returns Home

Frank Jones, K. C., President of the Digby Printing and Publishing Company, Limited, returned on Friday last from an extended visit to Western Canada. While in the West, Mr. Jones and his son, Douglas, took a cruise into the Peace River District to the end of the railway. He tells astory of his visit to Hythe, the present terminal. Hythe is a new town, coming into existence a little more than a year ago. While "doing the town" he was impressed by the school house, and out of curiosity he stepped up and looked in the door of the school room. School was in session, but he did not enter the room, instead, he merely looked through the window, and went on his way again. On his return home, he told friends of his experience, and was informed that Miss Dorothy Hogg, of Digby, [and a member of the local academy staff last year, was a teacher at Hythe. Naturally, Mr. Jones feels quite disappointed that he went no farther than the door of the school house.

Dr. Panchard's office in the Short-life block will not be opened until the first Tuesday in May.

Annual Meeting Western N. S. Fish and Game Association

The annual meeting of the Western Nova Scotia Fish, Game and Forest Protective Association was held on Tuesday afternoon. President Leslie F. Fair, occupied the chair. A motion was passed that the fiscal year of the association be made to correspond with the calendar year and that new members paying their membership fee of $1 would be granted membership for the year 1930 and be entitled to vote at Tuesday's session and that membership cards would be issued to all members shortly.

W. G. Clarke addressed the body and moved that Otto Shierbeck, chief forest ranger, who was present, be made a life member. This motion passed. Dr. J. A. M. Hemmison of Wolfville congratulated the society.

R. W. Tufts, also of Wolfville, gave a talk on the wild goose sanctuary at Starr's Point.

The society expressed its sympathy to Mr. Tufts in his work.

In a general discussion of the closed season for moose W. G. Clarke, of Bear River said that a closed season on moose would depend on the outcome of the 1930 season. He prophesied that three-year old moose would be scarce next year due to the cow moose season of 1927 when these youngsters were killed with their mothers but he would not recommend petition the government for a closed season.

Mr. Shierbeck stated that moose were plentiful in the province and that the number of licenses issued had increased considerably. There are great numbers of cow moose, and deer are increasing rapidly. He thought this year's kill of moose would reach 1100, deer 1500. Frank Ditmars, Deep Brook, proposed that the society recommend that the season be the whole month of October only. Dr. Lovett of Bear River, moved that the society express itself as in favor of an open season, for moose during the month of October and that the government be approached. This was seconded by Mr. Annis, president of the Nova Scotia Guides Association, and passed.

It was passed that the government put an open season on partridge in 1930 from October 15-20 inclusive.

John Piggott told of the progress made by the Hungarian pheasants. Of the 17 birds he loosed last spring he knew that three were killed before nesting season, but he is quite certain that this little flock has increased to 125 birds at least.

It was passed that the buck shot

Fox Thieves Active Near Bridgetown

Investigation is still being carried on into the killing and stealing of a valuable silver black fox, the property of Clyde Marshall, Bridgetown. The party taking it came to the ranch from the direction of Inglewood, climbed the high guard fence, killed the animal and made off in the same direction in which he approached. Tracks and blood were followed some distance to the Inglewood road, and then down the road towards town. They were then lost. It being at first presumed that the thief got into a car or team. The next day one of the Owens' boys noticed something sticking up through the snow. Further investigation revealed the dead fox, which the bungling thief had tried to skin, and probably taking cold feet, perhaps as some one approached, had buried the animal in the snow, expecting to come back and take it again under cover of darkness the next night.

The fox was an unusually good one and it is hoped that the identity of the thief will be shortly established. Stealing of foxes throughout the Maritimes is getting quite too common.

WEDDINGS

DITMARS—CLAYBORNE

A quiet wedding took place on Monday evening, Dec. 9th, at St. Clements rectory, Clementsport, when Rev. A. W. L. Smith united in marriage Miss Ethel Jean, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Clayborne to Joseph Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Ditmars.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of the parents only of the bride and groom. Best wishes from a large circle of friends are extended to this "happy young couple," who are very popular among the young people of our village. Mr. and Mrs. Ditmars will reside Deep Brook for the present.

The rabbit snare be made compulsory on account of the large number of partridge that are caught and killed by the ordinary rabbit snare. The chief forester gave a report on game sanctuaries of the province. He reported 173 new beaver homes since last spring; moose and bear were both quite plentiful on these sanctuaries but so far there had been no reports of bear slaughtering the moose. No caribou had been reported as seen in any of the sanctuaries, but one herd of five was sighted in Cumberland county. The following are the officers elected for the ensuing year: President, R. W. Tufts, Wolfville; vice president, Dr. J. A. M. Hemmison; secretary-treas. Rev. A. W. L. Smith, Clementsport.

Digby's First Christmas, One Hundred and Forty-Six Years Ago

In a few days the one hundred and forty-sixth Christmas Day in Digby's history will be celebrated. How different this Christmas will be in comparison with the Christmas Day of 1783. It was on that day a company of United Empire Loyalist Colonists landed at Digby, or Conway, as the town was then named, "amid the usual festivities".

Wilson's History tells us that on the eighteenth day of October, 1783, the ship "Joseph", owned by Messrs. Rutherford & Nash, Merchants, set sail from the North or Hudson River, New York, under command of Captain Jonathan Walton, bound for the township of Conway, on the Annapolis Basin.

It was a tedious voyage and the little craft met with adverse weather and contrary winds. Twice they were driven off the shore of our coast, but early in December, they came within sight of Long Island. There they took on their pilot, one Nathaniel Bates.

On the tenth day of December they approached the entrance of the Annapolis Basin, that narrow, natural gateway, now known as the Digby Gut. On viewing this narrow passageway many of the sailors refused duty for the time, so confident were they that further advancement would mean disaster. The women screamed and fainted with fear, and as a last resort, they were ordered into the hold, and the hatches promptly closed on them. The pilot, however, was accustomed to the channel, and steered his charge safely through into the beautiful waters of the Basin.

Some of the party built camps on the shore, and landed on that memorable Christmas Day with their families and effects. The majority of them, however, remained on board the "Joseph" until spring. These later colonists must have endured greater hardships and privations than those earlier pioneers who arrived in June of the same year. The earlier colonists had opportunity to grow a small crop, to lay in a supply of fish and fuel to tide them over the long, dreary winter months. They had time to build for themselves comfortable homes and shelters and prepare for a colder winter than they were accustomed to in their former homes in New York.

The late arrivals, who reached their destination on that cold Christmas Day were unprepared. They had endured a tedious and prolonged voyage. Weather conditions were unsuitable for building or fishing. The majority spent the winter in the comparatively small and unpleasant habitation which the "Joseph" afforded them. These privations and inconvenience did not daunt their spirits, and the genial society on board the ship and in the settlement excited high hopes, and preparations were made that winter for the carrying on of their work during the spring and summer to come.

Although the township of Digby, or Conway, was founded some months before the landing of the Loyalists from the ship "Joseph" on Christmas, 1783, that Christmas of one hundred and forty-six years ago stands out as one of the highlights of Digby's history, and no doubt on that year, the good old Christmas Spirit was as much in evidence as it will be this year. One can picture the houses and cabins decorated with evergreen, yes, even the children opening their stockings filled with what good things Santa Claus could bring them, the tables laden down with good things to eat, and the royal reception given to those pioneers who landed from the "Joseph" on that day, arriving just in time to participate with the earlier pioneers in celebrating Digby's first Christmas.

MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL

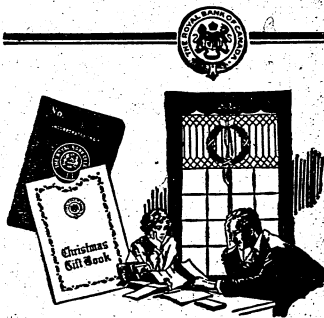

Perhaps Santa Claus Gets Fed Up

SOME do, I know, looking over a long, monotonous list of what to give mother, father, sister and brother. Pretty dry reading, isn't it? Of course we have the scarfs, socks, handbags, handkerchiefs (linen and all), washable deerskin gloves for men and women, ties, slippers, etc.

BUT what we want to draw your attention to, Santa, is silk party frocks at $15.00.—you know, these dresses do not come under the essentials of life and the wife or sister often hesitates to buy these for herself, but wouldn't she appreciate one for Christmas!—Or a warm blue Chinchilla overcoat for father or brother, particularly at the prices we have marked these.—A Ladies Winter Coat in its many colors, so warm and cosy.—An Auto or Bed Blanket, in any color, a gift appreciated by all, and the best blankets made—so you see, Santa, never mind making up a list, but just drop in and we can fix you up.

Fascinating Links in Canada's History

One exhibit which immediately strikes the imagination of the most casual visitor to the Dominion Archives in Ottawa is the model of Quebec, the fruits of the genius of Lieut. J. B. Duberger, of the Royal Engineers, constructed in 1795, and finished in 1809.

The model is cut entirely of wood and modelled to a certain scale (24 feet to the inch) and is the City of Quebec without any details lacking. Even the miniature ships riding at anchor on the bosom of the St. Lawrence are shown.

Duberger's model, has had a chequered career. After it was completed it was placed in the ball room of the Chateau St. Louis, and in 1813 was taken to England by Colonel By and placed in the Woolwich Arsenal. It remained there one hundred years and then was rescued from oblivion by Dr. A. G. Doughty, C.M.G., and through the influence of our late Governor-General, Earl Grey. When it came into possession of the Department of Dominion Archives, it was in a most dilapidated condition. It had received a generous coat of grey paint which had blotted out the doors and windows of the tiny houses. The guns of the batteries, the trees on the gardens, the division walls and fences had all disappeared under the relentless brush of the "renovator". The model was almost a ruin. But today it is in perfect condition and exactly as it was made.

