The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern till, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1783, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to other countries, left the whole

There was a taste of trying to sell job printing outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls to my old home town, spent most of the time at one particular house, and got an order, but

HAD LUMBER CARGO FOR ENGLAND

The Norwegian steamer Samso completed loading a cargo of spruce lumber Thursday night and sailed on Good Friday morning for Garston, England. The Samso took on some 800,000 feet of Annapolis Royal and completed her load with a similar quantity from Digby. She will stop at Louisbourg, Cape Breton, en route, for bunker. Given fair weather the crew say they should make the trip in 26 days.

Easter at Grace United Church

The Easter services at Grace United Church were largely attended. In fact, it is said that a service in that church has not been as well attended in years. At the morning service the Junior Choir and Senior Choir assisted. There were fourteen members taken into the church at this service, and four others received the sacrament of Baptism. At the evening service special music was again rendered by the two choirs. After the evening service a pageant was presented by the Anti-Cant Class, directed by Miss Dorothy Dunn, entitled, "The Uplifted Cross." The music for this pageant was rendered by the Junior Choir. The pageant itself was well suited for the closing of the Easter tide, and the group and their director, indeed put on a splendid piece of work. The special soloists for the day were Helen Melanson and Charlotte MacKay, both of the Junior Choir.

DOGS KILLING SHEEP

Farmers at Lake Midway, on Digby Neck, are meeting with heavy losses these days, a number of their sheep having been killed by dogs. One man, Norval Morehouse, reports having his boy killed; several of their boys were found on the shore where the dogs had driven them. Alton Graham, of the same village, has also lost several sheep within the past few days. Within the past ten years or so Digby Neck has developed into an important sheep raising area. Several of the largest flocks are located in the village of Lake Midway.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS

We have decided to make a change in our cut casting policy. In the past we have made no charge for casting mats used for advertising or job printing purposes when the advertisements were to be printed in the Digby Weekly Courier, or the jobs to be printed by the Wallis Print. It is not our intention to charge for this work now, but, as warmer weather is approaching and fires will not be going all the time, a change must be made. After May 1st our cuts will be cast on Wednesday mornings; advertisers wishing to illustrate their advertisements with cuts MUST have their advertisement and mats in the office not later than 10 a. m. the Wednesday before publication.

Any mats received after that time will be charged for at 10 cents per square inch, mounted, with a minimum charge of 50 cents per mat. Positively no mats will be cast on Thursday under $1.00 each.

The scallop sloop Walter C. Capt. James Tidd, arrived in port last Thursday evening, minus her mast, which snapped near the butt while hoisting scallop rakes that evening. One member of the crew was rendered unconscious for several minutes as a result of the accident. It was necessary to obtain a new spar before resuming operations.

MISSING BOYS FOUND

Twelve year old Lyle Lovely, who was reported as missing to the Digby police last week, was located Good Friday morning at the home of Fred Lawrence, and returned to his home in Bloomfield the same afternoon. Young Lovely, who attended the North Range school, explained that since the school building in that village burned there was nothing for him to do, and he came to town to seek work.

Walter Walker, Lake Midway boy, who was also reported missing last week, and for whom the waters of Lake Midway were dragged on Good Friday, was located Saturday. He had been employed by the postmaster of Lake Midway.

Tax Rate of 4.20 Remains

At the regular monthly meeting of the Digby Town Council, held Tuesday evening, it was decided to change the rate, which in the town's tax rate, which will remain at 4.20, the same figure at which it has stood for the past four years. This rate, with 100 per cent collection, and making allowances for prompt payment discounts estimated at $120 will produce a net revenue for the town of $31,474 from a net assessment of $759,390. Estimated estimates for the year called for expenditures of $39,622 from which an estimated income of $8,228 was deducted, leaving $31,326 to be raised.

This session of the Council was one of the longest and busiest held in some time. A motion to continue was passed at 11 p.m., and the council remained in session until nearly midnight.

The Council was addressed by Fritz Dakin and Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson in behalf of the Digby branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses, who asked an increase in the annual grant to that organization; by J. W. Merkel, in behalf of the Digby Board of Trade, who asked that the Town Council call a meeting of the citizens of the town to make plans for a Coronation Day celebration; by J. M. Wallis, in behalf of the Digby Children's Aid Society, who asked the usual grant be made to that society; and by F. J. Thibault, who asked the town to assist the Digby Legion in mounting the old guns removed from Battery Point.

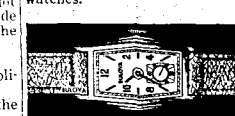

The Council also granted permission for the erection of four buildings within the town, work on these buildings to start shortly. They included a paint shop and garage, to be erected by Jack Keen, the building to face First Avenue; a residence, facing Birch Street, to be erected by A. R. Pyne; two dwellings on Victoria Street to be erected by M. C. Denton. Plans for all four buildings were submitted to and approved by the Council.

Town Clerk Alfred Boden, read a letter from Bernard J. Havey, for many years, Stipendiary Magistrate of the town, in which Mr. Havey tendered his resignation from office, to take effect as soon as a successor could be appointed. Judge Havey is perhaps one of the oldest active Stipendiary Magistrates in the province, and will celebrate his 96th birthday in May of this year. The Clerk has written the Premier to arrange for a successor to Mr. Havey. On motion of Councillor F. L. Anderson, seconded by H. L. Woodman, the Clerk and Mayor were instructed to write Mr. Havey expressing the appreciation of the town for the faithful service he has rendered.

It was decided that H. J. Campbell would represent the town at a meeting of the Public Utilities, to be held at Halifax, where matters pertaining to electrical distribution will be discussed.

A letter from H. A. Nichols, Secretary of the Digby Board of Trade, was read. Mr. Nichols' letter asked the town council to pass a resolution along similar lines to that passed by the Town of Windsor, the resolution to forbid the blowing of train whistles within the town limits between the hours of 9 p.m. and 7 a.m. Attached to Mr. Nichols' letter were copies of correspondence with the Board of Railway Commissioners and railway officials. The clerk was advised to write the Board of Railway Commissioners to determine the town's responsibility in case of accident providing such a resolution were passed.

It was also decided at this meeting for the street committee to make a survey of the streets and decide on the location of "No Parking" signs in congested areas.

Improvement of sidewalks also came up, and estimates for spraying the sidewalks on Water and Queen Streets discussed. The council decided to add some 40 per cent to that estimate for similar improvements to other sidewalks in the town. Work on this is expected to commence shortly.

Acting on the suggestion of Mr. Merkel, who, early in the meeting addressed the council in behalf of the Board of Trade, the council decided to call a meeting of the citizens to be held at the court house 8 o'clock Monday evening (April 5), for the purpose of discussing plans and forming committees for a coronation day celebration.

BOOKS IN MEMORY OF DR. M. S. READ

A dual anniversary was celebrated this week as juniors majoring in the Colgate psychology department gave a section of books to the university in honor of the late Dr. Melbourne S. Read. Dr. Read's last book, "Introductory Psychology with Educational Applications," was published 25 years ago, March 28, 1911.

The second anniversary mentioned in the dedication of the book section was that of Dr. Read's death ten years ago, April 4, 1927. The book section in the Colgate psychology laboratory will soon be known as the Melbourne Stuart Read Memorial Collection.

The twenty-five juniors concentrating in psychology, have contributed a sum of money for the securing of appropriate books by Professor Donald A. Laird, present head of the department. Donors of the Read collection have stated that the books will be for student use and will be selected in accordance with the spirit of the statement of Dr. Read in 1911 to avoid works which "give the impression that they deal with something abstruse and far away from one's ordinary concern, rather than with one's own intimate experience."

Dr. Read joined the Colgate faculty in 1895, and was appointed Colgate's first professor of psychology with a separate department in 1910. He was an associate of the noted Dr. Newton Lloyd Andrews, who taught Colgate's first psychology course fifty years ago. Read's book was a pioneering work in applying psychology to the training of teachers.

Dr. Melbourne Stuart Read was born in Berwick, Nova Scotia, graduated from Acadia. In 1924 a diploma awarded him an honorary doctor's degree. He was a brother of Willard F. Read, who practiced medicine in Digby for a number of years.—(News Editor Courier)

DIGBY, FRIDAY APRIL 2, 1937

LET YOUTH STAND UP!

Why should not the youth of today rise up in their might and give us a generation unspoiled by the use of alcoholic drinking? The knowledge, the needs, the demands of today cry out for just such an achievement. Why should any young man or woman want to drink today, anyway? Is there one good thing it can do for you to compensate for all the wrong? Suppose you grant for the sake of argument that your seniors are not able to get away from it—then, why should not you? Why walk in all the crooked ways of your fathers, once they have been revealed as crooked? What is it that you hope to get from the wine cup?

Look around you and see what others get—do you want that? That look in the eye that belies your real selfhood; those unsteady, slobbering movements that would shame the lower order of beings; that loosened tongue that speaks the jargon of a soul benumbed; that worse than stupid set of the face—that's you, if you can believe it, when you drink. If you could only see yourself as others see you, then you would never again let the wine cup pass your lips, not even at the most beguiling invitation. Look around you. Think of the sorrow and the anguish of that home to which a daughter came from a great city on a visit to her loved ones—drunk! Recall the story of that local courtroom where four young men were up for hearing, and all found guilty, one for bootlegging and three for being drunk, and all four given legal sentence, ay, and going out to carry the stigma of their shameful stupidity to their very graves. Think of the tragic deaths upon our highways, caused so often by drivers, young and old, who doubtless thought they were fine fellows because they could take a drink or two—like men! See that man you meet on the street, who may boast that he has never been drunk in his life, but whose bloated cheek and leaden eye tell the story of a life that has clipped its own wings to mediocrity when it might have soared to the very heavens. Must all this go on and on and on? What a challenge is flung into the face of youth today!

"Arise, stand upon thy feet," young man, young woman! Demand of yourself that you will never soil your life with the inevitable stain of liquor. Demand that youth today shall be given a new chance to live its life, unhampered by baneful drinking traditions. Rise up in your might and demand that the laws of the land shall be so changed and enforced as to make straight paths for the feet of a generation seeking to live a worth while, victorious life!

PLACES OF INTEREST

—by Dr. Du'ernet

Every minute of the trip from Los Angeles to San Francisco, some 450 miles, was an enjoyable one. The sky was a deep blue, the air cool and bracing, and everything about it clear and clean cut, just like what we would call a real Digby day. It was certainly an ideal one for travelling.

We left at 8 a. m., on the fast train consisting of eleven cars and headed by a stream-lined locomotive, the biggest and most powerful engine I had ever seen, and she could travel just about as fast as you wanted to go.

What made the journey particularly enjoyable was that the scenery was ever changing. Not long after we started we had to go through the Sierra Madre Mountains—a rough and rugged country—and in the process had to pass through a tunnel one and a quarter miles long. Having crossed the mountains we came into a fairly good farming section where farmers were engaged in many diversified forms of agriculture. Leaving this we came out on the shore of the Pacific and followed it for many miles. That was real enjoyment, to see the surf breaking all along the beach and observe many varieties of wild fowl feeding and swimming about. Along this coast we passed through the small city of Santa Barbara, a beautiful spot, and one much frequented by tourists. After leaving the ocean we crossed a small desert of sand dunes. Some of the dunes were like small mountains of fine fawn colored sand without a vestige of vegetation. The next object of interest was the Santa Lucia Range. At the foot of the range another powerful engine had to be teamed up with our own and the two of them took us slowly up to the summit, 1,360 feet, passing through six tunnels on the way. The roadway was very tortuous, skirting ravines and winding round many hills; from every turn the scenery was simply grand. Running down the other side of this range we came to the Selenas River and for many miles followed its course. For quite a distance along the river the country was of a rolling nature; the hills and valleys were of a vivid green and looked as if they had just been run over with a lawn mower. Then the river valley widened out to the size of a small prairie, and here was the richest looking farm land that I had yet seen. It was apparently being cultivated to the limit, and is said to be the greatest lettuce producing district in the world. Soon after this, darkness came on, and we reached our destination about 7 p. m.

San Francisco, like Rome, is built on seven hills. The highest, Twin Peaks, is more like a mountain, being 980 feet above sea level. This city has a population of 800,000 and is said to be the most densely populated city in the U. S. A. It is very hilly more so than any other that I had ever been in, and 30 percent of the time it is foggy. The business section is much like other large cities. Hotels and apartment houses seem to predominate, there being 700 of the former and considerably more than a thousand of the latter. To see San Francisco and its environs properly one should take a Gray Bus Line. This line, as in other cities, puts on tours morning, afternoon and evening. Boarding one of these busses, we were first taken through the business section and shown many fine buildings, both public and commercial, after which we were taken to the top of Twin Peaks, a very steep climb; from this point the view was simply marvellous. The greater portion of the city lay spread out before us, with the Gulf of California on one side and the Pacific on the other. Descending the other side of this mountain we passed through the residential sections, St. Francis, Wood and Greenview. The former has residences to the value of $5,000,000 and the latter $7,000,000. Both places are nicely located with winding streets and beautiful trees and shrubbery. Here the shrubbery and gardens are kept in order by the city, each resident having to pay half cent per sq. foot of his property for upkeep. In addition to his regular taxes. This ensures that everyone's property is well cared for and always looks spick and span. We next arrived at Golden Gate Park—the show place and playground of the city. When you realize that this park, 1000 acres, in extent, was, about sixty years ago nothing but a mass of sand dunes; that the soil had to be transported there, that everything in it, growing or otherwise, had to be put there by the hand of man, it seems almost incredible to believe, more like a tale from Arabian Nights. You can hardly imagine anything more beautiful. There are eighteen artificial lakes, like sparkling gems, which are the abode of many species of water fowl, somewhat shy, but no longer wild. The driveways winding in and out through woods, shrubbery and gorgeous flowers, passing a lake here, a small ravine at another point, gives one a thrill of enjoyment at every turn. Beside the roadway in many places is a bridge path, which the driver facetiously remarked was quite smooth now but later became bumpy! Then there is a very fine aquarium, a museum, a band stand and auditorium; also bowling on the green, football and baseball fields and other sports, all of which are free and open to the public without restriction. Soon after leaving the park we arrived at Cliff House, situated on a high bluff which overlooks Seal Rocks, so called because a herd of 500 seals makes these rocks their headquarters. It was quite interesting to watch them sporting around in the water. They are protected by the state. From this point we drove around the Golden Gate; this is a channel of water between the Pacific Ocean and the Gulf of California. It reminded me very much of Digby Gut, only it is a little wider. Across this channel they have for the past three years been building the largest bridge of its kind in the world. It is 700 feet longer than the George Washington bridge, across the Hudson, at New York. The towers that support the huge cables are 270 feet high and go down into the solid rock 150 feet. If you can imagine one span stretched across the very front of the highway at Bay View to the highway at Victoria Beach, it will give some idea of the immensity of this structure. This single span is seven-eighths of a mile long. The cost of the bridge when completed will be $35,000,000, and it is expected to be opened in the latter part of May. It was a wonderful sight to see, and was much enhanced by the beauty and grandeur of its surroundings.

On the afternoon tour we first drove through Chinatown and then boarded one of the large ferry boats which took us across the Gulf for four miles and landed us on a causeway built of piling over the shallow water. This causeway was over three miles long and one felt relieved after getting over it. At this point was the city of Berkeley, a residential city of 35,000 people, and picturesquely situated on the side of a hill is the University of California, which has an enrollment of 16,000 students, said to be the second largest in the world. The university grounds are much too small which gives it a congested appearance. After leaving the University we ascended to the Skyline Boulevard, which is 1500 feet high. We had to travel four miles. There were 365 turns, most of them of the hairpin variety; and around many of these curves you could look down into ravines and canyons varying in depth from two hundred to a thousand feet. If anything went wrong with the old bus at one of these particular points, we would, to say the least, be out of luck. I can't say that I altogether enjoyed it. The view from the summit was disappointing as it was quite hazy. The trip down on the other side was even more hair-raising than the ascent. At one point we came to the origin of one of Ripley's "Believe It or Not" stories, and that was a garage on the top of a house; the house is three stories in front and at the back there is a road leading from the highway to the garage on the roof. At the bottom of this mountain is the city of Piedmont. This is where most of San Francisco's millionaires live, and there are certainly some very beautiful residences here. Piedmont is really a city within a city as it is practically surrounded by Oakland, a city of 200,000 people.

After passing through Oakland we came to the grand finale of our trip and that was the crossing of the eight-mile new bridge across the Gulf to San Francisco. This is the longest bridge in the world and cost $77,000,000 to build. It is a double decker. There are three broad winding ramps that lead up to it. On the top deck are six lanes of traffic for autos and on the lower deck three lanes for trucks and busses and two for street cars. There is a toll gate on either end. An auto with four passengers has to pay fifty cents a day has to pay seventy-five cents and five cents extra for each passenger. So rapidly is the traffic developing that they expect to have the bridge paid for in twenty years and after that it will be free. It is splendidly lighted by the new sodium lamps which give out a yellow glow and it is the best light yet found for penetrating fog. This bridge and the one at Golden Gate are both wonderful works of engineering skill and construction.

We left San Francisco on the 23rd of February, at 6.40 p. m. en route for Vancouver, B. C. It was then quite like summer; the peach trees were coming in bloom as well as quite a lot of flowers, but when we woke up next morning we were in the depths of winter. There was two feet of snow everywhere. This was in the Cascade Mountains, but after crossing the mountains the snow soon disappeared. The states of Oregon and Washington look much like Canada in the winter, also the type of buildings, we passed through a number of small towns and a few cities, the most important being Portland, in Oregon, and Seattle, in Washington.

Utilities

The impressive upswing now present in the use of household appliances, coupled with further gains in industrial activity, should, in 1937, help in the establishment of new all-time highs in the production of electricity. There are appreciable advances in earnings indicated, despite prospects of higher operating expenses and additional rate reductions.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rain!

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just ferries in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Headaches come on into the body, and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink. (Merrill) makes the bile flow again at the cause. You need something that works on the bowels, as well. It takes them old. Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmon and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do not irritate but have no colour or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Satisfying results anytime, day, free.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF HOW MUCH LIGHT

For nearby subjects when the light is not very bright as in the picture above, use a wide lens opening.

But for distant scenes, like this to the left, use a small lens opening.

BECAUSE modern cameras and modern film make it possible for us to achieve happy results with very little knowledge of how our cameras function, many of us do not bother to find out, but we will often get better pictures if we know enough about our cameras to understand what they're up to.

Any camera is simply a light-tight box or chamber, with a film at one end and a bit of optical glass, called a lens, at the other. Add to that a contrivance for admitting light under control into the box, through the lens to the film, and you have the essentials of a camera.

The size of the lens and the extent to which it is opened are important. When the lens opening is large, a lot of light is let into the camera to record the picture on the film. That's all very well, but lenses do not do their best "wide open" in giving sharp images of all objects both near and far. When you want sharp, clean-cut detail from foreground to distance, as in a good landscape picture, you have to use a small lens opening, when you are interested only in picturing an individual or a compact group, as in the dog picture above, you can safely use a relatively larger opening if you focus carefully. Indirect detail is often helps to accentuate the principal subject.

In virtually all cameras there is some means of changing the size of the lens opening. In most box cameras you pull out a little slide at the top of the camera. In most folding cameras there is another type of adjustment called a diaphragm, with which a greater variety of openings can be obtained.

In most diaphragm types, the major settings are shown by numerals 22, 16, 11, 8, 5.6, 4, 2.8, 2, 1.6, 1.2, 1, 0.8, 0.6, 0.5, 0.4, 0.3, 0.2, 0.1.

That brings us to another gadget which, in terms of time, also controls the amount of light that enters the lens—the shutter. For most ordinary snapshots, a shutter that opens and closes in about 1/25th second is entirely adequate. In fact, the shutter speed, coupled with an opening of f/11, is so nearly right for average outdoor conditions that it is a kind of magic formula. Shutter speeds faster than 1/25th second are seldom needed except for pictures of rapidly moving objects, and then with a larger lens opening; otherwise, not enough light would be admitted.

Lenses, by the way, are rated according to the largest opening at which they work. You hear camera fans talking about f/3.5 lenses, f/4.5 lenses, and even f/2.8 lenses. These "fast" lenses are wonderful things; they'll get pictures under the poorest kind of light and they do have that extra speed when you need it. But even so, they all work better if the subject has adequate light with the resulting opportunity to stop down (use a smaller opening) for the sake of sharper pictures.

In most diaphragm types, the major settings are shown by numerals 22, 16, 11, 8, 5.6, 4, 2.8, 2, 1.6, 1.2, 1, 0.8, 0.6, 0.5, 0.4, 0.3, 0.2, 0.1.

It was always my favorite!

"You find REGAL best? So did I. It was always my favourite, and with six hungry children to feed I did a lot of baking in my day. Always gave them plenty of good home-baked bread, made with REGAL. They thrived, and I saved—for I never had a poor batch of bread all the years I used it."

REGAL FLOUR

TOO MUCH EXPENSE

The Western Petroleum Refiners' Association is making the claim that two policies must be initiated quickly to provide a secondary highway system and bring up to date the main systems that already exist. The imperative need, their investigators state, is to end the practice of diverting highway funds to non-highway purposes, and stop construction of unnecessarily expensive roads.

Highway funds, they estimate, already diverted to other purposes in recent years would have built 30 miles of roads in every county of the United States at $7,500 a mile. The funds estimated to have been invested in expensive highways which carry relatively little traffic, would have built another 80 miles per county at the same average cost.

Traffic surveys being conducted by public roads bureaus and government highways departments are to provide information for logical planning of highways according to traffic needs. Rising opposition of motorists is already resulting in constitutional prohibitions against diversions in a number of tax jurisdictions.

UTOPIAS OF THE NEW WORLD

Since the dawn of civilization there have been those who have dreamed their dreams of establishing an ideal state on earth. In most cases it has only remained a dream where men and women have lived the ideal life free from the trials and tribulations that beset ordinary mortals in this mundane world. So dreamed Plato in his "Republic" and likewise Sir Thomas Moore, in his "Utopia".

There have been subsequent dreamers. One such set out to build his dream state amidst the fair fields of Acadia, but alas, today there is naught to remind the visitor of this effort to make a dream come true save the habitation the dreamer built, while, in the offing, can be heard the clanging of a great coil running industry and the rumble of the iron horse as it speeds on its way with its load of passengers or the products of a great country that ships the products of its fields, its mines and its factories, to the far ends of the earth; something that even he could hardly visualize.

Not many miles from the town of Maccan, one of the centres of Nova Scotia's great coal mining industry, and through which the trains of the Canadian National Railways pass on their way from Montreal to Halifax and Sydney, is the site of an old Indian settlement, which to the aborigine was known as Menaudie, meaning "bagfull" or "plenty". The Acadian following after, still retained the form of the name but spelled it "Minudie" which has become Minudie.

Here the Acadians dyked the marshlands and tilled the beautiful basin of Chignecto, while, in the background, was the virgin forest. For 150 years they tilled their lands in semi-isolation and lived happily. The days passed in this happy isolation with only distant echoes of the struggle that was taking place for the mastery of a continent between two great races. When urged by their compatriots to join in the conflict they refused, being content to allow those who wished to fight to do so, but for them, all they wanted was to be allowed to till their lands in peace. But such was not to be.

One day in the year 1747, there set out from old Quebec a small force of armed men on a daring exploit, the consequences of which were to be fateful for the peaceful inhabitants of Minudie as well as for a body of New England troops, who were quartered at Grand Pre, in Nova Design No. 223—If you have been looking to the future you will probably have dozens of pairs of old silk stockings stored away from which you will want to make this attractive rug with its modern design. If not, you will find skeins of silk or cotton fabric in your needlework shop which are cut into just the right widths for making "stocking rugs". It is a new vogue and one that has a double appeal—economy, coupled with beauty. Scotia, made famous by Longfellow's poem "Evangeline". The French soldiers were headed by Colonel de Villiers. They travelled through the dead winter hundreds of miles on snowshoes in what was to be a surprise attack. That a force could attack them from such a distance in the dead of winter was the last thing the New England troops under Colonel Noble would credit. But so it happened and the New Englanders were cut down almost to a man without warning.

Acadia had been ceded by France to Great Britain under the treaty of Utrecht, 1713, but France had never given up the idea of some day winning it back. The attack on Colonel Noble's force decided the British authorities that if they wished to retain their possession of Acadia they must take drastic action so the city of Halifax was founded two years later. During all this time the Acadians found themselves between contending forces, the English on the one hand, who wished to strengthen their position, and the French, who endeavoured to harass the English in the settlement of Acadia through the Acadians. Things went from bad to worse culminating in the sending of a force of New England troops from Boston in 1755 which captured Fort Beauséjour on the French side of the disputed western boundary line of Acadia which was formed in part by the Missisquoi River and lay between what is now Sackville, in New Brunswick, and Amherst, in Nova Scotia, and the tragic exile of the Acadians quickly followed. The Acadians at Minudie were gathered in along with their compatriots and deported and the settlement came to an end, later to be renewed when some of the exiles returned.

About this time, there lived in Boston a poet and dreamer, but who coupled with his poetry and dreaming shrewdness in business affairs. His name was Amos Seaman. In the vicinity of Minudie are ledges from which he quarried griststones and from his trading between Boston and the West Indies he had acquired a fortune. Seaman occupied a mansion in Boston, known as "the Boston House", which he had acquired by purchase from the military officer to whom it had been granted. He had a monopoly of the stone trade of America and had established a large store in Minudie. He became known as King Seaman and here it was that he attempted to build his dream state. He built a house and to him was "home". He spent lavishly of the wealth he had acquired in his trading ventures to make living ideal among the villagers of his beloved Minudie.

SORE THROAT RELIEF

Famous 1-2-3 Method

At the first sign of sore throat due to a cold, dissolve three "Aspirin" tablets in 1/2 glass of water. Gargle with this twice. It will act almost instantly to relieve the rawness and soreness of your throat. At the same time, take two "Aspirin" tablets with a full glass of water. This acts to combat fever, cold aches and pains and the cold itself. Repeat the treatment in 2 hours if necessary. This modern way to treat a cold is approved by thousands of doctors.

"Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada by the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario.

LEAD POISONING

Convulsions in young children are serious and naturally cause much alarm to the parents. Many mothers do not know that lead poisoning is a common cause of these convulsions, otherwise they would take greater care to guard their children against biting on painted toys and playthings.

Many babies develop a habit of biting on anything within reach and unless the parents are aware of the dangers of such habits and keep painted articles away from the child's mouth, convulsions or even blindness may result. For this reason children should be restrained from putting any painted objects in their mouths. New enamel cribs or other articles of children's furniture are not dangerous in this way because recent government legislation has made it compulsory for lead-free paints to be used in their manufacture.

Old cribs and cots which have been repainted with ordinary house paints are on the other hand quite dangerous, since the soft layer of paint may be easily nibbled off and cause lead poisoning. Window-sills, kitchen chairs and verandah railings are other places where lead-containing paints are frequently used and a young child who is romping about the house may get paint from any of these places.

A doctor was recently called to see a child of 17 months of age, who was in an unconscious state and having frequent convulsions. The doctor suspected that the convulsions were caused by poisoning with lead paint, but on questioning the mother, was advised that she had not noticed the child biting the paint from the cot or from any other painted furniture or toys.

Not being satisfied with this negative evidence, however, an inspection was made of the child's home, and it was found that a considerable amount of soft paint had been bitten off the verandah railing during the summer. The child was just beginning to walk and was tall enough to reach the railing and nibble the paint. If the mother had been conscious of this habit and the child's life would have been saved.

The responsibility rests with the parents to prevent these serious cases of lead poisoning, which occur all too frequently in young children.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

CENTREVILLE

Mr and Mrs. Kenneth Gidney and children, and Carroll Porter spent Easter with their parents, Mr and Mrs. Gordon Porter, at North Ranze. Mrs. Porter accompanied them on their return.

Mrs. Oswald Banks is a patient at the Digby General Hospital.

Clarence Brittain spent the week end with his family in Weymouth North.

Mrs. Watson Lewis and son with his passing in 1866, the village began to fall on evil days, its prosperity enduring only so long as its benefactor lived. Since then the village has dwindled till now all that is left to recall the dreamer and his dream is "The Homestead" that he built, and the recollections of some of the older generation who are also passing.

This was not the sole Utopia of this New World. There was the "New Jerusalem" founded by an Alexander McNutt, back in 1764, on an island at the entrance to Shelburne harbor, on the south shore of Nova Scotia, and which is still known as McNutt's Island. Here too, the ideal life was to be lived but the scheme failed and his followers, like the children of the captivity, sat down by the waters of Shelburne harbor and wept for a lost cause.

And then one is reminded of that early settlement of the Pilgrims at Plymouth. It also started out as an ideal state, but fell away from its first conceptions. Over two hundred of the descendants of these Pilgrims sailed away in 1759 to Liverpool, also on the south shore of Nova Scotia, to start life anew, and many of their descendants are still to be found there and in adjacent towns and villages.

CONNELL'S

The Question Box

Several real good answers were received to this week's question, and two of them—one "pro" and the other "con" are published herewith. It is almost needless to say, the "pros" were in a hopeless minority.

No
A spring and summer catalogue came to our house one day:
And everybody grabbed for it
And carried it away.
I heard them cry, "Oh, look!
I've never seen such bargains
As they're showing in this book."

There's bargaining here for everyone
From baby to grand-dad;
Just see that but for 98
And don't make me mad
To think that local dealers
Would make you pay a buck?
We'll show them an order out today
And show them we have luck.

The order form was soon got out,
And then the fun began.
From handkerchiefs to blankets
In black and blue and tan,
And pots and pans and dishes
The order now complete
They marked it with a "C.O.D."
And mailed the swindle sheet.

Some anxious days of waiting
Some unexplained delay
But finally the crate arrived
I'll never forget the day
They tackled it with hatchets,
And I think I'm safe to bet
That there's bruises on their fingers
That haven't healed up yet.

They grabbed and hauled and scrambled,
And scattered straw and hay;
The place looked like a workshop
The balance of that day.
And lo, complaints began to come.
"This thing don't fit me right!"
And they sent me blue with salmon.
When I'm sure I ordered white."

And so, re-packing started.
The biggest job of all;
The box that held it nicely
Seemed now by far too small.
But finally, the job was done
And the misfits shipped away;
And all agreed that after all
To buy at home might pay.

Miss Patricia MacPhee, who has been with the Royal Store since it opened here, has resigned and is now assistant book-keeper at MacDonald Motors. She has been succeeded in the Royal by Mrs. Eleanor Wood.

Yes
In answer to the question, "Should we patronize the mail order houses?" I would answer, "Yes, if in so doing we could save money." People in these hard times find it very difficult to make a living and a penny saved is a penny earned. It is also a very convenient form of shopping as you sit down in the quiet of your own home and make out your order and usually have more to select from than the local stores could offer; also, if you do not wish to pay cash these stores will accept deferred payments, which gives their customers a chance to use the goods while paying. The mail order stores are always ready to exchange goods not satisfactory, and to replace goods which were not satisfactory as to wear. If the goods in question were of local manufacture they should be purchased at home but if you have to pay more at home for imported goods, the extra profit might just as well be in your pocket as the local merchant's, as you are living here and paying taxes, etc., the same as the merchant. Sentiment should not figure in the transaction, but you should buy where you can get the best all round satisfaction for your money.

NEXT WEEK'S QUESTION
"Is it right that churchgoers should insist on taking the back seats?"
That is a question we have heard our reverend friends discuss many times, perhaps some of them might come across with an answer. Interest in the Question Box appears to be growing each week. Again, we want to remind you that when writing your answers you write on one side of the paper only—and mail your answers to reach us not later than Wednesday. Two good answers on the Sunday trout fishing question reached us too late to be signed, but the writer's name will be considered. Obituary

Mary Elizabeth Fenwick
Rev. T. W. Hodgson, Ph.D., officiated at the funeral of the late Miss Mary Elizabeth Fenwick, at Grace United Church, on Tuesday afternoon. He was assisted by Rev. A. G. Robertson, pastor of the Digby Baptist Church, who led in prayer. The death of Miss Fenwick occurred at the Digby General Hospital, on Good Friday. She had been admitted to that institution a short time ago as the result of fracturing a hip in a fall at her home on Carleton Street. The late Miss Fenwick was born in Digby 79 years ago and spent her entire life at the residence on Carleton Street. She was a daughter of the late Thomas B. and Elizabeth (Wright) Fenwick, of Digby, and is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Caroline Cornwall, of Digby and Nashua, N. H., and Mrs. John A. Walker, of Allston, Mass. Deceased, who has been a semi-invalid for the greater part of her life, was a devoted member of Grace United church. The pall bearers were A. R. Turnbull, R. C. Smallie, R. A. Abramson and M. C. Denton. Mrs. Cornwall, accompanied by her son-in-law, Rev. Denton J. Neely, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Nashua, arrived Tuesday morning to attend the funeral.

WESTPORT FOR TUNA

Stanley L. LeBlanc, of Wedgeport and Yarmouth, was a visitor to Digby on Wednesday, en route to Saint John. Mr. LeBlanc is head of the Acadia Travel Agency, Ltd., of Yarmouth, and is keenly interested in bringing American sportsmen to the tuna fishing grounds of Nova Scotia, and is in a large measure responsible for the development of the town of Wedgeport into a tuna fishing resort. In his opinion Westport has wonderful possibilities for tuna fishing. He has interested himself in that community and has helped to organize the Westport Tourist Association. Mr. LeBlanc informed the Courier he hopes to induce certain American sportsmen to try Westport for tuna fishing this summer.

AT THE THEATRE

As we all have seen, the Bijou is certainly putting on good pictures lately. But wait and see what is still to come—Tonight and Saturday, another double feature, "Speed" and "Coming Round the Mountain." So full of thrills and excitement, with Ted Healy and Una Merkel, don't miss the first one, and for action and music, don't miss Gene Autry and Ann Rutherford in the last one. Then coming on Monday and Tuesday, our boy favorite, Freddie Bartholomew, is starring in "The Devil is a Sissy." We needn't even mention the features of that, because you won't miss it anyway. And last, but not least, by a great deal, is the picture on Wednesday and Thursday, "Spy of Napoleon." We all remember the "Scarlet Pimpernel"—this movie is by the same writer, and is another of those masterpieces of photography and drama. Don't miss these outstanding pictures this week.

TRUTH

How simple a word, and yet how powerful! It lies at the bottom of all sincere controversies. It sustains the scientist's hope. It enflames the missionary's zeal and urges him on through hardship, privation, death. It fascinates the poet's vision. It vivifies the orator's eloquence.

And yet, what blunders and falsities are covered by its name and in its name. We take a law which once was considered sacred, because, founded on the truth, we invert it in such a way that it proclaims a very opposed teaching, so that it may satisfy our own selfish wishes, and then we have the boldness to state that this is now the right thing, the true thing. Which is about as reasonable as to say that black is white or white is black. The first prerogative of truth is precisely its quality of being unchangeable. A law, human or divine, cannot be just in one century and false in the next. It is the circumstance, that change, not the truth which underlies the law. The only natural way that truth may be attained is through clear reasoning, that is, reasoning based on a sound judgment and freed from prejudices and ignorance. And it is always well to remember that a new theory is not necessarily true just because it is new.

Maple Sap Is Running.

Tapping of maple trees for sap is well under way in many sections of the county. The sap is reported to be flowing very freely.

The Hospital Sewing Circle, which was entertained this week by Mrs. H. T. Warner, will meet next Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Harold Reicker.

In The Baptist Church

At the evening service in the Baptist Church on Easter Sunday, four were baptized and taken into the church. Large congregations were present at each service, which were conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. G. Robertson, whose sermon subject in the morning was "The Meaning of Resurrection," and in the evening, "A Cure for the World's Ills." A beautiful feature of the evening service was the dramatization of the Easter story by four young members of the Baptist Young People's Union.

"Durolave" Washable Wall Finish

IN DUROLAVE we have something in wall finishes that property owners have been looking for, for some time. A finish that is easily and quickly prepared and applied. Durolave transforms cheerless rooms into bright, colorful interiors and does so at low cost. It is in a soft paste form and only needs the addition of water to prepare it for use. A five pound can will cover approximately 300 sq. feet. Durolave is much superior to plaster wall finishes as it is bound with oil which makes it washable, non-absorbent and more durable. It is made from non-poisonous materials and gives the walls and ceilings an attractive matt finish. Durolave is fire retarding and hygienic and can be applied over wall paper and any other sound, non-glossy surface. One coat is usually sufficient except on new work. Ten attractive shades to choose from.

Only 90c. per five pound can.

ENTERED

Hooked rugs and antiques to the value of $1,000 or more are alleged to have been stolen from cabins at the Smith's Cove summer colony during the winter. Eleven of the cabins, occupied during the summer by wealthy American visitors, many of whom have been coming for twenty years and more, are said to have been entered and articles of value stolen.

One of the heaviest losers was J. B. Lord, of New York, from whose cabin it is understood hooked rugs valued at over $200 were stolen.

Mr. Lord has written to the police that he is willing to pay a reward of $50 for information that will lead to the apprehension and conviction of the guilty party or parties.

The breaks are being investigated by the Digby detachment of the R. C. M. P.

Notice to Car Owners

If you plan to use your vehicle during the first week of May, registration should be made within the next two weeks.

If everybody waits until the last two weeks of April many will be disappointed as it is not reasonably possible to register 40,000 vehicles in the last few days.

Why not procure your plates at the end of this month rather than be disappointed at the end of April.

TWO TRIPS A DAY ON BAY SERVICE

Heavy freights made it necessary for the Canadian Pacific Steamer, Princess Helena, to make a trip to Digby on Sunday last, arriving early Sunday morning. The steamer left to return to Saint John shortly after the noon hour. During the next few weeks freights between Digby and Saint John have increased to such an extent that two steamers have been put on the route for the time being. Commencing Monday, the steamer Robert G. Cain started to make regular trips to Digby for the time being. She docks immediately after the Princess Helena leaves on her return voyage to Saint John. Fertilizers for Maine and New Brunswick points are said to make up a large part of the shipments.

The D. A. R. motor vessel Kipawo, of the Minas Basin service, which makes its winter loadrunners in Digby, pulled out of its berth yesterday and left for Yarmouth for general overhauling to engine and hull. While in Yarmouth a new spar will be stepped and other machinery overhauled, and the hull cleaned, repaired and painted.

W. A. Sills, who has been spending the winter in Montreal, returned home on Tuesday.

BUSY YEAR IN BUILDING

The little store which stood on a portion of the site of the Winfield building, at the corner of Birch and Prince William Streets, near the D. A. R. station, was removed on Monday, the building, which for the past few years was used as an antique shop by J. Z. Rosenthal, having been purchased by Frank Hayden. A modern business block is to be erected on the site and work has already started. Other than that the new building will be two stories high, 70 feet long and 35 feet wide, with further particulars concerning the structure are known at present. The site was purchased by Capt. G. M. Morrell from G. A. Winfield a few years ago, and the old Winfield building "torn down". The site is a very desirable business location.

From present indications building construction and improvements in Digby will show a remarkable increase this year, which promises to be the busiest in that way since 1920. At the last meeting of the town council plans for four new buildings were approved, and rumour has it that quite a number of others are contemplated, and many of the older structures are being rebuilt.

SCAR HIT BY TRAIN

A Cash Coupe, operated by Harry Killoff, employee of the Digby Bakery, was derailed Saturday afternoon at the railway crossing near the head of the Lone Wharf, when struck by a shunting train. Killoff escaped without injuries.

He had just left a garage with the car, and proceeded along Water St., turning to go up Prince William St., after working his way around cars that had more or less blocked traffic. Turning to go up Prince William Street, the coupe stalled on the crossing.

At the time a shunting engine was backing to the wharf with a string of freight cars, and although travelling at a very slow rate of speed, would not be brought to a stop until the end car struck the stalled automobile, and causing considerable damage. Had it not been for the failure of the car, witnesses say, Killoff would have had plenty of time to have gotten over the crossing safely.

Mrs. H. G. Marshall, of Yarmouth, was a recent visitor of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. C. Tied.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Sollows returned home on Tuesday, after having spent the winter in Halifax.

Badminton Club Dates

There will be a dance April 22, and a Coronation Dance May 12, at the Community Hall, under the auspices of the Badminton Club.

The wharf property at the Racquette wharf and operated for many years by the late H. B. Hayden, was sold by the estate this week to Roland Wormell. It is to be rebuilt and again put in commission.

