1877-1977

However, nails and finger nails were short and I was sent back to work.

Now and then a printing job had a page or two of "chicken paper" which required a heavy kind of printers ink which smudged very badly some days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would tell that job on the largest press, in spite of the fact that we always spread an outside sheet to lessen the chances on the next print.

One of the jobs I had to do, besides putting and printers devil on the staff, was to... I finished one and then... (one day not long after I started to get to the printing plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned for some considerable time.)

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily. He thought the remark pretty good and said:

Sometimes the gasoline engine stops a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and the "Man" if fix it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results. Man would then stand back and come over dramatically then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of coaxing."

On other occasions when some papers refused duty for me and seemed to be broken, I would say, "use a little oil" and note remark after that all it took. Now often since have I heard of the value of that remark and the actual need of oil in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1928 got together just before dark one evening and decided to initiate the newly built outdoor Penn Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just east of the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys, no thought or time for bathing suits, so in the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in. The rest quickly followed and across the pool the swim-

"Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the boys? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Kierman, veteran of two wars, second world and Korean, was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent druggist for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby whaleboat lobster fisherman; and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day I was asked to contribute about writing your version of the story told about "The Marooning of Jerome" at St. Mary's and read at least two somewhat different versions of the man who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Duffy County. When I read this man's name I had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Joe" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and, possibly, of considerable wealth. However, the subject could or would ever say anything about his family in the French or anything that sounded like that. He would not, or, would not, say who he was or why he was left there. It was, and is, one of Digne County and, different ideas have been expressed about this man. About "Joe" was, I left no stone unturned about this man. The

Having a number of old newspapers handy and to be found is a copy of the United Town Gazette of May, 1882, says the Trillium and among other advertisements contained in the issue before us is one for hiring the town and township of Duple, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this area we are told the township of Duple "extends from the foot of Annapolis westward to the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 120,000 acres." The town plot is shown above.

The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Bay, and extends miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles about 1845 from the head of H. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground, and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Bay, and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in extent. It terminates with the Fort and River's mouth at that name. It was owned by Lafayette, from New York in 1783, the point of which went early to Britain, as, moving to other countries, left the whole

The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of which was my sister Digby's daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Martin) - J.J.'s daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Martin). Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters. I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print." I was learning to do beginner jobs: receiving, stapling, knowledge about things like: embossing, stapling, perforating, counting, cutting and crumpling paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth. But, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "co", the printer name for a confused mass.

There was a taste of trying to grow the plant inside the plant. Work was a little sleek, the early fall day and so Mac said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls, spent most of the time at one particular

Prepare Anthology
To stimulate creative writing in Canadian Schools from coast to coast, an Anthology of Canadian High School Verse and Prose is being prepared.

Submissions should reach the Editor by December 1st, 1955. They should contain the author's name, grade, school, town and Province. Any student from grade VIII to grade XIII is eligible. Submissions will be selected according to their liveliness and originality.

Acknowledgments of receipt and return of submissions will be, unfortunately, impossible. Publication date has been set tentatively for June 1956.

Provincial Departments of Education have expressed interest in this project. Principals will be reminded to pass on this information to staff and students.

Since truly creative writing is not pattern composing, it is hoped that teachers will use this project to encourage their classes.

University authorities have pointed out repeatedly that many of their 1st year students are non-verbal or semi-literate. The Editor of this Anthology is convinced that much hidden talent flourishes at the Secondary School level. The Anthology should bring this to the attention of the public.

Hold Roll Call Service
A Roll Call service was held in the South Range Church of Christ on Sunday, when the church was filled to overflowing.

The choir from Weymouth Falls was in attendance. Mr. Van Norden, of Milton, Queens Co., rendered two solos. The lesson was read by Mrs. Ferner and Mrs. J. A. Carr gave the sermon.

Tendered Shower
Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Troop, who were married recently, were tendered a most enjoyable post-nuptial party on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Walter Milo, Granville Ferry.

Among the guests present were relatives and friends from Hillsburn, the groom being the grandson of Mrs. Grace Longmire, and the late Mr. Roy Longmire, of that place.

Delicious refreshments included a beautifully decorated three-tier wedding cake, made and decorated by the mother of the groom.

Are Dedicated

Following months of re-decorating and repairs on their church by members of the congregation, a re-dedication service was held at the United Baptist Church, Clementsport, on Sunday evening, October 2. Carrolonic bells, given by Mrs. Emma Dittmars, of Clementsport, and a Salsman's picture of Christ, presented by the Rev. and Mrs. Jose Castelleo and the Misses Beatrice and Mabel Digham as a memorial to James Leverett-Potter, were accepted and dedicated.

The bells, given by Mrs. Dittmars in memory of the late Gilbert Fowler Dittmars and Charles Dittmars, were received on behalf of the congregation by the pastor, the Rev. Francis Miller, who expressed hope that they would serve well the purpose for which they were intended.

Greetings from neighbouring churches were read by the church clerk, Mrs. Vesta McIntech, and a former pastor, the Rev. Frank Smith, now retired, spoke briefly. A former member, Mrs. Bernice Marshall, was soloist, and Mrs. Herbert Bartheaux served as organist.

At the close of the service benediction was pronounced by the Rev. S. J. Armstrong, rector of the parish of Clements (Anglican), Clementsport.

Improving School Grounds

Work being done at the entrance of the Deep Brook school grounds is causing much community interest these days. The driveway to the school has always been very dangerous for the school children, so the Deep Brook Garden Club took as its first community project the improvement and beautification of the school grounds.

The Department of Highways were approached and they agreed to cooperate by doing their part. Under the supervision of Mr. Frank Dittmars the Department has three trucks and several men from Deep Brook and outside hauling several loads of fill. They have piped the drain and moved a couple of posts, widening the entrance, which will make it much safer for both pupils and motorists.

The club has a very attractive plan for the landscaping of the grounds, drawn up by Mr. N. V. Jankov, of the Horticultural Division of the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture, which will be worked out during this fall and next spring.

HOW MUCH DOES A VOLUNTEER FIREMAN MEAN TO YOU?

DO YOU THINK?

- He's just a firebug?
- It's really about all he has to do?
- He gets a thrill seeing property go up in smoke?
- He's a menace to the quiet and serenity of our town?

- It's a snap getting out of bed at 3 a.m. in zero weather?
- He's getting paid for the wear and tear on his car?
- He takes the possibility of injuries to himself and others while chasing a fire?

OR DO YOU THINK?

- The VOLUNTEER FIREMEN are a potent and established force of necessity?
- The VOLUNTEER FIREMEN are a group giving their undivided attention to those in time of need?
- The VOLUNTEER FIREMEN deserve freedom of streets at the sound of alarm?
- THE VOLUNTEER FIREMAN might save your home or business some day just because he was given a sporting chance to get to the scene at the right time.

LET'S ALL CO-OPERATE IN THE FUTURE

in the Town of Digby.

I would urge all residents of Digby to observe this 1955 Fire Prevention Week by eliminating, as far as possible, all fire hazards from their property. Further, I would recommend that each one thoroughly learn the commonsense rules of fire prevention and put them into practice throughout the entire year.

I commend the Digby Fire Department for the effort put forth by them for a successful observance of so important a week as Fire Prevention Week and ask that they have fullest co-operation at all times from our residents.

MARRIAGE

Marriage — Notes
A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. James' Church, Kentville, recently when Rev. W. L. Mosher united in marriage Roberta Viola Eaton, daughter of Mrs. Lawrence Thurber, North Range, Digby Co., and Gerald Chesley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Bishop, Greenwich.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her step-father, by whom she was given in marriage. She was lovely in a ballerina length gown of chantilly lace and pleated nylon. Her shoulder length veil of nylon tulle fell from a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses. She wore a gold cross, gift of the groom.

The bride was attended by Miss Wayne MacLeod, wearing a ballerina length gown of pale green nylon and net, with matching headpiece. She carried a nosegay of yellow and white carnations.

The best man was Robert Bishop, brother of the groom.

The flower girl, Sharon Bishop, wore pink nylon with matching bonnet and carried a nosegay of baby pink roses.

Fred Bishop and Frank Worsley were ushers.

The bride's mother wore navy bengaline with white accessories and corsage of red roses. The groom's mother wore gray with fuchsia accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Church Hall for 150 guests. The lace covered table was centred with a three tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom, and tall white tapers in silver holders decorated with flowers. Mrs. William Banks and Mrs. Letitia North poured. The bride's party was served by Mrs. Robert Bishop. Others serving were Mrs. Frank Spicer, Mrs. Harry Landry, Mrs. Howard Ward and the Misses June Russell, Leona Russell, Evelyn Burgess and Kathryn Corbett. Mrs. Harmon Ilsey was in charge of the guest book.

The couple left for a motor trip around the province, the bride travelling in a suit of gray wool with blue accessories. On their return they will reside in Kentville where the groom is employed with the Dominion Atlantic Railway, and the bride with the Maritime Tel. & Tel. Co.

The roar of an aircraft engine during ground test can rattle windows and nerves for blocks around. So we're glad to report that aluminum has turned up as a noise-absorbing "honey-comb" in an aircraft company's test-cell. Hundreds of aluminum tubes, of differing diameters and lengths, filled with absorbent, sound-baffling material, make up the end walls. And we are told that by the time the giant roar has bounced around in of aluminum boosters around the factory!

OBITUARIES
The very sudden death of Arthur E. Jefferson, Bear River, occurred at the home of Mrs. Walter Duke, Bear River, early Sunday morning. Mr. Jefferson was a son of the late Wallace and Cecilia (Kiley) Jefferson, of Bear River East, and lived his entire life in that village, where he carried on an extensive meat business until retirement five years ago. At that time he moved to Bear River, to reside in his home with his daughter following the death of his wife, the former Martha Harlow, of North Brookfield.
Surviving are the daughter, Mrs. Dukeshire, and two sons: Cleveland, of Deep Brook, and George on the homestead, Bear River East. There are also 13 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren.
The funeral of Maurice Comeau, aged 22, of St. Alphonsus, took place today with a requiem high mass being celebrated by Rev. Denis Comeau, of Bel Brook, and Rev. Louis Comeau, of Salmon River, acting as deacon and sub-deacon.
Mr. Comeau passed away suddenly on Tuesday evening at 9:30. He had passed the evening with his step-daughter with whom he was living and had mentioned that he was feeling better than usual. He had had a stroke about a year ago but had felt quite fit in recent weeks. Mr. Comeau went into the bathroom and suddenly collapsed and when he was carried to a sofa he asked his step-daughter, Amy, to bring him some water. Death called him a few moments later.
Mrs. Comeau was well known throughout the district of Clare and was a devout Roman Catholic being a member of Station of the Cross Society as well as the Sacred Heart Society.
He leaves to mourn him besides his step-daughter, Mrs. Albert (Amy) Comeau, of St. Albert, five brothers, Rev. Denis Comeau, of Bel Brook, Ambrose, of Meteghan, Fred, New York; Joseph, in the Valley; Otare, of St. Bernard, and one sister, Francoise, in Ontario. His wife predeceased him five years ago.

To Interview Government Representative

Mrs. H. A. Nichols and Mrs. M. M. Warne were named at the regular meeting of the Digby Horticultural Society on Friday to interview the Provincial government local representative, V. G. Cardozo, regarding the matter of beautifying the approach to the town and harbor by entrance via S.S. Princess Helen. Plans for the beautification of the property on the right of the C.P.R. wharf, Maiden Lane, were drawn up by N. V. Jankov, of the Horticultural Division of the Department of Agriculture.

Construct Parking Lot

To avoid congestion of traffic and parking on the corner of Queen and Warwick Streets, particularly on Saturday night, the South End Grocery has constructed a new parking lot. The lot, which will provide free parking for their customers, is on the south side of the South End Grocery store and will accommodate between forty and fifty cars. The lot has been filled in and levelled and marked by a low cement wall. Removal of a telephone pole, as planned, will give easy access to the entrance.

Digby Legion Planning Poppy Campaign

For over 25 years, The Canadian Legion of the B.E.S.L. has given continuous and unstinting service to Canadian veterans. The Legion's record includes a list of achievements on behalf of ex-servicemen unsurpassed in the world. Never content to be solely a social club where veterans may gather and reminisce, the organization has steadfastly forged to the front as a strong influence for veterans' welfare, for the security of Canada and for the principles of democracy. One of the important means by which the Canadian Legion carries out its nationwide veteran welfare programme is the annual distribution of poppies and poppy wreaths. Proceeds from this distribution have enabled The Legion to bring immediate and urgently needed relief to untold numbers of veterans and their dependents, and to the orphans and widows of those who died in the service of their country. The results demonstrate the soundness of the project. Throughout the years the Annual Poppy Campaign has received the spontaneous endorsement of leaders in all walks of life. Plans are now underway by the Digby Branch Canadian Legion for the distribution and sale of poppies in Digby.

Trade Board Hears Colonel W. G. Dawson

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce is probably the most influential group in Canada, except the political groups themselves, said Col. W. G. Dawson in an address before the Digby Board of Trade at their regular meeting held at Hotel Champlain on Tuesday evening. Proving that the organization is recognized by the government as influential, Col. Dawson said that the Prime Minister and Cabinet set aside a day to meet the Chamber of Commerce after their annual meeting and they have often enacted legislation on recommendations of the Chamber of Commerce. In the United States the Chamber of Commerce was considered by President Eisenhower of sufficient importance to break away from a busy day at the White House to entertain a delegation from the United States and Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Washington. The Canadian Chamber of Commerce consists of some seven hundred Boards of Trade, district groups and associated Boards of Trade. The Boards of Trade must be watch dogs of government and society and as such must bark and on occasions bite," said Col. Dawson. In speaking of Industrial Development the Colonel said we are overlooking two things in Western Nova Scotia; the development of the tourist industry, which is perhaps the best industry in Western Nova Scotia, and the development of our forest resources. Forests, he said, should be put back where God-intended them to be and he told of a reforestation program carried out in the south of England between 1916 and 1954. Here, he said, it would possibly take 35 years to reforest an area, but he advocated the Boards of Trade and citizens to urge on Provincial and Federal governments proper reforestation programs and take charge of the work themselves. It is time, he said, that we start working on the assets

Ordination Of Former Westport Pastor

A service of special interest was held in the United Baptist Church at Dorchester, N. B., on September 16, the occasion being the ordination of Lic. W. B. Armsworthy.

Rev. D. S. Calkin, Saint John, presented the Ordination Vows and offered the Ordination Prayer. Rev. Hooper, Lutes Mountain, was chairman of the evening. Mr. Corey Smith, A. R. C. M., Moncton, was the guest soloist, and Miss Margaret Hicks presided at the organ.

Rev. M. O. Brinton, Principal of the United Baptist Training School, preached the Ordination Sermon. The invocation was by Rev. L. McLellan, Coverdale; choir selection "The Lord Is My Shepherd"; Scripture and prayer, Rev. W. L. Hisey, Sunny Brae; Charge to the Candidate by Rev. G. D. Brydon, Gunningville; Charge to Church by Rev. Baker, Dorchester; Welcome to the Ministry by Rev. Henri Lanctin, Moncton; Benediction by Rev. K. B. Armsworthy.

A fellowship hour was enjoyed in the new vestry, where Rev. and Mrs. Armsworthy were accompanied to the platform and Mrs. Armsworthy presented with a bouquet of roses. Delicious refreshments were served and appreciation shown for their faithful work.

Digby And Clare To Have Municipal Elections

Municipal elections in districts in Digby and Clare were assured as results of nominations gave more than one candidate seeking seats in the Municipal Council. In Roseway the names of Douglas Andrews and Sydney Westcott were placed for nomination and the date of election there was set for October 18. Nominations for Weymouth North are Clyde Cosman and Albert Jones, which calls for an election in this district. The only nomination for Smith's Cove on Tuesday was Cecil Jones. Those re-elected by acclamation in Digby Municipality were: Warden H. E. Chisholm, Hillsburgh; D. B. Kenney, Westport; W. F. Cossaboom, Tiverton; Ronald Morehouse, Sandy Cove; Reginald Jefferson, Culloden; John Murray, Brighton; Ernest Ring, Mylesburg; Harry Lewis, Weymouth. Victor Finigan was elected by acclamation in Freeport succeeding Bernard Blackford in that district. Seven candidates for the Municipal Council of Clare were declared elected by acclamation and one district will hold elections when two candidates' names were presented. District No. 25, of Concession, will have Gustave Comeau and Leger LeBlanc contesting. Those elected by acclamation were: Basil Belliveau, Belliveau's Cove, for district No. 9; Albert Melanson, Church Point, district No. 10; Robert Ritcey, Salmon River, district No. 12; Vincent Gennette, Little Brook, warden for district No. 23, all former councillors; Emile Boudreau, Meteghan, district No. 11, replacing Albert Comeau, of St. Marti's, who did not re-offer; Gerard Lombard, Corberrie, district No. 14, replacing Charles Melanson who did not re-offer; Stanley Saulnier, Meteghan River, district No. 24, replacing Philias Comeau who resigned. Gustave Comeau and Leger LeBlanc will offer for election for district No. 24 of Concession. Charles Melanson, of Corberrie, resigned after serving this district for a great number of years being the dean of councillors for the District of Clare. Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Hand-spiker spent several days visiting in Barrington and North Sydney and points between.

Series Of Accidents Claim One Life

That Ernest Hersey died at approximately 12.05 on Saturday, October 9, 1965 by and from results of a chest injury on impact with the steering wheel of his own car in the ditch at Conway, Digby County, N. S., after an accident with a car owned by John Comeau was the verdict of an inquest held on Tuesday evening under Coroner Charles Ramsay.

Mr. Hersey died instantly at noon Saturday and two of his companions suffered minor injuries when their car was in collision with the Comeau car and careened into a ditch, rolling over.

Those injured were Octave Mullen, Weymouth, and Luke Morrell, Barton. They were taken to Digby General Hospital for treatment. The driver of the other car, identified by police as John Comeau, Digby, escaped unhurt.

The accident occurred on the outskirts of Digby while Mr. Hersey was returning home from work at H. T. Warne Ltd. here. He was employed as a mechanic.

It appeared that the Hersey car was attempting to pass the Comeau vehicle when the latter turned into a driveway. Hersey's car allegedly sideswiped Comeau's and then plunged off the road.

A jury under Coroner Charles Ramsay met and viewed the body and the inquest was adjourned until Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The victim was a middle-aged man and is survived by a widow and a number of children.

On Monday the late Mr. Hersey's son, Ernest, who came from Ontario for his father's funeral, was involved in a car accident which hospitalized him with a broken leg. The accident occurred at Barton on the highway near the North Range. The car was driven by Mr. Hersey's son, Ernest, who was driving on a highway near the North Range. The car was driven by Mr. Hersey's son, Ernest, who was driving on a highway near the North Range.

An accident at Rice's Corner on Tuesday evening when a car driven by Mrs. Vivian Lohnes, LaHave, Lunenburg Co., was in collision with a car driven by George Frail, Windsor, and of the Department of Agriculture. Mr. Frail suffered shoulder injuries.

Injured in the Lohnes car was Miss Doris Walker, of Summerside, P.E.I., who is in the hospital suffering from a fractured bone in the foot and also back injuries. Other passengers in the car were Mrs. Lohnes' daughter, Mrs. Joe Chouinard, and son, Bobby, and Mrs. Max Haugan, LaHave.

The accident occurred at about five o'clock when the car driven by Mrs. Lohnes proceeding out of town is said to have gone through a stop sign and struck side on the car proceeding from Halifax to Yarmouth and driven by Frail.

Last week Melvin Rhyno, of Smith's Cove, received a broken leg when a motor cycle on which he was riding collided with a car on Joggins Bridge. Gordon Robinson also of Smith's Cove, who accompanied Rhyno received ankle injuries.

Coins Date Back To 1701

In keeping with the interest in old coins, a picture of King George III was brought to the Office by Edna Pleasant. The coin, about five years ago, was found by George Humfrey, Digby, while digging near a home on Montague Row. The Nova Scotia coin was discovered about four feet underground, as was an 1871 Newfoundland coin found in the same area last week.

Mrs. Gordon Ellis, another Digby resident, has in her collection a 1777 copper coin nearly one-quarter of an inch thick. The coin, which is a little larger than a fifty cent piece, has a crown on one side and a scroll and a foreign inscription on the reverse. Other coins in her collection include 1812 and 1826 pennies, an 1881 Newfoundland twenty cent piece, a French coin of "cinq centimes" bearing an impression of Napoleon III and the date 1865, and a very small 1823 Britannia coin.

A number of coins, of which the oldest was a penny dated 1837, were brought in to the Courier Office by Mrs. Norma Falconer, of Longmadow, Mass. An interesting program has been arranged by the committee, consisting of Mel Nixon, William Mason, Bryon Denton, Lloyd Hicks and Edward Murphy.

Thanksgiving In The Churches

Thanksgiving and Fire Prevention were observed at the Digby Baptist Church on Sunday morning when members of the Digby Fire Department attended the service in a body.

Rev. E. C. Churchill, pastor of the church, built his Thanksgiving sermon around the story of the ten lepers; only one of which returned to give thanks to God for his cleansing. As many people of today take their blessings for granted, so, he said, the other nine lepers did also. Immigrants into our own country, he said, who have lived a life of bondage appreciate and give thanks for the freedom and liberty they enjoy in this country.

The church was decorated for the occasion and the choir sang "Now Thank We All Our God" as an anthem. Thanksgiving was also observed in the evening.

At Trinity Church, Rev. Dr. John Hibbitts brought the Thanksgiving message when Holy Communion was also administered. Dr. Hibbitts is a native of Halifax and since returning from Oxford University where he obtained his Doctor of Philosophy he has been Professor of Biblical Literature and Church History in the School of the University of Kings College.

Holy Communion at Trinity on Monday also marked Thanksgiving Day. At Grace United the church was beautifully decorated in observance of Thanksgiving by Mrs. John Russell and Mrs. James Brooks. The choir with Mrs. J. M. Wallis as soloist sang the Folksong of the Netherlands.

The Granville Ferry United Church of Canada was tastefully decorated with vegetables, flowers and fruit on Sunday

"Prayer of Thanksgiving" as an anthem. Rev. James Brooks, the pastor, took his text from Galatians, "Whoever a man soweth that will he also reap." Mr. Brooks drew the attention of his congregation to the fact that history has proved this text to be true not only in the harvest of good things but also in the adverse and took as examples the ancient Romans and as late as Hitler's time. He reminded his listeners that the harvest of our $800,000,000 liquor bill and commercialized Sunday sports, etc., have not yet been harvested. It is impossible to sow an attitude of indifference to God, his church and his book, Mr. Brooks said, and expect to raise a generation of young people as honest, good and upright citizens.

Special Mass for Thanksgiving was held at St. Patrick's Church here on Monday at 8 o'clock. On Sunday a special service was held at Marshalltown in celebration of the opening of the new hall. On Monday a supper was held at the hall from 5 to 7 p.m.

At the Salvation Army Citadel Lieutenant Earle Birt brought a special Thanksgiving message both morning and evening. Special music also marked the occasion at night and during the previous week special activities for the children were held. The Sunday School doubled in attendance during the recent weeks.

A large congregation attended the Thanksgiving service in Zion United Church, Sandy Cove, on Sunday morning.

The church was decorated with harvest gatherings and the choir rendered the Thanksgiving anthem "Praise The Lord, O Jerusalem." Mrs. R. W. Sypher was organist. The sacrament of baptism was administered by the minister, Rev. W. G. Armistage, to Anne Lorene Stewart, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Stewart, Digby; Heather Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morehouse, and Danny Orwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Osborne Morehouse.

The United Baptist Women's Missionary Society of Westport held their annual Thankoffering service Sunday evening in the church with a fairly good number in attendance. The meeting was in charge of the President, Mrs. George Sharpe. The Scripture was read by Mrs. Nickerson Lent and prayer offered by Miss Clara Mason. A duet was sung by Mrs. Sheldon Morrell and Mrs. Albert Bailey, also an anthem by the choir, with Mrs. Richard Welch as organist. Collection was received by Mrs. Bradford Delaney and Miss Lulu Repool.

Guest speaker was Miss Clara Mason, retired missionary, who gave a very enlightening talk on the work in India, where she spent over forty years, many years being the only white woman within miles. Mrs. Kingsley Denton was dressed in an Indian costume to illustrate their clothes. The roll was called by Miss Lulu Repool and members answered with a word of Scripture. The service closed with hymn and Mizpah Benediction.

The service closed with hymn and Mizpah Benediction.

Digby Red Cross Resumes Meetings

The first Red Cross business meeting of the Fall season was held at the Court House last week with Dr. T. W. Hodgson presiding. Routine business was transacted and a nominating committee appointed to bring in names of officers and members at the Annual Meeting, to be held in November.

Although no work sessions had been held during the summer months, a large amount of finished work had been returned during the past few weeks by several faithful workers who had continued their knitting, sewing and quilting at home. This was reported by the Work Committee, together with an appeal for more ladies to quilt and sew at the regular meetings which have now been resumed every Wednesday afternoon at the Court House.

Mrs. Finfield's report on Disaster Relief gave an itemized account of the emergency assistance rendered the firefighters at the recent Nathal fire when approximately $40 worth of sandwiches and coffee were made and distributed during the evening. Thanks were extended to Bens Ltd. for their donation of bread for this purpose. The assistance of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Chan in giving the use of the restaurant facilities for working was also greatly appreciated by the committee. The report also included assistance given a family requiring clothing for children going to school. This was provided in co-operation with the Ladies' Legion Auxiliary.

In the absence of the Ways and Means Committee, Mrs. Warne reported that the proceeds from the Afternoon Tea, held at the Hotel Champlain, in conjunction with the Art Exhibit, had been $53.50, with some small expenses to be deducted.

It was reported that preparations were being made for a Blood Donor Clinic, to be held in Digby in November. Tea was served following the adjournment of the meeting.

To Speak At Zone Rally

Air Vice Marshall A. L. Morfee, Granville Ferry, will be the guest speaker at the Zone Rally and Banquet to be held at Hotel Champlain on Wednesday, October 19. Master of ceremonies will be Comrade Maynard Denton.

The rally is an annual get-together of the various Legion Branches within the zone and the committee in charge has issued an urgent request for all members to attend and also a cordial invitation to all ex-service men.

An interesting program has been arranged by the committee, consisting of Mel Nixon, William Mason, Bryon Denton, Lloyd Hicks and Edward Murphy.

Parents Go To Classes

Parents will become pupils, sit behind the desks and learn something of what goes on in the classroom at school. These were the plans drawn up by the program committee and presented by Wallace Hodgson, chairman, at a meeting of the executive of the Digby Area Home and School which met at the Digby Regional High School on Thursday afternoon. The parents will have their class sessions next Thursday evening, October 19, as part of the program for the first meeting of the Digby Area Home and School for the 1955-56 term. The three town schools will be open, parents will be asked to choose any classes they wish to visit for about three quarters of an hour. Changes of classes will be made at the sound of regular class gongs after ten minute periods and parents will then be introduced to other teachers.

Thursday's executive meeting was presided over by the Home and School President, Baden Powell. It was decided to hold executive meetings on the 1st Thursday of each month at 3:30 in the afternoon.

A Board of Directors, under the chairmanship of Rev. Jas. Brooks, 1st Vice President, will be chosen at the meeting on the 19th, to serve for the Digby Area Home and School term 1955-56. Further arrangements for the program was left with the program committee.

Miss Helen Kirkconnell was appointed to represent the Home and School on the Digby Music Festival committee. It was announced that the Digby County Council of the Home and School would meet here for its fall session on Oct. 21st.

Fishermen's Gear Damaged

Six fishermen of Gulliver's Cove suffered substantial loss of gear last Friday which they attribute to foreign draggers running over the trawls and destroying them.

The fishermen were 15 minutes off Gulliver's Cove on what is known as "the second ridge" and had just completed setting their trawls when the destruction took place.

Fishermen in the small communities along the shore are voicing grave concern, it has been learned, about the fate of the livelihood on which they have come to depend. A spokesman for the fishermen said that they were running against such odds as poor wharf facilities, until recent weeks there were no buyers and now destruction of the gear has added another note of discouragement to the unhappy situation.

Kiwanians Get Useful Gift

A beautiful lecture, made of matching pieces of South Africa mahogany, was presented to the Digby Kiwanians at the regular meeting of the club on Thursday. The lecture, approximately 18 x 17 x 17 inches, has an inset of the Kiwanis emblem in the Kiwanis colors and fills a long felt need of the club here for the convenience of their guest speakers. It was made by a former Kiwanian, Eli Comeau, and presented to the club by him. Dr. D. G. Black, in accepting the lecture on behalf of the club, thanked Mr. Comeau for the useful and beautiful gift and commented on the intricate and fine workmanship which went into such a piece of handwork.

Mr. Comeau, who is employed at the Customs Office here, worked at one time as a cabinet maker in the city of New York.

Guest speaker for the evening was J. C. Adams, of the Digby Regional High School teaching staff. Mr. Adams told of his recent trip to Italy and other parts of the old country and showed slides of interesting places he had seen. Mr. Adams was introduced by Kiwanian A. L. Deveau, also of the High School teaching staff, and was thanked by Dr. J. R. McCleave, chairman of the Digby School Board.

Dr. P. C. Outhouse, a member of the Underprivileged Child Committee, announced that there was a possibility that a Crippled Children's Clinic might be established in Digby in the near future. A specialist would, in such case, attend to the underprivileged at designated hours and others who wished the service and were willing to pay for it could receive the same by appointment.

Negotiate On Princess Helene Dispute

No results of the negotiations which opened in Saint John in the labor dispute between the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and the Seafarers International Union has yet been received in Digby. The negotiations, which opened on Tuesday afternoon, continued through the remainder of Tuesday and on Wednesday.

The Princess Helene, which makes a daily crossing except Sunday between Saint John and Digby, has been halted in operation since September 30 as a result of strike action following union demands for higher wages.

A spokesman said the C. P. R. company told D. L. Cochrane, of Halifax, consolidation officer for the federal labor department that it is willing to begin negotiations, and would agree

Assessment Fixed at $215,000

A compromise resulting in a total assessment of $215,000 for the Pines Hotel, C.P.R. property, located in Digby, was arrived at last Thursday. The Assessment which was appealed before the town's Assessment Board in the Spring was brought to County Court and settled before Judge K. L. Crowell at the Court House here last Thursday. An order will be granted by Court fixing the assessment at $215,000.

The assessment of Hood's Ltd., which was also brought to County Court, was tried on September 20, when the assessment was reduced from $3500 to $2897.44. Hood's Ltd. operate a jewellery business in the town.

Rehearses For Cantata

The Digby Choral Group, under the leadership of Rev. E. C. Churchill, began fall rehearsals recently with anticipation of presenting a cantata in November. The cantata chosen is "Song of Thanksgiving", by J. H. Maunders, and consists of choruses, quartets, duets and solos.

Saturday is Bay Scout Apple Day

ceived a written guarantee of at least two weeks work without interruption.

He said the union did not agree to resuming sailings, but did agree to open negotiations. As a result, pending the outcome, the ferry will remain out of service.

Members of the Innkeepers Association of Nova Scotia approached the provincial government asking that it do all it could to restore the ferry service across the Bay of Fundy as soon as possible to provide easy access to the provinces for the many hunters who have made reservations in Nova Scotia hotels.

Telegrams were sent to Premier Hicks at the Dominion-Provincial conference in Ottawa. This is Fire Prevention Week.

IN MEMORIAM—ROBINSON — In ever loving memory of dear daughter, Ethel Robinson, who passed away October 18th, 1954. There is a mother who misses you sadly And finds the time long since you went, And I think of you daily and hourly But try to be brave and content. But the tears that I shed in silence And I breathe a sigh of regret, For you were mine, and I remember, Though all the world forget. — Sadly missed by your Mom. 6:1c

Freepoint W.M.S. Holds "Crusade Meeting"
On Thursday evening the W.M.S. held their annual "Crusade Meeting" in the vestry of Freepoint Baptist Church, conducted by the President, Mrs. Eric Miner.
The meeting opened by singing "Faith Is The Victory". The Scripture was read by Mrs. Allison Morehouse, followed by prayer by Mrs. Charles Young. A trio, "Take Time To Be Holy", was sung by Mrs. Ralph Haines, Mrs. Randall Prime and Mrs. Avery Finigan. Mrs. Miner then introduced the guest speaker, Miss Clara Mason, retired missionary from India. Her message was very inspiring and enjoyed by all. She dressed Mrs. Malcolm Dakin in a very pretty "sari", showing how the Indian ladies dressed. After her address a duet, "India, O India", was sung by Mrs. Ralph Haines and Mrs. Avery Finigan. Following the singing of "In Christ There Is No East Or West" the meeting closed by the Mizpah Benediction. Mrs. Alton MacNeill received the offering and Mrs. Victor Finigan was pianist.
At the close a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served.

Miss Mason Heard
At District Meeting
An interesting address on Mission work in India was heard at the District Meeting, held in the Hill Grove Baptist Church on Friday afternoon, October 7th.
The meeting opened with the President, Mrs. J. V. Andrews, in the chair. After the opening hymn and responsive readings, a welcome to those present was given by Mrs. H. Marshall, and fittingly responded to by Mrs. Hanksinson, of Weymouth.
The Devotional service was given by the entertaining society and was under the direction of Mrs. William Franklin, President, with the theme "Thanksgiving". After the opening hymn, the Scripture reading was given by Mrs. Thomas Franklin and prayer by Mrs. Curtis Porter. A duet, "Win Them For Him", was rendered by Mrs. William Roope and Mrs. M. Marshall, and a devotional reading given by Mrs. John Murley.
The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, and most encouraging reports received from the Societies in the County.
A hymn was then sung in memory of members who had passed away during the year and the offering was taken, during which Mrs. Ruth Raymond played a number of hymns recorded by her son.
After the dedication of the offering by Mr. Frank Smith, the President called the guest speaker, Miss Clara Mason, retired missionary to India, to the platform.
Miss Mason, choosing as her theme, "We would see Jesus", gave a thought-provoking address on her work in India, of the heart-hunger of so many for the gospel, of the joy when souls found Christ, and of the need for more workers, and of the sorrow for the many needs which could not be met.
In closing, she reminded her hearers that Jesus said, "Ye shall be My witnesses." May we follow wherever He may lead us," she concluded.
The President thanked the speaker for her inspirational address and added a plea for help on the home field as a foundation for the foreign work.
After the closing hymn, the benediction was given by Rev. R. R. Winchester, of Burton.

Letter To The Editor

Bridgetown, Oct. 8th, 1955.
To the Editor,
Dear Sir,
During our recent peregrinations around the County to enlist the services of canvassers for our present financial campaign Mr. Armstrong and I were questioned from time to time regarding the disposal of the funds contributed. This leads me to explain one phase of our activities not always appreciated by the public.
When our attention is drawn to cases of neglected children they are promptly investigated, but it is neither possible nor wise to proceed immediately to find foster homes, and thus have the children supported at the expense, equally, of Town or Municipality and the Province. From the time of first investigation to the subsequent placing in foster homes varying periods must elapse, during which many children may suffer privation. The Society feels an obligation to render assistance in such cases.
During the past year we expend over three thousand dollars providing necessities for children during this interim period, and I am sure all will agree that the money could not have been better spent. This amount is just about what we realized in the 1954 campaign.
I have made this explanation as simple as possible, avoiding tiresome statistics, and hope it will answer a question in many people's minds.
I commenced this letter with reference to our recent travels, so now that almost all of our canvassers have again undertaken an unpleasant task, may I take advantage of this opportunity to express my deep sense of gratitude for, and appreciation of the many ready and favorable responses of so many unselfish ladies throughout the County — eighty-five in all. And to the many more who will assist those who, in towns and country, have undertaken to organize the canvass.
Yours very truly,
S. H. Coward,
President.

Little River Male Choir At Hillsburn
Last Sunday evening the Male Choir of Little River Baptist Church sang to a congregation that taxed the seating capacity of the Hillsburn Baptist Church. The music was most inspiring. Well known and familiar hymns seemingly had a new meaning. At the close of the service the congregation in the basement, where a social chat and further music were enjoyed. The ladies of the church served refreshments.
These singers will always find a welcome at the Hillsburn pastorate.

Hear Returned Missionary
It was the pleasure and privilege of the members and congregation of the Hill Grove United Baptist Church to welcome Rev. Vincent Rushton, returned missionary from Tuni, India, on Wednesday evening. The very large audience from here and neighbouring communities were thrilled to see and hear his inspiring message. Many beautiful hymns were shown depicting his work by Rev. and Mrs. Tuni, showing the work of transportation, etc.
Mr. Rushton stressed the fact that the door is opened among the high caste people as it has never been opened before and that many more workers are needed before it is too late.
Mr. and Mrs. Rushton expect to return to India about the first of the new year and hope to be able to take a car back with them so that they may do more effective work in their large parish.

Transferred To Digby County

Next week, a new agricultural representative will be directing extension branch activities in Digby County. The transfer of William LeFort, formerly agricultural representative for North Inverness, to Digby County, is necessary owing to the retirement on superannuation of Raymond A. LeBlanc, who, since 1926, served the farmers of Digby County as their agronomist.
Mr. LeFort is extremely well-qualified to carry out the responsibilities which will be his in Digby County, for he had had 18 years of experience in the extension service in North Inverness, where many of the problems he encountered are closely related, in many respects, to those which he will encounter in Digby.
For Mr. LeFort, of course, the moving to Digby does not mean that he will be working in territory which is wholly unfamiliar to him for he served in the County for one year as assistant to Mr. LeBlanc, and it was under Mr. LeBlanc that he received his initial training and experience in extension work.
Mr. LeFort is a native of Cheticamp. Following attendance at local schools, he enrolled as a student at St. Anne's College, Church Point, from which he graduated in 1929 with the degree of Bachelor of Letters. He then continued his education at St. Anne de la Pociatiere, where he obtained his Bachelor of Science in Agriculture degree in 1933.
In order to gain wider experience of a practical nature, Mr. LeFort, during the 1934-37 period, worked on two dairy farms and one apple farm following which he joined the staff of the Department of Agriculture and Marketing as assistant agricultural representative in Digby County, where he remained for a year until his appointment as agricultural representative for North Inverness.
The work accomplished by Mr. LeFort in North Inverness has

Parker's Cove

The Church Roll was called by the clerk of the church, Mrs. Stewart Rice.
Parker's Cove Church is a very old building. Last year it was repaired and rededicated.
Mr. Raymond Buckman has beautified the cemetery during the summer. The pigst fence was newly painted by a group of young people.

Kaulbach Acquitted

Only one case was on the docket at the fall session of the Supreme Court held Tuesday at Annapolis-Royal, that of the Crown vs. Leo Bamford Kaulbach. This case arose out of the death of Elaine Holmes, 6 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes of Round Hill, who was instantly killed when struck by a car driven by Kaulbach on February 4th. The accident had occurred as the child was crossing the highway to her home after having been transported by school bus from the Round Hill School.
Crown Prosecutor Roy A. Laurence, conducted the prosecution, while Charles T. LeBrun and George C. Nowlan, Q.C., defended the accused. Justice L. D. Currie was on the bench.
After hearing all the evidence the jury retired and brought in a verdict of not guilty as charged, but found that there had been a certain amount of negligence on the part of the accused prior to the accident, but insufficient to warrant a verdict of criminal negligence, as had been charged. The jury also recommended greater supervision of children disembarking from school buses.
The jury was composed of Thomas A. Beattie, Bridgetown, foreman; Frank Adams, Deep Brook; Harry Goucher, Margaretsville East; Robbie Taylor, Margaretsville East; William Milner, Paradise; Charles Hudson, Upper Granville; Ralph Wagner, Belleisle East; Vivian Fox, Granville Ferry; Harold Woodworth, Dalhousie Lake; Leigh Fritz, Port George; Leon Bezanon, North Williamston; Fred Baker, Victoria Vale.

Draw Up Resolution Re. "Princess Helene" Tie-up

Whereas the present labor dispute between S.I.U. and C.P.R. tying up the operation of the S.S. Princess Helene ferry service between Digby and Saint John is paralyzing the economy of Western Nova Scotia and whereas the Union and the Canadian Pacific Railway have failed to settle said dispute, we the Digby Board of Trade and associated bodies of Digby and district strongly urge that the Premiers of Federal and Provincial Governments take all necessary steps to bring about an immediate resumption of said ferry service and a settlement of the labor dispute...

Trade and associated bodies from the town and vicinity, telegrams and phone calls have contacted other organizations and individuals in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Eastern Canada, regarding the lay up of the Princess Helene. An emergency meeting of the Annapolis Valley Boards of Trade was called at Middleton last night, when representatives from the South Shore Boards were asked to attend. C. M. Street, President of the South Shore Boards, informed the Digby Board that the subject had already been discussed at their meeting and they were in sympathy with the Digby efforts. They fully realized, he said, the importance of the boat to the economy of Digby and all Western Nova Scotia. A. L. Robinson informed the Courier yesterday that he had personally contacted the Hon. Robert Winters and Premier Henry D. Hicks and both were making a careful study of the negotiations which took place between the C.P.R. and the S.I.U. In the meanwhile, H. C. Morton of the Digby Trade Board Finance Committee has been contacting business firms and individuals for donations for expenses which might be incurred in Digby's drive to get the St. John-Digby boat service restored.

History Of Digby-Saint John Boat Service

The labor dispute which has tied up the CPS Princess Helene at her dock in Saint John since September 30, has resulted in the cutting of a transportation link between Digby and Saint John which has existed almost without interruption since Digby was founded in 1783. This transportation link played an important part in the transmission of news in the early days of Digby's history, for in those days Digby was the western terminus for the pony express from Halifax and later became the terminal of the first telegraph line from Halifax over which news dispatches were sent by wire to be transmitted by vessels across the Bay of Fundy to Saint John from where they were sent by wire to the newspapers of New York, Boston and other centres. Earliest vessels to cross the Bay of Fundy from Digby to Saint John with a regular mail, freight and passenger service were the packets "Sally", captained by John Beyea and the "Mary Ann", captained by Robert Turnbull. These vessels made weekly trips as weather permitted. The "Matilda", operated until 1814, and after the close of the war in 1815 the sloop "Salm" carried out regular sailings. First steam-driven vessel to ply between Digby and Saint John was the "Saint John", which took over the run in 1827. She was schooner-rigged with foresail, mainsail and jib. She made weekly trips between Saint John, Digby and Annapolis until 1831 when she was succeeded by the steamer "Henrietta" which was followed in 1833 by the "Maid of the Mist". In 1834 the "Gazelle" took over the run. A long list of ships succeeded the "Gazelle". First of these was the "Royal Tar", which burned under tragic circumstances in Penobscot Bay. Later came the "Maid of Erin", "Fairy Queen", "Pilot", "Creole", "Empress" and "Emperor". In 1871 the famous "Scud", a steel-plated sidewheeler took over the run. Originally built for the Dover-Calais run, she was very fast, making 21 knots an hour. It is reported that on her voyage from England to Saint John she ran out of coal and many of her fittings had to be torn out to provide fuel to finish the trip. Fares on the "Scud" were $1.50 from Saint John to Digby and $2.00 to Annapolis. Like her predecessors, she connected with the Annapolis and Windsor Railway at Annapolis and with the Western Counties Railway at Digby for Yarmouth. Through railway service between Halifax and Yarmouth did not commence until 1891 with the completion of the missing link between Digby and Annapolis. (Please turn to page 19)

Christmas Comes Early

Mrs. Charles Connell, Montague Row, is probably the first person to receive a card for the 1955 Christmas season. Mrs. Connell celebrated her 86th birthday last week and among the many birthday cards and gifts she received was also Christmas remembrances. Mrs. Connell's Christmas mail came from her granddaughter, Lorna Connell, who is on the teaching staff of St. Philip's School at Fort George, Quebec, on the Hudson Bay. Lorna used the last mail out of Fort George for another three months to get her Christmas posting done. The mail was postmarked from Mooseonee, Ontario. Miss Connell is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Connell, Conway, and was last year on the teaching staff of the Digby public schools. The previous year she attended the Provincial Normal College, Truro, and had been a scholarship student from the Digby Regional High School. According to reports, Miss Connell is enjoying her stay in the North land.

Dates for the Folk School, to be held at Sandy Cove, Digby County, has been announced for November 7th to 18th.

Awarded Scholarships

Among the students listed in the "Argosy", the Mount Allison University paper, as receiving scholarships is Miss Eileen Sabine, Havelock, N. S. Miss Sabine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Sabine. She attended school at the Digby Regional High School and is now in her third year at Mount Allison University where she is studying for a Bachelor of Commerce degree. Miss Sabine was winner of a hundred dollar scholarship last year and also had won the Digby Home Furnishings Scholarship when she attended school in Digby. This year she was awarded one of the undergraduate scholarships ranging from $50. to two hundred dollars.

Announcement has also been made by A. I. Lomas, President of the Navy League's Nova Scotia Mainland Division, of scholarships awarded to Mervyn Bacon of Deep Brook, and Howard Kirkpatrick of Halifax and Digby.

Mr. Kirkpatrick has entered a college in Ontario. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Kirkpatrick, formerly of Digby, and now of Fredericton. Mr. Bacon is attending Acadia University. He received his high school education at the Annapolis Royal Academy. Mervyn is the son of Mrs. Harold Hirtle, Deep Brook.

Raymond LeBlanc, Charter "Rep.", Retires

R. A. LeBlanc

This week, Raymond Andrew LeBlanc (above), one of the charter members of the extension service in Nova Scotia, severed connections with the Department of Agriculture and Marketing, and retired on superannuation. For Mr. LeBlanc, it meant severing connections with a department with which he had been closely identified since 1926, and for the farmers of Digby County, where Mr. LeBlanc had been employed during his entire career as a civil servant, it meant that they would now be taking their problems to his successor, Mr. William LeFort, who is succeeding him as agricultural representative, or agronomist and who, at one time, served under Mr. LeBlanc as his assistant.

When Mr. LeBlanc joined the extension service in 1926, he was one of the original staff under the direction of Dr. J. M. Trueman. His retirement now marks the end of that charter group in the extension field for Mr. LeBlanc has the distinction of being the only member of the group who remained with the extension service branch throughout his entire period of employment which extends over a period of almost 30 years, and all of which was in the same county in which he was originally placed.

Mr. LeBlanc is one who has had a very varied and interesting career. To begin with, he is a native of Arichat, Cape Breton, which, in itself, is a mark of distinction. He was educated at local schools, and then enrolled as a student at the Colchester County Academy. From there he went to St. Ann's College, Church Point, where he (Please turn to page 10)

Extension of Regional High School Program For Digby Municipality Favored

The Digby Municipal School Board and the Regional High School Board in joint session, on October 11th, agreed that future Board Policy would favor the extension of the educational services of the Digby Regional High School to include all Digby Municipality, excluding the Weymouth Area and those school sections situated on Long and Brier Islands. This proposed expansion of the Regional High School Area would necessitate an addition to present school facilities equivalent to ten or twelve academic classrooms to take care of town and area requirements. The estimated cost of such extension lies in the vicinity of $150,000, and of this sum the Town of Digby would contribute 25%, subject to Government approval of the agreed percentages for division of costs between Town and Municipality.

The Regional School Board will request the Town Council to call a ratepayers meeting at an early date to authorize an expenditure, which it is presently understood will not exceed $40,000. An early decision for the ratepayers of the Town is essential since the policy of the Municipal School Board cannot be fully determined until it is known whether the Town favors an addition to the existing school facilities. The Municipal School Board is responsible for providing educational services for all Municipal students and in order to plan for the education of area Regional High School students in 1957, the Municipal Board must be advised of the Town's decision prior to the January meeting of the Municipal Council. Should the Town ratepayers turn down the proposal for an extension to the present school structure, the Council could then give consideration to the possibility of erecting an area school, located within the limits of the Municipality.

The School Supervisor reported that present school enrollments are at a maximum level with both Town and Municipality short of classroom accommodations, within the Regional High School, whose capacity is 325 students. There are presently registered some 500 students of which 169 are accommodated in the new Digby Intermediate School. Heavy enrollments of the present school term have also necessitated the conversion of the Regional High School library, the science laboratory and project area to classroom use. The Board was advised that

Should the ratepayers of Digby reject the proposed borrowing for school expansion it is understood that some 150 to 200 Municipal students may be withdrawn from the Regional High School and accommodated in an area school that may be erected somewhere in the Municipality. It was also understood that the present facilities of the Municipal School Garage would prove more than adequate for housing such buses as would then be required for the transportation of those Municipal students remaining in the Regional High School and the Digby Public Schools. At the present time several large school buses are unable to be accommodated in the garage.

The Town School Board unanimously endorsed the proposed plan, considered to be mutually advantageous to the Town and Municipality, enabling each to benefit from savings arising out of consolidation, as well as providing the best in educational services for both Town and Area students, at minimum cost. The Municipal School Board was assured that the question of extension in Regional High School services would be placed before Town ratepayers at the earliest possible date. Assurance was also given that the Digby Municipal School Board presently favored the extension of area high school facilities within the Town of Digby. However, it was emphasized that should this plan prove impractical, because of rejection by the Town, then it may be necessary to give immediate consideration to the launching of plans which would lead to the construction of a consolidated or area school for Municipal students, such school to be situated outside the limits of the Town of Digby.

All information essential to the formulation of an intelligent public opinion regarding the wisdom of extending the present facilities of the Regional High School will be released by the School Board. The Board, itself, is satisfied that the proposed extension is in the best interests of Town ratepayers and the Board will endeavor to obtain approval of the plan through a series of meetings designed to provide the ratepayers with ample opportunity to examine the merits of the proposed Regional High School Extension Plan.

Film Attendance Increases

Twenty-one thousand, seven hundred and sixty-three attended showings of films through the channels of the Digby Area Film Council in 1954-55. It was revealed at the annual meeting of the Council held at the Digby Regional High School on Thursday night. This figure exceeds last year's record by 4,571. Four hundred and fifty-seven showings were booked with an average attendance of 47.6, and 1,250 different films shown during the year, as revealed by the Secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Bailey. Enrollment in the Film Council is now 31, with 16 from urban centres and 15 rural.

The Digby Area Film Council now boasts of two complete projection units, having secured a Projector Class Mate at the price of $445 during the past year. Two projectionist classes were held, which added 25 projectionists to the Digby area list. The Council conducted for the first time a basic rural program circuit, which consisted of 21 members. Films were shown at intervals of three weeks over a period of eight months, and the project proved most satisfactory. Re-elected to office were: President, Reginald Turnbull. 1st Vice President, Furbur Marshall. Secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Bailey. Librarian, Mrs. Eva Wendell. Custodian, Richard Keen. Norman Wright is the newly elected 2nd Vice President.

A General Motors Value

After all, it really isn't considered good form to toot one's horn too loudly... HOWEVER... since the early months of this year, an unparalleled situation has existed and we can't contain ourselves any longer.

Pontiac—we've got to say it—is now up in the TOP 2 in automotive sales in Canada... second only to another General Motors product!

This isn't just a claim... it's a fact. Against the toughest competition, Pontiac has plain outsold every other manufacturer's cars.

It's a hats-off tribute to Canadian motorists, too, for their instant recognition of Pontiac's sterling worth. No doubt about it, they buy shrewdly and well where value counts.

Well, there it is! Pity, we had to be the ones to tell the story but that's the automotive industry for you.

Anyway... now everybody knows what more Canadians than ever before have found out this year... dollar for dollar you just can't beat Pontiac!

Caswell — Liscombe
Before a fireplace setting of white gladioli, fern and tall, white candles, the marriage of Joan Alice Liscombe to Hubert Gayton Caswell took place Friday, September 23, at the home of the bride's mother, 14 Water-side Avenue, Galt, Ont. Dr. T. T. Faichney, pastor of the United Church, Galt, officiated and Don Blacker provided the wedding music.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Harry Liscombe and the late Mr. Liscombe and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Caswell, Granville Ferry, N. S.

The bride, given in marriage by her eldest brother, Carl Liscombe, of Detroit, Michigan, wore a gown of white imported lace with layers of tulle flouncing, falling from a scalloped hip-line. A lace bolero featured self-covered buttons, Peter Pan collar and long sleeves extending to lily points over the wrists.

A finger-tip veil of nylon tulle was caught to a headpiece of white baby mums and she carried a cascade bouquet of white baby mums with an orchid centerpiece.

Bridal attendant was Miss Helen Turnbull, of Galt, wearing a dress of cornflower blue net with matching bolero. Swirls of net ruching added interest and complementing the effect, she wore a crown of velvet leaves. Her flowers were a cascade of white gladioli and mums.

The best man was Edward Brown, of Port Royal, N. S.

An informal buffet luncheon for the immediate families was held at the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Liscombe, Grandview Avenue. For the occasion the bride's mother chose a delph blue dress with lace inserts and navy blue accessories and wore a pink hat and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Caswell assisted with the guests, wearing a black dress with white guilpore lace cuffs, small velvet hat and corsage of red rosebuds.

For a wedding trip by motor through the mid-western United States the bride chose a brown worsted flannel suit with avocado accessories and orchid corsage. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Caswell plan to make their home in Toronto.

Among the out of town guests attending the Caswell-Liscombe wedding were Mrs. Edwin A. Caswell, Granville Ferry, N. S.; Mrs. Burna McGrath, Toronto; Mr. Edward Brown, Guelph, Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Liscombe and family, Hamilton; Carl Liscombe and family, Detroit, Michigan, and Mr. and Mrs. George Liscombe, Glendale, California.

Beals — Titus

A quiet wedding was solemnized at eight o'clock Tuesday evening, Oct. 11th, in Holy Trinity Church, Middleton, when Rev. J. S. Sherron united in marriage Muriel Grace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Titus, of Centerville, Digby Co., and Harry Beverly (Ted) Beals, son of Mrs. Margaret Beals and the late Mr. Beals, of Middleton. The double ring service was used.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a blue suit with pink and white accessories with corsage of pink roses. She was attended by Mrs. George Beals.

Mrs. Walter Brundage played the wedding music. George Beals acted as his brother's best man, Hugh Beals, brother of the groom, and Prescott Sellers were ushers.

Bremner — Prime

The home of Rev. and Mrs. L. R. Atkinson, Bay View, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Monday evening, Oct. 18th, when Rev. Mr. Atkinson united in marriage Dolly Loreta, daughter of Mr. Guy Prime and the late Mrs. Prime, of New Tuskent, N. S., and Carl Maxwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bremner, Light House Road. The double ring ceremony was performed.

The bride was becomingly attired in a street length dress of orchid shade orlon and wore a corsage of blending yellow mums. Her accessories were in navy.

The bride was attended by Joyce Bremner, sister of the groom, who wore blue jersey with white accessories. Her corsage was of white mums. Donald Turnbull supported the groom.

Mrs. Bremner, the groom's mother, wore a smartly designed dress in black velvet and gold taffeta combination with gold accessories.

The ceremony was performed before immediate relatives of the couple and a reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the groom's parents.

The happy couple left on a motor trip to New Glasgow and other Nova Scotia points. For travelling the bride donned a coat of navy and grey with navy accessories. On their return they will reside at their newly built home on Light House Road.

Thanksgiving guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jones were Mr. and Mrs. M. Bremner, New York, N.S. Betty Sirson, HMCS Cornwallis, Miss Mary Romans, R.N., and Mrs. Annabelle Andrews, of Halifax.

OBITUARIES

James Roop Winchester
There passed away at his home on Friday evening Mr. James Roop Winchester, one of the oldest residents of Joggin Bridge. He had the misfortune to fall while retiring on Wednesday evening and never fully recovered.

Mr. Winchester was born at Roop's Point near here on Feb. 14, 1866, son of the late Benjamin and Annie (Roop) Winchester, and has resided in this community during his whole life-time. His wife, the late Ella (Marshall) Winchester, predeceased him twenty-one years ago. He was well known in this part of the province, having been employed by the C.P. Railway until his retirement a few years ago. Late years he has been very active on the farm, being a great lover of animals, and also very devoted to his vegetable garden.

Mr. Winchester was a great lover of music, and enjoyed singing the old hymns as well as listening to them being sung, especially on the radio. Another hobby enjoyed by him was coasting and no later than last winter at the age of eighty-nine, he enjoyed his yearly trip on the old hand-axe.

The funeral was held from his late residence on Monday afternoon with Rev. Francis Miller of the U. B. Church, officiating. Rev. A. S. Payzant, a life long friend, also took part in the service. The hymns rendered by the Baptist choir were "Saviour, More Than Life to Me," "There'll Be No Dark Valley" and "When My Life's Work is Ended," all favourite hymns of the deceased. Mr. Miller used as his text 1 Cor. Chap. 13, v. 12, "For now we see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face; now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known."

There remains to mourn the loss two sons, George of this community; Robert at home, and five daughters, Maude (Mrs. Ben. Franklin), of Digby; Dorothy (Mrs. John Franklin), of Medford, Mass.; the Misses Lucia, Ada and Hilda at home; four grandchildren, Mrs. Clayton Woodman, of Joggin Bridge; Miss Ella Franklin, of Digby; Misses Helen and Sue Anne Franklin, of Medford, Mass.; and two great-grandchildren, Douglas and Larry Woodman, of Joggin Bridge.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful. The deceased was buried in the family lot at the Thomas cemetery. Pall bearers were Dr. G. V. Turnbull, C. E. Jones, A. D. Sillis and Stanley Weir.

George Orland Morrell

The village of Westport was shocked to hear of the sudden passing of George Orland Morrell at his home on Sunday, October 16th. Although in poor health for some months, he was able to attend church and take an active part Sunday morning in the service. He was the son of the late Emma Tibert and James Morrell, of Westport. He was sixty-two years of age.

Surviving are his wife, Ina, who tenderly cared for him during his illness; two daughters, Isabel, of Halifax, and (Eleanor) Mrs. Albert Bailey, of Westport; one sister, Laura, Milton, Queens Co., and two brothers, Sheldon, Westport, and Charles, U. S. A. Two sisters, Margaret and Hattie, predeceased him. He is survived by a number of nieces and nephews.

The late Mr. Morrell was an active member of the United Baptist Church and was deacon for a number of years. He will be greatly missed in this work, which he has so faithfully done during his lifetime. He was also a member of the I.O.O.F. Lodge at Westport.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. George Sharpe, assisted by Rev. J. W. Derby.

George Marius Spurr

Following ten years as a semi-invalid, George Marius Spurr, 80, passed away Thursday at midnight, October 13, at the Digby General Hospital, where he had been a patient the past week. Deceased was a son of the late Captain William Voorheis and Emma Jane (Ditmars) Spurr, Deep Brook. By trade he was a mason and bricklayer, long associated with his brother, the late Shippey A. Spurr, in Sydney, and in the western part of the province.

In January 1907 Mr. Spurr was married to Miss Elizabeth Mood, of Kemptonville, Yarmouth County, by the Rev. J. Wilson, at Chegoggin, and resided in Deep Brook for seven years. Later they moved to Chegoggin to remain thirty-one years and became closely affiliated with the life of that community and Baptist Church. Mr. Spurr gave willingly of his time to the Farmers' Association and various welfare works, and his opinion on many subjects was much sought after.

Ten years ago Mr. and Mrs. Spurr retired and came again to Deep Brook to live. While making repairs on the home, Mr. Spurr was stricken with a heart condition that suddenly checked an active life.

Surviving are his widow, two

Tiverton Woman Reports At District Meeting

A large number of delegates from Digby County Baptist Churches assembled at the Hill Grove United Baptist Church on Thursday evening, October 6th, for the first session of the Fall District Meeting.

The meeting was in charge of the chairman, Rev. C. T. Olmstead, and began with singing "All Hail The Power Of Jesus' Name", followed by a hymn-singing, reading of the Scripture and prayer.

Rev. A. J. Langley, pastor of West End Baptist Church, Halifax, gave a brief talk on "The Church Extension Fund". This is another convention enterprise and through the churches of the Maritime United Baptist Convention a campaign to raise a quarter of a million dollars, in a period of three years, will be carried out. The chief purpose of this fund is to help build new churches in the Maritimes.

Two outstanding meetings, which Mrs. Small described briefly, were the Women's Meeting and the Closing Rally. This fine address was a grand contribution to the meeting, which closed with singing "Bless Be The Tie" and benediction by Rev. S. Whitehouse.

The District Meeting continued on Friday morning with devotion by Rev. F. Miller. The business session was conducted by vice-chairman, Mr. Melbourne Prime, due to the absence of Rev. Olmstead.

Rev. R. R. Winchester brought to the assembly a more detailed address on the Church Extension Fund, which was followed by a very interesting discussion.

Rev. William Scott spoke on "Rural Church Fellowship" and gave a glimpse of his visit to the School of Fellowship for Rural Baptist Ministers at Green Lake, Wisconsin, U. S. A.

The afternoon meeting was in charge of the W.M.S. of the County and brought to a close another session of inspiration and Christian fellowship.

Fleet Blessed

The third annual dedication service for the lobster fleet sailing from Victoria Beach was conducted on Friday when Rev. R. W. Lindsey, pastor of the Baptist Church, blessed the fleet on the opening day of the 1955 lobster season.

More than fifteen boats with baited lobster traps were in the fleet. The motor boats were manned by James Everett, Roy Taylor, Farrel Munro, Arthur Ellis, Fredy Ryan, with 81 traps aboard; Bernard Taylor, Irvin Littlewood, Lloyd Taylor, Hiram Everett, Alvin Ellis, Howard McGrath, while the rowboats were owned by Stephen Apt, George Everett, Frank Everett and John McWhinnie and Melbourne Hudson. They will go out some six miles into the Bay of Fundy up the coast as far as Delap's Cove although some set their traps in the Annapolis Basin. Alvin Ellis was the only one who had steel traps aboard, 20 loaned him by the government as an experiment.

One rowboat had a mattress and supplies and tents. The two occupants said they would follow up the Bay of Fundy shore, camp and hunt during the daytime. Most of the men return to Victoria Beach at night. About 150 gathered on the wharf to witness the ceremony.

Resigns Position

Miss Sarah Ruggles, Tiverton, N. S., who has held the office of Deputy Issuer of Marriage License and Division Registrar of births and death for the past 20 years, has resigned on account of ill health.

Miss Ruggles has performed her duties faithfully and well. Her patience and kindness with all she had dealing with was appreciated.

Friends learned of her resignation with regret.

Mrs. John E. Rawding returned from New Glasgow on Saturday with her son, Keith, wife and daughter, Candy, who spent the holiday weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Rawding, Deep Brook.

Among these were teachers and pupils of the public school, who were given time off to attend the service.

Observe Laymen's Sunday

Rev. James Brooks spoke on the text "Follow me and I will make you fishers of men" on Sunday morning when Laymen's Sunday was observed at Grace United Church.

In reviewing the growth of Laymen's Sunday, Mr. Brooks said that in 1942 there were 30 services held in Canada and the U.S.A., and by 1954 there were 100,000 such services. Last year the idea of Laymen's Sunday was taken up in the Armed Forces.

Norman Wright, representing the laymen of Grace United Church, read the scripture, taken from the seventh chapter of St. Matthew. The choir rendered the anthem "Break Forth Into Joy", with Mrs. J. M. Wallis as soloist.

A treat you can make easily with new fast DRY Yeast

Now you have Fleischmann's Fast Dry Yeast, forget about the oldtime hazards of yeast baking! Always at hand—always full-strength and fast rising! Keep a month's supply in your cupboard! Make this delicious Chelsea Bun Loaf—cut in slices for buttering, or separate the buns.

CHELSEA BUN LOAF

Make 3 pans of buns from this one recipe—dough will keep in refrigerator for a week.

