The Life of Winston Churchill

--The Man Who'll Beat Hitler

Part 2

On October 11, 1899, Winston Churchill sailed from Southampton for South Africa to act as war correspondent for a London newspaper. Just over a month later he was a prisoner in the hands of the Boers.

He had joined an armoured train carrying British troops in to engage the enemy, but it was derailed in a cunningly-prepared Boer trap. Whilst helping to defend the train Winston Churchill was challenged by a Boer horseman. He felt for his revolver but it wasn't in its place! Capture was thus inevitable.

There was an interesting sequel to this dramatic episode when, three years later, a party of Boer generals visited England to raise a loan. Winston Churchill met their leader, Gen. Botha, at a luncheon, and they discussed the war and their personal experiences.

After Churchill had recounted the story of his capture and escape, Gen. Botha said: "Don't you remember me, then? It was I that captured you!" He had not been a general at that time.

Thus the inscrutable ways of Providence were again demonstrated. Had Mr. Churchill not laid down his revolver to aid in clearing the train wreckage, he might have shot Gen. Botha, or may have invited death on himself. As it was, Gen. Botha became a firm friend of Great Britain's and 'a successful South African army which destroyed all vestiges of German influence in Africa during the last Great War.

Hit in Bales of Cotton

Winston Churchill did not remain in internment long for he seized an early opportunity to outwit his guards and made a dramatic escape, passing within five yards of the sentry without being challenged! He was now an outlaw in enemy territory with a price on his head.

After stealing a ride in a freight train, he walked for miles until, weary and hungry, he came to a settlement where he decided to call at the first house he came to. Fate was again kind. It was the home of the only Englishman in the district—a colliery manager. Had he called at any other house he would have been recaptured!

As it was he lived down the mine for several days before his new-found friend was able to smuggle him among bales of cotton aboard a train bound for Portuguese territory.

Angered His Friends

Winston Churchill became known to Lord Roberts' army and had the pleasure of being in at the fall of Pretoria, the scene of his internment.

With the Boer capitulation, Churchill became a staunch supporter of an enlightened policy towards the conquered people. His articles in which he pleaded for forgiveness for the Boers aroused widespread criticism and angered many of his friends.

It is one of the most remarkable facts of this many-sided man that, while he is a dauntless and relentless foe in a fight, once the smoke of battle has cleared away he can plead for goodwill and friendship for former enemies.

He was once asked to suggest an inscription for a monument in France, and this is what he wrote:

"In war, Resolution;
In defeat, Defiance;
In victory, Magnanimity;
In peace, Goodwill."
The French did not accept his suggestion.

Start of Political Career

Winston Churchill arrived back in England to find himself a popular hero. Young, daring, impulsive, he was received with cheers wherever he went, and it is small wonder that the people of Oldham, Lancashire, received him with open arms when he contested that seat as a Conservative in the General Election of 1900, despite having already rejected him two years earlier.

Winston Churchill was never a suppliant politician, content to follow the orders of the party whip. In his maiden speech in the House of Commons, this red-headed youth of 26 outraged the members of his party when he declared: "If I were a Boer, I hope I should be fighting in the field." And before the end of his first session, he vigorously opposed the Government's chief measure, the ill-fated scheme of army re-organization, and was the only conservative to vote against it.

In 1902 he went on a lecture tour of America and Canada, and there is a prophetic touch to the announcement of his lecture in Montreal that Fall, which said: "Winston Churchill, the future Premier of Great Britain, will lecture on his South African experiences." How little they knew then under what circumstances he would become Premier of Great Britain!

Prize Winners in Herald Contest

Two Academy students were first prize winners in a recent contest sponsored by the Rainbow Club of the Halifax Herald. One was David Humpherson, son of Regimental Sergeant Major H. S. Humpherson and Mrs. Humpherson, who won first prize in the intermediate group for his original pen drawings, thus receiving very favorable comment from Herald Staff Artist Chambers.

The other prize winner was Miss Ardis Warner, daughter of Albert Warner, who with help of the excellent reference library at the Academy, was able to secure a perfect score in answering the quiz contest.

In addition to securing recognition on the Birthday Page of the Herald, which appeared on Monday, these youthful winners will receive War Savings Stamps.

South Africa is turning out 60 m.p.h. armoured cars, with gun-turrets and bullet-proof tractor-grip tires, in sufficient numbers to supply her own armies and also to contribute to the equipment of the British forces in North Africa.

One of World's Oldest Cities

Ottawa Journal

The ancient city of Cyrene (is spelled also Cirene), in Italian Libya, now is in British hands. There has been a settled community at Cyrene for most of 2,600 years, and it must be one of the oldest cities on earth.

Cyrene was founded in the seventh century B. C., as a Greek colony, and Herodotus says the site was chosen on instructions from the oracle at Delphi that a place "between waters" be picked. Abundant springs met this requirement. In those dim days there was a succession of kings of Cyrene until a Persian invasion about 450 B. C. extinguished the dynasty and set up a republic. A little later the colony fell under the domination of the Ptolemies, of Egypt and its economic importance began to decline. Then the Romans took it over. There was a Jewish revolt, and by the fourth century, A. D., Cyrene was described as deserted, in the fifth century as a vast ruin. There followed a long period of anarchy and confusion, under Arabs and Turks, until about thirty years ago Italy acquired a foothold in Cyrenaica, established colonies in the watered and fertile highlands.

Built 2,400 Years Ago.

At its peak Cyrene had 110,000 inhabitants, and was noted for its intellectual life, its medical school. Now its principal fame is in its ruins, memorials of a long - dead age. There are remains of an encircling wall built 2,400 years ago, of magnificent temples to Apollo and Zeus and the other ancient gods, ruins of Roman baths and theatres. But the great spectacle, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, is provided by its cemeteries, sepulchres rising one above another along the main roads, in one case for the distance of a mile. Most of the wall paintings have perished in the ages, but some inscriptions have survived.

Mentioned in Acts

Diligent readers of the Bible will find several references to Cyrene. The second chapter of the Acts, for instance, describes the Day of Pentecost and the descent of the Holy Ghost, and goes on:

"And now hear we every man in our own tongue, wherein we were born?"

"Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and the dwellers in Mesopotamia, and in Judaea, and Cappadocia, in Pontus, and Asia.

"Phrygia, and Pamphylia, in Egypt, and in the parts of Libya about Cyrene, and strangers of Rome, Jews and Proselytes.

"Cretes and Arabians, we do hear them speak in our tongues the wonderful works of God."

The 13th chapter of the Acts mentions as belonging to the church at Antioch "certain prophets and teachers" who included "Lucius of Cyrene."

Cyrene has seen come and go the Greeks, the Persians, the Egyptians, the Romans, the Arabs and Turks, the Italians. It is a stirring story in which, let us hope, our army of the Nile now has written the last and most glorious page—but Cyrene never saw anything stranger than its occupation by British and Australian troops who had crossed the desert in Canadian trucks pursuing the enemy who had boasted proudly that he had inherited the lands and qualities of the Romans of old.

DEEP BROOK

(Held Over From Last Week) Miss Minnie Potter spent a recent week with relatives in Clementsport.

A committee from the B. Y. F. U., collected $20.20 for the Spitfire Fund.

Recent hostesses of the Spitfire Bridge Club were Mrs. B. Comeau and Miss E. Purdy.

Walter Lent, patient at the Annapolis Royal Hospital for two weeks, has returned home.

Arnold Henshaw, with H. M. Forces, Saint John, recently spent a brief leave at his home here.

Mrs. C. K. North has arrived from Boston to spend the summer with her sister, Mrs. Robert Spurr.

Many friends will regret to hear that J. M. Nichols, elderly resident, is not enjoying good health at present.

Mrs. Walter Purdy was hostess to St. Matthew's Guild, Monday evening, March 10, and on March 18th this Society met at the home of Mrs. Harold A. Purdy.

The regular monthly meeting of the Red Cross Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Howard Adams, the president, when reports were given by officers; and yarn and sewing distributed for home work.

Miss Clara M. Sulis, Windsor; and Mrs. Frank Roup, of Digby, were here over the week end, having been summoned by the sudden passing of their mother, Mrs. A. G. Sulis, early Saturday morning.

Another daughter, Mrs. Clifford Hynes, Brookline, Mass., arrived on Tuesday.

KING WINS LOVE OF COMMONERS

"NOW THAT'S a good man," say London civilians, speaking of George Windsor, a citizen of London like themselves.

George Windsor is, of course, his Majesty, the king of England. But Londoners have long known that he was a good and conscientious king. What the war has made them realize strongly is that he also is a good and conscientious man, a friend of the people.

Nazi bombs have been raining down on London and other communities of Britain for a long season, and during that time the English have had many more chances to see their ruler than they had in peace time.

Detective Rides With Him

He rides about the country in an old-fashioned, high-bodied limousine. An armed detective sits beside him, and the minister of home security, Herbert Morrison, usually accompanies him.

If the air raid alarm sounds, he does not duck for cover. If a Nazi plane swoops overhead, he scarcely notices it. And if a shrapnel falls from exploding bombs, he pays little more attention to it than to a light rain. He takes air raids in his stride.

Sometimes Queen Elizabeth is in a party of persons inspecting bombed areas and interviewing people who have been wounded or made homeless. When they question bombed civilians the king and queen are sympathetic and practical. They know how to ask sensible questions and how to give helpful advice to their subjects.

King's Food Rationed

They know what it's like to have one's house bombed, because Buckingham Palace has not escaped the effects of Nazi raids. And they know what it's like to be on rations, too, because they observe strictly the laws governing food. The British flag flies almost constantly before the royal palace, showing the populace that the king and his queen are sharing the dangers of the common people of the Isles.

"You're a great king!" a Cockney shouted once when the royal party passed. King George turned to him and smilingly replied: "You're a great people!"

ASHMORE

(Held Over From Last Week) Mr. and Mrs. Harlem Woodworth, of Belle Isle, and Mrs. Stephen Miller, of Granville (Centre, have been recent visitors of their sister, Mrs. Ronald Kinney and Mr. Kinney.

Mrs. Vernon Goldsmith, of Bridgetown, is spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hebert Kinney.

Onward Division paid a visit to Home Division, at Smith's Cove on Wednesday. All reported a good time.

Miss Frances Kinney has returned to Greenwich.

Cecil Prime visited friends at Annapolis Royal on Sunday. Orbin Minard, of Acadia, visited Mr. and Mrs. Hebert Kinney on Sunday.

Mrs. Wm. Kinney and Mrs. Elvin Marshall and daughter Edith, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Durland, at Weymouth, on Saturday. Mrs. Alfred Johnson was also a guest at the same home.

Percy Kinney, of Wolfville, is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Kinney.

The members of Onward Division held a social evening at the home of Mrs. L. D'Entremont on Tuesday evening. Games and cards were played and refreshments served. Proceeds of $5.30 were for the Spitfire fund.

Mrs. Stewart Raymond, of Digby, recently visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Brooks.

Mr. and Mrs. David Fitzgerald, of Wolfville, have been guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Kinney.

Zoo Animals Keep "Paws Up"

Despite German raiders, London parents are still visiting the zoo with their children.

Gone are the carefree days when great crowds packed the zoological society grounds. Anxious mothers keep watching the skies, and fathers nervously pull out watches to make sure the family can get to air shelters in time for blackout. Yet the several hundred daily zoo visitors seem to enjoy the birds and animals with a sort of grim determination.

And how do the animals respond? Figuratively raised with English thumbs are the paws of the zoo's inmates. "Timid" rabbits continue to munch their lettuce while bombs fall. Only close hits disturb them. Some of the high-strung quadrupeds were expected to be unable to cope with the noise and excitement of the raids, but some actually yawn and go to sleep in the midst of the death from the sky.

Cats Unhappy

The cats—lions, tigers, and leopards—seem a little unhappy about the whole thing. They don't pace up and down the way they once did. As soon as they hear the raid sirens they go into their dens, where they are comparatively safe under the big blocks of concrete.

On the other hand, a young giraffe, born in captivity, was scared by a bomb, ran around its enclosure for three hours without stopping, and finally fell dead of heart failure. Crocodiles bellow continually during the raids. Bears pace their cages and growl, and monkeys hide at the slightest hum of an airplane.

Normally, the zoo contains about 3,500 animals, excluding fish in the aquarium and invertebrates. Now it has 3,000. Evacuees to the zoo's country home at Whipsnade, include the elephants, a rhinoceros, and the baby giant panda.

In the reptile house, the blitzkrieg has made the greatest changes. Poisonous snakes, pythons, and boa constrictors have been destroyed. If one or more had escaped into London in a bombing, the peril to inhabitants of the great city would have been increased.

Already the haven for hundreds of refugee children, America may become host to animals for which Britain is no longer able to care. The Duke of Bedford, owner of one of the largest animal menageries in the world, has made overtures to the New York Zoological Society to take his animals for duration of hostilities. At the start of the war some animals were shipped to this country, notably prize-winning dogs from swanky kennels.

Many pets have been destroyed in Germany, where every extra mouth is considered a liability. Some British pets were destroyed at clinics, because it was feared they might be gassed or maimed. But in both Berlin and London zoos still operate, for authorities feel they provide a comparatively cheap diversion for a war-worried populace.

A special air raid precautions committee has been established in the English capital to take care of animals owned by private individuals. A special ambulance and stretcher corps picks up and unloads dogs, cats, and other beasts injured in raids. Luminous leashes and blankets, that can be seen in blackouts are sold by some stores.

Henry Ford doesn't seem able to get away from the old Model T type of thinking. He is an outstanding example of vision in one field and totally blind in another.—Petrolium Advertiser-Topic.

"Delicious Refreshments Were Served"

Edwin Sherdlou, columnist on the Truro Weekly News, made a survey of eight provincial weeklies last week with respect to forming an opinion of the quality of food served at social functions reported in those papers. He says "Opinion was pretty well divided between 'dainty' and 'delicious', although here and there some other adjectives were used. In some cases there was no expression of opinion. In no case was the grub knocked."

The papers included in his survey were the Windsor Tribune, Wolfville Acadian, Kentville Advertiser, Berwick Register, Middleton Outlook, Bridgetown Monitor, Digby Courier and Springhill Record. Scores were classified under the headings "Dainty," "Delicious" and "Others." The Courier was the only one of the eight to receive a score of O-O-O.

Well, Edwin, it is something like this. A few years ago we kept a score of our own paper for the same reason. In one edition we found that "delicious refreshments were served" in at no less than fourteen functions reported in one issue—and on one page alone the phrase appeared six times!

Since then we have kept an eye on the refreshments. Occasionally we let a "delicious" or "dainty" slip by, but, we usually make it a point to blue pencil opinions on the eatables.

We think, too, that in these days, it would be well to omit refreshments altogether, not only in news reports of such functions, but, at the functions themselves. During war times, it would be well to forget this time honored custom of serving food at every social function.

"Sea Devil" Prowling Again

Is the "Sea Devil" as Count Felix von Luckner was called, again prowling the seas, preying on our shipping? Stories from the Pacific seem to bear out this belief.

Count von Luckner first gained fame in 1916. Given the command of an ex-American-owned clipper, he made his crew learn Norwegian, had his 16-year-old cabin-boy disguised as his "wife". Then the ship, now a "Norwegian", set sail.

The boat sneaked through the first line of British blockade warships in a great storm. Just when the captain thought he was safely through the whole blockade, a cruiser appeared, and he had to stop.

As the search party was going aboard, a gramophone on deck, blared out, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary". And when the officer entered von Luckner's cabin to inspect the ship's faked papers, and saw the captain's "wife", he apologized for intruding and quickly gave the ship its clearance.

Fourteen Allied vessels were sunk by the marauding "Sea-adler" before she herself founded in a tidal wave, and after dodging about small Pacific islands to evade capture by British searchers, the captain was laid by the heels and interned for the rest of the war.

The "Sea Devil", who boasted that not one of the victims of his sinkings lost his life, ran away to sea when he was 13, and for some years earned a precarious living as beach-comber, dishwasher, wrestler, prize-fighter, lighthouse keeper and kangaroo-hunter.

His father had wanted him to join the Army, but the nearest von Luckner ever got to army life was when he joined the Salvation Army in Australia. Finally, in 1912, he joined the German Navy, where the Kaiser soon took an interest in him.

OBITUARY

John (Jackie) Comeau

The death of little John (Jackie) Comeau, 3 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Comeau, of Weymouth North, passed away about midnight, on March 24, only a few minutes before his father, who is a private with the Canadian Army, arrived home. Jackie is survived by his sorrowing parents; one sister and one brother. The funeral service was held at his late home on Wednesday, with interment in St. Peter's Anglican Cemetery. Members of the primary room of the Weymouth North school attended in a body.

Nelson Sabin

The death of Nelson Sabin, 73, well known resident of Weymouth, occurred at his late home on Tuesday, March 25th. Deceased was the last remaining member of the family of the late George P. and Rebekah Sabin, New Tusket. He resided in the United States for a number of years, returning to Nova Scotia in 1916, residing in Weymouth and vicinity, since. Surviving are: his widow, formerly Miss E. May Sabean, of New Tusket; two daughters, Mrs. Clarence Thurber, of Weymouth North; Mabel, at home; three sons, George, at home; Walter, Bridgewater, and Harrison, Liverpool. Funeral service was held at the home, with interment at the Riverside Baptist cemetery, Rev. R. H. Barker, pastor of the United Church, officiating.

Harry Warren

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR LIVER

Back it up right now and feel like a million! Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It pours out bile to digest food, gets rid of waste, supplies new energy, allows proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order, you become sluggish, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. You feel "run-down", headache, indigestion, dizziness, dragginess, all the time. For 15 years thousands have been helped by this new medicine. Try Fruit-A-Tives - you'll be the envy of your friends. They'll say you're a new person, happy and well again. 25c, 50c. ing, March 27. Mr. Warren was a son of the late Kempthorne and Phoebe Ann (Copeland) Warren and was born in Bear River, Sept. 9, 1867. He was twice married, his late wife predeceased him seventeen years. A large family is left to mourn a kind and loving father, also many relatives and friends suffer the loss of a dear one. Three daughters, by his first marriage: Mrs. Paul Roberts, Indiana; Miss Gladys Warren, of Westboro, Mass., and Mrs. Roy Allison, Waltham, Mass. By the second marriage are: Mrs. John R. Nichols and Miss Alma Warren, Acadiaville, Digby County; Mrs. Eldon Miller, Waltham, Mass.; Mrs. Innis Munro and Mrs. Webster Dunn, Digby; two sons, William, who has enlisted in the R. C. A. F., and Joseph, a Corporal in the army, Halifax. He is also survived by two brothers, Stephen, in Massachusetts, and Joseph, in Bear River. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Webster Dunn, with whom he resided, then to the Hill Grove Baptist Church, service being conducted by Prof. Frasser, of Acadia University, Wolfville. Interment was in the cemetery at Hill Grove.

Mrs. Martin Boston

The death of Mrs. Martin Boston occurred on Wednesday evening, March 26, at the home of her son, Clair Boston, with whom she had resided for the past three years, following the death of her husband. Mrs. Boston was 65 years old and was the former Esther Field, daughter of the late Robert and Marjorie (Kearney) Field of Apple River, where she was born and lived until about 20 years ago, when with her husband she went to Parrsboro to reside. She is survived by one daughter, Jean (Mrs. Victor McLeod) residing in Parrsboro; one son, Clair, of Bear River, and three grandchildren, also by three brothers, James and Harris Field, Apple River, and William, in the United States. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Howard Hamilton, pastor of Trinity United Church, with interment at Parrsboro. (Editor's Note—The late Mr. and Mrs. Boston are well known in Digby, where, for several winters they had charge of the motor vessel Kipowa. Their son, Clare Boston, now of Bear River, is one of the survivors of the wrecks of the Ruby L. II, and the Grace Harkinson, lost off Dunham's Cove, on the Digby Neck shore, in January 1930.)

MARRIAGE

Whitman - Webber

A wedding of special interest to residents of Western Nova Scotia and Halifax was solemnized at 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when Miss Doris (Doty) Webber, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Webber, of Digby, became the bride of Hyman P. Whitman, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Whitman, of Halifax. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. Spiro at his home. About forty guests were present from Digby and Halifax. The bride was attractive in a rose dressmaker suit with white colored accessories. Her corsage was of mauve orchids. She was given in marriage by Mr. and Mrs. Morris Webber, of Digby. Her bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Ada Webber; best man was Israel Whitman, of Halifax. After the ceremony a reception was held at Shane's Inn, at which Jack D. Stone, of Yarmouth, was master of ceremonies. There was a number of brief addresses of congratulation and many telegrams expressing best wishes.

BLOSSOM OF CANADA The all-purpose FLOUR

Among the speakers was Rabbi Greenspoh, of Halifax. The newly weds are honeymooning by auto in the Maritimes. They will make their home in Halifax, where Mr. Whitman is in business with his father. Guests from Digby: Mr. and Mrs. Morris Webber, Mr. and Mrs. William Webber, and Benj. Webber.

Pte. Willard Long, Halifax; Ivan Durland and Ruby Finell, Bridgetown, and Miss Frances Baker spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. R. Nichols, Conway.

Refugee clothing, made by the Red Cross, will be exhibited at the Court House next Wednesday afternoon. Drop in to inspect the work, and enjoy the ten cent tea.

HOW TO COMBAT Rheumatic Pains

Rheumatic pains are often caused by uric acid in the blood. This blood impurity should be extracted by the kidneys. If kidneys fail, and excess uric acid remains, it irritates the muscles and joints causing excruciating pains. Treat rheumatic pains by keeping your kidneys in good condition. Take regularly Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite kidney remedy. 107

OBITUARY

Leonard Purdy

Word has been received at Bear River, from Daytona Beach, Florida, of the death of Leonard Purdy, following an operation. Mr. Purdy was the son of the late James and Alice (Betts) Purdy. Living and receiving his education in Bear River until his early manhood, when he went to the United States, and has resided in Florida for many years. Left to mourn are: his widow; also three brothers, Archibald, in New York; Lou, in California; Bruce (Babe) in Alberta, and one sister, Miss Blanche Purdy, of Bear River. The funeral was held on Saturday, March 29, with interment at Florida.

Our fire protection is inadequate, one hydrant is at the corner of Maiden Lane and Prince William Street, another at the corner of Birch Street and Carleton Street. Both these are too far away to allow hose to be coupled up in time to supply enough water to deal with a bad fire in a lumber yard. A hydrant on Maiden Lane is very necessary, and should be installed at once.

There is every evidence that lumber will be piled here till the whole field is filled, and, in spite of statements that this is only a temporary state of affairs and the lumber is to be moved as soon as a ship arrives, it will be found that more and more will be piled here, and its presence constitute a danger to our citizens for years to come. The fire insurance companies, as soon as they get wind of this menace, will most certainly increase the rate of insurance to everyone effected, and in all ways the last state of the north half of Digby will be worse than it's ever been. So, business men and others, you'd better awake and do something to remedy matters.

What of our streets? Queen Street is a disgrace to any town. Maiden Lane, after about a half day's hauling of lumber over it, is just about ruined. Hundreds of dollars of taxpayers money will have to be spent to repair the damage, almost all caused in the interest of one man. Is this the way our Council looks after the town?

Digby desires tourists; in fact, our Board of Trade made frantic efforts, last season, to get people to come and holiday in this town. Do you think visitors are going to get a good impression of lovely Digby, when they are greeted, on landing from a Canadian Pacific Railway Company's steamer, with unsightly piles of lumber standing on the same Company's land? The south end of Digby is practically ruined for residential purposes, by lumber piles. Is the north end to suffer likewise, because of a callous indifference to the rights, feelings and opinions of its citizens?

Then the people living on Maiden Lane have a right to be considered. Our view of the water is being gradually cut off; in fact, some houses now have no view at all, so high have the lumber piles been made. It is doubtful, if anyone has a right, lawfully, to entirely cut off the view from any person's dwelling, by such means.

Two dictators run amuck in Europe, Hitler and Mussolini. Their main characteristics are an utter indifference to the rights, feelings, and opinions of men other than themselves. Is Digby in the same boat with Germany and Italy?

Yours truly,
John Russell.

Digby County Man
Lost in Otter Tragedy

Gerald d'Eon, 23, of Meteghan River, was the only Digby County man lost, when the H. M.C.S. Otter, burned off Halifax, last week. Young d'Eon was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene d'Eon, Meteghan River. His father is well-known throughout the province as a commercial traveller for a Montreal paint concern.

Before joining the navy, a little more than a year ago, Gerald had taken a station agent's course and had relieved at several Dominion Atlantic stations in the province. He was a graduate of St. Anne's College, Church Point, and was popular as a hockey player.

Beside his parents, he is survived by two brothers, Russell, attending college at Church Point, and Hubert, at home.

ANOTHER SIGN OF SPRING

Spring must be on its way in spite of the week-end storm, and the snappy weather we had early this week. A live toad, full of pep and energy, was found by J. A. H. Nichols and Tom Francis, while working in the woods at Acacville, on Friday last.

To brighten gold braid, give it a thorough brushing then sprinkle powdered alum all over it and let it stay on for two or three days. Then brush off.

Warn of Fire Menace

To the Editor of the Courier.

Dear Sir:—I wonder if the householders and business men of the north half (the business section) of the Town of Digby are aware of a menace that threatens them, and will increasingly threaten them as the warm and dry days of spring, summer, and autumn, come on.

I refer to the lumber being piled in the open field between Maiden Lane and Annapolis Basin, the field commonly called the Cannon Bank. This lumber forms a most serious fire hazard to the north part of the town. The hazard will increase as the piles of lumber multiply, till some day, when a fire may get started amongst them and get beyond control, it will, if an easterly or north easterly wind is blowing, spread not only to adjacent buildings, but most certainly will sweep through the entire business section of Digby—and many a man will be ruined.

Our fire protection is inadequate, one hydrant is at the corner of Maiden Lane and Prince William Street, another at the corner of Birch Street and Carleton Street. Both these are too far away to allow hose to be coupled up in time to supply enough water to deal with a bad fire in a lumber yard. A hydrant on Maiden Lane is very necessary, and should be installed at once.

There is every evidence that lumber will be piled here till the whole field is filled, and, in spite of statements that this is only a temporary state of affairs and the lumber is to be moved as soon as a ship arrives, it will be found that more and more will be piled here, and its presence constitute a danger to our citizens for years to come. The fire insurance companies, as soon as they get wind of this menace, will most certainly increase the rate of insurance to everyone effected, and in all ways the last state of the north half of Digby will be worse than it's ever been. So, business men and others, you'd better awake and do something to remedy matters.

What of our streets? Queen Street is a disgrace to any town. Maiden Lane, after about a half day's hauling of lumber over it, is just about ruined. Hundreds of dollars of taxpayers money will have to be spent to repair the damage, almost all caused in the interest of one man. Is this the way our Council looks after the town?

Digby desires tourists; in fact, our Board of Trade made frantic efforts, last season, to get people to come and holiday in this town. Do you think visitors are going to get a good impression of lovely Digby, when they are greeted, on landing from a Canadian Pacific Railway Company's steamer, with unsightly piles of lumber standing on the same Company's land? The south end of Digby is practically ruined for residential purposes, by lumber piles. Is the north end to suffer likewise, because of a callous indifference to the rights, feelings and opinions of its citizens?

Then the people living on Maiden Lane have a right to be considered. Our view of the water is being gradually cut off; in fact, some houses now have no view at all, so high have the lumber piles been made. It is doubtful, if anyone has a right, lawfully, to entirely cut off the view from any person's dwelling, by such means.

Two dictators run amuck in Europe, Hitler and Mussolini. Their main characteristics are an utter indifference to the rights, feelings, and opinions of men other than themselves. Is Digby in the same boat with Germany and Italy?

Yours truly,
John Russell.

Lost in Otter Tragedy

Gerald d'Eon, 23, of Meteghan River, was the only Digby County man lost, when the H. M.C.S. Otter, burned off Halifax, last week. Young d'Eon was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene d'Eon, Meteghan River. His father is well-known throughout the province as a commercial traveller for a Montreal paint concern.

Before joining the navy, a little more than a year ago, Gerald had taken a station agent's course and had relieved at several Dominion Atlantic stations in the province. He was a graduate of St. Anne's College, Church Point, and was popular as a hockey player.

Beside his parents, he is survived by two brothers, Russell, attending college at Church Point, and Hubert, at home.

ANOTHER SIGN OF SPRING

Spring must be on its way in spite of the week-end storm, and the snappy weather we had early this week. A live toad, full of pep and energy, was found by J. A. H. Nichols and Tom Francis, while working in the woods at Acacville, on Friday last.

To brighten gold braid, give it a thorough brushing then sprinkle powdered alum all over it and let it stay on for two or three days. Then brush off.

About This and That

THE MATTER of forest protection and conservation is one that cannot — must not — be left to a few; it is a matter of concern for every man, woman and child in Nova Scotia. Not only do our forests constitute the greatest and most valuable item of natural wealth in the province, bringing to our people a large part of their annual income, but upon them is based a preponderating share of our economy. It is estimated that at least 25,000 of our citizens are employed directly in the woods industry. But, when one considers that, indirectly, the ramifications of the industry reach into all phases of commerce and business in the province. It is easy to understand how much our well-being depends on this activity. The ever-widening circles which have their beginnings in our woods, touch, besides the forest and mill workers, men and women engaged in the transportation services, both land and water, provision and supply houses, banks — in fact almost every enterprise in the community. There are few among our population who are not benefited by our forest operations. This being so, is it not logical to expect that all should unite to protect this valuable source of income? Not all of us can go to fight fires, but at least we can see to it that we are not the cause of the beginning of these disastrous outbreaks. We can all preach the constructive gospel of fire prevention and forest conservation. We can all act as voluntary wardens to keep watch in the locality in which we reside, checking our neighbors on matters of hazardous practices and, above all, observing ourselves those precautions which are so necessary if our rich heritage of woodland is not to be seriously and needlessly sacrificed. Let each and every one of us make it his personal business to do everything in his power to prevent the destruction of our forest wealth by fire.

"OF THE PEOPLE, by the people, for the people." Today, when aggression is being fought, these words are often heard quoted. Nearly everybody thinks they were first uttered by Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday anniversary this is. It has been shown, however, that the phrase did not originate with Lincoln. It was heard more than 50 years ago. In John Wycliffe's introduction to his translation of the Bible, published in England in 1382, these words occur: "The Bible is for the government of the people, by the people and for the people."

To Go Ahead With Census

In spite of protests from all parts of the Dominion, the Government of Canada has decided to go ahead with the 1941 census, and have appointed Edwin McL. Blackie, of Kingston, as commissioner for the federal constituency of Digby-Annapolis-Kings.

We still are of the opinion that the 1941 census constitutes an uncalled for extravagance at this time. Under normal conditions no one would protest the decennial census — but these are not normal conditions Canada is fighting for her very existence and for the existence of all free peoples.

Nearly three million dollars have been appropriated for the 1941 census, and although a census is essential, it is not so essential that it could not be postponed until after duration.

Three million dollars for a census at this time, is nothing but rank extravagance, and there are three million better uses to which it could be put at this time for a matter of fact, the government could buy itself 12,000,000 War Savings Stamps with that money or 750,000 five dollar certificates.

Weather Conditions

Weather conditions over the past few weeks are not improving the roads in Digby County. Paved highways were closed to heavy traffic on Thursday of last week, and judging from reports, rural highways are now in a "terrible mess" many of them impassable, others nearly so, and from all indications, conditions will be worse before any improvement is shown. Heavy snow falls, which follow spells of warm, almost summer-like weather, are drawing the frost out of the ground in a big hurry, and in places what once was supposed to be a highway, is now a sea of mud.

We have been told that conditions on rural roads are worse than they have been for several seasons at this time of the year, but opinion, in spite of the belief that worse conditions are yet to come, the roads will dry up quickly, for it is not thought there is a great deal of frost in the ground.

Signs of spring are evident everywhere. Sap is reported running quite freely; robins are more in evidence; daffodil sprouts are inches above the ground, and, in sheltered spots, shoots of new grass are showing. We have not seen the boys playing marbles yet, but, we have seen little girls playing hop-scotch.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Angus Cole

The passing of Mrs. Angus Cole (nee Margaret Chute) occurred at her home in Milton, Queen's County, a few weeks ago. She was a daughter of Mrs. Laura (Langille) Chute and the late Alden Chute, of Clementsvale. She had been in failing health for our years and an invalid for two years. A member of the Milton Baptist Church, she was a very popular school teacher, having taught in the United States and various parts of Nova Scotia. She leaves her husband; mother, Mrs. Laura Chute, of Wolfville; an aged grandmother, Mrs. Prudence Chute, who cared for her; also a sister, Mrs. William Wright, of Saskatchewan. The funeral was held at Milton, with interment in the Milton Cemetery.

Lindsay Kirkpatrick

The death of Lindsay Kirkpatrick, retired railroad man, occurred suddenly at his home "Hawthorne Villa", Digby, on Thursday morning last. The late Mr. Kirkpatrick, who reached the railroad retirement age a little more than three years ago, was retired as agent at the D. A. R. station here, where he faithfully served the public for eighteen years. His retirement went into effect January 1, 1938. He entered the service of the railroad in 1890 as operator at Annapolis Royal, and in 1894 was transferred to the audit office at Kentville, where he remained six years. His ability was early recognized, and in 1900 he was elevated to the position of city agent at Halifax. In 1903 he was selected to fill the dual position of travelling passenger agent and travelling auditor for the Dominion Atlantic Railway. In 1905 he went back to Halifax as city agent, and was appointed chief clerk to the general freight agent. After two years in the traffic office, he resumed station work at Annapolis Royal, where he was employed at the time of bidding in the Digby Agency. He is survived by one son, Harry E. Kirkpatrick, well-known commercial traveller, of Digby. The funeral was held on Saturday.

Mrs. William Finigan

The funeral of the late Mrs. Lottie Finigan, widow of the late William Finigan, formerly of Freeport, occurred at Boston, on Sunday, March 23, after several weeks' illness, at the age of 68 years. The remains arrived at Freeport on Thursday, accompanied by her sons, Burton and Dwight, and daughter, Helen, with whom she had been making her home, and who cared for her through her illness. The funeral took place from the Freeport Baptist Church, Thursday afternoon, and conducted by Rev. A. Glendenning. Hymns sung were: "In the Sweet Bye and Bye", and "Good Morning Up There". Left to mourn are: Dwight, Burton Helen and Olive, all of Massachusetts; also two brothers, Hal and Albert, of Massachusetts; two sisters, Mrs. A. R. Westcott, Mrs. Lillian Thurber, and a brother, Ralph, of Freeport. Floral tributes were many and beautiful.

William O'Brien

Word was received at Meteghan, March 25th, by his daughter, Mrs. John Howell, of the death of William O'Brien, 72, at Queens Village, Long Island, N. Y. He had been in poor health for several years. He is survived by his wife, the former Isabella McEachern; five sons, William, John, James, Lawrence, all of Massachusetts; and Robert in Chicago; five daughters, Miss Rose

RED CROSS NEWS

Digby

The month of March has seen the continuation of all the Red Cross activities, ten cent teas, sponsored by the Junior Red Cross and the Service Wives Club, having been served at each Wednesday afternoon work meeting, at the Court House. The Junior Red Cross is to be congratulated on making a donation of $25 to the Senior Branch at the March business meeting, the money having been raised at the teas and the recent Cabaret.

Quilting has gone steadily on each week at the Court House, and many quilts have also been received as donations. Donations of quilts and other articles received in March, were as follows:—Mrs. Duncan MacKay, Acadiaville, 1 quilt; Service Wives Club, 12 quilts; Trinity W. A., 2 quilts; Trinity Guild, 1 quilt; Baptist Junior Circle, 2 quilts; Rebekah Lodge, 1 quilt; Warner Office Girls' Club, 2 quilts; Rossway Auxiliary, 5 quilts; Marshalltown Auxiliary, 1 quilt; Hill Grove Auxiliary, 1 quilt; Culloden Auxiliary, 1 quilt; Conway Auxiliary, 1 quilt; Centreville Auxiliary, 3 quilts; Barton Auxiliary, 1 quilt; Miss Whitman, 4 pairs mittens; Miss Marion Roop, 2 refugee dresses; Mrs. W. E. Tupper, 1 baby's shawl.

The March shipment to Red Cross headquarters in Halifax, consisted of the following:—4 bathrobes, 6 bed-gowns, 8 prs. pyjamas, 36 scarves, 10 sleeveless sweaters, 4 turtle-neck sweaters, 36 prs. socks, 144 prs. mittens, 37 large quilts, and 16 crib quilts.

Rossway

The sum of $43.60 was cleared from the Red Cross Pie Sale, which was held March 4. Twenty dollars of this money was sent to the Spitfire Fund in Halifax. Eleven dollars purchased flags for the Soldier's Monument. The remainder was used to purchase material for making refugee clothes, quilts, etc.

For the month of March the Auxiliary sent to Digby, a box containing: 3 quilts, 1 turtle-neck sweater, 1 sleeveless sweater, 3 men's scarves, 17 prs. socks, 23 prs. mittens, 2 children's sweaters and 4 children's scarves; also $10.00 in cash.

Red cabbage can always be substituted for white when making cabbage slaw. The red color is most attractive to serve with fish or meat.

TAKES OFF GRIME WITHOUT SCOURING

NO need for hard rubbing and scrubbing when you use a solution of Gillette's Pure Flake Lye. It cuts right through grease, cleans clogged drains, keeps out-houses sanitary and odorless, scours pots and pans, takes the hard work out of heavy cleaning. Keep a tin always handy.

FREE BOOKLET—The Gillette's Lye Booklet tells how this powerful cleaner cleans clogged drains, keeps out-houses clean and odorless by dissolving the contents of the closet. How it performs dozens of tasks. Send for a free copy to Standard Brands Ltd., 1000 Ave. and Liberty Street, Toronto, Ont.

"Never dissolve lye in hot water. The action of the lye itself heats the water."

COME INDICATION of the manner in which the possible market for farm products and other goods has expanded in Nova Scotia is given in recent information provided the House of Commons at Ottawa, quoted in Hansard. This information was to the effect that in this province alone, some $18,680,000 was paid out in military pay and allowances during 1940, only two other provinces in Canada being higher in this respect. Add to this the increased payrolls necessary in railway operations, industrial plants, etc., and a very substantial total would be obtained.

REGISTRATION of egg stations under the new egg grading regulations is now going on in Nova Scotia under the direction of J. F. Hawerty, senior poultry products representative of the federal government for this province. To date eight stations have been registered as having complied with all the requirements, four of these being in Halifax, one in Sydney, and the others in outside points. It is expected that a total of some 16 stations at outside points, and nine stations in cities, will be registered when work is completed, and the various stations have complied with the requirements under the regulations, which must be fulfilled before registration can be obtained.

IN A SHIPMENT of hogs recently from Port Williams, N. S., the Canadian Livestock Co-operative at Moncton reports an exceptionally even lot of bacon hogs from the farm of L. P. Cow at Canning. The shipment was made by the Eastern Kings livestock shipping club. Mr. Cox shipped 7 hogs, dressing 159, 142, 152, 155, 161, 144 and 145 lbs. respectively, all hogs grading into "A" grade and thereby qualifying for the usual packers' premium of $1 head and the additional bonus from the N. S. department of agriculture, recently announced, of $1 head, making a total bonus of $2 head.

The hogs were sold at Moncton and the net return to the owner after freight and handling expenses, was on the basis of $11.92 cwt. dressed warm weight. The bonuses he received gave him a net of $1.32 cwt. over the net basic price. Had his hogs graded only B1, there would have been no packers' premium, and only 50 cents head from the dept. of agriculture.

There were 57 hogs in the Port Williams shipment of which 24 graded A, 23 were B1, and the remaining 4 in the discount grades, two being just under the 135 lb. weight, one over-weight at 133 lbs., and the fourth, while correct for weight, was graded C because of over-finish. The weight for grade A hogs is 140-170, for grade B 135-175.

AT THIS time of the year farmers begin thinking about their seed supplies and once more the call goes forth to the farmers to make every possible effort to use the best seed available for all crops. Farmers who are using their own seed are urged to get germination tests in every case, and to make full use of the seed cleaning plants. Discoloration of the seed grains is not necessarily an indication of poor germination qualities, although it counts in the grading. Some samples of discolored gains have germinated very high. This emphasizes the importance of getting germination tests.

The seed cleaning plants operating in the province cleaned more seed grain in 1940 than ever before. The total was 34,500 bushels of seed grains and 14,206 lbs. of small seeds, compared with only 21,600 bushels of seed grains and 7827 lbs. of small seeds in 1939. These plants are operating as follows:—experimental farm, Nappan; agricultural society, at Aylesford; farmers' club, at Scotsburn; James Penny, Antigonish; experimental farm, Kentville; R. L. Cunningham, Bayhead; Consumers' Co-operative, Mabou; John Smith, Shinimicas; agricultural college, Truro; agricultural society, Windsor; agricultural society, Musquodoboit. The latter plant is the latest to be installed, having been put into operation last year, with an initial handling of 2300 bushels of grain.

Grades of seed, as provided in the dominion seeds act, are Registered Nos. 1, 2 and 3, Certified Nos. 1 and 2, and Commercial Nos. 1, 2 and 3.

Varieties of seed grains recommended for Nova Scotia are as follows: Wheat—Medium late, Huron and White Russian; Early, Garnet. These varieties are all subject to rust. The rust-resistant variety is Coronation.

Oats—Medium late, Banner, Victory and Gold Rain; Early, Alaska and Cartier; all of these are susceptible to rust. The leaf rust resistant variety is Erban and the stem rust resistant variety is Vanguard.

Barley—Charlottetown No. 30, O. A. C. 21, and Nobarb.

ALLEN TREFRY, a graduate of the N.S.A.C., and agricultural representative for Shelburne county last year, at the recent "College Royal" held at the Ontario agricultural college, in which there were nearly 2,000 student exhibits, won first prize as a showman in Ayrshires. Mr. Trefry is indicating that the experience gained as a calf club member at Yarmouth has not yet left him. He will be returning in April to take over his duties as agricultural representative in Shelburne county.

SECOND SHORT course of a month's duration for young women, under the auspices of the women's institute division of the Nova Scotia department of agriculture, was concluded at Truro the past week. Training in all phases of home craft was given to nearly 30 young women, mostly of the rural districts, under the youth training scheme, jointly sponsored by the N. S. dept. of agriculture and the dominion dept. of labour. At the closing exercises on Thursday, March 27, the young students displayed samples of their handwork in home craft, and served tea to visitors.

Basketball News

The Digby girls played their first game with Annapolis High on Wednesday, March 19th. The game was held in the Annapolis Gym and got under way about 4:30. At half time the score stood at 7-5 in favor of the Digby visitors, and when the bell sounded to end the play Digby led with a score of 19 against Annapolis 12. After the game refreshments were served and the Annapolis Principal, Mr. Barreau, entertained the teams with a series of movies. When the Digby girls returned home it was with the hope of a return game at a later date.

EASTER SUNDAY

THE PICTURE of the Risen Christ triumphant over death and sin and misery preaches to us the truth that "We shall all indeed rise again. For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. Then shall come to pass the saying that is written: Death is swallowed up in victory. O death where is thy victory? O death where is thy sting? Now the sting of death is sin, and the power of sin is the law. But thanks be to God Who hath given us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

The gospel story of the Resurrection records the greatest miracle of the New Testament. It takes precedence in all the world's literature on the immortality of the soul. There have been other accounts of the raising of the dead, but the fact remains that only the Resurrection of our Lord is celebrated with solemnity. It is significant too that it is of Christ alone that we have an account of activities on earth, following death that had been defeated. We know nothing of the days or deeds of Lazarus after his release from his grim and foetid tomb. We know nothing of the sleeping or waking hours of Jairus' daughter, after our Savior roused her from slumber of death. We know nothing of what became of the widow's son, whose funeral ended when Christ came along the road that leads to Naim. Their

This Strange World

Nine-year-old Joe Raridaza, of Gloucester, Mass., has rather a big appetite. He gained 100 pounds in fourteen months and now weighs 290 pounds. One recent night he woke up hungry, so he got up, went to the ice box and ate five chickens, intended for the family's dinner, next day.

A lady of France was hailed into court recently, charged with falsifying her age on an official document. Her defence was that she didn't wish her husband to know her correct age. She was acquitted.

Miss Mary Hambridge, of Bath, England, died and left $5,000 to "buy coal for the poor of Combe Down village." But the vicar says "there are no poor in the village!"

Fuzzy Wuzzy, the 12-year-old fox terrier of the late Mrs. Gertrude H. Wilson, of Portsmouth, N. H., will never "go to the cupboard and find it bare"—but Mrs. Wilson's son, Richard, might. In her will, just made public, Mrs. Wilson left a $50,000 estate. She provided sufficient funds for Fuzzy Wuzzy's lifetime care, but Richard was left—nothing.

RELIGION is sometimes a little critical of the outwardness, the commercialization, which the celebration of Easter takes on today. Easter preparations are counted on by business, almost as much as Christmas ones, to stimulate trade. Today, in preparation for tomorrow, is no doubt giving great sales to the florist, the milliner, the dress-shop, the provision dealer and many another retailer.

But after all it is unfitting that material things should be used in helping sacred ones to call attention to a tremendous great event? Easter at any rate is bound to be helped with us by its outward setting. Its name comes from "Eostre," the supposed heathen goddess of spring, whose festival was long ago celebrated by our British ancestors. The name, because the two festivals came at the same season, became attached to our Christian celebration of the Risen Christ—which in its turn had been timed on the Jewish Passover. That our great holy day, too, comes to us each year in spring is still pleasant because opening nature, its flowers and birds, are such a help to the heart then in realizing that hard and wintry things can be conquered.

But it would be a mistake for anyone to let Easter remain a mere nature festival. People in the southern hemisphere can't do it, as far as that goes, for they are just swinging into autumn and winter. But the real meaning of Sunday will search them as deeply as it does us here. It will suggest, first, the tremendous power that any fine thing has to survive; to come to life again after it has seemed to be lost. Disraeli chose for his armorial motto "Resurgam!" "I shall live again!" saying that it was the most pregnant single word in the whole vocabulary of the human race!

Even in that general thought there is tremendous hope—that nothing that is worth survival can be lost. But the Christian Church Sunday will celebrate the rising of the general principle into its necessary application. Christ came back to convince mankind that the death of the physical body is the beginning of the soul's higher life! Self-conscious personalities, like ourselves, cannot die! They rise to new life! It is this confidence and conviction, with all it means to lives often passed on earth, and seen on the background of the serious thought of Lent, that will make Sunday such a glorious day.

The Lighter Side of Life

Customer, entering store just before closing time: "I came in here to get something for my wife."

Tired Shopwalker: "And what are you asking for her?"

"You know all about farm work, you say. Do you know how long cows should be milked?"

"Same as short ones, I suppose."

The speaker was getting tired of being interrupted. "We seem to have a great many fools here tonight," he said. "Wouldn't it be advisable to hear one at a time?"

with your speech." An Irish farmer was in search of a horse.

"I've got just the horse for you," said the dealer. "He's five years old, sound as a dollar and goes ten miles without stopping."

The Irishman threw his hands skywards. "Not for me," he said, "not for me. I live eight miles from town, an' with that horse I have to walk back two miles."

The laziest man we know is Will Nott. He's too lazy to sign his full name anywhere—just writes "Won't."

Older Children Will Help Dye Eggs

If Easter is to be a complete success in the home where there are children, there must be some colored eggs. Mother and dad may be enlisted to direct the job, but they will make a mistake if they deprive the youngsters of all the fun.

Turning ordinary eggs into gay colorful effects should be one of those happy family times like making Christmas cakes or cookies or trimming the Christmas tree.

keep them at that point for at least ten minutes.

If the eggs are to be tinted with dyes you are ready to do the job while they are hot. If you would like to try your hand at painting them by hand, pour off the hot water and cover the eggs with cold water. That helps to keep the yolks from discoloring.

Plain dyed eggs in gay colors are most attractive. Select dyes which are guaranteed pure food colors so that if some of it does penetrate the shells no harm will be done. The food coloring you keep on the pantry shelf to tint foods can be used, but there are special ones designed for this purpose that give a little better color especially in the darker shades.

You will get the best results if both the eggs and dyes are piping hot and if you add a little vinegar to the dye when the water is hard.

After the eggs are dry rub them with a cloth dipped in a little soft fat or oil to make them shiny.

Those of you, adults and children, who have skill with a paint brush will add eggs painted with faces, stripes and geometric designs. They will all help to make the breakfast table attractive Easter morning.

Eggs for Easter An Old Tradition

The origin of the Easter egg tradition is lost in antiquity and year after year the delightful practice of adorning the breakfast table with eggs on Easter Sunday morning continues. It matters not that the first fresh eggs no longer come with Easter, the beginning of spring. The modern model of the humble hen may, and usually does, produce her excellent product the year round. Easter is still associated with eggs, with the hen scratching in the warm earth, newly aware of her destiny.

Eggs, in the Easter tradition, are always boiled in the shell. For children, of course, they must be colored with one of an infinite variety of home or commercial preparations. No parents, treasuring childhood memories of bowls of multi-colored eggs on Easter morning would deny a similar pleasure to their children.

For children, pullet eggs, if they are available, will prove an added attraction, their small size lending a youthful touch and having the further practical advantage of enabling Junior to dispose of a greater number.

Thousands more miles may be added to the life of a tire if a few minutes' time is taken each day for a hasty inspection.

Motor vehicle travel in the United States was six per cent greater in 1940 than the year before.

Amateur photographers in America take more than 600,000,000 pictures a year.

Building Boots For the Forces

Better than flags or guns or bright uniforms as a symbol for the Canadian fighting man would be a pair of hob-nailed boots, says a writer in the current issue of C-I-L Oval. For even in this day of mechanized warfare there are long route marches, constant drills and hours of steady walking on sentry duty.

In factories throughout Canada these days much of the complicated machinery that has been employed in shoe manufacturing and many of the skilled men and women workers who have been creating fine Oxfords, sports shoes and work boots for succeeding generations of Canadians, are now busy turning out soldiers' boots by the hundred thousand. They are making them for the men of Canada's army, at home and overseas, for the men of the Air Force and the Navy and for the hundreds of thousands of trainees who are leaving offices and factories for army camp. And they are making a different kind of boot than has ever been made in Canada before.

To Make Survey Of Town

A motion was passed at Monday night's meeting of the Digby Town Council to have Jack Russell make a complete survey of the town, showing water works, town streets, buildings, telephone and electric light poles, and other landmarks. Mr. Russell quoted a figure of $370 for this work, the town to provide a helper when necessary. The motion was passed with the dissenting vote of Councillor Hayden.

The clerk advised the Council that the Band Grant Bill had been presented to the Legislature, and that the Legislature had approved the Dumping Bill. A notice with respect to Dumping was authorized to be inserted in this week's Courier.

An application from Provincial Oils Ltd., to erect tanks in the south end of the town, immediately east of the B. A. tanks, across First Avenue, on lands formerly owned by H. T. Warner.

J. W. Merkel, reporting for the Fire Wards, stated the fire company now had 1100 feet of good hose, and required 500 additional feet this year. He also recommended new tires and tubes for the truck.

Albert Warner and Dudley Winchester were appointed special Chimney Sweeps.

No action was taken on the request of Jack Raymond for an annual salary of $30 for are of the Town Dump.

Bombers Over Canada

Canadians, who have always ranked high among the Empire's marksmen, are now learning a new kind of marksmanship. Day after day student bombers drop practice bombs with increasing accuracy on floating and stationary targets, finding out how to keep their eyes on the target while travelling at nearly 265 miles an hour, writes Leonard Lewis in an article in the March issue of C-I-L Oval.

Air bombing is a scientific occupation requiring a knowledge of mathematics, steady nerves, quick thinking and capable hands. At the Jarvis School on Lake Erie, No. 1 of 10 bombing and gunnery schools to be established under the Commonwealth Air Training Plan, nearly 100 training planes are in constant action and the administrative, instructional and maintenance staff consists of 800 men, mostly R.C.A.F. personnel. Before going to Jarvis the student fliers have gone through most of the other air training courses passing rigid tests and accumulating considerable knowledge of flying before they enter this final stage.

Chemistry, which enters in many ways into the making of aircraft, also makes an important contribution to bomber training through the small practice bombs used in these final exercises. Practice bombs weigh 11½ pounds each, compared to the 500 to 2,000 pound projectiles used in actual warfare, and are 15 inches long with a diameter of three inches at their thickest section.

All parts of the practice bomb are made in Canada, including the charge, which is a product of the explosives chemist, according to the article. On ground targets, bombs charged with stannic chloride are used; on water targets, titanium tetrachloride. On contact with the ground or water a small charge of explosives blows off the tail of the bomb and frees the chemical charge. Contact of these acids with atmosphere or water causes a puff of white smoke by which the bomb timer, thousands of feet above, may judge the accuracy of his aim.

Electrical Daylight

Electrical and chemical engineers have brought forth man-made daylight which rivals nature's own. Work rooms, play rooms and reading rooms can be flooded with light, free from the vagaries of cloud and mist, writes Ted Sanderson in the March issue of C-I-L Oval.

In these days of threatened air raids, with blackouts and windowless factories that work day and night, artificial light of high quality has become of paramount importance. Edison's first incandescent lamp of 60-odd years ago, would be pitifully inadequate for modern needs. Many generations of light bulbs have come and gone since then. Each generation has shown new refinement and efficiency. Electrical and chemical engineers, and metallurgists have combined their knowledge and skill to create new marvels in lighting. Recently a lighting expert made an astounding statement: "We can now produce artificial daylight that is better than real daylight."

He supported this paradoxical claim by explaining that, while real daylight is constantly variable, artificial daylight can be made uniform. This expert was referring especially to the new fluorescent lighting tubes which not only produce purer, softer and much cooler light in practically any desired color, but give off from three to almost 200 times as much light, depending on the color, as an incandescent lamp will produce from the same electric power. Fluorescent lights are straight glass tubes containing argon gas and mercury vapour and having a small tungsten filament at each end. The small filaments act as cathodes which start an arc through the length of the tube, after which they are automatically shut off while the arc continues, according to this article.

So the next time you buy a light bulb or tube for a few cents, take a second look at it. That glass bulb contains many outstanding contributions of engineering—electrical, mechanical and chemical!

Pep for Poultry

Few people know much about vitamins or realize what great strides science has made in this comparatively new field during the last few years. One of the most outstanding developments was the discovery of concentrated vitamins obtained from new sources and it is fairly safe to say that these vitamins will soon play an important part in the feeding of farm livestock, according to an article by John Robitaille, in the March issue of C-I-L Oval.

Lack of vitamins in the animal body may cause a number of diseases. Vitamin D, which differs fundamentally from the others, is essential for the assimilation of calcium and phosphorus and is obtained by exposure to sunshine. In this severe climate it often happens that animals do not get enough sunlight. Formerly the only remedy for this insufficiency was cod liver oil but thanks to the scientist, the feed manufacturer now has a new source of Vitamin D called "Delsterol", that solves almost all new problems.

The present war, with its resulting restriction of trade, has caused many industries to look around for new sources of supply for raw materials or find substitutes. The loss of the Norwegian source, which supplied a large percentage of the cod liver oil used in this country, has resulted in a run on the American produced oil.

Fortunately the chemical development of a new source of Vitamin D provides a solution to this problem, for the supply of materials that go into the manufacture will never be exhausted on this continent.

It is impossible to exaggerate the importance of agriculture in time of war, says the writer. Since the raising of livestock is a vital part of that industry, the scientists work in that field will never be finished. The discovery of this vitamin from a new source is just another step in the continual advance.

Jamaica women carry everything on their heads.

Orbin Minard, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gates, Jr., motored to Yarmouth on Sunday, where they visited Mrs. Ruth Nichols. Mrs. Clarence Haight and children, of North Range, who have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Goldsmith, for a few days, have returned home.

The Junior Red Cross of the Acaciaville School, held a dramatic entertainment and picnic on Friday afternoon. A pleasant time was enjoyed by all present and a tidy sum added to the funds of the Society.

MENNONITES HELP

Mennonite churches in Western Canada have generously contributed to help war refugees in England. In 1940, they sent clothing to England to the value of $3,000 with money contributions totalling $6,000. In the present year, Mennonites have sent clothing to England to the value of $1,700. Donations to the Red Cross total $19,000. Two Red Cross drives among the Mennonites in Western churches yielded $8,000.

Mennonite communities are being canvassed for non-profit bearing bonds.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD EASTER PICTURES

Daughter's new Easter Rabbit—an intimate, revealing close-up. A portrait attachment lets you get close-ups like this. Note the sketch below.

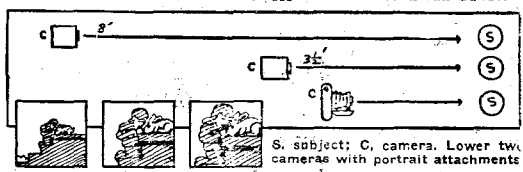

IT WON'T be long now before the Easter Rabbit is prowling around the corners of the backyard, tucking brightly colored eggs and baskets of candy into snug, concealed spots. Shortly we will be seeing the annual Spring fashion parade to church, and yellow jonquills will be nodding in every breeze.

April 13 is Easter, and the question now is—have you your camera polished up and loaded, ready to memorialize that eventful day in pictures that you will treasure in later years? There are dozens of pictures that can be made on occasions like this, and each one has memory value. You probably need new snapshots of members of the family—and with their pose enthusiastically when they have new Spring outfits to display! The children's Easter fun should be fittingly recorded—in intimate close-ups (a portrait attachment helps there) showing them with Easter baskets and the brown or fluffy white Easter bunnies they receive.

Make sure that you get an "off to church" picture, a snap of Mother picking or arranging the first bouquet of Easter flowers. Let your camera write the day's history. Don't include too much in each picture—keep your camera close, and go the little, interesting details that make a picture live! And when you put the pictures in your album, date each one. A memo of day and year gives added value to the family's picture-history book.

John van Guilder

With many cameras, you must be six to eight feet from your subject to get a picture. But slip a portrait attachment on the lens—and you get pictures at three feet six inches, or even nearer with some cameras. Result: big images of little subjects; and better pictures.

VICTORIA BEACH DYNAMIC LEADERS WANTED.

(Held Over From Last Week)

A 15 cent tea was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McCaul. Roy Casey has returned home, after spending a few days in Saint John.

Harry Orde, of Maitland Bridge, spent the week end at the home of Mrs. Howard Ellis.

Fred and Walter Ryan and Ralph Haynes, of the S. S. Princess Heloise, spent Sunday at their homes here.

Austin Foley, of the S. S. Gypsum Prince, visited his mother, Mrs. Orbin Everitt, on Friday. He has since left for an American port.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Charlton and two children, of Millford, visited Mrs. Charlton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orbin Everitt, on Sunday.

What we need in Canada today are more men of the dynamic energy, the intelligent ability and the patriotic ideals of the Right Hon. Richard S. Bennett. We do not go so far as to ask for a National Government. There are men of great ability in the King Cabinet, but they are saddled with too much detail work. Bring in a number of qualified key men and relieve the Ministers of the necessity of devoting too much time to trivial incidents. Make a sincere effort to establish an administrative body which would include men and women regardless of their political views.—Sherbrooke Que., Telegram.

Annie L. Hunter IS A STICKLER FOR GOOD INGREDIENTS

ANNIE L. HUNTER of Summerside, P.E.I. is famous for her fine home-made chocolates which she boxes and sells throughout the Maritimes. But she can make more than good candies—her cakes have quite often won many first prizes at the local fairs. "Selling candies commercially has made me very accurate in measuring everything," Mrs. Hunter told me. "So when I beat up a cake for the family I take just the same care as when making my chocolates."

"For as long as I can remember," Mrs. Hunter said, "I have used no other flour but Robin Hood. I like it for bread, cakes, pies—everything I bake. I bake quite a few wedding cakes, and

TENDERSWEET HAM

Ham comes to the table glazed side up. These illustrations show a right ham with the bone structure marked in dotted lines. The method for carving a left ham will be the same, except that shank will be to the carver's left.

Without Ham for Easter Sunday, it would hardly seem like Easter. For in Canada, Ham is the traditional meat for the Easter Season. So, here's what we suggest:

● (1) You will wish to choose a Ham that is sure to be tender, of sweet flavour, and easy to cook (no parboiling).

ANSWER—Just ask your Butcher or Grocer for a "Maple Leaf Tendersweet Ham."

● (2) You may wish to learn how to carve it easily and economically.

ANSWER—A proven new method of carving is illustrated with directions in the panel below. Show it to the person in your home who does the carving. It may be the answer to the carver's problem.

BARTON

(Held Over From Last Week)

The Home and School Association held its March meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Smith. Eighteen were present. In the absence of Mrs. P. D. Lamberton the President, the vice-President, McClara Cameron, took charge of the meeting. Different reports were given and general business discussed. After the session was over the social part of the evening was in charge of Mrs. D. Welch and a good time was enjoyed playing games. The April meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Specht.

Arthur Lewis is laid up with an injured foot. He cut it while working in the woods. The Barton-Brighton Red Cross Auxiliary shipped to Digby recently: one crib quilt, two little girl's dresses, two bed jackets, one sweater, three straight scarves, one fitted scarf, and thirteen pairs of mittens.

Miss Ruby West and Miss Bessie Harris are living in John Russell's house.

SQUARE-SHOOTERS THAT COUNT.

It isn't the number of square miles in a town that makes it what it is, but the number of square shooters in it. It is the citizens that make a town. Its prominence and a good name are controlled by the measure of cooperation and public spirit of its business men and leaders. The only way a town can be kept "on the map" is by the actions of those who dwell in it. If they do not boost their town, no one else will.—Winchester, Ont., Press.

TOO MUCH WASTE PAPER!

Day after day, and week after week, weekly newspapers are flooded with all kinds of government propaganda, from speeches by members of the government to what not. Most of it finds its way into the wastepaper basket. This is only one instance of government wastefulness and its elimination would mean a saving of many thousands of dollars. At the war, all unnecessary expenditures should be stopped. —Stirling, Ont., News-Argus.

About This and That

MOST PEOPLE admit there is something wrong with the school system. There are certain prescribed courses one must take before receiving a diploma from either high school or college. Yet these courses are not specifically designed to help one get or to hold a job afterward. Geometry is a "must" for the high school. Yet nine-tenths of high school graduates never have occasion to use it in their work. What good does it do then? Why not have the school subject adjusted to fit a need, so that when one has received a diploma he has also received instruction along a certain line of work? We think it is time for educators to wake up and lay the necessary credits for high school and college along sane rules so that graduates may become self-supporting earlier and without having to take special courses later.

SHIPS MEAN life to Great Britain, and never was it plainer than at this moment. Swift indeed is the reaction felt, when anything aimed at dislocation of her sea-borne trade is attempted. All rests on her well being as a maritime country. Her navy and merchant marine mean everything. Said Sir Francis Drake, completing his epochal voyage around the world four hundred years ago, in a message to his Queen: "We have opened the gates of the sea. We have given you the keys of the world. From this day forward the British merchant can rove wither he will, and no man can say him nay. Our labor is done. Yours is to begin. Men pass away but the people abide. See that ye hold fast, the heritage we leave you. Yea, and teach your children its value, that never in the coming centuries their hearts may fail them, or their hands grow weak." Words worth remembering today.

LEAVE RELIGION and good advice out of my reading matter," requests one individual. Unfortunately he is not unique. Today millions scoff at religion and scorn sound counsel. Solomon was doubtless thinking of such people when he wrote: "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge, but fools despise wisdom and instruction." If the question, "What is wrong with the world today?" could be answered in a single sentence, it would be in the words of the prophet, Isaiah: "We have turned everyone to his own way." In that world generally regards religion as non-essential and good advice as a nuisance. Moreover, if the ills that harass the human race are ever healed, it will be when men not only gladly the voice of religion and the precepts of right living, but also practise them in their everyday lives.

APPARENTLY the axis powers are looking for trouble. Both Italian and Japanese officials hold that the United States, by the enactment of the lend-lease law, have committed an act tantamount to intervention in European war of course none of the axis powers can see in American aid for Britain any parallel to Russian aid for Germany. Nor is this at all likely, since American action can be utilized by them in many ways, even to the extent of being made the excuse for their failure to set up the new world order. Before they do this, however, they will probably make war on the United States without declaring it, and for this the United States should be fully prepared.

CLEMENTSPORT

Edwin Burrell has joined the R.C.O.C. at Halifax.

More Evidence Of Spring

Spring is here. Bonfires and grass fires in the town and outside are getting to be quite common, and Monday afternoon, the Digby Fire Department was called out for the first grass fire of the season. There was no damage, and the department was only out for a few minutes.

Rural highways are still in bad condition, but, pavement "bumps" caused by frost boils, are already beginning to smooth out.

In town the grader has been over a few of the streets on the lower levels, but "over the hill" the road is still bad, and from indications, it will be some time yet before all the frost is out of the ground. Jack VanTassel, acting superintendent of streets and water, states, men on the water department while working Monday, found no frost for the first few inches, but, after that, the frost was in the ground for three and one-half feet.

SMITH'S COVE

Gnr. Thomas Francis, who is in the Service, was in the village over the week end.

Ira Davis, of the R.C.N., is now on furlough and spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kaulback.

Miss Louise McHugh, of Saint John, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sully.

Rev. M. C. Higgins spent a few days in the village last week, returning to Bridgetown on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cossett, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Isabel, and Mrs. E. J. Payson were in Yarmouth one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Bailey are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Sully, while Mr. Bailey is on furlough from the R.C.A.F.

The committee in charge of the collection for War Service Funds for Smith's Cove and Juggin Bridge were successful, reporting the sum of $92.00 collected.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cossaboom were called to Halifax on Saturday, to see Mrs. Cossaboom's brother, who recently returned from service in England, and is now in hospital, in Halifax.

The regular meeting of the Red Cross was held with Mrs. Fred Smith, on Friday. This week the meeting will be at the home of Mrs. R. E. Cossett, on Wednesday, instead of Good Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Payson spent Sunday in Kentville, with their daughter, Mrs. Alex. K. Sutherland and Sgt. Sutherland. The Sutherlands have now come to this village to spend the Easter holidays.

CONSTIPATION A LIFELONG STRUGGLE

Relief Found at Last

With perfect frankness a woman correspondent writes: "I have suffered from constipation as long as I can remember, and taken all sorts of things—which in some cases seemed to do good at first, but afterwards to have no effect. Then I thought I would try Kruschen in my tea every morning, and I have done so for over a year. I am pleased to say after the first month I had no more trouble with constipation and I have felt very fit."—(Mrs.) G. M. S.

Kruschen helps to maintain a condition of internal cleanliness. The several salts in Kruschen stimulate the organs of elimination to smooth, gentle action. Your system is thus kept clear of clogging waste and poisonous impurities.

LITTLE RIVER

Osborne Trask is a patient in the Digby Hospital.

Capt. and Mrs. D. E. Cheney, of Sydney, are spending a few days with friends here.

Mrs. George Cheyne, Saint John, attended the funeral of her aunt, the late Mrs. Walter Denton.

Mrs. Ralph Watkins, of Westport, spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Trask, recently.

Bdr. Roderick W. Abramson spent the week end with his wife, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Trask. He was accompanied by Bdr. John T. Wimple, of Debert.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Ingersoll, of North Head, Grand Manan, who were called here by the sudden illness and death of Mrs. Ingersoll's sister, Mrs. Walter Denton, left for their home on Monday.

Have You Been Overlooked?

LET'S MAKE IT A WHIRLWIND FINISH!

("The Boys Rely on the Folks Back Home")

Thousands of firms and individuals, in all parts of Canada, have responded magnificently to this Six-in-One Appeal. But there are other thousands equally ready to help. You may be one who has still to be heard from.