On Friday evening of last week a surprise party was held for Bertrice Abramson at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Abramson. The party was given for Miss Abramson by the Young People's Society and the choir of Grace United Church. During the evening Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson addressed Miss Abramson on behalf of the two groups expressing his appreciation for her help and companionship during her few years of church work. The groups presented Miss Abramson with a fountain pen, as a token of their esteem. On Sunday, the Sunday School presented her with a picture of Digby. On Tuesday evening she left for Halifax, where she will commence studies in the Children's Hospital there. This young lady will be greatly missed in the community, and we take this opportunity of wishing her every success in her new sphere.

A play for the benefit of the hospital will be produced in the Community Theatre, on Thursday, the 15th. See ad. in another column.

Letter to Mr. Havey

Bernard Havey, Esq.,
Stipendiary Magistrate
Queen Street, Digby.
Dear Friend Havey:—
The Mayor, M. C. Denton, Esq., and members of the Town Council wish me to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 2nd of March, 1937, intimating that you had handed your resignation as Stipendiary Magistrate for the Town of Digby to the Provincial authorities, after holding the position since 1911—twenty-six years.

During that time you have been associated with ten Mayors and have administered the Oath of Allegiance and Office to nearly all of them. You have had a large number of cases to deal with in the Municipal and Police Courts, and your decisions have generally tended towards leniency, though you always tried to deal justly, and few of your decisions have been successfully appealed. It is known to most of those who have occupied the position of Chief Magistrate for Digby that you have used your long experience with men to try and bring about a good understanding between those who were inclined to seek litigation, and you have thus prevented what might have proved to be costly law suits.

Your good sense and sound advice have ever been at the disposal of seekers, and it is felt that many persons owe you a debt of gratitude as a result.

The knowledge that you have thus been able to render service to the community for such an extended period must be gratifying and satisfactory in retrospect, and carries with it a sense of pleasure as you approach your ninety-sixth milestone on life's journey, because time has been very gracious to you, and you are still in the enjoyment of your faculties and can appreciate the beauty of this good earth and the kind association of friends who esteem and honour you.

The Mayor and Councilors, Ex-Mayors and Ex-Councilors wish to acknowledge the value of your long service to the community, and on their behalf it is my pleasing duty to say "thank you," and to express the hope that whatever of brightness and joy the "All-Father" may bestow upon you as your sun sinks in the west, you may have the assurance that your well-earned life but the prelude to a higher and nobler when the shadows flee away and a greater day dawns for you.

May I be permitted to associate myself with the foregoing as we have for many years been personally very friendly, and have pulled together in battling with Town difficulties.

With the best of wishes and kindly greetings,
I have the honour to remain
Yours sincerely,
Alfred Boden,
Town Clerk and Deputy Stipendiary to you for 16 years.

Mrs. Frank Morrell has returned home from spending the winter in the United States.

Plans for Coronation Outlined

At a meeting of the citizens of the Town of Digby, held at the Court House, Monday evening, James W. Merkel outlined the plan as proposed by the entertainment committee of the Digby Board of Trade, for Digby's Coronation Day celebration. The meeting was called by the Digby Town Council at the suggestion of the Board of Trade, and His Worship, Mayor M. C. Denton, presided. The proposed programme as outlined by Mr. Merkel suggested the decoration of buildings, a church parade in the morning to be led by the band, and comprising the school children, firemen, Legion, and other local lodges and societies that may wish to join, marching in a body to one of the town churches for a special coronation service to be conducted by local clergy.

In the evening a band concert and bonfire, possibly to be followed by a dance. P. W. Holdsworth, chairman of the Digby school board, said he had discussed a programme with Principal Burdy and believed the schools could arrange some suitable programme for the day prior to the coronation, and remarked: "The coronation is for the school children and its importance should be impressed upon their minds."

A nominating committee, comprising C. L. Bowley, J. W. Merkel and P. W. Holdsworth, was appointed by the chair, and nominated the following committee:—
Decorations—G. H. Peters, Dr. J. S. Timpany.

Evening Celebration—C. L. Bowley, P. W. Holdsworth, F. K. Hayden, F. Robinson, E. J. Theriault.

A suggestion that the Coronation be commemorated by the planting of shade trees along the streets met with the approval of those present, and the Town Improvement Committee of the Digby Board of Trade were requested to act in conjunction with the streets department in this matter.

BROTHER OF SCALLOP FISHERMAN DROWNS

Fred Mosher, 29, Corkum's Island, Lunenburg County, lost his life by drowning, when he fell off a staging, while at work on his wharf, near his home. Although there were no marks on his body, Dr. R. P. Saunders, of Lunenburg, who investigated the tragedy, believes the unfortunate man either struck his head and dazed by the blow, or else the shock of entering the cold water had the same effect. He is survived by his wife and a four-year-old daughter; five sisters, Mrs. Alice Cook, Feltzen South; Mrs. Eric Corkum, Lunenburg; Mrs. Edmund Wentzell, Corkum's Island; Mrs. (Rev.) W. S. Hinkle, Kiltully, Ont., and Mrs. Maynard Cole, Bayport; also two brothers, Capt. Ivan Mosher and Paul Mosher, both of whom are well known in Digby, the former being master of one of the scallop boats fishing out of this port.

Capt. Mosher, in company with Capt. Maynard Cole, left on Saturday to attend the funeral. Captain Eric Corkum, another brother-in-law, was one of the crew of the Violetta G., for a time this winter.

SCALLOP BOATS HAD NARROW ESCAPES

Crews of two Digby scallop boats had narrow escapes during the recent good fishing, the latter part of the week. The Walter C. Capt. Jas Teed, narrowly escaped sinking several miles out in the Bay, and the Retribution Capt. H. McGarvie, was nearly destroyed by fire.

The Walter C., which came into port two weeks ago yesterday minus her spar which had snapped off while hoisting drags, met with another accident. This time, due to some misadventure, the shaft which runs the "kick" engine became jammed, tearing up a quantity of packing from the stuffing box and letting in a rush of water. For a time it looked as though the craft were doomed. The crew, however, were successful in checking the flow of water sufficiently to bring the boat to port by lowering her pumps operating continuously. Even after tying up at the dock it was necessary to keep the engine running to prevent the boat from drifting. The Walter C. was about nine miles off the Gut when the accident occurred.

An explosion in the engine room of the Retribution set that craft on fire, causing considerable damage. The blaze was extinguished by the crew.

Large Catch of Scallops.
The catch of scallops landed during the week end was the fourth large catch of the season, all the boats reporting a "big haul". Unfortunately, the price is away down and in spite of the size of the catch, the fishermen will make little more than expenses.

F. L. Anderson and Capt. G. M. Morrell were visitors to Boston this week.

Miss Margaret Stewart, municipal clerk and treasurer, is on her annual vacation.

CELEBRATED FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

The Sisters of the Sacred Heart Convent at Metuchen, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the religious profession of Sister Joseph Vincent, on Easter Monday. High Mass was celebrated in the Convent chapel by Rev. Father S. Kennedy, C.J.M., of St. Ann's College, and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon Rev. Father L. Tremont gave the benediction of the blessed sacrament. The Convent students, being away on their Easter vacation, the banquet in their honor was not held until their return, on Wednesday following Easter. It was an event long to be remembered.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

After drifting helplessly in an open motor boat for over 70 hours, Fred Atkinson, 40, and Emory Allen, 38, Yarmouth fishermen, were found Wednesday afternoon several miles off Briar Island, by Boyd Graham, Westport fisherman. With no dory aboard the two men had been drifting helplessly since late Monday night, when, approximately 20 miles from Yarmouth, the transmission broke down leaving the boat at the mercy of the elements.

With no shelter of any kind the two men sat through a driving rain-storm all day Tuesday, and they were nearly swamped several times Wednesday as a growing north wester kicked up heavy seas, that threatened to capsize the 42-foot craft. Although with plenty of food and water aboard the men suffered quite badly from exposure and when found by Graham were more than 30 miles off their course.

A Dramatic Revival will be given by Miss Mildred Cannery, of Ontario, in the Baptist Hall, Digby, on Monday, April 12th, at 8 o'clock. Admission: 25 cents and 15 cents. Home-made candy will be on sale.

Destructive Fire at Bear River

Fire, believed to be of incendiary origin, destroyed a large barn owned by J. H. Cunningham, and damaged beyond habitation a residence owned by Lloyd Sanford and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Frost, their infant child and a sick sister of Mrs. Frost.

The fire was discovered about 3:15 Wednesday morning by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harris, who from their home, noticed the interior of the large shed for hay was in a mass of flames. An alarm was sent in immediately.

On the arrival of the fire department, flames had commenced to break through the building, and nothing could be done to save the structure. The flames soon reached the nearby dwelling, occupied by the Frost family, and that too was practically destroyed. Firemen and others were successful in saving most of the furnishings in the residence.

Other nearby buildings, including the residences of Foreman Harold Fred Harris and the unoccupied "Billy" Morrison house; the garage and barn of Waldo Chute and the Tupper mill, were all endangered by the flames. Little wind, and the fact the roofs were wet as the result of recent rains, prevented further spread of the flames.

The barn, built in 1904, by Clarke Bros. Ltd., then prominent lumber operators at Bear River, was purchased some time ago by J. H. Cunningham, who used it for a time as a warehouse for his mill products, but for some years had been unused, although it is understood a quantity of office furniture and a few cars were stored in the building. A rough estimate of the loss is placed between $5,000 and $7,000, but due to the illness of Mr. Cunningham, it is impossible to get an accurate figure. The buildings were covered by a small amount of insurance.

The fact the fire was discovered on the inside of the unused barn gives residents of Bear River reason to believe the origin was incendiary, and it is likely an investigation will result. Mr. Frost, employed by Waldo Chute as chauffeur, returned home at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning, and is positive there were no signs of fire at that hour.

Send News In Early

Will all members of the Women's Institute kindly remember to send any items for "The Digby Courier" to the convenor or a member of the Publicity Committee on Monday afternoon or evening, as it is impossible to expect the work to be done on Tuesday morning. Our members are all very busy women, doing all this detailed work without remuneration, and we must try to help, not hinder the work. Kindly note.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE MEETING

As a number of members are ill, and some were away, the attendance at the April meeting on Monday, was not so large as usual. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Morine, Mrs. L. V. Harris acted for them. Mrs. Morine is to be present at the May meeting. The treasurer's report was very satisfactory and sufficient money was voted to pay the small balance of expense in connection with serving hot cocoa at the school. Letters of thanks were received from the children showing that the work was greatly appreciated.

In connection with the decision to sponsor "Coronation" evening, a committee of which Mrs. L. J. Lovett is convenor, was appointed to make plans for same, and it was decided to use the funds for school library and hospital purposes, as the Bear River Room needs replenishing. In this connection Mrs. L. J. Lovett, reported the need of new casters for the bed, and money was voted for this purpose. A bedside lamp has been placed in the room, filling that need.

The Boy Scouts request for books was brought before the meeting, but as the books are chosen for adults, and shall we say feminine reading, the Librarian reported that there were none suitable for the Scouts, but that she was to look over the list of books and try to donate some suitable reading matter for the boys.

A committee was appointed to go over the Exhibition Prize List, and offer suggestions for any items they deemed advisable to Capt. K. Forrester, the new Secretary of the Agricultural Society. The War Memorial Committee was empowered to buy whatever plants were required to beautify the base of the Memorial. The Library Committee reported a number of new books added to the list, and these are the most recent editions. Sliding Committees reported usual activities.

The entertainment for the afternoon consisted of a "Current Events" paper by Mrs. H. R. Kinney, which was very instructive and amusing. Mrs. L. J. Lovett, convenor, passed slips of paper to each member in a guessing contest. She then gave a list of facts concerning the Marjorie Sugar Industry, covering a Part Woods' certificate was presented to Scout Master Edward McDormand.

A purse of money from town citizens was also presented to Assistant Scoutmaster, McDormand in recognition of his invaluable work with the local troop, the presentation being made by Rev. S. F. Steeves, pastor of the United Baptist church, Mr. McDormand is leaving shortly for Halifax.

Scoutmaster J. H. Cunningham, who has been absent from Scout meetings for several months through illness, was accorded a hearty welcome to the meeting.

Later, the annual election of the Scout Council was held, and the nominating committee, Major A. M. Simons, Mrs. J. H. Cunningham and Mrs. L. V. Harris, brought in the following slate:

President—L. V. Harris, Secretary—Mervyn Oakes.
Members—Rev. S. F. Steeves, Rev. C. P. Henderson, Major A. M. Simons, Dr. L. J. Lovett, Dr. A. B. Campbell, Max Iles, Mrs. Woodgate (Lansdowne), Mrs. Fred Porter, (Moranville), Mrs. L. J. Lovett.

HER LIMBS WERE ALMOST CRIPPLED

Suffered with Sciatica for 25 Years

Those who are subject to sciatica should read this letter from one who has suffered for years before she found out how to obtain relief:

"For 25 years I suffered from sciatica in my right side, and I had backaches, which forced me to remain in bed for two or three weeks at a time. When I got up in the mornings, my arms and legs used to pain me almost unbearably. One day I heard of Kruschen Salts. I took a bottle of them without feeling much improvement. I tried a second bottle, and that time I felt better. I have kept on taking Kruschen ever since." (Mrs.) H.L.

The pains of sciatica are frequently caused by an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are notable for their work in dissolving uric acid. Other ingredients of these salts assist the internal organs to expel the dissolved acid from the system.

period of years, each member being asked to guess the number of gallons and pounds packed in the year of 1934. Mrs. Simons read a very instructive paper on the industry, and brought the importance of this industry to Nova Scotia, and also what it might mean if it were carried on more largely. This paper closed with the chorus of "The Maple Leaf Forever" and then the members joined in singing two verses of this Canadian song, which is heard so seldom these days. Mrs. Lovett provided a treat for all, each member receiving some delicious maple sugar, nicely done up for serving. While Mrs. L. V. Harris, the winner of the contest, also received a quart bottle of Langley's Maple Syrup, the prize, also donated by Mrs. Lovett, the sugar served was also from Langley's, whose products are ranked among the finest produced—this rating being given not by local opinion, but by government tests.

The programme was most enjoyable and our only regret is that all the members could not have enjoyed it—it being well planned, unique and most enjoyable and instructive.

How in "CLOVER"

DREAMS come true—bovine dreams of rich, green pastures, fields rank with heavy growth of fodder crops—farmer dreams of greater milk production, more "farm" income, more family enjoyment of those things that make life worth while. All because of wise use of lime and fertilizer on soils deficient in essentials.

LIME AN URGENT NEED ON MOST N. S. FARMS

Most crops cannot thrive on an acid soil. The majority of soils in Nova Scotia are acid. Limestone neutralizes the acidity of the soil.

The foundation of successful farming in Nova Scotia lies in a larger and more profitable dairying industry. This can only be brought about by a great increase in home grown feeds and pasture improvement, and this is only to be accomplished by proper use of lime and fertilizers.

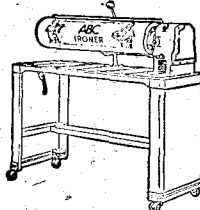

Farmers in Nova Scotia can now secure ground limestone at reasonable prices. Write for costs and other information to the Department of Agriculture at Truro or Halifax.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

COMMON ERRORS IN CHILDREN'S DIETS

Every mother wants a healthy happy child. There is no way in which health can be better in a proper diet. Due to the desire flattered than by giving the child of parents to prepare attractive looking food and to give the child foods that it likes, very often some of the food elements necessary for good health are not present or have been removed in the preparation of the food.

Milk, meat, eggs, vegetables (including salad greens) and fruits are our most valuable foods. Although it seems at first glance a very simple task to have your children's meals, or for that matter your own meals, built up around milk, meat, eggs, vegetables and fruit, it is extremely easy to give too much of other foods, which result in an unbalanced and unhealthy diet. One of the greatest dangers, is giving an excess of sugars, such as candy, jam, or marmalade. Sugars are of value to supply calories or energy, yet due to their pleasant taste children invariably are inclined to take too much of these sweet foods. Frequently children take too much starchy foods, such as pastry, cakes, cookies and even bread. Although sugars and starches are of value as a source of energy, if too much are taken they are harmful as one does not then take enough of the other foods which are necessary for a balanced diet.

It is a simple matter to take pains to see that your child gets each day a pint and a half of milk, including the milk used in cooking, one egg, some meat, two vegetables besides potatoes, and some raw fruit. If your child receives too much of the starchy or sweet foods, although he may appear to be quite well, on close examination it will be seen that he tires easily, is somewhat pale, is not as firm or solid as he should be, and frequently is subject to constipation. In this state he is much more apt to get colds or other illnesses which may permanently undermine his health. It is essential for a healthy happy child to get a well balanced diet.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

OIL BUSINESS A BENEFIT

The record of the oil business, is written less in its annual statements than it is in the lives of thousands of men and women who have benefited from its operation.

The wealth it produces has gone to the owners of the soil, to the men who have worked it, to thousands who have labored in refineries, to drivers of trucks and operators of service stations in towns and cities, to pioneers of progress in laboratories, to thousands of investors, many of these of small means, than later to churches, colleges, schools, and all manner of philanthropic institutions, to owners of real estate, to suppliers of products, and to governments.

When governments take onerous tolls by way of tax levies, it is only common sense that they may hit and often they do, the vast number of people whom the industry supports.

The activities of this highly organized business keep wealth moving in all directions today. The oil industry is inextricably woven into the industrial and business fabric of the nation.

TAKE X-RAY MACHINE TO WEYMOUTH

Gordon Campbell, eleven-year-old son of Major and Mrs. Glidden Campbell, Weymouth, who was run into on Friday evening in front of his home by a car driven by Paul Stehelin, barrister of Yarmouth, is still in a serious condition at his home. As his condition was too critical to allow of him being removed to the Digby Hospital for X-ray machine was taken to Weymouth, and it was ascertained that his skull was not fractured as was feared but he had a fractured vertebrae near his neck, which is in a fracture cast. The family has good hopes of his recovery but he is still in a semi-conscious condition. No blame is attached to the driver of the car.

NEAR DEATH IN THE SIBSBROO

Augustus Pyne, of Centerville, who is in Weymouth fitting up a motor boat to be used in fishing, had a narrow escape from drowning this week. He was rowing down the river in a small boat which he had borrowed to go to his motor boat, when the row boat, which was leaking badly, filled and overturned. He was unable to swim and the overturned boat was too small and light to hold him up. After being down over a minute, he managed to hold to the boat and, stroking with one hand, not in near enough to reach shore. He lost his pocket book, money and papers but was able to recover them at low tide.

CAR STOLEN FROM SAULNIERVILLE

Quick work on the part of William W. Bishop, attendant at Rex's Service Station in Lower Saultville, led to the arrest of three men on charges of theft of a motor car and gasoline. About four o'clock Saturday morning Mr. Bishop, who was on duty at the station, heard a noise outside and switching on the overhead lights observed three men in the act of pushing a coupe away from the station. The R. C. M. P. from Bridgetown were called and arrested the men about a mile from the station. It was learned later that the coupe had been stolen from Joseph Coteau, of Lower Saultville.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They lie awake in bed and count sheep. Often they get "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills. For half a century the favorite remedy. 103

The Thrill is Always There For Those Who Love to Fish

AS the season comes around the old hankering to get back to the trout stream arrives as strong as ever. With either fly or bait fishing the thrill is there, and when one of the big fellows is hooked and landed I don't believe that a ticket for a trip around the world would interest the angler at that moment. It is not a bit too early to look over the outfit and get it ready for the season. We have a special in Telescop Rods at $1.50, two others at $1.00 and $2.25, and we have a set of Rods as low as 50 cents and up to $6.75. Reels from 35c to $2.50. Lines from 10c to $3.50. History of the Hydro Board

Ten years ago, to be exact, on March 20th, 1927, there occurred what will one day be considered as one of the most important steps ever taken by the people of Digby County. On that date, the Hydro Electric System of the Digby County Power Board was first put into operation and the residents of Digby Town and County were receiving energy from their own system. It is, of course, a day and weeks of work, worry, and strife had to be undergone by a comparative few citizens of Digby County. In spite of opposition, however, the Board was finally formed and construction work started during the summer of 1926 and continued through the fall and winter. The Power House was built at Sissiboo Falls, and machinery installed. The transmission line was built from the Power House to Weymouth, Digby and Smith's Cove, taking in Hillgrove, Marshalltown, Barton, Plympton and other places along this main line.

In 1928 a transmission line was constructed to supply the Municipality of Clare and was carried as far as Meteghan, later being extended to Beaver River. In the same year work was also started on the Digby Neck transmission line which was finished in 1929 and in operation about March 1929. This line was carried through Long Island to Brier Island and was connected by cables at Petite and Grand Passages.

The growth of the whole system has been rapid, particularly in the Town of Digby and the Municipality of Digby, and from a modest output of about 150,000 kw-hrs. in 1927 this has steadily increased with the output for 1937 estimated to be 1,250,000 kw-hrs. and may exceed this mark. The number of customers connected to the system has increased during the ten year period from around 500 to 1,600.

The generating capacity of the system was also increased during 1930 by the purchase of the old pulp mill site at Weymouth Mills together with dams and flowage areas on the Sissiboo River and the erection of a modern Power House at Weymouth Mills which contains a 600 H. P. turbine directly connected to a 525 KVA Generator, thereby giving the Board a total generating capacity of 930 H. P. The above mentioned flowage areas and dam sites were acquired by the Board for a very reasonable figure and are very valuable for future development, at further capacity can be installed at a low cost.

The fixed assets of the system now total over $300,000.00 and exceed the liabilities by nearly $50,000.00 showing that the citizens of Digby County have a very valuable ownership in this undertaking. Every year except one has shown a profit on the operating of the system and the exception was the year of the bad drought which made necessary the operating of a steam plant. As stated above every year has shown a profit except one and this in spite of the fact reduction after reduction in price of energy has taken place and there will be more to follow. Furthermore, every cent of profit shown has been put back into the system, thereby greatly enhancing the value without increasing the capital cost. This information is being given so that the citizens of Digby County may realize what a wonderful asset they possess in their Hydro Electric System.

This very healthy situation was not brought about without work and very careful consideration and I should like to take this opportunity of stating that in my estimation, the members of the Digby County Power Board have rendered a very great service in the painstaking way in which they have carried out their duties, although they receive no remuneration for their services, only the satisfaction of a job well done. They have always been ready and willing to give of their time and capabilities. This Board consists of four members: Mr. H. H. Marshall, Chairman, representing the Municipality of Digby; Mr. F. L. Anderson, Secretary, representing the Town of Digby; Mr. H. E. Wagner, representing the Village of Weymouth; and Mr. V. F. Melanson, representing the Municipality of Clare. Mr. Marshall and Mr. Anderson have been helping to direct the affairs of the Board from the beginning. The Village of Weymouth, however, was first represented by Mr. Louis Stehelin and later by Mr. L. H. Potter. Mr. Wagner was elected in 1929. The Municipality of Clare did not join the system until 1928, at which time Mr. Gilbert Belliveau, of Belliveau, was elected as their representative, being followed by Mr. Melanson in 1933.

Now regarding the distribution system.

up of the system. The Digby County Power Board generate and transmit electric energy to the Town of Digby, Village of Weymouth, Municipalities of Digby and Clare, who in turn retail it to power and lighting customers.

The Town of Digby was the only place enjoying the use of electric lights prior to 1927. A steam plant was operated by the Town, but only during the early part of the night, and the rates were high, being 20 and 18 cents per kw-hr. The first lighting rate under Hydro was 12 and 10 cents per kw-hr, with a 24 hour service. In March 1922, the lighting rate was again lowered to 6.3 and 1 1/2 cents per kw-hr, according to the amount used, so that now, instead of 100 kw-hrs. costing over $18.00, any customer using an average floor area of 1,500 sq. ft., will only pay $4.69 for 100 kw-hrs. and only $6.49 for 200 kw-hrs. One can readily see that the electric light users have been saved an enormous amount of money over the last ten years, particularly when we realize that in 1926 the Town only generated about 67,000 kw-hrs. and last year purchased 428,702 kw-hrs. The Town Electric Light System now has 475 customers.

The Village of Weymouth started with this system in 1927 and they now have about 150 customers. Their rate was first at 15 and 13 cents per kw-hr, but has since been reduced to 7.4 and 2 cents per kw-hr and the Village Commissioners have voted to further reduce the rate 1 cent per kw-hr on the first step. The Electric Light Department is in good financial condition.

The Distribution System of the Municipality of Digby has also shown a good increase, starting from scratch ten years ago and now have over 425 customers, and last year purchased over 220,000 kw-hrs. The lighting rate is now 8.4 and 2 cents per kw-hr, and the indications are that before another year this may be reduced.

The same holds true of the Municipality of Clare. A little slower getting started, perhaps, but making good progress with about 275 customers. They purchased last year 90,000 kw-hrs. The same rate applies as to the Municipality of Digby, but they are definitely reducing the first step from 8 cents to 7 cents in the very near future.

The Board also have a number of Power customers who purchase energy direct such as the Maritime National Fish Corporation, Digby; Canadian Pacific Railway, Digby; a total of 100,000 kw-hrs. was sold to these customers last year.

A splendid spirit of co-operation has been shown by all those who had the operating of the different Distribution Systems. If this spirit continues and increases there is no reason why the next ten years cannot be made to show an even better increase over the last ten years. Every employee of this Board can be counted on to give every assistance in this respect.

Yours for Hydro

Superintendent.

Chief of Police Theriault sent his revolver to the establishment of T. J. Egan, Water Street, Halifax, for repairs a few days ago. Burglars broke into the Egan place a night or so later and took nine revolvers one of which was the Chief's. "Well," he says, "it was no good anyway."

One Week from Yesterday

Yes the trouting season opens April 15th—and from apparent water conditions, the early fishermen get the fish.

We have a fishing window to whet your appetite and we have as complete a stock of Rods, Reels, Spinners, Lines, Casts, Flies and Baits as any real fisherman could desire.

There are some outstanding values this Spring in Rods including a Telescope Rod a $1.50, which will probably not be possible again for some time.

Also you should remember in checking your needs for the opening of the season that all later orders of Gut Hooks and casts will be much higher. The war in Spain has stopped supplies of raw material.

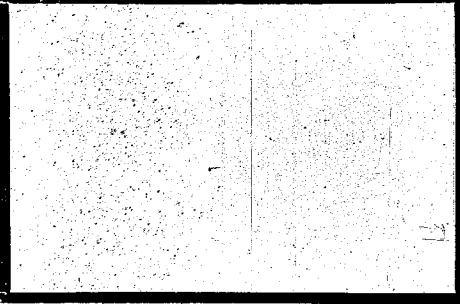

The stock is ready for your inspection—take a few minutes to look it over.

SCALLOP SHIPPERS LICENSED

Fishermen and shippers of scallops to the state of Massachusetts must now abide by new regulations now enforced in that state. Scallops from certified shippers will only be accepted. Each keg of scallops must now be marked with a tag showing the name of the shipper, his license number, the name of the producer, (or fisherman): location where scallops were taken and when taken.

Although at this season, scallops are quite plentiful, and the fishermen are having good weather, which enables them to be on the grounds most of the time. Scallop fishing is about done for this season, and it is expected several are soon to suspend operations until next fall.

Finer weather, large catches, and other fresh fish becoming plentiful on the markets has brought the price down to such an extent that it hardly pays the fishermen to catch them. Boats returned to port Tuesday many of them after thirty hours or more of continuous fishing.

Obituary

James R. Lawrence

News was received at the week end of the death of James Reginald Lawrence, son of the late James W. and Ellen (Coal-fleet) Lawrence, at Roxbury, Mass., of pneumonia. "Reg" as he was familiarly known by his friends, was in his early fifties, and was by trade an interior decorator, going to the United States when a very young man, but making several trips to his native province during the past years. He was very musical and a splendid accompanist and had composed a number of songs which were favorably received when published; also he possessed a very fine voice and gave much pleasure to friends when on his visit here. Besides his wife, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. G. E. Torrie, formerly of Digby, but now of Vancouver, B. C., and Mrs. E. C. Lane, of Morden, Kings Co.; one brother, J. A. Budd Lawrence, of Ontario.

Mildred Baxter

The death of Miss Mildred Baxter occurred at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Baxter, of Queen Street, on Saturday evening, at the age of 35 years. Left to mourn are: her parents; one sister, Mrs. David Hazelton, of Mt. Pleasant; also four brothers: Ralph, Frank, Charles and John, all of Digby. The funeral was held from her late home on Tuesday and was largely attended, the service being conducted by Rev. A. G. Robertson, pastor of the Baptist Church, assisted by Captain Hutchinson of the Salvation Army. Interment was in Woodlawn cemetery. The pall bearers were three brothers of the deceased and a cousin, Digby Baxter. Floral tributes were many and beautiful.

James Arthur Marshall

The death of James Arthur Marshall occurred at his home, Smith's Cove, on Monday afternoon, after a lengthy illness. The late Mr. Marshall was 73 years of age, and was born at Brighton, Digby County, the son of the late Alden Marshall. He was well known in Digby town and County, where he spent the greater part of his life. He was keeper of the County Home at Marshalltown for more than 10 years, retiring in 1920. Surviving are his widow, the former Miss Marshall; two sons, Guy, of New Britain, Conn.; and John, at home; also three sisters, Mrs. W. E. VanBlarcom, Mrs. Charles H. Carty and Mrs. S. J. Abbott, all of Digby. Funeral services took place from his residence Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson, pastor of Grace United Church, assisted by Rev. C. E. Rockingham, of Smith's Cove Baptist Church, officiating. Interment was in the cemetery at Smith's Cove.

Max Sabean

The death of Max Sabean, 82, occurred at his home, South Range, Digby County, on Saturday of last week. Deceased was a well known highly respected citizen of that section of the county. Surviving are: his widow; two sons, Ira and Albert, both of South Range; four daughters, Mrs. Walton Shortliffe, South Range; Mrs. Samuel Wagner, of Ashmore; Adeline (Mrs. Hall) and Bessie (Mrs. Ray) both in Massachusetts. Funeral services took place Tuesday afternoon with Rev. Donald Stophord of the Christian Church, and Rev. M. C. Higgins of the Baptist Church, officiating.

H. B. Short Passes Away

Digby was shocked on Wednesday night to learn of the sudden passing of Harry B. Short, whose death occurred at St. Petersburg, Fla., where he and Mrs. Short were wintering, according to their custom of the past few years.

News of his death, which occurred early Wednesday evening, came as a distinct shock. According to letters received by friends in Digby, he had been enjoying splendid health this winter and was looking forward to returning to Digby shortly. He was stricken with a heart attack, which came with drastic and tragic suddenness.

Profound sympathy in the loss of the beloved gentleman, who was born at Bear River, N. S., Sept. 1, 1864, was voiced by many Nova Scotians Wednesday night as likewise in the news of his death. He was regarded with the highest esteem and respect, both for his efficiency and high standards of character.

Five times Mayor of Digby and three times elected from Digby-Annapolis to the House of Commons, Mr. Short spent many fruitful years in the service of his town and province. Arrangements are being made for removal of his remains to Digby for interment.

He was the son of the late William H. Short and Maria Clarke (his father's first wife was a Miss Harris, of Moncton), and when a young man came to Digby with his mother, following the death of his father. In Digby his mother conducted the Short Hotel, which today is known as the Waverly hotel.

In the town which in later years was to select him as its mayor, Mr. Short obtained a position with the old Clements steamship firm, later taking over the agency of the Bay of Fundy S. S. Co., operating steamers between Saint John, Digby, Annapolis Royal and Boston. He remained with this firm for fourteen years.

The fish business which occupied his chief interest throughout the remainder of his life, attracted him in 1895, and he entered business under the name of Short & Ellis, his partner being Captain James Ellis. They continued in business, enjoying a wide reputation, until 1910, when the Maritime Fish Corporation Limited was organized and Mr. Short was elected manager of the Digby branch.

It is a tribute to his capability and efficiency that Mr. Short was still

Making Good Time

The steamship Robert G. Cann, Capt. Ernest Lewis, for the past ten days has been carrying freights across the Bay of Fundy to relieve the Princess Helene of some of the heavy export shipments going through this port, has been making some fast trips. The Cann left Digby at 1 a. m., Wednesday morning with a cargo of 125 tons of fertilizer arriving at Saint John at 7 a. m. She arrived in Digby yesterday at 7 a. m., to load another cargo.

"on the payroll" as manager at the time of his death. During the past few years he has been acting in advisory capacity and his advice and knowledge was always sought and prized by his associates, who regarded him with respect, admiration and warm friendship.

Modest and unassuming, Mr. Short made friends readily and possessed the faculty of retaining his acquaintances as friends.

The late Mr. Short started a long career of public service when he was elected to the Town Council at Digby for several years previous to 1904. In that year he was elected mayor, serving one term. In 1911 he was again elected as Mayor of the Municipality and was subsequently elected mayor in 1912, 1913, 1914.

Taking an active interest in the affairs of his province and country as well as his town, Mr. Short heeded the invitation of his many supporters and in the general election of Oct. 29, 1925, successfully contested the Federal seat of Digby-Annapolis and was elected to the House of Commons as a Conservative.

Again in the general elections of 1928 he was re-elected and then again in 1930.

On Oct. 4, 1891, Mr. Short married Flora K. daughter of Andrew Robertson, of Hantsport. A constant companion and devoted wife, Mrs. Short shared the same reputation, a general and lovable personality, which was enjoyed by her husband. In religion Mr. Short was a Baptist and adhered strictly to that church's doctrines and teachings.

AT THE THEATRE

The picture we have all been waiting for, for so long a time, is here at last. "San Francisco," with Clark Gable (hold back girls) and the golden voice of America, Jeanette MacDonald. That is a combination alright, and the picture itself is one of the greatest ever produced. Imagine seeing the great earthquake in San Francisco. Then on Monday and Tuesday, the great human drama, "Winter-set," one of those few fine pictures that hold you from start to finish. On Wednesday and Thursday, the Bijou presents a picture of a lighter class, "One Rainy Afternoon," a comedy drama, really one of those delightfully rare light comedies that leave the theatre-goer with a pleasant sensation of humor and delight, when it is over. Don't miss these outstanding sensations.

NOVA SCOTIA IMPROVEMENT WEEKS

In many parts of Canada, plans are being made for extensive ornamental tree planting this spring to commemorate Coronation year. Numerous Service Clubs as well as Municipalities and private individuals are planning to plant trees and other ornamental plants, singly, in groups, and in avenues. One of the Governors of Dalhousie University has announced that Coronation tree planting will be made on the University grounds. A news item from Berwick states that the Board of Trade will endeavour to have flower beds laid out at the station, and broken down trees removed and new ones planted throughout the town.

Such efforts are to be highly commended not only for their historical significance but because of the contribution that will be made to the beautification of Nova Scotia. This is all in line with the recent announcement in the Legislature of Nova Scotia, declaring the first and second weeks of May as Improvement Weeks for the western and eastern, including Cape Breton, parts of the Province, respectively.

We sincerely hope that various organizations and numerous individuals will take up the torch and make 1937, Coronation year, an outstanding improvement year in Nova Scotia.

George Bailey, of Saint John, is spending a few days in town with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Orwell Outhouse, of Centreville, were in town one day this week.

Temperance
Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service Council and Temperance Alliance)

SOWING THE WIND

A million dollars a year from the liquor sales! And the total sales eight or nine times that! And this in a province of a little over half a million people! And then another province sells a million dollars' worth of liquors a week, more than fifty millions a year, or about sixteen dollars for every man, woman and child in its population! And some of us are gloating over the amount of money finding its way into the public treasury from the government sale of liquor, saying what a boon it is in times like these.

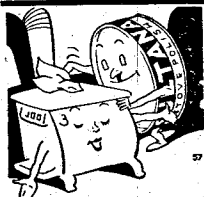

Now, if we have no conscience as to how we make our money, we will not look beyond these figures, but we will go on bud-getting year after year on the basis of so much — a greater amount each year — from the sale of liquor. We will say that if liquor has to be sold, well it is better that the public should get the profits rather than the private liquor seller. We will reflect with pride on the wonderful thing we did in the different provinces of Canada during the last fifteen years to devise this method of enriching the public treasury. Surely it was a fit of genius to have waved the magic wand of legislation and with one adept stroke sweep all the profits of the trade into the yawning coffers of our organized public life. Why, it will soon be our greatest single source of revenue! Haven't we done wonderfully! What matter if nine times the amount of our net profits must be sold and consumed by the people in order to give us this growing revenue! What matter though every bottle of liquor consumed contributes to physical, mental and moral deterioration of the people! What matter if we have been lifting the discredited liquor business out of the gutter, and setting it on a pedestal of respectability and authority, so that young and old may be beguiled by its lusted garb of social and state apparel! Will not some one do some figuring on the other side of the ledger that will show the over-topping liabilities often of intangible items that cannot be reduced to figures? Will not some one think in terms of personality and character on this issue? I wonder if that old inspired prophet were alive today in Canada would he not say with saddened heart as he read our story, "They have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind."

WHY NOT HELP THE CANCER FUND?

To the Editor of the Courier.
Sir—I noticed in the columns of your paper last week that the Badminton Club are planning to hold a dance on May 12th, Coronation Day. In connection with this may I make a suggestion? Would it not be better to make this dance a community affair—the proceeds to go to help some worthy objects? I suggest the King George V Cancer Fund, which is, I believe, still receiving donations. This fund was started as a mark of thanksgiving for the Silver Jubilee of King George V. The money is used for the furtherance of research into the causes and cure of Cancer, one of our most baffling and dreaded of diseases.

I am sure the people of the town would welcome such an opportunity to assist so worthy a cause and also to show their joy and thanksgiving at the crowning of our new and beloved monarch, George VI.

The above is only a suggestion; others may have much better. If they have I do hope they will come forward as it seems to me that it would be a terrible shame if we failed to make some concrete and material showing of our feelings at this time by helping those in need of our assistance. Surely we are all glad that our Empire has passed through perilous times safely and is now embarking on a new reign under a sovereign well fitted for the position and well loved by his people and the world at large. If we are, let us unite to do some worthy deed which will stand forth as a mark of our love and allegiance to our King and Empire. In assisting the Cancer Fund we would not only be doing this but we would also be paying homage to the memory of our late King, George V, so rightly called "George the Good."

THE VITAMINS

One pound of vitamin B is enough to supply the needs of one person for 1200 years, but if you don't get your tiny bit every day you will die in a few weeks. The vitamins are not drugs; they are foods, and we all need plenty of them. A good all round diet, properly cooked, should give healthy adults enough of all the vitamins. Children and infants however need some extra vitamin D, and to get this they should be given cod liver oil in some form during the winter.

We need milk, butter, cheese, green vegetables, carrots, and liver for vitamin A. We need whole wheat flour, oatmeal, liver, heart and kidney for vitamin B. Yeast and wheat germ are especially rich in this vitamin. We need oranges, lemons, tomatoes, lettuce, celery and other fresh fruits and vegetables to provide vitamin C. Ordinary foods contain very little if any vitamin D. In the summer-time the sun makes this vitamin for us free when it shines on our skin, but in the winter-time many children need to get it in some other way which fortunately is obtainable in cod liver oil and some other fish oils.

If we eat such poor meals that any one of these vitamins is missing completely, we may get serious diseases, such as scurvy, from lack of vitamin C, and rickets from lack of vitamin D. If we eat too small amounts of these vitamins we are apt to suffer from lack of energy, and we are more liable to get infections and to suffer more severely from them.

A well balanced diet requires milk, meat, eggs, fruit and vegetables. The young child may require to supplement this in the winter months with some cod liver oil.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

IS THIS FAIR TREATMENT?

To the Editor of the Courier.

Sir—Recently a couple from one of the most exclusive towns in Massachusetts, arrived on their first visit to spend a few days with their daughter, who is attending one of our universities.

After having luggage examined at port of entry—as key was in place—they took their car and proceeded on their journey. Having covered about twenty-five miles, they were "held up by police" and compelled to return to port of entry—over terrible roads, followed by police, because their car had not been checked over.

At the point where they were intercepted, would it not have been possible for an R. C. M. P. to have checked car; as the authorities were not present to prevent such an unfortunate experience—causing strangers in a strange land to feel like common criminals.

Luckily, they are broadminded. In a recent letter since then "cool reception," they said, "Nova Scotia has a charm of its own which grew on us, the longer we stayed. We felt very familiar with the road between — and — ! ! !"

(Signed)—Canadian.

BURDENS ON THE WILLING HORSE

Apt examples of the tendency of society to pile up burdens on the willing horse can be found aplenty in government tax laws.

Here is an instance from Indiana although it is not necessary to go so far away from home: In five years one oil company paid almost $44,000,000 in direct taxes to federal, state and local tax authorities.

