1877-1977

Now and then a printing job has to be on parchment paper which required a special kind of printers ink which costed very much more. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would take me to the largest press in town at the fact that we always spent an outside dollar to know the others on the ground.

One of the jobs I had to do, besides janitor and printers devil on the staff, was to fill in the morning paper. One day not long after I started my job at the printing plant, I decided to check the floor that apparently hadn't been checked in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "How are you doing out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily. He thought the remark pretty good and cute.

Sometimes the gasoline engine at a pace of machinery would refuse to work, and the "Mac" the fix a man had patiently worked for a great length of time to get it going again, without making "Mac" would then stand back and wait, quite stressfully, then he would immediately start working. "Mac" would say, "all it needed was a bit of oil."

On other occasions when some money refused duty for the end, seemed to be broken. "No," would say, "use a little oil" and sure enough after that is all it took. Thus often since, have I thought of the value of that remark and the actual need of oil in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and, in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are. Like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1955 got together just before dark one evening and decided to estimate the newly built outdoor Penn Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just out of the pool, nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys, no thought or time for bathing suits, so to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in. The next quickly followed and across the pool they swam.

rest quickly followed and across the pool I saw a man
"Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Opac Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Paul H.
Anderson, veteran of two wars, second world and Korean; was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sailing L.
Smith, now prominent druggist; for many years in
in hardware and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me how about writing your version of the story told about "The Marooning of Jerome". A "Hilliard" and read at least two somewhat different stories about the man who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore off St. Mary's Bay, Duxbury County. When I read this man's name I had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jimmie" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and, possibly, of some considerable wealth. However, the only thing the man could or would ever say after being found and cured for by some family in the French Alps was, "something that sounded like: 'Omelette'."

He either would not, or would not wish to, say about who he was or why he was left there. He was, and is, one of Digne's "Gypsies."

And, different ideas have been advanced as to the

and, different ideas have been put forward concerning this man. However, "Mac" was, I felt, no simple character. I differed about this man. The man I have been very well explained to me by people, and he was a sort of people who hated where he was.

Comment by David Sanford

From the files of the Chamber of January 22, 1967, the following account has been copied concerning Dwight D. Davis:

Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us by friends is a copy of the Salem Times-Tribune of May, 1882, says the Tribune and among other advertisements contained in the issue referred to is one mentioning the town and forwarding of Daply, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this ad we are told the ownership of Daply "rests from the fact of Annapolis appearing in the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 100,000 acres." The town plot is there described.

The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and extends miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of W. Mary's Bay. This land not only has water's edge, partly on level ground, and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having on an eastern aspect a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in extent, it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth at that name. It was secured by Leyden, from New York in 1642, the time of which went nearly to Britain, or, moving to other countries, left the shore free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students, one of which was J.J.'s daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Morton of Tibet, Prescott, Digby Co.). Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters. I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print." I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like embossing, stapling, perforating, coaming, cutting and crumpling paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, too. The only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "go," the printers name for a completed mass.

There was a taste of trying to sell the plant inside the plant. Work was a little less on early fall days and so Mac said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried to make several calls, but most of the time at one particular

Grace United Church Hall Extension Dedicated

Saturday saw a dream of long standing come true when the new extension to Grace United Church Hall was dedicated. The dedication ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Thomas, Aylesford, chairman of the Annapolis Presbytery, assisted by Rev. Prescott Burrill, Middleton. Rev. R. H. Hughes, pastor of the church, conducted the afternoon's proceedings and presented the hall for dedication to Mr. Thomas, who accepted it on behalf of the United Church of Canada. At the dedication special rooms were dedicated to the Glory of God and to the memory of the late Miss Edith Letteney and Mr. Elton Arnold. A room was also dedicated in tribute to Lloyd Jefferson, who was responsible for the construction to be started. Miss Letteney had been a primary teacher for 45 years or more and Elton Arnold had been choir director from 1941 until the time of his death in 1963.

Mr. Thomas took his text from Zechariah 8, v. 5 — "and the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof." He said that today we are so busy making money and so concerned with progress and efficiency that boys and girls cannot play in the streets. More adequate places must be provided for their learning and playing. He charged the adults to give concern to the fact that efficiency, speed and rush do not always mean effectiveness and we must soon determine where to put our efforts. He expressed the hope that God would use the extension to the church hall greatly for the blessing of all who come to it and that the young might grow in wisdom, stature and love of God and man under its roof.

Other speakers on the afternoon's program were Mayor Clayton Snow, who supervised the building project; Mr. Jefferson; Vincent Snow, who had charge of financial arrangements; Reginald Turnbull, secretary of the Church School for 26 years; Gerald Hoare, secretary of the Christian Education Committee and a member of the Session of the church, and Dr. T. W. Hodgson, a former minister of the church.

Mr. Vincent Snow said that the extension represented an investment of about $20,000. For the above only four thousand dollars had been borrowed for the project and $400 of that amount had been paid back already. Donations of money, materials and labor provided the other $16,000. Mention was made of Gordon Snow, who drew the plans for the hall, and A. L. Robinson, who donated the wiring.

Miss Constance Adams was soloist at the dedication service and a junior choir, under the direction of Mrs. R. H. Hughes, sang. Mrs. Elton Arnold, church organist, presided at the piano.

Notice Good P.Q. Happenings, Speaker Advises

Robert Choquette, when speaking at the annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Association of Chartered Accountants at the Digby Pines Hotel advised his listeners to notice the good things which happen in Quebec, influence their clients to do the same and help to create a good understanding between the French and English people of Canada.

Mr. Choquette, associate commissioner of the Canadian Centennial Commission said that too much emphasis is given by news media to the differences which exist between Quebec and the rest of Canada while happenings which record growing unity between the segments are left untold.

Mr. Choquette told of education plans in Quebec where a program of technical, scientific and business education is in progress. This is a departure from earlier educational programs in Quebec, he said, where humanities had been greatly emphasized and the technical, scientific and business were neglected.

Delegates at the N.S. A.C.A. enjoyed golf and other recreation while in the area.

H. R. Doane and Co. held the annual meeting of their company at Harbour View, Smith's Cove following the N.S. A. C. A. in Digby. A reception for partners and clientele was held at the Canadian Legion Hall, Shore Road on Monday evening.

Father Gaudet Honored On 40th Anniversary

Parishioners of St. Patrick's parish honored their pastor, Fr. Gaudet, Sunday morning at the close of the 11 o'clock Mass. It was the eve of the fortieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

In an address, read by Harold Surette, tribute was paid to Father Gaudet's long and fruitful ministry to date, with special mention being given to his noteworthy achievements in the fields of music and construction. One of the best-known priests in this part of the diocese, he has spent one-fourth of his ministry at St. Patrick's and over half in this section of Digby County.

Following the address, presentations were made of gifts from the parish, including a purse and spiritual bouquet. The cheque was presented by Mr. Surette, the spiritual bouquet by Mrs. Rita Comeau. Anne Comeau and Michael Theriault presented a spiritual bouquet from the children of the parochial school. H. H. Stokes sang two solos during the Mass in Father Gaudet's honor; he was accompanied by his daughter, Barbara, as organist.

In his acknowledgements, Father Gaudet stressed that such an honor was a demonstration of reverence for the priesthood itself. He thanked God for the health necessary for the ministry in a parish as extensive as St. Patrick's and recalled some of the events in the parish during his pastorate.

Fr. Gaudet was born in South Ohio, Digby County, in 1899. He was ordained to the priesthood at Halifax in 1924 and served the first two years of his ministry at St. Thomas Aquinas Church in Halifax. He then spent three years at St. Mary's Basilica, from whence he was named pastor of Plympton in 1929. After 14 years there he became parish priest of Amiraute's Hill, Yarmouth County. It was from there that he was named to Digby in 1954.

He was born 22 September, 1915 and lived his early years in Rothesay, New Brunswick. He joined the Royal Canadian Navy Volunteer Reserve early in World War II and served thereafter at sea, first in a number of corvettes and in Coastal Forces, then the remainder of the war in destroyers. He served as Captain of the destroyer HMCS Nootka in the Korean War.

He has served since the Korean War as Manning Commander for the Atlantic Command, Chief of Staff to the Naval Member Canadian Joint Staff in Washington, Director of Naval Organization in Ottawa, Chief of Staff to the Commanding Officer of Naval Reserve Divisions, and as Commanding Officer of Cornwallis, where all of our sailors are initially trained.

Cornwallis has benefited greatly through the interest shown by Captain Steele. The beautification of HMCS Cornwallis has done much to stimulate morale and also present a most favourable impression of the Commonwealth's No. 1 training base. Above all, the Establishment has continued to send to the Fleet a high calibre naval rating for service in Canada's fighting ships.

About This and That

1967 Tourist Season Could Depend On 1964

All we need to do is to look out a window or take a walk down town and we can see that the tourist season has begun in Digby. Number plates on cars give evidence that people are travelling. A look, too, in the direction of the Cannon Bank where the cars line up to board the Princess of Acadia or a look as they disembark also assures us that the tourist season for 1964 is here.

We understand that by 1967 Nova Scotia expects 1,000,000 visitors to enter the province. The percentage of those who come to linger a while in Digby in 1967 will depend on us and will probably depend much on our attitude and effort in 1964. Right now, while the tourists are here for 1964 is the time for us to prepare to entertain a good share of that million expected in 1967.

First and foremost in preparation for 1967 is a friendly and gracious attitude in 1964. Being gracious to the tourist means, along with other gestures, to refrain from overcharging for goods and services and to give a dollar value for a dollar in payment. Along with the full value for payment of goods and services should be thrown in a friendly and gracious response to questions asked, a friendly smile to show that Digby welcomes the tourist. The proprietors and managers of businesses have a responsibility in this regard, but proprietors and managers have far less contact with the travelling public than the clerks, waitresses, chamber maids, service station attendants, guides and others of a like nature who are earning a living by serving the public. An employee who fails to give a willing, gracious and friendly response to a customer or client is failing his employer in his duty at anytime. Failing, in this regard, the tourist, who probably judges a business or place by a few contacts made in a short time, can do irreparable damage to the tourist industry as time goes on.

Unkempt roadides mean less tourist business. We can start now to clean up the old car bodies and rubbish which disfigures our countryside. Beauty of countryside in 1964 pleases the tourist of the present season and prepares for the million expected in 1967.

Clean, tidy beaches and well marked scenic byroads should be attractions for the 1964 tourists. Pleasurable use of these in the present season assures their use in 1967 either by the same people having returned or by others who have learned of them through the 1964 tourists.

Police have a responsibility in bringing tourists in the area. They are responsible for law and order which the tourist appreciates while visiting. Safe travelling on our streets and highways is important to the tourist. Protection in this regard in 1964 will bring the tourist here in 1967.

Tourists like something to do. Recreation and sports provided in 1964 attracts the tourist of the future, as well as providing entertainment for the present season.

Easy access to Digby assures a high percentage of tourism here in the future. While little in this regard can be done for the 1964 tourist season, we feel that by 1967 more and more tourists will be travelling by privately owned or club owned planes. This possibility should not be overlooked by municipalities when asked to consider airstrips for the area.

Tourism is a competitive business. The amount we share this season depends on how hard we try for the business but besides the amount we share from the million expected in Nova Scotia in 1967 depends, too, on the effort we put into the business in 1964 and on to 1967.

It is one thing for Nova Scotia to attract the tourists into the province. It is another thing for the Annapolis Valley to attract them. It is still another thing for Digby to attract tourists to its own area. The share we have by 1967 will depend on us.

THOUGHTS... by "The Wayfarer"

Have you gotten up early REAL EARLY on a lovely June morning? So early that the first signs of the light are beginning to brighten the sky and the bird calls are just and only just beginning. If this has not been your experience quite recently it is time for you to make use of this opportunity now.

It was the bird calls that first came to our ears. The plaintive, not cheery notes of the early robin. Later this early bird will sing with livelier notes but at the first it is as if it were to tune up and get those vocal chords in working order.

Then another sound, a quiet but persistent soft thud, thud, thud, slowly but persistently repeated. What on earth could that sound be. It intrigued us even though other sounds as well crept in but it was not till much later our curiosity unsolved till then that we circling the house found that the early morning dew condensing into water and that dripping from the eaves struck the verandah steps and we searched, a soft touch on our bare feet gave us the answer.

And now from the distance comes the muted call of a crow and across the road where the trees are in full foliage comes a soft "shreee shreee" as some unidentified bird flits from tree to tree in the thicket there.

Now human-kind and human-created sounds make their appearance. From afar out of sight we can hear the first soft drone of an approaching motor car as some early riser makes his or her way to work. A regular beat of undetermined origin, only after long puzzlement makes itself known as the steady rhythm of an oarsman on the river a half mile away. And then the high drone of a motor boat. The "rower" has reached his objective and is off in the speedier craft.

But by now the sounds of bird life have increased in tempo and volume. A blue jay screams from a neighbouring tree and blackbirds on a nearby roof top begin to scold and chatter as the sunlight falls full upon that place. A Canadian songbird begins and continues its enchanting song. A slight breeze rustles the broad leaves of the horse chestnut tree outside the door. A screen door, somewhere, bangs shut, not too loudly for 'tis some distance off. The tinkle of a cow bell, the bark of a dog, the br-r-r of a robin ruffling its feathers 'er it take flight from the ground; the tap-tap of quick footsteps on the linoleum floor upstairs and soft voice of a loved one

New Saulnierville Wharf To Be Unique In Design

Ten and fifteen ton granite boulders have gone into the construction of a wall in connection with the building of a new and modern public wharf in Saulnierville. When completed the wharf, only the second of its kind in all Canada, will be a great asset to the fishing industry.

The rock wall, was constructed to replace what was once wood cribwork at right angles to the main channel Point wharf. The wall is to prevent the gravel front spilling into the harbour entrance and working its way around the end of the wharf and finally blocking the entrance.

The construction firm of Bernard and Gerard Lombard are presently completing a contract of hauling crushed stones for the Million Dollar Wharf construction job at Saulnierville. The crushed stone is being hauled from Major's Point. The same firm has the contract to construct the approaches to the proposed wharf.

The Saulnierville new wharf is of unique design and only one such wharf has been constructed to date by the Department of Public Works. The other wharf was constructed at Baie Comeau on the St. Lawrence River. The new wharf will be constructed of huge cement blocks which will be built on the shore and launched and will be placed in position. It is believed that construction will continue until late December after which the work may be halted until the following spring due to heavy gales prevailing during the winter months.

Dredging operations have commenced on the site and construction operations should be in full swing shortly. The new wharf, when completed should allow the larger fishing draggers to enter at all tides which would be a boon to the fishing trade and fishermen. At present, the fishermen have to wait until the tide is sufficiently high enough to enter, unload and leave the harbour.

Marriage

Wallace — Wright

The Hillsburg United Church of Bear River was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, June 27 when Diana Wright, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Wright became the bride of David Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace, Sheffield Mills.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Elmer Asaph and Mrs. Walter Lent required the wedding music.

The church was beautifully decorated with baskets of lilies and mock orange. The guest pews were marked with mock orange and white ribbon.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father by whom she was given in marriage. She looked charming in a bridal gown of white organzine, bodice trimmed with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, sabrina neckline, tapered sleeves, skirt of tiered mantilla lace gathered by a rose of organzine. Her veil was semi-bouffant of French illusion with a Princess Margaret tiara of seed pearls. She wore a tiny cultured pearl pendant and tiny pearl earrings, gifts of the groom. Her bridal bouquet was of pink roses and white stephanotis.

Her maid of honour, Miss Phyllis Cox of Halifax wore a short dress of blue organza over taffeta, fitted bodice falling softly into a bouffant skirt enhanced with a lace pop top jacket. With it she wore a head dress of blue flowers and net, long white gloves and carried a colonial bouquet of blue and white carnations. The bridesmaid, Miss Agnes McCully of Berwick wore a short dress of pink organza over taffeta, fitted bodice falling softly into a bouffant skirt enhanced by a lace pop top jacket. She wore a head dress of small pink flowers and net, long white gloves and carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white carnations. Little Marilyn Road was flower girl and looked charming in a dress of white flocked organdy over yellow taffeta full skirt with a sash of yellow taffeta. She wore a band of yellow and white flowers in her hair and carried a small basket of roses.

Lionel Kennedy of Granville attended the groom and Kenneth Pineo of Kentville and Donald Miller of Bear River were ushers.

The Bride's mother wore a suit of navy blue eyelet batiste over navy taffeta, a white hat trimmed with navy white accessories and a corsage of yellow and white mums. The mother of the groom wore a light blue jacket dress, white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

During the signing of the register Dr. D. S. Brennan rendered a vocal solo, "Oh Perfect Love". Mrs. Walter Lent accompanied at the organ.

Following the ceremony a reception for approximately one hundred and fifty guests was held in the I.O.O.F. Hall. Miss Judith Miller was in charge of the guest book.

The Bride's table was decorated with a three tiered wedding cake, white tapers and flowers. The toast to the bride was proposed by Arthur Freeman, uncle of the bride and responded to by the groom. After the reception the young couple left on a wedding trip to Cape Breton and on return will reside in Kentville. For travelling the bride wore a pink linen suit, pink flowered

Clarette Garment Club Wins Institute Trophy

The Clarette 4-H Garment Club of Meteghan River has been awarded the Women's Institute Trophy for the most outstanding Garment Club in Nova Scotia. The club had won this coveted award once previously in the six years they have been in operation. They have also sent delegates to National 4-H Club Week in Toronto on four different occasions.

Much of the success of the club can be attributed to their able leader, Miss Juliette Sauthier, whose interest and enthusiasm has been a source of inspiration for the girls.

All the girls completed sewing projects this year and in addition have taken great interest in a wide variety of other activities. A highlight of their Achievement Night was a Fashion Show, which gave the girls a chance to show their many skills to hat and white accessories.

The bride's gifts to the maid of honour and bridesmaid were matching necklace and ear rings, to the flower girl a silver locket key case. The groom's gift to the best man was an initialled cigarette lighter and to the ushers, tie clips.

interested parents and friends. Among the many projects carried on during the year were: A Red Cross Project in which forty baby jackets and twenty-eight receiving blankets were made and the Red Cross Representative spoke to the girls on the work of this organization; a 4-H trophy was purchased to award to the best Home Economics Student in the school; 4-H signs were made and are to be placed beside the highway at each end of the municipality; a history of the club was compiled; a girl was sponsored for a scholarship to study Home Economics. Panel discussions, visits to Women's Institute Branches and Rallies and Variety Shows rounded out the year's activities. In order to maintain this work money was necessary, so the girls put their heads together and came up with some money-making schemes. Lunches at the school dances and club dues helped to fill the treasurer's cash box.

"Every member took an active part," the President, Louise Cormier, says. Indeed, this must be true for a club to carry on so many interesting and challenging activities and come out "on top".

4-H Clubs Have Much To Offer In Leadership Training

4-H Garment Clubs in Nova Scotia are taking on a new look. Changes are taking place from the top down. Supervisor of Home Economics is Mrs. Florence Hilchey and Miss Janet Walker is Home Economics representative for this area. She has headquarters in Kentville.

Instead of 4-H Garment Clubs a new title, 4-H Homemaking Clubs is indicative of the wider scope of the Home Economics section. Projects in sewing, foods and nutrition, home care, interior decoration and home management will be offered in the near future. Miss Yvonne Chiasson is working on a new project material this summer and she hopes to have some ready by fall.

In both their projects and community activities 4-H members "learn to do by doing". Many areas know the advantages of a 4-H Club but there are others who don't have a 4-H Club but feel they need a worthwhile venture for the youth to take part in.

Anyone in a rural area between the ages of ten and twenty-one may become a 4-H member. Homemaking clubs require at least five members per club, and an adult leader. There should be five members for each project but several projects may be carried on in one club. Some members may take part in more than one project, thus it would be possible to have a club with eight members and two projects, for example. What has 4-H to offer? It is felt that the training a member receives in his or her particular project is important, but still more important is the citizenship and leadership training a member receives. In becoming a part of the International Organization the 4-H member begins to realize the opportunities that the world has to offer. The boy or girl, through Club and Community activities, can become a more useful member of his community. He may attend camps and tours held annually and in this way meet other members from his county and province. For the member who takes a keen interest in this and works hard, National 4-H Club Conference in Toronto is a wonderful reward. Fourteen delegates from each province, members from the United States and leaders spend a week in Toronto and Ottawa visiting places of interest including the Royal Winter Fair and enjoy discussion and talks with members all across Canada. This is the top award for outstanding members; there are many other opportunities for good members. 4-H is a vital force in forming a strong character and a sense of purpose in today's youth. 4-H members develop a well-rounded personality and become good citizens of tomorrow.