Scald ¼ c. milk, ¼ c. granulated sugar, 1½ tps. salt and ¼ c. shortening; cool to lukewarm. Meanwhile, measure into a large bowl ½ c. lukewarm water, 1 tsp. granulated sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Sprinkle with 1 envelope Fleischmann's Fast Rising Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 mins. THEN stir well. Add cooled milk mixture and stir in 1 well-beaten egg. Stir in 2 c. once-sifted bread flour; beat until smooth. Work in 2½ c. once-sifted bread flour. Knead on lightly floured board until smooth and elastic. Cut off ½ of dough, knead into a smooth ball, place in greased bowl, grease top of dough, cover and store in refrigerator until wanted. Shape remaining ½ of dough into a smooth ball, place in greased bowl and grease top. Cover and set in warm place, free from draft. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Grease the butter or margarine and blend in ½ c. brown sugar (lightly pressed down), ½ tsp. ground cinnamon and 3 tps. corn syrup; spread about ½ of this mixture in bottom of a greased loaf pan (9x5x3). Sprinkle with pecan halves. Punch down rising dough and roll out into an 8" square; loosen dough. Spread with remaining sugar mixture and sprinkle with ½ c. raisins. Loosely roll up like a jelly roll. Cut roll into 6 slices. Place in prepared pan. Grease top. Bake in moderate oven, 325°-350° mins. Let stand in pan for 5 mins. before turning out.

MARRIAGES

St. John's
A very pretty wedding was celebrated recently at St. John's Church, Toronto, Rev. Mulyhill officiating, when Dorothy Terence, daughter of Mrs. and the late Frederick Anderson, Toronto, exchanged vows with Robert Eugene Frost, son of Mrs. Edward Addington, Little River, N. S.

Given in marriage by her godfather, Thomas Spanton, the bride was lovely in her gown of French lace over net with a sweetheart neckline, semi-tunic jacket and scalloped hemline of chantilly lace, a tiara headpiece held her three-quarter length veil of heirloom lace, and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Matron of honor, Lois Anderson, niece of the bride, wore a gown of baby pink nylon with French lace.

Bridesmaids were Rosemarie Duff, wearing a gown of mauve nylon with French lace, and Bernadette Long, in a gown of blue nylon net over silk and carried roses and baby mums. Carol Hall was flower girl.

Vance Rout was best man and the ushers were Tom Spanton Jr. and Tom McCullough.

The soloist, Joseph Doherty, sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day," with Miss Keith at the organ.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Oddfellows Hall. The bride's mother received in a gown of blue crepe and lace with blush pink and white accessories, and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother assisted, wearing blue crepe with white accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

After a honeymoon spent at Fenelon Falls the happy couple will reside in Toronto.

MacAlpine — Francis
Christ Church, Deer Park, effective with white gladioli was the setting for the wedding of Patricia Ann Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Francis, to George Douglas MacAlpine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis MacAlpine, Digby, N. S. Rev. David Busby officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of antique ivory taffeta tucked at the neckline and trimmed on the moulded basque with lace appliques, studded with iridescent sequins and pearls. The skirt which featured a butterfly bustle, fell in deep pleats into a back sweep. Her long veil of silk illusion tulle was caught to a taffeta plateau applique with lace and studded with sequins and pearls. She carried white gladioli, roses and sprays of lily of the valley.

Joanne Gibson was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Margaret Norrington and Karen Francis. Their full-length gowns of pleated net over taffeta were in an aquamarine shade with pleated basques and inset at the midriffs with matching French lace. Shell-shaped hats studded with iridescent sequins and bouquets of deep yellow roses and mums completed their costumes.

CGI'S ARE MY LINE

by Ken Hankinson

A few weeks ago in a large eastern city a young woman was driving home along a narrow, busy street. Her wheels stuck in the street car tracks and plowed the car heard first into the front of a heavy tow truck. It was a bad smash-up but the girl stepped out with only a few scrapes and bumps.

The police officer who investigated the accident wrote in his report: "In my opinion, she escaped more serious injury because of the safety belt in the car."

This was probably the first spontaneous and unrehearsed accident in which a car safety belt proved its worth. Their advantage, of course, is that they hold the driver, and his passengers, tight in their seats when the car stops suddenly, keeping them away from the windshield, dash-board and steering wheel.

Many safety organizations have sung the praises of safety belts and some police departments have had them installed in their cruisers.

It's a gloomy subject, but one which should be considered sanely and frankly. My feeling has been that the safety belt in itself doesn't prevent accidents and may, in fact, cause more accidents. Any device which makes a cocksure driver more cocksure, which virtually assures a smart aleck that he can do anything he wants without fear of being hurt, is liable to put a new breed of menace on to the road.

For my money the best safety devices are those which actually prevent accidents, a responsive engine, reliable steering and good brakes.

These are the factors that get our closest attention when a car comes on to our lot for resale. It is part of our responsibility, we feel, to send cars on to the road that are safe as the best mechanics can make them.

Chevrolet's power carrying units can be tailored to your individual needs. In the rough, or on the road, there's a choice of transmissions, drive lines and axles for you.

12-VOLT SYSTEM
Chevrolet's new 12-volt ignition system ensures faster starts, even during the coldest weather. Its hotter spark means more thorough combustion for greater economy, too.

STRONGER FRAMES
With Chevrolet, you get the added strength and full length support of new parallel-design frames, ensuring greater alignment strength.

TUBELESS TIRES
Greater traction, quieter running and increased protection from blowouts — these are just three of many reasons for the superiority of tubeless tires on the light duty models.

SMALL TURNING RADIUS
Now you can make tighter turning circles, get into smaller spaces with Chevrolet's smaller turning radius.

POSITIVE STEERING
Recirculating-Ball Steering has been improved to give even greater ease. Power steering is available at extra cost on the heavy duty models.

IMPROVED VISIBILITY
Now you can see all round — with Chevrolet's wrap around windows front and rear (rear wrap around is optional at extra cost).

AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSIONS
These great transmissions make driving easier, automatically. They cut delivery times — and reduce wear and tear on the truck by always being geared right for the load and the road.

NEW DRIVE LINES
New Hotchkiss drive lines, now on all models, absorb drive and braking shock, and promote longer truck life.

French Revolution

When you get a French chef to touch mass-produced, quick-frozen foods with a ten-fold spoon—that's a kitchen revolution. Yet some fifty quick-frozen Gallic delicacies are now being marketed by a French company of cooks.

We're glad to report that aluminum gets a Cordon Bleu from the gastronomes. They use it in conveyors, containers and kitchen equipment; and they use nothing else for packaging their products. They respect the way tasteless, odorless, moisture-proof aluminum respects their creations, keeping their freshness and delicacy of flavor till the magic moment when they reach the table.

Raymond LeBlanc Returns
had the distinction of receiving his Bachelor of Arts degree at the age of 18.

It was his intention to study medicine, or law, but so strong was his love of the land that for a couple of years following graduation he remained at home to manage the farm owned by his father, who was a doctor in the district. In 1912, the "West" called and Mr. LeBlanc went out to Alberta on a harvest excursion and there he remained for four years. During this period he was employed on several farms and also operated a dairy farm of his own, being particularly interested in purebred Ayrshires. World War I, of course, was in full swing at this time and this prompted Mr. LeBlanc to return to Nova Scotia where he joined the army and where his familiarity with both French and Spanish soon prompted his placement in an interpreter's post.

Following the end of the war, Mr. LeBlanc again "went west" on another harvest excursion and, when the harvest season was ended, was employed by the Edmonton Separate School Board as vice-principal of one of the schools.

Although the classics have always held an attraction for Mr. LeBlanc, his love of the land was greater and, so, this led to his enrollment as a student at Macdonald College in 1922, and in 1924 at St. Anne de la Pociere, the agricultural college of Laval University, from which he obtained his Bachelor of Science in Agriculture degree in December of 1925. Between 1923-24, Mr. LeBlanc went to Massachusetts where he became herdsman of Middlesex Meadow Farms, South Lincoln, and while here was responsible for showing the herd at the Eastern States Exposition.

It was shortly after his graduation from St. Anne de la Pociere that Mr. LeBlanc returned for a visit to Nova Scotia and it so happened that the extension service was being formed at that time. This led to an offer of employment and in Nova Scotia Mr. LeBlanc was destined to remain.

During his career as an extension worker, Mr. LeBlanc had much to do with the development of various branches of agriculture, not only in Digby County but, also, during the early years, along the so-called "French Shore" of Yarmouth County, which was also his territory.

When he went to the county the poultry industry was but a minor sideline on many farms. In fact, when the first poultry pool was held in the county, twenty-odd years ago, it was considered to be quite a revolutionary venture. Today, there are many large flocks of both hens and turkeys in the county, and the quality of products produced is excellent.

It was under his direction that the poultry industry in the county has grown and developed and he, too, has assisted in the growth of the dairy industry in Digby County. True, most of the farms in Digby are small but in recent years there has been a gradual swing to larger units, a trend which Mr. LeBlanc has helped to direct into its proper channel.

During his years in Digby, Mr. LeBlanc acquired considerable skill in diagnosing and treating animal diseases. In fact, his skill is such that many regard him as the county veterinarian and call him all hours of the day and night to administer to their sick animals. This, of course, commenced during the hay-day of the fur industry in the county when, it is said, Digby had a larger concentration of foxes than any other county in the province. This led to Mr. LeBlanc taking a special course in fox husbandry at the Experimental Fox Ranch, Summerside, in 1933, and, later, a special course in parasitology at McGill University in 1936. The skills he acquired then he has been putting into practice ever since.

Mr. LeBlanc has always been interested in community activities and has been actively associated with the Federation of Agriculture, the Agricultural Institute of Canada, the Clare Board of Trade, and the Clare Tourist Association. His interest in the latter association was directly responsible for his claim to fame as a tuna fisherman. Hanging on the wall of his office is a certificate, attesting to the fact that the tuna shown in the accompanying picture, weighing 803 pounds, was

In the late 1800's Digby not only had a steamer link across the Bay of Fundy to Saint John but steamers also made regular runs between this port and New York.

In 1885 the "Cleopatra" made regular weekly trips from Digby to Boston and the steamer "Longfellow" made two trips a week from Digby to Bar Harbor, Maine, to connect with the railway there. The "Secret" and "Empress" were plying between Digby and Saint John.

Other ships plying between Digby and Boston on a regular run included the "New Brunswick", which made two trips a week between Digby and Boston.

In 1896 the famous "Monticello", which was later wrecked off Yarmouth, was succeeded on the Digby to Saint John run by the "Prince Rupert", which was a sidewheeler with beautiful lines, built like a yacht and very fast. She was built for the Pacific coast but was purchased by the Dominion Atlantic Railway for the Bay of Fundy service. Very fast, she made the run in two hours and 35 minutes from port to port.

At this time the trips between Digby and Saint John were increased to two a day with the "St. George", a fast English Channel boat, as the second ship. During the winter the original SS Yarmouth replaced the "Prince Rupert".

These ships continued in service until they were replaced by the CPS "Empress" which was later replaced by the Princess Helene, which is now tied up by the strike.

landed by Mr. LeBlanc in September of 1950, on 39-thread, after a battle lasting 3 hours and 35 minutes. Small wonder it was not difficult to get him to talk of this exploit! To Mrs. LeBlanc — a past-president of the Women's Institutes of Nova Scotia — must go the real credit for the fish, however, for — so it is said — she had to coax her husband to accompany the party going out that morning.

Mr. and Mrs. LeBlanc intend to reside at Meteghan River, where they have acquired a lovely property and where Mrs. LeBlanc has started a handcraft shop. This winter, they propose to spend in Florida, returning to Nova Scotia for the summer, following which they hope to spend the next winter in Europe. Good luck to them both.

Dr. A. A. GIFFIN ADDRESSES COUNTY COUNCIL

Dr. A. A. Giffin, Kentville, President of the Nova Scotia Federation of Home and School, was guest speaker on Friday evening when the Digby County Council Home and School met at the Digby Regional High School.

Dr. Giffin's thoughts were directed to the group as Home and School members and reminded them of their responsibility as such. His first remarks dealt with the virtues and defects of the group method of discussion at Home and School meetings. Three virtues were listed as follows: (1) Teamwork; (2) Good Human Relations; and (3) The opportunity to participate and in so contributing, foster the assumption of responsibility on the part of those still a bit unsure. This method, he said, is a means of pooling resources, and each benefits from the knowledge of others.

The main defect was lack of specialized knowledge. Opinions without knowledge are useless in discussion, Dr. Giffin said.

He spoke briefly on "Leadership", reminding his listeners that the leader is not the power of command. A good leader develops a willingness to serve in his chosen field. He develops a respect for the opinions of others and is willing to compromise on details but not ideals.

He continued by saying that Home and School members should know something of the school program. They should know about the growth of children, as children differ and their needs differ. There is a need for a varied curriculum. There should be facilities for the slow learner as well as the quick learner and an in-between program for the average pupil.

He concluded by reminding the Home and School members that it was not necessary to understand in detail the techniques of teaching, but it was necessary to help the public to understand in such a way as to create not only a willingness, but an eagerness, to improve the schools.

Dr. Giffin was introduced by Albert Jones, County President, and a vote of thanks extended by Baden Powell.

The evening session was opened with a sing-song, led by Thomas Jones, Bridgetown, Divisional Director Adult Education. Robert Swin, Regional Vice-President, County Council Home and Schools, Middleton, conducted a quiz on Home and School.

About forty-five attended the Council, which opened its sessions in the afternoon, and were guests of the Gilbert's Cove Home and School.

Mrs. Frank Comeau, Gilbert's Cove, gave the address of welcome, which was responded to by Mrs. Eva Wendell, of the Digby Regional High School staff. Rev. E. C. Churchill, Digby, gave the invocation and Mrs. Daniel Hankinson, Weymouth, read the Home and School prayer. The meeting was presided over by the President, Albert Jones.

Mrs. Muriel Seeley, Smith's Cove, was appointed convener of health for the remainder of the year.

In giving a short report of the Provincial Home and School Convention, which met in Wolfville last summer, Mrs. J. Vian Andrews, North Range, remarked of the friendliness which existed during all the sessions and the inspiration received by each for Home and School work. She felt that each individual Home and School should have a delegate to the Provincial Convention.

Rev. E. C. Churchill gave a report on the Music Festival and brought the County Council up to date on plans for the Spring. He informed his audience that Eric Lewis, Toronto, was engaged as adjudicator for the Festival, which would be held on April 16, 17 and 18. Mr. Churchill urged participation of smaller schools in the Music Festival and advocated having someone to visit these schools to inject the necessary interest and information. Mr. Swin was warm in his praise for Mr. Lewis, whom he said had adjudicated in Middleton last year.

Mr. Jones, the President, reminded conveners of committees of their responsibility in the County Council and urged that these conveners visit the associations of the district and thereby create an interest in the various branches of Home and School work in the communities.

FERRY DISPUTE STILL A DEADLOCK

While the Digby-Saint John ferry dispute remains in deadlock and resumption of the Princess Helene service continues to be a hope for the future, telegrams are being sent, telephone calls and resolutions are still being made and meetings held by nearly every conceivable group of people in this area, demanding and requesting the end of the ferry tie-up.

The initial request was issued last week on Monday night when the Digby Board of Trade called an emergency meeting to consider the economic problem and inconvenience confronting the town and all Western Nova Scotia by the tie-up of the Princess Helene since September 30. A resolution drawn up at that meeting and forwarded to Federal Departments, immediately set up a campaign throughout Western Nova Scotia and New Brunswick for resumption of the Bay of Fundy Service. Town Councils in Nova Scotia, Affiliated Boards of Trade, Branches of the Canadian Legion, the Annapolis Deaneary of the Anglican Church and many other groups responded in support of the Digby Board of Trade action. Similar response was made by the Saint John City Council and Board of Trade.

Government members in the districts and municipalities of Digby have kept in contact with the heads of Government Departments. Word has been received that George C. Nowlan, Q.C., Federal member for Digby-Annapolis-Kings, is leaving for Ottawa to confer with government officials on matters including the Princess Helene tie-up. V. G. Cardozo, M.L.A. for Digby municipality, has also been in touch with Federal ministers who have replied they are aware of the seriousness of the situation and all possible action will be taken to bring about a settlement of the dispute.

A. L. Robinson, Vice-President of the Digby Board of Trade, has been in almost constant contact with some department or organization for the purpose of getting the boat in operation.

Last night the Affiliated Boards of Trade again met in Middleton in regard to the critical situation. On the previous Wednesday they had met with representation from the South Shore Boards, when resolutions were passed regarding the Princess Helene and a motion made authorizing a telegram to the eastern traffic manager of Trans-Canada Airlines, stating the current crisis showed the need for regular service to Greenwood. It also requested a stepped up service through Yarmouth and Halifax to provide assistance in the present emergency.

Copies of resolutions drawn up for presentation to Federal ministers were also forwarded to the disputing parties and replies received.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is ready to resume negotiations with the Seafarers International Union in the Bay of Fundy ferry strike "at any time," J. R. Strother, C.P.R. general superintendent in Saint John said in a telegram to Mayor Guy E. Morehouse.

Mr. Strother said the company is ready "to listen to any arguments that could be advanced based on conditions in the region in which the Princess Helene is operating which could justify a wage increase of the demands."

Mr. Strother also said: "There are no grounds in the local situation existing at Saint John or in the maritime industry on the whole east coast of Canada to justify a wage increase of the magnitude demanded by the S.I.U."

He told Mayor Morehouse the C.P.R. was compelled to refuse union demands but was ready to consider arguments for a wage increase based on the situation in Saint John, where the ferry makes her home port. At this point negotiations broke down.

The Digby Board of Trade was also told that the S.I.U. is ready at anytime "to re-open talks with the C.P.R. concerning the strike."

An S.I.U. representative said the union felt the dispute regarding wage increases should be settled on the same terms as those arrived at in the settlement between the S.I.U. and the C.P.R. in respect to similar services on the Pacific Coast.

He said the union had cut its original demands by a considerable amount in efforts to reach an agreement with the C.P.R., but it was felt that since present demands were now the same as those agreed upon by the railway and the union on the west coast, a settlement granting them should be reached here.

He also said that in 1951 an adjustment of the wages paid unlicensed personnel of the Princess Helene had been made to make them the same as those paid on the C.P.R. west coast ships, and that in 1952 an increase of the same proportions had been made to personnel of C.P.R. vessels on both coasts.

A wage increase is the main point of contention in the dispute, the union spokesman stressed. Other items at issue were only minor. He said the company had at no time indicated it was abandoning a policy of treating employees of ships on both coasts alike in wage settlements.

A spokesman for the union said they felt no good purpose would be served by putting the vessel into service until the dispute was settled.

While the campaign itself gains momentum, more and more talk is heard regarding the drop in business experienced by hotels, restaurants and stores and of the difficulties in transportation and freight service caused by the tie-up of the Princess Helene in September. In Digby about eighty men were affected directly by the strike which relieved them of duty on the wharf. Five were retained in the office and shed to carry on necessary operations. Besides a crew of sixty, about seventy dockhands and truckers in Saint John were thrown out of work or had to seek employment elsewhere.

Urges Government Action In Steamship Dispute

The Greater Chapter of the Rural Deaneary of Annapolis of the Anglican Church, meeting in Clementsport last Wednesday unanimously passed the following resolution: "The Greater Chapter of the Deaneary of Annapolis of the Anglican Church, realizing the inconvenience and hardship caused by the suspension of steamship service between Saint John and Digby, urges that every effort be made to have the service restored immediately." It was directed that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Departments of Transport and Labour.

Fifty men from the Anglican parishes of the Western Valley, from Middleton to Weymouth, had come together for a supper meeting presided over by Rev. H. Y. MacLean of Digby, rural dean-elect. It is this group which operates the well-known St. Anne's Camp at Gibson's Lake each summer. All the men were greatly concerned about the economic welfare of this part of the province in an unmarketable apple crop, and the situation more aggravated by the unsettled strike on the Princess Helene. At the same meeting Judge J. Elliott Hudson, of the Juvenile Court in Halifax, spoke on the business of General Synod recently held in Edmonton.

A prowler around the home of Mrs. H. T. Warne ducked in time to escape a club of wood thrown by Marjorie Cromwell, employed as domestic, the house, and in so doing, broke through the hands of the police.

On Friday night of last week, at about 8:30, while Mrs. Warne and daughter, Miss Dora Warne, were spending a quiet evening reading, they were suddenly disturbed by the crashing of glass. To their alarm they discovered a man in navy uniform had broken the dining-room window. While Miss Warne took steps to notify the police, the invader turned his attention to the sunporch door, breaking another large glass in an effort to unlock it. It was then that Miss Cromwell picked up the club of wood and heaved it. The man evaded the police by a few seconds.

The local branch of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps, in observing Navy League Week, October 16th to 22nd, held their annual tag day on Saturday. The sale of tags by the cadets will continue on Saturday, October 29th.

This year the Navy League of Canada, which sponsors the Canadian Sea Cadets, is celebrating its Diamond Jubilee. Since it was founded in 1895, it has provided various welfare services for members of the navy through clubs, hostels and hospital visitation and comforts. Its greatest achievement, however, is the nation-wide youth training program which exists throughout Canada for boys from 12 to 18 years of age. This training is designed not only to teach the ways of the sea, but it teaches the boys self-reliance and the value of good discipline. Working in co-operation with the Royal Canadian Navy, the local Sea Cadets are fortunate in having the facilities at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis at their disposal.

Rev. C. J. Tazaki Delivers Address

"The Diocese of South Tokyo in the Days of War and Time of Peace" was the title of an address delivered at Trinity Church here on Wednesday morning by Rev. Cornelius Tazaki, of the South Tokyo Diocese in Nippon Sei Ko Kai.

Rev. Mr. Tazaki told of the geography of Japan, whose density of population is six hundred people to every square mile. He traced the growth of his home church which received missionary financial aid until in 1936 the government severed connections with America and (Please turn to page 10)

Speaks At Zone Rally

Air Vice Marshall A. L. Morfee, Annapolis Royal, was guest speaker on Wednesday evening, when members of Digby County Canadian Legions met at Hotel Champlain for the Zone Rally. Mr. Morfee traced the history of the aircraft from the early days of air travel to the present time. He gave vivid word pictures of the types of aircraft used, the armament for fighting and the uniforms worn by the air-then. He commented on the use of aircraft in fisheries work, fire patrol and customs work and of their work in the Northland.

The Rally was presided over by Comrade Eugene Outhouse, who introduced the guest speaker and other special guests, Lieutenant Commander Owen, Commander Smythe and Lieutenant Ferguson, H.M.C.S. Cornwallis.

Mr. Outhouse spoke of the urgency for the return of the Princess Helene, which had ceased its daily trips from Saint John to Digby on September 30 because of strike action, and a resolution was presented and passed at the Rally. The resolution stated that the dispute tying up the S.S. Princess Helene was causing havoc and economic depression in the whole of Western Nova Scotia and a large number of veterans and their families are affected, both directly and indirectly, making it necessary for them, if the tie-up continues, to move to other areas of employment, or go on relief. The resolution sent to Federal authorities, the Provincial Command and the Dominion Command of the Canadian Legion, the C.P.R. and S.I.U., urged steps be taken for the resumption of the Princess Helene service. Later in the week it was reported the Legion had replied from Stanley Devine, chairman of committee on negotiations, S.I.U., and also from N. R. General Superintendent.

The Zone Rally on Wednesday was opened with singing "O Canada", followed by prayer by Comrade Barton. A toast to the Legion was given by Comrade A. C. Doane, Yarmouth.

Eugene Outhouse spoke on the aims and objects of the Legion and the necessity of keeping ever mindful of those who fought and died and the duty of the Legion to aid those who were left widows and disabled.

Later in the evening films were shown and refreshments served at the Legion Hall.

Prepare Christmas Seal List

The Christmas Seal committee of the Digby Branch Canadian Tuberculosis Association, under the Presidency of Rev. H. Y. MacLean, met at the home of Mrs. H. R. Bishop, Vice-President, on Thursday night to prepare for the 1955 sale of T.B. Christmas Seals.

The committee revised the lists used in 1954 at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Bishop on October 6. The newly prepared lists approved on Thursday night are now in the hands of typists for addressing envelopes and the letter prepared by Mr. MacLean is in the hands of the printers.

Urged by the continued need for research and distribution of information regarding tuberculosis, the Digby Branch got an early start on preparation for this year's sale. Funds are necessary to further the work and only when there is a general understanding and a general consent to take the necessary preventive steps that tuberculosis (Please turn to page 10)

ONLY FRACTIONAL TAX INCREASE FOR PROPOSED SCHOOL EXTENSION

Less than one per cent increase in town taxes would be required to extend the educational services of the Digby Regional High School as proposed jointly by the Digby Municipal School Board and the Regional High School Board, Dr. J. R. McCleave, chairman of the Digby School Board, told Kiwanians and their guests on Thursday night. Dr. McCleave made this statement during a discussion following the address given by C. W. Crowell, Inspector of Schools for Yarmouth and Digby, at a meeting of the Kiwanians held at Chan's Coffee Shoppe. Before dealing with the school problem facing Digby and municipality, Mr. Crowell traced the history of Rural High Schools in Nova Scotia for the past ten years including the financial arrangement between town, municipality and government, and the effect of the Potter Report on financial arrangements. The Potter Report pointed out that the government had been supporters of High School Education to the neglect of elementary problems. The principle feature of the Potter Report is the equalization of assessment.

In speaking of the Digby Regional High School he said the building was erected in 1948 in co-operation with the municipality to accommodate 325 students but at the present time and under present conditions with an enrollment of 505 the accommodation is inadequate. The factors he attributed to the over crowding were the tendency for people to move into the High School area, the closing of High School classes at the Convent, increase of population, increasing years of attendance at school and the desire of the sections on the edge of the original area wanting the same privileges of the Regional High. Two solutions are open to the Digby area, Mr. Crowell said, either to build an addition to the present building to meet the needs as anticipated or to restrict enrollment to the original figures, 130 for town and 195 for municipality, and provide another school somewhere in the municipality.

A proposal for extension as favored by the Digby Municipal School Board and the Regional High School Board, Mr. Crowell said, provides for about twelve rooms including seven academic rooms, space for science laboratory, domestic science, industrial arts and commercial classes. The cost of such an extension is estimated at an approximate figure of $150,000, proportioned according to enrollment at 25% or approximately $40,000 for the town and 75% for the municipality. The provincial proportionate contribution of approximately 36% to the towns amount reckoned against these estimates would leave an estimated expenditure for the town of $24,000 over a period of years. It would be necessary however, the speaker pointed out to ask the ratepayers of Digby town to authorize the expenditure of the approximate $40,000 or as is presently understood a figure which will not exceed that amount.

The proposed plan, Mr. Crowell said, would include all of the Digby Municipality excepting the Weymouth Area and Long and Briar Islands.

The speaker pointed out the advantages to both town and municipality in the proposal as advanced but said the first decision must rest with the town, as the municipality cannot proceed with any plans before they know the decision of the town on the matter.

Mr. Crowell was introduced by Dr. D. G. Black, Kiwanis president, and thanked by F. C. Purdy, superintendent of Digby schools.

Students of the Digby Public Schools and parents were privileged on Tuesday afternoon to hear the Halifax Symphonette at the Digby Regional High School.

The symphonette under the direction of Mr. Myer, are on a tour, sponsored by the Department of Education. Student contribution at the places where they perform help to defray expenses.

The seventeen piece orchestra, directed by Mr. Myer, on Tuesday was heard in an excellent performance of mostly semi-classical music. The director, before proceeding with the concert, introduced each instrument to the audience, demonstrating each as to range and tone. He demonstrated how the sounds blended and harmonized by having a bar of music played on each instrument in solo and then in combination with other instruments.

Urges Support Of Poppy Campaign

Ernest B. Tufts, President of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, in speaking at the Canadian Legion Zone Rally, held on October 19th at Hotel Champlain, Digby, expressed his hope that the town of Digby would offer its wholehearted support to the 1955 Poppy Campaign. Ralph Wright, publicity convener, reported that preliminary work regarding the campaign was well underway.

The campaign has a three-fold purpose. Firstly, it pays tribute to our fallen servicemen in a very practical way by providing assistance to those dependents left behind. The second purpose is to provide funds for continuing the operation of the Provincial and Dominion Command service bureaus, which provide, among other important things, a service to veterans in processing claims for disability pensions, hospital treatment and war veterans' allowances. A third purpose is to provide sheltered work in the D.V.A. Veterans shops in Toronto and Montreal for disabled veterans who would otherwise find it difficult to obtain suitable work.

The Legion hopes that everyone will support its worthwhile project.

Resigns After 28 Years Service

Mr. Gordon VanTassel, of Digby, has resigned his position with the Dominion Atlantic Railway after twenty-eight years' service. Mr. VanTassel, who was employed as both section-man and care-taker of the company's garden at the Railway Station, has found it necessary, due to ill health, to end his work with the company.

The garden for which he has been responsible, and which for years has been a public beauty spot of Digby, was begun years ago, as a small flat layout between the present station and the water tank. The first flowers planted were mainly dahlias, but when the company found that the public and the patrons of the railway were showing their appreciation of the improvement in its grounds, it decided to make a regular rock garden of the tract. Stones and soil were brought by the carload, and Mr. VanTassel was placed in charge of the building of a new garden. The result was a garden which for years, under his care, has provided a riot of colors from May to October. His method of training the roses which now cover the fence on the east side of the track from the station to the First Avenue crossing, has been unusually effective. Mr. VanTassel's skill and knowledge may be of some help to the Garden and Horticultural Societies which have recently been organized in Digby.

About This and That

Congratulations, D.R.H.S. "Amethyst"

Volume 1, number 1, the first edition of the "Amethyst", was published by the students of Digby Regional High School on Friday. The Amethyst is the first school newspaper published at the Digby Regional High School. It is letter size, 8 1/2 x 11, and each of its six pages contains three columns of copy typed by the students and reproduced by gestetner.

In the first edition were found editorial copy, school news, news involving school personnel and feature articles. The "Meet the Teachers" column gives an excellent opportunity for parents to acquaint themselves with the teachers at the school. This is an idea, accompanied by the teachers' pictures, which the Courier had in mind to start at some time, but we'll forgive the Amethyst for the scoop! Both the "Vox Populi" and "Good For Thought", if not abused, can be useful in airing both satisfactions and complaints and result in a happy and understanding relation between student and teacher.

We feel the school paper can serve a useful purpose in the school. Unless it detracts from more important and immediate studies, it provides a practical way of education in art, journalism and typing. It is a means of conveying the school news and other information to pupil, teacher and parent.

The Courier offers congratulations to the editor, Miss Jean Snow, and all the members of the Amethyst staff, including the Amethyst supervisor, Mr. J. Campbell, on their first edition. The appearance is neat, the layout good, the art work excellent, the copy well chosen and the readability for the most part satisfactory. We congratulate the circulation manager and his assistant on their complete sale of three hundred copies.

A Truly Life Saving Appeal

Have you ever been a patient who received a blood transfusion? Then you know from experience how great a part a gift of blood can play in the restoration of health. You and your family know how great is the debt you owe the volunteer blood donors whose generous gifts make the Free Transfusion Service possible.

Then, too, the doctors know the importance of blood transfusions and appreciate every ounce of blood donated. They know by experience what the Free Blood Transfusion Service means to them in their efforts to restore the sick to health. Along with advances in medical knowledge and research, improvements in techniques and discovery of miracle drugs is credited the existence of the Red Cross Free Blood Transfusion Service in the restoration of health for persons who in earlier years would have died.

The existence of a blood bank from which doctors can obtain adequate supplies of blood whenever the need arises is one of the most powerful weapons in the fight against disease and suffering; it is unthinkable that we should fail to recognize our responsibility as human beings to give that which can be obtained in no other way. Remember, there is no substitute for blood and when transfusions are needed it is almost always a matter of emergency when even minutes are vitally important. Remember, too, that the life at stake may be your own or that of a relative or friend. Sickness and accidents play no favourites, they may befall any of us. It would be tragic indeed if the life of a friend should be lost because we failed to play our part.

Mr. J. J. Brittain, chairman of the Blood Donor Clinic in Digby, has announced a clinic to be held here at the Court House on November 9. Remember, it is vitally important that all do their share. The next hurried call for the Blood Transfusion Service may be for you or one of your kin. Arrange now to be at the clinic on the 9th.

The British & Foreign Bible Society

The best way to spread and keep alive the "faith of our fathers" is to study and promote the distribution of the Bible. This sums up the objective of the British and Foreign Bible Society.

The British and Foreign Bible Society has now been in existence for more than one hundred and fifty years. It was born in England at the time of Napoleon when in an atmosphere of trouble and apprehension the people sought a way of security. In Canada the society has been at work for more than 50 years.

Altogether the Bible has been translated into more than eight hundred languages and dialects. Ten thousand a day have been distributed over the years. In Canada, fourteen million Bibles have been distributed. Even this does not meet the great need of Bibles on home and foreign mission fields. Particularly, there is a need for Bibles in Braille for the blind, a book which is extremely costly to produce.

Protestant churches in Digby are now making the annual appeal among their members for financial aid in the distribution of "The Word" for the benefit of mankind. Never before was there a greater need in the world for the sense of security as was found in "the faith of our fathers". That security is distributed in a measure in proportion to the Bibles distributed.

How times have changed for the better!

Not so very many years ago, people with a history of certain ailments or diseases were unable to buy the life insurance they needed. Often, this resulted in considerable hardship for their families. But today . . . thanks to the results of new knowledge and research in controlling diseases, many such people are now accepted by life insurance companies — and can provide their families with vital financial protection.

This is another example of the many ways in which the life insurance companies in Canada have advanced with the times . . . offering better service to Canadians in all walks of life!

Chances are you get a "helping" of aluminum as part of your daily diet. Most cities use aluminum sulphate to purify the water from lakes and rivers. Oshawa, for instance, has used it for this purpose for 35 years.

Usually, however, aluminum is associated with the outside of foods. In cooking utensils, cups and frozen food containers—in wrappings for cakes and candy and roasts and left-overs—in bottle tops and hoods—aluminum helps keep what we eat and drink fresh and pure and wholesome.

an expression of opinion, we as members of the Baptists, Denomination, and of churches in the Annapolis District in particular, reaffirm our established opposition to any increase in outlets for the sale of intoxicating liquor.

Following the offering a male quartet, consisting of James Sproule, Springfield, Rev. Carl Armstrong, Annapolis Royal, Mr. Jesse Saunders, Paradise, and Rev. Earl Ward, Paradise, sang "The Church in the Wildwood" and "Child Come Home."

A film on Stewardship, entitled "All for Him", stressing the importance of tithing, was shown.

The concluding item of the programme was a panel discussion, "What the Laymen Expect of the Laymen". Mr. Saunders led the panel, consisting of Mr. B. D. Wright, Middleton, Mr. Gordon Shaffner, Lawrence town, Mr. Clyde Wilson, Clarence and Mr. Verdun Saunders, Annapolis Royal. Fearing that the ministers speaking on what they expected of the laity at the Spring District had been too kind, Mr. Saunders set the tone of the discussion with the question, "What sort of church would my church be if all of its members were just like me", as applied to the goals of Church Attendance, Social and Civic Responsibility, working in and for the Church, Financial Stewardship and Personal Department.

The panel concluded with the suggestion that although the ministers had "expected too much of too few" that the laymen did not feel that Christian responsibility was a matter of just a handful but rather of the entire membership.

Books For Africa

Those who attended Berwick Camp Meeting last summer were moved by Dr. Robinson's appeal for "Books for Africa." He has headed a group who have sent over 200,000 books to help supply the need for suitable reading material. Communist literature is supplied in quantity by Communist leaders. We can help to combat this influence by supplying books from our homes. The following is a quotation from Dr. Robinson's letter:

"Books of all description for every age level are needed. They can be books for children in elementary school, youth in high school and young people in college. We are especially interested in text books on all subjects, such as science, geography, history, mathematics, literature, sociology and agriculture. Above all, encyclopedias, Bibles and books on religion.

"Magazines, periodicals and paper bound books are neither desired or acceptable.

"Preferably, books should be older than 1940 (encyclopedias, Bibles and reference books in good condition can, of course, be older). All books, however, must be in excellent condition. The reason for this is rather obvious. The books are to be shipped across the ocean; the climate in many parts of Africa and the handling by eager African youth will take their toll on the best books.

"As this is a project to help our friends in Africa to a democratic way of life, Communist literature is, of course, not acceptable.

"What you will achieve in helping to collect books may seem a very small thing, indeed, but from my experience in Asia, I know personally that this is one of the most significant things each of us can do. Furthermore, collection of such books is within reach of students and young people. Democracy, its defense and extension, is everyone's business. Here is one area where you as an individual can do much to extend Democracy."

Any desiring to help in this project may send books prepaid to Rev. E. R. Tupper, 953 Göttingen Street, Halifax, N. S., where they will be sorted and packed by the Young People and shipped to New York. From there one of the shipping companies carries them free of charge to Africa. Golden Jubilee Advertising Association

The men and women responsible for the promotion and advertising of 90 per cent of Canada's goods and services gathered in Montreal October 20 to celebrate the golden jubilee of their organization and to discuss the future of their profession in Canada.

The Canadian Association of Advertising Agents — known as the C-Trade A — is scheduled to hold its annual meeting on that date at the Mount Royal Hotel. The Association groups 47 individual agencies. Canada's advertising agencies account for over 90 per cent of the country's total advertising billing — estimated at more than $300 million in 1954. This represents 1.2 per cent of Canada's gross national product.

Guest speaker at the jubilee dinner is the Hon. Robert H. Winters, Minister for Public Works, who will outline the impact and implications of advertising on the national economy.

The annual meeting day gets underway in the morning when the Association's board of directors meets. Luncheon will be attended by member agency representatives and one member from the staff of each. The first showing will be held of "Tones and Half-Tones," a documentary movie dealing with the art of engraving and produced by the C.A.A.A. in conjunction with a number of engraving houses.

A business session in the afternoon will be followed by the reading of the annual report and the election of officers. Outgoing president is G. C. Hammond, vice-president and Montreal office manager of Cockfield, Brown and Company Limited.

Established in 1905, the Canadian Association of Advertising Agencies, was incorporated under Federal charter in 1923. Its expressed aim is to strengthen the structure of advertising in Canada, by constant improvement in the quality of its service to advertisers, through co-operation with media and other associations concerned with advertising, and by creating a better understanding of the functions of advertising in the mind of the public.

The scope of the member agencies covers advertising in newspapers, magazines, radio, television, outdoor, transportation and point-of-sale advertising; direct mail, printed matter, catalogues and many other forms.

How To Preserve Quinces

Miss Mabel Ruggles, Barton, contends that quinces are not used here to any great degree for people do not know how to cook them to get the best flavor out of them. Miss Ruggles, therefore, has handed the Courier a recipe for quinces which she wishes published for the benefit of the public.

First of all, quinces should never be gathered, Miss Ruggles says, until they have endured three October frosts. They should not be picked until late in the day.

To preserve quinces, Miss Ruggles advocates the following process:

Wipe fruit clear of fuzz, then cut off all rough places. Peel off skin, save it. Cut up fruit, halves and quarters. Save all seed and put with peelings. Put skins and seeds in kettle. Cover with 2nd water and boil 6 hours. Strain through colander. Save water and weigh the fruit. Put fruit in water already strained and cool until done. Remove fruit. Keep it warm. Put in as much sugar as fruit weighed until it is well dissolved. Add fruit that has been cooked. Let it boil on back of stove mildly until it is clear.

Have sterilized containers by Sweet apples or winter pears are best with these.

Given Surprise Party

Mr. Roscoe Cress, of Bear River, was pleasantly surprised on Tuesday evening, October 18, when about thirty friends gathered at his home, the occasion being his birthday. Mr. Cress was presented with a substantial sum of money and a delicious birthday cake. The evening was enjoyably spent with games and contests. After refreshments were served the departing guests left with their host their sincere good wishes for his health and happiness.

Mr. Cress, who spent several months the past summer as a patient in the Victoria General Hospital at Halifax, expects to return there for further treatment November 7th. The best wishes of the community will go with him.

PICKS ROSE

A lovely pink rose was picked by Miss Janet Williams, Shore Road, on Saturday, October 22. The temperature on that day was a low 45 degrees.

Miss Roechling Heads P. C. Women

Convener of social committee, Mrs. Roy Snell, with helpers, Mrs. Ira Harris, Mrs. H. Sanford, Mrs. C. Sanford, Publicity, Mrs. Spurr.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Snell, Bear River. Special guests were Mrs. Stanton Sanford, president of the Annapolis County Women's Progressive Conservative Association, and Miss Lola Sangster, of Windsor. Miss Sangster gave a brief report of activities in her home town.

Meteghan And Weymouth Cars Collide

Mr. Emile Saulnier, of Meteghan entered Yarmouth Hospital suffering from shock and severe lacerations following a highway accident in Mavlette, Digby County, on Saturday afternoon. HARVEST SERVICE

A very impressive Harvest service was conducted Sunday afternoon in the Port Wade United Church by the pastor, Rev. Cyril Gough. The church was decorated with beautiful fall flowers and an abundance of fruit and vegetables which were given to the needy after the service.

The sermon was very touching as the congregation was lead to realize how fortunate and happy we are here free of floods and destruction in our own little community, and an abundant harvest all through God's good grace, all things we so often take for granted. A large congregation joined after the service for communion.

Buy a Poppy for Remembrance

by Ken Hankinson
 Almost everyone can remember the days when the standard color for automobiles was black. You expected a car to be black just as refrigerators today are white. Twenty years ago, black was the color of 75 percent of the cars made; today only 10 percent of our cars are black.

Liveller shades on automobile bodies only became practical in 1939 when the development of titanium and cadmium increased the durability of auto paint by 400 percent.

Now that almost any shade of exterior finish is possible, psychologists are starting to develop theories about automobile colors — and I'll pass them along for what they're worth. You can try them out on your own car, or on the cars at our lot.

First of all, two-tone color jobs are supposed to make a car look longer and lower.

Colors at the red end of the spectrum make a car look bigger, the psychologists say, while colors at the blue end make it look smaller. At the same time they say that dark colors tend to make a car look smaller and heavier, but light colors make a car look larger and lighter.

Where this leaves a car that's dark red or light blue, I haven't the foggiest idea, since according to these theories they would be both heavier and lighter at the same time.

The durability of car paints that came with the application of titanium and cadmium has been a great boon to the used car buyer, as anyone can see by looking at the colorful display on our lot. That showroom shine lasts a lot longer these days, and especially on cars that have been given reasonable care. That's the kind we buy, and the kind we sell.

Seventy Years No Handicap To W. E. Sinclair

(Telegraph Journal, Saint John)

Down at Millidgeville, moored offshore for a few days in front of the Royal Kennebec Yacht Club, is a small sailing craft named "Sally."

On board lives a man who, at an age when most people find that the very thought of salt water brings a twinge of rheumatism, still spends months of every year on the sea.

His name is W. E. Sinclair. An Englishman and bachelor, he was a schoolmaster until his retirement 20 years ago, but unlike most of his profession, managed to become yachtsman, traveler, and author while pursuing his vocation.

A slight, upright figure of less than medium height, he has a tanned face, grizzled moustache, and the agility and sure-footedness of a man with half the 70 years he admits to.

Recorded in the log of his memory are voyages to many parts of the world. With three companions in a 55-foot fishing vessel, aptly named "Quartette" he once spent nine months on a voyage to the West Indies.

He first went sailing as a young man in the busy reaches of the Bay near Digby, at Port Wade, where he has lived for the last 15 years, he has explored the 1,000 miles of coast down the Bay of Fundy. He has sailed in yachts of all sizes, from a 10-foot dingy to a 55-foot schooner. He has sailed in all weathers, and he has sailed in all seasons. He has sailed in the summer, when the sun is hot and the sea is blue, and he has sailed in the winter, when the sun is cold and the sea is grey. He has sailed in the spring, when the sun is warm and the sea is green, and he has sailed in the fall, when the sun is golden and the sea is brown. He has sailed in all weathers, and he has sailed in all seasons. He has sailed in the summer, when the sun is hot and the sea is blue, and he has sailed in the winter, when the sun is cold and the sea is grey. He has sailed in the spring, when the sun is warm and the sea is green, and he has sailed in the fall, when the sun is golden and the sea is brown.

In spite of his many years at the tiller, Mr. Sinclair derives the idea of sailing being in the blood. "That's all poetical nonsense. Why," he chuckled, "I didn't board a yacht until I was 30." Nevertheless, although he once thought of giving up voyaging, the lure of the ocean proved too strong and he still spends as much time as possible aboard his latest craft, "Sally."

Only 21 feet long at the waterline, "Sally" is a slender little sloop, white and trim, with a tiny but cozy cabin. Like a real outdoor girl, her lines conceal her sturdiness. Mr. Sinclair says she is truly seaworthy and he should know, having built her himself, with help, over in Nova Scotia two years ago.

Her first trip was across to Campbell Island and down the coast to Virginia and back late in 1953. Starting with two companions, Mr. Sinclair made New York in three weeks. They sailed up the East River through "Hell's Gate," where the currents swirl viciously. But that didn't trouble them. "The only trouble with the East River," says Mr. Sinclair, "is that the skyscrapers keep the wind off." From New York onwards he traveled alone.

How does one manage about sleep on a voyage alone? "Oh," said Mr. Sinclair, "there are ways of fixing the tiller and canvas so that the yacht sails herself, but sometimes foul weather will oblige you to stay awake. Four and a half days without a wink was my worst spell. I wouldn't vote for one sleepless night, and two running aren't funny, but four . . ."

It's difficult to get him to talk of narrow escapes. But he was coaxed into relating "a bad time" one night off Cape Charles. Caught in shallow water on a sandbar, in thick fog and darkness, "Sally" was time and again lifted by the breakers and smashed down on the bar, while the sea washed over and did its best to swamp her. "I really thought it was all up with me," said this modest master of understatement.

From a sailing cockpit on the American coast to a schoolroom in London is a far cry, but also a measure of Mr. Sinclair's virtuosity. He taught school in England for "30 or 40 years," but not continuously. "After the First World War I got tired of teaching," he said, "and I took to doing it only in the winter. In summertime I sailed my craft, "Joan," also a 21-footer, and between 1924 and 1927 I saw Madeira, Iceland, and the Baltic with her help."

These wanderings prompted the author in Mr. Sinclair, and "The Cruises of the Joan" was England and the N.S.K.K. resolved to be self supporting.

"The war was like a bad dream," said Mr. Tazaki. Air raids caused much suffering, church buildings were burned and the clergy was called into military service, but during all the persecution the church managed to keep alive. The speaker, himself, it was learned, had served three years in the navy.

Japan, after the war, suffered a difficult economic situation, but it was also a valuable time, the speaker said. After the defeat in Japan, the emperor was no more considered a god to the people. They felt an emptiness of life and were uncertain spiritually so that it provided a good opportunity for Christian Missions if the church could have arisen from the destruction and suppression of the war.

In speaking of the Mission in Japan, Rev. Mr. Tazaki thought the rural areas were important for missionary work rather than laying so much emphasis on the cities and towns as in the past. Because of the influence of Confucianism, Buddhism and Shintoism, it requires much perseverance to convert the rural areas. He was gravely concerned about the lack of candidates for the ministry in Japan as most of their clergy were over 50 years of age. He expressed his gratitude to the churches here for their kindness to the Japanese people.

Mr. Tazaki's address was delivered at the opening session of the Annual Meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Annapolis Deanery which met here yesterday.

Elected By Acclamation!

No, this is not a news story, it simply is an editorial we had planned for next week. Suddenly we realized that nominations for our civic election close on November 22 and if this editorial is to create the interest we want, we had better find a spot for it this week. You see our editorial page had been closed and well might to print when we decided to run this. But let's get back to the heading - Elected By Acclamation!

Look at those words carefully and see what they spell. Way down hidden beneath those letters you will most surely find three plain words - not "elected by acclamation" as you suppose, but simply "lack of interest". It is our hope that when Digby Civic election is over in December that our headlines will not record the news "lack of interest".

Now, don't mistake us. We are not opposed to town councillors who are elected by acclamation. In many cases there have been the men most suited for the positions but that does not alter the fact that a drought of candidates simply means that there has not been enough interest taken by the people in who is to run the affairs of their town. They are not concerned about the manner in which their town is run until possibly they think they find a loop hole for attack on the sitting councillors.

Why are there so few civic elections? Well, as we have said, only a few people have enough interest to nominate a candidate. Quietly and with a sort of secretiveness some few will nominate someone while most of the town sleeps on the subject. Of course, when the election is over there are always those who think so-and-so should have been nominated.

To offer for a seat on any council, be it town or municipality or what have you, a candidate must first have confidence that the people will be behind him. He must feel that the citizens know he is tackling his job with the best interest of his people at heart. Mighty good candidates hesitate to offer for election simply because they have the attitude "What's the use?"

Coming directly to our own town of Digby, rumors have it that practically none of the councillors will re-offer for seats this fall, stating that the reason is "the people are not behind us, we are blocked on every move." Whether this is a sensitiveness on the part of the councillors or whether it is a legitimate feeling is not for us to say. We do know it is rather a shame if our councillors have reason to feel that way. To have all these men refuse nomination or to have resignations placed would be a sad mistake. There are good men sitting on our council right now whose experience is needed to conduct the affairs of the town. New blood injected even in a council, we'll admit, is always desirable but it is always well to have it in small doses. The rumors do make us realize that even town councillors, although they are prepared for any just criticism, can become discouraged. In time such an attitude is created that every one is reluctant to attempt filling a place in the council.

Then there are those whose businesses and work demand so much time that they feel unsympathetic to giving up their valuable time for town affairs, especially if it is not appreciated. Sitting on a council requires a lot of a person's time, sometimes to almost that of a full-time position.

The job of a councillor requires talent, business ability, a capacity to get along well with all sorts of people, a willingness to take criticism without flinching or much show of temper. We have men with some or all of these qualities if we give them a fair chance. We have some who are willing and able to dedicate themselves to the public interest, not for money or for glory, but to do a job for their fellow-citizens in a small town. Let's perk up. Let's seek them out, whether they are men on the present council or others. Let's create interest enough to get some good men nominated, the choice of the people elected and then work shoulder-to-shoulder with these men to put Digby on the map, so to speak. Let's take an active interest in the affairs of the town, yes, but not without sympathy, understanding and appreciation of those at the helm.

Students Question Appointed Health Officer

Capt. and Mrs. Victor Halliday were guests at the Citizenship class at the Digby Regional High School last week when a film entitled "War On Want" was shown. The film dealt with the fisheries in Ceylon and featured two fishing boats, the "Maple Leaf" and the "Canadian" of which Mr. Halliday was captain.

Following the film the students took the advantage of querying Capt. Halliday about Ceylon and his experiences there and got much valuable information on the Colombo Plan. He told them of the effort to improve fishing methods there and thereby increase the catch.

Dr. F. Murray Addresses Group

Dr. Florence Murray, returned missionary from Korea, in addressing the fall rally of the Annapolis Presbyterian on Wednesday said that Korea is a disturbed country eager to accept the gospel of security and she declared now is a good time for Christianity to work in that country. She deplored the fact that there is no legislation in Canada which permits Koreans to come here to live and felt that we as democratic people should do something about such discrimination.

Dr. Murray told of the improved economic conditions brought about by the success of the U.N.K.R.A. in establishing industries in the Southern part of Korea where she was stationed, but with 85% of the government budget going for self defense there was only 15% of government money left in Korea to improve social services.

Dr. Murray compared life here with that of the Koreans. She charged that in this atomized age the church is still using obsolete methods and unless it wakes up we won't enjoy our luxuries for very long. She urged the need of the young people to go to the mission fields.

Dr. Murray was introduced by Mrs. J. A. Ruffee, Grandville Ferry, Presbyterian, Grandville, and thanked by Mrs. J. M. Wallis, Digby.

The Presbyterian, which met at the United Church in Bear River, opened with a worship service conducted by the Tupperville W.A. Mrs. Ralph Bent read the scripture and Mrs. Fred Simpson gave an interesting paper on Thanksgiving entitled "The Abundance of God".

Mrs. George Oickle, of Bear River, welcomed the delegates to which Mrs. Harold Murray, Berwick, gave a fitting response.

A full and descriptive report of the School for Leaders, held at Berwick in August, was given by Mrs. Elton Abbott, Digby.

Mrs. James Abbott gave a presentation of W.M.S. literature and introduced the study books, "No Vanishing Race" and "Coming Our Way", on the Canadian Indians and immigrants respectively.

It was announced by the President that the 1956 allocation for the Annapolis Presbyterian is $3600.

Supper was served at the close of the meeting by the ladies of Bear River United Church, at which time Mrs. Spencer Horsborough, Berwick, expended appreciation to the hostesses for their hospitality.

A short get-together was held in the evening, when Dr. Murray showed slides on Korea.

While in the district Dr. Murray also gave interesting talks on her work and conditions in Korea to students of the high school at Oakdene School, Bear River, and at the Digby Regional High School.

Home Destroyed

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the almost completed dwelling of Clifford Vidito here late Saturday evening.

The fire was first discovered some time after 11 p.m. but had gained so much headway it was impossible for the Digby Fire Department to halt the blaze before the building was destroyed.

Mr. Vidito's new home, destroyed by the blaze, was almost ready for occupancy and Mr. Vidito had just returned from purchasing floor coverings for the new dwelling when he discovered the blaze.

Fire officials are at a loss to know the cause of the fire as electrical service had not yet been connected in the house and heating equipment was also not installed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Editor, Digby Courier, Digby, N. S. Dear Sir:

As a great many of our readers are interested in your Board of Trade and the work of the Annapolis Valley Associated Boards of Trade I trust this letter in your next issue.

At a recent meeting of the Affiliated Boards held to take action on the apple situation and the tie-up of ferry service at Digby, I was surprised to find that so many of those attending had no knowledge whatever of the steps which have been taken recently to put the Affiliated Boards on a sound basis financially, and thus enable it to do some constructive and promotional work. Consequently I would like to explain briefly what has been done, which is, I believe, somewhat along the lines followed by the Canadian Chambers of Commerce.

At the annual meeting this last April a finance committee was authorized consisting of one representative appointed by each member Board and was given authority to raise funds to further the work of the organization. This committee met at Digby and decided upon the sale of business memberships to corporations and individuals operating in the Valley and employing five or more employees. The fee was set at $10.00 for five to ten employees; $25.00 for eleven to fifty employees and $50.00 for fifty-one or more employees; and these business memberships were to be solicited in each district by the representative on the finance committee from each member Board or by someone appointed by him. I regret to inform you that up to date some of these representatives have done nothing.

One of the reasons why I am writing is because many of those attending the recent meetings were indignant to find their local Board had not even notified them of the business memberships and that they had as yet had no opportunity to join.

There are a great many in the Valley, including myself, (Please turn to page 10)

Three Hundred Attend H. & S.

Over three hundred parents and visitors of the Digby School Area attended the Home and School meeting held at the Digby Regional High School on Thursday evening. The first part of the evening's program, as arranged by Wallace Hodgson and Baden Powell, President, took the parents on a tour and visit in the classrooms of the three public schools in town. There they were given a short demonstration of the school day as experienced by the students of the schools here.

After assembling in the auditorium of the D.R.H.S. the gathering was addressed by the School Supervisor, F. C. Purdy, on the proposed school extension. An open discussion after the address enlightened many on questions concerning the proposal and on current school interest.

About seventy-one registered for the 1955-56 Home and School year and registration was left open for any who wish to join before or on December 1st when the next meeting will be held.

The following directors were appointed for the Digby Area Home and School: Rene Richard, Marshalltown; James Woolf, Conway; Mrs. Hartley Balser, Acaciaville; Mrs. Alfred Bailey, New Conway; Albert Jones, Weymouth North; B. J. Height, Brighton; Mrs. Cecil Amero, Plympton Station; Mrs. Waters Comeau, Rosaway; Mrs. William Clayton, Bay View; Mrs. Earl Porter, Hill Grove; Mrs. Frank Ross, Culloden; Mrs. Ralph Thibideau, Gilbert's Cove; Mrs. Easterby Sloan, Bear River Road; William Kinney, Ashmore and Mrs. Russell Atkinson, Edgar Chan and Kenneth Beckwith, Digby.

Mrs. Hartley Balser was named secretary for the directors.

It was decided that each notice sent to members and friends contain the name of the representative who would receive communication as to plans to attend meetings, questions regarding the program or suggestions for discussion at the directors' meetings.

No New Developments

Nothing new has been released in the line of news regarding negotiations which might be taking place or of attempts of negotiations between the C.P.R. and S.I.U. in the matter of the strike which first tied up the Saint John-Digby ferry service more than a month ago.

Late last week it was reported in some circles in Digby that something new had developed and movements indicated the strike would be over and the Princess Helene, plying the Bay of Fundy again by the middle of the present week.

Hal Banks, S.I.U. head, was said to have arrived from Europe to meet C.P.R. officials in Montreal. No official word has been received in Digby, however, on any definite progress to end the month long strike.

The S.I.U. it is understood, is striking to enforce its demand for the same wage scale here as now applied to C.P.R. marine operations on the West Coast.

About This and That

Remembrance Day

On November 11 Canadians will pause to reverently remember the solemn anniversary of the day set aside by authority as a time of tribute to Canada's men who died in fighting wars. In numerous Canadian homes there will be quiet reflection and some sadness as the sacrifice of sons, brothers and fathers will be remembered. On this November day again the thoughts of many will turn to foreign fields where thousands of our young men lie forever.

Remembrance Day should not be a day for casual celebration over hard-won victories but one for reflection and the rededication to the task of keeping faith with the war dead.

Canadians can never repay the debt they owe to those who sacrificed their lives to enable us to enjoy the Freedom we do. November 11 should be a day on which we who cherish Peace and Freedom should resolve to strive mightily to maintain it, to defend it with the same determination and fortitude of the past. We shall break a treasured trust with those who gave their lives in the service of the nation if this is not done.

As John McRae wrote in his beautiful "In Flanders Fields"

"If we break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders Fields."

One small way in which we can show that we remember is to wear the Blood Red Poppy of Flanders and attend the services arranged by the Digby Branch Canadian Legion.

The Poppy Campaign is sponsored throughout Canada by the Canadian Legion and the funds are used for the care of the sick and needy veterans and their families.

Fall Foliage Along Bear River

Driving to Bear River along the river road last week we thought we had seen the superbest in colored autumn foliage. We were told, however, that the best of the coloring had disappeared and the bronzy shades had by that time crept in. According to report, the trees along the river banks and over the hills of Bear River were magnificent in red, orange and yellow shades and presented a gorgeous picture of color this fall as they reflected, on a calm, still morning, their many shades into the water below.

Bear River people are proud of their town during the colorful autumn days and take delight in attracting visitors to see the foliage there during any fall season but the splendour this fall, we judge, has never been surpassed.

While we had seen nothing to outdo Bear River in its autumn glory we had also noted that hard wood areas in many sections of the province had donned an unusually delightful and colorful dress this fall. Which all made us realize what a grand field day camera fans could have on color film in the autumn season. It is one of the prettiest seasons of the year.

Which again brings to our mind that autumn is a delightful time of the year for vacationers. Those who are not forced from the hot crowded city during the summer's extreme heat to seek the cool breezes on the beach and those who do not have children of school age might find the fall a pleasant time of the year for vacationing.

Autumn vacationers have the advantage because there are so few of them. They can pick their holiday spots without running up against "no vacancy" signs and be assured of a welcome from hotel and resort operators.

Highway traffic has thinned out. There is seating room on trains and buses once more and reaching the right place at the right time is back within the realms of possibility.

Fishing and hunting becomes a pleasant pastime and sport; free from the crowds of bathers and the noise of summer vacation time boating and such.

Of course, to be reckoned with, is the long summer waiting while the other fellow goes to the country for an enviable tan and sunburn. Sometimes the autumn weather can be quite chill. But sweaters instead of sun suits and hiking over the autumn hillsides instead of reclining on the beach can make a refreshing and changeable way to spend an annual vacation away from the grind of every day duty.

There are compensations to fall vacations and to some they can be the ideal change or rest. It might be well to promote interest in vacation in the autumn and extend the tourist season beyond the busy July and August.

Folk School To Be Held At Braemar

For the first time since its organization in 1931 the Western Nova Scotia Folk School is to be held in Yarmouth County.

According to information recently released by the Folk School's Board of Directors arrangements have been completed, with the owners and managers of Braemar Lodge, for holding the Folk School there this year. Braemar Lodge is a well known tourist resort attractively situated on the shores of Lake Ellenwood.

On November 7, some twenty-five students from the five western counties of the province will come to Braemar to share eleven days of group study, program planning, recreation, drama and music, as related to rural and community life in this province. Early registration shows that Federations of Agriculture, Home and School Associations, Women's Institute Groups, Credit Unions, Co-operatives, and Farm Forums in each of the five counties concerned are exhibiting an active interest in the Folk School, and students are being sponsored by all of these organizations.

The Western Nova Scotia Folk School is the responsibility of a special committee consisting of representatives of County Federations of Agriculture, District Women's Institutes and Home and School County Councils. It is staffed by representatives of the Adult Education Division and the Physical Fitness Branch of the Department of Education, the Department of Agriculture, and the Department of Public Health. Mr. Tom Jones of the Adult Education Division will be the director of the Folk School this year, and staff members will be Miss Freda Wales, Physical Fitness Branch, Mr. Victor Moses, Department of Agriculture, Miss Jacqueline d'Eon, Department of Agriculture, and Miss Hazel Roland, Department of Public Health.

The Western Nova Scotia Folk School is not unique in the province, three others being held annually in Tatamagouche, Kennetcook, and Port Hood, nor are the Nova Scotian Folk Schools unique in Canada. The Canadian Folk School is an adaptation of the Scandinavian Folk High School which originated in Denmark over one hundred years ago and during its subsequent growth and development contributed materially to the economic and social development of that country.

Elders Ordained And Fall Dedicated

An impressive service was held in the Barton-Brighton United Church of Canada on Sunday afternoon last when two new Elders were ordained and admitted into the Session of the church.

The service was conducted by the Rev. W. Armitage, minister of the church, who spoke briefly of the real meaning of being a Christian. In his address he said that a real Christian is one who completely does the will of God, as Jesus did, and commended this as a rule for life for his listeners.

The two new Elders are Mrs. Sam Cosman and Mr. Joseph Specht, who were chosen by the congregation for appointment to this office. Following the ordination, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed.

Also in this service a new Pulpit Fall was dedicated. This is a gift of Mrs. Walter Weaver, now in Saskatoon, who visited Barton during this last summer. The Fall is richly decorated with a coloured crest of the United Church of Canada, and is a welcome addition to the pulpit. The minister expressed the appreciation of the congregation to Mrs. Weaver for her gracious gift.

Church Activities At "Bluenose Day" Postponed

About twelve members of this church attended the District Meetings held recently at Hill Grove.

A stirring Thanksgiving sermon was presented to his congregation by Rev. R. R. Winchester on Sunday evening, Oct. 9th. The church was attractively decorated with autumn leaves, cut flowers and a colorful display of fruit and vegetables.

On Sunday morning, October 16th, the Sunday School presented their Rally Day program, combined with the regular service, under the leadership of Harry Thomas. Music was provided by the Young People's choir. A special duet, "Sotly and Tenderly", was rendered by Maxine Andrews and Lois Haight. Mrs. Reginald Andrews had charge of the music. The pastor of the church brought the message, in keeping with the Rally Day theme, using as his text "As for me and my house we will serve the Lord", taken from the book of Joshua. In his address he pointed out the importance of the Christian home. The parents' influence for good or evil will make a lasting impression and effect the whole future of the child.

Entertain Other Societies

On Tuesday evening of last week the Ladies' Aid of the Bear River United Church was hostess to the Women's Association of Smith's Cove and the Mite Society of Bear River East, and also some friends from Bear River.

