

Welcome to the Digital DIGBY COURIER

100th Birthday

The hundredth anniversary of the Digby Weekly Courier has brought to mind some fond memories as recounted in the following historical chapter of the paper. For first, I want to congratulate the current editor of the Courier, Mrs. J.M. (Edith) Wallis, for a job well done over the years and still being well done, good service rendered with great fortitude.

According to my recollection, I have at hand, the Digby Courier, in one hundred years of publication, was controlled under the same family management for 42 years, 1837 to 1979, under the control of Wallis Print Limited. The late J.J. Wallis became editor of the Courier in the second time, in 1929, and at the latter time of the second time, in 1929, and at which he had been running for some time previously and which became Wallis Print Limited sometime between 1929 and 1931.

I well remember the last year of the twelfth when I worked in the office with the husband and father of the Digby Courier. Sometime in 1919 or early 1920, the late J.M. Wallis (Mac), son of J.J., engaged me to work every day after school hours, Saturdays, and for some months after for the office of work was in the building of the present Digby town hall on First Avenue. J.J. Wallis then worked occasionally at the print shop but mostly across the street at the Courier office which was then located on land in the general area where The Royal Bank of Canada is now.

Wallis Job Print operated in this building of four consisting of J.J. Wallis, J.M. Wallis, Miss Elva Haynes, who later became Mrs. George Kicop, and myself. I was in the staff in early 1920.

Mac's job was to run the staff in the left upstairs. J.J. occasionally printing plant but mostly at the Courier office. "Mac" worked nearly full-time at all the different jobs at the Job Print, and I worked at various duties, most of the time being spent at operating printing presses.

We worked ten-hour days, six days a week. J.J. and "Mac" sometimes worked overtime. I worked only the regular hours being paid a weekly wage which was comparatively good for those times, and my lack of experience. I received five or five dollars a week for working after school hours to six o'clock and on Saturday all day, and nine dollars a week for half weeks after finishing school. A two or three dollar a week raise was offered to me in the fall of 1920 for me to stay on at printing, but I had made up my mind to enter a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, starting salary of $200. The bank salary started out about the same per hour as for the printing plant those days, and experience however short, were helpful and appreciated to me.

J.J. was very jovial in his occasional trip to the print and did consider the kidding all in good fun. "Mac" was a witty person who noised in a good deal of sarcasm now and then for no reason or another. Elva must always had good answers to all the kidding she was called upon to take, and she usually held her own in a quiet sort of way, always in a setting type. We four all got along very well together. However, I do remember that some days all seem long and weary because of the transitory of some repetitious jobs.

In spite of the great demand for printing those last happy days of the twelfth, business generally being brisk, it looked in his that people had to work long and hard to make any decent profit. There was however, trials and finger ends were used and I was sent back to work.

Now and then a printing job had to be put on a piece of paper which required a new kind of printer's ink which smelled very bad some days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would say that it was the largest press, it was at the factory as always spent an outside day in lower conditions on the construction.

One of the jobs I had to do, for the paper and printers devil on the staff, was to do a printing job and then, one day not long after I started my job at the printing plant, I decided to show the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you getting on Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily, he thought the remark pretty good and amusing.

Sometimes the gasoline engine or a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and the "Mac" the fix it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results. "Mac" would then stand back and cross over dramatically, then he would immediately start working. "Mac" would say, "all it needed was a bit of cleaning."

On other occasions when some paper refused duty for the end, wanted to be broken, "Mac" would say, "use a little oil" and sure enough after that is all it took. How often since, have I heard of the value of that remark and the actual need of oil in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and, in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring month of 1920 got together just before dark one evening and decided to utilize the newly built outdoor Fern Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just out of the pool, nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys, no thought or time for bathing suits up to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in. The rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the boys? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Carl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars, second world and Korea; now prominent druggist, for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale haberdashery merchant; and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me how about writing your version of the story told about "The Marooning of Jerome." I did it and read at least two somewhat different versions about the man who was (now) marooned on a beach in southern point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Digby County. When I read this man's tongue and been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and, possibly, of some considerable wealth. However the way the man could or would ever say after being bound and cared for by some family in the French shore was, something that sounded like the most of Jerome. He either would not, or would not, write anything about who he was or why he was left there. Well, it was, and is, one of Digby County's best kept secrets, and, different ideas have been put forward over the years concerning this man. However, the name of "Mac" was, I felt no urge to write anything about different about this man. The story seemed to have been very well explained in the story of many people, and he was a sort of a legend of many people who visited where he was.

Three years later, I was quite sure that I had heard that "Mac" was, I felt no urge to write anything about different about this man. The story seemed to have been very well explained in the story of many people, and he was a sort of a legend of many people who visited where he was.

Digby 172 Years Ago

Compiled by David Lambert

From the files of the Courier of January 22, 1967, the following account has been compiled concerning Digby in 1767.

Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to me by friends is a copy of the first issue of the Digby Courier, dated January 22, 1967. The issue contains a number of interesting items, including a notice of the death of a young man, a notice of the death of a young woman, and a notice of the death of a young man.

The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This land was then the water's edge, partly as level ground, and partly as the locality of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was owned by Loyola, from New York in 1762, the most of whom went early in 1762, or, moving to other countries, left the whole free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of which was J.J.'s daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Melvin G. Thibert, Freeport, Digby Co.). Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters. I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print." I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like embossing, stapling, perforating, counting, cutting and trimming paper stock, making ink for certain desired colors, and so forth, but, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "ye", the printers name for a confined mass.

There was a taste of trying to sell job printing outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried to make several calls around town, spent most of the time at one particular side to be hoped proved by about who were ready detached, but meetings with and sympathy, at some Digby school. It has common spirit of the year previous in 1967, hardly ready to be from many circumstances, probability of plot of some significance, the West India a sharp and of readiness. This about in the December, I was in 1967.

The first was a notice of the death of a young man, a notice of the death of a young woman, and a notice of the death of a young man.

Cosman rushed down town and called a doctor, while Mr. Clair Keen, who was working in the same building, kept watch by the side of the unconscious man.

Upon examination by the doctor it was found that no bones were broken, and after regaining consciousness Mr. Haight was able to walk to the house with little help.

He was confined to his home for a few days while recovering from shock and bruises, but returned to work on Monday.

A taxation rate of $3.92 per $100 of assessment was struck for the Town of Digby at a meeting of the Town Council on Monday night when the budget for 1963 was brought down. The rate is an increase of 58 cents per $100 assessment over the rate of $3.34 for 1962. According to town officials the increase in the rate was brought about as follows: increase of 19c for paving; 10c on public works; 7c for hospitalization for mentally ill; 6c education appropriation; 7c for protection to persons and properties; 4c for sanitary and waste disposal; the remaining, 5c was a general increase.

The town ended the year 1962 with a $3,767.23 debit balance. Expenditures for 1962 amounted to $177,729.08. Total revenue for 1962 amounted to $174,622.42. Included among budgeted expenditures for 1963 is $55,089 for education. Actual expenditure for education in 1962 was $52,465. Budgeted for school purposes for 1963 is the sum of $21,657. The amount expended in 1962 for school purposes was $14,382. Budgeted for hospitalization of mentally ill for 1963 is $9,915, compared with $5,646 spent last year. Social welfare expenditure estimate for 1963 is $11,025, well over the $5,029 spent last year. Total expenditure for 1963 is estimated at $197,621. Assessment in 1962 was $4,022,590. Assessment for 1963 is $4,090,640.

It was decided to cover unpaved streets in the town with crushed rock, not to exceed $3,000 in cost.

The police report, given by councillor Earl Morrell, showed that 15 complaints had been registered in March, 10 of which required field investigation. All complaints except three were terminated to the satisfaction of those concerned. Six cases warranted court action and all disposed of before the court, four under the Nova Scotia Liquor Act, one under the criminal code, and one under the Motor Vehicle Act.

A building permit was granted to Grace United Church for an extension to the present church hall.

Knows Helene And Acadia

The newly-named Princess of Acadia, formerly the Princess of Nanaimo, and the Princess Helene, are both old friends of Eric McMorran, Victoria, B. C.

A note to The Digby Courier from Mr. McMorran last week told of visiting at H. Sull's, Smith's Cove, about eighteen years ago. I had many rides on the Helene and many pleasant memories of Digby and the area, said Mr. McMorran.

Mr. McMorran, who evidently is proprietor of McMorran's Seaview Room in Victoria, sent pictures of the Nanaimo and material which we shall use from time to time. For several weeks we were receiving this material from McMorran's but only the last time

Nowlan Stresses Need For Wharves

With big boats up to the value of $90,000 being built and used in the area and the tremendous development in the fishing industry, wharfage for the protection of the boats was a keynote in the address of Finance Minister George Nowlan at a Progressive Conservative Rally on Monday night. Without modern boats we can't compete in the fishing industry, Mr. Nowlan said, and so we must have protection on this coast line sufficient for all the improvements here. In fact, he said, consultations had been held and coast line protective measures would have been here by this time if parliament had not been obstructed. He mentioned the improvements being made in the present wharf at Digby and said that by next year a new wharf would have to be constructed. He also mentioned that one of the new Coast Guard boats, it is hoped, will be in Digby.

Mr. Nowlan expressed pleasure in having played a part in getting a new boat to replace the Princess Helene on the Digby-Saint John route. He noted that in Saint John freight handling had increased by 25,000 tons and with the new boat he expected to see a vast increase in traffic in this area and the Atlantic ports.

Mr. Nowlan scored Liberal leader Pearson's pledge to unilaterally declare a 12-mile fishing limit. If Canada excluded United States fishermen from fishing grounds they had used for a century "we would find tariff barriers and quotas raised which would virtually mean bankruptcy in our fishing industry". He quoted Mr. Pearson as saying that if Norway was able to declare fishing limits unilaterally, then Canada should be able to do likewise. For Canada to declare such a fishing limit in this way, he said, would mean risking opposition from the United States and loss of American market.

United States fishermen had tried for years to get Washington to curtail Canadian export of fish to the United States, and unilateral declaration of a fishing limit would mean that within a year the United States government would likely have to bow to the pressures from their own fishermen.

Mr. Nowlan, a candidate in the Digby - Annapolis - Kings constituency for the 1963 federal election, is making his 8th election campaign in '64 (Please turn to page 5) was inserted the sender's personal note. Friends of Mr. McMorran will learn with pleasure of his venture into the food catering business, dancing cabaret, sight seeing trips, etc., on Cardova Bay. His folder enclosed in the letter sounded and looked most attractive.

Liberals Want 12 Mile Limit

Hedard Robicheau, M.P. for Gloucester, N. B. was guest speaker on Wednesday night when a Liberal Rally for the Digby - Annapolis - Kings constituency was held in Digby. Mr. Robicheau who was a former fisheries minister of the N. B. provincial government said that an election had been called so soon because a minority government is not good for the people or the economy of Canada. Canada, he said, cannot operate unless it has a stable government. He charged the speech from the throne had many words but there was not much in it.

Mr. Robicheau scored the unemployment situation in general and said that the Liberals had fought to put fishermen on unemployment insurance and now the Conservatives want to take them off but the Liberals will work hard to keep unemployment insurance for fishermen.

Mr. Robicheau said that as soon as elected the Liberals would call a fisheries council for the benefit of the fishermen of Eastern Canada. He also said that they would establish a twelve mile fishing zone. At present, he said, foreign vessels come here and destroy the fish and gear but the Liberals would protect the country from this.

At present, Mr. Robicheau said there are industries on eve of coming in the Digby County and industries wishing to expand but they cannot do so until there is a government in Ottawa with such interest. What the country needs today he said, is work not social assistance.

As far as the introduction of the Atlantic Development Board was concerned, Mr. Robicheau said that the Liberals had enough of boards but they wanted action.

If the Liberals are elected Mr. Robicheau said the old age pensions would be raised to $75.00 per month but they did not intend to introduce this by raising taxes.

In the matter of education he said, the Liberals will provide bursaries and funds so that both rich and poor children will be able to receive the kind of education required for today.

Mr. Robicheau was introduced by John Nichols, president of the Digby Liberal Association, who was chairman of the meeting and thanked by V. G. Cardoza, M.L.A.

Vote 149-31 For Hospital Borrowing

A major step toward realization of a new 90-bed hospital in Digby was taken at a Digby town ratepayers' meeting on Saturday night when a vote of 149 to 31 was cast in favor of a proposal to borrow $230,000 which in turn will be loaned to the Digby General Hospital for construction purposes. The proposed new hospital will replace the present 28 bed structure which often houses between 40 and 50 patients, causing tremendous overcrowded conditions. Recently in emergency beds were erected in corridors and in one case a patient was served by a mattress on the floor, it is understood.

The council of Digby municipality recently approved a loan of $310,000 to be used for the same purpose as the town's loan, the District of Clare approved $40,000 and the municipality of Annapolis $10,000. The federal and provincial grant is expected to be $627,000. After other considered revenue, the amount to be raised by public subscription has been set at $125,000. Total cost of the hospital is expected to be $1,600,000.

By unanimous vote, the ratepayers on Saturday night also approved the borrowing of $46,000 for the installation of a new water main in the South end of town. Whether or not the hospital vote was passed the vote on the water main was also being placed before the ratepayers as water pressure in the south end of town has been dangerously low for five protection and also inconvenient for domestic use.

On Thursday night of the same week a citizen's meeting had been held when those interested were made acquainted with all the facets of the new hospital proposal. A similar meeting for business men had been held earlier and talks on the subject had been given at the Lions Club and Kiwanis.

Baptist Choir Presented Concert

Brittain; duets by Minnie Clayton and Wallace Hodgson; John Brittain, Jr. and Marilyn Robicheau, J. J. Brittain and Wallace Hodgson; and solo numbers by Donald Brown, Paul Snow, Minnie Clayton and Heather Murley.

The concert was preceded by a brief devotional service conducted by the pastor of the church.

At the meeting of the Women's League of the Baptist Church held on Tuesday evening plans were made for the W.M.S. C.G.I.T. and Explorer Affiliation service to be held in the church on the evening of April 28th. Guest speaker for the occasion will be the Rev. L. R. Atkinson, who will speak on some of his experiences and impressions during his recent trip to India. An invitation is being extended especially to young people, as well as to W.M.S. groups in Hill Grove, Acadiaville, and Smith's Cove churches.

Interest in the Adult Bible Class held in the Hill Grove church on Sunday afternoons continues to grow. The class is conducted by the pastor of the church, and a course of studies on The Great Themes of the Bible is being given.

Further Study On Fishermen's Insurance

As a result of a Digby Board of Trade sponsored meeting at Champlain Motor Hotel in Digby on Saturday, fish dealers in Digby County will, at a further meeting, submit recommendations proposing possible changes in regulations governing fishermen's unemployment insurance. The Digby Board of Trade sponsored meeting was initiated by C. D. Snow, lobster dealer, who is the newly appointed chairman of the Board's fisheries committee.

Twelve attended the meeting on Saturday, which began with a 6:30 dinner and continued until twelve midnight. The gathering consisted of 6 fish dealers, two fisheries officers and four Board of Trade members, most of whom recessed to attend an important ratepayers' meeting in town.

A considerable length of time was taken up at the beginning of the meeting by the chairman, Mr. Snow, in explaining how the new policy he proposed was formulated and upon what basis it would be necessary to formulate a policy to benefit all concerned, the payers and receivers of direct benefits from the policy. Parts of the proposed policy of the chairman brought forth aspects which he felt should be either changed or added to the present policy. When the hour of twelve arrived it was decided that anyone who wished to express his views more implicitly would have the opportunity to do so at another meeting called for Wednesday of the present week, April 3rd, also at Champlain Motor Hotel. The meeting on Wednesday was open to any fish dealer or buyer who wished to attend and suggestions from Wednesday's meeting would be put forth at a further dinner meeting scheduled for 6:30 p.m., Champlain Motor Hotel, on this coming Saturday or at the 8 p.m. meeting same place same night. Mr. Snow requested those who expected to be at the dinner to make reservations with the hotel manager, Mr. Croft.

The brief presented by Mr. Snow at Saturday's meeting last week contained the following proposals —

(1) That the fishermen should not be required to make any payment for their insurance benefits which should be provided by the Fish Industry and government who benefit from the fruits of the labours of the fishermen.

(2) That a guarantee basic pay of remuneration should be provided by the Fish Industry for the bona fide fishermen who qualify under regulations that might be set forth.

(3) That funds should be provided for expansion, loss of gear or equipment or replacement of equipment, the amount to be established as to the ability of each fisherman for repayment to the industry.

(4) That funds should be provided for the fishermen or fishermen's families in order to assure them of support through unforeseen hardships that might deprive them of their living.

(5) To give these desirable results depends upon the ability to pay by all those who are in the fish industry as a whole, each paying their share in proportion to the purchase of fish from the fishermen.

The government's share shall be based upon the same conditions as to the ability to pay and the need of payment.

Mr. Snow, in a later interview, said that because of lack of time all views had not been presented on Saturday and discussion of payment had not been agreed upon. Because all views had not been presented a picture of the whole proposed policy presented by the chairman was not completely clear. He proposes to put forward the workability of the policy at the meeting on Saturday, April 6. He stated that any fish buyer or dealer is welcome to attend the meeting as each is part of the policy in respect to payment and it is also beneficial to them since they will have an opportunity to further support (Please turn to page 5)

MARGO LIAN'S ATTRACTIVE NEW FRONT

The store occupied by J. Margolian & Co., on Water St., Digby, has undergone renovations and made into one of the most modern looking stores on front street and adding much to the appearance of the town in general.

glass windows utilized for display. The glass front, more than 28 feet in length, including the two display windows and door, reaches the entire height of the ground floor apartment. Missing from the picture is the huge canopy which will bear the J. Margolian & Co. name. The canopy will be a protection in rainstorms not only for customers of Margolians, but also for the public travelling the street as well as a sun shield. Directly over the interior of the display windows are 48 large fluorescent bulbs, adding brilliance to the attractive garments.

Not only has the window space been enlarged and made more attractive, but fluorescent lighting has been arranged in quadruple effect throughout the entire store. White pegged wall board makes an attractive background for exhibiting merchandise with metal bracketed plywood shelves supplying convenience and further display room. The shelves can be eliminated entirely or arranged to display any type of merchandise within fifteen minutes in any part of the store.

The ceiling has been newly done in white, and beige tiles

Borrowing Regulations Re Tourist Facilities

Regulations regarding borrowing for tourist facilities, under the Industrial Loan Act, were modified recently whereby, under special circumstances, the capital investment required from applicants may be reduced and the loan repayment extended over a longer period of time.

The new amendment to the existing regulations, which was authorized by Order-in-Council last month, is designed to assist those interested in building or expanding tourist facilities in areas where the seasonal nature of the business makes it uneconomical to operate on a 12-month basis.

The regulations state that a loan cannot be made if funds can be obtained from other sources on reasonable terms and conditions; unless the applicant can provide 50 per cent or more of the total cost of the undertaking, and unless the loan can be repaid within a 10-year period. But in special circumstances, now provided for by the amendment and subject to the discretion of the Loan Board, applicants qualifying for special consideration will be asked to provide at least 40 per cent of the total fixed assets of the establishment and may be given up to 15 years to repay the government loan.

years and referred back to provincial campaigns in 1925. During these remarks he paid tribute to the memory of M. S. Leonard and the contribution he had made to the area, and remarked on the uncertainty of life. Referring to service given by Nova Scotians to their country he said that he has been the seventh Minister of Finance from Nova Scotia in the federal government.

In setting forth arguments as to why people should vote P.C., Mr. Nowlan said the best one is the fact that this valley and constituency have never had it so good as in the past five years. Just look at conditions here, he said, the price of fish higher than before, shipyards booked up, housing construction increased and within the last few days buyers have been here and there is indication that pulpwood will be selling again very soon in the area. He mentioned the roads which had been built in the Digby area and Nova Scotia in general by the roads to resources program.

Speaking on the national scale Mr. Nowlan said that withdrawal of support prices for butter would mean bankruptcy of the dairy industry and eventually of the whole agricultural industry.

Touching on winter navigation in the St. Lawrence, Mr. Nowlan said that as long as he was minister of finance, no federal money would be spent on icebreakers to keep the St. Lawrence open in the winter months to the detriment of Nova Scotian ports.

Mr. Nowlan said there are 117,000 more Canadians working tonight than a year ago and unemployment in Canada is proportionately less in Canada than in the U.S.A.

He said that if current trends continue Canada's balance of payment balance deficit this year would be cut by more than 50 per cent, and surcharges introduced in 1962 "won't last too much longer."

Mr. Nowlan said the balance of payment deficits which have been running at one point $1,500,000,000 per year was reduced in 1961 to $850,000,000 and last year to $850,000,000. If present trends continued, he said, this year the deficit would be less than $400,000,000.

In closing Mr. Nowlan said that we had a stable government and there is no need of a majority government for a stable government.

Mr. Nowlan was thanked by Dr. G. V. Turnbull.

The meeting on Monday night was chaired by Dr. D. E. Lewis, president of the Digby P.C. Association. The secretary, Charles Haliburton, introduced the guest speaker, Gerald Flavin, Q.C., Halifax, past-president of the Nova Scotia Conservative Association.

Mr. Flavin told the audience that if they voted Liberal they would be returning to office the same people they turned out of office in 1957 — Liberals who had opportunities to do something for Canada but failed to take advantage of it. He criticized the Liberal opposition in the last Parliament for stating that it was their job to throw out the government. It was the duty of elected representatives of the people, Mr. Flavin said, to work in the interest of the people of Canada — not to throw out governments.

Mr. Flavin spoke of some of the accomplishments of the Conservative government under Prime Minister John Diefenbaker. He mentioned the promises made by the P.M. in the election campaign and which were kept and said that Nova Scotia had benefited more in the past seven years than in all the 22 preceding years. On the overall picture he mentioned the development in the north, old age pensions, blind persons pensions, disabled persons pension, and other accomplishments. Housing has increased, he said, business has been stimulated, electrical power has increased, farming and fishing have advanced and we have entered a great industrial and automation age.

In speaking of the Conservative stable government and economy, Mr. Flavin quoted President J. F. Kennedy as saying that Canada has achieved the best record of price stability among all major industrial countries and that the Mercantile Bank of Canada is quoted: "Devaluation has pro-

The parishioners of Holy Cross and Sacred Heart gladly accepted the opportunity of their Pastor's 20th anniversary in the Priesthood to express their appreciation and sincere thanks to him for his wonderful work in the community since 1951.

To render fervent thanks to God, the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass was first offered in the church at 8 p.m. After this Act of Thanksgiving, all gathered in the parochial hall where a special program was presented to honor their beloved Pastor. The evidence of Father Deveau's apostolic zeal and generous self-sacrifice was well reflected in playlets and songs.

As a token of appreciation, many fine gifts were presented Father Deveau. Following this entertainment, a delicious lunch was served by the ladies to all those present.

Witnesses Meet In Bridgewater

The Digby, Bear River and Centreville congregations have completed arrangements to attend a convention of Jehovah's Witnesses being held in Bridgewater April 12, 13, 14, Thomas Holmes, presiding minister of the Digby congregation announced. He stated that some fifty delegates from these three congregations are expected to attend. The purpose of the convention is to give Bible instruction to the Witnesses and will be under the supervision of Mr. Levi Wall, District Supervisor, assisted by D. G. Egan, Circuit Supervisor.

The convention will open Friday evening with Paul Christensen, presiding minister of the Annapolis Royal congregation, interviewing a number of the delegates who will relate some of their ministerial experiences. Mr. Levi Wall, in his address of welcome to the delegates, will speak on the convention theme, "Right Kind of Ministers."

Others on this opening program are W. Holmes, Digby, R. Forbes, Kingston, formerly of Bear River, Lou Rosart, Bear River, Geo. Jarvis, Jr., Weymouth Falls, and J. Hodges, Weymouth Falls.

On Saturday the program opens with William Balaski, Yarmouth, talking to the delegates on the importance of their ministry. Mr. Wall will again speak and N. Hodges, Weymouth Falls, will give counsel on the ministry activity.

An interesting program has been arranged for the evening with the following speakers: Levi Wall, D. G. Egan, Toronto, T. Holmes, Digby, R. E. Lewis, president of the Digby P.C. Association. The secretary, Charles Haliburton, introduced the guest speaker, Gerald Flavin, Q.C., Halifax, past-president of the Nova Scotia Conservative Association.

vided a powerful force contributing to a better external balance, increased production and more employment."

On the subject of nuclear arms, Mr. Flavin said that this is an age of amazing techniques and amazing changes and we must be ready to do what is right at any given time. He said Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the government will honor our commitments in the interest of peace.

Mr. Flavin spoke on the great assistance of the Atlantic Development Board which he said eventually got passed after five days of debate on the bill. He regretted that the National Economic Development Board did not get passed because of wasted time on questions by the Liberals. He said the Liberals charged that the Conservatives had no legislation ready but they did and the Liberals seemed to be anxious to oppose everything.

At the opening of the Rally on Monday night a tribute was paid to the memory of the late Mr. Leonard and also expressions of regret at the illness of Forrest Elsner.

Annapolis - Kings constituency and that if elected he will work for the interest of the fishing industry which is now operating under handicaps.

Located as we are, this could be a wonderful tourist area, Mr. Shaffner said. He would like to see it given great study, he said to help the economy of the area.

Lumbering and agriculture were named by Mr. Shaffner as important industries in Digby - Annapolis - Kings and if we get the life blood going in the area we won't recognize the economy it will change so rapidly.

Mr. Shaffner said the Liberal government would come in with a program of productivity and not with straight hand outs.

Other speakers were V. G. Cardozo, Mrs. C. J. Embree, Past President of the National Women's Liberal Association and Mrs. J. J. MacDonald. Mrs. Embree pointed out that any failure to vote in a democratic country is not good. Mrs. MacDonald praised the Liberals for selecting Mr. Shaffner to represent the constituency and thanked those who had made arrangements for the meeting and tea.

Mr. Cardozo when thanking Mr. Robicheau also paid tribute to Lester B. Pearson whom he said could walk shoulder to shoulder with other important leaders in the world. Because he saw the need he said that Mr. Shaffner is willing to make a personal sacrifice to enter the political field.

Among the local items on which Mr. Cardozo spoke were fishermen's unemployment insurance and industry. Regarding the Weymouth industry he said that while it is opening under the guise of another new industry it would be employing thirty people as against one hundred before.

Referring to the Digby - Saint John boat, the Princess of Acadia, Mr. Cardozo said that anyone must be pretty baron of accomplishment to take credit for getting a privately owned ship as Hon. George Nowlan has done.

Lady Armstrong Publishes Novel

A noted author who has written many books for children in India, including an English rendering of the Ramayana, is now busily engaged in writing exciting novels of India at her home in Brighton, about six miles from Digby.

Lady Dorothy L. Armstrong, widow of Sir William H. F. Armstrong, Secretary of Education to the government of the Punjab, took up residence at Brighton a year or so ago and has recently published a new novel which is receiving wide acclaim.

Titled "Gilded Sepulchre", Lady Armstrong's new novel brings alive again a forgotten era and a powerful empire of unbelievable wealth and wickedness in India. Besides personages well known in history she recreates other European adventurers who found their way to India in that far-off time. The reader is carried along with them, surrounded by the mysticism and fatalism of the ineffable east to the relentless end of the vivid story of ambition, greed, fanaticism, love, loyalty and sacrifice.

Against a marvellously colorful background Lady Armstrong has depicted the mortal struggle that threatened the end of the Mogul Empire. And, although she has chosen to tell the story in fictional form, she has gone straight to the historians of the Mogul dynasty for her materials. In "Gilded Sepulchre" she has created an exciting novel that will delight the reader in search of a well balanced mixture of terror and suspense, love and hate set against a rich historical background.

Lady Armstrong was born in Jersey, the Channel Islands, and is the daughter of James Hornell, a Scottish marine biologist and Charlotte Snel, descended from a line of Huguenots who had found refuge in Jersey. James Hornell became marine biologist to the government of Ceylon and it was on visits to him there that Dorothy first became enamoured of the east. She studied art at Bristol (England) and then, in 1915, when her father was with the government of Madras, met and married a young professor of chemistry, Will (later Sir William H. F. Armstrong, Secretary for Education to the government of the Punjab).

Armstrong was a descendant of the famous or notorious

Theme For 1963

These children are sipping "atole", a hot drink that is common fare to most rural communities throughout Central America. The typical atole is mainly a mixture of corn, a staple of the area, and boiling water. It is easy to prepare, and what's more, the people drink it daily, and with gusto. Unfortunately, with corn as its chief ingredient, it is a drink with little nutritive value. Not so however, is the atole the children in this photo are gulping, and to the evident joy of their mother and a nutritionist, liking so well. The children's glaucous have been enriched with nourishing protein, a food element needed badly for their good health, but until recently generally lacking in their diet. What transformed the old nutrition-less atole into the new nourishing atole was a pale yellow flour called Incaparina. Used instead of the corn, Incaparina puts into the children's glasses as much protein and vitamin A content as there would be in glasses of fresh milk. Not only is Incaparina a highly nutritive diet supplement, but — more important — it is a low-costing one. Its developers, the Institute of Nutrition of Central America and Panama in Guatemala City worked hard and long to turn out a product the average rural housewife could afford. Their success is reflected in a two-and-a-quarter ounce package, containing all the proteins a child needs daily, that sells without profit, at four cents each.

Incaparina is made mainly from the staples of the Central American diet — corn, sorghum, cotton-seed flour make up 95 per cent of the formula. But from the staples of other lands — rice, for instance — so also can like products be developed.

There is little doubt therefore, that what has been done in Central America can be repeated with equal success in other parts of the world where people need more nutritive elements in their diets. Nutritionists are certain that Incaparina-like products, which are at once high in protein and low in cost, will eventually still the gnawing hunger suffered by half the earth's population today.

It is in recognition of the plight of these 1.5 billion hungry that the World Health Organization has selected "Hunger: Disease of Millions" as the theme for observance April 7 of World Health Day, the 15th anniversary of its founding.

In his message on the anniversary, WHO's Director-General, Mr. M. G. Candau of Brazil, says: "It is my hope on this World Health Day that people everywhere in the world will try to visualize this problem of hunger and the disease and death that go with it."

"Remedies are largely known — they call for simultaneous action on the agricultural, medical, and education fronts. And this action, to be successful, must have the participation of governments and of peoples in all countries, rich and poor."

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY

How do you do? I am John's old shoe. I wasn't always an old shoe. Oh no, once upon a time I lived on the shelf of a fashionable shoe store. It was very comfortable there. Of course it was rather monotonous looking at the four white walls of a shoe box day in and day out. I lived here for about a month, then I found myself wishing for something to happen that would break the monotony. At last my hopes were fulfilled.

It was a snowy day in the middle of March. A little boy about six years old accompanied by his mother came into the store. From bits of conversation which floated up my way I learned that the boy's name was John and that they were looking for a pair of shoes just my type. My hopes soared on wings, but when twenty minutes passed and I was not consulted, I settled down dejectedly among my tissue paper for my usual afternoon nap.

Usual did I say? Pardon me, this nap was most unusual, for no sooner had I closed my eyes and begun to dream of the bygone days when I rode the back of old Bessie, the cow, as proudly as any king, then I found myself being whisked through the air only to land at John's feet. Off came the top of my box and for the first time since I had come to the store I saw the daylight. Then I noticed John! He was a freckle-faced red-haired lad with china-blue eyes. I was fitted on his foot and after a bit of arguing between John and his mother, I was wrapped up and taken to a little bungalow at the corner of King and Maple.

It was an easy life I lived those first few months. In the beginning I was a good shoe. I was only worn to church on Sunday or when they had company. By the time September rolled around I was a good shoe no longer and John wore me to school everyday. I was quite happy during school hours, but at recess period they gave me a rough time of it. How I survived those months of being trampled on and used to kick footballs, soccerballs and girls I'll never know.

Well, after about a year of this kind of treatment I became a play shoe. This was agony! I never got a minute peace: running races, climbing trees, wading brooks and getting into all the mischief one small boy could manage. Finally I was a wreck! My back was trampled down, my sole was coming off, my sides were split, and this was not from laughing. At last I was thrown into a box and forgotten.

Yes, people have no respect for shoes. They work us till we can work no more and what reward do we get? A happy old age? Oh no, we are tossed into a crowded box in a dusty old attic.

Small thanks for such faithful service, I'd say.

THE GOOD AND THE BAD

At last it's here, winter has come again to our little village of Waterford. Quietly and softly, the snow flakes fell reminding me of the great band of justice wiping the land of its evil. Looking between the snow flakes you might be able to make out the images of boys, girls, mothers, fathers and even the old folk sliding and laughing in the snow with not a care in the whole wide world. Every where there were long slender icicles which reminded me of an underground cave with all its stalagmites and stalactites.

While the sun shone off the smooth glittering ice of the lake one could hear the large booming sound of the lake ice setting into place. Suddenly out of nowhere came little children as if they were following the Pied Piper. Soon the loney ice was densely populated with humas of all sizes and ages. For those who knew how to skate it was a marvellous time but for those who were just learning it was a nerve racking time. But as Confucius said, "Those who just learn to skate all have own ups and downs." Slowly and quietly the sun went down beyond the hills and with it went the children to their homes where it was warm.

But alas, with every season come sorrow, for winter there are as many hardships as the legs on a centipede. A few of its hardships are the shovelling of the snow, cold ears, noses, and fingers, persons half drowning because the ice is too thin, not being able to start your car because the radiator is frozen stiff and last but not least the most terrifying of all collisions, just because the men or women just will not slow down and live.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

For the first time, Grade X is doing a Shakespearean Play Julius Caesar. I asked the class what they thought of it. I feel that this answer is rather typical of the others I received.

Yes, I think a Shakespeare play at a grade ten level is an excellent idea. I feel this way because it gives the student a fine feeling of something greater than just short stories. The play is a challenge to us which also adds to our wants. These plays seem so very inspiring.

I think Shakespeare has remained popular throughout the ages because people of today don't seem to see or encounter such plays as these. They enjoy them because they are different. Shakespeare's plays are well known the world over and if you can understand them you, the people, really can enjoy them. Perhaps people like these plays also because

In speaking of her new novel Lady Armstrong acknowledges her debt for factual background for her thrilling and colorful story, to the many historians of the period, including Bernier and Tavernier, but, especially to Niccolao Manucci's "Storia Domogor". In fact, the young Venetian adventurer is the central character of her book.

Pearson Visits Valley

The tempo of the Liberal '63 election campaign hit a high spot when Hon. Lester B. Pearson was greeted by an over-capacity gathering at the Port Williams Community Hall on Thursday last when an estimated over 1,000 were present.

Mr. Pearson, with his entourage of 40 newsmen, radio, camera and television personnel, arrived at Greenwood RCAF Station at 10:30, where they were met by Group Captain R. A. Gordon, John Shaffner, federal candidate for the riding, his campaign manager, Eric Balcom and Donald Hall, president for Kings West.

At Kingston he gave a short address to some 200 people and was given a warm reception when he assured the farmers that the Liberal Party always had and always will protect the interests of the agriculturalists and orchardists.

A majority government with a sound, businesslike administration will get the nation's business rolling forward on a sound economy, with the immediate convening of Parliament after the election. This minority government is unsound and unhealthy, the speaker said.

Mr. Pearson congratulated the constituency on being able to procure a candidate of such known business ability. Said he, "It is gratifying to me to be able to have a group of outstanding business men of Mr. Shaffner's calibre, who realize the great need of Canada and are willing to devote their time and energy to the nation's business."

He told the gathering that the only major party with a chance to form a majority government is the Liberal party, the past year indicates this and the opponents realize it, so it is that the attack in centred on this Liberal party.

Eric Balcom, president of Kings North, was chairman, and Mr. Shaffner introduced Mr. Pearson, referring to him as a great Canadian and a man recognized as one of the leading men in public affairs on the national scene.

cause they have heard so much about them.

I enjoyed this play extremely. In the past three or four years, I have heard different people using quotations which seemed to have great deal of meaning to the person and seemed to have come from some particular place. Well! I find that many of these have been taken from "Julius Caesar" and it is wonderful to know and understand them. I feel I shall enjoy the next Shakespeare play just as much because it most likely has many sayings, also, which are popular and shall be also quite as inspiring if it is explained carefully and understood.

Work on projects involving alternative uses of land, soil and water conservation in Nova Scotia will commence immediately following yesterday's federal approval under the terms of the Agricultural Rehabilitation Development Act, Hon. E. D. Halliburton, Minister of Agriculture and Marketing announced Friday.

Projects submitted by the province and approved by the federal government under the terms of ARDA include land breaking and surface ditching, tile drainage, rural ponds, community pastures and the acquisition of land for reforestation or future recreational use.

"The prime purpose of ARDA and it is a program shared by both the Government of Canada and the Provincial Government — is to facilitate the economic adjustment of rural areas," Mr. Halliburton said.

"By doing this it will increase income and employment opportunities and improve the living standards in the rural districts."

"One of the most serious problems affecting agricultural production in the province is the problem of farm drainage and under ARDA it will be possible for assistance to be provided. More assistance will also be available for the construction of farm ponds."

"In addition to projects currently under review, research will be conducted in other phases of rural development," said Mr. Halliburton.

"We hope to improve the use and productivity of the natural resources of rural Nova Scotia and it is for this purpose that research is being conducted on this basis."

The ARDA agreement, as approved by both governments covers four types of projects: Alternate use of land, a program which cover projects aimed at developing more efficient use and economic productivity of marginal and sub-marginal land;

Soil and water conservation projects, associated with the development and conservation of water supplies and projects for soil improvement and conservation, leading to increasing or maintaining productivity of good agricultural land.

Rural development projects including resources, social and economic studies and research on rural development, the establishment of rural development committees, and the undertaking of projects for area development and improvement of rural living standards.

Research projects which the Government of Canada may undertake jointly with the province, and are intended to explore and develop regional research in land use needs, land capability and rural adjustment requirements.

"With the assistance of ARDA it will now be possible to revise the Land Clearing Policy and to increase the number of hours of work on which assistance may be given and the amount of assistance per hour of work."

"The number of hours that can now be assisted will be increased from 40 hours per farm year to 50 hours, and the assistance per hour increased from approximately 35 per cent to 50 per cent of machine use costs. This will apply to the clearing of new agricultural land and the surface ditching of existing good land."

Under the terms of the Tile Drainage Policy, the main point of revision is that it now is possible to reduce farmers' installation costs from the former seven cents per foot to two cents per foot.

"This step recognizes the fact that drainage is a basic need on most Nova Scotia farms and any encouragement given to the solution of this problem will be of benefit to the agricultural industry."

Another policy that will benefit rural Nova Scotia is a rural ponds policy, which provides for substantial assistance to farmers and rural fire brigades in the construction of good water-storage ponds. Assistance can be provided for one half the cost up to a maximum of $700 per approved pond.

"Forestry plays an important role in the economy of the province. In some areas it is proposed that tracts of land exist that cannot be considered suitable for agricultural purposes and these will be acquired by the province for the purpose of reforestation and future recreational needs in the form of parks."

"Under ARDA we also hope to expand and carry out improvements on provincial community pastures located at Minudie, Cape John, Cape Mabou and Wicwike."

"In districts where large areas of land are not available for community pasture de-

Snow Delays Trains 47 Years Ago

Forty-seven years ago March, according to the Weymouth news in the March 31st issue of The Digby Weekly Courier 1916, trains had been delayed up the line from Thursday to Saturday because of snow. Weymouth, the news said, was cut off from the rest of the world.

The 1916 issue of The Digby Weekly Courier was brought to the editor by William Lent, Weymouth. It had been found by James Foster while working at an old house in Havelock, Digby Co., where the paper, along with others, was between the ceiling boards.

The paper was given to Mr. Lent last week because his name was in it, listed with the Digby detachment 112th Battalion, which had been drilling in Digby. It had been under command of Major M. S. Parker. Of the men listed Mr. Lent could remember 40. Mr. Lent was born in Rosway, Digby County.

As for prices 47 years ago, Clarke Bros., Bear River, were selling gingham from 10 to 20 cents per yard; linens 25 to 60 cents; and shantung silks 49 cents a yard.

Those who contemplate papering walls of rooms this 1963 Spring will look with envy to an advertisement in 1916 which asked prices of four cents to 50 cents per roll and borders one cent to 12 cents per roll. Dresses for children and misses were advertised from 75 cents to $2.75 and khaki military suits for boys, age 3 to 6 years, were $2.65.

So far as we could see, only two of the down town businesses then advertising are now still in operation as the same business. There was Dakin Bros., now Fritz Dakin Ltd. In 1916 the advertisement said that Dakin Bros. had been in operation for 38 years, which makes the business now 85 years old. The other still existing business was Turnbull Bros.

FURTHER STUDY

(Continued from page 1) the fishermen who make it possible for them to continue a fish business. He further suggested that any other suggestions than those above which might be brought up on Saturday would be fully discussed with the fishermen and placed before them for their approval.

In the course of discussion on Saturday Mr. Snow said the present fishermen's insurance regulations encourage fishermen, by their own choice, not to fish and creates unemployment. This, he said, is a serious handicap to fish dealers and places additional burdens on employees and is detrimental to the economy of the country. An insurance plan, he stated, should be designed to promote and encourage employment, as no industry can prosper when workers are paid to loaf.

In discussion of Mr. Snow's proposals, Keith Raymond, of Centreville, stated he felt the industry could not accept a plan that would place a greater dollar burden on it in the matter of insurance contributions. He said inconveniences of collection cited by Mr. Snow had been eliminated in revisions of present regulations providing for bulk payment of fishermen's contributions.

George Doucet, of the district of Clare, stated in his area there is an active fishermen's union and their group handles the contributions of fishermen. He said he felt fishermen should continue to contribute in any plan.

R. B. Lent, of Digby, said that while there was a good deal of merit in the proposals put forward by Mr. Snow, he felt he could not agree with changes that would greatly increase cost. He said under proposals put forward the increased cost burden would fall on the industry with the fishermen reaping the benefit.

velopment of co-operative community pastures.

"This would be accomplished by both governments purchasing the land jointly and leasing it to a co-operative group on a long-term basis." Further announcements will be made on completion of other projects presently under negotiation by both governments. Mr. Halliburton concluded.

True Story Of Alcohol And Word Of God

One of the great stories of what Christianity can do comes from the history of the Mutiny on the Bounty.

The mutineers from that ship were put ashore on Pitcairn Island. There were nine mutineers, six native men, ten native women and a girl, fifteen years old. One of them succeeded in making crude alcohol. A terrible situation ensued. They all died except Alexander Smith.

Smith chanced upon a Bible. He read it and he made up his mind to build up a state with the natives of that island, based directly on the Bible; whatever it said, they would do.

It was twenty years before an American sloop called at the island. They found a completely Christian community. There was no crime. There was no hospital because there was no disease. There was no insanity because there was no insanity. There was no illiteracy; and nowhere in the world was human life and property so safe. Christianity had cleansed that society.

The truth is — Alcohol depraves and destroys, and the Word of God saves and builds. (Contributed)

Premier Urges Support For Seal Campaign

The Nova Scotia Society for Care of Crippled Children is carrying on a program which deserves the support of each of us. By contributing to the Easter Seal Campaign sponsored by that Society you will be extending a helping hand to our less fortunate children.

The money you contribute will enable some child to acquire a basic skill, or provide him with speech therapy or with a type of training which will enable him to be a self-supporting and useful member of society.

The Easter Seal Campaign in Nova Scotia is being conducted by the Nova Scotia Society for Care of Crippled Children and 31 service clubs and women's organizations.

This year the target is $85,000, a figure which can be attained if each and every Nova Scotia wage earner gives his fair share. If each supporter increases his donation this year by one dollar the goal will be reached and the Society will be able to continue its program of assistance to the needy, disabled children of this province.

I heartily endorse the Easter Seal Campaign and trust that the people of Nova Scotia will give to it their whole hearted support.

NOVA SCOTIA

Statement By
Hon. R. A.
Donahoe, Q.C.

Minister of Public Health,
on National Health Week,
April 1 - 7, 1963.

National Health Week, under the sponsorship of the Health League of Canada, will be observed April 1 - 7. This is the 19th year for the nation-wide concentration on health.

The purpose of National Health Week is to call to the attention of all Canadian citizens the importance of preserving and promoting health by all possible means. During this week it is suggested that past health practices be reviewed and attempts made to improve these practices wherever possible in the coming year.

Health is everybody's business, and as such, each citizen is responsible for the prevention of illness and the promotion of health not only for himself but for his family and his neighbors as well. Physical and mental well being make for sound citizenship and a progressive nation.

Many services are made available by the Department of Public Health of the Province of Nova Scotia to assist individuals in this all important duty.

Free immunization against communicable diseases is provided periodically through public clinics at various strategic points throughout the province. By supplying vaccines free of charge to all physicians, the Department has even made it possible for persons to obtain them from their private physician at no cost or at a reduced rate.

Other services provided by the Department include aid to local groups in making available free health supervision of young children by the provision of nursing staff and equipment for well baby clinics; financial aid to services for crippled children of the province and free treatment for tuberculosis patients.

On behalf of the Department of Public Health of the Province of Nova Scotia, I wish to endorse wholeheartedly this 19th National Health Week.

Lieut.-Governor Endorses Easter Seal Campaign

A happy, healthy childhood is the birthright of every Nova Scotian, unfortunately, as the result of accident, disease or some other cause, this has not always been the case. Today, however, due to scientific advances and the concern of such organizations as the Nova Scotia Society for Care of Crippled Children, many of our young people no longer need go through life crippled or otherwise handicapped.

The Society, in co-operation with thirty-one service clubs and women's groups throughout the province, is in the throes of its annual Easter Seal Campaign. Provincial objective is $85,000. Through support of this campaign you can have the satisfaction of knowing that you are helping some child to a happier, fuller life. Your dollars will go toward mobile diagnostic clinics, speech therapy, special boots and braces, artificial limbs, crutches, wheel chairs hearing aids, day and summer camps.

It gives me great pleasure to support the Easter Seal Campaign and to urge every Nova Scotian of good-will to do the same.

Letters to the Editor

Dear "A Christian Youth":

We have a letter from "A Christian Youth" which we cannot publish if we wish to adhere to our policy of not publishing letters unless we have the signature of the writer. Please send your signature and we will publish your letter, although not necessarily your name.

Editor.

Digby, N. S.,
March 28 63.

Editor,
The Digby Courier,
Digby, N. S.
Dear Mrs. Wallis, —

In response to the letter from "A Digby Native", March 28 Courier, it appears to me that when certain people advocate such things as taverns and more liquor outlets, for any community, in most cases the drive is either led, or engineered, by a person or persons whose chief desire is personal financial gain, and definitely not for the welfare of the younger set, or any other segment of our population.

Surely, most of us are not foolish enough to think that a tavern and more liquor outlets will lessen the parking of cars on those wood roads and gravel pits that "Digby Native" was talking about. The good chances are, that after a few drinks at the tavern there would be more parking in the gravel pits, on lonely roads, and other secluded spots.

The town of Digby may soon begin to grow, — more than it has ever grown before in our generation. It is, of course, most important how we grow. For one thing, should we have more liquor outlets, including a tavern, in our town or area?

According to information received, Digby will soon have a liquor plebiscite, and, if we are responsible citizens, will we not vote the way we believe to be best for the community? If we are against more outlets we will put X under NO.

For many years in Kingsport, Tenn., U.S.A., all liquor sale outlets were open. In 1956, about seven years ago, by local option vote, the number was drastically reduced. The following record of crime was made in a survey of the last three years of "full" outlets, compared with the record of the first three years "decreased" outlets. Figures given indicate actual number, not percentages.

More Outlets	Fewer Outlets
Murder ..... 13	2
Manslaughter --- 7	0
Rape ..... 15	5
Burglary ..... 3,373	303
Sex Offences --- 111	48
Possessing
Alcohol ..... 610	428
Drunkness ..... 6,178	3,436
Drunk Driving --- 527	333
Larceny ..... 744	231

To this very large difference, should be added the fact that more liquor outlets in a given community also result in more sickness, more disease, and more accidents of different kinds for that community. Add to this poorer workmanship, inferior products and services.

Dr. Karl Menninger, of Menninger Clinic, of Kansas, U. S. A., says, "Alcohol constitutes the country's greatest mental health problem."

Dr. Charles Mayo, Mayo Brothers Clinic, has said: "You can get along with a wooden leg, but you can't get along with a wooden head. It is the brain that counts. But in order that your brain may be kept clear, you must keep your body fit and well. That cannot be done if one drinks liquor."

Talk about deadly FALL-OUT, we have it now; the results of liquor consumption now causes death to many thousands in North America, annually. Is there any question as to how we should vote?

Vincent Snow,
March 7 63.

Digby Courier,
Dear Editor: —

Several things of late have prompted me to write to your paper if I may.

Firstly — In a recent editorial of yours you advocated that more citizens should attend the meetings of the Municipal Council to let the Council know there is interest being taken in the doings of the Council, thereby giving them more moral support. I thoroughly agree with all you said concerning this — but there are a good many who cannot attend these meetings due to no transportation available and not everyone ford to hire a taxi to do this. Some have taken time out from their work or gone to some trouble to get there, thinking they would have a chance to present some problem and complaints or ask some questions. It seems when they are there Council evidently is too busy or adverse to their presence to have their voice why they are — so not having a whole week or to go day after day, is it any wonder the public thinks "what's the use?" A lot of Councilors have complaints and problems from citizens whom they represent and would like answers to questions asked them yet we do not hear much, if anything, of these being attended to nor brought up at a council meeting so again "what's the use" and affairs, go on the same way as usual. The citizens themselves can't do much if after they approach the ones put in office and who have the authority and supposed to look after and into affairs for us don't fulfil the obligations of their office.

Secondly — after reading the report in the Courier of the Digby County Ratepayers' Association which was held last Monday evening and the apathy on the part of the general public, expressed by Mr. Jefferson, in not concerning themselves more with the problems and matters in all government matters from Municipal level up, I again agree. The report went on to say many questions regarding taxes and expenditures were directed to Councilors Gott and Wood, to which both stated the need for the public to pay their taxes promptly and not feel that taxes can be paid last — by the figures quoted in Municipal Council reports, more and more are not being paid at all. We pay (with a good salary) a man to collect back taxes. The tax delinquents can ride around in cars (both old and new), have in their homes a good many things the ones who somehow manage to pay their taxes do not have — yet back taxes nor current ones cannot seem to be collected — why? If there are laws to make them why not enforce them? Then the public would feel some satisfaction that the salary paid the current tax collector and the collector of back taxes is well spent. There again, if the ones who are authorized, and put in office to do this do not or can't carry out their part, how can the general public? So they say, "what's the use?" This same report goes on about welfare services and homes, costs, etc. We have welfare officers to look into and after all these things — are they? They listen to citizens' complaints (sometimes), take your name (an easy way out possibly), and there it ends unless one goes after them "tooth and nail", and why should a citizen have to do this? Aren't they the ones getting a salary for carrying out the duties and obligations of that office?

It would seem a good thing if more or all councilors and the warden would attend these ratepayers' meetings and so put themselves in a position to know the complaints, and doing something about them, then there shouldn't be so much apathy on the part of the citizens. Of course if no further action is taken concerning the matters brought before the meeting, the citizen again says, "what's the use?" When a director of the ratepayers' association was asked if he was going to attend this last meeting, he had the most amazed and dazed look on his face one could imagine — so not only should the term apathy be applied to the general public.

Quoting from the address of Mr. Victor Cardozo, MLA, in the 1963 Throne Speech he bade — "it happens far too often that the setting up of a committee and the passing of resolutions are considered by those who take these actions to be the solution to the problem and no further action results. At least, it provides an easy way out in dealing with a situation and a ready answer to those who make enquiries." The general public seems to be treated thus, when, all they want in most cases is true and correct information and action if necessary from those in office, and mostly, who are paid a good salary from the taxpayers' money, to do these things. If this came about I think a good deal of the seemingly apathy on the part of the general public would disappear in municipal affairs, schools, hospitals, taxes or

About This and That National Health Week

April 1 to 7, National Health Week, is sponsored by the Health League of Canada. If we were to pick out any one disease to campaign against during this week we would be puzzled which one to use as deserving of the most attention. The annual meeting of the Digby County Mental Health Association has just been held. We learned of the many hospital beds which are occupied by mentally disturbed persons. Mental Health is important. The Cancer Drive is now on. Literature speaks of its importance. The Heart Campaign is just about over and we need not look long for figures to prove that heart disease is a great killer in our country. Pamphlets of many kinds come to our desk during the present week. Some of the pamphlets deal with arthritis and rheumatism, rehabilitation for the disabled, multiple sclerosis, muscular dystrophy and others. Each and all have a special place on the National Health Week program. Some diseases or health problems are found in our own country and some in other countries. For example, heart disease is high in our own country and probably because of our way of living. Lung cancer might be a great health problem because we have too much spare cash for cigarettes. On the other hand health problems in some other countries are not caused by having too much but by having too little. With the latter in mind the theme for 1963 National Health Week and World Health Day, April 7, is "Hunger: Disease of Millions."

One of the closest links known to the medical world is that between hunger and disease. The health of the chronically hungry is open to attacks from all sides. A number of diseases are direct consequences of lack of particular food elements — kwashiorkor, anaemia, scurvy, pellagra, beriberi. Others such as measles, diarrhoea, pneumonia, and tuberculosis find little resistance among those who are undernourished from the time they are weaned until they die.

For every child who dies of malnutrition in our country, 300 die in certain Latin American countries. If the infant mortality rate were the same in Latin America as it is in North America, there would be 250,000 fewer child deaths every year. The situation is even more heart-rending in vast areas of Africa and Asia.

How many child victims of "hidden hunger" are there? A modest estimate is 100 million, all suffering from what the experts call "protein-calorie undernutrition". The name for this sickness — for it is a true disease — varies from country to country, from continent to continent. In Asia it may be "nutritional dystrophy", in Europe, "nutritional oedema," in America "sugar-baby" or "multiple deficiency syndrome in children," in Africa "kwashiorkor" or "mbuaki". There are some places where few children between one and five years old escape it; and whatever its name the cause is the same throughout the world — hunger for protein foods which is the most devastating of all forms of hunger. It is endemic everywhere that people cannot afford meat, fish, eggs, or milk, and do not eat enough beans or other protein-rich vegetable foods.

The cry for help of a hundred million children is the awful chorus behind the theme of World Health Day: "Hunger: Disease of Millions".

Human Error Wore

Already the Spring is showing an increase in traffic on the highways. Just as a house will need a thorough Spring and Fall check-up unless there is a thorough cleaning given each room at other times of the year, so a car which has been neglected during the winter or summer will need its seasonal check-up. Because of the greater traffic as Spring progresses and which can be noticed on the highways as early as now, cars should be put in top rank mechanical condition to be prepared for emergency conditions which also increase with the fast of travel. However, we do not feel car operators should be in a hurry for Spring or Fall to correct mechanical difficulties. Rather we think cars should be kept in top operating condition all the time for the safety of the driver, his passengers and the public.

Besides finding that mechanical defects in cars were responsible for deaths and injuries a recent survey found car operators were suffering many annoyances due to failure to correct or check up on mechanical errors.

For example, one out of ten motorists who did not bother to have their cars cooling systems serviced last spring found themselves boiling over on expressways and in traffic tie-ups which generated ergasies. In the Spring tune-up department, even more startling things happened. For example, when starting during the summer months, three out of every five motorists had spark plugs that were worn, while one out of every three had faulty ignition systems in their cars. Gasoline waste was the result.

Other things you may wish to have checked on your car this spring — and which the survey showed were neglected by many car owners — are:

Fan belt. . . 35 percent of the cars checked had worn fan belts. A broken fan belt may strand you when you least expect it with an overheated engine. Don't take a chance. A whopping 70 percent of cars checked last summer were out of time, which can cause poor gas mileage and loss of power. Chances of having a leak, where dangerous carbon monoxide fumes can escape are one in four, according to the survey. Have your dealer check the entire exhaust system on your car next time he has it on his grease rack for a lube job.

These and other mechanical difficulties might cause accidents on the highway or, at least, annoyances and even annoyances have been known to result in accidents.