M. L. A. Addresses Yarmouth Graduates

In addressing the graduating class of Yarmouth Vocational High School, R. Baden Powell, M.L.A. for Digby, recalled his childhood meanderings over the "ground on which this building stands", his studies at the old Centre School and the Academy when "W. F. Kempton was supervising principal for $1400 per year".

In those days, Mr. Powell said, lessons were assigned and students were tested orally. There were no teaching or learning aids, and few made the grade, he said. Jobs claimed those who lagged in their studies. During this period there was but one form of education, the academic process, moulded and formed for the youth of definite academic ability.

Today we have general courses in regular day schools, separate vocational high schools, and evening vocational and adult classes, Mr. Powell told the gathering.

Today you have reached another rung on your ladder of learning, the speaker said, and regardless of the age you reach, you will never arrive on the top rung. Because of the rapid progress of our economic change the employee in the business or industrial world must continue the process of learning.

Mr. Powell made reference to the garage mechanic, who once knew all the answers about all cars without reference to books, but he, now finds manuals are a necessity to his trade. Today specialists are replacing the jack-of-all-trades. The same holds true with the electrician and the carpenter, the speaker continued. Mr. Powell suggested that there is no more valuable man to a trade than one, who after serving his apprenticeship, continued his studies and obtained his Bachelor of Science in that trade.

You are leaving school to enter a complex world, he said, a world demanding skilled craftsmen and tradesmen. Changes are continuous and rapid in our economic and trade worlds. To meet these changes you must be ready to retrain as need arises.

Your life work should be interesting and challenging, Mr. Powell told the graduates.

In closing Mr. Powell said "Don't let the material progress of our life blind you to the importance of teaching of your churches and the code of life they advocate. It is difficult indeed to prosper and be respected by fellow man unless you exercise moderation in all things and there is a congenial atmosphere in your homes. The things that may seem smart to do today will often cause you to smart tomorrow".

Grace United Anniversary

Grace United Church on Sunday celebrated its 10th anniversary when Rev. R. H. Hughes, pastor, chose a text from Psalm 107 for the occasion—children are a heritage of the Lord.

Mr. Hughes spoke particularly to and about the children and referred to the recent dedication of the new church hall. The extension, he said, is not only to make the task of the teacher easier and to give more comfort to the scholars but it is here to strengthen the work now being done and which must be continued in the future. Work among children, he said, is not for their amusement and sociability, but to bring young people to know Jesus Christ. Children want more than entertainment, they want to find a way to God.

To the parents, Mr. Hughes said, we must pass on our heritage unsoiled and richer in faith than when we received it. The longing for God, he said, is most evident in a child and Christianity is the only religion with the child in the midst of it. He told those who are charged with the privilege of teaching and training children that children should be loved for what they are and that the future should not cloud the responsibility of the present.

A quartette was rendered by Mrs. Gerald Wilson, Mrs. William Troupe, Dr. D. G. Black and Norman Wright, Mrs. J. M. Wallis was soloist for the anthem rendered by the choir with Mrs. Elton Arnold at the organ.

Certificates were given to church school scholars who had a perfect or nearly perfect attendance. Each of two families had the entire family of children receive certificates.

Advertising Ethics

Details of a Code of Ethics for Canadian advertising Agencies, whose members are responsible for 85 per cent of all national advertising in Canada. The Code, approved at the annual meeting of the CAAA, sets forth what have been accepted practices by agencies over the years in their relations with the public, their clients, their employees, media and suppliers, and other advertising agencies.

In relations with the public, the Code states that all advertising created by a member agency and its employees shall to the best of their knowledge, be legal, truthful and in good taste. In particular, the Code specifies certain practices that are avoided, such as unsubstantiated comparisons with named competitive products or services; using results of unreliable or inconclusive tests or research; making misleading claims, descriptions, or illustrations; and advertising an unworthy product or service.

"The Code aims at stating in clear and unequivocal language what is considered by CAAA member agencies as acceptable business conduct," Mr. Anderson stated.

"Very few of the tenets included in the Code are new or constitute a departure from the best thinking of agency principals over many years," Mr. Anderson emphasized. "The idea behind the Code was simply to ascertain what were in fact the customs of the advertising agency business and to incorporate such in the form of the Code for the guidance of all who are engaged in our business in Canada."

The announcement points out that the Code does not pretend to provide answers to all questions of ethics which may arise. It does, however, touch on the major problem areas and it provides a written guide to assist every person engaged in the advertising business in the determination of the standards of business conduct which he should embrace.

Under a general section of the Code, it states that where specific points are not mentioned, an even greater sense of responsibility is called for to ensure that the conduct of the member agency or its employees shall reflect the general high standards of professional conduct established by members of the Canadian Association of Advertising Agencies.

The Code provides for establishment of an ethics committee for consideration of any alleged infractions and for suitable sanctions to be applied against any member found guilty of any infraction of the Code.

"Employees of a member agency while acting in their professional and service capacities," the Code adds, "shall subordinate their personal interests to the interests of their clients, the advertising agency business as a whole and the public."

In recognition of the essential function advertising performs in maintaining a vigorous Canadian economy, the section on relations with the public states, "member agencies and their employees shall promote public confidence in advertising by observance of this Code."

Extending St. Anne's Facilities

St. Anne's College, a small bilingual Roman Catholic university at Church Point, will celebrate its 75th anniversary next year.

Optimistic about the institutions' future, Reverend Francois d'Entremont, president, did consider it somewhat of a miracle that the institution had survived. He is hoping for increased provincial grants to help St. Anne's rebuild and expand. However, the school is not a member of the recently formed Association of Atlantic Universities.

The college, run by the Eudist Fathers, received its charter in 1892. It has 245 students of whom 125 are in university classes. The rest are in the high school section. Most of the high school students come from Quebec, many "because they want to speak better English."

Father d'Entremont says it would cost about $1,000,000 to pull down the university's old wooden building and put up a new one. A new residence with 60 double rooms has been in use since last October. And this summer a start is being made on building three new laboratories for chemistry, physics and biology.

Roll Call At Little River

Using the text, "He which testifieth these things saith, Surely I come quickly. Amen. Even so, come, Lord Jesus" (Rev. 22:20), Rev. George D. Brydon, of Smith's Cove, spoke to the congregation of the Little River Baptist Church at their annual Roll Call Service on Sunday morning, June 14, stating that one should always be in preparation for the sudden coming of the Lord Jesus Christ.

The Senior Choir rendered pleasing arrangements of two anthems, "The Lord is My Light" and "The Place Of Prayer". Deacon Shirley Tidd sang a solo, "Come Unto Me".

Annual Roll Call At Hill Grove

The annual Roll Call services of the Hill Grove Baptist Church were held last Wednesday with afternoon and evening meetings. These services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. S. Hartin, and Rev. H. L. Denton, D.D., of Little River, was the guest speaker at both services.

At the afternoon service the Senior and Junior Choirs of the Hill Grove church had charge of the music and gave several special selections with Mrs. Darcy Roop as organist. The special music in the evening was provided by the Ladies Trio from the Digby Baptist church, including Mrs. Shirley Clayton, Mrs. Frances Daley and Mrs. Barbara Weir with Mrs. Jean Olsen in charge of the organ. Rev. R. R. Winchester led in a service of song.

In the afternoon a brief memorial service was conducted by the pastor in tribute to departed members. The clerk of the church, Mr. Lloyd MacNeil, called the roll of members. About 90 percent of all members, both resident and non-resident, responded to the call either in person or by letter and message.

A social hour was held in the church hall following the afternoon meeting, with supper served by members of the Ladies Auxiliary, under the direction of Mrs. Roy Warner.

The total offerings from the services amounted to about $675.00.

I was glad to see so many of you at the F.W.L.C. Convention last week. I enjoyed it very much didn't you? It certainly makes a nice break from the home routine doesn't it? Did you see the sampler made by one of the W.L. members depicting a husband's lament that everything was "for the W.L." I imagine that quite a few husbands have been echoing that sentiment lately! However, you can soon appease them by serving some of summer's best offerings.

Don't neglect poultry in your meal planning. Fowl are low in price and high in supply, not to mention high in versatility. Remember that fowl must be cooked with moist heat, either by long slow cooking or the quick pressure cooker method. Allow approximately 1 1/2 cups of water, 1/2 teaspoon salt, a few celery leaves and a bit of bay leaf and onion for each pound of chicken to be simmered. Place the cut up fowl in a kettle with a close fitting lid. Add water and seasoning, cover and bring to a rapid boil. Skim if necessary and reduce heat to simmering point. Cook slowly until meat is fork tender. If you have a pressure cooker reduce the amount of water by one half, and cook at 15 pounds pressure for 20 - 25 minutes. If you don't plan to use it right away chill rapidly by placing the pan in cold water and refrigerate it if you are going to feature fowl on your menu within three days. If not freeze it.

Presqu'île

Every year increasing numbers of visitors to Nova Scotia Canada's Ocean Playground, wend their way along the famed Cabot Trail. Nurses Residence Opened

The new $1,500,000 nurses residence at the Nova Scotia Hospital in Dartmouth has been officially opened.

"This is not just another residence," Premier Robert L. Stanfield told guests at opening ceremonies. "It is also an important teaching facility for the province."

Premier Stanfield said the hospital is already recognized as one of the best mental health institutions in Canada.

The modern seven-floor residence is equipped with up-to-date teaching labs, demonstration rooms, and teaching department offices. A library, comfortable sitting rooms and recreation areas are provided for the convenience of the students.

Having a capacity for 255, every floor of the residence has a laundry room, kitchen, and sitting room.

Started in May, 1962, the new structure was designed by the Department of Public Works. Contractors were Eastern Woodworkers Limited, and the residence was furnished by Rhuland Industries Limited, Weymouth.

Paying tribute to those responsible for the construction of the new residence were Dartmouth Mayor Joseph Zatsman and member of the legislature I. W. Akerley, Chairman of the opening was health minister R. A. Donahoe, who commended members of the Nova Scotia Hospital for keeping pace with new developments in treatment of the mentally ill.

Mr. Donahoe said money spent on mental illness in the province has tripled in the last eight or nine years.

Those taking part in the official ceremonies included minister of Public Works, Stephen T. Pyke; deputy minister, T. P. Lusby; Dr. Clyde Marshall, director of Mental Health Services for the province; and Dr. Murray MacKay, superintendent of the Hospital. Chaplains of the institution, Rev. R. J. Stokle and Rev. E. Theriault gave the invocation and benediction.

The Premier in his address outlined a program to treat the mentally ill which was advocated by health minister Donahoe recently. He stated that the Nova Scotia Hospital, as a result of the changes in the mental health program, is now becoming more of an active treatment centre.

These changes include 9 community treatment centres now in operation throughout the province and the attachment of a psychiatrist to all but one of the province's 12 large general hospitals.

The recent initiated foster care plan in which 100 patients have been placed in foster homes by means of financial assistance has also lightened the burden of the hospitals and thus helped to rehabilitate most of the patients.

Premier Stanfield said the new structure will not only provide the Nova Scotia Hospital with additional facilities but will add greatly to the mental health services of the province as a whole.

Angola Missionary Speaks

Rev. Charles H. Harvey, B. A., B.D., who has been serving under the Canadian Baptist Foreign Mission Board in Angola, Portuguese West Africa since 1957 was speaker at a special service in the Bethel United Baptist Church. Mr. Harvey told of conditions in that section of Africa, the changes taking place, the lack of family life, the hardship experienced by women there, of the fellowship he had with Christian Africans and showed many slides indicating the nature of the land and depicting the conditions under which the people work and live. He also had a tape recording of the drums calling the people to worship and had arranged displays, pertaining to the country, about the church. Rev. Harvey was born and educated in New Brunswick completing his Arts and Divinity Studies at Gordon College, Boston. He served in Africa until 1961 when most of the missionaries were forced to leave due to an outbreak of terrorism in Angola and since then has been in Cabinda at the mouth of the Congo River. Rev. and Mrs. Harvey and their three children returned to Canada in January of this year and are presently living in Fredericton, N. B. Rev. R. R. Winchester pronounced the benediction.

At one time during the game there was some amount of doubt in the ability of the Cripples, who seemed to be showing a little partiality in favor of the wives. But knowing of Long, long ago, when I was young, single, and ambitious, and even had some notions of writing a master's thesis, one of my choices of subject would have been a study of the socially isolated child.

I would have been far from the first to carry out such a project, had I done it. There have been a fair number of these done. The findings are shocking, perhaps a little heart-breaking. They give us adults another glimpse of that cruel and terrible world where children live.

Children are usually well aware of their level of social acceptance by the fifth grade. Once this social status is established, it is almost constant during the child's school career. I have found no data to suggest that this carries on into adulthood. My own opinion is that in the relative freedom of adulthood, that we can seek, and often find, people with similar personalities and interests to ours, so that quite frequently, the socially isolated child becomes a fairly well adjusted adult. I would not be willing to make a rash statement about what percent do make this adjustment.

The personality of the chronically unpopular child tends to be ingrown, self-centered. He is restless, suffers from feelings of insecurity and inferiority, and lacks a feeling of belonging. He is more likely to have personality disturbances than the popular child. No matter how hard he tries, even when he has some success, he generally feels that he has failed. The cycle goes on, these feelings lead to less acceptance by the group, and the increased lack of acceptance leads to further feelings of failure. Sometimes these children are hostile to the children in their classes who enjoy a better relationship with others, more often they are deferential. They tend to be very considerate to children who are new in the classroom, perhaps in the hope that they may find a friend, but very inconsiderate toward those children who, like themselves, are not well liked.

It is very easy for parents to advise their children to develop the personality traits of the more popular children, to be more out-going, less self-centred, to be confident, etc., but it is very difficult to tell which is the cause and which is the effect. Is the child's low social status attributable to his undesirable traits, or are the traits the result of his not being well liked.

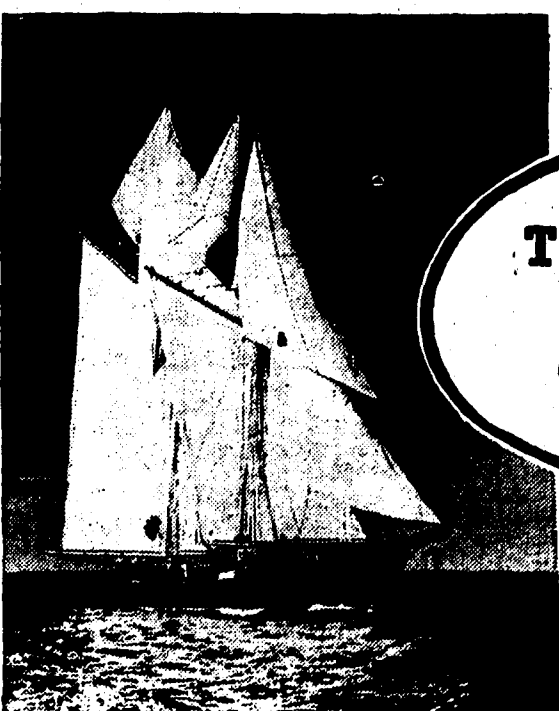

It is cruel, but correct, that children are attracted to attractive children. I am here going to venture the opinion that physical appearance influences our choice of friends when we reach adulthood more than we like to admit. When we say we can tell by looking at a person whether or not we will like him, we are saying in effect that we either like, or do not like the way he looks. Children like children who conform closely with the group norms of appearance, dress, speech and manners. This, I suspect, is where it is the responsibility of parents to see that this conformity does not lead to a suppression of the individuality, and we must know when to accept that time honored cry of "Everybody else does it" at face value, and when to remember it is a cry which has been used for many more generations than ours.

Generally, the popular children seem to be the sort of child you would like to have your child be. Bright children, especially those who can read well, are more popular than the less bright, although very bright children sometimes have a tendency to be indifferent to others. Those who make the best social adjustments are the children in robust health, and whose motor and intellectual capabilities are at least on a par with those of their classmates. Although we worry about taking children from their school settings when we move, some studies have suggested that children who have moved at least once make better social adjustments than either those who have moved a great deal, or those who spend their entire school careers in one school system.

Add factors, which are beyond our control, are that girls who have brothers are more popular than those with only sisters, and that middle children, in general, are more popular than either the oldest or youngest of families.

Since, as I suggested, the pattern of a child's social acceptance is established early, and since, once it is established, it is very difficult to change, it is best for us to concentrate on those factors we can control. We do not have much choice about how many moves we will make while our children are attending school, and we certainly cannot insure our daughters to have brothers. Somebody has to be the youngest, and somebody has to be the oldest in every family. We can see that our children are as neat and clean and attractive as it is in our power to keep them — not too pretty or fancy, mind you. We can do our best to keep our children healthy, or if they have some physical infirmity do our best to keep their lives as normal and out-going, and unaffected by their disability as we can. We can help them learn, and gain experience, and see that their interests and abilities are cultivated. We can allow him to make decisions for himself, and not expect so much that they get discouraged trying to please us. We can praise our children when praise is due them, and listen to them when they speak to us. None of these precautions will insure that your child will be the most popular in the class, but if he has one or two good friends, and is asked to play with others, who needs to be the most popular? By the way, I forgot to mention that if a child has one good, close friend, his social adjustments are already on their way to being pretty good. This friend may not be the same one for more than a month at a time. Popular children change their favorites just as often as do the unpopular ones.

My parting word is, if you feel that your child is not as well adjusted socially as he would like to be, you can tell him until you are blue in the face that things will be better when he grows up. He won't believe you, and it won't make him feel better, but tell him anyway. It will make you feel better, and it is most likely true.

Minister Accepts Call

Rev. Russel H. Carr, minister of the Wyndholme Christian Church, Dartmouth, N. S., has accepted a call to the Churches of Christ (Disciples), South Range, Southville and Weymouth.

Mr. Carr and his family will be moving to this area to take up their new duties July 5th.

Hospital Campaign Planned

W. E. Cosman chaired a special meeting of citizens of the Weymouth area held on Thursday evening in the Weymouth Consolidated School in the interests of the new general hospital now under construction in Digby and expected to be opened early in 1965.

Representatives from the various communities in the Weymouth area heard the principal speaker, Mr. F. C. Purdy, Chairman of the Board of the Digby General Hospital and President-elect of the N.S. Hospital Association, tell of the need of the hospital, the many methods for the raising of monies to date and the effect the hospital would have on the economy of the area.

Mr. Purdy said the need of the hospital had been established the present hospital was caring for an average of 44 patients and at times there had been as high as 60 patients whereas it should have only 25 - 28 patients. He told how monies have been obtained from the Municipalities of Digby, Annapolis and Clare, the town of Digby, the Province of Nova Scotia, the Federal Government, from the hospital itself, private donations and the Women's Auxiliaries. However, the time has come for the furnishing of the new building and about $100,000 is required to ensure the opening of the hospital, to provide the facilities and give it a working margin as per capita tax and preferred revenues have been pledged and to be successful should raise from 40 to 50 thousand dollars.

Mr. Purdy said that the hospital should have a tremendous effect on the economy of the area, that about three quarters of a million dollars would be spent each year and that the payroll would be between 400 and 500 thousand dollars per year. Mr. Purdy described the plan of the hospital, told of the cost furnishing the different types of rooms, etc.

Regarding a campaign, he said that he thought it unwise to set an amount but rather the area do what it feels it can and that any gift is acceptable whether it be an outright gift of 50 cents or a $100 and only the person giving knows what he can give. It will be a gift for the future of the giver and his children. It was suggested that some employees may wish to pledge a weekly or monthly amount and have their employers deduct it from their pay. He said that it was the hope that when better facilities were available more medical people would be attracted to the area.

Dr. B. Erjavec was present at the meeting and was introduced to the gathering.

A discussion took place with questions raised being answered by Mr. Purdy, as well as Wm. Troop, chairman of the Hospital Planning Committee Mr. Ernest Richardson, Chairman of Finance for the Digby General Hospital.

It was decided to plan a campaign for this area and although no amount was set, it was decided that monies raised would be given in memory of Dr. H. J. Melanson. A Central Committee was formed with Mr. Cosman as Chairman as follows: Weymouth proper, Mrs. Curtis Hankinson, Mrs. Willis Mullen; New Tuskett, Mrs. Walton Mullen; Corberrie, Mrs. Bernard Lombard; Weaver Settlement and Ohio, Mrs. Bernard Amiraunt; Mrs. Hugh Colwell; Weymouth Falls, Mrs. Austin Langford, Mrs. Fred Johnson; Ashmore, Mrs. Willard Kinney; Gilbert Cove, Mrs. Louis Melanson; Mrs. Harley Amiraunt.