It has collected on products it sells approximately $275,000,000. The treasury of one state has profited to the extent of nearly $320,000,000 out of the sum one company has received from its patrons during the depression years.

A larger proportion of the money it gets now goes to paying taxes than to payment of wages and salaries.

In extremity for revenue tax authorities have turned particularly to the industry that has shown ability to serve the public in other ways. Instead of

Pte. Bobby Nichols Again

Greetings again, to the Couriers family. It's Private Bobby Nichols of the 1st Idaho Volunteers speaking. And I have in mind today, a little incident connected with our departure on the troop ship Morgan City, that rather fits in with my former episode, for it has to do with that very same uniform of which I was so proud. Let me tell you now just what happened.

The camp seemed alive all that night, following my return from the dressmakers, because of the definite sailing orders received. The regiment had been detained four weeks longer than expected, so the boys felt hilarious over the prospect of final release from camp life. There was no real disorder—just an overflow of good spirits and an eagerness to get started on the big adventure. For that is what it seemed to the majority.

Finally came the morning call, and the camp was fully astir. There was guard mount, then breakfast and this followed by preparation for breaking camp. Everybody was busy. And I was just as excited as my tent mates, for I must don my cartridge belt, my haversack, my knapsack and canteen, and see that my rifle was in order for inspection before orders to march.

When all were ready there was naturally some little time intervening and the grounds were alive with friends and relatives busily engaged in taking last minute photographs of their friends and of the companies. Of course, I had my share of photos taken also, and I was properly proud of the way I stood and of the neatness of my equipment.

But, notwithstanding all my careful thought and preparation I overlooked one thing. I failed to notice that my belt had been put on upside down. This brought the big belt buckle, with "U. S." emblazoned on it—upside down. And any soldier knows what it would mean to show up at inspection with his belt in this position.

Well, lucky for me, it was not noticed then, but several months later—in the Philippines, when copies of the photos were sent to me I discovered what had happened. I showed one of the pictures to the top sergeant. He was pleased with my appearance in all respects—until he suddenly noticed that belt, upside down. And then the bawling out I got. Said he: "Do you realize how this looks—your belt upside down? I've a notion to show it to the captain." "Very well," said I, saluting. "If my uniform and belt was not in proper order at the time, it was your place to have noticed and corrected it!" Well—the sergeant then quite promptly "forgot" the incident.

And today, after all these years, that picture is one of my treasures. It brings a laugh every time I look at that belt—with the buckle upside down.

In closing this little episode I feel that it would hardly be complete without telling you of our departure from San Francisco. With everything finally in order we marched five miles, burdened with heavy equipment, to the docks where the transport lay. Thousands lined the streets as we marched along and the docks were congested with swarms of city folks. When the transport finally pulled into the bay stream it was immediately surrounded by row boats, tug boats and seemingly everything that would float—all intent on giving a grand send-off to the 1300 troops on board. It was all a splendid and cheering evidence of the San Francisco spirit—and we all enjoyed it. We swarmed over the docks and ringing until long after we had passed the Golden Gate. The cheers of the people and the blast of whistles long rang in our ears. But the most lasting of all was the waving of flags from the shore.

So—we're on our way, thro' the great Pacific, to thrills and adventures unknown.

Good night!

Do you play the Cymbals or the Horn?

A Roman Emperor was so pleased with his orchestra that he ordered his servants to give every player as much wine as his instrument would hold. Seeing one man weeping bitterly, he inquired the reason. "Forgive me," said the bandsman, "but I play the cymbals!"

Many investors content themselves with cymbals when the rewards all go to the horns. Haphazard hunches tie up and eventually dissipate hard-earned savings that deserve steady enhancement. Hunches are as costly to purchase as a gilt-edged security and often are as hard to sell as last year's almanac.

DIGBY AS A SUMMER RESORT

The Summer Visitor as an Asset

For a number of years previous to 1932 Digby enjoyed the enviable distinction of being one of the leading, if not the leading, Summer Resorts in Nova Scotia. To-day Digby, and Digby County, is not even getting a proportionate share of the tourist travel to this Province.

It is my hope to be able to analyze, and to show, in a series of articles in this paper, the reasons for this situation, and suggest a possible solution. Also to encourage the majority, at least, of our tax payers to become really "tourist conscious". Right here I would like to emphasize the fact that only by having the majority of the tax payers behind tourist promotion, can we hope to bring Digby County back to its former position of being the Leading Summer Resort Section in Nova Scotia.

It should be unnecessary to stress the great asset the Summer Visitor is to the community in which he stays, as we are well aware that there is decidedly more money in circulation while he is here, and it is pretty hard to find anyone who does not benefit in one way or another, yet I have heard more than one person remark that he could not see what benefit the Summer Visitor was to us other than to the hotels and a certain few merchants. To any of you who may share this illusion, I will offer the following examples and figures in an attempt to change your mind.

For the purpose of example we will take the Lour Lodge and the Myrtle Hotel. Previous to 1932 these hotels had a gross revenue of approximately $30,000 each during the summer months, and during the past five years, they had a gross revenue, each year, of approximately $125,000 each, and we know beyond a doubt that their profit, if any, was small. Where did this money received during the past five years ($125,000.00) go to then, if it was not paid out in wages, taxes, water, light, insurance, materials for repairs, groceries, meats, vegetables, milk, cream, butter, eggs and various other things. Surely the hotels benefited and the hotel owner little, if at all. Furthermore the result of study of where each cent in every tourist dollar is spent, on the average gives only 17 3/10 cents for hotels, and the balance in the following proportion—26 cents for merchandise, 20 1/2 cents for restaurants and cafes, 11 1/2 cents for theatres and amusements, 7 cents for transportation, 5 9/10 cents for confectionery, and street cars and taxis 3 3/10 cents. Based on the above figures it would appear that summer visitors to the Myrtle Hotel and the Lour Lodge have spent over $600,000.00 in this vicinity besides the $125,000.00 paid in to these hotels, in the past five years. An average of $145,000.00 a year. Add to this the summer visitors dollars that are brought here by The Pines, Mountain Gap Inn, Harbor View House, other smaller hotels, and boarding houses, and you have some idea of the cash market brought to our doors, because Digby is the buying and shopping centre for all. Surely this market is not one to be despised, and we should do everything within our power to bring Digby back to the pre depression level. Why is it The Pines, a few other summer hotels, and sections such as Cape Breton hotels, are keeping their rooms filled, and the other hotels in this vicinity taxed to less than half their capacity? Are all our local hotels going to follow in the path of the Myrtle Hotel, before we wake up? Are we going to lose this very desirable Cash Market?

The Question Box

We have selected the following answer to last week's question:

No. I do not think the merchant is justified in importing farm produce to sell in his store. The merchant has the advantage of setting the price on the farmer's produce as well as on his own goods. Thus making it possible for him to buy at home, as cheaply as he can elsewhere. If the farmer has the quality, the merchant should trade with the farmer to meet his needs for such produce. He would then see the farmers trade and we doubt some of his cash. It would at least be one step toward stopping the sending away to mail order houses and give just a little more cash to be handled in our home towns.

(Gardner)

As for next week's question, we are publishing the following letter, which includes the question to be discussed in the next issue. Write your answers to reach us not later than the Wednesday before publication.

To the Editor of the Courier.

Sir—I would like to see the question on a union of mill workers and woodmen discussed in your Question Box, not because of the present labour unrest, but to secure a decent wage. Possibly a question as:

"Should there be a lumbermen's and mill workers' union in this part of the province?"

Snow—Arnold

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday at the home of Conductor and Mrs. Gordon B. Arnold, Church St. Kentville, when their eldest daughter, Venetta K., became the bride of Vincent G. Snow, son of Captain and Mrs. William Snow, of Digby. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. A. MacLeod, pastor of the United Church, Kentville, in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends. The couple were unattended, and stood under a latticed arch of green and white with white bell. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a suit of navy blue tulle with accessories to match and carried a bouquet of roses, carnations and fern. The wedding march was played by Elton Arnold, brother of the bride, and during the signing of the register, Miss Evelyn Chisholm sang "O Promise Me". After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Snow will reside at Digby, where Mr. Snow is one of the firm of Snow Bros. The bride was very popular in her home town, and took

FUNERAL OF H. B. SHORT

Digby paid a parting tribute to H. B. Short, whose death occurred suddenly at St. Petersburg, Fla., on Wednesday evening of last week. The funeral, held from the Digby United Baptist Church at 3.30 Wednesday afternoon, following a short service at the residence, was one of the largest ever held in Digby. Friends and associates from all parts of the province and from as far as Ottawa were present. The funeral was under Masonic auspices with King Solomon Lodge, of Digby, of which Mr. Short was a Senior Past Master, in charge. All lodges in the constituency which Mr. Short represented at Ottawa were represented as well as lodges located elsewhere. The Oddfellows also turned out to pay their last respects. Mr. Short was one of the charter members of St. George Lodge, instituted more than fifty years ago, and his death leaves but four charter members in active membership: Capt. Wm. Snow, J. L. Peters, R. A. Abramson, Digby, and James Main, Canso. The church service was in charge of Rev. A. G. Robertson, and the funeral sermon was preached by Rev. F. E. Bishop, for ten years pastor of the church and at present located at Oxford. Pallbearers were: Senator Jones, of New Brunswick; H. G. Connor, Halifax; A. H. Brittain, Montreal; H. R. Ross, Saint John; M. C. Denton, F. L. Anderson, A. D. Daley, T. E. G. Lynch and A. J. Dillon, Digby.

an active part in church work. She was a member of the choir, secretary of the Sunday School and pianist of the Young Peoples' Union. The groom was a former member of the Royal Bank staff at Kentville, and while a resident of that town was President of the Young Peoples' Union, a teacher in the Sunday School and a member of the church choir. Out-of-town guests at the wedding included: Mrs. William Snow, Digby, mother of the groom; Miss Evelyn Chisholm, Auburn; and Elton Arnold, Windsor.

Mrs. Celestial J. Osborne. Information has been received of the death of Mrs. Celestial J. (Burrell) Osborne, at Waterbury, Vermont, daughter of the late Thomas M., and Kazia (Hann) Henshaw, Deep Brook, N. S. She was born at Deep Brook, June 7, 1851, died at Waterbury, Vt., March 23, age 85 years, 9 months 16 days. As a young girl she went to Lynn, Mass., married John Burrell, and after his death married William Osborne. On account of ill health in 1922 she went to Vermont to reside with her sister. She is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Chas. L. and Curtis V. Henshaw, of Deep Brook; Mrs. Lillian L. Hoyt, of Waterbury, Vt.; Mrs. Hattie I. Troxell, of Medfield, Mass.

The funeral of the late Capt. Ansel Snow took place from his Queen Street residence yesterday afternoon at 2.30. Rev. A. B. Higgins officiating. Interment was at Fairview cemetery. The death of Captain Snow occurred at his home 10.30 Monday morning. Deceased was stricken several weeks ago, and had been at the point of death for several days before the end came. He was one of the best known fishing skippers ever to sail out of this port, and in the heyday of Digby's vessel fishing days, Capt. Ansel Snow was usually among the high liners. He also fished out of Gloucester, Mass., for some twenty years, and was a member of the Master Mariners' Association of that port. Out of Gloucester he was master and part owner of the Effic M. Morrissey, a vessel that has since become famous for the part she has played in Arctic explorations. He also skippered the Flora L. Oliver out of Gloucester. He is survived by seven children, namely: four daughters, Margaret (Mrs. Harold K. Kiley) New York; Bessie (Mrs. Frank Hayden) Digby; Ruth (Mrs. Delbert Height) Boston; Edith, New York; three sons, Harry B., Boston; Capt. Fred, Digby; and Roy of Digby; one sister, Mrs. Frank Sweet, Cambridge, Mass.; two brothers, Capt. Joseph and Capt. William, both of Digby. Also ten grandchildren. All of the children arrived home for the funeral.

DRAMATIC SOCIETY

The first presentation of the Digby Dramatic Society was staged in the Community Hall, Thursday evening of last week, when the three act play "Love Is a Storm" and the one act musical farce "Bride and Gloom" were presented before an appreciative audience. Proceeds above expenses were divided with the Community Hall and the Digby General Hospital.

Those taking part in the three act play were: Mrs. C. N. G. Wilde, Mrs. Arnold Turnbull, Mrs. Kenneth Woodman, Miss Marjorie Tupper, Bryson Denton, C. N. G. Wilde and Harold Goodwin. In the farce, those who took part were: Mrs. Gordon Ellis, Bryson Denton, C. N. G. Wilde and J. M. Wallis. "Bride and Gloom" was directed by Mr. Wright, who "plied their stuff" in a very realistic manner for both plays.

Proceeds were rather disappointing due to a rather disagreeable night and to other events which unfortunately competed with the performance. The usual policy of selling tickets in advance was not adopted on this occasion.

Both plays were well received by the audience, and much credit for the success of the cast goes to Miss Isabel Williams, who directed. The Society intends staging another play in the very near future.

DIGBY AS A SUMMER RESORT.

Why Are We Not Getting Our Share?

No. 2

We left off last week with the questions: "Why is it the Pines, a few other summer hotels, and sections, such as Cape Breton hotels, are keeping their rooms filled, while the other hotels in this vicinity, taxed to less than half their capacity? Are all our local hotels going to follow in the path of the Myrtle Hotel before we wake up? Are we going to lose this very desirable cash market?"

The answer to the first question can be told in a few words. Publicity, and the development of their natural resources. The answer to the other questions in a few words: We are, if we continue to play dead, and do nothing to help ourselves.

In more detail we go into the questions and say: The Pines, through the facilities of the C. P. R. receives a tremendous amount of publicity, and are in the position to command very desirable connections with independently operated travel agencies, besides having their own. The Pictou Lodge, at Pictou, in Pictou County, is in a similar position. The White Point Beach Lodge, at White Point, Queens County, has gained the benefit of a tremendous amount of publicity through the tuna fishing in its vicinity, which attracts a wealthy sporting patronage, and White Point is in the key position to cater to this patronage.

Besides this, probably $75,000.00 was spent on the property to develop its natural attractions, and entertainment or recreation facilities. A golf course, tennis courts, excellent swimming and boating facilities, and many other things. It is needless to mention the developments at the Pines to attract and hold visitors, as we all know them. In Cape Breton the hotels have the support of publicity directed by local tourist associations, and it seems an indisputable fact that the government publicity has been directed to a very large extent to that section, and a national park is to be developed there. It is logical to assume that the government has pushed Cape Breton to gain the advantage of increased gasoline revenue as cars must traverse a good number of miles to reach Cape Breton. No doubt a very good idea, but it does very little to help us. These places mentioned, during the past summer, without a doubt, came very near reaching the pre-depression levels, and the White Point Beach Lodge, the Pines Hotel, the Pictou Lodge are all building new cabins for the coming summer's business, and building operation along that line are going on in Cape Breton. With the exception of the Pines we do not hear of any new additions to our local hotels, or any word that they expect to fill their present accommodation space, but they all seem perhaps a little more hopeful, possibly hopeful of catching a few overnight parties going to, and from, these other hotels.

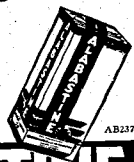

The development of the tourist industry in Digby and vicinity was carried on entirely by the hotels, with very little, if any, assistance given by the town. Summer visitors came, returned, came again and brought their friends, and the hotels, spent all they could afford in the way of publicity by sending out a limited amount of folders each year, and by advertising to an, as well, limited amount, in travel guides and newspapers. Unfortunately the depression came along and took from us a large portion of our regular visitors, and the new ones who are coming along are attracted by the Pines, to the Pines, or are on their way to some other section of the province, and it is simply due to publicity or the development of natural resources that is attracting them elsewhere. Our hotels are doing all they can to attract visitors here, and are carrying the burden alone under very difficult circumstances, and are under greater competitive conditions than ever before. And if Digby ever hopes to regain its lost position as the leading summer resort in Nova Scotia, it is up to the tax payers not only to endorse any constructive movement for tourist promotion, but to demand that action be taken. Why should the hotels be left to carry this burden of inducing visitors to our shores? They alone do not benefit as was shown very clearly in last week's article, and the owners are only tax payers, as well as all who benefit. If there chances to be one or more of you who reads this article who does not honestly believe he receives, directly or indirectly, any benefit at all from the tourist dollar, let him then sit idly by, if so content, but to you who acknowledge that you receive some benefit, directly or indirectly, be it little or great, then to you I say: "Become tourist conscious." Demand that the community in which you live, do, everything in its power to develop and promote this great industry, and thereby better your chance to earn an honest dollar, and remember, that the summer visitors' dollar is 100 per cent new money, to be put in circulation, not the old first dollar that a local business man started out with and put into circulation fifty years ago, and which is probably still with us. But if so that only helps prove that the tourist dollar will stay with us a long time, and eventually pass through all hands in various proportions.

How can Digby be developed? Get on the boat with me and take a trip to the New Digby, in next week's issue of the Courier.

NOT TRYING TO GOUGE THE PUBLIC

Hardly less an old wives tale than the "monopoly" charges so frequently made, is the oft repeated charge that the oil business is gouging or planning to gouge the public for prices of its products.

The best evidence that there never has been justification for this charge is the fact that in spite of many years of being "investigated," the industry is still doing its business with prices of its products lower than ever.

Prices have fluctuated with changing conditions of supply and demand and general economic prosperity. At times there have been good profits earned. In recent times with a gain many of the established companies they have been too low to provide anything like a reasonable return on capital and for service rendered. One of the largest earned only 3.1 per cent in 1935 and part of that came from money invested, not from prices charged for products.

An 1899 sales ticket shows that the then almost useless by-product gasoline was selling at approximately the same price that is obtained for the highly developed and efficient product of today. Today's price is only half that of the inferior gasoline that was sold in 1919.

This at least effectively answers the charge of price-gouging.

Special mention should be made of the duet "Down the Trail to Home Sweet Home," by Mrs. Wilfred Trask and Bernard Morehouse; solo by William B. Denton.

The play was very successful and was enjoyed as well as any amateur play ever put on by Little River talent.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

KEEPING ONE'S FEET DRY

It is surprising how important to our well being are some of the apparently trivial details of our everyday life. For instance, consider the simple rule of keep one's feet dry. Few indeed are the simple health rules, the observance of which pays, such high dividends.

In a climate like ours where rains come frequently and where soft snow and slush are encountered many times, spring and fall, it is not always easy to keep the feet dry. Rubbers and overshoes are a nuisance and it is very tempting to go out without them. Before one realizes it the feet get wet. It may be hours before a change is feasible and during that time the feet get chilled, the heat regulating mechanism of the body becomes deranged and before we know it another cold has developed. Few things seem to lower the resistance of the body to infection as quickly as wet feet.

Children particularly require careful watching. They will slip off to school without rubbers and mittens, they will trudge in route to test out each stretch of "rubbing" ice and go out of their way to trudge through a mud puddle; then they may have to sit until late afternoon without an opportunity for a change.

Absolute insistence upon warm dry feet always pays. With rapidly growing boys and girls, rubbers and overshoes quickly become outgrown, but it is cheaper to buy a new pair than to pay for the costs of an illness. Shoes should have thick soles in winter or in wet weather. Half-soleing when required is not a luxury; one cannot risk putting it off. In winter sports wear and other boots should be waterproofed. Heavy wool socks and socks, are to be recommended. When driving or motoring, long distances in cold weather, the feet should be kept warm always.

One essential point to keep in mind is that most danger comes not from getting the feet wet, but in letting them remain that way. There is very little danger if one can change at once into warm dry footwear. If the feet are chilled as well as wet, they should be rubbed until circulation has been restored and, if necessary, a warm footbath taken as well.

Questions, concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally, by letter.

BRITAIN IS QUITTING POST

Alfred H. Brittain, President of the Maritime-National Fish Limited, biggest fish wholesalers in Canada, has retired from active management of the company which has promoted and has headed since 1929. His plans for the future are not known.

Brittain has long played a leading role in the development of Canada's Atlantic fisheries, which he calls "the finest fishing grounds in the world." Twenty-seven years ago he organized the Maritime Fish Corporation Limited and in 1929 was instrumental in merging it with the National Fish Company Limited of Halifax.

When he first promoted local industry in 1910 consumption of sea fish from the Atlantic was negligible, most of the fish used being imported from Portland and Boston. Today this has been completely changed, imports from the New England States having dropped to practically nothing.

The retiring president of Maritime-National Fish is generally credited with having fathered the extensive fish advertising program adopted by the Federal Government, which was started during the past year and has greatly increased fish consumption in this country.

On two occasions president of the Canadian Fisheries Association and still chairman of the publicity committee, Mr. Brittain will continue as a director of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Company of New York.

He Mailed a Letter
...to Dame Fortune

Just twenty-three years of age but the letter carried the wisdom of a gray beard:

"I have protected my dependents with insurance and will have about three hundred dollars a year to invest. Of course, I expect to earn more and invest more. But I'm more concerned in sharing in the solid growth of Canadian industries and public utilities and producing mines than in any speculative chances."

In 52 words, this young man unconsciously wrote a full code of investment principles. By forty-three, still youthful, he will have the accumulated harvests of twenty years of cautious planning.

Former Athlete Almost a Cripple

Now "Right as Rain" After Taking Kruschen

Read this letter from an athlete, telling how he obtained relief from rheumatic pains:—"My knees were so stiff with a kind of rheumatoid trouble that I could only rise from a chair with pain and difficulty. This had been growing worse and worse for about two years. It was all the more galling because in my young days I had played for two counties at football and held my college record for the 100 and 220 yards. Naturally I tried all sorts of education, but with absolutely no perceptible effect. Then I decided to try Kruschen Salts, and to cut a long story short, I am now as right as rain."—W. S. T. The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently due to deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. Kruschen helps to stimulate the excretory organs to healthy, regular activity, and so enables them to eliminate this excess acid from the system.

Having An Ideal

To have an ideal is to have an aim in view, a definite pattern on which to model one's life.

Without a compass and without the magnetic pole to direct the needle of this compass, the mariner would never be sure to reach his goal. We, too, are ships—ships sailing their way through an unknown sea, called the sea of life. Our mind is the compass. The magnetic pole is the purpose we give to our life.

The voyage will be long and perilous. There will be storms and rough seas and dangerous counter-currents. In real life we call them hardships, disappointments and mental struggles. Yet our ship of life will overcome all these if somewhere ahead of us we see a definite harbour to which we must sail and if we set our mind to make it whatever comes in the way.

Persons who have achieved great things in this world have always had definite ideals to go by. Virtue is impossible unless we see it moulded in some virtuous person. Hence virtuous persons lead good lives because they have living patterns of virtue as represented in their minds, to go by. Pioneers of a country are always persons of high ideals. So are the discoverers. They have definite aims in view and they stick to these aims till their work is done. And in any field of endeavor.

Youth is the proper time to sow ideals. Today, however, the soil is often very ungrateful to this culture. No sooner has the first seed been dropped than it is swept away by the winds of selfishness, unrestrained liberty and aimlessness which are prevailing in our age. So that an ideal may take root and grow we need calm, repose, control over our petty caprices, reflection, determination, work. A disillusioned youth is incapable of any of these. What would do it much good would be a daily meditation on Longfellow's beautiful poem, "The Seafarer".

THE LATE HARTSHORN MULLEN

As only a brief notice of the death of the late Hartshorn Mullen of Easton, Digby Co., has appeared in the Courier, it may be that a fuller account of his life would be of interest to his many friends throughout the country. Mr. Mullen was one of the oldest residents of the County, having reached the advanced age of 91 years and two months. He was born on Dec. 22nd, 1845, and passed to his eternal reward on Feb. 22nd, 1937. In many respects his was a remarkable and interesting life. Blessed with almost perfect health all his long life, he never called a doctor but once and that about a year before his death, on the occasion of his first heart attack, the affliction that finally ended his days.

Born in a farm house in a place sometimes called "Hilltown", about one mile back from the community of Havelock, here he lived till seven years old when his father, Ench Mullen, moved with his family two miles farther back and settled in a log house, which he had built for himself in the forest, at a place now called Easton. This was the first house in this community and was connected with the settlement from which they had moved, only by a sled road. Here the subject of this sketch lived in the freedom of the woods until about 12 years old, when he was let out to an uncle, his mother's brother, James Sabeau, of Weymouth North. Here he grew to manhood, knowing little but slim fare and hard work. Having no school handy enough for him to attend while at home and his uncle having no interest in him other than the work he could do, he never was sent to school. He learned to read and write after he became a man, but with the exception of the Bible, never was inclined to much reading.

When grown to young manhood he left his uncle and for a number of years followed the lumber camps, the stream drives and saw mills. One summer he shipped in a fishing vessel operating out of the port of Gloucester, Mass. At the age of 25 he married Miss Mary E. Sabeau, daughter of Simon D. Sabeau, of New Tuskent. He then owned a small farm known as the "Sam Smith place", on the back road to the east of New Tuskent. Here he lived for five years when he sold out and moved to Easton, where he had built a substantial home for himself among the stumps of a new clearing. Here he spent the remainder of his days, living 61 years in the same house, which still stands. His widow, who is active at 84, still occupies the house. Eight children were born to this couple, only three of whom survive.

Physically, Mr. Mullen was a very strong man, and few there were indeed in his younger days that could outlift him or outdo him. In his stream-driving days he covered practically the entire length of the Tuskent, the Sissiboo, the Meteghan and the Mersey or Liverpool rivers. Many were the interesting tales he could tell of narrow escapes and exciting events that took place during these driving days. He formed a link with the palmy days of the lumber industry of Nova Scotia, when that business offered employment to the majority of the young men of the province. We recall the names of many of the river "bosses" under whom he worked and of whom he used often to speak. Prominent among them were: John McMahon and Thos. Uhlman of the Tuskent waters; Phil Hurlburt of the Meteghan; the Dexters, "Zeke", and "Ike", of the Sissiboo; and "Gib" Cushin, or Cushion, of the Liverpool. He used to love to tell of men whom he remembered and with whom he worked on the last named stream; we recall the names Freeman, Monroe, and Orde. Perhaps not many of these survive to recall him. The subject of this sketch was an ardent lover of the great outdoors, and loved to roam the woods which he knew thoroughly for many miles around. In the way of sport, moose-hunting was his choice, but especially the moose calling. Given a clear frosty evening the first of October, a good birch bark horn, a location on the top of some great boulder, over-looking some open bog or burntland, near the haunts of moose, he was as happy as a man could well be in this uncertain life. In his day he called up many a monarch of the forest.

In religion, Mr. Mullen was a Baptist, and a life-long member of the New Tuskent Baptist Church, but was broad in his sympathies and enjoyed fellowship with all God's children, irrespective of creed. The old-fashioned testimony meetings suited him the best; formal religion had little attraction for him. He ever lived an honest and consistent life, and maintained a lively interest in the church and whatever was for the betterment of the community. He had the distinction of being able to truthfully say that during his lifetime he never used tobacco in any form, and never took a drink of liquor. He often related that while on the fishing vessel all one season, there sat on the deck a keg of liquor, with a faucet to open, and a dipper attached for free use, but he never once touched the poison. Up to within a few years of his passing he was able to do hard labor, and continued to do light work almost to the day of his death. He was not bedridden nor helpless to the last, but his heart grew steadily weaker until on the early morning of Feb. 22nd, he peacefully closed his eyes as if in sleep to no more wake on this side of the grave.

BRUCE PORTER PLUNGES TO HIS DEATH FROM PRINCESS HELENE

Tragedy stalked the harbor-front of Saint John on Sunday when Bruce Porter plunged to his death from the deck of the Princess Helene. Sluicing water from the lower "aft" hold at 9:30 o'clock he lost his footing and plunged into the harbor. He could not swim and was further handicapped by hip-length rubber boots. He rose to the surface once, made no outcry and sank from sight. Search for the body has so far been unavailing. Porter had been engaged with two others in cleaning out the freight hold. He was well known in Digby. Beside his wife, who was formerly Miss Edna McGrath, of Victoria Beach, he is survived by three daughters, Muriel, Thora and Edith, all at home; also five brothers, Bernard, Clement and Earle, West Saint John, and John and Rayford, Saint John. His mother, Mrs. Frank Porter, and his stepfather also reside in West Saint John.

Dr. and Mrs. E. DuVerne, who have been away all the winter, are expected to return home today, when the doctor will at once resume his practice.

Play Next Tuesday.

A two-act play, "Listen Ladies" will be given in the Temperance Hall, Smith's Cove, on Tuesday evening, May 4th, at 8 o'clock. Sponsored by the Library Committee. 15 cents and 25 cents.

Trees Flourished.

About four years ago J. D. Thibault, general merchant of Salmon River, and Armand A. Deveau, of Mayflower, planted several hundred Norway pines near Mr. Thibault's land at Mayflower. The trees were then not more than a foot high. Few of the trees died and some of them are over four feet high, giving good promise for the future.

Club Meets Tonight.

The School and Community Club, of Barton-Brighton, meets tonight at the residence of Mrs. G. Tilley, Barton.

Bear River Woman Heard.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Anchor of Hope Division, in Centerville, Mrs. Koop, of Bear River, gave an address on Temperance.

A Correction.

Due to an unfortunate error the name of Miss Dorothy Moses was omitted from the cast of the play presented by the Digby Amateur Dramatic Club, at the Community Hall, recently. The cast also wishes to express their thanks to the Digby Orchestra whose contributions were a decided help.

To Be Sworn.

Robert Irwin, of Shelburne, will be sworn in as lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia on Monday. The oath will be administered by Sir Joseph Chisholm, chief justice of the supreme court. The new lieutenant-governor, whose appointment was announced three weeks ago, succeeds Hon. Walter H. Covert.

Leaves for Coronation.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Holdsworth, accompanied by their daughters, Misses Audrey and Marjorie, left for Halifax yesterday and Miss Audrey left for Truro to join other Nova Scotia students leaving for the Coronation. The party will sail from Montreal today.

Got Two Years.

James Sproule, 52, former resident of Digby, was sentenced to two years in Dorchester at Halifax this week, on a charge of uttering a forged document. On a second charge of obtaining money by false pretences he was sentenced to two years' suspended sentence.

Fire Department Kept Busy.

The local fire department has had a busy week. Friday morning last they were called out for a slight blaze at the residence of Benj. Theriault, First Avenue; on Saturday afternoon for a fire on the roof of a barn on the Sproule property at the corner of Carleton Street and Second Avenue; on Monday afternoon for a chimney fire at the Court House; twice on Tuesday for grass fires; and yesterday afternoon for a chimney fire at the Torrie house, Queen Street.

DAMAGED BY FIRE

The roof on the south side of a shed on the Sproule property, at the corner of Carleton Street and Second Avenue, was damaged by fire on Saturday afternoon. It is thought to have caught from sparks from a bonfire in a neighbor's yard.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE GRADUATES

Commencement exercises at the Agricultural College, Truro, on Wednesday, brought the year's term to a close with presentation of graduating diplomas, cash prizes, etc. The graduating class for 1937 includes the following:

Henning Aaland, Denmark; W. A. Churchill, Wellington; Theodore Durand, Cambridge Station; Allister Grant, Glace Bay; Bernard Longley, Paradise; Harvey Martell, Mira Gut; Donald MacDonald, Pictou; Allister MacLean, Riverside; N. B. Hugh McLean, Pugwash; Starr Pattillo, Truro; Willis Peers, Pugwash; Louis Roucheau, Maxville; Chas. Robinson, Harvey Station; Angus Rose, Oakfield; Douglas Thorne, New Brunswick; James Wright, Riverside.

The winner of the Governor-General's medal for highest standing in the two-year course was Starr Pattillo, of Truro, who is also class valedictorian. The MacDonald College scholarship went to James Wright, of Riverside, giving him one year's tuition fee at that college. Various other cash prizes were also awarded.

Salesman is Wanted by Police

Frank Gates, young household electrical appliance salesman, wanted by the Digby police, and his companion, Kenneth Donnelly, have been traced as far as Amherst, it is reported by Digby's police chief, Fred J. Thibault. Police throughout the Maritimes, and as far as Montreal are being advised to be on the look out for the pair.

Gates was to appear on Tuesday last week for a preliminary hearing. It is alleged he misappropriated funds. He was not on hand for the hearing, which was postponed until Wednesday. He did not make his appearance that day, and later a complaint was filed with the police by William Eldridge, who said he had hired out one of his cars to Gates, who had not returned with it.

Chief Thibault has received a telephone message from Chief Withers of Amherst, advising him the Eldridge car had been located in an Amherst garage. Last Saturday it was taken in for minor repairs, and one of the garage cars hired for four hours while the repairs were being made.

Amherst police are now said to be looking for the garage car, which has not returned. It is understood there were two men in the Eldridge car when it was driven in the garage in that town. No charges have been preferred against Donnelly, but a bench warrant is being held for the arrest of Gates.

NEW THEATRE FOR DIGBY

Digby is to have a modern $25,000 theatre, it was announced to the press Wednesday evening by C. E. Walker, manager of the Bijou Theatre. Mr. Walker was not prepared to state the location of the new building or the kind of material with which it will be constructed but advised us that work in all probability will begin some time in May, and the theatre will likely be opened August 1st.

He also advised us that the building will be built for Walker & Smith, and that A. E. Smith, well known Saint John film man, will be his partner in the venture.

The new theatre is to be erected on the Warner Block. Mr. Walker advised the Courier yesterday afternoon. Architects and engineers will be in Digby shortly to make arrangements for its construction.

BEAVER REPORTED PLENTIFUL

Local anglers, who have been "back" on fishing trips, report beaver as becoming quite common in the interior sections of the county. Many streams have been dammed and large areas flooded through the work of these industrious rodents. One group alleges there are signs that the beaver are being trapped in spite of the fact they are protected by law. The badly decomposed body of one was found in a trap by fishermen. For the past two or three years it is reported beaver have been increasing in numbers, and near certain settled areas have caused considerable damage by flooding areas.

MISS HOLDSWORTH WINS GRADE XII CERTIFICATE

The honor of receiving the first grade XII certificate ever to be awarded by the Digby Academy, goes to Miss Audrey Holdsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Holdsworth. The presentation was made Friday evening of last week, when Miss Holdsworth was guest of honor at a party given by the students of the Digby High School.

Miss Holdsworth, who was elected one of the Nova Scotia students to attend the Coronation at London, left for Halifax yesterday en route to Quebec to join other students similarly elected throughout the Dominion. Friday night's party was opened by a short address from F. C. Purdy, Principal of the Academy, who commended Miss Holdsworth on her excellent work as a student. During the evening games were played and refreshments served.

On this occasion Miss Holdsworth was also presented with a beautiful ring, set with Nova Scotia amethyst. The party was brought to a close by the forming of a circle and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne".

Earlier in the week Miss Holdsworth was guest of honor at a dinner and theatre party given by Mr. and Mrs. G. Wright, and on this occasion her friends presented her with a Nova Scotia amethyst pendant.

TOWN COUNCIL MATTERS

At Monday night's meeting of the town council, on motion of Councillor Woodman, seconded by Councillor Turnbull, the rate book was accepted.

The town clerk, at the last meeting of the council, was instructed to insert two advertisements in the Digby Weekly Courier, one to ask the citizens of the town to co-operate in the "Clean-Up Week", from May 1 to May 8; the other to advise the townspeople that Burton Eisener, who was recently appointed chimney sweep for the town, now has his equipment and is ready to accept work.

On motion of Councillor Woodman, seconded by Councillor Turnbull, the town council decided to transfer a sum of $1,000 from the sewer account to the town's general account. The town has accepted the offer of the Digby County Power Board to look after the line work, install street lights and supply truck hire and labor in connection with the town electric system for a sum of $900 per year.

On motion of Councillor Anderson, seconded by Councillor Woodman, letters of sympathy from the town council are to be sent to Mrs. H. B. Short, Mrs. Ansel Snow, Fred May and J. Don.

The report of W. W. Hayden, superintendent of streets and water, stated that his department had erected six cement platforms for the old cannon to be put up near the band stand. Gravel had been hauled on King Street, near the residence of T. E. G. Lynch; a trench dug on Queen Street, near Councillor Turnbull's residence; and gravel put on the Shore Road and Lower Water Street. Work of repairing the sprayed surface roads has commenced.

Figures To Think Over.

A paper says the United States has had six big wars in 150 years. The total loss of life in all of them was 244,357. But in two years, 1935-36, 75,500 have been killed by the auto and in these deaths, liquor has been the largest single factor. What is to be done about it? A man may be drunk and drive a buggy because of the horse sense of the horse, but if he drinks and drives a car, he is a potential killer of himself or another.

SCALLOP PRICES DOWN

Fine weather has made it possible for the scallop fishermen to be out on the grounds most of the time these days, and large catches are being made. Prices, however, are continuing to drop due to the large catches and to the huge quantities of fresh fish from other varieties now on the markets.

It is understood from some of the local scallopers the American market is about done for the season, and that Canadian markets are getting a considerable quantity of the catch of the Digby fleet. Warm weather has made shipments to New York uncertain. The price in Boston is now about nine cents per pound. Locally, and in Halifax, it is understood, fishermen are getting ten cents per pound for their catch.

Large quantities of Digby scallops sold to the local markets at this time of the year will likely go into cold storage for export later. The season closes May 31st.

Town of Digby

Public Notice is hereby given that MR. BURTON EISENER has been appointed Licensed Chimney Sweep for the Town, and will take orders to sweep your chimneys at the following rates: 1 Chimney $1.50; 2 chimneys $2.50; 3 chimneys $3.75 and 4 chimneys $5.00 if done at the same time.

No other sweep will be permitted to operate in town. If a chimney fire takes place, and the owner or occupier of the premises cannot produce a Certificate that his chimney has recently been swept he will be liable to a penalty under the By-Law of the town.

OBSERVE HOLIDAY ON CORONATION

The 12th of May, A. D., 1937, will be observed throughout the Dominion of Canada as a day of general thanksgiving and rejoicing on the occasion of the Coronation of His Majesty, George VI, according to a proclamation in the Royal Gazette of April 14. Issued at Ottawa from the hand of the Governor General, Lord Tweedsmuir, for His Majesty, the proclamation reads: "Whereas it seems to us fitting that an opportunity should be afforded Our Loving Subjects, the people of Canada, of celebrating our Coronation in such manner as to manifest their devoted attachment to Our Throne and Person and their thankfulness for the manifold benefits and great mercies which under the blessing of Almighty God they enjoy."

This proclamation means that across Canada, the date of Coronation will be observed as a public holiday.

OTHERS MAKE ERROR, TOO

An editor, who had his attention called to a mistake in one of his columns, according to W. L. Hanson, publisher of The Santa Ynez Valley News, didn't feel so aggrieved when he recalled that on the same day there was a letter in his post box that did not belong to him; he called No. 98 on the phone and got 1938; he called for a spool of No. 50 thread and got a spool of No. 60; he got his milk bill and there was a mistake of ten cents in the company's favour; he felt sick and the doctor said he was eating too much meat when he hadn't tasted meat for two months; the preacher turned in his church notes with the name of the society president misspelled and the editor got the blame for it; the garage man said his car was missing because it needed a new timer, and he cleaned the spark plugs and the flivver has run ever since.—(Santa Maria, Cal., Times).

WILL OBSERVE KING'S BIRTHDAY ON JUNE 9

Although George VI was born on Dec. 14, his birthday will be celebrated in Canada, as in Britain, on June 9. A message to this effect was received recently by Lieutenant-Governor Murray MacLaren from E. H. Coleman, under secretary of state for Canada.

The telegram, forwarded from Ottawa to His Honor, reads as follows:

"Proclamation is being issued appointing Wednesday, 9th of June, for celebration of His Majesty's birthday, instead of actual date, Dec. 14, 1937."

Similar messages were despatched from Ottawa to the Lieutenant-Governors of the other provinces, following a decision in the matter by the Governor-General-in-Council.

In that His Majesty's birthday falls in December, it would appear that the example of his grandfather, Edward VII, is being followed by celebrating the monarch's birthday in the summer season, even where it occurs in winter, so that the public may better enjoy the holiday.

The birthdays of the last two monarchs, George V and Edward VIII, were celebrated on their natal days, June 3 and June 23, respectively.

DISTRIBUTION OF GASOLINE

The distribution system of gasoline consists of thousands of men engaged in management of their own business and who are known in their home communities as the local "oil man."

The start of many of these local oil businesses was indeed humble. But the industry considers that in Canada and the United States, local oil companies are comprised of 10,500 jobbers, operating bulk storage plants and service stations, and some 105,000 retailers operating stations supplied by jobbers or large oil companies, in which gasoline and oil are the main lines of merchandise.