But if mechanical failures are the result of highway mishaps, human error is responsible for many more and for this reason the Canadian Highway Safety Council is stressing this phase in its present car-check campaign. The driver's responsibility will be the keynote of the campaign.

We are beginning to think that driver responsibility should definitely be the key note to any campaign which

EDUCATION WEEK
Education Week
Is a time that all are gay,
When many of our scholars,
Put their fine works on display.
Each and every year
There's a week that's set aside,
For scholars of any age,
To show their work with pride.
They peer into the windows,
Their noses against the pane!
There, they stand and stare,
Pondering at their gain.
As the days draw on,
Their fine works disappear;
But the thought of Education Week,

Is still the greatest cheer.
So now our week is here,
And I have tried my best
To show what little talent,
On me the Lord has blest.
Wendy Franklin,
Grade 7-K.

might be conducted in Digby. We have of late seen some most irresponsible speeding through our main street. We have seen what we would consider some reckless speeding through the town when traffic was at a minimum but recently we saw what was most dangerous driving when traffic was heavy. Granted, the parking in the middle of the street down town does not add to anyone's pleasure or safety, nevertheless, the rate of speed in which some light colored car went by a parked vehicle recently and merely escaped colliding with an oncoming car was the height of irresponsibility on the part of the driver. There seemed to have been no attempt, whatsoever, to decrease speed in passing and to our mind that speed was most excessive for within town limits. We are glad in a sense that we did not know who the driver was and we were not close enough to read the numbers. Our lack of car knowledge does not give us reasonable identification but the incident certainly made us conscious of noting speed of light colored cars driving through town. Whether such driving comes under human error or human irresponsibility or plain human foolishness we do not know, but someone needs to exercise a bit more care.

Vote April 8

We think the most used phrase at the announcement of a federal election some weeks ago was "I'm not voting this time." The remark came from a state of frustration. People had sent representatives to Ottawa to work for the good of the country. In most part they trusted these gentlemen (and ladies) whatever side of politics they were on — Conservative, Liberal, N.D.P. or Social Credit — to work for the good of the country and the constituency they represented. Therefore, the ordinary person was frustrated about the confusion in Ottawa. Statements and denials from the different political representatives did nothing to relieve the frustrations. With the announcement of an election people had to get down to a real study of the issues and the cause of the confusion. By now people have had an opportunity to pick what they consider chaff from the wheat in platform addresses, radio and T.V. talks and press releases. Again the electorate, some 10,000,000 persons, should be ready to cast their votes. Good citizens of the country will do just that on April 8.

It is everybody's duty, or shall we say privilege, to vote on Monday next. We do not pretend to tell you how to vote. We do urge that if there is any person of voting privilege who has not yet given the matter serious thought to spend the next few days deciding intelligently how to use that privilege. To vote Liberal because of always being Liberal is not enough, to vote Conservative because of always being Conservative is not enough. Consider what has been done for the country by those in power. What are the promises, if any, of the same people or others who offer to run the country? Are they promising all sorts of benefits and at the same time promising to reduce taxes? If so, then we better find out just how these people propose to manage such a feat. These are but a few of the questions to consider in order to vote intelligently, on April 8. Vote, yes, vote. Voting is extremely important but a vote cast simply to cast a vote is not doing the country too much good. A vote to be really effective should be an intelligent vote. Why do we say this? Because a vote cast by being pressured into it does not reveal your wish or will. A vote given because of any bribe is not your vote. It is someone else's vote cast by you.

This election whether it goes Conservative, Liberal, N.D.P. or Social Credit, should be what the people want and the only way to find that out is for each to weigh the issues carefully before voting. Then, when the ballots reveal the result of "thinking" let us get along with the nation's business.

Furthermore, whether the government elected is a majority government or a minority government, let us get along with the nation's business. The people we send to Ottawa should use as much intelligence in dealing with the nation's business as the people do in casting a vote. If so, it won't matter whether the government is majority or minority. They'll be doing business as their consciences and reasons dictate. There is something wrong with our government system when the opposition considers it more of a duty to block every move of the party in power than it does to stand for what is right or the best for the country. No nation can achieve its best under such circumstances. Yet you do hear the expression, "That is what the opposition is for." We need an opposition, we'll have an opposition, but surely an opposition is to curb any government policy which it considers wrong only and not every move a government tries to make or deter the nation's business. And we feel that to be the case no matter what government is in power.

Vote on Monday. It is both a privilege and a duty, but vote intelligently and then let's get on with what is good for Canada.

A ROBIN
I saw a little robin
The first for me this spring.
He sat upon a little twig,
And forced himself to sing.
This pretty little red breast
Was watching for a worm.
I'm sure he had not many,
Since last the days were warm.
He sat there and he listened.
He cocked his head to hear.
A worm, I'm sure had made a move,
And a meal he did envision.
The little bird just pulled and tugged;
At last he was rewarded.
This was, I'm sure, his biggest chore,
Since he was here last summer
Once that little bird comes back.

Our worries seem to pass.
He sings a little cheery song.
And spring is here at last.
Linda Lewis

SPRINGTIME
When spring draws near you can hear the birds more each day. As the trees spread out their limbs, as the flowers burst out of the ground and then bloom, it is Springtime.
Now the days are growing longer and you will soon hear the bees in the flowers. What a delightful time of the year

EDUCATION
Education is a very important word in this day and age. The definition for education is, "the process of training, and developing the knowledge, skill, mind and character, especially by formal schooling; teaching and training." Some students neglect to do their home work as they should. Just think, after you have left school you will wish you had done this work for just a few hours each night. We should obtain all the school education we can and do justice to our work. If we are unable to attend college to further our education, it is important that we complete school. Today everybody has to have an education, and the more educated students will obtain the better jobs. Education has a bearing of one's entire life.

A TAIL TALE
Once upon a time there was an exciting, young turtle named Betsy. Unlike most of her friends, Betsy liked to ride horses. Sometimes she even rode horses in a race. One day Betsy was riding in a race on her favorite horse whose name was Randy. They were in the second place as they rode down the track. But suddenly Randy caught his hoof in a hole in the ground and tumbled down. Then because Betsy wanted so badly to win, she picked up Randy, and putting him on her back, she started running down the track. Although Betsy did have Randy on her back she raced by the other horses across the blue line to the finish line long before the other horses. She was then awarded a trophy with her name on it saying that she was the first turtle to win a horse race.

EASTER
Easter time is here,
Bringing happiness and cheer
All the girls and boys,
Are playing with their toys.

Easter bunnies all around,
Dropping eggs upon the ground.
Yellow ones, red ones and blue,
Some are coming straight to you.

Easter parades come down the roads,
With floats sending Easter codes.
And ladies meeting with a bow
Never entering in a row.

Long ago our Lord did die,
With tears in every eye.
On Easter Day He arose,
This is true everyone knows.

A TOUCH OF GOD'S HAND
A dreamer dreams of pleasant things;
Fresh new flowers and the coming of spring,
Sparrows in the treetop, gulls on the wing.
These are a few of the more pleasant things.
It would be wonderful, if all day long
A robin would sing his sweet happy song
Outside your window on the branch of a tree,
The dear tender creature, so joyful and free.
Wouldn't you love to be drawn away
From the ties of toil and the world's sinful way.
To be on a hillside, on grass, fresh and green,
To just gaze at nature, an enchanting scene
And watch the billoway clouds in the sky.
Without the world's knowing roll silently by.
And listen to the brook, babbling over the stones,
See the mighty pine, decorated with cones.
You gaze at these beauties and you understand,
All this has been made by a touch of God's hand.

I took him in the kitchen and I gave him a chicken right out of the oven. Then we went out in the garden to admire the beautiful flowers. When he sneezed twice and the flowers blew right off the stems. Then mother came out and saw the flowers. She called daddy at the office and he came home. Mother told him to take the dragon to the animal shelter, but he couldn't fit him in the car. So we kept him down in the basement. When he saw a mouse he threw five out of his nose and mouth. Mother screamed and called the fire departments they came and poured water down his throat. When he saw the mouse again he ran away and never came back.

Don't go away mad,

You'll come back smiling on the money you saved going.
The Volkswagen averages 38 miles to a gallon of gas. In fact we've heard a few owners claim 50 mpg. (They're either very good drivers, or a little weak at mathematics.)
The Volkswagen is small change in other departments too. For a start, the oil never needs topping between changes. And even when it is time for a change, two and one-fifth quarts will do it.
When it comes to the cooling system, your expenses come to zero. The radiator can't boil over or spring leaks or freeze up because there is no radiator. We cool our car with air instead of water.

On a long trip your thoughts may turn to service and replacement parts. Don't worry. You can be miles from nowhere and still find VW service. (We have 346 dealers right across Canada.)

held baskets of pink and white carnations.

The bride chose an ivory satin, brocade floor length gown with bell shaped skirt, slightly raised in front, fitted bodice and lily point sleeves. Her medieval halo type headpiece held her veil of three layered tulle spread out to cover shoulders, and her bouquet was pink roses and white mums.

Mrs. Joyce Helmer who attended the bride as matron of honor chose a beige dress with white accessories and carried yellow and white mums. The bridesmaid Miss Ellen Diane Looker, sister of the bride wore a sparkling light blue dress with navy accessories and carried pink carnations and white mums. All wore identical halo headpieces. Miss Edith Looker as flower girl also carried out the theme.

THE BAG OF SUGAR

One day when I went shopping for my mother, she told me to get a bag of sugar for her. On the way home I caught it on a stick and tore a hole in it. I didn't know it. When I got home it was empty. Mama said, "Where is the sugar? I looked and saw the empty bag."

She sent me back to the store but told me to be more careful. So I went back to the store. This time I was more careful and I didn't lose the sugar. When I got home mama said she had found another bag of sugar and she didn't need it now. I said "All that and you didn't even need it!"

This is National Health Week but...

THERE ARE 51 WEEKS STILL TO COME

Once each year national attention is focused on health week. But health is not a matter of a week... or a month.

If you enjoy good health you will forget, all too soon, what little interest this message has evoked. But there is a group who will not forget... tomorrow, or the day after. These are the workers of the Health League of Canada. Mainly voluntary, they comprise a group endorsed by the Governor-General, Ministers of Health, Doctors and Lay Citizens.

They can, and do, represent public opinion on matters affecting your health... pasteurization of milk, artificial respiration, fluoridation, immunization, and many other preventive measures. In the industrial field alone, it is estimated that last year Canadians lost 154,881 years of working days through illness which might well have been prevented.

You can support this work in two ways. Look after your own health and that of your employees. And, encourage the work of the Health League of Canada by becoming a member of the league. Government approved, it offers literature on specific problems, and a bi-monthly magazine that is quoted throughout the civilized world. At a very small cost... you can do a very great service, to yourself, and to those you love.

Patronesses Hold Annual

The annual meeting of "Les Dames Patronesses" of Clare was held at St. Ann's College auditorium with Mrs. Daniel Tufts, of Saulnierville, presiding. Les Dames Patronesses consists of a group of approximately 300 ladies from the various parishes of Clare, which number 7, and was organized four years ago by Rev. Lantegne, of St. Ann's College staff, for the purpose of assisting the operation of the boys' summer camp at Victor's Lake. In Concession, which is operated by Rev. Lantegne during the months of July and August each summer.

Each village in the parish has its unit with its directress and a central committee has charge of the various smaller units, and directs its operation. Each unit is given a task to fulfill to meet the demands for financial assistance as well as for the operation of the camp. The various groups organize their own individual means of raising funds, such as penny sales, card parties, concerts and sale of various goods, and of course the old fashioned rummage sale is a semi-annual feature. During the Acadian Festival, Les Dames Patronesses held their garden party on St. Ann's College grounds.

Rev. Lantegne spoke briefly to the group, outlining the improvement taking place at the summer camp for boys. Among the most important work being done at the present time is the installation of electric light poles for over a mile from the Boudreau Road in Concession to the camp. This installation is expected to be completed soon and it will enable the installation of more modern facilities at the camp in a sanitary way. A new chapel is expected to be constructed soon, to be ready for the summer vacation months. A small chapel was in use in other years, but being too small it could not contain the group of youngsters who number around 15 when the weather is not up to par.

The various groups have completed twenty patch quilts which will be used to raise funds sometime in April, possibly around April 21st, at a garden party held in the auditorium of St. Ann's College.

The ladies have taken a lot of pains in an effort to make the operation of the boys' summer camp a successful one. By their effort, they have enabled improvement of the grounds with new buildings being constructed in the last year.

Les Dames Patronesses have charge of the kitchen at the boys' camp and several ladies are selected to spend a day in the kitchen each day that the camp is in operation, each group taking its turn.

Mrs. Daniel Tufts, of Saulnierville, was re-elected president of the Central Committee of Les Dames Patronesses for the fourth consecutive year. Mrs. Lester Dugas, of Grosses Coques, was elected assistant directress; Mrs. Alphonse Saulnier, of Woodvale, was appointed treasurer, and Mrs. Francois LeBlanc, of Little Brook, is the secretary.

The directress of a village group is as follows: Mrs. William Lefort, Weymouth; Mrs. Gustave LeBlanc, New Edinburgh; Mrs. Evelyn Amirault, Bellevue's Cove; Mrs. Lester Dugas, Grosses Coques; Mrs. Raymond Gaudet, Concession; Mrs. Yvette Valoite, Church Point; Mrs. Daniel Tufts, Saulnierville; Mrs. Nelida Comeau, Meteghan; Mrs. Ben Bourque, St. Alphonse; Mrs. Adolphe Saulnier, Salmon River; Little Brook directress not known.

Les Dames Patronesses are presently preparing a cook book, the sale of which will enrich the coffers for the boys' camp operation.

It is interesting to see so many ladies of the Municipality of Clare, numbering 300, taking such an active part in the operation of the boys' camp, raising funds for its operation. Much credit must be given to Rev. Lantegne for having his dream of the construction of a boys' camp near a lake come true. His diplomatic way of handling complications has endeared him to the population and most organizations and clubs in Clare have come to his assistance in the past and are willing to do so again.

The camp for boys was arranged to give the younger group an opportunity of receiving good Christian foundation while receiving the benefits of the healthful exercises planned by the operators of the camp. A group of youngsters stay at the camp for ten days and they are followed by another group of fourteen or more youngsters during the two summer months. This enables a larger number of children to attend the camp.

This is another St. Ann's College from which the Acadians of Clare are reaping benefits and which cannot be measured in dollars and cents. Since its inception in 1890, St. Ann's College has been the cultural centre of the Acadian people and today it has greatly increased its work of charity and good works for these people. The great strides in the improving of the economic trend in Clare may be attributed to the early work of the devoted priests of the Eudist Order who operate the college at Church Point.

MY TRIP TO OUTER SPACE

It was a clean bright day Monday June 17, 1955 just right for a take off. I was put into my suit and popped into my capsule, strapped to the seat and given a yo-yo to amuse me on the trip. Then as they made the count down, I said to myself, "Boy oh boy! Jack Jones, you have yourself in a predicament this time!" Then it came, 3, 2, 1, 0 Fire! Bang! Pow! Crash! I was going through space to the planet Pluto. By this time I was six trillion miles in space. It's a good thing I had on my special suit, because the temperature was 500 degrees below zero.

Then I landed. Bang! To my surprise I was surrounded by pink, blue and red monsters with black spots all over them. I could tell they were monsters, because they were doing the monster mash. They were twenty feet tall and their purple hair was five feet long. One of them came over to me with a spear.

I said, "Put up your dukes!" He lifted me up with his spear and threw me from Pluto to earth. What a trip! I made it in two minutes flat.

Now here I am in the hospital with every bone in my body broken. If you don't believe me, I wouldn't advise you to go up and see.

"SPRING DELIGHT"

Along with new seasons, different changes also occur and so it is the same when spring arrives. The days are becoming warmer now, and a beautiful scent is in the air. The sparkling snow slowly fades away, and the animals and birds are filling the woods with, cherry, sounds, as they awake from their long winter nap. The flowers sprout up in full bloom and nod their heads in the refreshing, light winds.

The surroundings are not the only things that change. The people also appear different. Your friends, and those about you, including yourself, seem to wake up from a sleepy trance and are now ready to go on hikes and explore and discover new things. The style in clothes have changed, and we are scurrying about to buy different articles. We greet our neighbours with friendly smiles, for happiness is in the air. To me, Spring is a beautiful and happy time of year. Don't you agree?

School Days
When I first went to school my teacher taught the golden rule, And that first year I was very clever I knew my abc's and could count for ever.

The next year I went, I tried a trick And found that the teacher was very strict. We had a lot of fun playing with strings Oh my we learned a lot of things!

In grade two, we learned things to do We could write a little, read and add two and two. There were a few numbers that we used to take away Now they call it subtract in this higher-grade day.

In grade three and four we learned much more We could write much better and divide two into four. In grades five, six, we learned about lands far away It was very interesting then, and still is today.

In grade eight it was the same old thing Go to school, study, and grade in the Spring. Algebra starts in grade nine, you know All the jumbled letters help the brain to glow.

It would be very true to say That to dig a ditch in the modern way You must have education For the world and it's people are moving ahead And without Education, You may be as well as dead!

SPRING SIGNIFICANCE
Spring is a peace for the troubled mind, A soothing balm for weeping souls, Spring is a delight for all of mankind, A lookout on which to take tolls, Spring is a moment of cherished happiness, A period to waltz over the coals.

In spinning there is the fragrance of dew, The thinnish throaty tune, In spring all life begins anew, And we hear the call of the loon, In spring passionate love bewitches the heart, All things begin to bloom.

Spring is the laugh of the daffodils, The song of the blue-jays call, Spring is the 'giggle' of watery mills, And animals is the season of happiness, For you, and me, and all!

When I have my woodland dream, I walk along a lovely stream, Pine trees sway in the breeze, And make you feel at ease.

Robins singing, bells are ringing, That's the song of the woodland dream.

The ceiling is a dark blue sky, Which makes me wonder sometimes why, Flowers dancing in a field, Seem as if they do a reel.

Robins singing, bells are ringing, That's the song of the woodland dream.

Nowlan Wins Close Race

George Nowlan again won the Digby-Annapolis-Kings seat in the April 8th federal election. In Nova Scotia the Conservatives have elected seven members, four of them with majorities reduced from 1962 levels, and the Liberals have elected five, a gain of three over the 1962 results, as a result of Monday's federal election.

A considerable decrease in the number of eligible voters who actually cast ballots was experienced throughout the province, at least partly accounted for by a terrific storm which hit the area that day. In Digby-Annapolis-Kings, returning officer W. D. Wetmore estimated that the final total vote would be down about 1,300 from the 33,600 polled last year.

Finance Minister George Nowlan, whose election was in doubt overnight as the storm delayed returns from many parts of the Annapolis Valley, was conceded early Tuesday afternoon. At that time 177 out of 181 polls gave him a majority of 986 over Liberal John Shaffner. In last June's election Mr. Nowlan was returned with a majority of 3,233. On Wednesday many poll results were still to be received from Shelburne-Yarmouth-Care, where Liberal newcomer Fred T. Armstrong was conceded election over John O. Bower, P.C., Shelburne, also a newcomer. This seat was held in the last Parliament by Felton Legere, P.C.

Although Lester Pearson's Liberals won the largest group in the House after the election, they fell short of a majority. Even with the count of the forces vote the Liberals' hope of a majority is dim. Party sources indicated that about the best the Liberals could expect would be three more seats to add to their present 128. Minimum number required for a majority in the 265 seat house is 133.

Following is a breakdown of how the polls voted, with the exception of Rossy, which due to storm telephone trouble results could not be obtained.

Career Day

Career Day under the direction of Mrs. Eva Wendell and Mrs. Jeffrey, guidance instructors at the Digby Regional High School, was held at the school on Friday afternoon when the following careers were discussed, airforce, airline stewardess, airline maintenance, apprenticeship, army, beautician, federal civil service, provincial civil service, dentistry, medicine, psychiatry, dental medicine, engineering, forestry, laboratory and X-ray technician, nursing and physiotherapy, R.C.M.P., survey school, teaching and university, law, navy, agriculture, fishing and physical education and banking.

Counsellors were from Digby, Halifax, Greenwood, Lawrencetown, Tiverton, Fredericton and Saint John. Those counselling from Digby were James Ayer, Corporal Douglas, H. C. Morton, Charles Haliburton. Fisheries officer Cossaboom from Tiverton directed the counselling in the fishing class.

The beautician class under Miss Faye Somers had the highest following with 55 in attendance. Each counsellor discussed requirements for his or her special career and the opportunities afforded in the field. The general assembly presided over by principal C. C. MacInness.

R. S. Cochrane from the Department of Labor named some of the available apprenticeship in fields of electricity, carpentry, brick laying, plumbing, auto repairs, refrigeration, ship building, textiles, pulp, paper, air craft etc.

E. F. Coffin said that the federal government was the largest single employer and that every category of career can be found in the federal civil service. E. H. McKim of the Provincial Civil Service said there were 800 different types of employment in his department, including doctors, lawyers, teachers, engineers, etc.

Mrs. Jean Newton reminded the students that her career of nursing was not one open only to girls but boys also found it a rewarding career.

Charles Haliburton remarked that law was one of the few careers remaining where the individual can work for himself and not necessarily be employed by someone else.

J. H. Shuh of the Agriculture College, Truro spoke on the advantage of an agricultural course — the diploma course fitting the student to earn a comfortable living and the degree course which fits the student for research, teaching and extension in the field of Agriculture.

Tea was served at the close of the classroom sessions.

Wants More Sheep Stories

Mrs. William Dondale, Bear River, thought perhaps some of her friends would like to know how well her sheep did this year. The 4 she had last year had 9 this year. She had an extra 2-yr.-old, first lambs. She had twins, 1 was dead at birth. She's raising 10 & would like to see more sheep news in The Digby Courier.

Hospital Canvass In Full Swing

The campaign for a new Digby General Hospital is underway in earnest. In most areas of the Digby region volunteer canvassers are either making calls on the homes or will within the next few days.

The objective of the campaign is $125,000 and is needed to bridge the gap between grants, loans and the $160,000 construction cost of the new 90 bed hospital.

In Bear River the Women's Institute is conducting the campaign for the hospital. Mrs. Marjorie Alcorn is the chairman of the Bear River campaign.

The Digby Neck Islands are being canvassed by the Redcreek Lodge and the Oddfellows Lodge under the direction of chairman, Eugene W. Outhouse.

In other parts of the Digby area community organizations and individual volunteers are pitching in to make the campaign a great success.

Reigh W. Jayne, general chairman, asks that everyone give generously. No matter what size the gift is, it will be appreciated and is needed, he said.

Well Known Man Dies At Hill Grove

Major Duncan Charles MacKay, 84, of Hill Grove, a retired farmer and market gardener, died Friday at his residence in Hill Grove.

Born at Hill Grove, he was the son of the late Donald and Eliza (Adams) MacKay. Surviving besides his wife the former Anna Woodman, of Conway and a number of nephews and nieces. Two brothers, Percy and Arthur, predeceased him a number of years ago.

For a number of years Mr. MacKay was officer commanding the Digby 27th Battery, 11th Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery. For a time during First World War he served in the capacity of recruiting officer in the Digby area. A loyal member of the Hill Grove United Baptist Church, he served on the board of deacons and other committees of the church. For many years Mr. MacKay corresponded for daily and weekly newspapers with the last issue of The Digby Courier containing news written by Mr. MacKay. He remained keenly interested in current and also historic events. During the past few years Mr. MacKay found much enjoyment in his hobby of oil painting.

The remains rested at Jayne's Funeral Home in Digby, until Sunday when they were taken to the Hill Grove Baptist Church for services at 2 p.m. Rev. H. S. Hartlin conducted the service and interment was at Hill Grove.

Beware Unauthorized Canvassing

Reports of unauthorized canvassing on behalf of the campaign for a new Digby General Hospital have been received by the campaign director, Harry E. Thomas.

Mr. Thomas urges the citizens of the Digby area to be on their guard for persons seeking gifts who are not equipped with literature from the campaign office. The certain way of protection against such unauthorized canvassing is that each donor insist on filling out a gift subscription card and receiving a receipt from the canvasser, Mr. Thomas said.

It is unlikely that unauthorized canvassing will be widespread or will even take place again. However, it is best that everyone be aware of the danger and know the simple method of making certain, he added.

Storm Cripples Digby Area

Wet snow and high winds gusting up to 60 m.p.h. played havoc in the Digby area on Monday, completely disrupting electrical service throughout the town and surrounding countryside. By Tuesday several parts of the town had power restored on the 110 volt line. The 220 volt line had not been repaired and put back into service by Wednesday night. Linesmen from Digby County Power Board worked diligently Tuesday afternoon with efforts to restore power to Digby General Hospital. Classes were cancelled in Digby schools on Tuesday and Wednesday. Classes would be held at the Regional High on Thursday, it is understood, if power could be restored.

A total blackout of electrical and telephone service still exists on Digby Neck and Islands. Smith's Cove area, Lighthouse Road, Bay View and large sections of the town of Digby remained without power late Wednesday, although telephones are in operation.

On Digby Neck near Seawall 42 power poles and almost as many telephone poles were down. The highway on the remote Neck was littered with broken wires, insulators splintered poles and other debris. Close to the Raquette, in Digby's north end, smashed poles and tangled wires created a shambles. Thirteen poles were down in this area alone. More than 70 hydro poles fell in an area of a 10-mile radius around Digby.

Officials at the Power Board say that it will still be a few days before power can be restored to Digby Neck, and to parts of the town of Digby. Elevators at the CPR wharf in Digby were knocked out and the CPS Princess Helene was unable to load or discharge freight. Lobster storage plant of C. D. Snow Limited was also affected by the loss of power. Several thousand lobsters were doomed. Power had not been restored to this area by Wednesday night. It has been reported that several fish dealers on Digby Neck have been busy trucking their ware to Yarmouth and the French Shore for cold storage.

Late Wednesday work had not started on The Digby Courier due to lack of power. The 220 volt circuit had not been repaired, and plans to this week's paper had not been finalized by this time.

Emergency equipment was installed on Thursday morning to provide power for the elevators at the wharf. The Princess Helene has been unable to load and unload freight since Monday.

It is understood that Digby TV station Channel 6 may be off the air for a week. Power is not available in the area to service equipment.

An estimated 48 poles are down between Victoria Beach and Grandville Ferry in Annapolis County. It is not expected that electrical power will be restored to that area for more than a week. Most telephone circuits in the district are also out of order.

Annapolis County is serviced by the Nova Scotia Power Commission.

Successful Bonnet Tea

More than 100 attended the Bonnet Tea held at the Lions Club Hall on Saturday and sponsored by the Digby Lions. The hall took on a new appearance with more than three quarters of the floor space taken up with tables laid with snow white cloths and adorned with vases of spring flowers. The stage and walls were made attractive with colorful streamers and bunting.

Presiding at the attractive tea table were Mrs. Arnold McCallum and Mrs. Reginald Holdsworth. Others who assisted were Mrs. Robert Wallace, Mrs. Lew Ecker, Mrs. Mike Moses. Conveners were Mrs. Douglas Smith and Mrs. H. G. Webber.

Chief feature of the tea was the parade of Spring hats supplied by the Hat Shoppe and the Head and Toe. Modeling the hats as they gracefully walked along an imitation ramp were Mrs. Robert Bourne, Mrs. William Marshall, Mrs. Richard Baxter, Mrs. Joseph Turnbull, Mrs. David Daley and Mrs. Douglas Smith. Approximately thirty hats were on display in the parade. Mrs. J. M. Wallis was commentator.

Miss Margaret Black provided the piano music throughout the tea and as the models went on parade, Miss Black also accompanied the soloists. Mrs. David Daley, who sang Blue Skies and Dutch Garden and Miss Lila Wong who sang Easter Parade and Peter Cottontail.

Gifts were presented on behalf of the Lions to Mrs. Wallis by Mrs. Joseph Turnbull and Miss Wong and Miss Black by Mrs. Smith.

One hundred four dollars was the net proceeds from the tea.

To Empress Hotel

L. C. (Les) Parkinson, a former manager of the Cornwallis Inn, Kentville, and the Digby Phineas Hotel, has been named manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway's Empress Hotel at Victoria, B. C. Mr. Parkinson, who joined the Canadian Pacific hotel organization in 1929, and who has been system manager of food and beverage services since 1958 was also manager of the Chateau Lake Louise in the Canadian Rockies.

older change to new roles of life, the speaker said. Business executives, he told the audience, agree that what a man knows at age 25 in business is not as important as what he learns after 25. Adult education, he stated, is for everyone, the professor, the clerical and office worker, farmer, fisherman, the learned and illiterate. Mr. Langille quoted from Dr. M. M. Coady, instigator of adult education in Nova Scotia, that "the man who has ceased to learn should not be allowed to wander loose" and that if all men and women had a college education they would still need adult education.

It Isn't Our Fault

"Make our advertisers, correspondents and readers will bear with us but really it isn't our fault that no paper appeared on Thursday and it isn't our fault that we have to wait an issue of which we are particularly proud. It isn't our fault that we have to disappoint so many of our advertisers and also their customers who depend on The Digby Courier to know where to shop. It isn't our fault that along with many other people who lived in the Monday night storm area (not the election, only the weather) that this week is one we'll have to post to the loss and not profit column of our ledger."

The Monday night storm which left people without light and heat for several days also crippled the electrical lines which provide power to operate our machines. Under the circumstances we've done the best we could. When the April 11 issue of the Courier should have been on the street we either hadn't started this week's issue or maybe just hats were on display in the parade. Mrs. J. M. Wallis was commentator.

Miss Margaret Black provided the piano music throughout the tea and as the models went on parade, Miss Black also accompanied the soloists. Mrs. David Daley, who sang Blue Skies and Dutch Garden and Miss Lila Wong who sang Easter Parade and Peter Cottontail.

New Stores?

The Oddfellows Hall, a long-time landmark on the main street is being demolished. The huge wooden building, constructed in 1896, is being torn down to be replaced by a modern department store. For many years the ground floor of the building housed Digby's only movie theatre. The Bijou Dream was operated by the late E. C. Walker. This theatre was replaced some years ago by the present Capitol Theatre, and the ground floor of the Oddfellows building has been unused since the old theatre was closed.

The Oddfellows building was purchased a short time ago by Rodney Construction Co. Ltd., of Yarmouth, who, it is understood, will construct a modern department store on the site after the present structure has been torn down. It is rumored that several firms are considering the possibilities of establishing in Digby. Among the rumored prospects are Metropolitan and Zellers, and there is also talk of an expansion of the Steadman store.

SPRING COMES TO A VALLEY
Each year as winter fades the sweet zephyrs sigh in the forests to announce the coming of spring. The frost, that once was wrapped in a gown of white, slowly transforms into a mantle of green. In cohort with the warm sun and zephyrs the clouds weep life giving showers. In the air there is a virtuous odor that restores life to those trees, beasts and birds that lay dormant through the winter. Every niche and corner is bustling with life which extends from the high slopes of the mountains to the marshy banks of the river that winds through the valley.

The most noticeable changes take place in the trees and shrubs. As if by some magic they are transposed from barren, lifeless pillars into a voluminous mass of green. Another treasure that appears in spring is the bright array of diversified colors which contrasts with the almost impenetrable blanket of snow. But these first signs are only a pledge of what is to follow when spring has come.
The beasts enter the scene next and present a picture of industry and ambition as they awaken from a long hard winter. The true beauty of life envelops as the new God created individuals appear on the face of the earth.

However, the coming of spring is not fully perceived until the first bird from the migration to the south has returned. And now, with the pleasant hours of warm sun the hope for an end of winter is no longer premature because everywhere in the valley there is visible representation that a new cycle has begun.
Personally, the coming of spring can best be absorbed by journeying to the grassy slopes of the mountains and then viewing the whole countenance of the valley. Extending as far as the eye can see there is nothing but the lush pure green, broken only by ploughed fields. This is one of the most beautiful sights to me as it gives me a sense of well being.

To Hold Pre-Easter Services

Palm Sunday was observed at the morning service in the United Baptist Church at Bear River, when Rev. A. G. Hubley presented an inspiring address "Thy King Cometh Unto Thee." The sermon was divided into three headings. (1) Jesus publicly revealed Himself as the Messiah by fulfilling prophecy. (2) He revealed the kind of King He was and (3) He laid the foundation for His righteous kingdom. The selection rendered by the choir was "Ride On In Majesty."

The evening service was a continuation of The Sermon on the Mount. The central theme was "Let Your Requests Be Made Known Unto God."

Pre-Easter Services will be held in the United Baptist Church, Bear River on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Conduct Palm Sunday Service

Owing to illness, Rev. Elmer Asaph was unable to present at the United Church on Sunday. The service was conducted by three members of the congregation.

Mr. Arthur Isles led the meeting. Mr. Truman Wright read the Scripture lesson and Mr. Claire Somers prepared and gave a Palm Sunday address.

These gentlemen also took the service at 9:30 a.m. at the Clementsport United Church and Smiths Cove at 7:30 p.m.

The appreciation of the congregations was extended to these gentlemen for their generous effort in preparing on short notice such a fine Palm Sunday Service.

Boy Scout troops this week have been given their initial notice of "Operation Alert," a weekend civil defence game for older Scouts. May 25 - 26 near Kentville.
Game leader will be Assistant Provincial Commissioner R. W. Phinney, of Kentville.
Commissioner Phinney said on Wednesday Scouts from all parts of the province, in teams of four, will spend twenty hours as civil defence rescue and survival specialists doing jobs that could be made necessary as the result of an atomic explosion.
Teams will compete with each other, with adult leaders manning projects and acting as friendly or hostile agents.
Some 100 adult leaders (one for each team) will be needed commissioner Phinney said, adding that "parents and group committee men will be most welcome."

Registration deadline is March 31 and the exercise is limited to 100 teams.
Registrar is Don Hutchinson and forms which have been supplied with instructions for enrolling should be sent to Mr. Hutchinson, Boy Scouts of Canada, Box 2003, Halifax.
I'm glad for a chastening Father who does not spoil us or pamper us in any way, but corrects us when and how we need to be corrected.
In this fast world of rush ing here and there, God for bids that we should rush through prayer.

Study Unemployment For Fishermen

A special meeting for fishermen in the study of unemployment insurance benefits for fishermen was held at Champlain Motor Hotel on Saturday, April 6. This was the third such meeting held within the past few weeks. The idea originated with C. D. Snow, chairman of the fisheries committee of the Digby Board of Trade, which body sponsored the first meeting designed to bring together the fish dealers of the area to study the unemployment insurance question for fishermen. A second meeting was held on Wednesday, April 3, and Saturday night's meeting was especially to bring together the fishermen. Each of the first two meetings were chaired by C. D. Snow and the third meeting was chaired by Charles Halliburton, secretary of the Digby Board of Trade.

Attending Saturday night's meeting were the chairman, C. D. Snow and Vincent Snow, fish buyers; three local fishermen representing inshore fishermen, lobster and scallop fishermen and weir fishermen; two fisheries officers; press representative, and B. J. Prince, insurance agent, Halifax.

Mr. Prince gave a general outline of the purpose of any insurance plan in which a large group join to pay small amounts to insure that no one will suffer a great loss. Each bears the loss of another but the contributions must be such as to cover all losses or the fund goes bankrupt, said Mr. Prince. It is a fund established to pay a loss or a need but only when a loss exists or in other words benefits go only to those who have a claim. If the claim is just, the benefits should be one hundred per cent of what is needed.

Vincent Snow read a recent report on a royal commission regarding unemployment insurance and such as it referred particularly to fishermen. A new proposal of unemployment insurance for self employed fishermen submitted to the meeting by C. D. Snow was given serious study. This proposal set forth three benefits: No. 1 - Insurance to all fishermen a basic wage for actual time spent in fishing operations and preparations needed for fishing and taking care of fish for first sale to buyer (including repairs, painting, salting, etc.); No. 2 - Insurance to bona fide fishermen to insure replacement of his fishing gear or for expansion of his fishing gear, based on his ability to pay by interest free cash loans; No. 3 - Insurance to bona fide fishermen to insure all fishermen while occupied as a fisherman as to their perils of occupation, to insure them and their families' needs in case of loss of life or accident, the revenue or capability of his earning in full or part, as to the needs of himself or family.

According to the report of Mr. C. D. Snow the method of payment to the funds should be as follows -

Easter Bunny Goes To Church

We have heard of church mice and of occasional squirrels who have taken up residence in a church building. We have heard too of dogs or cats who have followed their master or mistress to church and waited quietly or have been shoed home by stern command. But never until this last Palm Sunday has it been our privilege to have a live white rabbit attend service in any of our churches. The Easter Bunny must have liked or appreciated the service for on Easter Sunday it was again in evidence having apparently obtained egress and exit by some unknown passage into the basement of the Barton Brighton church. It seated itself undisturbed in the cellar window and watched worshippers gather remaining through at least part of the service. As above noted next Sunday, Easter Sunday it was there again and the writer rather appreciates the fact of the time of year chosen to attend church and trusts later to have a picture of the Easter Bunny when a movie film is developed.

Scallopers Busy Off Westport

Digby scallop draggers have been doing amazingly well recently on newly-discovered beds off Briar Island. Sixteen boats are reported to be fishing about ten miles from Westport on beds that have not been extensively dragged for seven or eight years. Eleven of these boats are from Digby, and five are from the New Brunswick side of the Bay of Fundy. At night the draggers berth at wharves in Freeport and Westport.

Several of these boats returned to Digby on Tuesday with their catch, which ran about 1500 pounds per boat, after 15 hours dragging. It is understood that the average catch off Digby in a similar period of time would be about 300-400 pounds.

Several Digby boats dragged this area late last year, but because of weather conditions at that time they could not stay.

Although the total catch off Briar Island is reported to be larger than that on regularly-used beds, individual scallops are not as large.

Featuring Nova Scotia

Each year the Salvation Army Home League has a display at their annual meeting featuring one special province. The display this year features Nova Scotia and The Digby Courier, along with other papers, has been asked to forward a newspaper for display purposes. Along with the newspaper will also go a scallop shell and information about the Digby scallops.

The meeting begins on April 29th and all material for display is requested to be in the hands of Mrs. A. G. Mall, Corps Secretary, 9860 Bellamy Hill, Edmonton, Alberta, by April 24th.

Rebekahs Sponsor Princess

Mrs. Annie Lent was hostess to the members of Zelma Rebekah Lodge on April 8 as the Oddfellows Hall is being torn down to be replaced by a department store.

Sister Edna Turnbull, N.G., presided, and the usual order of business was carried out, although few were in attendance because of the severe snow storm. It was decided to continue holding the meetings at Mrs. Lent's until further plans could be made.

The Lodge was asked to sponsor a princess for the Scallop Queen's Dance to be held April 20th, and Miss Charlene Nickerson was selected to represent the Lodge.

Entertainment for the next meeting to be held April 22nd will be a crazy hat parade, with the members taking part.

After the closing of the meeting refreshments were served.

Telegrapher Retires

Miss Kay Weir, of 295 Davisville Ave., Toronto, has retired after a career of 35 years as a Morse telegrapher with Canadian Pacific Telecommunications.

A native of Smith's Cove, Nova Scotia, Miss Weir spent 10 years as a telegrapher with Western Union in the Maritimes before going to Toronto in 1928 to work with C.P.T. She worked in the same building, at the corner of Yonge and King Streets, from then until her retirement.

She was honored on her retirement at a party at the Royal York Hotel, where she was presented with a cheque.

Miss Weir is planning to return with her mother, Mrs. G. R. Weir, to the family home in Smith's Cove (near Digby), for the summer, where she will pursue her hobby of gardening.

May Ask For Recount

Liberal party sources indicated this week that a recount of votes may be requested in the constituency of Digby-Annapolis-Kings.

Official returns, including the service vote tabulated Saturday, gave John E. Shaffner 316 votes fewer than Finance Minister George Nowlan. The returns, confirmed Tuesday at Annapolis Royal by returning officer Wilfred D. Wetmore, gave Mr. Nowlan 16,874 votes and Mr. Shaffner 16,558. These figures include the service vote in which 911 ballots favored the Liberals and 480 the Progressive Conservatives.

Highways And Byways

During the last few pleasant days after the unusually violent storms that have beset the maritimes many persons in rural areas have been taking the opportunity to burn off old grass and brush. On Monday in particular those driving from Yarmouth to Digby and beyond, especially in the afternoon and early evening, must have seen numerous grass fires and enjoyed the not unpleasant smell of grass burning when such burning is under control and in wise hands. This procedure has become almost a ritual in places where such growth if left unburned may later in drier weather become a grave hazard and serious threat to outbuildings and farm houses surrounded by such rank growth.

Another sight to cheer the traveller is to see across Saint Mary's Bay on the Islands and lower reaches of Digby Neck a glimmer of distant lights and to reason from them that lighting and power services disrupted by the recent storm must have been restored at least in part. It is just a week since telephone and power lines went down as poles toppled and only those with a good supply of oil lamps or candles were able to light their homes during the period in which power was not available. Those too, in homes with electric motored oil furnaces were hard hit and with the telephones unusable a new sense of the value of these electric servants must have been felt by all. Fortunately those who had transistor or battery operated radios or who could borrow them. A word of tribute is in order to telephone and power line crews who losing out on looked for Easter Holidays worked right through to replace broken poles and straighten out the tangle of wires that must be attended to before the telephone and power service is fully restored. No holiday for these valiant workers on Good Friday or Easter Sunday and in many a church where services could be held prayers were voiced with deepened understanding for those who are obliged to work on the Sabbath day, so that we may have light and heat and power and communication services.

Help Hospital Fund Drive

Linesman Injured

Paul VanTassel, a linesman with the Digby County Power Board, was taken to Digby General Hospital after coming in contact with a 7,500 volt hydro line.

The accident occurred at Tiddville, on Digby Neck, Tuesday. Mr. VanTassel fell twenty feet from the pole to the ground after coming in contact with the live wire. Hospital officials said he suffered burns to his left leg and right shoulder, but his condition is reported as satisfactory.

Last weekend a linesman with the Nova Scotia Light and Power Commission came in contact with a 7,500 volt "live" wire at Granville Centre. The victim, from Halifax County, was released from Annapolis General Hospital with burns.

Noma Math. Certificates

Early this month the students of St. Patrick's Business College entered the Noma Arithmetic Project, which was conducted direct from the National Headquarters of Noma at Willow Grove, Pennsylvania.

The Noma Arithmetic Program is not a contest, it is instead a teaching aid designed to help create a desire on the part of students to strengthen their abilities in this area.

To qualify for the Noma Certificates, the students had to solve correctly all of the problems comprising the tests. After the first Test, Noma Arithmetic Certificates for 100% accuracy were awarded to: Judith Clayton, Diane DeLong, Brenda Deveau, Mildred Donnellan, Gordon Grant, Nancy Huntley, Anne Mulligan, Maureen McCormick, Wilfred Ringer, Connie Sutherland and Susan Vidito.

The winners of the second Test, with 100% accuracy were: Donald Beattie, Betty Baxter, Judith Clayton, Diane DeLong, Mildred Donnellan, Nancy Huntley, Maureen McCormick, Philip Mervin, Judith Miller, Brenda Milner, Anne Mulligan, Carol Robbins, Connie Sutherland, Rosanne Titus, Susan Vidito, Maxine Wamboldt, Karen Wood and Dianne Wentzell.

Eight of the above named students won the two certificates and thus earned the Noma Arithmetic Proficiency Certificate. They are: Judith Clayton, Diane DeLong, Mildred Donnellan, Nancy Huntley, Anne Mulligan, Maureen McCormick, Connie Sutherland and Susan Vidito.

Mr. C. S. Loughlin, Chairman of the Noma Education Committee, Halifax, has sent his congratulations to the school and to the eight students who earned the two commendable showing. He also praised the twenty-one students who did such excellent work on these projects.

Mrs. William Marshall and children, David and Robert spent a few days last week with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. M. A. MacMillan, Halifax.

Clothing Drive Success

The success of the recent Lions Club clothing drive was reported at the April business meeting of the Digby Red Cross Branch, which had shared with the Salvation Army in the results of the drive. Appreciation was expressed by Mrs. Winfield, chairman of the Red Cross Disaster Relief Committee, for this assistance toward the welfare work of her committee, and a letter of thanks was to be forwarded to the Lions Club by the branch secretary, Mrs. Elton Arnold. Mrs. Winfield reported clothing given out to two families in the Acadiaville area during the past month and also expressed her thanks for welfare knitting and sewing being done locally.

The report of the Women's Work Committee, presented by Mrs. H. M. Warne, showed the recent shipment of 250 articles of finished work to Divisional Headquarters in Halifax, including quilts, baby blankets, infants' and children's clothing and men's socks. 1,000 gauze wipes for use in the Blood Transfusion Service were also shipped at the same time. Over $80 worth of new materials to be made up by the branch had recently been received from Headquarters, comprising 18 lbs. of knitting wool, 24 lbs. of quilt batts and over 200 yds. of flannellette and cotton for sewing and quilting. In reference to the Canadian Red Cross Centenary Quilt Contest, it was decided to hold a committee meeting for the purpose of studying possible designs which might embody the three symbols of Red Cross, Red Lion and Red Sun, which together symbolize the international organization.

The report of the Ways and Means Committee, read by Mrs. Loran Hayden, showed receipts of $6.15 from tea collections for the month, and expenditures of $6.76 for repairs to sewing machine. Thanks were expressed for refreshments provided for the weekly Ten Cent Teas.

The branch President, Mrs. R. B. Lent, reported on the progress of the Red Cross campaign which, although not yet completed, seemed likely to fail to meet its quota in Digby. This was unfortunate, but was quite understandable in view of the all-important Hospital Campaign being carried on at the same time. Mrs. Lent also reported on the appreciation expressed by the Nova Scotia Division for the success of the recent Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic sponsored by the Lions Club. Mr. E. B. Tufts, Blood Donor Chairman, had received a letter of congratulation, stating that the March clinic, which showed a substantial increase over those of recent years, was among the highest held in Digby since 1948.

The meeting adjourned to enjoy the usual social hour, Mrs. Loran Hayden being the hostess for the afternoon.

Digby Recovers After Storm

Electrical service has been restored to the Digby area following last week's severe storm. By the weekend power was available in the Light-house Road-Bay View district and it is understood that communications are also restored to the Digby Neck and Islands. Linesmen have been kept exceptionally busy during daylight hours in efforts to repair broken lines.

The East Ferry fish firm of Harris & Theriault installed temporary equipment to develop power for frozen fish. They transported all fresh fish to Saultmeville for cold storage.

The CPS Princess Helene was able to load and unload cargo on Saturday for the first time since April 8. Power was not available to service elevators at the wharf.

Nearly fifty poles have been replaced in the Victoria Beach-Granville Ferry portion of Annapolis County. Power had not been restored at Victoria Beach by press time.

The Digby TV station resumed telecasting on April 16 after having been off the air for more than a week.

Completes Course

Private Malcolm C. Rice, of Digby, Nova Scotia, has successfully completed an eight-week junior non-commissioned officer course at Camp Wainwright, Alberta. The course, which consisted of field tactics, instructional techniques, first aid, national survival and general military subjects, is designed to qualify soldiers for promotion to senior ranks. He is a member of Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, stationed at Wainwright, Alberta. (N.D. photo)

Clare Reaches Quota

Clare branch of the Canadian Red Cross has gone over its quota in the 1963 campaign. This was disclosed by A. S. Hopkins, chairman for Nova Scotia division. Campaign results throughout the province have reached 80% of the objective of $208,400, Mr. Hopkins revealed. A number of the division's 150 branches, as well as many independent areas, have gone over their quotas, he said.

About This and That Thank You

A number of our readers wrote or called to tell us that they appreciated our effort last week in getting out even a four page paper under the circumstances of power disruption for several days. Considering there are homes at the time of writing this, still without electric power and telephone we feel that we were fortunate in having use of an auxiliary electrical unit. We therefore pass the appreciation of our readers on to those people who were responsible for the generating plant being made available.

We are beginning to believe a statement we heard last week: "What is between us and one hundred years ago? Electricity." Those people who last week carried pairs of water, cooked over fire places and went to the neighbors for comfortable sleeping quarters might well have thought so. There are those who worked at The Digby Courier some years back who last week might well have said "How far has the Courier advanced in the last thirty years? A few electrical miles." How we have learned to depend on that unseen force! All our advertising had been solicited, our Easter editorial written, a special Easter page planned and correspondents' copy ready. Some of this can be used this week for even though more or less out of date the message remains the same. But a great deal has to be scrapped. We've concluded that we really are not in a mechanized age at all — we're in an electrified age!

Again thanks for your notes and telephone calls of appreciation for our feeble efforts to serve you. We really didn't think you were getting seven cents worth and neither did some other people. One newsstand called to see if it were true that we were selling the copies for three cents! Figuring labor costs for that small effort we told the newsstand we would be more likely to sell a comfortable twelve page for three cents. And while we made these joking remarks we were also being mindful of the many other business people and householders who were bravely carrying on under loss and inconvenience.

Congratulations George!

For a man who has served the federal Digby-Annapolis-Kings constituency so well for so many years we can only admire the election George Nowlan for having thrown himself into the hon. furor again when an easier life after the odds of the last parliament could have been sought. He certainly must be a man either dedicated to the Conservative party or dedicated to the people in D.-A.-K. whom he serves. Although winning with a reduced majority from previous federal elections in D.-A.-K., Hon. George Nowlan is deserving of our congratulations in winning and our appreciation for his previous accomplishments on behalf of this area.

Speaking of areas we were interested to see that according to polls, Digby County showed fifty per cent wins for each candidate, Nowlan and John E. Shaffner; in Annapolis County 37 per cent of the polls were Nowlan's and 63 per cent went for Shaffner. It was in the home County of each candidate, Kings, where Mr. Nowlan continued to draw the votes with 65 per cent of the polls voting in his favor and 35 per cent for Shaffner.

But the election is over. The Liberals will be forming the government with 130 seats, Conservative 94, Social Credit 24 and N.D.P. 17. We repeat what we have previously said: "Let's get on with governing the nation." Irrespective of what caused the downfall of the last Conservative regime and the consequential election to put the Conservative government in the opposition, let us get on without retaliation, without political ambitions and govern the country for the country's sake. We know of no one who can help to do that better than Hon. George Nowlan. We are convinced that his country comes first, his own ambitions last.

Mr. MacKay Passes

As our sympathy goes out to his widow, Mrs. MacKay, Hill Grove, The Digby Courier recognizes the loss of a staunch friend and capable correspondent in the late Duncan MacKay, whose obituary was recorded in the last issue.

As late as the issue before his obituary, Mr. MacKay's correspondence was contained in The Digby Courier files and his hand writing and quality of news denied his years — an age which was only revealed to us through his obituary. We shall always remember his loyalty also to his home printing shop as he told us that for more than 40 years he had ordered Hill Grove Baptist Church printing from the printing office in Digby and would do as long as there was an office here and he did the ordering.

Always keen on local and world events, Mr. MacKay enjoyed delving into historical events. His delight in a recent hobby, oil painting, denied the age of Mr. MacKay, who always displayed a happy Christian outlook on life and an enthusiasm of much younger years.

Easter, Try It Out

This is a highly scientific era. Reason, evidence and proof must accompany every course. Value in dollars and cents or in material worth has taken a prominent place in life. What cannot be proven in the chemical laboratory, in the field of mathematics or by man's reasoning power is left on the platform of doubt. This is understandable. It is even sensible to a certain extent but it, often, leaves many doubting Thomas after the first Easter time. Events such as told in the story of the resurrection are difficult to explain by science, reason or material worth and so the story of Easter often falls on doubtful hearts today.

But there is another side to consider. What scientific discovery has ever been made without first doing a series of tests? What scientific proclamation was ever made, without first trying it out? What mathematical figure was ever assured without putting to a trial test? What reasoning was ever really concluded without a workability test?

Those who doubt the Easter story have probably never tried it out. Thomas doubted until he saw for himself. The Risen Christ had said to Thomas, "Reach hither thy finger and behold my hands, and reach hither thy hand and thrust it into my side, and be not faithless but believing." Each Easter-time, thousands throng the churches, the fields of sunset services and still many have gone away apparently doubting. Why? Because they had not lived or tried out the story they had heard. The story they heard was one of love — deep love for all mankind — but having heard the story they left it there. They did not take it with them and try it out. They did not get out into the world into the battle of life where they might share the responsibilities and concerns of other people and show love to those who need it. They did not reach hither the hand to test the resurrection story. They remained in doubt.

Another Easter dawns. Let us crowd the churches but let us not leave the Easter story there. Let us take it home with us and put it to the test by showing the concern of love for mankind as revealed in the Easter message. This will dispel all doubts.

Canadian Library Week

This week, April 6 to 13, is Canadian Library Week. It is nothing but the credit of a town the size of Digby to be without a public library although credit must go to several citizens for at least having made an effort toward that end.

We compliment Weymouth, Bear River and Sandy Cove on the fine libraries made available to readers in those villages and are always interested in hearing of the expansion. Quite frequently there are people who are willing to donate books to these libraries, believing as is true that books are meant to be read and not simply to decorate shelves.

We urge readers where libraries are available to make use of them and this goes also for students who have libraries at their disposal in schools. We urge every parent to budget weekly, monthly or yearly for good books for their own education and enjoyment and also to make good reading material available for children of the home.

This year Canadian Library Week coincides with the Salon Du Livre to be held in Montreal. This Salon, an exhibition of books, is one of the largest events of its kind held in Canada. One thing which this combination of Library Week and the exhibition suggests is the part that books can play in cementing the two main racial origins or many racial origins in Canada.

With Career Day having been held at Digby Regional High School on Friday, another thought comes to mind. That thought is the career of librarian. As D. C. Abboit, president of the Canadian Library Week Council, Inc., has written, "The work of a librarian can combine the elements of many professions. At one moment they may be acting as leaders of youth; at another as a teacher, and at still another as a stimulator of adult minds — all these, of course, in addition to their traditional duty of helping people to find what they are seeking in the vast world of books. There is an all-encompassing profession, in which opportunities are both numerous and rewarding. If Library Week attracts recruits to the profession as well as patrons to service desks and browsing rooms it will have done much for libraries in Canada."

Then, too, we would like to take the opportunity on the occasion of Library Week to congratulate locally Lady Dorothy Armstrong, Brighton, Digby Co., for her success in having completed and having had published her recent novel, "Gilded Sepulchre", as read in last week's Courier. If suggestions for a book to add to the home library are needed, here is one, so new, to add.

National Wild Life Week

April 7 - 13

"JACK MINER WEEK"

National Wild Life Week is much different than just another special week to promote the sale of some unmovable dusty merchandise. National Wild Life Week is a week proclaimed by a special act of Parliament in Ottawa on April 18, 1947. In fact it was the first Bill since Confederation to ever be passed unanimously by all the Members of the House of Commons and Members of the Canadian Senate.

The Bill has a twofold objective: One to awaken the public interest to the need of Conservation especially among the school children and the value of our bird life and other natural resources. The other objective was to create a living memorial to the late Jack Miner, Canadian Naturalist, whose conservation efforts won him world wide fame and recognition. The week chosen was the week of April 10 which was Jack Miner's birthday and was such an appropriate time of the year because the Birds are returning to Canada to nest and raise their young and all nature is bursting forth with its beauty.

It is much different than other special days or weeks because nothing is allowed to be sold, and no solicitation for funds, — strictly an educational week.

When Jack Miner died Senator T. A. Crerar who at that time was Minister of The Canadian Wild Life Service said, "I doubt if there is in any field of work in Canada anyone who has contributed more and has rendered Canada a greater service than Jack Miner."

In London, England, Sir Herbert Brent Grotian, Bart, L.D., K.C., in paying tribute to Jack Miner said, "If you wish to see Jack Miner's monument or memorial look around you."

The late Mr. J. Smart, Spout, of Canadian National Parks said, Jack Miner was indeed possibly the father of Conservation in this country."

Dr. Harrison F. Lewis, former Chief of the Canadian Wild Life Service, in April 1949 said, "The most famous name in the annals of Canadian Wild Life Conservation is that of the late Jack Miner. Jack Miner enjoyed wild creatures he thought and acted to meet their needs and he made outstanding use of his exceptional gifts to enlist several millions of people as supporters of Wild Life Conservation. Much of the present day recognition of the value of wild life preservation stems from the work of Jack Miner."

