DIGBY, NOVA SCOTIA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 3, 1936

VOLUME LXI, NO. 16

A Review of 1935 in the History of Digby

Fourth to Drown from Digby's Scallop Fleet in 1935

Clayton Holmes, 27-year-old Port Wade scallop fisherman, lost his life early Monday afternoon when he fell from the deck of the scallop boat, "Bay Queen," into the icy water of the Bay of Fundy. This accident is the fourth fatality in the fleet since October and he is the seventh Digby county fisherman to lose his life by drowning in 1935.

Capt. Horace Snow, of the Bay Queen, gave the press details of the accident over the telephone from Port Wade. The boat had been dragging on Snow Bank, and about noon, on account of the storm and cold, hauled in their drags and prepared to return to port. Holmes, with other members of the crew were on deck shaking scallops. Just what happened the captain could not say, but suddenly the young man, as if stricken with a dizzy spell, appeared to walk backward and fell over the rail of the boat. At that time they were about half-way between the first half a minute the boat was turned around, but there was no sign of the unfortunate young man, who, weighted with heavy clothing, apparently sank to the bottom immediately.

The boat cruised about the vicinity for almost an hour, but without success. The deceased was the only surviving son of Mr. and Mrs. James Holmes, Port Wade, and lived with his mother in that village. He was unmarried.

This was his first season at scallop fishing, and he had only just recovered from a blood-poisoned hand, which became infected after cutting it on a scallop shell. He was cooking on board the boat and helped out with other duties on board.

Ends Own Life With Shotgun

Thirteen years ago last October, Tom Berry, aged recluse, was found murdered in his home on the Guinea Road, Clementopolis.

Tragedy again crept into the house Wednesday evening, when, shortly after eleven o'clock, his nephew, Laurie Eaton Berry, age 35, married, and father of four children, was found dead, lying across his bed, with the top of his head blown off by a shot gun. He had ended his own life. The unfortunate man had been ill for several days, suffering intense pain. Wednesday evening, about 11 o'clock, he asked his wife to go to a neighbor's home on the road. He also asked Fred Earle, who was staying with him to step outside to see if he could see the lights of the doctor's car. A doctor had been sent for. During the absence of his wife and neighbor, Berry eventually went into the kitchen, took the gun from the wall, and blew off his head.

Earle, on hearing the discharge of the gun, rushed into the home of Berry's father, who lives across the street. The two entered the house and found the body of the unfortunate man lying across the bed.

Epidemics Play Havoc With the Digby School Attendance

The regular November report results of the first term's work failed to appear in the columns of the Courier, due to the unprecedented conditions arising out of the epidemics which swept the school from the first of October until the Christmas vacation. The teaching staff have been confronted with an almost insurmountable task in their attempt to meet the curriculum requirements in the face of most adverse conditions.

The attendance, which during the past four years had not fallen below 90 per cent dropped to an abnormal low in some instances of 50 per cent.

It should be obvious to parents in general that such conditions could not exist without seriously affecting the general standard of work throughout the entire school, necessitating in many cases the repetition of the entire year's work. The members of the teaching staff, therefore, earnestly solicit the co-operation of parents in order that we may regain as speedily as possible the usual high standard of our school. They also urge parents to give their careful attention to matters pertaining to home study and regular attendance for only through such attention can any measure of success be obtained.

YOUTH IN POLITICS

Interesting reports came from many sections of Canada regarding the activities of young people in politics during the last campaign. Never has there been such concerted effort to organize young men and young women voters by either of the old parties and especially by the new parties in the field.

Selfish motives are behind such organization schemes, it is true. All parties seek to line up as many voters as possible. But in organizing the young people the politicians are doing them a favor. For they are interesting our youth in affairs of government and such interest is not always confined to party lines.

And why should not the young people of today be vitally interested in government and governmental problems? This is the Canada of tomorrow. They have a right to be concerned about it.

We, of the older generation, haven't done exactly the square thing by our young people. We have saddled upon them the burden of many millions of dollars of debt which they will have to pay, debts which are too costly to pay ourselves, although the money is being used to get us out of the situation into which we plunged ourselves.

Young men and women of today should be interested in politics. They should realize that the questions involved in our social and economic order are even bigger than those of politics. They are the ones who are going to pay for our waste and experiments and extravagance. Why shouldn't they have much to say about the size of the bill, as well as the manner in which it has been contracted? Their future is the one we are mortgaging.

The American Bankers' Association expressed the belief that happy days are here again. Yeah, 30 or 60, with seven per cent interest.

LEAD OR BE LED

People the world over still boast of their independence. Analyze this independence, and it is found to be only relative. Political and social conditions decree that we must lead or be led. If we choose to lead, we will be dependent on our followers to accomplish what we undertake. If we are willing to be led, we become dependent on our leader, even though we become lieutenants.

We may fancy we may do as we please, but the fact is we face alternatives, and if we are not strong enough to lead we will be led, for the forces which compel us are today stronger than ever before in the history of the world.

The pen in this day and generation is mightier than the sword ever was in the past. The pen is wielded only by the few who think, against the many who do not think, but are willing to have their thinking done for them.

Think and one may lead.

Some authorities now tell us that prices should never be considered proof of quality. Which seems reasonable judging by what we pay for government.

CIVILIZATION

About twenty years ago a story went the rounds concerning a schoolboy who defined the difference between civilized men and savage as follows: "A savage cuts off his enemy's head with a tomahawk, but a civilized man shoots a 16-inch gun and blows him up twenty miles away." This old definition could now be revised: for civilization has made such rapid progress that we use airplanes and drop huge bombs on hospitals and homes and blow up women and children. Barbarians must slay enemies one at a time; civilized men annihilate them by hundreds.

Italy wants to civilize Ethiopia, and is doing it with bombing planes and machine guns.

War itself is a reversion to jungle savagery. In order to make good soldiers of men we must divest them of every quality that long ages of progress have added to humanity, except mechanical skill, and change them into ruthless, pitiless, savage killers. We cannot claim to be really civilized until we abolish war altogether.

The way things are going up it seems that the state-men are getting the meat, the politicians the gravy, and the taxpayers the bone.

MODERN PATRIOTISM

Time was when Canadians cheerfully gave their all to the country if it needed them. The time has come when too many Canadians get out of government all they can for themselves and damn it, because they cannot get more. This change has not improved either the exemplars of modern patriotism or the country. It proves a curse to everybody.

And worst of all, theorists now in many cases in control of our government encourage this sort of patriotism. Their social welfare schemes are based on the assumption that government must take care of those who won't help themselves, superseding the old idea of citizenship duty to government. Boiled down, these theories affirm that some of the people must take care of the rest of the people if the latter do not or will not take care of themselves.

Modern patriotism to our way of thinking will soon kill the goose that laid the golden egg.

One thing in favor of the old-fashioned runaway horse was that it felt bad a few minutes to think of his past before the crash came.

STAMP BID OF 7,500 POUNDS REFUSED IN LONDON

A bid of 7,500 pounds was refused for less than a square inch of paper in a London auction room recently. This was for the 1-cent British Guiana stamp of 1856. The bidding started at 3,500 pounds and went up in 250's, until with no further bids after 7,500 pounds the "lot" was withdrawn.

The stamp belonged to the famous collection of Arthur Hind, of Utica, New York, who had to pay 7,350 pounds when he bought it in the Ferrari sale shortly after the World War. This rarest stamp in the world was originally found in an attic in Georgetown, British Guiana, by a chophoy, who happily accepted six shillings for it.

It eventually found its way to England where it was sold together with many others in an album for 25 pounds. Baron von Ferrari, who eventually became its possessor, is believed to have paid about 120 pounds for it.

Snowballs at Equator

East Africa's first snowball battle has just been recorded in Bombo, near Nairobi. The village is on the eastern slopes of Kilimanjaro and only 7,000 feet above sea level. The first heavy fall of snow ever recorded at such a low altitude in Africa enabled hundreds of native children to dig a snow fight. At the same time a few miles away, an old volcano, now started to smoke for the first time known.

THE OLD SAWMILL

How oft did I climb in my childhood To the school up Raymond's Hill! And pause a while to listen To the song of the old sawmill.

For years it had stood in the Valley, Where the water from the dam flowed through.

Echoing the cheery buzz and song Of the saws cutting in two;

Cutting logs into planks, lathes and shingles; For the ships that came into the Bay.

To aid in some great project In a land quite far away.

Through the coming years we cannot forget. The old tottering mill that has come That gleamant buzz and cheery old tune.

In our memories will linger on. The dam and the mill has left a space.

Affording a wonderful view Of that faithful old bridge that spanned the dam.

And the lovely old stream winding through. That beautiful stream, half hidden for years.

And faithful goes on its way. Singing its song as it babbles along. To be lost out in the Bay.

And so it comes to us, one and all. As we mingle with life's great throng.

May our lives be so lived, when we step aside. That our memories may linger on.

Striking evidence of the value of conservation measures in protecting fisheries was presented at a meeting of halibut fishermen and fisheries experts in Prince Rupert, B. C., a few days ago when Dr. W. F. Thompson, director of investigations, reported that while halibut were nearing depletion in Atlantic waters and in the North Pacific area close to Japan, the species was holding its own off British Columbia and Alaska, where effective restrictions prevailed.

"The only known halibut banks in the world that are being satisfactorily maintained are off our coast," said Dr. Thompson, who gave an illuminating outline of what has been learned in recent years regarding the life of the halibut, hitherto an almost closed book to science.

Dr. Thompson said that the halibut of the western banks did not migrate to the banks off Prince Rupert and to the southward and that since restriction of the catches, on the more southerly banks the number of fish had been increased at a great rate so that the fishermen were able to take more fish to the skate of gear each year since conservation measures started.

On this coast, said Dr. Thompson, there were two separate colonies of fish, one in the Gulf of Alaska and the other in waters south of that area. The international commission had found by tagging the fish that there was very little migration between the two colonies. Among the young fish the migration was almost nil, but as the fish came to maturity they moved more freely although not usually from one bank to another.

Halibut eggs, said Dr. Thompson, were evidently laid in deep water just off the banks and hatched in the denser and saltier water below the surface. For the first few months they were beautiful little transparent fish not at all similar to the adult, but after the first six months, or thereabouts they drifted into the banks, and the eyes which at first had been on both sides, like any other fish gradually moved to one side, and the little halibut adopted the true habit of lying on the bottom.

The egg was about one-seventh of an inch long.

The female fish grew much faster than the males and reached a weight of several hundred pounds, the largest fish taken in the Atlantic being 900 pounds. The males seldom exceeded 40 pounds, although a few were taken of twice that size. Of the many millions of fish hatched each year only a small number survived, and each year saw a large decrease in numbers. On the southern banks there were not enough fish reaching the 1-year spawning period to supply eggs to maintain the supply.

When the commission started its work several years were found, but they were now increasing slowly and as time advanced the number advanced steadily.

No repeal has not brought the promised millennium of moderate and temperance. On the contrary old excesses and evils have returned. Personal self-control, public education, common sense, and a refusal to be fooled by snarls and delusions of alcohol will eventually bring temperance. It's in the air already.

AMERICANS IN CANADA

There are 345,000 persons living in Canada who were born in the United States, and there are 90,000 of them who still owe allegiance to their native country. Persons who have not yet become naturalized Canadians.

There are four or five thousand other citizens of the United States in Canada who were not born there, but had lived in that country for a time and become naturalized subjects afterwards migrating to the Dominion. These include nearly 900 Russians, over 800 Norwegians, 700 Swedes, 600 Germans, 300 Danes, and over 100 Italians. Even some British born are included in the alien list because of having been naturalized in the United States.

Alberta has 75,000 more American-born in its population than any other province, followed by Saskatchewan with 73,000, and Ontario with 72,500. There are close to 50,000 in Quebec, Saskatchewan and Quebec are remarkable for the number of United States-born who have retained their United States citizenship.

It is curious that from Nova Scotia to Ontario the American-born females outnumber the males, but from Manitoba to the Pacific Coast the males outnumber the females.

This information is taken from reports issued by the Census Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

TEMPERANCE IN THE AIR

There's temperance in the air—literally and figuratively, says the Christian Science Monitor. After a nation-wide poll of passengers on the question of serving liquor on its planes, the American Airlines, Inc., decided not to do so.

"Public opinion is against the practice," the vote was overwhelmingly negative, the company announced. Travelers, were realistic when they faced the concrete question of adding alcohol to the hazards of air travel, or of subjecting non-drinkers on planes to the offense of drinking passengers.

There's temperance in the air in another sense, too. Organizations which fought for prohibition have already seen enough broken promises of the liquor interests since repeal to stir them to action again. The so-called, supposedly outlawed, is back in disguise. It's a restaurant now. In place of the old-time free lunch is a meal to be paid for; it is served in a barroom.

The increase in drinking, particularly so-called social drinking among young people, stimulated by alluring and extravagant advertising, is causing danger signals to be hoisted.

There are many other straws in the wind which show how empty were the promises of liquor purveyors that if prohibition were repealed we would enter an era of moderation and respect for law in which all the old evils of the use of and traffic in liquor would vanish. Yet Uncle Sam is busy today chasing bootleggers.

Liquor has always existed or thrived on deceit and delusion. If only its real nature and results could be seen clearly in their naked reality, by enough people, "control" or prohibition would take care of itself.

No repeal has not brought the promised millennium of moderate and temperance. On the contrary old excesses and evils have returned. Personal self-control, public education, common sense, and a refusal to be fooled by snarls and delusions of alcohol will eventually bring temperance. It's in the air already.

SUPERLIABILITIES

Pride goeth before the building of a superliner, says an editorial in the Christian Science Monitor. What comes after the launching is written in red ink on national shipping ledgers. Retirement of the Cunard White Star line steamer Majestic, after fourteen years of service, proves that the economic life of a giant ocean liner falls many years short of her seagoing durability.

The Majestic was a reparations prize. Built as the Bismarck by the master shipwrights, Blohm & Voß at Hamburg, she gave to Britain's postwar merchant service claim to the biggest and finest ship afloat. But practical ship operation fixes limits to size and speed. Never since the day the Bismarck first put out to sea past sober thoughts of workmen along the Elbe have English owners been able to stretch that economic tape measure around the Majestic's mighty girth.

She was a fuel-eating advertisement, a seagoing slogan, Biggest (sh!) but most expensive ship afloat! Smaller and more practical vessels in the White Star line paid her extravagant way.

In retiring the Majestic, however, the firm has not surrendered to these economic realities. She is being taken off the sea—to make room for a still bigger ship. The superliner Queen Mary will require even heavier subsidies to uphold British prestige in an international shipping rivalry.

It is more than England's problem. About the time the United States lines steamer Leviathan was forced out of service for financial reasons, plans for two even larger ships took place on American drafting boards. France holds the "blue ribbon" which goes to the nation willing to lavish the most money on a single ship, for the sake of national maritime pride. Today the superliner Normandie has the jump on the other Jönesees.

There is no sense to the sort of competition that has outmoded the Majestic in fourteen years. A reckless trend toward more monstrous ships has seen financial problems grow apace. Transatlantic shipping is a service for which people in competing nations are forced to pay twice over. That's what it amounts to when government aid is necessary to make up the deficit between what passengers pay and what it actually costs to carry them in luxurious superliners. It is time nations ran up the white flag in place of the blue ribbon, and jettisoned false pride to salvage genuine transportation service.

To say "the sun has shone today," may not be considered as "news," news in this vicinity, when bright

THE AMAZING BRITISH PEOPLE

(Springfield Republican)

While many whose whole sympathy is with the oppressed Jews in Germany are puzzled as to how the proposed boycott of the Olympic games in Berlin would help them, there is interest in reports from London of an international soccer football game played between the champion British team and a German team which was accompanied by 10,000 Nazi enthusiasts. In spite of bitter British resentment at the recent course of things in Germany, the game, which was won by the British 3 to 0, was a splendid success. Nothing in the world's history, including no untoward episode, and was made the occasion of a notable evening of courtesy, just before the referee blew his whistle for the beginning of play.

As the scene is described, with the two teams waiting on the field, the band first played the German national anthem, and the German masses in one of the stands, sang the verse "like a huge well-trained choir," while the British "bare-headed" crowd, in a similar manner, sang the band started "God Save the King," the whole 70,000 German and all joined in. Finally with the two teams still waiting together at the centre of the field—"the Germans in white shirts and dark shorts and the English in blue and white"—the whole crowd sang, "Abide With Me." One of the striking incidents of the affair is the fact that the task of catering for the German crowd seems to have been admirably carried through by a long-established London Jewish firm, to which the game was played in a neighborhood in which the Jewish population largely predominates.

SPRINGTIME IN THE ZOO

Get environment in your zoo pictures. It adds much to their interest.

"WHAT is it we always look forward to seeing in the spring? A teacher asked her class of eight-year-olds. 'The animals in the zoo,' piped up Mickey. 'Mickey might have added, 'and snapshots,' for there are in this world a few people who park their cameras on the forest shelf at the first sign of winter and, like the bear in the zoo, it liberates itself until the arrival of spring.

If you own one of these hibernating cameras you had better get it out, dust it off, carefully clean the lens, load it up with film and be on hand at your nearest zoo when they begin to let their animal family out of the indoor winter quarters to the outdoor cages. There's a real chance for some great pictures.

There's one great advantage in taking animal pictures at this early spring. The foliage on the trees is not as heavy as it becomes later in the summer so your light is much better.

Background and foreground should be given careful consideration in taking pictures of animals and fowl at a zoo. In other words, try to get environment in your pictures—natural settings. Don't just walk up to the cage or corral and shoot. If the lion's den, for instance, is at the back end of his cage, which it usually is, don't snap your picture from the side and have an adjoining pen of catfishes for your background. If in natural surroundings the lion and ostrich do not mix socially. Get as close to the bars of his cage as you can and shoot.

"But," you may say, "if I snap him when he is right up against the bars I would get a larger image." That's true enough and at the same time you would be getting just another picture of a lion. Suppose the image of the lion is smaller at a greater distance from your camera. How about an enlargement of the lion and enough of the entrance to his den to add environment.

Many amateurs overlook the possibilities in trimming and enlarging and in doing so they pass up the opportunity to change what would be an ordinary snapshot into an outstanding photograph.

Keep these things in mind when taking all kinds of animal pictures—wild and domestic. Get environment in the picture and you will soon be convinced by results that it is well worth the little thought and effort it requires.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

To Study the Lobster

During the coming year, according to present plans, Canadian research workers employed by the Biological Board of Canada, which is under the control of Hon. J. E. McInch, Federal Minister of Fisheries, will begin a further probing of the lobster's life history and habits. The purpose of this investigation will be to ascertain how best to add to the effectiveness of the present methods of conserving the lobster fishery.

The lobster fishery ranks second in value in Canada's fishing industry and it is found chiefly in the waters adjacent to the Maritime Provinces, with a small portion of the total catch occurring in Quebec waters. The lobster fishery of Canada's Atlantic coast is said to be by far the most important fishery of its kind in the world. Consequently, the conservation of the lobster resources is of importance to Canada, and, with the importance of conservation in mind, various regulations have been applied to the fishery under the Federal Fishery Act. Regulations are now in effect, but new knowledge of the lobster's life history may enable them to be made still more effective.

Canadian scientists employed under the Dominion government have already done useful work in the field of lobster study, but a complete program of lobster research has not hitherto been undertaken. With a decrease in the catch which has occurred in the last few years a thorough investigation seems probable, and at a recent meeting of the Biological Board steps were taken with a view to initiating an investigation of this kind during 1936.

If funds permit, it is anticipated that two scientists well qualified for research in this field will be assigned to give all their time to studying the lobster fishery and the lobster's way of life. They will be to various sections of the different lobster fishing districts and they will make use of the facilities of the three research centres, conducted by the board in the Maritime Provinces. These centres are the biological station at St. Andrews, the experimental station at Halifax, and the station at Ellerslie, P. E. I.

As their work proceeds, it is expected to produce authoritative information as to the measure of the fishery's intensity which the lobster can stand without depletion and as to new steps which conservation taken in the interests of the lobster fishery is of importance to the lobster fishermen, as once the lobster re-stocks are depleted a serious loss would result to this important Maritime fishery.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Powell and baby, who spent Christmas with the former's mother, Mrs. Byard Powell, 56 at Plympton, returned to their home in Weymouth North on Thursday of last week.

Why We Should Protect Our Wild Life

(By Edward A. Burns)

The subject of wild-life conservation is exceedingly intricate, inasmuch as involved with the subject is that larger thought: the interdependence of all forms of life. This philosophy becomes most apparent to those who make prolonged study in detail, but it is also apparent to any who observe what is going on about us in the realm of Nature.

We are told by those competent to make such statements that in Nova Scotia alone the insect eating birds destroy several million bushels of insects each year and by their so doing make possible the continuance of forests and all other forms of plant life; and the continuance of the animal life of the world which in turn depends on plant life for food and many other uses; and upon other forms of animal life which directly or indirectly depend on plant life. For this reason various forms of bird life are at the top of the economic list and are an all-time necessity from the very nature of their service to man.

In North American history it is very apparent that it was the quest for fur and other forms of wild life that opened up the country for future settlement by the white man. Much of this territory in our own province as elsewhere is suited today only for similar uses, and for economic reasons a sufficient stand of the various forms of wild life should be preserved. As many forms of wild life are migratory in their habits, international appreciation and protection is necessary to fully accomplish the desired end. To the settler, especially, the food provided by fish and game is of considerable importance, as it is in many rural communities today. The recreational value of hunting and fishing is very great and also results in some of the finest contacts and friendships between men. The preservation of the beaver skins in controlling forest fires and navigating small streams.

Today we are taught that it is not only necessary to provide for absolute needs and the economic welfare of ourselves and our country, but that we should equip ourselves for deriving from life the opportunities for happiness; those qualities of citizenship and cultural attainments that enrich human life. And so today, on the part of many people there is a sentiment that is ever deepening because we are learning to appreciate them for what they are in beauty of form, plumage, song and other attributes; and if this Province or any country is to adequately provide for the future as well as offer our own people and those who visit with us the opportunities for intimate understanding and appreciation, sanctuaries must be systematically provided.

SUPER-LINERS

We now have a superproposal for super-liners. A former head of the United States Lines wants the government to build two "super-cabin liners" that would beat anything afloat or anything now under construction in size, capacity, and speed. Each of these huge twins would have a displacement of 100,000 tons, and would be a quarter of a mile long, 144 feet wide, and accommodate 10,000 passengers in first-class style. They would cost only $100,000,000.

None of the super-liners already built by various nations in this race for size and grandeur are making a profit. Most of them are operated at an enormous loss. The French Normandie loses $6,000,000 a year. The United States itself lost so much money on its big ships that it felt obliged to lay them down. There seems to be nothing in this game except prestige. And what good is prestige when expressed in red ink.

Sensible travellers prefer smaller ships, and the trend of ocean passenger business is in that direction. On a reasonably sized vessel of the traveller knows he's on a ship at sea, and has all the appropriate sensations and experiences. On a craft like those proposed, except for the satisfaction of talking about it afterward, he might just as well be shuttled on a floating dock or living on the tenth floor of a sea-side hotel.

Mrs. B. W. Lyons, of Delhaven, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. R. K. Newcombe, at Weymouth North, left on Thursday of last week for New York to meet Capt. Lyons, who was due there in one of the Canadian Government steamers.

"THE CIRCUS" WILL BE IN WEYMOUTH

Two Hours of Fun and Laughter To Be Enjoyed—Proceeds for Athletic Association.

"The Circus," a comedy show with circus background, is to be presented by the Weymouth Athletic Association, January 9-10, at the Community Theatre in Weymouth. The entire cast is comprised of local talent, including the persons, animals (and freaks); the show is extremely unusual in type. Portraying as it does the trials and tribulations connected with running a circus in an amusingly exaggerated way. Suppose there comes a time in your life where you are obliged to raise $10,000 in a few hours. Will you know how to do it? Not unless you see the Circus, and like the method made popular yet not plausible in this screamingly funny show.

Joan Welsh, director of the Circus, arrived in town Tuesday afternoon and is pleased with the way the organization and local people welcomed the whole production and their intention of making it a rip-roaring success. She reports the show is a popular affair in other towns which she has played in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, and Weymouth is in for a real treat when the show comes off, with George Taylor as circus owner; Roberta Rand, peanut vendor; Evelyn Melanson, the dancer; Baden Powell, Sir Peter Van Mildew, who goes in for circus life in the big way, and is chased by the ferocious bear; Edson, then there is Louise Melan, Claire Ruggles, Fletcher Bartlett, Robert Brooks, Mrs. Gertrude Harris, Katherine Blackadar, Mr. Hallett, Louise Melan, Laddie Jones, Galey Pierce, Willis Mullen, Jos. Melanson and Richard Taylor, all making up the main cast, beside the eight lovely chorus dancers, eight joy-bringing clowns, eight members of the German Band, along with the fire-eater, sword swallower, strong man, Rajah, the Magician, Gula-Hula, Jancer, Siamese twin, man on the flying trapeze, the donkey, and the lion. The name of the show, "The Circus," performers will be announced later, so, friends: just reserve the 9th and 10th of January. You can't miss the Circus. The only difference between this circus and Al Barnes' is the price; on all this for your admission fee and there are many laughs, and all your old friends will be there, too. The circus, matinee is Thursday afternoon, Jan. 9th, at 4.15; each kiddie gets a free Arctic Bar. He leaves the theatre after the show.

H. H. Syds spent the week-end in Saint John.

Obituary

Howard A. Merritt

Word has been received by friends in Digby of the passing of Howard A. Merritt, 78-year-old resident of Holliston, Mass. The deceased, who was born in Granville, lived for some time in Digby where he conducted a bakery; later he went to sea as a ship's steward, and 32 years ago moved to the United States. At Digby he became a member of King Solomon Lodge, A. F. and A. M. After moving to Holliston he was for many years janitor of St. Andrew's School, and was a member of the Baptist church and Mt. Hollis Lodge, A. F. and A. M. in that town. He is survived by his wife; three sons and five daughters, namely, Frank H. Merritt, of Worcester, Mass.; Rev. I. Morris Merritt, of Etta, N. H.; and A. Merritt Merritt, of Holliston; Mrs. Chas. Thayer, Mrs. George Bruce and Mrs. Charles Sears, of Hockvale; Mrs. A. Merritt Robinson, of Worcester; and Mrs. Harold Goodrich, of Erie, Pa., also one brother, Willard, of Nauck, and one sister, Mrs. Norman Sully, of Bear River.

Mrs. Harold Sully, the former (Miss Veta McHugh) was "at home" on Thursday, Jan. 2nd, from 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 to 10 in the evening for the first time since her marriage in September at her home in Smith's Cove. Receiving with Mr. Sully were his mother, Mrs. Fred McHugh, and mother-in-law, Mrs. A. D. Sully. The rooms were very prettily arranged with Christmas decoration and, as is usual in the dining room, were Miss Kaye McHugh, Miss Louise McHugh and Miss Mary Elizabeth Sully. Little Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Weir, attended the party.

There will be a short special meeting of the Children's Aid Society, in the town hall this afternoon at 4.30 for the purpose of discussing details in connection with "The Circus". Those who are not members of the executive or of the society, but are interested in the work and are anxious to help in any way are asked to attend. A full attendance of executive members is requested.

P. E. DuVernet and bride have returned to their home in Ottawa, after spending the past two weeks with the former's parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. DuVernet at Bonnie Brae.

CALLER FOR SCHOOL, FINDS HE IS DEAD

When Mrs. Frank A. Lawrence, of Portland, Maine, formerly Catherine L. Skillings, a former resident of Digby, called her second oldest son, Leonard Francis, aged 14, for school on Friday morning last, she found him dead.

Dr. W. J. T. Skillings, said death had set in probably about five hours before and was, due to a fractured skull, Leonard died early Thursday night complaining of a sharp pain in his head.

He had been skating on Old Joe's Pond Wednesday and fell, striking his head a severe blow. He was apparently in his usual health Thursday until the early evening.

He was one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence and was a freshman at the South Portland high school. Besides his parents he is survived by one sister, Arlene, and four brothers, William, Thomas, Raymond and Harry. His father is a Canadian World War veteran.

SUMMER VISITORS GREAT HELP

As a whole, summer visitors to the Digby district are "a church-going people" and take a great interest in the work of the church and community, remarked Dr. T. W. Hodgson, pastor of Grace United Church, Digby, at the annual meeting of the official board of that church, held at the parsonage on Thursday evening of last week. Dr. Hodgson went on to say that the visitors were always willing to help, not only by attending church services, but in other ways, and told of a group in Bay View, one of the charges of the Digby church, who last summer, through their own efforts, raised $100 for the church in that village, by means of a "sale". The Treasurer's statement, read at this meeting, revealed the church, which started the year of 1935 free of debt, finished with a deficit of $245. This, however, was largely due to repairs made to church property during the year and in spite of being "in the red" the church's year was regarded as a successful one.

The date for the annual congregational meeting was set for January 21st. At this meeting the representatives from the congregation to the church board will be elected. It is also hoped that the church "birthday party" held in conjunction with the annual meeting, will help reduce the church debt.

THE CIRCUS COMING TO TOWN

"The Circus," an amateur play, staged by local talent and under the direction of a director from the Theatre Arts Guild, will be presented under the auspices of the Digby Children's Aid Society, in the town hall on the 29th and 30th of this month. This play has been successfully staged at Sackville, Kentville, Weymouth and other points in the Maritime provinces in recent weeks, and all press accounts are high in its praise.

The annual meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses will be held on Friday, January 17th, at 8 o'clock, p. m., in the Court House. All welcome.

Two Corrections—Two unfortunate errors were made in last week's Courier. First in mentioning a New Year's eve party reported at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hayden, Tea Cup Inn, it was Mr. and Mrs. Lorin Hayden who entertained a number of their young friends at Dunn's Hall, at this delightful party.

Mrs. Frank Hayden presided at the piano. The second was when our Barton correspondent reported that the storm prevented services in the Barton churches on the previous Sunday. Rev. M. C. Higgins, of the Baptist church, telephoned us that there was service in his church and a good Sunday School, and asked us to say so.

SHOWER AT GRANVILLE FERRY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Eaton was a scene of gaiety on Friday evening last when a number of the residents of the village met to give Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eaton an expression of the good wishes of the people of Granville Ferry, and present them with a shower of gifts; also to welcome Mrs. Eaton (Miss Mary, Moir, of Halifax), to the village. The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion by Mrs. Leander Oliver and Mrs. Gordon Mills. The dining room was very lavishly decorated with colored streamers of pink and white, and a beautiful wedding cake made by Moirs, Limited, Halifax, made a very attractive centre piece for the table. After the gifts had been opened a social hour was spent.

Everlin VanTassel spent Christmas with friends in Tiverton.

Marriages

Cummings—Dexter

A delightful event took place on Monday, December 29th, when Eva Gladys, daughter of Mrs. Carolyn Dexter and the late Harry Dexter, of East Brenton, Yarmouth County, was united in marriage to Lawrence William Cummings, of Truro, at the United Church parsonage, by Rev. Harold Tankin-on. The bride was given away by Major Campbell of Yarmouth, and the groom was supported by Vernon Dexter, of Boston, brother of the bride. The ceremony was assisted by the bride's maternal uncle, a colored brewer and sold, still, fire, with hat and accessories to match. After the wedding dinner the happy couple left for Saint John where they spent a couple of days, and then left for Truro where they visited Mr. Cummings' parents, returning via Digby and passing through to Yarmouth where they will reside.

Marsters—Daniels

A quiet wedding took place at the residence of Rev. A. J. Prosser, on the evening of January 2nd, when Wanjeta Pearl Daniels, Middleford, was united in marriage to George Wilfred Marsters, of Deep Brook. The bride was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Penry Silver, Deep Brook.

Clyde Nunn, resident, and from the New England Alumni Association of Acadia by the vice-president, Dr. J. S. MacGregor. All these are native Nova Scotians, now prominent in Massachusetts. PUBLIC OPINION

Public opinion has been defined as "what the majority of people think on a given subject or question." This definition would be acceptable if all people expressed exactly what they think. But the majority do not think. They accept without investigation what they are told; they hope without reasoning; they do without considering; they follow because they are pleased.

What they favor one day they repudiate the next; what they oppose today they accept tomorrow.

Public opinion in this country is the most changeable characteristic of the people, threatening the stability of the country's fundamental law, its institutions and economic policies, because, behind public opinion there is not the individual thought necessary to give it soundness and permanence.

Some years ago an advertising man coined the phrase: "A drop of ink makes millions think." This is a plain slogan, will stampede a political convention or a church conference.

Another thing about those horse and buggy days was that you didn't get associated in the barn while getting Dobbin all set to go.

THE VALUE OF GOOD WILL

Singular it is how we prize almost everything but good-will. We stand on our rights. We believe that self-preservation is the first law of nature. We argue that economy is a prime requisite of success, that a certain amount of high pressure is a mark of salesmanship, and that if we don't look out for ourselves nobody else will take care of us.