The whole model is sketched out to show particularly the fortifications and public buildings. It is nearly 35 feet in length and comprises a considerable portion of the Plains of Abraham, as far as the spot where Wolfe died. There is singular correctness to the very shape and projection of the rock, the elevations and descents in the city and on the plains, particularly those eminences which commanded the garrison.

A few of the outstanding places marked in the model, interesting to those who even faintly remember the early history of Quebec, are: Cap Blanc and the King's Ship Yard; old French powder magazine; the spot where Montgomery fell; site of the King's bastion; the Lower Governor's garden; the Upper Governor's garden and Mont Carmel; the King's ordnance stores and wharf; the London Coffee House; the Church of N. D. des Victoires; Prescott gate; the Bishop's Palace; the Union Hotel; Chateau St. Louis; the Cathedral of Holy Trinity; the Court House; Ursuline Convent; Upper Town market; Seminary; Montcalm's residence; L'Hotel-Dieu; Upper Town Market; military barracks and arsenal; the new jail; the Intendant Palace and the General Hospital.

This is just a brief review of the many interesting features of the model of Quebec which was presented to Canada by the British Government in 1910.

MAKING LAND

Holland is engaging in one of the greatest real estate ventures in history. It will reclaim 550,000 acres from the Zuyder Zee, draining that shallow body of water by establishing a vast system of dykes and filling the depression with earth scooped from the sea bottom.

The project will cost over $200,000,000, but will add one-tenth to the arable area of the country. It makes rather expensive land, nearly $400 an acre. But it will be good soil when the salt is washed out of it. And Holland, with its teeming population needs the land.

All Europe, at least outside of Russia, needs land. And all the civilized nations will need land more than ever in another generation or two, if peace is maintained.

Fortunate is the country capable of increasing its available farmland as population presses and calls for room and food. Real estate, generally speaking, is fixed and limited. It is, moreover, the only form of wealth sure to rise in value.

That is, as aforesaid, if wars can be avoided. Wars and realtors are foes.—(Ex.)

Neat Scheme to Outwit Customs

It has been found that the number of tourists travelling as third class passengers when entering the United States has increased considerably within recent years.

The practice of allowing third class passengers to enter the country when immigration laws were complied with and without examination of their personal effects has grown up in recent years. After long experience it was found that dutiable articles were seldom found among their belongings.

Now strict orders have been issued from the Commissioner of Customs requiring the examination of all baggage of all passengers entering the United States thus ending the immunity which tourists travelling third class heretofore enjoyed.

May Compel Use of Return Addresses

There is a possibility that the Post Office Department will make it compulsory for mailers to place a return address on their mailings. If this order is carried it will mean a saving in the neighborhood of $500,000 annually to the government. The record of the department reveals that this amount is lost annually because of carelessness in addressing mail.

The expense is incurred by the department, it is said, in giving a special directory service to some millions of pieces of mail which are carelessly addressed. A suggestion which has been forwarded is a campaign among school children as a means of eliminating some of their lost time, effort and expense in handling mail from careless patrons. The proper wrapping and addressing of mail more, than once has been stressed by postal officials, but there are still some patrons of the service who fail to heed the advice of the Post Office Department.

It is the Post Office Department, or in the final analysis, the payer, who pays an annual toll for the support of this malignant growth, which amounts in the thousands of dollars.

Christmas Recipe

Yes, Christmas is in reality only a matter of days away. The stores are showing wares which tempt the eye of every buyer, and holly, mistletoe and wreaths of evergreen are making their appearance.

Such tantalizing odors from the kitchen! As soon as you enter the house you realize that Christmas baking is in full swing. And there is so much extra baking for Christmas. Everyone who calls has to have a piece of special Christmas Fruit Cake, especially between Christmas and the New Year when adage has it that a piece should be eaten from a different household for every month in the year to ensure happiness.

Why then make a small cake, which, when the season is over, is nearly done. The recipe which is given below is a tested one and will, as you see, make three medium sized cakes. Or if you wish you may use half quantities, but this cake keeps so well in a cool place, rolled in oil paper, that if you have a family, it seems to be a good recipe to always keep in mind.

The proportions are: 3 pounds butter, 2 pounds brown sugar, 5 pounds raisins, 1 pound shelled almonds, 3 pounds currents or dates, as desired, 1-2 pound lemon peel, 1-2 pound orange peel, 1-2 pound citron peel, 1 bottle vanilla, 1 bottle almond, 1 nutmeg, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 teaspoons soda, 1-2 cup corn syrup, 1 cup sour cream, 1-2 dozen eggs, 3 cups flour.

Cream butter, add sugar and cream together, and add eggs, one at a time, beating well, and sift cup of flour over fruit and mix well. Mix all ingredients thoroughly. Bake five hours in a moderate oven.

The Legend of The Christmas Stocking

Many, many years ago there lived in Europe a very wealthy man named St. Nicholas. He liked nothing better than to help poor people, but disliked very much being thanked for his gifts. One Christmas Eve he wished to give a purse of gold to an old man and his little daughter, and in order to escape being seen, he climbed to their roof and dropped his precious gift down the chimney. Instead of landing on the hearth, however, the purse fell right into a stocking which was hung up to dry, and the next morning it was discovered there! When other people heard of the strange happening they too hung up their stockings and soon all over the land it became the custom on Christmas Eve to hang up one's stocking for St. Nicholas to fill.

Christmas

"For we saw His star in the East,

Nearly twenty centuries ago, one of the supreme events of the world's history occurred in Bethlehem of Judea. And through all the years the Christian world has remembered, and commemorated His advent. We are now, again, in the very midst of our preparations for our celebration of Christmas. Is it not well that we pause a moment to reflect on its real significance?

What is Christmas, and why all the special preparations for its celebration? Shop windows are laden with beautiful decorations and gifts, while the shelves are stacked high with prospective presents. Crowds jostle and jam in stores and conveyances; children cry, customers and clerks alike become cross and irritable. Banks throughout the country have distributed millions of dollars in special savings. Is all this Christmas, and the exemplification of the spirit of His whose birthday we now celebrate?

There has been no little concern in recent years about the tendency toward the overcommercialism of Christmas. No one of course would deny the joy of buying and exchanging gifts. No one would care to lead a movement to stamp out the beautiful decorations. But is there no limit at which we should stop, in weary bodies, in shattered nerves, or in making Christmas "big business", and in all failing to realize its true meaning? After all, is there coming to be a little too much of the pagan and less of the true Christmas element in Christmas?

Christmas is the season of friendliness, cheer and goodwill, with talk of peace and happiness. These are the great ideals which were proclaimed by Him whose star led the wise men from the East. We give gifts, costly gifts, beautiful gifts, which last through the year and through the years. If it should come to one or the other, would it not be better for us individually, and for mankind at large, to refrain from giving material things, and to give in their place, real expressions of genuine goodwill and peace. Of the two, the latter brings the most real happiness. But alas, within a week after Christmas day, the spirit of that day has disappeared, retired for about eleven months until another Christmas, and we take back our presents to the stores to exchange them for something we like better!

We are not making a plea for the doing away of giving gifts, we are urging that with them we give something greater than material things;—lasting good-will to all mankind. In the beautiful decorations, now so abundant, let us see an emblem of His love towards us; in our exchange of gifts let us remember God's great gift of His Son, our Lord. And as His natal day approaches, let us not fail to worship Him.

Commencing with the first issue of the New Year we are increasing the price of space on our front page by one third (See our advertisement "Notice to Our Advertisers"). Some have already expressed their willingness to comply with these regulations, others want a more explicit explanation as to why we are doing it.

In fairness to ourselves and our space buyers we have had to take this step.

At the present time no local advertiser is under any contract and all are paying the same advertising rate, and under those conditions it is unfair for us to sell front page space to one advertiser, and crowd others on to one of our other pages. Some of those using the front page have been granted that privilege for so long that they consider we are doing them an injustice when we place their ad on another page. Others have asked for such positions, and we have been unable to grant them the privilege.

Furthermore, we want our front page to look as neat as possible, and for that reason we will not crowd it with advertisements. At this time of the year when our patrons have greatly increased their space, it is an impossibility to give all the positions they desire.

The foregoing are a few of our reasons, and it stands to reason that advertisers who complain when their advertisements are not on the front page must believe that front page positions are worth more to them, and that others who ask for front page positions and cannot get them feel the same way about it, and in fairness to all, we must increase front page rates, limit the number of advertisers using such space, and in order to avoid overcrowding assign a maximum space to each.

The new rates will go into effect on the first of January to all advertisers who insist on front page positions whether under contract or not. The new regulations will not effect those who advertise through agencies and are paying, according to their contracts, special rates for such positions.

The primary motive of our taking this step, however, is to get those advertisers under contract, so that both the management and the publisher will know where they stand on the matter. We do not wish to cause ill feeling, merely wishing to have our front page limited to a few advertisers with to a more or less specified space limit. With such an understanding, there will be no question of rights to front page space, and we feel that we are not asking too much of our advertisers desiring this privilege. Other papers have adopted similar policies, others have discontinued all front page advertising in order to settle the same question.

With this co-operation from our advertisers we can make an improvement in the appearance of our paper and to bring about a better understanding.