The first meeting of this committee will be held on Monday evening when it is hoped that they will be joined by others representing the communities of Riverdale, of Southville, Danvers, Weymouth Mills, Weymouth North, Plympton, Doucetteville, North and South Range.

Letter to the Editor

To The Editor:

Enclosed is a copy of telegram sent to Her Majesty. This will be read some day in the future, heads will shake, and wonder how the generation of yesterday could have been so meek. I would not want it on my conscience that I was a party to the meekness, this is my version, and for the record, I know the procedure of the Governor General's Office and also Majesty's Command. The day is long past of respecting wishes, but I would like the world to know where majority stand. That is why I sent telegram not that it will change anything, but our protest will be recorded in the annals of history. As copies of this telegram have been sent to 27 Archives throughout the world. Everything we cherish, all the great ideas of Freedom, Faith and Justice of which our common Flag is the honoured symbol are at stake in this mad world today. Never in our history, was it more imperative for freedom's sake that the utmost unity and closest co-operation should prevail throughout the Empire. Signs and portents all point to the fateful dawn of Armageddon. Are we conscious of our Golden Heritage? In this Land of Freedom and Contentment, will be preserved or destroyed?

Copy of telegram dated June, 1964, p.m. 5:20:
Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, Buckingham Palace, London, England.

Your Majesty. On behalf of million of English elements in this Country of which request have been ignored, we beg your Majesty for very serious consideration before Royal Assent is granted, and breaking Golden Link which will be broken with dispersing of Red Ensign. There is no true representation on behalf of our Empire, in respect to this matter.

Humble Servant,

Dear Madam,
In a recent issue of the Courier you invited comment on what was read first and what was most interesting to the Courier reader. Personally, I read the front page headlines first; next I turn the pages in search of village news items and especially am I anxious to find out just what has happened during the previous week in my own community. — Why I do this has always been a mystery to me, for I already am acquainted with all the who, when, where and why of local happenings. Thirdly, I turn to that breezy, little column known as "Coffee at janes". Oh, no, I am not relegating to spot 3 in my Courier affections, not at all, I am simply saving it for the moment when I can relax in a comfortable chair, put my tired feet on a hassock and enjoy "coffee at janes" to the utmost degree. Rev. Edward Theriault of St. Alphonsus was elected president of St. Ann's alumnae society. Prof. Rene LeBlanc of Little Brook was appointed vice-president. Mr. J. Mederic Comeau of Meteghan River, and municipal clerk at Little Brook, stepped down after seven years of service as president.

Directors appointed are: Rev. Louis Comeau, Salmon River; Dr. Gerald Belliveau, Yarmouth; Rev. Ambrose Comeau, West Pubnico; Rodolph Doucet, Ste. Anne du Ruisseau; Stan Surette of West Pubnico; Rev. Gerald LeBlanc, Meteghan; Dr. Jean Eudes Comeau, Weymouth; Professor George VanTassel, Bathurst. N.B. Enoll Theriault and Dr. Felix Poirier, Shediac, N.B.

Following a discussion, the membership fee was set at $10.00 per year. The former fee was $1.00, which was insufficient to pay expenses. The fee of $10.00 per year includes scholarship fund dues and bulletin cost. Prior to this year, the membership fee was $1.00 and those wishing to do so could donate the sum of $4.00 towards the scholarship fund.

Rev. Edward Theriault, pastor of Middleton R. C. Church was guest speaker at the Alumnae banquet. He spoke on college life in the early days and brought out many chuckles when he recited many little events that took place with certain students taking the spotlight. A fluent speaker, Rev. Theriault, held the large attendance spellbound and his remarks were witty and interesting. He also spoke of the change that had taken place at St. Ann's especially the part where in former days St. Ann's was an exclusive boys college while today about fifteen co-eds, young girls from the area, are now following classes here.

The female students of St. Ann's either board in the village or travel from their homes on the college bus each day. Next year will mark the first year in which full term girl students will graduate from St. Ann's.

tors of an interesting story are grouped into these short episodes. The natural, homey everyday events are made to glow, through the mind of "jane" with a small j.

Tells About National Conference

The story of the National 4H conference in Toronto, with side trips to Ottawa and Niagara Falls, was related by Elaine Saulnier of the Clarette 4H Garment Club of Meteghan River, in speaking before the Yarmouth County 4H Clubs rally held in the Acadia Consolidated School recently. Miss Saulnier was one of the Nova Scotia delegation to the conference.

"All 4H members in Nova Scotia are proud of her," declared Donald MacNeil of Yarmouth, 4H Clubs director for Western Nova Scotia, in introducing Mrs. Saulnier. "She is a capable 4H member," said Mr. MacNeil, who accompanied the Nova Scotian delegation to Ottawa.

Dressed in the Nova Scotia Tartan and wearing a blue blazer bearing the 4H Crest, Miss Saulnier told of the fourteen delegates assembling in Truro, being entertained there by the Nova Scotia Federation of Agriculture, and also at the Agricultural College.

She spoke of the flight to Toronto, the actual Conference and many side trips, the National Winter Fair, meeting with Agricultural Minister Hayes, being addressed at an Ottawa dinner by Prime Minister Pearson, and in being entertained by Governor General and Lady Vanier at Government House in the national capital.

$8,000,000. Development Opened At Lunenburg

A tour on Saturday by businessmen from California, British Columbia, Florida and points nearer concluded functions which marked the opening of the newly constructed multi-million groundfish processing plant of National Sea Products Ltd., in Lunenburg.

Functions began on the previous Saturday when the staff was entertained by executive members of the firm. On Tuesday T.V., radio and newspaper people were entertained at luncheon, a cruise on Bluenose II with a lobster buffet and a reception at the home of the president, C. J. Morrow, and Mrs. Morrow, at Maders Cove. A tour of the plant in operation and a press conference was held.

The official opening was on Wednesday, when some 3,000 persons witnessed the opening ceremonies and enjoyed a reception.

Among the speakers at the opening were Premier Robert Stanfield, of Nova Scotia, and federal fisheries minister H. J. Robichaud.

Premier Stanfield said "It is an indication of the progressive trend in the fishing industry of Nova Scotia and a milestone in the history of the Lunenburg community."

Mr. Stanfield said he hoped the time had gone when it was considered helpful to try to give a prop to unsuccessful business operations.

Businesses must be modern and efficient to stay in business. They must keep up or drop out.

The premier said he was pleased that Industrial Estates Ltd., the government industrial development agency, had shared in the establishment of the new plant.

Mr. Robichaud promised full government support in keeping Canada ahead as a top fishing nation. He said, "When we consider the magnitude of foreign competition in waters which we once considered pretty much our own, it is obvious that if Canada is to survive as a fishing nation the combined efforts of both government and industry cannot be relaxed for a moment. "As an industry we can't fall behind. We can't stand still. We must go ahead," he said.

Mr. Morrow said that none of the existing fish processing plants operated by National Sea Products will close as the result of the new plant which employs 380 persons. Mr. Morrow said he was disappointed that fish is not being eaten in larger quantities by the people of North America. "We in the industry are disappointed that a larger increase in the per capita consumption of fish has not taken place."

Not only was it, Mr. Morrow said, a tasty and nutritious part of a well balanced diet, but some doctors said, a helpful way of reducing the risk of heart attacks and strokes.

Other speakers at the opening were H. D. Pyke, manager; George Lohnes, M.L.A.; J. C. MacKeen, chairman Industrial Estates Ltd.; Lloyd Crouse, M.P.; Hon. E. A. Manson; Lawrence Knickle, president Union Local 101; W. W. Smith, vice-president, N.S.P. Ltd., and Gordon Archibald, Halifax Board of Trade. Archdeacon J. H. Graven gave the invocation and the Lunenburg Sea Products Choir led the singing and gave a concert.

The new plant in Lunenburg occupies a 12 acre site at the eastern end of the harbor on the road to the villages of Garden Lots and Blue Rocks. It will have a capacity of 80-million pounds of raw fish annually. Nearly 20 trawlers of the company's expanding fleet will make regular trips to the plant where more than 500 people eventually will be employed. In addition, another 250 to 300 fishermen will have employment on the trawlers themselves.

trawlers and draggers, nearly half of them will operate from the multi-million dollar Lunenburg plant. The Lunenburg fleet will include three new trawlers, the first of which was launched early this year at Halifax Shipyards Limited and was at the wharf on opening day. These were the first steel trawlers built in a Nova Scotia yard, and have a fresh fish capacity of 300,000 pounds with the most efficient engines and gear. Accommodations and quarters, in the deck house, are comfortable and well planned, leaving the bulk of space below deck for the holds which are insulated and completely lined with aluminum.

Fish unloaded at any of the four unloading chutes at the wharf facilities are transported by fork lift trucks in 500 pound lots to the feed hoppers of the processing lines. Here salt water flumes transport the round fish to the cutting tables for the skilled filleters. The main bulk of fillets carry through the processing lines, receiving various treatments such as inspection, trimming and packing.

The bulk of fillets are frozen in plate freezers and after master cartoning they are placed on pallets for cold storage. About 20 to 25 per cent of such fillets are diverted to another section of the plant after being wrapped and placed in larger boxes and iced, ready for shipment.

The "Highliner" seafood kitchen is one of the finest processing areas, where cooked and breaded products will be prepared.

Laymen's Sunday At Acaciaville Baptist

Sunday, June 21, was Laymen's Day at Acaciaville Baptist Church. Three services were held during the day under the direction of the laymen with Deacon Bradford Barton as chairman. Special music was provided at each service by the Weymouth Falls and valley area laymen. Speakers for the day were: Reverend A. F. Skinner, Reverend W. P. Clayton, Reverend L. R. Atkinson.

Special feature of the day was a congratulatory presentation made to the Laymen's president, Mr. Henry G. Bundy, by Reverend W. P. Clayton.

the kitchen facilities is a product development kitchen and a taste panel room. A modern laboratory also will serve as the focal point of all quality control work for both wet and cooked fish operations.

To assume modern transportation outlets, the Nova Scotia Department of Highways constructed a paved road leading to the plant. Canadian National Railways laid 2.4 miles of spur line, while the company laid a half mile of siding with branches to four major distributing areas. High lift battery-powered trucks carry the finished products to refrigerated cars and trucks.

New Cabinet Ministers Sworn In

Seven Nova Scotia Cabinet ministers took the oath of office at Government House. Five of them are newcomers.

Newcomers to the cabinet sworn in following last week's shuffle were: I. W. Akerley (Halifax County - Dartmouth), agriculture and marketing; Gerald Doucet (Richmond), provincial secretary; James M. Harding (Shelburne), welfare; Dr. Thomas McKeough (Cape Breton North), municipal affairs; Donald R. MacLeod, (Pictou Centre), minister without portfolio.

Former ministers who took the oath were: W. S. Kennedy Jones, former provincial secretary and welfare minister, now minister of trade and industry; and E. D. Halliburton, former minister of agriculture and marketing, and lands and forests, now minister of fisheries and lands and forests.

Labor Minister N. Layton Ferguson, who merely dropped the municipal affairs portfolio - was not sworn in.

Bird Society Holds Field Day

Despite inclement weather more than 75 members of the Nova Scotia Bird Society from practically all parts of Nova Scotia attended the society's annual field day in the Digby area over the weekend. Society president, Dr. L. B. MacPherson, of Halifax, stated attendance was the largest at any field day held by the society to date.

Convening at Smith's Cove early Sunday morning, the group first of all visited the beach and wooded area adjacent to the Smith's Cove Trailer Park where a number of sightings of shore and inland birds were made.

The party later proceeded to Defaga Lodge of the Digby East Fish & Game Association, at Haines Lake, for lunch and a short business meeting. Following the business meeting a bird walk was held in the wooded area about the lake.

Following this the party divided into two groups, with part going to the home of Prof. P. H. H. Gray and Mrs. Gray, at Brighton, and the remainder to the home of Miss Louise Daley, in Digby.

At Brighton the group covered the shore and a marshland area, where many sightings of sea birds were made.

In Digby the group visited the aviary operated by Miss Daley, where a number of injured and ill wild birds are being nursed back to health.

Over the past number of years Miss Daley has rescued many hundreds of birds, some of them rare varieties, and, after a period of recuperation at her home, released them.

During the field day sightings were made of more than fifty varieties of sea and land birds, some of them rare varieties. Arrangements for the Digby area field day were made by Mrs. Victor Cardoza, of Digby, vice-president of the Nova Scotia Bird Society, and a committee of members resident in the Digby area.

Dr. Archibald Passes

He served as secretary of the Maritime Baptist convention for several years and returned 12 summers to serve as interim pastor of several churches.

He was a writer of church pageantry of distinction.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Dorothy Bradshaw, well known in connection with her outstanding service for several years at the Kentville Sanatorium. He also leaves one daughter, Mrs. Kathleen Blackadar, Chelmsford, Mass.

He belongs to a family closely associated with the history of Acadia University.

Mrs. Weir 91 Years

June 28th was a red letter day in the life of Mrs. George R. Weir, as that date marked the 91st anniversary of her birth at Smiths Cove, N. S., in 1873.

Mrs. Weir began the day by attending morning service in her church, the Smith's Cove United Baptist, after which she went out to dinner with members of her family: Miss Katherine, her daughter; her sister, Mrs. J. J. Wallis; Mrs. Jean Olsen, her granddaughter; and Mrs. G. Reginald Weir, her daughter-in-law.

After a quiet afternoon at home, Mrs. Weir was happy to receive a goodly number of friends and relatives who called to offer congratulations and enjoy a delicious birthday cake made by Mrs. Reginald Weir.

Mrs. Weir's husband predeceased her in 1936. Since then she has spent each winter with her daughter, Katherine, in Toronto. They arrived here on June 1st this year and expect to remain at Mrs. Weir's home until late September.

Mrs. Weir still leads an active life, attending church and community affairs.

Former Editor's Daughter Visits

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Innes, Seattle, Washington, are on a two months vacation including a visit to Mrs. Innes' former home, Digby. Mrs. Innes was Muriel Dunham, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Dunham. Her father, an editor of The Digby Weekly Courier, had spent thirty-three years in Digby working up the whole newspaper ladder from printers devil to editor. He later bought the Bridgetown Monitor.

Mr. and Mrs. Innes had visited Washington, D. C., the World's Fair in New York, Boston and Winthrop, Maine, before coming to Nova Scotia. In Nova Scotia they visited with Mr. Innes' sister, Miss I. H. Innes, Porter's Lake, Halifax Co.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Dunn, Yarmouth; Sherriff and Mrs. Guy Dunn and Mr. and Mrs. Webster Dunn, and other friends in Digby. Their trip is being made by air and rented car.

Mrs. Innes remembers the days of type setting, mailing machines and office work, for she turned a hand at each and all of them, she remarked. Bookkeeper during her time at The Digby Weekly Courier was Miss Annie Walsh.

Extension Dedicated

An extension to the hall at Grace United Church, Digby, was dedicated on Saturday, June 27. Above in the picture are, left to right: Rev. R. F. Hughes, pastor of the church; Dr. T. W. Hodgson, former pastor of Grace United and now resident of Digby; Rev. Mr. Thomas, chairman of Annapolis Presbytery, and Rev. Prescott, Burrill, Middleton, who took part in the dedication. The church hall extension can be seen below. Rooms in the extension were dedicated to the memory of the late Miss Edith Letteney and the late Elton Arnold. A room was also dedicated in tribute to Reginald Jefferson, whose initiative began the extension.

Sponsored Shows Must License Early

No license will be considered for shows coming to town unless the sponsoring body applies for a license at least two months in advance, was the ruling made by the Digby town council at the regular meeting held on Monday night. The shows referred to were those containing such entertainment as ferris wheels, rides, games of chance, etc. Another stipulation was that such shows must advertise for the public what they have to offer for the price charged, such as the length of time of rides.

Permission was given on Monday night to the Digby Lions Club to sponsor the Frank Elliott Show in August. The above ruling was made following the granting of that permission.

Permission was granted Kenney Construction Company to demolish the building on the front street immediately south of the building now being erected where the old post office stood. Permission was granted with the stipulation that the lot be fixed in a presentable condition.

Permission was given to erect St. Patrick's School on the north side of Church St. and located near the Digby Forum.

Permission was given to Henry Shortliffe to make an extension 8x12 ft. on a building on West St.

John Doucette was issued a license to do T.V. and radio repairs.

Taxi licenses were granted to Russell Christmas and to Lyndon Morehouse.

Discussion was held on making use of property around the town hall for better parking facilities. It was suggested that materials stored around the hall could be placed on a fenced enclosure at the North or South Commons and that consideration be given to erecting a permanent building for storing town equipment.

Negotiations are going on with the C.P.R. respecting parking facilities in the D.A.R. station yard. The traffic authority was given permission to order six half hour parking meters for installation. It was announced that First Avenue had been made a one-way street. After correspondence read from the Acadian Coach Lines, it was regularly passed that the reply would be that the Acadian bus stop continue on the Acadian Lines own property in Digby.

Plans were made to investigate the possibility of sidewalks on King St. and Mount St. Mount St., at least, is to be widened so that two school buses can pass without the school children being forced to walk in the ditches.

Discussion was held on amending the sewer act of the town. It was decided that no compensation be paid to those who had paid entrance fees into public or private sewers taken over by the town.

It was reported that appearances around the town dump had improved. Jack Raymond appeared before council, however, with complaints about dirt from the ditches having been deposited on his property and that smoke from the dump had been bothersome. Councillors Baxter, MacIntyre and Comeau were to make an early investigation.

The police report showed 3 persons convicted under the criminal code in June, 6 under the liquor control act and 3 motor vehicle.

The matter of a Vocational High School as presented by Annapolis Royal was referred to such time as when the supervisor of schools was available for information.

His Worship Mayor C. D. Snow was requested to attend a regional meeting of municipalities in Yarmouth on Wednesday and also to represent the town at the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities Conference, to be held in Halifax in August and September.

Gets Hole-in-one

Wendell Tidmarsh, of Liverpool, got a hole-in-one at a distance of 175 yards, while playing at the Digby Pines Golf Course on Wednesday. This was the second hole-in-one at the golf course this season, and was the first for Mr. Tidmarsh in his four years of golf.

Playing with Mr. Tidmarsh were Dr. Lloyd McLeod, Max Harding and Avarad Fothay, all of Liverpool.

Two Injured In Crash

An accident involving a sedan and a half-ton truck, which occurred at Deep Brook last Friday shortly before midnight, resulted in injuries to two persons and damages in excess of $1,100.

Injured were the driver of the truck, Charles Amoro, of Barton, and his companion, Joseph Amoro, of Brighton. They were treated at Digby General Hospital.

Driver of the car was Leon Teddy Lowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lowe, Deep Brook. Passengers with him were Jimmy Goldthorpe, Montreal; Ronald Wright, Clementsvalle and Alfred Titus, of Deep Brook. Only the Wright youth was cut by flying glass. Digby RCMP investigated the accident.

Open Summer Program At Acaciaville

More than 150 parents and children of Acaciaville, gathered Saturday evening for a "sing out" in the newly acquired Acaciaville Community Centre to mark the opening of a summer program for the young people of the community.

Assisting in the program which is being sponsored by the Acaciaville Community Betterment Association, are three young members of the Cornell United Religious Worker's group who are spending six weeks in the Digby area, mostly in Acaciaville. The three, who are undergraduates students of Cornell University, are Carol Newman, Sue MacElwee and David Marian.

During this summer they will be assisting in such projects as a vocation school and play project for the young people, sports and work program and helping to tutor students in the community who will have to write supplementary examinations for school advancement in the fall. They will also assist in the setting up of a community library in Acaciaville, which is another of the projects being sponsored by the Acaciaville Community Betterment Association.

The community betterment association was organized somewhat over a year ago following meetings of the people of Acaciaville with representatives of the adult education division of the department of education, representatives of agriculture department and interested citizens in the area.

President of the organization is Rev. Willard Clayton, pastor of the Acaciaville Baptist Church. Mrs. Borden is secretary and Mrs. Eleanor Elms is treasurer. Committees covering education, agriculture, employment, etc. have been organized.

Through the co-operation of the municipal council school board the association secured the former New Conway school as a community centre and since its acquisition, it has been used as a meeting place for the association, for adult education classes sponsored by the association, for meetings of the Women's Institute and as a gathering place for young people of the community in the conduct of organized and supervised programs.

Other programs and projects being sponsored by the Acaciaville Community Betterment Association include an agricultural program designed to increase interest in the community in gardening. The association plans also to resume and extend the adult education program which it initiated last fall.