This is a week when all school teachers can talk to their class rooms, when all preachers can preach on God's great outdoors and when the public as a whole can turn their thoughts towards our Natural resources.

The storm which struck Western Nova Scotia on Monday evening brought everything to a stand still. Brier Island felt the force of the wind quite badly, although they had only a few inches of snow. What is missed most of all is the power, the Westport people say. Most everyone is back to days long ago. Kerosene lamps, carrying water by pails, pumping gas by hand, scrubbing on old fashioned boards and so on, grumbling about the work, not really appreciating the electricity until it is gone. By the time this goes to press things will be back to normal, it is thought.

To the Editor of the Courier, we who know about the power failure didn't expect any paper on Thursday, but were pleased to find one on Friday, even if small was greatly appreciated.

Clementsport Restaurant Renovated

Ed Williams' Snack Bar and store, as it was formerly known, at Clementsport, has been given a thorough renovation and newly opens today as "The Five Captains".

The walls of the former gift department have been done in an attractive combination of ranchwall and driftwood. The attractive display closets and paintings add greatly to the decor.

Eight tables, to accommodate 30 persons or for catering to small parties, are found in this department. The tables were made by Irving Amaro, Digby, who has been in charge of building maintenance at the Pines Hotel. The tables are made of formica tops resembling marble and have aluminum legs. The counters and dividers containing planters are made in harmony.

The floors are in beige and mottled brown asbestos tiles and the ceiling is white tile. The curtains in sporting pattern and harmonious shades complete the restaurant interior blend.

Attractive restrooms are new and done in pale green.

The coffee shop and light lunch booths, where it is expected the younger set will be served especially, is also redecorated in ranchwall and driftwood.

The kitchen has been newly equipped with electric fryers and grills, and chinaware has been bought to blend with the general color scheme.

PRINTER'S LINGO

O, what a crazy language printers speak! Where no word means what you think it should! A HELL BOX isn't some infernal crate, But an abode for type which is no good.

A printer's PI is not a rich dessert.

With peach or apple made delectable, A SLUG is not a punch upon the snoot.

And even BASTARD'S quite respectable!

The printer's EM is not a farmer's wife, And PEARL is not a jewel of high degree.

A LOCK-UP wouldn't hold a criminal, Nor would a CASE be worth a lawyer's fee.

A GALLEY simply means a tray for type— It's not a slave-ship sailing out of Rome.

And printers' FURNITURE would never do To furnish an apartment or a home!

Be thankful that the words he reproduces Make better sense than those our Printer uses!

Some Myths College Seniors Believe

An address at the senior class banquet, Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B. delivered by J. Reddin, Assistant Professor, Department of Business Administration, University of New Brunswick, has just come to our desk. We enjoyed reading the speech were taken with the sound wisdom in the author's words especially as directed to college students and felt our readers young and older, would enjoy the speech also. With the closing of school drawing near, we think it is even a most timely address for those of our graduates looking forward to the coming year. The address was titled "Some Myths In Which College Seniors Believe."

As you can guess, my purpose tonight is to challenge some of the ideas that you hold, particularly some of those society would like you to continue to hold. Specifically, I want to talk about some myths widely held by college seniors in this region; They are:

The "Ho, Ho, Ho" Myth
Those believing in this think that there is something inherently Christian, sound gain more power, prestige, or worthwhile in striving to income.

Sunrise Service

At Heart Memorial Church, Weymouth, an evening service was held with a goodly number of people in attendance. The new communion table ordered by the session some time ago was dedicated and used for the first time. Several potted plants and cut flowers were in evidence, including flowers in memory of David Nickerson from his parents and members of the family, and in memory of Mrs. MacNeill from her son and also in memory of Mrs. A. G. Wagner from her sons, Roy and Ralph, and families.

Other flowers also were loaned by members of the congregation and helped make beautiful the church.

The choir, under the organist, Miss Margaret Hankinson, contributed a special Easter selection and the pastor, Fred Withers, conducted the service of Holy Communion.

Very early (the service starting at 6 a.m.) on Sunday, some 21 of the Sunday School of Heart Memorial United Church gathered on the school grounds and as the sun rose conducted a brief Sunrise service. Music was provided through pre-recorded tape and scripture passages appropriate to the day were read by Donald Payson, Jane Hankinson, Florence Nickerson, Delbert Bishop and Wendy Blynn. A thoughtful Easter meditation, given by Mrs. Allan Irvine, was read. The pastor conducted the service which though held on a rather cool and chilly morning was, we believe, appreciated by all those sharing in it.

Another reason for growth is the success of Acadia students in Maritime competitions. At music festivals in Halifax and Saint John over the past years, Acadia students have won scholarships and recognition. Officials of the school were high in their praise of festivals held throughout Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and paid tribute to the vision which made these possible.

Furthermore, graduates of Acadia have shed an excellent light on the school. In both teaching and performing, they have exemplified the instruction they received while at Acadia.

Not the least of the causes for the growth rate is the fine staff of musical instructors at Acadia. Heading the list is Edwin A. Collins, F.R.C.O., Dean of the School of Music and Professor of Organ and Composition. A well-qualified staff of piano teachers is headed by Professor Felicitas Kalejs, a graduate of the Latvian State Conservatory of Music. Miss Marcelyn James, Miss Martha Russell, and Mrs. Phyllis A. McLennan also provide top-quality piano instruction. In the string department, Professor Janis Kalejs (former head of strings in the Latvian Conservatory of Music) is in charge, while in the vocal and choral department Professor Leonard Mayor has won renown for the students he has produced. Organ is also taught by Eugen F. Gmeiner, who last year came first in the North American organ competition held in Fort Wayne, Indiana.

A large number of applicants for the Acadia School of Music is expected again next term; however, due to limited facilities and accommodation, enrollment will be restricted. The great need is a new and modern fine arts building - the time for such a building being long overdue. This project is included in the forthcoming building campaign to be launched at the Acadia University Convocation in May.

had no difficulties and after a considerable time engaged in digging we discovered a large locked box. With great anxiety we struggled to open the box. After several dreary hours we managed to open it. What a surprise when we saw the contents!

With further reference to the organ selection of the School of Music, Acadia's ex-student Hall contains a $40,000 Casavant pipe organ, while with the opening of the Fred C. Manning Chapel this spring, for what met our eyes was not money, but a strange looking machine. On examining it we found it to be a machine for making counterfeit money. At the bottom was an abundance of bills.

We decided to report this to the police. We found that the money was counterfeit and Mr. Jackson was identified by an elderly man, who remembered him as a counterfeiter. Apparently he had come to our community to escape from the police and there he had died unrecognized by the people as a criminal.

Vacation is to an end now but the last few days have proved to be the most adventurous days of my life and I will never forget how I solved a forty year old mystery.

Music Class Grows

In an age which places an accent on science, one of the most exciting of success stories is that of the Acadia University School of Music. In the last four years, enrollment at the school has trebled, and there is no indication that the growth rate will slacken.

What are the reasons for this phenomenal growth? One main reason, according to Mr. Leonard Mayo, professor of vocal and choral music, is that there is a new-found interest in music. This is important, he feels, because music uplifts and broadens the moral fibre of a community or nation. It stimulates an interest in other arts, and raises the level of thinking and behaviour.

Another reason for growth is the success of Acadia students in Maritime competitions. At music festivals in Halifax and Saint John over the past years, Acadia students have won scholarships and recognition. Officials of the school were high in their praise of festivals held throughout Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and paid tribute to the vision which made these possible.

TO A SEA SHELL

Old ocean sang its song to you
So loudly and so long,
It left within the heart of you
The echo of its song.

Once, in some far-off yesterday,
You housed a bit of life
Deep in your pearly chambers,
Polished by tidal strife.

Now, though you rest against my door,
Cast far by life's long reach,
Close to my ear, I still may hear

Waves on a rocky beach.
An empty sea-shell! Yet a part
Of ocean's mystery;
You bear, recorded in your heart,
A chantey of the sea.

Myra P. Ellis,
15 Marion Place,
Everett, Mass.

Letter to the Editor

Digby Courier,
Digby, N. S.
Dear Editor,

Recently, a letter to you in this paper from "A Digby Native" appeared and I as the voice of one youth would like to answer concerning the tavern or liquor permits for Digby.

I believe that the writer was not a Christian; if so, how could the letter be written for a "yes" when following Christ we are told in the Bible to forsake all this and in most church covenants we pledge to keep liquor from our friends, relatives and acquaintances. How can we do this if we vote "yes"?

I have been in several cities and towns where a tavern and such places given permits for liquor have disgraced the areas. We want to keep Digby clean but how can the youth expect to do this when told by citizens that we want these places to go to.

I am sure the youth, or the majority of them, are praying the older citizens or they call themselves that will wake up before Digby becomes disgraced by liquor and then blame the youth for having such places when they have only themselves to blame.

The older citizens are to help us as youth to abstain from liquor, not try to encourage us in it. I am a Christian youth and I am sure others like myself do not want this tavern to be blamed on us as we try each day to live for Christ. I believe we are guilty before Almighty God if we let such things come into the town of Digby. This would only be one more sin to be attached to the sinner. I ask all youth and older citizens as well to help us keep Digby clean by voting "no" to the tavern and such liquor permits in our time for we know not the day when the Son of Man cometh.

I further believe that if the older citizens would spend a little of their money and vote that the money it takes for building taverns in such towns would build decent places of entertainment in the town of Digby for the youth they would be greatly appreciated, also such places would not be needed only for the older citizens who prefer to drink with a crowd instead of in their own dwellings. "A Digby Native", I believe, would rather see the youth drinking in shady places than for them to enjoy fellowship with other youth in places of entertainment, fit to take Christ with them in whatever they planned to do.

I ask "A Digby Native" if they would consider taking Christ to a tavern or such places where there is liquor? I am sure the Christian youth would all say with me "no" to this, as we are praying the citizens of Digby will say when it comes to voting for such taverns in our town.

Help us, the youth, to keep Digby clean.

A Christian Youth.

April 8, 1963.

Adding to "Female Onlooker's" letter of last week I am interested in asking a few questions myself and all you as taxpayers of the County of Digby should be interested in this and if so maybe you could voice your opinions too.

It was advertised in this Courier that the town of Digby ratepayers would hold a meeting before they decided on borrowing their share for the new hospital. However, there was no ratepayers' meeting held for the Digby County people as the Council thought they were capable of deciding this themselves. Why? when we pay the taxes.

Also, why not advertise in the outside papers about the tax concessions we are giving in Digby County. I am sure if companies knew that taxes would not be charged for 10 years (i.e. Weymouth Industries) that many industries would be interested in locating here.

I noticed in this paper some time ago whereby the Municipal Government was going to sell the old school houses by public tender. Can anyone tell me if these schools were sold? To whom and for how much?

Also I have a financial statement for the year (Digby County Government) and for the life of me I cannot see where the Municipal Clerk & Treasurer's salary is stated. On page 6 of financial report I see clerks & assistants salary for the year was $5,582.38 now with 3 clerk working in the office this does not leave much for Municipal Clerk & Treasurer's salary. On page 9 there is Treasurer salary provision for $1,750.00 which I imagine goes toward Municipal Clerk & Treasurer's salary, so this does not give a large salary to him. Now I do not believe for one instance that this be true and if we all get together behind the Council this will have to be made common knowledge just as the money spent on postage.

Also on page 3 of financial report under Liabilities (Bank Advances) are Accounts Payable and listed are four things which are as follows:

Digby Regional High School — $525.58.
Municipality of Halifax — $722.00.
Other — $12,958.25.

Now if someone will try and explain to me why we have everything else listed and the money allotted but when it comes to an account payable for $12,958.25 it is listed under other. Does anyone care or do they just say "What's the use"?

Also I am interested in knowing who holds the insurance on our 50 school buses and what has been paid out in the last ten years for this insurance, also where the school buses are purchased. Is it just two special garages and if so maybe these garages are big enough to give a "kick back" to the county. If this is so the auditor should list this in the financial report under "Kick Backs", or maybe this is included under "Other".

Also I agree with "Female Onlooker" that we do pay our Tax Collector a good salary. If there are laws to collect these taxes why does he not enforce them?

Also all you people who are interested in not having this form of government for Digby County should attend the ratepayers' meeting to be held April 24th at 8 p.m. in Conway and maybe this group of people could help us. There is no one who is going to be branded a rebel for being interested in his or her community or are all the people of the opinion, "What's the use"?

A Ratepayer.

April 4, 1963.

Mrs. Edith Wallis, The Digby Courier, Digby, Nova Scotia

Dear Mrs. Wallis:

I wish to register my protest against the raising of Municipal taxes in the town of Digby which we have witnessed in the past week when there is apparently no present intention to provide for the whole area of the town the most basic services. I speak, in particular, of sewer facilities.

There are areas of the town which are served by privately owned sewers, sewers for which the town has refused in the past to assume responsibility. There are areas in the town, and I live in one, which are not served by either privately owned sewers or by municipally owned sewers.

So far as I am advised my tax rate is not varied because of this and my assessment is not varied because of this, but I know that it costs me in excess of $100.00 a year to provide for proper sewage disposal from my residence.

About two weeks ago the septic tank and sewage field, which it was necessary for me to install because I wasn't provided with sewer facilities became water-logged with the result that my basement was placed in danger of flooding and any water which was used for laundry, etc., had to be dumped by hand outside.

I have never heard of any parallel case in any other town where sewers are not provided for the residential districts. Such a circumstance is, I believe, subject to expropriation by the authorities by the Department of Public Health because a thickly populated residential area is no place to have a network of privately owned cesspools and privately owned sewage fields. Located as my house is if I were to disregard the rights of other landowners in my area then the sewage from my residence would soon be flowing down the ditches and across the lawns of other ratepayers.

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation does not make money available for loans in residential areas which are not provided with a sewer system. Surely an incorporated town of the size of Digby which hopes to increase its population, as evidenced by the proposed construction of a new hospital, should provide these facilities to the home builders which will enable them to obtain assistance in construction

Clementsport Restaurant Renovated

Ed Williams' Snack Bar and store, as it was formerly known, at Clementsport, has been given a thorough renovation and newly opens today as "The Five Captains".

The walls of the former gift department have been done in an attractive combination of ranchwall and driftwood. The attractive display closets and paintings add greatly to the decor.

Eight tables, to accommodate 30 persons or for catering to small parties, are found in this department. The tables were made by Irving Amaro, Digby, who has been in charge of building maintenance at the Pines Hotel. The tables are made of formica tops resembling marble and have aluminum legs. The counters and dividers containing planters are made in harmony.

The floors are in beige and mottled brown asbestos tiles and the ceiling is white tile. The curtains in sporting pattern and harmonious shades complete the restaurant interior blend.

Attractive restrooms are new and done in pale green. The coffee shop and light lunch booths, where it is expected the younger set will be served especially, is also redecorated in ranchwall and driftwood.

A NEW Telephone Microwave Network for Western Nova Scotia is now in service

A series of 5 Microwave towers has been constructed at Bridgetown, Bayview, New Tuskot, Hebron and Oak Park which form part of the Province-wide Network for Long Distance. Radio and other modern communication requirements.

The completion of this system at a cost well over a million dollars provides a total of over 700 miles of microwave routes in Nova Scotia and literally thousands of miles of microwave telephone circuits throughout the province. These microwave radio relay towers permit large numbers of telephone messages to beam in 40-mile strides, replacing the former "40 poles-to-the-mile" concept as the mainstay of Long Distance service in Nova Scotia.

With service going into operation April 15th, new telephone circuits will be established between Halifax, Digby, Yarmouth and Barrington. Facilities will be provided for Department of National Defence purposes along with additional circuits to meet a variety of communication needs.

STUDY UNEMPLOYMENT

shall be the responsibility of the fish industry the "New Employer", and the beneficiary being the Fishing Industry, and the fish dealers being units of the Fish Industry shall pay a percentage on all fish bought by them for sale to the markets. The boats being the unit of the fishing industry or the fishermen themselves shall not have to pay into the fund whereas they are the beneficiary of the Insurance. The amount payable shall be based upon the ability of the Fish Industry and Government to pay and the need for insurance in all respects.

Benefit No. 3 shall be the responsibility of the government to make payments necessary to pay for this protection to the fishermen and their families so long as they are occupied as bona fide fishermen, as to their needs and the ability of the government to pay.

Mr. Snow's report went on to give the defects of the present unemployment insurance scheme for fishermen as follows:

1. No true employer and employee relationship.
2. Unfair payments into funds.
3. Large amount of unnecessary work for no value creating difficulties to insurance commission, fish buyers and fishermen.
4. No real protection for continued operation or expansion but to the contrary an environment of retardation and loss to all.
5. Protects the operations of all factors involved. "All phases of the industry, and an increased benefit to all."
6. The new policy shall insure that all concerned shall have the right of free trade and expansion in their industry without handicap or hindrance from each other.
7. It shall eliminate all forms of monopoly which the present policy of the government has helped to create, without them realizing what environment has been created.
8. The present environment is such that the fishermen and smaller fish dealers are being handicapped by an environment which has and shall continue to help create a monopoly system that shall force the smaller business and fishermen out of self employment and controller of their own destiny which has been their inheritance as a Canadian citizen to be free of influencing factors that can monopolize them or devour them by unfair competition.

9. The control of fishermen's books of accomplishment should be the Department of Fisheries and its employees who are in direct contact with the fishermen.

Each of the fishermen present is given an opportunity to speak on the proposal submitted by C. D. Snow said that the policy seemed good and sound but two felt that there was not sufficient representation from the fishermen at the meeting.

The subject of relocation of fishermen came up in the discussion. This it was felt was no problem to fishermen in the Digby area for the trend here has been to follow the better fishing grounds but still maintain a home in the area.

The importance of keeping records was stressed when the matter of payment of premiums, determining losses and payment of benefits were discussed.

In summing up the situation Mr. Prince complimented C. D. Snow and those who assisted in working out a plan on general principles, the details of which are yet to be worked out. The general plan, he said, looked good and of benefit to fishermen in proportion to their needs but when questioned on the matter said that in his opinion any private company would not take on the scheme without help from the government.

In the course of discussion it was noted that there were 78,171 fishermen in Canada in 1961, these were 60,505 salt fishermen and 17,666 fresh water fishermen. It was estimated that the average fisherman paid in to the present unemployment insurance scheme less than forty dollars a year, while the average draw from the fund is in the vicinity of $400.

garden on Easter morning the first rays of everlasting joy, and nothing can take from us the certainty that in the end that light will be in all our hearts, that joy our possession forever."

The Rector, the Rev. James Pike, gave a short address on the meaning of Easter. He stressed the fact of the Resurrection of Christ as an undeniable event in history. In the early church, Christians were convinced of the presence of the Risen Lord with them. It is with this firm belief, that the church has gone forward through the ages; and it is with this conviction in the Resurrection of our Lord and therefore with a firm belief in the Resurrection of all mankind, that Christians have laid to rest the bodies of their loved ones. Even in the midst of all their earthly troubles, Christians should be happy people as they look beyond this life on earth, to the life everlasting.

The church looked beautiful, being decorated by Easter lilies and other lovely flowers. Most of the flowers were given in memory of departed ones and some were donated for use at the services by Mr. Arthur Cudmore.

ship. The sermon was preached by Rev. L. R. Atkinson. Mr. Atkinson illustrated his Easter message with references to Jerusalem and scenes in the life and death of Jesus. He spent two days in the Holy City on his return from his recent trip to India. Mr. Atkinson will speak again in the Baptist Church next Sunday morning, when he will tell of some of his experiences and impressions while in India.

The male quartette sang three selections at this service.

The Easter service in the Hill Grove Baptist Church was held in the afternoon. The combined senior and junior choirs provided the special music for the occasion. The Communion of the Lord's Supper was conducted by the pastor.

being decorated by Easter lilies and other lovely flowers. Most of the flowers were given in memory of departed ones and some were donated for use at the services by Mr. Arthur Cudmore.

The Neck

Easter Sunday services were not as well attended as perhaps we might have hoped for this time of the year. The service at Centreville Bethel Church was cancelled due to neither light nor power to operate furnace or organ being available. Some of the Centreville United Church folk, along with the congregation of Zion United Church, were able to worship in the latter's building and the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed. Mr. Fred Withers, the pastor, brought a brief Easter message and the choir, under direction of assistant organist, Mrs. Hugh Morehouse, led the singing and sang an Easter anthem. In the afternoon the people of the Baptist Church at Sandy Cove, under their pastor, Rev. V. Mersereau, also worshipped in the United Church, their own church being without heating facilities because of power disruption.

On Good Friday in Zion Sandy Cove United Church the people of the village churches all met for worship in the United Church. Mrs. R. W. Sypher was organist with the choir singing a suitable anthem and leading the worship of song. Mr. Withers conducted the service and Rev. Mr. V. Mersereau brought a thoughtful message on the passage, "It Is Finished".

Next Sunday, if power is restored to the area, the churches will be again in their own buildings but should this not be possible the Baptist people will again have the use of the United Church facilities. The United Church service on Sunday next is planned for evening at seven thirty and there will also be service at Bethel Centreville at four in the afternoon.

Modest But Interesting Business

In the village of Clementsport lives Paul Geyer who gets satisfaction and pleasure from a small modest business in wrought iron. Above are two designs of attractive book ends made by Mr. Geyer. In being asked the question "What is good wrought iron and what does the term mean?" Mr. Geyer simply replied "generally it is the product of a craftsman in iron" and then continued his story of wrought iron with which he delights to work.

One usually connects wrought iron with park gates, balconies and railings of ornamental values, said Mr. Geyer but in recent times there has been a big revival and demand for this type of work since good sensible designs fit well into modern housing as doorsteps, railings, lampposts, room dividers and a multitude of other uses. Giftshops constantly clamour for little items, such as bookends, door knockers, candle holders.

Good blacksmiths come few and far between these days. Young fellows do not spend long years learning a fast dying art and hence good wrought iron, is hard to come by. There is a lot of stuff passing itself off as wrought iron, he said but all it has in common is the black paint. He cautions to look carefully for a forged article has hammer marks and the little details like forged leaves and flowers combined in a piece of art.

It will catch your eye he remarked, once you look for it. The piece is usually hand forged out of one piece or combined with others in a group.

Good doorsteps railings are shaped hot and the scrolls are bent tight and open fast, like a snail, not as a spiral does.

Cold bent railings look thin and usually fail to give the rich look.

Nothing will dress up front doorsteps as a good, well designed iron railing. The cost is not prohibitive and it will last a lifetime. I have seen good wrought iron work in other lands, 300 hundred years old and still very good for the purpose for which it was designed. It is a craft well worth preserving and passing on to our younger generations.

FAREWELL PRINCESS HELENE WELCOME PRINCESS ACADIA

Our Congratulations, Our Adieu, Our Welcome

Although there are several days until the 29th of April, when the Princess of Acadia makes her inaugural trip across the Bay of Fundy, so far as the Digby-Saint John schedule is concerned, we take the opportunity in this issue of The Digby Courier to congratulate the C.P.R. and all those who worked with the C.P.R. in making the improved Fundy service possible. By the time the next issue of the Courier appears the Princess Helene will have made her final departure through the Digby Gap and the Princess of Acadia will have had three scheduled trips completed. Our next issue will carry accounts of the reception tendered the Acadia when she arrived but the present issue, we feel, is the appropriate time to bid our adieu to an old "friend and servant", the Princess Helene, and to extend a welcome to a newcomer, the Princess of Acadia, which name in time will become as much of a byword in Digby as the Helene has during its 33 years of operation here.

In bidding adieu to the Princess Helene a feeling of nostalgia creeps over us. So much of the life of Digby has been wrapped up in the Helene. The very queenly appearance of the boat as she enters the harbour and departs gives Digby a special attraction for all will agree that the Helene has been a "pretty" boat. After 33 years, even those people who live everyday in sight of the Helene still stop to admire her as she departs and returns. Many fond memories of pleasant crossings will be held, many emotional experiences will be revived when remembering the Helene and the meetings of vacationing families who had arrived home to Digby on the ferry.

The Helene has added greatly to the economic situation in the Digby area. Many families can look with thankfulness to the Helene which was directly responsible for their livelihood. Many others can look to transportation by the Helene as being part of their business operation, although separate from it, for production of goods is useless unless it finds a quick and convenient way to reach the consumer. Materials to manufacture or sell must also come into the area and the Helene played its part in both and thereby aided in the economic situation of the area. The tourist business in Digby would not have been the same had there not been a Helene to carry the passengers to their destination.

Now we bid adieu to our long accustomed friend and servant and in step with progress we welcome the Princess of Acadia. The new boat will take the place of the Helene in all the economic values listed above but will do so with even greater efficiency than did the Helene. With the progress of the area and anticipation of even greater progress it became a necessity to make changes in the transportation system. We welcome these changes, we repeat our sincere congratulations to those responsible and express our appreciation for the progressive step which will mean so much to the future of our town and surrounding country. Our welcome to the Princess of Acadia and may she have many prosperous, successful crossings until the day way on in the future when The Digby Courier will bid an adieu to another friend and servant with the same feeling of nostalgia as accompanied the good-bye to the Helene.

While we write our farewell and welcome to the respective boats we do not forget the captain and crew of the Princess Helene who have become as much a part of Digby as those who reside here. Their friendship is highly valued by the people here and it is with pleasure that we have learned that for some time at least these familiar faces will be with us as they transfer to duty on the Acadia.

As our readers will note, the sentiments we express at this time on our own are shared by many business people, organizations and civic bodies in Digby and the countryside around. This is evident by the many who have taken the opportunity to extend best wishes and congratulations along with ourselves through the medium of the home town newspaper, another friend and servant of the people. We ask you to read their welcomes throughout our pages where you will also find appropriate stories and pictures regarding transportation on the Bay of Fundy and biographical sketches of the captain and crew members.

ADIEU HELENE!
CONGRATULATIONS!

Princess of Acadia Arrives 1:30 P.M. Monday

New Fundy Ferry Begins Run April 29

The Princess of Acadia will make her "maiden" voyage on Canadian Pacific's Bay of Fundy service run between Saint John, N. B., and Digby, on Monday, April 29, it has been announced by K. R. Perry, the company's superintendent at Saint John.

The 6,800-ton, white-hulled vessel, brought from the west coast last month, will replace the 4,000-ton Princess Helene on the 43-nautical mile run which connects the Canadian Pacific terminal at Saint John with the subsidiary Dominion Atlantic Railway here to provide through service to both Halifax and Yarmouth.

Offering spacious accommodation for passengers and room for up to 120 automobiles, the Princess of Acadia will operate on an accelerated schedule, clipping 15 minutes off the time of the Princess Helene in each direction. The schedule calls for the Acadia to leave Saint John each morning except Sunday at 10:45 a.m. and arrive Digby at 1:30 p.m. On the return voyage she leaves Digby at 5:15 p.m. and docks at Saint John at 8 p.m. All times are Atlantic Daylight Saving Time.

In announcing the inauguration of service by the speedy Princess of Acadia, Mr. Perry said that the vessel will sail from Halifax where she is now undergoing modifications in Halifax shipyard, Saturday, and arrive at her new home port in Saint John at 1 p.m. Sunday, April 28.

At Saint John the Princess of Acadia will be open for public inspection until five o'clock in the afternoon on Sunday.

Digby residents will have an opportunity to inspect the vessel when she docks here after completing her "maiden" voyage.

Civic dignitaries and business leaders in western Nova Scotia will be on hand to welcome the boat on her arrival at Digby and a special reception is being arranged for them that afternoon. It is understood. A second reception for New Brunswick officials will be held Monday evening after the Acadia's return to Saint John on completion of her first round trip.

The Princess Helene will make her last trip after 33 years on the Bay of Fundy run on Saturday. On arrival Saturday night in Saint John she will be taken out of service.

The Princess of Acadia, which operated on Canada's west coast as the Princess of Nanaimo, was specially designed for passenger-car ferry operation. At Halifax since March 21 she has undergone modifications to fit her to the Bay of Fundy service and has had her hull painted white in the manner of Canadian Pacific's Trans-Atlantic Express liners.

Send-off For Helene

Under the organization of Deputy Mayor Helen Anthony it is expected that many citizens around the area and especially children will be on hand at the CPR wharf on Saturday of this week at approximately 4:30 p.m.

The occasion is to express appreciation for service which the Princess Helene has given through the past 33 years and to give a suitable farewell to the Helene which has been a synonymous name with Digby.

Round-up Time In Digby

It was round-up time in Digby last week, and Police Chief Webster Dunn marked his brand on a stray goat, that is.

The Chief received a phone call in which a frantic voice told of a goat chasing two ladies down a street. Mr. Dunn investigated the far-fetched tale and found the story all too true. The goat was immediately arrested and placed in the custody of the town pound.

Investigate Break

V. O. Nurse Resigns

The resignation of Miss Shirley Grant, V.O.N. in Digby, was regrettably accepted at the regular meeting of the local association V.O.N. on Tuesday. The resignation becomes effective on June 25. Miss Grant said her plans were to spend a year in Europe and return to V.O.N. work in Canada after her overseas trip.

Miss Grant's report for March showed 88 nursing cases attended, 12 instructional and 35 free.

The debit balance reported by the treasurer to the end of March was $505.00. It was also reported that car expenses were becoming greater and discussion on the car ensued.

Dr. A. R. Armstrong, representative for the Digby association on the Provincial V.O.N., gave a report of the annual meeting held in Halifax. Grants, he said, had been increased and were to be allocated according to need of branches.

Nears $1,500

The Digby Kiwanis Club, which has headed the campaign in this area for eight years, has as its only goal a sincere interest to carry out extensive work in the interest of crippled children. The organization distribute seals to the municipality of Digby, and eastward as far as Annapolis Royal and Victoria Beach.

Students Present Hospital Check

At an impressive occasion before the assembly of students, Bradford Barton, on behalf of the Students Council of Digby Regional High School presented a cheque of $700 for the Digby General Hospital Building Fund. The cheque was accepted from the council president on behalf of the building fund committee by Leigh Jayne, chairman, on Tuesday afternoon at the auditorium of the D.R.H.S.

In accepting the cheque Mr. Jayne said that this was one of the finest expressions of generosity seen here in many years and he hoped the example set by the students would spur on others to contribute generously to the much needed Digby General Hospital Building Fund. In applauding the effort of the students Mr. Jayne said that he would recommend to the Hospital Board that one room be recognized as the D.R.H.S. room and in future they would add to the room by donations as they saw the needs and wanted to meet them. He said that in years to come when they are parents and grandparents the students would be able to look back with pride to the hospital to which they had donated so generously.

The cheque was turned over to Harry Thomas, official campaign manager for the D.G.H. Building Fund who also expressed appreciation for the gift from the students.

F. C. Purdy as president of the Digby General Hospital Board and as Superintendent of Schools praised the students for so splendid a gesture. He told the students that there had been many problems and discouragements to face but such generosity and thoughtfulness as that of the students is making the hospital program for the welfare of the people of this community possible. He said he was happy to know that not only their educational needs were being cared for but also their health was being cared for by the hospital program and the students would feel proud in having played such an important part in the building of a new hospital. He thanked the students on behalf of the hospital board.

The assembly was presided over by the principal of the school, C. C. MacInnis.

It was Earl Grey, donor of football's Grey Cup, who suggested that the Plains of Abraham should be preserved, as a national monument.

Urges Warm Welcome

Mayor Vernon L. Bent, in an interview with The Digby Courier, expressed great pleasure in the fact that the new ferry Princess of Acadia was beginning her regular schedule on the Saint John-Digby run at an early date in the season. His Worship felt that the new boat would bring many more tourists to the town this summer and felt the early regular trips by the Acadia and the advertising for Digby which naturally accompanies the new boat would be a boon to the economy here. This cannot help but be beneficial to all types of business within the town, the Mayor said.

In conclusion Mayor Bent said: "This is an important and historic occasion for the Town of Digby. I am urging all business houses and private citizens to show their appreciation and mark the occasion with decorations or any fine manner in which they see fit to do so."

At The Capitol

A double bill of movement with color and Cinemascope is the weekend attraction at the Capitol this Friday at 7:30 and Saturday at 2:30 and 7:30. It is difficult to classify these features as first and second, as they are both first in their particular variety. "Murder She Said" stars Margaret Ruth-erford and Arthur Kennedy and as the title indicates is of the mystery who - done - it type. "Wonders of Alladin" stars Donald O'Connor, is Arabian Nights entertainment and is in Cinemascope and color. Both films are top rate quality making a bumper bill with entertainment for everybody.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday April 29-30 and May 1st, at 7:30 nightly "King Of Kings" Lavishly produced in Technirama and Technicolor, with a cast of thousands, "King of Kings" tells a story of the life and times of Christ against a spectacular background of Roman paganism. So that all may see this once in a lifetime film the Capitol is presenting it at usual small regular admission prices. "King of Kings" lasts almost three hours, hence there will be a short intermission midway.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Miller are members of the Bear River United Baptist Church and both are active in the community.

Over 50 friends and relatives came to call. Mrs. Miller looked charming and wore a corsage of pink carnations. Mr. Miller's boutonniere was a white mum.

At last week's dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Digby held in the Hotel Champlain, a number of interesting reports were heard and discussed. The President of the Club, Mr. J. J. Brittain, presided at the meeting.

Mr. Charles McBride, General Chairman of Youth Services, reported that more than 50 applications had been received at the Digby Crippled Children's Clinic, scheduled for last Monday. It was pointed out that this is the only Clinic of its kind for crippled and handicapped children between Yarmouth and Truro. Reporting on the Easter Seals appeal, Kiwanian Joe Hattie stated that over $1300.00 had so far been received, and it was expected that this amount would increase during the next two or three weeks. This fund is used in aid of crippled and handicapped children. The Club also approved in giving assistance in the expenses involved in sending a child to Halifax for treatment.

Among other matters discussed was a proper luncheon sponsored by the Club and with other guests to be invited on board the new ferry, the Princess of Acadia. A proposed change that the Club hold noon luncheons during the summer months was given some consideration.

At this week's meeting Mr. Clayton Snow has been invited to address the Club on the subject: "Fishermen and the Unemployment Insurance."

35 Years Back

This is Chamber of Commerce Week. Thirty-five years ago, back in 1928, according to the Courier, there was a possibility that the Digby Board of Trade would be voted out of existence because of inactivity. The Board existed for the 27 previous years. It has existed for the 35 years since 1928 and during that time the Board has seen the completion of many projects.

One project before the Board for several years was to make urgent appeal along with any assistance it could give in bringing an improved Bay of Fundy ferry service here. Credit or no credit the Digby Board of Trade takes great pleasure this week in seeing their wishes materialize as evidenced in this issue of The Digby Courier.

Despite a seemingly lack of public support and interest at times one might judge from past experience that the Digby Board of Trade can look forward to reaching the century mark at least and accomplish many feats which are now not even ideas. Thirty-eight years! Wonder what the name of the Digby-Saint John ferry will be then? Or, ? ? ?

Filler

One hundred and eighteen years ago, in 1845, according to the Courier, the population of Digby was 800. Around that time, between the years 1836 and 1849, three steamers at different times plied the Bay of Fundy. The first of these was the "Royal Tar", the second the "Maid of Erin" and the third the "Fairy Queen".

The "Everyone Else Does" Myth

Those believing in this myth that the milder forms of cheating, lying and stealing may be justified on the basis that similar acts are an accepted part of society.

The world you are entering today is a glittering but insidious thing. We must acknowledge that the loss of faith in our world, our destiny, our religion, is the cloudy and dark climate in which most of North America finds itself living in today. The individual, it seems may do what he likes to further his own gain. The man of wealth owns a whole district of stum dwellings and feels no pangs of conscience for the hunger, squalor, and disease he encourages. The hucksters make outrageous claims for the product they wish to sell television corrupts the public, taste, thousands cheat on their expense accounts and income tax returns - all this with the excuse that everyone else does it. I'm afraid this is the age of the seduction of the innocent. Sometimes a clear conscience is no more than a bad memory.

Well, seniors, if you are one of these, not much I say will change things. I can only request that you will let me use the terms liar, thief and cheat if and when they apply. Our concept of what we should do with our expense accounts may have changed but the term liar is still pretty clear to me.

I must apologize to you if I have appeared a little gloomy this evening but I feel I have a lot to be gloomy about. Your life is your own however - you must find the trail - it won't be from watching others. I am reminded of a man who one day discovered that his watch was missing. He had been helping to stock the ice-house and was certain his watch had dropped from his pocket and was buried in the sawdust on the floor. With a lantern and a rake, he searched through the sawdust. He finally offered a liberal reward to anyone who would find the lost watch. Other members of the crew took turns with lanterns and rakes but the watch was not found. At noon, when the men went to lunch, a small boy slipped quietly into the ice-house. When the men returned, he had found the lost watch. The surprised owner asked how he had found it. "Well," replied the boy, "I laid down on the sawdust and kept very still, and soon I heard the watch ticking."

Well, class of '63 this might be good advice for you!

Requires 12 Stitches

Gerald E. Budd, Sea Brook, escaped possible death recently when involved in an accident on Digby Neck. It is said that when Mr. Budd noticed that his truck, loaded with pulpwood, was leaving the road on the passing side of the highway, he immediately lay down on the seat. The truck overturned three times, coming to rest in a field. It's cab was extensively damaged. Mr. Budd required twelve stitches to close a head-wound and also suffered several bruises, it is understood.

seem happier! Too many of you are going to chase for a comfortable standard of living you don't need! What is the marginal utility of successive units of $1,000? It is a Buick vs a Volkswagen for many people. It is your value system?

If you want to see how rich we are, look at the price tag on the economy car! If you want to see how stupid we are, look at car designers' attempts to produce a car that always makes last year's model seem a bit peculiar. Once upon a time people thought you were thrifty and prudent if you paid cash, now they think your credit's no good. Nowadays if you lay your cards on the table you can buy almost anything! An evening of T.V. may convince us only that the Russians have us licked on missiles but we have them licked on deodorants!

Now if you have some psychological need to think big, look big, and be widely heard I suppose you will not have listened to what I have just said and you may become one of our well known Canadians. If, however, you are striving simply because you think it is the thing to do I hope that my words may make you think again.

New "Princess" Three Times As Large

The Princess of Acadia, formerly the Canadian Pacific steamship, Princess of Nanaimo, arrived in Halifax on March 19 to prepare for duties on Canadian Pacific's Bay of Fundy service between Saint John, N.B. and Digby.

After undergoing minor modifications and annual inspection at Dosco's Halifax Shipyards the Princess replaces the smaller Princess Helene. The Helene has been on the Saint John-Digby run since 1930.

The 6,800 ton vessel, previously in service on the west coast, left Victoria, B.C. on February 28 for the 6,400 mile voyage to Halifax, via the Panama Canal.

Renamed the Princess of Acadia, in recognition of the areas from which it will operate, the CPR ship will provide improved service to visitors to the Atlantic Provinces. The larger modern vessel can carry up to 1,750 passengers and 130 automobiles, approximately triple the capacity of her predecessor.

The Princess of Acadia has been in Canadian Pacific service since 1951.

Built at the Fairfield Yards on the Clyde in Scotland, she is specifically designed for passenger and automobile service. Public spaces include a large observation room, lounges, a restaurant and a coffee bar. On two decks, offering 22,500 square feet of space she will carry her daily load of automobiles and package freight.

The new Princess has a gross registered tonnage of 6,787, an overall length of 358 feet and is 32 feet wide. Her depth moulded to the main deck is 19 feet 9 inches and her speed is 18 1/2 knots.

The vessel was originally constructed to conform with Lloyd's requirements for "Channel and Sound Services." She has six decks, one entirely for crew, two for automobiles and three for passengers. The top passenger deck serves as a sun deck.

All accommodation for the passengers, crew and "car parks" are mechanically ventilated with a supply of fresh filtered air, hot or cold as required, the temperature of the air being thermostatically controlled.

The vessel is equipped with all aids to navigation, including instruments for direction finding, automatic electric sounding, radar and ship-to-shore telephone.

It is expected that having two automobile decks will expedite loading and unloading especially in view of the high tides experienced on the Bay of Fundy.

The Princess of Acadia will maintain a schedule similar to that of the Princess Helene which made connections with Dominion Atlantic Railway trains in Nova Scotia and Canadian Pacific trains at the Saint John end.

On hand to welcome the new boat when she arrived in Halifax on March 19 was K. R. Perry, Canadian Pacific superintendent at Saint John. The Acadia will come under his jurisdiction when she enters the Bay of Fundy service.

On arrival at Halifax, the Princess of Acadia steamed up the harbor past the Royal Canadian Navy dockyard and under the towering Angus L. Macdonald Bridge on her way to drydock where she underwent annual inspection and minor modifications, fitting her for her new job.

The ship arrived in Halifax complete in every way except for her "Ship's Whistle". Her toot, familiar to West Coast residents, was originally the whistle aboard the speed queen of those waters, the Princess Victoria. It was installed during her tour of duty on the Pacific and was removed just prior to her sailing to be installed aboard the Princess Patricia, the vessel which will this year take over the Alaska cruise service Canadian Pacific offers during the summer months.

The total of federal, provincial and municipal spending on state health and welfare programs will be $3.8 billion in Canada in the coming year; there is a "statutory" or automatic increase of about $350,000,000 in such spending each year.

Bay Of Fundy Transportation

This week marks the end of the daily run of the Princess Helene across the Bay of Fundy from Saint John, N. B. to Digby. On Monday of next week a new ship, the Princess of Acadia, formerly the Princess of Nanaimo, of the west coast, will begin regular schedule in replacement of the Helene. It has been thus for a good many years - as time went on one ferry boat replaced another as age and progress both brought change a necessity. It is interesting, then, at this special time when The Digby Courier says goodbye to one boat and welcomes another to recall previous transportation facilities across the Bay. This is done by means of this article and by pictures scattered throughout this issue. Foot measurement, tonnage, style and power of ships, it will be noted have changed with the changing times.

Again referring to a back issue of The Digby Courier, particularly the 75th anniversary edition, we find that two mail, passenger and freight packets had operated constantly between Saint John, Digby and Annapolis after the settlement of the Loyalists in 1783. The "Sally", captain John Robert Turnbull, also ran at the same time. Weekly voyages were made when weather permitted. Until 1814, the "Matilda" operated on the route and after the close of war in 1815 the sloop "Hiram", captain Wiley, which was owned by William Taylor, also sailed between Digby and Saint John.

On Wednesday, July 27, 1827, the "Saint John", schooner rigged, with foresail, mainsail and jib, became the first steam driven vessel to cross the Bay of Fundy from Saint John to Digby. She made weekly trips that year between Saint John, Digby and Annapolis. In 1831 she was succeeded by the steamer "Henrietta", which was followed in 1833 by the "Maid of the Mist" and in 1834 the "Gazelle" took over the route.

In the summer of 1836 the "Royal Tar" came on the run and was the first steamer to ply between the ports of Annapolis, Digby, Saint John and Boston, Mass. She was later burned under tragic circumstances in Penobscot Bay. The "Maid of Erin" followed the "Royal Tar" and was herself followed by 1849 by the "Fairy Queen", which was skippered by Thomas Walker.

The "Pilot" came next and she ran until she was lost on Condon's Point. In 1851 the "Creole", owned by King Brothers, took over the route and continued until she was replaced in 1857 by the "Empress", which was a steamer of 800 tons, owned by Hatheway and Small. She was sold in 1871 and wrecked later that year in Penobscot Bay.

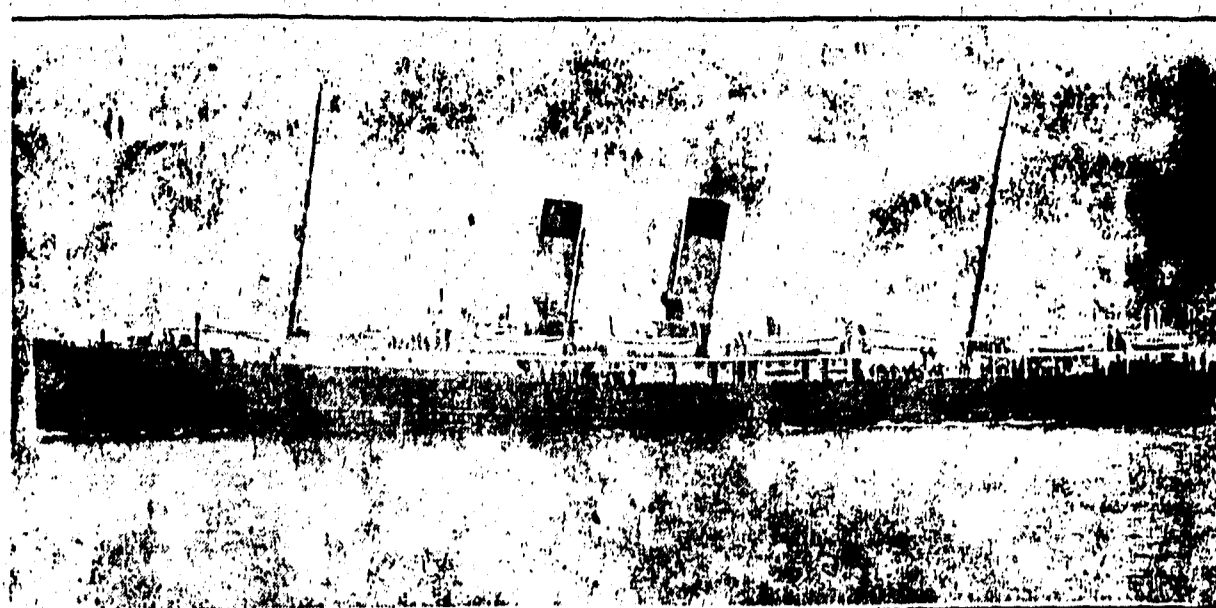

In 1865 the "Empress", a steamer of 650 tons, was built and placed on the run, continuing until 1871 when the "Scud" was purchased.

The "Scud" was a steel plated sidewheeler. She was originally built for the Dover-Calais run and was very fast, making 21 knots an hour. She was built in England and it is related that, on her way out she ran out of coal and much of her fittings had to be torn out to provide fuel to finish the trip.

The "Scud" made three trips a week from Saint John to Annapolis and Digby. Fare was $1.50 from Saint John to Digby and $2.00 to Annapolis. As did the "Empress", she connected with the Annapolis and the Western Counties Railway at Digby for Yarmouth.

The "Edgar Stuart", owned by the Fishwicks of Halifax, came on as a winter boat. Other steamers making the run from Digby port in the early days were the "Dominion" and the "Alpha", both of Yarmouth. From the Courier of January 2nd, 1885, it is learned that "Dominion" was on the run from Digby, Annapolis to Saint John at that time, making three trips a week. The steamer "Cleopatra" also ran weekly trips from Digby to Boston and the steamer, "Longfellow", made two trips a week to Bar Harbor Ferry in Maine to connect with the railway there.

In April of 1885, the "Dominion" had been transferred to Yarmouth and the "Empress" took over the run from Digby to Saint John. In June of that year, the "New Brunswick" came on between Digby, Annapolis and Boston, making one trip a week. H. B. Short was local agent for the line. By November of 1885 the Forrester. His Lordship spoke on the importance of the Sacrament in our lives, that it was not just another act of piety, but an ever present help in our daily living. Then in January, a resident priest will spend some time in England, Switzerland and Palestine before taking up his duties here in January.

Baptist Church News

A large congregation was present at the service last Sunday morning in the Baptist Church of Digby when Rev. L. R. Atkinson spoke on some of his experiences and the impressions he had received during his recent visit to India.

Representing the Canadian Baptist Overseas Missions, Mr. Atkinson spent about three months visiting Baptist churches, hospitals and schools in the territory allotted to Canadian Baptist missionary work in India. During that time he and his associate Rev. Edgar Roberts of Western Canada, held many services, conducted numerous conferences with Indian leaders and Christian workers, and gave assistance in organizing the churches there for greater evangelistic effort.

In his message Sunday morning, Mr. Atkinson spoke of the many opportunities in India for the witness of the Gospel, particularly among young people. He observed, he said, an eagerness and a hunger for the truth, and people everywhere thronged to hear a missionary preach the Word.

In the afternoon, Mr. Atkinson spoke at the Hill Grove church. Next Sunday evening he will again speak in the Baptist Church of Digby on the occasion of the Affiliation service of the W.M.S., C.G.I.T. and the Explorer groups, a service that is also open to the public. Mr. Atkinson has a large collection of colored slides of pictures he took while in India, many of them of exquisite beauty as well as of deep human interest.

Mrs. Herbert Goldsmith and daughter Ann of St. Thomas Ontario are visiting with the former's sister, Mrs. Lorne Nethercott and Mr. Nethercott.

Rev. Lorne Nethercott leaves tomorrow for Winger, Ont., where he will be taking a church service.

Capt. A. R. Conley

Roy Conley has spent 50 years at sea. He has been master of the Princess Helene since 1936. Since joining Canadian Pacific's Bay of Fundy service, in 1938 following World War I, he has made over 21,000 crossings of the Bay of Fundy between Saint John and Digby.

A true sailor, Captain Conley commenced his career under sail and served under canvass throughout World War I.

He joined Canadian Pacific's "Empress", which served the run prior to the "Helene" in 1918, serving as quarter-master and second mate until 1930, when the "Helene" came into service and he was named second mate. In 1938 he became chief officer, continuing in this position until 1946 when he was named captain.

Sod Turning Ceremony

When members and friends of Grace United Church meet on Thursday, May 2nd, at 7:00 p.m. for a sod-turning ceremony it will be a joyous occasion for many but it will be an especially welcomed occasion for others. The ceremony will mark the beginning of a long planned extension to the Grace United Church Hall.

The extension has been planned specifically to add more classrooms but other rooms such as board rooms, wash rooms and furnace rooms will be contained in the 28½ ft. width extension. Ten classrooms are expected to be added and provision made for future expansion.

Though the present church was built in 1960 it was not until 1884 that the present church hall was built and dedicated during the pastorate of Rev. W. H. Heartz. Incidentally the present parsonage was built in 1900.

Little is recorded regarding renovations or improvements on the hall during the years although the older of the adult congregation can well remember when the hall was heated by stoves instead of furnace. The need of extra classroom space was felt and seriously considered during the first years of the 2nd world war and plans and costs according to memory were laid out. However, because of war restrictions of materials and other reasons plans were not developed further. It was during the Sunday School superintendence of Mrs. Fred May that the first contributions were made toward building.

Mrs. May, who had been superintendent for 17 years had in the early years of her office found teaching in rooms divided only by curtains to be unsatisfactory. In accord with her sentiments was the late Miss Edith Letteney who had been teacher of the primary classes for many years and the late Mrs. Charles Carthy, but there were also other difficulties to be overcome. A wall had to be built on the west side to keep the water from entering the building and redecorating had to be carried out for appearance and cleanliness. Mrs. May set out to remove the curtain dividers and by means of twenty-five cent bean supports, kraut, supports and donations was able to pay debts and do necessary work and begin a fund for building purposes. The late Mrs. Jane Abbott added to the fund by $300 and anonymous donors brought the funds towards the $500 mark. By this time the Brotherhood had also made contributions to the project. While committees had been done a tremendous amount of work towards the project started many years ago and the church had renovated its kitchen the above financial endeavour lay dormant. Working on the committee during the years were various church members but one committee of recent years consisting of Elton Arnold, chairman, Oakley Turnbull and F. A. Kennedy had done extensive planning on the project.

It was during the past winter after a generous offer from Reginald Jefferson and A. L. Robinson that the project got away with increased and renewed effort. Monies have been transferred to a central building fund, donations have been received and Vincent Snow was appointed chairman of the finance committee for the project. Plans were drawn up by Clayton Snow, construction chairman, and presented to the congregation. Thursday night's sod-turning

Crew Well Known

The crew of the new Princess has been, for the most part, sailing the Bay of Fundy between New Brunswick and Nova Scotia for years and are thoroughly familiar with the famed 43-mile stretch of water. Inasmuch as the Princess makes her home port at Saint John and she overnights there, the great majority have their homes in that area. However, they are well known to many residents of Digby and the Annapolis Valley area. The Captain, A. R. Conley, is a native of Port Wadley, N. S. Crew members who are familiar to many thousands of travellers who have taken advantage of the short run between New Brunswick and Nova Scotia:

Mrs. Janet Beckwith aboard the Princess Helene since the vessel made her maiden voyage on the Bay of Fundy run, is known to thousands of travellers as just plain "Jen".

She was a mother to thousands of Canadian servicemen who travelled across the Bay during the war years and has been a nursemaid to hundreds of infants and small children who have travelled in her care.

Purser Walter G. Heard

Walter Heard's seagoing career dates back to 1924 when he joined Canadian Pacific steamships in England. Following World War II he served aboard the Empress of Australia and the Empress of France, and then in 1952 emigrated to Canada and took over the position of chief steward aboard the Princess Helene.

He was named purser in 1959.

Suggested CPR Route In 1899

With the announcement of the new boat, Princess of Acadia, to make her first run from Saint John, N. B., to Digby on Monday, April 29, 1963, prompts us to look into the files of the Digby Courier of nearly 75 years ago. There in the issue of November 29, 1899, is found the following editorial.

"The request made by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to be granted running powers over the Intercolonial from St. John to Halifax has been refused by the Department, under belief that compliance would mean a considerable loss of traffic to the Intercolonial.

On the completion of the Western Counties Railway which will be on July next, the Canadian Pacific can reach Halifax by a route much shorter and quicker than via the Intercolonial. The distance from St. John to Halifax through Moncton is 276 miles, while by Digby, through the Western Counties, it would be only 190 miles. The only disadvantage in connection with this route would be that arising from the necessary transfer of passengers and freight from railroad to steamboat and vice versa.

To cross from St. John to Digby in a suitable boat, such as the C.P.R. would place on the route, would not take more than 2½ hours, and the passage could be in either direction with almost unvarying certainty. The great saving in time, money and distance travelled, that would be thus affected, would more than compensate for any inconvenience arising out of carrying freight and passengers across the bay."

One of the benefits expected in Digby, because of the new transportation provided by Princess of Acadia, is that of bringing more tourists' cars and consequently more tourist into the town, the area, and into Nova Scotia.

Looking back to the tourist trade in Digby in 1903, it was felt at that time that the tourist left within the town about $100,000 for the summer. Among the hotels which were erected during the year were the Pines Hotel by H. B. Churchill at a cost of $28,000. The present Pines Hotel, which was built in the middle 1920's by the CPR will undoubtedly stand to benefit from the new boat which the same company puts on the run from Digby to Saint John on Monday.

The tourist industry in Digby sixty years ago was responsible for other tourist establishments being built or repaired. There was Lour Lodge, additions to the Manhattan Hotel, the Myrtle House newly furnished, Mrs. Bent's restaurant extended.

Looking through the files of some fifty years ago, it is noted that the spending per day of the tourist in Digby in August of 1909 averaged $3.00. Again nearly all the new buildings erected in the town during the year were either summer cottages owned by the villagers themselves or by those of the area whose business was catering to tourist. Among these were the Colonial Arms Hotel at Deep Brook, building of cabin colonies at Harbour View, Smith's Cove, and redecoration of the Pines Hotel, Digby.

About This and That Chamber of Commerce or Board of Trade

We are now into Chamber of Commerce Week, which is being celebrated across Canada. It is a week when special programs and events are held to bring home to all Canadians an understanding and appreciation of the role which Chambers of Commerce or Boards of Trade play in individual communities and which roles when taken collectively or in a joint effort build for the good of the nation. Of the communities in Canada 800 have either a Board of Trade or a Chamber of Commerce organization. The Boards in Digby, Bear River, Weymouth, Clare and the Islands are each an individual part of the 800. There are also regional Boards such as the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade. There are the Maritime Provinces Board of Trade and the Canada wide Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The Board of Trade in any community can be the sounding board for the business and professional men and the general residents of that community. Their voices can be made heard through the medium of the Board of Trade to local councils and provincial and federal governments. The business, professional and general residents of any area are the first to see the wants in that particular area and these wants are then transmitted through the medium of an organized group such as the Board of Trade to the powers which are capable of dealing with these wants. As far as Digby and other area Boards are concerned, this is indeed a most significant week to celebrate Chamber of Commerce Week. This area has seen for years the need of better transportation between Digby and Saint John, N. B. The people in the area could see the difficulty in trying to improve tourist trade through Digby when the only inlet and outlet of the province in the area was unable to cope with the vehicles which needed to cross the Bay. The Boards of Trade cannot take credit for putting better transportation in the area but their expressions of need and their ideas have probably been of influence and assistance to those who were in a position to supply the improved transportation of the Princess of Acadia. It was with great satisfaction that the Boards heard announced this week that the new boat replacing the Princess Helene would make her first run on the Digby-Saint John route on Monday, April 29. We cannot be sure whether the Boards of Trade had any influence on the decision of the C.P.R. to supply the new means of transportation but we can take satisfaction in the fact that the Boards of Trade, and especially the Digby Board of Trade, made an effort to help bring it to pass.

