Welcome to the Digital DIGBY COURIER

1877-1978

100th Birthday

The hundredth anniversary of the Digby Weekly Courier has brought to mind some fond memories as contained in the following historical chapter of the writer. But first, I wish to congratulate the current editor of the Courier, Mrs. J.M. (Edith) Wallis, for a job well done over the years and still being well done, good service rendered with great fortitude.

According to any record, I have at hand, the Digby Courier, in one hundred years of publication, was controlled under the same family management for 42 years, 1931 to 1973, under the control of Wallis Print Limited. The late J.J. Wallis became editor of The Courier the second time, in 1929, and at the same time of the business, which he had been running for some time previously and which became Wallis Print Limited sometime between 1929 and 1931.

I well remember the last year of the twenties when I worked in the office of the son with the husband and father of the late J.J. Wallis, the Courier. Sometime in 1928 or early 1929, the late J.M. Wallis (Mac), son of "J.J." engaged me to work every day after school hours, Saturdays, and for some months after finishing school. The place of work was in the building of the present Digby town hall on First Avenue. J.J. Wallis then worked occasionally at the print shop but mostly across the street at the Courier office which was then located on land in the general area where The Royal Bank of Canada is now.

Wallis Job Print operated in 1929 with a staff of four consisting of J.J. Wallis, J.M. Wallis, Miss Eva Haynes, who later became Mrs. George Kicup, and myself. I was engaged as a printer in the left Eva's job was to run the printing plant but mostly at the Courier office. "Mac" worked nearly full time at all the different jobs at the Job Print, and I worked at various duties, most of the time being spent at operating printing presses.

We worked ten-hour days, six days a week. "J.J." and "Mac" sometimes worked overtime. I worked only the regular hours being paid a weekly wage which was comparatively good for those times and my lack of experience. I received four or five dollars a week for working after school hours to six o'clock and on Saturday all day, and nine dollars a week for full weeks after finishing school. A two or three dollar a week raise was offered to me in the fall of 1929 for me to stay on at printing, but I had made up my mind to enter a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, starting salary of $300. The bank salary figured out about the same per hour as for the printing job. Nevertheless, the congenial atmosphere of the printing plant those days, and, experience however short, were helpful and appreciated by me.

"J.J." was very jovial in his occasional trip to the Job Print and did considerable kidding all in good fun. "Mac" was a witty person who mixed in a good natured sarcasm now and then for one reason or another. Eva most always had good answers to all the kidding she was called upon to take, and, generally held her own in a quiet sort of way, always busy setting type. We four all got along very well indeed. However, I do remember that some days did seem long and weary because of the monotony of some repetitious jobs.

In spite of the great demand for printing those last boom days of the twenties, business generally being brisk, it looked to me that people had to work long and hard to make any decent profit. There was including treatment of the hands. However, nails and finger ends were used and I was soon back to work.

Now and then a printing job had a dose on parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad those days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would do that job on the largest press, in spite of the fact that we always opened an outside door to lessen the effects on the constitution.

One of the jobs I had to do, being the junior and printers' devil on the staff, was to clean out and then, one day not long after I started my job at the printing plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily, he thought the remark pretty good and suitable.

Sometimes the gasoline engine or a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and after "Mac" the fix-it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results, "Mac" would then stand back and cuss quite strenuously, then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of cussing."

On other occasions when some gadget refused duty for me and, seemed to be broken, "Mac" would say, "use a little oil," and sure enough, often that is all it took. How often since, have I thought of the value of that remark and the actual need of "oil" in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and, in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1929 got together just before dark one evening and decided to initiate the newly built outdoor Pines Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just east of the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys; no thought or time for bathing suits up to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in, the rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korean), was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent druggist for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale lobster king merchant; and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me "how about writing your version of the story told about 'The Marooning of Jerome'." I had heard and read at least two somewhat different stories about the man who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Digby County. When found this man's tongue had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and possibly of some considerable wealth. However the only thing the man could or would ever say after being found and cared for by some family in the French shore was, something that sounded like the word "Jerome". He either could not, or, would not, write anything about who he was or why he was left the way he was. Well, it was, and is, one of Digby County's mystery stories, and, different ideas have been expressed over the years concerning this man. However my response to "Mac" was, I felt no urge to write anything more or different about this man. The mystery seemed to have been very well explored in the mind of many people, and, he was a sort of curiosity for many people who visited where he lived for many years.

Three years later I was quite a bit older and was working in the street that I loved back and forth, led a boat clanking noise, powered by a small engine, and I remember it as "Jerome", and as I remember it as "Jerome". "J.J." was noted for his sense of humor and his ability to make people laugh. In 1928 during the time Mr. Wallis was editor of the Scott Act (Prohibition Law) he was about and advocated by some people, and attached a boys' conference to the event.

Digby 172 Years Ago

Compiled by David Sanford

From the files of the Courier of January 23, 1867, the following account has been copied concerning Digby in 1800.

"Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us by friends is a copy of the Saint John Gazette of May, 1802, says the Telegraph and among other advertisements contained in the issue before us is one describing the town and township of Digby, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this area we are told the township of Digby extends from the Gulf of Annapolis westward to the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 130,000 acres." The town plot is thus described:

"The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1783, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to older countries, left the whole side to be bought proved by about who now reside detached, built dwellings with orchards, and some fishery and. It has communal parts of the communal provisions in a cheap, built readily to be from many circumstances, probability of place of some shipbuilding, the West India a cheap and of residence.

This advertisement, dated at Digby, December, 1800, were to be a No. 100.

free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of which was some Digby's daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Melvin O. Tibert, Freeport, Digby Co.) Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters; I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print". I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like: embossing, stapling, perforating, counting, cutting and trimming paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, but, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "pi", the printers name for a confused mess.

There was a taste of trying to sell job printing outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls around town, spent most of the time at one particular house, and got an order, but, it was much time and got an order, but,

Years and experiments with. The last time I saw of personal interest, after one day when he sent and talked with him was, after one day when he had a week he wanted me to visit him at his home. He had recently returned from the Novatoch after a long absence. I made the visit and brought back some interesting information.

VOLUME LXI, NO. 3

BIG GAME SEASON AT HAND

The big game season is not far away. Local sportsmen are prepared to go into the woods and housewives are looking up tempting recipes for moose and venison steaks. Editors' mouths are watering—they are figuring on getting a taste of the "first fruits of the season."

Reports from all parts of the county indicate that game will be plentiful. Deer especially are quite common—many of them seem almost "too plentiful" for their own good when the season opens. In many of the rural districts they have played havoc with garden crops, and apparently they are especially fond of turnip and beet tops, with an occasional cabbage for dessert.

On Monday morning four deer were reported grazing in a field on the Digby Neck road less than a mile from the town limits. Throughout the season many have been seen in this and other sections very near the town. Moose, too, are often reported by motorists and others. Through out the whole summer very few bear have been seen.

LITTLE GIRL HURT

Agnes Miller, little 7-year-old colored girl, was injured on Tuesday morning while returning home from the Joggins school, when struck by a car driven by Mr. Goudy, travelling for Edward Allen, Limited, of Yarmouth. The accident occurred in front of Vernon Rice's store.

The little girl, with several companions, was walking along the road and it is alleged that one of the children threatened to push her in front of a car if she did not give him a piece of candy. The Goudy car was coming to a stop at the Rice store.

Outside of the loss of a tooth and a few cuts and bruises, the child was not seriously hurt. She was taken into the Rice home from where a call was sent to Dr. MacCleave, who treated her.

Contests in Two Municipal Wards

As the result of last Tuesday's nomination day proceedings there will be contests in two of the wards of Digby Municipality, namely, Weymouth, where Kenneth Smith, will oppose the present councillor, E. F. Hankinson, and at Weymouth North, where Coun. H. B. Fitzgerald is being opposed by Amos Hill.

The councillors for the other ten polling districts were elected by acclamation. The warden, J. Vran Andrews will again represent the Plympton district. New members of the council will include D. B. Kenney, Westport; Guy D. Dunn, Culloden, and Samuel E. Woodman, Marshall's Town. These three will succeed Councillors E. B. Pugh, James F. Hillman and H. H. Marshall.

No changes were made in the other districts, which will be represented as follows:

Sandy Cove—Henry W. Cosaboom
Tiverton—D. C. Outhouse
Freeport—Frank Lent
Bear River (Hillsburgh)—Harvey Chisholm
Rossway—Clarence Cornwall
Smith's Cove—William C. Woodman.

The elections will be held on Tuesday, the 16th.

FISHERMEN HAD FINE WEATHER

Digby County fishermen enjoyed a good month in September. Fish were not so plentiful as they have been at other times this year, but prices have been somewhat higher, and for the first time in years they have enjoyed a whole month of good weather without a day when they were forced to remain ashore on account of wind.

For as far back as the Digby Neck wharf can remember there was not even a "line gale" this September. The situation of the fishermen of this county has shown a decided improvement this year; nevertheless it is going to take them some time before they are able to catch up with the poor seasons of the "depression years". On the whole fish have been quite plentiful and prices have been fair. The new fish meal plant at Digby, put into operation a few weeks ago by the Maritime Fish Corporation, has been a big help.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Burbidge, of Canning, and Walter Woodburn, were visitors to Digby last week. While in town they were guests of Rev. and Mrs. Hodgson, at the Manse, Prince William Street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Sallows have returned from a trip through the United States.

In less than four days this vessel loaded at Plympton, sailed and arrived at her destination, discharged, returned to Plympton, and was off with another cargo.

The Grace Lee, Capt. R. E. Welch, arrived at Freeport with salt from Yarmouth a few days ago, and cleared with a cargo of dry pollock for Wilson's Beach. Other arrivals at Freeport and Westport were the Lucille B. from Beaver Harbor; the Banquet, Capt. Outhouse, from Liverpool; the Alva J. Kennedy, Capt. G. L. Hillman, from the Harbor; the Alvin, from Clarke's Harbor.

DECORATED GRAVES OF DEPARTED SOLDIERS

In spite of Sunday's heavy rain some twenty members of the Digby Branch of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League visited the graves of their departed comrades and decorated them. Wreaths and bouquets were also placed on the monuments of Pte. William Hayden, Leland Young, Ede. son Handsaker and Archer Turnbull, whose bodies lie in Flanders Field, but in whose memory monuments have been erected in Digby. At the Baptist cemetery a cross was set at the head of the grave of Mrs. Julia Calder and the grave decorated; the caretaker was also instructed to repair the grave. The grave of Nurse Welch, at Smith's Cove, was also decorated and wreaths and flowers placed about the Soldiers' Monument in Digby.

The graves decorated were those of Privates Ernest Lettewy, Haylett Stark and Fred Lambert, in Fairview (United) cemetery; Private Ernest Burnham, in Forest Hill (Anglican) cemetery; Privates George Condon, Cyril Mulse and James Purdy, in the Roman Catholic cemetery; and Privates James Robinson, William Robinson, Chester Woodman, Nelson Hunt, Harold Cossitt, J. BAND NOTES

The biggest event near at hand is the Digby Band dance, at Dunn's Hall, on the evening of Thanksgiving Day (next Monday). The floor of this hall is exceptionally fine, being built for dancing, and will be in perfect condition. The restaurant on the first floor will be open for the pleasure of those whose appetites or thirst need gratification. J. W. Christie and Frank Hayden will manage the dance, and no trouble will be spared in their efforts to give everybody a jolly good time.

The Band gets the hall free of charge, through the kindness of Mr. Dunn. The total receipts go to the band treasury—advertising is the only expense. Those who buy a ticket, whether they attend the dance or not, will be making a direct contribution to the Band which needs money to carry on its work.

Fritz Dakin and his dance ensemble held a rehearsal Thursday night and their rhythm is much better than at their first dance.

The band is considering a Grand Halloween Masquerade Dance, if their plans can be carried out. It is a long time since anything of this sort has been offered in Digby and it ought to be a big success.

There will be no service in Holy Trinity church on Sunday.

Friends of Rev. Denton J. Neely, of Nashua, N. H., a well known summer resident of Digby, are pleased to learn that he is resting comfortably after an operation at the New England Baptist Hospital in Roxbury, Mass.

Announcement by H. B. Short, P. E., that because of ill health he would retire from public life at the end of his term, was received at the annual meeting of the Liberal-Conservative Association of Annapolis County, last Thursday, with regret.

Tonight will be "Story Telling Night" at the St. George Lodge, I. O. O. F., the first of the programme for the winter. Next Friday night will be a Thanksgiving programme. A. R. Turnbull is convener for tonight and the Noble Grand, Jabez Appleby, next Friday night.

The store of Capt. C. F. Granville, at Weymouth, was broken into some time Tuesday night and a quantity of cigarettes and canned goods stolen. Entrance was gained by breaking the glass in one of the doors in the front of the store. It is thought to have been the work of a hobo who was in town that night. The R. C. M. P. were summoned and are checking up on the break.

The Ladies' Hospital Aid acknowledged with thanks the vegetables and preserves donated to the Hospital by F. H. Hatheway, Bear River. These contributions were all part of the exhibits of the recent Bear River exhibition of which Mr. Hatheway is the secretary. The Society also wishes to thank George Wolf and the church people at Lansdowne for their generous contributions of vegetables, fruits and preserves.

Tourist Association Held Annual Meeting Monday

Digby was well represented at the annual meeting of the Land of Evangeline Tourist Association, at Kentville, on Monday, P. W. Holdsworth, president of the association, Douglas Cossaboom, of the Harbor View Hotel, and J. J. Wallis, of the Digby Courier, being present. There was a fairly representative gathering from different Valley points, from Windsor to Digby. The marked improvement in the tourist business, during the past season created considerable enthusiasm. In the person of P. W. Holdsworth Digby has a live-wire representative. Enthusiasm and brimming over with enthusiasm, he has been the moving spirit of that association during the past year, and his efforts were so much appreciated by his colleagues that he was unanimously re-elected to serve as president for the year just starting.

'Nova Scotia' will have 200 miles of hard surface roads laid by the autumn of 1935. Mr. Holdsworth said, telling of a conversation with the minister of highways, in Halifax recently. Of this mileage 25 to 30 miles will be in use in the province this winter. The association expressed their appreciation of this work, and also expressed the hope that the five-year plan to lay 700 miles of permanent highways will be carried out without a hitch.

No country can hope to attract the tourist trade to any extent unless they have hard surface roads. D. Leo Dolan, director of publicity, Ottawa, said in a forceful address to the association. He urged the burying of the political hatchets and that all pull together to build up the tourist industry which can be made of such great value to the province.

The tourist dollar is spread out to all parts of the community in which it is spent, he said. He quoted figures from a recent survey to show to what extent the various trades benefit. The tourist industry, he said, leads wheat as Canada's most important industry and the newly organized tourist bureau will spend $25,000 in advertising and publicity in placing the beauties of Canada before the prospective tourists. The bureau will also promote inter-provincial tourist travel.

No province has such a "pull" on the tourists, and he commended the Nova Scotia tourist bureau for their work. He thought, however, that they did not inject enough personal contact into their work. In this respect their advertising fell far behind that of Quebec.

The Canadian tourist bureau does not intend to supplant any provincial bureau now operating, but hopes that co-operation to the fullest extent will be given.

The Association passed a resolution asking that the department of health carry out a system of inspection of all over-night cabins and hotels, and also expressed their support of the project to keep the roads open in the winter.

WITH THE KIWANIANS

At a postponed luncheon of the Digby Kiwanis Club last Friday, at which the Kiwanian "Queens" were in attendance, Governor Doddington, of the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime district, was returning to his home in Toronto from the recent convention in Halifax.

He spoke very highly of the Convention and the reception given them at Halifax, paying a special tribute to the Halifax Club. His address was on "The word KIWANIS and what it means to the world."

He took the word KIWANIS and dealt with it letter by letter, pointing out many of the finer things of that great organization. Among others, he stressed that Kiwanis was not purely a luncheon club, but a club whose aim is to render service to the community and build for finer things.

Fast President, P. W. Holdsworth, introduced the speaker: H. J. Campbell, president.

Harvey Doane, of the Halifax Club, was also a guest. Mr. Doane thanked the Digby Club for their representation at the Convention.

This week's luncheon was held as usual, on Tuesday. P. W. Holdsworth presided, and gave a brief resume of the proceedings of the Land of Evangeline Tourist Association, of which he is president, and which held its annual convention in Kentville on Monday. He was followed by H. J. Campbell, James W. Merkel and Clifford L. Bowley; the official delegates to the convention at Halifax, who gave reports of that convention, each dealing with it from a different viewpoint.

FIREMEN HOLD BANQUET

At a pleasant banquet in the dining room of the Winchester Hotel, the Digby Fire Brigade entertained their wives and a few invited friends. Town Clerk Alfred Boden was toast master on this occasion. Toasts were proposed to the King, the fire brigade, the visitors, and to the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. F. Harvie. Guests present were Mayor Shortliffe, Town Clerk Boden and A. T. Spurr.

Mayor Shortliffe, in a brief address, stated the Council was always behind the fire brigade and were anxious that they should have the best equipment possible. At present the fire committee of the town council had not decided what was best, but had visited Yarmouth and Middleton where they had seen new equipment in operation.

A. T. Spurr, who spoke for the visitors, paid a warm tribute to the brigade for their efficiency, and was quite of the opinion that the citizens would be glad when the proposed new equipment will be obtained.

THE NEW CANADIAN BILLS

The portrait of little Princess Elizabeth will grace the new Canadian $10 bills when the new Bank of Canada takes over the first quota of the Dominion's currency. His Majesty's portrait will be on another, the Prince of Wales and other members of the royal family on other bills.

The new banknotes will be smaller than the present issues of the Dominion and chartered banks. They will measure 6 inches by 2 3/4 inches. The present bills are 7 1/2 inches by 3 1/2 inches. The new bills are shorter but wider than the small United States bills which are 6 1/2 by 2 1/4 inches. It will be at least four months before they will be in circulation.

Under the Bank Act the chartered banks start to lose their bank note circulation privileges in 1936. In that year 5 per cent. of the currency will be withdrawn from circulation, holders receiving the new Bank of Canada notes in exchange. In the ensuing four years a further 5 per cent. will be withdrawn. Then for five years 10 per cent. will be withdrawn annually, leaving the chartered banks with only 25 per cent. of their original note issue.

WHO WILL HAVE LARGEST MAPLE LEAF?

The sheer beauty of the Autumn foliage, and the flaming colors which stretch for many miles through the Canadian forests at this time of the year are again being emphasized by the Canadian National Railway and the Canadian National Leaf Contest, according to their statement recently announcing a nationwide Maple Leaf Contest. This competition designed to encourage a greater interest in the Canadian autumn scene offers an opportunity for all Canadians to combine their knowledge of their National Emblem with their appreciation of the magnificent coloring which makes a visit to the autumn countryside so attractive. The competition is divided into two phases, first for the most beautiful leaf, and secondly for the largest leaf, and is being conducted on a wider and more comprehensive scale than the first competition which was held last year, when the public submitted more than ten thousand leaves for the consideration of the Judges elected from the Royal Canadian Academy.

The two railways are this year offering $100 in prizes. The first prize for the most beautiful maple leaf will be $50.00, the second prize $20.00, and the third prize $10.00. The first prize for the largest maple leaf is $15.00, and the second prize $5.00. Judges in the largest leaf phase of the competition will be C. B. Brown, Chief Engineer of the Canadian National Railway, and J. M. R. Fairbairn, Chief Engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Prize regulations govern the contest. All leaves entered must be mailed within two miles of a station on either railway, and each leaf must be mounted on a separate card.

with gummed paper to hold the stalk in place. Each entry must be forwarded packed flat between two pieces of stiff cardboard and accompanied by a sheet of paper five inches by seven inches on which must be written the name and address of the sender, the date of gathering, and the name of the Railway Station near which the leaves are gathered. Contestants must write their names on the card on which the leaves are mounted. No entry is to contain more than five leaves, though the contestant may forward as many entries as desired. In view of the fact that it is the intention of the Railways to arrange a coast to coast exhibition for the most beautiful leaves, the regulations provide that all leaves submitted are to become the property of the railways. The contest is not open to employees of either railway, but in view of the wide interest being taken by the children throughout Canada, is open to members of their families.

The decision selecting the most beautiful maple leaf will be based on color as well as shape, while the decision on the largest leaf will be guided by surface area.

Complete information can be obtained from any Canadian National or Canadian Pacific agent, and all entries must be addressed to Post Office Box 1500, Montreal, Quebec.

Judging from the many magnificent specimens of autumn colored leaves which poured in last year, the entries will, it is expected, reach a truly tremendous total. The first prize last year was won by Mrs. C. McConnell, of Fredericton, with a leaf from a Red Maple, while special awards were won by enthusiastic nature lovers in Ontario and Quebec. The largest leaf award went to British Columbia, when youthful Bobby Hume surprised the judges of the railroad engineering world by submitting a leaf containing 232 square inches.

HEALTH

WATER

"Water, water everywhere, and not a drop to drink!" was the complaint of the thirsty Ancient Mariner, as he viewed the salt sea water which surrounded him. "Water, water in plenty, but not a drop fit to drink!" might be the cry of many Canadians if they knew that their drinking water was contaminated with the germs of disease.

Those who live in cities and towns generally enjoy a safe water supply. From bitter experience they learned that sickness and death were the price of polluted water. Freedom from water-borne diseases is the dividend received in such communities as have spent the money required for purification of water supplies.

But what of the rural areas? Unfortunately, the same satisfactory progress has not been made in many parts of our country. The ill effects of one polluted well are not as evident as are those of the contaminated water supply of a city, because the numbers who use any one well are comparatively few. Nevertheless, for those who do use it, the results are the same in that the same diseases attack them as occur in the city.

Typhoid fever, which is frequently water-borne, used to be a fairly common disease in cities and towns. Now it is a rare disease and is practically unknown where water and milk supplies are taken care of. Typhoid fever is not by any means a rare disease in many rural areas, and most of the cases seen in city hospitals have been contracted in the country.

It is difficult to persuade many rural people that the well or the spring which they have used for years, may not be a safe supply. They forget that people move around a great deal, and that some day a carrier of typhoid fever germs may visit them, and then the well is not so constructed as to be protected from seepage of the privy or cess-pool, they will be drinking the germs of typhoid fever.

In all our provinces, water examinations are made by the laboratories of the provincial health departments. There is one simple way of finding out whether or not the water you are drinking is contaminated, and that is by having the water subjected to certain tests which will reveal the presence or absence of pollution. There is no time better than the present to do this. Pure water means safety.

Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Life is not to live merely, but to live well. There are some "who live without any design at all, and only pass in the world like straws on a river; they do not go; they are carried."

ANOTHER COURIER APPRECIATION

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hanson Digby, N. S.

Dear Friends:—It surely was very kind and thoughtful of you to send me a copy of the anniversary number of the Digby Courier. I have taken an especial interest in everything pertaining to Digby County, ever since I was cast upon its shores, over fifty years ago, and I rejoice in the success of my friend, Mr. Wallis, who, twelve years ago, with his bright young son, accompanied me to the place of the disaster, now marked by a monument, two miles west of Point Prim Light.

When you thought I would be interested in the articles and stories of old times, which it contains. Some of these stories were recounted to me during my stay at Christopher Stark's home, where I remained for a few days, after the wreck of the Princess Louise. I remember then telling me the story of "Jerome" who was, at that time 66 years of age, told me of a happening which had occurred many years before. One day a fair sized vessel was seen

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE,

sneaking along the shore, a little West of Digby Gut, too close in shore to be going up the Bay, and being handled in such a way as to create suspicion that she might be a pirate or perhaps a "privateer" seeking to plunder the community. At any rate the suspicion of the people became so great that a general call was sent out to every settlement that could be reached, and the settlers gathered in the woods by the shore, keeping out of sight, but watching what was taking place on board as closely as possible. It was observed that when first seen, and during the afternoon, only three or four men could be seen on deck, but as evening came on, and she was allowed to drift into a cove near what I think is called White Cliffs, men began to come from below to the number of nearly a hundred, and most of the sails were lowered, with the evident intention of anchoring close in shore. The men, who were stationed in the woods, and whatever other warlike accoutrements that could be hastily gathered, thought it was time to let the men on board know that they were not going to get ashore without opposition, and a volley was fired into the crowd of men on deck. The volley had an immediate effect, quite satisfactory to the men on shore. Their fire was not returned, and there was a great scampering to the depths below, except for the few who had to work the ship. They put on sail and headed for the open sea. They were never seen again, who they were, or where they came from, or their real intentions were, never known.

My acquaintance with the Digby Courier began at that time, when I was taken by the then harbour master, Captain Hughes, and introduced to the editor to give an account of the wreck, and I think I have a copy of the paper of that date yet. I do not remember the name of the editor, but I do remember meeting a Mr. Copp, who was a native of Amherst, and at that time, I also remember Major John Daley, who kept the hotel, and had a hound, who, when you gave him a cent, would take it to the store and buy himself a biscuit.

If you see Mr. Wallis, tell him that you sent me a copy of his paper, that I was glad to get it, and to see that his enterprise was bringing him deserved prosperity, and also contributing to the welfare of the town, for a live well-edited paper such as Mr. Wallis publishes is a real asset to any place.

With kindest remembrances of your friendship,

I remain sincerely yours,

R. C. Soy.

Between Ourselves

About this time last year the government of our province were urging all of us to join the League of Loyal Nova Scotians. Their aim and ambition was a commendable one—to urge Nova Scotians to purchase more of the natural and manufactured products of their province.

During this campaign the writer wrote an editorial for the Courier in which he placed the blame for the most part on the shoulders of the manufacturers and producers, rather than on the consuming public of the province, who, almost as a whole, are ignorant of the vast range of Nova Scotian products that can be purchased at the local stores. We are safe in saying that these products are of an equal—and often superior—quality to those imported from other countries and sister provinces.

Yet, we must confess, our Nova Scotian products are not as popular with the consuming public as are the imported products. Our merchants seldom carry a heavy stock of Nova Scotian products, and we can't blame them—they are "slow movers". Our manufacturers bemoan the fact that the citizens are disloyal to their own province in stocking their shelves of their stores—and the pantries of their homes—with the products of other provinces.

The people of Nova Scotia are not disloyal. The majority of them would prefer to buy the products of their own province, but, sad to say, the majority of the buyers have a very meagre knowledge of what these products are because manufacturers have not awakened to the fact that in order to sell Nova Scotia's products to Nova Scotians they must co-operate with the seller and purchaser by advertising. Unless they advertise how are the people of Nova Scotia to know what they have to sell—and how can the merchant sell a product his customers know nothing about?

Last week I spent an evening at the Yarmouth exhibition. I was particularly interested in the booth operated by the manufacturers or distributors of a brand of laundry soap manufactured in one of the Valley towns—Windsor to be exact—and had a pleasant conversation with the man in charge. He told me of the many virtues this soap possessed; he told me why in so many ways it was superior to other soaps used for the same purpose. If he were able to tell 100,000 or more people in Nova Scotia the same story he told me, no doubt he would build up a splendid sale for his product—but that would be humanly impossible by word of mouth, and I doubt if one per cent. of those who attended the exhibition were interested enough in his exhibit to stop and chat with him and listen to his story.

I suggested advertising; somehow my suggestion and my arguments did not appeal to him. He used the old time-worn argument that if the firm advertised the cost would be so great that in order to pay advertising accounts they would have to put up a cheaper bar of soap, and thus subvert from the present high standard of their product. He could not see that the greater profits through additional sales which would result from the advertising, would enable the manufacturer to add to, rather than take from, the quality of the product.

It was in my opinion, a very weak argument for not advertising, when one considers that even in his own town, at least one hundred bars of advertised soap, of no better quality and perhaps higher in price, are sold for every one of the unadvertised brand, for the simple reason that newspaper readers—who are the consuming public—read the advertisements, and therefore have become acquainted with the advertised products and buy them. I doubt if one tenth of one per cent of my readers know that there is a high quality laundry soap manufactured in this province, and I'll wager that very few of those who do know of it, buy

Canadian-Pacific Promotions

Official announcement has been made by Mr. E. W. Beatty, K.C., Chairman and President, Canadian Pacific Railway Company, of the approval of the directors of the Company to the election of Mr. D. C. Coleman, vice-president, Western Lines, with headquarters at Winnipeg, to succeed the late Mr. Grant Hall as vice-president of the Company at Montreal, and of the appointment of Mr. W. M. Neal, General Manager Western Lines, to the post of Vice-President Western Lines, in succession to Mr. Coleman. Mr. H. J. Humphrey, General Manager, Eastern Lines, has been appointed Vice-President and General Manager Eastern Lines with headquarters at Montreal.

it because they have not been recruited thru advertising. The names of the "foreign" advertised brands are so familiar to them that it is almost a second nature to ask for an advertised brand.

The same applies to most of Nova Scotia's advertised products, which are of the highest quality. They do not advertise and therefore the purchasing public, through ignorance and not because of any disloyalty to their province, buy the product of the advertising out-of-the-province manufacturer. I also note that some of our manufacturers do advertise in trade publications which enjoy a splendid circulation among the dealers and tradesmen, who through these advertisements, are often tempted to buy—and later wonder why their customers are so slow in taking them off their shelves. Not one in a thousand of their customers had seen the advertisement in the "trade paper". In order to interest the consumer advertising should be in the newspapers which the consumers read.

There are many products manufactured in Nova Scotia (today which soon will join the thousands of "has-beens" through no fault of their own nor through any fault of the Nova Scotian consumer, but simply because their manufacturers are not awake to the value of advertising. Their vision is so blurred that they are unable to see that their competitors without exception are the manufacturers of nationally advertised goods. Quality and price play big parts in the sale of any product—

"Reminiscence Week" as planned by the Digby Courier, is an excellent idea, particularly so, if each person called upon to do so, contributes an article. Needless to say such recollections of the past will make interesting reading for all who subscribe to the Digby Courier. Therefore, in response to your request, I am pleased to be in a position to send a short article to help make your "week" a tremendous success.

I am a past resident of Nova Scotia, and although I have been away for a number of years, I am still proud to claim Bear River, as my birthplace. As most every one knows, Bear River is one of the most strikingly picturesque villages in Canada, and is situated on hills overlooking river and valleys. This quiet, placid village, noted for its cherry orchards and annual cherry carnival, is fast becoming one of the most popular resorts in the Province.

Now, as memory's curtain rises, it presents a picture of many happy childhood days spent in the Green Island School, which still stands on the old familiar site, and is a credit to the townsfolk. For higher education, many of the children attended Bear River Academy, from which many of the best teachers in the Province graduated. Unfortunately this school was quite recently destroyed by fire. However, a larger and more adequate structure has been erected to take care of the present needs of the community.

As a lad, I can vividly recall the "Clark Bros. Ltd." which at the time was the most flourishing business in our little community. This Company was under the expert management of the late W. W. and W. G. Clark, for years Bear River's leading merchants.

These brilliant "home town" men were also owners of a large Lumbering Company, with Lake Joli as their headquarters. My recollections of Lake Joli, at this particular stage, of Bear River's history, bring to mind a thriving, little village giving employment to practically five hundred men and women. Here at the Lake the following materials were manufactured: lathes, clothes pins, spoons, hardwood flooring, sash and door frames.

The finished product from the mill was transported to Bear River, a distance of nine miles, by horse-drawn vehicles; then shipped to other countries in the privately owned vessels of the Clarke Brothers. Among the vessels I can recall were the Neva and the Yaldare.

Scanning the past years, many changes have taken place. Bear River has had its share of tragedies, as well as its pleasures and successes, and like all communities it has suffered from fire and accident.

Many new enterprises have come to take the place of the old ones, now almost entirely forgotten. Doubtless these enterprises will continue to thrive through the years to come and help make Bear River an active thriving community.

RUNS IN FRONT OF VEHICLE

Severe injuries including two broken legs which, however, are not expected to prove fatal, were sustained by Little Glauvette Nickerson, when he was struck by a motor car in front of his home at Ashmore, on Friday evening last.

The accident occurred when the boy aged six, jumped off the cross bar of an ox team on which he was riding, and attempted to dash across the highway. Noticing the motor coming from behind he stepped directly in front of it and was knocked down and dragged for a considerable distance before the driver, Miss Oda VanBlarcom, could bring it to a stop.

Battered and bruised, he was taken into his home and Dr. Pothier summoned. Later he was removed to the Digby Hospital, where he now lies in a serious condition, with two broken legs, a bad scalp wound and severe body bruises.

Lost 10 lbs. in Two Months

Not too Old to Reduce at 50

Here is a letter which proves that there is no necessity to tolerate excessive fatness, even at the age of 50:

"I was becoming too fat after reaching 50, and had attacks of rheumatism and indigestion. I took ordinary salts and other medicines, but they did not do any permanent good. Then I commenced taking Kruschen. I soon began to feel different—brighter, stronger, had more energy, no rheumatism, and to my surprise, after two months I lost 10 lbs. in weight, although I was eating much more, at digestion fullness had nearly left me."—W. H. G.

The numerous vital salts in Kruschen stimulate and tune up the body functions from a number of different angles. Your stomach, liver, and kidneys all feel the immediate benefit. Your blood is cleansed of impurities and becomes invigorated and refreshed. You forget indigestion, rheumatism, and depression in a new and unaccustomed feeling of physical and mental exhilaration.

NOTABLE GAIN IN SALES

Increasing Popular Favour of Morse's Standard Tea Explained by Low Price Coupled With Superior Quality

The good old family tea of the Maritimes has a firmer place than ever in the esteem of the critical Maritime tea drinking public. There are two reasons. The first is flavour and general cup quality. The second is its relatively low price. It is unquestionably the best tea value for the money available and the housewives of the Maritimes duly appreciate this fact.

It is shown in the steadily mounting sales. By comparison, the sales in the last month were away ahead of the sales in the same month last year.

That Morse's Standard Tea should be speeding up in sales increase is not surprising, for not only is its delectable quality sufficient to make for such popularity, but the public appreciates the fact that at the present retail price of 50 cents a pound, Morse's Standard Tea is from 5 to 10 cents a pound lower in price than blends claimed to be of corresponding quality.

The Secretary's Report

In looking over the minutes for the past year, I find that our Institute has touched many different phases of work—in connection with our community, our schools, our agricultural society, county and province.

We have enjoyed many fine lectures and papers. Among the speakers were Rev. A. A. MacLeod, on "Temperance"; Rev. M. Burnett, on "Child Welfare"; papers on "Our New School Curriculum," by the teachers of the Oakdene School; "The Mothers' Allowance Act," by Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. MacIntyre; on "Gardening," by Mrs. Powers.

We have made special efforts to raise money for the re-furnishing of our room in the Digby General Hospital. Our Irish Cabaret held for this purpose was a great success, both socially and financially.

We have made donations toward the work carried on by "The Colored Children's Aid Society," in Halifax; toward the fund being raised as a memorial to the late Mr. Fortier, who did so much in connection with Fort Anne Park and Museum, in Annapolis Royal.

Our Institute has made many homes happy with Christmas boxes and donations; our Library has been open to the public and many have taken advantage of this; our Institute, through our efficient Home and School Committee, has supplied hot cocoa to the school children during the winter months.

At the Carnival in July, held under the auspices of the Canadian Legion, at the request of the Legion, the Institute took charge of serving the meals.

At the recent county exhibition the Institute booth proved to be very attractive and profitable.

This Institute was organized in 1920, with a membership of 60.

The programme will include a discussion period on "Our Societies and a Statement of Beliefs"; "The Liquor Problem"; "World Friendship and Leisure Time." Worship periods led by the Digby Neck and Bear River Societies; business periods, including the installation of officers; recreation and singing, as well as the address of the evening by a commissioner from the General Council.

Each society is requested to appoint delegates to attend this union, and it is hoped that a large number from each society will be present to make a good beginning for the year's work, as well as to enjoy a day of splendid fellowship together.

LEGION MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Bear River Branch of the Canadian Legion, will be held in the Legion hall, at 8 o'clock, p.m., on Monday.

All ex-service men are cordially invited to attend. This is the first meeting of the second year since its reorganization. Fifty-five members have been re-instated and enrolled but more would help make this meeting a big rally.

FELLOWSHIP WITH CHRIST

Golden Text: "Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me." John 15:4.

Lesson Passage: John 15: 1-16.

O blessed Son of God, in love and faith we plead
That thou wouldst bind our hearts in Brotherhood of need.
Our Elder Brother thou, whose heritage we share,
Our kindred lives we offer thee in Brotherhood of prayer.
Thou didst the will of Him who sent thee from above;
Thou didst us as He sent thee, in Brotherhood of love.
Thou Man of Galilee, O wilt thou live again,
Abide within, control, inspire our Brotherhood of Men.

The Christian Life

For the Fourth Quarter of this year the theme for the International Uniform Lessons is Studies in the Christian Life. This theme must be studied close against the background of modern life. How may we live the Christian life in the midst of a secular society? How may we seek spiritual values when our daily life forces us to consider money values so constantly? The answer is that Christ supplies power for those who earnestly desire to live a Christian life. Our plight is at least no worse than that of the first century Christians who felt enveloped by the environment of the Roman Empire. There are now earnest Christians in materialistic, individualistic, militaristic and communistic nations. We must learn how to preserve the Christian spirit in this actual work-a-day world in which we live.

God's Will For Us, 1, 2

It is God's will for us that our lives should be fruitful. Why do we hesitate to believe that? The vines laden with clusters of grapes in the autumn leave us in no doubt as to God's will for the grape vines. It is reasonable to assume that God is planning to make our lives fruitful, too. Christ was absolutely sure of this. He saw all life in the light of the will of God. Perhaps one reason why our lives have been relatively unfruitful is that we have been trying to live our own lives apart from God. Christ did not try to think, speak or act apart from his consciousness of the will of God. To make this plain to his disciples he used the illustration of a vine-dresser pruning a vine. The purpose of the pruning is fruit-bearing. The vine-dresser does not waste his time pruning a dead vine. We may not relish self-discipline or God's discipline, but both are essential if we are to live abundantly and yield fruits of character, experience and service. It may be that we shall have to give up several things that we very much prize, in order that our lives may be made more fruitful. A fruit-grower does not hesitate to make an annual estimate of the yield of his vineyard. Have we any definite system of measuring the fruitfulness of our lives?

Christ's Work In Us, 3-7

How intimate and personal were the words of Jesus to His disciples! Those sayings are part of His rare, well address to His disciples before His arrest. He was stating the whole future of His mission upon eleven men. Well did He know the temptations to which they would be exposed in the Hebrew, Roman and Greek society of their day, but he offered them one sufficient safeguard, abiding fellowship with Himself. They were to abide in Him as the branches abide in the vine. Over and over He repeated the word abide or remain. To abide in Christ is something more than to make occasional visits. It was said of a lady who had a formal and patronizing attitude to religion that "she kept the name of the Lord on her calling list". No rich spiritual fruitfulness can result unless our fellowship with Christ is taken up a weekly, monthly or yearly basis, and put on a daily, hourly, momentary or continuous basis. The vine can send sap to the farthest tips of the branches, but only when the branches are in vital union with the vine.

Spiritual Fruits, 8-11

Newspapers find it of public interest to furnish itemized statements concerning the estate of dead men. Christ was concerned with the moral and spiritual characteristics of living men. His two outstanding tests of fruitfulness were love and joy. What absurd fess compared with the ratings given of men by financial companies! Yet if there is any one social fact which has more than another been demonstrated in recent years it is that wealth does not guarantee satisfaction and happiness. Some of the happiest people have little of this world's goods, but they have good will towards their fellow men and they have an inner joy that is radiant. Christ gave men knowledge, but he was concerned most of all to teach men to live in the spirit of love. He found that this led to joy and happiness. We speak of Him as the Man of Sorrows, but He was the Man of Joys as well. He experienced spiritual satisfaction in life, because out of His great love came deep joy. Leaving only His paltry garments as an estate, what a legacy He bestowed upon His disciples when He said: "These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full."

The Enduring Friendship, 12-16

While Jesus was saying these rare, well words to His disciples they must have been thinking what a true friend He had been to them. He had taught them, talked to them singly and collectively, kept them at peace together, had shared their hardships and solved their difficulties. This is the truth expressed in the fine Canadian hymn, "What a Friend We Have In Jesus". But Jesus was thinking of another phase of their relationship. He stressed the fact that they were His friends. That was the basis upon which He wished the relationship to rest. As friends of His He would not need to give them orders; they would want to carry out His purposes. As friends He did not need to have secrets from them; He had told them that God had made known to Him. They had not chosen Him, but He had chosen them that they should go and bring forth fruit and that their fruit should be imperishable. Christian history is the proof of the fulfilment of Christ's promise to His disciples. And friendship with Christ, our acceptance of His friendship and His acceptance of us as His friends is the way whereby our lives may be made and kept fruitful.

LAWRENCETOWN HAS AUTOMATIC TELEPHONE SYSTEM

On Saturday evening, the 22nd, inst., a second telephone exchange in the Annapolis Valley was transferred to full dial operation. This change is in conformity with the recently inaugurated programme of the Telephone Company covering the conversion of small telephone exchanges to automatic operation where such change is desired by the telephone subscribers involved.

A number of different sized installations are available. The smallest type, which will handle only a very few lines, was recently provided for Monastery, Colchester County. A larger and more extensive installation of the same type of equipment was established a short time ago in Brookfield, Colchester County. These two installations are of a type known as "remote control", which means that they are controlled from central exchanges, the subscribers' telephones not being provided with dials. This equipment makes possible continuous operation in even the smallest exchanges, and also does away with the possibility of considerable delay which is so often experienced in the night hours in smaller exchanges under manual operation.

The type of service installed in Lawrencetown is what might be termed a medium sized automatic exchange. It is known as a "community universal" exchange because it is especially designed for small communities and universal in that it can handle all classes of service. It is an unattended mechanism installed in a specially designed building and has a capacity of 50 subscribers' lines and 4 toll trunks. Each telephone connected with Lawrencetown exchange has a dial the operation of which is absolutely standard; in other words, similar to the larger installations in Kentville and Halifax. An added feature in the Lawrencetown installation is the timing out device which speeds up service as it prevents a subscriber using up a portion of the equipment should he take his receiver off the hook and fail to dial at once. This is an important consideration inasmuch as it materially reduces the number of "line busy" conditions.

The Lawrencetown equipment is connected through to the Middleton and Bridgetown exchanges, and the operators at these places are able to care for any requests from Lawrencetown subscribers for information, long distances, assistance in dialing or reports of trouble. The apparatus, which will require little attention, is housed in its own specially designed building. The building is fireproof and is protected against wide changes in temperature and humidity.

The three different sizes of office particularly mentioned above are all absolutely new as far as Canada is concerned. In fact, they are the only installations of their kind so far made in Canada. However, similar types of service are used extensively in Great Britain and other European countries, so that while new they are by no means only in the experimental stage.

All three installations were made under the direction of W. E. Jefferson, who by the way is a native of Lawrencetown, where his father still resides. The actual work was carried out by special installers provided by the Northern Electric Co. of Montreal, who manufacture the equipment.

The subscribers in Lawrencetown are to be congratulated indeed, on the fact that they have been provided with such up-to-date equipment, which should assure them of service of the highest possible type.

And in the meantime Digby, which has far more telephones in proportion to the inhabitants than almost any other exchange in the province, has to be content with the old "turn-a-crank" system, which was probably the kind Noah used in the ark.

FOX RANCHING A THRIVING INDUSTRY

Four new fox ranches have been started at Freeport within the past few weeks. Their owners are Douglas, Charles Prime, George Young and R. H. Thurber. It is understood that four more will be started in the same village shortly.

During the past year or so the fox ranching industry on Long Island has grown by leaps and bounds. Several ranches have already been established in the three villages on the island, and all are reputed as doing well. The largest is that of Alden Elliott, at Tiverton. Other important ranches include those of Lloyd Blackford and Carman Nase, Freeport, and Melvin O. Tibert, Central Grove. The fox ranching industry in Digby County is now considered one of the most important industries in the county. What is said to be the largest ranch in Nova Scotia is operated by Hon. J. Willie Cosmeau, at Co. meauville. The Clare district has gone into fox ranching in a big way, there being forty to fifty ranches in that municipality. In the English speaking portion of the county, exclusive of Long Island, there are also many large ranches, located at Bear River, Landsdowne, Smith's Cove and other districts.

Obituary

Mr. John A. Farnsworth

The sudden passing of Mrs. Anna Sabine Farnsworth occurred Tuesday evening, Sept. 18, at Cornish, New Hampshire, while visiting at the home of her son. Although she had been in failing health for some time, hopes for her ultimate recovery were held out, and she was taken to New Hampshire as a more hopeful chance. She was the daughter of the late Edmund and Wealthy Ann (Durand) Haight, of North Range, and was born May 9, 1863. A brother, James D. Haight, and a sister, Mrs. Benj. Sabean, still reside in that village. Mrs. Farnsworth, with her family, moved to Melrose, Mass., in 1925, owing to the ill health of her husband, who passed away in 1926, and has still made her home in that city. She became a member of the Methodist church in North Range when a young girl, and was transferred to the First Methodist church of Melrose, April, 1927. She leaves to mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother three sons, John B. and Alister C., of Melrose, and Judson H., of Hull, Mass., at whose summer home in New Hampshire, she was visiting; and two daughters, Mrs. Susie Gregory, Greenwood, Mass., and Hattie B., at home, besides several grandchildren and many other relatives and friends, both in Nova Scotia and the United States. The funeral services were held from her late residence on September 22, Rev. John L. Ivey, pastor of the First Methodist Church, of Melrose, officiating. Interment was in Pine Grove cemetery, Lynn.

Miss Inez Rice

The death of Miss Inez Rice, daughter of the late Benjamin and Catherine Rice, occurred at Smith's Cove early yesterday morning. She deceased had been in poor health since last winter. Since her infancy she has made her home with Mrs. George Austin Smith's Cove, who was also regarded as a sister. Surviving are one sister, Mrs. William Thomas, of Bear River, and one brother, Forman Rice, of Milford Corner. For the past ten years she was the faithful secretary of the Smith's Cove Women's Institute, and was a faithful adherent of the United Church of Canada at Smith's Cove. The funeral services will be held from her home tomorrow afternoon, with Rev. Dr. Hodgson officiating.

Joshua Stark

Joshua Stark, a highly esteemed citizen and the oldest resident of Granville Ferry, died at his home on Saturday last, after a brief illness. He was born in Digby on February 12, 1839, and for nearly 50 years resided in Saint John, where he was well known for his skill as a clock maker. Since coming to Granville eight years ago, he continued to regulate the town clock in Saint John annually, his last trip to the city being taken when he was 94 years of age. He was a devoted member of the United Church, and until his last illness continued in remarkable mental and physical vigor. Mr. Stark is survived by two daughters, the Misses Annie and Alberta Stark, of Granville Ferry, and one son, Fletcher Stark, of Machias, Maine. His wife, formerly Miss Margaret E. Warington, predeceased him many years. A funeral service was held in Granville by Rev. E. W. Forbes, after which the remains were brought to Digby on Wednesday and interred in the United Church cemetery. Rev. Dr. Hodgson officiating.

SCHOOL FAIRS

The rural schools of Acadiaville, Hill Grove and North Range, joined together for a successful school fair and field day at Acadiaville on Tuesday. The fare opened in the morning and continued until late in the afternoon.

Pupils of these schools presented fine exhibits of school work, fruits and vegetables, preserved and pastries, all the work of the pupils themselves. Credit for the success of this exhibition goes to the parents as well as to the pupils and their teachers in their excellent co-operation in matters pertaining to the schools of the three districts represented.

The afternoon's programme was largely taken up with outdoor games and competitions. In these the North Range school was awarded first place; Hill Grove second and Acadiaville third.

After the awarding of the prizes, Warden J. Vian Andrews, of North Range, acted as chairman, and introduced the speakers, who included Professor Longley, of the extension service of the Nova Scotia Normal College; M. C. Foster, Inspector of Schools for Annapolis and Digby Counties; Raymond LeBlanc, County Agricultural Representative, and Mrs. Beatrice Harris, new helping teacher for the two counties.

Asking Change in Power Rates

Despite the unusually dry summer this year the Digby County Power Board had more than two months' supply of water in storage behind their dams to supply their hydro plants before the dry spell was broken by the recent rains which have blessed this section of the country. During the year the power board has also enjoyed an increase in output and connected load.

Applications from both the power board and the Town of Digby will be heard at Halifax by the Nova Scotia Board of Public Utilities on the 24th of this month. The Power Board application deals with supplying current to users in the town of Digby whose requirements are 20 horse power and over. In the past these customers have been supplied at wholesale and retail to users within the town limits. On account of the heavy connected load throughout the town, and the power board, that greater satisfaction would be given by a direct line from the power board's plant on the Sissiboo River.

The town's request asks for a lower rate for power users using under 20 horse power connected load, and a slightly higher service charge. If adopted, this rate is expected to result in a saving to users.