All of which may be sound in business and may be indispensable if we would obtain a reasonable degree of success. Probably we should never abandon any of those general principles, but we surely must not overlook one more thing of priceless value—good-will.

What people think of us, what they say of us, how much they like us, is of the greatest importance. We may practise all of the principles that we have mentioned, and still fall short of being successful as business people, as kind fellow-citizens, as good neighbors.

The dentist, the grocery clerk, the automobile salesman may and do frequently irritate and offend and disgust one who comes into their places of business, simply because of the fondness for argument. They will invariably embark upon a harangue about politics or some other mooted subject and lose the good will of that one.

The most successful and the most liked person that others deal with is the one who knows how to take a snub with a smile; who can ignore or forget an insult; who keeps right on in a good-natured way when others ignore common courtesy; who is willing to overlook, forget, forgive, condone, and pardon the bristling faults of others and all of their abuses on the ground that good-will is imperative if one would go through life reasonably sweet and successful.

Many a neighborhood quarrel would be averted if people prized good-will a little higher. Many an automobile dealer would sell more cars if he did not stand and argue over a trivial complaint that a dissatisfied customer makes. Many a business man would be much more successful if he were willing to stretch a point. Many an aspirant for public office would not find himself working against the tide if he had not antagonized many persons back through the years when he refused to recognize the priceless values of good-will. The headstrong, self-satisfied person sometimes says: "I don't care what people think."

of him. He does care, or at least he should, if he wants any standing in the community and anything from his fellowmen. Human rights may sometimes be violated, common courtesy ignored, but what of it? Isn't good-will the prize to retain and doesn't that out-top all else in the last analysis?

A person's output of mind, heart, or hand should be of the best, and no matter how much initiative one has, how much originality, how great one's capacity to achieve, unless he can get along with people, unless he strives to build up good-will and hold it, he is handicapped in all dealings with others.

"Motor car, don't grow on bushes" Mussolini has warned his army generals. Maybe not, but we've seen wringing car, picking them off telephone poles.

DRIVING INTELLIGENCE

Professor Amos E. Neyhart, of State College, Pa., has a theory that 65 per cent of motor vehicle fatalities are attributable to "poor driving habits" and that driver tend to continue the driving practice—good or bad—of their teachers. He believes, therefore, that instructing a beginner in good driving habit will make him a safe driver.

Prof. Neyhart conducts a driving course for student of State College High School. In order to be eligible student must meet the state's requirements for learners' permits. His first class of students, taught as individuals, obtained driver's licenses three years ago. In the time since then not one of that group has ever been involved in an automobile crash or mishap. His second class has been driving for two years. There were 24 of them, and to date they have a perfect record.

At the same time, the professor is conducting other experiments. He has found lack of "both perception" to be the cause of many collisions. The driver, unable to judge the speed of oncoming cars with relation to other traffic. If this lack can be discovered and made clear to the driver, it, danger will be minimized.

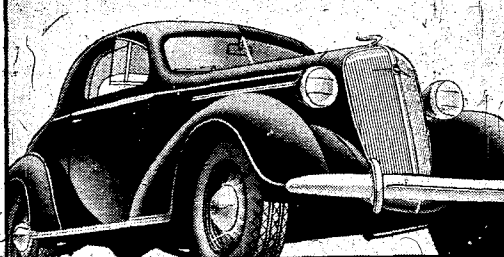

A few more years of such intensively intelligent attacks on a serious problem, and the highway accident menace will begin to vanish.

THE PLIMSOIL MARK

That mark on the side of a ship that looks like the side of a well-known cracker-box, is the Plimsoil mark, or sailor's safeguard, originated by Samuel Plimsoil, of Bristol, England, and adopted by act of parliament to protect insurance companies from dishonest ship-owners who criminally overloaded unsound ships, oversold them and then took to their doom in the seas. Even though sailors have signed articles they cannot be compelled to sail on a ship loaded deeper than this mark. Its position is mathematically accurate, being figured on the form, displacement and cargo-carrying capacity of the ship. It has been adopted by all countries.

AUTOMOBILE ABSTAINERS

Not abstainers from automobile driving—oh, no! The automobile is a boon to our generation, and is here to stay. It has proved itself a blessing to mankind. But it has been pretty well established that the use of the automobile demands absolute sobriety. Not even "moderate" drinking—so-called—will do. There must be abstinence pure and simple on the part of the man (or the woman), who would claim the right to be enthroned at the wheel of a car. Let this great boon become a great bane.

Away in Norway there has been organized a Norwegian Automobilist Abstinence Association—call it: in these days of initials, the N. A. A. A. Its members made a record. They found that they had driven their cars for two years without a single accident. Then they put their heads together and in a body asked the Accident Insurance Companies to give them a rebate on their premiums. Surely they were entitled to it. One company at least said: "Yes, a rebate of ten per cent." Then the N. A. A. A. had another bright idea. "Why not start an Abstinence Insurance Company of our own, with all the members, total abstainers?" And so it happened. That was just a little more than a year ago. In its first year, the income from premiums paid has been $5,612, while claims paid out were only $421. Why should such an organization not spread to Canada, to the United States, to Nova Scotia? Let the watchword be: "Every Automobile Driver a Total Abstinence."

WHEN KIPLING AND T. R. "QUARRELED"

How Rudyard Kipling and Theodore Roosevelt quarreled during an entire luncheon is told by "Winifred Black," are newspaper woman, widely known as Annie Laurie, in an article appropriate for this month's celebration of Kipling's seventieth birthday.

"Mr. Kipling," she says in the Jahuar, "Good Housekeeping," asked a young man if he could arrange for him to meet the Police Commissioner of New York. Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, saying, "Roosevelt is the only man in America I want to meet." The man, arranged a luncheon at the Authors' Club or the Century Club—I forget which.

"Before the three men had been seated five minutes, Roosevelt was pounding the table and telling how thankful he was that he had no English blood in his veins; and Kipling was giving Mr. Roosevelt his full, frank and free opinion of the men, houses, shops, street cars, noises, and particularly the children of America.

"The club was a very conservative one, and the young man who gave the luncheon felt that the board of governors would be asked to deal with him for bringing such loud and quarrelsome people to the sacred precincts of such a dignified institution. When he finally got the two men away, he breathed a very never again to introduce two particular friends of his to each other. But he had scarcely reached his own office when a messenger arrived with a note from Mr. Kipling thanking him for a most delightful hour.

"This man Roosevelt is the first American I have met who has a mind of his own and isn't afraid to speak it," said Mr. Kipling.

"And by the first mail the next morning the young man received a letter from Mr. Roosevelt, who wrote that he had seldom so enjoyed an hour or so. It was a great delight to him, he said, to meet a man with opinions of his own which he was not only able but perfectly willing to defend against all comers."

LINDBERGH'S FLIGHT CAUSED BY YELLOW JOURNALISM

The G-men probably could have given Col. Charles A. Lindbergh all the protection he needed against actual kidnappers. But there apparently is no power on earth which could have protected him against the great American army of cranks, Paul Pry's, and blab, every-day Peeping Toms.

It would be a mistake to suppose that he fled to England merely because of the fear of kidnapping—although, all things considered, you couldn't blame him if he had.

For the Lindbergh kidnapping is only a surface reflection of something that goes deeper—the simple, obvious fact that the United States has not learned how to give its public men civilized treatment.

Americans have forced Lindbergh to live in a glass house with the flashlight, turned on. They have kept long-armed, swivel-necked Peeping Toms grinning over his shoulder every second. They have had a camera eye peering at him out of every crevice. His life's most solemn and lonely moments—his home-coming, the death of his child—have been lived to the tune of clicking shutters.

Our neighbors to the south may, just as well be honest about this business. It was yellow journalism—the desire for the spotlight on the part of small-time politicians—and cheap politics—as much as anything, which drove Lindbergh out of America.

A short time ago certain newspapers decided they wanted a picture of the Lindbergh child, Jon. Their camera-men lay in ambush for the Lindbergh car, forced the driver to slow down, jabbed a camera against the window, photographed the child—and, presumably, went away highly pleased with themselves.

But that stunt only capped the climax. The Lindbergh kidnapping itself was turned into a field day for those who like to look through win-

Toast Tip

Spread Crosby's Gold Star Molasses thinly over buttered toast, sprinkle with cinnamon, and heat in oven until the molasses bubbles. It's delicious!

CROSBY'S GOLD STAR MOLASSES

The Hauptmann trial was a three-ring circus.

What a picture! Cheap politicians, editors who disgrace the name of journalism, backed by a whole army of cranks, psychopaths, open-mouthed nit-wits and plain, ordinary people—that mob has been at Lindbergh's elbow every minute for years. The wonder is, not that he has at last moved to England, but that he didn't go ravine mad long ago.

American society has inflicted on Lindbergh the greatest wrong any society can inflict on any man. It has completely robbed him of his privacy, his right to live an ordinary life behind the four walls of his home. And his tragic, despairing flight for sanctuary abroad is a searing comment on the quality of United States civilization.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

CHARACTER STUDIES

With a selftimer on your camera, you can make "character" snapshots of yourself.

Did you ever stop to think that all of us have had a desire at some time to be a stage or screen star? Don't it seem to you that it is still true that we like to see ourselves in pictures—although it may be just a snapshot?

Way down deep in everybody's nature is that feeling that we have certain points of similarity to some noted actor or actress. Then too there are certain facial expressions that we have cultivated which seem always to amuse our friends.

Now if you want to convince yourself of your ability—or failure—as a comedian or a tragedian you can do so quite effectively with your own camera. Put yourself in pictures.

Few properties are needed for these personal, informal character snapshots. Special costumes are not always necessary, for in many instances it will be the facial expression that tells the story. In the two pictures shown here, however, the costume plays a rather important part. A burnt cork, sharpened to a point, will help accentuate the features of the character you wish to portray.

You may find it difficult to hold a certain expression for more than a few seconds so have your camera man have his camera properly focused, and ready to shoot before you "go into character."

Suppose that you want to experiment with the idea by yourself. You can take your own picture. How? Use a self timer. A self timer is an expensive gadget but the over the end of the button on the cable release of a folding camera. It is adjustable so that you can set it to give you as much as 30 seconds to take your position before your camera and control your face into character and then—snap—and you have your picture. So the camera shutter have a built-in self timer so if you have one of these models and haven't used this feature now's your chance.

These snaps can be taken outdoors or indoors by well lighted windows or at night with two or three floodlight lamps. With floodlight lamps, however, it will be necessary to use a camera with an f.6.3 or faster lens. The shutter speed in this instance should be set at 1/25 second. Set the diaphragm at f.6.3.

You will find this type of snapshotting a lot of fun and it will help you while away many hours during the cold winter days and nights when outdoor activities are none too pleasant.

Consisting of music and readings, which was much enjoyed by the older folk. Two very interesting readings in "Scotch Dialect" given by John D. Harrow, were much enjoyed, adding much to the program.

Civil Wars in Abyssinia

The internal political history of the so-called Empire of the Negus is rich in episodes, and events which illustrate the state of disorganization and civil anarchy of the country, the incapacity of the chiefs, and the intolerance of the great feud holders towards any stable form of government.

When it is stated that the political system in Abyssinia is still on a feudal basis, one is reminded of the notorious civil wars amongst the personal states in the Middle Ages, when the potentate made war against each other to acquire supremacy and the battle was taken up by regions, families and individuals. It is in this state that Abyssinia has lived during the past centuries, and even during the last hundred years there is sufficient evidence to justify the statement that the country has been in a permanent state of civil war.

It is worth recalling that, even the reign of the most potent Abyssinian Monarch, Ja-si I the Great, in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, was weakened towards the end by internal discord. The Negus' own son, Tachelamaot, turned against him, declared war on him and finally killed him in order to seize the power. A government born of such acts could not be just or tranquil. In fact, the successor of Ja-si I, fearful of plots against the throne, killed his sister and his own son, Sochin, and the Governor of the Semien, and cut off the right arm of the rebel chief of the Amara according to the Abyssinian custom of war. In spite of these precautionary measures, one province, Danot, rebelled, followed later by Lasta and Behemeder. Two pretenders to the throne, Ezkias, son of the Negus Jacob, and Tacle, a natural son of Ja-si I, headed plots against the ruler. All these revolts were ferociously suppressed.

On the death of the Emperor in 1750, the country was in ruins. The great province of Seioa, which had always been one of the richest jewels of the crown, had declared its autonomy, as had the province of Tigrai. The central provinces were in an endemic state of disorder. As soon as his successor, Ja-si II, came to the throne, he had to suppress a revolt of his own courtiers, during which he was besieged in the palace at Gondar for more than a week. The partisan policy of the Negus towards the Galla peoples alienated the other tribes, so that when he died in 1766 he left but a sad inheritance to his son, Ja-si I, on his accession to the Imperial throne, became virtually a prisoner of the potent Prefect of the palace by whom he was finally deposed and hung. Thus, to plot against and depose the sovereign was merely the normal course of events, and it is easy to imagine the effect of these conditions on the country and the people.

From that time on, an oblique regime was established in Ethiopia in which the Negus became a mere figurehead under the sway of the powerful Ras. The history of the empire thus became implicit with that of the provinces where feudal chiefs pursued whatever policy they pleased without regard to the central authorities which were practically nonexistent. They raided and subjected tribes which had nothing to do with Abyssinian proper. It should be recalled that, in the meantime, numerous missionaries had entered the country in an attempt to bring a message of peace and goodwill to which, in general, they received but poor thanks. Many of these men met with their death, amongst whom was the Apostolic Prefect, Padre Liberato, in the 18th century. Padre Rivarola was made a slave. Padre Remedio of Bohemia was banished. Padre Ignazio Ballarini was massacred, and many of their companions suffered the same fate.

It was only toward the middle of the last century that the long period of internal wars which had devastated Abyssinia, came to an end—though not for ever. A daring warrior, the son of a peasant, led a victorious campaign against the feudal chiefs which culminated in the defeat and imprisonment of the Emperor Menen. He was the Ras Kassa-Hailu, and was finally proclaimed Emperor under the name of Theodore II. He seemed at first to be a wise monarch and was responsible for the re-organization of the Empire on a fairly solid basis; but such power was too much for him, the son of the "cusho" seller, and he became despotic and cruel. His brutality was horrifying; he had the guardian of the prisons in which the deposed royal princes were held, flayed alive and his skin hung on a tree, because he refused to deliver his prisoners. After having defeated Abeto Saifu at Seioa, he seized Amodeo and massacred everyone who took sanctuary in the churches, cutting off the right hand and left foot of 50 prisoners. Twenty-four Galla chiefs, were thrown from the rock of Magdala. Four hundred nobles of Amara were thrown naked into a pit and left to die of hunger. Even foreigners were not secure from his thirst for blood. In 1861 the English Consul, Plowden was killed, and further outrages persuaded England to put an end to this diabolical reign. An expedition of Indian troops was sent into Abyssinia and defeated the Negus, who, rather than be taken prisoner, killed himself in 1868.

Until the accession of Menelik II. (1890), Abyssinia never had a stable government, and the quarrels between the various chiefs who attempted to seize the throne, and foreign wars were seriously weakening the country. Menelik II, like the cunning Theodore in his early days, was an energetic king, and under him, a cost of vast bloodshed, Abyssinia acquired vast territories beyond her natural boundaries. After his reign various contacts were established in Europe. When he died in 1913 he left no direct heir, and his work of reconstruction was already being undermined by some of the powerful chiefs. He was succeeded by his nephew, Lijass, son of a Muscovite, who was too young to be able to govern with justice and wisdom; the coup d'état of 1916 dethroned him and his place was taken by the Emperor Zauditu, who associated himself to Ras Tafari, the present emperor.

In spite of the introduction of various reforms, and the civilizing influence of the foreign colonies bordering on Ethiopia, the present emperor has still had various rebellions to deal with. First, Ras Gussa-Olie, ex-husband of the Empress, who was killed in battle; then the coup d'état of September, 1928; then the revolt of the Ras of Gogjam and that of the ex-emperor, Lijass, who escaped from prison. It is also said that, in order to eliminate all rival claimants, the Empress Zauditu was poisoned in 1930 by order of the emperor. Today anarchy is still rampant amongst the frontier tribes.

This, in short, is the history of Ethiopia, a history made up of the bloodshed and rivalry which are innate in the history of the ambitious chiefs. All this but confirms that the peace of the country and civilization cannot be achieved by internal effort alone, but must come from other sources—but whether the Italians, a nation of slaves to Fascism, are the proper ones to do the work or not is a debatable question.

AMAZON IS KING OF RIVERS

The Amazon is the king of rivers. From first to last it receives more than 1,200 tributaries, of which more than 100 are large-size rivers which rise so far apart and have their floods and ebbs in such different seasons, that the Amazon, at about the same height, the year round. At some points, on its lower course, one bank is invisible from the other. The beholder seems to be looking on a great yellow sea of fresh water. Its mouth, including that of the Para, is 180 miles in width, and it is navigable for large-sized ocean steamers for 1,000 miles from the sea. So vast is the flood that the ocean is tinged yellow for 100 miles from the coast of Brazil. While all around it is salt water, this yellow sea within a sea is fresh water.

A good disposition and some common sense have it all over a pretty ankle and red fingernails when it comes to marriage.

Weymouth Electric Rate is Reduced

A rate schedule, providing a substantial reduction to a large majority of consumers of electric energy supplied by the Weymouth Electric Commission, was approved in a decision filed by the Public Utilities Board this week.

In its application the commission stated it was willing to forego the statutory return of 8 per cent permitted under the Public Utility Act, and of passing any benefits resulting to the consumer. The commission did not submit any schedule but requested that the rate structure be set up by the Board.

The new rate schedule is made up as follows: service charge, 3 cents per month; per 100 square feet of floor area. Energy charge, 7 cents per kw-hr for the first 3 kw-hr per month per 100 square feet of floor area, and 4 cents per kw-hr in the second block.

Fishermen Rescued After 30 Hours in Small Boat

Like two men returned from the dead, Ashton and Atwood Lewis, two young Centreville fishermen, arrived at Centreville about 7:30 o'clock Friday night, aboard the C. G. S. Dillard. Their little, but stout, 28-foot open fishing boat was in tow of the steamer. Their boat contained the results of their labors, the getting of which almost cost the young men their lives. They had between 800 and 900 pounds of fish.

The boys left Centreville about noon on Thursday. During the middle of the afternoon the condenser on their craft gave out, and struggling to make repairs and using their lights, soon ran their battery down.

On their failure to return Thursday night, other Centreville fishermen became alarmed, and Elwin Lewis, brother of Ashton, set out in his boat in search of his brother and cousin. He was unable to find them, but the two boys have told that they heard his engine, which sounded very near, that night.

Friday morning gale boats and other boats from Centreville set out, some were forced to return early in the day, while others remained out in the stormy water, until 4 o'clock that afternoon. One of the last boats to return was the scallop, operated by Cecil Daking, on board of which was Elwin Lewis. The big 50-foot scallop operated by Albert Peters, underwent a harrowing experience during the search when a huge wave took the craft almost under, and was held away, the light.

The big storm, fortunately for the boys, blew offshore. It started on Thursday night and continued all day Friday, reaching its full height about noon, when the wind drove heavy rains before it, reached almost hurricane force. That the small boat rode out this terrible gale seems nothing short of a miracle. When the last boats returned to Centreville no hope was held for the safety of the boys.

The C. G. S. Dillard, on duty at the Bay of Fundy, had been willed to join in the search. Shortly after 5 o'clock the boys saw the smoke of the steamer. They filled a bucket with gasoline, set it on top of the pilot house, and with one of the two matches, they had lit, ignited it, and the flame and smoke attracted the Dillard.

Many times during the day the seas more than half-filled the small boat and kept the two boys busy pumping and bailing. Early during the storm the water extinguished the fire in their small galley stove in the pilot house, and with nothing dry on board with which to start a fire, with only two matches left, it was useless to attempt it. Both the anchors they threw out to hold the craft were lost.

When they were rescued they were approximately fifteen miles, straight off from Centreville. They arrived back tired, cold and hungry, but otherwise none the worse for their experience.

JUNIOR FIRE DEPARTMENT FORMS HOCKEY CLUB

The young "Smoke Eaters" of Fire Chief Harry Hersey's Junior Fire Department, have formed a hockey team with the following lineup: Goal, Arthur Goullet; Defense, Bernard Baxter, Gerald Mice; Forwards, Kenneth Raymond, Louis Theriault, Frank Raymond; Sub., Edward Baxter, Frank Handspiker, Vernon Robichaud.

The Misses Dorothy and George Snow of Lunenburg, have been visiting their parents, Capt. and Mrs. J. E. Snow. Miss Dorothy returned to Lunenburg on Saturday.

BAND NOTES

The Digby Civic Band is just beginning its fourth year of study with an active membership of forty, in addition to a Junior Band of two sections. The section recently started includes a number of ladies, who are proving very adept, the more industrious ones having made splendid progress because of their diligence in home practice. It is planned to combine the two sections of Junior-son. Young people who like music have made a mistake in not joining the band and getting a good start almost without cost. It is not too late for any ambitious person to start now and catch up with the others by a little extra work.

Efforts begun last fall to start an "Instrument and Uniform Fund" were generously met by scores of contributors. Over half the required amount is yet to be raised, but a special "Uniform Fund" has been started with a small bank deposit, and it is hoped that uniforms can be obtained for the summer work. Digby will then have a band second only to those in the province in appearance, playing ability and fine instruments.

Dozens of letters to instrument dealers in Canada and the States with a persistent search everywhere, have enabled the Music Council to obtain, at a remarkably low figure, three beautiful instruments in place of old and battered ones. These include a monster silver Sousaphone, a Boosey bass trombone and a Boosey tuba—the latter two instruments in good lacquer finish. It is the director's ambition to give this band the finest base section in the country. It is almost that now, but another Sousaphone in place of a smaller tuba now in use will be necessary for perfect balance.

The best bands everywhere are giving a great deal of vocal music with their instrumental selections. Vocal training, sight-singing, and breath control are of vital importance to all players of wind instruments; indeed it has been asserted that a person who can't sing well can't be a good bandman. At their concerts, loud applause greeted every number where the bandmen sang a part. The boys sing quite well, and have passed the "Sweet Adeline" stage, but want to go further. They had a prelude, preliminary, drill last Monday night, by Prof. Morse, who very kindly offered to give them a start. It is hoped that they will arrange for a continuance of the "Singing Skew". They will profit greatly by it.

Preparations are well under way for an extraordinary "Popular Concert" in the middle of February. It will be "popular" in its low price of admission and its splendid program of all new music of the kind that everybody will enjoy—and want to hear again.

STAMP OUT THE SLOT MACHINE

"How much longer are the authorities of Digby going to tolerate the slot machine and other gambling devices?"

The above is one of the many questions in reference to the subject we have heard during the past few weeks. Better-thinking citizens of the town are getting very indignant over the matter—and rightly so.

They know that hundreds—yes, and even thousands—of nickels go into these machines each week. We have been informed on good authority that over one week end one party played the machines to the tune of $17; another known to be receiving help from the municipality appears to be able to afford to pay the machines. We do not know, but have been told, and have good reason to believe, that certain news-makers make a few cents selling papers, by putting a bit portion of their earnings into the machines.

There are several of these machines in the town and municipality. It is time that action was taken, but the authorities seem to sit idly by and let these devices operate openly. Operators should be given twenty-four hours to dispose of their machines—and should they be on display after that period of grace, they should be seized and destroyed; their contents, confiscated and a heavy fine imposed on the operators. It is high time we were getting action to stamp out this menace which should not even be honored by naming it as gambling, because it is just a plain steal.

Other towns and cities in the province have sought action against them—and are getting it. A few weeks ago practically every restaurant in Halifax operated one or more; today they are not in evidence. Citizens of Amherst protested, ma-

Municipal Council in Session

J. Vian Andrews, Warden of the Municipality of Digby, who is a strong prison farm advocate, expressed his views on the subject in his address at the opening of the January session Tuesday afternoon. He said there are those in the Municipality who are dodging their responsibilities. Men marry, he said, have two or more children, then forsake their families, and it is up to the Municipality to keep them; there is a class that expects to live partly "off" the Municipality—they starve their families until they receive payment, claiming that it is no work for them. "These problems are facing us all the time," said the Warden, "and are problems that can only be solved by a prison farm."

Commenting on the financial situation of the Municipality during the year just passed, the Warden stated in his address that considerable improvement had been shown, although bills for outside poor had increased to $500 and out-of-pocket charges amounted to $1,000. However, the outstanding bill, which gives the Municipality the most concern is the Nova Scotia Hospital bill for insurance premiums, which amounts to some $15,000.

In the afternoon the report of the auditors, Belyea & McNeil, was received and accepted. Among the important things, this report shows the Municipality's bank overdraft of over $12,400 had been reduced at the end of the year to $2,400. The report shows the actual deficit for the year as $2,196.

Mr. Pugh, of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was present and requested that a grant of $100 be made that institution.

Wednesday's Session
Hot arguments—as some of our correspondents would say—were the order of the day at Wednesday's sessions of the council. For the most part, these arguments, centred around matters pertaining to assessment.

Thomas Denton, constable, who has been collecting taxes by warrant within the municipality, appeared before the council to give his report. He also made a tender to collect $40,000 taxes for the municipality before November 1, 1936, for the sum of $15,000, and amounts above $40,000 pro rata.

Some of the council stormed and raged. One or two even threatened to hand in their resignations should the Municipality agree to accept Mr. Denton's proposition to become sole tax collector for the Municipality. The matter was temporarily shelved by being handed over to the assessment committee, and will come up for further discussion later in the session.

E. B. Pugh, of Westport, chairman of the Board of Revision and Appeal, appeared before the council and announced that the board of revisors could not accept the assessment roll without further explanation from the assessors.

Mr. Pugh explained that the action of the board was due to the heavy reductions of assessment in all but two of the twelve sections of the municipality. After discussion, he was instructed to interview the various assessors and report back to the council.

Reports presented at this session included the report of the keeper of the Alms House; the report of the committee on Tenders and Public Property; and the report of A. L. Robbins, agent for the Children's Aid Society.

The Alms House report told of improvements to the water system at that institution by deepening and widening the upper well, and by building a new house over both the well and reservoir. The water supply at the alms house is now said to be the best and most plentiful in years. The report also told of double boarding the fences, and other minor improvements. The sheeting of the walls of the insane ward to a height of six or eight feet was recommended due to the fact that inmates in this ward had done considerable damage by digging holes in the plaster and lath.

The Tenders and Public Property report was tabled for further discussion. The report of Mr. Robbins was well received. He requested that the annual grant of $300 be made the society. A mover and seconder were found for this request, but an amendment was made to reduce the grant to $200. When put to vote the motion carried, only the mover and seconder voting for the amendment.

Reports to the exterior of the Court House were also discussed but no action was taken.

Appointments made at this session were as follows:

Medical Health Officer—Dr. H. J. Pether, Westmouth.
Jail Physician—Dr. John R. McClellan, Digby.

Solicitor—H. A. Nichols, Digby.

H. B. Campbell, superintendent of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Maritime Division, Halifax, was admitted and addressed the Council, requesting a grant of $100. His request will be considered later.

Immediately after resuming business, in the afternoon the request of John T. Comeau again came up for further discussion, but no definite action was taken on the request on Tuesday.

Simon Comeau, J. P., came before the council with a proposition to collect school taxes. The Council, however, did not intend to discuss the matter of the request. After some discussion his suggestion was rejected.

The Poor Assylum report and the Health Officer's report, by Dr. P. E. Belliveau, were laid on the table.

Coun. Denis d'Entremont, deputy warden, was elected unanimously as delegate to the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities, which meets in Lunenburg during the first week in September.

The remainder of the afternoon was employed in disposing of the correspondence received by the secretary-treasurer.

BOMBING OPEN SPACE

When Mussolini began his war preparations, the rest of the world was inclined to agree that the backward Ethiopians would be no match for the modern war planes and tanks the Italians would use against them. There were some observers, however, who realized that planes require massed targets to be effective, and that the small villages and mountain hide-outs of the Ethiopians did not furnish them.

This has proved to be the case. It is reported that the natives have got over their first terror and are amused at the thought of the heavy cost of every great bomb dropped on their soil. An example is a raid made by thirteen planes on a straw-hatched village. From more than 200 bombs, the only casualty was a wounded chicken. At another place 800 bombs were dropped, two of them more than six feet long, with six human casualties. After those two attacks, an Ethiopian chieftain laughed and said:

"The more they bomb us, the better we like it. We are not afraid of them; they do no military damage, and no property damage, and we are wasting money, of which we know Italy has a lot. And they should know that airplanes are not effective only where troops are fixed. Our troops are not massed. I even bomb hit a soldier. The Italian would have to drop 2,000,000 bombs to destroy us. And I know of an actual instance where one plane dropped 22 bombs in an unsuccessful effort to hit one soldier."

War is destructive and costly under any circumstances, but Italy's folly is a bit more obvious than usual.

What pleasant election campaigns we might have if every orator were given a shot of truth serum before being permitted to make a speech.

WE ARE PARTNERS ALL

We may be inclined to think that each of us is a law unto himself in all interests and relations. It is not true. None of us lives by himself. We are partners all. We share each other's joy, disappointment, sorrow. We are the beneficiaries when others succeed. We are the losers when others meet with adversity.

We climb the scale to greater heights of attainment when others are moving up. We go down with others when despair and defeat overtake them. If they succeed it is because we lot them succeed. If they fail we can trace the reasons back to various causes. And we very often share in the responsibility.

Human society is a collection of individuals, a group united by an endless chain which can be no stronger than its weakest link. As team-work is required in a good football team, and one player can make or break the entire eleven, so can one individual or set of individuals bring honor or disgrace to the community or the national life.

Family life has been developed on the basis of mutual helpfulness toward one another. As partners, helping each other working for the happiness and best interests of all, each member of the family may uphold the family name so that it is honored and respected; likewise one member of the family by indiscretions may bring an otherwise good family name down into the mire, and every member of the family may suffer.

As partners, we own the country. The government is ours. The railroads that span the continent belong to us. The national debt is a responsibility that belongs to the public. The libraries, the schools, the courts, all. They are ours. They serve us, and we owe them the attitude we show toward them and their indispensable place in the community life.

Capital supplies the financial resources necessary to public improvements. Labor supplies the shew. But we are all partners, directly or indirectly, in these interests. They belong to us and must be maintained, treasured, used by us, and for the public good. Men talk of government ownership of certain utilities. The term is a misnomer. The government may control, guide, or operate utilities, but it does not own them and cannot do so. We are partners all, and public utilities are the common possession of all.

We are partners in crime in the fullest sense. There is crime because of individual weakness, wrong education, cause laws are too severe or too lenient, but chiefly because we do not recognize that the whole problem is one for everybody to tackle.

As a stream can rise no higher than its fountain, and reforms can rise no higher than the level of public opinion, it is obvious that, as partners, only effective team-work can maintain a safe and sane social order.

Too many men never do a charitable act unless there is somebody around to applaud.

HEALTH IN HAWAII

The Territory of Hawaii is bragging about something. It might be climate, but is not. The people out there want the rest of us to know that T. H. might stand for "truly healthful" because Hawaii has a low death rate than continental United States and a lower rate than most of the individual states.

"The death rate in the islands population. In the United States is 8.3 persons per thousand of the rate is 11 per thousand. In the year ended June 30, 1935, Hawaii had 443 fewer deaths than in the previous year. At the same time its population showed a normal gain."

The territorial board of health attributes the low and declining mortality rate to general education in health and hygiene. Climate may also have something to do with it, as well as living conditions. At any rate, the Hawaiian health situation sets a good example to this part of North America.

"All men are liars," said David of old; and he learned that without sitting in judgment on a better case.

GOVERNMENT BY WHIM

The Whole World Facing the Old Struggle Between Arbitrary Government and Government By Law.

(New York Herald-Tribune)
The shocking conditions under which the "Non-Aryans" in Germany were already well understood before James G. McDonald made his report as a representative of the League of Nations. He added chapter and verse of what others had previously reported. No true friend of Germany can read his report without profound regret at the realization of the depths to which misguidance and policy has driven the German state.

But less well known is the extent

Kinkora Lady's Intense Pain Relieved by Dodd's
Mrs. Waddell Now Feeling Well Again

Kinkora, P. E. I., January 13 (Special).—I am a farmer's wife, 25 years of age, with three small children," writes Mrs. Urban Waddell, of this place. "About six years ago I took a bad attack of kidney trouble. My back was sore and my feet and limbs badly swollen. I suffered intense pain. My husband advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. He brought me a couple of boxes. As soon as I started taking them I got relief. After taking four boxes I had completely recovered."

The experience of so many people has proven Dodd's Kidney Pills, to be a most effective remedy for the relief of backache and kindred ailments which often arise from a faulty kidney condition. Like Mrs. Waddell, at the first sign of kidney trouble, turn with confidence to Dodd's Kidney Pills, the favorite remedy for over half a century.