Only Found in Maritimes

Rambling delightfully over the Canadian scene, Hector Charlesworth, managing-editor of Toronto Saturday Night and one of the best known Canadian journalists, Sunday presented to the Columbus Forum, Montreal, a picture of a Canada rich in beauty and historical associations, filled with culture and economic opportunities. His picture of Canada was drawn from a recent trip which covered the Dominion from Louisbourg, in the East, to Prince Rupert, in the west.

In Canada, he said, one gets a sense of living amid an ever-changing scene, and as one journeys through it one is struck by the country's association with the men and things of the past. Champlain has been claimed by Quebec, yet in Ontario his influence is strong, and its traces are found in the Maritimes, where, at Annapolis Royal, was founded the Good Company.

Speaking of the Maritimes, he said that here is a form of conservative life that is not found in other parts of Canada. To illustrate the truth of this remark, he described Halifax and Louisbourg and their historical background; the sense of war's futility that permeates the ruins of Louisbourg; the memories that rise from the stones of St. Paul's Church in Halifax, where a register records the marriage to Canadian girls of Captain Hardy—in whose arms Nelson died.

Everywhere, similar incidents of the past are thrust upon the observer and he is impressed Nova Scotia's association with the seven seas. He described the Highland associations of Cape Breton, where the folk songs of the Hebrides are still sung and where the land-cape itself and the Gaelic tongue recall the Highlands of Scotland.

Dr. Penchard's optical office in the Shortlife block will be closed until the first Tuesday in May.

A Letter From the
Lieut. Governor
James C. Tory

To the People of Nova Scotia:
I hereby present to you the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal. I present it to you, not because it needs an introduction, but because I want to bespeak for it during the sale now on, the warm reception which its mission warrants.

To all it bears a message of Christmas cheer. To those who may be stricken with the White Plague, it carries the light of hope; to frail children threatened with disease, it hastens with the strength giving routine of outdoor camps; and to each of us it brings the promise of ultimate relief from future menace of the dread disease.

The devastating World War was but an epoch in the bitter struggle against that more deadly foe—Tuberculosis—whose victims in our own Province each year number more than 700.

Undaunted the battle-cry rings out once more in 1929: "Merry Christmas and Good Health—Fight Tuberculosis".

To support this campaign to the limit of your ability is your duty to yourself, to your family, to your community, and to your Province.

JAMES C. TORY,
Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia.

SCOUT NOTES

Last Friday's meeting opened with a rollicking game, followed by the horseshoe formation. As there were no badges to be given out, the patrols took their places in their corners and dues were collected. The Beaver Patrol at this session, won points for dues and attendance.

Following the collection of dues, the regular work was taken up in the form of First Aid and "Kim's Game". Essays were read on the Mackerel and points were rewarded to the Wolf Patrol. The next essay will be on the "Swordfish".

Owing to the time taken for scout work, no Council Fire Session was held. The horse shoe was again formed the scout promise repeated in unison, and the meeting dismissed in the usual way.

After the regular scout meeting a meeting of the Court of Honor, comprising the Scout Master, Officers, Patrol Leaders and Seconds was held and the possibility of a Scout Hockey Team discussed. A vote of thanks was tendered to Chester Keen for washing the dishes after last Friday's big time.

Fishing Banks Off
Nova Scotia Unchanged

Fishing banks directly off the coast of Nova Scotia, the base of fishing during the winter season, were not affected seriously by the earthquake. Five fishing vessels have been operating since the great earth disturbance and on the Western and Sable Island banks they have noticed no change of sufficient importance to be felt in their catches of sea food.

The statement is further borne out by operators of steam trawlers out of Halifax. Officers commanding these vessels assert that they have found no changes on the Western and Sable Island banks, and since they confine their operations to these areas they know nothing of conditions on the Grand Banks areas which are more distant from this province.

Hockey Boys Hold First Practice

The first practice of the Digby Red Ravens was held last week, and from all appearances, it looks as though the Ravens of this year will be just as peppy a team as the Ravens of last year, and we feel confident that they will carry away just as many honors.

It looks mighty good to see Ed Jones and Mexie Daley back with the boys again. These two puck chasers always did make a game interesting, and the two Billiveau Brothers are showing great stuff.

We learn that Mun Hutchinson will soon be on his way east to coach the boys this winter.

The hockey team wish to thank all those who patronized their show last Thursday night, they realized nearly $150.

A second hand picture dealer was trying to sell what he described as a genuine Raphael.

"The signature does not look like Raphael," remarked the prospective customer after using his magnifying glass. "It reads more like 'Ratcliff'."

"Ah," said the dealer, "I will tell you the history of that. When Raphael painted that picture he was heavily in debt, so he put it in the wife's name for safety."

Priming the engine of his car with gasoline by the light of a lantern, recently, Churchill Andrews, son of William Andrews, North Range, was badly burned when the gasoline exploded. Micmac Gift to King

King George, it is understood, will not be overlooked by Santa Claus this year no matter what may have happened in the past. Miss Mary Ann Gooch, of the Micmac reservation near Sydney, has just sent his majesty a pair of hand-made and decorated leather slippers, with blue velvet top. With the slippers was a letter expressing the best wishes of Sidney Micmacs to the king for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

It looks as though those who prophesied an early winter knew what they were about. If this weather keeps up there will be no need to worry about the ice harvest.

Mersey Paper Mill Formally Opened Last Saturday

Nova Scotia's second largest individual industry was officially opened at noon Saturday, at Brooklyn, Queens County, across the harbor from the town of Liverpool, when Hon. E. N. Rhodes, premier of the province of Nova Scotia, pressed the button which started the wheels of the Mersey Paper Company in motion. On Monday both the Halifax "Herald" and "Chronicle" came out with special Mersey editions, printed on Mersey paper.

The opening of the plant at Brooklyn opens up a new era of industrial development in Nova Scotia. It is an industry situated wholly within our province, and employing Nova Scotia labor. The plant itself was built at a cost of $12,000,000, while concurrently with it, the Power Commission has expended perhaps another $5,000,000 to supply hydro-electric power.

The mill has a capacity of 250 tons of newsprint a day, and during 1930, it is estimated that the value of its production will be in the vicinity of $4,000,000. Nova Scotia coal will be used and limestone necessary for its operation will be quarried on its own properties. 300 men will be employed at the mill itself, beside a large number at work in the woods.

The Mersey mill is now manufacturing paper and marketing it. Beside the Halifax papers printed on this new product of Nova Scotia on Monday, some of its product is already enroute to New York by rail. The Company's steamer "Markland", especially built in England as a paper carrier, will arrive at Brooklyn next month, where she will find a cargo awaiting her for New York, this paper is now being manufactured for the New York "Herald-Tribune" one of the largest dailies of the world's greatest metropolises.

The mill situated on tide water, takes its wood from the forest, turns it into paper, and loads it at its own door on ship board. From there it is only a matter of a 36 hour run to New York where the main market for the product is found. Thus it possesses the cheapest transportation known, and has an easy and convenient access to the largest paper market on the continent, one which is dependent largely on the paper mills of Canada for its supply.

The product of the mill is another factor working to its advantage, since the spruce of Nova Scotia is held to make a better paper than the spruce found in most of the other provinces. It gives a longer and stronger fibre, thus producing a stronger paper.

Nova Scotia is proud of her new industry, and Nova Scotians as a people pay tribute to those who stand behind this great enterprise.

These beautiful moonlight nights are a great boon to coasting and sleighing parties.

WILLIAM S. CROUSE

A large number of representative citizens of this town, as well as relatives, attended the funeral Monday afternoon, of the late William Sutcliffe Crouse, who passed away Saturday morning, at the age of eighty-five years. The funeral services were held at the Commercial House, where Mr. Crouse had resided since the sale of his farm, three years ago, and were conducted by Rev. F. Sawdon, pastor of the Bear River United Baptist Church, and interment was in Mount Hope Cemetery.

The late Mr. Crouse had lived here all his life, was a widely known farmer, and greatly respected by all who came in contact with his genial personality.

In religion he was a Methodist, in politics, a life-long Liberal.

An only son, Bernard, a prosperous young business man of Melrose, Mass., survives him, and was present at the funeral.

NOTICE TO OUR ADVERTISERS

Our advertising rates have always been the same to local advertisers using space on the Front Page, as to those taking space on any of our other pages. We have been contemplating the discontinuance of all Front Page Advertising, but on second thought, have changed our mind, and will limit our Front Page to four or five advertisers, who will have to sign a contract agreeing to the following terms:—

1. Front page advertising will be charged at one third more than space in any other section of the paper.
2. The minimum rate will be $2.75 a week. No position will be reserved for any advertiser.
3. No advertisement may exceed fifteen inches, and will be set double column style, unless otherwise specified.
4. Copy must be in our hands before five o'clock Wednesday afternoon, otherwise we are at liberty to reprint the advertisement of the previous week.

5. Front page advertisers must sign a contract to use space at these terms for a period of not less than three months, the contract to be renewed at its expiration.

6. The management is at liberty to place other advertisements on the Front Page, when heavy advertising demands our doing so.

These regulations are to go into effect with our first issue of the New Year, and will be enforced to the letter. No exceptions will be made. All advertisers desiring to take advantage of space on the Front Page, are asked to see us at our office, or make reservation by telephoning 100. We will not personally solicit any advertiser for Front Page Positions.