NOTICE TO READERS

We believe there are yet many of our readers who delayed in remitting their coupon for one of those little hand-carved ebonywood elephants from Ceylon, and in order not to disappoint any such persons who might feel that they are now too late to have their chance, we have made a special arrangement with the Salada Tea Company to extend the expiry date two weeks for the benefit of our readers who come under the above category.

UNHURT WHEN CAR ROLLED OVER FIVE TIMES

Charles Foss, of Wilnot, was injured in an automobile accident near the residence of George Wightman, on Saturday afternoon; last, when through some unexplainable cause, his car left the road and rolled over five times. Mr. Foss, who was on his way to Digby to return with Mr. Wickwire, highways engineer for Digby and Annapolis Counties, was found by Mr. Wightman, who was just returning from Yarmouth, and who took him to the Digby Hospital where he was treated by Dr. DuVer-net. Rumors are coming in from all over the county of the "jacking" of deer. In fact, in some districts it is hardly safe to come out of the house at night. We heard of one man in a village nearby who went out to his well the other evening to get some water, and was astounded—and not a little scared—when a powerful flash light was turned directly on him. This "jacking" has been going on for years, but nothing is ever done to stop it.

Union Division is Re-organized

Old Union Division, No. 6, Sons of Temperance, organized in Digby, in December, 1928, but which has been dormant for almost twenty-two years, was re-organized in the United Church Hall, on Tuesday evening, with seventeen members quite a number of them former members of the Division. A provisional slate of officers was elected and installed, and the next meeting will be held on October 23rd, in the same place. It is hoped that more of the old members will apply for reinstatement, and that many others will send in their applications. Rev. A. A. MacLeod, field secretary of the Order, officiated at the re-organization.

The largely attended funeral service for Miss Inez A. Rice, was held from her late home on Saturday afternoon. The Rev. T. W. Hodgson officiated, assisted by Rev. E. W. Forbes, of Granville Ferry, a former pastor of the Smith's Cove United Church. Psalm 23-91, those much loved by the deceased, were read as the scripture lesson, with Kilgill's famous poem, "L'Envoi," concluded the brief service at the house. As a token of sympathetic regard for the passing of a life radiant with cheer and thoughtfulness for others, the floral tributes were lovely and profuse. Members of the Smith's Cove Women's Institute attended the services in a body, each sister taking her part in the committal service at the grave of a sister who was a loved and faithful secretary of the Institute since its organization fourteen years ago.

NEW BAND YEAR BEGINS FIRST NOVEMBER.

All bandmen are notified to attend the first meeting of the new band year, Thursday, November 1st, at 8 o'clock sharp. Entire re-organization is probable. Some changes will be made in the instrumentation, and a few members will be dropped for slack attendance and consequent inability to keep up with the band's progress. More rigid rules regarding regular attendance will be considered. A smaller band of dependable players will make more progress than a larger band whose members come, or stay home, according to their feeling or their convenience.

If you like music why don't you join the Digby Band? The Director will be very glad to talk to you, but as he doesn't know who you are, you'll have to go to him. Make it happy! See him within the next few days because he wants everything in shape before the first band meeting mentioned above. Answering numerous inquiries as to the admission of ladies it should be stated that the Band Constitution contains the following paragraph: "Ladies shall be admitted to the privileges of training in the Junior Band," but this brings up the problem of securing instruments for them. Just now the ladies would need to borrow, rent, or buy their own probably—but it's worth talking over.

Attendance at the Benefit Dance last Monday night was rather disappointing, and may discourage the boys from further efforts in this direction. The floor was in splendid condition, the music good, the weather fine, the cafe very inviting, and a great crowd of listeners, or spectators, gathered outside or sat in parked cars—but all this did not swell the receipts. Fifteen loyal bandmen gave their evening of hard work and several hours of special practice for which they deserve hearty thanks.

Wanted—Two good men to learn music and play bass horns in the Band. First-class high grade instruments will be supplied for them.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ralph Warrington and family, of Wolfville, spent the week end with relatives in Digby.

Miss Patricia MacPhee, of the Royal Store staff is spending her vacation with relatives in Bridgetown.

It is rumored that the "Anti Cants" of the United Church are planning a bang up Halloween Social for Tuesday, Oct. 29th.

FOR SALE—I have a few copies of Wilson's "History of Digby County" for sale; paper covers. These books are out of print and unobtainable. Price $2.50.—J. J. Wallis.

Marriages

Trask-Tidd

A very pretty wedding took place on Friday last, at the home of the bride, Little River, when Miss Freda Maud, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Shirley Tidd, was united in marriage to Lawrence Trask, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Réginald Trask. Rev. C. L. Chute, of the United Baptist church, performed the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and looked charming in a gown of blue tulle, with veil and orange blossoms, and carrying a bouquet of pale blue carnations and maiden hair fern. She entered the room to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Mrs. John Trask. She was attended by her sister, Miss Avis, while the groom was supported by her brother, Rex. After congratulations and refreshments were served the happy couple left for Digby, where they will make their home. Mr. Trask being foreman of the new fish meal plant at the Racquette.

THE BIBLICAL WRECK

A Rhode Island man leaned over to pick up a Bible from the floor of his automobile. The car lurched, veered across the road, struck a fence and was thoroughly smashed. If he had ever read the Book much he might have found out enough about patience and wisdom so he wouldn't have done a fool trick like that. After all, the Bible has been through a good deal and could well have waited the two minutes needful for the driver to slow up and stop before the road before he reached a hand to the floor.

NO LOCAL GREAT WAR

One sentence in Maxim Litvinoff's maiden speech upon Soviet Russia's admission to the League of Nations deserves to be widely published and kept in bold letters before the eyes of intelligent citizens in all the countries of the world:

"No war of serious dimensions can be localized; sooner or later any war must bring misfortune to all countries, whether belligerents or neutrals."

Isn't that true? Has not the civilized world learned its truth in the years since 1914? And yet, for reasons hard to understand in thinking people, it is still considered unpatriotic to try to prevent war.

CHLOROFORM IN AMERICA FIRST MADE IN PICTOU

Nova Scotia has the honor of being the first country on the American continent to make chloroform and use it as an anesthetic. In the year 1848 an apothecary at Pictou, J. D. R. Fraser, prepared and purified some chloroform in his small drugstore in that town and it was used by a local surgeon, Dr. W. J. Almon, as an anesthetic in amputating the thumb of a woman in the poorhouse. Chloroform was first discovered in Leibig, in 1831, and first used by Sir James Simpson in Great Britain, in 1847. Of course there were other anaesthetics before chloroform which ranged all the way from rum to shillelah. These two latter "anaesthetics" are still apparently quite extensively used but the more gentle action of standard anaesthetics is generally preferred.

MOTHER! don't experiment with your Child's Cold

Rub on VICKS VAPORUB the proved way of relieving colds

The minute you apply Vicks VapoRub over throat and chest it goes right to work to fight a cold—two ways at once—by stimulation and inhalation. Through the skin, it acts like a poultice, "drawing out" tightness and soreness. At the same time, its medicated vapors are inhaled direct to irritated air passages. All night long, it works to help Nature "throw off" the cold.

Ideal for Children's Colds
Being externally applied, VapoRub avoids the risks of those digestive upsets that so often come from constant dosing. It can be used freely, and as often as needed, even on the youngest child. And it's just as good for adults.

More Reminiscences of Digby and Vicinity

Another incident which rather upset me and kept me from fully enjoying my short stay in Digby had to do with the operation of the weather signals there.

The telegraph operator was also the local weather man and had charge of the storm signal station, which at that time consisted of a forty-foot mast with a boom arm at the top to which the different storm signals were hoisted. This station was located on the bluff near the pier and had for a background a row of cannon salvaged from the wars of 1776 and 1812, which tended to give the visitor approaching the town from the bay the impression that that place was strongly fortified. Signal mast, cannon and everything would naturally create that effect to a greater or less degree. What the visitor thought to himself did not matter, for Digby then as now was at peace with all the world. Two days after the fire at sea scare had died down a received a code message from the chief weather observer which, when translated, read, "Storm coming, hoist signal," then turning to the back of the code book where the various signals were sketched I picked out the signal which seemed to fill the chief's orders; then I hiked down to the signal station and rummaged around in the storage chest for the signal which looked like the picture in the code book. I could not find one exactly like the picture but found one which looked something like it. Well, thought I, one signal is probably just as good as another, and none of the captains will pay any attention to it, anyway, so I proceeded to hoist the drum like affair that I had drawn from the box; and I hoisted better than I knew. I hoisted the drum thing so hard and so high that when orders came a few hours later to lower the signal, I could not get it down. I jerked and wiggled and pulled and hauled at those old halcyons in every conceivable way, but the signal still remained aloft—the halcyons were stuck in the block. Anchored out in the harbor was a schooner ready to put to sea and after waiting for two days and no storm having arrived, the captain decided to investigate the whereabouts of the storm signal which brought no storm. When I informed him that the signal should have been hauled down two days ago I thought

AFTER OPERATION SHE GREW FAT

And Became Short-Winded

A letter just received from a woman states that she is writing in thanks for the benefit she has received. Her letter reads as follows:

"About 12 months ago everybody remarked how fat I was getting. I turned the scale at 196 lbs. I was fed up at getting so fat, and it made me short-winded. Why they noticed it was because I was getting fat slowly since I had had an operation for appendix. I went back to the hospital, and the doctor said most women get fat after that operation; I had tried everything I knew of to try and get slim, so I thought I would give Kruschen Salts a trial. I started at first to take half the dose prescribed, in my first cup of tea. Nine months ago, I turned the scale at 196 lbs., and at the time of writing I go 178 lbs. I feel better than I have felt for a long time."—(Mrs. H.)

The formula of Kruschen represents the ingredients salts of the mineral waters of those European Spas which have been used by generations of overcast people to reduce weight. Gently, but surely, Kruschen rid the system of all fat-forming food refuse, of all poisons and harmful acids which give rise to rheumatism, headaches, and many other ills.

he was going to have a fit. He immediately became the "cussiest" man that I had ever listened to up to that time, and I imagine that it was well for me that the ticket window through which we had our pleasant conversation was not large enough to permit his getting at me or I would have become a candidate for the cemetery I did not learn his name and I was glad when he hoisted it back to his vessel. Distance was all that I craved from him and plenty of that. I must admit that he had a right to be upset over the signal business for I found out later that the signal which I had hoisted indicated a severe storm on the way; the mariners who put to sea while the signal was on display did so at their own risk. I finally got a sailorman to free the halcyons and get the signal down. It cost me a five spot. Which, caused me considerable financial distress for five bucks out of a kid telegrapher's salary in those old days when the Western Counties Railway operated the Western Union Telegraph office mean; revising my personal budget for several weeks to come. Otherwise I enjoyed my two weeks in Digby. I lived at Mrs. Burnham's hotel, a small but very comfortable place, with excellent meals. I remember Mrs. Burnham's wonderful cooking cakes to this day.

Among the names of the legal profession mentioned in the anniversary number I failed to find the name of E. H. Armstrong, who came to Weymouth from Wolfville in that vicinity about 1889. He had an office in the Free Press building and in odd moments, when not engaged in preparing cases for trial, he found time to do some writing for the Courier, and I believe that he was the Courier's Weymouth correspondent for quite a while. Mr. Armstrong was an ardent Liberal in politics and later became premier of Nova Scotia. Mrs. Armstrong was the former Miss Alice Grant, of Weymouth North, a lady much admired and held in high esteem by Weymouthians generally.

Another barrister and attorney, at law not mentioned in this number was our old friend, Joseph A. Smith, a Scotchman from the Lowlands of Antigonish, who descended upon Weymouth much in the same manner as the Assyrians of old—minus cohorts. He wore a Glengarry cap and at times paraded to and from his office in the uniform of a captain of the N. S. militia, or some such organization. I do not remember that he ever played the bagpipes, but it was not from any lack of ability to blow them up that prevented him from doing so.

Smith was also a dyed in the wool Liberal but did not occupy any position of importance in the councils of his party. Neither did he achieve fame or fortune as an attorney while in Weymouth. But, of course, it will have to be granted that the making of a fortune in the practice of law in Weymouth was something that bordered closely upon the impossible. Smith's most important case was that resulting from charges that he brought against John Mullen, Justice of the Peace, at Port Gilbert, Mullen was a rather noted character of that day and age and came into prominence as administrator of the Estate of Joe Nick Toho, who was convicted of murdering a girl in his employ and attempting to destroy evidence of his crime by burning the body of the girl in a brush fire. Mullen was a smooth, individual, his clean-shaven face, pious manner and barb of ministerial black gave him a priestly appearance, and it is possible that he may have been brought up with the idea of entering the priesthood of his religion. The tale has often been told of his father's remarks at the time of his son's birth, as I remember them, were as follows: "When Java was three days old, a layman in his cradle he looks up at me and sez, 'Father, I want to make me a priest; and I sez, 'Jawn me boy I'll do the best I can for ye, and the Lord will do the rest.' Perhaps the old gent did do the best he could for his son, but evidently the Lord had other plans. As John grew in manhood he seemed to have acquired a desire for the study of the laws of man rather than for the laws of Deity and the teachings of the Humble Nazarene. He picked up a working knowledge of the statutes and general laws of the province and succeeded in having himself appointed a Justice of the Peace.

Mullen conducted his court in a rather high-handed manner and some of his decisions in cases in which Smith was interested, were not at all satisfactory to Smith, and he finally came to the conclusion that no matter how strong his case might be he would never be able to secure a favorable decision in Mullen's court. Smith therefore decided to get rid of Mullen, and filed charges with the authorities at Halifax, seeking a cancellation of Mullen's commission and relieving him of all authority as a J. P.

The investigation was held at Weymouth in the court room of N. E. Butler, J. P., before a special commissioner from Halifax—Mr. Arthur G. Troup.

The trial lasted for several days. It was during the busy season and many who were unable to work on account of the weather—and others who worked not at all—attended the sessions and enjoyed a very good show. The court room was crowded at all times. It was a contest between a bull dog and a fox. Smith would rush at Mullen in an attempt to browbeat him; Mullen would cleverly side-step the question and come back with a shaft of sarcasm and humor that brought many a laugh from the spectators. Smith would then go at Mullen with a blast, from which the fox seemed to have no chance to escape. Then Mullen would raise all sorts of objections, sometimes to have them sustained, sometimes overruled. In the latter case he would resort to tears and retain answers dripping with flattery and soft co-lery; at times he would indulge in flights of oratory and again would rave like a street preacher. Mullen quite won the sympathies of the spectators. Had his case been tried before a jury he might have scored a victory, but it was not a jury trial. In the end the bill of Joe Mullen's commission was revoked and all power as a magistrate taken from him. Thereafter he became a book agent, promoter, business counsellor and advisor, while some knowledge of law was required, and at times was active politically.

This affair, while it brought Smith some publicity, failed to bring him any more cases, and in disgust he took down his sign, closed his office, wiped the dust of Weymouth from his highly polished shoes and moved away to an adjoining county.

TIDINESS, FRESH PAINT AND FLOWERS

ALL THREE MAKE AN APPEAL TO THE TOURIST

By Observer in the Maritime Merchant.

Observer went out for a motor drive one day last week. He went with his friend the broker, and coming home via the western city gateway, the latter was driving up the steep hill away from the North West Arm when he said: "I am going to turn south at the next corner; I want you to see one of the most attractive looking residential properties you have seen for some time."

At the corner the turn was made, and after a short drive, passing a number of other most attractive properties, we came to our objective. And what the broker had said about it, Observer found to be true. He found a new house of exceedingly attractive design; he found it freshly painted, white with a light green trimmings; and he found the property showing a display of shrubs and flowers which was a real joy to the eye. In the front on both sides of the walk leading up to the entrance, there was a large bed of flowers. He will not enumerate the varieties, but they were very beautiful and quite better out the promise the broker had previously made. This, said the broker, pointing to the flower beds, "shows what is possible in flower-raising in Nova Scotia, and it surprises me that more flower-gardens is not being done." The broker incidentally is a flower gardener himself, and much of his spare time during the summer season he spends in his garden.

Since Observer came home from the above mentioned trip he has been wondering if there was anything he could do to encourage a greater interest in the physical appearance of our residences than most people are taking now. He feels that there should be more house-painting in Nova Scotia; that there should be more whitewashing, more flower-growing, more tidying-up of property generally. This is true of both city and country. Observer, of course, is thinking only of the people who are fairly well to do, though even less prosperous people might make some improvements if they tried. One will find an occasional person who might be classed as poor taking an interest in the appearance of his house and grounds. Even the poorest can keep his premises tidy. It is all a question of where there is a will there is a way.

It seems to Observer that there is now a stronger incentive than ever before for such improvements, for we are embarking on the enterprise of making the Maritime Provinces a great tourist country. Is it not true that every house we paint and every flower we grow and every yard we keep clean, is going to help us to make this effort a success? There used to be a time when the owner of a house in certain parts of the country did not need to care very much how his property looked, for in the whole course of the year very few people saw it. Travel through his section in those days was of small proportions, but in these days of good roads and motor cars, scores of visitors are passing daily during the season, and each one of them is taking back to his home in Massachusetts or elsewhere the impression of our country that he gathers during his visit. Think what the impression would be if all the houses a visitor saw on his trip were well painted, and if each had window boxes and a flower garden, and if the mark of the aesthetic were to be seen wherever he went!

Observer is not hopeful that a wholesale reform of our habits in this connection is likely to be obtained very quickly, but the effort to secure it he feels is worth attempting. We should all be doing what we can to secure it—particularly the newspapers of the Maritimes.

If every daily and weekly newspaper in the Maritime Provinces were to take up this work, Observer believes that wonderful things could be done. A newspaper publisher may perhaps ask why he should be expected to create a sale for paint and flower seeds when he has no personal business interest in either. There is an answer, however, and it is that the more painting and tidying up he can assist in having done, and the more flowers he can induce to have grown, the more attractive to tourist travel he is helping to make our country. The more tourist travel we have, of course, the greater will be the cash income from the tourist industry, and when this is divided among all classes, everyone will get his share, the newspaper publisher included.

Observer does not know what programme the tourist committees of the provinces have planned for the coming year, but he hopes that in it there will be included such an effort as we have indicated above. More than an economic return may be expected. There will also be a stimulation of confidence created by the appearance of attractive properties which cannot fail to be felt by all who see them. Observer would like to think that 1935 is going to see the Maritime Provinces go much farther in the cultivation and encouragement of the aesthetic than it has in any ten years of its past history.

A SERIOUS THEFT

Once again we have heard of the meanest thief who this time seems to have surpassed all other mean ones we have heard of.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Titus, and Willard Titus, of Freeport, who have been at Weymouth, North trading fish for vegetables, fruit, etc., left on Saturday to return to their home. The boat was loaded heavily decks to the water, a stiff breeze was blowing and the Bay very rough, when about half way of the Bay, Mr. Titus emptied the contents of his fish-salton gasoline can into his tank—only to discover that some sneak thief, while he was at Weymouth North, had stolen half of the gasoline, filling the can with water. After carefully straining the gasoline he was able to get enough to take him nearly to Freeport, and was this able with difficulty to get into their home port.

We wonder if the person or persons who did this mean trick realized that they were endangering the lives of three innocent people, and that they might easily have become murderers as well as thieves.

KEEPING PRICES DOWN

During the time that several tea houses have been advancing their prices, the blenders of Morse's Teas have, while maintaining the standard, striven to keep the prices of their respective blends down. This is in line with the policy of enlightened business concerns who have refrained from advances as long as possible in view of the effect such a course has upon consumer demand. They are hopeful that they will be able to continue to avoid advances, being encouraged in this hope by the recent developments in sterling exchange. Thus, Morse's Bluebonnet Tea, known as "the great economy tea," is still 45 cents per pound package, while various brands claimed to be of corresponding grade have been advanced to 50 cents; Morse's Standard Tea known as "the good old family tea of the Maritimes," is still 60 cents, whereas some brands claimed to be of the same quality have been advanced to 55 and 60 cents; while Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe Tea, Canada's Tea de Luxe, is still 70 cents against 75 and 80 cents now asked for teas claimed to be of the same standard.

THE CHRISTIAN AT PRAYER

Golden Text:—Continuing in saint in prayer.—Romans 12:12.

Lesson Passage:—Matthew 6: 5-15.

If radio's slim fingers Can pluck a melody From night, and toss it over A continent or sea; If the petaled white notes Of a violin Are blown across the mountains Or the city's din; If songs, like crimson roses, Are culled from this blue air— Why should mortals wonder If God hears prayer.—Ethel Romig Fuller.

Public Prayer, 5

There is an incalculable amount of public prayer. No one can estimate the amount of prayer around the world in one week, not even in Christian meetings. It is a supremely dangerous practice, Jesus knew this. He had seen people who had come to care more for publicity than for prayer itself. There are subtle dangers for those who habitually lead in public prayer according to calendar and clock. They may say words without feeling, and care more for high sounding phrases than for moral and spiritual values. To detect these dangers is the first step towards overcoming them. Jesus warns against these dangers of public prayer but he desired that there should be more and better prayer. Prayer focuses social purpose and leads to united action. If all the worshippers have prepared themselves spiritually for the high act of prayer; the presence of the Holy Spirit will be felt and the leader may bring all into the presence of the Unseen. Instead of being frightened to attempt public prayer because of its dangers and difficulties, we should discipline ourselves that we may worthily approach the Most High.

Private Prayer, 6

Not all are qualified to lead in public prayer, but all may pray in private. Here, too, preparation and training are necessary to receive the maximum benefit from prayer. Quiet and solitude enhance the value of prayer. It is possible to pray amid exploding bombs and busy streets, but normally we do better if we have perfect silence. Special times are a help, night or morning, or after the midday meal for busy housewives with children. Sacred places add to the sanctity of prayer, places with person associations; a certain room, a pew in a church, under a tree or on a hill top. Jesus often went alone for prayer. Early in the morning He would go out on the hillside to pray to the Father in secret. In the Garden of Gethsemane. He prayed on into the night. As important as solitude is mental detachment. It is idle to escape from the busy world if we carry the world in our thoughts. Prayer is concentration, wrestling against some temptation or for some blessing, having unbroken fellowship with God. The door of mind and heart must be closed as well as the door of a room. Private prayer does not always need to be long, but it does need to be intense.

Prayer Language, 7, 8

Every interest in life develops its own vocabulary. Motoring, flying and radio have produced phraseology of their own. There is a language of prayer, words of beauty with heightened feeling and suggestiveness. Of course, colloquial language is often used in prayer and earnest people pouring out their hearts to God in a crisis may not pause to select devotional words. Yet a life of prayer does lead to the use of a certain form of language containing many echoes of the Bible, prayer books, poems and hymns. There is a classical literature of prayer handed down from saints and mystics with which we do well to be familiar, and there are modern books of prayer that repay our study. One thing to avoid is any suggestion of what is crude or coarse. Nor should we use too often the same words and phrases, no matter how beautiful they be. Prayer is a process of moral and mental discipline even as to choice of words and ideas. Through practice, some develop a natural rhythm in prayer. The most important thing, is that the prayer should be sincere, hot from the heart and conscious of the majesty of God. A study of the prayers of the Bible will enrich our vocabulary for prayer.

The Lord's Prayer, 9-13

Our best example as to prayer is the prayer that Jesus taught His disciples (to pray). The Lord's Prayer is significant that there is only one thing we know the disciples asked Jesus to teach them to do. They asked Him to teach them to pray and the Lord's Prayer is the result. It is very brief, only a few dozen words in English. It is a special prayer—no singular personal pronoun is used. It is a missionary prayer beseeching the coming of God's Kingdom. It is a spiritual prayer dealing with the deepest realities of the inner life. It is a God-centred prayer addressed to our Father in Heaven and willing that His will be done. The Lord's Prayer is a miracle of condensed expression and expanding truths. Though it has been repeated many billions of times throughout nineteen centuries, it is not shoddy or out of date. It repays our study when we think it through. Always, as we pray it, we should think it, and we should refuse, in public prayer, to gallop through it as though the chief aim is to make record time. An actor once recited the Lord's Prayer and a Christian man said, "I never heard that prayer before." The pulpit may learn a lesson from the stage as to noise and dignity in speech.

Prayer Principles, 14

ive that we do not need to be taught to pray, but we do need to be taught how to pray. To talk to God is as simple an act of devotion as for a child to talk to its parents. Its naturalness has been compared to that of breathing. The result of prayer depends upon our sincerity and reality in prayer. If we pray for forgiveness for ourselves while nursing hate against others, we defeat our own prayers. But if we are ready to live more nearly as we pray, we set in motion powers and forces that tend to answer our own prayers. If we are natural and genuine in prayer, without pretense or self-deception, we bring health to our spirits, energy to our wills and light breaks upon our darkness. Here, as everywhere else, our supreme example is Christ. To pray as he prayed and for the things for which he prayed is to find in prayer an open door to God.

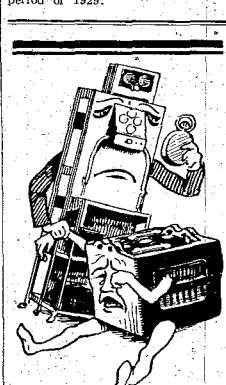

Questions for Discussion

- 1.—What prayer habits have you found most helpful?
- 2.—Which do you find more profitable, public or private prayer?
- 3.—How may we correct the abuses or misuses of the Lord's Prayer?
- 4.—In prayer should we think chiefly of ourselves, or of God?
- 5.—Is prayer psychology automatic?

HEALTH by

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

MALADJUSTED

According to Herbert Spencer "Life is a continuous adjustment of internal relations to external conditions." It is obvious, then, that if we are to succeed in life, we must be adaptable, or, in other words, we must acquire a capacity to fit into the situations whether at home, at school, or at work.

The new-born baby is dependent upon others for all his needs. He is endowed with the equipment which makes it possible for him to make adjustments, but he must learn how to use his natural capacities. Education is a growth-process which finally brings into being an adult who is capable of making a satisfactory adjustment to the world in which he has to live.

Just as we vary in degrees of physical strength and as our physical bodies differ one from the other, so do we differ in our intellectual capacity. What becomes of us depends not so much upon our intelligence, but rather upon how successful we are in the best use of our intelligence.

We all possess certain instincts. The instincts may be considered under three headings, the stimulus or situation which gives rise to certain feelings or emotions which, in turn, are expressed in outward action. All have experienced the emotion of fear called forth by some object of sudden noise, which emotion finds expression in a quickening of the heart, pallor and, perhaps, faint. It is not desirable to suppress the instincts because they are the driving forces to human activities. What we should seek is, as to how we may direct the expression of our emotions in a socially desirable manner. For example, we must learn to endure a temporary discomfort if by so doing we may gain a permanent satisfaction in the future.

The child entering school has a difficult time unless during his preschool years he has learned to be one of a group, and to secure satisfaction in comradeship and in doing things well. The immature child who is still emotionally a baby, will want to retain, in school, the centre of the stage which he holds at home. He will want his mother because he has not become independent of her emotionally. He may be "smart", or may misbehave to gain attention if he is starved of affection at home. The worst type, because his condition is potentially the most serious, is the quiet so-called "good" child, who is a solitary individual living within himself.

Parents can help their children to a healthy mental maturity by giving them understanding and leadership towards independence. Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

EDSON W. WAITE

This is no time to slack down. It is the time to pep up, stick out your chest like a poultice pigeon and go ahead.

Quality, service and newspaper advertising are the secrets of success in any business.

Little progress has been made by lawmakers toward encouraging the farmer and the business man. They restrict, they limit, they prohibit this and that and often their purpose seems to be to hamper and annoy business.

No real citizen takes a real interest in his home city until he does something for it.

Some people say money doesn't go so far as it used to, but it's a cinch it goes faster.

So long as there is a margin between what our cities are as places in which to live and work and what they may become, there is plenty of work in every community for a Board of Trade.

The man who succeeds is the industrious worker who wins success by hard plugging.

The amount of business a merchant can do is governed to a great extent by the amount of newspaper advertising he uses.

Between Ourselves

There is nothing we can do about it now, but I am sure strikes me that the folks in Digby are going to miss the hockey matches this winter. Of ready the sports editors of the daily press have become quite "hockey-minded" and are filling their columns with hockey dope and hockey puns. For many years the Digby Ravens have been in the "hockey limelight"—and no doubt would have made a good showing this year had it not been for the fire which robbed us of our rink.

But—no rink, no Ravens. So I guess there is little I can do or say about it just now. Perhaps, this season without hockey, may arouse some enthusiasm and in another year or so Digby may again have a rink. There is an old saying to the effect that "one never misses the water till the well runs dry." Let us hope the same applies to hockey and that enough people will miss the good old game this year and make some sort of an arrangement to form a rink for another year.

Two or three years ago there was some talk of organizing a curling club in Digby. Perhaps the hockey fans and curlers could get together and build a rink suitable for both. Who knows?

But, speaking of rinks and that sort of thing reminds me of a suggestion made by Arce Dillon at the last meeting of the Kiwanis Club. Arce drew the Kiwanians' attention to the fact that without a rink there would be very little for the young folks to do this winter. He suggested that the Kiwanians get together with the directors of the Boy Scouts' Hall, make some arrangement for putting it in proper repair, and make it into a regular "Community House" where the young people could get together, under proper supervision, on a winter evening and enjoy themselves. His suggestion is a good one and will be more fully discussed at later meetings of the Club. The need of a community hall has been stressed on many occasions and there is no time like the present to act.

Shipping News

The port of Digby is the scene of considerable activity these days. With the opening of the scallop season on Monday many of the scallop boats have cleared for the grounds, although several of the boats are not yet fitted out. There is very little activity at the wharves, as the largest fleets in the history of the scallop fishing industry of Nova Scotia.

Among the new boats in operation are the Sonata, Capt. Harold Halliday. This trim little craft of 17 tons, just launched a few weeks ago, carries a crew of four men. The tons register is also one of the new boats this year. Both these boats are owned by Capt. George Morrell, of Digby. Three new boats have been built at Hillsboro, Annapolis County, and will be operated by Captain Bernard Longmire and his sons. These boats have not yet joined the fleet, but are expected shortly.

Another of George Morrell's boats, the Finback, operated by Mansford Burnham, has been completely reconditioned. This boat is of 24 tons register. The Victor M. in command of Capt. Lee Elliott, and owned by Horton Stark of Digby, has been reconditioned and looks like a new boat. Among the arrivals at the port have been the Phyllis C., Captain E. G. Crocker, of Freeport, with fresh fish for the Marketing National Fish Corporation; the tug boat Mary Carr, McKinnon, with her charge, the Norwegian steamer Starfish, Capt. Jentof; the Norwegian tug of 350 cords of pulp wood here for the Lincoln Pulp Company, Bangor, Me., and sailed for Weymouth to complete loading.

The Mary Lou (No. 125) Capt. Fred Green, 8 tons, cleared for fishing. This motor vessel was picked up with engine trouble by the Capt. of the Bay View Life Saving Station, of Green Point, last week.

News from outports shows considerable activity in shipping. At Freeport, the Mary Lou, Capt. L. Melanson, arrived from Bangor, Me., and cleared with 65 cords of peeled pulp wood for the Eastern Pulp Co., Vinal Haven, Me. This speedy little motor vessel has made 22 return trips from Plympton to Maine ports since May 15. From Plympton this season 1159 in a tonnage of 701 tons has been shipped, and from Port of Riverport, and the Misses Vera and Jean Corkum, of Middle LaHave, were week end guests of Mr. Corkum's sister, Mrs. J. M. Wallis.

The motor vessel Tarati, Capt. Horace Threlkeld, cleared this week from Tiverton for Gloucester, with 149555 lbs. of dried hake and cod, shipped by the Davis Fisheries, of Freeport, to the Davis Fisheries of Gloucester. The tug schooner Mary Brooks, Capt. Brooks, arrived at Freeport with 295 tons hard coal from New Brunswick, discharging part of her cargo there, cleared for Weymouth to discharge the balance.

B. H. Ruggles, P. W. Holdsworth, A. J. Dillon, H. E. Reicker and G. E. Torrie, owners of camps on the Miramichi Lake, have secured from the United States through the assistance of R. W. Turf, of Wolfville, a considerable quantity of wild rice, which they are sowing in Mallett's Lake, as duck food.

Correction

In the account of the death of Mr. John A. Farnsworth, published in our issue of October 5th, we regret that a mistake was made in printing the name of the deceased. Mr. Farnsworth should have been Anna Sabina Farnsworth and not Anna Sabina Farnsworth.

VOLUME LXI, NO. 6

Shot and Killed While Fighting Off Attacks of Wild Dog

The body of Chester Longmire, age about 31, was found in the woods near his home at Hillsburn, Annapolis County, by members of a searching party, about 9.30 o'clock yesterday morning. At an inquest, presided over by Coroner, Dr. Braine, of Annapolis Royal, a verdict of accidental death was returned.

Longmire had been shot through the body, the bullet passing between his ribs and stomach and piercing his spine.

About ten feet away from the remains was the body of a dog, which had been shot twice. For some time a "wild dog" was being roaming the woods of that section, menacing livestock on the farms. It is thought that on meeting the animal in the woods Longmire fired two shots at it. From signs the beast attempted to attack the man who clubbed it with the stock of his rifle, and in doing so, the gun was discharged thru the unfortunate young man. Part of the broken gun stock was found on the body of the dog.

Longmire left his home to go in the woods about 3.30 Wednesday afternoon, leaving word with his mother that he would return for supper. About six o'clock two shots were heard. Fears for his safety were felt that evening when he did not return. Yesterday morning a search party was organized, and the tragedy was discovered about 9.30.

Chester Longmire was the son of the late Capt. Arthur W. Longmire. He has been engaged in scallop fishing with his brother, Eldon, and together, they had just completed their new boat, the "Firefly," and made their trial trips last week.

He was unmarried and is survived by his mother; one sister, Mrs. Harold Halliday; and two brothers, Eldon and Maynard.

BAND NOTES

It is very important that every member of both Junior and Senior Band attends the next meeting at the Band Room next Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock. Important matters of band policy and objectives will be discussed. The new fellows can shake hands with the old players and observe their methods of practice while the prevailing spirit of good fellowship and enthusiasm will bind them into a working body where harmony in interest and ambition, as well as harmony in music, will predominate.

The Band Constitution and By-Laws provide that "Players to form the Original City Band shall be elected by a majority vote of the Music Council," but this election has not been held. It will take place at the next meeting of the Music Council. This election was wisely set at such a late date because players who have shown lack of interest or loyalty to the Band, and who do not deserve permanent membership will be well known and their names can be omitted from the nomination list which is made out by a committee of three, the Bandmaster being one of the committee. Let us hope there will be no cause to omit any name.

NEW OFFICERS FOR KIWANIS

At the regular luncheon of the Kiwanis Club on Tuesday the following officers were elected:—

H. J. Campbell, the president elect, was installed as vice-president at the club last January, but took over the duties of president on the departure of R. H. Lockward for Liverpool. The new officers will be installed in January.

NEXT WEEK IS NATIONAL FISH WEEK

The Canadian Fisheries Association has set aside the week of October 29 to November 4 as National Fish Week. During this week all loyal Canadians are urged to eat fish, and thus give their support to the fishermen of the Dominion. The fishing industry is one of the most important of our country. The values of the fisheries cannot be estimated in dollars and cents, and yet it is the fishermen who usually gets the "tough breaks" in hard times. Fish is one of our most important and most healthful foods. Eat more of it. By doing so you are giving your support to a great industry and thus doing your part to make better times all around.

FUR MARKETING SERVICE NEW BUSINESS ORGANIZATION

The Fur Marketing Service is the name of a newly formed organization, having as its aim and object the prompt and economical marketing of silver fox and other furs. The partners in this enterprise are Fred E. Bath, a well known business man of Bridgetown, who will be the manager, and Clement C. Avar, a journalist and fur farmer of Sackville, N. B. The head office of the new organization will be in Bridgetown. Both Mr. Smith and Mr. Avar have had twenty years experience in producing and marketing silver foxes as breeders and as pelts. They believe that can be of real service to fur farmers along many lines:

- 1.—In reducing the cost of selling furs to the minimum.
 - 2.—In keeping the fur farmer informed as to market conditions with a view to avoiding serious losses.
 - 3.—In getting cash promptly for skins.
 - 4.—In allowing the fur farmer complete control of his skins.
- Further information will be given through the newspapers, through circular letters by personal visits.

POPPY DAY

Poppy Day will soon be upon us again. The blood-red emblem of sacrifice, which depicts the poppy through which the men of the British Empire fought, died and died has assumed in our generation a significance born of its association with our heroic dead.

To sell a poppy on Poppy Day, is to buy a poppy on Poppy Day, are duties which Canadians undertake with reverence and pride. The poppy blooms are redolent of glorious achievement; they recall the ideals for which 60,000 Canadian soldiers and their lives—ideals not yet fulfilled, but, in the passage of time, nearer to fulfillment than at any other period in the world's history. The poppy, which the British and the Canadians made in Veterans shops by disabled soldiers, and in many respects, the production of these symbols is the only means of subsistence for most of them.

Poppy Day is the one day of the year on which the Canadian Legion solicits funds for the public fund. These funds are used entirely for service bureau work and relief purposes.

On Tuesday night, October 30th, commencing at 5.30, a "Hallowe'en Bean Supper" will be served in the Salvation Army Hall.

No man has been more capable of handling the relationships with government that the veteran newspaper-trained association secretary. He has the entire to all legislative halls and to the vast forum of the public press. We hope for his speedy recovery and his return to duty.—Boot and Shoe Recorder, Oct. 6.

Liberal-Conservatives' Annual Convention Held

M. C. Denton presided over the annual convention of the Digby Co. Liberal-Conservative Association, at the Community Theatre, Weymouth, on Tuesday afternoon. There was a fair representation of delegates from the polling districts of the county. After the reading of the minutes of the last annual meeting and of the nominating convention of last year, W. H. Farnham, former M. L. A. for Digby, moved that the officers for the ensuing term remain as they stood. His motion was seconded by D. C. MacKay. However, as some of the executive on the previous list had died or moved away, some changes were necessary. The officers are as follows:—

President—M. C. Denton, Digby.
First Vice-President—A. A. Theriault, Belliveau's Cove.

Second Vice-President—Edmund Robicheau, Maxwellton.

Secretary-Treasurer—J. J. Wallis, Digby.

An executive committee, composed of the officers and a representative from each polling district, was also appointed.

In making his motion Mr. Farnham paid high tribute to Hon. R. B. Bennett, premier of Canada, and to H. B. Short, M. P., for Annapolis-Digby.

Mr. Short, in his address, expressed his regrets to the formation of the new federal constituency of Digby-Annapolis-Kings, which made the Digby County District of Clare part of the Yarmouth electoral district. He said he opposed this redistribution without success when the bill was brought before the house at Ottawa.

He also referred to Hon. R. B. Bennett as an outstanding statesman, and through his efforts, he said, that Canada came through these trying years in the manner that she has. Canada, he went on to say, has managed to meet her obligations during these years of depression, and is in better condition today than any country in the world outside of England.

Mr. Short regretted very much that he has been forced to resign from active public life on account of his health, and spoke many kind words of appreciation of the friendships he has made while he has been member for this constituency. In his opinion there will be no general election until next fall, possibly in September.

T. E. G. Lynch and M. C. Denton both expressed their regrets and appreciation, in behalf of the convention, to Mr. Short. At the close standing votes of confidence in Hon. R. B. Bennett, premier of Canada, and his government, and to Gordon S. Harrington, leader of the opposition in the local house, were unanimously passed, as was a vote of appreciation and regret to H. B. Short, M. P.

Shipping News

The motor vessel Radio III, Capt. C. L. Thurber, arrived from Tiverton in ballast, and cleared on the 19th with 351 barrels of cod oil and 201 packages of dry hake sounds.

The motor vessel Beatrice L. Capt. L. Melanson, arrived at Plympton on the 19th from Meteghan, where she has been undergoing repairs, and cleared for Gloucester, Mass., with 65 cords of wood.

The Norwegian steamer Sawastin, Capt. Jenoff, cleared from Bear River on the 20th with 890 cords of spruce peeled pulpwood.

Shipping activities throughout the county this week have been quiet due to stormy weather. The steamer Glenholme has been tied up at the "spurr" since Monday waiting for weather to cross the bay to Saint John. Due to adverse weather conditions the scallop fleet has not been out this week. The catch for the first few days of the season was fairly good. Scallops were then quoted at $2.50 per gallon. The Earl H., owned by F. L. Anderson and operated by Capt. Victor Halliday, was one of the latest craft to clear for scallops through the local customs office.

Bradford Morrell, of Westport, returning from a motor trip to Milton, Queens County, Halifax, and other points in the province, spent a few days in town recently: the guest of his sister Mr. A. J. Westhaver. Mr. Morrell has been keeper of the light at Westport for the past thirty-three years.

THERE IS STILL A SCARCITY OF WATER

In spite of rainy recent rains much more is needed in order to fill the wells of Digby County farmers. The water question in many cases has been acute; the recent rains have given some relief, but the wells could stand considerably more. One Culloden farmer, on Tuesday, after a rainy week end, was only able to draw two pails of water at one time from a well, which under normal conditions, provides a good supply all the year round.

A good supply of water in the lakes and streams of the vicinity is reported, although very few are back to normal.

Don't forget the Hospital Benefit Chowder and Bean Supper, at the Winchester Hotel, Tuesday next. George Morrell's Fish Chowder will be served; Supper from 5 to 7. Tickets—35 cents.

DISCUSSION ON TRADE

A "frank and open discussion" of trade relations between Canada and the United States will be held in New York when a delegation of the Canadian Board of Trade, headed by Mr. R. J. Major, the president of the Montreal Board, attends the National Foreign Trade Conference in a three-day session, beginning next Wednesday.

Practical effect to the policies shaped during the discussions will be sought by representatives to both governments by the Canadian and American trade bodies individually, following approval of the principles involved by the conference as a whole, it is explained.

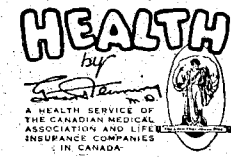

In addition to trade agreements to be suggested, there are conflicting regulations now in force, which without detriment to either country, could be remedied. These have to do with customs and other administrative regulations of importance to both countries.

BIRTHDAYS

Mrs. Roosevelt, arriving at her 50th birthday, has shown a very feminine lack of enthusiasm for the anniversary. "When you get to be my age," she says, "birthdays shouldn't be a time to celebrate. The more you forget your birthdays as you grow older, the younger you stay."

That is a good rule. There's another which belongs to it. The more you keep in touch with young people, the younger you stay.

Children may do as much for parents, in preserving their youth, as parents do for children in bringing them to maturity.

The FIRESIDE PHILOSOPHER

By ALFRED BIGGS

Nobody is indispensable.

Never take love for granted.

History will call ours a dark age.

Quick temper spells poor judgment.

Cheerfulness breaks down adversity.

Grief for the dead is a form of self-pity.

Laws that clash with common sense should be nullified.

By the way some folks go after money you would think they expect to live forever.

though it is apt to be resented by his parents and others.

Help can be given the child through this period by not drawing attention to his awkwardness. For example, he should never be called clumsy, and his size and his actions should be ignored. Clothing which fits, rather than clothes which have been outgrown, will help. It should also be explained to him that the overactive oil gland in his skin which causes pimples, is normal to his age, and that the condition will respond to treatment and most likely correct itself in a few years. He should be praised for his successes instead of having his failures constantly pointed out. He should be encouraged to have plenty of rest; to keep his skin clean by frequent bathing, and to eat a balanced diet, avoiding an excess of sweets.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Ninety years ago there were no more than some 700 Americans in California.

Fifty Years Ago in the Joggin and Acacia Valleys

"They that go down to the sea in ships, that do business in great waters; these see the works of the Lord and His wonders in the deep."

Well, boys and girls of fifty years ago, when last I wrote mother sent me to milk the cows. I brought in the milk, then sat down to a good old corned beef and cabbage supper—and, gee, I was hungry.

I made mention further back, of the Nathaniel B. Raymond. And the brief story of this oak ribbed, oak planked, two-masted schooner, stands out in memory as a most interesting episode. This vessel plied the waters of the Bay of Fundy and was taken over from some concern in Saint John by Nathaniel B. Raymond, a former deep sea captain. Raymond, in my time, had sailed "the seven seas"—the Atlantic, the Pacific, the China Sea, through Philippine waters, twice round the Horn, as captain of the neat and complete barquentine, the Marquis of Lorne.

On one trip Capt. Raymond was engaged by an English concern to sail the Marquis of Lorne around the world, on what would be a two-year cruise, stopping at such ports (after rounding the Horn), as San Francisco, Honolulu, Asiatic ports, Manila, to Australia and finally back to New York.

Incidentally, my brother George, whom you boys will remember, accompanied the Raymond family on this cruise. Besides the Captain and his wife there were two children, the elder being John Raymond. My brother, George, went as a companion to John. They returned after two years and related many tales of interest, details of which I may give you at some future date.

Now back to the Nathaniel B. Raymond. As I said before, this vessel was purchased by the captain and put into the cordwood service, as between Digby, Rockland and Eastport, Maine. On the occasion I have in mind the vessel was brought in to Joggin Bridge under her own sail. There she was picked up by a tug before passing through the draw and towed to the Nichols' wharf, in the Upper Joggin, about a mile below the Raymond mill.

Nichols' wharf was on my father's property and there was collected the cord wood cutting of the winter, from the neighboring forests. I can count piles of it in my mind's eye right now, stacked up two and three cords high, several blocks long, on the low flat ground between the wharf and the old Joggin Shore road. It was loading time for the Nathaniel B. Raymond and, bear in mind, great care was taken to spot a slant, dard keel bottom, boat or ship at the dock or wharf, as she had to rest plumb straight and clear on her own keel, leaning properly inboard to the wharf piling by tender, knowing that when the tide went out she must be self-supporting. Other than that her bulk rested inboard with a slight list until return of the tide.

The vessel was filled plumb full of cord wood in the hold and then took in a deck load high above her railing, crowned to the middle, all of which was well lashed down. The hatches were canvassed and barred and the last rope was seized almost at the last hour set for sailing.

It was a bright and clear afternoon. The marsh lands were covered down the channel for a matter of a mile to obliterate all land marks. Nothing was showing to indicate the true channel other than the brush targets, wherein the ship might pass clear of all obstructions.

It was a gala day. The beach and the wharf were crowded with people. Sailorman Bill Hunt, of wide experience on the old time sailing ships, was at the wheel as helmsman. The ship started out under tow and passed down the channel for a matter of half a mile and then—all of a sudden, and unexpectedly, she brought up short on the unseen marshland embankment. The tow line broke, and the tug forged ahead in a sudden burst of speed which proved warning enough that the Nathaniel B. Raymond was aground.

You can well imagine what consternation reigned. Pilot Bill Hunt was furious and gave vent to his feelings in true sailor fashion. Captain Raymond, to put it mildly, was mad. The woodmen were disappointed and everyone connected with the venture were sad and sore. The start for sea had been made just at the turn of the tide as it was figured that time would be gained by swinging out with the ebb. But, in those parts, once the tide ebbs it goes out like a roaring mill stream, therefore the Nathaniel B. Raymond was caught to stay, and as the tide ebbed she listed outwards from the marsh bank and within a very short time the deck load of cord wood had formed a line down stream. The procession of cord wood soon reached the end of the marsh land and beyond the Joggin Bridge, headed for Digby Gut and the Bay of Fundy.

Nothing to do now but make the best of it. So, as sore hearts and ill tempered minds once again grew calm, they all got together and on the next tide the vessel was floated and returned to the wharf, where she took on a partial deck load. On the next tide she pursued her course without interruption—but she never visited the good old Joggin again.

If I have erred or omitted, in this tale of the sea, I beg to be corrected or forgiven.

It is only four miles to the old pasture on the back road and mother says it's time to go bring in the cows. Good bye, boys!

R. M. Nichols.

AT THE CROSSROADS

Where the hill road meets the Ridge road; where the Ridge road meets the Digby road; where we used to meet together; there stands the little church—not far afield, but near the corner.

A little further on the Ridge road, just beyond the old-time grave yard, stands the little old grey school house, beside the old beech trees.

Across the way 'tis wooded: always picturesque; and in the spring and autumn seasons, the foliage looks the best.

Did you ever, on your way home, just across the good old Ridge road; wander down the lane, overhanging by branches, when the sun was shining through? Did you stop and think and ponder, charming by the music of the leaves? And sense the presence of the fairies, while you felt the gentle breeze?

Then you scamped down the pathway, till you came to Raymond's field, where the Valley caught your gaze. In the foreground were the daisies, gently swaying in the breeze. Again you stop and ponder, wondering what it's all about. Well, 'tis nothing but the splendor of the Valley—and the mount.