This is an appeal to every Canadian who has been overlooked. We wish for every Canadian, at home, an opportunity to support our men in uniform. The Fund is now well on the way to its objective. That objective definitely can be reached, probably exceeded.

For the sake of "The Boys", let's finish it with a bang that will raise resounding cheers from Coast to Coast!

How You Can Help

If you have not yet been called on by a War Services worker, and if you have not yet sent in your subscription, make up your mind NOW what you are going to do, and do it TO-DAY! Fill in the coupon below and mail it to your Provincial Headquarters at the address shown. If you know of some friends who have also been overlooked, get them to do the same.

The form is self-explanatory. Simply check on the left in the appropriate place, and if you enclose a remittance, make it payable to Canadian War Services Fund. An official receipt will be sent you by return mail.

Every Dollar Does Its Job

Remember—all monies contributed to the Canadian War Services Fund will be divided in accordance with government-approved budgets, amongst the six organizations embraced in this campaign.

A non-profit corporation with letters patent from the Dominion Government is your guarantee that every dollar that you subscribe will be properly applied to provide comfort, cheer, recreation and needed personal services to our fighting forces—services not provided in any other way.

Your contribution is urgently needed!

MARRIAGE

Campbell - Harnden
Miss Ruth Avery Harnden and Carl Murray Campbell were united in marriage at a pretty home wedding, Saturday afternoon, March 22, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Harnden, of Greenwood, Mass. The double ring ceremony was solemnized at 5 o'clock, by Rev. Austin Rice, D.D., pastor of the First Congregational Church, in the presence of about forty guests, members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends. The bride, who was gowned in powder blue silk crepe in redingote style, with a corsage of gardenias, was given in marriage by her father. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Ralph E. Conner, of Melrose, Mass., as matron of honor, who wore dusty pink silk crepe fashioned on redingote lines with a gardenia corsage. The bridegroom, who is a son of Mrs. Nina Campbell, Dorchester, Mass. (formerly of Bear River), had his brother, Donald G., of Dorchester, as best man.

Women's Institute

The Women's Institute held their monthly meeting on Monday, April 7, with Mrs. William Morine, 2nd vice-president, in the chair.

Mrs. Green, convener of the Better Schools Committee, gave a very fine report of the Cocoa Fund. Hot cocoa had been served to the school children for twelve weeks this winter, and letters from the children, telling how they had enjoyed it, were greatly appreciated by the Institute members.

The Treasurer's report showed that all the money allotted for purchase of supplies for the Bear River Room in the Digby County Hospital, had been used, and a list of things bought was submitted.

At the close of the business meeting Major A. M. Simons gave a very interesting talk on "The preparation of the soil and rotation of crops for successful gardening."

Tea was served to raise money for the local Red Cross. The hostesses were, Mrs. H. E. Harris, Mrs. F. R. Harris, Miss Muriel Kinney and Mrs. B. R. McCarthy.

The Ladies' Aid held a special night on Tuesday evening, April 1, at the United Church parsonage, with Mrs. R. L. Roach as hostess.

A programme was given as follows:—

Selections—by the Orchestra.

Piano Duet—Mrs. F. Burrage and Miss Emma Benson.

Piano Solo—Emma Benson.

Playlet—"The Coon Town Wedding" (casts): Mrs. F. R. Harris, parson; Mrs. C. Balsor, bride; Mrs. Otis Rice, groom; Mrs. R. L. Roach, organist; Mrs. F. Burrage, soloist.

Several games were played. The hostesses for the evening were: Mrs. William Morine, Mrs. Otis Rice, Mrs. H. E. Harris, Mrs. C. Balsor.

Gold and silver badges for field service caps of officers in the Canadian Army will not be authorized in future. Shortage of the metallic braids which previously came from France, expense involved and unsatisfactory reproduction in these materials are reasons advanced.

Mrs. Howard Buckler is slowly improving from her operation at the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax. Her husband and two daughters spent several days in the city.

Canadian Florists To Beat the Dutch

From the rows and rows of blooms - daffodils, tulips and narcissi - in his long glass houses, the florist now can bring the fragrance of spring to Canadian homes on the coldest winter day. Here, the carefully tended bulbs send out buds many weeks ahead of season. The gardener calls this process "forcing".

A thriving industry has grown and prospered in British Columbia in the raising of bulbs for forcing. From a small beginning the industry has grown to a point where the value of the crop reaches the hundreds of thousands of dollars. And now that Dutch and other European sources of bulbs have been cut off, the growers in British Columbia find themselves responsible for supplying a market with a demand far exceeding their present capacity to fulfill, according to an article by W. W. Bride, in the March issue of C-I-L Oral.

At Duncan, on Vancouver Island, is the largest of Canada's bulb farms. The Woodridge Farm has fields containing as many as 25 acres of delicate daffodils and narcissi. Tractor cultivation, automatic lanterns, bulb diggers and other labor-saving devices are the rule on this farm. The machine has been harnessed here but on most of the acreage planted to bulbs in British Columbia the Dutch system of hand planting in beds prevails. Under mechanized conditions the grower can plant only 75,000 bulbs per acre while under the Dutch system of beds one acre will carry 130,000.

A larger acreage can be normally expected in British Columbia next year. Last year the Woodridge Farm shipped as far east as Montreal. This summer they expect to lift close to three million bulbs - as many bulbs as British Columbia imported in 1936. As the home market has expanded, so have imports of bulbs into Canada steadily declined, from 37 million in 1932 to 30 million in 1936, concludes the writer.

Ticking Off the Ticks from a Bull Moose.

Guides in Nova Scotia are pondering over the problem of helping the moose to get rid of his ticks, states the Fish and Game Department of the Canadian National Railways. With the small dog it's a cinch - why, just dust him with flea powder, but just imagine trying to hold a bull moose with one hand and dust insect powder over him with the other. Gentlemen, it can't be done, at least no sane individual would try it. Many bright ideas were forthcoming as the guides were gathered at the annual convention of the Nova Scotia Fish and Game Protective Association, such as to have an airplane fly low over a moose and blow powder over him as the plane swooped. That was ruled out as being a little too hazardous or the plane with the possibility of having the landing gear tangled up in the moose's millinery. Another idea was to have guides climb up into trees armed with a powder squirt gun and as the moose passed underneath give him a squirt of powder. That also was voted down when the idea was probed for its possibilities, there being the danger of having the guide permanently treed by the moose. Another suggestion thrown out was to lassoo the moose, dust him off and then release him. This seemed to be more feasible at first thought but this also was thrown out when it was asked: "who's going to hold the moose?"

Then a brilliant idea came to the surface as the guides pondered over the problem. Just who thought of it first was hard for the chairman of the meeting to determine as there were a number of guides all on the floor at the same time. The idea was to have a supervised burning of barren lands near the haunts of the moose, thus covering the barren lands with an alkaline ash in which the moose just loves to roll. Now the trick is this: The ticks do not like the ash, in fact it is anathema to them. As the moose rolls in the ash the ticks just tick off. Brilliant, eh what?

It is an independent kingdom, under British protection.)

OBITUARY

Mrs. Walter Denton

The community of Little River was again saddened, when it became known that Mrs. Walter Denton had passed away Wednesday afternoon, April 2, at her home, at the age of 77. Although she had not been in good health, yet she did her household duties through the day and was stricken about 11 o'clock Monday with a stroke and went unconscious from which she never rallied. She took an active part in church work and was a member of the Missionary Aid Society and the Philathea Class, and was always ready and willing to do her part in any project that went on for the benefit of the church and village. Surviving are her husband; five sisters and one brother, Mrs. Howard Denton (Cynthia), Mrs. Edgar Denton (Martha), Mrs. Burton Frost (Laleah), Mrs. Winthrop Trask (Emerette), of Little River; Mrs. Harley Ingersoll (Annie), of Grand Manan; and brother, Byron Trask, of Little River. The funeral was held in the Baptist Church, of which she was a member, on Saturday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Arthur Glendenning. Her favorite hymns "Face to Face" and "Beautiful Garden of Prayer" were sung and an especially favorite "The Eastern Gate" was sung as a solo by Mrs. Bowman Collins. The floral tributes were beautiful. Mrs. George Cheyne, of Saint John, Mrs. Harley Ingersoll, of Grand Manan, and Lloyd McNeill, of Marshalltown, attended the funeral.

Delbert Nelson Sullivan

The death of little Delbert Nelson Sullivan, 10 months old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Sullivan, of Brighton, took place late in the afternoon on Thursday of last week. He leaves to mourn besides his parents, four sisters and one brother. The funeral was held from Frank Sullivan's, on Saturday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Roop officiating.

Mrs. Austin Weir

The death occurred on Monday morning, at her home in Parker's Cove, of Etta, beloved wife of Austin Weir, at the age of 31 years. She had been in failing health for several years. Left to mourn their loss besides her husband, are two daughters, two step-sons and one step-daughter; her mother; three sisters and two brothers. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon with interment in Parker's Cove cemetery.

Rev. W. B. M. Parker

Rev. W. B. M. Parker, a native of Granville and a retired clergyman of the United Church, died suddenly at his home in Belmont, Sunday. He had been a minister in the Methodist and United Churches for 40 years. Among the circuits of which he was pastor was that of Hebron in Yarmouth County. In the death of Mr. Parker the editor of the Courier lost a friend whose friendship he has enjoyed for half a century. When we first met, "Boyd" Parker was merely a lad, a young teacher in the Sand Beach school near Yarmouth. With a few others of our own age, including G. H. Langtry, who died a few years ago, in Yarmouth; "Shel" Poole, now Rev. S. S. Poole, D.D., of Saint John, we became interested in the work of the I. O. G. T., and Boyd Parker assisted the editor to organize his first lodge Western Lodge, in Overton, Yarmouth County. We formed a friendship at that time, which has lasted all through life. To the sorrowing widow and family we extend our sympathy.

Brigadier J. H. Roberts, M. C., R.C.A., who has been in command of the 1st Divisional Artillery overseas, has been appointed in command of an infantry brigade of the 1st Canadian Division replacing Brigadier Armand A. Smith, M.C., E. D., of Winona, Ont., who has been returned to Canada as medically unfit. Lieut.-Col. A. E. Tremaine of Montreal, who is promoted to rank of Brigadier, succeeds Brigadier Roberts in the artillery command.

Vandals Cause Damage to Property

It is seldom we have occasion to report cases of wanton vandalism in our columns, however, two cases have been brought to our attention this week.

We were shown a piece of fence wire at the office of the Digby County Power Board this week. This piece of wire with the ends bent in the was about ten feet in length shape of a hook, and had caused considerable trouble on the Digby Neck Hyrdro line. The wire had been thrown across the lines causing a dead short circuit. The cause of the trouble was not located by linemen until 11 p.m., Sunday. We were informed similar incidents have occurred at other times.

Yesterday morning we noted several windows in the back of the Myrtle Hotel had been broken, apparently by boys, who should know better, throwing stones.

PARKER'S COVE

The fishermen are painting their boats and getting ready for fishing.

Mrs. Longley Hamilton and Miss Jean Halliday, of Hillsburn, were recent visitors of Mrs. LeRoy Halliday.

Pte. Wilfred Weir was called home from Halifax to attend the funeral of his step-mother, the late Mrs. Austin Weir.

Mrs. Hester Magarvie, of Granville Beach, was a recent over-night visitor of her son, Donald Magarvie and Mrs. Magarvie.

Barton-Brighton

The Barton-Brighton Auxiliary Red Cross have sent to the Digby Branch in February and March, the following:

1 Crib quilt, 2 dresses, 1 bed pairs mittens, 3 bed jackets, jacket, 1 sweater, 4 scarves, 13 3 hot water bottle covers, 6 scarves, 1 sweater, 10 pairs mittens, 2 pairs seaman sox, 2 pairs sox, 1 mat.

At the same time goods were sent via Barton-Brighton Red Cross, from Doucetteville, 4 pairs sox; from South Range, 1 pair mittens, 5 pairs sox and 4 pairs seaman sox.

An army division, in these days of mechanisation, requires about 3000 vehicles, including guns, tractors, tanks and trucks.

GRANVILLE FERRY

Mrs. Randall has returned from Halifax, where she spent the past four months.

George Anthony, of Lower Granville, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Ralph Chisholm.

Miss Clara Bent, of Granville Centre, visited her cousin, Mrs. Percy Mills, the past week.

The old fashioned variety concert, held in the Community Hall, Granville Ferry, on Monday evening of last week, was a great success, $30.00 being realized.

Mrs. Wiley Long and infant son have returned from the Annapolis Royal Hospital and are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Baltzer. Mrs. Lloyd Baltzer is visiting at the same home.

Jerome Doyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat. Doyle, who is a student at the University of New Brunswick, has won the Khaki University Scholarship for the second year. This scholarship is awarded for merit, and can only be given to a son of a Great War Veteran.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Chisholm entertained at a party on Wednesday evening of last week, with Blair Hatfield as guest of honor. The evening was spent with card games, and at the close, Mr. Hatfield, who has since gone to Port Greville, on a month's vacation, at his old home, was presented with some nice gifts and all joined in singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow".

Appeal on the Rand for 2,000 donors to provide blood serum for South African soldiers had an immediate and enthusiastic response. Only a few hours after the appeal was made 100 donors enrolled.

The best way to get rid of your duties is to discharge them.

V.O.N. Acknowledges Donations

Two quilts, made by the Service Wives Club, were donated to the Supply Committee of the Digby Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses, it was acknowledged at the regular monthly meeting, Tuesday afternoon. The V. O. N. also acknowledged a cheque of $25 from the School Board, in appreciation of work done by the nurse during the Immunization Clinics.

The report of the nurse revealed 183 visits were made during the month. Of these 132 were nursing visits. Seventeen hours were spent in the schools, when special inspection was given 78 children. Twenty-three prominent eye conditions were found, and three fitted with glasses.

Donations of $16 from the Junior Red Cross and $1.50 from the Senior Health Club were received to go toward the cost of glasses for those unable to pay for their own.

A better attendance for the month of March was reported at the Well Baby Clinics, and 26 children were visited at their homes.

An aircraft flying at a height of 8,000 feet was beyond the reach of gun batteries in 1918. The average height at which enemy planes have been shot down recently over England, is 16,000 feet—more than three miles.

IT IS announced that an item of $110,000 has been included in the capital estimates for 1941, now before the legislature, for assistance which may be provided by the Nova Scotia government in the establishment in the province of storage warehouses for feed grains shipped in by water route or otherwise from western points, as one means of reducing the cost of these feeds to Nova Scotia farmers, and also for establishment of an abattoir at a suitable point for the slaughter of locally produced livestock under government inspection and grading.

These projects have both been under consideration for some time, by the Nova Scotia government, who have been giving close study to the proposals, and have been carrying on certain negotiations looking to their ultimate conclusion. Although plans for these projects have not yet been completed, provision in the estimates of $110,000 makes funds available for any assistance to the projects the government may decide upon during the current year.

THE SUCCESSFUL operation in 1940 of the policy of the Nova Scotia department of agriculture in offering can sealer equipment to certain rural communities on a 50-50 basis as to cost, to encourage the home canning of vegetables and fruits, has led the Department to the decision to expand the policy this season to serve a larger number of communities.

In this connection the policy will be linked with the organization of the "garden brigade" throughout the province, and communities which organize companies in the garden brigade will be entitled, if they desire, to this assistance in purchasing the can sealer equipment. There will, however, be a limit placed on the number of communities to receive the equipment, and the communities will be dealt with in the order in which they complete their garden brigade organization.

Last year can sealers were introduced in a number of communities through the medium of the women's institute and garden clubs, and the results were very satisfactory. Canning demonstrations were also given in other communities. It was found that where vegetables were grown at home these could be canned with the use of the can sealer for a cost of about one cent.

The "garden brigade" movement was initiated this year as an added means of stimu-

The Life of Winston Churchill --The Man Who'll Beat Hitler

Critics of Winston Churchill have frequently taunted him with being a political "turncoat," and have alleged that opportunism dictated his political leanings at any given time. Certainly, Winston Churchill has always been ambitious, and a writer said of him a decade ago: "Power is meat and drink to him. Power acts on him like a spur and brings out all his tremendous vital qualities at full stretch. He works than with a furious energy which crushes through obstacles."

A study of his career, though, shows conclusively that political opportunism was never the controlling element in his actions. It is probably much nearer the truth to say that he was far more Liberal in his personal instincts than the Conservative party of the early part of the century.

Disowned by Constituents

Hardly had Winston Churchill been elected as a Conservative in 1900 than he found cause to criticize and oppose his own party, and succeeding sessions of Parliament saw the split ever widening. He staggered the Tory diehards by advocating the adoption of more Radical policies, and when Joseph Chamberlain inaugurated his great Tariff Reform (Protection) campaign, Winston Churchill fought it tooth and nail.

His own constituents disowned him and early in 1904 he was adopted Liberal candidate for Northwest Manchester. In the General Election, two years later, he won this seat and was given the post of Colonial Under-Secretary in the new Liberal administration. Winston Churchill had thus been officially a member of the Liberal party for a considerable period before the political landslide put his party in the saddle.

Initiated Social Reforms

He now had an opportunity to co-operate in the policy of "conciliation with the Boers" which had been repudiated by his former Conservative colleagues. The obvious success of Home Rule in South Africa, so amply demonstrated as time passed, made a great impression on Winston Churchill's mind, with results that were seen later when he espoused Home Rule for Ireland, and in his dealings with other parts of the Empire.

In 1908, Mr. Churchill was taken into the Cabinet as President of the Board of Trade, but it was then that he received his first really serious check of his career. In the bye-election which followed his Cabinet appointment, he was defeated in Manchester, and his was a grievous blow to his pride. However, the following month saw him elected to Dundee, a seat which he held for the next 14 years. He was made Home Secretary in 1910.

Advocated Unemployment Insurance

During these years, Winston Churchill concentrated his attention upon questions of social reform. He was responsible for the Trade Boards Act, which established a minimum wage for certain "sweated" industries; for the Shops Act, establishing a compulsory weekly half-holiday for shopkeepers and their assistants, and he had much to do with the introduction of the Old Age Pensions Act.

He was in the closest association at this time with Mr. Lloyd George, and with him played a vital part in establishing the Unemployment and Health Insurance Acts which laid the basis for the present sweeping social welfare services.

These reforms were not achieved without bitter political fighting, for the Conservatives opposed them at every turn. In one acrimonious debate, Winston Churchill, ever a master of repartee, quipped: "The Tories can, and do, resist everything—except temptation!"

The House of Lords vetoed the reform acts and Winston Churchill flung himself into the fray to end the Lords' veto with all the zeal and energy of a Crusader. When the battle was won and the power of veto by the Lords was wrested from them, thus sustaining the supreme rights of the Commons, this grandson of the Duke of Marlborough was not the least of the victors.

Whipped by Feminists!

Women's struggle for the suffrage was coming to the fore, and Winston Churchill showed less prescience than he invariably displayed, for he opposed the extension of the vote to women. As Home Secretary, he was a particular object of attack by the feminists, and on two occasions he was dog-whipped by irate suffragettes.

When several of the more militant suffragettes chained themselves to a railing in Downing Street, and said they wouldn't leave until women were given the vote, Mr. Churchill snorted: "A man might as well chain himself to the railings of St. Thomas Hospital, and say he won't leave until he has a baby."

(Mr. Churchill's engrossing life story will be continued next week.)

The Life of Winston Churchill

--The Man Who'll
Beat Hitler

Nothing so illustrates the picturesque and devil-may-care character of Winston Churchill in his early days than an incident which occurred when he was Home Secretary. A group of Russian anarchists, led by a desperado named Peter the Painter, were running amok in London, pillaging and stealing. They shot a policeman to death and were run to earth in a house on Sydney street, where they barricaded themselves in.

Police surrounded the house but the anarchists shot at them recklessly, and the Home Secretary was appealed to for troops. He sent them—and himself headed the company, walking along the street to reconnoitre the situation, entirely regardless of the storm of bullets from the besieged house.

The house eventually burst into flames and Mr. Churchill, with a police inspector and a sergeant, strode to the front door, expecting at any moment a wild dash by the bandits, but none came—and when they entered, they found the charred bodies of two members of the gang.

Churchill, the Appeaser!
But Winston Churchill was soon to be confronted with the problem of a different kind of "bandit"—the swashbuckling Kaiser. And it was to mark the turning point of his life.

It is difficult to picture the dashing young Churchill as an appeaser! Yet for the first ten years of his parliamentary life none so consistently and vehemently advocated economies in the Services estimates, or as bitingly scoffed at the war with Germany.

During this period, he was engrossed in problems of social welfare at home, and it is true that many of the reforms he introduced were of enduring value to his country. But politics were the breath of life to him.

When he was asked if politics were more to him than any other pursuit of mankind, replied: "Politics are almost as exciting as war, and quite as dangerous. In war you can be killed only once, but in politics many times."

To Justify His Father.

In advocating and practising appeasement, Mr. Churchill was carrying the torch for his dead father—Lord Randolph Churchill. "Randy," as he was popularly known, had exerted a great and decisive influence on the fortunes of the Conservative party, resurrecting it from the stupor of many years.

A brilliant, if somewhat erratic, personality, who fought a continual struggle with ill-health, he became Chancellor of the Exchequer at 37, and seemed destined for enduring heights—when he suddenly threw away his career in what has been called "a fit of temper."

Peace, Retrenchment and Reform was his slogan. He forced economies on the Admiralty, but when the War Office insisted on a trifling increase in the War estimates, Randy resigned, never again to hold office. He died in 1895, an embittered man.

Winston, with instinctive loyalty to his dead father, lifted again what he called "the tattered flag of retrenchment and economy."

German "Saber-Rattling"

The Liberal government, of which he was a member, strove sincerely and zealously for years, even suggesting a mutual limitation of naval armaments with Germany—an offer which the Germans answered in typical Hun manner by largely increasing their naval building.

Early in 1911, the British government reluctantly began to realize that its hopes for peace were not so much confident beliefs as mere pious wishes. When in July, Kaiser Wilhelm sent his warship Panther to French Morocco to "protect" German nationals, the impudent gesture was justifiably regarded as sinister confirmation of an increasing German bellicosity.

Mr. Asquith, the Premier, had great faith in Winston Churchill's initiative and fiery industry, and his administrative qualities had already been amply confirmed. In October Mr. Churchill was given the post of First Lord of the Admiralty, with secret orders to make it capable of successfully combatting the German navy.

Appointment Delighted Enemies.

The appointment elated all Britain's enemies, and there was particular glee in Germany where it was believed that, under the leadership of Winston Churchill, the British Navy would cease to be a first-rate power for action.

Strangely enough, the only discordant note in this chorus of ominous praise was raised by a peace-loving radical, who said—how prophetically!—"It is very sad; Churchill will make the Royal Navy so dreadfully efficient!"

LeBlanc Shipbuilding Co. Gets Contract

It was announced from Ottawa last week that the John H. LeBlanc Shipbuilding Co., of Weymouth, had been awarded a $170,000 shipbuilding contract. This firm is already working on war orders and is finding employment for many in the Weymouth district.

We understand that the Meteghan Shipbuilding Co. is also busy filling war orders. Both the Weymouth and Meteghan concerns were awarded contracts earlier in the year.

With the Empire's need of "ships and more ships" it is time Digby was attempting to do something to establish ship yards here. The Basin offers remarkable opportunities for such industries and at one time several ship yards were in operation in Digby. Materials are at hand and Digby County produces some of the best ship carpenters in the Dominion. We know the authorities claim that only steel vessels are wanted, but wooden ships once carried the commerce of the world—and not very many years ago, either—and we believe the time is not far away when the governments will be glad to get vessels of any kind.

"United we stand . . . !"

We would remind our readers that this is a war in which everyone has, or should have, interest, if we are to win. When a meeting is called for patriotic organization purposes, one often wonders why people can conscientiously stay away. Remember, "a chain is no stronger than its weakest link." United we stand, but divided we fall.—Creemore Star.

If women can make appointments at their hairdressing parlors, why can't men do likewise at their barber shops. Instead of frequently having to wait for their turn in the chair? asks the Brockville Recorder & Times.

Hitler, says a former U. S. secretary of war, is known to have manufactured 700,000 British uniforms, as well as quantities of invasion supplies. But Hitler can't manufacture the material usually used to fill a British uniform! It's an exclusive "made in the Empire" product.—Lachute Watchman.

We sometimes hear people grumbling about the heavy taxes we are obliged to pay, but have you ever stopped to think that our compatriots in Britain are paying for the war of freedom with their incomes, their properties, their limbs and their lives? We in Canada should not kick about taxes; they are getting hit in Britain a lot worse, and you never hear a grumble from anyone. They have to dodge bombs as they pay their taxes, whereas we sit down in our office or home and make up our income tax forms, in comfort and without fear of an air raid, or of a bomb hitting our property. There is no comparison to be made, and Canadians have nothing to grumble about, nor will we have until the war strikes home with ferocity and we have to dodge bombs to pay our taxes.—Shawinigan Falls Standard.

Proposed sale of the schooner Jean F. Anderson, (built at Port Wade) which claimed a record trip to the West Indies last year, recalled to a veteran master mariner, Captain L. F. Barkhouse of Westport, recently in Halifax, in a speedy voyage made south by another Nova Scotia three-sticker, the Nova Queen, and raised in his mind the question of to whom the honors belong.

The Jean F. Anderson under Capt. A. F. Publicover, of LaHave, in one month and 23 days covered the voyage from Shelburne to Barbados, then to Turk's Island and back to Lunenburg with a cargo of salt.

In the summer of 1934 the Nova Queen made the round voyage from Weymouth, Nova Scotia, to the West Indies in 57 days, calling at Havana, Charleston, S. C., and St. George's, Bermuda, and delivered two cargoes.

"It should be noted," said Captain Barkhouse, "that the Jean F. Anderson used two ports in the south and delivered one cargo while the Nova Queen—a much larger vessel—used three ports and delivered two cargoes. Incidentally both ships covered about the same number of miles."

The 450-ton Nova Queen on another voyage, shortly after her speedy trip, disappeared, and neither her nor her crew has been heard of since.

Both she and the Jean F. Anderson were built as carrier-craft during the first Great War and both had played prominent parts in coast-wise and foreign trade.

The Nova Queen on her speedy trip south, Capt. Barkhouse recalled, sailed from Weymouth, in June, 1934, for Havana, Cuba, delivered a lumber cargo there; then on July 15, sailed for Charleston, S. C. where she arrived July 23, under charter to load and arrive at St. George's, Bermuda, on or before August 1. This left her only seven days to load and reach her port of discharge to avoid a duty of $1,000 that came in force on the date mentioned. At Charleston on July 23, at 11 a. m., instructions from New York were received to place the vessel at loading pier, be ready to take cargo at 1 p. m., and to sail at 7 o'clock that evening.

A large number of negro stevedores—highly efficient workers—completed loading the cargo of 8,000 creosote railway ties in six hours, and this is a record that cannot easily be forgotten. At 7 p. m., the Nova Queen was towed to sea and made the run of approximately 900 miles to anchorage in the outer roads at St. George's—just about an hour before the duty came in force. After discharging there, she came north in ballast and arrived at Meteghan, August 11—thus completing the round trip in 57 days.

"To review the era of shipbuilding during the 19th Century," continued Capt. Barkhouse, "back in the 'seventies' when shipbuilding was at its height, fourteen full-rigged ships totalling approximately 19,000 tons, were built during one year in Yarmouth County alone. These ships sailed the seven seas and delivered cargoes at all the principal ports in the world.

"Warm tribute should be paid to those who are now urgently recommending the building of wooden-carriers in our Maritime shipyards, where facilities, materials, and skills are available for the construction of motor-powered carriers of a size sufficient to operate in foreign as well as in coastal waters. The consumption of such a proposed project would undoubtedly be a valuable factor in solving the marine problem with which the world is confronted at this time."

Ralph Marven and Country News

"Neighborly News" as broadcast by Ralph Marven, every Sunday morning, is to our mind one of the most interesting programmes on the air. It must require a great deal of work for Mr. Marven—we know by experience that it's no snap going through fifty or sixty exchanges every week even for us, and we only look for items of interest to our own readers. On Sunday we were particularly drawn to his remarks re country correspondents. The Courier has a large staff of correspondents and we hope they listened to his remarks. He quoted as a sample paragraph "Mr. and Mrs. John Doe entertained as a guest, their daughter," over the week end," and compared the news value of that item with others. We find this the same with the majority of our correspondents, possibly because they are mostly women, and the average woman has not the same "nose for news" as the average man. To her it is far more interesting that "Mrs. John Doe took tea with Mrs. John Smith on Tuesday" than is the fact that John Doe raised 50 more bushels of potatoes on the same acreage as last year, or that John Smith brought in the largest trip of haddock taken in two settings last week—and yet these items would be real news. And there is another point in the paragraph quoted by Mr. Marven, which he apparently overlooked—and it is a point which we in the Courier have been trying for years to correct. The point is this: "Mr. and Mrs. John Doe entertained as their guest their daughter." Now, we ask you, how can a son or a daughter be a guest in their home. No matter if they have homes of their own, the old homestead where their parents reside, is still "home." We would hate to think of a son or daughter of ours coming to our home to consider himself or herself as a "guest" and we would never forgive ourselves if we came to think of them as guests. They would be "home" and we would expect them to act at home just as when they were children, and not as guests. When a correspondent writes that "Miss So-and-So, who is attending school in 'such a town' was the guest of her parents over the week end" it does not sound good to us.

Architect's sketch of the new historical museum at Louisbourg Fortress, Cape Breton Island.

The recent order-in-council designating a number of storied spots in Canadian history: "National Historic Parks" applies to some of Nova Scotia's most notable places of historic interest—Port Royal Habitation, at Lower Granville; Fort Anne, also on the Annapolis Basin, and the Fortress of Louisbourg on Cape Breton Island.

These parks are quite distinct from the "Historic Site" which is usually a small area marked by a cairn or a cut stone monument, and from the National Parks which to most people suggest a wilderness playground and wild life sanctuary such as Cape Breton Highlands National Park in Nova Scotia.

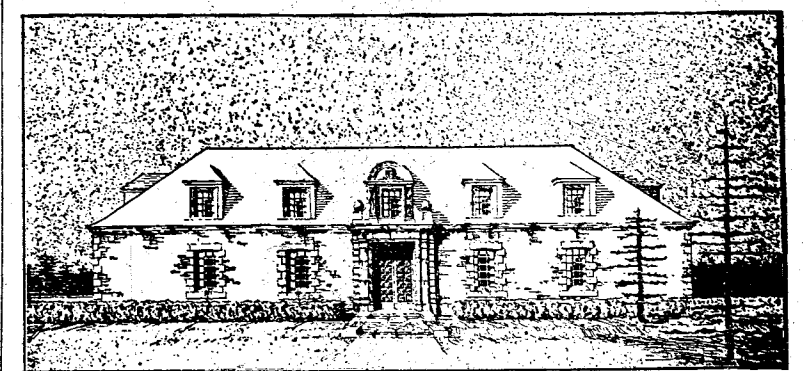

Although altering the designation of these places has not changed their character or the policy of administering them for the benefit and enjoyment of the people of Canada and visitors from other lands, it has had the effect of causing many Canadians to turn back the pages of the early history of their country and read again the story of this Dominion in the making. Many spots which are now the playgrounds of little children have been the scenes of grim tragedy and have witnessed deeds of heroism and fortitude in the cavalcade of events of bygone days.

The early history of white settlers in Canada is associated with the Province of Nova Scotia. Port Royal Habitation, at Lower Granville, on the north shore of Annapolis Basin, sheltered the first permanent European settlers in Canada. Here began the first European trading settlement on the North American continent north of the Spanish settlements on the Gulf of Mexico.

After the War

It may sound queer to suggest that plans be laid now to meet conditions after the war, but we cannot see it in that light. Our first duty, of course, is to bend all our energies towards winning the war . . . but both Britain and the United States are formulating plans for a quick change-over to a peacetime economy, and this country should do likewise. Canada and every other country is spending billions of dollars for war, and by doing so, getting the people back to war. But after the war we must change from a war to a peacetime economy. Instead of producing implements of destruction, we will have to employ our people to grow food, to produce clothing, to build homes. To provide continuous work we shall have to think up schemes for public works. Many of our provincial highways are too narrow and are wearing out. They will have to be widened and resurfaced. Level crossings must be eliminated, drains running along roads should be tiled and covered over. Trees and flowers should line every highway. The country needs hundreds of new homes, new barns, new fences and the whole country, from Victoria to Halifax, could use millions of barrels of paint. It will take time to draw up the blueprints for reconstruction. To prevent chaos there must be no hesitation between the time the war ends and reconstruction begins.—Petrolia Advertiser-Topic.

National Historic Parks in Nova Scotia

seven miles from the original habitation. Fort Anne, as it is known today, is the outgrowth of two French fortifications built on the same site, with later additions by the English. It consists of a square earthwork of four bastions connected by curtains, and surrounded by a dry ditch or moat which in turn is enclosed by a covered way or glacis.

In 1917 the Government of Canada set aside these military works and grounds, approximately 31 acres in extent, and this area now comprises one of the three national historic parks in Nova Scotia. The grounds have been kept in order, the old magazines repaired, and the large building known for many years as the officers' quarters has been restored. This building erected by the British at the end of the 18th century now contains the administrative offices and historical museum. Thousands visit the park museum and grounds yearly.

While Port Royal Habitation and Fort Anne figured prominently in the early settlement of Canada, the Fortress of Louisbourg, on Cape Breton Island, at one time said to hold the key to all French power in the Western Hemisphere and was often called the "Dunkirk of America". It possessed a fine harbour which served as a headquarters for the then largest fishing industry in the new world.

It was a formidable fortress with walls 12 feet thick and 30 feet high, and built at a cost of some six million dollars. Seven bastions towered above the walls and the Fortress was regarded as by far the strongest in New France. "Capture Louisbourg and you capture Canada" was the verdict of the day, a verdict which has been borne out by history, for the capture of Louisbourg by the British in 1758 led to the fall of Quebec the following year and the end of French rule in Canada.

All the drama and tragedy associated with centuries of history were experienced by this proud fortress within less than fifty years. In 1745 it was captured by an expedition of New Englanders from Boston after a siege of 49 days, during which occurred many stirring episodes, the fortunes of war being at times fairly equally divided. Never, perhaps, was a war carried on with more courtesy. It is related that the wife of the governor of the fortress, Madam Drucour, "daily walked the ramparts and fired three cannon to encourage the troops". The British commander struck by her heroism, sent presents, and so the battle continued. But the hapless career of this renowned but unlucky fortress was coming to an end. On July 27, 1758, the gallant defenders of Louisbourg surrendered in the face of overwhelming odds and Lillies of Old France were once more replaced by the flag of Great Britain on the citadel flagstaff.

Two years later the tragic history of this great fortress was brought to a close when the British government ordered its complete demolition. For many years after its destruction it remained a stony desolation, neglected and almost forgotten. Its great casemates to which French ladies fled for safety during the sieges, provided shelter for sheep which pastured on the fortress grounds. Settlers carted away the stone to build homes and barns.

Now all this has been changed. Louisbourg has been reclaimed from oblivion. Today most of the original area of the fortress, which is situated about three miles from the present town of Louisbourg, has been acquired by the Canadian government and placed under the control of National Parks Bureau at Ottawa, which administers it as a National Historic Park.

Considerable excavation work has been carried out on old ruins, and all walls exposed have been rebuilt above ground level. A museum has been constructed quite recently and houses many articles of interest relating to the site, including a plaster model and plans of the old fort. By examining the model and these plans one may visualize from the exposed ruins the layout of the original fortified city and sense the glory that was once Louisbourg.

Disturbing Religious Services

Religious services at the Central Grove Baptist Church have been interrupted of late by disturbances of various kinds: whistling, banging doors, and other acts of sacrilege. It is reported that a recent prayer meeting was almost broken up because of these disturbances.

It is reported these disturbances have taken place nearly every Thursday evening while prayer meetings or meetings of the B. Y. P. U. have been in session, and it is alleged the offenders are not mere boys, but young men "big enough and ugly enough" to know better.

Complaints have been registered with police officials, who visited the Island last week. No action was taken, other than a severe talking to along with the knowledge of what will happen should the offences be repeated.

Mails Lost Through Enemy Action

Canadian citizens expecting mail from soldiers or friends in England, mailed during the period of 14th to 23rd March last, are advised that there may be considerable delay or perhaps loss, according to a statement released by Postmaster General William P. Mullock.

Word has just been received that a steamer carrying mail, is overdue. The ship was supposed to have left the other side during the last week of March, and was due in Canada around the first week of April. The steamer was carrying 4,261 bags of mail, including 3,855 bags of letters and 403 bags of parcels.

The Canadian Post Office Department is at all times anxious to provide a safe and expeditious mail service between citizens of Canada and military forces and friends in Great Britain, but the above is an example of one of the unavoidable situations which from time to time confront the Postal Service.

Easter Sunday was the first Sunday in several weeks the Princess Helene did not make a special trip. Heavy freights since early in the winter, have necessitated Sunday trips between Saint John and Digby, with the result local longshoremen have enjoyed the best season in years.

CENTREVILLE

Mrs. Orwell Outhouse is confined to her bed by injuries received from a fall down stairs.

A service of Easter music and exercises was held in the Baptist Church on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Vantassel spent the week end with the latter's mother, Mrs. Nettie Raymond.

Mrs. Frank Muise, of Seabrook, is spending a fortnight with her sister, Mrs. Charles Peters.

Miss Constance Wright, Primary teacher, visited her parents in Princesdale during the holidays.

Mrs. Harold Raymond, Misses Kathleen Nesbitt and Evelyn Gidney, who are employed in Digby, spent the week end at their homes here.

Mrs. Gordon Porter and family, and Keith Dunn, of Lansdowne, were Sunday visitors of the former's daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Gidney and Mr. Gidney.

Capt. Frank Whynacht, of Lunenburg, arrived last week to re-open the local plant of the Lunenburg Sea Products for the season. It isn't expected that the usual number of boats will be fishing this season, due to the condition of the breakwater. However, some boats are getting their regular spring overhauling and fresh coats of paint. They are a month later than usual this spring getting prepared for the season.

Good Friday was a general outdoor "house cleaning" day here. There was scarcely a back yard or front yard in the town that did not receive a general going over. Numerous bon fires were seen on every street and grass fires were much in evidence—in spite of this, the local fire department was not called out. It is safe to say much more cleaning up was done than had Good Friday fallen this week—the trout season opened Tuesday.

The department was called out last Thursday afternoon for a grass fire near Clifford Parnsworth's residence. No damage was done.

Rubber, Oil, Money From Holland

(By a Dutch Correspondent) In this war of blockade and counter-blockade, Holland is playing a great part. Free Dutchmen all over the world and especially the people of the Dutch East and West Indies are straining every nerve to win.

The kingdom of the Netherlands is an entirety. It does not consist of a country in Europe with colonies or dependencies; it is one kingdom with territories in Europe, America and the Far East.

The Dutch East Indies is one of the wealthiest territories in the world for raw materials and other vital commodities. A Dutch writer once called it "an emerald girdle circling the equator." Thirty per cent of the world's rubber and 17 per cent of the world's tea comes from that part of the globe. An enormous quantity of oil is produced there and all the oil Great Britain and her Allies want is put at their disposal. Tin and copra are other raw materials vital in a modern war, and the Dutch East Indies produce great quantities.

Financial Aid

Their financial support is also great. No less than £800,000 in voluntary subscriptions have been sent to London for the purchase of war materials. Sixty-three "Spitfires" and 20 bombers have been bought. This of course, is in addition to the Government's defence expenditure, which will amount in 1941 to more than 300,000,000 guilders, about £55,000,000.

The Dutch East Indies have a well-trained, modern army. Pilots, observers and wireless operators are now being trained, while a short time ago it was announced from Batavia that Dutch East Indian pilots were leaving for Great Britain, where they would be drafted into the Dutch Air Force, now working in co-operation with the R. have many modern planes, such as the Curtiss P. 38, Lockheed, Glen-Martin and Consolidated - Vought - Sikorski. Some of them have a range of 2,000 miles, and the most modern sea-planes patrol the coasts. Modern cruisers, destroyers, submarines, minelayers and gunboats make up the Navy, which has a fine reputation for efficiency.

TENDERS FOR COAL AND COKE

SEALED Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed, "Tender for Coal for Maritime Provinces" will be received until 3:00 P.M. (E.D. S.T.) Wednesday, April 30, 1941, for the supply of coal and coke for the Dominion Buildings in the Provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

Specifications and forms of tender can be obtained from the Purchasing Agent, Department of Public Works, Ottawa, the Resident Architect at Halifax, N. S., and the Resident Architect at Saint John, N.B.

Tenders should be made on the forms supplied by the Department and in accordance with departmental specifications and conditions attached thereto.

In the case of tenders quoting for one or more places of buildings and when the total of their offer exceeds the sum of $5,000, they must attach to their tender a certified cheque on a chartered bank in Canada, made payable to the order of the honorable the Minister of Public Works, equal to 10 per cent of the amount of the tender or Bearer Bonds of the Dominion of Canada or of the Canadian National Railway Company and its constituent companies, unconditionally guaranteed as to principal and interest by the Dominion of Canada, of the aforementioned bonds and a certified cheque if required to make up an odd amount.

The Department also reserves the right to demand from any successful tenderer a security deposit, in the form of a certified cheque or bond as above, equal to 10 per cent of the amount of his bid, to guarantee the proper fulfilment of the contract.

By order,
J. M. SOMERVILLE

About This and That

The Freedom of the Press

Great men of history who have left us the legacy of democratic government all seem to have been of one mind, that the preservation of freedom depended to a large degree on the freedom of the press. That is why in all truly democratic state a free press is more than just a tradition—it is an essential principle of democracy.

One of the prerequisites of an autocracy is the abrogation of the freedom of the press, because this freedom has essentially, through the centuries, shown itself to be the one great force which has seen to it that the freedom of the individual has been preserved. When freedom of the press is abolished, other freedoms go with it. There is little need at this time to stress that point. There are so many poignant and tragic examples in the world today of a subservient press, that it must be obvious to any intelligent person that the freedom of the press is synonymous with the freedom which is democracy.

There have always been those, who, often for reasons of personal aggrandizement or lust for power, would rob the press of this precious jewel in the crown of liberty. There have been others who cry out for personal freedom of expression, but who would deny this right to the press. It has been claimed that this freedom can become license, but this is one of those half-truths which unthinking people are likely to accept at its face value.

Actually the press enjoys a freedom which gives it no privilege above the individual. It must conform to the law of the state. Its freedom is bound by the laws of libel and slander. I certainly offer no greater opportunity for defaming any person or institution, than does the inherent right of free speech with which every citizen is endowed as a birthright. Abraham Lincoln in a debate on the constitution once said: "The liberty of the press is the tyrant's scourge; it is the true friend and the supreme supporter of civil liberty." The principle of freedom of the press, as it exists today, is the result of a long and bitter struggle between those who believed in civil rights and constituted authority, and those who feared the exercise of these rights.

It is significant that the first amendment to the Bill of Rights of the American Constitution, adopted in 1791, is one that relates to the freedom of the press. It reads: "Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion, or the prohibition of the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances." The very wording of this amendment places freedom of the press on the same level, and of equal import with freedom of religion, of speech and of assembly.

A Rhode Island State provision sums up the question of a free press in a few words when it says: "The liberty of the press being essential to the security and freedom of the state, any person may publish his sentiments on any subject, being responsible for the abuse of that liberty, and in all trials for libel, both civil and criminal, the truth, unless published from malicious motives, shall be sufficient defense to the person charged." Many other democratic countries have passed similar legislation, because from a wide study of the dangers of a subservient press, they have learned that a free press is the best assurance of a free country.

To be fully comprehended, the freedom of the press must be accepted by democratic peoples as a typical example of the privileges they enjoy as individuals in a democratic state. To abolish the freedom of the press, is to invite the abolition of all freedom for the individual.

The Financial Post of Toronto, has been analyzing available provincial budgets, finds that of six provinces which have submitted their accounts for the forthcoming fiscal year four show increased ordinary expenditures over the preceding year, only two have made cuts. The six provinces, it says, together show an increase of $2,600,000 in estimated expenditures and an increase of $22,000,000 in estimated revenues. The Financial Post makes this comment: "To make our war economy effective, rigid control has been placed on corporation and personal incomes. 'Fortuitous' gains and a lot of the normal income are channelled back into the war effort by 'excess' profits, taxes and other increased levies. 'Success of the Dominion in this diversion process is evident in corporate financial statements, where, despite enormously increased sales, profits available to shareholders have been substantially cut. 'The only bodies immune from this tapping process to date have been provincial and municipal governments. The provinces are utilizing 'windfall' revenue for normal governmental functions, thereby short-circuiting the financial program for war."

Tragic as the situation is in the free and inoffensive countries that the Nazi destroyers have overrun, when you take everything into consideration, it may be worse in Germany. The nations struck down by Hitler's armies have only lost their freedom—and that, as it now seems, temporarily. But Germany has lost, for the second time in less than a quarter-century, the good-will, friendship and confidence of nearly all the world. When this war is ended, the German nation may be terribly alone. The poverty in which the Germans will find themselves after their vast expenditure of energy and wealth and hope, will be crushing. Their isolation may be still more crushing to their spirit, as they feel the coldness of the nations they have wronged. The responsibility for the vast woe and loss brought upon the world will naturally be regarded by most people as theirs, along with their Fuehrer's. Their ostracism will continue until they face realities, reassert their old virtues, and disassociate themselves completely from mad and lawless leaders.

MARRIAGES

Chilson - Bailey

A recent marriage was an event of last week, at Marshall, Mich., at the home of the groom, when the former Frances E. Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Bailey, of Westport, became the bride of A. Richard Chilson, of that city. She is a graduate of Columbia University in Detroit and also attended Edgemoor College, at Windsor, where she took a course in music. She has been on the staff at Wayne County, Mich., Training School.

Camern - Anthony

At the home of Mrs. Ralph F. Chisholm, Granville Ferry, on Saturday, April 12, at 1:30 o'clock, a quiet wedding was solemnized, when Mrs. Chisholm's niece, Jean Marcella, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Anthony, of Lower Granville, became the bride of Roland Walker Camern, son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Camern, of Fairville, N. B. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Lewis Mills, and the rings used were the wedding rings of the bride's parents. The bride was dressed in a three-piece topersuit of dusty rose, with corsage of opheelia roses and maiden hair fern, with navy blue accessories. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left by car for Digby, where they sailed on the Princess Helene to Saint John, en route to Fairville, where they will reside.

Tanner - Kinney

A very quiet wedding took place at the United Baptist parsonage at Port Williams on Friday evening last, when Rev. R. S. Gregg united in marriage Frances Kinney, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Kinney, of Ashmore, and Pte. Walter Tanner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Tanner, of Clearland, Lunenburg County. The bride was dressed in a street length dress of navy sheer crepe, with white accessories. The groom was attended by Pte. Percy Kinney, brother of the bride, and the bride was attended by Mrs. Harry Elsnor. After the ceremony they were guests of Mrs. Harry Elsnor, at Greenwich, where a number of their friends greeted them. The following day they motored to the bride's home and that evening a reception was held for them, about forty guests were present. They received many lovely gifts. Lunch was served by the bride's mother, assisted by Mrs. Stanley Brooks, Mrs. L. D'Entremont and Mrs. Elvin Marshall. The couple will reside in Kentville, the groom being stationed at Aldershot Camp.

Nova Scotia Teachers In Session

The two-day session of the 20th annual council of the Nova Scotia Teachers Union opened at the Stanley House, Truro, on Friday, with a large attendance. Reports from the officers and committees were received showing an increased membership and a successful year's operation, despite a number of its members had been lost to the military forces.

Questions and problems pertinent to the teaching profession were discussed in addition to the adoption of a new constitution. The new constitution is somewhat modified and of a more legal nature.

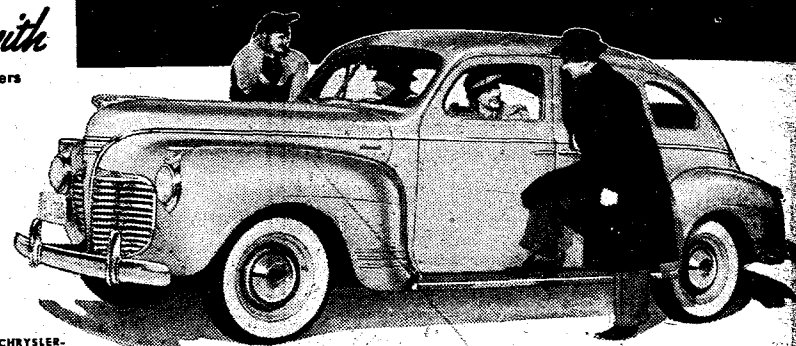

At a luncheon, held in the hotel dining room, Capt. Clows, of a Canadian battalion, gave an address on the Fairbridge farm schools society. The idea behind the society is the taking of children from cities of England and giving them a rural and household science course in other parts of the Empire. The children range in age

MARRIAGE

A wedding of interest to many friends in Bear River and vicinity was solemnized March 22 when Marjorie Joyce youngest daughter of Dr. M. W. Parker and the late Mrs. Parker, West Medford, Mass., became the bride of Harry Garfield Marsh, R. C. A. F., Camp Borden, Ont., son of J. G. Marsh, and the late Mrs. Marsh, Windsor, N. S. The ceremony was performed by Flight Lieut. Littlebourne, R. C. A. F., Toronto. The bride was attired in a cinnamon brown dress, with hat and accessories to match, and wore a corsage of yellow roses. They were attended by Corp. and Mrs. Clifford Raymond, Toronto. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Marsh left for Yorkton, Sask., where they will live for an indefinite time. Mr. Marsh is instructor in the R. C. A. F. stationed there. Mrs. Parker has spent her summers in Bear River for many years and has many friends here.

Easter Sunday Services

Easter Sunday was observed by large congregations at both morning and evening services in the Bear River Baptist Church. The anthem "He is Risen" was rendered at the morning service by the choir. During the same service Mrs. Banks, of Milford Corner sang "On Calvary" as a solo. The Easter sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. G. D. Brydon.

At the evening service the Cantata "The Easter Hope" was beautifully rendered by the choir. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion with potted plants, Easter lilies and cut flowers.

Easter Sunday was observed in the United Church with good attendance. The pastor, Rev. R. L. Roach, gave two very inspiring addresses on "Easter". In the morning the choir gave anthems "Lift Your Glad Voices" and "Easter Dawn", also a trio "Alone", by Mrs. R. L. Roach, Mrs. F. Burrage, Mrs. H. E. Harris. At the close of the service the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed.

At the evening service the choir gave the anthem "Easter Melodies" and trio "Lead Me to Calvary" (by the same voices as in the morning). The altar was a profusion of Easter flowers and potted plants.

Brownies Say Thanks!

Although the local association has already done so, the "Brownies" would like to thank the Veterans very much for lending them their Hut, at a time when they had no room. They had great fun there, and perhaps some day will be able to do a good turn for the Veterans. They want to say "Thank you", especially to William Morine for making the fires for them.

Through the kindness of the Pulp Company, they share a room with the Guides now, but alas, there are no chairs! Perhaps, during spring cleaning, some ancient chairs or benches will appear. May they have them please? They would be most acceptable.

At the conclusion of the evening, the president, Bernard Strong, on behalf of the members, presented Miss FitzGerald with a leather-bound Bible, after which refreshments were served, including a prettily decorated cake, bearing the message "Good Luck Kay".

Weymouth Falls Residence Burned

Fire broke out in the home of Leslie Falls, resident of Weymouth Falls, on Saturday morning, and completely destroyed it. The source of the fire was unknown, but was thought to be caused by a defective flu. Practically all personal effects were lost, as well as considerable furniture.

Damage Slight In Local Fire

The building used by the local Red Cross, was threatened for the second time by fire, on Saturday. The damage was slight, and the flames were put out with little trouble. The cause was thought to be started by coals falling from the stove in the part used by Leslie Ruggles.

EVERY MEAL ENDED IN MISERY

But His Indigestion Was Relieved by Kruschen

The treatment which put this man right must surely be worth trying in every case of indigestion. Read what he says: "Two years ago I suffered very much from indigestion, loss of appetite, and a most severe pain in my back. Food soured in my stomach. I felt most miserable after meals, and had no desire or appetite for them. A friend advised me to try Kruschen Salts. I did so, and I am most happy to testify that after a short time I felt the greatest relief. I continued taking Kruschen till I felt myself quite better and a new man. I feel as light-hearted as I did twenty years ago."—W.B.

Spring Drive Starts Shortly

Preparations are now being made by local lumbermen to start the spring log drive. Several hundred men will be employed in bringing the logs down the rivers to the millponds, within the next few weeks. Rivers, streams and brooks are now practically clear of ice, and the waters swelling to such an extent that the regular "drive" will soon be under way.

New Courses at Banff School of Fine Arts

Its purpose to establish and preserve in Canada that wider culture and sense of appreciation of the finer things of life which must come with a new society after the war, the Banff School of Fine Arts has arranged a particularly interesting course of studies for the month of August. The school, which is now entering its ninth year, is sponsored by the Department of Extension of the University of Alberta, at Edmonton, in co-operation with the Provincial Institute of Technology and Art, Calgary.

The school is by no means confined to Alberta. Last year there were 175 students, from Vancouver in the west to New York in the east, from Peace River in the North to Buenos Aires in the south. The registration is expected to cover similar territory this year. The student body includes teachers, high school and college students and others interested in the arts purely for aesthetic reasons. Courses regularly studied include the theatre, art, music, oral French and special classes for children covering the theatre, art and music. This year, owing to the generosity of the Carnegie Corporation special grant, new courses will be provided in applied art, weaving and design, pottery and modelling. Registration fees are extremely low.

The school building is a beautiful new structure which was completed a year ago at a cost of $50,000. It is of chalet design and has a theatre with a seating capacity for 700, a modern stage fitted with the finest lighting equipment, dressing rooms, music room, work rooms and other meeting rooms for small groups.

Students at the school also find time for recreation in Banff National Park, Canada's finest vacation land. The hot sulphur pools, the majesty of the mountains, the thrill of meeting wild animals on the trails, riding, hiking, boating, fishing—all these pleasures are open to the students when school is out.

With all the indignation of a patriotic citizen and all the anger of a father's outraged love, I am a conscientious objector to the policy of our government which abets the debauchery of the fine manhood and character of our Canadian boys. The sale of and dealing in of beer, wine and other intoxicants in military canteens and in Government liquor stores adjacent to Military Camps does just that.

I love my country. I am willing to fight and die for my country. I am willing for my son to fight and die for my country. Out of that same love for Canada I denounce the partnership of my Government with the Un-Canadian Un-Christian, immoral

THERE was an increase of five per cent in production of creamery butter in Nova Scotia in the month of March this year, compared to that of March, 1940, according to the monthly statement of the provincial dairy superintendent. The production in March of this year was 359,677 lbs., against 340,249 lbs. in March last year. Total production for the three months of this year has been 1,077,326 lbs. compared with 1,064,147 lbs. for the first three months of last year, an increase of 1.2 per cent. Average Montreal No. 1 butter price for March was 34.94 cts., compared with 27.5 cts. lb. in March last year.

FIRST co-operative poultry marketing pool of the season in Nova Scotia was held on April 8th at New Germany, Lunenburg County, when a total of 1909 lbs. of chicken, including capon, was marketed. Of the total 1280 lbs. was capon produced from chicks hatched last October, all of it grading milk-fed. The price for top-grade capon was 27 1/2 cents lb. to the pool. The poultry went to a Halifax packing firm.

LIME orders for railway movement through the Extension Division office of the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture during the month of March and first five days of April totalled 400 tons. An additional 255 tons were shipped out during the month of March by the Eastern Lime Company, of Windsor. This indicates the beginning of a heavy movement of lime for the spring seeding.

THE following dates have been set for district rallies for the Women's Institutes of the province, as announced by Miss Helen Macdougall, Superintendent of Institutes for the provincial Department of Agriculture.

THE Guernsey herd of G. M. Magee, of Berwick, in spite of its relatively few numbers, has made notable contributions to Canadian Guernsey history, reports Roy Grant, secretary of the Canadian Guernsey Breeders' association. Probably the outstanding animal raised in the Magee herd was Princess Patricia, whose R.O.P. record of 6,062 lbs. milk, 767 lbs. butterfat in 365 days, made almost 15 years ago, still stands unbeaten by any Canadian Guernsey. Patricia also has a 365-day record of 854 lbs. butterfat; she has been an exceptionally good stock cow, both laughters and granddaughters made fine records. Patricia St. Patrick, an outstanding show bull, is owned by the Oakfield estate, at Oakfield. A granddaughter, Patricia's Liberty Princess, has recently finished her 3-year-old R.O.P. record with 11,342 lbs. milk, 533 lbs. fat, made on twice-daily milking.

A NUMBER of cases have recently come to the attention of the Department of Agriculture of farmers contracting to sell produce to itinerant buyers who have failed to reimburse the farmers later in the amounts due them. The only means of recovery left to the farmers in such cases is a civil suit for the amounts owing, which means expense to the farmer and often difficulties in prosecuting the suit. Farmers are strongly urged not to contract with such buyers until their financial standing is fully investigated. There are plenty of responsible firms and other mediums through which farmers can market their produce satisfactorily without running the risk of losing their money.

WITH the opening of a new farm production season close at hand, attention of the farmers of Nova Scotia is being drawn to a number of factors which lend a definitely encouraging aspect to the present outlook in the farming industry. The first and most outstanding of these is the greatly increased market in Nova Scotia for many kinds of farm produce as a result of war operations. Ottawa figures announced recently showed that more than $18,000,000 was spent last year in Nova Scotia in pay and allowances alone for armed forces. The Nova Scotia farming industry even in normal times does not come within reach of supplying the needs of the province in all farm products, and wartime operations have added heavily to the demand, creating a greatly enhanced market for produce of all kinds, particularly eggs, poultry, butter and vegetables, including potatoes. Another encouraging factor is the recently announced intention of the federal authorities to set a minimum price for butter during the coming summer and autumn. While this minimum price has not yet been announced, indications are that it will be at least 25 per cent higher than the prevailing price of last summer, and there is reason to believe that the maximum price which butter will attain during the season will be higher still. This gives dairy farmers definite encouragement in the belief that they will be able to operate on a profitable basis provided they are prepared to supply their herds with the proper amount of feed and pasture. A still further encouraging factor is the recently announced increase in the volume of bacon which the mother land is prepared to purchase from Canada during the coming year.

TO ASSIST the farmers of Nova Scotia to put them selves in a position to benefit from the more satisfactory trends in farm markets, Hon. John A. McDonald, minister of agriculture, has recently announced certain new policies and the renewal of other policies which have been in effect during the past year or so. The first of these is the decision of the provincial government to establish storage warehouses at suitable points for grain feeds imported from the west, whereby shipments of such grains by water route could be facilitated, thereby reducing the cost of these feeds to the farmers. Both in the dairy and the hog industries in the province, the high cost of feeds has been a deterrent factor in bringing about increased production. The storage warehouses are being provided as part of a plan to overcome these high costs. It has also been decided to undertake the establishment, in Halifax, of a central abattoir for the slaughter of livestock under government inspection and on a graded basis. At present the nearest such facilities are at Moncton, making it necessary for those catering to government meat contracts and similar business to ship their live stock to Moncton, after which it returns to the province in the form of meat, thereby entailing an added burden of expense.

THE policy under which ground limestone is made available to farmers at $1.50 ton is being continued by the Department of Agriculture this season, and the policy with respect to maris also being continued on the same basis as last year. Many orders have already been received from farmers this season for deliveries of both lime and marl.

The policy of providing heavy land breaking equipment for the breaking up of unused land suitable for feed crops is also being continued again this year, under substantially the same terms as in 1940. Assistance to the apple growers in the Cornwallis-Annapolis valley for the pulling of old and undesirable apple trees will be continued again this season. Under this policy the tree pulling will be provided free of charge under the same conditions as prevailed last season.

DESPITE present low price levels in the egg markets, there is strong belief that an excellent opportunity exists for expansion in the poultry industry in general, because of the expectation of better prices and greater demand as the season progresses. Hatcheries in the province are at present running a full capacity, indicating intention on the part of many producers to expand production. It was estimated that Nova Scotia imported in 1940 something over 1,500,000 eggs.

dressed poultry of all kinds, in addition to what is produced within the province.

The Life of Winston Churchill

Fifth Instalment

Winston Churchill threw into his new task at the Admiralty all the energy which had been devoted to fostering social reforms. The imminent danger of war with Germany was realized fully by this time, and Mr. Churchill was faced with accomplishing in a year or two what would ordinarily require fifteen or twenty years.

With terrific efficiency and purpose, Winston Churchill changed the Admiralty "upside down". The system of automatic promotion was jettisoned, and instead, enthusiastic and competent young officers were promoted.

Promoted "Youngsters"

Criticism was frequent and vocal, but Mr. Churchill went his way undismayed. Sir John Jellicoe was promoted over the heads of many senior admirals and despite the disapproval of many young Rear Admirals, then out of a berth, was made Mr. Churchill's Naval Secretary. Had it not been for Winston Churchill, Beatty would have been placed on the retired list instead of going to sea and up to become what a colleague called "a second Nelson."

New naval building, already enlarged under the inspiration of Lord Fisher, was accelerated. Winston Churchill, the former archpriest of economy, now, under the growing shadow of the German menace, became the most fervent apostle of rearmament.

Paying Penalty for Past

In the face of intense home opposition, and twitted constantly about his previous passionate pleas for retrenchment, he insisted on larger naval expenditures. As a sop to his critics, however, he did, early in 1912, suggest a Naval Holiday to Germany.

That he had little belief in the prospects of success was evident for one of his critics complained that: "Mr. Churchill approached Germany with an olive branch in one hand and a sword in the other. But he took good care to keep the olive branch in his trousers pocket; so all the Germans saw was the sword." Germany's answer to this suggestion was more intensive naval building, and when during a visit to Belfast, Winston Churchill was informed that the Kaiser had announced still further naval increases he immediately declared that "to Germany a navy is a luxury but to England it is a necessity." With that speech he flabbergasted the "peace-at-any-price" advocates and astonished the Germans who had felt confident that under Churchill, Britain's Navy would diminish. That, too, marked the end of Winston Churchill as an Appearer modern fashion.

Increased Navy by Subterfuge!

The public was difficult to convince of the possibility of war with Germany, and the vast sums that Mr. Churchill asked for were not forthcoming without intense bitterness and opposition. Indeed, he had to resort to subterfuge to get all he wanted, for it is strongly suspected that the gift of a super-dreadnought from the Federated Malay States was inspired by himself. When Ramsay MacDonald, then leader of the Labor Party, questioned his transaction, Mr. Churchill fobbed him off with the remark: "I would accept a dreadnought from even the Labor Party if they offered it."

Providence Again!

He ordered a change-over from coal to oil, a revolutionary measure, but one which greatly increased the cruising range of vessels. With foresight denied to most of his contemporaries, he created the Royal Naval Air Force, and in 1916, Mr. Balfour, never a particular admirer of Winston Churchill, could say: "The Naval Air Service entirely owes its origin to Mr. Churchill. . . . Long before the usefulness of aircraft had been proved by experience, he foresaw the important part it was going to play."

Nor did he disdain to fly in the "crates" of those days, and once again the Churchill luck was in evidence. The day after Mr. Churchill's first lesson in flying, the pilot who had acted as his instructor, was killed. Again, an experimental flight of a new seaplane was ordered, and Winston Churchill went along without incident. The next time the seaplane was tried, its three officer occupants were killed when it crashed.

Next Week—How Winston Churchill Secretly Mobilized the Fleet.

Britain Under Pitt

Montreal Gazette

American papers are recalling the fiery speech of William Pitt, Prime Minister of England 141 years ago, who like Churchill of today, was the genius directing affairs at home while the nation was fighting Napoleon.

The occasion of Pitt's great speech was a query—one that came from a man whose chief desire seemed to be that he might have something to say in a critical time. Tierney asked Pitt to state what the country was really fighting for. The absurdity of the question was painfully apparent, but Pitt was ready, not with a carefully prepared speech, where each sentence had been weighed and measured, but with an impromptu deliverance that has never been forgotten in history. His reply to Tierney, strange as it may seem, should be a reply to anyone asking the same question today. It was:

"The honorable member," said Pitt, bending angry brows upon his interlocutor, "defines me to state in one sentence the object of the war. I know not whether I can do it in one sentence; but in one word I can tell him that it is security; security against danger, the greatest that ever threatened the world. It's security against a danger which never existed in any past period of society; it is security against a danger which in degree and extent was never equalled; against a danger which threatens all the nations of the earth; a danger which has been resisted by the nations of Europe, and resisted by none with so much success as this nation because by none has it been resisted so uniformly and with so much energy."

Stained Glass Windows for the U.S.A.

While German bombs are shattering the priceless stained glass of England's churches, British craftsmen in that country are patiently creating new examples of their art. These are not for their own churches, which must wait until the war is over, but for churches overseas, where they will earn valuable exchange to turn weapons for use against the destroyers of Britain's own places of worship.

Now on the way to New York is the fifth of a series of six windows, each 10 ft. by 12 ft., for the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue. James Hogan, its designer, famed for his work on the Liverpool Cathedral, has used a multitude of small fragments which give an effect of rich and darkly glowing jewels.

In designing windows for churches overseas British stained glass experts have to visit the spot and study the strength of light which is greater in the United States, South Africa, Australia, and to some extent, New Zealand. This calls for the use of deeper colours and richer treatment than is required in Britain.

Since the outbreak of war Mr. Hogan has designed clerestory windows for the fashionable New York church of St. Thomas, as well as windows for the churches of St. Thomas's Menasha (Wis.), Bethesda-by-the-Sea, Palm Beach, Florida, and St. Alban's, Washington, D. C. Others have gone to St. Paul's church, Hurler, in New Zealand; St. Boniface's, Germiston, South Africa, and Perth Cathedral, Australia.

The total value of the work exported in the first year of the war was about $15,000—the price of three Spitfires.

Water catchments which collect rain are the principal sources of water on Great Britain's Rock of Gibraltar.

Local Man Writes of Overseas Experiences

Well, hello, folks back in Digby and Annapolis! It's been a little over a year now since we sailed from Halifax with the First Division, Second Contingent. We haven't done a great deal, only route marches and squad drills since then. We get sort of tired of the drill, having it over and over again, but I'm sure, in time to come, we are going to be darn glad we had the same. We started for Dunkirk back in 1940, but it being in June we were a little late. The Germans had such a foothold on the French coast that we were wheeled around, but we spent a few weeks and met some of the nicest people we could expect to meet. We are still appointed to think that we missed the fun!

Since then we have seen quite a lot of England. We've been in Dover, Lewis, Salisbury, Windsor and many other lovely places, the names of many of which I have forgotten. We have seen and guarded many beautiful mansions and castles, some of which were so beautiful as to make me feel it must be a fairy tale some time! We have seen some of the most beautiful places in England. Rather than being over here to fight the Hun it really seems to me we are on a pleasure trip. All our officers are pulling the line with us, and if and when we go in to battle we will, I'm sure, do our duty and do it well because everything seems to be as smooth as clock work.

We were told by our colonel, Mr. Gregg, C. O. of the W. N. S. Regiment at Christmas time that we were the best regiment in the whole Division. Now you can imagine how we all felt! He had been told by Col. Ralston that we were a fine body of men. He said he had not seen any better and he had seen a great many troops both in this war and in 1914.

Sergeant Major Dean and Lieu. Hiltz had us on a route march this afternoon (the 8th of January). We had a real nice time. We marched through the gates of a big mansion. There are a lot of such places in this country.