JAPS TO COLONIZE ON AMAZON

For the purpose of sending 20,000 emigrants to the Amazon in Brazil in the next ten years, a $1,500,000 company is to be organized in Tokyo with the direct support of the Overseas Department of Japan. As approved in the last session of the Diet, the new company will take over the Amazon Industrial Institute hitherto owned by Tsukaka Kamitaka, and will be under the direct supervision of the government. At the beginning 400 to 500 emigrants will be sent annually, but the number will be increased gradually. The government will subsidize six per cent interest on capital investment for ten years. All emigrants are to engage in the planting of rice, cotton, and other crops.

to which government in Germany today is a matter of whim rather than law. This point Mr. McDonald has brought out in an "address" to his report. It is significant because the tendency to substitute personal opinion and prejudice for law in world-wide. In an article in the January number of "Foreign Affairs," Professor, Charles H. McIlwain stresses, this point with exceptional skill and forcefulness. What Mr. McDonald found in Germany amply bears out Mr. McIlwain's contention.

The whole world, including the United States, has to face the new version of the old struggle between arbitrary (which means personal) government and government by law. Under various guises—Fascism in Italy, Hitlerism in Germany, communism in Russia, New Dealism in the United States—the tendency is to substitute the wish of the individual agent of government for a law which binds all persons alike. In Germany, as Mr. McDonald indicates, judges are allowed such latitude in the interpretation and application of loosely drawn laws that they are, in fact, guided by their own ideas of what they think the "Fuehrer" would like to have them do. The result is an intolerable injustice and the arbitrary exercise of punishment and of discrimination.

Temperance Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service Council and Temperance Alliance)

AS OTHERS SEE US

Would it not be a strange mix-up in our Christian civilization if we ourselves created the greatest barrier to its extension to other lands? Mahatma Gandhi, that saintly soul of India, who has had wide acquaintance with our Western civilization, and is not altogether opposed to Christianity, said in an interview not long ago, "I would not object if you would turn my son into a Christian, providing he did not bring the white man's whiskey into my home."

"O wad some power the giftie gie us, To see oursel's as others see us! It wad frae mony a blunder free us, An' foolish notion."

Gandhi has done well in the words of the interview to drive home to the heart and conscience of the Western world the appalling inconsistency between the white man's professed allegiance to Jesus Christ and the white man's subservency to King Alcohol. Let us not blame the Oriental mind if it cannot reconcile the profession of a Gospel of Love and the practice of blind selfishness—the liquor, drinking habit, and the liquor selling business will both be seen some day for what they really are, children of blind selfishness. We would save the soul of India with our Gospel, and that is well. But India would save its own soul from the blight of the liquor evil which give, our Christian civilization a bad name in non-Christian lands. Gandhi and his Oriental cannot reconcile the alcohol evil and Christianity. Well, can you?

Obituary

Mrs. E. L. Currier

On January 5th, Mrs. E. L. Currier passed away at her home in West Gloucester, Mass., at the age of 72. She was formerly Alberta Harris, of Bear River, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Harris. She leaves to mourn their loss, a husband and three sisters, Mrs. E. N. Currier, Mrs. F. Marshall, of West Gloucester, Mass., and Mrs. Theodosia Harris, of Bear River.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD ACTIVITIES OF PAST YEAR

On January 8th the annual meeting of St. John's Guild was held at the home of Mrs. L. V. Harris, with twelve members present. The report of the secretary-treasurer showed 1935 to have been a very busy and profitable year, the outstanding event of which was the opening of the new church on Palm Sunday.

Twenty-two meetings were held during the year, the collections at which reached the high mark of $40.58.

In January an anniversary party was held, the proceeds being used to purchase a carpet for the altar, to match that of the changed. The garden party, though financially below that of the previous year, was still that to be expected, and enabled them to pay off $100 of the $500 note. They had a great loss in the death of Mrs. Leary. She did beautiful needle work and could ill be spared from the small numbers of the Guild.

Early in the year $100 was paid into the funds of the building committee to complete the payments on the new pews.

Usual fruit and flowers were sent to the sick, and at Christmas two boxes were sent and also a number of cards to former members, now away. Mrs. B. C. Clarke was elected president for 1936; Mrs. W. L. vice-president; Mrs. Romans, secretary-treasurer; Altar-Guild—Mrs. L. V. Harris and Mrs. A. M. Simons. It was decided to hold the annual garden party on the second Wednesday in July, as usual.

Plans are being made to rehearse during Lent for a play to be put on during the Easter season.

As funds are rather low at the present time arrangements were made to hold a Saturday night supper—banquet and clam chowder—at the Commercial Hotel, tomorrow (Saturday), January 18.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE PLAN FOR VALENTINE COMMUNITY PARTY

Once each year, the local Institute stage, a Community Party. The memory of the last one, with its amusing features, still lingers in the memory of those attending, and this year's programme equally entertaining features. The committee for arrangements, meets this week, at the home of the president. And the date has been settled for St. Valentine's night. Details will be given later.

Harvey Chisholm spent a few days in Halifax last week.

FIRE DESTROYS GARAGE AND CAR

Late Saturday evening, fire of unknown origin, destroyed the garage and car of Kenneth Apt, who resides on the Dunn Road, a short distance from the Annapolis County side of Bear River. The Apt family had retired for the night, and were awakened shortly after 11 o'clock by an alarm of fire, given by some passer by, who noticed the garage in flames.

The discovery was too late to save the building or its contents, and only the quick response of the Bear River Fire Brigade, saved the barn, separated from the garage by a narrow road, from also being destroyed. Mr. Apt had, until six days ago, been using the car to convey him to his work on the new Pickles house at Upper Clements, but had not used it within that time on account of the heavy snow on the roads in that district, and can assign no cause for the fire.

ST. EDWARD'S SUNDAY SCHOOL CHRISTMAS TREE

The annual Sunday School Christmas tree and treat of St. Edward's Sunday School, Clementsport, was held in Ely Hall on Tuesday last week. It was one of the most successful yet held. The congregation were out in force and showed their interest in the children and their work.

Some 70 sat down to a delicious supper and of this number there were 35 children. Santa Claus came and presented every child with a present, and prizes were given to those who attended the most days and did the best work. The rector, Rev. A. W. L. Smith, congratulated the superintendent and teachers for their excellent work, and appreciation for their work was also shown by the presents on the tree. Every one had an enjoyable time.

The retiring President, Mrs. Roy Spill, was given a hearty vote of thanks for her long and faithful service to the class as its leader, to which Mrs. Spill responded in her usual pleasing manner, adding that she would be "on the job" each month to help with the work of the class. How much more work could be accomplished, if each Philathea member would make that same phrase—"on the job"—a New Year's resolution for herself.

The secretary-treasurer's report, including reports of all standing committees, was given.

After the reports a brief but interesting and amusing program was rendered as follows—

Piano Solo—Miss Louise Harris

Hymn by the Class

A most delicious afternoon tea was served by the committee in charge, with Mrs. S. Sullivan, convenor.

The singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" brought the meeting to a close.

Secretary-Treasurer's Report

The class held 12 monthly, social meetings in 1935 at homes of the members, including the annual class picnic in August at Smith's Cove, with Mrs. C. T. Greene. In March the theme of the evening was "Missions," and the collection was given to our local W. M. S. The class entertained the men of the church at our Mothers' Day meeting. A special programme was given and all enjoyed a social time together while refreshments were served.

On October 2nd, the meeting in the form of a Temperance Night. Mr. J. J. Wallis, of Digby, was our special speaker, and his address was both interesting and helpful. (His topic was "The History of Temperance in Nova Scotia.") Dr. Timpani, of Digby, was also present and were pleased to have him speak to us on the "Ill Effect of Alcohol in the Body." He spoke of a number of experiences he had had while in India as a medical missionary. At this meeting the teachers at Campbell-Oakdene High School were guests.

The meeting, of 1935 was most interesting and inspiring and were well attended, the average attendance being 49, an increase of seven over last year.

The Sick and Visiting Committee, with Mrs. Clarence Morgan convenor, have done excellent work calling on all sick and shut-ins. A total of 324 calls have been made by the committee and members of the class.

The Flower and Cheer Box Committee, Mrs. Burton Harris convenor, had a busy year, sending out 15 boxes of fruit to ill members. The secretary has sent eight cards, or letters of sympathy through the year.

Twenty-five other boxes were sent to members of the church and congregation unable to meet with us at the Sunday service or class socials. For it was with this thought of sending comfort and cheer into the home of the sick and shut-ins that a band of fourteen women met at the parsonage, December 4th, 1935, and organized the Philathea Bible Class, with Mrs. Carl Miller, president, and Mrs. E. J. Barras, class teacher—the fourteen present being the charter members of the class.

It is our wish that more would join the class and all work together, that peace and good will may reign in the hearts of men. This has been our prayer since 1935.

In all our daily task, dear Lord, wherever we may be, Help us to have, deep in our souls, A consciousness of Thee.

Be Thou the very centre of Our thoughts, at work or play, And touching every act of life As lived from day to day.

May we realize the privilege Thou hast given all mankind To be co-workers, Lord, with Thee In the plan Thou hast designed.

Use us where we can truly serve— Dear Lord, here Thou our mission, Helpless, overwhelmed, unfit— we leave The miracle to Thee.

But give us a clear vision of Thy purpose through it all, And willingness to do our bit, And faith to heed Thy call.

Memorial Service.
On Sunday afternoon a memorial service was held for Clavton Holmes, who was lost at sea December 30th, 1935. The service was largely attended and was conducted by Rev. W. B. Crowell, pastor of the Baptist church, who read portions of the 28th and 48th chapters of Isaiah. Hymns sung were: "The Old Rugged Cross," "Crossing the Bar," and "Work for the Night Is Coming."

After the service the congregation proceeded to the end of the wharf and a lovely wreath of flowers, given in his memory, was cast on the water, after which the choir sang, "Shall We Meet Beyond the River."

ISLAND DISAPPEARS AGAIN

Lake Hlung's Island, in Latvia, has disappeared again according to schedule. This is the report received in Riga. It went in the night just as it has done every autumn for years, and the peasants acknowledge that again they failed to see it go. They have watched every autumn but no one has ever seen it disappear nor heard its reappearance in the spring. They made hay on the island during the summer and now are talking over the spot. Scientists say a gas, or substance becomes swollen when heated in the spring and causes a part of the marshy soil at the bottom of the lake to rise. When cold contracts the substance the soil sinks.

DOG MADE POSTMISTRESS

Betty, mascot of the 99th Alpine regiment, garrisoned at Valloire, in Savoy, has been officially appointed postmistress. Betty's duties as postmistress consist of carrying mails between Laus-lez-Jour and the military post of La Turraz up in the snows. Each morning she starts out alone and duly delivers the mails to the lonely garrison on the frontier pass. She carries the letters in a letter bag strapped round her back. Last year Betty was decorated before the entire regiment for having saved the life of an injured kaiser by protecting him with her body for two days and a night as he lay in the snow.

ADDRESS

Royal Bank of Canada
67th Annual Meeting

Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, Sees Upward Trend of Business Definitely Established.

Sydney G. Dobson, General Manager, Reports $50,000,000 Increase in Deposits for Second Year in Succession.

Basis for optimism for the immediate future is to be found in the accomplishment of the past two years, stated Mr. Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, in the course of his address at the 67th Annual Meeting of The Royal Bank of Canada.

"In every province of Canada," said Mr. Wilson, "the improvement in conditions has reduced unemployment and created increased purchasing power. To the farmers of the west, there is an almost immeasurable difference between a price of 40c and 90c for wheat, and there is a corresponding difference in the crop-year, the carryover will be materially reduced. In the cities, the burden and distress due to unemployment have been reduced by an expansion in all lines of manufacturing. In fact, in recent months the volume of manufacturing has exceeded that in the normal base year 1926-7."

Marked expansion in the automobile and allied industries, the chemical industry, in the demand for textiles and boots, were also noted by Mr. Wilson, who pointed out that the sustained activity in the mining industry during the depression and its expansion in 1934-35 have been outstanding elements in Canadian recovery.

Mining

"The payrolls of that industry," said Mr. Wilson, "provided generous wages at a time when many of those employed in other industries were out of work. Without the expenditures of the mining industry for machinery, machines and other items, the depression in Canada would have been much more severe. In spite of low prices and the low level of demand for building materials, the total volume of mineral production in 1935 again amounted to more than $300,000,000. The volume of gold production attained a new high record of $115,000,000. I am of the opinion that the great period in Canadian mineral production is in the future."

Unemployment

"While unemployment has shown some improvement during the past year, unemployment is still a major problem. Relief expenditures constitute a threatening drain upon the resources of many local communities. While recognizing fully our social obligations, I fear that these expenditures have not always been made with due regard to the public interest. The prompt survey of the Dominion Government is awaited with great interest."

Sanctity of Contracts

Referring to the repudiation last year by one of the Provinces of important long-term power contracts, Mr. Wilson said: "The alleged ground was that of illegality, but it is noteworthy that disregarding all ordinary canons of British justice, the aggrieved investors have been denied access to the courts to press their claims. Moral considerations, aside from the fact that they are not to be lightly disregarded—the policy of repudiating contracts that may have become burdensome because of changed conditions strikes at the very root of our social and economic life. Stated in its lowest terms, moreover, repudiation does not pay. In the past we have made heavy sacrifices to build up and maintain our credit abroad. Unless some means can be found to remove the stain, this incident will be a permanent blot upon the fair name of our country."

Provincial Finances

"The financial position of some of our provinces has been the subject of frequent discussions during recent months. Economic conditions in Western Canada, and abnormally heavy expenditures for relief resulting therefrom, have necessitated large advances from the Dominion Government. It was inevitable that sooner or later the question of control by the Federal Government over the provinces should be brought up, particularly in view of suggestions but forward that the Federal Government, by lending its credit, should assist in a general re-funding of provincial debt so as to reduce the interest charge and thereby assist in balancing the budget of the provinces. Such assistance by the Federal Government could only be justified if there were set up effective safeguards against excessive borrowings by provinces in the future, a measure that would seem to involve an amendment to the constitution. With due safeguards, however, I believe that some such plan would merit and receive the support of public opinion in Canada."

Foreign Trade

"Seven-eighths of our total foreign trade in the past three years has been with the British Empire and the United States. The present upturn in business activity is associated with a rising demand for Canadian goods in Empire markets and in the markets of the United States. In the twelve months ending in November, 1935, Canadian exports to the Empire exceeded those of the same months of the previous two years by $25 million and $108 million, respectively. Exports to the United States showed corresponding gains of $54 million and $100 million. Figures show that as yet Canada is not benefiting by any gains in general world buying power, but rather from the recovery, which is unique, was in Great Britain and the United States. It would seem that Canada is indeed fortunate to have secured favorable trade agreements with her two best customers. While the agreement with the United States has been in effect but a few days, in view of the gain of $100 million over the past two years, optimism as to further gains in exports to the United States during 1936 is justified."

Summary

"I would not feel justified in closing my remarks without emphasizing that many serious problems still confront us. "But neither can I close on a pessimistic note. The Canadian people have faced—and I sincerely believe have conquered—the depression. At this stage we must not listen to the faint-hearted who have become frightened or discouraged by the trials of recent years. Those who now urge default, repudiation or promissory cancellation of our financial problem are false prophets who have not correctly read the signs of the times. The Canadian people are made of sterner stuff."

"The upward trend in business would now seem to be definitely established. In fact, I believe we may look forward to the coming year with a greater optimism than has been in vogue at any time in the past six years."

General Manager's Address
Mr. S. G. Dobson, general manager, referred to the financial statement as follows:

"The Sixty-Sixth Annual Report and Balance Sheet reflect continuance of the upturn of business which began in 1933, and which has progressed almost without interruption since that time. Totals, under practically all headings, are again higher, indicating the steady and continuous growth of the bank."

"A year ago we reported an increase of $50,000,000 in deposits. This year we are able to report a further increase of over $50,000,000 or a total of over $100,000,000 in two years—an impressive amount. Deposits in Canada again increased in all provinces, savings deposits being up over $11,000,000."

"Because of the continued lack of demand for commercial loans, for many months the bank has been able to place its surplus funds in the purchase of Government and Municipal securities. As a consequence assets under these headings have increased by $65,000,000 to $196,000,000."

Assets Up $22,000,000

"Total assets during the year increased $22,000,000, and are now $800,919,700, the highest point reached since 1931. Quick assets stand at $423,673,881, or 52.7 per cent of total liabilities to the public."

COMMUNIST STUDENTS

(Financial Post, Toronto)

There is a Communist Club at the University of Toronto. The University authorities are reported by the press to be much embarrassed by it. If they squelch it they will be accused of interfering with freedom of thought. Certainly a university should be a place where intellects are untrammelled. If the University authorities permit it to carry on they will be accused of harboring a viper in the educational bosom.

It would be interesting to know if there is a Capitalist Club at the University of Toronto. It would be interesting to know if there is a club for the discussion of democratic theory. It would be interesting to know if there exists any group at the university as active campaigners for the preservation of our economic system as the group speaking for those who seek to destroy that system in its entirety, including both the good and bad.

We are not urging the formation of such groups. In fact we do not feel that a university should be a medium for the promotion of fixed narrow philosophies. What it should do is to present the case of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Columbia University.

"The intellectual, the rational and the reasonable approach to the solution of present-day problems, in the light of the whole body of facts which constitute human experience." We should be able to look to the universities for healthful guidance for stimulus in political thought and for well-tested information. We should not look to the universities for propaganda for any one set of notions or of new.

When university men rather themselves together in a Communist Club, they announce to the world that they have closed their minds; that they intend to let their emotions rule their intellects and that they desire to seek not the wider truth but the cramped ideology of a single, narrow political group.

University men, who form a Communist Club, do their institution a disservice. The issue immediately at hand is the Communist at Moscow, but recently resumed on a major scale its world-wide propaganda for revolution by force of arms, if necessary; that Canada is well organized for such propaganda. The public will therefore assume that the Communist Club is a propagandist body. Whether it is or not we do not know.

The students who join it are to be pitied. They start their lives with their minds tied to Moscow, hampering any mind to visit friends in Africa, and any mind to visit friends in free adventure throughout the whole wide world for intellectual inspiration.

PARIS RELICS TURN TO DUST

Sacred relics, believed by many to be protecting Paris, have been found to be nothing but dust. They have been placed inside the clock at the top of the spire of the Cathedral of Notre Dame seventy-five years ago. Discovery of the contamination was made by the removal of the great bronze bird for cleaning during repairs to the spire, built during the 13th century by Viollet le Duc. The relics, which were of Sainte Genevieve and Saint Denis, always regarded as patron saints of Paris, were placed within the clock in 1860, together with a parchment bearing the seal of the Archbishop of Paris and a record of the ceremony. When the box in which they had been enclosed was opened, there was nothing to be found but dust.

WOMAN, 83, TO FLY IN HER OWN PLANE

Mrs. Margaret Torrey, aged 83, of Heatham, English, will own an airplane in which to take trips abroad. Eighteen months ago she had never seen a flying machine. Suddenly, she made up her mind to visit friends in Africa, but finding that the journey by ordinary travel would take too long, decided to fly. So she covered 18,000 miles by airplane, and returned filled with enthusiasm for her travel. Her centenary-old mansion home in Heatham is surrounded by beautiful lawns and acres of grazing land. "It would be easy for a child to fly into my own garden and land at my own front door."

headquarters in Toronto, and Mr. Muir and Mr. Heller will, as heretofore, be attached to their offices. All three are highly trained bankers of wide experience, who have spent their business lifetime in the service of the bank.

"At the last annual meeting, I ventured the opinion that we had every justification for looking forward to improved conditions during 1936. This expectation has been realized, perhaps to an even greater extent than we had hoped for at that time. The outlook is still favorable and, as I see it, there is no reason why we should not enter 1936 with a feeling of optimism."

Don't risk failures. It's easy to avoid baking disappointments if you use dependable Magic Baking Powder. Every spot of baking assures full leavening power. That's why so many of Canada's noted cooking authorities always use and recommend it. And it's a little to use—actually less than a pinch!—but it's a lot to get your grocer today!

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
HAVE A SNAPSHOT PARTY

The "magic chain" will prove to be a popular attraction.

SOME people just naturally throw out the idea of doing anything unusual or different, but be that as it may, here's a suggestion for a new kind of party—a "Snapshot at Night Party" and the chances are it will be voted by those who are fortunate enough to be invited as an outstanding success.

To further add to the attraction of the party, you might have your guests come in costume. Tell them to come dressed as their favorite movie star, some famous person of history, a character from one of the nursery rhymes, or you might assign the matter of costumes and make it a regular "Kid Party." All guests are to be children.

Setting the stage for your Snapshot at Night Party is very simple and can be done before your guests arrive. Here is what you do. Place a chair, any ordinary size, part of the room so that it will not be disturbed by the guests as they arrive. Close the back and to the right of the chair place a few lamps so that the light falls on the back of the chair. Now tilt the shade slightly upward so that it will throw the light directly over and down on the shoulders and head of the person sitting in the chair. About three feet directly in front of the chair place your first lamp, with its shade tilted to throw the light directly on the front of your subject and chair. You now have one floor lamp back and one in front of the chair and another one three feet in front of the chair or subject.

With the lamps in this position you will have to take the picture from the side; so place your camera on a table or some firm support at a point where you can use all of your subject in the flash. If you have a folding camera with an 18.5 hour open up to this aperture and set the shutter speed at 1/25 of a second.

With super-sensitive panchromatic film, your camera and two photofloods in the famous "magic chain" set up in the flash lamp, the chair you are ready for the arrival of your guests and fascinating instant snapshots at night.

After your guests have arrived, have them sit on the "magic chair," switch on the photofloods and snap—you have the picture. And you can count on much excitement at such times the camera. Suggest you do not have a camera with a lens as fast as f/8. You can have your guests and take pictures with any camera just the same. You can take a short time exposure without any change in your setting. In taking either a snapshot at night at 1/25 of a second or a time exposure picture, caution your guest not to move when the picture is actually being taken.

You and your guests will have fun at this Snapshot at Night party and you will have some highly interesting pictures to enjoy looking at for many years to come.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

AN APPRECIATION

To the Editor of the Courier:
Sir—In this time when the entire English-speaking world grieves with England because of the death of that noble gentleman, the late King, I—an out-lier and unknown to the readers of your honorable journal, with but a few exceptions—wish to offer my sincere sympathies in this hour of sadness.

A good citizen and a leader has been lost to the world, and the world will miss his leadership.

It is to be hoped that everyone be Briton or of any other nationality, whatever, will thoughtfully read the story of his career and by the reading, profit.

While the ancestors once were Briton, feel as great a personal loss to the British flag.

Residence of Dr. Harris Burned in Disastrous Fire

On Friday evening last the beautiful residence of Dr. W. C. Harris, at Barton, was totally destroyed by fire. About 6:30 o'clock, notified that the chimney was ablaze, salt was applied and the fire watched until it was felt all danger was past. Later, however, smoke was covered upstairs, and on investigation fire was discovered between the ceiling and the floor. When opened to get at the fire it spread quickly, all through the house.

All the furniture downstairs were saved but nothing could be taken from upstairs. Members of the household lost all their wearing apparel, except that Mr. Harris was fortunate enough to save his fur coat.

The fire try pumper at Barton and the pumper from Digby did considerable work in checking the spread of the flames, and they, with the help of willing workers, saved the semi-detached barn.

There was some insurance on the property.

The re-opening of the Victorian Order of Nurses' Baby Clinic will take place next Friday.

Please reserve Thursday night, Feb. 13, for the St. Valentine Concert, Civic Band.

KIWANIS

The regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club on Tuesday was of particular interest. This week Kiwanis International is 21 years old and the programme was appropriate to the occasion. The other songs selected were also suitable to the occasion. Rev. Dr. Hodgson was the speaker and he took as his subject "International Goodwill." James MacMellon, of Yarmouth, and Dr. S. B. MacGregor, of Digby, were guests.

BOARD OF TRADE

The Digby Board of Trade held its annual meeting in the council chamber of the town hall on Tuesday evening. DIGBY MUNICIPAL COUNCIL

The reports of the Municipal Distribution of the hydro electric system and of the Digby County Power Board, were received at last Thursday's session of the Municipal Council. Both municipal showings during the year just passed.

The municipal distribution report showed increases in all sections in the number of customers and the number of kilowatts sold, and also reported a decided improvement in operation. Sixty-two were added to the system, and the amount of energy purchased during the year was 211,331 kw. hrs. a gain of 26,323 kw. hrs. over 1934. Revenue increased from $16,546 in 1933 to $17,331 in 1935. There was, however, a slight loss shown on the operation of the system during the year, due to a large sum spent on meter inspection. The report of the Power Board showed that 1935 was the first year since its inauguration that the output of the generating plants at Weymouth Mills and Esposito Falls went over the 1,000,000 kw. hrs. mark. The actual output was 1,126,370 kw. hrs. against 996,400 kw. hrs. in 1934.

Transmission lines between the power house and Digby showed improvement over the previous year. Power was only shut off for a total of one hour and ten minutes during the year, with the exception of a number of regular Sunday shutdowns necessary for repair work. This improvement was in spite of the fact that several sections, along this line had to be moved back and rebuilt on account of highway construction.

The amount of energy sold during the year was 842,629 kw. hrs., an increase of a few kilowatts short of 100,000 over 1934. The total number of customers for the system was 1,598.

The financial statement attached to the report showed a gross income of $36,199, an increase of some $2,775 over that of last year. The operating profit for the year was $4,441.

It was recommended in the report that a reduction of half a cent per kw. hr. be made in the whole-sale price charged the Municipalities of Digby and Clare, the Town of Digby and the Village of Weymouth.

Deputy Mayor S. S. Aymer and town councillors E. C. Sallows and H. L. Woodman appeared before the council to discuss the matter of snow removal. The matter was tabled until later when the proposition was rejected on the general grounds that it would be unfair to pay for ploughing service in some portions of the county and force the poor beggar, in other sections to dig themselves out without pay.

In the matter of Thomas Denton's proposition to collect $40,000 taxes for the municipality, which caused so much argument when first presented to the council, was again considered and unanimously rejected.

At the concluding session of the council the tax rate for the year was set at 3.90 and highway tax at 69—the same as in 1935.

A committee of doctors met the council to discuss medical aid to outside poor. The medical men voiced their objections to the resolution passed at the May meeting, which the municipality would only pay doctors 50 per cent of their charges. This resolution was rescinded.

The road and bridge committee considered a petition from ratepayers at Sandy Cove asking for a road from the Digby Neck post road to the residence of Thomas Cart. The matter was left with Coun. Cosaboon to report at the May session.

The matter of the convention of the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities, at Digby, in September, was brought up and Couns. Woodman, Dunn and Chisholm were appointed to meet with the Digby town council and a committee from the municipal council of Clare to arrange for entertainment, etc.

"The middle ages came to an end not with the discovery of America or the Reformation, but when Adolf Hitler took over power in Germany." This was the declaration of Professor Baumbach, of Berlin University, during a lecture in that city to university professors and Nazi leaders.

A DISTINGUISHED SON VISITS NOVA SCOTIA

Nova Scotia has produced many distinguished men, honored not only in Canada but all over the world.

One of these whom Nova Scotia "should delight to honor" and particularly this part of the Annapolis Valley, is Dr. Charles Beals, who recently visited his sister, Mrs. Norman Chute, in Bear River, and other Valley relatives.

Dr. Beals was born in Clements-Port in 1861, and when thirteen years old, shipped as a sailor from Bear River. After a number of years at sea he left that vocation to study at the Biblical Seminary, New York, this preparing him for his later extensive missionary work in China, which lasted him over forty years.

Beside his missionary work he gained other laurels, being employed by the Chinese government through the Boxer rebellion, later publishing an excellent account of this noted event in his book, "China and the Boxers."

During his ministry eleven churches were established by him, a hospital equipped and the Wuhu Academy, now called the Beals Memorial, built at his own expense. The high trust in his ability and fine character is evidenced by his appointment of the distribution of over a million dollars of relief funds and the decoration by the Chinese government with one of the highest orders in its gift.

Beside his missionary work he became a noted archaeologist, discovering and excavating ancient Chinese tombs, adding many treasures to those throwing light on ancient Chinese history, a number of which are now housed in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Mr. Beals, after his long and distinguished career, has retired from active work and now resides at Pasadena, Cal.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD

On Saturday last the ladies of St. John's Guild served a "Clam Chowder and Bean Supper" at the Commercial House, which was very well patronized and the money realized will be used for church purposes.

On Wednesday a joint Guild and congregational meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Brinton, when the reports of the Building Committee and the church treasurer were received, showing that in every department of St. John's has a small balance on hand.

Annual Report V.O.N. for 1935

The fifteenth annual meeting of the Digby Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses was held in the Court House on Friday evening, January 18, 1936. There was an exceptionally large attendance and Rev. Dr. Hodgson, first vice-president, was in the chair. The reports of the officers showed an immense amount of work accomplished during the year, and the treasurer's report showed a balance of $633.03 on hand with which to start the new year. The election of officers resulted as follows:

Honorary President—Mrs. Geo. D. Turnbull.
President—Rev. Dr. Hodgson.
First Vice-President—Mrs. G. M. Morris.
Second Vice-President—Rev. A. G. Robertson.
Secretary—Mrs. Victor Turnbull.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. L. Bowby.
Auditors—Geo. H. Peters and T. E. G. Lynch.

Council—Mrs. T. E. G. Lynch, Mrs. Mrs. M. C. Howard Anderson, Mrs. P. W. Holdsworth, Mrs. Fritz Dakin, Mrs. C. L. Bowby, Mrs. W. J. McMahon, Mrs. H. L. Smith, Mrs. E. A. Nichols, Mrs. E. A. Nichols, Mrs. Walter VanTassell, Mrs. Frank Hayden, Mrs. G. W. Connell, Mrs. Christie, Mrs. Loran Hayden, Mrs. Reg. and Mrs. R. G. Shaffer, the first three named to constitute the Supply Committee.

Mrs. T. E. G. Lynch and Alfred Rodon, after fifteen years as treasurer and auditor respectively, retired, and were the recipients of many words of appreciation.

The Secretary's Report

Mr. Chairman, Members of the V. O. N. Board, Ladies and Gentlemen:

As secretary of the Victorian Order of Nurses for Digby it is a pleasure for me to present this report.

During the year there were 12 regular meetings with an average attendance of thirteen. We have had two visits from Miss Dawson, Eastern Supervisor, and one from Miss Smellie, Chief Superintendent, who while here held a public meeting and gave a most interesting and instructive talk on the work of the Victorian Order.

Two letters were received from the School Board, expressing their thanks and appreciation for the work done by the Nurse. This body of men realize the value of having such an organization in Digby.

Mrs. Walker, owing to home duties, found it necessary to resign as secretary in June. It was with regret her resignation was accepted and for her past capable work she has our thanks. Another resignation which was very regretfully accepted was that of the Rev. Mr. Bishop, who for the past nine years has been our president. A man of sterling character, quiet humor and able to hold his position, he will be much missed. To him our grateful thanks and well wishes for the future are extended. Mr. Bishop, as you all know, was awarded in May of this year the Jubilee Medal.

The Victorian Order of Nurses is a National Organization stretching from coast to coast, with each community having its own problems. Our aim is to develop our own work along lines which best serve this particular district. Here in Digby, I cannot but feel we have about eradicated the untrained midwife and have cut down to almost nothing the number of women who go unattended at time of confinement. Our nurse, who has done a tremendous good work, has been and is doing all in her power to inform mothers of the value of good health. What prenatal care means and how absolutely essential medical attention is to their children may grow into healthy men and women. Mrs. Sturgeon, with her patience and wonderful tact, kindly and sympathetic understanding, has endeared herself and entered into the hearts of the people, especially her poorer patients. Digby is to be congratulated on having a nurse with such ability and who does her work so conscientiously. Mrs. Sturgeon also received the King's Jubilee Medal.

In November we sent Mrs. George D. Turnbull as a delegate to the Regional Conference in Halifax. On her return she submitted a splendid report in which she stated that this branch is keeping up with the large Branches. It is gratifying and something we should be proud of to know that a town of 1500 can compare favourably with much larger centres.

During the year we have raised funds in the usual manner, namely, bridge parties, teas and pantry sales, rummage sales and in December through the sale of tuberculosis seals. In conclusion cordial thanks of the board of management is extended to all who are helping in any way to further the work of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Respectfully submitted
M. May Turnbull
Secretary.

Report of the Educational and Publicity Committee and Tuberculosis Christmas Seals Sale for 1935.

Mr. President, Members of the V. O. N. Ladies and Gentlemen:

In considering educational matters with regard to the Victorian Order, we know the nurse is the principal teacher on health matters, but the general public have to be educated to receive education along these lines, and become health conscious, and that is where this committee functions. The chief factor of this is publicity, keeping the methods and the need of progressive advancement in the prevention of disease and the care of mind and body. I say "care of mind and body" as that controls the body to a great extent.