You can see the road to Shelburne; you can see the old back road; you can see the fields and orchards; almost back to Cherry Hill; you can see the shining mill pond, and the rustic old saw mill.

It's early in the morning and the sun is creeping up; and you've crossed the fields of daisies, mingled with the buttercups; you will get an inspiration which you never can for.

get. And when you reach the school house, to the teacher you will say, "Here, teacher, mine. I've brought you a gift of sunshine today; these flowers—for you—all sparkling, from the fields below the grove; they're still fragrant with their perfume—petals sweet as any rose."

R. M. Nichols.

THE BREWERS' SLOGAN

"A Million Boys are Needed." Have you heard the brewers' cry? Can you see the fearful vision Of this army going by? A million young men give us, Who have never tasted beer; For new customers are needed For our business, year by year.

"A million boys are needed." Friend, have you a boy to spare To fill dying drunkard's places? Is it your son's "needed" here? "A million boys are needed."— ("See the brewers' plead their cause") "Our trade's urgent need demands them. And we need, too, freer laws."

"A million boys are needed." "Tis your son and mine they claim. But—our daughters now they're asking. Not our sons alone! Oh, shame! Shame on Christian men and women, Who can fail to rise in might, And forever banish from us Every foe of Truth and Right!"

"A million boys are needed." Say, O Brewer, have YOU one? Haven't YOU a lad to offer? Why not give your own dear son? Haven't you a baby daughter You can spare to help your trade? Never mind if she IS ruined— Think of all the wealth you've made.

Send her to your cursed beer-rooms, Let HER drink your brew of hell! If YOU haven't son or daughter, Why seek mine your rank to swell?

"A million boys (and girls) are needed." "Yes, WE need them every one. For a glorious, clean tomorrow, When the cause of Truth is won."

SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY CLUB

Two years ago today the Barton-Brighton School and Community Club was organized. At the organization meeting there were very few people, but the club was very active that first year. The club was awarded a five-dollar prize for the best record of work done during the year, of any organization of that type in Nova Scotia. Before the first anniversary of the club a Community Library was established, a great deal of work was done during the year, and the club was very active in the community.

The library now contains over five hundred volumes, and there have been many comments on the high standard of books and magazines. The library now contains a great many books and magazines, and there have been many comments on the high standard of books and magazines.

THE CHRISTIAN'S STANDARD OF
LIFE

Golden Text—"And be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit." Ephesians 5: 18.

Lesson Passage—Ephesians 4: 17, 27; 5: 15-21.

Humanity is one; no weakest brother. Can fail or falter, sin or suffer woe. But that the suffering reacheth every other.

And all the world with him doth fainter grow. Humanity is one; thou that o'ercomest, thou victor.

O thou be strong for those who are so weak.

So shall a thousand triumph where thou winnest.

And many find what few know how to seek.

Are We Pagans? 4: 17-19

Recently a man published a book with the title, "I Was A Pagan." Fortunately he was able to use the past tense, but candid compels us to admit that much of the pagan spirit has survived in our civilized era. Pagan thought was very superstitious. We are still learning from Roman law and Greek philosophy, but daily life in both Greek and Roman empires was filled with superstition as their highly developed mythology shows. Paul had wide contacts with Jews, Romans and Greeks and he spoke of the vanity of pagan minds. He felt that there was a distinct difference in the Christian faith, with more truth and less credulity and fear. It was said that the Christians out-thought, out-loved, and out-lived the pagans. Christianity tried to make her converts live clean lives, whereas pagan religions sometimes made immoral acts a part of religious rites. Man at his best is not far removed from the animal, and it takes the utmost spiritual culture to make his spiritual qualities dominant. It is an achievement if in our natures we can let the ape and tiger die, but pagan religion all too often tended to keep the ape and tiger alive.

Are We Christians? 20-24

The use of the word Christian as an adjective is necessarily somewhat vague, because it is used in so many different senses. The word indicates a direction rather than a clear cut boundary line. Two things, however, distinguish the Christian way of life. First, an emphasis is given to the importance of truth. The Christian faith is a search for the use of reason. Christ, as a teacher, and He made an appeal to active minds. He thought deeply and could consistently urge his disciples to love God with their whole minds. The Christian faith is a rational faith, building on experience and testing convictions as we go along. True piety brings deliverance from ignorant superstition. Secondly, transformed lives are proof of Christian power. There is no more convincing evidence of the reality of Christ than when by His grace bad people are made good. Conversion is not a breach of natural law, but is according to spiritual laws. Christian growth is according to mental laws. The renewing of our minds is a repeated fact. Christians become "new creatures" or "new creations." The New Testament speaks of it as a second birth. One distinctive feature of the Christian religion is the continued and widespread transformation of individuals by conversion.

Are We International? 25

The theme of this lesson has been chosen for use on International Temperance Sunday. There is a World League Against Alcoholism and it is fitting that temperance education should be international as the selling agencies for liquor are organized on an international basis. The temperance question is no longer a personal question of a little wine for the stomach's sake; it is a reckoning with a great organization that for commercial profit seeks to make the beverage use of alcohol world wide. In many ways life is being internationalized. Science, education, literature, art, sport, trade and religion are rapidly becoming more international. In pagan society tribal and national spirit are very strong. In Christian society an advance is being made towards universal brotherhood. In the twentieth century we must be our brother's keeper in an international as well as an individual sense. Paul soon broke the bounds of Jewish nationalism and encouraged international fellowship. He collected money from Gentiles for relief among the poor in Jerusalem. In recent years Christian benevolence has broken national boundaries in Near East relief. Christian missions are another evidence of a growing Christian internationalism.

Are We Sympathetic? 26, 27

Even when we cannot give money we can give sympathy. We are encouraged to be flexible in our sympathy, able to weep with those who weep and to rejoice with those who rejoice. The true Christian spirit is altruistic. Christ thought constantly of others and He repeatedly taught His followers to consider the welfare of others before their own. As usual, conduct arises from belief. If we really believe Christ's teaching about divine fatherhood and human brotherhood, our convictions will bear fruit in social sympathy. We shall be ready to forgive even as we hope to be forgiven. God's forgiveness to us prompts us to forgive our fellow men. Instead of our social relationships being on the low basis of grasping greed, we come to consider the welfare of others as important as our own. When we pray the Lord's Prayer, asking for forgiveness, we feel the necessity of forgiving others, if we hope to be forgiven. Christ Himself is our example of forgiveness. He forgave His murderers: is there any injury His followers should not be ready to forgive? Total abstinence who detest drunkenness may sometimes be tempted to be harsh towards drinkers. This does no good. To be sympathetic and kind is more likely to free others from the bondage of habit.

Are We Temperate? 5: 15-21

Alcoholic intoxication is debasing. It is voluntary temporary madness and in time it registers its results on the body. The Greeks among whom Paul had lived showed a religious enthusiasm amounting to frenzy, but often it was induced by liquor. These religious devotees wanted exhilaration and they knew no way to get it other than intoxication. In our day many people drink for the physical feeling brought on by alcoholic beverages and the temperance problem is not drunkenness but drinking. A man who has consulted many medical men about the liquor habit, says that it is now generally agreed among scientific men that the acute problem is not the drunkard, but the physical, mental and moral deterioration which follows the habitual moderate drinking. The cure is to be found by overcoming the evil by the good. Intemperate people are missing life's best. As one of the "twice-born" remarked: "Cocktail parties are not in it for thrills compared with conversion." To have daily fellowship with Christ is to know life's highest and best.

Questions For Discussion

- 1.—Which is the greater threat to humanity—alcohol or war?
- 2.—What are the arguments for and against government monopoly of the manufacture and sale of liquor?
- 3.—What bearing has mass advertising upon the liquor problem?
- 4.—Is there any severe hardship in total abstinence?
- 5.—Can religious revival make liquor legislation unnecessary?

EDSON & WAITE
DIGBY, N.S.

It is good for a merchant to look back, after years of service to his community, and say, "All is well," to take stock not only in the merchandise world, but of the confidence of the people—a confidence built on the solid foundation of their belief in his honesty of purpose and judgment of values.

It is said that poor men live longer than rich men and live more happily. The man who knocks his own home town is a pest. He should either become a home town booster or be boosted out.

Every corporation requires an annual or semi-annual audit of its books and sends a copy to its stockholders. Every well managed town should have an audit of its books at least once a year and publish it in local newspapers so the citizens may know the condition of their town.

I note in a Canadian newspaper that Canada's industries are safe and sound; they are expanding rapidly, untrammelled by galling governmental restrictions and free of back-breaking taxation. That is a most happy condition for any country to be in.

Some men wear long suffering faces all the time.

To a man who is seeking a new town in which to live and invest, a lifeless looking town appeals to him in the least encouraging way as would a cemetery.

FUNERAL SERVICE

C. C. NICHOLL—Weymouth, N.S.

After two years' study of the proper equipment necessary for Digby Co. roads, we have modelled a Funeral Car that is adaptable to our roads at all times, practically similar to the cars used in the larger cities of United States and Canada. The demanding instant recognition and traffic rights as a Funeral Car.

Our Equipment is valued today at seven times its value. Eleven years ago, proving our continual growth, we are constantly adding new equipment as it demonstrates its value to the public. We employ no agents, entirely soliciting patronage by the merits of our service. Prices are kept down to the minimum and our service the best, with transportation easily possible to and from any point in Nova Scotia.

Between Ourselves

Last Wednesday's Gloucester Times gave a short account of the arrest of two Liverpool youths for the stealing of the Boston trowler, Dartmouth, Capt. Iver Carlson, The alleged offence, according to the Times, took place "at Truro."

It has not been an uncommon thing for Truro, one of the busiest of our inland towns, to be featured in the marine news, most frequently in American publications; but occasionally it happens in our own papers, which should know better.

After the reference to the "village of Digby Neck," in one of the Halifax dailies this summer, one of our well known summer visitors suggested an extension course in the geography of Nova Scotia for the editors of Nova Scotia's newspapers. He recalled several such errors which have appeared in the Nova Scotia press which were absolutely ridiculous from a geographical standpoint.

However, it is a well known fact that "even editors make mistakes," so let's not make too much fuss about it. Sometimes these editors may learn a little more about their Nova Scotia.

This week we are publishing a list of the scallop boats and their owners who have taken out licenses for the 1934-35 season. There are thirty-six of them; others, not listed, are licensed in Annapolis County, and still others are yet to take out licenses. This list shows pretty well how this industry has grown since the scallop beds in this vicinity were discovered some twelve or fifteen years ago. Scallop dragging has become one of the most important industries in Digby and Annapolis Counties. Thousands of dollars have been invested in boats and gear. Many men in these counties—and from other counties and provinces who have been drawn to these shores by the scallop rush—keep a certain amount of the "filthy lucre" in circulation, and incidentally keep our unemployment and relief problems down to a minimum. All through the "depression" we have been very fortunate in comparison with other districts. Possibly our fishing communities have been effected the most by the scallop industry has been a great help. It is our earnest wish that this industry will continue in its growth. The discovery of the scallop beds has done much to put Digby on the map, for Digby is now the headquarters of one of the most important scallop fisheries on the Atlantic seaboard. The greatest percentage of scallops taken in Canada is taken in the waters adjacent to this port.

Years ago Digby was important as a fishing port. It still is, but not to the same extent. In these days a fleet of fishing schooners made this port their headquarters. This fleet has disappeared just as they have in other parts of the Maritimes. Let us hope that the large scallop fleet will not disappear as did their predecessors in the fishing business.

At this season of the year it is never out of place to pass along a warning to hunters. Too much caution can not be taken. Many persons are in the woods, all of them armed with dangerous weapons. Caution must be exercised all around—otherwise some tragedy is liable to happen. It is well to remember that every movement in the bush is not made by a moose or deer, and never shoot until you know what you are shooting at.

It was told just the other day that there are roads not far from here that are dangerous to travel over. Stray bullets fired from the guns of hunters out of sight of the highway have been known to cross the paths of pedestrians and motorists on more than one occasion.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

When you're feeling grouchy,
Let the sun shine in.
When your face gets hardened,
Crack it with a grin.
Don't be afraid of wrinkles,
Tear loose with your mirth.
An old face laughter-wrinkled,
Is the sweetest thing of earth.

Now!...new aid in PREVENTING Colds

Remarkable New Formula is Especially Designed for Nose and Upper Throat where most colds start

AFTER years of research on the problem of colds, Vick Chemists have developed a remarkable new preparation—Vicks Vapo-nol. This exclusive Vicks formula is especially designed to aid the functions which Nature has provided—in the nose—to prevent colds, or to throw them off in their early stages. Used at the very first feeling of nasal irritation—just a few drops up each nostril—Vapo-nol helps to avoid many colds altogether.

Relieves Head Colds at Every Stage

If irritation has reached the stuffy, sneezy stage—Nature's usual warning that a cold is developing—prompt use of Vapo-nol helps to throw it off in the early stages.

Where irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (a stuffy head cold or nasal catarrh) Vapo-nol penetrates deep into the nasal passages—reduces swollen membranes—clears away clogging mucus—brings welcome relief.

Vapo-nol is real medication—not mere "oil drops"—yet is absolutely safe for children and adults. It has been clinically tested by physicians—approved by specialists.

Easy to use, anytime or place—at home or at work. Keep a bottle always handy.

Introduces Vicks Colds-Control Plan

This new aid in preventing colds is the ideal companion to Vicks VapoRub (modern external treatment for colds). Together with certain simple rules of health, these two preparations form the new Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Records of thousands of clinical tests—made over a period of two years, and under medical supervision—indicate that Vicks Plan greatly reduced the number, duration and dangers of colds. (Full details of the Plan in each package of Vicks VapoRub and Vicks Vapo-nol.)

VOLUME LXI, NO. 7

Digby Town Council Decides to Buy Fire Apparatus

That the Town Council of the Town of Digby make application to the Minister of Highways for a hard surface highway from the town limit on Warwick Street through the section formerly operated by the Highway Board as far as the Pines Hotel, on a fifty-fifty basis, or such basis as is usual in other towns, was the text of a resolution passed at the regular session of the council, held on Monday evening. The clerk was directed that when forwarding the resolution to suggest that the work be carried out during the early part of the year, when machinery is in the neighborhood doing work on adjacent highways.

It is generally felt that should the town and government get together and hard-surface the highway through town, it should be a great asset to Digby, especially from the standpoint of a summer resort.

On motion, it was also unanimously agreed that a sum in the neighborhood of $3,000 be expended for the purchase of an automobile chassis, with Bickle equipment, to be used for the town's fire truck, the purchase of which was authorized at a meeting of ratepayers some time ago. This type of equipment, according to the reports of the fire committee, is giving satisfactory service in Middleton, Bridgetown and Yarmouth, where it is being used.

The superintendent of streets and water in his report, stated that the truck had hauled gravel, for 6½ days during the month from the De-Long pit. The gravel was used to fill up holes in the streets and to repair the Racquette Hill, close to the west end of the bridge. Considerable repair work and grading was reported as having been done on other streets, as well as in connection with the town water supply, including the installation of four automatic air valves on the high places in the main line leading from the lake.

After the report of the Superintendent of Streets was received, the town clerk, Alfred Doven, gave an account of last Wednesday's Public Utilities Board meeting, re. rates, and a direct line from the Digby Power Board's plant to the "Long Wharf," to supply the Canadian Pacific Railway. There was no opposition to the application of the town.

An invitation to the mayor and council from the members of the Digby Branch of the British Empire Service League, to join with them for the Armistice Day service at the Memorial, at 10:30 o'clock, on Sunday, November 11, and to attend service with them in the Baptist church, was read and accepted. Mayor Shortliffe, however, expressed a hope that the church service be held at 11:15, instead of 11 o'clock.

Coastal Steamships in Wrecks Along the Coast

Bound for Yarmouth, last Thursday evening, the Eastern Coastal S. S. Company's steamer Keith Cann, which makes regular trips between Yarmouth, the Island ports and St. John, ran ashore on Peter's Island, in Grand Passage, about 9.30 a.m. Capt. J. C. Merriam was in command. The steamer had just left Westport a few minutes before the accident—caused by a broken rudder quadrant—occurred. The vessel came off with the incoming tide, but on starting the engine again the rudder, out of control, swung into the propeller, breaking off one of the blades. The boat was towed to the government pier at Westport by the C. G. S. Capelin, Capt. Ernest Lewis. Later she was towed to Saint John by the tug Foremost 43, to undergo repairs.

The steamer Glenholme, which was tied up in port here almost all the early part of last week, got away for Saint John on Wednesday night. She encountered heavy seas off the coast, and when about twelve miles off shore, broke her crankshaft, and was forced to anchor. The vessel's plight was seen by the Princess Helen, and reported to the head office. A tug was sent to her assistance and she, too, was towed to Saint John for repairs. Her place is being taken by the Elizabeth N. Cann.

Digby's School Registration

There is little change in the number of pupils registered at the Digby Academy this year in comparison with the registration of last year. So far, for the 1934-35 school year, 346 pupils have been enrolled, as compared with 351 last year, at like time. This year's enrolment, like last year's, will increase during the year.

So far the attendance has been excellent. During the year just past Digby led the urban schools of the province in attendance; throughout the year the attendance was 92.6 per cent of the total enrolment. Considering weather conditions last winter and the distance some of the scholars have to come, this is a record of which any school or town may be justly proud.

According to Principal F. C. Purdy the congestion, particularly in the lower grades, which was so much in evidence last year, is somewhat relieved by the more even distribution of the classes. Last year the primary grades were so badly congested that it was necessary for the teacher to teach part of her class in the morning and the remainder in the afternoon.

The high school registration this year is also about the same as last year. The registration in the high school grades is about 60.

Energetic Women

At Lower Granville, on the shore of the Annapolis Basin, the women folk have developed a nice little industry of their own. Six years ago Mrs. M. C. MacPherson, of Annapolis Royal, organized a society in that village known as the Lower Granville Fireside Industries.

The members of the organization—now totalling twenty-one—meet at the various homes where their nimble fingers are engaged in hand-craft work of all kinds. Raes are collected and made into mats; odds and ends of material are manufactured into quilts; then there is knitting, the making of dainty needle point pieces and other useful and beautiful articles for the home.

And in six years, the Lower Granville Fireside Industries has made a name for itself! Only this year the industry took all first prizes on exhibiting sent to the Saint John Exhibition. One hundred dollars was the price paid for an article of needle point made by one of the members; another wall piece brought $60. Obituary

Mrs. Emma Dodge

Mrs. Emma Dodge, widow of Edwin C. Dodge, died on Saturday, October 20th, at the home of her son, Frank E. Dodge, 17 Sachem Street, Lynn, Mass., following a week's illness of pneumonia. She was born in Digby on March 19, 1844, and had been a resident of Lynn for 45 years. She was a charter member and the first treasurer of the Mothers' Parish Aid Society of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, and was a member of Ivy Rebekah Lodge, of Lynn. During the American Civil War Mrs. Dodge, then a young girl, was a telegraph operator in Digby. She leaves four children, all of Lynn, Mrs. Mary E. Kenney, Henry A. Dodge, Frank E. Dodge, with whom she made her home, and Mrs. Georgiana Burnham. There are four grandchildren and four great grandchildren. The funeral took place from the home of her son, Rev. Arthur O. Pinney, rector of St. Stephen's, officiating. Burial was in the family lot at Pine Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Margaret Blackadar

The death occurred in Lynn, Mass., on October 24th, of Mrs. Margaret Blackadar, widow of the late Charles Blackadar. Mrs. Blackadar was born in Hillgrove, 88 years ago, and spent her early womanhood in Digby moving to Lynn some forty years ago. She leaves three brothers, Harry Bell and Thomas Bell, of Digby, and J. W. Bell, of Hillgrove; and two daughters, Mrs. John Davis, of Swampscott, and Mrs. Granville L. Sawyer, with whom she resided. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Milford R. Fosbury, pastor of the East Baptist Church, which she attended. There were a large number of beautiful floral pieces, attesting to the esteem in which she was held by her many friends. Interment took place in Pine Grove cemetery, Lynn.

Hallowe'en Parties

Now that Digby is settling down for the winter months, the three promises to be a busy social season. Hospital benefit bridge clubs are being organized; private bridge parties are being held at various homes, and other winter activities are being planned.

The Hallowe'en season has begun a particularly gay one. Tuesday evening the Kiwanians entertained their ladies at a Hallowe'en social and card party in the Oddfellows' Hall. This party was well attended and a success in every way. During the evening light refreshments were served, the Scotia restaurant catering. Rev. A. E. Gabriel took charge of the programme which included cards, vocal and instrumental music, and games.

Earlier the same evening the ladies of the Hospital Aid held a chowder and bean supper for the benefit of the Digby General Hospital, in the Winchester Hotel. The young people of the Grace United Sunday School also held a Hallowe'en social at the church hall for the benefit of the North End Tennis Club. The Salvation Army also held a bean supper that evening.

On Wednesday night there was a masquerade dance in Dunn's Hall, and a Hallowe'en card party in the Warne Block for the benefit of the new Roman Catholic church, now under construction in Digby. The latter party was held under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of the church.

St. George Lodge of Oddfellows held their Hallowe'en social last Friday evening, at which the members of Zelma Rebekah Lodge were guests. It was one of the best socials of the kind ever enjoyed in that hall. The Anti-Cant Class, of Grace United Sunday School, furnished the programme, which was an excellent one.

Westport Church Celebrate 60th Anniversary Founding

Last week the Christian Church, of Westport, observed, in a very special way, its 75th anniversary. The history of this church, known also as "The Church of Christ" and "Disciples of Christ," dates from October 25, 1859.

The activities began on Wednesday evening, October 24, with the presentation of the best religious play of 1931, "Pilgrims of the Way," a story of the first days of the Church, just preceding the conversion of Saul. This play, was well received by a large audience. The cast was as follows:—

Barnabas—Harry Peters
Saul—Donald Cousins
John Mark—Malcolm Outhouse
Mary, Mother of John Mark—Mrs. M. H. Outhouse
Rhoda, a Servant—Evelyn Pugh
A Messenger—Gerald Stoddard

On Thursday evening, three features made a full evening. The first was the presentation of the drama, "The Lost Church." This is a popular and effective play, the message of which is the worthwhileness of the church in modern life. A sceptical man of the world, who doubts its value, has a vision in which he lives in a churchless world, and the experience convinces him of his mistake. The cast consisted of Edward Pugh, Mrs. Albert Welch, M. H. Outhouse, Alva Garro, Jesse Peters, Louise Robichaud, Noram MacDormand, Mrs. Charles Buckman, Carol MacDormand, Phyllis Morehouse, Ruby Gower, Beryl Garro and the Choir.

Following this, a brief "History of the Local Church," was read by Norma MacDormand. This, of course, was very interesting and illuminating to all.

The last feature, on Thursday's program was a very colorful Birth-day Pageant. A large cake, holding 75 candles, showed up very prettily in a red spotlight. After the minister, M. H. Outhouse, spoke of the occasion and made a few introductory remarks, the Spirit of Yesterday, robed in white, approached, and after lighting the candles from a large candle, symbolical of Christ, spoke of the charter members, and of the purpose behind the forming of the church—the great purpose of Christian Unity. The Spirit of Today, robed in blue, then approached, and spoke of the present church and commended it for keeping the faith.

Lighting her candle from that of the Spirit of Yesterday, the Spirit of Tomorrow then entered, robed in pink, and spoke of the future, and very worthwhile.

On Sunday evening the guest speaker at the church was Rev. Mr. Johnston, secretary of the Maritime Christian Missionary Society, whose message was greatly appreciated.

At a business meeting later, the church planned some future work, made plans for making some repairs on the parsonage, and gave their present minister, Malcolm H. Outhouse, a call for another year—his fourth.

Altogether, this anniversary celebration was very successful, profitable spiritually and financially, and very worthwhile.

recommended that the Church of Today follow the guidance of the Master. The Spirits were represented by Ruby Gower, Phyllis Morehouse and Evelyn Pugh.

Friday night was the time of the roll call, the first in the 75 years of the history of this church. At the very first, the envelopes containing the special gifts were received while they were being sorted, two special features were presented. The first was a tableau, A model church, built like the church building, revolved slowly on a turntable with a white and green spotlight playing upon it, while a hidden choir sang.

"The Church By the Side of the Road." The second feature was the singing of a brief but very comprehensive "History of Briar Island," by Edward Pugh. This history proved very interesting and instructive.

Most of the resident membership responded to their names at the roll call, and a good number of gifts and messages of good will were received from non-resident members and friends. Word was received from Mrs. Frank Lent, Freeport; Warren Bates, Sandy Cove; Mrs. d'Arcy Spence, Hebron; Frank Cousins, Mulgrave; Mrs. E. C. Cousins and Maxwell Cousins, Miss Stella Payson, Mrs. A. R. Melrose, Mrs. Clowery, Mrs. Nellie Melrose, Mrs. H. Goodwin, all of Saint John; Mrs. Griffin, Alton, N. H.; Mrs. D. Welch, Boston; Ranny Campbell, Boston; Mrs. (Dr.) Weil, Toronto. The sum of $88 was received in special gifts to the church in response to the roll call.

On Saturday evening at 6 o'clock a combination Father's Day and Son Banquet was held in the hall. This was for the lads and their dads. There were forty present, and a very nice supper was served by the mothers, daughters and wives. After supper a short programme was given, consisting of reading and talks, honoring Father, and bringing out the proper relationship that should exist between father and son.

THE BOY SCOUTS

The First Digby Troop of Boy Scouts has started its winter work. The troop has been taken over by Rev. Dr. Hodgson, who was an old Scoutmaster at his former charge. The troop has been re-organized with new patrol leaders and new patrols. The leaders are Scout Willard Donnelly for the Goose Patrol, and Scout Ken Donnelly for the Eagle Patrol. There is some keen competition between the two brothers. The size of the troop has been cut down to two patrols of seven each, and the boys are out for a good time with lots of work mixed in.

DID IT HAPPEN IN THE DIGBY SCHOOL?

Betty handed her report to her father. Her marks were good, but her teacher had written the following remarks: "Betty is a good worker, but talks too much."

Her dad wrote in reply, "Have you met her mother?"

Rev. H. A. Harley, 82-year old Windsor clergyman and former rector of Holy Trinity church in his town, who had been missing for several days, was found safe and sound, at a hunter's camp, back of Windsor.

Mr. Harley, who had been on a gunning expedition, became lost. He spent Monday night in the open, under a spruce tree. On Tuesday evening he forced an entrance into a hunting camp and spent the night there. He was found Wednesday morning.

CANADA LEADING THE WAY OUT

Canadians seem to be finding their way out of the depression much easier than the people of the United States, is the opinion of Vincent C. Hascall, of Omaha, Nebraska, International President of the Lions' Club, who is in Canada on an inspection trip.

Pointing out that he had been travelling in Mexico and in the Southern States before coming to Canada and had a fairly good grasp of business conditions, Mr. Hascall said it appeared to him that the people in Canada were leading the people of the United States out of the depression. "You seem to have found a way of dealing with it that gives quicker results than we have found," he declared.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

VOLUNTARY ISOLATION

To spread or not to spread, is the question to which isolation offers a partial answer. Isolation is not so well thought of as formerly; this is not due to any fault on the part of isolation, but rather to the fact that isolation cannot accomplish as much as was hoped for it at one time.

Isolation, the separation of the sick from the well, has been practised for many centuries. Those who are familiar with the Old Testament will recall the description given of how, in ancient times, those who suffered from leprosy were made to live apart, isolated, from their fellow-men.

Isolation is of real value provided there is a reasonable understanding of what is aimed to be accomplished through isolation; otherwise, it will be largely a waste effort. Isolation is not for the good of the sick person on whom it is practised, but for the protection of those who are well.

Frequently we have repeated this advice that when a child has a cold or a sick stomach, or when he is otherwise unwell, he should be isolated, as these are the symptoms of the common communicable diseases. This much is called voluntary isolation. It is very simple; the child remains in bed, and no one goes into his room excepting his mother or the one other person who is looking after the child.

There is no danger in merely going into the room; if others are allowed in, they will likely want to play with him, and fondle or kiss the sick child, who probably does not feel particularly ill and who would, therefore, be only too glad to play. The whole danger lies in the patient's secretions, and usually this is limited to the secretions from the mouth, nose and throat. These are dangerous, because it is in them that the germs of the common communicable diseases leave the body.

Practically, the danger can be avoided if the person who is looking after the child keeps away from his face, by this is meant that she does not kiss the child or come in the line of his coughs and sneezes. Also, she should keep her hands away from her own face, scrub her hands with soap and water, and a nail brush every time she enters the patient's room, and boils all cups and dishes used by the patient. These measures will prevent the spread of disease in the home. At the same time, keeping the child in bed is the best form of treatment if he has a cold or sick stomach, or if he is coming down with some communicable disease.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

The FIRESIDE PHILOSOPHER

BY ALFRED BIGGS

Public health is public wealth.

Indiscretion has ruined many a reputation.
Don't save all your smiles for your customers.

Know yourself if you would lessen life's problems.

Consider the motive before condemning another person.

POLLY PUT THE KETTLE ON.

Any time is tea time. There is not a meal at which it is not both proper and desirable to use tea as a beverage; and between meals every day there comes a time when one can turn to the teapot with advantage. For instance, in the middle of the morning when energy flags, a little, at again about four o'clock in the afternoon.

It will help a great deal to know how to get the best satisfaction out of a brew of tea. This is set forth by tea experts as the best way to prepare it for the table:

Boil fresh water. Warm up an earthenware teapot. Put in one teaspoonful of tea for each cup and one for the pot. The moment the water boils furiously pour it on the tea. Let the tea brew five minutes. Then stir, after which let it stand two minutes when it will be ready to serve.

There is one other point that needs to be observed and it is that one cannot get the best results without a tea of good quality, like Morse's Standard Tea. This is a tea that not only fully satisfies the critical Maritime taste, but is from 5 to 10 cents a pound lower in price than many other teas claimed to be of corresponding grade. Your grocer will tell you that Morse's Standard Tea is one that you can always depend upon to be full of flavour, thick, luscious, and of uniform high quality.

Meanest Thieves Rob Poor House

The following article is from the Sunday edition of the New York American, of recent date, and will be read with interest here, although brief sketches of the episode have been published before, particularly in the Yarmouth papers).

Inmates of the poor-house, in the village of Argyle, about 15 miles from Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, were awakened recently in the middle of the night by the sound of someone running, stumbling and plunging headlong down the stairway. Such noise in that quiet retreat was unheard of, and they sat up in their beds, startled and alarmed.

"What is it?" they called out to each other, "what happened?"

They listened—and heard someone pounding on the door and crying with strange, distressing, almost inhuman sounds.

"It must be Albert Surette!" someone exclaimed. "No one else would make sounds like that. Poor old Albert—he must have had a nightmare. He must have dreamed that his money was stolen."

At a moment the corridors were crowded, and the superintendent hastened out in a dressing gown. Everyone pressed around Albert, urging him to reveal what was wrong.

Albert was frantic, but at first he was unable to make himself understood—for, since birth Albert has been deaf and dumb. Fifty years old now, and only three and a half feet tall, he has no method of communicating his thoughts to others except through a crude sign language of his own. He cannot even read or write.

Wildly excited, Albert was straining and waving his hands in futile gestures which no one was able to interpret. In desperation he finally seized the superintendent by the arm, and tugged until the superintendent accompanied him up the stairs to his room, with most of the other inmates trooping after.

Then everyone realized that it was no nightmare that had sent Albert dashing down the stairs—that he had not dreamed that someone had taken his money, but that he had indeed been robbed. It seemed incredible that anyone would lay claim to the title of "the meanest thief in the world" by breaking into a poor-house and stealing from a deaf mute. But that is precisely what had happened.

It is unbelievable that anyone, for such a reason, could be so heartless as to take poor Albert's little hoard of $77—for the only thing that made life worth living to Albert was the pleasure he derived from amassing his meagre treasure, through his scanty earnings at odd jobs, and the joy he took in counting the coins, fondling them, juggling them—and showing them to anyone and everyone.

But the superintendent and the other inmates saw right away that there was no doubt that Albert had been robbed. The battered old trunk which was ordinarily at the foot of his bed was gone, and with it, all of Albert's prized belongings—a few clean handkerchiefs, his scanty supply of extra clothing, some pictures he had clipped from newspapers and magazines, his razor, a watch that no longer runs, and worst of all, the cherished fortune of $77. The money was something more than mere money to Albert. It was proof that he was not utterly useless in this world, that even though he was deaf and dumb and not like other people, he had still been able to accomplish something.

There was the quarter, which a farmer's wife had given him for beating carpets—a glowing memory that revived, for the farmer's wife had patted him on the arm to indicate that she thought he had done a good job of the carpet beating. Then there was the money that had come from the rustic chairs he made—it took a long time to make one of those chairs and they sold for next to nothing. And the coins that had come from blueberry picking—they brought back happy recollections.

us-aw emfwmp, emfwypemfwemfwem In trying to explain himself to the other inmates Albert would wipe his forehead—his way of saying that the lost treasure had been earned by the sweat of his brow. Again, he would point to his overalls and shake his head, conveying the idea that there was no object in his working any more—that his occupation was gone.

For three days and three nights he cried continually and neither ate nor slept. The superintendent began to fear that poor Albert would not last many months, and would quickly pine away. Local authorities had been unable to find a clue, until the third day. Then they discovered the battered old trunk at the foot of a hill not far from the poor house. But the money and the box that had contained it were missing.

As criminal cases go, it was of no vast consequence. And yet poor Albert's distress was so genuine, it was apparent that he might actually die of grief. So the case became something more than a mere effort to clear up an ordinary house robbery—it became an effort to save Albert's life. His plight aroused general indignation, and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police were called in. With their reputation for always getting their man, they went about this case as seriously as if they were hunting for a desperate killer. They had no clue to guide them except Albert's well known habit of showing his treasures to anyone who took an interest in him—or pretended to. For hours they questioned Albert patiently, and eventually learned that a short while before the robbery Albert had taken a man who was working at the poor house up to his room to see the money. As soon as the mounted police learned the name of this workman they were pretty sure they had their man.

This workman was Albert White, from Belle Neck, about 15 miles away. The "mounties" checked on White's activities, and learned that in company with his brother-in-law, Albine Jaquard, he had driven in the direction of the poor house late at night and returned the next morning. For a couple of days following, these two young men—strong contenders now for the title of "the meanest thief in the world"—had been having a gay time, drinking, carousing and spending. When arrested they were said to have promptly confessed and to have led the police to a spot in Frost's Pond, where the box that had contained Albert's money was found.

Briggs—Poor old Horrocks has had two unhappy marriages.
Greory—That's pretty tough.
Briggs—Yes, his first wife left him, and his second wife hasn't.

Free Samples at Druggists of the Remarkable New Aid in the Prevention of Colds

Local Druggists are Now Offering a Free Trial of Vicks Vapo-Rub for Nose and Throat—Also of Its Ideal Companion, Vicks Vapo-Rub

NEW PREVENTION IDEA

This Discovery Introduces Unique Vicks Plan for Better Colds Control

HOW VICKS PLAN WORKS

Following years of research on the problem of colds, Vicks Chemists have developed a new aid in preventing colds—Vicks Vapo-Rub, for nose and throat. This new Vicks preparation is the ideal companion to Vicks Vapo-Rub, the modern method of treating colds.

These two Vicks preparations, together with a few simple rules of health, form the unique Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. The helpfulness of the Plan in reducing the number and duration of colds has been clinically tested by physicians. (Full details of the Plan are in each package of Vicks Vapo-Rub and of Vicks Vapo-Rub.)

Briefly, here is how Vicks Plan works:

To Help Prevent Colds—Watch yourself and children after exposure to any condition that you know is apt to be followed by a cold, such as:

Contact with others, having fresh colds—colds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places, sudden changes in temperature—excesses in living, such as overeating, smoking or drinking, which reduce body resistance.

To Help Shorten a Cold—If a cold has developed, rub Vicks Vapo-Rub well over throat and chest at bedtime. Through the night Vapo-Rub attacks the cold direct—two ways at once—by stimulation, direct through the skin, like a poultice or plaster—and by inhalation of its medicated vapors direct to the inflamed air-passages. This long-continued double action loosens phlegm, soothes irritated membranes, eases difficult breathing, and helps break congestion.

During the day—any time—any place—use Vicks Vapo-Rub every few hours, as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment without the risks of constant internal dosing, which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children.

Trial Packages Free—Your druggist has free combination packages containing trial sizes of Vapo-Rub and Vapo-Rub—also for telling how these twin aids to fewer colds and shorter colds are used in Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Ask for yours today, as your druggist's supply is limited.

THE PROPER CARE OF YOUR AUTOMOBILE

Fenders

THE most common mishap among motorists is of a minor nature, damage to fenders, but is one which is liable to develop into a more serious matter if neglected. When fenders become scratched or scraped they should be retouched promptly to prevent rusting, because if neglected the rust is liable to eat its way through the metal. If the fender is black, it should be finished with an enamel which dries with a color and lustre closely resembling the newly baked enamel. Before the scraped parts are retouched the metal should be thoroughly cleaned to remove all grease, dirt and rust. If the edges of the abrasion are smoothed down with fine sandpaper or steel wool it will give a better looking job.

It is wise, also, to retouch worn spots on the tire carrier, bumper fittings, shock absorbers, and other parts which are finished in black. If you also touch up bolts and nuts which are used for installing bumpers, license plates, etc., it will be easier to remove the nuts should they need replacement.

11 A.M., NOVEMBER 11, 1918

Where were you, comrade, when the Armistice was signed? Were you in Belgium or France, somewhere between Ypres and the Somme? Were you in Blighty or home in Canada? Wherever you were, there was probably a celebration, wild, enthusiastic, joyous—all the pent-up feelings let loose. Laddie, it was "some" time! And for days and weeks you had been told that that glorious British Army, with such a fine record behind it, and that you had fought well and lived up to its traditions. And, if you were a Canadian, and had rampaged up and down the western front with the Canadian corps, perhaps you felt a little extra pride in this fact, for in the eyes of the world the Canadian Corps was outstanding in its achievements. And had raised the name of Canada from that of a colony to the status of a nation. Over sixty thousand gave their lives, "and now they lie in Flanders Fields." Over a hundred thousand more were wounded, and many of them have passed on in the last sixteen years. Many more thousands came back with shattered nerves and broken health, and the last sixteen years has taken our Field Marshal, our Corps Commander and thousands of other comrades. Each year the remnant gets smaller, consequently each year should bind those who are left more closely together. Have we lost pride in our Old Canadian Corps? Have we forgotten that the name of the Canadians resounded throughout the civilized world? Are we forgetting our dead comrades and their dependents? Each November should bring to each ex-service man a renewed determination to "stand to" with his comrades; to do his "bit" in peace as well as he did it in war. As Gen. Sir Arthur Currie said, in speaking of our glorious dead: "They served till death, why not we?" This is our duty.

Announcements

Tonight, at 8 o'clock, the Bear River Branch, No. 22, Canadian Legion, B. E. S. L., will gladly welcome any ex-service man to their regular meeting in Legion Hall, Bear River. It does not matter whether you are a member or not. Please come!

Church Parade, to Baptist church, from Legion Hall, on Sunday morning. Meet at Legion Hall at 10.00 o'clock. Your attendance is a mark of respect for our dead comrades.

Puppy Week

The pupils of the schools in the various districts will be out selling poppies from now until November 11. I want to make it clear that buying a poppy each year is the duty and privilege of each and every one. Wearing a poppy bought last year or some previous year is like trying to cheat the dead. These poppies are made by cripples from the war in shops known as Veterans' Shops. They sell them by thousands to the Canadian Legion. They also make wreaths, crosses, etc., and sell them. This industry provides their livelihood. The Canadian Legion's profits assist its Service Department in looking after the dependents of our dead. The wearing of the poppy is a mark of respect to those who sacrificed their lives. The buying of one each year is a mark of gratitude to the cripples, widows and orphans of the war, so I repeat that wearing a poppy bought some previous year is like trying to cheat the dead. Could anything be meaner? I know that in many cases in the past it has been done from a lack of understanding of the situation. Hence the explanation.

Buy a poppy and wear it proudly. Do not ask—the Canadian Corps didn't.

Armistice Dinner

The Bear River Branch is pleased to accept the invitation of the Port Royal Branch, Annapolis Royal, to attend the Armistice Dinner there on Monday evening, November 12th. Any ex-service men in our area, members or non-members, can procure tickets from the undersigned. Final arrangements for transportation will be made at tonight's meeting of our Branch.

CHRISTIAN GROWTH

Golden Text:—"But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ."—II Peter, 3:18.

Lesson Passage:—Luke 2:42-52; II Peter 1:5-8.

Let us put by some hour of every day For holier things!—whether it be when dawn Peers through the window pane, or when the moon Flames, like a burnished topaz, in the vault. Or when the thrush pours in the ear of eve Its plaintive monody; some little hour Wherein to hold rapt converse with the soul, From sordidness and self a sanctuary. Swept by the winnowing of unseen wings. And touched by the White Light ineffable! —Clinton Scollard.

Youth and Religion, 42, 43

In Nazareth, where Jesus was brought up attention was given to religious education. There was parental instruction in the home, teaching of the law in the synagogue, and at the age of 12 Jewish boys became sons of the Law and were taken to Jerusalem for their first visit to the Temple. What goes into the first of life goes into all of life. Attention is now being given to the training of children in the preschool period. Kindergarten schools started in a curriculum adjusted to the advancing needs of the child are widely used. Age-group organizations such as Cubs, Explorers, Brownies, afford opportunities of expression. Many congregations now have Junior congregations where the worship is adapted to the understanding and age of boys and girls. The church has a vital interest in the religious education of youth, as two-thirds of those making profession of their faith come from the Sunday School. Children have surprising religious capacity. Many religious teachers have been fearfully old-minded, but Jesus, perhaps remembering his own youth, placed the child in the midst, and stressed the importance of child education.

The Dominant Interest, 44-47

Having heard much about the Temple in his home and in the synagogue, it must have been a great event in the boyhood of Jesus when in company with the Nazarene pilgrims, singing the song of ascent, he first beheld the Temple. Other boys might have wished to visit places of historic interest because of military tradition, but Jesus found the chief place of interest to be the Temple. So fascinating was it to him that when the Nazarene pilgrims departed, he stayed behind. When Joseph and Mary, returning to search for him, found him in OFF COLOUR? HOW IS YOUR LIVER?

Wake up your Liver Bile —Without Calomel Your liver's a very small organ, but it certainly can't get on its feet and eliminate waste out of its body by refusing to pour out its bile into the bowels of your body. You won't completely cure such a condition by taking pills, oil mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage. When they've moved your bowels they're through—and you need a liver stimulant. Carter's Little Liver Pills will soon bring back the machine into your body. They're gentle, reliable, safe, sure. Ask for them by name. Double the size at all drug stores.

One great need in education is balance. We are familiar with the young man who is expert in athletics, but cannot make use of books. We are also familiar with his opposite—the youth who is bookish but pays insufficient attention to health. The marvel of the life of Jesus is that it was so well balanced, so fully developed on every side. He was strong in body, and he was also active in mind. He was attractive and popular—one with his power of conversation would never lack companions—but he was also given to prayer and meditation. This verse, Luke 2:52, has become a great ideal of religious education, expressing the fourfold life, calling for growth physically, mentally, socially and spiritually. A chief purpose of education is to develop a well-rounded personality.

Age and Religion—II Peter 1:5 Each year of life may be good, but for those who learn how to live aright, each year may be better than the one before. The best of the wine is kept till the last of the feast. To live on this ascending scale, vital religion is necessary. Too many people think of religion as a kill-joy influence, but real religion is a process of addition, not subtraction. It gives rest, meaning and purpose to life. We may progressively increase our moral stature and spiritual perception. It has been said that adult education is the greatest recent educational discovery. At widely read book—"Life Begins at Forty"—shows that if life has been lived properly up to forty, the greatest powers may be developed after forty. There may be a lessening of physical ability, but there is an increase in good judgment and in purposeful living. Moral growth is possible from youth to age. In fact many people are at their best in old age. Sixty or seventy years of holy living produce a peace of countenance and a patience of spirit that are impossible in youth. Those who live a spiritual life grow in grace, and there is no age limit for this growth. "Life blossoms to its goal."

Questions for Discussion. 1.—Why is it the duty of each generation to educate the next? 2.—What is the value of the discussion method? 3.—When did Jesus become fully conscious of his mission? 4.—Is modern education well balanced? 5.—What are the signs of character growth?

The Fourfold Life, 52

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Although this snap was made in a zoo, it has all the "feel" of reality, because the bear avoided the show of bars or barriers.

ANIMALS—from household pets to jungle giants—afford ideal snapshotting. For animals don't pose; they are always entirely natural and, as a result, interesting. Next to babies, they are the finest "actors" in the world for the simple reason that they do not "act".

To get good pictures of any animal the first essential is patience. It is quite possible that the family dog will stand up obligingly for you on command, but in picturing all other animals you'll find it necessary to wait for the picture you want.

And this brings us to the question—what do you want in an animal picture?

Ten or fifteen years ago there was a great fad for picturing kittens in all sorts of outlandish poses. The poor little tykes were dressed up, propped up, and photographed as though they were puppets in a marionette show. To most people, however, pictures of animals as they really are have much more appeal. You will probably prefer to snap a kitten as it plays with a string or a dog wrestling with a big stick.

Domestic animals, of course, offer few real camera difficulties, for you can get them to come where the light is right. Open shade, on a bright day, will be found best. As for shutter speed (if your camera has variable speeds), you'll need 1/25th of a second or faster, to catch fleeting poses and expressions. Unless the light is exceptional, better work with the lens wide open.

To snap less controllable animals—squirrels, birds and such—you'll need greater patience and cunning. Much depends on background and on your distance from the subject. At more than ten feet, for example, a squirrel becomes almost invisible unless it is sharply revealed on a branch, with the sky for background. Obviously, you'll need to use a fast shutter, and you'll move too swiftly for slow snaps.

The zoo can be a happy hunting ground, too. In many cases, you'll be able to shoot through or over the bars of cages, obtaining clear, unobstructed snaps. In some cases "natural" settings for the animals have been built, you can get pictures comparable to those that Martin Johnson and Frank Buck travel months to find.

Use a modern, color sensitive film. You'll need all the detail you can get and the utmost in color value rendering. Otherwise you'll find your picture of a cinnamon bear looking very much like one of a black bear.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

Very often, decisions as to life vocations are reached early in youth. Nearly every boy has planned to be an engineer, and nearly every girl has dreamed of becoming a nurse. Several occupations may attract in succession, but very often a final decision is made in the years from fifteen to seventeen. We cannot tell for certain when Jesus became clearly conscious of his mission. There was a foregleam of it in the Temple at the age of twelve. It became clearer at his baptism, and still more clear in the Garden of Gethsemane. It was a turning point in his life. When his mother gently chided him for lingering in the Temple, his answer was one of surprise, perhaps giving an echo of conversations with his mother in the Nazareth home. Even at the age of twelve the sense of destiny was upon him.

One great need in education is balance. We are familiar with the young man who is expert in athletics, but cannot make use of books. We are also familiar with his opposite—the youth who is bookish but pays insufficient attention to health. The marvel of the life of Jesus is that it was so well balanced, so fully developed on every side. He was strong in body, and he was also active in mind. After two years' study of the proper equipment necessary for Digby Co. roads, we have modelled a Funeral Car that is adaptable to our roads at all times. Practically similar to the cars used in the larger cities of United States and Canada, demanding instant recognition and traffic rights as a Funeral Car. Our equipment is valued today at seven times its value eleven years ago, proving our continual growth. We are constantly adding new equipment as it demonstrates its value to the public.

We employ no agents, entirely soliciting patronage by the merits of our service. Prices are kept down to the minimum and our service the best, with transportation easily made to and from any point in Nova Scotia.

A SPEEDY CRAFT

The Meteghan built motor vessel, Beatrice L. Carl, L. Melanson, arrived at Plympton last week from Bangor, Me., and sailed again with a return cargo of 65 cords of peeled pulp wood for the Eastern Pulp Co., Vinyl Haven, Me. This speedy 14-knot craft has made 22 return trips from Plympton to Maine ports since May 15th. From the Bay ports this season 1189 cords of wood of a tonnage of 701, have been shipped, and from Port Gilbert, 450 cords. Total shipped, 1604 cords. There are approximately 1200 more cords to be shipped this season, weather permitting. The wood has all been shipped by Capt. Bernard Melanson, of Gilbert's Cove. This skipper purchased the Beatrice L. in Yarmouth in May of this year, and sailed the craft out of the Gateway port on May 7th. A short time later, with the installation of new spars and boasting engine, the Beatrice L. entered the lumber carrying trade between Bay ports and the United States.

Has your vicar been in this place long? Yes, sir! He's been the incumbent here for nearly forty years.

"How do you suppose Solomon got his great reputation for wisdom?" inquired Mrs. Peck.