Matters which are dealt with in Boards of Trade often take long periods of time to be brought to fruition. The Digby-Saint John ferry is an example. There are many other matters for the economic and social benefit of the Digby area which can be worked on by the Boards of Trade in the area. Work on some of them is now in process. The result of today's ideas or efforts might not be seen for some years but without the effort of today the completion of any project would either be delayed or never accomplished.

Then each Board of Trade can attempt projects of shorter range or projects which need not be placed before governments or higher powers to be brought to fruition. There are simpler things involving less expense like making the community more attractive, direct on signs, sponsoring clean-up campaigns, health programs, tourist attractions, cultural programs and many other projects of purely local interest. Often the smaller attempts lead unknowingly to larger projects or accomplishments. For example, industry often locates in a community for reasons which to the ordinary person seem too insignificant to mention but yet which are important when seriously considered. Industry for example wants employees to be content and happy for most efficient work. Industry, therefore, wants to locate in a friendly town. Sounds simple. Doesn't it? Yet, it is so important.

There are so many short range or long range projects which a Board of Trade can attempt. However, the name "Board of Trade" cannot accomplish any of these projects. The Board of Trade to accomplish anything must definitely have a lot of enthusiastic members who are willing to pay their dues and willing to attend a lot of the meetings where all the ideas can be aired. See a lot of you at the next Board of Trade meeting then, Right?

Almost Florida!

Now that telephone and electrical lines have been restored and the April 8th storm forgotten we feel that we are living in a "Florida" in Digby when compared with the northern part of the province. The weekend saw children in that area building snowmen, while the children in Digby had difficulty in finding snow. Even after Saturday's steady rain in Cumberland County there still persisted about three feet of snow on side of the road along some sections of the County on Sunday. There were areas where telephone poles could still be seen uprooted and in other sections it was learned that the phones came into operation again only on Sunday morning.

Why should we complain?

Another little observance. Do thank your streets committee in the town of Digby for the fine shape in which our streets are kept. Or, take a drive through some other towns. It won't take you long to appreciate Digby streets.

A native of Saint John, Walter D. Miller first shipped aboard the Princess Helene as third engineer in 1946 following World War II service with the Royal Canadian Navy.

He became chief engineer on the Princess Helene in 1958. Mr. Miller sailed on the Princess on her trip from Victoria, B. C. to Halifax.

A Newfoundlander who started his seagoing career with the Department of Transport, John Goodwin celebrated his 21th birthday by making the maiden voyage of the Princess Helene between Saint John and Digby back in August of 1930.

He spent four years as a seaman aboard the Princess Helene before becoming quartermaster in 1934. In another four years he was appointed second officer and assumed the duties of chief officer in 1954.

During Captain Conley's absence, Mr. Goodwin has taken over from time to time as master of the Helene, and it is expected he will take command of the new Princess when Capt. Conley enters retirement later this spring.

Mr. Goodwin has been aboard the new Princess on her trip from Victoria, B. C. to Halifax.

Chief engineer Miller, points to a flotilla of Canadian Pacific coastal ships anchored in Victoria harbour. In the background is the 6,800 ton Princess of Acadia on which they sailed February 28, on a 19-day voyage to Halifax via the Panama Canal.

 Balch — Anderson
 A pretty wedding of interest took place at St. Luke's Anglican Church, Annapolis Royal at 3 p.m. Saturday, April 6, when the Rev. Rev. J. R. McMahon assisted by the brides uncle, Rev. T. R. B. Anderson of Jollimore, Halifax County, United in marriage Patricia Alice, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Anderson of Annapolis Royal and Robert Allen Balch, son of Mrs. J. Reagh of Middleton and the late Mr. Balch.

The nuptial music was played by the organist, Mrs. Hazel Morine.

During the singing of the register, Miss Jan Heighon, sang "Lord at all Times."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was a picture of loveliness in her wedding gown of sheer organza, trimmed with guipure daisies at the neckline and skirt with brush train. Her veil of tulle illusion was held in place with a wedding ring headpiece of seed pearls and guipure daisies, centered with an organza rose. Her cascade bouquet was of yellow roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Alexandra Anderson, sister of the bride, wore a yellow chiffon taffeta gown, yellow organza rose headpiece and white accessories. She carried a nosegay of white mums. Christine Anderson, youngest sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, wearing a yellow nylon dress and headpiece, with white accessories, and carried a nosegay of white mums.

Stanley Balch of Halifax, brother of the groom, was best man. John Reagh and Paul Shaffner of Middleton were ushers.

The reception was held at "Chez Leo", Alan's River, where the bride's parents received with bridal party.

The three tier wedding cake was cut in the traditional manner. The toast to the bride was proposed by Dr. J. R. Kerr. Assisting in serving the bridal party and guests were, Miss Ruth Anderson of Jollimore, Miss Elizabeth Rose and Miss Kathryn Rafuse. The guest book was in charge of Miss Marilyn Bent.

Out of town guests were from Halifax, Windsor Kentville, Middleton, Lawrenceville, Bridgetown, Lunenburg and Bridgewater.

For travelling the bride wore a suit of pink linen with natural top coat and pink and bone accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

After a honeymoon spent in New York and other cities of interest, they will make their home in Yarmouth where the groom is employed with the Canadian Finance Company.

The bride is a graduate of the Annapolis Royal Regional Academy and a certified drug clerk, having worked the past two years in her father's pharmacy, the Cornwallis Drug store.

THOUSANDS WAVE ADIEUS AND GREETINGS

Steward For Many Years

Of those who are not at present connected directly with the Canadian Pacific Steamships but who look on the change of ferries with marked interest is George Bailey, above, now a man of 93 years of age.

Mr. Bailey, though confined to bed in Saint John, N. B., still takes a keen interest in what goes on in the shipping world and especially on the Bay of Fundy run from Saint John to Digby, on which Mr. Bailey served for so many years as 2nd steward (as in the picture above) and as chief steward. Mr. Bailey not only served in the water transportation but also on the railways and hotels. He was well known in Digby and respected by all during his twenty odd years of service on the Saint John-Digby C.P.R. ferry.

Certificates of discharge belonging to "Gramps", as he has come to be known by his Saint John friends, showed that he had during his shipping years visited many parts of the world. Born at Surrey, England, in 1870, he made his first trip to Eastern ports when 17 or 18 years of age, after having trained as a boy at St. James Club. He was in the Orient during the Boxer Rising and was sailing on the seas at the time of the Boer War. Among the places visited during his shipping days were India, China, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Africa and Mediterranean ports. He travelled on passenger and mail ships and served in the capacity of steward during most of his seafaring life.

Mr. Bailey also made trips to Canada, landing at Montreal, Halifax and Saint John, and sailed on the S.S. Yarmouth from 1910 to 1916. That year he joined the "Empress" as chief steward on the Digby-Saint John route and stayed with the ship for the remainder of her run here until she was replaced by the Princess Helene in 1930. Mr. Bailey continued on the Helene until 1937 and made many friends in both the Helene ports. Among Mr. Bailey's treasures are letters of appreciation from patrons of the C.P.R. during his years of service.

Whew!

Our editorial apologies to the Hants Journal and editor Dave! Please, Mr. President, don't take it up with the N.S.W.N.A.!! There used to be a Windsor Tribune — it wasn't a name we pulled out of the air but out of the recesses of a foggy brain. At least we've warded off all the kidding we expect to get from Dave and maybe Bob Bearne.

Stewardess On "Acadia"

Mrs. Janet Beckwith, stewardess aboard the Princess of Acadia, was with the vessel made her maiden run of the Bay of Fundy in 1930. She is known to thousands of travellers as just plain "Jen".

Daleys Capture Cup

Mr. and Mrs. David Daley, with a score of 12,670, captured the DuVernet trophy in the marathon bridge play-offs at the Digby Regional High School on Monday night.

Other leaders in the marathon were: Mrs. Margaret Wyman and Mrs. Nancy Denton, score 6190; Kelsey Raymond 11310 and Raymond Graham 7080.

The trophy was won in 1961 by Mrs. Denton and Mrs. Wyman and in 1962 by Mr. and Mrs. Ira Davis.

Besides the marathon play-offs, other players enjoyed bridge at the D.R.H.S. on Monday night, sponsored by the Digby General Hospital Ladies Aid.

Prizes were won by Miss Geraldine Syda, high ladies; Basil Porter, high gentlemen; Jean Raymond, consolation ladies; and Jack Keen, gentleman.

Mrs. Dillon, president of the Hospital Aid, thanked all those who helped to make the marathon and Monday night's games a success. Approximately $130.00 was raised by the bridge for hospital purposes.

Committee for the marathon consisted of Miss Gertrude Budrow, Mrs. D. G. Black, Mrs. Earle Anderson and Mrs. James Ayer. Committee for Monday night's bridge consisted of Miss Budrow, Mrs. Garnet Neville, Mrs. D. E. Lewis and Mrs. Jack Keen, assisted by Mrs. Black and Mrs. Ayer.

Stubborn Brush Fire

Digby's fire department was called out three times Tuesday to fight a stubborn brush fire at Marshalltown.

The blaze first broke out in the morning in a clearing near the Marshalltown Road. High shifting winds caused the fire to spread and jump into heavier wooded areas and firemen were called to prevent further spread.

A forestry fire fighting unit under Walter Wood, of Brighton, also fought the fire. No homes were threatened.

Urges Communities Group Together

Joseph Bergasse, industrial promotions officer for the provincial department of trade and industry, addressed a meeting of Digby County Ratepayers' Association, held at the agricultural building, Conway, last Wednesday evening. In introducing the speaker, Victor Cardoza, M.L.A., praised the ratepayers' organization and said that this type of gathering is the only place where ratepayers of a given area can investigate, in a responsible and sensible manner, the many phases of municipal government.

Mr. Bergasse said it was essential that a committee concerned with industrial development be prepared to work for at least five years and be willing to view realistically the percentage possibilities of the success of their efforts. One of the first things to be done by a local industrial promotions committee, he said, would be to compile full statistics on their community. The committee should endeavour to eliminate, reduce and offset unfavourable conditions in the area but should never deny such data as taxes, etc., he said. Contact by local committees should be made with others who are in the same field.

Mr. Bergasse said that many local community groups concentrate on large industries and, as a result, overlook the possibility of development of small firms. He said committees should never overlook the possibilities of assisting local industries to expand.

The need for community planning and zoning regulations was stressed by the speaker. He said industry hesitates to establish in unprotected areas. It is important to plan the committee work on the basis of knowing what industry really wants rather than on what the committee thinks is required, he stated.

Mr. Bergasse stressed the need for the development of good local facilities in any effort to promote industrial development. Industry, he said, wants assurance that such things as good schools and other services exist in an area where location is under consideration. The grouping together of communities and organizations for industrial promotion was urged by the speaker, who said this eased the financial load and avoid duplication.

To be completely successful, Mr. Bergasse said, an industrial promotions program must be founded on the premise that every citizen in the area is honestly interested and will work for the development of the area.

Bishop On "Focus"

The Princess of Acadia, with her captain, A. R. Conley, C.P.R. officials and the crew, were given a royal welcome by Digby on Monday when the boat, pictured above, steamed into the harbour here for the first time.

Approximately 1,600 school students welcomed the new ship while thousands of other people were on hand to greet her from the wharf, the Cannon Bank or from the tightly packed front street. Under the supervision of Deputy Mayor Helen Anthony and Councilors Leigh Jayne and Charles Hersey, the streets were gaily decorated for the occasion. C.P.R. welcoming signs and Digby Board of Trade signs made by Mrs. J. R. McCleave were in full view of officials and passengers as they disembarked. Car horns and cheers of onlookers were supported by music provided by HMCS Cornwallis band.

After official welcome by Hon. George Nowlan, Mayor V. L. Bent, Ralph MacIntyre, president of the Digby Board of Trade; V. G. Cardoza, M.L.A.; other government and civic officials and C.P.R. personnel, the public was given privilege to board the Acadia to view her spacious quarters.

Built by Fairfields in the United Kingdom, the Acadia is ideally suited to today's travel trends. Three of her six spacious decks are equipped to handle 1,750 passengers. The Acadia has 22,500 square feet of parking spaces and two decks can accommodate 120 automobiles, while another deck is solely for the crew.

For the passengers' enjoyment the ship provides a spacious observation room, restaurant and coffee bar, which can handle 158 persons at one sitting.

The Acadia has long clean lines, uncluttered deck space, and single swept-back funnel surmounting her top deck. Her former black hull has been transformed to a gleaming white.

The Princess of Acadia, whose name was chosen as being representative of the two provinces she serves, is equipped with all modern navigational aids, these including radar, electronic direction finding apparatus and ship-to-shore telephone.

Other general particulars of the Princess of Acadia are: Length (overall), 358 feet; breadth, 62 feet; depth molded to main deck, 19 feet, nine inches; draught, 14 feet, three inches; speed, 18½ knots; power, 8,000 S.H.P.

Maintaining a schedule similar to that of the Princess Helene, which made the crossing in three hours, the Acadia will make train connections with the Dominion Atlantic Railway and with C.P.R. trains at Saint John.

The Princess of Acadia was escorted into Digby by the Department of Fisheries boat Limanda, under Captain Desiree Doucette, when greetings were exchanged by radio.

The Limanda also went as far as Digby Gap on Saturday to bid farewell to the Princess Helene, while thousands, some with tear-filled eyes, bade their farewell from the wharf and Cannon Bank. One of the touching scenes was when the Helene, by command of the captain, veered off her regular course to signal farewell to the Point Prim Light. Others were when the crew from H.M.C.S. Cornwallis fired a salute marking the end of her 33 years service on the Bay of Fundy and when the loud speaker sent forth the strains of Auld Lang Syne.

To Captain A. R. Conley, who has spent 45 years with the C.P.S. (12 on the Empress and 33 on the Helene), this was a sad farewell and in his own words, "I feel worse about leaving the Princess Helene than I do about retiring." Captain Conley, who has been to sea for 50 years, retires later this month when he plans to spend time at his cabin in Port Wade, make use of his recently purchased pleasure boat and see the world by travelling.

On the last trip on the Helene with Captain Conley was his wife, his 85 year old mother, Mrs. Mary Conley, and his 83 year old step-father, Loran Conley. Fairvale, who had also made the first Bay of Fundy trip of the Helene.

Telegrams from Prime Minister Pearson and Labor Minister MacEachen congratulated Captain Conley on his 45 years service with Canadian Pacific and as master of the Helene.

Named After Princess Helene

Mr. and Mrs. "Ted" Dakin, Digby are not likely to forget the Princess Helene even though there is a possibility that they might not sail again on the queenly ship. Neither will their daughter, Betty, who though she cannot remember it, was born on the day the Helene made her first trip across the Bay of Fundy to Digby. Consequently, Betty who is now, Mrs. Fredericks Joyce of Halifax was named Helene Elizabeth.

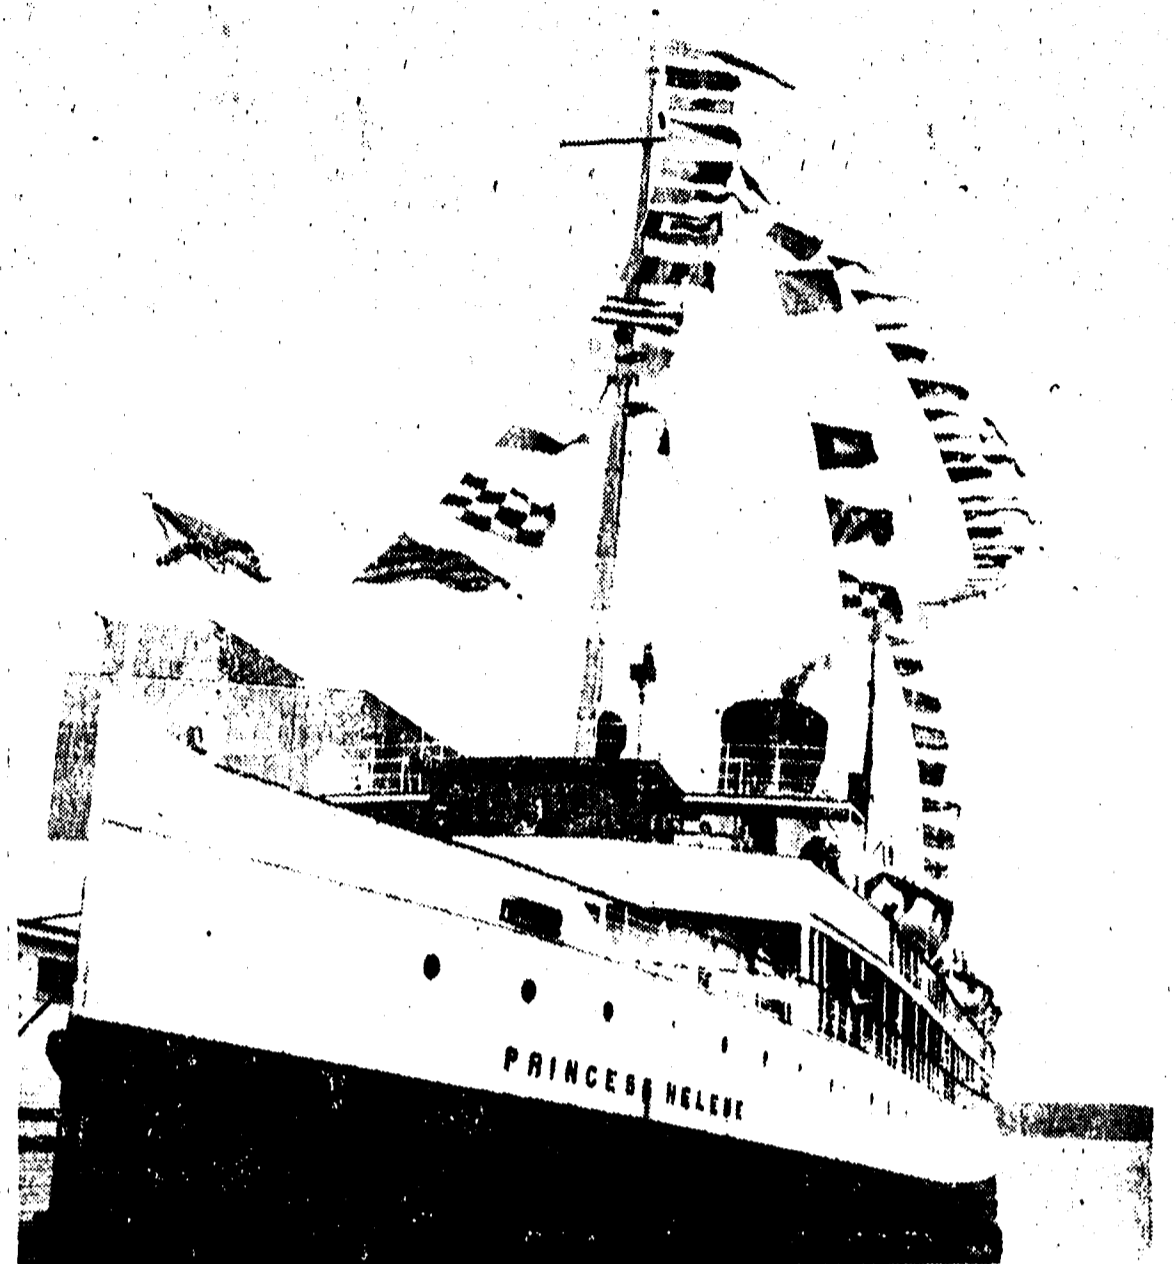

The Dakin family had other connections with the Helene at the time besides having a daughter born on the day of the Helene's inaugural trip. Mr. Dakin was an employee of the C.P.R. having started at the age of 18 after receiving his diploma in business education from St. Anne's College, Church Point. Mr. Dakin, who entered the service of the C.P.R. during the time of the C.P.S. Empress and continued through the Helene saw the Princess of Acadia dock on Monday from the office of the C.P.R. where he is ticket clerk.

Mrs. Joyce has four children: Jimmy, Sharon, Tommy and Linda whose school life prevented her from watching the Helene depart from Digby on Saturday.

Campaign Picking Up

The campaign for the new Digby General Hospital is picking up speed within the past week according to the campaign manager, Harry Thomas. In an interview with The Digby Courier, Mr. Thomas said that the response has been good from Bear River, Smith's Cove, Digby Neck and Islands where the campaign has almost been completed. They have set a fine example, he said, for other areas to follow.

Reigh Jayne, chairman of the campaign, said the response to date indicates a successful campaign. He expressed the hope that more canvassers would offer in order to put the campaign over the top, for besides generous contributions there is needed, he said, moral support and tangible help in person and money.

The CPS Princess Helene gets ready to sail from Digby on her final trip across the Bay of Fundy. The flag arrangement, according to international code, is supposed to read — "The last voyage. I have done my best."

The Yarmouth high school band will highlight a variety show to be staged at the Digby high school auditorium, Saturday in aid of the Canadian Legion Building Fund in Digby.

The Yarmouth Band, under the baton of Bandmaster Allan F. MacKinnlay, is rated as one of the top school bands in Eastern Canada. During the past five years, it has won the Eastern Army Command trophy for the best band on parade at annual inspections of Army Cadets throughout the command.

George Hersey arranged for appearance of the band. He was at one time a member of the Yarmouth Citizens Band, is a well known member of the Gateway town's Hersey clan and is an active member of the Digby Branch Canadian Legion.

Other features of the program will be the Digby Majorettes and local vocal talent.

FREIGHTER IN PORT

The Italian freighter "Uti Eatis", registered in Trieste, arrived in Digby on Monday to take on a cargo of pulpwood. The ship accompanied the new "Princess of Acadia" into the harbour and tied up alongside her at the spur pier. The name of the freighter, we understand, means "and others."

Ratepayers Meet Tonight

The executive of the Digby County Ratepayers' Association will hold a general meeting to reconsider a brief asking Digby Municipal Council to provide the association with a detailed account of municipal finance.

The brief, which was to be presented at the May meetings of the council, precipitated lengthy and heated discussion at last Wednesday evening's Ratepayers Association meeting. It would call upon the council to provide the association with facts concerning tax arrears and the names of all persons in the municipality in arrears; the names of all persons arrested for failure to pay taxes and other details concerning taxes and arrears.

The brief also sought information concerning purchases made by the municipality of such items as school buses and other motor vehicles. Full information was sought on insurance held by the municipality, the municipal school board and other agencies or boards of the municipality.

Also requested was information on all property owned by the municipality; their property assessed in the municipality and what taxes are owing on their property. A breakdown of figures of accounts payable in the annual statement of the municipality was to be sought, as were full details of the salary paid the municipal clerk for all positions held by the official.

The brief requested information concerning recent sales by tender of unused school buildings in the municipality and on purchases of tires, fuel oil and other supplies used by the municipality and municipal school board. The names of all persons or firms receiving amounts of more than $500 from the municipality were also to be sought by the brief.

Heated discussion followed the brief and the ending of the brief was amended to request that the information supplied would be sure to go to the association.

When a vote was called on the question of adopting the brief it was discovered that only 16 of the overflowed audience were actually paid members of the association. A recess was called to give others present an opportunity to secure membership cards. Following the recess the vote was put through with five dissenting.

Methods of tax collections in the municipality were high-

Chosen Scallop Queen

Child Injured

Nine-year-old Dorna Killam suffered a broken leg and other injuries when a car, said to be driven by David Leonard, struck the little girl in Conway.

Dorna, who lives with Mr. and Mrs. Olyn Sproule, Conway, was on her way to school. Mr. Leonard also was enroute to Annapolis Royal, where he teaches high school.

Dorna is a patient in the Digby General Hospital.

ly criticised at the meeting. Eugene Morrissey, of Weymouth, said that influential taxpayers in arrears were getting preferred treatment while other taxpayers, less in arrears had on occasion been jailed because of their failure to pay. He urged that a tax collector, with pay, be appointed to collect tax arrears without influence or interference from the council. The present system, with the municipal clerk as tax collector without salary, and an assistant who is paid, is unsatisfactory, he said.

At the meeting to be held tonight Harry Thomas, official campaign manager for the new Digby General Hospital Building Fund, will be present, and will deal with industrial development. It is most likely that Mr. Thomas will also speak concerning the proposed new hospital.

On May 1st, 1913, the Rev. A. Daniels, a Methodist minister in Bear River, married Miss Hildred Isles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Isles, Bear River, and Guy Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas, also of Bear River. On Wednesday of this week Mr. and Mrs. Guy Thomas celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary when friends and relatives arrived from parts of Nova Scotia and U.S.A. to help them celebrate.

Mrs. Thomas was born in West Dalhousie and moved to Bear River as a child. She and Mr. Thomas were married at her home in Bear River and recalls now the long white dress with dainty embroidery, she wore for the occasion. Her long white veil reached to the floor and was caught at the head with flowers. They had no attendants.

Most of their married lives Mr. and Mrs. Thomas spent in Bear River on the farm but moved to Marshalltown 20 years ago as superintendent and assistant at the Municipal Home. It is expected that they will retire from the Home shortly and live at their home in Joggin Bridge, which they purchased some eight years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas have three children: a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Ritchie, Vancouver; sons Lester, at Halifax, and Earl, at Joggin Bridge. They have 7 grandchildren and 3 great grandchildren. They also have Arthur Dunn, who lived with them for 12 or 13 years before entering the service and to whom they are Mom and Dad and to whose children they are recognized as grandparents.

Present Missionary Offering

An impressive service was held at Grace United Church on Sunday morning when the C.G.I.T., Explorers and Messengers presented their missionary offering to the M & M fund of the church. Taking part in the service were Misses Janet Hawkins, Gail VanTassel and Karan Jayne, C.G.I.T.; Connie Adams, Mary Hawkins and Jeanette Cornwell, Explorers; Wendy Hazelton, Susan Turnbull and Eric Milberry, Messengers. The groups met in a body accompanied by their leaders, Mrs. R. H. Hughes, C.G.I.T.; Mrs. Bryson Denton, Explorers, and Mrs. Richard Milberry, Messengers. Receiving the offering were Elton Arnold, of the M & M, and Gerald Hoare, chairman of the Christian Education Committee. The service was led by Rev. R. H. Hughes, who led in a dedicatory and missionary prayer.

A special missionary sermon was preached by Mr. Hughes. He said that Jesus gave two commands — Tarry in Jerusalem until endued with power from on high and go ye, therefore, and preach all nations. To go without tarrying would be in vain, Mr. Hughes said, and to tarry without going would be futile. The church's mission and pentecost are not separated but are one and the same.

Mr. Hughes continued his sermon in stating that the life and pulse of the church is its missionary zeal. If its spiritual life is cold, the missionary effort declines. He also said that mission at home and mission overseas are not two separate identities but are one. We start home, he said, but we do not stay home. The key to the missionary problem at home and overseas is to have the church members recognize the part the Holy Spirit plays in the whole missionary program.

The choir rendered the anthem "Peace I Leave With Thee" with Miss Margaret Black at the organ and Elton Arnold director. Mrs. J. M. Wallis sang the solo part.

Cactus Gives Generous Blooms

Mrs. Hantford Marshall has a Christmas cactus which is more than generous with its blooms. The plant was in full bloom from November, 1962, until the middle of March, 1963. When the last blossom had gone in March, Mrs. Marshall gently put the hard working cactus to rest on the second floor of her home. After about two weeks she looked at the cactus and found it full of buds. Now on April 22 it has 12 blooms and 26 buds ready to bloom.

Mrs. Marshall wants to know if any one can beat that record. When visiting Mrs. William Cossaboom in Port Maitland she found a cactus at that home in full bloom and Mrs. Arnold Marshall has had several blooms (one at a time) on a cactus plant but she hasn't found anyone who has a cactus to top her own in blooms.

The Department of Fisheries boat, the Limanda, under Captain Desires Doucette, attended the Princess Helene to the Gap on Saturday with her code flags spelling out the words "Well Done Helene". Again on Monday the Limanda went beyond the Gap and escorted the Princess of Acadia to the wharf. This time the code flags spelled out "Welcome, Digby, 1963".

The party, consisting of the Digby fisheries department personnel, Board of Trade President, Mayor V. L. Bent, Mrs. Bent and the town councillors, wives and families, V. G. Cardoza, MLA, and Mrs. Cardoza, was arranged by Glenn Smith, of the Department of Fisheries, Digby. Some of those on board the Limanda were, above, left to right, Town Councillor Bruce Baxter, Mrs. Baxter, Ralph MacIntyre, President of the Digby Board of Trade, Leigh Jayne, chairman of Princess of Acadia Day for the town, Allan Harris, customs officer and Arnold McCallum, President of Digby Lions.

Flares and salutes were sent to both the Helene and the Acadia and Mayor V. L. Bent (above), V. G. Cardoza, MLA, Ralph MacIntyre, Board of Trade President, and Glenn Smith sent farewell and welcome messages respectively. As the Limanda sailed by the CPR wharf signs of welcome to the new boat could be seen, including two from the Digby Board of Trade made by Mrs. J. R. McCleave and the C.P.R. sign which read "Welcome Sister Princess".

Captain Conley of the Helene and the Princess of Acadia joined overwhelmingly with the people of Digby in expressing sentiments on both occasions, the Helene farewell and the Acadia welcome. The captain, by slow speed, gave spectators ample time to view the Helene's last sail from Digby, he took time to go near Point Prim to salute the Light and then with all the old boat could do went full speed ahead to the Saint John port.

Irish Moss Season June

Under the regulations recently approved by the Provincial Government, the open season on the harvesting of Irish Moss in the District of Clare, from the Yarmouth County Line to Barton in Digby County, will be from June 1 to November 30.

The Department of Lands and Forests, which administers these regulations, also announced that the shoring of the Counties of Yarmouth and Shelburne will also be declared open during this period. In all other areas of the province the season will extend from July 1 to December 31.

Lands and Forests Minister E. D. Halliburton said the season was fixed to allow the plant to become more mature before harvesting which gives a larger total crop and a better quality of extract later in the season. This will allow the extract to improve in viscosity and gel strength.

For some time the Government has been approached by those who gather moss as well as buyers that there be a closed season until the plant is ready to harvest.

During winter, storms loosen and wash away the majority of mature fronds while growth of new and younger fronds is at a minimum. With increasing daylight and gradual warming of the sea water in spring and early summer the rate of growth increases and plants grow rapidly.

Plants are best harvested when full grown — the fronds then are larger and heavier and yield a better harvest. In Nova Scotia waters the quality and quantity of moss is best in July and August.

Irish Moss is a small perennial seaweed growing attached to rock near low water level or beyond it. Moss is sold by the collectors, either wet or dry, according to the region and the buyer.

The moss is best gathered by raking, either from a skiff or dory, or possibly from the shore itself. Much of the seaweed gathered in Nova Scotia is used in food substances, toothpaste, medicines or other pharmaceuticals.

"For this reason it is important that care be taken at all stages of harvesting, drying and storage."

"There is already a regulation in force which prohibits moss from being scraped from rocks and ledges," Mr. Halliburton said. If the harvester tears away whole plants or damages the holdfast that clings to the rock, the supply of moss will be reduced for several years.

"The shores of Nova Scotia support a heavy growth of seaweeds, several of which have present commercial value. It is incumbent on those persons in the industry to co-operate in increasing the production and ensuring the conservation of this lucrative shore-line harvest."

About This and That Municipal Council

Digby Municipal Council will be sitting in Spring session beginning May 6. We repeat our compliments to a sincere, earnest and dedicated group of councillors and despite recent letters to the Editor of the Courier we urge the citizens of the Digby Municipality to sit-in on council sessions. We have never seen anyone given anything but a warm and friendly welcome at the Digby Municipal Council sessions and we are sure that anyone who goes with an unprejudiced grievance, with constructive criticism or with a word of praise, maybe, will be received with the usual friendly attention. We have great respect and admiration for those who sit on the municipal councils. Their problems, their responsibility (at least money wise) is often greater than that of the smaller towns and quite frequently those people who are called upon to bear the responsibility do so because of their dedication to a cause or need and not because they feel qualified either education wise or self-confidence wise. They need our sympathetic understanding and assistance in their position. We feel sure they will accept such in all kindness for by the number of councillors elected by acclamation we judge it is a seat not sought after so much as one which is filled from a sense of duty whether or not this is the best motive for filling council seats.

We urge you to go to the municipal council sessions without malice and find out the workings of the municipal administration. This is the best way to clear up misunderstandings or to set aright anything which might be found to be done less efficiently than might be done. These councillors, as we have intimated above, do not pretend to be experts but operate, we judge, in the manner which to them seems best at the time.

One thing should be remembered. Business of a municipal council is laid on before the session begins. A Municipal Council session is not a meeting of a little club. It is big business. It must be run in a business-like manner and according to schedule, therefore, it cannot be expected that any ordinary person walking in to listen can be invited on the spot to speak or take up time scheduled for another. Of necessity a program or agenda must be followed as nearly as possible and anyone who wishes to bring something to the council, we feel, should use a business method and ask permission beforehand. This is not only parliamentary procedure, good management, but also courtesy.

To have attended a recent ratepayers meeting, to have read letters to the editor recently would make us fear that there is some dissatisfaction whether or not the dissatisfaction is warranted. We repeat that nothing breeds dissatisfaction so much as lack of correct information. Attending municipal council sessions when possible will clear up much misunderstanding. To have full facts of the council sessions published, especially the financial reports, is another method of keeping ratepayers and citizens in general well informed.

Speaking of the latter method of imparting correct information we wish to correct a statement made at a recent ratepayers meeting in reference to this newspaper. It was stated by a member of the Ratepayers Association who is also a member of the Digby Municipal Council that it had cost the Digby Municipal Council $800 to publish the municipal reports in The Digby Courier and that was why this particular councillor advised the council to cease publishing them. Evidently, this councillor was misinformed and for the benefit of the Digby municipal ratepayers we wish to say that at a glance and in a hurry the advertising ledger of The Digby Courier shows that the highest individual advertising item for the Digby Municipality in 1959 was $276.50; 1961, was $245.70; 1962 was $180.60 and 1963 was $168.00. These would be for reports from the previous year. These are far from the $800 reported at the recent ratepayers meeting. The fact that the Courier used to give a reduced rate in publishing the report when done in full years ago was not mentioned either. We mention this just to set the record straight and with all due respect to the warden and municipal clerk, whom we know did not issue the above figure.

Attend the Digby Municipal Council at its session in May but be sure to attend it with a desire to construct and not destroy, with a desire to do what is best for the Municipality of Digby.

Just Reminders

Several things have come to mind which we feel we should pass on as reminders to you but space will not permit editorializing on them at present.

The first is that the Salvation Army Red Shield Drive is now on. We remind you that the Salvation Army has carried on its ministry of mercy, carrying the gospel to areas of poverty, suffering, disease and ignorance. In less than 100 years it has given spiritual and material aid in 86 countries of the world. Think of these things when you are asked to donate.

The second reminder is that it is Clean-Up Time. We note the Women's Institutes are making an all-out campaign against highway untidiness. We join with them in their highway program and further urge the residents of both town and country to clean-up, paint-up and brighten-up your premises. A brighten-up campaign is good for the morale as well as an attraction for tourists. And while we are on the subject we notice one town providing free trucking to residents for the clean-up campaign.

Thirdly, in your fun and excitement or enthusiasm of cleaning up do not forget that Fires Are Dangerous. They are dangerous on two scores in relation to the clean-up campaign actually. Rubbish left not cleaned up has a tendency to start fires and grass fires started in the clean-up enthusiasm are also dangerous if not set with care. Be watchful. Further to the latter comment, consider whether grass fires are even advantageous to the clean-up, brighten-up campaign. Last year's vegetation which is left over is changed by chemical action into humus which is so necessary for good vegetation this present year. Why destroy the very substance we need for that humus? Think about it and have a richer, greener looking lawn.

Navy Week

The Navy League of Canada, one of Canada's oldest patriotic organizations, was founded in 1895 with its objectives including love of God, Crown and Country. One of its projects was the establishment of the Sea Cadets in Canada in 1902. The Sea Cadets has become one of Canada's outstanding specialized Youth Training programs and now consists of more than 200 Corps throughout the country. One of these is in Digby.

Another project of the Navy League, in partnership with the Royal Canadian Navy, is that of sponsoring Navy Week, the week being observed this year May 4 to 11.

Navy Week is one week in each year when Canadians from coast to coast are urged to pay grateful tribute to those who have served and those now serving Canada at sea. During this week it is fit and proper that a nation of free men and women give well-deserved honour and recognition to the patriotic and victorious achievements of its men of the sea. It is the week for Canadians to rededicate themselves to those principles of freedom and self-government which they cherish. It is a week in which grateful citizens should salute their Royal Canadian Navy and make sure that it is adequate to fulfill its contribution to our national security.

The Royal Canadian Navy consists of 21,500 officers and men, over sixty warships and auxiliary craft. Every day of the year, some of these ships are at sea to assist in providing the safeguard upon which we depend. In addition, the Navy is supported by the officers and men of the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve, who voluntarily train in 21 Divisions across Canada.

Here in Digby with the H.M.C.S. Cornwallis Naval Base before our eyes and the uniformed Cadets seen making their way to training courses at Cornwallis, it would be difficult not to think of the Navy. We admire the men who serve at Cornwallis for their fine personalities, their participation in the civic life of the communities around, their friendship and the orderliness in which they conduct themselves. All too often, because the Navy is so familiarly before us, we forget to consider why these people are based at Cornwallis, why they are being trained and what the Canadian Navy really means to us. It is our Royal Canadian Navy, working with other Navies of the Free World, that strive to keep the highways of the sea open for the use of all countries and people at sea on their lawful occasions. Canada has the largest coast line to defend of any of the NATO nations.

Since the conclusion of World War II and since the formation of NATO, the Royal Canadian Navy has kept pace with the demands placed upon it. Today it plays an integral part with NATO as an anti-submarine force. It is from under the sea that we may expect the greatest danger because of the introduction of nuclear, missile-powered submarines. Such a state of readiness as exists with the Royal Canadian Navy is an integral part of the preservation of the freedom for which we fought in two world wars.

A Strange People

We yelled, we hollered, we pestered, we fumed and, alas, whether or not the demonstrations we put on had anything to do with it, we got a new boat for the Digby-Saint John run. We got a bigger boat, a boat which will be able to cope with the increased traffic, vehicle wise, across the Bay. We are appreciative and happy about the progressive step, yet with the appreciativeness and happiness, we had never heard of so many lonely people because of an inanimate object as we heard on Saturday afternoon. The Princess Helene, instead of inanimate, had become animate and a part of the lives of the people in Digby. Not only the people in Digby but the crew, too, expressed regret at leaving the Helene, although they, too, know that we cannot stand still with progress moving all around us. The affection which the captain and crew had for Her, the Princess Helene, can be summed up in a sentence by Captain Conley, "I don't feel as badly about retiring as I do in leaving the Helene."

Now the Princess of Acadia is with us. We are proud, we are happy, we are appreciative. Let us cast our affections on her. Let us talk Acadia, write Acadia and help to advertise her so that she can perform the service for which she is intended on this Saint John-Digby, Bay of Fundy run. She needs sentimental feelings but she also needs some earnest work in shouting Acadia and Digby if she is to do for Digby what the Digby people want her to do.

We are a strange people. We'll likely be feeling lonely for the Acadia some day.

It Could Be Digby

Before commenting further we want to commend the president of the Digby Board of Trade for putting out the informative and appealing letter last week on behalf of the Board and in commemoration of Chamber of Commerce Week. We also recognize the place mats in restaurants and other small recognitions of Chamber of Commerce Week by the Digby Board.

Nevertheless, we think a couple of extracts from the Windsor Tribune and the Progress-Enterprise are appropriate right now. Read them and imagine they were written in Digby.

This extract from an editorial in the Windsor Tribune — "Such things are not attained however, by talking about them. They call for work, action and perseverance. First we need more members in the Board of Trade and then we need attendance at the meetings for the exchange of ideas, etc. If we get sufficient workers other things will fall into line."

This from an editorial in the Progress-Enterprise, Lunenburg —

"In brief the whole answer can be wrapped up in a few words. 'LET'S DO A BETTER JOB OF SELLING LUNENBURG.' Just about the best place to air grievances and state opinions on this subject is at a Board of Trade meeting, and not on street corners, barber shops or a two minute talk in the back of a store."

This 'Leave it to Joe attitude' isn't good. Last Thursday night, at the monthly meeting of the Board there were just a few retailers attending . . . the balance were fish plant executives and other employees of various industries.

By general agreement it was one of the better and more interesting meetings of the year because a number of people stated their views on a wide variety of subjects, most of which were closely connected with town development. But it should be made clear that if the merchants won't carry their own ball, they can't expect some one else to do so.

A good example is the need for better parking and traffic control in Lunenburg. A man who has a key position in an industrial plant couldn't care less if shoppers from Chester, Western Shore or Riverport can park their cars easily or not. His prime concern may be with fish production, fish landings or whether refit work on a dragger is ahead of schedule.

The people who should be working and planning to meet this problem are the retail merchants. Better attendance at the Board meetings would be one place to start.

Complacency is one word in the dictionary that may have little meaning to some business men but it is present here and when some do realize what the word really means it may be too late."

What say? Don't they hit home?

Notice Of Thanks

The Mayor and Council of the Town of Digby thank all who helped so fully in the festivities in our town on the occasion of the departure of the Princess Helene and the first trip of Princess of Acadia. The turn-out was most gratifying.

FOR HOME AND COUNTRY

The 34th Anniversary of the Mite Society was held in the Mite Building Thursday evening April 18th with a good attendance where the following officers were elected: Pres., Mrs. Lucie Sanford, 1st. Vice, Jeanne Pierce, 2nd. Vice, Mrs. Thelma Jefferson, Secretary treasurer, Mrs. Alice Trimmer. The treasurer reported a very successful year with donations made to the Bear River East Sunday school, the March of Dimes, and Bear River Community Christmas Tree. The major project realized for the year was a new oil stove for the parsonage. Several cards, gifts, cheer boxes and flowers were sent out as well as baby blankets to new mothers. Several miscellaneous showers were held in the Mite Building during the year and the building also loaned to the B.Y.P.U., the 4th Club, and to Missionary Society on different occasions.

The retiring President, Mrs. Jeanne Pierce, read an interesting history of the Bear River East church which had been written by the late Mrs. Charles Van Buskirk.

The beautifully decorated Anniversary cake was made by Mrs. Gladys Wheelhouse. Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Gladys Fraser, Mrs. Roberta Trimmer and Mrs. Lucie Sanford.

News From Bear River Baptist

Rev. A. G. Hubley conducted the regular services on Sunday, April 28, in the United Baptist Church, Bear River. The text for the morning address was found in Jer. 33.3 "Prayer and Its Promise" Those present were reminded that prayer is a command by God. There was also the assurance that God would answer our prayers in such a way that is possible only with God.

The message in the evening was taken from Matthew with special emphasis on "Fasting Called Apart by the Holy Spirit," as outlined in the Sermon on the Mount.

The Young People's Choir rendered special music at the evening service.

THUNDER STRIKES TWO SUCCESSIVE NIGHTS

(History of the Bear River East Church as written by the late Mrs. Charles Van Buskirk, a member of the Methodist Church)

On the grounds of the old log school house which was abandoned for the new one opened in 1870, which still stands, the Union church was built and opened for public worship. It was built for the Methodists and Baptists or any other Christian service when the formers were not using it. The by-laws were made up by six Trustees, three Methodists and three Baptist or adherents of both. A secretary was appointed, Mr. Hardy Robinson, who has since passed away, and Mr. Ralph Douglas is the present secretary.

The first ministers to preach in this hall were Mr. Craig, Methodist and Mr. Tingley, Baptist, who each held a Sunday service once a month and a weekly Tuesday night prayer meeting. The Sunday school was started in the spring and as you know is still going strong.

A few years after the church was opened, a thunder storm one night in July wrecked the back of the building and the next night another storm wrecked the front of it, but it was soon repaired and in the back where there had been one window, two were put in, which made it much better.

When Mr. Noble Sanford passed away several years ago he left $300.00 to be used for repairs to the church, which has been used for that purpose and it was then dedicated as a church.

Sunday evening service every two weeks and a prayer meeting one Tuesday and B.Y.P.U. the other. The business of the Union Hall was conducted by six Trustees and a Secretary. Mr. Hardy Robinson and Mr. Arthur Jefferson cut the first tree to be used for the Union Hall. Mr. Trimmer of Clementsvalle gave the timber and Mr. Maurice Zwicker sawed it in his mill.

C.G.I.T. Affiliates

A large congregation gathered at the Baptist Church of Digby last Sunday night for the affiliation service of the Women's Missionary Society, the Canadian Girls in Training, and the Explorer groups of the church. The meeting was under the direction of Mrs. Hugh Vincent, president of the W.M.S. Miss Gloria Joudrey led the worship service.

A welcome into affiliation with the W.M.S. was given by Mrs. Vincent to members of the C.G.I.T. with the presentation of certificates. The affiliation ceremony of the Explorer group was led by Gail Neville, Chief Explorer, and Mrs. Paul Snow, leader of the group. The C.G.I.T. formed the choir for the service, with Mrs. Jean Olsen as organist.

A stirring address was given by Rev. L. R. Atkinson on the subject: "The Darkness and the Light of India." Following the service, refreshments were served in the church parlor to a number of guests. This occasion was highlighted by glimpses of life in India, and some of the personal incidents which Mr. Atkinson said he experienced in that land during his recent visit there.

In addition to members of the congregation attending the service in the church auditorium, there was a large representation from the Smith's Cove, Hill Grove and Acaciaville churches.

Eighteen new members will be received into the membership of the Baptist Church of Digby at the worship service next Sunday morning. Seventeen of these recently received the Ordinance of Baptism. The worship service will be followed by the Ordinance of the Lord's Supper.

BEAR RIVER EAST

Reverend L. G. Stairs of the International Mission to Lepers was guest of Reverend and Mrs. Armstrong, Clementsvale, while he conducted services in the vicinity concerning the work being done for the Lepers in India. Mr. Stairs spoke in Bear River East Union Church on Tuesday evening. A film was shown at that time.

On April 20, Mrs. Shirley Trimmer held a birthday party for her daughter, Wanda Lou, on her fourth birthday. About fourteen guests attended. Games were played, and a lunch was served. A pretty cake bearing four candles was enjoyed.

Mr. Kathleen Long and daughter, Kathleen and friends of Liverpool spent Sunday with Mrs. Margaret Long and son, Everett. Mr. Albert Wamboldt of Clementsvale was a caller at the same home.

Mrs. Willis Trimmer and sister, Mrs. Shirley Trimmer and Mrs. Donald Trimmer attended a pink and blue shower on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lionel Cress, Prince Dale.

Navy Week begins next week with 'Battle of Atlantic' Sunday, May 5. A special ceremony will be carried out at HMCS Cornwallis on Sunday morning at 9:30 a.m.

Temperance Division Meets

The semi-annual session of the N. S. Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance met with the division at Clarence on Saturday, April 27th, with Rev. J. J. Sidney in the chair. There were 60 members present, representing some 15 different divisions.

The officers of the National Division of North America, the Most Worth Patriarch, Rev. R. R. Winchester, Barton, and the Most Worth Sentinel, E. E. Skaling, were given an official welcome and were extended the honors of the Grand Division. Eight members who had won honors in their own local divisions were received into the Grand Division by initiation.

At the evening meeting the 50 year jewel was presented to Mr. E. E. Skaling of Kingston, for his outstanding service to the order. The Order Boyd singers from Bridgetown were in attendance and rendered some fine spiritual numbers.

The speaker for the evening was Rev. H. Thomas of Aylesford, who spoke on the topic of "Facing the Facts". The speaker mentioned some of the facts that members of the temperance forces must face if they are going to be successful in the fight against alcoholic beverages. After pointing out the facts Mr. Thomas mentioned some of the weapons that must be used to save the cause of temperance in this present flood of intemperance that seems to be sweeping the country.

Among other things the speaker said that the temperance forces needed discipline within themselves as well as without.

Are we Christians and as such are we obedient to the Cross. We are to call upon our conviction in the temperance cause and to make a keen scrutiny of ourselves under the guidance of God so that we might see ourselves as we are. For if God is to accomplish the great temperance way of life He must have people upon whom He can depend, people who will go all the way even to the Cross.

The meeting closed with a panel discussion on plebiscites. Many questions were asked about the rights and privileges of these plebiscites.

Children's Art Conference

A conference based on the promotion of a sound program of art education in Nova Scotia's schools will be held this weekend, May 3-4, at Clark Rutherford Memorial School, H.M.C.S. Cornwallis. The members of the Nova Scotia Society for Education Through Art, meeting in their fourth annual assembly, have invited the interested public, teachers and laymen, to participate in their deliberations on art education.

Professor Alfred Pinsky of the Art Department, Sir George Williams University, Montreal, will be theme leader for the conference. On Friday evening at eight o'clock he will give an address entitled "A Critical Look At Art Education" and Saturday morning will conduct a seminar on "Problems Related To Art Teaching", which will feature an informal "question-answer" discussion period. Although directed to teachers, this program will prove valuable to parents interested in understanding the contemporary art program.

A brief address on "The Administrator's Place in the Elementary Art Program" will be given by Inspector Boyd Bartheaux of Lunenburg County. Inspector Bartheaux, who is program chairman of the NSSEA Assembly, is former Supervisor of Schools for Annapolis Royal.

Host to the provincial conference is Frederick Fullerton, Smith's Cove, art teacher at Cornwallis and president of the Nova Scotia Society for Education Through Art.

A large representative display of children's art work from Annapolis and Digby Counties will be featured.

Registration will take place Friday evening from seven to eight. No fee will be charged. Saturday morning's seminar commences at nine-thirty and at one-thirty Saturday the annual business meeting will be held. This business meeting should give a broad view of art activity throughout the province and visitors will be most welcome.

SPEAKS ON LEPERS

Rev. L. G. Stairs of the International Mission to Lepers spoke at the regular evening service in the North Range Baptist Church on Sunday, April 28th.

In his address he told of the progress being made by modern drugs, medicine and surgery, where at one time leprosy was incurable, now the majority of cases could be cured if discovered early. At the close of the service a film, "Haven of Hope", was shown.

During the service, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. R. R. Winchester, two special musical numbers were enjoyed. A special chorus by the choir "Christ for the Whole Wide World" and a duet by Mr. Reginald Andrews and Miss Maxine Andrews, "It Pays to Serve Jesus."

Addresses H & S

A special feature at the Digby Home and School Association during Health Week, carried on the first week in April, was Mr. Victor Cardozo speaking on Mental Health.

Mr. Cardozo began his address by stating that the term "Mental Illness" is a disease as well as any other type. Some sixty to eighty percent of people in Canada need mental health attention. Mental illness takes a toll of young people also. Some 2,000 young people under nineteen years of age seek help.

Mental illness is nothing to be ashamed of. Talk freely, discuss with people and never look down on people who have the disease, he said. Everyone, sometime, somewhere, has a taste of the illness, he continued.

Today many improvements in dealing with mental health are being encountered. The average is 50 percent who recover from the disease. Today we are fortunate to have many more facilities to work with and many more serious cases can be taken into hand, the speaker remarked.

We are fortunate here in Digby County to have such a psychiatric clinic as in Digby. A misunderstanding sometimes exists about the clinic. It is a place to talk matters over with a person who is willing to listen. The clinic is operated by a board of directors - Protestants, Catholics, and persons in the county. It hires the services of professionals. A board directs the affairs of the clinic. The clinic is available for anyone in this area. The service is there for use of the public.

After a person has been treated he often has a hurdle to get over in social life, Mr. Cardozo said, and it is our duty to accept this person and make him a welcomed citizen.

Mrs. Curtis Denton, health convener, then presented Mr. Cardozo, on behalf of the group, with a sum of money for the work being carried on at the clinic.

Westport

The C.G.I.T. group met at their usual time on Thursday evening in the United Baptist Vestry. The scripture was read from the book of Matthew and the devotional was taken from the C.G.I.T. magazine "Torch". During the business period, plans were made to hold a mother-daughter supper, sometime early in June.

Lie. R. McLean led the group in Bible Study followed by the handicraft with Mrs. E. Robicheau at which time the girls are making stuffed animals and aprons.

Property Changes

The property at 54 Warwick Street, Digby, N.S., which was owned by Landers Limited, has been sold to Mr. Edward Twogig, of Digby.

The building consists of modern apartments and is one of the largest in the Town of Digby.

Digby lobster fishermen as well as scallop fishermen in southwestern Nova Scotia and along the province's eastern shore had fairly good fishing last week. A report by the information service of the federal department of fisheries in Halifax disclosed that the scallopers did extremely well and that lobster landings had improved over the previous week.

Scallop boats out of Digby fishing Fundy waters were landing from 200 pounds to 300 pounds of shucked meat per trip. A number of scallop dragners were fishing off Brjar Island and several of those boats landed as high as 2,400 pounds of scallop meat in from two to three days fishing. Some fishermen reported landing 100 pounds of shucked meat for every hour's fishing.

Lobster landings were, on the whole, fairly good. While in most areas lobster prices dropped from 60 cents to 50 cents a pound, improved catches helped offset the price slump. Lobster fishing in Nova Scotia is now going on from Ragged Head, Guysborough County, along the whole eastern and southwestern shores and into the Bay of Fundy and Minas Basin.

The fisheries department's survey of last week's commercial fishing showed general improvement in both inshore and offshore landings. At Meteghan the dragger Claire Marie landed 15,000 pounds of mixed fish, mostly haddock. Farther along the western shore at Yarmouth six trips by longliners yielded more than 56,000 pounds of mixed fish, including nearly 14,000 pounds of halibut. The latter species brought fishermen from 30 cents to 45 cents a pound.

Master Jeffrey Thibault is a patient in the Digby General Hospital where he underwent surgery on Friday. It is expected he will leave the hospital on Tuesday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Thibault.

The Misses Maxine Andrews and Carol Daley of Yarmouth Hospital were Sunday guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Andrews.

Mrs. Clyde Haight left on Saturday for Halifax where she will enter the V. G. Hospital for observation.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McNeill returned on Tuesday of last week following ten days spent in Framingham, Mass., at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Robert Drake, Mr. Drake and family.

Dr. John R. McCleave, chief of the medical staff of the Digby General Hospital will turn the first sod at the official ceremony on Friday at 3:30 p.m. for the new hospital to be built near the site of the present one. Afternoon tea will be served.

Construction work for the hospital actually began at 6 a.m. on Monday when bulldozers and machinery of J. N. Kenney Construction Co., Ltd., Yarmouth, began clearing the ground. The new hospital will cost $1,600,000 and a campaign is now in progress to raise $125,000.

Speaking on behalf of the project over T. V. Channel 6, Focus, on Tuesday night was Rt. Rev. R. H. Waterman of the Anglican Church in Nova Scotia. Bishop Waterman who retires to his home in Smith's Cove said that he had a special interest in the hospital because of living in the area and because many of his parishioners and friends were in the area served by the hospital. He pointed out the need for a new hospital in Digby and urged all to give generously to see the project completed. Bishop Waterman is honorary chairman for the hospital campaign.

Guy VanTassell, for twenty-two years checker with the C.P.R. at Digby left yesterday to attend the Grand Lodge Convention of the Brotherhood of Railway Steamship Clerks to be held in Los Angeles, California. Mr. VanTassell is the only representative from Nova Scotia attending and says he has been looking forward for thirteen years to being able to attend one of the conventions.

Mr. VanTassell will travel the entire trip by railway and on his return will visit his brothers Russell and Dennis in Vancouver.