"Skeet" Kuhn Married

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. K. M. Munro at the First United Church, Manse, Queen St., Truro, N. S. on Saturday evening, Dec. 7th, at 7 o'clock when Miss Mary Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Stevens of Londonderry, became the bride of Clarence W. Kuhn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kuhn, Windsor, N. S.

Mr. and Mrs. Kuhn will take up their future residence at 69 Pleasant Street, Truro.

Stewart Raymond's Car Upsets at Weymouth

H. C. Bishop, high sheriff of Digby County, and Stewart M. Raymond, met with a bad automobile accident at Weymouth last Friday afternoon.

Mr. Raymond and Sheriff Bishop in the former's car, were driving in the direction of Yarmouth, and near Foote's Garage at Weymouth, the car skidded, slewed across the road and over an embankment landing bottom up. Mr. Raymond was rendered unconscious for a short time, and both he and the sheriff received a severe shaking up. The car was badly damaged.

More Ministers Needed

Rev. A. N. Morgan, Minister of Zion Baptist Church, Truro, who has returned from a week spent in visiting the colored congregations in the western part of the province. He preached during his absence at Inglewood, Weymouth, Weymouth Falls, Acaciaville and Lequellie. There is, said Mr. Morgan, a great need for more colored ministers, the people visited, being practically without pastoral care. While the need is great the financial inducements are so small that the young colored men do not enter the ministry.

The Oldest Parliament

The Iceland parliament, known as the Althing, is said to be the world's oldest parliament. It will celebrate its 1000th anniversary next year, having begun its existence in 930 due to the influence of early Christian missionaries, who assisted the people in forming a stable government and codifying their laws.

Iceland fell under the jurisdiction of Norway in the 13th century, and later became subject to Denmark. It is now independent. The Island according to legend was discovered by Irish monks in 795.

A little less creed,
A little more giving,
A little less greed,
A little more smile,
A little less frown,
A little less kicking,
A man when he's down.

A little more "we"
A little less "I,"
A little more laugh
A little less cry

A little more flowers,
On the pathway of life,
And fewer on graves
At the end of the strife.

United States Survey of Canadian Outlook

The official United States survey on business conditions in Canada in November presents an unbiased review of the outlook. It refers to the unemployment situation, with which Canada will be faced, and the present dull lumber market. The highways also come in for comment.

The article reads: "Although employment remains at a very high level for this period of the year the usual winter recession is becoming apparent in unemployment reports emanating from Ontario. The short grain crop in the West is said to have contributed to the supply of unskilled labour in industrial centres. In Eastern Canada trade is fair with hardware and machinery especially busy. The iron and steel industry is also preserving a fair level of activity with the exception of those branches depending upon automobile and agricultural implement industries.

The lumber market is dull, but a heavy cut of pulpwood is expected during the winter. According to one private local analysis, the following areas in Western Canada are credited with good wheat yields in 1929 and a good long term record which is calculated to maintain business during the coming winter: Northwestern Manitoba, Northeastern Saskatchewan, Southwestern and Northwestern Alberta. Regarding the continued unsettledness in New York and Canadian Stock exchanges, responsible observers continue of the opinion that fundamental conditions in Canada are sound but prospects for the commercial turnover this winter are not quite as optimistic as at this time last year.

Preparations are being made in Ontario to keep 1,800 miles of provincial highway open for traffic during the coming winter. It has been announced that the Dominion Government will proceed with the building of a new postal terminal in Montreal some time during 1930 at a cost estimated between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000. October wholesale prices, as measured by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics index, show a fairly widespread decline on the basis of lower quotations for almost all grains and vegetables, for coffee and rubber, livestock and meat, raw cotton, silk, wool and jute and electrolytic copper, domestic lead, tin and zinc smelter and petroleum products. Market quotations for fish and dairy products and coal were higher.

Live and Let Live

We all realize the shortness of human life, but there isn't one thing we can do about it. That is to prolong it. But we can make it a much happier and fuller life by bearing in mind just four words, "Live, and let live". Live our own life to the very fullest extent and let others do the same. There is considerable argument about "am I my brother's keeper?" Perhaps we are to the extent of rendering help and adding a little more enjoyment to the lives of our brothers, but not by criticism and making their lives in general miserable by interference. We all have our faults and there is no one quite capable of condemning, neither are they capable of dealing out punishment. Vengeance is God's and yet it is man who takes it and suffers it. Humanity calls it Justice. But the warrant handed us by men is not ours to execute. We would do well to bear in mind Mark Twain's words, "Whose business is it what gods I worship, and what things I hold sacred? Who has the right to dictate to my conscience and who gave him that right?" Oh, life is not very long, and there really is no time to waste in anger or bitterness! A little work, a little sleep, a little love and it is all over. Let us try to make love the keynote of our lives. God is Love, and let us leave all the punishing and judging to Him, and rest assured that He will handle it in His own Time and Way. And in the short time we have here, let us try to cultivate in ourselves all the qualities we should like to see in others, and I am sure we will find that it beautifies living.

Two More Vessels to be Built at Meteghan This Winter

Jules Robichaud, of Meteghan, Digby County, who a week or so ago from his shipyard at that place, launched the fine auxiliary schooner Bernado, for Capt. B. M., and G. E. Melanson, of Gilbert's Cove, in that county, is now making preparations for the construction of two more vessels. One of fifty ton keel for D. B. Kenney, of Westport, and the other eighty feet for the Frank E. Davis & Co. Limited, to take the place of their auxiliary schooner Bambi, recently sold to Lunenburg parties.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE

On the bough of the rose is the prickling briar;
The delicate lily must live in the mire;
The hues of the butterfly go at a breath;
At the end of the road is the house of death.

Nay, Nay; on the briar is the delicate rose;
In the mire of the river the lily blows;
The moth is as fair as a flower of the sod;
At the end of the road is a door to God.

Knowledge of Woodcraft Proved Profitable to This Man

In the way things are looking now, there ought to be a big demand for dry friends to the south of us for Digby Christmas trees. We told a little story last week relating to how one man "got his boots" in Digby, and here we have a sequel to the same yarn.

This week's hero was taken out in a manner the same as the hero of last week. The car stopped near a spruce tree, and the driver got out, went behind the tree and came back with a bottle of the real genuine stuff.

The bottle was opened right there, and the tinfoil around the stopper was casually dropped a few feet to the car by the purchaser. Sometime later in the day the car came back to the same spot all by itself, and the tinfoil, and the stopper, were found in that vicinity, and was successful in finding two bottles "of the real genuine."

Canada Eskimos, about whose origin and history there has been much doubt, and discussion, came from the south west section of France, following the bison, the musk ox, the great stag, the mammoth, and the reindeer, crossed Europe into Siberia and eventually came to the land which is now known as the Yukon and Alaska. This was the statement, made Monday, by Dr. Henry M. Ami, F. R. G. S., who arrived in Halifax on the liner Lancastria, from exploration work in the caves and hillsides of Dordogne, France.

When Going South

The approach of the winter season directs attention to the warmer climes of the South, and to those who contemplate making California their place of abode during that season the Canadian National Railways offer fast, comfortable and convenient train services from Maritime province points.

A most delightful way to journey to California is to take the "Continental Limited" from Montreal, leaving at 11.15 p. m. daily, and travel across Canada, through the splendour of the Canadian Rockies to Vancouver and from there proceed down the Pacific Coast to California. The "Continental Limited" provides a very comfortable and altogether pleasant mode of travelling. The train carries all steel equipment and in addition radio-equipped compartment-library-observation car, thus enabling passengers to enjoy the many delightful programmes that come over their each day and night and at the same time the observation feature enables a magnificent view of the country to be obtained from the train.

Another approach to California is via Chicago and here also the Canadian National Railways offer fast convenient and comfortable train services. The "International Limited" leaves Montreal at 10.00 a. m. daily for Toronto, Detroit, and Chicago, and from Chicago through connections can be obtained to the South. The "International Limited" also carries a radio equipped compartment-library-observation car and the train is equipped with all steel cars.

For full information with regard to fares, reservations, etc., apply to any Canadian National Railways Ticket Agent, or write to F. W. Robertson, General Passenger Agent, Canadian National Railways, Montreal, N. B.

Digby's First Community Christmas Tree Credit to Town

Digby is justly proud of her first Community Christmas Tree which stands near the monument on Water Street. This beautiful evergreen, decorated with one hundred or so bright colored bulbs stands for more than the conventional emblem of the Christmas Season—it is a symbol of the co-operative spirit of our citizens. Standing in its prominent position on Digby's main business street, and visible to all trains, considerable praise is given the tree by the travelling public, and in this way Digby was advertised in other communities.

Many from the country districts came in town on Saturday, Monday, and Tuesday evenings to see the tree lit up in all its Christmas splendour, and to hear the old carols sang by those who gathered about it.

We hope that this experiment will be repeated year after year, and we will take the liberty of saying "thank you" for the people of Digby to all those whose efforts made this year's tree possible.

We wish our Friends and Readers

A Happy and Prosperous New Year.

The Annual Tonic

It is not merely the insistence of the calendar that allows a seasonal liberty to sentiment. It is rather the profound human need for relief from skepticism and mutual suspicion which leads us to take hold so gladly on an occasion for good-will and kindness towards those with whom we live and work. The sentiment which colors so brightly the holiday season and which is voiced in the New Year's greeting is genuine and sincere, since it springs chiefly from the instinct of the heart and owes little to any doctrine or calculated judgment.