"Oh, I'm sure, Henrietta, it was not from anything he thought up for himself," responded Henry meekly; "you know he had a great number of wives and he probably listened carefully to all of them."

FUNERAL SERVICE

C. C. NICHOLL—Weymouth, N.S.

After two years' study of the proper equipment necessary for Digby County roads, we have modelled a Funeral Car that is adaptable to our roads at all times, practically similar to the cars used in the larger cities of United States and Canada, demanding instant recognition and traffic rights as a Funeral Car.

Our equipment is valued today at seven times its value eleven years ago, proving our continual growth. We are constantly adding new equipment as it demonstrates its value to the public.

We employ no agents, entirely soliciting patronage by the merits of our service. Prices are kept down to the minimum and our service the best, with transportation easily possible to and from any point in Nova Scotia.

THE MAYOR DOES HIS HUNTING WITH A CAR.

While returning from Annapolis Royal last Thursday evening, Mayor Shortliffe and a few of his friends had a unique experience when a young deer ran into their car near the Upper Clements school. A few seconds before a deer crossed the road in front of their car; they watched it as it bounded over the fences and through the fields, and did not notice the other deer following the first. The second animal, possibly blinded by the headlights, ran into the car and was evidently badly injured. Other cars, following Mr. Shortliffe's, stopped, but the deer, crawling through a fence, disappeared in the darkness. It was seen to fall several times. Efforts to locate the animal by daylight were fruitless.

Another doe was seen this week on the Racquette Bridge.

While speaking of deer, and such, we would like to express our thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sabine, of Riverdale, and to A. L. Robinson, of Digby, for moose steaks presented to us; and we must not overlook Eric Bent, to whom we express our thanks for a splendid roast of venison.

Boy Scout's Secretary Addresses Kiwanis

H. Greenway, of Ottawa, General Secretary of the Boy Scout Organization in Canada, was the speaker at Tuesday's luncheon of the Digby Kiwanis Club. Mr. Greenway spoke largely on the third clause of the Scout Law—A Scout's duty is to be useful and help others, to strive to do his duty cheerfully, and endeavor to do a good turn for somebody every day.

During the course of his address he referred to the many "good turns" for the individual and for the community the boy scouts have done, especially during these years of depression. Community good turns included the establishing of 171 toy repair shops in the Dominion, and reconditioning some 190,000 toys; the collecting of clothing for the needy, as well as other work in connection with relief, their camps for scouts and non-scouts, which were conducted in various parts of Canada.

Stamp Out Tuberculosis With Christmas Seals

Another Christmas is almost here and Christmas Seals in aid of tuberculosis sufferers will soon make their appearance. The fund which these seals represent has been contributed to for the past few years by the citizens of Digby, and is gradually taking a very definite place in the anti-tuberculosis work of the community. It is felt now that it is most important that people understand that this is an auxiliary fund which is doing special work, one that is most necessary, but one that could not be carried on without this special fund.

It is certain that special work of this kind will be a great benefit to the general public, and it is believed that it is in keeping with the Christmas spirit and with the tendency of modern times to lessen the unhappiness of the unfortunate people rather than give expensive gifts to those who are not in need of them.

If the public will realize that this Christmas Seal Fund is directly a part of the Christmas spirit, and through it they are helping the unfortunate tuberculosis people who cannot help themselves, there will be fewer of these appeals ignored. More people are therefore urged to contribute as generously as possible, and can be assured that the money will be well spent in using it entirely for work for which there is no special provision.

New Fire Fighting Equipment Ordered for Town

Contracts were signed yesterday morning at a meeting of the Fire Committee of the Town Council for the purchase of modern fire fighting equipment for the town Digby. It is understood that the new truck will be delivered within the next two weeks.

The equipment decided upon was a Bickle fire truck, with a pumping capacity of 350 gallons per minute, the truck will be mounted on a one and a half ton dual wheel Chevrolet chassis.

At a meeting of the ratepayers, held early this summer, the Council was authorized to purchase a fire truck—the price "not to exceed six thousand five hundred dollars" by a majority vote. Since that time the committee has been investigating the equipment used by neighboring towns, and at the last regular meeting of the Council they decided to spend "about three thousand dollars" for the purchase of the equipment.

Those present at yesterday morning's meeting of the fire committee were: W. H. Gower, Mayor, J. Shortliffe, and Councilors F. L. Anderson, chairman; E. C. Sallows and L. Woodman; also Fire Chief, Harry Hervey, and E. J. Bickard, Mr. Millidge, of the Bickle Fire Engine Company, Woodstock, Ontario.

Lieutenant Governor, Premier and Mayor Endorse Poppy Day Campaign

"Those of us who had reached mature years when the Great War began, and who realized the courage shown and the sacrifices made by our own men for more than four years of dreadful strife, must continue throughout our lives to honor the dead and feel sincere sympathy for those who survived but were wounded or otherwise afflicted."

So, on the approach of Remembrance Day, I ask that all people take the opportunity offered to make the 1934 Poppy Day Campaign a great success.

"The poppies and wreaths have all been made by returned men and all money given will be used for the benefit of those who have been hurt and need comfort and assistance. I suggest that all our citizens bid high for the privilege of wearing a poppy on Remembrance Day."

W. H. Gower, Lieutenant Governor.

"Remembrance Day recalls not only the echo of Flanders Field, but the triumph of the spirit of the glorious dead—but it reminds us forcibly of our duty to those of our returned soldiers whose war wounds and disabilities have been heavy upon them. Theirs is a living sacrifice which must not pass unheeded or unrequited."

"In wearing a Poppy on Remembrance Day, not only do we bear a symbol of sorrow in memory of those who fell, but we at the same time pay tribute to a nation which has raised those who suffered for their Dominion and their fellow men. For these reasons, I heartily endorse the Poppy Fund Campaign on behalf of the disabled Great War veterans and urge that each citizen 'do his bit' as they did theirs."

August L. MacDonald, Premier of Nova Scotia.

"Twenty years—1914 to 1934, mark the span of vivid memories of Canada's part in the great World War. Twenty years ago every loyal citizen made a vow to himself that he would never fail to keep faith with our soldiers being killed in the battle fields of Europe. In paying sincere and grateful tribute here we feel we are but keeping the faith. Honor and glory to their memories."

"By wearing a Poppy on Remembrance Day we are paying tribute to those who paid the supreme sacrifice—we are honoring their memory. By wearing a poppy on Remembrance Day we pay tribute to those who, by the grace of God, returned from the horrors of the battlefield to take their places in civilian life; by wearing a poppy on Remembrance Day we are paying tribute in a material way to those who returned maimed and crippled from the battlefields of Flanders. The poppy fund is for the benefit of the disabled veterans, because of their great sacrifice, made in our behalf is still fighting for a livelihood in these years of peace and depression."

"Show your appreciation—do your bit—wear a Poppy on Remembrance Day."

A. A. Shortliffe, Mayor of Digby.

The Boy Scouts will offer Poppies for sale to-day and Saturday. It is hoped that more thorough canvass will be made and that more people will have the opportunity of purchasing them. A commission on the proceeds goes to the Scout fund and the balance to the relief of needy disabled soldiers and their families.

The Digby Branch of the Canadian Legion expects every person to show their appreciation and respect for those who died and suffered for their King and Country by buying a Poppy in remembrance of them, and also to be generous in their donation, as the funds so collected are used for the relief of returned men and dependents not so fortunate as we are.

125th Anniversary of Westport Baptist Church

The Westport Baptist Church has just concluded a series of important church activities.

The annual Roll Call Service of the church took place on Sunday evening, Oct. 28th. After the opening exercises the roll was called by the church clerk, Oran Dakin, and the responses from abroad were read by Mrs. E. C. Coggins, church treasurer.

Two things told briefly of its success, namely the large proportion of responses from home and abroad, and the generous offering—$114.00.

Following the roll call the pastor, Rev. H. C. Morgan, preached a very helpful and inspiring sermon entitled "Hidden Treasure".

Monday night the church was packed to hear "Uncle Elmer" of radio fame. He gave a very interesting address and sang three selections. The offering amounted to $150.00.

Tuesday night a Halloween concert was given by the young people of the church, under the leadership of Mrs. H. P. Bowers. The sum of $28.00 was realized for church purposes.

Wednesday evening the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the church was celebrated. Some one hundred and twenty-five members and guests sat down to a banquet served by the social committee of the church, with Mrs. Holland Titus as chairman.

Following the banquet an old fashioned sing was enjoyed by all. A very interesting paper dealing with the church history was read by Mrs. C. H. Gower. The guest speaker of the evening was Rev. A. A. MacLeod, of Bear River, who brought a timely address—"The Need of the World and Westport's Need".

Thursday evening a community meeting was held in the old Temperance Hall. Following a very fine Temperance address by Rev. A. A. MacLeod, two divisions were re-organized with 66 charter members.

Friday evening the B. Y. P. U. held a re-union and 35th anniversary celebration.

On the platform, with the present President, Gordon L. Gower, were the remaining officers of the 1900 Union, namely, St. Clair, Cann, Mrs. Cynthia Welch and Mrs. C. H. Gower.

The rolls of the 1900 and 1915 Unions were called and eleven responded.

A. A. Pugh, Veteran Superintendent, of the Sunday School, and member of the 1900 Union, gave a very helpful talk.

The pastor then closed the service with a splendid address on "Memory".

BAND NOTES

When the Digby Bands re-assembled last Tuesday night, after a few weeks vacation, fifty-one chairs were occupied by the players. Enthusiasm and interest have not waned. On the contrary, the lagards dropped out, and the Band may now be considered permanent—provided the people of Digby give it proper support.

Next Sunday the Band will head a parade of the Veterans, and lead the singing at the monument for the centenary of the battle of the Marston, and afterward will parade to the Baptist Church to attend the morning services.

Each Society is requested to appoint delegates to attend this Rally, and bring their problems for discussion—either in the open Forum or personally with Rev. Forsyth. It is hoped that at large number from each society will be present to give a cordial welcome to our Field Secretary, and to enjoy a day of splendid fellowship together.

The executive members of the Union are asked to please note that there will be an executive meeting at some time during the Rally, and their presence is requested if at all possible.

Obituary

Mrs. Percy Normand

The death of Mrs. Percy Normand occurred recently at her late home in Weymouth Mills. The funeral was conducted by Rev. H. H. Walsh, rector of the Anglican church, with interment in St. Peter's cemetery, at Weymouth North. The late Mrs. Normand was a daughter of Still and and the late Mrs. Jones, of Weymouth Mills.

Mrs. J. T. B. Kahn

The death occurred at Kentville, on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 27, of Mrs. Kahn, wife of Councillor J. T. B. Kahn, of that town. She was born in Weymouth, 49 years ago, the youngest daughter of the late John Campbell, who at one time represented Digby in the Federal Parliament, and the late Mrs. Campbell. She was educated at Edgely School for girls, at Windsor, and had been residing at Kentville for over 30 years. Possessed of a most pleasing personality, she was beloved by all who knew her. She had been in failing health for over a year. Besides her husband she is survived by one son, John Douglas, two brothers, John D., of Pomeroy, Conn., who arrived in Kentville a few days before his sister's passing, and Dr. Colin T. of Pomeroy, B. C., and one sister, Mrs. Violet Campbell Fletcher, of Harrow, England. The funeral was held from her home on Tuesday morning to St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, interment in St. Joseph's cemetery, Kentville.

Hiliron F. Dugas

After six months of illness Hiliron F. Dugas passed away at his home, at St. Bernard, at the age of 64 years. He is survived by his widow, formerly Fannie Amaro, and one brother, Augustin, at St. Bernard. The funeral service was held in St. Bernard church, Saturday morning at 8 o'clock.

WORKING OVERTIME TO SUPPLY THE DEMAND.

The most popular tea on the market today is Morse's Standard Tea. During the past three months the packers of this blend have been working overtime and at that scarcely able to keep up with the demand. The explanation of this activity is to be found in the exceptional value, as it still sells at 50 cents a pound in all retail stores. Many blends of tea claimed to be of corresponding grade are priced all the way from 5 to 15 cents a pound higher. But there is an even greater attraction in Morse's Standard Tea than the relatively low price. It is the unequalled quality. Morse's Standard Tea has that thick, luscious quality that Maritime drinkers so much appreciate. The second brewing of this tea from the same leaves will actually produce as good a cup of tea as some of the watery teas that are on the market. No wonder Morse's Standard Tea becomes more and more the good old family tea of the Maritimes.

The provincial government's aid to weekly newspapers will be granted regardless of the paper's political affiliations, Mr. Fortin declared.

Miss Marjorie Dimmock, of Windsor, is a guest of Mrs. J. A. Grieson.

Miss Helen Weaver is spending a week vacation at her home at Weymouth North.

WEYMOUTH SCHOOL NOTES

Intermediate Department

On Tuesday, Oct. 29, the girls of the Intermediate Department remained after school to prepare their room with suitable decorations for their Hallowe'en Party. This being done, all took part in making fudge, which everyone agreed was a huge success.

The party took place next afternoon, and after a programme of songs and games, refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, cake, candy and ice cream, were served.

High School

The High School Department is writing quarterly tests this week, and while at the end of the first day's writing, it is too soon to judge of final results, it would seem that a large percentage of the students are doing very good work. A fuller report will be forthcoming next week.

With the coming of cooler weather, the pupils are looking forward to various winter activities. Practices for the annual Christmas Concert will begin shortly, and it is expected that it will be up to the usual standard.

The Improvement Club is putting the Open Air Rink in good shape, and the boys are planning to have a hockey team. Some good material is available, and we expect to hear from the boys later.

Remarkable New Aid in Avoiding Colds -- Samples Free at Local Druggists

Every Family in Digby Offered a Free Trial of Vicks Vapo-Rub for Nose and Throat—Also of Its Ideal Companion, Vicks Vapo-Rub

RESULT OF RESEARCH

PLAN EASY TO FOLLOW

Years ago, Vicks Vapo-Rub introduced the modern method of treating colds. Now, Vicks Chemists have developed the ideal companion to Vapo-Rub—Vicks Vapo-Rub—the new aid in preventing colds.

These two preparations, together with a few simple rules of health, form the unique Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. The uniqueness of Vicks Plan in reducing the number, duration and dangers of colds has been clinically tested by practicing physicians. (The Plan is fully explained in each Vicks package.)

Here, briefly, is how Vicks Plan works:

To Help Prevent Colds

Watch yourself and children after exposure to any condition apt to be followed by a cold—such as contact with others having active colds—crowds, public places, stuffy, ill-ventilated rooms—sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold, or unaccustomed exposure to excesses in living which lower resistance, such as overeating, smoking, or drinking.

NEW TUSKET

Mrs. Nelson Sabin, of Weymouth, is visiting at the home of her brother, C. F. Sabin, where their mother, Mrs. H. C. Sabin, is seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Deveau and children, Mrs. Agnes Saulnier, Mrs. Olive and Edward Deveau, of Woodville, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Gaudet.

Louis Gaudet is able to be up again after his recent illness.

Mrs. Moody Mullen spent a few days recently at the home of her sister, Mrs. LeRoy Wagner, Riverdale.

UNITED CHURCH OF CANADA—DIGBY NECK CIRCUIT

Rev. W. H. Forsyth, R. A., Pastor Sunday, Nov. 11, (Armistice Sunday):

Sandy Cove—9:45 a. m., Sunday School. 10:45 a. m., Public Worship. Culloden—2 p. m., Sunday School. 3 p. m., Public Worship.

Centerville—2 p. m., Sunday School. 7 p. m., Public Worship.

Y. P. S. C. will meet at Culloden, Centerville and Sandy Cove on Monday, Thursday and Friday at 7:30 p. m.

Social evenings for Sandy Cove Y. P. S. C. at the parsonage this evening.

—after a hard day when you are overtired.

Then, if you have that stuffy, sneezy, irritation in the nasal passages where most colds start, use Vicks Vapo-Rub at once—just a few drops up each nostril. Used in time, Vapo-Rub helps to prevent many annoying colds, and to throw colds in their early stages.

To Help Shorten a Cold

If a cold has developed or strikes without warning, apply Vicks Vapo-Rub over throat and chest at bedtime. Through the skin, Vapo-Rub acts direct like a poultice. At the same time, its medicated vapors are inhaled with every breath direct to the inflamed air-passages. This combined double action through the night loosens phlegm—softens irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion.

During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Vapo-Rub every few hours. This gives you full 24-hour treatment without the risks of constant internal dosing, which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children.

Test Packages Free

Your druggist has free combination packages containing trial sizes of Vapo-Rub and Vapo-Rub—also folder telling how these twin aids to fewer and shorter colds are used in Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Ask for yours today, as your druggist's supply is limited.

WEYMOUTH POINT HAS NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

The new school house at Weymouth Point is now completed and has been occupied during the past week. This building, which was constructed on modern school building lines, is one of the finest country schools that one will find anywhere and it is a decided credit to the place.

The teacher at this school is R. Oliver Gibson, of Round Hill, a graduate of last year's A class of the Provincial Normal College. This school contains grades from the Primer class to XI, inclusive, and both Latin and French are taught in several of the grades, which is rather unusual in an assisted section such as Weymouth Point.

Obituary

John B. Roberts

Friends in Bear River will learn with regret of the death of John B. Roberts, at his home in Montclair, N. J., on Thursday of last week, following a brief illness. Mr. Roberts spent considerable time in Bear River some years ago during the construction of the Bear River Pulp Mill. He was a native of Saint John, and as an ardent sportsman, returned each season to his native province to enjoy the hunting and fishing. Mr. Roberts was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry O. Roberts, of Saint John, and had achieved success as a builder and contractor in New York. He specialized in the construction of churches and many beautiful edifices were erected by him. Besides his wife, formerly Miss Annie L. J. Christie, daughter of the late Alexander and Annie Christie, of Saint John, he is survived by two sons, O. Christie Roberts and Lawrence C. Roberts; two daughters, Mrs. Donald Bruce and Mrs. Winston Campbell, all of Montclair; and one brother, Linley Roberts, of Saint John. The funeral took place in Montclair.

THE VOICE OF THE LEGION—BRANCH 22, BEAR RIVER

First of all we wish to thank the editor of the Courier for the generous response he made to the request of the Canadian Legion, Branch 22.

He received our last message and printed it in full, enabling The Voice of the Legion to express the sentiments of the returned men in our district.

Branch 22 attempted to meet at the time of the regular session in the legion "dog-out", but, owing to a smoke barrage, the most courageous decided that discretion was the better part of valor. Consequently we accepted an invitation to meet in the Library of the Masonic building.

Preparation for the fitting observance of Remembrance Day was the main order of business. The efficient work of the Branch Secretary enabled him to report that all the schools had been visited with the exception of a few, which had been arranged for.

In every instance the schools have co-operated magnificently with the action in offering to distribute the poppies. We ask the schools to do this in order that they may share with us our responsibility to the men who did not come back. Those who buy and wear the poppy are wearing the symbol of sacrifice. By their death we learned the true nature of war, and the futility of it. We purchased this knowledge at the price of their sacrifice. They leave the task and the adventure of peace to us. It cost over thirty million lives in direct casualties.

The Voice of the Legion, Branch 22, pleads with all who read this that their sacrifice be not in vain. "They served till death. Why not we?"

The Cheapest Comfort You Can Buy

Good Light Costs Less Today Than Ever Before In History.

GOOD artificial light is more than comfort. By enabling us to SEE without strain, it safeguards the eyes and adds immeasurably to the joy of living. Even if good light were expensive, it would be worth many times its cost. Yet it is actually one of the cheapest necessities in the world.

MORE than 100 major improvements have benefited lamp users—and since 1921 price reductions, totaling about 58% have been made to EDISON MADDA LAMPS. Added light to value of more than a billion dollars has been the public's benefit from these lamp improvements and price reductions in the last ten years.

THE sturdy but wasteful old carbon filament has been superseded by a tremendously efficient coiled tungsten filament. Instead of burning in a vacuum, most lamp filaments now operate in a gaseous bulb. This permits the filament to burn at high temperatures and also reduces bulb blacking.

Better Light Better Sight

It costs less than two cents to burn two 60-watt lamps for an entire evening.

AN APPEAL TO SPORTSMEN

Fellow Sportsmen:

We are now approaching the season when County, Fish and Game Protective Associations hold their annual meetings. If we are to be an effective Association, there are certain points that must be taken into consideration. The Province of Alberta has over 5,000 members in its Fish and Game Protective Association. New Brunswick has 3,500 members. Nova Scotia at the last Annual Convention had a membership of only 1,200, including the Guides' Association. Nova Scotia has at least one hundred thousand fishermen and hunters.

The strength of The Nova Scotia Fish and Game Protective Association lies in its Branches. Neither Dominion nor Provincial Associations, no matter how well officered they may be, can accomplish anything, unless they are supported by strong, enthusiastic Branches throughout the country. This is not merely a question of finance, it is a question of public opinion and public support.

When the Association is constantly in the public eye, in a helpful way, when it shows itself efficient in assisting the constructive conservation of Forests, Fish and Game, and is keenly desirous of helping our Forest Rangers, Game Wardens, Migratory Bird and Fishery Officers, we secure for our proposals and resolutions a great measure of public sympathy and support so necessary in our work.

Consequently, it is the duty of each individual Branch at this time, to ask each of its members to come to the Annual Branch Meeting and bring with him at least one fellow sportsman who will join the Association. An organization like ours cannot stand still or mark time—it must be constantly pressing on to new objectives, and developing new ideals. Otherwise the resulting stagnation will lead to loss of interest and consequent ineffectiveness.

Each Branch Association should plan a definite campaign with a view to interesting and enlisting the hearty support of every true sportsman. It is quite clear that we need this support.

The Provincial and Dominion Governments have this year carried on a very vigorous campaign to attract tourists to our Province. The scenic beauty of our Province alone is not sufficient to cause these visitors to return again and again. We must be able to show them Green Forests and abundant Big Game, Fish and Bird Life. Let us make clear to the tourist organizations that we are assisting them, rather than preaching conservation for selfish motives.

Since our last Annual Convention there have been formed two new County Associations, Cumberland and Inverness. We bid them a hearty welcome to the ranks of our Association.

Let us double our membership this year and show that we are a progressive organization.

Sportsmen! Join your local Fish and Game Protective Association. Signed by the Provincial Executive.

John Archdell Havey

The death of John Archdell Havey, President of the Suffolk Co-Operative Bank, Boston, Mass., occurred at the home of his son, Clayton Havey, West Roxbury, Mass., on Saturday last. The late Mr. Havey was one of Digby's veteran stipendiary magistrates. B. Havey, who last spring celebrated his 94th birthday. He was born at Sandy Cove sixty-five years ago, and spent most of his boyhood days in Westport and Freeport. At the age of 17 years he moved to Boston where he learned the carpenter trade; later he became a prominent building contractor in that city. He was appointed to the staff of the Suffolk Co-Operative Bank as real estate appraiser; later he was made one of the directors of the institution, and still later, president of the bank. He joined the Baptist church in Freeport, and through the years continued to live a Christian life. He prospered financially, and was always ready to give help to those in need. He was stricken with a shock on August 10th, of this year, and passed away as stated. His wife, formerly Miss Daisy Crocker, of Freeport, predeceased him about seven years ago. Surviving are two sons, Clayton, who was last week elected as Republican member for the Roxbury district to the Massachusetts State Legislature for the second time; and Everett, of Boston; also four daughters, Mrs. John Sharer and Miss Helen Havey, of West Roxbury; Mrs. Herbert Quick, Worcester, Mass.; and Miss Ruth Havey, landscape gardener and architect, of New York; his aged father, B. Havey, of Digby; a sister, Mrs. (Dr.) J. S. Timpany, of Digby, and a brother, Dr. Harry Havey, Mayor of Stewiacke, N. S. Mrs. Auldha Show, of Digby, is a niece. Mrs. Timpany left for Saint John on Monday, where she will be joined by her brother, Dr. Havey, to attend the funeral.

Annual Meeting Fish and Game Association Held

Last night's meeting of the Digby-Annapolis Fish and Game Protective Association, held in the Court House, was one of the best meetings ever held by that society. Rev. A. W. L. Smith, in spite of his desire to withdraw from the presidency, was again elected. Other officers elected were: Vice-President—F. H. Hatheway, Bear River.

Secretary-Treasurer—Dr. G. V. Turnbull, Digby.

Directors—Stanley Hallett, Weymouth; T. E. G. Lynch, Digby; A. Kelsale, Annapolis Royal; C. A. Burns, Bridgetown, and G. W. Reigh, Middleton.

The assembly stood with bowed heads in memory of Dr. E. O. Hallett, of Weymouth, prominent sportsman and a former director of the association. He was succeeded on the directorate by his son, Stanley.

Hon. J. H. MacQuarrie, Minister of Lands and Forests, and Attorney-General, was the principal speaker of the evening. He urged the co-operation of members of fish and game societies to do their share in eliminating illegal hunting by reporting all breaches of the game laws which come to their attention, to the proper authorities.

He urged the education of the public, and particularly the youth, in regard to all phases of protection. The government is willing to do all it can, but there is no body better able to deal with this matter than the protective associations. He recommended the system started in Yarmouth, Co., of awarding prizes to school pupils for the best essays on fish and game protection.

Coming back to law enforcement relating to game, he stated that more had been done in that line during the past fourteen months than during any period in history. Every complaint had been fully followed up and investigated, but the complaints were not as many as there might have been, or as many as there should have been.

Rev. A. W. L. Smith, president of the society, was in the chair. He urged a system of education along game protection lines and recommended a junior fish and game association, without membership fees, for the school children, and the awarding of prizes for essays. He also recommended that any hunter who shoots a man in mistake for game should be given a license for a period of at least ten years.

Other speakers were O. Balcom, of Clementsport, who reported moose quite plentiful and deer scarce in his district. He advocated a later season for big game, as the present season, he claimed, did not give them animals an opportunity to breed. He believed that the killing of bear in that section had done much to increase the number of moose and deer.

Jack Payne, of Bear River, also reported moose quite plentiful and deer scarce in the Bear River and Tom Wallace district. He had only seen one bear this season. He closed his remarks with these words: "The game laws are quite adequate for the purpose for which they are intended, but the enforcement is rotten."

Some discussion took place over the eight days allowed to register the kill.

REMEMBRANCE DAY IN DIGBY

Despite the fact that the rain fell in torrents here on Sunday, the Remembrance Day services were fittingly observed in Digby. Members of the Digby Branch of the Canadian Legion paraded from the Legion headquarters to the soldiers' memorial which was decorated with flowers and wreaths. Here the salute was fired, and the two minutes of silence reverently observed. Prayer was offered by Capt. Salvage, of the Salvation Army. At the monument the soldiers were met by the Digby Civic Band, who led them in parade to the Digby Baptist church, where a sermon befitting to the occasion was preached by the pastor, Rev. F. E. Bishop.

Banquet For Returned Men

More than forty Digby returned soldiers and their guests attended on Monday evening, the largest and most successful Armistice Day banquet the Digby Branch of the Canadian Legion have ever conducted. The men, with the exception of Dr. E. A. Ferguson, of Weymouth, were all from Digby. Secretary Gerald Syda, says the success of the function was due to the club members themselves. In former years the Legion has united with other nearby branches for the Armistice Banquet, but owing to their success this year, future banquets will be sponsored by the Legion.

The banquet was served at the Bay of Fundy House, Culloden. The address of welcome was given by Major M. C. Denton, President of the Legion. The toast list was as follows:

The King—With a few remarks from T. E. G. Lynch in response.
Our Fallen Comrades—Proposed by 1st Vice President, J. W. Merkel, response by 2nd Vice-President, Fred Thibault.

To the Allies—Proposed by Dr. G. V. Turnbull, response by Dr. E. A. Ferguson, of Weymouth.

Town Clerk Alfred Boden, was the speaker of the evening. Councillor E. C. Sollows, was the town's representative. E. J. Theriault, presided at the piano.

Following the banquet an enjoyable evening was spent singing old war time songs, dancing, playing cards, crown and anchor and other war-time games.

AN OLD ACADIAN RELIC

On Saturday last William A. Bacon, well known Hillgrove farmer, forwarded to the New Brunswick Museum, at Saint John, an ancient Acadian hay fork, used by the early French settlers. This implement, he estimates to be at least two centuries old. It is a heavy, hand-forged, three tined affair, about twice the weight of the fork used by farmers of today, and from all appearances must have been a very awkward instrument to handle. Mr. Bacon purchased the fork from an old resident of Little Brook, but before he was allowed possession of it he had to promise "to take good care of it." Last week he paid a visit to Saint John. While there he visited the museum and told the curator about this fork. On being advised that the museum had very few ancient Acadian relics, and that they hoped shortly to open an Acadian room, Mr. Bacon decided to make the museum a present of the fork, and it went forward on Saturday.

Rev. T. W. Hodgson Heads Digby Children's Aid

At the annual meeting of the Digby Children's Aid Society, held in the Council Chamber of the Court House, here, on Monday evening, Rev. T. W. Hodgson was elected President of the Digby Children's Aid Society. Other officers, elected were as follows:

1st Vice President—Mrs. T. E. G. Lynch.
2nd Vice President—Rev. F. E. Bishop.

The Treasurer's report showed the Society had made good progress financially during the year, although still in urgent need for funds.

The report of Austin L. Robbins, agent, was as follows:

"During the year in review, two children have been made wards of the Digby Society. The small number of children who have been made wards of the society is no indication of the amount of work that has been carried on by the agent, as in some of the cases that have been dealt with during the year, it was much more difficult to have the children cared for by other sources than it would have been had they been made wards of the society."

"There have been 80 children made wards of the society since it was first formed. Of these 15 are in boarding homes; 8 in institutions; 35 in free homes; 12 with their parents; 14 have reached their majority; 3 have married and 3 have died."

"We deem it advisable to make every effort in cases where poverty is the chief cause of the trouble, to have these attended to and relieved by the local authorities."

"As in previous years, much of our time has been given to care on behalf of children with whom we have no previous dealings."

"Our services have been sought and welcomed by heads of families as a mediator in family difficulties where children of tender years were involved."

"During the past year, we have been caused considerable care and worry by families whose father have deserted them, and cases of this kind we find difficult to handle, as there are so many complications which are bound to creep in, and in some cases it is difficult to make a satisfactory adjustment."

"The Children's Aid Society cares for neglected and dependent children. Its method is of a social nature and in most cases, they are of such a nature that it is not possible to make the public familiar with the actual meaning of the work. In most cases, it is of the most delicate nature as we are dealing with the

CUMMINGS—GRAHAM

A marriage of interest to Digby people was solemnized at Holy Trinity Church, Middleton, on Tuesday, when Mrs. Lucy Parker Graham became the bride of Harold Franklin Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Cummings. Both of the contracting parties were of Middleton. Capt. George Post of Digby, attended the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Cummings were overnight guests of Capt. Post on Wednesday.

Agricultural Society Elects Officers For Year

C. Y. Young, Lighthouse Road, was elected President of the Digby Agricultural Society at their annual meeting last Saturday. Other officers were:

Honorary President—John O. Turnbull.
Vice President—Harry Turnbull.
Secretary-Treasurer—J. Oakley Turnbull.

At this meeting it was decided to sell the society's bull, kept on the "Frank Gates" farm, Hill Grove, and replace it as soon as possible with a new one. Frank Gates and Goudy Nichols were appointed a committee to dispose of the animal.

Other of the society's bulls are stationed on the farms of Frank Woodman, Conway; Byron MacNeill, Marshall's Town; and William Jefferson, Mount Pleasant. The society reported a good year for bull services. More farmers are improving their dairy stock by using the society's thoroughbred bulls.

The Finance Committee of the Town Council met with the whole Council at a special meeting on Wednesday, meeting to discuss matters pertaining to the collection of taxes, and to make a few adjustments regarding the sewer question.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Piggett and family, of Bridgetown, spent the week end with relatives in Marshalltown.

private affairs of the family as they relate to the welfare of the child concerned and these are not things that we can write up in detail in the press or discuss on the street corner, but must be carried through in the quietest way possible.

"The activities of the Society have been carried on with the usual interest. The health and behavior of the majority of our wards has been very satisfactory. We have tried to have strict supervision over all our wards and in some special cases, have paid particular attention to the health of the child, and the improvement in some cases has been remarkable, as is noted by the entrance made by some of our wards in their school grades."

"We have had many perplexing problems to contend with, but looking back over a difficult year, one finds cause for gratification and we face the future with renewed courage."

"In conclusion, I wish to express my appreciation of the officers and members of the Executive of the Society for their cooperation and assistance and also thank the general public for the support during the past year."

Respectfully submitted,
Austin L. Robbins, Agent."

Vote of thanks were extended to W. R. Fillmore for auditing the accounts; to Mrs. J. S. Timpany, for her assistance to Dr. Timpany in handling the Society's accounts; and to Austin L. Robbins, for his untiring work during the year.

DRUNKARD BRAND

A Dallas representative in the Texas legislature has an original idea in liquor reform. He aims at the sale of liquor to habitual drunkards. He has introduced a bill providing that anyone convicted of this charge would have a capital H tattooed on the back of each hand, for identification. Then anyone selling or giving liquor to a person so branded would be fined.

Such a plan might have considerable effect, if enforced. Yet "habitual drunkards" are very hard to deal with. Probably most of them would still get liquor somehow or other. Many would give it to them from sympathy. The device seems, too, a little too much like the brand that used to be burned with a hot iron in the palms of the hands of French criminals. Habitual drunkards are seldom criminals—merely weak and unfortunate.

There is this objection, too. If they should reform, a thing which is infrequent but possible, the shameful mark would still be there.

DEMOCRACY'S SHAME

Fully 50,000 persons felt that they had to attend the funeral services for "Pretty Boy" Floyd. They got in everybody's way, jammed traffic in the little Oklahoma town beyond endurance, and made a disgusting spectacle of themselves at the cemetery, where they stole all the flowers from the dead bandit's coffin and nearly got into a free-for-all fight over the disposal of these precious souvenirs.

An outburst of this kind is not exactly surprising, considering the rapt interest that dim-witted folk are bound to feel in the doings of any notorious outlaw.

But it is a little bit appalling to learn that there could be so many people within driving distance of one small town who had so little to do with their spare time.

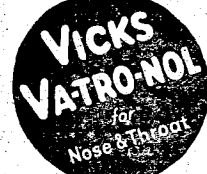

A democracy that will turn out 50,000 strong to squabble over the flowers on a dead bandit's coffin is not giving a good indication of its ability to meet a democracy's problems intelligently.

GOOD TEA AND GOOD HEALTH

The greatest medical doctors in Europe and America are to-day recommending tea for the sick. In all hospitals nowadays you will find tea served to the patients in preference to other beverages. Scientists have found that tea contains several of the vitamins that are so essential to good health. Besides, it is a mild stimulant. While doctors recognize the value of tea in both health and sickness, the general public of the Maritimes has rapidly come to give first place to Morse's Teas, not only because of their recognized quality, but also because of their relatively low price. Morse's Teas are suited to every palate and every purse. These are Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe, Canada's Tea de Luxe, at 70 cents a pound; Morse's Standard Tea, known as the good old family tea of the Maritimes at 50 cents a pound; and Morse's Blended Tea, the great economy tea, at 45 cents a pound.

MANY COLDS altogether

Quick!—At that first nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze—just a few drops of Vicks Vapo-Rol. It stimulates the functions provided by Nature—in the nose—to prevent colds, and to throw off colds in their early stages. Used in time, Vapo-Rol helps to avoid many colds entirely. Where irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (a stuffy head or nasal catarrh) Vapo-Rol penetrates deep into the nasal passages, reduces swelling, membranes, clears away clogging mucus—brings comforting relief.

Better CONTROL of Colds.

This new aid in preventing colds, together with Vicks Vaporub, the modern external treatment for colds, forms the basis of Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds—to help reduce their number and duration. The Plan is explained in each Vicks package.

Reminiscences of The Ridge

Hello, Folks, how is yah?

I received the "Diamond Jubilee" edition of the Courier, reading every line, between the lines, advertisements and all. Thanks, Mr. Editor, and congratulations to you.

It was very nice of you to allow me all that space in your paper, being new at this business of writing to the press.

I have been watching later editions of the Courier thinking, perhaps, some of those dames I used to step out with on the Ridge, and Tupper or George would contribute a letter of cheer to we old cronies up here in the States. Not too late, yet. You may get some information in this letter, like young Nichols, in California, did from my last one. The gals may still be bashful. By hickory, I could never get them to ever say yes to anything I suggested.

By Crackie, if ever I am lucky enough to return to the Ridge road, if only for a visit, I will call on every living one of them gals and establish the fact that although I lacked the gift of gab while strolling around the hills and valleys of the Ridge in my younger days, I had a warm feeling in my heart for some of them that would start maple sugar running in the trees along the Valley—off season—although they thought Tupper was funnier than Bill Nye and slicker than any greased pig I ever tried to catch at those annual celebrations held at Digby on Dominion Day.

Let me tell you, Mr. Editor, that away back in those early days along the Ridge road, it was hard to find any amusement to offset the monotony of a hard day's work on the farm—chopping wood, logging, mill work and teaming oxen. If one didn't discard some of the quelling parties among the neighbors, you would fall asleep by the kitchen stove and dream of Jesse K. Warner driving from Digby with his horse and pung, singing, "There's a Land That is Fairer than Day," and "I'm Going Home to Die No More."

I wonder if young Nichols in California ever heard dear old Uncle Jesse Warner sing those hymns?

Speaking of teaming oxen I wonder if Tupper Warner or George Nichols remember when Will Craig used to drive oxen, or especially when breaking in a pair of two-year-old steers? Will had a voice on these occasions that could be heard over the hills and valleys of the district. With his hip curved back to his right ear and a good stick six feet long, when he would say, "Ge, Star!" or "Haw, Bright!" cattle that were grazing away up Shelburne Road would raise their heads high and both ears front looking in the direction from which these commands came.

At one time Joe Warner was driving a yoke of oxen along this road with a load of cordwood. They got out of control after hearing Will's command, with the words that accompanied it. Then Ben, Franklin, Peter Butler, Tom Francis and others would protest at the loud commands. Even the parson, Revs. Parker and Lewis—who kept the Ridge folks in check, and an eye on the village gatherings, questioned Will about whether the steers could understand the language.

I must say here—to Brother Nichols, in California—that this was not the reason Will came to Boston.

I used to steal out occasionally and go down the Road to the meeting house where the colored people used to hold evening services. I got a lot of enjoyment from these gatherings. Deacon Butler led the meeting when the parson was absent. How those colored folks could sing those old spirituals! When the testimony meetings started several would stand and say a word of praise for the Lord who saved them from the devil. At one time a colored brother said, "Every time we went to Digby he used to drink and on coming back to the Joggin' side walks would cave in and swallow him up, but since he came to the Lord he walked in the middle of the road to keep away from temptation." Then Deacon Butler would start a suitable tune, such as "Keep In the Middle of the Road, Brother."

Quite a number of young folks would come out from Digby to attend these meetings—more for amusement than anything else. Occasionally the deacon would call them by name and ask them to speak. Well, as the Lord had not done much for these Digby boys up to this time, it was hard for them to say anything suitable. However, a few of them got their courage up, arose and thanked the deacon for calling on them and wished the brethren and the deacon God's speed. Amen, brethren, and hallelujah came from the colored congregation. This bit of recognition from the brethren alarmed the boys and they did not attend the meetings so often.

I have read with much interest R. M. Nichols' letters on memories of olden days on the Ridge Road, and thank him for his complimentary references to my letter in the Jubilee issue of the Courier.

As I have just begun my adventure in journalism and expect to get quite a kick out of this new undertaking this coming winter, I can't sign this letter nor answer R. M. N's. questions at this time. Sorry, but you will have something to look forward to.

Besides, up to the present time I am the white haired boy among the folks on the Ridge road, and if I link myself up with Tupper in all his youthful pranks I am afraid the market on my stock will decline.

The history of Uncle Bishop's smoke house must stay out of print. George Nichols got a good serenade under Tupper's supervision, who let him rest.

If Tupper and the gang moved across to the old back road, at midnight and serenaded old John Dunbar why should I describe it now? A letter from Tupper would be enjoyed.

No, friend Nichols, there is some secret that has not been revealed, or some blame that has not been placed, and if I write my description of these events I will be the victim of circumstances—the black sheep.

You were along at these happenings and enjoyed the fun. By crackie, if my memory serves me right, I think you were around on several occasions when I was trying to make good with some of my gal friends. You know how all-fired disturbing it is to have a youngster hanging around when a fellow is trying to make love. They are either under the sofa, behind the door or peeking through the keyhole. Perhaps it wasn't you—but it reminds me, many a hunking bee was spoiled for me on that account.

I am still single gals, living in a small suite of rooms in dear old Lynn, and often think of those I knew so well on the old Ridge road. I can remember you all by, say, Rachel, Martha, Mary, Julia and Fanny so-and-so. Now, if I visited the old spot and enquired for any of the above, some one would say, oh Fanny married Ebenezer so-and-so, Martha is now Mrs. Ephram so-and-so, and the school marm has got married and lives out West. The news would be disheartening, everything would appear different. I would begin to feel like a stranger in their midst. Then I would begin to look for the old landmarks, places where I used to work and play, and get enjoyment from memories of younger years.

I used to know several splendid gals that lived around the Valley and the Ridge road, when I was there years ago. They were good looking and attractive with a beautiful natural complexion of any hue or tint one desired, lips with just enough curve and point to become them, teeth like pearls, bewitching eyes, good personality and a carriage that was so graceful—oh me, oh my!

But by the great horn-spoons I had the devil's own time getting near them with their sweeping hoop skirts, leg of mutton sleeves and a broad ruffled hat with an old fashioned cambray on it. What a chance did we sturdy, well meaning young fellows have with all these all-fired temptations to contend with. I'd sooner climb a barbed wire fence than try to overcome these obstacles during my young life. No doubt they were fashioned by a committee of grandmothers to make it difficult for us young fellows to sing our sweet songs in the ears of those we liked best.

Then a visit to the barn yard where the cows, horses, pigs and hens always appear to be the same. I would linger and try and imagine I was living over again my boyhood days.

Now I want you folks on the Ridge to help me out. I have written two letters to you and long for letters from home. Write them to the Courier and I will read them. Come on Tupper and George. If you say you are interested I will write again.

I hope Tupper and George and others will not take offense at the mention of their names in my articles without their permission. I always think of them as old time pals.

I will suggest that if any of my old gal friends will write a letter to the Courier describing any of the old time events that took place some time ago, and sign their maiden name as well as their present name—if they are married—and ask me

Activities of the Scallop Fleet

The scallop boats had two good days last week, and one day's shipments totalled 131 barrels of Digby scallops to the American markets. The value of this catch was estimated between three and four thousand dollars.

From all indications scallops are still very plentiful in the Bay of Fundy beds in the Digby district. Good catches are made every time the fleet gets out, one boat reports having caught half as many scallops this season as during the whole of last season.

The Lunenburg vessel, Cadet, Ivan and Paul Mosher, arrived last week with the intention of conveying scallops direct from Digby to the American markets. Another boat to arrive from Lunenburg last week was the M. W. Colp, Capt. M. W. Colp. This boat, the largest of the fleet operating out of Digby last week, of the Violetta G. cracked her winch while hauling scallop drags, making it necessary for her to tie-up a day or so for repairs.

The Lena R., which sank at the side of the spur pier last Friday morning, is now ready to rejoin the fleet. The stem of this craft, owned by Capt. Harry Raymond, of the Life Saving Station, Bay View, and operated by Capt. Hylard Barnes, Digby, caught in the pier on the rising tide, causing her to spring a leak and sink. Of the two barrels of scallops lost when she sank, one was picked up at Deep Brook, and returned in good condition.

HELP THE ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS LEAGUE.

Plans are now under way for carrying out the Anti-Tuberculosis League's annual sale of Christmas Seals, the proceeds of which go toward anti-tuberculosis activity not provided for under other systems for free treatment of tuberculosis.

No financial provision has been made for the carrying out of preventive work among exposed children who have not yet fallen sick, and the League is entirely dependent on the Christmas Seal fund to carry out this work.

The members of the local Anti-Tuberculosis League, who co-operate with the Nova Scotia Tuberculosis Commission, under the auspices of the Victorian Order of Nurses, are as follows:

Mrs. George D. Turnbull, convenor; Mrs. Roy Sypher, Mrs. McCleave, Mrs. George Morrell, Mrs. Victor Turnbull, Mrs. MacMahon, Mrs. Walter VanTassel; Miss Harriet Campbell.

Within a week letters containing Christmas Seals and a special letter, will go forward to every part of the town. Members of the Committee will call at your house for the money and stamps that are not required—so do not send them to Halifax.

Mrs. Davis, of Wright's staff, has returned after spending two weeks' vacation in Saint John.

BAND NOTES

The Digby Music Council directors have decided upon Wednesday night, January 9th, as the date for the Anniversary Concert by the Civic Band. The program will be an elaborate one with many novel and delightful features including solo and group dancing and a large chorus of mixed voices. Everybody is requested to remember the date, and be prepared to give the boys a big house. The players are working hard to excel their past record.

The Band is holding for somebody a beautiful Christmas gift, valued at $20 or $25. It consists of two most artistic pieces of delicate hand-work—a table cover and pillow to match—which were presented to the Band last June by Miss Elizabeth MacGregor, but which have been held back awaiting the proper time to dispose of them. They will soon be on display—but who will win them?

Rene Richard is the latest member to join the Junior Band. Being the son of an American Army bandmaster and cornetist, he may be expected to make rapid progress on his chosen instrument—the cornet.

The Band has received the following letter:—"Will you please accept this letter as an expression of the deep gratitude of the Digby Branch of the Canadian Legion, for the service rendered by the Band on Remembrance Day, by parading with us in such a disagreeable day as to the weather. We also appreciate this service more because of the willingness of the band to come with clean instruments knowing they would have to spend considerable time to get them back to the same condition as when they started. If the band never did anything more than this parade, I think this action is well worth the support of the town."

Parishioners Give a Party for Father Murphy Last Monday

The parishioners of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church, at a delightful party on Monday evening, at which refreshments were served by the congregation, presented their pastor, Rev. Leo Murphy, with a pair of gloves, a purse of money and a dressing gown. The presentation address in appreciation of Father Murphy, was read by Patrick Coe-mau.

Father Murphy, for some time, has been in charge of the construction of the new church basement here. This basement, which stands 10 feet high, has ground dimensions of 35 x 80 feet, will be used as a hall until money is raised to erect the superstructure of the new church. The hall, it is estimated, will have a seating capacity of 600. Proceeds from hall rentals will go toward the building fund.

The hall, built of concrete, is now completed except for the finishing of the roof on one side of the building. During the course of construction it has given work to many.

ARCHBISHOP RICHARDSON

The elevation of Bishop Richardson of Fredericton, (and Smith's Cove), to an archbishopric is a fitting tribute to an already distinguished figure. A tireless worker in his field, forceful in every undertaking he essays, with an engaging mien, a tact that becomes a chief executive, and a finished culture, he will adorn the higher bench to which he has been called. A broad Churchman, he was above challenging the right of clergy of other denominations to hold their trusts, and in every proposal looking to the common good conferred with them as brothers. The Courier joins in the many congratulations extended to His Grace.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

WHAT HAPPENS?

Results are what count. We grudgingly give attention to those things which we hope will bring about the desired results, but our real interest is not in the training for the race, but what happens after the race—the result.

To have strength and vigor, you must eat the right kinds of foods. It is not the foods in which you are interested, but rather what happens to these foods. Will they give you the health and strength you need to make life more pleasant for you?

The mouth is more than a receptacle for food. It is a mill where the teeth grind our foods so that the digestive juices may get at the little pieces more easily. While the teeth are grinding, saliva is mixed with the food, not only to lubricate the way and to make swallowing easy, but to start the digestion of starchy foods.

The only acid secretion of the body is found in the stomach. Those who complain of an acid or sour stomach would have some real cause for complaint if their stomachs were not acid. It is the acid gastric juice which begins the digestion of meats and other protein foods. Those who have feared to eat cream on their acid fruits, for fear of curdling, will be relieved to know that there is a substance—rennin—in the gastric juice which curdles milk in preparation for its digestion.

The stomach contracts and mixes the foods with its digestive juices, but it is the protein foods which are chiefly changed. Sugars, starches and fats are not digested in the stomach. Those who believe that bread and potatoes should not be eaten at the same meal as meat, fish or fowl, argue that the presence of these two kinds of foods—proteins and carbohydrates—interfere with each other's digestion. There is no scientific evidence to support this argument, while there is much evidence to show that gastric digestion is improved when the two are mixed.

The foods leave the stomach well-mixed and ready for the major part of digestion which occurs in the small intestine. There the surroundings are alkaline, and there are present a number of digestive juices from the pancreas, liver and the intestine itself. It is the small intestine which completes the work of converting the foods into those simple elements which can be absorbed into the blood stream; they are then carried to the tissues of the body, which tissues build up from these same simple elements their own complex structure.