We will begin with the children. Quoting from an address given at the annual V. O. N. meeting held last May in Ottawa, "Children are not ours to be played with or called 'cute' but they are fulfilling a destiny, which is theirs, and we can increase our own happiness by helping them to develop." This development cannot take place if the child has not a healthy mind and body. Many parents will say that such matters are attended to in their own homes, but in many homes this care is lacking, and coming in contact with those who are unfortunate in this respect has a reflection on us then look at it in an ethical way and feel this responsibility of our children's as well as our own families. Are they not the citizens of the future, and in these days we hear so much about the menace of the feeble-minded, does it not behoove us to use all the means within our power to overcome this menace? The Victorian Order Nurse, backed by her committee, is shouldering a great responsibility in trying to educate the public in the care of the child from pre-natal times (which is most important) and on through school days as well as in nursing service. "Nova Scotia's waste of potential manhood and womanhood in this Dominion is exceeded only by Quebec and New Brunswick. 791 babies were taken from their homes in the last year—1935—for which the records have been compiled. The distressing fact is that the infant death toll in many small towns is far greater than in the large cities of this land." Thus out of 1000 births there are lost in Westville, 166; Shelburne, 142; North Sydney, 107, and so on. Digby rates among those who show a lesser loss—55.5. When compared with former years though there are still many sad pictures, among them the passing of 82 mothers—in a 12-months. The Provincial Government is doing all it can in supplying Public Health Nursing Service disseminating literature, etc., while private individuals are supporting organizations such as the Victorian Order of Nurses, but the work is very extensive. Quoting from the Halifax Herald, "The Victorian Order more than any other single agency, has contributed to the reduction of the death rate among children in Nova Scotia since 1921." There are young women, many of them college graduates, who marry, knowing nothing of care of children. Even the little children in the homes are taught by the V. O. Nurse to care for the smaller ones. Young mothers are instructed at West Baby Conferences by doctors, still our teen-age girls are receiving education in their Health League Classes in the care of young babies along with other primary nursing and health instruction.

The Educational and Publicity Committee has endeavored to keep the public informed of the different aspects of the work by having articles published from time to time in our local paper. To keep the work going requires financial backing which has, you are all aware, been very difficult the last few years. As previously acknowledged our Victorian Order has saved the town expense, and promoted better health conditions, which cannot be computed in money.

On November 12th I had the pleasure of representing this Branch as a delegate to the first conference of the Victorian Order of Nurses to be held in the Maritime Provinces. Delegates from different parts of the province and New Brunswick were present. Mrs. William Dennis, president of the Halifax branch for about thirty years, presided at the Round Table Conference, while Miss Smellie presided at the Symposium, when the aspects of the work were presented from different viewpoints, such as the Patient, the Medical, the Clergy and so on. The meetings were most interesting and many helpful suggestions were received, some of which our Branch hopes to carry out in the future. Among other things I was able to procure much valuable information concerning the tuberculosis situation in Nova Scotia, from Dr. P. S. Campbell, chief health officer. The first institution for the reception of tuberculosis patients was erected in 1904 at Kentville, known as the Nova Scotia Sanatorium, and the Nova Scotia government was the first government in the Dominion to erect such an institution. It has grown from 20 beds to approximately 544 beds. Now there are six smaller tuberculosis institutions owned and operated in various ways with some assistance from the government. Since all cases cannot enter institutions, a great proportion of anti-tuberculosis effort must be in the home. Dr. Campbell states that it is in the homes most of the seeds of tuberculosis are sown. It is in this work the Nova Scotia Tuberculosis Commission is engaged for they assist those who cannot afford to pay the whole amount required to enter the Sanatorium and provide also nursing assistance in the home. To raise funds this Commission puts on annual sales of Christmas Seals, which in Digby is under the auspices of the Victorian Order. A committee of ladies make a house to house canvas in their sale, and this year—1935—the proceeds were $98.10. There were $3.99 expenses and $23.42 sent to the N. S. Tuberculosis Commission, leaving a balance of $70.69, being 75 per cent, which is allowed our Victorian Order, for our nurse has supervision of tuberculosis in this community. Quoting again from Dr. Campbell, "One does not have to go far in public health work to realize that competent public health nursing service is not only desirable but is definitely essential to the proper functioning of any modern anti-tuberculosis programme."

It is gratifying to be able to report that tuberculosis is declining in Nova Scotia. 25 years ago we were losing more than 900 annually from this disease; in 1934 deaths totalled 464. Quite encouraging. But until the problem is completely solved and tuberculosis finally eradicated, the work must be carried on. This disease, as well as all others, knows no respecter of persons, so all are asked to co-operate in supporting this work.

Our grateful thanks are extended to the Digby Weekly Courier for their courtesy in assisting in the publicity end of the work; to the Committee who so ably canvassed the town in the sale of Christmas seals; and all those who have given their sympathetic and practical support to our work.

Jessie S. Turnbull
Convener

The Nurse's Report

Mrs. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

1935 has come and gone and at the close of each year the V. O. N., like other organizations, wonders where they stand financially and otherwise. As far as the actual work goes mere figures are most uninteresting and tell one so little of the work we are trying to do.

The V. O. N. have for their ideal, not only helping when people are ill but trying to bring about better health conditions, and, as you know, better health brings more happiness and usefulness.

Comparing with the previous year there has been an increase of patients, which means we have been able to help more people back to health. In 1935 there were 181 patients, classified as follows:

48 Medical, 33 Communicable, 8 Surgical, 29 pre-Natal, 5 Obstetrical (emerg.), 21 Infants of Obstetrical Cases, 4 post-Natal, 6 Infants of post-Natal, 26 Health Instructions.

Nationalities—Canadian, English speaking, 171; French speaking, 6; British, 1; American, 3. Religion—Protestants, 132; Roman Catholics, 46; Hebrews, 3. Visits—There were 153 to pre-natal, 90 to obstetrical, 95 to infants of obstetrical, 83 to post-natal, 81 to infants of post-natal, 19 to tuberculosis, 63 to other communicable, 8 chronic, 333 to others, 141 visits to delivery, (these are visits made during confinement), 4 to operations. Total Nursing Visits, 1,069.

Non-Nursing Instructive Visits—229 to Clinics and Classes; 276 to other arrangements; 126 to Home School (these are visits to pupils' homes); Child Welfare, 196; 28 Tuberculosis Instructive; 168 Instructive Others; on behalf of patients, 146; Patients not seen, 12—Grand Total Visits made, 2,250.

There were 155 nursing visits more than in 1934, although the visits to obstetrical cases were 47 less than last year. This was partly due to the fact that although we were at the confinement, the arrangements had been made for the after-care.

There was a considerable increase in free nursing visits—97 last year, 235 in 1935. Part of this was owing to the large number of school children who were visited during the epidemics.

Fees—Patients for (del.) service, $35.50; Patients for all other services, $97.65; Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., $175.68—Total Fees, $308.83.

The Mothers' Conference or Baby Clinics, taking into consideration these meetings had to be closed two weeks in May and the last three and a half months—the number of babies registered was 44. This was almost as high as last year. Number of clinics held were 28, with a total attendance of 194. Last year it was 5.6. Two babies were referred to their family physician. Nine group talks to mothers. 105 consultations with the nurse.

A new venture this year was a Baby Contest. It was held on August 30th, in the Trinity Parish Hall, which was prettily decorated for the occasion with flowers that were generously donated. The platform was arranged for the mothers and babies. The babies were divided into three classes according to their age, and were judged by outside doctors and nurses. Everyone who assisted and those who came were very much interested and considered the event a success.

Schools Work—A very discouraging factor in preventive work to the Health authorities as well as to the teachers and parents, was the long and numerous epidemics of contagious diseases.

It was necessary to examine the class rooms more frequently than in previous years, but even with these preventive measures

it did not check the epidemics. The numerous visits to the class rooms must have been disturbing to the teachers, but always I found their co-operation splendid and I would like to take this opportunity of thanking them.

It was also a difficult year in corrective work. The dental appointments had to be broken, owing to the pupil or some member of the family having some contagious disease.

We began arrangements with the Junior Red Cross to have a number of under-privileged children's eyes tested. Unfortunately these arrangements were not completed early enough for them to be taken to Yarmouth this Fall—this we hope to do early in the spring.

There were 276 visits to the school; 229 hours spent in school work; 3517 individual inspections; 349 pupils weighed; 45 defects corrected; 940 minor treatments given; 30 class room health talks; 117 pupils referred to the Medical Health Officer; 142 pupils excluded; 18 pupils referred to their family physician; 10 referred to treatment centres; assisted medical health officer in inspecting pupils in class rooms; 126 pupils were visited in their homes; 52 visits made in connection with school work.

Two Home Classes that were organized in the previous Fall, after completing their lectures, held their closing exercises in Trinity Parish Hall. This was in the form of a concert given by the pupils. Diplomas were presented by the Rev. F. E. Bishop, president of the V. O. N. Prizes were awarded; these were given by members and friends of the V. O. N. The proceeds have been used in the nurse's work.

The 1934 Senior Health Class instead of disbanding as in previous years, was re-organized as a Victorian Order Girls' Club. A Senior Health Class of 14 girls was organized in December. There were 47 lectures and demonstrations given. These included 1 First Aid lecture to the Girl Guides. 61 girls on the enrolment with a total of 101.

Dr. Acker, orthopedic specialist, of Halifax, held a Clinic at the Digby General Hospital, on Nov. 6th. Seven patients were examined through the Junior Red Cross Society.

Dr. McRitchie, T. B. specialist, of Halifax, held three clinics here during the year. 39 patients were examined.

We had the privilege of having Miss E. L. Smellie, chief superintendent, Victorian Order of Nurses, with us on Nov. 8th. Miss Dawson, Eastern Supervisor, visited this district in April and September. These visits were both stimulating and helpful.

In closing I would like to express my thanks to the members of the V. O. N. committee for their kindness and constant support. Without this the work of the Order could not be carried on.

I also wish to thank all who have at different times helped the work of the Order during the past year. Those who assisted with the Baby Contest, Girls' Health Class, concert, and the following for their co-operation.

Scallops our Specialty.

It did not check the epidemics. The numerous visits to the class rooms must have been disturbing to the teachers, but always I found their co-operation splendid and I would like to take this opportunity of thanking them.

It was also a difficult year in corrective work. The dental appointments had to be broken, owing to the pupil or some member of the family having some contagious disease.

We began arrangements with the Junior Red Cross to have a number of under-privileged children's eyes tested. Unfortunately these arrangements were not completed early enough for them to be taken to Yarmouth this Fall—this we hope to do early in the spring.

There were 276 visits to the school; 229 hours spent in school work; 3517 individual inspections; 349 pupils weighed; 45 defects corrected; 940 minor treatments given; 30 class room health talks; 117 pupils referred to the Medical Health Officer; 142 pupils excluded; 18 pupils referred to their family physician; 10 referred to treatment centres; assisted medical health officer in inspecting pupils in class rooms; 126 pupils were visited in their homes; 52 visits made in connection with school work.

Two Home Classes that were organized in the previous Fall, after completing their lectures, held their closing exercises in Trinity Parish Hall. This was in the form of a concert given by the pupils. Diplomas were presented by the Rev. F. E. Bishop, president of the V. O. N. Prizes were awarded; these were given by members and friends of the V. O. N. The proceeds have been used in the nurse's work.

The 1934 Senior Health Class instead of disbanding as in previous years, was re-organized as a Victorian Order Girls' Club. A Senior Health Class of 14 girls was organized in December. There were 47 lectures and demonstrations given. These included 1 First Aid lecture to the Girl Guides. 61 girls on the enrolment with a total of 101.

Dr. Acker, orthopedic specialist, of Halifax, held a Clinic at the Digby General Hospital, on Nov. 6th. Seven patients were examined through the Junior Red Cross Society.

Dr. McRitchie, T. B. specialist, of Halifax, held three clinics here during the year. 39 patients were examined.

We had the privilege of having Miss E. L. Smellie, chief superintendent, Victorian Order of Nurses, with us on Nov. 8th. Miss Dawson, Eastern Supervisor, visited this district in April and September. These visits were both stimulating and helpful.

In closing I would like to express my thanks to the members of the V. O. N. committee for their kindness and constant support. Without this the work of the Order could not be carried on.

I also wish to thank all who have at different times helped the work of the Order during the past year. Those who assisted with the Baby Contest, Girls' Health Class, concert, and the following for their co-operation.

It was necessary to examine the class rooms more frequently than in previous years, but even with these preventive measures tion—The Medical and Dental profession: The Digby General Hospital; The Kiwanis Club; The School Board and Teaching Staff; and the Digby Garage for their efficient service.

Respectfully submitted,
Charlotte G. Sturgeon

Report of Supply Committee

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I will submit a very brief report of the work of the Supply Committee of the V. O. N. during the past year. Owing to better conditions, also the splendid work done by the Kiwanis Club in aiding needy families, this committee has not been called upon for nearly as much help as in previous years, but such demands have been met.

During the past year the finances of the V. O. N. have been such that the usual grant of $60—which has always been given the Supply Committee—had to be discontinued, but the special demands have been met by the different members of the committee personally.

After the Farnsworth fire last February a special plea was made for clothing, bedding, and general supplies, which met with a very generous response. One afternoon a large number of the ladies met and sewed and repaired many of the things which had been sent in, also quilting two or more quilts and from these donations a large box of good and useful things was sent to the Farnsworth family. In some cases, groceries, vegetables and meat were needed, these were donated by some of our liberal givers and sent to these families. Soups and gruels have been sent to the sick. At Christmas parcels containing dresses, sweaters, coats, underwear, stockings, caps, a quilt and various other things, also nuts and candy were sent to three families.

Friends have been very generous in sending clothing and supplies and the same has been acknowledged each month in the "Courier".

We wish to thank every one who has donated to our Supply Committee thereby making it possible to send help and cheer to many homes, and hope the good work will still continue in the future.

Respectfully submitted,
Mary L. Morse

Woman Mayor in Canada

The first woman to become mayor of any town in Canada is Mrs. Edna Hanley, who was elected to head the council of Webbwood, Ontario. For twenty years she was a school teacher in the town. Two members of the council once were her pupils. Mrs. Hanley won the election by a majority of thirteen votes.

Postmaster General Tryon announced recently in the British House of Commons that he has no hope for an early restoration of penny postage. The immediate loss of revenue under existing inland conditions, he said, would be $85,000,000 a year, but allowing for an increase in volume, based on past experience, the estimated net loss would be $32,500,000 yearly.

HEAD OFFICE: HALIFAX, N. S.

BRANCHES AT:

CHARLOTTETOWN, ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., MONTREAL, SAINT JOHN, N. B., MONCTON

INSTALLS OFFICERS

Officers of the Digby Branch (No. 20) of the Canadian Legion of the B.E.S.L. were installed as follows at the regular monthly meeting by the past president, comrade M. G. Denton, as follows:

President—Comrade J. W. Merkel
1st Vice Pres.—Com. F. J. Thibault
2nd Vice Pres.—Com. B. H. Ruggles
Treasurer—Com. G. V. Turnbull
Secretary—Com. G. J. Parker
Sergeant-at-Arms—

Comrade G. E. Syda

Following the installation ceremony, the retiring president, comrade M. C. Denton, presented the branch with a gavel suitably engraved. This gavel is much appreciated by the branch; the head is made from an old gun carriage from one of the cannon that stood for so many years on the cannon bank north of the government pier; the handle is made from a ship's rail, taken from a vessel that went ashore at Point Prim a number of years ago. President Merkel thanked Comrade Denton for the gift, on behalf of the Legion.

The president then presented Past Presidents Denton and G. V. Turnbull with past presidents' medals, engraved with their names and dates of service. Both comrades expressed their thanks and appreciation for the same.

The matter of the pilgrimage to Vimy and the battle fields was brought up and Honorary Secretary, Comrade G. E. Syda, was unanimously appointed to represent the Digby Branch on this occasion. The branch feels that, considering the fact that some 150 men from this vicinity served overseas, and that twenty of them paid the supreme sacrifice and lie in graves in Flanders Fields, it is only their duty to have a representative present at the unveiling of Canada's memorial to the fallen next July.

KING GEORGE'S DEATH

England in tears, and all the world in gloom.
Our joyous Jubilee to weeping turned.
The royal purple turned to black of doom—
Our dear king mourned.

Tears for our king, whose kindness was known to all his subjects, far and wide;
Who ruled so wisely in these times of stress,
And has so lately died.

Teat for our king, whose loving word At Christmastime, did win its way To hearts throughout the world—
Our king we mourn today.

Tears for our king; our empire's woe Spreads over all the earth today. No matter be thy friend or foe. They all do homage pay.

We all must shortly dry our tears. And to our grief no longer ling. Then join in the resounding cheers To hail our Edward King!

Snow storm snapshots need a wide lens opening and a dark background

IF YOU want to take pictures these winter months that you will be proud of, watch the snowflakes and try for a photograph that actually shows the falling flakes, and again for one representing the blizzard type of storm!

You may expect and shoot into a swirling snow storm and the flakes themselves will not show in the picture, but if you choose the right sort of snowfall, the proper background and the right distance, set the focus right and give the correct exposure, you will get a picture in which the curtain of tumbling flakes is vividly portrayed.

The kind of snow storm for this is one that occurs when there is little wind, and when the temperature is about at the freezing point. Under these conditions the flakes usually come down large and fluffy and hence individually are more visible. The proper background is important. Since snowflakes are white they will not show very well except against a dark background, so take your stance before a dark or shaded building and not more than say 50 feet away. If you are much farther away, there will be so many flakes between the camera and the building that the picture will show too many of them overlapping each other, as it were. What is needed is a distinct record of comparatively a few of the multitude. Now put a little life interest into the scene. Get some one in dark clothes into the picture, preferably of the feminine sex. Have her about 15 to 25 feet away and let her be well mixed up to give an additional touch to the whiteness of the scene.

Note for setting the camera. The lens should be focused not on the building but on your human subject. With box type, unit or other set-focus cameras, just use the largest lens opening and click the picture—you will be sure to get something interesting, even if the day is only fairly bright. The chrome type of film should record the picture quite satisfactorily, although the super-sensitive will help out a little more on darker days. For cameras with double lenses, the aperture should be no smaller than f.8 with a shutter speed of 1/25 second. If there is a slight wind this shutter speed may not entirely "stop" the flakes but a very slight movement will tend to show the flakes all the more dramatically. The flakes that show will be those that fall within a distance of a few feet from the subject.

A regular swirling snow storm can also be caught and will be another type of winter storm picture that will fairly make you strive to look at. This picture will not show individual flakes nor should it, if you want to produce a realistic picture that looks like a roaring blizzard. The same exposure suggestion is given for the other type of picture will do.

The Annual Report of The Ladies' Hospital Aid Society

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society, held recently, the following reports were received:—

Secretary's Report
Madam President, Ladies:—

I hereby submit the eleventh annual report of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society of Digby. We are very glad to be able to report a year even more successful than 1934, and to the ever generous public, which has made such a splendid showing possible, we extend our wholehearted appreciation for its co-operation.

During the year the Society has held 12 regular meetings, with an average attendance of 13 members, which, though no increase over last year, shows the same number of faithful workers to be carrying on.

We are more than pleased to report our total earnings for the year to be over $1000.00, the sources of revenue being practically the same as in previous years. Our entertainment committee has sponsored, in all, 11 hospital plays, 1 novelty bridge and 40 forty-fives, 3 telephone bridges, 3 dances, 1 bingo party, 1 afternoon tea and pantry sale, 1 pantry sale and 2 rummage sales; thus averaging a monthly benefit and one over and yielding the largest part of our income.

In addition to the afore mentioned activities, the various bridge-clubs, in connection with the Society, have been constantly at work and have raised in all $1507.47.

We also feel especially indebted to the sewing club, organized by Mrs. H. T. Warne, which has contributed to our funds $58.89.

The Hospital Calendars still remain a most important source of revenue, having increased our funds this year by $90.95. May we thank all our friends who accepted and filled these calendars during 1935.

The membership dues this year amounted to $8.25 and together with direct donations of $12.70, increased our funds appreciably.

The Supply Committee has had an especially busy year, having visited the Hospital monthly and taken a complete inventory of the needs and available supplies of all rooms; as well as giving their time in mending and making new supplies most generously.

The Buying Committee is also to be commended on the good judgment shown in filling the needs of the Hospital as they arise.

Throughout the winter and spring the sewing circle met regularly in preparation for the Hospital Fair, which was held in August. May we take this opportunity of thanking the entire community for all assistance and donations, so willingly given at the time of the annual Fair. We are especially grateful to the ladies of Weymouth, Smith's Cove and Annapolis who operated booths, for their invaluable assistance.

On Nov. 11th, our Society held its annual Donation Day, which proved to be the most successful since its inauguration some years ago, both in point of numbers attending and donations received.

We feel that Digby County should be, and is, as proud of their Hospital as is this society and its governing board; but it is to be regretted that the many who contribute most generously to its support, have not as yet, shared in the responsibility of spending the funds. We urge these friends, among the ladies, to join this society (the fee being only 25 cents), and help provide the strength which always lies in larger numbers and share responsibilities.

With the success of past years in mind, notably that of 1935, we confidently solicit the support and co-operation of our tried and true public in the work that lies before us in 1936.

Respectfully submitted,
Harriett G. Campbell
Secretary

Local and Personal

B. H. Ruggles was a recent business visitor to Halifax.

Date changed to Friday, 14th—Civic Band St. Valentine Popular Concert.

Alan Wright, of Acadia University, spent the week end at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. G. Lynch left this week for Halifax where they will spend the remainder of the winter. They are registered at the Lord Nelson.

Your attention is called to a Valentine Supper, in Grace United Church hall, Thursday, Feb. 13th, under the auspices of the Sunday School.

Mrs. O. Wright, who left Saturday to attend the funeral of her brother, George D. MacKinnon, who passed away at Sherbrooke, P. Q., has returned.

The January meeting of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society will be held in the Court House this afternoon, at 3.00 o'clock.

A memorial service for the late King was held at Grace United Church on Sunday, by the pastor, Rev. T. W. Houlston. Members of the Digby Branch of the B. E. S. L. paraded in a body.

Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas MacNeill, of 99 Slade Street, Belmont, Mass., announce the engagement of their daughter, Jessie English MacNeill, to Harold Brenton Dukeshire, of Cambridge, Mass. Mr. Dukeshire is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dukeshire, of Digby.

Grade VIII children of the Digby Academy are having an end-of-the-year holiday. Owing to the illness of their teacher, Mrs. Driffield, Mrs. Fred May was appointed substitute. On Wednesday, while returning from school, Mrs. May slipped and fell on an icy sidewalk and is now confined to her home with a badly sprained ankle.

The gathering of Digby's ice harvest has commenced. Most of the hauling this year is being done by ox teams and a few horse teams. Large motor trucks, which have been doing much of this work in the past few years, are conspicuous by their absence. Several thousand tons are needed to supply ice houses, hotels and fish plants in this town.

The B. E. S. L. of the Baptist Church met last Friday in the vestry of the church, William Christie, president, in the chair. Some business matters were taken up and then the meeting was handed over to Robert Weir, group leader. His subject was "Faith". The next meeting will be held tonight under the group leadership of Lovell Winchester.

Delightful New Music—Superb New Instruments.—Band Concert. St. Patrick's Hall, St. Valentine Night, Friday.
Last week the Civic Band advertised a popular St. Valentine Concert for Thursday, February 13th, by upon learning that the V. O. N. was held that date for a Telephone Bridge concert the date was promptly cancelled and every effort made to find an evening that would conflict with nothing. Friday, the 14th, is the new date, no other night being available.

Last Tuesday, being so stormy, the regular monthly meeting of Junior Division, Sons of Temperance, could not be held. A meeting will be held in the United Church hall on Monday evening, at 8.00 o'clock. Please try to be present as arrangement must be made for welcoming the quarterly session of the Grand Division of Nova Scotia, which meets here on Thursday, February 13th, at 2.45 o'clock.

THE TOWN COUNCIL

Owing to the continued illness of Mayor A. A. Shortliffe, who has been confined to his home since before Christmas, Deputy Mayor S. S. Aymer presided over the regular January meeting of the Digby town council, at which all the members, the town clerk and town solicitor were present.

At this meeting the members of the council took the oath of allegiance to King Edward VIII, and on motion of Councillor Anderson, seconded by Councillor Woodman, a resolution of sympathy to be conveyed to members of the Royal Family by the Lieutenant-Governor, was passed. W. S. Winchester, forward, addressed the council as to where authority was obtained to allow the fire apparatus to go to Barton on the night Dr. Harris' residence was destroyed. Fireward J. W. Merkel also addressed the council on the same matter. Councillor Anderson explained that he was asked as chairman of the committee on fire and water, and after consulting with the mayor and Councillor Sollows, gave permission.

According to the statutes this matter is entirely in the hands of the firewards. There is also a resolution of the town council, which forbids the taking of the pumper outside the town limits. Councillor Anderson shouldered all the blame.

A New Mayor for Digby by Acclamation

Maynard C. Denton will succeed Alfred A. Shortliffe as mayor of Digby for the next two years. Other Councillors, E. Churchill Sollows, George M. Morrell and Herbert L. Woolman were re-elected by acclamation.

Councillors whose terms do not expire until next year are H. Milton Turnbull, Frank L. Anderson and S. S. Aymer.

Although Tuesday was generally recognized as nomination day throughout the province, Town Clerk Borden did not declare nominations until 5 o'clock on Wednesday, on account of the holiday on Tuesday. All papers were filed on Monday.

THE WEATHER

It has been some little time since we gave our weather report—but we have been having it—and lots—with plenty of variety. The first part of the month was exceptionally mild, nevertheless windy by spells. Then came a few sizeable storms, with blizzards that choked up the roads with drifted snow. This week we have had an honest-to-goodness winter in a few days, although for a real winter day Tuesday was considered the worst of the season. Some days may have been colder, but few nastier. There has been no zero weather.

Twenty-three carloads of freight were taken by the steamer Princess Helene, on her special Sunday trip.

The Statement of Accounts for Town of Digby for 1935

THE MAYOR'S REPORT

To the Ratepayers of the Town of Digby:—

Ladies and Gentlemen—The chief improvement during 1935 has been the hard surfacing of the main street from the Town line to the "Pines"; in addition to this, Sprayed Surface material has been applied to several streets; this latter work has been done entirely by the Town at an expense of $7,145.30, but the Permanent Asphalt of Water Street, etc., was done on a fifty-fifty basis with the Department of Highways. The benefit accruing from this application of hard-surfacing materials on the streets is apparent to all citizens, and it is confidently expected that the work will stand up under the frost and spring break-up; the dust nuisance has been almost entirely eliminated.

Bonds were issued to pay for this work, but the Department of Highways has not yet rendered the bill. A quantity of Calcium Chloride was purchased, the major part of which was sold to Annapolis Royal and the Town of Yarmouth.

Your Council also bought a quantity of twenty-four inch wooden pipe to be used in the gutters on the sides of streets, and also to be utilized at Lily Lake. A cement retaining wall was placed in front of Mr. W. E. Tupper's residence as a preventive for motorists coming down Warwick Street.

Water System.—The main line from Lily Lake to the Town has been thoroughly cleaned out under the supervision of Mr. W. W. Doane, Engineer, Halifax, and further improvements made at the lake itself, which should be of lasting benefit. There has been a plentiful supply of water all the year. Three new hydrants have been installed as further Fire Prevention.

Fire Brigade.—The brigade is now better equipped than ever before, and is to be heartily congratulated on the very ready responses the members have made to the many calls. The most serious fire happened on December 25th, when the store of George Ryan was seen to be ablaze in the early morning. The brigade did extremely well to confine the fire to the one building—the Aymar block. An abundance of water played on the store prevented it from spreading to the adjoining stores. The Fire Brigade deserves the thanks of the whole community.

Finances.—Your Council has tried to confine expenditure within the limits of its estimates, but in some cases has been obliged to over-run; this applies particularly to the Poor and Charities Account, and Miscellaneous. Your Treasurer succeeded in collecting 83 per cent of the year's assessment and nearly $10,000 of back taxes. There is still a laxity on the part of many ratepayers to make payment when the taxes are due. The delinquent 1935 ratepayers had paid only one-half of the year's assessment, the general account would have shown a surplus instead of a deficit of $2,525.31. Unexpected expenditures included $150 for the King's Jubilee Celebration; Digby's share of the loss on the Indian Carnival, $390; the purchase of the old Water Wright property, $490, to improve the corner on North Water St. and also one-half the costs of Transients, $105.

Electric Light.—This account is still going behind, and something must be done in the very near future to remedy this.

Academy.—The first half of the school year was successful in every way—attendance of pupils and examination results being equally good. From September to December epidemics very largely interfered with attendance of both teachers and scholars, and the average attendance fell to about 50 per cent. This will mean extra hard work for the coming months.

Mrs. Sturgeon, the V. O. nurse, has again been most helpful and her clinics much appreciated.

May I be allowed to express the thanks of the citizens generally to the members of the School Commissioners for their continued administration of the Academy, and I would mention particularly the Chairman, Mr. A. J. Dillon—who has given much personal attention to the smooth working of the school.

Police.—There have been a few minor accidents with automobiles, but no serious infractions of the speed limit or careless driving. Chief of Police Thibault deserves praise for his supervision and attention to duty.

The superintendent of Streets and Water has had a busy year in both departments and has acquitted himself with credit.

The cleaning of the water main and the preparation of streets for hard surfacing were new work and Mr. Hayden deserves that it shall remain satisfactory.

May I add my personal thanks to the members of the Town Council for the attention they have given to the various matters that have transpired during the year, which has been in many instances a strenuous one.

The work of the Town Clerk's office has been full and varied, and Mr. Boden has again rendered to the Council and myself great assistance, which I appreciate. Mr. H. J. Campbell has had a supervision over the Electric Light system, which I believe, has run during the whole year without a break.

I submit herewith the Abstract of Accounts and Financial Statement, together with the Auditors' Report, for your consideration.

I have the honour to remain, Ladies and Gentlemen,

Yours, faithfully,

A. A. SHORTLIFFE

Mayor

REPORT OF THE AUDITORS

January 13th, 1936

To His Worship the Mayor, and Councillors, Town of Digby, N. S.

Gentlemen:—

We have completed the audit of the books and records of the Town for the year ending December 31st, 1935.

Receipts have been checked against duplicate receipt books and have been deposited in the Bank account.

Expenditures have been checked with authorized vouchers and found correct and in good order.

Proper installments have been made to all Sinking Fund Bank accounts for the year.

Bank Accounts of all Town departments have been reconciled and the balances verified with the Bank.

Sinking Fund Bonds at the Bank have been counted and found correct.

There was collected on the 1935 Taxes the sum of $25,413.12 or approximately 83 per cent. Total collections for the year show an increase of $8,227.01 over the previous year which shows that a successful drive has been made on default taxes.

The Bank Overdraft at January 1, 1935, of $7,049.80 has been reduced to $2,525.31 at December 31, 1935, and this reduction is reflected in the statement of cash receipts and expenditures.

We would again call your attention to the outstanding sewer accounts amounting to approximately $1,400.00 and we would recommend that some pressure be brought to bear on these defaulters.

We note that the Light account has again showed a deficit.

We wish to compliment your Town Clerk, Mr. Boden, on the efficient manner in which he has recorded the affairs of the Town.

Yours truly,

BEIYEA, McNIECE CO., Auditors

BEAUTIFUL MEMORIAL SERVICE

A memorial service consisting of the burial office, special hymn and an address by the pastor, Rev. A. E. Gabriel, was held in Holy Trinity Church on Tuesday morning. Ministers and choirs of the various town churches assisted. Officials of the town, the Digby Branch of the Legion, Girl Guides and school children attended to show in some measure an appreciation of our late sovereign, King George.

Previous to the service the church bell tolled seventy times, ushering into the beautiful edifice several hundred devoted citizens who offered up to God their humble thanks and praise for the good life of a good king. With the organ playing the "Dead March," followed by two minutes' silence and the singing of the National Anthem, there ended a service long to be remembered.

The purple church hangings, furled flags and altar adorned with calla lilies gave an added touch of dignity and solemnity to the beautiful service.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE TO BE

Poole, 33 Chatham Street, Lynn, recently. The marriage of Miss Hayden to Charles H. Buck will take place in the early summer.

CAPTAIN KEANS DIRECTS HIS OWN RESCUE

Slipping on the ice-coated deck of his vessel, Captain Edward Keans, of the Digby-Port Wade ferry, plunged into the icy waters of the Annapolis Basin on Saturday morning and narrowly escaped drowning.

Although he is unable to swim a stroke he remained calm and directed rescuers who managed to save him after great difficulty.

Rising to the surface, the captain attracted the attention of Clark Johns, engineer of the vessel, who put off from the ferry in a dinghy and grasped Capt. Keans by the collar.

Capt. Ansel Casey, who was on the landing stage, ordered some men on the shore to launch a dory and they paddled out to where the captain was fighting for his life, 150 fathoms away.

When the second boat arrived the water was covering the captain's nose and eyes. As it was impossible to lift him into the boat, which was already overcrowded, a line was placed about his shoulders and he was towed ashore.

As soon as the shore was gained willing hands rushed him to

(The bell's vocabulary, owing to a crack, is incapable of a clankety-clank, clankety-clank.)