We all feel grand at the way the war is coming along—it's all in our favor at present. Hope it will remain so! Russia could make it hot for us I'm afraid, but we don't think she wishes to do so. Things will be quite complete when Mussolini is plowed under. Hitler's men may not be so sure of themselves when this is completed. Then the Germans themselves will lose a lot of faith in their "wonderful leader". We're looking for an uprising there in Germany. In looking at what Hitlerism really means the Germans are going to get wise to themselves after a bit. More and more each day they are learning what Hitler really is and that their lives are being made a hell on earth.

Major Harris is fine. He is at the battalion at present, second in command of the W. S. N. R. "I have come back to see my boys," said he; "once in a while I miss them." He has always been our boys' commander at Aldershot, in peace time training.

We of the 12th platoon, B Co., miss very much one of our N.C.O.'s Cor. Forsyth. He was sent home physically unfit and we all hope he has recovered from his illness and wish him health and luck through 1941. The last month we have been having mild air raids, but thanks to our anti-aircraft men the Hun appears and disappears. We are just thirty miles from London and we hear the bombers going over each night. There has been considerable damage done, but Gee! the people are wonderful! I just wish you could see and hear them for yourselves. It's marvellous how they laugh and crack jokes all the same. It seems to be the civil population who suffer most as very few military objectives are hit.

Weekly Auction of Stamps

Bids from San Francisco, New Orleans, Chicago and New York are coming by cable every week to London auctions of foreign stamps.

The stamp dealers ship the catalogues of these weekly sales to the United States two months in advance.

Hence the cable bids, higher prices and the 100,000 American dollars collected by this one firm of dealers alone.

Every now and again they round up English collections of stamps to sell to America where there is a big demand. Recently they received $27,000 from sales in New York where they opened a branch soon after the war broke out to turn foreign stamps into dollars.

The dollars are sold to the British government and the English collector gets cash which he can put into War Loan or Defence Bonds.

These enterprising dealers have not lost one foreign stamp by enemy action.

British Bulldogs Still Being Shipped

The bulldog, national emblem of Britain, is now proving a valuable source of funds for Britain's war chest. He was one of many breeds of dogs exported from the United Kingdom last year. Over 500 were shipped abroad, their value totalling over £25,000.

Britain, the acknowledged dog-breeding centre of the world, shipped nearly all the popular breeds last year. The animals ranged in value from £10 to £1,000 each, and included such dogs as the terriers—fox, bull, Cairn, Alredale and Kerry Blue—as well as pointers, setters, English springers, elkhounds, greyhounds, and big dogs like the Great Dane and mastiff.

They were shipped through one of the world-famous British organizations which look after the interests of overseas dog-lovers, acting on their behalf in the selection, purchase and shipment of all kinds of livestock.

Despite German boasts of U-boat sinkings only £20 was paid out by the insurance underwriters during the year for dogs lost at sea by enemy action.

World's Largest Water Supplier

The largest hydrostat installation ever planned is now being built in Scotland for Bariloche in the Argentine.

A hydrostat is a pump worked by the action of falling water. The power of the pump depends on the fall of the water and its volume.

The new installation will supply a high level reservoir at 861 metres through 400 metres of 150 mm. piping and 1,845 metres of 175 mm. piping. From the intake to the hydrostat station the motive water will flow at the rate of 4,600 litres a second.

Vital Role for Island Kingdom

Extension of the Nazi blockade to encompass Iceland has served to focus attention of the entire world on a tiny island generally known.

Commercial and geographical importance has come suddenly to Iceland after centuries, which occupied a position of scant importance. A glance at any good map will show why war-minded officials of both European and American nations have come to look upon this sea-bound territory as something more than an out-of-the-way corner where one would choose not to go, if one had that choice.

For Iceland is strategically placed between the European and North American continents and it is a potential base of great value in any extension of war into the Western Hemisphere.

About 1,000 miles from the mainland of North America—only 150 miles from Greenland and 600 miles from Scotland, Iceland is already being used as a transfer depot in the shipment of war supplies to Great Britain from Canada and the United States. As the volume of such supplies increases, the island will become more and more important. Perhaps it may eventually be used as the terminus of a conveyor route from the United States, a point at which the protection of merchant ships will be transferred from the American to the British navy.

Importance Obvious

It is therefore obvious why Germany has seen fit to declare this former Danish possession within its zone of military operations. It is also clear why Great Britain speedily took control of Iceland after the Nazis invaded Denmark and why the British maintain there a force of heavily armed defenders, a force perhaps totalling 70,000 soldiers. The Churchill government means to hold on to this strategic mid-ocean base for the duration of the war, if possible.

What is Iceland like? Well it isn't a bleak snow-covered region inhabited by Eskimos, as you perhaps believed. Indeed, the inhabited parts of the island have a relatively mild climate. During some winters there is not enough ice for skating. The reason for this is the Gulf Stream, a warm ocean current that flows northward and eastward from the Gulf of Mexico and touches Iceland.

Only about one-fourth of Iceland's 40,000 square miles is habitable, however. This area fringes the southern sea coast and reaches up some of the fertile river valleys. Iceland's interior is a rocky plateau broken by snow-capped mountains and hundreds of geysers, hot springs, volcanoes and glaciers. The island was built up by a long succession of volcanic eruptions which piled up hundreds of layers of basalt. Even today Iceland, which could have more fittingly been termed "Rockland", is one of the most volcanic regions on earth.

All this may sound forbidding, but to Icelanders his is the fairest land on which the sun shines. From the beginning of May until the beginning of August there is perpetual daylight, and you could see to read a book the whole night through.

People Total 120,000

Because of its limited commercial possibilities and its austere aspects, Iceland has attracted but few colonists from other countries. Its native population now totals about 120,000.

Icelanders are not Eskimos. They are of mixed Scandinavian and Irish descent. In appearance and habits, however, they are more nearly like the Norwegians, Danes and Swedes although their language, Icelandic, is quite different from any of the Scandinavian tongues.

AS YOU THINK
you travel; as you see you attract. You are today where your thoughts have brought you; you will be tomorrow where your thoughts take you.

Capital Unique City

Reykjavik, a city of about 35,000, symbolizes the surprising nature of Iceland. There modernistic stucco houses are beside houses built of galvanized iron. Two-wheeled pony-drawn carts roll along beside the latest models of American and British cars. Women wearing long braids, long skirts, and big shawls—all a part of the native costume—brush elbows with trim-looking girls wearing the ### Baghdad Travels British.

Speeding smoothly and silently through the streets of Baghdad is the first of the hundred oil-fuel motor busses bought by the city from Great Britain.

A cable received in London from the Baghdad buyers expresses enthusiastically complete satisfaction with the new arrival's road performance.

This Iraq order was secured by warring Britain in fierce open competition. It represents a value of $1,000,000 and is typical of the triumphant progress of British road transport vehicles the world over.

No fewer than 131 cities and large towns are today using municipal transport composed of British machines. These vary from luxurious single-decker motor buses, such as those in use in Dunedin, New Zealand, to such utility vehicles as a street-washing machine sprinkling 1,500 gallons.

The territory covered ranges from Edmonton, Alberta, to Buenos Ayres and Bariloche, in South America; to Shanghai and Rangoon, in the Moscow, Istanbul, Bombay, Old World; to Cape Town, Pretoria and Durban, in South Africa, and Sydney, Melbourne, Brisbane and Canberra in Australia.

Baghdad's new motor bus fleet will be one of the most modern in the world when final deliveries are made and the one hundred vehicles are in operation.

"Jolly Wives" "High Tea"

The recently organized "Jolly Wives" Club of the Anglican Church, held their first public function on Tuesday. This was a "High Tea" in aid of the church funds.

The parish hall was decorated in a delightfully spring-like colour scheme of mauve and yellow. Small tables were informally arranged. Members of the club served the meal, which was excellent. They, also, were dressed to match the decorations. It was an original entertainment. Music was provided throughout the meal.

About This and That

The Press and the Government

Misconceptions relating to the right of the press to criticize, commend or suggest to government bodies, civic, provincial or federal, is often assailed. For that reason it is essential that the position of the press in its relationship to governmental bodies should be examined.

Many well-meaning people conscientiously believe that the press should express no conviction upon civic, provincial or federal affairs. They assume that to offer criticism is to become partisan. They confuse the meaning of the words "independent" and "neutral." There is a very real and vital difference between the two. To be independent is to reserve the inalienable right of every citizen to approve or disapprove of any public matter without thought of servitude to any particular party or group. To be neutral is to avoid reference to any contentious matter. To sum up the two it would be fair to say that independence was that same privilege of the individual to decide for himself, for which party he shall vote or which church he shall attend without pressure from party executives or religious dignitaries. To be neutral is to admit that one is not prepared to come to a decision or make a stand on any matter, and therefore to leave it alone.

Members of civic bodies sometimes point out that newspapers have such a tremendous influence in the community, and that their circulation is so widespread that they have an advantage over those with whom they disagree. This is true only in so far as the individual refuses to take advantage of the privilege granted by almost every newspaper of using the columns of the press to express his or her views. There is, however, a much more important angle to this question. Newspapers are equipped to give more adequate study to municipal affairs than most individuals. At their fingertips they have information which is not readily available to every citizen. Their representatives attend meetings of civic bodies, and therefore have the opportunity of getting a better understanding of municipal affairs than the average voter. Of even greater importance is the almost universal attitude of the public to expect advice and leadership from the press. The newspaper is often the only medium through which citizens may keep in touch and abreast of the affairs of the community. They expect, and have the right to expect, that their newspaper will keep them advised of what is going on, and will also, through the information at its disposal, endeavor to interpret the news. The newspaper which fails to do this, is failing in what often amounts to its supreme task in the community.

Another assumption of some men and women in public office is that any criticism offered in a newspaper is personal, rather than objective. That is not true. Newspapers have been known to conduct violently personal campaigns, but it is the exception rather than the rule, and if any criticism violates the laws of defamatory libel, the individual always has recourse to the courts.

The newspaper which comments on public affairs, far from being presumptuous, is but fulfilling one of the most important and vital functions of the press. If it is genuine in its desire to be of service to the community, it will open its columns to signed letters from those who disagree with its editorial opinions, but all too often those who have this privilege fail to avail themselves of the opportunity, preferring to carry on a street corner or platform feud against the newspaper. By intelligent comment on public affairs the newspaper prevents the rise of unscrupulous men who seek office for private gain, and it often brings to light factors in a situation that have been entirely overlooked by the civic administrators and the public. In this service alone newspapers have saved their communities from colossal financial loss and from racketeers who would use public office to enrich themselves.

2,000 Dress Models from England.

A ship carrying munitions from the United States is going back from England laden with 2,000 models of autumn sports wear and wadded dress fashions to show to store buyers in New York.

The collection will be taken across the Atlantic by ex-sales delegates led by Percy Trilnick, an Englishman well known in America where he lived for eighteen years.

The exhibition sponsored by the British Fashion Export Group, is of clothes in woad and knitted wool from eighty manufacturers in Yorkshire, Leicester, Nottingham and Scotland.

Most of us are really sincere when we ask Heaven to help the poor. We feel that it relieves us of the responsibility of helping them ourselves.

Oldest Masonic Grand Lodge.

Induction of Professor Albert A. Schaefer of Technology, as Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Massachusetts serves to remind that the lodge, directing the work of nearly 100,000 in the Commonwealth, is not only the oldest in the United States but the third oldest in the world. Masons connected with it have served as leaders in public endeavors since Massachusetts was a colony and a list of men who have served the Grand Lodge as officers would make an historic "Who's Who" from that time to the present. Ancient in age, but modern and youthful in its motives, the Grand Lodge is a body of which Massachusetts is rightly proud.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor of the Courier.

Dear Sir:—I should like to take this opportunity to draw your attention and that of your readers to a statement that appeared recently in a letter, in the Montreal Star. This statement reads as follows: "We should not find that this war is a cushion that is going to give us shorter hours, higher wages, and adequate pensions, but a scourge that will put iron in our souls and make us think of our fellow man." In my opinion, that statement should be given great publicity and should become the watchword of every Canadian.

How many there are in Canada today, who are using the war merely as a spring board, to better their own personal lot! Think of the tradesmen, who buy more than their usual allotment of various commodities, so that they may benefit by an expected increase in price, due to war conditions. Every day we read of Canadian workers going on strike for almost every reason under the sun. These men are using the fact that their continuance at work is essential to the war effort to gain their ends. What a contrast between these workmen and those in British factories, who continue to work, uncomplaining in the midst of the death and destruction that is all about them.

What good will "union recognition" be to Canadian workmen if, through their selfish dialing, our war effort is not successful?

No, Mr. Editor, Canadians in all ranks and walks of life have got to revise their attitude toward the war. We must not, as the Star writer says, find it a cushion to improve our lot, but see it for what it is, a struggle for the very existence of civilization.

We must remember that, if Britain fails we fail too, and that all the miserable little gains and profits that we have made by trading on and exploiting war conditions, will do us little good then. There is a quotation from Holy Writ that I feel some of our Canadians will do well to bear in mind. It reads: "What shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

We must all pull together, forget personal profit and gain, shelve the strike as a labour weapon until this scourge is driven from the world, until freedom is again restored. It is only through a united front that we can win, and we can only get true unity by discarding personal desire for profit on gain, by pooling all for the common good, forgetful of private aim."

Rev. E. M. Caldwell Addresses Club

Rev. E. M. Caldwell, incumbent of the Dundalk, Ont., parish, was the speaker at the monthly supper meeting of Dundalk Service Club, held Monday night of last week. He gave an excellent address on the subject of "Opportunities." The topic was divided into three parts—The opportunities that make a man, that take a man, and that break a man. As a minister of the gospel, he said he took this opportunity of displaying his wares and to point out the wonderful opportunities presented through association with the church.

"Character is built and glorified by good reading," said the speaker, "and people who read are not bound up in selfish thought—their world is unbounded."

The speaker urged his hearers to learn to love the music of the greater masters—even though they had to force themselves for years to do it. He described jazz music as "junk and rubbish" compared to the symphonies.

Emphasizing the need of the church and Christ's teachings in our daily lives, Mr. Caldwell stressed the fact that there is a divine power which has chosen our sphere and that it is a fallacy for people to believe they are the captains of their own fates, their own souls. God has a plan for every one of us if we will only listen to His voice.

"The opportunity that breaks us" was depicted as one where we are not strong enough to withstand the temptations which opportunity opens to us and which oftentimes prove a man's undoing.

In conclusion the speaker admonished his hearers thus: Make the best of opportunities that make us, that take us in the strength and beauty of mankind, so that we will not know the bitterness of opportunities that break us."

HOUSEHOLDERS! THESE ARE YOUR WAR WEAPONS

Save them, Give them, and help WIN THIS WAR

We cannot all march into battle—but we can march into the attics, the cellars and store-away places in our homes.

There are war weapons in these places—and in your household waste, which can be turned into a valuable contribution to Canada's war production and into funds for war auxiliary services.

Many local volunteer organizations have already completed plans for a Salvage Campaign in their districts. More will follow. Quickly, we hope, all Canada will be organized to "clean out and clean up on Hitler!"

Every day of every week until this war is won, every scrap of material which can be profitably salvaged in the area in which you live must be saved, collected and turned into war production material and money.

A careful study and survey is being made throughout Canada by this Department as to the type and class of salvage which will realize the greatest return in your community. If this information is not now in the hands of your local Salvage Committee or your Municipal Council, have them communicate with the Supervisor, National Salvage Campaign, New Supreme Court Building, Ottawa.

EVERY SCRAP COUNTS

- Put Them Out Carefully
- They Will Be Collected
- They Will Be Used

The complete facilities of the Department are at the disposal of local community organizations to aid in making their Salvage Campaigns a success.

When the Campaign starts in your community, we ask that you give it your unqualified support.

Log Drives Will Start Soon

Rivers and lakes in Digby County are now practically free of ice. Snow drifts that have lingered in the forests are disappearing, with the result brooks and streams are swelling, and there is a good head of water behind all dams in the county.

In a few days the flood gates of these dams will be opened, releasing floods of white angry water down brooks and rivers. During the summer time many of these brooks are scarcely more than streamlets. Through these floodgates giant logs of spruce and hemlock, of beech and birch will be sent spinning into the streams and mounted by sturdy lumberjacks, who will guide them down rushing waters to quieter mill ponds.

During the wild ride many of the drivers will experience spills a-plenty. Even with heavily caulked lumberman's boots it is difficult to maintain a foothold in these wet and slippery sticks that rush pell-mell down wild and swirling waters.

In the lumbering districts the spring drive is one of the most exciting times of the year. In spite of risks and hard work, the drivers always make a picnic of their job, and while the drive is on, lumber camps are merry spots.

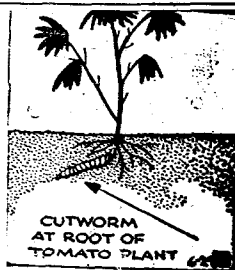

On the day the drive begins there is a remarkable absence of boys—small and large—in the rural schools, and along the banks of the streams the army, the air force and there is no scarcity of girls the navy.

Unless the whole school plays hockey, the poor teachers are usually out of luck when it comes to witnessing the beginning of the fun.

Even during the "depression" years, the spring log drive found employment for several hundred men. This year, with one of the biggest cuts in years, it is expected some operators will find good drivers scarce. Many of the younger men who were engaged in this sort of work in other years are now with His Majesty's forces, serving in

Brotherhood's Last Meeting of Season

The Brotherhood of Grace United Church held its last meeting of the 1940-41 season in the church hall on Tuesday evening, and, as usual, took the form of a Ladies' Night. There was a large attendance, and an enjoyable programme of music and readings was rendered, followed by refreshments. The Brotherhood decided to take over one service at least on the second Sunday in June (Conference Sunday) when the pastor will be attending the annual Conference in Sackville. They will also take the musical part of the service next Sunday evening.

Fifty Years Married

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Carty are congratulating them on the 50th anniversary of their wedding, which was celebrated last week. The ceremony took place in Brighton, with Rev. J. E. Donkin as officiating minister. Mrs. Carty was Miss Ada Marshall. Mr. and Mrs. Carty have always made their home in Digby.

A Beautiful Spring Flower

Daphnes, a blossom almost peculiar to Digby and Annapolis Counties in Western Nova Scotia, are now in blossom. These dainty scented pink blossoms are said to have been brought to this country by early French settlers, and although present day flower lovers find them most difficult to cultivate, these pioneers must have met with some success, for in the Weymouth and Clements-ale sections they grow wild in profusion.

A few flower lovers have attempted to bring them from the fields and set them out in their flower beds, but only rarely have they met with success.

The blossom, which grows on a woody shrub, from two to three feet in height, blossoms some time before any of its vivid green leaves appear, and although the blossom is almost as delicate in scent and appearance as the mayflower, it makes a very poor house-plant because for the reason the blossoms begin to drop within a few hours after they have been picked.

MOUNT PLEASANT

Douglas Forest, who is employed in Saint John, recently visited relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hand-spiker, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Blair Daley, spent Sunday in Middleton.

Irving V. Messenger

Irving Vose Messenger died April 17, at the home of his sister, Mrs. E. B. Currell, 26 Woodward Avenue, Reading, Mass., with whom he had lived for several years. He was 56 years old, and was the son of the late Daniel and Eliza (Warner) Messenger. He was born at Barton, and was a carpenter by occupation. His father was a native of Centre-lea. He leaves two sisters and a brother. Funeral services were held on April 19, at the Funeral Home of Edgerly & Bessom, Reading, Mass., and were conducted by Rev. Payson E. Purce, pastor of the First Congregational Church, with interment in the family lot at Laurel Hill cemetery.

NEW EDINBURGH

Mrs. Minnie Doucette is very ill at time of writing.

Michael McCormack spent Monday in Digby.

Mrs. Demetrius Ambrault is a patient in the Digby Hospital.

Willard McCormack has gone to Digby, where he has employment.

The Canning Factory has re-opened here, and is now canning fish and hash; also clams, this week.

The sum of nearly $30 was donated here last week, for the War Saving Fund. This was considered good, for a small village.

Dogs Kill Sheep

Strange dogs last week killed four sheep belonging to Eddie V. Deveau, Hectanooga. He found three, but one is still missing. Two ewes were with lambs. A dog was seen by Mr. Deveau and Fred Babin but could not be stopped. The sheep were in fine condition, and are a considerable loss to Mr. Deveau at this time of the year.

Postmaster Retires After 44 Years

After being connected with the Acaciaville-Hill Grove Post Office for more than forty years, as assistant, and afterwards as Postmaster, W. W. DeLong retired from the service on Monday, transferring the office to the new Postmistress, Mrs. Arthur MacKay, who has taken over in a new building especially constructed for this purpose, and which will also be used as a general store. The faithful, painstaking and courteous service, given the public by Mr. DeLong for so many years, has been highly appreciated by all.

Blitz Dollars for British Artists.

The Lease and Lend Act has had an unexpected echo in the world of art. The close associations of the two democracies has led to Great Britain's private collections of works of art being scoured by the picture dealers to gratify the increasing interest of American Collectors. They are asking chiefly for portraits of the late 18th and early 19th century and for landscape painters of a hundred years ago.

Acaciaville-Hill Grove

Miss Catherine Bacon has returned to Saint John, after visiting her mother, Mrs. Frances Bacon.

Roy Porter, Gordon Porter and Oscar Andrews left for Saint John on Monday, where they have accepted positions. The Baptist Young People's Union have re-organized, and will hold regular meetings on Thursday evenings of each week.

A reception was tendered the new pastor, Rev. Milton C. Munn and Mrs. Munn, at the home of Deacon and Mrs. J. A. H. Nichols, on Thursday evening last. About fifty were present and a very pleasant hour enjoyed.

-ROSSWAY

James Robbins and Douglas Andrews spent several days in Halifax recently.

Mrs. Melbourne Prime returned home on Monday after spending the past two weeks as a patient in the Digby General Hospital.

George and Douglas MacKay spent Sunday with their mother, Mrs. Fanny MacKay. They were accompanied by the Misses Mary and Evelyn Woodworth, of Middleton.

Loran Banks and son Thurston, motored to Yarmouth on Sunday, returning the same day.

Miss Violet Theriault has accepted a position in Digby for the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Jared Banks visited their son Bernard, in Digby, on Friday of last week.

LITTLE RIVER

The young folks enjoyed a party in the hall, Saturday evening.

Mrs. Adams, of Deep Brook, visited her mother, Mrs. Wm. Frost, on Sunday.

The Ladies' Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. Bowman Collins, this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Gidney have moved into the late Mrs. Isabel Tibert's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Trask, of Port Maitland, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Trask.

Mrs. Omer Denton was greatly surprised, when at a social in the hall, recently, she was presented with a Life Certificate Membership of the Ladies' Aid. She responded in a few well chosen words of thanks for the favor conferred on her.

PARKER'S COVE

The teacher, Mrs. Susie Bishop, spent the week end at her home in Bridgetown.

Mrs. Longley Hamilton, of Hillsburn, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. H. Anderson, sr., for a few days.

Pte. Walter Rice spent several days at his home in Granville Ferry. He visited his grandmother here, before returning to Saint John.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Anderson, jr., motored to Kentville on Sunday. They visited the latter's sister, Mrs. Cyril White and Mr. White, while there.

Mrs. Edward Hudson, of Granville Beach, spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Lendal Hamilton, of Hillsburn. Mrs. S. J. Milner was also a guest at the same home.

People in an English west-coast harbour got a shock when a 200-ton "ghost ship" sailed in without a single crew member aboard. The ship had sailed itself for 80 miles after being abandoned by its crew when a fire broke out. The engines were left turning slowly as the crew fled to lifeboats, but the fire burned itself out in some unaccountable way and the ship "carried on."

"WORN OUT" AND WORRIED

Dragging around each day, unable to do housework — cranky with the children — feeling miserable. Blaming it on "nerves" when the kidneys may be out of order. When kidneys fail the system clogs with impurities. Headaches — backache, frequently follow. Dodd's Kidney Pills help clear the system, giving nature a chance to restore health and energy. Easy to take. Safe. 116

OBITUARY

O. W. Moore
Word was received by relatives and friends in Bear River, on Thursday of last week, of the passing of Deacon Orin W. Moore, at his home in Cambridge, Mass., on Tuesday afternoon, April 15, after a few weeks' illness, due to paralysis. Mr. Moore was born at Bear River, 77 years ago, the son of the late John Moore and Sarah (Specht) Moore and lived his early life in this town, where he got his education in the public schools, but later moved to Cambridge, where he took up carpentry and became a first class builder and contractor, and married a Nova Scotia girl, and where he has since made his home. A few years ago he returned to his boyhood town, purchased a fine residence and for a number of years has spent his summers here returning to Cambridge for the winter months. He was a member of the Bear River Baptist Church, also a Deacon. He is survived by his wife; two daughters, the Misses Winnifred and Isabel Moore, both in the United States; one sister, Miss Jennie Moore, in Duluth; and one half-sister, Miss Mary Hubbard, of Bear River; also one brother, in the West. The funeral was held from his late residence, with interment in Cambridge.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

METEGHAN

Friends of Sydney St. C. Jones, formerly of Weymouth, will regret to hear that he is very ill at his home in Hantsport.

Two Sheriff's sales were held Tuesday, at the Court House, Weymouth properties being involved in both cases, and in both cases they were bid in by the plaintiffs, George W. Brooks and George O. Han-kinson.

Rev. Morris Taylor, a former rector of the Weymouth (Anglican) Parish and now rector at Hantsport, has been confined to his home for some time suffering with rheumatism. His many friends in this county will be pleased to learn that he is improving.

Having just won his wings as an Air Gun Observer, Sgt. Donald F. Barkhouse, son of Capt. and Mrs. R. D. Barkhouse, formerly of Westport and Weymouth, has arrived at his home in Halifax from Ontario on a furlough of two weeks; he expects to leave shortly for overseas service.

Rev. Byron G. Manzer, one of our Digby County boys, now pastor of the Calvary United Baptist church, of North Sydney, has been chosen as successor to Rev. M. O. Brinton, to the pastorate of the Central United Baptist church, in Halifax. He will take over his new duties the first Sunday in June.

On a recent date, Mrs. R. S. Hallett received a letter from Lou Melanson, first class stoker on H.M.C.S. Saguenay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Melanson, Weymouth, who wishes to thank all his friends of "Jouetteville, Weymouth and Belliveau's Cove" for their kindness. He received all gifts in first class condition, and his appreciation is beyond words. He hopes to be home soon, and say thank you, personally.

OBITUARY

Peter M. Deveau
Word has been received by relatives in Salmon River of the death of Peter M. Deveau, at Noank, Conn., after a lingering illness, at the age of 82 years. Deceased was the son of the late Maurice A. Deveau and the late Mary Comeau, and was born in Salmon River. In 1885 he entered into partnership with W. J. Foley, of Salmon River, under the name and style of Foley & Deveau. During that period the "schit, Bonhomie and the brig Bertha Gray were built in their yards at Salmon River. After a few years of business the concern failed and not long after he went to the United States where he has since resided. In religion he was a Roman Catholic. He is survived by his widow, who was formerly Miss Mary Campbell, of Antigonish; two sons and two daughters; one brother, Paul M., of Salmon River, and a sister, Mrs. Emilie Amirault, of Haverhill, Mass.; also one half brother, August M. Deveau, of Brockville, Ont. Interment was at Noank.

Mrs. Adrien V. Theriault
At Meteghan Centre, April 16, Mrs. Adrien Theriault passed away at her home, after a long illness of paralysis, age 75 years. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Rudolphe Comeau, (Frances) of Meteghan Station, by her first husband, the late Edward Melanson, of Little Brook; and Mrs. Eddie Babin (Gertrude) at home, by her second husband, Adrien Theriault, who predeceased her four years; also a step-son, Eve Theriault. Deceased was formerly Agnes Surette, a daughter of the late Gervais Surette, of Ste. Anne du Ruisseau. Funeral service with High Mass of Requiem took place Friday morning at 8 o'clock from the Stella Maris Church of Meteghan, conducted by Rt. Rev. Mgr. Bourneuf, pastor.

Radio Mechanics To Be Trained

Dr. Carleton Stanley, President of Dalhousie University, issued the following statement about the work that will be done this summer in training radio mechanics by the Physics Department of Dalhousie University and by Professor Burchill, of the Nova Scotia Technical College. President's Stanley's statement is based on a circular from the Air Service, Department of National Defence, issued on April 7, last.

For some months past, it has been known that, as a result of extensive researches by British and Canadian physicists, a defensive weapon against night bombing has been found.

Furthermore, since November last, hundreds of Canadian radio technicians have been using this device in Great Britain. In February of this year, the British Government asked for twenty-five hundred more radio technicians to be trained for this purpose.

It was suggested that the laboratories of such universities as were highly equipped in material and personnel should be used during the long vacation. Dalhousie University has excellent laboratories in physics, and besides assistants and technicians, it has three full professors of physics. An additional reason for concentrating instruction in Halifax is that Professor Burchill, of the Nova Scotia Technical College, has, for some years, specialised in these problems.

In February, spokesmen for the Government laid emphasis on the fact that the training for this large number of technicians should not be left to technical high schools and engineering schools. These institutions already are unable to fill the demand for technicians and engineers needed by the Government services and by those firms who are making war materials for the Government. Emphasis was also laid on the fact that although men will be taken between the ages of 18 and 45, applicants do not need to have had any previous college instruction. Matriculation standing, especially matriculation standing which includes physics and mathematics, is all that is necessary. A wide interpretation will be put upon junior matriculation or its equivalent, provided the applicant is well grounded in mathematics and physics. Perfect eyesight is not essential. Men between 18 and 45, who have been refused entry to the R.C.A.F., for flying training on account of physical reasons, may now be admitted to a new type of service within the Air Force, which calls for less rigid physical standards.

The intensive course will be for thirteen weeks. Applicants begin about June 1, and will last should apply to the R.C.A.F. Recruiting Centre, Broadacres House, Tobin Street, Halifax. After four weeks, at some R.C.A.F. Manning Depot one hundred of these men will be turned over to Department of physics in Dalhousie University. While they are undergoing the thirteen weeks' training course, they will be housed in Pine Hill Residence, Halifax. It should be remembered that no previous radio experience is required.

Busy with her class of thirty-four pupils, teacher Dollie Board, of Joplin, Miss., had a sudden presentiment of disaster. "Run, children," she cried. "Let's see who can get out of the room first." A few moments later, as the last child hurried out, the classroom ceiling crashed down, splintering the desks.

Thunder was heard for the first time this spring, during the night of April 17.

Mrs. John Howell left Monday for Halifax, to meet her husband, Capt. Howell, of the Canadian Navy.

Rev. Father Louis Comeau, curate, returned Saturday from a week's vacation in Halifax and Amherst.

Mr. and Mrs. Leander Frontain, of Quinan, moved last week in the residence they have bought at Meteghan River.

Rev. Father Ambrose Comeau, curate at Springhill, brought his mother, Mrs. Emelie Comeau, home here on Monday, after spending the winter with his.

Rogers Melanson, of Corberrie, accompanied by his father-in-law, Z. Comeau, of Comeauville, visited his sister, Mrs. Melbourne Comeau, on Saturday. On his return he took back his mother, Mrs. Simeon Melanson, who had spent a few weeks with her daughter.

Rev. Sister Therese de Lisieux, of the Convent, and Rev. Sister Olivia, of Wedgeport, spent Easter Monday with their mother, Mrs. Charles J. S. d'Entremont, of West Pubnico. They were accompanied by Sister Colombe, of the Convent; Mrs. Julius Saulnier and Mrs. Gus Dugas, of Meteghan.

Dr. Flavien Melanson and his mother, Mrs. (Dr.) A. R. Melanson, of Ste. Anne du Ruisseau; and Mrs. (Dr.) Thomas Melanson, of Yarmouth, were visitors on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond LeBlanc. Mrs. LeBlanc left on Monday to visit her mother, Mrs. F. Pelletier, at Ste. Anne de la Patatiere, Quebec.

Salute to Britain Service Held

"The Salute to Britain" was made in Weymouth by a special community service, held in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, last evening, when the people joined to pay tribute to the gallant British people.

Hymns were used which are being sung in England as wartime prayers and the combined choirs of the Parish took part. Children of the schools were present as also representatives of various bodies.

The address was given by Rev. A. S. Hart. A collection was taken for the Queen's Canadian Fund to assist in air raid distress.

Ladies Like Mice in Fancy Colors

Fancy mice in a wonderful variety of colors, are being bred in England for export overseas. Black, white, chocolate, blue, or in broken colors, they can be trained to do all sorts of interesting things.

Strange as it may seem, ladies all over the world have especially taken to this hobby. They experiment with particular shades and combinations of colors that take their fancy, and even in war time they can obtain their basic breeding stocks, together with valuable advice on colour heredity, from the English livestock organizations.

Breeding experiments have also been carried out with birds and the Lion Head Goldfinches which were recently shipped to South Africa have aroused great interest there. No improvement is needed, however, to that charming songster, the English nightingale, specimens of which have lately been sent to the United States.

In the last few years there has been an enormous fllip in rabbit breeding, and the English have evolved very fine strains of the Angora, noted for its wool, and the Chinchilla Rex, Havana Rex and Ermine Rex, these being fur-bearing animals. They have a much denser fur than the natural varieties, and one recent shipment alone consisted of 2,000 head for a fur farm in Canada.

No doubt because of Britain's variable and uncertain climate, which makes for the survival of the fittest, the livestock shipped abroad from Britain quickly become acclimated to their surroundings.

"Never Mind the Blasted Windows"

In spite of bombs and the blackout, shop-window display in Britain has not only continued but actually increased in ingenuity and service. One of the country's leading electrical firms promptly discovered a substitute for plywood—the peace-time foundation of window display—in linen stretched taut on wooden frames.

Display settings in linen, it was found, could be folded into small compass, where, in former days, a van could carry only three or four sets, now it can transport ten times as many.

Instead of leaving wartime window-display to the individual dealers, the firm decided to send round experts to do the job. No fewer than 54,000 personal visits have been made to all parts of the country and 85,000 separate pieces of display material have been placed in position.

Bombed shops, with their slogans "More Open Than Ever" or "Never Mind the Blasted Windows—Come In", carry impressive displays showing that the British radio and electrical industry, in spite of all threats, is very much alive and kicking.

The Nation's Need

Canada needs TRAINED men, now as never before.

The NATIONAL EMERGENCY makes the need imperative.

The demand far exceeds the supply.

Departments of Government have found a shortage of Engineers, Dentists, Doctors, Physicists, Chemists, well qualified instructors in mathematics (for aerial navigation, etc.) and High School Teachers with special knowledge of languages, mathematics, and science.

The shortage of trained men and women will become still greater in the future. We shall lose our future unless this need be met.

High School students thinking or university would be well advised to seek special training and to enquire seriously about Special or Honour courses.

For many years past DALHOUSIE UNIVERSITY has built up unusual facilities for advanced and special courses in mathematics, chemistry, physics, biology, classics, modern languages and history. In Eastern Canada Dalhousie's laboratories, libraries and teaching staff are unexcelled, and it is the only University with the professional schools of Medicine and Dentistry.

The needs of the nation make it imperative that an increasing number of women enter university special and professional courses.

Dates of autumn opening of the various faculties, and further information may be had from the REGISTRAR.

Egg Producers and New Regulations.

Some confusion has apparently arisen in the minds of egg producers in many sections of the province as a result of the announcement of the new egg grading regulations.

• Your best investment is yourself, so why not take stock of your appearance now? You'll probably find some new clothes will be a great help in your business and social life. There is no substantial change in the position of producers themselves under the new regulations, according to interpretations of federal and poultry officials. Producers are still permitted to market their eggs in their own way when selling direct to ordinary customers, and are not required to grade these eggs. They are, however, strongly advised to grade them themselves where possible, and at least to remove poor and dirty eggs.

Producers, however, cannot sell ungraded eggs to such places as restaurants, boarding houses, hotels, and such like customers. Producers selling to such places must have their eggs graded, and mark the cases or cartons with both grade and name.

Producers turning in eggs to stores must be paid by the storekeeper on the basis of grade. Storekeepers at points where registered egg grading stations do not exist will be permitted to grade eggs themselves for over-the-counter trade, but any surplus of eggs above requirements of this trade should be sent on to a grading station. No eggs are allowed to be retailed except on a graded basis and properly marked.

The only purpose of the new regulations is to improve the system of marketing eggs and to give stronger protection in the matter of the quality of eggs going to market. There is absolutely no intention anywhere to hamper trade.

Expect Good Minimum Price For Butter

Dairymen of the province are living in expectation of the announcement soon of a minimum price for butter for the summer and fall season that will create a more satisfactory price situation than has existed for the past ten years.

This has led to plans among agricultural workers of the Nova Scotia department of agriculture for a program of field work calculated to encourage farmers to increase production of their dairy herds. Emphasis is being laid particularly upon the advantage of increasing the area of fertilized pasture as a means of producing cheap but satisfactory feed for the dairy herds during summer and fall.

An added production of 1650 lbs. of milk per cow is needed to meet N. S. dairy requirements fully. That this could be done by proper feeding and management is shown by the fact that the cows under test in the dairy herd improvement project averaged over 6000 lbs. per cow in the last figures available.

Effective Demonstration on Sheep Parasites

The old expression "seeing is believing" holds good among many of the sheep owners in Eastern Nova Scotia, who have been reported to be doubtful about the existence of parasites among their flocks to the extent claimed by agricultural workers. Just to prove it, however, a demonstration was recently arranged at Havre Boucher in Antigonish county, under direction of J. C. F. MacDonnell, markets representative, and S. J. MacKinnon, agricultural representative for the county. Mr. MacDonnell took a sheep and a market lamb, had them killed and dissected before a gathering of about 60 sheep owners in the district. Dr. Hancock, provincial animal pathologist, showed the two animals to be heavily infected with parasites. The demonstration made a profound impression on the gathering, reports Mr. MacKinnon, and will no doubt go a long way to convince all sheep owners that treatment for parasites is essential in all flocks. Mr. MacKinnon reports that over 1500 sheep have already been treated in his county with the new parasite tablet, phenothiazine.

Very High Tides Being Experienced

Extremely high tides are being experienced this spring in Nova Scotia, and dyke owners are watching the dykes very closely. Explanation of the extreme tides is given by Prof. Angus Banting, agricultural engineer of the provincial department of agriculture, who states that shortly after midnight on April 13, the tide rose to a height of 28.9 feet, and at points along the Minas Basin, at Cumberland Basin the tide rose to a considerably greater height, reaching a range of about 57 feet.

Similar conditions will occur May 11, states Mr. Banting, though the range will not be as great. It is seven years since tides of similar height were experienced in Nova Scotia. When the moon perigees at the springs, explains Mr. Banting, the dykemen look for high tides. In other words, when the moon happens to be new or full and close to the earth at the same time, the tide range is likely to be extreme.

Damage is likely to result from the high tides expected May 11, it is pointed out. The tide at this date is expected to reach 15 feet above mean sea level at Saint John, states Mr. Banting, and at the Board Landing bridge at Truro the tide will rise to about 30 feet above mean sea level, or 15 feet higher than at Saint John.

Garden Brigade Growing

Interest is growing in the project launched some time ago through the medium of the women's institutes of the province, to enlist citizens of the province in a "garden brigade" as a move to increase production of vegetables for home use. Twenty-six companies have been formed, the various women's institute branches acting as recruiting mediums. Hantsport leads in the movement, with one company organized and others in the process of formation, including a company made up entirely of high school students.

Women's Institute Meetings

The provincial executive of the women's institutes will hold a meeting in Halifax on Thursday, April 24, to discuss plans for the season. District executives are meeting at present to plan for the district rallies, which commence shortly.

The institutes have recently been advised that seven of the large cases of articles contributed by women throughout the province for use by the women's territorial auxiliary service in England, have arrived safely in the old land Boys' and Girls' Clubs in Victoria County

William Milligan, Agricultural representative for Victoria County, reports fourteen garden clubs organized in Victoria county for 1941, with a membership of 164. The clubs are as follows: Baddeck Bridge, Bay St. Lawrence, Capstick, Harbour Bay, Ingouish Beach, Ingouish Centre, Kempt Head, Meat Cove, Middle River, Ottawa Brook, South Haven, Sugar Loaf, Tarbot, and Upper Washabuck. One calf club has also been organized, at Middle River, with a membership of 11.

What of Iceland's future? Should the British win the war and undo all of Hitler's conquests, it is probable Iceland would return to its former status under the Danish flag, an independent kingdom which owes its allegiance to the royal house of Denmark.

Should the worst happen and the nazis emerge triumphant, Iceland would awake to find itself in the Nazi sphere of domination, and perhaps cut out for vitally and aggressive role as a German spearhead for war operations against Canada and the United States.

Stinging Nettles Sell for Good Price.

Stinging nettles, bane of British armers, are to be converted from a national liability into a source of war funds. During the coming summer, about 100 tons of the common stinging nettle (Urtica dioica) will be required for the production of the green pigment chlorophyll.

This is used both medicinally, as a nerve tonic, and for colouring soap and other products. One of the largest firms of manufacturing chemists in Great Britain has installed new plant and will more than double its output of chlorophyll.

In pre-war days most of the world's supply of chlorophyll came from Germany and Switzerland. The arrangements being made in Britain will not only ensure the supplies, but will provide surplus for export to countries now cut off from normal sources of supply. Collection of the nettles, which have to be dried before they are sent to the factory, and they are worth £30 to £40 per ton, will be carried out by the Women's Institutes of Britain's countryside and Boy Scout troops. These organizations are also being used to collect other wild herbs for the distillation of drugs and essential oils.

The German menace was not the only problem of those pre-1914 days. At home, labour was in a state of ferment—strikes were widespread and riots broke out at various industrial centres. Then, there was the ever-present Irish problem, a burning question that threatened to burst into the flame of revolt.

Winston Churchill was disposed to give Home Rule to Ireland. Indeed, he was prepared to do anything that would clear the national decks so that the German threat could be faced by an all-out national effort. Ulster didn't want Home Rule, wouldn't have it at any price, and was grimly determined to fight if need be, to resist it.

The Fleet Was Ready!

Winston Churchill introduced the Second Home Rule Bill at Parliament, as a Government measure, and the men of Ulster, passionately determined not to become detached from the Motherland, started drilling the practising rifle-shooting. Bloody strife seemed inevitable. But internal controversies were soon to be stilled as the nation faced a new peril.

On July 18, 1914, the Royal Navy was reviewed by King George V. First demobilisation was to commence on July 27. Instead, as events on the continent sped swiftly towards the climax of stark tragedy, Winston Churchill warned the Fleet to stand ready, and two days later he secretly ordered Britain's mighty armada to battle stations.

When war was declared on August 4, the German navy was bottled up in its own harbours, Britain's command of the seas was assured, and the passage of the little Expeditionary Force to France was safely accomplished.

Sprightly Adventure

When the Germans threatened Antwerp and the Belgians sent on S.O.S. to London Winston Churchill dispatched the Royal Naval Division, and personally took command of it, being constantly in the thick of the fighting. Although they put up a gallant fight, the failure of promised reinforcements to arrive forced the defenders to retreat.

Winston Churchill returned to London to find himself the storm centre of criticism for what one newspaper called "this eccentric expedition." The truth was that he had been asked by Lord Kitchener to dash over to Antwerp to stir the Belgians' morale. And the expedition itself served to delay the German advance for some days at a time when every day gained was Invaluable to the Allies. Not for the last time was Winston Churchill betrayed by the failure of others to give adequate and timely support.

Shadow of Coming Events

A story of the early days of the Great War has its significance in the light of recent events. King George asked Mr. Churchill if it might not be a wise plan to extinguish the lights in the Hall, because of German sky raiders. "Yes," replied Churchill, "but if a bomb fell on Buckingham Palace it would have a very stimulating effect on the people." "Possibly," replied the King, "but it would have a very depressing effect on me!"

A Costly Failure

Few military events in history have aroused the fierce controversy that surrounded the Dardanelles expedition. The war on the Western Front had now degenerated into a matter of hurling masses of men at the enemy in an effort to exterminate him. Winston Churchill derided this policy, and believed that an allied offensive in the Mediterranean area, through Turkey (then a German ally), and thence smashing at Germany's rear, would be a decisive stroke and would shorten the war.

Downfall!

Winston Churchill's critics were again in full cry and on his shoulder was placed the entire blame for the fiasco. When a Coalition government replaced the Liberal administration, Churchill was relieved of the Admiralty and given a purely nominal post in the new Cabinet.

"It was a cruel and unjust degradation," wrote Mr. Lloyd George in his War Memoirs. "Nothing had been overlooked or neglected as far as the naval operations were concerned. The fatal delays and mishandlings had all been in the other branch (War Office) of the Service." This incidentally is the general expert opinion today.

Compelled to stand idly by, watch great opportunities and plans in which he believed, cast away or feebly executed, Winston Churchill resigned from the government in November, 1915, and went out to France as a regimental major where he took his share of the fighting in the trenches. He was 41.

A Call Will Soon Be Issued For Men to Serve in All Three Services-- 2,500 For Overseas

A call for upwards of 116,000 men will be made during the current year to reinforce Canada's armed forces, it was announced in Ottawa, recently, in a joint radio appeal for recruits by Defence Minister Ralston, Air Minister Power and Navy Minister MacDonnell. Their speeches were broadcast over a national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Of the manpower required during 1941, the army will absorb up to 72,000, the air force approximately 35,000 and the navy plans about 9,000 officers and men, the Ministers said.

"After these requirements are met, then we think that a highly skilled tradesman, who is a key man in war production, can be of better service to his country just now by sticking at his trade for the present and giving the chance to serve to others who will make fine soldiers but can be better spared from industry," he added.

Maj. Power said the immediate and most urgent need of the Royal Canadian Air Force was for radio technicians, to operate a new scientific weapon against air attack.

"We are looking for 2,500 Canadians of good common sense, who are ready this minute to volunteer for overseas service in a new service," Maj. Power said. "I do not like to overstate the case, yet I can say that it is of vital importance that we get these men and that we get them immediately."

The age limit for radio technicians would be from 18 to 45 years.

"The British air minister expects great things from this invention," the minister said. "The details of this work are of course secret, but I can say that in general terms it means that by using a great number of small radio sets of modern design, radio technicians posted at ground points all over the British Isles will be able to detect enemy planes in the air and direct anti-aircraft fire with ready precision."

Scallop Season Extended

Digby scallop fishermen have been granted an extension in their fishing season, which will continue until May 17, instead of closing May 1st, as originally intended. However, it is understood, that due to prevailing low prices since Easter, a number of the fishermen will not take advantage of the extension, but will tie up their craft, or put them to other uses after May 1st.

On the whole, the scallop season, which opened last October, has been better than average—or at least better than the past several seasons in many respects. Prices, up until the end of the Lenten season have been good, and seldom did the price drop below 20 cents a pound, and on occasions reached as high as 27 cents. 23 to 25 cents a pound to the fishermen were not unusual.

Since Lent, however, the price has declined. Frequently during the season, weather conditions put the damper on scallop dragging. On several occasions during the winter and spring, the fleet was tied up for a week or more at a time, because of unfavorable weather. On one occasion, except for an occasional half-day, the boats were idle for three weeks.

Canned Lobster Market Is Secured at $12,000 Cost

Michaud Supplies House With Data on Maritime Province Industry.

At a cost of $12,000, the fisheries department secured a market for the canned lobsters of the Maritime Provinces to replace British and European markets wiped out by the war, Fisheries Minister Michaud told the House of Commons, recently.

That sum, he said, was deficit on operations of the lobster controller, Dr. D. B. Finn. This year provision of $600,000 of working capital for the lobster controller had been made in the war appropriation bill. If the whole amount were used, he predicted, there would be a profit on the operations. The lobster controller bought up all canned lobsters offered to him and marketed them, but at the same time encouraged canners to market their own product as far as possible. Last year the lobster controller had only been required to handle 20 per cent of the pack and the same volume was the cause of the deficit.

MILL BURNED AT GULLIVER'S COVE

The lumber mill of Frank Rowter, Digby, and upward to 200,000 feet of lumber were destroyed by fire at Gulliver's Cove, 12 miles down Digby Neck from Digby, early Wednesday morning of last week. The mill was located about one mile in back of the village.

Origin of the fire is unknown, but it is thought to have caught from smouldering sawdust. The mill had not been in operation since Friday of last week, when it finished its cut for the season. Max Hebb, caretaker, was the only one on the property when the blaze was discovered in the west end of the mill, where the boiler and other equipment were located.

Unable to fight, the fire alone, Mr. Hebb went to Gulliver's Cove, arriving at the home of Byron MacDormand Conservative House Leader Hanson, Mr. Michaud gave a brief outline of the procedure of lobster control. He said lobsters were the only cash crop in many areas of the Maritime Provinces. When war broke out European markets were cut off and the British government placed an embargo on canned lobster which was considered as a luxury food.

Markets Found

A market for the $2,000,000 crop was found in Canada and the United States. American buyers, who formerly considered Canadian canned lobsters of inferior quality, were induced to give them a new trial with the result large sales were made.

Mr. Hanson asked if it would not be a good idea to give the lobster industry a rest in wartime in order to give the lobstersters a chance to multiply. He said conservation measures were necessary as lobsters were smaller and scarcer than in earlier days, due to constant fishing.

Mr. Michaud said it would be hard to stop lobster fishing were dependent on it. The altogether as many people department was applying conservation methods by limiting the season for fishing, the size of lobster which could be taken and licensing fishermen. It was also encouraging people to keep lobsters in pools from which they could be taken the year round for the live lobster trade. Some success had been attained in this.

Home Economics

Housecleaning time is here. With the spring sunshine comes women's desire to renovate, clean and change all the various aspects of her kingdom—the house.

One should have a plan before beginning. If your budget must be limited and expenditure closely watched, sit down and figure just what sum can be allowed for extra spending. Then list the new things needed, the expenditures you think you would like to make, estimating the cost carefully. Remember, too, that most things have a way of costing more than we think they will. Then make the two lists agree. If the list for changes and additions costs more than you have at your disposal it must be cut down. Cross out the "like to have" leaving only the "musts." If there still is discrepancy between the lists you must choose which of the "musts" can be left out.

Next is to buy your materials or get mechanical work done to the best advantage so that it will not cost more than is necessary. Also one should kalsomining, papering, etc., plan to get such renovating done early. The later cleaning may be left until windows and doors can be opened widely for sunshine and air.

Canadians have to be careful in their spending this year but there are many renovations which should be made each spring, particularly if their being left undone will mean deterioration of property. Then, too, a certain amount of activity is well in every industry. The government depends on taxes to a large extent and these will not be forthcoming if industries are allowed to languish as we refrain from all but the bare necessity spending.

We do need to study and know what is not thrifty spending for ourselves or for the country. We cannot go amiss in buying Canadian foods, British woolsens, and such-like.

LOVING WIFE HELPS HUSBAND ON THE SLY

Long-Standing Headaches Relieved

He could not understand why the headaches he had been subject to were suddenly relieved. His wife told him, and he at once sat down and wrote the following letter:

"I am 62 years of age, and ever since I was a boy of ten years, I was subject to very bad headaches. But two years ago the headaches ceased, and for what reason I did not know. I was surprised when one day my wife told me I had been using Kruschen Salts in my coffee for over two years. I am still using them, and I know of nothing finer."

Headaches can often be traced to a disordered stomach, and to the unexpunged retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. Remove these poisons—prevent them forming again—and you remove the cause of many aches and pains. And that is just how Kruschen Salts brings pleasant relief. Kruschen helps Nature to cleanse your body completely of all clogging waste matter.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Wentworth Letteney
(Published by Request)

The death of Arthema Letteney, wife of the late Wentworth Letteney, occurred at the home of her sister, Mrs. Howard Burke, at Port Wade, on Tuesday evening, April 15, at the age of 82 years and 5 months. She was born at Port Wade, and was the daughter of the late Casey and Sarah Cronin. She had been an invalid for about five years. She will be known in Digby as Mrs. Thomas Crawley and moved to Port Wade in 1923.

Left to mourn is one sister, Mrs. Howard Burke, with whom she made her home, also of Port Wade, and Miss Elizabeth Burke, a niece, who tenderly cared for her during her illness, also a number of other nieces and nephews. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Lewis M. at the Baptist church. Interment at Port Wade.

Mrs. Winnifred Morton
The death of Mrs. Winnifred (Caldwell) Morton occurred at the Annapolis General Hospital, Saturday, April 19th, where she had been a patient for several weeks. Deceased was a native of Summerville, Hants Co. A school teacher by profession she taught in a number of rural schools also at Truro Normal School and in California. Her husband, Charles F. Morton, died about four years ago. The only surviving relatives are a niece, Mrs. W. Card, of California. Two sisters-in-law, Mrs. A. S. Burns, of Acadia, Yarmouth Co., and Miss Alberta Morton, Truro, N. S. The funeral was held Monday, Rev. A. W. L. Smith conducting. Interment in the United Church Cemetery.

Ellis Mervyn Oakes
Many friends in Nova Scotia were saddened Monday morning to learn of the sudden passing of E. Mervyn Oakes, principal of Oakdene Academy, Bear River, since 1936. The late Mr. Oakes, who was 28 years of age, had been in apparent good health, and had spent Sunday evening at the home of friends in Bear River. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Oakes, New Albany, Annapolis County. Before coming to Bear River in 1936, he was principal of the school at Waterford, Kings County, having taken charge of that school after completing a course at Acadia University, Wolfville. Before that, he was on the staff of the Digby Academy for three years.

He was a successful teacher, and took an active part in all efforts to bring about better conditions in the communities where he carried out his profession. Funeral services took place yesterday afternoon at New Albany.

The funeral was held on Thursday from his late home, conducted by Rev. R. L. Roach, of the United Church, assisted by Rev. G. D. Brydon, of the Baptist Church, and Miss Redicker, of the Advent Church. The United Church choir gave selections, "Lord I'm Coming Home", "The Old Rugged Cross", "Abide With Me", all favorites of the deceased. Interment was in Mount Hope Cemetery. The floral tributes were many, showing the high esteem in which he was held.

OBITUARY

Henry LeBlanc

The death took place at Abiram's River, Yarmouth County, Saturday, April 19, of Henry LeBlanc, aged 76 years. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John LeBlanc, and is survived by one son, Joseph, at home; and four sisters, Mrs. Josephine Doucet, of Cape St. Mary; Sister Elizabeth, of the Little Sisters of the poor at Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mrs. Annie Leger, of Dorchester, Mass., and Miss Elizabeth LeBlanc, of Wakefield, Mass. His second wife predeceased him several years.

William Berry

The death occurred in Yarmouth Hospital, Sunday night of William Berry, resident of Arcadia. He was 66 years of age, and had been ill for some time. He was born at Weymouth, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Berry, and had resided in Yarmouth County most of his life. He is survived by his wife; two brothers, James, in Blacks Harbor, N. B.; Henry, Saint John; four sisters, Mrs. Marshall Nickerson, of Alberta; Mrs. Thomas Daley, Black's Harbor; Mrs. Leon Surette, Yarmouth; Miss Rosie Berry, Montreal, and a step-daughter, at home.

Mrs. Chantal Robichaud

At Maxwilton, April 20th, Mrs. Chantal Robichaud, widow of Hon. Henry M. Robichaud, passed away at the age of 92 years, after a long illness. She was a daughter of the late Mathurin Robichaud, one of the first Acadian members of the Provincial Legislature. She is survived by two sons, and one daughter, Leo, of Geneva, N. Y.; Edmund, with whom she was residing at Maxwilton, and Rev. Sister Alberta (Lucie), at the Sacred Heart Convent, Meteghan; and a step-daughter, Mrs. Patrick McLaughlin (Agnes), of Lynn, Mass.; also one brother, Benjamin Robichaud, Cape St. Mary's. Hon. Senator J. L. P. Robichaud is a nephew. Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at the Stella Maris Church, conducted by Right Rev. Mgr. Bourneuf, pastor. The Rev. Sisters and students of the Convent were in attendance, also the ladies of St. Ann, to which she belonged.

About This and That

The Press and the Churches

One of the most easily misconstrued relationships in the publishing field is that between the newspaper and the churches in the community it serves. The newspaper man asks himself the question: "What should be my attitude toward the churches?" He endeavours to answer that question so that he will be fair both to the churches and to himself.

Churches sometimes assume the attitude that as they are supported solely by voluntary donations, and as they are a spiritual and moral force in the community, any publicity desired should be given without charge by the newspaper. Strangely enough the churches do not expect the same privilege from any other business or profession. It should be remembered at the outset that most publishers are church members, and that as individuals they are decidedly interested in the welfare of the church with which they are affiliated. They give regularly and as generously as their circumstances permit. They attend the various functions designed to raise funds for the continuance of the church's work. As such they must be considered as any other church member who is conscientiously striving to support the church and what it stands for.

While newspapers are more generous with space to churches than to other institutions, this is simply a recognition by the press of the premier place held by the church in the spiritual and more sphere in the community. However, the church has no legal right to expect the press to give more generously than any individual church member. It is not expected of the man who sells the church fuel, or the public utilities which serve the church. In larger centres it is not expected that the organist should give his services free, or that the caretaker should work without remuneration.

The press, we believe, will always recognize the position and value of the church in the community. It will realize that the community without the church would be like a rudderless ship, not knowing when the tide of events and fortune might lead it. The press will continue to give service to the church as one important institution to another, but the church must also realize that to continue its service, not only to the church but to the community, the newspaper must have an income, and that income can only come from the space it sells in its columns. This same reasoning must apply to charitable organizations in the community. To them the publisher and the men and women who work for the publisher give generously of their private means and of their time and talent. They too must prosper if they are to continue the support to the church, and all kindred organizations seeking to carry out an uplifting work in the community.

MAINE'S Sea and Shore Fisheries Commissioner Arthur R. Greenleaf and fisheries heads of several other lobster producing states conferred in Moncton, recently, with Canadian officials "in an effort to develop a co-operative plan for increasing the efficiency of present producing and marketing methods. Although the session was private and no formal statement was issued at its completion, Greenleaf told reporters that Maine, as the biggest U. S. producer of the crustaceans, was immensely interested in the discussions and that he had high hopes for better times for the industry. The conference came as the result of a number of preliminary meetings in Boston, all designed to find the cause and cure of the many pressing lobster problems. Marketing was regarded as the outstanding obstacle in the way of a better living for the fishermen and the belief was expressed that Canadian and U. S. producers might get together to prevent market gluts, establish uniform sizes and stagger the fishing season. Other matters said to have been discussed, included co-operative biological research and propagation efforts.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Charles C. Rand
The death of Mrs. Rand, widow of the Rev. Charles Carrol Rand, took place on Monday afternoon, April 21, at her home in Deep Brook. Formerly Helen Spurr, she was born 67 years ago on July 4, at Fort Independence on Independence Island in Boston Harbor, where her father a Major in the United States Army, was stationed at that time. Prior to her marriage to Mr. Rand in 1920, she was superintendent of the hospital at Melrose Mass. Following their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Rand moved to Crapaud, P. E. I., where in 1924 Mr. Rand was ordained Rector to the priesthood in the Anglican Church. Four years later he became Rector of Holy Trinity Church in Middleton, an incumbency which he held for eight years. While in Middleton, they made many friends and took an active interest in community affairs. In 1936 they went to Chester, where Mr. Rand became Rector of St. Stephen's, but ill health soon compelled him to relinquish his duties and he and Mrs. Rand took up their residence at Deep Brook. Mr. Rand died in 1939, since when Mrs. Rand has been in failing health. She is survived by two step-sons, the Rev. John L. Rand, Rector of St. Mark's, Coxheath, C. B., and Douglas C. M. Rand, of Moncton.

LOOK WHAT FORD OFFERS Bigness! Comfort! Economy!

Plus the POWER AND SMOOTHNESS of a V-8 Engine

Look at the value that's packed into the 1941 Ford! It's the lowest priced car you can buy in Canada. It's the longest inside. It has the greatest total seating width. You get extra knee-room and front head-room. Wider doors! Larger windshield. Longer spring-base!

Ford riding comfort this year is a revelation. On the new "slow-motion springs," with improved shock absorbers and new ride stabilizer, you simply glide over the bumps. There's a softness and smoothness new to cars at this price.

Only Ford at its price offers you the power and smoothness of a V-8 engine. Eight cylinders for smoothness! Small cylinders for economy! Extremely low gas and oil consumption as proved in one official contest after another! Long life and reliability.

Ford this year is built with greater strength than ever. Frame is twice as rigid. The whole car has a heavier, "Big-car" feel. See a Ford dealer.

Movement of Lime Becoming Heavy

Heavy movement in lime is once more becoming heavy under the lime policy of the provincial department of agriculture by which farmers are enabled to secure lime at $1.50 ton. This is shown by the fact that during the first twenty-four days of April total orders received at the Extension Division office at Truro, for rail shipment amounted to 1,577 tons. The heaviest day's order totalled 370 tons, on April 22. Most of this movement is booked for the last week in April and the early part of May.

Interest in Pasture Fertilization Growing

A report from Antigonish County that a carload of fertilizer for pasture improvement has been received by the Eastern Co-operative services for their farmer customers, is indicative of the manner in which pasture fertilization is growing as a farming practice throughout the province. Incidentally, it is stated that this is the first carload of fertilizer intended for pasture improvement to be ordered in Antigonish County. While no actual figures are available, it is known that this practice is definitely on the increase in the province. It is pointed out by agricultural workers that pasture improvement by fertilization offers the most economical means of providing feed for the dairy herds during the summer and fall, and is especially important under present conditions where farm labor is high in cost and difficult to secure. There is still time this spring to do considerable pasture fertilization, although the recent period of warm, dry weather offered best opportunity for getting the fertilizer out on the pastures. Many farmers took full advantage of it.

As one agricultural worker in the Nova Scotia department of agriculture points out, many farmers forget the importance of a good pasture—that is, how long it will supply feed and what it would cost to supply feed for a like period in winter. Few dispute, he says, that there is a great saving in a good pasture. With this in mind, it is only good business to supply as much good pasture as possible, which can best be provided by fertilizing a suitable piece of pasture land. For fertilizer recommendations, farmers are referred to page seven of the fertilizer recommendations put out by the Maritime fertilizer council.

YOU KNOW that Canada's War Effort requires a steady flow of money—week by week, month by month—loaned from the savings of her people.

If YOU HAVEN'T pledged yourself

—ACT NOW! Canada needs ALL you can save and lend. There are three ways to pledge:

1. Ask your employer to deduct a specified sum from your salary or wages each pay day.
2. Authorize your bank to deduct it each month from your savings account.
3. Sign an "Honour Pledge" to buy Stamps or Certificates for a specified amount at regular intervals.

If YOU HAVE pledged yourself

—keep up your pledge. See your investment grow as the months go by. INCREASE the amount you have promised to save and invest. And remember that, in addition to your regular pledged amount, you can at any time buy extra War Savings Certificates from your local Bank—Post Office—or you can send your money direct to the War Savings Committee in Ottawa.

The Life of Winston Churchill

--The Man Who'll Beat Hitler

(Part 7)

The overpowering effect of the present war is well-known, but when the First Great War started, there were few who did not scoff at the notion of land battleships. Much of the credit for their introduction must go to Winston Churchill, for he braved grave criticism by dabbling with them. When the idea of "landships" was broached to him in November 1914, he formed a Landships Committee of the Admiralty to encourage their possibilities. The War Office had refused even to consider experimenting with tanks, and pigeon-holed plans and designs for a tank with the terse verdict scribbled on the envelope: "The man's mad!"

Took a Chance

Without consulting either the War Office or the Treasury, Winston Churchill undertook the responsibility of ordering experimental tanks. Writing later of this decision, he says: "Had the tanks proved wholly abortive, or never been accepted, or never used in any way by the military authorities... I could have offered no effective defence to the charge that I had wasted public money on a matter which was not in any way my business and in regard to which I had not received expert advice in any responsible military quarter."

When Mr. Churchill left the Cabinet, following the Gallipoli disaster, he persuaded Mr. Balfour, his successor at the Admiralty, to carry on with the experiments, and as a result, tanks were introduced on the battlefields of France late in 1918, with demoralising effect on the enemy.

Foretold Submarine Menace

As a Major in the Scots Guards, Winston Churchill spent some time in France, and although constantly in the thick of the front line fighting, the Churchill luck stayed with him, and he came out unscathed.

Once, in the spring of 1916, he returned to London and took part in the debate on the Naval Estimates in Parliament. Greeted again as a hero, he uttered some prophetic words on the submarine menace, warning the House that the Germans would certainly embark on unrestricted submarine warfare. They did—nearly a year later, and by that time Winston Churchill was again in London, this time to stay. But it was not until July 1917, after several months in exile, that Churchill entered Mr. Lloyd George's "Win the War" Cabinet as Minister of Munitions.

Prized Mechanical Development

Now that he was responsible for Supplies, Mr. Churchill did not forget his old interest in tanks, and despite considerable opposition from still-sceptical military people, one of his first tasks was to order many thousands of these land monsters. At the same time, in a memorandum, he urged the War Cabinet to "organize mechanical development upon the principle: someone must stop the tiger." He re-organized the Ministry from top to bottom, threw out the "limpets" and substituted business men.

The entry of the United States into the war posed new problems for the Minister of Munitions, for the U. S. could not equip their vast armies of men with the arms and guns they needed. Britain would have to help equip these hordes of men from the New World, in addition to supplying her own huge army, now numbering millions.

Thereupon Winston Churchill made a contract with the United States to supply the entire American army with medium artillery. The original contract amounted to $500,000,000 and Mr. Churchill expressly declared that there should be no profit on this contract—a significant gesture in view of present Anglo-American co-operation.

"Work—Or Fight!"

In spring of 1918, Winston Churchill came face to face with another crisis. Three and a half years of intense war had taken their toll; the nerves of Britain's munition workers were on edge. They went on strike!

Munition workers had been exempted from active service, but Winston Churchill told them tersely: "Back to work, or go to the front." They went back to work. But they didn't forget the man who'd beaten them, and although Victory erased their grudge for a time the Socialists were to have their revenge at one of the bitterest elections that Mr. Churchill ever fought.

Postal Message to Enemy and Enemy Occupied Countries

The Honourable W. P. Mulock, K. C., Postmaster General, announces that arrangements have been made by the Canadian Post Office Department for a system of Personal Postal Messages to facilitate the sending of brief messages between persons in Canada and relatives and friends in enemy and enemy-occupied countries, including Germany, Austria, Italy, Czechoslovakia, German occupied Poland, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Norway, Denmark, occupied France and the Channel Islands.

Such messages are to be written on an official form and are to be confined to simple messages not exceeding 20 words which are purely personal in character relating to family news or enquiry as to the well-being of the addressee or his relatives and friends. Nothing of a political, economic or military character is permitted. Messages should be written in block letters and, if possible, should be in English, French or German.

The messages will be transmitted through the intermediary of the International Red Cross Committee at Geneva, Switzerland, on the special official forms which may be obtained through any Postmaster.

The fee for a Personal Postal Message is 25 cents, which pays postage to final destination as well as postage from Geneva to Canada on the addressee's reply.

MARRIAGE

Denton - Gordon

The marriage of Miss Kathleen Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gordon, Halifax, to Sergt. Lloyd Allison Denton, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Denton, Westport, took place Friday evening, in Trinity Church, Halifax, Rev. J. T. Ibbott officiating. The bride wore a white embroidered mousseline de sole gown with a long train, a halo of orange blossoms and long veil, a strand of pearls, and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and white sweetpeas. Miss Margaret Isnor was the bridesmaid and wore a pale pink chiffon Juliette gown, a hat of sweetpeas in different shades of pink, and a bouquet of white carnations and pink sweetpeas. The bride's sister, Mrs. Basil Yorke, was matron of honor and she wore a pale blue chiffon gown and a hat of sweetpeas and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and white sweetpeas. Flight Sergt. Jack Frost, was best man, and the ushers were Sergt. Malcolm Wright, Sergt. Jack Henderson and Basil Gooding. A reception was held later at 18 Tobin Street. The bride's mother wore a gown of navy with white accessories, a navy hat and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother wore dusty rose with navy accessories, a navy and white hat and white corsage. Many gifts were received, and several showers were held for the bride. After a trip through the Maritime Provinces, Mr. and Mrs. Denton will reside in the Willoughby Apartments, Tobin Street, Halifax.