What is not absorbed is passed along to the large intestine, and some further absorption there takes place. The waste collects low down in the large bowel or colon, whence

MODERN TREND

'Tis a peculiar age we're living in, to be sure. Instead of life becoming easier, it grows more and more of a mystery. To get by, one has to decipher baffling cryptograms and unravel queer problems, or else miss most of what is going on. For some time there has been a wholesale epidemic of initials such as the N. R. A., the C. C. F., the P. D. Q., the R. S. V. P., the C. O. D., and infinitum. It got so bad that one had to tote a code book about to figure out the hieroglyphics.

Lately the boys who originate these brain-twisters have switched from initials to figures with the result that up until recently when the Cunard people decided to call their new boat the Queen Mary, the gigantic craft was known to every householder as the 534. Now to cap matters, Charles Chaplin, the comedian, has emerged from his Hollywood cloister to announce briefly his next picture for which preparations are being made, will be called No. 5.—W. J. McCullough in Hamilton.

Fifty Years Ago in the Joggin and Acacia Valley

You may recall, that in my previous communication mother said it was time to bring in the cows. Well, I got them home on time.

Now boys, let me call to mind one whom I feel sure some of you will remember, our old friend George Roop. A sturdy, clean living, hard working, farmer, on the old Joggin road, living just across and almost opposite from where the Welch family lived. He made few intimate friends as he was not in the habit of entertaining many of the valley folk, though friendly with all.

In 1849, which was before your time or mine, George Roop went to California, living through and taking part in much of the gold rush days of that period. And, from his own stories which were always hair-raising and heart thrilling, Mr. Roop had a somewhat personal acquaintance with that popular California writer, Mark Twain. And, by the way, those of you who may never have read Mark Twain's travels, his experiences during the gold rush days, his adventures in the Islands—should do so, for if perchance you have a severe headache, or perhaps be suffering with a bad molar and have no particular love for your dentist—dig up Mark Twain, and you will find a cure-all.

But getting back to George Roop: There were a few, including the Welch boys—Eugene, Osborne and Leroy; and the Payson boys and the valley Nichols boys, and others from the Joggin bridge section who will never forget his stalwart personality.

George was married—had a good industrious wife who could swing a hoe, climb a cherry tree and make the finest cherry fussy and other good "eats." And as a housewife, there was not one who ever took flour from a bin who might surpass her. Her name was Lois, and her kindness well known. She was full of good cheer, a constant comfort to any who might be sick, and an aid to the poor. Moreover, no hungry person ever passed her door.

George had a barge—a flat bottom, shallow keel and heavy side keel barge which he towed up and down the Joggin creek, and he constituted the sole motive power. He would walk the shores with the tow rope over his shoulder, riding in on the tide—wading waist deep to keep his barge from grounding, and with his row boat he would pull it against the tide, taking full advantage of the flood and the ebb tides for furthering his labors and conserving man power.

On the farm itself was a wonderful orchard—no better in the valley. And too, there were cows, pigs, ducks, geese and other fowl. George worked from daylight to dark. And his labors helped produce the choicest berries, the finest cucumbers and the best quinces that that section ever knew.

There were wonderful apples also, and choice potatoes, but it seems that the pride of his life were the products of his cherry trees. Trees that run ten and twelve inches in diameter; branches loaded to the breaking point with luscious oxbent cherries. It is no wonder then that it was a great pleasure and delight for us boys when George would summon us at cherry picking time. And too, nobody could doll up a box of cherries for market, like the good wife, Lois. We boys used to call her the cherry angel.

The mainstay and bulwark of the animal power on the Roop farm was an old horse called Elephant—I so named because he was so large. I have never seen a horse so big in frame. George had an old time low down broad and lengthy wagon, which served all general utility purposes. It easily carried a thousand pounds of produce to market. And when the wagon was loaded and ready to go Mrs. Roop took the reins. It always proved an awe-inspiring sight to me, for Elephant, as compared with the height of the wagon, surely lived up to his name. The shafts, instead of pointing straight ahead, always pointed up at an angle of at least twenty degrees. And it was a common sight during the berry, fruit and vegetable season, to see Mrs. Roop, with a wagon load of produce, lazily trotting along the old valley road, old Elephant taking his time, but always getting there. It was a sure sign that the cherry queen was going to town.

We boys had our moments, too, for we were in our glory when Mr. Roop would entertain us of an evening. He would bring up sweet cider, which would be served sparingly, and he would tell us stories of his early days, particularly those days which he spent in California during the gold rush. And, what proved especially interesting and thrilling was the exhibitions of ventriloquism given by him, for he was well versed in this art.

You will doubtless call to mind, the general layout of the living room of those days. Large and commodious. In the Roop house, as I recall it, there was a hatch door somewhere near the centre of the room, leading to the cellar by means of a ladder. The saved going out of doors in bad weather. And it was a great source of pleasure to George to have a bunch of us boys gathered around him of a night, especially if it was raining, with plenty of thunder and lightning, to lift the hatch door in the floor and throw his voice into the cellar, while in the midst of some one of his hair raising stories. He would finish his story with responses from the depths of the dark and ghostly-like cellar, all of which seemed so real and gave us such a case of shivers that we would almost be afraid to go home. But—being a most kindly soul at heart, Mr. Roop would always close his evening by telling us some pleasant story of his boyhood days, when his young nature was more akin to ours.

Well, mother is calling, and if I live long enough I shall endeavor to invent something to teach hens to go to bed after dark, without having to be placed on the roost.

Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And see that you get Aspirin. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet. Get 10 or 20 tablets or economical bottle of 21 or 100 at any druggist's.

Ramblings of a Rolling Stone

It may not be generally known that the year 1916 saw the birth of a movement which had for its object the setting up of a soviet form of government for Canada. Unlike many subversive movements, which spread their propaganda in secret, this one came out boldly in the open. In its published manifestos it was on a par with various modern political movements in that it disavowed any intention of doing other than remove some of the anarchy from the tangled skein of production and distribution.

A more favorable moment could not have been found in which to launch a third party. The feeling of distrust of both the major political machines was at its height; the powers in control of the Grain Growers were beginning to show themselves in their true colors by making preparations to use the suffrages of that organization as stepping stones to political advancement in the Liberal party. Then, too, the market price of wheat had been fixed at a point far below what it would have been on an open market; the cost of living was climbing rapidly; wages had more than doubled while the price of farm machinery had risen to a point where the toils of production passed from necessities to luxuries. This series of political and economic events had prepared a field wherein the seeds of popular unrest might well find congenial soil in that incubate, and given the requisite encouragement produce an abundant harvest.

It quite often happens that movements of this kind are more or less rough hewn in their inception and stand greatly in need of the chipping and polishing which is received at the hands of both friend and foe—an operation which removes many of the crudities of the original idea and results in its having a greater appeal to the laudible eye of the voter. The "Non-Partisan League" stood in no need of re-finishing. Any uncouth features which it may have had at birth were carefully corrected before the public was invited to embrace this latest aspirant to popular acclaim.

Basing its appeal to the public on a platform of political and economic justice, and disclaiming any socialistic or bolshevistic tendencies, there is scant reason for amazement that it should meet with a large measure of success at its launching. My connection with the movement dates from about April, 1917, at which time I was approached by a member of the "Central Executive", who requested me to allow my name to go before the nominating convention as a candidate in the ensuing provincial election. After considerable persuasion on the part of this official, I consented. I did not feel then, nor have I since felt, that there was any great popular demand that I become a candidate for nomination. The chief obstacle which I saw in my way was that I had been a consistent worker in, and supporter of, the Conservative party. This fact would, I thought, be rather a poor recommendation in a constituency overwhelmingly Liberal; giving me a slim chance for nomination and none at all for election: I was right—both times.

After the provincial election, which was won both as to the province as a whole and our constituency in particular, by the Liberal party, I was appointed to the position of field organizer. This field of labor brought me more closely in contact with the personnel of the "Central Executive" and gave me an excellent opportunity to study that pulsant body.

Having been allotted a section of the province as my field of labor I entered at once, wholeheartedly, into my new work and with so large a measure of success that on my return to the office with a report of the results obtained I was highly commended by the chief organizer for my excellent work and urged to a speedy return to the field.

A chance remark made by one "more in the know" than I kept, up a continual demand in my mind for investigation and as a result, during my second sojourn in the field, I came to the decision that there was something or things at the head of office which called for a little close investigation on my part. I decided to spend several days in using eyes and ears in and about the precincts of power in the Swift Current, in an endeavor to find the answer to the disturbing statement made in my hearing.

I regret that I had not adopted this course earlier in my association with "Central Executive." I discovered, much to my disgust, that I had been aiding in launching a movement which had for its object the setting up of an atheistic, soviet form of government in the province; that the supreme power was to be in the hands of the "executive", with the elected representatives of the people being nothing more than impotent puppets in the hands of the operators. Nor was this all that became apparent as I looked closely into the inner workings of the League. I found that "living on the sweat of the exploited masses" was not confined to Big Business.

Crying aloud through their organ, "The Non-Partisan League," against political corruption and graft, a peep behind the scenes revealed that these "political purists" were not one whit more righteous than those whom they were condemning.

The winter of 1917-18 saw the decline and fall of the League. A tightening of the lines by the Dominion authorities; the formation of the Union government, the desertion of all, or nearly all, of the field organization, wrote "Finitis" to their brief dream of power. What cause or causes lay behind the dissolution of the field forces I have never known. Perhaps experiences similar to mine may have been theirs; but whatever the cause may have been the effect was the same and the "Central Executive" found itself without funds to prolong what had been a pleasant holiday of almost two years' duration.

ANY TIME IS TEA TIME

Tea is the great symbol of hospitality and sociability. At any hour of the day when your friends drop in, put on the teapot and have a social time over the tea cups. Indeed, this is an old custom in the Maritimes and is being revived considerably these days. When people extend such hospitality they like to give their guests the best available. They find this in Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe, Canada's Tea de Luxe, which is the tea that has the bouquet and winsy flavour. It sells anywhere at 70 cents per pound and at this price compares with teas selling as high as 85 cents per pound in some stores. In fact, there is no tea sold in all Canada that surpasses it in flavour and general cup quality, and taking the number of cups it produces to the pound, it is really an economical tea.

BOY SCOUTS—1st WEYMOUTH TROOP

Reorganization took place at the home of L. W. Jones, on the evening of November 9th. Two tenderfoot Scouts were taken in: George Long, of the Wolf Patrol, and Hector Cormier, of the Eagle Patrol. Records were taken of each scout's standing. Ten boys out of the Troop will go to Halifax on the 29th of May, 1935, to welcome Lord Baden-Powell, who is taking a tour of Canada. The scouts chosen for the trip will be picked from those standing highest in the work.

Songs were sung, and Mr. Jones gave an interesting talk on his travels and adventures in Alaska.

Puppy sales by the scouts amounted to $15.70. All returns not yet in. This sum shows a slight increase over last year's reports.

THE CHRISTIAN STEWARD

Golden Text:—"Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."—Matthew 25: 21.

Lesson Passage:—Matthew 25: 14-30.

Live Christ! And all thy life shall be

A Highway of Delivery—

A Royal Road of goodly deeds,
Gold-paved with sweetest charity.

Live Christ! And all thy life shall be

A sweet, uplifting ministry,
A sowing of the fair white seeds
That fruit through all eternity.

—John Oxerham.

TRUST, 14, 15

We all like to be trusted. We cannot do our best work if we are distrusted, but we respond readily to complete trust. The fact is that we have been trusted more than we usually realize. God has reposed great trust in us. Life is a trust received from God. All our powers and abilities have been derived from Him. We hold them at His will and not at our own discretion. It is a healthy attitude of mind to assume that we are stewards on behalf of God. The opportunities we have enjoyed have not been of our own making but of His bestowing. Property registered in our name or bank balances standing in our account are but temporary possessions loaned for our period of life only. The measure of responsibility is not the same in every case. Some have five talents, others two or one talent, but all may be equally faithful in the use of these endowments they have received. The history of genius is not very happy, but many people of average ability have rendered great service by their fidelity and unselfishness. Those who prove worthy of trust are usually trusted further.

TRUSTWORTHINESS, 16-18

The test of trustworthiness is not ability so much as reliability. Cleverness can never take the place of integrity. We only waste our time by being jealous of those more gifted than ourselves; the thing to do is to show a greater fidelity than the clever. In this parable of the talents, the different servants were not rated by their varying ability, but by their degree of fidelity. The man with two talents was proportionately as faithful as the man who had five talents, and he received proportionate reward for the use made of his trust. It is a great encouragement to those who are attending school to regard their opportunity of receiving an education as an investment they are making for the service of God. Slacking in studies will be seen to be sloth, if school work is done in the spirit of stewardship before God. If our aptitudes are not developed in youth, we lose them. Fish in underground caves lose the power of sight because they do not use their eyes. Those who neglect worship for many years lose the capacity to participate in worship. Those who bury their talent in the earth find that when they wish to use it, it is not there. The only way to preserve it is to use it. Added responsibilities come to those who prove themselves trustworthy.

REWARDS, 19-23

All men may be born free, but they are not born equal. There is a great spread in ability. Just why there should be such a difference between five talent and two talent men we do not know, but the everyday facts of life bear witness to this proportion. One statesman can catch the popular fancy, whereas another man cannot even get elected in his own constituency. One writer can produce a column each day, and every newspaper will be ready to syndicate while others have their articles returned invariably. In religion there have been five talent men such as Paul, Augustine, Luther, Knox, Wesley, while the majority of Christians are forgotten shortly after death. Yet in large degree the world's work is being carried on by average people. The geniuses receive the high reward, but average people have the satisfaction of being useful. In fact a two talent man receives higher praise for being faithful with only moderate ability, and lacking the inspiration of the larger reward that goes to genius.

ALIBIS, 24-28

It is a weakness in human nature to be fertile in producing excuses. We blame our heredity for our failure, or we find fault with our environment for our lack of progress. We blame the firm for which we work, or the friends with whom we associate, or the government under which we live. Rarely do we look for the real cause of trouble within ourselves. The man with the one talent was discouraged because he did not receive five or two talents, but he could have invested his money as did the other two more highly favored servants. At present the depression is being blamed for everything that goes wrong, though it is not always guilty. A man who awakened up and saw himself as he was said that for many years he had been finding fault with the church; then he discovered that all that was the matter with the church was the individual, and he was that individual. The real trouble with the man of one talent was that he did not try. His excuse was not genuine, it was only a subterfuge. If he had encouraged half the energy to work that he did to inventing flimsy excuses, he might have succeeded. It is especially foolish to offer our lame alibis for moral failures. True we have evil impulses in our nature, but we may overcome evil with good. The fact that so many people triumph over temptations shows us that we too may triumph if we will stop whining and put effort into life. One cannot drive a nail with a sponge.

ALTERNATIVES, 29, 30

To a very large extent we make our own world. There is a law of increasing returns. Those who develop their abilities find that their powers increase rapidly. One piece of work well done leads to a larger opportunity of service. There is also a law of diminishing returns. Those who are slack in their work discover that the doors of opportunities close to them. This principle is true in the financial world. The man who can save one thousand dollars can make the next thousand dollars. The principle works in a similar way in the moral realm. The man who conquers physical temptations, develops power to withstand more subtle spiritual temptations. He meets life at his best rather than at his worst. Many of the later inventions of Thomas Edison depended upon his earlier discoveries. So in our moral struggles, each victory will Most towns need more harmony and less friction; more wide-awake people and less sleepy ones.

It is said that boundless energy is built on sound sleep. Some must have energy stored away. Now is the time to release it.

Time waits for no man. Don't put off until tomorrow what you should do today. You won't live forever!

Some towns should wake up, get into a constructive frame of mind, turn loose some of their stored up energy and get busy.

The citizens of some towns need to get a better vision of their town's present and future greatness.

They should bear in mind that the future of the home town is a public trust.

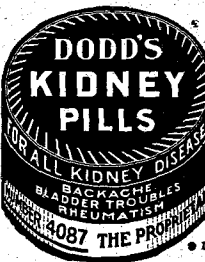

As the world progresses so should the home town progress. Business must be improved, industries encouraged and a spirit of progress developed in such a way that will lead to greater things.

If you don't want to be known as a back number, do your share to keep your town ahead.

help you some other to win. To him that hath shall be given.

QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

1. If people were absolutely honest would there be any need of auditors?
2. Have we any cause to be jealous of genius?
3. Will people work hard without the profit motive?
4. Do our excuses deceive any person other than ourselves?
5. If money makes money, does goodness make goodness?

Mothers adopt Vicks Colds-Control Plan

Helps the Whole Family to Enjoy
Greater Freedom from Colds

Doubly welcome to mothers is news that the makers of Vicks VapoRub have perfected a Plan for Better Control of Colds—to help reduce the number, duration and dangers of colds. Vicks Plan is introduced along with Vicks Vapo-nol, the remarkable new aid in preventing colds—companion product to Vicks VapoRub, the modern method of treating colds. The Plan includes simple, easy-to-follow rules of health—to build resistance to colds.

BRIEFLY, HOW VICKS PLAN WORKS:

- TO HELP PREVENT COLDS At that first stuffy feeling, that first nasal irritation or sneeze, quick!—Vicks Vapo-nol—just a few drops up each nostril. Especially designed for nose and upper throat—where most colds start—Vapo-nol stimulates the functions which Nature has provided—in the nose—to prevent colds and to throw off colds in their early stages. Used in time, Vapo-nol helps to avoid many colds entirely.
- TO HELP SHORTEN A COLD If a cold has already developed, apply Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. VapoRub acts direct through the skin, like a poultice or plaster, while its medicated vapors—released by body heat—are inhaled direct to inflamed air-passages. This double direct attack loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion. Often, by morning, the worst of the cold is over.

Lumber For England

Norwegian S. S. Svartesen, Capt. Jentouf, arrived in port Sunday and docked at the Railway wharf, where she will load 1 1/4 million feet of lumber for the English market. Frank Clifton, of Parker's Cove, has charge of loading, and as it has been many years since any quantity of lumber was shipped from this port, he has found it necessary to bring experienced stevedores from Parrsboro, to do this work.

While loading the steamer on Monday, second mate, Erling Jacobsen, was struck by swinging lumber and knocked overboard. Fortunately there was sufficient tide in to break his fall, and he escaped with no serious injuries beyond bruises and strained muscles in one leg.

On the same day a deckhand, Oswald Haug, had the top of his finger taken off in the wheel.

Blauvelt—MacDonald

A wedding of interest to Nova Scotians was chronicled in a recent issue of the Inverness (Scotland) Courier, copies of which have just reached Digby. The wedding is that of Dr. Hugh Osmond Blauvelt, formerly of Windsor, Nova Scotia, to Miss Marjorie Douglas MacDonald, M. A. of Glen Urquhart, Scotland. The marriage took place on October 25th. The Inverness paper, in a two-column "write-up," says in part: "There was a large gathering on Thursday evening at the wedding of Miss Marjorie Douglas MacDonald, M. A., younger daughter of the late Dr. David MacDonald and Mrs. MacDonald, Kilnchapel, Glen-Urquhart, to Dr. Henry Osmond Blauvelt, son of the late Mr. A. Blauvelt and Mrs. Blauvelt, of Nova Scotia. The ceremony took place in Kilnchapel Church of Scotland, which was beautifully decorated with autumn sprays, gold, yellow and white chrysanthemums, roses and the sandalwood and Michaelmas daisies. The officiating clergy was Rev. Angus Boyd, M. A., Glen-Urquhart, assisted by Rev. Alex. Boyd, M. A., St. Mary's Inverness, and the Rev. Roderick Mackenzie Reynolds, uncle of the bride. The bride, who was given away by her eldest brother, squadron leader Somerset D. MacDonald, D. F. C., looked charming in a silver threaded white satin gown with long train. She wore a Russian coronet of orange blossoms, pearls and silver and long tulle veil, and carried a bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley. Her three bridesmaids were Miss Joyce Watts, Edinburgh; Miss Madge Spence, Edinburgh; and Miss Amy Gellan, Glen-Urquhart. "A reception was held at the Rummachroch Hotel, where the guests were entertained and enjoyed the music of the pipes and a number of interesting speeches."

The groom was born in Windsor, N. S., and is a son of the late A. C. Blauvelt and Mrs. Blauvelt (now of Digby). He graduated from Dalhousie University, Halifax, in 1919, with the degrees of M.D., C.M., and honors in surgery, medicine and obstetrics. During 1918-1919 he was a lieutenant in the Canadian Army Medical Corps, being attached to the clearing command at Quebec. He practised medicine in Lockport, Shelburne Co., for four years (1919-1923). In 1923 he went to London and spent a special post-graduate work in anatomy and physiology, at Guy's, St. Bartholomew's, University College and the London Hospitals. In 1928 he received the diplomas M.R.C. (S., England), and L. R. C. P. (London). In the same year he was made resident surgical officer of the Infirmary, Stockport; from 1929 to 1934, assistant surgeon to the North Middlesex Hospital, London, and during the years 1932-34 in charge of the orthopaedic and genito-urinary departments. In 1930 he was made a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, of England.

Dr. Blauvelt spent several weeks with his mother, in Digby, a couple of years ago.

W. J. Agate, for many years proprietor of the Waverly Hotel, left last week for Saint John where he will reside in the future. The Waverly has been leased by Edward Howard, Sydney Malaney, also formerly of the Waverly staff, has gone to Saint John to make his home there.

Last week we neglected to mention that David Peters, of Centreville, showed us a beautiful stem of roses (seven blossoms, eleven buds), and a branch of raspberries, picked near his home this month. Mrs. Chas. Robichaud, of Weymouth, brought us a spray of hollyhocks. We also note that the lawns in town are keeping very green for the time of year, and on Wednesday saw dandelion "cotton tops" on the lawn of H. M. Warne.

Obituary

Douglas T. Specht

The death occurred at his home in Centreville, on the 12th inst., of Douglas T., oldest son of the late Charles and Sarah Benson Specht, after a lingering illness. The late Mr. Specht was born in Rosway 44 years ago. He leaves, besides his widow, four sisters and one brother, Mrs. Sandie Harris and Mrs. Layton Harris, both of Sandy Cove; Mrs. Oswald Banks, of Centreville; Hattie, of Yarmouth; and Fred, of Lake Midway.

John M. Franklin

On Saturday last, there passed away, at his home, John M. Franklin, at the age of 82 years. He was one of the oldest residents of Acadia, having lived his entire life in that community. He was a faithful member of the Hill Grove Baptist church for the past thirty-five years. His wife, who was formerly Elizabeth MacNeil, pre-deceased him eight years. He leaves to mourn the loss of a beloved father, two daughters, Mrs. Wm. Johnson, of Calgary, Alta., and Mrs. Albert A. Kirk, of Edward, Sask.; three sons, Will, of Conway; John, of Arlington, Mass.; Ben., at home, and who tenderly cared for his father during his illness. He is also survived by ten grandchildren. His pastor, Rev. F. E. Bishop, conducted the funeral service on Tuesday afternoon, at his late home and at the Hillgrove Baptist church, speaking from Psalm 90:4. The large attendance of friends and the many floral tributes testified to the high esteem in which he was held by all who knew him.

Miss Marguerite Baxter left for Boston on Friday. After spending a week there with her brother, D. A. Baxter, she will join her sister, Mrs. Wm. Bascom, in New York, and drive to Daytona Beach, Florida, for the winter months.

Regular Meeting of Town Council

With the exception of Councillor Turnbull, all councillors were present at Monday night's regular monthly meeting of the Digby Town Council. Very little business outside of the usual routine was transacted. The matter of hard-surfacing the street was the most important subject under discussion. At last month's meeting the Council passed a resolution which was forwarded to the Hon. Minister of Highways, to the effect that the town would like to enter with the Highway Board on a 50-50 basis on the hard surfacing of the main street through town from the town limits on Warwick Street to the Pines Hotel. A reply read by the Clerk from the Department Monday evening stated that the Board would be willing to enter into a contract to hard surface the road from the town boundary on Warwick Street to the end of the Racquette Bridge. The type of surfacing to be agreed upon later.

As this would leave approximately one-third of a mile from the bridge to the Pines Hotel, and as both governments under old agreements had kept the road in repair to the Pines Hotel on a 50-50 basis, the Clerk was instructed to write urging that the hard surfacing be continued to the Hotel.

The report of the Superintendent of Streets and Water told of ditches being ploughed, gravelled hauled and other work being done on the streets including the graveling of Sydney Street from Queen Street to First Avenue. This is an unusual departure, for Sydney Street, a very steep hill, in former years, was seldom used, and grass allowed to grow in the roadway. Recently this street has been used so much by motorists as a short cut, that ruts were worn in the middle of the road which made a track for water to run down

Balser—Crosby

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horton J. Crosby, Richmond, Yarmouth Co., on Saturday last, the Rev. H. J. Friend, of the Port Maitland United Baptist church officiating, when Seddie Alice Crosby became the bride of George Hartley Balser, youngest son of Mrs. and the late John M. Balser, of Conway. The bride, who looked very lovely in a becoming gown of royal blue silk crepe, with transparent velvet and silver trimmings, carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations and ferns, and was given in marriage by her father. In the presence of the immediate relatives and friends the bridal couple entered the room to the strains of the Wedding March, played by Mrs. H. J. Friend. The bride was the recipient of many pretty and useful gifts. The happy couple will reside in Conway.

The hill, flooding sections in the lower part of the town. Heavy drains had also been put in on this street by both the town and the Dominion Atlantic Railway to carry off excess water. Smaller drains had formerly emptied into the main sewer and caused considerable trouble by water backing up into cellars along the business section. The new drains are emptied directly into the Basin.

Permission was granted Reginald Mount to erect a bungalow on Victoria Street, near Warwick. M. C. Denton, through Councillor Morrell, made an offer to give the town any gravel they wanted from the new breakwater at the Racquette, the town to supply the trucks to haul the gravel away. The town accepted the offer, and the gravel will be placed on the town streets. It was also decided to take immediate steps to insure the new fire truck, which arrived Monday morning. On motion it was decided to have certain lots in the south end of the town near the Joggin surveyed, for the purpose of finding out how much of the land in that section belonged to the town.

Digby to Have Open Air Rink

The work of preparing the ground for an open air rink in Digby commenced Tuesday morning. This rink is being built in the North end of the town in the John Russell field, near the residence of Mrs. W. H. Redding, and many years ago was the site of the town's first skating rink. The new open air rink which is being built by a few of the business men of the town, will provide a place of amusement this winter, for otherwise, due to the loss by fire of Victoria Rink last February, Digby would be without a suitable place for ice sports, as there are few lakes and ponds in the vicinity of the town suited to this purpose.

Annual Meeting of Farmer's Association

At the annual meeting of the Digby County Farmers' Association held in the court house at Digby on Saturday morning last, the same executive which served the association last year were re-elected for the present year as follows:—President, Lloyd MacNeill; Vice-President, Antoine Comeau; Secretary-Treasurer, H. A. Nichols.

Four resolutions were passed at this meeting, to be forwarded to the Nova Scotia Farmers' Association and to the Government of Nova Scotia. The most important of these was the following: "Because of the danger of the spread of Bang's Disease by the selling of positive reactors into clean herds, be it required that all cattle reacting be identified and that the selling of such cattle be a criminal offence unless the fact is known and explained to the purchaser."

Other resolutions were that a Provincial Veterinary be appointed; that a drainage policy for the province be stated in order that lands not now suited for agriculture may be used; and that the Nova Scotia Farmers' Association send delegates to the annual meeting of the Sportsmen's Association and thus seek further co-operation between the two bodies.

A motion was passed that a Farmers' Picnic and Sports Meet be held in the county during the month of June—financing and programme to be arranged by the County Association.

The society also decided to put up prizes for school fairs in the county, and to offer a prize for vegetables at both the Bear River and Little Brook exhibitions.

This meeting was one of the largest and most enthusiastic in the history of the Association. A large number of delegates were present as well as a large gathering of those interested in agriculture. Raymond LeBlanc, county agricultural representative, gave a short talk at this meeting on the egg grading law which is now being enforced in most sections of the province.

Guy Dunn has added a wrecking car to his equipment. Painted in white and red, and bearing the advertising both of Dunn's Service Station and Imperial products, it is an attractive looking piece of equipment. We were going to say we wish Guy every success, but when we come to think that his success would mean that the other fellow would be out of luck, we hardly know what to say; but we will leave it at this: If the other fellow is unfortunate and gets into trouble, we trust that Guy will get his share of the business—and we know if he does it will be done right.

Adjourned Meeting Fish and Game Association

The adjourned meeting of the Annapolis and Digby Counties Fish and Game Protective Association was held last Thursday evening in the Memorial Town Hall. President, Rev. A. W. L. Smith in the chair and John S. Pigott, secretary. A discussion on re-stocking streams was opened by a letter from C. C. Nichol, of Yarmouth, stressing the importance of our fisheries to the tourist. He stated there were ten fishing licenses issued to one for game; James Calt, supervisor of fish culture for the Maritime Provinces, spoke at length on the subject, advocating ponds for sport fishing. After discussion the following resolution was passed:

"Whereas trout are very scarce in the streams of Annapolis and Digby Counties; and whereas this is an important tourist centre; therefore, be it resolved that the executive of this Association appoint at once a strong and active committee for the systematic re-stocking of as many streams as possible in the near future."

An interesting letter from Dr. Fales, of Wolfville, who was unable to be present, outlined experiments now underway in trout culture at Grand Lake and Nine Mile Lake, (Halifax County), where forty thousand salmon have also been placed in the former. The untiring efforts of Dr. Fales for the protection of our fish and game, were heartily commended, and a resolution passed expressing approval of the local government for their action in this matter.

Discussions on game matters resulted in the following resolutions:

"Whereas there is little possibility of any one snaring moose or deer during the open season when shooting is permitted; and "Whereas there would appear to be no necessity for hunters to bring before the magistrate, or other party appointed for the purpose, the feet and skin of the neck of the animal to be entered;

"Therefore this association requests the Provincial Government, to have the law governing such procedure amended by deleting the clause in question."

"Whereas there is ample opportunity for unscrupulous hunters to use one set of moose or deer antlers, with which to enter other moose or deer to whom such antlers are not the original part thereof; therefore be it resolved that this Association strongly urge that all moose or deer horns be marked by boring a hole in them at the time the animal to which such horns belonged is entered before the magistrate; and that any magistrate failing to so mark the horns have his commission cancelled."

The question of an independent commission for Fish and Game Affairs was discussed and referred back to the Provincial Association for further consideration.

The president recommended the appointment of five committees to study the respective subjects assigned to them and to report to the Association at the annual meeting, namely on Forests, Fish, Birds, Big Game and Education. The educational programme will be carried out by means of talks in the schools and prizes offered for essays on given subjects. Also by trying to get boys and young men to join the Association. Among those present who took active part in the discussions were F. H. Hatheway and Dr. L. J. Lovett, of Bear River; D. W. Kennedy, Frank Dittmars and R. V. Dittmars, Deep Brook; Captain Rawling, Lenley Shaw, Roy Merritt, Clementsport; J. D. McKenzie, M.P.P., and G. M. Beach, Middleton; W. L. Dargatz, Game Warden, Bruce Hunter, Fish-erie Inspector, and Rex Shaw, of Round Hill; and C. Parker, G. Bauckmon, P. C. Gilliat, Leslie Charlton, Ralph Gates, E. Mulse and J. A. B. Crowe, Annapolis.

KING GEORGE SHELLS OUT

Usually it is the father of the bride who nearly goes broke paying the wedding bills. It is the father of the groom who poured out the money in connection with that wedding at Westminster Abbey yesterday. Here are a few of the little items which King George had to take care of in yesterday's event.

Extra rations of rum and gin for the navy to drink the prince's health will come to about $6500. Stands at Westminster Abbey for 3000 guests cost $7500. The ringing of the full peal of bells cost $250 and candles came to $200. Three receptions to view the wedding presents and grants and toasts to tenants on royal estates to celebrate the day will come to the trifling sum of $25,000.

Wedding cakes—there were six or seven of them—cost about $7000. Incidentally, figured closely by thrifty Queen Mary, were estimated at $10,000.

In addition to all this there were wedding gifts which the King and Queen gave the young people, the entertaining they had to do for visiting royalty and deputations who arrived with presents. If the King gets out of it with $50,000 he will doubtless consider himself in luck.

The British national treasury pays for a sovereign's wedding or that of the heir apparent or the sovereign's eldest daughter. When other royal children wed it is a personal matter, so far as the bills are concerned.

Oh, well, we imagine the king's credit is pretty good and none of his money is tied up in closed banks at any rate.

HOLLYWOOD MANNERS

Five screen actresses have recently issued a joint bawling out to screen actors in Hollywood. The girls complain that the men of filmdom are ill-mannered and indifferent to the social conventions. They wear sweet shirts to formal evening functions if they happen to feel like it, sit down before the girls do, slam doors and make themselves particularly disagreeable. Says one victim of the boorish habit:

"I've given up accepting invitations from men here. They are not only wrongly dressed and discourteous, but are too boorish for words. All they can do is talk shop. They know or care nothing about literature, music, art and the great big world outside their immediate circle."

All this must be disillusioning to movie fans of high school age. It is painful to learn that your favorite screen actor, who makes love so beautifully on the screen, isn't even ordinarily polite or goodnatured outside the studio. This is hardly the end of the discussion, however. Wait until those Hollywood sheiks speak up and tell a few of the ladies' faults.

CENTREVILLE

Mrs. Israel Hersey, who has been visiting friends in New York, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morehouse entertained at Bridge Tuesday evening of last week. Among the guests were Misses Mrs. Chas. Morton and Mrs. Frances Beaulieu. Ice cream and other delicacies were served.

Mrs. Annie Smith, of Sandy Cove, recently visited Mrs. Cassie Morehouse.

CHILDREN'S CONSTIPATION

Ended!

Mrs. H. T. Rowson, Athens, Ont., writes, "My baby boy was troubled with constipation. I gave him Baby's Own Tablets as directed. Before I had given half the box the constipation was relieved. By relieving constipation, Baby's Own Tablets prevent more serious ailments developing. Much easier to take than nauseating laxatives and perfectly safe for all little folk from the wee babe to children of school age. 25c package."

STEADY PROGRESS

During the last year or more no publication has shown more remarkable strides in the matter of increased circulation than has the Family Herald and Weekly Star. This is not strange for it is evident that in times of stress people are prone to cut down on the number and variety of magazines and papers coming into their home and they find in the Family Herald and Weekly Star a paper which, at $1.00 per year, gives them every variety of reading, for old and young, all combined in this one publication. Every issue overflows with practical farming ideas, up-to-the-minute articles, short stories together with a weekly newspaper section which rounds out a feast of reading without compense. Truly it has been well said that the Family Herald and Weekly Star is the best for the least.

Reminiscences in Verse

To the Editor of The Courier:

Sir—I have taken great pleasure reading over the various articles which recall the past fifty years in the Joggin and Acaia Valleys and I am enclosing my bit if you deem it fit for publication.

I think it the most wonderful idea having all the old-timers write, bringing us all back to our birthplace, if not in person, through the Courier. The little poem I have written describes the old home where I used to live and from where I went to school, around the old Joggin Road, after passing the Goldsmith place, our place, Payson's (then Smith's). I used to fish off my father's old wharf. I did all the things described in the poem, except the swimming. How would it do for the old timers to send their photos in?

Eva Harvey Nichols

West Roxbury, Mass.

I am sitting in the shadows,
And I'm feeling kind of blue;
The pitter-patter of the rain,
Makes it very lonely, too.

The spring and summer of my life,
Just seemed but one long day;
And once my hair a golden brown
Is now all streaked with grey.

And as I sit and reminisce,
And listen to the rain,
I wish for just a little while,
To be a girl again.

I can see the old white cottage
As it sits upon the hill;
And in the hazy distance,
I can hear the old saw mill.

Along the old worn pathway,
The lilacs catch my eye,
And, nod their white and purple heads,
As I go passing by.

And the dear old fashioned garden,
With the hollyhocks so tall,
The phlox, the yellow daisies,
And rambling roses on the wall.

And down along the hillside,
The meadow is all aglow

With grass so tall and slender,
That the wind wafts to and fro.

I can see the apple orchard—
Clothed in pink is every tree;
I can smell the lovely fragrance,
That the wind wafts back to me.

I still can see the river bank—
It was a pretty sight—
The sunset on the water,
As it kissed the tide good night.

Away up on the old back road,
I think I hear them still;
The tinkling of the cheery bells
As the cows come down the Hill.

Hankinson's field again I see,
Where the strawberries grew so thick.

I take my dipper and old tin pail
And pick and pick and pick.

When our chores were done on a Saturday
We would hike to old Dunn's brook.
Methinks I still can feel the jerk
Of that trout upon my hook.

And when the tide rose in the bay
To the old green marsh they stole,
My brothers and Payson boys to dive,
That was their swimming hole.

Again I cross aunt Lucy's bridge
That leads around to the mill.
On the left I see the skating pond,

With skates and sleds on a winter's night
I still can feel the thrill
Of the glide on that old mill pond
And the ride down Raymond's hill.

I climb again to the very top,
Of the hill that I may see
The dear old country school house
When I learned my A. B. C.

And here I see the tall white church
I can still hear the deacon pray,
My eyes grow dim as I see the graves
Of my friends of yesterday.

The patter of the rain had stopped,
The moon shone on the floor,
I opened my eyes again to find,
I had been a girl once more.

Inspiring letters from U. S. A.,
Filled with thoughts of many a day,
Chopping, teaming, haying, loggin',
These things happened near the

Here's where quiltings and parings come in,
And the "sings" at night by women and men.

The lad says ma sings, "In the Sweet";
"Fairer than Day," is daddy's treat.
Parents of sixty-nine, salt of the earth.

Morning and evening around the

Did more than sing, "I'm Going

They lived the life, before the young,
That wherever their feet might wander
Thoughts of home brought memories tender.

THE CHRISTIAN AS WITNESS

Golden Text—"But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you; and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth."—Acts 1:8.

Lesson Passage—"I Thessalonians 1:1-10."

Lord, Speak to me, that I may speak
In living echoes of Thy tone;
As those hast sought, so let me seek Thy erring children lost and lone.

Writing. 1

Religion needs to be advertised. Catholic and Protestant alike, should be ready to give reasons for the faith that is in them. "A faith which does not bear witness is not of God." Paul was always ready to witness to what Christ had done for him. When he visited the Thessalonians he witnessed by his spoken word, and when he moved on to other places he witnessed further to the Thessalonians by his letters. Paul did not know that he was writing books to form part of the New Testament canon. He was writing to personal friends, new converts in whom he was interested. The printing press has been a great aid to religion. Books and magazines are pouring from the presses constantly. Much more perhaps may be done by friendly letters. A letter written to a business man was recently carried across Canada and reread frequently. The receiver of the letter said that it gave him strength and fellowship while away from home. Many Christians are now making letter writing a chief means of evangelism.

Praying. 2-5

Public prayer is another opportunity for witnessing. Quite apart from the petitions, the fact of public prayer is in itself a witness to faith in God. Private prayer may also be a witness. Several young men made a pledge to pray for one another at a certain hour on a certain day. They were separated by five hundred miles in three different cities, but they felt the power of their united prayers to be very real. One saintly man has a plan of praying around the world every month, using a map of the world and having several countries assigned to each day of the month. Paul had great sympathy with his young converts in a pagan environment. It must have been a great encouragement to the Thessalonian Christians to know that Paul in his journeys had not forgotten them but was still praying for them. Many find that a prayer list is helpful. It may be revised every week or every month. Christian workers are upheld by the knowledge that others are praying for them. Rightly fulfilled, the ministry of intercession is the greatest ministry on earth.

Influence. 5, 7

We cannot help being influenced by others. In spite of ourselves we are unconscious imitators. Great actors, singers or preachers are copied by many beginners. It has been said that one strong man may influence a whole community for ten miles around. A strong personality leads others. Paul knew that some of his converts in the Thessalonian Church had become imitators of him and through him imitators of Christ. They were then able to become examples to others. Though Paul did not make a long visit to Thessalonica, soon his converts had carried the Christian message into Macedonia and Achaia. On a recent Sunday some sixty laymen and lay women witnessed in two towns driving in the aggregate several hundred miles to do so. From one of the early history books of the Old Testament we hear this word, "Would that all the Lord's people were prophets." Vocal witness is necessary but silent example is also powerful. Not to laugh at a foul jest may have more weight than a spoken rebuke. What we are in character may be a steady, though silent, witness for Christ.

Speaking. 8

Paul's voice had a carrying radius of only a few yards; today a speaker's voice over the radio may have a radius of ten thousand miles. Yet Paul was agreeably surprised to find Christians where no apostolic missionary had ever gone. He said that it was hardly necessary for him to say anything because some unofficial visitors had witnessed so effectively. If only business men, tourists, journalists and government officials were faithful in witnessing for Christ, more missionary work could be done than is now accomplished by those specially designated as missionaries. Tongue-tied Christians are not maximum Christians. "Let the redeemed of the Lord say so." Christ spent most of his time talking to others about God. Never man spoke as this man spoke. "It was never for 'going about doing good' that our blessed Lord was put to death." It was for saying things. It was for saying severe and uncompromising things. It was because he bore witness to God the righteous One, and against these things in the name of men and in their institutions which conflicted with the reign of God—that his enemies put their heads together and compassed his brutal death on Calvary.

Reputation. 9, 10

News spreads rapidly. When Paul was in Corinth he heard of the transformed lives of the Christians in Thessalonica. Newspapers are quick to send good copy when religion is vital and real. When bad people are made good tongues soon start wagging. A living church will need to go back to the first century for examples of conversion—it will give local demonstrations. In the apostolic age the Christian witnesses were often martyrs; the word martyr means witness. In this the servants were following their leader. "On the night in which our Lord was betrayed, Pilate, perhaps quite honestly puzzled, asked Him in effect what He conceived was His mission to the world. Jesus answered, 'To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I might bear witness to the truth.' Pilate asked, 'What is truth?' No answer was given. There is no answer. It may be that we cannot define truth; we can only embody it. Christ did not answer Pilate: He laid down His life for His vision of God!"

Questions for Discussion.

- 1.—Which is more effective, a long or a short letter?
- 2.—How can prayer help an absent friend?
- 3.—How far should we allow ourselves to be influenced by others?
- 4.—How may we initiate conversations about religion?

NATURAL REMEDIES

Look around you and think, for a few minutes, about those things are used in their natural state. The chair on which you sit and the table from which you eat are made from wood, a natural product, but they have been fashioned by man into something that is better adapted for man's use.

The electric current, which serves so many purposes, comes indirectly from coal taken out of the ground, or from power generated by waterfalls. Man has found electricity to be more useful in some ways than the coal itself or the old water wheel. We could go on and on to show how man, by using his intelligence, has been able to take the products of mother earth and from them, to fashion things for his use and comfort.

Why is it then that there lurks in the minds of so many people a faith in what they call "natural remedies" as distinct from those which are prepared by man? Why is it that many believe that primitive peoples know so much about the curing of disease by the means of plants and herbs? Have these same primitive peoples given us anything in the field of science to be learned in the science of pharmacology?

When the old-time medicine man toured the country, he usually carried with him some remedy, which supposedly had come to him in some mysterious way, through the Indians, or from some far-away land. Often this concoction was called a "tonic" or a "blood-purifier." These were the days when blood was described as being "thin" or "bad," when spring tonics and the cleansing of the blood were accepted as necessary, if unpleasant, adjuncts to the awakening of nature after the cold winter season.

Strange to say, these remedies were supposed to come from peoples or countries which were not notoriously healthy.

There is nothing wrong with plants and herbs; indeed, there is much good in them. Nevertheless, there is no inherent magic curative power in the products of the earth. In this, as in other fields, man has learned to take these products and to improve them in various ways in order that some of them might be used effectively in the treatment of diseases. Nor is man limited to plants and herbs in the preparation of healing substances. There is no remedy growing out of the earth for diphtheria or diabetes, but man has produced antitoxin and insulin for their treatment. We progress through the use of our intelligence, not looking to the ignorant for help.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 134 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Temperance Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service Council and Temperance Alliance)

THE DRINKING DRIVER

The drinking driver—not the "drunken" driver—is the menace of today. The drunken driver, is too visibly incapable to get far in his driving of a car. But the drinking driver, the man of a glass or two, who seems to be perfectly sober, who is yet miles away from being "intoxicated"—that is the man who imperils the highway for all who use it. An interesting decision has just been given by Stipendiary Magistrate Putnam, of Truro, in which he convicted a man brought before him on a "drunken driving" charge. Reliable evidence was placed before him to show that the driver showed no sign of intoxication. The doctor who examined him shortly after the arrest, testified that there was no odor of liquor on him. The magistrate accepted both pieces of evidence as given in good faith. And yet the evidence that showed the offender to have had a drink of gin and two drinks of wine, some time during the day of the arrest, was judged to have sufficiently explained how it was that the driver of the car ran into a telephone pole on the main street of the town. (What if that pole had been a man—or a child!)

Don't you remember the words of an Ontario Judge, not long ago, to the effect that the man who had taken but one glass of liquor was thereby made unfit to drive a car? And readers of our newspapers these recent months have developed a strong suspicion that it is all too true. There is only one logical conclusion from it all. Not alone the "drunken" but the "drinking" driver, must be made "taboo" on the king's highway. Write it on the doorposts of thy house and on thy gates; bind it for a sign upon thy hands; let it be for frontlets between thine eyes—the drinking driver, the man of a drink or two, is the menace of the king's highway.

Way to Ease Headaches, Pain Almost Instantly

METHOD OFTEN RELIEVES NEURALGIA AND RHEUMATIC PAINS IN MINUTES!

Remember the pictures below when you want fast relief from pain. Demand and get the method doctors prescribe—Aspirin.

Millions have found that Aspirin eases even a bad headache, neuritis or rheumatic pain often in a few minutes!

In the stomach as in the glass here, an Aspirin tablet starts to dissolve, or disintegrate, almost the instant it touches moisture. It begins "taking hold" of your pain practically as soon as you swallow it. Equally important, Aspirin is safe. For scientific tests show this: Aspirin does not harm the heart.

Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet.

Get tin of 120 tablets or economical bottle of 24 or 12 at any druggist's.

Why Aspirin Works So Fast

What happens in these glasses happens in your stomach. Aspirin tablets start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

Order of Good Cheer Hears Lecture
"The Order of Good Cheer" held its second meeting for this season in the Memorial Town Hall, Friday evening. The president, Mr. Samuel Pickup, was in the chair. Following the usual dinner a very interesting address was delivered by Mr. G. V. Bert Douglas, Professor of Geology at Dalhousie University. Dr. Douglas chose as his subject, "South Africa," and illustrated his lecture with lantern slides. Following the lecture a business meeting was held, and plans for a Community Christmas Tree arranged. Several new members were introduced and welcomed. Dr. Douglas and Mrs. Douglas, who accompanied him, were guests of Mr. Pickup.

Junior W. A. Gives Successful Entertainment
An entertainment was put on Friday evening by the girls of the Junior W. A. in St. Luke's Hall, which proved to be a great success. Those who took part in the playlet entitled, "The Clinic of a Missionary Special," were: Ellen Northrup, Peggy Allen, Elsie and Joyce Moxon, Helen Jefferson, Marion Riley, Joyce How, assisted by the Misses Maid Layton and Dorothy How. Little Joan MacDormand gave a graceful dance; Florrie Allen a recitation; Miss Collins, a piano solo, and Mrs. H. M. Doull and her pupil, Dorothy How, a piano duet. This programme was accompanied by lantern slides. "Around the World with Our Boys and Girls." Homemade candy was sold and the sum of $18.20 realized for missionary work.

Talked on "League of Nations"
Prof. T. W. L. MacDermott, National Secretary of the League of Nations Society in Canada, gave a most interesting address in the Memorial Town Hall, Monday evening, under the auspices of the Legion. The speaker was introduced by His Honor Judge W. A. Livingstone. The important subject of the League of Nations was handled in a masterly manner and was intensely interesting. The words "League of Nations" were clearly showing that Prof. MacDermott is thoroughly familiar with every phase of its working. The lecture was greatly enjoyed by all who heard it.

Through the efforts of G. E. Torrie and the kindness of Mr. Moir, of the publicity department of the N. R., a large number of Digby people had the pleasure of seeing several rolls of films at the Winchester Hotel, on Wednesday evening. The first was a roll depicting "Power," and it showed a large number of views of the giant locomotives—both steam and electrical—in use on Canada's great national system. They were seen on the road, in the yards and in process of construction. This was followed by two films of Canada's farthest north in the grip of winter—acrobatics, dog teams, Eskimos, etc. Later another winter film showed Canada's winter sports around Quebec, Ottawa, and Montreal—skiing, tobogganing, etc. Then a trip to the West Indies on the Lady Rodney, and closing with a wonderful film of the Canadian Rockies, around Jasper Lodge. At the close a vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Moir.