Scholarships Announced

Acadia University scholarships awarded to Digby area students include the following: valued at $2,000 and 1,500: Raymond Myron Bent, Granville Ferry, Leanne Marjorie Oickle, Bear River; and a $300 entrance scholarship to Maureen Potter, Clementsvalle, and to Perry Gordon Turnbull, Digby.

About This and That

Awaiting Priority Number One

Our short Sunday afternoon ride took us over the one lane Victoria Bridge which spans the Bear River at its mouth. We were one of twelve or more cars proceeding East and held up awaiting opportunity to cross to the other side. As we looked back we noticed the line of cars reached just about to the junction of the road which goes to the village of Bear River. Another few cars for the Valley route would likely have stopped on the other side of the Bear River road and would have been dangerously hidden from view of following traffic by the bend in the road.

Traffic was delayed but it was not exactly anyone's fault. Nobody stretched a point to be overly courteous but, on the other hand, no one could be exactly called discourteous. As one car proceeding West got nicely away on the bridge, another came dashing up to the bridge and being just a few yards behind, naturally, took the opportunity to follow on the bridge. As high as five or six cars kept the West going traffic open in a similar manner. This meant considerable and dangerous delay for the accumulating cars going East.

We travelled back to Digby on the same route and again a Victoria Bridge situation occurred. This time a large truck, West bound, and a car, East bound, happened on the bridge at one time. Behind the truck was another car. It was plain to see that the small East bound car had been on the bridge first but with foggy conditions the truck driver could be excused in not seeing the light car approach. After all, Victoria Bridge is a long bridge. As we stopped well on the East side of the bridge we noticed the truck come to a dead halt and the driver of the truck talked with the driver of the car. The car driver was courteous enough to back up almost the full length of the bridge to let the truck go through and the accumulating traffic flow freely again.

How many other such incidents happened on Victoria Bridge on Sunday we do not know. How many other such instances happened throughout the week we do not know. We can only say that we are anxiously awaiting the time when Victoria Bridge has first priority on the highway projects for the province of Nova Scotia. And might we add — we hope the bends in the road are eliminated even if it takes a causeway to do it.

English - French

A number of fine floats were entered in the July 1st parade at Digby and Weymouth. Besides being attractive and lending numbers, many of these floats had stories behind them. For example, the Digby East Fish & Game Association float told a most impressive story about fire's destructive powers. The charred tree trunks and stumps made an impression on viewers and a most personal impression with the words "Did You do this?" Other floats also deserve mention.

One entry in the parade which impressed us very much was the private car entered by Mrs. Curtis Hankinson in the Weymouth parade. The float portrayed a deep and serious meaning for the times but so far as Weymouth and the Acadian villages along the shore were concerned the float portrayed a distinctly joyous note amidst our unhappy tones of Canadian biculturalism. We wished that our Quebec friends could have been here to see demonstrated how French and English can live in complete harmony on the Acadian shore. Mrs. Hankinson, by the decorations on the car, by two young girls, one French, the other English, riding in the car, gave a happy portrayal of biculturalism and bilingualism in Nova Scotia. Two words, only, were used on the float. They were "French - English". The two words carried a deep meaning and spelt a happy coexistence in our own area.

Dear Sirs —

Enclosed please find $1.00 for which we would be most grateful to receive as many copies of your paper as it will cover... until we get up there... we hope, this summer. (We used to make it up every year, having several small cabins scattered around on the Raymond place.) However, as more children come along, it becomes less feasible to try to accommodate ourselves in this beloved wild atmosphere. We must now look to finding quarters which provide access to washing machines (for diapers) and refrigerators for milk, etc. A newspaper might help us to see what is available. (Besides, we were living with the bears and never knew when we might displease them!)

In the event that our prayers are answered and we do find ourselves leaning over the rail of the ferry watching the docking procedure (if it is still in operation) it would be most gratifying to come and see your office and printing room. Our weekly paper is the Suffolk County News, printed in Sayville for 80 years, and winner of recent "best weekly" prizes in national scene. It would be inter-

Homemakers' Corner

Have you ever considered what an important role colour plays in your life? When you are driving or walking along the road what is it that makes some homes more welcoming and cheerful. Colour is one factor isn't it? And so often the neat, tidy house has a spot of color, the door, gay flowers, in the garden and so on. The drab dark house may be just as tidy but that very lack of color makes you imagine the people as dark and so, drab too. Of course this usually isn't the case but it just goes to show what an effect colour has on our lives.

Today the medical profession is realizing more and more the profound effect of colour. That is why hospital wards are light, airy and colorful because it has been proved that patients tend to make a more rapid recovery in such surroundings.

Yet there is nothing new about colour therapy. In fact, estimating to compare the two papers, which I imagine are about the same in circulation. Actually, my greatest interest is seeing who your town reports are, as that is what I am for Bohemia, which is close to Sayville.

Thank you very much for your trouble. It is appreciated. Yours very truly, (Mrs.) Martin Ehrman.

One Building At St. Anne's Now Being Refaced; Other Demolished

Two projects have commenced at St. Anne's College. One is the demolishing of a three storey building adjacent to the main wooden portion of the college and connected with the main building by a covered corridor. The other project is the refacing of the stone building with bricks.

The wooden building was once a convent which housed the Sister of the Sacred Heart who had charge of the kitchen and housekeeping duties of the college years ago and which was abandoned by the Sisters a number of years ago. Since then, it has been used as a men's residence and until five years ago, a portion served as a glebe house for the local pastor.

The building has been condemned as a fire hazard and it was due to this reason that the new men's residence, which was completed last fall, was constructed. The wooden building is being demolished by the staff of St. Anne's College, namely the priests who ordinarily are on the teaching staff.

The refacing of the stone building, next to the main wooden college building, will be finished in brick and before the brick facing can be started, the stone work facing of the building will have to be removed. The removal of the stone facing is due to the stones becoming dangerously loose and their removal is necessary at this time, as a whole section could possibly fall once one stone becomes loose enough to fall out. Considerable trouble has been had in recent years with the color red had symbolized healing since ancient times. Once red threads were always woven into the clothes worn by children in the Far East, as a protection against disease. And not long ago it was fashionable to give a red coral necklace as a Christening present in England.

Red suggests warmth and warmth itself is healing and relaxing. This is one reason why ambulance blankets are usually red, and why flannel is considered to have extra healing properties when it is this color.

The softer shades of green undoubtedly have a restful effect, they also absorb glare. These are two of the reasons why hospitals and schools employ their use so frequently. Blue too is relaxing. In fact it is thought that people suffering acute mental distress and agitation recover more quickly in a room painted in shade of soft blue, or one with blue tinted glass in the windows.

Now that you have most of your spring cleaning done you are no doubt thinking of doing some painting. Here too the use of colour is important. Your choice will depend to a large extent on your present furniture and family preferences. However, do keep in mind that a north room is better painted in a warm colour, i.e. shades of reds, pinks, oranges, yellows, and yellow-greens. A warm sunny room can be painted or papered in cool blues and greens. Neutral colours enlarge a room while deeper colors tend to make the room smaller. If you have a long narrow room paint the further wall a warm colour and it appears closer. Cool colours appear further away. You will find that by using neutral colours as a background, i.e. walls and ceiling you can change the mood of the room by a few brightly coloured cushions or different drapes.

Bear in mind that some colours have an unfortunate effect - many people find that vivid colours make them restless and irritable while others find them stimulating.

What we must discover then, is how we find our families react to certain colours.

So, for your health's sake and emotional well-being it is important to consider this question of colour - especially in your home. Change the colours that get you down - the effect will amaze you. It's a better tonic than the proverbial new hat!

stone facing, which consists of stones which are about 7 to 8 inches thick.

The task of replacing the stones with bricks is a huge undertaking due to the danger of possible disintegrating of the outside wall facing at any time. Expert handling of this phase of the work is necessary but local labor will be engaged in the job also.

Trouble has been experienced with roof of the stone building for a number of years and the trouble has been diagnosed as too much pitch to the flat roof, causing the tar to run with the heat and leaving spots or sections precariously thin of suitable material to prevent it from leaking. A change in the pitch of the flat roof is presently being done.

The remodelling and refacing of the stone building will run into many thousands of dollars and the approximate cost is difficult to estimate due to the fact that it is not known what other defects may be encountered.

It is believed that within the next ten to fifteen years, and perhaps sooner, the main wooden structure of St. Anne's College will be replaced. This building is nearly 75 years old and for a wooden structure of this type, has withstood well the wear and tear of constant use, year after year, and the elements of the various seasons. The five storey building is presently limited in its use to the first two floors and the basement section, in most part and the upkeep of this wooden structure will begin to be out of proportion to the use to which it is used.

Water Safety Programs

Nine new swimming and water safety programs will be sponsored by community groups this summer using Red Cross methods and standards of instruction and examinations conducted by Red Cross examiners. This was announced recently by L. G. Punched, Director of swimming and water safety for Nova Scotia Division Red Cross.

The additions bring to more than 100 the total of Red Cross swimming and water safety programs underway or projected in the province. Enrollment is expected to be above last year's 25,000 figure.

Among the new programs being carried out are those in the following places:

Meteghan — a two-week course early in July organized by the local Red Cross Branch. This is the second year for this course.

Meteghan River - Saulnierville — a two-week course later in July has been planned by the Saulnierville Red Cross with Mr. Peter deWaard, Bear River, as instructor.

Belliveau's Cove — a six-week course, under the direction of the Kiwanis Club, with John Munro, Greenwood, as instructor.

Camp Champlain, Sandy Cove, Digby County, with Frank G. McCallum as instructor.

Will Assist In Construction Of Woodlot Roads

In order that owners of farm woodlots might be encouraged to manage their woodlots more efficiently and thereby develop them in accordance with what is considered to be good forestry practice, the Government of the Province of Nova Scotia has authorized the establishment of a new farm woodlot policy.

Under the provisions of this policy, it was announced by the Honourable E. D. Halliburton, Minister of Lands and Forests and Minister of Agriculture and Marketing, assistance will be provided for the express purpose of encouraging woodlot owners to construct access roads in their woodlot holdings.

"The purpose of this policy," said the Honourable Mr. Halliburton, "is twofold. First, it will provide the woodlot owner with assistance in the construction of access roads which will enable him to give better attention to what is regarded as modern and efficient forestry practice and encourage him to regard his woodlot as an area from which a crop of trees may be harvested annually.

"Another underlying reason why the Department wishes to encourage the construction of access roads is so that the fire-fighting services of the Department of Lands and Forests may have at their disposal, for use when required, an access road which will permit, in the event of a forest fire, fire fighters and fire fighting equipment to be moved into timberland areas with the least possible delay and, thereby, enable the outbreak to be brought under control as speedily as possible, and with a minimum fire loss."

Under the provision of the policy, as announced by the Minister, assistance in the construction of woodlot roads will be provided along the same lines as assistance is provided under the Government's land-breaking policy which has been so warmly appreciated by the farming community of Nova Scotia. Before the applications are approved, the applicants must

At The Capitol

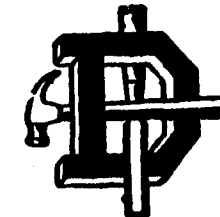

This weekend sees Tony Randall with several weird faces in a delightful fantodramamystacon, "Seven Faces of Dr. Lao", in which he is supported by the teenage idol, handsome John Ericson. It's wild, it's wonderful and it's delightfully different — "The Seven Faces of Dr. Lao", showing Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m., along with the short subject, "A Fling in the Ring". Regular Saturday matinee will be at 2:30.

Sunday at 8:30 and Monday and Tuesday evenings at 8, Walt Disney brings Paul Giallico's novel, "Thomasina", to life on the screen in gorgeous Technicolor. It's a story about Scottish Highlands. It's witches, it's a wonderful world of children and their pets — a bang-up entertainment for the whole family to enjoy. Extra featurette on the same program, "Navaho Adventure", also in Technicolor. "The Three Lives of Thomasina" is currently being held over for a second week in Halifax.

No kidding! No putting on airs! This is a genuine French recipe, from a genuine French cook-book. Make it, and see what it turns out to be. Your family won't expect hamburger although that is what they might get, when you announce the supper menu to be

BIFTECK HACHE A LA LYONNAISE

3/4 cup finely minced yellow onions
2 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 lbs. lean, ground beef
2 lbs. softened butter, suet or pork fat
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/8 teaspoon thyme

Cook the onions slowly in the first two tablespoons butter for about 10 minutes until tender, but not browned. Place in a mixing bowl. Add the beef, butter or fat, seasonings and egg to the onions in the bowl. Beat vigorously with a spoon to blend thoroughly. Form into patties 3/4 inches thick. Spread the flour on a plate, roll the patties in it, shake off excess flour. Place one tablespoon of butter, and one tablespoon of oil into a skillet, and set over moderate heat. When the butter foam begins to subside, saute the patties for 2 to 3 minutes on each side. Arrange the patties on a warm serving platter. Pour the fat out of the skillet. Add the stock or bouillon. Boil rapidly until it is reduced almost to a syrup. Remove from heat, stir in the remaining butter, pour over patties, and serve.

Since we are on the subject of one of my favorite foods — hamburger — which in its versatility is almost a gourmet food, here are a couple more interesting recipes.

SWEDISH MEAT BALLS

1 lb. ground beef
1/2 cup fine, dry bread crumbs
1 1/2 cups milk
1 egg, beaten
1 tsp. salt

1/8 teaspoon allspice
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1/2 cup shortening
1 1/2 tablespoons flour
1/4 cups broth or bouillon

Soak crumbs in one cup of the milk, in a mixing bowl, for fifteen minutes. After this is done, mix in meat very thoroughly. Stir in egg, seasonings, and rest of milk. Saute onion in one tablespoon of the shortening, and add to mixture. Shape into balls, using about two teaspoons of the mixture for each ball. Dip fingers into cold water frequently while working. Heat remaining shortening in skillet. When bubbling hot, fry meat balls, shaking the pan, and turning the balls frequently so they will brown evenly. Remove to a hot plate. Blend flour into fat in skillet until smooth, and add broth gradually. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until gravy is thickened. Add salt and pepper to taste. Return meat balls to pan and heat until hot through.

This little item is simple, hearty, and suitable for a noon meal, or an evening meal, especially when you are in a hurry.

HAMBURGER SKILLET DINNER

1 lb. hamburger
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Mix meat, crumbs, pepper, and 1 teaspoon salt. Melt margarine in skillet, with cover, and cook meat mixture, stirring frequently, until well browned. Add corn and onion, sprinkle with remaining salt. Add tomatoes. Cover and simmer about 25 minutes.

By the way, what is apple paste used for? I made some, just because it looked simple, from a recipe in that old 1902 Mrs. Beaton's Cookery Book which I mentioned some weeks ago. It was listed in the confectionery and icing section of the book. It is quite delicious, very sweet and sticky, and a most attractive burnt gold color, quite unrecognizable as apples. It is good as a sort of jam spread on bread, and it can be used on top of desserts, but what did Mrs. Beaton intend it to be used for?

On Friday night the Judge, Mrs. P. A. S. The Best Canadian Bred Dog in Show was won by a Collie, "Champion Sno Haven's Golden Laddie", owned by Mrs. Laurence Banks, Digby, N. S. The Best Canadian Bred Puppy in Show was won by a Golden Retriever puppy, Wilsonia I'll Mak Siccar, owned by Mr. Alex G. Wilson, of Paradise, N. S.

Mayor R. Earle Robinson, of Berwick, officially opened the shows on Friday evening and welcomed to the town the many exhibitors from the other Maritime provinces and the United States, as well as those from our own province. Lions Edge Legion 12-11

Behind the strong relief hurling of Joey Turnbull the Lions were able to eke out a 12-11 victory over the Legion in the opening game of the Little League Baseball League scheduled for Monday, July 6th, at the Little League Baseball diamond. If this game is any indication of the games to come, this season should produce as good or even better ball than last season. The Little League Baseball League comprises four teams this season, namely, Legion, Lions, Kiwanis and Merchants. These teams are being sponsored by the respective clubs and merchants of the town. The schedule will run from July 6th through August 31st.

Lennie Stevenson started on the mound for the Lions and gave way to M. Wilson in the second inning. Mike pitched a steady game until the bottom of the sixth when he tired and after walking three batters in a row he was replaced by Joey Turnbull. Joey came in with the bases loaded. He walked the first two batters to face him and allowed two runs to score, the score being at that time 12-10. The Legion added another when R. Phillips stole home on a pass ball. Then Joey struck out M. Phillips and D. Lewis was caught trying to steal home. Joey struck out Carl Higgins to end the game.

The winning pitcher was M. Wilson and the losing pitcher K. Maas. Incidentally Kurt had a good day at bat, getting two for four, one of which was a home run.

The top batter for the Legion was Kurt Maas and for the Lions, M. Wilson.

Cornell Project Continues In Digby

Continuing its studies of more than ten years, Cornell University is beginning a summer project in Digby and other counties. The programme is under the direction of Dr. Alexander H. Leighton, of Ithaca, N. Y., and Smith's Cove.

A number of the Cornell group have participated in past studies here. These include Mrs. Leighton, Dr. Jane Murphy, Mrs. Alice Longaker Nangeroni, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Silverman. Mr. and Mrs. I. Thomas Stone were in the county earlier this summer.

The studies done by the Cornell Program are in a field which has developed since the Second World War, when it became apparent that there was a relationship between the environment in which a person lives and his general health.

Studies in this general field have since been done in many parts of the world. Among these are Canada, the U. S., England, France, Nigeria, Taiwan, Sweden, Denmark and Mexico. The Cornell Programme has participated in about a third of these places. The early questions about environment and health appear to be answered, and similarly around the world. Now many of the projects, including Cornell's, are trying to develop newer methods of research to look further into this relationship.

The Programme's studies have begun this week. Among visitors here, to learn of the research, have been Professor Edward Lawson, of Acadia University, Mrs. Barbara Archibald, of Wolfville, Dr. Niel Juel-Nielsen, of Denmark, Dr. and Mrs. Nicholas Freyberg, of New York City, and Dr. and Mrs. Edward Liang, also of New York.

Many people in the County have also been in touch with Cornell's work, and have provided invaluable help in it. These kinds of studies require a great amount of cooperation, which has always, in fact, come from County residents. While no immediate return can be given to those who help, it is hoped that future generations will benefit.

In addition to regular members of the Programme here there are close to twenty summer workers. These include doctors, graduate students and students from various areas in Canada and the U. S., Nova Scotia, Montreal, Massachusetts and New Jersey are represented, as well as New York State.

Some work will be carried out in Digby town, but the studies themselves will be concentrated in smaller communities in Digby, Kings, Queens and Lunenburg Counties. At present, a number of the Cornell group are living in Digby, or close by.

Enjoy Visit To Digby Islands

Several members of one family and friends from Parker's Cove enjoyed a motor trip down Digby Neck and had as their point of interest Freeport, the harbour where many of the men from the Fundy shore have their scallop boats based for the summer. As the day began fading, one by one the scallop boats could be seen coming in the distance around the Island of Westport. Many on the boats were of course relatives of the visiting folk on the wharf where Don Messer had his movie camera trained on the various scenes. Fortunately the day was clear and fog-free, a menace to fishing that the islands seem to have more of than many other places.

Members of the party were Hazel and Don Messer, of Keene, N. H.; Sally and Dick Johnson, Albany, N. Y.; Mrs. Wilbur Robinson, Carol and David; Mrs. Harold Robinson, Teresa and Lewellyn; Mrs. Boyd Robinson; Mrs. Stewart and Arlen Robinson, of Parker's Cove; Mrs. Irvin Longmire, Norma and Angela, of Hillsburn; and Robert Anderson, of Montreal.

Digby Little League Active

The past week saw two games played in the Digby Little League.

On July 8th the Kiwanis eked out a 7-6 decision over the Merchants. The lead was held by the Merchants up to the fifth inning when the Kiwanis team scored three runs to tie up the game at 6 all. In the top of the sixth inning the Kiwanis scored the run that proved the winner. D. Marshall opened the inning grounding out from R. Denton to J. VanTassel; then Paul Butler got on base on a walk and stole second and third but was caught trying to steal home. Michael Foy got a single and promptly stole second and third. He scored on a single by George King. Rod Adams struck out to end the inning. The Merchants were held scoreless in the bottom of the sixth when Teddie Weagle popped up to Murray Baxter. Peter MacInnes grounded out and David O'Neil was called out on a third strike. The game was closely contested the greater part of the way. It produced good ball and winning pitcher was Paul Butler.

On Monday, July 13th, the Merchants downed the Lions by the score of 16-9. The Oberlander-managed Merchants were superior at bat and in the field. It was quite noticeable that both teams have been practicing but particularly the Merchants. This game produced two home runs by Robert Denton for the Merchants and Mike Wilson for the Lions. The winning pitcher was Jerry VanTassel. The Merchants picked up six runs in the second inning and led the game at that time by the score of 9-2. They were never headed after that.

