

THE DIGBY COURIER

CENTENNIAL EDITION

SEPTEMBER 18, 1974

Welcome to the Digital DIGBY COURIER

1877-1978

100th Birthday

The hundredth anniversary of the Digby Weekly Courier has brought to mind some fond memories as contained in the following historical chapter of the writer. But first, I wish to congratulate the current editor of the Courier, Mrs. J.M. (Edith) Wallis, for a job well done over the years and still being well done, good service rendered with great fortitude.

According to any record, I have at hand, the Digby Courier, in one hundred years of publication, was controlled under the same family management for 42 years, 1931 to 1973, under the control of Wallis Print Limited. The late J.J. Wallis became editor of The Courier the second time, in 1929, and at the same time of the business, which he had been running for some time previously and which became Wallis Print Limited sometime between 1929 and 1931.

I well remember the last year of the twenties when I worked in the office of the son with the husband and father of the late J.J. Wallis, the Courier. Sometime in 1928 or early 1929, the late J.M. Wallis (Mac), son of "J.J." engaged me to work every day after school hours, Saturdays, and for some months after full time. The place of work was in the building of the present Digby town hall on First Avenue. J.J. Wallis then worked occasionally at the print shop but mostly across the street at the Courier office which was then located on land in the general area where The Royal Bank of Canada is now.

Wallis Job Print operated in 1929 with a staff of four consisting of J.J. Wallis, J.M. Wallis, Miss Eva Haynes, who later became Mrs. George Kicup, and myself. I was in the staff in early 1929.

Eva's job was in the left up-stairs. "J.J." occasionally printing plant but mostly at the Courier office. "Mac" worked nearly full time at all the different jobs at the Job Print, and I worked at various duties, most of the time being spent at operating printing presses.

We worked ten-hour days, six days a week. "J.J." and "Mac" sometimes worked overtime. I worked only the regular hours being paid a weekly wage which was comparatively good for those times and my lack of experience. I received four or five dollars a week for working after school hours to six o'clock and on Saturday all day, and nine dollars a week for full weeks after finishing school. A two or three dollar a week raise was offered to me in the fall of 1929 for me to stay on at printing, but I had made up my mind to enter a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, starting salary of $300. The bank salary figured out about the same per hour as for the printing job. Nevertheless, the congenial atmosphere of the printing plant those days, and, experience however short, were helpful and appreciated by me.

"J.J." was very jovial in his occasional trip to the Job Print and did considerable kidding all in good fun. "Mac" was a witty person who mixed in a good natured sarcasm now and then for one reason or another. Eva most always had good answers to all the kidding she was called upon to take, and, generally held her own in a quiet sort of way, always busy setting type. We four all got along very well indeed. However, I do remember that some days did seem long and weary because of the monotony of some repetitious jobs.

In spite of the great demand for printing those last boom days of the twenties, business generally being brisk, it looked to me that people had to work long and hard to make any decent profit. There was including treatment of the hands. However, nails and finger ends were used and I was soon back to work.

Now and then a printing job had a dose on parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad those days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would do that job on the largest press, in spite of the fact that we always opened an outside door to lessen the effects on the constitution.

One of the jobs I had to do, being the junior and printers' devil on the staff, was to clean up now and then. One day not long after I started my job at the printing plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily, he thought the remark pretty good and suitable.

Sometimes the gasoline engine or a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and after "Mac" the fix-it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results, "Mac" would then stand back and cuss quite strenuously, then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of cussing."

On other occasions when some gadget refused duty for me and, seemed to be broken, "Mac" would say, "use a little oil," and sure enough, often that is all it took. How often since, have I thought of the value of that remark and the actual need of "oil" in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and, in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1929 got together just before dark one evening and decided to initiate the newly built outdoor Pines Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just east of the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys; no thought or time for bathing suits up to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in, the rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korean), was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent druggist for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale lobster king merchant; and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me "how about writing your version of the story told about 'The Marooning of Jerome'." I had heard and read at least two somewhat different stories about the man who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Digby County. When found this man's tongue had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and possibly of some considerable wealth. However the only thing the man could or would ever say after being found and cared for by some family in the French shore was, something that sounded like the word "Jerome". He either could not, or, would not, write anything about who he was or why he was left the way he was. Well, it was, and is, one of Digby County's mystery stories, and, different ideas have been expressed over the years concerning this man. However my response to "Mac" was, I felt no urge to write anything more or different about this man. The mystery seemed to have been very well explored in the mind of many people, and, he was a sort of curiosity for many people who visited where he lived for many years.

Three years later I was quite a young man in the street that I lived back and forth, led a boat clanking noise, powered by a small engine, and a "plur", and as I remember it, it was a "plur". "J.J." was noted for his sense of humor and his sense of humor.

Years ago, during the time Mr. Wallis was editor of the Scott Act (Prohibition Law) in the town of Digby, about and advocated by some people, a boys' conference was held in the town of Digby.

Digby 172 Years Ago

Compiled by David Sanford

From the files of the Courier of January 23, 1867, the following account has been copied concerning Digby in 1800.

"Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us by friends is a copy of the Saint John Gazette of May, 1802, says the Telegraph and among other advertisements contained in the issue before us is one describing the town and township of Digby, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this area we are told the township of Digby extends from the Gulf of Annapolis westward to the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 130,000 acres." The town plot is thus described:

"The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1783, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to older countries, left the whole side to be bought proved by about who now reside detached, built dwellings with orchards, and some fishery and. It has communal parts of the communal provisions in a cheap, built readily to be from many circumstances, probability of place of some shipbuilding, the West India a cheap and of residence.

This advertisement, dated at Digby, December, 1800, were to be a No. 100.

free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of which was some Digby's daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Melvin O. Tibert, Freeport, Digby Co.) Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters; I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print". I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like: embossing, stapling, perforating, counting, cutting and trimming paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, but, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "pi", the printers name for a confused mess.

There was a taste of trying to sell job printing outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls around town, spent most of the time at one particular house, and got an order, but,

Years ago, during the time Mr. Wallis was editor of the Scott Act (Prohibition Law) in the town of Digby, about and advocated by some people, a boys' conference was held in the town of Digby.

VOLUME LVIII, NO. 9

WHO'S WHO

(By Geo)

George C. Rooke

ONE of the great anxieties of visitors to huge exhibitions is the result of the lack of or indefinite information regarding suitable accommodation for meals and lodging. When the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference opens at Regina in 1932 these two very important matters will have been considered and provided for.

A special accommodation committee has been constituted to look after these important details and under the chairmanship of George Cyril Rooke, of Regina, is busily engaged in seeing to it that ample accommodation will be available when the thousands of visitors expected in 1932 reach the capital city of Saskatchewan.

Mr. Rooke, who is the senior partner in the chartered accountancy firm of G. C. Rooke & Company, was born at Durham, England, in 1883. Coming to Canada his education was directed toward accountancy and he is an F.C.A. and E.A.C. of the University of Saskatchewan.

There are some of the public activities of the man whose central interest in the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference is to see that all visitors are assured of adequate accommodation: Past president of the Regina Board of Trade, Regina Rotary Club, Saskatchewan Institute of Chartered Accountants, District Governor Rotary International District No. 4, president 1930-31 of the Dominion Association of Chartered Accountants.

Mr. Rooke served with the 2nd C.M.R.'s in the South African War. He founded his present business in 1912 and for some years prior was associated with several large commercial institutions of Saskatchewan in accounting work. He has served on the Senate of the University Examining Board in accounting. He is an active member of the Assiniboia Club, the Wascana Country Club, the Wascana Badminton Club and Emulation Lodge, A.F. & A.M.

The motor vessel Jessie May, Capt. Tidd, has been in port twice this past week from North Head, Grand Manan, with fresh fish.

Mitchell Lepwitsch, of Yarmouth, who has been a patient in the Digby General Hospital for the past six weeks, as the result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident at Barton, is expected to leave the hospital today, to return to his home in Yarmouth. It will be some time, however, before "Mike" will be able to get around without the aid of crutches.

The church at Port Williams tendered a reception to their new pastor and his wife, Rev. R. S. and Mrs. Gregg, on Sept. 18th. Besides a large representation of the ministers of Kings County, the pleasant function was attended by President Patterson of Acadia and Dr. Mason, Superintendent of Home Missions. Already Mr. and Mrs. Gregg have made themselves a large place in the esteem and affection of their parishioners. Mr. Gregg was for some years, pastor of the Bear River Baptist church.

On the first Sunday in September, Rev. Ellery G. Dakin entered on the sixth year of his pastorate at First Church, Sanford, Maine. During the past five years nearly 275 have been added to the membership of the church and about $14,000 has been contributed to missions, a new pipe organ installed, a church Vacation school established and other evidences of progress made. Rev. Ellery G. Dakin is a native of Centerville, in this county.

The regular monthly meeting of the executive of the Children's Aid Society will be held tomorrow afternoon, in the Town Hall, at 4 o'clock.

Rice and Amiraunt Both Found Guilty

Cleveland Rice, Bear River youth, was found guilty of manslaughter by a supreme court jury, at Little Brook, Digby County, Tuesday, and sentenced to five months in the Digby Jail. Rice was committed for trial by the Supreme Court, at a hearing before Stipendiary J. A. Taylor, at Digby, on September 19th.

The charge of manslaughter against Rice arose out of a drowning accident at Barnes' Lake, near Bear River, on Sunday afternoon, June 21st, when sixteen year old Charles Payne, lost his life. Charles Payne with Stewart Jacquet, Kenneth Rice and Lester Thomas were rowing in a punt near the shore opposite Durling's camp when the accused swam out and upset the boat, throwing the occupants into the water.

Lester Thomas was the only one of the quartette able to swim and he reached shore without assistance. Jacques was rescued by the accused, while Kenneth Rice was rescued by Percy Durland, owner of the camp. Payne went down before help could reach him. When passing the scene, Judge Graham reprimanded Rice for his careless conduct.

The other case on the docket was the case of the King vs Harvey Amerault on the charge of rape and indecent assault. The accused pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two years in Dorchester penitentiary.

Rebekah Lodge Holds Annual Roll Call

On Monday evening last, Zelma Rebekah Lodge celebrated its annual Roll Call, and as usual, with any social event carried out by this lodge, it was a great success. Almost sixty sat down to a bounteous supper about 6.30 o'clock. At the conclusion of the meal, the lodge opened its regular session, with a large attendance, after which a social hour was enjoyed. At this meeting, a few donations were received from members, at home and away, towards an endowment fund for the upkeep of the Rebekah room in the hospital.

The next social event for this lodge will be the Halloween social, which is always looked forward to as one of the liveliest socials of the kind held in the town.

Mr. Wright took charge of the meeting on Friday last and started Scout activities in earnest.

It was decided that the study work until Christmas would be on the proficiency badges. This study will prove very useful as it will help many of the boys in getting these badges.

Many new members are being received into the Scouts. Quite a number of the Cubs, having reached the age limit, are joining the Scouts. These younger members will keep the older fellows moving to keep ahead of them in the Scout work.

The Fox patrol have built a log cabin on the shores of Haines' Lake, where they spend many happy week ends. This camp life will prove very beneficial in the study of woodcraft.

On Friday night, a number of the boys went up to Mr. Layton's camp and observed with great interest, the antics and habits of the tame beavers which he has there. The boys who went and saw the animals wish to thank Mr. Layton for the hospitality shown them by him.

On Saturday afternoon there was a good attendance at the club meeting.

Many of the Cubs are joining the Scouts, and due to this, changes have been made in the Sixes; Cubes Norman Wright and Hugh Dickie have been made sixers of the White and Red Sixes.

Quite a start has been made in moving the main part of the old Viets building, lately owned and occupied by Digby Motors, on the corner of Prince William and Birch streets. Capt. Benson, of Bear River, has the work, and on Wednesday his crew got the large building off its foundation, and on the street. Yesterday they got it started on its journey to its new foundation on Maiden Lane.

Rally Day Services in The United Church

In spite of the weather, the Rally Day services in Grace United Church on Sunday were well attended. Eighty-one scholars and teachers were present at the Sunday school service in the morning. The first part consisted of the annual flower service, the first of which was held five years ago. The subject of the programme was "Stories of Jesus". It consisted largely of singing. There were also recitations by members of the school, those taking part in this way being Geraldine Syda, Edith Hazelton, Anna Turnbull, Florence Keen, and Rufus Connor. The floral decorations were very pretty and the work of the choir was well performed. Three babies received the sacrament of Baptism.

In the evening, a Rally of young people was held, the service being under the direction of the recently organized Young People's Society. The first part consisted of a responsive service entitled, "Love and Social Service". The Anti-cant class then rendered a dialogue "Members for Sale" showing the desirable and the undesirable members of a class. Two of the musical numbers were a duet by Allen and Helen Melanson, and the singing of the Soangetah Class-song.

The year 1930 has been the most successful in young people's work, in the United Church of Canada since the union in 1925. There are now 937 Sunday schools with a membership of 627,463. There are 2366 Young People's Societies, with a membership of 78,735, an increase of 133 societies during the year. The quarterly sacramental services will be held next Sunday at Digby, in the morning, and in Bay View in the afternoon. There will also be a reception of members; at the morning service.

Kiwanis Club Hear Report On Windsor Convention

The local Kiwanis boys, with a number of invited friends, had something more than a luncheon on Tuesday evening when they sat down at the tables in George Morrell's cabin, at Mountain Gap Inn. This time it was a fish chowder supper. The chowder was prepared by George Wightman—muff said—with the able assistance of Captain George Morrell and Earl Cossaboom.

After the supper, the club listened to Mr. Boden, district trustee and Harold Campbell, secretary, give their accounts of the recent convention of Kiwanis Clubs for the district of Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes. These reports were very inspiring, and gave a wonderful impression of the great work the Kiwanis Clubs are doing.

And speaking of what other Kiwanis clubs are doing, the Digby club also did something to "help the other fellows" at this meeting, by making a donation of $25 to the Children's Aid Society, and another $25 investment in future Kiwanians—the latter $25 being handed over to Scout Master O. Wright, to assist in carrying on the great work he is doing with the Digby Troop of Boy Scouts.

You can take our word for it that the Digby Kiwanis club will be doing a whole lot more of this kind of work in the near future.

A number of the members of the local club intend visiting the scouts at their club house tomorrow evening to see the moving picture made by Mr. Layton of tame beavers, at his camp. The next luncheon of the club will be held Monday noon in the Ocean Gardens.

SOUTH RANGE

A Pie Social will be held at the South Range West school, Saturday evening.

Mrs. Curtis Haight and family, of North Range also Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall and little daughter, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Marshall recently.

A Baptism was held at Porter's Lake Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, after which preaching service was held at the South Range Baptist church, Rev. F. C. Amery, of Weymouth officiating. There was a large congregation.

Mrs. Katie Douglas and family left Friday last week to visit relatives in Halifax.

Mrs. Albert Sabean and daughter are visiting at East Ferry.

Mrs. Bud Lewis and daughter Ruby, of Danvers, spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, of South Range.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Morse and Wayne Morse, of Aylesford, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Marshall over the week end.

Larry Lewis, of Danvers, spent the week end recently with his brother-in-law, Clarence Sabean, of South Range.

Ravens To Stage Benefit Bouts

On Thursday, October 8th, there will be thirty-five rounds of honest to goodness boxing in the Victoria Rink. The bouts are to be put on under the auspices of the local Red Ravens Hockey Club.

It is doubtful if ever there was a better boxing card put on in any ring in Digby; every number promises lots of action.

The main bout will be between Harry Johnson, of Halifax, former light heavyweight champion, and Howard Spriggs; Dipper Lawson, of Halifax. Maritime featherweight champion and Hector Barr, of Weymouth will meet in the semi-finals, while Banks of Bear River, and Brown, of England, will represent the heavyweight class.

The preliminaries are as follows: Winchester, of Digby, vs Parker, of Bear River; Bent, of Digby, vs Daley, of Digby; Arnold Barr, of Weymouth, vs Dixon, of Halifax; Kinsman, of Grafton, vs Parker, of Berwick.

Tom Foley will referee the bouts while James Mulcahey will be match maker and Art Andrews announcer.

For other particulars, see posters and the advertisement in this paper.

Digby Pastor's Success In Milwaukee

The auditorium of the old First Baptist Church of Milwaukee, Wis., consin, has recently been remodeled at a cost of $20,000. What was formerly a fine residential district is now occupied today by great apartments and family hotels, and this change in the environment of the church, has made necessary a program of church activities, adapted to modern conditions. For the past four years Rev. E. LeRoy Dakin, D.D., has been the pastor and the membership has doubled in that time. Dr. Dakin is a native of Centerville, Digby County, and a graduate of Acadia of the class of 1902.

The Shreve block has been undergoing repairs this week. The large window in Clinton's Confectionery store was taken out to allow for new sashes being put in. Chas. Carby did the work.

DR. VAN ALLEN'S ALL TO SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY

The Rev. William H. Van Allen, prominent churchman, well known in South's Cove and Digby, where he spent many of his summers, left his entire estate to Syracuse University, his alma mater. The Rev. Mr. Van Allen, long connected with the Episcopal church, died in Munich, Germany, August 23rd.

The Old Colony Trust Company, of Boston, executors of the will, said the last known will of the Rev. Mr. Van Allen left property in excess of $100,000 to Syracuse University. The officials said that unless another will is found the available document will be filed for probate in the Suffolk County Court in about a week.

FOOLS AND MONEY

Bruce Barton, editorial writer and advertising counsel, recently wrote that he has a friend, William Feather, in Cleveland, who has a saying: "When I see boys rolling in money, boys whom I wouldn't hire to wash the rollers in my printing plant—when that day comes around again, I shall rush to my bank and sell every share of stock I own. God never intended that fools should make a better living than honest workers. Whenever a situation arises in which they do, I know it is contrary to the fundamental laws of the universe and cannot last."

Too Busy To Live.

(For Persons Afflicted with Hurryitis)

He hadn't time to greet the day.
He hadn't time to laugh or play;
He hadn't time to wait a while,
He hadn't time to give a smile;
He hadn't time to glean the news,
He hadn't time to dream or muse;
He hadn't time to train his mind,
He hadn't time to be just kind;
He hadn't time to see a joke,
He hadn't time to write his folks;
He hadn't time to eat a meal,
He hadn't time to deeply feel;
He hadn't time to take a rest,
He hadn't time to act his best;
He hadn't time to help a cause,
He hadn't time to make a pause;
He hadn't time to pen a note,
He hadn't time to cast a vote;
He hadn't time to sing a song,
He hadn't time to right a wrong;
He hadn't time to send a gift,
He hadn't time to practice thrift;
He hadn't time to exercise,
He hadn't time to scan the skies;
He hadn't time to say good-bye;
He hadn't time to study noise;
He hadn't time to repress noise;
He hadn't time to go abroad,
He hadn't time to serve his God;
He hadn't time to lend or give;
He hadn't time to really live;
He hadn't time to read this verse,
He hadn't time—he's in a hurry

YOU NEVER CAN TELL

You never can tell when you sent a word
Like an arrow shot from a bow
By an archer blind—he is cruel or kind,
Just where it will chance to go.
It may pierce the breast of your dearest friend,
Tipped with its poison or balm;
To a stranger's heart in life's great mart,
It may carry its pain or its calm.

You never can tell when you do an act,
Just what the result will be;
But with every deed you are sowing a seed,
Though its harvest you may not see.

Each kindly act is an acorn dropped in God's productive soil;
Though you may not know, yet the tree shall grow
—And shelter the brows that toll.

You never can tell what your thoughts will do
In bringing you hate or love;
For thoughts are things, and their airy wings
Are swifter than carrier doves.
They follow the law of the universe—
Each thing must create its kind;
And they speed o'er the track to bring you back Whatever went out from your mind.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Mr. Perkins—"Do you act to before your wife the way you did before you married her?"
Mr. Livingston—"Exactly. I remember just how I used to act when I first fell in love with her. I used to lean over the fence in front of her house and gaze at her shadow on the curtain, afraid to go in, I act the same way now."

36th. Annual Convention of Nova Scotia W.C.T.U.

Report by Mrs. John Roop, of Bear River, a Delegate from Weymouth.

The 36th. Annual Convention of the Nova Scotia Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at Wolfville recently, opening Tuesday morning and continuing until Thursday night.

There were over 60 delegates in attendance from all parts of the province. Morning and afternoon business sessions, held in the Baptist church hall, were well attended, interesting and profitable. The evening meetings were open to the public and were held in St. Andrew's church and the Baptist church alternately.

The officers were elected as follows:

Hon. President—Mrs. O. C. Whitman, Canso.
President—Mrs. H. P. Newcombe, Halifax.
1st. Vice President—Mrs. B. C. Morrison, Halifax.
2nd. Vice President—Mrs. (Dr.) McCaulay, Sydney.
Cor. Secretary—Mrs. A. L. Powers, Lunenburg.
Rec. Secretary—Mrs. J. W. Turner, Kentville.
Treasurer—Mrs. J. S. Harris, Kentville.

Young People's Band Sec'y—Mrs. Karl Dimock, Windsor.
Loyal Temperance Legion Sec'y—Mrs. W. A. Porter, Coldbrook.

The Badge: A Knot of "White Ribbon".
The Pledge: "I hereby promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled, fermented and malt liquor, including wine, beer, and cider, as a beverage, and to employ all proper means to discourage the use and traffic in the same."

At the opening session, the devotional service was conducted by the Evangelistic Sup't. Mrs. J. Turner, who took as her main theme, "Speak to the Women of Nova Scotia that They Go Forward,"—a very fine basis for the convention.

The Business sessions were presided over by the President, Mrs. H. P. Newcombe, Halifax. Reports were presented by the Superintendents of the various depts., viz:

"Evangelism"—Mrs. Turner, Kentville.
"Christian Citizenship"—Mrs. Banks, Waterville.
"Christian Stewardship"—Miss Hogan, South Berwick.
"Temperance Work in Sabbath Schools"—Mrs. Palmer, Berwick.

"Anti-Narcotic," and Scientific Temperance Instruction—Mrs. V. L. Miller, Halifax.
At this point the writer gave a report of her work on "Temperance and Anti-Narcotics" in the Oakdene School, Bear River, in 1930-31, when short addresses were given in all 6 depts., and "Pledge Cards" were signed by the pupils of Grades 7 to 11, inclusive. Just a beginning of what we know will follow.

Another splendid report was of the work done by the Travelers' Aid, represented at Dartmouth by Mrs. Andrew Conrad, and at North Sydney by Mrs. J. Fraser. These two efficient workers meet the trains and boats, giving help and guidance to hundreds in nearly all walks of life—to the lonely, timid and moneyless, often 'tis a case of "Rescue Work." In guiding travellers to hotels, the liquor houses are hummed. "God bless our 'Travelers' Aid'."

The work of "Scientific Temperance Instruction," including "Anti-Narcotics" was given by Mrs. (Dr.) Miller, Halifax. She strongly advocated it being taught in our day schools and Sunday schools.

Often through the sessions the subject of "Government sale of Liquor" was discussed and very strongly denounced as a terrible menace to our "Fair Dominion," and in this, we have an earnest champion of our cause in Sir George Foster, who proclaims that so-called "Government Control" is a "failing experiment," and statistics prove that Sir George is right.

Also it is very encouraging to be able to state that the Superintendent of Education, Dr. H. F. Munroe, heartily co-operates in the work on Total Abstinence and Anti-Narcotics in the public schools, thus laying a strong foundation for fine citizenship by the "flower of our land," our boys and girls of today.

Already several public schools in Nova Scotia are giving instruction in Temperance, among them being Wolfville, Lunenburg, Berwick, Halifax, Baddeck and Sydney, etc. Let us endeavour to keep "Oakdene" in the front ranks of such instruction, realizing that our boys and girls of today are the men and women of tomorrow. But the hearty co-operation of the parings is needed.

Special pleas for the W. C. T. U. to stress the work against "Government Sale of Liquor" were put forth by the President, Mrs. Newcombe, Mrs. J. N. Chute, Mrs. V. L. Miller and others, that our home influence must turn the tide against alcohol.

These were followed by heart-felt prayer by Miss Blackmore, Yarmouth, a former missionary in Japan, and a close friend of the late Miss Florence Vroom, of Bear River.

At our first evening meeting a fine report of the World's W. C. T. U. Convention at Toronto last June, was given by the Cor. Sec'y, Mrs. Powers. At that Convention 39 countries of the world were represented. Four from Nova Scotia were in attendance. This report was followed by an inspiring address by Rev. Mr. Fraser, at the close of which he wished for the Women's Christian Temperance Union a "wonderful progress under full sail, and with a flowing tide."

The address on Wednesday evening was given by Rev. Clarence McKinnon, Halifax, a firm champion of the cause of the W. C. T. U.

The address Thursday evening was given by Rev. Tom McDormand, a Bear River boy, now pastor of the Middleton United Baptist church. He stressed caution to the young folks to be on the side of Total Abstinence.

At all of the evening meetings they were delightfully entertained with fine vocal solos and pipe organ selections.

On Wednesday evening the delegates were guests of the Wolfville W. C. T. U., at a very nice supper in the Baptist church. The visiting clergymen were also guests.

On Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock the delegates were guests on auto drives to Evangelical Park, Gaspeaux Valley, Port Williams, Kentville, and back to Whitman Hall.

Ere the sessions closed, Mrs. (Dr.) McCaulay, Sydney, extended, on behalf of that Union a cordial invitation to meet in Sydney in 1932.

Delicate Child

One of five girls all of whom took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic).

Now a Fine Healthy Woman

"I was the eldest of five girls," writes Mrs. A. G. Richardson, 202 Lancaster St. West, Kitchener, Ontario, "and my mother gave Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to us all. My youngest sister was very delicate. She was nearly thirteen when mother took her to the doctor and he said 'Give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills like you gave the other girls.' Mother did so, and today she is married, and is a fine healthy woman."

The iron and other elements in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic) increase the amount of haemoglobin or oxygen-carrying agent in the blood. The increased supply of oxygen kindles life in all your tissues. The result is a better appetite, a feeling of well-being, and restful sleep.

Begin now to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. 50 cents a package at any drug-gist's. Be sure to say "Dr. Williams'." So that the druggist will know exactly what you want.

You Never Can Tell

A man in Kent recently tried to see how close he could hold a match to a can of gasoline without having a fire. He never found out, for he was buried Monday. Monkeying with buzzsaws, discharging unloaded guns, and doing other damphool stunts have caused many unnecessary deaths, but it would seem hardly possible, with so general a knowledge of the explosive qualities of gasoline, to have a man who would try so foolish a trick as that. Well, you never can tell.—New Milford Times.

Nearly eighty-two years ago Mr. Foster was born at Hampton, a son of the late Van-Buren Foster. He was an industrious hard working man, an obliging neighbour and a faithful friend. He had the respect and esteem of the community generally. He had been able to engage in work until a short time before the end came. The funeral took place on Tuesday, with interment at Port Wade, conducted by Rev. B., of Carl Denton, third son of Postmaster and Mrs. Joseph Potter of that place. Mr. Potter had been teller in the Bank of Nova Scotia, East Florenceville, N. B., since last October, and had just returned there on Friday from his vacation spent at his home with his parents. He was operated on for appendicitis in the hospital at Woodstock the day following his return from his vacation and apparently was on the road to recovery, when he had a relapse on Friday and a second operation was performed late that evening to which he succumbed on Saturday morning. Previous to Mr. Potter's transfer to East Florenceville, he had for some years been employed in the Bank of Nova Scotia, Digby. He was a young man of sterling qualities and his sudden passing has left a vacancy not only in his immediate family but with a wide circle of friends in Digby and Yarmouth Counties, as well as in the place where he resided.

Eastern Steamship Lines

Name New Steamers

O'Donnell, President of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., announced this week that names have been chosen for the two big liners, which the Company is having built by the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Company at Newport News, Virginia, one to operate between Boston and Saint John, N.B., and the other between New York and Yarmouth.

The ship which will run between Boston and Saint John is to be christened the "SAINT JOHN" and is to be launched on January 9, 1932. The one that will enter the New York-Yarmouth service is to be named the "ACADIA" and will be launched on February 23, 1932. The former vessel is expected to go into service on May First, and the latter on June Fifteenth.

The two vessels are to be twenty knot ships, costing $3,500,000 apiece, each with a passenger carrying capacity of about eight hundred, and they will be the most modern steamers in the Atlantic Coastwise trade. In letters to the Eastern Steamship Lines, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia officials have lavished in their congratulations to Captain O'Donnell on his decision to place two such splendid ships in the service between American and Nova Scotia and New Brunswick ports.

Lightning Razes Barn and Contents

A severe thunder storm passed over the Western portion of Digby County, Tuesday night of last week. The lightning hit a while was fierce, while the peals of thunder made the windows rattle as by an earthquake. It lasted over an hour, while the rain was falling in torrents throughout. At Lake Doucet, the lightning struck the barn of Eddie L. Deveau, burning it to the ground with all its contents, except a pig and a car. All the season's hay, grains and some farming implements became the prey of the flames. If it had not been for the heavy downpour, the dwelling and also the residence and barn of Arthur Melanson would have been in great danger. Four places were struck in Port Maitland, just over the border in Yarmouth county.

Mrs. Harry C. Anthony, of Bear River, has taken over her duties as house mother for the Y. W. C. A. residence, Saint John, and will supervise the extensive renovations which will be carried out to make the residence specially attractive for the girls. Mrs. Anthony has been a leader in the C. G. I. T. work for the past ten years, and has conducted many summer camps for girls. She has been a teacher of piano, a church organist and choir leader in various Nova Scotia centres for fifteen years. She delights in girls' work and has readily won the girls' affectionate regard.

Mrs. Anthony comes of a family well known in the Maritime Provinces. Her father is Frank Jones, E. C. of Digby. Rev. F. M. Milligan, for several years Presbyterian and United Church Young People's secretary for the Maritime Provinces and now Young People's secretary in Regina, Sask., is a half-brother, as was also the late James Milligan, at one time general manager of the Saint John Daily Telegraph. Trinity Church Sunday Bulletin

The services in Trinity Church on Sunday will be in the nature of Harvest Home services. At 8 a.m. there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion, Mattins at 11 a.m., in the evening the choir will render a Harvest Cantata. The Sunday school will be held in the church at 10 o'clock in the morning and not after the morning service. The scholars are keenly interested in a corner of the church set aside for their use; it will be called a "Children's Corner" where the little ones can assemble for the Sunday school sessions. This corner is to be fitted up like a little church so that the children can come there and sit even during the regular services. The Rector will be pleased to accept pictures to be hung on the walls of this corner of the church. The members of Trinity are asked to send their donations for Harvest Thanksgiving decorations not later than Saturday morning.

A cluster of pear blossoms from a tree on the Fairmount Poultry Farm property was handed in to this office on Tuesday by Dominique Melanson.

PROSPECTING FOR COAL, DISCOVER OIL

The work of prospecting for hard coal at Acadiaville is still being carried on, and with a fair amount of success. Test holes are being dug in many places and on the Franklin Farm a long ditch varying in depth from two to six feet has been dug across what is supposed to be the coal bearing ledge. Loose coal has been found in many places, but it is now supposed that the seam is under the ledge. Steps are being taken to get a drill, and we understand that the C. P. R. is ready and willing to stand behind the project.

One important discovery is the presence of oil bearing shale, and its presence lends further color to the theory that the coal is there. It is said that oil bearing shale and anthracite coal are always found together.

All of our readers who drive cars will remember the spring which is always to be seen in the middle of the main highway, in front of John McGuire's residence, at Smith's Cove. Examination this week shows that that spring is mere of an oil spring than it is a water spring. At times, a thin bubble of oil about as big as the end of a lead pencil, can be seen on the surface. The presence of oil has been noticed for years, but it was thought that it was merely the leakage from the hundreds of cars which pass that spot every day. Oil slicks, supposed to have been from decaying fish or other refuse, have been noticed many times on the waters of the Jogin and in the Acadia Valley Brook, but during the past few days investigation has shown that these oil slicks are coming from the land.

MARITIME NURSES EULOGIZED

The high professional standing of Maritime nurses in Boston, who recently were ousted from their positions in municipal institutions to give employment to naturalized citizens, is enthusiastically indorsed by The Berkshire Courier (Great Barrington, Massachusetts) in a recent issue in which the dismissal of Canadian nurses is strongly condemned. "A large percentage of these girls," notes the Courier, "come from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. They have always been of a very superior type of young womanhood, devoted to duty, honest, cheerful and trustworthy and in many, many instances very superior nurses."

DISCOVER RICH LEAD OF GOLD

On a new lead of the old Boston-Richmond mine, at East Goldbrook, Halifax County, on Saturday last, a blast set off by Edgar, Frank and Harry Silver, who have been prospecting there for three months, uncovered a seam of gold bearing quartz, estimated to yield over $400 to the ton, and samples of the quartz with the gold outcroppings, were taken to Halifax Sunday night on the Chedabucto, by Captain Paul J. Cooper, owner of the mine.

OBITUARY

Edmund Trask, formerly of Little River, Digby Co., Nova Scotia, passed away at his home in Roslindale Mass., Thursday morning, October 1st, 1931.

Simple, but beautiful, and impressive services were conducted at Mr. Trask's residence by Rev. H. S. Campbell of the Roslindale Baptist Church. The Unity male quartette, of Boston, sang the following hymns: "They will be done," "Tell me the story of Jesus" and "The old rugged cross."

Burial was in Walnut Hill cemetery, Brookline, on Tuesday. Until the last year or two, Mr. Trask enjoyed remarkably good health, and was an active and busy man as most men who are twenty years younger. He always enjoyed the company of young people and children, as well as that of the older persons. He had a host of friends, and no enemies.

During considerable periods, since the latter part of last winter, Mr. Trask suffered intensely. In April he underwent a serious operation for a growth inside a vertebra. Later, painful internal complications developed.

The end, therefore, was expected. And it was equally peaceful. It came in the house which he had built with his own hands, in the town where he had spent the last twenty-five years of his life, and where, as a carpenter, he had virtually built himself into the community.

The love and esteem and sorrow of Mr. Trask's immediate relatives and intimate friends in Boston and vicinity were but partially and inadequately expressed by their presence at the funeral services, and by the banks of cut flowers which filled the room where he lay. Among the floral expressions were a magnificent piece from the Boston Carpenter's Union, of which he was a member, and one from the Paine Furniture Company, of Boston, by which the son, Shannon, is employed. Messages were received from relatives in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Out-of-town relatives and friends present at the services included Mr. and Mrs. Burwell McDormand, of Detroit, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. J. Melbourne Shortliffe, of Hamilton, N. Y.

Mr. Trask is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mina Trask, formerly Miss Mina Hall, of Rossway; his sons, Vernon, of Roslindale, and Shannon, of Brookline; his daughters, Mrs. Stanley Weir, of Atlantic, Mass., and Mrs. Gay Morgan, of Brookline; nine grandchildren; his brothers, Herbert, of Roxbury, Mass., Joseph and Byron, of Little River, Digby Co.; and his sisters, Mrs. Howard Denton, Mrs. Martha Denton, Mrs. Emmertine Trask, Mrs. Walter Denton, and Mrs. Burton Frost, all of Little River, and Mrs. Harry Ingalls, of North Head, Grand Manan, N. B.

Mr. Trask was a member of the Little River Baptist Church.

Moses M. Saulnier

The death occurred at his home in Mayflower, Thursday, Oct. 1st, of Moses M. Saulnier, 62, at the age of 68 years. Deceased was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mark Saulnier, and was born at Mayflower. He had been in poor health for sometime. About six months ago, he was appointed Justice of the Peace. Besides his wife, whose maiden name was Miss Jacqueline Doucet, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen A. Doucet, of Cape St. Mary, he leaves six sons, Othaire, Joseph, Eugene, Emile, Stephen, Henry and Charley and four daughters, Mrs. Agno Trohon, of Maville; Lucy, Sophie and Agnes; also one brother, Louis Saulnier, of Mayflower. His son, Othaire, was in the United States, but he arrived before his father's death. The funeral took place Saturday morning from St. Vincent de Paul church, at Salmon River, with High Mass of Requiem celebrated by the Rev. Father A. Maillet, rector.

Mrs. Aimee Comeau

There passed away at her home, Church Point, on Wednesday last, Mrs. Aimee Comeau, wife of Camille Comeau, surveyor. She has been ailing for some time. For many years she was a leading member in the choir of St. Mary's Church. Besides her husband and adopted son, Moise Blinn, she is survived by five sisters—Mrs. James O'Hara, Auburn, N. J.; Mrs. William Doucet, New Edinburgh; Mrs. Denis Dugas, Ohio; Mrs. Louis LeBlanc, Comeauville; and Miss Therese Melanson, Boston, an adopted sister. The funeral took place last Friday. The priests, relatives, friends and the ladies of the

DIGBY FACING A SERIOUS PROBLEM

Although there is very little unemployment, comparatively speaking, in Digby it looks now as though Digby will have a real unemployment problem to face this winter, but not from the standpoint of local labor. The source of Digby's trouble will be the unemployment situation in other towns.

Since early this spring, men have been arriving in town looking for work or for a chance to cross the bay. It has not been an unusual thing to be stopped on the street by some stranger and asked for sums, ranging from ten cents to a dollar, for a meal, or a cigarette. These men have been drifting into town from day to day, the most of them riding "blind baggage" on the trains. Most of them are destitute.

And yet it would be unfair to call them "bums" or "hoboes". The majority of them would be willing to work if work for them could be had. The fact that they are honest is quite evident, for during the summer months, there has been practically no burglaries or petty thievery.

Chief of Police Cowan has done the best he could for these men. He has given many of them a night's lodging in the jail, and helped others out of town—but, winter is coming. The nights are already getting cooler.

Unemployed men are still arriving in town, sometimes as many as six and seven a day.

The jail is full—they cannot be given a night's lodging there. Something must be done, but what? They cannot be allowed to roam the streets all night—such an act would not be fair to the citizens of Digby—neither it would be a Christian thing to do.

Then, as winter draws near, there will be the temptation for some of these men to commit some little misdemeanor with the hope of getting a light sentence so that they will be sure of warmth and food for a few months at least.

There is no doubt about it—the problem is a serious one.

Dr. H. W. Kirkpatrick, of Halifax, will at his office in Middleton, for treatment of diseases of the eye, nose and throat, on Tuesday, October 13th, and Wednesday, October 14th. Glasses fitted.

Society of St. Ann, of which Mrs. Comeau was a member, met at the home and marched in procession to St. Mary's Church. High mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Dreand, with Rev. Fathers Gilman and Comeau, diacre and sous diacre. Professor Ulyse Comeau, organist, and the full choir sang the mass of requiem.

Benjamin J. Jedrey

The Gloucester, Mass., Times of Friday, says—Benjamin J. Jedrey, who engaged in fishing out here for a number of years, died at Sailor's Snug Harbor, Staten Island, N. Y., yesterday morning. He was in his 63rd year.

Mr. Jedrey was born in Digby County, N. S., son of Peter B. and Madeline (Robishaw) Jedrey. He is survived by a widow, Mary J. (Jedrey); a daughter, Priscilla N. Jedrey, of 128 East Main street, and a brother, Henry Jedrey, of Salmon River, N. S.

The deceased began fishing out of this port at the age of 18 and afterward worked on the wharf of the Booth Fisheries Company, up to five years ago, when he went to Sailors' Snug Harbor.

William Saulnier

The death took place at the Yarmouth Hospital, Wednesday morning of William Saulnier, of Church Point, Digby county, after a lingering illness. He was about 65 years of age and leaves his widow and two daughters; also one sister, Miss Kate Saulnier, in Massachusetts, and three brothers, Philip and Edward, Massachusetts, and Philippe, of Church Point, to mourn.

Mrs. Thomas C. Shreve

On Wednesday, Oct. 7th, after a long illness, the death occurred of Mary A. Shreve, wife of the late Thomas C. Shreve, K. C. Mrs. Shreve was the daughter of Charles H. and Mary A. Dakin, and was born at Digby, on January 10th, 1864. She is survived by one son, Richmond S. Shreve, of Halifax; and three daughters, Mrs. H. G. Morse, of Boston, Mass., and the Misses Marion and Edith Shreve, at home; also one sister, Mrs. S. R. Smith, of Norwood, Mass.

The meeting of the Grace United Church Young People's Society last Thursday was well attended. Sixteen new members joined; making the charter membership forty-one. The Constitution was adopted, and a programme of meetings to the end of December. The next meeting will be October 15th, and will be a union one with the Young People's Society of the Weymouth United Church.

Almost a century and a half ago, when the old Methodist church, in Barrington, was built, John Wesley himself presented it with a brass chandelier, of course, at that time made to hold candles. With the advent of oil lamps, this chandelier had to go and was stored away with other rubbish for years. But now hydro has come in and quite recently the old chandelier was brought out of retirement and wired, and again John Wesley's gift is lighting the church in Barrington—the new church, not the old one, which is still standing.

Digby Kiwanis Club Meeting

The weekly luncheon of the Digby Kiwanis Club was held on Monday at the Ocean Gardens when Mr. C. Denton presided. Dr. W. R. Dick, gave a very interesting description of a recent visit to the West Indies, speaking of the warmth and glorious vegetation in the months of December and January, when Nova Scotians are feeling the chill of the Northern winter. The interest in the club luncheons is being well maintained.

What has become of the old-time whittler, and why his disappearance? A half-century ago almost every man carried a good pocket knife, and when he stopped at any occasion he took his knife from his pocket and began whittling. At that time many men carried in their pocket, a stick, or block of wood known as a whittling stick. It was some soft wood, soft pine being favorite timber for whittling. The early settlers greatly enjoyed whittling, for pastime, and many of them were real artists with a pocket knife. It is nearly a lost art. One hardly ever sees a little pile of whittlings in front of a country store nowadays or around the stove in the winter.

Mrs. Watkins—And how did you enjoy your visit to Boston?
Mrs. Hopkins—Oh, very much, except that I missed my morning cup of Morse's Tea. They have no such tea in Boston.

The steam yacht, Blue Dolphin, Capt. Haskell, arrived from Shelburne on Saturday and cleared for Eastport, Maine. Fred Peck, formerly of Digby, is steward.

The Digby Hospital wish to express their thanks to Mrs. Wallace Wright, of Barton, who made a donation of a bed-foot case.

The motor vessel, Earl H., Capt. Halliday, with fresh fish, arrived from North Head on Monday, and cleared to return.

WHEN YOU HEAR A KINDLY PHRASE, PASS IT ON.

If you hear a person complimented, why don't you find an opportunity to tell him about it?

This world needs more pleasant reports and fewer biting criticisms. If you want to be popular, remember the nice things which one person says of another and tell them.

It is such a little thing to repeat a compliment.

No matter how big and important the man or the woman, a genuine compliment gives pleasure.

You like to hear pleasant things about yourself.

You feel that what you do is "not much", and that you are given little credit.

And at the same time you seldom give or repeat compliments.

Life has hard roads a plenty, pain and discouragements not a few.

If you can make sad experiences less painful by saying a kind word, why not do it?

Desist from repeating the evil things you hear.

THE LEVEL AND THE SQUARE

We meet upon the level and we part upon the square.

What words of precious meaning those words Masonic are!

Come, let us contemplate them, they are worthy of a thought.

In the very soul of Masonry these precious words are wrought.

We meet upon the level thought from every station come.

The rich man from his mansion and the poor man from his home.

For the one must leave his heritage outside the Mason's door.

While the other finds his best respect upon the checkered floor.

We part upon the square, for the world must have its due.

We mingle with the multitude, a faithful band and true.

But the influence of our gatherings in memory is green.

And we long upon the level, to renew the happy scene.

There's a world where all are equal, we are journeying towards it fast.

We shall meet upon the level there when the gates of death are past.

We shall stand before the orient and our master will be there.

To try the blocks we offer with his unerring square.

We shall meet upon the level, but never thence depart.

There's a mansion 'tis already for each faithful, trusting heart.

There's a mansion and a welcome, and a multitude is there.

Who have met upon the level and been tried upon the square.

Let us meet upon the level, then, while laboring patient here.

Let us meet and let us labor, though the labor is severe;

Already in the Western sky, the signs bid us prepare

To gather up our working tools and part upon the square.

Hands round ye faithful Masons in the bright, fraternal chain!

We part upon the square below to meet in Heaven again.

Oh! what words of precious meaning those words Masonic are!

We meet upon the level and we part upon the square.

ACIDITY FOR 10 YEARS

Before he Found the Remedy

Many people endure suffering unnecessarily. This man did. If he had known ten years ago what he knows today, he would have been spared a great deal of suffering.

"I feel I must write a few lines in appreciation of your Kruschen Salts. I have suffered for 10 years from chronic acidity of the stomach. I tried nearly everything, until I was advised by a friend to try Kruschen, which I have taken for the last two months, and I am pleased to say I have had no return of the acidity."—W. B.

Kruschen Salts swiftly neutralizes acid, takes all the torment out of it, and gently expels it from the system. And by stimulating your organs of elimination to perfect regular action, Kruschen will prevent this harmful acid from ever accumulating again. After that you'll experience no more misery after meals. Kruschen will keep your inside clean and serene. Pure and invigorated blood will be sent coursing to every part of your body. You'll feel wonderfully energetic and well. As healthy and hearty as it is humanly possible to feel.

LETTERS

Think twice before you write a letter.

The things to say, the words to find. Will it make someone happier, better.

More pure of heart, more clean of mind.

Or make the eyes a little wetter. With thoughts unkind?

Think twice before you write a letter.

Shall what you write seem sweet as clover.

More firmly bind and closer bend. Or shall it say that all is over.

And at an end?

Think twice, Life's sea may more divide us.

Or may unite us good or ill. Our letters ships to those denied us.

That make them near or farther still. Yes they may come and sit beside us.

If we but will.

Think twice before a letter leaves you.

And if your pen was dipped in gall.

Though friends are false, though love deceives you.

Though visions fade and castles fall—

Then you would better, though it grieves you.

Not write at all.

—Douglas Malloch

Even in these days of telegraphs, cables and marconigrams, how happy we are made by letters. But it is surprising how many otherwise well-bred and charming people excuse themselves by saying, "Letter writing is such a task for me," and neglect writing the courteous and grateful letters which while they take only a few minutes to write, mean so much to the recipient.

An interesting letter writer usually glories in their gift, and what a gift it is, for it makes so many others happy. For our mind letters express a person's character better and more clearly than most anything else. Letters of a good letter writer always seem so intensely and honestly human, they seem to pour themselves out and breathe into what they write no matter whether it be tinged with quaint and whimsical humor or with sadness and disappointment.

Letters are the next best thing to a talk with the writer of them themselves. How much they mean to us, especially when we are separated from our friends and homes—they seem to bring a note of friendliness, love and cheer from those absent ones.

The first private letter written in the English language is stated to have been written in 139, John Pelehan by his wife in 139. Until the accession of Edward I. Latin was the language in which all letters and communications were written. The French predominated until the reign of Edward III. An Act of Parliament then provided that the English language should be used in future.

Besides the friendly letters which we all love to get, and the business letters which we should never fail to answer promptly, we should not forget the letters of condolence mean a great deal to a heart which is aching with the sense of irretrievable loss. The letters of thanks which should be written, no matter how small the gift may have been. The letters of congratulation—and perhaps, most important of all, the "bread-and-butter" letters which we should not fail to write immediately we return home, if only for a week end visit.

In closing we will quote a paragraph from an article by George Matthews Adams, in which he says: "I have been thinking what an event Letter Day might be! That is one day set apart from all others during the year, when everybody should write a letter—no matter to whom—Mother, Father, Brother, Sister, Friend, Wife, Husband (if separated), Sweetheart. But a letter to someone."

Your letter colored all my day. And made each hour a lovely thing. Each minute was a little bird That could not help but sing. That could not help but lift its voice In song for joy that it was born. Your letter colored all my day. To night from early morn.

St. Anne's College Opens; Archbishop O'Donnell Visits The University

The students of St. Anne's College again returned to their studies on the 9th, of September. More than thirty new boys swell their ranks to share the benefits of that high standard of intellectual and moral training that makes St. Anne's renowned. Many of the new boys belong to the several parishes along St. Mary's Bay and Yarmouth County, although some come from New Brunswick and Cape Breton, and even from Quebec Province, and from distant New York.

It would be unfair to say that on kissing their parents good-bye and turning towards St. Anne's, the boys bid farewell too to their sports and publications of vacation life. Our boys cherish their gymnasium bars and rings, tennis and basket-ball courts already experience the renewal of enthusiastic activities.

It is true, study and class hours throw them into much thought and reflection. And no wonder when such words as biology, geology, astronomy, trigonometry, cosmography philosophy, etc., are kept humming about their ears. A clumsy Latin version or Greek version, a "fine pointed French or English text, or a donkey-bridge in geometry, serves to bring their brain to the elastic limit or to the boiling point. But as a gradual ray of light breaks in upon their mind's eye, a look of well earned satisfaction settles on their face and smooths away a wrinkle from their forehead. The bell then rings them to the playing grounds where games are taken up and fresh activities are resumed. The boys love their games; they love their masters; and do full justice to the many advantages pushed into their way. "Play well, study well, play well and eat well" appears to be their motto, once settled down in earnest to their year's duties.

The 24th of September was a memorable day at St. Anne's. The boys had felt it long before they knew the exact nature of the event. An unusual stir in the halls, flags being hoisted, emblems of welcome strung to the walls, spoke of some distinguished visitor, and made them all alert. The fact was that His Excellency Archbishop O'Donnell, of Halifax was about to honor St. Anne's with his gracious presence that day. At 12.30 p.m., his motor car drew up before the College, and His Grace received a cordial welcome from the Faculty of Eudist Fathers.

The reception awaited him in the spacious assembly hall where the student-body had now gathered, and the band played. A volley of deafening applause fell upon his ears as His Grace appeared within view. Rev. Dr. O. Le Gresley, lately appointed superior of the College, addressed the superior of the College, assuring him of the signal honor and delight it was for St. Anne's to receive him as the first distinguished visitor of the present school year and asking him to accept the assurance of the entire submission and devotedness of all. He stressed the thought that the interests of the College in its work are precisely those most dear to His Grace, namely to promote trained and enlightened citizens for tomorrow in all walks of life whether for the church or for the State.

His Excellency replied to the address in both French and English. His lovely personality with warmth and goodness so well blended, impressed all present. He was sorry, he said, that St. Anne's is so far away from Halifax, for he would delight in paying frequent visits there. He dwelt on the privileges a student of St. Anne's enjoys, namely that of acquiring a perfect command of both the English and French languages in a country where both tongues are not merely useful but necessary in order to carry on a fruitful career in manhood. He urged the boys to take advantage of every opportunity offered to develop their mind and to mould their will and character so as to go out into the world with a purpose in view and the courage of their convictions. His closing words provoked overwhelming applause, for he so thoughtfully declared that a holiday should be played by the band brought the reception to a close.

The promised holiday granted the students should be a memorable one they thought, and so a bold idea (not to say a very imprudent one) cropped into their minds. They de-

Need to challenge the Milton baseball team of Yarmouth town. Milton willingly responded to the challenge, and our boys having cast the die, had now but to rally courage and make the best of what they had bargained for. The fixed date was the 29th, of September; and at 3.30 p.m. that day, with perfect weather, the struggle began. It was a game of intense interest from start to finish. Professors of the Faculty declared that never had there been better baseball played at St. Anne's. The Milton pitcher was the so well known N. Bain, who, two years ago, pitched for the Yarmouth's when they carried the honors of the Maritime championship. The College pitcher was Louis Thibodeau, so well known along St. Mary's Bay and in Yarmouth County.

The first inning brought Milton one run; and then up to the 7th, inning the score remained 1 to 0. All who witnessed the game appeared spell bound with interest. In the 7th, inning the students by double batting brought in three runs, and neither side scored through the final part of the game. St. Anne's had then carried the day. It had been nobly won and nobly fought by both opposing teams. Cheer after cheer rang from one side to the other; and the applause tendered both teams marked the students' appreciation of a perfect game. As a tangible remembrance of the day, St. Anne's boys insisted on photographing their visiting friends. The latter were shown through the College, and then amid mutual shouts and cheers, the Milton Braves drove away in their cars. Praised be St. Anne's and to Milton, three cheers.

Harvest Home Service At Rossway.

All Saints' Church, Rossway, was crowded to the doors on Friday evening last when the annual Harvest Thanksgiving service was held in the little church on the hill. Trinity Choir rendered Thanksgiving music in a most pleasing manner and the Rector, Rev. A. E. Gabriel, preached from the text "Thou crownest the year, with Thy goodness." The church, was beautifully decorated with the harvest of land and sea, clusters of grapes hanging from the electric fixtures, wheat artistically arranged around the walls, fruit and vegetables grouped about the chancel and gorgeous flowers adorned the altar. We wish to thank the people from Gulliver's Cove, Waterford, Centreville, Rossway and others who gave so generously of their time and substance to make this great Fellowship Service such a success. Services are held in Rossway church every Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

At the meeting on Friday night the Proficiency test write-up resulted in a tie between the Fox and Bear Patrols. The tests dealt with were Airman's, Ambulance and Accidents. Successful Young People's Rally at Bear River

A well balanced programme, excellent leadership, congenial fellowship, beautiful location and ideal weather conditions combined to make the District Rally of the Baptist Young People of Digby-Annapolis an outstanding success. More than 75 local and visiting young people were in attendance during the week-end. Some for a day, others for only a meeting or two, many for the entire period. Representatives registered from the following places, Middleton, Mount Hailey, Lawrenceville, Clarence, Paradise, Bridgetown, Annapolis, Clements, Bear River, Digby, Weymouth, New Tusk, North Range, Greenland, Morganville and Little River.

The rally opened Friday evening and closed Sunday night. Registration of delegates was in charge of Lawrence Hubley, Bear River. The delegates were entertained at the homes of the people of the church during their stay. Officers for the year 1931-32 were elected and introduced as follows: President, Ronald Thurber, Little River; 1st Vice-Pres., Kathleen Fitzgerald, Weymouth; 2nd Vice-Pres., Reginald Morris, Lawrenceville; Sect.-Treas., Marion MacLeod, Bear River; additional members of the executive, Dorothy Barbeau, Mount Hailey; Miss Mabel Longley, Paradise; and Lawrence Hubley, Bear River. Platform meetings were held Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings and Sunday morning. Good congregations attended. Excellent addresses were given by Rev. A. Gibson, secretary of the Baptist Board of Religious Education, and Rev. A. K. Herman, pastor of the Highland Street United Baptist Church, Moncton. Sunday afternoon Rev. A. Gibson conducted a round table on "The Bible." Using a blackboard Mr. Gibson illustrated many interesting things about the bible and its origin. He asked the conference this question: "If you were stranded on a desert island, and had your choice of three books to read for the rest of your life, which three would you choose?" The following list was named by the delegates: The Bible, an unabridged dictionary, a good history, geography, bible dictionary, Shakespeare. After discussion it was pointed out that in answer to a recent questionnaire on the same question, the readers of a large daily newspaper voted by a large majority for these, the bible, unabridged dictionary and Shakespeare; the bible and Shakespeare because of their wealth of language and way of life; the dictionary, in order to study them properly. Miss Grace Hubley led the devotion at this service. Saturday the rally was divided into three commissions or groups: one on organization and worship, led by Rev. A. A. MacLeod and the Rev. A. Gibson; one on Programme, led by Rev. A. J. Herman; and one on Bible Study, led by Rev. T. B. McDormand. Inspirational addresses were given by the leaders at the opening and close of each study group period. A feature was the open air meeting held on the church grounds, and led by Rev. A. K. Herman.

The rally closed on Sunday evening with a summing-up meeting. The United Church of Canada cancelled their evening service and the members attended the rally service, a courtesy which was appreciated. Thus one of the largest congregations of recent years assembled to hear the findings of the rally and to listen to the inspirational addresses. In the absence of the president, the first vice-president, Miss Kathleen Fitzgerald, was in the chair. After a short song service, the second vice-president, Reginald Morris, read the scripture lesson. The group findings were presented by Miss Vera Heiser, Miss Marguerite Baird, Mr. Manning MacNeill and Miss Marion Prude. All these papers were excellently prepared and ably presented. As they are of general interest to any young people's group they will be placed in the hands of the editor in the hope that they will be published in a later issue.

Rev. A. Gibson gave a challenging address on the "Aims and Objectives of a Young People's Society." These he enumerated as: 1, to lead the members into personal relationship with God; 2, to lead the members to an acceptance of Jesus Christ as Saviour, Friend, Leader, and to an appreciation of His life and work; 3, to lead to a progressive development of character in harmony with the ideals of Jesus; 4, to lead to an intelligent participation in the building of a Christian community and world; 5, to develop an intelligent understanding of the purpose and work of the Church, and participation in its life and work; 6, to lead to an increasing love, knowledge and understanding of the bible. The crowning inspiration of a rally replete with uplifting experiences was the closing address of Rev. A. K. Herman. He decided to make his final message an appeal to those present to give Christ the right of way in their lives. Taking as his text the question of Pilate to the multitude, "What shall I do with Jesus?" Mr. Herman led, all very near to the heart of God. "In forming your estimate of Jesus and in making your decision," said Mr. Herman, "don't make the mistakes of Pilate. First, be fair. Don't listen to false witnesses, as Pilate did; second, be independent, don't be influenced by the rabble; third, be wise; choose character before comfort. Put safety last and be wise enough to be on the side of God; fourth, be conscientious. Ask yourself in downright seriousness, 'What shall I then do with Jesus, which is called the Christ?' If in answering this supreme question of your lives you listen to the still small voice you will make the right decision."

Its original name was Herbert River, thus named for Louis Herbert, apothecary to DeMonts, famous French explorer of early days. Cuthbert Welsh is able to be around again after his recent illness.

A Pie Sale was held in Temperance Hall, Monday evening, under the auspices of the Home Division.

During the Rally the executive of the local B. Y. P. U. waited upon Mr. Herman and urged him to stay a few days longer and hold services with them. Although Mr. Herman found it impossible to accede to their request he did promise to come back again at a later date. The presence of such leaders as Mr. Herman, Mr. Gibson and Mr. McDormand, and the hearty co-operation of all made this first regular rally of the Baptist young people of these counties a real helpful experience.

Resolutions of thanks were passed to the entertaining church, leaders, folks who cared for the physical needs of the delegates, etc., by the visitors.

Thomas Boyle, who has been a visitor with his sister, Mrs. Rose Ford, left on Friday for Mattapan, Mass.

Here's another attractive

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

Most women find it difficult to think up new ideas for attractive menus. This one, suggested by Miss Katherine M. Caldwell, cookery authority of Canadian Home Journal, Toronto, is there for you to please.

LUNCHEON MENU
Chase and Vegetable Soufflé with Cream Sauce
Buttered Whole Wheat Toast
Sweet Pickles
Hot Raspberry Biscuits
Chase & Sanborn's Tea

For afternoon tea, there is nothing nicer than these same Raspberry Biscuits, shaped daintily with a tiny cutter—split, buttered and served piping hot, with a cup of perfect tea.
Miss Caldwell says: "Magic Baking Powder is easy to use because its uniform, high quality never varies. I use and recommend Magic because my experience has proven that it always gives consistently better baking results."

Try Miss Caldwell's Recipe for *RASPBERRY BISCUITS

Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Cut the hard, cold shortening into them with a knife, using a quick, chopping motion, or reduce the hard cold fat to tiny particles with a pastry blender or a steel-pronged fork. When the mixture resembles a very coarse meal, add the liquid, mixing quickly and lightly. Turn out the dough on a slightly floured board, pat it down lightly or roll it to a thickness of about one inch. Shape with a small cutter or cut in squares with a floured knife. Dip the small lumps of sugar into syrup from canned or fresh raspberries. Press a lump into each biscuit, forcing it well down into the dough so that it will not run down the sides when baked.
Place the biscuits on a greased pan or baking sheet and bake in a very hot oven, 450° F., 12 to 15 minutes.

MAGIC Baking Powder
ensures better baking results

NOTED FIGURE IN MASONRY

Lord Cornwallis Heads Visiting Delegates

A noted figure in Masonry landed at Quebec on Saturday, in the person of Lord Cornwallis, Grand Master Mason of England. He is accompanied by other Grand Lodge officials, who will attend the Bicentenary of the Masonic Grand Lodge, of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia, Oct. 10th-18th. The party including Lord Cornwallis will proceed to Philadelphia from Quebec via the Canadian National Railways to Halifax and from there, will travel by steamship to New York. When in Halifax, Lord Cornwallis will have the opportunity of seeing the monument recently erected to his illustrious forbear, the Hon. Edward Cornwallis, founder of the city, in front of the Canadian National Railways Hotel, The Nova Scotian. At the time of the unveiling, Lord Cornwallis expressed his regrets at his inability to be present on the occasion, but he has taken a keen interest in the matter. While in Halifax, he will be the guest of the Masonic Lodges of that city. Following the Pennsylvania celebration, the party will pay official visits to other Masonic Lodges in the United States and Canada, before sailing for home.

Fritz Simon, youthful German pilot of the record-breaking liner Bremen's plane New York, and his second pilot, Rudolph Wuecknecht, were the victims of a crash in the Minas Basin on Monday. Only battered and twisted parts of the plane have been given up by the sea to show where the gallant fliers gave their lives that might "get through."

John A. H. Nichols, of Acaciaville, is showing 'em how to grow carrots and beets this season—the other day he weighed six carrots grown on his farm, and the six of those babies tipped the scales at 14 pounds, but they were nothing when compared with half a dozen beets he grew, that weighed 43½ pounds! Some of you farmers who think you are raising big roots will have to use a little more fertilizer, if you want to beat these records.

Made A Success In United States

Fred A. Marr, of Rowley, Mass., who has been visiting his brother, George Marr, Rossway, returned home this week. He was accompanied by Edward Carter Mr. Carter has driven for four years in succession for Mr. Marr, and is becoming well acquainted with Digby County. This year, they motored by way of Montreal and Quebec.

Mr. Marr went from Rossway, forty-one years ago, to Ipswich, where he was employed on a milk farm for nine and a half years. He then bought out the milk business. He soon took on an ice business, later, a retail and wholesale ice cream business, and later, a real estate business, and has been most successful. Mr. Marr has an aunt at Tiverton, and a number of cousins scattered throughout the county, and is the eldest son of the late Wm. Marr.

Prospecting, however, has revealed the fact that other minerals are present. Besides the oil discovery, which was announced last week, testimony running about $30 to the ton has been found, and last week specimens of minerals supposed to be nickel and cobalt, were sent to the provincial assayer's office for assay.

"MARTY" WELCH IN DETROIT PARADE

Capt. Martin L. Welch, the Digby born skipper of international fishermen's race fame, who sailed the Gloucester schr. Elsie, in the first race off Halifax with the schr. Bluenose, was a prominent figure in the big parade of the American Legion following the 13th, national convention at Detroit. The Gloucester float in the parade was a big seine boat with "Marty" at the tiller. Boat with in years now he stood the grueling heat in a manner typical of his calling. When his float swung into line, Marty and his crew of seven received a tremendous ovation from the thousands who had particularly gathered at that one spot, the corner of the Grand Boulevard and Jefferson Ave. There was a band, too, from Gloucester aboard the boat to live up to matters. Mackerel were thrown from the boat into the dense crowds. They were waved in the air and people shouted along the route. After the parade, the float was given to the Detroit branch of the Gorton-Pew Fisheries Co., for advertising purposes. The very day of the big time in Detroit, a sister of Marty died suddenly in Gloucester. Mrs. Frances Jane Brooks, a widow, but Capt. Welch was so handsomely the telegram announcing her passing until the parade was over. Besides Marty, deceased leaves another brother, Wm. V. Welch, of Gloucester. The three were born in Digby, children of the late Martin and Harriett (Comeau) Welch. Their father was a seafaring man, years ago sailing out of Digby in command of vessels engaged in the West Indies trade.