Divorce Note

(Scribner's Commentator)
A recent survey was conducted among divorced women in which the following question was asked: "How do you feel five years after your divorce?" Of the women who answered this question, fifty per cent regretted their hasty decision to give up marriage and explained that if they were faced with the question today, they would remain with their husbands; thirty-four per cent were happy to have got rid of their partners and sixteen persons—unable to better themselves—had returned to their spouses.

Is Honored

A. A. FIELDING

(From Saint John Telegraph Journal)

The local office staff of the F. G. Spencer Co. Ltd., honored A. A. Fielding, the recently resigned general manager of the firm, at dinner in Salon E at the Admiral Beatty Hotel, on Saturday evening.

F. G. Spencer spoke feelingly of Mr. Fielding's long service in the employ of the company. Gordon Spencer spoke on behalf of the staff and presented the retiring executive with a handsome travelling bag. Mr. Fielding spoke interestingly regarding his long association with the Spencer Company, covering nearly thirty years.

Mr. Fielding has opened a private office in the Bank of Nova Scotia Building, Charlotte Street, from where he will conduct his business in the future.

The Capitol Theatre, Digby, is one of the S. F. A. Co., Ltd., Theatres, of which company Mr. Fielding is President and General Manager.

The term "ex-service men" will henceforth include those who have served with the active forces of Canada during the present war as well as veterans of the war of 1914-18. Emphasis is placed on this fact in an instruction from the Department of National Defence to those in charge of government works under the supervision of the Department suggesting that other things being equal unemployed ex-service men receive preference on these works.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Orwell Outhouse

There passed away at the Digby General Hospital, Monday of last week, Mrs. Orwell Outhouse, of Centreville, at the age of 64 years. Mrs. Outhouse was the former Miss Blanche Morehouse, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morehouse, of Centreville. About two weeks ago she fell, breaking a hip bone, and was removed to the hospital, where she passed away. She is survived by her husband; two sons, Carmen and Guy, who with their families, live at Centreville; four sisters, Mrs. E. D. Morehouse, of Sandy Cove; Mrs. George Holdsworth, Franklyn Park, Mass.; Mrs. Stewart Gates, of New Hampshire; Mrs. B. E. Morehouse, Centreville; and one brother, Fred, also of Centreville. Another brother, Wilbur, passed away on the Friday previous, at his home in East Lynn, Mass. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. H. H. Barker, on Thursday from the United Church of which Mrs. Outhouse was a member.

John P. Graham

John P. Graham, Registrar of Deeds for Hants County, since 1910, died Wednesday of last week, at the Somerset Hotel, Windsor, in his 73rd year. He had been in failing health for some time, but his death came as a shock to the community. Few men were more widely known in his native county, which he served faithfully for thirty-one years. He succeeded his father as Registrar. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James E. Graham, and is survived, besides his wife, the former Janet Boyd; by two daughters, Miss Marjorie Graham, Toronto; Mrs. Hector Hamon, Quebec; one son, Lieut. Will Graham, Yarmouth; two sisters, Miss Mary Graham, who conducts a Business School in Windsor; Mrs. Ralph Millett, Halifax; two brothers, Fred, of Digby; Edward, Toronto. Mr. Graham was a member of Welsford Masonic Lodge, A.F., and A.M.; Clifton Lodge, No. 38, Knights of Pythias.

Andrew Paanen, a Massachusetts cranberry grower, got a shock the other day when he received a cheque from the U. S. government for cranberries, and found they had overpaid him by exactly one million dollars. And he gave the local bank officials a bigger shock when he took in his cheque for $1,000,015.25 and calmly asked for "cash." The cheque was finally returned for correction.

A Mystery Hotel Guest

In a Montreal uptown hotel lives a lady guest, believed to be advanced in years, who has 54.8 years.

Once only in that time has she stepped out of her room. That was at the earnest request of the hotel management, who were having the room redecorated. Every one had been done but hers. So after a good deal of persuasion she moved over into a bright new room and the painters moved into hers.

That was a little over three years ago. The painters moved out of her room in a couple of days, but she hasn't yet stepped outside the temporary room. Perhaps the color scheme appealed to her.

In any case, the hotel staff has never seen her. No hotel employee has ever entered her room. Her personal maid, who lives out, enters in the morning and leaves at night. Thus the recluse dispenses with the services of the hotel maids.

Every day the room-service waiter wheels her meals to the door. He leaves the table outside, knocks and departs. Immediately the table is drawn within. Later the waiter returns for the table, which he finds outside the door once more.

For ten years and more the old lady's bills have been paid regularly by cheque. She must be one of the best guests a hotel ever had—no demands for extra service, no fussy badgering of the staff.

The reason behind the mystery? No one knows. Her name? The hotel withholds it. What does she look like? No one can say for no one has seen her.

A book smaller than a postage stamp, which contains four of Abraham Lincoln's addresses, is on display at the University of New Hampshire Library.

"Blackouts" aren't so new. Over 400 years ago, when the German city of Frankfurt was threatened with attack, the civic authorities ordered all upper windows to be darkened to hide the city from the enemy.

Work Resumed on Catholic Church

Work has been resumed on the new St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, Digby. It is hoped the church will be completed this fall.

The construction of the new church began in 1934, when the basement of the edifice was built. For the first year or two, this basement, which was roofed over, was used as a hall, rented for various community efforts, and used by the members of the congregation for concerts and parties held in their own behalf.

For the past few years the basement has been used as a place of worship the original St. Patrick's Church, atop Chapel Hill (Prince William Street) having become too small for the congregation, which has increased steadily.

Digby

With the ever-increasing call for Red Cross supplies, the Digby Branch has been busy during the past month. The regular work meetings were held at the Court House, tea being served as usual. There was also an exhibit of clothing ready for shipment for air-aid victims. Last Sunday an urgent appeal was given from all the Digby pulpits for more workers to join in this humanitarian task.

April shipments to the Nova Scotia Division headquarters in Halifax, have been as follows: For army, merchant marine and hospital purposes—10 sleeveless sweaters, 4 long sleeved turtle-neck sweaters, 54 scarves, 180 pairs mittens, 1 pair gloves, 96 pairs socks, 10 pairs seamen's stockings, 2 bathrobes, 7 bed jackets, 6 bed gowns, 6 pairs pyjamas, 12 hot water bottle covers, 60 handkerchiefs.

Warden Warns of Post War Problems

In opening the semi-annual session of the Digby Municipal Council at Digby yesterday afternoon, Warden H. E. Chisholm, Bear River, reminded the council they were again meeting "under the shadow of a conflict which not only threatens the existence of the British Empire, but also the democratic system of government we enjoy and cherish under the British Crown." "To achieve victory in this momentous struggle, and to ensure the preservation of Christianity and the ideals which we hold dear it behooves us to assist in every possible way in the active and vigorous prosecution of the war," said the warden.

Warden Chisholm further reminded the council their responsibilities in this connection would not terminate with the winning of the war and cessation of hostilities, stating "with the end of the war will come the problem of absorbing into civilian life many thousands of those who are now on active service, and the changing over to the arts of peace many industries that are now engaged in the production of war materials." He emphasized the fact that the process of rehabilitation must of necessity concern the municipalities "for they are the first to feel the impact of unemployment." He advised the council that in their deliberations, they should keep post war problems well in mind in order that they may be fully prepared to cope with them as they arise.

He went on to say that while the employment situation was not as acute as in other years, remuneration derived from the products of the soil, have not kept pace with that obtained in war activities, yet, he prophesied tax collections this year should be better than average, and outside assistance should be the lowest in many years.

Routine matters took up most of the time at this opening session, at which the most important matter dealt with the passing of a resolution to issue debentures amounting to $23,000 to pay off the Nova Scotia Hospital account. Proceedings to deal with this matter were begun at the annual session in January. J. H. Conrad, deputy municipal commissioner, Nova Scotia Department of Municipal Affairs, discussed the resolution with the council yesterday afternoon.

It was reported that good progress is being made in the collection of tax arrears, and that the outside poor situation was very favorable.

MARRIAGE

Maillet Chandler

St. Vincent de Paul Church, Salmon River, was the scene of a pretty but quiet wedding, Monday morning, May 5. Elise Maillet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Inos Maillet, of Meteghan Station, was united in marriage to Miss Celeste Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Chandler, of Hectanooga. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. A. Maillet, rector, and was immediately followed by nuptial High Mass. The bride was very attractively attired in rose georgette, blue coat and blue picture hat. She was attended by her sister, Miss Estelle Chandler, who wore drab with matching accessories. The groom was attended by John Chandler, brother of the bride. After the ceremony at the church, a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents to immediate relatives and friends, after which the bridal party left for a short wedding trip. On their return they will reside at Meteghan Station. The week before the marriage the bride was tendered a shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie V. Deveau by her many friends, at which she received a large number of beautiful and costly presents. Among those from outside who attended the wedding breakfast were Mr. and Mrs. James Chandler and family, of Richfield, Mrs. Fred Babin, of Maville, and Mrs. Frank H. Comeau, of Meteghan.

Scout and Guide Entertainment

The Scout and Guide Association gave an evening entertainment at the Scout Hall, on Friday, at which about $70 was realized for the Red Cross.

There were two sketches in the first half of the performance "Mechanical Jane", enacted by three Guides, and a second one given by the Scouts. All those taking part did exceptionally well. As a final, four Scouts illustrated a well-known joke, which was very amusing and very well done.

Scoutmaster Ken Margeson, opened the second half of the evening with the council fire ceremony, in which a combined choir of Scouts and allied organizations sang choruses from well known songs. Candy was sold in the intervals and the "Quintone" orchestra played popular music throughout the evening, which was well applauded.

Digby Boy Wins Radio Contest

As we go to press we learn that Peter Humpherson, Digby Academy student, and son of Sergeant Major and Mrs. H. S. ## Town Hall to Be Painted

We have been advised the Digby Town Hall is to be painted. The matter of repairs and painting was brought up at the monthly meeting of the Council, and it was then decided to leave the matter in the hands of the Streets Committee, giving them authority to take whatever action they considered necessary.

The Clerk read a letter from Miss Ruth Campbell, C. G. I. T. Leader, asking permission to hold a "life saver" day on June 7th. Permission was granted. Permission was also granted to Thomas Deveau, contractor, to complete construction of the Roman Catholic Church. Work on this building was resumed a short time ago. Truck drivers, driving trucks for town work, asked for an increase from $1.00 per hour to $1.50 per hour. After consideration of the matter, the Council decided on the increase.

His Worship the Mayor, brought up the Salvage Campaign, which is being conducted throughout the Dominion, and the Clerk was instructed to write the secretary of the Digby Board of Trade asking that body to co-operate with the Boy Scouts in the salvaging of waste materials in the town of Digby.

Meteghan River Appeal Dismissed

The Supreme Court of Canada dismissed with costs the appeal of the trustees of the estate of the late James Cosman, of Meteghan River, from a judgment of Mr. Justice A. K. MacLean, President of the Exchequer Court, who held that the Minister of National Revenue was right in assessing certain income, received and accumulated by the appellants in their capacity as trustees, as taxable income under the Income War Tax Act.

The tax involved a payment of $1,479 on the accumulated income for 1931.

The Minister contended that the income had accumulated for the benefit of unascertained persons within the meaning of the act and the trustees for the estate argued that the will indicated that the income was for charitable purposes and should not be held to be liable for taxation.

MARRIAGE

Hue - Blackadar
The marriage of Miss Audrey Blackadar, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Blackadar, of Weymouth, to George Hue, R.C.N.V.R., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Hue, of Halifax, took place at the home of the bride's uncle, Mr. Hubley, at Oxford Street, Halifax, at 8.00 p. m., Friday, April 18. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. M. Grant, minister of St. Matthew's United Church, and took place beneath an archway, decorated with white bells and streamers, and banded by potted ferns. The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, wore a steeple-length dress of pale blue with blue and pink accessories and corsage of pink carnations. She was attended by Miss Anna Barkhouse, of Halifax, formerly of Weymouth, who wears navy with wine accessories and corsage of sweetpeas. Miss Teresa Granville, of Halifax, formerly of Weymouth, a cousin of the bride, played the wedding march. Following the ceremony, a reception was held, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hue left on a trip to various parts of the province.

Perfect Husband

Thrice-married Fanny Brice, throaty singer of Broadway's famous torch-song "My Man" recently told of 10 qualifications for the "perfect husband."

She threw in four tips to her own sex on appraising this human paragon—"Just to make the subject more complicated."

Her 10-point specification: 1—He should be as comfortable as an old pair of slippers—and have the glamor of new shoes for romancing.

2—He should wear old fashioned underwear.

3—He should grow up as the woman grows older.

4—He should have the technique not to let the woman he loves find it out when he steps out—as all men will. 6—He should be interested in his wife's career or profession, for that "interest in work" business works two ways. 7—He should be a man for whom a woman does not always have to put on an act. 8—He should be enough interested in his wife's appearance to compliment her. 9—He should have a sense of humor. 10—And tops—a man, a woman can respect.

About This and That

The Press And The Advertiser

The relationship between the newspaper and its advertisers is as important to the newspaper reader as it is to the publisher. Newspapers are sometimes unfairly accused of being subservient to the advertisers who provide the revenue upon which the newspaper exists. This erroneous impression has been gathered because the average person knows that the newspaper must have advertising to exist, and therefore if he happens to be of a suspicious turn of mind, he concludes that the advertiser must set the policy of the newspaper.

Not only is such a suggestion untrue, but it is unfair both to the newspaper and to the advertiser. Practically every published will tell you that few merchants ever attempt to dictate the policy of the newspaper. They may express opposition to some stand the newspaper has taken, but few would go so far as to threaten the newspaper with withdrawal of business, if that policy was not changed to conform with wishes of the advertiser. The successful merchant is usually successful because he is an honourable man, and few would stoop to the level of threatening a newspaper because its publisher had different ideas on a given question than the advertiser.

The relationship between the advertiser and the newspaper is similar to that which exists between a merchant and his customer, only in this case the publisher is the merchant and the advertiser the customer. The advertiser purchases space in the newspaper because he has a story to tell the readers of the paper. He uses advertising as a legitimate means of drawing custom to his store. If the newspaper continues to provide the service required and adequate returns for the investment, the merchant continues to advertise. When he feels he is not getting that value he ceases to advertise. That too is the relationship which exists between any other merchant and his customer. So long as the customer feels he is getting good value and service from the store, he continues to be a customer. When value and service cease he takes his trade elsewhere.

That, very simply, is the relationship between the publisher and the advertiser. Any suggestion that the policy of the newspaper is dictated by the advertiser is a slander on both newspaper and merchant. Best proof that the advertisers do not dictate policy is the fact that it would be almost impossible to find a group of merchants in any community whose ideas could be so identical that he could formulate the policy of any newspaper.

Twenty-four hours after his appointment as Minister of State, with powers which observes say will make him virtual Deputy Prime Minister and Economic Dictator, Lord Beaverbrook in his "Daily Express" said editorially "Bunk merchants are at it again . . . among other fairy tales we read yesterday were: (1) The German Army is rotting in Holland; (2) There is mutiny among U Boat crews; (3) Russia is going to fight Germany. On the contrary, we have been licked in Norway, licked in France, Belgium and Holland; licked in Libya and licked in Greece. Believe nothing good in this war until you see it and until you earn it."

Father and Son
In Office 75 Years

On Monday evening at the regular communication of The Keith Lodge, A. F. & A. M., in Bear River, A. B. Marshall, the treasurer of the lodge, was "crowned" by his brethren as he entered on his 34th year in that office, succeeding his father, who had held the same office for 42 years a record which would be hard to excel in any society.

At this meeting officers for the year were installed by D. G. M., J. W. Merkel, of Digby, assisted by P. D. G. M., Hodgson and Aymar, as follows:

W. M. S. L. Kilmister
S. W. F. J. Payson
J. W. C. H. Woodman
Treas. A. B. Marshall
Sec'y. J. E. Langley
S. D. W. D. R. Cossaboom
J. D. C. B. Parker
H. G. E. Langley
H. S. R. McCarthy
J. S. E. B. Weir
Chap. Rev. A. W. L. Smith
Organist R. H. Purdy
Tyler M. A. Floyd
The presenting officer on this occasion was P. D. G. M., Kennedy, who is well along in his 30's and one of the officers listed above. George E. Langley—is in his 80th year.

Both of them are earnest Masons and regular attendants.

Salmon Plentiful at the Joggin

The little weir near the Joggin Bridge has boasted quite a record this year for salmon. Over twenty of the big fellows have been landed so far this season, ranging from six to twelve pounds. A few shad have also been taken. The market has been good for salmon; many of them going to Digby and vicinity.

Telling 'Em

"Keep to H--- Out. By order, E. Drew." We saw this emphatic sign (without the dashes) on a fence post at Lansdowne. Apparently Mr. Drew has been having trouble with trespassers. The sign reminds us in some ways of another we saw a few years ago (during the dirt road days) at Marshalltown, which read "I hereby forbid the Highway Board throwing stones in my front."

In the good old days the man who saved money was a miser. Now he's a wonder.

Attend Service

On Monday evening, May 5th, members of the Digby B. Y. P. U. motored to Bear River where they attended the Baptist District Meeting. The young people of Digby County had charge of the worship period, music being furnished by the Bear River Junior Choir. Miss Evelyn Porter, of the Digby Union rendered a solo, accompanied on the organ by Miss Muriel Small. Speaker for the evening was Lie. W. Randall, who delivered an inspiring message to the young people, urging them to always speak out against evil no matter what the cost might be.

Rev. Arthur Glendenning, of the Freeport Baptist Church pronounced the benediction.

Forest Fire Checked

What might have resulted in a damaging forest fire was checked on Sunday morning on Nelson's Point near Joggin. The fire was discovered about ten o'clock by Denis Theriault, who reported it to fire warden Banks, of Bear River.

A crowd of men was soon fighting the stubborn rush of flames, checking them after a hard fight. This stretch of woods had just been timbered, leaving a lot of brush, stumps and under growth which was a good fire trap. Some of the men had to keep watch all day. The origin of the fire is unknown.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Prudence McCaul

The death occurred at Victoria Beach on Friday last, of Mrs. Prudence McCaul, at the age of 86 years; widow of Benjamin McCaul, and a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ellis. She had been in failing health for some time, and had been a life-long resident of Victoria Beach. Leaving to mourn are: one son, Stanley, and two grandchildren, Mrs. Thelma Hayden and Guy Hamilton, all of Victoria Beach; the deceased having lived with the latter; also several great grand-children. The funeral was held from her home on Sunday, with service in the Baptist Church, conducted by Rev. Louis Mills. Hymns sung were: "Shall We Gather at the River", "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder", and a duet "Some Day the Silver Cord Will Break", by Mrs. Bertha Carty and Mrs. Orbin Everett. Burial was in Victoria Beach Cemetery.

E. Mervyn Oakes

The community of Bear River was saddened on Monday of last week, to learn of the sudden passing of Ellis Mervyn Oakes, who for the past five years has been Principal of Oakdene School. Mr. Oakes, who was 31 years of age, was a graduate of Acadia University, and was life president of his class. He had attended summer school at Toronto University for the past two summers, and was working to obtain the degree of B.A., Paed. His passing will long be felt as a distinct loss to the teaching profession. Beside possessing outstanding ability as a teacher, and showing keen interest in everything that pertained to the betterment of the school, he took an active part in community life. He was a member of Keith Lodge, A. F. & A. M.; the Bear River Board

Personality Parade

Another former errand-boy is a British Cabinet Minister. He is Herbert Morrison, who as Minister for Home Security also controls the police force. His father was a policeman. A great organizer, Mr. Morrison was chairman of the London County Council for some years, until he joined Mr. Churchill's Cabinet, last spring.

When distributing prizes recently at his old school, he confessed to the boys that he never won a prize at school. "The only things I received," he said, "was a certificate for religious knowledge, and I am bound to admit that it ought never to have been given to me."

Dying the last war, Herbert Morrison was a conscientious objector, and the story is told of him that after Compulsory Military Service passed the House of Commons a few months before the present war began, he dashed into the lobby bar of the House and said to the barmaid: "Give me a drink, quick, and may God forgive me, I've just voted for Conscription."

A bulwark of the British Labour Party for many years; he is no theorist, and he has no love for Communism. Blunt and direct, he "pulls no punches". When Birmingham was badly bombed, Morrison made two quick visits to the town. The first time he inspected the damage and looked over the civil defences; the second time he "fired" the local fire chief and his assistant, and replaced them with two men he brought with him from London.

In a Welsh village some 65 years ago, a 13-year-old boy stood up in school and defied the combined anger of his schoolmaster, an Anglican clergyman and the village squire.

The Anglican was doing a "spot of catechising", supported by the others, whereas the little Welsh boy was a resolute Nonconformist, as were all his schoolmates. Alone among his class, however, the rebel stood up resolutely for his principles.

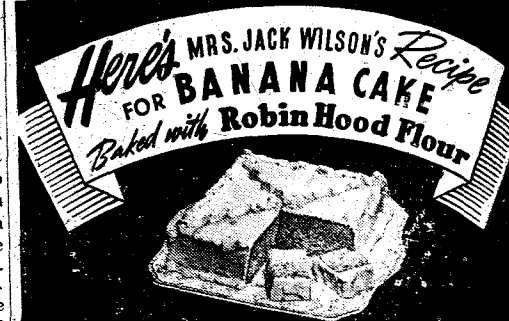

The small boy was David Lloyd George, Britain's brilliant Great War Premier, and this schoolroom encounter was the first of many bitter battles he was to wage.

Here's the story of a London man who earns a living by going round the city finding fault with everything. And it's quite true.

One day he went into a big tea shop and found that the shape of the teacups they used was clumsy. It was impossible to drink out of them without spilling the tea. So he wrote to the company about it and the cups were changed.

Upon another occasion (in pre-blackout days) he saw that a big sign in the West End of the city was not working properly. He told the company owning it that anyone standing on the other side of the street could not read it. It was changed.

It was a life-long habit with him. If ever he saw anything was wrong he used to write to the owner about it. When he fell out of a job, he

IF YOU want to give the family a special treat, this cake is the answer. To make it at its fluffiest and best, use Robin Hood Flour, the flour that gives the velvet texture to cakes and makes bread light and full of flavour. "I bake sixteen loaves of bread a week for my family—sometimes more," said Mrs. Jack Wilson of Stewiacke, N.S., "and I wouldn't have any other flour. It goes farther and there's never any doubt about results. I buy Robin Hood Flour in large quantities—then I'm always sure of having Robin Hood for my baking."

Banana Cake—4 small (or three large) bananas crushed, 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup butter or shortening, 1 egg, 2 cups Robin Hood Flour, 1 tsp. baking powder, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. soda, 1/2 cup sour milk.

Method—1. Cream shortening and sugar, add egg and mashed bananas. Beat until light. 2. Sift flour, measure, add baking powder and salt. 3. Beat until well mixed. 4. Dissolve soda in sour milk. 5. Add flour mixture alternately with milk to banana mixture. Stir gently to combine. 6. Pour into well-greased pan and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) about 40 minutes. 7. Cool and frost with maple or coffee flavoured butter icing.

Mrs. Jack Wilson—"I've used Robin Hood Flour for years—it's a great flour and you get more loaves out of the dough you set—which makes it very inexpensive to use."

Sincerely,

Evangelina

To Practise in Digby

The COURIER is now running a professional card for Dr. E. D. Dickie, who has opened a general medical practice in Digby. "Dud" as he is better known by his friends here, is occupying the office formerly occupied by Dr. G. V. Turnbull, D.D.S., now in the army dental corps.

We join with our readers in wishing young Dr. Dickie every success. Dudley is a son of Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Dickie, of this town, and a graduate of our local High School. After taking a year's course at Mount Allison University, Sackville, N. B., he studied medicine at Dalhousie University, Halifax, and served his internship at the Victoria General Hospital and Grace Maternity Hospital, Halifax, graduating this year.

ROSSWAY

Mrs. Stanley Doane, of Barrington, is visiting her son Warren Doane and Mrs. Doane.

Mrs. Marion McInnes has accepted a position in Bridgetown for the summer.

Loran Banks and Hallet Banks, of Yarmouth, spent Sunday at their home here.

Mrs. Loran Banks is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Rena Richards, in Digby.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Banks and Mrs. Fraser Handspiker, of Digby, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jared Banks.

Godfrey Crowell, Sydney McCollough, Frank Jeffrey, of Sandy Cove, called on friends in this village on Sunday.

Miss Reta Theriault left on Thursday of last week for Weymouth where she has accepted a position for the summer.

Near Death As Result of Accident

Sixty-three year old Thomas Saulnier, of Church Point, is near death at the home of his sister, suffering from severe injuries, sustained Sunday afternoon in a car-bicycle crash at Church Point. Unconscious since the time of the accident the victim is suffering from a hemorrhage of the brain, a severe shock, broken ankle and several body bruises. Little hope is held for his recovery. According to information, the victim was struck by a Digby bound vehicle operated by a Yarmouth soldier, who ran his car into the ditch. Several witnesses state the accident was unavoidable.

Listed as Missing

William Thibodeau, age 39, of Weymouth, is listed as "missing" as the result of the sinking of a freighter by enemy action. Thibodeau was a fireman on the ship. The name of the vessel and the location of the sinking are withheld.

Presbytery Meets

The annual session of the Annapolis Presbytery of the United Church of Canada was held at Berwick, on Tuesday. Every circuit was represented and the reports were very encouraging. The election of officers for the year resulted as follows:

President—Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson, Digby.

Secretary—Rev. A. R. Wallis, Auburn.

Treasurer—Rev. Austin Jardine, Kingston.

Lay Member of Executive—J. J. Wallis, Digby.

The conveners of the various standing committees of the Presbytery were named, and also the delegates to the Maritime Conference, which opens at Sackville on June 5. Those from the Digby church are Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Wallis, and from the Weymouth-Digby Neck circuit Blair E. Dakin.

Canning Crabmeat

Maine's infant crabmeat canning industry, which got underway on a fairly large scale at Stonington, last summer, should show a rapid growth during the coming season with a number of packers planning to produce the product. According to Sea and Shore Fisheries Commissioner Arthur R. Greenleaf crabmeat packing plants at Stonington, East Machias, Friendship and Rockland are expected to be in operation with the total production greatly accelerated. For the first time Maine packed crabmeat is now on sale in retail markets throughout the eastern part of the country and Greenleaf said that this was made possible through advertising and merchandising efforts of the Maine Development Commission.

In that crabs are found quite generally all along the coast, Greenleaf believes that the supply is sufficient to increase the pack many times and predicts that this new industry will add much to the value of the fisheries.

The Maine congressional delegation is endeavoring to get a duty on foreign crabmeat and if this goes through, it should be very helpful to Maine interests.

Greenleaf said that the Development Commission and his Department planned to boost the product through several promotional plans during the next few months.

Teacher: You all know what a mirror is for. Now, Jackie, where do you look if you want to know that you're clean?

Jackie: At the towel, Miss.

Women's Institutes Donate to Queen's Fund

In order to safeguard from theft, owners of livestock including horses, cattle, sheep and domestic fowl, the Nova Scotia government has recently passed an act to cover the regulation of branding of livestock by tattoo. Special brand and letters and numbers will be allotted to each breeder upon application and payment of a dollar fee for the registration of such brand for a period of five years. Theft of poultry, particularly, has been reported heavily in many parts of the province.

The act also includes detailed regulations for the renewal or transfer of brands and these records will be kept by the provincial animal husbandman and will be available at all times in case of loss or theft or otherwise of any class of tattooed animals.

With the exception of animals tattooed under instruction from the Canadian National live stock records, no person shall brand live stock except with a brand allotted as suggested above.

Using Brooders for Young Pigs

The use of chick brooders in the care of young pigs is becoming a very popular practice among hog producers in the province. At the agricultural college farm at Truro excellent use was made of a brooder by arranging several pens of young pigs in such a way as to give access from each pen to the brooder while separated from the other pens. Here is a note regarding a hog producer up in Cumberland county who has found the practice successful. D. E. MacPhee, agricultural representative in Cumberland, reports as follows: "While in Shunmugas I saw a nice litter of young pigs at Ray Moore's. He had the sow and litter in his chicken brooder house. He had it divided with the stove on one side and the pigs on the other. This made an ideal arrangement and gave plenty of heat for the young pigs."

Low Cost of Poultry Pooling

The annual report of Eastern Ontario poultry pools which market annually many of thousands of pounds of dressed poultry co-operatively for the Montreal market, shows that the total cost of the pool operations in 1940, was two cents lb. This covered pooling, grading and packing boxes, tags, wrappers and other containers, salesmen's commissions, reserve fund charge, and transportation to Montreal.

Do you know the difference between just "a topcoat" and a topcoat such as we sell? If you do—then you've probably been doing business with us. If you don't, there's a pleasant surprise in store for you. We've got topcoats here that do things for you—give you that good feeling of being well-dressed, well-fitted and well-styled. And all this good feeling needn't cost you any more than you're accustomed to pay. Drop in and see the new topcoats for Spring.

Increase in Bacon Prices

Nova Scotia hog producers will receive some encouragement from the announcement just made from Ottawa of an increase of $1.00 per 100 lbs. in the price to be paid for bacon under the existing agreement with the British Food Control.

The increased prices, effective on all grades raise the price for grade A No. 1, sizeable Wiltshire sides from $16.10 per 100 lbs. to $17.10.

The Clam Industry

The Maine Fisheries Association "interested in the improvement of the clam industry through legislation" submitted to Sea and Shore Fisheries Commissioner Arthur R. Greenleaf a program which it plans to sponsor at the present session of legislature. State control of the clam flats, an extensive propagation project and stricter licensing regulations of buyers were included in the proposals which secretary James Herrick of Orr's Island said had been favored by the Associations Clam Committee.

The Association made up of hundreds of fishermen and dealers from one end of the coast to the other was formed several months ago "in the interest of the industry." Other legislation is expected to be sponsored by the group but the fall program has not been announced as yet.

According to Herrick the committee believes that the state should have well defined control of the clam flats and that many of the 50 or more local and private laws are unnecessary and unfair. A propagation program in which 150 acres would be put under cultivation and financed jointly by the state and the various towns is favored and the association would like to see clam buyers licensed and bonded to protect the dealers from crooked operators. The bond would be set at $5,000 and resident buyers would pay a fee of $150 and non-residents $300.

The Life of Winston Churchill

--The Man Who'll Beat Hitler

(Part 8)

Following the enthusiastic Khaki Election of December 1918, when the Lloyd George "Coalition" Government was overwhelmingly supported, Winston Churchill found himself holding not just one Cabinet portfolio, but two! He was made War Minister and Minister for Air. The one-time critic had, indeed, come a long way.

When the Supreme War Council (representing the combined Allied Commands) approved help for the White Russians against the Bolsheviks, Winston Churchill reluctantly embarked on a campaign against the Bolsheviks, but once again he was "betrayed" by others, for the aid given by the Allied Commands was feeble, and when the campaign petered out, all Churchill had for his efforts to keep an argument made by others was the renewed enmity of the British Labour Party, which unfairly blamed him for initiating the campaign.

Minister for Colonies

In 1921 there was a shake-up in the Coalition Government to appease the Conservatives, and Winston Churchill became head of the Colonial Office. Here he distinguished himself by disposing of two thorny problems.

In the Middle East, the Arabs were discontented and their friend and spokesman, Lawrence of Arabia, was embezzled, because wartime pledges for Arab independence had been sidetracked. Writing later of the conferences initiated by Winston Churchill, which gave the Arabs a goodly share of their demands, Lawrence said: "Churchill in a few weeks made straight all the tangle, finding solutions; fulfilling, I think, our promises in letter and spirit without sacrificing any interests of the Empire or of the people concerned."

Winston Conciliates the Irish

The Irish problem, which had for many years sprawled heedlessly across the pages of British history, now became increasingly grave. To Winston Churchill fell the task of negotiating a settlement.

Many times it seemed that conflicting interests and fraying tempers would frustrate the conference, with infinite tact and patience, Mr. Churchill prevented a deadlock. Once he said to Arthur Griffith Irish leader: "I would like us to have beaten you beyond all question, and then to have given you freely all that we are giving you now."

In the face of bitter opposition, chiefly from Conservatives, he piloted the Treaty through the House of Commons. When peace was finally signed between Ireland and Britain, it brought no peace to Mr. Churchill, as for many months he had a Scotland Yard bodyguard always with him to prevent attack by disgruntled Sinn Feiners. It is related that when Viscount Gort, recently Britain's Commander-in-Chief, tried to see Winston Churchill in the House of Commons, the guard refused him entry because he "spoke with a suspicious brogue!"

Winston's "Waterloo"

Back in 1908, when Winston Churchill first stood for Dundee, one of his opponents was a financial teetotaller named Scrimgeour, who polled only a few hundred votes. In four succeeding elections through the years, Mr. Scrimgeour perseveringly but unsuccessfully opposed Mr. Churchill. In 1922 he became Winston's "Nemesis."

In that year, a Conservative Party revolt against the Coalition Government led to the latter's downfall and a general election. Winston Churchill again stood for Dundee, but was struck down by appendicitis and Mrs. Churchill electioneered for him. It was a bitter election, one of the rowdiest on record. The Socialists were out to get their revenge on Winston Churchill.

Just before polling day, Winston Churchill disregarded his doctors' orders and insisted on going to Dundee, pale, sick and suffering intensely, he tried to address a public meeting, but the audience, consisting largely of Socialists, jeered at him, howled him down and refused to permit him to speak.

There were four candidates for the two Dundee seats. Mr. Scrimgeour, Prohibitionist, led the poll, and Winston Churchill came last. But even in defeat, Mr. Churchill kept his sense of humor. The King had recently conferred the Companionship of Honor on him, and a young man asked Winston if the honor carried any title.

"No," he replied: "I am just plain Mr. Churchill, with no prefix, no suffix, with not even an appendix."

Waiting for Trouble

To help while away the long hours of watchfulness on Canada's Eastern seaboard, these members of a coastal defence battery indulge in a game of cribbage.

Building Wooden Ships

Predicting a "tremendous tonnage" of wooden ship construction during the next few years, the Maine Development Commission is rushing to completion a survey of all abandoned shipyards in that state, according to ward received recently.

Commission officials said they anticipated a far greater demand for wooden ships than was generally foreseen at present, and desired to get all available information on Maine's facilities for building wooden ships available for the United States Navy and private interests "at the earliest possible moment."

Everett F. Gration, commission executive-secretary, pointed out that mills throughout the country cannot keep up with the demand for materials for steel constructed ships and that "inevitably the country must turn to wooden construction, particularly for smaller craft."

Although contracts for 300 wooden ships ranging in size from 30 to 135 feet will be awarded before the end of the month, many to Maine builders, Gration said he believed that this is "only a very small part" of the "tremendous tonnage" that will be constructed during the next few years.

Vast Numbers Needed

He said that even if the war ended in the near future, the sinking of a vast number of ships by belligerent nations would necessitate the building of many craft as replacements to carry on world trade.

While shipyards in seven Maine communities are at present engaged in making wooden ships for the navy and as replacements for craft taken over for national defense, Gration pointed out that these yards "constitute a very small part" of the state's potential ship building capacity.

He said that from Kittery to Eastport "and also up and down the major rivers" that "well over 50 shipyards" that had produced ships for 25 to 50 years ago could be put in operation and would result in "a tremendous growth of industrial activity" in these areas.

He characterized Maine's shipyards as falling into three categories, namely, those that at present have contracts, those that are in operation and are in opposition to begin work on contracts at once and, finally, the great majority of yards that are not being operated at present but could be put into production if orders were forthcoming.

Wooden Freighters Too

While present wooden ships being built are for national defense, Gration predicted that cargo ships would be in demand in the near future.

"Time and again mankind has condemned wooden ships to the limbo of obsolescence only to turn to them once again in great emergencies. This was true in the last war and it is over," he said.

Gration said he believed that "in virtually every locality" where ships were formerly built that a number of old master shipbuilders were available who could train younger men in the vicinity and thus create new employment "in places where it is needed."

A renaissance of wooden shipbuilding "from one end of Maine to the other" would be reflected in a "very great demand" for lumber, particularly white oak, that would furnish further employment in Maine, Gration pointed out.

He urged owners and civic organizations in town where shipbuilding was once carried out to get in touch with commission officials so that no one would be overlooked "in the survey now taking place."

Only Reigning Queen Directs Empire

Only woman in the world who wears a crown as a reigning queen, is directing the destinies of an empire which is third largest in the world in point of population. This woman, who has served her kingdom longer than any living king, must direct the affairs of her people from a foreign land.

Queen Wilhelmina, of Holland, is numbered among the numerous royal refugees who have taken refuge in London. Driven out of Holland by the Nazi invasion, she continues to rule over the rest of the kingdom of The Netherlands. She is still the head of the vast rich territory of which the Dutch East Indies is a most important part.

The days of this 60-year-old woman in her very average and simple quarters in London, are busy. Her son-in-law, Crown Prince Bernhard, has a suite in her house, but her daughter, Princess Juliana, and her two small granddaughters are in Canada for the duration of the war. One of her greatest delights these days is the arrival of letters or cables from Juliana, for Wilhelmina's whole private life is devoted to the successor to the throne, and to the two babies, now in America.

Wilhelmina arrived in London, after her hurried departure from Holland with a jewel case and the clothes she wore. A very real attempt was made during the first day of the invasion of Holland by the Nazi troops to capture this indomitable woman. Her advisers insisted that she move into the palace in the Hague, where the army could give her better protection. Then followed two days during which she was constantly advised to seek safety in Britain.

On the third day her chief of staff insisted that she leave. But there was no time to pack, no time for anything but the most hurried of good-bys to friends and servants.

Hitler need have no hopes of making Wilhelmina back down on the firm stand she has taken. Nor need he expect her to abandon her belief that some day The Netherlands will again be free under her rule. Particularly dear to the hearts of American women was the incident which happened at the time of the marriage of Juliana to Prince Bernhard, a young German and one-time storm trooper. Hitler was greatly annoyed because Wilhelmina refused to fly the swastika at the marriage ceremony. Whereupon Wilhelmina sent Herr Hitler a brief note. It said:

"This is the marriage of my daughter to the man she loves, not the marriage of The Netherlands to Germany!"

BRIEF BACKGROUND IN THE CAREER OF WAR CAPTAIN

Air Commodore E. W. STEDMAN, O.B.E., A.R.C.Sc.

Air Commodore Ernest Walter Stedman, O.B.E., A.R.C.Sc., is Air Member for Aeronautical Engineering on Canada's Air Council, and had it not been for a broken oil feed line on a commercial aeroplane back in 1919, he might not be serving Canada in this key position.

Stedman was born in Malling, Kent, and took his early schooling in Maidstone. He comes of a family of doctors and army officers. His great uncle, General Sir Ernest Stedman, served for many years in India. But from grammar school days on, Ernest Stedman looked straight down a gun barrel line at his own future—he intended without doubts or diversity of interests to be an engineer. This single purpose remains to-day.

Stedman trained under the "Sandwich System" in England, taking jobs in shops and factories, going to school two afternoons and three evenings each week, moving from foundry to boiler and fitting shops and drawing sections. To-day all aircraft factories in England pick their draughtsmen and designers from this type of student apprentice. After four years, Stedman was awarded a Whitworth Exhibition Prize and Free Studentship in London. He took a B.A. cash prize and a Whitworth scholarship that brought him about £125 a year for three years, one of which he spent at City Guilds College, London, the other two on nominal salaries, gaining experience with industrial firms.

Stedman took his wife for an evening's entertainment to a "Conversazione" at the National Physical Laboratories at Teddington, an institution that corresponds to our National Research Council. Fascinated by observing experimental work in aeronautics, Stedman realized this was the engineering job of the future, and arranged immediately to join the Teddington staff with salary no object.

During World War One, Stedman as a commissioned Lieutenant attached to the Royal Naval Air Service, gave his country distinguished service. He began new types of craft, did test work with pilots on the first Handley-Page bombers during their development, and went to France with the first squadron as Station Engineer charged with keeping them in the air.

In 1918, in charge of No. 4 Aeroplane Repair Depot at Guines, the ancient "Field of Cloth of Gold," he was awarded the O. B. E. for organizing production and repair work under bad conditions and for keeping depots going in the open while they were subject to air raids.

A year after the Armistice, Stedman came to Canada accompanying Handley-Page's entry in the Daily Mail prize contest for the first West-to-East Atlantic flight. Flying from Newfoundland to New York, the plane developed a broken oil feed line and crashed at Parrsboro, Nova Scotia.

Stedman, who had not gone along on the flight was rushed to the scene of the mishap. It was there, during the months spent in making the repairs that Stedman came to realize what a natural "air country" Canada was, with its vast distances, its inaccessible north country and its limited population.

In 1920, he took Ottawa's Civil Service Commission examination for Technical Director of the Air Board, came out top, and when the R.C.A.F. evolved, was commissioned Wing Commander. From 1920 to 1935, he did the work he loves best — peacetime development of aircraft design and skill to advance commerce and develop new country. Air Commodore Stedman is an author of distinguished standing in aero-

A Pertinent Question

Mr. Harold Nicholson, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Information, said at a meeting in Leicester, England: "I had a friend called Colonel Lindberg. Before the war he said to me, 'you are a fine people, but getting soft.' After every bad raid I send him a postcard saying, 'Do you still think we are soft?' He doesn't answer these cards, but I like sending them."

Remember reading about a dog in New York which was arrested and charged with murdering a boy by dragging him under the water while he was swimming, the dog being sentenced to two years' imprisonment? The dog has been released after serving just half of its sentence, on the grounds of good behaviour.

We appear to be getting our April showers in May this year, although the rain we have had appears to be doing an immense amount of good. Early in the month farmers reported the soil in an exceptionally dry condition for the time of the year, and we were advised that "drives" on some of the lakes in the back country had been stopped in order to conserve water. At the time of writing we have not heard whether or not recent wet weather has made it possible to carry on these drives.

Extract from a letter just received from England: "John is home for a few days holiday from school. It was our night for fire watching and he and his father went out together. A Messerschmitt came down in front of them in flames. It hit a row of houses destroying them completely. It was rather terrifying for John but they found a woman in the first house. She had her baby prematurely. We long ago exhausted our supply of odd linen and spare blankets as our laundry was hit last week. We have had nothing returned for nearly a fortnight, that left us with just what bedclothes and linen were in use. You cannot imagine what a Godsend your Canadian baby packages are in emergencies of this kind. They are so well thought out and so complete. Are you packing them in Digby?"

Cancel Summer School

Because of insufficient living accommodation in Halifax, the summer school for teachers has been cancelled. In past years several hundred teachers from all over the province attended refresher courses at Dalhousie University. The usual course in agricultural education will be given at Truro, however. This course runs from July 14 to August 9. As the attendance at Truro must be restricted, those attending will be selected from the various parts of the province on the recommendations of the school inspectors.

OBITUARY

Albert E. Denton
The death of Albert E. Denton, Little River, occurred at the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax, Monday, May 12, at the age of 82 years. The late Mr. Denton underwent a major operation five weeks ago. He was a son of the late George Dakin, sr., and is survived by his wife, the former Rissa Frost, of Little River; two sons, William M. B. of Clementsport, and Hugh, of Musquodoboit Harbor. He was a member of the Little River United Baptist Church, and lived in Little River all his life, where he carried on the occupation of a fisherman, up until seven years ago. Funeral services took place at 2:30 yesterday afternoon, from the Little River Baptist Church, Rev. Arthur Glendinning, pastor of the Freeport Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in the Little River Baptist Cemetery.

BOARD OF TRADE

R. B. Murray, president of the Digby Board of Trade presided over a largely attended supper meeting of the Board, at the Waverly Hotel, last evening. In his opening address he urged co-operation in all matters pertaining to the war programme.

Secretary Kenneth Margeson stated he had already received a number from prospective tourists seeking information on the town. The matter of the Salvage was discussed at some length, and it was decided the Board would co-operate with the local Scout Troop in collecting salvage materials. In this connection the Transportation Committee was named to assist the Scouts, and Kenneth Margeson in his capacity of Scout Master and Secretary of the Digby Board of Trade, was named to arrange for the sale of salvage. All money raised through this means will be used to assist some war service cause.

It was decided to hold regular meetings of the Board on the second Tuesday of each month, the form of the meetings to be decided by the Committee on Sports and Entertainment.

Reporting for the Property Improvement Committee, G. W. Connell stated the Cannon Bank Park had been fertilized, seeded and rolled.

Every effort will be made by the Board for the success of "Clean Up Week." This matter brought about a lengthy discussion on "the Racquette Dump" recently closed by the Town Council, and apparently still much used by the townspeople. M. S. Leonard urged the Police Committee of the Town Council take stringent steps to stop dumping; H. A. Nichols and Mayor Theriault declared the town was doing all it could in the matter and could do little more without the wholehearted co-operation of the residents of that district, suggesting these residents lay information against offenders.

The Property Improvement Committee, comprising G. V. Connell, H. M. Warne and Victor Cardoza were instructed to investigate the matter and report their findings at the next meeting of the Board. The matter of the Government Information Booth on the Pier was again brought up, and expression made that this booth was poorly located. A resolution urging that it be moved to a more central location was passed.

The Digby Development Committee comprising G. V. Cardoza, H. M. Warne and A. L. Robinson were appointed to arrange for the Torch Day Ceremony in connection with the forthcoming Victory Loan Drive.

No action was taken in the half-holiday matter. The Sports and Entertainment Committee, with Frank Robinson was named to look into the matter of holding a sports day during the summer months.

Digby Boy Leads in Essay Contest

Peter Humpherson, Digby was heard on Friday over Radio Station CHSJ reading his first-prize-winning essay on "What I Can Do to Protect Our Forests." The Canadian-wide contest was organized by the Dominion Department of Mines and Resources and the New Brunswick Forestry Service, to enlist "teen-age" youth as guardians of the nation's foreign resources.

Peter is the 18-year-old son of Sergeant-Major and Mrs. H. S. Humpherson and is a student of Digby Academy. The grand winner for the Dominion will be heard at a later date over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Other winners of Radio Station CHSJ's section of the contest were: Miss Mary Bate, 5 Wall Street, Saint John; Miss Mabel Kierstead, Kingston, N. B.; Miss Iris Erwin, Kingston, an English guest who came to Canada last August; Miss Bernice Nisbet Bayswater; Robert Heatherington, 148 Rockland Road, Saint John; Miss Jean A. Wallace, Sussex; Miss Louise Graham, Westport, Digby Co., N. S.; Avery Stairs, St. Martins; Archie Harper, Westmorland County, N. B., and Floyd Graham, Hoyt. These winners will be awarded a year's subscription as members of the Canadian Forestry Association. Mr. Humpherson received a personal radio set as a prize.—Telegraph Journal, Saint John, N. B.

Shower Given At Westport

A miscellaneous shower was given Miss Ida Stanton, on Monday evening, at the church parlor, Westport, under the auspices of the Willing Workers Sewing Circle. The room was tastefully decorated for the occasion, a large white bell hung in the centre from which white streamers extended to a table on which was placed a beautiful wedding cake with miniature bride and groom standing under an arch, centered the cake.

A mock marriage was performed and games suitable for the occasion were played, under the leadership of Mrs. Cholerton.

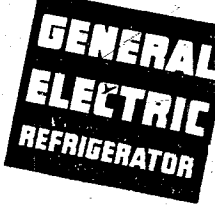

A napkin lunch was served at the close of the evening.

Mother's Day Observed

At the morning service at the United Church, the pastor, Rev. R. L. Roach, gave a very inspiring address, "Our Mother". A very high tribute was paid to the mothers of our land. The choir gave the anthem "Mother Dear". Mrs. R. L. Roach, soloist. The altar was banked in flowers. Special mention of lovely flowers placed there by Mrs. H. E. Harris, in memory of her mother; also Mrs. Allan Walker, of Taunton, Mass., in memory of her mother.

At the Advent Church on Sunday evening, a Mother's Day concert was given by the Sunday School scholars, to a full house, under the leadership of Miss Redicker. The concert consisted of music, recitations, exercises. An offering was taken for church work.

The Mother's Day service at the Baptist Church this year was very impressive and well attended. The musical selections, anthem and solo were beautifully rendered, and the profusion of flowers placed there in memory of Mrs. Chipman Harris and Mrs. Melbourne Rice, also the basket of roses which were a Mother's Day gift to Mrs. W. E. Miller, all lent a thoughtful, Christian dignity to the whole service.

Baptist District Meetings

The sessions of the Baptist District Meetings held here last week, proved both interesting and helpful, seven pastors attending, and presiding at the various meetings.

Reports were submitted from all the Digby County churches, and splendid resolutions passed.

Especially interesting was the opening session on Monday evening, when the several B. Y. P. U.'s united for the service, led by Lic. Randall, of the Clements district, and a junior choir furnished the music.

On Tuesday afternoon the W. M. S. of the Digby County churches, held an interesting session, presided over by Mrs. G. D. Brydon. Reports from all the Missionary Societies were read by Mrs. Glendenning, of Freeport, in the absence of Mrs. L. B. Small, County Secretary. The ladies' quartette of the Bear River W. M. S. rendered two selections, which added much to this programme.

Following this, a very interesting address was given by Rev. Mr. Cholerton, of Westport, in which he vividly described some years of his life in the Congo district of Africa. At the Tuesday evening session several matters of business were transacted, after which an inspiring address on "Stewardship of Time" was given by Rev. Mr. Glendenning, of Freeport.

The delegates and friends were all welcomed to the Bear River homes.

Chairman—Rev. W. E. Chol-

erton.
Vice-Chairman—Rev. B. R. Hamilton.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—they awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 100

OBITUARY

Mrs. Theresia Doucette

The death of Mrs. Theresia Doucette occurred at Corberrie, Digby County, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Madeline Gaudet, recently, at the age of 90 years. She was born at Salmon River, Yarmouth County, and was a daughter of the late Henry and Rose (Deveau) Deveau. She is survived by one daughter, with whom she resided; three sons, Albany Doucette, 71 Queen Street, Saint John; Peter, Malden, Mass.; and Henry, Norwood, Yarmouth Co., N. S.; also one brother, Simon Deveau, Yarmouth. Funeral services took place at Corberrie on Thursday last, Rev. Father Melanson officiating.

Mrs. Willie L. Comeau

The death occurred at Meteghan Centre, Tuesday morning, May 6, of Mrs. Willie L. Comeau, 69, of Little Brook

Station, who was found dead in her bed at her daughter's residence, Mrs. Edmund Thibodeau, where she had been living for sometime. Although she complained of illness the previous day, her death came as a sudden shock. Her maiden name was Edith Mallet, and she was the mother of eighteen children, of whom eleven are living: three sons and eight daughters: Luc and Mrs. E. Thibodeau (Frances) of Meteghan Centre; Dannie, of Halifax; Joseph and Mrs. Alfred Melanson (Eva) of Little Brook Station; Mrs. Vernon Everitt (Nancy) of Digby; Mrs. G. Lyon (Regina); Mrs. Edward Doucet (Elizabeth); Mrs. Mildred Shine, the Misses Theresia and Priscella, all of New York. The two last named came by plane from Montreal to Halifax for their mother's funeral. She also leaves fifteen grand children, one great grand child, one brother, and two sisters. Her husband predeceased her many years. Funeral service with High Mass of Requiem, took place from St. Mary's Church, Church Point, on Thursday, at 8 p. m., conducted by Rev. Father Castonguay, C.J.M., rector. The burial was in the Church Point Cemetery, with numerous floral tributes.

CANADA CALLS

Canada has reason to count her blessings in these days of trial.

Canada is three thousand miles away from the sound of guns which are devastating Europe.

The broad Atlantic Ocean rolls between us and the ruthless savagery of the German Armies.

The strongest fleets in the world—British, American and Canadian—patrol the sea between us and the enemy.

We have a great friendly nation, probably the richest and most powerful in the world, at our side.

CANADA CAN AFFORD HER SACRIFICES

This war is a mechanized war.

We have the nickel... copper... lead... zinc and other metals the war industries need. We have access to the iron. We can make the steel.

We have the organized industries to fabricate these metals and make the trucks, and tanks, and guns, and planes, and the ships.

We have skilled workers and the plants for mass production. Canada has the wheat and the food supplies.

Let us count our blessings, and tighten our belts.

Canada is rich—one of the richest countries per head of population in the world. Let us lend our strength to the utmost of our power. Our national future depends upon Victory.

We must win to live.

THERE WILL BE FURTHER CALLS

There have been many calls upon the people of this country for money since Canada entered the war at the side of Great Britain.

There will be further calls.

Let us face the future unafraid.

Canada can carry the load.

But every Canadian must shoulder his and her share.

This is the most critical hour in our history. Let the future historians say of Canada, as they will say of our Mother Country: "This was their finest hour."

About This and That

The Press And Propaganda

One of the ever present dangers in the publishing field is the possibility of becoming a propaganda agency for some group or cause. Editors guard carefully against this possibility, and their efforts to be fair sometimes incur displeasure of those whose propaganda they refuse to propagate. Of course there are two kinds of propaganda—good and bad. The word propaganda has been much abused in the past few years and to the man on the street propaganda now seems to mean exclusively that type of news sent out by the enemy to confuse and confound those who read it.

Propaganda is actually the method adopted for the propagation of doctrines and principles, either religious or secular. If there is such a thing as good propaganda the question naturally arises, why does the newspaper not become a propaganda agency for all propaganda that is good? As a matter of fact the newspaper does become such an agency in a broad sense, but not in just the way that some propagandists would have it. For instance, any religious sect might consider its propaganda good, and therefore entitled to space in the newspaper. An important factor is overlooked however, in this reasoning. Propaganda espoused and supported by a newspaper must be of a type generally benefitted to the community as a whole. It would not be fair or ethical to use the propaganda of one church, where there are perhaps half a dozen churches in the same community.

Then too, there is often confusion in the minds of many people as to what is news and what is propaganda. For instance, an item relating to an actual event which took place in a church, or a lodge, or a service club would be news. On the other hand an item which sought to impress the reader with the principles or the doctrine of the organization would be propaganda. In short propaganda is that type of news-matter which seeks to proselytize or convert the reader to one particular code of ethics, principles or doctrine.

The position of the newspaper is clear on this point. The newspaper is representative of the whole community, and while its editor or publisher might be an Anglican, Baptist, Presbyterian, United Churchman, or Roman Catholic, it would not be fair to give undue prominence to the doctrines of the sect to which he personally belongs. News is another matter. If more news comes from the United Church because it has more organizations, or because its press secretaries are more wide awake, then naturally that church would receive more space in the paper than the Anglican or Baptist if those churches were not so well organized or did not possess good press secretaries.

Weekly newspapers depend to a very large extent upon correspondents and press secretaries for news items, and this being the case it is timely to remind correspondents and secretaries that the newspaper is interested primarily in the news, and not in acting as an agency for the dissemination of their principles. This reasoning however, does not preclude the newspaper drawing attention to any special effort made by any organization or institution within the community.

To sum up the attitude of the press toward propaganda it should be clearly understood that the press is interested in the events concerning organizations, rather than the ethics or principles which attract one to membership in these groups.

The Things That Matter

Prime Minister Menzies, of Australia, "All I want to do is to say to myself as I have every man in public life all over the British world to say to himself day by day, 'Am I so utterly convinced that I must put everything I have into this task, that I will spare no effort that I will cover space with myself in order to have victory?'

I need not say to you, but I must say to myself, 'I repeat it to myself constantly that nothing else matters, except that we should win when this war is over, in a free world in the kind of world in which we want to live.'

What does it matter if we come out into that world bankrupt? What does it matter if we come out into that world with lower standards of material living than we have now? What does it matter if in that world the rich are not so rich? What does it matter in the last resort the business of statesmanship in that new world becomes the business of sharing a new world?

These things do not matter. The only thing that matters to free men is that the policies under which they live shall be the policies that they have themselves devised as the representatives of their own people."

OBITUARY

Mrs. Mary Foster

(Reprinted by request)

The death occurred at the home of her brother, Reginald Cosby, Bear River, Sunday evening, April 27, of Mrs. Mary (Cosby) Foster, widow of H. Foster, after a long illness due to paralysis. Mrs. Foster was born at Bear River, 66 years ago, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Cosby. She was twice married, her first husband being the late David Hicks, of Bridgetown, where she resided a number of years. Following his death she married Patterson Foster, of Port Lorne, where she lived until his death a year ago. Because of serious illness, she moved to Bear River to reside with her brother, Reginald Cosby. She is survived by one sister, (Annie) Mrs. Shepherd, of Bear River; and six brothers, Leonard, Hiram, Reginald, Howard, and Cleveland, all of Bear River; and George, of Boston, Mass. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon from her late home, conducted by Rev. G. D. Brydon, of the Baptist Church. Interment was in Mount Hope Cemetery.

Joseph P. Haynes

The death occurred at Victoria Beach, on Monday, May 5, of Joseph P. Haynes, at the age of 69. He had been in failing health for some time, but was only taken to his bed one week. He was the son of the late Joseph and Anna Haynes. He was twice married, his first wife was Miss Bertha Turner, of Hillsburn; his second wife was Miss Edith McNeill, of Karsdale, who predeceased him one year and nine months. He is survived by one son, Ralph, by the first marriage; and one brother, Charles, (he being the last surviving member of a family of fourteen), both of Victoria Beach. The funeral service was held from the Baptist Church on Wednesday, by the pastor, Rev. Louis Mills. Hymns sung were: "Face to Face," "Abide With Me" and a duet "Near to the Heart of God," by Mrs. Roy Casey and Mrs. Orbin Everitt. There were many floral tributes. Burial took place in the Victoria Beach Cemetery.

At the Capitol

At least eleven names of characterization from an "all-name" cast, headed by Norma Shearer and Robert Taylor, making the picturization of Ethel Vance's "Escape" an even more assured best-seller than was the novel.

With Miss Shearer as the Countess von Treck, world-weary head of a continental finishing school, and Robert Taylor as young American artist Mark Preysing, desperately seeking word of his mother, ex-actress Emmy Ritter, doomed to execution in a concentration camp, "Escape" becomes one of the most gripping romantic adventure stories ever brought to the screen. The Canadian destroyer Sagunay, which reached an English port under her own steam last December although she had been torpedoed somewhere in the Atlantic with a loss of 21 lives, is back in service again in the same area in which she was attacked. The Sagunay is well known here having visited the port in peace time.

V. O. Nurse Has Busy Month

One hundred and ninety-two visits were made by the local Victorian Order Nurse during the month of April, according to the report of Miss Steeves, staff nurse at Digby, at the monthly meeting of the branch Tuesday. Of these 115 were nursing visits.

Owing to unfavorable weather the well baby clinics were not as well attended during the past month, but 38 children were visited in their homes by the nurse.

Miss Steeves report also stated a number of children were excluded from school because of measles, whooping cough and colds. Seven children were given eye examinations by Dr. L. F. Dolron, and five of these fitted with glasses. Seven others had been previously fitted.

At this meeting Mrs. H. R. Bishop and Mrs. J. M. Wallis were named convenors for the annual June membership drive, and arrangements will shortly be made for collectors in each district of the town.

A Rummage Sale held recently, for the benefit of the Order, realized $27.20.

Scallop Season Closes Saturday

The scallop season for the Bay of Fundy area will close on Saturday of this week. The season, originally scheduled to close May 1, was extended until the 17th, by the Department of Fisheries.

On the whole, the season has been a fairly successful one. Catches, when weather conditions permitted dragging, were perhaps a little better than the average for the past few years. Prices, up until after the lenten season, were remarkably good. Since Easter there was a marked decline in prices.

As in the past, the bulk of the Digby catch was disposed of on the Boston markets, with New York taking a few. Markets in Upper Canada, which were tapped a few years ago, are taking a larger portion of the catch.

Heavy Winter Snows but no Spring Flood

One of the heaviest winter snowfalls in the province's history was experienced during the past winter, but all the snow disappeared during April without causing flood conditions. This was the striking feature of the weather report for April from the various weather stations. There was very little frost in the ground, generally speaking, and much of it went into the ground. Strange to say, however, reports came from several points, chiefly in the western part of the province, of dry conditions, wells being affected, and there being no sufficient moisture for food pasture conditions. Rains have already partially remedied this condition, and will probably continue to do so during May.

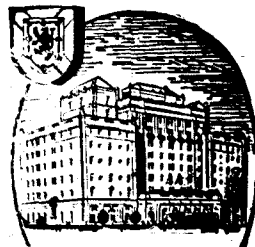

At Truro weather station during April the rainfall totalled 2.49 inches on seven days, mostly in the latter part of the month. This total was much under that of April, 1940, but is slightly over the 31-year average at Truro. Maximum temperature during the month at Truro was 66 degrees with nine days of over 50 degrees, and the minimum was 16 degrees with 13 days under 32 degrees.

Very warm weather was experienced during April at Kentville weather station on the experimental farm with a high point of 80 degrees on the 20th, and an average maximum temperature of 50.26 degrees. The lowest recorded temperature was 19 degrees on the 5th, with the average minimum at 31.33 degrees for the month. Total precipitation at Kentville station was 1.99 inches.

At Nappan experimental farm the weather report for April showed a total of 2.10 inches of precipitation on nine days. Maximum temperature for the month was 68 degrees on the 21st, and lowest was 16 degrees on the 7th.

Lime Movement is Growing

During the period April 22-30 inclusive, O. P. Mosher & Sons, Upper Musquodoboit, shipped by rail 21 cars of lime, or 677 tons, while the Eastern Lime Company, Windsor, shipped 450 tons during the last half of April. This gives some indication of the heavy movement by rail of lime at the present time for farm use. R.

When in Halifax stop at the "Nova Scotian", a modern fire-proof structure with the latest fire protective appliances. 170 splendidly appointed guest rooms, all with tub and shower, an unsurpassed outdoor serving sea-foods of the province as a specialty, and service of metropolitan standard. Hotel and railway station connected by arcade, eliminating taxi and baggage transfer charges.

Room from $3.50 per day. Ask any C.N.E. Agent for booklet or write Nova Scotian, Halifax, N.S.

A. LeBlanc, agricultural representative, Meteghan, reports 150 tons shipped into Digby County this spring already. During the first seven days of May, orders for rail shipment received by the N. S. department of agriculture, totalled 141 tons. Heavy snowfall this past winter and blocked roads prevented movement during the winter time, but once the roads opened up the movement both from local quarries and by rail became heavy.

Expect Larger Crop Planted

This movement gives some idea of the program of farmers this spring. Organizations, both agricultural societies and co-operative organizations, are taking a far bigger part in the movement of lime. While fertilizer sales are less than a year ago, due to higher prices, there is every indication that there will be a large crop put in this spring. Conditions in many parts of the Province are reported dry, particularly in the western end, affecting pastures. Rains have helped out in some districts. Seeding and planting operations are well under way in western districts. Some planting is reported from most parts of the province. The backward weather during April and the first few days of May has held back farm operations generally.

Opportunity for N. S. Poultrymen

There is every possibility for a strong market situation in poultry products, particularly eggs, during the coming summer and fall months, and Nova Scotia poultrymen should be prepared for this situation by stocking up with chicks to the fullest capacity of their housing and management facilities before the chick hatching season is over.

It is pointed out by Hon. John A. McDonald, minister of agriculture, that the recent announcements of heavy orders from Britain for Canadian eggs which are to be effective through the summer, will undoubtedly have an effect in strengthening the market situation for Nova Scotia eggs. Many times more eggs will be exported to Britain than ever before from this country, according to the Ottawa announcements.

C. E. Benoit, provincial poultry promoter, advises that all laying stock now on hand should be kept until housing is required by the pullets in the fall. Layers should be culled and unprofitable birds removed, but all layers giving a good account of themselves should be kept and given the best of care.

Kiwanis Club Sponsors Poultry Club

The junior poultry club of Bridgewater, organized under the junior farm club movement directed by the extension division of the Nova Scotia department of agriculture, is being sponsored this year by the Kiwanis club of Bridgewater, N. S. The club has a membership of 14 boys from the Bridgewater and LaHave districts. Each member of the club, whose sponsors are three members of the Kiwanis club have received 25 cockerels and 25 lbs. of feed at the outset of the season, and in the fall is expected to return three chickens to the Kiwanis members, keeping the balance. The club project will be directed by B. C. Knight, agricultural representative in the district.

New Leaflets on Trees and Lawns

Those planning improvement of home surroundings this season will obtain valuable information concerning the planting of young trees and the establishment of new lawns in pamphlets recently prepared by C. M. Collins provincial horticulturist, of the provincial department of agriculture, at Truro. Copies of these pamphlets may be obtained by applying to Mr. Collins.

Gardening in Wartime

Home gardens can be justified at all times, but during wartime assume a greatly increased importance. The Nova Scotia department of agriculture, through its extension workers, and the women's institutes of the province, is urging more and more home gardens this year in both rural and urban sections of the province. This is a means of increasing the production of home grown vegetables for home use, which is important in the conservation of the food resources of the province. Those who have a bit of a vegetable garden this season will be fortunate in not having to pay out cash for table vegetables that can easily be grown on a little plot at home. Full instructions about growing gardens can be obtained in pamphlets available in the Nova Scotia department of agriculture at Halifax or Truro.

Junior Club Essay Contest

Wm. Milligan, agricultural representative for Victoria County, held an essay competition this year to obtain ideas from club members as to the choice of location for a club field day. Last year the club field day was held at the National Park, Ingonish. This year many are asking for to go to Louisbourg, the other places include Margaree, Iona, Whycocomagh, The Alexander, Graham Bell Estate and Sydney. Some twelve clubs responded and sent in 71 essays. Many local leaders only sent in the best. The essay competition aroused a great deal of interest and indicates the prominent place which this annual field day has in the junior club work. The winners were as follows, prizes being given locally: 1st—Mabel MacAulay, Baddeck Bay, $3.00; 2nd—Mabel E. MacRae, Baddeck Bridge, $2.50; 3rd—Eileen MacRae, Baddeck Bridge, $2.00; 4th—Gordon MacDonald, Plaster, North Shore, $2.00. All prizes were

Another 100,000 lb. Cow

Breeders and owners of purebred dairy cows have something to talk about when any cow in their herd reaches a lifetime production of 100,000 lbs. of milk. One outstanding Nova Scotia Guernsey cow has just completed a nine-year record which totals a production of 101,053 lbs. of milk, and 4577 lbs. of butterfat. The cow is Princess Mae, a purebred Guernsey owned by the Oakfield Estate at Oakfield, N. S., the cow having completed in 1940 her ninth year of R. O. P. record by producing 17,024 lbs. milk, 788 lbs. fat in 365 days. The cow started out as a 2-year old in 1930, in which year she produced 8644 lbs. milk, and 397 lbs. butterfat in 305-day test. The cow was not under test in 1932, but in all other years intervening has improved her production until the record year of 1940. The cow's grand sire on her sire's side was Falcon's Fisherman, a bull imported from the U. S. A. by the Clarence, N. S., agricultural society, and sire of many noted producers in the herds of V. B. and E. S. Leonard. The breeding on her dam's side runs back to the herds of G. M. Magee, of Berwick, and the late Howard Corning, of Yarmouth.