The sweaters and caps have not yet arrived but it is hoped that they will soon be here. The public's attendance at the games gives encouragement to the youngsters.

Visiting Grandparents

Six year old Karen Levy returned to Digby, Sunday, to spend the summer with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Levy, of King Street. Karen would rather live in Digby than in Halifax, "because there is a yard for me to play in".

She and her family have been living in the city for the past year so that she could receive treatments at the Nova Scotia Rehabilitation Centre for spastic diplegia, a mild form of cerebral palsy. Her affliction is no longer a problem, however; she navigates quite well in her wheelchair, on crutches and on a tricycle, and she will soon be walking unaided.

Karen is a happy little girl, and very proud of the excellent report card she brought home from the handicapped class at Sir Charles Tupper School in Halifax. In September she plans to return to Halifax to attend the Grade I handicap class at Ardmore School. Possibly next summer she will return to Digby permanently and go to school with the other children in her age group. At any rate she is enjoying the Fundy fresh air and glad to be home for the summer.

Welcomes New V.O.N.

President John Nichols on Tuesday welcomed the new Victorian Order Nurse in Digby, Miss Dianne Rupert, at the regular meeting of the local association V.O.N. Miss Rupert replaces Miss Edith Evenden, whose resignation took place in June. Miss Rupert comes from Charlottetown, P.E.I.

Regrets were expressed in losing two members of the Board who had moved away. Mrs. John Till went to Halifax and Mrs. Kenneth Crews is residing in Liverpool.

It was reported that there were 364 more visits in the first six months of 1964 than in the same period in 1963.

Plans were made to hold a tag day early in August.

On invitation of the Public Service Commission of Bridgewater, V. F. Melanson, of Church Point, chairman of the Digby County Power Board, and S. A. MacNaughton, superintendent, along with representatives of electric utilities purchasing electric energy through the western network of the Nova Scotia Power Commission, met in Bridgewater, N. S. to consider the impact of the recent increase cost of electric energy imposed by the Nova Scotia Power Commission.

The meeting resulted in unanimous agreement that the utilities in the western network, supplied with electric energy by the Commission stand together and institute such investigations as changing conditions warrant.

It was agreed that one or two representatives from each utility form a committee with the view to obtaining a meeting with Premier Stanfield in his capacity as chairman of the Nova Scotia Power Commission.

All utilities recognized that additional electric energy requirements in the western network must be supplied from the Power Commissions eastern network, where the power is generated through thermal plants, at a higher cost than the hydro generation in the western network, resulting in some increases to the cost of electric energy to the western network customers. However, they were of the opinion that the increase imposed by the Power Commission is in excess of normal cost increases.

The meeting concluded with a dinner at the Fairview Hotel.

C.W.F. Meets

The Christian Women's Fellowship of Westport met for the July meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles McDormand.

The opening was the C.W.F. prayer, followed with the devotional, led by Mrs. Allison Swift, using scripture Luke 10:32-42, and telling the story of the visit of Jesus in the home of Mary and Martha.

Bible study with Mrs. Albert Welch was "Messengers of God". Evangelism means Good News and the sender of the message is God. During the early ministry of Jesus the twelve disciples and many more heard of the word of God, and some of the first receivers of the message were Zacchaeus, Roman Centurion, Mary, Martha, Lazarus and more. The lesson says to "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel", not to wait until things get better, but to do so now.

Mission study, with leader Mrs. Harold Swift, was the last lesson in the book, "Threads of Gold" and finished a study about the work in India.

About This and That

A Few Down Town Complaints

We are beginning to think that the shop down town which can advertise "We Have A Rest Room" is the one which is going to get the most outside customers. From the complaints we've been hearing one of the most necessary of facilities in our shopping area is a rest room. The railway station and the bus stop evidently were used to rest the tired feet of weary shoppers who had come to town from the outside areas. Both these facilities have been withdrawn in the past couple years, the bus stop within the past few months. Especially do shoppers, coming to town with children, miss the resting and toilet facilities which had been provided by the railway station and bus stop. Out-of-town shoppers are complaining.

While we are mentioning complaints from shoppers we'll also mention one we heard from merchants. This one happened to be about people who use up parking spaces on Friday nights merely to watch other people as they go about their shopping errands. Cars have come to town and have found it easier to go to some other place to shop rather than to look for a parking space, we are told. One merchant looked out the shop window at nine o'clock last Friday and complained "That same car has been parked here since six o'clock." In many instances it has been found that people right from the town find it entertaining to park their cars on front street on Friday nights and view the parade of shoppers. They have no intention of shopping. Their car uses a space, though, that the out-of-town customer would like to have to do his shopping. The result is that the home merchant loses a sale and, besides, everybody in town suffers indirectly with the merchant. We agree with the merchant — the entertainment doesn't compensate for the loss of business through lack of parking facilities. The competitive dollar is difficult to obtain. We must not make it difficult for the Digby merchant to get his share.

We'd like to add another complaint. It is the unfairness to other merchants when unused properties are left in the middle of the business section in a most unattractive condition. One building in particular which we have in mind is one which had been seared and crippled by fire more than a year ago. Sympathy went out to the owners of the building at that time. But, that was more than a year ago. With one winter and one Clean-up Week having passed, and two tourist seasons almost gone since the fire we think it a bit unfair to other merchants nearby to have to live with the unattractiveness. We have sympathy with those who try to eke out a living and still cannot improve the properties but we cannot sympathize with neglect, especially when attractiveness is such an asset to any town. Most of the visitors in Digby see the main street in town.

But all is not complaint. We heard a most complimentary remark the other day about the beautiful and well kept gardens in Digby. We feel this remark should be mentioned as well as complaints. In fact, the Digby Horticultural Society was mentioned as probably influencing the nice gardens. We have given them credit and congratulated them on their fine civic improvements. It is no doubt that their influence extends to private gardens as well.

Lunenburg Academy

This is a strange heading for an editorial in a paper in an area entirely on the opposite shore of the province. We can't say that we'd blame anyone to retort, "Mind your own business, you live in Digby now." The fact is, we're interested. You can't shake off an interest in the old home town just by having moved away only "xxxxy" years ago. And especially, you can't ever shake off an interest in the old building where you finished your high school days. Sentiment will follow you through. To prove it we have right before us at the present time a Tuscan China plate with a picture of the Lunenburg Academy on it. The plate was made in England for S. A. Ronsefell, a dry goods and clothing store.

How proud we were of that school building on the hill! Sentiments were just about as high for it as they were for the home village school. We loved to point out the academy to visitors as we approached the town from the home village on the La Have.

Lunenburg Academy was renewed in our thoughts last month as we watched the opening of a multi-million dollar fish processing plant in Lunenburg — actually in the municipality but just about on the border of the town. Chairman for the official opening program was Douglas Pyke, and since Doug and the editor of The Digby Courier finished high school at the academy at the same time our minds would naturally revert to school days. So, mingled with congratulations and our exclamations over the tremendous undertaking, the wondrous advances in fish processing and our exuberance over the prospective prosperity to an already prosperous area our thoughts reverted to the Lunenburg Academy. There it was still standing on the hill and as far as was visible to the eye not even a window had changed in appearance. What goes? — we thought! Here is Digby — no industry of which we can boast but an educational system about which we delight to brag. Has Digby gone overboard education-wise? Have the new schools and the accommodation provided been in excess? How can the multi-million-dollar industry town make out with the same Lunenburg Academy as existed when this editor was a high school girl? We surely must find the secret!

And so we made enquiries. We changed our minds when we learned that rooms are so demanding at the Lunenburg Academy that for the coming year several rooms are being partitioned into half size and space is at a premium. Again we see the wisdom of Digby's school system and wonder why Lunenburg school hadn't been rebuilt before. We feel they need a new school and we're willing to hold on to our Tuscan China plate for sentimentality while the old Lunenburg Academy surely soon must give way to the new.

Again we congratulate Lunenburg on its tremendous forward step in the large and modern fish processing plant as we make ourselves content with the small branch of the same National Sea Products in Digby. By the way, even the scallops in Lunenburg are larger, whiter and sweeter tasting than those in Digby, according to chairman Pyke who took the press on a tour of the plant. (Please note, however, that those remarks were made only in the presence of and in hearing distance of the Digby newspaper editor!)

It was a delight to be back to Lunenburg on such a day as that when the new fish processing plant was opened. We'll be watching with interest progress of plans for a new school there. We understand there is much discussion on the subject and we doubt if the discussions are any too early.

D.G.H. Campaign Report & Gifts

Report of the Digby General Hospital Campaign for Funds and Memorial Gifts made during the period from June 1962.

The drive for funds in support of the new Digby General Hospital has been somewhat inactive over the past six months. Now that the construction is well advanced, serious thought must be given to re-activating the campaign. While there is sufficient money available to complete the hospital and provide for the basic and fixed equipment, additional monies will be required for furnishings. It is anticipated that once the public is made aware of the need, the response to our appeal will be good.

Early in July, the Weymouth and Clare Areas organized for making a public appeal for funds in support of the hospital project. The Weymouth Area has undertaken to establish a memorial to the late Dr. Herbert Melanson, who served the residents in and about the Weymouth area for many years. It is indeed fitting that an area should be set aside in the new hospital which will be designated to commemorate the Doctor's memory and his splendid contribution towards the betterment of hospital facilities in the area which the hospital serves. The late Doctor was closely identified with the original and 1930 campaign to provide hospital facilities in our area. We anticipate that there will be an excellent response to this appeal for funds.

The Clare area is being organized; but it is not yet definitely known just what project will be undertaken. The Clare and Weymouth drives are being organized under the effective leadership of J. Medrie Comeau and Wilfred Cosman. At Weymouth, a very active central committee has already been set up and it is understood that a similar committee is planned for Clare. It is possible that by this time the committee has already been established and active.

The Executive Committee of the Hospital is not too happy over the success of the drive in the Town of Digby. While there was an excellent response in some quarters, nevertheless there are many potential givers who have not been approached or good leads not followed-up. Would it not now be timely for these contacts to be re-established to urge those to give who may plan to give, but have not done so? A useful service for the hospital would be performed if those who inadvertently have not been contacted for a donation would now phone the hospital office and request a canvasser to call at their homes.

At the end of June, 1964, some $48,600.00 had been received in cash as a result of the Campaign to that date. In addition to this sum, over $8,500.00 had been pledged over a period of one or more years. These pledges are all good and it can be anticipated that this amount will be paid in full. In 1963, a bequest of $12,000.00 was received, which was paid in American funds, bringing the bequest to approximately $13,000.00. Another $2,405.00 has been received for memorial gifts in recent months. Memorial Rooms have been established by the following:

"The E. Churchill Sollows Room" by Mrs. E. Churchill Sollows in memory of her late husband;

"The Anderson Memorial Room" by Mrs. F. L. Anderson and family;

"The DuVernet Memorial Room" in memory of Dr. Edward DuVernet and his son Frederick Parker DuVernet by Mrs. DuVernet and sons;

"The Morse Memorial Room" in memory of Dr. and Mrs. L. H. Morse by their son Mr. Eric Morse.

Very substantial gifts have been received in support of these memorial areas and it is felt that there may be many others who would wish to commemorate the names of their loved ones who spent their lives in the Digby Area. The committee would be grateful for any suggestions that might establish contact with anyone who would desire to sponsor a memorial area.

Special memorial gifts made in lieu of flowers amount to $525.00. Acknowledgement of such gifts follows:

In memory of Miss Marion Shreve, donations by: Miss Edith Lynch, Major General and Mrs. Plow, Mrs. Casson, Mrs. V. G. Cardoza, Miss Louise Daley and Mrs. M. Sutcliffe, Miss Mary Roberts, Miss C. Gilpin, Mrs. Charles Morse, Mr. George Main, Mr. M. E. Morris, Mr. G. R. K. Lynch, Mr. Thomas Morse.

Donations in memory of Mrs. Augustus Purdy were made by: The Board of Directors of the Digby General Hospital, Digby General Hospital Staff, Digby Regional High School Staff.

Donations in memory of Mrs. Phyllis Perkins were made by: Wallace and Alice Grant, Mrs. Beatrice Martin, Mrs. Wilfred Miller, Mr. Robert Nelson.

Donation in memory of Mrs. Bessie Trask was made by Digby Public School Staff.

Donation in memory of Mrs. Fred Ely made by Mrs. C. Carr.

Donation in memory of Mrs. D. Rice by Miss Dora Warne.

Donation in memory of Charles DeLong by Sue DeLong.

Special donations not designated for the Building Fund include the following: (Total amount of such gifts is $316.50)

H.V. Club of the Digby Regional High School; St. George Altar Guild; Digby General Hospital Staff for Staff Room; Anonymous Gifts.

Total cash receipts from all sources to date are $64,000.00, plus legacy of approximately $13,000.00. The campaign objective is $125,000.00.

It is understood that the Digby Kiwanis Club has taken on a project designed to raise $2,500.00 for sponsoring a children's ward in the new hospital. A gift towards depreciable hospital equipment is a self-perpetuating gift, in that over a period of 16 years the board receives the original amount of the gift from the Hospital Insurance Commission, depreciable as a return and sharable for expenditures. So one might say that a gift of $1,000.00 will in 16 years double itself. For this reason, there will be no further call upon these organizations that have sponsored rooms, once the amount pledged has been received. It is hoped that service clubs and fraternal organizations will thus be encouraged to take on projects for furnishing rooms or providing items of essential equipment for the new hospital.

Very substantial gifts have been received from business firms, national organizations and private individuals which have been placed in the general building fund. These gifts have been acknowledged by letter and all those gifts of $500.00 or greater will be noted on a roll of honor to be eventually placed in the hospital lobby. From time to time, all gifts made to the memorial fund will be acknowledged in the local press.

You need your hospital and your hospital needs your support.

Origin Of Digby General Hospital

By Harry L. Roberts, M.D.

It was about March 15, 1924, at the home of Ross Smallie, on Racquette Road, that Miss Agnes Hill, who was acting as a practical nurse for Mrs. Smallie — then confined to bed with phlebitis, gave notice to me of her leaving "this case" to "prepare for the opening of her home for summer tourists." My quick comment was: "Why not open your home as a cottage hospital?" This comment seemed to make little impression but at my next visit to that home Miss Hill's remark was "I have thought about what you said, and if you can get the other doctors to work with you, I will do it."

That was all that was needed. Both Drs. Read and DuVernet were interviewed. That afternoon my wife accompanied me down the Neck where both Dr. Frank Rice at Sandy Cove and Dr. Weir at Westport expressed sufficient interest to add impetus to the idea. The next day Dr. Walter Dickie of Barton enthusiastically viewed the proposal as did both Drs. Campbell and Lovett of Bear River and expressed a willingness to use a facility as the need might arise.

A committee was immediately formed and it was decided to solicit the financial aid from a group of interested citizens to pay operating room cost and a nurse's wages. As I remember, they were:

H. T. Warne, Frank L. Anderson, John Larche, Fred McBride, Archie Dillon, M. C. Denton, W. W. Hayden (Light-house, Bay Road), A. A. Shortliffe, H. B. Short, W. W. Cosaboom.

It was finally arranged that for income received for board and room of patients, Miss Hill would room and feed our nurses and any patients.

After discussing with the superintendent of nurses at the Victoria General Hospital in Halifax the program we hoped to launch, she decided we should have a young and recent graduate nurse whom we could train for our need and at the appointed time sent us Miss Catherine Campbell, R.N., to whom a great share of the success of this venture was due. The Digby General Hospital was opened August 2, 1924. The need for more nursing help soon arose and Miss Connie Woodman of Hill Grove or Conway enrolled as what amounted to the first student nurse. Miss Hill and Mrs. Lena McKay did their share of nursing too as need arose.

During these early days it was considered necessary to take those who could not pay as well as the more fortunate, therefore, at the end of our first six months of operation it was necessary to ask both the Digby town and municipal councils for financial grants. As soon as these were allowed the Provincial Government gave us ninety cents per day per patient, be they private or charity and by the end of the first year Digby Hospital was a "going concern".

There was formed a Woman's Auxiliary. The diligent and conscientious efforts of this organization added much to the prestige and financial well being of this growing infant. From the first, the yearly Hospital's Fairs have been a great tribute to the work of the hospital auxiliary and all those who have so untiringly assisted in its success. Due to the financial success of these fairs, a fund was begun for the building of the hospital, the construction of which began in 1930. This replaced the original cottage hospital and has served so well into the early sixties.

Some of the doctors associated with the early hospital were:

Early nurses were of course Catherine Campbell, Constance Woodman, Helen Blackford. Also Mrs. James Merkel and Mrs. Hilda Durling Cosaboom. Many others have served since. Catherine Campbell management, the latter two especially for the older girls. You will understand that it takes some time to reorganize present 4-H study material and projects and make out new ones. Miss Yvonne Chasson, as 4-H Representative, is going to have a busy summer doing this. We hope to have some of these project books ready by the fall.

As you know, many 4-H Clubs do not disband for the summer, then reorganize in the fall. When you reorganize next fall it would be nice if you could keep going all year. Even if no project work was done during the summer but officers were elected in the spring who would perhaps call meetings and keep the club together during the summer, this would be a good start.

Don't forget the Girls' Club Camp to be held July 13-16th and Provincial Club camp, August 3rd to 8th. The Boys' Club camp was held July 6-9th.

4-H Homemaking Clubs (Digby County)

(By Janet Walker)

The 4-H Garment Clubs in Digby County have all held their Achievement Days now. Congratulations to all of you for doing a fine year's work! Special congratulations go to the Meteghan River 4-H Garment Club for the fine showing they made. They have been chosen as the most outstanding 4-H Garment Club in Nova Scotia. They were presented with the Women's Institute trophy at the convention on June 22nd. Miss Juliette Saulnier deserves a great deal of credit and so do all her girls who worked so hard. Keep up the good work girls! Perhaps you noticed I headed this section "4-H Homemaking Clubs" rather than "4-H Garment Clubs". As many of you have no doubt heard we are in the midst of a great deal of reorganization in the Department. We felt that we were not offering you 4-H girls a program with enough interest or challenge so we took a good look at ourselves.

The 4-H program, by fall, should cover projects in sewing, foods and nutrition, home care and improvement, home

Donnelly — Grant

A wedding of interest in Digby took place at the Reformed Baptist Church, Digby, on Saturday, June 27, at 3 p.m., when Rev. H. B. Ricker united in marriage Miriam Grant, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. M. M. Grant, Digby, and Richard Donnelly, Digby, son of Mrs. Bernard Donnelly and the late Mr. Donnelly.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion by the women of the church and featuring summer flowers over an attractive archery.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Walter, was attired in a green and white silk sheath ensemble and white accessories. Her corsage was of white roses.

Ushers were Rae McCleave and Gordon Grant, brother of the bride, Mrs. H. B. Ricker, played the nuptial music and also sang "Each For The Other".

A reception for the immediate family was held in the dining room at the Bon-E-Lass. Dr. J. R. McCleave proposed the toast to the bride. Sandra Grant had charge of the guest book.

After a wedding trip to the South Shore of Nova Scotia and the Valley, the couple will reside in Digby, where the bride is on the staff of the Digby General Hospital and the groom is a local taxi operator.

Campbell — Quesnell

The marriage of Dianna Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Campbell, of Senneville, Quebec, formerly of Culloden, to Mr. Gilles Quesnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Quesnell, of St. Anne de Bellevue, took place Saturday, June 27, at ten o'clock, when Nuptial Mass in Corpus Christi Church, Senneville, was celebrated. Rev. Fr. B. C. MacDonald officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was beautifully decorated with tall candleabra and baskets of light blue delphiniums, white peonies, shasta daisies and pale yellow iris, gifts of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Morgan.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white lace over satin; the full floating paneled skirt widened in back into several lace-edged tiers ending in a slight train. The fitted bodice had long pointed sleeves, a V-waistline, and bateau neckline sprinkled with star sequins. Her bouffant Juliet veil was held in place by a crown of lilies-of-the-valley. She carried a cascade of yellow roses and stephanotis.

Miss Patricia Campbell, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a pale yellow dress of lace and organza over taffeta, with full skirt, fitted bodice and long pointed sleeves. The bridesmaid, Miss Micheline Piche, friend of the bride, wore a similar gown of blue. Both wore matching headresses of bows with tiny sprays of blue cornflowers, and carried a basket of moon-daisies and blue cornflowers. The ringbearer was little Victor Maddalena, cousin of the bride. He carried a heart-shaped white satin cushion bearing the matching wedding rings.