The guests met in the vestry of the United Church, which was tastefully decorated with autumn leaves.

After a short business session the visitors were welcomed by the President of the Aid. A short program was then presented, consisting of a song, a reading and a humorous skit. The highlight of the evening followed, when Miss June Schmidt gave a very interesting talk on her recent trip to Europe. This was very much enjoyed, and each one felt that Miss Schmidt had brought back a portion of Europe and passed it on to them.

A social hour was then enjoyed, while refreshments were served.

Backache?

You may be doing strenuous work using certain muscles for the first time in many a day and what you need is some common-sense advice.

Tonight get a bottle of MOONE'S EMERALD OIL at the drug store. At bedtime apply a good hot towel for about one minute. Dry thoroughly and apply a little of the Oil rubbing well in. Cover up and go to sleep. In the morning, you'll be surprised and delighted at the blessed relief you get—back on the job—smiling—happy and more comfortable.

Thousands of bottles are sold each year for tired, aching feet and legs. Why continue to suffer when you can get MOONE'S EMERALD OIL at all drug stores.

Letter To The Editor

Ref in classroom shortages will occur before 1957. Shall we build together now, or later build alone, at a greater cost?

(3) The school and its program are the most effective known instruments for molding public opinion. In Digby Schools are some 700 potential area citizens. Shall we make these boys and girls Digby conscious or shall we send them back to their area schools feeling that the citizens of Digby denied them the opportunity that they and their parents so confidently expected at the time they were initiated into the Digby School system?

Yes, Mr. and Mrs. Ratepayer, yours and mine is a heavy responsibility. Shall we keep faith with our rural youth, making them fully aware of our warm personal interest in their future welfare, or shall we send them away from our Town Schools, unhappy and disillusioned?

Finally, Mr. Editor, I am satisfied that the issue before us today is one of far deeper significance than the authorization for spending a fairly large sum of money, even though this expenditure be marked for the betterment of our Community. I believe that the future welfare of our Town is involved in this issue. Today, Digby needs strong and verile leadership of courageous men who are not afraid to take a stand for the right. Men who can accept disappointment and even defeat and yet take a determined stand to "FIGHT, One More Round". Should our Councilors throw up the sponge because of adverse decisions rendered at recent ratepayers meetings? Were those meetings truly representative? Was the public sufficiently well-informed to render an unbiased decision or possibly misinformed? Would the great Columbus have given up in despair when defeat and disaster counselled him to turn back? No, indeed, his words of determination and encouragement rang down through the ages "Sail On and On". Never in the history of the Town were we in greater need of steady resolute leadership necessary for continuity of policy in Town affairs. The Town Council and School Board have endorsed the school question so let us as ratepayers get behind the Council and give a resounding vote of confidence at the coming ratepayers' meeting. Perhaps then certain councilors will reconsider their decision to withdraw from civic responsibility. Would it not be regrettable if Town affairs were suddenly dropped in the hands of a new and entirely inexperienced Council? Change is good — but should it not come gradually and be carefully directed — not explosive and sudden? A vacancy presently exists in the ranks of our Council. Why not fill that vacancy with new blood and at the same time give our wholehearted support to our present Councilors, who appear to be doing a satisfactory as well as constructive job. Personally, I would say to them "Well done — be not of little faith". Does the Board of Trade, the Kiwanis Club and the Canadian Legion contemplate taking action designed to encourage our present Council and thus ensure that Town affairs will remain under the direction of competent men interested in the welfare of our Community? These are my personal views on current civic affairs. Possibly your readers will welcome the opportunity to read those of other citizens. May I thank you, Mr. Editor, for your patience and valuable space given to one who has an unwavering faith in our Town and its youth. Signed: Age Quod Agis.

PACK LUNCHES THAT PLEASE YOUR YOUNGSTER

"Oh boy... tomato soup!" Is that your Teddy talking... that cute little tyke who's getting such a "kick" out of his lunchbox? Tomato soup, garnished with sausages. Cheese sandwiches. Carrot sticks poked through olives. A bunch of grapes. And marsh-mallow cereal candy to satisfy his sweet tooth! No wonder he's so happy!

Yessirree, Mom, you can put a smile on your son's face even when you're miles away! Fill up his lunchbox with body-building foods, fixed as he'll find them appealing. Hot soups, tasty and nourishing. Made with milk, they put dairy into his day. And there are literally dozens of condensed soups to choose from. Mixing and matching opens up more exciting possibilities.

Scrambled eggs... Cream of chicken and green peas... Chicken gumbo and cream of asparagus... Cream of mushroom and onion... Beef and beef noodle... Vegetarian vegetable and bonitos... Pepper pot and consommé.

Let your imagination "run wild" in the sandwich department. Choose from a galaxy of breadstuffs... whole wheat, white, rye, raisin, pumpernickel, date-ant, honeybread, fruit roll, frankfurter bun, and poppyseed roll.

Fillings range from the salad types... egg, tuna fish, chicken, and ham... to cooked meat... roast beef, minced ham, bologna, salami, meat loaf, others. In between come "kid favorites" such as peanut butter, cheese spread... even scrambled eggs!

If you're overwhelmed with the thought of preparing lunches every day, here's an idea, Mom. Put aside an hour each week and make up a supply of sandwiches. Label them for each school day, and pop them into the freezer. A word of caution... sandwiches with ham, cream cheese, lettuce, mayonnaise, or raw celery don't take to freezing. Most others will pass the test. And freezing a week's supply at a time is no time-waster!

When lunch foods are assembled, tuck in something to surprise your youngster. A decorated napkin. Cheerful greeting scribbled on the shell of a hard-cooked egg. Colorful printed waxed paper wrapping for his sandwich. Shiny new pencil. Or a lollipop. And don't be surprised if your Teddy turns out to be the happiest kid in the class!

MARRIAGE

Southern — Dill

Miss Arlene M. Dill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Dill of 104 North Walker St., a clerk at the Taunton Daily Gazette, was united in marriage to Lewis C. Southern, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Southern of 21 South St., at the Winthrop Street Baptist Church, Saturday afternoon.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. David W. Buzzell. A program of traditional bridal music was presented by Grayce Enid Southern, sister of the bridegroom. Accompanied by Mrs. Kenneth Kelley, she sang, "I Love Thee Dear," "Through the Years," "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Irma Dean served as her sister's matron of honour. Bridesmaids were Marjorie Dill and Barbara Dill, also sisters of the bride.

Curtis Southern of Valley Stream, Long Island, N. Y., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers included John Dean of Taunton, Thomas Barry of Easton, Robert McIntosh of Arlington and Keith MacDougall of Barrington, R.I.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of nylon tulle and Chantilly lace over satin. The fitted bodice was designed with a tracery of dainty seed pearls and sequins, a pleated tulle neckline, and long wristpoint sleeves of lace. The bouffant skirt of nylon tulle was enhanced by a peplum of Chantilly lace.

The bride's fingertip veil of nylon, flowed from a pleated nylon tulle headpiece sprinkled with sequins and pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses.

The matron of honor wore a Nile-green strapless gown of crystal-embellished tulle, with a matching bolero jacket. Tiers of nylon net enriched the bouffant skirt of the gown which featured an under skirt of tulle.

Mrs. Dean wore matching nylon net mitts, and a miniature coronet studded with seed pearls and tiny sequins. Her colonial-bouquet was composed of orange-delight roses and mixed flowers.

The bridesmaids were attired in shrimp colored gowns fashioned along lines similar

Life

by Ken Hankinson

Many a man has lived to eat his words, or others have been around to snicker at them.

They tell me that the first man to cry out, in effect, "What is this younger generation coming to?" was a king named Hammurabi, who ruled Babylon 2,000 years before Christ.

We seem to have made out all right since then, and I always remember old Hammurabi raising his hand with the kids when people today start crying out that our youngsters are on the skids.

There was an automobile manufacturer, probably wearing a self-satisfied smile, who advertised this message in 1912: "The car I now bring out is pretty close to finality. I do not believe that a car materially better will ever be built."

Yet that car (and the manufacturer was not, incidentally, General Motors) lacked such elementary equipment as a top or windshield. After that "final" announcement, it was another 15 years before cars had the sure-firedness of a fuel pump.

I pulled out the fuel pump as an example because it illustrates two things about GM cars, as true as ever in today's Pontiacs. General Motors has been consistently first with the important innovations, and these innovations have stayed with us through the years; every advance has had good reason behind it.

The automobile's first fuel pump, which replaced the vacuum tank, was a first of GM in 1927 — and the original is preserved today in the Smithsonian Institute.

As the people who introduced the fuel pump, GM has remained the leader in the manufacture of this important "vital organ" of a car, a combination of pioneering and quality that has given Pontiac its first place position in America.

How times have changed for the better!

Not so very many years ago, people with a history of certain ailments or diseases were unable to buy the life insurance they needed. Often, this resulted in considerable hardship for their families. But today... thanks to the results of new knowledge and research in controlling diseases, many such people are now accepted by life insurance companies — and can provide their families with vital financial protection.

This is another example of the many ways in which the life insurance companies in Canada have advanced with the times... offering better service to Canadians in all walks of life!

OBITUARIES

Destre L. Deveau
The funeral of Destre L. Deveau, aged 88, of Meteghan, was held Tuesday at Stella Maria R. C. Church, with Magr. Emile Bourneuf officiating. A devout Christian and well known throughout the district of Clare, Mr. Deveau's passing was a great shock to the community. He had been ill with a painful illness for over two years. He was a successful merchant, operating a grocery store which during the late years was managed by his adopted son, Fred. He leaves to mourn, besides his wife, three brothers, August, of Haverhill, Mass.; Reuther, of Lynn, Mass.; and Jules, of Meteghan.

Mr. Deveau once operated a bowling alley in conjunction with his store and thus came in contact with the sports minded public. He took great interest in the affairs of the community and his pleasing personality will be greatly missed by his many friends.

Mrs. Chryssie F. Fream
Mrs. Chryssie F. Fream (nee Playle), of 105 South Grove St., East Orange, N. J., widow of Sidney P. Fream, died Tuesday, October 11th, of a heart attack. She was 81.

to the East Orange, N. J. Mrs. Fream was a landscape artist and had exhibited her paintings in New Jersey and New York galleries. She was a member of the Art Center of the Oranges and the American Professional Art League.
She leaves five daughters, Mrs. Daisy Seelye, with whom she lived; Mrs. Evelyn Carlson, of Melville, N. Stephen William Brown Little Stephen William Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley E. Brown (nee Marilyn Adams), Clements, passed away at the Annapolis General Hospital on Wednesday evening, October 19th, at the age of two days.

The funeral service was conducted at graveside by Rev. S. J. Armstrong. Interment was in the St. Edward's Churchyard, Clements.

He is survived by his parents, his paternal grandmother, Mrs. William Brown, Clements; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Adams, of Deep Brook, and several aunts and uncles.

Mrs. Mary Ann Nichols
Following a long period of failing health Mrs. Mary Ann Nichols passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Franklin, and Mr. Franklin Sr., on Thursday morning, October 20th, aged eighty-six years and seven months. She was the widow of the late George S. Nichols, and has been a resident of Acaciaville all her married life.

The deceased was a daughter of the late William Carey Woodworth and Eunice Litch Woodworth, of Delap's Cove, Anna, Co., where she was born and reared.
Left to mourn are two sons, John Nichols, of Acaciaville, and Carey Nichols, of Rockland, Mass.; three daughters (Duetta) Mrs. Joseph Franklin, of Hill Grove, (Margie) Mrs. Carl Fass, Rockland, Mass., and (Beatrice) Mrs. Thomas Franklin, with whom she resided since the death of her husband, and where she received such loving and tender care during her long period of inactivity. Also surviving are two brothers, Carey Woodworth, South Easton, and Corning Woodworth, of North Easton, Mass.; one sister, Mrs. Sadie Longmire, of Hillsburn, Annapolis County, and a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Nichols was a person of deep and abiding religious convictions and possessing a pleasant personality and unfailing good humor endeared herself to all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She was an active, devout and consistent member of the Hill Grove United Baptist Church and an accomplished musician and singer. In earlier years she gave freely of her time and talents as organist and choir director of her church and was interested in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the community.

Funeral service was held from her late home and the Hill Grove United Baptist Church on Sunday afternoon, with her pastor, Rev. E. C. Churchill, officiating, assisted by Rev. Arthur S. Payzant, retired Anglican minister, who read the lesson. Hymns sung were "When My Life's Work Is Ended", "Sweet Peace", "The Gift of God's Love" and "Some Day The Silver Cord Will Break", all favourites of the deceased.

Pallbearers were six grandsons, George, Donald, Conrad, Carl, Harold Franklin and Alan Nichols.

The large congregation present and the beautiful floral offerings testified to the esteem and affection in which the deceased was held and whose passing leaves an empty void which never can be filled.

Interment was in the family lot in the Hill Grove United Baptist Cemetery.

New '56 Ford

New safety steering wheel, new safety door locks are features of new Lifeguard design.

Extra-strong seat belts, new instrument panel padding both available in '56 Ford.

'56 Ford offers seat belts of tough nylon webbing that can withstand up to 4000 lbs. of force—more resistance than safety regulations require for airline seat belts. Ford also offers new protective padding of expanded plastic for instrument panel and sun visors. (Optional at extra cost.)

With '56 Ford's new V-8 power, a toe-touch gets an instant answer. This means added passing safety in traffic, on the highway. Ford's more responsive power, bigger brakes and Angle-Poised ride all work together to make your driving safer!

One Basic Dough makes

3 Delicious Bun Specialties!

Easy as 1-2-3 with new Active Dry Yeast

Never did buns rise so light—so deliciously tender! And 3 table triumphs from the same dough! When you bake at home get perfect risings every time with Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast.

BASIC ONE-RISING SPECIALTY DOUGH

Measure into a large bowl:
1 cup lukewarm water
2 teaspoons granulated sugar and stir until sugar is dissolved.

Sprinkle with contents of:
2 envelopes Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast

Let stand 10 minutes, THEN stir well, stir in:
1 1/4 cups lukewarm water
3 teaspoons salt and beat until batter is smooth and very elastic.

Cream in a large bowl:
1/4 cup butter or margarine
Gradually beat in:
1/2 cup fine granulated sugar
Gradually beat in:
3 well-beaten eggs

Add to yeast mixture, about a third at a time, beating well after each addition.

Mix in:
3 cups more once-sifted bread flour

Divide soft dough into 3 bowls to finish as three specialties.

1. Buttered Hot Melt 3 table-spoons butter or margarine in 8-inch square pan; brush sides of pan with fat; mix in 1 tablespoon corn syrup, 1/2 cup lightly-packed brown sugar, and 1/4 cup broken walnuts or pecans. Combine in a shallow bowl 1/4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg. Cut out rounded spoonfuls of dough, coat with cinnamon mixture and place in pan; sprinkle with any remaining spiced sugar. Cover and let rise until double in bulk. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375°, about 35 minutes.

2. Cheese Pull-Apart Line bottom of a greased 8-inch square pan with greased waxed paper. Cut half of dough into rounded spoonfuls; place in pan; sprinkle with 2 cups shredded cheese. Spoon remaining half of dough on top; grease tops. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375°, about 35 minutes.

3. Seed Buns Cut out rounded spoonfuls of dough and drop into greased muffin pans—each spoonful should about half fill a pan. Brush with melted butter or margarine; sprinkle with poppy seeds. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375°, 20 to 25 minutes.

ATTEND MEET
The sessions opened on Friday noon with a luncheon when the guest speaker was Hon. J. Clyde Nunn, Minister of Labor and Welfare. He urged the weekly press to explore the possibilities of giving more coverage to sessions of the Provincial Legislature for the benefit of Nova Scotia people. He spoke of the important role which the press plays in shaping public opinion and cautioned the editors to be fair, fearless and free with their news and editorials.

Guest speaker at the evening's dinner was Dr. Charles Bruce, Superintendent of the Canadian Press, Toronto, who took as his subject "The Tree of Man in Nova Scotia". Mr. Bruce, born in Nova Scotia, is one of Canada's outstanding newspaper men and authors.

Others who addressed the meetings were J. A. Vopni, Davidson, Sask., President of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, and Bill Telfer, Managing Director of C. W. N. A., Toronto. Air Vice Marshall A. L. Morfee, Annapolis Royal, co-ordinator of civil defence for Nova Scotia, also spoke, urging greater civil defence preparedness and solicited the co-operation of the press. He said if we are prepared for civil disaster we are prepared in event of war. He dealt with the possible effects of atomic radiation in case of attack. Pat MacAdam, Antigonish, reported on the civil defence school for newspapermen held in Toronto.

Mayor Kitz welcomed the newspaper people to the city. On Friday night they were guests of the C.B.C. at the Red Feather television show.

Letter To The Editor

who feel that in union there is strength and that the Affiliated Boards should, and can exert a big influence on the life and welfare of the Valley far exceeding the efforts of any one Board. This is particularly so in cases like the present when we are faced with very serious apple and transportation problems. To expect the Affiliated Boards to operate with any degree of efficiency on a yearly income of $5.00 to $10.00 from the member Boards is just not reasonable. However, with some funds available and with the support of the various member Boards the Affiliated Boards could, under proper direction, accomplish much for the good of the Valley; and it is to be hoped that sufficient funds will be available for next year to enable us to undertake some constructive work which we have in view, including some vigorous advertising of the Valley.

Before closing let me add that the business memberships now being offered cover the period August 1st, 1955, to December 31st, 1956, and that none of the funds received will be for the purpose of paying a salary to the present secretary as has been rumored. All money raised will be spent under the direction of the Boards.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, and trusting to see some united support for the Valley, which 1st Vice-Pres., Mrs. R. H. Edwards, Annapolis Royal.

About 75 ladies from the Deane attended the meetings and heard Rev. C. J. Tazaki, of Japan, in both morning and afternoon sessions. In the morning his discourse was on the conditions in Tokyo in time of war and peace, and in the afternoon he spoke on his life here and the difficulty he had in learning the English language.

Funds were allocated at the meeting for the Mission Sisters in Saint John for the home church of Rev. Mr. Tazaki in Japan, and to finance a Christmas vacation for Mr. Tazaki in Toronto. Mr. Tazaki is at present studying at Dalhousie University, Halifax.

Splendid reports were given by the women of the diocese at the business session. Dinner was served at noon and afternoon tea also served by the ladies of Trinity Church here.

Strike News Disappointing

Keen disappointment was felt in all Digby circles last night at the grave news that no agreement had been reached to get the S. S. Princess Helene to resume daily operations across the Bay of Fundy from Saint John to Digby.

The let-down felt after the encouraging reports at the end of last week that the "Helene" would possibly be in operation by Monday has cast a gloom over the town and anxiety again prevails as to the economic effect which will be experienced not only in town but in the area around. At that time Labor Minister Gregg announced that he had proposed to the SIU and CPR that the parties agree, in the public interest, to arbitration of the difference involved in the work stoppage together with immediate resumption of ferry service provided by the Princess Helene.

The railway accepted the proposal on October 26. The union would not agree to binding arbitration though it was willing to have work resumed.

It was felt by many that the boat would be on within a few days.

Meetings arranged by Federal Labor Minister Gregg were held in Saint John on Monday and Tuesday, when the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Seafarers' International Union officials again took up negotiations for the settlement of the strike which has kept the Princess Helene inoperative since the latter part of September. When the meetings ended on Tuesday, no agreement had been reached between the disputing parties and the "Helene" remains tied up indefinitely.

Conciliation officer H. R. Pettigrove, Fredericton, said every possible avenue had been explored.

In a statement reviewing the situation, J. R. Strother, CPR general superintendent for the New Brunswick area, said his company had agreed to a proposal that the issue be determined by arbitration.

"This proposal was rejected by the representatives of the Seafarers' International Union who, however, were unable to suggest any other means for determining the issues in dispute. As the matter presently stands, therefore, the ferry service cannot be resumed."

Mr. Strother said that a conciliation board last November had investigated demands by the SIU for increases in wages of $35 a month across the board, as well as increases in standby and overtime rates.

"The company accepted the majority report of the board, under the chairmanship of his honor Judge C. J. Jones, dated Nov. 30, 1954, which found the proposals of the union were not justified. This report was rejected by the union."

Hal Banks, Montreal, vice-president and administrator in Canada for the SIU, gave the following statement: "It is true that no agreement has been reached. Reviewing events leading up to this situation, the Princess Helene personnel have received no increase in wages since 1943 despite a general increase across the country and on similar CPR vessels on the west coast."

"Recently negotiations involving those vessels resulted in a wage increase of approximately $28 a month. Rates on west coast CPR vessels and east coast CPR vessels were always the same."

"The company refuses to give us the same increase on the Helene. The only reason given for not granting it is the standard of living in the Maritimes. They gave us to understand they have no intention of raising the standard for a vessel in the Maritimes up to the standard on the west coast. In other words a Maritimer should not have the same living standard."

"Our committee took a dim view of this and made an honest effort to reach a settlement by conceding several issues. We repeated an offer to return to work immediately at the same wages paid when locked out and continue with negotiations until a settlement was reached. The company refused our offer to return to work and were adamant in their stand that Maritime labor should remain sub-standard."

Mr. Banks said he would remain in Saint John indefinitely and be at the "beck and call" of anyone who might be able to find a solution.

Members of the Digby Board of Trade, not content to have 80 men of the town out of employment, besides other resulting economic factors, are considering what would be the next move to secure some kind of ferry service across the bay.

Since last night's news, effort has been renewed on finding a solution to the problem.

Two From Digby County Elected To Office

Mrs. Chesley Robbins, Smith's Cove, was elected Grand Conductor, and Rev. R. E. Winchester, Barton, was elected Grand Patron at the 108th annual meeting of the Grand Division, Sons of Temperance of Nova Scotia, which met in Halifax last week.

Robert T. Mawhinney, of Port Williams, was unanimously re-elected Grand Worthy Patriarch.

Additional members to the executive committee include: R. D. Miller, Carleton; D. MacLeod, K. Mosher, and R. S. Theakston, Halifax; and P. F. Ring, Dartmouth.

A memorial service was conducted by Grand Chaplain, Rev. J. R. Williams, in which tribute was paid to members of the Grand Division who had died during the year. Among those remembered was the late J. J. Wallis, Smith's Cove, who had been a member for 47 years.

Major J. C. Douglas, Safety Inspector of the Department of Highways, told the gathering on Thursday, when he delivered an address, that the profitable field of endeavour is with the young people.

"Drinking and Driving," Major Douglas said, "is a large and grave social problem and the ultimate answer is in the attitude of the individual."

Saunders Sole Continuing Councillor?

With the resignation of Councillor Sydney L. Smith accepted at the meeting of Digby Town Council on Monday night, one of the big questions on Digby streets is now, "Will L. M. Saunders be the only continuing councillor?" Questioned as to his attitude toward such a situation, Saunders gave expression of disappointment and reluctance.

The resignation of Smith, which takes effect immediately, was because of health reasons and pressure of business affairs which brought about the decision. Mr. Smith said he felt he was not able to spare the time and energy needed to do justice to the position of councillor and for the welfare of the town.

Councillor terms which expire in December are those of Mayor Guy E. Morehouse and Councillors John R. McCleave, Gordon Turnbull and Norman Wright.

His Worship Mayor Morehouse was emphatic in his statement that he would not offer for re-election at the close of his term this fall. He felt he had served a reasonable length of time, that there is much demand on a Mayor's time and he had home ties which were demanding his attention.

Councillor Joseph Hattie, because of ill health, resigned from the Town Council a few weeks ago.

Speculation for filling vacancies are becoming rife and rumors have it that a local garage man is being considered one likely candidate.

No committing statements have been made by Councillors McCleave, Turnbull or Wright as to their willingness to act on the council again and so the question still remains, "Will Saunders be the sole continuing councillor on the Digby Council next year?"

Nominations begin on Nov. 15 and close November 22. Civic Election Day is December 6.

Indignant At Lack Of Water Supply

Digby firemen showed indignation at their meeting last Wednesday night at the lack of water supply for fighting fires in sections of the town.

A resolution, bringing to their attention the situation, was drawn up for presentation to the Digby Water Commission. The delay and handicap experienced in fighting fires in some of these areas were brought forcibly to the notice of the firemen after the Nathal and Vidito fires.

It was announced at the meeting on Wednesday that the First Aid Courses, sponsored by the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Co., would begin on November 15. The classes will meet at the Fire Hall on Tuesday and Thursday and continue for three weeks.

Hands Down Decision

Mr. Justice J. H. MacQuarrie

has handed down a decision in a Supreme Court action tried in Yarmouth and brought by the plaintiff, J. Louis Belliveau, of St. Bernard's, Digby County, against Charles Gaudet, of New Tusket, for damages arising out of a collision last May on a secondary highway at Hassets, Digby County. The plaintiff was represented by Irving C. Pink, Yarmouth, and the defendant, by W. D. Withrow, Q.C., Wolfville.

The collision involved a truck, owned and operated by the defendant, and a passenger motor vehicle operated by the plaintiff. His Lordship in his 6,000 word decision said he was satisfied there was negligence on the part of the defendant, which contributed to the collision, and the collision was the result of the combined negligence of both the plaintiff and the defendant.

Town Will Seek Borrowing Authority

A motion passing a resolution issued by the Department of Municipal Affairs, Halifax, made at the Digby Town Council at its regular session on Monday night resulted in the calling of a ratepayers meeting for Thursday, November 17, to seek approval of the proposed borrowing of a sum not exceeding $40,000, for the purpose of erecting, furnishing or equipping a building for a public school and acquiring or purchasing land for such building.

Extensive information touching on pertinent points respecting the proposed school extension was circulated to the councillors prior to the meeting and they were informed that any citizen of the town who wished so might obtain one of the circular copies from the town hall to make themselves familiar with the information contained thereon.

Listed on the circular are factors which caused the classroom shortage, temporary accommodation provided now, and the proposed extension. The actual cost to the town for the additional facilities is figured on the circular to be $25,600, and the yearly operation and maintenance costs to the town are figured at $3,500.00. It is estimated the average tax payer would pay between 2.00 and 5.00 additional taxes in Digby each year to provide all costs, salaries, maintenance, etc.

The advantages to the Town of Digby to launch on the school extension as proposed are set forth on the circular as well as the accompanying alternatives.

The Council also endorsed a resolution on Monday night which was passed by the Yarmouth Town Council urging Hon. W. T. Dauphinee, Minister of Trade and Commerce, to secure a boat service between Yarmouth and Boston. The resolution stated to the effect that when the Bar Harbour-Yarmouth boat did come on, both boats would be no more than adequate to provide sufficient service.

The resignation of Councillor Sydney Smith was regrettably accepted on Monday night.

The town clerk reported that twenty-seven warrants for poll taxes were issued and somewhere in the vicinity of 15 were collected.

The bare minimum damage in the town over Halloween was reported by the Police Department. Sixty-three complaints were entered in October and fifty-one investigated with all terminating to the satisfaction of the parties concerned. Warrants issued included two under motor vehicle, twelve liquor and one under criminal code. Two fires were traffic controlled.

Harold Thomas approached the Town Council about water and roads in his section of the town and Jack Raymond appeared again regarding the "dump" roadway and bills he claims are owing for dump care. William Thomas was given assurance that permission had previously been granted for additions to his home.

Instructed On Education Act

Harold M. Nason, chief inspector of schools and assistant director of educational services, Halifax, and C. W. Smith, supervisor of grants and statistics, Halifax (a former Digby Town Clerk), were in Digby on Tuesday, giving instruction on the Education Act.

On Tuesday morning and afternoon they met with the Digby Municipal School Board at the Court House and in the evening they met with the Board of the Regional High School at the Town Hall. C. W. Crowell, inspector of schools for Yarmouth and Digby, was in attendance for both sessions.

Meetings at Digby on Tuesday began a tour of Nova Scotia for Mr. Nason and Mr. Smith to attend meetings of twenty-four municipal school boards and three town boards which have asked that Education Department officials discuss with them the new set-up, which was announced following the report of the Potter-Royal Commission on Education Finance.

Under the new regulations, the municipal school boards will become the central body controlling the various school sections.

At the present time boards of trustees in communities are responsible for the administration.

Mrs. Nichols spoke of the extensive work done at the Admiral Digby Well, where townspeople, as well as tourists, enjoyed the use of the benches and pleasant surroundings created around the well by the Society.

Mrs. Nichols was high in her praise and appreciation for the work of love and labour of the president, John Russell, in preparing the plot of ground and caring for it so admirably, and also for all the effort he put into the Society's projects during the year.

Campaigning For Scott Air Pack

Instigated after the fire in the basement of Hattie's store on Water Street some weeks ago, a campaign is now underway to secure an extra Scott Air Pack for use by the Digby Fire Department.

Only by the use of the Scott Air Pack was the fire at Hattie's able to be controlled, said a spokesman for the Digby Fire Department. Because of this apparatus a man was able to go to the basement in the dense smoke to fight the fire. Should anything go wrong with the apparatus there is no possible way to get help to the fireman using it, he said. For that reason another Scott Air Pack is necessary.

The campaign is under the direction of Joseph Hattie.

MARRIAGES

Frost - Buckler
A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at the Baptist Church, Bear River East, on Saturday evening, October 15, at 8:30 o'clock when Annie Marie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Buckler, Bear River East, became the bride of John William Frost, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Frost, of Berwick. Rev. E. A. Robertson, pastor of the Baptist Church, performed the double ring ceremony, assisted by Rev. C. S. Young.

The church was decorated with dahlias and autumn flowers, and the guest pews were marked with white satin bows. The wedding music was played by Mrs. E. Robertson, Clementvale, and Mrs. Margaret Nixon, Kentville, sang "Because" before the ceremony and "Till Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a floor length gown of white nylon net over taffeta, with lace front, featuring a fitted strapless bodice over which was worn a lace jacket with high neckline. Her nylon veil of finger tip length was held in place by a tiara of mother of pearl sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of white shaggy mums and red rose buds.

The bridesmaid was Miss Glennie Alders, Kentville, who wore a floor-length gown of shrimp pink nylon net over taffeta, made on lines similar to the bride's gown, with matching headpiece. Her cascade bouquet was white chrysanthemums and yellow carnations.

Paul Mitchell, Kentville, was best man.

The bride's mother wore a navy, two-piece tuxedo suit dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother wore a navy suit with matching accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

The ushers were Douglas Frost and Ernest Frost, brothers of the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride for 65 guests. The parents of the bride and groom received with the bridal party.

The bride's table with lace cloth and lighted candles, was centred with a three-tier wedding cake. The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. E. A. Robertson and responded to by the groom. Mrs. Gilbert Amero, Kentville, was in charge of the guest book.

Mrs. George Doane, of Kentville, sister of the bride, supervised the serving. Others serving were Miss Vivian Buckler, Miss Barbara Robbins, Miss Muriel Wiles, Mrs. Henry Payne, Mrs. Lewis Wright, Mrs. Wilbur Trimmer, Mrs. Theibert Read, Mrs. Ernest Frost and Mrs. Lloyd Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Frost will reside in Berwick where the groom is employed with the Berwick Bakery.

Banks - Theriault

A pretty wedding of interest to a wide circle of friends took place Friday, October 28, at 8 p.m. at the Bear Point Baptist Church, when Marilyn Frances, daughter of Herman Theriault and the late Mrs. Theriault, of East Ferry, Digby Co., became the bride of Clifford Eugene Banks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chesley Banks, of Bear Point, Shelburne Co.

Rev. H. Fenwick, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride looked very charming as she entered the church on the arm of her brother, Clark, by whom she was given in marriage. Wearing a gown of white satin, high lace collar, long sleeves tapering to points at the wrists. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of American beauty roses and maiden hair fern. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace, gift of the groom.

She was attended by her twin sister, Evelyn, as maid of honor, who wore a gown of aqua with nylon net over taffeta and matching headband, cape and mitts. She carried a nosegay of mauve and white mums.

Bridesmaids were Misses Emma Jean Banks, sister of the groom, and Thelma Stanton, of Yarmouth, friend of the bride, groomed in mauve and pink respectively, with matching headbands, capes and mitts. They carried nosegays of mauve and white mums.

Little Rosalie Collishaw was a winsome flower girl, groomed in pale blue taffeta.

The groom was attended by Malcolm Huskins, of Wood's Harbour, Carroll Crowell and Raymond Lloyd acted as ushers.

Mrs. Irene Smith played the wedding March. During the signing of the register Mrs. Leah Crowell sang "Till Walk Beside You", accompanied by Mrs. Smith at the organ.

The bride's eldest sister, Mrs. Victor Doty, wore a blue dress with navy accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations, while the groom's mother wore a slate blue crepe dress with pink accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

In Monday night's meeting after the farm broadcast and discussion, the group left the hall and gathered at the home of George MacKay, where his sister, Mrs. Marion McInnes, served lunch, which was followed by a sing-song, with Mrs. Vinald Theriault organist.

To the Editor,
The Digby Courier.
Dear Mrs. Wallis:

Congratulations on the November 3rd issue of the Courier, containing so much of interest and information, also the subsequent correspondence.

As a taxpayer of long standing and conversant with Town Councils, I appreciate the feeling of frustration, but every Council lives through such a period and ratepayers' meetings are not always representative of those who have the best interests of the town at heart, as a whole.

Civic pride seems to be absent at present, but it might encourage the Council if the public could see what it can and does do.

I feel sure the council has the power to ban such eyesores as junk piles, dilapidated buildings, broken windows, rough sidewalks, etc., and similar matters. These can be observed by all who visit our town and they reflect on its management.

Such matter do not need special legislation, so I hope the Council will reconsider its stand and continue in office, accepting the "Bitter with the Sweet" as inevitable.

All are proud of our school and may it continue without interruption or trouble.
Yours truly,
M. Edith Lynch.

Digby, Nova Scotia.
Editor of Digby Courier,
Digby, N. S.

Dear Mr. Editor:

May I have space in your paper for this letter which I particularly draw to the attention of the ratepayers of the Town of Digby.

Elsewhere in this issue of the Courier you will find a notice calling a ratepayers' meeting to vote on the resolution to borrow a sum not to exceed $40,000 for the purpose of building and equipping an addition to the Regional High School. The purpose of this letter is to give you information to consider which I believe will help you to decide which way to vote at that meeting.

Do you know that we have 505 students enrolled at present and the school was built for a maximum of 325? That we are presently renting four classrooms from the Town School and using as well all additional space possible in the High School building?

To remedy this we propose adding nine additional classrooms and other facilities which will give us ample room with approximately two classrooms to spare for future development. We estimate the cost to be $150,000 for this purpose. This will be divided between Town and Municipality, 25% and 75% respectively, making the Town's share $40,000. Of this $40,000 the Government will pay 36%, leaving the share to be paid by the Town of Digby $25,600. The yearly maintenance cost to the Town of Digby of this addition will be $1500 and this, together with repayment of the borrowed money and interest, will total $3500 annually, which on our assessment of $3,500,000 will cause an increase in the tax rate of 10 cents or in other words if you are assessed $1000.00 you would pay $100 a year more in taxes. From a purely business point of view I can show you many advantages to the Town of Digby. The annual expenditure on schools in Digby is $167,000, of which the taxpayers of Digby contributed this year less than $30,000. There are 55 persons employed by the schools, including teachers, bus drivers and maintenance staff, practically all living and spending their money in the Town of Digby. Many of these are also taxpayers. This alone adds greatly to the economic welfare of the Town. Do you know that wholesale purchases in the Town by the school amounts to or averages $3000.00 per year? That retail purchases approximate $1,500.00 yearly? Dairy produce another $1000.00 a year? Fuel, oil, and light each approximately $1200.00 a year? These are definite, tangible things and will be increased if this resolution is endorsed and the proposed extension is built.

On the other hand, if the resolution is rejected, the Municipal School Board will be forced to build outside of Town additional facilities for the students we cannot accommodate. The overcrowding would be corrected by the Town withdrawing 30 students and the Municipality 170. This would mean that next year the Grade VII class in the Town would remain in the Intermediate School system and could not enjoy the benefits of the Region High School while the Grade VII students in the Municipality would. As overcrowding became evident our Grade VIII would suffer the same fate. "Yes", you may say, "So what, we will save money and pay less taxes." That, my friends, is where you will be wrong. You will pay more taxes and receive less. How? Let me explain. At present the division of costs is in direct ratio to the number of pupils from the Town and Municipality and is in proportion of 28% to 72%. If the above exodus of Municipal students takes place, we will be faced with a division of costs of 40% to 60% and this change in percentages will mean an additional cost to the taxpayers of the town of Digby of $7,500.00 a year or $4000.00 more than the proposed extension. So, you see, it boils down to a question of voting in favour of this resolution and paying a slight increase in taxes or voting against the resolution and paying more.

Since I came to Digby 24 years ago, I have heard much talk to the effect that the "Town of Digby" has done nothing to encourage industry and in fact it has been suggested that they have actually discouraged it. Well, here is an industry which we have built up until it is one of the largest in Town and now we propose to enlarge it.

All the other parties involved have decided in favour of the extension. Now it is up to you—The Ratepayers of the Town of Digby.

John R. McCreave.

OUR FLAG

The Editor:
Our Flag and Citizenship seem to be a forgotten aspect. During a trip to Yarmouth from Digby we passed at least 40 flag poles with a French flag and only two which had a Red Ensign.

We are proud in Nova Scotia to be the owners of a Red Ensign and a Nova Scotian Flag, but for some reason our children do not seem to be acquainted with the fact and made to honor them.

Perhaps few know that the Royal Navy has had the task of having a foreign flag lowered and either left blank or have a Red Ensign.

Furthermore, a few years ago a gentleman of Pictou had an American flag hoisted whilst one of our Cruisers was passing. The Captain sent ashore an officer who had this lowered, then the following day a Red Ensign was hoisted in its place. Now this means a lot to us here, for if we remember—
"O Canada, We Stand on Guard for Thee"

Surely that is enough for all. At this point let me try and explain our Jack. First we have the sun shining through the three crosses of Christianity, this in turn shines all over the world.

Now to further explain how to fly a flag, by this I am hoping that all our schools, etc. would try and copy same.

A legend is necessary, so let us say Red, our ensign: Pro. for Provincial, and U.N., the United Nations, excepting Communist countries. This will also stand for clubs, churches, Sunday Schools, house flags, etc. These are called dress flags.

1. To start off a pole or mast shall fly at the top a Red or Pro. and underneath any of the above.

2. That if one wishes to have a separate flag, say of their original country, it can be flown by erecting two poles, and facing the road, the right hand is the Red and left the U.N. and at NO TIME shall a flag be flown above the Ensign.

To explain a little further I will describe each mast.
First: A single pole—Red or Pro. then U.N.
Second: Two single poles—Red on the right, then the U.N. on the left.

Third: A mast with a gaff—Any U.N. or Pro. at the masthead, Red on the gaff.

Am hoping that those who read this will try and explain it to the children.

And suppose you try and rig up a string with a flag or rag and put it up and down slowly about three times just to represent our flag, at the same time hum to yourself "O Canada." Just try this for a week and see how you feel towards our flag.

Believe me it hurts when I see how indifferent people are to the fact that "we have a free people."

It is so little but means so much. Now just one thing more, try and remember those who have gone overseas for that little "bit" thing and you their countrymen and women and be proud for evermore.

Let us all try and remember we are all Loyalists and Royalists to Canada for ever.
Yours sincerely,
RUFUS R. CONNOR.

Nurses Get

Large Bear

Two nurses of the staff of Russell Hospital, Brewer, Me., were successful in bagging a bear weighing over four hundred pounds.

The two young ladies, Mrs. Charlotte Nygren, R.N., daughter of Rev. Mr. Young, Parker's Cove, and Miss Clarice Edwards, R.N., were at the time spending a few days in Florenceville, N.B., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gladwyn Young.

The bear, which was taken to the Russell Hospital, attracted the attention of school children and adults, along the way from Florenceville to Brewer.

Mrs. Nygren wrote her father that both the nurses feel they are accomplished hunters.

Visitors Registered

Six thousand, eight hundred and thirty-three visitors had registered at the Information Bureau in Digby when the season came to a close on October 15th.

Thought to be due to lack of boat facilities both in the Yarmouth area and by the suspension of the Saint John-Digby boat because of the strike, the number of cars and visitors into Digby decreased from the previous year. Two thousand, four hundred and thirteen cars were given maps and folders and touring aids through the province.

The display of handcraft was greatly admired by the many tourists who appreciated information leading to its purchase.

According to information released from the Digby Bureau, the travelling public is becoming more and more dependent on the Information Bureau.

The tourists express their appreciation of the roadside tables but are continually asking for local camping facilities in the towns.

MARRIAGE

Howitt — Webber
A double ring double wedding was solemnized in St. Simons' Anglican Church, Lachute, Que., on Saturday, Oct. 29, between Mary Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Clifton, Fort McLeod, Alberta, and Brian Malcolm, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hewitt, Lachute, Que., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. The brides were attended by three junior bridesmaids, Rosalind Dorney, Janice and Judith Scott.

Mrs. Brian Hewitt wore an olive green suit trimmed with brown and brown accessories for travelling, while Mrs. Bruce Hewitt wore a suit in mushroom brown with matching hat, alligator accessories and mushroom fur jacket.

OBITUARIES

Miss Edith Letteney
There passed away, after a short illness, at the Digby General Hospital, on Saturday, November 5, Miss Edith Letteney, life-long resident of Digby. Miss Letteney, who this month would have reached 74 years, was born in Digby a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Letteney. Miss Letteney, one of sterling character able to rise above handicaps, devoted much of her life to doing good for others and serving in her church. For more than 40 years she taught the primary class at the Sunday School of Grace United Church of which she was a staunch member. She was a life member of the Women's Missionary Society of that church and took an active part in other organizations at Grace United.

Left to mourn are her sister, Miss Mary Letteney, R.N., Superintendent at the Digby General Hospital; four nieces and one nephew, Miss Letteney was predeceased in January of this year by a sister, Mrs. A. B. Higgins, wife of Rev. Dr. A. B. Higgins, Middleton, and a step-brother, the late Joseph Milbury, Digby.

Funeral services were held from Grace United Church on Tuesday with the Rev. James Brooks, pastor of the church, officiating. Interment was in Fairview cemetery.

of the individual. Drinking drivers", he said, "are a menace; they are potential killers."

"The attitude of such people", he said, "will only be changed when they realize the danger and recoil from it. Then the problem will be overcome."

"And", the speaker added, "the most fertile ground to develop this attitude is among the young people."

Opposition was expressed at the Grand Division sessions to the opening of more taverns in the province, stressing that experience had shown greater consumption of liquor follows an increased outlet for sale.

Members heard the report of the executive committee which dealt extensively with the various phases of temperance education. The film library was reported to be in steady circulation and literature, pledge cards, blotters and posters were reported widely used.

Essay writing in public and high schools has been actively continued, the meeting was told, with King's county leading in the number of contestants. Substantial prizes are awarded the winners of the various classes.

The evening came to a close with pumpkin pie and ice cream. Proceeds from the pie and ice cream amounted to approximately $10.00.

CARS ARE MY LINE

by Ken Hankinson
The fact that highway speed laws aren't really set by any scientific study of safety, but just seem to be numbers pulled from a hat becomes especially apparent when you drive through the U. S. You may cross two or three states in a day and find the speed limit jumping up and down between 50, 55 and 60.

The American Automobile Association recently proposed a new method for setting highway speed limits. The idea is to let motorists themselves decide what a safe speed is.

It's done, like so many things these days, with radar. The AAA has found that a safe speed is usually the speed travelled by 85 percent of drivers on any particular road. So the AAA has asked that state-wide or province-wide speed laws, many of them unrealistically low, be abolished in favor of the speed that radar devices show is the usual speed of 85 percent of motorists.

Figures I noticed recently showed that, contrary to what I always believed, most highway accidents don't happen at high speeds. A study in Nebraska established that 73 percent of all accidents occurred at less than 30 miles an hour. When speed limits were raised in Nebraska accidents were reduced and the average speed of the cars on the highway didn't change at all which only went to prove drivers were ignoring old speed limits anyway and driving at what they thought was a safe speed.

You just have to conclude that most drivers are ordinary people with good horse sense. We think so, so we have built our good name in the used car business by giving year-in, year-out value and satisfaction. Our best advertisement is the number of people who've come back time after time to buy cars from us.

Memorial Service At North Range

On Sunday last a good company of people gathered at the North Range United Church to join in a Memorial Service. This service, which is becoming an annual event, is designed to keep fresh the memory of those who sacrificed and laboured to further the Kingdom of God in that area. This church was formerly a Methodist Church and went into the United Church of Canada with Union in 1925. When the Weymouth and Digby Neck circuits were amalgamated the North Range was closed and since then the area has been spiritually served by the Baptist Church, whose minister lives at Barton.

The service began at 3.00 p.m. and was conducted by the Baptist minister, Rev. R. R. Winchester, M.A., who welcomed the visitors and the choir. The sermon, based on the text "Some there be that have no memorial," was preached by the United Church minister, Rev. Wm. Armistage, who said that although perhaps no great man had been reared at North Range, yet the seeds sown by some of the pioneers were still bearing fruit in various parts of Central and Western Canada.

Although North Range Church was closed, yet it was like the setting sun, whilst ending activity here, was awakening "our brethren" in the western sky and that in the north and west, new areas and new churches were being opened, so that the Work of God was not going backwards but forwards.

The combined choirs of the Barton Baptist and United churches sang the anthem "The Name of Jesus;" and a duet, "Give of Your Best to the Master," was sung by Mrs. Lloyd Grant and Rev. Wm. Armistage. Mrs. Joseph Specht was the organist.

The whole service enjoyed a warmth and friendliness; many associations were remembered, and it was felt by all that the service had accomplished the purposes for which it had been arranged. It is planned to hold a similar service in June next year.

The report of the Nominating Committee was presented to the meeting: Executive Pres., Mr. Ralph Pierce, Bear River East. 1st Vice-Pres., Mrs. Eric Williams, Clementsfort. 2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. Parker Long, Clementsvalle. 3rd Vice-Pres., Robert Mason, Springfield.

Pub. Com., Miss Anna MacLean, E. Margaretsville. Health Nurse, Miss E. Pugsley. Arts Convenor, Mrs. Hilda FitzRandolph, Bridgetown. Two fine vocal selections were then given by the pupils of Mr. Alden Walker, accompanied by Mrs. Walter Lent — "The 42nd Psalm," and "Spin, Maiden, Spin."

Inspector Edwards spoke in appreciation of the efforts of the Oakdene pupils in the Home and School Association. He paid high tribute to the outstanding work of Mrs. Jean Pell and of Mr. Robert Swim, Regional Vice-President.

The guest speaker of the evening, Prof. Ronald MacDonald, of Acadia University, was introduced by Oakdene principal, Mr. Alden Walker. Prof. MacDonald is a native of Cape Breton and recently took his Doctor's degree at London University, England. He teaches English and education at Acadia and took as his subject "Where Are The Schools Going?"

Education is a real business as well as a key industry, involving over four hundred million dollars a year and twenty per cent of our population, and as in a business, periodic statements should be given — mass production is not the goal of education — but education depends on the state of human standards. The old idea was to learn to do by doing. One great question at present is "Should the school offer purely academic courses or those which prepare one for practical life?"

Out of a total enrollment of 98,000, only 28,000 enter Junior High, and only 10,000 enter Senior High — a terrific drop. The first function of the school is mainly to develop character — and Democracy depends upon it. The three "R's" should be taught with one more added — Relationships. There are two obstacles in the way: (1.) Regimentation, and (2.) Unrealism — a positive program is needed. The second function is mutual relationship with the community it serves, and here the Home and School can form a strong link.

Three types of school exist: (1.) Academic schools — book centred; (2.) Progressive schools — child centred; (3.) Community schools — life centred.

We must try to have our schools produce pupils who will become citizens aware of life and its problems — and able to cope with them.

An interesting discussion period followed Dr. MacDonald's address, then a vote of thanks was presented to the meeting by Mrs. Laurie Thompson, Cor. Sec'y. of the Council.

His Lordship established the different degrees of fault as follows: The defendant, Gaudet, 25 percent; the plaintiff, Belliveau, 75 percent. The plaintiff suffered injuries to his right leg and chest which kept him in hospital for a considerable time. Evidence had shown that the plaintiff and a passenger in his car had consumed a bottle of wine sometime before the accident, and that the plaintiff was driving at a speed which contributed to the cause of the collision.

His Lordship fixed the plaintiff's total and special damage at $7,500, and he would be entitled to recover 25 per cent of that amount together with 50 per cent of his costs. The 25 per cent assessed against the defendant amounts to $1875.

VOLUME LXXXII, No. 11

RATEPAYERS' MEETING TONIGHT

Judging from conversations of the past few days in the town districts the ratepayers' meeting called for tonight promises to be well attended and teeming with pertinent points of discussion.

The meeting which is to be held at the Court House is called for the purpose of getting approval for the proposed borrowing by the Town of Digby for the purpose of erecting, furnishing or equipping a building for a public school and acquiring or purchasing land for such building.

Those who are nearest to the problem, the School Board and School Supervisor, have issued circulars bearing information for the benefit of ratepayers.

From the information released, it is noted that the Regional High School here is now over-crowded by a surplus of 180 students over the capacity enrollment of 325. There seems to exist a classroom shortage of 6. To overcome the difficulty temporarily, the library, science lab. and project room have been converted into classrooms, it is learned.

It is proposed to add 9 classrooms, one Home Economics, one Industrial Arts, one Commerce, lunch room facilities and new administration area.

The estimated cost for the proposed extension or additional facilities is $150,000, according to reports released by the Board. Of this the town will share 25% and the municipality 75%, or $40,000 and $110,000 respectively. The government will support the town, it is understood, by 36%, or $14,400, and the municipality by 74%, or $81,400, making the actual cost to the town $25,600 and municipality $28,600.

The increase in the tax rate to provide the above, along with operation and maintenance costs, is estimated at .10c per $100 assessment. On $100 assessment the tax increase in .10c per year, on $1,000 assessment the increase is $1.00 per year, on $10,000 the increase is $10.00 a year.

Advantages to the town in the extension program and the alternative, are set forth in the information based as follows:—

(a) Municipality and Government spend $100,000 a year in Digby for the education of Municipal students.

(b) Nearly 700 area students are in our school requiring 20 additional teachers who live in town, spend in our stores, rent our apartments, and support our churches, and welfare organizations. The cost of this service to Town — not one red cent.

(c) The Municipality maintains a school garage in the Town and employs 14 bus drivers who also support their families in the Digby Area. If plan is approved additional buses and maintenance staff will be needed. This service costs the town nothing.

(d) Over 55 persons are now employed in our schools, including teachers, bus drivers and maintenance staff.

(e) Annual expenditure on schools $157,000, of which Town taxpayers in 1955 will contribute less than $30,000.

(f) Municipal authorities have favoured extension of Regional High School facilities in the Town with division of costs on 25% for Town and 75% for Municipality, meaning an increase of over $28,000 capital expenditure for the Municipality.

(g) Present Town enrolments prove conclusively that if addition to the Regional High School is not built in 1956 the town will, before 1960, be faced with a school building program without any assistance from Municipality.

Alternatives:

Should ratepayers reject borrowing proposal then:

1. The overcrowding in Regional High School will be corrected through the Town with drawing 30 students and the Municipality 170 students.

2. The Town's 1956-57 grade VII could be located in the new intermediate school and the following year the grade VIII could also be withdrawn. These groups would be denied all Regional High School privileges.

3. Allowing for increase in lower grades by 1958, all classroom space available to Town groups would be taken up and further increases would require a building program, certainly prior to 1960.

4. The Municipality would have to provide classroom space for some 200 students outside Town limits. The decision of Digby ratepayers must be known to Municipal Council prior to December 1st in order that they may plan building program.

5. A rural high school outside Town limits will compete with present Regional High School for staff personnel. Cheaper living and comparative salaries will be deciding factors.

6. The effect of transferring area students back to Municipality will up set present division of costs so Town will pay an additional $7,500 each year for support of school. Cost of proposed expansion program $3,500.

The proposed plan would provide additional classroom space for some 200 students. The Municipal School Board has fixed area to be served by the regional school so that there will be no further additions after 1956. The Board is satisfied that their present proposal is adequate, barring a sudden influx in population. Should that occur increased assessments will provide for added costs. The Board is also satisfied that the proposal is sound and will prove advantageous to the Town of Digby and for these reasons it is endorsed by the Digby Board of School Commissioners as representing Board policy.

Armed Forces Senior Hockey At Cornwallis

The "Cornwallis" Arena, Friday, November 18th, will be the scene of what promises to be a bang up night of hockey, color and ceremony. It's the opening night of the new "Cornwallis" Arena. The entire seating area has been freshly painted in bright colors and with the beautiful ice surface, excellent lighting, it is bound to take its place among the finest in the Maritime provinces.

There are to be several high ranking officers from both the Air Command Headquarters and "Cornwallis", as well as dignitaries from the neighbouring towns on hand for the official opening ceremonies, the first being dropped by Captain M. G. Stirling, RCN.

The "Cornwallis" Cougar Hockey Club is slated to meet the Air Command team in the Cougars first real game of the season. The game has all the prospects of a thrilling hockey match as from all reports the Air Force has a large aggregation of good players in their club. The Cougars held an inter-club game on Thursday night with the Blacks pitted against the Whites, the game produced some fine hockey. Both teams were playing smart hockey with the forwards skating hard both ways, the checking was close and Johnson, who is guarding the goal for the Cougars this season, did an exceptionally fine job of net tending. The Cougars have built their team around a few players who were with the club in previous seasons, MacAfee, MacGregor, Condon, Parker and Johnson, who have played with the team before and are proving to be the backbone of the club. Also there is a long list of better than average newcomers who are working with the repeats. The coach, Lt. (Dusty) Rhodes, and team manager, Lt. W. (Bill) Raire, are more than pleased with what their team can produce.

A capacity crowd is expected to be on hand for the game, which is certain to be exciting as the Air Force and the Navy are rivals from way back.

Damages Car

Word was received here that Mrs. Helen Anthony was involved in a car accident at Grand Falls, New Brunswick, on Tuesday enroute from Toronto. Mrs. Anthony, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Louise Stephen, was returning from Toronto where they had visited during the past week. Nothing definite was learned as to the cause of the accident except that the roads were in a slippery condition. The car was badly damaged but the occupants were uninjured.

To Ease Congestion In Granville And Annapolis Schools

A large number of ratepayers of Granville Ferry School met in the school house recently for an important school meeting. Mr. C. E. Edwards, Inspector of Schools for Annapolis County, was present and conducted the meeting. Mr. Edwards has been holding similar meetings during the past two weeks when he visited some twenty rural schools in Annapolis County.

Mr. J. V. Payn was chairman of the meeting and Mr. K. E. Green secretary. The trustees of the Granville Ferry School Board, namely, Basil V. Saunders, Stewart Condon and Ronald S. Melsner, were present and the topic under discussion was the exceptionally large enrollment of scholars registered at Granville Ferry school at the present time and how best to cope with the situation.

There are 44 pupils registered at the present time. This includes grades 1 to 4 inclusive, but as R. S. Melsner pointed out the number fluctuates from time to time. The main reason for this is the moving in and out of Navy families in the community. For instance, at the end of this quarter there may be 44 pupils registered, and at the end of the next quarter there may be only 40 or 38.

Granville Ferry School was formerly a two department school. Several years ago the advanced department was closed and the older children have since attended Annapolis Royal Academy.

Inspector Edwards sought expressions of opinion on the matter under discussion and pointed out that 44 pupils were far too many for one teacher to govern, no matter how efficient she may be. The teacher at the present time is Mrs. Marion Mills, of Granville Centre.

Mr. Edwards said there were two alternatives to ease the situation: (a) the advisability of re-opening the advanced department of the school, hiring another teacher and bringing back grades 5 and 6 from Annapolis Royal and putting grade 4 in the advanced department, or (b) taking grade 4 from Granville Ferry school and sending them to Annapolis Royal.

Mr. J. C. Pohinson, Principal of Annapolis Royal Academy, was present at the meeting and in a short address he told of the congestion existing at the Academy at the present time, the school building having been built to accommodate 300 pupils and is now housing 565 pupils. Plans are being made for an expansion to the academy and Mr. Johnson said when this has been accomplished the Annapolis Royal School Board would be in a position to take in more children from the Rural Districts and would be pleased to do so.

Following considerable discussion a motion was made by Mrs. Basil Saunders, secretary of the Granville Ferry Board of Trustees, for the adoption of alternative (b) providing the same high enrollment of pupils continues at Granville Ferry School. This would send grade 4 pupils to Annapolis Royal Academy when accommodation is available for the children there. This motion was carried and the meeting brought to a close.

Post-Nuptial Shower

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lescaudron (Violet Titus, of Centreville, Digby Co.) who were married recently, were tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Mills Granville Ferry, on Thursday evening of last week. A large number of friends were present to welcome the bride to Granville Ferry and to present the newly weds with many lovely and useful gifts.

The bride was assisted in opening the gifts by Mrs. Ron. Melsner and Mrs. Maurice Mills. A jolly sing-song followed, which was much enjoyed.

Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the evening by the committee in charge, which brought to an end a very pleasant evening.

Civic nominations close Nov. 22.

Bear River Takes First Place In Donations

Bear River, with forty donors, headed the list of donations at the Blood Donor Clinic, held here at the Court House last Wednesday. Digby had forty donors, at which J. Brittain, chairman, expressed keen disappointment when viewed for the size of the town and in comparison with the representation from other towns and villages. He felt a great need of education in the purpose and importance of the blood bank at the Digby General Hospital was necessary to make the people appreciative of the service.

Chairman for the Bear River district was B. R. McCarthy, thirty-three, under the chairmanship of Eugene Outhouse, were present from Long and Brier Islands, 18 of whom were from the village of Freeport. Mr. Brittain attributed the success of the Islands turnout both to Mr. Outhouse and the educational efforts of Dr. J. C. MacDonald, Freeport. Chairman of the Weymouth district was Carman Marshall, who had 12 donors present at the Digby Clinic. In all there were 140 donors, a considerable decrease from the previous clinics.

Assisting at the clinic were the following nurses:

Mrs. D. G. Black, Mrs. Sidney Smith, Mrs. Paul Snow, Mrs. Arthur Bremner, Mrs. C. Bremner.

Others who volunteered their services were Mrs. H. M. Warne, Mrs. B. H. Ruggles, Mrs. Edgar Handsaker, Mrs. J. J. Brittain, Mrs. G. R. Weir, Mrs. Sidney Hall, Mrs. Don Franklin, Mrs. George Winfield, Mrs. Kenneth Beckwith, Mrs. Allen Stark, Mrs. Ralph Wright, Mrs. Grace Hicks, Mrs. Comeau, Miss Daisy McKinnon, Miss Louise Daley, Miss Isabel Williams, Miss Frieda Verburgh, Miss Jane Purdy, Miss Josephine Morrell, Mrs. T. A. Sabean, Mrs. Raymond Lent, Mrs. Ralph Berwick, Dr. T. W. Hodgson, Delbert Forrest, Don Titus, Glen Milbury and Douglas Wright.

Spring Flowers & Fruit vs. Snow at Deep Brook

Mrs. Aubrey young picked buttercups on her lawn on Thursday, November; Donald Jefferson picked daisies while working at Cornwallis, and Russell Henshaw picked another pint of raspberries at Waldeck on the same day.

The snowstorm on the following day was quite a contrast.

Youth Centre For Weymouth?

For the past month or so a number of the citizens of this town have been meeting to discuss the possibility of forming a Youth Centre to serve the teenagers of the area. The need for an organization that will serve the youngsters is very apparent and it is hoped that before too long something practical will emerge from these discussions.

The present discussions originated at a meeting of the ministers of the village and from there it was decided to ask three members from each church to become a committee to discuss the whole question, to make plans for programmes, place of meeting, leaders and instructors, etc. There have been three meetings so far and much preparatory work has been done, however, there is a great deal of planning and arranging to be done yet, in order that the centre might become a reality.

One of the difficulties faced is that of finding volunteers to act as leaders and instructors; it is hoped that a scout troop will again function as part of the Centre; first aid, painting, dramatics, folkwork, woodwork are also being considered as possible projects, but teachers of these subjects are required. Another difficulty is that of suitable premises; if it were possible to have use of the scout hall and if it could be made watertight and warm for the winter it would be ideal but it would take labour and money to put it in good enough condition to house a project as all-embracing as that of a Youth Centre.

As soon as the committee has made sufficient progress in the matter, a meeting of all the citizens of the village will be called, at this meeting the whole project will be laid before the public, the plans and difficulties will be discussed; finances will play a large part in determining how much can be done this winter and how soon we will be able to open. There are several films available showing what has been done in other districts, and from a showing of one of these films, the ideas which appeal to the people of Weymouth will be discussed.

Saturday night would be an important feature of the Centre, and plans are being made to provide a happy and entertaining programme for that night of the week. Folk dancing and its instruction is one of the suggestions for this night, together with organized games and parties and films.

The success of a venture of this nature depends ultimately upon the interest and support of the community, the 'community' means you who are reading this news item (if you live in or near Weymouth). As has already been stated, leaders and teachers are needed, volunteers (Please turn to page 5)

To See Art Exhibit

Kelsey, Raymond, of Smith's Cove, will be guest speaker at the Digby Kiwanis Club this evening and will have on display some of his paintings depicting scenes in Digby County and throughout the province of Nova Scotia, in which he will tell of his experiences in quest of subjects for painting. The program for tonight has been arranged by Dr. Alex. Leighton.

Guest speaker last week was Baden Powell, Industrial Science and Dramatics teacher at the Digby Regional High School. Mr. Powell gave a descriptive account of characters used in the plays of which he is the author and the incidents which brought the characters to mind. Assisting Mr. Powell in the dramatizations were Miss Jean Snow and Ruth Murley. Others to represent the characters of his plays were drawn from the Kiwanians and provided an immense amount of hilarity for the small audience. Mr. Powell also talked on dramatics in general.

Kiwanians were reminded of their civic duty to urge citizens to be on hand for the ratepayers' meeting tonight and of their duty to be interested in civic affairs. Two Kiwanis objectives for 1955 which are significant in Digby at present are to help to make our school the finest possible training grounds for responsible citizenship and to elect, support and recognize worthy public officials.

Edgar Chan was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Kiwanis Club.

Fill Club Vacancies

At the semi-annual meeting of the Digby Curling Club this week Dr. D. G. Black was elected 1st vice-president; Aubrey Hawkins, 2nd vice-president; Kenneth Beckwith, secretary; and Robert Bairn, treasurer. The elections resulted because of vacancies created by the moving from Digby of Fred Cookson, Gerald Hayden and William Blunden.

The meeting was presided over by James Richards, president. It was decided to open the curling rink the first week in December. According to the enthusiasm shown both at the meeting and in outside circles anticipation is high for a greater membership or at least fully equal to that of last year.

BIRTHDAY PARTY HELD

A birthday party in honor of Miss Marjorie Graham, Westport, was held Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Garron with twelve attending. Games were played and delicious refreshments served including a birthday cake. Miss Graham received many nice gifts.

Civic nominations close Nov. 22.

Delegation to Halifax Re Ferry Strike

A delegation, chaired by A. L. Robinson, vice-president of the Digby Board of Trade, is leaving today, it is understood, to meet with Premier Henry D. Hicks and the Hon. Robert Winters L. respect to the tie-up of the Princess Helene. Others on the delegation are H. M. Warne, E. J. Theriault, V. G. Cardoza, M.L.A., James Richards, and J. J. Brittain.

Plans were made for the meeting with the two government officials after news reached Digby on Tuesday night that negotiations at Ottawa on Monday and Tuesday had failed to bring any solution to the dispute between the C. P. R. and Seafarers' International Union, which has tied up the "Helene" since September 30.