ANNUAL REPORT OF SMITH'S COVE PUBLIC LIBRARY AND READING ROOM

The annual public meeting of the Smith's Cove Public Library and Reading Room was held in the Library on Tuesday evening, Oct. 6th. There was a fair attendance, and much more interest than at some previous meetings. Reports showed added interest on the part of the people in our community as well as visitors. About one hundred new books have been added, many of these being given by people in the village. During the season, librarians of city libraries, who were visitors here, gave valuable assistance in rearranging the shelves, and with other visitors, helped in many ways. We have been helped financially too. A group of residents put on a play, the proceeds of which went to library funds. This with a gift of $10.00 from St. Anne's church and a few other small gifts of money, made it possible to pay the rent for the year in advance, and meet other necessary expenses. Altogether, it has been a much better year in every way and the community has every reason to be gratified and thankful.

The officers were elected as follows: President—Mrs. John Smith, re-elected. Vice President—Miss Frances Austin, re-elected. Secretary—Mrs. Mark Longworth, re-elected. Treasurer—Miss A. L. Jaggar, re-elected. Executive Committee, the above officers and the following: Mr. John Smith, Mrs. George Weir, Mrs. Walter Outhouse, Mrs. Harvey Weir, Mrs. George Austin, Mr. and Mrs. H. Stephenson, Mrs. Elmer Weir, Mrs. Edward Payson. Head Librarian—Miss A. L. Jaggar, re-elected. Auditors—Mr. Stephenson and Miss C. H. Thomas.

Librarian Mrs. Lloyd Shaffner reported that since the opening, a little more than a year ago, the library had grown from 200 volumes to 756 volumes. The four book cases now in use are more than filled; 1589 books have been borrowed during the year. More books, more book cases, more money are needed. Many books have been given to the library by friends at home and abroad. The officers elected for the year were: President—Mrs. A. B. Thorne. Secretary—Treasurer—Mrs. May Ray. Librarian—Mrs. Lloyd Shaffner. Assistants—Iris Shaffner and Marion Thorne. The Board of Management and Book Committee of last year were re-elected.

TRINITY CHURCH

Sunday Bulletin

The Harvest Thanksgiving services on Sunday last were well attended. The church was suitably decorated with wheat, fruit, vegetables and flowers, in all a beautiful spectacle of God's good gifts. The Sacred Cantata was rendered by the choir in a most pleasing and artistic manner—the soloists were Mary Lynch, "Buster" Walker and Rev. A. E. Gabriel.

The "Children's Corner" is proving of interest, not only to the Sunday school pupils who meet there on Sunday mornings at 10 o'clock, but the parents are very pleased with the idea of having a section of the church building set aside for the children.

Next Sunday, we begin the "Stamp System"—every scholar is asked to bring a small scribbler, and on each Sunday, they will receive a picture stamp, which is put in the scribbler; prizes will be awarded for the best arrangement of stamps in the scribbler. The contest begins on Sunday, at 10 o'clock—let us have every scholar present. The children are looking forward to the visitation of His Lordship, Bishop MacKenzie, who will be in Trinity church on Sunday, October 25th. The service at Marshalltown, on Sunday morning is cancelled.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

ROSSWAY

The regular afternoon service at Rossway will be held in All Saints' Church, at 3 o'clock, the Rev. H. A. Harley is to be the special preacher.

Rev. A. E. Gabriel will be in Halifax during the next two weeks for the purpose of writing examinations at King's University. Rev. H. A. Harley, M.A., former Rector of Trinity Parish, will supply during Mr. Gabriel's absence.

WEDDINGS

A wedding of interest to many friends took place at the home of Capt. and Mrs. Horace Thurber, of Freeport, on Monday afternoon of last week, when their youngest daughter, Wilhelmina Esther, was united in marriage to Churchill Frank Hibbard, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia. The bride entered the room attended by her uncle, Fred Stevens, by whom she was given in marriage, the bride party taking their places beneath a handsome arch of autumn leaves and appropriate flowers. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and ferns.

The bride was charming, in a gown of white satin and lace, with conventional wedding veil and corresponding accessories. She had as bridesmaid, Miss Pauline Stevens, daintily attired in maize satin, with hat to match, and carrying a bouquet of white and pink carnations. The groom was attired in brown flat crepe, received the guests.

The groom's gift to the bride was a silver fox fur and a handsome pendant, with white gold chain; to the bridesmaid, a crystal pendant and earring set. The groomsmen received a pearl tie pin. The bride received many pleasing gifts of silver, including a forty-eight piece set of sterling silver, from the groom's parents, glass, gold, linen and a substantial check.

Shortly after the marriage ceremony, which was performed by Rev. A. W. Ackley, the happy couple left in their own car for a trip through the Maritimes, visiting en route, Mr. Hibbard's parents, at St. George, N. B. The bride's travelling costume was of black, flecked with white, close velvet hat and fox fur. Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard will reside in Freeport.

The editor was a recipient yesterday of a splendid Canteleupe, grown in Weymouth, by Church Gates. Mr. Gates says he grew about three barrels this year and he has had them on his table, at least one meal a day since the first of September. He has also raised a lot of egg plants.

A harvest service was held in the United church, Barton, Sunday evening and the combined choirs of the Barton-Brighton church, and the Weymouth church gave a programme of Thanksgiving music. The speaker was Rev. M. R. Ewing.

The motor vessel, Jessie May, Capt. Tidd, arrived last Saturday from Grand Manan with fish, and cleared to return the same day.

Game Laws in Condensed Form for Hunters

The lure of the Nova Scotia forests will attract many hunters to the province, commencing today, when the season opens for moose and deer. Through progressive measures the Department of Lands and Forests has materially increased the wild life of the province, and an important factor has been the establishment of three game sanctuaries. Throughout the open season animals in the game sanctuaries are protected and no hunting of any kind is allowed within the territory of those sanctuaries.

The open season for the shooting of bull moose is from October 16th to November 15th. The law provides that only bull moose shall be shot and no moose of other sex can be shot on Cape Breton Island. The law also provides that no hunter shall shoot more than one moose during the season. 1,428 moose were officially reported shot last season.

The open season for deer is the same as that for moose, namely, October 16th to November 15th. On the mainland of Nova Scotia a hunter may shoot two deer regardless of sex, but on the island of Cape Breton only one deer may be shot by the hunter and it must be a male deer.

During the month, the open season on bird shooting also comes into effect. Ruffed grouse or birch partridge may be shot on the mainland from October 16th, to October 31st. Five birds may be shot a day and ten birds may be shot for the season. On the island of Cape Breton the open season for ruffed grouse does not commence until November 1st and runs to November 15th, with the same bag limit as on the mainland, namely five a day or ten for the season.

Blowgun or black duck may be shot from October 1st to January 15th, except in Cumberland County, where the season runs from September 15th, to October 31st. The open season for brant and geese runs from October 1st to January 15th, except in Shelburne, Queens and Halifax counties, where the season is from December 1st, to February 14th.

The season for milk, otter, fox, raccoon, weasel, is from November 16th to December 31st.

Among the animals protected throughout the season by the game laws are cow moose, caribou, beaver, marten and fisher, and pheasants, spruce partridge, Hungarian partridge and all non-game birds except the crow, hawk, great owl, kingfisher and English sparrow.

In a special statement issued by the Department of Lands and Forests, a number of activities are listed which are prohibited when hunting. This list should be studied carefully in order that those entering the forests may observe not only the statutory provisions as to where and when animals and birds may be shot but also the circumstances under which the hunting may be carried out. The statement of the Department of Lands and Forests points out that it is prohibited:

To hunt and trap without a license.

To kill Big Game animals under two years of age.

To destroy muskrat houses or set traps within 25 feet of Muskrat houses.

To buy, sell or traffic in the flesh of any Big Game or Ruffed Grouse.

To use a dog to hunt Big Game.

To export fur without a permit.

To export hunting trophies without a permit.

To act as guide without a license.

To deal or traffic in the pelt of any wild animals without a license.

To hunt on Sundays.

To use artificial light for hunting.

To use poison for the killing of any game or fur bearing animals.

To carry a rifle in the woods except during the month of April or during the open season for moose and deer.

It is also pointed out by the Department of Lands and Forests that non-residents entering the forests of the province must be accompanied by Nova Scotia licensed guides.

THANKSGIVING

These are the things for which we give
Today our thanks: A bright hearth fire;
Worn friendly books; the road that leads
Through happy fields to heart's desire.

The broken loaf shared with a friend,
The door thrown open to the night,
The inner calm that surely gives
Our souls to peace, our eyes to sight.

The homely tasks of every day,
That keep our hands from idleness;
All these a pattern help to make
That shapes at last our happiness.
—Francis Rodman.

NEWSPAPER COSTS

Printers and publishers are sometimes placed in an embarrassing position these days, when prices in many lines of business have come down. They are asked why advertising and printing prices should not come down, too. The answer is that they have not, and are not likely to, because they cannot. They are "pegged" prices, pegged by circumstances so firmly that market fluctuation cannot have any effect on them. We are not speaking of the price for which the paper is sold. That is merely a sum fixed to give the paper market value and has no relation to its cost. If it were higher, according to publishing costs, then advertising would come down. The three cents or five cents paid for the paper does not meet the cost of the white paper and ink in most cases, much less the cost of gathering the news and setting it up in type, paying for the paper, ink, plant maintenance, distribution costs of the printed paper, and other incidentals. None of this has come down in price with the exception of paper, and that only slightly. The investment in a newspaper plant is heavy, especially when compared with the volume of business and skilled workmen are required to do the work. High standards of service are established and the public expects them to be maintained. All this is expensive and has not come down in price one iota. That is why newspaper advertising is no cheaper and why subscription rates have not come down. It is a problem that is receiving study everywhere and most papers are tightening up on expenditure where possible and cutting costs to meet a peculiar situation but up to now we have not heard of one able to announce cheaper advertising or subscription.

AMUSING MISTAKES

Some people are unduly depressed by their mistakes, says a writer in "Onward." He points out that one advantage in mistakes, of which we seldom do justice, is the fact that they afford much of life's amusement. He says: "We make so many minor and harmless blunders that we afford boundless amusement to others, and best of all to ourselves. Now, of course, mistakes are not in themselves desirable. Emerson said of Napoleon, 'He never blundered into victory,' but we do into hearty success, but we do into hearty and thoroughly enjoyable laughter. If no one ever made a mistake what a serious, straight up and down, monotonous world this would be."

DECREASE IN ACCIDENTS

A marked decrease in the number of accidents on Nova Scotia highways during 1931 as compared with last year, reflecting the efforts being made by the Safety Branch of the Department of Highways to eliminate accidents, is announced by Hon. Percy C. Black.

Although traffic on Provincial roads has been the heaviest in the history of Nova Scotia, accidents have been fewer. In 1930 there were 1184 accidents reported and in 1931 this had decreased to 796. 45 per cent were killed in Nova Scotia during 1931, while this year 31 were killed. Commenting upon the vigorous campaign which the Department of Highways has carried on with a view to eliminating accidents on Provincial highways, Hon. Mr. Black also referred to the manner in which his Department is bringing about the elimination of dangerous level crossings, improving the alignment of the roads by cutting out curves, and extending traffic safeguards.

"The Safety Branch of the Department of Highways has carried on its safety education work more vigorously during the present year than ever before and it is gratifying to announce that in our province there has been a marked reduction in both the number of accidents and the number of persons injured, fatally or otherwise. In order that a comparison may be made, the following figures for the first nine months of the last three years are published:

Accidents	Injured	Killed
January 1 to September 30
1929	1079	620
1930	1184	663
1931	796	485

"Approximately four thousand cars have been tested by the Department's Safety Caravan, which is operated in the larger centres during the summer. A very rigid examination is given by the Highway Safety Constables, and cars that cannot pass are ordered to be repaired immediately and the fact that the work has been done reported to the Safety Branch within forty-eight hours," Mr. Black said.

WORK

"This is the gospel of labor; Ring it, ye bells of the Kirk; The Lord of love came down from above

To live with the men who work.

This is the rose that He planted; Here is the thorn—curst soil; Heaven is blest with perfect rest, But the blessing of earth is toil.

—Henry Van Dyke.

"Work"—in these days when we hear so much of "Depression" and "Unemployment," I wonder if we who are fortunate enough to have work really appreciate it. Of course we are all thankful for it from a financial standpoint, but do we ever think of it in any other way?

Do we ever think of it as a joy and pleasure, or is it simply a means of getting a livelihood, a place where we spend hours each day doing the same things over and over, eagerly watching the clock and listening for the quitting whistle. Personally we heartily agree with the writer who said "The first thing to do, if you have not already done it, is to fall in love with your work." For work means safety to ourselves and service to others. Robert Louis Stevenson says: "Art is the expression of man's joy in his work." Do we ever think that being an artist is left to those who are painters, sculptors, architects and musicians. In "Great Thoughts" we are told of the following story: "A man was working one hot, disagreeable day in a hayfield. He had done this work so often that it might have seemed tiresome and dull. A passer-by called to him. 'You'd rather be doing something else today, I know.' 'No,' replied the artist in the hayfield, 'you're mistaken. I'm doing what I like to do. There's nothing like it, watching the green grass turn in the hot sun to hay for cattle.' His eyes lighted as he spoke.

The enthusiasm and joy which we put into our work transforms the work, and the worker. A person can express joy in their work even if it is digging ditches, sweeping a floor or washing the dishes. These people are true artists, and many of them are needed to make life worth while. If we cannot get this joy and enthusiasm about our work, it is time to get alarmed, something is wrong. No person can however keep this enthusiasm up automatically, it must be nourished with new efforts, new aspirations, new visions and new ideas. We must compete with ourselves and try to break our own records. It is our own fault if our joy in our work and our enthusiasm is gone; we have failed to feed it. All too often when a person gets to the place where they can "do their work with their eyes shut," that is the way that they do it. They are then content to "sleep at the switch."

Following are what some of the great writers have said about work: "The difference between perseverance and obstinacy is that, one often comes from a strong will, and the other from a strong won't."—W. H. Beecher.

"Invariably you will find perseverance exemplified as the radical principle in every truly great character. It facilitates, perfects and consolidates in the execution of the plan conceived, and renders profitable its results when attained. By continuing to advance steadily in the same way, light constantly increases, obstacles disappear, efficient nature is confirmed, experience is acquired, the use of the best means is reduced to easy action, and success becomes more sure."—E. L. Magoon.

"Labor is the true alchemist that beats out in patient transmutation the baser metals into gold"—Wm. M. Punshon. "Blessed is the man who has found his work; Let him ask no other blessings. Know thy work, and do it; and work at it like Hercules. One monster there is in the world, the idle man."—Thomas Carlyle. "God does not give excellence to men but as the reward of labor"—Sir Joshua Reynolds.

If we wish to accomplish very much we must have a plan for doing our work. Every successful person in life has had some object at which they aimed and towards which they worked day after day. Nothing very valuable can be accomplished by wandering aimlessly through our days and years without some aim in view. Planning our work also makes it much more interesting. We then have the perfect completion of the job in view and this end interests and sustains us. Perseverance too is needed, and even education, genius or talent cannot take its place. Perseverance and determination—the ability to "Press On," solves many of the problems of the human race.

"What we call luck is simply pluck. And doing things well, over and over; Courage and will, perseverance and skill

Are the four leaves of luck's clover. We believe that the surest way to find happiness is the thing which we all strive after so much—is simply to get so busy that we will have no time to be miserable. Truly, work brings it's problems, but so also does play. If we had nothing to do but enjoy ourselves, we would discover that it was just as irksome and monotonous as we so often feel that our work is.

All too often we have the attitude of Tom Sawyer, (that irresistible character of Mark Twain's) who on a Saturday morning, pleasure bent, had no liking for the job of whitewashing his aunt's high board fence; and we wish that we too could make our work appear as important and delightful as he did, when his playmates not only did the work for him but paid him for the privilege of doing it for him.

Let us instead get more enthusiastic about our work and feel the real joy in it, and with John Oxenham say:

"Upon my bended knees thank God for work,
Work—once man's penance, now his high reward!
For work to do and strength to do the work,
We thank Thee, Lord!

Since outcast Adam toiled to make a home
The primal curse a blessing has become,
Man in his toil finds recompense for loss;
A workless world had known no Christ nor cross.

Some toil for love, and some for simple greed,
Some reap a harvest past their utmost need,
More, in their less find truer happiness,
And all, in work, relief from bitterness.

A toiler with his hands was God's own son;
Like His, to Him, be all thy work well done.
None so forlorn as he that hath no work,
None so abject as he that work doth shirk.

Upon thy bended knees, thank God for work!
In workless days all ills and evils lurk,
For work to do, and strength to do the work,
We thank Thee, Lord!

DESCRIPTION OF AN AIR FLIGHT

To the Editor of the Courier:
Sir:—The air, our immediate future highway; our car, the plane, as everyone, sooner or later, aims to fly. A more or less graphic detail of the primary emotions in the inevitable hour, of the initial flight, should be more or less absorbing interest to all.

You first buy your ticket of the agent, paying for it in advance; you also sign a quit claim deed of your Anatomy, so that in case you should decide to walk back from the upper air, thereby leaving naught but a seal brown stain on the landscape, he would have secured the price, plus an alibi. And the Lord commanded the unjust steward, for he had done wisely.

From the postcocks, you ascend via a cute little steel ladder, into the torture chamber, or death chamber, according to whether you decide to ride or walk back. Immediately that solid unemotional, wooden Indian, of a sky pilot, throws wide open the throttle; with a shattering roar, you tear through the water, in a wild fury of foam and spray and shoot off into thin, very thin air, your stomach, having long since dropped out of the picture altogether; your heart, having worked up into your throat, shutting off your wind; your knee caps staging a fairly good imitation of a steam riveter; a prodigious amount of goose flesh having crept up your spine, and spread over your scalp, setting each individual hair straight on end; with all the other various emotions of gripping fear and abject terror, exactly the same sensations, that you experience, every time that you step into your Rolls Royce, for a spin on the boulevard, nothing more or nothing less. In fact the closed car, very like your own, with the same organ grinder operation of the glass; the last few hundred yards, rippling over the lake, an exact duplicate of one of Mr. Black's washboards, then you shoot off and up upon a most delightful cushion of air.

So you see, that the most timid the most nervous, even the most precious person—yourself—needs not hesitate to fly in a closed car, on your initial trip, in fact that blooming closed car, not only shuts off all apprehension, but likewise all the thrills. For instance, gliding on the tip of a wing, during a graceful curve, is about like taking a sharp gravelly turn on high, with all danger eliminated.

After being all absorbed in the singularly rapid and extensive lifting and expanding of the vision, you look down, and presto! the erstwhile great forest trees and broad lakes grave contracted to a soft green mantle, bordering miniature ponds. They taught us at school that the world was convex, but it's no such thing, it's concave like a willow saucer, one time I looked straight down, we seemed to have stopped. Assuming that our congenial chauffeur was giving the elevation, I requested, in lieu of distance, but it seems, that the higher you are, the slower we seem to go. Upon nearing the Guide's stamping ground at Lake William, the willing hostess along the lagoon almost invisible. Then we swooped, as the eagle with semi-folded wings swooped upon his prey, in one long whistling rush, just clearing the apprehensive heads of a line of canoe contestants, formed up for a race, taking the water at high speed, as the pintailler whistler, shot across the lake and came to rest as lightly and gently as the graceful gull.

N.B.—Note bene well, your initial sensations, whilst looking down from the upper air upon a receding world, as they are undoubtedly identical, what they be the mingled emotions of your spirit in that inevitable hour, looking back upon this mundane sphere of sorrow, sin and death, vanishing in the dim distance as your wraith wings its ecstatic flight, to the "Land of the Leal."

"There's nae sorrow there,
There's neither, call or care,
We'll meet to part, nae mair,
In the Land of the Leal."

—L. V. SHAW

HIKING AND WANDERING

The English have always "taken a walk." For some time a few of them have "enjoyed a walking tour." Hiking is a word until recently, seldom, if ever, heard in England. Now it appears in the London Times and many English newspapers mention a new hiking craze that has spread through the land. It is more than taking a walk and it seems to have developed the cult of the walking tour into something like a national movement with recognized equipment of shorts and knapsacks for both sexes. It goes beyond the organized hike of this country, but as a movement apparently falls short of the "wanderyouth" development in Germany whence Great Britain seems to have contracted the habit.

For generations Germany has had its walking clubs operating independently of each other and usually marching in companies of a score to a hundred with songs to carry them along the way, and a substantial meal with much good beer some, where in the program. But the "wanderyouths" are different in many ways. They seem to have sprung from the "wanderbirds" who appeared about thirty years ago and scandalized the conventional of Germany. Now the nation directs the movement. Its primary aim is to get young people away from the cities whenever they can do so. In Prussia a "monthly wanderyouth" is compulsory in schools and teachers lead the march; in practice this is generally turned into one tendency wander tour in the year. The characteristic point of the scheme is the hospice. Hospices to the number of over 2,000 are established, many in old historical buildings throughout Germany. There the wanderyouths, boys and girls, may obtain a fire, a bath, shelter and bed, and if required, food at absurdly low rates. Each hospice has its "father and its mother" who maintain benevolent, yet strict discipline, particularly with respect to cleanliness.

It seems to be an extraordinarily valuable movement and it is said to have made a remarkable improvement in the physical well-being of young Germans who, being for the most part those born during and just before the war, might be expected to have suffered therefrom, but who are said to be in excellent health and spirits. It may be mentioned that all wandering is not necessarily done on foot. Very cheap railway tickets are issued in order to carry those who will eventually hike to a starting point far afield, and in some cases they walk through, not Germany alone, but other neighboring countries.—(Telegraph Journal.)

Food Expert Finds White Bread Attack Unjustified

SO much has been said about the value of whole wheat bread, some of it correct and some exaggerated, that it has been overdone by the extremists and the pendulum is swinging back again to a wiser view in bread, according to Dr. R. E. Lee, research director of Standard Brands Limited, in a talk before Canadian bakers.

"Periodically," says Dr. Lee, "the agitation for whole wheat bread breaks out like an epidemic, runs its course and dies out. No one can justly attack bread, be it white or brown. Both have a place in the diet. Flour is one of the most completely digestible foods we have. All varieties of bread are good, but one would not think of after reading the articles of those who advocate the use of only whole wheat bread.

"A diet including too much coarse bread so stimulates the intestinal muscles that food materials are not as completely absorbed as when they pass through the alimentary tract at a normal rate. This is why whole wheat bread is

UNION THANKSGIVING SERVICE

A Union Thanksgiving service was held in the United Baptist church at 10 a.m. on Thanksgiving Day. Rev. A. A. MacLeod, President of the Bear River District Ministerial Association, conducted the service, assisted by Rev. A. W. L. Smith, who led in the responsive reading; Rev. C. P. Henderson, who offered the Thanksgiving prayer; and Rev. C. L. Blanchard, who preached the sermon. Representatives from the different congregations of the town assembled, and prayers of Thanksgiving from the hearts of a grateful people were made. THANKSGIVING

Thank God for little common things,
Small, lovely things of every day—
Grass that is green beside the door
And flowers that grow across the way.

Candles that flicker in the dusk
And firelit rooms where shadows play;
For silver fingers of the rain
Stroking a young tree's bending head.

For stars that pick through drifting clouds
And dawn that flame in gold and red.

Thank God for common, lovely things,
That are the spirit's daily bread.

HECTOR BARR GETS VERDICT OVER LAWSON

Big Crowd Enjoys Digby Card—Johnson Wins Main Go

About 1,000 people attended the boxing matches staged here Friday night, in the Victoria rink under the auspices of the Red Raven Hockey Club.

The main bout between Howard Spriggs, of Attleboro, Mass., but now residing in Digby, and Harold Johnson, of Halifax, scheduled to go five rounds, ended in the second round, Johnson winning by a technical knockout. Spriggs weighed 179, and Johnson, 178. Spriggs took a count of nine in the first round, but came back strong and finished the round, getting in a few good punches near the end. The technical knockout came about two minutes after the opening of the second round.

There were also six good preliminaries. Arnold Barr, of Weymouth, gained a decision over Dixon, of Halifax. The judges disagreed and the referee ordered one more round to decide the fight, but Barr did not continue and the fight was awarded to Dixon. The next bout, between Banks, of Bear River and Wilkinson, of Halifax, was won by Banks.

The best bout of the evening was between Dipper Lawson, of Halifax, Maritime featherweight champion, and Hector Barr, of Weymouth. This bout was full of action from going to song, and both boys got in some very clean blows.

The decision was given to Barr by the referee when the judges disagreed. The next bout, between Raymond Winchester, of Digby, and Harlow, of Bear River, was won by a technical knockout by Winchester, in the fourth round.

Daley and Vernon Bent, both of Digby, went five fast rounds, with Daley getting the decision. The next bout between Wilkinson, of Halifax, and Brown, of Bear River, ended in the second round by a knockout.

Boxers Blinded
The last bout before the main bout was an exhibition of blindfold boxing with bells strapped around each man and caused a great deal of laughter among the crowd; as one man was trying to find the other.

The bouts were handled very well by Tom Foley as referee and Mr. Kennedy, as announcer. It was announced from the ring that another boxing entertainment would be held in about three weeks' time. The Digby Ravens are making every effort to put a team on the ice this winter as good, if not better than in former years.

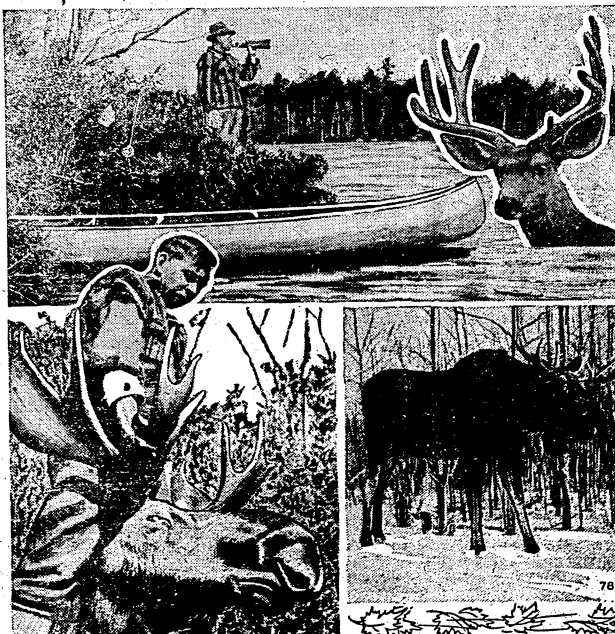

The bore was talking of his travels once again.

"As I came out of that dense forest, I was confronted with a yawning chasm," he said.

"Was it yawning before it saw you?" asked one of the board.

CANADA OFFERS PARADISE TO HUNTERS

With the fall of the leaf and the tang of autumn in the air the fishing rod is laid aside and the Nimrod look to their rifles and shotguns, as the hunting season is ushered in. True to her reputation as one of the world's greatest playgrounds, Canada offers a wide range of sport, furred, feathered and horned, to all who care to penetrate its far-flung hinterlands. From coast to coast, all along the vast system of the Canadian Pacific Railway, there are countless established points of entry into the woods and mountains, readily accessible to those in search of game. The shores of countless lakes, rivers, and creeks, abound with all varieties of duck and goose and are not infrequently the scene of the termination of successful expeditions after moose, elk and deer of all kinds. New Brunswick rivals Ontario and Quebec as moose territory, while further west, the towering Rockies offer their tribute of bear, mountain sheep and

WHEN DAY IS DONE

When day is done and the night slips down,
And I've turned my back on the busy town

And come once more to the welcome gate,
Where the roses nod and the children play

I tell myself as I see them smile
That life is good and its tasks worth while.

When day is done and I come once more
To my quiet street and the friendly door

Where the Mother reigns and the children play,
And the kettle sings in the old-time way.

I throw my coat on a nearby chair
And say farewell to my pack of care.

When day is done, all hurt and strife,
And of selfishness and the greed of life.

Are left behind in the busy town;
I've ceased to worry about renown.

Or gold or fame, and I'm just a dad,
Content to be with his girl and lad.

Whatever the day has brought of care,
Here love and laughter are mine to share.

Here I can claim what the rich desire,
Rest and peace by a ruddy fire.

The welcome words which the loved ones speak,
And the soft caress of a baby's cheek.

When day is done and I reach my gate,<
I come to a realm where there is no hate.

For here whatever my worth may be,
Are those who cling to their faith in me;

And with love on guard at my humble door,
I have all that the world has struggled for.

IN MEMORIAM

A loving father left his earthly home; Our hearts must ache,
Our tears must flow,
For his dear sake, because we loved him so.

His seat is vacant in the house of prayer—
Place where he loved to be;
And yet he lingers there,
A holy memory his child may ever share.

Dear, kindly father mine, may I but show
A soul as wise and sweet
As yours was, may I but grow
To fill your vacant seat.
In loving memory of my father,
Capt. E. R. Thompson.

A Ship to the Breakers

The steamer, Prince George, which has run between Boston and Yarmouth during most of the last 32 years, was towed out of the port today by the tug Charles P. Greenough bound for Baltimore to be broken up for junk.—News item.

There goes, mister. There goes the Prince George, in tow like a coal barge, with her paintwork dingy and streaked, and her brass corroded green, just so much steel and iron for the breakers. And the way I remember her now is as the nearest little lady that tripped coastward out of Boston. I see her now as I saw her then, sliding down through the harbor traffic, with her funnels snapping in the breeze, her two funnels slanted back rakishly, footing it out to the harbor mouth, to lift to the green Atlantic rollers that she tramped down day after day, year in and year out.

It's funny about ships, mister. Work aboard one for awhile, and you'll get to know her, all her little ways and styles, her quirks and whimsies. Yes, sir, I've worked on plenty of them. Winter and summer they've carried me along to many a strange new port. No, it's not the same to buy a ticket and bring your baggage aboard to a steamboat. You don't get to know the boats that way, not the warm and friendly way that I mean.

When you work on a packet you belong to her. The passengers come aboard, and promenade up and down the deck, and you look at them kind of superiorly, and smile to yourself, as if you knew just what it was that was making them excited, and couldn't tell them, not even if you wanted to. And you listen to them talking of the trips they've taken before; of this ship and that, and of the accommodations, and which was a good sea boat and which wasn't. You listen to them, and smile to yourself some more, knowing that you know something they couldn't know.

Yes, sir, I've known a lot of ships, but somehow the George was the darling of them all. Maybe it's because the George and I have a lot in common one way and another.

The George was the summer ship for a lot of us chaps. Most of us used to ship on southbound packets in the winter. But summer would see us back. We'd gather at nights between decks, with the water sliding past just below the open cargo ports, and we'd talk about where we'd been last winter. Maybe one would tell about running up the Amazon to Manaus. And listening, the rest of us would feel the jungle about us, and smell the hot, steamy air, and hear the rustle of foliage that grew like a wall along the river. Another one would be telling about Rio, or Buenos Aires, or about going ashore in Port Limon, or Santa Marta. And while we talked we'd all be glad to be back on the George again with the crew we knew.

I remember once I was walking down the gangplank of a Red D liner, not thinking about anything in particular, with the sunshine flooding down warm and pleasant the way it does along the waterfront on a spring morning, with the smell of the sea drifting up, all mixed with a flavor of tar, and cordage, and the fruit from the dock next but one, and hearing the screaming of the gulls in the harbor, and the slap, slap of water against the piles, when I heard someone hail me.

I looked down, and there on the dock I saw Jimmy Austin, leaning against a bollard, looking up at me, with the sun on his face, making his eyes gleam under the shadow of his hat, and below the shadow the smiling friendliness of his lips. "The George is pulling out on the summer run next week," he shouted. Just that, and no more, but he kept his eyes on me as he smiled. And I knew that I'd made my last trip south for that year.

That summer the World War broke out, and after the season was over Jimmy and I went into the army. I remember one day a couple of years after, that Jimmy and I were in Southampton harbor, aboard a channel packet bound for France. It was a gray day, a dismal, lead-colored sort of day. It was raining out of a heavy sky into a sea of sough, greenish-gray. The ships in the harbor were painted war-time gray, and the buildings we could see were gray-brown and dull in the rain. Leaning against the rail, thinking about the line that we were going back to, our thoughts took on a hue like the day, and the ships and the sky line. Canada and the United States were far away, as dimly and faintly far as another planet.

Suddenly Jimmy gripped my arm.

All But One Councillor Re-Elected

Warden Vian Andrews, of Plympton, was re-elected to the municipal elections Tuesday, with a majority of 128 votes over his opponent, Hubert Shortliffe. At Marshalltown, H. H. Marshall was returned with a majority of 39 votes over John Balser. At Weymouth, the councillor for Weymouth, E. F. Fitzgerald, polled 145 votes, while the councillor for Weymouth, E. F. Fitzgerald, polled 145 votes. The election in the Central District resulted as follows: Cossaboom (re-elected), 223; Height, 126; Peters 4. Clarence Cornwell defeated Councillor James Robbins, in the Rossy District by a majority of 16 votes. The election of Mr. Cornwell will be the only change on the personnel of the present municipal council, which will be as follows: Smith's Cove, William Woodman; Bear River, Harvey Chisholm; Marshalltown, H. H. Marshall; Plympton, J. Vian Andrews; Weymouth North, Capt. H. B. Fitzgerald; Weymouth, E. F. Fitzgerald; Rossy, Clarence Cornwell; Centralville, Henry Cossaboom; Tiverton, D. C. Outhouse; Freeport, Frank Lent; Westport, Edward Pugh.

"Look," he said excitedly. "Look at the deck across the way."

I looked, and there was the George. She was painted gray for war work, for footing it back and forth across the channel, but gray paint couldn't hide her from old friends like Jimmy and me. We didn't say a word, but just leaned far over the rail and stared. And as I gazed the George wasn't painted gray any more. I could see her deck houses gleaming white, and the gay shine of brass around her portholes. I could see the Custom House tower beyond, could hear the shouts of the excursionists on the Dorothy Bradford, and the screaming of the gulls in the bright sunshine.

When I looked at Jimmy he was smiling, the way he always smiled at me that day I stood on the gangplank of the Red D liner.

All I said, was, "The George over here, too! Imagine that!" It was like meeting an old friend. The rakish tilt of her funnels was like a jaunty friendly gesture, cheering and heartening. After that the day wasn't gray any more, and Canada and the United States were just across the harbor.

Yes, mister, it's funny about ships. You don't think of them as you do about places or buildings, but more as you would about people you've met, and they're all tied up in your thoughts with the things you've learned from them.

There was one night on the George that I woke up to hear two men talking. They were deep in a learned argument about some work of art that had been mentioned in the newspaper that day. Listening, I couldn't understand why such men were there on the George. Next day Jimmy told me that one of the chaps was an Oxford graduate, the other an unfrocked clergyman. The Oxford man washed dishes for a living, the clergyman waited on table. Out along Atlantic Avenue on those days stood a row of saloons, one at the head of almost every dock. Because the saloons were there the Oxford man washed dishes, and the clergyman was a waiter.

The Avenue has changed a lot since then. The saloons are gone, and you'd find a few Oxford men washing dishes, or ex-clergyman waiting on table. Maybe that's why I don't feel so badly to see the George out there on the end of a tow rope. She's going out to make a place for the fine, new boat that's tied up at the old dock. The George belongs to the old days, and the old days have gone, never to return; gone with the saloons that dotted the waterfront and the gray paint of war time.

So they are towing the Prince George to the breakers, mister. There she goes, with her paintwork streaked and dingy, and the rust thick on her sides. They'll break her up, but she'll sail on just the same. Chaps like Jimmy Austin and myself will never see the best of her. We'll ship out on the new packet, maybe, and smile when we hear the passengers talking about the George, about what a good sea boat she was, or how much faster and better this new one is. And we'll smile just the same, kind of superiorly, because we know what it is they feel aboard ship. But we couldn't tell them even if we wanted to. For them the George is broken up. Jimmy Austin and I can build it again any time we want to.

FATHER OF EDISON A NOVA SCOTIAN; BORN AT DIGBY

Grandfather of Famous Inventor Settled at Digby With Family After Revolutionary War

The father of Thomas A. Edison, inventive wizard, who died Sunday at his New Jersey home, was born at Digby, where the grandfather of Thomas A. Edison, had settled in the early years of the nineteenth century.

The Halifax Chronicle is indebted to D. G. Whidden, of Wolfville, for the following Edison genealogy: John Edison, of a respectable Holland family, lived in the province of New Jersey, and at the close of the revolutionary war, he moved to Nova Scotia, settling in Digby, bringing with him his family, consisting of: Samuel, married Nancy Simpson; Adonijah, married Mary Williams; Thomas; Margaret, married William Saxton; Catherine, married Peter Weaver; Mary, married Dennis Downing.

They all moved to Babylon Township, District of London, now in Elgin County, Ontario, in 1811. Samuel Edison, son of John, born New Jersey, married Nancy Simpson, lived in Vienna, Ontario, in October, 1865, aged 103 years.

Samuel Edison, Jr., son of Samuel and Nancy (Simpson) Edison, born Digby, Nova Scotia, August 6, 1803, married in 1828, at Vienna, Ontario, Nancy Elliott, born in Chatham County, New York, in 1810.

Thomas Alva Edison, born Milan, Erie County, Ohio, February 11, 1847, son of Samuel Edison, Jr. and wife Nancy Elliott, married 1st, 1873, Mary G. Stillwell; children, Marion, Estelle, Thomas A., William L. He married, 2nd, 1886, Nina Miller; children, Madeleine, Charles Theodore.

H. T. Warne Addresses Kiwanis Club

The regular weekly luncheon of the Digby Kiwanis Club was held on Monday noon at "The Elms". There is no question as to it, but what Mrs. Gienocross knows how to satisfy the appetites of Digby's tired business men—the meal and service were excellent.

Despite the fact that a number of members were chasing moose, deer and what not all over the country, the attendance as usual, was good. Those who were absent sure missed one of the biggest treats the club has enjoyed since its organization, namely a vocal duet by Frank Nichols and Cliff Bowly, (both were so-lo). In the absence of Rev. A. E. Gabriel, Reg. Lockward played song leader, while Alfred Boden played songs on the portable organ.

A letter of appreciation for the donation made the Children's Aid Society, was received and read by the secretary. Three weeks ago, the local Kiwanis Club made donations of $25 each to the Boy Scout Troop and the Digby Children's Aid Society.

H. T. Warne was the speaker of the day and gave a splendid address dealing with agriculture.

And now the Kiwanians are planning to hold their ladies' night—this event will take place on the evening of November 2nd. There will be more to say on that subject at a later date.

THE BLUE NOSE TO THE WIND

Wind of my wild delight,
Swifter than gulls in flight,
Shout in your ecstasy,
Winging to Victory.

Lash with your stinging fall
Tail spar and flattened sail,
Green sea that snarls in wrath,
Breaking before your path.

Smite into fierce uproar
Ledges along the shore,
Spuming and spouting rage,
For their grim heritage.

Shrill wind and billow's shock
Dun cloud and booming rock,
Rent sky and shouting sea,
Give now these unto me:

Sloped decks and foaming rails,
Twined shrouds and driving sails,
Plunge, lift and measured reel,
Servers to my keel.

Let these my portion be,
Winging to Victory,
Swifter than gulls in flight,
Wind of my wild delight.

They are however, holding other affairs each month at the homes of their various members to raise funds for the society and the hospital room. Last evening they had a very successful bridge at the home of Mrs. A. A. Shortliffe.

DRINK MORE MILK

Here are just a few of the reasons why milk is such an important article in the diet of old and young alike.

Milk is the best food in the world. Women need milk to keep them healthy and to preserve their beauty. Men need milk to ward off the dangers and decline of middle age. Milk is the enemy of middle age. It strengthens the nerves and supplies essential vitamins. The food value of one quart of milk is equal to:

Nearly one pound of lean meat.
Nine or ten eggs.
More than one pound of chicken.
Nearly two pounds of fish.
The vitamins supplied in milk are: Vitamin "A"—necessary to the promotion of growth and in bone building; Vitamin "B"—providing against nervous disorders; and Vitamin "C"—necessary for healthy development and for maintaining health.

Milk is not fattening. Taken by itself, not gulped nor taken with food, it gives health and vitality without adding an ounce to waste tissue.

Drink milk freely every day is one of the best ways in which to build up and maintain both physical and nervous energy.

The woman who drinks milk looks and feels younger than one of the same age who does not, at the same time by drinking milk, she is physically more attractive as it enables her to remain slim and supple.

The man in his forties who drinks milk, has a sense of being fit, and clear headed, his mental keenness is greater, his muscles are more elastic, and he can do more and better work with less fatigue.

Don't neglect the 'milk' way to health—Drink more milk.

AUTHORS' MISTAKES

(Hamilton Spectator)
Homer nodded, it is said, and modern authors are human enough to nod, too, at times. The Literary Digest quotes from an article in Everyweek Magazine, where the errors of modern novelists like Joseph Hergesheimer and May Sinclair are pointed out. It seems that these writers have doubted what are supposed to be well-known laws of heredity. This illustrates the danger the author is in when he writes about something he knows only at second hand. Mr. George Bernard Shaw once displayed his ignorance of Judging by saying of a character, that he read in the Bible while keeping six balls up in the air. He should have known that any juggler who took his eye off the balls was using even for an instant, would fail to catch them. Strange though it may seem, authors sometimes forget the names of their characters and unconsciously change them half way through the story. Sir Philip Gibbs once made a character give his hat and gloves to a footman in the hall, walk up stairs, hold a conversation, pick up his hat and gloves when he left the room, and take them again from the footman when he got to the hall. Conan Doyle, despite the verisimilitude with which he wrote his Sherlock Holmes stories, made the most amazing blunder. For instance, in the Study in Scarlet, Watson is described as having his wound, which often troubled him, in the shoulder. In The Sign of the Four the wound is said to have been in the leg, and in The Hound of the Baskervilles, Watson runs as one who had a troublesome wound in the leg never ran. Which proves that authors should not only know what they write about, but should have good memories.

CANADIAN TRADE SHOWING EARLY SEASONAL GAIN

A slight seasonal expansion in Canadian business, commencing earlier than usual, states S. H. Logan, general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, is reflected in car loadings, employment, steel, automobile, textile and the boot and shoe trades.

"Gold shows an increased output, but coal and nickel are lower. Agricultural conditions have been mainly favorable in central and eastern Canada. Reports from the West indicate a slight improvement over the generally unsatisfactory conditions of midsummer."

"Subject to certain qualifications, the state of business is fairly well reflected in railway car loadings, which for the elapsed part of the current year are 20 per cent less than for the corresponding period of last year, although it should be noted that the short western grain crops and the late marketing of these products have to be taken into consideration in comparing this year's figures with those of 1930."

"Domestic trade conditions are fairly well represented by the weekly figures of car loadings classified as 'merchandise in less than car load lots' and 'miscellaneous.' Those for August increased quite substantially over July and while this increase was not fully maintained in September, the latest figures continue above those of midsummer."

"The most recent official employment report, compiled from returns made by over 7000 employers, shows an upward movement took place in July and continued in the following month, although the total number of workers was the lowest since the autumn of 1928, and has probably been reduced during September. The rise during the latter part of the summer was due to a steady flow of new construction contracts."

SEE WIDER MARKET

With a view to assisting in the development of a Canadian market for Canadian-made fishmeal, the Dominion Seed Branch call attention to the extent to which the industry has been developed in the Maritime Provinces and the value of the product both as a feed for live stock and as a fertilizer.

Being rich in protein, fishmeal is highly regarded as a feed for live stock and poultry as it may be substituted to advantage for animal tankage in most instances. In addition to this, fishmeal constitutes an excellent source of organic nitrogen and phosphoric acid for fertilizer purposes. The value of fishmeal both as feed and fertilizer suggests that a considerably larger volume might be used to advantage. This by-product of Maritime industry is too important to let pass without adequate consideration.

HUNGARIAN ARISTOCRATS "IN TRADE"

(Christian Science Monitor)
The end of war brought great changes to Hungary. The loss of Transylvania and Slovakia in particular meant that many of the leading families saw large parts of their estates pass into foreign hands. Their wealth decreased, and in consequence many of the younger members were forced to fend for themselves. Formerly, it was considered quite undignified for a Hungarian aristocrat to enter trade or business, and even becoming a civil servant was more or less a concession. But today things are quite changed. The sons and daughters of the highest families are in public service, banks and industry. Countesses and baronesses, and their daughters are doing applied art work, interior decoration, fancy leather work, while others are busy translating novels and general literature. A popular figure in Budapest society has become a guide for foreign tourists in this capital, using his linguistic gifts to great benefit. Though they regret the circumstances which have compelled them to adopt such measures, few of them would say that they are any less happy thereby.

AUTUMN

A mist on the far horizon.
The infinite tender sky.
The rich, ripe tints of the cornfield.
And the wild geese sailing high.
And all over upland and lowland.
The charm of the golden rod.
Some of us call it Autumn.
And others call it God.

—W. H. Carruth.

CARRYING ON!

Behind him lay the gray Azores,
Behind him the gates of Hercules;
Before him not the ghost of shores,
Before him only shoreless seas.
The good mate said: "Now we must pray,
For, lo! the very stars are gone.
Brave Adm'r! speak; what shall I say?"

"Why, say: 'Sail on! sail on! and on!'"

"My men grow mutinous day by day,
My men grow ghastly wan and weak."
The stout mate thought of home; a spray
Of salt wave washed his swarthy cheek.

"What shall I say brave Adm'r! say,
If we sight naught but seas at dawn?"
"Why, you shall say, at break of day:
'Sail on! sail on! sail on! and on!'"

They sailed and sailed as winds might blow,
Until at last, the blanched mate said:
"Why, now not even God would know
Should I and all my men fall dead,
These very winds forget the way,
For God from these dread seas is gone."

Now speak, brave Adm'r! speak and say—
He said: "Sail on! sail on! and on!"

They sailed. They sailed. Then spake the mate:
"This mad sea shows his teeth to-night;
He curls his lips, he lies in wait,
With lifted teeth as if to bite:
Brave Adm'r! say but one good word;
What shall we do when hope is gone?"

The words leaped as a leaping sword:
"Sail on! sail on! sail on! and on!"

Then, pale and worn, he kept his deck
And peered through darkness. Ah, that night
Of all dark nights! Then, a speck—
A light! a light! a light! a light!
It grew, a starlit flag unfurled!
It grew to be the burst of dawn.
He gained a world; he gave that word
It's greatest lesson: "On! sail on!"

The above poem by Joaquin Miller is to our mind, one of the most inspiring poems ever written, and perhaps in these days of unrest, it's lesson of "Carrying On" is needed more than ever before. Often the most important task we have to do is just to "Carry On," for the one time when we should not quit is the time when we feel most like quitting.

Perhaps carrying on and doing our best at times does not seem to amount to much, but if we always strive to do our best we will eventually arrive at a satisfactory place. All of our great explorers or inventors have had many, many failures before they finally won. It took Peary about thirty years to reach the North Pole, but he did not give up, and after each failure, kept carrying on and each time went a little farther than before, until he finally reached his goal.

Following is what some of the great writers have said on this subject: "Never fancy that you could do something if only you had a different lot and sphere assigned to you—What you call hindrances, obstacles, discouragements are probably God's opportunities."—Horace Bushnell; "The most absurd and rash hopes have sometimes been the main springs of extraordinary success."—Vauvenargues; "The longer I live, the more I am certain that the great difference between men, the great and the insignificant, is energy, invincible determination—a purpose once fixed, their death or victory!"—Fowell Buxton. "The world wants the kind of men who do not shrink back from Temporary defeats in life, but come again—wrestle triumph from defeat."—Roosevelt. "They conquer who believe they can. He has not learned the lesson of life who does not each day surmount a fear."—Emerson.

When things go wrong and look discouraging, and as we look ahead everything seems black—that is the time above all others when we need to "Carry On," with all of our strength possible. It is not always easy to do but it is sound advice, and if we keep earnestly striving to Carry on—we will eventually win out.

"The man who wins is the man who works,
Who neither labor nor trouble shirks;
Who uses his hands, his head, his eyes;
The man who wins, is the man who tries."

Last Spring, many people were saddened by the death of Dr. Samuel Palmer Brooks, President of Baylor University, Waco, Texas. Many others who did not know him were inspired by his last message to the world, "Carry On, Ideals never die." Dr. Brooks was born in Georgia, and brought up on a farm. His father was a very poor Baptist Minister. He (Dr. Brooks) worked his way through Baylor University, and later

PUT HIM OFF HIS PIPE

Indigestion and Acidity

"A few months ago, I had an attack of indigestion, heartburn and acidity, and had no appetite for meals, especially breakfast. I am a pipe smoker, and for several days I felt so ill I could not even look at my pipe. I decided to try Kruschen's. A few days afterwards I found that the heartburn and acidity had gone, and for the last five or six weeks I have been in my usual good health. I can now enjoy my pipe-smoking, and in fact feel about 10 years younger."—R. P.

When your digestive juices fail to flow freely your food lies in the system and ferments, thus causing the distress of indigestion. The "little daily dose" of Kruschen first stimulates the flow of the gastric juices, and then ensures complete, regular and unflinching elimination of all waste matter every day.

took his M.A. at Yale. During the thirty years of his Presidency of Baylor University, the students had increased from 700 to 3300. We are told that this year he carried out his task of signing the diplomas while his body was racked with pain and suffering, and as the last one was signed, he looked up and said: "I have tried to teach them how to live. I wish now to teach them how to die." His last message which he left to be read in chapel was: "Carry on. Men are mortal and pass away but the ideals upon which Baylor University is built, will never pass away." Let us each and all not forget that if we wish to achieve anything, we must go on, and on, even as Columbus did, when he braved so many hardships and made his momentous voyage of discovery.

SIR THOMAS SAILS HOME

Up in the Yachtsman's heaven,
Sailing a breeze that's fair,
Far from the fog's embraces,
Knowing no fear or care.

Cutting the blue green waters
Skimming the wondrous seas,
Never to lack the sunshine—
Never to lack a breeze.

Seeing the lee rail under,
Thrilled by the foaming wake,
Sensing the shrouds a-quiver,
Feeling the mainmast shake.

Youthful again, unwrinkled,
Filled with the zest of old;
Sprightly again and dashing—
Happy again and bold.

Boysish and gay and daring,
Carrying fullest sail;
Scurrying about the breakers,
Fearing no blow or gale.

Scorning the charts and bell buoys,
Needing no marks on land,
Knowing the course is charted
Well by an angel's hand.

Giving no thought to headlands,
Reefs or the hidden bar,
Needing no man-made compass—
Trusting to one great star.

Watching the sails fill fully,
Making the staysail snug;
Chatting with old-time cronies—
Talking about "the mug."

Peter to trip the mainsheet,
John leading hand, and Paul,
Matthew to help when needed—
Sailor-ma's buddies, all.

What is that off to leeward?
Look! On the rushing tide—
There in the misty shadows
All the old Shamrocks ride.

Spick as the day you launched them,
Piling your heart with joy;
Hark! On the winds a message—
Tommy! Ahoy! Ahoy!

There on the decks are standing,
Wet by the spray far-thrown,
Crews of the old-time Shamrocks
Waving a welcome home.

Peace be yours now, Sir Thomas,
Sailing the spirit coast;
Know that of all earth's sportsmen
You were beloved the most.

—H. I. Phillips.

We read that a London man left a hundred clocks in his will. An unusually large estate to wind up.

Whales have been caught with as much as two tons of shrimps inside them.

DIGBY and Vicinity

Through the Columns of This Edition Welcomes All Tourists to Make This Section of the Province One of Their Stopping Places in the "Seeing Canada First"—We Extend the Glad Hand of Hospitality—No Matter Whether You Come By Train, Auto, Airplane or Zeppelin, You Will Be Able to Secure Ample Accommodations and Everything You Need.

Canada Rapidly Becoming One Great Community

In the past decade, transportation and touring have perhaps had more influence upon our national life than any other single factor. With the development of the steam railroad to its fullest efficiency, with its luxurious trains, the electric line, the auto and the bus as well as the rapidly growing air travel we have devised ways and means of getting about that are not only comfortable but are luxurious. The cost of transportation has been greatly decreased by the advent of the auto and now the whole family can cross the continent for a price that is what it formerly cost the head of the family. This mingling of the people has had a great educating influence. Formerly, men lived and died in a community and many ventured not many miles from their doorstep thinking that they had the greatest place in the world. Now, all communities are rated for what they do and are, and each has its particular place in the one great community.

Good Roads Lead to Scenic Beauty

The first construction of highways was of necessity on the main lines of travel, but with their completion, we are now entering upon the final phases of this great development and good roads are passing the door of every farm house. This year, there will be thousands of miles added to the construction program and it will not be long before they are everywhere. Railroads have consolidated into vast systems that span the continent and the airplane lines are multiplying. It is, now, no trouble to get about

Every Family Should Take a Few Weeks Each Year to Tour

Marco Polo was the first great traveler of history and he brought home to his native city and country much valuable information which added to the education of the people. Since this time we have had many noted adventurers and explorers. Today, every man, woman and child should be a tourist for part of the year and see the country. It is important for the progress of the nation that all should observe how others are doing. Travel is one of the most broadening of the departments of education and completely does away with provincialism.

The vast empire of Great Britain is the result of discovery, travel and adventure.

Arrange Time for Leisure, Touring and the Art of Living

Canada has been a country going at a maddening pace and the story of business has been "Hurry, Hurry, Hurry." Many think they do not have time to look over the country. All will have time to die. When the hour comes, we take the time. You should arrange a trip to look over the development, the scenery and the progress of this great country.

We are now passing through the evolution of business life caused by the introduction of mass production in manufacture and on the farm. It will eventually give all leisure and time to look around. The more trips you arrange the more you are aiding in the great evolution and drifting towards the age when men will only work a few hours a day.

Good Roads Being Extended to Every Hamlet

For those who love the beauty of nature in all its variety, a tour of Canada offers an excellent reward. One can visit the mountains, the plains, see the oceans, the lakes and rivers. There is no thrill of natural beauty that cannot be found here. You can travel from the Atlantic to the Pacific and as you approach the Canadian Rockies you will see the eternal snows on the lofty peaks melt into white clouds and one might think he could climb to the skies.

Touring has become one of the nation's greatest pastimes and its broadening influence upon the national life is being felt in the molding of the country into one people and the elimination of the old idea of hermitage and aloofness.

As the general purpose of this edition is to give both the local and outside world an adequate idea of our progress and the general excellence of our various products, we deem it quite appropriate to devote space to this concern.

The Little River Brick Yard has a plant on the Red Head Road for the manufacture of high grade brick. They bought the best equipment that could be secured and their brick is meeting with the approval of the trade.

In this locality the analysis of the clay shows that it is peculiarly adapted to the production of high grade brick and with this foundation they equipped their plant with the latest scientific machinery for the production of a high grade product. Then the management has had in its employment only men of high state of efficiency and uniformity in the product. It may be well to add that it is one of the best equipped and one of our best conducted concerns while the products have always maintained high standard and find a large and ready sale.

Of recent years the papers and the legislative halls have sounded the note of the conservation of our natural resources and the public has risen with one accord and demanded legislation along these lines. It is not every community that has the advantage of the location of a progressive concern whose commercial activity is confined almost exclusively to these interests.

On account of their large production they will be in a position to furnish vast quantities of building brick for the coming campaign.

Their brick has been used extensively in this section. It enjoys a wide popularity as an ideal building brick. They are able to fill any size order and ship to any point.

The advantages of building with brick are self evident as it reduces the insurance, lasts forever, and the first cost in the last cost as it requires no paint nor upkeep and in the long run is the cheapest.

The preparation of meat for the table has been one of the disputed subjects from time immemorial but until the present day has the public had the privilege of eating meats so ably prepared as they are today. The butchers are expert meat cutters and thoroughly understand how the animals should be cut so that you get exactly what you want. If you want a roast, steak or boiling piece you will find that here they will see that you get the very best.

This market contributes to the advancement of the race by furnishing the best of meats as it is recognized by history that the meat eating nations have always ruled the world and brought advancement and progress. H. S. BRENNAN

With Office at 42 Princess Street, St. John, is an Architect Who Has Created Many of the Beautiful Homes and Business Buildings of the Maritimes—Mr. Brennan Offers the Most Modern Ideas and the Most Scrutinizing Supervision.

H. S. Brennan of St. John has established a widespread reputation and offers a service that is, also, very convenient.

Mr. Brennan has been a valuable contributor to the modern style of architecture which are now taking the country by storm. He has added original ideas in many of the buildings which have been widely imitated. He is a wide student of the various periods of architecture and no matter what style you may desire if you will take the matter up with him he will be able to offer original ideas that will make the building have an individuality about it which will greatly enhance its value.

All work is laid out both from a standpoint of appearance and correct design. All the rules of the underwriters as well as the provincial and local building codes are always taken into consideration and conformed to. Much of his work is hidden in the solid and modern construction. His buildings stand all kinds of storms and thus it is a kind of insurance to have him make up the design and specifications.

The services of an architect are not an extravagance, but an economy. The durability and low upkeep cost of houses depend on the quality and correctness of the original construction. An experienced architect will carefully supervise the construction and make sure that these very necessary factors are in your house. Furthermore, the architect will be able to save many dollars on the original construction by the securing of proper contracts and the careful supervision of orders so that there are no expensive lay-offs because of lack of materials.

During the days of building to last a competent man on the job who sees that all the plans are carefully carried out and that no inferior material finds its way into the building.

In this review, we are glad to call the attention of the public to the service of Mr. Brennan and to say that he is a great aid to the rebuilding of this section of Maritimes. His work will go down in the history of building as being original and attractive and his work will stand for generations as a monument to his genius.

CLIMO STUDIO

Located at 85 Garsmain Street, St. John, is One of the Leading Photographic Studios in the Maritimes and Feature Fine Work in Portraiture—A Portrait is the Most Appreciated Christmas Gift That You Can Give Your Family or Friends—Make Your Appointment Now.

The days of the renaissance mark the beginning of modern art and in the various branches it has progressed to a marked degree. Da Guerre obtained his inspiration for the invention of photography from the works of the masters of this period and at once combined art and mechanical science.

The Climo Studio of St. John is a students' and admirers' of the artists of the various periods and they have thoroughly absorbed the times in the rapid development of photography. They have equipped the studio from time to time to keep pace with rapid changes of the age of mechanics, but in all the work can be traced the eye of the artist and the careful touch that sets their photography off and makes it individual and different from that of the photographer who depends upon the camera alone.

In the artistic production of children's photographs they have won an enviable reputation for being able to "catch them" in the most natural and delightful moments. Among the prized possessions of hundreds of parents are photographs of their children. They feature a complete service in portraits. Here in their studio can be seen many photographs of the leading pioneers and residents of the county as well as the brides of the season, the graduates, the children, the reunion pictures and in fact everything from the simplest picture to the tinted portraits which are becoming so popular.

It is incumbent upon every man, woman and child to have photographs of themselves at the various ages so that the photographic record of the family can be maintained. If you are figuring on any photographic work it will pay you to have a little talk with them before they are experienced in arrangement and will see that you are photographed to the best advantage.

In making this review we are pleased to compliment The Climo Studio upon their successful career in the art circles of this part of the Maritimes and to refer the studio to all our readers.

Its friction reducing surface has made it adaptable for use of auto manufacturers in the place of case-hardening on such parts as pump shafts, wrist pins and crank shafts. The surface is said to reduce friction because of its hardness and smoothness. It beautifies and protects all metals. Let him renew your bath room fixtures, automobile bright work, golf clubs, etc., and other metal surfaces which should be bright. Chromium never needs cleaning and never tarnishes.

This plant is of great economic value to the people as their work saves the customers many dollars and the products as turned out are really better than new work.

They have all the well known patterns from China makers. These patterns reveal new modes for your dining room. In the glassware may be goblets, pitchers, sherbets, cocktails, plates, sugars and creamers in a fascinating variety of colors. But this whole stock must be seen in order to be really appreciated; that is why we recommend a visit here as likely to prove interesting and useful.

They also carry an extensive and varied line of crockery, of the finest domestic and imported manufacture. They feel that the crockery is one of the most important elements of home furnishings, and they are aiding their patrons to furnish their home with beautiful and fitting crockery. They have lines ranging in price to suit all purses, but they are universally practical and in good taste.

Just as soon as anything new comes out you will find it in this store. No matter where you may live it is very interesting to take a shopping tour through this store occasionally and look over the new stock which is arriving all the time.

In this review we are glad to compliment Mr. C. F. Brown on the position the store occupies in the home life of this part of the Maritimes and refer it to our readers as worthy of a shopping tour.

Siam's Rulers Visit Canada

Canada's most illustrious guests for the present week are undoubtedly Their Majesties the King and Queen of Siam, who, with a party of relatives, officials and servants from their own land, are at present making their way across this country and missing few if any of the sights that should be seen by the intelligent tourist in our midst.

The beautiful Wat Phnom temple, at Bangkok, capital of Siam, given in honor of the country's architecture. Lower: Their Majesties King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambhadrabajirak, landing from the Canadian Government steamer "Lady Grey," at Montreal, where they were welcomed by an enthusiastic welcome.

His Majesty King Prajadhipok, pronounced Pra-cha-ti-pok, with the accent on the second syllable, is the descendant of Buddha, and holder of half a dozen stirring Oriental titles, and furthermore, the unquestioned master of the destinies of ten million people. Naturally, then, one looks toward seeing him with keen interest, and all unprepared for the shock when a well-groomed gentleman steps from his train and with smiling courtesy and in English speech quite unobtrusively able from that spoken by cultured Canadians greets those who await him. Later we understand it. An Oxford education and a term or two at a French military school as well as visits of study to the United States and other occidental countries have had their effect upon a naturally active mind of an outstandingly intelligent nature.

Siam is fortunate in her King. Under his enlightened guidance she is moving slowly out of Oriental mediocrity into such modernism as is good for the country's welfare and happiness, not by revolution or the sudden casting away of long-tried things that have proved their use, but by the gradual assimilation of the things that are found good among the modern.

This ruler of men takes his kingly seriously. You see it in his every move, in his grave, thoughtful air, and in the serious respectful manner in which the members of his suite approach him. More than all it is seen in what he has done for Siam. Of his Queen, Rambhadrabajirak, little is known. Her charm of manner, and captivating smile have captured all who have met her ever since she first set foot on Canadian soil at Quebec. As modern as her husband, and speaking as excellent English, as indeed do all sixteen members of their suite, Her Majesty seems to enjoy every moment of her stay in Canada.

It is astonishing how interested the party are in Canadian history, and historic scenes. When at Quebec the battlefields of the Plains of Abraham were gone over most carefully and every interesting relic in and about the city was duly visited. The party occupied a complete upper floor of the tower of the Chateau Frontenac from where they had a view of the whole theatre of the struggle that ended in the fall of the French regime. His Majesty did not come to Canada as a stranger. He was here six years ago on his way to Europe and he already knew something of our history. In that fact lies the explanation of the exceedingly interesting statements he issued to the people of Canada upon his arrival at Quebec. It was as follows: "In landing upon this continent in British Columbia last April I expressed the hope that I might have an opportunity of seeing more of this great and growing member of the British Commonwealth of Nations. That hope is about to be realized. We shall remain for a time here in 'Old Canada' where the sturdy characteristics of French and British forbears have blended in a culture as admirable as it is unique. After meeting officials of the Government, and visiting the Capital of the Dominion, we shall travel west through Canada, remaining for a time in the Canadian Rockies before embarking at Vancouver. I look forward to the opportunity of seeing at closer range the people and the institutions of this nation whose vigor and progressiveness are so happily apparent."

PURCHASES BIG TIMBER TRACTS

Frank J. D. Barnum Adds To His Holdings of Douglas Fir on Island

Frank J. D. Barnum, Canada's greatest timber conservationist, has purchased another tract of virgin growth big trees in the Sahlam district of Vancouver Island to add to his already large holdings on the Island. The tract was purchased through the office of R. W. Hibbertson, forestry engineer. These tracts now held by Mr. Barnum, contain some of the largest Douglas fir trees remaining on the Pacific Coast, some of which measure twelve feet in diameter and 300 feet in height and are 900 or more years of age.

Mr. Barnum says, after noting the outrageous destruction that is now taking place in the Cameron Lake tract, the most attractive remaining piece of timber on Vancouver Island, that he will not rest till he has saved from the axe the few remaining tracts of these big trees in the Cowichan Lake district. The only way that this seems possible, he declares, is through their immediate purchase, as otherwise they will all have disappeared in a comparatively short time at the rate they are now being cut.

He says the cutting down of aged old giants is as wicked, and senseless, as it would be to tear down the Pyramids of Egypt, as the magnificent trees will soon be just as rare and scarce as pyramids.