Before this bell became Digby's fire-bell it was the ship's bell of the old ship Culloden, lost many years ago off the Bay of Fundy coast, near the village then known as Broad Cove, and later re-named Culloden after the wreck.

For some time there has been a slight agitation against the nightly blowing of the fire siren (the blast being intended as a test to make sure the whistle was in order, and as a curfew).

Of course, none of the youngsters liked it, and a few of the older folk considered it a lot of noise.

Parsons, in particular, disliked the eight o'clock blast on Sunday night because it interrupted their services (and, perhaps, because some members of the congregation may have regarded it as a "times up" signal).

At any rate, at the annual meeting of the Digby Board of Trade, a resolution was passed requesting the town to do away with the evening blast and make their test at noon on week days, omitting it altogether on Sunday.

The council has acceded to their request.

KING EDWARD VIII

The likable Edward Prince of Wales is now King Edward VIII of Great Britain and Ireland ruler of more than 500,000,000 subjects living under the British flag in all quarters of the globe, says an American Exchange. And there is scarce a "smiling" American who isn't "smiling" for the 41-year-old monarch to make a success of the colossal task he faces.

Few men in this world, no matter what the position for which they were being prepared have had such thorough training for the duties as has been the case with England's new king. Likewise few men have stepped into positions of power under circumstances and conditions which augur so well for success.

King Edward VIII has earned the love of his own people and the respect of the world by the manner in which he has spent the years of his life since he came to manhood. He has been a man among men—human, lovable, a square shooter—but ever motivated by a sense of duty and responsibility that promises well.

IT'S SOMETHING NEW

We have been told that "there's nothing new under the sun," and yet have constantly presented to us "something new." Both statements are absolutely true.

All substances and elements have existed since creation—there's nothing new. On the other hand, these, through natural laws, may be combined or by the genius of man adapted to human use—there's something new.

Discovery and invention take what always has been and make something that never has been. They have taken the lightning out of the sky and harnessed it to railroad trains, giant machines, and a thousand and one other uses. They even make electricity itself.

Adaptation of nature's resources to practical uses is making this world more wonderful every day.—Frank B. Craig.

Councillor Morrell told of various cases in his district. Discussion followed.

Seconded by Councillor Cossaboom. Moved in amendment by Councillor Hanksin that the matter be left until the May meeting of the Council; seconded by Councillor W. C. Woodman. On being put to vote the amendment carried.

Report of the Chairman of the Committee on Tenders and Public Property for the Year 1935

To the Warden and Councilors of the Municipality of the District of Digby.

Gentlemen—

Your Committee on Tenders and Public Property begs leave to present the following report for the year 1935—

COURT HOUSE

We had very little repairs this year, just the usual repairs to pipes, etc. Your Committee decided to let the building go another year before repairs need be started, on account of funds being scarce, but will have to be carried out this coming summer. Your committee would like for the council to decide just what should be done to save the building. Your amount of $1,200.00 placed as the estimate last year should be a re-vote for the year 1936. The amount of orders issued during the year for Court House maintenance, not including the janitor's salary, was $787.93. The janitor's salary was $787.93. The janitor's salary at the end of each month, at the rate of $40.00 per month, less ten per cent, amounting to $432.00 for the year, making a total amount of Court House maintenance for the year 1935, of $1,219.93. There was the amount received by the Treasurer from the Digby County Power Board for rental of room during the year of 1935. Also $— was received from the St. Patrick's church for use of council chamber for card parties for two months, which must count as a revenue from the building.

Your committee advertised for tenders for soft coal for the year 1936 and tenders were received from A. R. Turnbull and R. W. Sypher. The tender of A. R. Turnbull for Springfield screened soft coal, was accepted.

You voted for this department $1,200.00 for the year 1935. Your committee would recommend a vote of $1,200.00 for the year 1936 for Court House maintenance.

JAIL

Your committee issued orders during the year 1935 for Keep of Prisoners and Turnkey, repairs to plumbing, etc., and sundry articles, to the amount of $920.01. The Jailor's salary was paid by the Treasurer at $450 per month, less 10 per cent, making a total amount of Jail Maintenance of $1,460.01 for the year 1935. Your committee would recommend a vote of $1,500.00 for the year 1936.

OUTSIDE POOR

A. you only voted $3,000.00 for this service for the year 1935, you will have to vote the sum of $5,000.00 for the year 1936, unless some assistance is received from the Government. It does not look as if the relief for the year 1936 will be any smaller.

Your committee issued orders during the year 1935 for Poor Outside to the amount of $3,232.00. There is also a number of bills outstanding which I would estimate would bring this amount to $5,500.00 for the year 1936. As this amount seems an enormous amount for this small municipality, some arrangement will have to be made to get some assistance from the Government, as this municipality can hardly carry on as relief orders seem to be increasing rather than diminishing.

By keeping the different Districts separate, I am able to give you to whom the orders were issued. Persons Receiving Aid, Date Paid and the Amount, namely:

ACTIVITIES OF WILLING WORKERS. C. G. I. T. SANDY COVE

On Saturday afternoon, January 11th, the annual Dedication and Installation ceremony of the Willing Workers, C. G. I. T., was held at the home of their leader, Mrs. A. E. Eldridge, Hillside Farm. The girls, conducted their regular meeting after which they proceeded to the Dedication service, as prepared by the Girls' Work Board of the Maritime Religious Education Council. Each girl had as her guest at this meeting, her mother; those who found that their mother was unable to attend had the privilege of inviting another guest. There were twelve guests present and at the close the service was by the girls.

On the following Friday a treasure hunt was held by the girls, conducted by Mrs. Wm. Forsyth, who assists in the work of the C. G. I. T. The girls started from the United Church in Sandy Cove. Mrs. Forsyth told them where they should find their first directions (which were all in the form of a verse). The first found at the church door was:

Start toward Mink Cove,
Go fifty yards or less,
The turn-upside you will see
For it you cannot miss.

Here the girls found another verse which took them through the Woodland path, then on to Lenika Lodge, hence to Bay of Fundy breakwater, and from there to Dr. Bancroft's cottage. There they found the following message:

To Hillside Farm we go
Known to each C. G. I. T.
The Mistress of the farm
Has been friendly to you and me;
Outside the north back door
There, that is all I'll say.
Here's your treasure—pick it up.
Go in and say, "Good Day."

There the girls found the treasure in the form of a bag of molasses kisses. They went in to Mrs. Eldridge's and she had a nice hot cup of cocoa for each, which was very much appreciated after a long hike in the keen air.

ALMS HOUSE CAPITAL

Order, were issued during the year 1935 for Alms House repairs, Insurance Policies, Repairs to Barn Doors and Wells to the amount of $942.77. The water supply being our chief trouble, we found on investigation the upper well dry, the lower reservoir full, but on May 20th some two weeks later, the reservoir completely empty, with no water supply available. On May 29th your committee met, at the Alms House and it was decided to dig up some pipe from the reservoir to find where the connection was with the upper well. It was found about half way from the lower well to the main highway. We also round the upper well to be our only source of supply as the upper well lay the lower reservoir. It was then decided to order 840 lineal feet of 15-in. galvanized pipe to put in from the Main Highway, to the house. It was also decided to clean out the upper well and dig it larger and deeper, which was done, and new building, placed over the upper well. The building at the reservoir is to be shingled and repaired. This job was placed in the hands of the keeper to not what material and labor was required to carry on the work. After this work was done the water supply was better than it had been for years. The new pipe which we have on hand has not been laid yet, owing to the amount of work which had to be done on the farm, etc., but will be connected up in the early spring. Then I think the water supply will be taken care of for a number of years. The total cost of the renewing the water supply to the Home amounting to $465.94.

We at 1 had rods and turn buckles put through the house to stop the building from spreading. We also had to put new track and floor rollers on the beam door. The old ones were worn out. This work was done under the supervision of the Keeper.

We also found the inner walls of the Home ward, need repairing which will have to be done this coming spring as the plaster is off in several places, and would recommend that it be done to cover about six feet from the floors up.

We also had to have iron grate placed over all the windows of the men's dining ward, as some inmates got out of the building twelve times. Would recommend an amount of $300.00 be placed in the estimates for the year 1936 to sheath these walls in the inmate ward.

INSIDE POOR

Your committee issued orders for the year 1935 for Keep of the Poor and Maternity Home inside the Home to the amount of $4,367.22. We still have fifty-four inmates at the home at the end of the year. We also had the fence between the yard double-boarded, as ordered by the Inspector of Humane Institutions.

Your committee advertised for tender for Supplies, Boots and Shoes, Wood and Medical Attendance in two issues of the "Digby Courier," and tenders were received from the following:

Tenders for Food and Feed, etc.—A. A. Shortliffe, H. W. Tarnie and A. R. Turnbull. Tender of A. A. Shortliffe being the lowest, was accepted.

Tender for Hard and Soft Wood—James Franklin, A. W. Andrews, Roy C. Rice and Wilfred Connon. The tender of Roy C. Rice, being the lowest, was accepted.

Tender for Dry Goods was received from O. Wright. The being the only tender, was accepted.

Tender for Boots and Shoes and Rubber, from A. A. Pilon, being the only tender, was accepted.

Tenders for Medical Attendance for year 1936 were received from W. C. Harris, M. D. and W. R. Dickie, M. D. The tender of Dr. Harris, being the lowest, was accepted.

Your committee finds during the last few years the cost per day per inmate, including the food, clothing, boots and shoes, etc., heat, light, medical and other attendance has been as follows:

1927	0.246
1928	0.246
1929	0.242
1930	0.234
1931	0.223
1932	0.227
1933	0.22
1934	0.20
1935	0.213

Respectfully submitted,

E. F. HANKINSON

Chairman of Committee on Tenders and Public Property.

REPORT COVERING OPERATION OF THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC SYSTEM OF THE DIGBY COUNTY POWER BOARD FOR THE YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31, 1935

To the Chairman and Members of the Digby County Power Board.

Gentlemen:—We are again able to report a splendid improvement in the operation of the Hydro-Electric System for the year 1935, not only in the kilowatt hours sold and new customers gained but in the continuous operation of the entire system. Considerable work was done through the year to improve all parts of the system and we can look forward with confidence to the coming year.

Water Storage System.—A reasonable water storage was maintained throughout the year and at no time was any shortage of water experienced, although considerable water was used for log driving purposes. A new Dam was built at Grand Lake and is a splendid job in every way. This dam is about 600 feet long, with about a 12-foot head. 500 feet of this dam is of permanent construction being built of concrete with a wall and well ballasted with good gravel fill which is protected by rip-rap. The spillway and gate sections are constructed of angular log cribbing with plank facing and is filled with rock. It is also well ballasted. There are also two shorter dams a short distance from the main dam measuring in all about 300 feet. These are built entirely of stone with good gravel ballast. This entire job was completed for the sum of $11,257.83, which is at least $3,000.00 lower than was estimated. This dam will greatly improve our storage and regulation and is, I hope, a start toward the building up of a permanent storage system.

Generating Plant.—The plants at Weymouth Mills and Sis-Boo Falls have given splendid service throughout the year, with the output increased 125,970 Kw-Hrs. For the first time the output has gone over the million mark, the amount actually generated for the year was 1,223,370 Kw-Hrs. The output for 1934 was 996,400 Kw-Hrs. This increase was generated with very small additional cost and will more than cover the annual fixed charges on Grand Lake Dam.

Transmission Line.—The main Transmission line between the Power House and Digby shows a very good improvement over previous years, in continuous service, as during the whole year this line was only off the total of one hour and ten minutes, with exception of one or a number of times for regular Sunday afternoon shutdowns which was necessary for repair work. This improvement was in spite of the fact that several sections of this line had to be moved back and rebuilt on account of highway construction. A total of $1,648.39 had to be expended in strengthening out the different sections of the line, adding new guys and guy stanchions. No doubt a small amount of this work will have to be continued in 1936.

The operation of the Digby Neck transmission line has been greatly improved as there was only one shutdown of any duration during the entire year and this was due to a transmission at East Ferry being out of Commission on account of lightning. The same can be said of the Clair transmission line, as the number of enforced shutdowns were very few, excepting, of course, a number of times when the line was taken off in order that work might be done on the line.

A small addition to the transmission line was made during the year at Freeport, and was built to supply Connor, Brothers, Limited, fish meal plant.

The amount of energy sold to our customers during the year was increased by nearly 100,000 Kw-Hrs. and is shown herewith:

	1935	1934
Town of Digby	400,769	396,811
Municipality of Digby	211,331	185,018
Municipality of Clare	75,468	71,462
Village of Weymouth	50,270	52,080
Maritime Fish Company	71,321	37,229
Canadian Pacific Railway	4,400
Connors Bros. Ltd.	24,070
Kw.-Hrs.	842,929	742,670

The Town of Digby, Village of Weymouth and the Municipalities of Digby and Clare not only show a good increase in energy sold but also in the number of customers connected to their system throughout the year and the increase is shown herewith:—

	New	Total Dec. 31, 1935
Town of Digby	28	445
Municipality of Digby	62	765
Municipality of Clare	32	249
Village of Weymouth	6	139
	128	1,598

These customers, with the Maritime Fish Company, Connors Bros. Ltd. and the Canadian Pacific Railways show the total number of customers connected to the whole system.

The amount of energy used by Connors Bros. Ltd. is rather disappointing as it was estimated their plant would use about 80,000 Kw-Hrs. on the 12 months basis. They were in operation seven months, and used less than 25,000 Kw-Hrs. We realize, of course, that a poor season was responsible to a great extent for this decrease.

The Financial Statement attached to this report shows a gross income of $36,199.82 and is a very healthy increase over that of 1934, which was $32,428.24. The ordinary expenditure only show an increase of $124.34 over the previous year but the extra transmission line expenditure brings the total expenditure up to $31,758.21, which still leaves an operating profit of $4,441.61.

A surplus is likely to continue in 1936, the indication is that a reduction of rates, should be given the Town of Digby, Municipality of Digby, Village of Weymouth and the Municipality of Clare, and would recommend that a reduction of one-half cent per Kw-Hr. be given the above mentioned customers in the first step of the price rate. This will make a reduction in the board's revenue of a little over $2,200.00 and should be a very great help to the above customers.

This year the merchandising statement is shown separately and it shows a small operating profit for the year. The activity of this department was curtailed by the fire of January 6th, 1935, which completely destroyed the Warm Block and left the Board without any sales or store room for the greater part of the year. The Board has finally been able to relocate in the Hadden Building where we are now occupying good, spacious and office quarters.

All accounts have been audited and a statement of same is being submitted and we take pleasure in presenting the above for your inspection.

Signed, H. J. CAMPBELL

Superintendent

Report of the Auditors.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board, Digby County Power Board, Digby, N. S.

Gentlemen:—In accordance with our duties as auditors of the Digby County Power Board we have completed an audit of the books and accounts of the Board for the year ending December 31st, 1935, and have prepared therefrom a Balance Sheet and Revenue and Expenditure Account for the year and these are attached.

Cash on hand has been verified periodically by count and found to be correct.

The balances at the bank have been reconciled with the bank's records, and certified by your banker.

Investments on hand have been certified by your manager.

Sinking Fund holdings in the hands of the Acadia Trust Company have been reconciled with the certificate from the Company.

Stated of Electric Current were $3,852.19 greater than in the previous year, as the Revenue and Expense Account shows a profit on operations of $4,704.75 and against $3,117.08 for 1934. During the year the Board has made certain alterations to the Transmission Line for purpose of adjustment with the new highway, at a cost of $1,648.39. This expense was charged to Revenue and Expense Account and the above figure of $4,704.75 was after charging this amount.

No depreciation was provided for the Grand Lake Dam as construction of this new asset was not completed until late in the year. The construction of this new asset was financed in part out of additional Bank Loan as shown by an increase in loans from $3,000.00 to $12,000.00 at December 31st, 1935.

We have received the information and explanations we have required and in our opinion the attached Balance Sheet properly sets forth the position of the Board at the date thereof.

Respectfully submitted,

BELTEA, MCNEICE & COMPANY

Chartered Accountants and Auditor.

REPORT OF THE AUDITORS

To the Warden and Councilors, Municipality of Digby, N. S.

Gentlemen:—We have completed the audit of the books and records of the Municipality for the year ending December 31, 1935, and have to report as follows:—

We have prepared from the books the following statements, which are attached hereto:

1—Balance Sheet Statement of Assets and Liabilities as at December 31, 1935.

2—Statement of Accrued Revenue, and Expenditure for the year ending December 31, 1935.

3—Statement of Cash Receipts and Cash Disbursements and proof of Bank for the year ending December 31, 1935.

4—Detailed Statement of Conflicting Accounts.

Receipts and Disbursements have been examined with original records and all monies received have been deposited to the bank account. The bank balances have been reconciled and have been verified with the bank.

Current tax collections show an increase over last year of $4,295.14, with total collection of taxes showing an increase of $489.52 from the previous year. There was collected on the 1935 levy the sum of $40,133.80, or approximately 84 per cent, which is a good showing.

The bank overdraft of $12,401.05 against the County at January 1, 1935, has been reduced to $560.52 as at December 31st, 1935.

The debt to the Provincial Government for Highway Tax has also been paid.

There is however a large sum now owing to the N. S. Sanatorium and this is a matter which should be given attention. The charge for this hospitalization is a heavy drain each year upon the County.

We find that all collectors are bonded with the exception of Mr. Denton and we draw this matter to your attention. There is also the matter of the continuance of the guarantee of bondsmen for collectors, where the ordinary collector's list is taken over by a special collector, and it would be advisable to have your legal adviser's opinion on this.

Cash received from Collectors has been checked against their final returns for the year.

The statement of Accrued Revenue and Expenditure show a deficit for the year of $2,196.27.

We Remain, Yours Truly,

BELTEA, MCNEICE & CO.

Children's Colds Should Have This Safe Treatment

Young Mothers Benefit from Two Generations' Proof of This External Treatment
For Fighting Colds.

IT AVOIDS CONSTANT "DOSING"

There's nothing like a child's cold to upset a young mother. And mothers of two generations, anxious to help end colds, have depended on Vicks VapoRub. It is effective—external—and safe. It avoids the risks of constant "dosing," so often upsetting to children's delicate digestions. Just rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, VapoRub acts two ways:

1. By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster—
2. By inhalation of its penetrating medicinal vapors, released by body heat and inhaled in direct to inflamed air-passages.

Continuing through the night, this combined vapor-therapy action loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion.

A Practical Guide for Mothers—

Each year, more and more families are being helped to fewer colds and shorter colds by Vicks Plan for Fighting Colds. Vicks Plan has been clinically tested by practicing physicians, and further proved in everyday home use by millions. Full details of the Plan in each package of Vicks VapoRub.

COLD

Simple colds too often lead to the most serious of illnesses—this is cold season. It is best to be prepared and commence dosing as the first "sniffle". A wise person never takes chances with a cold.

FAITH IN ENDURING THINGS

(By Nathan Howard Gist)

Faith is the virtue that is highly essential if we would make the most of life. The reason people lose courage and become faint-hearted is because they first lose faith. Let faith be restored, then comes courage, and then the power to go forward.

It is easy to lose faith because people have lost so much else in the last half dozen years. It is hard to tell some individuals that anything of value remains in this world, or in their own lives. The dollar sign looms large. The depression, the stock market crash, the wiping out of dividends, the loss of savings, of home, of position have been severe enough to squelch the strongest.

But very much remains. The forces that endure are still with us, and they are able to accomplish as much as ever, if we do not lose faith in them. They mean greater security for us than our army and navy. They insure true liberty and inward peace more than any material force that we might name. We may walk in the shade, or we may walk on the sunny side of the street. In the shade we find a great company of folk, "faint with the strife" and trudging on with no great objective and with little hope of better things.

On the sunny side of the street are the great saints, the benefactors, the mighty statesmen, the emancipators of the race, the prophets, the people of vision, the tired but true fathers

There are more loaves of better bread in every bag of "Regal" Flour—more joy for the baker, too. Every member of the family loves bread made the "Regal" way.

These people on the sunny side stand for something definite. The positive in their makeup is more pleasing and more satisfying than all of the negatives to be seen on the other side of the street. The sunny-side people are life. The people in the shade are eating old crow.

There are certain basic principles that we should ponder over, and adopt in our lives. There is a just God who never sleeps. What He has done in the past He can do again, and will do as soon as we cure ourselves of moral malnutrition, feed on the realities of life, and leave alone the husks of materialism.

In every crisis of the world there has been enough reserve force to stem the tides of adversity and bring order out of chaos. If a spirit of independence and initiative is maintained; if hard work is made to supplant slothful ease; if the natural laws of give and take, of supply and demand, of life and live, of competition and co-operation are obeyed, with genuine effort superseding artificial distinctions, and sincerity replacing shams, then we are adopting the forces that endure.

We must not lose faith in ourselves. If we do, we are whipped. In the last analysis God, love, honor, justice, and everlasting plodding will win.

KING'S BIRTHDAY WILL BE OBSERVED AS A HOLIDAY

Canada this year and hereafter will celebrate the birthday of its new king, Edward VIII, on a holiday, King, Edward VIII, on June 23, with joy, having to change the law.

The Secretary of State's department explains the revised statutes of 1927 call for proclamation of a statutory holiday on the birthday of the reigning king or on the day set aside for celebration of the birthday. The alternative provides for a statutory holiday when the king's birthday falls on a Sunday.

King George's birthday—June 3—was observed as a statutory holiday but not as a general public holiday.

27th of May. Found the pipe leading from the upper well to the lower well, O. K. I dug the spring out deeper and larger, put a new wall of stone and cement all around and a new well house with cupola on top. On lower reservoir put whole side new rafters, board and shingled both sides and new floor. When completed, found water supply better than ever before. Finding pipe from spring to reservoir all right, there was 800 ft. of pipe bought to go from house to good pipe, which was not put down as owing to amount of work to be done. I had not time to do it. It is here on hand and I would suggest you have it put down in the Spring. I also had rods and turnbuckles put through the house from one side to the other to stop spreading. Found house had started to spread lengthways, and put one rod to stop that spread. I put new track and rollers on barn and garage doors to replace ones worn out. That was all needed for the spring.

HARD FIGHT TO GET MAN TO HOSPITAL

Waging a stiff fight against the snow, the Digby Neck bus, Guy Morehouse, driver, made a "merry trip" to the Digby General Hospital on Sunday from Centreville, covering the distance of fifteen miles in a little more than three hours. Guy Morehouse, 22 years of age, of Centreville, had been stricken with an attack of acute appendicitis. To save his life it was necessary to get him to the Digby hospital for an operation. The bus, equipped with plough and manned by twenty-eight men armed with shovels, started out with the patient. Temperature was below zero. The road was choked with hard snow—more like cakes of ice than snow cakes.

Along the route men and boys joined with the crew of the bus in breaking roads. At Digby Joshua Helge and the local detachment of the R. C. M. P. did everything possible in getting out a volunteer crew to break the Neck road in order that the bus could make better progress on this end. Mr. Helge and the others felt their helpers and those who helped on the bus, on its arrival in town.

Shortly after reaching the hospital Mr. Morehouse was operated on and is now reported as progressing favorably.

En Route to Montreal—Sanford Davis, of R. H. Davis & Co., Ltd., Yarmouth, was a visitor to Digby on Wednesday, en route to Montreal. Still More To Be Done—Silt machines in various establishments in town have been removed, nevertheless, complaints of other devices operated on somewhat the same principle, reach us. Is anything going to be done? We note by the daily press where a campaign against them has started in New Brunswick.

One of our poor, harmless insane inmates, has beaten through plaster and lath to outside boards and I would suggest having that wall sheathed—but really all walls should be sheathed. One of our inmates—Israel Amaro—got out twelve times, tearing away the window grates. I had them refilled with iron bars, of which the Inspector approved, stating it should have been done long before. I also had the yard fence double-boarded, which was left over from last year.

Respectfully submitted,
EBER B. BALSER, Supr.

BAND NOTES

At tonight's concert by the Civic Band four new instruments will be heard for the first time. The band consists of a tuba, played by Garnet Taylor; a Bass Trombone, played by John Moulis; and two mellophones, played by John Moulis and Glen Balle. The latter playing his own instrument. A solo, "Deep Bass" illustrating the ponderous deep tone of the tuba, which will be played by Bud Winchester. A vocal solo, "A-lee in the Deep," with band accompaniment, will be sung by Mrs. E. L. Ellis, a talented and trained vocalist. The entire programme is new. The Souvenir Valentine programmes are very attractive and worth keeping, but if sent to distant friends, will be good advertising for Digby.

In preparation for a proposed series of monthly Sacred Concerts after church service and beginning with Sunday, March 1st, the Band has purchased a set of Gloria Band Books containing 70 sacred songs, and hymn tunes, arranged for band and also a number of book, containing sacred music of the same for use by the audience. The concert, which has been greatly enjoyed in other towns, and the few given in Digby have been well attended. No fee admission is charged but collectors are stationed at the door to receive contributions. A collection, but being called a "Silver Collection," nothing less than a dime is acceptable, except from the children.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Perry, of Freeport, returned last week from Halifax where Mr. Perry underwent an operation at the Victoria General Hospital, and have been spending some few days in Digby with his sister Mrs. Ernest Collins.

It was decided to hold the annual Board of Trade banquet in the near future, and arrange, if possible, to have J. L. Dolan, Federal Director of Tourist Publicity, a speaker. The matter of the banquet was left in the hands of the Entertainment Committee.

It was also decided to look into the matter of a Sports Day during the first or second week of August. This, too, was left in the hands of the Entertainment Committee, who were given power to add to their numbers.

Capt. G. M. Morrell made his report on membership, and stated that there were now some 60 paid-up members of the Digby Board of Trade. It was decided to hold a meeting at least once in three months. Mr. Peck reported he had been in touch with government officials in respect to establishing a tourist information bureau at his shop. The Board promised all support possible and drew up a resolution for Mr. Peck to be passed on to the Hon. A. S. MacMillan, Minister of Highways. Mr. Peck's bureau, it is understood, will be confined chiefly to

Radio License Delinquents Fined

H. A. Vaughn, of the Radio Department of the Department of Marine, who, with Corporal Kennedy, of the local detachment of the R. C. M. Inspector Vaughn has asked the press to give a warning to all who have not as yet obtained their licenses. A check up is being made throughout the whole Dominion. Radio Licenses may be obtained at the local Post Office.

The sum of $10 was voted to the Publicity Committee for the purpose of supplying photographs of the town in an answer to request, which had been received. P. W. Holdsworth read the report on the information of the Order of Good Cheer, which dealt with the work and benefits the province expected to receive through this organization.

An acknowledgement was made of the town's compliance to the request of the Board to blow the fire siren at noon instead of at night.

SPECIAL MEETINGS IN TIVERTON

On January 16th Rev. George W. Titus, of Saint John, Maritime Evangelist, started a series of special evangelistic meetings in the Christian church at Tiverton, closing on Sunday last. Mr. Titus was assisted by Rev. J. W. Derby, of Westport, during the whole period. Rev. Donald Stockford, pastor of the Christian church in Southville and South Harbour, also spent a few days on the field and took charge of the singing in which he was a great help. On Friday, Mr. Stockford, for the last evening there, special music was rendered by male voices—a quartette, quartette, duet and a solo, the last by Mr. Stockford. Despite the inclemency of the weather the meetings were well attended and great interest was shown. Two fine young men were baptized and received into the church.

Stepping backward and falling through an open trap door leading into the cellar, Mrs. Watson Holmes, of Centerville, was painfully injured last week. Two ribs were fractured, and it is feared she suffered internal injuries. It is believed her arm caught in the rungs of the steps and held her suspended until help came from her husband and son, Hyram, who were at home at the time. Mrs. Holmes is 70 years of age.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to O. Wright and J. B. Balch, who are now in the region of the Sunny South, for several bundles of southern newspapers. We like to get these strange newspapers and we read them with interest to get their viewpoint on world matters and to see how they handle the local topic. We have also had a number of cards from them en route, the last with a view of the Suwanee River, with the notation, "We crossed this yesterday." We are glad to learn they are enjoying themselves.

Local and Personal

Miss Adelle Melancon, of Saulnierville, has been spending a few days in town this week.

TONIGHT BAND CONCERT

The February meeting of the Women's Auxiliary will take place at the home of Mrs. C. E. Walker on Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

Perhaps we ought to rub on wood, but when Chicago calls it is the best of a century, with 250 deaths arising from it, we here can't quite take it in.

No Band can last long without appreciation and encouragement. Give our Band a good house tonight.

Miss Adelle MacKinnon and little Dorothy, returned on Tuesday from LaHave, where they have been spending the past few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Beaton.

Mrs. T. R. Speedy was a week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Christie, en route to her home in St. Stephen after attending the funeral of Mrs. O. C. Jones, in Kentville.

A Card Social will be held in the New St. Patrick's Hall, in aid of the Catholic Church, under the auspices of the young ladies, on Feb. 19th. Door price, $2.00 cash; Special, 10c chair prize.

Mrs. Alma W. Kurkamp, who has been seriously ill, at the Digby General Hospital, has returned to Exeter, greatly improved. She will shortly return to her home in Louisville, Kentucky.

A Valentine Social is being given by the B. Y. Y. U. of the United Baptist church tonight. The Young People's Union of the United Church have been invited and no doubt the attendance will be good.

The Misses Virginia Budrow and Florence Hayden, who entered the Highland View Hospital in Amherst on probation, passed their probationary examinations last week, and have been issued their uniforms.

The Antigonish store of the Nova Scotia Temperance Commission has been instructed to discontinue the sale of cheap Canadian wine. Similar instructions were given to the Innverness store a short time ago.

We are in receipt of a wire from M. P. Levy Co., New York, advising us they are now selling high scallops, at $2.00 per gallon, with excellent prospects. The wire advises the frozen scallop market in New York has been cleaned up.

Owing to a lightly indistinct type-writing in the copy handed us by the Civic Band advertising last week, we made the price of tickets for tonight's concert, 25 cents. Of course everyone knows it should have been 35 cents.

While at work helping to fill the ice house of the Maritime Fish Corporation's plant at the Racquette, Arch Hand-packer of Mount Pleasant, met with a painful accident on Monday, when the hoisting cable taking the ice to the ice house broke, the block striking Hand-packer on the leg, fracturing it last week.

Warnings are being issued against over-exertion during storms. Don't plow through deep snow for your heart may not stand it. Don't attempt to push your car and don't do too much shovelling. The exertion to which you are not accustomed may be all that is needed to snap something in your heart. Take it easy.

Lie Donald McDormand, of Bear River, went west last year and is now settled as pastor of the Baptist church in Chinle, Alberta. His church recently presented him with a new motor car and also the gas and oil to run it. On a recent Sunday he exchanged pupils with his brother, Rev. Thomas McDormand, of Edmonton.

Vincent Baxter found a butterfly in his woodpile on Saturday; the editor of The Tint, Tattler, Central Grove, was handed a full-blown water lily which had been cut out of a cake of ice in that village last week; and a Digby lady informs us she has picked a number of pussy willows last Sunday. "Go! Go! Go!" Perhaps we only imagine it feels cold.

According to the recent announcement of the National Safety Council 99,000 Americans died in accidents last year or one every six minutes. In addition there were 365,000 permanently injured; 9,100,000 temporarily disabled; 271 killed every day; 11 every hour; 1,000 permanently injured every day; 41 every hour. Motor vehicle crashes brought death to 36,400, while 31,500 fatalities occurred in home accidents.

Mrs. E. G. Lynch, of Halifax, has been spending the week in town.

Mrs. Harriett Cowan, of Bridgetown, spent the week end at her home here.

H. H. Marshall is attending Fisheries Supervisors Conference in Halifax this week.

The Digby Fire Department wish to thank Fritz Dakin and Charles Lindstrom for generous cash donations.

Mrs. Viola Ellis has come to Lunenburg where she will spend a few weeks with her brother, D. H. Collins, principal of the Academy in that town.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Marshall, of Yarmouth, passed through Digby this week en route to Montreal, on a visit. They were accompanied by Mr. Marshall's mother, who is returning home.

A. J. Dillon was the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Digby Kiwanis Club Tuesday, and delivered a most interesting talk on the history and uses of rubber. At this meeting George W. Titus, now of Saint John, and immediately past president of the Harrison, Ohio, Kiwanis Club, was a guest.

Middleton Maple Leaves in Lead For Championship

Middleton Maple Leaves are well along the road leading to the Central Valley Hockey Championship by defeating the Bridgetown Hawks, champions since 1933 by a 7-2 score on Wednesday night. This was the first game of the playoff finals. Middleton will meet Bridgetown to-night for the second and final match of the series, and will go on the ice with a five goal lead over their opponents.

Fire At Digby 37 Years Ago

Many residents of Digby County will remember this day thirty-seven years ago, for, in the midst of a blinding snow storm from the north-east, a frightful fire broke out, and swept over the business section of the town.

The fire alarm was given at 9:45 p. m., while many of the merchant of the town were attending a party given by one of their number in honor of his wedding anniversary.

The blizzard which was raging had pulled up the snow so that the D. N. A. train could not get through, and it stood there blocking the streets. The blaze was first noticed in the basement of Letteney's store, and it was not long before the firemen had the fire apparatus in place.