NEW FIRE TRUCK ARRIVES

Digby's new fire truck arrived this week. The truck, with a pumping capacity of 350 gallons of water per minute, is one of the most up-to-date pieces of fire-fighting apparatus in this section of the province. Tests made on Tuesday and Wednesday proved most satisfactory. Low pressure hydrants over the hills, (some so low that pressure could not be measured) were hooked on to the pump and brought up to high pressure, pumping and pressure tests at Young's and Franklin's ponds were also satisfactory.

ANOTHER WESTPORT CELEBRATION

On Sunday evening the United Baptist Women's Missionary Union, of Westport, held their annual thank offering service and at the same time celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the society. The following programme was rendered:

Tourist Issues Discussed at Meeting

On Monday afternoon P. G. J. Comeau, representing the provincial Department of Information, and O. C. Jones, Digby County's representative to the Federal Tourist Advisory Bureau, met in the town hall, with a number of the business men of the town interested in the tourist business. At this gathering the questionnaire now being sent out by the government to all tourist centres, was discussed, and the answers gone into fully. As a result a fairly complete resume of local conditions relating to the tourist industry, will be placed before the government.

Recommendations urging the government to re-open the shore road from the Pines to Bay View, one of the prettiest four-mile drives in the province; the re-opening of the road from Culloden to Roxville (Digby Neck), and putting the road to Lake Jolly in a better condition, went forward from this meeting. A few years ago the government was presented with a largely signed petition requesting that the Culloden to Roxville road be re-opened, and for some time there has been an agitation to have the shore road made safe. The Lake Jolly road is one of the gateways used by sportsmen entering the hinterland of the county in search of big game.

The conservation of big game by means of more sanctuaries and national parks, and a more stringent enforcement of the game laws, was also urged.

NO REAL WINTER TILL MARCH, SAYS PROPHET

Umbrella vendors, rejoice! Coal dealers, snash your teeth, for its going to be a short winter, according to Wm. Radley, 73-year-old Toronto weather prophet, whose specialty is long-range forecasting.

A Toronto paper of recent date stated that Mr. Radley had the weather doped out this way for the next six months: "There will be a long mild autumn and a short winter. There will be about nine thunder storms. Most trouble will come from the East. Strong winds will occur mostly after the middle of February and through March. The south-western parts of Ontario will not be much affected by the terrible north-easters."

He has it all figured out that his observations in Toronto will give him accurate clues to future weather conditions as far as 150 miles north and a good deal farther south. He also claims a pretty wide range on the east and west line. This will cover Halifax, he affirms.

Mr. Radley's next observations of the equinoxia winds will be made next March, and he's a little afraid he won't have such good news to give out. All signs indicate, he says, that March will mark the real beginning of winter. "It's going to be plenty cold," he thinks.

NORTH RANGE

Mr. and Mrs. D. Abbott of Brighton, spent Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Andrews. Mrs. Arthur Lamberson and daughter Jean, of Barton, were Sunday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bragg.

MORE ANCIENT RELICS

Miss Elsie Adams has a couple of real antiques in her possession. One is an iron implement, almost the length and weight of a crowbar, with a rounded handle at one end and a hook at the other. It is called a "backlog hook," and was used in the old fireplaces for the purpose of drawing the logs back of the main fire, forward on the flames. It belonged to the old Seacow family, of Bayview, and is now to be almost 200 years old. The other article is a pair of tongs, from 150 to 175 years old.

At the meeting of those interested in the tourist business, held on Monday afternoon, the suggestions were made that the old Admiral Digby well be re-opened, and that a local museum be established in which ancient relics could be displayed and preserved. Miss Adams says if such a step should be taken she would be pleased to donate these articles.

Rev. William N. Bradner officiated at the ceremony which was solemnized at Grace Episcopal church, in the presence of a large number of guests. Judge Favors Proposals Made By The French France's Proposals to the Disarmament Conference, "was the theme of an address given to the Digby Kiwanis Club, by W. A. Livingstone, Judge of the County Court for District No. 3, on Tuesday. Judge Livingstone considered the problem of disarmament one to be faced by the present generation, which knows something of the horrors of war, and not one to be put off for the coming generation to deal with.

He considered the French proposals as the most practical to come before the conference at Geneva, and felt that the fact that these proposals were given so little publicity in the Canadian press was due to the activities of propagandists. In referring to the criticisms directed toward France and her foreign policy, Judge Livingstone was not in accord with these criticisms. France's war expenditures, he said, have been for the most part defensive, and very little for offensive. "Europe fears Germany, and with the present irresponsible government of Germany, her fears are justified," he said.

Although Great Britain has done much in the field of human endeavor since the war, of which all should be proud, he had to admit that he was ashamed of Britain's foreign policy since the war. The British proposals to the Disarmament Conference provided only for the reduction of armaments and offered no solution to the problem of ending wars. The French proposals, on the other hand, placed the control of the implements of warfare in the hands of the League of Nations as an International Police Force.

The following is a synopsis of the French proposals as read by Judge Livingstone in his address:

- 1.—Bombing aircraft be placed at the disposal of the League of Nations.
- 2.—The internationalization of civil air transport under a regime to be organized by the League.
- 3.—The limitation of bombing aircraft.
- 4.—That certain materials of land and naval forces should be placed at the disposal of the League of Nations, such as:
 - (a)—Batteries of heavy long range artillery.

BAND NOTES

With the assistance of Mrs. Harold Nichols and Mrs. Bowley as accompanists, and with Mr. Gabriel and Harry Beaman as directors, a large chorus is holding frequent practice on portions of the grand opera, "Bohemian Girl," to be sung with the Band at the Anniversary Concert in January. Another great composition is also being rehearsed and will be an outstanding feature of the programme.

Through the generosity of Mrs. Louisa Rmaron, of Berthierville, Quebec, the Band will have the use of her piano at the Band room until she finds a sale for it. The piano will be very valuable to the bandmen in the rehearsal of special numbers.

The Band has many warm friends and admirers at Sandy Cove, who occasionally show their approval in substantial way. Last week one of these friends at Elliot Farm, who modestly withholds her name, sent in a generous cash contribution which is highly appreciated because money is more needed by the Band, and because such thoughtful acts are a great encouragement to the members.

WHITE HEAD, GRAND MANAN

On Tuesday last week Mrs. Hanford Small passed away after months of suffering, aged 70 years. Mrs. Small was a member of the church at White Head, and a sister in the lodge at Grand Harbor. Besides a large circle of friends she leaves to mourn her passing, her husband and nine children: Hanford, of Digby; Mrs. John Cossaboom, Lewiston; Emery, Olmar and Lowell, of White Head; Merrill, of North Head; and Mrs. E. Cossaboom and Mrs. Don White, of Grand Harbor. Rev. C. J. Wilson preached the funeral sermon, and he was assisted in the service by Rev. B. M. Frangwell.

Many of the people of White Head attended the funeral service of the late Rev. I. D. Harvey, which was held at Seal Cove, on Friday last. Mr. Harvey was a former pastor here for a good many years, and had endeared himself to many by his faithful ministrations. Even after leaving White Head his interest did not wane and he kept in close touch with the people.

Please Take Notice

There is a charge of ten cents per line for reading notices in advance of any entertainment, social, tea or sale, which has for its object the raising of money for any purpose. Publicity is essential to these enterprises and the newspaper is entitled to payment for this publicity. This applies to communities, lodges, churches, musical organizations, in fact every institution which may be endeavoring to raise money. Many of our correspondents and contributors try to "sneak" in these notices quite often, and sometimes we have let them slip by, but in the future we intend to keep closer watch, and if the institution concerned denies responsibility, the correspondent or contributor will be billed. Do not forget that a notice BEFORE the event is advertising; AFTER the event it's news.

DROPS DEAD ON STREET

The citizens of Bear River were greatly shocked by the sudden death, on Monday afternoon, of Capt. H. W. Moore, a retired sea captain and a well known resident. Capt. Moore had left his home a short time before going down town for his mail, and returning, fell dead in the street in front of the residence of Rev. A. A. MacLeod, where he was taken and medical aid summoned. But apparently death had been instantaneous from a heart attack, though he had had no former illness. The late Capt. Moore was 72 years old, a native of Digby County, and for many years a resident of Bear River. He retired from the sea several years ago. Through his many years as captain he served in that capacity on wooden ships and latterly on coastal steamers. He leaves a widow, formerly Miss M. A. Chute, of Bear River, and a number of relatives in this section of the province. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon.

CHRISTMAS AND MAIL-BOX

There is one institution in particular which helps enormously in enabling friends to exchange their messages of cheer and good-will at the Christmas-tide. It is the post office, which day in and day out quietly carries on its work with amazing efficiency. At the Christmas season when the mails are exceptionally heavy, the burden of the post office is greatly increased. But with hearty co-operation on the part of the public, their burden could be appreciably lightened.

By mailing Christmas mail at an early date the post office is better able to avoid congestion, do its work more efficiently and get the mail delivered at its destination at the appointed time. The public appreciates or should appreciate, the very excellent services the post office has been giving year after year and it would be showing its appreciation in a helpful way if it remembered that Christmas is just around the corner and did not put off but got its mail away as early as possible.

Miss Addie McKinnon left on Friday en route to Oak Bay, N. B., to visit her sister, Mrs. Jack Culbert, and family.

Motor Vessel "Cadet" Blows Up in St. Mary's

Capt. Ivan Mosher, his brother Paul, and two seamen Douglas Tanner and Albert Rollands, all of Lunenburg, narrowly escaped death, yesterday morning when the 60-ton motor vessel Cadet blew up in St. Mary's Bay, near Tiverton. The Cadet, which had put into Tiverton owing to weather conditions, while en route from Digby to Gilbert's Cove to load a cargo of pulpwood, caught fire in the engine room after she had cleared Petite Passage and was on her way across the Bay. The explosion which wrecked the boat, occurred about two minutes after the boat caught fire, according to a telephone message to the Courier, yesterday morning.

The captain and crew, who made their escape in a dory, landed safely at Church Point. The destruction of the ship was so swift that they only managed to salvage a few items of clothing. Capt. Mosher was trying to save his sextant when the explosion occurred. He was slightly injured, but fortunately the injuries to himself or the members of his crew were of little consequence.

Dense clouds of smoke seen out in the bay told the folk along the shore that some boat was in distress. Boats from the islands set out immediately after the smoke was seen. When they arrived at the scene the heat from the burning boat was so intense that it was impossible to approach the boat. At first it was believed that the crew had perished, and later it was rumored that they had been taken off by the Bearcat, which was thought to have gone up the bay about the time the accident occurred. It developed, however, that the crew got away in their own boat.

The Mosher brothers purchased the Cadet last spring and used her this summer for sword fishing. They came to Digby about three weeks ago with the intention of carrying scallops to the American markets. Unable to make arrangements they have been disappointed.

The vessel was a total loss.

Lloyd Hersey spent the week end in Saint John, returning Monday, accompanied by Mrs. Hersey who has been visiting in New Brunswick.

Harry Gavel, of Middleton, was calling on friends in town this week.

Rev. I. D. Harvey

The death of Rev. I. D. Harvey, well known retired Baptist clergyman, occurred at Little River, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Thomas Denton, where he was visiting when stricken. He was confined to his bed for about a week. The death occurred on November 28th. The deceased, who was 81 years of age, came to Little River 23 years ago, and has laboured on that field as pastor and evangelist for a number of years. He began his ministry at Beaver Harbor, Grand Manan, and was born at Seal Cove, on that island. On Thursday last his remains, accompanied by Thomas Denton, were taken to Grand Manan for interment beside his first wife. This summer Mr. Harvey underwent an operation on his eyes. Since last winter he had been unable to read and through this operation he was able to enjoy his books and his Bible during the last few months of his life. Surviving are his second wife and one daughter, Mrs. Thomas Denton, both of Little River. Rev. Harvey L. Denton, pastor of the First Baptist Church, New Glasgow, is a grandson.

NO "THOU SHALT NOT KILL"

The anti-Christian movement in Germany has issued nine commandments to take the place of the ten of Moses and the eleven of Jesus. Practically all the new commandments are inferior to those of the old and new testaments and the one
"Thou shalt not kill" is not represented in the list. According to the new German Faith movement it no longer is considered a sin to kill in Nazi Germany.

OLDEST NEWSPAPER QUITS

From the Educational Department of the American Express Company comes the information that the oldest newspaper in the world, the Peking Boa, of China, has ceased publication. It was founded 1,534 years ago during the reign of the Emperor Tin Kuan Teung, who is considered in China as the inventor of printing. The paper was originally printed on strips of yellow silk sewn together. From being a periodical the Peking Boa became a daily paper in 1800. In spite of its many vicissitudes and of being suspended more than once for political reasons, the paper has survived through a long career, which began in the year 400

THE DAY OF CRISIS TELLS

"It was nothing but your habits of total abstinence that brought you through." That is what the expert physician told a friend of mine who recounted the other evening his trying experience in hospital within the past twelve months. Of rugged frame, the very picture of health, never knowing what sickness was, he was taken to hospital to undergo an operation for a sudden attack of appendicitis. Complications set in, and he lay at death's door for hours, or even days. The most sane of the doctors told his friends that his passing was merely a matter of moments. But a slight change came.
The flickering light became a shade steadier. He rallied, came back from the very shadows of death to the full light of robust health as of yore.
"You are a man who never drank liquor nor used tobacco—that is the only thing that saved you to your wife and family in this crisis," said the physician as he reviewed his case.

Set alongside of this a story of the two Japanese officers who, in the Russo-Japanese war, lay side by side in hospital, the one wounded in a limb. Both received the same care and attention. But a strange thing happened. The officer of the more serious wounds got better first, while the other lay a whole month longer in hospital. "Why should he get better first?" asked the officer who was left. "Ah," said the doctor, "his blood is pure and healthy. Yours has been poisoned by alcohol, and that is why your wounds are so slow in healing."

You see, it is what happens in the crisis that tells the story. And who of us knows what health crisis may await us—4 may be tomorrow? Why, for the sake of a moment of illu-sionary exhilaration, lessen our chances of overcoming in a crisis? Don't we know the poisonous effects of alcohol? Then why all this foolish tampering with "forbidden fruit"? And why all this respectable "dressing-up" of the practice of selling and buying it as a beverage?

Marriages

Belleveau-Comeau

One of the prettiest weddings ever witnessed in Stella Maris Church at Meteghan, was celebrated Monday morning of last week when Rev. J. M. Deveau, P. P., united in marriage Miss Gertrude Comeau, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Raymond Comeau, of Meteghan, to Charles Belleveau, son of Augustin Belleveau, of Belleveau's Cove. The bride looked charming in a white satin dress, with veil, and carrying a beautiful bouquet of chrysanthemums. Miss Actarie Comeau, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Alphonse Belleveau, brother of the groom, acted as best man. Lohansen's Diddel Chorus was played by Mrs. Joseph S. LeBlanc, organist of the church. During the offertory Theodore Melanson sang "Ave Maria". Other solos were also sung by A. F. Hache and Arthur Robicheau. Following the ceremony breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, at which relatives and friends were present; also a number of school teachers. The bride, who for a number of years taught school at Belleveau's Cove, was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. The happy couple left on a motor trip to Halifax. On their return they will make their home in Belleveau's Cove.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Mary's Church, Church Point, at 8 o'clock, Nov. 27, by Rev. Father Dugas, Parish Priest, when Therese Dugas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alpha Dugas, of Grosses Coques, was united in marriage to Denis LeBlanc, son of the late Siméon LeBlanc, of Grosses Coques. GEO. A. MACDONALD HONORED ON HIS BIRTHDAY

A very enjoyable birthday party was that given on November 16th, in honor of the 85th birthday of George A. MacDonald, a life-long resident of Plympton.

About twenty-five guests, including friends from Ashmore, were present and the evening passed pleasantly with singing of the old favorite hymns. A recitation by Mrs. Seleda Stevens was a pleasant feature of the evening. Refreshments were served by Mr. MacDonald's daughter, Mrs. Roland Kinney. She was assisted in serving by Mrs. Harley Brooks and the Misses Doris Manzer and Jessie Potter. The birthday cake, which had been very prettily decorated by his grandson, Cortland Kinney, and lighted by eighty-five candles, was greatly admired as well as enjoyed.

Although Mr. MacDonald's health has not been good for the past few years he was able to enjoy the evening with old friends and to appreciate their gifts and good wishes.

The Weymouth editor of the Courier has recently received a most interesting letter from Mrs. George Selwyn Journey, of East Moriches, N. Y., who will be remembered by a number of friends in Weymouth, she having visited here some years ago in company with her husband, who was a former Weymouth boy. Mrs. Journey tells us that they enjoy reading the Courier and hearing through it of their former friends. She states that they found the anniversary number especially interesting. Someone (we think it was M. G. T.), was enquiring after Mr. Journey in the anniversary number, and for their information, we are going to take the risk of incurring his displeasure (as we understand he dislikes publicity), to state that Mr. Journey is a station agent for the Pennsylvania Railroad, and has resided in East Moriches, Long Island, for thirty-three years.

NOVA SCOTIA HEADS GRASSHOPPER CONTROL CLUB

At a meeting recently held in Denver, Colorado, the grasshopper control leaders of eighteen states, banded themselves into a permanent organization, naming as their chairman, Professor Arthur G. Ruggles, Minnesota State Entomologist and Professor of Entomology at University Farm.

In 1932 Mr. Ruggles organized and conducted the grasshopper war in Minnesota "in the face of much skepticism", even among entomologists.

Professor Ruggles, a native of Nova Scotia, was graduated from Cornell University, New York, in 1901, receiving a Masters Degree from Cornell in 1904.

Blanchard read a report that had been prepared by the president, and the secretary presented reports on the Exhibition, held in September last, also on the new Stock Pavilion and the Society's affairs in general.

These reports showed the financial position to be sound. The following were elected to office for the coming year:

President—Bernard Alcorn.

Vice-President—Roy Snell.

Secretary—Treasurer—F. H. Hatheway.

An appreciative audience of over 200 saw the farce comedy "Corney Turns the Trick", held in the new Oakdene auditorium, on Thursday evening, Nov. 29, under the auspices of the Philathea Class of the United Baptist Church.

The scene was laid in the living room of the private boarding house for students at "The Burklely Mansion School", and the various parts well taken by the members of the cast as follows:

Madge Allenton, from New York—Louise Harris.

Dora "Cupid" Hammond, very romantic—Anna Clarke.

Mrs. Truesdale, boarding house proprietress—Lillian Harris.

Abella Brown, from Maine—Vera Rice.

Beth Kerison, from the West—Bertha Dukeshire.

Dulcie Leyland, from Virginia—Vera Chute.

Miss Omega Tooms, a little off on Abyssinia—Vera McCormick.

Corney Parrell, a product of the newly-rich—Nancy MacIntyre.

Hannah Marsh, Lord of M'arcy, a puzzle—Mary Oickle.

Andrew, the Cat.

Stage Manager—J. C. MacIntyre.

An amusing comic skit with many local hits was put on between acts by Mrs. Hardy Benson and Mrs. Walter Brown. Homemade candy was also sold, and the proceeds from the evening amounted to over $60 to be used for church purposes.

Mrs. Roy Snell, president of the class, in a few well chosen words, thanked the audience for their presence. The stage looked very attractive and homelike—due to the untiring efforts of the class, since there is at present no stage scenery belonging to the school.

The Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir—In view of the recent legislation by the Dominion Parliament in respect to farmers and their creditors and because it may not be generally understood by those whom it affects, I am writing to publish the following remarks in the hope that they may be of some use to those who may wish some information on the matter:

Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act

"Whereas in view of the depressed state of agriculture the present indebtedness of many farmers is beyond their capacity to pay; and whereas it is essential in the interest of the Dominion to retain the farmers on the land AS EFFICIENT PRODUCERS and for such purpose it is necessary to provide means whereby compromises or arrangements may be effected of debts of farmers WHO ARE UNABLE TO PAY."

The above is the preamble of the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act and clearly shows the reason for the Act and also those farmers who are eligible to come within the Act, viz: a farmer who is unable to meet his liabilities as they become due, in words a farmer seeking to come under the Act must be insolvent.

This Act gives insolvent farmers no further privileges or advantages in reference to their creditors than they already had heretofore. It merely simplifies the machinery whereby an insolvent farmer can have the opportunity of conferring with his creditors as a whole and perhaps arriving at a composition or arrangement whereby he may have a fresh start, a start which will mean that while he may still have obligations those obligations will be so arranged that he can face the future with confidence and be no longer in default.

Heretofore an insolvent farmer's recourse was to make an assignment under the Bankruptcy Act. A proceeding which was both lengthy and costly. In most cases they stopped short of taking this relief because of those and other reasons and consequently there are many farmers to day who because of their liabilities are far beyond their realisable assets are not efficient producers. The Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act therefore merely provides a simplified method for the relief which was already available under the Bankruptcy Act.

The procedure to be followed by a farmer seeking relief is simple. He goes to the Official Receiver appointed under the Act. The Official Receiver will assist him in preparing a statement of affairs and in making a proposal for submission to his creditors. This proposal and a statement of his affairs will go to each creditor with notice of date and place of meeting. At this meeting the farmer's affairs and the proposals will be frankly and informally discussed and voted upon. If a proposal is accepted by the creditors and the farmer the Official Receiver will apply to the court for an order approving the proposal and such proposal shall then become binding on both parties.

If no arrangement can be agreed upon at this meeting the proceedings may be sent to a Board of Review. This Board may recommend the proposal amend it or formulate a new one. In any case after being confirmed by the Board and after being filed in the court it becomes binding.

When a farmer files a proposal with the Official Receiver all proceedings against that farmer are stayed for a period of sixty days from the date of such filing and the property of the farmer shall be under the authority of the court pending the final disposition of the proceedings.

It is well to point out here that should a farmer be guilty of wilfully suppressing the existence of any assets he becomes liable to the penalties for non-disclosure of assets under the Bankruptcy Act. Also after a proposal has been approved by the court if the farmer should fail to carry out any of the terms of the proposal and such failure is, in the opinion of the court, due to causes not beyond the control of the farmer, then that farmer may be petitioned against in Bankruptcy notwithstanding section No. 7 of the Bankruptcy Act.

It may be feared by large creditors of insolvent farmers that simplifying the machinery for relief will result in farmers taking advantage of it and perhaps finally resulting in the creditor having to write off a percentage of what he hitherto carried as an account receivable, but which in fact was uncollectable as a whole.

It is submitted that it is a poor argument to maintain that because the creditor does not choose to revise his book debts a farmer must be blanketed against a simplified machinery for relief, and remain indefinitely over-encumbered or subject himself and his creditors to the costly procedure under the Bankruptcy Act.

In respect of arrangements in relation to a debt owing to a secured creditor or in relation to a debt owing to a person who has acquired movable or immovable property subject to a right of redemption, the concurrence of such creditor must be obtained irrespective of the vote of the creditors as a whole. Providing, however, that in the event of such creditor, as aforesaid, refusing his concurrence then on application by the farmer or any creditor the arrangement may go before a Board of Review, composed of a Judge, with jurisdiction in Bankruptcy and two other commissioners. This Board may approve or amend such arrangement in which case it is filed in the court and becomes binding on the debtor and all his creditors. The Board may also decline to approve, amend or formulate a proposal in which case the farmer and creditors revert back to the original standing and all the proceedings under the act are wiped out.

This recent legislation makes available to both sides the opportunity that there may be fair liquidation of the true situation, as between a farmer debtor and his creditors. Each party must be prepared to deal reasonably with each other. A settlement is needed between debtor and creditor and it must be made without destroying confidence, and as well without undermining the basis of co-operation.

Another Letter From the Coast

Alright, boys and girls, the last time I wrote you if memory serves me right, I was going to invent something to put hens to sleep. Well, of course you know that would be a long job and just about as tough as having a dentist supply them with false teeth. Therefore I give it up, and just as long as they lay nice fresh eggs with the shell-on, and mother doesn't kick, I am not going to worry, for new inventions reduce labor, and, too, what would we do if the hens should discover something and go on strike. Oh, boy, wouldn't they cackle. And what would mother do if there were no fresh eggs?

But, just supposin' the hens did form a union and strike for higher pay; that is, better feed for less production; for more comfortable quarters; bath and toilet; hot and cold water in the winter time; manicured feet; roughed bills filed; combs curled; backlocks done upon curl papers. And just supposin' the rooster would want his tail feathers just as if he had stepped out of a beauty parlor. He'd step out in the morning and greet us with his how-de-do you! My flock is in order, I'm ready for you; 'tis four in the morning; we are up for the day; my flock will get busy—and how they will lay!

So, on go the birds to endless toil, seeking the worms, the gravel, the grass and the bugs from the soil. The roosters do crows, the hens cackle and the nests are filled with producers—we know. For at night time, when gathering the eggs, we find a full plenty, in each cozy nest; and just before sundown king rooster doth strut, as master of all; he declares to all folks that eggs there are plenty—sufficient for all.

All right, boys, enough of this; for there is plenty more to do with the barnyard work to be done. 'Tis springtime of course; the plowing in order; manure to be spread and cattle to pasture; the fence is all down from winter's heavy snows and must be re-staked and panelled ere the vegetables suffer for want of protection from the wandering straying—homeless and forlorn.

We go to the woods; we cut out the saplings and trim off the brush for a bonfire, thinking of the fall time when such a bonfire is sweetest and best; for the glow of the fall when the leaves have all turned color, most brilliant; with frost in the air; grasses all parched and the earth barely frozen; and we think of the harvest from the yoke and the snare.

Now we build our brush teepee, 'ar back in the groves; and weave them full tight with the bushes' spruce boughs; we gather the willows and the pussy cat tails; and the ferns from the meadows. To make all snug and tight to keep out the frost and the snow; and we've weathered our roof lines as in single lap true; like the nipa and palm, as Orientals do.

And now, what do you think; shall we make a week's trip? go up to the lakes? get our birch bargin' ship? strike for the channel where

Just Rambling Along

Hello Everybody!—This is Thanks-giving Day in America, Nov. 29th, and warm as a summer day, with rain and fog. I have eaten too much dinner, and listened to the radio until I feel almost stupid. The air is full of programmes, beginning with a British broadcast describing the marriage of Princess Mariana and Prince George at 5.45 this morning. Was I up to listen? No ma'am. Even princes and princesses, and I like to snooze in the morning. I don't suppose Thanksgiving Day means a thing to the folks at home now, being all over and forgotten there until another year, but it means a lot to people here and many of them have much to be thankful for that they didn't have one year ago. It really seems as if business were better; more people at work, and a more cheerful outlook all around. Let us hope so.

I haven't written for a long time but I am watching with interest the letters that are coming in occasionally as a result of the Old Home Week. I find it disappointing that more of the boys and girls of Weymouth have not been heard from. There are numbers of them scattered around through Western Canada, and the States that could make their whereabouts known. You don't have to be an expert to put your little thoughts on paper. We would love to hear from you, and I know that the Courier must reach many of you that would like to scribble a little note. Come on! you fellows and gals, old buddies and pals, just show the waters slowly flow and depth is the greatest—with fishes below? Where the fish do submerge, and thank not of toll; but alert for the grasshopper when we cast—hooked for the spool. Quite foxy, those fishes, so game and so sporty; they will take a chance when sweetness of bait as temptation is advanced in the watery wake.

Well, we're out for the day! there's frost in the air; our birch bark is surdy—so what do we care! Just so we get home in time for the chores, with fish in a plenty for mother to fry; and the chores we shall do; after gathering the crows and feeding the pigs, and putting those chickens to roost.

What think you, boys, of the good day's spoil; of the fun we've had—sandwiches and fruits, and all that mother prepared for the trip, well planned and so pleasantly ended. And isn't it good, as the sun goes down, and we are all home and the chores all done—and then for a swim in the old mill pond.

So, come Goudy and Duncan; come Harry and Bill; come Eldon and John, and Fulton and Warren—you boys of my friendship in times past and gone. And there's Sam and there's Frank, whose names I recall. You sure will remember—I mean one and all. Just drop us a line and if our story be true, we'll sure gladly write you, in person. That's all! Goodnight!

they sit and laugh at him, while he wears his toe nails, and throat, out at the foot. A nice lady that his missis sent him a rubber doll which was fine while it lasted, and the squeak was good—sounded like a rat. He would shake and shake it, and one day shook it so hard that the head came off; and now the cat plays with that. Oh, yes, we have a new cat. Missis says it's an "Angora"; anyhow, it has a lot of woolly fur, and sings like a spinning wheel all the time. That's why his name is "Spinner". We didn't get a girl cat this time—they have too many notions. The new kitten is so cute; we just hope it stays small, and never does grow up to be a cat.

Do you like to read? If you do, be sure to read "Lamb In His Bosom", by Caroline Miller. It is a first novel, and won the Pulitzer prize for 1934. It is a story of the piney lands of Georgia, when life was in the making, and every day a hardship. Every day was 24 hours long, and every week had 7 days. No one thought of such a thing as a thirty-hour week, and there was plenty of work for every pair of hands to do. They did it cheerfully and willingly. Couldn't exist if they didn't. They lived the simple faith of our fathers, and life was very worth while. I would we had more of that faith today.

It seems early to see signs of Christmas on all sides, but they are around. Stores are trimmed with wreaths, trees and bells; toys and gifts abound. The Salvation Army has its iron kettles on street corners and wistful little faces are pressed against freshly polished window glass. I suppose there are many car loads of spruce trees on their way from Nova Scotia now. I never see a Christmas tree but what I wonder if it might not be from Weymouth. We are not too grown up for one at our house. It's not a big one, ever, but we hate to give up the old custom, and if no one else notices it, the cat will find it lots of fun to climb up and down.

I have added a new pitcher to my collection since I last told you about them. The new one is a fat smiling pig, dressed in a tuxedo, with dress shirt front and green tie. Pretty soon we will have to build a new house for the collection of pitchers.

Good night, all!

OUR MODEL "S" LINOTYPE

Two Pieces of Our Modern Equipment

At the upper left of this advertisement is an illustration of our Model "S" Linotype, a massive piece of machinery which weighs over two tons and contains over 6,000 intricate parts. This machine is said to be the third most complicated machine ever invented by man. This machine sets the type for the reading matter in the Courier each week providing new type for every issue. Type from the last issue is melted down and re-cast for the next. As well as setting type for the Courier this machine also sets the text matter for booklets, pamphlets and other work handled by our plant, such as Town Year Books, Financial Statements, Programmes, Law Cases, etc. The Indian Carnival Booklet and the Bear River Exhibition Prize List were two of the jobs set up on this machine this year.

On the lower right hand corner is an illustration of our Heidelberg Automatic Job Press. This machine is capable of printing 3,600 sheets of paper an hour (1 sheet a second). This is the only job press of its kind to be installed in Western Nova Scotia, and one of the first to be installed by suction to a position where it is seized by "windmill" hands, printed, and then dropped on the "delivery" table. Thus the stock is fed, printed and delivered automatically and when the last sheet is picked up, the press stops itself. We invite the public to visit our shop on First Avenue and see these two up to date machines in operation.

Even Rheumatic Pains Eased Fast Now!

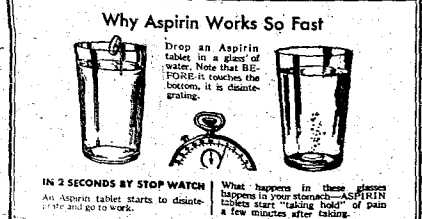

BAD HEADACHES, NEURITIS PAINS OFTEN RELIEVED IN MINUTES THIS WAY

Remember the pictures below when you want fast relief from pain. Demand and get the method doctors prescribe—Aspirin. Millions have found that Aspirin cures even a bad headache, neuritis or rheumatic pain often in a few minutes.

In the stomach as in the glass, Aspirin dissolves, and the instant it touches moisture, it begins "taking hold" of your pain.

practically as soon as you swallow it. Equally important, Aspirin is safe. For scientific tests show this: Aspirin does not harm the heart. Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get the real thing. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. THE CHRISTIAN AS TEACHER

Golden Text:—"Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth."
—II Timothy 2:15.

Lesson Passage:—Matthew 7:24-29; Acts 18:24-28.

Take my intellect, and use
Every power as Thou shalt choose.

The Teacher, Matthew 7:24

Jesus spent much of his time talking. A large part of his ministry consisted of conversations with individuals and casual chats with groups. Very often a contrast is made between talk and action, but the talk of Jesus was in itself an act. It led to thought and to action. He himself attached great importance to his teachings, far more important than some of his followers. Christ said that he came to bear witness to the truth. He had teachings that he felt would transform the history of mankind if only they could be known and lived. Some great teachers have had fifty years in which to formulate their doctrine, but Jesus had at most two or three years in which to give his message to the world. His teachings are not out of date and his methods remain an example to teachers to this day.

Teaching by Parables; 7:25-27

Jesus saw symbols of spiritual truths in material things. Bread, yeast, lamps, flowers, birds, money, each had spiritual significance for him. Frequently he taught by parable using a simple non-religious incident to suggest a profound spiritual principle. This parable of the two houses may have been suggested out of his own experience as a carpenter. He had seen a house built upon the sands that the floods carried away, and he had known a house built upon a rock withstand the storms. He dared to say that anyone who would build a life upon his teachings would find that his truths were an enduring foundation. This was a large claim to make, but his claim has been justified by events. Anyone who will believe about God and man as Christ has taught will have a guide to action and a constant education of conscience. Two college mates may graduate with apparently equal chances in life. The one lives predominantly for self and in twenty-five or thirty years crashes by some apparently unmediated action. The other regards life as a God-given trust and goes on from strength to strength. Successes and failures in life are seldom sudden. They are determined throughout the years by the underlying convictions held in the secret places of the soul.

Teaching from Experience 26, 2

A minister throughout several years bought books and carefully card-indexed them. He boasted that he had an address in a couple of hours on almost any subject he could pre- with the material he had collected, suddenly he discovered that this method was crippling his own creative powers, that he was fast becoming an echo and ceasing to be a voice. It was a great surrender, but he deliberately gave up his garnered facts and began to think for himself and seek the guidance of God's spirit for each address. At once new power came to him. The scribes had been copyists—they did their work faithfully and we owe much to them, but they were not creative thinkers. Jesus taught from his own experience. His parables were true to the experiences of others, and by correspondence to fact other minds could follow him. It is idle for anyone to try to achieve literary immortality by mere quotations. Statements of truth soon get out of date. This is one reason why old truths have to be formulated in fresh words from generation to generation. Jesus knew the writings of the Old Testament, but he drank from a living spring—not from a reservoir. When he spoke, his words carried conviction, because he was not dependent upon precedents and authorities but rather upon the impact of truth on his own soul. His teaching was so different from that to which his hearers were accustomed that they were astonished at his teaching. There was novelty in both content and method.

A CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION

In a year when "practical" presents will hold foremost place in the Christmas buying, it will be worth while thinking of Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe Tea in Christmas-wrapped canisters. Nothing would be more appreciated by the recipient than a quantity of Canada's Tea de Luxe, so the suggestion is a good one to make the coming Christmas a Christmas de Luxe by giving your friends Canada's Tea de Luxe—as Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe is known. At the price of 70 cents a pound it is not really expensive, and its bouquet and winy flavour entitle it to a prominent place on the Christmas shopping list. Anyone who is fond of good tea (and who in the Maritimes is not?) would be delighted to receive some of this delightful tea as a Christmas present.

Teacher Training, Acts 18:24

It is an axiom that only the taught can teach. Now and now governmental departments of education are stressing the importance of thorough training for public and high school teachers. By summer schools and by leadership training classes many credits have been won and certificates granted. A large number of fine text books have been prepared giving information as to what to teach and how to teach it. Much of the teaching ministry of the Christian Church is carried on by non-professional voluntary workers. There is great gain in this because the teachers are able to understand the needs of their associates whom they teach. When Apollos, an eloquent Alexandrian, came to Ephesus he spoke fluently. He may have been trained in a school of rhetoric, but two simple tentmakers, Priscilla and Aquila, who were friends of Paul, were able to tell him much that he did not know.

The Fellowship of Study, 27, 28

The Christian church is a fellowship and one of its chief bonds of fellowship is through study. Theological colleges, teacher training groups, Bible classes and mission study groups develop a fine fellowship in pursuit of truth. The progress of religious work depends very much upon Bible study. A certain amount of critical knowledge is necessary. For instance, the Hebrews thought of the earth as the centre of the universe, whereas we believe that the sun is the centre. A teacher must have a certain amount of scientific knowledge or else the pupils will be taught untruths. Much more important, however, is the devotional study of the Bible, seeking through its pages to feel the spirit of God revealing truth and making the Bible book of life. Much good work in religious education is accomplished by memory work. Boys and girls who learn several Psalms, the Lord's Prayer, the Beatitudes and the Parables and certain great selected verses have a basis of religious knowledge that can be worked out in personal experience. More and more it is realized that the future of a nation is dependent on religious faith. "Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth."

Questions for Discussion

- 1.—Why is Jesus known as the Great Teacher?
- 2.—Should the Sunday School teachers be as highly trained as day school teachers?
- 3.—Why is teaching the most satisfying mental process?
- 4.—Which do more, professional or voluntary teachers?
- 5.—How may Christ's teaching be used as a foundation for character?

"...So that Our Visitors will be Sorry to Leave"

"If we are going to invite people to this country, we must be honest with them. . . . Courtesy costs nothing and is one of our greatest tourist assets. . . . Let us so treat strangers within our gates that it will be easy for them to come, pleasant for them to stay, and difficult for them to leave."

Rt. Hon. R. B. BENNETT, Prime Minister of Canada, to the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaux, November 6, 1934.

Canada's tourist activities represent more than a great industry from which everybody benefits. They provide an opportunity to create what the Prime Minister has described as "that feeling of neighbourliness" which is such a vital factor in building up cordial relations within the family of nations.

For both these reasons, may I urge upon the people of Canada the importance of showing consideration, courtesy and honesty to guests of our country? Let us all do those little acts of kindness which count for so much when one travels in a strange land.

We have a beautiful country. We must keep it so. We want our visitors to travel highways free from disfigurement, walk the streets of cities that are orderly and clean, and find at the end of every day's travel an inviting spot to rest. Canadians should turn their attention now to the important work of preparing for next year's tourist season.

As a nation, we are advertising abroad the attractions of Canada as a holiday land. We must see to it that our guests return home with only the happiest recollections—and the determination to come back again and again.

Nor should we forget, in planning our own vacations, that there are beauties to discover and friendships to be made in our neighbouring provinces. We live in one of the world's most glorious playgrounds—let us learn to know better the rich variety of its travel attractions.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

CHILBLAINS

When winter comes chilblains begin to afflict those who are not in good health. . . . whose circulation is poor and whose clothing is possibly insufficient. By far the most common locations for chilblains is the feet, but neither the hands nor the ears escape.

At the points where the chilblain develops, there is, first of all, a tingling sensation, then itching. A blister, which has a purplish tinge, forms over the area. The blister is painful and when it breaks, an open sore is left which is slow to heal.

To avoid chilblains, the feet must be protected and kept warm by shoes and stockings which are neither so tight as to interfere with circulation, nor so thin as to allow for chilling of the feet. . . . Tight-fitting shoes, with thin soles, over thin stockings, invite trouble, as do stockings which are so heavy as to cause the feet to perspire.

When the hands and feet are chil-ed, they should be kept away from open fireplace, stove or radiator. A sudden change from cold to excessive warmth causes a rush of blood to the parts which have been chilled, and this leads to irritation, followed by chilblains.

Under such circumstances, supposing it is the feet which are cold, the proper procedure is to remove shoes and stockings. First of all, the feet should be placed in cold water and then given a brisk rub with a rough towel. This treatment restores circulation gradually and averts trouble.

A poor state of health may be the underlying cause of chilblains, and so it follows that, as a practical measure of prevention, the general health should receive attention, through proper diet and such hygienic essentials as fresh air, rest, exercise, cleanliness and elimination.

In many homes, the floors are cold, and in such homes, the mother who stands for so many hours, doing her housework, develops chilblains on her heels and the sides of her feet. To some extent, this may be overcome by wearing heavier shoes and warmer stockings, but more attention should be given to warming the floors.

Painting the parts with tincture of iodine will stop the itching at the onset. If an open sore develops, it is well to remember the danger of infection that attends all open sores and secure skilled treatment.

Chilblains are not dangerous to life, but they may take a great deal of the joy out of life.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

WOODEN OVERCOATS TO REPLACE WOOL AND COTTON PRODUCTS

Science has made many changes in the world, and goods which once were staple are replaced by synthetic processes. The product of the silk worm is vastly exceeded by the manufacture of artificial silk from wood fibre. Now the manufacture of wooden overcoats is becoming popular to replace the use of cotton and wool. In Italy for example, a process has been evolved for making a heavy cloth material from wood fibre and it is claimed that, as a result, the import of cotton from the United States and elsewhere will be reduced by fifty per cent. In Germany the new material is becoming popular. It would seem that the next step is up to the cotton industry to meet the new demand. In Canada, for example, continual research is going on to find new uses for nickel and is expanding the use of that new metal. Will the time come in Canada when we will wear overcoats and suits made from British Columbia spruce instead of from sheep's wool? It is a changing world.

GRUMBLERS

Caesar divided Gaul into three parts. Society has divided grumblers into two classes—occasional and habitual. The occasional grumbler, if he grumbles often enough, gets to be a habitual grumbler.

Just why occasional grumblers should become habitual grumblers when they have gotten nowhere by grumbling is difficult to explain. No one ever got anywhere by grumbling and never will.

But when one becomes a habitual grumbler, his fate is sealed. For society labels him, puts him on the shelf, and lets him remain there.

Society has no use for grumblers. Instead it wants thinkers and planners. It has no use for grumblers. It wants action, even if there may be a mistake or two.

Thinking, planning, action—these insure progress, and, thank God, the large majority of people do get ahead in this world because they use their time in doing something.

Grumblers become the camp followers of an advancing civilization.

IMAGINATION

Of all the gifts of the gods there is none greater than imagination. Give a child a rag doll and imagination, and you place it among the Olympian deities. Give a man all the riches of the world and take from him his imagination, and you plunge him down into the depths where dead things are.

With the mind we can do but three things. We can think. We can remember. We can imagine. Our memory is a storehouse wherein we have stored the thoughts of the past. In the house of our imagination we combine ideas, composed of past or present thoughts, to form new ideas.

The more one has sensed, the more one has experienced, the more one has thought, the richer is one's mind. The dream of a skyscraper of steel forms only in the mind of the man who has thought thoughts out of which mental skyscrapers may be made.

We all have Aladdin's lamp. Some lamps have greater creative power than others, but all our lamps would develop more power if we but used them more. Queer things about this Aladdin's lamp which we call mind. The more it is used, the more power it possesses.

And that man is rich whose mind is rich.

WRONG STANDARD

A photograph of a mechanical cotton picker was recently published. It was capable of doing the work of one hundred men.

How long can this continue? We add new labor-saving machinery year by year, causing less work for the labourer. At the same time the population increases, adding more labourers who must work to live. How will it end?

Years ago surplus labor would continue westward. That too is ended. We are finding that methods popular at that time will not suffice now.

We must find some way of distributing labor more evenly. This continent produces too much of everything, yet a good percentage of our people have to do without many of the necessities of life.

Gold is one standard of value instead of the food we eat, the clothes we wear and the homes we live in.

THOSE LICENSE FEES

For the past year and more the town has been waging war against outside fish and meat peddlars. We have never taken any part in the discussion but nevertheless we have always felt that the town was in the wrong. We could not see how any town could override the provincial "Town's Incorporation Act," which exempts from license the "products of the farm, forest or sea." Picking up last week's Pictou Advocate, and glancing over its report of the town council proceedings, we find that some of the councillors of that town look at the matter in the same light as we see it. Following is the report as published:

"A letter was read from meat and fish dealers of the town asking that the by-laws be amended to compel peddlars of meat and fish to pay a license fee. Under the present by-laws persons selling products of the farm, the forest and the sea are exempt from license fees. The merchants as taxpayers, claimed they were entitled to protection. They did not object to a man selling products raised by himself but they felt that those who made a business of buying meat and peddling it about the town at certain periods of the year, particularly in the fall when meat was cheap, should be compelled to pay a license fee.

The solicitor stated that the only legislation which could be taken was to ask the provincial legislature to amend the law to permit the collection of a license fee from vendors of the products of the farm, forest and sea. He added that he did not think the town would get very far in this regard as the matter had been before the legislature on numerous occasions in the past and had always been defeated as it had been opposed by the farmers who had considerable strength in the legislature.

Councillor MacLellan thought the price of meat in Pictou was too high anyway.

Councillor Johnston asked if it would not make a difference if the products were bought from several sources and offered for sale. Col. Macdonald replied that this would make no difference as they were still the products of the farm, etc., and with that the matter dropped."

THE KEEPER OF THE BELL
(Bay of Fundy Shore)

All in the mistiness of night,
He climbs the high hill from the shore,
And swings his lantern, red and bright,
Along the path just by the door;

He leaves the water, far below,
And with a steady, thumping sound,
His rubber boots walk soft and slow
Among the grasses on the ground;

His lone coat kicks about his heels,
And glistens wetly in the fog,
While close behind him darkly steals
The keeper's old and faithful dog;

Then down upon the rocky shore,
And seeing deep as in a well,
I hear above the ocean's roar
A ringing—like a church's bell!

The Old Carding Mill

Now, boys and girls, we are getting somewhat out of the valley and much closer to Digby. This time mother isn't home, so there is nothing to report on her account.

Don't you folks remember the old carding mill? With a big over-shot water wheel and long wooden flume leading down from the mill pond? And the fine basin of water just below the dam where we used to play? And tired oxen, after a long haul from Digby, would wade through knee deep and drink to their heart's content—then back to the road?

Yes, some would turn the corners to the right from Aynar's, others to the left, while some would go on past the Parker property—the old colored church, and over the hill and down across the flat where lived the old negro family. To the left and to the right was the Abraham Nichols place—and surely you will remember the old swing in the grove—the picnic grounds. Then, on up the hill you would pass the Pete Butler place on the left, and a little further on was that of Uncle Thomas Hill.

Then another little flat and came the farm of Leslie Craig and then—the corners where the Digby and the Ridge roads met. Here the old ox wagon would turn either to the ridge road or go on down the hill past the Raymond place, and then up the Shelburne road, or they would pass these up and take the Valley road.

I can picture them all—they seem fresh in my memory. And it seems that there were no better times, nothing more durable or picturesque—that would tend to comfort, to friendly ties and the making of neighborhood contacts, than that old mode of transportation, the old ox team and wagon. But, remember, boys and girls, times have changed and we are now in the age of speed—eating, sleeping, travelling and even thinking fast. But let's get back to the old carding mill.

The carding mill was, in our time, owned and operated by Elkannah Trask. The mill itself was old even then, but was workable. During the carding season Mr. Trask would always have it running. The pond was always full of water, being fed from the swamps and meadows beyond the dam, and the little streams were always bright and clear and cool. The banks were lined with ferns and mosses. Meadow grasses and green shrubbery grew in profusion. Tall trees overhung and shaded the pleasant waters. No wonder then that there was good fishing for those who enjoyed small brook trout. And, too, there were plenty of frogs, toads and water snake, whole through he meadows many species of bright colored butterflies were to be found.

I used to enjoy being in the carding mill when Mr. Trask would receive the wool from the farmers. He would run it through the roughing rolls for disintegration, then the washing process, and many angles of cleaning and separation before being ready for the old spinning wheel. It was all a marvel to me. Since those days I have visited carding mills of modern type, or we now term them, scouring plants. The new ones go through virtually the same process only on a more extensive scale, but at that I don't think it any more perfect than the carding mill of which we write. For it seems that none is more perfect, more substantial and thorough in its operation than a mill which handled the wool from the sheep's back and made it ready for the spinning wheel. But, we pause and remember that we are living now in days of speed wherein time, labor-saving devices, shorter hours, profits, wage scales, marketing and many other factors, enter into the process.

The old mill would ramble along without a hitch. The floors would creak, as the machinery hummed, and the water in the wool was strong. The old mill wheel rolled on, giving to the machinery the life and energy to process the material. And, all because the waters from the meadows and the streams filled the pond—the pond filled the flume—the flume fed the wheel—the wheel turned the gears—the gears turned the shafting—the shafting turned the belts—and the belts gave the power that drove the several machines. The waters went over the wheel into the spillway, finding its way to the canyon below, on into the bay, to mingle with the waters of the deep.

From the carding mill there was sent back to the farmer long rolls of wool, which our mothers would spin with the old spinning wheel. This made our homespun for the stockings, wristlets, mittens and underwear, and made other articles of comfort. I would gamble now that many of you good folk are still enjoying many of those comforts thru the long cold winters, no matter from whence come the yarn of today.