The Cameron Lake district is the only remaining piece of virgin timber on the Vancouver Island highway.

During the horseshoe, Roy Robinson, a former Cub, passed his Tenderfoot Test and joined the Scouts.

Each week some Patrol chooses the game to be played during the recreation period. On Friday the Fox Patrol chose basketball. This game was won by the Wolf Patrol.

After the recreation period the proficiency badge essays were read. The Bear Patrol won with the Blacksmith's badge.

The Scouts are planning to hold a sing-song each Sunday afternoon during the winter. The only thing lacking to make these plans a reality is an organ.

Due to the absence of Cubmaster G. V. Turnbull, the Cub meeting was conducted by his assistant, Rufus Connor. There was a good attendance at the meeting and badge and test work was taken up.

Hunters Are Urged to Take Precautions

The importance of every precaution being taken and every safeguard against accidents being used is impressed upon Nova Scotians who propose entering the woods to hunt, by Otto Schierbeck, Chief Forester of the Department of Lands and Forests.

In an interview given to the press, the Chief Forester points to the fact that during the hunting season last year no less than eighteen serious accidents occurred and that this season, which opened on October 16, is going to be considerably more dangerous due to the increased number of hunters who will be in the woods and the added fact that it is permissible to shoot both doe and buck deer, thereby making it unnecessary for the hunter to assure himself that he is firing at an animal with horns.

The Department of Lands and Forests impresses upon all those securing hunting licenses the necessity of great care being taken while firearms are being used in the woods.

Speaking to a representative of the Courier recently, the Chief Forester of the Department said:

"The hunting season is now approaching and unfortunately with it a large number of accidents due to carelessness with firearms.

"Last year during the Big Game hunting season and the beginning of the Rabbit season, from October 16, to November 24, a little more than a month, not less than eighteen accidents occurred; nearly all of them resulting in the deaths of four of the largest number of people accidentally injured or killed were mistaken for a moose. Thirty-three percent of the accidents were due to this cause. The next largest cause of accidents was due to people picking their gun up by the muzzle when taking it out of a dory or car. Twenty-eight percent of the accidents occurred in this way. The balance of the accidents, thirty-nine percent, were mostly due to carelessness with firearms; partly caused by not putting on the safety when placing the rifle on the ground or against a tree, and partly caused by using old firearms, which were in poor repair, and went off for no apparent reason. I have seen guns on which the lock was so worn that the gun would discharge only by looking at it.

"In coming hunting season is going to be considerably more dangerous than any other hunting season we have ever had. In the first place, because the number of hunters is increasing by leaps and bounds. In 1925 the Department only sold 5,513 Resident Big Game licenses. In 1930, close to 13,000 Resident Big Game licenses were sold. Secondly, due to the fact that it is permissible to shoot both doe and buck deer on the mainland of the Province. When hunting deer previous to this year, every law-abiding hunter would, before shooting, assure himself that he was firing at an animal with horns, which was an added safeguard against accidents. This year, the hunters do not need to take this precaution when hunting deer and unless great care is taken the list of accidents will increase.

"In nearly all the States, and in British Columbia, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, Big Game hunters are required to be clothed in a complete outfit suit and cap of white material. Needless to say this is a nuisance and also a hindrance to the hunter when stalking a deer, and should not be necessary if each hunter will take care. The following safety precautions should be taken by all hunters during the hunting season:

1. Be sure that your gun is in good condition before going hunting. Keep it clean and well oiled. It is a good idea to have it examined before the hunting season opens by a gunsmith.
2. Do not carry a loaded gun in automobiles, wagons or canoes.
3. Do not use old cartridges.
4. If you stumble while carrying a gun, take out the cartridges and assure yourself that the barrel is not clogged with moss or dirt.
5. Never carry a cocked gun or a gun with the safety released.
6. When carrying a gun or holding it in your hand, never point it at another person, even if you are sure that the gun is not loaded.
7. Do not pick up a gun by the muzzle even if you are positive that the gun is not loaded.
8. Do not handle another person's gun without the owner's consent, and when doing so always consider the gun loaded.
9. When firing at Big Game or birds, assure yourself that there are no highways or habitations in line with your aim.
10. When hunting Big Game animals, do not fire at any moose without having a clear view of its head so that you can determine that it is a bull moose more than two years of age. When firing at a deer, you should have a full view of the whole animal so that you are able to place your bullet where it will kill the animal and not maim it. Every year a great number of wounded and maimed deer are reported by the Forest Rangers.
11. Do not go hunting while under the influence of liquor.
12. Do not take children under 18 years of age hunting. It is unlawful to allow them to hunt Big Game, and also you are endangering the life of your child or yourself by allowing them to handle firearms when their judgment is immature.
13. Observe the Game Laws and be careful with fire."

EDITOR'S MAIL

To the editor of the Courier:

"Sir: While looking over the Courier, I notice that John A. H. Nichols has some large vegetables. I have not been in the habit of weighing my vegetables, but I think Mr. Nichols must have been referring to the Mangle beets. I thought I would try a half dozen each. I pulled six table beets and they tipped the scales at 30 pounds; also six carrot: weight, 21 pounds; I raised these roots on common barn manure. I think Mr. Nichols will have to use fertilizer a little heavier next year to beat these.

THE PREVENTION OF DISEASE

(By Dr. Joseph Hayes)

In former days, the sole object of Medicine and Surgery was the cure or alleviation of disease. No attention was paid even to those crippled at birth by conditions which are now readily remedied, and crippled children have come into their own.

Many diseases highly destructive to life, were looked upon as inevitable plagues of humanity, and incapable; which are now found to be both preventable and curable.

Among the most striking diseases of this class are Tuberculosis, or the White Plague as it has been called; Small Pox or the Black Plague; Typhoid Fever; Diphtheria; Scarlet Fever; Erysipelas; Gangrene or Mortification; Tetanus or Lock Jaw. It is easily within the recollection of the present generation when all these diseases were rampant and yearly claimed numbers of human lives.

Today they are practically unknown as epidemic diseases, with the exception of Tuberculosis, which is just as amenable to proper measures of cure and prevention as the others mentioned.

The control of Tuberculosis is the biggest health problem with which the civilized world is confronted, and besides it overlaps the whole domain of the general public health.

The success of this problem needs the co-operation of everybody. Within a few weeks now the annual drive for funds to aid the poor in this fight will be on in connection with the annual Christmas Tuberculosis Seal Sale.

There has never been a year when there was more need of universal co-operation than in this year of great depression.

Skies overcast.
Summer is past.
Clouds everywhere—
What do I care!
Fall is here,
Someone is near.

Come, hail or snow!
Hurricanes, blind!
What do I mind!
Someone is kind.

Stalwart and brave,
Let the storms rave!
Here at his side,
Safely I'll hide.

Try Magnesia For Indigestion

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and got little more than slight temporary relief—sometimes not even that.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk, but pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four tablets with a little water or milk, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment, and now causes gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion.

Mr. Justice W. M. Martin

ONE of the most important committees of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference is known as the Citizens' Committee. This committee acts as a medium through which matters pertaining to the mutual welfare of the Exhibition and Conference and the city of Regina (where the world-wide event is to be held in 1932) are carried to the organizations having representation on the committee.

Mr. Justice W. M. Martin, of the Court of Appeal of Saskatchewan, is chairman of the citizens' committee. He was born at Norwich, Oxford County, Ontario, and received his education at the Exeter Public School, Clinton Collegiate Institute, Toronto University and Osgoode Hall.

Moving to Regina in 1903, Judge Martin engaged in the practice of law. He was elected to the House of Commons as member for Regina in the elections of 1908 and 1911. In 1916 he was called upon to assume the Premiership of Saskatchewan and also took the portfolio of education. He became a member of the Court of Appeal of Saskatchewan in 1922.

A ROYAL OAK MOUNTIE WHO ALWAYS "GETS HIS CUSTOMER"

FRED SIMPSON

A clipping from the Royal Oak Tribune, Detroit, Michigan

A fugitive from justice wouldn't have a chinaman's chance if this fellow were stalking him on the Yukon trail. Fred Simpson was a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police for eight years and the "mounties" always "get their man."

Since Fred put off the scarlet, blue and gold uniform of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and became a "plain clothes" milkman for the Detroit Creamery, he has not lost the perseverance for which the mounted police are world-famous. Today, he "gets his customer". And his years with the royal police force added to his more than ten years' experience in the milk business make him one of the best equipped men in the Royal Oak Branch to sell and deliver the fresher, purer dairy products of Detroit Creamery to his customers in East Ferndale.

"The connection between being a 'mountie' and being a milkman" said Fred with a laugh when we put the question, "Well, there isn't any. When I was on the force I guess I prided myself, like the others, on 'getting my man'. Now of course I hunt for good business and good customers along my route. I try to sell my customers on the extra-purity and extra-richness of Detroit Creamery milk and cream. I find it's easier to 'get your customer' when you have first rate products such as Detroit Creamery dairy foods to sell. My job as milkman keeps me 'in the saddle' pretty long hours, but I like it."

Not long ago a lady's purse containing $5.00 was lost outside a home on Fred Simpson's milk route. Fred found it and returned it to the customer, who had given up the purse as lost or stolen. That tells you something about Detroit Creamery milkmen.

Fred has worked for the Royal Oak branch of Detroit Creamery for six years. He has a home at 316 Br. Kenridge, Ferndale, and a delightful family of three children, Mariel, Allen and Betty. If you are a Fred's milk route you know all about his prompt, dependable service and unfailing courtesy. If you're not one of Fred's customers for the pure milk and dairy foods of Detroit Creamery, you will be some day. It may take days and it may take years, but eventually the "mountie" always "gets his man."

The above is one of our Bear River R. I. boys and son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Joshua Simpson. He served in the World War and later in the R. C. M. P. as related above.

HAPPY HUNTING GROUNDS OF NOVA SCOTIA

We believe that the following constitutes a record. On Friday last, Arthur Hatt, one of the proprietors of Hatt's Cabins, on Sixth Lake Stream, accompanied by Earl Hardy, left his camp and in four hours time, was back, having shot a fine bull moose, a large deer and a good sized bear. It did not cost much for ammunition, as it took only one shot for each animal. This "is also suggestive of the excellent marksmanship of the hunter. Let us have a hunting trip to match this. Congratulations Messrs Hatt and Hardy."

OBITUARY

MRS. I. D. LYTLE

Many friends in these parts will learn with regret of the death of Mrs. Lytle, wife of Rev. I. D. Lytle, pastor of the Baptist church, at Lewisville, Westmorland County, which occurred shortly after noon on Monday, at the Baptist parsonage there. While she has not been in robust health for many years, her general condition was good until some four weeks ago when she suffered a serious heart attack, and since which time she gradually weakened. She was a native of Clementsvalle, and was 56 years of age. Before her marriage, she was Miss Laura Millet, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Millet. She enjoyed a wide acquaintance not only in her home county but also in Parssboro and other places in Nova Scotia, where her husband held pastorates before coming to Lewisville, two years ago. Besides her husband, she leaves two brothers, Fred W. Millet, of Clementsvalle and Frank Millet, of Boctou; also three sisters, Mrs. Avar Beeler and Mrs. O. P. Covert, both of Bridgetown, and Mrs. Harriet Tupper, of Clementsvalle. A funeral service was held at Lewisville Baptist church on Tuesday morning, conducted by the Baptist ministers of Moncton. The remains were taken to Saint John, from where they were forwarded by boat to Digby and thence to Clementsvalle by train where burial was made.

MRS. OSCAR FRASER

It was with genuine regret that news was received of the passing of Mrs. Oscar Fraser (Lily Wright) at her home in Princetown, Sunday morning, Oct. 8, at the age of 87. A woman of sterling qualities, she will be much missed by her devoted family and numerous friends. She was a daughter of the late David B. and Janet (Beeler) Wright, and lived her early life in Virginia, later coming to Princetown where she endeared herself to all her associates. Surviving are the husband, daughter Nettie, and son Lester; and three sisters and nine brothers, viz: Mrs. Leslie Baird, Clementsvalle; Mrs. Harry Sibbons, Mrs. Ruby Harnish, Greywood; Forman, Gardiner, Mill-edge, Eustace, in Princetown, and Norris, Martin, Chipman, Lovell, Truman in the United States.

THE OLD TIME GRANDMA

You may talk of modern Grandmas.

As for me, I must confess, That I like the old time Grandma With a peck in her dress.

She's an expert cookie maker, And she sings an old-time song; And a boy may always take her All his griefs, when things go wrong.

She believes in God and Heaven, She believes in boys and girls; Such a Grandma is God-given And the backbone of the world.

All your talk of modern Grandmas.

Charmus me not; I must confess, That I like the old time Grandma With a pocket in her dress.

The home of Leonard Berry, at Clementsport, was totally destroyed by fire on Tuesday morning. THE INSIGNIFICANT EARTH

Earth dwellers laboring under the delusion that they and their interests are of vast importance in the scheme of the universe will derive little satisfaction from the calculations of Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of Harvard observatory. These calculations should do much toward reducing inflation of the human ego and should serve to demonstrate that the most important of man's activities are to the universe, in a material point of view, somewhat as the penny to a $20,000,000,000 war debt.

The earth is not the centre of the universe, nor is it an even important part of the celestial system, physically considered. In fact, we are 2,000 light years or approximately 300,000,000,000,000 miles as the crow flies, from that centre, according to Dr. Shapley's calculations.

If it were possible to draw a map of the universe to scale, the earth would occupy relatively a less prominent place than any little cross-roads village on a map of the world. And yet there are possible standards of relative importance other than physical dimensions, and the Harvard observatory figures will not shake the belief in the minds and hearts of millions that the stars were created for our guidance and pleasure, and the sun and moon to give us light and heat.

Nearly 500 issuers of Big Game Licenses have been appointed by the Department of Lands and Forests so that Nova Scotians entering the forests to hunt may conveniently secure the necessary licenses. Those responsible for the issuing of licenses in each county include certain citizens and also the Game Wardens employed by the Department.

During recent years there has been a great increase in the number of Resident Big Game licenses issued. In 1925 only 5513 licenses were issued and this had increased in 1930 to 12,800 licenses. In view of the fact that citizens in all parts of the province desire to secure licenses to hunt the Department of Lands and Forests has endeavored to appoint license issuers in central places so that the public may be extended as much convenience as possible.

Mrs. S. S. Aymar entertained at nine tables of bridge, in her home on Birch Street, on Tuesday evening.

Christmas At Home

"In half a minute Mrs. Cratchit entered—flushed, but smiling proudly—with the pudding, like a speckled cannon-ball, so hard and firm, blazing with half a hundred of ignited brandy, and decorated with Christmas holly stuck into the top."

Not very many words, but in those few words Dickens tells us the reasons why every year Canadians from all over the Dominion look towards England and the old-fashioned Christmas.

And the ghostly smell of the Christmas pudding, "like an eating-house and a pastrycook's next door to each other, with a laurel wreath next to that!" has an influence on steamship passenger officials as they make up their sailing lists.

This year the Canadian Pacific has arranged four sailings from Saint John, N.B., designed to allow home-ward bound Canadians to reach even the remotest parts of the British Isles in time for the great Christmas festival. They are the Montreal for Glasgow, Belfast and Liverpool, December fifth, Duchess of Devonshire to the same ports December 11th, Montrose to Cherbourg, Southampton and Antwerp December 12th, Duchess of Richmond to Glasgow, Belfast and Liverpool December 16th, for the real last-minute travellers.

Kiwanis Club To Give Halloween Party

There is some class to the Kiwanis now—last Monday they held their luncheon on board the "Princess Helene", and this majestic ship will be their home for the winter months at least, and it is almost safe to say that the Digby Kiwanis Club is the only club on the North American Continent that holds its luncheons on board a passenger steamer.

On Monday, in the absence of the president, M. C. Denton, vice-president, P. W. Holdsworth, presided. The programme was devoted to practicing songs for the big time on Monday night.

This big time is the Kiwanis Ladies' night, and will be in the Ocean Gardens, where the Kiwanis and their queens will have a real old fashioned Halloween party. There will be no luncheon at noon on Monday.

Annapolis Presbytery Meet In Bridgetown

The Annapolis Presbytery of the United Church met last week at Bridgetown. Sessions were held morning, afternoon and evening. At the morning session, the routine business was taken up. The matter of admitting women to the eldership was discussed, and it was unanimously decided that they should be admitted. In the afternoon, Kagawa's book "The Religion of Jesus" was discussed, a review of the book being given by Rev. M. P. Ewing. Rev. J. H. Arnup, of Toronto, spoke in the evening on the missionary situation in China, and the "Challenge Extraordinary" of Saskatchewan. A resolution was carried regretting that the word of public men cannot be trusted, and protesting against the Berwick military.

Young People Hold Convention At Middleton

The Young People's Convention of the Annapolis Presbytery was held on Monday, at Middleton. The attendance was good, thirty-five being present from Digby, which sent the largest delegation. In the afternoon, the convention separated into five groups and discussed the work of the five departments, Christian Fellowship, Missions, Literature, Citizenship and Recreation. At the supper table, the findings of these groups were presented to the convention. Prof. Thompson of Pine Hill College, gave a splendid address in the evening on the Jerusalem missionary conference. Among the officers elected were: Pres. Harry Cantwell, Digby; Ist. Vice-Pres. Carlos Connell, Berwick.

H. T. Warne Advertising For Men

In the local column this week, we are running a "local reader" advertisement for H. T. Warne, who wants to hire a few men to cut pulpwood for him by the cord. Mr. Warne is also wanting to purchase a quantity of wood. It seems good to know that in these times when everyone is talking about the hard winter ahead of us, that there is at least one local firm anxious to take a more help. They don't seem to preach "hard times" down at "Tupper's" place anyway! When business isn't as good as it ought to be, they push the wheels turning and the saws buzzing. The people of Digby, are commending to realize after all these years, just how great an industry H. T. Warne controls down there in the South End.

NEW DATES ARE SET FOR WORLD'S GRAIN EXHIBITION AT REGINA

World-wide Exhibition and Conference Now To Be Held July 24 August 5, 1933.

The new dates were set at a meeting of the executive and finance committee of the organization a few days ago, at which meeting the members concurred in the announcement recently made by Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture for Canada, that the undertaking should be postponed for one year. The executive and finance committee will at once proceed with the planning for the carrying out of the exhibition and conference in 1933. All countries will be notified of the change of dates and those who have already accepted the invitation to participate will be requested to allow their acceptance to stand for 1933.

STORM IS HEAVY IN DIGBY COUNTY

Early Monday morning, the worst electrical storm in recent years passed over Digby county, leaving a distorted telephone service in some sections, damage to hydro lines and other minor damage in its wake. The storm broke with terrific intensity at about 4:30 and lasted one hour. A house at Little River was struck by lightning, but fortunately the fire that started was controlled. Hydro and telephone lines were on the repair job at an early hour, establishing communication between Smith's Cove and the villages down Digby Neck. Rain fell in torrents. Lightning demolished the spire of the church of Mount Carmel, at Concessions and did considerable damage to the interior of the structure, when two bolts struck at the height of the electrical storm. The worshippers had just left the building when the lightning struck and Father LeQuemener, who was in the church, rang the bells, recalling the parishioners. Fire which broke out was extinguished mostly by the rain.

Bible Society Held Interesting Meeting

A meeting under the auspices of the Bible Society was held on Thursday evening, in the United Church hall, which proved of great interest to the small number present. The first address was given by Rev. Mr. McKim, the agent for the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland. He showed some fine pictures of scenes in Italy, taken by Mr. Ritson, the former Canadian secretary and spoke of the work of the colporteurs there. Rev. Mr. Armour was the second speaker. This was the first time a Canadian secretary had come to Digby, and he spoke of the great work, the society is doing all over the world.

MOUNT ALLISON COLLEGE NOTES

Last week was a most important one in the history of Mount Allison. Many significant events took place. The Federated Council of the Alumni and the Alumnae, with representatives from all over the Maritime Provinces, heartily endorsed the proposal to consider the endowment of a Chair in the University. Saint John Mount A. Society, headed by W. Grant Smith, Barrister, brought a substantial gift to the Council. The Lunenburg-Queens society of the South Shore of Nova Scotia, announced the creation of a bursary of $100.00.

The new science building, costing a quarter of a million dollars, was formally opened and dedicated to the search for truth. Though not so large as some of the science buildings on the Continent, yet it is considered the best of its kind, thoroughly equipped with every modern convenience, having consideration of the comfort as well as the convenience of the students. In other years, Maritime students had to go far afield for their higher sciences. We are grateful to know that the very best may be procured at home. This new building makes a tremendous contribution to education in the Maritime Provinces. The new central heating plant, completed just before the fall term, supplies heat for every building on the campus. This has proved to be a great step in economy. The Board of Regents met during the week and authorized the immediate installation of a plant for the pasteurization of milk.

Mount Allison seems to be taking this matter of education very seriously and is approaching it with all the modern scientific methods. Dr. G. J. Trueman, the popular president, is to be heartily congratulated on these forward steps. The Maritime Provinces share in the pride and are grateful to the president for these additions in the realm of education.

On a recent Sunday evening, the Young People's Society of the Parrsboro church presented the Bible drama "Ruth", written by the pastor, Rev. H. L. Denton, of Little River, in this County. Opposition Takes Only 58 Seats; An Amazing Proof of Confidence

More Coal Found At Acadiaville

There has been another discovery of coal on the Franklin claims at Acadiaville. During the week these claims have been visited by one of the Provincial engineers, who returned to Halifax carrying samples of the coal and rock, but as yet no report has been received. A C. P. R. engineer, one who has been on the scene before, is expected any day. On his first trip, he gave as his opinion that the seam would be reached within a hundred feet from the surface.

We understand that another small lot was found in Delph Marshall's orchard, last Sunday afternoon. As a matter of fact prospect holes sunk anywhere within two or three miles of the original discovery reveal coal.

The steamer, Rio Tambo, Capt. Peters, has been in port at Plympton, where she loaded 140 cords of hardwood for the Gloucester Coal Company, Gloucester, Mass. The cargo was shipped by Capt. B. N. Melanson, of Port Gilbert.

The elections in Great Britain this week resulted in the victory of the Nationalist party, under the direction of Ramsey MacDonald, which amassed the most overwhelming majority the House of Commons has seen in modern times. With the results of yesterday's general election virtually complete the National Government—Conservatives, National-Labor and National-Liberal—was assured a majority of 500 over all other parties combined.

The Labor Party's representation in the house had shrunk from 270 to 80. Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, new Parliamentary Leader of the Labor Party, lost his own seat in Burnley.

Six hundred and ten out of 615 members have been returned to the House of Commons. The remaining five results will not be known for some days.

The party standing is as follows: Conservative 472; gains 207. National Labor 13; gains 13. National Liberal 65; gains 26; losses 12.

Labour Party 50; losses 235. Lloyd George Liberals 5. Independents 5; gains 3; losses 3. The result of the last general election, May 30, 1929:

Labour 288. Conservative 260. Liberals 58. Independents 9.

SCANDINAVIANS INTERESTED IN WORLD'S SHOW

Ministry Of Agriculture taking Keen And Practical Interest In 1933 Exhibition And Conference

Keen interest has been aroused in Scandinavian countries in the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference, according to Frederick H. Palmer, Canadian Government Trade Commissioner at Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Finland.

Mr. Palmer is visiting in Canada at present and, in a radio address a few days ago, stated that just before he left Norway, the Ministry of Agriculture exhibited a keen and practical interest in the progress being made in this great Canadian undertaking.

"Agriculture representatives of the Scandinavian countries," Mr. Palmer said, "are constantly travelling through Western Canada investigating new methods of agriculture to assist them in keeping abreast of the times." Mr. Palmer also stated that the superiority of Canadian grain is recognized in all the Scandinavian countries and that only recently he had arranged a large shipment of Marquis Wheat from Western Canada for experimental purposes on the government farms of these countries. "The value of such a world-wide exhibition and conference to agriculture as a whole is clearly understood in these Scandinavian countries," he stated.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

The results in last week's elections for the Municipal Councilors in this County show very little change of personnel. In many of the Districts the old Councilors were returned by acclamation; and in most districts where contests took place, the former Councilors were victorious. The complexion of the Councils in both Municipalities, Digby and Clare, remains therefore, practically the same. Consequently not much change in policy need be looked for. We fear that taxation will remain high, or, perhaps, still higher, and that the usual system of drift will likely be continued.

In our opinion, the time has come for a drastic reform in the matter of public expenditures. For some reason or other the yearly amounts assessed upon the Municipalities have been steadily and rapidly increasing. The ability of the people to pay these taxes has not been increasing in the same proportion. We are informed that the amount of taxes collected in the Municipality of the District of Digby last year was about three times as large as that collected twenty years ago. That is an alarming rate of increase. It should be the first and chief business of the new Councils to see whether a halt cannot be made in expenditure, and economies introduced whereby taxation in future will be lessened.

Everywhere public attention is being called to the steadily mounting burdens of taxation and public debt. Bankruptcy is already staring many governing bodies in the face. In a late issue the Financial Post says: "Inevitably there must be a limit to this extortion of money from the people in the form of taxation and this piling-up of huge debts. Ratepayers are able to bear only a certain burden. When it gets beyond their ability to pay, the time of reckoning is at hand. And in some cases where governments have gone steadily ahead spending money without making much effort to do as private business has been compelled to do in the curtailment of costs and the elimination of waste, it has already arrived."

If the Councils will bear in mind that it is their first duty to protect the welfare of all the people and especially of all the ratepayers, these Municipalities, we feel sure that they will be able to find many ways in which they can lighten the burden of taxation. If, as we believe, much of the increase in expenditure is due to obligations placed upon the Municipalities by outside authorities, for which the Councils are not responsible, then let the Councils present a united front against such obligations, and the people will back them up.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

As has been done in past years, a poppy wreath will be placed by the Government in Nova Scotia on every War Memorial in Nova Scotia, on the 11th of November.

Speaking over the radio recently in support of the effort of the Canadian Legion in connection with the annual sale of poppies for the benefit of needy war veterans, Premier Harrington said that the Government placed wreaths on all war memorials believing that the public of the Province desires this recognition of the sacrifice made by its citizens. The head of the Provincial Government urged the citizens of Nova Scotia to support the sale of poppies on November 7th.

During the course of his brief radio address, Premier Harrington said:

"The Canadian Legion has asked me to announce that the annual sale of poppies for the benefit of needy war veterans will take place this year on Saturday, the 7th of November. It will have been noticed that Thanksgiving Day is now separated from the Anniversary of the signing of the Armistice and that by an act passed at Ottawa last Session, November 11th, in each year is to be known as Remembrance Day.

"On Remembrance Day short church services will be held, wreaths will be placed on Memorials and generally there will be remembrance of the sacrifice made by our men and women in the war. About the same time, therefore, it is fitting that a disposal of poppies made by disabled war veterans in Halifax should take place to bring to memory those of the veterans of the war who are at present in need as well as those who made the supreme sacrifice.

HURRYING

The world is moving at such a rapid pace today, that it seems as if everyone is constantly saying, "Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!" How often we are forced to say, "I should love to do so and so, but I haven't time." We sometimes wonder if we will some day find time to die. The following is a paragraph from an article entitled "A Lesson From the Indian," taken from the Warton Echo.

"Recently in Warton, we lost one of our good citizens by death. I was discussing the affair with one of the Indians. He said, 'Yes, Mr.—was a good man. Sorry he's gone. White man he not live long enough. Too much hurry and too much worry. He too busy thinking about tomorrow, next week, next year. Indian man satisfied with today, no care for tomorrow. White man too busy, too much money running to his head. He too greedy—wants more than he needs. When he gets his breakfast, him worrying about his supper. Too much worry for white man. Him die too soon.'"

It is true that most of us go hurrying along the street, and to and from work or wherever we happen to be going; running up and down stairs; rushing through our meals. But is all of this hurry really necessary? We think that it is, but it is not after all just a ridiculous habit, which we could readily readjust and overcome? Do we not invariably slip in bed five minutes longer than we should and thus are five minutes behind each day, causing us to hurry scurry to catch up? Will we ever really catch up in this way?

Why can we not take a lesson from the stoical and matter of fact Indian, whom nothing ever excites and who is never in a hurry? Would we not all be happier human beings, if we could be thus calm and collected and have time enough to spare each day, to be able to stop for a few minutes to enjoy the great out-of-doors? Whether it be to watch the early morning mist, on the river, a few beautiful clouds, the glint of a rainbow, a sunrise or sunset, a branch of beautiful Autumn leaves, frost on a window pane, the sparkle of sun on the snow, the moon gleaming across the water, the Northern lights, the stars, or any of the gifts which Nature so freely bestows.

It was winter and late in the day, I'd a big hill before me to climb. When I came on a cheery old chap by the way.

Who was wrinkled and wise as Old Time;
I saw that he carried a burden and tarried
To offer what help I could lend,
But he said, "There's no hurry;
My motto's 'Don't worry!'
Things always come right in the end!"

Then I asked while we stayed by a stile,
What he thought about life as a game,
And he summed it all up with a whimsical smile,
"Things have always been nearly the same.

Some folks must be frettin' when troubles they're gettin',
But bad luck is certain to mend;
An' whatever be goin' there's nothin' like knowin'
Thing allus come right in the end."

Then he sturdily shouldered his load
While he turned about to the West;
Where it seemed that the sunset spread gold on his road.
As he trudged away to his rest,
For his wisdom was olden and even as golden

As any that Solomon penned—
Through life we may hurry, but
Why should we worry?
Things always come right in the end.

GAME CRISIS COMING

A New York Rod and Gun writer says:

The waterfowl shooting situation in America has reached a crisis. Following prolonged periods of drought, the Department of Agriculture reduced the open season throughout the United States to one month. This action was taken as an emergency measure. Constructive efforts must follow.

It is contended that refuges, consisting of suitable breeding and resting grounds, must be established if the sport of gunning for waterfowl is to be perpetuated. Opinions vary as to the best period of acquiring these refuges, but it generally is conceded that speedy action is imperative. Federal taxes on ammunition or gunners have been proposed. Opponents to the tax on ammunition claim that such a tax would be unfair to upland hunters and trap shooters who may not engage in waterfowl shooting.

"Field and Stream" has come out in favor of sanctuaries to be established by a dollar Federal tax on waterfowl shooters and is polling its readers to ascertain their sentiments. The current issue of that magazine carries a questionnaire asking if sportsmen are willing to back a game refuge bill with a Federal tax of $1. Edith F. Warner, the publisher, said:

"There is ample reason to fear that reduction of the shooting season and bag limits this year will prove to be insufficient, and that there may be an entirely closed season next year, and perhaps for several years, unless something is done to assure adequate breeding grounds for our wild fowl."

"If this occurs it is going to throw a sudden and tremendous burden on other species of game, principally upland birds and rabbits, because seven or eight out of every ten gunners, if deprived of their duck and goose shooting, will spend their available shooting time in other kinds of hunting. Such a condition if prolonged for even a few years, would almost certainly lead to greatly reduced seasons, for many, if not all of these species of game, in order to save them."

In short, I see in this wildfowl situation what I consider a very real threat to virtually all kinds of shooting in America, certainly to all kinds that are done with a scatter gun. Mr. Warner explained that "Field and Stream" will urge the enactment of a bill to provide breeding, resting and wintering grounds for waterfowl.

The experiences of trout anglers during the last season in streams in the southern part of New York State indicate that many of these waters were affected seriously by the droughts of 1929 and 1930.

During the height of the dry spell we looked over several small streams which had furnished excellent fishing but were, when we saw them, completely dry. Even some of the larger streams such as the upper Schoharie in Greene County, were reduced to mere trickles among the rocks. While undoubtedly, trout managed to survive in the deeper pools, low water and high water temperatures proved disastrous to many fish.

We believe that extensive restocking and several successful breeding seasons are necessary to restore the fishing in many streams and hope that individual sportsmen and sportsmen's organizations will make early application to the Conservation Commission for trout to restock the local waters. Applications for fish should be mailed to the Conservation Department, Division of Fish and Game, Albany, N. Y.

THE MIGRATORY SCOT

(Edinburgh Scotsman)
Scotland as the census figures shows, has a shrinking population, not evidence of a dwindling Scottish race. It is merely a sign of a migration to the large cities at home, to the towns and cities of the south, and in a great degree to the Dominions overseas. The balance of outward over inward migration was no less than 328,764 in ten years. We frequently hear that Scotland does not stand where it did in every branch of learning and enterprise but the fact seems to be that Scotland is tending to overrun the rest of the world. When Scots people are driven to stay at home, because they are not wanted in other parts, it will be time enough to bemoan national decay. Perhaps the time will come when the rest of the world will discover that Scottish women also are the salt of the earth. In the event, the present preponderance of females—about 180,000 in excess of the males—may rapidly diminish.

NEW GAME FOR HALLOWE'EEN

An interesting game called "The Black Cat and Her Kittens" is suggested in the Parent's Magazine, as something that will be a howling success at a Halloween party for small children. The child who is chosen to be the black cat, leaves the room and all the rest of the children take their places around the table and lay their heads on their arms in such a way that they cannot see what is going on in the room. The one in charge of the game then touches several of the children on their heads and they become the black cat's kittens. The black cat is recalled and her kittens try to locate her mother. She must try to locate her kittens by their meows. The first kitten to be found by the mother black cat must take her place for the next round. After the first kitten is located the rest must keep on meowing until their mother finds them.

OYSTER FARMING

Oyster culture, followed on an extensive scale in the coast waters of the United States, is about to be taken up in Prince Edward Island, as it must be, sooner or later, in all the Maritime Provinces of Canada, which produce shell fish unequalled in quality by any part of the world. According to advices from Ottawa as the result of scientific study and experimental operations conducted under its auspices in the Malpeque Bay region, the Dominion Department of Fisheries has developed a programme for the encouragement of commercial oyster culture in Prince Edward Island which it is believed will establish oyster farming as one of the most outstanding industries of the province.

Oyster farming has become an important industry in different countries of the world and the department's investigations indicate that like success may be expected in Prince Edward Island. Oyster culture, under suitable conditions, is as feasible as agriculture, and much more profitable, while, on the other hand, the experience of oyster producing countries has shown that natural public beds cannot continue to supply an increasing demand and that attempts to make them do so result always in depletion.

In brief, under the programme now adopted, leases of areas for oyster farming will be available in the Malpeque region and on other suitable grounds in the province which are not now public commercial oyster beds. The leases will be for a term of twenty years and will be renewable, so that leases may be assured of a length of tenure sufficient to warrant them in undertaking the work and outlays necessary to build up successful farms. Small annual license fees will be charged lessees in the first five years of their operations and from then onward a reasonable royalty on production will also be collected. The results of the study and experimentation carried on by the department in the Malpeque Bay region will be available to lessees for their information and assistance.

Investigation to determine the best methods to follow to carry on successful oyster farming in Prince Edward Island was begun in 1928, following an agreement made with the provincial authorities whereby complete jurisdiction over the oyster areas, for administrative purposes, was vested in the Department, which, on its side, undertook to take such steps as it might find advisable looking to the development and improvement of the island's oyster resources. Prior to that time, although the oyster farming possibilities of the Maritime Provinces had been realized, uncertain and divided jurisdiction as between the federal and provincial governments had delayed progress. To overcome this difficulty, agreements were made in 1912 between the Dominion and the governments of the three Maritime Provinces whereby the latter were given authority enabling them to encourage commercial oyster culture. Little advance, however, followed these agreements. Subsequently, there was renewal of the proposal that complete jurisdiction be vested in the federal authorities, and in 1928 it was adopted, so far as Prince Edward Island was concerned.

On the completion of this agreement, the Department of Fisheries instituted investigations in Malpeque Bay, an area once famous for its oyster production but robbed of its stock some years ago by a disease which was evidently introduced by so-called seed oysters brought from United States beds. The programme of investigation was mapped out to include scientific research and actual oyster farming, and it has now proceeded far enough to demonstrate clearly that by the application of proper methods—methods which are neither difficult nor unduly costly—the Malpeque region can be made to produce a much larger quantity of oysters than it ever produced in the past and that oyster farming can also be extended to cover large areas in other parts of the province. As indicating the possibilities, it is pointed out by the Department that a small area in Bideford River which was prepared and planted with spat in 1928 now has on it some 200,000 oysters, or about 200 barrels, which will be marketable next year. An incidental but important point as to the benefits which may be expected to follow from oyster farming is the fact that operations of this kind are a source of considerable employment, giving work, certainly, to more people than would be engaged in oyster fishing on any public beds similar in size to the areas being farmed.

Under the plan now announced, the general condition, as already indicated, will be that areas in Malpeque Bay and the streams tributary to it, and other suitable areas which are not public commercial beds, will all be available for leasing. Two exceptions, however, are made to this general rule: That portion of Bideford River above Dawson's Point will be reserved for investigation and experimental work; secondly, areas that are most suitable for spat collecting will be reserved from leasing and will be available to all lessees for this purpose. Other details of the plan, in addition to the provision that each lease will be for the term of twenty years and will be renewable, are as follows:

For the first three years of his lease each lessee will be charged an annual fee of $1 per acre or fraction of an acre, and for the next two years the fee will be at the rate of $3 an acre or fraction thereof. Ad production should be on a substantial paying basis at the end of five years, a royalty on production will also be charged from that time onward, the amount of royalty being reasonable and keeping in mind the cost of direct administration.

If conflicting applications for the same areas should be made, they will be dealt with according to the following order of preferences: Pre-

CALCULATING THE "MEAN SEA LEVEL"

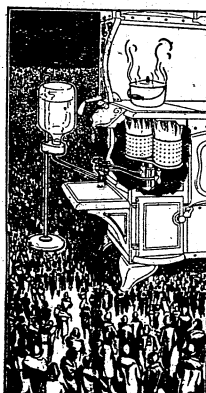

"Mean Sea Level" is a term applied to the average level of the surface of the ocean and is determined by instruments placed at the sea shore and read over a period of years. This gives what might be called a basic equipotential surface or an equal elevation surface from which to measure elevations of points on the continents of the earth. The shape of this mean sea level surface is that of the spheroid; a sphere compressed in the direction of the poles, says a bulletin from the Geodetic Survey at Ottawa.

The accuracy of the elevation determined for any point therefore depends on two things: first, the accuracy of the tidal gauge which fixes mean sea level; and second, the degree of accuracy with which the engineer can run his lines of levels. The first of these—the tidal gauge accuracy—is perhaps the most important and at the same time the most uncertain. A long period is necessary in order to strike a reliable mean. Short terms of gauge-reading are very unsafe. Perhaps a more important item still is the choice of position of the tidal gauge. It is found that if the gauge is placed in a harbour or bay well surrounded by land the readings are quite different from those taken on the open coast. A number of very reliable tidal stations have been established by the Hydrographic Survey of the Department of Marine and these have been used by the Geodetic Survey of Canada, Department of the Interior, as the starting points for level lines.

ference will be given, first, to the owners of foreshore opposite the areas sought, up to a reasonable limit; next to residents of the immediate district; then to other persons or companies in Prince Edward Island; and, fourth, to persons or companies outside the province.

NOVA SCOTIA POWER COMMISSION'S 5TH HYDRO SYSTEM

The eighth hydro system of the Nova Scotia Power Commission will go into commercial operation on November 1st, with the town of Antigonish as its main customer. The power supply for this new system will come from the Commission's Sheet Harbour Hydro Electric system and will reach Antigonish over two sections of transmission line which have been built during the past three months spanning the distance between Stellarton, Pictou County and Antigonish.

The opening of this new system finds seven other hydro projects already in operation by the commission, namely, the systems known as St. Margaret's Bay, Mushamung, Sheet Harbour, Mersey, Markland, Tusket and Roseway.

The opening of this new service marks the fifth additional system added to the program of the Commission since the new Nova Scotia Power Commission, of which Hon. J. F. Fraser, is chairman, took office in 1925. The new systems added by the present commission are the Mersey, Tusket, Roseway, Markland and now the Antigonish system.

Under the present Power Commission, the capital investment which was $4,300,000 in 1925, has reached $13,500,000 in 1931 and the output of kilowatt hours has risen from 25,400,000 in 1925 to 151,600,000 in 1931.

The eighth system which is to go into commercial operation on November 1st, in addition to serving the town of Antigonish, will be carried by a six mile extension from Antigonish through the prosperous community of St. Andrews on the South River, and further surveys and investigation are in progress which may result in other extensions to serve Pomquet and Heather-ton.

At Stellarton is the receiving sub-station for the Sheet Harbour system energy as delivered to the Pictou County Power Board. From Stellarton to Thorburn, there has been built six miles of 13,200 volt three phase line which will be turned over at once to the Pictou County Power Board.

From Thorburn to Antigonish there has been built 33 miles of 13,200 volt three phase line of which the first half was built under contract for the Commission by Charles McNeil, of New Glasgow and the latter half by Messrs. Hunt and Kempton, of Queens County. Included in the first half of this line is a distribution district centered upon Merigomish where some 35 connections will initially receive the long-desired power and energy service. The line will lend itself to other distribution circuits being taken off for the service of other communities between Thorburn and Antigonish.

Connection to the Antigonish station was actually made on October 17th, but this was only a temporary one and in the nature of a try-out. The official opening of the service to Antigonish will take place on Friday afternoon, October 30th, at 2:30 p.m.

With eight systems in operation, the Nova Scotia Power Commission, under the chairmanship of Hon. J. F. Fraser, will be serving over a territory of about 400 miles in length and is continually extending the very important feature of rural power and energy service.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE LETTERS

Within the next few weeks 31,000 people in Nova Scotia will receive letters from Mr. J. C. Cass, chairman of the Nova Scotia Tuberculosis Commission. Enclosed with these letters will be a number of the Tuberculosis Christmas seals.

The attractive appearance of the 1931 Seal will please the purchasers of the seals and the campaign for their sale and the members of the society generally. The seals bear the design of a jovial server, bearing aloft a steaming plum pudding. Red green and yellow are the colors used, with a bright red border around the edge of the seal. All the materials used in connection with the seal sale this year have been designed and printed in Canada.

Plans are now under way for carrying out the annual Anti-Tuberculosis sale of Christmas seals, the proceeds of which go towards Anti-Tuberculosis activities. Letters containing Christmas Seals are going out to every part of the province.

The committee is hopeful that the general public will again assist in this work by buying the seals and using them on all Christmas letters and parcels. If such a programme is not carried on so that early cases can be discovered and infected ones prevented from developing the disease, successive crops of tuberculosis must be expected to follow year after year.

Buy Tuberculosis Christmas Seals and fight Tuberculosis.

Robert S. Ellis, who has spent his holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Ellis, has returned to his home in Auburndale, Mass.

Temperance Instruction In Local Schools.

The pupils of Digby schools listened on Monday to unique and convincing scientific Temperance addresses by W. D. Bayley, B.A., Director of Temperance Instruction for the Province of Nova Scotia. After demonstrating Manitoba's special programme in some Halifax schools last spring, Mr. Bayley was invited to lecture at the summer schools in Halifax and Truro last July. Subsequently he was invited to outline a programme for Nova Scotia, the first part of which he is now carrying out by addressing all pupils of Nova Scotia's schools of more than two rooms. This will be followed up by the teachers using Temperance exhibits and distributing copies of Mr. Bayley's addresses.

Already great interest has been aroused in the centres where he has been, and no doubt, a distinct advance in Temperance Instruction will result. Mr. Bayley visited the primary rooms and with specimens and pictures showed how seeds and chickens thrive on water, but decline on alcohol. Good drinks to grow on water, milk, cocoa, but alcoholic liquors hinder growth and development.

The middle grade children were delighted with the story of Naugahy Ethyl. By experiments, they learned that alcohol, which looks like water, acts in the opposite manner. Such things as sugar, meat and bread which soften in water, harden in alcohol. Contrawise, camphor, wax and fat, which harden in water, dissolve in alcohol. Alcohol burns and doesn't freeze. It hinders growth and life is associated, not with growth and life, but with the decay and death of fruit and vegetable matter.

In fact alcohol acts like fire and is appropriately called by the Indians Fire-water. From these qualities, Mr. Bayley pointed out that alcohol had many important industrial uses, but these very qualities make it a harmful fluid for the human body. Civilization is turning away from alcohol because motor cars, fast machinery and terrific social problems demand a higher intelligence and a quicker brain than ever before.

The human family has to choose between the average use of alcohol and its extending and cheaper use in industry.

To the older pupils, Mr. Bayley explained the unfolding of the human brain. Just as the world developed upward from the mineral, through the vegetable and animal stages to that of human society, so the child at birth, possessing the functions of the tree, circulation, breathing, digestion, next acquires the first years of life, powers of locomotion, knowledge, and finally the human traits of intelligence, conscience, idealism, etc. By an interesting diagram, the brain's development upward was shown. Alcohol makes the brain sleepy from the top down, consequently, a little alcohol which only dulls the higher centres of reason and conscience, leaves the animal functions of the brain unimpaired. It does not stimulate them from the higher control, but slightly alcoholized brains lose their human powers but retain the "monkey" functions. Consequently conduct is less reliable and increasingly foolish.

Mr. Bayley challenged the high school students, particularly the young ladies, to set a standard of sobriety for their social life. The old double standard, one for the

IN MEMORIAM—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Francis Andrew, who departed this life on October 26, 1930.

In the grave yard gently sleeping, Never shall his memory fade, Lies the one we loved so dearly, In his lonely silent grave.

He has left the home so lonely, We can see his vacant chair, But we know that he is happy, In the mansions over there.

Far beyond this world of changes, Far beyond this world of care, We shall meet our darling loved, In our father's mansion fair.

Gone from us but not forgotten, Never shall his memory fade, Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger, Around the spot where he is laid.

Days of sadness still come o'er us, Tears in silence often flow, But memory keeps him ever near, Though he died one year ago.

When the evening shades are falling, And we're sitting all alone, To our hearts there comes a longing, If he only could come home.

Navy Man Suffered

Had Terrific Backaches. Says Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic) did the trick.

"Not a Pain or Ache Since." "During the war," writes Albert E. R. No. 1, Burford, Ontario, "I was in the navy doing heavy duty and sleeping in a hammock. Sometimes my back troubled me very much. A good friend of mine advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which I did. I became completely well and I have not had a pain or ache since."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain iron and other elements which increase the amount of haemoglobin, or oxygen-carrying agent in the blood. That is the secret of the benefits which result from this famous remedy.

If you suffer from indigestion, anaemia, nervousness, backache or rheumatism, get a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. 50 cents a package at any drug store. Be sure to say "Dr. Williams'."

And she continued "I have been using a lower priced Bulk tea, but have found that a pound lasts my family just eight days while a pound of 'KING COLE' spends for fourteen days, and besides gives us tea we enjoy."

EXCELLENT PAPER ON MISSIONS

Following is the text of the splendidly delivered paper on Missions given by Miss Marguerite Baird before the Senior B. Y. P. U. last Friday evening. Miss Baird spoke without notes and captivated all:

"Why is it essential that every individual, that you, and that I, believe in Missions, both Home and Foreign?"

"The answer, I believe, lies in Jesus Christ's last commandment, 'Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature—teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you, and to I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.' Just as the ten commandments are to be followed, so is this an equally important commandment.

"Jesus Christ came not into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through Him might be saved. He came that we might have life, and that we might have it more abundantly. God has given his only son, Jesus Christ, to us. He has lived a perfect life here on earth, accomplished His mission and gave to us, through His death, eternal life. But, His plan is not yet worked out. Millions yet remain to be told. That is the task to be done by all who know Christ. He has made no other provision. Are we going to fail Him?"

"He hath said, 'Go ye.' To whom did Christ refer when He said, 'Ye.' He meant those who have heard the glad tidings of Him. You have heard, I have heard; therefore part of that responsibility must rest on us. Bear River has as much responsibility in fulfilling His plan, as any other community. Our B. Y. P. U. is as much responsible as any other group of young people.

"Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel." And what is our gospel? What is the news to tell to others? Jesus Christ—the revelation of what God is, and of what man may become, if he strives to be like Him. In Him we have the perfect example to follow.

"We are all one great people of God—one great brotherhood. In that case, then, since everyone is our brother, we must remember that we are our 'brothers' keepers.' One of Jesus' most outstanding characteristics was his unselfishness. He did not keep the glad message for the few, but told it to all with whom He came in contact. Likewise, His disciples told others. Christ had no thought of self. We, believing on Christ, have life. Shall we keep it to ourselves? Shall we say nothing about it to others? If we let others die without putting forth every possible effort to have them know, then we are held responsible for their dying without Him. Their blood is upon us. If we wall ourselves in, being satisfied that we are saved, then we are merely saving our own lives, and 'He that saveth his life shall lose it.' Are we going to pray that prayer, 'We are thankful that we live in the land in which we live, and that we know God,' and be satisfied with that?"

"The night is dark upon the earth and we have light." We must share that light.

"The responsibility rests on us. Does that mean that you, and that I, must be preachers? No, not preachers, in the sense that we think of that term. That is not God's plan. Everyone of us can do something, in some way, for Him.

"We can pray—individually, and here in our group, for others. Great wonders have been wrought through prayer.

"We can tell others. We must not be ashamed of the gospel of Jesus Christ, for it is the power of God unto Salvation, to everyone that believeth. Whenever there is an opportunity, we must tell others the message. If we are in company, at any time, with those who make fun of Him, or any of His teachings, we must not be quiet, but speak up for Him. Let us not be afraid to show our colors. Even by teaching little children about God, we have a part in spreading the glad tidings. They will tell others.

"We can give to others. We can give, not only in money, but in service. That which is done for others, in the right spirit, is done for God. In paying in to the Denominational Fund of our church, we are paying a portion of that for Foreign Missions, and a part for Home Missions. We must give, not just what we can easily give, but we must deny ourselves.

"Better than telling is living." Those of us who profess to be Christians, must live Christ. Our lives must be such, that those who know not Christ, will see something in us, which is lacking in them, and which they will want to see in themselves.

"Thus we can pray, we can tell others, we can give to others, and we can live the Christ-like life.

"But how much must I do, you ask?"

"There is no limit. God has set no limit to the development of this capacity of going out to larger and larger ranges of interests, and of entering into wider and wider relations with human beings."

"Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel."

"In Christ there is no East or West. In Him no South or North. But one great fellowship of love. Throughout the whole wide earth."

As other concerns are being planned for Christmas, the club decided to have an interesting debate at the next meeting, rather than a preparation for a concert. The next meeting is to be held at Bobby Kerr's, Lansdowne, on November 18th.

MOTOR CARS AND DIAMONDS

The New Yorker says: A gentleman whose business has to do with diamond importation surprised us with the information that the biggest buyers of diamonds in New York wholesale market are motor car manufacturers. They don't buy them to wear but for utilitarian purposes. In the old days Henry Ford was probably the heaviest steady diamond buyer in the country. He purchased an average of half a million dollars' worth annually, to be used in grinding bearings and other automobile parts which require great precision. Lately he hasn't been buying nearly so much, his engineers having been busy figuring out substitutes for the work. The stones used commercially are, of course, far from being first class. They bring from $20 to $35 a carat mostly. Oddly, certain manufacturers insist on using certain colors. The diamond dealers don't know why. Cadillac motors, for instance, are ground by gray stones only, as are those of Chevrolet. The Packard Company insists upon brown-tinted stones, but Ford will take either brown or gray.

Construction companies are heavy diamond users also. Of late you may have noticed small gangs of men drilling into the streets beneath the elevated railroads. They are taking borings to see what sort of rock the subway diggers will strike when they start work. Their drills are hollow, like an apple core, the circular cutting edge being studded with diamonds—about $5000 worth to each drill. They bring forth long cylinders of rock which the engineers take away with them and study.

A Schenectady inventor has taken out a patent on a safety razor with a diamond shaving edge. He realizes this is a high price, but insists that his product would dispose of one of civilization's greatest perplexities—the old blade problem.

THAT SPOOKY NIGHT

There is one night in all the year. That fills us all with creepy fear. For old and young have had their time. And played the game in every clime.

Long time ago, 'twas Burns who told, 'Bout Tam O'Shanter, riding bold. At midnight hour to watch the dance. And what strange things did meet his glance.

This is the night the spooks are out. And goblins wander round about. And many weird things are seen. Upon this night of Halloween.

Within the house we peek around. In halls and corners not a sound. For all is still we find no trace. There's nothing moving 'bout the place.

Then Jack O'Lantern throws his light. To make all merry or give fright. Then sudden comes the big hub-dub. To duck for apples in a tub.

That mystic dress the fancy ball. Makes merry heart for one and all. Time will not change that dear old scene. We'll keep it up, for Halloween.

—T. S. Hill.

HALLOWE'EN

They tell me Halloween's the time. When love is in the making; When witches wave their wands sublimely. And set fair hearts at aching.

The goblins gather round about. And games that come to pass. Will show your lover, if you'll look. Within a looking glass.

I've tried these magic, mystic ways. Of finding love that's true. But fate, it seems, just taunts and plays.

There's just one thing to do. I've carved myself a pumpkin, just. As scary as can be. I'm hoping it will scare her into. Really loving me.

—Hal Cochran

THE CORNER STORE

Men don't settle any more problems in the grocery store. As they did long years ago. When about the stove aglow Hiram Smith and Walter Brown drew up chairs and sat right down. Arguing from three to six. Tariff, business, politics.

Since the chain stores came in style. There's no place to rest awhile. Not a box is left about. For a neighbor to drag out. An' the crackers an' the cheese. Can't be nibbled as you please. There's no comfort any more in the corner grocery store.

Youngsters now can't hang around. Gathering wisdom most profound. From their elders, as we did. When I was a wide-eyed kid. The proprietor himself. Like the goods upon his shelf. Now is just a package prim. An' you merely nod at him.

This may better be for trade. But at times I'm half afraid. Notwithstanding what it cost. Something from our lives was lost. With the passing of the shop. Where the old men used to stop. Sitting friendly-like about. Talking all their troubles out.

"Pack up Your Troubles — and Smile! Smile!! Smile!!!"

The famous war-time marching chorus might well have served as the theme-song for the events in connection with McGill University's 1931 Convocation, as can be seen from the faces in the above group, which includes four distinguished Canadians granted honorary degrees at the great gathering in Montreal. E. W. Beatty, E.C., Chairman and President of the Canadian Pacific Railway and Chancellor of McGill, (third from right), seems to be the ringleader in the cheerfulness movement. It would be difficult to find a group more typical of Canadian affairs; and just look how that infectious smile has done its work! Left to right: F. W. McLennan, eminent Canadian mining engineer; A. C. Rutherford, Chancellor of the University of Alberta; Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada; Mr. Beatty; Dr. Harvey Smith and Sir Arthur Currie, President of McGill University. The lower picture shows Mr. Bennett and Mr. Beatty, about to leave Sir Arthur Currie's house for the Campus, in a carriage drawn by a team of students. Note the "No Parking" sign, adopted by the "state coachman" as his staff of office. It was a memorable day. Everyone smiled—even the Weather Man!

NOVA SCOTIA TO BECOME C. P. R. PORT

After years of sincere effort on the part of the Government and other Provincial authorities, Nova Scotia is at last to become a Canadian Pacific Railway port.

The announcement made recently from Montreal that an agreement had been entered into between the C. P. R. and the C. N. R., under which Canadian Pacific Railway passenger and freight steamers will make Halifax a regular port of call, is one of the most important announcements that has been made for some time in its effect upon the Province.

In brief, the agreement between the two great railway systems provides that the passenger steamers of the C. P. R., both east and west bound, will make regular calls at Halifax. The Canadian Pacific freight steamers, eastbound, will also call at the Nova Scotia port.

Hon. G. S. Harrington, Premier of Nova Scotia, in a statement given to the press, expresses the gratification of the Government in connection with this important Provincial development. Since assuming office in 1925, the present Provincial Government has consistently worked for the bringing of the C. P. R. to Nova Scotia and on numerous occasions strong representations have been made by the Government to that great railway system.

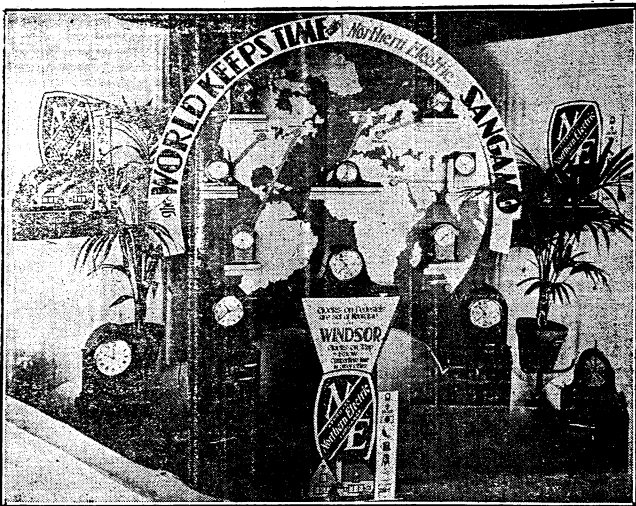

Premier Harrington had previously interviewed Mr. E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, on several occasions and at the last Session of the Legislature, the Harrington Government presented a resolution to the House of Assembly to the effect that the entry of the Canadian Pacific Railway into Nova Scotia is essential for the satisfactory growth of the Province. It is but natural, therefore, that the announcement of the coming of the C. P. R. has brought great satisfaction to the Administration which has so consistently endeavored to bring this about.

Premier Harrington's statement to the press was as follows: "The announcement that the Canadian Pacific boats will call at Halifax and will co-operate in Maritime rail transportation, under an agreement between the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National, is one of the most important announcements, in my judgement, that has been made for some time in its effect upon this Province.

"Ever since our Government took office in 1925, we have pressed continuously to have the Canadian Pacific come to Halifax. On several occasions I have held personal interviews with Mr. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific, to urge that result and last year the Legislature unanimously adopted a resolution to the effect that the entry of the Canadian Pacific Railway into Nova Scotia is essential for the satisfactory growth of the Province.

"The announcement from Montreal, therefore, is a matter of great satisfaction to the Government of Nova Scotia. We in this Province can now look forward hopefully to the expansion of the interest of this railway system in co-operation with the Canadian National so that it may truthfully be said that Nova Scotia possesses the Atlantic gateway of the Dominion of Canada."

WEDDINGS

Pitman-Balcomb

Friends at Deep Brook have received announcements of the marriage at Cambridge, Mass., of Miss Leota May Balcomb and Frank Pitman on Saturday evening last. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Balcomb, Clements-Port, and has been living in Chestnut Hill, Boston, for several years while the groom is a resident of Boston, and book-keeper at the Jordan-Marsh store.

McDormand-Webb

A wedding which has created a great deal of interest, was that which took place in the church parlor of the First Baptist church, Truro, on Monday afternoon, when Irene Hickman, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Webb, of Oxford, became the bride of the Rev. Thomas Bruce McDormand, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDormand, of Bear River, and pastor of the Middleton Baptist church. The groom is Magna Cum Laude, Graduate in Theology of Acadia, of the class of '29, and was also leader of the intercollegiate debating team, both as junior and senior. The bride is a graduate of the Addison Gilbert Hospital, class '29, and until recently has practised her chosen profession in connection with the hospital of her graduation. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ernest J. Barrass, pastor of the First Baptist church, Truro, in which he was assisted by the Rev. Frank Smith, pastor of the Baptist church, Oxford, of which the bride is a member and the groom a former pastor. The young couple were unattended, and promptly at 4.30, the bride entered the church parlor on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage; to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mrs. Wilfred Webb of Little River, aunt of the bride. The bride looked very charming in her handsome dress of organ lace, with which she wore a hat and other accessories of harmonizing shades; her bouquet was composed of beautiful tulle roses with fern. The mother of the bride was dressed in a rich looking gown of black lace and chiffon over black silk with hat and plume. Her corsage bouquet was of roses and fern. Following the ceremony, which was witnessed by the immediate friends and relatives of both bride and groom, the bridal couple received the felicitations of the guests. This being over the wedding party repaired to the Scotia Hotel, where a delightful wedding dinner, was served in the private dining room of the hotel. The dining table was decorated with midget chrysanthemums of different shades, interspersed with fern, and was centred by a two tiered wedding cake richly decorated, the same being cut by the bride and distributed to the guests amid much merriment. After dinner the young couple left in their car for a wedding trip to Cape Breton, visiting other places enroute. The bride travelled in a pretty dress of brown flat silk crepe, with which she wore a smart model hat and one of the new Travel Tweed coats of a pleasing shade of brown. Miss Webb has been the recipient of a very large number of beautiful gifts from her many friends, including substantial clothes, silver, linens of all kinds, glassware, electrical appliances, rugs, etc. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful brown fox fur set with Nova Scotia Amethyst. WANTED—Men to cut pulpwood by the cord. Also to purchase wood, either delivered in Digby, or by the roadside. H. T. Warne, Digby, N. S.

The Purpose and Nature Of The School Libraries

For some years, the Department of Education has realized that the schools of the Province are greatly handicapped in their task of fostering intelligence and culture among the people by the lack of well chosen reading matter for both pupils and adults. It is an attempt to remedy this situation that the Department has distributed, in the last three years, over 100,000 volumes to the schools of the Province. Each school section has the nucleus of a library of books interesting and valuable to children. In every school library can be found fairy tales, folk tales, and animal stories for the very young children; stories from history, interesting biographies, popular science, books of art, stories from literature, and juvenile classics for the older children. They are being distributed in Digby County this week.

The books in the school library, however, are meant to be used chiefly as supplements to the formal text-book instruction, and are usually kept in the school building to be read there by the pupils. Even with generous gifts from the Department most school sections cannot hope to maintain a school library large enough to provide general reading for all the children and adults in the community. With this fact in mind the Department of Education is planning to provide each county with a circulating library containing from twelve hundred to three thousand books, according to the size of the county. For the children there will be adventure stories, fairy tales and folk tales, poetry, books on travel and life in foreign countries, stories from history, science and invention, books on art, and biographies. The adult books will include classic and modern fiction; poetry, essays and drama; and more science, art, and biography. The books will be attractively bound in many cases illustrated in color or in black and white, and will be selected so as to combine both good literary style and interesting and vital subject matter.

When Sourness, Pain and Bloating Follow Every Meal

Make This Simple Test For Swift and Sure Relief

To quickly prove 90 per cent of Stomach distress is absolutely unnecessary and that you can eat and enjoy most any food you really want—get from your druggist some Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets) and take a little after your next meal. This is a simple, inexpensive test that can be depended upon to prove its value in less than five minutes. In most instances, relief comes instantly! Bisurated Magnesia is a pleasant, harmless, non-laxative form of old fashioned Magnesia that, when taken after meals, cleanses, sweetens and neutralizes the dangerous acids that cause most stomach troubles. One day's trial will convince you—ask your druggist for Bisurated Magnesia today.

MOTION PICTURES FOR SCHOOLS

The use of motion pictures and colored slides has become an important feature of the work of the Department of Education of the Provincial Government. Over thirty moving picture 16mm. films are now available on loan to public schools in Nova Scotia. These films are of great educational value and a widespread distribution has been arranged by the Department of Education. No school is allowed to keep a film for a longer period than one week.

These motion picture films cover such subjects as History of a book from early times, clay books of early civilization, coal mining, sugar making in the West Indies, the tea industry in Japan, Battle of the Ants, The River, Tides and the Moon, What is coal, How we breathe, Banana growing, the Housing problem, Preparing school boy athletes, Building Apple Trees, etc.

In addition to the motion picture films, the Department has available a large number of film slides which consist of a series of "still" pictures. The number of pictures on each roll varies and includes the necessary maps and graphs.

These picture slides are chiefly of a geographical character and are available covering all of the Canadian Provinces and parts of the United States, as well as the West Indies, England, Scotland, etc.

A great number of colored slides have also been made available by the Department of Education and may be borrowed by teachers for a period of one week. These colored slides cover a wide variety of subjects and have proved to be of great value in connection with the development of the educational system.

The Circulating Scheme

The libraries are to be packed in boxes, each of which will contain twenty-five books. In each box will be a carefully selected cross-section of the whole library, divided approximately as follows: 10 Juveniles, 7 Poetry, 2 History, 1 Science, 1 Art, 1 Travel, 1 Biography.

A catalogue of the books in the box will be pasted on the inside of the cover, and the box is to be so constructed that it can be used as a book case. With each box will be a librarian's record book, which will contain directions to the teacher and forms for recording the borrowing and return of books.