The cold was so intense that the workers became incensed in ice, but the velocity of the wind made their best efforts ineffectual.

The flames spread rapidly, on both sides of the main street. Soon nearly every building in the vicinity was in flames. When morning came the fire had been brought under control, but the people of Digby were greeted by a scene of utter desolation in their main artery. Ice and snow covered the furniture and wares which had been carried into the streets, and only smoldering foundations remained where stores had been. "History Brief," Halifax Herald.

3600 Veterans Are Making Journey

Registrations of ex-service men and dependents for the Canadian Legion's pilgrimage to Vimy Ridge in July, which closes March 12, number 3600, with the deadline one month away. Brig. General Alex. Ross, Dominion President of the organization, stated at Ottawa recently.

At present four liners have been definitely allotted to the pilgrimage. These are the Duchess of Cornwall, the Montrose, the Ascania and the Antonia. They will sail from Montreal July 15.

SLOT MACHINES TOSSED OVERBOARD

Trate passengers aboard the United States liner Manhattan, during the recent passage from New York to Havre, France, tossed overboard all the ship's slot machines from the cabin-class café, it was learned in Havre when the ship docked. The "slot machine party" was believed to have occurred at night, but it was not known whether the machines were first emptied of the hundreds of dollars which the passengers lost in their joust, with Lady Luck, or not. It was stated each of the machines weighed 65 pounds.

Decisions Reserved in Two County Cases

At the February session of the County Court, His Honor Judge W. A. Livingstone, for County Court District No. 2, presided, and two civil suits were dealt with. Decision was reserved in both cases.

The first case on the docket occupied all day Tuesday. This was the case of MacAlpine v. Colp, in which Freeman MacAlpine, Sea Brook farmer, was suing L. R. Colp for money he alleged was due him for hauling lumber from Colp's mill on the Shelburne Road, to Digby. This was during the winter of 1934. MacAlpine claims he was not paid for all the lumber he hauled.

The case to come before the court on Wednesday was that of O'Neill v. Stark, in which Clifford O'Neill, a teacher, is suing Frank Stark as the result of an alleged attack on O'Neill's daughter, Alice, by Stark's son, on the night of September 4. The girl, who on that evening was visiting the Stark home, was seated on the couch with the dog, when

TEACHER TO BE CHOSEN

Several applications have been received by Alfred Bodeh, Secretary of the Digby Board of School Commissioners, for the position of teacher for Grade VII and VIII of the Digby Academy. The vacancy in this room was caused through the serious illness of the teacher, Mrs. Josephine Driffield, who recently underwent an operation in Halifax. Mrs. Bodeh is substituting for the time being. It is understood there is to be a special meeting of the Board soon to select a teacher from the applications received.

Just before going to press last evening we learned that the Digby School Board had engaged Gerald Archibald, of Amherst, as teacher for Grades VII and VIII for the remainder of the term. Mr. Archibald is a graduate of Mount Allison University.

The animal turned on her and bit her in 17 places, some of the wounds requiring stitches.

No evidence was brought in that the dog had actually bitten any person before that date, although witnesses for O'Neill testified they were afraid of the animal. On the other hand, there were witnesses for Stark who testified the animal was of a gentle disposition.

LOST TIME

Lost time in the life of the average man or woman amounts to several years—scientists say to more than three years. That's some time when age is limited to 70 years.

Some of this time is lost through sickness or other incapacity, some actually wasted on pleasure and diversions that add nothing to our intelligence or well-being, and some through mistakes.

A mistake made today and corrected tomorrow may have wasted two days, so far as mental and physical labor are concerned.

What tragically there is described in those two words, "lost time," forever gone. If properly utilized, it might have given us successful lives instead of lives filled with disappointments.

"The death penalty does not discourage crime," says one geologist, "but it is pretty discouraging to the one experiencing it."

STEADINESS

One secret of success is steadiness. To succeed one must do the same type of high-grade work day in and day out. A worthy goal is not won by working intensely for one week and then easing off.

A wise boss will pay slight attention to a new employee until he has been on the job a month or two. By that time the real character of the new man begins to manifest itself.

The record of the typical champion football player, for instance, will reveal that besides performing some unusual feat in almost every game, he played a steady game every minute he was on the field.

The successful athlete is a master of every department of the game in which he excels. A successful golfer is equally skillful in putting, driving and the use of his irons. He plays every shot as though the outcome of the match depended on its success.

Steadiness requires courage and perseverance—qualities that in some part are denied to no one. If you cultivate these qualities you can enjoy some measure of success whatever your job may be.

For the successful man is he who does his best all the time, while his fellow workmen are content to do just enough to get by.

TAX FACTS

(By B. C. Forbes, Noted Financial Writer.)

Ownership of a home is accounted the most precious of all possessions.

What forces so many families to give up their homes?

Taxes cause the loss of more homes than any other one thing. Real estate taxes have become oppressively, shockingly, cruelly heavy.

Of course, you don't escape the tax burden when you part with your own home and start paying rent.

One exhaustive study finds that four months' rent each year goes to pay the taxes on the property rented.

Who pays?
The landlord?

No.
The tenants.

Yet self-seeking politicians who love to spend other people's money would have us believe that only the rich pay taxes!

About the most fruitful source of revenue we can think of is the taxation of national expenditures.

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism; neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with "Aspirin."

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin," most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: "Aspirin" is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

REMINISCENCE OF THE KING

(Annapolis Spectator)

While our thoughts have been dwelling on H. M. the late King George V, we are wont to recall a reminiscence of the time when he visited our town in 1884, then a young man of eighteen.

There are those who remember a fishing trip he took to a nearby lake when Mr. acted as guide. The old gentleman knew he belonged to royalty or held an honorable position in the world of some kind, yet didn't know just how to address him.

After stumbling over all the high sounding titles he could think of, such as "Your Majesty," "Prince," "My Lord," etc., he was lost in bewilderment. The Prince, meeting his embarrassment, wishing to put him at ease, said calmly, "Oh, just call me George," to which the old man replied, "Dan it, sonny, I think you're right."

THIS "MODERATION" BUSINESS

Neighbor Ben has been away for a good while and I have missed his interesting calls. But the other evening he came to see me, and he was in a chatty though somewhat confused mood. "I don't know after all," he said, "but what you're right in your attitude to this whole liquor business—that we ought to come up higher than the moderate drinker's ground." At once I was all ears, to catch what my good friend had to say, for this seemed a new doctrine from Neighbor Ben with his traditional take-it-or-leave-it philosophy on the liquor question. "I have been away, a bit," he went on, "and I have been seeing things, to make me think there is more to be said for total abstinence than I and thousands of other decent people have been ready to believe. When I set what is going on in the United States, with the fences down almost everywhere; when I see how this so-called beverage room policy is working out in Ontario, and everywhere I find that liquor is mixed up so much with our highway disasters, and our criminal cases in court rooms; I am wondering whether we do not need something better for our day and for our country, than a sort of camouflage flagrant system. It simply isn't good enough. Do you know, I feel just straight mean and selfish to be smuggling myself up in a comfortable moderate drinker's robes, when in order to give me my chance to drink when I like and leave it alone when I like, the whole community of young and old must be subjected to the lure and the perils of the respectable liquor stores."

Neighbor Ben surprised me with his confessions, and his seeming change of mind. But he had more to say, so I let him run on. "My good friend," he said, "I am never going to call you a crank again, I am not nearly so comfortable as I used to be about this whole moderation business, have been reading and thinking a bit alone some new lines, and I have my doubts about there being all the good in liquor that I used to think there was. If I am to believe the words of the scientist, and even the sportsman today, I am afraid I'll have to give over a lot of my old pet notions about the good of whiskey and brandy, and all that. And on top of that, I must confess I feel guilty of a bigger share of responsibility for this whole business of liquor buying and selling than I ever before thought. Indeed my question today is whether it is not just the way of salvation from this flood of liquor that seems to be let loose all over this continent."

SUN LIFE SEES DEFINITE SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT

Definite signs of improvement in general business conditions can be gathered from the 65th annual report of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada just released for publication by Arthur B. Wood, president and managing director. The statement reflects the strength and stability of life insurance, a voluntary co-operative movement which for generations has stood every test. Life insurance companies' annual statements, always considered barometers of general business conditions in the territories they operate in, during the depression and since 1933 have shown, in no uncertain terms, that general business is making headway.

The Sun Life's financial statement for 1935 shows still further strengthening and improvement. Just as the report for 1934 showed progress over 1933, the year the depression reached its low point.

Assets of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada stood at an all-time high at the year-end, an increase of forty-one million dollars for 1935, and are now over seven hundred and seven million dollars.

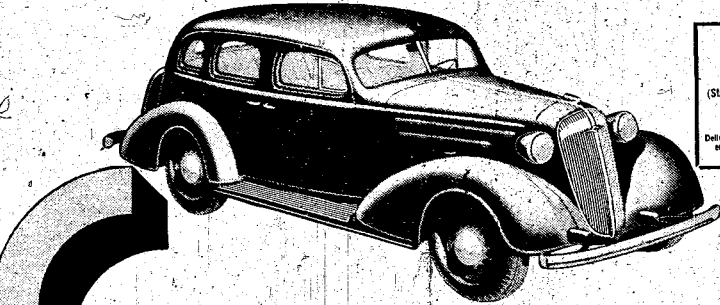

Another definite sign of improved business and a lessening of unemployment, gathered at the meeting, is the increase in Group Assurance, designed primarily for commercial and industrial plants. This phase of the Sun Life's business shows an increase for the year of twenty-three per cent.

Payments to policy holders and their beneficiaries since the company was organized 65 years ago exceed nine hundred and sixty-eight million dollars and during 1935 payments of this nature were over eight million dollars.

VALVE-IN-HEAD ENGINE
Completes ITS VALUE

TESTS bring facts to light... and every test of Chevrolet performance adds further confirmation to the fact that the Valve-in-Head engine is the very best kind for a low-priced car. Two reasons tell why. First, the inherent design of this type of engine (used on racing cars, airplanes, speedboats) produces extra power. Second, the shaping of the cylinder head forces fuel to burn evenly and completely, saving you money on gas. Conventional engines can't do both these things at the same time; engineers agree you must have a Valve-in-Head engine to get this matchless power-economy combination. But let your own driving test furnish the proof. Drop in and drive a Chevrolet today. Easy 7% GMAC time payments.

and they say their average catch is better than it has been for ten years. This does not mean, of course, that more fish have been caught; since the commission set a quota of 46,000,000 pounds on the catch. What it does mean is that the individual fish are larger, and the individual catches better.

"If the halibut treaty had not been passed, they would now be getting less than 17,000,000 pounds."

"It is the first time any large marine fishery in the world has been handled in such a way, without indication that it will be successful, but there is plenty of work still to be done."

NATIONAL FARM PAPER GROWS IN POPULARITY

Despite hard times, the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Canada's National Farm Magazine is able to report steady progress. Circulation continues to grow, indicating that there is as great a demand as ever for clean, entertaining and helpful reading matter, as provided by this popular rural weekly.

The Family Herald and Weekly Star always meets the general reading requirements of farmers and their families. The information on farm and farm matters it contains is alone worth many times the subscription price. Add to this the delightful stories, up-to-the-minute articles, the Women's and Children's sections, the unique and much-loved Sunday section, and you have a veritable storehouse of reading, to bring pleasure to every member of the family. At $1.00 per year, the Family Herald and Weekly Star cannot be equaled; at the special rate of $2.00 for four years the value in reading given surpasses beyond compare that given by any paper on the Continent.

GROUNDHOG SEES SHADOW AT WEYMOUTH

The groundhog came out Sunday, saw his shadow, and promptly trotted back into his winter residence to hibernate for another six weeks and to very likely ruminate on the versatility, and ill nature of a weatherman, who could produce so much discomfort within a single twenty-four hour.

which kept all but the hardest Weymouthers, beside the fire, and protected from the gale which swept over here from Saturday evening until Monday.

Drifts swept from the remains of the last snow-fall piled up the highways, in every direction impeding traffic, cars having to be abandoned and left on the roads.

While other sections of the Province have been the scenes of traffic tie-ups during the season, Weymouth has been comparatively free from the serious storms or blizzards and the present highway conditions were caused by snow which fell several days ago, but which the wind had blown into places designed to promote the refinement of inconvenience.

IGNORANCE OF THE BIBLE

At Cornell University a test was given recently to examine the knowledge of the student in regard to the Holy Scriptures. The following ten representative questions were asked:

- 1.—Name the Trinity.
- 2.—What is "original sin"?
- 3.—What are the Beatitudes?
- 4.—What reason does the dove symbolize?
- 5.—What is the Epiphany?
- 6.—What is the first commandment?
- 7.—Why did the children of Israel go to Egypt?
- 8.—Who is the legendary author of The Proverbs?
- 9.—Who visited the Witch of Endor?
- 10.—What is the Transfiguration?

RECORD SWORDFISH CATCH FOR NOVA SCOTIA IN 1935.

Nova Scotia's catch of swordfish during the 1935 season and that meant in all Canada, for Nova Scotia is the only province where the "worder" are taken—was the greatest.

test in the records of the Dominion Fisheries, amounting to almost 22,000 hundredweight, or 2,200,000 pounds. The liver, formerly regarded as valueless, are now in demand, for science has discovered they are rich in vitamins.

The greater part of the Dominion's swordfish catch is taken off the Louisbourg-Glace Bay area of Cape Breton. Most of the fish are packed in ice and shipped to New York for distribution. N. W. York Times.

THE MOTTO

A London woman writes, to the press, to say she has in her possession a family Bible, in which the late King George V wrote the following inscription in 1891 when he was serving in H. M. S. Thrush.

"The secret of life is not to do what one likes, but to like what one has to do."

It is a motto worthy of a place on the walls of every home in this country.

The results of the test were made known by Dr. Morris G. Bishop, and these startling facts were revealed: The average grade of this University student was only 25.3 per cent. In a class of ninety, thirteen made zero. Two students thought John Paul and Peter were the Trinity.

GRAND DIVISION MEETS HERE

The first quarterly session of the Grand Division of Nova Scotia, Sons of Temperance, was held in the United Church Hall, yesterday afternoon and evening, with a fairly good attendance considering the condition of the roads, delegates being present from as far east as Halifax and as far west as Yarmouth. The reports of the officers and executive showed the Order to be in a very encouraging condition. The number of divisions has increased, there are now 131 working divisions in the province, and these seem to be much more enthusiastic among the members.

As a condition from a temperance point of view in New Brunswick were not at all encouraging the Grand Division, released the field secretary, Rev. A. A. MacLeod, for two months' work in that province.

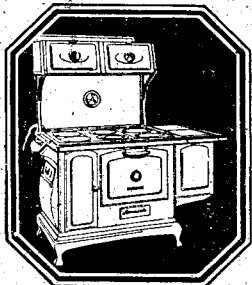

A few years ago the L. W. Elliot District Division, having jurisdiction over the divisions in Digby and Annapolis counties, was organized. At that time there was only one working division in Digby County. There are now six and the Grand Division was recommended by the Committee on the State of the Order, to take steps to give Digby County a District Division of its own. The question will be submitted to the Divisions of the two counties and a further report will be made at the next quarterly.

The juvenile work of the Order is making considerable progress, through the Bands of Hope, and the great importance of this work was stressed.

A fine point of law was settled in the ancient Chancery Court at London when Justice Sir Charles Alan Bennett decided that loose-leaf books are not admissible as evidence. Loose leaves so arranged that "anybody could remove a number of leaves, and substitute others," ruled Sir Charles, "are not books within the meaning of the Companies Act." The ruling struck consternation to thousands of English offices that have adopted American loose-leaf systems, as well as to stationery houses supplying them.

GARGANTUAN FEAST

Gargantuan, Rabalais' amiable giant, had nothing to do with the feast of this American woodsman should be better known than they are to the less imaginative part of the country. Virtual, conformed included 57,000 pancakes, 2,000 cups of coffee, 300 pounds of butter, 100 pounds of sugar and 12 gallons of cream. Pretty well done for a town of 10,000 people! Almost as well as the renowned Bunyon could have done himself.

CORRECTING A FALSE REPORT

A careless remark that gained wide circulation before the recent Band Concert in St. Patrick's Hall was the means of keeping some people away from the taking of cold. The raising storm of that night would surely test the heating appliances of any hall, but every member of the audience will testify that throughout the performance all parts of the room were delightfully warm and comfortable with no drafts and no bad air.

Permit me to add that I have had the pleasure of conducting bands in a score of halls from the Yarmouth Academy to the Halifax Arena, and I can truthfully say that not one of them compares to St. Patrick's Hall in perfect acoustics. In none of them is the blare of a brass band so beautifully melted down to the resemblance of a great pipe organ. It is an ideal place for band concerts or any form of musical entertainment. I suggest that you test this for yourself by attending our Sacred Concert Sunday night, March 1st. Listeners in the front seats will enjoy the full power of the band with no harsh tones, to grate on sensitive ears. The band will repeat some of the choicest numbers from its last programme, including "Kathleen," "Princess Tip-Too," "Golden Sun-Set," adding appropriate new ones, and everybody will enjoy singing the old favorites such as "Sweet B. and B.," "Sound the Battle Cry," "Church in the Wildwood," etc. led by the Band and Chorus. There is no admission fee, but collectors stationed at the door will receive your quarters for even minutes with a smile.

Near Fatality in Scallop Fleet

Lloyd Wolfe, of the crew of the Digby scallop dragger, Elizabeth M. met with a narrow escape from drowning on Tuesday evening, while the craft was carrying on its operation on the "Snow Bank." He owes his life to the cool thinking and skillful maneuvering of Captain Mosher, skipper of the craft.

The incident occurred during the early evening, as the Elizabeth M. along with other boats dragging in that vicinity, were making the last few grags of the day. At the time the craft was going full speed ahead paying out the many fathoms of steel cable to which the drags are attached. Young Wolfe ran aft to attend the notch block during this operation. Grabbing at a door to steady himself, the door gave way, and he slipped, sliding over the side into the icy water of the Bay of Fundy. His cries were heard, and his plight soon noticed. Capt. Mosher had the boat turned back to the struggling man "at full speed." He then reversed the boat, and came up alongside of Wolfe. Ropes were thrown and he was soon back on board the Elizabeth M.

Although not a strong swimmer, Wolfe managed to keep himself afloat during the few long minutes it took to effect the rescue. The buoyancy of his oiled clothing is thought to have something to do with keeping him on top of the water. He comes from LaHave Islands, and is 21 years of age.

George Jackson spent Saturday in Bridgetown.

V. O. N.

Thursday last week was devoted to various entertainments for the benefit of the Victorian Order of Nurses. An afternoon tea, 17 tables of Bridge and 6 tables of 45's were held at the different residences of the committee, while Mrs. Sturgeon, assisted by her Health League Classes, entertained a merry Valentine party at the Court House.

The hostesses were: Mrs. Howard Smith, Mrs. Fritz Dakin, Mrs. Gunning, Mrs. Loran Hayden, Mrs. G. Victor Turbault, Mrs. Schaffner, Miss Lois Walker, Mrs. Louis Moré and Mrs. George D. Turnbull. Capt. Roy Sypher and Mayor Denison for a number of the gentlemen. First prizes for Bridge were won by Mrs. Lloyd Hersey and P. W. Holdsworth; consolation went to Mrs. Sollows and George Peters. First prizes for 45's was obtained by Miss Boyle and consolation, James Merkel. The total receipts were $45.00.

The thanks of the V. O. N. Committee are extended to the hostesses and host, to Mrs. Harold Nichols, P. W. Holdsworth, Mrs. Gabriel, Mrs. Sowley, Mrs. Woodford Connel, Mrs. Roy Sypher and Mayor Denison for contributing the prizes to the Health League Class, and other donors of cash, and all who assisted in making the entertainment such a pleasant success.

Scallop Fleet Tied Up On Account of Ice

While scallops on the New York markets were quoted at the best price they have reached for some time, and with a view from that market stating that frozen scallops had been disposed of, and prospects for high prices excellent, not one boat of the Digby fleet left their berths at Jew Cove, the Spurr Pier or the Racquette. Weather conditions were excellent, but the entire fleet were sealed in by a heavy coating of ice.

The Princess, Helene arrived on time Saturday morning, but due to ice conditions, took nearly one and one-half hours to dock.

Friday night, returning from the scallop grounds, the fleet encountered great difficulty fighting their way through ice cakes, and it was only through co-operation with one another they managed to reach the wharves.

Two boats, one operated by Berkly Syda, and the other by Capt. Robinson, were unable to get through and were forced to remain in the vicinity of the Racquette until Saturday evening. The crew of the Syda boat attempted to come ashore on the ice, and all went through Berkley Syda and Gordon Casey struggled to move solid ice and made the Digby shore. Gordon MacDonald returned to the boat.

B. Y. F. U.

The young people of the Digby Baptist Church invited the young people of the United Church to a very delightful party on Friday evening. Though the night was stormy there was an attendance of thirty-eight. Miss Harriet Campbell was chairman of the evening.

The B. Y. F. U. presented at intervals, short entertainments, a trio "Three Blind Mice," a duet, "On No Joke," a pantomime, "Melodramatic." The games kept the crowd well warmed up, and everyone seemed to think the evening well worth while. The event, of course, was topped with eats, and all formed the friendship circle, and closed the party by singing "Old Lang Syne."

POST OFFICE IMPROVEMENTS

Digby's post office is now up-to-date as any post office in the province. During the week many changes have been made to the interior of the government building.

The old fixtures have been removed and new ones installed. The new boxes of which we understand there are eighty more in number than the old, now run east and west on the south side of the building where the money order department used to be, instead of north and south as before.

The little cubby hole, where we used to go for money orders, registered mail, etc., has been done away with entirely. These windows are now in front where the boxes used to be, and are marked for the purpose intended. The general delivery window is also in front.

The view netting which reached from the old box rack to the ceiling has been taken away and a glass partition put up. A new writing desk has been installed, and we hope—new pens.

The addition built on the post office last summer provides more room and makes the task of sorting mails, easier for the clerks.

Yesterday the new boxes were put into use for the first time. Box holders must surrender their old key, and obtain new ones.

DIGBY CIVIC BAND'S CONCERT A SUCCESS

Programme Said To Be One of the Finest Ever Presented in Digby

Last Friday evening, under the direction of Paul Yates, conductor, the Digby Civic Band presented to an appreciative audience in St. Patrick's Hall, one of the finest programmes of band music ever to be presented in Digby. The first number on the programme was led by Fritz Dakin, during which time, Mr. Yates, greeted by a shower of applause, made his appearance.

The whole programme was exceptionally well handled; the leader and members of the band deserve wholehearted praise, for all that has been accomplished during the short time the Digby Civic Band has been in existence.

Each number was introduced by Victor Cardozo, who in a few words, told the story of the piece to be played. A number of interesting special numbers, were Fillmore's, Saxophone solo, "Deep Bass" rendered by Raymond ("Bud") Winchester, which introduced to the public the band's new saxophone. Other numbers, deserving of special mention were the cornet duet, by David Daley and Ted Dakin; and by Stanley Spray and Ted Dakin, the latter in connection with Billie Christie's baritone solo, "Kathleen" and the vocal solo "A Sleep in the Deep," rendered by Boyd Ellis, with band accompaniment. The band's recently number "Cassion Song," (a broken record), was a big hit, and the reverie, "Golden Sunset," by Finner, was a general favourite.

During the evening A. J. Dillon made appeals to the audience to give the band their support. Mayor Denison also thanked Conductor Yates and members of the Band for all they had done to help create a better appreciation of music in Digby.

The Young People's Society, of the Grace United church, held their bi-weekly meeting on Tuesday. There was a fairly good attendance despite the unfavorable weather. After a short period of worship and business, the Christian Fellowship group, led by Miss Florence Keen, took charge. The topic of the evening was "Poverty, and How Can We as Christians Deal With Such Conditions?" The latter part of the evening was devoted to games.

Slot Machines Ordered Out

Last week Chief of Police Thibault warned the operators of slot machines, and other devices, that they must dispose of their machines before Saturday at midnight. On Monday we were given to understand by the chief, that all "pay-off" machines, had been disposed of.

The campaign against these is being carried on in all parts of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. At Amherst a case came before the courts in that town and the operator was fined $200 according to reports in the daily press. The magistrate stated that he would impose the maximum fine of $200 on such cases to come before him in the future.

Digby Girls Successful

Word has been received from Amherst stating that the Misses Florence Hayden and Virginia Bullock have successfully passed the probation period at Highland View Hospital, and received their "caps" Feb. 6.

Several delightful affairs, in their honor have been given, including a sleighing and skating party, by the senior class, a toboggan party by the staff, and Mrs. L. W. Eskdale is entertaining at a dinner in their honor during the week.

This is pleasing news to their many friends, who wish them continuing success.

NEW HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

The new bungalow of Howard MacGrath, Victoria Beach, was totally destroyed by fire of an unknown origin early yesterday morning. The fire was discovered on the outside of the building shortly after five o'clock.

At the time Mr. MacGrath, his wife and two children, who lived in the bungalow which was still in an unfinished state, were up-out of their beds. Neighbors were soon on hand to do everything possible, and were successful in getting the furnishings. The house was a total loss.

A light south east wind prevented the flames from spreading to other buildings in the vicinity.

As far as can be learned Mr. MacGrath had no insurance.

OUR VETERANS ARE DIFFERENT

Leading Canadians constantly point out that, because of our geographical situation, anything happening in the United States, is, in some degree important to us in Canada. We read American newspapers and magazines. We see American motion pictures. We listen to American radio programs. Without knowing it we absorb day after day countless American influences, many of them, no doubt, good; others, quite definitely, not so good.

This being the case, it is not surprising that, here and there in Canada, individuals are beginning to talk about the recently adopted legislation at Washington which will pay a lump sum bonus to men who served in the American Expeditionary Forces between 1917 and 1919. Some of this opinion is frankly envious, and there are people who, without thinking, express the view that if this bonus is to be paid in the United States, something of the same sort might be done in Canada.

It seems to be the part of sound judgment at this moment to point out that circumstances in this country are entirely different. Our Canadian Veterans were much more generously treated at demobilization than the American soldiers. Our pension system is more generous, too, and most important of all, the basic spirit and temperament of Canadian veteran organizations is vastly different from that of the American veteran body, which, after years of vigorous, sometimes drastic, political campaigning, has smashed the bonus vote through Congress over the presidential veto.

Canadian veteran organizations have never played politics, and that, we think, is to their credit. They have been concerned entirely with the personal welfare of the veteran, not threatening, not attacking parliaments, or individuals in high places, but seeking facts, presenting evidence in orderly fashion, always avoiding extravagant words or actions which lead only to antagonism, even in victory.

The conduct of our veterans has, ever since the war, been admirable. Much of this conciliatory co-operative spirit is due to the nature of the organizations pledged to forward the welfare of the Canadian ex-service man. The oldest of them all, the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, has a record of ninety-six years behind it. Fenian Raid, Reil Rebellion, and Boer war veterans were members of this organization many generations before 1914. With such a tradition behind them, Canadian veterans are less disposed toward political excesses than those ambitious young men of the United States. Our veterans are different.

THE IMPORTANCE OF TODAY

The future is a closed book for us. Forecasting or trying to crystal-gaze into it are the world's foremost follies. There is only one thing that we are certain the future has in store for us, and that is death. Wouldn't it be wise, then, that if in our efforts to "make this world nearer to our heart's desire" we paid more attention to the present, to the here and now, and less to the coming years?

One of our stock reasons for change is that we seek to make the world a better place for our children. But isn't this an excuse more than a reason? Thinking men are coming to the conclusion that by concerning ourselves too much with the future we are spoiling the present.

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches, or the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with "Aspirin".

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin", most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach, or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: "Aspirin" is rated among the safest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains. . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

Demand and Get "ASPIRIN"

for ourselves, and just about ruining the future for our children.

Why isn't it a good idea to let the next generation remake the world according to its own ideas, instead of us remaking it now according to our ideas?

If we really cared about the next generation, we would be acting quite differently from what we are. We would not be burdening our children and our children's children with armament debts, pensions, and limitless obligations for railroads, steamships, hotels, power plants, and miles and miles of highways which we have built mainly for our own enjoyment—and for future generations to pay the bills.

Let us enjoy life today and pay for the fun ourselves. Our children will be much better able to care for themselves if we let to the future what belongs to the future, without an enormous hangover of debt to cramp their style.

Folk, who never do any more than get their paid for never get paid for any more than they do.

Often it is said of a man, "It's a shame he is a failure; he has such a pleasing personality."

Of another it may be said, "Too bad he doesn't get along better; he has so much ability."

What is lacking in both these types is character. Without personality or ability, of course, not even a characterless man can do much harm. His field of operation is too limited. He neither impresses nor attracts people, but merely joins the ranks of the more or less harmless crowd-forgettings.

But a "good personality," projecting itself from a characterless soul, is an evil combination. Of such are charming badsters, entertaining lounge lizards, and unscrupulous exploiters. They smile and flatter their way through life, dodging responsibility and honest labor because they have discovered an easier way of making a living.

Likewise, ability without character leads to an equally bitter end. Those so cursed inevitably are undone by shameless practices. They seem unable to resist the temptation to cheat and rob. Mental capacity prompts them to flout the law and custom. Eventually they're over-reach and are disgraced.

Emerson said that character ranks above intellect. It ranks above everything. It is the priceless ingredient of human nature.

Spring is on the way, and the scent of scented rhubarb will soon be o'er the land.

LEAP YEAR

The extra day in February is receiving attention in the press, and much interesting information is supplied regarding its various phases. Statisticians have already calculated it, extra cost to a nation and have assured us that some people will work for nothing, whilst others will receive an extra day's pay. And, there is a considerable amount of sympathy—or is it congratulation—for those who happened to be born February 29th and so have a birthday but one year in four. But it is in the realm of love that Leap Year causes most excitement. On February 29th, as all the world knows, the women have the privilege of asking the hand of their chosen in marriage. As an English paper points out: "It is a custom of great antiquity. It was legalized in Scotland in the year 1283 and afterwards in other countries." Some will say that the clever woman can always marry the man of her choice, and cynics will avow that Leap Year makes little difference anyway, for it is she who makes up his mind for him. But all cynicism is a disease, and there never has been any convincing reason why the avowed of love should always be the exclusive privilege of the male.

ROBIN HOOD'S HOCKEY CONTEST

There is considerable excitement among common school and high school hockey teams as work on Robin Hood's hockey team contest goes on. The Millers of Robin Hood Flour are offering three complete team outfits, each consisting of ten sweaters and ten pairs of hockey socks to the three teams in the Maritime provinces which turn in sales slips for the greatest quantity of Robin Hood Flour by February 24th. Any common school or high school hockey team may compete and it seems to us that there is a fine chance for teams to outfit themselves with new sweaters and socks. The work necessary is to do some canvassing for sale of Robin Hood Flour among the ladies, and no doubt the youthful hockey players will get a sympathetic hearing and real assistance. More power to them.

Circulars and full information regarding the contest may be obtained from "Robin Hood Flour Contest," P. O. Box 520, Moncton, N. B. We think this offer of Robin Hood's, which originated through the radio programme, "Robin Hood and His Merry Men," is worth some real effort on the part of our youthful hockey stars.

THERE IS A PLACE

The rain and winds beat on me there. With such a tender vehemence. I must give my heart and strength to bear The loving of the elements.

The mighty tides that moving turn The waves back from the waiting shore. Move in my heart 'till I discern My heart beats answer o'er and o'er. And winding roads and fir-trimmed hills. Are shrines where fondest memory May journey when and how it will. And bring my childhood back to me. The wealth and fame that men call great. Fade like the fading mists away. But this, that pulls and winds that wait. Upon the heartstrings ever play.

There is a place to seek and find Faith of our fathers, simple, free; A place for healing of the mind. A resting place before the sea.

NEW USE FOUND FOR DOGFISH

(Fishing Gazette)

It's an ill wind indeed that doesn't react favorably to somebody. Even the dogfish, the chief bane of fish producers, are being converted into money. In recent months there has been a super-abundance of the dogfish, devourers of marketable fish. Instead of letting the scourge of the sea continue to consume the table fish by the millions of pounds, the fishermen had an incentive to go after the finny canines. At Canco the Nova Scotia Seafoods, Ltd., has established a factory for the conversion of dogfish, and other unmarketable fish, also refuse from fish plants, into fertilizer. The fertilizer is for the soil, the meal is for livestock, poultry, foxes, mink, muskrats, and the oil is for man and beast as remedies, liniments, etc.