Hospital Construction Started

F. C. Purdy announced at the meeting of the Bear River Women's Institute on Monday that the construction of the new Digby General Hospital had started at 6 o'clock that morning. The news was received with loud applause by members of the Institute who had directed the campaign for the building fund in Bear River and had raised more than $1,100.

Mr. Purdy was guest speaker at the Bear River Women's Institute which was entertained at the home of Miss Alice Clark, Queen St., Digby. The program was in charge of the Cultural Activities Committee under the convener'ship of Miss Clark, who introduced the speaker, Mrs. Dora Riley, vice-president, was in the chair.

Mr. Purdy spoke on the equipment and facilities for the new hospital and on the present campaign for funds. Regarding the latter, he said, momentum was picking up during the last week or so and particularly since the hospital appears as a reality. With cash, pledges and commitments, Mr. Purdy said the campaign now stands at about $35,000.

Mr. Purdy demonstrated his description of the building, equipment and facilities by means of architect's drawings. The building is to be situated to the west of the present hospital and connected with it by a passage-way. The old hospital will be converted into a nurses' residence and the present nurse's residence into a residence for domestic help.

The whole hospital, including the children's and nursery section, will provide 126 beds. Mr. Purdy stated they are 16 obstetrical, 20 obstetricals, 21 pediatric, 52 medical and surgical, 6 isolation, 2 major operation, 2 recovery, 1 delivery, 1 recovery and 2 labor. The speaker described in detail the three floors for the new hospital with the lower floor containing laundry facilities, autopsy room, morgue, refrigeration, medical records, general storage space and heating unit. The heating is a package unit, steam with conversions. There is an auxiliary lighting and heating system generator of 12 k.v. which will also run the elevators.

The ground floor will have the outpatient service in the west wing and the administration in the east wing with the kitchen on the T. There is a public health unit on the ground floor where district nurses have a room and place to conduct examinations. This floor also contains x-ray room, waiting rooms, pharmacy, emergency operating, library, board room, doctors' lounge and consultation room and a cafeteria seating 45.

The second floor contains an obstetrical wing and a medical wing with maternity beds on the T. Barriers will be set up past which lay people cannot pass so to prevent cross infection. The maternity area includes 3 private rooms, 5 semi-private and one ward. There are chart rooms, nurses station and a bath for every room. The medical section will have 2 semi-private rooms, seven private and 3 four-bed wards. The maternity area also has a sun room.

The top floor has surgery in the west wing, surgical cases and intensive care section in the east and pediatrics on the T. The pediatrics will have 5 three-bed wards and a play room, 2 isolation beds. The intensive care unit will provide 3 nurses for 5 patients on 24 hour service.

The entire structure is to be fire proof, it will have two elevators, one for service and one for passengers. It is expected the construction will be completed in 16 or 18 months and after furnished and staffed will be ready to open in 1965.

Hospital Fund Over $30,000

Expectation of a successful financial appeal for the new Digby General Hospital was given a big boost last week by returns from the Digby Neck and Islands, Bear River and National Corporations. These gifts have combined with those from friends outside the Digby area, local doctors, firms and individuals to account for more than $30,000.

The Digby Neck and Islands campaign, under the direction of Eugene W. Outhouse, has produced gifts exceeding $3,500. Mr. Outhouse expects his campaign to go over $1,000 by the time they are finished canvassing. The Rebecca Lodge and many other individuals assisted Mr. Outhouse in this canvass.

Bear River returns while not complete are expected to approach $3,000. The canvass in Bear River is directed by Dr. D. S. Brennan. Dr. D. S. Brennan enlisted the help of the Women's Institute to carry out the general canvass and L. V. Harris is calling on firms in the area.

Donald S. Logan, Cecil Raymond and Frederick Fullerton have nearly completed the Smith's Cove-Jogglin Bridge area and they expect to receive approximately $1,000 in gifts.

The Board of Directors of the Digby General Hospital decided at the last meeting that special recognition of the gifts of the citizens of the Digby Neck and Islands, Bear River and Smith's Cove would be given in the new hospital. Hospital rooms will be named in honour of their efforts. It was further agreed that all communities in this area be encouraged to work toward providing the cost of patient rooms in the new hospital. For example, the cost of a private room is $1,600. $500 will pay for a scalp, and a ward costs $2,500.

Golf Course Opens Saturday

The 18-hole championship golf course of the Digby Pines Hotel will open for play on Saturday. It has been announced by Charles McKinnon, Pines Hotel golf pro.

School Band Featured In Program

One of the most enjoyable programs to be staged in Digby was put on at the Digby Regional High School auditorium on Saturday night when the Yarmouth High School Band, under direction of Allan McKinley, French teacher, Yarmouth School, was featured. The band members, numbering some thirty boys and girls, showed excellent talent and command of their music as they presented each number with performance equal to that of much more mature years. The program was put on by the Digby Branch Canadian Legion for their special building fund. Convener of the program was George Hersey, Digby, formerly of the Yarmouth band under direction of Mr. McKinley.

Besides the band others featured were the Yarmouth Majorettes and the Digby Majorettes.

Vocal duets were presented by Julianna and Janice Cudmore, of Digby, Lilla Wong, also of Digby, presented vocal solos. Novelty dance numbers were presented by Donna LeBourque and her father, Leo Bourque, of Yarmouth. Acrobatic dance numbers were presented by Gloria Theriault and Beverley Kaulback, of Digby.

Band soloists were Mary Anne Warwick, William Rodgers, Frances McKinley and John VanZost.

Master of ceremonies was V. G. Cardoza and a welcome was extended by His Worship Mayor V. L. Bent. Courtesies were extended at the close of the program by Thomas Cleveland, president of the Digby Legion; Mrs. George Hersey, president of the Digby Legion Auxiliary; and Mr. Hersey.

Graduation St. Pat's Business College

The annual commencement exercises of St. Patrick's Business College were held in St. Patrick's Church, Digby, May 5th, at eleven o'clock. Those participating in the ceremony entered the church and proceeded up the main aisle as follows: Cross Bearer, Gerry Connelly; acolytes, Michael Surette and John Martin; the Business College graduates; the Celebrant, Rev. David Stokes; Master of Ceremony, David Wood. The girls and boys of the graduating class were clad in gowns and caps and they took their places in the sanctuary for the Mass which followed immediately.

The High Mass sung was by Archille Bragars, in three voices. The choir was conducted by Rev. Luc Gaudet, Pastor, who was accompanied at the Con Artist organ by Mr. E. J. Theriault, Q.C., organist at St. Patrick's Church.

Mayor Vernon Bent and Mrs. Bent were present at the ceremony.

The address to the Graduates was given by Rev. Angus MacDonald, recently appointed Pastor of the newly-formed Holy Family Parish, in Moncton, N.B., who was the guest speaker. Father MacDonald, in speaking to the Graduates, said, "Graduation is often called 'Commencement', a French word meaning 'the beginning'. This is very appropriate because now you are beginning a new life. You are going out to give to society, whereas up until this time you have received from society.

By virtue of your Baptism, all of you are Christians - followers of Christ. All of you believe in an eternal destiny. You will attain this destiny by putting your business course to work for God. There is a movement called The Christopher Movement, which was started about eighteen years ago, by a young priest by the name of James Keller. Father Keller was trained by the Maynoll Fathers as a missionary, primarily for China. But as a young priest he recognized the need of missionaries right here at home. He could not understand how the atheists, who made up about one per cent of the world's population, made such sweeping strides, while the millions of Christians, made such little progress. It was evident to him that their success was due to the complete dedication of their lives to their cause. So he organized what is known as the Christopher Movement, open to people. Digby Motors was given permission to rebuild the garage which was partly destroyed by fire last fall.

Permission was granted to the Digby Horticultural Society to hold a tag day on June 7.

A resolution from the Municipality of Halifax for endorsement by Digby was laid on the table. The resolution proposed that the provincial government assume all responsibility for education costs in Nova Scotia and that the money be raised by a two per cent tax on all sales and services.

Pending interviews by the Industrial Committee of the Municipality of Digby regarding an industry which might possibly locate in the Marshall town area, the Digby Town Council was asked to go along with the Municipal Council in keeping the Municipal Home open for two months. Letters were to be sent to Industrial Estates Ltd. and the Hon. E. A. Manson regarding industry and the home to be advertised in a daily paper and a trade magazine.

Three appeared before the Council regarding the sewage disposal conditions on King St. One contemplated building on King St. and the other two were experiencing trouble with drainage for cesspools.

Parking on Main St. and trucks stopping to unload small parcels throughout the town came in for much discussion at the council meeting on Monday night. The chief of police said a system of unloading transport trucks by small trucks was to be tried out and that he was going to seek expression from the merchants on down town parking. The street committee reported they had been in collaboration with the Canadian Legion regarding moving the monument from the middle of the town to another location to provide more parking space down town.

From the police report it was learned that complaints had been laid, ten required field investigation, all except two had been terminated to satisfaction, eight cases had court action with all disposed of by the lower court. Two cases were under the criminal code and six under the Nova Scotia Liquor Control. One for selling liquor and the other impairedness.

It was Mr. Swanburg's opinion that the system now in effect could in some way be updated to the advantage of the municipality. The system whereby the municipality employs a tax collector who is not paid, and an assistant who is paid, is not an advantageous one, he said. He told the council that he believed there should be no assistant to the collector and that the collector should be given full authority to deal justly with delinquent taxpayers. If there was no "middle man" a better job could be done by all around, he said. Mr. Swanburg said he is not interested in an increase in salary, but feels positive that a more adequate system of collection can be found. He pointed out that as of December 1962 $140,000 was owed the municipality in tax arrears. This, he said, is self evident that some new and better method of collection is necessary. It was his opinion that a majority will pay their taxes if the laws are provided and enforced by the authorities directly involved.

The following are views expressed by councillors concerning Mr. Swanburg's view of the tax collection system: Councillor Clyde Cosman said that, in his opinion, the collector is doing a fine job and no one is complaining about his work. Nevertheless, somewhere there is friction. (Please turn to page 10)

Municipal Council In Session

Eugene Outhouse, councillor from Tiverton, led the councillors in prayer for guidance by God, at the opening of the Municipal Council sessions on Monday afternoon.

Following the prayer a minute of silence was observed in memory of a former councillor, Carmen Nase, Freeport, whose death occurred recently.

Warden Morehouse in a brief report referred to the new boat, Princess of Acadia recently put on the Digby-Saint John run and which holds prospects for increasing the economy of the area.

Mrs. J. M. Wallis extended a few words of congratulations to the councillors, offered courtesies of the local press and wished the councillors success in their undertakings.

Among the resolutions received was one from the Nova Scotia Innkeepers Guild re efforts to establishing an airstrip near Digby possibly in the Landsdowne area. The resolution was endorsed by the council.

A resolution from the Weymouth Home and School was presented, requesting support in placing before the Provincial Department of Education the need of services of music teachers in schools. Another resolution placed before the council was from Halifax Municipality requesting support in asking the provincial government to assume responsibility of education costs by means of a two per cent tax on sales and services. At the same time a resolution came from Sydney asking that the costs be channelled through the federal government.

A resolution presented by Councillor P. M. Gott was endorsed in which it will be sought to abolish the use of spray and poisonous chemicals in eliminating shubbery and trees along the roadside. The practice leaves an unsightly condition offensive to the visitors and the local person she said. Besides it is costly, does not provide much employment and is destructive to the birds and beneficial insects. Copies of the resolution were to go to Premier Robert Stanfield, Minister of Highways, Minister of Municipal Affairs, V. G. Cardoza, M.L.A., and the Unions of Nova Scotia Municipality.

It was decided to keep the Municipal Home at Marshall town open for a further two months while the property is advertised for sale. It is hoped that the site might be sold to some industry wishing to locate in the area.

Upon request by the warden, assistant tax-collector Paul Swanburg came before the council on Tuesday morning to discuss problems affecting collection of taxes in arrears and the possibility of determining a better method of collection.

It was Mr. Swanburg's opinion that the system now in effect could in some way be updated to the advantage of the municipality. The system whereby the municipality employs a tax collector who is not paid, and an assistant who is paid, is not an advantageous one, he said. He told the council that he believed there should be no assistant to the collector and that the collector should be given full authority to deal justly with delinquent taxpayers. Reference was made by Rev. R. H. Hughes to the generous offer by Reginald Jefferson to supply the lumber, free of charge, to the church, to Arthur Robinson for his kind offer to give the wiring and to Gordon Snow for the gift of the plans.

Clayton Snow, chairman of the Building Committee, explained the plans and said work would be starting immediately if the ground was dry enough. Vincent Snow, Chairman of the Finance Committee. (Please turn to page 10)

Attends Highway Safety Meet

George Holdsworth, Digby winner of the Teenage Safe Driving Rodeo for all Canada last year, was in Halifax this week as a guest of the Canadian Highway Safety Council which met in annual session there.

George, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Holdsworth, appeared on T. V. on Tuesday morning and was special guest at the youth dinner sponsored by Imperial Oil Limited in the evening.

The youth dinner was addressed by S. O. Trueman editor of the Saint John Telegraph Journal, who defended young people against the charge of irresponsible driving in spite of their record and blamed this record on adults.

"It is the adult who set the example of winking at the law, who lend the high powered cars, who hand out the spending money, who talk about the need for stricter regulations but who neglect to insist on legislative action that might interfere with their own freedom to drive as they like," he said.

Driver education had already proved its worth, Mr. Trueman said.

In Saint John, he said, the Maritime Automobile Association operated a school to teach young people to drive and trained 12,000 in 10 years. A checkup recently showed that of this group only 3 and a half per cent had been involved in an accident and there were no fatalities.

Parents of young male drivers trained in this course were entitled to a 10 per cent reduction of their stepped-up automobile insurance premiums, he said.

Mrs. May Turns Sod

On Thursday evening, May 2nd, at seven o'clock, a large number met in the Grace United Church Hall when Mrs. Fred May turned the first sod for the extension to the church hall. Reginald Turnbull, who has served the Church School as secretary for about twenty-five years, introduced Mrs. May and spoke of the early plans made for this day by Mrs. May. She was one of the first to sponsor the plan, and for some years was the superintendent of the Church School and fitting that she should turn the sod for the extension. A pleasing speech was given by Mrs. May, as she performed the act for her church.

Rev. Dr. T. W. Hodgson, who was the minister of the church when the first plans were made for the extension to the hall, led in prayer and expressed his thanks to Almighty God for the beginning of that which will end the present need of more accommodation for the Church School and the youth organizations. Dr. Hodgson had worked, planned and hoped for this progress for many years.

Reference was made by Rev. R. H. Hughes to the generous offer by Reginald Jefferson to supply the lumber, free of charge, to the church, to Arthur Robinson for his kind offer to give the wiring and to Gordon Snow for the gift of the plans.

Clayton Snow, chairman of the Building Committee, explained the plans and said work would be starting immediately if the ground was dry enough. Vincent Snow, Chairman of the Finance Committee. (Please turn to page 10)

About This and That Seed Of Unemployment

(Diary of a Vagabond, by Dorothy Barker)

Sunday was a beautiful day. Buds were bursting, birds were twittering and Old Sol up there in the sky was bouncing sunbeams hither and yon, recklessly announcing he would soon peel the skin from one's back, but for today, he would just warm the bloodstream to a glow. It was the kind of a day it took every bit of restraint one could muster to get down on one's knees right in public and thank God for spring.

But that glorious day brought something saddening and sobering. On almost every corner of our main street, small groups of giggling, profane youngsters gathered. They pushed one another off the curb, banded rather frightening four-letter words about to embellish their conversation, teased their rattled coiffures or slicked their duck-tail patent leather hair, pulled at their stretchee pants, or hitched their too tight jeans. The girls were as noisy as the boys, perhaps noisier, for they wanted to draw attention to their over-made ruby lips and flirting masquerade eyes.

I was nauseated when I noticed one had a raw, red scar where her cheek had been recently slit from her nose to her ear. I wondered if this one-time pretty girl could be linked with a recent terrible motor accident in which two of our young people had been killed and several injured.

This situation is not peculiar to our town; it is a sign of our times and while some people wring their hands and view the condition as hopeless, blaming it on TV, paperbacks and too sexy advertising, there are others more seriously inclined who are projecting some kind of solution.

Most of these youngsters will be among the unemployed before they are many months older. Now, some have jobs as waitresses, bus boys, can stackers in supermarkets, and a dozen other menial jobs that take little, or no, education. They, for the most part, live at home, spend their $35-40 per week pay cheque on cigarettes, buy a jalopy on time and think they've hit the jackpot of high living. Any principal of a high school can identify their type as "fall outs" from grade nine.

They just aren't academic material. John Roberts, Premier of Ontario, has recognized their need. It will take several years for his new system for screening the ability of a pupil's learning level and the provision for technical training of those who haven't "book learning" capacity to come to full fruition. These young people, as we of an older generation know, are among the war babies now flowering into adulthood. The kids, I am convinced, are the casualties of a new high standard of living.

So let's not be too severe or critical of their behaviour. Rather let us be tolerant and support measures of this kind being promoted to train young people who can never strive for a degree, but who, through proper training can avoid being the germinating seed of future unemployment. ## Construction Started - No Turning Back

We are just about to the point of no return as far as the construction of the new Digby General Hospital is concerned. Although the sod turning ceremony might take place a bit later, the actual turning of the first sod got underway on Monday. This news came as welcome relief to not only those who are members of the Hospital Board and those directly interested in putting over the campaign, but to many just interested people.

Anyone who has been in the Digby General Hospital during the last few years, will agree that a larger, more modern hospital has been needed to provide proper care for the sick. Figures of $1,600,000, however, are alarming to many people, the sound of such a sum of money just about stops the average person in his tracks and few people can comprehend such vast figures without sheets of paper and pencils to aid in their mental calculations. There are many such people in the Digby-Annapolis-Clare area served by the hospital who have felt the need of the hospital but who faced the vast figure with a bit of timidity. This is nothing of which to be ashamed. This is really good common sense. Now that the bull has been taken by the horns, so to speak, we think that people are going to rise to the occasion and the campaign thermometer is going to rise rapidly to the occasion also. It is with a sigh of relief that many persons will learn that the actual construction of the hospital has started and they will get behind the campaign, fully.

Building the new Digby General Hospital is a big step to take and it took a lot of thinking and planning by some people. It meant a lot of timidity to overcome even by the bravest and it still means a great deal of responsibility to be shouldered by those in charge of the building program. It means that every giver must shoulder this responsibility fairly and squarely face on. This is not one of those campaigns where you reach in your pocket, pull out a bill or piece of silver, and whatever it happens to be, pass it to the canvasser so he or she gets out of your way. This is a responsibility like bringing up a family or building your own home or business. It needs thought as to how much you can possibly give and not how little on which you can get by.

That the responsibility is being taken by many can be seen. There are those who are giving substantially but who have told the canvassers that they'll try to spare more to help make up the necessary amount. This is taking real responsibility. This is the kind of responsibility which will have to be shared by even more people before the hospital is completed and which responsibility we think will be shared in most cases not reluctantly. The turning of the sod for the new Digby General Hospital has presented the challenge and responsibility anew. Those who have given will see a responsibility to give again and those who felt they could not give will see their responsibility in a new light, we think, and will not only give but give generously.

The furrow has been ploughed. There is no turning back.

Scarce Summer Jobs

Shortly, Canada's labor market will be flooded with a record number of students seeking summer jobs, reports Beatrice Riddell in The Financial Post. This annual job-seeking spree is reaching crisis proportions. Although there are more jobs available in many areas this year, summer employment opportunities have not kept pace with swelling student enrollment. National Employment Service, with special placement centres at 15 universities expects 20% more students to apply for jobs this year. The number of high-school job hunters may be 35% ahead of last year's figure and technical institutes will release many more students this summer. "Each year the situation gets worse," a personnel director of a large Toronto firm says. "We had well over 200 applications for clerical work, but we are not taking students this year. I have tried to help by passing these applications along to other companies. But every time I phone another personnel man he groans and tells me he's got hundreds of applications he can't even look at." One national company had at least 20 applications for every job. The next few months will provide a foretaste of the enormous employment problem facing Canada when these young people and those now in junior grades reach the permanent labor market.

Child Safety

May 5 was scheduled for National Child Safety Day, although with our nearly four columns of editorial material last week we neglected to remind our readers of this special day.

That it is important to draw attention and awareness of parents and the public to Child Safety we agree. That it is important for a child to be made aware for the sake of its own safety we again agree. Especially was this thought brought to our minds when we drove from Bridgewater to Digby on Monday morning and all along the way passed school children in groups waiting for the school bus to pick them up and transport them to school. No parent, no school teacher, no bus driver to care for them while they waited nor do we necessarily think there should have been. The children were in most part primary grade children, full of glee and having fun. Again, we would expect and want to see them happy, but we just couldn't help thinking that a driver wouldn't have a chance should one of these little ones just forget while in its glee and advance a few steps further into the highway. It is, we say, most important that a child be made aware for its own safety.

"You can surround children with safety," said Gay McLaren, National Safety League general manager, "when they are very young. But as they grow, they must know, inherently, how to protect themselves from perils they will encounter. The earlier we teach them safety, the stronger a habit it becomes, and the more likely it will be that they will not only practice safety themselves but instill it in turn, in their offspring."

Child Safety Day, usually the first Sunday in May, has been a province-wide campaign in Saskatchewan for several years where it was promoted by the Department of Public Health. This year, the re-activated National Safety League of Canada, with the help of the provincial and community councils, has spread the campaign to all parts of Canada.

Pedestrians Concerned With Car-Check Drive

A car-check campaign such as the Canadian Highway Safety Council is sponsoring through April and May, must be of vital concern to every pedestrian. The Council points out that a pedestrian stands little chance of survival when a driver loses control of his vehicle through a mechanical fault and the walker is in the way. CHSC adds that the greatest danger is to the jay-walkers or people who cross intersections against a red signal.

Jay-walkers and signal-beaters, claims CHSC, put absolute faith in the vehicle's mechanical condition. They are sure the car will respond to the driver's steering and miss them; sure the brakes will slow or stop the car in time; sure the emergency brake will effectively take over if the regular brakes fail; sure the windshield and window glass is clean and the driver can see them in his path; sure the tires have ample treads for responding to brakes; sure, at night, the lights are properly aimed and operating so the driver can see them, and sure the motorist is driving with as much faith as they have that his car is in good mechanical condition.

One piece of a car's equipment the pedestrian would prefer to see out of order is the horn. Angered or startled when a pedestrian looms in his vehicle's path, a driver will sound the horn as a warning. The walker usually resents this apparent intrusion on his "rights", neglecting to realize the motorist is only trying to prevent the walker's "rites".

The "Pleasures of Retirement" Myth

Those believing in this myth that world life is some kind of purgatory in preparation for a life of ease and contemplation during retirement.

Your average age now is around 22 or 23. Our life expectancy extends to about age 66 or 67. A large percentage of you will die without seeing a single day of retirement, especially if the retirement age advances. Clearly, none of you can seriously be looking forward to retirement, a great number of you won't make it. What will much of your work lives consist of? Are you heading for a Montreal suburb from where you will commute for about an hour or more each day; are you heading for a job with two or three weeks holidays a year, so short that you can hardly visit your folks; are you going to work hard all your life for a big business, perhaps live to sixty five when you may have a carpet on your office floor, and then a year or two left to start living? Well, if that is what you are working for, it doesn't seem like much to me!

You have heard the old story, I suppose, the one I like to relate quite often, of the big businessman, the tycoon, who was travelling across the prairies. The train stopped at a little water point he got off to stretch his legs and he found a cowboy sitting by the tracks, sitting in the shade of a tree whittling a stick. The train stayed there for a few hours and this tycoon spoke to the cowboy for quite a while and found him to be an intelligent man with a lot of good ideas. Just before the train started to go, the businessman said, "Well look, you know, you're very bright. We started people in our firm at $60 a week but if you come with me I'll give you $90 a week. Only forty hours a week, a fair amount of spare time, a good pension plan, and excellent working conditions." The cowboy said, "Well, I'd rather not go." The tycoon said, "Well, now look you really should go, this is a wonderful opportunity, why, we have an accelerating pension plan so that you can retire if you like when you are 60." The cowboy said, "Well, thanks very much but I am retired already." Now I think he made a good point. Why don't you retire now, some of you? There is nothing I would like to hear more than that some of you left the university tonight and headed for South America having decided to become beachcombers for the rest of your lives. I think that this would be an excellent idea and would show that some of you had more sense than your fathers and probably more sense than me. Just what is the beach that you are heading for? Why are you here? What do you want to get out of life? I think a problem that some of you have is knowing just where you are going. The reason that most of you are here is because many of your high school class went to college. Some of you got pushed into it by your parents. If these are the main reasons they are not good enough. It may be that you should take a long beat to China, and why don't you do it? What's holding you here? Are you afraid of something? Are you afraid that things might not work out? Well, seniors, here's a suggestion. Get your degree, work for six or seven years, save $10,000, invest it at 5%, that's $700 a year, move to a South Pacific island, have a trust company send you a cheque for $10 a week for the rest of your life and retire. Now that's my system of retirement for all of you in ten year's time. If you think that's attractive, and I think it's darn attractive, well, why don't you do it?

Some of you do it because you know what you want out of life. You have worked out for your self what you can give society and what it can give you. But what about some others who see themselves as corks on the ocean of fate? Suppose you're doing some thinking about what you want out of life besides retirement? How many of you will spend a life of unhappiness in not knowing what you want and killing yourselves to get it?

It will be an addition to the plant already operated by Comeau Sea Foods Ltd.

The firm also operates a scallop packing plant, vinegar cured herring plant and a herring smoke house, besides operating a fleet of scallop fishing vessels.

Recently the firm has had larger, scallop dragger's constructed in the 90 footline, and their smaller scallop dragger, in the 65 foot size, have been transferred to fresh fish dragging.

Fresh fish processing will be undertaken in the new modern building which will be the most up-to-date, processing plant in western Nova Scotia.

It Pays To Advertise Digby

The following is an extract from a letter received by a Torontonion who has never been to Digby but who has learned to admire the town and vicinity from reading about it. This is his impression.

A song made a few years ago around 1949 stressed the pleasant thought of the dear hearts and gentle people who live and love in my home town.

Certainly, of all the Nova Scotian towns, Digby, stands as a beacon as famous as its light house for the beautiful conception of what comprises a famous small town.

This town which was settled and cultivated by United Empire Loyalists settlers will stand in the annals as place and a haven for visitors.

Small towns invariably take upon them the characters of the people who live and work in them.

Digby with the breeze of salty fishing schooners filling it's gap day by day would, be scenic to the eye of any European tourist who has been accustomed to the splendour of a London Cafe.

Founded by a British Admiral, Sir Robert Digby, famous for his exploits during the American Revolution and in charge of a large fleet of ships the town has come down a reminder of a firm and constant purpose on the part of naval and fishing ships.

It was in this town that the ancestors of Thomas Edison were born and raised and although Thomas Edison has been acclaimed as an American inventor his connection with Canada and Nova Scotia will be remembered.

Unquestionably Digby will be a reminder to the world that the fishing industry and the tourist trade can live side by side and flourish.

Digby has one of the largest and best equipped fishing fleets in North America, and the Bay of Fundy is the key to it's fishing expeditions for the ships ply in and out of it's gap to reach the salty ocean without and to see the opposite shore of New Brunswick, one must take a larger vessel.

Something New In Printing

Russell Stonehouse, Digby, handed The Digby Courier a copy of a paper last week put out by the CIL and named Contact. This was not a new paper. It was volume 32, No. 9. The copy content was similar to any newspaper and like its previous issues the editorial and news copy was directly for those closest to C-I-L.

But the issue of Contact, April 22, 1963, demonstrated a dramatic innovation in printing. It was the first issue of a newspaper to be printed on polythene film in North America. As the paper itself states - employees at Edmontown Works, the Plastics technical service lab at new Toronto and Mastex films unit plant at Brampton, pooled their resources and skills to create the new use for film. Manton Printing Ink, Toronto developed an ink which would print on polythene. The printing company, Ronalds-Federated Limited, Montreal, printed the issue by means of letterpress.

The Courier will continue for sometime to use newsprint instead of plastic (without even guessing at comparative costs) but the shiny white, durable, washable material is most attractive in a newspaper. So durable does the newspaper seem that there were temptations to stitch up two sides, put a zipper in the other and have a nice plastic brief case, one use which cannot be made of The Digby Courier done on newsprint.

CIL looks forward to polythene film being used in printing catalogues, telephone directories, text books, chemical text books, posters which need to stand wind, rain and snow, legal documents, maps specification sheets for garages, etc.

Witnesses Meet

381 persons packed out the Avon Theatre in Bridgewater on Sunday, April 14, 1963, to hear the stirring lecture, "Who Will Win the Struggle for World Supremacy?" Delivered by the district supervisor of Jehovah's Witnesses, Mr. Levi Wall, as the climax of three-day convention. The seriousness of the World's situation was brought to the attention of everyone Mr. Wall said, when spread of communism is the fear of all in this part of the world, and this is heightened by the race for space control. Where will it all end, and who will win the struggle for the world supremacy? Mr. Wall said "While men have their puny minds filled with anxiety and fear over this visible struggle for world supremacy between East and West, they fail to see a far greater struggle for World Supremacy coming to a decided climax and which will end and settle all national differences once and for all time."

Mr. Wall forcefully pointed out the insignificance of nuclear war when compared with God's War of Armageddon. This war will be fought shortly in fulfillment of Bible prophecy, thereby bringing the blessings long requested in the "Lord's Prayer."

In conclusion, Mr. Wall emphasized to all in attendance that we are now living at a time when a great decision is to be made. Those who choose to support God's Kingdom in this struggle will survive to enjoy its many blessings, which will be a righteous, unified world with a government that will bless people and lift their heavy burdens.

Friday evening saw 252 persons gathered in the Legion Hall in Bridgewater for the opening session. There Mr. Wall encouraged all to work hard in being a "Right Kind of Minister". Mr. Wall then introduced the "Ministry School", now operative in 189 lands, to better equip them in being a "Right Kind of Minister". This was followed by encouraging talks and demonstrations by local ministers: Thomas Holmes, Digby; Norman Hodges, Weymouth; George Jarvis Jr., Weymouth.

Saturday afternoon the delegates assembled for the Dedication and Baptism discourse given by Mr. Wall. Ten persons presented themselves for baptism in symbol of their dedication to their Creator and Life-giver. Mr. Wall pointed out that this was their ordination for the ministry.

On Saturday evening the two hour program, "Examining Our Ministry", featured information for youths on watching their association and also scriptural counsel to those with material problems.

The convention came to a close with instruction from D. G. Bevan, Circuit Supervisor, "How To Keep Delinquency Out of Your Home". Mr. Wall then followed with concluding remarks on the subject, "We need Jehovah's Organization."

Letters to the Editor

Editor, The Digby Courier.

Dear Mrs. Wallis, The following information recently given to me is, I believe, significant and timely for our Digby community, and the suggestion is hereby made that we are very wise if we learn from the experience of some other people (much like ourselves) and act accordingly.

On Nov. 6, 62, about six months ago, there were 37 local option votes (liquor plebiscites) held in the state of Ohio, U.S.A.. 33 of these communities voted against, and only 4 voted in favor of liquor. The "drys" called for 15 of the 37 plebiscites, which 15 were, of course, in wet communities, and the "drys" won 75% of the 15. The "wets" called for 22 of the 37 plebiscites, and these 22 were, of course, in dry districts, and the "wets" lost all 22. On the basis of the total votes cast in the 37 plebiscites, 62% of the people voted "dry", while 38% voted in favor of liquor.

The most significant thing about it is that so many communities that had liquor outlets voted to close them.

Vincent Snow.

To Editor of the Courier.

Dear Mrs. Wallis:

I am sending a clipping from a Scrap Book I have and thought it might interest you as it was written by Mr. Wallis, the Editor of the Courier at that time and taken from the Family Herald and Weekly Star some 35 years ago. I found the story of the wreck of the Princess Louise 80 years ago interesting and hope you will put it in a column of your valued paper.

Thanking you, Mrs. Charles White, Waterford, Digby Co., N. S.

A STORY THAT SAVED A LIFE

By J. J. Wallis, Digby, N. S.

How a story published in the Family Herald and Weekly Star about fifty-five years ago made a hero of one young man, and saved the life of another, was related to the writer a few years ago by R. C. Soy, then of New Glasgow and who died in Amherst last year at an advanced age.

He was the last member of the ill-fated government steamer, Princess Louise, wrecked near Digby, on Dec. 3rd, 1883. The writer, who is the Editor of the Digby Weekly Courier, had never met Mr. Soy until a few years ago, when the latter walked into the Courier office one morning and after looking around, asked if there were any members on the staff who were here 45 years ago. Being assured there were none, he remarked, "I'm sorry, I would have liked to have seen and talked with someone who remembered the Princess Louise wreck. We had heard and read of the Princess Louise wreck and asked him if he was interested in it. We were surprised to hear him remark, 'I am R. C. Soy, one of the survivors from the wreck.' Getting in a car, we drove down to Point Prim Light and walked several miles down to the shore to the Princess Louise monument created by the Government of Canada in memory of the crew who were lost. On the way down he told the story as follows —

The Princess Louise was built at Maccan by Jonathan O'Brien and was launched on Dec. 1st, 1883, for the Dominion Government. Lieut. Daniel M. Browne was placed in command and a crew of nine men were shipped. She was taken in tow immediately after landing by the government steamer, Newfield, Capt. Guldford, and both vessels left for Halifax where the Louise was to be rigged and engined. The weather continued fine until Dec. 3rd when off Digby a terrible storm came up. The Newfield with her tow tried to enter Digby Gut but could not. In the height of the storm the hawser parted and in the darkness the vessels separated. The Newfield after searching in vain for some time started for St. John. The Louise was helpless, with no sails or power. Lieut. Browne endeavored to anchor, but the anchor chains had not been made secure on the vessel and the entire chain went out through the hawse hole.

In a very short time afterwards the Louise was dashed on the rocks at Broad Cove. The seas sweeping over her carried overboard Lieut. Browne and seven of his crew. R. C. Soy had shipped as cabin boy. But there was another boy, James Dane, one of the Newfield crew, on board. When the crash came both boys were below and were too frightened to come on deck. They stayed on the upper shelf of the engine room all night with the ship rolling on the rocks and the water almost up to their resting place. But gradually the tide receded and by morning at daylight it was low tide, and the wreck was low laboring so much. Telling Dane to remain where he was, Soy went on deck to look around. To use his own words the hull under his feet was widdy and had already started to break up. Heavy rolling seas were coming in denoting the turn of the tide. Soy says, I put my legs over the gun-whale and was preparing to drop in the water on the shore side of the wreck, when I again thought of Dane and at the same time thought of the story I had been reading in the Family Herald and Weekly Star. I thought to myself, would the hero in that story go away and leave his chum? He went on to say that the shore looked so near, and the wreck looked so bad that he hated to go back to the engine room for Dane and hesitated several times.

But the Family Herald story kept returning to his mind and he finally made a plunge for the engine room for Dane, who was terrified to take the chance. Soy finally had to remove him by force, and carry him to the deck. Dane was frost-bitten and almost helpless and he had to put him on his shoulder and leap overboard with him and make way to shore in spite of the big rollers which sometimes almost carried him off his feet. Getting ashore at last almost exhausted, he put Dane in a sheltered position as he could and left him to go find help. After walking through the woods in his weakened condition over windfalls and through deep snow he at last reached a house (which is still standing but unoccupied) and sent help.

Both Soy and Dane were almost exhausted and were both forced to stay in bed for some days. Both in time recovered, but Dane was never as strong as before. He lived for some years, became a newsie on the L.C.R., later married and died at an early age.

I met Soy several times after he told me the story and he never failed to give the Family Herald and Weekly Star all the credit for saving Dane's life.

North Range, N. S., May 6, 1963.

Editor of The Courier,

Digby, N. S.

Dear Mrs. Wallis:

Out of the silence came a surprise from the North Range school house.

After standing silently with locked doors for many months some of the residents of North Range have met with a surprise.

Nature has a way of doing things unless she can be overcome and checked by man, things may easily be destroyed and cause unnecessary havoc and loss.

Without a voice to protest or make a sound, something was quietly going on to undermine, and no one was aware of it, until suddenly the air was filled with a putrid odor, then it was sniff here and sniff there and the question arose, could it be the neighbour's sewers. No, it wasn't that, so an investigation took place which led to the school house — poor innocent school house!

It was found that water — simple life-giving water — had run in the cellar, risen and risen until it was trapped, needed an outlet, found a way through the floor above, and spread through the rooms above. Such havoc it caused — furnace in cellar ruined, several cords of hard wood water logged and oh, the odor, the odor. Can't you imagine it? Hold your nose, don't breathe, open up the drains, and after locking the school house, go and leave it to its fate. What is its fate? Poor Thing!!

Euella H. Andrews.

IN REMEMBRANCE
Though the final tribute has been paid to the late Miss Aleta Clifford and she is free of the suffering she, so uncomplainingly bore, she has left a vacant spot in the community that no one can fill as she did.

Next to her family, children were her greatest love. To her they took all their childish problems where they unfailingly received comfort and advice. She was the first to see their new toys or apparel, their bumps and bruises, and to hear all the school songs and recitations. Miss Clifford kept many little hands and feet warm with cozy socks and mittens that she knitted. If she had any preference among the children it was not known, they all appeared equal to her and were treated the same. At Christmas they all received gifts, and they, in turn, remembered her with gifts.

These youngsters did not wait until her passing to surround her with flowers. Many were the bouquets of wild flowers that filled her vases and jars not one was refused either, for she realized that their efforts reflected the love they held for her.

They have indeed, lost a wonderful friend. Memories of her will live on in the hearts of all who know her. Sincere sympathy is extended to her relatives and many friends and may they find comfort in the fact that "she is not dead but sleepeth."

Mrs. Edgar Outhouse spent Easter holidays with her brother, Alvin and Mrs. Elliott and family of New Minas, N. S.

Mrs. Hubert Ossinger is visiting her son, Edwin and Mrs. Ossinger and family of Beaver Harbour, N. B.

NERVE INJURY . . .

"SMALL BLOOD-ALCOHOL CONCENTRATIONS are accompanied by effects which lead to the conclusion that brain tissue is affected in such a manner as to hinder the passage of nerve impulses from cell to cell in the higher nerve centers and to prevent thereby the normal functioning of the highest levels of mental integration."

—Health and Hygiene, Lloyd Ackerman.

MODERATION: FALLACY

"AS A BRAIN SURGEON I have yet to meet a moderate drinking colleague who would like to have me operate on his son after I 'have had a few.' No one does his best after drinking. He may think he does, but his judgment is defective . . . moderation is a terrible fallacy."

DRUGS MIND

"ALCOHOL IS FROM FIRST TO LAST A NARCOTIC DRUG. Its chief action is upon the nervous system . . . alcohol successively weakens the hierarchy of the brain, and therefore of the mind, in the order from above downwards, that is to say in the inverse order of their development." —The British Medical Association's Advisory Committee.

RUINOUS . . .

"THERE IS NO DISEASE IN THE WORLD for which alcohol is a cure . . . It does undeniably cause thousands of cases of disease . . . Its use is ruinous to the kidneys, liver, heart and smaller blood vessels, and gives rise to that most common fatality, high blood pressure."

—Dr. Howard A. Kelly, Surgeon, John Hopkins University.

DO WE WANT THIS?

Dr. E. M. Jellinek,

Top World Authority on the Alcohol Problem Says This:

"The Death rate, the Crime rate and the Accident rate in a given community vary according to the average consumption of alcohol. When Alcoholism increases, so do the Death Rate, the Crime rate and the Accident rate. The relaxation of restrictions on alcohol is followed by a rise in commitments to asylums, hospitals and juvenile delinquency."

Much research, experience and history lie behind this statement to verify it!

There are forces that are at work in our Province that are pressing for such relaxation in restrictions" on drinking. They are working and hoping for more outlets.

(This space donated by public-spirited citizen.)

J. Edgar Hoover, Chief of F.B.I., says —

"ALCOHOL IS THE BIGGEST FACTOR IN CRIME . . . over 65% of juvenile delinquents have been involved in drinking sprees."

What other Men of Distinction say about drinking:

Shakespeare said that alcohol is a poison men take into the mouth to steal away the brains".

Lincoln said that "It is a cancer in human society eating out its vitals and threatening its destruction".

Thomas Edison said: "To put alcohol into the body is like putting sand on the bearings of an engine".

General Pershing said: Drunkenness has killed more men than all of history's wars".

Buddha said: "Drink not liquors that intoxicate and disturb the reason".

Gladiators said: "The ravages of drink are greater than those of war, pestilence and famine combined".

Digby, N. S.,
April, 1963.
Dear Editor:
Thank God for our Christian
Youth. I think its wonderful the way he or she is standing up for the Lord.
I pray that every youth and adult alike will mark their X beside no for taverns in Digby.
One writer to your paper wrote, "If there were taverns in Digby the young people would not be drinking and necking around the corner of dance halls and gravel pits.
What in this wicked world today is stopping them from going to taverns, drinking and doing the same thing where-ever they are. They will drink as much in a tavern as they will around the corner of a dance hall and maybe more as they would get it cheaper than they do now. In my mind if these were fit places for our youth to be these things would not be going on and under the influence of liquor who knows what they will do or what will happen to them."
Like the Christian Youth wrote, take the money and build something in Digby for the young to go where they can take Christ with them.
The older folk alike should have Jesus with them at all times.
How can we vote "yes" for liquor outlets and still believe that Jesus will find us watching. When He returns it will be too late to say if I had known I wouldn't have done it because we do know that liquor is against God's teaching and we are more to blame than the youth if we set the example in front of them and vote "yes" for these taverns.
Only one life will soon be past. Only what's done for Christ will last.
Believe and follow this and vote "no" when the time comes to vote for liquor outlets in Digby. Take no foolish
God's Great Kingdom.
Christ is our example of life. Follow Him. Try to be more like Him and your blessings will be great. If we live a worldly life, vote for worldly things and it means only disaster.

Municipal Official Dismissed

Friday's session of Digby Municipal Council saw several sharp exchanges between a municipal official and council members. On a previous day council heard assistant tax collector Paul Swanburg state his views on the method of tax collection in force by the municipality. His views were in disagreement with those of the council. Friday morning Swanburg was asked for his resignation.

Warden Ronald Morehouse said that although Mr. Swanburg was refused a written reason for his dismissal, "the councillors know the reason and so does Mr. Swanburg". Warden Morehouse declined to disclose the reason behind the move.

Following his refusal to resign, the council by motion decided to discontinue his services effective June 15. It was then decided by the meeting to have "all business pertaining to tax collections operated and directed from the municipal office." A later motion authorized advertising for an assistant tax collector to replace the former appointee.

Smith's Cove councillor M. P. Gott made a "public apology" to the council for "lack of judgement" shown when she had assisted former assistant tax collector Swanburg in preparing a letter sent to all councillors late last year. This action, she said, may have been a factor in bringing about the situation which the council had dealt with during its present session.

Mr. Swanburg said the letter he had prepared expressed certain criticisms of the present tax structure and proposed new methods.

The council at their session on Friday decided to make no change in its present tax collection policy which provides that the municipal clerk-treasurer be tax collector without additional salary but with a salaried assistant.

The former assistant tax collector had on a previous day during the session stated he felt a salaried tax collector with full authority could do a better job. He stated having an unsalaried tax collector offered no incentive to that official. He said also a policy regarding tax collections should be adopted to apply across the municipality and to all tax payers. The warden in reply said this was the present policy.

Arrange For Meeting Of Mayors

A proposed meeting of mayors and wardens from the towns and municipalities of Shelburne, Yarmouth and Digby will probably not take place until July.

At a recent meeting of Yarmouth town council, deputy mayor Lynch wanted to know the reasons for delay in calling the meeting.

The mayor explained that when in Digby recently he had talked with the mayor and municipal warden. They had suggested that when the regional meeting of the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities met in Yarmouth would be a good time for the meeting.

Mayor Emin therefore stated that the proposed meeting would be called to start immediately after the business session of the regional meeting of the municipalities union had been completed.

Leads Class

Miss Carolyn Arnold, student at Acadia University, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Arnold, Digby, was leader with a mark of 80 in the girl's sacred vocal solo class, low voice, under 20 years, in the New Brunswick Music Festival held in Saint John, N. B.

Miss Arnold also led in another class with a mark of 81 and came third in another class, also with a mark of 81.

Dr. McCleave Turns First Sod

Dr. J. R. McCleave, chief of the medical staff at Digby General Hospital, turned the first sod which officially marked the beginning of construction of the new hospital, Friday afternoon.

Dr. McCleave was introduced by F. C. Purdy, president of the hospital board, who commended the people of the Digby area on the gigantic undertaking of a new 90-bed medical centre. He said that the willingness to give towards the endeavour has been tremendous, and thanks to faith in the economy of the area Digby will have hospital facilities second to none.

Victor Cardoza, MLA for Digby, said that this is a momentous occasion, and expressed hope that hospital efforts shall continue to be successful.

Father David Stokes gave the invocation. Rev. R. R. Winchester led in prayer. Representatives were present from Annapolis, Clare, Municipality of Digby and the Digby Town Council.

A Florence Nightingale Tea was held at the nurses' residence immediately following the ceremony, proceeds from which were for the new hospital building fund.

To Purchase New Pumper

At a special meeting of the fire department it was unanimous that a new pumper be purchased from LaFrance Fire Engine and Foamite Corp. Ltd. The unit will cost approximately $17,500.00 and will contain all necessary equipment to go into immediate operation on arrival and after underwriter tests are made and the vehicle is accepted by the department. It is expected that this vehicle will serve the town of Digby and the outside districts now being serviced by the department.

The present vehicle available to service the outside districts is the original motorized vehicle procured by the town in 1935 and is not suitable for this service. Unfortunately this is the only vehicle which can be used, as the regulations call for the more recent pumper purchased in 1950 to be available for the town at all times.

The purchase of this vehicle will bring to a total some $50,000 which the members of the fire department have purchased over the past twelve years from their own funds for the protection of the citizens of this area which has meant that if this was not the case the tax rate would probably be much higher, as they certainly would have had to go to the council for funds. At the present time the department has a full financial program of fund raising on to raise the funds to pay for this new vehicle. Many generous donations have been made over the past few months.

There is a sum of $7,608.12 in the fund at this time and it is the aim of the department to raise the remainder of the money at the earliest possible date in order to save interest charges. President Buddy Barr has been most energetic in this campaign to purchase a new pumper. Anyone who wishes to make a donation to this fund may do so by forwarding a cheque to the fire department. Those who have already donated have been thanked most gratefully by the department.

V.O.N. Seeks Hospital Space

At a meeting of the Local Association V.O.N., held at the Court House, Digby, on Tuesday, it was decided to again request that space be made available in the new Digby General Hospital for space in the building.

The June Drive was set to begin on June 17th. A grant of $500 from the provincial organization was received. John Nichols presided at the meeting.

Honors Captain Conley

Capt. A. Roy Conley, master of the CPR Ferry Princess of Acadia, was honored on Thursday by a testimonial luncheon aboard ship and sponsored by the Digby Kiwanis Club. Above is seen Maynard C. Denton (left) presenting the Captain with a gift on behalf of the Kiwanis Club and Joseph Hattie (right) on behalf of those present.

Capt. Conley, who retired yesterday, had 45 years service on the run. He captained the Princess Helene from 1916 until the ferry was replaced by the Princess of Acadia, formerly the Princess of Nanaimo, late last month. The skipper has made 21,000 crossings of the 47-mile route across the Bay of Fundy.

The luncheon was chaired by J. J. Brittain, president of the Kiwanis Club, and master of ceremonies was Chester Levy. Mr. Levy remarked that in its early years Digby Kiwanis luncheons had been held on the Princess Helene. Attending the luncheon on Thursday were two of the oldest charter members of the club, Mr. Denton and F. C. McBride.

Speaker at the luncheon was V. G. Cardoza, MLA, who reviewed the history of transportation on the Bay of Fundy, particularly on the Saint John-Digby run. He began his historical sketch from 1783, one hundred and eighty years ago when two packets operated across the Bay to Digby and Annapolis Royal. He mentioned the "Sally", sailed by Capt. Belyen, Saint John; the "Mary Ann", which made weekly trips; the constant service until 1811 by the "Matilda" and the "Harm", which sailed at the end of war of 1812. In 1827 the first steam vessel, forerunner of steam service of today, plied the Bay. Mr. Cardoza traced the Bay transportation through such ships as the "Henrietta", "Gaelle", "Royal Tar", "Fairy Queen", "Pilot", "Empress", "Scud", "Monticello", "Prince Rupert", "St. George", "Empress", the "Princess Helene" and now the "Princess of Acadia". He congratulated Capt. Conley on his years of service on three Bay of Fundy ships and on his 21,000 safe crossings of the Helene.

Mr. Cardoza was introduced by F. C. Purdy. Other speakers were Mayor V. L. Bent, Captain Steele, commanding officer of HMCS Cornwallis, and Rev. Laurence of Annapolis Royal.

Attending were representatives of service clubs and organizations from Digby, Bear River, Weymouth, Clare and Annapolis Royal.

The dining salon was decorated with flowers for the occasion and significant about the table centre at the captains' table was that besides other blooms it contained one mayflower, emblematic of Nova Scotia, and a violet, emblematic of New Brunswick.

Vandals At Work

Portions of Digby Fire Department's property have recently been destroyed due to vandalism. A department spokesman told the Courier Monday that screening and windows on the east side of their Malden Lane building have been broken by children who play in the area.

The official pointed out that $17,000 is now being spent for a new truck, and such extra expense as replacing windows, sometimes whole sashes, provides further headaches for the department.

He added that the department is most willing for youngsters to play ball or other games on their Malden Lane premises, but says some definite action must be taken if such vandalism continues.

Hughes Urges A "No" Vote

The Digby Baptist Male Quartette, consisting of Wallace Hodgson, Donald Brown, Paul Snow and J. J. Brittain, attended Grace United Church on Sunday morning and rendered three selections, one especially in keeping with Family Sunday. Organist for the quartette was Mrs. Jean Olsen, and for the general service Miss Margaret Black.

Rev. R. H. Hughes preached a sermon in keeping with Family Sunday in which he said that as a parent we are under judgment by the children. What you want your child to be, he said, you must be yourself. A parent, he continued, must give the child guidance, encouragement, a friendship grown out of trust and confidence, love, security and a pleasant memory. He closed his discourse with the admonition that what a parent does in the May 28 plebiscite will influence the child tomorrow and will decide what kind of town you make for the child today and for generations to come.

Flowers were placed in the church in memory of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Turnbull by the family; Alice Hand-spiker and Louise O'Neill by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford O'Neill; Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Syda by daughter, Mrs. Ken Berkwith; Mrs. David Ellis by Greta, and Mrs. Effie Snow by the family.

Minor Hockey Banquet

The Digby Minor Hockey League, which operates under the auspices of the Digby Regional High School, will hold its annual banquet on Saturday, May 18, at 6:30 p.m. The guest speaker at the banquet will be Allister MacNeill, of the Chicago Black Hawks — one of the few Maritimers in the National Hockey League.

The Digby Minor Hockey League has functioned with High School supervision for ten years and has had a major banquet for five years. Previous honouree guests at Minor League banquets have been Forbes Kennedy, Major Fred Kelly, Maurice Richard, Danny Galloway and now Allister MacNeill.

The banquet this year is to be held in the High School auditorium at a low cost in order that all boys may afford to attend. This low cost is made possible by the mothers of the league who donate food and cooking to the banquet.

The league is operated under the direction of Wallace Hodgson and Arnold McCalm, assisted by William McLeod, Harry McPherson, Cpl. R. Douglas, Tommy Wood and Donald Brown. Coaching of the small boys is done by the High School students.

The organizers of the banquet hope for a large gathering of players and their families, together with anyone else interested in the cause of Minor Hockey in the Digby area.

Receives Degree

One hundred and nine graduates received degrees Tuesday at Mount Saint Vincent College. Convocation exercises took place in the Cardinal Cushing auditorium with His Grace, The Most Rev. J. Gerald Berry, D.D., Archbishop of Halifax, presiding.

The graduating class was the largest in the history of the college.

Miss Marion Thompson, Toronto, Field Secretary for U.C.W. of the United Church of Canada, was guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Marshall, King St. over the weekend.

Announces Graduates

Acadia University has announced the following graduates from this area: Loretta Sarah Porter, Digby; Wilfred Gordon Wetmore, Annapolis Royal; Bachelor of Science — Joseph William Johnson, Karsdale; Bachelor of Education — Willard Parker Clayton, Digby; Non-degree diploma, applied science certificate — Raymond Garry Rice, Weymouth; Diploma in Secretarial Science — Loretta Sarah Porter, Digby; Licentiate in Music — Alexandra Jean Anderson, Annapolis Royal.

Lions Club To Sponsor Safe Driving Contest

The Digby Lions Club is again to sponsor a safe driving contest for the Teenagers of Digby County. In the past this contest has been called a Safe Driving Road-E-O, but due to the confusion caused by the public mixing this term with the one rodeo, the change in name has resulted.

Chairman of the committee in charge is the Chief of Police Webb Dunn and to date about eleven boys and girls have signified their intention to participate.

The contest is divided into two parts — a written test and a practical driving test. It is understood the written test will be given on Saturday, May 18, at 2 p.m., in the Lions Club Hall. The practical driving test will be given on King Street, in front of the High School, on May 25.

The test and skills are prepared by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada. Rigid supervision of the written test and a standard system of instructions to judges on scoring make the contest as fair as possible.

It is interesting to note, the Digby winner of last year, George Holdsworth, went on to win the Maritime Championship and ultimately the Dominion Championship. So our teen drivers this year will have a high standard to shoot for.

The interest of our citizens is solicited and you are asked to come up to King Street and see our youth demonstrate its skill behind the wheel.

Mrs. Frances Reading, Truro was a visitor in Digby last week.

Addresses Fish & Game

Donald Dodds, wild life biologist with the provincial lands and forests department, told the Digby East Fish & Game Association meeting that winter loss of deer had been heavy in Cape Breton and the eastern end of the province.

The snows came too late, Mr. Dodds said, and deer were being driven out early to find fodder.

Cars and dogs are counting for a heavy toll of deer this spring, he stated. Between Whycocomagh and Baddeck, 17 deer had recently been killed in a short period. Dogs are also killing deer in many areas of the province, particularly in the western end. He said dogs are accounting for a heavy toll of deer on Long Island in Digby County. Efforts are underway to curb the menace by shooting dogs. Mr. Dodds said. But this work is hampering lands and forests personnel in carrying out other tasks in game management.

The winter loss of deer in Western Nova Scotia was significant, Mr. Dodds told the meeting. He expressed disappointment that Yarmouth County had not been opened for deer this year as this would have assisted in the work of studying the effect of a closed season. A lengthening of the closed period beyond one year, he said, allowed many other factors to enter and affect the results.

Considerable progress has been made in recent months in the province in the matter of wild life preservation, Mr. Dodds said.

He cited three instances and said one of these was the setting up of the first joint provincial and federal fisheries advisory committee in Canada. This group will coordinate in fisheries research programs federally and provincially. Another progressive step was the setting up of a wild life and recreation segment in the voluntary economic planning program, Mr. Dodds said.

C. E. Edwards, Inspector of Schools, is in Charlottetown P.E.I. to address the annual Convention of the P.E.I. Home and School Federation. Other speaking engagements include Rotary. Mr. Edwards is Eastern Vice-President of the Canadian Home and School and Parent Teacher Federation.

Discuss Digby Traffic Situation

Chief Police Webster Dunn chaired a meeting of Digby merchants and citizens held at the Digby Fire Hall on Tuesday evening to discuss the traffic problems of Digby.

The discussion revolved around the parking situation and the obstruction to the flow of traffic through Main St. caused by trucks and transports unloading in the downtown section.

One of the remedies suggested for the problem with trucks and transports was to have a depot from which smaller vehicles could distribute goods brought into town by truck and transport. Because of the summer tourist season coming, because more cars are anticipated because of the new boat and increased business expected it was thought the depot should get in operation as soon as possible.