Labor Minister Gregg in Ottawa with heads of the disputing parties, said that he had no further proposals to make at the present time.

M. M. Maclean, federal director of industrial relations, who sat in on the latest negotiations, indicated a major stumbling block was the union's refusal to recede from its original wage demand.

"We found it impossible to get the union to move away from its fixed position," he said. "The company in this case made considerable advance towards trying to get a settlement, but in view of the fact the union held to a fixed position, it was impossible to make any progress."

Head negotiators for the disputants were H. C. Banks, of Montreal, SIU Canadian director, and D. I. McNeill, of Montreal, CPR vice-president of personnel.

District Sunday Schools Convene

Rev. R. R. Winchester, Barton, was named president when the District Sunday School Convention under the Maritime Religious Education Council met in the Smith's Cove Baptist Church on Wednesday. Rev. Mr. Winchester succeeds Rev. Frank Miller, Deep Brook. First vice-president elected was Rev. William Scott, Bear River, and Keith Churchill, Digby, was elected secretary-treasurer.

The worship which opened the convention in the afternoon was conducted by Miss Marilyn Campbell, Digby, retiring secretary-treasurer, who gave a short talk centered around the theme of the convention "My Father's Business." Rev. Frank Miller read the scripture.

A cordial welcome was extended by A. R. Sillis and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Miller, introduced Rev. R. A. Colpitts, of Bridgetown, who was chairman for the session in the absence of Miss Dora Sabean, secretary of the M.R.E.C.

In preparation for a panel the audience divided into groups according to Sunday School grades taught to discuss Evangelism under the headings "What is an Evangelist?" and "How does one become an Evangelist?" On the panel in the evening were Rev. E. C. Churchill, chairman, Wallace Hodgson, Mrs. Eva Wendell, Digby, Mrs. Vian Andrews, North Range, and Rev. James Brooks, Digby.

The evening service was opened by worship conducted by Smith's Cove members. A talk was given by Mrs. Ruth Walker, scripture read by Mr. Sillis and prayer by Rev. Mr. Miller. A dramatic sketch, "It Is Up to Us" (Please turn to page 8)

Has Water Color In Exhibit

St. Mary's Church at Church Point, done in water color by Capt. Paul Davidson, Smith's Cove, will be on display today when the travelling art exhibit of the Maritime Art Association will be on display in Yarmouth.

There are 29 exhibits, one third of which are from Nova Scotia and the remainder from the other Maritime Provinces. The exhibit, originally started from Saint John, New Brunswick, has been on display at various points, and comes to Yarmouth from a showing at Acadia University. It will return to Halifax for about three weeks.

Having an entry in the Maritime Travelling Art Exhibit is an honor to Mr. Davidson and to Digby locality as well. Several art enthusiasts from here will be in Yarmouth to see the exhibition today.

Picks Late Raspberries Again

It was later last year when Linda Milbury, here, picked raspberries. It was November 15. She knows, for she has the item out of the Courier in her scrap book. She wants this item for her scrap book also.

On Saturday, Linda and Joan Milbury, daughters of George Milbury, brought to the office two raspberry canes bearing leaves and nice ripe raspberries picked from their home garden. They thought they could pick about a pint of the nice fresh fruit.

Hold Impressive Remembrance Day Services

Father Louis Comeau, of St. Patrick's Church, delivered a thought provoking address at the Remembrance Day service held on Friday morning at the Digby Regional High School.

Father Comeau, in associating the two solemn days, Good Friday and Remembrance Day, pointed out similarities and contrasts in the death of Jesus Christ and those who died on the battlefields, the enemy ocean and air. In contrast, one death sufficed to free all from spiritual tyranny and slavery, but in the other freedom is purchased by many with each new generation. The price of freedom is high, he said, paid by human blood; and this thought is kept alive by observance of Remembrance Day. Freedom is life, to be nourished, defended and preserved, and we must show ourselves worthy of the responsibility and trust which freedom imposes, said the speaker.

V. G. Cardoza, M.L.A., remarked that despite the passing of time Remembrance Day all over Canada remained an impressive affair. It was a time not only those who gave their lives were remembered, but all those who gave years of service in the armed forces or who served in any capacity in the wars. He commended the Remembrance Day Service but regarded it as only a high point in a full life of Remembrance.

His Worship Mayor Guy E. Morehouse praised the Legion committee which had conducted the impressive services of Remembrance during the six years of his mayorship, and although he was about to retire from office he would offer his help in any capacity in which he was able.

B. C. John Redley, Esquimalt, now of HMCS Cornwallis, gave an informative talk on the poppy and the uses made of the Poppy Fund. He made a fitting conclusion to his remarks by quoting a poem, "Prayer of Remembrance".

The service was in charge of Melvin Nixon, who expressed his appreciation to Ralph Wright, in charge of the Poppy Fund, the children who sold poppies, and all who helped with the fund or the Remembrance observances.

Regardless of the disagreeable weather there was a good attendance for the service on Friday, which began with the ceremonial parading of colors by Ronald VanTassel, Melvin Rice, Lloyd Hicks and Lee Dugas. Following the illumination of the Altar of Remembrance there was the roll call of fallen comrades, the last post and reveille. Rufus Connor Sr. and Edward Murphy laid the poppies in memory of the fallen. Those assisting from the Legion Auxiliary were Mrs. Ralph Wright, Mrs. Seymour Denton, Mrs. Thomas Cleveland, Mrs. V. G. Cardoza, Mrs. Vernon Bent and Mrs. William Mason.

Choirs from the town churches were in attendance and sang "O God Our Help In Ages Past", under the direction of Rev. E. C. Churchill. Miss Ena Robinson presided at the piano. Rev. James Brooks gave the "Prayer of Remembrance".

Immediately after the benediction, pronounced by Rev. H. Y. MacLean, the Legion and Auxiliary paraded to the monument where wreaths were laid.

WEYMOUTH

A solemn Remembrance Day commemoration was held here on Friday when, despite rain and snow, residents of this village gathered at the War Memorial and in the Legion Hall to pay tribute to Canada's War dead by participating in the annual Remembrance Day ceremonies sponsored by Branch No. 67 of the Canadian Legion, for soldiers of two world wars and the Korean conflict.

The Legion parade was led by four Navy Patrolmen (buglers) from Cornwallis Naval Base. Standard bearers were George Langford and Ralph Jarvis.

The following wreaths were placed: Branch No. 67 of the Canadian Legion, led by Sgt. At-Arms, Philip LeBlanc. The day is soon gone, let us remember them then, at the going down of the sun and in the morning, every day; the Governor of Nova Scotia — "In Grateful Memory," the Weymouth Board of Trade — "May the sacrifice they made ever inspire us to carry on for a great cause," placed by Albert Jones; Children of Weymouth school — "A great price was paid to keep for us a free world to grow up in. We will remember," placed by Gaston Comeau; the Village of Weymouth — "Some away, some here, a prayer for you, can you hear?"

Other wreaths were placed by Larry's Market, Weymouth Industries, Weymouth Drug Store, Margolians of Weymouth, Consumers Market, Lewis Lumber Co., Weymouth Motors, Goodwin Hotel, Tuscan Masonic Lodge and Olive Branch Rebekah Lodge.

Following the two minutes silence and the sounding of Reveille the ceremonies were continued in the Legion Hall. Mjr. Glidden Campbell was master of ceremonies. The address was given by the Rev. John Carr of the Church of Christ (Disciples), with Scripture reading taken from Micah, chapter 4, by Rev. S. Whitehouse and prayer by Rev. D. Comeau and Rev. D. Trivett.

The annual Legion banquet was held in the evening at the Goodwin Hotel and was followed by a social evening spent in the newly opened Legion room, recently finished in the basement of the Legion Hall.

BAERTON

The people of Barton and Brighton paid tribute to those who died in the two wars. The memorial service was held in the Barton library, which is situated near the monument. Even though the weather was very stormy there was a goodly number present at the service.

The service was conducted by the local Baptist minister, Rev. R. R. Winchester, and was assisted by Rev. Armitage, of the United Church, and Bernard W. Manzer.

The wreath was laid by Mr. Arthur Baxter, a veteran of the Great War.

FREEPORT

A Remembrance Day service was held on Friday morning at Freeport Baptist Church conducted by Rev. George Sharpe Westport, assisted by Rev. J. W. Derby, Westport. The guest speaker was Rev. C. B. Olmstead, Little River. Remarks were given by Eugene Outhouse, Zone Commander of the Canadian Legion.

A two minutes silence was observed after which two wreaths were placed at the cenotaph by Curtis Prime and Eugene Outhouse. After the singing of the "Queen" the meeting was dismissed.

LITTLE RIVER

Armistice Day was observed at Little River at the school house, due to weather conditions. The service was conducted by Rupert K. Trask, assisted by Eldon Frost, both war veterans.

The service was opened by singing of "O Canada", led by teachers, Mrs. S. Denton, Betty Leeman, and school children. Prayer was by Rupert Trask, followed by the hymn "O God Our Help In Ages Past", psalm, read by Rupert Trask, two minutes silence, and reading by Mrs. Stanley Denton. Speeches were made by Eldon Frost and Bernie Morehouse, followed by a short talk by Rupert Trask. The service closed with the "National Anthem".

Following the service the children, led by their teachers, marched to the monument where the wreath was placed by Eldon Frost.

The service was well attended.

About This and That

Ratepayers Decide School Question Tonight

The problem confronting school authorities in Digby at present has been "hashed" and "re-hashed". It has been discussed at meetings, talked about on the streets, in the stores and in homes. Letters have appeared in the press and fact-bearing circulars have been distributed. It would seem that every angle has been investigated, and that every opportunity has been afforded to have the people well informed. Ample time and preparation, it would seem, has been given for each ratepayer, by now, to have made a definite and intelligent decision whether to vote "yes" or "no" to the following resolution to be submitted at a public ratepayers' meeting at the Court House tonight:

RESOLVED that this public meeting of the ratepayers of the Town of Digby hereby approves of the proposed borrowing by the said Town of a sum not exceeding Forty Thousand Dollars ($40,000) for the purpose of erecting, furnishing, or equipping a building for a public school and acquiring or purchasing land for such building.

But there will still be questions to ask, there will still be pros and cons left to be weighed tonight, and rightly so. That is why a ratepayers' meeting is called. School authorities and town councillors want the voice of the people. If the decision were up to councils and school boards, their stand would be made known directly and the business would be through in short order. We, however, live in a democratic town within a democratic country where the wishes of the people are respected.

The matter of borrowing for the purpose of extending school facilities is every town ratepayers' business. It is an important question. The decision tonight whether for or against will be made by the present ratepayers for themselves and future generations. It is essential then that a full representation of the people be on hand to decide so important a matter. The Courier urges its ratepayer readers to be present.

Elsewhere in this issue you will find concise information regarding the proposed school extension. If you have had no opportunity to review these facts before, we urge you to read them now, make yourself acquainted with them before the meeting tonight. With the facts and figures presented, there would appear every reason in favor of giving the go-ahead signal. You, however, might find your questions not all answered in the information given, the information probably gives rise to other problems; if so, tonight is the time to air your doubts and get further knowledge from someone competent to offer it. Tonight is the time to reason the problem out sanely, not by talk for the sake of argument or for the purpose of what might be termed entertaining; time is too precious and the need of a sound solution too important to waste hours on trivialities and unrelated chatter. A ratepayers' meeting is not a battle of wits, nor is it a childish game where one opponent tries to outdo the other with the one and only aim of winning. The matter at hand tonight is a school question, a question which involves the welfare of our youth — our boys and girls — our greatest national resource. What is necessary and best for them within the means of the town to provide it should be uppermost in the minds of the ratepayers.

Again, we urge the attendance tonight of every possible ratepayer. The town needs to know the wish of the majority of its ratepayers and not the wish of small representative groups. Then, whether the vote goes "yes" or "no", the town authorities feel satisfied it was truly the wish of the people.

Be there tonight. Decide this school question by earnest thought, sound reasoning and by sincere and, above all, courteous discussion. Then cast your conclusive vote.

Schools Across The Country

All across Canada there is a problem which isn't a problem, a paradox if you will, the case of the expanding population which grows so fast that it pushes out the walls of even new schools — almost before they are finished.

Canada is teeming with children and this is a condition which the countries of Europe have been striving to attain for years, either by means of edict, bonus or tolerance, knowing full well that in a coming generation of strong, healthy children there is a wealth that cannot be duplicated.

So this school problem, which is undoubtedly an expensive one to solve, meets this half of the 20th century as a challenge which must be met. It is difficult to persuade taxpayers to pay out more money than is absolutely necessary, yet this is the economical way to foresee and meet expansion. We have passed the day of "make do" in the educational field and we will have to recognize the fact.

In a free and democratic country one of the most important of the trusts given into the hands of its government is an adequate education to equip a child to meet the demands of living. And while it may seem expensive, it is one of the best investments in the world today — this investment in the future of our children, those marvellous healthy babies that you can see in every village and in every city — the Canadians of tomorrow. The schools are bursting at the seams and it is a good thing, because Canada can use them all to develop its riches of which they themselves are the greatest single item.

HOME & SCHOOL HAS GUEST SPEAKER

The October meeting of the Home and School was held on Monday evening at the school house, Westport, with Mrs. Charles McDormand, president, in charge. Prayer was read and roll called. Fourteen were present.

The Home & School are sponsoring a sewing class with Mrs. George Sharpe as instructor. The cod liver oil capsules are also being sponsored. Plans were made to have a pantry sale.

Guest speaker was Miss Roland, Nutritionist, who held a discussion group which was very instructive. Plans were made to invite Mr. Tom Jones, of Adult Education, to attend the November meeting. Refreshments were served.

SEE FISHERIES FILMS

Tiverton Home and School Association's November meeting was held in the I.O.O.F. Hall in order to give all the parents and children an opportunity to view three very fine films, "Scallop Fishing in Digby," "Tuna Fishing in Wedgeport," and "Fishing in Newfoundland," through the courtesy of Fisheries Officer, Herbert Cossaboom. At the business meeting which preceded the films a motion picture was carried to distribute Cod Liver Oil daily at school; the members were instructed to deliver All-Sweet boxflaps to the secretary early in the week of Nov. 28th; and a Christmas programme was planned for December to which each one is requested to bring a gift, wrapped, costing not more than 25 cents.

The Penny-farthing Philosopher

I came across an old book mark today, that I had not seen for quite a long time and on it I read the legend "The Love of Books, The Golden Key that Opens the Enchanted Door". The parchment on which it was written was old and brittle, but the sentiment and the truth of it will never age and never be destroyed.

I think it is true to say that this 'love of books' has largely been lost by the older generation and has never been found by the younger; many thrilling experiences are relegated to the bookshelves and are never shared and never discovered by modern people. It is a fact which every teacher and college professor supports, that the greatest writings are seldom read except at examination time, and then only with sufficient interest to pass the examination. Dickens, Scott, Shakespeare are all examination material and therefore are taboo outside of the study period.

Perhaps it is not fair to lament this loss of the 'love of books' without seeking to explain the reasons which have brought this about. We are all children of our generation, and this is a generation of motion; we travel here and there by car and by plane; we are out many evenings each week at this meeting and that, or else at a show; when at home we listen to the radio and now many of us tune in on television and stay up late at night to see the wrestling or the plays. There is just no time for us to sit down with a book and travel the lanes of literature and not having travelled for a long time, we have lost the desire to read and improve our minds.

It is because of this unhappy trend of modern life that the Canadian Library Association instituted a 'Young Canada Book Week' which is being held this week from the 15th to 22nd of this month. I do not know whether the Association holds out any hope at all of reclaiming the older generation back to reading, but I think it is very wise for them to concentrate upon the young, they are the readers of the future and a reading public is an informed public. The Association seeks to arouse the interest of children in books; to make adults aware of the fine range of children's books; and to show adults the need for good libraries. Every success to those who share in this task.

The writer spent a weekend in a home a few years ago, and during that weekend sought for something to read. The 'library' consisted of 66 books, all of which were contained within one cover, entitled Holy Bible! Outside of numerous copies of 'Reveille', 'Flash', etc., this was the complete range of reading material. Now I am in earnest when I say that we all ought to read the Bible frequently, it is excellent literature, written at the time of the highest point of English prose; it also contains very much of worth which helps us to live on a higher plane (I will leave the preacher to take it on from here), but as weekend reading material I would like more variety and choice. I wonder how many other homes have as little (or less) than this?

Canada has a literary tradition that is rapidly growing and expanding and this expansion can only be maintained by a growing appreciation of the value of books, on the part of the whole population. In other words we, who have a 'love of books' must do all we can to share that love and to impart it to others.

This week is a good time to begin.

Finally, I want to tell you of the way in which I acquired a love of books. I heard a man recite parts of Dickens' works for two hours without a note; he lived the parts he portrayed; the scenes lived for me. I had previously had no time for reading 'that stuff', now I began to purchase cheap editions of Dickens, I read them with a new interest, I read slowly and thoroughly, I digested every line and ENJOYED it. From Dickens, all the world of books was mine.

Now I feel that if someone will take the time to read books to younger folk, really read that is, and make the characters live and the action of the book vital, then it will not be long before the comic books are left in the drawer and good books become the everyday fare.

It is worth a try at least.

MANY DONORS FROM BEAR RIVER

As in the past Bear River should feel proud of itself in splendid role as blood donors. They again have come through with flying colours. Sixty people had pledged to donate blood but eight persons were indisposed with colds and three others were out of town, so that 49 stalwart citizens journeyed to Digby and gave their blood to a most worthy cause which slightly topped the number of blood donors from the Town of Digby.

The president of the Bear River Branch of the Red Cross Society wishes to thank all of the donors and all others who helped with their time and energy in the success of this most worthy cause. Special mention must be made of the following car owners who not only transported the donors to and from Digby but also donated their blood: Miss June Schmidt, Dr. D. Brennan, Messrs. Dave Purvis, Alister Milner, Aaron Darres, Denzel Yorke, Tommy Gates, B. R. McCarthy and Mrs. Chester Kaulback.

Children's Aid In Interesting Discussion

The monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Children's Aid Society of Annapolis was held at the Fire Hall in Middleton on November 9th, with the President, Mr. S. H. Coward, of Bridgetown, presiding.

The statement of the Auditor, covering a period of six months, was read, which showed a considerable excess of expenditures over receipts for the six months period, however, if the results of the present campaign do not fall much below last year, it was felt that the Society's budget should balance. Mr. Coward reported on the campaign results to date and the majority of the returns have now come in. It would appear that the receipts will be down considerably from last year in nearly all communities. Middleton being the exception. Middleton returns were considerably higher than last year, or at any time to date, and Mrs. Grant was congratulated on her fine efforts in organizing the campaign through the I.O.D.E.

In presenting his report, the Executive Director, Mr. Armstrong, said that one child had been made a ward of the Society since the last meeting and had been placed with relatives. He also reported that on September 1st a family of five children, who had been in an institution for six years, were reunited with the mother. The cooperation of the Municipality in supplying a home and maintenance for this family is to be commended. To date, Mr. Armstrong reported, this placement is working out successfully and he felt that it was in the best interests of the children that they should be living in more normal circumstances.

There was some discussion centred around the problem of border line neglect. Mr. Armstrong pointed out that before a child could become a ward of the parents and child must come before the courts and the charge of neglect proven conclusively. There were, he felt, quite a number of cases where children would be better cared for in foster homes, yet the neglect was not extensive enough to warrant taking the cases to court. In particular, there is one case where the parents are anxious to have their children returned to them after having had a period of foster home care. While the children in fact are receiving better care in their present foster homes than they did with their parents, yet the degree of neglect on the part of the parents was not enough to prevent them from taking the children back. It was felt that the Board members should know the situation in order to interpret to those members of the community who feel that the Society should not allow the children to be returned. There is a very great responsibility placed on the Society in making representations to a court to have children removed from their parents and this responsibility must be exercised with due care.

Mr. Coward reported that he and Mr. Armstrong had attended the annual meeting of the N.S.A.C.A.S. at Truro and he gave a very interesting account of the session held by the Board members. One problem in particular facing Boards was the matter of publicity. It was felt that the public should know the extent of the Society's work in the area. At campaign time in particular criticism has been made by contributors that the Society has not been active in their area. As a matter of fact the Society may have been very active in that area, but, due to the confidentiality of the work, the matter was not made known to the general public. It is recognized that there are difficulties in making the extent of the Society's work known to the community.

The matter of attendance at Board meetings was discussed. Generally from 25 to 50 percent of Board members were in attendance at the meeting. This situation it was felt was peculiar to nearly every organization, due to the fact that so many other demands are made on the time of the member. It was suggested that the one possible solution to this problem was to interest only those citizens in becoming Board members who would be in a position to attend a reasonable number of meetings throughout the year. It was the feeling of those present that the low attendance at Board meetings was not a reflection on the Society but was due to those reasons above set out.

The December meeting will be held at the Legion Hall, Bridgetown.

Discussed

The regular meeting of the Weymouth Home & School Association was held in the Academy on Tuesday of last week with the president, Mrs. Curtis Hankinson, in the chair. Mrs. Hankinson opened the meeting by reading the Home and School creed. This was followed by routine business.

Mrs. Wilfred Cosman and Mrs. Dan Hankinson gave interesting reports on the County Council held recently.

Rev. Wm. Armitage was guest speaker of the evening and gave a most informative and interesting talk on 'books', giving a number of readings from books on display, which he had brought from his own library. There was also a display of books from Halifax, suitable for school age children. Mr. Armitage urged that we teach our children to read good literature, not comics and cheap trash that is on the book stands today. "To teach them to love good reading, we, as parents, must also love good reading," he said, and gave the group an insight on various types of books and book clubs.

At the close of his talk, Mr. Armitage was thanked by Mrs. Edith Cromwell and L. E. Hickey.

The president then spoke of a plea in a recent issue of the Courier for educational books for Africa, and the Association decided to sponsor the sending of some out dated text books from the school. L. E. Hickey and Mrs. Curtis Hankinson were appointed to look after this. A committee of four was also appointed to arrange for the Home and School sponsored Christmas concert to be held in December.

WAV MOV!

Some farmers in the picturesque, low-lying Suffolk Broads district of England bring in the hay by water. So it was logical for a British boat builder to use lightweight aluminum to produce a 650-pound punt capable of carrying a load of hay more than six times its own weight.

In Canada aluminum is better known among farmers as a non-rusting, heat-reflecting, easily handled material for barns and roofs and silos... though of course it has many other farm uses, from milk cans to windmill blades. No hay-boats, though.

Laymen Hold Service At North Range

The mens' choir of the Little River United Baptist Church had charge of the service in North Range United Baptist Church on Sunday evening. The Christian message of song and testimony was much appreciated by a large audience which included groups from Barton and Brighton and other communities.

Following the service the members of the choir with their wives were invited to the home of Mrs. J. Vian Andrews where more singing was enjoyed. Later refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by members of the North Range choir. Rev. R. R. Winchester in his remarks of welcome to the group, pointed out the great work for good these men were doing and stated that their example was a challenge to any church with a similar group of men.

NOVA SCOTIA IN SCOTLAND

(Clipped from an English newspaper.)
Sir: Wilfred Pickles has slipped up! Joyce Barbour asked him to let her go to a Scottish dance in Scotland, but Wilfred gave her that dance ("Asking Wilfred Pickles") May 14) not in Scotland but in Canada. The esplanade at Edinburgh, where she danced her reel was declared Nova Scotia territory by Charles I in order that the barons of Nova Scotia could take legal possession of their distant lands and swear allegiance to the king on their own soil. Sorry, Wilfred, but as Robert Burns said: "The best-laid schemes 'o mice and men gang aft a-gley."

A. J. George Street, Edinburgh
"An official at the Scottish Office comments: 'It is perfectly true that the esplanade is Nova Scotia territory. It was made so in 1625 and the order was never rescinded.'"

On the last Friday of October was held the meeting of the Home and School Association of Sandy Cove. Mrs. Elmer Lewis presided and a sing-song was led by Mrs. Nelson Merritt. Spends Night In Woods

J. E. Porter, Clements, hunted for deer, too late on Saturday afternoon and had to spend the night in the woods.

Porter was hunting at Big Swamp, near Big Lake, close to the Power Dam. Soon after he had decided to call it a day he discovered that darkness had caught up on him and he was still in the deep forest. It being an especially dark, rainy night he did what he figured the sensible thing, to stay put for the night.

However, the family and friends at home could not make themselves content and a party of men from Victoria, RCMP, and others kept up a search until mid-night.

After a night's sleep Mr. Porter arrived at his home about 7:45 on Sunday morning without the aid of the searchers.

Wedding — A wedding of much interest to their many friends took place in the Bear River East Baptist Church on Thursday evening, Oct. 27, at 7.30, when Rev. Mr. Robertson, assisted by Rev. C. Y. Young, united in marriage Muriel Alice, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elsie Wiles, to Mr. Wesley Edward Reynolds, of Amherst.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, and on whose arm she entered the church, looked very lovely and doll-like in a gown of white nylon lace cut on princess lines with a short train, and featuring a net yoke closed with tiny jeweled buttons to the waist in back. The long sleeves ended in points over the wrists, the shoulder length veil fell from a pleated net halo. Her shower bouquet was of pink and white baby mums and the only ornaments were necklace and earrings of sterling set with amethyst, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Clifford Brown, matron of honour, was charming in mauve colored nylon net dress and matching tiara and carrying a nosegay of mauve and white carnations.

Clifford Brown supported the groom. Bob Wright and Clyde Wiles were ushers.

During the signing of the register Bob Wright sang "I Love You Truly."

Both the bride's and the groom's mothers were dressed in blue with matching accessories — a corsage of pink and white carnations.

After the double ring ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for one hundred relatives and friends. A delightful repast was enjoyed and both Mr. Robertson and Mr. Young toasted

The gifts were numerous and varied. After honeymooning for a month through the province the happy couple will reside in Wolfville. Sgt. Reynolds has recently returned from his tour of duty in Korea and will be stationed at Camp Aldershot, Kentville, where he will be an instructor.

CARS ARE MY LIFE

by Ken Hankinson

Have you ever wondered who makes up those stories that flash around the club or at work. Since one delightful yarn

I heard recently concerned cars, I hunted back to its source. Here is the story and, as far as I know, the way it started.

A man in New York stalled on a busy street and while most of the motorists who were stuck behind him just blared their horns, one kind lady offered to give him a push.

It was a thoughtful gesture and he was extremely pleased. But before the lady got back in her car the stalled motorist explained that he had an automatic transmission and they would have to be going 35 miles an hour before he could start.

The lady nodded wisely and climbed into her car. Whereupon she circled the block and came racing down the street at him — plowing into his rear end at exactly 35 miles an hour.

The repair bill was $300.

The story got big play in a New York newspaper. The paper, it turned out, had lifted it from a Boston paper. And the Boston paper had borrowed it from a college paper which had run the whole thing in the first place as a gag.

Personally, I hope the story is true. It will make me think the world is a little brighter, a little funnier. If it's true. I don't need to add, of course, that if you REALLY want to know about the automatic transmissions that are on some of our used cars we have the people with the know-how to tell you how. The great advantage in buying a used car is the tremendous range of choice that you get. All kinds of colors, style, models and optional features.

Our used car lot is a good example of this, and you're always welcome to browse around.

NOVA SCOTIA THE DIGBY COURIER

NOV 28 1955 AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST AND WELFARE OF DIGBY COUNTY. VOLUME LXXXII, No. 12

Opens Business In Digby

Reigh W. Jayne, one of Nova Scotia's well known licensed embalmers, has opened a modern funeral home on Birch Street in the spacious home popularly and formerly known as "Adams Cottage".

Mr. Jayne was born at Yarmouth 34 years ago, a son of James W. Jayne and the late Estelle May Garrison, of Westport, Digby County. His father once served Digby County as a member of the Maritime Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Following his education at Yarmouth Academy Mr. Jayne entered the armed services where he served for a period of six years. On discharge from the Canadian Army he entered a recognized school for a period of one year and in 1947 entered the employ of H. C. Lindsay as manager of H. C. Lindsay's Wolville Funeral Home. He held this position until November 1st of this year when he left the employ of Mr. Lindsay to establish his funeral home here.

Mr. Jayne is married and has two daughters, Karen age 7 and Nancy age 5. His wife is the former Fayle Moss of South Ohio. Mrs. Jayne is a niece of the late Dorothy Moss who for many years taught school in the town of Digby.

While in Wolville Mr. Jayne took an active interest in community affairs. He is past president of the Wolville Rotary Club, past president of the Wolville Home & School Association, a director of the Nova Scotia Society for the Care of Crippled Children, chairman of Disaster Relief Services for the Wolville Branch Canadian Red Cross Society and has held office in other community organizations.

He was active in basketball, baseball and hockey and was organizer of the Little League Baseball in Wolville.

Break At Deep Brook

The theft of seven tires, $300 in cash and an unknown quantity of cigarettes was reported by T. R. Lowe, proprietor of Lowe's Service Station in Deep Brook, Thursday morning when he arrived at his place of business and found that the premises had been broken into.

Police officials say the break occurred between 11 p.m. Wednesday night and 7 a.m. Thursday morning.

The culprits entered the premises by smashing the glass of the front door and opening the lock from inside.

RCMP officials who were called are investigating.

A Result Of The Storm

Because of the power interruption occasioned by the severe storm which swept this area over the weekend the Courier has this week been handicapped in setting type needed for this week's issue of the paper.

Although the lights were restored in most parts of the town early on Monday, power services in the north section of Digby where the Courier office is located was not restored until late Wednesday. This meant we were unable to begin setting type for this week's paper until then.

We apologize to our readers for the fact many items had to be left out of this week's paper and that it was impossible to get the Courier "on the street" until Friday, but assure them it was made necessary by circumstances beyond our control.

Kitty On Club meets this week on Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Guy Morehouse.

Elected 2nd Vice-President

Mrs. Marion P. Gott, Smith's Cove, became the first woman to become a member of the executive of the Innkeepers Guild when she was elected 2nd Vice-President of that organization which met in annual convention in Halifax last week. Mrs. Gott is proprietress of the Hedley House about four miles from Digby.

Other officers elected were: President, George Welch, New Glasgow; First Vice-President, Dr. W. MacKenzie, Margaree Forks; Past President and Treasurer, J. R. Freestone, Sydney; Secretary, J. M. Parmenter, 80 Castle Drive, Sydney.

Donald Strong, Washington representative of the American Automobile Association, advised the Innkeepers Guild of Nova Scotia at opening sessions of their two-day annual convention here yesterday that general appearances, furnishings, cleanliness and atmosphere were decided factors considered before listing hotels in the AAA list of recommended places for tourists to stay.

Other requirements, he said, were: hotels must have 50 per cent of their rooms equipped with private baths—hotels, 100 per cent—and, they must have registration desks with a 24-hour desk service.

A. J. Moore, Halifax, a past-president of the 2,200-member Maritime Commercial Travellers Association, addressed the innkeepers and stated that the reception a traveller receives at a hotel, and cleanliness of accommodations were major factors in determining whether or not the traveller returned to that hotel a second time. He referred to the travellers as "the backbone of the hotel industry in this province."

Innkeepers' president Freestone said in his president's report that this had been a good year for some innkeepers, and a bad one for others. He said the strike-bound Saint John to Digby ferry service had reduced business tremendously in the whole of Nova Scotia.

The meeting was a day of many sessions. Members of the Innkeepers Guild of Nova Scotia went on record suggesting an amendment to the Innkeepers Act to prevent establishments from catering to transient guests without a licence.

Stating that the tourist industry is Nova Scotia's second largest industry, members again made reference to present liquor laws. "Nova Scotia is the only major tourist area that does not have cocktail lounge privileges. Without that privilege, they said, the industry cannot provide first class food or accommodation."

Find Students Leave School Early

The record of the District of Clare is not up to par, it was learned at the monthly meeting of Church Point Home & School Association.

Mrs. Louis J. Thibodeau presided at the session which heard Warden Albert P. Melanson outline plans for construction of a rural high school in Clare in 1956.

It was felt that with a high school in the district, consolidation of other existing school districts may be undertaken to create a better school system.

Too many small schools now exist, it was pointed out, where suitable teachers cannot be obtained and in some cases permissive licences had to be granted.

It was shown that out of 200 pupils who commence each year to attend school only five reached grade 12 in 1955. Figures for the 1954-55 school term showed that after grade 7 the number of pupils enrolling has been falling off at an alarming rate in this district. And the trend appeared to be continuing into the current term, the meeting was told.

Hon. H. D. Hicks Proclaims S-D Day

Proclamation by Hon. Henry D. Hicks, Premier of Nova Scotia, (quote) "In proclaiming the observance throughout Nova Scotia of Safe Driving Day on Thursday, December 1, I would emphasize two aspects of the drive against traffic accidents, first, my belief that the solution lies in mass action by every citizen, second, the conviction that traffic accidents can best be prevented by organized effort in the local community. Certainly we in this province are acutely aware of the fact that the place to attack the traffic safety problem is in the community and that the responsibility rests upon each one of us as individuals."

"Last May delegates from this province were present in Ottawa when the Canadian Highway Safety Conference was first formed and pledged their wholehearted support to a program aimed at reducing highway accidents in this country. As the first major project in this program, S-D Day is our first opportunity of translating our pledge of support into action. It is my fervent wish that every community, through every local organization which can be of assistance, will co-operate in making S-D Day free of accidents in Nova Scotia."

"To co-ordinate this province wide program I have appointed the Hon. A. W. MacKenzie, Minister of Highways, to act as provincial director. I feel confident that you, whether motorist or pedestrian, will give him your complete support in helping to make S-D Day an outstanding success in this province."

"Just how serious is the traffic accident problem in Nova Scotia at this time? Last year 157 people were killed and another 2,551 were injured. The tragedy of this situation lies in the fact that the vast majority of these accidents could have been prevented."

"S-D Day will demonstrate that traffic accidents can be materially reduced when each pedestrian and motorist accepts full personal responsibility for observing the letter and spirit of all traffic regulations. In short, every citizen is being asked to walk and drive with care, courtesy and common sense. The goal of S-D Day is that every community should be accident free for the 24-hour period of December 1. But, we must remember that no sizeable permanent accident reduction may be attained by a one-day effort. The attitudes and practices fostered in preparation for S-D Day should carry over into future performance with the ultimate aim of making every day a Safe Driving Day."

Kiwanians Hear Local Artist

Oil paintings depicting various moods of scenery on land and water were displayed by Kelsey Raymond, Smith's Cove, as a background for a talk at the Digby Kiwanis Club held at Chan's Coffee Shop on Thursday. The pictures were of scenes in Digby, Centreville, Smith's Cove, Broad Cove and Partridge Island.

Mr. Raymond said he had travelled most of Nova Scotia but had found nowhere the favorable subjects for painting as in Digby County. He had painted scenes from along the coast line of practically every nook from Parker's Cove to Tiverton, sometimes travelling by boat and at times walking.

The question and answer method was used chiefly by Mr. Raymond in informing the Kiwanians on points of interest in the field of art. He explained the merits and demerits of palette knife painting as against brush and the pastels vs. oils. As a best seller subject, Mr. Raymond found marine scenes in the lead.

Mr. Raymond received his art education in New York City and at Mount Allison University, Sackville, N. B. He is at present teaching art classes in Bear River and Annapolis Royal. His natural liking and flare for art influenced him to make art his profession. The speaker was introduced by Dr. Alex. Leighton and thanked by H. C. Morton.

James Ayer introduced the subject of the term of the Digby Psychiatric Clinic, under the present set-up about to expire and that there was possibility of its removal from the area. The Kiwanians went on record as being in favor of retaining the clinic in Digby and drew up a resolution to that effect to be presented to the Minister of Health.

FURTHER ACTION ON SHIP TIE-UP PLANNED

Plans for further action in efforts to bring an end to the labour dispute, which has tied up the Saint John to Digby ferry service since September 30th and crippled the economy of the whole of western Nova Scotia, were made at a special meeting of the Digby Board of Trade here Tuesday evening.

It was decided at the meeting to appoint a Trade Board committee to meet with officials of the Digby local of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks to draft an appeal through the top officials of the Brotherhood to the Seafarers' International Union seeking the cooperation of this union in bringing an end to the dispute.

Named to the committee were Donald Amirault, A. L. Robinson and Gregg Gilliat. It was pointed out the members of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks in the Digby area were most directly affected by the unemployment occasioned by the strike which has tied up the Princess Helene and the opinion was expressed the Board of Trade should work through this Brotherhood in any appeals to the Seafarers' Union.

It was also decided by the meeting to contact the Maritime Board of Trade and the Maritime Transportation Commission to enlist their aid in seeking a solution to the problem which has tied up a vital link in the transportation network serving western Nova Scotia.

An appeal will also be made directly to the Seafarers' Union and to the Canadian Pacific Railway to make public their respective positions regarding the wage demands and other proposals at the time the negotiations last broke down.

Dissatisfaction was expressed at the meeting over the fact little support in efforts so far to have the ferry service restored have been received from the Saint John area. It was reported to the meeting that so far as could be determined, no official requests or appeals had gone forward from New Brunswick on the matter of the restoration of the ferry service.

A report was given to the meeting by Victor Cardoza on the meeting of a Digby Trade Board delegation with Hon. R. H. Winters and Premier Henry D. Hicks in Halifax on Friday. Mr. Cardoza stated Mr. Winters had assured the delegation the federal government was making every practicable effort to bring the dispute to an end. Premier Hicks also stated the provincial government was keeping in close touch with the situation.

Assurance that efforts would be made to have the C.P.R. keep the Princess Helene in readiness to resume the run should a settlement of the dispute be reached was given to the delegation by Mr. Winters, it was stated. J. J. Brittain also reported he had discussed this with Hon. George Marler, Minister of Transport, in Halifax Friday and had been given the same assurance from him.

In the meantime C. D. Snow, prominent Digby lobster dealer, informed the meeting he had chartered a vessel to carry cargoes for his firm across the Bay of Fundy. He said one trip had already been made between Grand Manan and Digby and another from Digby was scheduled. He said there were a number of vessels in New Brunswick available for ferrying cargoes across the Bay of Fundy and felt use of these would aid in breaking down the bottleneck which now exists in shipping perishable fish and other cargoes out of Digby to upper Canadian markets.

Liberian Freighters Here

The Liberian freighters "S.S. Sofia", took on a cargo of some 2,200 cords of pitprops for Hull, England, here last week.

The Sofia is registered in Monrovia, Liberia, and has a net tonnage of 1,723 with a gross of 2,518. She is skippered by Captain J. Naberian. So far as can be determined she is the first Liberian ship to load here.

Last Thursday the Liberian freighter "Jonancy", skippered by Captain Basilias Yiannis, took on a cargo of gypsum from the storage shed at Deep Brook. This was the first to be shipped from Deep Brook since last winter and was destined for Philadelphia.

The Norwegian freighter "Mica", registered in Bergen, Norway, arrived in port Monday to take on a cargo of long lumber for the United Kingdom. The Mica has a net tonnage of 1,359 and a gross of 2,481. She is skippered by Captain Knut Tyshes.

SPEAKS TO MENTAL HEALTH GROUP HERE

Dr. John Griffin, President of the National Association for Mental Health, was guest speaker at a luncheon meeting at Chan's Coffee Shop here Tuesday. The meeting was attended by members of the Digby County Mental Health Association and by representatives of the local clergy and business groups.

Introduced by Dr. A. H. Leighton, Director of the Cornell Program of Community Research, Dr. Griffin traced the progress made in the treatment of mental illness and the care and handling of the mentally ill over the years.

He stated among the first steps taken to improve the lot of the mentally ill in North America were taken by Miss Dorothea Dix of New England. She was responsible, he said, for directing public attention to the horrible conditions which had surrounded the mentally ill who were kept in jails and "pest houses."

Much of the present system of taking care of the mentally ill in hospitals specifically for their care resulted from the work done by Miss Dix, he said, and present steps to further improve conditions are directly traceable to the work in which Miss Dix pioneered.

Dr. Griffin said it was unfortunate however that much more had not been done over the past one hundred years to further improve housing and care arrangements for the mentally ill. This resulted, he said, not so much from the fact the public were not concerned about the problem as from the fact they were not fully informed.

He stated the National Mental Health Association was working toward developing an, informed public so far as the matters surrounding mental health and related problems were concerned and said that local groups could play a big part in this. In his address Dr. Griffin paid high tribute to the group of citizens in the Digby area who had worked to help and assist in the program being carried out here. He said he was convinced the scientific research work being done in this area had been aided materially by the interest and cooperation shown by the local citizenry.

Most local Mental Health groups, Dr. Griffin said, had to work from their inception toward the development of a mental health clinic to serve their area. In Digby this is not the case; a mental health clinic, which he said had brought together probably some of the best minds in this field, was in operation in Digby and should be of material service to the lay group in its efforts.

Dr. Griffin said a big job still remained to be done in the field of public education so that mental health clinics and other mental health services might be able to operate to the fullest advantage. The public, he said, must be more fully informed as to the facts concerning mental illness. Further efforts must also be made to wipe out the traces of stigma that still seem to be associated with mental illness and those who are afflicted. Community efforts to create conditions conducive to good mental health and to provide for rehabilitation of those who have been stricken also present a real challenge to local groups, he said.

He stated the services of the national body were available to all local groups in the work and urged the Digby group to avail themselves to these. The job that has to be done in the field of mental health is essentially a national one, he said, but in it the local groups have a great and important part to play. If local groups across the nation do their job well then the work of the whole association will be greatly advanced.

The thanks of the meeting to Dr. Griffin for his address were expressed by Victor Cardoza, M.L.A., President of the Digby County Mental Health Association.

STORM WREAKS HAVOC

The most severe November storm in the province's history swept Nova Scotia over the weekend. Beginning during the early hours of Sunday morning, the storm swept across the whole province, tearing down power and communication lines and blocking the highways, in some cases with more than a foot of snow.

In the Digby area the northeast storm swept in across the bay and soon had traffic snarled as the wet snow was swept into drifts by the gale force winds. The heavy wet snow coated power, telephone and telegraph lines and soon the weight of the snow, coupled with the tearing force of the wind, brought lines down in a jumbled confusion all over the town.

At the Racquette three power poles were snapped off by the wind and weight of snow and in other sections of the town the gale force winds tore down snow laden wires and several trees also fell victim to the storm. Outside of town, too, the storm took its toll of power and communication lines and most of the county was without power and lights from the middle of Sunday afternoon until Monday. In Digby power was restored in some sections early Monday morning while in others where damage was more severe the service was not restored until later.

All telegraph and telephone communications between Digby and the rest of the province were disrupted early Sunday afternoon and by late Sunday afternoon the only circuit open outside the area was the radio telephone connection with Saint John.

Falling victim to the storm were hundreds of television antennae in the area. Many of these which survived the gale force winds were torn down by the weight of wet snow which froze on them. On Monday the town presented an interesting picture, with telephone and power wires coated with three or four inches of frozen snow and looped in many cases right down to the ground with the weight of the snow. In the Smith's Cove area telephone wires which became looped down over railway tracks by the weight of snow were cut off by the night train as it passed through the village.

On Monday power company and telephone linesmen were busy trying to restore order from the chaotic confusion of tangled wires which greeted them all over the county. In Conway several poles were down, cutting off power to the Smith's Cove area and in this and other sections of the county wires, all heavily coated with snow and ice, were in a jumbled mess.

Shortly before noon on Sunday fire broke out at the Salvation Army citadel when a floor furnace flooded. Prompt action by members of the fire department got the fire extinguished before it got out of control. This fire could have been most dangerous had it got away from the firemen, as the heavy gale which was blowing would have spread the flames and embers across the street to buildings on the west side.

Vessels tied up at the wharf and spur pier took a bad lashing from the storm and fears were expressed serious damage might result. At the height of the storm a fish dragger broke from its moorings but prompt action of the officers and crew of HMCS Buckingham soon had it warped back into place again. Heavy damage was done to a section of the spur pier by the buffeting of the steel side of the Buckingham against up-rights on the wharf edge.

No serious car accidents were reported in the Digby area as a result of the storm. A number of minor accidents, brought on by the heavy snow and slippery streets, were reported. All during the storm, after power interruption silenced the fire siren, firemen stayed on duty at the fire station in case of fire. Fortunately, however, no fires except that at the Salvation Army hall, were reported during the storm. A number of the firemen also patrolled the streets helping to clear wires and other obstructions thrown down across the streets and sidewalks by the gale.

Trinity Guild will meet at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Bishop on Tuesday, November 23, at 8 o'clock.

Better days are here for Phil Fraser!

In all his years of railroading, Engineer Phillip Fraser has seen some big changes.

"Rolling along in this smooth diesel locomotive," says Mr. Fraser, "is a real thrill—a far cry from driving the old steam jobs. Its extra power gives it quicker pick-up and more speed on the grades. Besides, it can run from coast to coast without a change. That's what I call progress!"

Phil has seen progress in the life insurance business too. As a family man, he knows that this business offers better service today than ever before.

Take life underwriters, for instance. Modern training makes these men better qualified to guide people through the complex problems of planning for future security.

Today, too, life insurance is more flexible. There's a wider range of plans—allowing people to meet their own individual needs.

Moreover, people with certain physical handicaps, can now enjoy the protection of life insurance.

In these and other ways, the life insurance companies in Canada have progressed with the times to meet the changing needs of people in all walks of life!

Plan Now For Better Lobster Fishing

THE TRAPS are set... a new catch of lobsters is already on its way to market... in some districts canneries are working again... it's lobster season here in the Maritimes!

Let's hope it's a good season, a profitable season for everyone in the lobster industry. And let's plan now to make it an even better season next year.

Here's how: Throw back the "berried" lobsters and give them the chance to reproduce. Throw back the shorts. Next year they'll have grown 15% longer and 50% heavier—they'll bring you a much better price. Do that, and the lobster crop will thrive and grow.

A bit of quick, easy money in your pocket today isn't much comfort if it means battling for a living tomorrow. Plan for even better lobster catches. Practice the simple methods of conservation. Then the lobster season can always be a good season for you... year after year after year.

Letter to the Editor

November 18, 1933.
To the Editor,
The Digby Courier,
Digby, Nova Scotia.

Dear Editor:

I would appreciate it if you would publish this letter in your valuable paper.

When Mr. F. C. Purdy spoke at the ratepayers' meeting last evening, I was unable to reply to his speech, due to the fact that the time allowed me for speaking had expired. It is possible that the ratepayers may be confused on several points. If so, I would like to present the following facts:

Firstly, Mr. Purdy neglected to inform the ratepayers when referring to the $1500.00 items that the payment of such were illegal.

Secondly, Mr. Purdy was the man responsible for including these illegal items in the School Budgets, which amounts were subsequently paid.

Thirdly, the figures I quoted from the School records were the established facts, but a large percentage of the figures circulated by the School Board were purely estimated and subject to correction when put into actual practice.

Thank you for the space.

Yours very truly,
David C. Landers.

EDITOR'S NOTE:

We appreciate letters to the editor but wish to emphasize that the opinion of the writer is not necessarily that of the editor.

To Build School In Clare

At a special meeting of the Clare Council held at Little Brook it was decided to build a high school in 1935. The School Board, which sat in session with the Council, presented facts and figures regarding the needs of a high school for the district of Clare.

The consolidation of some schools not already in consolidation was also discussed and it was shown what advantages could be had by such consolidation. The building of a high school would leave extra classrooms in several of the larger schools enabling consolidation to take place.

The Council voted on building a high school but set aside the question of consolidation until a later meeting.

Miss Janice Ross was a weekend visitor of Dr. and Mrs. William Longaker.

James Richards was in Halifax last week attending a meeting of the Nova Scotia Innkeepers' Guild.

Patricia Gay, daughter of Flight-Lieutenant James Wheelhouse, and Mrs. Wheelhouse, was baptized at Grace United Church on Sunday morning by the pastor, Rev. James Brooks.

Mrs. Hart Hayden and Mrs. William Ellis returned on Wednesday from an eight weeks visit in the U. S. A. Mrs. Hayden visited at Stoughton, Mass., while Mrs. Ellis visited at Medford, Mass., and Providence, R. I.

Conducts Eye Test For Driver's License

To help combat the increasing highway accident toll the Motor Vehicle Branch of the Department of Highways is inaugurating a province-wide system of driver examinations. Eight provincial districts are being established with a full-time examiner working in each section. Under the system, examinations will apply only to those holding beginners' licenses but, in time, will be expanded to allow for periodic re-examination of all drivers in Nova Scotia. The Nova Scotia Film Bureau Photo shows an inspector-examiner giving an applicant a vision test.

To Speak On School Management

Inspector C. W. Crowell, of Yarmouth, will be the guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Digby Area Home and School Association at the High School auditorium here Thursday, December 1st.

Mr. Crowell will take as his subject the new Education Act, popularly known as Bill 66, and will dwell at some length on the effects of this act on school management.

Message Found In Bottle

A strange and seemingly indecipherable message was found last week by Wickerson Lent in a bottle that had been thrown up on the beach at Westport.

The message, written in pencil on a piece of paper torn from a brown paper bag, was dated July 29, 1955, and seemed to be a list of names. The writing, however, is of such a nature as to make the whole thing hard to understand.

Health. Without the clinic it was felt the re-establishing of mental patients in the area served by the clinic would be prolonged. The asset of psychiatric care in the community was cited and it was also recommended that the research be continued because of its value in providing efficient psychiatric treatment.

Guest speaker this week will be Eugene Outhouse, Tiverton, who will talk on fishing and the lives of the fishermen along the Fundy coast.

To Test Nova Scotia Drivers

Nova Scotia car drivers are going to have a chance to show how good they are. This was indicated by E. S. Campbell, Registrar of Motor Vehicles, in announcing a new, stepped-up system of driver examinations for the province.

For the past eight years, holders of beginners' licenses in the city of Halifax have been receiving a thorough driver's test, conducted by full-time examiners of the Motor Vehicle Branch and consisting of an eye-test, an oral examination on the Motor Vehicle Act and a three-mile road test over a carefully selected route. This system is now in process of being put into practice throughout Nova Scotia.

For purposes of drivers' examinations, the province is being divided into eight districts with a trained full-time examiner working in each district. Examiners will move on a circuit through their districts, conducting examinations at specified key points where examining stations are being set up. These stations are so located that candidates for a driver's license will normally not have more than approximately 25 miles to reach the station and the examiner's schedule is arranged so that he will be at each station on specified days every two weeks.

The first of these examiners began operation on November 14, in the south-western end of the province, working from Yarmouth to Liverpool, across country to Annapolis Royal and

Ferry Tie-up Talks May Resume

Public Works Minister R. H. Winters told a delegation from the Digby Board of Trade in Halifax on Friday there was a possibility negotiations would be resumed shortly to settle the strike that has paralysed ferry service between Digby and Saint John since September 30th.

Mr. Winters outlined to the delegation efforts that had been made by the federal Labour Department and other government agencies to bring the labour dispute to an end and also explained difficulties that had hindered in the settling of the dispute. He stated the government would continue to put forward every effort to assist in bringing the parties to variance together in a workable solution to the difficulties which exist.

Hon. Henry D. Hicks, Premier of Nova Scotia, also assured the delegation his government would continue to keep in close touch with the situation and would lend every effort at their disposal to help in bringing the tie-up to an end.

The Digby delegation, which was headed by Trade Board President James P. Richards, included Victor Cardozo, M.L.A., A. L. Robinson, H. M. Warne and J. J. Brittain.

Cornwallis, MACHQ Tie

Goals by Jollymore and Turner in the middle of the third period gave MACHQ a 3-3 stalemate with Cornwallis in the first game of the Armed Forces Hockey League to be played at Cornwallis. The armers, who lost to Stad at Halifax Thursday, had to come from way behind to get the split.

They trailed 2-0 at the end of the first period, 2-1 going into the final, and at one time in that session were two goals short at 3-1.

McAfee and Condon sank the Cougars' first two goals in a rugged 10-minute first period.

The second canto was as rugged as the first with eight trips to the sin-bin ordered, two of them for majors. The five-minute sentences were tagged on Condon and MacDougall. The only goal of the frame was fired by Fleet Gagnon gave the locals their 3-1 bulge at 7:50 of the third, setting things up for the armers' comeback.

Among the dignitaries on hand for opening ceremonies were Mayor Hall of Annapolis Royal, Mayor Morehouse of Digby, Capt. D. Stirling, CD, commanding officer, who dropped the first puck, Major General Flaw and Col. V. Oland.

Takes Top Honors At Annual Mink Field Day

The grand champion mink, male and female champion was awarded to the ranch of Jeremie Comeau, Little Brook Station, Digby County, when the annual mink field day was held at the Yarmouth County Exhibition Grounds.

Len Cooper, of the Canadian Fur auction sales, Montreal, who was the competition judge, said that, in his opinion, the show, by far had the largest collection ever shown in Yarmouth. As far as quality and size were concerned they were better than in any show held previously in Yarmouth.

In arriving at the final decision for the grand champ, Mr. Cooper said he found the decision most difficult. The male mink, owned by Jeremie Comeau was a beautiful specimen, he said. Had he been able to give two firsts the other would have gone to Wilfred Baker, of Middleton, for his entry.

At the dinner R. C. F. Whitman, secretary-treasurer of the Nova Scotia Mink Breeders Association, was master of ceremonies. Films were shown by C. D. MacKenzie, Department of Lands and Forests; and Dr. E. R. Bowness, Toronto. Also present was Mr. B. MacFarlane, of the Hudson Bay Company.

Other Digby County winners were: Leger Comeau, Little Brook Station; A. Marie Comeau, Little Brook Station; Joseph Comeau, Little Brook Station; Edsel Mullen, Havelock; Austin Mullen, Havelock; Wallace Mullen, New Tusket; Donald Mullen, New Tusket; Archie d'Entremont, Eel Brook.

An odd shaped potato was brought into the Courier Office by Mrs. Charles White, Waterford. The potato grown in the garden of her nephew, Clifford Robicheau, looked like a monkey leaning on one elbow and holding his head on one side.

The slick surface of wet asphalt roadways has sent many a motorist limping to the garage with flattened fenders and shattered headlamps. But now research engineers have come up with something that sharply reduces this accident hazard. When their special aluminum oxide abrasive is applied to the road surface, it cuts down by more than 30% the stopping distance of your car when you apply the brakes at 30 m.p.h.

... So in addition to saving weight and work in a thousand everyday and special applications, aluminum may prove a major factor in saving lives, too.

Dark, dreary days depress canaries, too. They just don't feel like singing. But now—good news for canary colorists! If they'll arrange to have the bottom of their cages lined with aluminum, they'll sing through the darkest day. The light reflected from the sparkling metal foil gives their souls that springtime lift.

People find endless household uses for aluminum foil. So does industry—for everything from fire-fighting clothing to photo-flash bulbs, to wrapping for candy and food. Canada used 8 million pounds of foil last year. ALUMINUM COMPANY OF CANADA, LTD. (ALCAN)

H. & S. Meade
The Community Home & School Association held their monthly meeting in the school house last Tuesday evening. Fifteen members and two guests were present. The meeting opened by repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. The amount made at the recent rummage sale and lunch amounted to nearly $20.00. A volley ball for the older pupils has been ordered, also blinds for the school room. Black board paint has been purchased and applied. Those volunteering to do the painting were Willard Wentzell, Fred Lewis and Melbourne Prime.

Cod Liver Oil Capsules are again being sponsored by the Home & School and a supply has been ordered so the children can begin taking them. The project of the new tables for the Community Hall is nearly completed. George McKay is doing the work.

After the business period a short Remembrance Day Programme was carried out. A reading on the "Unknown Soldier" and a poem of the same name were read by Mrs. W. Comeau. The much loved poem "In Flanders Fields" was recited by Mrs. Fred Lewis and a poem, "Freedom", by Mrs. John Gidney. Mrs. Willard Wentzell then conducted a sing-song of fifteen minutes, before Mrs. Rloridan, teacher, presented a programme on health. Miss Helen Rowland, Nutritionist for Western Nova Scotia, was unable to be here for the meeting, but plans to come at a later date. Mrs. Rloridan spoke briefly on nutrition and school lunches, and then distributed pamphlets on school lunches and easily made recipes. At the close of the meeting the social convener, Mrs. John McBride, conducted a very enjoyable program, in which everyone participated.

CC's ARE MY LIFE
by Ken Hankinson
One of the rules every car owner knows is that oil should be changed regularly and often. It's one of the easiest and most effective ways of keeping up a car, yet every once in a while we hear of an "economy minded" motorist who thinks oil doesn't need to be changed.
The exacting job assigned to motor oil helps explain why it has to be up to par. When the gasoline vapor in an automobile cylinder is firing, the oil between the moving piston and the cylinder wall is exposed to flame of more than 3000 degrees Fahrenheit and pressure of more than 700 pounds per square inch.
Yet one drop of oil will lubricate an engine for 600 of these explosions.
The bottom piston ring does the job of scraping excess oil off the cylinder before it can get into the combustion chamber (and cause that telltale blue smoke from the exhaust). The motorist who runs on old oil soon finds plugged oil holes or stuck piston rings.
You can expect to use a quart of oil every 600 to 1200 miles in a new passenger car, but poor driving can make a good car eat up oil like a youngster with a bowl of ice cream. High speeds in low or second gears for example, throw a lot of oil on to engine parts and some cars will use 6 to 8 times more oil at 70 as at 40.
The best way to cut down oil problems, and all problems of car ownership, is to make sure you're buying a sound car in the first place. This is our job, bringing reliable cars on to our lot, cars that have served another owner well and have been spruced up to tip-top shape before they're ever displayed. You buy a car whose name you know for reliability; buying from a dealer who has a reputation to maintain is good sense too.

Hunters Caught By Storm

A number of hunters in the Bear River area were caught out in the woods at camps by the sudden onslaught of the severe storm which swept this area over the weekend.

Giving no warning of its coming, the heavy snow which accompanied the gale stranded cars on wood roads where they had been left by hunters who were caught out at their camps by the storm stayed in their camps and weathered out the storm in comfort. Others, however, were forced to walk miles through snow clogged roads to get back to their homes and work on Monday.

About This and That

Patronize Home Merchants & Industries

The Courier again congratulates the Digby Regional High School students on their newly established school paper, "The Amethyst". The third edition, which came out recently, is bigger and even better than the previous issues. We sincerely feel the students are doing a creditable job and that "The Amethyst" can serve a good purpose at the Regional High School.

We note, however, in the last issue of "The Amethyst" that the "Fundy Light", another fine yearly publication at the High School, is being printed at Kansas City, as announced by the editor-in-chief, Harry Thomas.

Probably it is because commercial printing and the Digby Courier are so closely allied that we take special note of this announcement and our mention is probably not entirely unselfish. But it does seem to us that no finer lesson in Economics could be taught to high school students than a practical study in "Protect Home Industry". In the announcement, the editor-in-chief states that the year book will be a departure from the conventional style. We commend the students for this, but we still fail to see the long road to Kansas City for the change. The Courier is definite that it is not a matter of lowest price quotations. Nor is it a matter of time, if we are correct in understanding that the Kansas City printers will have a half year to produce the job as against the usual few weeks. We are inclined to think another smooth-talking salesman overcame somebody's better judgment of "Patronizing Home Industry". Result — a missed practical Economics study for the students, plus a few hundred dollars missed in circulation about town. Be that as it is, we shall be looking forward to the Digby Regional High School students' newest venture and wish them every success in their undertaking.

The "Fundy Light" announcement, however, served to remind us of our duty to urge our readers to "Buy at Home" this Christmas. With the "Princess Helene" out of operation and possibly less money than ordinarily to be circulated in the Digby area, we urge that this Christmas more than ever the money be kept in town among our own merchants. Remember in calls for providing Christmas cheer, donating to other good causes and supporting organizations, the home-town merchant is ready with a generous response. The home-town merchant and industrialist contribute year 'round to the social and public agencies in which you have a stake. He is interested in and lends support to your schools, your churches, your hospital and health and welfare organizations. The taxes of the home-town merchant help to protect you with fire-fighting equipment, provide police protection, street clearance and many other necessities for well organized and secure community life.

The home-town merchant is entitled to your consideration when you have dollars to spend, and it is in your interest to support him and maintain him as a part of your community, providing he gives you service to which you are entitled. And, we doubt if finer service, more courteous treatment or better prices can be found outside the home-town district.

See your local merchant first before you shop elsewhere this Christmas and through the coming year.

The Penny-farthing Philosopher

I seem to have been finding quite a number of quotations recently but last night I came across what I thought was a gem and I want to pass it on to you as a real and practical philosophy of life. Here it is, by W. L. George:—

"What I say is, life ain't all you want, but it's all you 'ave; so 'ave it; stick a geranium in yer 'at, an' be 'appy'."

It must be an English quotation because no self-respecting Canadian would drop so many alitches, but whatever the origin, the advice is very sound. There are very few, if any of us, whose life is all we want it to be, either from the point of view of our accomplishments or from the point of view of what we possess. We always wish we were better than we are, that we could fulfil all those plans for ourselves, and at the end of each day we see that we have done no more than half of those things that we planned to do. Neither are we satisfied with the things that we have, we always see someone who has something a little better and a little more expensive than our own. We seldom notice with gratitude, that what we have is so much better than other people's, that we are much more better placed than so many others.

Sometimes, we are so concerned over what we have not, that we fail to appreciate and enjoy the things that we have. As our quotation says, "It's all you 'ave, so 'ave it" — yes really enjoy what you have — health, friends, family, comfort, security — yes, even your old '37 vintage Chevy! What we need to do sometimes is to stop, and consciously analyse our feelings about certain things, the wife (or husband) and family, for instance; just how do they fit into our scheme of things, they are very important, are they not? How do you think you would get along without them? Do the same with the home; it may not be a palace but it is home, so make it a real home, enjoy it. The list could be extended, but I should not do all your thinking for you, carry on the list yourself, it will do you more good that way.

Now I don't know about the geranium. I suppose it would be alright for the ladies; I don't think there would be too much comment if Mrs. Brown entered Trinity Church with a geranium in her hat, but I don't think Mr. Brown could get away with it. And anyway, where could you get a geranium these days, a good one, that is? If you really want one you could try the Journeyman-printer's devil at the Courier Office, but I don't promise anything.

Well, even if you don't try the geranium, why not try the next bit "Be 'appy". That is quite hard I admit, there is so much in life that is a strain, there are so many cares, so many bills, that we are up against it a great deal of the time. But does it help to worry about these things, especially if you are honestly doing what you can to overcome them? Happiness, it seems to me, involves the acceptance of one's limitations (it's all you 'ave); doing the best with what you have got (so 'ave it); fulfilling your obligations to family, church, community and state; loving God and your neighbor as you love yourself. These are the concomitants of happiness.

Just before I go: I remember a story of a father saying to his son, "What's the matter with you, it's your birthday, isn't it? Be 'appy or I'll wallop yer". Some of us need to be 'walloped', that is certain; but it will not make us any happier; for most of us, if we honestly try the recipe, outlined above, will do the trick. I hope it will, anyway. God bless you.

fit of the Annapolis General. A recent guest at the home Hospital recently. The sum of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. $56.50 was realized. Lobsters are everybody's business!

You might think the lobster catch is just the lobsterman's business. But it's your business too. Here is why. If the lobsterman has a good catch, the whole community feels his success... the grocery store, the dress shop, the appliance store, the doctor, the dentist, the insurance agent and many others, all benefit. A poor catch means poor business—hard times.

So good catches (and good business for you) next year, and in future years, depend on conservation now.

These 2 important conservation steps should be taken to protect your future—shorts should be put back; "berried" lobsters should be put back. The shorts will increase 50% in weight in a year, and bring a better price. The "berried" lobsters will have the chance to hatch their eggs and increase the lobster population. And lobsters don't migrate. They stay put. The lobsterman will find them next year right about where he left them—only bigger, heavier, more profitable.