Until the founding of this plant, the general impression in the fishing industry was that dogfish would be unsuitable for manufacture into the three products. However, research and studies, convinced those behind the new firm that the venture would be vindicated. There are now about forty men on the staff of the Canco factory. The operations are not seasonal, being steady throughout the year. In one week in the late fall, the plant received 1,100,000 lbs. of dogfish, establishing a new record for supplies and production volume by the week. The company is owned by United States, capital, based in New York City. C. R. Griffith, of New York is president of the firm. The headquarters of the concern are in Manhattan, and thence most of the output is exported by steamship, chosen, rail from the Canco plant. Distribution is all through the eastern and mid-western states to lesser extent. The conversion of the hated dogfish into the fertilizer, meal and oil has proved practicable, and there is a firm demand for all three of the products. In the meanwhile, the sea is being ridden of millions of marauders, which have provided a vital problem for fish producers, and indirectly, the curers, manufacturers, wholesalers, distributors. About

TO THE SEA IN SHIPS

In spite of sentimentalists who have been weeping over the passing of the sailing ship for many years, now, Wm. McFee, veteran mariner and author, in the current issue of "Today," remarks that the sailing ship is still going strong.

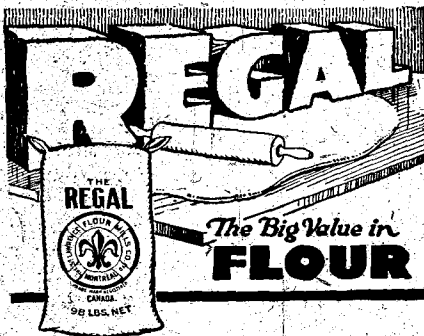

To be sure, the old-time square-rigger has just about vanished. But the schooner and ketch varieties of the fore-and-aft rigged vessel still doing a good business, indeed, says Mr. McFee, there are probably more ships of 40 or 50 tons under sail today than there were in the days of Francis Drake.

And although the old square-rigger is a rare sight, Mr. McFee suggests that it was, the very hardships of the life, offered to her people that make men lament her passing. Should the world suddenly run out of fuel, he remarks, so that it, ocean commerce would have to depend again on the out-moded full-rigged ship, we would see a great outpouring of young men eager to sign on as seamen.

These men, he says, would come from everywhere—from gas, oil, and banks, from college lecture rooms, and schoolteacher desks, from chin jocks and stock brokers' offices, all that would be needed would be to pass the word that men were wanted to man ships not floating hotels or team-driven warehouses and the men would come in a hurry.

CONSTITUTIONAL KINGS

King George V made a distinction between reigning and ruling. After the great war, when being a king was Europe's most hazardous occupation, and many kings lost their thrones, George V believed that the British throne was safe.

"I do not think the waves of revolution will reach my throne, for thank God, I reign but I do not rule," he explained.

David Lloyd-George, the war-time premier, agrees with this viewpoint, but expresses it differently. "The king was truly a constitutional monarch," he says, "and never sought to influence unfairly or to thwart the will of parliament."

The constitutional monarchs are the one who have survived the troubled after-war years, retaining their people's good will and respect. The fact is, cheering in these days of dictatorship.

The senses of birds, and animals are in general much keener than ours. For instance the cat can see better in the darkness. Can you tell me what smell better than we do? "The lily."

"Star of the Summer Night" was rendered by a mixed quartette, consisting of Henry Shortliffe, Hubert Sabean, Nora Robichaud and Blanche Marshall. Rev. Donald Stoddard, pastor of the South Range Christian church, gave an address. The evening closed with a few games.

Improvements in Local School are Contemplated

Kiwanians Observe Educational Week and Hear Address by Principal Purdy

Members of the Digby Kiwanis Club and a large number of guests had the privilege of listening to an address by F. Courtney Purdy at their weekly luncheon on Tuesday, Mr. Purdy, who is principal of the Digby Academy, spoke on High School Problems. His address, for the most part, was on the problems of high schools throughout the province in general, rather than with the local situation for the reason that the Digby Board of School Commissioners are now drafting a programme of increased educational facilities in the town which is soon to be presented to the Digby public for consideration. It is admitted that neither as the local school is concerned, further extensions are necessary and essential.

Beside the teaching of elementary subjects, Mr. Purdy stated, the objects of the high school are to teach the pupils good citizenship in the broader sense of the term, to give them a mental and disciplinary education and to prepare them for a definite occupation in life. Many of the schools in the province are now including Domestic Science and Manual Training in their courses. He spoke of the Vocational High School in Saint John, and said it was the only institution of its kind in the Maritimes.

The speaker declared the Junior High School system to be one of the most important of educational movements in recent years. The Accredited High School system of Nova Scotia which requires three or more university graduates to teach subjects

DOGS DRIVE YOUNG DEER INTO BASIN

Almost exhausted, a young doe down one of last spring's farms, was taken from the waters of the Annapolis Basin about noon Wednesday, given a "push-down" in the furnace room of the town hall, revived and later taken to the stable of Frank Riddell where it was given a comfortable stall and fed, and is now awaiting news from Halifax for its disposal. The animal is reported to have wandered into town in the morning, and chased by dogs, it took to the water in front of the Manhattan Hotel, near the handstand. The scallop boat owned by Walton Casey, Victoria Beach, was put at the disposal of Chief of Police Thibault, and with the help of the crew, the animal was fished out and brought to the wharf. It is now able to stand and appears to be enjoying captivity. It will not likely be given its freedom until the time comes to afford it a good "set away" in the woods.

Legislation on the 10th March. Halifax's storied Citadel Hill will boom out a salute of fifteen guns on March 10th when Lieutenant-Governor Nor Covert will formally open the third session of Nova Scotia's 17th Legislature.

Maple Sugar on the Way. Our farmers are making ready for the annual maple sugar harvest—one of the surest sources of spring. That reminds us that it will be only a few weeks when the croques will be peeping forth in sheltered spots.

To Grades XI and XII he believed was peculiar to this province.

Following the address a discussion on local school problems ensued, in which members of the club, their guests, the members of the school board, and Mr. Purdy took part.

It is expected that next week's meeting will be addressed by A. T. Turnbull on "Eminentes of a Business Life in Digby."

Probes Death of Recluse

Bear River Resident's Body Found in Home, Gnawed by Rats

Long in a pool of blood on the floor of a filthy kitchen, the mutilated body of Huxley (Lem) Morgan, of Bear River, was found shortly before nine o'clock Wednesday morning by Denny York, a fourteen-year-old boy who had been running errands for the aged recluse for a number of years, and who, Tuesday evening about 7:30, saw the old man alive. When young York opened the door of the Morgan house his eyes fell on the horrible sight of the twisted form of the old man lying partly clothed. He lay in front of his kitchen stove. The kerosene lamp on the littered table was still burning. The frightened lad hid this out before running from the house to tell neighbors of his gruesome discovery.

First he notified Richard R. Baxter, who called Coroner Dr. L. J. Lovett. These two, with others from the town, visited the home to see for themselves the sight that had so badly frightened the young boy. Food play was suspected, but later developments discarded the theory. It is felt that the man died a natural death, in all probability as the result of a stroke. A coroner's jury, with Alfred Banks as foreman, was empaneled and viewed the remains in the afternoon, adjourning until the evening. At the inquest, held in the Masonic rooms at 7:00 o'clock, five witnesses, namely, Mrs. V. T. Barr and Miss Olive Barr, neighbors; Denny York, the boy who discovered the body; and J. A. McKenna, manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank. No evidence that would indicate a crime was disclosed, however. The inquest was adjourned until March 6, awaiting the report of the provincial pathologist, who will examine the contents of the stomach. The only external marks of violence was the work of rodents.

He had fallen on the floor in front of the stove, and perhaps before he died, was attacked by rats. There is every evidence that the body, which was livid, was infested by these rodents. The little finger of his right hand was practically eaten away as well as other fingers and part of the hand. Part of his left ear had been gnawed off, and a hole about the size of a twenty-five cent piece gnawed under his nose.

His house, which is situated on the River Road, only a few hundred yards from the business centre of the town, is a high bank overlooking the river and down. From the outside it appears to be in very trim order. Inside is another story. The little kitchen where he lived and slept is littered with filth. It is impossible to conceive how any human being could live in such filthy dirt.

Years ago, it is said in Bear River, Mr. Morgan learned his trade as a blacksmith in that village, later transferring to the United States where he worked at his trade, and is said to have built for himself a small fortune at Plymouth, Mass., returning to Bear River about ten years ago. It is said in that village he was worth anywhere from $5,000 to $15,000, which he kept on deposit in the bank drawing out sums as he needed it.

About six years ago he purchased the house where his body was found. Here he lived in almost absolute seclusion, seeing practically no person except the boy who did his errands. He never went to the town himself and there are those who reside and work only a short distance from the house who have never seen the old man until they viewed the remains on Wednesday. He had been paralysed on one side for some years.

Very little is known of his family connections, although it is understood in Bear River that he has a divorced wife in the United States, and two daughters—Arthur and Roy—also in that country. There are also some distant relatives living in the Digby and vicinity. He was about 70 years of age.

A sum of money, amounting to about $700, was found in a box in the house, which was given to the coroner by the R. C. M. P., with Sergeant Inspector Eddy, of Yarmouth, are working on the case. The remains were brought to Keen's mortuary chapel in Digby, on Wednesday afternoon, after permission for their removal had been granted by the coroner.

$600. Offered for Town Lots

Officers Appointed at the Regular Council Meeting on Monday.

More than $600 has been spent to date by the town of Digby for shovelling snow, according to the report of W. W. Hayden, superintendent of streets and water, submitted at the regular meeting of the town council, held in the town hall on Monday evening.

At this meeting Mayor M. C. Denton and all the councillors, with the exception of E. C. Sallows, were present. The council was addressed by four citizens.

Rev. Dr. Hodgson, president of the Digby branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses, and Mrs. Jesse Turnbull, honorary president of the branch, appeared, pointing out that nearly one-half of the work of the nurse had to do with the schools. The mayor promised that the council would give this matter their consideration when they made up their estimates in March.

J. W. McKelwell appeared in behalf of the fireward, and presented a list of supplies needed by the fire department; he also made the request that the hydrant on the corner of Water and Sydney streets be turned around, or at least standing near it be cut down, as this tree hampered the work of the firemen.

Leigh A. Pack asked that the license charged to headwaiters who come here during the summer months be increased. His request was granted.

Two transient headwaiters will in future pay a license of $25.

Chief of Police—Fred J. Thibault. Traffic Officer—Under Motor Vehicle Act—Fred J. Thibault.

Medical Health Officer—Dr. E. DuVernet.

In reference to the above appointment, it has been the custom for the municipal officers of Digby to take this office. Digby County Men Have Narrow Escapes from Death

Car Hit by Train and Barsting Circular Saw Were Cause of the Accidents

Two very fortunate men in Digby County are Dr. J. E. Timpany of Digby, and Anne Stuchess of Sandy Cove. Both of these gentlemen are very well known. Both were involved in accidents on Saturday evening and came as near death as any men could.

Dr. Timpany, a retired medical missionary to India, escaped death when the car in which he was driving was struck by the D. A. R. train from Halifax on the railroad crossing at the corner of Sydney Street and First Avenue. His car was only slightly damaged and the doctor received no damage whatever. The accident occurred almost directly in front of the town hall, and a few hundred feet from the railroad station.

He had turned up Sydney Street from Water Street, and was making the turn into First Avenue, to his own conscious of the nearness of the express running into the station. It was not until he heard Engineer Ward's warning blast of the whistle that he saw the engine "peep" out of top of him that he realized the presence of the train. Travelling in second class there was nothing he could do but step out of the car to get clear. The engine struck the rear end of the car and merely tossed it to one side. The doctor was uninjured and was driving about in his car early this week.

Mr. Outhouse, who is a retired carpenter, also escaped death or very serious injury by a matter of seconds on Saturday afternoon. He had been sitting in a rocking chair in his home, and for some reason rose, and went to look out of the window.

Almost at the same moment a large piece of a cabinet, which he saw the door of his home, fell off the arm of the rocking chair of which he had been sitting a few moments before, and embedded itself deep in the wall back of the chair.

The piece had been raised up by Clifton Hicks, a neighbor of Mr. Outhouse, for the purpose of manufacturing lumber from timber that had been brought from the woods. Several men were helping to operate it when it suddenly it burst and flew into pieces, going in all directions. No one was hurt.

The piece which entered Mr. Outhouse's home, out of the arm of the door, being striking the arm of the chair.

TERM "HONOURABLE"

It is somewhat surprising, says an exchange, that in some of the press the misuse of the term "honourable" as given to a type of public man is still persisted in. Frequently it has been pointed out, for instance that the prefix "Hon." ought not to be applied to a former member of the executive council of the Canadian provinces. This title is properly used only during tenure of office. Some of our ex-cabinet ministers, however, have continued to have this prefix attached to their names throughout their lifetime. In these days when the trend is very properly towards simplicity, and when in this country so much disparagement is heard concerning titles in general, we should at least confine their use to those who have a right to use them. Over in the old land, where titles abound, it is not unusual that the name of the prime minister appears undarned save for that of "Mr."

That newspapers, which claim to be well informed, should be guilty of this careless attitude towards non-existent titles, or that those upon whom they are inaccurately applied should be willing to stand for it seems inexplicable to the unprejudiced mind.

Another big failing of this rocky-eyed world is that it has bought too many years on the installment plan.

BATTLEDORE

An interesting game now spreading over the country is battledore, an apparent variety of tennis. It has already struck this section of the country and there are clubs in both Digby and Bear River. It can be played either indoors like table tennis, or outdoors like lawn tennis, with a paddle or racket. The shuttlecock differs from the tennis ball in having feathers attached to it, making a slower and more picturesque flight than a plain ball.

This seems to be the newest popular game. People who take it up as the latest word in light sport are cheerfully unaware that it is really one of the oldest games in the world. It is nothing else—except for slight modern improvements—than the "battledore and shuttlecock" known to readers of Elizabethan and early English literature. But it goes back much farther, to ancient Greece, India, Siam, China and Japan, and has been played in Asia for at least 2,000 years, and probably is the ancestor, not the off-spring, of tennis.

The present name seems to come from Badminton, the estate of the Duke of Beaufort, in Gloucestershire, England. Possibly the game was revived there in recent times, and so was called because the older name has grown unfamiliar. But sentimentally and historically, it surely ought to be called "battledore." That word old English word meant a heater or paddle and doubtless applied originally in this game to such a wooden paddle as is used now in "ping pong" or table tennis. The paddle has naturally been modified into a racket strung with catgut.

Let the after-school children spend the wealth of the nation and they don't give a damn who knows the budget.

MEN WANTED

Again industry displays the sign "Men Wanted," and fills the gaps in its ranks with men competent to give the service required. Yet there remain thousands unemployed.

Industry's wants, however, are small compared with the country's needs.

For many years the country has needed men of courage, in-lative, integrity, and genius, men of pioneering independence, who will do something toward blazing new trails of employment.

Fully as long, men have been needed who have manhood "to do or die" and not wait for something to turn up to change their fortunes. And all the while the wants and needs of this old world of ours have been changing and creating new opportunities.

WHEN THE SPIRIT MOVES

(London Advertiser)
The death of the beloved King George V elicited a great deal of good verse, but ironically one of the very poorest compositions was that of the poet-laureate, John Masefield. It is almost incredible that the pen which wrote so many superb lines could be so guilty of such drivel as this:

And when the war was ended, when the thought
Of revolution took its hideous place,
His courage and his kindness and his grace Scattered, or charmed, its Ministers to haught.

It is equally bad as political history and as poetry. The moral is that Masefield is not one of those poets who can produce made-to-order verse. He should only write when the spirit moves him.

THE "UNCIVILIZED" MARITIMES

The Lethbridge Herald says:
The Maritime Provinces are quite rough and uncivilized, Chicomanga believes. A Chicago newspaper advertisement of a leading departmental store invites the public to an exhibition from this part of Canada—"rugs from the romantic Maritime Provinces which reflect accurately the simple design of the backwoods hermits and coastal villages." The advertisement continues:

"It has taken fully 15 years to make this collection complete—and it is no wonder that it took so long. Buyers who go up into New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland must travel in small boats on rough seas must get out on ice not unusual to hear of a buyer being longed for in the oxcarts. It is turning by boat with his carefully selected wares, with him suddenly getting caught in treacherous whirlpools and losing his entire stock."

QUEEN VICTORIA'S VOICE

The only gramophone record made by Queen Victoria, has been discovered in the archives of the Edison-Bell Company, in London. The record is a message of goodwill from the Queen to the Emperor of Abyssinia of that time. Experts are trying to restore the record so that the Queen's voice may be heard as clearly as when the record was made fifty years ago. The record is in the form of a cylinder and was found among some old cylinders containing the voices of 19th century celebrities. Many of the records have already been successfully restored and recorded afresh. Queen Victoria's record was made specially for the Emperor of Abyssinia, and one copy of it was, at the Queen's request, taken to Abyssinia and "played" over to him.

CODFISH CANADA'S OLDEST EXPORT

Our Fishing Banks Have Been Known to the World Since Prior to 1500.

Canada's oldest export trade is codfish to the West Indies. The Basques, Normans and Bretons were catching codfish in the New World, curing it and exporting it to the West Indies prior to 1500. The fish was dried and salted on shore, then shipped to France from whence it was sent to the West Indies. These fisheries were responsible for much of the voyages of discovery to the New World.

For well over three hundred years codfish has been an article of diet in the islands of the West Indies and has become a staple diet of the natives. The prosperity of the islands could be measured by the quality of the fish imported—when sugar, cocoa and cotton were selling at high prices the slaves were fed on the better quality of fish to keep them in good physical condition. In times of depression the cheaper types of dried codfish were consumed and this still holds good. Today Canada supplies about 25 per cent of the market which includes all British, French and Dutch Guiana, the best market for Canadian codfish being that of the islands of Trinidad, principally from Nova Scotia, according to the Canadian National Steamships which company maintains a line of steamers providing direct connection between Canada and islands of the West Indies, and British Guiana. British Guiana takes mostly pollock and hake which is supplied by Great Britain, as does also the island of Antigua. In the case of the French islands of Guadeloupe and Martinique 75 per cent of the total imports come from France and St. Pierre and Miquelon, the remainder from Newfoundland. French Guiana gets its codfish from France while Dutch Guiana and Curacao take a small quantity of Canadian codfish and some pickled herrings and mackerel. Both colonies, however, have small industries having large local supplies of sea and fresh water fish, and animal products are much cheaper, grazing lands being plentiful. Newfoundland shares the market for dried codfish with Canada. The codfish is shipped in the same manner as it has been for generations, in four-quintal casks (448 pounds).

DEVELOP "SACRED LAKE"

Another project is under way to make Ilo-Ilo Lake Titicaca, sacred lake of the Incas, the economic dynamo of a vast region in the great Andes plateau. Inhabitants on the lake shore, at an altitude of 12,500 feet and boasting the world's highest navigation enterprise, are interested in joint plans of the Bolivian and Peruvian governments to bring American experts to develop the fisheries of Titicaca and tributary rivers. Other projects previously approved by the Bolivian government include plans to construct hydroelectric works, install an irrigation system for the surrounding Andes plateau and dig a canal along the Desaguadero River to make Titicaca an outlet for shipping Bolivian tin for export by way of Peru. These plans, if carried out, may transform the plateau to a paradise of production. Until now, life in the sacred heights has been mostly pastoral.

PAINT THAT STAYS BRIGHT FOREVER

Paint that remains bright forever is a new goal in the world of color. It is not new, but a re-discovery of a long-lost secret. Thousands of years ago, just such paints were used by the Indians in the Southwest, and so today science is going back into the past, probing the secrets of the Indian races in Southern California to learn how modern paint can be made in the same manner. In this connection Dr. John T. Harrington, of the Smithsonian Institute, is preparing to return to his work among the Mission Indi-

The Scallopers Want Better Wharf Facilities at Digby

Risk Their Lives At Night In Returning to Their Boats—Lights Necessary.

Talking with a scallop fisherman the other day, the writer was again reminded of the lack of facilities for the fleet of the big wharf. These matters have been brought to our attention previously, and the Digby Board of Trade has been congratulated for their attempt to try and get them remedied, although to date we have been unable to learn whether or not their efforts are bearing any fruit.

One of the dangers that is mentioned in particular was the absolute lack of lights on the wharf. He stated that it is nothing short of a miracle that some of the fishermen have not met with bad accidents owing to this fact. The wharf is the only access the fishermen have to their boats, and at times the combined crews of the boats using the wharf are close to 100 men. They are at times noisy, return to the boats in the dark and rush their lives every time they need to leave.

their craft. Their risks are much greater at low tide.

We don't blame the scallopers for wanting lights on the wharf, especially during the night. With the lights, their risks while in port are made almost as great as while struggling on the grounds. Incidentally, Digby's scallop industry is the most important industry in town during the winter months.

FELLOW COMING DOWN

As we climb upward toward the pinnacle of fame and fortune, we meet others coming down. Some may not have climbed much higher than we now are, others may have gone clear to the top.

We possess courage, determination, anticipation. We move upward through the exercise of tremendous will power. All these gone, those coming down make dogged resistance to the forces pulling them down, some undeterred in spirit, others merely protesting their fate.

As we pass the fellow coming down it is not enough that we observe to ourselves "every day has his day." That does us no credit. Better is it that we take note of the cause of his failure to reach the top or to stay there if he did reach it.

The fellow coming down can oft-times teach us who are going up some valuable lessons or staying up in this world.

Since Wallis forces used to say that "all he knew was what he read in the papers," why wouldn't it be then for the legislators of Canada to subscribe for one each, and permit for two—one of which could be loaned to the people?

OF SUCH IS LIFE

Once upon a time there was a small French village whose inhabitants were very much annoyed by a nearby pond which served no purpose and was a detriment to the health of the people.

It was therefore proposed that the water be made to flow off and valuable land reclaimed to use, by having every passer-by throw a stone into the pond.

The idea was adopted, and the work of filling the pond was begun. Years passed and the depression was filled, but the day came when a certain village came the final rock that caused the last of the water to flow off.

So the town erected a monument to the man who heaved the last stone!

Such is life. Fame is often built around some spectacular achievement, while all the time the real work is being done without noise or publicity.

Quietly and without ostentation the processes of healing, education, of recovery are initiated and carried on by nameless men and women who ask no other reward for virtue than it self.

The man who casts the final stone gets the praise more often than not. He may believe he deserves it. But the man with the original idea, and those who have the devotion to join in, did the real work of the job.

The world is never going to get better until children are no longer ment on their parents.

BELIEVE IN THIS SIGN

No sign appears more frequently on our far-flung highway system than the one with that little word "STOP."

The definition of this word is "to cease from any motion or action." It doesn't mean to hesitate, or to slow down, or to blow your horn and take a chance. It means just what it says, stop.

These signs have been placed on our highways because a study of traffic conditions makes each one necessary exactly where it is located. It is not an invitation or a warning. It is a command. And no motor car driver has any right to exercise the right of private judgment by disobeying it. By so doing he is endangering the lives and property of others, as well as his own.

Obviously we cannot compel absolute enforcement of every "Stop" sign by stationing a policeman beside it to compel obedience. This should not be necessary, even if it were possible.

These signs are erected for our own protection, as well as that of others. Obedience to their command should be our contribution toward public safety, our insurance against breaking our own necks. So let's stop when it says "STOP."

A Maine woman has been fined one dollar for shooting her husband. The woman always pays—but not much.

ADVERTISING IN 1730

With the increasing specialization of business, and with the consequent growth of financial institutions, in the public mind money has assumed the aspects of a commodity and its intimate and more or less exact relationship with real wealth, namely exchangeable goods, tends to become obscured. This relationship was more apparent in the past when private merchants handled both the goods and the money, or tickets for goods, which the goods themselves brought in. This is illustrated by an advertisement published in Glasgow in 1730 by James Blair, a Glasgow merchant, who stated that at his shop in the Southwark.

"All persons who have occasion to buy or sell bills of exchange, or want money to borrow or have any sort of goods to sell, or want to buy or sell any kind of goods, or who want to buy sugar-house notes or other good bills, or desire to have such notes or bills discounted, or who want to have policies insured or insured to underwrite policies in ships or goods, may deliver their commands."

"And the Scottish Banking System by J. A. Stevenson, in the January issue of the Journal of the Canadian Bankers' Association.

LOBSTER AND SPINY LOBSTER ARE DIFFERENT

Canada World's Biggest Source of Fine Lobster, One of Finest Sea Foods.

Contrary to the impression which perhaps may exist in some quarters, Canada's lobster and the spiny lobster of other countries are not the same creature at all. The true lobster, landed from Canada's Atlantic fisheries and taken also off Newfoundland and in northern United States waters and some European seas, belongs to what the scientists speak of as the genus Homarus. Spiny lobsters, members of the group are sometimes called thorny lobsters, sea twine, rock lobsters, and langoustes, and, indeed, are often referred to popularly as lobsters—fit into another classification, belonging to the genus Palaeomon.

Canada is the world's biggest producer of lobsters, the biggest producer by far. It is only in Canada and Newfoundland that very much smaller quantities are produced, except for a small quantity put out in Norway, and the Newfoundland pack is very much smaller than the Canadian output. Spiny lobsters, using the one name although, as already indicated, several different names are applied to those shellfish, are taken in the fisheries of various parts of the world—central European seas, some of the western states of the New World, and elsewhere. Some of them are canned and imported, others are sometimes seen on the Canadian market.

The Dominion's output of canned lobsters in 1935 was not as large as in other recent years. For one reason, the catch was smaller and then, too, of course, the trade in live lobsters has expanded a good deal of late years and this development naturally affects size of cannery pack. The 1935 cannery production was approximately 10,000 cases, which means a decrease of slightly less than 15,000 cases as compared with the 1934 output. Much of the Canadian pack always finds market in Great Britain and other European countries and in the United States and canned lobster is one of the chief items in the country's fisheries export trade.

SEEK TO END "POTLATCH"

The "potlatch" that vanishing custom of certain Indian tribes in Canada will disappear altogether if amendments to the Indian Act introduced in the House of Commons become effective. The potlatch, explained the officials of the Indian department, is a "give-away" party. An Indian gathers about him all the goods and property he can get hold of. He then invites other members of the tribe to a big feast and dance. And while the feasting is in progress he gives away the goods he has collected.

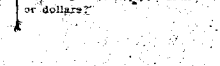

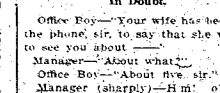

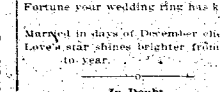

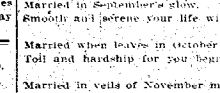

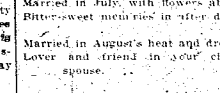

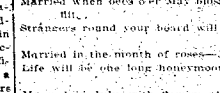

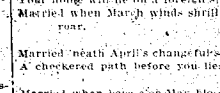

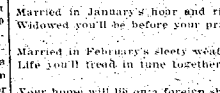

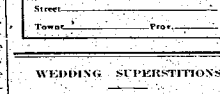

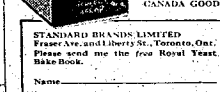

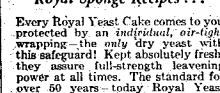

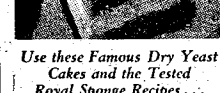

Sometimes this giving away goes pretty far. He may even give away his squaw.

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels every day. If it doesn't, your food doesn't digest. The bile doesn't flow. Get it flowing by taking a little Liver Bile to get those two pounds of bile flowing into your bowels. You'll feel better and your bowels will be regular. A small amount of bile is all you need. You need something that works in the liver. Liver Bile is the only thing that does. It's the only thing that gets the bile flowing and makes you feel better. It's the only thing that gets the bile flowing and makes you feel better. It's the only thing that gets the bile flowing and makes you feel better.

KEEP ROYAL YEAST CAKES Full Strength

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

At Home With Your Camera

This room has medium colored walls and a variety of tones in the furnishings. Taken at 20 seconds, 1/22, lens focused at 15 feet.

FURNITURE dealers report a substantial increase in business. Are you numbered among those who are re-furnished rooms or added new furniture or decorations?

If so you should take a picture of this rejuvenated room. Instead of merely writing friends or relatives about the new dining room, bedroom or living room, you can send them pictures. Maybe you have a new nursery?

Don't put off taking these pictures any longer for making them is not at all difficult, in fact you will enjoy it. Here are a few pointers that may help you in making your first shots.

If you take your interior pictures in the daytime the chances are that you will have to take a time exposure, unless your camera is equipped with a very fast lens, say 1/30 or faster. If a time exposure is necessary you will have to use a tripod or else place the camera on some solid support such as a table. Even with an f.3.5 lens you should have some substantial support for your camera for you will probably find necessary to use a tripod at 1/30 or 1/10th of a second, and at speeds slower than 1/25th of a second it is extremely difficult to hold the camera steady. Any movement of the camera will cause a blurred picture.

The secret of success in indoor pictures lies in controlling the light reaching the various parts of the room to be pictured. To begin with, never point your camera directly at the window or door through which the greatest amount of light is coming. Keep the light behind or to the side of the camera. If, as sometimes happens, a sunny window is in a particular part of the house you want to take, you can eliminate sun-glare by a very simple trick. Pull the shade of that particular window clear down and keep it down for an exposure long enough to give you the other features and details. Then, close the shutter and run the shade up to its normal position. Now go back to the camera and without changing the film or the camera's position, open the shutter again for a half second longer.

It is a good idea to use a very small lens stop in taking indoor pictures, because you want detail. Focus on a point about half-way between the camera and the far side of the room; then, when the lens is stopped down, you will find that practically everything is in sharp focus.

Avoid including large pieces of furniture in the foreground, lest they take up more space in the picture than they deserve.

Exposure time will vary, of course, with the brilliance of the daylight and the degree to which the walls reflect light. On a bright day, pictures in a predominantly light-colored room can be taken with an exposure of five or ten seconds. On dull days, in dark rooms having only one window, you will need as much as five minutes with the lens at f16.

Interior pictures serve, too, as "memory insurance" for in years to come when members of your family have "grown up" they will enjoy looking at the snaps of the "old homestead" taken when they were youngsters.

arrested immediately for lack of enough policemen, were marked and filed away, so to speak, for future reference. The police are said to have adopted a different color of ink for every day of the week, so that when they catch any link-stitcher, even if they will know approximately when where and why he got stained.

Students, rather than policemen, would be expected to think up that one. It would be a national stunt for American students in their everlasting feud with cops. They'll doubtless be trying it.

MY DOG

It's the wag of his tail, when I come home at night. And the look of fond love in his eyes. Although, to the world, a sad failure. I've been.

To him I am noble and wise. When I sit by the fire with my pipe and a book. And he snuggles up close to my knee. I am filled with new hope and my faith is renewed.

Through the trust that my dog has in me.

If I'm tempted sometimes to play sharp with clever men—Stage actors that my conscience would not let—Then the look in his eyes seems to haunt me and say—

"Be the man that your dog thinks you are!"

LIVE MOOSE IN NEW YORK

Family of Three Arrives in City From the Wilds of Nova Scotia

Betty, Sally and Buddy, heralded as the "only live moose family in captivity," arrived in New York on February 25th. They formed a wonderful pair for car after car of "nature philes," much of it alive, to bring a tang of the northern wild to the National Sportsman's Show, which opened at the Grand Central Palace on Saturday last.

The fragrant aroma of balsam and cedar, mingled with the sharp odor of skunk from the animal cages along the sidewalk beneath Grand Central Station. Guides, clad in their bright blanket coats, shouted orders to the freight handlers in the piers of Maine, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Ezra Elster, veteran Nova Scotian guide and keeper of the moose family, denounced the "Judas" who had placed his crated creatures in the rear of a car, which necessitated the removal of divers boxes and bales before they could be transferred.

Ezra's male moose has shed his antlers, though another specimen, for a competitive exhibit, showed a magnificent head decoration. But the second moose was stuffed.

Chief Louis Paul and his wife, Nancy, members of the Mi-Ma-Mi tribe of Nova Scotia, arrived a day ahead of Ezra and his moose family and were quartered in a hotel a few blocks from the station. After persistently inquiring the best route to the station the chief set out, but found considerable difficulty in arriving. Questioned as to his impression of the city, his terse reply was: "Nobody know nothing. Nobody tell nothing when you ask 'em, city too big."

The three live moose, Buddy, Sally and their 7-month-old calf, Betty, showed no signs of nervousness at the excitement about them and munched contentedly at their abundant supply of birch and willow. Several bales of this fodder accompanied the trio to New York.

Confronted by the sight of moose, Sally took one look and spreading antlers, shook her massive shoulders and dashed at a withering snort. The de-anthelmed head of her spouse, Buddy, with elaborate unconcern munched on his cud.

Spread Crosby's Star Malt Shrub. Thinly over buttered toast, sprinkle with cinnamon, and heat in oven until the bubbles bubble. It's delicious!

School Absences Due to Colds Cut Almost One-Half

Famous Colds-Control Plan Tested in Three Series of Clinics Among 5,118 School Children

FURTHER PROVED IN HOME USE

School absences due to colds have been reduced nearly one-half (44.2%) by following Vicks VapoRub for Better Control of Colds. This is shown in records of clinics among 5,118 school children. Mothers and teachers alike welcome Vicks VapoRub as a practical guide to fewer and shorter colds. This common-sense, medically sound plan is based on three simple steps:

1. To Help Build Resistance to Colds. Live normally—avoid excesses. Eat simple food and keep elimination regular. Drink plenty of water. Take some exercise daily—outdoors preferably. Get plenty of rest and sleep.