These 115,500 local oil men employ 300,000 people, sales and service men in service stations, men employed around oil storage plants and driving trucks delivering merchandise from bulk plants to service stations, and the office help for the jobbers. The 300,000 employees, plus the 115,500 local oil men, add up to 415,500 persons making a livelihood in these organizations. Their annual payroll exceeds $130,000,000.

All these local businesses have been built up since the first drive-in station was built about 1907.

Temperance Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

THE MOST DANGEROUS DRIVER

"Experience proves the most dangerous man (in the automobile) is the man with only one or two drinks who still believes himself to be in possession of all his faculties." These are the words of Robbins B. Stoekel, one time secretary of the Auto English Association, and now Professor of Highway Transportation in Yale University. They serve to explain how, according to a survey made by the National Safety Council of the United States, the traffic accidents have simply "vaulted since repeal" of the Prohibition Law. The survey revealed that about 60 per cent of the accidents and 75 per cent of the people injured or killed, were in the "alcohol accidents" class.

Experiments indicate a measurable loss of efficiency when as little as one ounce of whiskey is consumed. One ounce of whiskey or ten to twelve ounces of beer would contain two-fifths to one-half ounce of alcohol. In an article in National Safety News for December, 1934, Dr. H. A. Heise says "It should be borne in mind that the 'alcohol accidents' are those in which a responsible individual has more than 92 per cent of alcohol in body fluids." Drivers with but little alcohol could perform routine acts fairly well, but were measurably slow or erratic in applying brakes; showed poor judgment in avoiding danger; and were clumsy, "most of them blissfully unconscious of dangerous driving." In the State of Minnesota, Gil W. Carmichael, director of the Drivers' License Bureau, said that out of a total of 2,286 licenses revoked since January, 1934, no less than 2,136 or 95.5 per cent were for drunkenness.

Surely there is a warning in all this which no man dare ignore. Don't drink before you drive a car! Don't risk your life in a car with a driver who has had a drink! Best of all, don't drink, ever! This automobile age calls loudly for, yes, demands total abstinence from all alcoholic beverages.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

TONSILS AND ADENOIDS

Is the removal of tonsils and adenoids a recently devised operation?

As a matter of fact it is one of the earliest surgical operations, dating back to at least 2,000 years. We have been told that in one of the Eastern countries the tonsils are removed from every infant. A slip knot is formed of a piece of horsehair and placed around the tonsil. The slip knot is then pulled tight and the tonsil is cut off and removed. These people have great belief in the virtue of this operation and to it they ascribe the great stature of their men.

In Canada, however, only forty years ago a child whose tonsils had been removed was a rarity, but now, when every school child receives medical supervision, this operation is very common. Well may a thinking parent find it difficult to believe that there is need for such a wide spread attack on a structure of the body.

Of what good are the tonsils? Does their removal do any harm? Surely they have been given to us for a purpose?

The tonsils and adenoids are a kind of tissue which grows in the throat to protect us against the spread of germs, but only as long as it is a healthy tissue is it protective.

The position of tonsils and adenoids readily exposes them to infection and often they become harbors of poisonous material. Therefore, the removal of these damaged and harmful pieces of tissue will not be any loss to the defenses of the body. It is, as statistics show, a great benefit to the children as a whole, even though occasionally the individual may not seem to be benefited.

It is the experience of doctors with large practices, that after a child has had his unhealthy tonsils and adenoids removed, he requires medical attention much less frequently on the average than hitherto.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

SERIES OF MILL ACCIDENTS

Murray Mullen, of Havelock, was badly scalded about the face and arms on Friday when a boiler tube blew out in the Herman Mullen Company's mill, at New Tusket, where he was employed. Mr. Mullen rode home on his bicycle—a distance of over a mile—and in doing so caught cold in his face. On Saturday it was so badly swollen that he could not get even the tip of a spoon into his mouth. However, later reports state that the swelling has gone down a little so that he can now partake of a little nourishment.

On Saturday the lumber mill of Innocent Comeau, Corbierie, was wrecked through a boiler explosion, and two men, Fred Theriault, marker, and Emile Robichaud, timer, were sent to the Yarmouth Hospital as a result of the accident. Theriault's condition is reported as grave. He was badly scalded by escaping steam. Robichaud suffered many cuts about the face and body. The cause of the explosion is said to be cold water poured into an overheated boiler. It is reported the mill and machinery were damaged beyond repair.

proposition hard enough in those states where the Legislature turns thumbs down on requests for modest appropriations for state publicity?

After reading the previous lines, you may say we were discussing the Town and County of Digby, not the state of Wisconsin. Regardless, it would seem that on an investment of $50,000 to $75,000 a profit of at least $600,000 was realized on gasoline tax alone, and in a previous article I pointed out that it has been estimated that out of every tourist dollar approximately 11½ cents is spent on cars and gasoline, and less than 1½ of this would be payable as a gasoline tax, say 4 cents. In other words 25 times as much is spent on necessities other than gasoline. We would then draw the conclusion that 25 times $600,000 or $15,000,000.00 of new money was brought into the state of Wisconsin by an investment of $50,000 to $75,000 on advertising.

Would it be out of place then to assume that if the natural attractions we now have were developed, and a reasonable sum appropriated for advertising, we would reap a rich reward? It would seem a darn good investment to spend $5,000 to $10,000 on developing attractions, and $1,000 a year on advertising. If the hotels we now have in Digby were not here, the town would be out considerably more than $1,000 a year by not receiving the amount paid in by the hotels in taxes, and the hotels are now the only organized means of bringing visitors to our shores, and it would only seem a reasonable and just thing if the monies received from taxation of hotel properties were used for advertising and paying the interest on a loan of sufficient size to develop some real attractions to bring in tourists.

The hotels and everyone is paying taxes to the town, but the town is doing little or nothing to promote and encourage the greatest cash market we know of, that would bring dollars into the pockets of every tax payer. There are various members of the town council and the board of trade who would be in favor of a movement of this sort, but not enough to carry it through without the wholehearted support of the tax payer, and it is up to you, Mr. Tax Payer, to demand that some action be taken in this very important matter. Demand that your legislators act on other things besides water lines, sewer lines, and the absolute necessities, to permit ordinary living conditions. Demand that they promote something to bring money to the town and county. Industries that will give work, and put money in circulation. Demand that they advertise Digby and promote such attractions that will justify good advertising.

Suggestions for attractions could be numerous, but I will content myself for the present with the following: A Recreational Centre, having three or four tennis courts, bowling green of sufficient size to permit several games to be in progress at one time, six or eight shuffle boards, a small pavilion enclosing a canteen and information booth. Also a small fleet of row boats, and row boats for hire under the supervision of a capable attendant; improvement of swimming facilities at the Racquette, and last, but not least, the continuance of the Digby Golf Course, carefully supervised and kept in good condition.

The Information Booth would be under the direction of a capable official who would provide entertainments, arrange programmes, and publish a weekly bulletin showing the programme of activities for the coming week. Summer visitors would soon learn that the thing to do would be to register at the Information Booth at the Recreational Centre, pay $1.00, and receive a tourist card which would make them eligible to all club activities for the week, and would be given a programme listing the activities of that week. One week's programme might contain something like the following:

Monday—Starting of Tennis Tournament at 10 a.m. Entries register at Booth.
Tuesday—General Sports Program at Recreational Centre in the afternoon. Dance at some local hall or casino! at 9 p.m.
Wednesday—Picnic at Sandy Cove. Arrive at beach at 3 p.m.
Thursday—Bride Party starting at 8 p.m. Arrangements would have to be made for a suitable place.
Friday—Sail Boat Races at 2 p.m. Reserve boats at booth—Dance, 9 p.m.
Saturday—Finals of Tennis Tournament, starting at 10 a.m.

The next week would be similar but featuring a bowling, shuffle board or golf tournament. Revenues derived from membership fees would pay expenses of upkeep of Information Booth and Recreational Centre, and all attractions could be made to pay their way. Such attractions as these would not entail a terrific expense, and would create a tremendous community spirit. Visitors would really get together and have a good time, returning year after year, and bringing their friends to a place that has a delightful climate, and something to do for both young and old. Automobiles are almost entirely the means of travel today, and if we haven't something to offer the tourists, they will certainly head for some place that is more wide awake; but it is possible to hold the few we have left, and attract thousands of others, but we must advertise and offer them something worth while if we want to re-establish Digby as the Leading Summer Resort in Nova Scotia. Come on, friends, become really "Tourist Conscious", and demand that your town council and board of trade take action to earn an honest dollar by catering to this great cash market. The opportunity is here—go after it.

House Painter Who Takes His Kruschen Every Day

How many painters can continue to work when they are over 70? Here is one who can—and he still does some of the most trying jobs in his trade. How does he do it? He tells us in this letter:—
"I have been in the habit of taking a few grains of Kruschen Salts in every cup of tea I have had for a great number of years. I may state that I am turned 70 years of age, being born on July 22nd, 1864. I am a house painter by trade and still at work. I can work off any ladder, no matter what height, or in cradles which are hung outside high buildings. I have been asked many times how I carry my age so well, as I only look about 50. Well, I tell them all that I take Kruschen Salts regularly every day."—J. S. A.
Kruschen is a combination of numerous mineral salts which assist in stimulating your liver, kidneys and digestive tract to healthy, regular activity. They ensure internal cleanliness, and so help to keep the blood-stream free from impurities.

Bear River's third fire in ten days razed the fine home of Mrs. Harvey Marshall, aged widow. The local fire brigade was hurriedly called to battle the fire and managed to save all the contents of the house, both the household effects belonging to Mrs. Marshall and to a tenant, Archibald Barratt. A defective fuse was blamed for the disaster. $800 insurance was carried by the owner. The occupants of the house were taken in by the neighbors.

STOVES AND RANGES

God Bless Them, Long May They Reign

ONLY THE ONE KING AT CORONATION

Tradition decrees that no reigning sovereign should attend the coronation of another. But if there will be only one king at the coronation, there will be many princes. Most sovereigns have wished that their coronation should be graced by the presence of as many foreign royalties as possible, for they add to the dignity of the ceremony and the prestige of the Throne.

Inviting and "placing" these exalted guests require considerable tact and delicacy. In this matter the sovereign, in the final issue, is always the sole judge. Heirs apparent, heirs-presumptive and younger sons of a reigning monarch are the foreign royal guests who are most "wanted" at coronations.

Invitations to these personages are never sent direct. The sovereign of the country in which they reside considers the request of a fellow sovereign, that a representative of his royal house should attend the coronation. To a British coronation it has long been the custom for monarchs to send their heirs or very close male relatives, and the Court of St. James has always been somewhat "touchy" in this matter.

When the Kaiser Offended King Edward VII

When in 1902 the Kaiser intimated to King Edward VII that the Crown Prince would not attend the coronation that year King Edward was extremely offended. The excuse given by the Kaiser was that the Crown Prince, during his previous visit to London had behaved himself in a very unbecoming and undignified way. Despite a strong plea by the king, the Kaiser would not alter his decision. Prince Henry, of Prussia, his brother, was the selected representative, and here again a "snag" arose.

Prince Henry was displeased at the place allotted to him in the coronation procession and in the Abbey, but the king firmly insisted that the Kaiser's brother could not be placed in front of heirs to thrones. In the end the prince had to accept first place among the ranks of foreign royalties who were not heirs.

Foreign royal guests are housed and entertained at the expense of the Sovereign during their usual week's stay. Highly placed princes are accommodated at Buckingham Palace, or one of the other royal houses in London. It is usual for a few personal friends of the Sovereign to place their residences at the royal disposal at coronation time, to facilitate the "housing" of the lesser royalties and their suites.

Entertaining a Distinguished Company

A state dinner, a state ball, a coronation dinner, a gala performance at the theatre or opera house, and an invitation to join the royal party at naval and military reviews are the customary "high lights" of coronation entertainment.

The embassy and legations of the distinguished visitors also act as hosts to their various royal representatives, and altogether the exalted "invaders" have a splendid time at a British coronation. After their official stay is concluded many stay on to enjoy the hospitality of England's "noble and rich" in London and country houses. All foreign royalties bring their own detectives with them to work in liaison with Scotland Yard.

A Hard Time for the Detectives

At the last coronation a zealous "Yard" man pounced on a suspicious looking character who was prowling in the garden of Buckingham Palace. The arrested man turned out to be chief guard of a visiting prince!

At the Coronation of Queen Victoria, in June, 1838, the chief foreign royal guest was the Duke de Nemours, second son of King Louis Philippe, of France, who brought over as a gift a superb bouquet of diamonds, which cost a million francs. The Duke of Saxe Coburg, Prince of Hesse, Prince de Leiningen, Duke of Nassau, and a host of other foreign princes were also present, and were entertained in regal style by the young Queen.

Her successor, King Edward VII, planned to have representatives from every royal house in the world at his Coronation, the first in Britain for 64 years. In the third week of June, 1902, there were assembled in London for the Coronation the heirs to the thrones of Russia, Italy, Denmark, Rumania, Portugal, Saxony, Greece, Sweden and Norway, Siam, Montenegro and Belgium, each attended by a glittering suite. The Archduke Ferdinand represented Austria, the Prince of Asturias, Spain, Prince Tsai Chen, China, and Prince Akihito Komatsu, Japan, while India sent some of her greatest Princes.

An Unprecedented Assembly

It was indeed an unprecedented assemblage of royalty in one place, and it was cruelly unfortunate that most of them never saw the Coronation owing to the sudden illness of King Edward VII, two days before the ceremony, which had to be postponed indefinitely. This caused the royal visitors with a few exceptions to leave, and when the actual Coronation took place on the 9th of August, the visiting royalties present were only the Crown Prince of Denmark, the Crown Prince and Princess of Rumania, Prince George and Princess Andrew of Greece, Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia, and about three other minor royalties.

King George V. in 1911 was much more fortunate in this respect. At the 1911 Coronation there were present the Crown Prince and Princess of Germany, the Crown Prince and Princess of Sweden, the Crown Prince of Bulgaria, the Crown Prince of Denmark, the Crown Prince and Princess of Greece, Prince Alexander of Serbia, Prince Danilo of Montenegro, Grand Duke Boris of Russia, Archduke Charles of Austria, Prince Chakrabongse of Siam, Prince and Princess Higashi-Fushimi of Japan, Infante Don Fernando of Spain, the Duke and Duchess D'Aosta of Italy, Duke Albrecht of Wurttemberg, and Prince Henry of Prussia. Other spectators of royal rank were Disjamatch Kasht of Ethiopia, Prince Mohamed Ali Pasha of Egypt, Prince Henry of the Netherlands, the Hereditary Prince of Monaco, and a large number of minor German royalties.

The German Jacobite Pretender

Perhaps the most interesting of all the royal visitors at the 1911 Coronation was Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, who is considered by the Jacobites to be the rightful Sovereign of Britain, being the head descendant of the Catholic branch of the Stuarts, which was debarred from the Throne by the Act of Settlement. Prince Rupprecht commanded an army against us during the War, but it is not at all impossible that either he or one of his sons will be present at the forthcoming Coronation.

If one studied the careers of each of the foreign royalties at King George's Coronation one would get a fairly good idea of the course of European history during the last twenty-two years. The problems of precedence, position of their Abbey seats, the number of horses drawing their carriages, and the escorts assigned to them are all matters of great moment and importance to foreign royal guests at Coronations.

CORONATION CHURCH BEFORE WESTMINSTER ABBEY

The Royal Borough of Kingston has welcomed Coronation year in a noble way—it has marked out, so that all who pass by may see, the site of that Saxon Church in which the son of Alfred and many of his successors were crowned.

Under the guidance and inspiration of Dr. W. E. Finny, who investigated the site of the church of St. Mary at Kingston, ten years ago, a tablet of bronze has been placed at each corner of the ancient shrine, let into actual stones which the Saxon builders used, each forming a base two and a half feet wide, the actual thickness of the original walls. From the position of the tablets we see that the building was 60 feet long and 25 feet wide.

Ancient Prayers

A church has been here since the seventh century, and the town was famous for centuries before the conqueror came. King Egbert held a Great Council here in 838, and there is a charter granted by him with a reference to "that famous place called Kingston in Surrey."

Here came Edward the Elder, in 902, to be crowned by the Archbishop of Canterbury. It is thrilling to recall that the very prayers spoken at that ceremony a thousand years ago, will be repeated in Westminster Abbey in May.

For over a century the Saxon kings were crowned in this church, and great kings they were, carrying on the work of Alfred and driving the Danes back to their ships.

Many Kings

There was Athelstan crowned in 925, who won back Northumbria by his victory at Brunanburh; Edmund the Magnificent, crowned in 940, who conquered Cumberland and gave it to Malcolm, King of Scotland; Edgar the Peaceful, crowned in 958, who at length won a respite from warfare and with his famous Archbishop Dunstan, revived religion and learning; Edward the Martyr, who was slain by the Danes, under an oak at Hoxne; Ethelred the Unready, who tried in vain to buy new invaders off; and last of all, Edmund Ironside, crowned in 1016, of sterner stuff, and only just failing to drive Canute from our shores.

It was Edmund's brother Edward, the Confessor, who built Westminster Abbey, which then became the Coronation Church, so that the little church of St. Mary lost its great pride of place. In the year 1130 the Normans laid the foundations of All Saints Church just outside its north wall, and before long the old church was joined to its bigger neighbor as a lady-chapel. St. Mary's was proud of its past, and we know that on its walls were memorials to the Saxon kings, whose crowning they witnessed, and to King John of Magna Carta, who granted a charter to Kingston.

Stone Which Saved a Life

In the year 1729, however, came tragedy. Sexton Hamerton was digging a grave, his daughter Hester, helping him, when suddenly the whole Saxon building collapsed, killing the Sexton and another man, while his daughter escaped through a huge stone falling across the grave, and so protecting her.

Restoration of the building was impossible, and the site was cleared; but they took the stone which saved Hester Hamerton, and put it in the church of All Saints, where it still lies, inscribed "Life Preserved." They made her sexton, in her father's place.

On that stone now rests another with Saxon ornament: it was part of the churchyard cross, which all those Saxon kings would have seen, and it would be familiar to the Bishop of Winchester as they made their way from the door in the west wall to their palaces by the Thames. Bishop's Hall is still the name of the street here, but a tannery now stands on its site.

One other memorial of its Coronation days stands in the splendid new town hall. It came from the Saxon church and is believed to be the stone on which the kings were crowned.

T. R. H. PRINCESSES ELIZABETH AND MARGARET

CROWN FOR CHRISTMAS PRESENT

The Crown of England as a Christmas present sounds fantastic, but that virtually happened in 1066. On Christmas Day of that year a Norman Duke was crowned in Westminster Abbey by the Archbishop of York, and as William I, he commenced a new era in British history.

Not only was that Coronation the only one ever to take place in the Abbey on Christmas Day, but it was also the first ever celebrated in the famous church. Westminster Abbey had been consecrated earlier in the year, and its founder and builder, Edward the Confessor, to his intense grief, was too ill to attend the magnificent ceremony. "I will remember this Christmas Day as long as God gives me memory," exclaimed William the Conqueror at his Coronation feast. Every schoolboy knows how William crossed over to England and defeated and slew Harold at Hastings, but that battle was not all that led up to that fateful Christmas Day.

The Coronation Foretold

When William was in Normandy, just before Edward the Confessor's illness, he happened to remark that the English king, who was, of course, a kinsman, was likely to send him some horses as a Christmas present. "The Court astrologer, who was present, said gravely: "King Edward will send you no gift, sire, for you shall receive a crown on Nativity Day."

William construed this at first to mean that he would be dead by Christmas, "the crown of life" being always ascribed to a dead person.

That Edward had secretly promised William the Throne of England is now generally accepted by most historians, so the Conqueror's invasion in 1066 was not quite a stroke of naked aggression.

As he landed on September 28th, and had "mopped up" the opposition by December, William was not dilatory! His decision to be crowned in the Abbey, to use Edward's old crown for the ceremony, and to secure an English bishop to officiate, showed regard for the conquered race and its traditions.

At the time there was a curious position in the See of Canterbury. The archbishop was Stigand, who fourteen years before had usurped the See after the legitimate occupier, Robert of Jumièges, had fled the country and been outlawed. Although the Pope had denounced Stigand's election as uncanonical and had ordered the restitution of Robert Stigand stuck to his office, and in time became accepted as head of the Church's civil matters, although few of the clergy and none of the bishops recognized Stigand as spiritual head.

How William Met a Clerical Quarrel

When Stigand claimed the right to crown the Conqueror, William refused the claim and asked Alfred, Archbishop of York, to perform the ceremony. Stigand was permitted to assist.

and did so with good grace, though under protest.

According to the custom of the period William spent the night before his Coronation in prayer, fasting and meditation. Neither he nor any of his thousands of Norman barons and soldiers were quite sure of what would happen on the great day. London had been subdued and had submitted, but the general atmosphere against the invaders was bitter and hostile. There were few "natives" inside the Abbey when the great ceremony commenced about 11 a. m., but the building was crammed with William's adherents.

His leading barons closely surrounded him at the altar, and the church was packed with heavily-armed soldiers. An air of great tension was accentuated by the gloom of a winter's day. Although very pale, the Conqueror himself was calm and composed, and followed the early part of the Coronation Mass with every sign of devotion.

Massacre Interrupts the Service

During one of the quietest parts of the service, when all heads were bowed, ominous shouts from outside were heard. Inside of a minute, hundreds of Norman soldiers had sprung to their feet and were rushing to the doors. Everybody in the Abbey thought the Saxon rising had broken out. Immediately the soldiers came out of the Abbey, mounted their horses and charged the immense throngs which surrounded the church.

Complete panic ensued. People fled right and left, and hundreds were killed and injured by the mad soldiers and horses. Not content with dispersing the mobs, the Normans then set fire to all the wooden houses in the neighborhood. Meanwhile the Conqueror and nearly the entire congregation were outside the Abbey doors watching the amazing scenes. When William saw that the whole affair was not a rising at all and that a mistake had been made by his men, he ordered the ceremony to proceed.

There was no Coronation Chair in existence in 1066. The actual crowning took place at the High Altar, the Conqueror kneeling to receive the crown, reciting a prayer in Latin as it was placed on his head. Afterwards he gave a great feast in the Palace of Westminster which lasted for nine hours. Scores of Norman musicians and jesters helped to entertain the guests, and the revelry was on a scale never before witnessed in sober Saxon England.

Crowned on Christmas Day

It was a Christmas Day, the memory of which lingered long in London and rhymes and verses commemorating it circulated all over England for more than two centuries afterwards. It is interesting to note that the Conqueror at his Coronation took oath which gives in essential the triple question and answer to this day.

Christmas Day is always an important one in Britain, but the festival day of 1066 was surely the most momentous of all Christmases in that country.

KING ON THE DOORSTEP

A capital story of the King of Yorkshire thoroughness, obeying the letter of the law; but unfortunately, the Duke arrived ten minutes before he was expected. Failing to recognise him as the royal visitor, the office man calmly declared that neither the man nor his party could enter the mill site then. He was sorry, but they were to wait outside till he had made inquiries.

Running upstairs, he told the manager a party of gentlemen were at the door, and when the manager went down to explain he found the Duke smiling on the step, patiently waiting to be allowed to enter the factory.

He was a Christmas Day, the memory of which lingered long in London and rhymes and verses commemorating it circulated all over England for more than two centuries afterwards. It is interesting to note that the Conqueror at his Coronation took oath which gives in essential the triple question and answer to this day.

The Coach of State

A Magnificent Vehicle Which Costs £8,000

When George IV. drove down Pall Mall on his way to the House of Lords in the magnificent State coach 145 years ago, a mob broke the windows and did other serious damage to the carriage. Nevertheless, it survived its treatment and their Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth will drive to their Coronation this month in the identical vehicle.

Built in 1762, this carriage is still in perfect running order, and it will look as splendid as it did on the day when it was first used to carry King George III. to Westminster to open Parliament. As it rumbles by in slow procession only a passing glimpse of its glories can be seen by onlookers, but so lavishly is the decoration and so costly the gilding with which it is covered that it cost £8,000 when it was built, and that in a day when money was of greater value than it is now.

When the Queen is Crowned

In their London conference room the Earl Marshall, the Lord Chamberlain, and other high officials comprising the Royal Council have been rearranging the order of the coming Coronation ceremony to include a Queen Consort. In stately Westminster Abbey, now closed to the public, architects are busy redesigning the setting of the crowning rites and providing a second Throne for the Queen and a dais for her attendants. Historical State parchments are being rewritten, fresh dress regulations drawn up for the Coronation guests, a new order of social precedence prescribed by the College of Heralds, and the ancient "Queening" jewels and regalia taken from the Tower of London to be cleaned and refurbished.

The Work of Many Master Craftsmen.

A large number of skilled craftsmen were called in to perfect this handsome piece of work, carriage builders, wheelwrights, smiths, painters, gilders, and upholsterers being employed for two years. Every detail of the coach was designed with great care and furnished with ornamentation, elaborate carvings and gilded figures covering nearly every portion of its structure, as a result of which it weighs no less than four tons.

Gracing the centre of the gilded roof three cherubs, representing United Britain, support the Royal Crown holding in their chubby hands the Sceptre, the Sword of State, and the Ensign of Knighthood modelled in gold and wood emblem of England's historic traditions. The supports of the framework were not neglected by the designer, and instead of plain uprights four conventional Tritons on either side hold the body together, whilst the body itself is adorned with trees, whose spreading branches loaded with trophies representing Britain's martial victories, support the nobly arched roof.

England's Finest Textiles

All the most beautiful textiles Britain can produce are being collected at a famous dressmaker's in Mayfair, to make the Queen's Coronation robes. Several lengths of rich velvet specially dyed to the true Royal purple shade are required for the sweeping mantle and its twelve foot long train, bordered with gold lace and lined throughout with ermine. All over the train a symbolic national pattern is embroidered in gold and silver—the rose, the thistle, the shamrock, the Star of India, and so forth, with the Queen's monogram, "E. R." and her crown in the centre.

Symbolic Details

The pole to which the horses are harnessed also received the artists' attention; this is made to represent a bundle of lances placed as though to safeguard the coach's occupants, and the wheels, which have carried the coach through many triumphant journeys in England's capital, are designed on the lines of an ancient triumphal car. Coloured panels made to withstand inclement weather and padded interior with scarlet velvet, and painted by a celebrated artist, adorn its sides, and the entire structure is covered with a lavish display of gilding which cost £33 per lb.

Eight specially chosen horses, highly trained and of similar colour, draw the heavy vehicle in its stately procession, a postillion in Royal scarlet and gold riding astride each horse. George III. and Queen Victoria favoured horses of cream colour; during the earlier part of his reign George V. changed them from black, thinking this colour more imposing, but today the coach is drawn by the celebrated bays, Caparisoned with brilliant scarlet morocco leather harness, these beautiful animals perform their duties with quiet confidence and dignified bearing.

Luxurious Interior

The interior of the coach is also of the finest. Upholstered in luxurious style, one of its most expensive items, the interior has never been allowed to become shabby, and has been renovated on several occasions at the cost of some hundreds of pounds. Though it had been upholstered only a short time previously in honor of the young Queen Victoria, a complete renewal was undertaken at her request and more in keeping with her tastes.

Owing to the great expense and the fact that it is a lengthy process, the coach has never been regilded in its entirety since it was first built, but the gold leaf has been renewed bit by bit as parts have become worn.

Unused for Many Years

On Queen Victoria's retirement from public life after the death of the Prince Consort, an end was put for a time to pageantry and pomp of state, and the Royal State coach was relegated to the Royal Museums, where it lay unused and with its glories almost forgotten for many years.

Newly gilded and looking as brilliant as ever, it was brought out once more for the Coronation of King Edward VII., who with his well-known consideration for his people had the box seat moved to enable the crowds lining the streets to see him better.

Thus attired, the Queen stands in the traditional decorations that every Queen of England has worn at her Coronation since the dress was first prescribed by James the Second. She arrives at Westminster Abbey to be met by her ladies, dressed somewhat similarly save that they wear scarlet velvet, and her procession then proceeds up the aisle to witness the crowning of the King. During this ceremony the Archbishop gives the Queen the old Saxon Crown of Queen Edith, a golden circlet set with rubies.

When the King has been crowned and solemnly enthroned, the Princes of the Blood Royal and the Peers kneel to pay homage to him, and then the king takes his seat upon the Throne while the Queen is crowned. She kneels before the altar bare-headed while four Peers hold a rich pall of cloth of gold over her. The Archbishop pours holy oil upon her hair and speaks the words of anointment.

Next he takes the Queen's ring of "marriage to the State" from a velvet cushion, a golden ring set with a single square ruby engraved with the Cross of St. George, and this is placed up-

The Moment of Moments

Then the Archbishop lifts the great Crown of England, glittering with diamonds and turquoise, and places it upon the Queen's head. As he does so all the Peersess present raise their own coronets, which they are carrying, and put them on too.

Finally the Archbishop puts the golden Sceptre of power into the Queen's right hand, signifying that she rules with her husband.

band. Into her left hand he puts the Ivory rod, with a carved dome, intimating that though she now holds power she must still rule with gentleness and peace.

While the choir sing an anthem of joy the Queen goes up to the King, bows to him reverently, and then takes her place upon the smaller Throne beside him. Only when this moment arrives will England literally have a Queen again. "Till the day she is crowned 'by Priests, peers, and People,'" according to tradition, she is acknowledged by courtesy as the wife of the king. After her Coronation she becomes Queen and Ruler in her own right, invested with formal majesty for the rest of her life.

Final Session Municipal Council

The Digby Municipal Council met at the Court House Tuesday afternoon to bring its final session before the Municipal Election, which takes place in the fall. The Warden and all Councillors, with the exception of Councillor Dunn of Culloden, were present at the opening. Councillor Dunn, who is also Deputy Sheriff, was absent on official duties in connection with that office.

At the first meeting the subject of joint expenditures was one of the chief topics of discussion. Municipal councillors appear to be dissatisfied with the present arrangement between their Council and the Digby Town Council, by which the town of Digby pays one-fifth of joint expenditures costs, and the municipality the remaining four-fifths.

According to their views, the agreement, now over 30 years old is non-existent, the original written agreement having been lost some time ago. Arbitration Boards of the two councils discussed the subject last January, but nothing definite was done in the matter. It has been decided that the Arbitration Committee of the Municipal Council meet with the same committee from the Town Council and draft up a new agreement, which, it is hoped will be more satisfactory.

Commenting on the matter, the Warden said in his opening address "This thing should be strictly followed by statute and adjusted, or, if an agreement is gone into it should not be for a term of more than five or six years as many changes can take place in that time."

Frank Jones, K. C., of Digby, appeared before the Council on Tuesday and spoke on the one collector system for the municipality. Mr. Jones pointed out that this system has proven satisfactory in other municipalities and thought it would be to the advantage of Digby Municipality. A letter from Martin Archibald, Municipal Clerk for Halifax, was read at Wednesday morning's session. The letter told how the system had worked out in that municipality. The matter is one that was discussed at length during the January session.

The Warden in his opening address pointed out that unemployment had practically disappeared in the county, but unemployment problems of the past were bearing heavy. At the present time an amount of some $20,000 was due the govern-

The worship period was led by Helen Hazlett, who took up the story of the Creation. The girls picked mayflowers and took bouquets around to some of their friends and mothers as May Day gifts. A bunch was also put in the church.

Don't forget the Coronation Dance at the Community Hall, May 12. Under the auspices of Badminton Club.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT

Cheap firewood proved costly to E. H. Balser, an employee at the mill of H. T. Wynn Limited. Mr. Balser had been given a condemned scallop boat to break up for fuel, and, after work on Monday, set himself to the task. Just before dark the side of the boat slipped, carrying Mr. Balser, who was smoking a pipe at the time with it. Landing face downward the pipe in his mouth struck on the stony beach, breaking the stem in three places and cutting a bad gash across the roof of his mouth. But that wasn't all that happened—a piece of the broken stem pierced his right cheek and passed completely through it. Mr. Balser was taken to the hospital where it was found several stitches were required to close the wound.

ment, which, he said would be cut by some $5,000 should the government "come across" with its share of the agreement.

It was by a unanimous vote the council turned down the plan for centralization of school sections. This proposal, brought up by Warden MacKinnon of Cape Breton, at the convention of the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities held at Digby last week, would have all schools within the municipality controlled from one point, where the rate would be set and collected, and from where monies owed by the school section would be paid.

On Wednesday afternoon members of the council motored to Marshalltown for their annual inspection of the Alms House and home for harmless insane.

Yesterday afternoon the members of the council expressed themselves as disapproving of a one-collector system for the Municipality for this year. No vote was taken but it is understood the matter will not be brought up again this session.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE HOLDS IMPORTANT MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Bear River Women's Institute, Mrs. A. B. Campbell, president, in the chair, was a purely business session, a large number of items pertaining to Institute activities having to be discussed.

One of the outstanding reports was that of Mrs. W. M. Romans, convener of the library committee, who reported twenty-five dollars had been spent for up-to-date books for the Institute library, which had been re-catalogued and put in first-class condition.

The session was principally taken up with arrangements for the Institute Coronation entertainment to be held in Oakdene Hall, on Wednesday evening, May 12th, when a patriotic program will be presented, followed by the serving of light refreshments and a dance, with orchestra. The small admission fee of 25 cents will be charged for adults, and 15 cents for children, in order to cover expenses. The surplus to be divided between the Oakdene School library and the Bear River room in the Digby Hospital. It is hoped this entertainment will receive generous patronage from both local and adjacent points, as not one cent of the proceeds will go to the Institute funds, but be spent for the above mentioned purposes.

Could Hardly Rise From Her Chair

Rheumatism Relieved by kruschen

This woman was such a confirmed sufferer from rheumatism that she thought she would never get relief. But before she had finished one bottle of Kruschen her rheumatism was leaving her. Here is her letter:—
"I had rheumatism so badly that once I got into a chair I found great difficulty in rising again. A friend told me to try Kruschen Salts, but I thought it was a foolish idea, as there seemed to me to be nothing that would relieve rheumatism. My friend gave me two doses to try. I took one dose on Monday and another on Tuesday, and by then my pain had removed to another part of my body. Well, that was a good start, so I bought a bottle and it gave me great joy to find my rheumatism disappearing and now for a long time I have been free."—(Miss) A. R.

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently due to deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. Kruschen Salts, by helping to stimulate the excretory organs to healthy, regular activity, enables them to expel this uric acid from the system.

Rank in The Peerage

The Styles, Titles and Insignia Of Our Nobility

Dukes

Dukedom is the highest rank and title in the British Peerage, and originated in the year 1337, when the famous Black Prince was created the first English Duke by his father, Edward III, who gave him the title of Duke of Cornwall. For some time the title of duke was confined to members of the Royal Family, and was only sparingly conferred.

On the accession of Queen Elizabeth there was only one Duke in this country, the Duke of Norfolk. All the other Dukedoms had fallen extinct through lack of heirs. When Norfolk suffered death at the hands of the executioner there was no duke at all until James I. created George Villiers Duke of Buckingham. Dukedoms were subsequently conferred upon various families by Charles II. William, Mary, and Anne.

A duke is "Most Noble," and is addressed as "My Lord Duke," or as "Your Grace." All his children bear the prefix "Right Honourable," and his eldest son bears his father's second title, and is therefore usually a marquis.

The duke's coronet is a circlet, adorned with eight leaves of the conventional type, known as strawberry leaves. The coronet is of richly-chased gold, while the cap is of crimson velvet and is closed at the top with a gold tassel.

Marquises

Marquises are second in the order of precedence of Peers in Britain. The first creation of a marquis was made by Richard II., who conferred upon his favourite, Robert de Vere, the title and dignity of Marquis of Dublin. This was in 1337. The next creation was not until ten years later, when the Earl of Somerset was made Marquis of Dorset.

A marquis is "Most Honourable," and is styled "My Lord Marquis." All his children are Lords or Ladies, and, as in the case of the eldest son of a duke, the marquis's eldest son assumes by courtesy the second title of his father.

The coronet is a gold circlet heightened by four strawberry leaves, and the same number of pearls, arranged alternately. The leaves and the pearls are the same height.

The wife of a marquis is a marchioness, and wears the same type of coronet as the marquis.

Earls

Earldom now ranks third in the order of precedence, but at one time, before the introduction of dukes and marquises, was the highest order. Its origin dates from the Saxon kings.

An earl is "Right Honourable," and is addressed as "My Lord." As is usual in the orders of peerage the eldest son takes his father's second title, and is therefore usually a viscount. His other sons are "Honourable," and his daughters are "Lady" or "Right Honourable."

An earl's coronet has eight rays of gold issuing from the circlet, and between each pair of these rays there is a gold strawberry leaf.

The present form of the coronet has been in general use since the middle of the sixteenth century, but as early as 1445 the elevated cluster of pearls appear on the coronet of Thomas Fitz Alan, Earl of Arundel.

Viscounts

Next in order after earl comes the viscount, which, although being an ancient title, did not form part of the Peerage until 1440. It is thus the most recently established English title in the peerage. Henry VI conferred the first title of viscount on Baron Beaumont.

A viscount is "Right Honourable," and is addressed as "My Lord," while all his sons and daughters are referred to as "Honourable." The title is frequently given to an earl as second title, and by courtesy is given to the eldest son of an earl.

The coronet was first granted by James I. on England, and has a row of sixteen pearls set on the circlet, placed close together.

A viscountess assumes the same rank, title and coronet as her husband.

Barons

Barons now hold the lowest position in the order of Peerage although in the Middle Ages they ranked as second. They were a powerful body of peers, and we read of them as having rebelled against the injustices practised by King John and as having forced the hand of that monarch into the signing of the Magna Charta.

Later barons were those who attended the Great Council, and subsequently they were those who were summoned to Parliament by writ.

As time went on the barons were superseded by dukes, marquises, and viscounts, and, from their position as second only to earls they became the lowest order.

The barons of the present day are of three classes: Barons, by writ, whose ancestors have long sat in the Upper House; barons by patent; and barons by tenure.

They are addressed as "Right Honourable," and their children as "Honourable." They wear a coronet which is a plain gold circlet with six pearls on its edge, the cap being of crimson.

Baronets

Baronets take premier place among the gentry of England, and owe their origin to the thirty James I. Previous to his accession Elizabeth had succeeded in reducing Ireland to some sort of order and James was impressed with the necessity of carrying on the work. He therefore announced that the title of baronet should be conferred on those whose estate had an annual value of not less than 1,000 pounds, and would undertake to maintain in the Province of Ulster thirty soldiers for three years. The baronet would have to pay the sum of 1,000 pounds to the Treasury, in return for which he would have the privilege of wearing the arms of Ulster on his shield. These gentlemen became the baronets of England, and a few years later James created the baronets of Ireland, similar to the others in every respect save that they paid the thousand pounds to the Irish Treasury.

Later, in a similar fashion, Charles I created similar baronets in Scotland, but after the union of the three countries all baronets came to be known as the Baronets of the United Kingdom.

Baronets, who do not wear a coronet, have as their badge the Arms of Ulster, showing the open palm of a left hand, cut off at the wrist, and red in colour.

By letters patent wives of baronets are allowed the prefixes "Lady," "Madam," or "Dame" whichever they prefer. Baronets themselves have the prefix "Sir" and their surnames are followed by their dignity, often abbreviated to "Bart."

Knights

The order of knighthood is conferred by the Sovereign for the recipient's lifetime, and entitles the holder to the prefix "Sir," and his wife to the prefix "Lady."

In feudal times the qualifications of knighthood were military exploits of a distinguished kind, or personal services to the Sovereign. Also, a knight was one who held property either from the king or from a baron, and who in return rendered military service to the king or baron.

Later all knights were required to render military services to the Sovereign. Failure to do so meant the imposition of a fine. As many knights had no inclination for the profession of arms they gladly paid the fine and thus accrued a profitable source of revenue to the royal coffers.

Gradually the knights formed into two distinct groups. One class became members of a fraternity or a companionship, and took laws, institutions and insignia peculiar to themselves. In this way the different orders of knighthood were introduced: the Garter, Order of the Bath, St. Patrick and Thistle, most of them under the patronage of the Sovereign, until there were eventually nine orders of this kind in Britain and the Empire.

Those knights who did not belong to any of the orders came to be known as Knights Bachelor. A few years ago they were allowed a badge of their own, consisting of an oval vermilion medallion showing a sword between spurs.

LIFE REAPPEARING

The winter snows are gone. The lakes have lost their icy surfaces. People move about more freely and in lighter clothes. Once again the cheery song of the robin is heard. Sweet odors emanate from the forest world. Around the homes gay flowers begin to peep from their beds. Meadows and hills are turning green. The sun retires at a later hour and is more bountiful in its heat. All signs of spring are there. Signs of the closing of another cycle, and the opening of a new, in the life of our world. Nature, like the Son of its Creator, is recovering from the dead and like Him, it seems to take life from its own mysterious way.