Life takes heavy toll of our illusions, our optimism and our faith. For our own protection, we hedge ourselves around with distrust and armor ourselves with cautious doubt. We shut away in a secret place our more sensitive emotions and our impulses to affection and ready faith. We may come, indeed, to fear them, lest they betray us in the daily struggle with hard reality and necessity.

Yet simple trust and faith and affection remain forever the chief needs of the spirit. Instinctively we acknowledge this in the warm welcome we give to the season of good will. We are briefly aware of love's essential and saving grace in the warm happiness of the Christmas festival. We pay annual tribute to its ancient power for natural good and spiritual health when we wish our friends and neighbors the happiness of a New Year.

This is the Courier's last edition for the year of 1929. In a few days at midnight, December 31st, the death knell of this year will be sounded, and it will have passed into history and there will be born to time a new year, 1930.

If we were to write an obituary on the Old Year, to tell what it has accomplished or left undone, it would take a maze of memory. In spite of the disasters, corruption, and strife that have been evident during the life of the Old Year, it has been a constructive one. Its 365 days have meant greater progress, contentment and prosperity, and bequeath a happier and more wholesome world to 1930.

How will 1930 accept this bequest? Will it use this wealth like a spendthrift son, who, when left his father's riches let them run through his fingers. Will 1930 be extravagant and wasteful, and leave behind a wanton world of strife and ruin?

Or will 1930 be a wise son, and increase the legacy of the previous years, make even greater strides, toward peace and goodwill among the nations, and when his span of life expires, leave behind him an even more peaceable and more contented world than that which will receive him at midnight on December 31st.

Frost Bites

Minard's will bring back circulation, and ease burning pain.

A Neglected Resolution

We have no wish to preach, and are well aware good resolutions constitute a tender subject—seeing how nearly all of them are broken within the first few weeks of each new year. Nevertheless, we venture a wisp of advice to those who are about to greet the first day of 1930 without definitely deciding what they are or are not going to do.

This suggestion of ours is not new but because it is not much used, may be called as good as new. It does not require any special preparation, such as throwing away ash-trays or smashing cocktail glasses. It does not even involve suffocation of a habit, harmful or extravagant, and can be quietly applied without attracting special notice from anyone—until it gets in good working order.

Then it may become a matter for comment, but only of the most praiseworthy sort. In the Dictionary of Desirable Traits it is defined as tending to your own business. And it comes in assorted sizes, to fit even those who have little business to attend to.

Seek Employment for Older Workers

Worry over what is to become of able-bodied men and women who have to seek new employment after they have reached the age of 45 is not confined to Canada.

Uruguay is the first country to attack the problem directly. Under the general provisions of its old age pension law the government has just issued a decree which requires that all government and public utility pay rolls must carry enough people more than 45 years old to equal 10 per cent of the total number of persons on such pay rolls.

While it may be questioned that this decree will really accomplish anything, it is significant as a recognition by the government of Uruguay that an old-age question is coming which cannot be entirely met by a pension system without a very radical increase in both the general and specific taxes which are set aside in the pension law to meet the requirements of that law as it stands.

The doubt as to the practical efficacy of the law is based upon statistics available for Canada rather than those of Uruguay, but, assuming that the age distribution among occupied people over 15 years of age is substantially the same in both countries, it becomes apparent that the government decree referred to does not go far enough.

Of the persons over 15 years of age who are gainfully occupied in Canada 28.3 per cent are over 45 years of age. In fact 4.1 per cent are 65 years and over. The decree, therefore, that not less than 10 per cent of the employees of the government and public utility corporations must be 45 years and over will not absorb those over that age.

The real significance of the decree of the republic is not in any practical effect that it may have, but in the fact that there should be any governmental action in this direction at all.

One Dish Can Make A Cook Famous

There is so much entertaining to be done in the holiday and the winter season. Each member of the family wants a party of some kind, mother tries to pay back her invitations by having a few tables of bridges at a time and when she is out father often has a "stag". At times like these there is always the hurry at the last minute for attractive and appetizing food to be served.

A lunch cake, which is very quickly made and is a great favorite with those who often have to "hurry up" a last minute lunch is convenient to keep on hand.

The recipe is: 5 eggs, 1 cup white sugar, 1 lb. seeded raisins, 1-2 pound orange and citron peel, 1-2 lb. butter, 1 small bottle marachino cherries. Cream butter and sugar, add the eggs, one at a time, and beat five minutes after each egg. Add fruit. Bake well in moderate oven.

FIND PRIMEVAL AXE

Anthropologists in Canada are all excited over the discovery during the construction of the Royal York Golf course, Toronto, of a finely preserved bronze axe head, still capable of doing hefty work in the hands of a determined man. Some believe that it is an Indian implement, but many more say it is an authentic relic of the Bronze Age, perhaps a score of thousand years old and going back to the beginning of humanity. Beautifully balanced and still quite sharp, the years have left their traces on the axe and there are even to be seen markings where leather strips bound it to the handle. Within sight of a great city where once Indians prowled and long centuries before them, primitive men fought with monsters, the place where it was picked up will soon be the scene of golfers teeing off or negotiating difficult bunkers. The course will be open for play next Spring.

Fascinating Links in Many Accidents Over Week End

There is a closed cabinet in the new wing of the Dominion Archives Building which contains four intensely interesting mementos of the early life in Canada. These are tunics, sash and stock worn by Brock when he fell fighting for his country in the year of 1812, and the shoes worn by General Wolfe when he was a baby.

The tunic which belonged to Brock is of the flaming scarlet color which the warriors wore in those days. It is bound in black and has gold buttons. The bullet hole over the heart, is very noticeable, and it was the charge which was fatal to the brave soldier.

With the tunic was worn a plaid sash, which was a present from Tecumseh to Brock. He also wore a stock, as it was called in those days, which reminds one of the Windsor ties worn by the school boys of about twenty years ago.

Brock's coat was sent to his relatives and in 1909 the Misses Tupper, nieces of Sir Isaac Brock, presented it to the Dominion Archives.

The little black kid shoes which were worn by General Wolfe were given by Mr. Thomas Wolfe, a relative of the General's, to his cousin John Chanaller, of New-castle-on-Tyne and were presented by W. J. Priestman Atkinson, grandson of the latter, to the Archives in September 1908.

These little mementos of early history in Canada when seen as they were worn by these brave men, recall to mind the battles in which they engaged and the personal contact of seeing the tunic worn by Brock recalls the splendid achievements of a man, who, when he was killed, was in years, just a boy.

Through Highway To South America

A proposal of interest introduced in the House at Washington suggests a Pan American conference to discuss the construction of an inter-American highway. The resolution directs the President to invite all the American governments to name an engineer and an economist to represent them at the parley, which would be held in Washington.

The President also would be asked to suggest the preparation and compilation of complete information, a survey of a route or routes, advisory economic information of a highway connecting all nations of the Western hemisphere, with particular reference first to the route from the southern boundary of the United States to the northern boundary of the republic of Columbia.

Patient—"Isay doctor, don't you think it would be a good idea if I were to pack up and go to some place where the climate is warm?" Doctor—"Good heavens! Isn't that just what I've been trying to prevent?"

Former Sandy Cove Pastor is Storm Centre

Rev. Guy E. Mossman, a native of Mahone Bay, N.S., who was graduated from Mount Allison University in Sackville, N.B., and ordained at Sackville in June, 1929, at the Maritime Conference of the United Church of Canada, is the storm centre of a religious controversy that threatens to revive the old denominational strife which reformers assert has thwarted the spiritual growth of New England. Mr. Mossman's action in resigning the pastorate of the Methodist Episcopal church here in mid-year, to become pastor of the Bethany Congregational church in Worcester, has involved an ethical question relative to the propriety of leaving one pastorate at the start of the season's evangelical program, to start labors with a church of another denomination.

Critics of Mr. Mossman claim that he has placed monetary consideration above spiritual, while the pastor's friends assert that sectarianism should be no bar to a young minister in his advancement and that opportunity should be accepted when it presents itself.

Following his ordination in Sackville, Mr. Mossman came to Boston for a course in the Boston University School of Religious Education, and at present he is taking post-graduate work in the Boston University School of Theology. He served as assistant pastor at the Glendale Methodist church in Everett before going to Concord last April. He is married and has an infant son.

Mr. Mossman is regarded as one of the most promising young ministers in New England, and while church officials are arguing the merits of his action, he is quietly pursuing the course which he has chosen, without comment.

Rev. Mr. Massman is very well known here. For many years he was pastor of the Sandy Cove, Digby County, United Church, and during Mr. Watt's pastorate in Digby, he preached in Grace United Church, Digby, on several occasions.

Bishop LeBlanc on Road to Recovery

The condition of His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc was reported splendidly by his physician, Dr. J. M. Barry yesterday, who for the first time since his illness allowed him to sit up. The good news of His Lordship's progress toward recovery will be learned with pleasure by many friends and also by the members of his flock in the Saint John diocese, of which he has been head for the last 17 years.

Bishop LeBlanc is a native of Digby County, and for a number of years was Parish Priest at Saint Bernard. In 1910 he commenced work on the magnificent new church at that place. This edifice is still under construction, and when complete will cost in the vicinity of one quarter of a million dollars, more than half of that amount having been already expended.

YOUR TOWN

Real towns are not made by men afraid
Lest someone else gets ahead;
When everyone works and nobody shirks

You can raise a town from the dead.
And if, while you make your personal stake

Your neighbor makes one, too,
Your town will be what you want it to be—

town

Like the kind of a town you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long hike.

You will only find what you left behind.