The boxes will be sent to the schools, one box to each rural school, and as many boxes for each village school as there are teachers employed. Although the boxes are to be kept in the school building, the books are in no sense a part of the school library. It is the intention of the Department that the books be borrowed by both children and adults and read at home. When a box is received it is the duty of the teacher or principal to inform the people in the community of the fact, either through the pupils or by a notice in a public place.

NOTED WRITER PRAISES NOVA SCOTIA

Of the many noted men who have taken delight in the beauties of Nova Scotia, none has been more ardent in praise nor more enthusiastic in his appreciation than George Matthew Adams, the head of the large New York News Syndicate which bears his name.

The "Daily Talks" from the pen of this noted writer, have a tremendous following throughout America and it is significant that Mr. Adams after having visited practically every part of America, has purchased a summer home in Nova Scotia. During the past summer, Mr. Adams and his family have spent a great deal of time at his new summer home "Weskawenack" (Indian for Happy Land) at Grand Lake, near Halifax.

The noted American author has visited many points in Nova Scotia and has written numerous articles, for publication through his News Syndicate, on the beauties of this Province. Recently the Bureau of Information of the Provincial Government expressed a desire to reprint these articles on Nova Scotia in the form of a booklet and Mr. Adams graciously consented to have his articles republished in this form. This book is now on the press and will be entitled, "Glimpses of Nova Scotia by George Matthew Adams." There will be over twenty articles descriptive of different parts of Nova Scotia and the cover design will be a sketch of "Weskawenack", Mr. Adams' beautiful summer home at Grand Lake.

Kiwanis Club Halloween Party a Wow

That Halloween Party and Ladies' Night the Digby Kiwanis Club have been planning and talking about for the past few weeks came off in the Ocean Garden Casino on Monday evening—and what a huge success it turned out to be. The Casino and tables were tastefully and grotesquely decorated with all sorts of Halloween knickknacks—balloons, pumpkin grinders, witches, skeletons—and everything else one could think of to fit the occasion. Supper was served at 7.30—and it was a supper. Vic MacNeill and his staff did everything they could to get the bunch in good humor for the fun and dancing which followed. The turkey and fish, the soup and pie, and everything else sure hit the right spot.

President Maynard Denton presided at the table. After welcoming the Kiwanian Queens and guests he presented Arch. Dillon with the Kiwanis pin, thus making him a member of the Digby Kiwanis Club. Vice President P. W. Holdsworth introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. Chas. K. Fuller, of Yarmouth. Dr. Fuller spoke on the subject, "The Spoiled Children of the Poor," drawing a vivid word picture of conditions among the poorer classes of our province, making an appeal to the Digby Kiwanis Club to do its share in the great work of doing our bit for the underprivileged child.

Music was furnished during the meal and for dancing by Guy Morehouse's orchestra. Musical numbers were given by Miss Frances Phillips, vocal solo; Fritz Dakin, violin solo, (piano accompaniment by Mrs. Dakin); Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Morehouse, vocal duet; Mrs. C. L. Bowlby played the piano accompaniments. After the singing of "O Canada" the tables were cleared and the fun began with O. Wright as master of ceremonies. Halloween games of all kinds, fortune telling, dancing and singing—more especially the singing—went over with a bang. Everybody declared that they had had the "time of their lives."

On Monday noon the Kiwanians will get together for their regular weekly luncheon on the Princess Helena. At this meeting, the officers and directors for the year 1932 will be elected.

Mrs. Laurie Thompson, Bear River, sends us a nice bunch of mayflowers, picked on November 1st. Sheriff Bishop saw a swallow flying around his yard this week and Ernest Collins picked some pea blossoms in his garden this week. California and Florida have nothing on us.

Death has again visited our community, claiming for its victim, Mrs. John P. Tidd, in her 67th year. She was a member of the Little River Baptist church and was made a life member of the ladies' aid society, several years ago. She leaves to mourn a loving husband, four sons and five daughters: Norman, James, Kenneth and Blanchard, at home, and Mrs. Alfred Lewis in the U.S.A., Mrs. H. Amoro, Rossway; Mrs. James Titus, Centreville; and Florence and Vic, at home, besides a large circle of grandchildren. Rev. Mr. Dimock, of Centreville, attended the funeral services, both at the home and the grave in the absence of Rev. C. L. Chute. Interment was in Little River Cemetery.

Why We Buy Poppies

Tomorrow the people of Canada will be asked on the street, in their homes, and at their places of business to buy the poppy. Why? They will be asked to wear this Poppy. Why?

The answers to both questions are the same. 1.—The buying and wearing of the Poppy on "Remembrance Day" is in respect to the memory of those who died in the World War.

2.—The buying of the Poppy provides employment for ex-soldiers who are unable to find work. The making of them gives these men employment, helps to take their minds off their disabilities.

3.—The profits from the sale of the Poppy go to the emergency fund of the Local Branch of the British Empire Service League. This fund is used by the Local Branch to assist comrades or veteran's families in cases of distress.

In the past few years a comparatively large amount of money has been spent by the Local Digby Branch for this purpose. So great has the drain been on the fund, it has been necessary to raise funds in many other ways.

During the past the Local Branch of the Service League has asked the teachers of the Rural Schools to distribute Poppies through the services of the school children, to the people of the rural districts. This seems to be the only method of giving residents of outside districts an opportunity of joining with the people of the town in showing their remembrance.

Owing to the amount of time consumed in this work of distribution, and the fact that each member of the Digby Branch has his own living to make and little time left over, it has been impossible to write letters of acknowledgement in each case, but the members of the Digby Branch are deeply grateful to the already overworked country school teacher for her share in making the Poppy Sale a success.

The cost to each of us, when we are asked to buy a Poppy, is small. But if everyone will give what they can, cheerfully, knowing what their contribution does, the amount of work we all can do is enormous. Any amount of money we give in exchange for the privilege of wearing the Poppy does good service in three separate ways.

The date of the signing of the armistice in 1918 has been made a national holiday, and November 11th is now known as "Remembrance Day," by Act of Parliament, and all places of business are to be closed on that day, out of respect to soldiers who died while serving their country. Your local veterans have, in the past, and will continue in the future, to show their respect to the memory of their fallen comrades on that day. The spirit of sacrifice still lives.

You may also join with them to make this day one of remembrance. Remember, when you are asked to buy a Poppy that those who distribute them and those who sell them derive no profit from their labors, although there is a large amount of effort expended.

Children's Aid Society Holds Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Digby Children's Aid Society was held in the Court House at Digby, on Tuesday evening. After the reading of the minutes of the last annual meeting, S. S. Aymar read the financial statement for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1931. This statement showed a balance on hand of $394.54. The receipts amounted to $2,892.98; expenditure (less outstanding cheques) $2493.44.

Rev. A. J. Prosser, acting agent for the society, read an interesting report of the work and aims of the Children's Aid Society. This report dealt with many of the perplexing problems having to do with the care of mentally deficient children and parents. Mr. Prosser stated that there were more than 3,000 mentally deficient school children in our province. He also touched upon the increasing number of illegitimate children in Nova Scotia, and on the recent marriage laws whereby a teen aged girl, a ward of the society could marry without the consent of her husband, rather than the need of an amendment to this act. The teen aged girl, he said, is the mightiest problem of the social welfare worker.

Rev. E. W. Forbes, president of the society, gave a brief report on the meeting of the presidents of the Children's Aid Societies of Shelburne, Yarmouth and Digby County.

The appointment of Austin Robbins, of Chéquois, to succeed Rev. P. C. Burnett, who resigned as agent for these three societies on account of ill health, was affirmed by the Digby Society.

A resolution that the Children's Aid Societies of Shelburne, Yarmouth and Digby, asking that Judge Blois, Director of Child Welfare, call a convention of the welfare workers in the near future to deal with their problems and with law amendments, was passed.

The following were elected as officers for the ensuing year:

President—Rev. E. W. Forbes.
1st Vice President—Rev. E. E. Bishop.

2nd Vice President—Mrs. R. H. Lockward.

Secretary—J. M. Wallis.

Treasurer—S. S. Aymar.

Members of the Executive—The Officers and Rev. A. E. Gabriel, T. E. G. Lynch, Mrs. T. E. G. Lynch, Mrs. Sturgeon, Mrs. Howard Anderson, Courtney Purdy, Mrs. M. Merkel, Miss Margaret Stewart, Mrs. (Dr.) DuVernet, Mrs. (Dr.) Dickie, Mrs. P. W. Holdsworth and Alfred Boden; Agents, Austin Robbins and Rev. A. J. Prosser.

Sunday School Convention at Smith's Cove on Monday.

Supper will be served in the church. A good delegation from the Sunday Schools of the district is earnestly requested. Miss Eunice Tyhurst, girls' work secretary, will be present. The meetings will be in the United Baptist church.

received and are being distributed as needed. The committee wish to thank Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. Lockward, Mrs. Brown, Miss Doolittle, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Sturgeon, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. May, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. P. W. Holdsworth, Mrs. Faust, Mrs. Morse, Mr. A. Merkel, Mrs. Lynch and Miss A. Stewart for contributions.

Rev. Mr. Forbes will give a travelogue illustrated with lantern views on Thursday evening, November 12th, in the hall of the United church, for the benefit of the Victorian Order of Nurses, Digby Branch. Mr. Forbes has given some very interesting talks on his travels at various times and he has some particularly fine views to exhibit on that evening. His subject will be "Some Cities of Italy." Local talent will provide selections of music and home made candy will be sold during the intermission. Price of tickets, 25 cents.

Miss Dawson, Eastern Supervisor of the Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada, is in town and met the members of the Local Board of Management on Wednesday afternoon at the monthly meeting held then, instead of the second Tuesday as usual.

Many Acts of Vandalism on Halloween

We are sorry to learn of the many acts of wanton vandalism which took place on Halloween night. Windows were broken, private and public property damaged and other disgraceful acts committed. Many of these misdoings are being investigated by the police. We believe that Halloween should be an evening set aside for the young folks to have more or less of a free hand in getting rid of some of that excess energy and in having a good time, but having a good time does not mean the destruction of property.

It has been some years since such disgraceful happenings have occurred in Digby on the evening of October 31st. The young people have always had their good time with wholesome pranks that have not injured others, or injured themselves in a moral sense. We firmly believe that an example should be made of the miscreants.

However, if the people of Digby as a whole follow the example that some of our public spirited citizens are endeavoring to set forth, there might be less of this sort of thing in the future. If they would give their whole-hearted support of those who are advocating the Community Hall idea, to give our youngsters and young people some place where they would be kept off the street and yet have an evening of clean, wholesome sports under proper supervision they would find it an investment well made in the young manhood and womanhood of Digby.

We ask the older people of the town not to hold every school pupil responsible for Saturday night's occurrences. We know that in Digby we have as fine a bunch of boys and girls as will be found in any town in the Dominion. Some of them were responsible, but that 'some' were likely a small handful, all of whom should have known better. We ask you not to be too harsh in your criticism. Most of these youngsters have heard you boast of your own Halloween pranks and may possibly have been following your example.

PUBLIC DEBTS

There are conditions in the world today that are seriously disturbing the serenity of the Bodies Politic, that is to say the common people. We do not wish to exaggerate the ills from which the nations are suffering. They may be merely temporary. But few will deny that affairs on this old Planet, at the present time, are in such a state as to occasion grave concern to sober and reflecting minds. What, then, is the matter? For some years past the world has been almost entirely at peace. Harvests, except in a few scattered localities, have been abundant. Mines, forests and fisheries have yielded satisfactory returns. There has been no scarcity of manufactured goods. And yet there arises everywhere such a cry of woe as has not been heard within the memory of living men.

The first answer to our question that occurs to us, is one upon which we touched in our last issue, viz., Taxation and Public Debt. To put it mildly, the world is financially embarrassed. To put it more plainly, the world is wallowing in such a quagmire of debt, that it finds it impossible to extricate itself therefrom by honest means. We say honest means because we do not regard revolution, repudiation, confiscation or cancellation as either honest or honorable. No nation, public body or individual ought to contract any debt that it cannot or will not pay, or at least make an honest effort to pay.

For many decades, and especially since the opening of the present century, almost every nation in the world has been running in debt. At the opening of the world war in 1914, all the nations involved in it, were carrying heavy financial obligations. At the close of it, nearly all of them were bankrupt. The expenses of the war were met almost entirely with borrowed money. Since 1918 the nations have been doing what debtors generally do. The honest ones have been trying to pay or provide for payment of their debts. The dishonest ones have tried to evade their creditors and get clear of paying. Some by staging revolutions, others by repudiation and cancellation. The spectacle is not an edifying one.

Consider the case of our own country, Canada, and its provinces, cities, towns and municipalities. A young country, of vast area, with magnificent natural resources, a comparatively small but energetic and fairly intelligent population. Such a nation, if its affairs were properly managed, should have little or no public debt. And yet in a little over sixty years, the Dominion has piled up a debt, including Railway obligations, of not less than thirty-five hundred million dollars, a sum so vast that the mind can scarcely grasp it. Its meaning can perhaps be better realized by saying that every average family of five persons in the Dominion today is mortgaged to the extent of at least fifteen hundred dollars for Dominion debts.

But this is not all. Every Province in the Dominion has a huge debt of its own. And almost every city, town and municipality in every province has large bonded obligations for borrowed money. So far has the frenzy for borrowing gone, that in many cases the limit has now been reached.

It will be seen that borrowing has been going on at a tremendous rate, with little or no thought of paying. We predict that the pace will slacken for the simple reason that there is not much left to mortgage. If people come to understand that when their governing bodies borrow money, and issue debentures, it means mortgaging everybody's property to that extent and that pay day will come, then perhaps borrowing will not be so popular as it has been. How proud, happy and content the world would be if it were free from debt.

THE WEATHER PROPHETS

There is no way of forecasting the weather more than a day in advance, and then it is for comparatively limited areas with occasional failure. And since very different brands of weather may be handed out in different sections of an area as large as Canada anything like an accurate forecast for half a continent months in advance is mere guesswork. But we see by the papers that on the authority of the bees and the beaver, and other signs we are to have a winter early, long and cold—in other words, one of the good, old-fashioned winters the sturdy old-timer sighs for as he drives in a heated car from a steam-heated apartment to a cosy place before a talking screen. But as intimated, a certain scepticism is justifiable in the matter of weather predictions. Every fall we have a succession of prophecies by Indians, trappers, woodsmen, based on the habits of wild animals, and it seems to us they are able to prove pretty nearly any theory from the fur of the furthest corner of the way the bark is thickening on the trees. The pity is, nobody ever takes the trouble to check their forecasts with the weather as it develops; or, if anyone does, the result is not new.

As a matter of fact, any person over ten, as November comes into view, can predict the winter's weather with considerable accuracy. We shall have chilly days and sunny ones, raw winds and cold rains, until we realize one fine morning that the car radiator is frozen solid and we are quite sure it never happened so early before. We select one of the worst days in seven years to put on the storm windows, and immediately the thermometer turns upwards and the sun shines brightly. Around the first of December there will be a heavy snowfall, and thousands of motorists will learn with satisfaction, that the street cars and buses still are running.

When the new year has come thoughts of the January thaw will be greeted with enthusiasm, and persons who predict an early Spring get three rousing cheers. By February, we shall have convinced ourselves that no other winter ever was so long, and cast resentful looks at the huge pile of snow which blocks entrance to the garage. About the first of March, we decide winter is practically over, and spring, like prosperity, is just around the corner.

So why worry about the weather, just take it as it comes and make the best of it. Like some other things it is never so bad that it might not be worse.

LEARN A TRADE

The man today who depends solely upon his hands to earn his livelihood is handicapped at the outset. Every boy should learn a trade. This is the "machine age". Machines are being invented that will do the work of the ordinary laborer, and as these inventions increase, the common laborer's lot will become still harder. There is only one solution. Learn a trade. The man with the trade has the advantage in that he stands the chance of being employed keeping machines in operation. He will have a distinct advantage over his tradeless brother.

The past decade saw the laboring man reach the zenith of his earning power. With the specializing of many jobs, there were men who during the past few years made more money than their comrades who had learned a trade. Where are these jobs today? The very system which placed them in positions of apparent affluence, is responsible for their condition today. It is the law of averages working, and with these things made on the production basis, the "specialist" soon found himself out of work. Not being conversant with any work but that in which he had been engaged, he cannot pick up employment of any kind. The man with the trade, too feels the depression, but not nearly to the extent of the man who works with his hands alone.

Our advice to parents would be to have their sons learn a trade. Our advice to the boys would be to take advantage of it. The fact that you are a tradesman will not make you any less a man, but it will at least assure you a decent living, at any rate a much better one than being endeavoring to make a living from the leavings of automatic machinery.

Statistics compiled in the United States recently showed that in that country of every four men out of employment, one is past the age of 48 years. Learn a trade. You may be one of these four some day.

OCTOBER

Now is the Autumn's fairest moon. Now is the royal purple glory. Of all the year's glad noon. Now let cars drift far away. While each wonder workday day Tells to us it's story.

Scares of gold and crimson rest On each mountain's plumed crest In a wondrous splendour; While o'er all earth's lovely things Nature spreads out gauzy wings. As of each most tender.

So there is a glory born With our life's empurpled morn. Stronger than all grieving; Aye and brighter than the days Scarfed in gold and purple haze— 'Tis Faith's fair weaving.

Leaves may fall and quick winds sigh. Forms of beauty fade and die, Still Faith on us repleting, Mounts upward, singing, toward

SHE HAD TO CRAWL TO BED

One stair at a time—on her hands and knees—that was how she had to do it. And when she did get to bed, her troubles were not over. "Twelve months ago I could not sleep on account of the terrible pains in my knees, and I might say in all my joints. At night I could only crawl up to bed, one stair at a time. But since taking Kruschen Salts regularly, I have not only lost all pains and stiffness, and, if needed, could now run upstairs two at a time. In fact, I feel 10 years younger. I shall never be without Kruschen Salts."—Mrs. A. E. D.

Do you realise what cause rheumatism? Nothing but sharp-edged uric acid crystals which form as the result of sluggish eliminating organs. Kruschen Salts can always be counted upon to clear these uric acid crystals from the system. The six salts in Kruschen are bound to dissolve away all traces of uric acid. And more! They ensure such perfect internal regularity that no such body poisons as uric acid are ever able to accumulate in this for yourself by buying a bottle of Kruschen.

Love's gate,
All cause for grief denying.
Ah, if the Autumn of our days
Finds but the soft and mellow haze,
Our fading joys concealing,
Then will our hearts be full of peace,
And every hour bring swift increase,
A life of us revealing.

—Belle Bush.

The above poem entitled "October", met our gaze while glancing through a magazine the other day, the last verse especially appealing to us.

We believe that October is our favorite month, although that is not easy to say. Spring of course brings a thrill of happiness as we watch for the first tiny Spring flower, the unfolding of the buds and leaves, the little green blades of grass shooting up. Next, June with her apple blossoms and myriad of other flowers, when all of Nature is looking so beautiful. Summer with its hot, lazy days, when Nature offers us so many pleasures and seems to be continually calling us out of doors. Christmas with its most beautiful message. The New Year when old failures and disappointments can be forgotten, and we can start anew. Yes, even February and March with their chilling breezes, snow storms, but also with their sparkling sunny days, and although we often grumble about it, yet who among us would be content to give up Winter for ever?

Every month of the year brings an especial appeal of its own, but still we think that Autumn is the loveliest of all. The whole earth then seems to be saturated with the fragrance of the late fall flowers, it's crisp sunny days, it's frosty moonlight nights, the beautiful colorings of the leaves, the trees laden with fruit, and the harvest to be gathered in, and as Walter Rauschenbusch has said, "Even the thorn tree by the wayside, is aflame with the glory of God." The leaves brilliant and inspiring in their Autumn colorings, again drop to the earth that has given them life and vitality. Someone has said:

"And as these falling leaves again melt into the dirt of the earth, and become lost in giving nourishment to unborn Springs, so I believe, does each melt away into its final sleep, only to appear again in reborn beauty. Each leaf falls separately, but always to intermingle with other leaves and, therefore, to form a vast companionship of love about the heart of Nature."

We hope that when our lives come to their Autumn days, that they may be as the Poet has pictured them. Lives of beauty, full of happy memories, appreciations, thankfulness for all that we have received along our way, especially for the Masterpieces of Nature which we have been able to thrive upon and daily carry about in the gallery of our hearts. That our only regret may need be that we have accomplished so little good during our stay here. That we may be remembered, not for any great deeds we may have done or wealth or material things won, but simply for whatever Friendship, Kindness or Generosity we may have shown along our way.

Letters to the Editor

INCREASED TAXES

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir:—In your editorial published in last week's edition of the Courier, you state that you have been informed that the rate of taxation in the Municipality of Digby last year was about three times that of seven years ago. I have not checked this up, but would be at all surprised if this were right—but then.

Don't you feel that a great amount of this increased taxation is justified? Don't you feel that Digby County has reaped some benefits from such an increase of taxation?

I am not a politician, nor do I spend much of my time worrying over matters pertaining to civic government, but I know, you know, and all of us know that the demands on the Municipality during these years have grown, and yet, most of these increases have been for the general betterment of living and social conditions. Furthermore, the blame for our tax increases should not all be piled on the shoulders of the Municipal Council, who are placed in office to manage the business affairs of our county, by the people of the county.

During the past twenty years Municipal Grants have been increased; there has been a tremendous increase in the board rate at the Nova Scotia Hospital; the upkeep of the inside and outside poor is a big item on the Municipality's budget; new highways have resulted in better roads and higher road taxes; the inauguration of the Digby County Power Board has perhaps had something to do with increased taxes, but no one can question the fact that our county has reaped great benefits through hydro; we have more schools and better schools. There are countless other factors that have tended to increase our rate of taxation which cannot be enumerated here, and there will be, no doubt, within the next few years, a great many more.

Say that the tax rate has increased threefold within the past twenty years, is not Digby County better for it? Better care is taken of our poor; more attention is given to the neglected and mentally deficient children—social conditions have advanced more than three fold. Our roads are better, our educational system has improved, and despite the fact that general business conditions are not up to standard at the present time, Digby County is holding her head above water and is learning to swim.

Of course our councillors have made a few mistakes, that is only human, but you will find in them a body of men working in the interest of those who have put their confidence in them, striving at all times to run the business of the County as economically as possible and to keep the tax rate at a minimum. There are certain demands that they and we, feel should be reduced, every one of us would like to see a reduction in the present tax rate, but, if Digby County is to progress socially, morally and constructively, we should not compare present day conditions with conditions of twenty years ago.

AUTUMN

There is shining golden treasure hidden in the heart of spring. Summer finds the treasure, bringing Wealth and joy to everything.

We can see it on the skyline. When the summer ends its song. As a friendly signal, telling That the Autumn won't be long.

Then the merry spring and summer Settle down with quiet care, And a hint of sadness lingers In the stillness of the air.

Golden rod and faded aster. Not a greeting as we pass, Proud old elms and birches making Of the lake a looking glass.

In the smoky, hazy distance Where the hills are sloping down, Is the crimson forest turning Into softest shades of brown.

There is splendor in the sunset And the twilight afterglow, Like a heavenly glow, shining On the resting earth below.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' CLUBS IN DIGBY COUNTY

Digby County will have 9 boys' and girls' club members in the judging competitions at the Maritime Winter Fair. They have been selected by the Department of Agriculture in their district and will therefore go to Amherst this week to join in competitions open to club representatives from different parts of the province. In all, 120 junior club members will be in the judging competitions which are to be held on Friday and Saturday.

Friday afternoon, November 6th, will be the swine club judging competition for which Nova Scotia will have five teams entered. The winning team will win the Royal Winter Fair trip. Besides the judging classes, oral questions will be asked of members and thus the team selected must not only make good in the judging but in answering oral questions relative to the swine industry. Friday evening will make the parade of club members in the area at the opening session. A. E. MacLaurin, National Club Secretary will be present for the club program.

Saturday morning the cattle judging competition will be held. In this competition prizes are given on the individual basis but besides are the specials offered to the winning teams. The Royal Winter Fair trip goes to the winning team except that members must be between the ages of 16 and 20 inclusive on the 1st of November. Oral questions will also be used here in eliminating the teams at the top.

The sheep judging competition will be held on Saturday afternoon. Last year, one team, Glendale, was entered but a special class had to be made for them. This year the sheep judging competition is a regular class in the Fair and Nova Scotia will have five teams entered. New Brunswick will also be entered in this competition.

The club members from Digby County who will make the trip are as follows: Catherine Bacon, Hill Grove; Harold Harris, Lansdowne; Robert Kerr, Irene Comeau, Leo Comeau, Louise Comeau, Leo Belliveau, Albert Jeddrey, Meteghan Station; Amelia Deveau, Meteghan River.

SCOUT NEWS

Come On Out!

The meeting opened on Friday night with a good attendance. After dues were collected and church and meeting attendance marked the horseshoe was held. Points are given during the horseshoe, to the patrol having largest attendance and most dues. When the horseshoe was over, test papers were signed and a certain amount of study work was taken up.

After this, patrol game competition was held. This took the form of challenges. Each patrol challenged the other to some game.

As soon as the boys had cooled down, they studied for, or attempted to pass various tests. A number of boys tried to pass the Kim's Game and Scouts' Pace.

After the study period, the badge essays were read. The fox patrol won with the Book Binder's Badge.

When these essays were judged, Mr. Wright read a very interesting article on Citizenship and how the scout movement is helping to create better citizens.

This article, written in 1910, stated that the country was in the throes of an economical depression. This led to a discussion of depression, its causes and cures, which was very interesting to the Scouts.

The meeting closed with the horseshoe.

To-morrow the Scouts will sell poppies in aid of the disabled war veterans.

IN MEMORIAM—In loving memory of our dear and brother, Francis Sanderson, who departed this life on October 26, 1930.

In the grave yard gently sleeping, Where the flowers so gently wave, Lies the one we loved so dearly, In his lonely silent grave.

He has left the home so lonely, We can see his vacant chair, But we know that he is happy, In the mansions over there.

Far beyond this world of changes, Far beyond this world of care, We shall meet our darling loved one, In our father's mansion fair.

Gone from us but not forgotten, Never shall his memory fade, Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger Around the spot where he is laid.

Days of sadness still come o'er us, Tears in silence often flow, But memory keeps him ever near us, Though he died one year ago.

When the evening shades are falling, And we're sitting all alone, To our hearts there comes a longing, If he only could come home.

Now dear Francis we must leave you, In our heavenly father's care, Where no pain, or death or sorrow, Ever dares to enter there.

Gone But Not Forgotten
Inserted by father and mother, sisters and brothers.

IN MEMORIAM

Passed on beyond our mortal vision, All heedless of our falling tears, Unknown to us our destination, Unnoting all our lonely years.

And while in silent grief we lingered, Came tender voices, unheard before, "Weep not; the one whose loss you sorrow Has gone upstairs and shut the door."

Passed on beyond our mortal vision, But now the thought is robbed of gloom; Within the father's many mansions, Still dwelling in another room.

The one whose going left us lonely, Is scaling heights undreamed of yore, And guided on by love's unfailing light, Has "gone upstairs and shut the door."

In loving memory of our father, George Henderson Holdsworth, who passed away on November 8th, 1930, Inserted by his sons and daughters.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

The Young People's League of the United Church, celebrated the ghostly season on Friday evening, when the recreational committee arranged a Halloween party. Some of the visitors caused considerable merriment as they appeared in costumes that have not seen the light of day for many years. GETTING BERRY PATCHES PREPARED FOR WINTER

The return of frost reminds the farmer who includes the production of strawberries and raspberries in his scheme of operations that his plantations of raspberries and strawberries must be protected against the rigours of winter.

For raspberries in those parts of the Dominion where protection is needed the Dominion Horticulturist recommends that the canes be bent down just before winter sets in and held in place by a little soil being placed on the tips. Before bending the canes, a little soil should be removed from one side of the hill and the cane collected in a bunch and pressed down in the line of a row by means of a fork. When protected, in this way, the canes will come through the winter in good condition; while if not protected, they may be badly injured. Under prairie conditions, better results are secured when the canes are entirely covered with soil, and in such cases much of the covering can be done by horse labour.

For the protection of strawberries, after permanent frost has set in and the ground is quite solid, the plants should be covered with a light coating of clean straw, that which will not pack closely over the plants, being best. Marsh hay is good as it is free from weed seeds, and green manure is sometimes used but this usually contains many weed seeds. It sometimes smothers the plants, which is undesirable. The mulch of this type prevents alternate thawing and freezing of the ground in the springtime and protects the plants in case there is not sufficient snow during the winter. It also prevents heaving. In those parts of Canada where injury from spring frost is frequent, it is desirable to hold the plants back as long as possible. For this purpose, after the first heavy fall of snow, the snow may be covered with straw or evergreen boughs, which are left on as long as possible in the spring. While plants will often come through the winter without protection, it is best not to take any risks.

Another Christmas is almost here and Christmas Seals in aid of tuberculosis sufferers will soon make their appearance. The fund which these seals represent has been contributed to for the past five years by the citizens of Nova Scotia, and is now taking a very definite place in the anti-tuberculosis work of this community.

At the present time, the money raised by the sale of these seals, goes toward the active work of Tuberculosis Control, such as Summer Camps for children whose health is below par, especially those who have been exposed to infection through active open cases of Tuberculosis in their homes; helping to supply the Tuberculosis milk with extra food, and extra milk to poor and underdeveloped children or child suspects, and assistance in home treatment.

If the public will but realize that this Christmas Seal fund is directly a part of the Christmas spirit, and that through it they are helping unfortunate tuberculosis people who cannot help themselves, there would be an enthusiastic response from one end of the Province to the other. You are, therefore, urged to send in your dollar promptly on receipt of the letter, and if any should feel sufficiently interested to give more, you can rest assured that the money will be well spent and will be used entirely for tuberculosis work.

Buy Christmas Seals and Fight Tuberculosis.

There are at least 4000 active cases of Tuberculosis in Nova Scotia, in various stages of the disease. If that isn't a health problem worthy of your interest, we do not know one.

THE BLUENOSE

So gracefully she rides at anchor, She seems to neither care nor hanker,

About the sea, the wind, the weather,

But like a noble steed at tether, Waits patiently her masters' nod,

To bathe her waist in briny ocean, And as she starts from her repose, We read about her bows, "Blue-nose".

Yes Bluenose all from truck to kelson,

And Angus just another Nelson, He takes his stand upon his quarter,

And looks to sun, and wind and water,

Then strokes her gently with his hand, And says "Bluenose you understand,

Just do your best, and well I mean True friendship, must own you Queen."

The Busy Bee Sewing Circle met at the home of Mrs. Harley Brooks on Saturday afternoon.

Kenneth Manzer, of Digby, was the week end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Manzer.

A number of the ladies of this place attended the afternoon tea at the Baptist parsonage, on Tuesday afternoon.

She nods and dips her scudders under, The rigging taut, it roars like thunder,

The rushing water is slipping past, Hurrah! She's footing it at last, Bold Angus looks to sail and spar, Then at the turning buoy a-far, And measures with a practiced eye,

The distance by the sea and sky.

But closer and closer like a cloud, He goes the saucy, trim Thebaud Straining to get a point, or two, Her white sails shining through the blue,

'Tis then he calls out, loud commands Stand by to go about all hands, Then shuddering like a frightened steed,

The Bluenose rushes in the lead.

And now they race back to the line, The sheets set out, the day is fine, The cheering crowds, "Hurrah! Hurrah!"

They are coming up the outer bay, The Bluenose ah! she holds her own And with a roaring rush of foam, Now from the shore, a shouting din,

"HURRAH! Bluenose you win, you win."

Food Facts.

By DR. R. E. LEE

BREAD is not only our best but our most economical food, an important consideration in these days of careful budgeting of expenditures for the table. It is no longer thought of only in the familiar white-loaf form, but in an almost endless variety of loaves, rolls, buns, biscuits, coffee breads, etc., and made of many different types of flour. By varying the choice of bread the diet can be given the sort of appetizing variety that children as well as adults find appealing.

Bread is an important source of carbohydrates—supplying energy to the body—and protein, material for growth and repair. Wheat protein, mostly gluten, ranks with the best proteins of the food. But wheat made of milk, yeast, shortening and salt, is a highly varied food, supplying also fat, fibre and vitamins.

A well rounded diet can be had with bread, butter and milk. Of everyday foods, bread and butter is richest in calories, the measure of energy-producing characteristics of food. A slice of bread and butter will supply 116 calories. About 2700 are needed daily by the average man. Bread and butter contain 1624 calories to the pound, as against 900 for a pound of lean lamb, 765 for boiled eggs and 510 for boiled rice.

Bread is one of the most readily digestible of the foods. This is partly due to the yeast, which raises the dough rendering it the most porous and open to the action of the digestive juices. Yeast also acts upon the gluten of the flour, conditioning it, making it soft and elastic and rendering it more easily digestible.

There are also certain by-products formed during the fermentation process which give to bread its characteristic pleasing flavor. Finally, yeast has a direct nutritive value in the loaf. It is rich in protein and one of the best known sources of vitamins. The more yeast that is used in making the bread, the shorter the period of time necessary for fermentation and the greater the food value.

Many years ago the baker and the housewife had to make their own yeast with peaches, malt and hops. Today the yeast manufacturer has placed in their hands yeast in a convenient form, dependable and ready to use without any preliminary labor.

Consumption of wheat in bread form is highly important to the farmer. An extra slice of bread a day for everyone in Canada would mean the consumption of an additional 6,000,000 bushels of wheat annually.

DON'T BE A FOOL!

All pessimists are fools. What is worse, they are dangerous fools.

At the present moment they are a definite curse to the community.

Men on salaries that have not shrunk a penny, although the cost of living has done so, my many pennies, go about muttering darkly about hard times.

Holders of first-rate industrial shares are selling out of heavy losses and putting money in the bank where it earns nothing, so that in the future, they can buy back the shares at top prices.

"The world is in a terrible condition. Things are very bad. Every thing is going down."

That is their daily chant. That is their contribution to the morale of the nation.

After Waterloo, there was real distress. Then came steam and the greatest area of prosperity the world has seen.

Today, while the fools are moaning, wise men are planning, working, dreaming, underwriting the prosperity that lies ahead.

When those good times arrive—and they are on their way now—the fools will moan: "If only we had known we could have..."

Don't be a fool!

TREES

In the Garden of Eden, planted by God.

There are goodly trees in the springing sod—

Trees of beauty and height and grace,

To stand in beauty before His face.

Apple and hickory, ash and pear, Oak and beech and the tulip rare,

The trembling aspen, the noble pine,

The sweeping elm by the river line,

Trees for the birds to build and sing,

And the lilac tree for a joy in spring,

Trees to turn at the frosty call, And carpet the ground for their Lord's footfall,

Trees for fruitage and flower and shade,

Trees for the coming builder's trade,

Wood for the bow, the spear and the flail,

The keel and the mast of a dashing sail,

He made them of every grain and of every herb,

For the use of Man in the Garden of Earth,

Then lest the soul should not lift her eyes

From the gift to the Giver of Paradise,

On the top of a hill, for all to see, God planted a scarlet maple tree,

LIFE'S OTHER SIDE

In the world's mighty gallery of pictures

Hang the scenes that are taken from life.

There are pictures of love and of beauty,

Old age and the blushing young bride,

All hang on the wall; but the greatest of all

Are the pictures from life's other side.

The first is a scene of a gambler, Who has lost all his money at play,

Draws his dead mother's ring from his finger

That she wore on her wedding day,

That last earthly treasure, he takes it,—

Bows his dead that his shame he may hide,

When they lifted his head, they found he was dead;

'Twas a picture from life's other side.

The next is a scene of two brothers,

Whose paths in life, different ways led,

One was a luxurious liver, The other one begged for his bread,

One dark night they met on the highway,

"Your money or your life," the thief cried,

And he took with a knife, his own brother's life,

'Twas a picture from life's other side.

The next is a scene by the river, Of a heart-broken mother and babe,

'Neath the harbor lights' glare stands and shivers

An outcast whom no one can save,

But yet she was once a true woman,

Somebody's darling and pride, God bless her; she leaps! There is no one that weeps,

'Twas a picture from life's other side.

IT IS ALL A MISTAKE

To endeavor to mold all disposition alike.

To look for perfection in our own actions.

To expect uniformity of opinion in this world.

To look for judgement and experience in youth.

To believe only what our finite minds can grasp.

To measure enjoyment of others by our own.

Not to make allowances for the infirmities of others.

To consider everything impossible that we cannot perform.

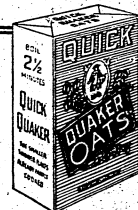

To worry ourselves and others with what cannot be remedied.

To set up our own standard of right and wrong, and judge people accordingly.

To expect to be able to understand everything.

CLUB COMPETITIONS AT THE ROYAL WINTER FAIR

The Department of Agriculture reports that there will be four judging competitions at the Royal Winter Fair for club teams. These will be in swine, cattle, grain and potato. The organization of the Canadian Council is thus resulting in an expansion and the addition of the grain and potato competitions. Each Province is eligible to send two teams, provided that they have at least five clubs organized in the projects which they select. There must also be three teams entered in any project for the Royal for a competition.

Nova Scotia will select at the Maritime Winter Fair, teams in cattle, swine and potato judging. Club members must be at least 16 years of age as of November 1st, of this year in order to be eligible, and the teams competing must be from one club, that is a team will not be selected from a county or district but from the individual club. The top five teams in the judging competitions at the Maritime Winter Fair are eligible to compete in the final selection which will be made by means of oral questions. The questions asked will be along like lines to those used at the Royal.

The potato team will be a new one for Nova Scotia. As the judging competition for Nova Scotia teams in the potato project is held at the Seed Show and Short Course and not at the Maritime Winter Fair, members to be eligible will be those who have stood high in past judging competitions.

PRIZES FOR CONTESTS IN RURAL SCHOOLS

Valuable prizes of educational value are being offered by the Department of Education for contests among pupils in rural schools throughout the Province. These contests will be conducted on a basis similar to those of 1930, when the Department found the competitions to be of great value in the promotion of interest among the pupils of rural schools.

For the purpose of these interesting contests the Province is divided by the Department of Education into seven districts and prizes in each class are offered in each of these districts.

Contest 1, involves a prize for the best school magazine. Last year the winners of these prizes in each of the districts were: Grand Pre High School; Seal Harbour, Guysborough County; South Ohio, Yarmouth County; St. Joseph's, Concessions; Westmount, Cape Breton County; Lyon's Brook, Pictou County; and Arichat School Club.

Contest 2 offers a prize for the best pupil's scrapbook, and there is a special division of this contest under the heading of Contest 2A, which is for the best school scrapbook.

The third test is for the best literary scrapbook.

Contest 4, as announced by the Department of Education, is of a historical nature and prizes are offered for the best local history of the section. Last year the prizes won for this history contest in each section were: Ellershouse, Hants County; Isaac's Harbour, Guysborough County; Lower West Pubnico, Yarmouth County; Meteghan River, Digby County; Cheticamp, Inverness County and Scotch Hill, Pictou Co., no prize being awarded for the 7th division.

NOVA SCOTIA COAL FOR MONTREAL

An order for 30,000 tons of Nova coal has been placed with the Dominion Coal Company by the Montreal Coke and Manufacturing Company for use in its coking plant at LaSalle, near the city of Montreal.

The securing of this new market for Nova Scotia coal has been announced by Hon. G. S. Harrington, Premier of Nova Scotia, who for some time has been making earnest efforts to bring about the introduction of Nova Scotia coal into this market.

The coking plant, the Premier said, has just placed an order for 30,000 tons with the Dominion Coal Company which with 8000 tons already taken, brings the LaSalle orders up to 38,000 tons of Nova Scotia coal so far this season.

These results follow earnest efforts on the part of Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Nova Scotia Minister in the Dominion Government and Premier Harrington to promote the use of Nova Scotia coal in the big LaSalle plant, and it is confidently believed that the volume of these orders will be increased as time goes on. The LaSalle plant uses approximately 400,000 tons of bituminous coal a year and there is, therefore, ample room for an expansion of Nova Scotia orders there.

The developments just announced follow experiments with Nova Scotia coal at LaSalle extending over a considerable period of time, and while orders so far placed in this Province are not large in comparison with the total volume used there, still the results of the tests of the efforts of Hon. Mr. Rhodes and Premier Harrington are accepted as a distinct triumph for the Nova Scotia product.

CANADIAN ARTIST PAINTS WORD PICTURE OF GREAT LAKES STORY

Young Canadian Achieves Boyhood Ambition with Publication of Story of Shipping on Inland Waterways

After twelve years of study and assembling of material, George A. Cuthbertson, Canadian sailor artist whose paintings of early Canadian ships are familiar all over the Dominion, has completed his history of Great Lakes' shipping and his first book, "Freshwater" has been published by MacMillans, Toronto.

As staff artist of the Canadian Steamship Lines, at Montreal, Cuthbertson has painted and sketched for that company, one of the finest collections of early Canadian and American Marine pictures in existence and now with the publication of "Freshwater" has achieved a boyhood ambition of creating a complete history of the Great Lakes in word and picture.

Born in Toronto, Ontario, Cuthbertson acquired his early love for ships while playing along the waterfront and watching the lake steamers coming into Toronto Harbour. Like many young boys, he wanted to be a sailor and many times thought seriously of running away to sea. While at school, he could never dismiss the thought of ships and sailors from his mind and the margins of his school books were covered with crude sketches of ships. When he was 14 years old, one of his first desires was satisfied for his parents moved to Montreal and here the young boy saw his first ocean steamer. That summer he shipped to the coast as an able-bodied seaman, in spite of his tender years, and got his first scent of salt air and his first glimpse of the sea.

When the war broke out, the young sailor temporarily gave up seafaring life and went to the Royal Military College, at Kingston to train for a commission in the army. But a few weeks of cadet life only served to strengthen his love for ships and he left Kingston and joined the navy. He was immediately assigned to a sub-chaser on the Atlantic coast and after a short period of service, became the youngest commissioned man in the British Navy.

While serving on the Atlantic, Cuthbertson met and talked to Frederick William Wallace, author of "Wooden Ships and Iron Men" and resolved that some day he would write a history of Canadian shipping and illustrate it himself.

The next year he was assigned to a mine sweeper in the English Channel and during his first shore leave grasped the opportunity of going through the records in the Admiralty to secure information about early British shipping in America. Before the war ended, he had assembled a vast amount of material, both in London and at Paris, where he also found valuable references. At the signing of peace, Cuthbertson returned to Canada and before he had been many days in his home land, was buried in books and documents at the Ottawa Archives, continuing the study he had begun in London.

As staff artist of the Canadian Steamship Lines, a position which he assumed soon after returning to Canada, Cuthbertson was encouraged by the company to continue his research work and every assistance was given to him by the officials of this great Canadian transportation company. During this period, he began work on his pictorial history and his collection of paintings was begun. Since then, this outstanding collection has been exhibited in the leading cities of eastern Canada and the United States, and has attracted wide interest. While preparing his book, Cuthbertson perused through hundreds of written authorities and read hundreds of hand-written, unedited manuscripts. For twelve years he laboured over this great mass of material and finally had enough to fill a dozen volumes. Then his work of revision began and for two years, he was kept busy cutting down the material to fit inside the covers of one volume. "This," he says, "was harder than writing the book in the first place."

"Freshwater" is the result of his labours and by those who have seen the first copies, it is praised as the most complete and the most fascinating of Canadian marine histories.

Special services will be held in the Digby Baptist church next week, beginning Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, and continuing each evening to include Friday evening. Rev. L. E. Auckland, pastor of the Bridgetown Baptist church, will be the speaker at these meetings.

The people of Smith's Cove have been very generous with their contributions of preserves and farm produce to the Digby General Hospital, which is making an appeal at this time for contributions of that sort. Leave your donations at the hospital.

Paul Yates was a guest of the Artillery Band, at Yarmouth last Tuesday night, conducting a few numbers. This band gives promise of being one of Nova Scotia's best in a very short time. Some of the best musicians in Yarmouth are enthusiastic members. Penn Spicer, organist of Holy Trinity church, is the capable conductor.

M. C. Denton Re-Elected President Kiwanis Club

There was a good attendance on board the Princess Helene for Monday's luncheon of the Digby Kiwanis Club, and, as usual a pleasant hour and a half of good, hearty, fellowship was enjoyed. The luncheon, as could only be expected, was excellent.

The big business at this meeting was the election of officers for the year 1932 which resulted as follows:

President—M. C. Denton (re-elected).

Vice-President—P. W. Holdsworth (re-elected).

Treasurer—R. H. Lockward (re-elected).

District Trustee—O. Wright.

Directors—F. L. Anderson, C. L. Bowley, George Wightman, E. C. Sollows, Earl Cossaboom, George Morrell and Dr. W. R. Dickie.

Foreign Visitor—"What is your best selling tea in this country?"

Local Merchant—"With me, it's Mow's. My customers don't want any other kind."

Young People's Society

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the United Church Young People's Society last week, about forty being present. One new member was received, and a report of the Young People's Convention at Middleton was given by Reginald Turnbull. Edna Cummings was elected Vice-President in place of Charlotte Turnbull, who has gone away for the winter. A very interesting address was given by Mr. J. J. Wallis on the making of a newspaper. Mr. Wallis also exhibited a number of copies of old papers and manuscripts, including a copy of the first paper published in Digby. Editors were elected for the society's newspaper, the reading of which will form the programme of the next meeting, November 19th.

Owing to the holiday this week, we were obliged to hold over a lot of news items which will be published next week.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Rachel Greenlaw

At the beginning of dawn, on the fourth of November, there passed away from her earthly home, the soul of Mrs. Rachel Greenlaw. Her loved ones with aching hearts quietly said adieu and by the aid of the wonderful gift of faith, saw her pass into the greater life—the Palace of God. Her death came peacefully as one falling asleep, and seemingly from no other cause but old age. She passed away at the age of eighty-four years and six months because the mechanism of her body was "worn out". It seemed that God saw how tired she grew and took her home with him.

Mrs. Greenlaw was one who never made demands of her friends, her name never hung in the halls of fame, and yet she was known by all as a wonderful woman. She was of a kindly disposition, a Christian character, a wonderful mother to her family and respected by the community. During her life of 84 years, she passed through many sorrows, as well as joys. Many thorns pierced her sore at times as she travelled along, yet uncomplainingly, she met everything that life held in store and patiently "Carried On". During her married life, her home was always open to her friends, and the stranger was made welcome "within her gates", and many a one has felt less strange because of sharing her hospitality. She was a member of the Christian Church, being baptised many years ago by the late Rev. E. C. Ford. Her three daughters who were with her during her illness and death are heroines of patience, courage and devotion. Nothing was left undone for their mother. The family, relatives and friends gathered at her late home on Friday, at 2 p.m., to pay their last respects to one well loved and who will be greatly missed. She was borne to the quiet place on the hill amid many expressions of high regard. Rev. Malcomb Outhouse, pastor of the Christian Church conducted the services. Hymns sung by friends were: "Jesus Lover of My Soul", "Does Jesus Care", and the deceased's favorite hymn "The Old Rugged Cross". The floral tributes were beautiful. Left to mourn are four daughters: Mrs. Nehemiah Outhouse, Tiverton; Mrs. Sadie Mitchell, Eastport, Me.; Mrs. Boyd Farnsworth, Tiverton; Mrs. Alton Cheney, of Cape Elizabeth Light, Portland, Me. Three sons: Byron, Frederick, and Archibald, of Tiverton. Four grandchildren, all of whom loved their grandmother very dearly. Four great grandchildren and a large number of relatives and friends. With the passing of this life those who knew and loved her will cherish the memory of one who lived a blameless life.

When we leave this world of changes When we leave this world of care, I am sure we shall see Mrs. Greenlaw In her Father's mansion there.

Ratepayers Discuss Paving Streets

At a well attended meeting of the Digby ratepayers, held in the Court House on Tuesday evening, a resolution favoring the paving of Montague Row from Warwick Street to Mount Street, and of Birch Street to Carleton Street, with the laying down of the necessary sewers and the making of necessary water connections, in line with the proposition outlined by Mr. Doane, of the Standard Paving Company, all possible assistance be applied for and obtained from the Local and Federal Governments. The resolution was moved by Frank Jones, K. C., and seconded by H. T. Warner. The meeting of the ratepayers was called to get the voice of the people of the town in regard to this project as a means to cope with the present unemployment situation. If the project is carried out it would involve an expenditure of some $50,000. The general opinion of those who voiced themselves was that the annual saving made on a paved street would more than pay the interest on any necessary debentures. It is understood that the Town Council will immediately communicate with the Minister of Highways and another meeting of the ratepayers to vote money and to decide on the style of pavement, will be called at some date in the near future. It is the hope of the town that one half of the labor costs of these proposed improvements will be shouldered jointly by the Provincial and Federal Governments, the other half by the town as an unemployment relief measure.

Burglary Attempted At Yarmouth

An attempted burglary which alarmed the occupants of the Captain Wiley Ross' residence Collins Street, occurred early this morning when Mrs. Wiley Ross was awakened from a sound sleep by the presence of a stranger in her room. Mrs. Ross, at first thinking that she was dreaming, soon realized that the burglar was in her room. The small flash light of the burglar was a fact and not a dream. Mrs. Ross immediately turned on her bed lamp, at which the stranger made a hasty exit, partly running and partly falling down the front stairs and out the way he came in. Mrs. Ross, her sister-in-law and the maid, after recovering from their fright, decided to explore the house. Upon reaching the lower floor, Mrs. Ross telephoned the police, but the evidence was slim, and no trace of the man has been found. The burglar is enriched by only one or two dollars which he obtained before exploring upstairs, a fifty-cent piece from a lady's hand bag, and the balance from a toy bank. Mrs. Ross saved about $200, as the culprit was examining Mrs. Ross' dresser, the unsearched drawer containing the money.

League Schedule Arranged At Hockey Meeting

The annual meeting of the Red Raven's Hockey Club was held last evening in the Council Chambers of the Town Hall with E. J. Theriault presiding. At this meeting the schedule for games to be played in Western League between the three teams as follows was drawn up:

Jan. 4—Church Point vs Digby.
Jan. 8—Bear River vs Digby.
Jan. 11—Bear River vs Church Point.
Jan. 15—Digby vs Church Point.

Jan. 18—Digby vs Bear River.
Jan. 22—Bear River vs Church Point.

This is the first year Bear River has entered the League. There has always been a very good team in this town, and their entrance to the League promises some more good games.

It was moved and seconded at this meeting that the manager of the Play-Off games be settled before the first league game.

There will be a meeting of the Hockey Club on November 18th. All players interested should be present.

Impressive Service On Remembrance Day

On Wednesday morning, the thirtieth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, which brought to an end the active hostilities of the World War, the Soldiers' Memorial was the scene of a very impressive service, witnessed by hundreds of persons.

The returned men, led by the Digby Boy Scouts, marched to the monument, where a number of beautiful wreaths were placed as a memorial to those men of Digby who paid the supreme sacrifice, and in their memory, and in the memory of countless thousands of others who sleep in Flanders Fields, the two minutes of silence was observed at eleven o'clock.

The speakers at this service were H. B. Short, M.P., Mayor T. E. G. Lynch and Rev. E. W. Forbes, who offered prayer.

Veterans marched to the Grace United Church where a special "Remembrance Day" sermon was given by the pastor, Rev. E. W. Forbes.

INCREASED TAXES

The remarks of our correspondent, "Taxpayer", in the last issue of the Courier, give food for much thought. We would like to think that he is right, and that, if taxation has increased threefold in twenty years, this increase has been, as he says, for the betterment of living and social conditions, and that social conditions have advanced more than threefold during that period. But, after consideration, we are forced to the conclusion that, Taxpayer is cherishing a fond delusion, and that some of his statements are wide of the mark.

Is it a fact that social conditions have advanced threefold in the last twenty years? We doubt, whether, upon the whole they have advanced at all. Let us see.

In the first place, although taxation has increased threefold, even that has not kept pace with expenditure, and the deficiency has had to be met by loans. During the last twenty years, the County of Digby, including the Town of Digby, has borrowed money and issued bonds to the amount of four times as great as all it had previously borrowed. By far the greater part of this money was borrowed for hydro purposes, on which, if we do not pay interest directly, we pay it indirectly in high rates for electric light and power. Is borrowing money, and going headlong in debt improving social conditions?

A man may buy or build an expensive house and stock it with the most expensive furniture. He may buy pianos, radios and automobiles and provide himself and family with the most expensive food and clothing. But if he gets all these things on credit and has not means to pay for them, is he improving his social condition, or bettering his way of living?

If an individual or a nation, or a municipality does not live within its income, there can only be one outcome, viz., ruin and disaster. The tendency in the past has been to go in debt. If social conditions are to improve, the tendency in the future must be to get out of debt.

The three basic industries of this County are agriculture, fishing and lumbering. In none of these industries are conditions as good as they were twenty years ago. Agriculture, has never been at a lower ebb than at present. Fishing is in a desperate plight. And lumbering has greatly decreased in recent years. Has income taxation advanced the social condition of the farmer, the fisherman or the lumberman?

Our correspondent speaks of improvements in our roads and in education. But in neither of these matters have the Municipal Councils anything to say or do, except to tax the people whatever amount they are ordered to tax them for these services. There has no doubt been some improvement in our trunk roads, but it has been accomplished at great cost, and in large part with borrowed money, and most of the improvements are not permanent.

With regard to education we do not think that there has been any real improvement. Has our correspondent read the report of the very capable men, who were sent several years ago by the Carnegie Foundation to examine and report upon the educational system of Nova Scotia? They found that education especially in the rural schools, was in a very backward state. Severe criticisms of our schools and school authorities have been from time to time appearing in the Halifax papers, and little or no answer has been made to these criticisms. The great majority of our school teachers are sincere and earnest workers, and they are encountering difficulties to-day that they have never had to cope with before, and these difficulties seriously effect the results of their labours.

It may be that we still have our heads above water, and are learning to swim. But if we continue to increase taxation and pile up public debts, we will be fastening a mill stone around our necks, that, sooner or later, will sink us as sure as fate.

A BURDEN IN DISGUISE

During the past two weeks we have had considerable to say on the economic situation of our county and country in general. There is, however, another phase of this question we have not dealt with for many months. That is the Nova Scotia liquor control stores.

Two years ago, on October 31st, the people of this province voted, by a large majority, to do away with the then existing Nova Scotia Liquor Licence Act for the form of Government Control we have in our province today.

They expressed many reasons for desiring this change. We will however, only deal with one of their big arguments at this time—a very logical one, it seemed: That is, their point that through a system of Government Control of alcoholic beverages, the revenue of the province would increase, the burden of taxation would be lessened, and more money would be available for roads, educational and other government work.

We grant them that through the Government Control Stores the revenue has been increased, but—

Has the burden of taxation been lessened?

It has not! And even if such had been the case, wouldn't the price of decreased taxation be a greater burden under the present Act than under the old?

More than sixty percent of the patrons of the liquor store are those who cannot afford alcoholic beverages. Wives and children are made to suffer because the family breadwinner spends too big sums at the Government store. The butcher, grocer and candlestick maker, to say nothing of the doctor and the milkman are forced to extend credit to the patrons of the Government store because the Government store will only sell for cash! Then again we find many of those who are helped by the town and municipality paying more than their share toward the upkeep of the roads, education, and other work over the Nova Scotia Liquor Commission stores. These people, although paying more than their share to the Government in this way are presenting a much greater problem to the taxpayer.

At this time we are not airing our views on the virtues, good or evil, of the present Liquor Control Act. We are merely voicing our opinions from the economic standpoint, therefore, we will say that the present act is a weight for those who can afford to patronize the liquor store without depriving someone else, but that, class, including our summer visitors, is a comparatively small handful when we look at the present situation that exist in the manufacturing and mining centres of Nova Scotia, when we look at the situation in our own town and in our sister towns.

It is fair that the poorer classes and laboring classes should pay the lion's share of the price of "increased" revenue through Government Control Stores?

APPRECIATES NOVA SCOTIA HIGHWAYS

Appreciation of Nova Scotia's excellent highways and the unsurpassed tourist attractions of this Province is contained in a leading editorial, published in a recent issue of the Malden Evening News, Mass. The editorial refers to the largely increasing number of citizens of that city, who have visited Nova Scotia during the past year and says that one and all of the visits were well repaid. Special commendation of the tourist attractions of Nova Scotia is contained in the editorial which states: In Nova Scotia, for instance, Hon. Percy C. Black, the Minister of Highways, has wrought wonders for the touring public. With the limited funds at his command, he has made his Province, a paradise, for the motorist. Back of his successful administration, however, the spirit of the people must not be forgotten, for they too, have combined prudence and enterprise in road building, that deserve to pay handsome dividends in tourist travel.

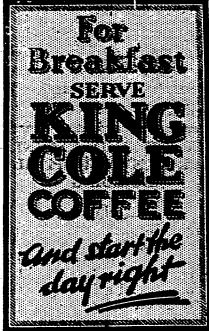

There has been a cordial welcome to visitors, that has made these visitors feel perfectly at home. We know of no motorist, who has made the trip without coming home a booster.

PROTECTING LIVES OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

A personal appeal has been sent to every school teacher in Nova Scotia by Hon. Percy C. Black, Minister of Highways, who asks the teachers assist the Safety Branch of his Department in its endeavour to protect the lives of school children, the future citizens of the province.

"In the school room you have an unequalled opportunity to teach carefulness; any work you do to help in this way is bound to show results in injuries avoided—and even in lives saved," is the message which the Minister of Highways has sent to the school teachers in asking that they place special emphasis upon the teaching of safety precautions to the children under their care.

Hon. Mr. Black points out that motor vehicle traffic is yearly increasing and with it corresponding increased dangers arise. In 1929, however, another phase of this question we have not dealt with for many through the close co-operation of the teachers, this was reduced to 9. So far this year 6 children, all under the age of 13 have been fatally injured in motor vehicle accidents.

At the bottom of the letter the Minister of Highways has placed the slogan, "Use your eyes and ears before you use your feet", and in numerous schools, the teachers have required their pupils to write and rewrite this slogan in order to impress upon them the importance of the message conveyed from the head of the Highway Department.

The letter sent by Hon. Mr. Black to each school teacher, is as follows: "To the School Teachers of Nova Scotia:

Once again school is open, and you have under your care the children of our Province.

Motor traffic is yearly increasing and with it correspondingly increased dangers.

In 1929, twelve school children, between the ages of 5 and 16 lost their lives through motor vehicle accidents.

In 1930, through the excellent co-operation of the teachers, this was reduced to nine.

So far this year, six children, all under the age of 13, have been fatally injured in motor vehicle accidents.

In the school room you have an unequalled opportunity to teach carefulness; any work you do to help in this way is bound to show results in injuries avoided—and even in lives saved.

I should like to have you regard this as a personal appeal to assist the Safety Branch of the Department in its endeavor to protect the lives of our school children, the future citizens of our Province."

Yours faithfully,
Percy C. Black,
Minister of Highways, Nova Scotia.

Made for standing any weather. Outwards he was fashioned plainly.

Loose o'joint an' blamed ungainly. But I'd give a lot if I'd Been built half as fine inside.

Best thing I can tell you of him Is the way the children love him. Now an' then I get to thinkin' He's much like old Abe Lincoln: Homey like a gargoye graven—Worse'n that when he's unshaven; But I'd take his ugly phiz. Jus' to have a heap like his.

I ain't over—sentimental, But old Blake is so blamed genteel An' so thoughtful—like of others He reminds us of our mothers, Rough roads he is always smoothin'.

An' his way is, Oh, so soothing! That he takes away the sting. When your heart is sorrowing.

Children gather round about him, Like they can't get on without him. An' the old depend upon him, Plin' all their burdens on him, Like as though the thing that gives 'em.

Has been lifted when he leaves 'em. Homely? That can't be denied, But he's glorious inside.

ENGLAND

O England, fair England, Land of freedom man. The world in doubt and travail Now looks to you again.

O England, just England, Pride of our Christian race. Your sturdy stalwart spirit Will garrison your place.

O England, wise England. You men know what to do. A mighty task is pending, But you will see it through.

O England, great England, Indomitable and true. The world in doubt and travail Looks hopefully to you.

WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION

(Held over from last week)

The regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the home of Mrs. Henry Rudolf, Weymouth North, on Wednesday afternoon. After the regular routine of devotional services and the business period, a reading was given. This reading was part of an address of the Provincial President Mrs. H. P. Newcombe, and was given at an annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union some time ago. It is as follows:

"We possess as a Province a very unique and lovely thing—The Flag of Nova Scotia. We have the proud distinction of being the only Province in Canada, and the first colony in Great Britain to possess a flag of its own. The flag is derived from the Royal Coat of Arms granted to Nova Scotia in 1625 by Charles I. of England. This ancient and beautiful armorial bearing is the oldest of all the arms borne by the British Dominions. This Coat of Arms among other Heraldic emblems, displays the beautiful aure Cross of St. Andrew's above a disengaged two hands clasping each other—a mailed hand, the other, a naked hand and surmounting it is this motto in Latin, 'Munus haec et altera vincit', interpreted thus: 'The one protects, the other conquers'. What a beautiful symbol we behold in the clasped hands. The mailed hand which in those distant days was the necessary sign of protection for the frontier home which reared its walls on the fringes of our far flung Empire, taking in its protective grasp, the naked hand which always signifies the peaceful toil and endeavor which the peaceful conqueror conquers and establishes civilization. And this beautiful symbol of our courageous destiny as a people embossed in gold over the rum shops of our province. We understand why this is so—this nefarious business of raising revenue at the expense of the manhood, womanhood and childhood of our province, must needs be wrapped about by the respectable robes in order to hide its rotten soul and without compunction, and with its usual arrogance the liquor traffic, which always tramples sacred and higher things in the mire, has seized upon the very sign-manual of our province—the patriotic symbol of our being and existence. Let me point out that it has only been a year or two that this Coat of Arms has been reinstated, so that it now takes the place of the Coat of Arms which was adopted for the province at the time of Confederation. This re-adoption was hailed with appreciation by all, but the first use to which it has been put by the authorities is to adorn the government rum shop. It has not been placed over the doors of other departments of the government and its use in this case is most significant and conspicuous.

Let us examine this symbol more closely and interpret it in relation to the business which it advertises. What does the liquor traffic protect? Answer: Certainly not the home. We know that the home never had a greater enemy than the liquor traffic. Does it protect the husband and father who perchance is struggling against the appetite? Does it make it easier for him to resist temptation and lessen his drinking and therefore make for real temperance? Does it protect the traffic upon our highways? Is there less danger of the drunken driver? Does it protect the man in the machine shop? Does it protect our young people from easy temptation from so called wild parties? Does it protect the earnings and keep them where they rightfully belong, in the home for food and other necessities?

"Canada Finance" published in Winnipeg gave last year these figures: Canada's bill for imported liquors for the fiscal year 1929 was 25,000,000 dollars. For 1929, it was 49,000,000 dollars. We spent last year on such imports as tea, coffee and chocolate and cocoa, the sum of 21,000,000 dollars. We spent on imported whiskey alone 30,500,000 dollars. Our total drink bill for the whole of Canada last year was nearly 200,000,000 dollars—Whom does it protect? It certainly protects the brewer and the distiller, whose plants are being enlarged and increased in number and whose profits are being swelled at the expense of one element—the manhood and the womanhood of Canada. What does it conquer? It conquers happiness, sobriety and prosperity. It has put out the light from thousands of brilliant minds. It saps the strength and decency from sturdy manhood, the modesty and virtue of womanhood, and blights the joy and future of childhood.

What does it conquer? It conquers happiness, sobriety and prosperity. It has put out the light from thousands of brilliant minds. It saps the strength and decency from sturdy manhood, the modesty and virtue of womanhood, and blights the joy and future of childhood.