The man who keeps just "the keepers" is thinking smart, thinking ahead. He's the man who expects to make a decent living for his family for a long, long time. Remember his living is yours, too.

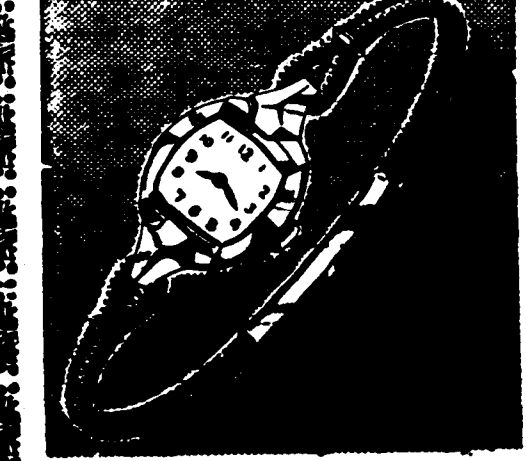

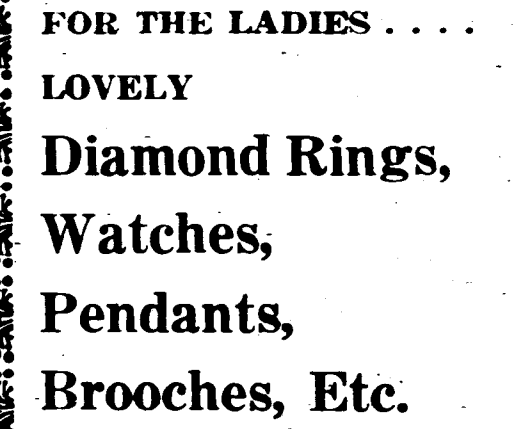

We're all abrim with finest gifts for everyone. Come and see them NOW!

Further Plans For Weymouth Youth Centre

There has been a great deal of interest shown in the proposed Youth Centre since it was first reported in these columns two weeks ago. Since then the Steering Committee composed of interested citizens has met again and plans are being finalized towards a public meeting when all the public of the village will be asked to endorse and support the project on behalf of the young people.

The need for something constructive for the young people to do has been long felt and it was the ministers of the town who made the initial move. Although this is in no way to be regarded as another 'church affair' yet it was from the church spheres that the steering committee was drawn, each minister asking three members of his congregation to serve on this committee. The committee is comprised of the following members: Revs. Comeau, Carr, Trivett and Armitage, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Cosman, Mr. Lawrence Hersey, Mrs. Charles DeLong, Mrs. Pat Taylor, Mrs. Dale Brooks, Mrs. Glidden Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Rice and Mr. A. LeFort. The committee has been faithful and has done a great deal of groundwork involving quite a few hours time, but it is expected that when the public meeting is held this committee will have completed its task and a management committee for the Centre will be appointed.

Some report of the progress of the committee will be of interest: permission has been granted for the Centre to be located for a while in the Legion Hall whilst repairs and preparations are going forth to ward the opening of the Scout Hall. The probable date of opening of the Centre is the second week in January next year, but this will depend to a very large extent upon the interest and generosity of the Weymouth people. Among the activities planned are: (for boys) welding, first aid, scouts, woodwork, painting; (for girls) first aid, feltwork, health and beauty, painting, shellcraft. Saturday night would be the social night when folk dancing would be taught, dancing and games filling the rest of the evening. Quite a number of people have offered their services as instructors and the committee has been greatly encouraged by the willingness of members of the community to give their time and their talents toward this venture. More still, however, are needed if the project is to be as successful as it is hoped that it will be.

At its last meeting the committee appointed a sub-committee to take care of the publicity in connection with the public meeting to be held next month; members of this committee are Mrs. Granville, Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Brooks. Letters will be sent to each of the community groups asking that a delegation from each be appointed to attend and support the public meeting. The co-operation of school teachers, Sunday School teachers and church members is also being sought. The speaker at the public meeting is to be Rev. Bill Armitage, United Church minister. Further details of the public meeting are not yet finalized but it is possible that they may include the showing of a film of Youth Centres in other areas to give the public an idea of what can be done by good co-operation and a willingness to share the burden of a public venture of this nature; or it may include a short play, outlining the needs of modern youth, and methods of turning their surplus energy to good uses.

It is hoped that all members of the village of Weymouth will acknowledge the need for this Centre and will do whatever they can, by working, or giving, or supporting this venture in whatever way they feel they are able. Its success does not depend now upon those who have done the spadework to date, but upon those who will accept responsibility in the Centre from the time of the public meeting and onwards. This can be a success if, and only if, the people of Weymouth are one hundred percent behind it.

Says Education May Solve Drunken Driving Problem

"The final solution if there is a final solution, to this social problem of drinking and driving, must be in an educational effort for young people," Major J. C. Douglas, Safety Inspector of the Department of Highways, told members of the Grand Division Sons of Temperance of Nova Scotia, holding their 106th annual session in Halifax. "The profitable field of endeavor is with the young people," he said yesterday during the final meeting of the three day session.

"Drinking and Driving," Major Douglas said, "is a large and grave social problem and the ultimate answer is in the attitude of the individual. Drinking drivers," he said, "are a menace; they are potential killers."

"The attitude of such people," he said, "will only be changed when they realize the danger and recoil from it. Then the problem will be overcome."

"And," the speaker added, "the most fertile ground to develop this attitude is among the young people."

Mr. Douglas complimented the amended Criminal Code. He pointed out that in 1952 Nova Scotia courts convicted 441 drinking drivers under the single section - "Intoxication."

Since that time, he said, the Criminal Code allows for a lesser offence - "Impairment" and in 1954, 693 offenders were convicted in this province. Liquor Factor

Mr. Douglas pointed out that the National Safety Council of the United States had conducted a recent survey which showed one of four highway accidents where liquor was a factor. "In the overall picture of accidents in Nova Scotia," he said, "the ratio of deaths to reported accidents was one-in-sixty. In segregated accidents in which liquor was reported to be involved, the ratio was one-in-fifty-five."

"One of the things people do to help the chain of events which lead to accidents," Major Douglas said, "is to try mixing their driving with their drinking." - Halifax Chronicle-Herald.

The growth of grace is like the polishing of metals. There is first an opaque surface; by and by you see a spark darting out, then a strong light; till at length it sends back a perfect image of the sun that shines upon it. - Edward Payson.

The Christian graces are like perfumes, and the more they are pressed, the sweeter they smell; ... like trees, which the more they are shaken, the deeper root they take, and the more fruit they bear. - Francis Beaumont.

What we most need is the prayer of fervent desire for growth in grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love and good deeds. - Mary Baker Eddy.

As dew never falls on a stormy night, so the dew of His grace never comes to the restless soul. - A. B. Stimpson.

There is no such way to attain to greater measure of grace as for a man to live up to the little grace he has. - James Gordon Brooks.

Virtue, wisdom, goodness, and real worth, like the loadstone, never lose their power. - Richard E. Burton.

ELECTS OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the United Church which met on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles DeLong, re-elected the same slate of officers for the year 1956. They are as follows: Pres., Mrs. E. C. Gates; Sec'y., Mrs. R. K. Hill; Treas., Mrs. K. M. Hankinson. The committee chairmen are also holding office for another year.

From a financial standpoint the past year has been a good one, all commitments having been met, but the quarterly meetings as held over the past year have not proven as satisfactory as the former monthly meetings and the time of meetings may be changed.

Annual Report Digby Branch Canadian Red Cross Society

16th Annual Report Of The Women's Work Committee

I beg to submit the 16th annual report of your Women's Work Committee from Nov. 1st, 1954, to Oct. 31st, 1955.

In reviewing this period it is a satisfaction to be able to report a busy and successful year in this department of Red Cross activity. Looking backward it is also good to realize that it has been a relatively uneventful year with no major disasters in this vicinity to inspire Red Cross workers to increased effort. In fact, there have been times during the year when the small attendance at meetings has led one to question the results which were being achieved, so it is indeed reassuring when we pause to total the results of our year's work and find that the statistics show a substantial increase over the preceding year.

To quote these statistics briefly, the shipments to Halifax headquarters during the year were as follows:

Large quilts	16
Crib quilts	27
Baby blankets	41
Knitted articles	110
Sewn articles	196
Infant's clothing	625
Stuffed toys	22
Total	1037

In addition to the above items, approximately 500 gauze wipes were folded for the Blood Transfusion Service.

The wholesale price of the material for this work, which was received from the Division and financed from campaign funds, totalled approximately $380. Local welfare funds were also expended for flannelette for infants clothing which has been made up by the Women's Work Committee and given out locally by the Disaster Relief Committee in response to appeals from the V.O.N. and County Health Nurses, the Digby General Hospital and the Canadian Legion Auxiliary. Several new quilts were also provided for the Disaster Relief Committee to use in local emergencies, one of these having been quilted especially by the Conway Ladies' Clubs for the victims of a recent fire, and another is at present being quilted by the Acaciaville ladies church society for the same family.

Daisy Bagley, Treasurer.

It is interesting to note that with this year's total of more than 40 quilts, the Digby Branch quilt record passes the 1800 mark. Our wartime records are complete as to overseas shipments but there was no accurate account kept of quilts donated in local disasters and cases of need, so the grand total might be more nearly 2000 if we could estimate the number of local donations made during the 16 year period of Digby Branch history. Even the smaller figure is an impressive total for the Branch, and represents innumerable hours of work by the ladies of Digby and vicinity, for which they merit the highest praise.

The thanks of our committee are extended not only to these quilters, but also to the many others who have sewn and knit, mainly in their own homes, to make up such a large number of finished articles of other types. While I realize that it is a dangerous policy to try to give credit to individual workers, lest we inadvertently overlook someone else who has also helped, I cannot properly report on the past year's work without making special mention of one lady who is mainly responsible for the increase in our year's total, namely, Mrs. Oscar VanTassell. Her year's output of Red Cross work, if we could see it all in one place, would be truly amazing, consisting of over 500 stitched articles (towels, pillow cases, diapers, skirts, etc.), over 2 doz. finished crib quilts and another two doz. beautiful pieced quilt tops which are being completed by our quilting group here at the Court House. There are also many others deserving special mention, including Mrs. Hodgson who has again achieved a record of over 60 boy's knitted scarves; Mrs. Annie Jefferson who has to her credit over 4 doz. pairs knitted booties and more than a dozen sweaters; Miss Grace Chisholm with 4 doz. baby dresses and 3 doz. each of elderdown jackets and blankets all decorated with her finishing touches of hand embroidery. A special "thank you" also goes to Mrs. Percy Wormell, one of our most faithful knitters of girl's sweaters over a long period of years, who has recently been forced to lay aside her Red Cross knitting (only temporarily we hope) owing to ill health. Another word of appreciation goes to our absent Red Cross members who continue to send work back to the Digby Branch though making their homes elsewhere — Mrs. Curtis Young's quilt tops and Miss Bertha Boggs' sweaters are still most gratefully received by our committee. During the summer we also received a beautiful donation from Mrs. Loran Adams, Bay View, including a quilt and several pairs of socks and mittens, for which we wish to extend our thanks. Another much appreciated donation was that of stuffed animal toys made by Mrs. Hugh Vincent and forwarded to Halifax where they are always in great demand at the Port Nursery. There were also many donations of used quilts and clothing which were passed on to the Disaster Relief Committee and proved most helpful in their work.

Although the Digby Branch has no official auxiliaries now, we greatly appreciate the work done by several groups in neighboring communities. Both the Women's Institute and the Friday Night Club of Smith's Cove, have assisted with the work of the Branch and to whom we extend our thanks. We also wish to express our appreciation to the Conway Ladies' Clubs for their assistance in various ways, particularly their recent prompt response in quilting for the previously mentioned fire.

To the Municipal Council we tender our thanks for the privilege of the continued use of a room here at the Court House for storage purposes and the weekly use of the Council Chamber for our meetings. Our gratitude is most sincere for their assistance toward the carrying on of our work, and also for the help so willingly given by Mr. Delbert Forrest on innumerable occasions. Nor would my list of acknowledgments be complete without an expression of my personal gratitude to all the other members of the Women's Work Committee for their unflinching support and co-operation throughout the year. To the cutters, Mrs. Jefferson and Mrs. Sabean, Mrs. Brittain of the Quilt Committee, and Mrs. Weir of the Sewing Committee, I express my heartfelt appreciation.

In reviewing the year's accomplishments we find that last Christmas our committee undertook a new project in renaiming and dressing dolls for the use of the Welfare Committee in packing Christmas Cheer parcels. The work seemed very worthwhile and it is hoped to make it a yearly custom, trying to bring a bit of the spirit of Christmas to some needy children whom Santa might otherwise forget. Other Women's Work projects during the year included participation in the two blood donor clinics, in house-to-house collections for the financial campaign, and in assisting the Ways and Means Committee by serving afternoon tea at the Art Exhibit at the Hotel Champlain, as well as the regular Ten-cent Teas at our weekly work sessions.

In the larger centers of Canada, including Halifax the Canadian Red Cross is now organizing a new group of workers called the Women's Volunteer Services. This may be beneficial in securing new recruits for the Report of Blood Donor Clinics For 1955

Following is a report of Blood Donor Clinics for 1955:

During 1955 two Clinics were held, one on April 21st, and one on November 9th. The April Clinic resulted in 186 donors and 140 donors at the November Clinic.

The response from the three important centers, Bear River, Weymouth and the Islands, continues to be very encouraging, but the result from Digby town is very disappointing. There seems to be much indifference to the need of keeping up this essential service. Before another clinic is held drastic measures will have to be taken in the town to build up our panel of regular donors.

I wish to express my thanks to the Women's Work Committee under the convenerhip of Mrs. H. M. Warne, for the excellent job they do at the clinics in supplying light refreshments, and providing proper reception. Also thanks to the local nurses for their help, and to the young people who were on hand to assist. Our thanks also to Mr. George Humphrey and Delbert Forrest and their helpers for looking after the unloading and loading of supplies, and also our thanks to the publishers of the Digby Courier for their co-operation.

The last clinic did not have an attending doctor and Dr. W. R. Dickie kindly donated his services both afternoon and evening. Our thanks to Dr. Dickie also.

Respectfully submitted,
JOHN J. BRITTAIN,
Chairman Blood Donor Clinic.

various phases of Red Cross work in large cities. In a small branch and a small town such as ours the Women's Work Committee serves this same purpose, and becomes the clearing house for workers for whatever type of activity that is required at the moment. But, like the new Volunteer Services Committee, Women's Work would like to appeal for more volunteers. Won't more of you please come to our monthly business meetings and learn first hand what we are really doing? Our work is not all sewing, knitting or quilting for those abroad. I feel justified in stating that we have the most comprehensive programme of local welfare of any organization, and the extent to which it can be successfully carried out is limited only by the amount of support we can obtain from our citizens. All we need is more Red Cross volunteers!

Probably many of you have read a recent American magazine article on women volunteer workers, in which the writer estimates them at over 20 million in the United States and the value of their unpaid services at 2 1/2 billion dollars per year. What is true of the United States is true of Canada on a smaller scale, for Canadian women volunteers are also carrying on a multitude of welfare projects. Their accomplishments are truly amazing, and the value to the nation and the community simply immeasurable. Yet, according to the writer, the greatest value of all is to the individual worker. For, as summed up by one appeal which reads: "Help Wanted — Exchange a

Common — Gaudet

A very pretty wedding took place at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Concession, on Saturday morning, November 12, when Rev. Father Robichaud, pastor, united in marriage, Cecile Gaudet, daughter of Mrs. Regina Gaudet and the late Pierre Gaudet, of Concession, and Charles Comeau, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Comeau, also of Concession.

To the strains of the wedding march, played by the groom's aunt, Mrs. Nelson LeBlanc, the bride entered the church on the arm of her brother-in-law, Roland Comeau, by whom she was given in marriage. The bride wore a floor-length gown of lace and satin with long tapered sleeves and full skirt. Her finger-tip veil fell from a becoming headpiece and she carried a colonial bouquet of white roses. She was attended by two of the groom's sisters, Mrs. Rita Lombard, as matron-of-honor, and Edesee Comeau, as bridesmaid. Little Carol Lombard acted as flower girl. Bernard Lombard and Herman Gaudet attended the groom. Ushers were Edward Comeau, and Roland Comeau.

Following Nuptial High Mass breakfast was served to immediate relatives and friends at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Cecile Boudreau. Supper was served to about 100 guests at the home of the groom, followed by a reception and dance in the parish hall. The newlyweds will reside at Halifax where the groom is employed.

Sitland — Cooke

A wedding of provincial interest was solemnized by the Rev. Arthur Organ at the chapel of Ryerson United Church, Hamilton, Ontario, Saturday afternoon at 2.30, November 26, between Cpl. Raymond Harrison Sitland and Betty Louise Cooke. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cooke, Hamilton, formerly of Yarmouth, N.S., and the groom is eldest son of Mrs. T. R. Lowe, Deep Brook, and the late Wilfred Sitland, of Halifax, and is presently with the RCAF, Ottawa.

The bride was attractive in a fawn and tweed suit with winter-white hat and brown accessories. Her corsage was of Tal-lanta roses. Mother of the bride wore a Rior blue dress with blue accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The young couple were unattended. "Mums" were used for decorations at the church while pink roses were in the rooms of the Royal Hamilton Yacht Club where the reception was held. Among the guests was the groom's brother, LAC Clarence Sitland, Clinton, Ont. Because of the unavoidable absence of the groom's mother, a phone call was made to her home in Deep Brook by the young couple previous to their starting on a honeymoon trip to Detroit, Michigan. For traveling the bride donned a muskrat coat over her wedding suit.

A very fine array of gifts is on display at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cooke, the bride's parents.

The groom attended school in Deep Brook several years before going on to Annapolis Royal Academy from where he was graduated in 1948.

Mr. Kelsey Raymond, who has been teaching art under the Department of Adult Education at Oakdene School, will not hold classes during December and January.

"FOR HOME AND COUNTRY"

M. & S. HOLDS PARTY

A successful and a truly community party was held in the Oakdene Auditorium on Monday evening, November 28. This party was to raise funds for the Home and School Association.

After a short period of games and contests and the sale of fudge during the intermission, the regular program was under way with the various organizations of the town and churches together with the kind help of friends from H.M.C.S. Cornwallis and Smith's Cove all lending some form of talent. This was a true form of community co-operation and proved very interesting and provided all with an evening full of entertainment.

The Twins

Everyone wants to be a researcher, but only a very few individuals have the opportunity and thrill of making great scientific discoveries.

Here is a chance for every Canadian to play a very important part in a research project that aims at trying to find out the cause and cure for Multiple Sclerosis. For any of you who do not know about this disease, it attacks the central nervous system with resulting impairment of various body functions, causing such symptoms as: imbalance and incoordination, numbness, tremors, defective vision, slurred speech, bladder and bowel difficulties. It is often referred to as the "disease of young adults", since it most frequently affects those persons within the 20-40 age bracket.

YOU can help in the search for the cause and cure of Multiple Sclerosis. The scientists, who are devoting their lives to this study need to know the names and addresses of sets of identical twins, one of whom is suffering from Multiple Sclerosis. Statistics tells us that there are probably 40 identical twinstips in Canada, meeting the requirements of this study.

There are two types of twins: Identical and Fraternal.

Identical twins are recognized as being of the same sex and apparently similar in most physical characteristics, as well as in personality and intellectual traits.

The other type, known as fraternal twins, may be of the same or different sexes, and, although born at a single birth, have no closer relation to each other than any other brother or sister.

In the case of identical twins, one being afflicted with Multiple Sclerosis, nature provides us with a ready-made laboratory experiment in determining the relative importance of possible environmental and genetic factors. It is obvious then that our scientific researchers need to know who and where these twins are, so that they can go ahead with their task of using "Project Twin", to help track down the cause of this mystery disease.

You may not be qualified to work with test tube and microscope in a laboratory but you can, with pencil or pen, contribute mightily toward the success of this project. No twins, no project, and one source of possible valuable research closed off!

We MUST not let this happen. Won't you help us by writing NOW to: Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada, P. O. Box 187, Station "B", Montreal 2, P. Q., giving the name and address of a set of identical twins, one of whom has Multiple Sclerosis.

LATEST EFFORT ON FERRY TIE-UP FAILS

A further attempt was made here this week by the Digby Board of Trade to bring about a tie-up of the Bay of Fundy ferry service between Digby and Saint John which has been disrupted by a labour dispute between the CPR and the Seafarers' International Union since September 30th.

In a telegram to SIU Vice-President, Hal C. Banks, the Board of Trade suggested that the dispute between SIU members on the Princess Helene and the CPR be bulked in with negotiations presently being planned between the SIU and ship operators on the Great Lakes and Canada's east coast and that the crew of the Helene return to work pending settlement of the whole dispute.

The telegram urged an early resumption of the Digby to Saint John service because of heavy unemployment in the Digby area caused by the disruption and the snarling of transportation of mails, passengers, freight and express, particularly during the coming Christmas season.

It was pointed out the Board felt the union, by agreeing to put their men back to work on the Princess Helene and bulk this dispute in with the other negotiations now pending would not be prejudicing their bargaining position with the CPR and would improve public relations for their union in this area.

It is understood Hon. Milton C. Gregg, Minister of Labour, has also been informed of the Trade Board's suggestion and asked to assist in bringing the two parties together to implement it if the suggestion is thought to be practicable.

LATER:

It was learned shortly before press time that Mr. Richards, President of the Digby Board of Trade, had received a telephone call from Hal Banks, Vice-President of the SIU, in which Mr. Banks stated it would not be possible to include the dispute concerning the operation of the CPS Princess Helene in with other negotiations now pending between the SIU and operators of ships on the Great Lakes and the east coast.

Mr. Banks stated this suggestion had been made some time ago by the Labour Department but, because of wage differentials and other factors, had not been considered as a workable proposal.

In his telephone call to Mr. Richards Mr. Banks reiterated that his union was prepared to return to work aboard the Princess Helene pending settlement of the dispute. He said they were ready to return to work for two weeks or thirty days if necessary and continue negotiations while at work but stated the CPR had refused to agree to this.

Union boss Hal Banks announced in Montreal Monday that the SIU would seek the wage boost for its members on the Atlantic Coast and the Great Lakes.

A Labour Department official stated the union would not agree to submit its Princess Helene wage demands to binding arbitration for fear of damaging its position in the major negotiations expected to begin in January.

"The Princess Helene situation is small stuff to the SIU compared with negotiations the union will enter in January. They aren't likely to agree to any compromise in their demands in the ferry situation because such a move might prejudice the bigger issue," one source said.

Union locals involved in the forthcoming negotiations include those at Halifax, Saint John and those in Ontario and Quebec. The SIU head did not say on Monday what wage increase the union would seek in the negotiations slated for January, but Labour department sources in Ottawa said some time ago the SIU would probably seek at least as much as was agreed upon in the west coast contracts.

ARMED HOLDUP AT THEATRE IN DIGBY

An after-hours armed robbery at the Capitol Theatre here last Saturday night netted two men about sixty dollars in cash after they tricked theatre manager Harley Wynn into leaving his second-floor apartment and entering the theatre with them, ostensibly to search for a lost wallet.

The robbery occurred shortly before eleven o'clock when the theatre had been closed for the night. The two men went to the manager's second floor apartment in the theatre building and asked him to go downstairs with them to help look for a wallet one of them said he thought he had lost in the show.

When they reached the lobby downstairs one of the men brandished an automatic and ordered Wynn to hand over the theatre money. The manager opened the ticket office and the men helped themselves to the contents of the cash box, a total of some sixty dollars.

They told Wynn they had an

Horticultural Society Meets

Several attractive Christmas arrangements were displayed and judged at the meeting of the Sir Admiral Digby Horticultural Society at the home of Miss Mildred Carty last week.

The arrangements entered by the members were judged in two classes; the most original, and the prettiest. Mrs. Chester Levy captured first place in the most original class with her trimmed mirror, while Miss Louise Daley came second with a yule log. First prize in the latter group went to Miss Mildred Carty for her table arrangement of evergreen and candles; the second prize went to Mrs. H. A. Nichols for her wreath of multi-colored Christmas balls.

Judges for the competition were Mrs. Louise Stevens, Mrs. G. V. Turnbull and Mrs. Eva Wendell.

Two papers, one on the subject of making Christmas candles, and another telling of the origin of Christmas trimmings, such as holly, mistletoe and yule logs, were read by Mrs. Eva Wendell and Miss Louise Daley respectively.

A $15.00 grant to the Society from the Department of Agriculture for enthusiastic work in the town was reported at the meeting.

The Project Committee was placed in charge of beautifying the "Digby" sign at Rice's Corner and plans for securing new members were discussed.

Plans were made for the next meeting which will be held on January 6th at the home of Mrs. John Russell.

Several new members were present at the well attended December meeting.

To Meet At Meteghan

Lieut. Governor Elect, Cecil Barrett, Shelburne, will induct two new members into the Digby Kiwanis Club at an inter-club meeting with the Yarmouth Club at Meteghan tonight. The new members are Dr. John Cunningham of the Psychiatric Clinic, Digby, and sponsored by President Elect, Dr. J. R. McCleave and Leigh Jayne, Digby, sponsored by club secretary, Edgar Chan.

Mr. Barrett who is president of the Shelburne Kiwanis Club, will be guest speaker.

The event at Meteghan will be the annual Christmas Party at which the Kiwanis' Queens will be guests.

Guest speaker last week was A. V. Banks, Bear River, Game Warden for Digby. His topic was Forest Conservation, and during the discourse remarked that if we are to continue lumbering and fishing we must consider the conserving of forests.

The previous meeting featured a panel discussion on fishing, with Eugene Outhouse, Tiverton, Lawrence Hersey, of Weymouth, and Dr. Alex Leighton taking part.

No Accidents In Digby

So far as can be determined, Digby and area were "accident-free" during the twenty-four hour period of S-D Day last Thursday.

Although a number of accidents occurred throughout the province, it is understood the total and extent of damage was far below that of the previous year.

Centreville W.M.S. Meets

The December meeting of the Centreville W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Loran Shaw on Thursday evening, with all members present.

The devotional period, on the theme "Jesus, the Light of the World", was conducted by the President, Mrs. Ronald Morehouse.

Following the business period the members received gifts from their "Sunshine Sisters".

The program was prepared by Mrs. Loran Shaw and included readings "What shall the Harvest be?", by Mrs. Ingram Dakin, and "Christmas Roots", by Mrs. Loran Titus.

Mrs. Arthur Morehouse closed the meeting with prayer.

The basis of Christmas is love loving its enemies, returning good for evil, love that "suffereth long and is kind." — Mary Baker Eddy.

When at table, remember that we never repent of having eaten or drunk too little. — Thomas Jefferson.

STRANGE STORIES RE-TOLD TO GROUP

The November meeting of the Sandy Cove Home & School Association was held November 25th in the school house. Meeting opened by a reading of the President, Mrs. Elmer Jones, on Book Week. Mrs. Nelson led in a sing-song.

It was moved and seconded that a fudge sale be held December 3rd to raise money to supply the school children with Cod Liver Oil Capsules through the winter. It was voted that the regular meeting in December be held on the 14th and combined with films.

A Book Week program was conducted by Adult Education Convener, Miss Elizabeth McCullough, who read two, interesting, old, true stories of Sandy Cove, one being the story of the mystery man "Jerome" and the other the story of two latches, Ben and Leafy Smith, who lived in a small house secluded in the woods between Sandy Cove and Lake Midway. It was said that Ben carried a wand with which he declared he bewitched ships on the Bay of Fundy coast to their destruction. A small wooden pall was on display which was said to be Leafy's strawberry pall, now in Miss McCullough's possession.

The story of the mystery man is well known. One day two fishermen noticed a man on the Bay of Fundy sand beach. His legs had been amputated above the knees and had been expertly bandaged. Beside him was a jug of water. On the distant horizon a ship was seen which might have been a pirate ship. Jerome would not say who he was or where he came from. All he would say was Jerome, Jerome, hence his name. Some thought he was a foreigner. He was kept a while with friendly neighbors across the bay to the home of a family in the Meteghan area. He died in 1908. Ben and Leafy were buried in the burial ground of the Baptist church here, where a tombstone is marked 1918.

Cornwallis Tops Black Watch 10-7

The Cornwallis Cougars came from behind Monday evening to trounce the Kentville Black Watch in an Armed Forces Hockey League tilt Monday night at Cornwallis by a score of 10-7.

Scoring in the game seasoned throughout the first and second periods. At the end of the first the Kentville klitties had a two goal lead with a score of 4-2. The second period closed with the two teams in a six-all tie. The final stanza saw the Cougars flip in four tallies with only one reply from the visitors.

Johnson, in the nets for the Cougars, gave an inspired performance, stopping 64 shots. Holland Carroll led the way, scoring for the navy lads, while Dave Wilson taking top honors for the Army. Monday night's win places Cornwallis in a third place tie in league standing with the Black Watch.

Between periods the audience was given a real musical treat when the colorful pipe band of the Black Watch, resplendent in full dress uniform, presented a number of selections.

Mr. Atkinson needs no introduction on Digby Neck. He is favorably known by all.

There will be special music each evening and a good time is assured. The evening of the 18th the Brotherhood Choir of Little River will be in charge of the music. The public is welcome. The meetings will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM PRESENTED

The W.M.S. of the North Range United Baptist Church held its December meeting at the parsonage, Brighton, with Mrs. R. R. Winchester as hostess. Mrs. J. Vian Andrews presided over the meeting.

The devotional period opened by singing "Angels From the Realms of Glory." Rev. R. R. Winchester offered prayer. Christmas customs in different countries were read by the members. Following the devotional period a life membership certificate in the U.B.W.M.U. was presented to one of the members.

As special feature of the evening Mrs. Ira Harris and two daughters, of Bear River, presented the Christmas Story.

The complete program was much enjoyed by all present.

LUMBER BUREAU IN REGIONAL MEETING

A gathering of Western Shore lumbermen met in Killam Hall, Weymouth, N. S., November 26th. A number of subjects were discussed, including grading cost, quality manufacture, etc. It was generally agreed that the M.L.B. grading policy is responsible for a marked improvement in all lumber produced in the Maritimes, and has been the means of re-establishing Eastern Canadian Spruce on world market.

Mr. A. Byers, Secretary, Manager of Maritime Lumber Bureau, and Mr. L. Rushton, in charge of grading, reported that about 64 million feet of lumber has been M.L.B. graded and certified during the present year.

Mr. Jerome Doyle, formerly of Annapolis Royal, now associated with the Forest Products Laboratory, Ottawa, gave an illustrated talk on a recently completed study of the costs of lumbering in Nova Scotia. With the assistance of the Department of Lands and Forests, information for the study had been gathered over the last two years by field parties working in four Nova Scotia operations.

The facts then had been studied and compiled at the Forest Products Laboratories; they would soon be released for circulation.

The figures showed that in the average operation small trees (less than about 8" on the stump) were cut at a loss. Starting at about eight inches the possible profit increased in direct ratio to the size of the tree and showed best returns at a stump size of 12 inches and larger.

Among many other interesting points made by the costing study was the effectiveness of the power saw in Eastern Canada. One man with a power saw could produce more lumber than two men with manual saws.

The meeting was attended by Messrs. T. H. Fortier; Denis I. Comeau; Denis L. Comeau; Chas. Comeau; Harry Lewis; E. Adelaar; George Boutillier; Peter Boutillier; Desre Comeau; Merle Wetmore; Edgar Wetmore; Ben Comeau; Winslow Gates; Alphonse Comeau; Jos. McClafferty; R. J. M. Taylor; and Lloyd Rushton and Allison Byers, of the Maritime Lumber Bureau.

Plan Visit Of Santa

Plans for the annual community Christmas Party were finalized at a meeting of the committee in charge, held at Chan's Coffee Shoppe Tuesday afternoon.

It was decided the annual visit of Santa to Digby and the community carol sing would be held at the Digby Forum on the evening of Friday, December 16th. The program is scheduled to get underway with carol singing at 7 p.m., followed by the visit of Santa about 7:30.

The annual matinee for the kiddies at the Capitol Theatre will be held on the morning of Friday, December 23rd, it was decided.

It was learned at the meeting the parade of decorated floats from HMCS Cornwallis, which has become an annual Christmas event in the communities of this area, will be held on the afternoon of Thursday, December 15th, or the first fine day after that date. A band concert by the band of HMCS Cornwallis is scheduled to precede the parade at three o'clock. The band concert will be held in Digby near the war memorial.

The afternoon discussion was on Evangelism and Rev. Armistage, after a brief talk, put everyone to work, in that discussion groups were formed and the following three questions discussed: What is Evangelism? How, as Sunday School Teachers, can we become an Evangelist? How can I function as an Evangelist in the Church School? Everyone taking part heartily agreed that it was an afternoon of thought and help.

After the delegates were entertained for supper the evening session started at 7:30 p.m. to a large attendance.

Miss Elizabeth McCullough, of Sandy Cove, led in worship, her theme being "Gardens." She pointed out the different types of gardens pertaining to life.

Rev. Armistage brought the Convention to a close by the showing of the film strip entitled "The Great Adventure", which was followed by prayer and benediction.

Welfare Committee Prepares For Christmas

"Operation Santa Claus" got underway in Digby last week when a group of ladies representing the Red Cross and the Ladies' Legion Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Hubert Warner to dress dolls for Christmas parcels. Miracles were performed in transplanting arms and legs and even a head or two on the tiny "patients", but with some transfusions and lots of new dresses and rompers, a hearty lot of dolls are now ready for new homes come Christmas Eve.

Meanwhile, the Boy Scouts under the leadership of Norman Wright, have been performing their good deeds on an assortment of toys needing spare parts and the odd touch of paint, so these too will be ready for the Christmas parcels. Names of the recipients will be provided by the joint Welfare Committee representing several of the welfare organizations of the town and vicinity.

"Letters to Santa Claus" indicate that there is a widespread call for new skates and sleds among the small fry and even their older brothers and sisters this year. If anyone has any outgrown skates or unused sleds and hockey sticks lurking around the attic, this is the time to get them out, send them into the Court House or the Scouts and gladden someone's heart at the Christmas season.

Returns From Service In Europe

Corporal Vincent Craig, R. C. A. F., son of Mrs. E. D. Titus, of Centreville, Digby County, is among three airmen from Nova Scotia who returned to Canada this month on completing tours of duty with the Canadian Air Division in Europe.

Cpl. Craig, who is a supply technician, will now be stationed close to home at R. C. A. F. Station Greenwood.

HOLD DISTRICT MEET OF SUNDAY SCHOOLS

The Sunday School Convention of the Digby Neck District, sponsored by the Maritime Religious Education Council, was held in the Little River Baptist Church on Wednesday, November 30th, 1955.

The afternoon session opened with worship led by Rev. C. T. Olmstead, of Little River, who took as his text "Our Father's Business", the Scripture reading being from St. Luke, chapter 2. Rev. Olmstead challenged the teachers and officers present to "Increase in Wisdom" and so bring children into the knowledge of Jesus so that we may all grow in favor with God and man.

The President of the Convention, Mrs. Lee Trask, of Little River, welcomed the delegates and also Rev. Wm. Armistage, of Weymouth, the Convention Leader. A short business session followed. The roll call showed most of the schools were present and excellent reports were given of the year's work.

A panel discussion followed on the findings of the afternoon discussion on Evangelism, the panel being made up of Mrs. Melbourn Prime, chairman, Rev. C. T. Olmstead, Mrs. Rupert Trask and Mrs. Clyde Denon. The Convention Leader closed this discussion, remarking that all that had been learned didn't need to be just idealistic, but if put in practice we could all be Evangelists.

Rev. Olmstead brought in the following slate of officers for the coming year: President, Mrs. Loran Shaw, Centreville; Vice-President, Mrs. Lottie Lewis, Waterford, and Secretary, Treasurer, Mrs. Eldon Mitchell, Sandy Cove (re-elected).

Mrs. Edmund McCullough, of Mink Cove, reported for the Courtesy Committee, thanking the Little River people for their hospitality, and Rev. William Armistage for his excellent leadership.

Rev. Armistage brought the Convention to a close by the showing of the film strip entitled "The Great Adventure", which was followed by prayer and benediction.

Urge Returning Christ To Christmas

A campaign, aimed at bringing Christ back to Christmas, has been instituted by all of the churches in Digby, it was learned here this week.

Leaflets outlining ways in which this may be done have been distributed by the Rev. H. Y. MacLean to the pastors of all of the Digby churches and these will be given out among the church congregations between now and Christmas. The pamphlets were prepared by the Divinity School of Kings College in Halifax.

Suggestions for putting Christ in Christmas, contained in the pamphlet, are as follows: Prepare by prayer for His coming to you.

Buy and send only greeting cards which depict some aspect of the Nativity of Our Lord.

Place a Christmas Crib in your home — under the Christmas Tree.

Tell the children the wonderful story of the coming of the Christ Child. He belongs to them.

Teach the religious carols to all the family and sing them often together.

Share with others some of the good things God has given to you.

Thank God in His House for the gift of His Son.

B. H. Ruggles is in Halifax where he is taking part in the three-day Nova Scotia Construction Bonspiel which concludes today.

Wants The Courier As Long As She Lives

Do you still want The Digby Courier for Christmas? Three times in the same letter the answer was "I want it as long as I live". This was told the Courier last week when a lady subscribed to the Courier as a gift for a friend in Saint John. Although in advanced years and sight failing, that was her reply to her friend's question.

Of the many expressions of appreciation received, none paid a greater compliment to the Courier than that of our Saint John lady.

About This and That

Honouring Our Queen & Flag

The reverence which we owe to the Sovereign as Queen of Canada, and the respect that we also owe to the Flag as our national emblem are inseparable parts of our loyalty and heritage as Canadians.

In recent years there has seemed an apparent lessening of at least the outward reverence and respect which we as Canadians owe in this regard.

Time was when every public assembly featured flag draped platforms and the singing of the Royal anthem was invariably the closing act of any public gathering. Many churches, also, included the singing of the Royal anthem as a part of their service.

Today this is not quite so common and on many occasions no public avowal of loyalty to Queen and country is made at public assemblies, either for entertainment, business or worship.

We do not agree with those who would view this as some sort of plot or planned omission. We do, however, feel that it is a part of a sort of insidious weakening of a desire on the part of the public to make openly known their loyalties so far as Queen and country are concerned.

If this is so then we all have a duty to perform to see to it that our loyalties are strengthened by public avowal. There may be those who claim these things do not matter — that when the need for loyalty is shown the people respond. We do not agree with this point of view. It is our feeling that our loyalties need to be strengthened and kept alive — that we need to show to those who doubt, that we are proud to be citizens of a great country and that we are not hesitant in expressing our pride.

This is particularly important so far as our young people are concerned. Pride must be developed in youth and if our young people are to grow up to be proud of their country, of their heritage as Canadians, then they must be taught by every means available the great privileges — and duties and responsibilities — which they as Canadians inherit. Included in their education must also be the stirring and visible evidences of the objects of their loyalty and pride — their Queen and their flag.

Honouring the Queen at public assemblies and the paying of respect to the flag are outward and visible signs of a deep inward feeling of loyalty. First, this feeling must be developed in our young through proper presentation of fact and then it will naturally follow there will be a desire to give public avowal of this feeling, not merely as a custom long established, but as a real and heartfelt expression of feeling.

Christmas shopping has not really got into high gear yet. One of these days it will happen. Men all of a sudden will remember that they have done nothing towards Christmas. The women folk who have been planning a long time ahead, and are methodically drawing up their list will really go to town. Then the problem will arise, what to do with the things that have been bought until the great day dawns. In any home there, of course, are little nooks and corners which can be pressed into service. If these prove too small there are always the neighbours.

The Scrooges among us will not be too happy about all this. They look on it as another method of prying money out of their pocket books. It is all too commercialized they will say; there is too much high pressure advertising and anyway people only give because others are giving.

Now, there may be some truth in this, but what would a mere man do about getting ready for Christmas were it not for the advertisements. A popular pastime these days is watch the mere man scanning the newspapers, and not always the funnies and the sporting page but the ladies' wear and toilet advertisements as well. It is alright. How is a man to know otherwise.

When the Scrooges in our midst tell us that the whole celebration of Christmas is an unhealthy custom, each person giving presents because others are doing it, they may have something. There is no doubt we are all moved to action by convention and custom. We have to keep in the swim or drown. We have a sneaking suspicion, though, that many of those who complain about having to bow to convention, just want to get out from under the responsibility of doing the generous thing. So even if social pressures make them loosen up a bit it is good for their souls. After all there are those who would rarely spend a nickel on a good cause if custom or convention did not compel them to do so. If so-called commercialization helps to force a man to become unselfish, we are for it even though on general principles we are opposed to compulsion.

But we like to think that this giving and receiving of gifts, which may be overdone a bit, in certain quarters, has a much deeper purpose and origin than appears on the surface. It is based on the first Christmas when the greatest gift that man ever received was presented to him. In these days of wars, hot, cold or warm, days of tension, national and personal greed, it is good to know that during one season of the year at least, we can concentrate on the welfare of others to the exclusion of our own selfish interests. After all that is one of the deep meanings of Christmas.

The Penny-farthing Philosopher

What has happened to these real pillars of good business, 'value for money' and 'courteous service'? We never hear any business house (or at least very few) who offer this to the public as an attraction, and as a reason for their patronage. Value for money there certainly is in most of the stores we know, and courtesy and friendly service is not hard to find in any town or village. Then why have these cardinal virtues been relegated to the background in favour of the less reputable and much more expensive methods of advertising?

This writer purchased clothing for his children in a town on Route 2 and was requested to deposit his sales slips in a box in the hope that perhaps he might win some more clothing. In other towns electrical apparatus and cars are given away free to lucky customers; in my own area, when I buy groceries the sales slip goes into a box and if it is drawn at the end of a week I shall receive groceries to twice the value of my original purchase. The question is this, do people buy from these stores because of the chance of winning something, or do they patronize the store because they like the quality of the goods and value offered together with a pleasant and helpful clerk on the other side of the counter? The latter is answer enough for me, but I wonder about other people. You see, the newspapers are full of 'free offers', 'chances', 'something for nothing' and there is being developed in the public mind the idea that along with a purchase should come a chance to win something big; also in the mind of the business man the idea is growing that it is the 'gimmick' that matters and not value-for-money.

I am not suggesting that businessmen using these advertising schemes are not giving value-for-money, as I have already stated that I make purchases at this type of store; I am certainly not suggesting that these 'chances' are illegal. What I am saying is that they are very undesirable as they inculcate in the public mind that desire for getting something for which no effort is made and for which nothing is given in return. This is the type of thinking that asks for more and more for less and less (we have a five day week — let's try now for four!); that keeps a factory idle for weeks on end — need we say more?

This Dominion was built out of sacrifice and hard work; our fathers cut their farmsteads out of the wilderness; an honest day's work for a day's pay was the rule. A man gave and expected in return value for money. It would be a shame if their heirs were to alter this under a mistaken idea of business advertising. There is no substitute for honest value; there is nothing which pays better dividends than friendly, courteous service. Businesses have been built and maintained on the basis of honest value and courtesy, and long after all the varieties of 'gimmicks' and advertising schemes have passed, these cardinal virtues will remain as a symbol of man's faith in his fellow. Two questions remain to be answered; how long before they return? and, how bad will this 'something-for-nothing' fetish get before it dies?

And now, excuse me, I have to slip out and mail those box-tops!

To find a career to which you are adapted by nature, and then to work hard at it, is about as near to a formula for success and happiness as the world provides. — Mark Sullivan.

You can't go ALL-OUT

If you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness harder to keep—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulates the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—stronger—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter.

... To print your own, that is. The Bank of England has made the counterfeiters' lot an even unhappier one by pressing a thin strip of aluminum foil into the paper used for making bank notes. Seems the do-it-yourself enthusiasts find it virtually impossible to duplicate.

It is nice to think that these will probably be a little bit of Canada wherever this new paper currency circulates. Great Britain imports 80% of her aluminum from Canada, and in turn represents one of the major markets for Canadian aluminum.

And silently walked away. Sadly missed by husband, Edward Outhouse, and children, Elsie Genevieve, Violet, Alvah, Ronald, Curtis, Edwin, Lloyd and Hugh. 14:1

Union — Gilliat
A wedding of interest to Nova Scotia friends and relatives took place at two o'clock on Saturday, November 19th, in the Bethany Congregational Church in Quincy, Mass., when Miss Doris Lorraine Gilliat, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Gilliat, 1621 Hancock St., was united in marriage to Robert Louis Johnson, son of Mrs. Gertrude Johnson, and the late Mr. Johnson, of Weymouth, Mass.

The Rev. John D. Banks officiated at the double ring ceremony and the nuptial music was played by the church organist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, presented a charming appearance in a gown of white nylon net over satin with fitted lace bodice, mandarin collar and cathedral sleeves, bouffant skirt with lace panels. Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion was arranged from a seed pearl cap. She carried a cascade of Eucharist lilies and stephanotis.

Mrs. Chester Brinton, Smith's Cove, N. S., was matron of honor for her cousin. She wore a ballerina gown of forest green iridescent taffeta, matching leaf headdress and carried a cascade of gold pompons and roses.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Neil Perry, Cambridge, Mass., and Mrs. John Back, of Weymouth, Mass., wore identical ballerina gowns of gold iridescent taffeta, matching headdresses and carried cascades of bronze 'mums.

Wesley Johnson, of Rockland, Mass., brother of the groom, was the best man. The ushers were Neil Perry, Cambridge, and John Back, Weymouth, Mass.

For the church, bouquets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums were used as chancel decorations and marked the guest pews, while silver candelabra, with lighted candles, graced the altar, where the marriage vows were exchanged.

The bride's mother wore a gown of raspberry crystaletta with matching hat and mink stole. She wore a corsage of roses. The mother of the groom was gowned in copper taffeta and lace with matching accessories. Her corsage was of roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Brantree Yacht Club, where one hundred and thirty guests stood in line to offer felicitations to the young couple.

The guest book was in charge of Mrs. William Woodman, of Smith's Cove, aunt of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson spent their honeymoon at the Hotel Roosevelt, in New York, and are now at home to their friends in their new home, 3 Church St., Weymouth Heights.

The bride is a graduate of Quincy High School and holds a responsible position with the Nabisco Biscuit Company, Quincy. Mr. Johnson, also graduated from Quincy High, served three

OBITUARIES

Mark Longworth
Word was received here Sunday of the sudden passing in Truro, of Mark Longworth, age 72. Mr. Longworth was born in Bolton Lancashire, England, and came to Canada after serving in the first world war.

He then married Stella Austin, Smith's Cove, Digby County, and carried on a successful florist business in that village. After the death of his wife six years ago, Mr. Longworth moved from Smith's Cove. Although in poor health for some years his passing came as a shock to relatives and friends. Mr. Longworth is survived by years in the U. S. Navy and is assistant foreman for the Nabisco Co.

Previous to her marriage showers were given the bride by the Tri-s group of Bethany Church and the Canadian Legion Auxiliary, she having been an active member in each group. The array of beautiful wedding gifts testified to the popularity of both the participants. The gift from their fellow employees was a six piece silver table service.

Miss Gilliat was born in Smith's Cove, but moved to Mass. shortly after, with her parents. She is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Gilliat, Smith's Cove.

The funeral service was held one son, Donald, of Midland, Ontario. Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock from St. Anne's chapel, Smith's Cove, with Rev. Mr. Armstrong, the rector, officiating. Preceding the service the body rested at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. J. J. Wallis, Smith's Cove.

John F. Hersey
John F. Hersey, a veteran of the first and second World Wars, died suddenly at his home here Friday morning. Well known in Digby, Mr. Hersey had seemed his usual self earlier in the day and his sudden passing came as a severe shock. He was 61 years of age.

Born in Digby, Mr. Hersey was a son of the late Captain Charles and Mary (Dakin) Hersey. He is survived by three sons, Robert and Charles, Digby, and Raymond, who is stationed with the Canadian Army at Debert; and three daughters, Catherine (Mrs. George Kenney) and Mary (Mrs. Raymond Williams), Bedford, N. S., and Louise (Mrs. Hanford Glavin), Digby. One sister, Mrs. Arthur Melanson, Kentville, also survives as do three brothers, Wallace, Digby; Charles, Lynn, Mass., and Matthew, Woodstock, N. B. Also surviving are nine grandchildren. His wife, the former Lena Comeau, and one son, Richard, predeceased him several years ago.

The funeral service was held Monday afternoon with interment in Woodland cemetery, Rev. E. C. Churchill, pastor of the Digby Baptist church, officiated.

John Daley
The death of John Daley occurred very suddenly in Digby. Although in ill health for months he had not been confined to bed. His unexpected passing came as a shock to relatives and friends.

Mr. Daley was a resident of Culloden where he spent his entire life and was known in the community for his kind disposition. Surviving are his widow, Katie; one daughter, Winnifred (Mrs. Joseph Boone); and three sons, Herbert and Ronald, Culloden, and John, of the R.C.A.F., Quebec.

Funeral services were held from the Digby Baptist Church conducted by Rev. Churchill, assisted by Rev. Brooks. Interment was in the Digby United cemetery.

The deserts and the wilderness rejoice, and angels whisper, Peace, good will to earth. — Robert Ellis Key.

Have Christmas Service

The regular monthly meeting of the United Baptist Church W.M.S., Smith's Cove, was held in the church vestry Dec. 1st. The President, Miss Sue Winchester, presided. The theme was "The Dayspring From on High."

Mrs. Charles Foster directed the meditation with Scripture verses, bringing out the idea that Jesus came not only to lead to heaven, but more especially that righteous lives be lived here on earth.

Prayers were led by Mrs. Geo. Winchester and Mrs. Gordon Landers. A special offering was given for Baptist World Alliance.

After a brief business meeting a program was directed by Miss Ada Winchester as follows:

Reading — "The Birth of Jesus" — Mrs. A. MacLean.
Solo — "Holy Night, Silent Night" — Mrs. Ruth Walker.
Reading — "Mystery of Incarnation" — Mrs. Alice Brinton.
One verse of hymn — "O Come All Ye Faithful."
Reading — "Meaning of Christmas" — Mrs. Geneva Adams.

Reading — "His Great Name" — Mrs. Alleen Woodman.
Prayer by Miss Winchester and Mrs. Ruth Walker closed the meeting.

For this meeting the table in front was laid with open Bible surrounded by six lighted candles.

CARS ARE MY LIFE

by Ken Hankinson

It takes more than an extra scarf and overshoes to beat the winter. In the best homes, the cod liver oil and vitamin pills get dished out, too.

It's the same with cars — winter chains and antifreeze aren't enough. Winter does most of its damage inside a car, where you can't see it.

Winter is the time you should consider using Ethyl gasolines. If you're not doing so now. Gasolines, as you probably know, aren't the same all year round. They're changed to meet the temperatures of summer and winter, and Ethyl gasolines are usually better adjusted to these changes.

Feeding the car gasoline that ignites as easily in winter as in summer cuts down extra wintertime engine wear.

A heavy duty motor oil is a good idea for winter, too, because of its ability to neutralize acids. In the winter, a car does a better job than ever of turning out destructive acids.

It's a process that goes on all the time, but in the winter water condenses on the cold walls of the crankcase and then, with the oil and crankcase fumes, turns into a very efficient etching acid.

Despite its problems, winter is the happiest time of all to own a car. It's then, with a car whisking you through the storm, that you realize how much a car can mean.

It's a good time to buy a used car. When you look them over at our place, you know that every car on the lot has been thoroughly inspected, and gone over for the winter extras, as well.

No better quality at any price!

When you're really thirsty, you may as well buy the best

THE SHIRT JOB

Chances are you get a "helping" of aluminum as part of your daily diet. Most cities use aluminum sulphate to purify the water from lakes and rivers. Oshawa, for instance, has used it for this purpose for 35 years.

Usually, however, aluminum is associated with the outside of foods. In cooking utensils, cups and frozen food containers—in wrappings for cakes and candy and roasts and left-overs—in bottle tops and hoods—aluminum helps keep what we eat and drink fresh and pure and wholesome.

MARRIAGE

Magee — Titus
The home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Titus was the scene of a pretty wedding Monday evening when Rev. George Sharpe, pastor of the United Baptist Church united in marriage Beulah Adella, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Titus, Westport, and LAC Alfred Edward Magee, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Magee, of Edmonton, Alberta.

The room was attractively decorated and the happy couple stood under an archway of pink streamers and white bells. The bride looked charming in an aqua dress of ballerina length with full nylon skirt, lace strapless bodice over taffeta with pleated nylon at the top and a short-sleeved bolero. Her head-dress was of net and flowers. She carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations and corsage of yellow carnations. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Clarence Titus, presently of Saint John. The bride's mother was at tired in a navy dress and had a corsage of red carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson signed the register.

The bride's table was beautifully decorated with silver candles, white, yellow and mauve carnations and pink streamers and white bells from each corner. A three tier wedding cake was in the centre of the table and was decorated prettily with a dove on the top. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Arthur Titus, Mrs. Walter Titus Jr., Mrs. Harold Thompson and Mrs. Edgington Titus. Mrs. Gordon Dakin poured. There were about twenty guests, members of the immediate family.

Telegrams of congratulations were received from the groom's relatives who were unable to attend. The couple received a number of gifts, including money, linen, china, silver, etc.

"PAY CASH — CARRY AND SAVE"

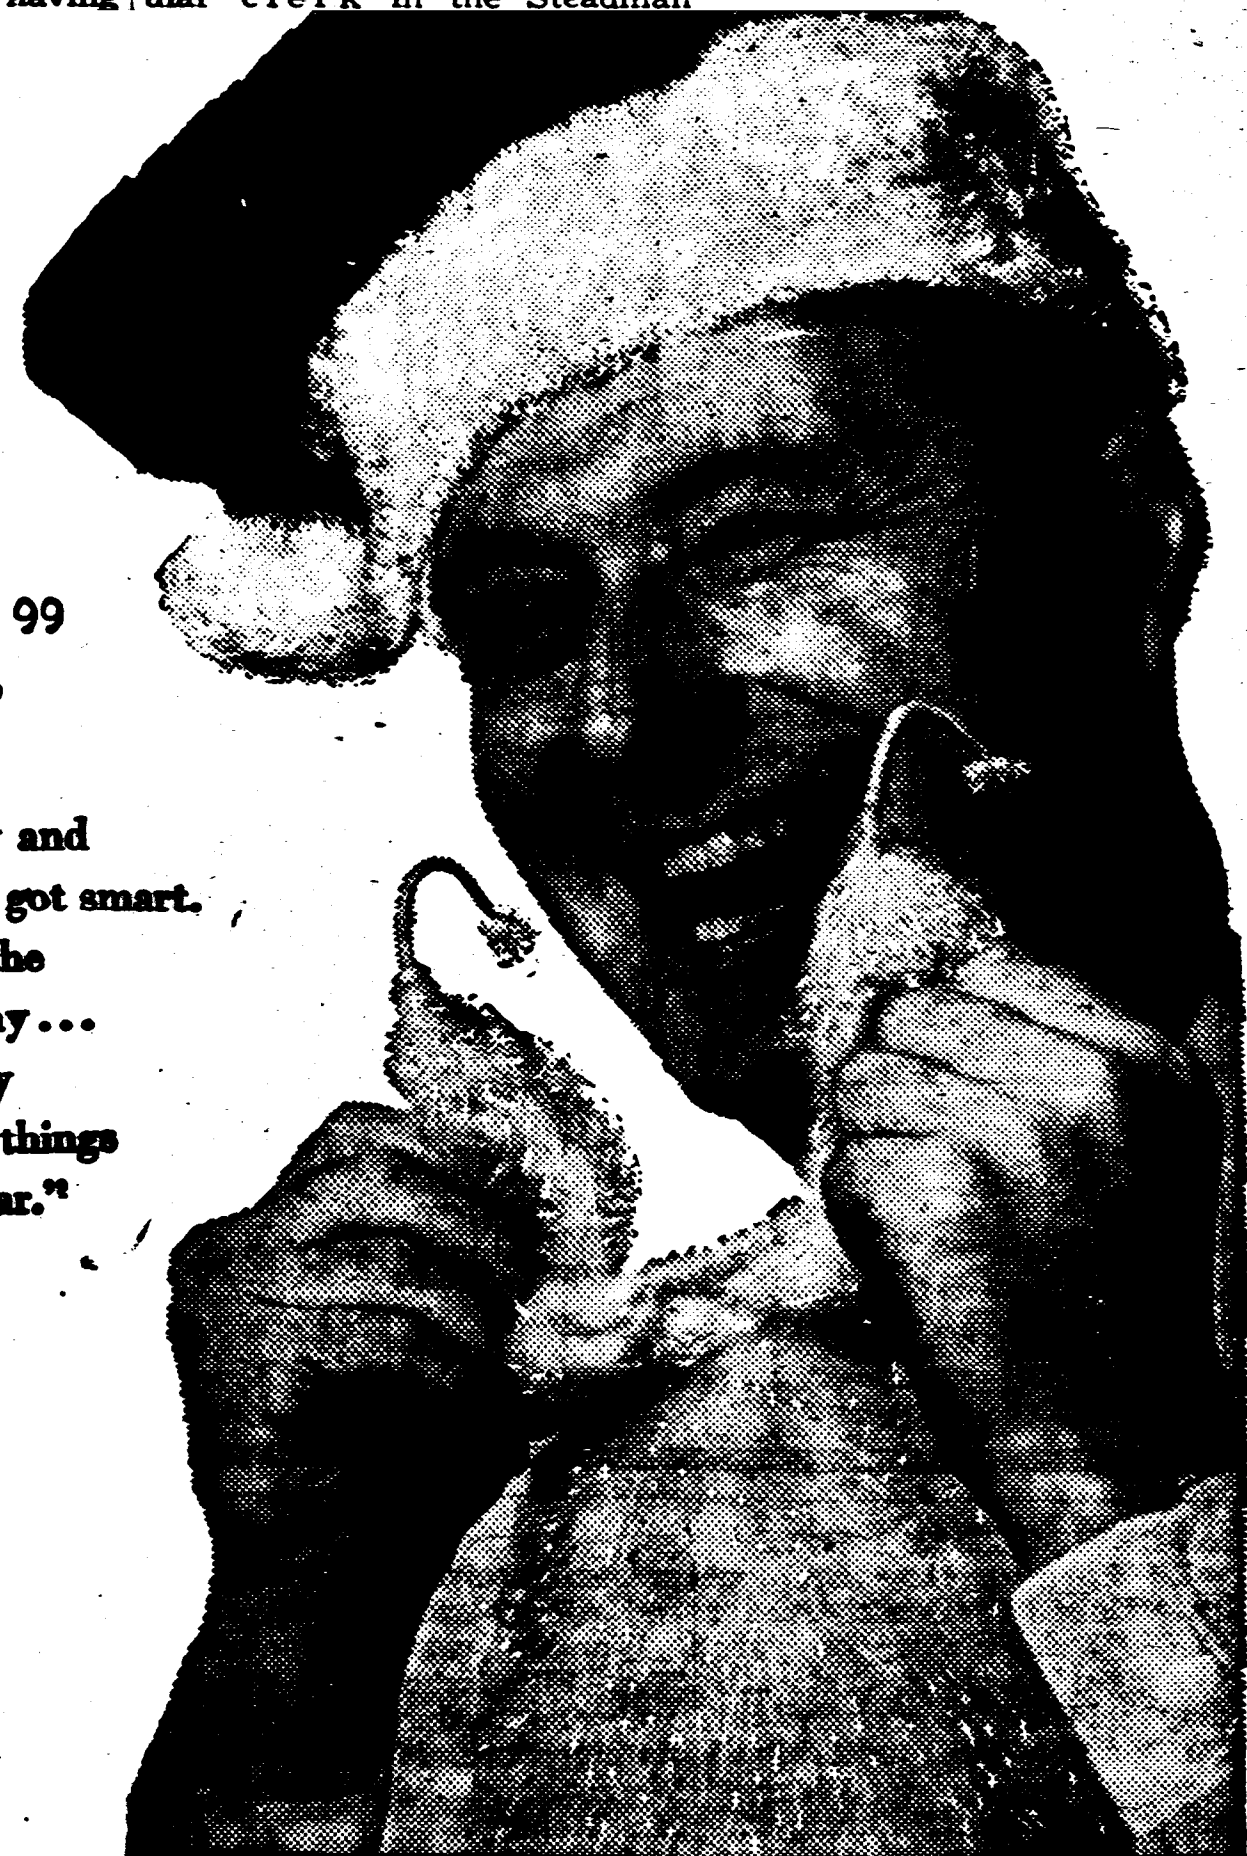

Nova Scotia

Christmas used to drive me crazy!

"Every year it was the same. Presents to buy and cash at low ebb. Running up bills... then I got smart. I started a special Christmas account* at the Royal Bank, adding something each pay day... and leaving it there. This year I'm all ready for Christmas, with cash to pay for all the things that mean so much at this season of the year."

* You can have cash next Christmas, too. Decide now to open a special Christmas account early in 1956. It pays to do your Christmas saving early.

Letter To The Editor

Minx Cove,
Digby Neck, N. S.,
Dec. 2nd, 1955.

To The Editor,
The Digby Courier,
Digby, N. S.

My Dear Sir:
May I, through the columns of your valued paper, correct, or try to correct, an impression I seem to have made at the meeting held in Digby Regional High School on the evening of December first?

First: I am not in favor of "bringing back the Little Red Schoolhouse". Second: I am in staffed and equipped. But, if, as I understand it, this unit is especially to serve the Digby Neck area, why should it be located in Digby?

The Regional High School now serves an area within a nine mile radius of Digby and is filled to capacity.

Mr. Crowell has given us to understand that the new school will be built. The Municipality and the Provincial Government will finance it — that is, we pay for it. What I can't get through my thick head is why it will cost more to build and staff the school at some central place on Digby Neck, than it will to build, equip and staff the same school in Digby?

Then, whether the school is in Digby or elsewhere, they have to buy and maintain buses to carry pupils to and from. Then would not the maintenance cost of these buses be less for the short trip to and from some central point on the Neck than it would if they had to make the sixty-mile trip from East Ferry to Digby and back each day?

The question was asked at the meeting, "What have these isolated communities to offer as inducements for teachers?" To me this is a new angle of approach. We generally wonder "What inducement does the teacher possess that the community should engage her?" Of course, in answer to the first question one has only to take note of the number of young women who have come to this area to teach school and who have married and remained here, to feel that we must have something to offer beside fish and scenery!!

And never disparage the product of the "Little Red Schoolhouse" on Digby Neck! Dr. Fred Morehouse, retired Supervisor of Halifax City Schools, his brother, Dr. Bert Morehouse, are products of that same "Little Red Schoolhouse" at Sandy Cove. The late Dr. Lyman Denton and Dr. Harvey L. Denton, now of Saint John, received their early education at Little River. There are numerous others whose names I do not recall at the moment.

We are self respecting, self supporting people. We ask no gifts, but, since the school is going to be built and since the new unit on Digby Neck, where it belongs? We'll guarantee you graduates worthy of the school!

Very truly yours,
Maria E. V. Gidney.

A Baltimore Oriole of beautiful orange-yellow shade remains with the fox sparrows and other kinds of sparrows. Blue jays, robins, red-winged blackbirds and other kinds of blackbirds fly around in numbers. Many juncos are also seen and a discal remained until the storm of November 20th.

DIGBY, NOVA SCOTIA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1955

VOLUME LXXXII, No. 15

STRIKE SITUATION BECOMES CONFUSED

The strike situation, which has tied up the Bay of Fundy ferry, Princess Helene, since September 20th, became confused this week with conflicting statements from Hal Banks, Vice-President of the S.I.U., and N. R. Crump, President of the C.P.R.