For there's nothing that's really new;

It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town—

It isn't your town, it's your town

The bright of ignorance is buying two neckties just alike.

What this country needs is socks guaranteed for 10,000 miles.

Treasure Trove on the Spanish Main

It is no wonder the bays were looted to rove the Spanish Main. Something more than pieces of eight must have intrigued them, surely they were men of taste in spite of their lack of it. The pirates and privateers spent their hours with Davy Jones and there is no more violence in the idea of the West Indies. But the true treasure is still there, for the world to enjoy. The Canadian National Steamships are making preparations to lay the beauties of the West Indies open to treasure-hunters this winter, and many travellers have already made arrangements to go to Bermuda or Antigua or all the way down to Demerara. The photographs show one of the beautiful Canadian National steamers, the Lady Somers, at Jamaica, and two typical scenes which are enough to make anyone's mouth water, the coconut carrier, and the bananas going aboard the Lady Rodney at Kingston.

The proceeds from the sale held at the store of Mrs. A. J. Nickerson Saturday night December 14th, amounted to $26.00 and we wish to thank all who helped make this a success. The church has been repainted, new furnaces have been installed, and this has made a great improvement. Much credit is due the pastor Rev. W. Greenwood D. D., also the trustees, and all those who co-operate with him by giving their time and labor gratis.

A GREATER ECHO.

Explaining Why the Yankee Smiled at the Boast of the Scot.

"Hoot, mon, it's a grand land!" said the Scot proudly as he showed his American visitor the glories of the highlands. "And we're an echo here that cannot be beaten."

Building the action to the word, he yelled his war cry, and exactly four minutes later the echo returned as clear as a bell.

"That certainly is some echo," agreed the Yank, smiling a little superciliously.

"What for do ye smile?" inquired the Scot, all the pride of possession quickly aroused.

"Well," drawled his companion, "I wish you were comin' back over the 'pore' with me. In my home in the Rockies I could show you some more echo. When I go to bed at night I just lean out of bed and shout 'Time to get up—come on!' and, sure, just eight hours later that echo comes back and wakes me up!"—London Answers.

Why She Wept.

Appropos of the numerous influential malefactors whose prison terms are either annulled or cut down to nearly nothing, Mary Brand Whitlock of Toledo said a short while ago:

"It is a good thing for the public to let these men out so soon?"

"I was sympathizing one afternoon with a poor woman whose husband had just been sent to jail. She was weeping bitterly, and I said to her: 'Now, don't take it so hard. Two years is a long sentence. I know, but he may not have to serve it all. Convicts who behave themselves often times get out months before their appointed time!'"

"That's just it," she replied, still sobbing. "Henry can be an angel when he likes."—Lippincott's.

After All.

"I want you to remember always," he said when they parted, "that you have made me happier than any other woman ever has."

"I shall not waste time remembering anything about you," she replied without trying to conceal her contempt for him.

"And remember, too," he added, "that no other woman has ever made me as unhappy as you have made me."

"Then a glad look came into her eyes, and as he went away she drew a long sigh and murmured:

"Dear fellow! There was something good about him after all."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Not a Fight.

"Here, here, stop fighting with all those boys."

"I ain't fightin'."

"Yes, you are."

"I ain't. I'm just tryin' to punch Bud Hickey in the nose, 'cause I'm mad at him. I ain't mad at his brothers, but I will be if he don't quit kickin' me in the shins."—Detroit Free Press.

Anxious to Please.

"So you are expected to do a kind act every day?"

"Yes," replied the boy scout.

"How about today?"

"Well, the teacher has been having a little trouble with me. Don't you think I might stay away from school and give her a rest?"—Washington Star.

Where the Look Is.

"If I had a wife who would do some sewing for me I wouldn't lose so much money out of the holes in my pockets," growled Mr. Gabb.

"The only hole in a man's pocket that he loses money out of is the hole at the top," replied Mrs. Gabb. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

Looking For Improvement.

"Weren't you here about a week ago asking for food?" said the lady, looking critically over her spectacles at the tramp at the kitchen door.

"Yes, ma'am, was the unexpected reply, "but I heard you had a new cook since then."—Yonkers Statesman.

Residence of H. C. Anthony Damaged by Fire

The frantic barking of the dog arousing the sleeping family prevented what might have been a very serious conflagration at the home of H. C. Anthony last Sunday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony were thus rudely awakened about eight o'clock and with difficulty groped their way down stairs through the dense smoke to find the kitchen wall blazing. Although there had been no fire in the kitchen stove since early in the evening before, the fire had apparently started around the chimney and was well under way and a high wind blowing. Only the prompt response of a number of citizens to the alarm saved the situation and after nearly an hour's hard work the seemingly impossible was accomplished and the fire extinguished.

The narrow escape of "H. C. Anthony's residence from loss by fire on Sunday morning should be a special reminder to us of our lack of proper fire-fighting equipment. This has been the third fire outbreak within the past two weeks and any one of the three, if not discovered in the early stages, might have been disastrous.

Although one may have no fear for the safety of their own property, they can never tell when their property might be endangered from a fire originating with their neighbor. It is to be hoped that the citizens of Bear River will give a hearty response to the efforts of the Committee who are now engaged in soliciting funds for this purpose. No matter how well one is covered by insurance, the loss and inconvenience can never be fully compensated for by insurance.

Storms Hold Up Bear River Christmas Shopping

We understand that the bulk of the fruit for the Bear River Christmas trade did not arrive until Monday, and for that reason, there was "one grand rush" on the day before Christmas.

The reason given is that the steamer had been unable to make a crossing from Saint John for over a week making it impossible to get the Christmas fruit over until Monday. If waver, some fruit had come around by rail.

SCOUT NOTES

At the last meeting, a very interesting talk was given on aeroplanes by Scout Howard McLean of the Ninth Halifax Troop, and a demonstration of flying also given with a model plane. The Bear River Scouts are fast obtaining a practical knowledge of the operation of aeroplanes from the models which they have procured and constructed. In fact, some of the planes put up by local Scouts have shown better flying qualities than those imported.

The toy shop sale this year has again been successful and the thanks of the troop are due to all those who made donations to the sale. Aeroplanes were made a special feature of the sale this year and after the first year, a section of the Troop are planning to organize a flying club along the lines of some of the Junior Clubs already formed in the U. S. Second Class Scout, Walter Reid, who is also Patrol Second of the Beaver Patrol, has been selected to organize a new patrol for the boys coming in after Christmas.

Presentation Made to Rev. W. G. Heisler at Smith's Cove

The Annual Christmas Tree of the Smith's Cove Baptist Sunday School was held in the vestry on Thursday evening, Dec. 19th. Santa Claus was present, remembering everyone from the youngest to the oldest. At the close Mr. Cuthbert Welch, on behalf of the B. Y. P. U. read a letter of appreciation and good will to the pastor, Rev. W. G. Heisler. This letter showed the friendly relations that exist between pastor and young people and expressed the sincere regret that he is going from us in the near future. The members rose and remained standing while the letter was being read in order that each might have a personal share in conveying this little word-token to our beloved pastor.

The Christmas service of the Smith's Cove Baptist Church on Sunday evening, of a very inspiring nature. The Christmas sermon was preached with wonderful power and brought anew to those present, the scenes connected with the great event of the birth of Jesus Christ in the little town of Bethlehem. Special music was rendered by the choir, which added greatly to the impressiveness of the service. At the close Deacon John Smith, on behalf of the many friends of pastor Heisler presented him with a gift which expressed their high esteem. During the presentation, Mr. Smith spoke of the faithfulness of both Mr. and Mrs. Heisler during their sojourn amongst us.

Reception to New Pastor

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 18th, a reception was tendered Rev. A. A. and Mrs. MacLeod in the vestry of the United Baptist Church. Owing to the inclement weather and bad road conditions only about one hundred and twenty-five guests were present.

Mr. and Mrs. MacLeod were assisted in receiving by the Deacons and their wives.

The vestry was very charmingly decorated for the occasion with evergreen, holly and poinsettias. The prettily arranged fire place with its yule-log aglow added cheer to the scene.

After the presentations a short program was rendered consisting of musical numbers by the choir, a very appropriate reading by Miss Heisler and short addresses by the visiting clergymen from the surrounding districts of whom six were present with their wives.

At the close of the evening delicious refreshments were served by the social committee.

JOHNNY RIGG.

JOHNNY RIGG, the ranger. He walked in Wood-o'-Lea. And happened on a stranger. He did not know the stranger. As his heart it did rejoice of her. She left him with a laugh. The wind was in the voice of her. The stars were in her eyes.

Johnny Rigg, the ranger. He followed far away. He did not know the stranger. That lurks at time o' May. She drew him with the smiles of her. She left him with a laugh. Bewildered with the wiles of her. And moon struck as a calf.

Johnny Rigg, the ranger. He mumbled out was he. He followed of a stranger. The stars were in the eyes of her. And watched him through the haze. The tinklers ran a back of him. And stole his phantasm eggs.

Now, all you jolly rangers. When nesting time is on. Don't go to follow strangers. Not brown nor white as swan. Beware of 'em, be wise of 'em. For sooth it is that's said: When stars get in the eyes of 'em. The moon acts in your head.

40th Anniversary

A very pleasant event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Alcorn, Tuesday evening, Dec. 17th, it being their 40th anniversary. During the evening, while the victrola played the wedding march, Mrs. Roy Snell read a beautiful poem, suited to the occasion, after which Mrs. Harry Harris entered the room carrying a basket all trimmed in rose, laden with gifts for the bride and groom. The gifts included linen, glass, silver, china and gold, after which a dainty lunch was served to about 40 guests.