Many ideas to solve the parking problem were put forth but since most of the ideas would need time to execute the consensus of opinion was that police would have to clamp down on merchants using up the parking space until better facilities for parking are prepared. Meters, it was thought would have to be installed in the area near the post office and parallel parking instituted.

Two problems, V. G. Cardoza said, were facing the traffic authorities. They were trying to develop an orderly flow of traffic so as to prevent congestion and to find sufficient parking space for people coming into town to do their shopping. It is necessary he said to get people to stop and stay as long as possible, buy as much as possible and bring as many dollars as possible into the town. Merchants, he said, are in business to make money and to make money they must make sales and so they must make place for people to park.

One way streets came up for discussion. One suggestion set forth was to fill in the bank from the bandstand to the Salvation Army, use it for parking space, have a board walk and benches for tourists to enjoy the scenery and shoppers to rest. Other places mentioned which might be looked into for lease, purchase or obtain in some way to utilize for parking space were that of the Acadia Lines, D. A.R. station, Cannon Bank, land along First Avenue from Town Hall to Fire Hall and the old post office. It was also suggested that removal of the boulevard might release extra parking space.

In the matter of the Acadia Lines property, Joseph Hattie was asked to approach the management regarding the use or purchase of the property for parking.

It is expected the old band room now used to house electrical equipment will be torn down this summer and will provide parking space for merchants.

The matter of parking area along the abutment from the Salvation Army to the bandstand was discussed regarding cost and what possible revenue from meters might be expected. There are presently ninety meters in town which yield approximately $4000 each year.

Golf Play On Digby Course

The Nova Scotia Open golf championships for professionals and top-flight amateurs (12 and under handicaps) will be played at the Digby Pines, June 15-16. Hymie Webber, Digby club president and Dave Daley, NSGA representative for Digby, assured the NSGA that the Digby course would be in good shape for the championship. Five hundred dollars in prize money goes to the pros in this tourney.

NURSES TO GRADUATE

A total of 48 nurses will receive degrees or diplomas at the Dalhousie University convocation May 16.

Among the nurses graduating is Shirley Mae Potter, Plympton.

To Conduct Evangelistic Services

Commissioner and Mrs. W. Wycliffe Booth will be in Digby Monday evening, May 20. They will conduct an evangelistic service at Grace United Church at 7:30 p.m. This is just one of a scheduled series of meetings to be held throughout Nova Scotia.

Commissioner Booth, L.D., the Territorial Commander of The Salvation Army in Canada and Bermuda, has a rich heritage of Salvation Army knowledge and training, being a grandson of The Army's founder and first General, William Booth, and son of General Bramwell Booth.

Wycliffe Booth was born at Barnet, England, and entered the work of The Salvation Army in October, 1915. During the years of his boyhood and youth, his father was working day and night organizing The Army's rapidly expanding evangelistic and social services. Thus his life was lived in an intense "Army" atmosphere for all his sisters and brother were Officers of The Army.

In 1923 he married Captain Renee Peyron, whose parents, Commissioner and Mrs. Peyron, were the Territorial Commanders of The Salvation Army in France. Commissioner and Mrs. Booth have six children who now live in the United States, England, Italy, France and Switzerland. Four are Salvation Army Officers.

Commissioner Booth first visited Canada in 1924 when A.D.C. to his father, General Bramwell Booth. When he journeyed across the Dominion on his return in 1955, he was greatly impressed with the tremendous growth of both land and people.

For several years as A.D.C. to Bramwell Booth he accompanied the General on his worldwide tours. This included a visit to nearly every country in Europe and long journeys to the Far East and Australasia.

Excellent organizing ability, business acumen and a capacity for breaking new ground has characterized the work of Commissioner and Mrs. Booth. While mainly interested in evangelism, they have inaugurated and supported many ventures for the care of the poor and needy in the countries in which they have laboured.

Mrs. Booth has given outstanding leadership in Women's Social Service work, and has been interested in many ventures affecting the well-being of the poor and needy, and particularly the plight of the unmarried mother and drug addict.

On June 4, 1955, Commissioner Booth was honoured with the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa, by the University of Western Ontario.

John H. Hesp, Tangmore Farm, R. N. 1, Bolton, Ontario. March 13, 1963.

General Motors Products of Canada Limited, Oshawa, Ontario.

Gentlemen:

In 1947 I bought my first Chevrolet truck to use on my farm. Since then I have used only Chevrolet. My last one had over 70,000 miles when I traded and never required any major repairs.

I haul feed, fertilizer, grain and livestock over fields and rough country roads—and that's where I find the suspension on my 1953 pickup most valuable. Loaded or empty the ride is outstanding. There's lots of power for the heaviest loads and the handy Fleetside body has ample room for all kinds of cargo.

From my past experience I know I can depend on Chevrolet to give me the kind of reliable and economical service I want from a truck.

Yours truly,
John H. Hesp.

"LOTS OF POWER... AMPLE ROOM... RIDE OUTSTANDING"

Mr. Hesp's complete satisfaction with Chevrolet Trucks is shared by a great many other Canadian farmers, from coast to coast. Truckers and businessmen also agree — Chevrolet Trucks work harder — last longer — cost less! Before you buy any new truck for your farm, see your local Chevrolet Truck dealer. He'll show you exactly how and why a Chevrolet Truck is your best buy!

AN OPEN LETTER TO VOTERS

You will be asked within a few days to vote on the question: "Are you in favor of the sale of liquor for consumption on premises licensed by the Liquor License Board?" When the votes are counted, either one of two possible results will follow:

1) If the majority votes YES, applications submitted by established proprietors who meet the exacting standards of the Liquor License Board will be brought before a well-advertised public hearing after which one or more may be approved;

2) OR, if the majority votes NO, the sale of liquor by the glass will be denied the general public. There will be no new outlets and existing clubs will be restricted to the privileges they now legally hold, and this position will be frozen for a period of at least three years.

The Innkeepers Guild of Nova Scotia, which represents the active management of nearly every hotel in the Province, has consistently advocated a change in our liquor laws. Why? Because we are a "service" industry, dedicated to serving the people of our home towns and the ever increasing number of people "on the go" the best way we can. To be able to improve our facilities and to meet competition from other provinces and countries, we were convinced a change in our liquor legislation was necessary.

In addition to providing better home town facilities, the hotel industry through an increased tourist trade can bring far-reaching benefits to all of us. Tourists leave thousands of new dollars each year in Nova Scotian communities which are equipped to serve their needs. But they are quick to by-pass those places which don't supply the services they have become accustomed to both at home and away from home.

Assisted financially by being allowed to sell alcoholic beverages by the glass, the hotel industry can provide better food and accommodation, additional employment, new construction and renovations, and more prosperity for us all. Merchants know that licensed outlets bring increased business to their communities.

Why not allow your community to share these benefits by voting YES? It's up to you.

Yours sincerely,

INNKEEPERS GUILD OF NOVA SCOTIA

Pte. Hugh Trask, with the "Deceived, deserted, friendless, my heart turned to bitterness, I wanted to die. But the Salvation Army found me. In their Home for Unmarried Mothers I was well cared for. And understanding hearts restored the will to live. It's a heart warming thing to know that there is a place to turn to in time of trouble."

The doors of The Salvation Army's havens, hospitals, homes and hostels lead to relief and hope for men, women and children who have fallen on evil days. This work needs your support. Won't you help to keep these doors open? In aiding others you will bring joy to your own heart.

About This and That The Liquor Plebiscite

First when the liquor plebiscite for this town was talked about early this Spring or during the winter we at The Digby Courier made our stand clear that we were personally opposed to liquor outlets for the town and we remain, with the same stand. We did, however, also state, although not in the same words, that this plebiscite was not a sale of liquor but an opportunity for the people to express their wishes. In order to make it a democratic vote we did say that our columns were open to either the yeas or nays to express their views. We think that approach to be only fair play as far as the vote is concerned and so we are also remaining with that stand as the vote nears.

Reasons why a "no" vote should be given in the forthcoming plebiscite have been written in letters and advertisements by others and hardly need repeating in this particular column. We do wish, however, to draw your attention to a sermon on Sunday morning by the Rev. R. H. Hughes when he pleaded with his congregation to vote "no" for the sake of the youth of our town. We hope every man and woman will vote not for himself or herself but for his or her child. When putting the child's welfare before his or her own pleasure the voter often sees the situation in a very different light and surely then the decision he or she makes must be the one his or her conscience dictates. Few, with any sense of responsibility at all will do what they feel will be detrimental to their own child or the child of another. As Mr. Hughes pointed out - it is the parent who is on trial in the forthcoming plebiscite.

Further to the above it is generally agreed that youth does not want more liquor outlets and some have voiced this through our columns. They have also done so through other media and while we do not find it so shocking for youth to lead their elders we quote from a sermon by Rev. Roy Campbell in the May 9 issue of the Oxford Journal -

"Observing recent articles by the Allied Youth in their poignant appeal to their elders to Vote 'NO' in the forthcoming liquor plebiscite in the rural sections of this county, it seemed a shocking thing that the juniors should have to appeal to the adults about a matter so patently evil. We are in the throes of a revival of the very decadence which precipitated the downfall of the Roman Empire. The affluent society soon becomes an impotent society and falls easy prey to the enemy."

Were We Fooled!

Even an article in the daily press last week indicated that now Spring had really come. Daffodils, hyacinths, crocuses were in full bloom and mayflowers were found in the fields. Who would have thought to wake on the morning of May 11 to find three inches of snow on the ground, the flakes still falling, and the wind howling like a winter's day? So unusual, thought the editor, that she decided to take a picture or two for proof in later years. For well we remember previous years when the sun shone brightly, the weather was warm and we ventured out on May 11 unhampered by coats of any kind.

By Monday when we write these lines, the weather has again turned Springlike. The daffodils, pitifully drooped and covered with snow on Saturday, have dared to raise their heads to face the sunshine as though Saturday hadn't existed. We hope the apple blossoms won't be delayed by the weekend winteriness. The festival is little more than two weeks away.

Preserve The Forests

While there are other ways to help preserve our forests in the best condition for future generations, we all agree that fire is the quickest way in which our forests can be destroyed. During National Forest Conservation Week, May 12 to 18, we draw your attention to the extra care needed in preserving our forests from the hazards of fire.

F. A. Harrison, President of Canadian Forestry Association, warns that even before the green leaves or grass appear is a dangerous fire period in the Canadian forest in April and early May. In some years this period results in more fire damage than any single season of the year, it is noted. So care of the forest should begin this week and continue throughout the summer and fall.

Mr. Harrison continues: "Although we trust there will never be another year like 1961 in which nearly 10,000 fires damaged over 9 million acres of Canadian forest land, it is still a fact that 80 per cent of all forest fires are caused by human carelessness, and are thus preventable."

Forest Conservation Week is only one week of fifty-two dealing with fire, at home and out of doors. Care is necessary during every one of those 52 weeks.

Meet The Salvation Army

Almost everybody in every part of the world has seen members of the Salvation Army doing their work. Perhaps you only know of them as people who stand on street corners and collect money or sing hymns. But the good they do for millions of people can hardly be measured.

It all began in 1865 when a young Methodist revivalist named William Booth was in London. He stood in a dirty street in the East End of the city and prayed for the people who had gathered around him. All he received in return was jeers and stones. Yet Booth and his wife and a few followers returned day after day. They invited the people to come to the meetings, and they tried to bring religion to these people.

This was the beginning of the Salvation Army. It was organized by "General" William Booth along semi-military lines with a regular uniform and officers. It first received its name in 1878.

Today the Salvation Army has helped drunkards start a new life and it has found new opportunities for ex-convicts to rejoin society. It has run rescue homes, lodging houses, slum settlements, and it maintains fresh-air camps, day nurseries and free clinics. It provides homes for helpless old people and distributes clothing, coal and meals to those who need them.

The Salvation Army gets its support from voluntary contributions to the National Red Shield Appeal held in the month of May each year. Today it has more than 15,000 posts throughout the world and it maintains about 1,500 social institutions.

Rossway

The Rossway Women's Club met on Wednesday evening with Mrs. Waters Comeau, eight members and one guest attending.

The Red Cross receipts amounted to $26.70 being collected by Mrs. Nelson Raymond, Mrs. Darrell Lewis, Mrs. Thurston Banks, and Mr. Maynard Hersey.

Since the last business meeting the newly acquired unused school building has been taken over by the hall trustees. Essential things such as rewiring it for electricity etc has been done so it could be occupied and the club helped financially in paying for this with their current funds until such time that the hall can carry on by itself. The sum of one hundred and eight dollars being held by Mrs. John Gidney - a former treasurer and being raised for major hall repairs was also given over to Mrs. Edson Specht secretary and treasurer of the hall to be used for repairs and renovations.

The sum of three dollars has been sent to the Unitarian Service Committee for needy children. It is expected from now on quitting will be resumed and carried on through the summer months at the hall whenever members or any one wishing to do so may meet and quilt as well as the club having their monthly meeting there.

After a short humorous programme the hostess served refreshments.

A recent Sunday visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Peters was Mrs. William Thibault of Ashmore. The Baptist Women's Missionary Society held their monthly meeting on Tuesday evening last with Mrs. Loren Banks.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Peters and family of Halifax have been recent guests of Mrs. Peter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Thibault. On their return home they were accompanied by Mrs. Thibault who visited Mr. and Mrs. Peters for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith VanTassel and baby spent Sunday recently with Mrs. VanTassel's mother, Mrs. Amy Amoro at Plympton. Since that time Mrs. Amoro has become a patient in the Digby General Hospital.

LITTLE RIVER

Miss Edith Trask is spending a few weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Arlie Merritt and Mr. Merritt, Barton.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Trask of Yarmouth spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Trask.

Minister Goes To Ontario

Rev. Lorne B. Nethercott, pastor of the Weymouth-South Range and Southville Churches of Christ (Disciples), has tendered his resignation as their pastor, to become effective on June 30, 1963.

FAREWELL TO "PRINCESS HELENE"
From distant shores we have watched "Helene" Enter Digby Basin, calm and serene, From the oft rough waters of Fundy Bay; Past the stately "Pines" looking down from the hill, Listening for her welcome whistle (I can hear it still) Enroute to Digby from Saint John for the day.

Over 30 years of faithful service captains and the Princess Gave the public with both pride and success; Through years of perilous wartime, Through wintry blasts and summer calm, Safely plied "Princess Helene", guided by God and man, Between Saint John and Digby, regal and sublime.

But alas... over the years time and tide for no man wait, And the faithful Princess Helene learns of her fate; "A larger ship" the commercial cry from far and near;... An Indian Princess in white comes from the far West. Farewell faithful "Helene", may yours be a well earned haven of rest. Replaced by "Princess of Acadia"... '63 the year. —Observer.

IN A MAY SNOWSTORM

Though you are now, not welcome You're most beautiful to see Fleecy blobs of cotton on every bush and tree Chick-a-dees are peeping from Neath blanket covered bough The happy, skimming swallow Seems much bewildered now. Hyacinths stand in powdered wigs, In pink and purple dressed, While tulips are marching Knee deep and two abreast In padded lanes of soft white down, White coronet upon each head, And clad in emerald gown.

The canopy above them Is dyed a dark grey hue With here and there a window Of sunlight pushing through. 'Tis winter all about them While they bravely face the blast, Waiting there in silence 'Til the May snowstorm is past.

Made Many Musical Records

The name Douglas Foley, Victoria Beach, is not known only by its many appearances in the "Voice of the People" column of the Chronicle-Herald but it is also seen on folksong records and, what is more, the singing voice pleases large audiences.

Mr. Foley's first record was titled "My Old Home Is Empty". Both the lyrics and musical compositions of the songs are by Mr. Foley and in one case he spent 4 hours on the lyric and 211 hours getting the melody to fit the lyric.

The second record made by Mr. Foley entitled "Annapolis Valley Parade" reached the Western Hit Parade. Other numbers were "My Home On The Annapolis River", "Don't Laugh Because I'm Old And Grey", "Haven Of Rest On The Fundy Shore", "Graveyard In Japan", "Our Baby", "Bounty Come Home", "Lonesome For Mother", "Little Boy's Prayer", "Queen Of The Seas" and "Pages Of Letters".

Mr. Foley, it is learned, has several contracts with industrial companies for advertising material, and is doing some work for Irving Oil Co. He has just finished lyrics for a musical composition by one of Canada's leading musicians, Mr. Ernest Dakin, formerly of Digby, Middleton and now of Halifax. The title is "In A Dream". He has correspondence from John H. Glenn, Jr., of the National Aeronautics Space Administration, Houston, Texas, to whom he has sent some of his poetic compositions.

Mr. Foley is married to the former Helen Boudreau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Boudreau, Clementsport. They have three children: Robert, married and living in Kentville; Rose Marie, New Minas; Richard, at home, and a granddaughter, Shirley Ann Foley.

A fish retailer by trade, Mr. Foley in his earlier years had done radio and stage work, having travelled with the Indian violinist, Joe Perall. He is a member of the Lions Club, the United Baptist Church and is leader of a Boys' Club.

Mr. Foley is interested in historical events, has a fondness for his native Victoria Beach where he says he can see the beauty with which God surrounded us. ## Should Girl 'Stick', Hoping He'll Change?

THE WEEKLY LETTER: "I am nineteen years old. My boyfriend likes other girls. I see him very seldom because he feels it is alright for him to be with other girls. Yet, if I so much as talk to a boy, he gets upset about it. What can a woman do when she has a no-good man? Love him, stick with him, pray someday he will change? He goes riding and to them than to you. If he goes with others, he has no right to expect you to sit idly by and do nothing.

If a woman recognizes she has a "no-good" man, she should consider herself lucky if she finds out while they are still no more than friends.

The world is full of hope but foolish indeed is the woman who marries a man with the idea that she is going to "change" him. Things just don't turn out that way. If a man is to ever "change," the incentive must come from within himself. Marriage does not "change" a man, although it might motivate him to try to change himself. But, play it safe. If you plan to try changing a man, get the job done before you marry him. You might discover before the marriage date that it's an impossible assignment.

OUR REPLY: A boyfriend who spends all of his time with other girls must be more of a boyfriend report mentioned that a committee had been set up to study the possibilities of extending the auditorium in order that a stage might be provided for the many demands in school and Home and School programmes. He said that this year the struggle to provide a sidewalk on the main road had been accomplished and although it was still not the desired type, it was fulfilling the purpose of keeping the school children off the main highway during the year. Mr. Lewis said, resolutions had been presented regarding the teaching of French in the lower school grades as had another resolution been presented that music be taught in the schools as part of the curriculum. Swings had been erected at the old school, prior to its closing, but as yet, a great deal more was necessary to making the school playgrounds adequate. Mr. Lewis expressed his thanks to the executive who has so ably assisted him during his presidency and introduced the new president, Mr. E. Adelaar, who in turn moved a vote of thanks to the past president for his capable leadership.

Prepare Cook Book

The Receipt Book of Les Patronnesses de la Colonie de la Jeunesse Acadienne Inc. was officially launched on Tuesday evening, May 7th, when a copy of the book was presented to Hon. Senator Comeau of Comeauville by Mrs. Daniel Tufts, general director. The presentation was made in the presence of Rev. L. F. d'Entremont, President of St. Ann's College of Church Point. Rev. Yvon Lantegne, chaplain of the association, also assisted at the ceremony.

The purpose of preparing this recipe book has been to promote our charitable endeavor towards the Colonie de la Jeunesse Acadienne, a summer camp for boys operated under the guidance of Rev. Lantegne of St. Ann's college staff, at Victor's Lake at Concession a few miles southeast of Church Point.

La Guizine Acadienne d'aujourd'hui is a bilingual book containing 166 pages of old Acadian recipes preserved through the years plus modern cooking in Acadian homes. In publishing this book of practical recipes, the association hopes to render easier and more agreeable the task of preparing foods, by offering the favorite recipes of its members.

The book will be sold through the regional directresses of the association in each village of Clare and persons wishing to receive a copy may receive one by writing to the Directress General, Mrs. Daniel Tufts of Lower Saulnierville. The sale of the recipe book will commence immediately and the proceeds will enrich the coffers of Les Dames Patronnesses for their charitable work towards the boys camp. — A. L. Melanson.

This year's Acadian Festival will be held from August 9th to 15th inclusive. A tentative program has been drawn up as follows: Friday, Aug 9, Acadian Ball at the Clare District High School where the crowning of the Evangeline and Gabriel of the Festival will be crowned; Saturday, August 10th, Chicken barbecue at Major's Point at Belliveau's Cove; Sunday, August 11th, Parade of historic and religious floats with proposed course from Saulnierville to St. Ann's Campus grounds followed by a bazaar by Les Dames Patronnesses at Church Point; Monday, August 12th, sport events at the Clare District High School; August 13, La Jardiniere Garden Club flower show; Wednesday, August 14th, festival banquet; Thursday, August 15th, religious services in all churches of Clare and in the afternoon a sports meet of all the youth clubs of Clare will take place on the grounds of the Clare District High School at Meteghan River.

The Acadian festival was started in 1956 under the sponsorship of the Clare Chamber of Commerce and for the first four difficult years, Dr. Julius Comeau of Meteghan was at the helm and in 1960, Edouard LeBlanc of Saulnierville was elected president and the following succeeded him: 1961, Jean R. Doucet, 1962 and 1963 A. P. Melanson, both of Church Point.

The first Centenary of the coming of the first settlers to Clare namely Joseph Dugas in 1766, was celebrated in 1866 on September 10th at historical site of the first cemetery in Clare at Major's Point, where the chicken barbecue and other interesting programs will take place again this year. Major's Point is in Belliveau's Cove. The Acadian Festival committee have been improving the grounds at Major's Point each year and have erected permanent canteen booths and open air dance floor and barbecue pit. Parking is a problem and parking space is being improved to take care of the thousands of cars that will visit the popular chicken barbecue.

Emile O Theriault of Belliveau's Cove is in charge of improvements to the Major's Point grounds. Mr. Theriault has plans to erect a new chapel on the famous first Acadian cemetery lot to replace the present chapel. The Acadians of Clare will be asked to give financial assistance for the project.

The Acadian Festival Committee is interested in publicizing the Historical Site in Belliveau's Cove. A sign board near the Grosses Coques bridge indicates the direction to the Major's Point site. The committee has erected a small barbecue pit on the grounds for tourists and local inhabitants who wish to use the grounds for family picnics.

441 Voted "No" In 1963 & 1948

With a majority of 204, the vote "no" exceeded the "yes" vote when citizens of Digby were asked on Tuesday "Are you in favor of the sale of liquor for consumption on premises licensed by the liquor license board?" Those in favor numbered 237, and 14 ballots were rejected. The total number of voters were 692 out of a possible approximate 1300.

A coincidence is that in 1948 an exact number, 441, voted "no" on the same question as above in Digby. At that time 191 were in favor, making the majority against 250. The total votes cast were 658 with evident spoils of 26. Eligible voters in 1948 seemed to number 1200.

Annapolis Royal town on Tuesday also went to the polls on the question "Are you in favor of the sale of liquor for consumption on premises licensed by the liquor license board?" Out of a possible 453 voters 267 went to the polls with a result of 197 against and 67 voting "yes". Three ballots were spoiled.

Casey Fisheries Expands

Casey Fisheries Ltd., Digby's newest fish processing firm, is carrying out an expansion program which will improve production and efficiency and provide for greater employment.

Included in the expansion program is the installation this week of a Baader 47 fish skinner. This new machine, the first of its kind in the town, will skin 3,000 pounds of fish an hour.

At present the Casey firm, whose president is Joseph Casey, of Victoria Beach, is operating two processing plants, one at Digby and the other at Victoria Beach. Mr. Casey recently purchased the Iron Duke building near the head of the government pier in Digby, which will provide housing for a greatly expanded operation in Digby.

The Iron Duke building previously owned by the National Sea Products is a historic structure in Digby. During the First World War it served as drill headquarters for Canadian troops who trained in Digby before going overseas. It later housed the headquarters of the Digby branch of the Canadian Legion for some years.

The Casey fisheries firm processes fish for export and also supplies National Sea Products locally. Included in the production of the Casey firm is fish for export to the West Indies, Dominican Republic, Haiti and the United States.

Fifty men and women are employed at present but it is expected the work force will be expanded as plant facilities are increased.

Two Teachers Head Digby Campaign

C. Clinton MacInnes and Wallace Hodgson will head the campaign in the town of Digby to raise funds for the new Digby General Hospital now under construction. It is understood that the usual Hospital Fair will not be held in August of this year and a campaign for funds for the hospital now under construction will get underway soon.

The campaign in Digby will be a house-to-house canvass by people dedicated to the hospital cause. Leigh Jayne, general campaign chairman, said that he is looking forward to a good response from the people in Digby for the Digby people are more aware than any other of the urgent need of better hospital facilities here. Besides the money donated is money put into an industry for the area, he commented. While looking for most generous donations from Digby, Mr. Jayne said it would be a big disappointment if the committee were let down here as other eyes are watching and other purse strings are loosened in accordance with the example Digby sets.

Recognized By Chamber Of Commerce

The most outstanding new member last year in the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Halifax, was Donald Snow. Donald is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Snow.

Fisheries Meet

The fisheries sector of the Voluntary Economic Planning Conference for Nova Scotia which was held in Truro last Wednesday, was attended from Digby by Clayton Snow, Edward Twiligh and Vincent Snow. Others were present from Freeport, Westport, Centreville and other Digby Co. points.

Those attending were welcomed by Hon. E. A. Manson, who gave the purpose of the meeting as one to find if it is possible to set up an organization to examine the whole anatomy of the fisheries economy, to determine its strengths and weaknesses and then to get people to plan and work together to make the best possible use of what they have.

Voluntary Economic Planning, Mr. Manson said, is aimed at encouraging candid self-appraisal and planning for improvement. He said it is not a scheme to promote regimentation by government but government contributes to encourage and reinforce the efforts of individuals and private groups to improve their own circumstances. Voluntary Economic Planning is not aimed at turning men into machines that can serve only as means for increased production of material things. It is aimed also at making the economy such that it will provide expanding opportunities for every individual to realize his own potentialities. He said there are fishermen along the shores, good men, wise men, whose opportunities enable them to only half use their brains and talents.

Mr. Manson spoke highly of the high fish catches, the revenue derived and the advanced processing operations. This came about, he said, by planning.

Other speakers were Premier Robert Stanfield; Hon. G. I. Smith; Prof. W. Y. Smith, Economic Consultant to Nova Scotia; and R. F. Johnson, N. S. Fish Packers Association. Work groups were organized as follows: fresh and frozen fish, including scallops; salt and pickled fish; lobsters; by-products, vessel owners and operators. A panel discussion was held.

In charge of the fisheries sector of the Voluntary Economic Planning was V. M. Knight, Deputy Minister of Trade and Industry.

Mrs. Wallis introduced her topic by recalling the Bible story of David and Jonathan, two staunch friends. She continued by mentioning the qualities which make for lasting friendships between girls and the fine qualities which are essential to beautiful boy and girl friendships. Accepted modes of behavior for teenagers and preparation for marriage were brought into the conclusion of the talk. The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Hughes.

The toast to the Queen was proposed by Miss Joan Milbury and the toast proposed by Miss Nancy Jayne to the mothers was responded to most fittingly by Mrs. Leigh Jayne. Miss Cherry Bittorf proposed the toast to the church and in response Rev. Mr. Hughes remarked on the excellent preparation for church membership and participation received by the girls in CGIT. He traced the history of the founding of the church at Pentecost and its progress in a three year period. He reminded the girls that the Gospel is for the whole world.

Mrs. Clinton MacInnes, past leader CGIT, spoke to the girls and in recognition of mothers, Miss Debby Turnbull read a poem, "My Mother". A Chevron certificate, in recognition of church attendance by the CGIT group, was presented to the president by Mrs. Hughes.

Commentators were Misses Lauren Savary and Pamela Isles as pre-school and young school children modeled the garments made by Grade 10 students; Grade IX fashioned cotton dresses; Grade VII aprons; Grade VIII blouses and skirts, which they had sewn during the year, and Grade X dresses which they had done for themselves. Dresses as appeared to the audience were neatly fitted, well styled, smart and modeled with poise and charm. Materials ranged from cottons to flannels and velvets according to the purpose to which the dress is to be used.

At the close of the exercises the spectators had an opportunity to view the many hand sewn garments, articles and fancy work done by the students under the supervision of their teachers, Mrs. Florence Purves and Miss Grace Vincent.

During the fashion show parade Miss Margaret Black and Miss Joy Peck provided soft music and also accompanied the vocal selections given by Miss Wendy Franklin, soloist, and the Cudmore sisters, Julie Anne and Janice, in their duets.

A credit union is a co-operative society organized under a provincial law, within a specific group of people, for the two-fold purpose of supplying the members of that group with a plan of systematic saving and of making it possible thereby for them to take care of their own credit problems at a legitimate rate of interest. Loans are insured. Credit unions cultivate the habit of thrift, it was stated by the directors. They make money available in time of unfortunate illness or need and they provide an opportunity to render a service to fellow workers.

About This and That Water Safety

Next week, June 2 to 8, is Water Safety Week in Canada. Each week, or more specifically each day, we pick up the newspaper or listen to news broadcasts which bear the sad tidings of accidents here and there. True, drowning accidents are not the highest percentage of these, but the percentage is high enough (about a 1000 drownings a year in Canada) to cause concern and special attention to prevention of this toll is warranted. With the coming of warm weather and vacation time this is a time apropos to draw attention to this toll of human lives.

Learning to swim, of course, is one method of saving lives from drowning. The Canadian Red Cross Water Safety Service, however, reminds us that most of the drownings are caused by falls into the water which indicates that water safety knowledge is just as important as learning to swim, for an individual cannot always control himself when confronted with an accident situation.

Picture an average swimmer falling back-first into the water, says the Water Safety Service. It is, perhaps, his first experience at hitting the water with his body in this position. It will take time and a clear head to re-orient himself into a more familiar body position. Suppose he's fully clothed. He'll weigh more and will need more strength to move himself through the water. Add to this the sudden shock and fear that accompanies the situation and you have the ingredients for another drowning statistic.

It's easy to understand how those classed as non-swimmers may get into trouble, but good swimmers drown too. Being able to swim is important, but this is by no means all. Since ignorance and carelessness cause most drownings, water safety knowledge is just as important as swimming.

Water safety knowledge is common sense! There's no special skill needed to learn and practise it. "It's as easy as falling off a log", but a lot safer.

The Canadian Red Cross Water Safety Service is the recognized authority on Water Safety in Canada. Through this service every family can have the benefits of enjoying water recreation safely, and perhaps be spared the tragedy of a drowning.

June 2 to 8 is Water Safety Week in Canada.

Be Kind — Don't Hitch

Did you ever feel like a heel to pass by some weary looking traveller who is trying to hitch-hike his way along the road? We have and we think most people have. Yet it is only good common sense to pass the hiker unnoticingly. Who by one fleeting glance can determine whether the traveller is an honest-to-goodness worthy companion or just a more polished-looking criminal? Have you noticed that if you run the risk of picking up a hiker and land him at his destination safely that the sense of kindness and compassion more easily overrides good judgment another time? Yet many a person because of his compassion has been robbed and even murdered by the hiker to whom he has been a good Samaritan. The risk is too great. The next time might be the wrong time. The safe and sensible thing to do is to refuse to pick up any hitch-hiker.

Who is the more incompassionate? The one who passes the hitch-hiker? If the hitcher puts himself in the shoes of the car driver he'll realize he is the one who is being unkind in expecting a driver to pick him up. Instead many appear to be disgusted when passed even when common sense knows the rear traffic prevents stopping.

Consider the feelings of those who must pass you by. Be kind — don't hitch — law or no law.

Integrated Approach To Welfare

In common speech the word "welfare" from time immemorial has meant a condition of being, or doing well, and it evokes images of health, happiness, goodness and prosperity.

Friends are concerned for the welfare of friends, fathers for the welfare of sons, children for the welfare of parents. As social responsibility widened, the meaning of "welfare" narrowed, paradoxically but understandably, as when it was incorporated in phrases like "welfare legislation", "department of welfare", "welfare council". It came to be associated with functions and activities that were only part, not the whole, of welfare in its old sense, yet were terribly necessary in the face of dire poverty and other dangerous social ills. Hence such expressions as "Here comes the lady from the welfare", or "He's been on welfare a long time".

But now the wheel is coming full circle. Social welfare agencies are finding that they cannot by themselves succeed in their welfare purposes; other community services and institutions, on their part, are conscious that their work is hampered for lack of the services that are commonly labelled "welfare".

Men are receiving public assistance because they are in poor physical or mental health, or because there are no jobs to be had, or because they have too little education and skill to find work.

Children are failing in school because there is conflict in their families, or are leaving too soon and quickly joining

Weymouth Kiwanis Activities

Much interest is being taken in the activities of the Weymouth Kiwanis Club which was organized seven years ago. It has been an incorporated club for the past three years.

During the year of its initiation, the Kiwanis rented a piece of land at Journey's Lake and since that time, has purchased three different adjoining lots at that site which is used as a park, swimming pool and skating rink. Each summer a registered Red Cross swimming instructor is hired by the club to teach children from Grosses Coques to Plympton the art of swimming. Tests are passed at the close of the season and 265 have passed their test so far.

At the Kiwanis Park, is also a wading pool for the wee tots who can play in the cool water in safety. There are dressing rooms for boys and girls, a club room for parents who wish to wait for the children and each week the grounds are cleared of all debris that might have collected.

Outside of the playgrounds the field is open for picnics to any organization wanting it, and is often used for trailers overnight. Sport boats are seen on the lake, but are not allowed near the restricted areas for children.

For five years the club has sponsored Little League Baseball, providing training and uniforms.

During the winter months, Journey's Lake is used for skating, and on one occasion this past winter 250 children were counted there. Cocoa and hot dogs etc. are provided for skating parties, from the canteen.

The Kiwanis Club is doing a wonderful job for the children of this area, but are still planning more ways to help them. Pres. A. Stockdale and his committee are doing their utmost to develop good wholesome recreation for the children, but funds are desperately needed. Mr. Bernard LeBlanc and his committee are sponsoring a mammoth auction this Saturday (see advertisement) the proceeds to be used for their recreational activities.

Study Church Home Relationship

The monthly meeting of the C.W.F. of Church of Christ held their May meeting at the home of Mrs. Murray Pugh, with president, Mrs. Edgar McDormand presiding.

The C.W.F. prayer was repeated in union followed with the devotion by Mrs. C. McDormand, using scripture Luke 19: 1-10, the theme "I restore it four fold", telling the story of Zaccheus. Circle of prayer was led by Mrs. Burt.

During the business period Mrs. Edgar McDormand read an article on Taiwan of which we studied previously. A news letter read from Mrs. Cecil Fletcher and Mrs. Burt read an article about Miss Heather Matheson of P.E.I. who leaves shortly as a missionary to Jamaica. The group decided to make up school kits as a project for June.

Mrs. Burt led in Bible Study on the making of a Christian home using scripture Ephesians 5:21 end of chapter; chapter 6: 1-10. A home is the oldest institution starting in the Garden of Eden. A husband is the head of a household, of his wife and jointly they are responsible for the teaching of the children and for a Christian Home. It is said that a child brought up in a Christian home nearly never becomes a criminal. Mrs. Burt prepared a Church - Home Quiz to be answered by each individual.

Mission Study with Mrs. Harold Swift was in China. There have been Disciple missionaries in China since 1886, the first being Dr. W. E. Macklin. The first missionaries served amid opposition and aloofness from a country clinging to old ways. They acted as doctors, translated books, fought the drug habits of the people and entered the homes telling the people the gospel story.

There has been conflict in China for many years - In 1927 there was an uprising when missionaries had to leave, some of whom never returned, then in 1937 there was the Japanese war on China.

After the war 1945 - 1951, the missionaries returned until by the end of 1946, nineteen adults were back to their duties. But was again disrupted their work when the communists took over that part of the world and all disciple missionaries returned home. The Chinese Christian leaders are carrying on the work without outside assistance, except for the parcels of clothing etc. that are being sent from time to time.

Many Graduate From St. Ann's

The largest number of graduates in the history of St. Ann's College of Church Point received their diplomas during the convocation exercises held in St. Ann's auditorium with His Excellency, Mgr. Albert Lemenager, Bishop of Yarmouth, presiding. Thirty Bachelor of Arts degrees were conferred and one Honorary Doctor of Education presented to Mr. William Belliveau, of Bellevue's Cove.

Among those receiving their Bachelor of Arts degrees were Gerald Comeau and Francois Comeau, of Meteghan River, N. S., Camille Melanson, Meteghan, N. S.

Mr. William (Willie) Belliveau, of Bellevue's Cove, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Education from St. Ann's for the service he rendered in education of over fifty years. In his acceptance speech, Mr. Belliveau said that it brought great joy to him to receive such an honor from St. Ann's. In speaking to the graduates he said: "Through perseverance and hard work you have succeeded in attaining your goal today and whatever your profession, you will go out into a world which is in confusion."

Modern inventions have speeded up transportation and communications and the automatic technical machines have advanced greatly in recent years. This shows that progress has been made. All progress is not always good because what may appear to be progress may actually be retrogression.

There still remains some good in this beautiful world of ours. There is still the families that possess love and we also have colleges which enable our youth to obtain good Christian education, such as St. Ann's has been accomplishing since its beginning in 1890.

Jean-Louis Chasson, of Cheticamp, N. S., was valedictorian. Mr. Chasson stated that graduation day will always remain dear to their hearts. Speaking on behalf of the graduates, it is truly a day of joy. It is the last stone of our education at St. Ann's. It was our parents who laid the first stone when they taught us to talk and pray, and then the work continued in the primary schools, to be completed here at St. Ann's. We owe a lot to our parents for innumerable sacrifices that they have made in the past so that we, the graduates of St. Ann's, would be able to complete our education.

We wish to thank the Eudiste Order of priesthood, who operate St. Ann's College, who tirelessly worked on our behalf to give us a good solid formation of discipline and a good Christian education. They thus assisted us in the construction of a good, firm base for our career.

His Excellency, Mgr. Albert Lemenager, Bishop of Yarmouth, congratulated Mr. William Belliveau for receiving the honor bestowed upon him. In speaking to the graduates, he told them that they will be facing a difficult world but it also will be interesting.

esting. It is desirable that our young graduates will return to this Diocese, especially to the St. Mary's Bay shores and Cape Sable area. In these areas we have a group of people who are progressing. Mgr. Lemenager spoke on the first class held in Clare in the Glebe House of Rev. J. Mande Sigogne, who had four pupils, then came St. Ann's College in 1890, from which graduated many priests, doctors and many men of other professions.

Two years ago, stated Mgr. Lemenager, St. Ann's opened its doors to young girls who had completed their high school education and who wished to continue to a Bachelor of Arts degree. In speaking of the new construction of the men's residence of St. Ann's, Bishop Lemenager said that St. Ann's has given us much more than we have given, therefore we must be generous and donate to St. Ann's to assist the college in its new enterprise, which is a sign of progress. We must give with an open heart.

Rev. L. d'Entremont, president of St. Ann's, thanked the large attendance at the graduation exercises and gave the graduation class his blessing in their new careers that they will undertake.

Two graduates, Jean Boudreau, of Grand Mere, and Albany d'Entremont, of West Pubnico, will enter the seminary shortly for the priesthood.

Burning Boat Towed Off Briar Island

Those who were listening to their marine band radios on Tuesday heard of the "Cajun II" fish dragger exploding and burning. The incident happened around noon. The crew of four were picked up by the "Cape Mary", while Capt. Lew Theriault, of the "Wanda Elaine" took the burning vessel in tow and brought her to the deep hole between Batsons and North West Rock buoys, 3 miles west of Briar Island. There they awaited the boat to sink.

The captain, Lester Deveau, and crew, were unhurt. The vessel hails from Meteghan, N. S. Above is Capt. Lester Deveau, of Comeauville, at left, skipper of the dragger "Cajun II", in the wheel-house of the dragger "Cape Mary" with Capt. Harvey d'Eon, who rescued him and his crew of four. ## New Post Office Opens

The new Federal Building in Church Point, housing the Post Office is presently open to serve the public. This building, constructed of wood with brick finish, is in the business section of the village between the residence of Jean V. Thibodeau on the shore side of the main highway.

This building is one of two being constructed in Clare by the Department of Public Works to house a Post Office. The Meteghan Post Office will move into the Federal Building in Meteghan on or about June 1st. The Church Point and Meteghan buildings are identical.

What About Going To College?

By C. D. Smith

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I graduate from high school this year and have not definitely decided upon going to college. Just to be sure, though, I have made application for admission to several schools. But I have some questions. Should I let my choice of a career determine the school I will attend? There is a junior college not too far away that I think I would like to attend. Would it be wasting my time by not going directly to a four-year school?"

OUR REPLY: By all means, if you have the qualifications—and the opportunity—to go to college. If you have not settled upon a career, perhaps your studies in college will open a real field of interest for you. If you sit around, waiting for the spirit to move you to decide to be a doctor, lawyer, or whatever, you may lose the opportunity to go to college at all. And, going to college is an ambition that thousands of boys and girls never realize.

It is true that colleges are crowded. Many of them receive far more applications than they can even consider. Yet there are schools, good schools, which are not so crowded. Researchers say one reason that the college enrollment picture is often so clouded is because of the fact that many possible students make multiple applications. One student may apply for admission to several colleges and thus this one individual is counted seven times.

Junior colleges, while often second choice with students, are not always second best. Many of them have excellent ratings and offer well-rounded scholastic programs. The student who chooses his classes with care has little more to lose when moving from a junior college to a senior college than he would moving from one four-year institution to another.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Festival Party Visits Digby

Miss Linda Elliott, 18-year-old Queen Annapolis XXXI, and her twelve princesses, were in Digby Monday afternoon, the final stop of their 100-mile Valley tour. A large crowd was present when the royal party arrived at the bandstand at 5 o'clock. They were greeted by Digby Mayor Vernon Bent.

Apple Blossom Festival president, Dr. R. S. Longley, congratulated the people of Digby for their splendid co-operation and participation. Digby princess Miss Karen Barnes, spoke briefly, thanking the people and her sponsors, the Lions Club, for making it possible for her to attend. "This has been a wonderful weekend that I shall never forget. Thank you very much," she said. Also in the royal party was Toronto Maple Leaf centre, Billy Harris. The group left for HMCS Cornwallis, where supper was served.

Hon. E. A. Manson, Minister of Trade and Industry, officiated at the crowning ceremony before 1,000 people at University Hall, Wolfville, on Friday. The Queen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair Elliott, of Middleton.

Lieutenant Governor Hon. H. P. MacKeen, commended the people of the Valley for their enthusiasm in promoting the festival, which, he said, helped the industry and at the same time encouraged Nova Scotia talent for the theatre and music.

Many orchards in the Valley were in full bloom as brilliant sunshine ushered in the 31st festival. In spite of the heaviest traffic in years throughout the Valley, RCMP reported no serious highway accidents. Ideal weather conditions started traffic moving heavily Friday as thousands headed for celebrations in Valley towns.

The musical-comedy Showboat played to a full house at University Hall on Saturday. Sunday morning the Queen and her party attended Trinity Church, at Windsor. In the afternoon a sacred concert was held at Grand Pre.

John Fisher, commissioner of the national centennial committee, told the people of the Annapolis Valley they had a lot to contribute to Canada's 100th birthday and suggested the world's biggest apple pie and the "tremendous wealth of the Valley's history in story and song" as the festival theme. He spoke to 8,000 gathered in brilliant sunshine in Grand Pre Park where Queen Annapolis and her princesses held court, Sunday. "Make your 1967 festival celebrations the best you ever had," said Mr. Fisher.

Still Enjoys Courier

William Amoro, in Hamden, near New Haven, Conn., will be 80 years this coming December. He first went to the U.S.A. in Sept., 1903, sixty years ago. He still enjoys the Courier and recently renewed his subscription. Born in Doucetteville, he went to Bancroft, Maine, and recalls the big snow storms there in 1904 with drifts 20 ft. high. He has been living in Hamden since 1925 and still works. He has two sisters in Nova Scotia, Beatrice Robicheau, Doucetteville, and Martha Lombard, New Edinburgh. He also has two brothers, Heber in Plympton Station, and Eldon, in Plympton.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gidney of Dartmouth were weekend guests of Mr. Gidney's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hazelton.

At Women's Press Club Conference

Above at the Nova Scotia Press Club regional conference held recently in Halifax are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thomas (nee Donna Logan), Halifax and Digby, Mrs. Margaret Perry and Mrs. F. A. (Abbie) Lane, Halifax.

The conference got underway on Friday evening when the delegates were entertained at the Nova Scotian Hotel by radio stations CHNS, CJCH and CFRD.

Saturdays business sessions were held at the council chamber of Halifax City Hall with Alderman Abbie Lane acting as hostess in the absence of His Worship, Mayor Lloyd Vaughan.

The morning was taken over chiefly by a panel, "Women In Media", chaired by Miss Simone Daigneault, National President, and the following panelists — Harold Shea, newspapers; Phillip Backman, advertising; Bruce Cochran, public relations, and Fran Molleson, radio and T.V. Other speakers for the day were Glen Hancock, Director of School of Journalism, Dalhouse University, and Jean E. Sereisky, Saint John, on copy-right.

An interesting feature of the day was a visit to the Neptune Theatre, which is to be formally opened on July 1st. Immediately after the visit conducted by Mrs. Thomas and Leon Major, the party retired to the Dresden Arms for luncheon, guests of the City of Halifax. Leon Major, introduced by Mrs. Thomas, was guest speaker. The Neptune Theatre Company has begun rehearsals for the plays to be presented during the summer season which will extend from July 1 through September 7. Mr. Major, who is directing "Antigone" by Jean Anouilh and "Mary, Mary", by Jean Kerr, is already hard at work with those members of the cast who appear in these productions.

Upon the arrival of Mr. George McCowan rehearsals will begin for "Major Barbara", by George Bernard Shaw. The fourth play of the season, "The Fourposter", by Jan de Hartog, will go into rehearsals as soon as Mavor Moore, who will direct it, arrives. Rehearsals are now being held in the gymnasium of St. Mary's University, Halifax, pending completion of the Neptune Theatre. The first play of the season, "Major Barbara", will open on July 1 and will play on alternating days with "Mary, Mary", which opens July 2. On July 17 "The Fourposter" will be opened, and July 18 the first performance of "Antigone" will be performed. After July 18 the four plays will be performed on alternate nights in approximately the order given above.

On Saturday night Miss Daigneault, employed in public relations, was the guest speaker at a dinner held at the Nova Scotian Hotel and given by The Halifax Herald Limited. The Province of Nova Scotia were hosts on Sunday when Hon. Donald M. Smith, Minister of Mines, was the speaker and Miss Perry showed the film "Glooscap Country".

CGIT Banquet

The CGIT of the Baptist Church of Digby closed their season with a most enjoyable Mother and Daughter Banquet on Tuesday, May 30th. Special guests were Rev. and Mrs. H. S. Hartlin, Rev. and Mrs. L. R. Atkinson, Chaplain and Mrs. Irvine Hare, of HMCS Cornwallis, and Mrs. Grace Vincent, President of the Women's Missionary Society. Presiding over the banquet was departmental president, Gloria Joudrey, who welcomed the mothers and other guests, and proposed the toast to the Queen. The toast to the mothers was given by Barbara Olsen, and replied to very fittingly by her mother, Mrs. Jean Olsen. Mrs. Olsen was then thanked by Mrs. Jack Whalley for her help during the year in group choral singing.

The guest speaker, Chaplain Hare, was introduced by Mrs. John Till. Chaplain Hare's address followed the theme "From Sea to Sea in Canada", which had been the CGIT Mission Study this year. He spoke of Canada's Centennial in 1967, and of knowing our great country and its people with their various regional outlooks and varied ethnic backgrounds. Although our country spreads across vast distances, there are many ties which bind us to one another, as well as to our neighbour to the south, the U.S.A. One of our strongest ties, the speaker said, is our Christian heritage. The CGIT is a Christian movement among girls of many denominations across Canada, and this is another binding influence. Chaplain Hare challenged the girls to help build an even greater Canada, as theirs is the future for which their present training is preparing them.

The speaker was thanked by Linda Stark. Next followed ceremonies in which Lanyard were presented to Senior Girls by Rev. Mr. Atkinson, and Chevron Certificates to the presidents of award winning groups by Rev. H. S. Hartlin. Those receiving Lanyards were: Daneen Atkinson, Gail Hersey, Linda Killam, Nadine O'Neill, Linda Stark, Lindsay McDormand, Betty Anne Nichols, Marilyn Robicheau, Joanne Joudrey and Carol Young. Accepting Chevron Certificates for their groups were Carol Young and Barbara Sullis.

Mrs. Jack Brittain spoke briefly on the Chevron requirements, and thanked the mothers for their interest in CGIT. Both Mr. Atkinson and Mr. Hartlin spoke warmly of the work done by the girls and leaders, and their faithfulness throughout the year. A few words of congratulation were also extended by Mrs. Grace Vincent, President of the WMS, with whom the CGIT affiliated.

Following the ceremonies, which closed with the CGIT Purpose and Hymn, all joined in the Friendship Girls for Taps.

In charge of the arrangements for the banquet were the leaders of the CGIT group, Mrs. Jack Brittain, Mrs. John Till and Mrs. Jack Whalley. Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. Raymond Everett, Mrs. Shirley Clayton, Mrs. Mac Marshall and Mrs. Burton Ellis.

Town Gets New Meters

Digby Town Council, in session Monday, decided to enter into contract with J. J. MacKay Co. Ltd., New Glasgow, for new parking meters for the town. An estimated 125 meters will be necessary. Mr. MacKay addressed the council and completely demonstrated the meters, and showed what is required for their maintenance.

Police Chief W. F. Dunn told the council that the present meters are thirteen years old, and, in his opinion, are worn out. He said that many of the town's meters are not working properly, and maintenance costs are mounting. It was his opinion that the new meters could save the town nearly $700 per year. With double meters and parallel parking we could have a much better setup, he said. The new meters will allow two-hour parking.

Mr. MacKay said that new meters do increase revenue by one-third annually. Every town so far has definitely found that they have paid, he told the council.

Council decided to notify the public that the Town Office is open Monday to Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Dominion Atlantic Railway is to be contacted and notified that the town is interested in securing the D.A.R. station yard property on Birch Street. It was the general feeling that this space may help to eliminate the parking problem evident throughout the town.

A letter was read from Irving Oil Ltd. stating they have no immediate plans for their garage on Water Street. Council granted building permits for an I.G.A. Foodliner to be erected on Montague Row and to W. A. Como to build a garage on Victoria Street. The new garage will be used as business premises.

Mr. Dunn reported that storekeepers have been advised to have garbage ready for collection when the man arrives, so that the process may be speeded up and thus help to eliminate a traffic congestion on the main street. He said the scheme is working satisfactorily. Councillor Hersey reported that he had met with Councillors Gott and Finigan of the Municipal Council in connection with the disposal of the Municipal Home at Marshalltown. He said the home will be kept open until the end of June, and that there are prospective buyers, although he had not learned their names.

Council gave permission to the Fish & Game Association, 1963-64 sponsors of the Digby Ravens Hockey Club, to hold tag days on behalf of the Ravens on June 21, 22.

The police report stated that twelve complaints had been issued during the month, six requiring some field investigation. All except two have been terminated to the satisfaction of those concerned. As a result of field investigation eight cases required court action, and all have been disposed of before the court. Three of these were under the Motor Vehicle Act and five under the Nova Scotia Liquor Act. Three motor vehicle accidents were investigated. Fines collected amounted to $43.00.

Council learned that the Royal Canadian Legion will permit the monument on Water Street to be moved to a new location, if the town will bear full cost of the move. Since only two parking spaces will be created by removing the monument, council decided to wait for more information concerning cost of such an endeavour, and to learn the feeling of the Legion as a whole.

It was reported that the town licence committee had met with the taxi committee and that the taxis are co-operating. Recent grievances have been ironed out, and a new taxi by-law has been put into effect.

William Troupe came before the council requesting the town install a new sewage system for the north end of King Street. Council decided to promote a meeting between shareholders of an existing area.

Chemistry Student Graduates

Alan Lester Welch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Welch, Westport, N. S., was among the graduates to receive degrees at the spring convocation exercises at Dalhousie University, Halifax, N. S. He received a Bachelor of Science degree, with a major in Bio-Chemistry.

Alan graduated from Westport High School in 1959, and entered Dalhousie the same year under the "Royal Canadian Officers Training Plan".

He has now been posted to Chilliwack, B. C., where he will serve as a Lieutenant in the Pay Corps attached to the Royal Canadian School of Military Engineers.

New Bridge For Route No. 1

The Courier has been informed by R. B. Powell, President of the Progressive Conservative Association for the Electoral District of Digby, that the Central Construction Co., Ltd., El Brook, Yarmouth County, will be awarded the contract to construct a new bridge and approaches at Kinney Brook on Highway Route #1.

This will be a major improvement and will correct the dangerous curve and hill between Gilbert Cove and Ashmore, Mr. Powell said. The bridge and approaches will be approximately one-half mile in length.

Lightkeeper Served For 33 Years

By Mrs. J. P. Outhouse
The keeper of the Boar's Head Light, Tiverton has retired and after 33 years of service, expressed no regrets about leaving his job, said Earl Leeman: "I'm as happy as a lark."

Mr. Leeman began as keeper of the light in 1930. It is situated on the northern tip of Long Island, Digby County and is nearly 70 feet above sea level.

Living at so far above sea level presented many problems to the Leemans, a family of six. At one time, during the height of a gale, waves came through the second-storey window and a board was blown through the kitchen window. At another time, Margaret Leeman, young daughter of the Leemans almost coasted her sled over the 70 foot drop. She was grabbed by her mother as the sled plunged over, and crashed on the rocks below.

But the problems were not all caused by living on the cliff. Mrs. Leeman had to bring up her family struggling with hand washings, oil lamps, wood ranges and water that had to be carried from a well a considerable distance away — this at a time when her neighbors had all the conveniences of electricity.

However, this is all behind them and the Leemans have taken up residence in Tiverton. The new keeper is Murray Outhouse, who will find life on Boar's Head somewhat easier as electricity was installed in 1957.

North King Street sewer and other interested parties, for Wednesday evening. It was stated that new home-owners may be allowed to join the present private sewer in that area.

About This and That Make Digby Happy

Judging from a remark made last week by Mrs. Abbie Lane, a city of Halifax alderman, Digby town officials should be pleased about the outcome of the liquor plebiscite last week in Digby. The Women's Press Club was being addressed by Leon Major of the newly created Neptune Theatre during a luncheon given by the city. Mr. Major expressed the hope that service personnel and people with leisure time who generally loiter on the streets might find the theatre a valuable place to spend leisure hours. Mrs. Lane interjected the following comment: "The city will be happy if you can get them in the theatre instead of the pub." The remark, we felt, came from one who knows from serving on the city council. The Digby town council might owe a debt of gratitude to the "no" voters in the recent plebiscite if one might judge from Mrs. Lane's remarks.

However, there is a further thought in her remark. Something gainful to occupy leisure hours. Does Digby have them? We can think of a few — bowling, golfing, curling, etc. There doesn't seem to be any available place for quiet "recreation", however, like a public library or reading room. Just a thought.

Centennial

The mention of library above reminds us that not much more than a year ago some interested citizens were investigating the possibility of a library and museum for Digby. Such things make good projects for centennial committees.

Which reminds us again. Has Digby a centennial committee working on the type of celebration and fitting remembrance for Canada's 100th birthday in 1967? We haven't heard much about centennial celebrations as far as Digby is concerned. Is it going to be an all-out tourist attraction or will the tourists in 1967 be attracted to every other part of the province but Digby?

We believe in co-operative advertising to bring tourists in the area but we believe in further advertising to bring the tourists to Digby when they are in the area. What will attract them to Digby in 1967? At least we might start thinking about it now.

One way we can prepare for 1967 is to advertise ourselves well in 1963 and each of the years until 1967. By advertising ourselves well we do not necessarily mean putting out folders, although we can never see how we can expect the maximum number of tourists to come to Digby unless we invite them. What is in our minds at the present is advertising by the treatment we give tourists this summer. Are we being friendly? Are we kind and considerate in our dealings with them, especially money-wise? Have we provided attractive places for their leisure hours? Is the food well served, the accommodation comfortable and clean? Is the service good and the atmosphere pleasant? Have we done everything we can to make our buildings and roadsides attractive? Are we working towards better and safer roads, better parking facilities in towns? We have made some progress in transportation but we can do more.