Mr. Maurice Legault was best man and Mr. Daniel Campbell, brother of the bride, usher.

Mrs. Campbell, mother of the bride, wore an apricot-ice linen dress with matching flower hat and a corsage of bronze-shaded orchids.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Quesnell, wore a gown of green and white silk with white accessories and a pale pink orchid corsage.

The bride and groom exchanged gifts of matching missals and gold crosses. The bride's gifts to her attendants were gold locket to the maid of honor and gold cross to the bridesmaid. The ringbearer and little altar boys received silver dollars. The gift of the groom to his attendants were cuff links and tie pins.

Following the ceremony a garden party reception was held at the home of the bride's parents at Senneville. The brides table was decorated with tall white candles and flowers and centered by a four tier wedding cake. A toast to the happy couple was proposed by the brides uncle, Mr. Gino Maddalena and responded to by the groom, Miss Wanda Pizhybski, friend of the bride, attended the brides book.

Some of my best friends are ghosts.

Of course I have never met one of the real, chain clanking, walk through the wall type of ghost. If I did, and if I did not faint dead away, would probably set some new record for long distance running.

The ghosts I like are the kind which haunt old books, old furniture, old houses, and in fact nearly everything which has once belonged to someone else, and been precious to them. There are ghosts in things one year old, and ghosts in things a thousand years old. They nearly always turn up where people have written things, diaries, autograph albums, letters, old school note books, ledgers and even those notes people sometimes scribble on the margins of cook-books and novels. I have found them in dresses which have become dust cloths, old photographs, and very frequently in the sometimes stale and dusty atmosphere of museums.

I met one of my most vivid ghosts in a museum in New York when I was in my teens. I have long since forgotten what museum, but the ghost lived in a worn rag which had been part of some Indian child's clothing a thousand years ago. The child who had worn that garment became nearly as alive, and nearly as tangible, as if he had stood in that room in the middle of the twentieth century, instead of having lived hundreds of years before our ancestors knew there was an America.

Ghosts do not live in all museums. It is too bad, for all the work local historical societies, and library societies, and the like, do to compile little one room museums in various towns that these seem to be the ones least likely to be haunted by friendly spectres. They do not seem to like having to share their space with an African drum on one side, a stuffed moose with an eye missing on the other, and a portrait of the founder of the town overhead. They must be orderly beings, more comfortable in a familiar environment, where some smooth and traceable continuity can be travelled to the world of shadows.

I must look up some haunts in Digby. There are a couple of pleasant spooks lurking about Admiral Digby's well, and quite a number in various private houses, but as I think of it now, there seems to be a singular dearth of them. Is this true, or have I not looked in the right places?

I have not been in the Church of Saint Edward in Clementsport since I was a child. I cannot remember whether or not it was haunted. I have not met many at Fort Anne in Annapolis Royal. A few live outside, in the grassed in moats, among the cannon, and in the powder magazines, but the inside of the building tries to do more than a self-respecting spook can cope with. The Habitation at Port Royal, on the other hand, is a spook hunter's paradise. They pop out in every room, from behind every piece of furniture. They are taking hot crusty loaves from the oven in the bakery, and roasting venison to a succulent, sizzling brown in the dining room. They are praying in the chapel, and sneaking a few drops in the wine cellar. They are moaning in the sick bays, and in the dormitories they are telling stories of ghosts which when the place was inhabited by beings of more substance in 1604.

I would like to say that I have met the ghosts of Evangeline and Gabriel at the Church of Saint Charles in Grand Pre. I have not. This is surprising when we have been steeped in this story ever since we can remember, but Evangeline and Gabriel are more likely to be found in broad daylight, walking the dykes along the Annapolis Valley. The best ghosts of Uniacke House are those of the cats creeping through the holes cut in the doors for them. The rest of the house, although quite interesting, and very beautiful, is too neat and sterile to be the habitation of spirits. They abound, however, at Clifton in Windsor.

There are a surprising number in the Citadel in Halifax. Even displays which one would think at first glance to have no souls at all are quite happily haunted. Halifax, of course, is a haunted city. The past, and the people who lived in it make themselves known in nearly every church, along the docks in second hand stores, at Province House, and up and down the length of Barrington Street. You find them in the Public Gardens, and even so new a structure as the Angus L. Macdonald Bridge is already steeped in legend and history.

Oh, yes, if you prefer the rugged, out-of-doors type of ghost, do not forget the Ovens in Lunenburg County. A few live in the museum there, but the most virile spectres walk along the beaches, scale the cliffs, and hack at the walls of caves, still searching for gold. The very wind and sea and storm-spewed spray are haunted, and in that violent majesty of nature, and man's assaults on nature, one cannot tell for certain which are the ghosts of things past, and which are the ghosts of things which have never been.

But all ghosts are not public. The nicest are the ones which haunt the first drawing your son made, or the pin your grandmother gave you when you were twelve, or the cup and saucer you admired at a friend's house, so she left it with you when she went to Europe. Ghosts are quite shy of showing themselves. They sometimes appear unexpectedly, but like mortals, they generally ignore us if we ignore them.

I gave a beat up old cook-book to a lady the other day. She could easily tell which were my favorite recipes - they were the ones on the greediest pages. Besides, I had notes beside the ones I liked very much or disliked very much. That, I hope, is a piece of my immortality.

About This and That

Better Road Markers

A lady from Culloden called last week to congratulate us on the editorial about the lack of rest rooms in Digby. You can't imagine, she said, how inconvenient it is to bring children in town to shop without rest room facilities.

Our lady went on to say that she had meant to call earlier to mention how poorly marked the road to Digby Neck must be. Already 15 tourists have been at her home in Culloden to ask direction to Digby Neck. Evidently the error is made at Carleton Street in Digby. Instead of continuing up Carleton Street the tourists wishing to go to the Neck take the road to the Racquette, up Mount Pleasant and find themselves in Culloden before they realize they are on the wrong road. Culloden, itself, is a pretty place to visit but it must be disappointing to find oneself so many miles off course when setting out for a specific point like Digby Neck and Islands. Road conditions from Culloden to the Neck make it almost imperative to retrace steps, we understand. And how we dislike doing that! We had better accommodate our visitors better by having our roads better marked.

Bridge Or Causeway To Islands

We were more than pleased to learn last week that the Digby Municipal Council has again taken up the matter of a bridge or causeway across Petite Passage to Long Is and their latest effort has been through a regional meeting of the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities held in Yarmouth. The Digby Municipality has asked the regional meeting to place the matter before the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities conference late this summer and have them use their influence on all levels of government to promote the project.

The resolution placed before the regional meeting stated that by a toll bridge or toll causeway across Petite Passage one of the greatest tourist attractions in the province would be opened. The economy of the whole area would be expanded by such a tourist boost; the resolution suggested. By the construction of a bridge or causeway new and larger fish processing plants would be created, the resolution read. A million dollar scallop bed in the area has been barely used due to lack of inadequate transportation, according to the resolution.

Here is a project that surely needs the support of every person in Digby County. Digby Neck and Islands is part of the Digby Municipality, and every increase in the economy of the Neck and Islands is an increase in the economy of the whole county. Digby town is bound to share in any increased economy of the Neck and Islands, as, indeed, it has during the past years.

Besides the increase in economy through the tourist and fish business it is, also time that the residents of the Islands were given a bit of convenience for travelling, too. Have you ever waited in line for an opportunity to cross on the ferry? The ferrymen cannot do better. They make the trips across continually but it is impossible to accommodate all the waiting cars. Many of us get impatient and start honking horns when we are slowed up at lights or stop signs on the mainland. Imagine the patience one must muster when waiting in line at the ferry and the time is speeding by for an appointment with doctor, dentist, train or bus some thirty miles away. Oh, it is fun and an extreme pleasure to wait amidst the beauties of East Ferry, Tiverton, Freeport or Westport once in a while. We know. We've done it. But, to bear with it day in and day out, all sorts of weather, year in and year out, can become something less than pleasure and convenience.

For economy and convenience we are for a bridge or causeway across Petite Passage.

See Nova Scotia

For years we've promised ourselves a drive over to Noel, on the Minas Basin shore. But, each time we were near the road which branches in that direction we were trying to make time so that we'd arrive at a meeting on time or to get home in a hurry and attend to business. Returning from Chatham and Sackville, N. B., via Raydon, on Monday of this week we decided we would take the time to see this part of the country. Believe us, it was time well spent. From the village of Noel almost out to Windsor the road follows along the shore with all its beauty of scenery. Without meaning to divert attention from Digby's beauties we feel impelled to mention the road which we had travelled for the first time on Monday.

We couldn't help thinking how many more beautiful places there are in Nova Scotia which we have not seen and how many more Nova Scotians there are who also have not seen them. We should not overlook the possibilities of a nice vacation exploring more of the beauties of our own Nova Scotia before we look to more distant scenes with lesser enjoyment.

Tourist Friendliness

Besides getting a great deal of pleasure in driving over a beautiful "new-to-us" road on Monday we also were impressed with friendliness we encountered at one particular Imperial Esso Service Station where we filled up with gas on Monday. In general, we think Nova Scotians are a friendly people anyway, but there was a special friendliness at this station, one which made you feel you'd stop there again when going through. It was the sort of interest-in-the-tourist and friendliness which stuck with you. It made you think that when tourists coming into Nova Scotia are made to feel so much at home they, too, want to come back again.

The tourist might see our beautiful scenery, enjoy it immensely, and then let it recede into the past. But the warm, friendly welcome which means so much, the kindnesses and the courtesies we extend will bring the tourist back again. We should never forget this in our efforts at tourist promotion.

Grant — Sitland

As the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March resounded from the church bell tower over Deep Brook on Saturday noon, July 11, guests filled the St. Matthews Anglican Church to witness the wedding ceremony of Norma Sitland, youngest daughter of Mrs. Bessie Lowe, Deep Brook, Annapolis Co., and the late Wilfred J. Sitland, Halifax, with Ronald Troop Grant, son of Mrs. Marion Grant, Annapolis Royal and the late Gilbert G. Grant, Dartmouth, N.S.

Rev. W. H. Logan performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Walter Mile, Granville Ferry presided at the organ. The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Flight Sgt. Raymond Sitland, RCAF, Ottawa, by whom she was given in marriage. She was very lovely in floor length gown of white nylon chiffon over tulle with apron effect panel trimmed with sequins; the long sleeves tapered to points at the wrists, bows of self material marked the waistline in back. A crown of sequins and pearls held the three quarter length veil of nylon net with embroidered flowers in place. She carried a white Prayer book covered with red rosebuds and lily of the valley, with white satin ribbon streamers knotted with rosebuds. She wore earrings and a necklace of pearls, gift of the groom.

Mrs. Paul Morehouse, of Deep Brook, sister of the bride was matron of honor, very charming in street length gown of gold peau de soie, gold slippers and gloves, matching headdress and carrying a bouquet of white carnations with gold bows of ribbon. Misses Julie Clayton, Parker's Cove, Annapolis Co., and Miss Shirley Sitland, Halifax were bridesmaids, both very lovely in street length gowns of moss green peau de soie, green slippers and gloves, and matching headdress and carrying bouquets of white carnations with green bow of ribbon.

Little Joanne Sitland, niece of the bride, made a delightful flower girl, wearing a street length gown of green print on white nylon, white accessories and carrying a nosegay of white carnations. Grant Pattison, Dartmouth, N.S. cousin of the groom was best man. Sgt. Clarence Sitland, RCAF, North Bay, Ont., brother of the bride and Vernon Amherman, Granville, N.S. were ushers.

For the occasion white mums were placed on the altar, with pink roses, white mums and poodles in silver bowl and basket.

The guest pews were marked with white lace medallions with lily of the valley, yellow and red roses and white ribbon bows.

Mrs. Edward Fraser, Annapolis Royal, sang "O Perfect Love" accompanied by Mrs. Mile during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony a reception for 136 guests was held at the Parish Hall, Miss Louanna Harnish had charge of the guest book. Mrs. Walter Mile presided at the piano playing Lohengrin Wedding March at the entrance of the bride and groom.

The hall was decorated for the occasion with white streamers and bells. Bowls of roses of various colors decorated the luncheon tables. Ladies of St. Matthews' Guild and helpers catered for the luncheon.

Mrs. Lowe chose a delf blue lace sheath style dress with hat and gloves, white shoes and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Grant chose a pure silk grey printed sheath style dress with navy and white hat and white accessories and wore a corsage of red carnations.

Grace was offered by Rev. George Bryden, Deep Brook.

The brides table was centered with beautifully decorated three tier wedding cake, flanked by silver vases of red roses and white tapers in silver candlesticks. Misses Louanna Harnish, New Minas and Miss Elizabeth Baxter, Deep Brook served the bridal couple and attendants.

Flight Sgt. Raymond Sitland, RCAF, Ottawa welcomed the guests and presented Rev. W. H. Logan who proposed the toast to the bride. The groom responded very fittingly and in turn proposed a toast to the bride-maids which was responded to by Sgt. Clarence Sitland, RCAF in his usual witty manner.

Mrs. George Sitland, Halifax aunt of the bride, and Miss Katherine Grant, Windsor, N.S., aunt of the groom presided at the tea service.

Following the toasts the bride and groom passed the wedding cake.

The happy couple left via S. S. Acadia from Digby for a motor trip to Niagara Falls, Ont., and points of interest in U.S.A.

For going away the bride chose a Nile green knitted two piece suit with yellow hat and gloves, white shoes and handbag. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Upon their return they will reside at Annapolis Royal, N.S.

The groom is a member of the staff of Acadia Distillers, Bridgetown. The bride held a responsible position on the office staff of Dominion Stores Ltd., Halifax and received many lovely gifts at pre-nuptial showers held in her honor.

Several relatives and friends attended from Florida New York, Granville and Granville Ferry; Clementsport, Bear River East, New Minas, and Sandy Cove, Digby Co., U.S.; Ottawa, North Bay, Ont.; Halifax, Dartmouth, Annapolis Royal.

Where Does That Road Go?

F. I. W.
"The Wayfarer"
 July 17, 1964.

We had thought that we in some ways had done or pretty well exhausted the telling of the quiet lovely roads of Digby county, Nova Scotia, that perhaps the casual visitor might easily be led to overlook. But, just the same, we have been led to write this.

Where does that road go? Well, in this case the natives of the town of Digby know full well that either of the two roads that they may journey on bearing down from the Main Highway to Yarmouth highway lead right down to the outskirts of the town. Here several business establishments and one of the roadside milk bar and ice cream bar stands. Then the roads, merging together, continue on past hospital and residences, where it twists and turns somewhat but always bearing in the general direction of north, east and west, as it crosses the railway tracks at the entrance of the main street of the town. More and more new businesses have been growing up at that end of town, but let's go on right down. Don't cross the next railway track but bear to the right and parallel the track. Stop if you will and greet the staff of the Digby Courier with its attractive and genial editor, Mrs. Wallis, who are always willing to greet the wayfarers and give any help in the way of useful directions, etc. Beyond the news office are several fish plants and on the left one passes the Admiral Digby Well, where tired walkers may pause and rest amidst pleasant floral surroundings. Parallel the railway tracks we discover 'tis no longer on paved streets but on the pier which lead right out into Annapolis Basin to the docking facilities of the "Princess of Acadia".

If the boat is at the wharf and if one has obtained passage for one's car and if it is about 4:15 p.m., one may drive right on to the boat itself. Climbing the tunnel-like interior and leaving one's car for the duration of the trip the passengers may ascend the stairways to whichever of the decks they desire. THE ROAD ENDED for the time being as far as car driving is involved, but as the boat leaves the car itself is usually facing back as though saying farewell to Digby and Nova Scotia.

But up aloft in the spacious salon or in the wide corridors, the passengers are making new acquaintances, old contacts with friends, making the trip or out on the outside decks viewing the pleasant scenery as the boat playing out from its moorings swings round in spacious Annapolis Basin and with gathering speed heads out towards Digby Gut.

As a rule the summer days are such that most travellers will stay on the outside decks as the boat slips past the Racquette and the Pines Hotel overlooking the Basin, past the weirs (folk up Hants County may pronounce these fishing devices WIRES), past the lobster buoys set out (if it be lobster season), past the Life Saving boat and station and Point Prim. Some on the other side have been viewing the little wharf at Port Wade—that's where Capt. Connelly, long-time master of the Princess Helene now lives). The rugged cliffs that mark the Gut on that side of the harbour are noted and some may be led to think of that day told of by Isaiah Wilson in his History of Digby County. He told how the first English Loyalists who were seeking a new home and arrived at the mouth of the Annapolis Basin in a time of storm and passengers viewed with increasing fear and panic the forbidding cliffs. At last the captain must drive all the fearful ones below deck, there to stay until allowed to come up again after passing through the gut to view with joy the lovely safe harbour at journey's end.

But this time we are headed out the other way and the waters are smooth and calm as so often it is in the summer months. But it may well be that as one passes Point Prim the cooler winds of Fundy are felt more noticeably by the watching tourists and the outside passengers dwindle and thin out as one by one they return to their cabin for warmer outer clothing or remain inside to watch from spacious salon and comfortable chairs.

In Memoriam
FADELLE — In loving memory of our dear little granddaughter and niece, Kimberlee Karen who was taken away so suddenly on July 22nd, 1958. The depths of sorrow we cannot tell. Of the loss of one we loved so well. And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep. Her memory we shall always keep. — So sadly missed, but always remembered by grandparents and aunt Joan of Digby. 48:1c

FADELLE — In loving memory of our darling baby daughter, Kimberlee Karen, taken from us so swiftly on July 22nd, 1958. We mourn for her in silence. No eyes can see us weep. But many a silent tear is shed while others are asleep. Friends may think we have forgotten. When at times they see us smile. But they little know the heart-ache. Our smiles hide all the while. So dearly loved and so sadly missed by mommy and daddy Norma and Bob. 48:1c

GRAHAM — In loving memory of a dear husband and a father, Sharnan Graham, who passed away July 26, 1957. Seven years has passed since that sad day. When our dear dad was called away. God took him home. It was His will. But in our hearts he liveth still. Always remembered by his wife Lillian, daughter Harriett and two sons, Fred and Oliver. 48:1c

DONNELLY — In loving memory of J. Bernard Donnelly, who passed away July 27, 1962. This day we do remember, A loving thought we give, To one no longer with us. But in our hearts still lives. — Remembered by wife and family. 48:1p

HUTCHINS — In loving memory of my dear father, George Hutchins who passed away July 23, 1960. God gave a wonderful father. His memory will never grow old. He moulded his smile out of sunshine. He moulded his heart out of gold. — Lovingly remembered by daughter Ruby and family. 48:1p

KINNEY — In loving memory of my dear mother, Vera Kinney, and grandmother who passed away July 29, 1963. She did not say good-bye. She was gone before we knew it and only God knows why. The flowers we place upon her grave may wither and decay. But the love for her that sleeps beneath shall never fade away. — Sadly missed and always remembered by daughter Louise, son Carl and daughter-in-law Marjorie and grandchildren. 48:1c

CROMWELL — In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Victorine May Cromwell, who passed away July 19th 1963. I stood beside your bedside, My heart was sad and sore. I tended you with loving care Until I could do no more. I think of you in silence. And often repeat your name. But all that's left to answer Is your picture in the frame. — Sadly missed by mother, father, sisters and brothers. 48:1c

HANDSPIKER — In loving memory of Minnie G. Handspiker, who passed away July 30, 1959. Time takes away the edge of grief, But memory turns back every leaf. — Always remembered by sons, John of Toronto, Chester of Barrie and daughter Mary of Digby. 48:1p

You make the news and it's YOUR NEWSPAPER

Yes, it's quite true. You and you and you... each and everyone of you makes the real news. What you do, what you say, what you think from day to day, is back of all the decisions in this world. That's the way public opinion is formed.

And this is your newspaper, too, because in its columns are reported these activities and sayings of yours and of your friends and your neighbors — from birth to death. Your home newspaper, and only your home newspaper can and does bring them to you.

And because of this mass of knowledge, power comes to you, for an informed press means an informed people.

Highways Minister Stephen Pyke has said 100,000 litter boxes will be distributed throughout Nova Scotia during the Department's 1961 anti-litter campaign.

The familiar blue and white litter boxes are distributed to service stations, motels, hotels, campsites, and municipal and provincial tourist bureaus.

"It is essential that all Nova Scotians cooperate to see that the province maintains its reputation as one of the most beautiful areas in North America," said Mr. Pyke.

"Keeping Nova Scotia free of litter not only creates an ideal vacation land but can be a deciding factor in the decision of an industry to locate in the area. An attractive location is a definite asset to an industry."