Deep Brook

Mrs. J. R. Berry spent the week end, guest of her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Sanford at Torbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dittmars entertained very pleasantly a large number of young people on Saturday evening, December 14th, in honor of their son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Dittmars. The bride was the recipient of a number of useful and pretty gifts, including a clock presented to her by the C.G.I.T. group of which "Society" she is a valued member. Music and games were enjoyed by the company, after which dainty refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Misses Alma Rice, Lillian Burrell and Nellie Nichols.

Damage estimated at between $8,000 and $10,000 was caused by a fire which destroyed the house, barn and small garage of Municipal Councillor, Frank Wood, lumber operator, at Glenmont, King's County, N. S., a small community on the North Mountain. The fire occurred on Saturday afternoon.

The Weymouth tern schr. Utilia, Capt. Salter, is at Boston loading fertilizer for Yarmouth, and will afterwards load hardwood lumber for Boston.

Smith's Cove

Home Division is "Going Strong." Each Wednesday evening most interesting and enjoyable meetings are held and new members are coming all the time.

The B. Y. P. U. held a Roll Call last week. Rev. Mr. Gibson was the visiting speaker. The pastor, Rev. W. G. Heisler was also present. Miss Florence Berry and Miss Helen MacGregor each read a paper. B. Y. P. U. conducted the meeting. Roll called by Mrs. Smith, Sect. 9.

The regular meeting of the W. I. was held last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Taylor. This meeting was well attended and much interest shown in the transaction of the routine business. This was followed by a short programme which was enjoyed by all. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Taylor served delicious refreshments.

Mr. G. W. Wightman of Digby has purchased the MacDonald Bungalow, which he has remodelled and made into a nice residence, he and his family are now occupying it. We welcome them to Smith's Cove.

The many friends of Miss Addelade Cummings regret it has been necessary for her to undergo a rather serious operation at the Yarmouth Hospital. We are glad to know she is doing well, and will soon be home again.

Mrs. MacNaughton and her mother, Mrs. Duff have gone to Sydney to spend the holidays.

John Smith is home for a short vacation.

We have to record a number of accidents. Mrs. Wm. Potter fell on the ice and was badly cut about the face, as well as receiving a bad shaking up. Mrs. Olive Taylor had the misfortune to fall down stairs in her home, sustaining painful injuries. Mrs. Banks is recovering from a sprained ankle, caused by a fall a short while ago.

Miss Gertrude Dunn, who is assisting Miss Bessie Sault in the care of her mother, went to Middleton recently.

Mrs. Edward Winchester spent the week end in Halifax recently.

The estate of Eunice Alberta "Trilby" Hanson of Fredericton was recently probated. "Trilby" was a well known Fredericton character, and during her long life, she accumulated nine dresses. She had them all on when she died, and part of the $258.98 she had saved was sewn in the seams of each garment.

Lord Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scouts, in the early days of the Movement more than twenty years ago, impressed upon the world "Scouting is a game." This is "Scouting in the Boy Scouts" and is emphasized in the United States no less than abroad by the Boy Scouts of America which celebrates its Twentieth Anniversary from February 7th to 13th, 1930. Scouting puts into a boy's own keeping the Scout Oath and a set of twelve Scout Laws as the basis for high ideals which he may take into his life and make an integral part of it.

MASTERY OF YOUR FATE

Those who laugh at luck—and make their own luck—will soon step into their own sensible idea of getting there regardless of circumstances.

A fresh chance to go to Business College arrives. Those who refuse to become "hewers of wood and drawers of water," in this severe working life, will attend the new term of the Modern-Success Business Colleges, commencing January 6.

In due course they step out into promoted places and opportunities as well qualified Stenographers, as Business Secretaries, as Senior Accountants, Office Managers.

A Thrifty Scot

The thrift of the Scotchman is proverbial, but an incident that occurred at the port of Saint John, N. B., recently in the case of a settler-immigrant returning to Scotland from the Canadian West for the Christmas Holidays via the Canadian National Railways "takes the cake."

Chronic Bronchitis

is quickly and safely relieved by the wonderful RAZ-MAH. Mr. H. Truemper, Zurich, Ont., got much relief from a sample of RAZ-MAH that he bought a $1.00 box, sold always under guarantee of relief or money back. Now he always uses RAZ-MAH when he has an attack. Says: "I usually work the attack off in a few days. Then may 80 or 90 years or so without another. RAZ-MAH is also wonderful for Asthma. At your druggists."

RAZ-MAH

This Scotch-Canadian was directed to the Canadian National Railways Steamship Passenger Representative in the port of Saint John, to be looked after between the time he left his train until he boarded the vessel that was to take him overseas. Incidentally, he had a day in which to rest before boarding the steamer, and on being asked by the Steamship Passenger Representative if there was anything he would like particularly to do—possibly see the city—he replied, "Can you get me a job for the day?" No wonder the Scotch are financial wizards, and we can understand the stories of Scotchmen dominating financial institutions.

Many men act as if asking them to pay a bill they owe were an insult.

Slayer of Meteghan Man Confesses

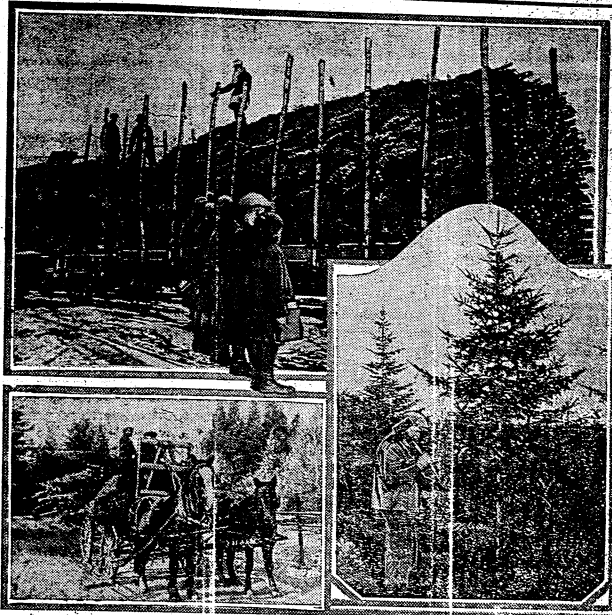

In The Yarmouth Herald of November 5, was published a column and a half article taken from the Boston Post telling of the strange disappearance of Thomas Comeau, from Skowegan, Maine. He was formerly of Meteghan, Digby County, an overseas man and a brother of Mrs. Joseph Gaudet, of Yarmouth South. It was supposed that Comeau had met with foul play and the story told of a dream which Mrs. Frank Reynolds, Skowegan, had and how it implicated her husband with the disappearance and killing of Comeau. She gave her information to the Sheriff of the district, who went to the spot indicated in the dream and there found the remains of the murdered man. Strange as it may appear, her husband, shortly after the disappearance of Comeau, so the story read, began to act strangely and made application for admittance to a sanatorium.

The killing of Thomas Comeau, in the Starke Woods, in Maine, where the remains were found, reached a further stage a few days ago, when Andrew Edgar confessed to the slaying of Comeau, as an "accessory after the fact," and implicating Frank Reynolds, at present an inmate in the State Hospital. Mrs. Gaudet, wife of Assistant Chief of Police Gaudet, has just received a copy of the confession as made by Andrew Edgar, who is now confined in the Somerset jail. The confession is the outcome of a vivid and mysterious dream Mrs. Frank Reynolds had in which she saw her husband slaying his companion in the woods and afterwards concealing the dead body in the trunk of a decayed tree, where it was disclosed after eighteen months. Edgar confessed to Sheriff Markham in the presence of deputy sheriff True Ellis that he was ready to plead guilty as stated as "an accessory after the fact."

The confession, which filled twenty-three typewritten sheets, charges Frank Reynolds, now an inmate of the state hospital, for the insane, Bangor, with being the principal in the killing on May 6, 1928, and admits that Edgar assisted Reynolds in burying the body in the woods at Stark, where it was uncovered last October directly as a result of information supplied by Mrs. Reynolds after her horrible vision. Edgar quotes the alleged murderer, Reynolds, as having said, "I have done away with Comeau. I killed him. He lies in Thompson's woods. You take the check (payable to Comeau for $150 and endorsed with Comeau's name). Go down to Madison and get it cashed." The murdered Comeau was 38 years of age. Just prior to his death he bought a motor cycle with the object of journeying to Nova Scotia to visit his mother, Mrs. John Comeau, at Meteghan Station and his sister, Mrs. Gaudet, in Yarmouth.

Christmas Trees For Santa Claus

"Santa Claus is finding it increasingly difficult to get Christmas trees for the boys and girls of the United States, and every year he is looking more and more to Canada, particularly over the lines of the Canadian National Railways for the kiddies of New England and New York State cities. 101,000 lbs. Eels Shipped From Maritimes Annually

The eel fisheries of Canada, at one time an important activity of the Indians, still maintain their place as an eminent industry on the eastern coast, according to the Natural Resources Department of the Canadian National Railways.