DIGESTION IMPROVED Complexion Cleared Up

Happy Woman's Story

Everyone who is subject to any form of indigestion should know of this woman's experiences. Advice from one who has had such severe attacks is advice worth having. She writes:

"I suffered from indigestion, gastritis and constipation, and was so very ill, I had (on medical advice) to live on soda biscuits and milk for three months. Well, a friend advised me to take Kruschen, and now I am pleased to say I am greatly improved. I can eat and enjoy a good meal without any painful after-effects, my skin is clearer—in fact, quite clear—and there is no sign of constipation. I would advise anyone suffering the same to take Kruschen."

(Mrs.) M. R. L. The immediate effect of the several salts in Kruschen is to stimulate your liver and kidneys to normal action and help to free your system of poisonous waste matter. Soon after you start on Kruschen you will find that you are able to enjoy your food without distressing after-effects.

The Life of Winston Churchill --The Man Who'll Beat Hitler

Defeated at Dundee, Winston Churchill was out of Parliament again, but it was not in his nature to be idle. He began to write "The World Crisis," that stupendous and authoritative history of the First Great War, which is still regarded as the best history of that war.

The following year, there was a General Election and Winston contested West Leicester, still labelling himself a Liberal. He was again defeated, but the tide was soon to turn—for England's modern St. George was to find a new dragon in the form of the Socialists, his old enemy.

The Liberal leader, Mr. Asquith, decided to put a minority Labour government in power, and Mr. Churchill parted company with his old friends and party. Once again he was a man without a party.

Defeat That Was a Victory
Early in 1924, at the invitation of a group of influential Conservatives, Winston Churchill stood for the Abbey division of Westminster as a Constitutional candidate, pledged to fight Socialism. Opposed to him were a Liberal, a Socialist, and the official Conservative.

With but eight days left before election day, and having no organization behind him, Winston Churchill put up a tremendous fight. He lost—but by only 43 votes. It was a defeat, but for Mr. Churchill a moral victory—and its moral was not lost on Stanley Baldwin the Conservative leader.

Becomes Conservative Member

In the following November, when Mr. Baldwin formed his second Conservative government, Winston Churchill was offered the prize plum of the Cabinet—he became Chancellor of the Exchequer. This electrified the country, for Mr. Churchill had not at that time joined the Conservative party. Perhaps, as a columnist said at the time, Baldwin remembered the old country adage that "an old poacher made the best gamekeeper."

The partnership between Baldwin and Churchill was unusual. In temperament and outlook, they were miles apart. Baldwin was a man of peace; Churchill a fighter, Winston believed in action, while Baldwin had a firm conviction that events would shape themselves if they were left well alone! History records its own verdict on these two eminent British statesmen, for to Mr. Churchill is left the gigantic task of undoing some of Mr. Baldwin's "sins of omission."

Friend of the People

In his first budget, Winston Churchill was able to announce further great strides of social reform, principally the Widows, Orphans and Contributory and Old Age Pensions plan.

Yet Philip Snowden, former Chancellor in the Labour government of Ramsay MacDonald, jeered at his adversary, and twitted Churchill with changing his mind.

"To improve is to change," riposted Mr. Churchill. To be perfect is to have changed often!

General Strike

The catastrophic General Strike burst on the country in 1926, arising from the dispute in the coal industry. Employers wanted a reduction of wages or increased hours. The coal miners solemnly swore, "Not a penny off the pay nor a minute on the day."

Winston Churchill offered a subsidy to the owners while negotiations were proceeding, but these proved abortive, and Lord Binkfield, Winston's great friend said acidly: "It would be possible to say without exaggeration of the miners' leaders that they were the stupidest men in England, if we had not frequent occasion to meet the owners, too!"

The General Strike began. Volunteers kept the essential services going, but Winston Churchill realized that, without newspapers, rumors would be widespread and cause trouble, so he organized the British Gazette, which made journalistic history. When the strike was broken, the Socialists rallied at the British Gazette and its founder, Churchill. They declared that it had been partisan—violently anti-Labour.

Churchill cheerfully admitted

Brigadier E. L. M. Burns, O.B.E., M.C. Brigadier General Staff of Canadian Corp in England

ed the thrust, adding "How can I be expected to be impartial as between the fire brigade and the fire?" To another Labour critic who said the paper was a "rag," he retorted: "Well, I hope it has sickened the newspapers!"

CAREY RECALLS OLD TIMES

(By "Ye Junior Ed.")

It was a real treat to see Carey Nichols on Monday of this week. Carey, with his wife, daughter, and father-in-law, have been spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. Thomas Franklin, Acaciaville. He is living in Rockport, Mass., now, but many, especially those who belonged to the "younger set" of fifteen years ago, remember Carey well. In those days he was in the wood business and used to "back" it in his comfortable little camp at the foot of the Acacia Valley hill. He always had many visitors. Before and after the summer holidays many of the pupils of the Acaciaville school used to make it a point to eat their lunches at the camp, and on week ends and holidays Carey's camp was a favorite haunt of many of the Digby school boys, especially during cherry time and the trouting season.

I remember my first contact with Carey. Another chap (I forget who) and I went out to pick cherries (they grow wild in Acacia Valley) — and we were getting along nicely, but when Carey came along to order us out of the trees, we thought "our game was up." However, he merely told us where to get bigger and better fruit.

After that I was a frequent visitor at the camp—often for a week or so at a time, and on Monday, when Carey asked if I had eaten muskrat recently I recalled one of the highlights of those visits. It happened that Ned Darling (an American cousin) and I were spending a week at the camp. Carey was "working out" during the day time and we "kept house." We were down at the brook and killed a muskrat. One of us suggested we cook it and tell Carey it was a rabbit. We did.

When Carey came home for supper we had a real feed spread for him. He told us he had already eaten his supper; we coaxed him to have some of our "rabbit" — coaxed so hard that we had to eat it to convince him that it was "rabbit." But, in some way we have never been able to learn, Carey knew the difference, and after we finished supper he suggested that if we went to the barn we might get some mice for dessert!

Nevertheless, I will say I have tasted more civilized foods that could not compare with that muskrat. It really had a good flavor—but it was tough!

The chemical content of the water is what does the harm to the plates of a battery. Water may look clear and feel soft, but that is no excuse for using it in a battery. Be sure only properly distilled water is used.

Uncover Old "Structure" Near Little River

Possibly one of the oldest "structures" in Nova Scotia, has been unearthed near Little River, on Digby Neck. To say the least, it is probably centuries old, and one is perhaps perfectly safe in saying, thousands of years old—it was not made by man, but by the industrious beaver!

The discovery of a beaver dam—its logs still in almost perfect condition—was made recently by Everett Bolivar, while making excavation at the Diatomaceous Earth Mine, situated on Digby Neck, between Little River and Tiddville. The dam was found under a deposit of ten feet of earth. Because of the slow formation of Diatomaceous deposits, Mr. Bolivar believes it to be of great antiquity.

This earth, found in several parts of the province, is used chiefly for installation purposes. The Digby Neck mine is one of the largest commercial deposits in the province. The substance, of which this earth is composed, is said to be made up of millions of minute shells of a tiny marine animal.

Warning Against Mailing Cigarette-Lighter Fluid

Despite the recent caution given against including inflammable substances in the mails, Hon. Wm. P. Mulock, K. C., Postmaster General, states that this dangerous and illegal practice is still continuing. Although the Canadian Postal Corps authorities report that the recent warning against enclosing matches in soldiers' parcels has evidently had the desired effect, cigarette-lighter fluid is still being mailed in considerable quantities, and on one single day this month, eight tins, which had been listed on the accompanying Customs Declaration forms, were removed from parcels at the Base Post Office, Ottawa.

The public are advised that cigarette-lighter fluid must not be sent through the mails. The danger of doing so, especially under war time conditions must be apparent, for should this substance ignite, it might cause great loss to the mails or postal premises, and if in transit, to the mail train or the ship; as well as injury to postal employees. Some weeks ago attention was directed to the fire hazard, caused by matches which ignited in a parcel already sorted into a mail bag at the Base Post Office.

Postal Regulations prohibit the mailing of any inflammable, explosive, dangerous or destructive substance or liquid, or any matter, etc., likely to injure any letter or other mailable matter, or the person of any officer or servant of the Post Office. Public co-operation is solicited in helping the Canadian Postal Corps safeguard the mails.

MARRIAGE

Lynch - Morse

Of international interest was the wedding Friday afternoon, last, at 4.30, at Victoria, B. C., of Miss Mary Richmond Morse, West Roxbury, Mass., to Sub-Lieut. George Richard Kimberley Lynch, R.C.N.V.R., H.M.C.S. Naden, Esquimalt, B. C. only son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. G. Lynch, Digby. The bride arrived only Wednesday afternoon from Boston. The ceremony was performed by Capt. the Rev. Arthur Bischoffberger, naval chaplain, at St. Barnabas Church, which had been decorated with garlands of green and white printed silk with three quarter length sleeves, gored skirt, V-neck, and jacket with large pearl buttons, wide brimmed hat of brown straw, with veil and brown accessories. Her corsage was of Talisman roses and gardenias. Her only attendant was Miss Barbara Sellers, of Winnipeg, who wore a jacket frock of sea foam green and white print, white accessories, and a corsage bouquet of roses. Surgeon-Lieut. Walter C. MacKenzie, R.C.N.V.R., was best man. After the ceremony, an informal reception was held at 2981 Poul Bay Road, where the groom has been living. Flowers were massed throughout the rooms, and refreshments were served in the dining room from a table centred with the two-tiered wedding cake, flanked with pale pink tapers and pink and white flowers. The bride cut the cake with her husband's sword, as the traditional toast was honored. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Rogers, Miss Margaret Whitelaw and Miss Helen Wright, of Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stairs and Mrs. Phyllis Stairs of Halifax. After a honeymoon in Vancouver and up-island, the young couple will reside at Cherry Bank, Victoria. The bride donned a smart reefer coat of yellow cashmere over her wedding ensemble.

SUCCESSFUL DOOR TO DOOR CANVASS

The Girl Guides Committee had a most successful door-to-door cookie and doughnut sale on Saturday, realizing $40.00. This was the first of what is hoped to be an annual sale. Ninety dozen doughnuts and about 80 dozen cookies were sold, all of which were made locally. The committee are very grateful to those who so willingly donated ingredients and those who so generously gave orders.

A southern miss, after spending the week-end riding a merry-go-round, married the proprietor. The dizzy thing!

Berlin Bossing All of Europe

Takes 14 Nations With 170,000,000 People Since March of 1938

From the Mediterranean to the Baltic, from the frontiers of soviet Russia to the English Channel, the armies of Germany and the steel-fisted diplomats of Berlin have gained in just three years domination of a million square miles of continental Europe.

Since Austria was annexed to the reich, in March 1938, Germany has gained control—by the sword or diplomacy—of all of Europe. Even the few nations which have escaped Nazi wrath have literally saved their skins by complete co-operation with Adolf Hitler and his regime.

Great Britain, at war against Germany, and Ireland, still neutral, stand badly battered but still unbeaten.

Nazis Dominate Millions

The Nazis of Germany, numbering some 80,000,000, today dominate more than 170,000,000 people in the 14 nations which they have occupied. The area of Europe under the swastika is equal in size to all of the United States east of the Mississippi River, plus portions of Kansas and Missouri. Still not actually occupied by the Nazis, but nevertheless submitting to Germany's wishes in trade and diplomacy, are the southern half of France and the countries of Sweden, Spain, Portugal, and Switzerland.

Ironically enough, even fascist Italy, the axis partner and war mate of Germany, is reputedly under Nazi domination. Huge numbers of German troops are in Italy, and Rome often sends her generals and diplomats on trips to Berlin, for Italy has met little but disaster in this war—in Africa and in Greece and on the sea—and Berlin is taking no chances on a broken link in the chain of conquests of the dictators.

New Lines in Europe

By military conquest Germany has taken over France, Poland, Norway, Holland, Belgium, Yugoslavia, and Greece. By diplomatic conquest the Nazis gained domination of Austria, Hungary, Rumania, the affairs of Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Denmark, and Luxembourg.

Sweden, still free, has placed all of its foreign trade at the disposal of Germany. Gen. Francisco Franco, dictator of Spain, is a close friend of Berlin and has not yet been called upon to take part in the war only because Spain has not yet recovered from its own civil war. Switzerland is too small and too unimportant economically to what Nazi appetites, and little Portugal has maintained a precarious neutrality.

There are both assets and liabilities in the huge conquests which Germany has made since the spring of 1938.

Of prime military importance is the fact that Great Britain and its erstwhile allies have been driven from the continent of Europe.

From conquered nations, and from those who obey the orders of Berlin in order to avert invasion, Germany is reaping a harvest of food, oil, fuel, raw materials, and other essentials. Conquered nations have been stripped of their wealth to fill Nazi war coffers, and beaten peoples have been taken into Germany to work long hours on farms and in factories.

By mastery of other countries, also Germany has been able to fortify the coasts of Europe against attack from the oceans, and in them the Nazis have been able to establish strong air and naval bases from which to carry on the war against the British empire.

Dangers in Conquests

But Germany, at the same time, risks many dangers.

Sabotage and espionage are rife in beaten countries. Bands of guerrilla warriors still snipe at the invaders in half a dozen lands. A huge portion of the German army has had to be diverted to police duty in occupied territory to prevent uprisings.

Conquered Europe is hungry and thirsting for revenge. A serious defeat for Germany in any theatre of war might well be the signal for conquered nations to rise up and attempt to throw off the Nazi yoke.

Famine and poverty can drive people to desperation and to acts of insane fury. And conquered Europe today is hungry, because war has destroyed the crops and the Nazis have looted and pillaged and carried the booty to the people of the reich.

Russia Great Puzzle

Russia, against whose borders the conquering Germans have pressed, is the great puzzle of the war. Hitler could not invade Poland until he had a treaty of friendship with Russia, but in the nearly two years of conflict that have followed signing of that treaty all the soviet union has obtained, has been domination of Finland, Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania, and a slice of the former republic of Poland.

Before he arose to power Adolf Hitler bluntly declared that Germany needed the rich Ukraine, the bread-basket of Europe which Russia possesses.

Russia spoke feebly in opposition to German conquest of the Balkans, which the soviet union once regarded as its own sphere of influence, and Russia today has vast armies protecting its western borders. Some day Russia, feeling itself menaced, may step in and attempt to stop the Nazi steam-roller moving eastward across the Old

Frank Ross Wood Dies In France

After surviving a torpedo attack in Mid-Atlantic, and a subsequent sojourn in a German Prison Camp, Frank Ross Wood, died recently in Marseilles, France, according to word received by his sister, Mrs. Corey O'Dell, in Canning.

A veteran of the First Great War, Wood was doing his bit in this second struggle by working aboard a merchant ship plying between New York and England. Last June his ship was torpedoed off France. After spending several days in a lifeboat, he and his companions were landed in the Nazi controlled country.

A letter smuggled out to his sister two months later told of many hardships he experienced as a German prisoner of war.

No further word was heard from him until the letter telling of his death arrived last week. The message had been written by a Presbyterian minister in France to a minister of the same faith in Scotland, who forwarded the letter to Nova Scotia.

The cause of his death was not given.

Mrs. Wood and daughter, Theima Wood, reside in Digby.

World.

Finally, Germany dare not stop now, despite its gains.

For one thing, the war is not yet won. All of the conquered nations have governments of their own, either in their capitals or in London, and a triumphant Great Britain will provide the leadership for overthrow of the Nazi masters of the European mainland. Therefore, to hold his gains, Adolf Hitler must crush Britain and its empire.

MARRIAGES

White - Comeau
On Tuesday, May 6, a pretty wedding took place in St. Croix Church, Plympton, when Lauracy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Comeau, of Barton, became the bride of Chester White of Gilbert's Cove. The bride was dressed in blue and they were attended by the groom's brother and sister, Charles and Muriel White. After the ceremony a reception was given in their honor, at Gilbert's Cove, and in the evening, a dance at Plympton. Mr. and Mrs. White are living in Centrelia, Annapolis County.

Thompson - Stanton
A quiet but pretty wedding took place in the West End Baptist parsonage, Halifax, on Wednesday evening, May 14, when Rev. Gordon Vincent united in marriage Miss Ida Alberta Stanton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Stanton, of Central Grove, and Darrell Rupert Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thompson, of Westport. The bride was dressed in dusty rose with black accessories. The wedding was attended by several friends. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside in Halifax, where Mr. Thompson is employed.

Melanson - Dugas
At the Sacred Heart Church, Saulnierville, Tuesday morning of last week, Rev. Father J. Doucet, C. J. M., pastor, united in marriage Benoit Melanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denis Melanson, of Concession, Clare, to Miss Modest Dugas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dugas, of Saulnierville Station. Miss Estelle Melanson, sister of the groom, attended the bride, and Norman Dugas, brother of the bride, was best man. After the Nuptial High Mass, breakfast was served to relatives and friends at the home of the groom's parents, and a well-prepared dinner was given by the bride's grandparents. In the evening a supper and reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, attended by many guests. At a shower previous to the wedding, the couple received many gifts.

ding, the couple received many gifts.

Titus - McKinnon
The marriage of Helen Jane, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. McKinnon, of Smiths Cove, to Pie, Gordon Douglas Titus, R.C.A.S.C., Debert, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Titus, of Yarmouth, took place at the bride's home, on Saturday evening, May 10, at 8.30 o'clock. Rev. B. R. Hamilton, of Deep Brook, officiated at the ceremony. The bride wore a light blue ensemble and carried a bouquet of carnations. She was given in marriage by her father, and was attended by her sister, Miss Mildred G. McKinnon, who wore pale pink and carried a bouquet of flowers. Russell Brooks was groomsmen. Invited guests and relatives were present and a reception was held after the ceremony.

FREEPORT

Pie, Gerald Stoddard, Saint John, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Stoddard, of Westport. The bride was dressed in dusty rose with black accessories. The wedding was attended by several friends. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside in Halifax, where Mr. Thompson is employed.

Edward Weir, of Dalhousie University, Halifax, spent a few days with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Weir, recently. The Sewing Circle met at the home of Mrs. A. Glendenning, on Monday evening. Refreshments were served by the hostess. A number of delegates of the Baptist Sunday School, attended the Sunday School Convention held at the Christian Church, Westport, on Friday afternoon and evening. Freeport Lodge, No. 65, A. F. & A. M., installed their officers on Thursday evening, May 15. D. D. G. M. James Merkel, of Digby, and staff attended. Refreshments consisting of lobster chowder, doughnuts and coffee were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Dixon Sabean and son have moved from Digby to Weymouth. They are residing in the Charles Sabean house.

While "pole-vaulting" at school, Clarence Melanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Melanson, fell, breaking his right wrist. The accident occurred on Friday, and was immediately treated by the doctor.

Members of the Weymouth Rebekah Lodge attended the District Meeting, held in Digby, on Wednesday of last week. Mr. Harold Blackadar and Mrs. Vaughn Warner attending in the afternoon. The Memorial Service, in the evening, was conducted by this lodge.

METEGHAN

Mr. and Mrs. Elot Comeau, of St. Martin de Clare, have moved to Barrio, where Mr. Comeau is employed.

Fenelon LeBlanc, of Amherst, was on his annual visit to Clare last week, repairing sewing machines.

M. H. MacAloney, ship inspector, of Parrsboro, was in the shipyard last Friday, inspecting vessels.

Rev. Sister Noella, Principal of the High School, spent the week end with her mother and brother, Rev. Father J. D. Robichaud, pastor at Quinlan. School Inspector D'Entremont, was here Wednesday, at the High School, and he presided at two teachers' Institutes, on Thursday at Church Point and on Friday at St. Anne du Ruisseau.

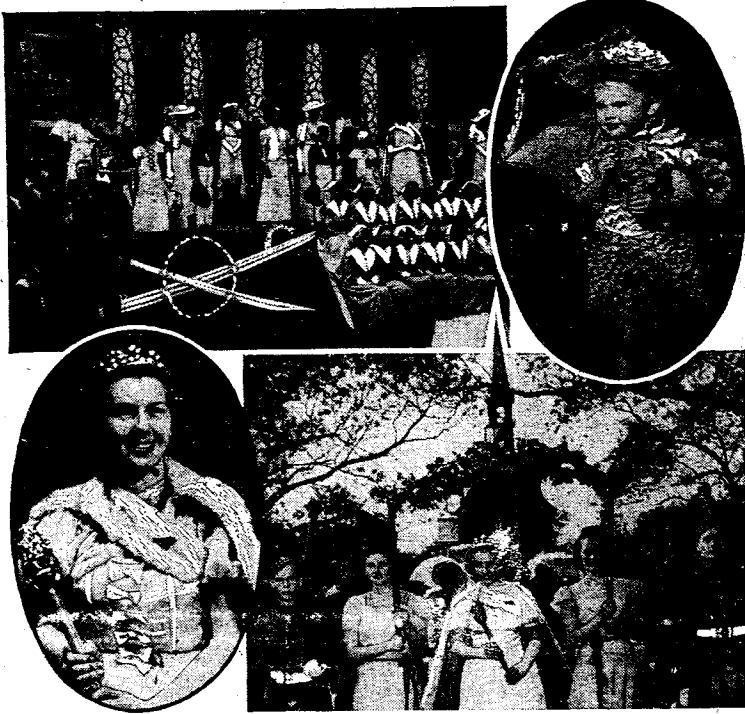

A. B. D. Gandy, Saint John; E. Comeau, Digby; E. C. Phelan, Sussex; and E. C. Blanchard, Halifax, were registered at the Royal Hotel, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Saulnier who were married last Thursday, at Saint John, arrived on Saturday to spend their honeymoon with Mr. Saulnier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Saulnier, returning on Monday. A reception was given them Saturday evening, when they received many nice gifts.

L. T. Blais, president of the firm of Louis T. Blais, Quebec, was here last week, looking after the interest of his company in the repair of the vessel Dennie R., No. 16, in the Shipbuilding yard. A new engine has been installed and a new pilot house is under construction. The following vessels which have been repaired and left the shipbuilding yard and dry dock lately, are the Madawaska, for Bay Chaleur; Sewanika, Luebec, Maine; Sadie L., Freeport; Archaraya, for Halifax. Two new vessels are under construction and a few others under repair.

Bing Cosby, who has never permitted photographers or visitors near his California estate, will throw open the house and grounds next month, for the annual benefit tea of a mothers' club.

Annapolis Valley Apple Blossom Festival

There will be a decidedly military atmosphere at this year's Apple Blossom Festival in Nova Scotia's Annapolis Valley and all proceeds will be turned over to the Queen's Fund for the relief of bomb victims in England. June 6 to 9 are the dates set this year for the colorful festival which annually serves as the opening of the tourist season in Nova Scotia. There will be splendid bloom at this time. Flowers and music and gay costumes are always the highlights of the celebration of the return of the blossoms to the Annapolis Valley, which extends all the way from Digby on Annapolis Basin to Windsor on the tidewater of Minas Basin, blanketing the valleys of the Annapolis and Cornwallis and many lesser streams. Composed of thousands of orchards, it is, as a unit, the greatest and most famous orchard in the British Empire as well as the old est in North America. When the blooms are at their best in late May or early June, the valley for more than 100 miles is extraordinary for its fragrant beauty. The festival is really a personal celebration for all the residents of the valley who unite in colorful parades, historic pageants and the revival of old customs. All of the district's towns are represented by Princesses from whom the festival Queen is chosen. Highlights of this year's celebration will be the annual Festival Ball in the Cornwallis Hotel, which opens the festival on Friday, June 6; the coronation of the Festival Queen and the blossom parade on Saturday; the military church parade and memorial service in nearby Evangeline Park on Sunday; and the celebration of the King's Birthday with full military honors on Monday. The Shrine of Evangeline, with its ancient willows, the picturesque old well and the church described in Longfellow's epic romance, is always of interest to the many visitors who come from Eastern Canada and the United States. Apple Blossom Week in Annapolis Valley is a sure sign that vacation time is here again. Shortly afterward the Canadian Pacific Railway's summer hotels in the Maritimes start their summer season, opening dates this year being: The Pines at Digby, N.S., and Lakeside Inn at Yarmouth, N.S., on June 27 and the Algonquin Hotel at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, N.B., on June 28. The pictures above show: Top left, scene at the crowning of the Blossom Queen; top right, a pretty Annapolis Valley lassie in her Blossom Parade costume; a close-up of last year's Queen, lower left, and the Queen and her Court leaving Evangeline Park at Grand Pre, lower right.

Egg Grading Short Courses

Demand for trained egg graders at various points in the province, due to enlistments for active service having removed some of the graders, and due to the fact that there are likely to be an increase in egg stations, has led to the decision to hold an egg grading and poultry short course at the Agricultural College at Truro, June 10 to 27. The course will be held under the joint auspices of the federal department of labor, and the Nova Scotia and dominion departments of agriculture. The number of students for this course will be limited to 24, but will be open to both young men and young women. It is desired that a number of young women be trained in this work, because of the difficulty of obtaining young men due to military training. Financial assistance will be given to those between the ages of 16 and 30, who meet the general requirements for this assistance. Older students may attend, but will not be eligible for this assistance. Some instruction will also be given in the handling of poultry.

Improvement in Butter Price Situation

As has been anticipated, the fixing of a minimum price for butter by Ottawa authorities, as announced the past week, on the wholesale basis of 29½ cents lb. for Montreal solids, with an added half cent per month through to September, inclusive, has established a very definite improvement in the butter price situation in Nova Scotia over that existing for the past ten years or so.

Although the fixed minimum may be a shade lower than what might have been expected in some quarters, the minimum established will provide Nova Scotia dairymen with a price level for butterfat of seven to nine cents more than the prices which prevailed during the summer and early fall months of last year. The minimum price 29½ cts. for Montreal solids for the month of May, will mean a minimum wholesale price in Halifax of 31½ cents lb. or better, with the added half cent each month to the end of September. On May 9 of last year, the actual wholesale price of butter in Halifax was 26 cts., and it averaged about 25 cents for the entire month. The quotations for wholesale butter in Halifax during the past week were 31½ cents, which is approximately the level of the minimum price now established for the month of May. It must be remembered that this is the minimum price and that it is quite possible that marketing conditions will be such that the price will be even higher than the minimum set for each month. That is something which can only be determined as time goes on, but the dairy farmers are at least assured of a price that under ordinary conditions should give them a fair margin over the costs of production.

Butter Production Already Increased

Anticipating the better price situation, and already enjoying through April better prices than had prevailed since the year 1929, Nova Scotia dairymen stepped up production during April, with the result that the production of creamery butter for that month showed an increase of 11.2 per cent over April of 1940. The total production for the month was 418,108 lbs. compared with 376,065 lbs. in April, 1940. Total production for the first four months of this year has been 1,495,434 lbs. compared with 1,440,212 lbs. in the same period of 1940, an increase of 3.8 per cent. The average wholesale price No. 1 butter at Montreal during April was 31.9 cts., which was the highest average price for April recorded since 1929.

Fertilized Pasture Big Advantage

In the meantime, agricultural workers throughout the province, under the direction of the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture, are conveying to dairy farmers information and advice as how best to bring about greater production from their dairy herds at the least possible cost.

This means specific attention to feeding, since in a short-time programme this is the only means of getting increase in production.

Fertilized pasture is one means of providing cheap feed throughout the summer and fall. More pasture is being fertilized in Nova Scotia this year than perhaps has ever been undertaken before. With well-managed fertilized pasture, dairy farmers can often feed their herds on pasture for as much as six months. In a number of farming sections herds have been seen out on fertilized pasture this spring as early as May 12. This is at least ten days earlier than is normal in the province. This, with another ten days added on to the end of the normal season in the fall, means a very substantial saving to the farmer in feeds of higher cost.

Early cutting of hay, and the matter of providing supplementary feeds is also being urged upon the farmers. A new pamphlet on producing hay of higher feeding value has recently been issued by the Nova Scotia department, written by Kenneth Cox, provincial agronomist, who sets forth the importance of grass and clover crops in Nova Scotia, which, apart from pasture, provide the cheapest feed in Nova Scotia. In this pamphlet also grain crops are dealt with. In another small pamphlet recently issued by the department, the subject of emergency pasture when grass fails, is dealt with, showing how green feeds will help to maintain the milk flow.

Sale of Dairy Stock

Outstanding Nova Scotia dairy herds have always been an attractive source for the supply of stock for herds in other provinces and parts of the United States. Recently a number of sales have been made, and during the past week one of the largest of these was recorded, 100 head from various parts of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, one carload alone coming from Yarmouth Co., and other selections being made from herds in Annapolis, Kings and Colchester counties. This stock is going to herds near Toronto.

While it is gratifying to have this class of market available for Nova Scotia dairy stock, dairy farmers are urged not to allow their good stock to pass out of their hands at present, unless at top prices. The improvement in the dairy situation in the province is sufficient reason for maintaining herds at the best possible maximum, and stock should only be sold off when owners are satisfied that they are getting the best price possible, and that they are otherwise warranted in making the sale.

Sale of Lime Growing

Liming of farm soils is proceeding fairly satisfactorily and orders for lime are substantial. Orders received at the offices of the Department of Agriculture for rail shipment during the first two weeks of May totalled 1042 tons, bringing the total for rail shipment since April 1 to 3117 tons. O. P. Masher & Sons, Upper Musquodoboit, since April 22, have been shipping three and four cars each working day.

Heavy rains the past week or so have delayed seeding but have been beneficial in starting pastures and on the hay fields. In the extreme western part of the province seeding is about completed, and some seeding has been done in most other sections, but the aggregate is small thus far.

Junior Club Camps Again Planned

The usual summer camps for selected groups of junior farm club members will be held in the province this year. The boys' camp will be held at Truro, July 3 and 4, with registration on the evening of July 2. Two girls' club camps will be held, one at the Sunshine Kiwanis camp at Yarmouth, July 3 and 4, and the other at Truro, July 9 and 10, with registration on the previous evening in each case.

Application for registration at these camps must be received by the Director of Extension at Truro, not later than June 23, for the boys' camp at Truro, and the girls' camp at Yarmouth, and before June 30 for the girls' camp at Truro.

The Benefits of Grading

A practical demonstration of the value of standardized grading of agricultural products, and incidentally of the value educational campaigns among the farmers in this respect, is provided in the case of some military contracts, states H. Bartheaux, Dominion fruit and vegetable inspector at Sydney. The Cheticamp Co-operative of North Inverness county, reports Mr. Bartheaux, had contracts for potatoes for a certain military establishment. They received these contracts because they were in a position to make immediate delivery of well-graded stock certified to be Canada No. 1 grade. In August, 1940, this co-operative sold the equivalent of three carloads of new potatoes at a comparatively satisfactory price and in competition with the best potato growing districts in the Maritimes. This was only possible, says Mr. Bartheaux, because of a well-organized effort in standardized grading through the medium of the co-operative. Promotion work among the farmers in North Inverness is in charge of Wm. Lefert, agricultural representative of the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture.

The Strongest Weapon

Why does Greece prove stronger than Yugo-Slavia? The answer is clear: Greece possessed that mightiest weapon, a weapon often overlooked by military experts when they are sizing up the military capacity of certain nations—the weapon of national unity, of community of purpose. Little Greece had that weapon Yugo-Slavia did not have it. Little Serbia once had it but she lost it when she was replaced by the larger and more populous Yugo-Slavia. In the whole course of its existence, the new nation of Yugo-Slavia did not have that unity, that common purpose so indispensable in peace and war.

QUEEN'S CANADIAN FUND

A donation of $5.00 for the Queen's Canadian Fund, was handed to the editor of the Digby Courier yesterday, by the Ea-Gi (Earn and Give) Club of Grace United Church.

This Club, founded thirteen years ago, is composed of the younger married and single women of the congregation of Grace United Church. A few weeks ago the same organization purchased a war savings certificate for the M. & M. drive of the church.

As their name implies, their objective is to earn money for church purposes, and since their organization, this club has done much in that way. In addition to several substantial cash donations, they had new lights installed in the church building a few years ago; they have installed a modern kitchen range in the church hall kitchen; made contributions toward sending C. G. I. T. girls to summer camps, and in addition have financed other work and fixtures of the church property. The club meets every Friday evening, at homes of its members.

On Tuesday afternoon a special meeting of the Executive of the War Service Club was held in the Town Hall, to discuss ways and means of assisting the Queen's Canadian Fund. Victor G. Cardozo was named a committee of one to assist this fund. It was further suggested that organizations and societies in the town co-operate by holding teas, dances and other entertainments for this worthy cause.

A Nottingham schoolmaster told his class that anyone who forgot his gas-mask would get the strap. "But what if you forget yours?" asked one boy. The master agreed to take his medicine if he failed to carry out his own order. Next day the master forgot his own gas-mask and the boy stood on a chair to wield the strap. The ghosts of many schoolboys, past and present, will cheer loudly.

SCOTT'S SCRAP

By R. J. SCOTT

Growing Toll of Britain's Churches

Official figures of the damage done by Nazi bombers to Church property in England and Wales comes on the heels of the affirmation of the Hitler creed in a home broadcast to German youth.

"This," the announcer declared, "is the Creed of our time: We believe in Hitler. And what of the old Creeds? The scriptures are dead. We need no fairy-tales to-day. Believing, we entrust our destiny to our 'Führer'."

As a practical contribution to the Nazi point of view, their bombers have now destroyed or damaged 2,659 churches of all denominations in England and Wales, apart from vicarages, convents, church halls and manses. Among the 714 which have been completely destroyed or seriously damaged, are the cathedrals of Coventry, Llandaff and St. Paul's (although the main fabric of the latter remains untouched). Westminster Abbey, Westminster Cathedral, and the Deanery of Canterbury have all scars to show the meaning of "kultur". No fewer than 108 vicarages, 304 church halls, 236 church schools, and 36 convents have all been wrecked.

The fact that this Nazi attitude to Christianity is not shared by all who live within the Reich may be inferred from much bigger attendances reported at Catholic and Protestant Churches and the increasing sale of the Bible to Germans, other than Nazis. It has gone up from 830,000 in 1930 to 1,525,000 last year.

Danvers

This Auxiliary was organized on June 8, 1940, and since that time the following articles have been knitted from wool, supplied from Red Cross headquarters at Halifax, and passed into the Weymouth Branch:—15 helmets, 75 pairs mittens, 9 sweaters, 4 pairs wristlets, 83 pairs socks, 11 scarves, 17 tuck-ins and 12 face cloths from twine purchased locally. They have also tried to do their part in clothing and quilts for air raid victims in England, and through the unflinching generosity of the people in the community and surrounding places, they have been able to purchase large quantities of supplies for this work. They wish to thank every one who has helped in any way, financially or otherwise.

To date the following articles have been completed and passed in to the Weymouth Branch:—1 wool blanket, 14 quilts, 14 baby dresses, 29 children's dresses and bloomers, 6 adult dresses, 12 slips, 3 baby nightgowns, 5 children's nightgowns, 1 adult gown, 3 dozen diapers, 4 skirts and 4 knitted sweaters, 2 romper suits, 6 pairs mittens, 6 pairs long stockings, 10 boy's suits, 6 pairs overalls, 6 boy's jersey sweaters.

FISHING INDUSTRY MAKES SACRIFICES

Famed in American literature for its heroic exploits on the high seas, the fishing fleet of Gloucester, Mass., is doing its part in the national emergency, even to sacrificing the interests of the fishing industry in the effort.

Fishermen who have made the name and legends of the city that is most readily identified with salt-water fishing in the United States are being called for active duty in the naval reserve, and several of the fastest vessels of the fleet have been commandeered by the navy as mine-sweepers.

Sacrifices to the fishing industry have curtailed further inroads on the fleet, for it was argued that if more ships were taken the fleet would be sorely crippled, thus affecting related packing and canning industries. Already there is an estimated loss of $250,000 on the industry's pay-roll.

The things that affect fishing in Gloucester are bound to reverberate in the vicinity where more than half the fleet's catch is processed. Local business men and union officials protested that the industry would be severely crippled if more boats were taken, as planned. Nineteen of Gloucester's largest craft were ear-marked for purchase by the navy.

Congress at first proposed to grant loans to the industry to buy replacement vessels, but it was pointed out that no orders could be filled because the shipbuilders were busy on preferential government work already. As a result, the navy altered its program to launch a national project to provide for mine-sweepers to be built. Nearly 60 of the needed vessels are being built at nearby Ipswich and Essex shipyards, which have supplied the Gloucester fleet for more than two centuries. If the shortage becomes acute, however, it is possible that more ships may be requisitioned from the fishing fleet to serve Uncle Sam.

Five Hundred Flies—All Different

After a dead spell, England's famous export trade in fishing tackle revives.

In a shop a stone's throw from famous St. James's Palace, London, are five hundred varieties of fly. They range from the drab Dun group, of which there are 24 variants, to brilliant pieces of exquisite workmanship such as the Claret Quill and gaudy Ibis. Trout now sporting themselves in the lakes of Ontario and British Columbia will in the near future rise and snap this bait.

Before the war something like 1,500,000 flies alone were shipped to sportsmen the world over, chiefly to Canada, New Zealand, the United States and Argentina. The flies shown in St. James's are for Canada. They form a collection to delight the heart of any knowledgeable fisherman, minute ambassadors for British craftsmanship.

DEATH

Chisholm—On May 20, 1941, James T. Chisholm, of Digby, in his 81st year. Burial at Windsor, N. S. 36:11c

"You seem very quiet to-night, Roland," said the pretty girl. "Are you—are you sure you love me?"

"Love you!" Roland exclaimed. "Good Heavens, Rhoda, when we were saying goodbye at the gate last night your dog bit a piece out of my leg, and I didn't even notice it till I got home!"

After the tiff Mary calmed down a little.

"But how can you love me, Joe?" she asked. "Here the doctor says I must have a course of slimming, and you refuse to let me."

"My darling," he replied, "I love you so much that I can't bear to lose an ounce of you."

Mighty Lion Counts On You

This mighty British lion, proud symbol of an unconquerable race, is pictured here superimposed on a background of factories whose belches of smoke chide a symphony of determination to rid the world of Nazi lust. Truly a tribute to Canadian industry whose factories produce these planes and ships and guns—the tools of war—this design won first prize in a Canadian-wide contest for posters for use in the coming Victory Loan campaign. The design was the creation of A. J. Casson, well-known Canadian commercial artist, and as a result Mr. Casson will receive his prize, a one thousand dollar Victory Bond, at the hands of His Excellency the Governor-General. When reproduced in striking colors of gold and scarlet, the design will appear on bill-boards in every city and town in the Dominion, a reminder to the nation to support the loan so that the tools may be supplied to smash the German hordes.

Parks and Such Things

To the Editor of the Courier: Dear Sir:—It seems to me that two or three interesting matters should be brought to the attention of the people of Digby.

First—our town park. This term "town park" may be a misnomer, but by it I refer to that portion of the field known as the "cannon bank" that was so generously donated, with the trees, by the company that owned it, to be made into a park. It is that lovely lot, tract, or parcel of land that every tourist, globe trotter, labourer, or other kind of person sees to the north of him as he passes from the mouth of Jew Cove to the head of the long wharf, or vice versa.

Many people never look at the park, but such as do, probably wonder what its all about. Just now, and probably for years to come, it is bounded on the north by piles of lumber which completely cut off all views in that direction of which many ends stick out over the park fence, so necessary has it become that not only the air over the rest of the cannon bank be turned into a public nuisance for all the folks living on Maiden Lane, but that the air over our public park be gobbled up for a like purpose.

But that is the least of our park's drawbacks.

The park is intended to offer rest and refreshment to the seashore traveller, who has just crossed the Bay of Fundy, to that great desideratum of the Digbyite, the summer tourist and to the odd citizen who is odd enough to seek for refreshment within its boundaries.

It offers many things—an expanse of lovely green sward, on which the weary one may throw himself, and rest in the shade of the pines, to rise refreshed, and shake off the fragments of wizard sheep manure, that are apt to be clinging to his clothes, before he goes out again into civilization—two or three rows of trees, not yet large enough to offer shade to even a jack-rabbit, nor ever likely to be large enough, such evidences do they show of a coming early death—three great letters "D. A. R." done in whitened stones, which while they add nothing to the park's beauty, cause the tourist to wonder, till he learns that we have a dinky little railroad, all of Nova Scotia's own.

The views of the south and east are unsurpassed, however. There one sees Jew Cove, and to skyscrapers, dinky engines of the dinky railroad puffing back and forth the eye filling red square of the Maritime National Fish Corporation, Syda's Fish Market, two or three garages, one of them with enough paint on it to advertise the Admiral Beatty Hotel, two or three other shacks, and the government pier, loaded with automobiles, surrounded by various motor boats amid which the Princess Helene sits like a hen amongst a brood of mangy chickens, and an occasional glimpse of blue water, obtained through the open spaces between the buildings.

Why the park was ever put there, the Lord only knows, for the explanations of its locators are vague enough, but there it is, and from it the seeker after beauty, may see what I've described, and then return to hell, Hull, or Halifax, and see much the same sights over again.

We must, however, admit that there is one spot in the park from which a splendid view may be obtained—and its north-east corner. Here is space for perhaps a hundred tourists to cram themselves, like sardines in a tin (but what tourist desires to be a sardine?) and look abroad over the blue basin, towards Annapolis, Granville and Digby Gut, that is, if our enterprising doesn't find it necessary to raise a number of piles of lumber along the shore, in which case the tourist may be permitted to climb to the top of a lumber pile, before getting his scenery.

Why under the sun the park wasn't put along the seaward bank of the cannon field, is an unexplained mystery. The D. A. R. would probably have given the land (if it's theirs, anyway, for with the old guns that were once there, it should, like all fortifications, have been ordinance land, and belonged to the government of Canada) and a park a hundred feet wide, along the edge of the bank, would, at the same expense that has been used on the present site, have long ago been a delight to every summer visitor, and of inestimable benefit to every citizen of Digby.

Now, it's too late, and for years to come our approach to Digby will be marred by piles of lumber, to be criticized by everyone who enters or leaves the town, and to be spoken of with shame and disgust by every citizen who really cares for his native village.

I'd like to deal with this lumber racket, but haven't time. Suffice it is that the second John Russell confidently looks forward to an era of persecution, when such piles of lumber will be put in front of his house that he'll have to climb to the ridgepole of the house in order to get a glimpse of the Basin. Then, when he's seen up there, it may be deemed necessary to heighten the piles, till even polaris, the surveyors, and mariner's cynosure, becomes hidden, and vengeance be satisfied.

Lesser Hitlers, adore the greatest Hitler, one named Adolph, so such a remark as "If that fellow had wrote those things in Germany, he'd of been in a consecration camp by now", is very significant of like states of mind.

I wanted, Mr. Editor, to write of town streets and town dumps, but shall have to wait till another time.

Yours truly,
John Russell.
Digby, May 20, 1941.

A man in the United States, well-known for his help to people in trouble, for which he derives a yearly stipend of over $187,500 through broad-casting, has been unable to settle his own matrimonial difficulties! He has now applied to a court to end his own matrimonial troubles with three wives of his own, former and present. A prophet is without honour, . . . !

The C. C. F. argued that under our present system of interest bearing bonds, farmers, the fighting forces and the low wage group are unable to subscribe. They form seventy per cent of the population, and after the war this seventy per cent will be forced to assist in paying interest to the other thirty per cent of more fortunate people. For this reason all loans should be interest-free.

Mrs. Neilson, the lone woman member, declared that the budget was not based on ability to pay, but on ability to take, on the part of the government.

There was a clash when Dr. Bruce, of Toronto, advocated that immediate steps be taken to make available by a "national selective process" the men necessary to bring our armed forces up to strength, because voluntary recruiting had reached the stage where it was slow, cumbersome and wasteful. Colonel Ralston, who only the night before had issued his appeal for 32,000 men, immediately replied that there was nothing more likely to interfere with this appeal than a measure such as this, and regretted that such a dissonant note should be interjected into our national unity. He pointed out that neither Australia, New Zealand nor South Africa had anything of the kind, and that we were not proposing to raise money by means of conscription, even though the raising of it by voluntary methods was slow and cumbersome.

On Tuesday the Budget Resolutions were introduced. The Excise Act, covering the increase in liquor taxes did not take very long although Mr. Hanson asked a number of questions and suggested that care should be taken to see that these taxes had reached the point beyond which they could not safely go without the danger of bootlegging and ill-cit manufacture.

Income Tax matters, however, occupied the rest of the week and had to be carried over. In reply to inquiries the Minister said that he had heard from every province except Ontario, on the question of provincial taxes and that these provinces were now exploring their position, with a disposition to accept the government's offer. Mr. Hanson pointed out that the municipalities, too, were being called upon to sacrifice their income taxes and that they should be protected and some guarantee given them that the province would pass on a fair share of the compensation.

The three provisions to which there was greatest objection were the National Defence Tax, exemption for the guest children, or lack of it, and the increased tax on non-resident held Canadian securities.

Mr. Hanson said he could not agree to the national defence tax being applied to such low incomes, and he had a good deal of support. The Minister did not think it was good enough to say that you were opposed without offering some other means of raising the money that would be involved. He said there could of course be increased indirect taxes, but these would fall heavily on agriculture, which should not be taxed at the present time, and would be much more unfair all round.

Complaint because only those guest children who have come to Canada under co-operative schemes can be claimed for deduction purposes by their foster-parents came from all sides. One Toronto Member, however, pointed out that a great many Old Country people who did not earn enough to pay tax had been keeping the children of their relatives and friends at home, without any thought of Government assistance. He felt that if provision was to be made, for those in better cir-circumstances, something should be done for these people too. The Minister pointed out that exemption had never been allowed under our laws for Canadian children, who are cared for by persons other than their parents, and that deductions were not permitted for private charities. He felt we should proceed on the principle that exemption is not allowed where the matter is one of private charity rather than the discharge of a legal duty.

CONTRIBUTES TO QUEEN'S FUND

At its regular meeting last Friday night, the B. Y. P. U. decided to contribute $5.00 to the Queen's Fund, to assist those who have been made homeless as a result of air raids in Britain.

The Union plans to hold a picnic on Friday, May 30, to mark the closing of the B. Y. P. U. for the summer months. Members of the Bear River and Hill Grove Unions, and Y. P. S. of the United Church, have been invited to attend this picnic.

About This and That

The Functions Of An Editor

The title "editor" is sometimes misunderstood by newspaper readers, not because they want to misunderstand but because they have never been told just what the functions are of the person who holds this title. An editor, to explain it briefly, is one who superintends, revises or prepares literary matter for publication. The title does not necessarily mean that the policy of the newspaper is set or controlled by the editor. On large newspapers there are many editors, and policy is usually decided upon by the managing editor. The duties of the other editors, city, sport, suburban, women's page and others, is simply to carry out the duties prescribed in their particular spheres.

For our purpose, however, we must deal with the editor in a little different light, because in fully 90% of Canada's weekly newspapers, the editor is also the publisher. In other words he fills the dual role of preparing literary matter for publication, and of deciding upon policy as well. We want to deal with the functions of an editor from this standpoint.

Essentially the editor is a human being, writing and dealing with men, women and children. He may be young or old, lazy or energetic, bold or timid, superficial or deep, querulous or constructive, slovenly or business-like, grasping or generous. He is certain to be human. He reacts to praise and criticism, to good and evil in much the same way as those who share community life with him. The editor, and this is true of 99% of all weekly editors, recognizes the inherent decency of the countryside. He is still sufficiently old-fashioned to believe with his readers that the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule have neither been repealed, improved upon or modified by modern advances.

The editor is a student of community affairs. He has at his disposal records of public organizations in the community, and it is from his study of these records that he makes his editorial comment. He is not easily swayed by the hysterics which sway, and excite and mislead city people. Like the people he serves he uses good commonsense in his reasoning. The editors of Canada's weekly newspapers, serving the rural areas, are a great power than most people suspect, for it is a political fact that more members of the House of Commons and more members of Provincial Legislatures are elected from the rural areas than from the cities.

It is the editor who decides what is fit and what is not fit to print. It is he who differentiates between news and propaganda. It is he who can if he will, give the leadership that every energetic community must have. He is not hard to get along with, but he has a code of ethics which often causes him to refuse business rather than accept it against well grounded principles. He is not a super-human. He is a hard-working individual doing an important job in the community to the best of his ability, and if at times he fails in his task, it must be remembered that he is like every other human being in the community, heir to the frailties with which all mankind is endowed.

Recently we heard laments that Digby has not benefited by any war industries. Our Board of Trade, our Town Council, and individuals have tried in vain to bring such industries, or some military activity, to Digby and vicinity; but, from an industrial and military point of view, Digby is much the same to-day as it was before the war. In spite of this, however, Digby has one important "war industry" and that is the tourist trade. It is almost as important in these days to bring American dollars to Canada as it is to build aeroplanes. The question of the hour is "What is Digby doing to develop that tourist trade?" For years our town has boasted of being the leading summer resort in Canada, but, in spite of this boast you and I can see this trade slipping from us. At the last meeting of the Digby Board of Trade, Mr. Fritz Dakin asserted this town had never done anything in the way of advertising. He admitted that, on occasions sums of one or two hundred dollars have been voted to get out a folder or for space in some publication, nevertheless, in view of the fact that Digby has an $800,000 tourist investment, that amount was NOTHING. Mr. Dakin is absolutely right. The results that can be obtained by an investment of one or two hundred dollars to advertise an $800,000 industry are nothing or next to nothing. It is almost too late to plan a real advertising campaign this year, but, if the Board of Trade wants to do a real service to Digby and to Canada, they should begin NOW to plan and raise money for next year's advertising, and nothing under $2,000 should be considered as an objective to launch this campaign. We would further suggest this campaign not be handled by any local committee, but by an established advertising agency. These firms know their business they know where and how to put ideas across. Their business is placing advertising where it will do the most good. We have stated there is little we can do to advantage in the way of advertising for this season, but we can do something by inviting as many people as we possibly can to spend their summer vacations in Digby and vicinity.

"Ma," whimpered little Tommy, "do I have to wash my face again before dinner?"

"Certainly, dear."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

RAINY WEATHER PICTURES

Don't worry about rain—just seize the picture chances that it creates. Indoors and out. Try indoor shots such as this, using your photo lights to brighten up the shadow side of the subject.

RAINY weather brings its own picture opportunities, and there's no need to fold up your camera and tuck it away when the water comes showering down. Rather, you should have the camera out and keep it doubly busy. Rain brings you reflections on the wet streets—a misty quality in the air that lends interest to scenes about town—and a chance for many human-interest shots. Pictures of people hurrying along under umbrellas—window-shopping in streaming raincoats—these are interesting additions to the album simply because they're so rare.

Rain also brings you many an interesting "detail" shot—such as the spouting gutter-spout, or the wet umbrella and overshoots in the hall, in a small puddle of their own making. Such snaps can be both interesting and pictorial. And what about outdoor scenes, taken through a streaming or rain-splattered window? Just focus sharply on the window itself, and if the scene beyond is a bit out of focus, so much the better—it will have more of a genuine rainy-day feeling.

If it's a rainy afternoon, the children will be at home. Seize this opportunity for those indoor shots that need a daylight effect. The rainy-day light is soft—not harsh like direct sun. Supplement it with the photo light that you use for night shots, and you'll obtain delightful pictures—Billy at a window, with ball and catcher's mitt, peering out at the wet landscape; Betty with her paper dolls on the window-seat. You'll like the quality of these "indoor-daylight" pictures.

The purpose of using the photo lights is just to brighten up the shadow side of your subject. The proper film is a high-speed type, such as you use for night snapshots. This film is also best for outdoor shots on a rainy day—it's faster, and so you can make snapshot exposures despite the weaker light.

Don't fret about rainy days. Take advantage of them. They bring you picture opportunities that are novel—interesting—and lend variety to your album.

Mass Arrests, Murder Portion of Warsaw

An eye-witness account of mass arrests, cold-blooded murder, and starvation rationing in Warsaw has been received by the Polish Information Centre in London, England.

The informant is an American girl, of Polish descent, whose name cannot be divulged. She spent sixteen months in Warsaw city, and is a trained observer.

The following data have been stated by her to be an unexaggerated account of conditions as she observed them.

The fact of Polish resistance and Polish patriotic secret organizations is attested to by the knowledge that two hundred young men, from 18-25 years of age, were shot during the autumn of last year in the Mokotow suburb of Warsaw. The shooting was done in mass as the final phase of a tragedy that began some weeks previously.

In an effort to uncover suspected Polish sabotage by organized persons, the Gestapo placed one of its agents, who spoke Polish, in a group of suspected persons. The agent's identity being discovered, two members of the Polish organization were assigned to "finish" him.

The agent was shot in the elevator of a building near Pulawska Street, and, in the ensuing turmoil, one of the Poles was captured. The other committed suicide. The former was subjected to such terrible torture that he revealed some information about his group. The following day a large "battalion" was organized by the Gestapo in the vicinity of Pulawska Street and the 200 young men and boys were arrested and shot.

Railroads, oil transports from Russia, military objectives, public utilities, etc., are the focal points of Polish sabotage.

Mass arrests are the major weapon which the Gestapo use for throttling all resistance. Such a mass arrest was held August 12, 1940, in Warsaw, when 10,000 men from 18 to 45 years of age were taken from streets, shops, cafes, trams, and even homes. On September 19, similar arrests were made in the Zoliborz and Mokotow suburbs of Warsaw. 16,000 men were arrested on that occasion. The majority were sent to the ill-famed concentration camp at Oswieclm (Auschwitz.)

In January of this year, mass arrests were made on the 5th, the 11th, and the 25th, with this difference: women are also arrested. The informant saw a young woman, trying to escape, shot down in cold-blood.

More than 400,000 Jews are confined to the Warsaw ghetto behind the concrete partition which separated them from the rest of the city. To all intents and purposes, these Jews are buried alive. Famine, epidemics, and lack of medical help and medicine are accentuating their conditions.

The patient was recovering from pneumonia. He had asked repeatedly for food and finally the nurse served him a mere spoonful of rice.

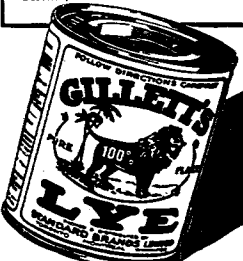

A few moments later the patient called her and said: "Now I want to read a little. Bring me a postage stamp."

Sea Power—Hub Of Allied Cause

(By Taffrail)

Sea Power is the hub upon which the whole of the Allied cause revolves. The Germans realise this just as much as we do.

It is the main task of the Royal Navy to protect the sea-borne trade without which we in Britain could neither exist nor continue the war. Much of our food comes from overseas; but our most important life-line is undoubtedly represented by the convoys of merchantmen travelling across the Atlantic with munitions, aircraft and raw materials from America.

The army in the Middle East was largely transported there over the 13,000 mile route round the Cape of Good Hope, and under the protection of the Royal Navy. The triumphal advance of the army into Libya, the disastrous defeats inflicted upon the Italians, and the removal of the threatened invasion of Egypt, were largely attributable to British Sea Power. Sea Power also assisted the Greek successes in Albania, for otherwise Mussolini would have been able to send troops to the Aegean. Sea Power has also helped the Army's more recent successes in Eritrea, Italian Somaliland and Abyssinia.

It is wise also to remember that no troops can safely be sent abroad except under the protection of the Navy, and that the Royal Air Force, wherever it may be, operates on petrol carried by sea to its bases all over the world.

The task of the Navy is not merely protective. Our warships are also used offensively wherever and whenever there is a chance for attack. Consider the recent raid on the Lofoten Islands the long series of naval engagements, bombardments and operations in both basins of the Mediterranean, as well as in the Red Sea and off the coast of Somaliland.

There is no denying, however, that the safeguarding of our convoys across the Atlantic is our most important naval responsibility at the present time. Germany realizes this, and the 2,000 miles of European coast in her occupation, from the North Cape to the Pyrenees, has provided her with many bases for the use of surface raiders, U-boats and aircraft. All the venom of her attack by these means, coupled with the extensive use of motor torpedo-boats and

THE EIGHTH DECENNIAL

Census of Canada

June 2, 1941

THE Census is the stock-taking of the nation — of its men, women, and children; its agriculture, trade, and industry; its housing, and general social condition. By it, all Governments, — Dominion, Provincial and Municipal — are enabled to work more effectively and economically in the interest of every resident of the Dominion.

IN these days of increasing Government responsibilities, no Government can give the best service unless it has detailed and accurate knowledge of the people and their varying circumstances. That is why we request the co-operation of all Canadian citizens in the taking of the Census. When the Government's Enumerator calls at your door, receive him courteously and give him all the information for which he asks.

Remember that he is in your service. Accuracy and despatch in your replies will promote good administration in your country, now under stress of war and facing crucial post-war reconstruction.

Backx - Dunn

A quiet wedding took place in St. Matthew's United Church, Halifax, April 12th, when Rev. D. M. Grant united in marriage Greta Dorothy Dunn, youngest daughter of Mrs. A. Dunn and the late Augustus Dunn, of Bear River, and Petty Officer Henry Leonard Backx, R.C.N., son of Mrs. Backx and the late Joseph Backx, of Bangor, Maine. The bride was gown in dusty rose lace, with navy accessories, and wore a corsage of white orchids. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Fred Davidson, who wore romance blue with black accessories. Clifford J. Harms supported the groom. After the ceremony the couple left for a short trip to the bride's home at Bear River. For the present Mr. and Mrs. Backx will reside in Halifax.

White - Brown

Brooklyn, New York, Society witnessed an important wedding in the First Presbyterian Church on Saturday evening, April 26, when Miss Miriam Walley Brown became the bride of Lieut. Bishop White, 165th Field Artillery (Army of U.S.A.). The Rev. Dr. Phillips Elliott performed the ceremony, and a reception followed on Viennese roof of the Hotel St. Regis, Manhattan. Mrs. White is the daughter of Mrs. Theodore Brown (nee Jennie Phinney, formerly of Bear River) and the late Mr. Brown, while Lieut. White is the son of Mrs. Longstreth, of New Jersey, and the late Bishop White, of Hartford, Conn. Lieut. and Mrs. White left on an extended southern trip.

BRIDE SHOWERED

On Saturday evening, May 17, Mrs. John MacLeod (nee Louise Harris), was tendered a miscellaneous shower, at the home of her mother, Mrs. R. A. Harris.

About fifty of the bride's friends gathered to offer felicitations. The dining room was prettily decorated for the occasion, the table having yellow and white streamers, coming from the ceiling to the four corners, with a centre piece of yellow daffodils around which the numerous gifts were arranged.

The bride was the recipient of many lovely things, consisting of a dinner set, linens, crystal, kitchen ware, etc., also a floor lamp, presented by the choir of the United Baptist Church, of which Mrs. MacLeod has been a faithful and valuable member, being the organist for several years. Refreshments were served, the bride cutting the decorated, three-tier bride's cake.

SHOWER TENDERED

On Wednesday evening of last week the friends of Miss Maxine Berry tendered her a variety shower, at the home of her aunt, Mrs. George Jefferson, Bear River East. The bride-to-be was the recipient of a large variety of useful and pretty gifts, which were presented in a pink and white decorated bassinet, wheeled into the room by the little Misses Roberta Sanford and Juanita Brown.

After the gifts had been opened and the donors thanked, tea, sandwiches and cake were served to the guests.

with Robin Hood Flour

EVEN when you combine Robin Hood Flour with richly flavoured ingredients and date filling you'll recognize the full, natural flavour of high-grade, sun-ripened wheat in every tempting cookie. "Robin Hood Flour is not only a prize flour, but it brings prizes to me when I enter baking at the Exhibition. It is Robin Hood that I recommend to friends when they ask what flour I prefer," says Mrs. H. E. Brodie, of Fredericton, N.B.

Pinwheel Cookies—4 cups Robin Hood Flour, 1 tsp. cream of tartar, 1 tsp. soda, 1/4 tsp. salt, 2 cups brown sugar, 3/4 cup shortening (half butter), 2 eggs, 1 tsp. vanilla.

Method—1. Sift dry ingredients together. 2. Cream shortening, sugar and eggs. Add vanilla. 3. Add flour mixture, until stiff. 4. Cut dough into five pieces. Roll each out, as needed. 5. Put in cool place overnight. 6. Spread a date filling over each and roll like a jelly roll. 7. Slice when required with sharp knife and bake in hot oven 10 to 15 minutes.

"I make bread with the overnight method," says Mrs. Brodie. "It rises easily and quickly when made with Robin Hood Flour, and has a better flavour." Robin Hood Flour has a rich wheat flavour that is delicious. Order Robin Hood Flour and enjoy new baking thrills. Robin Hood is sold by dealers everywhere.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Woodworth, of Saint John, are visiting his sister, Mrs. Howard Forrest and Mr. Forrest.

Mrs. Fraser Handspiker and Charles Larrimore, of Aldershot, and Sister Cecil VanTassel, of the R.C.N., spent the week end at their respective homes. The latter has a two weeks' leave.

Mr. and Mrs. William Clayton, of Lawrence town, are occupying part of Garner Handspiker's house for the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Stillman Handspiker attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Edwin Gidney, of Mink Cove, on Sunday.

Mrs. Guilford Handspiker entertained the Rebekah Circle on Monday evening. Bingo and 45's were played and refreshments served.

The Ladies' War Savings Club met at the home of Mrs. Oscar VanTassel, Tuesday evening, when another quilt was quilted for the Red Cross.

Miss Vera Facey, who is completing the term at Oakdene Academy, Bear River, visited Mrs. Walter VanTassel, Sunday. Miss Facey taught school in this section eleven years ago and her many friends were glad to see her again.

DEEP BROOK

Mrs. J. H. MacDonald spent last week in Bridgetown and Halifax.

J. M. Nichols is recovering from a shock suffered Saturday, May 10.

Mrs. Robert J. Vroom spent last week end in Halifax, with her husband, Major Vroom.

Mrs. B. Comeau and Mrs. W. Marsers were recent hostesses to the Spitfire Bridge Club.

Mrs. Roscoe Foster, of Saint John, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Adams, over the week end.

Mrs. John Adams was hostess to the W. M. S. of the Baptist Church, at their regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. C. H. Lawton, who visited her sister, Mrs. Josephine Ellis, in Seattle, Wash., during the winter months, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Spurr were in Halifax last week for Dalhousie University Convocation, when their daughter, Kathleen, received her diploma in pharmacy.

The Charles D. Ray property has been leased by Keith Harvey, of Windsor, who is employed with the Gypsum Company here. Mr. and Mrs. Ray have moved to Middleton.

At St. Matthew's Church, Sunday evening, banns of Charles Arnold Purdy and Edith Idella Henshaw were published for the first time. Marriage will be solemnized in the church, Tuesday, June 3rd, at 10:30 a.m.

On Monday evening, May 12, a shower was tendered Mrs. Arnold Henshaw (Hope Nelson), when the young bride received a "purse" and many individual gifts, also a remembrance from St. Matthew's Sunday School, which she had attended as a scholar and later as teacher. Mr. and Mrs. Henshaw were married May 7th.

Mrs. Robert Spurr has arrived in British Columbia to be with her son, D. Robert Spurr, whose wife Jean (Scott) died Wednesday, May 14th, from infection following a throat operation. On May 7th, Mrs.

Riders and Hikers Plan Mountain Outings

Their backs turned to a world gone mad, the Sky-Line Trail Hikers and the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies will this summer set their faces toward the clean, snow-covered peaks of the Canadian Rockies where the eagle and the mountain goat rule supreme. Theirs, for a spell, will be the simple pleasures of the trail, the companionship of a campfire, the adventure of new trails, the common thrill of discovering Nature in new moods.

Two splendid outings have been planned for this summer for these two democratic organizations. The outings are planned to accommodate young and old, stout and lean. The man-made entertainment as provided by the riders and hikers themselves, artists, Spurr received a wire from her son, and left immediately, arriving a few hours before the death of her daughter-in-law. His many friends in the East extend sincere sympathy to this former Deep Brook boy.

Electrical Equipment From Britain

In twelve months no fewer than thirteen complete generating units have been built for overseas by one British firm alone.

In new territory an outstanding order was a complete power station of 60,000 kw. for Turkey; and China received a 20,000 kw. 3,000 r.p.m., turbine plant.

Apart from these large orders, the construction of transformers set up an export record, a considerable part of which was for high-voltage transformers.

New Zealand took seven big vertical-shaft waterwheel alternators; Madras a horizontal-shaft alternator, and South Africa a number of smaller alternators of similar type.

The year's achievement is striking when it is remembered the amount of Government work done at the same time; and, despite the calls of war work upon technicians, a steady improvement in design has also been accomplished over the period, especially of transformers for efficiency and economy.

writers, stenographers, school teachers, parents, businessmen, lecturers, doctors, salesgirls and others who love the open although their daily occupations confine them to the city.

The Trail Riders leave Banff first on a most-interesting trip, following a new trail to Mount Assiniboine, the "Motherhorn of the Canadian Rockies." They will ride for four days and spend one other in camp. Their outing is from July 25 to 29. The Sky-Line Trail Hikers have chosen a permanent camp at Prolific Meadow in Kootenay Park and will spend four days, August 1 to 4, exploring a district which is of great charm and variety. Both organizations provide time for fishing for the study of the flowers and wild animals of the district, for leisurely enjoyment of the grandeur of the mountains. Camera fans will find these low-rate outings particularly thrilling because of the variety of picture material. The fisherman will discover near-virgin lakes teeming with fighting mountain trout. The out-door lover will discover an entirely new world and new ways of enjoying it.

Applications can be sent to the secretary-treasurer, J. Murray Gibbon, noted Montreal author, whose office is in Windsor Station, Montreal; or to L. S. Crosby, or Dan McCowan, Banff, the western secretaries. The Banff Springs Hotel is headquarters for both organizations immediately preceding the outings.

CHERRY BLOSSOMS IN BLOOM

Although it is too soon to make any prophecies as to the prospect of the 1941 cherry crop, cherry blossoms have begun to make their appearance on some of the earlier trees, and it will only be a matter of a few days before most of the trees in Digby and Bear River districts are in full bloom. Last year's cherry crop was one of the largest in years.

Already local farmers are optimistic with respect to the prospects of their strawberry crops. The majority of plants wintered well, and if blossoms mean anything, they feel that with good weather the strawberry crop this year should be above the average.

One Case on Supreme Court Docket

The case of the King vs. Joseph Arthur Saulnier, Meteghan, is the only case on the Supreme Court docket for the session opening at Digby, May 27, at which Mr. Justice Archibald will preside.

Saulnier is charged with manslaughter, the charge arising out of the death of his brother-in-law, Albert Melanson, of Meteghan Centre (formerly of Weymouth) as the result of a train-car crash at Maxwellton crossing. Melanson died in Yarmouth Hospital of injuries and shock. The accident occurred on the morning of November 5, 1940.

The accused, in company with Melanson, was driving a wood-laden truck from Maxwellton to Meteghan on the morning of the accident, and ran into the Halifax bound D.A.R. express at the Maxwellton railway crossing.

"A BETTER TOWN TO LOOK AT"

"Make your town a better town to look at" is the slogan used on a circular distributed by the Digby Board of Trade, which asks the co-operation of the public with the Town and the Board, in a national "Clean-Up Week" Campaign, from May 19 to May 24.

The Board realizes the success of this campaign will depend wholly on the co-operation given by citizens, and is doing everything possible to get the maximum amount of co-operation.

The local Scout Troop is doing their bit in this matter by collecting all salvage material possible. Proceeds of the sale of these materials will be donated to war service groups.

The Life of Winston Churchill

--The Man Who'll Beat Hitler

Winston Churchill never seemed quite at home as Chancellor of the Exchequer—but it gave him at least one great satisfaction, and that was in wearing his father's robes on official occasions.

Lord Randolph Churchill was Chancellor at the time he resigned from the Cabinet—and out of official life. It was the custom for the outgoing Chancellor to sell his robes to his successor; but when Lord Randolph offered his robes to George, who succeeded him, the latter would not buy them. Lord Randolph remarked that: "It is the first time that a Jew has refused to buy second-hand clothing at a give-away price!"