You will all doubtless recall Elkannah Trask and his good wife. And his son, Harry, with whom we played. When we visited the pond or the mill, or perhaps the barn, Harry would take us into the house and Mrs. Trask would always have a handout for us, for she loved the boys and was good to us all.

It is a pleasure to recall these old days in the Joggin and surroundings. There it was that we got our first impressions of life—our first instructions for our guidance in the future, and as we mention the old mill we know that we learned many things from our observations, as from the flow of the waters from the brooklets in the meadow—to the filling of the pond—to the flume—and to the wheel, furnishing the power to card the wool which mother spun into homespun comforts. Well, time to go home. Good night, boys.

THE CHRISTMAS DINNER'S FINISHING TOUCH

In every home careful consideration must now be given to that great question of the Christmas dinner. Of all meals of the year it must be a success. At Christmas play and make good cheer, for Christmas comes but once a year, runs the old couplet. So nothing must be allowed to mar its success. The finishing touch is the cup of tea and that means you must have the very finest. In other words, you need Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe Tea, which is Canada's Tea de Luxe—the tea noted for its bouquet and winy flavor. And, in view of its great spreading power, it is not an expensive tea at 70 cents per pound package. Many people who ordinarily buy lower priced teas will be using Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe for Christmas and if they observe carefully how well it lasts they will find that, after all they might just as well be enjoying its superlative quality all the time.

Obituary

Augustus P. Deveau

In the death of Augustus P. Deveau, which took place at his late home, Sunday evening, December 2, Hebron lost one of her most respected citizens, and a man well and favorably known throughout the country. The deceased had been ill for some months and his death was not unexpected. He had reached the advanced age of 81 years, and was born at Meteghan River. He had spent the past fifty years in Hebron where he followed the shoemaking business. He is survived by his widow, who was formerly Miss Mary Bouge, of Church Point, and one son, George J. Deveau, Dayton; also one sister, Mrs. Rose Doucet, Concession, and four brothers, Philip, of Lynn Mass.; Francis and Manda, Meteghan River; and Joseph, of Concession. The funeral was held from Mr. Ambrose church, Yarmouth.

Mrs. Leo d'Entremont
Funeral services for Mrs. Leo d'Entremont, who passed away following a short illness, at Caribou, Maine, took place on Tuesday morning at Stella Marie Church, Meteghan, Rev. F. J. Doucette, of Saulnierville, celebrated solemn high mass of requiem, followed by Rev. Father O'Brien of College St. Anne, and Rev. Father Theriault, of Yarmouth. Deceased was 41 years of age. Surviving, besides her husband, eight-year-old daughter and her father, Edward Doucette; two sisters, Mrs. Emile Bellevue, Meteghan River, and Mrs. Deveau, living in the United States.

Capl. Nelson Thurber
The funeral of the late Nelson Thurber was held from his home at Freeport, on Friday last. The deceased had been in poor health for the past summer, but had been confined to his bed for the past two months. The deceased, during his early life, was captain of many vessels, and passed away at the age of sixty-eight years. The choir sang "Rock of Ages", and a male quartette rendered "We'll Never Say Good-bye in Heaven". Left to survive him is his widow, one son Blanchard, at home; two daughters, at home, Mrs. Charles Young and Miss Grace Thurber; one son Lindsay, Inspector of Schools at Alberta; two daughters, Ruth and Hilda, of Boston, Mass.; and two sisters, Mrs. Martha Blackford, Tiverton; and Mrs. Stewart Raymond, of Digby. Great sympathy is extended the bereaved ones in their time of deep sorrow.

The 5-5-3 ratio is a shame to the naval prestige of Japan, says General Araki, unimpaired that it would be a greater shame if somebody had to build a bigger ship than Japan's and blow it to smithereens.

On Thursday morning of last week we had a telephone call from a prominent business man of this town asking us to give him a quotation on letter heads and envelopes. We gave our price in single thousand lots.

"Why," he exclaimed; "there is a traveller here who can give me a much better price than that—and for real good paper, too!"

"How many thousand do you have to order to get that price?" we asked. "Five thousand," was the reply.

We then gave our price on 5,000 without trimming the figure down one cent—and got the order. It later developed that the paper we offered at that price, was exactly the same weight and water mark—as that offered by the Ontario traveller.

The customer also told us that our price on the 5,000 lot was "just a few cents per thousand" lower. Therefore, through ordering from the local printer, one business man saved money on the price of the goods, and will not have to pay carrying charges or sales tax.

The trouble is that most business houses in town think in terms of 500 or 1,000 when asking the local printer for quotations. The Ontario printing traveller talks in terms of 5,000 and 10,000, and therefore his prices appear on the surface much lower than those obtained locally on smaller quantities. We are not price cutters, nor do we claim to charge "the lowest price in Canada" for our printing; neither do we "shave prices" to suit any customer, but we do believe that we can meet any reasonable competition in all quantities.

The motor vessel Tagati, Capt. Horace Thurber, of Freeport, was in port on Saturday, and towed the tern schooner Mary B. Brooks, Capt. G. W. Brooks, from Weymouth North to Weymouth, where she will tie up at G. O. Hankinson's wharf for her winter.

THE CHRISTIAN AND THE LORD'S SUPPER

Golden Text:—"For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death till He come." 1 Corin. 11:26.

Lesson Passage:—1 Corin. 11: 23-34.

Bread of the world, in mercy broken.
Wine of the soul, in mercy shed.
By whom the words of life were spoken,
And in whose death our sins are fed.

Look on the heart by sorrow broken.
Look on the tears by sinners shed.
And be Thy feast to us the token
That, by Thy grace our souls are fed.

An Aid to Remembrance, 23, 24

Paul's account of the institution of the Lord's Supper was written to the Corinthians about 55 A. D., over twenty years after the event. Paul was not an eye-witness of the Last Supper, but he has given us an account that sets forth its essential meanings. There has been much theological controversy regarding this sacrament, but perhaps the most helpful approach is to ask what Jesus intended it to be. He knew how easy it is to forget even important things and deep experiences. He also knew what an aid a visible sign could be to recall an historic fact. He used a very simple object—that of broken bread—to commemorate His crucifixion. He had previously described Himself to His followers as the Bread of Life. At the Last Supper He took the bread and broke it as a witness to the fact that His body would be broken for others. The purpose of Jesus in instituting the Sacrament has been abundantly fulfilled, as Christians around the world obey this dying request and break the bread and eat it in remembrance of Him.

A Memorial of Sacrifice, 25, 26

To the Hebrews the blood symbolized the life. Jesus used the sacramental wine as a symbol of His outpoured blood and sacrificial death. In military memorial services reference is often made to fallen soldiers who have paid the supreme sacrifice, but a Canadian officer of high rank has said that this phrase should be reserved for the sacrifice of Christ alone. Several factors make the death of Christ unique. He gave up life just when it was most full of promise. He died as a criminal though He was innocent. He was put to death by the religious leaders of His nation from whom He might rightfully have expected protection. The sacrament is to commemorate His death, and increasing numbers do recall His sacrifice as they partake of this sacramental feast.

Self-Examination, 27-29

In any congregation, large or small, the motives and moods of those partaking the sacrament may be far different. To one it is a high and holy hour, and to another it may be only routine ritual. Paul had difficulty in explaining the meaning of the sacrament to the Corinthians who had been influenced by the feasts of the mystery religions. Very often these were riotous banquets and some of the Christians looked upon the memorial meal as something similar. Paul had to show them that this was a sacred memorial, recalling the sacrificial death of Christ. Many ministers hold a communicants' class annually in order that those becoming members of the church may have an adequate understanding of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Much of the helpfulness of the sacrament depends upon our thinking while partaking of it. If we try to lift our hearts and minds up to the level of Christ's love and truth, we shall find grace coming from Him to us. It is not necessary to be perfect in order to partake of the sacrament—the first disciples were themselves faulty men. But if we desire to honor Christ and to receive power from Him to live in His Spirit, we are welcome at His table.

Spiritual Help, 30-32

The sacrament may be a means of attaining spiritual help. Great moral and spiritual forces are released by intelligent observance of it. Self-examination helps us to purge evil from our lives, and the visible sign and symbols make Christ's presence very real to us. Christians are intended to grow progressively, and the sacrament is one way of furthering Christian growth. There are some people so slack about religious observances that they do not make progress, but earnest people who try to see the inner meanings of this sacrament do find it a help in cultivating moral character and spiritual insights. If we allow Christ's standards to become authoritative for us, we are much less likely to be judged adversely because character develops citizenship. Each time we observe the Lord's Supper we should set a higher standard of discipline for ourselves and go forth to put this rule into practice.

A Sacrament, 33, 34

Some of the Corinthians reduced the sacrament to the level of a meal.

Please Take Notice

There is a charge of ten cents per line for reading notices, in advance of any entertainment, social, tea or sale, which has for its object the raising of money for any purpose. Publicity is essential to these enterprises and the newspaper is entitled to payment for this publicity. This applies to communities, lodges, churches, musical organizations, in fact every institution which may be endeavoring to raise money. Many of our correspondents and contributors try to "sneak" in these notices quite often, and sometimes we have let them slip by, but in the future we intend to keep closer watch, and if the institution concerned denies responsibility, the correspondent or contributor will be billed. Do not forget that a notice BEFORE the event is advertising; AFTER the event it's news.

The annual chicken supper and Christmas sale was held in the basement of the United Church, on Wednesday.

Paul sought to show them that it was a sacred hour of reconciliation to Christ. The sacrament should be observed not as a duty or merely as a rite, but as an opportunity of spiritual fellowship with Christ. It also affords us an experience of fellowship with other Christians. We do not have to live the Christian life alone—others are making the same pilgrimage. The church is the body of Christ and in the sacrament visibility is given to the fellowship. It is an occasion of renewing our vows, confessing our failures, and in humble trust going forward in the confidence that Christ's grace is sufficient for us. Reverence lies not in the sacrament itself, but in the worshiper. Great souls see in the sacrament of the Lord's Supper the sacrificial love of the crucified Christ.

- Questions for Discussion
1. What do bread and wine symbolize to Christians?
 2. Which should receive greater prominence in church architecture, the organ pipes or the altar?
 3. How frequently should the Lord's Supper be observed?
 4. How does the sacrament soften class distinctions?
 5. What is the truth in the doctrine of the real presence?

BILLIUNESS

Billiuness is a word which holds its place in everyday language to describe a state of mental depression and physical discomfort, which is marked by headache, dizziness, a mouth which tastes badly, a feeling of nausea, weakness and depression, together with constipation.

The popular idea is that this unhappy state is due to what is called a "sluggish liver". This idea apparently comes from the fact that when the so-called bilious person vomits, and he generally does—the contracting walls of the stomach draw up a small amount of bile. This small amount of bile is sufficient by its yellow colour and bitter taste to convince the patient that all his troubles arose from his liver which produces the bile.

The liver is a very reliable organ and it does its best, but sometimes the excess of food and drink, or failure to eliminate wastes from the body, may give rise to a condition with which the liver cannot cope and so it rebels. It is not the liver alone which protests, but other parts of the digestive tract will join with it, producing that form of disorder which the public, if not the doctors, know as "billiuness".

The relationship of mental efficiency to bodily health is seen in the sad look and gloomy spirits of the victims of digestive upsets. The way to a man's heart may be through his stomach; certainly, the way to his good or ill humor is by way of his digestive tract.

The treatment is, not by "liver pills" or purgatives, but through the correction of faulty habits; this means simple food, outdoor exercise, plenty of sleep, and a free use of water between meals. Regular elimination can be secured by habit, diet and exercise.

Billiuness does not trouble those who lead a fairly simple life, who avoid excesses of the kind and another, who pay reasonable attention to the requirements of their bodies, and who pay attention to their food and their elimination instead of taking medicines.

Some people think that they are born bilious and in doing so they are only blaming their ancestors, for what is really their own carelessness with regard to their eating and other habits.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 124 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Here's Way Science Now Relieves Pain in Minutes

BAD HEADACHES, NEURITIS and RHEUMATIC PAINS EASED ALMOST AT ONCE

Remember the pictures below when you want fast relief from pain. Aspirin cases even a bad headache or neuralgia often in a few minutes. An Aspirin tablet begins "taking hold" of your pain practically as soon as you swallow it. And Aspirin is safe. For Aspirin does not harm the heart.

Why Aspirin Works So Fast

Drop an Aspirin tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches the bottom, it is dissolving.

IN 2 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH An Aspirin tablet starts to disintegrate and go to work.

OUR MODEL "S" LINOTYPE

installed in the Maritime Provinces. The stock to be printed is placed on the "feeding" table, lifted by suction to a position where it is seized by "windmill" hands, printed, and then dropped on the "delivery" table. Thus the stock is fed, printed and delivered automatically and when the last sheet is picked up, the press stops itself. We invite the public to visit our shop on First Avenue and see these two up to date machines in operation.

Two Pieces of Our Modern Equipment

At the upper left of this advertisement is an illustration of our Model "S" Linotype, a massive piece of machinery which weighs over two tons and contains over 6,000 intricate parts. This machine is said to be the third most complicated machine ever invented by man. This machine sets the type for the reading matter in the Courier each week providing new type for every issue. Type from the last issue is melted down and re-cast for the next. As well as setting type, for the Courier this machine also sets the text matter, for booklets, pamphlets and other work handled by our plant, such as Town Year Books, Financial Statements, Programmes, Law Cases, etc. The Indian Carnival Booklet and the Bear River Exhibition Prize List were two of the jobs set up on this machine this year.

On the lower right hand corner is an illustration of our Heidelberg Automatic Job Press. This machine is capable of printing 3,600 sheets of paper an hour (1 sheet a second). This is the only job press of its kind to be installed in Western Nova Scotia, and one of the first to be installed by suction to a position where it is seized by "windmill" hands, printed, and then dropped on the "delivery" table. Thus the stock is fed, printed and delivered automatically and when the last sheet is picked up, the press stops itself. We invite the public to visit our shop on First Avenue and see these two up to date machines in operation.

CHRISTMAS MAIL to be DELIVERED

by F. H. SWEET

Well, you can't go no further," old Farmer Benson yelled, curving his antennae hands to his mouth so the words would reach the mail carrier, five or six feet on the other side of the fence. At the same time, he nodded significantly toward the road farther on, where the snow had drifted entirely across, covering the fence on either side. "You foot deep 'n' still driftin', an' plenty more places on ahead just like it. Don't see how you got this far. Well, we'll shovel out the gate, an' then you can drive in under my shed. It's three miles back to town, an' you can't return any more than you can go ahead. I never see snow fly so fast. Mebbe it'll ease up by tomorrow so we can start to plow the roads out, but 't ain't likely you'll get the mail round under two or three days, or perhaps a week. You'll drive right in."

It was trying, for this was the last day of rural free delivery No. 3. The route had been started as an experiment, but now was thought to hardly be worth while, and was to be dropped. John Holden had been one of the strongest advocates for it, and had obtained the route, leaving his oldest boy to look after the farm. The salary was not large, but in a year or so would enable him to stock the farm as he had wanted to stock it all his life.

At length the snow was cleared from sufficient space for the gate to be opened and swung back. Holden led his horse through the shed, then unharnessed and took him to the stable, where he fed him generously with the hay which Benson threw down from the mow. Then the two men returned to the wagon, and Holden quickly arranged his mail into a compact package.

"We'll take it right into the house," said Benson. "It'll be safe there till you're able to go on."

Holden smiled and shook his head. "I shall go right on now," he said. "Mail mustn't be delayed, you know. Besides, a lot of this is Christmas mail."

"But, man alive, you can't do it!" expostulated Benson, incredulously. "It's half a mile to the next house, and that drift right ahead is up to your armpits, an' too soft to stand on an' too deep to push through. You're crazy!"

"Mebbe," laconically, "but it's got to be done."

All this time he had been fastening the package securely upon his shoulder.

"If it's the right one," he whispered presently. "I'll make it down to the store an' get your supplies in a few minutes, soon as I'm rested. It's only a few rods. An'—I hope you'll have a Merry Christmas."

"You'll stay all night, of course," she said, anxiously. "You're completely used up. It won't be safe to attempt going any farther."

"Only to Johnson's an' Rose's an' one or two more, just beyond the store," he answered. "I have letters for them which I want to deliver to-night."

The next day it was still snowing, and the drifts much deeper. Although he started early and struggled through the snow until after dark, he made little more than a mile. It was Christmas day, when mail was not supposed to be delivered, but Holden did not even think of that. He had letters to leave, and anxious people were waiting for them. So Christmas went by.

The third day the weather turned colder and the moist snow crustified enough to bear one's weight. The snow changed to a bitter, driving sleet.

It was much harder traveling, but the crust enabled one to go more swiftly. This day Holden completed his delivery, and returned to the post office with the mail he had collected on the way.

Three days later the roads were open so he could go for his wagon. In the afternoon he went back to his farm.

Rural free delivery No. 3, however, was discontinued only a month. Then a letter came to the post office and was sent out to John Holden. It read:

"Owing to more definite information in regard to route No. 3 and to the prospect of its betterment, and more especially to the manner of the last day's delivery, the department has recommended the matter. The route will be continued for one year, with the probability of being made permanent. John Holden is appointed carrier."

her 'this mornin'. Mebbe 't ain't the one, but I wouldn't be surprised if she was without wood or coal to keep her warm an' a scrap to eat, an' that this letter will fix her up all right. Then there's Johnson an' his wife, who have a sick son off in China. They're out to the box every mornin' waitin' for me. I've got a letter for them, an' it's from China. An' there's Almy Rose, whose husband is off to sea, an' little Nina Clark, whose fellow is up to the mines waitin' hard to earn enough to start housekeepin'. I've got letters for both of them. An' 't ain't all the mail, either. I do errands for a good many. You know the Watts'. They ain't nobody to send for a doctor. What mightn't it mean if I didn't go there in two or three days? No, no, Benson. I wouldn't dare to stay if I wanted to. I'm only me, an' they're a good many. Good-by."

Usually it required less than five minutes to drive between the houses, but it was two hours later when Holden struggled up on the piazza and knocked on the door, looking more like a crudely made snowman than anything human.

"For the land sake!" cried the woman who opened the door. "If it isn't Mr. Holden, I'd say you'd ever manage to get through! But come right in. You can't go on any more today. My folks are almost scared to go to the barn."

It Was Still Snowing and the Drifts Much Deeper.

Come," throwing wide the door, "don't stand there in the cold. Take your wraps right off and set right up to the fire and warm."

"I haven't time now, thank you," Holden replied, as soon as he could interpose a word. "I must get on to Watts'. I have some medicine for the sick boy, an' we need it. Here's your mail. Merry Christmas, speaking ahead." And once more he went out into the storm, disappearing in its blinding whirling almost instantly.

It was scarcely half a mile to Watts', but it took him twice the time to reach it. And when finally he stumbled up the steps, he had to pause to catch his breath before he could summon strength to knock.

"Merry Christmas, an' here's your mail, an' medicine," he gasped, as the door was opened. "No, I can't stop. I'm a good deal behind time, an' must reach the widow's tonight, an' Johnson's, an' Rose's an' others. They ain't much over a quarter of a mile. The storm's something terrible. Good-by."

When he reached the Widow Cross' it was she who heard him fumbling about the door and opened it, thinking it was a cat or dog wanting shelter.

At first he could not speak, but held out her letter.

"If it's the right one," he whispered presently. "I'll make it down to the store an' get your supplies in a few minutes, soon as I'm rested. It's only a few rods. An'—I hope you'll have a Merry Christmas."

"You'll stay all night, of course," she said, anxiously. "You're completely used up. It won't be safe to attempt going any farther."

That Gobbler for Christmas

By CLARA DELAFIELD

They Just Could Not Kill the Bird They Had Watched Grow Up From Babyhood

My dear, I might let you have the gobbler for Christmas," said Silas Hicks. "He'll be a fine bird by then. But I dunno. He's the only one I've reared out of that brood, and I'm kinder attached to him."

However, he promised Mrs. James finally to let her have the gobbler.

Silas Hicks was not a sentimental man. He was a farmer, and in business for the money it brought him. He had a brother John, who had gone to the city and made money hand over fist. John was a crusty old bachelor and largely devoid of the sense of family obligations.

There had been a time, five years before, when things went badly with Silas. There was a heavy mortgage to meet, the crops had been a failure, and he had been in danger of dispossession. Besides, his wife was on her sickbed, from which she was never to arise.

Silas had gone in his despair to the brother who he had not seen for years. John had turned him down flat.

"You played up to him, and kicked me out into the world," he said. "Now I've nothing left but to leave the nerve to come to me for help. I don't see it, Silas."

"My wife's sick," pleaded Silas, "and you've got more money than you know what to do with. Can't you help me?"

"Oh, I can't and a use for it," John rejoined caustically. "Maybe if you'd shown a little sympathy for me when I was hooding it on the sidewalks I'd have a little more for you, Silas."

Silas went home. Somehow he managed to survive the crisis. But his wife died, and he grew lonelier and lonelier. If he had had a few thousand dollars he would have sold out and gone south to live, somewhere away from this bleak New England coast. But he could just manage to make both ends meet. Daily he cursed his brother in his heart.

He started raising turkeys, and that was a failure. Only the gobbler lived. He used to watch the bird with interest, the gobbler would come clucking after him for crumbs. And it was odd how it looked like John.

His began to call it John. It had a queer way of putting its head upon its neck, as John did. Gradually, to old Silas' fancy, the gobbler became an effigy of John. He hated it.

He hated it, and he was attached. Too. He made a sort of pet of the gobbler. He wanted it to love him, so far as a turkey gobbler is capable of love. Then, when Christmas came, he was going to cut its throat very slowly, bending its head back to see the terror in its eyes. He would then have his revenge upon his brother.

"Yes, morn, John's thrivin' nicely and puttin' on flesh," he told Mrs. James. "I've been comin' John! John!"

Up came the big gobbler, put its head on one side and surveyed Silas to see if he had any bread crumbs.

"Just be the curtest thing," said Mrs. James. "I don't wonder you can't bear to let me have it, Mr. Hicks."

"Oh, that'll be all right, morn," responded Silas sheepishly.

An elemental hatred for the gobbler had come to fill his heart. Christmas was at hand. He pictured how, on the morrow, he would grab the bird, he would insult it with all the turkey abuse that he had picked up, and then it should die slowly, as he would like John to die.

On Christmas morning he found a letter from an unknown correspondent in the city. Opening it, he read that his brother John was dead.

John had left forty thousand dollars, half of which was to go to Silas, "in memory of our boyhood times together, and in the hope that any ill feeling, if it existed, has long ago been canceled."

Silas stared at the letter. His eyes grew misty. He saw John again as a little boy upon the farm; his heart went out to him across the years.

Gobbler! Gobbler! The big turkey was standing in front of him, its head on one side, one claw raised, begging for crumbs.

"You great big faker, you!" bellowed Silas.

The gobbler, looking a little alarmed, retreated a step or two.

"Oh, Mr. Hicks, I'm willing to pay for that turkey, but somehow I—I feel I can't eat him after seeing him grow up from babyhood."

"Well, Mrs. James, I was kinder feeling that way myself," said Silas Hicks, scratching his head. "You see, I'm settin' and goin' soft, an' I was figurin' on takin' him along and raisin' turkeys."

They said—and oh, the bitter shame was hers, that brovone day—she puts upon her back my dress, each penny of his pay!"

"Twas barefaced spending so they had to think upon her poor face."

AUNT MEHTABLE'S PRESENT

Aunt Mehtable had a powerful and active imagination that often kept her awake. She was ever creating difficulties by imagining them and making things crooked by trying to straighten them out. "Blessed," said she, "I can't think what has got into George. I don't like the way he looked at us this morning."

"I'm afraid he was thinking of some body else," answered her brother.

"George," began his aunt the next day, "what was the matter with you yesterday morning, you looked so queer, a pickles."

"Nothing" was the matter with me," said the boy. "I was puzzlin' over your Christmas present."

"Then he added, "Since you're so mighty unpleased, I guess I'll give it up." But remembering her goodness of heart, George relented, and when the day that shines away all unpleasantness came round, Aunt Mehtable had a new nightcap.

THE HOLIDAY SPIRIT

Christmas spirit necessarily finds many men and women stranded on the shore, off somewhere, far from the general happiness.

Nevertheless, words of Chaucer are vital. "The faculty for happiness is a gift, in any temperament, whose wisdom and whose beauty this world too little recognizes." Chaucer's thought is not easy for a certain type of mortal to cultivate, but the holiday spirit may to an extent help out. Self-recognition was, soundly, urged by Marcus Aurelius many centuries ago, and writings of other sages preach tranquillity and harmony through the philosophy that says, "It may all be for the best."

A shipwrecked sailor, buried on this coast, may get salt and may a gallant barge, where he was lost, work out of the gate.

THE SHOW IS OFF

The "Brushville" Bugle reports: "Mrs. Sarah Allen is seriously sick at her home north of town, and all persons are requested by her sons to stop coming to see the big hag until she improves."

MAYOR OF GARDNER IS NATIVE OF ROSSWAY

James A. Timpany, a native of Rossway, has just been re-elected mayor of the city of Gardner, Massachusetts, with a majority of 424 votes over his opponent, Major W. L. Beaman. Mayor Timpany's total vote was 5105.

Mr. Timpany was born in Rossway 65 years ago. At the age of 19 he went to the United States where, for 28 years, he was employed with S. K. Pierce & Co. at South Gardner, as a millwright. He entered public life in 1921 when he was elected a selectman, serving in that capacity until 1923, when Gardner adopted the city form of government. The then Selectman Timpany ran for Councillor-at-Large, and was elected to the first city council, serving for four years.

In 1928 he ran against former mayor, Albert H. Stone, and was defeated. In 1930 he ran unsuccessfully in a four-cornered contest for mayor. He first won the mayoralty in 1933 when elected to serve the unexpired term of Mayor Sweeney, who resigned to become assistant United States Attorney-General in Washington.

Terrific Wind Cause Damage

The terrific wind storm which swept this section of the province on Wednesday night and Thursday morning caused considerable damage, putting out of commission hydro and telephone lines in various sections of the county.

Reports from Digby Neck say that the lobster fishermen in that section suffered considerably by loss of gear and traps. Telephone service in that section was out of commission until about noon yesterday, electric light service failed during the storm, and the lines serving the villages of Smith's Cove and Accaiville were also broken, leaving these villages without light or power.

In the town several telephone lines were thrown out of commission; the porch and verandah on the residence of Miss Margaret Beaman, Birch St., were blown off; the skylight on Dackin Bros.' hardware store was destroyed and other damage of a minor nature took place in various parts of the town.

The Bay of Fundy steamer Princess Helene did not arrive here from Saint John until 12.30 o'clock, and reported one of the roughest passages in her career. Mate Arthur Sweeney says it was one of the worst he had ever experienced.

Every vestige of winter has disappeared. Heavy rains, driven by a strong southeast wind which shifted to south west, took away the snow which has covered the ground for the past two weeks. Frost coming out of the roads has also made motoring a difficult problem.

K. L. Woodman was a passenger to Halifax on business this week.

KIWANIS

Owing to the resignation of H. J. Campbell, president-elect of the Digby Kiwanis Club, from that office, several changes were made in the slate of officers for next year, at the regular luncheon, on Tuesday. The new officers are:

President—W. A. E. Gabriel, Vice-President—Clifford L. Bowley, Treasurer—W. R. Fillmore.

On Tuesday a strong committee was appointed to look after Christmas dinner, and the necessary money was voted for that purpose. There will be no luncheon next week, and the week following the luncheon will take the form of a New Year's dinner, and will be held on New Year's eve, at the Teacup Inn. It will be ladies' night and the intention is "to see the old year out and the new year in".

CHRISTMAS WISH

Mother took me to Toyland. Everything new and grand. There was a funny old circus clown And dolls with eyes of brown, A tiny set of dishes new All trimmed in gold and blue.

Mother let me stop to look At the pictures in a lovely book. Santa came and I asked to see The things boys get on a tree. On a nice, long track he found A train that went round and round.

Then he spun a big red top I thought it would never stop. He showed me baseballs and a bat, Sleds, skates and a funny old cat. A dancing monkey on a string! And—oh, my—just everything!

Then he asked, "What would you like best?" Just one thing leave out the rest. He said, "We have so much, that's queer."

I said as I smiled at mother, "Please to bring me a baby brother!"

DIGBY COUNTY CAPTAIN RETIRES FROM SEA

Capt. W. A. Morehouse, a native of Sandy Cove, is retiring from active life at sea. This veteran took the Red Star liner Westernland from her berth at Pier 22, Halifax, last week. On her arrival at Antwerp the ship will be disposed of, probably to be scrapped, and Capt. Morehouse will retire from the sea to join his family in Liverpool, England, where he will reside.

It was back in the eighties of the last century that Capt. Morehouse first went to sea. As a native of Sandy Cove it was only natural that his first venture should be on one of the splendid old wooden sailing ships for which the Bay of Fundy has always been famous. He sailed before the mast as a lad of fifteen on the full-rigged ship Kingsport, built at Kingsport, and sailing out of Saint John. On that first voyage he embarked on a long and dangerous voyage to China. He sailed before the mast for four years, but was later made second officer of the ship.

Later he transferred to the full-rigged ship Honolulu, another wooden ship sailing out of Saint John. He sailed in her and other sailing ships until he "went into steam".

The first steamer he joined was the Grace liner Capac, sailing out of New York to Chili and Peru in the days before the construction of the Panama Canal. Later he sailed with the Ward Line.

In 1897 he joined the Red Star Line as junior officer on the City of Berlin. During the Spanish-American war he was on a troop transport running between San Francisco and Manila. Coming east again he became first officer on the Red Star liner Venterland. He was with the White Star Canadian service for some years and after that became master of the Westernland early in the last decade.

Work on the addition to the town hall and fire station is nearing completion. This work had to be done in order to accommodate the new fire truck which arrived about a month ago. The door of the fire station, under the town hall, was too narrow to permit the entrance of the truck, and had to be widened. In addition a piece is being built on the rear of the building. In the meantime the truck is being kept in a local garage.

Hay Shortage; Cattle Cheap

In Digby County this year's crop of heifers and steers—or a large part of it, at least—is being slaughtered for fox meat, good producing cows are being "loaned" to other farmers for their keep. The hay situation, due to the extremely dry summer, is more acute than for many years. There is scarcely a community in the county but what will have to import hay before the winter is over.

It is said that in some sections it is possible to purchase a young heifer for anywhere from $8 to $10. Young cattle, killed and sold for fox meat, only bring in the vicinity of $8, yet the farmer feels it is cheaper for him to dispose of his live stock in this way than to buy hay to feed them at the present prices which will soar even higher before long. The farmers who have loaned their milch cows to those who are better able to keep them during the winter months, feel too, that they are saving money, and will be satisfied with the deal when their cows are returned to them when next year's crop of grass begins to grow.

H. H. Marshall, fisheries supervisor, was a passenger to Halifax on Wednesday en route to Montreal and Toronto. He will spend the Christmas season with his daughters in the latter city.

Today is the shortest day of the year and the first day of winter.

ICE SHORTAGE IN THE COUNTY

The shortage of ice in Digby County is affecting the fresh fishing industry somewhat these days. Ice supplies put in storage last winter have become exhausted, and in some cases, buyers have had to cease their operations for the present. Among the plants closed down for this reason is the branch of the Lunenburg Sea Products at Centreville.

In Digby town the situation is not bad. The Maritime Fish Corporation Ltd., one of the largest exporters of fish in this section of the province, having purchased all the ice in storage at the ice house of William Franklin, Conway.

Ponds in the vicinity are frozen over, and it is hoped that an early ice harvest will be taken this year.

ALL SIGNS POINT TO CHRISTMAS

Digby is getting its full share of the Christmas spirit, these days. The stores are well decorated with holiday trimmings and their wares displayed in an attractive manner. Churches and Sunday schools in the town and county are practicing for their special Christmas music and programmes; everywhere in the county the school children have been preparing for their concerts and in many cases these concerts were held last night.

Advance shipments from Santa Claus are arriving every day if one can judge by the mail sacks going in and out of the local post office. The Digby Neck bus fairly groans with the weight of the mail bags it carries, and Driver City Morehouse is thankful that the weather man is treating him much better than he did last year a this time.

Today is the shortest day of the year and the first day of winter.

CHRISTMAS

Once again the Christmas season, with all its joy and merriment has arrived, and again it is brightening for a time the dark clouds of distrust and envy in many parts of the world. We in Canada—and particularly in Nova Scotia—are fortunately far removed from the actual scenes of trouble, and to us the happy season comes as a fitting climax to a year which has been the best we have had since 1929. We in this county have every occasion to rejoice at this time. Business has been better; there has been more cash in circulation all through the county; there has been little or no privation; and there are very few in receipt of relief who would not have been even in years of prosperity. Consequently we are approaching this Christmas with every feeling of optimism. We believe the worst is behind us and the future depends largely on our own state of mind. Let us carry with us after Christmas the same joyous and happy feeling which we now enjoy and then see what a different world we live in.

May your Christmas be a merry one and filled with all the happiness that can be crowded into it.

TIVERTON

Vesper Quinner is improving after his recent serious illness.

Rev. M. Johnson has closed his special meetings and returned to his home in Saint John. The ordination of baptism was administered Sunday morning, the officiating clergyman being the pastor, Rev. Malcolm Outhouse. Those baptized were the Misses Rosena Elliott, Alberta Outhouse and Stella Sollows, and Ellsworth Outhouse.

Miss Grace Marshall, teacher at Central Grove, was the over-Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Atwood Outhouse.

Miss Mildred Outhouse, R. N., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Roy Small. F. R. Cottrill, R. O. Vincent, Robicheau and Edward Robicheau, of Meteghan, were at the Morehouse Cottage on Monday.

Mr. House, of Yarmouth, is at the Blackford House.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Elliott have returned from a visit to Lynn, Mass.

PLYMPTON

The Women's Institute of Plympton met on Wednesday of last week in their regular monthly session, the president in the chair. After the usual business period, Mrs. Sanford, provincial president of the Institutes, gave an address on "Friendliness."

The librarian and assistant librarian reported the library as being well patronized and hope to be in a position to acknowledge a lot of new books about the first of the year. The Institute will hold its Christmas tree for the school children, on the evening of Dec. 27th. Santa will be present and it is hoped that the children will attend in goodly numbers. No matter what the weather conditions are the affair will take place that night.

While in the village Mrs. Sanford was the guest of Mrs. John K. Smith. Mrs. D. Treffy is improving in health after her recent sickness, but among those still under the weather are William Wagner, Miss Frances Tibbels and W. M. Warner.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

For somehow, not only for Christmas, but all the long year through, The joy that you give to others Is the joy that comes back to you; And the more you spend in blessing The poor and the lonely and sad, The more of your heart's possessing Returned to make you glad.

—Whittier.
—M. FLEASANT

We wish the Courier and all its readers a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Mrs. Gordon VanTassel spent the day in Yarmouth last week.

Doctors Said She Must Reduce

Fat a Danger to Her Heart

Overweight is not merely a matter of appearance—it affects health, too. Excess fat robs the system of energy—the internal organs grow lax and slow down under the burden—and unique strain is put on the heart. Here is an instance. A woman writes:

"I have been treated by specialists, who tried to reduce my weight, as I suffered with heart attacks. But no matter what they gave me, nothing would reduce me. Since taking Kruschen, everyone wherever I go exclaims about how much flesh I have lost. I took it at first for rheumatism, and it has done me a world of good, as well as greatly reducing my weight. Before Christmas I weighed 224 lbs. Now I am considerably less—in fact, a coat I had worn last year I have had to take to be altered before I was able to wear it again. I have not really made any difference with my diet, so there is only one Kruschen to thank."—(Mrs.) M. S.

The six salts in Kruschen assist the internal organs to throw off each day the wastage and poisons that encumber the system. Then, little by little, that ugly fat goes—slowly, yes—but surely.

idea to put it away with other Christmas material for next year. The Helping Teacher wishes all teachers and pupils a Merry Christmas and a Happy Vacation.

SHOWER TENDERED AT CENTREVILLE

One of the most enjoyable functions of the season took place last Friday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orwell Outhouse, the occasion being a miscellaneous shower tendered Mrs. Guy Outhouse (nee Mary Graham) who received a variety of beautiful gifts. About thirty-five relatives and friends were present. A dainty lunch of ice cream and cake was served.

Obituary

The death of Anna, widow of Amos Hamilton, of Five Mile River, removes from that community a woman of rare and gracious strength of character. She would have been 92 years of age, this coming February, and for something over 57 years has resided at Five Mile River. Nine years ago she and Mr. Hamilton celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary, when friends from far and near were present. A few years later Mr. Hamilton died. For years Mrs. Hamilton has been a great sufferer, the past thirteen months being confined to her bed with a broken hip. Of living children she leaves to mourn Leander, of British Columbia; Irvin, of Belmont, Mass.; Harry, at home, and with whom she lived; Mrs. David Whidden, of Matland; Mrs. Leslie Sabean, of Waterford, Digby Co.; Mrs. A. P. Hull, R. N. of Oakland; California; and Mrs. William A. Sullivan, of Digby. The funeral services were conducted on Friday afternoon from the United Church, by her minister, Rev. B. H. Penwarden, assisted by Rev. E. V. Forbes, of Shubenacadie, and Rev. J. K. MacInnis, of Matland.

At the evening service the choir will present a special Christmas cantata, entitled "Tim's Inheritance," by B. E. Slade. This is one of the most beautiful stories we have ever read, and the music by A. E. Shenton makes a fine combination which cannot fail to be instructive and helpful. Everybody come!

The Past Week in Annapolis Royal

Sentence Reduced

The appeal of Eldon Jollimore, of Bridgetown, was heard Tuesday by His Honor Judge Livingstone, at the County Court House, at Annapolis Royal. Some weeks ago Jollimore had been convicted before Judge Livingstone, of Bridgetown, for an offence under Section 168 of the Criminal Code, for obstructing the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in the discharge of their duties. Magistrate Fay sentenced Jollimore to six months in the County Jail. From this conviction an appeal for reconsideration was allowed. The hearing of the appeal occupied most of the day, and nine witnesses in all testified. Judge Livingstone commented unfavorably on one of the proceedings upon the testimony of one witness as regards his veracity. Following the hearing of the appeal the judge reduced the sentence from six months to three months. K. L. Crowell, of Bridgetown, appeared on behalf of the Crown, and the accused was represented by his solicitor, Charles T. LeBrun, of Bridgetown, with whom Kenneth S. Smith, of Annapolis Royal, was acting as counsel.

Two Naturalizations

At the special session of the County Court, held in Annapolis Royal, on Tuesday, two naturalization applications were heard and approved. West John Christensen and Johannes Westlund Rasmussen, of Lawrenceville.

Hurt in Automobile Accident

Wilfred Riley, one of the famous family of hockey players, narrowly escaped a serious accident one evening last week when the car in which he was driving swerved on the icy road and crashed into the bridge at Clements Point. He was bruised about the head and arm, but was thought he had received serious internal injuries, having been struck by the steering wheel, which broke off. He has, however, recovered and is able to be around again.

Shower for Bride-to-be

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harry, of Lequille, was visited on Wednesday evening by about thirty-five of the young people of the vicinity, in honor of the approaching marriage of their daughter, Gwen. The evening was spent in games and dancing, and the bride-to-be was the recipient of many useful and beautiful gifts, which were greatly appreciated.

Bridge Club Entertained

The Ladies' Senior Bridge Club was entertained on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. W. Fickels, and the Juniors by Miss Lillian Johnson.

Entertainment by Girl Guides

An entertainment was put on last Friday evening at St. Luke's Parish House by the Annapolis Royal Company of Girl Guides, under the leadership of Mrs. F. Byng-Hall, captain, and Miss Jessie Cunningham, lieutenant. A demonstration of their year's work showed their proficiency in signalling, knot tying and first aid work. The following badges were announced—Needlewoman, Hortense Gilliat and Marie King; Cooking and Homemakers, Gladys Nicholl and Florence Farnsworth; Bookkeepers, Hortense Gilliat; Swimmers, Kathleen Spurr. A clever sketch was acted by Helen Jefferson, Hortense Gilliat, Gladys Nicholl and Marie King. The "Backwoods" exercises were most amusing, and were followed by group singing around the campfire. Homemade candy was sold and the proceeds were for Christmas boxes for charity.

Golden Text:—"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." Luke 2: 14.

Lesson Passage:—Luke 2: 8-19; Ephesians 6: 1-15.

But with the woes of sin and strife
The world has suffered long;
Beneath the angel strain have rolled
Two thousand years of wrong;
And man, at war with man, hears not

The love song which they bring;
O hush the noise, ye men of strife,
And hear the angels sing.

Workmen, Luke 2: 8

The shepherds keeping watch over their sheep near the village of Bethlehem had a motive for their work. Their real concern was not so much their flocks as their families. They took turns keeping watch on those ancient Judean hills because the lives of their children were dependent upon them. The heroisms of peace may be as great as those of war. There are night workers who year after year toil while others sleep, and sleep while others are enjoying the sunlight. They keep on doing it without murmuring because they are earning the income that keeps a home together. In the days of chivalry a knight would fight bravely for a few moments defending the favor of his lady love. But there are modern knights, too, in shining armor but with lunch pails and grimy faces, who throughout a lifetime are fighting an economic battle for wife and children.

"A Little Baby Thing," 9-12

One matter of great journalistic interest during 1934 has been the story of quinquets kept alive by medical skill and nursing care. Far beyond the boundaries of Canada the story has been told, and an impetus has been given to child welfare and the reduction of infant mortality. Much of the Old Testament comes to mind when we think of a baby, was laid in a basket amid the bulrushes, at the shore of a river. The life of the central figure of the New Testament, Jesus, is devoted to the life of a baby in a stable, whose cradle is traditionally represented as a manger. The hopes and fears of all the years were bound up with the birth of the Babe of Bethlehem. Vainglorious men build palatial hotels and skyscraper offices, but very often God accomplishes His greatest achievements through the birth of a baby. The living God works through lives.

The Promise of Peace, 13, 14

A strange case against war may be established by statistics as to the number of soldiers killed, wounded, missing, and by a financial statement of war debts. It is, however, when we think of the sorrow that enters into homes that the stark ghastliness of it all is most keenly felt. In many a home there are books of photographs giving the story of a life from babyhood to manhood, of swaddling clothes to military uniform, and the last picture of all is a grave marked by a cross in a foreign land. Even if there were no other motive for preserving peace, the protection of homes against war's bereavements would be sufficient. This Christmas while we sing our hymns of peace and listen again to the heavenly host praising God with a promise of peace, let us try to think of the peace problem not as a matter of world politics, but as the protection of families in their homes. One generation of youth was sacrificed to the war, another generation of youth is offered to Moloch? Christians who are followers of the Prince of Peace must be against the reign of the pagan god Mars.

The Mother Heart, 15-19

How much Mary had to remember! The great emotions of the Magnificat lingered in memory. The hospitality of Bethlehem, the humble birth of her first-born, the visit of the shepherds, and their story of the midnight splendor upon the hill-

Christmas at Conway Fifty Years Ago

Say, boys and girls of fifty years ago, when I left the Joggin and Acacia Valley, I knew the territory from the Racquette down at Digby Gut—to Bear River—the entire coast line. I knew the old Joggin Creek—the North Range, and all that district back to the Barrens on the Shelburne road.

But, believe it or not, I cannot remember—or did not know—of the name Conway, until I received a letter a few weeks ago from my good old school chum and play mate, Sam Woodman, of Conway. And say—was I surprised—not having seen Sam since I was in short pants.

And speaking of short pants calls to mind a good old friend, Granny Porter—a wonderful, motherly old soul, the parent of another stalwart member of the Valley folk—John Porter. And there was Kate Porter, a good parent of our childhood days—and the Porter family at large. Grandma Porter used to say to me, "I don't think, but I do hope that you will grow up. Because you are so small that the wind can blow you away, and I doubt if you ever get big enough to wear long pants."

Well, I have grown up sufficiently in stature to wear real human pants. And to you, Grandma, who have long since passed to the Great Beyond, God bless you—and yours.

Now back to Conway. On the occasion in question I had been invited to spend Christmas with my good chum Sam Woodman. Sam, as I understand today, occupies the old homestead of his good and loving parents, who also have crossed the Great Divide into that land from whence none return. And we, who believe that there is a Power Divine—a God Supreme, do feel assured that their souls, like those of many others whom we have loved and love to remember, are now content in that heavenly spiritual realm.

I went to Conway on the afternoon of Christmas eve, and was made welcome by Sam's good parents. I met the older boys—Fred and George, and the sisters. We visited the barn, the old blacksmith shop, and I lent a helping hand with the chores. Mr. Woodman, the father, was a grand upstanding man, and a most gentle fatherly character.

He loved the boys, and well I remember after meeting him down in the meadows, swamp or woodland, where he and his sons would be working. Their meadow property joined the Nichols properties to the right of the old Simons bridge, near where my folks lived—and where I was born.

Well, there I was at the Woodman home for the Christmas party. Of course they had plenty of eats—the house was snug and warm, in spite of two or three feet of snow on the ground. And it was again snowing. One of those quiet dark night of snow storm—with no wind—the big fleecy flakes skittering down from the heavens. Just the kind of a night when the boys go out all dolled up in their what-nots—rough and ready—false hair trimmings, coats and trousers inside out, pant legs cut short—and lamp black on their faces—making the round of the neighborhood.

Well, no more of telling you about this, because you boys and girls who have not been through the "belch-nickeling" period—how many of you have—can sure appreciate what I mean. If you don't know all about it just ask your Dad and I will gamble that he can spin you a yarn as true to life, and no falsehood to nature, as that which I have suggested.

Well, we spent a wonderful evening. Pa and Ma Woodman told us stories. There was candy, nuts and raisins and a big supply of Ma Woodman's good doughnuts. And—just like home—we were all expected to be tucked away in bed at an early hour. And no make believe, for Santa Claus was expected down the chimney.

I slept with Sam and Fred, his elder brother, and we whispered together for half an hour before going to sleep—it was lots of fun. Then, the next morning—and we were up and doing. There were presents on the table, with a liberal amount of candies, nuts and raisins. There were our stockings to examine—they having been hung up the night before. Say folks, I'd give a lot to be right back there this coming Christmas, for I know I would enjoy myself with far greater intent and appreciation than I knew in the days of which I write.

There was a nice breakfast—mush, good old jonny-cake, sweetbaco, good home made bread—all of which you know. The sun came up bright and clear—the new, clean, fresh layer of snow, some ten inches deep, sparkled in the early sun. Soon we were out with shovels, clearing a path to the barn and the outhouses—breaking ice in the troughs for the cattle, and all were busy with the chores and the early preparations for that big Christmas feast.

And then came catastrophe—to little Bobby Nichols. For, with it all—and no due respect to the writer—the youngster, never having been away from home and mother and dad over night—became homesick, and jumped the ship before she sailed. Yes, that kid actually went home, unrestrained by any thoughts of the good things in store for him during his visit with Sam. And it was a long, long time before the Woodman family and his own Pa and Ma could find out why he did not stay with the good Woodman folk and enjoy his Christmas dinner. Boy, oh boy, did you ever get homesick? Well, that was me.

Now good folks, I hope you will appreciate this tale I've told on myself, and I am sure that my good friend Sam Woodman, will vouch for the story. So now—Merry Christmas. I'll be seeing you.

R. M. Nichols.

Gay Christmas Thrill the Greatest of All

THE love in our hearts toward our fellow men; the happy, expectant, joyous eagerness of children; the pure, white, soft beauty of snow; the deeply refreshing aroma of the forests which for a brief period we bring into our homes; the cheer of the home fires; the bringing together of all members of the family; the gaiety and the enthusiasm of Christmas shoppers; the stores, decorated and looking their best in holiday attire; the cordial heartiest greetings which are extended to us and which we extend to others; the renewing of old-time friendships by the sending of a bright Christmas card; the generosity of our souls to all; the carols which ring out on the Christmas spirit of ardent worship; the bright, significant stars twinkling down from the heavens above; the simplicity and the beauty of the Christmas season, all form a part of the great Christmas thrill. There is no thrill in the world like unto it—Mary Graham Bonner.

NOT WHAT HE EXPECTED

LITTLE DICK was too young to spell—he went into the store for a great disappointment on Christmas morning. When he beheld his Christmas tree he said solemnly, "You said it would be a fir tree, didn't you?" "It is a fir tree," answered his father. "But I thought it was going to look like my kitty!" wailed Dick—Martha B. Thomas.

A Late "It" Arrival Came Just in Time

EVERYONE was watching, waiting, hoping. They all hoped "it" would surely arrive on time.

They hoped "it" would not fail them.