Anyway, Canada is expecting tourists from all over the world for the 1967 celebrations. Canada expects to double its value by 1967. Digby has long been associated with tourism. Shall we continue to decline or shall we, too, double the tourists to Digby by 1967?

Thoughts On Education

(GUEST EDITORIAL)

There is danger that we hold too many threads in our hands. In some ways we are trying to manipulate the educational system much as a puppet-master manages his marionettes in a mock drama. Since education became everybody's business, strings are being pulled to include courses in the school curricula which could be taught more properly elsewhere. Educational goals should be clearly envisaged and astutely pursued, and changes and innovations must be given very careful scrutiny. Generally speaking our curricula planners are doing just that. For instance, the ballet although purporting to give educational work in the arts and sciences can well be left to the dancing schools, and religious dogma to the churches concerned. The educational stream must not be fed by too many rivulets or it will overflow its legitimate borders and become a swamp.

Someone has said that nature knows one cardinal rule — the failure to change. Scientific technique and technological advance have made it imperative to revise school courses. The mathematics and science courses are being adapted to meet the demands of the automated world of tomorrow. Rather than wait to be dragged in, educational leaders are busy preparing the way. When we are told that machines are replacing workers so rapidly that six-year-olds now starting school can expect the robots to change three times during their life time, we realize the need for taking action before it is too late. Perhaps Khrushchev was not boasting when he said automation was a good thing and through this means, the communists would beat the capitalists. It sounds ironical, but it could be true unless the free world devotes more attention to its schools. The time is ripe for action that will bring education into line with progress in practically every other area of human endeavour in this atomic era, or, as President Kennedy remarked, "Suffer a boom in ignorance."

A great deal of money, time and energy has been spent on educational research. Teachers have been trained to put into effect many of their findings. These have found little or no acceptance. Traditional methods must not be challenged. Streamlined and accelerated courses, non-graded organizations and the established graded schools, courses for boys and courses for girls, taking into account physiological and psychological differences, and individual differences are all theories in educational text books waiting for universal implication in the school programme.

Teachers, however, can no longer stay between the two covers of a text book or within the four walls of a classroom. Their little isolated world has been invaded, and they must adapt themselves to meet the sweeping changes that televised-lessons by the most skillful lecturers will demand. Programmed learning that sparkling new wine in an old bottle or vice versa — will require the teacher to know at least as much as the frames that administer the courses. A two or three-year training course, with refresher courses thrown on, are already in the offing. Greater emphasis will be laid on the selection of prospective teachers. This may have the effect of decreasing the number of let-outs at the end of the first term.

Science is useful in discovering the nature of things; mathematics, to manipulate numbers, and, language, literature and writing, for the benefit of many things — social, moral and humanistic. It is gratifying therefore to note that planners still consider these courses essential and have given them high priority. Since science is, to say the least, rather casual and often cynical, about the soul of man, it is well to read what writers of good literature have to say on the topic. The water fowl has never had a course in geography, but it knows with a certainty when seasons change and which direction to take. Bryant knew precisely what that meant and thus expressed it:

There is a Power whose care
Teaches thy way along that pathless coast —
The desert and illimitable air,
Lone wandering, but not lost.
He, who from zone to zone
Guides through the boundless sky thy certain flight,
Will lead my steps aright.

Intellectualism is much to be desired, but a disciplined faith is paramount in a society of free men and women. These are days of sifting. We are all involved. Whether our educational system produces scientific atheists or scientific Christians will be determined to a great extent by motives of our leaders in curricular making and the quality of instruction in the classroom.

Reg. Shaw, former Herbert Principal.

World Sad At Pope's Death

Word was received with sorrow on Monday that Pope John XXIII, who had won world wide attention and affection, had passed away. Although not a young man when he ascended to the head of the Roman Catholic Church, and though but a few years have passed since he became Pope John XXIII, this man had truly won attention and affection from not only people of his own religious faith, but also by Protestants around the world and other religious faiths.

Especially did Pope John XXIII win attention and affection when he issued from the Vatican his encyclical, Pacem in Terris, at Eastertide of the present year. He was admired greatly both for calling the Ecumenical Conference and for the encyclical, both of which have renewed the faith of millions in Christian unity and the possibility of world peace.

Though death has called the beloved Pope, his influence remains a living quality for leaders of the nations and Christian peoples to follow.

Buy Or Not To Buy

The surge in the price of sugar during the past few months has given cause for alarm to families with children and to those who are catering to the public with sweets. Children need some sugar for energy and caterers have to reluctantly pass on the cost to the consumer. Although the jump in sugar price came quickly and sharply, there have been, through the years, other commodities which have increased in price at a slower rate. We can think of newspaper, for instance, which practically doubled in price and not too slowly either.

"What can be done about the price of sugar?" has been the cry of not a few women in the town. One person suggested that the women band together and refuse to buy sugar. What about the children? There are those, too, who would soon miss the desserts.

There are those women who on hearing that sugar prices went up and would possibly go further went to the stores and stocked up with a large supply. You can't blame them. To a point it is good reasoning and individually they stand to gain. But is it a good thing on the overall picture? Wouldn't the hoarding of sugar add fire to the price flame?

Whatever the cause of the hike in sugar prices — some have said the Cuban crisis, some say the profit to producers was entirely too low, and others say that a speculative drive for huge profits sparked the price boom — what can we do about it but live with it until it rectifies itself? We can't see entire refusal to buy or "stocking up" any help in correcting the situation. Naturally, in cases consumption will be reduced according to means and in the meantime we believe price investigations are going on. There are those who expect the price to drop in the near future but not to meet the price we've been accustomed to paying for some years. It is a hope for the preserving time, at least, and for those who enjoy the delicacy of the Spring rhubarb — well, the delicacy is worth the price of the sugar.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

Is Popularity Enough For Average Teenager?

y C. D. Smith

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I have a teenage problem. I am very attractive and I have a pleasing personality. I make friends very easily, of both sex. My problem is that the fellows that I am not interested in always like me very much. However, the fellows that I am concerned about are not too concerned about me. They are nice fellows, but they all say I play 'hard to get.' I do not, but I cannot allow myself to fall in love with just anybody. I am very friendly and I even talk to some of the boys I am concerned about. But they treat me like a sister. I do not want any brotherly love. I have six brothers. What is your suggestion?"

OUR REPLY: Our suggestion is that you begin by being thankful. Be grateful of the fact that you are attractive; that you have a pleasing personality; and that you make friends easily. There are thousands of teenagers who would give anything to be so well qualified.

You are wise in not permitting yourself to fall in love with just anyone. But, is it necessary that you fall in love with anyone? Can you not be content with being popular? Many a girl who tells herself and her friends that she has found her "one and only" is kidding everybody. She knows better and would much prefer to be popular, to have different boys asking her for dates.

And finally, did it ever occur to you that these boys you like are not really treating you like a "sister" but instead like a "lady"? The boy who thinks you are "something special" will treat you that way. It is not what a boy says to you that is an indication of his true character—it is instead how he conducts himself in your presence.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Gilbert's Cove

Children Received

Sunday, May 26th two important events took place in Holy Cross Church, Plympton. Twenty-three children received their God for the first time, at the eleven o'clock service. Most of them were accompanied by their parents. At three p.m., approximately one hundred children walked into the church in procession, each one carrying a small bouquet of flowers to be presented to the Mother of God. Leading the procession, was the Banner of Our Lady carried by Joan Melanson. Heather White and Debby Amaro held the ribbons of the Banner. The crown, intended for the crowning of our Blessed Mother, and placed on white satin cushion, was carried by little Taryn Doucette dressed as an angel. Walking on each side of the "angel" and holding the ribbons attached to the cushion, were little Holly Comeau and Roll Call was answered by bringing a cleaning agent or cup and saucer for Church kitchen.

At the conclusion of meeting, members presented Mrs. Newton Lewis with numerous gifts: birthday cake etc., in observance of her birthday. After many congratulatory expressions and remarks the meeting closed with refreshments.

DIGBY EAST FISH & GAME ANNUAL SPORTS MEET

Recalls Past

Mr. Arlington Crowell, of Sandy Cove, (right above) recalled many things from the past when on his 76th birthday he was given a pleasant surprise party in the Sandy Cove Community Hall. Over 50 guests were present. Above is his youngest son, Godfrey, presenting him with a gift at the party.

Mr. Crowell was a fisherman for more than 56 years in the St. Mary's Bay and the Bay of Fundy. It was fitting that the hall was decorated for the birthday occasion in nautical design which also featured the birthday cake made by Mrs. Jean Morehouse.

Mr. Crowell recalls his first sail boating days while fishing and tells of one of the most gratifying experiences he had when he was able to save two boys, Douglas and Lee Harris, from drowning in the St. Mary's Bay when their boat capsized in a storm. He also recalls when he turned a motor boat on a high sea.

Besides fishing, Mr. Crowell is an active and ardent gardener and many visitors call to comment on his art in gardening.

Mr. Crowell has eleven children. Two sisters are Mrs. Ralph Iris, formerly of Tiverton, and Mrs. George Merritt, Mink Cove.

For the birthday occasion Mrs. Audrey Bailey was mistress of ceremonies. His oldest daughter, Mrs. Phyllis MacPherson sang "I Wouldn't Change The Silver In My Dad's Hair" and other songs, accompanied by Mrs. Glenda Sypher, who provided the evening's music. Mrs. Betty Merritt step-danced in costume and composed poetry depicting the honored guests' life.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Audrey Crowell, Mrs. Hazel Winchester, Mrs. Janet Oswald, Mrs. Lester Crowell, Mrs. Clair Morehouse, Mrs. Verna Harris, Mrs. Evelyn Gidney, Mrs. Frances Crowell and son, Brian, a grandson, and Mrs. Audrey Gidney. Mr. Owen Irving was called upon to light the cake.

Addresses Credit Union

Pierre Belliveau, Belliveau Cove, addressed a meeting of the rejuvenated Conway Credit Union held in Conway on Monday night. He said that a Credit Union is for rich and poor and is always a means of saving. The rich might not need to borrow but by investing in Credit Union he can be of service to mankind. Mr. Belliveau said. Mr. Belliveau recommended advertising so that people would become acquainted with Credit Union. He emphasized the aims and purposes of Credit Union to cultivate the habit of thrift, security in illness and misfortune or when needing money and the opportunity of rendering service to fellow workers.

Assets of the Clare and Argyle Credit Union have risen to $925,006.54, Mr. Belliveau said, and in Southwest Nova Scotia the lowest increase last year was 5.5 per cent and the highest 31.2 per cent.

Rev. T. J. Davies, Digby, also spoke of his personal experience with Credit Union and its means of thrift and encouragement to saving, as well as a help in time of need.

A general discussion was held when pertinent questions by those present were answered.

Mrs. J. M. Wallis was asked to evaluate the meeting.

Presiding at the meeting was president Lloyd Jefferson, who at the outset explained that the Conway Credit operations had been suspended because of lack of interest, not lack of money, and that the time had now come for a revival of effort. Mrs. Donald Amiraault was secretary.

"Underdog"

(A chartered organization to help mistreated people without charge)

David Cowlishaw, a 26-year-old newspaper reporter from Toronto and organizer of "Underdog", was in Digby on Saturday. He was returning to Toronto after investigating a case in Halifax. In an interview with The Courier, Mr. Cowlishaw tells the story of "Underdog", how it started and how it operates.

"I was a reporter on the Telegram editing a help-unto-others column. A man wrote in protesting he'd been convicted unjustly of receiving stolen goods. To a newspaper man, injustice was merely the stuff stories were made of. And it was looking for a story that I want to see the man in prison.

The man in question said that his brother 'had the stuff', but the cops picked on me because I got a record. The man had no money to appeal the charge. I ordered a transcript of the trial at a cost of $65. It didn't tell me much. A lawyer applied a more interpretative eye. 'There's a chance he may be innocent', he told me. 'You a friend of his or something?' I told him to carry on and that I'd pay for the appeal. It cost $350. Well take it out of housekeeping, I told Toni, my wife. She was as horrified as I when the conviction was quashed. I remember she asked the lawyer, 'The court don't REALLY make mistakes like this, do they?' He shrugged. 'It happens', he said.

More perturbed than I'd ever been before, I set out to discover just how many more, like this man, were in serious need of help. Plucking the name "Underdog" from a headline in the previous day's issue, I ran this advertisement in the Telegram's personal column:

"UNDERDOG, an organization to help mistreated people. No charge. P. O. Box 123, Toronto 1."

That "no charge" had to go in, of course. I realized quite clearly that justice is a man's birthright, something he is entitled to as much as he is entitled to air. Justice is not something you put up for sale.

The ad drew 83 letters in two days... nineteen from people who needed money, six from women whose husbands had left them, eleven from people who thought the ad was some kind of a joke, and 47 from people claiming mistreatment. I was cheered that people had faith in Underdog's ability to help them. About half the claims were from Toronto, so I tackled them right away.

I kept my ad running, first in the three Toronto papers, then in eleven across the country. Twice I hitchhiked across Canada, went on TV and radio, coaxing Underdog stories out of more than 100 newspapers.

Before long people wrote in asking to help. I picked up 170 such volunteers before we committee, Gordon Coakley, Burtis Freeman, Donald Marshall.

THE Digby Courier

THURSDAY, JUNE 6, 1963

were a year old. These people wished simply to go to bat for someone getting trodden on. They paid their own expenses, up to court action, sometimes hundreds of miles on missions. I assigned them alleged mistreatment galore. Before long, across the country, my army of stalwarts was at work... people from all walks of life. We had a high success ratio. Rebuffed, sometimes ridiculed, we would hang on to a case for weeks, not quitting until victory became hopeless or we triumphed. The great charmer was Reason. In many cases the barricades came down at its first assault. Sometimes, though, the battle was long and vicious.

Before long, mail arrived at the rate of 300 letters a week. 14% of these were sneers of 'What's the gimmick?' and 'What do you mean there's no charge. Nobody does anything for nothing.' We have investigated cases as far away as Jamaica, Britain and Australia.

Underdog stumbled on, drawing to itself a board of directors that includes Toronto lawyers John Welnkust and David Humphrey, Q.C., accountant Harry Brockman, and Telegram reporter Harry Allen. We set up outposts in various Canadian centres. Each outpost was manned by an associate who seemed to have more time than the others in his province; he was charged with farming the cases out to his volunteer "staff".

I quit my job on the Telegram and worked 18 hours a day keeping the operation going. I went through a $3,000 legacy from my father and cast around frantically for funds. The outposts were clamoring for cash for advertising, stationery, postage and telephone bills. I went banging on doors for money. The rich sent their dogs after me, the poor gave quarters and dimes. Churches, where we expected deep understanding, gave us only their ears. They listened politely, they went away. Earle Stanley Gardner dropped out a friendly note plus a $100 cheque, and soon began referring cases to us.

Why do I do it? Because it gives me a big bang to pull from the ground someone who has been trampled there by another human anxious to gain some cheap advantage over him. Nothing could be more evil than to intentionally mistreat another person. I believe the meaning of life is to do the right thing by the people we come in contact with.

Money is the big problem. Underdog operates largely on my reporter's salary, when I'm working as a reporter. The rest of the money is put up by our associates who pay their own Underdog expenses, and by any donations we happen to take in. It cost about $6,500 to run Underdog the first year, of which I put up more than $5,000 myself. I estimate it'll cost roughly $10,000 in the coming year.

It's no fun being an underdog. It is like being in a deep, dark pit. You see the top slow-

Scouts Have 21 Mile Trek

Four hundred Boy Scouts completed "Operation Alert" without a casualty recently after cruising 21 miles, much of it in the rugged North Mountain area of Kentville. The project was designed to acquaint Scouts with some of the problems likely to be faced before and after an atomic bomb explosion. It was the first Scouting scheme of its kind in Nova Scotia.

Taking part from Digby were Frank Ayer, leader, and his team, Roger Wright, John Stoddard and James Purves; and Michael Surette, leader, and his team, John Ayer, John Black and Raymond VanTas-sell.

The operation involved 24 field manoeuvres to test the boys tracking and communication abilities. The projects were divided into three groups to be completed in 24 hours. Headquarters were in the old Lakeville school under the direction of Assistant Provincial Scout Commissioner, R. W. Phinney.

One hundred teams took part in projects such as capturing a heavily-guarded bridge, crossing high ravines and raging streams, locating an undetonated bomb. First place went to the First Shearwater Troop. Tied for second place were First Cornwallis and First Stellarton troops.

Some of the boys nursed blistered feet after the strenuous trek, but otherwise were in good condition.

Mr. Phinney said Sunday the operation was an "unqualified success". He told the assembled Scouts at the conclusion of Alert that a similar operation may be tried again next year.

Traversing one of the most extensively seeded farm areas of the Valley the Scouts earned the plaudits of farmers for their courtesy and cooperation. A number of local residents visited headquarters in Lakeville and complimented the leaders on the "splendid manner in which the boys conducted themselves while completing the projects."

About This and That

Make Digby Happy

Judging from a remark made last week by Mrs. Abbie Lane, a city of Halifax alderman, Digby town officials should be pleased about the outcome of the liquor plebiscite last week in Digby. The Women's Press Club was being addressed by Leon Major of the newly created Neptune Theatre during a luncheon given by the city. Mr. Major expressed the hope that service personnel and people with leisure time who generally loiter on the streets might find the theatre a valuable place to spend leisure hours. Mrs. Lane interjected the following comment: "The city will be happy if you can get them in the theatre instead of the pub." The remark, we felt, came from one who knows from serving on the city council. The Digby town council might owe a debt of gratitude to the "no" voters in the recent plebiscite if one might judge from Mrs. Lane's remarks.

However, there is a further thought in her remark. Something gainful to occupy leisure hours. Does Digby have them? We can think of a few — bowling, golfing, curling, etc. There doesn't seem to be any available place for quiet "recreation", however, like a public library or reading room. Just a thought.

Centennial

The mention of library above reminds us that not much more than a year ago some interested citizens were investigating the possibility of a library and museum for Digby. Such things make good projects for centennial committees.

Which reminds us again. Has Digby a centennial committee working on the type of celebration and fitting remembrance for Canada's 100th birthday in 1967? We haven't heard much about centennial celebrations as far as Digby is concerned. Is it going to be an all-out tourist attraction or will the tourists in 1967 be attracted to every other part of the province but Digby?

We believe in co-operative advertising to bring tourists in the area but we believe in further advertising to bring the tourists to Digby when they are in the area. What will attract them to Digby in 1967? At least we might start thinking about it now.

One way we can prepare for 1967 is to advertise ourselves well in 1963 and each of the years until 1967. By advertising ourselves well we do not necessarily mean putting out folders, although we can never see how we can expect the maximum number of tourists to come to Digby unless we invite them. What is in our minds at the present is advertising by the treatment we give tourists this summer. Are we being friendly? Are we kind and considerate in our dealings with them, especially money-wise? Have we provided attractive places for their leisure hours? Is the food well served, the accommodation comfortable and clean? Is the service good and the atmosphere pleasant? Have we done everything we can to make our buildings and roadsides attractive? Are we working towards better and safer roads, better parking facilities in towns? We have made some progress in transportation but we can do more!

Anyway, Canada is expecting tourists from all over the world for the 1967 celebrations. Canada expects to double tourist value by 1967. Digby has long been associated with tourism. Shall we continue to decline or shall we, too, double the tourists to Digby by 1967?

Thoughts On Education

There is danger that we hold too many threads in our hands. In some ways we are trying to manipulate the educational system much as a puppet-master manages his marionettes in a mock drama. Since education became everybody's business, strings are being pulled to include courses in the school curricula which could be taught more properly elsewhere. Educational goals should be clearly envisaged and assiduously pursued, and changes and innovations must be given very careful scrutiny. Generally speaking our curricula planners are doing just that. For instance, the ballet although purporting to give educational work in the arts and sciences can well be left to the dancing schools, and religious dogma to the churches concerned. The educational stream must not be fed by too many rivulets or it will overflow its legitimate borders and become a swamp.

Someone has said that nature knows one cardinal sin — the failure to change. Scientific technique and technological advances have made it imperative to revise school courses. The mathematics and science courses are being adapted to meet the demands of the automated world of tomorrow. Rather than wait to be dragged in, educational leaders are busy preparing the way. When we are told that machines are replacing workers so rapidly that six-year-olds now starting school can expect their education to change three times during their life time, we realize the need for taking action before it is too late. Perhaps Khrushchev was not boasting when he said automation was a good thing and through this means, the communists would beat the capitalists. It sounds ironical, but it could be true, unless the free world devotes more attention to its schools. The time is ripe for action that will bring education into line with progress in practically every other area of human endeavour in this atomic era, or, as President Kennedy remarked, "Suffer a boom in ignorance."

A great deal of money, time and energy has been spent on educational research. Teachers have been trained to put into effect many of their findings. These have found little or no acceptance. Traditional methods must not be challenged. Streamlining and accelerated courses, non-graded organizations and the established graded schools, courses for boys and courses for girls, taking into account physiological and psychological differences, and individual differences are all theories in educational text books waiting for universal implication in the school programme.

Teachers, however, can no longer stay between the two covers of a text book or within the four walls of a classroom. Their little isolated world has been invaded, and they must adapt themselves to meet the sweeping changes that televised lessons by the most skillful lecturers will demand. Programmed learning that sparkling new wine in an old bottle or vice versa — will require the teacher to know at least as much as the frames that administer the courses. A two or three-year training course, with refresher courses thrown in, are already in the offing. Greater emphasis will be laid on the selection of prospective teachers. This may have the effect of decreasing the number of let-outs at the end of the first term.

Science is useful in discovering the nature of things; mathematics, to manipulate numbers, and, language, literature and writing, for the benefit of many things — social, moral and humanistic. It is gratifying therefore to note that planners still consider these courses essential and have given them high priority. Since science is, to say the least, rather casual and often cynical, about the soul of man, it is well to read what writers of good literature have to say on the topic. The water fowl has never had a course in geography, but it knows with a certainty when seasons change and which direction to take. Bryant knew precisely what that meant and thus expressed it:

There is a Power whose care
Teaches thy way along that pathless coast —
The desert and illimitable air,
Lone wandering, but not lost.
He, who from zone to zone
Guides through the boundless sky thy certain flight,
Will lead my steps aright.

Intellectualism is much to be desired, but a disciplined faith is paramount in a society of free men and women. These are days of sifting. We are all involved. Whether our educational system produces scientific atheists or scientific Christians will be determined to a great extent by motives of our leaders in curricular making and the quality of instruction in the classroom.

World Sad At Pope's Death

Word was received with sorrow on Monday that Pope John XXIII, who had won world wide attention and affection, had passed away. Although not a young man when he ascended to the head of the Roman Catholic Church, and though but a few years have passed since he became Pope John XXIII, this man had truly won attention and affection from not only people of his own religious faith, but also by Protestants around the world and other religious faiths.

Especially did Pope John XXIII win attention and affection when he issued from the Vatican his encyclical, Pacem in Terris, at Eastertime of the present year. He was admired greatly both for calling the Ecumenical Conference and for the encyclical, both of which have renewed the faith of millions in Christian unity and the possibility of world peace.

Though death has called the beloved Pope, his influence remains a living quality for leaders of the nations and Christian peoples to follow.

Buy Or Not To Buy

The surge in the price of sugar during the past few months has given cause for alarm to families with children and to those who are catering to the public with sweets. Children need some sugar for energy and caterers have to reluctantly pass on the cost to the consumer. Although the jump in sugar price came quickly and sharply, there have been, through the years, other commodities which have increased in price at a slower rate. We can think of newsprint, for instance, which practically doubled in price and not too slowly either.

"What can be done about the price of sugar?" has been the cry of not a few women in the town. One person suggested that the women band together and refuse to buy sugar. What about the children? There are those, too, who would soon miss the desserts.

There are those women who on hearing that sugar prices went up and would possibly go further went to the stores and stocked up with a large supply. You can't blame them. To a point it is good reasoning and individually they stand to gain. But is it a good thing on the overall picture? Wouldn't the hoarding of sugar add fire to the price flame?

Whatever the cause of the hike in sugar prices — some have said the Cuban crisis, some say the profit to producers was entirely too low, and others say that a speculative drive for huge profits sparked the price boom — what can we do about it but live with it until it rectifies itself? We can't see entire refusal to buy or "stocking up" any help in correcting the situation. Naturally, in cases consumption will be reduced according to means and in the meantime we believe price investigations are going on. There are those who expect the price to drop in the near future but not to meet the price we've been accustomed to paying for some years. It is a hope for the preserving time, at least, and for those who enjoy the delicacy of the Spring rhubarb — well, the delicacy is worth the price of the sugar.

Mr. Morine Lands Porpoise

Considerable excitement was caused at Bear River on Friday afternoon when William Morine, fishing for bass in the Bear River, hooked a 100 lb. porpoise. A battle ensued, the giant fish towing the boat, first up the river, then down, much to the delight of the many spectators who lined the bridge, not only to watch the fun, but to shout words of encouragement and advice.

After more than thirty minutes struggle, Mr. Morine was able to gaff the fish and finally pull it ashore at the town slip where it was viewed and photographed by many people. It was said that this was the first time that a fish of this species was taken in this part of the Bear River.

Teachers Union Elects Slate

The Annapolis Local of the Nova Scotia Teachers Union at its May meeting held in Annapolis voted the sum of sixty five dollars to assist in sending Canadian teachers to Nigeria to assist in training teachers at the Nigerian Summer School. The project was undertaken last summer in answer to request to the Canadian Teachers Federation from the Nigerian Teachers Union. Two teachers were sent last summer and the project met with such heartening success that the C.T.F. has approached its affiliate provincial organizations for contributions to enable more teachers to be sent.

The amount of the two annual educational loans offered by the Annapolis local was raised from $150 to $200. This was done in light of the fact that costs of attending summer schools and universities are rising for example at the Nova Scotia Teachers Summer School, Halifax, there has been a general rise in registration fee from ten to twenty dollars and in some programs to thirty dollars and board in residence (for five weeks) had risen from $100 to $125.

The Annapolis local annually offers one loan to teachers and one to students with re- evening meeting refreshments were served by the hostess Lodge.

County Council H. & S.

The spring rally of the Digby County Council Home and School Association was held Thursday at the Islands Consolidated School, Freeport. The value of creative art was the theme of the program. A display of art was arranged in the auditorium.

The meeting was opened with "O Canada" and prayer by Rev. W. Ideson, of the Freeport Baptist Church. President Albert Jones welcomed the delegates and visitors. Mrs. Alice Dunn acted as secretary.

Special guests, as introduced by Mr. Jones, included: Wilfred Higgins, administrative secretary, Nova Scotia Federation of Home & School; Victor Cardoza, M.L.A., Digby; Mrs. J. M. Wallis, Editor, Digby Courier; Fred Fullerton, art specialist, Clark Rutherford School, H.M.C.S. Cornwallis; Keith C. Langille, adult education division, Yarmouth; Mrs. Lillian Cromwell, regional vice-president, of Yarmouth; Frank McGill, divisional supervisor of schools, Lunenburg County, and Mrs. McGill; Rev. and Mrs. Ideson.

The following officers were elected for the coming year:

Immediate past president, Mr. Albert Jones; president, Mrs. Alice Dunn; vice-president, Mrs. Emdon Morehouse; area vice-presidents, Mrs. Violet Wagner, Mrs. Jack Morehouse, Mrs. Roy Powell, Mrs. Bessie Height; secretary, Mrs. Madeline Milner; treasurer, Mrs. Allen Thomas; program, executive members; publicity, Mrs. Angela Francis; community life, Mrs. MacIntyre; school education, Mrs. Donald Gidney; health, Mrs. Bailey Gidney; resolution, Mrs. Frances Berny; art, Mrs. Joyce Dunn.

Herbert Cossaboom, president of the Islands Consolidated Association, welcomed guests to the evening session. Mrs. Lillian Cromwell spoke of her work with Home and School and of her recent trip to New York on Home and School business. She said, of Home and School, "never be on the defensive side, because you know what you are doing". Mr. Cardoza thanked the ladies of the Islands school for their wonderful work and delicious supper. He remarked that H & S is not a social club but that the aims and objects must be kept ever before us.

"The value of creative art in education" was fully discussed by a panel who had interesting views and comments on the subject. On the panel were Wilfred Higgins, Truro, executive director of provincial Home and School, chairman; Mrs. James Dunn; Mr. Fullerton and Mr. McGill. Mr. Fullerton said that art is for everyone, not only the artistic. What happens to a child while doing the work is important, said Mr. Fullerton. The finished product is less important but creative art helps the child who has artistic ability.

Mr. McGill said that teachers must challenge and motivate the pupils in art and give help as the child needs it. He felt there should be freedom of expression but also guidance and channelling.

Parents should encourage the child in art and go hand in hand with the teacher in promoting creative art by the student. The most effective ways of making parents acquainted with the art program in school are by exhibitions, Home and School, travelling exhibits, books on art. She felt that competition should be played down and students compete against themselves and not others.

Mr. McGill in summing up the needs to further art in Nova Scotia schools said that art must be seen as part of the school program. Teachers must have a definite and carefully worked out elementary program. Appointment of art supervisors and holding workshops were deemed important by the speaker. School administrators, he said, should have a clear understanding of the part art plays in the overall school program.

Mr. Fullerton spoke of the Nova Scotia Society of Education. (Please turn to Page 10)

Attend Seminar On Industrial Development

Among those from Digby to attend the Industrial Development Seminar held at the Arts and Administration Building, Dalhousie University, Halifax, on Monday and Tuesday, were V. G. Cardoza, M.L.A.; Charles Haliburton, secretary of the Digby Board of Trade; Mrs. J. M. Wallis, editor of the Digby Courier; H. M. Warner; Jack Nichols; and Ralph MacIntyre, president of the Board of Trade.

The seminar was jointly sponsored by the Department of Trade and Industry and the Dalhousie Institute of Public Affairs. It placed special emphasis on community responsibilities, including provision of services, industrial zoning and promotion work and was aimed primarily at individuals or committees working at the community level.

"With our recent success in attracting new industries to Nova Scotia, we in this province are gaining a new confidence in our future," said Mr. Manson, Minister of Trade and Industry. "The work of industrial development involves many people. Government departments and agencies, boards of trade, economic councils, development boards and local industrial committees are all part of a total effort. The specific responsibility of each individual within these groups or agencies is perhaps not too well understood. In addition, the question of an effective approach to industrial development must always be considered."

"This business of industrial development is the most competitive business in the world. Every province, state and country is up to its neck in it. We in Nova Scotia have had some success on a competitive basis."

Speaking on "What an industry looks for in a community", Mr. E. K. Birmann, manager of Industrial Estates Ltd., said it was a popular misconception that, having earmarked an industrial site, the community could sit back "and have industry beat a path to its door, panting eagerly to bestow its dowry of employment, payroll and community development support upon it."

"Essentially, the process of plant location is more or less in the nature of a balance sheet operation," he declared. He said that it was not only the suitability of a site itself that was important to a company. The history of labor management relations in the community was studied and an analysis made of the existing skills and "semi-skills" available in the area. Transport facilities were also taken into account.

In addition, high educational standards and facilities were of prime interest to any company, as were modern health facilities.

Mr. Birmann went on: "I believe one of the most important ingredients a community must have is enthusiasm for progress and a sincere desire to welcome new industry into its midst."

Guy Henson, director of the Dalhousie Institute of Public Affairs, said that the wise policy of a municipality towards attracting industry was to have its house in order; to develop good services and make itself a pleasant place to live in; to get a high return on every tax dollar and, have a master development plan for the future.

"An attractive community attracts," he commented. Mr. Henson said it was an unfortunate fact that some municipalities had sometimes shown little understanding of the problems and requirements of existing or potential industry. On the other hand, some municipalities had given away more than necessary. Outside advice, from private or public sources, might be desirable and even necessary for some municipalities in their dealings with industry.

Mr. Henson said tax concessions had been granted in Nova Scotia more widely than was generally realized. Various industries had been enabled to stand on their own feet and carry their own share of the local tax burden as a matter of course. In other cases it

Circus Delayed

The committee in charge of the circus for the fire department has met with circus officials and regret was expressed that the unfortunate delay of the circus was due entirely to engine trouble on the M.V. The engine trouble was more serious than expected and resulted in the ship having to be towed into port for repairs.

At this time the ship is proceeding towards the Maritimes and at press time was expected to arrive in Digby around June 17th or 18th, at which time radio and television coverage will announce the arrival time and show time in Digby.

It was stated that the delay is in no way the fault of the circus but is entirely a transportation problem and the show will be presented as usual when it arrives.

All advance tickets will be honored, that have been sold, and tickets may still be obtained from any firemen until the date of the show.

New VON

SPRING ALONG THE HIGHWAY (At Smith's Cove - 1963)

When it's spring along the highway
How I wish that I were there
When the sycamore and maples
Are a sight beyond compare.

When through the corner window
I would see the old green lawn
And a robin having dinner
With a worm that came along.

Now the trees are all in tassel
But the window is no more
Though it's packed away in memories
Which I have full many score.

Thomas G. A. Cuming;

Mrs. Irene Clem, Harborville, Kings County, took a special interest in the special edition of The Digby Courier which marked the inaugural trip of the Princess of Acadia on April 29 across the Bay of Fundy from Saint John to Digby. The special edition recalled to Mrs. Clem a stool she had in her possession and the first steamboat to make which she believed was from the Saint John - Digby run.

The stool is seen above to the left. On it is an old glass lantern with tallow candle and to the right is Mrs. Clem's prized "pansy pot".

According to Mrs. Clem the stool was found by her grandfather, Asael Waker Dodge, on the beach at Morden, Annapolis County. Mr. Dodge died in 1863 and the stool has stayed in the family since.

Mrs. Clem said it was a favorite piece of furniture of her grandmother while she did quilting. Only the thoughtfulness of Mrs. Clem has brought the antique stool through to the present time for in 1938 her home burned and one of the prized possessions to be saved by Mrs. Clem was this family heirloom - the stool.

Mrs. Clem states in her correspondence that both her mother's and father's people went to sea. Her father, Joshua Ogilvie of Victoria Harbor, was drowned Oct. 6, 1906 in a small ship, Earl D., between Boston and Machias, Maine. Others on the boat were Capt. Greves, Arch Minnis, Morden and Spurgeon Graves, Morden.

Girl's Parents Don't Like Age Difference

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I like a boy who is four years older than myself. My mother and father do not like him. They say he is too old for me and will only bring me trouble. But, really, he's a very nice boy. I like him very much. Do you think I should try to please my parents, or keep liking him (and stay happy). Please answer as soon as possible."

OUR REPLY: You suggest that you can cease to like this boy with the ease of turning off a dripping faucet. Such is not possible. If you think this boy is a nice boy if you like him, you will continue to like him until something happens to make you do otherwise. Your parents cannot "make" you stop liking anyone. You cannot "make" yourself dislike someone if you have no reason for disliking them.

What you must do is to consider the fact that your parents have your best interest at heart and they have a great responsibility and obligation to bring you properly to maturity—to teach, guide, train and, when necessary, to forbid. When parents forbid, you must obey.

Four years is not a great difference where the ages of adults are concerned. Teens are something else. Think about these combinations for a moment: a sixteen year old boy dating a twelve year old girl; a seventeen year old dating a thirteen year old; eighteen and fourteen; etc.

These combinations sound much worse than 22-18, 23-19, 24-20, don't they?

Finally, consider this: naturally, it pleases your parents when you do the right thing. Why? Because they feel more certain of your future comfort and well being.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, add your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORD, ILL.

NET MENDERS

Busy working every day, Mending nets for honest pay; Turning, twisting coloured twine, Making tightened knots so fine;

Hanging nets not yet complete With floats of glass or plastic neat, Finished with sinkers, rock or lead,

To lie upon the ocean bed, Bearing nets to wharf and boat, Fastened with grapnel and buoy

Taken to the fishing bed, Whose harvest has the hungry fed, Coming back with laden store,

While the stormy billows roar, Drying nets tangled and torn, Mending them from early morn,

So the year with peaceful toil, Passes quickly and fades away, With celestial peace and joy, Into life's Eternal Day.

GARDENS

Gardens bring sunny hours, When days are dark and grim, When clouds hide the sunshine, And despair is deep within.

The orange of the poppy, Sends forth a ray of joy; The yellow of the marigold, Gives hope without alloy;

The purple of alyssum, A fragrant carpet spreads, And hollyhocks with stately mien,

A graciousness sheds, The birds bring heaven's message, To cheer and bring relief, To those in sorrow laden,

And burdened with their grief, So, to the busy gardener, We owe a boundless fee, For the wealth of happiness, He brings to you and me.

Church Groups Honor Pastor

All groups of the Weymouth Church of Christ (Disciples) met at a midweek service for a farewell social honoring their pastor, Rev. Lorne B. Nethercott, and Mrs. Nethercott.

Service began with a devotional by Mrs. Jared Frankland, after which Albert Jones was master of ceremony. A hearty song service was enjoyed and was followed by many remarks and tributes of appreciation from the congregation.

Mrs. Wilfred Cosman, representing the CWF and Stitches and Chatter groups, presented gifts to Mrs. Nethercott — plus one exquisite item, an original sea shell from the Bay of Fundy, as a token of remembrance. Gifts for all were of Nova Scotia tartans.

Harry J. Lewis, Board Chairman, presented Mr. Nethercott with gifts and a purse.

Wilfred Cosman, president of the Maritime Christian Missionary Society, also presented Mrs. Nethercott with a gift, she having served as secretary.

The remainder of the evening was spent viewing slides shown by Mrs. W. Cosman of interesting sites and churches of the Maritimes and Ontario.

Refreshments were served by the CWF and CYF, with Jared Frankland returning thanks.

The fellowship hour closed with the entire group forming a prayer circle with a representative from each group offering a prayer, who were:

Christian Youth Fellowship — Stewart Lewis; Christian Women's Fellowship — Mrs. Russell Cosman; Christian Men's Fellowship — Gifford Lewis; Sunday School Superintendent — Clyde Cosman; and the Congregation — Wilfred Cosman.

Following the many expressions of gratitude and appreciation by Mr. and Mrs. Nethercott, the meeting adjourned by singing "Blest Be The Tie That Binds".

Letters to the Editor

Editor Courier, Digby.

Dear Sirs, — Because of duplication and in cases triplication of place names in Nova Scotia I would like to suggest that the equivalent Indian, Micmac or Malecite, French, German, Gaelic or Norse interpretation be used, depending on the dominant nationality or the topography of the site.

This would simplify Nova Scotia addresses and avoid the confusion that exists in the minds of visitors coming to the province.

Respectfully yours, Barbara L. Morash.

Editor, The Digby Courier.

Dear Mrs. Wallis,

The writer of the following message does not believe it important that his name be publicly signed to it, but, it is vitally important to some people, that some other people become aware, or, more aware, of a certain existing public disturbance that goes on, and has been occurring periodically, and quite frequently, on a certain location of one of our adjoining communities.

Such disturbances have been going on for quite a long time. I wish to submit that, when any unnecessary business operates at the expense of causing ill health, or discomfort, to even one family in any community, especially between the hours of twelve o'clock mid night and five o'clock in the morning, then, surely that business should not be allowed to operate by law enforcement.

It also appears that a considerable number of young men, and some young women under 21 years of age, and some much younger, are getting liquor from some illegal sources; where else would they get it? and what else would make them act and vomit so? Such is not a very uncommon sight at a certain location on our main highway into Digby. This is certainly not becoming to any people especially for those young men in naval uniform. This is also far from good for any body who lives, or tries to do a legitimate business on any near or adjoining property.

If the law that is required to stop such things does not exist, why doesn't it? Our community wasn't born overnight, and the idea of law enforcement for the sake of community peace and welfare, for all people, wasn't conceived only yesterday! If the police need or want certain public support, surely they can have it from all right-thinking people.

Signed — "One of the Concerned"

Courier Read In Saskatoon

Although the letter was strictly marked personal, we feel we must mention some interesting remarks from a writer in Saskatoon. The writer was given a copy of The Digby Courier by a native of Westport, N. S., living in Saskatoon. He refers in the letter to the special edition re the Princess of Acadia. The following are extracts from the letter.

"What really took my attention was the heading in capital letters and I quote, FAREWELL, PRINCESS HELENE. WELCOME PRINCESS ACADIA, and it took my memory back to the time when I was a resident of Saint John, New Brunswick.

My identity you will note at the finish of this letter but I just wanted to say, for a short period of time, say about one year at the turn of the twenty-

Sunday with the latter's mother, Mrs. Warren Haight and Mr. Haight. Mrs. Murray Moore and two children of Dartmouth are visiting at the same home.

Mr. George Cann of Ontario called on his daughter, Mrs. Moore at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Haight on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Thibault and children were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gidney, Rossway.

ies, I was on the Saint John and Digby route in the employ of the Dominion Express which later changed to Canadian Pacific Express.

The boat in service at that time was the 'Empress' and was under the command of Captain MacDonald and the Chief Officer being Mr. Arthur Sweeney. The present master of the Acadia, Roy Conley, was the Quartermaster. All three were regarded as very good friends.

Although I was not a member of the crew I did enjoy being associated with them in one way or another. Incidentally the first person I contacted upon arrival at Digby was Fred McBride, who was wharf agent, and I might say this gentleman was courteous to all and conscientious in his work.

Several times the Empress remained in Digby overnight on account of storm conditions as Captain MacDonald deemed it necessary as a matter of safety. It is not essential for me to state the Bay of Fundy can be very turbulent preceding and during a storm and there was one trip I can recall quite vividly when the Empress did everything except turn over and believe an anchor and pair of stairs were lost overboard.

Chief Officer Sweeney, who was on the bridge, had rather a dazed look when the ship entered the Gut and all concerned were glad to arrive safely even if we did have empty stomachs and to state briefly I honestly believe the fish were well fed that day.

I hope, Madam Editor, you do not regard this letter obtrusive as I think you made a good job in publishing and deserve to be congratulated. Being a former New Brunswicker, I still have fond memories of good neighbors, the Nova Scotians."

Sell The Scallop Shells

The Digby Courier has been handed a letter from Constance P. Campbell, 2419 West 47th Avenue, Vancouver, B.C., in which she states:

"During the summer I spent in the Maritimes I tried in my native province of New Brunswick, then in Nova Scotia, to find scallop shells, and did eventually find a little shop in Digby with a pair of pretty sandy scallop shells.

Scallop shells make very attractive articles for cooking fish goodies for luncheons, entrees, etc. They are widely used in France and other places in Europe. One of my Montreal friends after trying in many places found them in New York at an exorbitant price, marked 'product of France'.

I understand at the present time the scallops are 'shocked' (a lovely expression) and the shells usually just thrown overboard. With a little advertising there might be quite a sale for them, at very little cost, in the many gift shops in Nova Scotia, either packaged, or not packaged. And please stress the fact of NOT decorating them or painting them, just scrub them clean! With every good wish for a bumper sale of Scallop Shells - I think I paid 10c each for mine".

The letter was forwarded to the Courier by the Halifax Board of Trade.

State University, and of Dr. L. Krzyzanowski, editor of "The Polish Review". There were also readings by Columbia and New York University students of Polish, directed by Dr. Halina Wittlin.

Connor And Sister Reminisce

A couple of raconteurs are reminiscing in Alexandria, Virginia, this week in conversation and music a period of 60 years. That's a lot of reminiscing.

The two are brother and sister - Madam Florence Stechow-Farrar and Rufus Richman Wilhelm Connor. She lives with her daughter and son-in-law, the J. Elliott Joiners of 4435 Venable Ave., and he is visiting from Connor Airport, Digby, Nova Scotia.

The 60 years which have separated the two have taken him to Egypt, South Africa, China, Scotland, Ireland, England and the Canary Islands in the service of the British Royal Navy. His recollections have led the Joiners and his sister through wars and typhoons, bombings and native skirmishes, romance and his three marriages. His five children have lived in Cairo, Alexandria and the Mustapha Palace in Egypt. They learned to speak in the language comprising their world - in Arabic, French, German, Italian.

And his prized photographs, which he's sharing, include one of them in frock coat and sword, uniform of the Master-of-Arms, when he was presented the King Edward's Coronation Medallion. He also received the South African and China medals.

Madam Farrar is recalling for him her years in the world of music - winning of highest college honors at the London, Dublin and Vienna Conservatories before the age of 17, her playing under the batons of Frederic Corner, Sir Arthur Sullivan, Sir Robert Stewart and Joseph Smith.

She tells of her professional debut under the auspices of the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland and Countess Cadagan, the Earl and Lady Roberts and the Earl and Countess of Mayo. Years of concert work, she recalls, in violin, voice and piano. She has directed a band of 125 men in Nashville, Tenn.; currently she has played for the Washington School of Ballet.

The reunion ends Saturday for the English-born two when Rufus Connor returns to Nova Scotia via Boston to visit a son. But the week of sight-seeing, reunion and feasting with the family's younger generation in the area promises long to be feasted on in memory. (Northern Virginia Sun)

President Of Acadia Honored

Recording for a broadcast to Poland over Radio Free Europe was the experience of the New York program in honour of President Kirkconnell of Acadia University on April 26th at the headquarters of the Polish Institute of Arts and Sciences in America.

A personal greeting from Dr. Kirkconnell to friends in Poland, last visited in 1938, was prefaced to a professional symposium on his verse translation of Pan Tadeusz and readings from the epic. Dr. Kirkconnell was called on to conclude the program with a brief lecture on the characteristics of Mickiewicz's Long poem and on the problems faced by a translator in transposing a work from Polish into so different a poetic medium as English.

Mrs. Chester Brinton and Miss Linda Brinton were in Wolfville on Saturday evening to see the "Show Boat" production.

New floor covering on the platform, which accommodates the communion table, was placed there by Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Kinney.

One of the many baskets of flowers was placed there in memory of Miss Viola Kinney and Mr. Cortland Kinney by Mrs. Roland Kinney and were picked from Mr. Kinney's garden, of which he was so fond.

The service was closed with prayer by Rev. Barkhouse and postlude by the choir.

I am writing this from Bundaris, Ireland and I thought your many readers may be interested in a bit of travel chatter.

My husband and I had a very good passage to England on the Empress of Britain and spent a week in England and took a bus trip of London which was most interesting. It is a fabulous city and quite different from any other city I'd seen.

We crossed the Irish Sea from Holyhead to Dover Laoghair then took a train to Sligo where we were met by my husband's folks and motor-cycled to Bundobhrain.

Bundobhrain is situated on the coast, it reminds me a bit of Digby, the bathing is very good here and one can explore the caves and walk along the Fairy bridges.

This time of the year the fishing is very good and the salmon and trout caught in Lake Melvin are the best in the world.

There are a great many fishers from England now at the hotel and each night they display their catch.

We were driving along one day and passed a donkey cart in the pouring rain with a family of Tinkers, they get their names my doing odd jobs they look like Gypsies. The mother had a baby under her shawl and a little blonde girl thinly clad and the man was leading the donkey. To me it looked very interesting, but I was told it was their way of life and people thought nothing of it.

Donegal is a near by town we visited the factory there where they manufacture tweed coats and suits, it was very interesting. We had a nice drive through the country to Lisadelle, the estate of Lady Gore Booth, a friend of the Hamilton family here in Bundardoin. She is a very gracious old lady and we enjoyed having tea with her at her stately county home, set in one of the largest estates in Ireland.

We will be returning to Montreal soon, with fond memories of our visit to Ireland.

Kind regards to all my good friends in Digby.

ATTEND SEMINAR

was probably true that some municipalities had lost revenue unnecessarily.

Work of the department of trade and industry in the location of new industries, was explained by Miss Zilpha Linkletter, director of the economic services division.

Gordon Chalmers, vice-president and general manager of the Formex Co. Ltd., Kentville, told the seminar reasons why Kentville was chosen as the site for their plant and what items, numbering 13, are considered in choosing a location. Emphasis, he said, is placed on the human element, a pleasant place to live. They look, he said, for a high content of skilled or semi-skilled labor or trainable people rather than for materials. Loyal and intelligent employees and good labor relations are a prime prerequisite for industry. Mr. Chalmers said their plant had been looking throughout Canada for a suitable town with a population between 3,000 and 20,000 where no one company dominated, on a Trans Canada highway and not more than 50 miles from an airport. They look for towns which have a good history in use of the tax dollar, good municipal administration involving good fire protection, theft protection and a co-operative attitude of authorities.

Among the requirements for the location of the Formex plant were good housing available for employees, hotel and motel space available for visiting dignitaries, efficient hospitals, doctors and dentists for the benefit of employees and a good library. Adequate schools and within 100 miles of a university were features high in priority. Civic betterment groups were considered an asset, churches of all denominations, recreational facilities and machine shops to keep the plant in repairs were major considerations. Good shopping area and comfortable living conditions were considered.

In looking over locations for the Kentville plant, Mr. Chalmers said they had narrowed it down to four after plus and minus qualities on their value sheets. Again they re-examined their findings in relation to costs, transportation, land and labor. They had even made experimental shipping from Kentville to different points where their products would be delivered to check damage to goods, etc.

He closed his remarks by repeating the necessity of a pleasant community, stable labor, adequate transportation, water for fire fighting and lastly attractive financing.

In his remarks Mr. Chalmers praised Industrial Estates Ltd. for their assistance and influence in bringing them to Nova Scotia and added that the success of locating in Nova Scotia was entirely up to the company.

After the plant the seminar broke up into workshop groups. At the workshop Mayor Hector Hall of Truro spoke on the success which Truro has achieved under the Truro Area Development Commission. He said that any success which the commission had achieved was due to the fact that it was made up of actively interested businessmen and workers in Truro and the surrounding area, within the municipality of Colchester County.

Another workshop on Publications and Public Relations was conducted by V. Michael Knight, Deputy Minister, Department of Trade and Industry; Sidney Hughes, Supervisor Industrial Development Services and W. Brian Myers, Nova Scotia Information Services. The first step of any community toward industry is inventory taking of assets and liabilities of the community. Samples of community data sheets were circulated.

In promoting a community it was noted that a beginning must be made by selling the community at home first, have the people of the community know the assets of their own place. The people then must do a selling job outside the community.

Every town, it was thought by the workshop, should have a fair proportion of their annual budget put aside for promotion. Some promotional ideas were fact sheets, letterheads, stamps, brochures. Samples of folders and brochures were submitted. It was deemed advisable to promote a community not only to entice industry and further tourism but also to attract residents for the area.

Also taking part in the workshop was Dennis Soucie, Meteghan.

On Monday night the delegates were guests of the Department of Trade and Industry at a dinner when Murray J. Rossant, of the editorial board of the New York Times, addressed the seminar.

Mr. Rossant is also financial columnist for The Times and prior to joining the Times was senior editor at Business Week. He has served for five years as the American economic correspondent for The Economist of London, England. He is currently a lecturer at the University of Wisconsin School of Banking and a radio and television commentator.

His topic was "Change". He noted the many changes in the world today, including those stemming from the common market and said that the major beneficiaries to change are those who take advantage of opportunities. Competition, he said, breeds growth and a shaking up is good for us, but growth is not a haphazard thing. It is something which must be planned.

Mr. Rossant stressed the importance of the redevelopment of human resources, higher technical training, flexibility of people to accept change, looking for other values besides security and stability of people. The latter, he said, is essential to attract capital.

We must find ways and means, Mr. Rossant said, of using our own resources. We do not want everyone exporting the same thing. Nova Scotia assets, he continued, is its geographical location and its people. Don't be preoccupied, he advised, with symbols of development, like handsome airports if the traffic doesn't wait, and we must, he said, prioritize our limitations as well as our assets and to invest our own, and we must invest our brains.

Faye Marshall

Vernelle Decker

Faye Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Marshall, Barton, graduated from Saint John General Hospital School of Nursing at graduation exercises, held Thursday evening, June 6th.

Upon completion of her course, she will enter Toronto Bible College in September, where she will study for a degree in Religious Education.

Dragger A Complete Loss

The 20-ton, 60-foot dragger, Alva & Paul, was destroyed by fire about 7:40 a.m. Tuesday, at Margareville, following three gasoline explosions.

The boat, valued at $25,000, was owned and operated by Arch and Glen Lightizer, of Kingston. The owners, on board at the time of the explosion, escaped unhurt by crawling through the boat's hold. Cause of the explosion is not known. $6,000 insurance was carried. Recently overhauled, the dragger had been employed in off-shore fishing out of Digby until a few weeks ago. Ernest Doty was a crew member aboard the Alva & Paul while the boat was in Digby.

The craft had on board a 45-gallon drum of gasoline and 200 gallons in tanks. It was reported there was a gas leak in the fore part. The first explosion tore the wheelhouse off and rattled windows in a number of village houses. The dragger was moved from the government wharf out into the harbour. Two explosions followed in quick order completely shattering the craft.

Fish Swallows Gull

A strange catch was reported by Mr. Scott Kinney and Mr. Ronald Kinney while fish dragging June 13th on the "Judy and Lois" out of Weymouth North. They were dragging off the Church Point lighthouse, in the St. Mary's Bay, when the net was drawn in to disclose a monk fish with an unusually large stomach. Curious to see what the cause was, they opened it to disclose a dead gull, with a band on its leg, bearing the following information, "Adulise Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington, D. C., U.S.A. No. 606-91714." The band has been forwarded as requested.

Digby School Pilots Again

Digby school, which has pioneered in the past in regional high schools and safe driving courses, will in September be one of ten schools to pilot a new method of teaching arithmetic in the elementary grades from grade three to grade six. The announcement of this undertaking was made by F. C. Purdy, supervisor of schools, at the graduation exercises of Digby Regional High School on Tuesday evening.

The course will be conducted by two groups. One group will be the experimental group and another of the same size and with students of comparable ability will be the control group. The experimental group will be given the new course and the control group will be taught in the traditional manner. At the end of the year an assessment of accomplishment will be made. The new course, which is expected to be adopted in the province in the Fall of 1964 stresses understanding by the child and is designed towards a better understanding in higher mathematics and nuclear physics. A revolution in teaching mathematics in all levels is expected and Mr. Purdy asked the parents of those students who will be in the experimental classes to have patience even though he expected they would be confused. He urged them not to try to teach the experimental students at home. A consultant representative of the Department of Education was in Digby last week to outline the philosophy behind the course and to give the practical approach to teaching it.

Mr. Purdy paid tribute to three teachers retiring from the DRHS staff, viz. Mrs. Eva Wendell, B. R. Powell and M. Thurber. He said they had made a fine contribution to the community and had helped to raise the educational standards of the entire area.

Mr. Purdy spoke also on the interesting and challenging in-service program of the DRHS. Staff meetings on curriculum and problems of administration have brought many improvements. High School seminars in mathematics, science and social studies were held to review work done especially in specialized fields. This program, he said, would be extended to primary and elementary levels in the coming year. An in-service training program for students having difficulty in reading was conducted and a program in extension by Acadia University and conducted by Miss Margaret Leonard was carried on.

Mr. Purdy expressed appreciation to the school board for giving scholarships to teachers attending summer school on university level. Six teachers have taken advantage of these scholarships and five of these are still on the Digby school staff.

Collide In Bay

The 65-foot dragger Fort Anne, of the Digby scallop fleet is in Meteghan undergoing repairs after being nearly cut in half when struck by another dragger.

The accident occurred late Wednesday while the vessel was fishing in the Bay of Fundy.

The Fort Anne was struck in the aft section. The bow of the vessel which struck her cut through the hull to the wheelhouse door.

The Fort Anne, well-equipped with pumps, was able to make it to Meteghan for repairs.

There were no injuries.

Wins $200 Scholarship

Peter Richard Nichols, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Nichols received a scholarship of $200 for high academic standing in 2nd year medicine at Dalhousie University. Congratulations on behalf of the faculty of medicine were sent to Mr. Nichols by C. B. Stewart, M.D. of Dalhousie. Mr. Nichols graduated from Acadia University with a Bachelor of Science in 1961. He attended high school in Digby. For the summer months, Mr. Nichols is employed with the Department of Public Health.