Here is a tiny tender blade of grass popping out among a million others. Last summer a sturdy stalk stood in its place. But one day the merciless scythe of the reaper laid it flat on the ground. Outwardly all there was left of it were a few agglomerated particles of dust held together by lifeless fibres. The soil surrounding it froze hard enough to dispel any traces of life remaining. For weeks, and months it lay the cold pressure of a blanket of snow. To all appearances, then, it died. Yet now, after all this deadly work of destruction, our little blade of grass, comes out again, rises from the dead, and, right defiantly, takes its place to stay. What marvelous power in such a tiny thing! And what a lesson of hope it teaches us.

In all this process of general renovation that spring brings about there is a secret feeling of joy that fills our hearts. We are made that the disappearance of life, even in the things of Nature, leaves us sad. But it is always joy when life comes back to earth, however hum and insignificant this new life may be.

Fish and herring are very scarce and the men can hardly get enough of the latter to use for bait. Still the price is no higher than last year yet the price of everything the fisherman has to buy has advanced. Is it any wonder fishermen cannot pay their bills.

Will It Be Fine for the Coronation

Millions of people throughout the Empire will pray that next Wednesday will be a fine and sunny day. The more careful are taking "pluvius policies" to compensate them for loss if it should be spoiled by rain. May was chosen as the Coronation month because of the belief that it offers the best prospect of dry and sunny weather. The wonderful climatic conditions at the Silver Jubilee celebrations in May, 1935, are still freshly remembered in London, and it is to be hoped that similar good luck will attend Coronation week.

The weather clerk has not always been kind on Coronation Day, but, taken on the average, Coronation crowds since William the Conqueror have been fairly lucky. Most Sovereigns have a streak of superstition, and it is recorded that for a whole month before her Coronation Queen Victoria daily told her Maids of Honour that she would be filled with foreboding if the sun did not shine on her on the great day.

When the Sun Burst on Queen Victoria

When the historic morning came—in June, 1838—the sky was dull and overcast, and rain seemed very near. The girl Queen was very disappointed, but to her intense joy, and to that of the enormous crowds, the sun suddenly burst forth as she drove out of the Palace gates. Again, when the Archbishop was actually placing the crown on the Queen's head a shaft of strong sunlight miraculously appeared and illuminated the emblem and the Royal head. The Duchess of Kent, the Queen's mother, was so affected that she burst into tears.

The festivities, and fireworks at the 1838 Coronation were favoured with fine weather, and her young Queen did not conceal her delight at the fact.

The Bad Luck of King Edward VII

Sixty-four years later her son, King Edward VII, was just as anxious over the Coronation weather as his mother had been. Owing to his sudden illness the ceremony was "indefinitely postponed" two days before the date fixed. Ironically enough, the originally arranged day in June, 1902, was one of blazing sunshine and cloudless skies, but the actual date, August 9, turned out dull and rather cold.

The late summer of 1902 was a very disappointing one, and several open-air Coronation celebrations were marred by wind or rain. This fact rather depressed King Edward VII in his weak state, and to some of his close friends he confided his fears that it presaged a short or troublesome reign.

No Superstition About King George V

very little superstition in his make-up, and he was not troubled in the least, apart from the public point of view, when his Coronation Day, in June, 1911, dawned dull, with light rain. In the evening the weather all over the country was wet and stormy. Hundreds of carefully organised bonfires and fireworks displays could not be held, and had to be postponed. Yet, strangely enough, the summer of 1911 was one of the best of the century, and the Royal visits to Scotland, Wales and Ireland were carried out in glorious sunshine.

Charles I and Charles II were very seriously treated by the elements of their respective Coronation days. During the crowning of Charles I, at 2 p.m., precisely, an alarming earthquake shock was felt, and the Abbey rocked unmistakably. As he drove to and from the Abbey there was a curious stillness in the air, accompanied by a strange yellow light. The crowds who saw these things lived to witness the terrible scene in Whitehall, when Charles was beheaded.

His son, Charles II, was little luckier on his Coronation day as regards weather. After several beautiful days the all-important day gave a demonstration of thunder, lightning, and rain without precedent in living memory. The gunfire which was discharged to announce the crowning could hardly be heard above the terrific thunder claps. Rain fell in torrents, and the lightning killed a number of sightseers.

The Banquet in a Furious Storm

During the gorgeous banquet in Westminster Hall which followed the coronation the storm continued with unabated fury and violence. For an April day it was indeed unique, but it did not worry the "Merry Monarch" who ate and drank heartily. The diarist, Pery, however, was much concerned at the unkind himself several times on the trick of the weather clerk, and his diary entries testify to his secret misgivings at the happenings.

James I, first king of the United Kingdom, also faced a great storm when he went to the Abbey for his Coronation, and tradition has it that he crossed himself several times on the way in such a manner that no one but intimates perceived the "papist" gesture. James II had to flee the country, leaving the throne vacant, two years or so after his Coronation. This was marred by a gale of hurricane force. The superstitions made no allowance for this when they saw the flag on the White Tower suddenly split in two, the flag whose hoisting was the signal that the king had been actually crowned.

Stormy Times, Stormy Weather

His successors, William and Mary, were likewise not favoured with good weather at their dual Coronation. Indeed, the weather in England was so uniformly bad all through that remarkable period that the people put it down to Divine wrath at the "Orange usurper" and his Stuart consort! In pre-Reformation times English Sovereigns used to request the bishops to offer up prayers for fair weather on Coronation day.

Henry V omitted to do this, and on the day he was crowned a terrible thunderstorm hit the Abbey with a noise that was heard for miles around.

Kings Don't Yet Rule the Heavens

Records prove, notwithstanding an impression to the contrary, that weather conditions in Britain have not altered materially since the Conqueror's day. It has to be confessed that, with all the ingenuity of modern man, the elements still defy human control, and Sovereigns, like lesser mortals, have to take what comes, even on Coronation day. Nowadays, by means of insurance, loss owing to bad weather can be avoided or mitigated for those financially concerned in such a matter. But, to the millions of sightseers, a fine Coronation day is all important.

Kingly Countenances

What Some Famous British Sovereigns Looked Like

No King in the world has his features so widely reproduced as King Edward VIII. In older days thousands of king's subjects never knew what he looked like. On the Throne of England have sat tall men, short men, handsome men and ugly. Probably King Edward VIII, though by no means diminutive, was one of the smallest of the Kings of England.

Richard the First, was the tallest of our kings, being six feet two inches in height, and very shapely built. He had yellow hair, inclined to red, and fierce, sparkling blue eyes. On the other hand, poor Charles the First, was the shortest of our kings. He stood only five feet five inches in his socks, and was always weak in body. As a child he could not stand until he was five years of age, and in the last few years of his life his halting voice became worse instead of better.

Charles had prominent eyes, a fine nose and soft, silky brown hair, a direct contrast to his great enemy, Cromwell, whose face was swollen and reddish, his clothes badly made and not over clean, and his voice sharp and out of tune.

Rufus of a Ruddy Countenance

Talking of kings with red faces, it has now been definitely established that the reason why William the Second was nicknamed "William Rufus" was because his face was unusually red. For the rest he had his father's grey eyes and hair of a light yellow colour.

William the Conqueror, is said to have had grey eyes, a high forehead, short, dark hair, and an aquiline nose. In his youth he was a tall man, with a fine figure, but later on he became tubby, and seemed to shrink in stature.

Stephen has been described as the handsomest of our kings, being tall, strong, and with bold, flashing eyes. There his virtues end, however, for Stephen was a rotten king.

John the tyrannical, wasn't bad-looking in his youth, we are told, but just before his death he possessed one of the most miserable-looking countenances it is possible to imagine.

A Comely Fighter

As for Henry the Fifth, the greatest fighter who ever occupied the Throne of England, he had a comely face, a long, straight nose, dark brown eyes, smooth hair, and a fresh, ruddy complexion. In figure he was tall and slender, and thus his suit of armour, made of pure gold, made him look almost god-like on his wedding day in June, 1420.

There was never anything so spectacular about his son, however, for Henry VI always dressed very simply. As a young man he had a pale complexion and light brown hair, which he always wore long and cut level with the mouth, and in later life he grew a beard.

The first Yorkist King, Edward the Fourth, was possibly the smartest monarch to ascend the Throne of England. He was nineteen years of age when he became king, and was reckoned at the time to be the handsomest man in Europe. At thirty he had lost most of his good looks and put on a good deal of weight.

Although various portraits of the son of Henry the Eighth attempt to make him look kingly, the truth is that poor little Edward VI was a sulky-looking youngster with a passion for learning and a body wasted by constant illness.

Kings Crowned Twice

During the last two hundred years all Coronations have been held in the summer in order to give the public a good opportunity of viewing the pageantry, but in the Middle Ages the choice of a date was governed by sterner considerations. In some cases there were rival claimants for the Throne, and when a king died the object of his successor was to seize the Crown Jewels and be crowned as quickly as possible.

The shortest interval which elapsed between the death of a king and the coronation of his successor was three days. The monarch who made this record was Henry I, after William Rufus had been shot by an arrow in the New Forest, on August 2nd, 1100. The rightful heir was Robert of Normandy, Henry's elder brother, but Henry bribed the Keeper of the Treasury House at Winchester to hand over the Crown and the Royal Treasure. With a few adherents he rode post haste to London, where the Bishop was persuaded to crown him. The ceremony took place in Westminster Abbey, on August 5th.

Other record makers were Henry VI, and Richard III, who were both crowned twice. After his Coronation at Westminster Abbey, Henry VI, was taken across to Paris and crowned King of France. It was an empty honour, as before many years had passed the English lost most of their Continental possessions and Henry was involved in the Wars of the Roses. Richard III, who murdered his nephew to become King, was crowned at Westminster and also at York, the idea being to impress on the people of the North that he really was King. It is a curious coincidence that the two Kings who were crowned twice both lost their thrones.

Two Kings who ascended the Throne as bachelors were married in the same month as they were crowned. Henry VIII married the first of his wives, Catherine of Aragon, at Greenwich, on June 3rd, and was crowned three weeks later. George III, was crowned a fortnight after his marriage on September 8th, 1761.

Despite being called the "merry month," May has not been popular for Coronations, and King George will be the first monarch for over 700 years to be crowned in that month. The only previous instance was the Coronation of King John in 1199. The most popular month has been October, which has seen four Kings and one Queen crowned in Westminster Abbey, and one King, Henry III, in Gloucester Abbey. At the other end of the scale is March, the only month in which there has never been a Coronation. June, July and September have had four each; January, February, April, August and December three each. The only Coronation in November was that of the boy King, Henry VI. Three monarchs, Edward V, Edward VI, and Edward VIII, were never crowned.

In the old days Coronations were sometimes marred by disorder and even bloodshed; but on the other hand London has witnessed many stirring demonstrations of the citizens' devotion to the Monarchy. There is no doubt that this month King George will see a vaster crowd of loyal subjects than any of his predecessors, even though some of the bygone aids to enthusiasm, such as the filling of fountains with wine, will be missing.

Scallop Market at New Low

Scallop fishing is virtually at an end out of this port for the season of 1936-37. It is reported that scallops are not even wanted on the American markets, some scallopers have received as low as $18 for five barrels of scallops shipped to the Boston market. That sum, and more, have been paid per barrel during the winter months.

Local prices, however, are much better, running about 10 cents per pound, which would figure out about $7.00 per barrel, a low price, but when scallops are plentiful, fishermen who are able to dispose of their scallops locally, claim they can "make wads" at that figure.

The south shore boats have given up for this season. The M. W. Colp, Capt. Colp, having left for Lunenburg about a week ago. The "Little Roy", Capt. Frank Strum, and the dragger operated by Capt. Aubrey Backman, left on Friday last, both to put in at Meteghan to be overhauled before proceeding to their home ports at Liverpool and Lunenburg, respectively.

On Saturday last the "Violetta G.", Capt. Almon Parks, and the "Gilbert M.", Capt. Ivan Alosher, both left for Meteghan and will later proceed to East LaHave and Lunenburg. The "Mule", Capt. Frank Backman, also left for Lunenburg.

Robbery Remembered

The historic English trial of Warren Hastings for bribery and corruption while governor-general of India took place 150 years ago yet as late as the year 1900, when the late King George as Prince of Wales was visiting India, the Maharajah of Benares petitioned him to restore him the lands confiscated from his ancestor by Hastings. No doubt but that a similar petition will be presented the new king when he visits India, after his coronation.

Obituary

Mrs. Martha Blackford

Tiverton was greatly shocked on Monday, May 10th, to learn of the sudden passing of Martha Blackford, widow of the late Joel Blackford. Mrs. Blackford had spent the winter with her two daughters, Mrs. Cleveland Elliott, Beaver Harbour, and Mrs. James Nichols, Saint John. She had not been feeling well for some time, and since returning to her home recently, had suffered a slight heart attack, but was not thought to be serious. On Monday morning neighbors calling at her home found the door locked, and receiving no answer, felt there must be something wrong, and forced the door open. Upon entering they found her face downward on the floor, dead. Dr. A. F. Weir was at once called, but found she had passed away about four hours previous to his call. She was 79 years old. She will be greatly missed by relatives and friends. Left to mourn are: two daughters, Mrs. Cleveland Elliott, Beaver Harbour; Mrs. James Nichols, Saint John; two sisters, one at Springfield, Mass., and Mrs. Stewart Raymond, Digby. Funeral took place Wednesday, from her late home, Rev. Mr. Wakeling, pastor of the Baptist Church, of which she was a member, officiating. Floral tributes were many and beautiful. Mr. George Raymond Elliott and Mr. and Mrs. James Nichols arrived Tuesday to attend the funeral.

Later, a coronation dance was held in the Community Hall. Earlier in the evening the Civic Band presented its first evening open air concert of the season. All the evening events were well attended.

At the theatre there was a special picture, a British film, entitled "Rembrandt," one of the leading pictures of the time. It was a wonderful production and was witnessed by a large audience. The picture was repeated last night.

DIGBY, FRIDAY, MAY 14, 1937

RAILROADS CO-OPERATING

Whole hearted co-operation on the part of railway managements in the present movement toward improving public and private premises in Nova Scotia is announced by Hon. A. S. MacMillan, Minister of Highways.

"I have just received details," the minister said, "of what will be carried out along this line by the Canadian National Railways, in Nova Scotia, during the present year. I can say that an excellent start will be made in improving the appearance of C. N. R. properties. On the South shore particular attention will be given to the railway buildings at Liverpool and Bridgewater. Sixteen railway structures will be painted on the North shore; forty-two in Central Nova Scotia; six in Halifax city; and fourteen in Cape Breton Island. In all, eighty buildings, ranging from stations to tool houses, will be painted on the exterior and a substantial number painted both inside and out. Moreover, a generous degree of attention will be paid to grounds including the care of flower beds and shrubbery.

"The Dominion Atlantic Railway inform me that they are making their usual preparations for the reception of tourist visitors throughout the coming months. Last year's program included repainting many of the station structures, and in addition, this year, special attention is being paid to beautifying the station grounds. Flower beds at such stations as Windsor, Kentville, Annapolis Royal, Digby and Yarmouth have created much favorable comment. Naturally the outstanding contribution to the beauty of this section is Grand Pre Memorial Park with its beautiful floral display which is being added to with each passing year."

NEWSPAPER MISTAKES

"I was misquoted by the press." "That paper, as usual, got things twisted."

How often these, and like sentences, are uttered!

What an easy thing it is to blame the reporter, to blame the editor, to blame the proof reader or to blame someone in the newspaper office!

On the other hand, we would ask, how many people are reliable witnesses? How many people can tell what they said and what they saw five minutes after it all happened?

This query is raised after reading a press dispatch from Minneapolis which states that while sixty-seven policemen listened to a lecture on how to be better policemen, a woman came in and handed Capt. L. E. Bowers, the speaker, a telegram. Later he asked the officers to write a description of the woman.

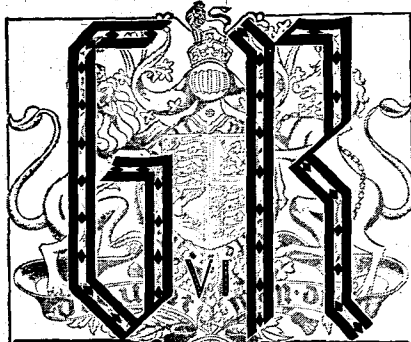

"She was about 20 years old," one wrote, "About 40," said another. "A light blond," was one description, while another officer said she was "quite dark." Only one got all the elements of the description right. He wound up with this line: "She had a run in her right stocking."

Note:—One out of sixty-seven police officers made a correct description of the woman! One out of sixty-seven!

Now if a reporter had taken a story from any one of the sixty-six he would have had things wrong. And back would have come, "that paper never gets anything right."

But who would have been wrong?

And who is wrong most of the times when published statements are not in accord with facts? The chances are the mistake was made outside of the newspaper office. Of course even newspapers make mistakes but they couldn't possibly make all the mistakes that are attributed to them and still keep going.

LIKES THE COURIER

The columns of Digby's six-page paper contain more interesting and worthwhile reading than our thirty-two page local daily ever thought of publishing. The Courier gives us pleasant news, interesting bits from contributors, articles on civic improvement, and last but not least, and all too few, fine, enlightening editorials.

What a relief to find a newspaper that is not mostly concerned with graft, politics and crime.

If you want to make Digby a Mecca for world tourists of the better sort, there is your attraction, and it can't miss. Any place as free of contention and as beautiful as Digby and its surrounding towns, could not fail to please. There is the Utopia Americans dream about, but seldom see. Nova Scotia is a bit of heaven, in a world apart. What more could one ask? Sports might enhance it from the point of view of the restless younger set, but for middle aged business-weary humans, whose nerves are nearing the breaking point, it would not.

I've often wondered why Digby did not extend its advertising for, believe it or not, the average American tourist has never realized such a peaceful place could be, and would rush to see it what we say is true, if he did. Goodness! Seems as though I should apply to the Digby Chamber of Commerce for a commission, or maybe I should forget about it.

It was nice to see another of M. G. T.'s interesting letters and each seems more delightful than the last, if that is possible.

I, for one, agree there are worse things than fishing on Sunday and all who go to church are not saints, at least not in this neck of the woods. As for the fish story we heard one last night that tops that one.

A small boy made a pole and rigged it up with some string and a bent pin. He finally got permission to fish in a brook about half a mile away, on the condition he came home at five o'clock. Finally seven o'clock came and the boy's father started after him. He met the boy half way home, minus fish.

"Didn't you get any fish?" his mother enquired.

"Yep, one big one and one small one," was the answer.

"Did they get away?"

"Nope, I threw them in."

"Why did you do that?" asked his dad.

"Well, I caught the big one with my hand. It was on the bank, asleep, and I wanted to wake him up; and the other was too small to carry home."

Page Mr. Kipling: Fish that sleep on the bank should interest him.

How I do ramble on and always when there is work to be done. Seems I find the most letters to write just when there are dishes to do. Wonder why that is!

Back to the soap suds. Perhaps this idea of a trailer and paper dishes isn't as crazy as it sounds.

1 BIGGER PAYLOADS are provided for by simply changing weight distribution to the extent that the front axle is assigned a bigger portion of the payload.

2 SHORTER LENGTH and greater compactness are achieved by reducing the distance between the back of the cab and the front bumper. From the payload standpoint, space taken up by cab and power plant is dead space. Therefore, any reduction in this dimension becomes profitable load space. Compactness, incidentally, is important where restricted vehicle length is a legal factor.

CHILDREN WARNED AGAINST PICKING UP BLASTING CAPS

Danger to children picking up and playing with carelessly discarded blasting caps, sometimes called dynamite caps, is prevalent at this time of the year, when melting snow again leaves the ground uncovered. Parents should warn their children that if they should find any lying about to leave them alone and in so doing avoid serious, if not fatal accidents.

These little pellets of concentrated power are not likely to be found, of course, in city streets and playgrounds, although there are cases where they have been found in metropolitan areas.

But alongside country roads, in fields recently cleared of obstructions, and in the vicinity of any kind of blasting operation, there is always a chance that children may find these capsules, which have maimed many unfortunates, and have killed others.

The blasting cap is necessary to explode dynamite. And in these days dynamite is used not only in mines and quarries, but by farmers everywhere. It is used to plant young trees as well as blast out stumps, to make new streams and widen old ones. Much of it is used in highway construction.

Therefore the lurking peril of the blasting cap, an instrument painstakingly made safe for those who know its needful purpose and its power, but deadly to the unknowing child or grown person who picks it up and plays with it. For in spite of constant warnings heedless users of these caps do occasionally secrete them in ill-considered places or scatter them carelessly around.

These small aluminum or copper cylinders, bright and shiny, filled with a powerful explosive, and about one-quarter of an inch in diameter, from one to two inches long and resemble an elongated .22-calibre cartridge, except that some have wires attached to them.

One cap can tear a hole through a plate of steel one-sixteenth of an inch thick. A few together can burst their way through a two-inch plank of oak.

If tossed into a fire, a cap will instantly become like shrapnel, whose flying fragments are blinding bits for the eyes of all nearby. If lightly pounded with a hammer or even pried and picked at, they are likely to explode. Then loss of sight or limb, if not of life, is inevitable.

French Revolution.

For nearly a century and a half now men still recall reading of the excesses in the French Revolution, when people were maltreated and killed not because they were aristocrats or against the government, but from motives of revenge, plunder or from sheer lust of blood; and this not for the salvation of France, but for the benefit of a gang of corrupt men, who, according to one of the ablest contemporary witnesses of those days, could claim in Paris no more than some 3,000 adherents.

EXPERT ADDED TO BROWN-HOLDER ORGANIZATION

The Brown-Holder Biscuits Limited of Moncton announce the addition to their already strong staff of an expert soda biscuit maker. As is well known the making of soda biscuit constitutes one of the most difficult problems with which biscuit manufacturers have to deal. The materials must be first class, the ingredients well balanced, the proper temperatures maintained and the baking done to a nicety. The result is delicious soda with a nutty flavor, wonderful color and a delightful crispness and lightness that stamps the perfect biscuit.

The expert, recently secured by the Brown-Holder Company has had fourteen years in the making of sodas and hence brings with him to his new employers a successful experience, that is already making itself felt. Brown-Holder toasted sodas are a credit to the virile industry which in five years has made truly remarkable progress as producers of Maritime Maid Biscuits.

Her Life a Misery Through Backache

Pain So Bad She Could Scarcely Walk

Three years of suffering and then at last—glorious relief! This woman feels it her duty to tell other sufferers how she got back her health. Here in her letter she tells her story:—

"I feel it my duty to tell you how, after nearly three years of suffering with neuritis and backache, I have obtained relief after taking two bottles of Kruschen Salts. I have been in hospital, had radiant heat, etc., but nothing touched it until I read about Kruschen Salts, and the benefits derived from them. I can walk at least three miles a day now, and before I could merely crawl about the house."—(Mrs. A. N. Kruschen)

Kruschen is an excellent diuretic—that is, it helps to stimulate kidney functions. When kidneys are restored to healthy normal action, poisonous waste is properly eliminated, the bloodstream is purified, and you get welcome relief from the dragging pains of backache.

IT TAKES A SPECIALIST!

THE administration of estates is a specialized business. Just as one calls a doctor, a dentist or a lawyer—when in need of one—a Trust Company should be retained in the administration of an estate.

The Trust Company is not only skilled in all the varied phases of estate management, but is permanent, financially responsible, and possessed of all the facilities with which to do the work well. Few private executors are fully capable, and many of them would inadvertently cost an estate large sums through errors in judgment, delays and losses.

The Eastern Trust Company has administered a great many estates, both large and small. Such experience should prove of great value to your beneficiaries. We welcome consultation.

Milton Morgan and Herbert L. A. DeWolfe, of Truro, was Langley left on Monday for a town on Thursday of last week's fishing at the lakes.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

THAT SORE LIP

A newspaper man in a western Ontario town, a man of high intelligence and education, put his cigar as a friend of long standing called to see him. The friend noticed that the editor had a sore on his lower lip. He had had some experience with sores of the kind, for his father years ago had died of cancer beginning as just such a sore and he himself had some years previously developed a cold sore which failed to heal. His doctor told him it was the beginning of cancer, had treated it with radium and the sore had healed up. "What are you doing for that sore on your lip," he said to the newspaper man. "Putting a little salve on it."

was the answer. "It'll be alright," The friend demurred. "If you don't give it better treatment than that," he said, "we'll be coming to your funeral one of these days." "Y' don't think it's a cancer, do you?" enquired the editor. "No," said the other, but it will be one, if you don't look after it better than you're doing." "Huh!" said the editor, "No cancer in my family!"

The friend returned to his home. He had a real affection for the newspaper man. They had, though on different sides of politics, sat in the legislature together. For years they had been close friends. He sat down and wrote to Jim, the editor. He gave him a piece of his mind, told him of his own and his father's experience and urged him to look after the sore.

Some days later, the editor turned up at the friend's office in a large city. "Y' know," he said, "my wife got hold of that letter of yours. She has given me no peace until I decided to come and see you. What should I do about it?"

Fortunately, there was, in one of the local hospitals, some radium. The newspaper man was sent for medical advice, he received a couple of hours treatment with the radium, the sore healed up and has remained healed for the past nine years. The patient has remained well, though he is now over 80 years of age.

Sores on the face, within the mouth and on the lips which do not promptly heal, are often precancerous conditions. They are exceedingly common but are often neglected because the victim is ignorant of the proper course to pursue. If in doubt he should see his family doctor and secure his advice. It is highly dangerous to waste precious time fooling with doubtful remedies or quacks; to be effective treatment must be early. All over Canada, in the larger centres, there are institutes or clinics for cancer treatment. If the patient is able, to do so, he pays for treatment. If he is without means, he will be given treatment equal to the best. No victim is turned away. Don't neglect an unhealing sore or other early sign of cancer.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Temperance Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service Council of the Temperance Alliance)

HOW GET ALONG WITHOUT "DON'T"

Last week's talk ended up with a round of "Don'ts". And of course I am under the censure of some mighty fine people, who have a great aversion to that word. "You must not say 'don't' for it makes people 'do' the very thing 'don't' forbids"—so they argue. Well, suppose we try getting along without that word "Don't" or its equivalent. Then we must take down that "Stop" sign at the street corner; that "Keep off the Grass" notice in the public gardens; that "No Admittance" poster on the door of the factory or the business office. We must wipe off the statute books of the land those seasonal laws that seek to preserve the game life in forest and stream. We will have to declare such a thing as a "Game Sanctuary" utterly impossible. Indeed we must do away with the national boundary lines with all their paraphernalia regarding regulation of trade and immigration. We will have to revise all laws touching the rights of property and personality until we receive out of them the "rights" themselves.

Can you imagine lawyers drafting the laws of the land without a fairly lavish use of words and sentences belonging to the "don't" family? Can you imagine a society without "Don't" somewhere, to inform or warn or regulate? Would we not have indeed a daily bedlam, an eternal pandemonium? And yet one of the alleged charges against the law forbidding the liquor traffic was that the very existence of "prohibition" increased the salaried and increased the drunkenness. Doubtless there were very many good people who were quite sincere in what they thought and said, but I am wondering whether they really went much beyond the surface in their thinking. Certainly they lined up with the larger multitude of those who were simply putting up a bluff, who simply did not want this or any other law that stands in the way of their own desires and ambitions. Repeal prohibition, they said, and illegal selling and drinking will decrease. Prohibition has been repealed. Has illegal selling gone? Has drunkenness decreased?

"TO LONDON TO SEE THE QUEEN"

Bound for London and the colourful ceremonies attendant upon the celebration of the Coronation of H. M. King George VI, 155 High School girls from Canada and Newfoundland sailed from Montreal Friday, April 23, in the Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of Athol.

Traveling under the aegis of the Overseas Education League the students start their tremendous adventure by viewing the Coronation procession from a stand in Hyde Park. Then will follow in quick succession an Empire Youth Rally at the Albert Hall, May 18, the Empire Service of Youth to be held in Westminster Abbey, which will still be in its Coronation trappings, at which the Archbishop of Canterbury and Dean of Westminster will speak, sight-seeing in London, two weeks as guest pupils at famous English boarding schools, and two weeks sea-bathing and hiking interspersed with lectures by noted British authors at Eastbourne. They return to Canada aboard the Empress of Australia from Southampton, June 24, arriving at Quebec July first.

Every province of Canada is represented in the party which represents the pick of Canadian students. An equal number of boys sailed two days earlier and will return aboard the Montevideo from Liverpool, June 23, arriving at Montreal June 30. Educational authorities throughout the Dominion co-operated in the selection of the students. Students who were unable to leave their studies for the coronation will have an opportunity of visiting the Old Country during Coronation year. Boys will leave in the Empress of Australia July 2 for a 57 day tour of Scotland, England and Germany, and girls, specializing on Great Britain, sail from Montreal the same day aboard the Duchess of Bedford. Both tours will be under the direction of the Overseas Education League.

BODY OF AMOS WARNE FOUND IN MALLETT'S LAKE

The body of a man found floating in the waters of Mallett's Lake early Sunday evening, was identified Monday morning as the remains of Amos Warne, the 70 year old Acaciaville farmer, who has been missing since January 21.

Discovery of the remains were made about 7.30 Sunday night by Harold Reicker, while rowing on the lake. He saw what he thought was a human body floating in the water and called B. H. Ruggles, who was in a row boat some 100 yards distant, to confirm his suspicions.

The body was left in the lake over night, and removed to the lake shore early Monday morning, under the supervision of the R. C. M. P.

On the lake shore, at 8 o'clock Monday morning, an investigation into the death was opened by a coroner's jury with Coroner Dr. W. C. Harris, of Barton, presiding. The jury comprised the following: B. A. Roney, foreman; J. M. Wallis, William Oliver, William Winchester, William Tebo, Joshua Height, Stewart Goldsmith, Charles Smith, Barry Smith, Stephen Smith, Frank Hazelton and Vernon Rice.

Four witnesses, H. E. Reicker and B. H. Ruggles, who discovered the body, and Thomas and William Franklin, who identified the remains as that of Amos Warne, were heard, and the coroner's court adjourned to Reen's Undertaking Rooms to sit at 8 o'clock Monday evening. Following a post mortem examination by Drs. W. C. Harris and W. R. Dickie, the court was again adjourned until the night of Thursday, May 27.

Mystery still surrounds the disappearance and death of the deceased. Distance from his home to the bridge at Mallett's Lake was clocked off by an automobile speedometer as seven and one-half miles.

Discovered around the neck of the dead man when the body was removed from the water was a stout piece of heavy iron wire (said to be No. 8 telephone wire). At one end of this wire was a loop to which was apparently attached at one time a bar or weight of some kind. The strand around his neck was loose and not tight, enough to cause death by strangulation, it is said.

Many have expressed opinions the man was dead before the body entered the lake. This theory, as well as others, are being investigated. The result of Monday's post-mortem examination has not as yet been made public.

The remains were interred Tuesday morning in the Hill Grove Baptist cemetery at Acaciaville. The late Mr. Warne was born on the Shelburne Road, Acaciaville, December 12, 1866. He is survived by his widow.

APPLE BLOSSOM FESTIVAL—Elsewhere in this issue is published the programme for the 5th annual Apple Blossom Festival, to be held at Kentville, May 28, 29, 30, 31. On these days, Kentville, and the whole of the Annapolis Valley will be the Mecca of thousands.

In five short years, the Annapolis Valley Apple Blossom Festival has developed into one of the foremost of all celebrations to be held in the Maritimes.

Plans for the programme have been carefully made, in order to give visitors the best entertainment possible during the four days of pageantry.

The festival programme will open at 8 o'clock Friday evening with an impressive Coronation ceremony, when Queen Annapolis Valley will be crowned. The queen will be selected from princesses, who will represent various sections of the valley district.

During the Festival days the apple trees, of which the valley is noted the world over, will be in full blossom, the whole valley will be literally a forest of pink and white apple blossoms, presenting a panorama which cannot be surpassed.

Whatever you do, plan to "take in" the Annapolis Valley Apple Blossom Festival at Kentville, May 28, 29, 30, 31.

A SPIDER'S EYE-VIEW

He was a rather small, gray spider, and he decided to climb the walls of the great cathedral. He had heard that it was the most magnificent building in all the country, and he aspired to see it clear to the top.

It seemed strange to him when he began the ascent that the stones should have been left so rough. There were places where they were so irregularly hewn that with all six of his legs, he had great difficulty in climbing.

The joints between the stones, too, were entirely too wide. In some places the mortar had fallen out and he had to make long detours to get around the holes and continue upward. And they had allowed a lot of ivy to grow on the walls of the cathedral. This made such a tangle that it was almost impossible for him to clamber through.

He finally gave up all thought of seeing the splendid edifice when he was only ten feet from the ground. The roof of his life he told other spiders that the building was much overestimated, and that if it had any beauty, he had been unable to discover it.

He knew nothing of the magnificent spires which pointed eternally upward, directing men toward God. He knew nothing of the glorious, stained glass windows through which the sun painted yet other pictures on the cathedral floors. These had no meaning for the spider, because his whole attention was fixed on the small defects which had momentarily impeded his progress.

Aren't there many of us who are taking a spider's eye-view of life? Aren't we permitting our own little two-by-four disappointments to obscure the beauty, the grandeur of living?

Don't be a human spider.

THEY SAY

One of the poorest authorities for any statement is "They say," and yet it is one of the most frequently given by many of us. "They" can be anybody and nobody, and "say" may be what was really said or not. "A friend of mine" would be more satisfactory, but not wholly so. Too many times the phrase "They say" is used to imply that others have said what the speaker himself only says, he not wishing to assume full responsibility.

"They say" does not go in courts, nor does it appear in reputable newspapers—in the one it is what the witness knows and in the other scrupulous care is taken to give exact authority. And why should not such rules apply also to persons in ordinary conversation?

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

NOSE BLEEDS

Stop those repeated nose bleeds before you lose your job. Business today demands a great deal if you are to keep your head above the tide and you cannot do this when your health is being undermined by frequent hemorrhage from the nose. Often the cause and remedy are so simple, too. A small blood vessel towards the front of the nose bursts its wall and bleeds for awhile. Soon it stops, but before it is completely healed it breaks through at the same place again, and this may occur a number of times. Your doctor can cure these nose bleeds by sealing off the offending blood vessel with some form of cauterization. It takes but a short time and is usually painless.

When you are faced with the alarming picture of blood pouring from the nose what are you to do? Well, first of all do not

COFFEE

The Favorite Blend of the Maritimes

plug the nose with anything, as this merely causes further injury to the broken wall of the bleeding vessel. Tight pressure with the finger on the outside of the nostril which is bleeding will usually control the hemorrhage in about five minutes.

All nose bleeds, of course are not due to bleeding vessels at the front of the nose. Common causes in children are adenoids and foreign bodies, such as beads and buttons. These usually cannot be discovered except by your doctor, who also can remove the cause and so stop the bleeding.

Some adults suffer from high blood pressure which indirectly may be the source of the repeated nose bleeds. Here the blood from the nose is a warning that other trouble is present and the sign should not be neglected. In older people growths in the nose cause irregular bleeding and the sooner the tumour is discovered and treatment begun, the greater the chance of cure.

So it is very important that all persons suffering from repeated nose bleeds should be examined by their doctor in order to find out the cause and to commence treatment before too much damage is done.

Questions concerning health addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

PROTEST AGAINST BOOST

A delegation of motorists of New York State which went to Albany last month to protest against boosting the state gasoline tax to 4 cents presented a convincing list of reasons why they shouldn't be singled out as victims of a budget-boistering tax grab.

Whether one agrees with what they said is beside the point. One of the brass tax arguments, however is something tax authorities might consider. Jas. J. Cotter, a publisher of automobile trade magazines, presented figures that showed reduction of the tax to 3 cents increased consumption of gasoline more than 13,000,000 gallons a month resulting in employment of 2,300 men; while boosted gas taxes in other states caused business to fall off from 10 to 20 per cent, with corresponding recovery when the extra cent was removed.

Even hard-pressed governments can't afford to forget the fable of the goose and the golden eggs. Taxation may defeat its own purpose, a circumstance that enlightened self-interest should seek to avoid. This is altogether apart for the larger economic considerations involving unemployment.

room." These drifters usually stayed around and developed the habit of eating with the crew.

Slept In Engine Room

"One fellow slept in the engine room for two weeks and had his three meals a day during that time," said the vessel's mistress. "The only thing that worried me was that he might claim wages, too."

Unlike Mrs. Cheney, the ship's mascot hates the sea. The mascot is Teddy, small dog which came aboard the coaster last September, in Boston. He has yet to gain his sea legs. Every time the vessel leaves port, hits open water and begins to roll, Teddy creeps into a corner and begins to show symptoms. His nose becomes dry and he starts to swallow. Then he looks pleadingly at Mrs. Cheney, staggers to his feet and makes for the door.

"When he gets outside he becomes very human, indeed," said the skipper's wife. "After that he's all right — until the next trip."

Teddy's tail forms a bushy question mark. He has a pointed face, smooth close hair and a fawn color. "I think that he's a thoroughbred of some sort," said Captain Cheney, a bit uncertainly.

Harris, Mrs. Wesley Milberry and Miss Emma VanBaskirk.

CORONATION DAY

Coronation Day was celebrated in Bear River all through the day, the village being nicely decorated with flags and bunting. The first public exercise was at nine o'clock at Oakdene School, when Major A. M. Simons, Chairman of the Trustees, gave the opening address, with reminiscences of his visit to London for the Coronation of King George V. Rev. C. P. Henderson, pastor of the Advent Church, was the special speaker, following which, Major Simons presented the medals to the school children. On behalf of the Bear River Women's Institute Mrs. A. R. Campbell, the president, presented a large Union Jack to Oakdene school, to be flown for the first time in honor of the Coronation. All then went outside for the "breaking of the flag" to the salute of the children and singing of the National Anthem.

In the afternoon at 1.30, under the auspices of the Legion, No. 22, a large parade formed at the Baptist church, and headed by the color bearer and escort, the war veterans, girl guides and Brownies, boy scouts and cubs, all in uniform, and school children, carrying their colors and standards, marched to Oakdene Hall, where other citizens had already assembled. The auditorium was filled to overflowing, and those taking part were Rev. F. C. Burnett, president of the local Legion; Rev. A. W. L. Smith, Rev. D. Tupper, Rev. S. Steeves, Rev. C. P. Henderson and Rev. Wilfred Howard, assisted by a combined choir. At three o'clock the king's message was received by radio, installed on the stage, following which the gathering dispersed.

Oakdene Hall was gaily trimmed with flags for the evening when the Women's Institute sponsored an entertainment and dance. Opening number was a beautifully planned tableau, depicting the king and queen, the little princesses, the king's East Indian bodyguard, the army and navy, with "Britannia" standing behind the throne proudly holding the Union Jack. Fred R. Harris sang "The Veteran's Song" in splendid voice during the tableau. Miss Catherine Jefferson, as Britannia, gave a reading, "The Future" followed by the Institute chorus singing Rule Britannia. In honor of Queen Elizabeth, the little Misses Winnifred and Diana Wallis danced the Highland Fling. Others on the programme were John Harrow, who gave a splendid reading; Easterby Sloan, in Scots songs and the Institute chorus with Mrs. A. M. Simons as soloist. A very pretty spring flower pageant, well staged, was repeated by request. Mrs. Harry Wallis, who planned the tableau and pageant and directed them, deserves high praise. Light refreshments were served and the Grand March was led by the king (John Harris) and queen, (Virginia Yorke). Then dancing was enjoyed until midnight, the music being supplied by the local (Bear River) orchestra.

The Women's Institute take this opportunity to express their appreciation of support given them on this occasion. The proceeds are being divided between the library fund of Oakdene School, and replenishing needs of the Bear River room, Digby General Hospital.

It was a day to be remembered by young and old, beautiful and ther in a beautiful country. The Switzerland of Nova Scotia has beauty which is seldom equalled and less often surpassed.

HAS FINE MOTOR BOAT

The Kingston (Ont.) Whig-Standard, in its Sports Comments, has the following to say about Dr. L. B. Rook (formerly of Bear River), and his cabin cruiser:

"Dr. L. B. Rook is an example of a typical sailor as he works on the job of re-painting his big raised deck cabin cruiser. Like other sailors the Doc digs into the work like any laborer, helping with the scraping as the old paint is peeled off of a new white surface, he toils with sand paper to help model new wood fittings, checks the hull as carefully as any surgeon would a patient and he's another yachtsman who enjoys the job."