"It" helped the Christmas season so much. Everyone and everything loved "it." The children loved "it," the grown-ups loved "it." The trees of the forest loved "it." And then "it" arrived. "It" arrived late—almost when everyone was giving "it" up. But even though "it" was a late arrival "it" was not too late for Christmas day. "It" came late Christmas eve.

And haven't you guessed what "it" was?

SNOW of course!—Mary Graham Bonner.

PEARSON'S GENUINE CREOLIN

Fine Way to Keep a Face Looking Happy

MRS. LARKIN is a little old lady who lives in a red house just over the hill. The children troop by her door-yard every day on their way to school. They always look up at her windows, for Mrs. Larkin is sure to be in one of them, reading and smiling in the pleasantest fashion.

Mrs. Larkin has cookies in jars and Mrs. Larkin can knit red mittens faster than anybody else in town. Both the mouths and hands of half the children in the village.

At Christmas time, the little old lady looks just as the expression on her face. To say it shines, does not half describe the brightness of it. One day Tilly Tinker said to her:

"What makes your face like a candle, Mrs. Larkin?"

"Bless you, Tilly," laughed the little old lady. "What do you mean?" Tilly had difficulty in explaining, but she finally succeeded in making Mrs. Larkin understand what she meant by comparing her face to a candle.

"I'll tell you a secret," said the little old lady in a whisper. "At Christmas time I always pretend I'm looking at a Christmas tree. A tree with a thousand candles, everyone lighted! So perhaps some of them are reflected on my face. It's a fine way to keep a face looking happy. Just try it yourself!"

Perhaps Mrs. Larkin found the best recipe for happiness—she filled her hands with good words and her mind with the brightness of lighted candles.—Martha B. Thomas.

Christmas, the Snow and the Sleigh Ride

IT WAS Christmas night. The moon was shining and the snow sparkled like diamonds more rare and wonderful than any ever seen in a jewelry shop. The bells jingled, the frosty air was so cold, chilly, dry.

"I'm here," I brushed against your faces so you can feel me and my cold, bracing ways."

And the sleigh went merrily along. Inside the sleigh were a man and a girl. And they were saying things which may not sound new to you.

"There is nothing in the world like love," was one of the things they said.

"And to be in love and sleigh-riding on Christmas night after a perfect Christmas day—there is nothing in the world like it."

But it was as beautiful to them as though they had not ever said these things. For beauty is not dependent upon novelty. It depends on something far deeper and truer.

There is nothing new about love. There is nothing new about Christmas.

But that doesn't make either of them any less wonderful.—Mary Graham Bonner.

Beat Beauty Parlor for Christmas Time

BEAUTY wrinkles for the window, those for the Christmas tree, holly for packages and flowers for the table, but what about giving some attention to our faces?

Have you ever thought about that?

Press your face up in a smile. Wear it late and early. It puts the sunshine in your eyes. And makes your hair curly.

There is an undeniable magic in happiness—it beautifies.

Happiness makes holiday in the heart, and the face reflects it.

Better than a thousand candles is the light of cheer.

"I-O-Y" is the sign that hangs over the best beauty parlor, and it serves men as well as women. If you would become handsome, become joyous first.

And joy comes from living and giving with kindness and good-will.—Martha B. Thomas.

BOTH DISAPPOINTED

THEY were both disappointed.

He—I expected you'd stand under the mistletoe when I called.

She—I expected you'd have an armful of Christmas presents.

Puts a Halo on Another Head

By Christopher G. Hazard

ARTIST FINDS New Place for Circle Because of a Service to Mankind

DAVID SPENCER looked again at his watch with some anxiety. The hospital of the old southern home had been lavish, the exhibition of his paintings had been successful beyond his hopes, there had been congratulations, and flowers and commissions. Quite overwhelmed with courtesies and attentions, charmed by the quaintness and beauty and customs and scenes new to him, the artist longed to linger, and was loth to leave the old city. But the northern train that he must take was almost due, the station was distant, and his hosts had seemingly forgotten all about it, until they suddenly appeared with apologies and delivered him to the black coachman and the family coach. Fortunately, the train, burdened with its load of Christmas cheer, was late, also, so that when it moved on Spencer was among its passengers.

The rather monotonous landscape threw him back upon reflection, and he found himself reliving the sights and experiences of his visit with pleasant amusement.

Again he witnessed the bargaining of the old market. "Is you got any eggs?" "I ain't set dat I ain't." "I ain't axed yer is you ain't, I axed yer ain't so is." He recalled the curious questions of the revival meeting that had so illustrated the picturesqueness of negro character, and hummed to himself the song that had there been so intensely sung:

There's a halo on His bald,
A halo, oh my Lawd.
But dere's one for me He said,
A crown oh glory when I'm daid,
A halo, oh my Lawd.

Dat's de kind ob hat ter git,
A halo, oh my Lawd.
In rain or shine I'll bou'n' ter sit,
I sholy am a-wuntin' hit,
A halo, oh my Lawd.

And I kin feel hit sproutin' now,
A halo, oh my Lawd.
A crown oh shinin' on my brow,
Each time to lift mek a bow,
A halo, oh my Lawd.

As the train sped on the artist's reminiscences were interrupted by the voices of the conductor and one of the passengers. "But this train did not stop at Redfield," the conductor was saying, as he looked at the old man's ticket. "It must sure stop this time," answered the passenger. "I just got to see Jim one more before he goes. I only got the message this morning. I want to wish him a merry Christmas and a happy New Year where he's goin'."

The conductor hesitated, then seemed to yield as he passed on, and the old man sat back in his seat, unaware of the atmosphere of sympathy around him. Shortly after the bell rang the train drew to a halt, and kindly looks followed him down the aisle and on to the platform of the little station.

The incident was barely finished and the train had attained but little headway when there was a sudden and terrible stop, followed by a crash and the bumping of the cars over the ties, then a stop and an afflicted silence, broken by the voice of the Pullman porter, crying out, "We're run through on open switch, and we're wrecked, but ne min' de train no standin' on de ground." Engine, baggage cars and dining car were off and broken, but the Pullman remained on the track. "It was bad," shouted at Redfield, said the conductor, "we'd a been going forty miles an hour and all heaped up at the bottom of the embankment."

In the artist's studio today there is a picture of the Christmas Christ, with the halo that belated love has placed upon His head. And just below it another halo rests upon the head of an old man, pictured there because of his unconscious but real service of mankind.

RING OUT

Ring out! Ring out! ye happy bells, and make a joyous lay.
For Christ the child has come to us, and we would have him stay.
Make every heart and every mind earth and air with cheer,
For we are all his, and the Christ is here.

FISHERMEN ADRIFT

Two Delap's Cove fishermen, John Brothers and his mate, won a strenuous battle against wind and wave Wednesday afternoon, when they brought their little gasoline-powered fishing boat, caught in heavy seas, safely into Delap's Cove under its own power, with the lifeboat from the Digby Gut Life Saving Station alongside.

The craft was sighted battling with the seas about five miles off shore, a short distance below Leitch's Cove, late in the afternoon. The life boat, in command of Capt. Harry Raymond, put out to go to its assistance, and stayed near the boat until it was out of danger.

It is understood that the two fishermen—both colored—put out to sea with only three gallons of gas in their tank. The tug J. A. Bear River Indian Near Death From Gunshot Wound

With the left side of his face shot away, half of his left ear gone, his neck and skull riddled with tiny pellets discharged from a shot gun at close range, James Harlow, young Bear River Indian and well known guide, lies in the Digby General Hospital, where his condition is "reported as good as can be expected."

Two members of the Digby detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Officers Joseph Hetherington and Stanley Kempton, escaped serious injury when their car, skidding on icy roads, plunged over a thirty-foot embankment near Bear River, while en route to that village to bring the injured man to the hospital. The car was badly damaged.

Abraham Picton, another Indian living on the Bear River reservation, is a prisoner in the County Jail in Digby. On Wednesday he was charged with being drunk and sentenced to 30 days.

The shooting, which nearly cost young Harlow his life, occurred on the Bear River reservation early Christmas evening. It is alleged that he Indians on the Reservation had been celebrating too freely throughout the day, and had drunk a quantity of "fire water". Details of the actual shooting are meagre, but it is understood that Harlow and Picton, both of whom had been drinking, were wrestling for the possession of the shot gun when the weapon discharged.

As soon as possible, Dr. A. B. Campbell, of Bear River, was summoned, and the Mounted Police notified. It was in answering this call that the Mounted Police car was wrecked, and the two officers met with their narrow escape. Neither was seriously injured, although somewhat bruised.

The injured man was taken to the hospital late Christmas evening, and is being treated by Dr. Campbell, of Bear River, and Dr. DuVernet, of Digby. The shot entered the left side of his face, just below the corner of his mouth, tore away that side of his face, shot off half his left ear, and riddled his neck and skull. It is thought the man will live, but he escaped instant death by a mere fraction of an inch.

Bear River people are inclined to think that the shooting was accidental. Both men were known to have been drinking, and returned to their respective homes late in the afternoon. Picton is alleged to have been in the house he had been occupying alone for several months, jockeyed the door and went to bed. After supper Harlow went to the house and demanded admittance. They started wrestling after he entered the house. When backed up against the wall, it is said that one of the men seized the weapon. They both fought for its possession and during the scuffle the gun discharged, inflicting Harlow's injuries.

Young Harlow is about 25 years of age, and is the father of two children. He has a splendid reputation as a guide, and for several summers has been employed as a professional guide at the Millford House, one of the popular sportsmen's resorts in Annapolis County. He is a son of the famous guide, "Joe Louis" Harlow. Both of the Indians involved are generally well thought of.

Obituary

Digby mourns the passing of Thomas P. Anderson, secretary of the New England Shoe and Leather Association, Boston, which occurred at his home, 50 Vinson Street, Dorchester, Mass., on Saturday last, after an illness of some time.

Thomas P. Anderson was born in Halifax, on October 14, 1865, and went to Boston in 1890. He served five years on the old Boston Traveler and thirteen years on the Boston Globe, becoming financial and railroad editor of that paper in 1906, which position he held until 1908, when he became publicity director for the City of Boston. His most noteworthy investigation included a two months' study of port and steamship facilities of Europe and a three months tour of observation in South America in 1913.

For the past twenty-five years Mr. Anderson has been the efficient secretary-treasurer of the New England Shoe and Leather Association, the oldest organization in that section devoted to the interests of the leather industries. He planned and directed the Boston Old Home Week celebration in 1897 under former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald.

The late Mr. Anderson was a regular visitor to Digby for the past forty-six years, and took an exceptionally keen interest in the town and province. He has often been referred to as "the salesman of Nova Scotia", and has done everything in his power to promote and develop the tourist trade of this province. Two years ago Mr. Anderson wrote a series of articles relating to the tourist industry entitled "Nova Scotia's Possibilities". These articles were published by practically every newspaper in the province.

He is survived by his widow, formerly of Centerville, Digby County, and one daughter, Mrs. Helen D. Smith, of Phillipsburg, N. J. Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon from Cedar Grove Chapel, with interment in Cedar Grove Cemetery. (Nova Scotia papers please copy.)

News of the passing of Mrs. Lilla Gilliland, for several years a resident of Marshalltown, and for some time proprietress of a tea room in Brighton, reached here on Wednesday. The late Mrs. Gilliland passed away on Christmas day at the Masonic Home, Utica, N. Y., where she has been residing for the past six years.

To the Victorian Order of Nurses in Digby many people have expressed their gratitude for the help extended along this line. The receipts from the sale of these seals to date are $94.14, of which our local V. O. N. receives 75 per cent, and the Tuberculosis commission the remainder.

VICTIM OF A SNEAK THIEF

Miss Lillian Watkins, who returned last week from Boston, was the victim of a "purse snatcher" while shopping in one of the busy streets of that city. Miss Watkins felt the purse being hoisted from under her arm, but when she turned around to look she could see no sign of the culprit. The robbery was reported to the store management, who were unable to locate the thief.

Miss Watkins' purse contained $10 in cash, her return ticket to Digby, as well as her brother Carl's ticket from Boston to Detroit in addition to a few personal belongings. Being well known at the station office, her father, being a veteran employee of the former Atlantic Railway, new tickets were issued.

THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS

SARA LOCKWOOD

IN THE little village below the hill the snow and ice covered houses, seemed snugling up together among the fir trees in order to keep warm. The fir trees looked their long arms together and moved restlessly to and fro, mourning now and then, other trees, hopelessly bare and cold, shivered in the wind and craved their icy branches.

The beautiful Lady of the Snow with all her Snowflake Imps in attendance flitted about the village street, sliding gaily down the shop windows and flirting with the passers-by.

The Man and the Child made their way through the drifts toward the group of houses. The Child ran and danced about, now in front, now behind the Man, shouting and laughing. She loved the white old Winter and return Winter had commanded all his subjects to be kind to her. So the Snow Lady kissed and caressed her and the Snowflakes played about her merrily, touching her cheeks softly and making them rosy.

But the Man hated Winter and now he hurried along, giving no heed to the beauties about him, wishing only for the warm fire in his cottage. The Snow Lady tried all her charms on him, but he only pulled his muffler tighter about his throat and his cap more firmly upon his head and went on. Then the Snowflake Imps flew at him furiously. They stung his face and buried themselves inside his muffler. The North Wind tormented him, too, blowing up his sleeves and twisting his great coat about his legs until he stumbled and lay under his breath. When the Child laughed at him and would have thrown snow in his face, he reproved her gruffly.

The Man was throbbing over in his mind a question he had discussed with the Woman only the week before. They had decided to have no Christmas this year. It was foolish, very foolish to wear one's self out thinking and planning presents for all one's relatives and friends for months before, and then perhaps not be ready when Christmas came. They would not allow their child to keep her belief in the foolish Santa Claus myth which they had told her so long ago.

This was the hardest part, for both the Man and the Woman dreaded to tell the Child, and they put off the task as long as possible. Now it was Christmas Eve and the Man had promised to tell the Child as they visited the shops. But she had been so delighted with the array of toys heaped in windows and on counters, so happy in thinking Santa would bring her some of these wonderful playthings, that he could not bring himself to tell her Santa would never visit her again. And yet he must. She would soon get over the disappointment and be happier than ever, he told himself. Yes, it was the easiest thing to do, he thought, he would wait and let the Woman tell her.

As they neared the cottages the Child threw out her arms joyously as though she would embrace the whole world of Snowflakes before she left them. And they, with delight, fought for a place upon her little head and shoulders that she might carry them away with her.

"Oh, Mother, Mother, the Snowflakes have played with me and have told me the prettiest stories," cried the Child as she drew the Woman's hand across her cold, damp cheek. "And I have seen Santa Claus. He is visiting the shops now but he has wanted to come here tonight." She stood on her toes and clasped her hands in her excitement, and the words tumbled over one another as she tried to tell of all the beauties she had seen.

The Woman smiled and looked reproachfully at the Man. So he had not told the Child. Why did he always put it off and leave it for her to do? The long discussions on the subject, the dread of spoiling the Child's happiness and the arguments as to which should tell her, had unsettled the Woman, usually so gentle and even tempered. She was vexed. She turned to the Child wearily, a little impatiently. She would tell her now.

"Dear, haven't you learned yet that there is no Santa Claus? You will not hang up your stockings tonight, for he isn't coming to fill them."

Then as the Child stood looking at her with wild, wondering eyes, she exclaimed, "Why do you stare at me so? Don't you see we have been playing make-believe with you all these years? There is no Santa Claus and you are old enough now to forget such foolish stories. It is expensive and tiresome to keep up this farce and we have decided never to have Christmas again."

To the Child it was all a strange muddle. Something dreadful had happened, but as yet she could not understand what it was.

"No Santa—But I have just seen him, Mother. He talked to me this afternoon at the shops."

Wrought up as she was, the Woman's voice sounded cold and unfeeling. "Go to bed now. You will understand better in the morning."

The Child obeyed silently. All her joyousness was gone. The laughter had died out of her eyes and in its place there was wonder and hurt. But she could not talk about it now.

"I Wish We Had Never Heard of Christmas!"

When the Woman left her in the white bed, she cautiously opened it so the Snowflakes could come in. And then, with a great sob, she told them her troubles.

In the big room with the bay window, the Man paced restlessly back and forth and the Woman sat by the table with workbasket and mending. But her hands lay listlessly in her lap and she gazed into the fire.

Once her face brightened and she murmured aloud, "But Father and Mother are never us and of course they will send something for the Child."

The Man wheeled about with a scowl. "We won't receive anything from them. Do you think we would accept presents, when we are not sending any? I have written them that we are not to have any more Christmas celebrations."

"Oh," gasped the Woman, "you do not mean we must send back everything we get?"

The Man hesitated. Then, as though he were sick of the subject, "I don't know. It is your doing. It is you who has nervous prostration at Christmas after worrying about presents."

"I do not," she denied hotly. "And you suggested this anyway. I wish we had never heard of Christmas!"

Their Christmas Eve was spent in quarrelling, and that night they dreamed of horrible plots that Santa was planning against them.

A pale moon with icicles on his whiskers watched over the little village. The Snow Lady was asleep and the Snowflake Imps had settled down to rest. One cottage gleamed colder and whiter than the others and seemed to stand apart as though not of them. The stiff of Christmas tried the door softly.

"Why, it is barred against me!" he murmured sadly. "This will never do."

So he walked about looking for a place to get in until he came to the window where the Child slept. Tenderly he sprinkled happiness and joy upon her until her lips parted in a smile. Then he flew past her to where the Man and the Woman slept. To them he gave all his essences.

The Woman awakened first, and with strange new feelings, she called the Man. They gazed long at each other.

"Merry Christmas," whispered the Woman.

And with wonder and joy, peace and good will all mingled together, the Man took her in his arms.

"We must have Christmas, after all," he said. And the Woman nodded, her eyes beaming with happiness. "I must go to the shops and bring Santa Claus for the Child before she wakes."

"Wait," cried the Woman, and laughing, she brought from their hiding place an assortment of beautiful toys.

"Mother and Father sent them and I just couldn't send them back."

With shining faces and happy hearts, the Man and the Woman hung stockings by the fireplace and heaped them with playthings.

"We will tell her she had a bad dream," said the Man.

"No," said the Woman softly. "We will tell her that Santa is a good Christmas fairy, who will always be welcome here."

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"Teach us to do the best we can. To help and cheer our fellowmen. Teach us to lose our selfish need. And glory in the larger deed. Which smooths the road and lightens the day. To all who chance to come our way."

Christmas March Was Played by Minister

HE minister had hung up his stocking, too. The spritely that put into it a candy cane, a lollipop, a ball, an apple and a motor car that would go, had added a mouth organ, most appropriate and perhaps most needed of all gifts, for what other mouth should so dispense harmony?

Then, after breakfast, came the procession into the parlor and onto the wonderful tree. First, little Sarah with the curls and aided steps of her one year and the big eyes of her first Christmas tree. Then demure Helen blowing her own horn for once, then big Sarah and all the uncles, aunts and cousins, then father and mother, and then the minister, playing his new march upon his new organ.

When they were all seated in the happy circle they asked for the words of that new tune and here they are:

If birds could sing in Christmas trees, If they could hum with happy bees, If they were sweet with all the spices Of all things beautiful and nice, They could not altogether be More full of love than this, our tree Chorus—March, march to the Christmas tree. It has a loving gift for thee.

Then they all sang it, after which the beautiful tree yielded its fruit—Christopher G. Hazard.

Christmas Telegrams Add Yuletide Cheer

HE WAS always busy, always rushing, always hurrying. He always had so many things to attend to and so many people were constantly pressing it upon his time with this demand, with that, which required attention.

He wished he could see more of his friends. His friends wished they could see more of him. He was the sort they would like to see more of and at times they were a little annoyed that he was so busy.

He was busier than was really normal. They said he had no time for the pleasant things of life and that he could neither enjoy things himself nor could he be enjoyed because he was always having so much to do.

But he took time for one thing. He never failed to take time for it. Every Christmas he sent all his friends beautiful Christmas telegrams of cheer. He thought of them and he remembered them as every Christmas morning as his friends opened their gay Christmas telegrams they would say:

"He always finds time to think of me on Christmas morning. I never know what a pleasure this is!"—Mary Graham Bonner.

"It Is More Blessed to Give Than Receive"

HIS has nothing to do with banks or savings accounts; but more money is saved at Christmas time than any other time of the year. Yes, saved. That may sound absurd to a lot of people who have spent all their money buying presents for their families and friends and neighbors, but it is true just the same. How? Why, because giving is the finest sort of saving and not only saving, but investing. Every good gift is a permanent gain to the giver; it is better than a bank book carrying the same amount, for a gift is more truly a saving than credit account on a bank ledger. If you want to save your money, give it away—wisely. Does that sound unreasonable? Remember, it is more blessed to give than receive.—F. H. Sweet.

MONTSERRAT TURNS FROM LIME JUICE TO COTTON

The island of Montserrat in the British West Indies, connected in the popular mind with lime juice, has gone in for growing cotton and it is now by far the largest crop produced. The island also has gone in for the growing of tomatoes, many of which reach Canada in yessels of the Canadian National Steamships. Montserrat is admirably suited to tomato cultivation from a standpoint of climate and transport and relative freedom from disease and pests and it is expected this trade will increase. Like other islands in the British West Indies, practically all of the four imported comes from Canada. Canada also supplies dried fish, herrings, refined sugar, cotton manufactures, shocks and staves, spruce and white pine, hardware. In addition in experts to the United Kingdom. Montserrat's best customer, the United States and Canada, the island also exports considerable of its products to France, these imports in value standing next to those to the United Kingdom. Principal exports are raw cotton, raw lime juice, lime oil, green limes, tomatoes.

Beauty of the Snow at the Yule Season

THE beauty of snow is not on with glazing exposures, on with unbroken plains. The eye could not endure, nor the heart accept, the blinding monotony of such conditions.

The beauty of snow lies in contrast. Who has not seen long, bluish shadows creep over it at sunset? Or marked with delight, the thin pencilings of bare branches shifting over its surface by moonlight? Snow requires changes, interruptions, so to speak, to bring out its character. The ruggedness of hills makes the valleys yet more powerful. The stark, rough "glory of the trees" lends decision to a landscape; the thinnest, wind-whipped edges weave patterns of indescribable beauty on the pages of the snow.

So it is with Christmas. We could hardly live up to Christmas every day in the year. The whole meaning would become worn and threadbare through constant association. When it does come, it should stand out by contrast. In great and shining beauty. The worries, frills, failures and disappointments of the months just gone should leave the proper "shadowing" so that the purity of the day stands out in white distinction.

And if the heart must ache a little, as all hearts do, no matter how great the happiness, let the pain be the penitence of branches on the matchless page of Christmas, giving it added beauty and character.—Martha B. Thomas.

Magic of Christmas Sweeps Entire World

THE magic of Christmas lies over the world today, changing the dreary commonplace events of yesterday into things of wonder and delight and filling the earth with happiness and joy and cheer. It permeates the whole earth from end to end and makes us every land and in every clime responsive to it in the fullest measure. For into our hearts at this time there comes a beautiful something that raises us above ourselves and brings us to greater heights than we ever reach at any other time. For with the magic of Christmas time man buries self in trying to promote the happiness and well-being of others and in doing this finds greater happiness for himself also. For it seems as if the more we give of love, of service and of ourselves the fuller grows the store from which we draw upon and the richer we grow in the things that make for our own happiness. Let us then allow the magic of Christmas-time to fall upon us so deeply that it may not only stay with us at this time but through all the days to follow.—Katherine Edholm.

UNDER THE OUTSIDE

GRASS keeps green under the snow. The delicate blossoms hide away in ugly weeds. Who can believe the twisted apple-tree will be a host of pink petals in the spring? There must be many a warm and true heart cased in a frosty exterior. If we believed more in the covered and less in the uncovered, we should make Christmas a day truly bright with peace and good will.—Martha B. Thomas.

CHRISTMAS—and "GOD BLESS US EVERY ONE!"

by FRANCES MARSHALL MORGAN

A MAGAZINE writer not long ago made the statement that the real Christmas spirit was as old as the world. The ghost—dead as the proverbial doornail—or deadlier, "We are shetland," is said in substance; "we modern men and women, even our children have become too sophisticated to believe in its milk and water myth."

A man who will deliberately and with malice aforethought sit down before his wheezy old typewriter and whack out mellowed sentiments of that kind, without a single qualifying phrase attached, is either a born humorist or a shameless glutton. Either he came into the world with light mental luggage or else he wrote that article the day after the Christmas feast—three helpings of juicy, brown turkey resting close to a sugary pirouette of cranberries, fragrant gillie gravy and succulent—southern style—done to a golden turn; a feast in which a steaming, raisin-studded, and spice-spiked slum pudding played a stellar role.

This is a day of "movements." Suppose we start a brand new one. Suppose we go out and run to earth every sour, dyspeptic, disillusioned, kill-joy old syren in the land, the ropes of congealed ribbons and tinsel securely around each scrawny old neck and hang them high as Haman on the biggest, brightest Christmas tree that ever made happy the hearts of tiny boys and girls. (And send them right.) And well let them scream "Humbug! Humbug!" as loudly as they choose—once they are safely strung up.

This would be a sad world, indeed, were it not for the other kind of folk. Thanks be to the gods that have kept alive the beautiful, child-like, generous spirit of them—those wonderful ones, ever young, ever remembering, though their heads be as silver, who believe in Christmas who believe in Santa Claus, in little laughing children; in friendship's vows renewed; who believe in making the eyes of the best behaved to shine like the Christmas stars themselves.

And here are three lusty cheers for the men and women who stand boldly forth and stoutly maintain that "Old Christmas" has changed not one jot or tittle throughout the ages—that it will never change as long as childhood lasts in the world, as long as family ties and friendship's faith remains.

Bless their loving hearts! May their Christmas wish come true, be they rich or poor, of high or low degree, and in whatever place they bless with their sweet presence.

Christmas was surely meant to be a season of joy and laughter, as well as one in which we glorify the birth of the blessed Savior. Throughout the centuries a spirit of revelry has marked the tide of Yule. The observance of an annual season of merry-making dates back even farther than the year of Christianity. It is said that long ere the birth of the Babe of Bethlehem the ancient pagans celebrated a yearly feast near the winter solstice. Remains called this the Saturnalia. It was marked with much wine-drinking, dancing and eating.

In the ancient countries of the North huge fires were kindled and as their leaping flames shot skyward human beings were sacrificed upon the altars to Thor and Odin. The Gauls and Saxons called this the Festival of Yule.

The Teutons selected a huge tree which they raised and much chanting and shouting in honor of the god of the sun. Bright objects and lights were placed in its branches to bring forth the light of day, the sun, stars. Animals were sacrificed to the branches, historians say, that can gods might be propitiated in favor of their savage worshippers.

So we know that the Christmas celebrations were not in the beginning of religious significance. But with Christianity's dawn the many old customs that remained were given a religious symbolism. There are a number of our present-day customs that are picturesque and interesting because of their great antiquity.

When we tramp into the winter woods and bring home loads of scarlet-berried holly and mistletoe we are merely following in the footsteps of our pagan ancestors. When we wear our doorknobs and windows with the beautiful, waxy white clusters of mistletoe, when we ornament the mantle above the bright fire with its dark-green clusters we are but unconsciously repeating the pagan custom of old when the Druids, the ancient priests, performed their mystic rites upon their forest altars.

The cutting and burning of the Yule log is, today, as important as a feature of the Christmas celebrations of the many homes of "Merrie England" as it was before the world knew the meaning of a true Christmas observance of the season. The cheery, heartening salutation "Merry Christmas!" originated in England. This greeting has never been so common as in bringing a smile to even the most woe-begone countenance.

And an English Christmas is, indeed, a wonderful thing to experience. Even the very tales of the Englishman's Yuletide make our hearts beat faster and our imaginations run riot. The time has not yet arrived when Dickens' "Christmas Carol" with its descriptions of the Christmas market scene with their long rows of hanging gosses decorated with bunches of sage and onions, of tarts, puddings and sweetmeats will lose its delicious charm and mouth-watering powers.

Let us not write about Christmas without thinking of the humble, though none the less delectable dinner presiding ed over by proud Bob Cratchit—and Tiny Tim seated at the board with his frail, small fingers clasping his spoon and repeating honest Bob's blessing as he passed upon the roaring family: "God bless us, every one!" Poor little Tim with his crutch across his knee!

Some authorities state that the Christmas tree, as we know it originated in Scandinavia. Others claim that the Germans first made use of it. Certain it is that we, in our own land, did not have our brightly decorated trees until after the German immigrant arrived.

Christmas carols are sung in many lands; in England, in France where they are called "noels," in Wales, Ireland and Italy and in many other countries. In Italy, at the season of Advent, the Calabrian shepherds troop down from their hills and chant their unusual, mournful songs in the cities. The word "carol" is derived from "cantare," meaning to sing and "cola," an interpretation of joy; therefore it is a name of honor for the songs belonging to Christmas, although it is usually associated with this season. One of the most ancient, if not the very oldest carol of a religious nature is the exquisite, "Hail, Shepherd, Watched Their Flocks by Night." It was written by Nahum Tate, England's poet laureate in 1692.

Quaint old English carols that are still sung are: "God Rest You, Merry Gentlemen," "Good King Wenceslaus," and "The Holly and Ivy." These were sung by the waits who went from house to house in the old days. A whole book could be made interesting by recounting the customs of ancient carol singers of the different lands.

In connection with the Christmas candle which has been used as a beautiful symbol in many countries from ancient days to the present it is interesting to know that even the mystic, those wandering, mysterious vagabonds of unknown origin and self-confessed pessimism, have a legend about a burning candle not to be put out at a certain season to light the way of a mother and child across the darkness of a desert land. "This legend is to be found somewhere in an old book—perhaps it is written by George Borrow—but the writer of these times has been unable to locate it again.

After all, it is the spirit of any observance that truly counts.

Christmas in Dixie

Way down South in the land of cotton. An old man in de pine-tree grove, De possum on de stump, and de crow on de limb. When de Christmas time comes round, Hokey for de chickens an' de hot-corn pone.

Hokey, hokey, to de sweet ham bone, Hokey, hokey, to de sweet ham bone.

Once:

"I see," remarked Mr. Beck, cautiously; "that a scientist says a man would be healthier if he went out more."

And then to his wife: "you know what I mean, and you'll find it makes it for you."

A SOBER CHRISTMAS, AND A HAPPIER NEW YEAR

Many a man who has been fighting the drink habit yields to temptation at the Christmas season. Many a youth has on Christmas Day taken his first drink of intoxicating liquor. Wives and mothers in some communities are looking forward with fear to Christmas—a day which should be a day of peace, a day of gladness. They fear that husbands and sons will become intoxicated.

Clergymen will, no doubt, make an urgent appeal for a Christian observance of the day on which we commemorate the birth of our Saviour. Members of the League of the Cross, on uniting with that splendid total abstinence society take this obligation:

"I promise in honor of the Sacred Christ, with the help of God's grace, to abstain from intoxicating drinks, and to discourage the use of them as much as possible.

"In honor of the Sacred Christ" may Nova Scotia have a sober and joyous Christmas season and then under the blessing of God, offer upon a happier New Year.

"Ring out the darkness of our land. Ring in the Christ that is to be."

CHRISTMAS IN THE UNITED CHURCH

The announcement of the angel to the shepherds was the theme of the Sunday morning service at the congregation of the United Church in Bear River, celebrated the Christmas festival. "And the angel said unto them, Fear not; for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David, a saviour, which is Christ the Lord." Christmas is the meeting place of time and eternity; heaven breaks through and touches earth with a mysterious light; an angel is the messenger of God to shepherds; a maiden from a tiny little town in a corner of a corner of the earth, the mother of the Christ child, whose first cry is heard by the cattle of the stable in which He is born. The miracle of "God with us" is repeated in every home wherever the Christ is welcomed and the hearts are expectant. The anthems in the morning were "Christmas Chimes," Mrs. L. Sanford taking the solo part, and "Hark the Herald Angels Sing."

At the service in the evening was heard again that mysterious voice out of the prophecy of Isaiah as it foretold the coming of the Messiah. The world wide significance of Christmas as it affected the nation was the theme, and the emphasis was laid on the names of this wonderful child who was to come. "For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon His shoulder; and His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The Mighty One, The Everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace. Of the increase of His government there shall be no end. . . . The zeal of the Lord will perform this." In the evening anthem, "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," Mrs. H. E. Harris took the solo part.

Marriages

Heywood-Lorimer

A very pretty home wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Rice, Saskatoon, Sask., recently when Miss Minnie Mae Lorimer, daughter of the late Mrs. Wm. Cress, of Deep Brook, became the bride of John Carl Heywood, of Saskatoon. Rev. T. B. McDormand, formerly of Bear River, officiating. The bride entered the church in a gown of the cream of the brother-in-law, A. Rice, to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. McDormand. She was carefully veiled in white satin, with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of carnations and roses. Miss Mary Rice, her niece and bridesmaid, wore a pale green orkadeid, with hat and muffs to match. Dr. S. T. Piper was best man. During the signing of the register a solo was sung by J. Hutton, accompanied by Mrs. Hutton. A buffet lunch was served after the ceremony. Those assisting were Miss Grace Marshall and Miss Mary Rice. The bride's travelling costume was a green tweed sweater suit with dark brown accessories. After a honeymoon in the southern and western states, Mr. and Mrs. Heywood will make their home in Vancouver.

CHRISTMAS SERVICE

The auditorium of the United Baptist church was very tastefully decorated for Christmas services on Sunday, giving an appropriate keynote to the music and addresses of the day. The theme of the morning sermon was "The Greatest Law In the World," based on the text, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," and was splendidly dealt with by the pastor, Rev. S. S. Stevens. A full choir, under the leadership of Mrs. J. L. Warren, rendered the anthem, "Christmas Joy Bells." Appropriate music was also sung at the evening service.

Please Take Notice

There is a charge of ten cents per line for reading notices in advance of any entertainment, social, tea or sale, which has for its object the raising of money for any purpose. Publicity is essential to these enterprises and the newspaper is entitled to payment for this publicity. This applies to communities, lodges, churches, musical organizations, in fact every institution which may be endeavoring to raise money. Many of our correspondents and contributors try to "sneak" in these notices quite often, and sometimes we have to let them slip by, but in the future we intend to keep closer watch, and if the institution concerned denies responsibility, the correspondent or contributor will be billed. Do not forget that a notice BEFORE the event is advertising; AFTER the event it's news.

Digby Civic Band Notes

If hard work means success, the band boys should give a first-class performance at their coming concert. Every number on the program will be performed for the first time in public and the players are being drilled night after night on the difficult music they will play.

That charming little dapper, Marjorie Holdsworth, will dance the lovely "Gypsy Waltz" in the "Bolshevik" selection. Boyd Ellis will sing "Then You'll Remember Me," and a large chorus will render "Come With the Gypsy Bride" and two other choruses from the same opera. The selection also includes a euphonium solo by Billy Christie.

Almost universally acclaimed the most beautiful waltzes ever written are Johann Strauss' "Blue Danube." It will be played by the band as a concert feature in its entirety—Prelude, five waltzes and a lengthy coda as arranged by Barrington Sargent, and requiring fifteen minutes for its performance. It will be a notable achievement for a young band, testing the players' capabilities to the limit.

century into the glorious liberty of the gospel and he was cheered. The gospel of Christ is still the power of God unto salvation to those who believe. The most essential thing is the moral regeneration that comes through spiritual quickening. The defence is not from without but from within.

Witnessing, 6-10

Many seekers after God are pounding upon an open door. "The word is nigh thee, even in thine heart." The spirit of man is the candle of the Lord and God's spirit is to our spirits. Light is light whether in candle or sun, and spirit is spirit whether in God or man. Because man has been born in the divine image and because God has breathed his spirit into man, the Spirit of God is no foreigner, no intruder into man's personal life. He is the presence of illumination and guidance by the Holy Spirit that banishes doubts and fears from Christians. They come so sure of God that it is no longer a question. "Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his Spirit." Then we are able to give a convincing witness to others. Good news urges to be communicated, and if God's Spirit is working in our lives, we will naturally feel the urge to tell others. When John wrote there were only a few thousands who could be called Christians, and now about one-third of the nearly two billion people on earth are in some sense Christian. This has been brought about by the witness of God's Spirit in Christians and their witnessing to their fellow men.

Life, 11, 12

There is an oft-repeated saying that while there is breath there is life. When breathing ceases, life soon ceases. Prayer may be likened to the breath of the soul. Is it too much to say that if we never breathe a prayer to God, we are not spiritually alive? To John the difference between a Christian and a non-Christian was as great as between life and death. Christ promised his followers abundant life, and some Christians demonstrate it. They have a radiance, a gladness, an energy that give evidence that they are living plus. True Christians are more alive than others; they have received the gift of eternal life. The Christian finds life in Christ. It is still happening. Thousands each year find spiritual life through surrender to God and experience the joy that is best seen in human lives. "Thou hast the Son that liveth, but he that hath not the Son hath not life."

Questions for Discussion

- 1.—What does it mean to believe?
- 2.—Why is love the greatest thing in the world?
- 3.—How may we gain victory over self?
- 4.—How does God's Spirit give an inner witness?
- 5.—Spiritually, is it possible to be "dead alive" at one and the same time?

Bluenose Masters Preferred in Old Country Ships

One of the most significant chapters in the seafaring records of the British Empire might be written about the position attained by Canadian shipmasters and officers in the Maritime of the Mother Country. The part played by Canadian-built ships under British ownership, during the days when wooden hulls were in demand, is already well known. But the influence of the Bluenose shipmaster, commanding the big whippers of Liverpool, London and Glasgow, has received little or no recognition. Shipowners, sailormen, and those who had to do with shipping, were well aware of the infiltration of Canadian shipmasters and officers into the British Marine, but the average Canadian layman knows nothing about it.

Responsibility for the exodus of Nova Scotians and New Brunswickers to English ships (and American ships also) was a natural sequence to the decline of the Maritime Province. Your Bluenose master mariner was quick to see the handwriting on the wall, when the iron and steel hulled ships began to crowd the wooden whippers of the Maritimes away from the cream of the long-voyage trade. In the last 30 years, the British, the Canadians and the Americans, the sailing ships and mates began to seek berths with British firms.

The reputation of these Maritime seafarers was such that they had little trouble finding employment. They knew how to get the best out of ship and crew and drove both to the limit. English owners appointed Canadian masters and officers to their countrymen. Sail was making a last stand against the inroads of steam, and it required men of nerve, ability and business sense to make the sail ships pay.

The question has often been asked as to why the Bluenose master mariner was so successful. The answer is simple. Much of it can be ascribed to the mode of training in Provincial ships. Beginning their careers "before the mast" as seamen, not as cadets or apprentices, the Maritimers acquired a more practical knowledge of sailor's work and the use of marine spike, serving-mallet, palm and the other tools of the trade. Graduating from the forecastle to the quarterdeck as an officer, they were still expected to toil with the men. Even as masters, they were not above carrying a brush in hand or engaging in the art of sail-making and fitting rigging.

Then again, when in command of Maritime-owned ships, the captains were given a large measure of the "free rein." I went up to them to make a profit on the voyages. This was done by losing time on passages, keeping repair bills to a minimum, avoiding delays in port, getting the most out of the crews in handling ballast and cargoes and maintaining the vessel in good condition. In other words, they learned to keep expenses down to the last dollar.

Masters and mates, thus trained, and used to getting the utmost out of wooden ships, did wonders when they took charge of iron and steel vessels. A skipper who could make fast passages in the comparatively frail wooden-hulled and wood-sparred Bluenose, would naturally command with confidence and impunity in the much stronger iron or steel ship. It was common comment that when a Bluenose took charge of an English ship, her average time on passage showed improvement. Basil Lubbock, extensive chronicler of the records of British sailing-ships, goes so far as to state in his "Last of the Windjammers" that nearly every ship which stood out in the twentieth century as a fast sailor and maker of quick passages was commanded by a Bluenose skipper.

Some of the important British sailing ship lines employed large numbers of Maritime Provincians as captains and mates. Among them might be mentioned the fleets of C. E. De Wolfe & Co., Thomas Shute, E. F. & W. Roberts, George Windram & Co., McVicar, Marshall & Co., Ross & Co., Geo. T. Sales & Co., all of Liverpool; Hugh Hogarth of Ardrossan; John Black & Co., Andrew Weir and T. Law & Co., Glasgow.

When they took charge of English ships, the Bluenose skipper invariably brought his ideas of discipline, conduct and economy with him. Orders were enforced, if necessary, without much compunction as to those provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act which set forth the rights and privileges of seamen. In the minds of most Canadian shipmasters and officers the laws relating to seamen were simply interpreted as the "right to do as I order and the privilege of carrying it out." Crews were worked hard with the amount of sail handling necessary to a quick passage and in keeping the ship and her gear in first-class shape. Thus it followed that many of the splendid old windjammers of Liverpool and Glasgow were endowed with the Bluenose reputation.

It would, however, be painting a false picture and doing an injustice to many capable Canadian shipmasters who commanded British ships by inferring that their rule was tyrannical. Such was not the case. But the fact that they had come up from the forecastle of their own Provincial ships with an intense practical knowledge of seamanship, rigging, sailmaking and the other specialties, made them singularly efficient and intolerant of slackness in any form. As taskmasters, they were exacting, but as teachers, humane. As young British seamen and apprentices, who served their time under such masters, learned their profession thoroughly and deemed it a privilege to have acquired their knowledge in such a school.

It is a remarkable tribute to the character and ability of the men, and to the training in Provincial ships, that these master mariners from the coastal villages of the Maritimes were able to invade the very citadels of the British Merchant Service, and gain command of the finest sailing ships afloat. And it should be remembered that there was no lack of shipmasters in Great Britain, not one of native birth anxious to secure commands at the period. At the same time, while recording these facts, it is a matter of regret that the British Merchant Service, driven from home to earn their living in the ships of England and the United States—From the Maritime Magazine.

THE OLD SCHOOL AND GRANDPA HILL

Well, boys and girls of fifty years ago, we have been getting along pretty well since starting to school at the age of seven. And you'll remember I told you that Grandpa Hill was my first teacher, in that good little school house on the Ridge Road, which I've owned and had in mind through all these years—for he was the sweetest memories of my boyhood. Yes, the little school house, as we term it, was the biggest in reality—and still is in our minds, because of the fact that it was there we received our first instructions in our real life in life. The same principle applies today—or in any generation. The first instructions make the course through life. And whether it be from home, from school, or from other surroundings, the ideals of trust, of faith and love and hope for the future—all form the groundwork of that structure we call life.

The above is more of a prelude than anything else, leading up to the subject. But our story is in the school and Grandpa Hill forms the heart and soul of the whole story for her gentle influence was felt by all. And Grandpa Hill was the good husband, and parent of the children of a long and happy union of those two most worthy neighbors of that section.

There were the children, Dave and John and Grace. The boys were fine and lively fellows and Grace was a playmate. John and Dave were, to me, those "elder brothers," drawing our admiration and to whom we with John and he expressed his likelihood with pride. I was a favorite of mine in many ways. He was one of the best mill hands at the old Raymond mill, and he also was a master in handwork on the farm.

and in the orchard. When called on for carpenter or millwright work around the saw mill, the bride or the groom, John would always let me help him on the smaller jobs. Here was my chance to swing an axe, use the hammer and saw, or other tools, and I not only had great fun, but learned many things about tools as well. John taught me how to use a jack knife, and boy, I could whittle—make more willow whistles in the sap season when the bark would slip than that man from Lynn could ever do. I'll bet you.

Well now, let's get to Grandpa Hill. Raised and educated in the art of shoemaking, Grandpa was, in my time a most respected and honored shoemaker and cobbler. I remember, was in the days when wooden pegs were used—when the sewing twine was pulled from a bundle, making up one or more straps according to the weight required for sewing the job. The twine would be rolled on the leather apron, and over the knee, for the proper twist, dragging through a cake of beeswax and fusing with it until it was just right. Then came the awl work and the needle with the old thumb palm and saw both and girls, what did it do when we'd stuff out those old shoes of ours? Just went to Grandpa Hill and have them fixed while we sat waiting.

And much fixing they would often do for us. A full half-inch of sole would be scoured off the shoe using our feet for brakes, while coasting down the wooden stockings and Grandpa would be telling you a story of his boyhood days. You'd get so thrilled that your feet would slip from the box, hit the floor with a bang, you'd lunge forward and Grandpa would say, "Come child, sit up, and keep just so far away from this needle. I must have room to swing my arm."

There were times, I remember, when by reason of our intense interest in the bear or wolf story, or fox hunting trip—or perhaps it would be a fishing tale—and we'd lean too close, and Grandpa Hill would be telling you a story of his boyhood days. You'd get so thrilled that your feet would slip from the box, hit the floor with a bang, you'd lunge forward and Grandpa would say, "Come child, sit up, and keep just so far away from this needle. I must have room to swing my arm."

We learned lessons from Grandpa Hill's inspiring stories and his maxims and counsel—all for our education and betterment. We can never forget them. I remember in particular, when I had my feet on the old box too close, and Grandpa Hill would be telling you a story of his boyhood days. You'd get so thrilled that your feet would slip from the box, hit the floor with a bang, you'd lunge forward and Grandpa would say, "Come child, sit up, and keep just so far away from this needle. I must have room to swing my arm."

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE IN TRINITY CHURCH

There took place in Holy Trinity Anglican church, on Sunday evening last, a very colourful and impressive Festival of Light, witnessed by a large congregation of worshippers who joined heartily in the singing of the Christmas hymns occurring in this special service.

After the procession hymn, the Rector, Rev. A. E. Gabriel, explained the purpose of the religious pageant and stated that the service was for teaching and to prepare his congregation for the Christ-Mass.

It was a dignified and reverent service of receiving and giving of Light and consisted of appropriate scripture readings by Alfred Boden, hymns and prayers which told the story of the Birth of Christ.

A Star shone over the reredos while the Shepherds knelt at the Communion Rail; then the Christ Light appeared on the altar and from it the candles held by the Shepherds, the Wise Men who presented their gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh, the Apostles, Bishop, Priest, Deacon and congregation received the Light in regular succession and led by the crucifer all marched out of church, singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers" the congregation received their lighted candles to their own homes.

There were over twenty characters in gorgeous robes, representing the Shepherds, Wise Men, Apostles, Bishop, Priest and Deacon. The music was especially well rendered by the choir and in the anthem, "Christians Awake," Harry Beaman and the Rector took solo parts. The Wise Men sang "We Three Kings." They were Harry Beaman, Charles Walker and Mr. Herwick.

Other characters were as follows: Shepherds—Arthur Winchester, Carl and Leonard Winchester; Apostles—James and Reginald Wood, Edmund and Currie Woodman, William Walker, Richard Lynch, Laurie Dickson, Vernon Hewett, Harry Hicks, David Daley, Garnet Taylor, Harry Kirkpatrick, and Sydney Hall; Bishop—S. E. Woodman; Priest—S. A. Keen; Deacon—James Casswell; Cross Bearer—Harold Hewett; Acolyte—Victor Cardozo.

ENJOYABLE SURPRISE PARTY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Arlington Crowell, Sandy Cove, was the scene of a very pleasant surprise party on Thursday evening of last week. When Mr. and Mrs. Crowell entertained the boys of the Sandy Cove Base Ball Club and their friends at a surprise party given in honor of their captain, Albert Gidney, who leaves shortly for Dorchester, Mass. where he is to be married. Mr. Gidney as he entered the room, was greeted by a rousing cheer of "Play Ball" from the members of his team, followed by the singing of "Those Wedding Bells are Breaking Up that Old Gang of Mine," played by Miss Mary Merritt, after which the little Misses Faith Crowell and Grifiths entered the room with a beautifully decorated basket filled with appropriate gifts from his "well wishers." A lobster supper was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Mary Merritt and Leora Eldridge.

Miss Gladys Brennan, of Brookline, Mass., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Schaffner.

CAPTAIN OF WESTPORT CRAFT SCORES U. S. COASTGUARD

"They violated every tradition of the sea when they offered to take us in tow. They did offer to take us off and scuttle our ship but these wasn't a man aboard who would agree to that. They all stood by me." This was the indictment of the United States Coastguard expressed by Capt. Freeman Anderson, Martin's Point, master of the Westport motor vessel, Mary E. Kenney, which arrived in Halifax after a week of playing a game of cat and mouse with the U. S. Coastguard, a performance which gained widespread publicity in newspapers of Canada and the country to the south. Captain Anderson revealed the hardships undergone by his men as his ship, with engines disabled, was buffeted about by storms, and the crew suffered for a full week from shortage of food, water and fuel.

"At the end we had only 40 pounds of flour, and the water we could get from the rainfall," Capt. Anderson declared. He stated that the U. S. Coastguards men had seen them chopping up ice chests, water tank covers, bunkheads and a dory for fuel, but still refused to take them in tow. The Mary E. Kenney, according to Captain Anderson, is owned by D. B. Kenney, of Westport.