Sixth Of June

The largest combined naval, land and air operation in history, the Normandy invasion 20 years ago, was notable for Canada in that all three Canadian services fought together for the first time. Our 3rd Division soldiers held centre stage, but overhead

Unique Church Service

A unique service was held in the Riverside Baptist Cemetery, Weymouth North on Sunday evening when members of the congregation of the Riverside United Baptist Church gathered at the grave of Elder Enoch Townner, following the regular church service conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. R. Barkhouse, to pay tribute to this Baptist father. Flowers were placed on the grave by Deacon Willis Mullen on behalf of the church.

Rev. Barkhouse read a resume of the life of Mr. Townner who began life in the Anglican Church and came to Lower Granville from Newbury Connecticut in 1783 with other Loyalists. Some years later he felt impelled to break away from the church of his fathers and ask for baptism from T. H. Chipman at Annapolis. He was then about forty-five. He felt called to preach and in 1797 he entered on a tour of the scattered communities of Digby County. Two years later, in 1799, the Weymouth (formerly called Sissiboo) Baptist Church was organized and Elder Townner was ordained its first pastor. For the next seven years he served this pastorate which at that time extended for about fifty miles. In 1806 he went to Argyle, Yarmouth County where a church was organized and remained there until 1816 when he returned to Weymouth North and served again until 1825. In that year he settled in Westport, N.S., and remained there until his death three years later. His remains were brought to Weymouth North for interment and a memorial stone erected by his brethren which is still standing close to the church. This service was dismissed with prayer. The 165th anniversary of the Weymouth Baptist Church was observed at a previous service.

Walter Coggins, who is attending Cadet Camp at Camp Aldershot, attended the funeral of his grandmother, Mrs. G. L. Coggins on Friday.

Bulldozer Ferry

Meteghan River by the use of bulldozers. The shed, owned by A. F. Theriault, boat builder, was eased down to the beach of the river, and at low tide, four huge bulldozers pushed it over the river bottom to the opposite shore and up over the embankment. The operation was completed before the incoming tide started, or the building would have been destroyed. (Oxner Photo)

Teenager Self-Conscious About Skin Problem

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am a sophomore, and I have a problem which shouldn't bother me, yet it does. I have a rather bad case of acne, but some people just don't realize how self-conscious I am. They seem to think of themselves and make very silly remarks. What should I do for my defense? I don't want to explode, and I try not to pay any attention to them. It also seems that I only have a slight case according to my doctor. What should I do?"

OUR REPLY: Continue to ignore the silly remarks and at the same time try not to be self-conscious. In other words, don't make any effort to hear the silly remarks people make and try not to be self-conscious. Because you won't allow yourself to forget the acne, you perhaps expect people to notice and to make comment.

The truth is that people are not as observant as you think they are. Since the problem is yours, you are naturally concerned, yet others don't give it a second thought.

This is not to say that some people will not make silly remarks. Some will, because they are people. Most of these are not purposefully unkind; they are just thoughtless.

If you worry less about your problem, chances are people will notice it less and, since you have a slight case, the problem may disappear before too very long.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND STUDENT PRESS SERVICE, 1000 N. 10TH ST., PORT, KY.

Amateur Music Making On Increase

It's the organ, not the TV set, which draws this family together for fun, music and song. Contrary to gloomy predictions of a decade ago that TV would deal a death blow to amateur music-making, the latter is on the increase.

Sales of musical instruments and sheet music are soaring, and statistics indicate that one out of every six of us is an amateur musician. Leisure time seems to have taught people that participation in an activity tends to be much more satisfying than passive watching.

Noted Artist Visiting At Smith's Cove

(By Carolyn Arnold in part)

Harbour View House and Cottages, Smith's Cove has the honor of having as one of its guests the noted painter and musician, William S. Schwartz of Chicago. Mr. Schwartz and his wife, Mona, have already spent a month here and are looking forward to continuing their visit to nearly the end of August. While this is their first visit to this part of the province, Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz have already made many friends by visits to other parts of the province such as Peggy's Cove, the Ovens at Lunenburg and Shelburne, when on other visits in other years. They have also been visitors in previous years to parts of New Brunswick, including Grand Manan. Asked how they happened to come to Smith's Cove, they said they had seen literature with pictures of its beauty and were attracted here by them.

Born in Russia in 1896, Mr. Schwartz came to the U.S.A. in 1915.

He has a long history in the arts. At the age of 10½ he enrolled in the state supported school in Vilna where he was the youngest student. At the age of 19, after a series of odd jobs in various American cities from Omaha to New York, he entered the Art Institute to study under the famed Carl Beuhr. He graduated from there with top honours and for 15 years was a tenor soloist with the Bohemian opera in Chicago. One of the greatest violin teachers of our time once said of Schwartz: "The world needs intelligent singers like you."

Despite this compliment Schwartz finally decided to give up the stage and devote his entire life to painting. In 1921 he began his creative abstracts which he calls "Symphonic form". Perhaps it is through his early connection with music that Schwartz has conceived this title. He explained this type of painting by saying symphony means harmony. I do for the eye what the composer does for the ear. Symphonic painting does not illustrate music but by it the painter does for painting harmony what the composer does for music harmony. Mr. Schwartz said that his symphonic forms do not have titles but are symphonic form I, II, etc., as a composer often classifies his symphonies. The harmony which the artist displays in these abstracts is in color and form of design.

One of Mr. Schwartz's paintings at his cottage in Smith's Cove which attracted the interviewer was that of the outdoor chapel at the Ovens. The artist has done many Nova Scotia paintings which he has sold in the United States. Some of these are heads of people and while in the Lunenburg area had done portraits of fishermen. Said Mr. Schwartz "I make my models talk to me while I am painting them." The cottage at Smith's Cove reveals to the visitors the varied talents of the artist in portraits, scenery and abstracts. (A picture containing one of his abstract paintings will appear in The Digby Courier next week.) Proudly admiring her husband's paintings Mrs. Schwartz commented to the interviewer. "He can make a picture out of the simplest object". Mrs. Schwartz, who does the car driving, said she can stop on a "dime" when Mr. Schwartz sees a humble object along the road which to him is a thing of beauty and which he invariably creates as a thing of beauty in his paintings.

The gifted artist, who sang in seven languages, some of which he had to learn because of his singing career, has exhibits in 77 permanent public collections. These are in Chicago, Los Angeles, New York, Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, and other noted cities.

The charming wife of Mr. Schwartz was the former Mona Turner of Chicago, whose interest in her husband's work never wanes. Indeed, she is surrounded everyday, as she goes about her household duties, with his work of art, for in their apartment in Chicago there are paintings in the kitchen, hallways, bathroom and living room. But to the question whether Mrs. Schwartz herself paints, she immediately answered "Oh no." Mrs. Schwartz is in many of her husband's paintings though, and enjoys either posing for him or reading aloud to him while he paints. She also does the cooking and as Mr. Schwartz put it "She is everything to me."

According to Mr. Schwartz the work of art must move with the changing times. But, he does not believe that all which is needed to create a picture is a brush and some paint as is a common idea even among art teachers. He also believes that an artist must have ability to draw. He must have talent and work at the job.

While in New Brunswick in 1962, the famous artist visited the Lord Beaverbrook Art Gallery in Fredericton where he expressed great interest in the works and the fact that a place the size of Fredericton had such a wonderful thing as the Lord Beaverbrook art gallery.

Mr. Schwartz is not entirely favourable towards competitions for modern artists. He feels that it would be much better to take the prize money and spend it on a half dozen or so artists who deserve help. He feels that there is seldom justice in competitions.

Two Dwellings Levelled By Fire

When Mr. and Mrs. Loran Hayden went to their camp at Mill Lake, 6 miles back of Bear River, on Sunday afternoon, they were faced with nothing more than a pile of ashes. The last time the Haydens were at their camp was the previous Sunday. What happened between is to them a complete mystery.

While no fire was spotted by woodsmen in the area, they reported a heavy electrical storm on Tuesday night with one terrifically heavy crash. It is thought the camp might have been set on fire by the storm.

Furniture and camp were burned to the ground. Fortunately, the camp was not immediately surrounded by trees.

At Centreville the home of Arthur Titus, which was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nesbitt and family, was burned to the ground on Monday.

The fire, which is thought to have started by the chimney, was first seen by Eddie Titus around 4:30 in the afternoon. The Nesbitt family was away at the time.

An alarm was given right away and help was provided by William Walker, forest ranger, Lake Midway, who arrived with equipment. Neighbourhood men came to assist and through their efficient effort surrounding homes were saved from the flames. Water was pumped from a nearby brook.

The house was on the old post road, near Centreville Corner, Digby Neck, and was formerly owned by Elijah Raymond. The Nesbitts had occupied the house for only two weeks.

Fleet To Saskatoon

Peter Hope, Brightwood; Don Fleet, Digby; Perry Locke, Brightwood, and Jack Bryant, of Ashburn, will make up the team to represent Nova Scotia in Willingdon Cup play at Saskatoon on August 13. Three of the positions were decided in weekend 72-hole qualifying play in Truro. The team will be captained by Hope.

Youngest member of the team is 17-year-old Bryant, who earlier this year won the Nova Scotia junior championship. Alternate player is Larry O'Hearn, of Brightwood. Personnel of the team was announced following a meeting of the executive presided over by Ron Morehouse, Kentville, president of the Nova Scotia Golf Association.

Don Fleet did not take part in the play as he had already qualified for the team by winning the Nova Scotia amateur championship.

Bear River Parade Praised

Thought, imagination and effort by citizens of Bear River and nearby neighbors culminated on Saturday morning to make one of the best parades ever staged by the Bear River Cherry Carnival and one of the best in the vicinity for several years. Thousands of spectators from Digby and Annapolis counties and from many parts of Nova Scotia were on hand to see the parade and give it praise.

Above is seen one of the ingenious floats recalling sailing activity in Bear River from the by-gone years. The float, which took first prize, was entered by Bear River Home Furnishings. Second prize went to Hill & Dale Garden Club and the third to the Philathea Class.

Other prizes won in the parade were:

Decorated Car: 1st, Sonny Wagner; 2nd, Doris Porter; 3rd, Eddie Peck.

Decorated Wood Scene: 1st, Betty Pietou; 2nd, Rover Scouts; 3rd, Boy Scouts.

Horse & Buggy: Percy Ruggles.

Horse Back Rider: Wilbur Trimmer, Jr.

The children's parade in the afternoon again was acclaimed the best for many years and ranked in quality to that of the senior parade in the morning. Prizes were distributed to:

Doll Carriage: 1st, Marilyn Read; 2nd, Lexie Beck; 3rd, Karen Alcorn.

Decorated Cart: 1st, Mitchell Isles; 2nd, Gregory Henshaw; 3rd, Melody Peck.

Decorated Bicycle: Mark Rice.

Decorated Tricycle: 1st, Linda Trimmer; 2nd, Beth Woodworth; 3rd, Christine Trimmer.

Other features of the day included land and water sports, midway amusements, The Tartan Four show and a dance. The dinner and supper were well patronized, helping to make the day a financial success.

The committee showed appreciation to those who made donations or worked toward the carnival's success.

Little League Ball Standings

Team	GP.	W.	L.
Legion	5	3	2
Kiwanis	4	2	2
Lions	4	2	2
Merchants	3	1	2

There were two games played since the past week. The game between the Merchants and the Lions, played on Thursday, July 23rd, 1964, has been rescheduled for next week. It seems that the team coach nor the manager of the Lions were notified about the game being played on Thursday and were not present at the game. The game is to be replayed at a later date by order of the Little League executive. The other two affairs ended in scores of 7-3 for the Kiwanis over the Legion and 12-5 for the Legion over the Lions.

The game between the Kiwanis and Legion, played on July 22, produced outstanding ball and the performance of several players on the Kiwanis team was just short of spectacular. This game produced three triples — one by Max Woolaver and Robert McVeigh, for the Kiwanis, and Kurt Maas for the Legion.

The teams will receive their caps and sweaters this coming week. As the season is quickly coming to a close and the schedule will be completed on August 5th, let's hope that the parents of the boys in the Little League, and others, will make the play-offs a real success.

Digby Man In Gun Meet

Harold Campbell, of Truro, captured the grand aggregate trophy with a total score of 1644 as the Western Nova Scotia handgun championships were held during the weekend at the Highland Gun Club range, Yarmouth, with entries from several provincial clubs competing.

The match committee was composed of Skip Goudy, Vic MacGuire and Bob Pyne, of Digby, who came first in the sharpshooters of the 22 competition with 761.

The high grand aggregate for members of the Highland Gun Club in the competition was won by Skip Goudy with his total score of 1441.

Mrs. Ellis Entertains

Mrs. Boyd Ellis, Shore Road, Digby, entertained members of Grace United Church Women at her home on Tuesday evening.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. C. C. McInnis, who also gave the devotional. Mrs. Ronald Denton read the scripture and Mrs. Frank Hayden presided at the piano.

A report on the recent pantry sale showed approximately $40.00 earned in this respect. Mrs. Gladys Budrow, convener of the social committee, reported that her committee had charge of refreshments at the dedication of the church hall.

Expressions of appreciation were extended to those who so beautifully arranged the flowers for the church service.

Regret was expressed that Mrs. H. C. Morton would be leaving Digby to reside in New Glasgow. Best wishes were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Morton in their new home.

Special Meeting Digby Board Of Trade

A special meeting of the Digby Board of Trade has been called by president Charles Halliburton for next Tuesday to deal particularly with transportation concerns. It is expected that a transportation committee chairman will be found and a transportation committee set up.

One of the objects of the committee will be to make an effort to obtain funds for dredging the Annapolis Basin so more vessels will be able to make use of better facilities in the area. It is hoped, too, that through the committee funds might be allotted for a fisherman's wharf, as it is understood that no government funds have yet been made available for this purpose.

It was also suggested that a transportation depot might be set up in Digby where fish dealers, farmers and others might have refrigeration facilities and better shipping facilities. It is understood that a survey will be made to see if sufficient numbers are interested and if there will be sufficient goods to warrant a depot.

Bluenose Model Fad

One of the latest fads in handcraft is building replicas of the famous schooner Bluenose. Lawrence Outhouse, of Tiverton, has joined the ranks and was one of seven who recently launched a 40-inch made-to-scale model of the famous craft. Launching was held in an inlet of Chedabucto Bay.

The models lack foretop and staysails to provide easier handling. They are planked with 1/8 in. pine, the moulds are made of spruce and the masts and booms are birch. Each boat has a 5 lb. lead keel and other metal work is in copper. The sails are a mixture of terylene and cotton.

Staff & Guests Present Concert

The Casino at Harbour View House and Cottages Ltd. was vibrant with music and fun on Tuesday evening when The Harbour View Follies, an amateur concert, was presented by staff and guests for the benefit of the guests.

The concert M.C. was E. D. O'Dell, of New York, and Mrs. Walter Flett, wife of the summer resort manager, directed the sing-song.

Special vocal selections were rendered by Miss Carolyn Arnold, Digby; Miss Jody MacLeod and Miss Marta Lewis. Piano selections were given by Miss Arnold, Miss MacLeod, Miss Joanne Clarke and Jim Rowell, while David Coggins entertained with the guitar.

Miss Linda Best, Berwick, demonstrated her ready wit by a skit and Miss Margaret Stoutenwhite portrayed through poetry the scenes from the Harbour View Butler's Pantry.

Both humor and fact readily combined as Mrs. William Schwartz, wife of a famous artist from Chicago, told the audience how to live in the abstract with an artist and like it; when Dr. Raymond Prince, psychiatrist, made known his experiences while living with the people of Nigeria, and Mrs. Prince expounded on how children can become honor winners.

Truck Over Bank At East Ferry

Claude Westcott, Gulliver's Cove, is in Digby General Hospital with a broken nose and other injuries which he received when the truck he was driving went over the embankment into a ravine at East Ferry.

According to reports, some mechanical difficulty was encountered with the B.A. truck, laden with 1,600 gallons of oil, as it rounded the corner near the home of Franklin Theriault. About half way down the hill the truck went into the ravine on the north side of the road.

The truck is said to be completely damaged.

Marriage

Ford — Adams

Smith's Cove United Baptist Church was the setting of a pretty summer wedding on June 12th when Anna Nora, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Adams, became the bride of Howard Rodney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ford, Kempf, Queens County.

Rev. G. D. Brydon officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Eric Adams, aunt of the bride, rendered the nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown of peau de soie with fitted bodice and sweetheart neckline. The sleeves tapered to the wrist and a full skirt flowed from the waistline and ended in a short train. Her elbow length veil of French illusion was held in place by a tiara of aurora borealis beads. Her only jewelry was a sterling silver locket and ear ring set, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

The bride was attended by Miss Linda Brinton and Miss Gail Adams, sister of the bride. Miss Brinton wore a yellow dress of taffeta with full panel skirt and tight bodice. Her pillbox hat with veil matched the dress in color and material. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with a red rose. Miss Adams was attired in turquoise taffeta identical to that of Miss Brinton. Her bouquet was of white carnations centered with a red rose.

John Ford, brother of the groom was best man. The ushers were Wayne Adams, brother of the bride; Murray Rawding of Middleton, brother-in-law of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a pink linen sheath dress with embroidered jacket and white accessories. The groom's mother wore a green brocade sheath dress with pink accessories.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church vestry for two hundred guests. In charge of the guest book was Mrs. Ronald Telfer, Halifax, sister of the groom. Guests were present from Halifax, Middleton, Annapolis, Bear River, Digby, Little River, Caledonia and Kempf.

For travelling the bride wore a two piece wool suit of beige and white check with beige accessories.

Following their honeymoon to Cape Breton, the young couple will reside in Kempf. The bride is a graduate of St. Patrick's Business College, Digby, and was employed in Halifax.

A Tribute to our Village Blacksmith

Tubal Cain of legend fame Made for himself, a mighty name

A strong right arm that struck the blows,
Hath iron tools, so the story goes.

A blacksmith we do call him now
He can make tools or even ploughs
He has an anvil on which to place
The red hot iron from the furnace

Which glows, when the bellows throw a blast.
To fan the flame where the coals are cast
The shoes that are upon the wall
Are for the oxen in the shoeing stall

The handles that stand in the corner there
Fit axe and hoes that need repair
Saws, wrenches, anchors, hammers too
After repair are just like new
So all day long the blacksmith stands
Happily employing his busy hands.

About This and That

On A Letter To The Editor

Do you think a new school should be built in your area? Do you think a school in your area should be renovated, enlarged, or improved in any way. Write a letter to the editor about it if you wish. State why you think this should be done. Maybe you feel children shouldn't have to travel so many miles on the school bus. You are entitled to your opinion. If you express your opinion you might happen to find that many others agree with you. They, too, might write letters also and use their influences for your cause. Public opinion might sway the issue in the way you want it to go.

If, however, you have a personal grievance against someone over a school or any other issue, a letter to the editor is not the place to settle such a grievance. Editors will go along with what they think might serve a good purpose but they are not inclined to give space for personal feuds or insinuations against personalities. A letter to the Editor column is not a place where you "get even" with the other guy or put the other guy on the carpet so to speak. Letters to the editor are not to serve a selfish purpose but for the benefit of many. Editors are always glad to give space to opinions of others so long as they are not libelous in nature, if they are well written so that the readers can understand and if they have a worthy purpose.

And so we are sorry that one of our letter writers was disappointed in not seeing his letter in print and thinks that we have taken on an "I don't care" attitude or an "I don't believe it" attitude. He tells us that the matter of ignoring the issue of "our school" puts us to being a party to riots in Harlem, topless bathing suits, etc. We answer that we had no desire to ignore the school issue and so far as believing is concerned we had not been given time for an investigation. We feel the letter writer meant well but expressed his views poorly, even close to if not libelously.

We sympathize with our letter writer when he is concerned that all we have to do is to look around us, follow the news and we see our days of contentment are numbered as the fingers on our hand. We are concerned enough, too, to respect his admonition —

"If the individual conscience remains responsible for its own moral judgements, if the individual feels himself involved in the behavior of mankind, there can be no totalitarian system. It is only when the individual refuses to become involved in moral judgements, only when he surrenders wholly to the judgement of the directors, that the ground work is being laid for dictatorial supervision.

When dictatorship ships over we no longer have individual conscience, our minds become (massed) we become brainwashed for the Communist doctrine. Then we dare not refuse personal responsibility for immoral actions."

Those Hitch Hikers

Maybe it is about time that somebody had something to say again about hitch hikers. During the past week we've seen them from all ages, eight or ten years up. There are some you can pass with an air of arrogance as you say to yourself that they should know better than to be hitch hiking, after all it isn't a right nor good practice.