Out Again

Winston Churchill never liked Ramsay MacDonald, and the dislike was mutual. When the National Government was formed in 1931, and Ramsay MacDonald became Premier, there was no place in the Cabinet for Winston Churchill. Once again he was out in the political wilderness.

This gave him a chance to revisit the United States for a lecture tour—a tour that was interrupted by an accident that might easily have been fatal.

Stepping off the pavement in Fifth Avenue, New York, one day, Mr. Churchill was knocked down by a passing motorcar. He afterwards said of this accident that "I ought to have been broken like an eggshell, or smashed like a gooseberry." Instead, he made a complete recovery, won American hearts by his frank statement that he himself was really to blame for the accident, and went on his lecture tour.

Coming Events

"Fears in Europe are greater, rivalries are sharper, military plans are more closely concerted, military organizations are more carefully planned and efficiently developed—and Britain is weaker. Britain's period of weakness is Europe's danger," declared Mr. Churchill, in 1932, and a few months later, the Reichstag elections in Germany gave Hitler a majority and he became virtual leader of Germany. Immediately, Hitler called on his country to rearm, the British Government of Ramsay MacDonald answered this threat by suggesting a new disarmament conference at the League of Nations, meanwhile taking no active steps to prepare Britain for the coming dangers.

Again Churchill warned the country of a likely "renewal of the European war." But his words were not all gloomy. In a rousing speech in April 1933, he might well have been looking ahead at the present-day Britain, when he said: "It may well be that the most glorious chapters of our history are yet to be written. Indeed, the very problems and dangers that encompass us ought to make English men and women of this generation glad to be here at such a time. We ought to be proud that we are guardians of our country in an age when her life is at stake."

Germans Rebuild Air Force

In the fall of 1933, Winston Churchill warned Parliament that Germany was secretly building warplanes, despite her treaty obligations. "This illegal air force will be as strong as the R.A.F., within 12 months, and by 1937 it will be nearly twice our strength."

Stanley Baldwin, again Premier, pooch-pooched Churchill's warnings and denied his figures of Germany's air force, yet in the following March, Hitler openly boasted that Germany's air strength was equal to Britain's, and at the same time he announced the introduction of conscription in Germany.

When, in June 1935, the Anglo-German Naval Treaty was signed, and the Nazis pledged themselves "never to engage in unrestricted submarine warfare," Mr. Churchill scoffed at the pledge, and told the British Government that to place the slightest credence in a Nazi promise "must constitute the acme of gullibility."

By nearly 1936, the British people were beginning to feel uneasy. Events in Europe had given powerful support to Mr. Churchill's warnings. A Minister of Defence was mooted, and Sir Austen Chamberlain wrote: "There is only one man who by his studies and his special abilities and aptitudes is Life becomes a treadmill when we find no love of doing in the tasks that engage us from day to day. He who lives is he who puts his whole heart in every task that comes to hand.

marked out for it, and that man is Winston Churchill. I don't suppose that Baldwin will offer it to him, and I don't think that Neville Chamberlain (Austen's half-brother) would wish to have him back, but they are both wrong. He is the right man for that post, and in such dangerous times that consideration ought to be decisive."

Duck Flies 3,500 Miles

How far can a duck fly? New light has been shed on the question in the recent recovery in Coyaima, Colombia, South America, of a young blue-winged teal that was banded near Langruth, Manitoba, during September, 1940. The distance is about 3,500 miles. Bird banding has added considerably to the knowledge obtained about game birds. The work is carried on in Canada mostly by volunteer workers acting under Dominion government supervision. In the Maritime Provinces much good work has been done by banding in an attempt to reveal the migrations of woodcock of which there are abundant covers in all three provinces—New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island—and foremost in this work is Jak Mayer, employed with the Canadian National Express, in Moncton. These provinces also abound in geese, duck, partridge and other game birds.

Canadian Manganese Becomes Valuable

With manganese striking new highs in price, and the uncertainty of shipments from present sources of supply, principally Russia and India, coupled with the growing demand on account of the war, attention is being directed to sources of the metal in Canada. Some years ago the Natural Resources Department of the Canadian National Railways, made an investigation into the mineral resources of Sussex, in New Brunswick. Work is now under way by a company formed in Toronto to erect a crushing mill on the site and it is expected that production will commence within the next two months. Over 90 per cent of the world's manganese production, which is in excess of 3,000,000 tons annually, is consumed in the manufacture of iron and steel. It is also used with other metals to form various alloys and in the manufacture of dry-cell batteries, paints and dyes. Manganese is also used in chemistry to liberate oxygen.

Juvenile Clubs Important in Agriculture

Among the agencies that are ably assisting on the growth of Canadian agriculture are the boys' and girls' farm clubs scattered through the Dominion, stated J. E. McIntyre, agricultural agent for the Canadian National Railways in Moncton. There are now more than 47,000 rural boys and girls engaged in active membership in these farm clubs throughout Canada, he said. A large proportion are in livestock and poultry clubs with a considerable number in garden clubs and clubs undertaking girls' work projects. Nova Scotia has been particularly active in this work with over half the total Canadian membership in garden clubs, 34 per cent working on girls' projects and nearly 60 per cent in garment clubs. Total club membership is 6,783.

Recall Coventry Horror

(Rosa L. Shaw in Montreal "Standard", May 10, 1941)

Digby, N. S.—A chance meeting with a 14 year old British Merchant seaman brought Mrs. Joseph Hall, a resident of this summer resort and fishing town, a first hand account of the murderous Nazi air raid one night last November on Coventry, where she has relatives she has not seen for 18 years.

The young seaman is William Combstock, of Coventry, whose father, mother, two brothers and two sisters were killed in the first mass attack on that city by German aircraft. Only member of the family to escape, Combstock, paradoxically, owes his life to the fact that he was in the open all night, helping put out fires started by the Nazis, while his family had sought safety within the walls of their home. It was only the following morning that he learned that all had perished. The six members of the Combstock family were among the hundreds of Coventry residents killed in the first raid who were buried in the mass funeral service.

Just how a resident of this quiet little place and a young seaman of the merchant navy, which is "Britain's life line," happened to meet is one of the strange coincidences that are the stuff of so many dramatic stories of the war.

I had been in Halifax and took the night train to Digby, intending to cross to Saint John, N. B., by the boat that leaves every afternoon. Arriving in Digby I noticed the other passengers to leave the train were two young lads with the "M. N." badge of the merchant navy in their buttonholes. It was six o'clock in the morning and the town was still asleep, the streets were deserted. The two sailors made for the wharf.

Presently they came up to me and said: "Excuse me, lady, but can you tell us what time the boat sails?"

I told them: "Just after three this afternoon."

With conversation all over their faces they exclaimed: "Oh! What are we going to do?"

They explained they had no money for food, although they had their tickets for the boat, having expected to go right through to Saint John.

"We were not allowed to take much money with us to a foreign port," one remarked.

I let the word "foreign" as it applied to Canada, pass, and assured them Canadians would not see British men-ant seamen go hungry, that they could expect a good breakfast as soon as the hotels opened.

Presently the boys were sitting at a table in the hotel run by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Howard, tucking into a big breakfast which Mrs. Howard served them. I sat with them and in conversation Combstock told me he came from Coventry. I said I hoped his people had escaped harm in the German air raids.

He could not speak for a few moments, then with an obvious effort said:

"They were all killed—my father and mother, my two brothers and my two sisters. In the first air raid last November."

Combstock's shipmate, Fred Rogers, 23, who came from Pontypool, Wales, remarked: "He's pretty young to be all alone in the world, isn't he? Only 17 years old."

"Right after that happened I decided to go to sea," said Combstock. He joined the merchant navy early in December, and has made several trips to Canada on cargo ships since that time.

After breakfast, I told Mrs. Howard that one of the boys came from Coventry, and that his family had been wiped out in the first mass raid on the city.

"Why, there's a lady in this town who has relatives in Coventry," she said. "I must send them up to see her. She hasn't heard any news from Coventry in a long time."

The boys set out for Mrs. Hall's home, and after a while I took my camera and followed them, to take a picture of this unusual meeting.

When I got to Hall's house, Combstock was giving Mrs. Hall a description of the air raid. Mrs. Hall then wrote down the names and addresses of her relatives in Coventry, and begged him to call on them and give them messages from her whenever he had a chance to revisit the city. He promised to do so.

Although they had crossed the Atlantic many times on ships supplying Britain, the seamen said they had never been in an engagement with German submarines. Each voyage their unit of the merchant navy has delivered the goods, complete and undamaged.

Once, coming to Canada a flock of German aircraft was sighted. They swooped down on little ships and dropped bombs, one of which struck the vessel aster n. Damage was comparatively slight, however, and the ship continued on her way, arriving at an Eastern Canadian port without further incident, taking on another cargo as soon as repairs were carried out.

Mrs. Hall, who came to Canada after the last war, told of visiting London in 1917, immediately after a German air raid.

"At that time we thought it was terrible, but actually all the damage you could see was a few scars on buildings which had been chipped by sharpnel. There never were whole houses and streets blown up then," she said.

Combstock recounted his experiences during the Coventry's first night of horror rather haltingly. A little more than a child, he hasn't recovered from the shock of the terrible events which destroyed his home and left him alone in the world, although he is facing it manfully and says: "I can take care of myself all right."

"I was working in an aircraft factory," he told us. "At night I used to go out on duty as a member of the home guard. The night of the big air raid I could not get home at all. I was busy all night putting out fires started by incendiaries the Germans dropped. It was like a rain of fire with shells bursting everywhere. They never stopped."

"Next morning I tried to get home through the wreckage but the area where I lived was roped off. Nobody was allowed in. They found the whole street where I lived had been blown up by a land mine. All my family and everybody else who lived on that street were dead."

"I did not know what to do. I decided to go to sea. I joined the merchant navy and have been at sea ever since the beginning of December."

Combstock forgot his comforts for a few moments when he spoke of the comforts which Canadians are providing for British seamen. His eyes lighted up and he smiled for the first time as he said: "Canada has done more for us than any other people. We got fine warm stockings and jerseys given by Canadians, and we do appreciate them. It's cold at sea."

When we left Mrs. Hall's home Combstock put into his pocket the slip of paper on which he had written the names and addresses of her relatives in Coventry. They are her brother, John Cornelius Webber; a brother-in-law, John Hall, and a niece, Miss Edith Chewynd. Mrs. Hall came to Canada with her husband and children 18 years ago, when her eldest daughter married a Canadian soldier she had met in London. He is

ADVERSITY

The winds of adversity may cause a man to bend, but if he is strong and vigorous within he will arise and grow to new heights after the storm passes.

The two seamen watched me type this story on the boat from Digby to Saint John. They were quite fascinated for it was the first time they had ever seen a typewriter.

Government Wants to Hear Your Fish Yarns

Anglers, in addition to telling friends the story about the "big one that got away," are being requested to tell it also to the government. A new venture is being undertaken by the government of Canada in respect of the national parks in an endeavor to provide more and better fishing for the visitor, and under the new scheme anglers will be asked to co-operate in taking a creel census.

Creel census cards, stated C. K. Howard, manager of the fish and game department of the Canadian National Railways, will be issued to every visitor with request to the angler to enter on the card his name and address with date, name of lake or stream fished, species of fish caught, their number and length, hours spent fishing, type of lure and methods used. The government also wants to hear about the failures as well as the triumphs. A creel census has been in use in the United States for several years and the results obtained have induced the Canadian government to introduce it into Canada where the knowledge gained will assist in formulating a program of scientific management.

Wood Again Proving Value for Airplanes

Attention is again being directed to the use of wood in the construction of airplanes with the recent developments in adhesives for use in wood fabrication, particularly in the manufacture of water-proof plywood, states the Natural Resources Department of the Canadian National Railways. During the last war wood was the principal material used, but in this war special light metal alloys have been the order of the day.

The two principal Canadian woods for aircraft are Sitka spruce of British Columbia and yellow birch of Eastern Canada, the former for structural members and the latter for plywood for wing and fuselage covers as well as for interior members. Research has shown that other species of wood may be used successfully for many airplane parts.

Canada, and particularly New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, is fortunate in having a wide variety of softwoods and hardwoods that can readily meet the most exacting requirements of aircraft construction and the large body of skilled wood-workers in the Dominion is a further asset of great importance at this time.

A servant girl in Canada spent most of her spare time knitting sweaters for Norwegians, and sent them by the Red Cross. She has recently had a letter thanking her for one of the sweaters. It came from a German soldier!

The town of East St. Louis, Illinois, was overrun by dogs, so they employed a man to catch stray dogs and impound them. He was to receive $1 for each dog he caught. After 29 days, the town decided it could not afford to keep a dog-catcher any longer. He had brought in 1500 dogs in the 29 days.

Rev. F. E. Barrett, D.D., Guest Speaker

The preacher at the morning service of the United Church, and the evening service at the Baptist church last Sunday was Rev. F. E. Barrett, D.D., Field Secretary for the Interprovincial Home for Women, at Coverdale, near Moncton. This Home is owned and operated by the Anglican, Baptist, Presbyterian and United churches of the Maritime Provinces. It is a reformatory institution for Protestant women over 16 years of age who have incurred the penalty of the criminal law and who would otherwise be committed to jail. The only way a woman can be admitted to this Home is by commitment from the Courts.

Dr. Barrett, in his preliminary remarks, called attention to the pity in God's heart because of the consequences of sin in human hearts—that grief as pictured by Jesus in the parables of the lost sheep and the prodigal son.

He said that the Christian way to deal with these delinquents is Jesus' way. Our chief concern must not be the dignity of the law or the wrong done society, and to make the guilty suffer. It should be to help them to a better way of life and to worthy citizenship.

The jail is by no means a reformatory. Those committed to jail too frequently go out worse than when they entered. The woman who is sent to jail goes out more hopeless, despairing and harder to reclaim. Most of those committed to the Home have never had a chance to be anything but what they are. Poor homes and evil social and economic conditions, lack of moral and religious training have made them what they are. The interdenominational Home seeks to bring those committed to custody under helpful, uplifting Christian influence, to give them higher ideals of life, and to fit them to take their place as worthy members of society.

One of the tragic consequences of the war is that for such institutions as this it often means an increase in the number of inmates and a falling-off in revenue. The preacher spoke briefly of the financial needs of the Home. Its record, he said, made it most deserving of the confidence of the Courts and the support of all Protestant people. He appealed for their sympathy and financial support as they might be able to give. Lord Tweedsmuir had said, "Whatever new calls the crisis may bring it should be remembered that the duty to our institutions and charities remains a primary obligation."

This Institution is the Hand of the Church extended to these needy delinquents to lead them to the Christ who alone can say to them: "Thy sins are forgiven thee" and give them power to "go and sin no more."

Biggest Lobster Ever Recorded by Man

When C. M. McCord, of Sikeston, Mo., saw what appeared to be the great granddaddy of all lobsters lying in a drained pool in Southeast Missouri swamp, he could hardly believe his eyes. For not only was it several hundred miles from the ocean, the habitat of all lobsters, but the creature was probably one of the largest lobsters ever seen by modern man.

Just how long it had been living in the swampland pool, or how it got there, is not known, but when the pool dried up due to receding waters, the lobster was left high and dry, had attempted to dig a hole for itself in the mud. The creature was dead and could not be preserved in its entirety, but the huge claws, about the size of the human head, were broken off and kept.

McCord shudders to think what one of these claws could have done to a wader,

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR LIVER

Buck it up right now and feel like a million! Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It pours out bile to digest food, gets rid of waste, supplies new energy, allows proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order, lead accumulates in your system. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. You feel "tired", headache, backache, dizzy, dragged out all the time. For over 25 years thousands have been promptly relieved from these miseries—Fruit-A-Tives. So can you now. Try Fruit-A-Tives—you'll feel like a new person, happy and well again. 25c, 50c. ## V. O. N. Annual Meeting at Ottawa

Mrs. L. C. Dickson attended the annual meeting of the V. O. N. for Canada, at Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, as representative of the Digby Branch. Mrs. Dickson's report will be heard at the next regular meeting of the V. O. N.

Included in the message from Prime Minister King, attending the annual meeting, were these words: "The Government and people of Canada are warmly appreciative of the great social service which the Victorian Order is rendering, especially at this time of war."

The services of the Order have been adapted to meet the new conditions and demands created by the war, such as emotional strain caused by fear of separation, health conditions caused by acute housing problems as well as carrying on its usual civilian services. Men on active service are assured that their families will be looked after in their absence.

The first three months of 1941 V. O. N. Nurses paid 11,000 visits to homes of 2,200 soldiers, reported Miss Maude Hall, acting chief superintendent, V. O. N. for Canada.

From the above figures we see the V. O. N. Nurses in their work are doing much to serve their country, and the work is worthy of our every support and encouragement.

The Middleton Male Quartette assisted in the musical part of the service in Grace United Church, on Sunday evening, rendering several selections. P. E. Appleby, the leader, a veteran airman of the last war, has again joined up and will soon be taking up his new duties.

The basketball season for Digby Academy closed with a game between the Digby and Yarmouth girls, played in Yarmouth on Friday evening. At the end of the fast and interesting game, the final score was 26-15, in favor of Yarmouth. The visiting team was entertained afterwards at a dance.

A card party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George VanTassel, Lighthouse Road, last Thursday evening, at which the sum of $12.50 was realized for the Queen's Canadian Fund. The ladies' prize was won by Mrs. Guy Dunn, and the low by Mrs. Joseph Burnham. The men's high was taken by R. L. Dunn, and the low by Bernard Daley. The door prize was won by Mrs. George Turnbull and the travelling bag by Mrs. Harry Ross.

Little damage was done by a fire caused from a freak explosion at the Super Service Station, Digby, Saturday afternoon. The explosion resulted from a spark caused when a hammer struck the end of a loose coupling being repaired in the service station workshop. The spark ignited a can of gasoline and caused an explosion. Other than a few broken panes of glass, a small hole in the wall, and blackened woodwork (only freshly painted) no other damage of consequence was caused.

The house on the Hemar Marshall property, at South Range, was destroyed by fire recently. Shortly after occupancy, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Gould, had left for Barton, where they were taking one of the children to be examined by Dr. W. C. Harris. The blaze was not discovered by neighbours until after the flames had broken through the roof. On their arrival the fire had gained too great a headway to attempt to save the dwelling. They succeeded in salvaging all kitchen furniture (including the range) and the contents of the pantry. None other of the household furniture or any of the Gould's clothing were saved.

Substitutes for butter and rubber have been manufactured from coal by Germany's chemists.

MARRIAGES

Saulnier - LeBlanc

Bernardin Saulnier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Saulnier, of Meteghan, and Miss Doris LeBlanc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis LeBlanc, of Saint John, formerly of Meteghan, were united in marriage on Thursday, May 15, in the Saint John Cathedral. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Marjorie LeBlanc, and the groom was supported by his brother, Alphonse Saulnier. They made their wedding tour to Meteghan, and a reception was given them at the home of the groom's parents, Saturday evening, May 17, when they received many nice gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Saulnier returned to Saint John the following Monday, where they will reside.

Henshaw - Nelson

The marriage of Miss Hope Nelson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Nelson, of Deep Brook, to Fusilier Arnold Lawrence Henshaw, R.C. A. son of Mrs. Pearl Henshaw and the late Willard Henshaw of Deep Brook, took place at the rectory, Clementsport, on Wednesday morning, May 7. Rev. A. W. L. Smith officiated at the ceremony. The bride was gown in Queen's blue, with navy accessories and wore a corsage of sweet peas. After the ceremony the couple left for a short trip. They will reside at Saint John, where the groom is transport driver for the Saint John Fusiliers.

NOTICE—THE DIGBY COURIER no longer accepts for publication items concerning winners of lotteries and drawings. Persons wishing to publicize these efforts must use some other means, and are advised that our correspondents in the various towns have orders not to accept these. ## Victory Torch Parade June 2

A meeting of the Digby War Service Club was held in the Town Hall, Tuesday evening, for the purpose of organizing the drive for the sale of Victory Bonds in this vicinity. Mayor E. J. Theriault was chairman of the meeting, and Victor Cardoza, secretary. The meeting opened with T. E. G. Lynch explaining the Victory Bond Campaign and its importance.

A Torch Day celebration, with parade by children in the morning, and torch parade in the evening, climaxed by the dedication of a torch, similar to the one Canadians are flying to Prime Minister Winston Churchill (a picture of which appears on the front page of the Courier this week) will be held on Monday, June 2.

All citizens of the town and surrounding villages are invited to meet at the Band Stand at 7.30, on Monday evening, June 2nd, where special speakers will be heard. The band and special choirs will be in attendance, and the parade will end at the Monument on Water Street, where the dedication of the Torch will take place.

T. S. Matheson offered all materials necessary for the making of the torch, and also offered the services of his workmen.

The torch will remain lighted throughout the campaign. The committee appointed for the Victory Loan drive consist of the following: A. J. Dillon, chairman; F. Dakin, J. W. Merkel, F. L. Anderson, G. H. Peters, H. Campbell, M. C. Denton, E. C. Sollows.

The committee appointed in charge of the Torch Day celebration consist of the following: V. G. Cardoza, chairman; A. L. Robinson, H. M. Warner, Dr. T. L. Rogers, Mr. Ormiston.

Premier Urges Co-Operation in Victory Loan Drive

In a letter to Mayor E. J. Theriault, the Hon. A. S. MacMillan, Premier of Nova Scotia, points out some of the drastic differences between the present war and the struggle of 1914-18—in 1914 troops moved at a rate of three miles an hour, but in 1941 at a rate of fifty miles an hour, while in 1918 the war cost us less than one million dollars a day. In 1941 it is costing us four million dollars a day.

Premier MacMillan's letter was written for the purpose of asking the co-operation of the mayors of various towns of Nova Scotia in the Victory Bond drives, which begins June 2, and will likely close June 23. Through this drive, Canadians are asked to loan their government a minimum amount of $600,000,000, of which Nova Scotia's proportion is $19,000,000.

He emphasized the need of providing appropriate settings for the drive, daily reminders of this War Loan, and requests that all business houses and citizens decorate their premises with flags, bunting, etc., and adds "Such displays by city and town halls will set the example and provide an inspiration to others."

MARRIAGES

Mailing - Potter

On Thursday evening, May 15, Rev. R. L. Roach, of the United Church, Bear River, united in marriage Miss Irma Potter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Potter, of Bear River East, and Colline Mailing, son of Mrs. Charles Mailing and the late Charles Mailing, of Greenland.

Smith - Berry

A very pretty wedding took place on Friday, May 16, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram E. Berry, of Bear River East, when their daughter Maxine was united in marriage to Robert L. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, of Cal-edonia. The bride, who entered the room on the arm of her father, looked charming in a gown of navy blue sheer over taffeta, with a corsage of car-nations and fern. The cere-mony was performed under a prettily decorated arch, by the Rev. G. D. Brydon, of the Bear River Baptist church, and was attended only by the immedi-ate relatives and friends of the contracting parties. A wedding lunch was served to about thirty guests and the bride's cake was made by the bride's grandmother, and was beautifully decorated in white and silver. Immediately after the lunch the happy couple left on a honeymoon trip through the Valley. On their return they will reside in Bear River East for the present, the groom being the teacher in that village.

REBEKAH LODGE DISTRICT MEETING

Twenty members of Elta Rebekah Lodge, Bear River, motored to Bridgetown to at-tend the District Meeting. Mrs. Ethel V. Smith, president, Bear River; Mrs. Alma Mills, vice-president, of Bridgetown, and Mrs. Viola Cress, secre-tary, Bear River, took their re-spective chairs. The honored guest was Mrs. Agnes Coffin, Vice-President of the Rebe-kah Assembly.

Roll Call Service

On Sunday evening, May 25th, the annual Roll Call and Thank Offering Service was held in the United Baptist Church.

The church auditorium was filled to capacity with mem-bers, adherents and friends from the local United Church of Canada, and the Christian Advent, also many coming in from the outlying districts.

The scripture lesson was taken from 1st Kings, being read by the pastor, Rev. G. D. Brydon. The evening prayer was offered by Rev. R. L. Roach, pastor of the United Church of Canada, and the Benediction by Miss Redicker.

pastor of the Advent Church. Instead of the usual guest speaker, the spiritual mes-sage of the evening was brought to the congregation in song by the Yarmouth male choir, under the leadership of Prof. R. Williams. Seven sel-ections were rendered during the evening, which were very inspiring. A brief address was given by the pastor, after which the Roll was called, many re-sponding to their names. The financial returns of the even-ing exceeded the expecta-tions of the congregation pres-ent, the total offering being $200.00.

Why CANADA MUST BORROW $600,000,000

A Statement by the Minister of Finance

In money alone, this war is costing Canada in round figures, $4,000,000 a day. That is three and one-quarter times the daily cost of the last year of the last war. This conflict costs so much more because it is a battle of giant, swift machines... as well as of men. And to build other than the very best machines would be futile. They must be worthy of our men.

Canada dare not... and will not... sacrifice men for lack in quality or quantity of fighting machines. Hence we must produce them on a scale hitherto undreamed of.

To do this, Canada needs now to borrow from her citizens at least $600,000,000 in addition to the revenue raised by taxes. To obtain this money Canada will on June 2nd offer Victory Bonds.

Fortunately, Canadians have the money to buy these Victory Bonds. This is shown by a greatly expanded national income and by record savings deposits.

If every person who has savings or who can make payments out of wages or income will invest in Victory Bonds, the Loan will be quickly subscribed. But the wholehearted support of every citizen is necessary.

What Canadians have done before, Canadians can and will do again. Our population was less than nine millions in 1918 and 1919. Yet in November, 1918, our people invested $616,000,000 in Victory Bonds. Eleven months later, in October, 1919, they invested $572,000,000. The total subscribed for Victory Bonds in those two loans was $1,188,000,000. This year, with our population increased to more than twelve millions, the nation that did it before can do it again—and in greater measure.

The terms of the Loan will be announced May 31st. Get ready to buy every Bond that you can.

About This and That

The Function of the Reporter

A reporter is of necessity an impersonal observer of the happenings of the community. Officially, it matters little to him what action a town council may take in any given matter. As an impartial observer a news item stating one side of a controversy is just as important as an item conveying the other side. In other words he is not a biased witness of any event. He is interested only from the standpoint of news.

Perhaps the actions of a reporter at a meeting sometimes seems unusual, but they have to be unusual because he is, as we have said, only an observer and not a participant in an event. It will be noticed that he doesn't applaud when a speaker makes some remarks that please the audience. He doesn't join in the program, unless it is to stand when the national anthem is sung. He is merely an onlooker and is reporting the course of events, not for the benefit of those at the meeting but for the whole community.

To paraphrase a famous poem "his is not to reason why". That phrase adequately describes the reporter's attitude toward any assignment he is called upon to cover. He should not be expected to take part in the proceedings unless he is personally interested as a member of the group. A reporter recently covered a temperance meeting and was asked to express his opinion on the liquor question. This he declined to do, and rightly so, because he was attending the meeting as a representative of his newspaper and not as a member of the Temperance Federation.

Newspaper reporters are often asked to keep things out of the paper, or to soft pedal on some news item. The conscientious reporter will never make any promises to do this. This is the prerogative of the editor only, and the only thing a reporter can do is take the matter up with his editor. Sometimes a bribe is offered, and if one really wants to earn the ill-will of a reporter this is the surest way to do it. The newspaperman who accepts a bribe is breaking faith with his profession, and he never remains a newspaperman very long.

Reporters have a very difficult job. They are surrounded by people who want special favours that he has not the power to grant. In practically every instance the reporter is worthy of the fullest confidence. He is a hard working person who is trying to play the game, trying to serve his community and his finding his satisfaction in life, not from the ordinary pleasures of life, but from following the most fascinating calling known to mankind.

When one is tempted to invite a reporter to forget his code of ethics, it is well to remember that he is no power to assure you of immunity from publicity or of special consideration. That responsibility rests solely with the editor. Never blame a reporter for what appears in your newspaper. He is doing the job he is paid for. The editor is the man who decided the issues.

When Sieur de Champlain founded the Order of Good Time, in 1605, the first social club in America which had its headquarters in the building constructed by him in that year and known as "L'Habitacion". Little did he think that in this year of 1941 it would be the means of expressing international goodwill between what were then rival neighbours. The Order of 1606, with headquarters in Boston, Mass., and formed of doctors, lawyers, and other professional men to maintain in our own day the spirit of good companionship which distinguished the original Order of Good Time, are donating the furnishings for the Community Room in the reconstruction of the "Habitacion" at Lower Granville, which is expected will be formally opened this summer. Champlain established the order to keep up the moral and maintain good fellowship and good cheer among the members of the pioneer settlement. Each in his turn held office as Grand Master for a day and it was his duty to cater for the whole company. As it became a point of honour to fill the 'pos with credit, he was usually busy for several days in advance hunting, fishing, or bartering provisions with the Indians. Thus the tables were bountifully supplied with all the luxuries of the forest. The invited guests were Indian chiefs, braves, squaws, and even little papooses, for the French took great pleasure in including the Redskins in their festivities.

War or no war, the lure of buried treasure still becomes to adventurous persons and the latest is an effort to retrieve was said to be a fortune in gold sunk with the hulls of three French frigates in the Richibucto river off the town of that name in New Brunswick around 1760. There are several stories of buried treasure in the Maritime Provinces, some of it pirate loot and companies have been formed in an endeavour to locate and extract it from the ground. The most famous of these states R. J. S. Weatherston, general passenger agent of the Canadian National Railways, at Moncton N.B., has to do with the notorious Captain Kidd, who it is claimed buried fabulous treasure on Oak Island in Mahone Bay, off Cheshire, on the south shore of Nova Scotia. There are also tales of buried treasure around St. Martins, on the Bay of Fundy, New Brunswick, and numerous pits bear witness to the moonlight digging parties that have been staged in an effort to find it. So far as is known, no treasure has ever been found at any of these places, both summer tourist resorts, but the stories still lure the adventurous on and who can tell but that some day their persistence will be rewarded.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir—After reading Mr. Russell's letter in your last issue I decided to go down and see the much maligned Cannon Bank Park. On the way down I kept steeling myself against the sight that I was afraid would meet my eyes. "It must be a terrible thing," I said to myself; "Mr. Russell says so." Imagine my surprise and disappointment when I arrived. I had expected a scene of desolation and despair, dying pines and withered grass. True, I did not avail myself of the pleasure of throwing myself on the "lovely green sward" and the shaking off of fragments of wizard (a good plug for the manufacturers) sheep manure. However, from what I saw of the park it seemed to me to be a long way from what Mr. Russell claims for it. To my mind, despite its shortcomings, the park is a great improvement to the north side of the approach to the pier.

Mr. Russell's sarcasm in reference to the view to the south and east of the park seems rather pointless. No matter where the park had been placed those views would still exist unless the park visitors were instructed to keep their eyes "steadfastly to the sea." Or perhaps we could and have those industrial make a deal with Mr. Hitler buildings and homes bombed out of the way. We could also have the federal government move the pier and then the Princess Helene, "sitting like a hen amongst a brood of mangy chicks" would no longer be visible. Then Mr. Russell would be able to sit and stare at the blue water to his heart's content.

No, Mr. Editor, I think that the Park and its persevering perpetrators should be heartily commended. They have created a little bit of beauty to relieve the drab ugliness that must be a part of every dock-side area. In his attempts to be sarcastic Mr. Russell has, I fear, done Nova Scotia's "dinky little railroad" a rank injustice. Does he not know that its famous "Bluenose Special" brought the province, especially this part of it, valuable publicity? As for the "dinky little engines" I'll warrant they're the equal of any used by any of the smaller railroads in Canada. Perhaps, however, the D.A.R. (those letters are no mystery to any traveller in the Land of Evangeline) will consider putting in a fleet of super dreadnought engines to puff back and forth for his benefit.

Now, about the lumber. As I understand it, the placing of the lumber on the Cannon Bank is a war measure, necessitated by the lack of shipping facilities due to the war. That lumber is going to Britain to help in the rebuilding and repairing of bomb-damaged homes, homes perhaps like those on Maiden Lane. That lumber will not be there when the war is over. Perhaps it will only be there a short while until ships are available to transport it to the Motherland. Lumber is not an ethereal substance; wherever it is put it must be seen, it must obstruct some view. Mr. Russell's idea seems to be, "I don't care where you put it as long as it doesn't obstruct my view of the sea." He also seems to have a persecution mania and hints that the lumber is being put on that lot in order to wreak dire vengeance upon him. How ridiculous that sounds! As if any business man would do such a foolish thing! As a matter of fact, very little of the lumber is actually in front of his house—most of it is further down the street. I'll warrant the owner doesn't want it there any more than Mr. Russell, and as soon as ships are available will be only too glad to get it off his hands. That lumber, you know, is part of the "tools" that Britain needs. Before passing from the matter I should like to draw your attention to one of the statements in the Russell letter. That is the one in which he mentions that "the second John Russell will have to climb to the ridgepole in order to get a view of the Basin." In reading that I could not help picturing in my imagination the chubby little second edition of the elder John perched precariously on the ridgepole, his dimpled cheeks all rosy and his eyes agleam as he calls down to his father, "Oh, daddy, I can really see the Basin, but, daddy, there's a nasty little boat out there covering a part of it." A true chip off the old block.

In his letters Mr. Russell keeps making vague allusions to a "Hitler" in our midst. I am afraid he is letting his imagination run away with him. However, if there are any Hitlers or Hitlerites in Digby Mr. Russell should stop beating around the lumber pile and give us their names so that they could be interned. Perhaps, though, anyone who piles lumber between Mr. Russell and the Basin is to him a Hitler. I wish that was the real Hitler's only crime.

Anxiously waiting Mr. Russell's further utterances on, I believe, town streets and dumps, I remain,
Yours for better parks,
Dopus.

The Editor of the Courier:

Sir—Read with great interest your editorial on advertising Digby's tourist industry. I should greatly appreciate it if you would allow me to comment on that editorial.

Although Digby has been a tourist town for fifty years or more it is still in a very rudimentary stage as a tourist centre. What Digby needs is not advertising but developing.

When a storekeeper goes into business he first stocks his shop, gives his possible customers something to buy, then he advertises in order to bring customers to his store. The same should be true of a tourist centre. First it should provide its stock in trade, then it should advertise its wares. The idea of the Board of Trade spending $2000 to advertise Digby as a tourist centre strikes me as being as sensible as a storekeeper spending a like amount for window dressing, trade dummies, and nothing for stock.

What has Digby to offer as a tourist centre? True, as one speaker at a Board meeting said, she has lots of ozone, vegetables filled with vitamins, but what else? Even the proudest Digbyite must admit, very little.

If the "question of the hour" is "What is Digby doing to develop the tourist trade?" and if the Board of Trade desires to answer that question it must go at it in a business-like way. It must treat Digby's tourist industry not as an established business with its machinery, stock in trade, business props all in running order, but as a new business, a new enterprise that has to be developed from the ground up. First it must put the business premises in order, put in a stock of goods and then advertise for customers to partake of its wares.

Although I have never been a great advocate of the tourist industry, I can see that Digby has great potentialities as a tourist centre, but those potentialities must be developed if Digby is going to be successful as a tourist town. First we must make the town

WOMAN OF 78 SPY AS A CRICKET

Feels More Like 48

Aches and pains are not inevitable in old age. When they do come, there is always a cause for them. Here is a little lesson on growing old, by a woman of 78.

"For the last five years I have taken Kruschen-Salts and I tell you truthfully I could not live without them. I am 78 years old. I have hardly a pain in my body, and I feel almost as young as I did at 48. I give the credit to Kruschen-Salts. No one will believe my age."

—(Mrs. C. M. Most people grow old long before their time because they neglect one vital need of health—the need for internal cleanliness. Eventually they start the Kruschen habit. Then, probably for the first time in years, they start getting rid every day of all waste matter from the system. They begin to feel energetic and happy. In a word, they've got that "Kruschen Feeling."

attractive. By that I do not mean we must banish from it all signs of any other industrial activity. Far from it! As I have stated before, the tourists are interested in local industry especially now in wartime. Next we must provide entertainment for the visitor. This need not be elaborate, develop local sports, regattas, sports days, (here is where the much discussed half-holiday can play its part,) band concerts, street dancing, community sing songs, beach parties and other entertainments. Then, when these things are arranged for, comes the advertising stage of the game. If a program such as this were followed the advertising of Digby as a tourist centre or resort would be useful and would bring results.

No, Mr. Editor, I do not think that, if the Board of Trade or any other organization in town ever accumulates $2000 to spend to develop Digby as a tourist resort, it should consider spending it on advertising. Rather, it should plan a program to provide Digby with the stock in trade to fit it for a tourist resort and then, and only then, attempt to advertise it as such.

Victor G. Cardozo.

Supreme Court Has Short Session

The spring term of the Supreme Court for Digby County was held in the Court House on Tuesday, Mr. Justice Archibald, presiding. It was a very short session, opening at 10.00 o'clock and closing at 12.00.

There was only one case on the docket, the King vs. Joseph Arthur Saulnier, arising out of the death of Albert Melanson, in an automobile accident at Maxwelton, last November. The judge, in instructing the Grand Jury, reviewed the case thoroughly. The jury found "No Bill" and the accused was released. In discharging the juries the judge complimented the Petty Jury on their 100 per cent attendance.

HOW TO COMBAT Rheumatic Pains

OBITUARY

Mary Martha German
At Meteghan, May 20, Mary Martha German, age 58, passed away at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Lizzie Trahan, with whom she had resided for more than twenty-five years.

Deceased was an invalid and blind from her childhood, as the result of an illness following three brothers: Henry, John and Frank German, all of Meteghan. Funeral service took place Wednesday from Stella Maris Church, conducted by Right Rev. Mgr. Bourneuf, pastor.

Mrs. Sarah Horner
The death of Mrs. Sarah Horner, widow of Anthony Horner, occurred at Little River, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sydney Denton, at the age of 87. She was the mother of nine children of whom seven are living: six sons and one daughter: Mrs. Sydney Denton, Little River; Gilpen and Arch, Tidville; William and Robert, in the United States; Bernard, Milltown, N. B.; Irving, Halifax; also twenty grand children and thirteen great grand children. Her husband predeceased her many years ago. Funeral services took place at the home of her daughter, Rev. Arthur Glendenning, pastor of the Freeport Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in the Little River Baptist Cemetery, of which church she was a member. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

Amos E. Outhouse
On Sunday Amos Edgar Outhouse passed to his eternal reward. Three weeks ago he visited relatives in Tiverton and East Ferry, where he was stricken with paralysis. His physician was called and he took him to the home of Geo. Harrington, Sandy Cove, where he had been boarding for several years, and there he very quietly passed away. Mr. Outhouse was born in Freeport, August 22, 1882, married Miss Mae Brown also of Freeport, who predeceased him a few years. He was a member of Seventh Day Adventist Church and was keenly interested in everything pertaining to the advancement of Christ's Kingdom. He was an ardent Temperance worker, a member of Home Division, of Smith's Cove. Highly respected by all who knew him. Mr. Outhouse will be greatly missed. Burial took place on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. F. E. Roop of Barren Baptist Church conducting the service, with interment in Zion United Cemetery, Sandy Cove. Hymns sung were "Rock of Ages," "Unto the Hills Do I Lift Up Mine Eyes," and "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer."

B. Vernon Bent
The death of Bowwater Vernon Bent, a former and well known resident of Digby, occurred at the home of his son, Eric, in Yarmouth, last Thursday, after a long illness. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Bent, and was born in Digby 58 years ago. His wife, who was Miss Effie Hamilton, of Rockville, Yarmouth County, predeceased him four years. Left to mourn are two sons and two daughters, Vernon B., now in Cape Borden, Ontario; Ruby (Mrs. Charles Hyson), Yarmouth; Hazel, (Mrs. Robert Frizzell), Kentville; Eric, Yarmouth; two sisters, Mrs. William Snow, Digby, and Mrs. Fred Prime, Medford, Mass.; and one brother, Wilbert K., in Halifax. The remains were brought to Digby and the funeral took place Saturday afternoon from Ramsay's Funeral Parlors. Interment was in the Church of England Cemetery, Rev. F. B. Gaskill officiating. The floral offerings, which were very beautiful, showed the esteem in which he was held.

Mrs. Manning Dondale
At Princesdale, on Thursday, May 15th, Priscilla Jane, wife of Manning Dondale, and daughter of the late Edward and Joanna (Fraser) Berry, passed away at the home of her son, Ervin, where she was visiting. The deceased was 71 years of age, and had resided at Prince Dale until three years ago, when due to ill health, she gave up her duties as housewife, and she and her husband went to reside at the home of their son, William, at Milford Corner, Digby County. Those left to mourn the loss of a faithful wife and mother, are: her husband; two sons and one daughter: William, of Milford Corner; Ervin, Princesdale; and Elsie (Mrs. Vernon Crosby), Richmond, Yarmouth County; also a sister, Emie, (Mrs. Charles Dondale), of Cambridge, Mass.; a brother, Ernest M. Berry, of Hull, P. Q.; and four grand-daughters. The funeral service, conducted by Lic. William Randall, was held in Clementsvalle Baptist Church, of which the deceased was a member, following a short service at the home of her son. Interment in Clementsvalle Cemetery. Hymns sung at the home were "My Saviour First of All" and "The Garden of Prayer," by the Clementsvalle choir; "There'll Be No Dark Valley" and "Asleep in Jesus," and a solo: "The Land Where We'll Never Grow Old," by Mr. Randall; "Shall We Meet Beyond the River" was sung at the grave. The pall-bearers were John, Moody and Lewis Wright and Reggie Fraser. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

Emile Lombard
The death of Emile Lombard, well known young Digby carpenter, occurred suddenly at his home, Victoria St., on Friday, May 23. He had been working in Halifax for a few days, and was stricken while returning home Thursday evening. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Reta Ward, and son, Freddie, of Digby; also his parents, at Little Brook; five brothers, all of Little Brook, and two sisters. Funeral services took place Saturday afternoon from St. Anne's Church, at Church Point.

Mrs. Minard Bent
Mrs. Minard Bent, of Granville Ferry, passed away at the Annapolis Royal General Hospital, on Thursday, May 22, at the age of 82 years. The funeral service was held in the Baptist Church, on Friday afternoon, the pastor, Rev. Leon Wright, conducted the service, and interment was made in the Granville Centre Cemetery.

Stanley Bogart
Stanley Bogart passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Rupert Shaffner, Granville Ferry, on Thursday, May 22, at the age of 88 years. Mr. Bogart had been in failing health for some time. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Colp, of British Columbia, and Mrs. Shaffner, with whom he lived; and two grandchildren.

The B. Y. P. U. of Deep Brook
The B. Y. P. U. of the Deep Brook Baptist Church, closed its activities for the season with a social in the hall, on Friday evening, May 23rd.

After games, contests and singing, Rev. B. R. Hamilton gave a short talk to the young folks on "Choosing the High Road of Life". Following this, a presentation was made to Robert Walker, who left Saturday for Halifax en route to Esquimaux, B. C., where he has been called for naval training. Mrs. Ruth Walker accompanied him to Halifax.

Improved Prices Encourage Production

There are definite signs throughout the province that farmers are stepping up production where possible, as a result of the encouragement given by the improved market situation in dairy products, hogs and poultry.

Anticipation of the fixing of a satisfactory minimum price for butter was responsible for an increase of 11 per cent in the production of creamery butter for April over the same month of last year, and the indications are that the production for May will show an even greater increase.

Now that the minimum price has been set at approximately the figure expected, there is still time for farmers to prepare for greater production during the coming months. Increased dairy production, on a short term program, is largely a matter of better feeding, as has been mentioned several times in this column. This was stressed during the past week by C. E. Boulden, provincial animal husbandman, in a radio interview on the CBC farm broadcast, during which he dealt with the whole problem of greater dairy production and the proper management of the dairy herd.

In the poultry world, the announcement of two orders totalling 180,000 cases eggs each for export during the next few months, has stimulated the belief there will be a steady market for poultry and eggs during the balance of the year at good prices. Reports coming from all parts of the province are that poultry producers are increasing their flocks, particularly for egg production. Although the hatching season is near an end, there is still time for poultrymen to purchase more chicks or started pullets.

The hog situation has also substantially improved with more recent announcement of an increase in the price to be paid for Canadian bacon. The hog marketings for April were substantially heavier than for the same month of last year, although final figures are not yet available.

While beef production is not a large industry in Nova Scotia, there are certain sections, notably the Cornwallis-Annapolis valley, where beef production can be undertaken profitably. Canada produces sufficient beef for its own requirements, and there is some opportunity for beef men in Nova Scotia to increase their production. Prices are good, and where conditions warrant, serious consideration should be given to the possibility of stepping up production.

The system of conducting "short tests" of farm soils by fieldmen who visit farms in various districts of the province, as a means of providing immediate information as to the fertilizer requirements of the soil will be carried on once more this season by the soils and fertilizer division of the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture. Last year more than 4700 farm soils were tested in this manner, with more than 1800 farms visited. Fieldmen have already been allotted to the counties of Antigonish and Guysboro, Inverness and Cape Breton Island, Hants, Lunenburg and Yarmouth, and arrangements are being made for carrying on the work in other counties as well. Four fieldmen will be engaged in continuing the north shore survey.

The soils division also carries on tests of farm soils at the provincial laboratory at Truro, and farmers are urged to send in samples for testing. Prof. Harlow, provincial chemist, repeats the advice given to farmers last year regarding sending in soil samples. "Samples of soil sent in are only valuable when they are an average of the field on which information is desired. The easiest way to get a good sample is to bore down with an old 1 1/2 inch auger until the color of the soil changes. An ordinary hand trowel can also be used. The operation should be repeated in about ten places scattered over the field, saving the samples obtained in a piece of thick paper. The samples should then be well mixed and about a cupful sent into the soils division at the agricultural college at Truro. It is also important for the farmer to give what advance information he can as to the field from which the samples have been taken, as to what the farmer's experience has been with the field, and what crops have been seeded on the land.

Co-Operative Marketing in Cape Breton

More than 375,000 lbs. of vegetables of various classes were marketed through co-operative groups on the island of Cape Breton last season, according to the report of H.

Barteaux, Dominion fruit and vegetable inspector at Sydney. This included about 4000 bags of potatoes, all sold on the graded basis.

New Barley Club

A new junior farm club in the production of barley has been organized at Cobeguid Bay, in Colchester county, reports Geo. Cook, agricultural representative for that county. This club is being sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, of Truro, which organization in recent years has also been sponsoring junior potato clubs.

New Shorthorn Calf Club

A boys' and girls' shorthorn calf club has been organized at Middle Steklacke, with eleven members, reports J. A. Steele, Dominion livestock representative. Leader of the club is Horatio Bates, and president is Stanley Dickie. The club has arranged to hold a judging class on June 13.

First Home Craft Short Course

First of a series of home-craft short courses for young women to be held this summer under the auspices of the N. S. Department of Agriculture, and the Federal department of labor under the youth training plan, is scheduled for Upper Canada, Kings county. Miss Helen Macdougall, superintendent of Women's Institutes, who is directing this short course program, states that a total of 377 young women have now been signed up for this course, comprising one of the heaviest registrations yet experienced for any of these courses, and is representative of all parts of the county. A full programme of such short courses is being arranged for the coming months.

FREEPORT

On Tuesday evening a party was held in the "Nueva" by the young people in honor of David Perry, of the R. C. A. F., who leaves soon to complete his training in Prince Edward Island.

William Melanson went to Yarmouth on Monday for military training but returned on Wednesday, as he was physically unfit.

Members of Chippewa Lodge, I. O. O. F., attended service at the Baptist church on Sunday morning. A special sermon for the occasion was delivered by the pastor, Rev. A. Giendening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haines spent a few days last week in Saint John.

Miss Erna McCullough, of Tiddville, visited friends here over the week end.

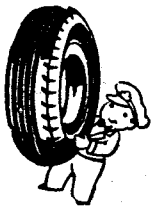

Miss Ida Peters, of Westport, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Theodore Morrell.

The Life of Winston Churchill

--The Man Who'll Beat Hitler

Despite the demands of influential Britons Stanley Baldwin passed over Winston Churchill and appointed Sir Thomas Inskip as Minister for the Co-Ordination of Defence in March, 1936. Unfortunately, however, this position was more or less a sinecure—virtually everything went on as before, though the dark shadow of Nazi tyranny was looming nearer and nearer.

Later in the same year, Winston Churchill, a continuous and consistent critic of what he termed the government's spineless policy declared: "Everyone can see what the position is. The Government cannot make up its mind, or cannot get the Prime Minister to make up his mind, and so they are decided only to be undecided, resolved to be irresolute, adamant for drift, all-powerful for impotence."

Talking to an interviewer at this time, Churchill said: "Things are not moving nearly quickly enough. Germany is going 'all out' to develop her air force, while we are dawdling. Baldwin has been told, but he will not listen."

OUTSMARTS RIBBENTROP

Winston Churchill met von Ribbentrop about this time at a dinner given by one of England's society hostesses. Ribbentrop indulged in a long and tiresome eulogy of Hitler, describing him as the Saviour of Mankind. When their hostess asked Winston Churchill what he thought of this, he replied by quoting an anecdote of Talleyrand. When Talleyrand was told that France had produced a Saviour, he replied:

"When, after he has been crucified, he returns from the grave, I shall be prepared to worship him!"

CRISIS!

In September 1938 the Czecho-Slovak crisis burst on a thoroughly alarmed world. Neville Chamberlain has succeeded Baldwin as British Premier but the policy of inertia and laissez-faire had remained. The result was the Munich Surrender.

Again Churchill's voice was raised in shrill warning. "It is necessary," he said, "that the nation should realize the magnitude of the disaster into which we are being led. . . . It is a policy to be preserved on a basis it can only be by a combination of all the powers whose convictions, and whose vital interests, are opposed to Nazi domination. A month ago it would have been possible. But all was cast away."

Brigadier Gen. B. W. Browne, D.S.O., M.C. Adjutant General, Department of National Defence.

posed to Nazi domination. A month ago it would have been possible. But all was cast away."

Churchill's warnings went unheeded, as almost worldwide relief was felt that "peace" had been preserved.

ALARM!

March 1939, and Hitler sent his tanks rumbling through the streets of Prague. Gone was the slightest vestige of pretence. "Peace in our time," so ostentatiously expressed in the letter signed at Munich by Hitler and Chamberlain, was a dead letter—another "Scrap of Paper."

Britain's awake, the Government started desperate endeavors to increase the nation's fighting ability, but the one man who had done most to warn the nation of its peril and whose presence in the Cabinet would have revitalized the people, was still left on the doorstep.

People started the wearing of "Churchill" buttons; there was an almost irresistible cry from the people for Churchill's return, but it was only when the die was cast, and war declared that stubborn Mr. Chamberlain was forced to yield to pressure, and on September 3, word was flashed to all units of the Fleet, "Churchill's back!"

In the House of Commons Mr. Churchill said: "This is no war for domination or material gain, no war to shut any country out of its sunlight and means of progress. It is a war to establish, on impregnable rocks, the rights of the individual, and it is a war to establish and revive the stature of man."

MARRIAGES

Kierstead - Porter

A pretty wedding of interest to relatives and friends in Digby and Annapolis Counties, was solemnized recently, at the parsonage of Central Baptist Church, in Saint John, when Thursa Lillian, second daughter of Mrs. Edna Porter and the late Bruce C. Porter, of Saint John, (formerly of Victoria Beach), became the bride of Fusilier Arthur Purley Kierstead, C.A.A.F., oldest son of Purley Kierstead and the late Mrs. Kierstead, of Coles Island, Queens County. N. B. Rev. Abner J. Longley officiated and a number of friends witnessed the ceremony. The bride wore a dress of powder blue French crepe with blue and white accessories and carried a bouquet of sweet peas in pastel shades. Her attendant, Miss Edith Porter, a sister, wore a dress of jubilee rose French crepe with matching hat, and carried a nosegay of sweet peas centred with a pink carnation. Fusilier Murray Dickinson, C.A.A.F., was best man. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Goodwin, 42 Leinster Street. White streamers and white bell decorated the dining room, while the table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. About thirty guests were present and friends of the bride assisted in serving. The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a bracelet, the groom's gift to the best man was a leather bill-fold. Mr. and Mrs. Kierstead have been the honoured guests at a number of social functions and have been made the recipients of many lovely gifts. Among the gifts received was a chest of silverware from the bride's former employer, L. Cohen, of the Cohen Clothing Co., and Mrs. L. Cohen.

Graham - Shepherd

The marriage of Miss Priscilla E. Shepherd, of Grand Manan Island, and Roylston D. Graham, of Centreville, Digby County, was solemnized Sunday afternoon, May 25, at Glenwood Avenue, Portland, Maine. The bride wore a beige gown, redingote style with tulle lace accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and sweet peas. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Ernest Fletcher, who wore navy blue with beige accessories and a corsage of sweet peas and lilies of the valley. Mr. Fletcher was best man. The bride is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alvin W. Shepherd, of Grand Manan Island; she attended the schools in Grand Manan; later entering the Augusta Maine Grand Hospital School of nursing, being a graduate of same. She has been doing private nursing duty in New York. Mr. Graham is employed in Saint John in the winter and Grand Manan during the summer months, being the first to introduce the making and curing of fresh and smoked fillers on the Island. Out of town guests included his sister, Mrs. Cynthia Fellows, of Haverhill, Mass.; Mrs. Francis Hersey and son Beverly, and George C. Height, of Waltham, Mass. A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher, on Sawyer St.

Master Scroll for Victory Loan Torch

Here is the Master Scroll, which will accompany the Torch on its way across Canada and thence over the Atlantic for presentation to Prime Minister Winston Churchill as a symbol of Canada's loyal determination to fight on until victory has been won. Besides containing a message to the British leader, the Scroll will also contain the signatures of Federal, Provincial and Municipal officials. The Scroll will be contained in a specially-constructed cylinder, which has been built into the shaft of the Torch. Addressed to the Right Honourable Winston Churchill and written in both English and French, the text of the Scroll reads:

"Canada, with other nations of the British Commonwealth and their Allies, will fight on to victory no matter how long and tollsome the road. Given the tools we shall finish the job. Canada's Victory Loan, 1941, is part of the tools. 'Canada carries the Torch to Great Britain. Within this Torch is contained this Scroll. Upon this Scroll are inscribed the names of the Governor-General of Canada and the Prime Minister, the Lieutenant-Governors and the Premiers of the nine provinces and the Mayors of the cities. This Scroll and this Torch represent the pledge of the Canadian people, signed, sealed and delivered, that we shall fight on to the end and that the end shall be Victory."

OBITUARY

Miss A. A. Haines

The death occurred on Friday morning, of Miss A. A. Haines, at the home of Mrs. Lochia Haines, of Freeport, where she had made her home for the past four years. She was 79 years of age. Funeral services were held at the home on Saturday afternoon, conducted by Rev. A. Glendenning.

Charles Power

Charles Power, formerly of Montclair, N. J., died very suddenly from a heart attack, on May 27th, at Daytona Beach, Florida, where he has spent the past few winters. He was buried in Montclair with private funeral services. Mr. Power is well known in Digby, having been a summer resident for years.

Mrs. Vincent J. Comeau

Mrs. Vincent J. Comeau, 45, of St. Martin de Clare, passed away at the residence of her father, Elise S. Robichaud, May 27, where she had been visiting. She had been in poor health for some time. She was a devout Catholic. Surviving are her husband, a young daughter Yvonne, her father, a sister Rosalie, and a brother Fred Robichaud. Rev. Sister Elise, of St. Mary's Convent, Church Point, is an aunt. The deceased was well-known and highly respected. Funeral services with high mass of requiem took place Thursday morning at 7.30 at Stella Maris Church. Right Rev. Mgr. Bourneuf, pastor, officiated. The Rev. Sisters of the Sacred Heart Academy with their students were present.

Mrs. Amy Dugas

A well known and highly respected lady of Meteghan, Mrs. Amy Dugas, passed away Thursday, May 29, age 86. Her husband, Louis Dugas, predeceased her 32 years. Mrs. Dugas was a daughter of the late Urbain F. Doucet, of Meteghan, one of the first Acadia members in the Provincial Legislature. She belonged to the Sodality of St. Anne, and was a life member of the Propagation of the Faith, also in many other religious organizations of the parish. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Mary Ann Sheehan; a nephew, Eddie Sheehan, who resided with her; an adopted son, a nephew, Joseph Dugas, of Meteghan. Funeral services,

Mr. Russell Replies to "Dopus"

To the Editor of the Courier.

Sir:—Through you, I'd like to say a few things to Dopus. First, Dopus, you are a coward, for you dared not put your full and correct name to your letter. And the lowest level to which the human being may descend is that of cowardice.

Now, as you say, about the lumber: This lumber may truly be a war measure, to be used to rebuild the devastated homes of England—of course at a most satisfactory profit to the owners of said lumber—but no same person would ever attempt to argue that the placing of it on the Cannon Bank constitutes the war measure. It would be equally a war measure were it piled on the hilltop back of the golf links, where lumber and pit props were piled last winter, and not in just the spot where it was bound to annoy most people, and do injury to most property, and destroy most the vaunted beauty of Digby. The cost of moving it from mill to pile and from pile to ship, would be no greater by one route than by another.

No sir, madam Dopus, all this lumber junketing is merely a result of some agreement, of benefit to each, between the H. T. Warne Company and the Maritime Fish Corporation, and was proceeded with without the least consideration for the rights, opinions, and feelings of the people, who would be annoyed and whose properties would be injured by the presence of these lumber piles.

This kind of practice has always been a great favorite with Hitlers, Mussolines, dictators, and such like creatures, since the world began, no matter whether they were the bosses of little towns, or the lords of millions.

As to your reference to "a true chip off the old block," well, dear Dopus, with all my heart I thank you. No compliment could be more acceptable to me than to be told I'm like my father, whom many old timers in Digby can remember as a man kind to all, especially to his own, and well beloved by everybody. He probably had his failings—he liked to argue (indeed his little harness shop, which stood opposite to where the Buyrite Store is now, and about where the north end of the Post Office is, was known as the Tory Sweat Box, because of the political steam that could be seen coming through the open door when some outargued Grit sought to flee from the arena. The only one of the frequenters of the Sweat Box left, is I imagine, Mr. VanBlarcom. It took the place of our present Jove's lolling post in the Department of Stationery, he went to prayer meeting and church regularly, and sat in almost the front pew (often to his children's discomfort), and he was strong on his Bible and stronger in prayer.

But with all these faults, he was never the man to so defile himself; when there seemed need for the discharging of an old and faithful employee, and the force of public opinion would have been unfavourable to such a discharge, by putting that employee into the delivery horse barn, there to shovel horse manure till he became so fed up with that sort of persecution that he'd voluntarily quit the job. He had had that done to him once in his life; he was too much of a man to practice it on someone else.

You see, Dopus, what a compliment you paid to me, and perhaps I can't thank you enough. A chip off the old block—I wish I had a third Johnnie Russell, who might perhaps,

INITIATIVE

Place two men on similar jobs. One will go ahead and do his work without supervision and inspection. The other has to be told almost every move to make. One has initiative. The other is just a run-of-mine plodder. Which of the two is designed for better things?

Lobster Season Ended Saturday

The lobster season for District 4 ended Saturday at sunset. This was the last day on which lobster fishermen from Digby to Halifax counties could haul lobster pots. A six months' closed season follows. For a variety of reasons the lobster season was successful. It began December 1 last with the picture anything but bright. As the entire catch here goes to New England, the market here is the governing factor. Unexpectedly the price climbed as the season advanced, though earlier reports said the market was weak. As a whole the season was much more profitable than the previous one.

Weird Marriage Customs

Quaint indeed, often weird, are marriage customs in India.

Among high-caste Hindus of the Punjab, for instance, the bridegroom, on entering the bridal chamber, finds a sieve hanging on the doorpost. It is put there by the parents of the bride as a warning that the bride has as many faults as there are holes in the sieve.

The bridegroom always carries an iron weapon with him to drive away the evil spirits which haunt him, and with this he cuts down the sieve and throws it away, indicating he is willing to take the bride with all her faults.

Another custom, though now extinct among educated classes, is that before the marriage takes place the mother of the bridegroom goes to the well and sits there with her legs hanging down into it. It signifies that as her son is going to take a wife, she as a mother will be deprived of the authority in the house. She therefore makes a pretense of throwing herself into the well.

become one of Canada's heroes, and thus be the best chip of all, off the old block. That is my one regret.

Yours truly,

John Russell.

About This and That

The Press And Local History

Few people, as they read their weekly newspapers realize that they are reading perhaps the only contemporary history of their community it is possible to read. It is doubtful too if they realize that as each issue gets old, the more valuable it becomes, and that the old files of a newspaper are from a historical standpoint, of incalculable worth.

The newspaper files are the most authentic history of the community available. They tell the story of the community's life as it happens. Past history is important to those who live in the present. Those of us who live in modern surroundings are sometimes apt to forget the sacrifices of those who made the community what it is today. It's not so very long ago when the territory served by weekly newspapers was virgin forest or prairie, untouched by the hand of the white man. It was a territory upon which the plowpoint had never turned a furrow, a wild and beautiful country in its natural state. In the meantime men have worked and schemed and planned; today we have every modern convenience, churches, schools, libraries, theatres, electric lights, sewers, sidewalks, paved streets and a hundred and one other conveniences our forefathers never dreamed of. These things did not come about by chance or by natural evolution. They came about because men toiled ceaselessly to leave behind them better work than into which they came. Their devotion, their struggles, their ideas, their initiative and determination should be an inspiration to succeeding generations. And the record of their achievements appears in the files of the local newspapers, and that is why they are such valuable records of the triumphs of the pioneers.

Few people who contribute to the news columns of the newspaper are aware that they are contemporary historians. They are chronicling the events of community life for posterity, and generations hence will read the story they have told, and from the struggles of this day they will gain inspiration for the struggles of their day. The newspaper preserves the story of our ideals, our problems and our lives, and those who contribute to the news columns of their local newspaper are therefore doing a valuable service for "those who follow in their wake".

For this reason it is essential that contributors write so that the readers twenty-five of fifty years hence may understand the import of the story. For instance some writers are apt to consider a story as of interest only to their particular organization, rather than to the community as a whole. Occasionally one reads an item about a young people's meeting in which John does this, and Mary does that. To the average reader this doesn't convey anything even at the time, and it would convey still less a quarter of a century after it is written. If the same organization wanted to check back for historical purposes many years after John and Mary would not convey to them who were the active members of their group in bygone days.

The newspaper is truly the archives of the community, and as such is of increasing value to the community as files grow older. The readers are therefore personally a part of the newspaper, because their contributions to its columns are helping to record the history of the age in which we live.

Our Comforts—Our Sacrifices

Over there is turmoil, the shock, the soul-searing agony of the worst war in all history. Every man, yes, every woman and child is in the front line bearing the shock, the tortures and the privations of a great bomb-dropping catastrophe.

Over here we have every comfort imaginable. Daily our children go to school without the fear of enemy aircraft roaring overhead. Every day we have bread, butter, milk on our tables. Every night we go to bed without the fear of machine gunning, bomb-dropping, night raiders or flame throwing tanks.

Yes, here in Digby, we have much to be thankful for. But to say prayers of thankfulness alone is not enough. We must keep our powder dry and be ready to sacrifice so that we may continue to be safe in a world without Hitlerism. If we are not prepared to make some sacrifice we do not deserve the freedom we enjoy. If we are not prepared to give "The Tools" to Churchill, we must be ready to accept the Hitler's, the Goering's and the Germany.

Nova Scotians would do well this week of the Victory Loan campaign to re-read the text of President Roosevelt's most recent speech. Twice in that momentous address the President mentioned the vulnerability of Nova Scotia if Germany ruled the waves and her Luftwaffe gained control of the skies. Well does President Roosevelt know that the bombs will soon be dropping on peaceful, happy and sometimes self-satisfied communities of this province.

Yes, Hitler will soon be in Digby, if Britain falls. When Britain falls, Germany will rule the earth and all its peoples and all its wealth.

How can we in Digby work to prevent such a horrible nightmare? First, we must realize the true implication of the Nazi threat as President Roosevelt explained clearly. Second, we must give the "Tools" to fighting Britain and her courageous leader. Without the tools the Nazi flood will surely engulf us.

To provide the tools, we must have the money. This week Canada asks for this money by offering Victory Bonds, backed by the entire wealth of this great Dominion. Surely this is not sacrifice. It is a gift-edged investment for you future. It is a bomb-proof insurance policy, protecting your home, and on from the many. Canada today Bonds.

To Good Start

The Victory Loan Campaign got off to a good start in Digby. Early in the morning stores, business houses, offices and private homes were decorated with bunting and posters. Later in the forenoon, pupils of the Digby Academy led by the Boy Scout and Girl Guide troops paraded through the streets of the town carrying banners and placards calling attention to Canada's $600,000,000 Victory Loan Drive and urging that the people of Digby and vicinity do their bit to help "furnish the tools".

The school parade even excelled the one in February for the War Savings Campaign. Outstanding in the parade were an improvised "tank" and a float, the latter to call attention to the mass meeting in the evening at the Band Stand.

In the evening a torch parade, headed by the Digby Civic Band, with boy scouts and red-coated mounties, marched to the band stand, where, after the playing of "O Canada" by the Band, under the direction of David Daley, prayer was offered by Rev. M. C. Munn, pastor of the Digby Baptist Church.

Mayor E. J. Theriault also addressed the large gathering. He said: "This is your war and my war—it is a 'money war' and we all have our part to do." He pointed out that the purchasing of Victory Bonds would aid in the defence of Britain and help defeat Hitler and Nazism."

Mayor Theriault's address was followed by another, by Councillor G. Victor Cardoza, one of the Victory Loan Canvassers for the town, who pointed out that we must do our part financially by loaning money to the Government, if Canada is to efficiently maintain her army, air and naval forces.

"The Religious Issue of the War" was the topic of an address delivered by Rev. M. C. Munn, of the Baptist Church, who declared that Nazism with its denial of God, its denial of the dignity of man and of human rights, and its violations of Christian morality and ethics was worse than war.

Prayer was then offered by Capt. Spicer, of the Salvation Army.

Numbers were played by the band between the addresses.

Following the ceremony at the Band Stand, the parade marched to the Soldier's Memorial, where the replica of the Victory Torch was dedicated by Rev. F. B. Gaskill, of Trinity Church. The benediction was pronounced by Father Pepper, of St. Patrick's Church.

Bear River Women's Institute

The regular monthly meeting of the Bear River Women's Institute was held Monday afternoon in the Masonic Room, with a good attendance. In the absence of Mrs. Lovett, Mrs. W. M. Romans, the 1st Vice-President, conducted the meeting.

The reports of committees showed that the Institute is filling a need in the community. Mrs. Charles Green, District delegate, reported on the meeting of the District Executive held at Bridgetown. The Annual Rally will be held on June 11th, at Little Brook, with Saulnierville Institute as hostess. Each member is asked to donate a garment for people who have been bombed out, or for refugee work. These garments will be on exhibit at the Rally. A good representation from this Institute plan to attend this Rally, and a committee was appointed to handle the details. Mrs. Wm. Morine spoke of the work which Mrs. R. J. Anthony, convener of the Work Committee of the Red Cross, wishes to begin. Every one was in favor of helping with this in addition to what is now being done. It was decided to give the receipts of the tea to the Work Committee for this definite purpose. Will any one having odd lots of colored wool please send them to Mrs. Anthony, to be used in making a second afghan. Miss Marion Prude is doing this work for the Red Cross, all odd colors and weights of wool can be used, with pleasing results.

Tea was served to the members and a number of guests. Owing to the amount of business to come before the meeting, there was no program. The next meeting will be in September.

Second ditto — You'll know pretty soon now, dear!

He Has His Own Worries . . . .
How Can He Attend to Your Affairs?