DESCENDANT OF UNITED EMPIRE LOYALISTS DIES

Mrs. Minerva Sullis, one of the most widely known and highly esteemed residents of the County passed away on Thursday, November 5th, at the advanced age of ninety-four years and three months, at her home here, to which she came as the bride of Capt. George Sullis, some seventy-one years ago last June. She was widely and affectionately known by both young and old, as "aunt Minerva". Mrs. Sullis was born in Marshfield, July 21, 1837. Her parents, Edward and Elizabeth Sypher, were staunch United Empire Loyalists. Her father helped to build the first church at South Range, and was the first superintendent of Sunday school there. When very young, she went to Digby, where she continued to live until she was united in marriage to Capt. George Sullis, of Smith's Cove, on June 2nd, 1860. Reminiscences of her life are of much interest. The wedding trip of Capt. Sullis and his bride was taken on the Brigantine Canton, which was launched the day previous to their marriage, and of which Capt. Sullis was master and part owner. proved to be a very eventful one. It was in the early days of the American Civil war, they sailed for Boston, New York, and the West Indies. During the voyage, they were held up and searched by U.S. authorities for contraband. They encountered many severe storms and adverse winds and were so long delayed, that Mrs. Sullis made other voyages with her husband. Capt. Sullis, who predeceased his wife, some thirty-six years ago, retired from sea life in 1870, and established a general store in Smith's Cove. In those early days, this was the only store between Bear River and Digby. Mrs. Sullis conducted this store until 1921, at which time she retired from business life. Until advanced age and failing health compelled her to relinquish her activities, Mrs. Sullis filled a large place in the religious, social and business life of the community. She was a member and very active worker of the Grace United Church, Smith's Cove, which she was very instrumental in establishing and building. The site upon which the church stands, was the gift of her husband. For many years, she was superintendent of the Sunday school. Her passing removed one of the few last remaining links connecting the past with the present. Mrs. Sullis is survived by her three children, Mrs. Alice Sillcomb, Southville, Mass.; Miss Bessie S. Sullis, at home; Avery H. Sullis, Medford, Mass., three grandchildren, and five great grandchildren. P. A. Sullis, of Halifax, is her step-grandson.

WEDDINGS

Lovitt-Entremont

A very pretty wedding took place in St. Peter's church, West Pubnico, on November 3rd, at 7 a.m., when Philomena, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. J. d'Entremont, of Lower West Pubnico, was united in marriage to Joseph J., son of the late Ambrose Lovitt and Mrs. Virginia LeBlanc, of Lower West Pubnico. The bride was, charmingly dressed in a white silk gown with conventional veil and accessories to correspond, and carried a white prayer book. She was attended by her sister, Celeste, who was dressed in navy blue. The groom was supported by Vital d'Entremont, of Lower West Pubnico. The banner of the Children of Mary (to which society the bride belonged) was carried by Miss Louise d'Entremont, of West Pubnico, who was attired in white, and the ribbons were held by the little Misses Delphine LeBlanc, of Lower West Pubnico and Lucille d'Eon, of Middle West Pubnico. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Charles J. d'Eon, of Middle West Pubnico. Rev. Father J. D. Comeau, officiated. Immediately after the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the groom's home, after which the happy couple left on a tour of Digby County.

NOVA SCOTIA AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

(Home Study Courses)

Through the Nova Scotia Agricultural College the Department of Agriculture offers Home Study Courses for the year 1931-32. These courses will begin December first, 1931, as follows:

1. Soils, Fertilizers and Lime, given by Prof. L. C. Harlow.
2. Field Crops, given by Prof. E. L. Eaton.
3. Horticulture, given by Prof. W. A. Middleton.
4. Breeding and Feeding of Cattle, given by Dr. J. M. Trueman.
5. Poultry, given by Prof. J. P. Landry.
6. Farm Economics, given by Dr. W. V. Longley.
7. Apiculture, given by Prof. H. G. Payne.

The system of giving these Home Study Courses will consist of the College sending each student a set of notes and questions covering each lesson. These notes will be based on a book which the student will secure from the College and in other cases on bulletins and pamphlets. The lessons will be sent out weekly and the student will be expected to send in answers to the questions.

The cost of taking the courses will consist of $1.00 for registration fee, and the price of the book recommended for the course. The books will cost from $2.00 to $4.00 for each course. This will make the total cost vary from $3.00 to $5.00 depending on the book required. In most cases the cost of the book will be less than $3.00.

Where clubs or study classes divide to study one or more of these courses as a group, a reduction will be made in the registration fee and it will not be necessary for each member of the group to buy a book. All study groups must be recommended by the Agricultural Representative for their district, and be under his general supervision.

Scientists Baffled by

Malignant Tsetse Fly

Ruling a modern empire is not wholly a matter of troops, treaties and trade agents. Shock battalions of scientists may be required to combat than an uprising of aborigines, according to the National Geographic Society. For example, in eastern Africa the British recently captured 1,833 enemies in a day—dreaded insect enemies, the tsetse fly, which were caught in 18 imitation animal traps. The tsetse fly lives in the bush. When an animal wanders into the bush and is infected by the insect the natives flee the region, just as they did before the tsetse fly. The tsetse fly is a much deadlier enemy than the locust. It has effectively wiped out habitations from extensive areas in Tanganyika as large as California, and regions as extensive as other of our states in Rhodesia, Nyasaland, Uganda and Zululand. Throughout these units of British political domain cultivated patches of land have been abandoned. Farmers' pastures have gone back to the bush and the tsetse fly requires its judicial reign.

Hungry London Consumes

Foodstuffs by the Ton
Nearly 450 miles of bread are eaten by Londoners every day. The weekly ration is 25,000,000 half-quarter loaves, and although they vary in size and shape, if they were all of the "sandwich" type, about seven to eight inches long, they would extend, if placed in a straight line, for 3,100 miles.

Very large quantities of foodstuffs are unloaded at the London docks every year. The figures for last year, according to a statement made by the port of London authority recently, included 1,090,000 tons of wheat, 218,000 tons of flour, 490,000 tons of chaff and frozen meat, and 190,000 tons of butter.

One astonishing figure was 621,000 tons of green fruit and vegetables. And London, they imported 491,000 pounds of tea, enough to make 94,320,000 cups—between six and seven every day of the 365 for every man, woman and child in England and Wales.

Quinine Tercentenary

The tercentenary of the first use of quinine was held in St. Louis at Shaw's garden, October 31 and November 1, 1930. The earliest well-authenticated instance of the medicinal use of cinchona bark is found in 1638, when the countess of Chinchona (hence the name), the wife of the governor of Peru, was cured of an attack of fever by its administration. The medicine was recommended in her case by the corregidor of Loxa, who was said to have practically experienced its supreme virtues eight years earlier. A knowledge of the bark was disseminated throughout Europe by members of the Jesuit brotherhood, who also became generally known as Jesuits' bark. According to another account, this name arose from its value having been first discovered by a Jesuit missionary, who, when stricken with fever, was cured by the administration of the bark by a South American Indian.

Noted Scholarship Fund

The Harriet Hurd Schelde scholarship was founded in 1928 at Princeton University by an anonymous donor with a gift to amount to $50,000 to establish scholarships for the value of the annual undergraduate fee, plus $100, to be known as the Harriet Hurd Schelde scholarships. In the award of these scholarships, preference is given to candidates who are sons of Presbyterian ministers, or Presbyterian educators, or, failing such candidates, to those who are sons of ministers, missionaries or educators of a church holding the Presbyterian system, who without the assistance thus provided are in the opinion of the university authorities, be unable to obtain an education at Princeton university. Award is made in accordance with the general principles of the Rhodes scholarship plan.

Wassailing Apple Trees

The ancient custom of "wassailing the apple trees," which dates back 300 years, was recently observed at Carhampton, near Minehead, Somerset, England. Two men carried a bucket of cider into the orchard, set it down under the largest tree and hung pieces of toast soaked in cider against the branches for the robins and good spirits. The wassail incantation was then chanted, and when it ended the villagers began to shout and cheer, while guns were fired through the branches to preserve the apple crop by driving off tree "hoggards" and other bad spirits.

"Railroad" and "Railway"

The reason that one transportation company is called a railroad and another a railway is simply that railroad and railway are corporate names. Often when a railroad goes bankrupt it must reorganize under a different name. For example, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad went into the hands of receivers and when it emerged it was the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Pacific railway, adding the word "Pacific" to the name, and a new corporate name. Likewise the changing from railroad to railway changes the name of the corporation.

Children Enrolled in Old English Colleges

A curious possibility of the turning of the wheel is suggested by the plea which is being made for an earlier entry into the universities, partly in order that distressed modern parents may be relieved a little earlier of the cost of maintenance of sons and, presumably, daughters. It is true that at present boys enter the university at an age when, over a long period, they would have been ready to leave. John Milton had only just passed his fifteenth birthday when he went up from St. Paul's school to Cambridge, and he was nineteen when he took his bachelor degree. Sir John Denham was sent to Oxford at sixteen, though he seems to have behaved himself there very much after the fashion of some young fellows who have matriculated at a later age; for the future poet is described as a "dreaming young man, given more to dice and cards than study." But even fifteen or sixteen, which seems very early to us, would have seemed very late to the authorities of an earlier age, when thousands of boys, huddled in bare lodging houses, clustering round teachers as poor as themselves, in church porch and house porch, took the place of the brightly-colored robes of doctors and heads. It was in those days that scholars like Edmund Rich, archbishop of Canterbury and saint in later days, came to Oxford, a boy of twelve years. The most ardent advocate of change would scarcely advocate a return to those days. (England) Guardian.

Demand for Ambergris Greater Than Supply

Treasure trove was recently thrown up on a Pacific coast beach in the form of a piece of ambergris, at least that was what its finders called it. Ambergris, always scarce and now even scarcer, has been a coveted possession for centuries in view of the high price it commands. It has figured in history and in fiction, and from time to time it has brought a measure of wealth to those who have been fortunate enough to find a piece of it. This strange substance comes either from the stomach or the intestines of the sperm whale and frequently contains the beaks of cuttlefish, on which the whale feeds. It is a grayish substance, often mottled with darker streaks. Whales are a will sometimes found large pieces of it floating in the water. Long ago chemists discovered that ambergris could be melted in boiling alcohol and used in the manufacture of perfumes. Hence it became a valuable commodity. It is much rarer than it used to be, because of the scarcity of sperm whales. In the early days of American whaling the sperm whale was plentiful, ranging into the North Atlantic for its food.

Ruins of Old Roman City

Tinglad is a small city, 25 miles southeast of Batna, in the department of Constantine, Algeria. Tinglad, the Thamugas of the Romans, was built on the lower slopes of the northern side of the Aurès mountains, and was situated on a large, fertile plain. The acropolis of the theater, which held nearly 4,000 persons, is complete. A little west of the theater are baths, containing paved and mosaic floors. Numerous inscriptions have been found on the ruins of the city. Many events in the history of Thamugas have been learned. Thamugas passed from history after the defeat of Gregorius, governor of Africa, by the Arabs in 647.

Road Versus Rail

It is now many years since the express of the railway companies running England and the Wellington road in connection with each other, and there is today very little "sporting interest" in connection with trains. On the continent, a new form of railway racing was growing up some time ago, and it has been going on ever since. This road versus rail racing is now discouraged in Europe. However it is catching on so much in New Zealand that a recent race between a car and the Wellington Auckland train was broadcast throughout the country. The race took place at night and, despite the handicap of bad and very hilly roads, the car won by half an hour.

Iris had been sitting with an absorbed look on her face, gazing at her father.

"Why did you marry mother, dad?" she suddenly said.

"What do you mean, miss?" asked father sharply.

"I mean that it was sad for mother to marry a fool, dad," explained Iris seriously.

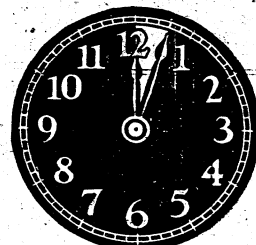

Ray Baths for Horses

Race horses and dogs are being treated with artificial sunlight just before they go on the track in England. Some stalls are fitted with powerful lights and the rays from these the animals stand quietly while taking their "baths." Among those in the know the sunbath is considered a factor when deciding racing odds.

The late Mrs. Hart was born in Sackville on June 9, 1840. She was one of the pupils who entered the "Female Academy," now Mount Allison Ladies' College, when it was first opened on August 17, 1854. In 1864, she married Rev. T. D. Hart and lived on the following Nova Scotia circuits: Acadia, Lockport, Berwick, Burlington, Selma, Pugwash, Ingonish, C. B. Sambro, and Five Islands. Mrs. Hart was known as the "Mother of Missionaries." Of her eleven children, nine are still living. The daughters are: Dr. Louise Hart, missionary in India; Miss Elizabeth, formerly missionary in Japan; Mrs. E. C. Hennigar in Japan; Mrs. J. C. Morton, of Halifax—the oldest living graduate of Arts of Mount Allison University. In view of the fact that Mrs. Hart belonged to the first class of the Ladies' College, the present day students marched in a body to the cemetery where they separated into two lines through which the cortege passed to the graveside.

The circuit was well-represented, large delegations from both Clementsport and Smith's Cove being present. A very united and happy spirit prevailed throughout the meeting.

Magnesia Best for Your Indigestion

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisulphate of Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them. They are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisulphate of Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrector, which can be obtained from any good drug store, instantly neutralizes the stomach acidity, sweetens the stomach, prevents food fermentation, and makes digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bisulphate of Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

REMEMBRANCE DAY SERVICE

The annual church parade, and Remembrance Day service of the Canadian Legion, of Bear River and vicinity was held last Sunday in the United Baptist church, at 10:30 a.m. The other churches cancelled their services as usual and a very large number of worshippers gathered for the service. The Rev. A. A. McLeod, was assisted in the service by Rev. C. L. Blanchard (United Church) and Rev. A. W. L. Smith, (Church of England). Members of the choirs of the three churches assisted in the music. A duet was pleasingly rendered by Mr. Harry Harris and Mrs. Lloyd Sanford. Basing his remarks on the theme of Angels and Ministering Spirits and using the story of the Angels at Mons as an introduction, the pastor called upon the men of the Legion to renew their interest in spiritual things. Life is more than the material and physical. There is a life of the spirit. Prayer was answered during those awful days, by giving all the power to see it through. Why not turn to prayer again, during these trying days of peace. Turn back your book of remembrance to today. Think of the times you prayed and received power during those awful days. Think of the unseen, out of the world beyond of those days. You have suffered disillusionment and bitterness since coming back, so give the rest of us. But God will give you the power to see through, the trials and disappointments of peace, as he did in those awful days. 'So today we remember those in Flanders' fields, those in sanatoriums and hospitals at home, those maimed, walking our streets, the pieces of shrapnel in your own bodies, and we will keep the faith. Oh, lives. We will not neglect so great salvation. The white comrade of the trenches is waiting to be our companion still. He will lead us safely home if we trust him.

"He prayed to the Lord, and He sweated blood, and yet he was crucified. But His prayer was answered, I see it now, for though He were sorely tried, they are ALL. Still He went with His trust in the Lord unbroken, and His soul it were satisfied. For He felt He were doing God's will, ye see, what He came on earth to do, And the answer what came to His prayers He prayed was His power to see it through."

Originated Postal System
Hailed by many as the father of the modern postal system, the one hundredth anniversary of Heinrich von Stephan was modestly celebrated in Germany. He came from very humble origins, rose to be director of the Royal Prussian post. The work for which he is particularly remembered was engineering the postal union, which became effective on July 1, 1875, after the Bern conference had sat only a week and a half before accepting his scheme without change. Germans perhaps treasure von Stephan's memory particularly as the originator of the cheap-rate postcard. Indeed, his name is closely associated with all the postal innovations of his time.

Weight and Health
Recent insurance experience has shown that average weight tables are often misleading. The average weights are by no means the best weights. At ages under thirty, the best co-ordinations apparently exist among those whose weights are from five to ten pounds above the average. After age thirty, the most favorable conditions are found among those whose weights are below the average. The amount below average increases with advancing age, and at the age of fifty, persons seem to be at their best when their weights are as much as 20 or 30 pounds below the average. Insurance experience shows that underweight is definitely an advantage so far as long life is concerned.

Hard to Trace Origin
Dr. Frank H. Vizetelly in his book on "Idioms and Idiomatic Phrases" says, "Let Carter's Little Liver Pills be an Americanism." The origin, traced by various persons to different sources. He quotes, however, C. E. Gallagher of Youngstown, Ohio, who writes in 1921: "Let her go, Gallagher!" was first used by the writer (Mr. Gallagher) on posters advertising a contest at Salamanca, N. Y., about 35 years ago. My father was postmaster at that place, and working in the post office was a number of very popular young ladies who were always active in the social affairs of the town. These posters referred to the girls who worked for Gallagher."

Women's Institute

The Government's appreciation of the splendid leadership which the Women's Institute of Nova Scotia are giving to promote the best interests of the homes of the Province, was conveyed to the members of the W. I. N. S. in convention at Truro, by Hon. O. P. Goucher, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. Dr. G. H. Murphy, Minister of Health, who with Dr. Carleton Stanley, newly appointed president, of Dalhousie University, delivered notable addresses.

As head of the Department of Agriculture, through which the Women's Institute operate, Hon. Mr. Goucher expressed his heartfelt congratulations upon the past accomplishments of the Institutes and extended his wishes for continued success in all their important endeavors.

The Minister of Public Health outlined the efforts which his department is making to protect the general well-being of Nova Scotia, and said that the co-operation of the Women's Institutes was proving to be an important factor in advancing the work which the Government is doing in connection with its extensive program of social legislation.

The President of Dalhousie University also complimented the Women's Institutes upon their activities and said that he was happy to observe that the Government fully appreciated the significance of Women's Institutes.

In conveying the formal greetings of the Government of Nova Scotia to the convention, Hon. Mr. Goucher remarked that this was the third consecutive convention of the W. I. N. S. which he had been privileged to attend.

"My subject tonight is 'greetings' and I have to extend to you the most cordial greetings from Premier H. H. Harrington and the members of his Government and deep appreciation of the splendid leadership which your Institute is giving to promote better living conditions and a larger life for the citizens of Nova Scotia. Your Institutes are doing a class of work than which is not finer, endeavoring as you are to promote the best interests of home and country.

"It is not possible to assess the value of your work during the 19 years of your existence. During all this time, you have successfully striven to have the standards of the Minister of Agriculture said.

"I am aware of the burden of responsibility for carrying on your work through the local Institutes is done through love of the work and without any promise or hope of reward. However, you have always had good leadership in the person of your superintendent, whose services the Government has been pleased to supply. The wise and efficient leadership of the superintendent, Miss MacDougall, has contributed largely to the success which you have achieved. From her report of last year's work, I judge 1930 was one of the most successful in your history," the Hon. Mr. Goucher added.

Outlining the various subjects which came under the Department of Public Health, Hon. Dr. Murphy said that all physical defects as part of its work. His Department was endeavoring, the Minister said, to create more adequate means for handling the tuberculosis question.

"It will be my privilege this month to open the first of the tuberculosis annexes at the Memorial Hospital in Inverness. Others are in course of construction and we hope that with further developments of this system, coupled with the extension at the Kentville Sanatorium, we shall be able to solve the question of having a minimum number of beds for tuberculosis patients," the Minister added.

The Minister of Health said that the Government was also dealing with the cancer problem and was hoping to increase the nursing service of the Province during the coming year. He felt that much progress was being made to meet the condition of the mentally defective children in the Province and that the local Government had performed an important service in establishing the training farm near Truro, where over 125 children are being trained. Through this training it was possible to convert these children into viable liabilities to real national assets.

Hon. Dr. Murphy stated that it was of great assistance to his Department to have the co-operation of the Women's Institutes of Nova Scotia, and said that the work of these Institutes was essentially that of public health.

"You are to be complimented on the work you are doing in the schools and more particularly in the homes. The home is the unit of the nation. If you would develop the nation and solve a real democracy, you have

Only Coating of Salt on Utah's "Salt Palace"

The Salt Lake Real-Estate board says: "The Salt Palace was built as a dance hall in a local pleasure resort where were formerly a bicycle race track and various other entertainment attractions. The Salt Palace was not constructed of solid salt, as is supposed, but rather was a coat over frame construction, which, however, had all the appearance of a real salt structure. Salt is extracted from the brine in the Great Salt Lake by pumping water into evaporating ponds, where the salt is finally deposited on whatever happens to be on the ground. It was discovered that when the brine, which is approximately 20 per cent in the lake, had evaporated sufficiently so that the solution was about 40 per cent in strength, articles dipped into the brine would attract the crystals and they would form on any surface, particularly wood. This was how the lumber was coated for the Salt Palace. It was taken to these ponds, one side was allowed to become covered with these crystals, and then later salt water was poured over to weld the joints. At first the building was very bright, the crystals glistening in the sunlight. However, they were not immune to rain, and after several seasons they were no longer the same bright color that they were originally. The origin of the myth which destroyed it was never definitely determined. However, like many resorts in smaller cities, it had too much competition, and was therefore not sufficiently profitable to warrant rebuilding."

The baby was being displayed to admiring callers.

Radio Peculiarities
Radio transmission reproduces nearly the pitch and tone of the characteristic timbre of each musical instrument, because each sound wave entering a microphone has not only the general characteristic of frequency, but also infinitely smaller waves within the general frequency wave. These incidental—or supplemental—waves within the total frequency wave are caused by the peculiar or characteristic timbre of the instrument-producing the sound. For example, the total frequencies of both the violin and the saxophone, playing the same note, "A," will be identical, but the incidental "overtone" waves within the frequencies will be different and will also be transmitted, identifying the characteristic "form" or "timbre" of the instrument itself.

California's Inland Sea
The Salton sea is a lake in the Colorado desert, in southeastern California. Under ordinary conditions it is a salt marsh covered in places by shallow lakes about 30 miles long, 12 miles wide and 250 feet below sea level. At times of freshets, the lakes expand into a water body covering approximately 50,000 acres. Water from the irrigating ditches of the Imperial valley keeps the level of the lake fairly constant and until this is diverted it will continue to maintain its previous area despite heavy losses from evaporation. Terraces slightly above sea level on the sides of the basin indicate that there was formerly present a lake called "Lake Calabilla," which was 12 miles long and 30 miles wide.

Horseshoe Superstitions
There are varying views on the origin of the superstition concerning the horseshoe. Some think it is lucky because it has seven nail holes in it. Another idea is that the horseshoe is lucky because witches are afraid of it. So if a horseshoe is placed outside your door, no witch will dare to enter. It is possible that one object of hanging up horseshoes in the old days was a desire to appear wealthy in the eyes of passers-by, for only a comparatively rich man possessed a horse, shod with iron. By the way, the luckiest horseshoe is supposed to be the first one shed by a mare, and you must have this with the opening at the heel in order that the luck may not drop out!

Everything Would Turn BLACK

Mrs. H. E. Swanzy Considers that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic) Saved Her Life.

"Feeling Like a Different Person."

"I could hardly walk across the room," writes Mrs. H. E. Swanzy, R. N., 11, Collingwood, Ontario. "Everything would turn black and I would become so dizzy I would have to rest. I thought I would never be strong—when I was advised to get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I used them and I had taken six boxes. Soon I was feeling like a different person. I am now the mother of six strong, healthy children."

The iron and other elements in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic) increase the amount of haemoglobin, or oxygen-carrying agent, in blood. The result is a better appetite, a feeling of well-being, restful sleep, and the ability to do your work happily.

Art Treasures Beyond

All Price in Vatican
It would take volumes to enumerate the treasures of the Vatican. The chapels of San Lorenzo, the Sistine and the Pauline are decorated with frescoes by Fra Angelico, Michelangelo, Perugino and others. Four chambers were decorated by Raphael.

The picture gallery is not large, but the paintings are among the most valuable in the world. Raphael's "Transfiguration," "Madonna di Foligno" and his "Coronation of the Virgin," besides some smaller pictures, are here. So are works of Murillo, Titian, Perugino, Correggio, Paul Veronese and others of the greatest of painters.

The museum contains not only many of the most beautiful sculptures in the world, ancient Greek statues among which are the Laocoon and the Apollo Belvedere, but also great numbers of antiquities, and of ancient Italy, Greece and Egypt.

The library at the Vatican was founded in 1378, and now contains a valuable collection of 60,000 manuscripts and 250,000 volumes of rare books. A recent addition to the collection is the Rospioglosi library and archives presented by Louis Mendelssohn of Detroit, Mich. This library includes many valuable books gathered by Pope Clement IX. of Rome during his pontificate. From 1687 to 1693, also a portrait of Pope Clement by Carlo Maratta.

Bayberry Candle Boon to New England Women
Canadian bayberries were an item of export to be reckoned with in the gay courts of Europe, as many as 5,000 being used on grand occasions when the vast halls were to be filled with guests. From the demand for the bayberry candle, developed quite an important industry and laws were passed regulating the size and adulteration of the materials to be used.

When the Pilgrims found themselves on the bleak shores of New England with few facilities for artificial illumination, says the New York Sun, other methods of lighting their homes had to be devised. At first, like the Indians, they used knots of pitch which they lighted, but this was not long until the thrifty New England woman learned that by boiling the little gray bayberries that grew on the low windswept shores along the coast she could procure a wax which rose to the top of the kettle. From this she made the first bayberry candles.

First Sunday Schools
A century and a half has elapsed since Robert Ralke began his organization of Sunday schools. The credit for the founding of the earliest of Sunday schools as distinct from the Sunday school movement, however, is claimed for the little spinster Methodist, Hannah Ball, friend of John Wesley, whose first Sunday school was established in High Wycombe 151 years ago.

Robert Ralke, the founder of the Sunday school movement, and is still active. An authority on the subject has stated: "It seems almost certain that John Wesley, who rode on horseback from place to place, and who visited Gloucester, spoke of the work of Hannah Ball to Robert Ralke, a man of great abilities, who thereupon not only commenced a school, but set himself to organize others."—Montreal Family Herald.

Standard Time
According to the United States naval observatory at Washington, standard time had not come into general use in 1885; no uniform standards existed then. At present, the time zone in which England is located uses the local time of Greenwich, and the same was used in 1885 was practically the same as the Greenwich time today. Sweden adopted standard time in 1829. Since that date it has used time one hour more advanced than that of Greenwich. Stockholm no doubt uses its own local time before 1829, which would have been a few minutes more advanced than the time used today. Owing to Greenland's spare population, that country has not yet adopted standard time.

Fortune From Simple Idea
American inventors of domestic utilities, a high place must be given to an unknown old lady of Durham, England, whose notion of grinding mustard seeds and sifting the powder through a cloth led to the famous Colman's making a tremendous fortune and founding a worldwide business. The old lady was enterprising enough to forward a sample of her preparation to King George I, who was delighted at the new way of condiment which previously had to be prepared by a clumsy and lengthy process, and his favor instantly established its success.

The Proper Comeback
A prominent English woman who recently visited us expressed her bewilderment with regard to the correct reply to the customary American greeting, "Pleased to meet you." No doubt there is a fitting response, if one could only think of it. Of course one might follow the lead of the old duke of Beaufort. An American gripped the duke warmly by the hand and said, "Pleased to meet you."

All Sorts of Virtues

Credited to Turquoise

To the people of Tibet and elsewhere, turquoise appears in the light of a charming talisman endowed with curative powers and magic benefits. Bayard Newton in the Los Angeles Sunday Times. It was considered "an ascription and sweet to the taste, an excellent means of provoking the appetite. Every poison, whether vegetable or mineral, or the mixture of both, was rapidly neutralized by the turquoise. It relieved the pain caused by rheumatism and other obnoxious influences. The stone was employed as an eye remedy of the sort. It was used in temple worship and as an omen of good luck in the marriage ceremony."

For centuries the turquoise has been linked with the spiritual and physical welfare of the ancient nations. Derived from Tibet and Persia these superstitions or beliefs were carried through conquest and trade to all the countries of the East, and in a ready following in the China and among the more cultured peoples. Later, the ideas invaded Europe and it is held by many that much of the American Indian turquoise lore had its inception from these same beliefs.

Lovers of Wild Birds

Mourn for Heath Hen

Early settlers along the Atlantic coast found huge flocks of the heath hen—in size and appearance much like the western prairie chicken—frequenting the sandy, scrub oak plains of Massachusetts, Connecticut, Long Island, New York and other coastal areas from Maine to Virginia.

The Cavaliers discovered that the heath hen was excellent for roasting a spit before the huge fireplaces. The town of Roger Williams and his followers through their first hard winters in Rhode Island. Pilgrims who hunted turkey or wild deer without success brought home heath hens for Thanksgiving. Thomas Morton wrote in 1637 that the bird is much "like our pleasant henpe of England of excellent flesh and delicate meat."

The heath hen, however, was the pot hunter's prey. It flew in a straight line and could not be shot. It had an unfortunate habit of congregating in large flocks in open spaces.

It was extinct on the mainland as early as the Civil war, but still flourished on the islands. Bird-lovers called attention from time to time to the fact that it was dwindling, and in 1925 there was a heath hen conference in New England in an effort to save the plumed fowl. Thousands of dollars and much heart and effort were expended, but it was the old story of priming the pump after the house burned down.

Grateful and Beautiful Tribute to Loved Wife

Those who report the inscriptions in old burying grounds do so ordinarily to call attention to what is quaint, untidy and bizarre. A different quest in these days might have as its object the discovery of inscriptions which testify, with simple sincerity, to long lives of joint happiness. The present-day tribute by every reminder that there were such and such a man and such a woman.

Perhaps in all New England there is no more grateful tribute to a grateful devotion than that upon a headstone, placed not many years ago, in the old Grove Street cemetery in New Haven, and which is devoted to the grave of his wife by a physician whose high skill and learning were long in the service of the community and of the Yale Medical school, whose magney and graciousness became a tradition in the city. Below her name and the fact that she was his wife, he added: "For forty years the crown of his felicity."—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Picturesque "Home" for Wild Life in France

There has been constituted in the south of France a national reserve for wild life which, in some ways, is the most picturesque natural home for bird and beast to be found in Europe. It is situated on the Camargue, the island famous in old French history and legend and well known to visitors to Arles in Provence. Entirely the delta of the River Rhone, recently formed by alluvial deposits, it is in great part a savage region of marsh and prairie.

The Societe Nationale d'Acclimatation, which has charge of the reserve, protects about 50,000 acres as tenant, and it is proposed to increase the area ultimately to 100,000 acres. Even after a relatively short experience, however, it has been observed that the migratory birds of many species which have always used the island as a landing station are increasing in number. For instance it is the last hopping-off place for Africa. Besides every sort of wild duck in innumerable numbers—storks, herons and egrets—there are many rare birds which cannot be seen elsewhere in Europe. Perhaps the most astonishing are the pink flamingoes, which are to be found in flocks of 3,000 or 4,000 together.

Little-Known Men Who

Are Worthy of Honor

It is suggested that a statue be erected to the memory of the man who first introduced the orange to Great Britain. Japan already has a statue to its first orange bringer. France has put up a statue to Marie Harel, the inventor of Camembert cheese, and Offenbach, in Germany boasts a statue to Sir Francis Drake for bringing the potato from the New world to the Old. But nobody knows who brought the oranges to Britain. They came from Spain about the year 1290, but beyond that there is no record. The first man to import oranges in quantity was Benjamin Bovill, a London fruit broker, the centenary of whose death recently occurred. The man who first brought bananas to Britain is just as worthy of a statue as anyone connected with oranges. Worthiest, perhaps, of any is Sir Richard Weston, who flourished in the reign of Charles I. Though very few people have heard of him it was he who introduced turnips, clover and other sown grasses into Britain and so laid the foundation of modern agriculture.—London Mail.

Blinds Not "Venetian"

Venetian blinds, now becoming popular in America, are not, and never were, really Venetian. Home and Field says:

"While the roller shade is purely an American invention, the use of venetian blinds, or tilting slats, dates back nearly 300 years to the West Indies," the article says. "The blinds now in use are quite similar, but with added improvements. Apparently there is no authoritative information as to why they are called Venetian. Careful research shows that they were not seen in Venice until many years after they had been in use elsewhere. It has been suggested, however, that they may have been invented by a Venetian trader making his home in the West Indies and named in his honor."

The Three of Them

The following incident is reported by Mrs. A. M. G.:

"A little five-year-old girl was added to my class last Sunday, and when the lady who brought her introduced her to me she said: 'She was born in Egypt.'"

"I thought no more about it, and when class work began, I told the little tot about Moses. The little new-comer said she had heard about Moses; and then, to interest her, I said, 'Moses was a Jew, but he was born in Egypt.'"

"Yes," exclaimed the new child, 'all three of us were born in Egypt: my sister, and I, and Moses.'—Kansas City Star.

Make Life a Battle

Young people like to be doing things. A keen student of youth has said that the average young person gets a far greater thrill out of hewing his own pathway through the world than in rolling along in a luxurious car over a roadway that other hands have prepared. But, after all, no one can wholly remove from us all responsibility or fight all our battles for us. Nobody has a right to find life uninteresting or unrewarding who sees within the sphere of his own activity a wrong he can help to remedy, or within himself an evil he can hope to overcome.—Montreal Family Herald.

Says New Buildings Ungodly

"There is a saying that God made the country and the devil made the towns," said Sir Thomas Comyn-Platt in an address before the council for the Preservation of British England, in London recently. "When I walk in London and see the buildings they are erecting I can quite believe they are not the work of the Almighty. England owes everything to the country."

No, He Wasn't Telling

That One to the Wife

"I can match that one," said the man who owns a dog to the man with a new baby at home. "Impossible!" said the man with the new baby. He had just offered, as an illustration of the intelligence of infants, the story of how a baby, picked up and walked with at 11:03 p.m., will demand with wails to be picked up and walked with the next night at 11:03 p.m. and the next.

"Well," said the man who owns a dog, "when our Muzette had puppies, I was doing night work. Came in at 3 a.m. Maggie and her puppies were sound asleep in their basket at that hour, but one night when I wasn't sleepy I turned on the light in the kitchen, dumped them all out on the floor and played with them for a while. The next night I did the same thing. And the next."

"The night after that I came home tired, I walked right through to the bedroom, undressed and got into bed, and you should have heard the yelps that went up from that kitchen. Every one of those puppies spent the next 15 minutes noisily reproaching me for my neglect. They woke up the wife, they woke up the neighbors. They made the darndest fuss. The next night I ignored them again, but they woke up and yelped at 3 a.m. just the same. It took the nights of ignoring them to break the habit."

"You don't say," said the man with the new baby, looking thoughtful. "Well, I wouldn't dare tell that one to my wife."—New York Sun.

Turkish Capital Famed

For Its Many Mosques

As the tourist gets his first view of Istanbul from the deck of an approaching ship, he is more aware of the mosques than of anything else, says an article in a Boston paper. They come, and the slender minarets which rise near them, give Istanbul a real distinction which many great cities lack. Not even Cairo has mosques which show up as an astonishment against the skyline. They are almost numberless, but there are a dozen that are really tremendous in size. They occupy commanding sites, so that the domes and minarets rise above the surrounding roofs. They give Istanbul, from a distance, an aspect of wonderful dignity and grandeur mingled with the charm of the Orient.

Of these mosques, the most renowned is St. Sophia, one of the most glorious buildings in the world. It was built as a Christian church, and dedicated in the year 538. The minarets at the four outside corners were added by the Turks when they converted the structure into a mosque. From the outside, St. Sophia is apt to seem a little disappointing, but within it is hardly surpassed anywhere in architectural merit. It would be hard to find another great nave so light and so graceful.—Detroit News.

Mother Earth's Age

The earth is 2,000,000,000 years old, according to the estimate of Prof. Dr. O. Hahn, director of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute at Berlin. The noted physicist bases his calculations on the quantity of lead to be found on the surface of the earth.

"The progress made recently in the study of radioactive substances and the destruction of the atom enables us to fix the age of the world with fair accuracy," the professor told an audience of German scientists. "Uranium and thorium, contained in certain minerals, are converted, in the course of millions of years, into radium, and finally into uranium lead and thorium lead. The lead findings help us to determine the age of the earth at 2,000,000,000 years."

Old Story Disproved

There is an oft repeated story credited to the historian, Harvey Rice, that Moses-Cleaveland's exploring and surveying party started up the Chagrin river, mistaking it for the Cuyahoga, and that upon discovering the error Cleaveland gave it this name as representative of the state of his feelings.

It appears, however, that this story has little basis in fact. The maps made before the Revolution of the river was called the Chagrin. The name is no doubt from an Indian word given as "Shagrin" or "Shagrin" and said to mean "clear." One map issued in 1735 calls it the Elk river.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

'Spinner's' Derivation

Spinning mules one who works at the spinning wheel. In the old days the work of making cloth for clothing was a part of the household duties and fell to the younger women to spin the yarn. As the prepossessing and marriageable girls had their minds on their fellows, the job usually became the responsibility of those who had had their chance and lost. So a spinner came to mean any unmarried woman, and is still today the legal phrase in England for a young woman who has never been married.

Mine Rescue School

To train rescue crews in mine accidents a factory in Berlin, Germany has opened a school where invasion of gas-infested chambers and the carrying of men to safety are taught. Experiments are made under varying conditions, different types of gas being worn by the operators, and dummies are rescued from rooms filled with poisonous vapors.

Since like flows to like, as brook to river, the loyal person will have many friends.

No person who is doing their best need be ashamed of the result. God pays for work, not results.

DISCOVERIES

Simple goodness and sin have one quality in common—neither can be hidden.

Pulling the rope of kindness makes the joy bells ring in our own heart. The most useful fingers may be task-browned instead of lily-white. The friend who endeavors, by ridicule to induce a person to do wrong, is only an enemy in disguise.

New Bakery Opened In Troop Building

At last Digby has a bakery, fully equipped and in charge of one of the best bakers in the province, A. G. Nickerson, formerly of Yarmouth. This bakery was opened two weeks ago and has been favored with a fair run of custom ever since. It is in the Troop building and the plant, although not large, is well equipped and fairly modern, being new throughout. Bread of excellent quality, rolls, doughnuts, delicious cookies, cakes, pies, in fact everything you may expect to find in a first class bakery, are produced under the most sanitary conditions. Nothing but the very best material is used, and everything is put up very attractively. We wish Mr. Nickerson every success and urge our readers to ask for "Digby bread" either from the bakery, or from their regular dealer.

Many Miles of Road Under Construction

The River Road to Bear River, one of the most picturesque of roads in Western Nova Scotia, is now closed to traffic while the upper end is under construction. This road will be widened, many of the dangerous curves eliminated or widened, and new bridges put in. The lower end of this road was rebuilt last fall. Some repairs have also been made on the Lansdowne road to Bear River, and many of the secondary roads are now being put into shape.

This work is giving employment to a great many men, which, at this time of the year, when employment is scarce, is a blessing, and is the means of putting into condition roads that have been crying for attention for many years.

The secret of always making a first class cup of tea is to use MORSE'S Selected Orange Pekoe, and to brew it in fresh water that has just come to the boil.

New Addition To Western Hockey League

At the meeting of the Red Raven Hockey Club last week, in the Council Chambers of the Town Hall with E. J. Theriault presiding, the schedule of the Western Hockey League was drawn up. There is a change in the league members this season, Bear River Hockey Club replacing the Annapolis Royal Club. This club with Les Acadians, of Church Point, with the Ravens of Digby, will comprise the league. The entrant from Bear River will add interest to the league and be the means of developing good hockey material in that section of the county. It was decided that in the matter of play-offs, those games must be settled before the opening of the league games. The schedule is as follows: Jan. 4, Church Point vs Digby; Jan. 8, Bear River vs Digby; Jan. 11, Bear River vs Church Point; Jan. 15, Digby vs Church Point; Jan. 18, Digby vs Bear River; Jan. 22, Bear River vs Church Point. At the present writing, it looks as though the Ravens, champions of the Western League for several successive seasons, and runners-up for the Nova Scotia championship, will have a wealth of hockey timber. Eldridge, Hyson, Raymond, Daley, Hutchinson, Walker, Tupper, Holdsworth, Muise, Belliveau, Denton and Smith. So it can be seen at a glance that the Ravens, with a full dozen of excellent players to choose from, will have one of the fastest amateur teams in the Maritime Provinces this year.

Old Scud Set a Record Which Still Stands

Sixty years ago this month, two enterprising citizens of Saint John, Otis Small and Captain Steen, went to London where they purchased the iron-built, side-wheel steamer Scud, a very fast boat for the Bay route between Saint John, Digby and Annapolis. The Scud arrived safely on this side and it is claimed that on her first trip from Saint John to Digby, that is from wharf to wharf, she made the distance in under two hours, which time has never been equalled up to the present day.

Hunting Season Over For This Year

The hunting season for 1931 is over, and during the few weeks of open season, many noble beasts of our forests have fallen. Game has been very plentiful, several hunters in this vicinity have been successful in capturing two deer, or one deer and a moose, while a great many more have bagged a single animal.

The champion hunter, from all reports, seems to be Arthur Hatt, of Bear River, who was successful in bringing down a deer, a moose and a bear, with three shots, all inside of four hours. Mrs. (Dr.) L. J. Lovett, of Bear River, was also successful in bringing down a bear.

Many Thousand Skis Manufactured in Annapolis

Last week, a representative of the Courier had the pleasure of being shown through the plant of the Canadian Ski Company, at Annapolis Royal. This factory located near the Granville Bridge and is an attractive group of stucco buildings, well designed and nicely kept. The owner of the plant, W. A. Livingstone, was our guide. He started at the door where the rough lumber comes in and demonstrated every step of the manufacture of skis until the finished ski (minus its trimmings) left through another door—all sand papered and smoothed—on a small trolley, for the paint shop, and a garage from there to the warehouse, where the rubber striping, and the straps are attached, and the finished ski put on shelves, ready to be packed for shipment. We expressed our surprise at the large number of skis, in all processes of manufacture, in the factory and were informed that they would only last a short time, and we were shown where men were working on one order, calling for 3,100 pairs of one size. These skis, which compare favorably with any similar article manufactured anywhere, are shipped all over the world—and incidentally Digby comes in for a portion of the business, because Tupper Warner builds the shipping cases.

Older Boy's Conference At Bridgetown.

The Older Boys' Conference at Bridgetown, last week had an attendance of forty-two. The opening service of worship was conducted by Rev. A. A. McLeod, of Bear River. The following officers were elected: Grand Praetor, Murray Bent, Bridgetown; Deputy Praetor, Ralph Wright, Digby; Scriptor, Henry Hicks, Bridgetown; Comptroller, Harry Bath, Bridgetown. The following questionaire was set before the three squares for discussion: What does it mean to be a Christian? Why should a boy attend Church and Sunday School? What three professions in your opinion, offer the greatest opportunity for service? Findings on these were reported by the different groups at the closing service, Sunday evening.

Three boys attended from Digby, Ralph Wright, Wm. Sutherland and Alfred Dickie, the latter of whom gave a good report of the Conference at the Sunday School of Grace Church.

Following: was the Edison Square yell:

We are the boys of Edison Square.

We follow the light of our Leader here.

We do the right, and honor dare.

We are the members of Edison Square.

Thomas Edison! Light! Light! Light!

Tuxis! Tuxis! Fight! Fight! Fight!

Grace Church Brotherhood Hears Travel Talk

The second meeting of the season of the Grace Church Brotherhood, was held in the Church Hall on Tuesday evening. The keen contest between the "Reds and the Blues" did much to increase the attendance over the last meeting. At this meeting, the new president, A. R. Turnbull, presided.

Clam chowder, with pie and a roaring sing song for dessert, were the chief items on the bill of fare, after which the meeting was thrown open to the public, when Rev. E. W. Forbes gave an illustrated travel talk on the "New Outlook Tour" of 1929.

The next Brotherhood meeting will be held on the second Tuesday of December instead of the third Tuesday. At this time the "Blues" will attend to the catering and the eats, while the "Reds" will do the best they can at entertaining the bunch.

Hockey Club Elects Officers

At a meeting of the Red Ravens Hockey Club, held in the Bijou Dream Theatre on Wednesday evening, Charles Hyson was elected as playing coach for this fast team, for the season of 1931-32. It was also moved and seconded that Church Point play all home games in Digby or Annapolis Royal.

The following officers were elected for the year:

Hon. President—T. E. G. Lynch (re-elected).

President—C. E. Walker.

Vice President—Ray Holdsworth.

Manager—Gerald Tupper.

Secretary—Treasurer—E. J. Theriault (re-elected).

Ed. Webber presided over this meeting.

After the supper, views were shown and described, of places of interest in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes. The Reds came out a little ahead in the attendance contest. The next meeting will be December 8th. The Blues will furnish the supper and the Reds, the programme.

Good Progress On New Service Station

The new Service Station being erected on the corner of Birch and Prince William streets on the site of the old Digby Motors garage, is now nearing completion. This Service Station which is being built by M. C. Denton for the Imperial Oil Company, will do much to improve the appearance of the town and brighter up that corner, although it meant the razing of one of Digby's old landmarks, the "Viets' property", and the loss of a few noble trees.

There was a good attendance at the regular Kiwanis luncheon on Monday, on board the Princess Helen. As usual, a very enjoyable social time was spent. The speaker was Rev. L. G. Ackland, of Bridgetown, who gave a very impressive address on the subject of "Peace".

NORTH RANGE

John B. Lambertson, of Barton, visited Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Thomas on Sunday last. Mr. and Mrs. Renford Moses, of Sydney, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Thomas.

The treasurer gave a very encouraging report. Since the class was organized, $205, has been raised. Of this amount, $50, has been given for the support of a child in India and the balance for church purposes.

Meeting closed by hymn and benediction. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

POINTERS FROM YOST

Coach Yost once got up the following list of pointers and gave it to the players on his team—Here in a nut shell, is the kernal of his ideas about the spirit that wins, whether the game is football or business, or the greatest game of all—life itself.

What you get out of the game depends entirely upon what you put into it.

You can't win today on what you did yesterday.

Make the game a personal proposition. The spirit of "Let George do it" will never win.

The plays are planned for eleven men to execute, not ten. Be aggressive. You can't win the game on your own side of the scrimmage line.

The field is the place to play the game—not view it. The grand stands were built for spectators.

If the game is going against you, keep your head up, set your jaw, and dig in. This is what tests the stuff you are made of.

Use your head. Someone has said that 75% of football is above the neck.

Never lose confidence in yourself.

Never lose your self control. Learn to face opposition without flinching.

Not how little you can give but how much, should be your motto.

You have two good hands and arms, use them.

Use your eyes. They are your search lights. Turn them on the enemy.

Know the rules of the game. Study your opponent—his tactics, his weakness.

Keep everlastingly on the job. Be alert, never let your opponent get the jump on you.

Always treat your opponent with respect.

Play fair—make no foul tackles.

Be the first to line up. Never stop fighting.

BARGAINS IN DAYS

Just a few left that are sunny and golden!

Summer came bringing a marvelous store—

Bright days and dreamy days, days made for pleasure;

These are the last. There are really no more.

Will you have one of the few still remaining?

Just for the taking! The small price one pays

Never is missed. These are wonderful values—

Remnants of summer! Bargains in days!

Look, you will find them surprisingly lovely;

Those that were dusty are freshened by showers;

Each one designed by an artist in color;

Some are embroidered with exquisite flowers

Will you have this one of goldenrod pattern

Al wrapped about with a goldenrod haze corners of our mouths while our forehead scowls at the same time, but a real smile which says "you and I."

Next be interested in people. Not just for the sake of curiosity, but interested enough to forget self and think of others and their interests first. Be thoughtful, try to think of others for their comforts and happiness, but not in a way that will make them feel our debtors. Try to make all with whom we come in contact feel at home.

Be enthusiastic and above all be true. We all know and love the charm of the out-of-doors, and in what does its charm lay? In its simplicity, truth and beauty, for there is nothing false in Nature.

Oh, many gifts that wealth presents

Are rare and very lovely; They help to make life happier And are most fair to see.

But there are simple gifts that all may give that warm the heart. That smooth the path and that should be Of daily life a part.

Some of the greatest gifts life knows

Are simple things; there's laughter Or smiles with kind or cheerful words

Or a handshake following after Such boons as these are priceless joy

And each has these to give; Such gifts illumine time and make It beautiful to live.

—George Elliston.

IN THE RUSH OF LIFE

'Tis only a half truth the poet has sung

Of the house by the side of the way; Our Master had neither a house or a home,

But he walked with the crowd day by day. And I think when I read of the poet's desire,

That a house by the road would be good; But service is found in its tenderest form

When we walk with the crowd in the road! So I say let me walk with the men in the road,

Let me seek out the burdens that crush; Let me speak a kind word of good cheer to the weak

Who are falling behind in the rush. There are wounds to be healed, there are breaks we must mend;

There's a cup of cold water to give; And the man in the road by the side of his friend

Is the man who has learned how to live. Then tell me no more of the house by the road—

There is only one place I can live; 'Tis there with the men who are toiling along

Who are needing the cheer I can give. It is pleasant to live in the house by the road,

And be a friend, as the poet has said; But the Master is bidding us: "Bear ye their load."

For you rest walteth yonder, a head. I could not remain in the house by the road,

And watch as the toilers go on; Their faces beclouded with pain and sin,

So burdened their strength nearly gone. I'll go to their side, I'll speak in good cheer,

I'll help them to carry their load; And I'll smile at the man in the house by the way,

As I walk with the crowd in the road. —"Eo."

"WOODMAN" SPARE THAT TREE

To the editor of the Courier: Sir—It has been intimated to me that some of those beautiful 100 year old elm trees that adorn the town of Digby along the sidewalk on Birch Street are to be destroyed to satisfy the personal interest of a Gas Filling Station Company. Will such vandalism be allowed?

Who has the authority to allow such a thing to take place? It is true that our town council is vested with certain powers of control over the town's public property, and if it so appears that any tree in obstruction should be removed for the benefit and protection of the town's public owned institutions, it is done by the council for that purpose.

But are there any six men who will consider themselves clothed with sufficient authority from the people of Digby to order destroyed any of these beautiful 100 year old trees that adorn that street for the people of the town and tourists alike? Destroyed for what? The personal interest of a Gas Filling Station.

Digby Nov. 9th, 1931.

WILD ASTERS

Gray lies the field and grey the windless hill.

Topped by the green-blue shade of the pine.

The lower woods are bird-bereft and still.

Save where a lingering robin whistles shrill.

And makes an echo soft and fairy-fine.

In tangled growth of trees the birches grow.

All silver fair and softly colorless. By drifted leaves the last wild sunflowers grow.

Rain-washed and tall, and pale seed feathers blow.

On every breeze that shakes the wilderness.

But far and far upon the somber world, Broad mists of tenderest purple lie outspread.

O sturdy blossoms with your eyes of gold. You hold our hearts when fragrant things are dead.

And flame by road and river, mead and mere.

A last, dear, radiant greeting from the year.

—Marjorie Pickthall.

LIFE IS WHAT WE MAKE IT

Life is a jest; Take the delight of it.

Laughter is best; Sing through the night of it.

Swiftly the year; And the hurt and the ache of it.

Find us down here; Life must be what we make of it.

Life is a song; Dance to the thrill of it.

Grief's hours are long. And cold is the chill of it.

Let us smile for the sake of it. This be our creed;

Life must be what we make of it. Life is a soul;

The virtue and vice of it, Strife for a goal;

And man's strength is the price of it. Your life and mine.

The bare bread and the cake of it. End in this line.

Life must be what we make of it.

If you'd like a hot breakfast I can prepare it in a jiffy. Shredded Wheat crisped in the oven while I heat some milk to pour over it. Oh, I'm a friend of Shredded Wheat! Remembrance Service in Port Wade

A beautiful and interesting service was held on the evening of Remembrance Day in the Baptist church at Port Wade. To a well filled church, a fine program, consisting of readings, exercises, music and speeches, of a patriotic character, was given. Rev. H. S. Hartlin, the pastor, gave an address, stressing the part played by Canada in the great war; the dangers of another terrible conflict, and the necessity of creating a world wide sentiment in favor of disarmament.

An impressive feature of the program was the reading of the names of men representing the Port Wade district, who wore the khaki, which was followed in the placing of a wreath on the Roll of Honor by Wilfred Kendall, a war veteran. Appropriate music was furnished by the Port Wade choir.

Car Drivers Make Plea for Saint's Protection

The holy Saint Francis is the patron of motorists. She was, in Middle Ages, a charitable woman who mitigated many misfortunes. On the Roman forum stands her little church, appearing almost fragile, yet most beautiful, amid the mighty arches and ruins of ancient Rome. Upon her feast day, in March, there come every year hundreds and still more hundreds of automobiles to the square before this little church.

All sorts of cars are there, belonging not only to the wealthy, but to the poor as well. Ambassadors and other government officials are represented. Instead of chauffeurs sitting at the wheel in solemn state, these functionaries and many lovely young ladies, too, drive their own cars to the cent spot, where at the altar of Saint Francis their vehicles may be protected against disaster and misfortune for another year.

Successive services are held in which the guardianship of the saint is invoked on all the cars driven to the precincts of her altar are blessed and dedicated to her, that she may intercede for their owners and drivers, and guard them from peril and accident during the year to come, and very appropriately at the season of the year when motor travelling is most prevalent. Certainly these ceremonies have a deep and solemn significance, occurring as they do in the very center of what was anciently a pagan Rome!—Berliner Tageblatt.

Life's Prime, the Years

Between Youth and Age

At what age is the average man or woman in his or her prime of life? It is often asked, and what is the average length of life?

The prime of life, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, is the period of full vigor and power, that which succeeds youth and precedes age.

The average length of life in the United States, according to estimates made by the United States public health service, is fifty-six years. Statistics indicating the expectation of life place Australia at the head of the list with an average length of sixty-one years. New Zealand comes second, with an average expectation of sixty years. The average expectation of life at birth in various countries, according to the United States bureau of the census, is as follows: Denmark, Norway and Sweden, fifty-seven years; England, fifty-three years; Holland, fifty-two; Switzerland, fifty-one; France, fifty; Germany, forty-six; Japan, forty-four and India, twenty-three. Statistics also show that males have a greater expectation of life at birth than males.

England's Earthquake Year

About one hundred and seventy years ago England experienced the first of a series of severe earthquakes, which created great alarm. The first shock was very distinct, the second all more severe, and a crazy soldier scared many folk almost out of their wits by predicting that the third, which he timed for April 6, would totally destroy London. On April 5, tens of thousands of all ranks quitted the metropolis, and the streets remained empty. The people were afraid to go to bed, but spent the night in the streets. The prophecy proved false, of course, but further shocks were felt in various parts of the country in the spring and summer of that year, and some held the prophecy justified—with some error of date and locality—with the awful earthquake which shortly after destroyed Lisbon.

Should Appeal to Tourists

The Baltic republics of Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia and Finland, formed from territories of the old Russian empire as a result of the world war, offer the tourist a region of great interest and beauty for exploration. Scenes of natural splendor abound along the winding coastlines and amid the dense northern forests of all these countries are to be found the most numerous lakes of Finland. What is not generally known is that each of these peoples boasts of long centuries of independent civilizations and that in many of the cities relief of unspoiled and charming medieval beauty remain.

Coffee Production

The regions best adapted to the production of coffee are those between the parallels 15 degrees north and 15 degrees south latitude and from 1,000 to 4,000 feet above sea level. It is cultivated from latitude 25 degrees north to 30 degrees south in places where the temperature does not fall below 55 degrees Fahrenheit. Moist and somewhat shady slopes are found most desirable. Little streams of water are conducted to the roots of the trees which are kept very wet until the fruit is nearly ripe, then the water is turned off to keep the fruit from becoming too succulent.

Area Taken From Mexico

The treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, February 2, 1848, conveyed to the United States the territory which has since become the states of California, Nevada and Utah, part of Colorado, and the largest parts of New Mexico and Arizona. Previous to that time, this territory belonged to Mexico. Five years later the United States purchased from Mexico about 45,000 square miles of southern Arizona for $10,000,000. Since this treaty, Mexico has remained approximately the same size as it is at present.

Old English "Sport" of Fox Hunting Endangered

Would England still be England, without its hunting rallies? Is this sport of centuries, the merry chase of elusive foxes, fated to die out? It is unlikely that there is any feature of English country life so typical of the customs and traditions of the nation, as fox hunting. This being so, a recent statement of the earl of Rosebery, on accepting the mastership of the Whidden chase, that this sport is in a very critical condition, came rather as a surprise. He declared that five neighboring packs are having difficulty in finding masters, and that sportsmen must rally around a new, or see for hunting goes the way of having. His lordship ascribed the decline to hard times and high taxation. "This might be considered bad news, even for the foxes, for from accounts of this sport that I have read, it would seem that the prey gets as much out of eluding the huntmen, as the latter do in the galloping pursuit. After some of these old wily masters of the craft have learned the business, their chagrin at being out of a mere brush are comfortably few. Why there are even some of these old fellows who pay visits to the kennels, if the hunt is not up regularly, to see what is keeping their little playmates! At least, that's the story told—Burdett Clives Star.

How English Merchant of 1480 Sought Customs

One of the earliest posters ever printed in England is to be seen in the Bodleian library, and concerns a Sarum service book, printed in 1470 by Caxton. It reads as follows: "If it pleases any man spiritual or temporal to buy our pyses of two or three commensurations of Salisbury, I emptied after the form of this present lere, which ben wel a truly correct, late hym com to Westmonaster into the almonestrye at the rood pote, and he shall have them here and chepe." The manner of presentation is somewhat centerprising. The goods advertised belonged to the M.J. de ages, which was fast dying, but a new force has been lost, which in the course of the next century was to revolutionize not only the art of advertising, but the whole of European culture.

Famous English Potter

Joshua Wedgewood was born on July 12, 1730. He was the youngest son of a potter and came of a family of which members had been notable potters in Staffordshire, England. Soon after the death of his father in 1739 he became skilled in the art of shaping pottery on the wheel. In 1753 he became manager of a small pottery. In 1759 he began work on his own account in the Ivy house pottery at Burslem. Salt glaze and green and yellow glaze seem to have been his first specialties. However, the fine white English bone china, which he perfected, and Wedgewood became one of its best known makers. He presented a service of his ware to Queen Charlotte in 1762 and was appointed potter to the queen and later to the king. He next turned his attention to artistic pottery and reproduced designs based on the later phases of Greek art.

Dog's Warning of Death

While there is a very common superstition that dogs by their walling can prognosticate death, this cannot be given as a fact, any more than other superstitions. A writer in Chambers' Book of Days, mentioning that the howling of a dog at night under the windows of a sick room is looked upon as a warning of death's being near, adds: "Perhaps there may be some truth in this notion. Everybody knows the peculiar odor which frequently precedes death and it is possible that the acute nose of the dog may perceive this and that it may render him uneasy."

Old Dishes Still Popular

Pennock tongues and humming bird wings may have lost their place on the festive English menu, but medieval dishes still play their part in the true English observance of Lent. In hamlets throughout the shires eating fried peas is a time-honored tradition on Carling Sunday, the fifth in Lent. Sennel cakes are eaten in Shropshire and Herefordshire on Mildred or Mothering Sunday, the fourth Sunday in Lent, and in Westmoreland ayvers or havers are the rule of that day. Pancakes are in vogue on Shrove Tuesday and on every successive Tuesday during the Lenten season.

What Is Success?

He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often, and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem, or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty; who has failed to exult in it; who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration and whose memory a benediction.—Exchange.

Golf and Geography

The scholars of a Pacific coast school have built an ingenious miniature golf course which is at the same time an instructor of geography. The various links represent different parts of the country and their products, which is impressed upon the minds of the players as they make the rounds.

LOST 30 lbs. FAT IN 3 MONTHS

AT THE AGE OF 40

"I was very stout, and I have taken Kruschen Salts for 3 months, and have reduced from 212 lbs. to 182 lbs. (age 40). I am a hearty eater, and have never dieted in any way. Also I have never felt any ill effects whilst I have been taking Kruschen salts."—T. H. T. This is an interesting case of a man succeeding without assistance. But if any fat person will be satisfied with a moderate diet, and take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—they can lose fat in just the same way. This is what Kruschen Salts do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape, and fills you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd almost forgotten had existed—your get the needed exercise. As a result, instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every free moment and letting the fumes of idleness, you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition.

Experts See No Future for Hemp Production

Hemp, once a profitable crop in this country, has declined in importance, and the vehicle through which it has lost its market was the principal market in former years. It is estimated that in the early Colonial days it took the product of 1,000 acres of hemp to make the ropes necessary to outfit a single sailing vessel of any size.

Now ships bring lumber from India and this importation, due to its much lower price, has driven hemp from the market to a large extent. In spite of this loss of market, glowing pictures of prosperity to be had from hemp growing are painted for farmers who have had no experience with the crop. Agents with squealing, to sell have induced many farmers to attempt crops, but little hope of success is held out by Department of Agriculture officials, who point out that by no means is the general run of land suitable for hemp production. Even if it were, there still remains the fact that the demand for hemp is more than filled by present sources, with the result that the prices are too low to make it a profitable crop. The prospect financially for the grower.—Washington Star.

Iguassu Falls One of Wonders of the World

The Iguassu Falls of Brazil are said to be the most wonderful in the world. In the Wide World Magazine R. Hall Burton writes: "Half a mile away a vast mass of water seemed to flow forth from the sky. It was a river which, after wandering quietly through the forests of Brazil, had come at length to the edge of a great plateau. There it girds itself for a grand climax to its career—a climax so spectacular that no one who sees it can ever forget that this river surpasses all others in the sublime beauty of its passing, leaving behind one of the wonders of the world. With one mighty surge it hurled itself 100 feet in length it hurled over the brink, in super 200 foot cataclysm of foam. Niagara may have greater volume, Victoria greater height, but for artistry and coloring Iguassu stands alone."

Historic Eastern Spot

Shimoda, on the eastern coast of the Japanese archipelago, came into the American spotlight in the middle of the last century, when a treaty was ratified there which first opened Japan to foreign trade.

In 1853 Capt. Matthew Galbraith Perry, United States navy, sailed up the bay of Sagami to Shimoda, went ashore with 300 men and delivered letters from President Fillmore to a representative of the Japanese emperor. The signing of 1853 the first treaty between America and Japan, providing, among other things, for the opening of Shimoda to American trading vessels, was proclaimed.

Pretty Indian Legend

The custom of sacrificing a beautiful maiden by sending her over Niagara, falls in a canoe was practiced by the Indian tribes about the falls. The maiden selected paddled a white canoe, filled with fruits and flowers, over the falls. She was counted a great honor to be chosen as the sacrificial victim. Once the only daughter of a Seneca chief was selected by the gathered tribes. Her father loved her dearly, yet he showed no sign of grief. The canoe departed down the whole day, and when night came and the moon rose the girl paddled her canoe toward the falls, amidst much tumult and shouting. Suddenly another white canoe darted from the opposite bank, it contained the chief, her father; the canoe met, and together they went to their death over the falls.

English Official Mark

The "broad arrow," used as a distinguishing mark on British government property, was the "cognizance" or heraldic symbol of Henry, Viscount Sidney, who was master-general of the ordnance from 1623 to 1703, says an article in the Montreal Financial Herald. In time it came to be used by other government departments before the ordinance board (now the war office), with which it first was associated. Curiously enough, the "broad arrow" was a symbol of power and authority among the ancient Druids. It is feigned to obliterate this official mark.

Not a Major Crime

A soldier walked rapidly from a railroad train in London, gazing nervously down at a suitcase he carried. A railway detective looked at him for a moment and then leaped in pursuit. Blood was oozing from the bag. A few days later the soldier was found guilty by court-martial. The charge was stealing six pounds of fresh meat from the company kitchen.

Careless Pedestrians

In Nuremberg they seem to have hit upon a plan which secures some lasting benefit. Any person who drops a paper or an empty cigarette box in the street is liable to a fine of one mark. A watchful policeman steps up, names the offense, collects the quarter and hands over the official receipt for it. The street of Nuremberg are astonishingly free from litter.

According to Pythagoras, the ancient Greek philosopher and mathematician, 10 was the perfect number.

Good Crops Will Help Situation

"There's not room for another turnip in my collar" are the words of a well known Ridge farmer. Farm cellars everywhere throughout the County are well filled with vegetables this season, and the harvest of root crops has been one of the greatest in years, and of excellent quality. In some sections, the potatoes were affected with rot, and a few farmers lost heavily on this crop, but in other sections of the county, the potatoes were good and in sufficient quantity to bring the price down to fifty cents a bushel to the consumer.

Depression Christmas

Many sighs and sayings this will not be much of a Christmas. That is the wrong idea! We are getting away from the old-fashioned Christmas idea of Christmas anyway.