On Monday Mr. Banks, in a radio interview, claimed he had made an offer to the C.P.R. in which the members of his union had agreed to return to their work aboard the Princess Helene for a period of two weeks while negotiations to settle the labour dispute which has tied up the ship were continued.

Mr. Banks repeated this offer in a telephone conversation with James P. Richards, President of the Digby Board of Trade, on Tuesday. He said his union was willing to give a written agreement concerning the union offer to return to work.

Mr. Banks stated he informed the C.P.R. officials of his offer but had received no response from them. He stated he felt the negotiations and strike committees of the union had done all they could to have the Princess Helene put back into service immediately.

He said if the C.P.R. would respond to their offer the ship could return to service within a day.

The men of the S.I.U., Mr. Banks said, feel the hardships caused by the layoff of the Princess Helene are being so heavily felt, especially in Western Nova Scotia, that they were willing to return to work immediately at their former rate of pay while negotiations on the dispute between the union and the C.P.R. continued so that the boat could go into service immediately.

In his conversation with Mr. Richards, the union leader said his union was willing to give an agreement not to tie up the service again while negotiations continued even if this took longer than the original offer of two weeks.

"So far," Mr. Banks said, "the C.P.R. officials have not given any acknowledgement of our offer and have made no comment." He stated he felt everything had now been done by the union in an attempt to get the Princess Helene back into service.

Donald Wetmore, of the Department of Education, Adult Education Division, was adjudicator. Mr. Wetmore highly praised the participants in their efforts and offered much valuable constructive criticism for future presentations.

The Digby play, by costume, stage and content, took its hearers back to the year 1812, and the landing of privateers at the village of Broad Cove, Digby County.

Dr. Wetmore complimented Mr. Powell on the play itself and commended it as a good play for school students to present, because of its adventure appeal to young people. He found the play well acted, staging, lighting and make-up in general good and offered suggestions in regard to minor details which might tend to an even better presentation. The players were vocally strong, he said, not artificial but natural, relaxed and sincere in their playing. The players were Marilyn Stark, Michael Hayden, Ruth Wallis, Doris Murley, Jean Snow, Ruth Murley, Donal Hazelton and Lowell Winchester. Miss Bonnie Wright announced the play and gave a short preview. Promoters were Miss Wright and Miss Helen Harding. Stage hands were Richard Ellis and Edward Sulis.

The stage props for the Digby play were all made by the mechanical science class of the Digby Regional High School under the supervision of the teacher, Mr. Powell.

The Annapolis Royal play was entitled "Sauce for the vice and he was now leaving to return to Montreal.

On the heels of Mr. Banks' phone call to the Digby Board President came a telegram from N. R. Crump, President of the C.P.R., in response to one sent to him concerning Banks' offer, stating that "No such proposal has been made to this company".

At a Board of Trade meeting later Tuesday evening Mr. Richards telephoned the S.I.U. leader in Saint John asking for an explanation of the situation. Mr. Banks stated he had not made any offers to the C.P.R., other than the original one made some time ago.

It was decided at the Board meeting that the President would telephone Hon. Milton Gregg, Minister of Labour, outlining the situation to him and bringing him up to date on developments, seeking departmental intervention to bring the parties together in agreement.

LATER: Yesterday morning Hal Banks, Vice-President of the S.I.U., phoned Mr. Richards again and stated that at a meeting of his union in Saint John Tuesday evening a resolution had been passed to send a telegram to the Labour Minister outlining the proposal made by the union and asking that the minister contact the proper authorities in the C.P.R. concerning the matter.

Mr. Banks stated the telegram had been sent Wednesday morning and that it said that in an effort to overcome the confusion in the Princess Helene matter the union wished to reiterate the offer made from Paris by Mr. Banks to return to work and would give a fifteen days guarantee of uninterrupted service.

The telegram was being sent, Mr. Banks said, in order to cooperate with the Labour Department who had worked so hard to bring about a settlement of the difficulties and in order to assist in alleviating the hardships caused by the layoff of the Princess Helene.

A Labour Department spokesman in Ottawa late yesterday afternoon confirmed receipt by the Minister of the telegram from Banks of the S.I.U.

Goslings", written by Elgine Warren and directed by Mr. Vernon Dalton, of the Annapolis Royal School staff. The play was designed with an emphasis on good speech and the adjudicator commended the players for realizing this as noted in their precise diction. The players were Roy Freeman, Marie Vroom, Billy Ryan, Barbara Weary, Carolyn Ritcey, Douglas Parker and Velma Bacon.

The play presented by Bear River was "Dollar Day", depicting a scene in a department store. Players were Marjorie Harris, Jocelyn Elliott, Phyllis Dunn, Patricia Thompson, LeRoy Wagner, Wendell Benson, Ruth Ruggles, Diana Scragg, and Ann McDonald. Director was Mrs. Josephine MacIntyre.

In adjudicating the Bear River play, Mr. Wetmore complimented the cast for the delightful, attractive and sufficient stage setting for the play and also for the activity created in the background, adding to the naturalness of the scene. Although the plot of the play was not sufficient to catch interest and made presentation difficult, the players were complimented on the vitality they displayed in the presentation and their well made entrances and exits.

Digby students entertained the visiting players at refreshment hour at the close of the festival.

At the regular meeting of Zelma Rebekah Lodge, No. 78, Monday night an Initiatory Degree was conferred on Lorna Graham, Joyce Daley, Vera Munday and Ruth Morehouse.

The following officers were elected to be installed January 9th: N.G., Rena Dunn; V.C., Evelyn Patterson; Recording Secretary, Eva Fleet; Financial

Christmas Social Event

Chan's Coffee Shoppe was the scene of a delightful Christmas social event on Tuesday evening when Mrs. Flora Lindstrom was hostess at eight tables of bridge.

In keeping with the season red candles in silver holders, holly and evergreens adorned the tables and room where a delicious full course chicken dinner was served. After three rounds of bridge refreshments, consisting of soft drink and dainty cookies were served.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Wilma Christie, first; Mrs. D. G. Black, second; Mrs. Margaret Carson and Mrs. E. J. Theriault, lucky prizes; Miss Louise Daley, travelling prize, and Mrs. Frank Hayden, pianist gift.

V.O.N. Aids In Many Innoculations

Six hundred inoculations against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus were given in Digby at the nine clinics held in October and November. It was revealed by the nurse, Miss Mary Blair, at a regular meeting of the Digby Branch Victorian Order of Nurses, held at the Court House on Tuesday. Miss Blair thanked Mrs. Paul Snow and Mrs. Charles Hersey for their assistance.

Miss Blair reported ten new cases admitted to the V.O.N. service in November, nine attended the three well-baby conferences and 168 children were checked for infection and given first aid during the sixteen hours spent at school.

Miss Blair was appointed to represent the V.O.N. on the Welfare Co-ordinating Committee set up at the Digby Psychiatric Clinic recently. The co-ordinating committee will have a social service index for reference to avoid overlapping of welfare services.

A nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers to be voted on at the annual meeting was appointed by the chair, and consists of Mrs. J. W. Christie, Mrs. J. M. Wallis and Mrs. John Russell.

V.O.N. Week was announced for February 19 to 25 and the Publicity committee convened by Mrs. G. Victor Turnbull, was named in charge of the week's activities in Digby.

C.G.I.T. In Annual Christmas Vespers

The C.G.I.T. of Grace United Church, under the leadership of Mrs. A. J. Dillon, held the annual candle-lighting service at the church on Sunday evening. Taking part in the service besides the leader, were Misses Jane Purdy, Joyce Beckwith, Jody Morrell, readers; Lella Clayton, Carolyn McCleave, June Hawkins, Evelyn O'Neill, candle-lighters; Sheila VanTassel and Elaine Keen, who received the offering.

Mrs. Hugh Dickie, soloist, rendered beautifully the vocal selection "O Holy Night". Rev. James Brooks took as his subject for discourse the C.G.I.T. purpose; to cherish health, seek truth, know God, and serve others; and expounded on the responsibilities entailed in the keeping of the purposes.

To Present Pantomime

Something new in entertainment in this area is to be presented at the Recreation Centre at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis on Friday evening.

This will be an English style pantomime entitled "Snow White and the Seven O.D.'s". The pantomime, long a favorite style of Christmas entertainment in England, will be in the Cornwallis presentation, complete with sparkling music, brilliant colour and catchy songs. The entire production will be produced, staged and presented by personnel of the naval base and promises to be excellent entertainment. Curtain time is set for 8 p.m.

A special matinee performance of the pantomime will be held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, especially for the children.

Secretary, Jean Raymond; Treasurer, Alice Winfield. The character was then draped in memory of Past President Bessie Lohnes who recently passed away.

Speaks On Education Act

Victor Cardoza, M.L.A. for Digby, was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Smith's Cove Home and School Association Tuesday evening.

Taking as his subject "Education in Nova Scotia", Mr. Cardoza traced the development of education in the province from the early efforts to secure a system of free education for the children of Nova Scotia through to the adoption of the new Education Act this year.

He explained in considerable detail the provisions of the new Education Act and also told of changes made in the Municipal Act which affected the education program.

Digby Teachers Write New Textbook

The first text book on Home Making for young Canadians to be written and published in Canada will shortly make its appearance, it was learned here this week.

Written and prepared by the Home Economics teachers of the Digby Regional High School, Miss Mary Davidson and Mrs. Joseph Campbell, the new book will be published by Dent's Ltd. of Toronto, and is scheduled to appear about January 1st.

A text book for beginners in Grades VII and VIII, the new book, entitled "Home Making For Young Canadians" has been edited by Miss Ruth Binney of the Home Economics Division of the Nova Scotia Department of Education. It contains some 250 pages and took the two Digby teachers about two years to develop and write.

Both of the authors of the new book have been on the staff of the Digby Regional High School for the past three years. Miss Davidson is a native of St. Stephen, N.B., and is a graduate of Mount Allison University. Mrs. Campbell, the former Anna Dunn, is a native of Dartmouth,

Last week the Finnish freighter "Margareta" took on a cargo of long lumber for Belfast, Ireland. Registered in Marrehamn, Finland, the Margareta is skippered by Captain A. K. Stromberg. She has a net tonnage of 1365 and a gross of 2693.

Waiting in the stream for the Michael to complete loading is the freighter Diana. It is expected she will take on a cargo of pitprops.

Two gypsum freighters have also taken on cargoes of gypsum from the storage shed at Deep Brook in the past week. They were the S.S. Blylly, registered in Monrovia, Liberia, and the S.S. Ingferre, registered in Bergen, Norway.

Tree Shipments Estimated At 3,000 Carloads

Christmas tree shipments from the Atlantic Provinces will be about the same as last time when some 3,000 carloads were shipped from Canadian National Railways' stations in eastern Canada, representing some nine million trees. Christmas tree exporters, when interviewed, said that the recent snowstorms had greatly interfered with the cut this season; otherwise it would have been a record year. Cutting will be about two weeks later this year; usually it ends between December 5 and 10 but this year it will extend to around December 17.

While the quantity will be about the same, the value will be about 15 per cent greater. Last year the total value was estimated at around $5,000,000. 00, New Brunswick's share being $2,000,000.00, and that of Nova Scotia $3,000,000.00, which would make the total value for these two provinces this season in the vicinity of $5,750,000.00.

Shipments from Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland are practically negligible, these two provinces not participating in the Christmas tree trade to any great extent. Prince Edward Island has practically no forests, while Newfoundland's distance from the markets, and shipping difficulties, mitigate against shipments from that province.

Canada supplies about one quarter of the Christmas trees used in the United States, or out of every ten Christmas trees cut in Canada, seven are shipped across the border.

Balsam fir is first choice, spruce comes next and then pine and cedar. Trees are usually shipped in bundles, and in most demand are trees from 5 to 6 feet in height, and in all lengths sawn butts are wanted.

The small Christmas tree, from one to three feet in length, has come into greater demand, particularly among city apartment dwellers who usually buy through the supermarkets or grocery stores.

H. & S. HAS CHRISTMAS MEETING

Christmas was the theme of Tiverton Home & School Association's December 8th meeting. The aims and objects of Home & School preceded the business, which dealt with vitamin capsules and fund raising.

At the conclusion of the business meeting the Christmas story was given in the glow of candles and tree lights, with the audience participating in the telling of the story by singing carols.

Poems and readings were given by Mrs. Burton Shortliffe, Miss Lillie Small, Mrs. Chester Outhouse and Mrs. Thurstons. Mrs. Herbert Cossa, boom was in charge of the program which ended in a gay spirit with a comic skit by Mrs. David Outhouse and Mrs. Lawrence Outhouse, followed by gifts which were distributed to all by Mr. Jack Pyne. After these refreshments were served and the evening ended in a social half hour.

Former Digby Teacher Writes

Miss Theresa Robicheau, of Weymouth North, formerly of the teaching staff of the Digby Public Schools, writes this week to the Courier regarding life in Medicine Hat, Alberta, where she is now teaching school. Excerpts from her letter follow:

"Perhaps you will be interested in knowing something about my stay here in Medicine Hat. To my mind this is a beautiful city and is vastly different from any part of Nova Scotia. The people are all very nice and I have a wonderful boarding place. I have a Grades I and II class of thirty pupils who enjoy coming to school as much as I enjoy teaching them. As well I enjoy every bit of my church work—Sunday School, C.G.I.T. and choir practice and singing in the choir twice a day. I hope to start studying English by correspondence very soon. I will not be at home for Christmas this year and it will be the first Christmas I've missed. I have invitations for Christmas and New Years and in between times I plan to do some sewing. Previously I planned to spend a few days of vacation in Calgary but I decided to wait for better weather. We went to Calgary the weekend of Remembrance Day but we were not able to see the mountains from there as they are still miles away. The next weekend we went to Lethbridge to see the Passion Play.

Lately we have had beautiful weather. The temperature is always hovering around zero. On different mornings I walked to school in -3, -17 and -20 degrees. But this is quite different from air from the salt water. The snow is quite dry, the sun shines on it all day and still the kids can't make snowmen.

Our trees for Christmas are imported from B. C. they sure are scarce around here.

Miss McRae and Miss Bishop have both written very interesting letters.

Will close now, wishing you and yours season's greetings and all the best for the coming year.

Sincerely,

Theresa Robicheau

WEYMOUTH GROUP HAS CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Helping Hand Group of the United Church enjoyed a delightful Christmas party following their regular meeting held on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Scott Hankinson. Fifteen members and three visitors sat down to a lobster salad, rolls, and snow pudding repast served at the daintily appointed table. Christmas trimmings made the dining and living rooms gay and a Christmas tree and gifts formed part of the living room decoration.

The supper table with its lace covering held candelabra and a Christmas centerpiece, the repast being held by candle light. Gifts were exchanged following the supper.

DONATIONS RECEIVED BY DIGBY RED CROSS

At the regular business meeting of the Digby Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society here, Dr. T. W. Hodgson, President of the branch, reported a donation of $100 from Max M. Naftal Ltd., as an expression of gratitude for the work done by the Digby Red Cross in supplying coffee and sandwiches for the firefighters at the blaze which swept the Naftal pitprop yard here some months ago.

Dr. Hodgson also reported receipt of a donation from Mrs. W. K. Ganong for use of the Red Cross hospital bed. He extended a welcome to the newly elected Secretary of the branch, Mrs. Elton Arnold, and the Assistant Secretary, Mrs. Allen Harris.

Tribute was paid to the work of Mrs. Annie Jefferson, a member of the Digby Red Cross, who over the past year has made for the branch 59 pairs of booties, 32 girl's sweaters, 10 baby jackets, 2 baby bonnets, a baby's quilt, girl's skirt and girl's dress and four aprons. Mrs. Jefferson also cut two bolts of flannelette into garments and made and donated to the branch a large quilt.

Mrs. H. M. Warne, who recently returned from a meeting of the provincial Red Cross executive in Halifax, stated the provincial executive were greatly impressed by the amount and quality of the work being done by the Digby branch and extended sincere congratulations.

It was also reported at the meeting here that Christmas welfare boxes were now being packed for needy families. Mrs. Warne also reported on the meeting of the welfare co-ordinating committee meeting and was appointed as the Red Cross representative on this committee.

It was decided to suspend meetings of the local Red Cross until January 2nd.

Elects Slate

Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Gough entertained members of the United Church Friendly Circle at the manse in Annapolis Royal on Wednesday evening, Dec. 17. During the evening the annual business meeting was held, with Rev. Mr. Gough acting as chairman.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Stewart Condon; vice-president, Mrs. Frank R. Troop; Secretary, Mrs. J. A. Ruffee; and Treasurer, Mrs. Walter Sarty.

Mrs. K. L. Oliver, the retiring president, thanked the members for their splendid cooperation and interest during the three years she had been president of the group.

A motion was carried that in future the group be known as the Granville Ferry United Church W. A. Friendly Circle.

Fifty metal stacking chairs have been ordered by the group to be used in the vestry of the church, in place of the wooden benches which have been in use for many years.

The treasurer's report showed a very successful year had been enjoyed by the members, keen interest is shown by the group, and three new members having been welcomed recently.

Plans were finalized at this meeting for the annual congregational Christmas party, which will be held in the vestry of the Granville Ferry United Church on Wednesday evening, Dec. 28.

ACACIAVILLE MAN IS STABBED IN STOMACH

Arthur Johnson, forty-five year old resident of Acaciaville, near Digby, was stabbed in the stomach Monday evening at his home during a family altercation.

It is understood the stabbing occurred about 6:30 Monday evening after Johnson had reprimanded his son, Peter Johnson, aged 20.

The injured man was rushed to the Digby General Hospital where his condition was first reported as serious. Later it was learned his condition was much improved and that he had responded well to treatment.

The younger Johnson was taken into custody by the RCMP later in the evening and lodged in jail in Digby. It is not known whether charges will be laid in the affair.

Col. Leefe, of the West Nova Scotia Regiment (M.G.) inspected "C" Company on November 18th. In an address to the unit he commended the officers and members of the company on their smart appearance and fine turnout.

On Sunday, November 20th, the company reported at Aldershot for an inspection and to have a film made for television. Because of the severe snow storm the project had to be called off.

Pay parade was held for the company on December 8th, at Cornwallis. The annual Christmas party for the company will be held at Cornwallis on December 15th.

Between now and the spring the Regiment will take part in exercise "Smart". At the close of this, the best company will be presented with a trophy and the best man with a blazer with regimental crest.

The Christmas meeting of the Baptist W.M.A.s was held in the Granville Ferry United Baptist Church on Tuesday evening, December 7th, and was open to the public.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. R. H. Bond, assisted on the platform by Mrs. A. Earle McKenzie and Mrs. Kenneth E. Green.

Mrs. McKenzie read the scripture and Mrs. Green offered prayer and also gave an interesting talk on mission hospitals in India.

Mrs. Bond was in charge of the devotional period. A special number was rendered by the choir, "O Brother Man", with Mrs. R. T. Chisholm presiding at the organ.

A motion picture, filmed by Dr. Ben Gullison in his Somapeta Indian Hospital, "Baludu, the Blind Boy", depicting the skill of his native eye specialist, Dr. Coapullai, was shown, and was viewed with keen interest by the congregation, many of whom have met Dr. Gullison when he visited from time to time in Granville Ferry.

About This and That

The Digby Forum. Wait Until The Whistle Blows

"Don't judge the Recreation Commission until after the whistle has blown. Then applaud and pat yourself on the back if you have helped." That's the idea we want to get over to the public, said Karl Young, member of the Recreation Commission, when he was interviewed by the Digby Courier this week regarding rumors of a "new look" and a "bustle of activity at the Forum."

And the rumors proved to be correct. We were advised that the ice making machinery is in top shape and a job of "face lifting" and painting has given the interior of the Forum a creditable appearance. Boards about the ice surface have been painted with a shiny coat of white, dressing rooms and players' facilities have been sheathed and painted. The Recreation Commission, Mr. Young said, expects the players and public to enjoy these rooms and refrain from destructive actions and unbecoming conduct. Violators, it is understood, will be evicted from the Forum and permitted to return only upon application to and with the approval of the Recreation Commission.

New lights over the goals, similar to those used in the large rinks, will electrify with a brilliant flash of red and blue to prompt the spectators immediately when goals are scored. A large illuminated sign over the main entrance reading "Digby Forum" and directional signs at the paved road intersection will make visiting friends aware that Digby has a Forum. The new parking facilities and gravelled entrance is expected by the commission to save a lot of frayed nerves and lost rubbers, so says Mr. Young. The part of Mr. Young's story which caused him to relate with most exuberance was when he told us that practically all of the improvements were free, as donations from interested individuals and clubs. He is expecting many more names to be added to his list of donors which he advises will be publicly acknowledged. The public, he said, will be given progress reports, financial statements and reports on activities at the rink. They are inviting constructive criticism and suggestions from clubs and organizations to which they plan to submit reports from the Forum. This, the commission feels, will bring any criticism directly to the commission where it should go, rather than used as street corner conversation.

To date we have been informed by our spokesman that there is a waiting and surprise element about the activities of the Ravens. But the school is cooperating splendidly, and two hockey players from the Ravens will devote most of their non-playing time in coaching high school and lower grade school pupils. They will conduct games and supervise in cooperation with the school teachers. They are looking for a top quality competitive team and maybe a winner from the Digby Regional High School in the Suburban League. A comprehensive schedule for school skating, including all ages, under capable instructors, has been worked out, and the Forum will be open for the rush at eight o'clock on Saturday morning. Skating programs for the Christmas holidays have also been arranged.

Among other Forum activities planned for the winter, we understand, will be carnivals, moccasin dances and other gaities, for the enjoyment, particularly, of the young people.

It looks to us as if the Forum and Recreation Commission have taken a new lease on life. It looks as if they are on the right track to keep the Forum in constant use and making an all out effort to make the deal pay off. We can only add our commendation to their efforts and urge the public to give their support to their projects. When you help the commission, you are helping your town and giving the children an opportunity for some good, clean, wholesome sport. A new and firm grasp seems to have been taken to the reigns of the Forum this winter and we go along with Mr. Young in his request, "Don't judge the Recreation Commission until the whistle has blown. Then applaud and pat yourself on the back if you have helped."

Walking Or Driving, Holiday Care Urged

Hundreds of Canadians are likely to be killed or injured during the 1955 Christmas-New Year holiday season unless motorists and pedestrians are more careful than last year.

Most of the fatalities that spoil the annual festivities could be avoided, according to the Automobile Club of America, if partygoers would observe the following pointers:

1. Don't drive if you plan to drink.
2. When either driving or walking be extremely careful — perhaps the other fellow will have been drinking.
3. Don't ride with anybody who has been drinking.
4. If you take "one for the road", make it coffee.

Who Pays For Advertising?

Nobody pays for advertising but the non-advertiser, according to the definition of advertising written some years ago by Professor John H. Casey of the University of Oklahoma.

Professor Casey wrote: "What is advertising?" One form of salesmanship. Purpose? To sell. Who pays for it? John and Mary Public say they do, indirectly. Solomon Isaac Business Man says, he knows too well that he pays for advertising.

"But I say the customer does not pay for an advertising bill if the advertising is effective, efficiently done, run in the right medium at the right time, and is, in every other respect, right."

"For when the greater demand for goods is created by advertising more goods can be manufactured in larger quantities, and shelves restocked at less cost per unit of production per item of merchandise in consequence of that created demand, either at less cost of with more quality at the same cost — which amounts to the same thing."

"There you have the theory of mass production and quantity buying packed together in a pecan shell."

Yes, the merchant is sure he pays the advertising cost. But I say he does not, for the larger volume of business the retailer can do, the less his percentage of overhead of which advertising is but one of many items. No more light, no more heat, no more several other overhead items are required for $1110,000.00 turnover than for $100,000.00.

Well, if the customer doesn't pay and the merchant doesn't pay for advertising — then, who does pay?

Why, bless your soul! The truth of the matter is that effective advertising is self-supporting, self-liquidating. Nobody pays for good advertising, unless, if we must find someone to pay for it, I guess it comes to pretty near being the non-advertising merchant who pays — and pays — whose overhead goes up as his sales volume goes down — he and the non-reading customer who buys blind, fails to read the ads, and in consequence gets stuck with inferior non-advertising goods at higher prices than he needs to pay." — The Fundy Fisherman.

It used to be common to read in the newspapers of people who died from carbon monoxide poisoning while warming up their car in a closed garage. Because of the publicity, this type of accident has practically vanished.

But people are still dying, going to hospital, or coming down with what they think is "car sickness" because of deadly, silent, tasteless carbon monoxide.

You have to watch for it all the time, but especially in colder weather.

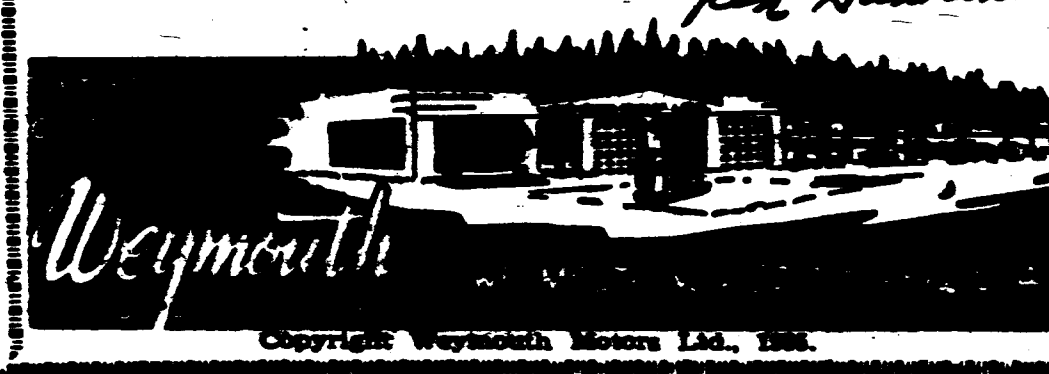

Gunning a cold engine produces clouds of carbon monoxide (although you can't see the clouds, of course). Whenever combustion is imperfect, as it is more often in winter, more carbon monoxide is produced.

When you're in heavy traffic, it's an absolute must to either turn the heater off or open a window a good crack. It's never a good idea to have the car completely closed at any time, but it's far more dangerous when standing in heavy traffic, with the exhaust fumes of cars ahead of you entering through heater intakes.

Here is an idea of just how deadly carbon monoxide is. The gas is usually about 7 percent of the fumes leaving your exhaust; sometimes it's as much as 14 percent. Yet 5/100 of one percent is unsafe and 4/10 of one percent is usually fatal within an hour.

It's not something I get panicky about, but the danger of carbon monoxide alone is reason enough to have these precautions taken regularly; tune up the engine (so it will produce less carbon monoxide), have the tailpipe and muffler inspected regularly and check the floor boards for leaks.

Temperance Notes

Furnished by the Order of the Sons of Temperance

During the past year, and for several preceding years, through the kindness of this and other papers, these notes have been published weekly.

In these notes we have not given our own opinion but we have tried to give the authority of nearly every article.

The statements of well known men have been furnished together with facts relating to the temperance question.

These facts show some of the injurious effects resulting from the use of alcoholic beverages. Every moderate drinker thinks he or she will never go too far, yet an increasing number of alcoholics are added every year from the ranks of the moderate drinkers.

Science gives no test as to who is allergic to alcohol or who is not. The moderate drinker is taking too much of a chance against himself whether he is driving a car or doing something else.

The carol of the Heavenly Host whose anniversary we observe was "On Earth Peace and Good Will Toward Men," but nothing has done more to break up peace and good will among men than alcoholic beverages.

Knowing the disastrous effects which so often follow their use shall we not more fittingly observe the birth of our Saviour by abstaining from their use ourselves, and not serving them to others.

The Order of the Sons of Temperance wishes to all readers A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS, and HAPPY NEW YEAR. "Be wise, keep it well, Don't alcoholize."

The Penny-farthing Philosopher

The other day I came across the story in Second Kings about Elisha going up to Bethel and as he went out of Bethel some small boys jeered at him calling "Go up, you old baldhead!" — go up you old baldhead! According to the story Elisha cursed the little boys and as a result, two she-bears came out of the woods and badly mauled forty-two of the boys. As a boy, I myself have run after people and called names; there was one dear old maiden lady who always carried an umbrella winter and summer. She was a music teacher by the name of Miss Smith. She was a pint-sized person who looked very much like the screen version of 'Charley's Aunt', and we never failed to follow her for several blocks, calling after her, "Mell, Mell, Charley's Aunt." Now we were never attacked by bears (although now as I look back I know we really deserved the same fate as the forty-two); perhaps we did not suffer this fate because there were no bears living in our town, but there were other ways that retribution could have come to us, I suppose.

Now I cannot accept that story in Kings. It is not consistent with what we know of the prophet and with what we understand about misdeeds and their punishment. Not that I think that calling names after someone is much of a misdeed, it seems to me that the perfect boy is not one who is angelic to the point of obnoxiousness, but is a boy that is getting into the kind of mischief and every conceivable kind of trouble. We do spank our children when they misbehave, but we ought to remember that much of the 'badness' is just good spirits, excess energy, and a natural inquisitiveness into the wonders that surround them. If we could remember this it would be of great help to us in understanding and dealing with juvenile delinquency. After all, young people do have a great surplus of energy, we cannot expect them to sit quietly at home and twiddle their thumbs, what we ought to do is to channel this excess energy, this enthusiasm into useful and cultural channels. Youth is not bad, it just needs help from maturity.

I notice that a section of the people of Weymouth have been thinking about the youth of the town and are making plans to help them. Unfortunately, a task as big as setting up a Youth Centre cannot be successfully completed by a few, it needs the full support of a whole community. In the past, all have suffered from the exuberance of youth, in the future all can gain from this exuberance being channelled in the right direction.

And perhaps in future there will be less 'bears with sore heads' in Weymouth!

MERRY CHRISTMAS

MARRIAGES

Stewart — Weir

Candlelight and pine was the setting of a lovely winter wedding Saturday evening, December 3rd, at 7:30 p.m., at the Smith's Cove Baptist Church, when Eleanor Joan Weir, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer B. Weir, Smith's Cove, N. S., became the bride of Petty Officer Ronald Roy Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart, New Liskeard, Ontario.

Rev. Francis Miller officiated at the double ring ceremony. Preceding the wedding march Miss Janet Heighon, Halifax, sang the Lord's Prayer, accompanied by Mrs. J. J. Wallis.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and looked charming in a floor length strapless gown of white lace and net over satin. The matching jacket had a jewel collar with tinge covered buttons from neck to waist. The full skirt, worn over a crinoline, was trimmed with tiny rows of ruffles. She wore a jewel studded tiara with shoulder length veil, and carried a bouquet of white gladiolus and red roses.

Mrs. Arthur Berry, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and wore a ballerina length strapless gown of aqua lace and net over taffeta, with matching headpiece and shoes. Her bouquet was of white and yellow mums.

Miss Florence Larramore, R.N., was bridesmaid, and wore an identical gown of shrimp with matching shoes and headpiece. She carried white and yellow mums.

Brenda Berry, niece of the bride, was flowergirl, and wore a ballerina length dress of yellow net and organza with matching shoes and headpiece. Her nosegay was of white and orchid mums.

Garnet Adams was groomsman, and the ushers were Harold Sullis and Arthur Berry.

The bride's mother wore a dress of aqua taffeta with a winter white hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The guests were welcomed by Mrs. Beth Bailey, Mrs. A. D. Sullis poured, while Miss Isabel Cossitt replenished. Mrs. Garnet Adams was in charge of the guest book.

For going away, the bride wore a blue-grey suit and muskrat jacket with rose accessories, and a corsage of white gladiolus.

The bride is nurse-in-charge of the Red Cross Mobile Blood Donor Unit, Halifax, and the groom is stationed at H.M.C.S. "Stadacona". They will reside at 286 Tower Road, Halifax.

VanTassell — O'Grady

The marriage of Eileen, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Martin O'Grady, of Montreal, to Mr. Joseph Garfield VanTassell, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. VanTassell, of Nova Scotia, took place on Saturday morning, December 10, in St. Patrick's Church, the Rev. G. Griffin officiating.

The bride who was given away by her brother-in-law, was in a gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle, with a fitted bodice and sleeves ending in points over her hands, and a bouffant skirt with a flounce of tulle at the hemline. Her fingertip veil of tulle was held by a small headband of satin and tulle. She carried a prayer book covered with orchids and white stephanotis.

Miss Veronica Leclerc as maid of honor for the bride was in a frock of blue taffeta with matching bandeau and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. R. Abbott acted as best man for Mr. VanTassell.

Following the reception at the Berkley Hotel Mr. and Mrs. VanTassell left by motor for the Laurentians, the bride travelling in a medium blue suit with a brown beaver coat and matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The couple will reside in Montreal.

Cranton — Hebb

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bertram A. Hebb on Saturday evening, November 12th, when at 8 o'clock, Rev. R. W. Lind-say united in marriage Joan Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Hebb, and Vernon Russell Cranton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cranton, Belleisle, N. S.

The double ring ceremony was performed in the presence of immediate relatives and friends.

The bride, attractively attired in a beige gabardine suit, aqua hat and accessories, entered the living room on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. Her corsage was of pink 'mums.

Miss Marie Hebb, wearing a grey gabardine suit, black hat and accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations, was her sister's bridesmaid.

William Cranton, brother of the groom, acted as bestman.

Mrs. Philip Robblee rendered the nuptial music.

The bride's table, covered with a lace cloth, and centered with a three-tier bride's cake topped with miniature bride and groom, was daintily trimmed with pink and white. The cake was cut in the traditional manner.

Mrs. Ralph Gidney, aunt of the bride, poured, and the guests were served by Mrs. Newman Theriault, Mrs. Godfrey Crowell, Mrs. Charlie Pyne, Mrs. Gordon Robblee, Mrs. Teresa Kaye and Miss Janet Robblee.

The bride's mother chose a dress of turquoise blue with navy accessories and a corsage of yellow 'mums, and the groom's mother wore a navy blue dress with matching ac-cessories and a corsage of mauve 'mums.

The newly-weds left on a hon-eymoon to be spent in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. On their return they will reside in Belleisle.

The bride was the recipient of many gifts. Congratulations and best wishes are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Cranton.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Theri-ault, East Ferry, N. S., are grandparents of the bride.

MASS MURDER ON THE HIGHWAYS

Accidents exact a higher toll of life in every state than any other cause of death except cardiovascular disease and cancer, according to an analysis of accident fatality data by Metro-politan Life Insurance statis-ticians, the New York Times re-ported on August 31, 1954. So far as traffic accidents are con-cerned, that large part due to DRINKING DRIVING could be avoided and the deaths reduced by at least one-fourth by the exercise of the "personal free-dom, self-control, and spiritual development" of total abstin-ence.

There were 38,300 death caused by motor vehicles in 1953, a rate of 25.1 per 100,000 of the population, and 1,350,000 non-fatal injuries. In 24 out of 100 fatal accidents, a driver or a pedestrian had been drinking, according to reports from 21 states, a proportion just slightly higher than in the preceding year. Among the drivers in-volved in fatal accidents, 18 out of 100 had been drinking, about the same as in 1952. The driver's condition was not stated in 27% of the cases, says the National Safety Council in Accident Facts, 1954.

1 out of 4 drivers or pedes-trians in fatal accidents had been drinking.

1 out of 5 drivers in fatal ac-cidents had been drinking.

1 out of 4 pedestrians in fatal accidents had been drinking.

Among the reporting states, drinking drivers involved in fatal accidents ranged from 5 out of 100 to 41 out of 100. This wide variation may be due in part to a lack of uniformity on how the term "drinking driver" is defined. Drivers "under the influence of alcohol" averaged 6 out of 100 drivers in fatal ac-cidents. The range was from 1 to 37 in the reporting states; 5 out of 100 in urban and 7 out of 100 in rural fatal accidents. This is equivalent to more than 1800 of the 6650 adult pedes-trians killed.

Your pot of gold can be a LOBSTER POT

You've all heard the old saying "Live for today and let tomorrow take care of itself." But when your own—and your family's—welfare depends on tomorrow's catch being at least as good as today's ... well, a thoughtful lobsterman makes sure it will be.

And the way to make sure is so easy. You probably know it already. Just check these points and see:

- Do you throw back the "berried" lobsters?
- Do you throw back the shorts?

If you do next year each short will be 15% longer and 50% heavier.

The lobster business is a big business in the Maritimes. It's one we can all be proud of. But we must make sure it stays big—we must help it grow bigger—by planning today for tomorrow's catch.

If you do that, your lobster pot will be ... a real pot of gold.

Time for a QUICK PICKUP

You don't argue with a locomotive. So a manufacturer of rail equipment has developed a lightweight rail inspection car that carries four people yet can be taken off the track by one man. Since men who design rail cars, aircraft and other transportation equipment regularly use aluminum to cut down dead weight and increase payload, it is no surprise that aluminum was used to replace heavier materials in many parts of this inspection car. The person who will be surprised is the locomotive engineer who first sees a rail inspector nonchalantly—and single-handedly—hoisting his scooter from the track.

Greetings from the north.
Merry Christmas Digby.

Loraine Connell.

Editor's Note —
The Courier is happy to receive the Christmas greetings from St. Philip's Residential School, Fort George, Quebec, and to extend them to the friends in Digby and throughout the County. Miss Connell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Connell, Digby, was a member of the Digby teaching staff in 1954-55. This year she is teaching in the northland around the Hudson Bay area.

Santa Pays Annual Visit

The annual visit of Santa Claus to Digby was made last Friday evening when the jolly old gentleman arrived at the Digby Forum to distribute candies and other goodies to the youngsters.

Prior to Santa's visit a program of carol singing and the singing of Christmas songs was held, led by a group of former Digby bandmen, under the leadership of Furber Marshall, who gathered together for the occasion. The singing this year was particularly good and the musical assistance given by the band was a most welcome addition to the program.

It is understood the band has begun practices to enable them to participate in coming events at the Forum throughout the winter months.

Sponsored by a local committee, the annual visit of Santa Claus and the distribution of goodies to the youngsters is made possible each year through the cooperation of the merchants and business houses of Digby. Originated in Digby some years ago, the idea has spread to other towns in the Valley where similar programs are now held.

CHRISTMAS TREE YARD CLOSES

The Hoffert Maritimes Ltd., Moncton, has completed its Christmas tree industry in Deep Brook for the season under the supervision of Mr. Sheldon Rawding. There have been 113,064 trees shipped in forty-five railway cars. This is an increase of eleven cars over last year.

Bobby Ecker, Shelburne, is spending the Christmas holidays with his parents, Cpl. and Mrs. L. Ecker. Following the Christmas recess he will be transferred to Kentville.

Princess Helene Back In Service

News that the C.P.S.S. "Princess Helene" would resume her daily trips (except Sunday) between Saint John and Digby on Monday, December 19th, came as a great relief to the people of Digby and the whole of western Nova Scotia.

Word that the Princess Helene would be back in service came from the Labour Department in Ottawa late last Thursday evening when an announcement was made that the C.P.R. and S.I.U. had reached an agreement that would place the ship back in service.

A statement was also made Thursday by an official of the C.P.R. regarding the resumption of service. This spokesman said:

"Late yesterday evening the Minister of Labour informed the Canadian Pacific Railway that the Seafarers' International Union was prepared to return to work on the Princess Helene at existing wages on the understanding that they would give the company 15 days notice of intention to interrupt service."

"The Canadian Pacific Railway today informed Labour Minister Milton Gregg that the proposal enabled the company to resume the service and crew were being engaged forthwith to put the ship in shape for resumption of service on Monday morning, December 19th."

The announcement marks the end of a work stoppage which has blocked the vital Saint John-Digby ferry service since September 30 and follows countless futile attempts to bring union and railway together.

Negotiations will be suspended for the time being, possibly until the spring of 1956, it was learned.

"It will certainly be a wonderful boost for the Christmas trade in the western part of Nova Scotia," the C.P.R. spokesman said.

Seafarers International Union President, Hal Banks, who arrived in Montreal last Wednesday after spending a week in Saint John, has agreed to resumption of service on December 19, the labour department reported Thursday.

Banks announced last week in Saint John that his union was prepared to give a written agreement setting a definite end to the strike and to withdraw its demand that the members now on strike would carry on their duties aboard the ferry Princess Helene while negotiations were being carried out.

Officials of the railway said on several occasions during the work stoppage that they would be willing to resume the service if the men would go back to work, agree in writing to two weeks notice of any future intention to strike, and submit their case to binding arbitration.

The union countered with an offer to give 48 hours notice of intention to strike again and refused to submit to binding arbitration.

The agreement announced on Thursday is seen as a "give and take" proposition. The union agreed to the railway's demand of two weeks' notice of intention to strike. The railway, at least for the time being, has withdrawn its demand that the members go to binding arbitration.

WELCOME GIVEN PRINCESS HELENE

A great chorus of car horns, the wail of police, fire engine and ambulance sirens, the deep throated whistle of a German freighter and the high, piercing alarm whistle of H.M.C.S. Buckingham all joined in to provide a gay and noisy welcome for the C.P.S. Princess Helene Monday afternoon as the Bay of Fundy ferry made her first appearance in the port of Digby since late September.

Hundreds of citizens were on hand at the pier to add their cheers of welcome to the chorus of horns and whistles as the ferry rounded the end of the pier and tied up at her berth shortly before two o'clock.

On hand to extend an official welcome to Captain Roy Conley and the Princess Helene, on behalf of the Town of Digby, was His Worship Mayor Guy E. Morehouse. Also taking part in the official welcoming ceremonies as the ship docked Monday afternoon were Board of Trade President James P. Richards; George Nowlan, MP for Digby-Annapolis-Kings, and Victor Cardozo, MLA for Digby. Digby Mayor-elect Gordon Turnbull also joined in the official welcome, as did other civic and community leaders.

ENDORSE WEYMOUTH YOUTH CENTRE

By a unanimous vote last Friday the citizens of Weymouth decided to open and maintain a Youth Centre for the young people of the village and surrounding districts.

The project is one which has been sparked by the local clergy, assisted by a committee drawn from the congregations of every church. The public meeting was held in the Legion Hall last Friday and Rev. J. A. Carr was in the chair. He led a programme of carols, assisted by Mrs. Ken Hinkinson at the piano, which the meeting sang heartily. Father Connolly opened the meeting with prayer, after which a programme was presented by the youth group.

Heads Weymouth Youth Centre

The popular choice for the Presidency of the newly-formed Youth Centre at the public meeting in the Legion Hall last Friday was Mr. R. Stanley Hallett, the popular Postmaster of the Village of Weymouth. Mr. Hallett said "We are fortunate in Weymouth in having Clergy that will co-operate and work together so well, in that they have 'spearheaded' this drive for our young people. They deserve all the support we can give them."

Assisting Mr. Hallett as Vice-President is Mr. William LePort, who is very active in Farmers' and 4-H Clubs. The Secretary is Mrs. Patricia Taylor. Other members of the executive include Mr. Albert Theriault, chairman of the Boys' Work Committee; Miss Margaret Fillet, chairman of the Girls' Work Committee; Mr. Merle Mullen, Property Committee; Mrs. Dixon Rice, Social Committee. The Clergy of the village will be ex-officio members of the Centre Executive.

The Executive met on Monday at St. Peter's Rectory and further plans have been made. The committees, as outlined above, have been nominated and will go to work over the holiday, bringing in finalized plans early in the new year. In all, great enthusiasm has been shown and it is certain that the Youth Centre will be a success.

The service was conducted by Miss Elizabeth McCullough, assisted by members of the former Kings Daughters Explorer Group and members of the regular choir. The candlelighters for the candle service were Gwen Ensor, Linda Morehouse, Ada Merritt, Diane Trask, Jeanette Irving and Sharon Morehouse. Two carols were also sung by the girls. For the address story Miss McCullough read the account of "The Other Wise Man". Mrs. R. W. Sypher was organist and the offering was received by two Explorer girls, Myrna Crowell and Della Merritt.

At the United Baptist Church on Sunday evening the Brotherhood of Little River were guests and had charge of the musical part of the service. Among the numbers given were two quartet selections, "Nothing Between My Cross And The Saviour" and "When You Know Jesus You'll Understand". This service was also the last of a series of special services which had been held in this church during the past week. The guest speaker, Rev. L. R. Atkinson, chose as his final text "We would see Jesus", and expressed in an impressive message to the largely attended congregation five ways in which we as individuals see Jesus. The regular pastor of the church, Rev. C. T. Olmstead, pronounced the benediction.

Coals To Newcastle

So efficient has the Digby Fire Department now become that they are having fires brought to the fire station for "on the spot" extinguishing.

The occasion was Tuesday evening as Fire Chief George Humphrey and Captain Tom Cleveland were working in the fire station. An excited young man tore into the station and announced his car was afire right outside the station and would the firemen please put out the blaze.

The Chief and Mr. Cleveland promptly obliged and then questioned the young man about the blaze. It turned out the interior of the car had caught fire while the vehicle was parked in front of the owner's place of business on Water Street.

Douglas Daley, owner of the blazing vehicle, on being informed of the fact his car was afire had promptly driven the car, complete with fire, to the fire hall for extinguishing.

It is reported damage to the vehicle was not too extensive, although the upholstery was quite badly burned.

Special Service At Bay View

Rev. James Brooks delivered a Christmas message from the text, "and the word became flesh". During the service gifts of the New Testament were distributed to Tony O'Neill, Jeannie Bremner, Lovett Bremner, Gloria Joudrey, Joanne Joudrey, Daneen Atkinson, Phyllis Burns, Carolyn Clayton, Linda Stark, Louise Stark and Valerie Adams. Treats and gifts were given the pupils also preceding the service during the Sunday School hour.

Weymouth Board Of Trade Meets

The regular December meeting of the Weymouth Board of Trade was held Thursday evening at the Goodwin Hotel, here on Saturday, December 3rd, when two armed men forced Harley Wynn, manager of the Capitol Theatre, to turn over the contents of a cash box at the theatre to them. They first of all tricked Mr. Wynn into going down from his second floor apartment in the theatre building to the theatre lobby on a pretext of having him help them search for an article they claimed to have left in the theatre earlier in the evening.

The Board of Trade is working for things which are of benefit to all in the community, especially those who would like to see the port of Weymouth grow. Next month will be the beginning of a new year and we would urge the men of Weymouth not only to join the Board but to attend the meetings as well. Your dues are needed to finance the Board but your presence is needed as well to make a healthy active Board of Trade. Won't you come and join? Tentative plans are underway now to have a supper meeting at the Goodwin Hotel and a special speaker for the meeting on January 19th.

Come to Church for Christmas Services

HOPE THAT SUSTAINS THE WORLD... If there is anything more touching and inspiring than the sight of a little boy or girl waiting patiently for the arrival of his beloved Santa Claus, the world has yet to produce it. With boundless hope, after hanging up his stocking, he finally goes to bed, knowing as surely as he knows his own mother and father, that the Giftbringer will have been there when he awakens.

Christmas Card Idea Originated By Englishman

Christmas cards are so much a part of the modern Yule season that one seldom stops to wonder how the idea originated and by whom.

This simple idea of wishing your friends a Merry Christmas brought honor and knightship to the originator, Henry Cole, a middleclass Englishman.

Cole mailed his cards on a December day in 1843. The cards depicted a Victorian family assembled at the festive board and the traditional Christmas custom of giving to the poor. They also bore the now-classic greeting: "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to you."

He had a thousand of the cards struck off by a lithograph. They were such a success that plain Henry Cole subsequently became Sir Henry Cole.

The cards we send today, however, a far cry from those mailed by Cole. The cards you send and receive this year will be designed by famous names in contemporary art.

An American shopping for cards this year may select scenes painted by such famous people as Winston Churchill, Britain's prime minister and famed amateur artist, and Grandma Moses, one of America's most famous artists.

The demand for cards is so great that many companies spend their entire time in designing and producing them for the holiday season.

Most Beloved Carol Is 'Silent Night'

The most beloved carol of the many that are sung in all parts of the world is "Silent Night" that simple and tender German song.

Its origin was unknown for many years. Recent research, however, disclosed that it was written by Joseph Mohr, an assistant priest in Oberndorf in South Germany. The melody was composed by a schoolmaster, Franz Gruber.

The poet and the composer were part of the choir that sang the carol for the first time on Christmas Eve in the Oberndorf church in 1818.

The night it was sung the small church's organ was out of order and the choir sang to the accompaniment of a guitar.

Since then the carol has been sung to the tune of almost every musical instrument in the world and in the languages of nearly all men.

That Reindeer Is Becoming a Tradition

That reindeer is becoming American tradition.

Once upon a time there was a reindeer with a built-in flashlight bulb for a nose. You know, Rudolph, the red-nosed reindeer.

From a small beginning in 1939, the little animal with the built-in beacon has become as familiar as Humpty-Dumpty and Cinderella to youngsters everywhere.

First invented as a sales give-away promotion for Montgomery Ward by Robert L. May, Rudolph was featured in many free booklets before he became associated with Christmas. Songwriter Johnny Marks liked the title "Rudolph, the Red Nosed Reindeer," so he wrote a song about it. He was so sure he had a success that he started his own Publishing company using "Rudolph" as his first release. Gene Autry made the initial recording, and that one record sold 2,000,000 copies.

Last year, there were 16 different recordings of the song for sale, ranging from boogie-woogie by Sugar Chile Robinson to Bing Crosby, and cowboy singers.

Joseph Proved His Love for Mary, Mother of Jesus

Joseph, the bible relates, had to prove his faith in and love for Mary before they were married. It is one of the great love stories of all times.

When Joseph thought of Mary, he forgot the difference in their ages: she was the girl he had waited for, his beloved. They were espoused—or, as we would say, engaged—which was almost as official as being married. His heart soared on wings of the approaching wedding day, and then...

What Mary insisted had come to pass, simply could not be! Joseph wanted desperately to believe Mary, but such things just didn't happen, and if they did, they happened to somebody else.

Much as he loved Mary, Joseph was a righteous and God-fearing man and while he couldn't even think of making her a public example, he had just about made up his mind to put her away privately. That is, he thought he had made up his mind. In his heart, he knew he couldn't; what would become of her... of her child...

Then one night, after he had exhausted himself with tortured thinking, he fell asleep and the angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream, saying:

"Joseph, thou son of David, fear not, for that which is conceived in thee is of the Holy Ghost. And when Joseph awoke, he did as the angel had bidden him, and took Mary as his lawful and chaste wife."

"Fear not," the angel spoke unto Joseph.

"Fear not," the angel had declared unto Mary.

"Fear not," the angel spoke unto the shepherds of Bethlehem.

Birth of the Savior Was Greatest Event In World's History

Pleasant as it is to dream of a "White Christmas" with its carols and gifts, feasting and merry-making, the sparkling eyes of children delighting in Santa Claus and the wonderful Christmas trees, these things never can symbolize the tremendous significance of the day.

The birth of the Saviour was the greatest event in the history of the world. In spite of all the backslidings, Christian peoples have pressed forward steadily.

However vicious and corrupt the world today is far better than the world of pagan times; familiarity with the cross and crucifixion has abolished legal tortures and much cruelty—and, if given a chance, might shame us into banishing the curse of international viciousness for the sake of Him who became the Saviour of Man kind.

Puritans Outlawed Yule as Frivolous

The Puritan government of England outlawed Christmas in 1643. With the restoration of the Stuart Christmas customs and traditions were revived, but Christmas never regained its former prestige in England.

It is observed religiously in the churches and as a day for family reunions and social gatherings, in contrast to the lavish feasting and noisier merry-making of older times.

Merry-making and gift-giving came in for their share, however, on December 26 which is Boxing Day. The origin of Boxing Day antedates Christmas and can be traced to the custom of gift-giving during the Roman festival of Saturnalia.

In Christian liturgy December 26 is observed as the feast of St. Stephen, the first Christian martyr, and during the centuries when journeymen and apprentices were in the habit of leaving upon their masters' customers, "Christmas Boxes" were collected on St. Stephen's day.

Around Our House
By Bill & Eileen Lovett
At an auction sale we bought a large antique steel door knocker. Through the oval loop at the base we hang a colorful towel.
Another decorator tip for the bathroom: a small glass salad bowl containing several cakes of soap.

Bill paints brightly colored bands around the handles of our garden tools. It makes them easier to spot on the lawn.
And by the way, to remove light rust from tools use a piece of rubber cut from an old tire casing. Ask your garageman.

For Safety's Sake: When attempting to make some electric repair, always turn off the power. Either pull the main switch, unscrew fuse on circuit to repair, or disconnect the cord from the convenience outlet.

Replace blown fuses with new ones of same ampere rating. Don't overfuse. Never place pennies or tin foil behind dead ones. Use a flashlight so that you have plenty of light to see exactly what you are doing.

Junk jewellery is fashionable again! Gather your old broken strands of pearls and other beads, and restring them to make long colorful ropes. Almost any combination is in style. You can use lightweight nylon fish-line leader for string—and if it's stiff enough you won't need to use a needle.

Extra Pot Holders—Before you discard a burned or worn ironing board pad, cut squares from the still-good parts. Bind each square with bias tape. Use for your everyday pot holders.

Travel Trouble Saver—When packing your suitcase, seal a few days' supply of bath powder in an envelope instead of packing a bulky box that may spill. Puncture the envelope to shake powder onto your puff.

A perfectionist, says Bill, is one who takes great pains and gives the same.

'Grandpa Frost' Helps Russians Celebrate Midwinter Festival

Although Christmas is no longer a holiday in Soviet Russia, a non-religious midwinter festival, is celebrated and children receive gifts from "Grandpa Frost." In Caspian Russia, it was customary for well-to-do families with large homes to entertain lavishly on Christmas day. The invitations were extremely formal and begged the invited to consider that "... for thousands of years it has been so; with us it has not commenced, with us it will not cease. Do not, therefore, disturb the festival; do not bring the good people to despair. Without you there will be no maiden festival at Anna Karpovna's."

In planning these houseparties, hostesses gave particular attention to the selection of partners for the young ladies. The selection was sometimes very satisfactory and sometimes left something to be desired.

Arrival of the "fair maidens," each with her mother and retinue, bringing cake and sweetmeats and gifts for everyone, proceeded according to prescribed ritual: the guests sooner freezing in their seats before the gate than to alight before receiving the greeting of the host and hostess.

Having been ceremoniously welcomed, the guests offered prayers before the icon (sacred picture) and then proceeded to the feasting and festivities arranged for them.

Santa Claus Hit As 'Sugar Daddy' Instead of Saint

Assailing the Santa Claus myth as 'foolish fiction' and rival of the Holy Child, the Rev. John S. Martin, editor of the Catholic Review, declared in a 1949 editorial that Santa the saint has been lost in the Santa the sugar daddy—and that the whole idea is bad psychology and bad pedagogy.

"Our children learn about the reindeer, but have never heard of the ox and the ass," Father Martin continued and recommended that we:

"Leave the man in the red suit to those who have nothing better to do than to make a living out of the life of a man and end in disillusion and despair."

Father Martin's sentiments are reminiscent of Martin Luther's vigorous campaign against neglect of the central idea of Christmas, which is the birth of Jesus. So, German children have been taught that the Christkind brings the presents—Christkind being depicted as the messenger of the infant Jesus sent earthward at Christmas time to bring happiness to good children.

The modern conception of Santa Claus is, of course, 99 per cent fictional and strictly American. But the spirit of generosity and thoughtfulness as typified by Santa Claus is neither sugar daddy-ish nor essentially American. Unfortunately not all children who await Santa have learned from their mothers' lips the story of the Holy Child.

Santa's Requests

Santa Claus still gets letters from youngsters with the same cherished requests—bicycles and dolls. But last year a child wanted a live cow. He told a department store Santa so.

Another kid wanted a new daddy because hers was "wearing out on top."

Nine pupils of the United Church Sunday School received certificates for qualifying in three quarterly Bible Study tests on intermediate class for the Christmas season. Mr. DeYoung, who has been a patient at the Kentville Sanatorium for a year or more, has been discharged as completely well and after a few months with his family here will take up his duties again in Sydney. C. B. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hoppe, of Bear River, and their baby will also be Christmas guests of Mrs. Hoppe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gaudet.

4 T.V. Pony-Tails

Four glamorous blondes always make an intriguing photo. When the four blondes all wear their hair in pony-tails, it's even better. But these four blonde, glamorous pony-tailers have another thing in common — they're all CBC television stars. Here, from the top, are dancer Babs Christie, singer Marilyn Kent, dancer Glenn Jones, and actress-personality Hollyhock. Marilyn Kent is featured on numerous CBC shows, and the dancers in the weekly variety "On Stage". Holly frequently appears on "Living" and, while she is known to be somewhat naive, this hasn't stood in the way of her career; with her friend, Uncle Chichimus, she was one of the first two creatures ever to appear on Canadian television when it came on the air back in 1952.

South Range West

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Haight and son, Keith, recently spent an evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Marshall.

Mr. Harry Burnie, of Granville, was a visitor at the home of Mr. Eli Marshall Tuesday evening.

Mrs. T. Banks, of Saint John, arrived Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Sabean, and Mr. Sabean, for the Christmas holidays.

Misses Irene and Gladys Hill, of Digby, spent the weekend at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Marshall recently visited the latter's parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. Carr, of Weymouth.

Mrs. Clifton Banks, of Lake Midway, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Guy Marshall.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Marshall and family, of North Range, visited the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eli Marshall, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Shortliffe were Sunday guests of Mrs. A. P. Marshall and Miss Muriel Marshall on Sunday.

Impressive Pageant At Deep Brook Baptist Church

An impressive Christmas pageant, "A Star in the Night", was presented by members of a choir and Sunday School pupils, under the direction of Rev. and Mrs. F. Miller, at the Baptist Church on Sunday evening.

In the soft glow of candlelight against a background of walls of Bethlehem, Celma Bacon told the story of the wise men to a group of children, while Warren Jefferson, Stearns Henshaw and Roscoe Wright, as shepherds, Winston Wells, Leonard Harvey and Richard Moore, as Three Kings of the Orient, Betty Long, as Mary, mother of Jesus, and other children, as natives, acted the story, while the choir rendered appropriate Christmas music, under the capable direction of church organist, Mrs. Eric Adams. Mrs. Laurence Snell and Mrs. Carl Burrill had charge of the costumes, and deserve much credit for same.

The walls of Bethlehem were very realistic and showed much time and thought by all who worked on them.

This pageant is truly one of the nicest ever presented in Deep Brook.

The sympathy of their friends is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burton, of Burtonvale, in the death of Mr. Burton's father, Mr. Ross Burton.

The Penny-farthing Philosopher

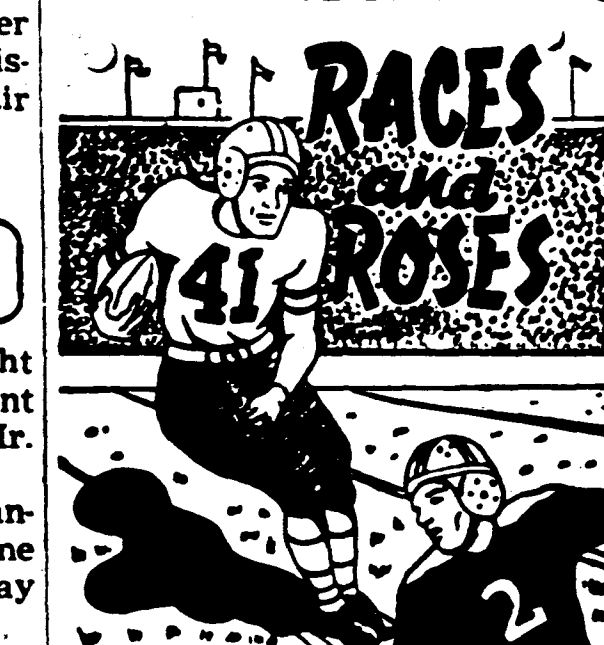

I am acquainted with most of Walt Disney's characters, although I would not set myself up as an authority on them. I remember Felix the Cat; Mickey Mouse is well known to me, and I even have a passing acquaintance with the Lady and the Tramp. But there is a new one that I cannot place, and yet it seems to be on the lips of every radio announcer, and quite frequently it is heard on the streets; I refer to this 'Sant claws', and wonder what kind of an animal it is. Perhaps it is some fictitious animal that has been invented by a firm which sells some kind of veterinarian product for keeping animals in good health?

Now it may be that this name is a derivative of Santa Claus, which latter name is in almost everyone's mind at this time of year, from the youngest to the oldest, but which is also in itself a derivative of Saint Nicholas (or Old Nick, no-one is ever really sure which!) Wherever the name Santa Claus comes from, we use it without any thought as to what lies behind it; it has merely become a synonym for a mass of expenses and a clarion call for the salesman. Christmas was first begun as a pagan festival and then taken over by the early Christian Church as a religious festival; now we seem to have been travelling in reverse, returning towards the pagan festival with a mythical character as the centre of our festivities.

If there is anyone who ever reads these ramblings, he or she is a very polite person, as I have not as yet received any mis- sive containing a disagreement to anything I have said. But just suppose that someone did disagree with me about what I have said concerning Santa Claus. She (it is bound to be a 'she') might say, "Well, to say 'Father Christmas' would be no improvement as he also is a mythical character." To which I would reply, "not a mythical character but an idealistic character" and would tell of an incident of my schooldays. In class one bright lad was heard by our teacher to say that there was no Father Christmas, to which the teacher replied, rather sharply, "Of course there is, he is the spirit of Christmas, the spirit of love and giving, the spirit of joy and goodwill." This reply has remained with me all through the years and I fully concur in it. I am old-fashioned enough to still prefer the spirit of Christmas to be called Father Christmas rather than Santa Claus.

Finally, I came across a poem this week, written by Madeline Morse, entitled 'Christmas Prayer'. Here it is:—

Let Christmas not become a thing
Merely of Merchants' trafficking,
Of tinsel, bell and holly wreath
And surface, pleasure, but beneath
The childish glamour let us find Nourishment for soul and mind.
Let us follow kinder ways
Through our teeming human maze
And help the age of peace to come From a Dreamer's martyrdom.

IF A THING of beauty is a joy forever, a good idea is a good idea for a reasonable length of time, at least. And hundreds of thousands of dollars are spent annually by hundreds of thousands of people who think collegiate football on New Year's Day is a good idea.

The fabulous Rose Bowl game started out as a supplement to the Tournament of Roses when the first east-west game was played on January 1, 1902. Of course, it might have been a better idea—from the California point of view—if the barnstorming University of Michigan had not barnstormed to a 49 to 0 victory over Stanford.

This might have had something to do with substituting chariot races for the football game in 1903.

Originally run with amateur drivers, the chariot races became professional affairs after the first few years, and the public lost interest. The year 1916 brought a return to collegiate football via a contest in which Washington state defeated Brown University.

Prior to dedication of the Rose Bowl in Arroyo Seco, the games were played in Tournament Park. In 1923, the bowl in Arroyo Seco was dedicated with an original seating capacity of 85,000. Recent enlargement made it possible for a paid attendance of 100,234 in 1949.

The tremendous success of the Rose Bowl classic has 'trushroomed' various 'Bowl' games from coast to coast. Among the many, there are the Orange Bowl, the Sun Bowl, the Sugar Bowl, the 'Gator Bowl, Hawaii's Pineapple Bowl, and even Alaska's Ice Bowl.

All these 'Bowl' games are rapidly becoming a great American New Year's tradition, but the daddy of them all, the Rose Bowl game, continues to be the outstanding collegiate sporting event of the season.

Edmond Theriault, Westville, Pictou Co., is spending a two week's vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Plus Theriault.

Mrs. Hector Saulnier had the misfortune to cut her cheek quite severely in a car accident which occurred in Digby recently. Mrs. Saulnier is at present a nurse at the Digby General Hospital.