Largest Class D.R.H.S. Graduates

The largest class in the history of the Digby Regional High School graduated at the closing exercises of the school on Tuesday evening. The statement was made by Dr. L. F. Doiron, chairman of the DRHS Board, who presided over the closing ceremonies.

Graduates, numbering 129, proceeded to their places on the platform and front of the auditorium, to piano music played by Miss Catherine Hebb, of the teaching staff. The auditorium was decorated for the occasion with flowers and a large symbol of the Fundy Light in the form of a lighthouse built upon a rock and shedding its rays of light over the area.

Valedictorian was Miss Heather Schell, who threw out the challenge to the undergraduates: "We throw the torch, be yours to hold it high."

The guest speaker, T. A. M. Kirk, Yarmouth, was introduced by Warden Morehouse. Mr. Kirk, he said, had been inspector of schools in the area when the DRHS was built in 1917. At that time there were 300 high school students. Today there are 850, he said, and two major buildings have been added.

Mr. Kirk traced the slow and steady improvements which have taken place and particularly in the field of education, but said the job had not yet been finished and charged the graduates with their responsibility to carry on as their parents had done for them. He told the graduates that it is necessary for them to recognize and respect ability; to have tolerance and respect for every race, color and creed; be prepared to take a stand — to criticize and be criticized. Today is not a stopping point in your education, he told the graduates, it is just a starting point. He stressed the need even in specialized fields of learning to have a general education. With knowledge, he continued, must also be accompanied wisdom and understanding. Mr. Kirk was thanked by Mayor Vernon L. Bent.

Dr. L. F. Doiron, in giving a report for the school board, said that it is anticipated the DRHS students will number 900 by September of 1963. There is a decline, however, in the number writing Grade VII entrance examinations, which would lead to the assumption that a peak has been reached in the lower grade level. The high school level is expected to continue to increase, remain steady and in a few years drop accordingly. For the coming year an additional teacher has been engaged on the Grade IX level.

Dr. Doiron paid tribute to the teachers of DRHS who are retiring, viz. Mrs. Eva Wendell, B. R. Powell and M. Thurber. He also paid tribute to the work of Keith Raymond, Centreville, who retired after serving for 6 years as chairman of the DRHS board. He thanked the parents for their endurance in tax burdens and added that their investment in the future of the children was a sound one.

Two numbers were rendered by the male quartette consisting of J. J. Brittain, Paul Snow, Donald Brown and Wallace Hodgson. They were accompanied by Mrs. Herman Olsen at the piano. Before the recessional the graduates sang their graduation song, accompanied by Miss Hebb.

Other speakers will include Victor Cardoza, M.L.A. for Digby, and Peter M. Nicholson, M.L.A. for Annapolis West. Mr. Urquhart and Mr. Cardoza are at present making visits throughout Digby constituency.

Concept Eroneous Re $248,000 Grant

The announcement from Ottawa of a $248,000 grant to the Digby General Hospital has been given an erroneous concept by many people in Digby and area, according to campaign and hospital board personnel.

According to the chairman of the board some people are interpreting this a special grant when it is really only a normal bed grant. The chairman said the interpretation is having an adverse effect on the campaign results. Instead of giving less toward the campaign it is necessary to make a greater contribution the chairman said, as the bed grant is $6,000 less than was expected.

According to a spokesman from campaign headquarters, the campaign has now reached approximately $30,514 in cash and about $42,570 in subscriptions and cash. Ronald Morehouse, who is chairman of the campaign on Digby Neck, expressed himself as being happy in the results of the campaign to date in that area.

Improvement Of Highways In Digby County

The Courier has been informed by R. B. Powell, President of the Progressive Conservative Association of the Electoral District of Digby, that, to date, the following projects have been completed, are being carried out or have been listed to be done in the near future. It is hoped that other work may be carried out in the area this season.

Extensive curbwork repairs in Westport, Freeport and Tiverton are about completed. This work was necessary to protect the existing roads from sea damage. Preventive measures have been taken on the Broad Cove Road to save the base of the bank along the road from being washed away by the sea. This stretch is on a section leading to Point Prim.

Sand seal has been applied in Sandy Cove, Gulliver's Cove and Victoria Street in Weymouth. Sand seal is not to be considered as a form of pavement. It is used to lay the dust and to preserve a smooth surface throughout the summer season.

Reconstruction is underway leading into Culloden Village, starting where the former reconstructed section ended. This work will bring the road to standard width and grade for paving. After completion this section, the Barton-North Range road will be reconstructed from the section completed in 1961 towards Doucetteville. The programme is to bring, as many as soon as possible, of those villages which suffer extreme mud problems in the spring break-up to improved conditions.

A new bridge has been built on the Upper Marshalltown Road, on Route #1, preparatory work is being carried out on the construction of the new Kinney Brook Bridge.

Repaving of two sections in the Weymouth area is to be carried out shortly. One section is on the Payson Road and the other on the road leading from Rice's Corner towards Lewis' mill.

The Joint Federal and Provincial project at East Ferry is now completed. It was necessary to cease work for a time due to poor working conditions in the winter and early spring. Last week the work was completed and, as a Road to Resources, it will assist vehicles from the four fish processing plants to reach the pavement, eliminating the use of the steep hill road which formerly was the only exit from the plants.

Mr. Powell informs the Courier that other projects are being advocated for the Municipality for the current season.

Graduates With B.Sc. Degree

Ruth Edna Atkinson, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Atkinson, of Digby, graduated with a B.Sc. degree in Commencement Exercises at Gordon College, Wenham, Mass.

Ruth has taken Music and Elementary Education at Gordon the past three years. When her teaching practice began in February, she accepted the position of teacher for Grades I and II at North Shore Christian School, which position she will continue in 1964.

On Monday, June 17, she joined 40 other Gordon European Seminar students, under the guidance of History Professor David L. Franz, for a 9 weeks tour of Europe, leaving Logan Airport by jet plane. College credits are received for this study and tour, and will be applied toward an M.A. degree.

Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson returned from attending Commencement Exercises at Gordon College, and visiting Mrs. Atkinson's sister, Mrs. George Moody, and Mr. Moody, Swampscott, besides other relatives and friends in the vicinity.

Ruth Atkinson is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Morehouse, Centreville, Digby County.

Don Fleet Finishes Second

Digby's Don Fleet finished second at Nova Scotia open golf championship play staged at the Digby Pines Golf course over the weekend. Amherst professional, John "Jock" Munroe fired a two-over par 73 to nail down his second N. S. open golf championship.

Munroe, tied for second place after Saturday's 18 holes of play, was hitting to near perfection to recapture the crown he last held in 1960. The Cape Breton native also had runner-up years in 1957, '59, '62 and was provincial amateur king in 1955 and '58.

Don Fleet made a brilliant comeback after an apparently disastrous opening round 81. He recovered for a 73 Sunday morning and then hung close to Munroe's heels with a sub par 70. Final count between the amateur and the professional was a narrow 222 and Fleet 224.

Behind Fleet two amateurs finished in ahead of the pack, grouping of professionals, Paul's George Sherman at 231 and Brightwood's Floyd Kelly at 232. The 234 grouping was the biggest of the finalists and showed pros W. Nicholson, E. R. Coffey and J. Maxwell knotted with amateurs Pete Hope and Brian MacIsaac.

In order to settle professional money, those three had to go extra holes and in professional standings, Nicholson was second, Coffey third, and Maxwell fourth.

The meet had been scheduled for Saturday - Sunday play but after Saturday's 18 holes, rain came on in torrential amounts, to force postponement of Sunday's play. That meant the entire field played another 18 in the morning, Monday with the final 27 teeing off in the afternoon.

Scores: J. Munroe, Amherst 74, 73, 70, 222; D. Fleet, Digby 81, 73, 70, 221; N. Nickerson, Digby 75, 78, 87, 240.

About This and That How Do We Rate?

Why can't we have an industry in this area? How do we go about getting some of the industries going to other places? These have been the questions for years and it seems they are still unanswered for we heard them just last week. And definitely they haven't been answered or we would see signs of industry here.

Those who were at the Industrial Development Seminar in Halifax last week were told what it takes to have an industry locate in any special area.

The first thing a community must do is to set its own house in order. "An attractive community attracts", we were told. If an attractive community attracts, why then do we keep industry from looking our way by spreading the propaganda that we are in such a terribly depressed area? Wouldn't it be far wiser to take stock of our assets and liabilities and get on with the mending without crying "despair", "come in here and help us".

How do we rate with the qualities which industry is looking for in a community? Let us weigh ourselves in the balance. Industry is looking for more than low taxes. The very fact that we had our streets paved last year might be a drawing card for industry. Our school has been quite good for a small town and we have not been too far from a university or college. Why haven't we stressed this one asset, at least, rather than telling people we are so depressed and we need an industry to come in here to keep us from starvation. We need an industry but to get it we will have to show our better nature, we think.

Let us take a quick look at the community assets which are considered in locating for industry. We at the seminar were told — and by the way, we've written the same thing here time and time again — that the human element is the first consideration. Industry wants to locate in a friendly town where the employees are happy. Our measuring rod answers "yes" to the friendliness so far as Digby is concerned. Let us make the most of this asset. Let us let the world know we are friendly. From here on you can use your own measuring rod. Industry is looking for good housing for employees and good hotels and motels for visitors (surprised, are you?). Industry wants to protect the health of its employees by having a good hospital near its coming, good doctors' good dentists. Industry is interested in seeing lively civic betterment groups, a library, four first failure in Digby, different churches and recreation facilities. Industry wants to locate where it is made to feel welcome, where people are enthusiastic and progressive and where there is good shopping.

Naturally, industry wants skilled or semi-skilled labor or at least trainable workers. Industry is anxious to locate where there is a good history of labor relations. Industry wants good fire protection and a good water supply. In fact, industry is looking at municipal administration to see that the tax dollar is well spent and if authority is co-operative, industry needs to be near good transportation facilities, it must have good machine shops near and last of all it wants attractive financing.

Digby doesn't measure up too badly. What do you think? Could it be we are hiding our candle under a bushel? Maybe we had better start telling the world what we are really like instead of expecting industry to beat a path to our door by playing "Cinderella".

The School Year Book

We want to thank the teachers and students of the Digby Regional High School who insisted that the D.R.H.S. Year Book for 1963 should be done at the home printers. We appreciate this and we hope that the 1964 teachers and students will feel the same. Unfortunately, by misunderstanding we could not entirely do the book this year, having committed ourselves previously to so many other deadline jobs. However, since the students had depended on the book being done here we definitely were not going to "let them down" and so we took the responsibility of having their book completed somehow by June 17. We shall have it but only through the kindness of another editor who is spending his Sunday trying to complete the book rather than writing editorials for his own paper as we are doing right now. We do not consider we have given this shop another job, we certainly consider that these people have, out of generosity worked through on Sunday to complete the 1963 DRHS Year Book for us.

Again we want to thank this year's teachers and students for their thoughtfulness towards us. But may we suggest also that copy for year books be in the hands of printers, at least by end of April. Cuts for the year books which we attempted to do this year were three weeks or more in being done as against the usual few days for an order to be filled. On enquiring, the engravers told us they were loaded down with school year book cuts and couldn't possibly do them sooner. At that particular time of the year printers are usually busy, in any case, and an earlier start would be appreciated. But cheer up, D.R.H.S. students. You will have your Year Book on the day before graduation (and by the time you read this your graduation exercises will be over). We know of a large school which had its graduation exercises Friday night and to this moment the students do not have their year books. Reason, the printers had several year books to do and just couldn't get them all done in eight weeks. Even we feel better ourselves!

Enough to the students. We have a few other book and graduation customers. In most cases they expect books and publications to be completed while they still bring along copy to be inserted. How little they know of what must be done even after the last letter is in! True, type can be set in advance but the work can't progress when changes in copy are continually being made or more copy being added. We could never live off waiting around to complete a job while the customer insists on undoing what has already been done or adding more materials. Someone must do the waiting. How nice if each could understand the other's position. But that can't be. To sit down and sew a dress from a piece of cloth is far different from buying the finished article from the store. Printing also takes time.

Pyne — Hawkins

A very pretty wedding of interest to many, was solemnized Saturday afternoon, June 8 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey E. Hawkins, Digby, when their eldest daughter, June Marie, became the bride of Edgar A. Pyne, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pyne of Gulliver's Cove. The home was tastefully decorated by Mrs. J. R. McCleave with apple blossoms and spring flowers. The double ring ceremony was performed under an arch by Rev. R. H. Hughes, pastor of Grace United Church of Digby. The bride who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a blue street length dress of nylon sheer over taffeta with fitted lace bodice and long sleeves. She was attended by her sister, Miss Janet Hawkins, who wore a fitted street length dress of pink terylene and carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations. Mr. Joseph Todd of Nova Cove attended the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held when a feast to the bride was given by Rev. R. H. Hughes and responded to by the groom. Miss Mary Hawkins, youngest sister of the bride and daughter of the groom, acted as the hostess. After the reception the happy couple left on a motor trip through the western part of the province. ## The Tale Of The Granville

Copied from The Digby Telegram, March 30, 1895

Capt. Starratt, of the ill-fated ship, Granville, which was abandoned in mid-ocean, arrived home from New York on Wednesday, having left the Barbados on the 16th. The crew were to leave on the 21st for Halifax by the Taymouth Castle. Capt. Starratt told the reporter that he left Annapolis on Feb. 1st for Cardenas, Cuba, with a cargo of spruce and pine lumber. All went merry as a marriage bell until the third day, when a strong S.E. gale sprung up, together with a heavy cross sea, causing the Granville to labor heavily, the pumps going nearly all the time; on the fourth the wind moderated. The wind in the afternoon shifted and vessel made much water, pumps constantly going. On the fifth and sixth there was a heavy gale. On the seventh the gale was still at its height, the wind being W.N.W. There was a heavy sea, and deck cargo went

Colored Children's Camp

Bethel Bible Camp, at Connell Lake, near Middleton, Canada's only camp for colored youth, is getting ready for its fourth season. And the coming camp should be the biggest and best yet, stated Floyd Egan, Greenwood, chairman of the board of directors.

Although the camp is generally thought of as being for colored children, there is nothing of "segregation" about it, stated Mr. Egan, who is definitely an anti-segregationist.

"While the prime purpose of the camp," he added, "is to give the benefits of wholesome camp life to colored girls and boys from all parts of western Nova Scotia, we welcome white girls and boys and would encourage some to join us this summer."

Bethel Camp is owned and operated by the African Evangelistic Association Inc., of Middleton. It is an undenominational organization working among colored people of western Nova Scotia. The camp is part of the association's program to promote the advancement of colored people.

The campsite, on the south side of Connell Lake, consists of 16 beautiful, rustic acres. The camp lodge, recently constructed, can accommodate for meals and recreation 60 campers, 30 girls and 30 boys, and a staff of 15.

Bell tents, with wooden floors, and straw filled mattresses, give good sleeping quarters. A canteen and sports room are at the back of the lodge. Improvements to the camp property are being made each year. This year there will be some landscaping, and enlarging of the sports field.

Recreation includes swimming and water sports, supervised by a lifeguard on Connell Lake which has a shallow safe white sand beach. There is boating, motor boats and row boats; and swimming instruction to qualify for Red Cross awards. Fishing, traps, softball, hikes, archery, and more activities; and

Make Plans

At a meeting held recently at the RCAF Station, Greenwood, attended by members of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association and Annapolis Royal, it was decided that a reorganization of the Association in the Annapolis Valley was long overdue.

A resolution was accepted that a Valley Group RCAF consisting of three or more Wings, should be established at once. This will mean the inclusion of 107 (Morfow-Wing, Annapolis Royal, 106 (Kentville) Wing and the formation of a new Wing to cover the Middleton - Kingston - Greenwood area.

The proposed setting-up of a Group Headquarters in the Greenwood area might provide the impetus needed to arouse the interest of both former and serving members of Her Majesty's Air Forces. An invitation is therefore extended to all qualified applicants to join the organization founded especially for the benefit of all airmen and airwomen, no matter when and where they have served.

The dress worn and made by Elaine Sabine, Mrs. Sabine said, had won first prize at the recent Student's Congress held at the high school. It is regrettable that this display could not have been shown to a better advantage in the hall or separate room and many expressed the thought that this might be done another year. In both displays, great talent and patience were shown, both by teachers and students.

Former Digby Boy Organized Youth Band Coming To Digby July 1st

Douglas Daley, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Daley, Digby, has organized one of the most spectacular youth bands ever seen in New Brunswick. Mr. Daley started his musical career in the Digby Civic Band, under direction of his father, who was band master at the time. After that he was instrumental in organizing Sea Cadet drum and bugle bands in Digby and Dartmouth. After moving to Oromocto he started a small band there, which showed such promise that the Lions Club, under King Lion Richard Daley, Doug's brother, immediately took over sponsorship and paid out $7,200 for instruments and uniforms, using the colorful Lions colors and tartans.

The group was organized in January, 1963, with volunteer instructors from the Lions Club who are members of the Camp Gagetown Military Band. It consists of 74 members ranging in ages from 6 years to 18 years. They are trained in band and majorette work, precision marching and drill routines. This band has appeared in different events in Fredericton, Saint John and St. Andrews and has won the admiration of all who saw them. Their next outing will be in Digby July 1st, sponsored by the Digby Lions Club. Along with the Yarmouth band and many new float attractions, this promises to be the best parade Digby has had in many years. ## No Room For Separatism In Clare

There is no separatist movement among the Acadian inhabitants of Clare.

This assurance was given at an industrial development seminar in Halifax by Denis Soucie, chairman of the Clare Municipal Industrial Committee.

Mr. Soucie, who told civic leaders and officials attending the conference that Clare was between Weymouth and Yarmouth and was inhabited mostly by people of Acadian descent, conceded there were a few "strays" of Scottish and Irish ancestry.

"I am pleased to say we have no separatist movement," he said. "We deplore the actions of those few fanatics in Quebec."

"We believe that if less publicity was given to them and if we just ignored them it would be a lot better."

Mr. Soucie said Clare was concerning its efforts in developing small-scale new industries.

These included the manufacture of oars, paddles and sheet-board and the development of the peat moss industry.

"The economic outlook for Clare is very encouraging," Mr. Soucie said.

Thanking him for his talk, Guy Henson, director of the Dalhousie Institute of Public Affairs, which shared the sponsorship of the two-day seminar with the Nova Scotia Department of Trade and Industry, commented: "Anyone who doesn't know where Clare is now should be deported to Sable Island."

FOND MEMORIES OF HOME (Tribute to a Father on Father's Day)

In a wooded area of Sissiboo Two houses stood alone, In one an aged couple dwelt, The other a motherless home, There were seven in all, five girls and two boys, The baby, a boy only two, The eldest a girl only thirteen years old

With a mother's work to do, Some thought them lonely living there, Some thought no love they had,

How could they be like other folks? Just living alone with their dad?

I know they were like other folks, That they worked and loved and played,

I know because I was one of them, And at night with their dad they prayed,

The house is quiet, no children now, No voices loud and shrill, Just a lonely dad living all alone

In that house upon the hill, Does he sometimes think as he sits alone

Of times when all were there To sit around the stove at night And sing before the prayer?

Does he think of the times they worked all day In frost or burning sun? And how they used to race with him,

To the house when work was done? Does he think of how they snowballed him

In winter when snow was deep, How in summer when it thundered

In his bed they used to sleep? Does he think of the times they walked in the woods

In spring when all seemed new? How he showed them nests, high in the trees,

And told how young things grew? Does he think of the days on the old ox cart

As they went to gather the hay, From the far off meadow, back in the woods,

Where animals used to play? I think of these and many more

And cherish every thought, I never missed the luxuries That riches could have bought, For I was rich in little things

That play so great a part In making grown-up people Understand the human heart, I know my dad remembers

All the things I've mentioned here So, I'm writing this to thank him For those memories so dear, Most of all I want to tell him That I'm very, very glad

He was, and is the father I'm so proud to call my Dad. — Ethel.

Here are two main thoughts in this passage she said, Salt of the earth and secondly, lights of the world. A world that is in spiritual decay and ruin can be preserved by a few grains of salt of the gospel of Christ - a few sprinkles go along way. Just as salt makes food tasty, so can the preserve of a Christian add zest and flavour to any group of people who are banded together for any good cause. (2) Light of the World - Jesus is that light and he said let your light so shine, not make it shine - giving the message to all to preach the gospel where ever he is, so that those who see our good works may be brought not to glorify us, but to glorify our Father which is in heaven.

Mission Study was on China Chinks in the Bamboo, mostly of the cultural background, Chinese food, Chinese paintings, festivals, beautiful gardens and many of their words of wisdom from three great people. (1) L. HO-TZU; (2) Confucius; (3) Mencius.
Mother and Daughter Banquet
The C.G.I.T. group of Westport Baptist Church held their Mother and Daughter banquet on Saturday, June 8 in the vestry. The table was centered with a prettily decorated cake with the C.G.I.T. crest on the top. This was decorated by Rickie Robicheau.
Following the supper the main programme was held, opening with two hymns, the welcome to mothers and special guests was given by the leader, Mrs. W. Lent.
Mrs. Raymond Robicheau gave a short talk on the handicraft work, Lie. R. McLean also spoke to the group.
Miss Veronica Gower presented a gift to Mrs. W. Lent from the C.G.I.T. group, which was responded to with thanks.
Special music was a duet "Just as I am" Beulah and Barbara Frost, pianist Veronica Gower, Penny Kenny, Beyond the Sunset.
Mrs. Neil Burt spoke a few words to the group, and following Mrs. Lent presented a chevron certificate to Barbara Frost, who accepted it on behalf of the group, a short talk by Mrs. Lent told of the way the girls get their chevrons, Bible Study, Home Mis-

Does Girl Have To Go Steady To Get Dates?

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "Recently a particular boy asked me to three dances in a row. I accepted, because I have fun seeing shows and dancing with him. Sometimes he embarrasses me by acting silly and he almost continually talks about his relatives. Our school is rather small and whenever two people are seen together frequently it is spread about that 'so-and-so likes 'so-and-so.' I don't like this boy as a 'boyfriend' but I have to talk to him or he would feel bad and the situation would become very complicated. I'd like to go with other boys, but they all think I like this boy, which I don't. If I could tell him the truth in some polite way I would feel much better about the situation. What is your suggestion?"

ing to shows and dancing with this boy, continue to do so—but have it perfectly understood that you are not "going steady." You can do this politely. A simple way is to ask for his views on going steady, then tell him your own—that you do not wish to go steady with him or any other particular boy. You cannot stop people from "talking" in a small community, or a big city—but you do have opportunities to express your view about going steady.

If a boy talks too much about a particular subject, try changing the topic of conversation. After three or four times, he should get the message. If he doesn't, and this one fault begins to really get on your nerves, the kindest thing you can do is to tell him that it would be nice to talk about something else other than his relative from time to time.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Air Force Day Saturday At Greenwood

Air Force Day at RCAF Station Greenwood will be held this year, 22 June, with open house to the public beginning at 12:30 p.m. The purpose of Air Force Day is to acquaint the Canadian public with the functions and activities of the RCAF and its personnel. This year, the 17th annual Air Force Day, flying displays will highlight the day's activities, while numerous and interesting ground displays will allow the public an inside look at both the working and recreational life of today's airman.

The flying display will commence at 3:00 p.m. and will feature such aircraft flown by Maritime Air Command in day-to-day operations as the Argus, Albatross, Neptune and Helicopters. A live para-drop by members of Greenwood's Para Rescue Team will highlight the search and rescue demonstration.

The "Red Knight" in his brightly painted red T-33 will demonstrate the type of solo aerobatics undertaken by all RCAF pilots during their training. A unique feature of the Red Knight's performance will be that all manoeuvres will be carried out within the confines of the aerodrome, a most difficult task with a high performance jet aircraft.

Again this year the highlight of the Air Show will be the appearance of the "Golden Hawks" - the RCAF's precision aerobatic team. Formed in 1959 to mark the 35th anniversary of the RCAF and the Golden Anniversary of powered flight in Canada, the Golden Hawks have since given over 248 performances before more than 13,000,000 spectators in Canada and the United States. Their unique sequences of tight manoeuvres and high speed solo aerobatics are bound to delight both young and old.

The personnel of RCAF Station Greenwood cordially invite everyone to attend this year's Air Force Day, and to bring along their cameras to record the visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Gaudet visited Mr. and Mrs. Ronald VanTassel, Digby on Sunday.

Even Animals Attend Service

Encouraging attendance at the four services of the day in the churches of the Digby Neck-Weymouth charge were noted on a recent Sunday, and again in evidence at the time of the evening service at the Barton-Brighton United Church which now on several Sundays has been noted in its chosen spot in the basement window. This is the same bunny which attended the church service through the window at Easter time.

Original attempts to get a picture of the rabbit had been a failure and those passing the church at other times than on Sunday had been unsuccessful in seeing it there. But on Sunday evening, with the longer hours of daylight and a still camera, and also a motion picture camera we believe, says the minister, Mr. Withers, a good picture was obtained. That other animals than humans do attend church was made known when in conversation with a fellow minister from another part of the province, Mr. Withers was told how in the midst of a prayer he heard a light tapping on the floor and on conclusion of the prayer looked up to see a deer, true, one that had been tamed and seen before in the community but not in church that had entered the open door. It remained standing near the entrance until one of the congregation rising led the animal out from the church by means of the garland or rope that was about its neck.

At the churches first above mentioned many of the residents who have spent the winter and early springtime at other places have now returned to their homes and summer visitors have already begun to arrive to spend longer or shorter vacations in the area.

Bowling Banquet

The annual banquet of the St. Bernard Five Pin League was held at the Riverside Inn, at Meteghan River, with over one hundred and twenty-five attending. Eight teams participated in the Clare Ladies (5 pin) League and four in the St. Bernard League, which was made up of men. The St. Bernard bowling alley is owned and operated by a veteran of World War II, Mr. Wilfred Blinn, who has two alleys. Mr. Blinn told the group that interest in five pin bowling is continuing favorably in the Municipality of Clare.

So great has the interest been, that he is planning on adding two more lanes for next season. Mr. Blinn stated that he was obliged to turn down four new entries in the league last season due to lack of lanes. The Five Pin bowling leagues were the first to be organized in Clare. Some of the teams in the St. Bernard Leagues, both ladies and gents, have been entered in other leagues previously.

When bowling first was introduced in Clare about seventeen years ago, the Clare Men's League operated. Two years ago, a portion of this league shifted to candle pins and the St. Bernard entry dropped out, preferring to bowl at five pins. The St. Bernard Men's League was formed, consisting of four teams, three of them from St. Bernard's parish and the fourth team from Grosses Coques. The Ladies League is Clare League which continued in the five pin league, with additional teams entering. Meteghan and Church Point, which formed part of the Clare Ladies' League, dropped out and entered the Acadia Ladies' League of Little Brook, at candlepins.

Attendance Awards Presented

An interesting service was held at Grace United Church on Sunday morning when perfect attendance pins and highest attendance certificates were presented to the Church School scholars. Presentations were made by Rev. R. H. Hughes, Oakley Turnbull, superintendent of the Church School, and Gerald Hoare, chairman of the Christian Education Committee of the church.

Those receiving attendance recognition were Robert Vito, Roger Wright, Ernest Kilcup, David Melanson, George Weir, Barbara Black, Michael Frost, Mary Hawkins, Brian Milbury, David Purdy, Eric Milbury, David Marshall, Susan Turnbull, Glenna Hoare, Nancy Graham, Blair Wright, Donald Black and Deborah VanTassel.

Mr. Turnbull spoke on the growth of the church school which has experienced both higher enrollment and average attendance in the past year.

Mr. Hughes spoke on the church and its mission to the young people. He said that too often the church school and the church are two separate identities both in management and financing and this was not as it should be. The church with a future, he said, is the one which keeps an eye on the youth. Youth, he said, needs responsibility and youth wants to play its part in the life of the church. He continued that if youth can be held in the church from 14 years of age to 19 years, there is every possibility that the church will continue to hold them.

In speaking of the adolescent years, Mr. Hughes said that nature is hard on youth and he implored the congregation not to condemn but to instruct youth and make room for them in love, prayer and the church.

The choir appropriately sang "In The Fields With Jesus" with Mrs. J. M. Wallis doing the solo part. Miss Margaret Black was organist and the choir was under the direction of Elton Arnold.

T.V. Teaching Is Upheld

Screen education should be part of the school program for every child and should complement the entire curriculum, C. E. Edwards, Inspector of schools for Annapolis County and the district of Digby, said in Wolfville recently.

Addressing the Acadia University Women's Club, Mr. Edwards, Canada's delegate at the UNESCO conference in film and TV teaching held in Oslo, Norway, last fall, said: "The art, entertainment and information provided through the mass media of communication play an important part in shaping our values and attitudes."

Mr. Edwards stressed that the cultural environment created by film and television represented a challenge to and a great opportunity for all educators. He emphasized the need for the training of teachers of screen education, introduction of a general course in film and television for all students and a special course for those students wishing to specialize in this field of education.

"All who attend universities should have the opportunity of acquiring a basic knowledge of film and television as media of art and communication, and of the place of screen education in the general context of temporary cultural pattern," Mr. Edwards said.

Referring to a report prepared following the UNESCO conference Mr. Edwards noted that it recommended that universities offer courses in film and television, to be open to all undergraduate students, and which would permit specialization for graduate students.

Look Into New Ferry

The federal government plans a complete review of the whole question of a new ferry service between Nova Scotia and New England.

Transport Minister McIlraith said Tuesday that he planned to take a personal look at the question with a "completely open mind". He was not too impressed with the fact that surveys of other years indicated that such a service would be economically unsound.

Major significant changes could have occurred since those surveys had been made, he said. The transport minister had told the Commons earlier in the day that he would "look into the whole matter" despite the indications produced by studies under the former administration. He was replying to a query from Lloyd Crouse (P.C. Queens-Lunenburg), referring to a submission from the provincial government in Nova Scotia requesting a second 12-month ferry service to supplement the service provided by the Bluenose. Mr. McIlraith hadn't received the submission as yet, he said, but when he did he would give it full consideration.

Questioned in the Commons a week ago, Mr. McIlraith had referred to the earlier surveys made under the former government which indicated that such a service "would not be economically justified". He was referring to three separate surveys made over the past five years. A summer service between Yarmouth and Boston two years ago produced disappointing results.

The provincial submission, which is apparently in the mails, but has not yet been received by the minister, would be the first submission concerning the ferry service in question received by the new Liberal government.

Taking Courses In New Jersey

Sister Mary Charles, of St. Patrick's Business College, left on Monday to take summer courses at Rider College, Trenton, New Jersey. These courses will have as lecturers: Louis A. Leslie, methods of teaching the new revised Gregg shorthand, transcription, and Gregg Notehand; Dr. Fred C. Archer, methods of teaching office practice and bookkeeping and accounting; Dr. Alan C. After taking the above courses, Sister Mary Charles will return to Digby on August 1st to register the new students for the September term.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morgan and family are spending two weeks vacationing in Bridge-water.

Digby Board Takes Industrial Development Initiative

A special meeting of the Digby Board of Trade was called by the president, Ralph McIntyre, on Tuesday evening to initiate steps to form an Industrial Development Committee for Digby and area. The committee as planned will have representation from the Board of Trade by A. L. Robinson, chairman of the Board's Industrial Committee, and the president. Others to be represented on the committee are the Mayor of Digby and the chairman of the town's industrial development; the warden of the municipality and the chairman of the municipal development committee; a representative each from Digby Kiwanis; Digby Lions and Digby Branch Canadian Legion and V. G. Cardozo, M.L.A. for the municipality and district of Digby. A tentative date to meet on July 9th was set.

By regular motion of the Digby Board on Tuesday night A. L. Robinson was authorized to contact the federal Department of Industry, urging that Digby be designated as an area which would qualify under the new regulations for concessions of a five year write-off for machinery, equipment and plant and the three year tax free concession. The town of Digby and the municipality were to follow up the request.

In discussion before the above motion was made the much heard of "creating climate for industry" came under fire. The question was asked, "How far can a community go in creating a climate before getting an industry to locate in it. Digby's assets were listed as having good paved streets, new hospital, good schools, good labor, surplus power, lots of water which could be multiplied without much expense. Already Digby had promised tax concessions as applied to Industrial Estates. It was suggested that transportation might be the difficulty so far as Digby was concerned. Another suggested that the atmosphere created by small talk around town of unemployment and nothing for children to do, etc., might be detrimental to industry locating here.

It was also suggested that Digby might do more "emphasizing the positive" and further to assets named was the fact that a 1956 industrial survey for the town of Digby and County by the Nova Scotia Department of Trade and Industry had been updated. It was also suggested that it must not be overlooked that several fish processing plants had been improved or newly built. Recently in town there has been established a new fish skinner, a freezing plant, a fish packing plant and others. Each new boat added to the fishing fleet is an industry. Digby, too, it was suggested, is becoming a shopping centre.

Besides the industrial development subject the condition of the floating slip where the Port Wade ferry docks was brought to the attention of the Board. It was decided to refer complaints to the harbour master.

At a meeting of the executive of the Digby Board of Trade on a previous evening a resolution was passed which stated that if the federal government felt that it should introduce at this time a portable old age pension plan that the Digby Board of Trade go on record as supporting such a plan providing the plan be executed through an insurance company which method would provide for the creation of a new program of investments and the extension of job opportunities by increasing the capital of the private sector of the economy of the country.

Miss Margaret Leeman, also a grade XI student, of Tiverton, won 3rd prize for her essay.

He said with continued smoking one student of those present, could die of lung cancer.

50 Years Married

Fifty years has brought a change in transportation and travelling distances as seen by Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Woodman, Joggin Bridge. Fancy anybody using a horse and buggy to go on their honeymoon now. Yet 50 years ago, on June 25, back in 1913, Mr. and Mrs. Woodman started from Clementsport by horse and buggy to spend their honeymoon in Annapolis Royal, a distance of some ten miles away.

The bride of 50 years ago was Miss Leona M. Blackadar, Bear River. The groom was Oran Woodman, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Woodman, Joggin Bridge. They were married in the Baptist Parsonage, Clementsport, by Rev. O. P. Brown. The bride, dressed in a navy suit, had as her attendant the late Miss Maud Brown, and Mr. Woodman was supported by the late Lenile Sproule. Their honeymoon took them to Annapolis Royal, returning to Clementsport and then to Joggin Bridge, where a reception was held at the home of Mr. Woodman's parents. The late Mr. Alfred Bowden provided the violin music for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodman lived at Joggin Bridge for all the 50 years of married life. Here Mr. Woodman successfully nursed alone, for 55 years, a general store business from an extremely small operation to the thriving business of today, operated by Mr. Woodman and his son Clayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodman have two children, a son, Clayton, and a daughter, Ruby. Mrs. Robert Harrison, both living in Joggin Bridge with their families. The grandchildren of the 50 year bride and groom are Douglas, Larry and Susan Woodman and Ronald Harrison.

On Tuesday evening of this week the families of Mr. and Mrs. Woodman gathered at their home to help them celebrate the golden wedding occasion. The rooms were decorated with white wedding bells and streamers accented by floral arrangements of lupin and mums. For the occasion Mrs. Woodman donned a brown flowered dress and wore a corsage of gold and white mums. The couple cut one of the three anniversary cakes in the traditional nuptial manner and graciously received their many anniversary gifts. Games and refreshments completed the anniversary occasion.

46 Graduate At C.D.H.S.

Twenty-nine students of grade XII and seventeen in Commercial graduated at a special ceremony held at the Clare District High School auditorium June 18 with parents and friends of the graduates filling the auditorium to capacity, numbering over 600.

The High School choral groups both junior and senior entertained the audience with selections of French songs. The senior group was led by Alain Doucet of Maville of the High School teaching staff and the juniors were led by Miss Patricia Maillet of Meteghan, a graduate of Grade XII.

The Principal, Stanislaus d'Entremont, welcomed the parents and friends to the graduation ceremonies which was the sixth since the high school was constructed. To educate, direct and encourage the youths who attend this school or any school is an essential duty of the citizens of our country, he said. Your presence here this evening in such numbers manifest the interest that you have towards the advancement of the youths of our district, one of the richest resources of our country.

Valedictorian was Miss Simone Doucet who told the graduates that they were at the first crossroad of their career. Life will be full of obstacles but the instructions and Christian formation that you have received here should assist you to surmount them. Miss Doucet thanked the principal and teaching staff of the school for their tireless assistance they had given throughout the school term.

Rev. Edouard Theriault, pastor of St. Alphonse parish and chaplain of the High School, spoke briefly to the graduating class. He told them that Pope Pius XI had said "Education is necessary for man who is in society and not for the man who is alone". It is the duty of the parents to see that their children receive a good Christian education.

Mrs. Anna M. Baker, Lawrence, Mass., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Clayton Denton, Little River.

It is thirty-six years since Mrs. Baker was here to visit and she has seen many changes, she advised the Courier.

One thing which didn't change was the new five dollar bill, which Mrs. Denton got in 1927 from The Royal Bank of Canada, Digby. She preserved the 3 1/4 x 7 in. paper money and brought it back with her on the present visit. She doesn't intend to spend it this time nor sell it to money collectors either.

Marks 103rd Anniversary

Grace United Church, Digby, celebrated its 103rd anniversary on Sunday morning when Rev. Padre L. Hare, HMCS Cornwallis, was guest speaker. Padre Hare, who has been at Cornwallis for the past four years, leaves shortly for British Columbia.

Padre Hare took as his topic on Sunday morning, "By What Authority Doest Thou These Things?" Our authority, he said, is found in Jesus, He calls and He commands. The field of activity for each might differ but the command comes from Christ. The question must be asked, he said, "Is the work that of God or is it work of self?"

Education can be compared with a road map, which shows what route should be (Please turn to page 12)

Circus Boat On Fire

The Courier learned late yesterday that the Al G. Kelly-Miller Brothers Circus boat, docked at Yarmouth, was on fire, and the animals were being taken off the ship.

It was stated that the boat was listing to one side and there was a possibility it would sink. The fire was believed to have started in the engine room. Sharpshooters were standing by in case any of the animals broke loose in the confusion. It is expected the boat would be a complete loss. It was not known where the animals will be kept until future circus plans are made. The boat was ready to sail for Shelburne.

The circus, scheduled to visit Digby some time ago, was forced to abandon its earlier schedule due to engine trouble enroute from St. Petersburg, Florida.

LATER: News reported that the boat had sunk. No one was injured and the animals were taken ashore safely. Some animals were rescued in cages, the elephants walked ashore and three animals, it is understood, were thrown overboard and swam to safety.

Fire At Gilbert Cove

Fire blazed through the woodland belonging to Eugene Robicheau, Plympton Station, and situated about one and a half miles back of Gilbert Cove. The fire, which apparently started by the side of the road, possibly from a tossed burning cigarette or match, burned about 3 acres and about three or four cords of cut pulpwood. Starting about 3 o'clock p.m., the fire was under control by 7 o'clock and was extinguished by 9:30.

Back pumps, trucks and hoses, and a bulldozer were used to extinguish and confine the fire area. Fire warden Donald Brown, Digby, Chester Stevens, Weymouth North, Byron Amirault, Plympton, and Councillor Walter Wood and volunteer fighters brought equipment to quell the blaze.

About This and That Congratulations To Students

The closing of medical school, teacher's college, universities and high schools have brought a good many honors to Digby town and county students in scholarships, bursaries and awards of various kinds. Our congratulations go to all these prize winners. These awards are not handed out for no good reason. They are recognition of talent, ability and other qualities all accompanied by some real hard work on the part of the student. We are proud of each and every one of the award recipients.

Our congratulations also go to those who graduated but who did not receive awards. We are well aware that one award can go to one student only and that there is sometimes difficulty in deciding if one student is much more deserving than another. In the final analysis the real joy comes from having done the best that one has been able to do and to be able to live happily with oneself because of doing one's best.

To those who did not make the grade (although we have not heard of them) this is the time to make up your mind that you are going to do better.

And to both those who have passed the year end exams or who have failed to make the grade, this is no time to call it quits. An education is no burden to carry with you and the trend of employment is toward the educated or skilled person these days. All indications are that the trend will continue in that direction.

We are still old fashioned enough to believe that the pay envelope isn't the most important feature in deciding on a career but having once decided where your happiest and most rewarding career lies, the extra pay cheque, because of greater education or skill, does come in handy. Besides, we feel that the more knowledge or skill that anyone can have in a profession or trade the greater happiness can be derived from a career and the greater service can be rendered.

If you do not want to be numbered among the unemployed at the time of your life when it will be most necessary for you to work, buckle down to an education or training now. If you want the greatest happiness and be able to give the greatest service in your future career, get the most knowledge possible during your teenage and early years of life. Decide now for your 1963-64 schooling.

Where A Waiting Room?

With the exception of the telegraph equipment and the personnel for that department the last of other equipment and personnel have now moved from the D.A.R. Station on Prince William St. to the wharf. With this we have no quarrel if the C.P.R. can operate the line to better advantage economically and just as efficiently. We would not quarrel in any case, for it is C.P.R. private business but we, like others, are wondering where passengers who board the D.A.R. train "hang out" until train time. With the station open there was shelter and there were benches to sit on. We know, for, particularly in winter, we've waited there for the train when it was late. Where do the passengers wait now? We were told by a passenger that there is nothing to do but sit on your suitcase.

This we think is hard on the passengers and especially on summer visitors who do not come by car. They can't arrive just as the train is pulling out so they have to wait somewhere. The more comfortable they can be made the more sure we are of their return and that they will use rail transportation again.

The same applies to local people. Where can they stay for the evening train? We'd like to think that some provision is being made.

Scenic Roads

When the announcement came to the Courier this week that the Bay View road and a road to Coluden were to be in the summer's paving program we immediately thought of that beautiful scenic ride along the Shore Road. We are not being greedy. We know that all roads cannot be done at once and we realize that paving programs are expensive propositions. We do feel that it doesn't hurt to keep all these projects in mind and before the public. So let's not forget we are looking forward to the day when that scenic drive along the shore from Digby to Bay View will be paved.

What a shame, said a passenger on the Princess of Acadia last week, that there isn't a road following the shoreline on both sides of Digby Neck. A dirt road there would soon pay for itself, she continued. We agree with the passenger that it is a shame we can't drive along the shore on both sides of Digby Neck. The scenery would be magnificent and would be a miniature Cabot Trail and Gaspe ride. We, however, feel that it is a shame we are not advertising the present paved Digby Neck road enough with all the beautiful byways to Coluden, Centreville, Sandy Cove, Whale Cove, Little River, and other roads that lead to the shore along Digby Neck. We want a causeway to Brier Island, too, but until we get it we might be missing out by not advertising the marvelous scenery and the unique fun of crossing the ferries as they are and spending a day, a week, or a month in quiet rest among the most hospitable people anywhere or by spending the time fishing. If we were tourists coming here we'd like a vacation of that kind.

Speaking of roads — people have commented that they enjoy Mr. Fred Withers' short articles on byways "Where Does That Road Go?" A member of our staff came up with the idea that a booklet of these roads, as written by Mr. Withers, would be excellent for tourists. Good idea. We might do it sometime in place of scallop shell favors.

And again speaking of roads — we have heard little lately from the Digby Board of Trade on that Shelburne Road project. We have the larger Digby-Saint John boat. Indications are that she is being well used for car transportation. Let us not forget the Tobaccac area for a national park and the Shelburne Road.

There seems to be a difference of opinion by federal and provincial government on whether a second New England-Novia Scotia ferry would pay. Maybe the idea shouldn't be dropped.

Those In High Places

It could have been any ordinary person and the world might never have known. In fact, the story might have been considered too sordid to print. But not the politically involved Profumo case. This was excellent copy! Sensationally impressed people all over the world would swallow up this story from newspaper, radio and T.V. so it made headlines all around. The sad part is that it has made headlines not only here and in Britain but also in those countries which are looking to us for leadership. As the editor's late mother used to quote: "Of him who knows much, much is expected." And so of we countries which are expected to lead in fine principles, much is expected. Of those in high places much is expected of them. It is even more important that they, more than others, walk in a manner befitting their station since their influence has so much wider range in so short time.

We listened to a Billy Graham broadcast on Sunday night. It was coming through from a service in Germany attended by 20,000 people. Part of the broadcast announced that Billy Graham was returning to United States and Canada and stay at least 6 months because there was so much immorality and racial discrimination. We are not denying the fact that Billy Graham might be needed for a house cleaning here, but we couldn't help wonder what impression the broadcast made on overseas listeners. Just the impression we deserve, maybe.

One thought brought on another and we thought of how stupid some of our Canadian politics must seem to other countries. In a small club one might flippantly make any promise and later be excused by admitting "I was only fooling." Not so when leaders of countries make statements. Statements by men and women in high places are taken for granted and they are not easily excused by those who hear or directly oppose. The higher the station the more responsible should be the statements, yet some of our election propaganda in this country could be considered less than high school level. Once the statement is made it must be made good if possible. Making the propaganda good has cost the people a lot in taxes sometimes. When will political campaigning get to the high standard it should and campaigners speak and promise as befits those in high places? And then carry on the country's business as men in high places.

A Clear Commercial

(We thought our readers would enjoy the little gem below and since nobody had to be turned away from church on the past nice, bright, sunny, summer Sunday morning, because of overcrowding, the "commercial" below might be of advertising value to the churches. Might even get 25 different sponsors to bear the cost.)

A CLEAR COMMERCIAL
 DUZ' YOU DREFT with the TIDE? VEL, it's time for ALL to CHEER up. If you want real JOY, the TREND is to BREEZE to church regularly on Sunday mornings. Too many WOOD-BURY their heads in the pillows or work in their yards, like HASTY ANDY, forgetting that the Lord's day was made for RESTOIL. So, don't trust your chances to LUX by neglecting worship or Sunday. Shall we DIAL you and remind you of those IVORY palaces up yonder?

This is not just idle BOB-O! Worship will add LIFE-BUOY. So why not be faithful and WISH yourself out of bed Sunday mornings, dress up SPIC & SPAN and DASH like a COMET to Sunday School and church. Singing Praise to God will bring a CLEANSER to your soul. PLEDGE yourself and PRIDE of conscience will be yours and life will be full of ZEST.

The Girl No Longer Seems To Care About Him

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I have a serious problem. It worries me more each day. I love a girl who is very attractive. We dated regularly, for two or three months, last year. Now we don't seem able to work things out as well as then and she doesn't seem to care for me as she did then. What shall I do?"

OUR REPLY: If you really love the girl, don't give up easily. Do some serious thinking about what might have caused her to like you less than she did last year. Were you the same person after she got to really know you as you appeared to be when she first met you?

Sometimes people begin to "drift apart" because of some little problem they just didn't want to recognize and do something about. Often, it is a misunderstanding that might be cleared up in seconds if both individuals would only speak their mind, openly, frankly.

Often, "steadies" will begin to break up because one individual begins to take too much for granted, or begins to make decisions (without a conference) when the interests of both parties are involved. Nobody likes to be taken for granted. Everybody likes to make his or her own decisions.

Sometimes it happens that two people learn after a time that they aren't really "meant for each other" after all. Perhaps, one individual makes this discovery and doesn't have the courage to speak out. Here, the process of "drifting away" starts as an unconscious, but certain thing.

It's a sad thing when a person loves someone who doesn't love in return. You can't "make" someone love you—but you can try.

Letter to the Editor

Barton, N. S., June 20, 1963.

Dear Editor: I am hoping every one sees Rev. Wm. Fermer's talk in the Chronicle Herald, The Voice of the People.

I have known Mr. Fermer for years and if every one was doing their part to save souls there wouldn't be so many of our young people in the jails these days. I for one sure pity the young. They were eating and drinking in the days of Noah, and what happened. It can happen again. God bless the young, I say.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION

The graduation of grades ten, eleven and twelve took place in the auditorium of Weymouth Consolidated School on Wednesday of last week.

Mr. A. E. Adelaar welcomed the audience and in his opening remarks said that we live in a world of change, Political and Social change. The world changes faster than our minds and it takes us a long time to recognize these changes. In the field of education students and parents have the greatest change. We now have seventy five percent unemployment and for those students leaving school at the grade six level the future looks very black indeed. Mr. Adelaar said that a few years ago, pupils left school at grade six and up. He said that it is important to the family and country to be progressive and we today must look ahead. We need more vocational schools, everybody with ability, regardless of financial standing should be able to attend college. He said we need more guidance counsellors and if we look ahead and stick to the job there will be a better future for our students and our country.

Supervisor L. D. Stockdale in his remarks said that it was very gratifying to see so many out to show their interest in the students and school. He spoke of changes in teaching for the past year and the completion of the new annex but also stated that with pupils still coming into this school, there was still need for more rooms. Staff changes for this coming year were as follows: Mrs. Allan Irvine, replaced by Mr. A. M. Clayton, (Social Studies), Miss Winnifred Manzer, replaced by Mrs. Dan Hankinson, Mrs. McNeill will be on full time and Mrs. Carl Blynn, substituting and Mr. Clayton Lewis will be teaching English. Mr. Stockdale spoke of the high standing of Mr. Lewis had at Teacher's College. He said Weymouth Mills school would close its doors finally on June 30th and the local school would hereafter absorb those pupils. Mr. Stockdale spoke of a stage and school music teacher. He also urged the change of age for a pupil to leave school to be sixteen years instead of fourteen years. He thanked all people and firms who donated prizes and spoke highly of the decorating done by Mrs. John Shaw and Mrs. A. E. Ferguson.

Rev. Father Raoul Deveau introduced the guest speaker, Msgr. Nil Theriault who was born at Belliveau's Cove and now priest at Annapolis Royal. Msgr. Theriault opened his remarks light-heartedly and went on to say that the word "failure" is a harsh word. It threatens the pupils. He also said the "success" is another word that is difficult to use, because a change can always happen. He mentioned several outstanding feats as Lindberg crossing the ocean, Mt. Everest conquered, Astronaut safely landed. "They made it. What next to conquer? Is this the end? Does anyone ever reach the peak? How can we measure success? Here are always new challenges. Msgr. Theriault went on to say look to the future, many changes have been made since days of the Little Red School House. T. V. courses, education going in the direction of Federal control. He said we are too materialistic for our minds. Evil must be destroyed. We have a new challenge - vast, mysterious, unknown - there is hunger, want, hate and how can we survive these things. He said success means attaining a goal we have set out for. He advised the graduating class to know themselves, stop trying to be someone else, take good advice, listen to it, then choose what you want to be and go ahead. Be positive, constructive, look up not down and first to remember you are children of God. In this, there is no failure.

Mr. Gordon Campbell thanked Msgr. Theriault and told of the success of the driver education course this year. Certificates were presented to grades 12, honor students being Margaret Hankinson and Wayne Blynn. Grade eleven honor pass, Stuart Lewis, and Bernard Mullen. Grade ten, honor pass, Joan White and Wagner.

ADDRESS ON STEWARDSHIP

Mrs. J. M. Wallis was guest speaker at the evening service in Heartz Memorial United Church on June 23rd using as her text 1 Corinthians 10, verse 31 "whether you eat or drink, or whatever you do, do all to the glory of God". Using the word "Stewardship" Mrs. Wallis explained that in Bible times this meant the work of a manager in the absence of the owner of an estate, who took charge and directed the affairs as though it were his own. The Steward was rewarded on the basis of his management and trust. Christian Stewardships applies to every power and possession of our being. According to God's standards the most noble gift or talents we possess are those of most complete consecration to His Service. The Sexton who provides a clean, well aired comfortable place of worship is as truly a steward as the organist or soloist who inspires us with music. God looks on consecration rather than accomplishment, not how many talents we have but how well we use them. Christian Stewardship should be dedicated always to the glory of God. So much time has been wasted and value lost in this world because our sense of stewardship has so often been at fault. If in our daily living we could pause and ask ourselves the question "What would Jesus do?" The Stewardships Influence involves our character, our friendship, our business practices, our personalities, our stewardship of justice, our witness. More than giving this includes being. Our material possessions are part of our stewardships life. Mrs. Wallis closed her remarks by repeating "All we have to offer. All we hope to be, Body, Soul and Spirit. All we yield in stewardship to Thee".

Mrs. Allan Irvine president of the U.C.W. introduced Mrs. Wallis and also took part in the service. Mrs. Carl Blynn is chairman of Christian Education, Committee conducted the service. Mrs. Howard Pason assisted in the choir. Miss Ruth Hankinson was organist, Mrs. W. M. Nickerson and Mrs. Curtis Hankinson acted as ushers.

Surrounded by equipment for diving purposes is W. B. Young, Toronto, who has been on the Islands, accompanied by Bob Forbes in search of relics of sunken ships. Young and Forbes will be remembered from their visit in the vicinity in 1962 when they were successful in locating off Freeport the wreck of the Equator, lost in 1880. Their mission this year to Westport was to search for the wreck of the 1st World War cargo ship "The Corinthian". They also worked on weirs, salvaging and any type of underwater work.

Off the most western points of Nova Scotia are not the only places where the two Torontonians do diving and salvaging. They've been spending the past four years during vacation time scouring the bottom of the Great Lakes as well.

Mr. Young, a printer, who left the navy because he couldn't become a frogman, hopes a sponsor will help underwrite the expense of the searches. Relics, such as anchors, ship bells, dishes, guns and the like, are often valuable to museums and collectors. Sea-food restaurants that want an authentic decor are also useful outlets for underwater scavenging.

"We keep hoping to find a cannon - they're worth anywhere from $300 to $15,000", Mr. Young said. Portholes bring $50 to $100, a dish with the insignia of the wreck on it is worth $30 or so. Even hatch covers can be made into interesting and saleable furniture.

The two underwater experts plan to use electronic search devices this summer. They have maps of all known Great Lakes wrecks of the past century.

How many wrecks are there in the Lakes? Mr. Young says between 1868 and 1889 there were 6,000 wrecks - 1,000 of which were total losses.

Apart from the fun of it all, the young men also hope to make money from the hunt.

New Wharves Needed In Clare

Wharves constructed years ago have become obsolete in many areas of the Municipality of Clare. One such wharf is at Meteghan, the largest harbour in Clare with the largest wharf facilities also. Nevertheless, it has become apparent that something will have to be done to enable the smaller fishermen to have sufficient space to tie up their boats.

On one weekend, no less than nine fish draggers were tied up at the main wharf two abreast leaving hardly any place on the wharf to allow the smaller fishing boats to be moored. The draggers are from 60 to 95 feet in length while the smaller fishing boats measure approximately 35 to 40 feet.

On this particular date, the smaller fishing boats were all at the land end of the wharf strung out three or four abreast. With the fishermen gradually purchasing larger fishing boats it is quite evident that better docking facilities will be required. This congestion at the wharves is not only happening in Clare but in most fishing areas. Something will have to be done to relieve this congestion and to provide mooring at the wharves for the smaller fishing boats.

The government of Canada is well aware of this fact and it is a problem that will have to be solved before too long. Fishing is the greatest industry in Clare and the mainstay of the economy of the area. If improvement in the fishing trade continues as it has in recent years in this area, better wharf facilities all along the french shore will be required.

The value of fish caught along St. Mary's bay as well as those caught on Georges Banks has increased each year and this means that more money is being distributed in Clare through the fishermen, fish plants and suppliers.

CORRECTION
The June 13 edition of The Digby Courier carried an account of the recent marriage of Joyce Marie Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Hamilton Lewis, Plympton, to Joseph Henry Belliveau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Joseph Belliveau, Weymouth. We regret that it was inadvertently reported that the bride was "given in marriage by her daughter". This should have read "given in marriage by her father".

Westport Men Kept Busy

Two Westport men, Lou Bailey and Murray Peters, were kept extremely busy one day recently. Their day began when they took in tow two young boys from Freeport, who had apparently gone rowing and became caught in the tides of Grand Passage. Their boat was carried by the tide around Northern Light, where the water was terribly choppy. They were unable to row back home. Later the fishermen were called upon to file a fish-hook from Fred Ryan's hand. Even if the fishing is good at such times, the men are willing to lose time when another is in trouble. It could be called the Law of the Seas.

Clayton Woodman, of Home Division, was master of ceremonies for the evening. After the hymn, "Blest Be The Tie", a social hour was spent by those present. It included refreshments of home-made doughnuts and coffee.