Supposing this is to be a depression Christmas is there any reason for making it a "depression" Christmas? Everyone of us would work against such a condition. There are many ways of making the lot of others brighter and happier, and consequently, our own Christmas much more satisfactory, at very little expense. Around your own home there are many articles, toys, furniture, etc., which could be brightened up with a little lacquer or enamel at very little expenditure of time and money. There are also empty tins which can be lacquered in bright colors and filled with candy, cakes or fruit.

Think of the pleasure of some child or sick or aged person on receiving some of these things when they were not expecting anything. There is still time to make these little preliminary arrangements and with the idea of getting more people to do just this, Connell's Store is advertising in this issue of the "Courier" special prices on Rogers Lacquer and Enamels for the next few weeks.

T. Rowlett, of Roxville, the well known breeder of Yorkshire swine, has just secured one of the finest specimens of that breed ever seen in Western Nova Scotia. Pine Grove Augustus was bred by the house of Featherston & Sons, Ontario, one of the four or five outstanding breeders in the Dominion, a firm that has had many winners at the Toronto National and Ottawa Exhibitions. We wish Mr. Rowlett success with his new purchase and commend his public spirit in endeavoring to improve the class of swine in this district.

The letter of "Citizen" on page 2 referring to the destruction of the old trees on Birch Street, was intended for publication in our last issue, but along with considerable other matter, was held over. As it is the letter is too late to do any good, but the sentiments it expresses, are as true as they were a week ago. The small towns in Nova Scotia are making a big mistake in destroying old houses and trees of historical interest. Bridgetown has recently destroyed a house which should have been preserved and decorated with plaques setting forth its historic attractions, and Shelburne did the same thing a few years ago in the destruction of the Firth house.

Somehow or another, the seasons of the year seem to be a little twisted. Here it is well along in November, and to date we have little or no cold weather, although we will venture no prophecies as to what the remainder of the month will bring along. On Saturday, the writer of this little paragraph picked about one dozen mayflowers; less than a week ago, he saw both buttercups and daisies. We are informed that Morris Webster picked a box of ripe raspberries in his garden a few days ago, and our village correspondents tell us of finding flowers and plants which are usually only found in the spring. What has happened? Has the weather man gone asleep, or is he just playing a belated April Fool joke on us?

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AT SMITH'S COVE

The annual Sunday School Convention, or M. R. E. Council Convention, for the Digby and Bear River District, met in the Smith's Cove Baptist Church on Monday afternoon and evening of last week.

A large number of delegates were present, representing eight out of the thirteen schools in the district.

At the afternoon session, Rev. C. L. Blanchard, of the Bear River United Church, gave a very interesting address on "How to teach missions in our Sunday School." A round table discussion was led by Miss Tyhurst, the Girl's Work Secretary, the subject being "What is my purpose in being connected with the Sunday School."

The secretary's report was encouraging. The schools had shown a good spirit of co-operation and the finances were splendid. Contributions for the year had amounted to $47, which was $12 more than the strict allotment.

Supper was served in the vestry. At the evening session, Miss Tyhurst gave an address on "Our Relation," as Sunday School Workers, to the world about us.

The officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President—J. Viah Andrews, North Range.

Balloon Travelled A Long Distance

While attending his rabbit races about noon Tuesday, Mr. McCormack, of Lansdowne, Digby County, saw what he thought to be a hawk fight to the ground, and went to investigate. Instead of a hawk, he found a toy gas filled balloon with a tag attached.

The balloon was let loose at Scranton, Penn., on Saturday afternoon, November 21st, at 5 o'clock, and had made its way to Lansdowne in a little less than three days. Mr. McCormack mailed the tag to the Spaulding Balloon Contest, Scranton, Penn., on Wednesday.

Sports—Clayton Snow, Frances Appleby.
Personals—Florence Hayden, Ross Turnbull.
Humor—Florence Keen, Wm. Sutherland.

The meeting of the society next week will be open to the public, and a small fee will be charged. The programme will consist of two parts, "School Days, a sketch" and a colored minstrel show by the young men members. No one should miss this evening's fun.

Kiwanis Club Hears Talk On Child Welfare

At their weekly luncheon, on board the Princess Helene, Monday, the Kiwanis members were privileged to listen to an address which all good citizens of Digby should have heard. The speaker was Rev. A. J. Prosser, Children's Aid Society Agent for the County of Annapolis. Mr. Prosser, who has had nine years experience with child welfare work in all parts of Nova Scotia, chiefly in the counties of Yarmouth, Digby and Annapolis, knew his subject as few in this section of the province know it.

During the course of his address, he dealt with many phases of this great problem which confronts each and every community. "There is at least one underprivileged family in every school section, and Digby County is no exception," said Mr. Prosser who went on to say that the greatest problems of the Child Welfare Worker were those having to do with delinquents and illegitimates, and told of the surprisingly large percentage of these classes, and spoke of the methods used by some states to cope with these problems. He also drew several vivid word pictures of some of the deplorable conditions he has found in this province while going about his work as a child welfare worker, and urged the Digby Kiwanis Club to co-operate with the newly appointed agent for the Children's Aid Societies of Shelburne, Yarmouth and Digby Counties, Mr. Austin L. Robbins.

Owing to the absence of the president, M. C. Denton, the vice-president, P. W. Hols, presided over Monday's luncheon.

"Eva L" First Ship To Load At New Pier

Last winter, Gilbert's Cove wharf, then the property of Capt. B. N. Melanson, merchant and shipbuilder, was completely destroyed by one of the worst gales experienced in this part of the Province, thus depriving the people of that vicinity of the means of shipping their lumber and other products of the forest.

This summer, thanks to the initiative of H. B. Short, M.P., the site was purchased by the Government, a grant of relief money applied to its reconstruction, and work was started on October 1st, under the supervision of Capt. B. N. Melanson.

On November 20, the new wharf, 30 feet by 400 feet, with an average of 14 feet, was ready for business.

To Capt. Charles Teed, with his schooner, Eva L., went the honor to be the first to load at the new wharf. His vessel is now taking a cargo of hardwood for New England.

Capt. Melanson anticipates to load at Gilbert's Cove during the coming year, some 4,000 cords of pulpwood and hardwood. Furthermore, Gilbert's Cove being only a few miles from Sissiboo lumber mills, it is anticipated that a large proportion of the lumber saved there, will find its way out for export via Gilbert's Cove.

This work has been an invaluable benefit for the people of Gilbert's Cove and vicinity at the present time of depression, and will, in the future, be the cause of more profitable business for all concerned.

Digby Bound Steamer Sinks Schooner

Rammed in a dense fog off Baccaro Light, Shelburne County, about midnight, Wednesday, the Gloucester schooner Edith and Elinor sank in four minutes, carrying, it is feared, six men to their deaths. Three others aboard were rescued by the steamer, Gypsum Prince, bound from Liverpool to Digby with a general cargo. She collided with the fishing vessel. Word of the tragedy was first received by the Mackay Radio Station in New York by wireless from the steamer and almost at the same time by the Government station at Red Head, near Saint John. Telephonic communication with Baccaro Light was impossible so the faint hope that the six men might have reached shore, about ten miles from where their craft went down, was unconfirmed. The steamer searched the scene and later sent word that it was proceeding to Digby.

The Edith and Elinor was a wooden vessel of 134 tons, and was owned by Edith L. Theriault, of Gloucester, while the Gypsum Prince is owned by the Gypsum Packet Company, and usually operates between Windsor, N. S. and United States ports as a gypsum and passenger transport.

(Although the Gypsum Prince is said to be bound for Digby, the Gypsum Plant at Deep Brook is her destination. When the Courier went to press last night she had not arrived.

THREE CENTS A WEEK

(North Hastings Review)
If we were endeavoring to advertise a newspaper and secure subscriptions, we should make much of the fact that every newspaper pays its own way into the subscriber's home and really costs him nothing. The point is that it returns him more in dollars and cents than he pays for it. We cannot imagine a publication so worthless that some item of information in it, some bargain advertised or some service performed, is not worth more to the subscriber in real money than the cost of his subscription. Almost every newspaper puts money into the pockets of non-subscribers. This is continuously the case when the newspaper leads or supports any movement which brings trade to the town in which it is published. It is the case when the newspaper hammers for local improvements—the spending of a dollar that may grow in its place tomorrow. The weekly newspaper at one dollar and fifty cents a year, costs the subscriber three cents an issue. We defy anyone to point out where the subscriber can spend three cents and get an equal amount of pleasure and real value. Three cents will not buy much of anything else, but it will buy the week's news of the Community and supply other information and service that is likely to be worth many dollars to the reader. No other institution in the world expects so little and returns so much as does the newspaper.

THOMAS ALVA EDISON

Impossible was king when he was born;
Man feared to dare beyond his outer wall;
Life followed paths the cattle feet had worn;
Progress and thought, like travelers forlorn
Had halted by the wayside; over all
The world gray dullness settled like a pall
And genius, shackled, woke to greet the morn
Against this tyrant of the human mind
Whose subjects live forever in the past,
Courageously his daring dreams he cast,
Tolled day and night the better way to find.
Broke barriers down, and by the works he wrought
Made possible the miracles of thought.

—Edgar A. Guest.

When the news of Edison's death became known to the world recently, it brought sorrow to the hearts of the entire world, for truly he was "Humanity's Friend," a distinction which few men of any age, nation or calling have received. Everywhere and by everyone, he was deeply loved, no kinder, gentler man ever lived, and yet the world always listened when he had anything to say, for he was one of the wisest men of any time. How rightly it has been said that Edison had belonged to no single country, but that the entire world inherited him. Yet how proud we are to think that his father came originally from our own little county town of Digby, and that his mother was a Canadian school teacher.

"His fame is etched in light and sound in the daily and hourly life of the world."—Henry Ford. "His genius made life easier and better"—George Eastman.

When asked once what his philosophy of life was, Edison replied: "Work! Bringing out the secrets of nature and applying them for the happiness of man. Looking on the bright side of everything. Genius is 1 per cent inspiration and 99 per cent perspiration. I don't care so much for a fortune—I just want work."

His life was characterized by toil, even at an age when most people are satisfied with what they have attained and content to rest. He was never satisfied with past achievements, experiencing his being. It is said that he could work steadily from three o'clock to five and nights over an invention, and over 3000 experiments alone were made before he found the right one for producing the electric light. He never believed in giving up.

He has given us a transformed world not only the electric light which took the place of flickering gas jets, or feeble kerosene lamps, but also the phonograph which can bring to every home the rhymes and harmonies for every mood, the motion picture which gives us both entertainment and instruction, where we may not only enjoy the art of romance and story, but also see the world from pole to pole. Also many other inventions which not only bring recreation and enjoyment, but which have created industries which employ millions of people.

His associate, Mr. Palmer once said: "Edison has led no armies into battle. He has conquered no countries. He has enslaved no people, yet he wields a power, the magnitude of which no warrior ever dreamed. He commands a devotion more sweeping in scope, more world-wide than any other living man—a devotion noted deep in human gratitude, and untiring by bias of race, color, religion or politics. This democratic, kindly modest being has bestowed upon the human race blessings instead of serfdom, construction instead of conquest. In the passionate pursuit of material truths and their conversion into practical, usable, beneficent forms, civilization has never seen his equal. And of this man, this super being who defies classification, what more can be said; what greater tribute paid than this—he is humanity's friend."

Matters of Interest Discussed by Game Men

To the Editor of the Courier:
Sir—At our Fish and Game Association's lively and interesting meeting in the Town Hall at Annapolis Royal, on the 18th, instant, one of our more or less avaricious, but enterprising members, who sells game licences, proposed a big game tax of $2.00 per, on every man Jack, who goes into the woods with a gun.

In the interest of the poor man and boy with his shot gun and rabbits, I so strenuously objected, that the nays had it. Another young man, wise in his generation, proposed a restriction of one free cat, to each family, and upon all others, a tax of one dollar. In the interest of the astonished indignation of femininity, who was not represented in the discussion, we suggested a much lower tax just as a gentle starter, and a greater prospect of success, eventually taxing all superfluous cats out of the woods.

We were solid with the main issue, horse, foot and artillery, as it's exactly what I have been advocating for years.

Each housewife, a single cat, and moreover also, she will be expected to see to it, that her nuptially inclined feline remains single.

Each householder but one cat, even then he may be called upon, in the interest of the birds, to sacrifice a portion of that.

Very truly yours.

L. V. SHAW
P.S.—There will be no question of what manner is the best. We'll make our deduction, and he may have the rest.

P.P.S.—Mr Schierbeck, in answer to the question of the approximate number of big game shot this fall, stated 1600 moose and 4000 deer.

L. V. S.
Clementsport, Nov. 20, 1931.

A SERMONETTE

"Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies."—Ps. 23:5.

This is a desert scene and a picture of Arab hospitality. A fugitive, pursued by enemies reaches at last a tent on the desert sands and he is safe. He is now the guest of the desert man and the guest is inviolable. The pursuer is stayed beyond the tent. Now the psalmist applies this to the soul. What are the enemies that chase the soul?

The sin of yesterday. I cannot get away from it. When I have half forgotten it, and leave it slumbering in the rear, it is suddenly awake again and like a hound, it is baying at my heels.

The temptation of today. At one time the menace is in my passions and again it crouches

For Breakfast
SERVE
KING COLE COFFEE
And start the day right

very near my prayers. Now the enemy draws near in the heavy guise of carnality, "the lust of the flesh"; and now in the lighter robe of covetousness, "the lust of the eyes"; and now in the delicate garb of vanity, "the pride of life."

The death that awaits me tomorrow. The pale horse with its rider walks into our feast. He forces himself into the wedding day, "to love and to cherish until death us do part". It is an enemy we have got to meet. Whither can we turn? On the whole vast plane is there one tent for refuge? "God is our refuge and strength, a very help in trouble". In the secret of His tabernacle shall He hide me. In the Lord our God we are secured against the destructiveness of our yesterdays, the menaces of to-day and the darkening fears of to-morrow.

Our enemies are stayed at the door. We are the Lord's guests and our sanctuary is inviolable. "If I ask Him to receive me, will He say me nay? Not till earth and not till Heaven pass away."

Rev. A. E. Gabriel

LOVE AND STYLES

As I remember, once she wore
A skirt that trailed upon the floor;
Went corseted about the place;
Thought bulging hips the mark of grace;
Scorned paint and powder for her face
And thought such fashions bothered men.
In spite of them, I loved her then.

Time was I vividly recall,
The waistline grew, the hips went small.
Great plumes were flung around her hat,
And to support a thing like that
She pumped her hair upon a rat!
Although I thought it frightful dress
I'm sure I loved her none the less.

Then skirts went out of style and she
In silken hose, displayed her knee;
Bought curious gowns of fabrics fair,
Which only children used to wear.
And finally she bobbed her hair!
But spite of all the styles ordained
Her faithful lover I remained.

Now like a derby battered flat,
Comes the Empress Eugenie hat,
And since her hair she's letting grow,
Without the slightest doubt I know
She'll have one in a week or so,
And I shall think my life worthwhile
If love can weather such a style!

—Edgar A. Guest

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH?

The codfish lays a thousand eggs
The helpful hen but one;
But the codfish doesn't cackle,
To tell us what she's done;

And so we scorn the codfish,
And the little hen we prize—
Which indicates to you and me
It pays to advertise!

SATISFIED WITH LIFE

I have known the green trees and the skies overhead
And the blossoms of spring and the fragrance they shed;
I have known the blue sea, and the mountains afar
And the song of the pines and the light of a star;
And should I pass now, I could say with a smile
That my pilgrimage here has been well worth my while.

I have known the warm handclasp
of friends who were true;
I have shared in their pleasures and wept with them, too;
I have heard the gay laughter which sweeps away care
And none of the comrades I've made could I spare;
And should this be all, I could say ere I go,
That life is worth while just such friendships to know.

Stomach Troubles That Are Dangerous (CUT THIS OUT)

Some forms of stomach trouble, if neglected, often lead to dangerous conditions—ulcers or cancer. Then, a surgical operation is about the only hope.

For this reason, even the most simple stomach ailment should be given prompt and careful attention. So, don't neglect acid stomach, sourness, gas or bloating! And don't liable treatments. At the very first signs of distress, go to any good drug store and get some pure Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets). This special Magnesia Compound is safe and pleasant to take—quickly, almost instantly, effective and does not act as a laxative. Be sure and ask for BISURATED Magnesia for stomach troubles only.

Clever French Gypsies

Prey on the Ignorant Superstition still flourishes in France as a thriving commercial proposition, despite the advance of general education. Apparently any gypsy with a fluent tongue can make an easy though dishonest living. The latest example is reported from a village near Amiens, where the Paris correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, where a tradeswoman, Mme. Doberssek, has been swindled of $1,200 by two fortune tellers.

The first gypsy appeared under the guise of a hawk of lace. As she displayed her wares she mentioned that there had been many fires in the district, and that it was under the curse of a particularly malicious demon. Having thus aroused the tradeswoman's interest, she offered to tell her if she herself was threatened.

Taking three hairs from Mme. Doberssek's head and wrapping them in paper, she burnt them. Mme. Doberssek swears that before the ashes dropped to the ground she saw on the scorched paper a sign of a cloven hoof. That made up her mind for her. She paid the gypsy $200, which the latter said she would return after the notes had been blessed with magic rites.

Later another gypsy called upon Mme. Doberssek and said that they were having trouble with the evil spirit. A much larger sum would have to be blessed before the spell could be broken. As she was given to understand that her own daughter was threatened by the power of darkness, the tradeswoman handed over $300 more.

Rosemary a Figure on All Pages of History

Rosemary is a plant of the mint family and grows in the region of the Mediterranean sea. It is a low shrubby plant with linear leaves, dark green above, white beneath, and with fine, daisy-like flowers in clusters. Rosemary has been valued in ancient times for its aromatic quality and medicinal uses, but is now used mainly for its perfume. An emblem of remembrance, rosemary plays an important part in folklore and literature. In Shakespeare's "Hamlet," Ophelia says: "There's rosemary; that's for remembrance." According to tradition this herb strengthens the memory, and was also used a great deal at one time to quiet the nerves. It was often used at weddings, and to wear rosemary was always taken to be significant of a wedding. The nurse, in Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," refers to the emblematic characteristics of the herb, when she asks: "Doth not rosemary and Romeo begin both with a (one) letter?" According to the old proverb, flowers it means "Fidelity in love."

Height of Eucalyptus

The statement is made that the Australian eucalyptus attains a height of 400 feet, but a member of the forest products laboratory staff, who spent a year in Australia not long ago, used the opportunity to check up on some of the facts. The tallest Australian tree he actually measured was 310 feet, and he satisfied himself that the tallest tree ever measured with accuracy in that country was a eucalyptus regans, or "mountain ash," that grew near Victoria and was 340 feet high. A prize offered at the Melbourne exposition in 1888 for proof of the tallest tree standing at that time was won on evidence for a eucalypt 325 feet high. Measurements by a well-known surveyor were made of the height of a redwood growing in Bull Creek Flat, Calif. This is the tallest tree in the world on which there is authentic and reliable information.

Chopin's Ancestry

The grandfather of Chopin—named Shop (Szop)—at one time migrated from Poland to France. Chopin's father was born, writes a correspondent to a Philadelphia paper. By that time they added that "in" at the end of their name to "Franchy". It then the family moved back to Poland where young Szopien—that is the way they spelled it—was born in Zelazowa-Wola. At that time there was a great deal of such migration. So Chopin or, to spell it correctly, Szopien—the same name as the famous Polish composer—was a Polish parent, from a Polish family, and was a Polish patriot.

Quotation on Verbosity

The celebrated quotation on verbosity was delivered by Benjamin Disraeli in a speech made in London on July 27, 1878. He was referring to his great rival Gladstone, who he said was: "A splendid rhetorician, who is exhilarated with the exuberance of his own verbosity, and gifted with an egotistical imagination that can at all times command an interminable and inconsistent series of arguments to mollify an opponent and to glorify himself."

Arborescent

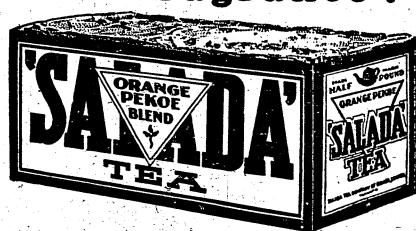

The magazine Tree Talk says that trees commit suicide by wrapping their roots around their trunks and choking themselves to death. Now we know why the willow weeps and another place, the elm, however, we feel is too slippery. Having got at the root of this thing let us leaf it as it is. Trunk mysteries are always depressing, so why branch out. Besides, a trusting reader can be twigged too much—Detroit News.

OBITUARY

Judge Walter B. Vincent

Walter Bordell Vincent, an associate justice of the Rhode Island Supreme Court from 1912 to 1925, an active figure in State and city politics during the last two decades of the past century and a leading member of the bar for 65 years, died, November 14th, at his home, 54 Irving Avenue, Providence. He was in his 87th year.

Judge Vincent, a few years ago was a regular summer visitor to Digby. He built "The Shingles" in the south end of the town, and has many friends here. And it is a peculiar coincidence that on the same day, the wife of the present owner of "The Shingles"—

Mrs. Oliver Carpenter died suddenly at the Doctors' Hospital in New York City.

Mrs. Carpenter, who was operated on for the removal of her tonsils, was expected home on the morning on which she died, but a heart weakness developed early on the day she was to start home and she never recovered. She was born Oct. 17, 1883, at Storm Lake, Iowa, the daughter of the late John C. French and Isabelle Eyland French. Her father was a former banker of Omaha, Neb. She was educated at Brownell Hall, Omaha, and Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, N. Y. On June 23rd, 1908, she was married to Oliver C. Carpenter, a lawyer and author.

Surviving besides her husband, there are her two children, Miss Isabelle Howard Carpenter, and Oliver Clinton Carpenter Jr., both of New York.

John L. DeVany

John L. DeVany, a prominent citizen of Annapolis and Great War veteran, died at his home in that town on Saturday, following an acute attack of heart trouble. Mr. DeVany was born 62 years ago in Dalhousie, son of the late Thomas and Mary Burnie DeVany, and as a young man was a popular school teacher in the county. Later moving to Bear River as teacher on the Indian Reserve, he later acquired the Bear River Telephone and edited it for some years. Some twenty years ago he moved to Annapolis Royal and edited the Annapolis Spectator until shortly before the Great War, when he enlisted with the Fourth Pioneers and later joined the Foresters. He saw active service in France. Since his return he has filled the position of migratory bird officer for this district. He was a man of unusual literary ability and his passing is regretted by many friends throughout the province. He leaves his wife, who formerly was Miss Mary Riordan, of Bear River, and one daughter Kathleen, a teacher on the Annapolis Academy staff; three brothers, Thomas, of Annapolis Royal; William and James, of Massachusetts; and one sister, Mrs. A. A. Forrestall, of Middleton. The funeral took place from St. Thomas' Church of which the deceased was a devoted member with interment in St. Louis cemetery, conducted by Rev. Father Leo Murphy.

Mrs. James White

The death occurred at Victoria Beach, on November 19th, of Lorena, wife of Mr. James White, at the age of 74 years, following a paralytic stroke. The deceased spent her life in that village and was a member of the Baptist Church. She leaves to mourn their loss, a loving husband; one son, William, of Springfield, Maine, (four sons having predeceased her); three brothers, Norman McGrath, John McGrath, and Ernest McGrath, of Victoria Beach; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Reid, Maine; Mrs. Grace Ellis, Brockton, Mass.; and Mrs. Abbie Ellis, Victoria Beach. The funeral was held at the Baptist Church. Interment at Port Wade.

Wayland Van Blarcom

William VanBlarcom received news Tuesday morning of the death of his brother, Wayland VanBlarcom, in New York. He was a son of the late Sheriff and Mrs. Benzonson VanBlarcom, of Digby, and leaves a widow and one daughter in New York. The body will be brought to Barton for burial.

The Digby Fire Department wish to thank Dr. W. C. Harris, of Barton, for the donation of sum of money for their prompt response to a call for help when his residence caught fire recently.

There was a good attendance at the Scout meeting on Friday night.

The usual work was hurried through in order that the business of preparing for the Charity Supper could be taken care of.

The Wolf patrol won the Proficiency Test write-up with the Electrician's Badge. The write-up was made more interesting by the explanation of various practical applications of electricity.

After all business had been disposed of, a game of volleyball was played. The Scout Hall is in almost constant use now. On Monday nights, the High School Athletic Society has it; on Tuesday, it is used by the United Church Y. P. S., and, of course, on Friday, it is used by the Scouts and Cubs.

The Charity Supper will be held from 6 p.m. till 8 p.m. on Friday evening, November 27.

Find Tomb Richer Than

That of Tut-Ankh-Amen

What may prove to be the most important Egyptian tomb yet discovered is that of Ra Ouer, who lived nearly five thousand years ago. He was high priest of Egypt, but he seems also to have held a bewildering number of high offices. The tomb consists of two chambers. One of these contains the sarcophagus of a queen whose name has not yet been found. The mummy, though, has a wonderful gold crown flashing with jewels.

The second chamber is, perhaps, the more interesting owing to the objects it contains. The queen believed that the soul of a dead person passed to a land where it would need all the things that had been necessary in life. For this reason they often, but clothing, house, carriages, chairs, beds, weapons, and a complete outfit of household utensils. Thanks to this custom we know more about the Egyptians than about any other ancient people.

Owing to his many state offices, the articles placed in Ra Ouer's tomb are of astonishing variety. Professor Hassan believes that, when all have been examined, the find will prove of great importance than the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen.

Dreaded Penal Station

Made Into Bird Haven

The Dry Tortugas are a series of islets, ten in number, at the extreme end of Florida keys, belonging to Monroe county. They are low, barren and desolate, except where partly covered with mangrove bushes. Fort Jefferson on Garden key was used as a penal station during the Civil war, and it was here where Doctor Mudd, O'Laughlin, Spangler and Arnold were sent to serve out their terms of imprisonment after being found guilty by a military commission of participation in the assassination of President Lincoln. They were here, except O'Laughlin, who died there.

In 1904 a marine biological laboratory was established on Loggerhead key, one of the islands, at which much important scientific work has been done. In 1908 the United States government set aside the entire group as a federal bird reservation.

Is It the Unicorn?

Lord Belhaven and Stenton has recently suggested that the unicorn of the Bible may be really the Arabian oryx, or wathail, says London Answers.

One oryx, a present from the Span to the king, was at one time in the zoo. Her favorite delicacy was cigarettes, which she ate with great gusto. Some Biblical commentators consider that the unicorn, or even, of the Scriptures, was the animal known as the rima by the Assyrians, a wild sort of great size, strength and ferocity, very like the extinct aurochs. But neither the oryx nor the aurochs was a unicorn proper, for both had double horns.

This does not rule out either as the Biblical unicorn, however, for the Revised Version reading of "unicorn" is always "wild ox."

Grocer—"I saw you talking to that good looking woman from Baltimore this morning. What was she like?"

WEDDINGS

Garron—Outhouse

A wedding of interest to many friends took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Salathiel Garron, Westport, on Saturday evening, Nov. 14th, when Belva Virginia Outhouse, daughter of Mrs. J. M. Ossinger, of Tiverton, was united in marriage to Winford Mendal, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Salathiel Garron. The bridal party entered the room to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Helen Coggins, and took their places beneath a handsome arch of ground cedar and flowers. The bride looked charming in a gown of pink satin with conventional veil and orange blossoms, carrying an arm bouquet of yellow and white chrysanthemums and fern. Miss Pearl Thurber, niece of the groom, acted as bridesmaid and was attired in peach taffeta and carried a bouquet of sweet peas and roses. The groom was attended by Burpee Campbell. The parlor was decorated in pink and white, the dining room in yellow and blue, the bride's cake presented by her mother, being placed in the centre of the table. After the marriage ceremony, "At Dawning" was sung by the officiating clergyman, Rev. H. H. Phinney. The bride's mother was dressed in beige silk crepe, while the groom's mother was dressed in flowered flat crepe. The wedding gifts included silver, china, linen and numerous articles. Among the out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Morehouse, Anna Mills, Rebecca Robbins, Pearl, Lulu and Freelove Outhouse, Mrs. Eldred Outhouse, Mrs. J. M. Ossinger, Anna Gaudet, Allison Outhouse, Aubrey Elliott, Hartley Powell, Seymour Farnsworth, Otis Outhouse, of Tiverton; Lillie Small, Amy Johnson and Melvin Tibert, of Central Grove; Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Thurber, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Thurber, Edna Thurber, Evelyn Finnigan and Ralph Morrill, of Freeport; Miss White, of Yarmouth. The happy couple will reside in Westport.

Maillet—Sullivan

At seven a.m. Monday morning, November 16th, Stella Maris church, Meteghan, was the scene of a wedding of exceptional interest to a wide circle of friends, the principals being Miss Lea Sullivan, daughter of Captain Edward Sullivan, of Meteghan and Edward Maillet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Maillet, of Mavilette. The pastor, Rev. J. Deveau, officiated, and Mrs. Joseph LeBlanc, organist of Stella Maris Church, rendered the Bridal March. Theodore Melanson sang "Ave Maria", and solos were also rendered by Jules Robichaud and Arthur Robichaud. Miss Sullivan, who was given in marriage by Robert Maillet, looked very lovely in a gown of white satin, with veil arranged in cap effect. She was attended by her niece, Miss Irene Saulnier, who also was charmingly attired in a gown of pink satin with tight waist and full skirt. The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast at the residence of the bride's parents. Miss Sullivan was before her marriage, stenographer for the Meteghan Shipbuilding Company, and the many useful and beautiful gifts of which she was the recipient at a shower held in her honor recently, testified to her popularity. The happy couple will make their future home at Meteghan.

Scouts Raise Money For Noddy

The Boy Scout Supper held in the Scout Hall on Friday evening was well attended, and over $52.00 was raised to help spread Christmas cheer to the needy families of Digby.

Our Boy Scouts are always doing their good turn and we are proud of them. For several years now they have been helping Santa Claus by gathering up old toys and repairing them to distribute to the poor children at Christmas time. This year they held a supper in their hall, the net proceeds, we understand will be in the vicinity of $55.00. This money, we are informed, will be turned over to one in touch with the poor children of the town, and used as seen fit. However, this has not definitely been decided, and the Scouts will hold a meeting this evening to discuss the matter.

"Can you think of anything that comes to your table that you like better than Morse's Tea? The answer is no. Everybody likes Morse's Tea, because it has a flavor that is not found in any other tea."

Fairville Tigers May Play in Digby

Jas. F. Hillman has received a communication from the management of the Fairville Tigers, of Saint John, requesting information as to the possibility of securing games with the Ravens, Les Academics and Annapolis. The Tigers propose a trip up the Valley in January, and are anxious to arrange games en route. Mr. Hillman has handed the communication to the manager of the Ravens.

SCOUT NOTES

On Friday last the regular Scout meeting was dispensed with. The supper which took place was, due to the co-operation of the public, a very successful affair. This supper took the form of what is popularly known as "a brown supper". Many people who attended expressed delight and satisfaction at the way in which it was conducted.

WRECK SURVIVORS LAND IN DIGBY

On the arrival of the steamer "Gypsum Prince" last Friday morning, the survivors of the drifter, "Edith and Elinor", of Gloucester, Mass., were taken ashore by Edgar Theriault, brother of Captain Simon Theriault, of the ill-fated Gloucester vessel, and James M. Merkel, who was covering the story for the Canadian Press.

The 146 ton "Edith and Elinor" was rammed by the steamer "Gypsum Prince", off Baccaro Light, near Shelburne, heavy fog. The "Gypsum Prince" was bound from Liverpool to Digby with a general cargo. The vessel, cut nearly in two, sank within four minutes after the collision, the crew having no time whatever to escape in their dories.

Captain Theriault was at the wheel when the collision occurred in a dense fog, ten miles off Baccaro Light, Shelburne Co., in the early dark of Wednesday evening. "Fog was dense, the first thing I saw was the Prince's red light—then the crash," said the Captain.

Edgar Theriault, of Digby Neck, was one of the first to greet his brother when the "Gypsum Prince" came to anchor. The Digby party which took the survivors ashore had crossed the Basin previously, on Thursday night, when the Prince's sister ship, the "Gypsum-Empress", came in, but the Prince, damaged seven feet below the waterline, was able to make only four knots or so, and reached port Friday morning. "Pretty rotten," was all the "Edith and Elinor's" captain said when asked how he was feeling.

"Only two others, besides myself, were on deck at the time," he said. "The cook was down in the galley, fixing up the turkey we were to have had for Thanksgiving dinner. He was trapped there."

The men for whom the search proved unavailing were Ernest Gilson, of Gulliver's Cove, Digby County; Bradford Whynacht, of Gloucester; Joseph Rose and Gus Foley, of Gloucester; James Brothers and Ylisse LeBlanc, of Boston, formerly of Pubnico.

Manley Goodick, chief engineer, of Gloucester, formerly of White's Cove, Digby County; Alex. Stack, Paul Pitts and Jim Powers, of Newfoundland, and Oscar Thibideau, of Weymouth, were saved.

They, with Captain Theriault, owed their lives to wreckage torn loose by the very violence of the impact.

"We shook our rubber boots off as soon as we could," Goodick said. "Stack and I were able to grab a rope thrown over from the steamer's bow and were hauled aboard. There was difficulty getting a boat out from the Prince, and some minutes went by before we finally got under way on the search. Stack helped row the searching boat."

Stack said the "Gypsum Prince's" lookout had told him the schooner's light had been glimpsed a few minutes before the collision, when both vessels were groping around in the fog.

The captain and five other survivors were driven to Yarmouth on Friday, where they made a statement before the United States Consul, who made arrangements for their transportation to Boston. They went back in the same clothing in which they were rescued, dried as they huddled around the Prince's galley stove.

"Everybody Present" Sunday

"Everybody Present" Sunday will be observed in Grace United Church next Sunday. Workers have been out through the congregation with invitations, and every member of the congregation is expected to be in their place at the services. "If you are not there, you will be missed, because your seat will be empty." The Brotherhood Choir will be in charge of the music in the evening.

RECORD ATTENDANCE OF PUPILS AT DIGBY ACADEMY

On several occasions in past years it has been the duty of this paper to call the attention of parents to the very unsatisfactory attendance of pupils attending our public school. It is, therefore, with much pleasure that we have to congratulate both parents and scholars, as well as the teaching staff, on the very splendid showing made during the last quarter, as the whole school of 86 per cent. gives evidence of interest in school, and as a result the examination marks show improvement. Fortunately there has been little sickness during the past three months, and the constant watching and attention of the V. O. Nurse is largely responsible for checking any tendency towards epidemics.

The following is the attendance by rooms:

Miss Dorothy Moses' room	86 p.c.
Miss L.L. O'Brien's room	82 p.c.
Miss Bessie Turnbull's room	93 p.c.
Miss Bertha Curry's room	91.2 p.c.
Miss Vera Mason's room	98 p.c.
Mrs. J. Driffield's room	88 p.c.
Miss E. McWhinnie's room	86 p.c.
Mr. F. Courtney Purdy's room	90 p.c.

Kiwanis Feel Need of New School Building

The questionnaires designed to outline the programme of the Digby Kiwanis Club were discussed at Monday's luncheon. Replying to these questionnaires, the members of the club made their suggestions as to what line of work the local Kiwanis club should follow. Topping the list was the suggestion to carry on some sort of a programme to aid the underprivileged children in our town. Other suggestions were that the club do what they could to build a public library or reading room; use their influence for the erection of a new school house; and many other suggestions having to do with the welfare of the town in general.

P. W. Holdsworth, vice-president of the club, spoke on the condition of the public school building, and made a suggestion that a new school be built, and the present building be converted into a community hall. The time has come, he said, when Digby has to have a new school building, the present building having been stretched to the bursting point to accommodate the ever increasing school population. Furthermore, the present school is far from modern in every way, and it is next to impossible to find room for any more pupils than are at present accommodated.

The question was discussed by several members, and by a unanimous vote a committee comprising P. W. Holdsworth, M. C. Denton and O. Wright were appointed to look into the matter and report later to the club so that a resolution may be drawn up and put before the town council and school board.

At a recent meeting of the Directors a committee was appointed to make a survey of the underprivileged families within the town in order that some arrangement may be made to provide for their Christmas. This committee is labeled the "Christmas Cheer" Committee.

DIGBY, CHURCH POINT AND BEAR RIVER IN LOOP

(This is one of a series of articles reviewing prospects of various Hockey Clubs and Leagues in the Maritime Provinces, published in the Halifax Herald.)

Digby will be the centre of the Western Nova Scotia Hockey League this winter, since neither Church Point or Bear River, with teams entered in this circuit, have hockey rinks. Tentative plans for the opening of this league have been made and on January 4, the Digby Ravens, Western province champions, will entertain Les Academics of Church Point.

Entry of the Bear River Club has added interest to the game in the section, and the contest with the Ravens and Les Academics promises to be a close one. The Ravens, who have dominated the western part of the province for some years, have prospects of another fast squad who have returned home and will line up with the team when the frost comes.

DIGBY RAVENS

The Digby organization is headed by C. E. Walker as President; Ray Holdsworth, Vice-President, and E. J. Theriault, Secretary-Treasurer. Gerald Tupper will manage the hockey team, while Charlie Hyson, the club's outstanding stick wielder for several seasons, will act in the capacity of playing coach.

Bill Eldridge, who has guarded the Ravens' cage for several seasons, is ready for another year with the big pads. He has a record to be proud of. Raymond, Denton, Muise and Holdsworth are likely looking prospects for defence duties, while the front line will be made up of Hyson, Smith, Hutchinson, Tupper, Belliveau, Walker and Daley. It is possible that Daley may find a berth on the defence instead of the forward line. Winchester is another "probable" forward player.

LES ACADIEENS

Church Point Les Academics expect to win the league championship this winter. V. F. Melanson, a former Digby star, has been appointed coach, and he already has had several hockey candidates training under his guidance. Les Academics should have a formidable lineup. Drawn from that section between Digby and Yarmouth, the players represent about the best hockey talent available in the section.

A. Melanson is almost a sure bet to land the job as goalie. Gene Thibault is a likely prospect for the same position. Other candidates for the team include Joseph Melanson, Johnnie Melanson, Frank Melanson, Edmond Melanson, Pete Blinn, Ben LeBlanc, Edward LeBlanc, Albert Belliveau, Willie LeBlanc, Alphonse Thibault and E. C. Stehelin. The newcomers are Alphonse Thibault, Albert Belliveau, Frank Melanson, Stehelin, Ben LeBlanc and Gene Thibault.

STRONG BACKING

The Church Pointers will give their team strong backing. Andrew Breaux was recently re-elected President of the Club, E. Melanson, Vice-President, and A. P. Manson Secretary. What opposition the Bear River Club will provide is uncertain at this early date, but it is expected that the village will send a capable aggregation into action.

The monthly meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses will be held on Tuesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in the Court House. The Salvation Army Home League Sale will be held in the Salvation Army Barracks on Saturday, December 12th.

to Annapolis Royal on business, one day recently.

Rev. Father Melanson and brother, Charles, were visitors to Yarmouth this week.

Mrs. Edward Blinn and sons, Nelson and Louis, are spending the week at St. Joseph's, the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Antoine Comeau.

Work Fairly Plentiful in This Vicinity

Although there is no surplus of employment here, the unemployment situation in this town, so far as local labor is concerned, is not acute. For the time of the year there is considerable work in progress, giving employment to a number of men.

The wood working and auto assembly plant of H. T. Warner is keeping busy these days. It is in this plant that Defence Motor Trucks are assembled, and thus Digby is able to boast of the only auto assembly plant in Nova Scotia. Just at the present time also, the Maritime Fish Corporation presents a busy scene.

In the way of construction, the new service station on the corner of Birch and Prince William Streets, is about completed, and a crew of men are busily engaged laying down a concrete sidewalk along portions of both these streets.

Throughout the county one finds several houses under construction and extensive improvements being made on others. A new wharf has been built at Gilbert's Cove and others are under construction, and repairs being made on the wharves and breakwaters in other sections.

Although the lumber industry is not anywhere near up to what it has been in other years, the Weymouth mills have apparently been making a few big cuts. Two new mills were erected in that town this spring and the wharves are piled high with lumber awaiting shipment, and almost each week we hear of another cargo being shipped from there.

The shipyards at Meteghan are also doing things, and we understand that they will provide employment for some 140 men this winter.

In almost every section roads are under repair and throughout the county many miles of highway are being put into shape.

SOUTH RANGE

A large number from this community enjoyed the sing at Hubert Shortliffe's in North Range, on Sunday evening, November 22nd.

A crokinole party was held at Herman Heigh's recently. There were several friends from North Range present. Everyone enjoyed the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Marshall and Miss Muriel Marshall spent Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McKay's.

Miss Ida Height, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Height, has returned to Middleton.

A Pie School was held at South Range School (East) recently. A good sum was realized for school purposes.

A crokinole party was held recently by her parents, in honor of Miss Ida Height. Prizes were awarded to winners at the board. A very pleasant evening was spent by all present. Clarence Sabean has purchased a new Whippet coach.

King Solomon Lodge Celebrates Anniversary

One of the most delightful functions which has ever taken place in the history of the Masonic fraternity in Digby, took place Tuesday night, when King Solomon Lodge celebrated its 65th anniversary, by holding a Ladies' night. The spacious lodge room was filled to capacity. The Hospital Ladies' Aid had charge of the catering and the banquet tables were resplendent with cut glass, fancy china and silver, and an unusually large display of cut flowers, furnished through the kindness of the "Racquet Gardens." A chicken supper with all the "fixins" was provided, and the usual dull period of time which generally precedes the serving of the good things, was changed into a period of fun by noisemakers and confetti supplied to each of the guests. The Worshipful Master of the lodge presided as toast master and toasts were drunk to the King; Canada, proposed by Dr. W. R. Dickie and responded to by Mayor Lynch; the Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia, proposed by J. V. Merkel and responded to by Dr. F. E. Rice, Past Deputy Grand Master; King Solomon Lodge, proposed by A. J. Dillon, responded to by H. B. Short, M. P.; and The Ladies, proposed by Rev. A. E. Gabriel and responded to by G. H. Peters.

During the evening H. B. Short, M. P., now the oldest living member of the lodge and the Senior Past Master, was presented with a handsome Past Master's jewel. The applause which followed this event was enlivened by the releasing of between one and two hundred balloons from receptacles suspended from the ceiling, which added a unique touch to the event. After the banquet dancing was indulged in, the music being furnished by Guy Morehouse's orchestra.

The monthly meeting of the Executive of the Children's Aid Society will be held in the town hall at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

chased a new Whippet coach. Mrs. Clarence Sabean and daughters spent Sunday afternoon and evening at the home of Mrs. Harold Marshall.

Miss Edna Hill is on the sick list. A community sing was held recently at the home of Mrs. Harold Marshall. Although the weather was inclement a large number enjoyed the evening.

The W. C. M. S. have, succeeded in their objective of raising funds to procure a church stove, which is now set up.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Shortliffe spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Marshall. All attended the sing in the evening.

A "Buy in Digby" Christmas

Christmas is coming! We know it not because the last leaf of our 1931 calendars is starting us in the face, or because that red lettered "25" is showing up like a lighthouse in the fog, but for several other reasons—

Woodford Connell has been reminding us of that fact for a couple of weeks by his advertisements. The youngsters are talking in their sleep about Santa Claus and behaving like angels, (perhaps). The school m'ams are planning the Christmas parties. The ladies of the various churches are working like beavers over the Christmas Trees and there is a real Christmas atmosphere all around us.

Most of us are scratching our domes wondering just what gifts we will give our folks this year. All of us want to see the Christmas of 1931 the merriest Christmas on record and want to forget all about the depression until our Christmas bills come in. Yessir, there is one guy we want to get working for us more than ever just now and that is "Dollar Bill", and we don't mind how many of his offsprings he puts on the job to help him out. What's more we want to keep him right here so he will be on the job for us after it is all over. And right here we are going to make our little suggestion that will help you solve some of your Christmas problems. Remember those friends of yours who have left our county, and who are always more than anxious to know what "us folks" are doing, with a year's subscription to the Courier. They will be tickled pink.

Our local merchants, through their advertisements in the Courier will have many suggestions this year, and by looking over their ads and visiting their stores you can solve your problems. You will find gifts that will please everybody. You will get the best prices for accessories for your Yuletide feast.

Let's make this a "Buy in Digby" Christmas.

Such Things Should Not Be, But

From an exchange we have clipped the following:—

"Brazil has been burning her surplus coffee in an effort to raise prices. When 3000 sacks were burned at Santos the inhabitants objected because the odor of the fire was offensive, so the authorities planned to destroy 40,000 sacks by throwing them into the sea.

The cling peach crop of California has been reduced from a pack of 17,000,000 cases to 9,000,000 by the burning of 144,000 tons of fruit and uprooting trees from 12,000 acres.

The U. S. Federal Farm Board urges cotton growers to plough under one third of the American Cotton crop.

Meanwhile millions the world over are in want. This is the highly organized civilization of the twentieth century."

This exchange does not mention the fact that our Nova Scotia shore fishermen have had to dump their catches back into the sea or use the product of their day's labor for compost because the markets were over-supplied; the fact that farmers in our Canadian west have burned their wheat for fuel for the same reason.

And, yet at this time, we are sending food and clothing to the stricken areas of the west; our fishermen are allowed to have not made an appeal to the sympathizing public, are forced to stretch their credit at the country store and get along as best they can.

The granaries of the west are full; in fish warehouses of Digby County, and all over the Maritime Provinces, are tons and tons of dried fish waiting for a market—the west needs fish from the east, the east needs grain from the west—they get sympathy from each other.

"Sa queer world."

When Coffee Was First Used More Speculatively

The early history of coffee as a beverage is traditional. There are many stories as to who first introduced the food value of coffee, but that of Leonhard Rauwolf, a German physician, was the first to make coffee known in Europe in an account of his travels, published in 1583. In 1616, the first coffee house in North America was opened in a monastery in Arabia who had discovered that their goats after browsing upon the coffee berries were decidedly lively. Prompted by curiosity they decided to taste the berries to find out if they would be affecting in the same way. They tried, chewing the berries and boiling the berries, but the result was not satisfactory. They then roasted the berries and found out that it gave them a delightful flavor. Pilgrims to whom the monks gave shelter and food were pleased with the new beverage and spread its fame. The pleasure of the monks of the legend: A young goatherd, Kahlil, noticed one day that his goats, whose deportment, up to that time, had been irreproachable, were abandoning themselves to the most extravagant pranks. Kahlil attributed this gaiety to certain fruit or berries. He picked and ate the berries and became the happiest herder in Arabia.

Scientists Delve Into Secrets of Upper Air

Until recently we knew very little about the higher parts of the atmosphere which surrounds the earth. The growing importance of flying and the development of the science of weather forecasting have made it necessary for us to know something more about the upper air. Kites carrying delicate measuring instruments were first used, and these soon gave way to balloons filled with hydrogen. With balloons, heights of from 15 to 20 miles have been reached, and a great deal of valuable information has been collected. They instruments are attached to the balloons, and when it bursts these are brought to earth by a parachute.

The fact that shooting stars are seen at heights up to almost a hundred miles showed that the atmosphere does not extend to this distance. Shooting stars are tiny pieces of stone or metal from space, made white hot by the friction of air. Now experiments are being made with giant rockets designed to carry thermometers, barometers, and other instruments to a height of at least 50 miles.

"Three in a Row"

This well-known game known as "Tic-tat-toe," "Criss-cross," etc., is probably very old, though we cannot give its origin. Edward Eggleston in his "The Hoosier Schoolboy" mentions the game as "three in a row," and played "tic-tat-toe, three in a row" with the girls, using a slate and pencil in a way well known to all school children. And he also showed them a better kind of tic-tat-toe, learned on the island, and which may have been in the first place an Indian game, as it is played with grains of Indian corn.

Gulf Stream's Course

The course of the Gulf Stream is influenced to a large extent by the coastline. After leaving the Gulf of Mexico it encounters the Bahama Islands and is turned northward, following the trend of the American coast. On issuing into the ocean it is met by the so-called "cold wall," which crowds in toward the New England coast, forcing the Gulf stream water off to the east. Being forced out farther and farther from the coast, it is spread into a fan-shaped drift of continually diminishing depth.

Long-Lived Superstition

Old foresters have the strongest opinion as to the influence of the moon on timber. In the royal ordinances of France for the conservation of forests it was laid down that timber, especially oaks, should be felled only during the wane of the moon, and the belief—superstition if you like to call it—still persists both in France and England. The idea is that timber felled at these times is less liable to rot than when felled during the wax. The belief dates back to Roman times.

Paper for Currency

Paper currency is engraved and printed on one grade of paper, which is purchased under contract from the Crane company, Dalton, Mass. Representatives of the Treasury department are maintained in the Crane factory during the manufacture of this particular paper. The Crane company is also under the supervision of the Treasury department's representatives during the delivery of the paper to the bureau of engraving and printing. No outside person can buy this paper.

Landscape Architecture

The modern scope of the art and expression of landscape architecture is expressed in the following definition by a late President Eliot of Harvard: "Landscape architecture is primarily a fine art, and as such its most important function is to create and preserve beauty in the surrounding of human habitations and in the broader natural scenery of the country, but it is also concerned with promoting the comfort, convenience and health of urban populations."

ABSENT MINDED PEOPLE

Absent minded people are funny. Sir Isaac Newton wanted his servant to carry out a stove that was rotting, so he got a fellow slave his dinner before his eyes and he thought afterwards that he must have eaten it because he saw the dishes empty. A Scotch professor, walked into the middle of a pond, pondered on Final Causes. Ben Franklin pounced down the fire in his pipe with the finger of a young lady sitting at his side, and severely burned the lily white poker. A gentleman in Troy received a letter in the dark, used the letter to light a lamp and then looked about for it to read. Pere Gratty one day in Paris thinking that he had left his watch at home, took it out of his pocket to see if he had time to go home after it. Yesterday the Church historian, in his night-cap and night-gown, and sometimes walked in the gutter. But all of these cases do not equal that of a man who takes a paper year after year and always forgets to pay for it.—Ex

UNCHANGABLE MEMORY

The little girl who is no more. For whom along the years We've mourned, still smiling at the door. On many a day appears. And still her silver voice rings out In childhood's lovely way. But still in play she romps about, And we're worn and gray.

Her playmates of the long ago

Are men and women grown. And some the marks of suffering show, And some have sadness known. But she has stayed through all the years A happy-hearted child, Unchanged by time, untouched by tears, Unsold and undefiled. Some mourn their little ones long lost. Who still on earth remain. Some cling to life, and count the cost. In bitterness and pain; But day by day her voice we hear And often smile to see Our radiant little girl appear Just as she used to be.

Tis strange (so bitterly we weep)

How time can change our views. We find we lose the ones we keep And keep the ones we lose. Though we are worn by care and woe And wrinkled now and gray. Our little girl of long ago Is still a child at play. Edgar A. Guest.

A MODERN ANDROCLES

(Boston Traveller) Androcles, alias Androchus, a Roman slave, removed a thorn from a lion's paw. Some time later Androcles was tossed into the arena as an incident to a Roman holiday. A hungry lion was let in whose job it was to eat Androcles. But the lion, having a keen sense of smell, recognized his old friend and refused to eat him. Hence the pyramids.

Edmund Horton, of Concord, met a skunk in the night time. The skunk's head was caught in a bottle. Strong men fled from the scene. But Horton was made of different stuff. He thought how he would feel with his head stuck in a bottle. So he picked up the skunk and released the animal, which showed its gratitude by being a nice skunk. Now Horton has a faithful friend. The skunk is ready to do a kindness for him any time he asks. Horton is preparing a list of names and addresses. The moral is that we should always be kind to Horton.

Twelve hundred colonies of sea-lions and their accompanying cubs from the Province of Alberta to China was the unique feature of the Canadian export trade to the Orient and of the shipping schedule of the Canadian Pacific. New Low Prices for Westinghouse Radio Tubes Now In Effect

280—$1.50.

This great drop in the price of Radio Tubes removes any excuse to spoil your reception with old worn out tubes. One poor tube will ruin the quality of music or speech and can be the cause of much annoyance. In most of the modern receivers the output is handled by a pair of tubes and if one of these is poor it is only doing a small part of the work, thus spoiling the effect.

Have your Radio Tubes Tested before you discard them. No charge for this service.

A set of Tubes will make a fine present for the Radio.

Weddings

Eldridge-Stanton

A very interesting and quiet wedding took place at the home of the bride, at East Ferry, on Thursday evening, when Mrs. Stanton of East Ferry, and Capt. James Eldridge, of River River, Yarmouth, Co., were united in marriage by Rev. C. I. Chute, pastor of the Little River Baptist Church. The bride was handsomely attired in rich brown, satin. Following the ceremony which was witnessed by friends of both bride and groom, the happy couple received the congratulations of the guests: after which a delicious supper was served to about fifty invited guests. Those attending were Warren Bates, brother of the bride; Mrs. Orville Frost, Mrs. Daniel Stanton, Mrs. Heli Stanton, and Mrs. Eleanor Tidd. Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge will reside at East Ferry.

A Happy Event in Acaciaville

A real New England Thanksgiving Dinner was held at the home of Fred W. Roop, in Acaciaville last Thursday in honor of A. F. Corliss, who taking supper with some friends in Digby on Wednesday, made the remark that the next day would be Thanksgiving in his country, and to the American people it is held as one of the greatest holidays of the year. He was very particular time, and mentioned that he planned to have a little home celebration. While Thanksgiving Day, Mrs. Stewart Raymond and Mrs. Agnes Corliss arrived and one of them presented Mr. Corliss with a basket of roses picked from her garden on that day. Preparation of a real Thanksgiving dinner was started, which was served at 5.30. This was the greatest surprise Mr. Corliss has received in Nova Scotia at any time and will long be remembered. He said it would be one of the greatest outstanding events of his life, and he wishes to take advantage of this opportunity to thank them for their kindness and thoughtfulness. He also wishes to thank Mr. L. Frude and Mr. Stewart Raymond for services rendered on that day.—Com.

Personal Causes of Tuberculosis

Everyone has a normal wall of resistance against tuberculosis. The personal causes that break down resistance include contributing diseases such as influenza, measles or scarlet fever, lack of proper food, self-indulgence, over-work, worry, and faulty habits of cleanliness, diet and exercise.

Errors That Got Away From the Proofreader

Under the heading of "Typographical errors," in "The Handy Book of Literary Curiosities," written by William S. Walsh and published by J. B. Lippincott company in 1930, there are some facts which might be labeled "in extinction of Larry the Linotypist." They apparently prove that Larry, of nowadays, are venial compared with some of those of former times.

Here are some examples, with what errors have been printed indicated in some cases:

"The distinguished traveler died in the richness of sin." (In the interior of Asia.)

"She was a lady whose mirrors were adorned with a drawing man." (Adorn a drawing room.)

"Links, bonds and stripes for the violent kind of specters." (Links, bonds and stripes in the violet part of a spectrum.)

"Drunkenness is jolly." (Drunkenness is folly.)

"Sir Robert Peel and a party of friends were shooting pheasants in Ireland."

"Woman—without her man—is a brute."

"He enters on his head his helmet on his feet, sandals on his brow, there was a cloud in his right hand, his faithful sword in his eye, and angry since he sat down."

"The body was taken to Hell for interment." (Hell for interment.)

Part of a woman's complaint to a Buffalo newspaper read: "Wherever I refer to my honored countrymen as 'white males' I am reported as having addressed them as 'white males.' All these are very good jokes at my expense to the printer's devil, but not to those who represent an unpopular idea and carefully weigh their words."

Efficacy of Prayers

Measured by Numbers

The devout people of Tibet, and that is almost the entire population, spend much time and ingenuity in their prayers. Their prayers, to the glorification of their gods, seem to be a race to work out the greatest possible number of prayers, and the one who has the largest number to his credit has prospects of the greatest reward. One man has the supplication carved on a board which is secured to a long pole. He spends hours every day dipping the board into the water. Every dip is a prayer. Another has a whirling windmill. He also has the prayer, with the proper inscription upon it, and every revolution is a prayer. Women moving about in their ordinary pursuits carry little whistles which they keep in motion constantly. Every whirl is a prayer. The shoulder blades of the yak present a broad surface. These are properly inscribed and hung in groups of a dozen, from the branches of a tree overhanging a footpath. Prayers cannot get by without brushing these aside, and disturbance means several prayers. Sturdy ones climb to the mountain top and plant prayer flags at the summit.

Parade Into Fields

Bulgaria is 5,000 red-roofed villages strewn along streams, scattered in clusters over the hills, straggling along the crest of hills, and all the work, order, love and sacrifice, song and prayer that fill them.

On May mornings Bulgaria is a stream of grandparents, parents and children, flocks of sheep, herds of cattle, droves of pigs and geese all pouring forth from their appointed places. Mother carry babies in tiny hammocks on their backs, and on reaching the fields hang them to the flowering branches of leafy trees to shield the tripples. If the Journey is long, the mothers carry the swaddled infants in saddlebags.

Old and New

In Europe modernism and medievalism have a way of living side by side in the same city, each unconscious and uncomprehending of the other. This is seen to the best advantage at Montone on the Riviera. The centuries have not changed this medieval city. Time seems to have woven it into a tapestry of venerable cathedrals, moss-covered houses and primitive little pathways; they unite in a generous cult streets, and all that Old Montone knows of Young Montone is that she comes at certain times of the year with her manifestations of wealth and gaiety to live in the luxurious houses and spacious villas, a terra incognita to her neighbor.

Reason for Postmarks

Postmarks were first placed on envelopes as an official marking. Later they were used to cancel the postage stamps and give place and time of mailing. The post office department says that the reason for the postmark does not show when the postmark was first used. As early as 1793 the postal laws and regulations required the postmasters to mark letters deposited in their offices for mailing with the name of the office. This mark might be either stamped or written. Up to 1840 in some cases written postmarks were still in use.

Conceit

No matter how good you may think you are, it is the judgment of others that establishes your value. It is right to be self-confident to a degree, but not beyond that degree. In the long run it pays to take your job—not yourself—seriously.—Grit.

Religious and Secular

Stories That Parallel

All the great religions have stories that parallel each other in some degree. For instance, Jephthah, one of the Judges of Israel, made a remarkable vow before he marched against the Ammonites, that if he proved victorious he would offer to the Lord the first living thing which came to meet him on his return. This happened to be his only daughter, whom he sacrificed to fulfill his vow. The history of Jephthah is contained in the second book of Judges. Iphigenia, in Homer's legend, king of Crete, succeeded his father Deucalion on the throne, and accompanied the Greeks to the Trojan war with a fleet of 90 ships. During this war he rendered himself famous by his valor. While returning, he made a vow to Neptune in a dangerous tempest that if he escaped he would offer to the god whatever living creature first presented itself to his eye on the Cretan shore. This was his son, who came to congratulate him on his safe return. Iphigenia redeemed his promise, but the inhumanity of this rendered him so odious to his subjects that he was exiled from his country.—Montreal Family Herald.

Insignia of Royalty in Ancient Egyptian Tomb

A tomb discovered near Cairo, by Prof. Selim Hassan, containing a mummy adorned with a gold crown and a complete set of jewelry, is perhaps the only tomb in this area untouched by thieves. The gold crown was 24 inches in circumference. It was kept in position by two gold lotus flowers, joined by a chain of lotus flowers, topped by a bird with a long beak, named in hieroglyphics "akhu." In the middle of the crown in front was a lotus flower, surrounded by a circle of colored stones set in another lotus flower. The large necklace was composed of 50 pieces of gold in the shape of some insects threaded on a gold string. Gold bracelets having the form of the hieroglyphic letter "N," a number of silver bracelets—it is believed that this is the first time silver bracelets have been discovered in a tomb of the fourth dynasty—and two pure gold anklets also were found.

Curiosity From the Bog

Uncovering the bog at Ralahine, in the county of Clare, Ireland, a curious bit of wood, which was brought to light which is perplexing the archeologists and scientists of Ireland and England: The specimen is evidently of great age, 500 years at least, and probably much more. It is about 8 feet in length and presents a woman, but the arms are missing, and it is the work of a skilled carver. There are some curious inscriptions upon it which are legible. The specimen has been placed in a cabinet at the Dublin museum with the hope that some student may offer some explanation of the origin and use.

No Tennessee Pygmies

The existence of a pygmy race in Tennessee is believed to be a fallacy by modern ethnologists. The story owes its origin to the discovery in the early part of the Nineteenth century of numerous small stone coffins containing skeletons, the largest of which measured 24 inches in length and 9 inches in diameter. These were assumed to be the remains of a race of pygmies. However, they have proved to be the remains of skeletons of children. These of adults were deprived of flesh according to the common custom in those times, then disinterred and the bones packed into a very small space.

Heads Busy

The treasurer of the Ladies Aid society of a Greensburg church made a deposit for her organization in a Greensburg bank recently. At the deposit window she spoke to the teller, whom she knew.

"The deposit was a considerable one for a church organization and as she passed in the money she said: 'Here's the old money.'"

"The teller understood her to say, 'Here's the egg money.' Then came the break."

"Well, it looks as though the old hens have been laying pretty good lately," was his comment.—Indianapolis News.

Matching Shade

At a social dance wearing the ribbon of a certain order, having recently been made a commandant, and an envious friend remarked upon it. "My dear fellow," he said, "that cord is a wretched color! One would think it was your wooten vest that was showing!"

"Oh, no, my dear d'E," replied Duman with a smile, "you're mistaken; it's not a bad color; it is exactly the shade of the four groups in the table."—Golden Book.

IN BED WITH BACKACHE

"Two years ago I suffered with severe pains in the small of my back, and could with difficulty hold myself upright. At times I had to go to bed at night. I went to a hospital for three months, and they certainly did me good, but they told me they could not keep giving me more rest, but that I needed complete rest for six months, away from the children. I could not do this, so I had to go to hospital any more. I started using Kruschen salts and have had no more back pain since. Mrs. W. Kruschen contains vital salts that go right down to the root cause of backache. Soon after you start on Kruschen, the sleepless pains of backache cease. As you persevere with the little daily dose, the trouble becomes less and less frequent, until finally you hardly know what an ache or pain is. Then, if you're wise, you'll keep on taking it, for the trouble of continuing the tiny, tasteless pinch of Kruschen every morning.

One Left of an Old Train Crew

Last week the press in referring to the death at Lynn, Mass., of Horace Durkee, formerly of South Ohio, Yarmouth Co., mentioned that one of the two surviving members of the old Western Counties Railway train crew who served with Mr. Durkee, was Wayland VanBlarcom. A few days ago word came announcing the death at New York of Mr. VanBlarcom, which leaves Cloud Kinney, now of Honolulu the only one living of the late Conductor Harry Burrell's train crew. Mr. VanBlarcom, known in those days as "Burr", was the youngest son of E. L. Benjamin VanBlarcom, High Sheriff of Digby Co., and besides a wife and daughter, is survived by two brothers, William E. of Digby, and Hantford, of Barton, and one sister, Anna McNeill, of Weymouth, widow of J. Boyd McNeill who held the office of Registrar of Deeds for Digby County. His wife was Miss Emma Penwarden, sister of Rev. B. H. Penwarden, Baptist minister now settled at Kennebecott, Hants Co., and who also returned to New York via Yarmouth a few days ago after a visit to her brother and to her late husband's relatives.

THE DAYS

One day, and one day, and so the years go by;
Flowers paint the meadows, stars light the sky,
Kisses follow laughter, the heart beats high,
One day, and one day, and so the years fly.

One day and one day, and years, by slow degrees;
The fresh winds blow and the winds cease,
Work brings reward and the good gift of peace;
One day, and one day, and so the years increase.

One day, and one day, and so the years wend;
Snow covers the hills where the great gray clouds descend,
Color of the moon in the twilight
One day, and one day, and so the years end.