"Next season the Rook cruiser will float under the name of Diamond, called after the skipper's four-year-old daughter, Diana Mary. The craft was formerly known as the LeTrident."

Temperance Table Talks

DRINKING ON THE INCREASE

I have been dipping into some facts and figures regarding the temperance situation in the United States. The argument used by the Repealists was that if prohibition were repealed then drunkenness would decrease. Well, repeal has become a fact for about four years, but what about the decrease in drunkenness? Here are a few samples gathered from reliable sources. In Washington, D.C., the arrests for drunkenness in 1935 marked an increase of 48 per cent over those of 1932, before repeal, while among these the women drunkards had increased 54 per cent. Recently, orders have been given to the police not to arrest drunkards unless they are disorderly. Washington is about to establish an inebriate farm with capacity for 200 daily.

The Inebriate Farm in Minnesota had 224 inmates during 1932, before repeal; in 1935, after repeal, there were 385, an increase of over 71 per cent. The State Hospital for the Insane at Fergus Falls, Minnesota, had an increase of 300 per cent in alcoholic admissions the first year of repeal. Comparing 1936 (year with 1930) (dry) in the California mental hospitals, there was an increase of over 155 per cent. The New York Times for July 27, 1936, said that the "alcoholic admissions to Bellevue Hospital (New York City) are increasing by leaps and bounds." The Boston Daily Globe for November 21, 1936, said that "with alcoholism increased to such an extent, it is the greatest and most expensive problem in the city hospital."

Insurance companies in the United States report that the percentage number of drinkers among applicants under 30 years of age was almost three times as many in 1936 as in 1922, while the drinkers among applicants over 30 had doubled their percentage. It is hard to get away from the merciless logic of such facts as these. If some argued that prohibition was responsible for so much drinking while in force, then what is responsible for so much drinking now, when prohibition has gone? It is plain that we have not yet solved the problem of the drink evil. Wanted — a twentieth century Moses to lead this generation out of the slavery of the drink evil into the promised land of freedom, absolute freedom, from the drink evil!

Kept From His Ship by Sciatica

Sailor Who Could Hardly Walk for Pain

"I am a seaman," he writes, "and have travelled all over the world in sailing ships. Some time ago I was taken bad with sciatica and rheumatism. If I went out I had to rest two or three times before I got home. One day an old mate of mine asked me what was the matter, and he said 'get some Kruschen Salts.' So I got some and I am pleased to say I felt a great ease. After continuing for a week, I was a great deal better and on the Saturday 'was back on my ship'—T. R. W.

The pains of rheumatism and sciatica are frequently caused by too much uric acid accumulation in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are notable for their work in dissolving uric acid and other ingredients of these Salts assist the internal organs to eliminate the dissolved uric acid from the system.

GIVE PEOPLE WHAT THEY WANT

In order to win true success we must give people what they want. We are all, more or less, servants of others. People have their whims, are gullible, sensitive, perhaps unreasonable, but they know what they want, whether they are right or wrong. Such desires must be satisfied, if right and reasonable.

There is such a thing as endeavoring to give people what they ought to have. That is a greater quest than giving them what they want, but if it is possible to change their viewpoints and get them to come around to what we think is truth, well and good. But even then they will still demand what they want—and will want what they ought to have.

Successful commercial men are ever studying the buying mind. They strike the law of averages and conduct their business accordingly. They know that people are creatures of habits, they ascertain what those habits are, and are then quick to sense a change of habits. They do not persist in old methods of obsolete technique, but they move with the buying public, sometimes keeping a pace or two ahead and frequently foreseeing a changing mood.

The public official knows full well that remaining in "office" depends upon his ability to satisfy his constituents. Many times he is tempted to air his personal views, arrogate credit for this reform or that one, or antagonize those of opposing convictions. But if he is wise he will be a servant of those who elected him, and the majority cannot be wrong: always or even for long.

As a matter of fact, the majority should be listened to, as a general rule. This does not mean a perilous compromise, does not mean surrender of moral principle, nor bartering with integrity; but it means taking the lead in the forward march toward march with the force that are emancipating and improving the race. Some call this leadership, but it is everybody's privilege.

People want results, even though they may not be able always to state what they want. Hundreds of baffling world problems have not yet been solved. Many cures for insidious diseases have not yet been discovered. There are bacilli to be slain. There are shorter cuts, time-saving devices to be found, better ways of doing the world's work. This machine age may have thrown some people out of work, but there is a crying demand for those who know how to build machinery, and better machinery, and new machinery to replace what is worn out. The world ever moves onward and upward.

Ever and anon are there those needed who will gather up the raw materials of nature—electricity, iron, steel and other potential elements and put them to use. Civilization will be indebted to those who will rise to their opportunity in this transitional period and give the world what it ought to have—which is what it wants. In this lies every man's opportunity.

END OF SCALLOP SEASON

Monday will be the last day of the 1936-37 scallop season, although the number of craft that "have stuck to the end" is few, in comparison with the number of boats which operated out of this port and other ports in the vicinity along the Bay of Fundy ports this winter.

During the past month, although scallops have been fairly plentiful, the price has been very low—the American markets practically closed. The few boats that remained on the job sold for the most part, to local buyers.

The south shore boats left early in one month, and the greater part of that fleet will go sword-fishing off the Cape Breton coast this summer. The Winnie Flo, the new boat built for Captain John Smith this last summer is out-going for handlining.

The scallop catch this season was up to the average in quantity, but the average price was not so good. As usual, adverse weather conditions during the winter months, worked to the disadvantage of the fishermen, and huge catches when weather conditions were at their best, tended to glut the market and bring the prices down.

Jury Asks Investigation in Death of Acaciaville Farmer

The investigation of a coroner's jury into the death of Amos Warne, the 70-year-old farmer, whose body was found in Mallett's Lake, South Range, on the evening of May 17, concluded last evening, when the jury brought in their verdict, as follows:

"We, the jury empanelled to enquire into the death of Amos Warne, do agree that said Amos Warne came to his death between January 19 and May 17, 1937, by causes unknown to us and would recommend an investigation."

Byron Roney was foreman of the jury and Coroner W. C. Harris, M. D., of Barton, presided over the adjourned inquest, which was held in Keen's Mortuary Chapel.

Only two witnesses, Dr. R. Dickie and Mrs. Annie May Warne, wife of the deceased, were examined. The report of the provincial pathologist, Dr. Ralph Smith, Halifax, was also read to the jury.

When the enquiry began ten days ago four witnesses were heard at Mallett's Lake, namely, Harold E. Reicker and H. H. Ruggles, who discovered the remains; Thomas Franklin, of Acaciaville, who Warne had helped load wood on the afternoon of January 19, and who, with William Franklin, of Acaciaville, identified the remains.

In his evidence Dr. Dickie told of the autopsy held May 17, and of the condition of the remains and various organs. He stated that in his opinion the man came to his death by strangulation and not by drowning, and that it was quite evident he did not breathe or swallow after he entered the water.

Examination of the lungs revealed no free fluid in either of the lungs or lung cavity; neither was there any water in the stomach, thus he could not have breathed or swallowed while in the water, the scalp examined at the autopsy showed no signs of fracture; the head and face were bloated somewhat. The bloating, the doctor stated, may have been caused by strangulation, or may

IMPORTANT CASES BEFORE SUPREME COURT

At the conclusion of the spring session of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court, on Wednesday, Harold Simms, of Conway, was sentenced by his lordship, Mr. Justice Hugh Roberts, to ten years in the penitentiary at Dorchester, and on lashes, the lashes to be administered at one time. Simms pleaded "Guilty" on Tuesday to the crime of having carnal knowledge of a girl under 14 years of age, not his wife. The girl involved was his step-daughter.

In the case of the King vs. Edward V. Cromwell, of Danvers, charged with arson, Cromwell was acquitted by the jury who deliberated on his case for about three hours. This case was opened Tuesday morning; witnesses were heard during the day, and the solicitors addressed the jury Wednesday. E. J. Theriault, Digby, was counsel for the prosecution, and R. W. E. Landry, K. C., Yarmouth, for the defence.

The prosecution charged that on the 14th day of July, 1936, Cromwell set fire to a dwelling occupied by him at Danvers. The deed for the property was held by George Gilliland, New Edinburgh, who held same under an agreement of sale, dated September, 1930. By this agreement Cromwell was to pay Gilliland $5,000 for the property with interest at the rate of 10 per cent. At the time of the fire Gilliland testified Cromwell owed him $654.75. The building was insured for $500.

Cromwell was acquitted by the petit jury who returned with a verdict of "Not Guilty." The jury was made up of the following: Stillman Jones, foreman; Roy Sypher, Stewart Small, W. Aulien, Leslie Lucas, Thomas P. Rowlett, Arthur Brown, Jesse Marshall, Lesine Gaudet, Frank Height, C. F. McDormand and Arthur Hargis.

The Grand Jury, who returned true bills on the only two cases to come before the session, comprised the following: William Turnbull, foreman; Randolph Payson, Wallace Wright, Harry Smith, Adolph Speight, Frank Thibault, Clifford Amaro, Herbert Jefferson, H. H. Syda and Clare Eldridge.

Miss Morehouse is the daughter of Emilee Bond Morehouse and Ada Ernestine (Cossaboom) Morehouse. She resides at 24 Fremont Street, Yarmouth, Mass.

In another column R. W. E. Landry, K., senior member of the firm of Landry & Judge, a Yarmouth, announces the retirement of Mr. Judge from that firm. Mr. Landry however will continue the business of the firm and associated with him will be Mr. Irving C. Pink, K.C., L.L.B., who for several years past has been indirectly connected with the firm.

Mr. Pink graduated from Dalhousie Law School in 1936 with distinction, and while at Dalhousie was a member of a number of the University's debating teams and accompanied by an associate in 1935 won the Canadian Radio Commission Debating Trophy for Eastern Canada, and during 1935-36 he was editor of the Dalhousie Students' publication known as the Dalhousie Gazette. Since his association with the late firm of Landry & Judge, Mr. Pink has been very successful in the trial of many cases entrusted to him and gives promise of a bright future. Mr. Pink shows a great interest in the affairs of the town and is a member of the Y's Men's Club and the Little Theatre Guild.

Mr. Landry has been active in legal practice for 26 years, and apart from devoting his time to general business has been a member of the Town Council and of the Local Legislature. He has always taken a great interest in those matters that pertained to the welfare of the town and province. The new firm for the present will be known as Landry & Pink, and will continue to carry on a general legal practice in connection with insurance, real estate and a separate collecting department. The new firm is wished every success.

HOW TO BUILD UP YOUR TOWN

The following excellent piece of advice on "How to Build Up a Town" has been clipped from an exchange, and is well worth following by the citizens of any town who really want to see their community advance:—

Talk about it.
Write about it.
Speak well of it.
Help to improve it.
Beautify the streets.
Patronize its merchants.
Advertise in its newspapers.
Elect good men to all offices.
Speak well of its enterprising public spirited citizens.
If you don't think of any good word to say, don't say anything bad about it.
Remember, every dollar you invest in a permanent improvement is that much on interest.
Be courteous to strangers that come amongst us, so that they go away with good impressions.
Always cheer up the men who go in for improvements: your portion of the cost will only be what is just.
Don't kick about any necessary public improvement because it is at your own door of fear that taxes may be raised a few cents.
Above all never spend a dollar out of town that you can use for the same purpose in town. Buy your goods, employ labor, pay your taxes at home.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

INDIGESTION

Everybody, at some time or other, has suffered from indigestion. It is, perhaps, the most common of all complaints, yet it is not a disease in itself. Rather it is a loose term with no definite meaning, for it is used to indicate digestive discomforts which may arise from a score or more of different causes.

The patient is conscious of pain, of bloating, of discomfort, of "heart burn" or acid eructations, of belching, of nausea, or of constipation. In one patient, a combination of several of these symptoms may be due to a gastric ulcer; the same symptoms in another may be due to a diseased gall-bladder, or to a type of appendicitis, or to a general sagging of the abdominal organs, or to anxiety and worry.

The experienced physician can usually find the cause although in obscure cases, sometimes only after careful X-ray and other examinations and tests.

With gratuitous advice thrust upon one from every angle, including the urgent entreaties of well-meaning but uninformed friends, the sufferer is apt to try many useless remedies and, in the long run, spend considerably more money than were good advice obtained early and perhaps find the opportunity for a speedy cure irretrievably lost.

Sometimes the symptoms do yield readily to simple remedies. Over-acidity and certain kinds of pain may yield to baking soda, for instance, but the real underlying cause may go on undetected. In fact, acidity in the stomach is needed for digestion and its complete neutralization by alkalis only causes further indigestion.

Because of the danger of ulcers, cancerous growths, gall-bladder disease, appendicitis and other serious conditions, early, accurate diagnosis cannot be stressed too strongly. At the same time, one should not become a nervous wreck from worrying over these less common conditions, for a great many cases of indigestion—the large majority—are due to simple causes and easily corrected. Over-eating, rapid eating, bolting of food, over-seasoning, over-smoking, unnoticed air-swallowing while eating, washing food down with liquids—all cause indigestion. Constipation may be the main factor. Sometimes roughage in food does more harm than good to those with sensitive "spastic" intestinal tracts. Each person must determine what should be avoided and should not let politeness over-ride his judgment.

Above all, do not fear the truth—it is much more likely to ally rather than confirm your fears.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

CONCERNING BEAUTY

It has been said that in photography an artistic picture is a thing beautifully photographed, rather than a beautiful thing photographed.

Essentially true, but regardless of subject, it can't be done unless the photographer can perceive some beauty in the "thing." The "thing" may be just a piece of rope, a cracker barrel or an old shoe, but in certain surroundings and portrayed under the effect of the right lighting, it may truly reveal beauty and make an artistic picture.

There is no rule of photography for discovering beauty, nor any fixed criterion of what is artistic. Fundamentally, it's "every man for himself" in those respects, but there are certain sound admonitions that must be observed if you wish to make a picture that will be generally acclaimed as artistic, unless, of course, you prefer to join the fancy-free surrealistic school of art and take your chances. Briefly, these admonitions are as follows:

1. Provide every picture with a single, dominant idea that will easily be comprehended by anyone to whom the picture is shown. The idea should be expressed by a principal object. Avoid divided interest. Exclude elements that distract attention from the principal one.
2. See that the setting is in harmony with the principal subject and surrounds it with an atmosphere that contributes to emphasizing the main idea, or at least does not detract from it.
3. Work for well-balanced composition in your viewfinder before you let the picture through your lens. Generally the dominant subject should not be in the center. Experiment with your viewpoint.
4. Study the light and shadow areas. Observe their relation to the principal subject. Consider the strength and sharpness of the shadow contrast. Note especially the highlights. It is the effect of shadows and highlights that often gives beauty to an ugly object.
5. Allow ample exposure to bring out desired details.

The artistic effect in the case of many subjects often may be improved by the use of a color filter over the lens, or by a pictorial diffusion disk. Again it may be improved

How a rusty, old chain and anchor can reveal beauty—or what do YOU think?

In various ways in the process of printing or enlarging, such as "dodging" to lighten or subdue the lighting of certain areas, by making portions of the negative, or by trimming the print. Also it may be improved by choosing a printing paper with a surface best suited to the subject.

In employing these devices it is again "every man for himself," but remember they will surely serve if there was an original beauty in the composition of the picture when it was framed in your viewfinder.

Old Lady Tells Secret of Her Vigor

The writer of the following letter once suffered from rheumatism, headaches, and depression. Then one day a vigorous old lady told her the secret of good health. And now that former sufferer writes to tell others how she obtained relief through Kruschen:—

"Kruschen was recommended to me by an old lady of seventy-two, who can dance the Highland Fling—thanks to Kruschen, which she has used for thirty years. She told me to take Kruschen Salts to try and relieve a dull heavy headache from which I suffered nearly every morning on wakening. I was also troubled with rheumatism in both shoulders. Kruschen turned the trick. The headache disappeared and so did the rheumatism. I have continued taking Kruschen and intend to keep it up."

(Mrs.) F. E. W.

Kruschen is a combination of mineral salts which assist in stimulating your liver, kidneys and digestive tract to healthy, regular activity. They ensure internal cleanliness, and thus help to keep the blood-stream pure.

Canadian Pacific New Freight Service

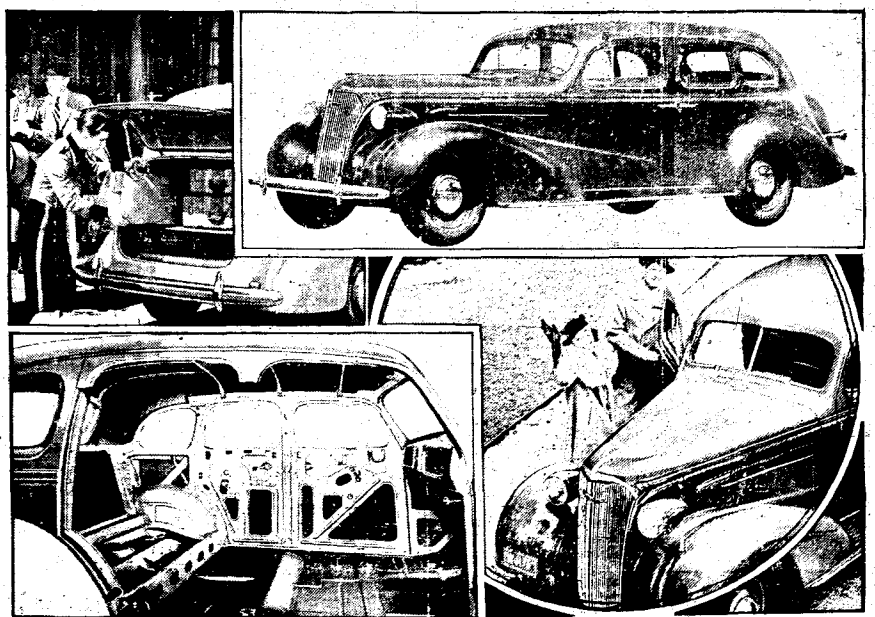

Montreal freight shippers are enjoying the fastest pick-up and delivery service in Canada since the inauguration of the Canadian Pacific Railway's new Cartage Department for the pick-up and delivery of railway freight.

Ninety-two brand new trucks, of a heavy type, from two to five tons, were bought especially for this new Canadian experiment, which is destined to handle freight with all the speed and efficiency of express shipments. Built for local delivery and pick-up of freight, in carload lots or less, the 52 trucks form a rapid and steady stream of communication between the Canadian Pacific freight sheds in Montreal and the city's shippers. By eliminating much of the handling of freight and installing the Canadian Pacific motto for fast service into this end of freight traffic, the new trucks are speeding up the service to a degree previously unknown. Although this service has also been introduced to Ottawa and Sherbrooke, Montreal will be the main testing grounds.

Illustrations above show a section of the line of trucks at Pacific Express freight sheds in Montreal, two of the trucks being loaded from the warehouse, and a road truck on its way to the door of some business house.

Beauty Suppressed

Nature can present no finer spectacle than a beautiful May morn. What tranquility and serenity, and beauty in these early hours of the day when a clement sun spreads out its warmth over glittering lakes and fresh green meadows, and merry birds welcome the day with their gleeful notes. The air seems to have become some mystical and invisible fluid that penetrates all living beings, bringing them a message of new hope. And perhaps it is in that very message that the real beauty of the whole picture lies—a new beauty. After so many days of biting cold and raw winds and general bareness, this first spring day is to us what the oasis is to the weary traveller of the desert. There will be many other beautiful days in the summer, but none will ever compare with this youthful May day, because none will ever afford the same contrast with the vanishing cold season.

This is a universal law in life. Were all the days of the year perfect days, we would not appreciate their beauty. But let us have two or three disagreeable days in succession and then we realize how beautiful a sunny day is. A good many days in our lives are darkened by sorrow and disappointments, but let some comforting tidings come along and then we are happy and do we find the day a bright one? People who shun responsibilities, and the burdens of life never feel the pang of those overwhelming joys, for they have never felt the pang of deep sorrow. This is why the idle person is never really happy. That is why the mother, in spite of her many cares and duties, is still far happier than the woman whose sole ambition is to be admired at night clubs. Again, to come back to our main thought, we may fail to see the beauty that land may afford, but let us be out on the sea for some time and upon returning we shall see beauty that we never noticed before. To the fisherman who, for days and days, is trapped in dense fog and rough seas in his little schooner, the most rugged and desolate point of land is just as welcomed by him as was the first strip of land to Columbus or Noah.

So in all things we see that it is good for us that beauty and joy be momentarily taken away from us so that we may the better realize what we have received and how beautiful beauty is.

SCALLOP FISHERMEN'S PREDICAMENT

(Montreal Standard)
The scallop fishermen of the Bay of Fundy now find themselves in such an extraordinary situation that the question of bringing that branch of the fisheries under regulations in the interests of conservation has been raised with a vengeance.
The price of scallops has slumped to 80 cents a gallon, and dealers in the United States have been telling Canadian fishermen that they do not want consignments even at that price. At times the price of scallops has run up to $5 per gallon, and $2.50 has been a common price.
Recent discoveries of new beds of scallops in the Bay of Fundy has led to gross over-production, with the consequent crash in price. It is not many years ago that the dredging of scallops in commercial quantities began in the Bay of Fundy, and definite knowledge of the extent of the beds there is lacking. But it is known that it does not take much dredging to seriously deplete the scallop beds and that the process of reproduction is slow. Also, it has been brought home to the fishermen in a painful manner that the market for scallops, which is mainly in the United States, is limited.
Now they face the question as to whether it would be better to have the fishery brought under regulations limiting catches to maintain decent prices and assure the conservation of the supply, or to pursue a policy of overfishing with the risk of ruining another natural resource; a policy which, in any case, would require them to work for nothing, for the benefit of consumers in other countries.

HOLD TWO IN ALLEGED THEFT

The sum of $45 alleged to have been stolen from the residence of Maude Harris, bund farmer, on the Light House Road, was located by the police on Tuesday. The money was reported stolen Sunday, and two Halifax youths, John Tanner, 19, and Thomas Knox, 16, arrested the same day, are being held in the Digby jail.

On Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Harris attended service at the Salvation Army, and returning home found their house ransacked and a pocket book containing $45.50 missing. All out 50 cents of this amount was in bills; two United States quarters made up the fifty cents. The men were rounded up, and although they claimed on their arrival to be penniless, two American quarters were found in their possession. They denied knowledge of the break, and claimed the 50 cents as their own money. However, they were taken to jail on suspicion.

On Tuesday morning they called police to the jail, and were taken from the building, leading the officers to the pocket book with $45 in bills. They will be given a preliminary hearing this afternoon.

Last summer the two had been befriended by the Harris', who gave them shelter at their home.

There was a definite crease all the way around the dead man's neck, which, he said, was more than likely made by the wire found there when the body was taken from the water. Jurymen who viewed the remains, remarked on the slackness of the wire, and asked the doctor if the loose wire would cause strangulation.

To this, Dr. Dickie answered, it could with a weight, should the body fall in such a manner as to allow the weight to draw the wire tight across the windpipe, and thus cut off the air making it impossible for the man to swallow.

The doctor also described a bandage around the left wrist of the deceased which covered a chafe or a number of small boils.

Mrs. Warne, when called to give evidence, told of her husband going to the barn about 8:30 and remaining there until 10 o'clock on the night of January 21, and stated he had not been in the habit of going to the barn after supper. On his return to the house she did not ask him any questions for owing to a hoarse condition caused by cancer, he found it difficult to speak. She said he had not been normal for about a week, and at times seemed out of his head and flighty. Shortly after he came in, she said, he put the pup to bed, then undressed and retired; lying in his bed for a few minutes, got up and dressed and left the house, warning her not to let Arch. Oliver around the place. No further words were spoken. She testified that there were no sores on her husband's wrist, nor was there any bandage when she last saw him.

The report of the provincial pathologist stated no water was found in the lungs or stomach, neither were there traces of poison in the stomach content. The report stated death may have been caused by asphyxiation due to strangulation.

WHY C.C.M. BICYCLES EXCEL ALL OTHERS

Strong Enough to Stand a Baby Elephant

For many years the Canada Cycle and Motor Company have tried and tested numbers of different kinds of finish and equipment. The tough brilliant finish that, if reasonably taken care of, will last for years is the result of trials of many products and the proper heat treatment of them. The lasting highly polished nickel was made to keep its shine by first heavily coating the nickel parts with pure copper and then with a thin layer of chrome. The very easy running qualities of C. C. M.'s are due to the experiments of years in the shape of the forks and the setting of the hanger and rear wheels. The setting of the hanger is most important in order that the pedalling power is all used to drive the bicycle and not to rock the crank axle. You can't go wrong when you buy a C. C. M.

Remember the Date

On Thursday evening of next week, the Boy Scouts and Cubs, under the direction of Mr. J. J. Harris, will present two plays, "The Back Door Belle" and "Boots", in the community hall. The object is a worthy one—every effort to aid the Boy Scouts and similar organizations in their work are deserving of the patronage of the town's people.

HAD RHEUMATIC PAINS FOR 52 YEARS

His Arms Were Becoming Useless

It was about 25 years ago that rheumatism first marked down this sufferer; and finally the day came when he could hardly lift his arms. But he found relief here in his letter he tells the whole story—

"About 25 years ago I first experienced slight muscular rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. A few years later lumbago also attacked me. They gradually got worse until the pain got acute in both arms and loins. I could not lift a jugful of water with my arm extended straight out. About 12 months ago I bought a bottle of Kruschen Salts and by the time it was finished I was agreeably surprised at a slight improvement. I bought another one, and when that was finished all the pain had disappeared, and has never appeared since."—T. R.

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently caused by deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. The numerous salts in Kruschen assist in stimulating the internal organs to healthy, regular activity, and help them to eliminate this excess uric acid.

Mrs. Muriel McNab, son Earle, of Boston, and Mrs. Davidson, of Dartmouth, arrived home on Friday, called by the serious illness of their father, Gus. Dum.

"How do you keep your outhouse clean?"
"I use GILLETT'S EYE regularly... It keeps things clean and sanitary"

Outside closets kept clean this easy way!

THERE'S no risk of offensive outhouse odors when you use Gillett's Pure Flake Lye regularly. Just sprinkle half a tin over contents of closet—once a week. There's no need to remove contents—Gillett's does it for you.

Gillett's Lye in the household saves hours of heavy work—clears clogged drains, scours dirty pots and pans, quickly flushes away ugly toilet stains. Keep a tin handy.

Your Right and Your Responsibility!

If you are a British Subject of the full age of 21 years, and have resided in Nova Scotia for at least twelve months prior to the issuance of the Writ of Election on May 21st, 1937, you are entitled (subject to a few statutory exceptions) to vote at the forthcoming Provincial Election.

In order to ensure accurate and impartially prepared lists of voters, changes of vital importance have been made by the present Liberal Government in the Provincial Franchise Act. This has been done to eliminate the possibility of any recurrence of the events which occurred in the Provincial Elections of 1933 held under the Conservative regime, when many urban lists were manipulated for political ends and attempts made to disfranchise thousands of voters.

Every effort has been made to ensure the preparation of lists which will be as accurate and complete as possible and severe penalties will be imposed on any election official who knowingly omits from lists the names of persons entitled to vote or who adds to lists the names of persons not rightfully entitled to vote.

How You Get On the Voters' List

But responsibility eventually rests upon all individuals who consider themselves qualified to vote at the forthcoming election to see that their names are duly and correctly included in the final list of voters. This may be done in the following way:

In Urban

Polling Districts

(Cities and incorporated towns with populations of not less than 5,000 persons). Preliminary lists of persons entitled to vote are being prepared by Enumerators who are making house-to-house canvasses. These lists will be posted up by the Returning Officer on Tuesday, June 8th, in at least 2 conspicuous places in the polling district. If you find that your name has been omitted from the preliminary list, this may be remedied by bringing the matter to the attention of the Revising Officer appointed for your polling district. The Revising Officer will hold sittings for this purpose from June 14th to June 17th, (Monday to Thursday inclusive).

NOTE: In cases where your application is refused by the Registrar you are entitled on request to receive a written certificate of refusal from the Registrar, stating the reason for this refusal.

In Rural

Polling Districts

Preliminary lists have been prepared by local Registrars and were posted up in at least 2 conspicuous places in each polling district on Saturday, May 29th. For 4 days this week from June 2nd, to June 5th, (Wednesday to Saturday inclusive) Registrars sit to add names. If your name does not appear in the preliminary list for your district, bring the fact to the attention of the Registrar not later than Saturday, June 5th. On Tuesday, June 8th, the Registrar will post up certified copies of the final lists of voters. If your name is still omitted from the list, appeal to the Revising Officer for your electoral district, who will hold sittings from June 14th to June 17th, (Monday to Thursday inclusive).

NEWSPAPERS PLAY IM- PORTANT PART IN WORK OF V. O. N.

"We watched the front page news being deftly folded into little baskets to protect the implements of nursing," says the Toronto Star Weekly. "It was the property of Miss Elizabeth Smellie, chief superintendent of the Victorian Order of Nurses, who passed through Toronto on her multitudinous nation-wide duties. It hadn't even been read."

"Never mind," said Miss Smellie, "I'll get another one. So she handed it over, all crisply folded, to Nurse Ethel Roberts to demonstrate all the useful indignities a newspaper is put to in the hands of a Victorian nurse."

"We use literally thousands and thousands of newspapers," said Miss Smellie. "So if you ever see a pretty girl in a blue linen uniform hurrying some-where with a newspaper under one arm and a leather case under the other, it's almost sure to be a Victorian nurse on her way to do some good work in a poor home where there is sickness or a new baby."

That does not mean the nurses are called only to poor homes—those who can afford it pay for the service—but it so happens that they are mathematically hooked up with poverty and new babies. Last year more than half of all the cases were people who could not pay, and more than half, too, were maternity cases.

The 80 branches and 343 nurses of the Victorian Order are shrewdly spotted through Canada where they can do the most good. To make sure they do not duplicate any existing service, nurses are usually placed where there is an active demand for them.

Once placed, they become "not only good nurses, but good members of the community." A case in point is the town near Toronto to which a nurse was called. Her work was so valuable that the town fathers wanted to give her a car, to extend her activities, but funds were lacking.

It so happened that a car was being raffled in the town, and soon it became the accepted thing that whoever won the car would turn it over to the nurse. P. S.—She got the car, and the council provides the gas.

Work of the V. O. N. has caught the interest of Lady Tweedsmuir, the honorary president, and in her personal appeal for $200,000 lately needed by the order, the wife of Canada's governor-general writes: "During the short time I have been in Canada I have been greatly impressed by the work of the Victorian Order. I am convinced that not only should its present activities be maintained, but that the work should be extended. . . . The Victorian Order does not stop to think, when an urgent call comes, whether the patient can pay for the visit or not. . . . the services of the Victorian Order of Nurses are given to every nationality and creed."

The experience of forty years has taught the Victorian nurses the most practical hygienic methods to adopt in the slum homes where they do so much of their work, and that is where the newspapers come in.

Sheets of paper are placed under everything the nurse uses. Before she puts the bag down, she carefully lays a sheet of newspaper on the table. Newspapers cover the floor, where she works. She is taught to fold boxes and bags of various sizes into which go soiled dressings, used paper towels and everything that might contain germs. When these are burned the microbes simply haven't a chance to do their deadly work.

But "straight nursing" is only a part of the Victorian nurse's work. Equally important is the instruction the nurses give to families for looking after the sick in between her visits—how to look after babies so that they thrive, how to lessen the burden of the sick, how to keep comfortable and cheerful those who are bedridden.

France Blames Films. Steps are being taken by the authorities in Paris to have crime films banned throughout France. The move against gangster pictures is the result of a crime wave which has swept over the land and which the government has traced to the screen.

Lightning. It is estimated that, when the whole world is taken into account, there are about 100 lightning flashes per second, taking place all the time.

REGAL

"All set, Jim. Everything's aboard, including that bag of REGAL you're so scared of leaving behind. Oh, I know! If you reached home without it you'd get an awful bawling out and have to come right back for it. Well, you can't blame your wife at that, Jim, when you think of the dandy bread she bakes with REGAL."

REGAL FLOUR

Hotels Learn Manners. Japanese tourists' hotels are being taught manners as the result of a survey made by Takamori Kimura, section chief of the railway ministry at Tokyo. He travelled about incognito and found that the managers thought they were doing him a favor by letting him stop at their hotels. Hotels operated by the Railway Ministry were especially wanting in courtesy and the spirit of hospitality.

Bandits Steal Films. Two men, one of them armed with a revolver, held up a moving picture theatre in Dundalk, Irish Free State, and demanded the film of "Clive in India" which was being shown there. Only two employees were present at the time and they were compelled to pass over four reels.

Living Egg. The living part of a hen's egg is a little patch of transparent substance on the top of the yolk.

Glimpses of the Coronation

We have pleasure in publishing extracts of letters received from Miss Audrey Holdsworth, recently received by her family. Miss Holdsworth, a pupil of Grade XII, Digby Academy, was one of the Nova Scotia students elected to attend the Coronation Ceremonies at London, on May 12th.

Her letter of May 12 says, in part: "..... The day before yesterday was Coronation Day. We all got up at 3.00 and started on our route with our lunch. Mr. Pink was our guide. We landed at Buckingham Palace at 6.00. The streets were crowded and were all decorated. The streets were lined at 6.00 and some even slept there all night so they could see the procession. We sat opposite Buckingham Palace. They were wonderful seats and we could see everything clearly.

"When we first got there the palace was dark and all the blinds were drawn. But around 7.30 the lights began to come on. Then the grenadiers began to march, and the princesses and peers drew by, they wore beautiful gowns and feathers.

"We saw the Duke and Duchess of Kent drive past and just behind them in a car, their baby, Marina was beautiful and the baby was sweet. Then all the Navy, soldiers, air force lined up in front of the palace, and the procession started. We saw, Princess Elizabeth, Margaret, Rose, Princess Mary, Lady Alice, Princess Marina clearly, but we couldn't make out the others. We were on the side to see the return procession. We waited until 4.30 and it had started to rain. There were Indians, Africans, etc., all around us. I wish you could have seen the grenadiers march. They looked marvelous in their red jackets and bear fur hats, and did we give the Mounties a cheer!

"At last came the procession back to Buckingham Palace. Queen Mary was very lovely and bowed to our cheers. The Princesses were adorable in white dresses and little gold crowns. They waved and smiled as they passed by us. We got a good look at the Duke of Gloucester and Duchess; the Duke and Duchess of Kent. The Indian Princess wore white and were loaded with jewels, they also bowed.

"Then came the King and Queen, they were in a beautiful gold coach, with golden figures, and drawn by six lovely grey horses. The Queen was very charming and smiled to the crowd. The King was waving too.

"The crowd just went crazy when they passed us. I never heard such cheering in all my life. It was pouring and everybody was wet.

"Then the crowd moved up to the gates waiting for a glimpse of the King and Queen. They were cheering and waving. They threw their hats in the air and yelled 'We want our King'. In a few minutes the butler came out on the balcony and bowed to the crowd, and then put down a carpet. The King and Queen came out, also Queen Mary, Princesses and all the Royal family.

"The crowd was cheering and they bowed, the Princesses were waving. Queen Mary had tears in her eyes. They stayed out for about ten minutes, then went in. They came out twice after that. Then we went home. We were awful tired so we undressed and listened to the king's speech over the radio. . . .

"The next day we went to Surrey for a drive. It was beautiful and we had lunch at the Devil's Punch Bowl (where a sailor had been brutally murdered). Then we were taken to Compton. It is a very picturesque and old-fashioned town. I wanted to take a picture of every little house. Then we visited the Watts' house (a painter) and were taken through his studio. In Compton we went to a little church dating back to the Normans.

"Then we were guests of Miss Watson. She owned a huge English rural estate. We had tea there. . . . That night we drove home on a bus (20 minutes out of London), and went to the movies to see the Coronation parade.

(In her letter Miss Holdsworth here describes a visit to Madame Tassaud's Wax Museum.)

Her later letter, dated May 21, tells of further delightful experiences, as follows: "..... Sunday we went to the National Gallery and the Zoo. . . . Tuesday we went to the Youths' Gallery in Albert Hall, and the Duke of Gloucester made a surprise visit. We were right in front of the speakers' platform. . . . He read his speech and seemed a little nervous. A commissioner from India spoke—and was it grand. He was dressed

CRUEL TREATMENT OF A DOG

Another case of wanton cruelty to animals has occurred in this vicinity, when a Dalmatian dog, the pet and companion of its owner, was shot and wounded very painfully and seriously, but possibly not fatally. The sorrow caused the owner cannot be told in words, and it is hoped that whoever used the gun may at least be touched enough by this little item to restrain from causing any further trouble of this vile and unlawful nature. If a dog is found to be a menace to farm animals, recourse through the law—or, in most cases, simply an appeal to the owner—is a proper and certainly more manly way of settling matters. The above mentioned manner is the act of a coward.

Ball Game at Bridgetown
On Wednesday the Digby ball team went to Bridgetown to play there. They were taken in cars by David Daley and Fred Harvey. The Digby team won, after a hard-fought seven inning game. Gerald Muise was injured in the last inning, and his place as 1st baseman, was taken by Louis Theriault. Score 16-11. The line-up is as follows: Frank Raymond, pitcher; Arthur Golding, catcher; Gerald Muise, 1st; Ken Raymond, 2nd; Paul Winchester, 3rd; Buddy Collins, shortstop; Don VanTassel, right-field; Edward Barnes, centre-field; Joe Turnbull, left-field.

Inquiry Follow Death of Indian Woman

Coroner L. J. Lovett, M.D., of Bear River, presided over an inquest into the death of Mrs. Rose Meuse, wife of William Meuse, Bear River, last evening. The inquest was held in Ken's Mortuary Parlor, and at 11:45 adjourned until a week from tonight, when it will be resumed in the Court House.

The death of Mrs. Meuse occurred in the Digby General Hospital about 4:30 yesterday afternoon. Evidence given by Leslie L. Lent, Bear River, revealed that on Wednesday he had been selling household necessities at the Mic-Mac Reservation, and included in his merchandise were lemon and vanilla extracts. At the home of John MacEwan, Mic-Mac chief, he sold extracts, some of which were drunk in his presence by Mr. MacEwan. He testified he had dinner there. Mrs. Meuse was at the house, and although he did not see her drinking any of the extract, he knew that she had. Her husband also purchased a bottle of vanilla later.

Lent testified he and MacEwan had supper with the Meuses, and while eating supper Meuse became violently sick, and he mixed up some soda to relieve him. Other evidence revealed that Mrs. Meuse was taken sick later in the evening and was rushed to the hospital Thursday morning. MacEwan was also taken ill and admitted to the hospital in the afternoon. He is reported making a good recovery. The victims are not known to have drunk anything but the extracts, according to the evidence.

MacEwan is expected to testify at the adjourned inquest. An autopsy will be made this morning and contents of the stomach, as well as samples of the extract—will be sent to Halifax to be analyzed.

PRIZES AWARDED

At the regular monthly meeting of the Digby Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses on Tuesday afternoon, prizes and certificates were awarded members of the Junior Health and Hygiene Classes conducted under the direction of the local nurse, Miss MacLiven. The girls also gave splendid demonstrations which emphasized the splendid training they had been given.

At the business meeting which preceded, minutes of the last meeting and reports for the month were read. It was pointed out during the session that 80 per cent of the pupils of the Digby school had, during the past few weeks, been immunized against diphtheria.

Demonstrations given by the girls were as follows: Dressing an injury, demonstrated by Margaret Purdy of Geraldine Melanson; tourniquet, with twisted handkerchief around an artery, demonstrated by Agatha Melanson on Catherine Hersey; sling for broken arm, demonstrated by Dorothy Christie on Agatha Melanson. Jean Weir set a tray for a patient in bed, explaining as she went along, the different diets.

A splendid paper on the origin of the V. O. N. was given by Doris Franklin, following which, Dr. T. W. Hodgson, president of the local branch of the Order, gave an address and awarded prizes as follows: Junior Health and Dietetics Class—Emma Purdy, Harriet MacKay, Leone Surrence, Miriam Handspiker, Louise Daley and Gladys Winchester.

The first three named in each group being the prize winners, the others receiving honorable mention.

On display were posters, health books and a knitted blanket done by the dietetic class. Also the hygiene class displayed their effort aid kits they had made and a large variegated knitted blanket. The paper read by Miss Franklin was written by Agatha Melanson.