THE man you may wish to name as Executor of Your Will cannot be more than human. No matter how conscientious he may be, his own affairs—home, family, business, health—must naturally claim his first attention. Your beneficiaries may therefore count only upon spare time administration. Is this enough for your loved ones?

It is the business of this Company to administer estates. And not only is our service full time . . . it provides efficiency and knowledge that can only come from long experience and familiarity with estate management. We welcome inquiries, and invite you to discuss your estate problems with us. There is no obligation.

GET MORE PROFITS ON MARKET HOGS by feeding your pigs Quaker Pig Starter

● To make profits from hogs, feed Quaker Pig Starter, and get them ready for market at 200 to 220 pounds weight at the age of about 5 to 6 months.

Quaker Pig Starter is built around oatmeal, and research farms have definitely proved that oatmeal makes pigs grow faster, develops big strong frames, and increases resistance to disease. Because oatmeal is 94% digestible, there is less waste, and the pigs convert it into meat far more quickly and economically.

Scientifically correct, Quaker Pig Starter contains all the 17 ingredients required to give best results in developing strong, fast-growing hogs from the More advanced students will have an opportunity of perfecting themselves in pronunciation, the study of French classics, and the History of French literature.

Carleton Sollows Wins Essay Prize

The Victory Loan Essay Contest for the Rural and Village schools for the Municipality of Digby is over and the prize—a $5.00 War Savings Certificate—will be presented to Carleton Sollows, Grade X, Tiverton.

In judging these essays the committee took into consideration organization of material, clarity of expression and originality of ideas. Most of the essays were of excellent quality and in addition to the winner there are three pupils who deserve honourable mention, viz. Lorraine Young, of Freeport, Doris M. Lewis, of Danvers, and Janice Nichols, of Rossway.

(Carleton's essay will be published in the COURIER next week. It was received too late for this issue.—Ed. COURIER.)

Concert at St. Alphonse

A very pretty and enjoyable concert was held in the Parish Hall, at St. Alphonse de Clare, Sunday evening, under the auspices of Rev. Father M. LeBlanc, rector. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity with spectators from far and near. The program, with the different acts, was a continued series of mirth and feelings of patriotism, especially the tableau "Joan of Arc" at the stake, and the act "Wooling of Canada." The actors from the youngest to the eldest were up to the standard. In their different parts, the choruses were of the best especially the "Carnival of Venice" and the patriotic song "Carry On." The costumes were also very attractive. The concert reflected credit to its director, Rev. Father LeBlanc, and also to those who took parts.

Newly Weds Showered

On Monday evening, May 26, a shower was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Collins Mailing, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Potter, Bear River East. After a short honeymoon in the province, they will return to Wolfville, where they will reside.

V. O. N. To Conduct Annual Canvass

The committee in charge of the annual June membership drive of the Digby branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses report they have organized their districts and named collectors, who will make their rounds within the next two weeks.

In spite of the many demands that have been made upon the public during the past year and more, they are optimistic in their anticipation of the result of their annual canvass. Experience has shown them that in spite of the war Digby citizens realize the importance of maintaining their public health services, for since the beginning of the war, every local public service drive has exceeded records made in other years.

The maintenance and support of the Victorian Order of Nurses in Digby, as well as other similar organizations, is important at all times, and more so in these days—such organizations are doing a magnificent war work on the home front by caring for those who are ill and guarding the health of our children.

Be generous when the V. O. N. canvasser calls at your home or office.

Cousins Meet After 45 Years

Edward Ward, of Pasadena, Calif., was a visitor to Digby this week, and spent a day with his cousin, Fred Barr. This occasion was the first time these cousins have met in 45 years, although Mr. Ward, who is a native of Centreville, Digby County, visited Nova Scotia 19 years ago. On this trip to the Maritimes, he is visiting his sister, Mrs. Fannie Wadlin, Beaver Harbour, N. B., who accompanied him to Digby. Mr. Ward and his cousin, Mr. Barr, left Nova Scotia together 45 years ago to seek fortunes in Boston, the latter returning to his native province, and Mr. Ward finally settling in California.

OBITUARY

Miss Emma A. Smith

Miss Emma A. Smith passed away May 21st. Born in Plympton, Digby County, the youngest daughter of Deldamia Savary and John Smith. As a young woman she went to the United States becoming Matron of a private Children's Home. She spent some years in Western Canada; returning to the old home she devoted many years to her two bedridden sisters giving unselfishly of her energy and time. She leaves behind one of these sisters, eight nieces and six nephews. She was a Christian woman, a faithful friend, and a good neighbor, giving a helpful hand to those who came to her door. She will be missed by her friends.

Mrs. Walter N. VanTassel

The community of Mount Pleasant was saddened on Wednesday, May 28, just at the close of day, to hear of the death of Marion, beloved wife of Walter N. VanTassel. She was the daughter of the late William and Lavinia (Stark) McClary, and was born in Waltham, Mass., on Feb. 29, 1880. She had been a resident of Mt. Pleasant for 45 years. She had been in failing health for a year, and for the past eight months was confined to her bed, where she endured intense suffering with patience. She was a woman of sterling qualities, a good mother, a kind neighbor, ever willing to lend a helping hand in time of need. Mrs. VanTassel was a member of the Church of England and of the Woman's Auxiliary of that church. She leaves to mourn her husband, four daughters, Isabella, (Mrs. Walter Johnson) of Mount Pleasant; Marguerite, (Mrs. Kenneth Golden) of Waltham, Mass.; Dorothy, (Mrs. Clarence Porter), of Roxville, Digby Co., and Mary, (Mrs. Farrell Munroe), and a son Elliott, at home; also ten grandchildren. She was tenderly cared for by her family. The funeral was held on Friday in the Church of England, Digby, conducted by her pastor, Rev. F. B. Gaskill, assisted by Rev. M. C. Munn, of the Baptist Church. The floral tributes were very beautiful, showing the high esteem in which she was held. The pallbearers were, J. W. Merkel, G. H. Peters, A. R. Turnbull and Harold VanTassel. Interment was in the Baptist Cemetery.

Raise $51 for Queen's Fund

The largest single donation for the Queen's Canadian Fund to be received by the Courier, was passed to the editor yesterday afternoon, and has since been placed to the credit of the fund. The sum was $51.00, which was the net proceeds of the old fashioned barn dance arranged by students of the Digby High School. The dance, held last Friday evening in the Boy Scout Hall, was well patronized, and it is hoped another of its kind will be arranged for the same fund in the near future. Rustic decorations lent an atmosphere which was added to by the rustic costumes of many of the dancers. Special features of the evening were the old-fashioned dances. Over $51 was cleared for this worthy cause, and much credit is due the young people for doing their bit in such a creditable manner.

A Message to Canadians

"Just A Reminder" is the name of a poem from the pen of Leonard M. Callup. This poem, written around the thought expressed by its title "Just A Reminder" has become very popular since it was first printed in several Provincial papers.

The theme of the poem is patriotic and timely and the subject matter should make everyone who has read the poem realize that Canadians, whether in uniform or in factories or on the farm, all of them are in this war.

Mr. Callup is offering for sale at a nominal price his poem "Just A Reminder." It is printed very attractively for display purposes on your walls. He will be in town shortly and the citizens of this community will have an opportunity to buy one or more copies of this poem. 38:1ip

Digby Witnesses Military Show

Digby witnessed its first military show since the declaration of war, Wednesday afternoon, when the town was invaded by a motorized unit of 250 men from Aldershot military camp, who came in the interests of recruiting and the Victory Loan Campaign.

The unit was accompanied by a military and Highland Pipe Bands, both of which played numbers before the large crowd that had gathered in front of the Band Stand.

Scheduled to arrive in Digby at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, the company arrived in town on the dot, travelled through the town to the grounds in front of the Scotia Hotel, where lines were formed, and later marched to the music of their bands to the Band Stand.

Large crowds began to arrive in town early in the afternoon, and arrangements were made in order to have school dismissed in time to witness this occasion.

Have You Changed Your Address?

National Registration regulations make it compulsory for persons changing their address for any reason whatsoever, to record same at the earliest possible date; within a maximum of 14 days. Many people are unaware of these requirements and do not know where to register. All Post Offices have printed postcards (ready stamped) on which details of the new address may be given. These postcards can be obtained for one cent each which pays for the postage, and various members of a family can be accommodated on the one card. It is an offence to neglect advising change of address punishable by a stiff fine.

The UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE PLAN

To the Employer...

Contributions to the Unemployment Insurance Fund become payable as from July 1st, 1941.

Contributions are made by the employer and the employee, and are paid by the purchase of Unemployment Insurance stamps by the employer from the Post Offices.

The employee's contributions are deducted from his wages by the employer.

Stamps will be affixed to a special book, called the Insurance Book, by the employer. The book is the employee's record of contributions, and when he becomes unemployed it forms the record from which insurance benefits may be paid. Full details will be sent to you when you have returned the postcard attached to a form which is now in the mails.

The plan of procedure has been adopted after consultation with employer and employee associations and is one which has been based upon thirty years' experience in Great Britain.

The Dominion Government adds 20% to the combined employee-employer contributions.

HON. NORMAN A. McLARTY,
Minister of Labour

Contributions, and in addition, pays the administration costs which include the operation of a National Employment Service for the convenience of employers and employees.

Contributions are payable by all persons while in employment and by their employers, with the exceptions listed in the panel below.

The first duty of every employer will be to REGISTER WITH THE COMMISSION by completing the postcard attached to a form which is now in the mails, and obtaining and issuing insurance books for all his employees. If there is doubt as to whether employees, or any of them, are in your employment, or any of them, are in your employment, ask for instructions when you return the postal card. If you do not receive a form through the mail go to the nearest Post Office and ask for one. All employers must complete registration prior to June 14th, 1941.

The Commission feels that it can be assured of the full cooperation of all employers. Nevertheless, attention is drawn to the fact that registration is compulsory and any failure to register is an infraction of the law and is subject to penalties.

BRITISH EXPECT GERMAN ATTACK AS "ROCK" PREPARES FOR SIEGE

"The Rock" is ready. British defenders of Gibraltar, age-old symbol of strength, have labored since the war began to prepare the granite fortress that guards the western end of the Mediterranean for attack from land, sea, or air. For months the British have expected a German attack there.

They believe the 1,396-foot rock itself could hold out for a year without outside supplies, although the town of Gibraltar and the naval base might be smashed by bombers and long-range guns from Spain, Africa, or the sea.

The bombs and shells exploding on the rock would have little effect on the garrison, the size of which is a closely guarded military secret but generally believed to number more than 15,000 men, since the defenses are built deep inside the big rock.

If Hitler really wishes Gibraltar, military experts say, he will have to send his troops across a narrow, sandy strip of land which is covered by machine-guns protected by 200 feet of solid rock to get it.

The forces engaged in such a frontal assault would have to cross a channel dug by British engineers in the last year as a means of severing the whole colony from the Spanish mainland serving to make an island of the peninsula, which is two and a half miles long and less than a mile wide.

Biggest "gun" at Gibraltar is Gen. John Standish Vennerker, Lord Gort. He is the same man of nails, little sense of humor, and amazing stamina who commanded the British expeditionary force in 1939, the man who was in charge at Dunkerque.

Eyes Don't Betray Crooks

Kicked out of the window by modern science is the theory that a guilty person is the one with shifty eyes.

New experiments by Dr. Frank Berrien, of Colgate University, show that a guilty person can keep his eyes focused on an object, often with more certainty than his accuser. That new fact was discovered with an ophthalmograph, a camera that records the most sensitive moves of the eye-balls.

Students were used as subjects of the professor's experiments, and they were required to steal, touch, or move certain objects before they were questioned about them. While they were undergoing the "third-degree," the ophthalmograph was recording the movements of their eyes.

German Flame Throwers Not New Idea

Flame-throwing, one of the weapons which Germany is using with devastating effect in her march through Europe, is not, as many believe, a strictly modern development. Germany herself used both fixed and portable fire assaults during the first World War. Their success was indifferent, however, and the Allies were not inspired to build similar weapons.

Fixed types of flame throwers are not in use today. Modern types are built in tanks. They have a range of more than a hundred yards and can deliver from 50 to 100 bursts of flame with a total duration of fire from one to three minutes.

Italy, as well as Germany, has armed her tanks with flame throwers. The Germans used them with great surprise effect in the Battle of Flanders when she invaded Belgium and France. She repeated in the Yugoslavian and Grecian campaign.

Flame throwers consist of two containers, one holding oil and the other, connected with the first by a valve, compressed gas, probable nitrogen. When the valve is opened, the gas forces the oil through a pipe, and as it comes out of the nozzle the oil is ignited by means of a fuse or pilot light.

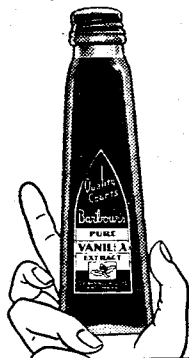

The stream of fire from a flame thrower acts primarily through the flaming oil itself, but the effective heat radiates to approximately three times the diameter of the oil stream.

Soldiers in tanks operating the flame thrower have to be protected by asbestos coats. The flame assault is used principally against tanks, although in the Belgian invasion Germany reportedly fired whole rows of houses with the ghastly weapon.

In attacking tanks, the flame throwers aim the oil stream at the gun slits and other apertures. The oil that gets inside the tank will keep on burning and ignite anything it contacts. When tank is enveloped in flames the air used by the motor is deprived of oxygen, which reduces the speed of the tank and often makes it stop entirely.

The people of Croydon, England, recently experienced another air-raid, but not from the Nazis. The town was invaded by a great cloud of flying ants. Traffic was disorganized and walkers covered their faces with handkerchiefs.

Speaking Of Town Dumps

The Editor of the COURIER:

Sir:—The merriest "Ha! Ha!" of many a year must have echoed and re-echoed through Digby when it became known that our Board of Trade had adopted as its new slogan "Make your town a better town to look at."

How many tongues must have been in cheeks when this slogan was voted on? How many a lover of Digby, as he meditated on how the south end of his town has been about ruined for looks by great piles of lumber, and by clouds of smoke and steam that are the outstanding feature of that section when seen from near or far away, must have realized the false joke of the evening? How many a member of the Board, has that night or next day contemplated the sadistic means by which our town is being ruined, must have felt ashamed of having supported such a slogan, and wondered vaguely just where and how this effort to make our town a better town to look at could possibly begin?

It is certain that nothing can be done to remove the present blemishes, but we might have a few more rutted streets, a few more uncovered town dumps, and, especially, every citizen who cares for the town and who has enough space in front of his house might be importuned to have a pile of lumber placed in his front yard, just so he could realize just how annoying such things are to other people. This would enlighten many a prominent citizen, several churches, the hospital staff, and so on.

Queen Street, 'till a day or two ago, was a nightmare, so bad that cars would have been excused had they been driven on the sidewalks, to compete with the pedestrians and baby carriages — while truckloads of lumber and logs passed by on the main highway. I drove over it today. From Carleton to Prince William it is not so bad, the holes having been filled with dirt, which may remain 'till the next very heavy rain; but from Prince William to the Joggins it's worse than ever. Who is at fault, the Council, the Street Committee or 'Happy Jack'? Or are they just waiting to reinstate some old superintendent, and letting things slide 'till then?

Maiden Lane is the other ruined street. About six hours on the last day the highways were open to heavy trucks, did the job. 'Till about noon that day truckload after truckload of lumber came up the Lane and on to the seaward end of Carleton Street, 'till they began to get axel deep in the mud they had created, and slackened up on their frantic efforts.

The town officials were notified of what was going on, 'till the chairman of the street committee came, to see for himself, but such was the need that the interests of one firm be considered as of more importance than those of the town's citizens that a few words of sorrow were all that were uttered, and, as the damage was by then done, that ended the matter.

Town dumps, a savory and sweet smelling subject indeed.

The one at the south end needs no comment, for its appearance, and even more, its smell, add but little to the ruination that is fast becoming the feature of the end of Digby. The people down there can have no redress, even through their own representatives, to such a state of bondage have they sunk.

The north end dump is worth considering, though. Even if the tourist is not quite disheartened by the lack of shade and scenery in the town park, or hasn't quite made up his mind to go to another town after he's viewed the Cannon Bank's lumber piles, he most assuredly will decide to depart as soon as he gets a view of the north end dump.

There, at the end of King Street, such an assortment of old automobiles, boxes, tin cans, and other rubbish make a harmonious blend of colour that any artist might be tempted to paint a picture of while the smell, though mild when compared with the odor of the south end dump, would still tickle the nose or palate of any high grade cook, and make him decide to build a summer cottage right over the dump.

This dump could easily be covered with dirt. Indeed, I verbally offered the dirt removed from my cellar, which lies only a couple of blocks from the dump, for use on the roads, and this meant it could be used for covering the offence as well. The offer was made to the Town Clerk, but not a shovelful of earth has been used for either purpose, though it could have been had for the carting of it away. I understand Mr. Harris, of the Racquette Gardens, offered to plant perennials on this dump, if it were so covered over, and the offer was received with polite scorn—and then the Board of Trade adopts a slogan.

What about a name for the north end dump? Sure, name it for the city father most willing to have it where it is. The dear old Cannon Bank will have to be renamed also once the youngsters can't play there any more, nor town's people or tourists enjoy its grass edge and glorious outlook. I'll suggest a nice name if my expected opponent will suggest another.

Yours truly,
John Russell.

FOR EVERY CANADIAN who sails the deep, for every airman who flashes through the skies, and for every other man in the fighting forces, the prayers of the nation "rise like a fountain, night and day."

In times of crisis our people stand steadfast. In daily devotions they renew the flame of faith and arm with unseen powers their warriors in the field.

Oftentimes they discern the Unseen Hand. Witness the miracle of Dunkirk. Witness, too, in the darkest hours the emergence of great inspiring figures to steady the ranks of Democracy and fire its courage and confidence.

Church bells are ringing throughout Canada calling men and women to worship and sacrifice in defence of our freedom, the sanctity of our homes and the future of our children.

The Life of Winston Churchill

The Man Who'll Beat

COLONEL E. W. SANSOM, D. S. O.

The British people trusted Winston Churchill, and knew that the Navy was in safe hands, but there was increasing murmurs about the general conduct of the war, and when the Norwegian campaign fizzled out, criticism became widespread.

It became obvious that the British Government needed reconstituting, but leaders of the Labour Party refused to serve in a government headed by Neville Chamberlain. They had no faith in him or his policies.

Then in May 1940, the Nazis attacked Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. Mr. Chamberlain resigned and Winston Churchill became Prime Minister.

In supreme command, just as in the days when he was without either office or party, Winston Churchill shirked no fences. To the House of Commons he said: "I would say to the House, as I said to those who joined this Government, I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

But, he added, "I take up my task with buoyancy and hope." The new Government, now a united body representing all parties, tackled its job indomitably fired with the grim resolve and faith of "Fighting Whinnies."

Gone was all suggestion of appeasement or compromise, gone was complacency. The British nation, to a man and woman, got behind its great leader and accomplished miracles of achievement.

Came the dark days when France faltered. In a last-minute attempt to revive their tottering courage, Mr. Churchill dashed to France and offered them equal partnership with the British Commonwealth of Nations, to share and share alike. Alas! France's will to resist had failed and they gave up the struggle.

Still Mr. Churchill's faith shone out like a beacon. In a broadcast he said: "We have become the sole champions now in arms to defend the world cause. We shall do our best to be worthy of that high honour."

And in another memorable speech, he said: "Let us brace ourselves to our duty and so bear ourselves that, if the British Commonwealth and Empire last for a thousand years, men will say 'This was our finest hour.'"

Mr. Churchill has brought to the people of Britain and to free men throughout the world, new hope. Bringing no message of quick victory, promising nothing for the

Why Canadians Should Buy Victory Bonds

(Prize Essay of Carleton Sollows)

Canada is a democratic nation. Therefore her people enjoy the liberties and freedom which democracy gives a country.

Twenty years ago in Germany a man started a new form of government. A man who had no education and who spent most of his life in flop houses and with gangsters. This man was Adolf Hitler, and his government was the Nazi government.

This government took root and began to grow. Like some great pyramid it went up. A pyramid of iron and blood in the form of the most modern mechanized implements of war. On top of this pyramid was a small fanatic figure blustering and shouting and with the help of his gangster colleagues directing the building of this grim structure of death and tyranny.

This pyramid continued to grow until the small fanatic figure on top could gaze over most of Europe. He began to crave the rich things he saw and to think of the power that would be his if he ruled these vast stretches of land.

By now, this structure of brutal force was so large, that its shadow fell across England. Its deadly chill awakened the people to the awful truth of what that great mass meant. They reacted almost too late, by declaring war; a war that was to involve every democracy and many other nations of the world.

In the building of this gigantic war machine, Germany has been reduced to slavery. Hitler is supreme, his word is law, and any person who talks against him is thrown to the horrors of a concentration camp.

Children are taken from homes and sent to military schools, where they learn the Nazi doctrine and the use of firearms. The young people of Germany are made into so many machines to do Hitler's slightest command. The press is run by the Nazi government; freedom of speech is forbidden; labor is conscripted and run according to the rules laid down by Hitler.

The Nazis are supreme, and the German people are reduced to the lowest form of slavery. That is the picture which threatens the world today.

Do we, the people of Canada, want to live under the same government as the Germans are living? The answer is no! A thousand times no! We want the freedom and liberty that a democratic government can give us.

We use the Beaver to decorate our money. We must ourselves be Beavers and use our money to help build the dam, which will stop this tide of aggression which is sweeping over Europe and is threatening our own shores—a tide which leaves in its wake only desolation and misery.

In order for Canada to do her part in the building of this dam, every Canadian must give freely all that he can afford in the form of Victory Loan Bonds, War Savings Stamps and donations. In this year alone Canada will spend over one billion dollars for war purposes.

With this huge sum of money she will provide training planes, bombers and trained airmen. She will build airports and merchant ships, destroyers, corvettes and train sailors so that she may protect her long coast line. She must have tanks, tractors, anti-aircraft guns, machine guns, ammunition and gas-masks for training purposes and to supply England. She must have raw materials and equipment: hospitals and above all Canada must have democratic government.

In order for Canada to have all of this, every Canadian must give and give all that is possible now.

Don't wait until a Nazi parachute troop drops in your back yard before trying to help win. Help now by buying Victory Loan Bonds and prevent the same fate overtaking Canada that has overtaken so many European countries in the last two years.

CARLETON SOLLWS, Grade X, Tiverton, N. S.

(Prize essay of Edward A. Walker, Grade XII, Digby.)

We are the people of Canada. We are the citizens of a great domain stretching from the sunny orchards of Southern Ontario to the vast wastes of the frozen Arctic, from the snow capped Rockies to the fertile valleys along the Fundy. On each side we are washed by the cool waters of two mighty oceans that keep us from the hands of searching aggressors. Ours is peace and plenty in the heart of prosperity. Freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom from want and fear have never occurred to us as anything out of the ordinary. We take them for granted as did our ancient forefathers, the pioneers, who first blazed the trails through the dim forests.

But across the Atlantic it is a different story. One by one the countries of Europe have fallen before the heels of the Nazi terror. One by one they have been subjugated and run through the Nazi mill to come out stripped of all honour, will and heritage. Each has been divided by propaganda and rendered helpless before the raging terror of mechanized warfare. They failed to co-operate until it was too late, and thus became enslaved in the German Reich. Can we let this happen to Canada? Can we let Canada's shores be stained with the blood of aggression? Now is the time to work together. Now is the time to act, before the invader reaches our shores.

Canada, in her hour of want, is crying out to you. She needs guns, planes, tanks and munitions. She needs trained men and technicians. She needs ships to carry food and equipment to our fighting forces across the seas. She needs bombs and bombers to destroy the German war industries so vital to an army today. She needs doctors and surgeons to relieve the suffering and wounded. Who is to supply these? The Canadian Government is already spending four million dollars a day and there seems no limit to the vast sums yet in sight. The annual taxes and receipts are nowhere near this amount. From where, then, shall this huge sum of money come? If we are worthy of Canada we are the ones to help finance this war. It is our duty to give our last cent towards victory.

If we wish to preserve the freedom of Canada, if we wish to save ourselves and our countrymen from the pangs of the German war machine it is our duty to partake in the campaign of this month. We must back Canada to the full extent of our abilities. The Dominion is protecting us, and it is our duty to help her in every manner possible. For these reasons every worthy citizen should buy bonds to the limit of his resources.

Co-Operation Between Canada's Soldiers and Airmen

In addition to the Canadian airmen already with the fighter and bomber commands in Britain the R. C. A. F. has now formed a complete Army Co-

NAZIS ADVISE DAISIES

As a substitute for butter, nazis have advised German housewives to use daisies as a spread for bread, maintaining that the wild flower is rich in vitamin C and health-giving minerals.

Mothers were advised to spend Sundays in the woods with their children, gathering flowers to be used on the bread during the week. Other plants have been suggested for war time soups.

ways and means to enable all children in the district to receive proper educational advantages, the following resolution, moved by Dr. F. E. Rice, Sandy Cove and seconded by A. R. Turnbull, Digby, passed unanimously:

"Whereas it appears that the shortage of teachers will be even more serious during the next school year than it has been this year; And whereas, this would mean that next year the children in many sections would be deprived of the advantage of professionally trained teachers;

"And whereas, there are several schools in the municipality of Digby with small enrollments;

"And whereas, many of these schools are situated close to schools which are large enough to accommodate some extra enrollment without overcrowding, and which are on roads that are open throughout the year; And whereas, the problem arising due to the scarcity of teachers, could be solved at no extra cost to the sections concerned;

"Be it therefore resolved, that we, the District Board of School Commissioners for the Municipality of Digby, in order to further equalization of educational opportunities, requests that an immediate survey be conducted in order to ascertain which sections, through the use of conveyance, could easily be consolidated.

"And be it further resolved, that the Inspector be authorized to close such schools."

Acaciaville Threatened By Forest Fire

A forest fire, which for a time, threatened portions of the villages of Acaciaville and Conway, was brought under control about noon Monday, after burning over approximately one square mile of woodland. The blaze, which was discovered about 9 o'clock Monday morning, reached alarming proportions about one and one-half hours later, and through stubborn, hard work, was brought under control.

The big job of the firefighters, who came from Acaciaville, Conway, Marshalltown and Digby, was to prevent the fire from spreading in the woods and slash on the east of the D.A.R. track, above Acaciaville station. Had this happened, the high northerly wind blowing at the time, would have carried the fire in the general direction of the Acaciaville Hall, School House and Hill Grove Baptist Church, then possible across the highway into a tract which could lead the fire into the some of the most heavily wooded areas of Digby County.

By spreading across the track the property of John Murley and the Acaciaville African Baptist Church would also have been endangered.

The fire appeared to have originated on the west side of the track almost opposite the Acaciaville Railroad Station, on the property of W. W. DeLong. Its origin is unknown, and although some are of the opinion it was started by a spark from a passing train, the supposed place of origin seems almost too far away to have been started in that way.

Fortunately for the people of the colored settlement of Conway, the wind was blowing away from their community, which was nearest the fire, and at no time were they considered to be in danger.

The fire was pronounced "out" early Monday evening. A heavy downpour of rain late in the afternoon aided the firefighters in extinguishing the blaze.

The burned area, which is about five miles from Digby town, is in a fairly heavily wooded section which has been recently gone over for pit props. Dry slash from these operations made excellent fuel for the flames. There are also large quantities of pit prop slash on the east side of the track and firefighters were most fortunate in being able to extinguish the flames on the one occasion when they crossed the railroad.

"To Consolidate Schools?"

The closing of a number of rural schools in the Municipality of Digby with a view to consolidation with larger school units, is advocated by the School Commissioners for the Municipality of Digby at their annual meeting at the Court House, Digby.

S. S. Aymar presided over the session, and T. A. M. Kirk, Inspector of Schools for Digby and Yarmouth Municipalities, was secretary.

Inspector Kirk reported that within the past four months several teachers in this area had resigned to take better paying positions, and that there will be a shortage of teachers this year.

After thoroughly discussing

Hit By Car—In Hospital

Suffering with a fracture of the left leg, near the hip, Mrs. Mary Merritt, 63 year old widow of Brighton, Digby County, has been admitted to the Digby General Hospital. The injury was the result of an accident, which occurred at Brighton, in front of the store operated by her brother, J. A. Morehouse, on Thursday evening, where she was struck a glancing blow from a car, operated by Harold Simms, of Marshalltown.

Mrs. Merritt was walking in the direction of Digby, along the edge of the pavement on the left side of the road. Simms was travelling in the opposite direction at a slow rate of speed, and well over the edge of the pavement, to a service station at Barton, to have it repaired.

It is believed the "one eye" of Simms' car fooled both Mrs. Merritt and the driver. Mrs. Merritt was struck a glancing blow, but with sufficient force to knock her to the road.

Examination by Dr. W. C. Harris, of Barton, revealed she was uninjured on the side of her body that came in contact with the car, and in the opinion of the physician, her injury was the result of her fall.

A Record

Shelton Digby Queen, a beautiful three year old Newfoundland, presented her owner, Mrs. Dominic Melanson, proprietress of Digby Kennels, with a litter of 14 pups Tuesday evening. One of the litter was born dead, while the other 13, nine of which are males, are normal and lively in every respect. The litter is considered exceptionally large, and the proportion of normal pups for such a litter is regarded unusual.

The mother can only "accommodate" ten at feeding time, and in order to make sure her pups get enough to eat, they are fed three times a day with a bottle.

The father of the pups, Westerland Baron, was imported directly from Newfoundland, while Shelton Digby Queen came from Shelton Kennels, St. Mary's, Ontario.

Digby Kennels have had some unusually large litters during the past year—last winter one of the St. Bernard's had a litter of 18 healthy pups. This is Shelton Digby Queen's second litter, her last was also 14 in number.

Celebrated 91st Birthday

at the home of her son, John L. Marshall, and Mrs. Marshall, South Range, on Saturday, and on Sunday she had with her her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Wilson and Mr. Wilson, Bear River; her son, Hubert, of Conway; her grand-daughter, Mrs. Wilfred Rice, Mr. Rice and two children, of South Range. Another grand-daughter, Ada Marshall, of Bear River, visited her over the week end.

The birthday cake was out at tea time. Mrs. Marshall received many greeting cards, gifts and the best wishes of a host of friends.

We are pleased to state that Mrs. Marshall is still vibrant. She has three living children, 15 grand children and 7 great great grandchildren.

OBITUARY

Leonce LeBlanc

On Wednesday, June 10th, there passed away at the home of her son, Leonce LeBlanc, age 96. Mrs. LeBlanc would have been 97 in October. She was born in St. Bernard's, the daughter of the late Pauline and Jovit LeBlanc, and has resided with her son Louis LeBlanc, of Weymouth, for some years. She leaves to mourn one son, Louis; and two daughters, Mrs. Amy Brun, of Weymouth; and Mrs. W. Combeau, of Saint John. Interment will be held tomorrow from the Catholic Church at Weymouth.

Queen's Canadian Fund

This week we are only able to acknowledge receipts of $6.00 for the Queen's Canadian Fund. Of this amount $5.00 was handed us by the Baptist Young People's Union of the Digby Baptist Church, and the other dollar from Mrs. Fred Hankinson, Weymouth. However, we hope for bigger donations this week, and are encouraged over the fact that the graduating class of the Digby High School are turning over to the fund. The dance will be at Harbor View Casino, Smith's Cove, Thursday evening next.

Geldart - Burrage

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Burrage, Bear River, announce the marriage of their daughter, Helena Marie, to Lloyd Philip Geldart, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Geldart, Sydney. The wedding took place at the Erskine and American United Church, Montreal, on Sept. 4, 1940, the Rev. Bruce Hunter officiating. Dr. Geldart received his B.A. degree from Mt. Allison University in 1937, his Master of Arts from University of Toronto and Doctor of Philosophy from McGill University, this year. The couple are residing in Montreal, where Dr. Geldart is employed by the Meteorological Bureau, St. Hubert Air Port.

Peck - Schaffer

Of interest to the many friends and relatives of the bride in Bear River, was the marriage of Miss Oradelle Peck, daughter of Levi and the late Mrs. Peck, of Bear River, to Samuel Schaffer, of Greenwood, Delaware, U. S. A., the ceremony by a Southern Methodist minister, taking place at Milford, Delaware, on Thursday, May 22nd. Mr. Schaffer is a well-known general-store proprietor and market gardener of Greenwood, where the couple are residing. Previous to her marriage, the bride-to-be was given a shower on May 17th, at her sister Jennie's apartment, in Cambridge, Mass., when many beautiful presents were presented to her. Among those present were Miss Peck's sisters, Jennie and Hattie; her brother, Ernest; her cousins, members of the Wilson family, and Miss A. B. Rediker, pastor of the Bear River Adventist Church, the latter tendering to the prospective bride, the congratulations and best wishes of her Nova Scotia intimate friends and relatives.

Purdy - Henshaw

St. Matthew's Church, Deep Brook, was the scene of an interesting wedding Tuesday, June 3, at 10.30 a.m., when Edith Adella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Henshaw, formerly of Trenton, New Jersey, became the bride of Charles Arnold, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Purdy. The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. A. W. L. Smith, M.A., beneath an arch of apple blossoms. Tulips and narcissi adorned the altar; and at the communion rail were baskets containing matching flowers mingled with apple blossoms. Potted ferns were also used in the decorations. To the strains of Lohengrin's March the young bride entered the church with her father by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a gown of white sheer over white taffeta, with white turban and face veil and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and snapdragon. Her attendant was Miss Mildred Walker, dressed in pink sheer over matching taffeta, with white accessories. Her bouquet was pink carnations and snapdragon. Supporting the groom was her brother-in-law, Eric Adams, and ushers were Raymond Moore, Jr., and Robert Vroom, Jr. During the signing of the register, the hymn, "O Perfect Love" was sung by the choir, all friends of the couple. For travelling the bride wore a rose dress and hat, with grey coat. After a motor trip through the western part of the province, Mr. and Mrs. Purdy have now taken up residence in Deep Brook, where their many friends extend good wishes. Previous to her marriage, a shower was held for this young lady at which a variety of gifts was received. Included was a remembrance from St. Matthew's Sunday School, where she had attended both as scholar and teacher.

THE LOYAL WORKERS

The Loyal Workers met with Mrs. Lewis Banks on Tuesday evening. It was decided to give the $18.00 they received for their quilt, to the Queen's Fund, making a total of $23.00 in all they have sent to that fund. On Tuesday of this week, the Club will meet with Mrs. Clifford Harris. They are all busy quilting a quilt for the Red Cross.

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR LIVER

Back it up right now and feel like a million! Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It pours out bile to digest food, gets rid of waste, supplies new energy, allows proper assimilation to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order food decomposes in your intestines. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. You feel "rotten"—headachy, backachy, dizzy, dragged out all the time. For over 35 years thousands have been prompt relief from these troubles—Fruit-A-Tives. So can you now. Try Fruit-A-Tives—you'll be deeply delighted how quickly you'll feel like a new person, happy and well again. 25c, 50c. Canada's Largest Selling Liver Tablets.

About This and That

THE GUARANTEE OF FREEDOM

This is the closing editorial of a series which was designed to provide our readers with a better understanding of the functions of the press which serves their community. An attempt has been made to deal briefly, simply and adequately with the many phases and relationships between the newspaper and the territory it serves. It is not without purpose that this editorial has been left until the last, because in a sense it sums up what has been said in the previous editorials about the aims, objects, ideals and problems of the community weekly newspaper.

The purpose of this series has been to give a glimpse of the intangible things about a newspaper—the soul if you will. For the newspaper has a soul, and that is what makes it such an important asset in the district it serves. We borrow these words from another writer to explain just why we believe that your newspaper is your guarantee of freedom.

"I am the guarantee of the Canadian way of life—the way of liberty, the way of equal opportunity—the way of free enterprise, the divine way and the true way for national well-being and upward advancement."

Weekly I go into your home—in winter and summer—in spring and fall. I chronicle your birth, your marriage, your death, and the intervening years which mean for sorrow or joy, depression or exaltation, health or pestilence, poverty or wealth, weakness or strength.

Freeborn am I and true to my heritage. I am not the subservient carrier of propaganda which enabled a Hitler to become the master of Germany, nor am I the complacent press which contributed to the downfall of France. I am a friendly visitor. You'll find me constantly at your right hand, week after week. I have character, and even when I hurt you, I know you would not have me spineless.

I provide you with special service. I support to the last drop of my ink your charities, your Red Cross drives, your school, your church, and your service organizations. Yes, I assist in the building of community character.

Through advertising I promote your trade, move your commodities, advance your living standards. I am a bit bashful about mentioning these things, but I want you to rest assured that I am your friend.

I am the Canadian home town newspaper, and without me your liberties would vanish."

Letters to the Editor

The Editor, the COURIER:

Sir: After reading Mr. Russell's remarks addressed to me in your last issue I feel that I must have touched him on some sore spots in my last epistle. I suppose, in order to defend my honour against his charge of cowardice, I should challenge him to a duel. Perhaps butterfly nets at a hundred paces would suit him as weapons. Seriously, though, Mr. Editor, despite Mr. Russell's denouncement of me as a coward, I fail to see how any good purpose could be served by revealing my name. Surely it will not affect the issue? My letter is just as reasonable, my arguments as sound, whether I sign "Dopus" or any other name. Perhaps Mr. Russell desires my name so that he may drag personalities into the argument and thus bring the issue. He seems to have pressed for valid argument to support his side of the case.

Now to deal with Mr. Russell's latest utterances, I shall, if you will permit me, deal with both his letters in one.

When the owners of the lumber that so irks Mr. Russell pile up in the storage field they do it in their own time. That is, there is no great rush to do so. However, when a boat came to carry that lumber away it is imperative that it be loaded in the shortest time possible. It follows, then, that this lumber should be piled close to the loading pier. The Cannon Bank is the nearest available place, therefore the lumber is piled there. Simple, isn't it? To pile the lumber at any great distance from the pier would be "aiming certainly have been poor business economy. I do not imagine that the profit on that lumber is so great that the owners can afford to disregard business economy altogether.

I am indeed glad that Mr. Russell got some comfort from my remarks on the "second John Russell." They unfortunately, were not intended as compliments. I was not so fully informed as to Mr. Russell's family tree then as now. From reading his first letter I and all those to whom I have spoken, felt that the second John to whom Mr. Russell referred was a possible offspring of his. Mr. Russell should really let us know more of his genealogical tree and enlighten his account with such touching anecdotes as the one about the Tory Sweat Box. Perhaps then such mistakes as to who is now the reigning John in the house of Russell would not occur. Before closing this paragraph I should like to pay my respects, and I say it in all sincerity, to the memory of Mr. Russell's father. I never knew the man, but from what I have heard he was a fine, level-headed sensible gentleman. Does history always repeat itself?

I do not quite understand Mr. Russell's remarks as to the discharging of employees. If they are intended for me they are indeed undeserved. I have never yet discharged an employee, faithful or otherwise, much less set him shovelling horse manure. Perhaps Mr. Russell knows what he means but I wish he'd let the rest of us in on the secret. Maybe he is "aiming week's paper. First of all I after his cellar was excavated should like to say that, to my knowledge, Mr. Russell has never yet attended a Board of Trade meeting in Digby. I doubt if he is even a member. If Mr. Russell is not in accord with the actions of the Board he should join that body and register his objections at its meetings. He is a citizen of the town and eligible to join. If he doesn't wish to spend the fee to become a member I am sure some of the members would gladly accommodate him just for the benefit of getting his truly brilliant views on town affairs.

In 1896, Yarmouth Steamship Co. issued a tourist booklet about Nova Scotia. Here is what it said about Digby: "The following poem is accurately descriptive of Digby—In peaceful slumber here I lie Remote from noise and vanity Till the best morning of the just Reanimates my sleeping dust."

That, Mr. Editor, is the sort of Digby Mr. Russell would like to see. A town where all is peace and quiet, where nothing moves where the butterflies flit lazily along and the cows graze happily in the grass filled streets. Then Mr. Russell could sit on his porch gazing soulfully out on the broad expanse of the basin unmarred by any sign of human activity. What a pleasant vista for Mr. Russell. That sort of Digby does not, however, appeal to me or to any other true lover of the town. It is true that perhaps our roads are rutty and there is some smoke and steam arising from our town. I wish there was a great deal more. All of the residents of the town are not fortunate enough to have an independent income. Some must work for their living. For those who have to, that smoke and steam signifies their bread and butter. Where would Digby be without the Maritime and Warne's Mill? Perhaps the streets would not be so rutty and the air a little clearer but our tax rate would have to be a whole lot higher to provide relief for the working people of this town. Mr. Russell should cease his contemplation of the beauties of the ocean for a few moments in order to fully comprehend the value of our two major industrial plants to the community. I am sure the truly public spirited citizens of Digby would welcome the sight of more and yet more smoke and steam arising from boiler stacks in our town; they would welcome the sight of more and yet more trucks loaded with lumber and other industrial commodities passing by on the main highways. Perhaps then the town could afford to put in streets that would not rut or annoy Mr. Russell in any way. No, Mr. Editor, I am afraid Mr. Russell is very selfish in his view of Digby. He envisions a town geared wholly and solely to his own personal comforts and needs regardless to the needs of others. I would suggest that he buy himself an island remote from all habitation, and there build himself a castle. He could then gather all his court around him and really reign, John II, monarch of all he surveys, even though it be only the limitless expanse of an empty ocean.

Just a few words in conclusion about some other matters in Mr. Russell's last letter. What Mr. Russell did not say about that offer of dirt for the dump was that the offer was made well over 2 years ago. Yours in fear and trembling, Dopus.

To the Editor of the Courier.

Sir:—Nothing much has happened this week; except that the lumber pile on the Cannon Bank grows; Mr. Warrington and Mrs. Walker have accepted the certainty that the presence of these public nuisances have already ruined their summer tourist businesses; the Town Council, with a courage equal to that of Chamberlain's at Munich and an equal appreciation of the rights of the ordinary citizen have "passed the buck" on Mr. Rene Richard's protest against the lumber piles—the buck was passed to poor old Board of Trade—Mr. Mount's view is now cut off; and the certainty of my prophesy of the future dimming of Polaris, and the need of my ridgepole acrobatics being up to date, becomes daily more evident.

When that time comes (which, pray God, ye slaves it may) our indefatigable town lover and benefactor should make me a present of two suitable ladders so that Johnnie Russell may more easily ascend to the ridgepole and from that vantage point see the glorious entrance of our lover and benefactor into heaven. St. Peter's welcome may then be somewhat thus—

"Welcome, boss, to the fruits of your labours. Here's a harp to practise on, and a nice throne up yonder, all made from planks seasoned on Digby's Cannon Bank. Only just keep away from that crowd of crazy angels gathered about that old guy with the white whiskers. His name's John A. Russell, and all but a few love him up here and want to build a special mansion for him, while even the devils in hell want him down there; they

SHERIFF'S SALE IN THE SUPREME COURT

To be sold at Public Auction by the Sheriff of the County of Digby or his Deputy at Guy D. Dunn's House on the Light House Road, near Digby, Monday the 23rd day of June A.D. 1941, at 12 noon.

One 1½ ton Chevrolet Truck 24 Steel Loading Racks, 29 Sling Chains.

Any person wishing to inspect the above property may do so by applying to the undersigned.

The same having been levied upon under execution in the suit WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION BOARD OF NOVA SCOTIA vs. EDWARD C. WEBBER.

TERMS CASH. Dated at the Sheriff's Office at Digby this 5th day of June A.D. 1941.

love him so much that they offer to build an astetose mansion, safe from all fire, just so they can have him near to make them feel cheerfuller. We don't know what to do, for any action is apt to create a revolution in either place. Say, how did you get to heaven, dive through Jordan or be rafted over dry shod? That's important."

I was called a 'damned fool' last week. Doubtless the term was justified and has been applied a good many times, but this is the first time it has been shouted so loudly and frantically that even the dwellers in the remotest corners of Jew Cove must have heard the sound. The gentleman who thus honoured me may be said to hold a like position in the town to that Dr. Goebbels holds in Germany, so frantic is he for the ruination of our town's beauties, and so intense in adoration of our ruler. He might well be termed "Civic Daddy". As at the vantage of the bestowal of this blessing "Civic Daddy's" eyes were popping out of his head, all the same as two huge and highly polished marbles set on a flat plate, and as said head seemed to be on the point of exploding and scattering what brains it contained over the fronts of the buildings thereabout. I thought it best to retire, and leave him to his victory, lest I be up against a charge of manslaughter.

The one bright spot in the week's news comes last. It's the action of the Board of Trade, when on Saturday it began to cover the north end dump with earth. Good old Board of Trade. But why didn't more of you turn up, for had there been three trucks and about fifteen of you present, you could have about finished the job that afternoon. Better luck next time, only we may not have the lemonade to wet the whistles with, then.

Oh well, boys, when you finish this job (but be sure and take the dirt from my yard) I may be able to let you have that plan (and it's a real good one, if I do say so) for just about nothing.

So long, John Russell.

V. O. N.

At the regular monthly meeting of the V. O. N., on Tuesday, a few collectors for the V. O. N. annual June Membership Drive gave reports. The drive has just begun and many have not started working on their district, those who have are pleased with results and find in many cases, contributions towards this drive have had already been set aside. Other collectors will be making their visits during this week and the coming week.

Mrs. L. C. Dickson's fine report on the annual meeting in Ottawa, was read, showing the incomparable work that the V. O. N. is doing in maintaining the health of the people of Canada—valuable in these stressful times as never before. In May the nurse made a total of 240 visits; 42 hours were spent in school; 7 children examined for eye trouble; 5 fitted with glasses. These five were to report back in one year for examination, which would be free.

Miss Steeves-assisted during the month at a chest clinic, at the Digby General Hospital, when 59 patients were examined. The supply committee paid out $15.39 as part expense for glasses. They received supplies of used clothing and bed linens from Miss Gilpin. The committee is grateful for these donations.

The committee on Publicity and Education were able to secure from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., through J. A. Grant, a health film, shown at the Capitol Theatre during the month. They are grateful to Mr. Grant and to the management of the theatre for this means of presenting to the public such valuable health education.

Many Problems Considered by Board of Trade

At a supper meeting held Tuesday evening at Jersey Farm, the Digby Board of Trade voted unanimously to support a "Buy British" week to be conducted along similar lines to the "Buy Maritime" week sponsored by the Board two years ago. The motion to sponsor this was made by G. Victor Cardoza, who stated his original intention was to move that the Board sponsor another "Buy Maritime" week, but, after considering the matter, decided to move for a "Buy British" week as a patriotic measure. Mr. Cardoza was named chairman of a committee (the members of which he will name) to go into this matter.

Plans were also announced by Charles Ramsay, chairman of the sports and entertainment committee, for a "Sports Day" to be held at Digby, on July 28, any proceeds derived to be divided equally between the Digby Red Cross and the Board of Trade. The program will begin with a mammoth street parade in the morning, and will be followed by water and land sports, street dancing and other entertainment. Permission has been granted by the Town Council to hold a Tag Day, and to rope off the main street from the Courier Office to the Digby Baptist Church, the section from the Courier Office to Excel Inn to be opened during the evening. Much time was taken up in the discussion of the Information Booth conducted by the Provincial Department of Information. The booth is situated on the wharf, and although the Board feels it is well conducted, they have been of the opinion a location in the centre of the town would be better. Last year resolutions asking its removal were sent to the Provincial Department, but no action taken. A similar resolution was passed at a meeting of the Board last month, and a reply from Hon. Harold Connely, minister of information, was read at Tuesday night's meeting. Mr. Connely stated he agreed that possibly the booth could be better located, but the Board's letter had been received too late to take any action this year.

Several opinions were expressed on the matter, and a motion was made to again contact Mr. Connely requesting the booth be removed this season; other speakers were of the opinion the booth was best located where it was, as such a booth was designed to contact incoming tourists to the province, and although admitting the Princess Helene carried a minority of tourists to Digby, it was the principal point of entry, and those reaching the town by highway, train and bus had in all probability been contacted by provincial information bureaus at other points of entry.

The matter was finally concluded by the passing of a resolution that the Board of Trade establish its own Information Bureau in a central location, and if possible, have R. B. Lent in charge. M. S. Leonard was named head of a committee to look further into the matter.

Kenneth Margeson, reporting for the National Salvage Campaign, conducted by the Commerce and Transportation Committee of the Board and the Boy Scouts, reported good progress had been made to date. Window cards had been distributed throughout the town, these cards to be displayed when there are salvage materials to collect. A truck makes collections on Saturdays.

Digby's Bathing facilities at the Racquette, were also discussed. David Daley reported the beach had been cleaned up, and told of a project to dam the creek above the Racquette Bridge, which, if done, would provide water for bathing at all times of the tide. The Board is now seeking permission from the owner of the land to construct a dam.

It was further reported several loads of earth and gravel had been hauled to the Racquette Dump to cover it, and at Tuesday night's meeting several members of the Board pledged to work on the dump a few hours this week, in order to make it more sightly, and prepare the ground for planting perennials, which have been offered by T. J. Harris, proprietor of Racquette Garden.

T. E. G. Lynch reported that up to Tuesday evening Victory Loan subscriptions in Digby County had reached $139,400, and urged a speeding up of effort in order that the county reach its objective of $300,000.

The Wharfage problem was also discussed, and a resolution passed that the proper authorities at Ottawa be again approached in an effort to improve conditions here. It is felt that in these days, especially during winter months, better facilities at Digby should be considered a major war effort. The port was busy during the winter, but it is only possible for one small boat to load here.

Due to an accident on the hydro line, the most of the meeting was carried on by the light of one lone candle.

Unemployment Insurance Act Explained

Unemployment Insurance becomes an actuality in Canada from July first. For the Workers who are subject to periods of unemployment through no fault of their own it will mean the difference between being on relief or charity and the self-respect of having provided for their own welfare through a plan of insurance savings.

The plan is one of co-operation between the employer, the employee, and the Government. Each makes a contribution based on the weekly wages earned by the employee. To the amount contributed by the employer and the amount deducted from the employee's wages, the Government adds one-fifth of the total, and pays for the cost of operation. These contributions are similar to insurance premiums.

and accumulate against the day when the worker, either male or female, becomes unemployed. Then, in a very short time the worker begins to receive weekly cheques which will continue for a limited period of unemployment.

This, briefly, is the Unemployment Insurance Plan which becomes a law of Canada, just as it has been a law in Great Britain for more than thirty years. With the experience of the British Act as well as the examples of other Countries to draw upon, the Unemployment Insurance Commission has created a plan which should operate with the least inconvenience to the employer and to the greatest possible benefit to the workers.

A unique and simple system of making contributions to the Fund through the Employer purchasing special stamps from the Post Office and affixing them each week in a book designed for the purpose, is the record of each worker's contributions, as well as the employer's. In this way every worker can find out exactly at any time where he or she stands in respect to Unemployment Insurance.

There are some classes of workers who are not eligible for Unemployment Insurance, and there are certain conditions which affect all workers. Both employers and employees should familiarize themselves with the terms of the plan, which will be made available by the Postmaster in the locality you live.

A part of the plan is the opening of Employment Offices throughout Canada where workers may seek jobs and employers can seek workers. These offices will be opened as rapidly as possible to facilitate the most effective utilization of Canada's labour force during the war and in preparation for the return of workers to peacetime employment after war work has ceased.

Forces That Endure

(By Nathan Howard Gist in Grit.)

IT IS easy to become discouraged these days. It is hard to keep the faith. Wrong seems to be enthroned, and right is mocked. We look toward the future and wonder what it will bring.

We shall see what we look for. If we see only evil coming out of the present world upheaval, personal morale will sink. If we see blessings coming out of our troubles, we will be strengthened for the days of reconstruction.

If we admit that, as a world and as individuals, we have erred, sinned before the Infinite, and walked in ways of materialism, that they may mean the dawn of a new day for humanity.

Too long, perhaps, have we grazed in the meadow of prosperity. We have become too fond of ease, afraid of hard work. With all of the comforts and luxuries that an age of inventive genius has ushered in, we have lost some of the sturdiness of our fathers. We have forgotten that with every privilege goes a corresponding obligation. We have clamored for rights and ignored duties.

We have lost—lost much and lost miserably. But it is not too late to recoupe some losses. If our civilization has learned its lessons, and will yet recognize the value of the moral ideal and the enduring qualities of spiritual forces, our losses will become gains. An all-wise Providence presides over the destinies of men and of nations. His hand is seen in the history of the world. His laws may be ignored and despised, but His lives on. The faith that what has been wrought for humanity in the past may be wrought again ought to be firm in every heart.

The Ten Commandments endure. The Sermon on the Mount endures. The Prince of Peace endures. Truth, justice, honor, love endure, and can never be destroyed. The greatness of man endures. And that greatness, the power to create and build, to love and inspire, can bring order out of chaos.

Hate cannot take away the spiritual life of the race. Man's self-sacrifice cannot be destroyed. His sense of reverence, his dependence on the Higher Power, his conception of life's true values are never lost. They endure, and so will our world, a better, wiser, kinder world.

Thrifty BUILDS SHIPS!

Where does the money come from to wage this War—to build the ships, the planes and tanks we need to "finish the job?"

Much of it comes from the savings of ordinary men and women—the thrifty people of Canada—the savers. These are the people who buy Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates, who pay their War Taxes on the nail. Never before has personal thrift been so vitally necessary. Watch your spending. Every dollar you can spare is needed now to arm and equip our fighting forces—to win this War.

The Ful-O-Pep Plan Helps Poultrymen

Save up to 30% to 50% on COST OF FEEDING NEW PULLETS

Some have asked why a commercial feed manufacturer advocates a plan of restricted feeding. The answer is simple. By advocating this basic principle in the Ful-O-Pep Rearing Plan, substantial economies are possible to alert poultrymen, and at the same time he can raise a stronger, healthier bird than by limited feeding.

With Ful-O-Pep Chick Starter and Growing Mash—so exceptionally rich in nutritive value—as a foundation of the Ful-O-Pep plan, poultrymen may complete the growing ration with whole oats and scratch grains, thus saving considerable money.

We believe this to be an important contribution to the practical poultryman's method of operation.

Organize Maritime Food Council

Recently the organization of a Maritime food council was completed, which has for its objective chiefly the promotion of a more orderly system of marketing of primary products by the formulation of a plan of distribution that will encourage maximum production, maximum distribution and maximum sales of Maritime products. Coupled with this are proposals for a greater study of markets, tariffs, etc., to promote a better distribution of agricultural products, establishment of a greater interest in farming by assurance of a reasonably profitable home market, to promote producer-consumer campaigns to move surplus crops, to investigate undesirable trade practices, to work out the shortest and most economic route from producer to consumer, and generally to co-ordinate the whole system of marketing of primary products through from the producer to the ultimate consumer. President of the new organization is Roy O'Brien, well-known wholesale dealer of Halifax, and members of the council include well-known representatives of producers, and wholesale and retail dealers in the Maritimes, as well as officials of the departments of agriculture.

Egg Market Strengthens

Prices for eggs in Nova Scotia centers strengthened somewhat during the past week, with demand for top grade eggs heavy, and local supplies not equal to the market. This emphasizes the forecasts contained previously in this column that the market for eggs for Nova Scotia producers will tend to improve, and that the opportunity for poultry producers during the present year will be exceptionally good. Prices quoted to producers the past week by Halifax dealers, were 25 to 26 cents dozen on a graded basis delivered.

In Need of Egg Graders

Applications are still being asked for the short course in egg grading and other features of egg and poultry marketing which is to be held at the agricultural college at Truro, during the last three weeks of June, under the joint auspices of the provincial and dominion departments of agriculture and the dominion department of labor. This course is open to both young men and young women and it is expected that under the new egg grading regulations, which will lead to the opening of more registered egg grading stations, there will be a larger demand for trained egg graders. Under present conditions there is a special opportunity in this field for young women, a number of whom have already been employed as certified graders in wholesale houses and other grading centers.

Seed Cleaners Operating

New seed cleaners recently installed at Lawrenceton in Annapolis County, and Musquodoboit in Halifax County, have been busy cleaning grain and clover seed for farmers this spring. That at Lawrenceton, installed by the County Farmers' Association, has already cleaned more than 1200 bushels of seed grain and 2,400 lbs. of clover seed. The machine at Musquodoboit, installed last year, has cleaned over 3,000 bushels of grain this season compared to 2,300 bushels last year.

Sign up for Drainage Ditching

Farmers of Annapolis County, states Don White, agricultural representative expect shortly to complete a sign-up for 12,000 feet of ditching for farm tile drainage this summer, under the policy of assistance established last year.

Agricultural Conditions

Generally speaking, spring work on the land has been late throughout most of the province, delayed by rainy weather in May, and has only been getting well under way during the past week. Seeding is most advanced in the western part of the province, but general seeding operations will be continuing well on into June. Pastures this year appear exceptionally good and butter production will show another substantial increase for May, quite probably equaling the 11 per cent increase shown in April over 1940 figures. The total figures are not yet available.

Grain which was seeded before the wet spells in May, is above ground in many places and looking healthy. Prospects are for an excellent hay crop in most parts of the province. There is expected to be little change in the potato acreage, with probably some increase in certain districts. Reports from the Truro district, which is generally fairly representative, are to the effect that acreage planted to mangels was limited due to the late spring, but there is probably an increase in the turnip plantings.

There is indication in the Truro district of increased interest in hog production due to the very large amount of garbage available from the military encampments. Generally speaking, the improved price situation has also tended to stimulate hog production throughout the province. The same is true with poultry.

Weather Reports For May

The weather station at Truro, reports rainfall for May totalled 4.1 inches, which was greater by half an inch than that for May, 1940, and much higher than the 32-year May average for the district, which was 2.8 inches. Maximum temperature at Truro for the month was 78 degrees on the 3th, and the minimum was 18 on the morning of the 1st, with six days of 32 degrees or lower. The latter part of the month was particularly cold and wet. A Kentville experimental station, the weather records for May showed the maximum temperature for the month to be 79 degrees on the 8th, and the lowest 24 degrees on the 1st. The total rainfall was 5.85 inches.

HOW ELDERLY WOMAN ESCAPED BACKACHE

Many people think that backache is a trouble that comes naturally with advancing years, but this woman of 71 proves that it is not. "I suffered for a long time from backache," she writes, "but put it down to my age (71). Reading your announcement, I thought I would try Kruschen Salts. I have been taking it for some time and have found great relief. I thought you would like to know it has done me a world of good." (Mrs.) E.R. When pains in the back are caused by inactive kidneys—and failure of the digestive system to throw off poisonous impurities, Kruschen Salts will give real help in setting the matter right. Because Kruschen has a diuretic action which helps to flush your kidneys and liver. After that, your blood throws off all impurities; you get happy relief from pain.

An Apology To the Legion

As the reporter, who wrote up the account of the Victory Loan Parade, as it appeared in last week's issue of the Courier, I wish to take this opportunity of apologizing publicly to the members of the Digby Branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., for the omission of the part their splendid organization took on that occasion, and to assure them the omission was purely an oversight. I am unable to explain to my own satisfaction—frankly, I don't know just how it happened, and am sincere in stating that no one regrets this unfortunate occurrence more than myself, particularly, since I have been advised this was the second time such a thing has happened.

I am not aware of the first offence, and am not prepared to say whether the fault was with myself or some other member of our staff, but nobody could be more positive than myself the alleged offence was purely accidental.

With regret to the more recent omission, I found on checking notes made on the parade, a notation of the Digby Legion, but, I did not mention them in my write-up. As I have already said "I don't know just how it happened"—it was just one of those things that will happen for no reason at all.

No, the Legion was not overlooked intentionally as I understand one or two of its members have charged. We have nothing but the highest regard for the Digby Legion and all it stands for. They are to be praised and honored for what they have done in the past; for what they are doing in the present, and for what they are endeavoring to do in the future.

Sunday School Anniversary at Milford Corner

The Milford Corner Sunday School celebrated its seventh anniversary on June 8th. This Sunday School has a record of which to be justly proud, having held meetings every Sunday during the past year, despite winter storms and bad roads. When one remembers that this section suffers each winter from roads blocked with snow, and also that many members have to travel considerable distances to attend, we must realize that "Where there's a will there's a way," and know that the members find in this Sunday School a spiritual blessing which carries them through each week —and so through each year. Ralph Harris is Superintendent; Mrs. Minard Chute, Secty.-Treas.; Mrs. Albert Rice, organist—all faithful and energetic officers.

Financially the year was successful—receipts being $69.38, expenditures $57.12—the balance (with that from last year) being $23.25.

At the Anniversary Meeting, H. R. Kinney and Manning Dondale expressed their appreciation of the school; Dr. Campbell also spoke briefly. Another year of work has begun, and with high hope and strong faith, the members go forward, unfailing in the work to be accomplished for the Glory of God, and the comfort of His people.

The weapons are ready for YOU—Enlist now.

DOWN THROUGH THE AGES Britons fought and suffered and died in order that their children and their children's children might be free. Today the forces of darkness threaten to engulf us once more. Shall we give up those rights which our forefathers won?

Today our country must arm. No time can be lost. We must build the greatest war machine the world has ever known. We must accomplish in two years more than the enemy has accomplished in seven.

That is why Canada needs your savings—not as a gift, but only as a loan. Canada's army must be maintained and equipped with the most modern fighting machines. Scores of warships and merchant vessels must be built. Thousands of planes, thousands of pilots must be rushed to the scene of conflict.

So Canada needs the use of your money now. Later on, Canada will repay you in full. In the meantime, you will receive regular interest on your loan.

When you buy Victory Bonds, all Canada is your security. These Bonds are more readily turned into cash than any other.

HOW TO BUY—Give your order to the canvasser who calls on you. Or place it in the hands of any branch of any bank, or give it to any trust company. Or send it to your local Victory Loan Headquarters. Bonds may be bought in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and larger. Canvasser, bank, trust company or your local Victory Loan Headquarters will be glad to give you every assistance in making out your order form.

Heroes

Great occasions do not make heroes or cowards; they simply reveal them to the eyes of men. Silently, imperceptibly, unconsciously, as we wake or sleep, we grow strong or develop weaknesses. Then along comes some crisis to show us what we have become.

TIME MARCHES ON

Twenty-Five Years Ago

(From the COURIER files of June 16th, 1916.)

A large number of people were in Digby Tuesday, (June 13, 1916), to hear the Nomination speeches. The Liberal Candidates nominated were: Hon. J. W. Comeau, Comeauville; Henry W. B. Warner, Fyfeville. The Conservative Candidates: Walton K. Tibert, Bear River; Felix M. Gaudet, Ohio, Digby Co.

The Supreme Court met at the Court House, Digby, Tuesday, June 13, 1916. His Lordship, Mr. Justice Longley, presiding.

The Docket: Winnipeg Fish Co. vs. J. E. Snow, with jury. McGregor vs. Webber, non jury. Criminal—The King vs. Margaret Ethel Fowler and Alvin Fowler, pleading guilty, sentence was suspended.

R. McArthur writes to the editor regretting that the Digby Board of Trade has, after discussion, taken steps to have an all-day service on Sundays at the local telephone office.

Ten Years Ago

(From the COURIER files of June 19th, 1931.)

Men are repairing damage done to Digby's streets and buildings caused by the storm of March 3rd and 4th. 10,000 cubic yards of earth was dumped over the bank on Water Street to fill in the holes made by the storm and to widen the street.

Alden Banks, 13-year-old Centerville lad, was killed when the high bodied truck on which he was standing was put into motion. The accident occurred at Round Hill. The truck was owned by Cecil Dakin.

"Autobug" writes to the editor kicking about the condition of the shore road from the life-saving station to Digby. "Although I was informed, before taking the trip, that some work had been done on the road," he writes, "it would take a whole lot of money to persuade me to take the trip again."

The Interprovincial Home for women, at Covendale, near Moncton, N. B., owned and carried on by the Protestant Churches of the Maritimes, Anglican, Baptist, Presbyterian and United Church.

Mrs. Spray Writes Of The War

The COURIER has been handed a very interesting letter received by Mrs. J. J. Wallis from Mrs. E. Spray, of Nottingham, England, mother of Stanley Spray, formerly of the COURIER staff, who visited Digby in 1937 and made many friends while here. The letter is dated May 22, and she says "I am writing today because we have had three nights' rest in succession and that makes us all feel perky. We are all carrying on much the same. For a few weeks after Christmas we had a fairly quiet time, but later 'old Nasty' started again. On May 8 and 9 we had two very bad nights and he surely did some damage—about 200 people lost their lives. We have had several odd planes drop bombs but nothing like the 8th—it was a real taste of war. Fortunately for us it was not on our side of the town, but we have several friends who are in great trouble. You would be amazed at the courage of the people; they go about their work the next day and only for the fact that their places are burned out you would think nothing had happened. We manage very well on our rations although we miss our luxuries. I must tell you how nice it is to receive the Courier—it keeps me in touch with you all. I look it through and read almost every bit. I am also pleased to see your town advertises more than it used to. We have had three Caledonia boys and one New Brunswick boy to visit us. They were friends of Stan's and they were very nice young fellows. I hope Vernon Bent will call when he comes our way—I should like to see some one from Digby. I have read the letter in the Courier 'Bill' Outhouse sent you. I don't think I know him but I am glad he writes you. It is the second one of his to you and it must be nice to get first hand news. There is an article in your paper of April 17, 'I Am a Conscientious Objector'. I do hope if you know the writer personally, you will tell him to have more faith in his son. My son's lives are precious to me, but instead of thinking they might go wrong I hope and expect them to benefit by what they see in the outside world—there is plenty of spiritual training. My son has been home twelve days and the first Sunday morning he was up and at church with no persuasion from us. I gave the article referred to to a Canadian and asked him if his parents were worried about him in that way. I also asked him about the barracks. He finds the boys do not bother with the drink because it is there if they want it; which is not often. It is when it is forbidden that they crave it. There are many, also, who in their home towns do all the things they should not do, so one should not blame the country. I feel as if I had been preaching but I know you will understand how I feel."

ASHMORE

(Held Over From Last Week) Miss Renetta Kinney is spending some time in Wolfville.

Miss Alda Manzer has gone to Digby, where she is employed at the Ideal Restaurant.

Mrs. William Kinney recently visited her daughter, Mrs. Walter Doucet, at Digby.

Miss Sadie Hoare and Miss Hart, of Truro, were week end guests Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brooks.

Ensley Prime, who has been employed at Wolfville, has returned home for the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. David Fitzgerald, of Wolfville, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Kinney.

Capt. and Mrs. Wylie Tower and children and Miss Edith Mullen, of Digby, were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Marshall, on Sunday.

The members of Onward Division held a ten cent tea and social evening at the home of Mrs. Elvin Marshall, on Wednesday evening. Proceeds for the Queen's Fund.

Lieut. R. B. Smith, of Smith's Cove, who has the Baptist Churches here for the summer, spoke in the Bethel Church Sunday morning.

'CHUTE TROOPS FIGHT IN FURY

PAINTED GREEN, NAZI INVADERS COME DOWN WITH THEIR GUNS ROARING

Death Toll Terrible

OFFICER TELLS HOW MEN AND PLANES DROPPED IN FLAMES BUT WERE SUCCESSFUL

Parachute troops who drop from the skies from today are being rested and transport planes and gliders captured the Greek island of Crete for Germany and today are being rested and reorganized for further Nazi conquest. There follows the eye-witness story of a young British officer who escaped from Crete and now is in Egypt. Censorship forbids use of his name.

"PARACHUTE soldiers completely covered with green paint dropped to the ground like faceless monsters from another world. Overhead huge Nazi transport planes roared in formations, dipping low while more 'chutists plunged to earth. The attackers fired Tommy guns as they dropped, and when they were close to the ground hurled hand grenades in all directions. Thus, at dawn one morning began the battle for the island of Crete.