Sharp Words Get Credit for Ending Hiccoughs

A difference of opinion has arisen in Seattle as to how to cure a bad case of hiccoughs. A short time ago a Seattle resident had a very bad case, was sent to a hospital and was cured, but that did not close the incident. The hospital's official report was that the hiccoughs stopped after administration of an adhesive binding and lemon juice. Another report, however, is to the effect that an exasperated nurse sharply told the patient to quit being a fool, and that was the last of the hiccoughs. It is a good subject to argue about, because everybody knows all about how to cure hiccoughs. One does not have to be a doctor to prescribe in a case of this kind; in fact being a doctor is rather a handicap. The lady has more hiccoughs cures than ever in any medical book and can't resist where every one of the cures has worked. It can be proved, by affidavits if necessary, that eating vanilla ice cream has cured a hiccougher, and in the long run the sharp-tongued nurse will get as many votes as any of the experts—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Aztecs Well Versed in Science of Astronomy

A study recently issued by the Mexican ministry of foreign affairs describes at length the advance made in astronomy by Mexico's first inhabitants, the Aztecs. One of the outstanding facts in the history of the first inhabitants of Mexico is the marked progress that they achieved in astronomical science, says the report as given out by the Pan-American Information service. "It is indeed remarkable that a people presenting so many evidences of primitive life should have been able to reach the exact and scientific conclusions that their records indicate." The Aztecs were not alone in this. The Aztecs had two calendars, one civil and the other religious. The first consisted of 18 periods of 20 days each, with an additional 5 days. These 5 days were devoted to feasts and festivities of the religious calendar. The second consisted of 18 periods of 20 days each. The 20 day period of the civil calendar was divided into 4 periods of 5 days each. Fifty-two civil years made a century. To every century the Aztecs added 13 days, which correspond to the days we add for leap year.

Snake as Insignia

Various medical fraternities and societies, as well as the United States public health service, United States Army Hospital corps, etc., have in their crests or on their flags the emblem of snakes. The caduceus or wand of Hermes or Mercury, messenger of the gods, has been the insignia of the healing profession for thousands of years. It is a staff with wings. According to LaWall's "Four Thousand Years of Pharmacy," the symbol of the serpent played a prominent part in the healing ritual of both the Egyptians and the Babylonians. The same authority claims that it is Esculapian whose emblem the caduceus, originally carried by Hermes and dating from Egypt and Babylonia, is still seen in connection with medical insignia.

New Vegetables Analyzed

Educating the public to the food value of the host of new vegetables continually being brought from all over the world to enrich the American diet is a task of the bureau of home economics. The chemical analysis of each dietary newcomer is analyzed and its nutritive value accurately computed, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine. Chinese cabbage, broccoli, dandelions and many other common vegetables of the past are now unknown in this country a few years ago. Chinese cabbage, for instance, has been found to have a fuel value of about seventy-five calories a pound. It is about 95 per cent water and the leaves are very tender. The root is made up of nitrogen, fat, ash and starch.

Famous Men of Long Age

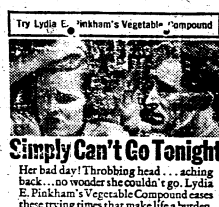

Ighl or Rhazes was an Arabian physician who lived from 852 to 923. He is noteworthy as being the first man to describe smallpox and measles in an accurate manner. Rhazes or Rhazid was a Benedictine monk and writer of music. He was born at Tournai, France, about 1410. He later started a school of music and other arts at Nevers. He was the inventor of the guitar. His only work positively ascribed to him is the "Harmonica Institution." He died in 1530—Washington Star.

Complicated Ciphers

A cryptogram is a cipher used in secret correspondence whereby the message is interwoven into a book, story or just a sentence. A special key is required to know how to understand and put the letters together. Probably the best known cryptogram is the one believed to be contained in the books of Shakespeare, proving according to some authorities that he was not the author but that the real author had laboriously woven into the text the facts of the case through a complicated cipher.

WEDDINGS

Babin—Muisse At eight a.m. Monday morning, November 23rd., Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Concession, was the scene of a pretty wedding of exceptional interest to a wide circle of friends. The principals were Miss Mary Rosalie Muisse, daughter of the late Augustus Muisse, of Weymouth, and George Edward Babin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Babin, of Cliff Street, Yarmouth. Rev. Father, F. LeQuemier officiated and Mrs. Olga LeBlanc presided at the organ and played appropriate music throughout the ceremony, the "Ave Marias" being one of the selections played.

Miss Muisse looked very lovely in a gown of white silk lace and satin, with conventional veil in cap effect, being caught with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white roses and maid hair fern. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. D. V. Theriault, of Weymouth, who also looked charming in a gown of orchid silk crepe with chiffon velvet hat and matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of orchid chrysanthemums and carnations. The groom was supported by D. V. Theriault.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Julius LeBlanc, at the latter's residence, about twenty-five immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties.

Miss Muisse was before her marriage, a milliner at the Exclusive Hat Shoppe, Boston, Mass., and the many beautiful and useful gifts of which she was a recipient, both from her friends in Boston and in Nova Scotia testified to her popularity. The happy couple left for Digby by motor, where they left on the S.S. "Princess Helene" for Saint John, enroute to Montreal, where they will in future reside. Mr. Babin being employed with the C.N.R. at that place. They are followed by the good wishes of a host of friends.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Walter McCormick

On Monday word came from Yarmouth that Mrs. Walter McCormick had died that morning in the hospital, where she had gone a few days previous for treatment for internal trouble, from which she had suffered quite a long time, but had hoped to be able to proceed to Pennsylvania to spend another winter with her only daughter, Mrs. Gilbert, as she has for several years past. Mrs. McCormick was the widow of the late Walter McCormick, a brother of Charles and Edgar McCormick and also of Mrs. E. Haliburton and Mrs. R. Withers, of Annapolis Royal. She was a daughter of the late Rev. P. S. Fillet, of Weymouth and leaves a brother in Yarmouth and another in Massachusetts. Burial was made Thursday afternoon beside the body of her late husband in Round Hill, after a funeral service in St. Luke's Church at 3 p.m., where she had always been a leading member since coming to Annapolis Royal. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Townsend and was attended by many old friends and relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert arrived by train via Digby. Rev. Mr. Townsend was assisted in the funeral service by Rev. Mr. Anderson, Rector of Granville, Annapolis Royal Spectator, November 26th.

Origin of Ice Hockey

The fantastic explanation has been advanced that the Canadian Indians originated the game of ice hockey by taking a croquet (called baggawaty by the aborigines) and making it applicable to play on skates. In contradiction, the French-Canadians maintain that their ancestors were the inventors. Still other factions claim that ice hockey was a "steal" either from "bandy," a somewhat similar sport that originated in England, or "shinty," the Irish winter pastime. The now proved facts are that ice hockey was created merely by taking field hockey and playing it on ice. The first game ever played was in Montreal in December, 1879. The first hockey rules were drawn up on September 17, 1879, by R. F. Smith of Montreal.

Washington and the Stage

The play and pageant department of the George Washington bicentennial commission says that he had his first contact with the theater when he witnessed the play "The Tragedy of George Barnewell," when he was in the Barbados with his sick brother, Lawrence. Washington notes in his diary that on Thursday, November 15, 1751, he "was treated with a play, ticket by M. Carter to see 'The Tragedy of George Barnewell' acted. The character of Barnewell and several others was said to be well performed and the play was much admired and regularly conducted by M." After this time Washington was a great lover of the theater.

World Honors Its Brave Men of Army and Navy

The Congressional medal of honor is the highest American award for valor. It is granted only to officers or enlisted men who, in action involving actual conflict with the enemy distinguish themselves conspicuously by gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of their lives above and beyond the call of duty. There is also a corresponding medal of honor for the navy. The Distinguished Service medal, established in 1918, may be awarded to "any person who, while serving in any capacity with the United States, shall distinguish himself or herself by specially meritorious service to the government in a duty of great responsibility." There is a corresponding medal for the navy. The Distinguished Service medal is purely an army decoration to reward individual extraordinary acts of heroism in connection with military operations against an armed enemy. Co-Operation Basis of All Success in World

If there were more co-operation in the world, there would be less friction. No home life, no business, no nation can succeed without co-operation. Confusion and wastage of time and energy must necessarily result if we are around at all the successful men today, and then look at the business concerns they direct. In every case you will find that co-operation is the corner stone of their success. They have been shrewd enough to realize that only failure would have resulted had they neglected co-operation.

And do not think that co-operation means only co-operation on the part of one section of the business of the home or the world. The worker and the owner; the head of the house and the kitchenmaid; the prime minister and the people—everyone must do his bit at co-operating.

There can be no happiness, no content of any kind, if co-operation is missing. We should have fewer broken lives, less unemployment, and no wars if co-operation were given a reasonable chance.—London Tit-Bits.

Master Your World

You must face the world as it is. Tackle it unafraid, and with courage and the following motto: "Enter your field of service to the spirit of the servant and with the enthusiasm of a freeman. That field of tomorrow will demand more than the past; stronger character, more initiative, more spirituality. Speed, efficiency, production, ideas, money, leisure and life await you. Your body will be called upon for the first time, it will take your head for the next two, and the body will be called upon to live the world a royal life. Here's to you! The greatest age, the grandest world, and reward of true living await the youth of today.—Exchange.

German War Decoration

The war decoration worn by the Germans in the World War is sometimes mistaken for a Maltese cross, but it is not. It is a cross of iron, the former Prussian kingdom. It was presented for the first time in 1813 for bravery and merit, regardless of rank. It was renewed in 1870 and again in 1914.

In 1913 the iron cross had curved arms and a silver border. The front side was smooth, and the reverse had three oak leaves. The initials of the donor, and beneath that the year. In 1917 the cross had a letter "W" for the Kaiser's name, and above it a crown. It was the same in 1914 except for the change in date.

Poverty Defined

The following definition of poverty is that of Dr. Robert W. Kelson, sociologist: "Poverty is that condition of living in which the individual, whether from lack of need or the failure to apply them, consistently fails to maintain himself and those property dependent upon him at a plane of living high enough to insure continuous bodily and mental fitness to carry on permanently in his occupation and locality, and which allows him and them to live and function in their community with decency and self-respect."

Marking Historic Locations

Virginia claims to lead all the states in attention to historic locations and the marking of them for the information of the public. Under the plan of iron instead of paper, state officials call it. Two-faced metal markers call attention to places of renown, and they are set in historic sequence. Thus the old Fort Mifflin, built in 1794, and the inland spread of settlement from "tidewater" can be followed by the observant tourist.

Helping Mother Gene was near by when her mother and a neighbor were discussing the approaching housecleaning problems. A few days later when the four-year-old mother returned from an errand, the youngster, smiling, ran to meet her, saying:

"I helped you, mother. A woman wanted some old clothes and I cleaned out your closet."

There passed away at his home in Bear River yesterday morning, Willard G. Clarke, one of the most prominent of Nova Scotia business men: at the age of 74 years.

Several years ago, W. G. Clarke, with his eldest brother, W. W. Clarke, became partners in a business known as Clarke Brothers. This company owned and operated a large general store; large tracts of virgin timber lands, and carried on a prosperous general business, exporting lumber and cordwood to all parts of the world.

About the year 1919, they sold out their lumber interests to a new company, of which the Clarke Bros. were the principal shareholders. This company, known as Clarke Bros. Ltd., built the pulp mill at the mouth of Bear River.

The store business was re-or-

THREE PICTURES

(To Capt. Arthur Keane, on his birthday, written by his daughter.)

A moon on the calm, dark ocean,
A ship with her sails unfurled,
O'er all a peace that reminds me
Of the other side of the world:
It's only a pretty picture
Hanging on hospital wall,
But so real if I stop to listen,
I almost hear you call.

To my right the sun is shining
On pounding waves of blue,
Just like they pound at Digby,
When I've seen them there with you.
E'en now you may be watching
Waves in the sunshine bright,
While for me, the moon is glorious
In India it is night.

When I have the sun tomorrow,
You surely will be asleep,
But the God who loves us always,
O'er both His watch will keep.
My room has one more picture
Recalling His love and care,
We've seen it at home together,
The Madonna of the Chair.

Victorian Order of Nurses And Tuberculosis Control

The practical common sense of the people of the town of Digby has again been shown in the establishment of a local Victorian Order Association.

This is a national institution in Canada, and is doing magnificent work from coast to coast. Every Province has its quota of these associations.

Its services form a triangle embracing every phase of family health. Its base makes Motherhood safe for the poor.

The other two sides are, Home Medical and Surgical Nursing, and Health Teaching.

Their nursing services are not free, except to those who are too poor to pay. Those who can pay are expected to pay or pay what they can. The poor are cared for free. This is a sound business, as well as ethical, procedure. In any case the fees are always moderate.

This kind of service fits perfectly into an important feature of Tuberculosis Control, namely the supervision of Home Sanatorium Treatment, food and care of undernourished and undeveloped children on the borderline of Tuberculosis, Home Sanitation with particular reference to sleeping arrangements, open air and ventilation.

The Nova Scotia Tuberculosis Commission has entered into an arrangement with the Victorian Order to take this service under their direction. In consideration of this the proceeds of the Christmas Tuberculosis Seal Sale in the town of Digby will go towards the expenses of the V. O. N. This is a very generous concession and the people of Digby should contribute liberally to the Seal Sale fund when called on.

Locally the V. O. N. organization is not extensive enough to handle the Seal Sale alone, and the local Red Cross has very generously undertaken to carry on the drive for the V. O. N.

The work of the Red Cross is too well known to require comment at this time. It is known as "The Greatest Mother in the World," and all good works come within its purview.

It is hoped that the people of Digby will take this opportunity of showing their appreciation of these two great organizations and give liberally when the solicitors call on them for their Seal Sale contribution.

An Appeal for the Conservation of Beavers

To the Editor of the Courier,
Sir:—Through your kindness I would like to make an appeal to the trappers of this province to have a heart, and refrain from capturing the last remaining specimens of that most interesting of our animals, the beaver. In the early days the forests abounded with them and almost every stream was traversed by one or more of their wonderful dams. Then there came a time when they were trapped almost to extinction, when the law came into action and prohibited both the trapping of them and the sale of their pelts. This halted the slaughter for a time and the beaver increased so that 20 years ago they had appeared in many of their old haunts, new dams were erected and houses built, some of these being right near the settlements, but this was too much of a temptation to the greed of conscienceless trappers and they soon found a way to dodge the law and yet sell their fur, so the beaver has suffered near extinction again. But in spite of these trappers that have no regard for the law of the land or any other law, there is here and there an occasional beaver which if left alone will soon find companions and again colonies would be formed and they would resume their old haunts, and dams and houses would be rebuilt.

Many people of this province have never seen a dam nor a house not to mention one of the animals themselves. The beaver is one of the most interesting and harmless animals of our country, besides having the distinction of being the emblem of Canada. Mr. Trapper, what a pity to wipe out the last member of the species for the sake of a few paltry dollars that you could do without or earn in some other way. Why not leave them alone until they increase enough to justify an open season on them, and give future generations a chance to see this most interesting animal in its native haunts instead of having to read about it as an extinct mammal of the past that fell a prey to the greed and lust for killing of unscrupulous trappers.

Put a Little Pep Into Christmas Preparations

We would like to take this opportunity of congratulating our local merchants on their splendid Christmas windows. All of them are attractive, show good taste, and are reminders to us to do our Christmas shopping early.

Doing your Christmas shopping early is really the only satisfactory way to do your Christmas shopping at all. It does away with that frantic last week rush which so often results in disappointments, and a general feeling of dissatisfaction that sometimes takes some of the joy out of the happiest day of the year.

Perhaps, though, this advice is unnecessary, for we have already seen a number of parcel laden shoppers with broad, satisfied grins on their faces walking by our office. We can't help but feel that they are planning to make somebody happy on Christmas Day.

Now, that we have preached our little sermon on Christmas shopping, we want to say a few words about Christmas mailing. In a few days our local post office staff will be the hardest

Pupils Going in for Athletics and Theatricals

Basketball teams, both boys' and girls', have been organized by the pupils of the high school grades of the Digby Academy and games for the interclass championships will be played by the competing teams shortly. Jack Keen and David Daley are coaching the teams. Games and practices are being held in the scout hall on Queen Street. On December 22nd, the school pupils under the direction of their principal, F. Courtney Purdy, will present the play, "Teddy," which is to be staged in the Bijou Dream Theatre, the proceeds from this play to be for the Boys' and Girls' Athletic Societies of the school. One of the common aims of these societies is to convert the large field in the rear of the school building into a sports field.

worked people in town. Already the mails are getting heavier and the holiday rush has just begun. Guy's bus, we notice, just groans with mail sacks. Just have a heart, and do your Christmas mailing, as well as your Christmas shopping, early.

Fishermen Are Still "Up Against It"

The local fishermen, have not, to date, benefitted greatly by the extended winter lobster season which went into effect ten days ago. The weather has been poor, and the fishermen along the Bay of Fundy have been able to do very little. However, we are informed that some very good catches have been made in the more sheltered waters of St. Mary's Bay. Lobsters are bringing the lowest price they have brought in years owing to the fact that thousands of pounds are being held in the cold storage warehouses of Boston and New York, which cities provide the greatest market for Digby Co. lobsters.

The scallop draggers are in very much the same fix as the lobster fishermen in regard to weather and price, and although the price of fresh fish is up a bit from what it has been, it is still low. The smelt fishermen are meeting with fair success, but they too, are forced to accept lower prices than in former years.

The Saint Patrick's Church Lobster Supper and Sale will be held in the Waverly Hotel on Tuesday, December 15th. Supper will be served from 5.30 o'clock—50 cents. A Forty-five's Social will begin at 8 p. m.—25c.

The 10 cent socials for the Digby General Hospital are quite a success at Mount Pleasant. On November 26th, their first meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Allen Stark, when the sum of $3.55 was made; then on December 3rd, at the home of Mrs. Oscar R. VanTassel, making $3.50.

"EDDIE" LEGGETT INJURED IN COLLISION WITH TRAIN

"Eddie" Leggett, the local representative for the Harris Abattoir Co. was badly injured yesterday at Annapolis Royal, when his car was struck by the D. A. R. Express. Leggett is suffering from a fracture of his right leg above the knee and cuts about the face and body, and although he is reported to be resting comfortably, his condition is not considered serious. He was taken to the Digby General Hospital yesterday afternoon. Dr. Sutherland, of Annapolis Royal is in attendance.

Miniature Canadian Log Cabins

Almost everyone is interested in log cabins. The story of the Canadian log cabin dates back to the long ago, when Columbus and other sailors braved the terrors of the Western Ocean and discovered the great continent of North America. They may be said to have invented the log cabin. From the first little French settlements at Annapolis Royal, Quebec and Montreal, and the later British and Dutch settlements throughout the continent, to the present great nations of Canada and the United States, these wonderful changes in the population of the world were made possible in the log cabin.

The Annapolis Hardwood Co., Ltd., of Annapolis Royal, has shown enterprise in manufacturing Canadian Logs—a Canadian-made toy for Canadian children. Any boy or girl, with a little ingenuity, and these miniature Canadian Logs can have a wonderful time constructing all sorts of things from forts and churches to barns and pig pens. The more logs a child has the more things can be built.

These Canadian-made toys will be appreciated by the young folks at Christmas-time. The children will be delighted with them. Your local toy dealer should have them, or write to the Annapolis Hardwood Co., Ltd., Annapolis Royal, N. S.

Members of "Double M Club" Enjoy Social

The social which was held in the Sandy Cove Public School on Friday evening last, by the members of the "Double M Club," proved to be one of the most enjoyable events held in that community. In spite of the inclement weather a large number were present.

The evening's programme, which was arranged by a committee of four members, Mrs. H. Morehouse, Mrs. H. Saunders, President, Mr. Edwards, and Vice President, Mr. Carly, consisted of a number of solos, duets and readings by different members, which were followed by a number of games, enjoyed by all present.

One of the interesting features of the evening was the presenting of the prizes, by Rev. Mr. Chute, to the members of the club who secured the largest number of words from the sentence, "Abraham Believed God." The winner of the first prize was Godfrey Crowell, and of the second, Edwina McCullough.

Before the close of the social dainty refreshments were served, followed by short addresses by the President, Mr. Edwards, and Rev. Mr. Forsythe. The social was then brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

Children's Aid Meeting

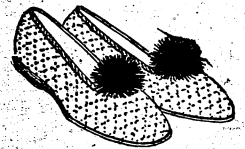

Austin L. Robbins, the newly appointed Agent of the Children's Aid Society, was present at the monthly meeting of the Digby executive last week. He reported 210 wards of the society in the three counties, Yarmouth, Digby and Shelburne, of which he has charge. In company with Miss Sarah Allen, one of the staff of the Provincial Children's Aid Society, he has just completed a visitation of all the children's foster-homes. Miss Allen was very favourably impressed with them all, and reported that the wards of the Societies in these three counties were being well cared for.

PATTERNS

Everywhere we look we see patterns of something, whether it be in the weaving of some beautiful fabric or rug; in Nature—of which every snowflake, flower, tree, etc., is of exquisite pattern; or in the lives and characters of the people about us, for after all what greater mass of patterns could we find than in a crowd of human beings. How truly Mary Vaughn has written:

In the loom of life we weave each day
On the warp of circumstance,
The colors grave and the colors gay
However the threads may chance.

But the web is ours to make or mar;
And the pattern we may choose;
We may make the fabric strong and fair,
And blend as we will the hues.

The glint of gold from our happy days
May shine through the sombre shades,
And love's warm gleams like the morning's rays,
And beauty that never fades.

For our lives are simply a weaving of patterns, most of them imperfect patterns. For a short time we parade these patterns of our bodies and minds before the world and then they are gone, but the pattern of our souls which are immortal, live on through Eternity, whether they have been "made" or "marred", and that depends upon ourselves, and the way in which we have woven them, for after all we must each have our own individual pattern to follow. We are the pattern of others and they are the pattern of us. We are the pattern of our lives, but there is no one perfect so we should not try to pattern our lives after anyone else's.

Each of us carry about with us the pattern of our weaving which belongs to us alone. As we think and do these tasks of the everyday these weavings become more beautiful, more valuable, more inspiring and helpful to others, or they become more marred, more tangled, more full of breaks and strains. No matter how badly woven it may be, this pattern of our lives is never finished while we live; if we so wish we can constantly be improving and beautifying it, and perhaps here and there we may unthread and reweave it stronger, and more beautiful than before.

Someone once wrote:
"For my own part I want only to pattern my life for a purpose, for a turn at joy, or at love's best; to choose the better part of courage and watch life's crowd 'like ripples down a sunny river'."

If we could each choose to follow an equally good pattern for our own lives as that writer has, how much better this old world would be, for as Frank E. Rogers has written:

"Each gathers from the wood pile of his thoughts
Chaotic strands and spinning turns the wheel,
Watching the string alertly lest he snarl
And break the goodly winding of his reel.

We watch with pains most infinite the loom
And weave with greatest care the pattern whole.
We shuttle back and forth our small events,
And hope for truest guidance of the Soul.

Thus is our growth made—by the dreams we dream—
Thus is our pattern, beautiful or plain;
Watch we the handling of our handiwork,
Keeping the pattern free from break or strain.

COUNTY AGRICULTURAL AND JUNIOR CLUB NEWS

The Digby County Farmers' Association held its annual meeting on the 28th, with representatives from as far west as Salmon River. The president, Harvey Chisholm, in his address stressed the desirability of a greater development of co-operative work among farmers. The report of the Agricultural Societies followed and showed that the two exhibitions, Bear River and Little Brook, put on very good shows this year, although rainy weather prevented Bear River from securing the necessary crowds for making a financial success. The secretary, Fulton H. Parker, displayed an aggressive optimism, stating that Bear River intended to put on a two day show next year, bigger and better than ever. The Little Brook Exhibition had the largest show of stock of the best quality they have had, and expect to improve still more. Agricultural Societies keeping bulls stated that the scrub bull was still a serious menace in their districts. The Agricultural representative of Clare, Raymond LeBlanc, reported on the many and varied services to the farmers of the County. Some of those touched on were school fairs, junior clubs, fertilizer experimental plots, canning and various other activities. Mr. LeBlanc presented Mr. Augustine Deveau, of Salmon River with a banner farmer certificate. Mr. Deveau has a herd of pure bred cattle, and has the first certified seed potatoes of the Never Rot variety grown in Digby County. After lunch, Walter and Thelbert Read of the Bear River Calf Club gave a demonstration on their pasture improvement on their father's farm, which worked out very satisfactorily. This was followed by a discussion on fertilizer and pasture improvement.

The next item was a pedigree judging competition followed by a discussion on values of pedigrees by J. A. Steele. It was pointed out that outcrossing before the world and then they are gone, but the pattern of our souls which are immortal, live on through Eternity, whether they have been "made" or "marred", and that depends upon ourselves, and the way in which we have woven them, for after all we must each have our own individual pattern to follow. We are the pattern of others and they are the pattern of us. We are the pattern of our lives, but there is no one perfect so we should not try to pattern our lives after anyone else's.

Donald White thoroughly explained the menace of the perennial Sow Thistle which has invaded Nova Scotia in the last few years, and is destroying whole fields of grain in some districts.

Raymond LeBlanc brought forward a program for agricultural improvement in the county for the coming years. This was commended and discussed, and it was decided that the Association should appoint a committee to confer with each agricultural society as to the work which should be attempted in their district.

The officers were largely the ones who have carried on so satisfactorily in the past. President—Harvey Chisholm. Vice-Pres.—Antoine Comeau, Concession.

Secretary—Frank Nichols. Directors were appointed from each agricultural society and delegates selected for the Provincial Farmers' Association.

Junior Club News

The Annapolis County boys carried off the honors in the Junior Fruit Judging Contests at the N. S. Fruit Growers' Association, Kentville recently. Cameron Spurr of the Melvern Square Junior Fruit Growers' Club won the valley championship. Lawrence Spurr, Melvern Square Club, and V. Kinsman, Sheffield Mills Club, tied for second place. Malcolm Balcom and Lawrence Spurr, from Junior Fruit Growers' Club, Melvern Square, gave a demonstration on Warehouse Ventilation which was well delivered and enjoyed by all.

The Annapolis County Poultry Show was held Dec. 2, 3, 4, with large exhibits of birds of various breeds in the County, also geese and turkeys. Judging was done by Prof. J. P. Landry, Provincial Poultry Husbandman, Truro.

Acaciaville Calf Club selected a very wet night for their meeting but had a good attendance. The members were called on to give their experiences in raising calves and one or two gave short talks on the subject, which was followed by a discussion on the various important points in calf raising. Members then took sides for a debate in which all members must take part or pay ten cents to the club funds.

JUNIOR CLUB NEWS

"December, oh December,
We know your laughing face,
And who that jolly fellow is
Who drives at such a pace.

The prancing deer, the jingling bells,
The sleigh with toys heaped high
Proclaims to every child on earth
That dear Saint Nick is nigh."

Club Reports

To Clementsvalle school goes the credit for having sent the first written club report for our News Letter. Bear River East wins second place as their's came in the next mail. We again ask you to be punctual in reporting your activities. To run a News Letter, we must have news so you see how important it is that you contribute your share at the proper time.

Active Juniors

The Peter Pan Red Cross Juniors at Bear River East report that the boys of the school made two tables for the school room. One, made from a packing box, will serve for numerous purposes, while the other, made from an old desk and some boards, will be their Sand-Table. Two old chairs were procured and the boys fixed them up to use for seats at the Reading Table. They are very grateful to Mr. Tupper of Bear River who gave them a Reading Table. They are beginning to prepare a Junior Red Cross Portfolio to be sent to a foreign country. Already they have collected several pictures of local scenes and these will be used in the portfolio. At their last meeting, the president was absent and the Vice-President, Addie Perkins occupied the chair.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Where do the days all go, my dear,
With their myriad tasks undone?
Do you know that the days will Ne'er return?
They are gone with the setting sun.
But each new dawn brings another day,
To be made or marred as we choose,
For God has them stored away by the year,
And He sends them for us to use.

The above could well serve as our motto for the next few weeks. What are you boys and girls going to do to spread some Christmas cheer among those who may be less fortunate than you and who long to taste of the Christmas joys as well as you and I? A great poetess once said:

"For those who think of others most
Are the happiest folks that live."

OBITUARY

Mrs. Aubrey Amoro
The funeral of the late Mrs. Aubrey Amoro, of Weaver Settlement, was held at the Southville Christian Church on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. F. C. Amery, pastor of the Weymouth North Church, officiating.

Mrs. Amoro, who was only twenty-six years of age, was before her marriage the widow of the late Fred Manzer, of Ashmore, and before that was Miss Florence Pierce. She is survived by her husband and one son, Ronald Manzer, her mother, Mrs. George Baines, of Brighton, and one brother, Ronald Pierce.

Smile, Symbol That Has Never Changed Meaning

A mile seems a steady, dependable measure, 5,280 feet long as we learned in school, a fine old Latin word meaning the equivalent of a thousand paces. But a learned English writer, in the Geographic Journal, points out that a mile means whatever it is held to mean, and very little more. In 1344 Dover was 12 miles from Canterbury; in 1633 the same Dover was 15 1/2 miles from the same Canterbury; the mile had changed. And a widely noted Englishman, writing in 1617, noted that "five Italian miles, or three French, or two and a half English, make one Dutch mile, and that one Dutch mile and a half makes a mile of Switzerland. . . . Even in England the miles seem, and indeed are, more short, nearer London, where the ways are fair and plain. . . . but towards the North and in some particular places of England, the miles are longer."

So when we read old English travel books a mile may be a mile, or two miles, or hardly a quarter of a mile. But then, as the writer of the article says, all words are like that. They do not mean precisely the same thing in the Twentieth century as in the Sixteenth, or in England as in America. The only symbol which seems to survive the centuries and transcend the boundaries of space and time.

Many and Varied Uses for Humble 'Hen Fruit'

(An egg, an aluminous egg, though to most of us just a flicker for a spitter, is a whole day's work for the hen. Egged on by insistent demand for a market, the editor of the National Poultry Institute has a surprising number of uses, aside from its use as an interior decoration. Eggs, he points out, are used extensively in the manufacture of imitation ivory, dyes, printer's ink, and glue for tanning, bookbinding, cleaning of old leathers and gloves, stuzing paper, art varnishes for photographs, cards and paintings, dyeing textiles; and in addition to their use by housewives, makers of candy, pastries, mayonnaises, salad dressing, they are indispensable in the preparation of films for your camera. Even the antiques, though not extensively collected, are instead of being wasted, used for fertilizer. And they are used for really ought not to tell you this) For Listen!—clarifying wine. Make the hen's son never set! He won't!—Pathfinder Magazine.

Saar Valley Mines

Under the terms of the peace treaty between Germany and the allies the mines of the Saar valley were given to France as compensation for the destruction of her northern mines during the World war and as part payment of her reparations. French occupation was to hold until reparations were completed. The district containing the mines was detached from Germany and formed into the Saar territory. An international governing commission, responsible to the League of Nations, was formed for 15 years, consisting of five members—one French, one anti-French (non-French), one British, one Czechoslovak, one Polish. In a few years a plebiscite vote is to be taken and final disposition made by decision of the League of Nations.

Big Map of Argentina

There has been recently placed on exhibition in the library of a Buenos Aires newspaper a giant relief map of Argentina, just completed after 28 years of work by Pablo Fonticelli, an Italian who emigrated to Argentina as a lad. Eight years were consumed in the preliminary work of laying out the map and 12 years were spent in exploration and study to revise it and make it accurate in every detail. The map is on a scale of 1 to 500,000 and is 24 feet by 12 and is complete in the most minute particulars. The maker of the map explored the foothills and ranges of the Andes in order to get accurate information of land which had never before been trodden by humans. In this rough work he was greatly aided by his wife, who accompanied him.

Scotch Cure for Witches

Fisherfolk of the little village of Burrehead, on Moray Firth, Scotland, have again held the ceremony of "burning the clairs." A holdover from medieval times. While some continue the practice, others in a spirit of merry-making, the majority of the people are superstitious and believe that witches will refrain from sneaking down their chimneys for a whole year if the clairs are burned. As they pass along the streets of cakes of tar on the roofs of a Roman altar setting fire to it, then a dance by the villagers around the roaring flames.

Pianos on Their Heads

Pianos and similar articles are moved in the city of Pernambuco by a sextette of trained men who are all of the same height and powerfully built. They will lift a grand piano on their heads and then march along with a soldier-like precision. A misstep on the part of one would mean disaster. As they pass along the street they are preceded by their chief who clears the way for them and gives the orders to the porters. All pianos are moved in this manner and these same men take care of all such jobs.

FIVE VESSELS ARE BEING BUILT AT METEGHAN

Construction of Motor Vessels Gives Employment to 150 Men.

Five motor vessels are under construction at the yard of the Meteghan Shipbuilding Company. One is nearing completion and is to be launched in the near future. Construction of motor vessels there is giving employment to 150 workers. Motor vessels Anna Belle R. Upsalquitch and Temiscouca, which were in port during the past few days have sailed for Yarmouth.

The motor boat Herbert P., which arrived in port recently, has been hauled up in winter quarters. Vessels in port include the auxiliary schooner Admiral Beatty.

Local fishermen set out their traps on December 1st, following the opening of the winter lobster fishing season.

SONG TO JACK FROST

Jack Frost should have a little song
To celebrate his worth.
He scatters beauty where he walks
About the sower earth.

My maple's scarlet autumn leaves
Would never arid clod
But for Jack Frost, for he, it is,
Makes beauty of a shroud.

And oh, the fairy castles etched
Upon the window pane,
And oh, the fairy blankets spread
On grass as bright as rain.

Jack Frost must have a little song
Oh honor to his name;
The spring and lilacs both are well,
But Jack, too, must have fame.

HAVENWOOD MODEL
Master model of Georgian design. 5-tube Super-heterodyne Chassis with Spray-Shield and Pentode Tubes. Mechanical circuit, variable tone control, full dynamic speaker. Complete with Rogers Guaranteed Tube $69

Five tubes actually do the work of seven and do it more efficiently in these new Majestic Models. The "224" tube acts both as oscillator and detector—a new double function never before introduced in a radio set—thereby eliminating one tube. The new "247" tube has a power output equal to two ordinary "245" tubes—thus eliminating another tube. Saving these two tubes saves dollars for you!

Majestic first introduces in these radios the new "Spray-Shield" Tube—entirely self-shielded—eliminating the usual metal shield "cans." Another absolutely unique development in radio!

Majestic Radios for 1932 not only have these noteworthy improvements—they are the lowest-price, greatest-dollar-value Majestic ever produced.

SCOUT NOTES

On Friday last the Scout basketball team went to Annapolis and played the team there.

The game started at 7.30. Play was very fast and at the end of the first period Annapolis had the lead with a score of 7 to 3.

In the second period Digby woke up. After minutes of furious playing the score stood 10 to 7 in Digby's favor.

During the third period Digby scored 8 points and Annapolis 4. At the end of this period the score was, Digby 18; Annapolis 12.

The fourth and last period was one of very fast play, Annapolis tried every means to increase their score. The ball was hardly ever away from the Digby goal.

During this period the Digby guards did great work and only one goal was scored by Annapolis. Towards the end of the period Annapolis called time out for two minutes.

The game ended with Digby victorious with a score of 22 to 13.

At the regular meeting held in the Scout Hall the Wolf patrol won the Proficiency Badge essay with the Engineer's Badge.

The attendance at the meeting was small owing to the game at Annapolis. The Wolf patrol won the greatest number of points for the evening and with that the honor of carrying the troop flag at the next meeting.

MAVILETTE

Louis Boudreau, who has been confined to the house with a sore knee, is much improved in health.

The school children are preparing for a Christmas concert. Mrs. R. J. Deveau, president of the Study Club of the Catholic Women's League, entertained the club one evening last week.

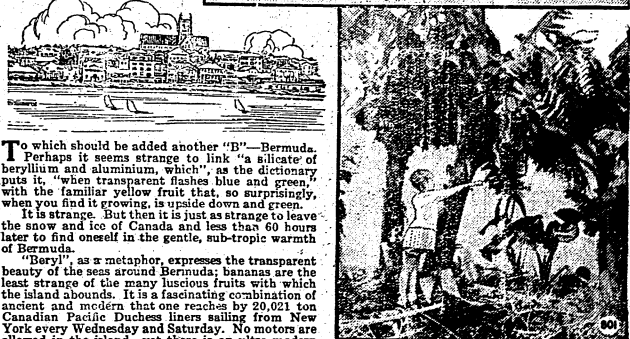

Harley Deveau was recently at Abram's River on business.

HECTANOOGA

Marguerite Doucette, who has been spending some time with Mrs. St. Clair Theriault, at Bellevue's Cove, has returned home.

Mrs. John Taylor recently visited her daughter, Mrs. Moses Doucette, at Cape St. Mary.

BERYL AND BANANAS

To which should be added another "B"—Bermuda. Perhaps it seems strange to link "a silicate of beryllium and aluminum, which," as the dictionary puts it, "when transparent flashes blue and green," with the familiar yellow fruit that so surprisingly, when you find it growing, is upside down and green. It is strange. But then it is just as strange to leave the snow and ice of Canada and less than 60 hours later to find oneself in the gentle, sub-tropic warmth of Bermuda.

"Beryl" as a metaphor, expresses the transparent beauty of the seas around Bermuda; bananas are the least strange of the many luscious fruits with which the island abounds. It is a fascinating combination of ancient and modern that one reaches by 20,021 ton Canadian Pacific Duchess liners sailing from New York every Wednesday and Saturday. No motors are allowed in the island—yet there is an ultra-modern electric railway. A "cool" breakfast, served by a sketch of a shirt, and nondescript pants held up by a one-strap "gallus" suffice laughing dainties for costume, yet five minutes from where the Duchess of York and Duchess of Athol dock is the up-to-date Hamilton Hotel, Bermuda's largest hostelry. Only a 20 minute walk separates ship and Princess Hotel, while short drives or launch trips reach many other delightful inns and guest houses.

Canadians in increasing numbers are making Bermuda their winter playground, more so since the inauguration last year of steamship service by trans-Atlantic liners.

(A) Stepping from ship to street.

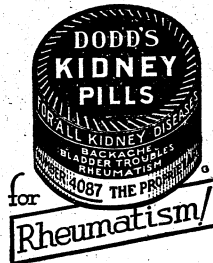

(B) "Have a banana!" A bright-hued chameleon winked a bright eye and dodged when the young lady approached the tree—otherwise it was just like picking an apple in the orchard back home.

(C) Ancient and modern! The palatial Hamilton Hotel is in effective contrast with the horse-drawn carriage.

Atlee, was read, which drew forth a storm of discussion and criticism.

Have no money to waste on T. B. Seals? Times are too hard? Hard times are the very soil Tuberculosis grows in. Poverty makes T.B. and T.B. makes poverty. So if there was ever a year when help was needed to fight Tuberculosis it is this year. The worse the year the more seals you should buy.

How Wood Came to Be Used for Making Paper

It is hard today, when forests are being demolished to provide paper, to realize how lately paper was first made from wood, writes Mark S. Watson in the Baltimore Sun. The Chinese had used fibers and the early European papers were made from shredded rags, which, of course, explains why paper of that day was so much more durable. But not until 1719 did Reaumur, the eminent French physicist, propose that wood be used. And oddly his inspiration came from the humble wasp, whose nests form very fine paper.

"They extract the fibers of common weeds," he writes. "They teach us that paper can be made from the fibers of plants without the use of rags and linen, and seem to invite us to try whether we cannot make fine and good paper from certain woods."

Yacht of Viking Queen Preserved in Museum

In the Oslo museum can be seen the hull of a spectacularly carved Viking ship. This is known as the Oseberg ship. It was discovered in 1903 in a mound about 20 feet high on the Oseberg-fjordedagden farm, the country of Vestfold, near a little stream about four kilometers from the sea. It was covered by stones and peat, which aided in its preservation. The ship was the pleasure yacht of a queen during life and the burial chamber for herself and her personal effects, as was customary in those times, after death. The queen and her accompanying bondswomen were laid in the burial chamber about the middle of the ninth century.

The ship is an open clinker-built boat constructed of oak, 21.5 meters long and a maximum width of 5 meters. She was supplied with a rudder at the starboard side of the stern. From the prow ornamentation it is believed that she was built about the year 800. She was crewed by the Fjansness class, I. e., rowed by 30 men.

She was robbed, presumably in the eleventh century, of the gold and silver ornaments removed, leaving the less valuable ones behind. Being comparatively shallow and setting low, it seems she was intended for cruises in sheltered waters rather than a real voyage for crossing the ocean—Medieval Journal and Record.

Earth's Weight Unchanging

The weight of the earth does not change in any material degree. It has been thought that the vast quantities of coal and other minerals taken from the earth would affect its weight, but it does not, because such materials are merely changed in form and are eventually returned to the earth's surface. In order to affect the weight of the earth it will be necessary for such materials to pass out into space beyond the atmosphere, and this is not possible. The only possible manner in which the weight of the earth could be affected, even in the slightest degree, would be in the acquisition of meteorites, which occasionally fall upon it.

Studying Bird Life

The United States Department of Agriculture is continually making investigations of the habits of birds in order to make accurate records, especially of diet. Nearly all birds have economic value, particularly the insect eaters. It is well known that some species will devour bugs that other kinds will not touch, so constant watch is kept out of doors and in the laboratories. Some 80,000 card records are now on file, each representing the analysis of one bird's stomach. This seems like a mighty number to kill, but inculcable food is accomplished by the distribution among agriculturalists of the information gleaned.

Roosevelt's Democracy

President Roosevelt defied formality of any kind. St. Louis Strachey relates that on the occasion of his visit to the President, and they talked together, they arrived at a waiting elevator.

Here they stood chatting for several minutes, when Mr. Roosevelt presently remarked, "What are we waiting for?" "For you to go in first," "Oh," said the President, "I don't think I can remember that I am not free to behave like a gentleman,"—Boston Transcript.

He began the study of medicine but gave it up and went to London to study for the ministry. Upon his return he preached at different places, apparently not having a regular charge. His "Life of Washington," by which he is best known, first appeared in 1800 and during the Nineteenth century ran into more than 70 editions.

RE-BIRTH

We're at home once more when the good friends call And we're back on earth as our natural selves. Now the patient books which have lined the wall. Have come to life on their dusty shelves.

Across the way is a neighbor, too. Who just like the books has stood for years. Patiently waiting, as if he knew Some day he would share in our smiles and tears.

We have been away on a mad, wild chase, Seeking for pleasure in haunts afar. Now we're back once more at the starting place. And we've learned how blinding the follies are.

It seems we have come through a strange re-birth. Or from years long spent on a foreign shore. To learn the lesson of life on earth. And to claim the joys which we missed before.

In writing the obituary of the late Charles Robicheau, of Watford, which appeared in last week's paper, we made the mistake in printing the name of his daughter, which should have been Mrs. LeRoy Roddman, instead of Miss LeRoy Roddman; we also omitted the names of two sisters, Mrs. Charles White, of Watford, and Mrs. Fanny Wagner, of Weymouth Mills.

Lobsters Scarce Down St. Mary's Bay

The catch of lobsters in St. Mary's Bay in the vicinity of Meteghan, so far since the opening of the short season has been very light. No shipments were made to the Boston market but what was caught was bought by L. H. Comeau, fish dealer of that place. Some of the fishermen who have been following this trade for considerable time did not set their traps for this short fall open season. They claim that the losses are too heavy and the price of lobsters too low to warrant the expense. Besides it will materially deplete the number of lobsters next spring when they could be caught at a smaller expense and with better weather.

Digby Masons Confer Degree in Bear River

The King Solomon quartette, under the leadership of Rev. A. E. Gabriel, added very much to the beauty of the service. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Land Once Considered

Only Source of Wealth
Trade, the great adventure of today, once was considered a "gentlefolk." The ambition of the mercantile class of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries was to become landed proprietors. Thus, the merchant of that period almost invariably ran to his land estates to which they or their heirs eventually might retire and, as one historian puts it, "enjoy the silence of trade from their feet."

Gradually there came a change, however, as trade became more and more necessary in the scheme of things, and explorers opened up ever greater and richer territories. As early as the Sixteenth century the efficiency of united effort and capital had become demonstrated and the organization of such great companies as the Levant, the East India, the Hudson's Bay and others, proved that fortunes could be made in something besides land. These companies, developed principally by the mercantile classes, soon became empires in themselves, and the merchant might participate without courting the usual stigma attached to trade.

Similarity of Surnames in Old English Village

Northamptonshire can boast of a village in which one-third of the inhabitants possess the same surname. This is Boxen, which has a population of just over 1,000. Nearly 300 of them have the surname of Drages.

Many villages and small towns can show surprising numbers of a few surnames amongst their inhabitants, but nowhere else is such a large percentage of people with the same name to be found.

It is difficult to discover how it all happened. Surnames are a comparatively modern institution, for in the old days there were none, and to distinguish between two Williams, one might be referred to as William, Robert's son, and the other William from Handley. In course of time this was shortened to William Robertson and William Smith.

Where the Drages came from is a mystery, for there is no mention of them in the old records.—London Tit-Bits.

Still Going Strong

One by one the great fairs of Europe have passed away, but Leipzig is greater than ever it has been. It is the world's one annual international fair. It has been held since before the Twelfth century, and when there was no Leipzig, it was held at a fair, for it is a city of unusual interest, and every tourist seeks out Auerbach's keller on Grimma's strasse, to do honor to the episode so famous in Goethe's Faust.

The city has one exhibition hall twice the size of the old Madison Square garden, and there are 80 other halls. During the fair week the whole city is given over to suitable festivities, chiefly of the nature of pageants.

Maritime Rule

The captain of a vessel, upon entering a harbor must first obtain a harbor pilot, then pass quarantine inspection, and then enter at the customs house and present his certificate of registry. If a foreign vessel, the captain presents his certificate to the consul of his country and receives a receipt which he gives to the customs officers. Then it is necessary to pay tonnage tax. In leaving a port, the captain must have clearance papers to show that he has paid all taxes, and must indicate the country to which he is going.

Made Her Name Famous

Sophie Potocka was born in Constantinople about 1738 and died in Berlin in 1822. She was the wife of a Polish count, Stanislaw Felix Potocki. Her parents were Greek, and as a child sold her for 1500 piasters, or $375, to the French ambassador at Constantinople, who adopted her. She married the count de Witt, who three years later divorced her at the request of Potocki and on the receipt of 2,000,000 gulden. In 1790 she married Potocki and became famous for her beauty and cleverness throughout Russia and Germany.

Inside Information

Mr. Hayes met Mrs. Ayres at a local charity bazaar. "So you know my wife?" said Hayes, in surprised tones, after a few remarks. "Oh, yes," returned Mrs. Ayres. "I know her very well."
"How very strange!" he went on. "I wasn't aware that you had met."
"Well, as a matter of fact, we haven't really," confessed the other. "But I have a maid who was employed in your house for a month or three months."—London Answers.

Aspirations

In a small Indiana village a lad had been invited to join the boys' secret club. After attending the first meeting the lad did not seem at all interested and the curious sister inquired why the trouble was. "I want to be treasurer and that club has no money so that let's me out," explained the aspiring office seeker.

The recent cold snap has frozen over the ponds in this vicinity and many of the young people have been trying out their skates, although a few of them decided that it would have been just as well had they taken their bathing suits along with them.

BADLY CUT IN HEAD-ON CRASH

On Saturday night about nine o'clock a head-on collision between two cars took place on the highway at Wilmot just west of the home of William Curry. The driver of the west-bound car was R. O. Randall, of Auburn, and the driver of the east-bound car, Captain R. B. Russell, of Digby, who was accompanied by H. B. Bigelow, of Canning. Captain Russell was badly cut across the forehead with flying glass and twelve stitches were required to close the wound. None of the others suffered any serious injuries. The cars were both badly damaged and were removed by wrecking cars. Sergeant Ritoy of the Highway Police was called and was quickly on the scene and made an investigation. Both parties claimed to be well over on their own side of the road. The road there is 22 feet wide, straight and in good condition but a number of accidents have taken place there. Just a year ago a serious head-on collision occurred at the same place. Saturday was a bad night for driving as the rain was pouring down and it is said that the glaring lights confused the drivers.

Myth About Horns of Deer

Deer and elk shed their horns once a year. This occurs soon after the breeding season. The horns begin as single points on the young deer during the second season and generally increase in size and number of points with each renewal. But the increase in size and number of points is not strictly progressive. So it is not possible, as popularly supposed, to tell the age of a deer or elk by the number of points on its antlers. The growth of the antlers is dependent upon a number of circumstances, such as physical condition of the animal and its vitality. There is a tendency for the horns to become smaller with fewer points as the deer grows old.

Ancient Coinage Excelled

Some Corinthian coins, 2,500 years old, have recently been put through a test alongside of some modern mint productions. The horns began as single points on the young deer during the second season and generally increase in size and number of points with each renewal. But the increase in size and number of points is not strictly progressive. So it is not possible, as popularly supposed, to tell the age of a deer or elk by the number of points on its antlers. The growth of the antlers is dependent upon a number of circumstances, such as physical condition of the animal and its vitality. There is a tendency for the horns to become smaller with fewer points as the deer grows old.

Only One Bank

Modern check signers who sometimes revamp checks of one bank to make them payable at another can envy the American colonists, who had no need to worry about drawing the right check on the right bank. There was but one bank in the land at that time, the Bank of North America, located in Philadelphia. Checks of the Revolutionary war era accordingly did not mention any bank, merely starting out, "Cashier of the bank; please pay to the order of," etc., as there was no other place to go for payment.

TO OUR ADVERTISERS

Once again the busy Christmas season brings many new tasks to the merchants and to the working forces of the newspapers. We can but repeat our usual suggestion made each year that advertisers co-operate with the Courier in the early presentation of copy for their holiday announcements.

The biggest advertising campaign ever in the local mercantile industry of Digby has started. Every merchant realizes its importance. We know they are busy at this season of the year, but no more so than we. We therefore ask for co-operation in order that one of the biggest Christmas sales season ever, may be put over.

It is for the best interest of the merchants themselves that copy is secured early. Early copy makes for better typography and it means that the paper goes to press on time and the advertiser gains all the circulation possible under such circumstances. Late papers decrease circulation and the good of the advertising.

The Courier will do all that is humanly possible to accommodate its advertisers, but the early copy will be given the preference and if it is found necessary to ensure circulation and advantage to the early advertisers by omitting the late ones, that course must necessarily be taken.

Cabin Steward—"A cup of tea for you this morning Macdonald?"
Third Passenger—"Yes indeed, and be sure it's MORSE'S. I have been signing for an hour for a cup of MORSE'S Selected Orange Pekoe Tea."

Mr. Melanson received his education at St. Anne's College, Church Point, and went to Saulnierville several years ago as school principal, acting in that capacity a few years. He then married Miss Beatrice Saulnier, only daughter of Mr. and the late Mrs. John T. Saulnier, purchased a home there, and entered the general mercantile business which he followed with success. Young People's Entertainment

The Young People's Society of Grace United Church gave an enjoyable entertainment last Thursday in the Church Hall, to a good audience. Following was the programme:—

Chorus—"Wedding Bells."
"Mellodram"—Burdette Carter, Margaret Hall, Rufus Connor, Fred Turnbull, Clayton Snow, Ross Turnbull.
Duet—Harmonica and Banjo—Fred Turnbull and Harry Cantwell.
"The Customs Inspector"—Clare Keen and Oakley Turnbull.
Solo—"Love's Old Sweet Song"—Rufus Connor.
"Our Summer Board"—Burdette Carter and Ross Turnbull.
Colored Minstrels—Jack Keen, Interlocutor: Fred and Ross Turnbull, end-men: Rufus Connor, Harry Cantwell, Clayton Snow, Clare Keen, Oakley Turnbull, Mel. Saunders.

The United Church Brotherhood was out in force at their meeting this week. There were forty-six present, and the Reds and Blues were even in attendance. The Blues put up the eats and they were good ones, and the Reds furnished the fun, and there was plenty of it. A very pleasing feature of the evening was a presentation and an address of congratulation from the President on behalf of the Brotherhood to G. I. Letteney, whose 80th. birthday happened to fall on the date of the meeting. The next meeting will be on January 19th. It will be Ladies' Night, and a strong committee was appointed to look after refreshments and entertainment.

Churches' Hold District Meet

The quarterly district meeting of the Digby County Baptist Churches was held at the Centreville Church on December 8 and 9. Besides the resident minister, Rev. J. T. Dimock, the clergymen present were: Revs. F. C. Amery, of Weymouth; C. L. Chute, Sandy Cove; H. H. Phinney, Westport; A. K. Ak-erley, Freeport; and I. D. Harvey, Little River.

The sermon on Tuesday evening by Rev. F. C. Amery was on "Stewardship of Talents." Throughout the various services the theme "Stewardship," as outlined in the "Stewardship Campaign" inaugurated at Wolfville at the last Baptist Convention, was featured by the different speakers.

After a business meeting on Wednesday evening, Rev. C. L. Chute gave, an address on the "Stewardship of Money." Rev. I. D. Harvey conducted the devotional service.

The afternoon was devoted to the Woman's Missionary meeting, when the "Stewardship of Missions" was discussed. The closing service was taken by Rev. H. H. Phinney, who delivered a sermon, the "Stewardship of Life."

Exceptional Concert Presented in Trinity Hall

In spite of unfavorable weather, a goodly number turned out to the concert held in Trinity Hall on Monday last.

Roy Grant, the magician, startled the audience with new tricks, some of them performed even at close range among the people. To give full credit to the children and adults who contributed to the enjoyment of the evening's programme would require a great deal of printing space; suffice it to say that every number was well rendered and won much applause.

We understand there is to be another concert of like nature to be held in Trinity Hall immediately after Christmas.

The proceeds of Monday's concert netted about $20 which will be used to purchase carpenter's tools for the Manual Training Class.

The programme was as follows:—

1. Holly Drill—Marie Winchester, Phyllis Bowley, Audrey Holdsworth, Mary Hayden, Lucille Cormack, Ena Robinson, Frances Dickson, Edith Morehouse, Dorothy Winchester.
2. Recitation—"A Letter to Santa"—Patsy Bowley.
3. Dialogue—"Census Man"—Miss E. Tobin and Victor Cardoza.
4. Duet—"A Christmas Rule"—Audrey and Marjorie Holdsworth.
5. Magician Acts—Prof. Roy Grant.
6. Song—"We're Going to Write to Santa"—Edith Morehouse, Ena Dakin.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE

Next week as Friday is Christmas Day and a public holiday, we have decided to publish the Courier on Wednesday, this to give our advertisers the full benefit of their advertising. Correspondents will please take notice of this and get their copy in either tomorrow or Monday, and advertisers must have their changes in by 10 o'clock Monday at the latest. If the change is not in by that time the old advertisement will have to remain, as it will be too late to take it out.

Robinson, Marie—Winchester, Phyllis Bowley.

7. Skit—"Aunt Serena as Christmas Present"—Marie Flemming, "Buster" Walker and Victor Cardoza.
8. Christmas Whistling Song—Nina Sorrett.

The amounts collected were as follows:

Lucille Cormack	$33.45
Helen Hazelton	7.97
Mary Hayden	9.10

On Tuesday afternoon in the school, the members of the Mothercraft Class were presented with small tokens in appreciation of their work for this very excellent cause.

OBITUARY

Ira Crawford

The death occurred at Bridgetown on Saturday, December 4th, of Ira Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Weston Crawford of Light House Road, Digby County, formerly of Nictaux West. Besides his parents he is survived by one brother, Harry; also one sister, Mrs. Wilfred Murphy, of Culloden, Digby Co. Funeral service was held at St. John's United Church at Bridgetown, conducted by Rev. A. I. Higgins.

Mrs. Boyd A. Sabean

Priscilla Gilliland Sabean passed away Tuesday, December 8th, at her home in Peabody, Mass., where she had been a resident for 27 years, going there from Digby. Mrs. Sabean was in her 63rd year. She had been a life-long member of the Baptist church, where she was greatly revered and had won a large place in the hearts of all the members, and also a large circle of friends in the city, because of her generous heartedness and kindly spirit.

The funeral was held on Thursday in the First Baptist church of Peabody, where a very large congregation gathered to pay their last respects. The members of the Starlight Rebekah Lodge were present and conducted their service of memorial for their departed member. The interment was made in the Cedar Grove cemetery in Peabody.

The esteem with which Mrs. Sabean was held in the community was shown not only by the large number who gathered for the funeral service, but also by the extraordinary number of most beautiful floral tributes that were sent. When they were arranged they formed a huge bank around the coffin and upon the platform.

The pall bearers were Harold Brooks and Frank Sabean, both of Lynn, and Harold Jones and Ralph Richards, both of Peabody.

Mrs. Sabean leaves behind, Boyd A. Sabean, her husband; three daughters, Mrs. Mary Brooks, of Lynn; Mrs. Ella Richards and Miss Nettie G., of Peabody; and two sons, Joseph Boyd and Harold C., both of Peabody.

Boyd A. Sabean comes from Weymouth and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Sabean. Mrs. Sabean was born in Rossway, Digby County.

Mrs. Hilda Ellis, of the Cornwallis Inn, Kentville, was a week end visitor to Digby.

WHY THE DIFFERENCE?

We have often heard the expression, "There is one law for the poor and another for the rich," in this country. Last Friday a colored woman was accidentally shot and killed by a colored man. Within an hour a jury was empaneled and was sitting on the case. A verdict was returned within three hours and a few hours later the man was arrested. On Thursday morning a commercial traveller was struck by a train and died in the Digby Hospital on Monday—but there has been no mention of an inquest or of an inquiry. In one case two poor colored people were concerned, in the other a man of good family and a wealthy corporation. Why the difference?

"O Lord, of life and light
Bring me today,
Nearer to Thee, to see this wondrous sight,
Uplift me as I pray;
Beneath the mystery, may I feel
The power,
Lead me to Thee, and in this silent hour,
This holy place,
Teach me to know Thee, as indeed
Thou art.
My life, my Lord,
And from the gladness of a cleansed heart,
A life restored,
Bring unto Thee the praise which is Thy due,
The life Thy life has blessed,
A will obedient, a service true,
A heart at rest."

The public wicket at the Digby post office will not be open on Christmas Day or New Year's Day to anyone (by permission of the Postmaster-General.) No stamps can be purchased and no mail will be delivered on either of these days. Bidders will be able to get the mail that can go in the boxes, but will have to wait until the next day for any parcels or other matter too large for the boxes.

Digby Votes Fifty Dollars Toward Fund

The town of Digby on Monday voted the sum of $50 towards the National Emergency Fund, it was announced from the Halifax headquarters of the Canadian Red Cross Society that night. This is the first municipal contribution towards the fund launched last Thursday by the Prime Minister to relieve distress amongst the thousands of unemployed. The contribution made by Digby is also the largest contribution so far received.

Throughout the provinces, however similar arrangements for collective donations are being undertaken by the Provincial committees in charge of the Government campaign in their respective districts, and it is anticipated that further donations like that of Digby's will be received shortly.

The following despatches in the above connection are self-explanatory:

T. E. G. Lynch,
Digby, N. S.
Success of National Emergency Fund Campaign through Red Cross most important to Canada. Appeal warrants general and generous response from all citizens. Urge you to make every effort to see your district has appeal presented to it in strongest terms with a view to securing maximum contributions.
W. H. Covert,
Lieut. Governor of Nova Scotia.

T. E. G. Lynch,
Digby, N. S.
Would again urge you to put forth every effort in order to insure success on National Emergency Fund. Substantial contributions essential if distress of present winter is to be adequately met. I recommend you endeavor to make most complete possible canvass of your district.
W. H. Covert,
Lieut. Governor of Nova Scotia.

The American-France Line steamer McKeesport, Commodore Dalton Peters, of Westport, has been delayed by heavy weather coming across from Dunkirk to Havre, and her date of sailing from New York to the two French ports has been advanced to December 30th.

The Digby General Hospital acknowledges with thanks the donation of a basket of bulbs from the Yarmouth Nurseries.

Grim Tragedy at Conway

Shortly after one o'clock last Friday afternoon, Mrs. Alice Tasco, mother of two small children, one nine months old, and the other a little more than two years, was shot, and instantly killed by the accidental discharge of a shotgun in the hands of Freeman Barton. The accident occurred in the presence of several eye witnesses while Mrs. Tasco was washing dishes in the home of her mother, Mrs. Addie Barton.

Freeman Barton who had called at the home for some friends who were going rabbit shooting with him that afternoon, came up to the young woman, slapped her on the arm, and said "Hello Fat." Mrs. Tasco picked up a poker and exclaimed, "Look out, or I will hit you with this." Barton ward off the blows with his 12 gauge shotgun, which he did not think was loaded. The gun, in some manner, discharged, killing the woman instantly. The Provincial Police and Coroner S. A. Keen were summoned immediately, and an inquest held with Dr. W. R. Harris, of Barton, foreman of the jury. A verdict of "Accidental death," due to the careless handling of a gun in the hands of Freeman Barton" was returned.

Barton was later arrested on a charge of manslaughter and given a preliminary hearing before Stipendiary J. A. Taylor, Monday morning, and sent up for trial at the Supreme Court. He was released on $2000 bail.

They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Barr, the former being a brother of the groom. The newly married couple will take up their residence at Weaver Settlement.

The weekly 10-cent social at Mt. Pleasant for the Digby Hospital was held last Thursday evening at the residence of Mrs. Hilyard Barnes, and the sum of $3.60 was made.

PURPOSE

Way back in the days when "Stonewall Jackson" was a cadet at West Point, he adopted the motto, "You may be whatever you resolve to be." His faith in this motto never failed, although while acting as a young teacher in a Military Training Academy, he was often called, "Jackson, the eccentric," or "Jackson, the fool," and the boys continually made fun of him. Then during the civil war he had the chance to put his motto into action, and he rapidly rose. In a crisis when the command of others broke, his stood like "a stone wall" and won for him the name of "Stonewall Jackson", which he continued to be called during his life and by which he is still known in history.

He had resolved greatly, he lived greatly, and he died greatly. The story is told of Michelangelo, the great sculptor, who when looking at a shapeless block of marble one day exclaimed, "Locked up in you is an angel and a devil. Which one comes out depends upon me." The same is true of our lives, we may make them helpful and inspirational, or worthless and harmful. Whichever it is depends upon us, and upon our aims and resolves, we become only what we resolve to become.

Often when a person makes a failure of their lives, they blame it upon others or upon their ill luck or circumstances. It is true that circumstances frequently make things difficult for us but they never make it impossible for us to have fine characters. For after all, the difference between a small life and a great one depends upon our aims and resolves, and as Michelangelo said, what we chisel from our block of marble depends upon us, we cannot blame others for our mistakes and failures, we are masters of our fates and what our lives become depends upon us, and it behooves us all to resolve to make the best of our circumstances.

If you can't be a pine on the top of a hill,
Be a scrub in the valley—but be
The best little scrub by the side of the hill;
Be a bush if you can't be a tree.

If you can't be a bush be a bit of the grass,
And some highway some happier make;

If you can't be a muskie then just be a bass—
But the liveliest bass in the lake.

We can't all be Captains, we've got to be crew,
There's something for all of us here,
There's big work to do, and there's lesser to do,
And the task we must do is the near.

If you can't be a highway, then just be a trail,
If you can't be the sun be a star;
It isn't by size that you win or you fail—
Be the best of whatever you are.

—Douglas Malloch.

ST. JAMES PALACE

The Editor of the Courier, a few weeks ago received a letter from a friend who is an employee in the British India Office in London, England; and who has been working in St. James Palace during the Round Table Conference which has been held there. Thinking that the description of the Palace as contained in this letter might be of interest to some of our readers, we herewith reprint it:

"I have been working over at St. James Palace for about a month now, and enjoy it immensely. It is a beautiful place in which to work, and the work itself is fairly interesting. The full conference has not been held so far this year, but there are usually some sub-Committees sitting under the Chairmanship of Ghandi or Lord Sankey. Ghandi is very ugly, even more Cherest mountain air and a wealth of golden sunshine produced the quality that has been sought after for your enjoyment. Your grocer can supply you.

DELIGHTFUL-YOU'LL LIKE THE FLAVOR

so than his picture, if that is at all possible. The Aga Khan, however is a fine looking man, and he has a young son, Prince Ali Khan, who has been at one or two of the meetings. Ghandi has been a great disappointment to everybody owing to the fact that he will not agree to any of the proposals put forward and I'm afraid that while he is here, the efforts are doomed to failure. I think all the delegates are heartily wishing him back in India.