Following a delightful afternoon tea, in charge of Mrs. H. M. Warne and Mrs. F. W. Nichols, was served, the girls serving. Convenors were Mrs. G. M. Morrell and Mrs. Fritz Dakin.

LAUNCH AT METEGHAN

In past years Digby County has seen hundreds of launchings. Vessels of all sizes and descriptions have gone down the ways, but it is doubtful if ever a launch took place which was prettier than that at Meteghan on Wednesday morning when the three-master schooner Venture was put afloat from the yards of the Meteghan Shipbuilding Company, Limited. People had been arriving all morning from all sections of the province, until a crowd of from seven to ten thousand had assembled and cars were parked along the roads for about a mile from the vessel. The Digby Civic Band was in attendance and, with other guests, was on the vessel. At 10:30 o'clock the band started "The Maple Leaf Forever," and on the opening strains the final wedges were driven home and the ship commenced to move. She had gone but two or three feet when Mrs. Norman Rogers, wife of the minister of labor, Hon. Norman Rogers, smashed the traditional bottle of champagne against her bow, and at the same time said:

"I christen this vessel Venture. May God guide and guard and keep all who sail in her."

Distinguished visitors present at the launching were: Hon. Norman Rogers, minister of labor, who was representing the minister of national defence; Commander H. A. C. Lane, R.N., acting chief of the naval staff; Commander W. B. Creery, R. N. N.; Lt. Commander A. R. Pressey, R. C. N.; W. J. Roue, designer; Hon. J. Willie and Mrs. Comeau; Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Potter, M. P., and others.

The Venture is to be used as a training ship for the Department of National Defence. She is 143 feet long over all; 117 feet water line; 27.2 feet beam; and 13 feet deep. She will register about 250 tons. The Venture will be rigged as a tern schooner and will have as auxiliary power, a 120-horse power Petter's diesel engine. She was built by the Meteghan Shipbuilding Company, Limited, under the superintendence of J. Deveau.

As the graceful ship left the ways three cheers were given for the ship and three more for the sponsors.

The Venture is now lying at the pier in Meteghan to be rigged and finished inside; her engines are also to be installed while there.

The New Kidney Remedy WORKS WONDERS They Flush the Kidneys

For years chemists have been experimenting on a kidney remedy that would really flush out the thousands of little filters that become clogged. The kidneys must be kept working properly in order to throw off the waste matter of the body.

The new remedy sold under the trade name NOX KIDNEY FLUSHERS remove these poisons through the natural channel, thus preventing the poisons from entering into the blood stream. They actually cleanse these filters in the kidneys, and almost immediately the backache disappears.

They allow you to have restful nights, and the entire urinary tract is made antiseptic. There is no need of nursing a backache. After a few days' treatment, you will notice a vast improvement in your general health. Your eyes become clear and bright, your backache disappears—no more getting up at night.

Nox Kidney Flushers are in tablet form and each package contains one month's treatment. If you suffer from any disorder of the kidneys, the One Dosed Night for the month's treatment will be the best dollar ever spent. Get Nox Kidney Flushers today from:

ANIMALS CHARMED BY MUSIC

The Spider and the Organist

A great deal of nonsense has been written about charming wild creatures by music, but of late years—some experiments have been made in zoological gardens which prove that some animals are susceptible to certain kinds of music.

In the case of snakes, pythons and boas paid no attention whatever to any sort of music, but cobras were at once attracted by the sound of a piccolo, and rose up, swaying their hooded heads.

A lady in Australia was once playing the piano and singing in her drawing-room when a black snake came gliding in through the door opening on to the veranda, and placed itself in a coil close behind her chair, its head raised and swaying lightly. So long as she went on playing the snake did not attempt to move away. She declared that it seemed to be enjoying the music. She herself, however, was far from enjoying the situation, and was only too grateful when her husband came in and dispatched the poisonous reptile.

The monitor lizard listened alertly to the sound of a violin. His forked tongue was played around his lips. As the music became soft and slow the creature grew quite still, except for a gentle movement of its head.

Bears seem to appreciate music, more particularly that of the violin played softly. Even the Polar bear listened intently, while the grizzlies were quite phased. They stood up, their paws grasping the bars of their cage, each with its head cocked sideways.

The Popular Violin

Violin music attracted both lions and tigers, so long as the instrument was played softly. But the moment a loud chord was sounded the lions grew excited, their tails waving angrily, while the tigers showed their teeth.

Wolves paid little attention to soft music, but snarled at high-pitched notes, while the elephant appreciated the flute, but did not like the piccolo.

It was found that, of all the animals that were at all attracted by music, all seemed to like the violin, the cello, and the flute, but not the piccolo. Even the ostriches were plainly offended by the shrill notes of the last instrument.

The only ones of the more intelligent animals which were quite unaffected by music of any sort were the seals. They paid no attention to any instrument.

One would imagine that spiders were not affected either by music or love, but they are extremely sensitive to both, which has been proved by observation. For instance, an organist in a church noticed that a spider would swing down a single thread and rest above the keyboard every time a tune was played, as if he were waiting to be caught. Either way it would depend. Either very soft or loud music would bring it down.

During a concert at Leipzig the leader of the orchestra particularly noticed a spider which descended by the same means from a chandelier whilst a violin solo was being played, but directly the solo was finished it ran back quickly.

Unique Timetable
The timetable for the ferry service operating across Minas Basin, in Nova Scotia, from Parrsboro to Kingsport and vice versa is unique. This is probably the only case in the country where the timetable has to be shifted each month, on account of tides. The highest tides in the world, over fifty feet, occur at the head of the basin, and a new ferry timetable is published each month. The times of departure and arrival of the ferry change from day to day and the timetable is issued for a month at a time.

Juvenile Crime Grows.
Juvenile crime is increasing so rapidly in Liverpool, England, that it is becoming a serious problem. Four additional probation officers will be appointed the juvenile court will sit five times a week instead of four, and new efforts will be made to collect 500 unpaid fines. In the last six years housebreaking has increased 400 per cent. The number of children who appeared before magistrates last year was 2055, compared with 619 in 1930.

BUSINESS IN MARITIMES IS UP 18%
General business conditions in the Maritimes show a considerable improvement this year to date over last according to telegraph receipts. Telegraph receipts form fairly reliable barometer as to trade conditions, and the degree of improvement in the Maritimes can be gauged approximately by the increase in telegraph receipts which amounts to eighteen per cent for the month of January this year over last.

Reactin on Jews.
At many times in the long history of the Jew, whenever the Jew has appeared on the point of assimilation with his neighbors, a Joshua or a Jeremiah has arisen to cast him back on himself and produce the inevitable reaction. In our days another is added to the list.

THE EVIL OF DRINK

One of the major evils at the present time is drink. The Liquor Commission records for the past seven years show that sales of liquor amounted to $22,711,661, and there was put into the treasury as profit from the sale $3,542,894, for that period.

Last year the profit was $970,635, and the estimate for 1937 is over $1,000,000.

The figures should bring the blush of shame to self-respecting Nova Scotians. Place against this money from the traffic the loss through drunkenness, inefficiency, lawlessness, moral and social degradation! As never before the young manhood and young womanhood of the province are being sacrificed. To save the youth and homes of our land energetic work must be continuously carried on.

Education

We must teach the imperative need of abstinence from the beverage use of liquor to safeguard and promote the physical, mental and moral fitness of the people. Excellent work along this line is being done by organizations such as the W. C. T. U., The League of the Cross, the I. O. G. T., the Sons of Temperance, the Catholic Total Abstinence Union, the League of Social Reform, and we would welcome in the campaign against drink any additional organization that may be formed. The more forces on the field against this evil, the better.

Duty of the Church

But, serious attention should be given directly by all churches to the question of how to save Nova Scotia from having a drinking and drunken citizenry. The church is in duty bound to safeguard its membership from the evil of drink as from other evils. Church managers, and all holding office in the church of God, should for the alleviation of suffering, the protection of our homes, for the moral and spiritual welfare of youths and adults, lead in a campaign against the drink evil. In all Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies in our churches the young people were given an opportunity to pledge themselves against the beverage use of liquor incalculable good would result.

Legislation

As we believe and teach that the sale of liquor tends to degrade our citizenship should we not do all in our power to obtain legislation for the abolition of the traffic in liquor.

In view of the havoc being wrought by drink has not the time come for our legislators, Liberal and Conservative, to give more serious consideration to the problem. Should they not devise some method of obtaining revenue without capitalizing misery, vice and crime? Liquor selling as a source of revenue is not in accord with good government. Righteousness exalteth a nation. The greatest object

Worried by Pimples and Exzema

Complexion Unblemished after Six Weeks of Kruschen

"For the past two years," writes a woman, "my face was covered with hard pimples and red blotches, and I also had eczema on my neck and forehead. I tried lotions, creams and ointments, without the slightest effect. I was so worried. Fortunately I decided to give Kruschen a trial and without any exaggeration, within six weeks my face was without a blemish, and I have not had a sign of eczema since. I take Kruschen regularly every morning, and would not be without it." (Mrs. J. A. F.)

Pimples and eczema are frequently due to impurities in the blood—irritant poisons which sluggish body organs are failing to expel from the system. Kruschen Salt's help to keep the body organs functioning normally and healthily, thus preventing the accumulation of impurities in the blood.

ANNIVERSARY OF FORMER DIGBY MINISTER

The fiftieth (golden) anniversary of the marriage of Rev. J. W. and Mrs. Prestwood, Hantsport, fell on Tuesday of this week. They were married in Yarmouth in 1887, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Lewis. Mr. Lewis was organizer for the Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance in Nova Scotia from 1883 to 1896. Some elderly people will yet remember his impassioned advocacy of total abstinence and prohibition. Mrs. Prestwood, then Miss Annie vic Lewis, was a graduate of the Provincial Normal School. Her husband's testimony is that he owed much of what success he met with in the zealous co-partnership of his faithful wife, who now is in broken health and mostly confined to her bed. Dr. Prestwood preached his first sermon in North Alton on the anniversary of the marriage in the summer of 1888, between his junior and senior years at Mount Allison. He received B.A., M.A. and D.D. degrees from that institution and B.D. from Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. Y. He was president of the former Methodist Conference of Nova Scotia in the years 1913 to 1914. Mr. Prestwood exercised his ministry in the following charges: Bermuda, (2 pastorates), Weymouth, Bridgewater, Maitland (Hants Co.), Digby, Berwick, Springfield, Barrington, Wolfville, Southamptton, Sydney Mines, Shelburne, New Glasgow and has aided the church in and purpose of government is to promote good morals in the transactions and relations of its citizens. We look for legislation ere long which will give electors an opportunity to abolish a traffic that is an appalling moral, social and economic loss.

Three Daughters

It will surprise many people to learn that there are three women living, one of them in Vermont, who are actual daughters of the Revolution. A fourth recently died in Williamstown, Conn., at 98. Her father was a soldier in the Continental army at 14 to 16 years of age, and she was born when he was 73. Despite the modern aspects of the civilization we have created in this country, there are still people alive who can span in two generations the life of the republic.

Fascination of the Miniature Camera

The original negative of this picture is about the size of a postage stamp. It was snapped from the second row of a theater on ultra-fast film with the lens at f.2, the exposure 1/25 second at a moment of slight pause in the action.

THE frequent appearance in magazines and newspapers of striking "off-guard" snapshots of prominent persons, such as society folk dining in a restaurant, or "series shots" of the changing expressions of an after-dinner speaker, prompts from many readers the question, "How were these pictures taken?" The answer is in the case of many of these pictures is the high-speed, large-lens miniature camera and the new ultra-fast film, which in combination often make possible snapshots at night without extra illumination of the subject.

The use of miniature cameras, not alone for "off-guard" photography but for daytime portrait studies and "scenes" of which they are also highly capable, has grown with startling speed. Films are available that are especially suited to this kind of work. These pocket-size but powerful, precision-built cameras seem to have for many a fascinating view of the high-powered automobile and are brought despite their higher cost, because "you can go places with them."

Just what is a high-speed miniature camera? Essentially it is a very small roll-film camera with a very large aperture lens such as one rated at f.2. The exposure required with an f.2 lens is only 1/10th of that needed for the f.6.3 lens which is considered a "fast" lens on the ordinary amateur camera.

Without going into the technical reasons, it is possible to use a much larger and consequently much faster lens on a miniature camera than would be practicable on the average size camera. The small size, the ultra-fast film combined with new extra-fast film makes it possible to snap pictures under conditions which are difficult for larger cameras with slower lenses.

You can carry a "minnie" around in your pocket and whip it out for any occasion. With good judgment for correct exposure you can make snapshots on the stage of a theater, in a night club, at a prize fight or at night on a brightly illuminated street.

Miniature camera negatives must, of course, be enlarged to obtain prints satisfactory to look at. Some miniature cameras use 35-mm. film, the picture size film and give up to 36 pictures to the roll; others use somewhat larger sizes, 8 or 16 pictures to a roll. Owing to the relatively low cost of the small-sized film, the expense per picture for average-size enlargements is not much greater than a contact print from the larger film used in a camera of ordinary size.

The technique of taking pictures with a miniature is not much different from that with the ordinary focusing camera, but there is a valuable point to remember. Because of its light weight and small size, it is more difficult to hold a miniature camera steady. Since sharp negatives are essential in this work, steadiness is of prime importance.

QUALITY CAR

Lowest Price Field

ONE of the best things about Chevrolet quality is the way it saves you money on gas, oil and upkeep—and assures you of higher "trade-in" value later on.

For instance, the quality design of Chevrolet's Valve-in-Head Engine saves you as much as 10% on operating costs! Knock-Action, on Master De Luxe models, saves you dollars on "tightening-up"—because it cushions the car, as well as the passengers; against the pounding of rough roads. The Unisteel Turret Top handles the Fisher's "solidly built to stand up", without developing annoying rattles and squeaks.

From perfected Hydraulic Brakes to genuine Fisher No-Draft Ventilation, Chevrolet is every inch a quality product—famous for dependability! See it and drive it yourself—listen to what owners say... and you'll never be satisfied with less!

Rex Battle, Famous Musician

One of Canada's best known musicians is seen here at Canada's leading hotel, the Royal York, in downtown Toronto. He is Rex Battle, leader of the Royal York Hotel concert orchestra, which plays daily at the hotel and is heard on regular coast-to-coast radio broadcasts. The picture of Mr. Battle is from a portrait recently done by Allan Barr, and shows the maestro concentrating on a difficult piano passage. At the Royal York Hotel, which is the largest hotel in the British Empire, Rex Battle's orchestra is a favorite among the guests, who gather in large numbers at his concerts or tune him in on the individual radios in bedrooms throughout the hotel. The orchestra has spread its fame by playing for conventions that gather at the hotel from all over the continent. The Royal York's fine facilities for this type of hotel trade attracted 75 conventions, totaling 6,696 delegates, up to the middle of March, while 45 others are scheduled to bring 11,000 delegates to the hotel from all over the country later in the year.

THE WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

Turning from the city newspapers to the small town press exchanges that come to the editor's desk is like stepping from the slums, full of vice, into an old fashioned garden sweet with lavender and thyme, and the scent of perennial flowers. The pages of the big dailies are full of murder, thievery, immorality and selfishness that the better news is obscured by glaring shatterings of the Decalogue. One puts the papers aside with a feeling of depression and heartache that the world is so full of terrible and unhappy things.

Then picking up the pages that record the happenings of the little towns around us one gains renewed faith in life. Here are set forth only that which uplifts a community—the activities of the business men, the church items, the happy social gatherings of the people, the marriages, births, and deaths, farmers' items and all the thousand and one daily occurrences that make up the simple annals of the great common people, who are really the foundation of this broad country of ours.

Scandals are rarely published in the country newspapers, but if it so happens that decency demands it, the uglier details are omitted, or given a kindly touch that is widely different from the unfeeling publicity of the city press. The offenders may be our neighbors or people we have rubbed elbows with all our lives. They are real human beings to their town people, while to the great city dailies they are merely grains of a sort that are ground out hourly in their news mills.

Some times people speak lightly of the country newspaper, but it is one of the most potent and uplifting factors in our national existence.

TAXATION A DETERRENT TO BUSINESS

How far taxation may be a deterrent to business expansion might be a subject for serious study.

Recently the National Association of Manufacturers in the United States made a survey of lightning report.

"Some idea of the distance to which taxation has gone," the report said, "may be seen in the case of the oil industry. Combined figures of the companies covered, each of which employed over 5,000 persons, showed that taxes equalled 120 per cent of the total payrolls, and amounted to $2,111 per employee."

Were the people to turn the spotlight of public attention on taxes with the same earnestness that it has been turned on other issues of lesser consequence, it might be beneficial to the country.

Lest industry be relieved of a portion of the overwhelming tax burden and obviously it would be in a better position to re-employ many of those now unemployed, or on the public payroll.

It must be REGAL

"SORRY, but the flour must be REGAL. It may seem fussy, when flours all look so much alike, to insist on one particular brand; but REGAL is reliable, always the same, and if you spent as much time baking bread as I do, Mr. Grocer, I think you'd insist on REGAL, too.... You'll get it for me?" That will be fine."

CAN YOU RELY ON YOUR EXECUTOR?

EXTREMELY complex, and fraught with even greater risks than the legal aspects of making a Will, are the considerations to be weighed in naming an executor. The appointment involves much more than selecting someone whose integrity is unquestioned. There must also be financial responsibility, and knowledge with which to meet unusual conditions which may arise.

If these qualities are lacking, both the executor and beneficiaries may suffer financial loss. Is it fair to either to expose them to this risk?

The safe course is to appoint a Trust Company as executor or trustee under your Will. We would be glad to discuss your problems with you, and to offer any possible assistance. There is no obligation involved.

C. G. I. T. Conference

A conference for Canadian Girls in Training, under the leadership of Miss Muriel Lawrence, Maritime Girls' Work Secretary, was held in Digby over the week end. The conference opened on Friday evening with registrations from the various groups. Later Mayor M. C. Penton, presented Miss Lawrence with the key of the town, after a short address to the girls. He stated that every conference would have such a privilege, but that, as Canadian Girls in Training, he knew they would not open wrong doors. Rev. Dr. Hodgson greeted the conference and expressed his pleasure at welcoming such a body on his return from England. Miss Lawrence was introduced, after which she introduced the Conference and other leaders from the various groups. Rev. E. M. Caldwell, rector of Holy Trinity, extended his greetings and opened his church for the use of the conference, as did also Rev. A. G. Robertson, of the United Baptist Church. Helen Hazleton, president of the Digby C. G. I. T., welcomed the delegates and this was responded to by one of the Yarmouth girls.

Saturday morning brought a worship period in the Church of England. This was followed by a general meeting in the Sunday School, at which Mrs. Imbuk Pak, of Seoul, Korea, gave a most interesting address, and sang two folk songs in her own tongue. This was followed by a "sing-song". In the afternoon interest groups were taken up. Miss Lawrence instructed the girls in handicraft: Miss Ingram, of Wolfville, led a sports group; and Mrs. H. H. Wetmore, of Yarmouth, gave a Bible quiz.

A banquet was provided at 6 by the Ea-Gi Club of Grace United Church. The tables were decorated with blue and white candles and balloons, with large bouquets of flowers interspersed. Dr. Hodgson, as host of the conference, was chairman. Rev. A. G. Robertson and Rev. E. M. Caldwell were guest speakers. Greetings were extended from the Girl Guides by Miss Lois Walker, who expressed her pleasure at having the Conference, in a very pleasing manner. Patrol leaders were guests at the banquet and wore full uniform. Other guests were Mrs. Minnie Appleby, president of the W. M. S.; Mrs. Noseworthy, president of the Ladies' Aid; Mrs. Charles Carty, Mrs. H. H. Goodwin, Mrs. Arnold Turnbull, president of the Ea-Gi Club; Mrs. A. G. Robertson, Mrs. E. M. Caldwell, and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Wallis.

A vote of thanks was extended by Marjorie Burns, of Bridgeport, which was responded to by aural Morchouse, Sandy Cove. A spiritual, "Lord, I Want To Be A Christian," was sung by the C. G. I. T. group of the African Baptist Church, at Acaciaville, which is, we understand, the only registered group of colored girls in the Maritimes. A skit was put on by the Yarmouth group, entitled "Young Lochinvar." Miss Lawrence ended the banquet with a delightful talk, and the friendship circle was formed and closed with "Taps."

Sunday morning the morning watch was held in the Baptist Church, under leadership of Miss Lawrence. The delegates afterwards went to church with their hostesses.

The closing service was held in Grace United Church, with Miss Lawrence in charge, in her address, she stated what, who and why C. G. I. T. was. The music was in charge of the Junior Choir and C. G. I. T., under direction of Eleanor Wallis.

NOT RESTRICTED

Those who think that the campaign of the Nazi government against the Catholic Church is restricted to that church ought to note the action of the National Professional-Synagogue in Germany, which has issued special instructions to Protestant pastors for combating propaganda and Nazi interference with church life. The Protestant group reported that "everywhere in the training course of the National Socialists, in public assemblies, newspapers and magazines, the Bible is attacked and the gospel and the church are spoken of with contempt. We warn all Christians not to be silent, but to protest against such attacks. We warn Protestant Christians to allow nothing to interfere with their faith." The Nazi programme is directed against all religion.

Surrealism Goes Photographic

TWO WEEKS WITH PAY

This table-top photograph was taken with the aid of two photographic floodlight bulbs, "spotted" on the subject at different angles; exposure 30 seconds at f22. The candles were then lighted, main lights turned off and the lighted candles exposed for 2 seconds. The following text will (it is hoped) explain the title.

"SURREALISM. A French movement in literature and art, influenced by Freudianism, purporting to express the subconscious activities of the mind by presenting images without order or sequence, as in a dream."

So says the dictionary, but we beg leave to amend by inserting the words, "and which has invaded the field of photography." If you don't believe it, check a psychoanalytical eye on the above photograph and consider whether it does not truly fit the amended definition.

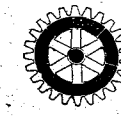

"Images without order or sequence as in a dream." Who will contend that the images in the above picture do not fit that part of the definition?

"Purporting to express the subconscious activities of the mind." Who dares to say that these images do not express subconscious activities quite as intelligently as any of those depicted in the surrealist concoctions of the painters?

Oh, yeah, but what activities and how? The fair photographer who took the picture entitled it "Two Weeks With Pay," meaning a vacation, and here, believe it or not, are the subconscious activities purported to be expressed.

BRITAIN BUYING MORE PA- PER FROM CANADA

The commanding position held by newspapers as a source of news and for advertising is evidenced by the increase in circulation in Great Britain and the greater number of advertisements carried. Due to the increase in circulation and the consequent greater demand for newsprint paper, imports rose by 12 per cent last year over 1935. Canada's share increased 22 per cent. This is the more noteworthy in view of the fact that domestic production also increased.

Deserted in Death

William the Conqueror, died in St. Gervais monastery, outside Rouen, France, more than 849 years ago. Immediately, his physicians rushed away in panic to safeguard their property while servants looted his strong boxes and royal furnishings and, leaving the king's naked corpse on the floor also fled. When the body was finally carried to St. Stephen's Abbey, which King William had founded, authorities would not permit it to be buried there until 60 shillings had been paid for a gravestone.

A cow is entitled to 8 feet of highway, just as much as an automobile is. Mr. Justice Forest ruled in Quebec Superior Court in dismissing an action by a motorist against the animal's owner for $167.71 damages sustained by the auto when it struck the cow. The accident occurred on the highway near Lora, Chateauguay County. The cow, which was killed, was being led across the highway to pasture.

Ambitions

It is not uncommon to find people blaming other people for their ambitious doings. This is not without reason, for a man's unbridled ambition may lead him into unwise decisions, rash undertakings, or financial trouble. Too ambitious leaders are apt to lead their followers into catastrophe or cause dissatisfaction with other groups of individuals. Entire families and mighty empires have been utterly ruined in this way. Today as yesterday history is full of this doleful tale, which is generally written in the form of individual misery or warlike conflicts between nations.

But must we, for all that, condemn the spirit of ambition? In itself, ambition is a virtue. It only becomes a wrong when it is misdirected. The degree of ambition a person has usually measures his accomplishments. Of course the first step to success is to have an ideal, a definite idea of what we want to do. But of what good is an ideal if in our will-power is not found the ambition to attain that ideal. Without ambition we would never have enough energy to choose an ideal anyway.

If ambition has wrought destruction in this world, lack of ambition has done much more. Men of a former generation have left little fortunes to their heirs. These, having no higher ambition than amusement and drink, have gambled them away and are now left poor miserable wretches in a world that knows them not. Our forefathers cleared large tracts of lands, built stone walls around them, erected homes. Our present youth, on the whole, have not enough ambition to even keep these from falling to decay or destruction.

An ambitious person may go wrong, may cause trouble, may even ruin himself, but at least he actually does something. There is perhaps no more detestable person in the world than the colourless, lifeless character who never wants to do anything, who will never encourage anything and who will never believe that a thing is possible.

I once heard a farmer say: "I enjoy every minute of my work, even though at the end of the year I wouldn't be a cent richer." Taken to the letter, such an outlook on life would undoubtedly fail to keep a man alive. But what a wonderful disposition of mind! That farmer will never suffer from privation, for he has enough ambition to overlook a failure and keep on working till success comes his way.

HONOR HEROISM OF TELE- GRAPH OPERATOR

The soldier on the field of battle showed no greater courage than did a telegraph operator seated at his key in the Canadian National Railway's station at Richmond, a suburb of Halifax, at the time of the explosion of an ammunition ship in Halifax harbor during the war. By his heroic act 350 passengers aboard an incoming train were saved. From his last message, the one that saved the train, it is apparent he had a premonition of disaster.

The message read: "Hold up train. Ammunition ship afloat in harbor and will explode. Guess this will be my last message. Good-bye boys."

The operator was Vincent Coleman, and he died still holding the telegraph key, his body being found with the key in his hand amidst the shambles of what was once the railway station. Plans are being discussed to erect a memorial in a suitable location commemorating his brave act.

First "Dud"

When we talk of "packing up our duds" few of us are aware that we are using a word of generations gone by. A "dud" then was a coarse, patched linen gown, gaudy in color, made up in fact of variegated pieces of material.

ROLL-CALL SERVICE

The annual Roll-Call Service of the St. Mary's Bay Baptist Church, was held in the church at Barton, on Wednesday of last week.

The beautiful day with the glorious sunshine smiling over the blue waters of the Bay made an ideal setting.

As always, on these occasions, the services of the day were profoundly reverent, impressive and heart-searching. The large congregations made worshipful response to words of inspiration, admonition and the never-fading call to more determined, united, progressive endeavour in the church's mission and task.

The service of the afternoon began with an enthusiastic song-service.

The calling of the Roll elicited loyal response from present and absent members.

The guest speakers were: Rev. E. C. Churchill, pastor of the Weymouth Baptist Church; and Rev. C. E. Rockingham, pastor of the Deep Brook and Smith's Cove Baptist Churches.

Mr. Churchill took for his theme, in the address of the afternoon, "Heaven's Supreme Joy", as enunciated by the Master, "Likewise I say unto you, there is more joy in heaven over one sinner that repenteth".

The church-reunion and social hour was much enjoyed and participated in by a large number.

The service of the evening was even more largely attended and a deeply interested and sympathetic congregation gave earnest attention to the splendid mesage brought by Mr. Rockingham.

Mr. Rockingham took as his theme: "Our Missionary Outlook and Responsibility"—The challenge to the church, as outlined in the Master's world-program, which must be entered into courageously and expectantly by every member of the church. "The exigencies of the times: the international stress and strain; the united and determined onslaughts of the foes of righteousness—all combine in a clarion call to the church of Christ for united, aggressive endeavour, that the Kingdoms of this world may become the Kingdoms of our Lord and His Christ."

The music by the United Choirs of the pastorate, was of a very high order, uplifting and inspiring.

The offering was a splendid one, and, as in past years, will place the church on the "honor roll" in the denominational report.

INCREASE IN TOBACCO IM- PORTS REFLECTS PROSPERITY, BRITAIN

With the growing prosperity in Great Britain consumption of tobacco is on the increase. Imports from Canada for 1936 registered a 55 per cent increase in stripped leaf and 20 per cent unstripped. Canada supplied 4,014,577 pounds of the former and 8,586,366 of the latter. The United States is the largest source of supply. 48,201,691 pounds of stripped leaf were imported last year and 223,930,511 pounds unstripped.

NOVA SCOTIANS are ASKING—

When

IS THE PUBLIC DEBT UP $29,000,000?

In 1925, when the present government (pledged to reduce taxation) came into power, the public debt was $60,000,000. At the end of this fiscal year it will be $97,000,000. And yet, the government claims that it has improved provincial finances during its term of office. IF SO, WHY HAS THE PUBLIC DEBT INCREASED OVER 42%?

WILL TAXES STOP INCREASING?

In the last four years government revenue has increased from $7,200,000 to $10,600,000. But government revenue means TAXATION. And taxes come out of the pockets of the people, directly or indirectly. An increase of $3,400,000, or almost 50%, is certainly worthy of close scrutiny. WHEN WILL IT STOP?

DOES THE TAXPAYER GET OFF?

People who live beyond their means sooner or later get into trouble. So it is with governments. A spendthrift individual and a spendthrift government are much the same—they are quick to promise the impossible, and they are experts at spending other people's money. But Nova Scotia cannot stand an orgy of wasteful spending. Her resources, rich though they may be, are rapidly disappearing. The provincial spendthrift's mad course must be checked lest it leads to... where? ... CHAOS!!

The above questions are but three of many which Nova Scotians are asking today. The answers will not inspire confidence in the present administration, nor create a feeling of stability for the future. But, as in most critical situations,—

There IS a way out!

The man who brought order out of industrial and governmental chaos in 1925; and guided the province back to economic prominence in the years that followed, has not been idle since the present government took office. Far from it! He is well equipped to cope with the crisis which is now darkening the industrial horizon in Nova Scotia. He is ready to step into the breach as he did twelve years ago when the Murray-Armstrong-MacMillan ministry by its inaction precipitated industrial disaster. Well may he be expected to repeat his famous record of 1925-1933, during which time no serious industrial situation occurred in any mining district in Nova Scotia.

Shortly, Col. Gordon S. Harrington, leader of the Conservative party, will present the party's program of constructive policies for the administration of the affairs of the Province. Note the strength or purpose... the many evidences of mature experience. Be reassured! Your interests will be protected!

Support Harrington and his Candidates, and . . .

CHILD KILLED AT UPPER CLEMENTS

Little Stanley Woodland, known as "Sonny," the three-year-old child of Ernest Woodland, of Upper Clements, who was struck by a truck on the main highway Saturday evening, died early Monday morning of hemorrhage of the brain. Escaping from his father, who was crossing the road, the child ran into the passing vehicle and was hurled 30 feet into the ditch. Picked up unconscious (from which he did not recover) medical and surgical aid were of no avail. He is survived by his parents, his mother being formerly Miss Marion Purdy, of Upper Clements, and baby brother, Richard L.; by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woodland, and a large number of other relatives. Much sympathy is felt for the family in this tragic event. The funeral was held at Clementsport on Wednesday afternoon.

The new theatre is to be erected on the site but building operations will not start until September. It was originally intended to have this new theatre open for the summer business but so much red tape is involved in building a theatre that it was found impossible to start it in time.

Predicting Good Hay Crop

Farmers throughout the county are predicting one of the heaviest hay crops in years, and already some cutting is being done. The season so far has been blessed with plenty of rain and sunshine, most of the rain falling during the night time, and as a result all crops have benefited. One of the finest small gardens we have seen this season is that of W. E. VanBlarcom, who has utilized every available inch of space in his back yard. Mr. VanBlarcom's peas have been in blossom for about ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bacon and family, were very agreeably surprised on Saturday when their son, Russell, who has been away for thirteen years, arrived home. He motored from Sausalito, California, and expects to remain for a couple of months. His many friends were pleased to see him.

Keith Hiltz, who has been a patient in the Digby General Hospital the past four months, returned to his home at Mahone Bay on Wednesday, accompanied by Mrs. Hiltz and infant daughter, Gaylan.

Fire Causes Great Loss

One of the hardest blows in the history of Digby in recent years came Tuesday, morning when the large two story lumber mill of H. T. Warne, Ltd., located in the south end of the town, was destroyed by fire, with a loss estimated at over $50,000. The mill, which for years has been giving employment to a large number of men, will not be rebuilt, according to a statement given to the press by Mr. Warne.

The alarm was sounded shortly before 2 o'clock Tuesday morning and, within very few minutes, the fire apparatus was on the scene. On their arrival at the mill, the blaze, for the most part, was confined to the rear section of the big building, but spread very quickly. Within a matter of a few minutes the whole structure was a mass of fire and nothing whatever could be done to save the building or its valuable contents.

Within less than an hour the building was leveled to the ground. All that was left to mark the site of Digby's largest industry was a pile of smouldering debris and twisted machinery absolutely ruined by the intense heat. A tall, well-built chimney stands as a monument to Mr. Warne's half-century of work in building up a business that is known not only locally, but in many parts of Canada, the United States and the West Indies.

Included among the materials destroyed were two carloads of box shooks which were to be shipped that day to the West Indies. The box factory was housed in the same building.

The mill had not enjoyed a busier season for years than right at the present time. Men were being employed night and day and during the month of May the cut exceeded 450,000 feet.

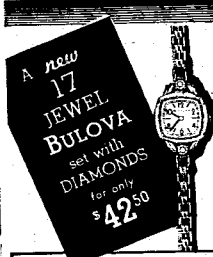

When discovered the fire was in the boiler room, near the rear, boiled and spread rapidly to all parts of the building. A sprinkler system installed a little more than a year ago functioned perfectly according to reports but the pressure of the water was not sufficient to have any effect, it is reported.

Firemen did well to save nearby buildings; the bungalow of Ralph Theriault and the Surette house were threatened and water played on them continually. A small barn, near the Surette house caught several times, but was not destroyed. Had this barn been allowed to burn, the loss to other properties nearby might have been heavy.

District Division.

The Digby County District Division met with Anchor of Hope Division, in Centreville, last Thursday afternoon and evening. This was a good representation of delegates and visitors present, and the sessions were instructive. The G. W. P., A. W. Leslie, of Dartmouth, and the Field Secretary, Rev. A. A. McLeod, were present, and took active parts in the work. At the public meeting in the evening they were the principal speakers.

DIGBY DEFEATS BRIDGETOWN

The Digby Junior baseball team continued their winning streak by outscoring the Bridgetown Juniors 26 to 6 on Saturday afternoon at the school field. The Juniors have a promising young bunch of players and showed good work in the field and in batting. Frank Raymond on mound assisted by Arthur Golden behind the plate, held the visitors to a few scattered hits for the full nine innings. The few spectators present especially enjoyed the consistency with which the Digby boys kept their bats ringing in and out during the game. The umpires were F. Munroe and D. Daley. The line-up were the same as in Bridgetown.

A HARD BLOW

Just how hard a blow the destruction of Warne's Mill to the town and county was, it is hard to estimate. An idea may be formed when it is learned that 86 men from the nearby country drove into town on Tuesday morning to report for work, only to find that the place of employment has been destroyed a few hours previously. That many were badly disappointed, goes without saying. One of them, in speaking with us, said, "I didn't get much wages, but I did know where I was going to get something to eat, and now God only knows what we will do." Mr. Warne has given employment to hundreds of men, many of whom otherwise would have been on relief, and this employment will be missed. We sympathize with Mr. Warne in his loss and sincerely hope that he will see his way clear to rebuild. Knowing him as we do, we feel sure he has too much "get up and get" about him to merely lay back and retire—Tupper would not be Tupper if he were not already considering plans for carrying on business in some form or other and finding employment for those who would otherwise be down and out.

Mrs. Maurice Webber returned home from Boston on Tuesday. She has not yet fully recovered from the severe fall she sustained last winter, but is improving. She is very grateful for the many enquiries made and the kind expressions of sympathy received.

Tree Forms Its New Buds Before It Sheds Leaves

The growing periods of trees usually are the same as the periods when the leaves are green. In winter they rest and live economically what they have laid away, waiting for the return of spring to continue their growth. Otherwise a writer in the Missouri Farmer. It is in his way that the "growth rings" are formed, and when a tree is cut, these rings show the periods of growth and of rest which the tree has lived through.

The buds are inactive during the winter. Most of them were formed before the leaves were shed in the fall. They are protected by cork scales, sometimes covered with wax secreted by the tree. In this way they pass the cold days in comfort, resting till the warm rays shall lure them to burst from their little houses and spring out as new green leaves.

The roots continue to absorb water unless the ground is frozen all about them. However, they usually have many roots which go down far below the first line, and are always able to search for water. Since the whole tree is very inactive, it requires very little water compared with the active summer months. The tree is constantly losing water by evaporation, and if the roots are not able to secure as much water as is evaporated from the limbs and twigs, death is likely to result. In summer, one tree may lose nearly a thousand gallons of water in a single day by evaporation. For this amount may be reduced to a few pints or less.

Shakers, Serious People, in Sober Gray and White

Their woolsens and upholsteries' plushes glow with rich color. So, too, with the furniture. Simple in line and mass, it is rich with the warm texture of wood worn smooth by diligent hands.

Just the names show what a rigorously functional culture was the makers'. A tallness counter, a oval rack, a sewing cabinet, a wood box, wall cupboards, trustees' desk, a mirror and rack (touch of 'antique'), an infirmary three-drawer washstand, a blanket chest, a dairy counter, a wall clock, a trestle table, a weave chest, a loom board, a loom stool—here are the objects revealing more than words can of the daily existence of the Shakers. It was a life built around the crafts, around agriculture and artisanship. And the craftsmen used the materials of daily life, the native pine, maple, birch and cherry, sometimes staining the wood deeper tones.

Yugoslav Theater Is 324

One of the oldest known theaters in Europe and a relic of the Italian Renaissance influence, which swept Dalmatia in the sixteenth century, is the National Theater in Hvar Island, which ranks, also, as the first Yugoslav theater. Built in 1612, to the order of Pietro Semelco, Duke of Hvar, it bears a marble plate commemorating the "Second Year of Peace, 1612," referring to the restored peace after a century of civil warfare between Hvar citizens and nobles. Two other theaters were built before it, according to an authority. They are the theater at Venice, built in 1568, and the theater at Vicenza, built in 1585.

Hawaii Got Turkeys in 1815

America is the home of the turkey but Hawaii never saw a turkey until more than 100 years ago. In 1815 Queen Kaahumanu went aboard a trading schooner and saw turkeys. Capt. John Meek had obtained in Chile. Never had she seen such large birds before. Upon going ashore she told the king. The king went to the vessel and asked for the birds. Upon refusal he seized the turkeys and went ashore. The birds later escaped. On the slopes of the island's volcanoes and even in the United States national park wild turkeys are fairly numerous, believed to be descendants of those brought to the islands by Captain Meek.

Cannot Live Without Salt

Neither man nor beast can live without salt. It is essential to the health of all living things. The Romans paid wages in salt—whence the word "salary." "True to his salt" meant loyal to his employer, who paid him his wage. "To spill the salt"—i. e., to lose hard-earned cash—was a bit of bad luck. It grew the superstition that it is unlucky to spill salt. The Jews used salt in sacrifices, and spilling the salt after it had been placed on the victim's head was held to be a bad omen.

Bassoon Reaches Deep Tones

The bassoon is the low voice of the wood-wind group and great skill is required to make it deliver the effects of which it is capable. It has possibilities as an orchestral clown, but is also capable of warm and passionate expression. It is valuable in the orchestra to increase the body of tone and infuse it with warmth. The contrabassoon is a larger instrument with still deeper notes. About sixteen feet long, it is folded six times upon itself.

Many Common Words Are Records of Past Events

Many words in common use are records of events or personalities of the past. In some cases, states a writer in London Tit-Bits Magazine, the meaning has changed since it was first introduced, in others the passage of years has altered its form altogether.

When we light a "bonfire," we give no thought to St. John, in whose honor it is kindled. The fifteenth century fires made from clean bones (bones-fires) were lit.

The "Jerusalem" artichoke has nothing to do with Palestine; its proper name is the globe artichoke (sunflower) artichoke. Carelessness and popular appeal has given it its more romantic name, and even soup made from artichokes is known as Palestine soup.

"Rotten Row," in Hyde park, London, was originally known as the Route du Roi, being the Plantagenet kings' route from Westminster to the royal forests. "Pall Mall" received its name because a game in which a palle, or iron ball, was struck through the rings of a gutter, a mail or maillet, was played there.