"Their timing was perfect. A formation of 15 planes would come in, drop their men, and move out again while 15 more came in. They when they reached the land flew in low over the sea, and they seemed barely over the rooftops. I suppose none was more than 200 feet off the ground.

"Each airplane carried 20 to 30 men, and I saw field guns and other weapons landed from some planes.

"The Germans had evidently planned everything in the minutest detail. The areas on which troops landed had been thoroughly bombed, and as soon as the troops came down they dived into shell craters, where they were protected from our fire.

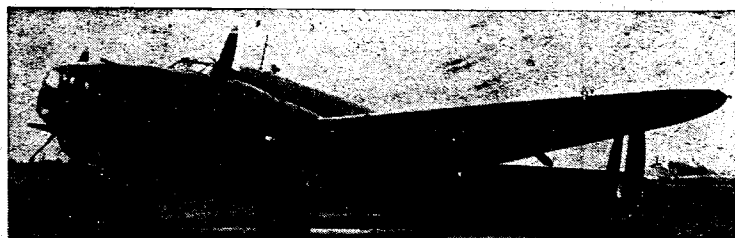

"The planes by no means dropped their men haphazard. They were working by a set plan, and by the time they had finished, the airport at Candali, where I was stationed, was enclosed by a semicircle of troops stretching right around behind it from the sea on one side to the sea on the other side.

"At first we had the advantage, but the Germans, controlling the air, were able to pour down more men, guns, and bombs in such numbers that soon the tables were turned.

"To the last man we gave a good account of ourselves until we were so outnumbered that we had to flee.

"The Germans encountered worse horrors than they created. Laughing, yelling Maoris (the New Zealand aborigines whose ancestors were inveterate cannibals) butchered them with bayonets. Crete natives pounced upon some of them and slit their throats. The greenish parachute troops went down screaming in agony. The Maoris sliced through their bodies, laughing and cheering and shouting all the while.

"There was a massacre of every German who landed the first day. The fight lasted seven days, until our forces were finally overwhelmed. "Some of the Nazi parachute troops were boys only 15 or 16 years old. Some were so terrified that they begged to be shot. It seemed to us that they had gone out of

"One mere kid told us the 'chutists had been doped before being flown across the sea from Greece. He grovelled on the ground in his fear and begged us to save him from the knife-swinging Maoris.

"After the first day of battle the German dead around the airport were too numerous to be buried. Freshly landing 'chutists piled up bodies of their dead comrades as shelters.

"Until German dive-bombers silenced our anti-aircraft artillery, we took a horrible toll of the invaders.

"One big transport plane swooped low to land its troops within range of one of our guns. A barrage of shells turned the big plane into a sheet of flames, and soldiers poured out of its open door like flies.

"In the sky above our heads parachutes dissolved in flames, and men smashed into the ground.

"One soldier came down with all his clothes in flames. As he lay on the ground he begged us to shoot him to end his agony.

"Another plane, with six or seven parachutes dangling from it, plunged into the sea. I turned my field glasses on a low-flying transport and could see a burly soldier literally kicking parachutists out of the doorway. Evidently some had no taste for their job.

"Crouching behind any kind of shelter, we had some fine target practise on the slow dropping parachutes. I had some swell marksmen in my company, and often we were able to pick off whole platoons of soldiers as they descended to earth. Usually, though, we couldn't tell whether we had killed our man until he touched the ground and lay in a crumpled heap with his parachute as his shroud.

"We couldn't get them all, however, and soon even airplane mechanics, orderlies, cooks, and signalmen were in the fighting. "A burly cook grabbed a long-handled meat cleaver and took up his post at the corner of a hangar. How many Nazis he chopped down as they rounded the corner I don't know, and how he escaped being hit himself is a miracle, but he kept swinging the cleaver until he fell exhausted.

"When the attack began most of the Nazis were brought over Crete in gliders, some of them carrying as many as 20 men. But that soon proved a costly experiment. "I saw two huge gliders collide as they came down toward earth. Not even the glider pilots wore parachutes, and not a man escaped alive. Other gliders evidently had poor pilots, for they crashed on landing. One big glider, apparently getting out of control, smashed head-on into the side of a gasoline storage shed. Three or four soldiers crawled out of the wreckage and opened fire on us, but others were badly injured, and for hours we listened to their screams for help.

"When a couple of our men did make an effort to reach them, a Nazi plane opened fire with its machine-guns. Three of our fellows were picked off, and some of those injured Germans must have died too. That incident was the utter disregard for human life which the Germans showed all during the battle for Crete.

"The Germans surprised us with some new tricks.

"We saw one batch of parachutists come down, and we opened fire on them heavily and thought we had killed them, but when they landed we found they were dummies to distract our attention while real soldiers were coming down nearby. We went after the real ones and cleaned them up, too, with our guns and bayonets.

"The Nazis didn't cry 'kammerad' as German soldiers did in the World War. They all had learned enough English to ask for mercy, and they usually pulled out their diaries and showed entries to indicate that they were really not Germans, but Austrians. Such diaries seemed to be part of every parachute soldier's equipment.

"The 'chutists fought with maniacal fury and without regard for the terrible loss of life. That is why we believed the story of the lad who said they had been doped before they started out.

"We fought the invader for 11 days without rest. Fresh German troops constantly landed, and their equipment was magnificent. When we pulled out we were tired to start with, and the mountains were pretty hard going. When we reached the coast we stood on cliffs and saw the sea only half a mile away, but it took us about eight miles walking down a zigzag path to reach it.

"We found small boats wherever we could and rowed out to sea at night, while German planes constantly patrolled overhead and bombed and machine-gunned us. Many were lost, but the little boat which I helped row finally was picked up by a British destroyer, and we were taken to a port in Egypt along with others who had escaped from Crete. Now I suppose we must get ready to fight those green parachute attackers in some other part of the world."

Broken Eggs, Damaged Fruit Delay Military Mail

Damaged fruit, broken glass jars which had contained maple syrup and cartons of fresh eggs, all broken, causing damage to the surrounding mails, are being removed from parcels addressed to our Overseas Troops at the Base Post Office, Ottawa.

Canadian Postal Corps officials have reported to Hon. William P. Mulock, K. C., Postmaster General, that recently 16 parcels in one bag of army mail missed a despatch because they required repacking, as a result of the breakage of a glass jar of maple syrup in one parcel. Fresh eggs that had been enclosed without wrapping, along with two tins of maple syrup, in another parcel had also broken and spread. Five bananas with but a single paper cover and two thin cartons of eggs merely wrapped in paper were removed from other packages.

The above examples illustrate the folly of sending perishable or fragile articles through the mails to our Troops, especially in view of the long journey by land and sea under war time conditions. Parcels containing perishable goods likely to spoil within the time required for transportation and delivery, or which contain articles likely to become damaged in transit, are not acceptable for mailing.

If a parcel is worth mailing it is worth care in packing. All parcels should be fully prepaid, securely packed in strong containers, wrapped in several layers of thick paper and tied with strong twine. A slip containing the address of the soldier and the return address of the sender should be enclosed with the contents. The sender's address should appear on the cover. Completed Customs Declaration forms are required on all parcels for Overseas should be addressed as follows:

Regimental Number, Rank and Name.
Name and Details of Unit (i.e. Company or Section, Squadron, Battery, Holding Unit, etc.).
Name of Regiment or Branch of Service.
Canadian Army Overseas.

Men are needed for Active Service—what about YOU?

Fighters

It is said that the world loves a fighter. Isn't it possible then that many of the discouragements the world throws at you are merely challenges for a good fight, to prove your mettle as a scrapper? Try fighting back a few times and see what happens.

Rev. M. C. Munn, pastor of the Digby Baptist Church, received the degree of B.D. at the recent Acadia Convocation. He received his B.Th. in 1934.

Rev. W. E. Chelerton, Westport, has accepted a call to become pastor of the Berwick Baptist Church and will assume the duties of the pastorate about the middle of August.

A very successful pantry sale and tea was held at the Court House on the usual Red Cross day last week by the Ea-Ge Club, who donated the entire proceeds of $10.55 to the Red Cross (Lafayette Fund).

The little weir at Joggin Bridge, came to the front again last week, when another big haul of summer mackerel were caught. Over three thousand of these marketable fish were taken at this one catch.

Arthur LeBlanc, of Crosses Coques, has found a frog, the largest ever seen in this county. It was 11 inches long and five inches wide. Although the ponds and brooks are alive with them, they are much smaller.

Among those graduating Friday at Ottawa from the Canadian Police College were three from the Maritimes: Constables W. L. Lawrence, Yarmouth; Charles F. Deakin, Charlottetown; and Leroy Roach, of Sydney.

Rev. Byron G. Manzer, (formerly of Ashmore), was inducted as pastor of Central Baptist Church, Halifax, last Friday night at a special induction service. Leading members of the Baptist clergy in the city took part in the service.

Saturday, June 23, has been set aside as the first "Army Day" in Canadian history and army camps, barracks and training centres throughout the Dominion will be thrown open to the public. Maj.-Gen. B. W. Browne, Adjutant-General, said in a recent radio address.

On Friday evening, Mrs. "Duke" Cossaboom, of Harbor View Hotel put on a dance, the proceeds of which went for "smokes" for the boys overseas. The dance was most successful and on Saturday morning Mrs. Cossaboom handed $40 to Mrs. Humpherson for cigarettes, which were ordered the same day. The boys will be grateful to Mrs. Cossaboom for her splendid effort and very kind thought.

Postmaster and Mrs. Chas. P. Dunn, of Yarmouth, received a telegram last week stating their younger son, Douglas, in Manitoba, had been awarded his wings as an air observer in the R.C.A.F. and has been promoted to the ranks of sergeant. Douglas Dunn enlisted in the air force last fall, securing a leave of absence from the Yarmouth Herald. He is a nephew of Guy D. Dunn, of Digby.

Preserves Over 20 Years Old

Mrs. Walton Shortliffe, of South Range, sent in to the office on Monday a small jar of preserved plums. In itself, perhaps, this would hardly be worth mention, but when it is understood they were put up twenty-five years ago that makes them very exceptional. And they were good, too!

We understand also that Mrs. Reginald Facey, Victoria Beach, has in her possession a quart jar of wild strawberries preserved more than 20 years ago. These berries were picked near the pulp mill at Victoria Bridge, when the family were living there, while Mr. Facey was employed on the construction of the mill.

Great-Grand Niece of Admiral Digby Visits Town

A caller at the United Church parsonage this week was a lady, who introduced herself as a great grand niece of Admiral Sir Robert Digby, for whom Digby is named, and who brought the first loyal settlers to Conway (the present town of Digby).

The visitor, who was en route to Windsor, N. S., to visit her son who is a student at Kings Collegiate, only made a short call while her train was at the station. Her brother is the present Lord Digby, she old Mrs. Hodgson, mistress of the parsonage, who received her.

She was especially interested in the old bell Admiral Sir Robert Digby presented to the Church of England here, the first church to be erected in the town.

Berwick's annual Camp Meeting which opens August 1st will have as its guest evangelist this year the Rev. Lloyd Smith, D.D., pastor of the Dominion-Douglas United Church, Westmount, Quebec.

School Garden Project

Digby High School students studying Botany this year are having a great deal of fun with their school garden. On a plot of land generously loaned by Harry Ross, which is just a stone's throw from the school, they are growing all the vegetables you find in an experienced farmer's garden. They hope to sell their produce for the benefit of the Red Cross, and have enough left for the Domestic Science Class to use for canning in the fall. Weeding, usually an irksome task, is fun when the class en masse, armed with hoes, rakes and trowels, make for the garden on Thursday mornings. These young botanists are proud of their results, and agree with one accord that it's much more fun to learn gardening in this manner than by reading about it in the text books.

Mrs. Wilfrid Robichaud, of Bellevue's Cove, has in her possession, an old coin, bearing the date of 1313. It is of silver, about the size of an old five-cent piece. The inscription on it is in signs like the Chinese writing.

Red Cross Knitter Breaks Wrist

Mrs. Alice Rice, of Digby, had the misfortune on Friday the 13th, of breaking her left wrist, caused from a fall in her home. Mrs. Rice, who will be 77 years of age this October, in spite of the fact she has been in poor health for some time, has been an active worker for the Red Cross, having to her credit since war was declared, 42 sweaters, 13 pairs of mittens and 3 pairs of socks. Her work is of the finest.

Extract from overseas letter received by Service Wives from Gunner Baden Powell: "Your parcel of tobacco was received in excellent condition and is still being enjoyed. You people struck the right chord when you hit on smokes for the boys over here. None of us can get accustomed to the flavor or price of the English tobacco."

ALTA G. TAYLOR, DELILAH JOHNS, Administratrixes with the Will Annexed.

M. S. LEONARD, Proctor for said Estate.

Fire Traps

The burning of a large area of spruce slash under the supervision of qualified forestry fire fighters has disposed of one of the many major fire traps in the district. The location of the burning in on the Bear River to Deep Brook road, near the Waldec school, a section which during the past few years, has grown into a fair sized community, several small homes and bungalows have been erected here.

This is only one of many similar fire traps in the Digby and Annapolis Counties, where piles of slash have accumulated after cutting operations. Some of these fire traps are located away from settlements, while many others are near well travelled roads (including some alongside the main highway).

In any of these carelessly thrown match or cigarette butt could start a fire that could easily reach serious proportions, threatening and perhaps wiping out whole communities, and destroying hundreds of acres of valuable woodland.

Sunday the Only REAL Holiday

We were interested this week in the following press despatch from Lunenburg:

"Lunenburg, June 15—Business did not turn out as well as expected for one local merchant last Monday. He appeared before Magistrate H.

R. Arenburg, Friday, on a charge of keeping his store open for customers on the King's birthday.

"The merchant pleaded certain clauses in the town by laws pertaining to sickness and death would exempt him from a fine. 'Yes, I know,' said the magistrate, 'but a pound of pork chops would not save a man's life.' The merchant paid a fine and costs totalling $6.85."

This subject of holidays and the selling of goods on holidays is probably one of the most discussed of any in our small town. Our own opinion is that if a holiday is proclaimed it should be kept—but others have different opinions. For instance take the last 24th of May. Digby merchants—differing from all the rest of the province—decided to keep open that day and close on Monday, the 26th, and announced their decision by show cards and advertisements. Some objected. One said it was all right to make the decision among themselves but it should not be advertised; others said the whole action was illegal and we understand formal action was taken against one man. We did not know the law so to satisfy ourselves on May 21 we wired the Secretary of State in Ottawa, asking if such an action was legal. We received the following reply:

"Ottawa, Ont., May 21. "The Digby Courier, "Digby, N. S.

"Your telegram twenty-first, Under Statutes of Canada Sunday is the only day upon which it is illegal to transact ordinary business. Other holidays are non-judicial days under the interpretation of the act and the Bills of Exchange Act. But there is no prohibition on carrying on other ordinary business on these days. While Dominion holidays are generally observed throughout Canada there is no legal compulsion upon observance.

"E. H. Coleman, "Under Secretary of State."

"So we have the local authority in one town fining a merchant for selling on a holiday, and the federal authorities saying that Sunday is the ONLY day on which it is illegal to sell

Digby Nearing Victory Loan Objective

According to figures published yesterday, Digby County had subscribed $224,300 toward its $3000,000 objective in the Victory Loan Drive, leaving still a little more than $75,000 to go before the objective is reached. THAT OBJECTIVE WILL BE REACHED. The province as a whole, has a little more than $5,000,000 to raise before its $18,000,000 objective has been obtained.

High School Holds Annual Picnic

The Digby High School held its annual picnic at Porter's Lake on Monday afternoon. The group left the school at 3.15 and proceeded to the lake by truck. Arriving at the lake an enjoyable hour or so was spent in swimming and playing games. After supper and playing more games, some of the harder ones took a brief plunge into the now-cold water of the lake.

The picnic broke up around quarter to eight, and, mounting the truck, the group returned home (with every-one getting soaked, except the lucky few in the cab.)

About This and That

Canada's Victory Loan Torch is speeding closer and closer to Prime Minister Winston Churchill, a symbol that expresses the determination of Canadian people to finish the job. The sentence, "Canada's Victory Loan 1941. Part of the tools", is carved on the base of the symbol. Judging by the flow of subscriptions during the first half of the campaign, Canadians will be proud to send along the Torch in the knowledge that they responded to a challenge and supplied $600,000,000 as "part of the tools". There will be much deeper satisfaction, however, if by the time the Torch leaves Halifax for number 10 Downing Street, the Loan shall have been over-subscribed by many millions of dollars, and if thousands more of Canadian citizens are represented in the subscription lists. One of the primary motives in sending the Torch to Great Britain was to do something unusual that would demonstrate to those living on the British Isles that they are not alone in this struggle. The larger the number of Canadians who buy bonds, the more impressive will that symbol be when it is landed on old country soil. Buy a Victory Bond—even if you can invest only fifty dollars—and be actively identified with the ambitious plan to provide cheer for the soldiers and civilians now in the front line.

Military, naval or air travel will do no harm to any young man. He may acquire it in peace, or take part in active service. A few years in the uniform of his country is a worth while experience. For one thing, he learns something about self discipline, respect for command, and how to exercise authority himself. He sees something of the world, widens his general knowledge and usually, profits physically.

Thousands of letters are written every month by the men in our armed forces in Canada, in Iceland, in Newfoundland, and overseas, voicing appreciation of the comforts and services provided by the various Canadian war service organizations—made possible only by money contributed by public subscription voluntarily by "the folks back home."

Whole Dominion Show Anxiety to Aid the Queen's Fund

The mail bag of the Queen's Canadian Fund for Air Raid Victims contains every day touching examples of the anxiety of Canadians to comfort and assist those who have suffered while holding their positions in the front line of civilization.

The Directors of the Fund have also been very pleased to receive numerous gifts from the United States. One just received is particularly noteworthy. It was sent in by an Edmonton barrister, who wrote:

"This contribution comes from an American gentleman and his wife with whom my wife and I have been on very friendly terms, having met them in California each winter during the past five or six years.

"These friends have expressed their great admiration for the way in which the British people have stood up to the German bombings. The lady handed my wife two gold wedding rings, explaining that they were the wedding rings of her husband and herself, who, by the way, have been married for forty-five years. She said that she felt that it was up to them to help to the greatest extent possible, and she asked my wife to have the rings disposed of in Canada and to turn over the money for the relief of Air Raid Victims in Britain. She desired that the gift should be treated as an anonymous one."

Money From Scrap

From Saltcoats, Saskatchewan, came a contribution from the Saltcoats' Branch No. 32, of The Canadian Legion. The Secretary-Treasurer wrote:

"It is part of the proceeds of a carload of scrap which we sold recently, in co-operation with the elevator men."

Also from Saskatchewan came a contribution of $10.00 with the note:

"This money is sent by a man born in Germany, of German parents, in the hope that it will give some help to those whose lives and homes have been devastated by his former countrymen."

The Purchasing Agent of the National Harbours Board, Montreal, forwarded a cheque covering proceeds of a voluntary contribution from a few of the Board's Montreal employees, "which goes to you with our very best wishes."

Here is a letter from Morden, Manitoba:

"Dear Sirs:—I am enclosing $55.85 for the Queen's Fund for Air Raid Victims. This money was made from the sale of eggs donated by the members of the Morden Local Branch of the Manitoba Co-operative Poultry Marketing Association.

"Although this is not much, we trust it will be of use and that we may be able to help again at a later date."

An Address Wanted

The Directors of the Fund are anxious to trace the writer of the following touching letter dated Westmount, Quebec:

"I am an English schoolboy of 13 years old and left England for Canada in July, 1940. I am contributing $1.00 out of my pocket money to help my fellow countrymen when they are bombed, and I also hope that many Canadians will give to this great cause."

The Fund wishes to send its receipt and special acknowledgment to this young contributor.

School Children's Aid

MORSES TEA

A favorite from the start MORSE'S STANDARD TEA maintains its popularity with the critical Maritime tea drinking public. 70 cents per pound.

Church Sunday School, Montreal. This sum represented the amount which would have been expended on the Annual Picnic, but the pupils this year decided to sacrifice the picnic in order to help the less fortunate children in Great Britain. And here is a letter from some Verdun school girls which speaks for itself:

"Dear Sir:—With much pride we enclose a cheque amounting to $5.15 as a donation to the Queen's Canadian Fund.

"This amount was raised by our class by putting on a concert to which other classes were invited.

"We hope that this small donation, along with such others received, will help to swell the Queen's Canadian Fund, and that will give our Little Friends across the water still more courage and confidence to sing 'There'll Always Be An England'."

In Vancouver, the Canadian Legion South Vancouver Branch No. 16, decided that "Their regular annual picnic was far less needed than where they have decided to place this money, so the picnic is off for this year, and we hope that our contribution will, in some way or other, bring comforts and happiness to those who are fighting our battles." A cheque of $250.00 was enclosed.

In Memoriam

Ten Dollars from "T.J.W." was listed among the contributions in Saint John, N. B. An accompanying note explained that T.J.W. was a friend of the late Mrs. James W. Brittain. The funeral of Mrs. Brittain, wife of a former mayor of Saint John, was being held that day. Such a large profusion of flowers had been in evidence at the Brittain home that T.J.W. thought it might be a more appropriate way to honour her memory—especially as she had been always deeply interested in humanitarian endeavours—to make a contribution in her name to aid civilian sufferers in Britain.

The donor felt that if the reason for this subscription were made public many Canadians in future might adopt this way of commemorating their loved ones.

Send your Queen's Canadian Fund subscription to the COURIER, Digby, or the Royal Trust Company, 105 St. James St., Montreal, cheques payable to Queen's Canadian Fund.

Roll Call Services

The annual Roll Call services of the Lower Granville Pastorate, were held on Sunday, June 8th. Three services were held on this occasion, morning service at Granville Beach, afternoon at Victoria Beach and the evening service at Port Wade. Rev. Ross C. Eaton of Bridgetown, was the guest speaker for the day. His messages were timely and a source of inspiration to the large congregation present at all the services. Special music for the day included the Bridgetown Quartette, and duets by Mrs. Orbin Everitt and Mrs. Bertha Carthy, and solo selections by Mrs. Chester Nauss, which were much enjoyed and added greatly to the spirit of the services. The offerings for the day exceeded all expectations, bespeaking a splendid spirit of co-operation among the people.

MARRIAGE

McCluskey - Shortliffe

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walton Shortliffe, of South Range, on Wednesday afternoon, June 11th, at 4 o'clock, when their youngest daughter, Leta Mildred, was united in marriage to Leonard John, son of Mr. and the late Mrs. Roy McCluskey, of Musquash, N. B., by Rev. W. G. Quigley, of Saint John, N. B. The bride was attended by her sisters, Melba and Hilda Shortliffe, and Walter McCluskey, brother of the groom, was best man. The bridal party assembled under an evergreen arch, decorated with apple blossoms and narcissi, while the wedding march was being played by Mrs. Clarence Hill. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length dress of whisper blue crepe with hat of matching shade and white accessories and carried an arm bouquet of sweetheart roses. The bridesmaids were dressed in light rose crepe with navy accessories and carried old-fashioned nose gays of sweet peas and carnations. The bride's mother was attired in navy blue and wore a corsage of pink and white carnations and sweet peas. After the ceremony a luncheon was served. The bride's table was centred with a tiered wedding cake and decorated with candles and spring flowers. The bride's gifts to the bridesmaids were sterling silver amethyst brooches, and to the organist gold earrings. The groom's gift to the bride was a set of travelling cases and to the best man a silver pen-knife. Immediately after refreshments were served, the happy couple left for a short honeymoon at Sandy Bottom Lake, after which they will reside in Saint John. Many useful gifts were received including silver, linen, glassware and money.

The out-of-town guests present were Rev. and Mrs. Quigley, Miss Ruth Adams and Walter McCluskey, of Saint John; Roy McCluskey, of Musquash; Mrs. William Tibert, of Freeport, and A. A. Shortliffe, of Digby.

Several showers were given the bride and groom by their many friends in Saint John. A table lamp was presented to the bride by members of the Coburg Street church choir, and a tri-light floor lamp by fellow workers of the Provincial Wood Products Co., Ltd.

Religious Demonstration at St. Mary's Church

Sunday, June 15, was the feast of Corpus Christi, or more expressly, of Jesus Christ, truly present, body and soul, in the consecrated Host. Consequently, the Eudist Fathers, the worthy emulators of the late Rev. Fr. Sigogne, the regenerator of the French-Canadians in Clare and the district of Argyle, had every thing prepared to duly celebrate the feast with all the religious pomp and splendour possible, for nothing can be too rich or too magnificent when it comes to adore and honor the King of Kings.

Solemn High Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Laplante, C. J. M., as deacon, and Rev. Father G. Leger, C. J. M. as sub deacon. A mass in four parts was artistically and religiously rendered by the Chorale with Ulysse Comeau at the organ.

In the afternoon, solemn vespers were also celebrated. This was followed by the procession of the Most Blessed Sacrament. The Sacred Host, in a monstrance of gold studded with precious stones under a canopy of cloth of gold, assisted by Rev. Fr. Roy and Rev. Fr. Leger, also in vestments of cloth of gold. The Children of Mary, with banner and insignias, the clergy, in surplice, the flower girls in white, the altar boys in their costumes of black, red and violet, formed an imposing sight, while from the church issued the pealings of bells and the sweet strains of music.

After the procession had re-entered the church, solemn benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given by Rev. Fr. Laplante, while the Chorale rendered appropriate music.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, over 2,000 people from far and near were assembled for the religious demonstration. What a contrast with 141 years ago. The first procession of the Blessed Sacrament in Clare was held at Church Point, June 12, 1800, by the late Rev. Fr. Sigogne, of blessed memory, the apostle and regenerator of the French Acadian in Clare and in the district of Argyle.

Advent Conference In Bear River

The Nova Scotia Advent Christian Conference, which met in Bear River, June 12-15, held its closing session Sunday night. Rev. John Taylor Holman, of Port Clyde, Maine, was the guest speaker for the Conference. Rev. Mr. Holman was a very forceful speaker and a firm believer in the Bible and proclaimed God's Word fearlessly.

There was a number of delegates from other Advent Christian Churches attending the Conference. The next session of the Conference will be held at West Head, in September.

Household Science and Manual Training Closing

On Tuesday afternoon parents and friends of the school children gathered in the Community Hall to inspect the wonderful display of finished articles made during the year in the Household Science and Manual Training Departments of Digby Academy.

A. J. Dillon, chairman of the School Board, presided during the afternoon, and Rev. F. B. Gaskill was guest speaker. A special feature on the program was a short fashion opera—'Madame Suzanne's Dress Shop', by the Household Science classes, in which the girls appeared in attractive costumes they had made during the year.

Ice cream and cookies served at the conclusion of the program, was another indication of the excellent instruction the girls had received in their Household Science course.

Prizes for sewing were awarded as follows:

Grade 7—1st, Lillian Theriault; 2nd, Ruth Lent.

Grade 8A—1st, Marie Small; 2nd, Joyce Daley.

Grade 8B—1st, Helen Jefferson; 2nd, Aileen Winchester.

Grade 9—1st, Eileen Marshall; 2nd, Dorothy Cook.

Grade 10—1st, Harriet McKay; 2nd, Grace Vincent.

Ralph E. Croft

The death is reported in Montreal, of Ralph Edward Croft, in the 32nd year of his age, and husband of Evangeline (Caines), formerly of Digby. It was in 1925 that he joined the Royal Bank of Canada at the age of 16 years, doing some clerical work in the Yarmouth branch for a few months the first year. He was one of four sisters and two brothers, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Croft, live at Newcastle, N. B.

O. F. Theriault

The death of Onesime F. Theriault took place at Sioux Look-out, Northern Ontario, June 7th, aged 71 years. He is survived by three brothers, Simon, Edward E. Charles, of Belliveau's Cove; one sister, Mrs. Annie Gaudet, residing in Bradford, Mass. Mr. Theriault left his native home when young, and for the past fifty-three years has resided in United States West, and Northern Ontario.

Thomas W. Whitenect

The death of Thomas Whitenect took place at the home of his son, John, in Murchyville, Musquodoboit, on June 10. Born at Freeport, 79 years ago, he had removed, as a young man, to Hebron, Yarmouth County, in which place he had resided until about two years ago when he went to Murchyville to live with his son. A lover of music, and a member of the Baptist Church at Hebron, he had been a member of that church choir for many years. For the past seven years he had been an invalid. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. C. T. Pitman, in the United States, and Mrs. Joseph Hamilton, of Hebron; and one son, Gnr. John Whitenect, of the R.C.A., Halifax.

Mrs. Harriet Cann

The death of Mrs. Harriet Cann, widow of Charles Cann, Port Maitland, occurred on June 9th. The deceased was 87 years of age, and was a daughter of the late Morgan and Sarah Lewis, of North Range, Digby County. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Frank Duval, of New York; Mrs. George Face, of Lynn, Mass.; Mrs. Holly

Thompson, and one son Harold, of Port Maitland. The funeral was held from her late residence on Thursday afternoon, with interment in Island Cemetery.

Ten thousand Americans are already fighting with British and Allied forces. This is a very nice start for a country that's just beginning to get its feet wet.

Fellow Citizens! We are Fighting for Our Lives!

Tragedy thunders through the world. The battle of the Atlantic rages. The battle of Britain may break at any hour in wildest fury. All continental Europe lies under the heel of the Barbarian. Britain alone stands martialling every man for desperate resistance. Every gun, every tank, every ship, every plane that can be gathered from the four corners of the earth is desperately needed.

Britain's battle is our battle. We are in equal peril.

Guns and equipment are pouring from Canada's factories. Your dollar helps to speed the stream of shells and guns and planes.

Your country asks you to lend your savings for the common need.

What is your answer? There can be but one: We will turn our dollars into steel. Side by side with Britain we will take up Hitler's challenge till every stain of his corroding fingers is sponged or blasted from the earth.

The danger is imminent. The response must be immediate and emphatic. The Government of Nova Scotia confidently appeals to every citizen to BUY VICTORY LOAN BONDS to the limit of his ability.

LEND YOUR MONEY AND MAKE YOUR DOLLARS FIGHT.

A. S. MacMILLAN,

Premier of Nova Scotia.

New Prices for Lime for Farms

A new low price of $1.40 ton for lime for farm soils, for the summer months only, is announced by Hon. John A. McDonald, minister of agriculture, as a result of a re-adjustment that has been made in the lime policy of the department, with the object of effecting a better distribution of lime sales throughout the year, and encouraging lime sales in the summer months when such sales have generally been light.

The new summer price of $1.40 ton will be in effect for the period from June 15 to October 5, and will apply to all orders placed through the department of agriculture or at recognized quarries, and will, of course, apply only to lime purchased for agricultural purposes. The price of $1.40 ton is a reduction from the price of $1.50 which is the general price at which lime has been sold to farmers under the policy of reduced lime rates inaugurated by the department at the beginning of the year.

The new schedule of rates as now arranged will be as follows:

June 15 to October 5, $1.40 ton; October 6 to April 15, $1.50 ton; and from April 16 to June 15, $1.60.

Records of sales under the lime policy for the past year show that orders for only two carloads of lime were received during last summer, while there were orders for 62 carloads during the fall and winter period, and 118 cars during the spring period from April 15 to June 15. Had the spring been an early one there would have been great difficulty in filling the orders. It has therefore been considered advisable to make the above re-adjustments in price in an effort to promote a greater movement of the lime during the summer and fall seasons.

Certain quarries have also found it difficult to grind limestone in winter or early spring when the rock is wet. Another factor is the labor situation which is becoming more acute. Lime crusher operators find it difficult in getting men, even at higher wages, and the spreading of orders more evenly over the year would help this situation.

The co-operation of agricultural societies throughout the province is urged in helping to promote the movement of lime under the new arrangement.

Pronounced results have already come from the operation of the lime policy, over 30,000 tons of lime and marl having been moved during 1940.

Production of Butter Increasing

A further increase in the production of creamery butter in the province has been recorded during the month of May, according to the monthly report of the provincial dairy superintendent. The total for the month was 606,556 lbs. compared with 532,862 lbs. for May, 1940, an increase of 13.19. This brings the total production for the first five months of this year to 2,101,000 lbs., which is an increase of 6.5 percent over the same period of 1940. The present price for butter wholesale in Halifax is 32½ cents compared with 24 cents for the same period last year.

Commence T. B. Test in Kings

Announcement is made that the staff of the veterinary director-general for Canada will commence the second general test for T. B. in cattle in Kings County at once, and farmers in that county are urged to co-operate in facilitating the making of the test, which is being made following the completion of the signing of the necessary petition on the part of the farmers.

General tests have been completed in the counties of Yarmouth, Colchester, Cumberland, Hants, Antigonish and Pictou, and petitions are now in progress of being signed for a general test in Inverness county, under the auspiage, under the youth training plan, conducted jointly by the Nova Scotia department of agriculture and the dominion department of labour.

Egg and Poultry Grading Course

Twenty-two young men and women are now undergoing training in a three weeks' course in egg and poultry grading at the agricultural college, Truro, under the auspices of the provincial and dominion departments of agriculture and the dominion department of labour under the youth training plan. Instruction is in the hands of the dominion and provincial poultry officials, and is designed chiefly to provide trained egg graders for registered egg stations throughout the province.

Dairy Cattle Prices in Yarmouth

Yarmouth county, which is one of the chief sources in the Maritimes for supply of high class dairy stock, has recently had some heavy sales of dairy stock to outside purchasers. Prices quoted in a recent news letter showed sales of 24 purebred Guernsey cows to Ontario and U. S. points at an average of $116. This figure was in error, the proper figure being $166. Another sale included 11 purebred Guernsey heifers that brought an average of $100 each.

Livestock Field Days

The following dates for livestock field days are reported by J. A. Steele dominion livestock representative at Truro:

Maritime Hereford breeders field day and annual meeting, E. H. Horne farm, Enfield, Tuesday, June 24.

Western N. S. Shorthorn breeders at the Chase farms, Canard, June 25, afternoon.

Valley Holstein day at R. F. Newcombe's, Port Williams, June 26.

Central N. S. Shorthorn field day, Weldon Dickie's, Middle Stewiacke, Friday, June 27, morning and afternoon.

Princeport - Beaverbrook Guernsey club plan a field day July 9.

Hants county club tour will be held June 30. Club tours for Colchester, Pictou and Halifax counties are planned for July 2.

Two modern little girls, on 'devil?' asked one. Their way home from Sunday School, were solemnly discussing the lesson.

"No," said the other promptly. "It's like Santa Claus; it's your father."

HELP TO KEEP THE "FRONT LINE" AWAY FROM YOUR DOORSTEP

Urge Your Menfolk to Buy Victory Bonds NOW

You can no longer depend upon the Atlantic Ocean for protection. Any day between breakfast time and noon, a bombing plane can fly from Greenland to our own Maritimes and Quebec—a mere matter of 5 hours; to Winnipeg in less than 9 hours, to Vancouver in 10½ hours. From German-occupied France, bomb-laden planes can carry destruction to Toronto, Niagara, Ottawa and Montreal in less than 10 hours. Night and day, in the British Isles and on the sea, in and out of uniform, men defend your home from attack as surely as though they stood and fought at your own doorstep. Will you help to supply them with tools to carry on the fight—your fight? Will you help to make certain that there shall never be an "occupied" Canada?

Your Government needs some of your savings to buy more ships, planes and tanks—munitions of war that will hurry the return of our men to their homes, insure our way of life. Lend your money by buying Victory Bonds NOW!

The money you invest in Victory Bonds will come back to you with interest. Lend your money. We must win this war. Lend to preserve the things that money cannot buy. Urge your menfolk to protect your home by investing in Victory Bonds now. All that you hold dear is threatened.

HOW TO BUY

Give your order to the canvasser who calls on you. Or place it in the hands of any branch of any bank, or give it to any trust company. Or send it to your local Victory Loan Headquarters. Bonds may be bought in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1000 and larger. ## TIME MARCHES ON

(From the COURIER files of June 23rd, 1916.)

Election News—Liberal candidates J. Willie Comeau and Henry W. B. Warner win election with wide majority.

A large crowd filled Water street in front of the Courier building Tuesday evening to get the election news from the bulletin board. The first district heard from was Smith's Cove at 5.10, followed by Sandy Cove a minute later. J. A. Marshall, keeper of the Alma House, made a special trip with his team to get us the news from Marshalltown, and L. B. Eldridge "autoed" a representative to the station for the same purpose. Weymouth was the slowest, it took 7 o'clock before Weymouth central furnished us with the news.

The large government schooner Fielding arrived in port a few days ago in charge of Capt. C. F. Lewis. The Fielding will at once proceed with the despatching of the channel at Digby pier.

Deaths—John C. MacNeill, Marshalltown; Erma Lewis, Digby; Anna Co., Mrs. Amy S. Johns, Weymouth; Robert L. Cafferty, Boston; Walter R. D'Arcy, Centreville; Mrs. Louisa Whitman, Annapolis Royal.

Marriage—Miss Ethel M. Leach, formerly of Mascarene, N. S., and Capt. Robert C. Fleming, Clementsport, N. S., were married at Boston, June 23rd, 1916.

Ten Years Ago

(From the COURIER files of June 26th, 1931.)

A drowning accident occurred at Barnes' Lake, about two miles half miles from Bear River, on Sunday afternoon. Charles Payne, 18, son of James Payne, lost his life.

Robicheau, 15, was drowned, and his cousin, Ted Robicheau, was near death when his attempts to rescue him on Sunday of last week. The two with Lawrence Robicheau, were at a lake near Digby.

Deaths—Mrs. John A. Fraser, Clementsport; Mrs. T. E.

QUENTIN MACLEAN

Quentin Maclean presides at the console of the organ at the C.B.C. Toronto studios several times each week. He is now featured in "March of Victory", the current series of broadcasts heard Mondays to Fridays at 8.00 p. m., ADST. Before coming to Canada he was theatre organist for the B.B.C. His recordings are well-known throughout the Empire.

Visit the Camp On Saturday

Saturday is "Army Day". This is an opportunity for visitors to see as much as possible of present methods of training and the available equipment in use.

On the day all camps, barracks and training centres are to be open to visitors, and every effort made to make this day attractive for the mothers, fathers, wives and other relatives of the troops located there. Time-tables will be adjusted to show as wide a variety of training as is practicable within the syllabus.

Enquiries should be made of railways and bus companies as to special schedules for this occasion.

It is anticipated that with the co-operation of the Auxiliary Services, Canteens and Coffee Bars, Women's Auxiliaries, Service Clubs, and other voluntary organizations, the question of food and refreshments will be satisfactorily handled.

First shipment, about 2500 tons of barytes produced at the new operations at Walton, Hants County, has just been despatched to Trinidad where it is used in oil drilling. Prior to the war the bulk of the supplies are said to have come from Germany.

Graduation Exercises Of Digby Academy

Citizens of Digby filled the Community Hall to capacity last Friday evening to witness the graduating exercises of the Digby Academy. The graduating class marched to the Hall, and took their places on the platform of the auditorium beside His Worship, Mayor E. J. Theriault, H. A. Nichols, Inspector T. A. M. Kirk, A. J. Dillon, Dr. W. R. Dickie, and others. Pianist for the evening was Mrs. Harold A. Nichols.

After the singing of "O Canada", A. J. Dillon, chairman of the School Board, welcomed the interested citizens of the town. He congratulated the graduates for their success, and extended to them his best wishes for successful careers. There was a tone of sadness in his voice as he said he, and others, would miss their bright "good mornings" and "hellos", but he said, his only regret was that they were being sent into a world torn by a cruel war. Mr. Dillon spoke highly of the achievements of Principal F. C. Purdy and his staff of teachers.

Teddy Walker gave the Valedictory address. In his well-expressed remarks he thanked the School Board for backing up the efforts of the pupils in ways already manifest, and also for giving them one of the best equipped and modern schools in the province. Greater still, he said was the thanks due to Canada and her leaders who have given us democracy, with freedom of speech, freedom of worship and freedom from want and fear, and all other forms of democratic life.

The Valedictory award was presented to Edward (Teddy) Walker by the Secretary of the School Board, Harold A. Nichols. The prize was one year's subscription to Reader's Digest, donated by the publishers.

Certificates were presented by Mr. Dillon to the Graduating Class, as follows: Grade XII—Harold Trask, June Campbell, Edward Walker, Evelyn Hayden, Doris Franklin, Grade XI—Doris Rice, Emma Purdy, Mildred Carty, Helen Snow, Philip Woolaver, Donald Wilson, Teddy Thibault, Ena Robinson, Douglas MacKay, Claire Merkel.

A solo was rendered by Miss Edith Morehouse, of the Graduating Class of one year ago.

Inspector T. A. M. Kirk, of Yarmouth, was the guest speaker, who spoke of the splendid co-operation between the School Board and the students. He regretted that the pupils in rural and village schools could not have all the advantages of pupils in the urban districts. He described good education as a pyramid, having a broad foundation, a real necessity if the "pyramid" is to remain intact throughout the years, hence the importance of a good start in lower grades, and the responsibility that rests on the shoulders of beginners. He drew attention to the fact that it costs the taxpayers an average of $50 a year for every pupil educated in the schools of the province. His praise was high of the Digby school and the work of the teachers.

Doris Franklin gave the Class Will and June Campbell the Class Prophecy.

This was followed by the Principal's report, by Principal F. C. Purdy. Before giving the report he called to the audience to stand in respect to Donald Winchester, who recently made the supreme sacrifice, having lost his life at sea. The outstanding features of the report was the amount raised for the Queen's Canadian Fund, $97, and $51 raised for the Red Cross, under the direction of Miss Jean Anderson, one of the teachers. The War Savings Stamps Campaign was a huge success, the objective being $1,000 and the amount raised being $2,250. He made the announcement that the "Fundy Light", the annual high school publication, had suspended publication for the duration of the war.

Presentation of Honour Certificates was then made by Chairman A. J. Dillon to Grades IX and X. Dr. W. R. Dickie presented the Mayor's prize for the highest in English and Social Problem work to Miss June Campbell. Prizes for Essay Competition on the subject "Why Canadians Should Buy Victory Bonds" were presented to Edward Walker and Ellen Outhouse, by Victor Cardoza. Mayor Theriault then presented prizes to Grades IX, X, XI and XII. The Honor Flag for War Savings Contest was presented by Chairman Dillon, to Grade XII. The exercises closed with the singing of the National Anthem, the audience remaining standing while the Graduating Class, Mayor, Chairman and speakers marched from the room.

CLASS PROPHECY

(By June Campbell)

We have reached the beginning of life Before us the world and its strife, Is plain to see, This fight for the rights which are ours Will bring many difficult hours, So it must be.

But the clouded years lying ahead Bring no thoughts of fear or dread To us tonight, The thought of what others have done, The love and respect they have won, Keeps the torch bright.

This year there are five to leave From Digby High we will receive Our last farewell, But years from now where shall we be, What story of success shall we then try to tell.

Behind the desk June sits all day Waiting for Saturday, bringing her pay, This is her life, But others looking on would say That she would better be one day Somebody's wife!

Now quiet please, for here we see Dot Franklin deep in the mystery Of the boss's dictation, Success is hers we must agree For even in business Dot would be A great sensation!

Our look into the future now is through, We've tried to tell you what we hope to do

Mrs. Edwin A. Peeper, 15, Essen Road, Dartmouth, mother of three sons all fighting today for the cause of Freedom, is pictured above knitting for the boys overseas. The three sons, Clyde 21 years, Gerald 24 years, and Winifred 26 years, serve His Majesty in uniforms of the R.C.A.F., the Royal Canadian Navy and the Royal Canadian Artillery.

In future days, Whether success be ours we cannot tell, We only hope that one day we may well Deserve your praise.

First comes Mr. Harold Trask The same one that we used to ask Our Science questions, But now it seems that our old Jake When it comes to flying planes Can make Many suggestions.

Next we see the great class talker, Our one and only Edward Walker, We call him Ted, Now he's a mining engineer With knowledge wonderful but queer Inside his head.

The scene now shifts to far away Where in a hospital patients lay In beds so white, But for their safety there's no fear Who wouldn't be sick with Evie near To watch by night.

CLASS WILL OF '41

(By Doris E. Franklin) We, the graduating class of 1941, in the County of Digby and Province of Nova Scotia, being in good health, of sound and disposing mind and memory and considering the uncertainties of this life do, for avoiding cc. travesties after our departure make, public and declare this to be our last will and testament in manner following, that is to say: 1—To our blood-brother, Donald Drew Rice, one large bottle of pure unaltered Orange Blossom Brillantine, to keep down his stubborn curls.

2—To our most beloved sister, Helen Louise Snow, this little boat to be used when crossing from Port Wade to Digby at her convenience.

3—To our second blood-brother, Donald Ray Wilson, we leave this streamlined Chevrolet in hopes that it won't take too many pleats and dents to make it into a Ford.

4—To our younger beloved sister, Emma Frances Purdy, we leave this fragile guitar string to add another tune to her Cowboy songs.

5—To our half-brother Frederick James Tebo, we will this little bunch of love notes, hoping they'll come in handy in the future.

6—To our half-sister Mildred Elva Carty, we leave this useful questionnaire complete with answers, to be used when figuring out Chemistry questions.

7—To our first cousin Philip Raymond Woolaver, a little flashlight with sound absorbing batteries, so that when dropped in theatre isles it wouldn't scare the customers to death.

8—To our second cousin Clair Elaine Merkel (twice removed) we leave this stop sign at her own, hoping that she'll use it before turning into crooked gateways.

9—To our last and most respected relative, uncle Emdon Douglas MacKay, we will this pliable brush to use in painting his most picturesque landscapes.

We do hereby appoint our beloved classmates as Executors to this our last will and testament making null and void all others to the contrary. In witness whereof we have here unto set our hand and seal this twentieth day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and forty-one.

Signed, sealed, published and declared by the Class of '41.

VALEDICTORY ADDRESS

(By Teddy Walker) Mr. Chairman, Members of the School Board, Classmates, and Undergraduates, Ladies, and Gentlemen:— You have come here tonight to see the 52 class of pupils graduate from the ranks of Digby High. You have come to see the future citizens of Digby leave the shelter and training of school and embark upon the rough road of life. And they do it with a smile on their lips and a hope in their heart.

Perhaps some of you, as you are sitting there, are thinking that it seems only yesterday that we roamed the streets of this town in short pants and kiddy-cars. Perhaps some of you are thinking of the days when you left school. Do you remember when you finished schooling and started life with everything before you? Do you recall the trials and ar-

Boys Of The Blitz

(By Winifred Holmes)

All heroes of the war are not in uniform.

Take Michael O'Connor, for instance. Michael is a boy of 16, from the East end of London. And Mickey was leader of a boy "Gang".

Now Mickey has turned his gang into a first-class company of fire-fighters and Civil Defence messengers.

He and his parents live in a tiny basement. "That's why I'm so small," says Mickey, who is not quite five feet tall. His father is a dock labourer, and his mother a hospital cleaner.

Mickey himself is an office boy in a paper works. At night he goes on duty as an A.R.P. messenger, while his father and mother sleep in the crypt shelter of one of the historic old City churches.

One evening recently, Mickey reported at the Post for duty as usual. Bombs began to fall and the wardens were called out. Mickey was given the job of taking an injured man through the "blitz" to the First Aid Centre.

Seven times he was sent out on his bicycle while the raid was at its height, for the fire and ambulance services.

Then came a lull. Mickey wiped his forehead, had a cup of tea and sandwich and sat down.

Before ten minutes had passed the guns were going again, overhead droned the bombers. Suddenly a "bread-basket" spilled its deadly contents on Mickey's street. "Incendiaries," he pedaled furiously round to the houses where members of his "gang" lived. "A packet by Old Ma's pub. Come on!" With their help Mickey put out nine fires!

More incendiaries on the old church where among 350 other people, Mickey's parents were sheltering. Two fires began to blaze on the roof. Armed with a bucket of water and a stirrup-pump, Mickey climbed a narrow staircase to the roof. There he fought the flames single-handed until the fire began to die down and the Fire Brigade arrived to finish the job.

When Bill Coppola, a fifteen-year-old railway worker in a West County town, wanted to join the Auxiliary Fire Service for First Aid work, he was told he was too young. But he persisted and was reluctantly enrolled.

One night the station to which he was attached was heavily attacked. High explosives screamed down and Bill dived under a coach for cover. Then he heard a splutter as incendiary bombs fell on the building. The next minute he was running up a ladder to the roof. There he spent ten hectic minutes kicking the incendiaries to the ground before they could do any damage.

A still younger boy hero is 14-year-old Eric Smith of South London. Because of his smallness and slenderness he was able to save the lives of several people trapped under the wreckage of their house. Rescue workers were digging frantically to reach the family buried beneath the rubble.

Eric heard the leader say that the only way to make a safe tunnel was through a small opening from which a fireplace had been removed. "But it's too small for any of us to get through," he added despondently. "I'll go," said Eric. The men hesitated. Owing to its dangerous nature the work needed skilled handling. But there were several lives at stake.

So Eric got his way. Armed with an axe and a shovel, he squeezed into the tiny opening. Cramped and half-suffocated, he chopped and shovelled away for hours, while debris threatened to collapse on him at any moment. At last he succeeded in making the opening big enough for a man to pass through. Finally the trapped people, two of whom were still alive, were brought out.

R.C.A.F. Recruits Wanted

In keeping with the increased tempo of R. G. A. F. activity under the Joint Empire Training Plan large numbers of applications for Air Crew and Trades enlistment are now required according to the R. C. A. F. Recruiting Centre, Halifax. More than 100 Air Crew, and well over that number of General Duties and Tradesmen are required within the next six weeks.

Pilots and Observers particularly, rather than Wireless Operators (Air Gunners) are required to fill quotas on hand to the end of August. Applicants with Grade X normally applying as Wireless Operators (Air Gunners) may, if otherwise suitable to the Air Force, arrange through the later for study under the direction of the Canadian Legion which in three months may qualify them for enlistment as Pilots or Observers. Subjects studied are mathematics, physics and English.

Skilled Tradesmen (18-40 years of age), applicants for General Duties, and General Duties Guards (18-50 years) are required in ever increasing numbers. Applicants are accepted also for electricians, aero engine mechanics, air-frame mechanics, clerks and cooks.

While both experienced and inexperienced cooks are urgently required, those without previous knowledge of cooking must be intelligent, adaptable to the work and show a keenness to be trained.

Clam digging began over the past week in Wedgeport, Yarmouth County, employing 30 or 40 men of the community. Walter Murphy, commission merchant, is paying $1.50 a barrel for clams and is shipping from 50 to 70 barrels to the Boston markets each day.

Good Crop

Prospect in View

Farmers of this section of Digby County feel encouraged over the prospect of their 1941 hay crop. This crop, slow at first, is now growing rapidly, and since the recent heavy rains, a great difference is seen.

Other crops too, promise good yield. Root crops are reported in most sections as making good progress. They too, have benefited greatly by the rains. To date, few insect pests have been reported in this area (a headline in a recent newspaper dispatch stated worms were damaging potato crops in Digby County. This dispatch was dated Wedgeport, which is not in Digby County. Inquiries have revealed none of these worms in the western portion of the county at least).

Cherries are expected to be fairly plentiful, although another crop like that of last year (the largest in many years) can scarcely be expected.

On the other hand, strawberries, soon ready for market, are not expected to be as plentiful in most districts. The plants gave promise by their heavy blossoms early in the season, and pollination appeared to be good, however, the yield in many of the local strawberry fields, was reduced by late frosts.

KARSDALE

Stanley Beck, of Belleisle, called on friends here on Sunday.

Miss Louise Connors, Lynn, Mass., is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Connors.

Miss Addie Hudson has returned to her home, after a successful year spent at Normal College, Truro.

Noble C. Wheelock left on Wednesday to join the "colours". He will be stationed at Bedford for a time.

Mrs. Annie Holder, of Everett, Mass., arrived on Thursday to spend the summer with her sister, Mrs. Susie Johnson, who is not enjoying her usual good health.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford MacNeill and little daughter Donna, of Middleton are visiting Mrs. Dora Hudson. Pte. Fred Hudson, of Halifax, is a visitor at the same home.

On Friday evening a social evening was held by the ladies of the Red Cross at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Rogers. Refreshments were served and a collection taken amounting to $5.00.

The ladies of the Church of England held a 15 cent tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bohaker on Wednesday evening of last week. The proceeds, which amounted to $15.00, were for church purposes.

About two weeks ago Ralph Wright invested in a "nanny" goat—and we understand he obtained another a few days ago—but, from the present look of things, Mr. Wright is not going to be the only goat dairyman in town. Freddy Muise has purchased two, and we are told that Ralph Theriault in the south end, now has one, making a total of five. We believe more goats will be brought to Digby shortly.

From all we are able to learn, their owners are well satisfied with the quality of the milk obtained, and regard the goats as an excellent investment.

Gilbert Dakin has employment in Shelburne.

Miss Edna Shaw has returned home from Paradise.

Miss Esther Everett, of Digby, is visiting Mrs. "Bud" Graham.

Mrs. Oscar Dugas, of Acadiaville, spent last week with Mrs. Carmen Outhouse.

"Brownies" Entertain

On Saturday, at their regular meeting, the Bear River "Brownies" had as their guests, Mrs. Byng-Hall, District Commissioner for the Girl Guides, who is also the "Brown Owl" of the Annapolis Royal "Brownies", Miss Joan Smith, "Tawney Owl" of the same Pack, mothers of the "Brownies", and members of the local Association.

Following the usual activities, "Brown Owl", Miss Mollie Roginson, presented prizes won in a Treasure Hunt the week previous. The adults present were very much interested in seeing how quickly and correctly the "Brownies" translated into action, in a natural and pleasing manner.

Ideas given them by the Leaders. One could almost see and smell the odor of imaginary flowers, as the children stooped to pick them (from a hardwood floor). The regular portion of the meeting closed with singing "God Save the King". Then "Brownies", assisted by members of the Association, served iced fruit punch and cookies, and a most enjoyable afternoon came to a close.

MARRIAGE

Logan - Chisholm

Holy Trinity Church at Granville Ferry was the scene of a pretty wedding, Thursday afternoon, June 19, when Dorothy Isa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Logan, of Granville Ferry, was united in marriage to George Travers Chisholm, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Chisholm, of Lower Granville. Rev. R. T. B. Anderson, of Middleton, officiated at the ceremony. The bride was dressed in Queen's blue silk crepe with white hat and white accessories, and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses with wax leaves; she was given away by her brother-in-law, A. H. Macumber, of Windsor, her father being unable to attend the ceremony. The ushers were Harold Smith, the bride's brother-in-law, of Halifax, and Stuart Saunders. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, at which a number of guests were present. The bride has been assistant in the Post Office at Granville Ferry for the past seven years, and has made many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Chisholm will reside in Halifax.

Splendid War Effort Of Digby Academy

At the beginning of the year an objective of $1,000 to be invested in War Savings Stamps and Certificates was set by the Digby Academy. Then it appeared a big amount for a school the size of the Digby school to raise—but they did it, in fact, they did it two and one-quarter times—the total amount of War Savings Stamps and Certificates (including a few Bonds) purchased by Digby Academy Pupils amounted to $2250! The June total was more than $600.

WELL DONE.

However, that is not all, for in addition to that amount, $148 was raised for War Work.

The High School Branch of the Red Cross raised $51 plus a number of garments made by the Household Science Class.

Another $51 was raised for

Earlier in the year the High School Orchestra raised $10 for the same fund, and on Thursday last the Graduating Class of the High School boosted the Queen's Fund total by another $36 with the net proceeds of their graduation dance held at Harbor View Casino, Smith's Cove.

This occasion was the first in ten years the Graduation Dance has been opened to the public.

OBITUARY

James W. Greene

James W. Greene, of New Tuskot, died on June 12, aged 72 years. He was a son of the late Jacob and Mary E. (Steele) Greene, and leaves to mourn his widow; one son, J. Russell Greene, of East Brainerd, Mass.; and two daughters, Mrs. Warren Smith, of Dorchester, Mass., and Mrs. Ernest Churchill, of Wolfville.

The funeral was conducted by Lic. Robert Smith, of Weymouth, assisted by Rev. Pearly Briggs, of New Tuskot. Carl Mullen, a relative of the deceased, rendered "Good Night and Good Morning", by special request. The floral tributes were very beautiful.

MARRIAGE

Winchester - Shaw

On Saturday afternoon, June 7, at the Baptist Church, in West Medford, Mass., Miss Phyllis Gertrude Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip G. Shaw, of Medford, was united in marriage to Robert Macdonald Winchester, (Staff Sergt. U. S. Army) son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Winchester, of West Somerville, Mass., and grandson of the late Capt. John C. Winchester, formerly of Digby. Rev. Dr. Eugene Densmore Dolloff, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of about two hundred guests.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white marquisette with applique trimming, a finger-tip veil of tulle, and carried a prayer-book with a small shower bouquet of white rosebuds and sweetpeas. All her attendants wore delphinium blue gowns of embroidered marquisette with tears of talesman roses and delphinium, and carried matching bouquets. The maid of honor was Miss Carolyn A. Shaw, sister of the bride, and the four bridesmaids included Miss Jean Winchester, sister of the groom, Lamert Clarke, of Winchester, was best man. A reception was held in church parlors after the ceremony the parents of the bride and groom assisting in receiving. Before leaving for a motor trip through the White Mountains, Sergt. and Mrs. Winchester went directly from the church to see Mrs. Mary E. Winchester, (grandmother of the groom), who is recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia, and was unable to attend the wedding. Sergt. Winchester has been in the United States Army for the past ten years, returning a year ago from a three-year period at Schofield Barracks, Hawaiian Islands, and has recently been transferred from Mitchell Field, N. Y., to the new Army Air Base at Manchester, N. H., where he has been made Sergt. Major in charge of personnel.

May Close School At Central Grove

The question of closing the rural school at Central Grove, Long Island, was considered at a special meeting held in that section at which Inspector T. A. M. Kirk, was present, when the matter of closing the school and having the pupils attend the school at Tiverton or Freeport was debated; the children to be conveyed to and from school by bus. No action in the matter was taken other than a decision reached to enter into a further discussion at the regular meeting of the school section, which will be held later.

Such Accuracy!

Last Thursday's Halifax Herald carried one of its question mark headings over a dispatch bearing an Acaciaville dateline. The item suggested a mysterious black aeroplane had been dropping Jehovah's Witnesses' propaganda in that area.

Our own check-up after reading the despatch, revealed that propaganda leaflets were "dropped" in the Acaciaville and Marshalltown districts. They were found there in the early morning. It is quite evident too, that a black aeroplane was seen flying low over the villages early that same morning.

However, if the pilot of that plane dropped the leaflets, he would make a valuable addition to the Royal Canadian Air Force—his accuracy was something to talk about, for, in every case, the propaganda leaflets landed fair in the driveways of the householders—some of these driveways were no more than twenty yards apart!

Tourist Outlook Hopeful

Summer visitors are arriving in Digby in greater numbers these days, and there is a marked increase in traffic via Princess Helene from Saint John. "Foreign" licence plates from many States, Provinces and Newfoundland are now quite common on Digby streets.

Most of the summer hotels in this locality are open for the season, the Pines opening on the 27th. However, even with the number of visitors increasing daily, it is not expected the season will really get under way until after the middle of July. Most of those who have arrived up to the present time can scarcely be classed as visitors, for many have been coming to Digby and surrounding country for years, and maintain their own summer homes. We are always glad to see these folk, and with most of us, they are considered as "our own people."

Somehow, we do not feel the average American tourist will be influenced by propaganda to the extent they were last summer when many remained on their own side of the border because of "tall stories" about Canada that were circulated in the United States. Among them was one that gasoline for pleasure purposes was selling at 75 cents a gallon, rationed in five gallon quantities two days a week.

So far this season our own office has only received one letter asking if we felt there was any danger of an "invasion" this summer, while last season such letters were fairly numerous, as well as letters from prospective American visitors and from several of those who have been coming to Digby for a number of years who wrote to ask if "they would be welcome."

Danvers Forest Fire Under Control

A forest fire at Danvers brought under control shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, according to information received by telephone. The fire, said to have broken out on the property of Russell Lewis, at Danvers, was reported sweeping toward the timberlands of H. T. Warne Ltd., and in the direction of the village of Riverdale.

It is believed the fire originated from a brush fire, Monday, on the land of Vernon Prime, Danvers. This fire, thought to be out, apparently smouldered until fanned by yesterday's high wind, and broke out again yesterday.

For a time the safety of valuable timberland, some of the finest in the country, was feared. Few men were available to fight the blaze which gained rapid headway until help arrived.

When brought under control, it is reported there were between fifty and sixty men fighting the fire under the direction of fire wardens, A. W. Andrews, North Range and C. P. Flinn, Church Point. By strenuous work they succeeded in surrounding the blaze, and from last reports it is felt the fire is well under control, although it will probably be necessary to watch it for several days to come.

The fire was confined to a heavily wooded area, and no buildings were damaged.

Formal Opening July 4

HABITATION AT LOWER GRANVILLE

Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines and Resources, will formally open Champlain's Habitation at Lower Granville, on Friday, July 4. The ceremony will begin at 2.30 p. m. Atlantic Standard Time. The formal opening of the Cape Breton Highlands National Park will take place at 9 a. m. July 1.

Production of Chicks Increases

Returns from approved hatcheries in Nova Scotia up to June 12 this year, showed a total hatch of 560,000 chicks, or an increase of 10 per cent over the total at the same date last year. The total for the season is expected to be not far short of 580,000, as compared with a total of 516,000 chicks last year from 33 hatcheries. Increase in hatchings throughout Canada this year has been about six per cent. In 1932 Nova Scotia had six approved hatcheries producing a total of about 53,000 saleable chicks.

Speaks on Poultry Industry

C. E. Benoit, provincial poultry promoter, was the guest speaker on the CBC farm broadcast on Tuesday of last week, when he was interviewed on the poultry situation in Nova Scotia. Speaking in optimistic terms, Mr. Benoit, quoted the very large orders which are coming from Britain for eggs from Canada. He advised the keeping of all good layers and careful flock management to obtain maximum production. He emphasized the economy of home mixed rations, in which home grown feeds play an important part, and made the significant statement that most of the top grade poultry marketed through organized groups last year in Nova Scotia was from producers using home mixed rations almost entirely.

Second Poultry Pool

The second co-operative poultry marketing pool of this season was held June 18, at Aylesford, in Kings County, through which producers of the district, who are members of the Aylesford poultry group, marketed some 2500 lbs. of dressed poultry on grade. Top market price was obtained for this poultry.

Wool Grading Up Well

Encouraging reports come from the two wool grading centres at Antigonish and Mabou, in Eastern Nova Scotia, respecting the quality of the wool coming in. In the main one report says over 90 per cent of the wool is going in the first two grades, and some lots are 100 per cent in these two grades.

Bright Idea for Chick Water Founts

Poultry club members in Wedgeport, are using a novel idea for a water fount for their chicks. They use a discarded glass gallon jug, in which two holes are bored on opposite sides of the jug with a steel drill kept moistened in turpentine. The holes are put in about a quarter-inch from the bottom of the jug, and the jug is then set in a shallow pan. This equipment is easily kept clean, and the amount of water in the jug is easily kept track of.

Cut the Hay Early

About this time of the year the annual admonition goes forth to farmers: Cut your hay early. This year Nova Scotia is looking forward to a fairly good hay crop. The only way to get full feeding value from the hay is to cut it early, when the protein value is highest. Early cut hay is more easily digested by livestock than hay cut late in the season. Furthermore, the protein value reduces as the stage of maturity increases. It has been shown by experiments that the total protein per acre in pounds in hay cut when the heads are formed is 304, when cut in bloom the protein value is 276 lbs. per acre, when past bloom only 199 lbs., and when seed formed, is only 161 lbs. The following stages for cutting hay are suggested: For Timothy early to full bloom; Red Top full bloom; Alfalfa one-half to full bloom; When hay is cut early not only is feeding value higher, but there is a greater after-math which can be used for pasture at a time when it is generally badly needed, or in the case of clovers, may be made into hay.

Heads Federated Women's Institutes

Officials of the Women's Institutes of Nova Scotia have been attending the convention of the Federated Institutes of Canada at Fredericton the past week. Work of the Nova Scotia Women's Institutes and the Garden Brigade movement for greater production of home grown vegetables, was reported upon for Nova Scotia by Miss Helen Macdougall, superintendent of Institutes for the province.

Graduation Exercises

ros, the little things left undone, and the little things you should have done, the tasks and the toil that lead forever in the future?

Tonight we are faced with these same problems. We must choose our future, pave it step by step until we finally reach that goal that lies across the hill.

Some of us will fail by the wayside. Some of our companions have already done so. Perhaps tonight they regret that they are not here, starting life with a full chart, instead of aiming at a half-way mark.

However, we chose to study. In the fall, when the harvest and hunting season rolled around, we started the school day routine once again. Through the long, cold days of winter we brewed over French and Physics and Chemistry and English. And then when spring finally came, when love bug whistled ditties under our window and the will to wander grips a man's heart as never before, we realized then that school days would soon come to a close and that we would leave the paved highway for the hard trail that lies ahead.

Tonight that moment has come. Another hour has ticked dry on the clock of time. We find ourselves suddenly standing face to face with the world herself in all her zest and all her glory. We come in a time when the world needs support as never before, at a time when the foundations of democracy are trembling before the thunder of aggression. To us is handed the torch, and we shall not fail, for our path leads over the hill and away.

Before closing my address I should like—on behalf of the class—to thank you, the people of Digby, for a school that is as well equipped and as well conducted as any in the Maritime. I should like to thank the members of the Bureau of Education for a course that provides ample training for the average citizen of today and provides a continuation through a second year of College. And above all, I should like to thank our Principal and teachers for drilling that course into our heads, at least until examinations were over. But greater than all this lies our reverence to Canada and the British Empire for democracy and democratic life.

We thank you for freedom of thought, freedom of speech, freedom from want and fear, and that we may live in harmony with our fellow men. And to the fighting forces of the British Empire and the Allies who today are defending us and our ways of life, I say—God Bless You! and God Heed You! that your way shall not be spattered with the blood-shed of barbarism. Ladies and Gentlemen—I thank you!

34th Edition

McKim's Directory

According to the 34th Edition of McKim's Directory of Canadian Publications, just off the press, Canada now has 1,808 publications. Of this total well over one-third, 666, are published in Ontario. The Province of Quebec ranks next with 390. Over half of Canadian publications are weeklies—984 as compared with 112 dailies and 462 monthlies.

It is interesting to note that Canada supports sixty-four foreign language publications among which are four dailies in Chinese, two in Japanese and two in Jewish. Foreign publications in Canada are printed in sixteen languages which include Croatian, Czech-Slovak, Danish, Dutch, Finnish, German, Hungarian, Icelandic, Italian, Norwegian, Polish, Swedish and Ukrainian.

McKim's Directory has become practically a national institution and is widely circulated at home and abroad. Publication summarizes exhaustive information on markets, media and populations

DID YOU TAKE A LAXATIVE TODAY?

Do you really know why constipation is so harmful? You probably know that constipation sets up poisons in the large intestine or colon. But do you know that these poisons seep through the walls of the colon and infect the bloodstream? They set up toxic accumulations in kidneys and liver and are contributing causes of rheumatic pains, sciatica and backache.

Most laxatives only act in the colon. Kruschen does more. It is the laxative with a double action. Besides ridding the colon of stagnating waste matter, Kruschen's mineral salts have a diuretic action. They flush the kidneys, help to clear the bloodstream of all poisonous matter, and so protect your whole system from that form of infection. You can get Kruschen from all drug stores. Prices 75c, and 25c.

throughout Canada, constituting an industrial analysis reference of all towns in which publications are printed. Enquiries concerning this directory should be addressed to anyone of the A. McKim Limited offices in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver and in London, England.