Among the students arriving home for the Christmas holidays this week are Adele Theriault, of N.D.A. College, Moncton, who will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Theriault, and Albert Melanson and Teddy Gaudet, St. Anne's College, Church Point, who will also visit their parents.

and daughter, Sharon, of Sackville, spent the weekend at their home here. They were accompanied to Sackville by her mother, Mrs. Ella Raymond.

Mr. and Mrs. Melbourne Prime spent last Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Harley Dakin and also Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Banks, Lake Midway.

Romanoff And Chorus

Every week across the nation's airwaves a chorus is heard; a chorus able to sing folk songs authentically in a dozen languages and sounding as though it had a dozen voices. They turn up on CBC radio's "Songs of My People", a program devoted each week to the music of many nations and designed to bring to New Canadians memories of the land they left. In fact the chorus, led by Ivan Romanoff, consists only of a handful of singers; top-notch ones who, for the most part, don't speak anything but their native English. Good coaching and thorough rehearsals, however, have caused listeners to believe that the choir has almost as many people and languages as the United Nations.

SECRETS

By Hal Marquette

MIDGE AND BILL were standing in front of Landsbury's department store, window wishing. Suddenly, Bill looked down at the toy walk at his foot nudged the object he had dropped.

"Fumbler," he said under his breath and glanced toward Midge.
She was gazing intently at the toy and did not seem to notice when he stooped to pick up the billfold and slightly put it into his pocket. Other wise . . .

"Bill, look." Midge was saying as she pointed to a large doll dresser.
"Why the interest in toys . . .
Now if . . ." He was hunting for words to hide his agitation.

Midge felt a slight warmth come to her cheeks and her heart began to pound. For a second she wondered if she could finish his
"now if" and tell him here and now.
She wondered if they could be thinking of the same thing.

They continued on their way back to the apartment.

Bill was glad and relieved when Midge suggested coffee. That would

"I didn't find that billfold, Midge," he stammered.

He gave him time to examine his find in privacy. That's what he'd planned to tell her if she ever questioned him. He'd never kept anything from Midge before, excepting . . .
But, he'd been young and had pale souls . . .

Bill trembled as he thought of the "fumble" back there on the street. What if . . . He waited until he was sure Midge was busy with the sandwiches before he got the billfold from his overcoat pocket.
Finally, after what seemed an eternity, he was examining its contents. Here was more money than he'd ever had in his hands before.

SUDDENLY Bill heard Midge's voice. It seemed to come from far away and then to crash in his ears.

"Bill, why don't you answer me
. . . And whatever have you there?"

He tried to get the billfold into his pocket before she came to his side. But again there was a fumble.
"Oh, oh . . . Midge, I . . ." He stopped short and brought the bill fold back to view and slowly handed it to her.

"I found it tonight . . . Lands-bury's corner . . . Meant to surprise you . . ." he said lamely.

Midge fingered the contents excitedly.

"Bill, you must call the man immediately . . . He must be worried."

"Do you think I'm a fool . . . It's
. . . And Christmas only five days away . . . I have so little . . . This could be our happiest Christmas . . ."

Midge stared at him as he spoke.
He was talking in a tone she'd never heard from him before.

"How could we ever have a merry Christmas . . . We'd never forget . . . Don't you see . . ."

There was a brief tense silence as Bill looked at the billfold in her outstretched hand.

"Bill, the phone number is on the license . . ."

The lights on the tiny Christmas tree were blurred as Bill put his packages beside it. Lately, everything seemed to blur thru a mist of tears whenever he thought of Midge and Christmas. Why hadn't he told her everything the night that he returned the billfold instead of waiting until now. He looked up to see Midge standing in the doorway.

"Midge, dear, sit down . . . I've something I've got to say . . ."

"What, darling . . ."

"I didn't find that billfold, Midge,
I . . ." he stammered. "I did that once before . . . long before met you . . ."

Her lips began to quiver and big tears began to tumble down her cheeks but she was smiling.

"Say something, Midge . . . As me what I mean . . ."

"There's nothing to ask, darling.
The doll dresser in the window at Landsbury's had a mirror and
. . . And, darling, as of this moment it is the merriest Christmas eve
I . . . I had hoped and prayed that you'd tell me . . . and you have.
Now, let's open our Christmas gifts . . ."

Christmas — A Home Day

Christmas is essentially a home day. Children troop home from school wildly excited about the day of all days. Young people from college or business have been looking forward to this for weeks. Those from a distance strive to make home at all costs. If they fall they phone and if they cannot get through on the phone they wire. The one thought which more than any other gripped the boys and girls in the forces was home. Home at Christmas—giving and receiving gifts, enjoying a Christmas dinner, just sitting around relaxed chatting about this and that playing with the children, trying to make their mechanical toys work.

It is a wonderful day, for most people spent in the home. It may be a little cottage, perhaps a larger house or even a more pretentious building, but it is not the building that makes the home. It is the spirit of those who live inside its walls. The parents, brothers, sisters who are bound together in a common concern for each other.

It is hard for us who live in the twentieth century to think of a time when the home did not hold the affections and the interest of the family that it does today. But the family as we know it is a Christian institution. Before the Christian era children were all but ignored. They had to be fed and clothed, of course, but that was about all. Women too were but the slaves of men. They had a very inferior place in the family.

Christianity changed all that. Jesus set a child in the midst of a crowd and gave him the position of prominence. Women too were given new status in the society that He established. The home is a Christian institution. Whatever good there is in it stemmed from the teaching of the founder of our faith.

It is a good thing once in a while to remind ourselves of that, especially at Christmas when all the family will be together. We quite often forget the debt we owe to our religion. Christmas is a Christian festival.

val. More people are thinking about this aspect of it than for many years. Make Christmas a good motto for this year and every year. A world in turmoil needs a Christmas when in quiet relaxation innocent joys, the intimate association of the home, happiness may be found. There will be some who will try and stimulate a sort of false enjoyment by other than the simple associations of the family. There are always some of that kind. For them we have a bit of advice, keep sober, keep alive. A home, a Christmas can easily be wrecked if even one member gets in trouble with liquor. If you drink, do not drive, and if you drive, do not drink. Be sure and stay alive and make this a Christian Christmas.

King Richard's Christmas Feasts

Once upon a medieval Yuletide, King Richard III of England celebrated at Litchfield—and during the festivities 2,000 oxen and 200 tons of wine were consumed.

Of course, the feudal set-up provided the great lords with the wherewithal for magnificence—the lords received gifts from their tenants and kings received gifts from their nobles; and the graduated scale for giving and receiving was as well ascertained as the quiddian honorarium of any barrister or physician.

Queen Elizabeth received a large part of her wardrobe as gifts from her courtiers, and if the quality or quantity was not satisfactory, the donors were unceremoniously informed of the situation.

When Henry III entertained a thousand knights, peers, and assorted nobles who came to attend the Yuletide marriage of the Princess Margaret, his majesty received a royal Christmas gift of 2,700 pounds, plus 600 fat oxen from the Archbishop of York.

With similar assistance, whether shorted or given in the spirit of generosity appropriate to the season, his majesty could well afford to give Christmas feasts for the poor like the one given in Westminster Hall in 1245, which lasted a week.

Letters to 'Santa Claus' Come From World Over

Postoffice officials in Santa Claus, Ind., are accustomed to overloaded sacks of mail during the pre-Christmas rush. Senders want their cards and gifts stamped with the famous Santa Claus postmark, plus thousands of wistful letters addressed in childish scrawl to "Santa Claus, Santa Claus, Ind."

And then there is the annual crop of "Santa Claus" letters written by youngsters in far-away places who haven't heard about Santa's permanent address in Indiana, U.S.A. At least a dozen versions of the time honored note-in-the-bottle story find their way into metropolitan newspapers every year.

The notes, sealed in small bottles and securely tied to Christmas trees, are discovered by Christmas tree dealers, housewives; and even enlisted men at naval centers and military barracks; they come from places like Renous, a village in New Brunswick, Canada, boasting a total population of 85 inhabitants.

The notes range from the wistful to the desperate, requesting such things as a mamma doll, a sled, a sweater, or a pair of overshoes.

Santa Claus Makes a Stop Out West

Canada is the greatest exporter of pulp and paper in the world. More than four-fifths of the total output moves abroad. Some 93 per cent of her newsprint production is exported and 95 per cent of the pulp manufactured for sale also goes to foreign markets.

There are 78 pulp and paper companies, some large, some small, operating 130 mills in eight provinces. Their output is one third greater than that of all the Scandinavian countries combined.

The Canadian pulp and paper industry is one of the major industrial enterprises of the world.

By John Scott Douglas

THE DRIVER SAID, "It's a straight walk, and a pretty little cottage, but maybe all you'll find there will be trouble, Hal."

Hal Leonard stopped from the car and said, "I'll deserve it, Ed."

"Seeing the New Year in doesn't mean much to me, Hal. Call the Asbes, and I'll leave early if she makes it too hot for you."

Hal smiled and started briskly along the walk. But his steps gradually slowed. Ed might be right. This visit could be awkward. It wasn't easy to face a woman who had loved you and from whom you'd run away.

He'd chosen the night deliberately. For it was on New Year's Eve, exactly 11 years ago, that he'd stood on the parapet outside the Skylight Room with Carol Campbell, looking down at the city's lights, listening to sirens announcing the new year.

Impulsively, he'd said, "Will you marry me, Carol?"

There was none of the coquetry in Carol. "Of course, Hal. I've intended to since pigtail days."

Now that memory made his knock uncertain. Within, he heard quick, light steps, and the door opened.

It was on New Year's Eve, 11 years ago, that he'd stood on the parapet with Carol Campbell.

"How good of you to come, Hal." Her voice still had a bell-like tone. She didn't switch on the light as she led the way into the living room. A dog nudged his leg as he sat down.

"Here, Thora," she said. "Kind of you to let me come, Carol," he began awkwardly. "I wanted to make my peace before another year rolled around."

"It was a shock," she admitted quietly. "Having a man ask you to marry him as the New Year broke, and then at noon next day receiving that telegram saying that you were going away and to forgive you."

"I had a kid idea that I wanted to work at whatever I pleased, wherever I pleased. Fancy free, and tied to no responsibilities."

BY THE TIME I'd seen some of the country and part of Mexico, the war came, and I went into the merchant marine for the excitement and big money. Crossed the Atlantic in convoys a few times before I had the bad luck to sail on a tanker that was torpedoed in the Caribbean."

He described the confusion of the green crew, how he had been forced to swim through burning oil, and had then drifted in a life-jacket for hours before being rescued. Months in a marine hospital had followed.

"It was the massage treatments there," he explained, "that made me decide to become a masseur. Now I have two assistants. But I shouldn't be talking so much when you haven't mentioned your accident."

Before she quite finished, horns and sirens began blaring. "The New Year already, Hal. How quickly the time has passed."

"It always did for us, remember?"

"It's a nice idea—a fresh new year when people can resolve to lead better lives, start afresh and leave their mistakes behind."

His voice was husky: "Could that be us, Carol? I'd like to make a fresh start with you, darling, if you could forgive me."

She was silent so long that he added, "I wouldn't run away a second time."

"I'm not thinking of that, my dear. I'm too happy to think. But maybe I should there would be problems for us, Hal."

"None we couldn't meet if we had courage."

He found her lips and this time there was no parapet to steady himself. But he felt the dog beside him and gripped its harness. A tail began to thump his leg.

"I believe Thora likes me," he said. "I hope she'll like Buck."

"She should. They're of opposite sexes," Carol said. "That should keep our seeing-eye dogs from fighting, shouldn't it, darling?"

J. Frank Willis may not think so but the gentleman beside him seems to feel that he has picked the right man to help him with the special package from CBC. The job Santa has lined up for Frank is to preside as host over the CBC-Radio Christmas Day Broadcast "Christmas Almanac" which will run for about six hours starting at noon. It will feature a wide variety of music, commentary and on-the-spot broadcasts from all over Canada. Among those who will be calling on Mr. Willis will be Wayne & Shuster, Juliette, Rawhide, Don Harmon, Dave Broadfoot. The Happy Gang, Don Messer, The Old Stager and the Prairie Schooner gang. There will also be other reports from the Prairies, Maritimes, and West Coast; all this will be combined to bring Canadians an insight on how other Canadians will be spending Christmas.

Of the total pulp and paper output, 46 per cent comes from Quebec, 26 per cent from Ontario, 12 per cent from British Columbia, and 16 per cent from the four Atlantic provinces.

Pulp and paper is truly the national industry of Canada, standing first in employment, in total wages paid, in export values, in value of production, and first in capital invested. The welfare of all Canadians depends on the well-being of this great national industry.

The village was saddened to hear of the death at Digby on Friday, 16th, of Mr. John H. Farwell, of Moncton and Smith's Cove. Mr. Farwell, with his family, had spent many long summers at his cottage here and will be greatly missed in the community where he always maintained an active interest in its welfare and supported every worthwhile project. Our sympathy is extended to the family.
Mrs. Layton Savary left on Saturday for Halifax where she embarked for Germany to join her husband who will be stationed there for two years.

Mrs. Chester Brinton was hostess to the Society of Friends on Monday evening, Dec. 12. This was the club's annual Christmas party and was largely attended despite the inclement weather. Games and carols were enjoyed while an exchange of gifts from a gaily lighted tree followed by a delicious and very Christmassy lunch brought the evening to a close.

On Saturday evening, December 17th, Santa Claus put in his appearance at O. F. Woodman's store to bring a treat to the children of the community. This annual event was again sponsored by the Society of Friends, who make arrangements each year with Santa to ensure this visit from him in order that the children will not be disappointed.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kirby and children left on Saturday for a two week's visit in Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jones were recent visitors in Middleton where they visited friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Archer R. Turnbull and children, Christopher and Pamela, of Pictou, are holiday guests of the former's parents, Dr. and Mrs. G. V. Turnbull.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harrison and small son, Ronald, have moved into their new home and are being welcomed in the community as permanent residents.

New Trout To Nova Scotia

Arctic char — a member of the trout family — has been introduced to a Nova Scotia lake for the first time. It has been announced by the Federal Department of Fisheries.

Planned to provide a greater fishing potential for the angler, particularly in the warm summer months — 3,000 Arctic char fingerlings have been planted in Annis Lake in Queens county. The landlocked variety of the Arctic char was first identified six years ago in Walton Lake in Albert County in New Brunswick and later in Upsalquitch Lake, Restigouche county. This year the char were also planted in Clear Lake.

Slender in shape, the char grows to about 20 inches in length and three pounds in weight. Sea run varieties have been known to weigh as much as twenty pounds.

In summer the char can be taken by trolling or with bait

There are many good prospects among the first year curlers and indications are that this will be one of the best seasons ever for the Digby club. Prepare Christmas Cheer Parcels

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Digby Branch of the Canadian Legion and members of the Digby Branch of the Red Cross Society have been very busy lately getting ready parcels of Christmas Cheer for needy families in the Digby area.

Included in the parcels are mittens, which have been gathered in large quantity by Mrs. George Winfield, of the Red Cross; clothing, dolls, toys, food and other needed items.

This year a large number of toys have been made available to the group through the efforts of the Digby Troop of the Boy Scouts under the leadership of Norman Wright. The Scouts have done an excellent job of collecting, repairing and making ready a great many toys which will bring joy to the hearts of many youngsters on Christmas Day.

The first item was a dialogue, written by Mr. Armitage, which was acted by four of the young people of the village, which demonstrated the need for a Youth Centre and the eagerness of young people to share in its founding and continuation. From this dialogue, six questions were discussed, based upon some of the statements of the actors, and this proved a lively and interesting part of the programme. Many people speaking from the floor of the meeting, as well as those who were reporting for the several discussion groups. The general consensus of opinion was that Weymouth was somewhat lax in providing recreational facilities for young people, but that it was not because of lack of interest but rather on account of lack of leadership. Now that leadership was being provided by the action of the Clergy, a Youth Centre ought to become a part of the local scene.

Following the discussion, Mr. Armitage gave a resume of the work of the Steering Committee, outlining the possibilities that had been explored and some of their activities which could easily be part of the Centre. After his description of the proposed Centre, he moved that the village approve the formation of a Youth Centre, which, being seconded by Mr. John Comeau was unanimously agreed upon. A committee was appointed to make nominations for the various officers which reported back to the meeting later in the evening.

It is hoped that the Centre may be opened early in the New Year, meeting in the Legion Hall until the Scout Hall is ready for occupation, which will probably not be until the summer months. About 55 people were present at the meeting, which, considering the poor weather and road conditions was a very good turnout. The enthusiasm of the meeting was real

STRIKES CAUSE MAJOR TIME LOSS

Three work stoppages arising from industrial disputes in Canada during November accounted for 91 per cent of the total time loss during the month. These three industrial disputes were responsible for a combined time loss of 347,000 man-working days and involved a total of 17,089 workers.

Preliminary figures for November showed a total of 24 work stoppages in existence during the month, involving 21,236 workers with a time loss of 379,200 man-working days, as compared with 21 stoppages in October with 23,368 workers involved and a time loss of 378,769 days. In November 1954, there were 24 stoppages involving 20,645 workers and a time loss of 326,943 days.

Each year, it has been the custom for the first issue in December of "Farm News" to be devoted entirely to recipes for dishes usually associated with the Christmas Season. So, for the benefit of any who may have mislaid the recipes offered previously, or who are interested in trying something new, here are a few kitchen-tested recipes which may be of interest, as well as a few hints to be remembered, if satisfactory products are to result. First, the hints:

Fruit cakes should be cooked early, not only so that the last-minute rush will be avoided but, also, so that the cakes would have time to "ripen" properly before being used.

Place cake in the refrigerator the night before it is to be used. It will slice like magic.

Cut dates, raisins and cherries with scissors.

Pour batter over floured fruits and fruits will be well-mixed.

Bake cakes at 250 to 275 degrees F. for 3 to 4 hours. Watch cakes carefully as times mentioned are only approximate.

Place a pan containing two cups of water on bottom shelf of oven to prevent drying and over-baking.

Line cake tins with two thicknesses of greased brown paper or aluminum foil. Allow cakes to cool in pans and then lift out and remove linings. To store fruit cakes for ripening, remove papers from completely cooled cakes. Wrap cakes in cheesecloth, soaked in fruit juice, or cover with aluminum foil or heavy waxed paper. Store in closely-covered container in a cool place.

HOLIDAY FRUIT CAKE

1 cup sugar; 1 cup butter; 4 eggs; 7 tablespoons frozen orange juice; 1 tablespoon lemon juice; 2 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour; 1 teaspoon baking powder; 1/4 teaspoon soda; 1 cup chopped nut meats; 1/2 cup shredded coconut; 1 cup white raisins; 1/4 teaspoon salt.

Blend sugar and butter until creamy. Beat in, one at a time, egg yolks, concentrated orange juice (one tablespoon at a time direct from can) and lemon juice. Sift flour, measure and re-sift with baking powder and soda. Stir sifted ingredients slowly into batter. Stir in nuts, coconut and raisins. Add salt to egg whites and whip until stiff (but not dry). Fold eggs into batter. Place in greased 9-inch tube pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for one hour.

RICH DARK FRUIT CAKE

3 cups seedless raisins; 2 cups candied cherries; 1 cup almonds (blanched and cut in half); 1 cup pecans or filberts (cut in half); 1 cup chopped citron; 1/2 cup chopped candied orange peel; 2 cups seeded raisins; 2 slices glazed pineapple; 3 cups flour; 1 teaspoon baking powder; 1/4 teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; 1/4 teaspoon each — nutmeg, cloves and mace; 1 cup butter; 1 cup white sugar; 6 eggs; 1/4 cup corn syrup; 1/4 cup grape juice.

Wash raisins until water runs clean; then dry between towels. Cut cherries in half. Chop or silver lemon, orange and citron peel. Dice pineapple. Prepare nuts. Cream butter, add sugar, beat until fluffy. Add eggs — one at a time — being sure mixture is well beaten after each addition. Add corn syrup and grape juice. Sift, then measure flour, add baking powder, salt and spices and re-sift three times. Take out 1 cup of flour mixture and sift over fruit, making sure fruit is well-coated with flour. Add remainder to creamed mixture. Gradually add fruit, a small amount at a time. Turn into pan which has been lined with three thicknesses of broken paper on bottom and sides — with top layer greased. Bake in 275 degrees oven for 3 1/2 to 4 hours.

Cool in pan. Remove, wrap in waxed paper and store in tightly covered container. Approximate yield: 7 lbs. This recipe makes one 8 x 8 x 4" cake.

WHITE FRUIT CAKE

1 pound light sultana raisins; 1/2 pound citron peel; 1/2 pound glace cherries; 1/4 pound almonds; 1/2 pound mixed glazed fruits; 2 slices candied pineapple; 1 cup butter; 1 cup white sugar; 3 eggs; 3 cups flour; 1/4 teaspoon salt; 3 teaspoons baking powder; 1/4 teaspoon vanilla; 1/4 teaspoon almond extract; 1/4 teaspoon lemon extract; 1 cup milk.

Prepare fruit. Wash raisins thoroughly. Shred citron peel, cut cherries in half. Dice pineapple. Blanch almonds and cut in half. Add glazed fruit. Sift, then measure flour and re-sift three times with salt and baking powder.

Take out 1/4 cup of flour mixture and dredge fruit with it. Cream butter, add sugar gradually. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add flavorings to milk and then blend alternately with flour into creamed mixture. Fold in flour, fruit and nuts.

Line 8 x 8 x 4 pan with three thicknesses of brown paper, greasing top layer. Spoon cake into pan. Bake in 275 degrees F. oven for 2 1/2 to 3 hours.

When cake is cold, remove from pan, wrap in wax paper. Store in cool place in covered container. Approximate yield: 5 pounds.

PLUM PUDDING

1/2 pound sultana raisins; 1/2 pound seeded raisins; 1/2 pound currants; 1/4 pound shelled almonds; 1/4 pound citron peel; 1 1/2 cups brown sugar; 2 cups stale bread crumbs; 1/2 pound beef suet, finely chopped; 2 cups flour; fine of 1 lemon; 1 teaspoon nutmeg; 1 cup milk; 1/4 cup grape juice; 3 eggs.

Wash and dry raisins and currants. Combine with citron peel and shelled almonds. Sift, then measure flour. Combine flour, sugar, bread crumbs, suet, lemon rind and nutmeg.

Add fruit and nuts and mix until all pieces are coated.

Beat eggs until light. Add milk and grape juice. Add to flour mixture and combine thoroughly.

Grease two pudding molds. Add batter until two-thirds full. Cover closely with piece of wet, cookery parchment that has been wrung out of cold water or with greased heavy paper and tie down.

To STEAM PUDDING: Steam in regular steamer over plenty of boiling water for four hours. Add boiling water to kettle, as required.

If you have no steamer, use a large preserving kettle. Place molds on a rack in the kettle and add enough hot water to come up two-thirds of the way up the outside of the molds. Cover kettle with a tight-fitting lid and bring the water to a boil, and keep it boiling for 4 hours. Replace water as necessary during the boiling period.

TO STEAM IN A PRESSURE COOKER: Follow the manufacturer's directions. Cover pudding mold with cookery parchment, heavy waxed paper or aluminum foil, tie down securely. Place mold on rack. Add 5 cups water. Put cover on pressure cooker. Steam 20 minutes WITHOUT pressure but with a steady flow of steam coming from the steam vent. Then pressure cook at 10 pounds for 50 minutes.

TO STORE: Uncover puddings and allow to cool on a cake rack. When cool, remove from molds or not as you please. Wrap in several thicknesses of wax paper and store in a cool, dry place.

TO REHEAT: Steam for 1 1/2 hours.

ENGLISH PLUM PUDDING

Wash and dry the raisins and currants. Mix the flour, sugar, spices and molasses, then add the well-beaten eggs, the suet and juice of lemons, then the fruit. Mix well. Add the baking powder and vanilla. The mixture should be quite stiff. If there is not sufficient moisture, use a little rich sweet milk to thin. Put in a well-greased mold, tightly covered, and steam for 10 hours. Add more water, as it evaporates.

CARROT PUDDING

1 cup raisins; 1 cup currants; 1/4 cup mixed peel; 1/4 cup almonds, blanched; 1 cup grated raw carrots; 1 cup flour; 1/4 teaspoon each — cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg; 1 cup brown sugar; 1/2 cup shortening; 1 egg; 1 teaspoon soda.

Cream shortening and blend in sugar. Add well-beaten egg. Add carrot and half of the potato. Add fruit and flour mixture. Dissolve soda in raisins.

lasts 21 days. It is constructed of thin, fragile clay, filled with sweetmeats and trinkets, then suspended from the ceiling as a form of decoration.

Sometimes during the gathering, each of the guests is blindfolded and given a stick which is brandished in the air until the pinata is shattered and the delicious contents pour forth.

Saint Nicholas Was Bishop Of Myra

Saint Nicholas lived some 1800 years ago in Turkey where he was for 17 years Bishop of Myra. Today, the place is known as Demre, province of Antalya—where his church may still be found and one may yet hear of the generous acts which made his life a great legend and gave him the "Santa Claus" character we all know today.

It is said that Saint Nicholas, a man of great virtue and piety, became the patron saint of boys when he restored to life the sons of a rich Asiatic, who had been murdered by a robber-knave while they were enroute to school at Athens. It is said that he was warned of the crime in a dream, but was unable to reach the town in time to prevent the murders. He restored the boys to life through prayer and the murderer confessed his crime.

Christmas Rose Is Hallowed By Legend

The delicate beauty of the Christmas-rose (Helleborus niger) is hallowed by legend. A poor shepherd girl, the story goes, wept bitterly as she watched the Wise Men on their way to the Christ Child bearing rich gifts when she had nothing. An angel appeared. Upon learning the reason for the girl's distress, the angel caused the ground to be carpeted with shining white flowers. The young shepherdess gathered some blossoms. When she presented her gift, the infant smiled and as His fingers touched the white flowers, the petals became tinged with pink.

POPULAR CHRISTMAS CAROLS

Probably the best known Christmas carol is "Adeste Fideles," composed in 1700 and sung in Roman Catholic churches ever since. It was adopted in England in 1841 and sung in Protestant churches as "O Come All Ye Faithful." Among the most popular Christmas carols are "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night," "Christians Awake," and "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." St. Ambrose is said to have written one of the first Christmas hymns in 340 A.D.

ing half of the potato and add it last.

Pour into buttered mold. Tie down with parchment or heavily waxed paper. Steam for 3 hours.

MINCE MEAT

4 pounds apples, peeled and chopped; 2 pounds seedless raisins; 1 pound currants; 1/4 teaspoon each mace, allspice, and cloves; 2 tablespoons molasses; 1/2 pound blanched almonds; 1 pound of suet, chopped fine; 1 pound unbleached sultana raisins; 2 pounds brown sugar; 4 teaspoons salt; 1 pint apple cider (or to suit taste); rind and juice of 2 lemons.

Mix well, store in a crockery jar in a cool place. From time to time, stir mixture.

Keep for about two weeks before using. Will keep well during winter.

FRUIT NUT BREAD

1/2 cup dried apricots; 1 large orange; 1/2 cup raisins; 1/2 cup nuts; 1 cup sugar; 1 tablespoon shortening; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 2 cups flour; 1 teaspoon soda; 2 teaspoons baking powder; 1 egg; hot water.

Soak apricots in water for an hour. Put through grinder along with orange rind, raisins and nuts. Sift dry ingredients. Add sufficient hot water, to orange juice to make 1 cup. Add shortening to hot liquid. Add beaten egg and all other ingredients. Bake in a loaf pan 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

Planning a Turkey Dinner for Christmas?

If you are, and you want to be sure it's a "good" bird, then follow these tips in preparing that important part of your holiday meal.

Be sure all wing-up feathers are removed. They may be pulled out easily by pressing the skin between the feathers down to the tips of the quill with the forefingers of one hand and pulling the feathers straight out with the other.

The drum stick can also be greatly improved by pulling with a pair of pliers as many of the nine heavy tendons in each leg as possible.

Single your bird the easy way. Put a few teaspoons of rubbing alcohol in a jar. Light the bird, rotate the turkey slowly over the flame. The bird should then be washed with soap in lukewarm water, using a scrub brush, then rinsed in clear water and dried.

Don't stuff the turkey until just before putting it into the oven. Three skewers should be used before closing the cavity and a square knot tied after each skewer so the loosing won't tighten. If there is not sufficient opening to let off steam, the dressing will get soggy.

In roasting the turkey, you'll find that the wing-tips can be brought over the back and tied to make a "rack" on which the bird will rest in the roaster.

The first Christmas cards were mailed in 1846 by Henry Cole, an Englishman. The cards depicted a Victorian family assembled at the festive board and bore the now-famous greeting: "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to you."

Christmas Scene:

St. Francis Set The Stage

Did you ever wonder about the origin of the custom of displaying the Christ Child in the crib at Christmas time? These displays have been common since the time of St. Francis, who found manger scenes in churches, store windows, even in outdoor locations. Credited with the idea of the first display is St. Francis of Assisi, who is reported to have said to one of his followers: "I wish to celebrate Holy Christmas night with you. In the woods near the cloister you will find a cave where we shall arrange a manger filled with hay. We shall have an ox and an ass just as at Bethlehem. I wish to see how poor and miserable the Infant Saviour became for us." This was in the small village of Garcia, in Italy, in the year 1200. St. Francis and his followers celebrated mass at the cave and sang hymns in honor of the Christ Child.

There was no Room

"I am sorry, Mary. They tell me they have no room." And so it was that Joseph, the humble Galilean carpenter, and his queenly young wife Mary, took refuge in a stable near the edge of town. For them there had been no room.

The population of Bethlehem was more than double, the descendants of David having come to register as ordered by Herod. The journey had been a particularly tiresome one for Mary. The quietness of the stable and the small amount of warmth it provided was indeed welcomed by both she and Joseph. Near the hour of midnight, the manager for darkened sky came to life with a his thrice, they find the Christ light of ethereal beauty above the Child.

Christmas
YOUNG

Christmas is for the young! How many times do we hear grown-ups make this statement? Much too often. Christmas belongs to all of us, a share, to take part in the celebration of the birth of the Saviour, the greatest event in the history of the world. For a true Christmas we need only renew our faith in the Saviour born at Christmas time. We, too, it seems to some that Christmas will then be young at heart.

TOGETHER

By Shirley Sargent

AS ALICE DANFORTH moved from the sink, she saw the big calendar turned to December and the latent happiness within her swelled like a balloon. She hugged her secret to herself, glad now that she had kept it from Jed. What better way to start the New Year? Of course, if Jed had been here to Weed these last two months, she couldn't have kept it, but he had been gone on sales trips for the company. She walked into the living room to study their wedding portrait taken just three years ago.

Jed's expression was radiant. He was a tall young man with dark hair and warm brown eyes while Alice, herself, was slight with honey blond hair and a smile that lent her beauty. How happy they had been, Alice thought, when they had come to the town of Weed. The first year and the second year. It had been only recently that Jed had exhibited the restlessness that culminated in his transferring to the sales staff. It had been only recently that Alice had paid particular attention to Weed's snow-covered parks, to its homey schools and its pervading air of "typical" as she had walked its broad streets. When they had first come to Weed, she had had little time for anyone but Jed sat up when she brought the bowl of well-salted, buttered popcorn to him.

Jed, lately she had treasured every friendly greeting, every evidence of belonging. And soon, she wondered, will my interests narrow down again?

Jed arrived home too late and too exhausted to go to the parties they had been invited to. There were tired lines in his face, especially around his eyes. "Let's just see the New Year in together," he suggested, sprawling on the couch.

Thoughtful Quiet

For a while the living room was broken only by the noises of the crackling fire and the popping corn. Outside, Alice knew, snow was falling in geometrically beautiful flakes that would heap together and mean shoveling to-morrow.

Jed sat up when she brought the bowl of well-salted, buttered popcorn to him. They sat side by side, sharing the bowl.

"Good," Jed mumbled, his mouth too full for clear speech. "How was your trip?" The clock read 11:45.

Jed sighed from deep within him. "All right," he said, "considering how green I am at sales. The boss is pleased in fact . . ."

Alice was aware of his instant gaze. "In fact, what?" she questioned.

Jed rose, paced restlessly. "In fact, the boss is so pleased with my progress that he'll put me out in the field regularly. Now, don't interrupt. Let me finish. We would either move to Chicago or maybe we could buy a house trailer and you could go with me."

Jed poked another log on the fire. "Of course, it wouldn't all be fun and travel, but at least you wouldn't be stuck in Weed anymore."

Not Stuck At All

"Stuck in Weed," she echoed. "Who said I was stuck? Why, Weed has one of the best stocked libraries I've even seen in a small town and in the summer we have the band and the people are so friendly."

"But I thought you hated it here." His square face was set in lines of utter bewilderment. "That's why I took the darn job with the sales force."

Church bells began to toll the old year out as Alice went to Jed. "Jed, dear, you couldn't be more mistaken. I love Weed, and our future lies here. A wonderful future. Why, next June we're going to have a baby."

Jed whooped and hugged her tightly, then led her gently to the couch. "A baby? Our daughter or son in June? Are you sure?"

"Of course, nitwit, and I want him, but, if I grow up in Weed."

"Then I don't have to stay with sales and we can live here and raise our child. Oh, Happy New Year, darling. Happy New Year!"

In the language of flowers, mistletoe means "give me a kiss." This has its basis in a Scandinavian myth. And from this old tale we derive our custom of kissing under the mistletoe.

As it hangs upon the chandelier or in the doorway, each lad may claim a kiss from the maid who chances beneath it with this provision: that the lad remove a berry to give to the maid, until, at last, when no berries are left, the bough loses its spell and no more kisses are then available.

The story continues "that the maiden who receives no kisses under the mistletoe will not marry that year."

CARS ARE MY LINE

by Ken Hankinson

It's mighty annoying, sitting there on a winter morning, grinding away on the starter. You know your battery is in good shape, and you've had the electrical system checked for loose connections and big enough cables (something I pointed out here a little while ago).

Your battery is in good shape — but it soon won't be with much more of this kind of starting.

So, let's see what happens when you're grinding away on a winter morning. The battery is less efficient in the first place, and congealed oil puts an extra load on the starting system.

The valve stems may get sticky and not close properly. As a result, compression is lost. And the compressing of gas and air into a tight space within the cylinder does the vital job of heating the mixture up an extra 400 or 500 degrees. At that heat, you don't need much spark to set it off.

Even with compression lost, the mixture may ignite, and then you find it hasn't enough power to keep the engine turning over.

Two things need to be done. It's here that the importance of using the right weight of oil comes in. Come around to see us — before trouble sets in if you can — and we'll troubleshoot for winter starting headaches and put in the right grade of oil.

Secondly, this is the time of year when it's sometimes a good idea to put in some top cylinder oil through the spark plug holes or intake manifold to free those sticky valve stems. We'll do it for you, too.

A Problem Resolved

By Don Wheeler

TYLER TURNABOUT placed a tray of sandwiches on the buffet in the dining room and hurried to the front door to welcome the first of his New Year's Eve party guests.

"Well, Tyler," said Robert Benson, ushering in his wife, "Don't tell me we're the first to arrive? I thought the Harrisons would be here at least."

"Nope, not them," said Tyler with a good-natured smirk. "They live right next door, but they're sure to be the last."

The Bensons seated themselves in the living room while their host went into the kitchen to assist Mrs. Turnabout in putting the final touches to the party preparations. The minutes ticked by and the guests drifted in, until at last they were all there, even the Harrisons from next door.

"Look here, Turnabout," said Tom Harrison as he planted his left foot squarely on the middle of the piano bench. "This is the time of year for making resolutions. I've made a few myself and I'd like to know if you've done the same."

"Me? Made any resolutions? I haven't given it a thought, Tom, old boy."

"Well, I have," said Harrison, lifting his foot in the air and bringing it down on the piano bench with a thud. Mrs. Turnabout

"You'll never stick to it, Turnabout," he said, scowled from across the room, so Harrison retreated from the piano bench and leaned against the wall nearby, pausing only to grab up a cup of coffee from an end table as he did so.

Bob Benson, who had caught the opening of the conversation, moved along with him. He was aware of the friendly arguments the two neighbors had indulged in over a period of several years. He knew a trap was being set for Tyler Turnabout.

"Well, Tom, let's hear some of your New Year's resolutions," said Benson, pulling up a chair.

He Tells All
"I've resolved," said Harrison, looking at Tyler, "to figure out some way to keep your dog out of my flower bed this spring. Further, I've resolved to figure a plan which will make you cut your share of the grass between our houses — by the way, you still have your lawn mower from last summer — a plan that will make you shovel your share of the snow off the front walk."

Harrison gulped some of his coffee and continued, "A plan that will keep the branches of your apple tree from hanging over into my back yard; and a plan that will keep you from using my garbage can when yours is full."

Harrison indicated a full garbage can by raising both hands above his head and as a result his coffee cup crashed against the wall and fell to the floor.

Harrison apologized for the action. Mr. Turnabout seemed unconcerned.

Most of the other conversation in the room had ceased and the others had gathered around the two smiling. The clock on the mantle showed that it would be a New Year five minutes.

An Easy Solution
"Tell you what I'll do, Tom," said Tyler, "I'll make a resolution that guarantees you won't be bothered by any of these things this year."

"You'll never stick to it, Turnabout!"

"I guarantee it," said Tyler with a broad grin.

"All right, Turnabout. You make that resolution. If you keep it, and I know you won't for just three months, I'll cut your grass for the rest of the summer. If you don't, then you cut mine. Agreed?"

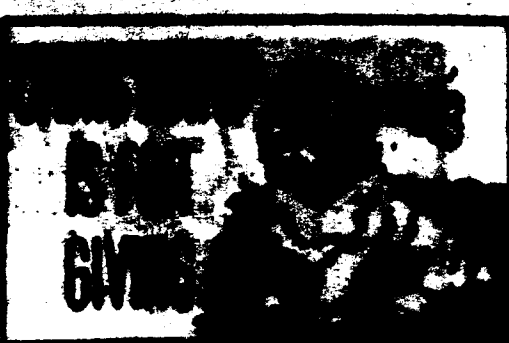

"Agreed," replied Turnabout with an even broader grin.

"Let's shake hands on it before the New Year, just to make it legal," said Harrison.

The New Year arrived with horn blowing, hand shaking, and kissing of wives and then Tyler turned to Harrison and said, "By the way, Tom, I guess I should have told you before: we've sold our house. We'll be moving to the other side of town in a week. So when you come to cut my grass this winter, don't forget to bring your lawn mower with you; I don't have one you know."

Turnips make an excellent garnish. Cook until tender, cool and scoop out the insides. Spread with butter and fill with crab, seasoned herbs. Reheat and surround the fowl platter.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

By Maud McCurdy Welch

TOMORROW was Christmas and Tommy was worried. It hadn't snowed at all, and if there was no snow to shovel, how could he make any money for Christmas?

Tommy lived in the neat farm cottage with his Uncle Pete and Aunt Lucy. Aunt Lucy had just told him he could go over and see Jimmy Reader but he sure to be back by five o'clock. Tommy started walking slowly toward the Reader farm, as he had a lot of thinking to do.

In the small sitting room Aunt Lucy and Uncle Pete were talking. Aunt Lucy insisted that two dollars was an awful lot to pay for a dog. They were poor people after all and could only afford to give Tommy sensible things.

Uncle Pete thought Tommy should have the puppy he wanted. He was only seven, and needed a pet.

Tommy was walking along still slowly, trying not to think how wonderful it would be if he could have this little puppy. His name was Blaise, and he was a runt; that's why he cost only two dollars. Tommy thought how the pup would frolic along beside him and wag his tail, and how they'd race over the fields when spring was here. But no use thinking about Blaise. He had to get a job.

It was when he was passing the big house where Mr. Robert Thatcher cher lived, that the idea came. Tommy went in and asked Mr. Thatcher for a job. Mr. Thatcher was said to be a bad-tempered, stingy old man, but Tommy wasn't going to be afraid of him. He said, "I need some Christmas money, and I thought you might give me a job to do."

"Could you give it to me in new shiny dollars," Tommy said.

The old man asked grumpily, "What do you want for Christmas?"

His Xmas Wish
Tommy explained about the dog and Mr. Thatcher said, "All right, you can go to work in the orchard, cleaning out under the trees."

Tommy found the rake and other tools and went to work with vim. A little before five, the job was done. Mr. Thatcher took a look at it, and said he'd earned the two dollars.

"Could you give it to me in new shiny dollars," Tommy asked. The old man nodded. "Thought you were going to buy a puppy?"

"Nope. Can't have the puppy. Christmas is for giving."

The old man put two silver dollars in his hand. He said softly, "Glad you reminded me, Tommy. I'd almost forgotten."

Then it was Christmas. After breakfast Tommy proudly laid a shining silver dollar in Aunt Lucy's hand and one in Uncle Pete's.

They were both so surprised for a moment they didn't speak. Then Aunt Lucy nodded at Uncle Pete. He left the room and they heard the chugging of the old Ford as it went down the lane.

"The dollar shines pretty, doesn't it?" Tommy asked.

"It's beautiful, Tommy. Thank you," Aunt Lucy's voice sounded choked up.

The Real Thing
When Uncle Pete came back, he gave Tommy two packages, mittens from Aunt Lucy and shoes from Uncle Pete. "Just what I needed," Tommy exclaimed and gave them both a big hug. Uncle Pete cleared his throat. "Tommy, your real present is on the back porch in a basket."

It was Blaise, the puppy Tommy gave a cry of joy. He ran back to the sitting room, the puppy in his arms. "Oh, thank you, Uncle Pete. Thank you, Aunt Lucy. Thank you a million!"

But that wasn't all. An hour later a car stopped outside and a chauffeur brought in a big basket of fruit and one filled to the brim with wonderful things to eat. Even a turkey. There was a note, which read:

"Christmas is for giving. I wish you all a very Happy Yuletide. It was signed Robert Thatcher."

Aunt Lucy and Uncle Pete looked at each other in amazement. Then Uncle Pete said, "Well, Robert Thatcher certainly did get the Christmas spirit, didn't he?"

"Everybody is so good," Tommy said. He looked down at the puppy which was now asleep in his lap.

Double Santa Claus

By Royce Fields

AS WAS his custom during Christmas week of each year, George Brandon leaned against a pillar in the toy department of the big store, and watched the kiddies. Whenever, with a particularly hungry look, a child picked up a toy or eyed one longingly, George raised his hand. This was a signal to the clerk that the price of the toy was on him.

George was no millionaire. It was just that, not having folks of his own to buy Christmas presents for, he spent his gift money on the kids. It gave him a satisfaction to see their faces light up.

A girl had entered the store and was standing by a pillar near the one George was propped against. He had noticed her, with more than casual interest, when she came in. She had a complexion that was the clearest he had ever seen and, although he couldn't see them at that distance, he would have bet she had blue eyes. Her hair was shining blonde.

When George turned his attention back to the toy counter, a little girl, wearing neat but worn clothing, was eyeing a doll almost as large as herself. He raised his hand. With a slightly bewildered expression, the clerk picked up two dolls, wrapped them, and handed them to the child.

The actions of the clerk puzzled George. He was certain he had only signaled once.

George turned his head to look at the blonde girl again.

The girl caught him staring at her and she smiled. A very nice smile. George would have liked to have a smile like that, just for himself, every day. With an effort he brought his gaze back to the toy counter.

A small boy was wistfully looking at a train. George could picture the kid at home, on the floor, playing with it. It would be nice to help a boy like that assemble the toy. He raised his hand.

This time the clerk seemed more puzzled than ever. He started to reach for the train, then instead, he motioned for George to come to the counter. George had been about to go over, anyway, to see what was behind the man's strange actions.

"Do you know that blonde girl standing over there by the pillar?" the clerk asked him.

"Yes," George told him, "but I sure like to. Why?"

"Did you notice I gave the little girl two dolls, when you signaled?"

"Why yes," George answered him, "and I wondered about it. However, I figured you knew the child and she probably had a sister that you thought should have a doll too."

"No, that wasn't the reason," the toy salesman motioned to the blonde girl. She had been watching them with interest and at the clerk's wave, she came over.

"Miss Marvin," the man behind the counter introduced them, "this is George Brandon. George, this is Joan Marvin. I think all nice people, such as you two, should know each other!"

The girl extended her hand eagerly and George took it just as quickly. He saw that he would have won the blonde's eyes were she the least of the blue!

"Say, what's going on here?" The small boy had turned away from the gleaming train and was looking at the trio wonderingly.

"I'll second the boy's question," George said. "Just what is going on here?"

The salesman laughed. "The reason I thought you two ought to get together, is that you're giving me signals on the same kids."

"Yes, sir," he told George. "Miss Marvin made the same arrangement this year, in regards to giving the kids toys, that you've been making for years!"

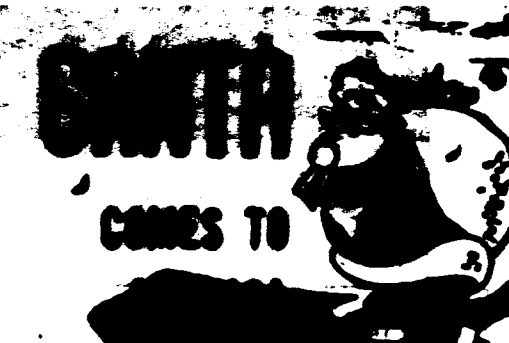

One Christmas, a few years later, Joan Brandon said to her husband, "Remember the Christmas we met, George?"

"Of course," he answered, "I'll never forget it. Why?"

"Well, she laughed, 'I'd seen you in the store the previous Christmas and it took me a year to figure out that scheme to meet you. One little girl got a double Christmas out of it, anyway!'"

When the destination is desirable, expectation speeds our progress. — Mary Baker Eddy. Enthusiasm is that secret and harmonious spirit which hovers over the production of genius. — Isaac D'Israeli.

God bless you, in this and New Year time and in all times, seasons and places. — Charles Dickens.

Just like most everyone else, Saint Nick prospered after he came to America.

In Europe, before he reached these shores, Saint Nick was a tall, angular man who rode a bony gray mare. He hadn't been in America long, however, before he had a new name, a new face, figure and a new and better mode of transportation.

The early English settlers in this country started Santa's "new look" process. They adopted the legendary figure from the Dutch, but couldn't pronounce "Saint Nicholas." The best they could do was "Santa Kalout," which was corrupted to "Santa Claus."

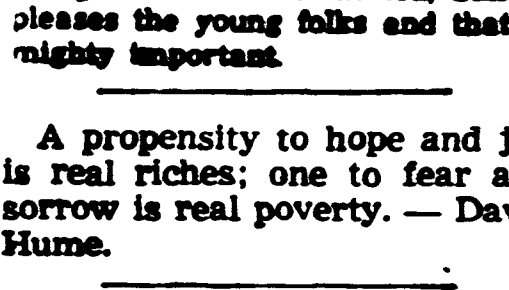

In 1880, Washington Irving in his "Knickerbocker's History of New York," changed Santa's physical appearance by describing him as a jolly fellow with a broad-brimmed hat and huge britches. He also taught St. Nick to smoke a pipe, and traded his bay runner for a wagon.

Clement Moore in his famous poem, "The Visit From Saint Nicholas," went even further. He gave Saint Nick a sleigh, twinkling eyes, cheeks like roses, nose like a berry and a round little belly.

Future writers may try to trade reindeer and Dancer off for a jet ship and trim down Santa's waistline. It will be a tough job, for though he isn't streamlined, Santa pleases the young folks and that's mighty important.

A propensity to hope and joy is real riches; one to fear and sorrow is real poverty. — David Hume.

Bill Robinson said bitterly to his wife who had just come into the living room, dressed for market.

What a swell bunch of fellows," he managed to say.

VOICES FROM the kitchen broke into the silence. Judy Johnson was saying excitedly, "I think I'm going to get a doll buggy."

MRS. JOHNSON was laughing as she appeared at the living room door. "Did you hear, Bill? Yes, I went shopping for our tree, and picked one up for you folks at the same time. It isn't so very tall but it's big enough to cheer you all up."

A loud commotion at the front door drew his attention. "Come on in, the door's not locked," he called, recognizing the voices of his Cub Scouts.

Bill tossed his head to get rid of the drops of mist in the corners of his eyes. "What a swell bunch of fellows," he managed to say. "But why?"

According to the families' old Carol, St. Joseph was an old man. He probably was considerably older than Mary, but people may have thought of him as being older than he actually was because he enjoyed earnest conversation and the companionship of selected friends rather than the tedious pleasures.

When Joseph thought of Mary, he forgot the difference in their ages; she was the girl he had loved for, his beloved. They were engaged, which was almost as official as being married.

Much as he loved Mary, Joseph was a righteous and God-fearing man and while he couldn't even think of making her a public example, he had just made up his mind to put her away privately. That is, he thought he had made up his mind. In his heart, he knew he couldn't; what would become of her... of her child.

Then one night, after he had exhausted himself with tortured thinking, he fell asleep and the angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream, saying:

There on Christmas Eve a large candle was burned which could be snuffed out only by one named Mary. As the Irish put it: "Who knows, on some Christmas Eve, Jesus and Mary and Joseph may come again, not to Palestine, but to the Holy Isle on the farthest edge of Europe!"

Their first use for Christmas is not recorded in the annals of any nation, but that the "Christ Child Candle," burned in the window of Christmas Eve is, according to an old legend, placed there to light his way if he makes an earthly visitation and is absent for the night of His birth when there was no room for Him.

Also among the legends is one about bayberry candles burned on Christmas. During the early history of our country, animal fats were relatively scarce. The branches of the bayberry shrub were covered with wax-giving berries and children were given the task of gathering the berries when candles had to be made so that the animal fats could be conserved.

According to tradition, one who burned a bayberry candle on Christmas Eve or Christmas Day would have long life and a happy one. An old verse reads: "To learn you lack for the year, they say, Burn a bayberry dip on Christmas day. If the flame burns bright and the light shines clear, Good luck will be yours throughout the year."

Hawaiian Christmas Is Elaborate Affair
Although many Hawaiians have seen ice only as frozen in mechanical refrigerators, the trees used by the islanders for Christmas decorations are painted white to simulate snow.
Christmas dinner is an elaborate affair, enjoyed in the privacy of the home behind locked doors and drawn blinds. Any open-house hospitality is an economic impossibility; if the shades were not drawn and the doors not locked, homes would be invaded by hordes of strangers—all expecting food and drink.
Gift-giving is the order of the day as everyone exchanges inexpensive presents. Even the advances in hotel expect and receive gifts from over-night guests.

EACH YEAR

There is one place where Christmas is kept three times a year—in the Church of Nativity of Bethlehem, the reputed site of the Stable of the Inn.

The Roman, Greek and Armenian Greek bodies have each their respective section of church, but their Christmas celebrations do not occur on the same day.

The Latin Christmas is celebrated at the Roman Catholic altar on December 25.

Thirteen days later the Orthodox Easterners perform the Greek rite. Another 13 days later the American church keeps its own ceremonial faith.

Symbol of Love

The mistletoe, once a weapon of death, later became a symbol of love. It is now a universal symbol of love and peace.

It was with a mistletoe arrow
(according to Norse mythology) that Loki killed Balder, the son and after Balder's mother had obtained a promise from all living things, other than the mistletoe, that they would not harm him.
Balder was restored to life and it was ruled by the gods that the mistletoe would never again be used to do harm.

Ancient Europeans considered the mistletoe a magical medicine.
They carried it about with them for health and luck, and believed it a cure for ulcers and epilepsy as well as a charm promoting fertility.

The present day custom of giving a kiss of love or peace beneath the mistletoe, although a relatively modern one, is derived from the fact that down through the centuries the mistletoe has been recognized throughout the whole world as a symbol of lasting peace.

Gift-Giving Custom in Ancient England

One of the most plausible versions of the origin of the custom of giving gifts at Christmas time is the one saying it began in England.

In the days of the knights, it was custom to hang kissing rings to the great halls. These rings were decorated with mistletoe and beneath them would meet the young knights and ladies, each bringing Christmas roses to their several love.

As times changed, so did customs, and roses gave way for other personal gifts at Christmas time.

It Can Be Wished in Many Languages

"Happy New Year!"

As the year 1955 rolls westward from the Admiralty's date line, these words will ring out in many languages.

Should you be in gay France, the greeting you'd hear would be
"Bonne Annee!" Down in sunny Italy, they say "Buon Capodd'Anno!" which doesn't sound too different in Spain, it's "Feliz Ano Nuevo!"

If you have relatives or friends in Germany, they may write, "Ein Glueckliches Neues Jahr." If so they wish you a Happy New Year.
The Swedish and Norse greetings are different from the ones above, although they are almost the same.
The Swedes say, "Godt Nytt Ar," and the Norse "Gott Nytt Ar."

Any way you hear it, though, it seems the same. The three words mean not only Happy New Year, but imply best wishes for all the days ahead.

Season Greenery
Wapp Mark Home
Sho Xmas Spirit

Did you ever notice that the prettiest homes around the community at Christmas are the ones decorated liberally with the green things of the season? Their festive appearance is obtained easily with proper display of such things as evergreens, berries, seed pods, and pine cones.

These simple decorations are readily available to most everyone at no cost and to use an old expression: "The woods are full of them."

A trip into the country to gather them can also be turned into a pleasant excursion for the whole family and a brief rest period from the "getting ready" for Christmas company parties, and holiday affairs.

One word of caution, however:
Don't kill trees or bushes. Prune carefully when selecting your evergreens.

The Christmas tree—whether large or small—should be the center of the decorations. Place your tree in front of a window, so that its bright, cheerful glow can be seen from within and without Decorate the tree with balls of red, silver, blue and green, strands of popcorn and various decorations that are saved from year to year.

Be sure to hang a rope of evergreens, a spray or wreath on your front door—these signify to many who pass your home that you are celebrating this joyous season.

A rope of evergreens requires approximately four or five yards of rope. The place you plan to use it will determine the exact length.
Next, you'll need several short lengths of wire, short sprays of evergreen, balls, bows, red berries or holly. Place a bunch of evergreen against the upper and fasten in place with the wire; repeat until the rope has been completely covered. The rope may be draped over the door frame, mantel, or along the stair rail. Pick out other spots where additional decorations, like berries, balls or holly will add to the effectiveness of over-all appearance.

Legend Says Christmas Trees Came From Egypt

Legend has it that the Christmathe first trees used were pal-

New Year Gatherings Are Ancient Tradition

Gathering with family and friends to celebrate the New Year is a custom older than when the date January 1 became accepted as the first day of the year.

Watching the old year out and the new year in is one of the oldest and most universal of all celebrations. The ancient Romans got together, although they celebrated the New Year in the spring, to wish-each other health, wealth and happiness in the days ahead.

And long before this time, the Vikings built huge fires at the turn of the year to propitiate their Norse gods.

FIRST CHRISTMAS TREE

In Strausburg, Germany, in 1600, the first Christmas tree appears in literature. It is thought that the custom of using Christmas trees in Germany spread from Strausburg.

When Queen Victoria married
King Albert, he introduced the Christmas tree custom in England.

From the early emigrants of Germany and England was derived the custom of the Chris-mas tree in America.

The Queen's Privy Council for Canada has about seventy members, chiefly present and former Ministers of the Crown, who retain membership for life.

Feasting Important To World Observance Of New Year

Feasting is as important a part of a New Year celebration as of Thanksgiving, with a good meal on the first day of the year symbolizing that there will be plenty throughout the days ahead.

The New Year's day banquet differs as one travels around the world. An important dish among the Spaniards is sopa, rice cooked with olive oil, tomatoes, vegetables and meat particles. Africans partake of cous-cous, which is composed of wheat grains, lamb and vegetables. Pickled greens, raw fish, roast bird and shrimp fritters are menu headlines in Japan, with pickled chrysanthemum petals considered a special delicacy. The Swedes temper their feasts with a special drink, called glogg which is a claret wine sweetened with sugar and flavored with almonds, raisins, dried orange peel, cinnamon, cloves and cardamom. It is usually set adre before serving.

Feasts in England and Western Europe are similar to our American menus, chief difference being in the choice of side dishes. Turkey, duck or goose make the popular roast in England and in France. Latin countries bedeck their holiday bowl with truffles, chestnuts and olives and one might find snails on the menu in France.

Gregorian Calendar Unified Our Timekeeping

Our present calendar—the Gregorian—was the first calendar to achieve any semblance of world unity on the time front.

The coming of this calendar, instituted by Pope Gregory in 1582, laid the groundwork for universal celebration of New Year's day.

Europe, which for centuries had celebrated March 25 as the first day of the year, was the first to adopt the Gregorian calendar. But it was not a complete adoption until 1752 when Great Britain joined the other European countries recognizing January 1 as the first day of the year and instituting use of the Gregorian calendar.

Of course, the date of January 1 is not celebrated by everyone. The Jews observe a 10-day New Year season at the time of the autumn equinox. The Moslem calendar, which dates to 622 A.D. has 12 months that begin with the approximate new moon without any intercalation to keep them geared to the seasonal equinoxes. And the Gregorian, although it performed a great job of unification, still doesn't satisfy everyone that uses it. Periodically some one comes forth with what they consider a better way of marking time.

Every year about this time we hear the same story: Christmas is getting too commercial. Last year, in fact, some grown-ups rebelled and said because Christmas was getting too commercial they intended to tell their children that there was no Santa Claus.

Like little Virginia O'Hanlon, who wrote the famous "Is there a Santa" letter to the editor of the New York Sun, children are very easily disillusioned. But, like Virginia, they need only reassurance from someone they believe in to sustain their wonderful belief. It is entirely wrong for us to shatter their dreams.

Christmas is commercial in some aspects. Thousands of people earn a livelihood working the year around in toy shops or factories which produce Christmas specialties. This, in itself, does not make Christmas "too commercial," for toy makers have produced Christmas novelties for hundreds and hundreds of years. In the same vein, we can not say Christmas is too commercial merely because newspapers, magazines and catalogs are filled with gift advertising as the holiday season approaches. They advertise Spring merchandise, Fall merchandise, etc., so why not Christmas merchandise, when the dominant theme is one of giving?

No—"Too commercial" is an overstatement. Christmas is too commercial only in the minds of grown-ups. If we think so, let's work to see that the "true spirit" of the season abounds about us and not attempt to take away from children the joy of one of the greatest moments in their young lives—the time when Santa visits.

For—"he exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus!"

Let there be a Santa as long as there are little Virginites.

The poinsettia has no Christmas tradition. Possessing beautiful red and green leaves (the flowers themselves being the small red centre), and being available at this season, the brilliance and color of this plant add much to Christmas decorations. The plant is native to Central America and Mexico and was adapted some years ago to cultivation by Dr. Poinsett of Charleston, S.C. It is distinctly modern.

DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS.

WE WERE in a dust covered box that sat in the corner of Mr. Barker's office. All through the year no one ever bothered about us, but now, at Christmas time, we knew that once again we would be the center of attraction. Grumbling and grunting, Mr. Barker lifted our box into his arms and started down the little stairs.

Seize a rather plump fellow with a stomach that protruded so far he couldn't see his feet, he was, I regret to say, somewhat clumsy. About half way down the stairs he stumbled and our box went tumbling down the stairs. I was unharmed, but I'm afraid some of my friends suffered from the fall. A few minutes later we were all unpacked and laid on the huge dining room table.

"Well now, let's see, John," said Mrs. Barker. "We can use this string of lights, and this string and, oh! We don't want to use this old string again, John! They've been around here for years. Throw them out in the trash with these other things that were broken when you fell."

I was shocked! For years I had been used to decorate the Barker's Christmas tree, and now, simply because I was getting a little old, they were throwing me out! It is true that my popularity with the Barkers had declined through the years. When I was new I was used at the top, but each year

About halfway down the stairs he stumbled and our box went tumbling down the stairs.

I seemed to find myself placed lower and lower on the tree.

Unwanted Home

My friends, most of them broken in tiny pieces, and myself were cast upon the trash pile in the alley I felt sorry for them. They had many years of use ahead of them had Mr. Barker been more careful, but now they could never be used again. But what of me? I wasn't broken; only a little old.

For two days I lay on the trash pile with my broken friends, and then, on the third day, a small child, who seemed to be searching the trash cans in the alley to see if he could find something of value came upon me. With a cry of delight he gathered me into his tiny hands and scampered out of the alley and to the edge of the small town, where he lived in a broken down little old house.

How glad were his brothers and sisters when they saw me! That evening they trimmed their tiny tree, it was scarcely three feet tall, and I was the principle item of decoration. One of my lights was placed at the top of the tree and the rest were wound in and about from top to bottom. Then the tree was placed in the front window and for the first time in my life I was given the task of lighting an entire tree.

That evening it snowed and snowed and the wind whistled harshly about the corners of the house. I was glad that I was in a warm house instead of being on the trash pile in the alley.

A Visitor Comes

Suddenly there was a loud rap on the door. When Mr. Cullen opened it I heard a man's voice. ask, "Have you seen the Granger boy? He was out playing this afternoon and hasn't come home yet. We think he's become lost in the storm. The whole town is out looking for him. Would you like to help Mr. Cullen?"

Mr. Cullen quickly put on his coat and scarf and followed the man into the dark cold night. They had been gone only about twenty minutes when again there was a knocking at the door. When Mrs. Cullen opened it, in stepped a tall man, carrying a boy in his arms. The boy's ears and nose were blue from the cold, and his teeth chattered.

"Mrs. Cullen," said the man, "this is Tommy Granger. I'd like to leave him here while I go tell his parents we've found him and send word to the others to stop searching. It's no wonder he was lost in a storm like this. I was almost lost myself until I saw the light from your tree in the window."

How proud I was when I heard those words. My lights seemed to brighten and shine as they had never done before, especially the one at the very top of the tree.

The turkey has not always been the favorite bird on the Christmas menu, the peacock in ancient times, taking its place on the festive board.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

By Shirley Sargent

RALPH BANGOR, a broad-shouldered, dark-haired man of about fifty, left the office early Christmas Eve. There was no staying, he reflected almost bitterly, the office staff had been having a Christmas party since noon on company time. His family accused him of not having any Christmas spirit. Well, the office staff had too much of it.

The gaily decorated streets were lit as he walked along the downtown area. Hurrying crowds seemed to be in a gay mood. Ralph remembered the Christmas of his own youth. He lived on a ranch with four other brothers and sisters, an aunt, two fatherless cousins and his parents. With that many mouths to feed, they were lucky to find a dime, an orange, nuts and a hand-knit pair of socks in their stockings.

He felt excited. This was fun. And challenging, too.

Now it was vastly different, Ralph thought. Christmas was commercial and presents elaborate, often useless. Molly, his wife, bought the gifts for their three children. A less brilliantly lighted store window attracted him. Sports equipment was exhibited. Ralph remembered his boy's shout of pleasure last Christmas when he had opened something he wanted particularly. "Gee, dad, how did you know? Just exactly what I wanted."

And Ralph had to say, in honesty, "Thank your mother, son, I just work here."

Julie, his nineteen-year-old, had burst out, "Oh, daddy, it just isn't any fun when you don't take part. You don't even know what you're giving us."

After All, He Paid

Well, who paid for it? Ralph thought now. So long as they got what they wanted. . . . But they? Maybe Julie and Jim had been trying to show him that they wanted something from him.

Something he picked out. Ralph thought again of his boyhood presents that had been made especially for him. Why, he realized, that was what made them special. The children were right then. All he did was pay for their gifts. This year he could pay double and take a chance that he would choose things they liked. It was supposed to be the thought, not the gift that counted anyway. Why, last Christmas it was that Jim had given him that awful pipe rack. But Ralph had accepted it with pleasure and still displayed it in a prominent place because Jim had worked hard to make something he could use. And the ill-fitting, hand-knit socks from Martha. Those gifts had meant more to him than any store-wrapped package could. He turned and hurried into the store.