Canada's domestic consumption of the eel is distinctly limited. The eel, however, is highly thought of in Europe and in parts of the northern United States as a table delicacy and it is to these territories that the Canadian eel is mainly distributed. It is found widely in the rivers emptying into the gulf of Saint Lawrence and the Atlantic Ocean. The commercial centre of the fisheries is along the Richelieu River and down the St. Lawrence as far as the Isle of Orleans, all in the Province of Quebec. The total annual catch of Quebec is placed at about 2,000,000 pounds, while that in Nova Scotia is only 70,000 pounds. New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island obtain 18,000 pounds and 13,000 pounds respectively of eels each year.

The eel spawn in the ocean south of Bermuda. From here the young make their migration to European and American waters, being about three inches long on their arrival. They remain in the northern rivers for two or three years returning then to the southern waters for spawning. Only the young move upstream. Those full grown move down and do not return, both sexes dying at sea after their first and only spawning period.

The eels, journeying seaward, are caught commercially in traps set across the rivers at strategic points. They are shipped alive. Indians are said to be particularly adept at spearing them.

The total forest area of Canada is estimated to be 1,151,454 square miles. Of this area, 885,890 square miles are productive and accessible; a little over one-third of this area bears timber of merchantable size; the remainder carries young growth not yet suitable for use.

The all-lines championship in the Canadian Pacific Railway First Aid Competition has been won by the police team of the Windsor station Montreal for the first time in the history of the championship since winners took 315½ points out of a possible 425, the nearest to which was the team from Nelson were Owen Tomlinson, William Peterson, Ernest G. Wykes, William H. Allison (Captain), and Andrew H. Stoll.

More than three hundred people from the west left Winnipeg on Canadian Pacific Railway special travelling to ship's side at Saint John to sail on Duchess of Richelieu, December 14, to spend their Christmas and New Year holidays in Great Britain. The majority of the travellers represent workers on the land rather than city dwellers.

With the objective of being one of the largest and most palatial of its kind in the continent, the new clubhouse of the Colwood Golf and Country Club at Victoria is rapidly nearing completion. It is ready for formal opening in time for the season annual Empire mid-winter tournament to be played over the famous course at Victoria 17 miles from the replacement of the clubhouse destroyed by fire about a year ago.

Honolulu welcomed S.S. Empress of Canada, giant flagship of the Canadian Pacific "Empress" fleet, when the crack liner arrived December 12, inaugurating Canadian service to the Hawaiian port, with a brilliant civic reception in which Mayor, the Chamber of Commerce and leading civic representatives and organizations took part. Honolulu gave a real old time "Aloha" greeting proving its enthusiasm at the despatch of the Canadian Pacific Steamships services to include Honolulu as a frequent port of call.

America's first sea-going Christmas Music Festival will take place aboard Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of Bedford which sails from New York December 23 on a 16-day cruise of the West Indies. A special choir has been selected for the festival, and the ship's orchestra will play Christmas music dating from the earliest Yuletide observances in England and Europe. Elizabethan pageantry, old-time English and American dances, Yule Logs, Boars' Heads, Barons of Beef and Drudgery milestoe will all feature in the festival.

The wheat championship of the world was won by Canadian farmers fifteen times in the last nineteen years, has again returned to Canada, after being held for two years by the state of Montana. This year it was awarded by the unanimous decision of Judges at the International Grain and Hay Show at Chicago to Joseph H. B. Smith of Wolf Creek, Alberta, and formerly of Leicester, England. His farm is 400 miles north of the international boundary and 120 miles west of Edmonton. He won with a sample of Reward wheat developed at the Canadian Government Experimental Farm at Ottawa and put on the market in 1928.

May Ask Courts to Run Affairs of N.S. Town

For the first time in the history of Canada it may become necessary to place the affairs of an incorporated town into the hands of a court for administration. The affairs of the town of Dominion, Nova Scotia, have become so involved during the past few weeks, that the only apparent recourse for the appointment of officials to carry on the town's business in February or any emergency business which may confront the town, is the courts.

For the Dominion has no town council, although one was duly elected last February. Three councillors were then to be elected, and six nominees, three from the Labor party and three from a Citizen's party, were nominated. But on nomination day it was found that nominees from the Citizen's party were in arrears in their water rates. The town clerk declared their nominations irregular and, as no further nominees appeared declared the remaining three elected by acclamation on election day.

A section of the Citizen's party took the matter to the courts, and it was decided that such action by the Town Clerk was beyond his powers and the elections by acclamation were declared invalid. A date was set for appeal from this decision, but the day passed and no appeal was filed. The three councillors went completely into disarray.

Then one of the councillors missed the statutory number of meetings, for his seat to become vacant, thus leaving only one councillor and the Deputy Mayor to carry on the business of the town, since the Mayor was absent on leave.

Two councillors, one of whom is the Deputy Mayor, who must occupy the chair do not form a quorum of the council, ergo, there is no council.

Just what will be the outcome is watched with great interest by many towns in Canada who have found themselves in nearly the same situation.

This is, however, the first time a town in Canada has been without a regularly constituted body to carry on its business.

The remains of Thomas Barr arrived at Weymouth on Friday morning for interment. The late Thomas Barr was 20 years of age, and died recently in Newark, N. J., as a result of a fractured skull, caused by being assaulted.

ONE SORT OF MURDER.

It Doesn't Take Human Life, but it Shortens Its Usefulness.

Several well known financial men were talking the other day when the name of a man well known in the street for his proclivity to take up valuable time of friends with useless discourses about nothing was mentioned. One of the men in the party prominent in business and finance at once burst out with: "That man! He's a murderer."

"What's that?" said another. "I never heard that he had killed any one unless he talked them to death."

"I mean just what I say. He's a murderer on the installment plan," came the answer.

The speaker was begged to explain, and he said: "I have just so many days to live, and all of them are filled with business of importance. That man comes in and steals my time, and I claim that he has just as much murdered me as if some time in the future he had struck me down, for the time he talks with his nonsense is that much gone out of my life and is lost. I say that he is a murderer on the installment plan."

And when the other members of the party recalled the many times they had been treated in the same way by the man under discussion they agreed with the first man in his verdict.—Wall Street Journal.

LONDON'S UGLY CHURCH.

The First Sacred Edifice in the World to Be Lighted by Gas.

Readers of "Our Mutual Friend" will remember that Dickens gives a whimsical description of St. John's, Westminster, when referring to the home of the doll's dressmaker, Miss Jenny Wren.

"In this region," he writes, "are a certain little street called Church street and a certain little blind square called Smith square, in the center of which last retreat is a very hideous church, with four towers at the four corners, generally resembling some petrified monster, frightful and gigantic, on its back, with its legs in the air."

Lord Chesterfield said St. John's resembled him of an elephant with its legs in the air, and Charles Matthews likened it to a dining table in the same position.

St. John's enjoys the distinction of being the first sacred edifice in the world to be lit by gas. As may be imagined, the introduction of the new illuminant was deeply resented by some conservative spirits, some of whom went so far as to describe it as a sacrilege.—Manchester (England) Courier.

Varieties of Bridges.

Bridges are seen hanging over rivers and upon oceans. They also span some streets. They should not be confused with the game called bridge, which spans only time and money. Some bridges, like poker, depend entirely upon the draw. Bridges spend their time in having up and down and leaning against their towers. The object of bridges is to give very one a chance to get back from where he has been, or to go whence he can get back. Some-time bridges are built over railroad tracks and spend all their time in saving people from being run over. A bridge which is thus employed is very happy, because it leads an upright life; and also because the railroad company was said when obliged to put it there.

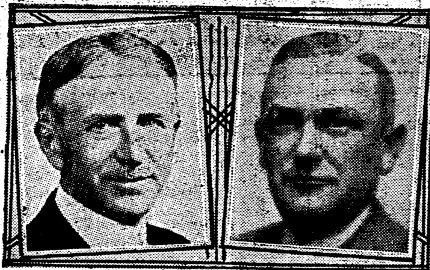

Bridges are also used over chasms. Every chasm ought to have one. It provides a place for children to fall from; also it gives the chasm something to look up to.

OVER 75 YEARS OF SUCCESS

BECOMES PRESIDENT OF FIRESTONE COMPANY

Announcement has recently been made that E. W. BeSaw (at right) formerly Vice-President and General Manager of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. of Canada, Limited has been promoted to President. Mr. BeSaw started with the company in 1909 as a salesman and has had a most brilliant career. Harvey S. Firestone (at left) rubber pioneer and one of the world's outstanding figures in commerce and industry has been made Chairman of the Board.

A new Canadian Pacific Railway station at St. Stephen, N.B., is in keeping with the progress of that maritime centre, and provides that town with the most modern facilities for handling passenger and freight traffic.

With gabled roof and single storey the building is reminiscent of the present day popular cottage style for country buildings. Above the natural stone facing on the foundation the exterior is finished in cream-colored stucco, and the doors, hotel and window-ashes are painted a pleasing brick-red that harmonizes with the general appearance of the structure.

The interior comprises a General Waiting Room, Ladies Waiting Room, Offices, Baggage Room, and Express Room and Offices. The offices are beautifully furnished in gleaming quartered oak with bronze grilles and other metal work. The ceiling is finished in ivory cement plaster, and bronze lamps suspended from the centre of the domed ceiling cast a soft light which is thrown back by the cream-colored walls. The baggage and express rooms are large and airy, with cement finished walls, floors and ceilings. In the public rooms the flooring is of Italian terrazzo in neutral tints.

The building is 111 feet in length and 26 feet broad, and was erected by the Robert Ed. Company, general contractors, of Moncton, N.B. The construction was under the supervision of J. M. Woodman, general superintendent of the New Brunswick district of the C.P.R. (Inset), and C. C. Kirby, district engineer.