Now to tell you something about the palace. The room where we do most of our work is the Throne Room, but unfortunately the Throne is wrapped up in cloth (to keep the moths away I suppose), leaving only the top visible. The fireplace is in wonderful Spanish marble, said to have been brought from France by the first Duke of Wellington, and while to our idea it is far too big (each fireplace in the palace holds 100 lbs. of coal at a time) it is a beautiful thing. Next to the Throne Room is the Drawing Room much the same in size, but not quite so much gilt about it. The fireplace here is in imitation marble, and none but an expert could tell the difference. After that comes the Queen Anne Drawing Room, which holds the Round Table. This was specially made for the Conference last year and is a beautiful piece of work. They added to it this year, owing to the increased number of delegates attending. The silk wall covering is modern and of good design. From this room an excellent view of the gardens, looking south towards the Mall, is obtained. The campanile of Westminster Cathedral is visible in the distance. The Picture Gallery is a rather dark forbidding looking place, but having some marvellous portraits of former Kings of England. The decoration is modern, but the chimney piece is ancient, one half of it being Elizabethan. It was rescued from the Tudor Wing of the Palace during the disastrous fire of 1809 and bears the initials E. R. These initials can also be seen on the fire back with the Royal Arms. Off of this is a small room called the Guard Room, in which Charles II spent his last night before being beheaded. The legend goes that each night at 12 o'clock he walks through the Picture Gallery, the Drawing Room and up to the Throne carrying his head under his arm. I'd just love to meet him some night and have a chat with him, though it would be rather peculiar, unless he stuck his head on. Then there is the Tapestry Room which is usually full of priceless tapestries, but at the present time these are at the Cleaners. I understand that it takes about two years to clean them. (Thank goodness I don't have to pay the Cleaners' bill.) The fireplace in this room is very interesting, as on one side of it we see the initials H. and A. (Henry and Anne) entwined with a true Lovers' Knot; the Tudor rose; the fleur-de-lis; and on the other side the single initial H., by which time I dare say poor Anne had been beheaded.

The Banqueting Hall is another lovely room which has been turned into the Buffet where we get tea at any hour. The Armoury is as its name suggests, just full of Armour of all periods. From the Tapestry Room one steps onto a Balcony from which the proclamation is made, "The King is dead, long live the King," when a Sovereign dies; the Peace of 1919 was also proclaimed from here.

The history of the Palace is most interesting as before Henry bought it, it was a sort of Nunnery or Hospital for Leprous women. After Henry VIII bought it he had the old building torn down and the new Palace built which he presented to Anne Boleyn as a wedding gift. The real furniture of the Palace has all been stored over at Marlborough House while the Conference is on, and while the Palace is very nice as it is, I'd really like to see it full of the period stuff which it usually contains. Anyhow old Henry VIII had jolly good taste in choosing such a place. York House, the present residence of the Prince of Wales is just across the way from the Palace. It looks like anything a bit more up-to-date than the Palace.

GIFT GIVING ADVICE

The gift itself may be quite small. But love tucked in with care can change it to a wondrous thing. An offering rich and rare

Before your gifts are all wrapped up And gaily ribbon tied, Oh, please remember to tuck in A lot of love inside.

The gift itself may wear out. Its usefulness be past. But always you can be quite sure The love tucked in will last.

OBITUARY

Edward Leggett

The death of Edward Leggett son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Leggett, of Chatham, N.B., occurred Monday morning in the Digby General Hospital. Death came as the result of injuries received when his car crashed into the east bound D. A. R. express, at an Annapolis Royal crossing, last Thursday morning.

The deceased is well known in this vicinity where he has represented the Harris Abattoir Co., for about a year. He was one of the youngest commercial travellers on the road.

Mrs. Sefroid Theriault

The community was saddened on Tuesday to hear of the sudden passing during Monday night, of Mrs. Sefroid Theriault, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. L. Gaudet, of Township Line. She was 57 years of age and had been in her usual health when retiring at night, but shortly afterward was taken with a heart attack and died almost immediately. She is survived by a devoted husband; also two sisters, Mrs. Leander Doucet, of New Edinburgh and Mrs. Jerome Theriault, of Bellevue's Cove; and three brothers, Simon, J. and Maurie, all of Township Line.

The funeral service which was held from St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, on Friday morning, with Rev. Father Melanson, Parish Priest, officiating, was largely attended. The interment was in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Abigail Mussells

On Thursday, December 10th, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. M. Journeay, Weymouth, there passed quietly to rest Abigail Mussells, widow of the late Captain A. D. Mussells, of Clementsport. A woman of sterling character, simple Christian faith, and cheerful disposition, she was beloved by many, and will be greatly missed by all who knew her. Mrs. Mussells was of United Empire Loyalist descent and was born at Annapolis Royal in the year 1851, the daughter of Captain John Red Willett and great granddaughter of Colonel John Roberts.

Four children mourn their loss, Mrs. H. M. Journeay, Weymouth; Mrs. Guy G. Russell, Melrose, Mass.; Mrs. E. L. Bennett, Malden, Mass.; and H. H. Mussells, Professor of Chemistry, Westmont, Montreal. Also a sister, Mrs. Maude Malcolm, of New York; and one brother, Captain William Willett, Miami, Florida.

The service was conducted on Sunday afternoon by Rev. Morris Taylor, of Hantsport, former rector of Weymouth, assisted by Rev. L. W. Mosher, interment being made in Saint Peter's Cemetery. All the children were present at the funeral.

Mrs. A. B. Burns

After an illness of four months, Mrs. Andrew B. Burns passed away at her home in West Saint John on Sunday, Dec. 6. Her death was heard of with great sorrow. Mrs. Burns was formerly Miss Harriett Blanche Marshall, daughter of Capt. Richard P. and the late Ella May Marshall, of Weymouth North, where she made her home until the time of her marriage, and since then she has resided in Saint John. In that city she was a member of German Street Baptist Church and an active and valued member in the church organizations. Mrs. Burns had membership also in the Ladies' Morning Musical Club, Women's Canadian Club and Brunswick Chapter I.O.D.E. She was keenly interested in promoting the enterprises of these organizations and was especially energetic in her work for Brunswick Chapter. She will be deeply mourned by her large circle of friends both in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Besides her husband, who is the Saint John representative of Henry K. Wampole & Co., Ltd., and father and step-mother at Weymouth North, she is survived by two sisters and three brothers, Mrs. Charles Grant, of Weymouth North; and Mrs. G. Bertram Hardwick, of Annapolis Royal; Capt. H. R. Marshall, of Weymouth North; George C. and Bernard A., both of Lynn, Mass. The funeral service was held at her late residence on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The body was taken to Digby on Tuesday, the S.S. Princess Helen, where it was met by C. C. Nichol, undertaker, of Weymouth and conveyed to Weymouth. A funeral service was held at the residence of her sister, Mrs. C. R. Grant on Wednesday, conducted by Rev. F. C. Amery, pastor of the Baptist church, assisted by Rev. L. W. Mosher, rector of the Anglican church, with interment in the Riverside cemetery. The floral offerings were both beautiful and profuse.

Native of Weymouth Dies at Mount Kisco, N. Y.

Word was received by relatives at Acaciaville, of the recent death of Mrs. Alida Parsons, which took place at the home of her son, Harold Parsons, Mount Kisco, N. Y., following a short illness, at the advanced age of 82 years. The deceased was the youngest and last survivor of a family of fourteen children, her parents being Robert and Eliza Sabean, of Weymouth North. She is survived by one son, Harold Parsons, above mentioned; and two daughters, Mrs. John Donovan, of Washington, D. C.; and Mrs. Arthur Raymond, of Staten Island. Her husband, the late Joseph M. Parsons, predeceased her twelve years ago, at Gloucester, Mass., where her married life was spent. Mrs. Parsons, who has been spending the winter at Fort Minors, Florida, recently, had decided to stay north, and visit with friends and relatives, to see the snow once more. The funeral services were held from her late home and interment made at the Oak Grove Baptist cemetery, Gloucester, Mass.

Seth Parker gave us a thought last Sunday evening which we are passing on. He suggests that this year, in view of the need for works of charity due to hard times, that we send a white card to our friends and relatives instead of the usual gift. State on the card that this year you are taking the money which you usually spent for a gift to the friend, who really doesn't need it, and giving it to some needy person who is out of work. Send a white card this Christmas and give your dollar to charity.

A pleasing feature of the program was the presentation of a gift by the "King's Daughters" to Mrs. Houli, in appreciation of her painstaking efforts on their behalf.

SERIOUSLY HURT AS CAR FALLS FROM BRIDGE

Driver's Head Shatters Glass in Door; Is Found Unconscious by Passing Autoist.

An automobile accident happened on Tuesday night last, when Ulysse J. Belliveau, of Bellevue's Cove, insurance agent, was returning from Weymouth about 7.30. In passing a small bridge in a curve, when nearing St. Bernard's the front wheel of his car passed over the end of the bridge and the car fell in the brook. Mr. Belliveau struck his head against the glass of the door, breaking the glass, and was rendered unconscious by the blow. About fifteen minutes later Hector Barr, of Weaver Settlement, was passing and he stopped to see what the trouble was with the car in the ditch. He found Mr. Belliveau still unconscious. He was badly cut in the face and bleeding very profusely from these cuts. Mr. Barr put him in his own car and took him to Weymouth. Thirteen stitches were needed to close the cuts. Mr. Belliveau was so weak from the loss of blood that it is not thought probable that he could have survived another fifteen minutes. He was later taken to his home in Bellevue's Cove.

BABY'S BURNS FATAL

Eleanor Smith, 1½, Succumbs
Her clothing catching ablaze as she was playing in front of the fire, Eleanor Smith, one and a half years old, was burned to death at Weymouth on Saturday last. Although rushed to the hospital at Yarmouth soon after the accident, nothing could be done for the child as its frail body was badly scorched and unable to withstand the terrible burns. The little girl was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Smith, of Weaver Settlement, and when the child's clothing caught fire, the mother was out of doors, hanging out clothes.

The victim passed away at the Yarmouth hospital soon after its admission. The funeral was held at the Christian church, Southville, on Monday afternoon, Rev. M. R. Ewing of the United church, officiating.

Funeral of the Late W. G. Clarke

On Sunday afternoon, Dec. 6, after a short service at the residence for immediate relatives, the funeral service for the late W. G. PHILATHEA CLASS

The December meeting of the Philathea Class of the United Baptist Church took the form of an old-fashioned social, held in the vestry, which was appropriately decorated for the occasion. Members of the Philathea Class in attractive old-fashioned costumes, welcomed as their guests, the men-folk.

The meeting opened by the singing of the class song, followed by the reading of the class Creed. The Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. Mrs. Carl Miller, the president, read the Class Poem. A short business meeting followed.

A very pleasing program planned by Mrs. Clarence Henshaw, and Mrs. Murray Smith, was presented by members of the class:

Hymn.—Tableau—Lullaby—Bertha Dukeshire.
Reading—Mrs. Roy Snell.
Volin Solo—Selected—Miss M. Baird.
Play—"The Bear River Uplift Society"—Mrs. R. A. Harris, Mrs. Waldo Chute, Mrs. Clarence Henshaw, Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Walter Brown, Mrs. Cooombs.
Reading—Mrs. John Berry.
Reading—Mrs. Roscoe Alcorn Solo—Mrs. Waldo Chute.
Tableau—"When You and I Were Young, Maggie"—Mrs. Carl Miller and Walter Dukeshire.
Reading—Mrs. Chas. MacDormand.
Christmas Carol Sing.

Delicious refreshments were served and thus a delightfully different meeting was brought to a close.

Visit from Smith's Cove Division

Royal Division Sons of Temperance were favored with a visit last Tuesday evening from the members of Home Division, of Smith's Cove. A goodly number attended and after the regular business was transacted a programme of choruses, readings, musical numbers and speeches was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. This programme was presented by the members of Home Division and revealed to all the splendid talent available in that Division. No wonder Home Division has such good times and is able to carry on year after year even with summer recess. The secret was revealed last Tuesday. They have a live band of interested and talented members who unselfishly give of their time in the great cause of temperance. Following the programme games were played, after which refreshments were served by the members of Royal Division. A good time was had by all. In the near future Royal Division will return this fraternal visit.

OBITUARY

Well Known Nurse Dies at Deep Brook Home

The passing of Miss Emma A. McClelland, R. N., at her home Wednesday evening, December 9th, removes one of the most highly respected citizens of Deep Brook. A person of rare charm and ability, she will be missed by all those who were privileged to know her. Miss McClelland, who was sixty-nine years old last May, was the eldest daughter of the late David and Jane (Young) McClelland and was born in Greywood, Annapolis County, living for several years in Annapolis Royal, where her parents conducted a hotel business at the old Clifton and American sites, and later going to the United States, where she lived for twenty years. It was while in Ipswich, Mass., that she united with the Methodist Church. Since returning to Deep Brook she has been actively associated with the Baptist church giving freely of her time, talents and material help. For many years she was a teacher in the Sunday School and for 20 years president of the W. M. S. Society, which under her leadership has made a steady advance.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. C. K. North, Chicago, Miss Minnie B. McClelland, R. BROWN-HOLDER BISCUIT FACTORY AT MONCTON

Is now producing 'Maritime Maid' Biscuits, which are 'Better—Far Better'.

For an industry to be born in the Maritime Provinces during a period of business depression, like that through which we are at present passing, is an outstanding event, a really remarkable thing. While most industries are finding the struggle for existence rather difficult, a new manufacturing plant comes into being, a splendid new Brick Factory is built, up-to-the-minute machinery and equipment are installed, thirty highly skilled workmen and workwomen are gathered together and the Brown-Holder plant gets away to a wonderful start.

Easily the most modern and best equipped Biscuit Factory in Eastern Canada; the Brown-Holder goods being produced are in a class by themselves, completely justifying the slogan "Better—Far Better."

"Maritime Maid" Biscuits are something new, something pleasing, something different. Ask your grocer for them and refuse any substitute. Help to keep the wheels of Maritime industry turning by purchasing and eating "Maritime Maid" Biscuits, which are manufactured from the best ingredients that money can buy; in a factory, built for the purpose.

Among our lines are the following "Maritime Maids":—Ruth, Norah, Peggy, Alice, Helen, Muriel, Ann, Marie, Jean, Pearl, Betty, May, Mona, Sally, Doris and Dot.

We put up in attractive packages, Maritime Mixed, Fancy Assorted, Cream Sodas, Milk Munchies, Boston Pilot and many other lines.

Give the Maritime's newest industry your sympathetic support. We are waiting to serve you with "Maritime Maid" Biscuits, the kind that are delicious, wholesome and good.

A Lively Meeting

We were pleased to have the opportunity to see the Greywood Red Cross Juniors "in action," when they held their third meeting on Monday afternoon, December 14th, with Winett Sililian, president, in the chair. After several excellent committee reports, a lively business discussion followed, and the rest of the time was devoted to practicing their exercises for the Christmas Concert. It was decided that Winett Sililian would preside as chairman at the concert. The club members voted unanimously to pack a box for the Children's Hospital.

Virginia Workers

This club has sent the following report: "We hold our meetings regularly every second Friday. We have a school newspaper published every month, and called 'The Virginian Star.' We are saving our best material for an annual school magazine, and this we intend to send to the Helping Teacher, who will enter it in the School Club Contests. We have prepared a Christmas Scrap Book for the Children's Hospital. Our president, Viola Robar will act as Chairman at our Christmas concert."—Vera Riley, Secretary.

CHRISTMAS TIPS

Christmas Shopper, if for me
You are store-ward bound today,
And a handkerchief you see
Made of silk and very gay,
Though admire it others might
All my handkerchiefs are white.

Should some hosiery in a box,
Gaudy colored, catch your eye,
Though I am in need of socks,
Pass the reds and purples by.
I shall have to take 'em back
If you do not pick 'em black.

If within a necktie store
You discover something grand,
Let me tell you just once more
I don't wear a four-in-hand.
If the gift is meant for me,
Just a bow-tie let it be.

If suspenders catch your eye,
As no doubt the bright ones will,
In all safety you may buy
I am one who wears 'em still!
To your color choice I'll bow.
No one sees 'em, anyhow!

An Appeal

The Sons of Temperance are appealing to the general public to assist them in their extension programme. Many people really interested in the work of the Sons of Temperance are unable for various reasons to unite with the order. We are asking any such to contribute to the extension fund. This fund is being used to keep an agent in the field throughout the whole year. Rev. John W. Hughes, a minister of the United Church, has been appointed and is doing really splendid work as general Secretary. He visits the schools and teaches scientific temperance. He organizes Bands of Hope among the children. He visits Divisions and encourages them in their work and organizes new ones wherever possible. He carries on an active campaign in the cause of temperance through public addresses from the different pulpits and also through speaking at other gatherings from time to time throughout the year. He heads up the Legislative programme of the order presenting to the Government from time to time the wishes of the Temperance people in regard to all phases of the temperance question. Much of this work is of a general character with no financial return to the Sons of Temperance. Money is immediately needed to continue this work. The extension fund committee is charged with the task of raising this money. Will you help? The chairman of the committee is Rev. A. A. MacLeod, Bear River, N. S. The Secretary-Treasurer is Mr. E. P. Webber, 20 Cherry St., Halifax. All contributions will be gratefully acknowledged.

Celebrates 90th Birthday

Friends of Capt. Timothy Brooks, formerly of Weymouth North, but now living at Winthrop, Mass., with his son, Harry I. Brooks, district passenger agent of the Eastern Steamship Lines at Boston, Mass., will be interested to learn that he celebrated his ninetyeth birthday on Tuesday, Dec. 2nd. He received many cards, letters and gifts, among them being a prettily decorated cake from his daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. I. Brooks. During the day many friends called to pay their respects and his many friends in this county join in congratulating him and wish him many more happy birthdays. With the exception of the asthma, Capt. Brooks is still hale and hearty and takes an active interest, especially in shipping matters. From the front porch of his home he watches the ships moving up and down Boston harbor. Capt. Brooks, who was one of the Nova Scotia captains in the time of the "Wooden Ships and Iron Men" has sailed the seven seas. He went to sea at the age of fourteen and worked himself to the position of master in twelve years.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harris, and son, Lawson, Mrs. George Croscup and Miss Hazel Purdy of Bear River recently visited Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Mullen, at "The Outlook", at Weymouth North.

The evening was spent in singing old songs; Mrs. Walter Outhouse and Mrs. T. O. Morgan each gave humorous readings. During the evening a second "birthday cake", prettily decorated and lighted, was presented to Mrs. T. O. Morgan, whose birthday occurred the day before. Very delicious refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

KIWANIS SUBSCRIBE FOR UNDER-PRIVILEGED CHILDREN

At the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club held on Monday last the Committee on Under-Privileged Children made its report which fully dealt with the needy cases as far as the members had been able to ascertain. Upwards of twenty families were recognized as cases for immediate assistance, and it was unanimously decided that the Committee should "carry on" and there and then a sum of more than $100 was subscribed by the members to supply the wherewithal; this sum has since been increased by subscriptions of absent members. It was, however, felt that the matter of supplying the needs of under-privileged children was one for the whole community to participate in, and it was resolved to appeal to the generosity of the public generally to add to the money already subscribed. A canvass of the leading merchants will be made and our readers are invited to send in subscriptions to the Kiwanis Fund for Under-Privileged Children either to the Courier or the Chairman of the Committee, the Town Clerk, who will be pleased to acknowledge the same. Every dollar subscribed will be devoted to the object for which the Fund is instituted, and no more worthy proposal for support can be laid before Digby residents, who will want to back up the work so well sponsored by the Kiwanis.

Celebrated Her Ninetieth Birthday

An interesting event occurred in Smith's Cove on Monday last, it being the occasion of the 90th birthday of Mrs. Jonas Rice. Many of her friends called during the day to express their congratulations and to enjoy a chat with this bright-eyed and cheery old lady, who, although she has reached twenty years beyond the "three score and ten" still takes a deep interest in all that is going on. Among the pleasant remembrances of the day, were a great number of birthday greetings which came to her from friends living in the United States and throughout Nova Scotia. Dainty refreshments were served, two birthday cakes being the chief feature. She still takes a lively interest in games, such as checkers and parcheesi, which she plays with all the vim of a much younger person. Mrs. Rice takes this opportunity to thank her many friends for the kind remembrances of the day.

Mrs. John L. Surette, of Eel Brook, was given a pleasant surprise on Thursday evening when Mrs. Leande Bourque, Mrs. Vincent Bourque, Mrs. Amos Surette, Mrs. Marie Surette and a number of the younger folk enjoyed a social evening with her. Music, songs, story-telling and dancing followed. Mrs. Surette at 55 years of age, gave an exhibition of clog dancing, a feat which could not be duplicated by any present. Refreshments were served.

Letters to the Editor

Under-Privileged Children

The Editor of the Courier, Sir: You have kindly offered a little space to make an appeal to your readers for subscriptions to a fund to provide needy children with clothing and perhaps food for Christmas. The Committee who investigated all the cases brought to their notice are all of the opinion that help should be given, and the Kiwanis Club warmly supported their report and subscribed upwards of $125 for the purpose. This will not be anything like sufficient to supply all the needs and so the Committee is making an appeal to all citizens to come to the support of the Kiwanis, who are trying to take care of all cases irrespective of creed or denomination. The Boy Scouts are very generously making themselves responsible for five boys' needs and that leaves about sixty unprovided for. Don't you think your Christmas dinner will be sweeter if you have had a personal part in caring for those who are far less privileged than you and your children? Don't you want to keep Jack Frost from the toes of little tots, and the pangs of hunger from scores of breasts? I have always been struck by the amount of Christian charity and kindness displayed by the people of Digby, and I can with much confidence leave this very worthy appeal with you, being assured that the response will be ample to permit the work of the Kiwanis Club being successfully carried out. Subscriptions towards this object will be gladly received by the Editor of the Courier, or Alfred Boden, Chairman of Under-privileged Children Committee, Digby Kiwanis Club.

Digby's Community Tree

The warm glow of Digby's Christmas Tree has spread across the Annapolis Basin and inspired our friends in that town and fellowship at this Joyous Season. The Community Club in Annapolis has erected a large illuminated Christmas Tree, each member of the Club contributing to the cost of the same.

Through the kindness of James Merkel, Roy Vantassel, Ernie Wilson, members of the staff of the Digby Garage, and the valuable assistance of A.D. Daley, Digby for the third time tries to gladden the hearts of her citizens by placing an illuminated tree on the main street of the town. The Digby County Power Board is supplying the current free of charge.

On Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock there will be a short Carol Service in front of the Royal Bank where the tree has been erected. All citizens and friends outside the town are invited to assist in the singing. The Carol Singing will last only about 15 minutes so as not to interfere with your Christmas Shopping.

Don't forget! Carol Singing at the Christmas Tree on Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock.

Christmas Tree at Well Baby Clinic

Last Friday afternoon the Council Chamber in the Court House presented a very festive appearance, when the Nurse and members of the Victorian Order of Nurses entertained the babies of the Well Baby Clinic and their mothers with a Christmas tree and afternoon tea.

There were 57 children from three weeks to four years of age weighed and then presented with a small gift from the tree. A very pleasant social hour was spent and the babies were on their best behaviour for the occasion. It was remarked by a visitor that these mothers and children had wonderful opportunities that were not experienced by previous generations. They were a healthy, happy lot of babies and showed the result of proper care and feeding.

Mrs. Sturgeon is to be congratulated on the success of her efforts.

The V. O. N. committee wish to thank the Boy Scouts for procuring the Christmas tree, and all the ladies who so kindly contributed gifts and refreshments.

Christmas with the Kiwanis

The Kiwanis luncheon of the Princess Helene, on Monday, was an unqualified success in every way. The Kiwanians were out in force and their Queens were with them. The beautiful dining room was an attractive place; Christmas decorations abounded and in the forward saloon an artistically decorated tree had been set up. Almost every seat in the dining room was occupied, and it was indeed a merry throng who sat down to the tables. The following menu was served:

MENU
Olives	Celery
Chicken Soup
Oyster Patties
Roast Turkey, Cranberry Sauce
Sirloin of Beef, Yorkshire Pudding
Sugar Cured Ham
Nova Scotia Waxed Beans	Squash
Parsnips	Creamed Potatoes
English Plum Pudding	Mince Pie
Orange Jelly	Fruit Cake
Cheese	Biscuits
Tea	Coffee
	Milk

Songs were sung by the whole party and two quartettes occupied the floor for a time. The song leader said one was a quartette of those who could sing, and the other of those who couldn't, but he forgot to say which was which, and the audience is still guessing.

T. J. Harris, of the Racquette Garden, was the guest speaker and gave an interesting address on plants, etc.

The committee appointed to look after Christmas cheer for children whose Christmas would otherwise be "just another day," reported that they had completed arrangements and that over sixty children would be made the happier on Christmas because Kiwanis had come to town.

Christmas

By M. E. W.

I HAD fed the fire, and stirred it till the sparks in delight Snapped their saucy little fingers at the chill December night;
And in dressing-down and slippers, I had tilted back my throne—
The old split-bottom rocker—and was musing all alone.

I could hear the hungry winter prowling round the outer door,
And the tread of muffled footsteps on the white piazza floor;
But the sounds came to me only as the murmur of a stream
That mingled with the current of a lazy-flowing stream.

And I saw a happy mother, and a group surrounding her,
That knelt with costly presents of frankincense and myrrh;
And I thrilled with awe and wonder as a murmur on the air
Came drifting o'er the hearing in a melody of prayer.

By the splendor in the Heavens and the hush upon the sea;
And the majesty of silence reigning over Galilee,
We feel Thy kindly presence and we humbly bow the knee
And lift our hearts and voices in gratefulness to Thee.

Thy messenger has spoken, a shadow has fled and gone,
As in the dark and spectral shadows of the night before dawn;
And, in the kindly shelter of the light around us drawn,
We would nestle down forever in the breast we lean upon.

You have given us a Shepherd, You have given us a Guide,
And the light of Heaven glimmers dimmer when you sent Him from Your side.

But He comes to lead Thy children where the gates will open wide,
To welcome His returning, when His words are glorified.

By the splendor in the Heavens and the hush upon the sea,
And the majesty of silence reigning over Galilee,
We feel Thy kindly presence, and we humbly bow the knee,
And lift our hearts and voices in gratefulness to Thee.

Then the vision, slowly falling, with the words of the refrain
Fell swooning in the moonlight through the frosty window-pane;
And I heard the clock proclaiming, like an eager sentinel
Who brings the world good tidings: "It is Christmas! All is well!"

We gladly welcome the opportunity afforded by this happy season to wish you all every enjoyment of Christmas, and a Bright and Prosperous
New Year

CHRISTMAS

Once again Christianity's greatest holiday—Christmas—with all its brightness and cheer has arrived, bringing happiness and joy to a world which is surely in need of it. Fortunately we, of the Anglo-Saxon stock, are in a position to enjoy it and to get the best out of it. We have been talking "depression" all through the year, but for a few days we have forgotten that there is such a thing and we have given ourselves over to make this Christmas a happy one for ourselves and others. Never in all history has the spirit of "giving" been so much in evidence as it has this season. There may not be so much money spent in the aggregate as in former years, but society has become so well organized with charitable bodies, social service bodies, service clubs and other agencies that the problem of "the empty stocking" will be solved and the money more evenly distributed. There will be no reason for any child being neglected in this section of the Christian world. If, unfortunately, there should be one or two overlooked, it will not be the fault of the agencies at work—they are doing everything possible to ascertain the addresses of any who would otherwise be without Christmas cheer, and we heartily commend their efforts. We sincerely wish you all a Very Happy Christmas.

BEST TIME TO ADVERTISE

"My son," ran an editorial in the Bridgeport (Conn.) Post—an editorial that should be reprinted by hundreds of newspapers, for the benefit of the local merchants—"there's nothing on earth so mysteriously funny as an advertisement. The prime, first, last and all the time object of an advertisement is to draw custom. It is not, was not, and never will be designed for any other human purpose. So the merchant waits till the busy season comes and his store is so full of custom that he can't get his hat off and then he rushes to his printer and goes in for advertising. "When the dull season gets along and there is no trade and he wants to sell goods so bad he can't pay his rent, he stops his advertising. That is, some of them do—but occasionally a level-headed merchant does more of it and scoops in all the business, while his neighbors are making mortgages to pay the gas bill. "There are times when you couldn't stop people from buying everything in the store if you planted a cannon behind the door, and that's the time the advertisement is sent out on its mission. It makes light work for the advertiser, for a chalk sign on the sidewalk could do all that was needed and have a half holiday for six days in the week, but who wants to favor an advertisement? They are built to do hard work, and should be sent out in the dull days when a customer has to be knocked down with hard facts and kicked into submission with bankrupt reductions and dragged in with irresistible slaughter of prices before he will spend a cent. "That's the aim and end of advertising my son, and if you ever open a store don't try to get them to come when they are already sticking out of the windows, but give them your advertisement right between the eyes in the dull season and you will wax rich and own a fat horse and perhaps be able to smoke a good cigar once or twice a year. "Write this down where you'll fall over it every day. The time to draw business is when you want business, and not when you have more business than you can attend to already."

Some people seem to derive a lot of satisfaction from being misunderstood.

CHRISTMAS CANDLES

symbolic of the Star Seen by Wise Men in the East.

The candle is the true symbol of Christmas. Its flickering taper shining on the sill of the city house or the country cottage sends out the message of "peace on earth" quite as much as the chains of Christmas bells. No Christmas tree is complete until the candles, whether of wax or of electric lights, have been fastened to its boughs.

A charming elderly lady gives each child in the neighborhood every year a "Twelfth Night" candle. This is a very large cathedral candle, which is to be lighted on Christmas eve and placed on the window sill set in a wreath of holly and so placed that its flame burns at the center of a Christmas wreath hanging in the window. It is then kept burning every evening until the eve of Twelfth Night, January 5th. The Twelfth Night eve, the unburned portion of the candle and all the Christmas greens are placed in the open fireplace and consumed, thus ending the Christmas season.

The significance of this pretty rite is as follows: The candle is symbolic of the star which the wise men saw in the East, and it is kept shining through the twelve days during which the wise men were following the star on their journey to the manger where the young Child lay. Children especially love this beautiful custom, having lighted candles to represent the Christmas star, and in some of the homes where the Twelfth Night candle is kept burning, each child carries the candle for an evening, all taking turns. The candle is lighted, the wreath lowered to encircle its flame, and when the candle goes to bed it is his duty to blow the candle out.

A SAFE HOLIDAY

Accidents May Easily Happen Unless Care Is Observed.

Here are some "Safety First" hints for Christmas and the days that follow:

Give your children all the toys they need and all you can afford but buy wisely. Be sure that tiny tots cannot swallow small articles that they can swallow or inhale. Look out for pins in cheap dolls.

Youngsters love Christmas trees but hundreds of fires take place every year because of carelessness, such as using candles; failure to place the tree on a level surface; use of crepe paper for decorating purposes. Non-inflammable snowflakes should take place of paper and crepe paper. Electric lights should be substituted for candles.

When trimming the tree, use a step-ladder, not a rocking chair or box. Wrapping paper and excelsior should be disposed of immediately. Dispose of the tree before the second day of January as when it has dried out, it is highly inflammable.

IRISH MOSS ON CARDS.

Available to Fortunate Ones Who Live Near the Sea.

Girls who live by the sea have many Christmas resources. Irish moss makes the best blane mainge and the moss of commerce is not to be compared to that which has been selected and carefully dried.

You may purchase cards in the shops, but why not add the unique touch by making your own, using the more delicate seaweeds?

As soon as taken from the sea, place the moss in a dish of water and arrange them on the card by slipping it under the water and literally floating the wet moss into position, then use the card between sets of clean blotting paper and dry under pressure. No paste is needed as the seaweeds contain a sticky substance.

Records at Ottawa headquarters show that 50,880 boys scouts have taken first aid training, and that 15,631 have qualified for the advanced first aid "Ambulance Man" badge. For a number of years the boys' training has proven the first step to medicine.

A CHRISTMAS PROGRAM suggestion For the School-room In Which Old Carols Are Sung and Scenes Acted.

A simple fireplace arrangement will make a pleasant and suitable background for the Christmas program herein suggested for the school-room. The selections to be read, or acted, group themselves naturally about the hearth. Children love to "dress up" and may do so, for the singing of the carols, as well as for the acting.

The Christmas carols suggested are old favorites. Others may be substituted or added where the teacher finds it advisable. The program will be briefly as follows:

1. Christmas Music. "It came upon the midnight clear."

2. Selections from "Snow-Bound by Whitier."

3. From "A Christmas Carol" by Dickens.

4. "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

5. Christmas Music. "Holy Night, Silent Night."

Costumes for the Christmas music can be similar to those used for the Dickens' sketch.

"Snow-Bound," a Winter Idyl by John Greenleaf Whittier, should be appropriately announced. Two small pages or heralds might do this, or one of the members of the cast might come before the curtain and give the title.

The poem is too long to be given in full. It would need to be cut. The boys would probably like the dramatic part, and the girls could take up the part starting with:

"Shut in from all the world without. We sat the clean-winged hearth about."

Different actions for the group are suggested in the lines:

"We sped the time with stories old. Wrought puzzles out, and riddles told."

Or stammered from our school book lore," etc.

The aunt and uncle could be given, but perhaps not in full, and the "master of the district school."

"Another guest could be omitted to advantage and the poem taken up at this point:

"At last the great logs crumbling low. Sent out a dull and duller glow."

And finish with the description of the Doctor.

If any slight changes are necessary for the stage, instrumental music could come next, before the outflow pages announce: "A Christmas Carol" by Charles Dickens.

One reader of the descriptive parts will be necessary and he can sit at the side of the stage in front of the curtain. For it would never do to omit.

Under the heading of the Dickens' sketch, Bob Cratchit's wife, dressed out in poor ribbons which are cheap and make a goodly show for six pence," etc.

The first action will be shown in pantomime, while the reader gives the first paragraph. Mrs. Cratchit's first line starts, "What has ever got your precious father, then?"

The dialogue continues in a lively manner until the reader takes up the tale with, "Bob's voice was tremulous as he told them this," and continues with the descriptive parts, the actors performing in pantomime.

The dialogue starts again with "A Merry Christmas to us all, my dears, God bless us!"

The parts of Scrooge and the Spirit seem necessary to the story and can be acted by two children or read by the reader. A last paragraph seems to close the pretty little episode nicely with "Scrooge had his eyes upon them and especially on 'Tiny Tim,' until the last."

The song suggested, "Holy Night, Silent Night," would be a happy finish as a sort of benediction, leaving a pleasant and yet reverent thought to carry away home.

ROSE PETAL CHAINS

Rarely Perfumed Necklaces Easily Made by Amateurs.

Why not utilize the rose petals for Christmas presents? Fill some porcelain jars with them and the spices will aid in capturing the rose fragrance and keeping it for years.

Wonderful chains can be made from them which are a continued delight. Put the leaves through the food chopper each day for seven days and stir between times.

Keep them in an old iron kettle which is somewhat rusty, as the action of the iron rust and some quality in the rose petals work together to make the finished product beautiful.

At the end of seven days, with the aid of a little water for moistening, the macerated petals may be carefully formed into any desired shape and size and placed in rows on pins to dry and harden, and also make the necessary openings for the string.

The rare scent of the rose garden always clings to them and they may be used to impart it to the dainty lingerie when not being worn.

BLESSING RIVER DANUBE.

Curious Custom Followed for Centuries in Rumania.

It has been the custom in Rumania from time immemorial to bless the Danube on Christmas day. A procession of priests and people dressed to represent Biblical characters moves through the streets singing chants and so to the bank of the river. The ice is broken, and a small wooden cross is thrown into the water. Any one who can recover this cross is regarded as extremely fortunate and sure of good luck for the year to come.

NATURE'S FABRIC.

Birch Bark Makes Unusual and Pretty Christmas Gifts.

The birch, when it gets too big for its clothes, cracks the bark a few layers at a time, and the wind pulls off long, thin streamers of exquisite tints of silvery white or dusky brown, from which boxes and baskets may be fashioned for Christmas which are out of the ordinary. Rustic looking place cards may be made for the friend who gives unique luncheons. The camper friends might find napkin rings made of it convenient.

Christmas and the Birds.

It is said that no peasant in Sweden will sit down with his children to Christmas dinner until he has provided food for the birds. The farmers erect poles in their dooryards to which sheafs of grain are bound, to provide for birds through the season when vegetation is covered with snow and ice.

Robin Hood Died Christmas Eve. That it was on Christmas Eve in the year 1247 that a certain dashing son of a noble house, one "Robin Hood," bid good-bye to his doughty comrade, "Little John," and breathed his last beneath the ancient oaks that witnessed their bold escapades.

Think It Over. A good conscience is a continuous Christmas.

YULETIDE CEREMONIES

Many of Our Customs Are Carried Over From the Dim Past, When Feasting Meant Something.

Our ancestors had numerous ceremonies pertaining to Christmas that are half forgotten to-day.

There was a pretty superstition connected with the tables. It was believed that sylvan sprites might flock to the branches and rays of day, and by frost until a milder season.

The popular expression, "sub rosa," meaning anything told in confidence, was derived from the old custom of guests wearing chaplets of holly, mistletoe, ivy and rosemary at the annual festivals where a rose generally was hung over the tables. The expression, "beneath the mistletoe" is said to have the same derivation.

And then we learn of the old superstition that once fell on the knees on Old Christmas, January 6. The belief was based on the medieval notion that the cattle in the stable witnessing the Nativity, fell upon their knees in supplication.

Those who know something of the times of Charles II. are familiar with the astonishing menu served guest by the noble hosts of that day. And those among the readers of the day's paper, who have seen the old "things" when the tables were set, should meditate on the following account of an almost unbelievable Christmas meal which, in January 1770:

"Monday last was brought from Howick to Berwick, to be shipped to London, for Sir Hen. Grey, Bart., a pile, the contents whereof are as follows, viz.: 2 bushels of flour, 20 rabbits, 4 wild ducks, 3 woodcocks, 6 snipes and 4 partridges; 2 neat's tongues, 2 curlews, 7 blackbirds, and 6 pigeons. The Christmas pie was made by Mrs. Dorothy Patterson, housekeeper at Howick. It is nearly 9 feet in circumference at the bottom, weighs about 12 stones, will take 2 men to present it at table; it is neatly fitted with a case and four small wheels to facilitate its use to every guest that inclines to partake of its contents at table."

For all these reasons the word "Christmas" is now come to be one of the noblest and most inspiring in the language. To the devout followers of the lowly Nazarene it is the occasion for the celebration of the giving of the coming of man's savior; to the non-Christian it is the time of rejoicing because it proves man's humanity to man. That is why it is the most widely observed of all the "red letter" days in the calendar.

AWAKES NOBLEST TRAITS

Yuletide Season a Joyous Tonic for Careworn World.

Come down the North, from the land of snow and ice, blow the horns and ring the bells. Spread the wings of Christmas. Christmas is needed everywhere. It takes the magic of Christmas time to change the drab and gloom to brighter colors and joy. Christmas is a fine old tonic. It rejuvenates the earth and brings the pleasures of youth to the wrinkled. It brings relief of health and peace; of hope and cheer to a weary hard-working world. It brings new inspiration and adds zest to life. It brings the grace of happiness, alike to the hovels of the poor and the mansions of the rich. It weaves evergreens into garlands of eternal hope and hangs them in the homes of men. It comes with simple pleasures for dreary lives and hangs a blazing star above the caverns of despair.

There is no charm like Christmas to drive out greed and selfishness, to soften hate and temper malice. It rebukes the lawless spirit. It brings to life and action the noblest traits of men. Christmas is the last and richest grace given to the living year.

THREE YULETIDES EACH YEAR.

Three Denominations Observe Great Festival on Different Days.

There is one place where Christmas is kept three times a year—in the Church of St. Nicholas, in the reputed site of the Stable of the Inn.

The Roman, Greek and Armenian Greek bodies have each the respective section of the church, but their Christmas celebrations do not occur on the same day.

The Latin Christmas is celebrated at the Roman Catholic altar on December 25.

Twelve days later the Orthodox Easterns perform the Greek rite. Another 13 days later the Armenian church keeps its own ceremonial of Byzantine faith.

"AS LITTLE CHILDREN."

Its persistent power, Christmas, its persistence as a world-wide festival, lies in the fact that it quickens in all of us the sense of human kinship. It gets beneath the surface cynicism and releases those inner impulses which we all possess. For a day we become again "as little children" and the child in our midst is the symbol of the joy which we seek. A Merry Christmas then—merry because it brings to us this vision of love ruling in the hearts of men, and renewed hope that the dream of a day may yet become the perpetual reality.

CHRISTMAS GAMES.

Pleasant Hours May Be Spent at Unusual Games.

Christmas is always a time of merriment and the hostess who can provide a series of mirth-provoking games is assured of success. An amusing way to manage an evening's entertainment is to appoint some gentle man a Lord of Misrule, after the early English fashion, giving him the sceptre for the evening, with power to name the games, forfeits and rewards.

Pitching snowballs through a holly or fir wreath can provide a lot of fun. The balls of cotton wool are allotted certain values, 1, 5, 10, etc. The guests are divided into teams, each guest taking a turn at throwing the balls through the wreath. The number on each ball which goes through is added to that team's score.

Those who are not part in the obstacle race must leave the room, to be brought back just one at a time. A course is prepared, ornaments, books, etc., being placed here and there along the way. The player is told that he must avoid all the articles, and the penalty, when he is blindfolded the obstacles are quietly removed, but his elaborate efforts to avoid the obstacles which do not exist are always amusing for the on-lookers and to the player when the fold is removed from his eyes. Ask each guest to bring to the party a photograph taken in early childhood or infancy. When you have collected them all, arrange them in a row on the wall and have the guests guess as to the identity of the one. A prize may be given for the one who makes the most correct guesses.

ETERNAL FOE OF CRUELTY.

Much as Christmas has meant to humanity, it has meant less to those lowlier fellow creatures who share with men life's joys and sorrows. Whatever the burden of suffering that rests upon the animal world today, it is less by many folds than it was before that night when a little child was born in the stable of a Bethlehem inn. The spirit of Carols is the eternal foe of cruelty. No man who yields to its sway can look with other than kindly eyes upon the least of those living things that have capacity for pain.

DELIVERING TOYS IN SPAIN.

In Spain, as in most of the Spanish-American countries, the legend of Santa Claus gives place to the tradition of the Magi. At some time between the night of January 5 and dawn of January 6 the Three Wise Men of the East initiate Santa by risking the soot of chimneys in order to deliver toys to good children.

Christmas Candles.

Burning of candles in the window the night before Christmas is one of the features of the Swedish celebration of the festival. The candles, lighted on Christmas eve, are supposed to last till 6 a.m. the next day, the traditional hour of the Swedish Christmas mass.

Girl Still Like Dolls.

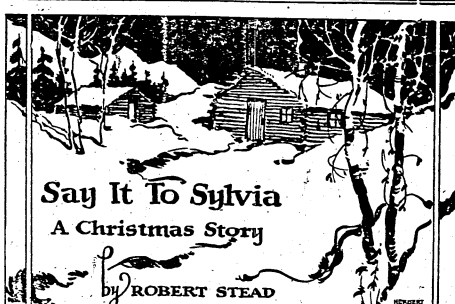

In spite of all the advanced ideas of the rising generation, the average small girl still likes a doll as well as she likes any other Christmas present.

Say It To Sylvia A Christmas Story

by ROBERT STEAD

DAVE HOLDEN chose his homestead high up the foot-hill valley not only for the shelter of surrounding hills and proximity to groves of spruce and lodgepole pine. He had another reason for retreating so far from civilization. That reason was Sylvia Palmer.

Dave and Sylvia had been pals together down the plains where both were born. They had attended the same school, the same picnics, dances, country concerts. Many a starry night, with Sylvia at his side, Dave had driven the prairie trails, none too eager to reach their destination. And Sylvia, too, seemed quite content to dally on the way.

It was true there never had been any formal engagement between them, but it hardly seemed necessary. They had "gone together" so long that some time, Dave supposed, when he was in a position to offer her a home, he would tell her so, and Sylvia would say, "All right, Dave. Whenever you are ready." Then she would turn her tempting mouth to him, and he would kiss her tenderly and a little differently, now that was a solid to his bride.

But Dave had not counted on a woman's will—and what comes of it. At eighteen Sylvia, having secured her teacher's certificate, applied for and was accepted by a town school some distance from her home. She was all enthusiasm and excitement over her plunge into the great, self-supporting world.

Dave may have shared her excitement, but not her enthusiasm. He told her so.

"Why, Dave Holden, I'm surprised at you!" Sylvia retorted. "I thought you would be glad to see me get a chance."

"Of course, I want you to have your chance," he explained, "but I'm figuring on fixing a chance for you, too. Did I say you were a man's wages now. In another year or two I'll be all set to take up land of my own, and then—"

"She was waiting for him to put something definite into words, but a certain shyness held him back. Anyway, she knew what he meant. She gave his disengaged hand a girlish squeeze.

"That will be fine," she said. "You will make a good farmer, Dave."

"Maybe," he admitted. "And maybe by that time you'll have taken up one of those town shekels, and I won't care then whether I go farming, or not."

"Don't you worry over that. I'm not planning on taking up with any town shekel—not with a big boy like Dave Holden running around loose."

But Dave worried, just the same, and by the second term he knew he had occasion for it. Sylvia's talk had turned from crops and country picnics and all things of the land to sport and tennis and particularly one Jack Fulton. "That will be fine," she said. "You will make a good farmer, Dave."

"Maybe," he admitted. "And maybe by that time you'll have taken up one of those town shekels, and I won't care then whether I go farming, or not."

"Maybe," he admitted. "And maybe by that time you'll have taken up one of those town shekels, and I won't care then whether I go farming, or not."

"Don't you worry over that. I'm not planning on taking up with any town shekel—not with a big boy like Dave Holden running around loose."

But Dave worried, just the same, and by the second term he knew he had occasion for it. Sylvia's talk had turned from crops and country picnics and all things of the land to sport and tennis and particularly one Jack Fulton. "That will be fine," she said. "You will make a good farmer, Dave."

hurt his pride more than anything he had thought possible. He felt that he had suddenly lost all faith in human nature, and that life among his old associates would be intolerable. So he drew his wages, entered up his equipment, and trekked into the foot-hill country to the very farthest homestead on the map.

He found a place by a mountain stream, cut down spruce logs, and built himself a cabin. When winter set in he began cutting posts and rails for fencing on his farm. To keep from thinking he worked feverishly, early and late. But thoughts would come. In spite of all he could do to atop them. Particularly as the Christmas season drew near his mind would come to the old farm down on the plains.

What ample preparations would be going on! What mother's kitchen! What stacks of food! What happy chatter, storked a bit perhaps because of the boy who had left home in a huff and never had written back! And Sylvia! Sylvia would be home now for the Christmas vacation. Perhaps this Fulton fellow would be visiting with her.

Dave turned with a shrug and shoved more wood into his rusty stove.

"I am Jack Fulton," he said. "Perhaps you have heard of me?"

After all, he told himself, he was not so badly off. He had a cabin and plenty of fuel. He had a dog, and a gun, a team of horses, half a dozen yearling calves.

He was making a knock, something which never before had happened on his cabin door. For an instant Dave hesitated, then swung the door open. The light fell on the figure of a young man.

"Are you Dave Holden?" the stranger inquired.

"Yes. Come in."

The stranger entered. Dave made him comfortable and gave him supper, waiting to hear his mission.

When they were seated on either side of the hot stove the stranger began. "I am Jack Fulton," he said. "Perhaps you have heard of me?"

Dave's voice seemed to freeze. "What brings you here?" he demanded. "Can't you leave me alone?"

Fulton kept his temper. "No, not under the circumstances. Let me tell you—I will be brief. I am the principal of the school where Miss Palmer teaches. All through the term I have seen she was worried. At last I asked her why. Naturally she was diffident at first, but finally told me. She was wearing her heart out for you."

Dave faced him. "Is this true, and why do you tell me I thought—"

"Because I am to be married to a little girl of my own at Easter, and I think I know how both of you can keep the farm," said Dave, who was already climbing into his heavy overcoat.

"Say it to Sylvia! I'll give you six days to get back. And bring her with you, or I'll charge you for my time."

"I'll bring her with me, and you can keep the farm," said Dave, who was already climbing into his heavy overcoat.

CHRISTMAS ALL THROUGH 1932

Wouldn't life be worth the living And the whole world seem like new

If we'd keep the Christmas spirit All the whole year through?

There'd be fewer then of heartaches. Fewer still of blinding tears; There'd be less misunderstanding Down the Road of After Years.

Why should Christmas, smiles be brighter Than they are at other times? Why should you be more forgiving To the tune of Christmas carols? Why put all your deeds of kindness On an unshared Christmas tree— Do you give for love of giving. Or just so the world will see?

You have smiles that cost you nothing. Pass them out along the street— You have words of praise—encourage— Have they all grown obsolete? Life is brighter, work is lighter. Friends seem at your beck and call When you make believe it's Christmas— All the summer, spring and fall.

So remember while December Brings the only Christmas Day. All the year let there be a Christmas.

In the things you do and say: Wouldn't life be worth the living. Wouldn't dreams be coming true. If we'd keep the Christmas spirit All the whole year through?

Count Paul Tokeli, a former Prime Minister of Hungary, and Hungarian Honorary Chief Scout, has been appointed Camp Chief of the World Scout Jamboree to be held in Hungary in 1933.

"Say, Bill, you should pull down your blinds when you kiss your wife. I saw you last night."

"The joke's on you, Joe. I wasn't at home last night."

Rescued Man: "You have saved my life and I would gladly give you a shilling but I have only a two-shilling piece."

Rescuer: "Never mind. Jump in again."

Junior Club News

The Princesdale Red Cross Juniors will have to elect a new secretary as their last one, Karl Dondale, has moved to another part of the province. The president, Dorothy Fish, reports that at a recent meeting they had some visitors from King's County who congratulated them on their business like methods and good programme. The lower grades have finished a paper cutting and mounting project which is an Indian scene. The club members are grateful to some folks in the community for some books which were loaned to the school library.

Club Songs

Have you a club song? If not, why not choose one now? It would be a good idea to make up an original one for your own school. We would be glad to print one or two of the best ones submitted to us for the Club News.

DEDICATION OF NEW HYMNALS

Last Sunday morning in the United Baptist Church the new Baptist Hymnals were dedicated. While the organist played softly, "Sing Them Over Again to Me, Wonderful Words of Life," the ushers came to the front and stood with a number of the new books in their hands. The following dedication service was then read responsively by the pastor and congregation:

Pastor, "That we may more joyfully worship and praise our God."

Response, "We dedicate these new Books of Praise."

Pastor, "That God's word may become a song in our lives."

Response, "We dedicate these new Books of Praise."

Pastor, "That the ministry of music may be carried to the faint-hearted and sorrowing."

Response, "We dedicate these new Books of Praise."

Pastor, "That our tongues may sing the sweet story of Jesus."

Response, "We dedicate these new Books of Praise."

Pastor, "That the gladness of singing voices may fill the house of God."

Response, "We dedicate these new Books of Praise."

Pastor, "That Jesus Christ shall be praised."

Response, "We dedicate these new Books of Praise."

Pastor, "That Boys and Girls may learn to sing the songs of their Fathers."

Response, "We dedicate these new Books of Praise."

Pastor, "That we may all learn a new song."

Response, "We dedicate these new Books of Praise."

Pastor, "That we may heed the words of scripture that say, 'Sing together.'"

Response, "We dedicate these new Books of Praise."

Pastor, "That our prayers may arise with song."

Response, "We dedicate these new Books of Praise."

Pastor, "That we may know the fellowship and inspiration of gospel singing."

Response, "We dedicate these new Books of Praise."

All, "In the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit we dedicate these new books of Praise. Organist plays softly 'Wonderful Words of Life' while ushers are distributing books."

Following the responsive reading the ushers distributed the new books of Praise to the congregation and the books were then used in the service of worship which followed.

The new books are the regular Baptist Hymnals in a very attractive binding of cloth and leather. The edition contains both words and music and fills a long felt need of the congregation. Previous to the dedication service the pastor accepted on behalf of the church a beautiful pulpit edition of the new hymnal. On the cover of the following is printed in gold, "Baptist Hymnal with responsive Readings, Bear River United Baptist Church. In Memory of Stephen Chipman Harris." And on the memorial page inside the front cover, printed in gold on black background is the following loving tribute:

"STEPHEN CHIPMAN HARRIS 1845-1931"

For many years a devoted member and faithful worker in this Church. Presented in loving memory by his wife.

Margaret Ann Harris Jesus, Thou Prince of Life, Thy chosen cannot die; Like Thee, they conquer in the strife To reign with Thee on high."

Father: "Dear me the baby swallowed a piece of worsted."

Mother: "That's nothing to the yarns she'll have to swallow if she lives to grow up."

MANY RIVALS OF HOLLY

Australia Has None of the Real Plant But Plenty of Substitutes Abound.

Even in England they have at least a dozen different varieties of holly, and the world at large has no fewer than 145 species of this tree. Australia is the only inhabited continent which has no holly—no true holly, that is to say. Yet Australia has a substitute—a shrubby evergreen called "native holly," which grows in Victoria and New South Wales. It is not an holly, but its leaves are holly-like, and it is used very extensively for Christmas decorations.

Ivy is another plant which does not flourish in Australia as it does in England, though in the hills you find a kind of ivy with odd, winged, shared leaves. But the housewifery her Yuletide show has no true holly or ivy to hang on the walls.

Yet there is no lack of greenstuff for Christmas decoration in the Australian Commonwealth. The favorite plant is the she-oak, the tops of which are useful for feeding cattle in times of drought. There is also "celebratory" with its big, handsome leaves and such as the gum tree and the gum tree. Acacia is also popular.

New Zealand has a very true holly, a real tree with a good stiff trunk of its own, stout branches, and large evergreen leaves. If you want its botanical name, this is Pana Colensoi, and it is found in both the North and South Islands.

A favorite plant for Christmas decorations in Australia is the Macquarie Harbor Vine, which is a native of Tasmania, but is grown in Australia and New Zealand. It has a sweet, nut-like fruit, with a delicate acid flavor, which is used for making long, graceful branches made beautiful and distinctive decorations.

DOUBT AS TO DATE

December Twenty-Fifth Probably Not Christ's Birthday.

It is not definitely known when Christ was first celebrated. The institution of the festival is attributed to the reign of Antoninus Pius (137-161 A.D.). This, however, is not historical.

It has often been objected that December 25th cannot be the true date of the birth of Christ, for it is then the rainy season in Palestine and shepherds could scarcely have been watching their sheep by night in the fields. The reason for the final choice of December 25th cannot now be determined, but the feast of the Great Mother may have influenced the decision, as the date to place a Christian feast in opposition to the winter solstice of "Sol Invictus" at the winter solstice.

The Germans hold their great Yule feast in which the return of the sun is celebrated. The feast is very old, and many of the beliefs and usages of the old Germans and Romans relating to this matter have been preserved in Christian times. The feast of the days begin to lengthen, and light to triumph over darkness, was changed into the Feast of Christ, the Light of Life.

SANTA IS UP-TO-DATE

Some Day May Use Radio Energy to Distribute His Gifts.

Santa Claus is a decidedly progressive old chap. He keeps strictly abreast of the times and in his work employs only modern-day methods. Once he went plodding over the fields in a sleigh so fast that the reindeer could follow. It took him a long time but he managed to make the rounds.

Then came the automobile. Santa got a big red one and hitched trailers on behind. He could get around faster. He carried his big bags, got to more homes and made more children happy. When airplanes flew over the North Pole Santa got another idea. He believed that planes would be better for his long trips and for skipping from house-top to house-top. He had hardly built his air pilot, but nobody flies faster nor farther than plump, old Santa.

He does not fancy zeppelins, but he is sure that in another year or two he may be able to broadcast Christmas to the children by radio. As soon as children are invented to fly through the air, directed and landed by radio energy, old Santa will sit on his mountain of up-to-date Christmas to all the world.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Merry Christmas to each one. From early morn 'til set of sun, Merry Christmas to you all. Whether you are big or small. Whether you are young or old. Greetings to you often told. He believed that planes would be better for his long trips and for skipping from house-top to house-top. He had hardly built his air pilot, but nobody flies faster nor farther than plump, old Santa.

With presents and a lot of cheer And a following happy year.

Merry Christmas to each one. From early morn 'til set of sun, Merry Christmas to you all. Whether you are big or small. Merry Graham Bonner.

A fall of snow on Christmas Day is regarded as the sign of a lucky new year.

Yorke's Dancers entertained at bridge on Friday evening.

han, acted as critics.
Over $100 was distributed to members of the local clubs as prizes for the different competitions and essays and also for Much credit is given Agricul-splendid efforts and service he renders in his district towards progress has been noticed since

Mr. LeBlanc was assigned there.
Mr. and Mrs. LeBlanc will leave shortly for an in-

ARNOLD REEVES NAMED HARTFORD THEATRE GUILD DIRECTOR

Arnold Reeves, professional actor, director and playwright for more than 30 years, has been named as production director of the Civic Theatre Guild of Hartford, Conn., according to an announcement by Carleton
L. Royal, general director.
Many applications were received from professional directors in Connecticut and New York and it was only after several interviews that the executive committee of the Civic Theatre decided to accept Mr.
Reeves's application.

Mr. Reeves is now a resident of Unionville and retired from active work in the theatre. For several years he was a leading man in stock companies in Boston, Philadelphia, New York and Pittsburgh. Then he turned to the writing of plays and vaudeville sketches and in the intervening years he has written more than 60 stage successes. His most famous work was "The Shepherd King" and
"The Gypsy Brother." He also staged and acted in many New York productions of note and his reputation as an actor of ability is second only to his standing as a dramatist. For several years he was associated with one of the best stage directors of his day, the late Henry M. Pitt.

("Arnold Reeves" is the stage name of Aubrey Ruggles, who was born in Cambridge, Mass.
His grandfather was Benjamin
Henry Ruggles, of Westport, and he is a first cousin of B. H.
Ruggles, of Digby, and Miss
Mabel Ruggles, of Barton.

A Christmas Spirit
by Clara Agge
Nays

THE big bus came to a stop with a jolt which hurled its tired passengers against the seats ahead. The powerful engine whined to silence.
For a long moment nothing was said. Twenty people stared at the back of the driver. Twenty pairs of ears heard the wild rush of wind outside in noise which up to this time had been drowned by the motor speeding through the night.

The driver was young. He had wide shoulders and a fresh color in his cheeks. He was used to these things cross gambled on; he knew how to handle people and he understood the temperament of a bus as a mother understands her child.

He turned about in his seat to face the silent people. "Sorry, folks, we're out of luck." A faint shadow seemed to rest on his face. "We're hung up
... a hundred miles from nowhere."
A rustle of amazement passed through the listening passengers.

Out of a dim, rear seat came a man talking in a loud, irritated voice.
"You mean to tell me this blasted bus won't move another foot tonight? That we must stay here the Lord-knows-how-long? On Christmas eve and the folks home waiting for us? A fine, fat driver you are!"

The young man was unperturbed and ready. "No use telling you I can't help it. They gave me a bum bus, an old one, because of the holiday travel.
They gambled on my getting through ... and lost."

"Ain't you even going to get out to look at it?" demanded the man unpleasantly.

"No, boss, I ain't. I know this bus like an old friend. It's plumb give out and I told them so." He looked the protestor straight in the eye. "What's more, we're the last one through tonight. Laugh that off."

Out of a dim, rear seat rose a girl.
Her bus was light. It seemed to ripple into curls as you looked at it. Her face was pale with weariness, but she smiled. "What say, fellows, we buck up and have a party of our own?
He can't help things, she nodded towards the driver. "He's done all the work and had the worry and now all he gets handed to him is a bunch of growls. Come on, folks! We're safe and warm, nothing can hurt us. We'll get help in the morning."

She smiled at the big man who was biting his mustache. She laughed in the face of an old lady who was furtively wiping her eyes with the corner of a handkerchief. She grinned at a boy of fourteen.

The bus driver showed a fine set of white teeth. "Some grand little sport," he whispered to himself. Then aloud,
"I got to warn you folks of something else, too. Nothing serious but kind of

"I have a flashlight," said the girl.
"Who's Got Another?"

distressing. The lights are liable to go on any minute. I got a trouble light with me, but that's all."

"I have a flashlight," said the girl.
"Who's Got Another?"

It tumbled out that five passengers had flashlights. "Then them out and we'll have a party, anyhow," called the girl.

The bus grew a little chilly but the girl would not allow them to think of that. "Now each of you must choose a present from your own, to give some one else here tonight. The folks at home would be glad to sacrifice one gift for the sake of giving us some fun."

Well, make him," she smiled at the driver, "the Santa Claus and if any of you have-outs ... I say, have a heart and pass 'em around."

She went quickly from orb to orb and the old lady's wrinkles crinkled other. The old lady's wrinkles crinkled up in laughter as she fumbled in her bag for a package.

The fourteen-year-old boy came out of his group and offered to do anything from singing a song to pushing the bus—a suggestion which was greeted by a roar of laughter from the driver.

"We ought to have a tree," mused the girl aloud. "We can't do a thing without a tree."

"Hey, I got an idea," called a voice.

A man shot out of a seat and shook himself into a fur coat. "Open the door, driver ... I'll be back in a couple of minutes." A blast of cold air, and the man slipped out. He came back presently with a small ragged bush,
"found it here by the roadside. Gee!
... some little blizzard going on!"
He shed his coat. He asked for string. Bundles were untied and the cord offered. By tying several lengths about the center of the bush, and then stretching them taut to various seat-braces the bush was made securely upright in the aisle.

"Now for trimmings. Who's got trimmings?"
The cross man was busy with a bundle. He was a trifle reluctant, still he continued to unwrap papers. Soon a glittering angel, with tinsel wings was in the hands of the tree trimmer.
Gently, almost reverently the angel

"I Knew When I Set Eyes On You
... Ye Belonged to Me."

was fastened to the top. The disagreeable man beamed.

"Anyone got any white tissue paper?" asked the girl.

More gifts were untied and their wrappers volunteered. With nimble fingers the girl folded long strips of red and white together into a sort of accordion effect.

"What's your name, driver?" suddenly demanded the girl.

"Michael O'Hara."
She glowed with pleasure. "And mine is Katy Connelly ... the top of the event to ye!"

Then the fun began. Michael was possessed of an irresistible humor.
He sent the old lady into stitches by presenting her with a package of cigarettes. He completely darned the cross man by giving him an artificial nose, having with so much ceremony that his hair almost touched the floor.

The fourteen-year-old boy was delighted with a candy cane and began to demolish it at once. There was a gift for everyone. The bus rocked with laughter. It was "Katy" this time and "Mike" that. The driver thought of everyone but himself.

The girl had a moment of acute distress. There was nothing for Mike.
Swiftly she thrust her hand into her bag and brought out a small box.
With this she went close to Michael.
"Here's a present for you, bozo," she said lightly.

"Go away wild ye!" remonstrated the man in surprise.

"No, please, I mean it." Something in the blue of her eyes decided him.
He opened the box. Out of it came a silver cigarette lighter.

"Gosh ... what a swell present!
But you mustn't ..."

"If you don't take it I'll never speak to you again!" declared the girl.

Amusement and tenderness mingled in his thanks.

The fun went on. Twelve o'clock
... one ... two. The old lady dropped off to sleep. The bus grew quiet. The girl curled up in a rear seat. The driver stared out into the storm. Once he drew out the lighter and held it against his lips. "The darned little darlin'," he murmured.

On Christmas morning they were transferred to another bus. At the city terminal the passengers parted from one another with the warmest greetings. But Michael O'Hara and Katy Connelly did not part. They went on to Michael's home, and when his mother saw the girl, and her laughter, and her blushes, she just opened her arms.

"I knew the bye would be findin' his lady suddint. It's the O'Hara way."

She did not even inquire about the bus. Her son was home. It was Christmas ... on with the turkey and pumpkin pies!

"But the cigarette lighter, darlin' ...
Michael asked, 'how did ye ...'
"Oh, I just bought it ... liking the look. And I knew the moment I set eyes on you that it belonged to you."

"And," said Michael with a big grin, "I knew when I set eyes on you ye belonged to me."

"Heaven!" said Michael's mother, plumping the turkey on the table.