2. To Help Prevent Many Colds. At the first warning nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze, use Vicks VapoRub—just a few drops up each nostril. VapoRub is especially designed for the nose and upper throat—where most colds start. Used in time, VapoRub helps to prevent many colds—and to throw off head colds in the early stages.

3. To Help End a Cold Sooner. If a cold has developed, or strikes without warning, rub throat and chest at bedtime with Vicks VapoRub. VapoRub acts two ways at once: (1) By stimulation through the skin, like a counter-irritant; (2) by inhaling of its penetrating, moistened vapors, direct to inflamed air passages. Through the night, this combined vapor-irritant action loosens phlegm, soothes irritation, helps break congestion.

What Vicks VapoRub can do for others has been indicated not only in clinics, but also in the further proof of everyday home use by thousands. What it can do for you and your family can be proved only by trying it. Inventions for following the Plan come in each package of Vicks VapoRub and Vicks VapoGel.

PRESENTATION ACCORDED REV. I. D. LITTLE

(From the Halifax Evening Mail) Rev. I. D. Little, who has been interim pastor at the West End Baptist church, during the past two months, has returned to his home in Deep Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. Little made many friends in the city during their stay, and their departure was very much regretted by all who had the privilege of becoming acquainted with them.

Large congregations attended the services conducted by Rev. Mr. Little during his stay, and his appreciation of the strong Gospel messages which he presented.

At the close of the prayer service on Wednesday evening the young people of the church took the opportunity of presenting both Mr. and Mrs. Little with parting gifts, as tokens of their appreciation of their interest and aid in the work of the young people.

The presentation was made by Arthur Blair, president of the B. Y. P. U., together with the following address:

Rev. and Mrs. I. D. Little, Dear Friends: Our young people are taking this opportunity of expressing their sincere thanks to you both, for your aid in our Young People's Work. We have felt that you yourselves have enjoyed helping us because you have taken such an interested part in all our meetings.

We understand that today happens to be Mrs. Little's birthday, and we wish her every happiness in the years to come.

These tokens of our friendship are given with every hope for your continued success in the Lord's work. Arthur Blair, President.

Mr. and Mrs. Little left at 7 o'clock Thursday morning for their home, via Bridgewater, and despite the early hour of their departure, a number of the young people were at the station to see them off and say good bye.

A very eloquent sermon was preached by Rev. L. J. Watson, at the local United Church of God, on Sunday morning, in the absence of Rev. C. L. Blanchard, who was attending the Oxford Group meeting in Saint John. Rev. Mr. Watson is pastor of the United Church at Silver Falls, Saint John.

CELEBRATES NINETIETH BIRTHDAY

Bear River's oldest male citizen, Frederick J. Dittmars, celebrated on Thursday, February 27th, his 90th birthday. He is still in possession of all his mental faculties and enjoys life, though a bit handicapped by defective eyesight.

Mr. Dittmars was born at the old Dittmars homestead, at Clements, the son of Voorhees Spurr Dittmars and Adelaide Ryerson Dittmars, both members of well known Loyalist families who settled in Deep Brook and Clements after the American revolution.

His father, dying when Mr. Dittmars was only sixteen years old, and his mother removed to Bear River, which has been his home ever since.

He was a clerk in Bear River's first customs office, and also served in the department of government service. Last year, in honor of having been sixty years a mason, The Keith Lodge presented him with a beautiful apron at a special meeting at which he was the guest.

On Tuesday evening a number of personal friends "surprised" him at his home, to congratulate him on his wealth of years, and presented a gift in token of their friendship. Mr. Dittmars' wife was formerly Miss Mary Morse, sister of the late multi-millionaire, Edward P. Morse of New York, and a daughter of the late Dove Morse, a former prominent resident of Bear River.

RECALLING THE DIGBY OF MANY YEARS AGO

A. R. Turnbull Gives the Kiwanians An Interesting View of the Past.

"Reminiscences of Business Life in Digby" was the subject of an address given by the Digby Kiwanis Club by A. R. Turnbull, one of the leading grocers of the town, at the club's weekly luncheon, on Tuesday.

Mr. Turnbull told of the days in Digby before the advent of the automobile, and of the volume of shipping and shipbuilding then, and of Digby's once famous fishing fleet. He then told how he "entered business" in the year 1889, at the salary of $1.00 per week, with the firm of Turnbull & Walsh, doing business here at that time. Then came the great Digby fire of 1893 which destroyed practically the whole of the main business section on both sides of Water street; and how, after the fire, new firms sprang up like mushrooms to take the place of the old ones.

Among other things he told how they used to buy eggs at 15 cents a dozen and butter at 15 cents a pound. The eggs were shipped to Saint John, where, very often, they received only 5 cents a dozen for them. Much of the butter was not fit for consumption, and was sold to vessel owners who used it to "stink" the cargo.

He said, instead of shipping eggs to Saint John, we import them from there. His store had not bought more than 20 dozen eggs locally since the first of the year. Country butter, now-a-days, he said, must not only be "no cow" but must be of the best quality before the grocer will consider taking it.

He pointed out that people were far more particular now than in the old days. In those days a market could be found for everything. Flour he had become dumb and stiffened could be sold at reduced prices, but you can't do that today. Even the poorest families want the best, or none at all.

THE PILGRIMAGE FUND

Further subscriptions to the Vimy Pilgrimage Fund are to be found at the foot of this article. To date the Digby Branch of the Canadian Legion are already pleased with the response with which their appeal has been met. However, as the subscription can only remain open three more weeks before it is necessary to finance the ticket, it is hoped that others who intend to make a contribution will do so at the first opportunity.

The purpose of this fund is to aid the Digby Legion in sending their representative, Captain Gerald E. Boyd, to the unveiling of the Canadian Memorial at Vimy in June of this year.

BOARD OF TRADE HEARS TALK ON TOURISTS

Despite most unfavorable weather, there was a splendid attendance at the annual banquet of the Board of Trade last evening. Mr. Nicholas, president of the board, presided, and introduced the speaker, Dr. Leo Delan, Director of the Federal Travel Bureau. Mr. Delan's talk was one of the best of the kind ever heard in Digby. He told of the publicity work being accomplished by the Bureau, which, this year, is placing advertisements in 85 American newspapers and 30 national magazines from Boston to San Francisco, and how the advertising this year was to be done, that is, newspapers in New England would carry advertisements for the Maritime and Quebec; others in other states, for Ontario and the prairie provinces, and still others for Alberta and British Columbia.

His prophecy was that 1936 would be the biggest tourist year in Canada's history, and that tourists would leave upwards of $250,000,000 in the Dominion. He urged the importance of the conservation of fish and game, and the fact that the average visitor who comes to hunt and fish is a better conservationist than is the average Canadian.

We regret that owing to the fact that this banquet was held on Thursday evening, our forces are made up, we are unable to do Mr. Delan full justice in reporting his speech. Our equipment for handling last minute news is not as modern as that of the city dailies, which will give a full account today.

The banquet was held in the Waverly, and "The Host" Howard put upon a menu.

SCHOOL BOARD CONSIDERS NEW ACCOMMODATIONS

A. J. Dillon Re-Elected Chairman
Dr. Dickie Succeeds Fritz Dakin as Commissioner

The matter of increased accommodation in the Digby School, and making provisions for the teaching of Grade XII, were discussed at the annual meeting of the Digby School Board, which on Monday was presided over by Dr. Dickie S. Dakin, who was re-elected chairman, and Dr. W. R. Dickie made a member of the Board to succeed Fritz Dakin. Dr. Dickie's term will be three years.

A letter from School Inspector M. C. Postland was read, pointing out that he would not permit a division of the pupils of Miss Moore's room (primary), into morning and afternoon classes, as he did not consider it a case of emergency. The Board had not made provision for the teaching of Grade XII, as required.

Discussing this matter P. W. Holdsworth expressed himself in favor of increasing the accommodations and for the teaching of Grade XII subjects in the Digby Academy. He stated that the directors of the Boy Scout Hall would be willing to rent the building for educational purposes at a rental of $1.00 per year.

In discussing his plans for next year, Principal F. C. Purdy stated if the Scout Hall were utilized for two of the lower grade classes, seven teachers would be required for common school grades this year; and if Grade XII were taught, three teachers for the High School would be required.

A committee comprising Mr. J. M. C. Denton, F. L. Anderson and P. W. Holdsworth, was appointed to look into the matter of the Scout Hall and decide upon its feasibility for use as class rooms. And if the building could be utilized to procure estimates on the necessary alterations. They are to report back to the board at a special meeting to be held in the near future for the purpose of going further into the matter.

A resolution was also passed at this meeting that the secretary write a letter to Mrs. Driffield conveying their sympathy in her serious illness, and expressing appreciation of the work she accomplished while a member of the teaching staff.

CONSUMERS STEAL ENERGY, IT IS ALLEGED

Town Council Holds a Special Meeting To Deal With the Matter

It was alleged Wednesday morning, at a special meeting of the Digby Town Council, that consumers of electrical energy within the Town of Digby are stealing electricity by tampering with wiring and service connections. It is understood by the press that some 25 customers were added to the line last week, notwithstanding the fact that the town was short of 1934.

The outcome of Wednesday's meeting was that the clerk was to have published in the local paper a notice to consumers, the first paragraph of which follows:

"The electric light committee having been assured by its proper officers that energy is being stolen and the loss occasioned thereby has become so great as to call for an immediate remedy all consumers of energy are hereby notified that after this date—11th March, 1936, any person found to have tampered with any wire or service connection will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. The minimum penalty for such an offence is a fine of $50.00."

The notice goes on to state that entrance and service switches are inadequate in many homes and business places for ordinary safety and protection of property, and orders that all service entrances be made to conform with the Canadian Code which calls for a condole entrance and enclosed service box and meter, both in sight of the proper town authority.

It further orders that, where necessary, the changes must be made at the expense of the consumer by the 11th day of June, 1936. Failure to comply with this order will result with the work being done by the electric light committee, and the bill for the same sent to the consumer.

Celebrated 90th Birthday.

Being somewhat of an invalid, due to her continued illness, the day was quietly observed, but a good number of friends called to offer congratulations and to bring gifts. Both social and beautiful Mrs. Austin herself cut her lovely birthday cake and enjoyed having her friends around her. She also received a great many cards and letters and was remembered of several radio programs.

NEWS CENSORSHIP

"Editor and Publisher" gives a list of liberal translations of a few of the bans imposed on Japanese newspapers by the police and foreign office. It contains such commands as these:

"Editors: Do not mention Harbin and Yoyoki."

"Editors: Do not publish news concerning the arrest of Korean malcontents."

"Editors: The newspaper is liable to suppression for publication of matter concerning the condition of the various banks in Yamagata Prefecture which are disturbing the public credit and are detrimental to the credit of money circulation organs."

A similar list of instructions, this one issued by the Italian government to its newspaper editors, is published by the British Manchester Guardian. Here we find:

"Do not say, even in a good sense, that Italians are sheep."

"Do not express contempt for the Ethiopian army, and never speak of the movements of either the Italian or Ethiopian troops."

"It has been decided that an embargo on oil is not to be spoken of. Above all, no prognostications are to be made. Prognostications made abroad are not to be published."

"Cut down dispatches from abroad."

Here is food for thought for those who believe in freedom of press and speech in theory, but who would like to apply curbs in certain cases. Let us be thankful for the freedom we have and choose to have more rather than less.

Reading is a better illustration of the story of the Boy Scout organization can be found than in the statement of the National Council, out of 67,000 boys brought before the juvenile court in St. Louis in the past 25 years not one has been a first class Boy Scout.

Can Even Start Over.

Katy Pitts, of Highland, Eastern woman who drove on foot, has an eye on the roadward seat last year by Sir Malcolm Campbell, at Salt Lake City. She weighs a hundred pounds and is so heavy she has to be strapped to the seat of her car to avoid being jolted off. From what we can learn, she travels even faster than some motorists who for her out on the road and water streets, which is saying a good deal.

N. S. Booth at Sportsmen's Shows "Click"

The Nova Scotia delegation to the three sportsmen's shows held in the United States during the past few weeks returned to the Province on Tuesday of last week with a record of repeated triumph that amazed even those who participated in the event.

Under the leadership of E. S. Campbell, Halifax, Registrar of Motor Vehicles, the Nova Scotian group of 11 sailed for Yarmouth with the firm knowledge that "behind them were thousands of American sportsmen and hunters who are now 'Nova Scotia minded'."

A conservative estimate of the total number of persons who visited the three shows and inspected the Nova Scotia exhibit at Boston, Hartford and New York, is 500,000. In New York alone approximately a quarter of a million persons attended the National Sportsmen's Show. Some 200,000 attended the New England Sportsmen's Show at Boston, and another 100,000 saw the Connecticut Sportsmen's Show.

All attendance records for the Grand Central Palace were broken during the eight-day New York show. The Hon. J. E. Campbell, president of the "Campbell-Parkland" Expedition, the sponsor of the three shows, declared that it is his belief that the New York show was the greatest of its kind ever held anywhere in the world.

Will H. Bird, Amherst, and Roy Green, Yarmouth, prominent information bureau officers, at the direction of A. J. Campbell, head of the government Bureau of Information, maintained a register for persons anxious to receive additional information regarding the attractions of the province. More than 12,000 signed it.

Even more words have been said than in the past that frequently or at least was the case around the Nova Scotia display that persons wishing to sign could not reach the booth where the register was kept. On the third day of the New York show, the "Campbell-Parkland" Expedition, the sponsor of the three shows, declared that it is his belief that the New York show was the greatest of its kind ever held anywhere in the world.

On Friday afternoon, March 5, the Nova Scotian group of 11 sailed for Yarmouth with the firm knowledge that "behind them were thousands of American sportsmen and hunters who are now 'Nova Scotia minded'."

Elton Smith, famous guide from Chelonia, was in charge of deer and bear hunting information and was kept busy explaining things about the Nova Scotia game season. All of the guides, of course, talked on every visitor was referred to the men in phase of sport but, where possible, charge of that particular type of sport. Moose hunting information was given by everyone and the habits and peculiarities of moose were explained by Elton Blesner.

Capt. Joe Penney, Liverpool tuna fishing guide, and John LeBlanc, Wedgeport boat builder and tuna guide, had charge of tuna fishing information. They were stationed at an attention-attracting display in the middle of the exhibit. During the show hours they alternated in answering questions regarding tuna fishing, expecting for a brief period when Mr. LeBlanc was confined to his quarters by illness and Captain Penney had to carry on alone. They familiarized each other with the fishing information of their respective localities and talked of tuna fishing generally. Their display was in front of the 950-pound midget tuna which was caught by Chilopago sportsman, Thomas Howell, two years ago. Each dressed in tuna guide equipment and wore the harness used by these fishermen. A swivel chair of the type placed in boats for tuna fishing and a huge rod and reel were part of this display.

The background for the exhibit was a huge map of the Province around which were hung pictures illustrating the scenic beauty of Nova Scotia. The map, which had a yellow background, was illustrated with black silhouettes depicting the places where various kinds of game and fish could be found. It also showed motor, rail and sea routes to the Province with the distances from New York, Boston and Hartford marked on the different routes.

Mr. Cann and Mr. Bird took care of tourist information and gave directions as to how to reach Nova Scotia, the time and price of accommodations to be had and the scenery and recreational facilities to be enjoyed. They also recommended tour routes of the Province to those interested.

Midway Indian Chief, Louis Paul, Dartmouth, and his wife, Nancy Ann, created much interest with their birch bark tipi, which was erected in the foreground. They were constantly at work making baskets, bows and arrows and other souvenirs and always had an appreciative audience, especially among the children.

Without previous experience in work of this type and with limited funds at his disposal as compared with that available to various States, which had exhibits in the show, Elton Smith, Campbell did a splendid job in organizing the 1936 shows. He was ably assisted by Edmund Sullivan, who took care of the many details which Mr. Campbell was too busy to care for and to assist in the Government Information Bureau officers by supplying tourists with special information regarding Cape Breton Island, of which he is a native.

Mr. Campbell's experience in radio, in which field he was for some time an engineering and technical adviser, was a valuable assistance in the broadcasts arranged for the Nova Scotians during the shows.

A feature of the Nova Scotia exhibit which created a great deal of interest was the exhibit of hooked rugs made by women in various parts of the Province and in Atlantic Canada. These rugs were fascinating to many and it is expected that this interest will be reflected in increasing purchases during the coming year of this product of Nova Scotia's skilled and artistic hooked rug makers.

Need hunters, sports editors, deer and bear and celebrities of stage and political life visited the Nova Scotia exhibits. Mayor LaGuardia returning a visit paid on him at his office by the Nova Scotia delegation, inspected the booth and concluded his visit by placing an official car at the disposal of the delegation.

So that the Indian might see New York City's sights in style, Helen Johnson, Metropolitan Opera star, visited the booth and posed for press photographers with Sergeant Alfred Bell of the Halifax detachment. R. C. M. "The latter played a prominent part in the New York show, attracting much attention by his impressive dress uniform and assisting the bureau of information officers by giving information about the attractions of the province.

So much interest was manifested in tuna fishing at the New York show that famous American tuna fishermen visited Liverpool and planned Wedgeport last season, officials of fishing tackle companies and sports writers who have visited the Province expressed the fear that there will be insufficient means of properly caring for the number of anglers expected to visit the Nova Scotia tuna grounds. It was pointed out that boats must be specially equipped for tuna fishing, that no matter how much fishermen may know about catching tuna for commercial purposes they have many difficult tricks to master before they can adequately assist sportsmen using rod and reel.

Prospects Are Exceptional.
Nova Scotia, tourist prospects in New England were exceptionally good for the coming season. Hon. A. S. MacMillan, Nova Scotia Minister of Highways, stated on his return to Halifax from a week's trip to New York, Boston and Upper Canada on departmental business.

BARTON
The School and Community Club of Barton, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Specht, on Friday, with a good attendance. After the business period pictures of the Maritime Provinces were shown which were loaned by the C. N. R.

Harold (Sonny) Specht is on the sick list.
Mrs. Annie Nickerson, Digby, who lost her home by fire last week, has gone to Weymouth North, where she will spend the remainder of the winter with her sister, Mrs. Warren Lenn.

Miss Mable Ruggles attended the funeral of the late Mrs. S. Skidmore at Weymouth North, Saturday.

BEAR RIVER BOY WINS FAME AS PHYSICIAN

Pioneered in the field of allurgical medicine and eminent Boston physician, a native Nova Scotian is today acknowledged a leading authority on the ailments of those who suffer diseases caused by Hyperacidity. He is Dr. John Archibald Turnbull, son of the late John W. and Jessie M. Turnbull, of Bear River, and a one-time practitioner at Bear River and Clark's Harbour.

Dr. Turnbull was mainly responsible for the founding of the allurgical clinic at the Massachusetts General Hospital some sixteen years ago. Allergy, his specialty, is the treatment of diseases by giving sufferers a proper diet. Dr. Turnbull believes that many ailments can be cured by a good diet arrangement and by preventing sufferers from smelling objectionable odors, and his researches in this field have brought him widespread fame in the medical profession.

He was schooled in Bear River, and graduated from McGill medical school, from which he was graduated in 1906. He subsequently practiced in giving patients a proper diet. Dr. Turnbull believes that many ailments can be cured by a good diet arrangement and by preventing sufferers from smelling objectionable odors, and his researches in this field have brought him widespread fame in the medical profession.

Returning to Nova Scotia, he entered on general practice at Clark's Harbour, where he remained for six years. Subsequently he came to New York in 1910. For two years he studied surgery at the New York post-graduate medical school. While engaged on this course, he developed a bad cough, which persisted for some time, preventing him from active medical work. After starting practice in Boston, Dr. Turnbull travelled all over the continent for some time in search of health, also undergoing an operation for the removal of his tonsils. Eventually he himself discovered the cause of his trouble—a poorly fitted tooth.

Weakened by so much illness, he had difficulty in building up a practice when he again settled in Boston. Although having no hospital or clinical appointments, he spent a great deal of time treating clinic patients. In this way, he happened to meet the man whose case interested him first in allery.

This patient worked in a bakery and had nasal trouble, which left him in continual discomfort. Dr. Turnbull discovered through experimentation that a particular brand of flour was the source of all the trouble. By means of a special flour preparation, the patient was inoculated and thus immunized from further illness. This was a great revelation to Dr. Turnbull. From this case he moved into further research, including such diseases as asthma, hay fever, Meniere's disease, all of which are typified by continued sneezing or coughing.

He believed that these originated in the hyper-sensitiveness of patients to particular foods or odors. Today he has more than 250 substances with which he can test susceptibility.

Dr. Turnbull is a bachelor. Until his death in 1922, his mother lived with him. At the present time he resides with his brother, Edward M., an interior decorator, in Brookline, Mass. Other brothers are William S., in the amiric and shade business, and Frederick M., also a graduate of the McGill medical school, now resident in Hollywood, Cal., and practicing in Los Angeles.

ENTERTAINS AT ST. PATRICK'S PARTY

On Friday evening of last week, the home of Mrs. J. H. Cunningham was the scene of a very joyous party, when Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham and Mrs. A. G. MacIntyre were joint hosts to a number of their friends at a most beautifully carried-out in every detail, St. Patrick dinner bridge. In the dressing rooms, "nifty" green paper caps were provided for the guests, who were then through the evening.

The long dining table, with covers and for sixteen guests, was a marvel of tasteful decoration in white and green, with place-mats of green shamrock, green candles in green stalks, green glass service plates, dainty green individual napkins and green balloons.

After the course dinner, contract was played at four tables, the typical prize of Ladies' First, a large shamrock shaped box of chocolates; Gentlemen's First, a green decorated pack of cards; and mock money and green foliage concealing prizes, were won by Mr. and Mrs. F. Harris, Mrs. A. B. Campbell and E. W. Purdy.

AMATEUR SHOW AT SMITH'S COVE

On March 10th the Women's Institute presented an original and interesting Major Brown programme in the Temperance Hall. W. Woodman filled the part of the Major in a very satisfactory manner, while the most outstanding of the amateurs were Miss Diana White, of Bear River; Walter Dittmars, of Deep Brook; and five pupils from Miss McCut's dancing school, in Digby. Others who took part in the programme were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moore, John and Eugene Barry, A. Cositt, Miss Ruby Woodman, M. L. Robinson, Mrs. J. Hoop and Miss Kay McLaughlin. The song was not exercised to any great extent, for only two performers were interrupted—Mrs. G. Weir, when she in the character of Mrs. Diana White, attempted to perform on the violin; and Miss Thomas, who as Daisy Cornstock, began a short lecture. In each case the song was an act of mercy. W. McGregory played the part of Graham McNamee, and also gave a selection on the accordion. After the programme a short play, entitled "Maidens All Forlorn," was presented. The players were Miss K. Weir, Miss E. Weir, Mrs. W. Woodman, Mrs. E. Payson and Mrs. J. Marshall. They are to be complimented on an excellent performance.

After the programme refreshments were served and with them Chase & Sanborn's Coffee. The Institute realized $31.50 on the presentation.

IMPORTANT MEETING AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY

On Saturday evening, an enthusiastic meeting of the Bear River Agricultural Society was held at the Bear River Training Camp's office. Roy Snell, president, in the chair.

After routine business, a discussion followed of further improvements to exhibition facilities, the building of a new dining hall, and more extensive and suitable accommodations for the poultry exhibit, the president naming the following committee to make a survey of exhibition grounds in order to select sites, estimate costs, and report at next meeting, which will be called shortly: C. D. Rice, C. W. Jefferson, Bernard Alcorn and Harold Hathaway.

Another progressive measure announced was the purchase by this society of one hundred pounds of Man gel seed from a "selected" English seed house; the society's members having approved the purchase of purchasing certain amounts of this until the supply is exhausted.

An early issue of the "Exhibition Prize List" is to be made, in order that exhibitors may be prepared to select various departments for prize award. Last year's exhibition was a very fine one, and the increasing interest each year is a guarantee of this year's being an even greater success.

WELL KNOWN CANADIAN AUTHOR AND POET

Rev. Philip Jerome Cleveland, at present pastor of a church in Brooklyn, Conn., U. S. A., is well known to Bear River citizens, as for eighteen months he held the pastorate of the Bear River Free Baptist Church, and married Pearl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sullivan, of Bear River. He has written several books and this winter has written a "Life of Christ" and at present is in New York arranging to have it published. Later Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland will visit Mrs. Cleveland's parents in Bear River.

His poems have often been heard over the radio, and have been published as "Frontier Poems" in Good Housekeeping Magazine. The following is one of his unpublished poems which he left with friends on a visit to Bear River.

Mother, What Are You Thinking?

Mother, what are you thinking now? The dusk has covered the scene And you hold in your arms a boy of ten.

Who has fallen asleep. The men have finished the chores. In a little while The morning will flame again.

Mother, what are you dreaming now? Close by the window sill In your rocking chair, and your ten-year eyes.

Wandering over the hills? Do you see him grown, a stalwart man. Strong, with a strong man's will?

Mother, what are you saying now? Your kind lips move and they part As you softly rock in the gentle dusk And fold him nearer your heart.

Do you pray that God will spare his hands? From war or a burglar's snarl?

Mother, what are you weeping now? So still, so hush in your chair? The dear little lad is fast asleep And starts silver in your hair. I wish I knew the way God Stands in the silence there.

PHILATHEA MEETING

WOULD CANCEL LIQUOR PERMIT

An amendment to the Nova Scotia Liquor Control Act, introduced in the Legislature Tuesday by Attorney-General MacQuinn, provides for the cancelling of a license of a person who has been convicted of selling liquor or keeping liquor for sale, must be cancelled by the commission and that an order must be made by the commission prohibiting such convicted person from purchasing liquor at any government store.

Cancelled by the commission the holder of the permit or license will not be able to obtain a new permit or license or purchase any liquor from a government store until after the expiration of one year from the date of cancellation.

If a person has had his permit or license cancelled a second time for an offence under this liquor or keeping liquor for sale, his privileges are taken from him for a period of five years.

Digby Won Last Night.

The Badminton tournament played last evening in St. Patrick's Hall—Dear River vs. Digby—was won by the Digby Club, 4-3. This result justifies the total, and no doubt a playoff game will be necessary.

N. S. Bootleggers' Market.

The chief market of the bootlegger and rum runner is not the "dive" where liquor is illegally sold by the glass or bottle, but rather the homes of affluent and prominent citizens where it is delivered direct in kegs or gallons. This is the report of Commissioner Dennis Ryan, of the N. S. C. M. tabled in the provincial legislature.

Navigation Opens in Bay of Fundy.

Navigation to the Margareville shore and Minas Basin will be open over the week end. Tomorrow the motor vessel Rio Stano will leave Saint John for Port Greenville, Parrsboro, Wolfville, Kingsport and Hantsport, and on Monday the steamer Elizabeth Cunn will sail for the Margareville shore ports.

Bishop of Saint John Named.

Announcement that Rev. Patrick Bray, C.J.M., Superior of Holy Heart Seminary, Halifax, has been appointed Bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Saint John, was made at Fredericton this week by Rev. M. L. Carney, administrator of the diocese since the death in February, 1935, of Bishop B. A. LeBlanc, at one time parish priest at St. Bernard, in this county. A new archdiocese, that of Moncton, has also been created.

How Vaccination Began.

It is interesting to be reminded that the practice of vaccination as a preventive of the "red death," as smallpox once was called, was developed by Jenner after he had observed that cowboys milk made seemed to be immune to the disease. He deduced that contact with the disease in cows made the human beings immune. On this hypothesis, he based his experiments which brought into being the method of inoculation that has since saved thousands of lives.

Spring Is Here Now.

Officially, today is the first day of spring; but in Digby St. Patrick's day was more like a true summer. The thermometer said about 60 degrees most of the day; many went hatless and coatless, but we weren't personal enough to make enquiries as to how many had taken off their winter underwear; boys on the street were in overalls and a group of youngsters were seen playing ball on the cannon bank. We haven't seen marbles yet, though.

The Roads Are Improving.

As yet, we have done no driving about the country, but from all we hear, the roads are in very good condition for the time of year. We have seen some bad spots—and of some very bad ones—but, judging from reports we would take it that most of the frost came out of the ground during last week's thaw. Roads, said last week to be almost impassable, are now reported in fair condition, and in some instances graders have gone to work over them. The pavement appears to be standing up well. Naturally, a few craters made their appearance, but they seem to be running together during this warm spell of weather we have been enjoying.

HOW CAN I?

Q. How can I stop shoes from squeaking?

A. Bore a small hole in the sole under the arch, and pour a little oil into it. Let the shoes stand upside down as long as possible after filling the hole, to allow the oil to get into the space between the soles.

Q. How can I test the strength and good quality of cotton fabrics?

A. By holding the fabric up against a light to see the thickness of the weave. The tighter the weave, the better the material will wear.

Q. How can I make fudge?

A. Here is a good recipe for fudge. One cup of water, two cups of sugar, three tablespoons of cocoa, a small pinch of salt, boil until it makes a soft ball in water, add quarter teaspoon of vanilla flavoring, stirring until creamy, then pour on a buttered dish.

Trains Were Delayed.

Although the storm and flood last Thursday did little damage locally, extensive damage was done in other parts of the province. The greatest hardship here was the delay in mail and train service. The night train from Halifax, due here early Friday morning, did not arrive until nearly four o'clock that afternoon. The express from Yarmouth arrived on time but only went as far as Annapolis Royal, turning at that station to return to Yarmouth. The A. R. R. express from Halifax arrived at this station until Saturday afternoon.

EDUCATION MORE THAN SCHOOLING

Education, broadly speaking, is the process of changing and shaping lives. The early years of a life are the most susceptible to this moulding, but it is a process that is as long as the life itself. Home, friends, and daily work, have always been the greatest educational institutions, and they are still doubtless more influential than schools, which are to be compared rather with such other institutions as the press, the church, the theatre and the radio—to mention a few of the others in order of the amount we spend on them.

The annual expenditure on Canadian schools and universities, in recent years, has been about 160 million dollars. Newspapers, magazines, books, and printed advertising matter, have been produced annually in Canada to the value of 70 or 80 million dollars and the value of imports of this kind has exceeded exports each year by more than ten millions. Thus we seem to have been paying something like 100 million dollars for our reading material, or nearly two-thirds as much as for schools.

Church finances are not published in all cases, but a reasonable estimate for their receipts seems to be about 70 million, or rather less than half the expenditure on schools. The annual receipts of the motion picture theatres are about 30 million dollars. New radios and licenses cost in the neighborhood of about 15 million dollars, and there is also the cost of programmes to consider.

Adding together what we pay for the press, the church, the movies and the radio, the sum is much higher than for schools. If we knew, too, the cost of such other educational influences as sports, holidays, clubs and hobbies, we would be able to place the schools in their proper setting among the whole fraternity of educational institutions. This information has been supplied by the Education Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

AN OATH TO SPRING

When'er I see upon the stairs
Long rows of shoes and brooms in pairs,
And watch the curtains fall like sails
And listen to the good wife's wails,
I know 'tis Spring—beautiful Spring.

When from the rooms in the hall,
Where soap and polish come all,
Rises that strong, overpowering smell
That is to me akin to well,
I know 'tis Spring—wonderful Spring.

When from the house I wend my way
And meet the springing ropes, and say
Words only qualified when before,
I stepped on mingles near the door,
O, I know 'tis Spring—exhilarating Spring!

And when there's drizzling, sleeting rain,
And the muddy streets give me a pain,
When my umbrella's dripping down my neck,
O, it's then I'm certain sure, by heck,
That 'tis Spring—glorious Spring!

Happy Day,
Maid—Madam, master is lying unconscious in the hall with a piece of paper in his hand, and a large box by his side.
Mrs. N. (sobbing)—"Oh, my new hat has arrived!"

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

One thousand English doctors, many of them eminent in their profession, were included among those who recently signed a manifesto entitled, "The Brewers' Attack Upon Youth." One paragraph of this manifesto reads:

"We deprecate the initiation of an effort to promote the beer drinking habit among the young, and we would regard the success of such a campaign as a step backward and as detrimental to the best interests of individual and national welfare."

And this in England, mind you, where they are famed for "British common sense" and "moderation." A London police court a few weeks ago fined a doctor ten pounds for driving while under the influence of liquor. More than that, the code made him pay nine guineas cost and suspended his driving license for a whole year, and then to be re-tested only after his case had been properly looked into.

And this happened in England, mind you, where they provide an example for the world, of what is proper as "British fair play and justice."

Don't you see in those instances the handwriting on the wall, which declares in unmistakable terms that the whole "drinking business," including beer—has been weighed in the balances and found wanting? The days of the kingdom (of King Alcohol) have been numbered. The dawn of a new life today and for the future is too exciting for sensible people to be found indulging—even moderately—in alcohol. The day is coming, indeed now is, when people will say of the man who drinks, "Poor foolish fellow!"

Mrs. J. W. Bell entertained a number of friends at a quilting on Tuesday.