Getting The Spirit

Ralph shopped carefully among the jostling crowds. He thought carefully as to whether the gift would be practical or not, appreciated or not. Molly was first and that was easy for Ralph knew she had wanted a watch for years. The children were harder. Julie was in college. She had everything. No, wait. She loved music. The type Ralph had no patience for. A Brahms symphony wasn't entirely practical, but he knew it would be appreciated.

He felt excited. This was fun. Challenging too. Other shoppers' faces reflected his own growing excitement. Next, year, he vowed, he and Molly would shop together. He backtracked to the camera department. Martha, their seven-year-old, was a photography fan. He bought several rolls of film and a "How To" book. Then, Jim. The boy lacked coordination, yet liked sports. A basketball and a punching bag. That ought to do it.

Later, as he let himself in the house, Ralph could hardly wait to see their faces tomorrow. But he didn't need to wait. As he placed the packages around the tree, Julie's delighted squeal brought the rest of the family in. When he turned around, he met four pairs of shining eyes that expressed their affection more clearly in words.

"Gee, dad," Jim sputtered, "you finally got the Christmas spirit."

Ralph smiled back at them warmly. "Guess it's catching and curable."

CHRISTMAS

Mrs. Paul Gayer entertained the local Red Cross group at their annual Christmas party on Tuesday evening, December 8. Each member received a gift from a beautifully decorated tree, names having been exchanged at a previous meeting. After a social hour of contests and games the members were seated at a festive table where the refreshments were in the form of the most delightful and delicious Christmas treats. All reported a wonderful time.

Mrs. Israel Dukeshire spent a few days in Halifax last week visiting her son, Ernest Dukeshire, Mrs. Dukeshire and Grant. Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Haight on Sunday, December 4, were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stevenson and son, of Middleton, and LAC William I. Ring and Mrs. Ring, Greenwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert McKenzie and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Haight motored to Yarmouth on Friday, December 2.

CRIB IN AMERICA
The oldest model of a Crib for the Americas seems to be of that erected by St. Francis Se-lene in Peru before the year 1610. It is reasonably certain there was an improvised Crib in the Jesuit Chapel at Laprairie, Province of Quebec, when Kateri Tekakwitha made her First Holy Communion there on Christmas Day, 1677. The actual record exists of the Crib of simple lines erected by the Jesuit Missionary, Father En-jelren, at his Mission on the shores of Lake Michigan for the Christmas of 1678.

The Christmas Crib has now reached every corner of the world. There is no other means of teaching the story of the Nativity so effectively.

FIRE DESTROYS WEYMOUTH HOME

A fire last Thursday night destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Crowe, situated on the corner of Main and Water streets, Weymouth. The blaze was first discovered by Mrs. Crowe, who was in the house at the time. The fire spread rapidly, destroying the main part of the house, including the living room, dining room, and kitchen. The fire department was called and arrived within five minutes. The fire was extinguished, but the damage was extensive. The loss was estimated at $10,000 and was only partly covered by insurance. The fire was caused by an overheated stove in the kitchen. The family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Crowe and their three children, were unharmed. The family had just finished decorating the Christmas tree when the fire occurred. The fire department was called and arrived within five minutes. The fire was extinguished, but the damage was extensive. The loss was estimated at $10,000 and was only partly covered by insurance. The fire was caused by an overheated stove in the kitchen. The family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Crowe and their three children, were unharmed.

During the early part of the fire, smoke was so heavy from the blaze, which apparently started in the attic from an overheated stove, that the house and much of the area was obscured from view. As soon as the alarm was sounded, the Weymouth fire brigade responded and most of the furniture in the first story was salvaged as were many Christmas presents. All furniture in the second story, as well as the Christmas tree, was lost in the blaze. The family had just finished decorating the Christmas tree when the fire occurred. The fire department was called and arrived within five minutes. The fire was extinguished, but the damage was extensive. The loss was estimated at $10,000 and was only partly covered by insurance. The fire was caused by an overheated stove in the kitchen. The family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Crowe and their three children, were unharmed.

A NEW YEAR DAWNS

Here we are, at the dawn of another new year. As we look back on the year that has just passed, we can see into the future and know what the year ahead will bring for good or ill. It is our duty to assess our fortunes and misfortunes of the past, profit by the experience and then thankfultly enter the unknown. Looking over the year files for 1955, we would count as one of the major events, the return of the Princess Helene on her day trip to Digby, after an absence of nearly three years. This in itself starts us on the journey into a new year of economic security which was absent less than a month ago. A quick look at the files reveals signs of progress and alertness in 1955. The establishment of the Power Plant for Bear River, the establishment of new stores and small plants denote certain progress. Ratepayers' Board of Trade, among other projects, made a good start in 1955, in promoting the tourist industry in this area and the Canadian Bicentennial celebrations publicized the County to the world. We were all forward steps. An effort was made to increase interest in mental health, handicraft promotion was started. Digby became conscious of the needs of the youth of the town and Weymouth has endorsed plans for the youth of that community. Throughout the county, the records of various organizations reveal a growing interest in the betterment of society. It is with pleasure that we review through the files of the Courier, many happy personal events occurred in 1955. With all those who were associated with the progress and happy events we rejoice.

On the other side of the ledger has appeared accounts of loss by storm, fire and other misadventures. Death took its toll by natural causes, by traffic and drowning accidents. To all who suffered these, are extended the deepest sympathies of the management and staff of the Digby Courier. Having shared in the losses, our sympathy is extended with the greatest of understanding. Removed by death from familiar association with the Courier were J. J. Wallis, the managing editor, whose wisdom through many years of experience, was missed; Thomas Farnham, whose column was familiar and enjoyed by many; Miss Catherine Farnham, bookkeeper for the firm for eight years, and Mrs. Omer Denton, Little River correspondent for fifty years.

Needless to say these losses were deeply felt but with a loyal and efficient staff at the plant, understanding and valuable correspondents and friends in the various districts throughout the county, it was possible to continue the year to a successful conclusion despite the hardships. The present manager and editor thanks those of the staff and others for their kind consideration and helpfulness at all times. It has always been a source of pleasure to the writer during the past eight years to realize that encouragement, assistance and advice were always so graciously and readily forthcoming by friends engaged in the same business of publishing a weekly newspaper. Assistance has been drawn from special weekly newspaper friends as far west as Manitoba, from colleagues at the weekly press in the further away towns of Nova Scotia and from some who are practically next door neighbors. We are proud of the ever friendly relations which exist between us and our contemporaries. Through the assistance of our staff and the understanding of our many other friends, the Digby Courier, published by the Wallis Print Ltd., has weathered storms and has made steady progress through the years.

Our greatest fault has probably been our modesty. Right now we should be boasting of the many new subscribers added within the past couple months, we should be displaying some of the numerous letters we receive which show the appreciation of our readers for our endeavours. But for the present we want only to be thankful for our success and hope that the future will continue to be kind to us in this respect.

Maybe our most persistent complaint comes from our village correspondents who sometimes find their copy omitted. To these we can only say we will continue to do our best. We want your copy, we want a good correspondent in every village in Digby County, but circumstances prevent us from publishing the copy occasionally. While the financial end does not dominate our desire to give our readers the best possible paper, yet it is absolutely necessary that every issue of the Digby Courier be on a paying basis. Otherwise the Courier would come to the same end as many another ambitious paper. We urge our correspondents to send their items of news to us, we promise to use them in proportion to our advertising copy (our source of revenue) and especially if our advertisers accommodate us by having copy in early. The greater the cooperation we get from the advertiser, the better we will be able to serve our readers and the more effective will their advertising prove to be.

To one and all; our readers, advertisers, correspondents and friends; accept our earnest hearty "Thank-you." We solicit your cooperation and patronage for another year and may happiness and prosperity be both yours and ours in 1956. This is our sincere New Year wish.

A Novel Christmas Tree

A touch of Florida was seen this Christmas in the parlour of the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Cardoza on St. Mary's Street. This year, instead of going out into the snows in search of an evergreen for a Christmas tree, the Cardozas decided to decorate an orange tree which they have growing in their home. Festooned with colored streamers, tinsel and other Christmas decorations, the tree made a lovely and very novel Christmas tree.

CHRISTMAS MARKED IN DIGBY CHURCHES

On Sunday evening the choir of Grace United Church presented the Christmas Cantata "A Star in the Sky", by Bruce Carlson. Soloists were Mrs. Elton Arnold, Mrs. J. M. Wallis, Dr. D. G. Black and Furber Marshall. In the morning the junior choir sang the carol "Silent Night" and the senior choir rendered the anthem "The Song of Hope", taken from Halton's cantata "The Music of Bethlehem". Rev. James Brooks took as his Christmas text "Glory To God In The Highest", and centered his remarks around the first Christmas service. The result of the service was two fold; the hearers scattered the news abroad and went on their way rejoicing. This, he claimed, should be the result of the church services today. During the announcement, Mr. Brooks spoke words of appreciation for the services of Miss Ena Robinson who has been church organist at Grace United for over four years. Miss Robinson, who leaves next week to take up new duties in Halifax, contributed much as an efficient organist, to the worship services. Mr. Brooks spoke highly of her contribution and extended to her every good wish for the future.

Honor Church Organist

Mrs. J. M. Wallis, assisted by Mrs. Elton Arnold, Mrs. Oakley Turnbull and Mrs. John Russell, entertained Grace United Church Choir at her home on Thursday evening in honor of the church organist, Miss Ena Robinson. Miss Robinson, who has been the church organist for four and a half years, leaves on Monday for Halifax where she has accepted a position at the Department of Welfare. On behalf of the choir, Rev. James Brooks presented Miss Robinson with a gift, expressing regrets at her departure and for the loss of her association with Grace United Church as organist. Mr. Brooks also presented a gift to Elton Arnold, choir leader, in appreciation of his services.

Veteran Mariner 94 Years Of Age

Captain Clarence W. Croscup, Granville Ferry's oldest resident, celebrated his 94th birthday anniversary on Christmas Day. Captain Croscup was born at Lower Granville, Annapolis County, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Croscup. For many years as a young man he sailed the high seas and has many interesting tales to relate of his adventures. On February 5th, 1902, in Salem, Mass., Captain Croscup was married to Miss Laura Tanch, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Tanch. In 1952 Captain and Mrs. Croscup celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary at their home in Granville Ferry where they have resided all their married life. Captain Croscup is seen almost every day at the Granville Ferry Post Office and stores and it has to be a stormy day to keep him in the house. Anyone seeing his tall upright figure walking along the street would never guess he was 94 years of age. On his birthday, Captain and Mrs. Croscup (who is six years his junior) attended the service in the Granville Ferry United Church, and the following day they entertained friends at a most enjoyable dinner party at their home. Mr. and Mrs. James Burgess and family, of Halifax, were weekend visitors of Mrs. William Snow.

A New Year's Message

We in this part of the world during 1955 have experienced more frustrations, irritations and disappointments than for many a preceding year. But when we read of riots and revolution, of floods and disaster, we realize how fortunate we are to be living in this small corner of the world. On a similar occasion last year, I said that the most encouraging development was the dawning realization that the peoples of the world had to learn to live together or to perish together. Despite the disappointments of Geneva, I think small progress towards that end has been made again this year. Our leaders need the patience of a Job, the wisdom of a Solomon, and the courage of a Winston Churchill. The year that lies ahead will present a challenge and an opportunity to each of us. To measure up to them we will need to revive our faith and maintain our courage. If we do that, our future can indeed be bright. And so, may we look forward with confidence to the coming year and may I wish for each of you health and happiness. George C. Newlin.

Leaves For Jamboree

Ken Margeson, Kinsac, Halifax County, left by plane Friday for Australia. He will lead Canada's first Boy Scout delegation to attend a Pan-Pacific Jamboree. Mr. Margeson's trip will take him to Vancouver, Honolulu, Fiji and Australia and he expects to return early in February. Mr. Margeson was for several years stationed in Digby with the Maritime Telegraph & Telephone Co. Ltd. and while here he took a very active interest in the work of Boy Scouts. While in Digby Mr. Margeson had the misfortune to injure himself severely in a fall. This injury necessitated him taking an office job rather than working outside as he had previously done.

Was Given Going Away Gift

Miss Marilyn Campbell was guest of honor on Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Woodman when Miss Eileen Woodman and Miss Ruth Morehouse entertained her friends. Games were enjoyed and Miss Campbell, who leaves shortly to take up secretarial duties in Halifax, was presented with a painting of Digby. Mrs. George Chipman, of Ontario, was also a special guest at the party.

CBC News Service, now celebrating its fifteenth anniversary, processes more than three million words of incoming copy a day in the preparation of radio and TV newscasts for Canadians. Five nationally known newscasters are pictured above in the CBC's central news room looking at a news script prepared for one of the CBC's first newscasts, fifteen years ago: (L to R) Lamont Tilden, Larry Henderson, Frank Herbert, Harry Mannis and Earl Cameron. Approximately 100 editors and writers are employed in news gathering and editing for CBC radio and TV newscasts.

HON. HENRY D. HICKS

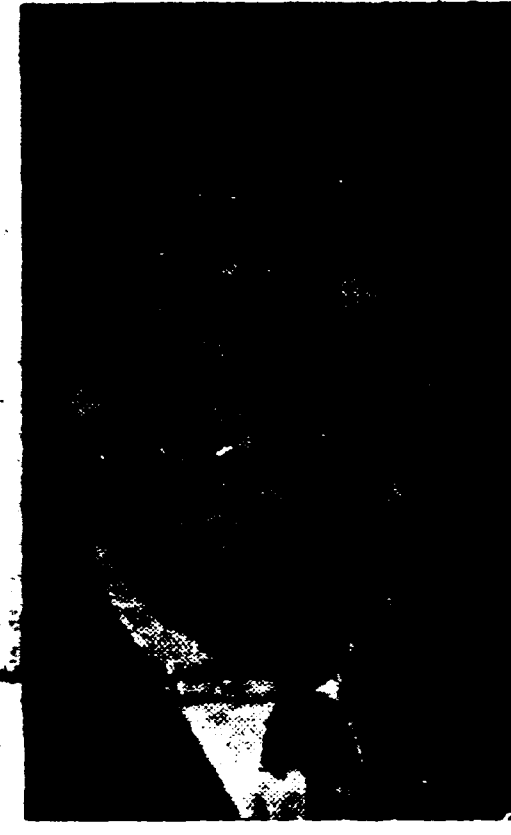

Premier of Nova Scotia
1955 has, I think, been a significant year for Nova Scotia. Generally speaking, it has been a year of high level economic activity even though we have encountered some special difficulties in certain sections of our economy. Thus, despite great difficulties in finding markets, even the production of our coal mines has been maintained, so that the 1955 figures will probably be as strong as the same as those for the year previous. Our agriculture and forest products were continued at a high level. The prices, as has been the case elsewhere on the continent, have not always been as strong as we would like. This year, for Nova Scotia, has been a year of important additions to our transportation facilities. It has seen the opening of the Macdonald Bridge and the Canso Causeway, and we feel confident that the "Blue-nose" will commence its run from Yarmouth to Bar Harbor within the next few days. Certainly, we face important decisions and difficult problems if we are to fully develop the measure of happy and harmonious living which our resources make possible to us. It is my earnest hope that Nova Scotians will make the best of the decisions and problems of the future, and it is in this confident

WELCOME BLUENOSE TO YARMOUTH PORT

The sleek M.V. "Bluenose," which arrived in Yarmouth December 20 after weathering a stormy 1,000-mile voyage from Lauzon, Quebec, will commence its ferry service between Yarmouth and Bar Harbour, Maine, January 4. The $5,000,000 car-truck-passenger vessel will make the run from Nova Scotia to Maine in approximately seven and one half hours, leaving Yarmouth every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 9 a.m. AST and from Bar Harbour, Maine, to Yarmouth, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 9 EST in the morning, laying over in Yarmouth over the weekends. This is a tentative winter schedule. Despite a blustery north-westerly gale sweeping across Yarmouth Harbour, Captain Crump docked the big ferry as easily as pulling a car into the curb. Veteran sea-dogs expressed admiration of his seamanship. With temperatures near zero, the coldest day of the year, a warm reception greeted the "Bluenose," her captain and crew from hundreds who braved the severe weather to welcome the new vessel. A welcoming ceremony was held in the temporary Customs Building following her docking. Chairman of the occasion was Irving C. Pink, chairman of the Ferry Celebration Committee. Mayor Willard Allen of Yarmouth, presented Captain K. L. Crump with a solid bronze tablet bearing a picture of the original Bluenose, on behalf of the citizens of Yarmouth. Also extending welcomes were T. A. M. Kirk, M.P. for Shelburne-Yarmouth-Claire; Earl Clark, Director of Industrial and Tourist Promotion for Nova Scotia; Dr. P. E. Belliveau, M.L.A. Meteghan; Victor Cardoza, M.L.A. Digby; W. H. Brown, M.L.A. Yarmouth; H. A. Pickering, District Superintendent C.N.R., Halifax Division; R. T. Cooper, Yarmouth Board of Trade president; Deputy Mayor of Yarmouth, Fred Emin.

A Message For The New Year

As a New Year dawns I would like to extend to all the people of Digby and Digby Municipality my sincere good wishes that the year 1956 will be for all a year of prosperity, good health and good fortune. The year just ending has been in many respects a significant one for the people of this area. Improvements have been made in transportation facilities both by land and by water. The year has seen added to the paving of the Digby Neck Highway an improved system of ferry service for the people of the islands of Digby Neck. Much work has also been done toward the improvement of the trunk and secondary roads in many sections of the municipality. The closing weeks of the year have also seen the end, at least for a time, of a labour dispute which has tied up a vital link of transportation between the western part of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick and which had brought much hardship to many in this area. Also as the year ended there was seen the long awaited arrival of the M. V. Bluenose which will provide much needed service between this province and the eastern United States and which should bring much benefit to this end of Nova Scotia. It is my sincere hope that, during the year ahead, we in this area will continue to work together with ever increasing vigor for the mutual benefit of all, and that our efforts will be crowned with success. To all I extend again my every wish that the coming year will be one that will bring much happiness and a real measure of prosperity to everyone. Yours sincerely, Victor Cardoza. Alfred Cowan, who has been a patient in the Roseway Hospital, Shelburne, has returned home much improved in health.

Christmas Is Quiet

The Christmas season in Digby passed quietly with family gatherings being the order of the day. The return to service of the Princess Helene just before Christmas made it possible for many more to be home for Christmas than would otherwise have been possible.

Out-door decorations this year did not seem to be as profuse as in some other years and there did not seem to be as many gaily coloured lights as in other years to mark Christmas. However, many homes went all out in the matter of decoration and these added a gay and colourful note to the white Christmas this year.

Digby merchants for the most part report that Christmas business was good this year with many items sold out. According to some reports, Christmas buying this year seemed to be on a practical side with clothing and home items to the fore.

Reports Thought To Indicate State Of Economy

The December meeting of the Board of Directors of the Children's Aid Society of Annapolis was held at the Legion Hall, Bridgetown, on Wednesday evening, December 14th, with the president, Mr. S. Coward, presiding. Despite the icy condition of the roads the meeting was largely attended with members from Annapolis Royal, Bridgetown, Lawrencetown and Middleton.

Mr. Coward, as campaign chairman, reported that all communities, with the exception of seven or eight, had forwarded their donations and that the total would likely be around $3,000. This amount is slightly down from last year.

In giving his monthly report the executive-director, Mr. Armstrong, reported that five children were presently being supported in total from the funds of the Society. He pointed out, that, since the Society's funds are limited, other arrangements would have to be made in the very near future. These children were placed in foster homes because their own homes were broken up. The parents have not made good their financial obligation in these cases so it may be necessary to bring wardship action. Once the children become wards, the cost of maintenance is born equally by the Municipality of settlement and the Provincial Government. Mr. Armstrong also reported that he had received two referrals from the Middleton area from families in need and in both cases the requests were passed along to the proper agencies. The Middleton Board members brought to the attention of the meeting two other families in the Middleton area who are apparently in distressful circumstances. These families will be visited as soon as possible. Mr. Armstrong also reported that a family in the Bear River area was found to be without proper shelter, food or fuel. He indicated that the children in this family would have to be better cared for or some action by the Society would have to be taken.

As has been the case in past years the various voluntary agencies and Church groups of the County are planning to send Christmas parcels to the needy families in the County. The number of names being submitted would indicate that the economic conditions in the County are not as good as in previous years. This is also indicated by the number of families applying for Municipal relief.

The January meeting of the Board will be held at Annapolis Royal.

Going Away Party

Miss Ena Robinson was guest of honor on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley MacDonald, Warwick St., when a party was held for the staff of the Department of Welfare, Digby. Miss Robinson, who leaves on Monday for Halifax, where she has been transferred, was presented with a gift.

Jackie MacMachum, of Saint John, is visiting Miss Anne Brittain at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Brittain.

Donald Hattie, of the RCAF, Chatham, spent a Christmas leave with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Hattie.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Top performance and lively beauty are the outstanding attributes of Buick's new Century and Special series for 1956. A 255 horsepower V-8 engine, with four-barrel carburetor, hooked up to the new variable pitch Dynaflo transmission makes the Century the leading performer on the highway. Special models are powered by the same big engine, rated in this series at 220 h.p. Dynaflo drive is standard equipment on the Century, optional on the Special. Many engineering advances have been made in the chassis of both series to improve ride and stability.

Serenading The Fishermen

A strong, north-easterly wind whistled through the rigging, accompanied by the blinding snow which reduced visibility to almost nil, as I took over duty at the "lookout" post of a small Scottish coasting vessel which heaved and tossed in the angry Irish Sea, making progress slow on a cold Christmas Eve, writes a British Salvationist.

Anxiously we looked for the pilot light ashore to indicate the narrow entrance to the sheltered waters of the river Foyle, leading to the city of Londonderry, our home port, where we would spend Christmas after a hard week at sea.

The great mass of twinkling light of this city on a hill were gradually extinguished as the inhabitants settled down for the night. Arriving at the quayside, we found the old night watchman, and Paddy his dog, waiting to catch the mooring lines. Soon we were secure. Hot coffee and Christmas mails soon made us forget the past week of toil. We retired in the early hours of the morning.

My slumbers, however, were soon disturbed, for I was suddenly awakened by the sound of music which seemed to be at my very bedside. I looked around my cabin and observed in the dim night light only my comrade seamen, who were also awake and questioning the disturbance. I quickly made my way on deck, only to hear loud-er than ever the music and words of "Christians Awake."

I looked at my watch and observed that it was only 5 a.m. I have never seen a more beautiful sight than the one which met my gaze for there on the quayside around a lamp stood a Salvation Army band, accompanied by a few brave sisters, playing and singing the Christmas message of the men that go down to the sea in ships.

We were all soon caught up in the mood and sang the carols lustily, and then watched the comrades disappear amongst the grey shadows of dockland, but not before the aged bandmaster had jumped down on deck and shaken each of us by the hand, wishing us a "Happy Christmas."

Before I got back into bed I knelt at my bedside and thanked God for these brave comrades who had made such sacrifice to bring the message of Christmas to the men of the sea. That is my most memorable Christmas, and I shall always feel indebted to those comrades.

Gives Christmas Message

Rev. Father J. Louis Comeau, assistant Pastor of St. Patrick's Parish, was guest speaker at the Christmas meeting of the Digby Kiwanis Club, held on Thursday evening at Chan's Coffee Shoppe.

In a most impressive address, Father Comeau spoke of the true meaning of Christmas. He said this could only be known and appreciated by those who were willing to become as little children.

Many people, Father Comeau said, miss the real joy and wonder of Christ's birth because they feel too proud to humble themselves before the simple fact of His coming as a Little Child. They feel they are too wise, too strong, too big to bow down and enter the cave of His birth as little children, humbly to adore Him.

Unless we are willing to forget our pride, acknowledge our weakness, realize our lack of wisdom and approach the Babe in all the simple humility of little children, then we can never hope to know Him and to know the true joy and meaning of His Birth, the speaker said.

Father Comeau was introduced to his audience by Kiwanian Lieutenant Earle Birt of the meeting were expressed by Kiwanian Alphonse Deveau. Dr. D. G. Black, President of the club, presided over the meeting.

Miss Helen May, of the teaching staff of Halifax City schools, spent Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred May.

"Good King Wenceslas" was born in 907, son of the Christian King of Bohemia. He met his death on September 28th, 929. The incident used in the well known Christmas carol was typical of his Christian works of mercy.

Wayland Reed is spending the holiday season with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Reed.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Improved performance and a freshness in styling that extends throughout the three series of passenger cars headline advances in 1956 Chevrolets. The nine-passenger station wagons and two four-door sport sedans will be new-comers among 19 models. Front ends will be made more rugged appearing in a re-design of grille and forward sheet metal. Models have a lower, longer look. New colours, unique two-toning and tasteful interiors give each of the series complete distinction. Engine choices include V8s and a more powerful six cylinder.

Modern lines of the 1956 Chevrolets are evident in the above view of the Bel Air sport sedan. Frontal appearance has been smartly altered by new sheet metal and brightwork.

NECESSARY FOR A
HAPPY CHRISTMAS

The dictionary merely tells you that Santa Claus is a contraction of St. Nicholas (see Nicholas, Saint). A turning of the pages reveals that Nicholas was bishop of Myra or Smyrna in Asia Minor about 300 A.D.

He was the patron saint of old Russia and was believed to offer special protection and comfort to "sea-faring men, thieves, virgins, and children." His affection for children was based on the assertion that he brought back to life three schoolboys who had been murdered.

An encyclopaedia attributes the name by which he is known in America to the early Dutch settlers who called him San Nicholas.

But it little matters whether he be known as Saint Nicholas, Santa Claus, Kris Kringle, or a dozen other names, for the presence of his spirit on this climatic holiday of the year is the important thing. It enters every home in the four corners of Christendom and touches the hearts of men and women in them.

Moreover, it is essentially the spirit of childhood, the freshness, the courage, and the eagerness of young lives. Saint Nicholas may seem old but he has none of the fears, regrets or prejudices of age. He and his children stand on the threshold of the world. Their banner is good will and their goal is peace.

So this day, dedicated to the memory of the birth of a child, belongs to all children. It is their carols, their laughter, their happiness which makes it sweet. And we older folk should on this day at least share their

OBITUARIES

Residents of Smiths Cove, were shocked to learn on Christmas Eve, of the sudden passing of Miss Jennie Maud Rice, a well known resident of the village. Apparently in her usual good health on Friday, Miss Rice had made her Christmas purchases and discussed her plans for the holiday with friends. She suffered a stroke on Saturday morning and succumbed later in the day.

Seventy one years of age, Miss Rice was the last surviving member of the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Rice of Smiths Cove. She was a member of the Smiths Cove Baptist Church and was active in the work of Home Division, Sons of Temperance, and the Women's Institute of Smiths Cove. Funeral service will be held from the Smiths Cove Baptist Church, Wednesday, at 2 p.m., conducted by the Rev. Francis Miller. Interment will be in the family lot.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

New Year in Bulgaria

New Year's Day is a great day for Bulgarian children who receive their presents and small sums of money in return for the gifts they ceremoniously present.

Teen-agers go visiting and wish neighbors a happy New Year, expect treats and refreshments. But unlike our "trick or treat" of Halloween, should the supply of goodies run short, the situation is accepted graciously.

The Longest Year

The year we now refer to as 46 B.C., was the longest year in calendar history. It contained 465 days, and for a very good reason.

Numa Pompilius supposedly created the Roman calendar in the seventh century B.C. This calendar was revised several times but by Julius Caesar's time, it was two months behind the sun.

When Caesar's experts devised the Julian calendar, which went along without revision until the 16th century, there was the problem of catching up with the sun before the new calendar could take over. So, two months were inserted between the months of November and December. Thus, 46 B.C. contained 445 days.

YOUNG OWL IN GARDEN

Apparently driven to seek food in town by the freezing weather and heavy snow, a young owl was seen last Thursday in a tree in the garden at the rear of the home of E. J. Theriault.

More than a foot in height, the bird was in the tree with a flock of bluejays.

When prosperity comes do not use all of it. — Confucius.

No Slumber Songs Needed by Scots On New Year's Eve

Nobody goes to bed in Scotland on December 31. There are too many other things to do.

It is a great night for the youths who, reminiscent of ancient superstitions, go about switching the trunks of fruit trees and petitioning the gods of fertility for a "good bowling crop."

Before the advent of modern plumbing, teen-agers made quite a fuss about the "cream of the year" which was the first draught drawn from the nearest spring immediately after midnight and supposedly entitled the drinker to anticipate a "lucky" year.

The Wassail Bowl is, of course, the center of adult festivities. Its origin is lost in antiquity, but tradition has endowed the Wassail Bowl with legendary romance. It is ornamental in design and decorated with branches of greenery. The mixture within is warm and sweet, and wine is sometimes added to the ale and sugar and spices.

After having enjoyed the concoction within the home among intimates at the stroke of midnight, the Scots pile into wagons or sleighs, with kettles full of the Wassail, mums, cheese and other food and set out to tour the community. The party stops at various houses and the refreshments go 'round at each stop. Nobody pays the least attention to the approaching dawn, because nobody goes to bed on New Year's Eve anyway.

WOW THE CROWD WITH A WONDERFUL MEAL

Next time the crowd comes to your place for a big feast, Madam, take it in your stride. With so many nearly-ready foods at your grocers today, the job of cooking for 2 or 20 is becoming easier and more fun.

Pick up a frozen chicken or turkey at your food market or from your own home freezer. Completely cleaned and packaged, frozen poultry is a real time saver.

Commercially frozen chickens and turkeys are packaged at the peak of perfection and are government inspected. And of course, if you've frozen your own prize fowl, you're sure of the best. Either way you can't go wrong.

Vegetables for your meal can come from the freezer, too, but a few fresh vegetables add to that honest-to-goodness good eating. Like the tiny white onions so plentiful this time of year. Dress them up with a smacking-good mushroom sauce like this . . .

HOLIDAY CREAMED ONIONS

2 pounds small white onions
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (1 1/4 cups) condensed cream of mushroom soup
1/2 cup cream or top milk
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1/4 cup shredded Canadian cheese

Cook onions in lightly salted boiling water until almost done; drain. Place in a 1 1/2-quart casserole; dot with butter. Meanwhile, stir soup with smooth; blend in cream and walnuts; pour over onions. Sprinkle cheese on top. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) about 30 minutes or until cheese is melted and slightly browned. 6 servings.

Round out the meal with buttered sweet potatoes, hot biscuits with homemade jam, a molded fruit salad (made the day before), and a heaping tray of relishes. Choice of dessert, pumpkin pie and coconut cake. Make these from prepared mixes if you're too busy to start from scratch.

Then sit back and bask in compliments that come your way. Sure enough, you're a champion cook!

The Penny-farting Philosopher

I suppose that as this is the last issue of the year and we are looking forward to the coming of the New Year, I cannot escape from discussing the topic of New Year Resolutions. Now I want to say that I do not like N. Y. R.'s; it seems to me that they were invented by some arch-imp who at one master stroke brought into being a self-perpetuating and annually recurring source of mischief. Just you make a resolution, say just a simple (seeming) one like "I'll help the wife with the supper-dishes every day", just mention it as casually as you like to the object of your affection, and behold the beautiful relationship is shattered, for a year at least, if not permanently. This N. Y. R. business is dynamite, and it should be on the agenda of the United Nations as a threat to peace and tranquility.

After all, when you open a book to read you do not say "I'm going to read every word on every page and not skip a single one"; nor, when you open a box of chocolates do you say "I am going to have a chocolate every twenty minutes until the box is finished; you do not even say, when you jump (?) out of bed in the morning "I'm going to fill every minute with sixty seconds worth of duty done". Then why on earth should you, at the very normal beginning of a very normal year, make resolutions to do and be something that you know you cannot, and don't wish to do and be anyway? After all the beginning of a year happens a hundred times in a century and is a perfectly normal process even though it has been devised by man. Why then should we pay any more attention to it than we do to the bills and notes that follow so closely upon its heels?

I must confess that as a youngster I used to make New Year Resolutions, not that I had any more moral fibre than I have now, but I had a bigger opinion of myself and thought I could do so much better. Life has pared down my own conception of my greatness and I am able to see myself for the weak errant human that I am, and I am content to leave it at that. Also life has imposed greater burdens since those carefree single days, and the matter of resolutions at New Year has lost a great deal of its importance.

You are probably thinking that I am writing all this as an excuse for . . . well, that what is really the trouble is that I cannot possibly keep a resolution after I have made it. You are wrong. I did make a resolution several years ago and I have not broken it yet and don't expect that I ever shall.

I resolved to make no more New Year Resolutions.

THE STABLEMAN'S STORY

Strange things occur! Three decades since that time, When I, in early manhood, faced the world, Possessed of brain and blood and sturdy brawn, But otherwise the poorest of the poor;

Right glad for hire to tend my master's stalls, And gladder still that one, unfilled, was there, In which, on clean, sweet straw, my bed might be.

One night, the town 'twas down at Bethlehem— Was thronged with people who must there be taxed, And officers and soldiers to enroll, Till every place was full,—and still they came.

Outside my stable door I idly stood To watch the passing throng, when near me paused A donkey led by anxious, dust-stained man

And ridden by a woman. Strangers, they! What chance had I to know just who they were? The man bespoke me. No where could he find The needed shelter. I described the Inn.

He had been there, and had been turned away. Had he no friend in all the town? Not one, Nor where that he could go. A quick thought came Of time I had such need. 'Tis hard to tell What made me bold. I offered what I had— A stall with bed of straw.

Ere midnight passed A babe slept in the manger, and ere dawn Some shepherds, hurrying, came from neighbouring hills, And begged to see the child. In haste they told A wondrous tale of vision they had seen, And song angelic heard. I thought them crazed.

The years passed on, and I, of Israel's God, Was blest in time with home and wife and child. Then, like a thunder-clap, there came the blow, When I was forced from home,—a leper!—cursed! And all the world seemed dark!

Last night, I came All clean and well, to tell of One whose touch Shrank not from the vile soreness of my flesh, But gave me life and left me pure and whole! And more,—the Man who healed and sent me home Was that same Babe who came as my own guest.

And, strangest yet,—some say He is the Christ, Messiah, long foretold! Of David's Line I knew Him then to be. How could I know He was the Christ?—they seemed as poor as I— Or that one day He'd give me back my life?

And He was guest of mine!—slept in my stall! Jehovah works great things in Israel. Perhaps the shepherds were not crazy as I thought.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

THE BASS OF WORLD PEACE

Another Christmas season sees the chorus of the angels drowned out by the scream of shot and shell on the battlefields, the light of the Star of Bethlehem eclipsed by smoke and flame as man encompasses the destruction of man and all his works. The words of the Wise Men are lost amid the shrieks of the dying, the groans of the wounded, the pitiful plaint of the suffering and the starving. Yet it is the same world that was told nearly 2,000 years ago that "Unto you is born this day in the city of Bethlehem a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord."

"Peace on earth," sang the angels. Already we begin to envision the peace that is to follow the present carnage in parts of the world. We have begun debating the nature of that peace, forgetting that the angels also told us on that first Christmas Eve that "Good will to men" is the foundation on which any lasting peace must be built.

It would be well for statesmen to forget their own ideas of world accord, to abandon the crumbling foundations upon which they seek to build what they term "the peace," and consider again the pattern given us by the angels. For only as we build good will to all men shall we approach that which so very many of us plain, common people desire, that we be permitted to live in peace with mankind everywhere. No other concept of peace has stood the test of time. None ever will. Let us realize more clearly than ever at this Christmas season the truth of the heavenly promise that has been ours through the centuries, that "Peace on Earth" can come about only through "Good Will to Men." — Dietrick Lamanche in "Grit" (1859-1938).

DENMARK PAYS HOMAGE TO HANS ANDERSON

SANTA'S BEST HELPER

A few years ago a festival in Denmark paid tribute to one of the greatest helpers Santa Claus ever had. He was Hans Christian Andersen, fairy tale writer, and composer of many Christmas stories.

His works have sold more copies than any other book, except the Bible, and have been translated into 35 languages, including Arabic, Hebrew, Chinese, Japanese, and Greenlandish.

Since 1875, the year that he passed away, visitors from all parts of the world have come yearly to the town of Odense to see the home of the writer of such tales as "The Little Match Girl" and "The Ugly Duckling."

Anderson's fairy tales, released just before Christmas each year, brought him money, fame and the attention of princes, as well as the adoration of children.

Once he received a United States dollar bill, enclosed in a letter written by a young American girl. It read: "Papa says that the dollar is my own, that he does not suppose you are in particular need of money, but I owe you this and a great deal more, he thinks it proper that I should send it to you."

Royal Bank of Canada Earnings Rise 13.9%

The Royal Bank of Canada closed its fiscal year on November 30, 1955, with a profit after taxes and all other charges, of $10,855,965, a 13.9% increase over the figure for the previous year. This represents earnings per share of $2.58, as compared with $2.26 in 1954.

The bank's profit and loss statement this year is being presented in slightly different form in that profits are shown after provision for depreciation and income taxes, which formerly were shown separately. It is also noted that the bank has not since this year $11,215,000 for income taxes.

Out of net profit regular dividends of $6,804,422 were paid shareholders plus an extra distribution at the rate of 20¢ per share amounting to $840,000. The residual amount, together with the balance of undivided profits resulted in the sum of $4,918,135 from which the bank transferred $4,000,000 to the Rest Fund, leaving a balance of $918,135. This is the 4th year in a row that the Royal Bank has transferred to the Rest Fund a portion of the current year's earnings. Capital and Rest Fund now stand at $42,000,000 and $108,000,000 respectively which, with undivided profits, bring the capital funds of the bank to $150,918,135.

The bank's annual balance sheet just issued shows total assets for the year at $3,294,143,885, a figure which exceeds the record total of a year ago by well over $250,000,000.

The first Canadian bank to show deposits in excess of $3 billion, the Royal attained under this heading a total of $3,062,220,849 in 1955, an increase for the year of $364,672,200.

Loans, exclusive of mortgage loans under NHA total $1,243,629,362, exceeding the 1954 figure by more than $55,000,000. Call loans are down by some $81,000,000, reflecting reduced activity in the securities market. Other loans, including commercial loans in Canada, increased by $137,214,338 to $1,168,841,182.

indicative of the degree to which the Royal Bank has participated in the marked industrial and commercial development throughout Canada during 1955.

A striking indication of the extent of this bank's participation in providing loans for new housing is the figure for "Mortgage and Hypothec insured under NHA (1954)", which now stands at $100,865,965. This is well over four times the figure of a year ago and represents 38% of mortgage loans on the books of all Canadian chartered banks.

Total quick assets of $1,918,749,579 indicate the bank's strong liquid position. These quick assets, which include Dominion and Provincial Government securities totalling $944,686,948, represent 61.23% of the bank's liabilities to the public.

Here's what the push-button control unit for PowerFlite automatic transmissions looks like. The panel houses buttons for neutral, low, reverse and drive. A touch of a finger is all it takes to go from neutral to any driving range, or from one range to another. Cars can be "rocked" out of mud, snow, or and by alternately pressing the reverse and low buttons. Two safety features are built into the push-button mechanism. One prevents starting the car in any gear except neutral. The other prevents the transmission from being shifted accidentally into reverse at speeds over 10 miles per hour.

By John Scott Douglas

"GOIE GARRETT, their hostess, shouted, 'Quiet, quiet, you fellows, make-cha-mere, pirates, dancing girls and frontier gambler gather round, while the men draw their partners.'"

Costumed guests in domino half-masks circled Aggie, and a clown drew a slip from her Mexican sombrero. His glance swept the smiling group of masked girls until it reached one to Egyptian costume. "You're mine, Cleopatra!" he exclaimed, laughing.

A big, rugged man dressed as a pirate was next. After scanning the girls, he yelled indignantly, "Who's run off with Bo-Peep?" "Oh, Captain Kidd!" Aggie cried. "She came late and hasn't come down yet. Maybe you'd better draw another slip."

"Not me!" said the big pirate gaily. "I'm partial to shepherdesses."

He walked into the hall and then stopped suddenly. Descending the stairs was Bo-Peep, crook in hand. Small and shapely, with ash-blond hair, she had a pert nose and through her brief green mask beamed two startled blue eyes.

"Does that costume express your personality, Captain Kidd?"

"What a lovely Bo-Peep," he said. "It seems we're partners." "Does that costume express your personality, Captain Kidd?" "My wife Judy thought so," he said wryly. "But I haven't seen her for millions of years. Or maybe three months separation from her just seems that long in truth. Bo-Peep, this was the last costume left that would fit me. So many New Year parties, you know."

The girl hesitated. "Separations aren't just hard for men, Captain Kidd. It seems ages since I last saw my husband Bill."

"Have you tried calling him?" "After the cruel things he said during our last quarrel? Certainly not! I have my pride!"

"Me, too," he said. "But let's not talk of such unpleasant things tonight. Shall we be smart and modern? Take things to our stride?"

"Naturally. I hardly think of Bill any more."

"Nor do I ever think of Judy. Not over a hundred times a day, any how. Well, at least we have something in common, Bo-Peep?"

"Haven't we, Captain Kidd? Isn't Aggie calling us to dinner?"

He joined the line of men forming at the buffet, and returned with two plates which he carried to a secluded hall alcove.

THEIR EYES MET, and then they started eating, saying little until they finished, just as the carpets were being rolled up and the phonograph began playing.

"May I have the first dance, Bo-Peep?" he asked quietly.

Someone walked up when the music stopped to ask her for a dance. They didn't dance together again until a few minutes short of midnight, when Captain Kidd cut in. He guided the girl into the hall and then they separated and walked side by side to the alcove window.

Moments later there were gay shouts of "Happy New Year!" in the next room, punctuated by the banging of the piano. Outside automobile horns made an incessant din, church bells rang forth their mellow chiming, and a distant street screamed.

They looked out at the unbroken carpet of snow for several moments. Hastily, then, they looked at one another.

"We ought to make resolutions, Bo-Peep," he said.

"I've made one," she whispered. "No more foolish false pride! It is all this heartache and loneliness worth it!" Her voice broke; she drew a quick, shaken breath and quavered. "Oh, I can't be smart and modern and take it in my stride any longer, Captain Kidd!"

Gently he drew her into his arms and raised her head. Their lips met in a long, lingering kiss. Neither can I, Judy."

CHRISTMAS GREENS

A few well placed Christmas greens can do much to brighten a house at Christmas time. Properly clipped, the branches will appear to be mistletoe, and might improve the look of the tree from which they are cut. Blackberry, red cedar, juniper, yew, witch pine, white pine, will make suitable material for a branches.

The Pine Crest Club's Christmas Project

The telephone interrupted the cozy game of chess that engaged Mr. and Mrs. Mercer beside the library fireplace; when Mrs. Mercer returned from answering it she was smiling.

"Mrs. Masters thinks it is time the boys came home from their club room. It seems to me that when you let Ralph and his friends have the use of the room over the garage as their club room you let yourself in for sending them to bed."

"Does that telephone message mean that I have to leave my game and disperse the gang?" asked her husband reluctantly. "But I have to admit that when our nephew, Ralph, came here to a strange city and a strange school he might have been lonely, had it not been for these fine lads and their Pine Crest Club."

It was a serious circle of boys that Mr. Mercer found around their Club Room table, and when he asked what their problem was, Jack Todd answered:

"You see, sir, our Pine Crest Club have a very important Christmas project that we need money for. We wondered if we could do some work, after school and Saturdays, between now and Christmas. Six of us could work school days after four and Saturdays."

"I know you boys can work hard from the way you cleaned this room and fixed it up. I'll think about your problem and tell you tomorrow or next day. You'd want to be paid by the hour. Now it's late and time to turn out light."

"We're very grateful, Mr. Mercer," said Hugh Wyse.

"We'll promise to work hard," chorused Alec Langton and David Mathews, as they departed.

"Uncle, you're wonderful. The boys come to you with all our problems. Do you want to tell me your plan?"

"Not tonight, perhaps tomorrow. Was there a new boy at school today?"

"Yes, a Dutch boy, Willem Haams. Very fair and can talk French and German as well as English and his own language. Really clever. I'd say."

"I asked his father to bring him to dinner tomorrow night. Ask Tony Masters too. You know a new boy at school needs friends."

Mr. Haams proved to be a most interesting dinner guest as he told how for the last twenty-five years in Holland they had been making light but durable building boards out of marsh reeds and flax straw pressed and braided with galvanized wire. This material had such excellent insulating qualities that less fuel is needed than in houses built of even stone or brick. Also being very light in weight, fewer supports were needed for a building of it, and it took on a splendid stucco finish.

"Are you planning to start up in opposition to the Mercer Building Construction Company, Mr. Haams?" asked Mrs. Mercer.

"No, Madam. But I am hoping to persuade Mr. Mercer to lease me the second storey of his building so that I can demonstrate this building material new to Canada, by making there an apartment for my family solely of Dutch paneling. I'd like to have him take this as one department of his business and together we could make this city the sales centre for Dutch paneling in this province. It is already on sale in Manitoba. He has encouraged me to see his lawyer, stating my requirements. The lawyer already has his terms and I hope we may come to some agreement tomorrow."

"But Uncle, that means that all the stock from the second storey of your store would have to be moved to the warehouse behind," said Ralph, in perplexity.

"It would have to be moved quickly, too, if Mr. Haams wants to start his operations at once," added Ralph's aunt.

"I think I know a gang of boys that would help my regular staff, by working after school and Saturdays," said Mr. Mercer, laughing. "Mr. Haams and I may need them to start Saturday."

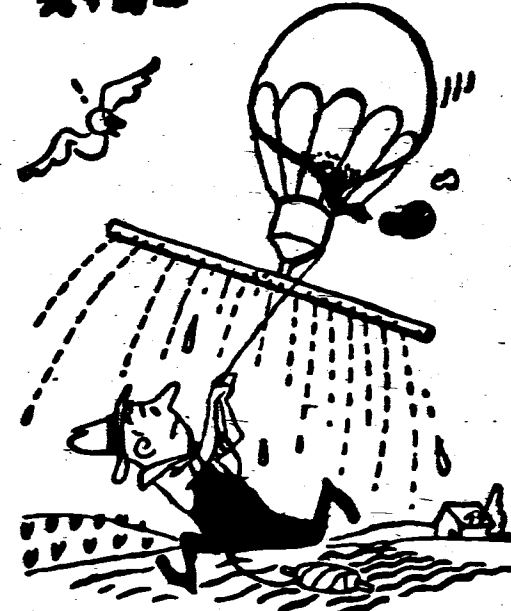

"The Overall Brigade of the Pine Crest Club will be ready for orders tomorrow, Sir," said Tony Masters enthusiastically. "The Club will be able to carry out their Christmas project with the money they earn for working for you."

"May we be excused to tell the boys, Uncle, as soon as they arrive? I would like to show Willem our club room, and Ted Sterne's picture of a pine tree that is our crest."

"I'll be over to tell the boys spray to decorate a mantle, door, or a spray for a newel post."

In pruning, however, keep in mind the natural appearance of yew, witch pine, white pine, will make suitable material for a branches.

MAKER

Back in the nineties a patent was issued for an irrigating device consisting of a balloon, perforated water pipes... and an active farmer to haul the whole contraption along by its guy ropes.

Today, of course, irrigation is a lot easier proposition. Aluminum irrigation tubing, for instance, can be laid, lifted, moved about with the greatest ease. With it one man can water more land than an army of balloon operators. Showing how lightweight, low-cost aluminum (Canada is the world's most efficient producer of the metal) makes a simple job out of a tough one.

ANCIENT CHURCH BELLS STILL SUMMON VILLAGE

A pair of ancient church bells, brought to Frankenthum, Mich., from Bavaria shortly after Frankenthum was founded as an Indian mission, has been calling the congregation of St. Lorenz to Christmas eve services for more than a 100 years.

Ninety-five per cent of the residents of the small community are members of the church, earning the village the title of "the most Christian community in the United States."

Frankenthum has never had a crime of violence, and, as far as residents can remember, no one has been jailed over a period of 25 years. The only visitors to the lockup were transients given a night's lodging.

what they are to do, as soon as Mr. Haams and I finish our talk."

Later in the Club Room after Willem Haams had left and Mr. Mercer had explained the work, he expected of the boys, Jack Todd, who being the oldest of the boys, was in a way their leader, said:

"Mr. Mercer, our Christmas project is necessarily a secret, but we want to share it with you and have your approval. Ted Sterne isn't here tonight. You know his father has had his driving license suspended until after Christmas and he is in the jail for a month. That means hardship for Ted and his mother just at the Christmas season. We wanted to earn money to help them and to send it to Ted a week before Christmas without his knowing where it came from."

"I think that is a very friendly act, and I am honored by the confidence you have given me. Tell me, not even Ralph's aunt," answered Mr. Mercer in a voice that was husky from emotion.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

by Ken Hankinson

With winter upon us, and temperatures beginning to drop, the most common sound along any residential street is the grind, grind, grind of engines that are hard to start.

Mixed with this melody is the sound of muffled grumbling from drivers who are slowly, and systematically wearing down their batteries with this early-morning grind.

The battery, more than likely, can be blamed for most hard winter starts. When the temperature drops to zero, a battery in good condition will deliver only 40 per cent of its normal power.

All the more reason, then, to have us check your battery, remove the corrosive deposits around it and make sure you have large enough electrical cables. (Smaller cables put up more resistance to the flow of electrical current).

Loose, frayed or corroded cable that you may not be able to see with a quick look under the hood can suddenly make a car hard to start in winter when it has been acting perfectly all summer. All these things rob the electrical system of voltage — and in winter the battery voltage may drop to 4 or less, instead of 6 or slightly more (on most cars).

Under these circumstances, your engine may be turning over when you press the starter, but there's not enough voltage left to produce a spark.

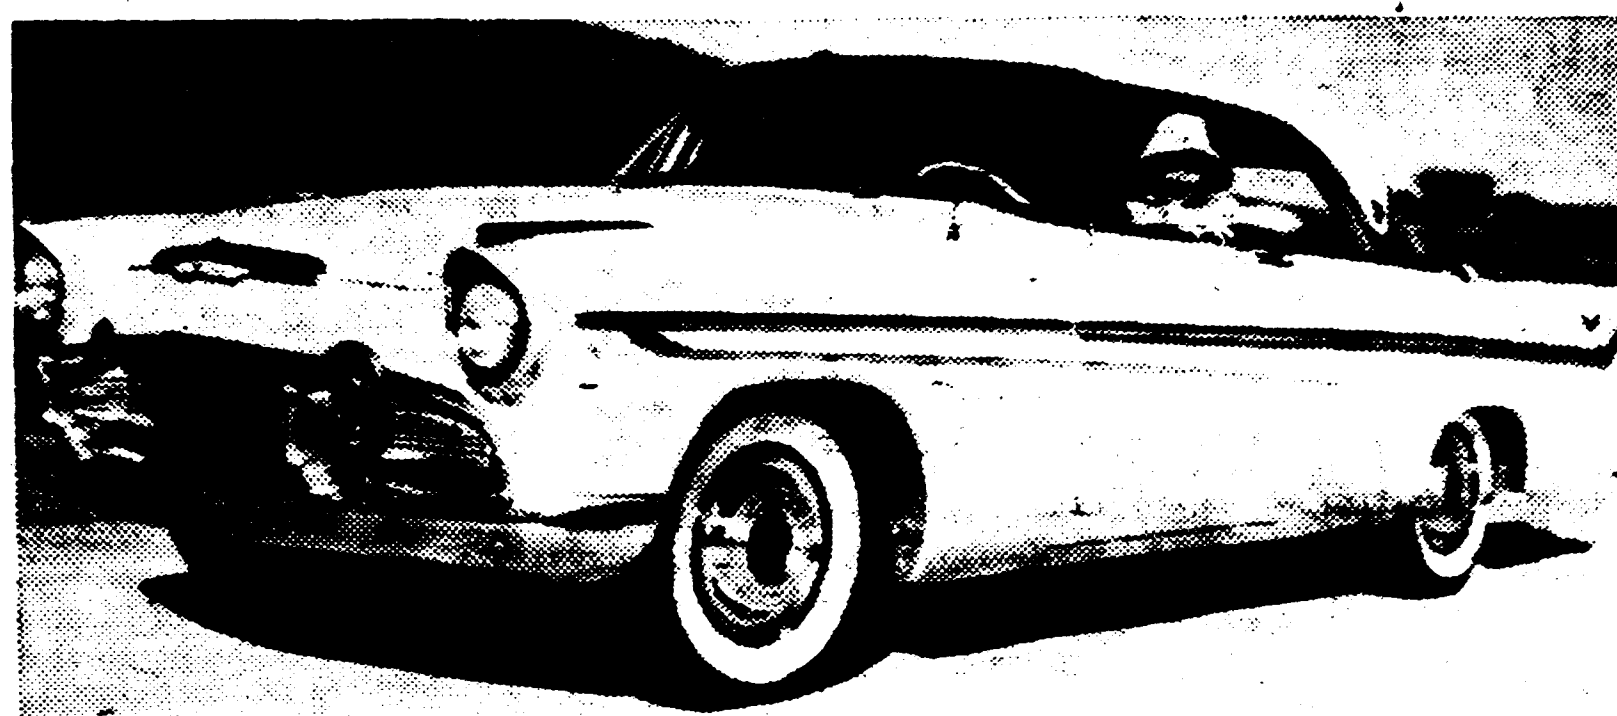

There are lots of reasons for hard winter starts, of course, some of which I'll discuss in later columns, but the electrical system is usually at the heart of it. The thing to do is come in and talk it over, we'll go over all the trouble spots with you.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Hon. Paul Martin Makes Appeal

"Canadians can have an opportunity of bringing alive the true spirit of Christmas and of acknowledging in a very tangible way that it is more blessed to give than to receive," said the Honourable Paul Martin, Minister of National Health and Welfare and Canada's Chief delegate to the United Nations, in urging Canadians to support CARE of Canada's special Christmas Campaign to raise $100,000 by December 31st to help feed the underprivileged peoples of the world.

"The future peace of the world is inextricably bound up with the social and economic welfare of the nations," continued Mr. Martin. "There are many materially underprivileged areas of the world which if the more favoured nations are prepared to share their good fortune. To this end, humanitarian projects like the United Nations expanded Technical Assistance Program and the Colombo Plan are making a telling investment in the future."

"Measures of this kind carried out at the government level," said Mr. Martin, "supplement but do not supplant the private efforts of individual citizens." "Many avenues are open through which individual Canadians can channel aid to their fellow-men everywhere. One such agency, which I earnestly commend to the people of this country, is CARE of Canada which has done so much to alleviate privation in many parts of the world since the end of the last war."

The numerous CARE food and other packages, which will be distributed as part of this special Christmas effort, will contain many Canadian products. CARE purchases annually in Canada about a quarter million dollars worth of Canadian goods for its many packages. Peoples to benefit from this CARE of Canada campaign

New Year Was at Spring Affair In Egypt, Rome

New Year's was not always a mid-winter affair. Ancient Egypt used the overflowing of the Nile as a calendar and celebrated the New Year accordingly, in June. The Babylonians began their year in March, and the early Romans followed the Babylonian pattern.

Bearing this in mind, the custom of invoking the gods of fertility at New Year's time—the origin of which is lost in antiquity—seems logical and appropriate.

The Romans were accustomed to hanging tiny masks of Bacchus upon trees and vines, the idea being to impart fertility to every side of the tree to which the masks were turned by the wind.

In the old days, Romanian youths went from house to house singing and wishing everyone a prosperous New Year.

Scottish lads always had a howling good time going about on New Year's Eve switching the trunks of fruit trees and petitioning a "good howling crop."

Reflecting the fear of starvation, peasant families in various parts of the world baked a special New Year's cake which they dashed against the door; members of the household hastened to pick up a piece and eat it, prayerful that neither hunger nor want should enter the house during the ensuing year.

Resolutions Run, If Right Spirit Attends Making

George M. Cohen may have saluted the great American custom of breaking New Year's resolutions, but Ernestine Evans assures us that around the turn of the century her family played the game of resolutions very seriously and for keeps.

The game was invented by the family's Aunt Callie whose dinners were out-of-this-world, and if you were invited to New Year's dinner, you automatically were invited to dinner on April 1. There was one qualification, however.

Aunt Callie's guests were required to write out one—just one—good resolution, seal it in an envelope and deposit it with Aunt Callie.

Then, on April 1, the envelopes were opened and the family, having feasted on their "second" New Year's dinner, judged just how well the resolutions had been kept.

Typical resolutions covered a wide range of resolves—looking in the dictionary before interrupting conversations by asking questions, folding one's clothes carefully at night, keeping the kindling box well filled, Aunt Lou's anti-gossip promise, and the elders' promises to read aloud and teach the children to sew.

It was embarrassing to have broken one's resolution before it was read on April 1; thus a lot of good habits were launched, and it was a lot of fun, too.

Calends to Calendar

In ancient Rome, the priests called the people together on the first day of every month, known as the Calends, and announced the sacred days and festivals to be observed during the month. The people checked the days on their "festi," marking the important feasts in red.

Nothing relieves and ventilates the mind like a resolution. — John Burroughs.

CEARS OF LEBANON ARE WELL PROTECTED BY RELIGION, LAW

On a shelf-like plateau, 600 feet above the Mediterranean, the world's oldest Christmas trees stand where they have stood for centuries. The cedars of Lebanon, 400 of them, are protected by religion and law from harm at the hands of either the Moslems or the Maronite Christians.

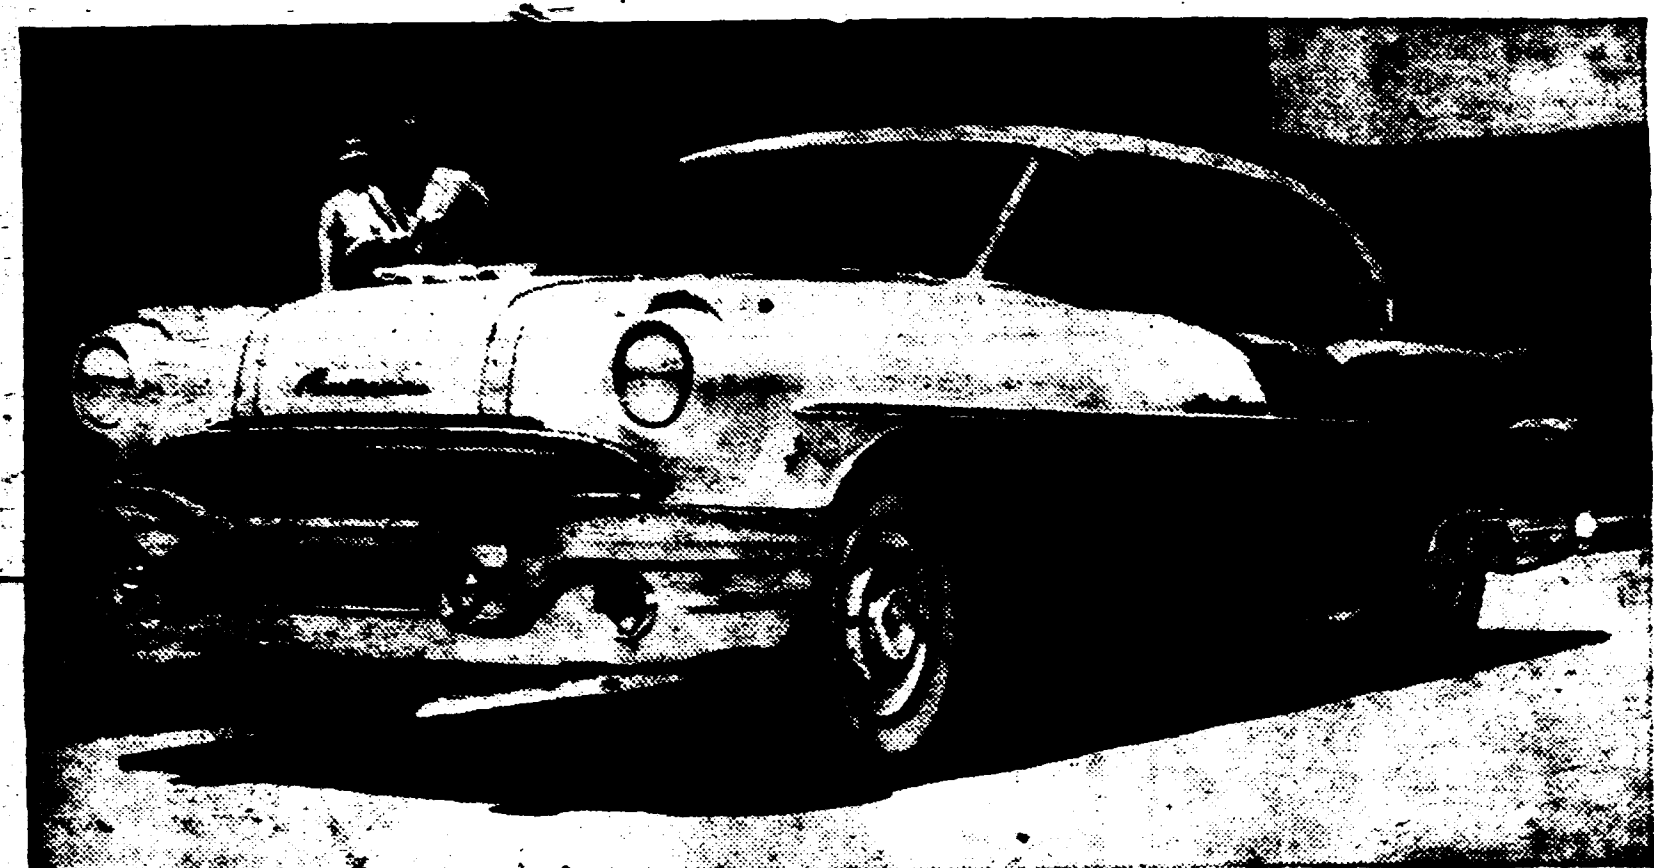

The magnificent trees "that sing of the Nativity" were venerated as monarchs among trees long before Judah had her first king. Some of them have a girth of 40 feet and a branch circumference of 300.

In the days of the conquerors thousands of conscripted Hebrew workers were sent into the Lebanon to take to Jerusalem "cedar trees without number," the result of one of the first building contracts, between Hiram of Phoenicia and King Solomon.

Today, however, the trees are protected by law and the department of agriculture of the government sponsors the planting of seedlings, so that the giant cedars will grow forever.

Mr. and Mrs. John Titus, of Westport, Digby Co., observed their 55th wedding anniversary on November 28th and were honored at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Clarence Titus, the occasion being the wedding of a granddaughter, Beulah Titus, who was united in marriage to LAC Magee.

Mr. and Mrs. Titus were married at the home of Mrs. Titus' parents, Capt. and Mrs. William Forbes, Woot's Harbour, November 28, 1900. Rev. Halliday of the United Baptist Church, united them in marriage. There are eight children, Rosa (Mrs. Gordon Dakin), Ida (Mrs.

There are twenty-three grandchildren of which three are in Ontario, one in British Columbia, one in France (all of which are in the service); four reside at Saint John, and the remainder at Westport; also six great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. John Titus moved to Westport in 1900 and have spent their years together here. Mrs. Titus enjoys fairly good health, but Mr. Titus is confined to a wheel chair.

Congress working committee reaffirms its faith in the policy of prohibition, but urged that more effective steps be taken to implement it. The State Government of Andhra, once a part of Madras, received a report from a committee on the working of prohibition, and reference was made to the widespread violation of prohibition laws. But there were decided assets, and many refused to let financial considerations deflect them from a course which had great moral gains. In the village of Rantte, in the Sabarkantha district, the villagers erected a "temple of learning" at the cost of Rs. 15,000, and one half of this sum had been obtained by savings effected by prohibition — not swords into ploughshares, but pubs into temples.