We use the phrase "to the bitter end" as though referring to the harsh dregs of wine or medicine. Originally it was a nautical expression meaning the end of a ship's cable, that part of it which is shaft the bits—two pieces of timber from the limbs and twigs, death is likely to result. In summer, one tree may lose nearly a thousand gallons of water in a single day by evaporation. For this amount may be reduced to a few pints or less.

Pair of Dog Tongs Held as Welsh Church Relic

The church at Clynog Fawr, a few miles down the coast from Carnarvon, Wales, preserves as one of its curiosities a pair of dog tongs, used in the old days for seizing fighting dogs and throwing them out of church.

In the past it was a common thing for Welsh sheep dogs to follow their masters to church and curl up in the pew, sleeping through the service. Occasionally, as the Welsh used to say, "the devil would enter into them," and there would be a fight, until the dog tongs, shaped like a long with large teeth, were taken down from the wall and used to eject the fighting animals.

One Welsh parson, it is said, used to take his dog Tango to church, where it would sleep in front of the lectern while its master conducted the worship. One day the dog spied an enemy, a farmer's dog, in the congregation and a terrific fight began.

The dog tongs were useless and the fight became so exciting that the church service was suspended and everyone gathered round to watch. Above the noise of the battle, visitors to this region about Mount Snowden are always told, the parson's voice could be heard shouting, "Three to one on Tango!"

Formerly a pair of dog tongs could be found in most of the churches in this section. They are now quite rare and those at Clynog Fawr are one of the curiosities to see in Wales.

Oldest Woman's Club in U. S.

The Ladies' Education Society of Jacksonville, Ill., is the oldest woman's club in the United States, says the Chicago Tribune. The Jacksonville society was organized in 1833. The second oldest society was the Maternal association, organized in 1838, consisting of all the white women of the Northwest. The club came to a tragic end with the killing by the Indians of its secretary, Mrs. Narcissus Whitman. The third club was the Alpha Delphin of Alameda, N. Y., started in 1846. The fourth is the Ladies Physiological Society of Boston, organized in 1848. So strong was the opposition to any woman's club in Boston that no woman was brave enough to preside, and for the first two years Professor Bronson of Harvard occupied the chair at its meetings.

Isle of St. Michael

The island of St. Michael, termed "Lake of Seven Cities" comprises 267 square miles and is 830 miles west of Portugal. Once famous as the first stopping place for Spanish galleons on their return from the West Indies, the harbor city of Ponta Delgada, of nearly 250,000 population, presents a mixture of descendants from Phoenician and Carthaginian traders to an aristocracy descended from Portuguese navigators.

The Hon. Gordon S. Harrington
Leader of the Conservative Party

Gordon S. Harrington, have the honour to present on behalf of the Conservative Party of Nova Scotia, the following Platform adopted at our Convention held at Truro on July 14th, 1936.

We Pledge to the citizens of Nova Scotia that, when returned to power, we will:

- RESUME the constructive and progressive policies of the Conservative administration of 1933, in all branches of Government:
- EXERCISE the most efficient financial control and economy in the administration of public affairs with a view to ensuring value to the taxpayer:
- MAINTAIN a Legislature constituted upon the principle of representation by population with no increase in the number of representatives:
- GIVE the highest possible standard of Trunk Roads and bring back to their former good condition and maintain the secondary roads of the Province now seriously neglected for three years:
- ASSIST the farmer in solving many difficult problems affecting him, co-operate with him in the promotion of the Agricultural Industry and re-institute an enlightened Land Settlement Plan:
- FORWARD a social program consisting of maternity benefits, unemployment insurance, accident and health insurance, Widows' and Orphans' pensions and invalidity and old age pensions, and press for any constitutional amendment required for such a national program:
- EXERT every effort to increase the purchasing power of the consumer in the Province so that the people may enjoy the fruit of our common heritage in greater measure:
- ABOLISH partizan political control from the administration of the Provincial Government hospitals:
- EFFECT such re-organization of Municipal Administration as may be necessary to make the system efficient and economical:
- CREATE a more equitable and efficient school unit; adapt our rural schools more closely to the needs of our rural population; develop our secondary schools for more practical training and guidance and further adult education:
- ENCOURAGE the processing and improving the utilization of coal; assist prospecting and developing metal mining; effect the operation of gold deposits; expand the generation and distribution of electric power throughout this Province with a view to supplying every home with electric energy at a cost within the reach of all, and to supply power within areas where inexpensive power is not now available for the development of industries; explore further uses for the products of our forests, farms, fisheries and mines, and stimulate the sale of these products to buyers in all countries:
- THE Conservative Party condemns the present Government for its failure to respect many of the pledges upon which it was elected to office; for its persistent and flagrant subordination of the public interest to partizan expediency, and for its inability to provide the Province with an effective administration comparable to that provided by the Government with held office from 1925 to 1933.

M.C. DENTON Contractor and Builder Digby, Nova Scotia

This splendid new building was erected by us, and we are pleased with its appearance. We extend our best wishes to Capt. Morrell, the owner, and to the occupants, the Scotia Restaurant and Jack Rosenthal, for every success.

The New Block

One of the finest and most up-to-date additions to the business premises of Western Nova Scotia has just been completed and opens on Monday as a restaurant and lodging house principally, but there will also be an antique store on the ground floor. The building, which is owned by George M. Morrell, is on the north-west corner of Prince William and Birch Streets, adjoining the railway station, and is a very attractive structure. It is two storeys high, 75 feet long and 35 feet wide. The outside is finished on the first storey by "Murray-made brick siding," in natural colors, and the second floor is shingled and finished in ivory, making a very attractive building. Fronting on Birch Street is a store 35 by 16 feet, with three show windows, which is to be occupied by Jack Rosenthal. Immediately in the rear of this, with windows looking over the station square—is the restaurant proper. It is 35 by 32 feet in size and in finish is equal to the best city restaurant. The booths and settees are of mahogany and the table tops are black and gold vitrolite. The walls and ceiling in both restaurant and store, are of panelled teatext, in sun-tan and cream, and the floors are of hard wood. Silent salesman show cases, and wall cabinets match the furniture and a soda fountain is being installed.

The kitchen is equipped with all the latest and best in hotel ranges and supplies for the preparation of food in the quickest time possible.

Behind the kitchen—on the end of the building nearest the station—are the living apartments of Mr. Hayden and his family.

Upstairs there are thirteen bedrooms with running water, all newly furnished, with attractive rugs, shades, and furniture, and all the beds are equipped with Simond's Spring Mattresses. Each room has its own color scheme and their very appearance invites restfulness.

The Courier extends hearty congratulations to Capt. Morrell, the Scotia Restaurant and Mr. Rosenthal, and wishes them every success.

Junior Choir in Meteghan.

On Saturday afternoon the Junior Choir of Grace United Church left at one o'clock for Meteghan, where they put on a concert at Sacred Heart Academy. The Convent girls and the choir were taken in William Hazleton's truck to see the schooner "Venture" which had been launched only the Wednesday previous. The afternoon was an enjoyable event for all and will long be remembered by the choir as one of the best trips they have had. They were accompanied by Mrs. Gerald Syda and Mrs. Roy Spow.

MOTORISTS' PROTESTS MORE VIGOROUS

Throughout Canada and the United States protests of motorists over the exorbitant taxes imposed upon them are becoming more and more vigorous.

These taxes were imposed for the purpose of building and maintaining roads, although most governments refused to earmark motor revenues definitely for highway purposes.

In most of the states and provinces, motorists have actually paid larger sums than have been spent on roadbuilding and maintenance. In most cases also the governments "bought on credit and sold for cash," that is, they took the motor revenues into current account and spent them for general purposes, but borrowed the greater part of the money spent on roads, thus building up a huge bonded debt.

This combination of debt building and unfortunately in some cases extravagance, was had enough in normal times. But when the depression arrived, governments promptly stopped spending money on roads, where ever it was possible for them to stop anything, but continued to collect from the motorist in license and gasoline tax at the same or higher rates.

The New Kidney Remedy WORKS WONDERS They Flush the Kidneys

For years chemists have been experimenting on a kidney remedy that would really flush out the thousands of little filters that become clogged. The kidneys must be kept working properly in order to throw off our waste matter.

The new remedy sold under the trade name NOX KIDNEY FLUSHERS removes these poisons through the natural channel, thus preventing the poisons from entering into the blood stream. They actually cleanse these filters in the kidneys, and almost immediately the backache disappears.

They allow you to have restful nights, and the entire urinary tract is made antiseptic. There is no need of nursing a backache. After a few days' treatment, you will notice a vast improvement in your general health. Your eyes become clear and bright, your backache disappears—no more getting up at night.

Nox Kidney Flushers are in tablet form and each package contains one month's treatment. If you suffer from any disorder of the kidneys, the One Dose spent for the month's treatment will be the best dollar ever spent. Get Nox Kidney Flushers from:

Home-Made Glasses Used

When Eyesight Grew Dim

Not for a moment must we believe that all of our ancestors' eyes were so perfect that some eye help was not needed, for many old spectacles testify that the tinkerer at least tinkered himself spectacles when the letters grew dim. A window glass was often the only lens available for the home-made frames and eye-charts did not come into existence until the 16th century. If a man had a forge he could hammer out a pair of iron frames, or twist some of pewter and make himself specs which could be "healed" for several generations, says a writer in the New York Sun.

But there were difficulties. Well enough, said the old tinkerer, to fix a contraption to hold two pieces of glass in front of the eyes, but to make a lens that would make a man see better, that was another matter. A leather strap was one answer; two short sticks for "temples" running up under the hair was another; the straight bow with rings in the end and a cord for tying behind, another; then came bows which slid upon themselves; and finally, there was the bow which curved enough to fit the head and clip on behind the ears.

There was a time in the 1700s when lenses were extremely small, not for seeing but for giving the appearance of learning. In the 1830s we had some long lenses, oblong, hexagonal and octagonal. Then some one thought of a frame which supported the lower part of the lens and left the upper part free, and we were on our way to the rimless specs. Another thought up green glasses and they were worn in shining steel frames; and some other made specs with fine wire which crisscrossed to form the nose-piece.

Moon Has Varying Pull

on Oceans and Currents

According to a famous American astronomer, the moon has a tremendous effect upon the earth. It can, in fact, entirely alter the fortunes of mankind through its influence on the weather and oceans. Its other powers are still vague mysteries.

The solid earth actually shifts under the moon's gravitational pull, and for this reason a scientist declares that lovers under the moonlight are not on their balance in more ways than one.

Droughts, famines, and hurricanes can all be wrought about by lunar action, and the ancient superstition concerning the moon's share in cold weather is based on solid fact, as asserts a correspondent in Pearson's London Weekly.

In circling around the earth, the moon moves northward for just under half the year, and its swings southward for an equal period of time. This is a fixed and regular cycle. The northward movement brings unusually cold weather in Europe and the U. S., while the southward trend means mild conditions. This is because of the varying pull which the moon exerts on the oceans and their warm currents.

Panda, Asiatic Animal

Few if any mammals are more rare than the giant panda, an Asiatic animal of most unusual and striking appearance. The giant panda has been characterized as an animal with a face like a raccoon, a body like a bear, and feet like a cat. While such descriptions are not scientifically accurate, they have some basis in fact, states an authority, adding also that the animal's teeth have a certain resemblance to those of a pig. The giant panda is about the size of a black bear, has a white head and body, large black circles around its eyes, black legs, and a black band around its shoulders.

Fashions in Early Days

Fashion played an important part in the early social life of this country. At exclusive dances and parties, called "assemblies," the fashionable gentlemen wore "bolivar" frock coats of some gay colored cloth, blue, or green, or claret, with large lapels and gilded buttons. Their linen was ruffled; their "Cossack" trousers were voluminous in size and were tucked into high "Hessian" boots with gold tassels. They wore two and sometimes three waistcoats, each of different colors.

Ostrich Is Pampered

The most highly pampered farm animal in the world is the ostrich, owing to the sensitivity of its growing feathers. Of the numerous conditions that mar them and lessen their value, says Collier's Weekly, none is more insidious than the normal fluctuation in the blood pressure of the bird each day and night. This slight change is often "recorded" on the plumes in alternating densities.

First to Get U. S. Patent

Senator John Ruggles of Maine was the first man to get a patent in the United States after the creation of the patent office in the department of state on July 4, 1836. It was for a system of cog gears. Dental plates were first patented in this country in 1840, the player piano in 1889, the dial telephone in 1889, Time Magazine.

Grave Flowers Sold

Arrest of a man at Hamburg, Germany, revealed a growing trade in flowers placed on graves. The prisoner was charged with stealing floral pieces in the cemetery at Ohlsdorf. It is alleged that he and his 15-year-old child recently removed $60 worth of flowers from graves and that his wife resold them.

Blinding Headaches Made Her Helpless

Forced to Lie Down for Hours at a Time

Other sufferers from headaches will be interested to read this letter:

"Until last summer I was subject to very bad headaches. While they lasted I seemed to lose my sight and all power in my hands, and was forced to lie down for hours at a time. My aunt (who has taken Kruschen Salts for 12 years with beneficial results) suggested my trying them. I did so, and I've not had any return of those headaches for months, in fact I feel quite better. I shall always take Kruschen regularly in future."

(Mrs. M. W.) Headaches can frequently be traced to a disordered stomach, and the unsuspected retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. The numerous salts in Kruschen assist in the complete elimination of waste matter, resulting in a purer bloodstream, and thus helping to bring relief from headaches.

Rivers Flow Underground

Although it is frequently printed that Barbados has no rivers, this assertion is entirely untrue. There are a number of rivers, but they all flow underground. From these subterranean streams the towns are supplied with pure water. It is nevertheless true that one may travel from end to end and from side to side of the island and never see a stream or pond worthy of the name. So easy is it to tap one of the many subterranean rivers of Barbados that upward of 300 miles of pipes carry the water to all towns and hamlets on the island.

"Going to Putney on a Pig"

The saying "Going to Putney on a Pig" had its beginning in the playful chaff on the road to the University Boat race. In the early days of the race, says a writer in Pearson's London Weekly, it was usual to use all kinds of vehicles to get to Putney, including the small cart drawn by two dogs, the costermonger's barrow and donkey, and every other type of conveyance. The singularity of some of the turn-outs, no doubt, suggested the comical idea of going to the race on a pig.

Salt-Cellar a Massive Piece

In medieval days the family salter, or salt-cellar, was a massive piece of silver, placed halfway up the long table at which the head of the family and his guests and retainers dined. Persons of distinction sat nearest the head of the table, above the salt-cellar; the more humble folk near the foot, below it. So came the expression of compliment or respect, "to sit above the salt."

Dutch Traders Successful

Of the many attempts made by European nations to trade with Japan in the Sixteenth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries all failed excepting that by the Dutch, who, by a curious arrangement whereby the necessary Japanese interpreters were trained to carry on an oral conversation in Dutch, but were forbidden to learn to read or write Dutch under penalty of death.

Water Clock Was Used by

Chinese, Hindus Ages Ago

An ancient time-telling device was the clepsydra, or water clock. Like the sundial, it was invented so long ago that there is no authentic record of its origin, observes a writer in the Washington Post. It was used by the Chinese and Hindus from the earliest times, but it was developed most extensively by those clever people, the Greeks. And, they had a way for it, for the name comes from the two Greek words meaning "the thief of water." Its simplest form was that of two vessels, one of which had a small vent which allowed water to drop slowly into the other. One of the vessels was graduated, and the height of the water in it at any given time indicated the hour.

The Greeks and Romans installed water clocks in the forums or market squares of their cities, guarded by a civic officer whose duty it was to keep it filled and in order. Wealthy citizens sent their servants around to find the exact time from it, while the poorer classes were informed by the sound of a horn which was blown by the attendant "every hour on the hour." The Romans also installed water clocks in their law courts. The device was filled up when a lawyer started his oration, and when the water ran out he had to stop. "This," said a writer of the day, "was to prevent babblings, that such as spoke ought to be brief in their speeches."

Queen Bee Is Very Busy

During swarming season bees reveal most amazingly the intricate functioning of instinct, states a writer in Literary Digest. New queens have been developed in their circular cells. Quality of food determines whether an egg shall become a queen or a worker. Queens are fed bee-ly (propolis) by their nursemaids, workers receive bee-bread, which is largely pollen scraped from the hairy legs of worker bees. The old queen departs with her retinue, leaves the hive to the newly hatched queen.

The virgin queen prowls around looking for the cells of unhatched queens. The colony is large enough to permit swarming guards prevent the virgin queen from attacking her sisters who are on the point of hatching. If the hive population is small, swarming is inadvisable, the newly hatched queens battle to the death, the fittest remaining to take charge of the hive as ruthless dictator.

When the hive is large enough to swarm, bees leave the colony in clouds to follow their new queen. They gather in great clusters, clinging to one another's bodies, on tree limbs, fence posts, about any nearby object, and the alert beekeeper must have a new hive ready to entice them into.

In a Velvet Gown

It is a far cry from the Arabs at El Fustate near Cairo to the looms of velvet on this continent, says the Montreal Herald. More than 2,000 years have elapsed since our earliest records of velvets among the Persians and East Indians. From the Arabs the art of velvet weaving went to the Spaniards, then to Sicily, and in the Sixteenth century, into France where it developed under the skill of the most creative and intelligent hand-loomers to power-loomers, to meet the volume of demand, the process of weaving has gone on. Velvet is woven in two pieces at a time, face to face and cut with a knife afterward, leaving a straight erect pile—the test of all pile velvets. First, heavy thick velvets were made, later finer types of velvets known as Lyons, then chiffon velvets and after that the sleazierizing, draping material known as transparent velvet.

America's Own Cabinet Styles

By the end of the Eighteenth century America had developed fine cabinet-makers and a style of her own. It is true that they were influenced by the great Georgian masters. The American designers of this period almost immediately seized the Empire styles and modified them into American Empire. In America the frills, the paint and the gilt of the French empire were dropped. The natural color and grain of the wood were brought out.

Early Washington Assemblies

The Washington assemblies in the early period of the republic were ceremonious and exclusive affairs. Admission was obtained only by cards of invitation. No gentleman whatever may have been his rank or calling, was permitted on the floor unless he was attired in full evening dress, with pumps, silk stockings, and flowing cravat, unless he belonged to the army or navy, in which case complete regiments were necessary.

Associated Metal With Planets

The ancient astrologers associated a certain metal with each planet. Gold belonged to the sun, silver to the moon, iron to Mars, mercury to Mercury, tin to Jupiter, copper to Venus, and lead to Saturn. Lead was a precious metal because it represented wisdom after suffering. It was believed that to wear the metal of your sign brought you good luck.

Fat Boy Gets Big Bed

Hit by a bullet while he was on exhibition in a tent next to the "bullet-proof" lady, Peter White, 15-year-old circus "fat boy" was rushed to a hospital in Bathurst, Australia. As Peter weighs 560 pounds there was no bed in the hospital big enough to hold him and a special one was made.

BARTON MAN KILLED IN HIGHWAY ACCIDENT

Struck by a timber laden truck, Fred Durling, 76-year-old highway worker of Barton, six miles from Digby, died of his injuries in the Digby General Hospital at 11:20 Monday morning. A coroner's jury inquiring into the cause of his death returned a verdict of accidental death and attached no blame to the driver of the truck.

The truck was driven by Leo J. Comeau, for H. T. Warner, Ltd., Digby, and was enroute from Bloomfield to Digby when the accident occurred between 9 and 9:30 that morning.

According to evidence given at the inquest, the aged man became confused in his attempt to get out of the way of the approaching truck which witnesses say was travelling about 10 miles an hour. Comeau, in his testimony told of driving along the main highway toward Digby and of meeting a highway truck from which men were unloading gravel. The truck was facing the opposite direction from which he was travelling. He slackened speed to pass the truck, and continued at a slow rate to pass the workmen. As he was approaching the brow of the Digby hill, he said he kept well over on his right side of the road.

As he approached the Barton Baptist church he saw two men raking gravel who moved out of the road when he blew his horn. One of them (who proved to be Durling), on reaching the centre of the road, turned and started to return to the right side of the road. To avoid him, Comeau said he swung the truck toward the centre of the road at about the same time the man started again for the centre.

Concern then tried to swing to the right just as the man started to cross to the right, stepping in front of truck and falling in front of the bumper.

The car was brought to a stop and the driver instructed to back about two feet. Durling was found lying pitifully injured between the front and rear wheels, although it is not thought the wheels passed over his body.

Dr. W. C. Harris, whose residence is within sight of the scene of the accident, was summoned, and on arriving had the injured man placed in his car and rushed him to the Digby General Hospital, arriving there at 9:45.

The whole left side of Durling's face was torn away to the bone, the left ear torn off, and the jaw fractured. He also suffered other injuries and severe body bruises, including broken ribs and internal injuries.

INQUEST INTO EXTRACT DEATHS ADJOURNED

Death silenced the chief witness in the fatal poisoning case at the Bear River Indian reservation when John McEwan, 75-year-old MicMac, succumbed to poisoning in the Digby General Hospital last Friday night.

The inquest into the death of Mrs. Rose Muise, another reservation resident, resumed Friday night, but was adjourned until the night of June 26th by Dr. L. J. Lovett, coroner, who has called a second probe into McEwan's death, believed to be from the cause as that which took the life of the Muise woman on the afternoon of June 10th.

The aged Indian, McEwan, was to have been the chief witness in the Muise probe.

Several witnesses were sworn and examined in the later inquest, that of McEwan. The first called was Dr. A. B. Campbell, who told the history of McEwan's case from the time of his admission to the Digby hospital on the afternoon of June 10th, as the result of drinking lemon and vanilla extracts. At the time of his admission, although he was weak, his condition was not alarming. He continued to improve until the 15th when cerebral conditions became pronounced; on the 16th he sank into a coma and remained in that condition until he died at 6:55 Friday morning.

The doctor said McEwan became ill as the result of drinking the extracts, and owing to his age other conditions developed which resulted in his death.

ACADEMY CLOSING

On Thursday evening the graduation exercises of Digby High School were held. The graduation classes marched in to "Largo" and opened the exercises by singing one verse of "O God Our Father in Ages Past," which was followed by a prayer. Chairman P. W. Holdsworth introduced Rev. Dr. Hodgson, the guest speaker of the evening. Miss Elizabeth DeWitt rendered two delightful solos. Mayor M. C. Denton gave a short address and read the prize list, and presented the prizes. His own personal prize was delivered to Geraldine Syda for the highest average in English over years' period, by singing one verse of "O God Our Father in Ages Past." The Valedictory was read by Miss Harriett Campbell. William Christie gave the Class Prophecy for Grade XII, and Geraldine Syda the Class Prophecy for Grade XI. Mr. Boden gave a brief talk to the graduation classes and the programme closed by all singing "God Save the King."

The Valedictory address and Prophecies will be published next week, as they arrived too late for this edition.

THE GAME OF LIFE

Now boys how many of you don't like games? I'm sure I know the answer to that. None.
Of course all don't like the same kind of game nor are they fitted for the same kind either. You may all like base-ball and hockey but no doubt some of you wouldn't be qualified to play a championship game. There is one game however that each of you have got to play, and it's up to you how well you play it, whether you are successful or not, and that is the Game of Life. And this is a game where no one can substitute for you, but each and every one of you must stick to your post, no matter where it places you, through thick and thin, until the end.
And boys, always remember too, that you can win through and have your name on the honor roll of success or go down in defeat and be called a failure. I am convinced none of you want that.

Now all games have rules, and the chief one of them all is good sportsmanship and playing the game square. Never try to deceive yourself and you will never be guilty of deceiving others. A writer once wrote these words: "If to Thyself thou art true, Thou canst be false to others." Oh that every one of you would always bear that in mind, how much unhappiness it might save you. None can tell.

In playing games the uniform counts for a great deal. There is always something about a uniform that draws our attention and speaks to us in a language of its own. You can always tell what kind of a game each player is engaged in by looking at his uniform. Now the game each of you are to play on your own account must therefore have a very distinct uniform. In the Game of Life and its equipment we might begin at the feet, because in our sense of the word it's as much a race as a game and a runner must be well shod in order to endure until the finish.
I think it would be a splendid thing to have each of you shod with "Truth." That is the best wearing material for such a game. Of course I know it's going to get pretty well battered at times and will have to be repaired quite often, but in the end it's bound to stand the test.
It's indurible.

A runner in a marathon has to have a firm grasp on something in each hand so I suggest that "Honor" be held firmly by each one of you, and on no occasion must you ever lose your hold. That is a very important and necessary part of your equipment. Never forget that, and never let any person convince you otherwise. Hold "Honor" high in everything you do, from start to finish.

Your breast plate must be "Courage", and of course must form a large part of your equipment or uniform, and you must have lots of it, as no doubt all through the Game of Life, to be true to yourself and your convictions, you will have to stand alone, God helping you, as He is always on the side of Right against Might. It is going to be a battle as well and you will be battered on all sides by the enemies of mankind. The world is full of them.

FRANCE LEADING COURSE OF WORLD PERFUMES

France is the world's leading source of supply for toilet articles, essential oils and perfumes and the second most important source of pharmaceutical products. In export of chemical products France occupies fourth place with Germany in first position, Great Britain second and the United States third. France, like Germany, is intensely interested in synthetic fuel for international combustion engines and is putting forth strenuous efforts in an endeavor to produce these.

200 TYPES OF TAXES ON OIL INDUSTRY

There are more than 200 types of taxes in North America imposed on the oil industry.
Several of them are collected in every operation of the business from setting up equipment in the oilfields to selling gasoline and lubricating oil at the filling station. Every product and by-product from crude oil as it comes out of the ground to highly refined gasoline, fuel oil, and lubricants, is taxed.
Producers of crude oil and natural gas, for example, pay taxes on crude oil and natural gas produced, oil withdrawn from storage, sales of oil and gas lands, as well as severance taxes, royalties, proration taxes, anti-pollution taxes, well drilling permit fees, and derelict taxes.
Refiners pay taxes on refined products. Pipe line companies pay property taxes on their pipe lines, ad valorem taxes on the crude they transport, and a big variety of other levies.
Marketing companies and service stations pay taxes on the different products they sell.
It is a series of tax levies that perhaps no other industry can show in the total a huge burden, paid by the industry and users of its products.

A 50-50 split means a fair break. When the split is 75-25 the chances are that one side is getting the lion's share of the profit.

What, then, does a 96-4 split mean?

When it refers to R.O.A.D.S., it means that less than 4% of Nova Scotia's roads are paved and that the thousands of people who live on secondary roads —96% of the total road mileage in Nova Scotia—are being treated unfairly.

Every Nova Scotian pays the same gasoline tax, — one of the highest gasoline taxes in Canada. And part of this tax is understood to be dutifully earmarked for the improvement of A.L. roads. Each being the case, everyone who pays this tax is entitled to share in the benefits it is supposed to bring.
BUT, should it be a 96-4 split?

No wonder that the worn-out condition of secondary roads has become one of the most serious problems of the Province! No wonder that electors, recalling the many pre-election promises of 1935, are saying to themselves (as they go bumping along) . . . why should we be on the short end of this 96-4 split?

Fortunately for them, the power to correct this wrong lies in their own hands . . . on June 29th they will be given the opportunity to place a new government in the driver's seat!

Support Harrington and His Candidates, and . . .

Face the future with confidence!

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to Go
The liver should pour out two pints of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach, causes constipation, harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, ugly and the world looks pink.
A mere bowel movement doesn't always get all the toxins. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get the two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Hamilton and Cole, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of natural bile, drive out the poisons in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stabberly refuse anything else. See.

Our Answer

Premier MacDonald

(An Editorial)

DEVOTING a large part of his political speeches to attacks on The Halifax Herald, the Premier of this Province appears determined to make the policies of this newspaper an issue in this election campaign.

So be it. And what are the policies of The Halifax Herald? They are well known to the people of Nova Scotia, but since they are attacked so constantly and bitterly by the Premier of Nova Scotia, let those policies be re-stated here:

1—The Halifax Herald stands for a happy, contented and prosperous Nova Scotia within a united Canada.

2—With The Halifax Herald, the interests of this Province and its people are always placed first.

3—This newspaper stands for sound and legitimate business and industry within this Province and fair returns to capital invested therein.

4—This newspaper stands for an equally fair deal for all who work with their hands in this Province—the primary producers of Nova Scotia, as well as the wage-earners—and adequate returns for their labors to enable them and their families to live in decency and comfort.

5—This newspaper stands for Social Security and Economic Justice for the masses of our people; and resists, and will continue to resist, vigorously and constantly, every effort on the part of robbers and exploiters to make the masses of our people the chattel-slaves of any activity that may be conducted for the selfish purpose of amassing wealth at the expense of the public at large. This, entirely irrespective of political or any other considerations.

6—This newspaper stands for the miners, the farmers, the fishermen, the woodsmen, the railwaymen, the port workers, the highway workers, the labourers, the artisans—all the men and women, young and old, who must work for their daily bread—and demands, and will continue to demand, for them, not only the bare essentials of existence, but a reasonable share of its comforts and conveniences, as well.

7—And this newspaper believes sincerely and earnestly that, with the advancements in science in these modern times, there is no need in Nova Scotia today for the tragic and distressing spectacle of Poverty in the Midst of Plenty.

8—This newspaper stands for Progress—the sort of Progress, in keeping with the needs and possibilities of these times, that will wipe out entirely from Nova Scotia the sad twin spectacles of Unemployed Youth and Working Old Age.

9—This newspaper stands for an advanced program of Social and Economic Reform—has demanded—demands now—and will continue to demand—that the whole machinery of our government be set in motion to bring into operation a program of reform that will extend an adequate measure of Social Security and Economic Justice to all.

10—The Halifax Herald wants to see Nova Scotia a bright, active, progressive Province, a Province of comfortable homes and happy people; a Province so superbly endowed by Providence that it will be the pride of its own citizens and the envy of all who visit it.

11—This newspaper wants to see the urban centres of Nova Scotia cleared completely of disgraceful slum conditions, and the rural districts equally as wholesome and inviting.

12—This newspaper wants to see, not only good trunk highways, but good secondary roads, along which the majority of our rural population reside and which are of the utmost importance to them in their living conditions and their working lives.

13—As a pioneer in the demand for reasonably-priced electricity for all this newspaper declares that in such a comparatively small and compact area as the Province of Nova Scotia there is no excuse for depriving any citizens of this Province of that priceless boon and asset today.

14—This newspaper stands, not only for higher education, but for such a fair distribution of advantages as will give the poorest child in the most remote rural district of Nova Scotia educational opportunities equal to those enjoyed by the child of the richest citizen in the urban centres. And this newspaper declares that anything short of that is a disgrace to Nova Scotia and should not be tolerated.

15—This newspaper stands for the eradication of evils that beset the life of this Province; an effective fight against the growing evils of intemperance; and the support of every movement for the public good.

16—This newspaper stands for adequate and efficient Public Health services, and asserts now, as it always has asserted, that the first charge upon public revenues must be the care of those who through poverty or misfortune are unable to find the money to buy these basic essentials of life itself.

17—This newspaper supports every worthy cause for the betterment of the people of this Province. Its columns are always open to campaigns of a public-spirited character. And no good effort in behalf of the people lacks a champion while The Halifax Herald is here.

And we repeat, if policies of that kind—and demands of that kind—are to be an issue in this Provincial election campaign, so be it. If the Premier of this Province is determined on every platform to attack this newspaper and its policies, so be it. The Halifax Herald is entirely content to have it that way—confident, as it is, in the belief that these policies are in the public interest.

The Halifax Herald would like to have this distinctly understood—that no matter what happens as a result of the provincial election campaign now in progress, this newspaper will continue to urge the policies set out above, quite irrespective of political party fortunes or political considerations. It required six or seven years—from 1920 to the preparation of the Duncan Report—to bring results in the Maritime Rights campaign. And if it requires that much time, or more time, to produce results in relation to the policies and demands stated on this page, The Halifax Herald will continue steadily day by day and year by year to insist upon the needs and rights of the public in line with the policies for which it stands.

Flame-Ignited Explosive for Engines Is Very Old

The history of the internal combustion engine goes back hundreds of years. The Encyclopedia Britannica records the earliest proposal to utilize explosions (of gunpowder) to obtain continuous motive power as having probably been made by Christian Huygens in 1680 and by Papin and the Abbe Hautefeuille later. Street in 1794 proposed an engine driven by a flame-ignited explosive mixture of vaporized spirits of turpentine and air, this being regarded by Sir Dugald Clerk as the first real gas engine described in Britain. In 1820 W. Cecil described his actually working hydrogen-air gas engine.

Other early inventors of similar engines, states a writer in the Detroit News, were Samuel Brown, William Barnett, Lebon, Barsanti and Matteucci. Barnett suggested the principle of compression. Lebon in 1799 had used an electric spark to ignite the gas and had also referred to the principle of compression. Etienne Lenoir in 1860 patented a gas engine and two years later built and drove the first gasoline-driven vehicle. Dr. N. A. Otto of Cologne, Germany, in 1876 invented an engine in which the gas was compressed before being exploded; this improvement so increased the efficiency of the internal combustion engine that it began to be considered as a competitor of the steam engine. His four-cycle engine was further improved and adapted to motor cars by Gottlieb Daimler of Wurttemberg and Carl Benz of Mannheim in 1893 and 1896.

Court Jesters Employed 'Back in the Middle Ages'

Jesters, court-fools or professed saviors of witty things and makers of amusement, were maintained by princes or nobles in courts of the middle ages and later. The dress of the jester was usually showy, or gaudy, and he wore a pointed hat of the time when jesters were employed it was always typically many-colored or motley; but as jesters in some early courts were men of considerable intelligence and in some cases of good family, and in some cases distinguished from that of those with whom they mingled. The bauble, sometimes very small and of rich materials, was the only certain badge of the jester's employment.

The fools of Shakespeare's plays indicate a certain lowering of the rank of the jester in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth centuries. As far as is known, the first one employed in England was Archie Armstrong (died in 1672), the court of James I, and afterward of Charles I.

Inventive Genius Dangerous

The mechanical clock, the ancestor of our modern clocks and watches, was invented in the Middle Ages; and, like everything which started in that period, its beginnings are surrounded by a haze of romance and legend. Tradition states that the first clock was invented by a French monk named Gerbert, one of the most accomplished scholars of his age. About 970 A. D. he is supposed to have produced some kind of mechanical time-telling contrivance which caused a sensation—so much so that he was promptly accused of being a sorcerer. The accusation did not stick, and Gerbert lived to enter the Vatican as Pope Sylvester II, but his experience shows that inventive genius was a risky thing to have in those days.

Early Transportation

The mode of transportation for the sick and injured in the pioneer days—when a vehicle was not at hand—was a long stretcher between two horses. Two long poles were fastened from the pack saddle of one horse to the pack saddle of another horse, and a network of bark was strung between the poles. On this the sick or injured person was laid and was carried to a place where medical attention could be obtained.

Oldest College Cheer

The oldest college cheer, is claimed to be the Princeton locomotive cheer: "Tiger, tiger, tiger! Sis, sis, sis! Boon! Boon! Boon! Ah!" Invented by an unknown soldier of New York's Seventh Regiment on April 30, 1861, the cheer caught the fancy of Princeton undergraduates who heard it that night as the Seventh passed through the college town on its way to war.

Rafflesias, Parasitic Plants

Rafflesias are remarkable parasitic plants of the East Indies which attack various vines of the grape family. The only visible part of the plant consists of a large flower. A species native to Sumatra bears a flower three feet in diameter which has the appearance of decomposing flesh and exhales a carrion-like odor which attracts carrion insects.

Trinidad Long Under British

Southernmost of the chain of British and French islands that form the eastern boundary of the Caribbean sea, Trinidad has been under the English flag since 1767, when British troops landed there during a British war with Spain. Earlier, in 1595, an expedition under Sir Walter Raleigh invaded the island and burned the capital.

A Motto Worth While

There's an old Chinese saying: "If you wish to be happy for an hour, get intoxicated. If you wish to be happy for three days, get married. If you wish to be happy for eight days, kill your pig and eat it. But if you wish to be happy forever,

Dog Breeder of 6500 B. C. Developed Fastest Type

Streamlining is an old story with dog breeders. Back in 6500 B. C. the desert sheiks used this principle to develop a type of hunting dog that is the fastest of all such animals, notes a writer in the Chicago Tribune. Tablets and other relics found in ancient tombs reveal dogs similar to our Saluki, Afghan hound, greyhound, and Russian wolfhound. These are the fastest breeds of dog in the world, according to the American Kennel club.

The Saluki's lines are flowing from the tip of his nose to the end of his tail, with nowhere any definite breaks to offer wind resistance.

This is the breed credited with being the only dog fast enough to bring down a gazelle, supposedly the fastest of all wild animals. The others, the Afghan hound, the greyhound, and the Russian wolfhound, are very similar in conformation. That the ancient Persians, Arabian and Egyptians aimed to breed such lines is evident, for these hunting breeds were the only dogs allowed inside tents and houses. Other dogs of those days were stoned away. The dog of the vikings, the Norwegian elkhound, dates back to 4500 B. C., but this is a sturdier animal, bred for strength to cope with heavier, slower quarry. The Maltese, a tiny lapdog, is traced back to the island of Malta in 3500 B. C. The chow chow, the Great Dane, and the mastiff, all hunters in the past, were first noted in 3000 B. C. at which time those toys, the Pekingeses and the pug, also appeared.

Discovery of New World Held Boon to Botanists

The discovery and subsequent exploration of the New World made known to botanists many new and interesting, as well as economically important, forms of vegetation on the continents of North and South America. One great group that was almost unknown to civilization before that time is the cactus family, writes E. C. Hummel in Nature Magazine. One genus, Cholla, is represented by a species found native to Africa, where it grows on the trunks and branches of trees. Having white, glutinous berries it has been given the common name "mistletoe cactus." How it crossed the Atlantic is one of the botanical mysteries, but many believe it was carried by birds from the American continent.

Citric Acid

Citric acid is a crystalline solid found dissolved in lemon juice, where it is responsible for the sour taste. It is not a nutrient, and of lesser technical uses the acid itself is used to flavor prepared foods and beverages, while its calcium salt is extensively used in the cheese industry. It has been known for a long time that varieties of a common mold, Aspergillus niger, produce citric acid when they are on sugar solutions, and in recent years this process has been applied to the large-scale production of the acid. A large part of the citric acid of commerce comes from these fungi rather than from lemons.

The Thyroid Gland

Most laymen can do little speaking acquaintance with the thyroid gland, probably the best known gland of internal secretion. Its enlargement produces the familiar goiter, states a writer in Literary Digest. The thyroid sits astride the neck, above the windpipe, pours a hormone (exciter) into the blood which regulates the body's energy. Sometimes embedded in the twin maroon lobes of the thyroid, sometimes just behind the thyroid on the windpipe, are the parathyroid glands, four in all. The thyroid glands are early anatomists overlooked them entirely or assumed them to be part of the mighty thyroid.

Arrival of the Tuxedo

A real change in men's evening dress occurred in the elegant 1890's. It was then that the tuxedo made its appearance in New York pleasure halls, where the Cloth Spungers' society, the Buttonhole Makers' union, the Players' Helped caterers and others dispersed themselves. Here it was worn in conjunction with embroidered shirt fronts, white satin waistcoats, and ties, and diamond studs. The term tuxedo was an inspiration of cheap tailors, coincident with the rise of the exclusive resort founded by Pierre Lorillard.

"Comin' Through the Rye"

Much controversy has arisen over the reference to the song, "Comin' Through the Rye." It has often been illustrated by a waving field of rye, and the manufacturers of a celebrated brand of rye whiskey gave such an illustration showing the lovers in a rye field. But the full significance of the song, according to a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, is apparent when it is established a toll of kisses to be exacted from lassies who were met in crossing the River Rye on stepping stones.

Marriages

A very pretty wedding of interest to a wide circle of friends in the province, was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pineo, Middleton, Wednesday afternoon, when their younger daughter, Barbara Maie, was united in marriage with W. H. Webber, manager of the Royal Department Store, of Digby, son of Mrs. Newworthy and the late W. H. Webber, of St. John's, Newfoundland. The ceremony took place on the lawn, the impressive single ring service being performed by Rev. T. R. B. Anderson, rector of Holy Trinity Church. Promptly at 3 o'clock, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Harold Dowdell, of Sydney, the bride, escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage, proceeded down a satin ribboned bridal lane, and took her place beside the groom, who stood beneath an evergreen and daisy wreath. During the signing of the day. His wife who mourns the register, Mrs. Colin C. Rowe, of Middleton, sang "Because." The groom was supported by Gordon Dowdell, of Sydney, cousin of the bride. Immediately after the reception, the happy couple left on a motor trip to various points in the province, and at the conclusion will reside in Digby.