Then there are others whom you feel sorry for and you almost decide to stop and pick them up. Again your better judgement persuades you to be a little hard hearted and you again go on your way not feeling too badly about it.

Still others are nearer home, probably, and as you go by you almost feel like hiding under the dash board. Could that be the same lad whom yesterday you heard say as you rode by him in town "that's the newspaper woman"? It was then you were proud to be recognized. How does that same lad feel today when he sees you ignore his hitch hiking thumb? Yet hitch hiking is something we ought to discourage and so we pass him too.

One reason why it is dangerous to pick up strangers is that you could be involved in a car accident and be responsible for injuries to the passenger. Another is that, sad to say, not all hitch hikers can be trusted and you might just happen to pick up the one who has a deadly weapon ready for a benefactor. Even though there are some very fine people who hitch their way along the highways yet it is difficult to separate the wheat from the chaff where hitch hikers are concerned. It is better to play safe and be considered a heel. The same, too, can apply to drivers. The position behind the wheel does not make the driver a saint either. As for parents, we'd advise them to discourage children hitch hiking any time or any where. It is a dangerous practice whichever way you look at it.

Tax On Tax — Something For Municipalities Conference

An advertisement last week urged all taxpayers in Digby town to have their taxes paid before August 1 and thus avoid six percent interest charges. We urge you, too, if you have the money, to pay up now and benefit the town and yourself at the same time.

But while we are thinking of the town taxes, did it ever occur to you that in paying municipal taxes we again come across one of those paying tax on tax deals. The fact that we have to pay hospital tax on the sales tax we pay has always been a source of discontent to us. We are well aware that we must pay in the form of taxes for every thing we request from our provincial and federal governments, but this paying tax on tax has always had us worried. And really, if you analyze the situation we have a double tax with municipal taxes. The money we use to pay municipal taxes is money on which we pay income tax. Doesn't sound fair, does it?

Maybe the conference of the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities, which is to meet soon, can take up the matter and suggest that municipal taxes be deductible from the

I don't hate floors. Floors hate me.

During my married life I have lived in five different homes for periods ranging from two months to three years. In all but one of these places I have fought vigorously, valiantly and steadily with the floors. The floors have won every time. I shall not go into the gory details of the other houses, but in this house I have a kitchen floor of tile — cardboard tile. Water and wax soak into it and disappear, unless, of course, the water happens to be the muddy kind, brought in on someone's boots. That remains in large brown circles, forever, and forever.

A few months ago I indulged in that luxury, a cleaning lady, mostly in the hope that she could cope with the kitchen floor better than I could. She is a marvel on feet, who, in one-half day, manages to do what I would consider a reasonable week's work for myself, and then goes off to do the same thing in somebody else's house in the afternoon. But cope with the kitchen floor, she cannot. It looks as bad the day after she has done it as it does the day after I do it. The only comfort in this is the knowledge that at least the fault does not lie in my washing and waxing abilities.

The other floors in this house are an unusually anaemic type of hardwood, pale, sad, and unhealthy: pitted, scratched, and worn in paths through all the traffic areas. In spite of ads on T.V., I like my floors to have a healthy yellow glow, but several barrels of the villainous "yellow wax" have failed to produce perceptible results. In this case, my marvelous cleaning lady has a handy little trick, however. She rubs brown shoe polish on the floor before she puts on the wax coat. The results are quite impressive.

Some kind soul in this family made an attempt to help me in another way by wrapping a rubber band around a pair of lobster shears which had lost their leather thong. The idea was sensible, and I appreciate it, but my benefactor put the lobster shears in the drawer with my sterling silver, where I was horrified to discover them. Fortunately, they had done no damage.

Rubber is very dangerous to silver. It makes black marks on it, which cannot be polished out, even when the silver and the rubber have been separated by layers of plastic or cloth. Rubber should never be allowed in the same drawer with silver. Another of silver's worst enemies is salt. When I was first married I did not realize this, and, because I did not empty and wash my silver salt shakers after every using, they have become pitted and corroded beyond polishing. All silver which has come into contact with salt should be washed, even if it is not soiled. Within the last few weeks I have seen in both a very old book, and a very new book, the hint that salt rubbed on silver will take out egg stains. I have not dared to try it. If it is true, I suppose you have to wash the silver right away anyway, so what is the advantage of a practise of dubious safety, when good, safe polishes are so readily available?

We all know that sterling silver should be used every day, but the old habit of saving our good things for company is pretty hard to overcome. Daily use produces a mellow lustre, and constant handling keeps the need to polish to a minimum. If you have more than enough for your family, it is a good idea to rotate the settings, so that all the pieces will be able to mellow at the same rate. Pieces such as candle holders or serving pieces which cannot be used often should be wrapped in tarnish proof cloth or clear plastic, and checked once a month for tarnish. Since we have dinner parties about once a month, I generally polish all the silver I plan to use on the day of the party. This saves having a special silver polishing day, assures that the job will not be forgotten, and, because I do not use the same pieces every time, provides a good system of rotation.

On the days when I can forget about my battle with the kitchen floor, and can think of some of the pleasant things about housekeeping, I think about drawers of polished silver, lines of freshly washed clothes on sunny, windy days, piles of clean, ironed linens, and tables set and anticipating a feast.

What are the nicest things about your housewifely days?

Who Wants Two Cadillacs Anyway?

The truth of the matter is, we can't even afford one cadillac. But who wants two cadillacs anyway? According to The Financial Post something much cheaper — the $2,500 bathroom — is a status symbol now.

Canada's would-be elite have a new status symbol — the bathroom, according to Paul Gibson in The Financial Post. The pride in glamorizing the once-forgotten and strictly utilitarian room is reflected in domestic shipments of major plumbing fixtures rising from $2 million in 1956 to $31 million in 1963. The Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating estimates sales and services at consumer level for the industry now exceed $500 million a year. Altogether 733,000 houses are still without installed bathrooms or showers, new houses selling upwards of $25,000 often have three bathrooms, those between $17,500 and $25,000 two main bathrooms and a powder room, while many cheaper ones have a full bathroom and an auxiliary washroom incorporating a shower. As bathrooms increase numerically so do the gloss and trimmings being put into them. Sunken baths, gold-plated faucets, daisy-covered toilet seats, matching his-and-her wash basins are gaining in popularity.

Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary

One of Middleton's highly esteemed couples, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Deming, formerly of Digby, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Deming (the former Lida Boomer) were married in Amherst. Mrs. Deming is a native of West Amherst and is a former school teacher. For the five years preceding their marriage she taught in Spokane, Washington, and previous to that she was school teacher in different sections of Nova Scotia.

Their family includes (Courtney), wife of Lt. Col. Ronald Hodgson, of Ottawa; Donald Deming, Yarmouth, who married the former Laura Morehouse, Digby; and (Charlotte) Mrs. Leonard Earle, Houston.

Their grandchildren are Peter Hodgson, Steven Deming and David, Douglas and Christine Earle. All arrived for the celebration.

With a career of over 40 years in the lumbering and logging business, it is quite natural that Mr. Deming's chief hobby is woodworking. From his well-equipped workshop come many articles which adequately demonstrate his skill with carpentry tools.

In the summer months Mr. Deming fills in any spare time from his shop by growing a very fine vegetable garden.

Mr. and Mrs. Deming have entered into many community activities wherever they have resided and have been especially active as members of the United Baptist Church. (Goldston photo)

Report From Parliament Hill

By George C. Nowlan

July 25, 1964.

The Bill authorizing loans to students finally was passed by the House of Commons at a most midnight Thursday night, an hour and a half after the House would normally rise. This culminated four days of debate. One might wonder why a Bill which was generally welcomed by all Parties in the House of Commons should take so long in debate. There are several reasons for it. In the first place, the Bill was very poorly drafted, and several amendments had to be made, but the primary reason was the fact that the Provinces have exclusive control over education, and Quebec is very, very jealous of this control. Originally, Premier Lesage stated that the Province of Quebec would oppose the Students' Loan Bill if the Government introduced it, and would refer the matter to the Supreme Court of Canada for a decision as to its constitutionality. By a very ingenious device, the Liberal Government at Ottawa finally obtained Mr. Lesage's acquiescence to this legislation. Included in the Bill was a section saying that the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province would be responsible for the designation of the students who would receive the loan, and the amounts of the loans which they would receive. As a matter of fact, the Bill directed the Lieutenant-Governor to carry out these responsibilities. This maintained the guise, the trick, if you like, of saying that the Province was exercising control over education, because of course the Lieutenant-Governor is the Head of the Government in each of the Provinces of Canada. But conversely, the Parliament of Canada has no more authority to direct the Lieutenant-Governor to do something of this kind than it has to direct the President of the United States to do something. That it was unconstitutional, everyone knew, and most Members were prepared to accept it in order to get the Bill through. However, the Creditists and the French Members from Quebec supporting the Conservative Party, refused to buy this palatable trick, and they violently opposed the Bill. When it was finally voted upon, those Members voted against it. Everyone else voted for it. Of course, there were some notable exceptions. Many of the Liberal Members of the House found it convenient to be outside, and for some strange reason, most of the French-Canadian Cabinet Ministers from Quebec were also absent for the vote. There was one notable exception, the Hon. Maurice Lamontagne, I have noted on several occasions when matters were before the House of Commons, which impinged upon some of the prejudices or opinions of Quebec. Mr. Lamontagne has always remained in his seat, and has voted for the particular measure. For this he deserves full credit, because quite a few of his Cabinet Colleagues from that Province have always found it convenient to be absent when those votes are counted.

Of course this whole procedure raises a matter on which I have fairly strong opinions. Education today is one of the great problems confronting this Nation. As I said in the House of Commons a few days ago, the demands for higher education, or for secondary education as far as that is concerned, are going to increase tremendously during the next few years. It will be absolutely impossible for the Provincial Government themselves to finance the demands which will be made for education, both secondary and at the university level. If we are going to train our young men and women, as we should, then there will have to be support given to education from private sources, from Municipal and Provincial Governments, and also from the Federal Government. To this, the Province of Quebec turns a blind eye, and refuses to accept the fact that a Federal contribution to education, necessary as it may be, is not an interference with education within the Province. Personally I cannot follow their reasoning. If the Federal Government attached any strings to the grants, that would be one thing. But when the Government makes money available to the Province for educational purposes, with only the one condition, namely that the money shall be spent for education, then I do not see how that is an impingement upon the rights of the Province in that field. But we have had this problem before us in connection with grants to universities, which the Province of Quebec refused to accept; in connection with family allowances to children attending school, which the Province of Quebec has refused to accept; and now we have to go through this legal chicanery in order to permit a student in Quebec to borrow money from a bank to attend a university, not necessarily in Quebec, because it might be in Oxford, England, or in Harvard at Cambridge.

As I said earlier, if the Federal Government attempted to attach any strings whatsoever to the grants, if it was conditional on their taking certain courses, or attaining certain grades or attending certain schools, then there might be some merit in this constant objection raised by the Province of Quebec to Federal grants for education. But when the money is granted without any conditions whatsoever, except it shall be spent for educational purposes, I think this is a fallacious argument, and one which is prejudicial to the educational development of this nation.

Of course there are compromises which are worked out to try to accommodate the people of Quebec. We do not pay university grants directly to the universities in Quebec as we do in other Provinces. The Province of Quebec advances this money itself, but the Federal Government abates Income Tax derived from that Province, to a compensating amount.

Roughly the same procedure will be followed with respect to Family Allowances to children 17 and 18 remaining in school. The Province of Quebec will pay the allowance, but the Federal Government makes the money available to the Province.

In the case we have been dealing with this week, we passed an unconstitutional statute so that the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province presumably can exercise some control which actually he cannot receive from the legislation at all. Every other Province in Canada welcomes Federation, both secondary and at the university level. If we are going to train our young men and women, as we should, then there will have to be support given to education from private sources, from Municipal and Provincial Governments, and also from the Federal Government. Mother-in-law Had Her Place

If you're a mother-in-law and you're yearning for the "good old days", you'd better think again, says Harry Porter, president of the Halifax Antique Car Club.

Porter, an avid collector and restorer of antique cars, recently drove his latest find through Halifax streets — an immaculately preserved 1901 Maxwell, bright-red and replete with polished brass fittings.

The 60-year-old car has only 5,000 miles on it, and is equipped with a clutchless transmission, right hand steering wheel, push-button horn — and a "mother-in-law" seat. The "mother-in-law" seat is a single, high leather-cushioned seat behind the cab. When young people went a-courting in '03, the idea was to pull down a blind behind the front seat, cutting off the view from the back entirely.

Unfortunately, it also cut off any protection from the elements — dust, rain, snow and stones tossed by jeering boys.

The first county health clinic was established in Windsor, N. S. in 1920. By the end of that year 10 clinics were in operation in the province.

eral assistance for education, and I believe we are blazing a trail which will ultimately result in Quebec also welcoming assistance for educational purposes.

The temperatures are running from 85 to 90 degrees each day, with the humidity between 90 and 100. Next week we start on interim supply which the Government will need early in August. After that presumably we will resume the flag debate. The House of Commons has been relatively cool, rational and efficient during the last two weeks. I expect tempers are going to be badly frayed before August has run its course.

Sally Brayley In New York Ballet Company

It takes a lot of time and talent to bridge the gap between the Queen Elizabeth Auditorium stage in Halifax and the New York Metropolitan Opera Ballet Company. Sally Brayley, of Halifax, has done just that. The attractive ballerina has attained the status of soloist with the New York company.

This summer she will return to Nova Scotia to perform at the Nova Scotia Festival of the Arts, to be held in Tatamagouche, August 1-2, 89.

Only 26, she has studied ballet for 19 years to attain the high standard of performance for which she is known. Her study began in Ottawa at the age of six, and from there she moved with her family to Halifax where she continued her studies under Madame Gotshalks and Hilda Stronberg at the Maritime Conservatory of Music.

Sally Brayley has combined careers as actress, model and dancer in her many appearances on stage, television and in night club work.

Her television appearances in Canada have been from Montreal, Toronto, on L'Heure du Concert, Gene Nelson Show, Jackie Ray Show, General Electric Showtime, CEC Folio (for eight years) and the Wayne and Shuster Hour in leading dance roles in all these programs.

In opera in Canada she has danced in the Marriage of Figaro and Orpheus and Eurydice at O'Keefe Centre. A distinguished career with the National Ballet Company of Canada for seven years led to her engagement with the New York Metropolitan Opera Ballet Company.

She has modelled and danced for the General Motors and Chrysler Industrial Exhibition at the Canada Photo and Show Room.

During the summer months she took an active part in summer stock productions in Ontario and on tour in the New England States with American companies. For the first time, she was lead dancer in the Chez Paree Night Club in Montreal.

Included in her Festival program will be the Lilac Fairy from the Sleeping Beauty and the Funeral Dance from Brigadoon.

Sally is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brayley, Halifax. Jack is heard every Sunday morning quoting from weekly newspapers of the Atlantic provinces on the Neighbourly News broadcast.

Approximately 69 per cent of the school-age children and 36 per cent of the pre-school-age children of Nova Scotia received Sabin oral polio vaccine during the last campaign sponsored by the Provincial Health Department.

The Nova Scotia Department of Public Health became a separate unit of government in 1931.

Acadian Festival In August

The tenth annual Acadian Festival will take place from August 7th to the 15th this year. First started in 1956 when it was suggested by the Department of Trade & Industry, tourist department, to organize something different and typically Acadian in scope, the Festival has continued throughout the years in putting the French Acadian area, the Municipality of Digby, in Digby County, on the map and bringing in many thousands of persons to this area.

The Festival is a joyful celebration of the return of the Acadian people to the province of Nova Scotia where they have made their home in peaceful co-existence with their English speaking neighbors. Great changes have been made since 1768 when Joseph Dugas first set foot on the shores of St. Mary's Bay in the vicinity of Belliveau's Cove following a long trek through the timberlands from Annapolis Royal afoot, leading a horse upon which sat his wife and one child, carrying all the family belongings.

The Acadians of Clare now number approximately 8,000 and the Municipality of Clare extends from Weymouth to Beaver River, a distance of over 40 miles. The peaceful homes of the Acadians form numerous villages between these two points. So close are the villages that one cannot tell where one village starts or terminates and the main highway is commonly called the longest main street in North America. Most villages extend a distance of two miles or more and the villages on the main highway are: St. Bernard, near Weymouth, Grosses Coques (large clams), Church Point, Little Brook, Comeauville, Saulnierville, Lower Saulnierville, Meteghan River, Meteghan Centre, Meteghan, St. Alphonse and Salmon River. Beautiful churches may be found at St. Bernard, Church Point, Saulnierville, St. Alphonse and Salmon River. Meteghan has no official church following a disastrous fire several years ago when its church was destroyed and services are being held in the parish hall, which has been transformed for religious services.

Perhaps the most visited churches in Clare are the St. Bernard granite church and St. Mary's R.C. church at Church Point with its 200 foot steeple and is called the largest wooden building in Canada.

This year's festival is expected to be officially declared opened by Dr. H. J. Pothier, MLA for Clare, at the Acadian Ball, to be held on August 7th at the Clare District High School, starting at 8:30 p.m. with Fred Armstrong, federal member for Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clare crowning the Evangeline and Gabriel of the Festival, who will be selected from a group of over forty couples representing various clubs, associations and businesses of Clare.

Saturday will see the annual chicken barbecue being held at Major's Point at Belliveau's Cove, an historical site near the first cemetery in Clare. Sunday is reserved for the parade of floats and decorated cars and bazaar.

Tuesday will feature a flower show sponsored by La Jardiniere Garden Club, of Meteghan. Monday and Wednesday are open days.

Hon. Gerald Doucet, provincial secretary, will be guest speaker at the annual Festival banquet, held at St. Ann's College on Thursday.

On Friday there is a special program of demonstration in handicrafts at La Vieille Maison, the Robicheau museum at Meteghan.

Where Does That Road Go?

(By F. I. W.)

We spoke last week or wrote last of the scene as leaving Digby Gut. We moved out into the cooler waters of Fundy and here we would like to tell of two little incidents while crossing on other occasions.

We think we are correct in saying that a porpoise is a fish-like mammal seen on occasion as it alone or with others of the species disports itself and frequenting this and other waters. Some travellers, however, have not noted these from the ship's deck as they pass by the swimming mammals.

Some years ago it was the custom, and still is, for Saint John school children to build up a fund towards the close of the school year to make a party, under charge of teachers and instructors, to cross on the Digby boat. They drive up, perhaps, as far as Annapolis, and after a few hours visit return home. It so happens that your wayfarer was alone on one side of the boat and suddenly saw a number of porpoise not too far off.

We said he was alone, but presently a lone youngster joined him and looked disconsolately at the water and seemingly noticing nothing. Thinking he might like to see and make note our wayfarer said "Do you see the porpoise out there?", pointing. "What?", said the youngster, "What?", with poor grammar, but yet interested expression. "What did you say?" and as I pointed to them he said again "Oh, gee, oh gee, hey fellows, come and see, come and see the corpses, come and see the corpses." As his fellow students came running I moved over to the other side of the boat, partly to counterbalance the shifted weight and partly to avoid the disappointed questioning or an attack from the youngsters should they in frustration turn upon me.

The other instance remains a lesson on what a person, however seemingly handicapped, may be able to do to help his fellow men.

We had noticed on board that day a number of men folk, some quite feeble, who turned out to be war veterans from the DVA Hospital at Lancaster. They had been taken for an outing and were in charge of a fine young nurse who I later found to be one whom as a child had lived near to my home. From her I learned something of those under her charge. There were many other men and women on board, some of them women folk with little children. The youngsters for a while ran happily about the boat, but soon became tired and restless.

Many of the veterans were able to walk about a bit and view the scenery from the upper deck. But there was one poor fellow (no, I shouldn't say that). There was one gallant fellow confined to a wheel chair. He couldn't get up to the passenger deck at all but had to remain in the relatively small space outside the purser's office (this was on the Princess Helene). So there he sat and chatted with those who would stop when passing by. After a bit the children wandered down to that portion of the boat and, as children sometimes do, just stopped and looked at this man seemingly rendered immobile in a wheel chair.

What he did has always been to me a lesson. He invited the little ones to mount up on the step of the wheel chair and accompanied with squeals of delight there soon was a stream of young passengers waiting for a ride, joking and laughing, as he propelled them to and fro across that confined space and occasionally up and down the long corridors. I never did learn that veteran's name but recall with a real bit of admiration and appreciation how, unable to ascend the stairway or see beyond the enclosing walls of that ship, he shared in a wonderful way in making children happy and in making several mothers happy as being relieved a bit from the care of tired children they could relax.

Well, that's where that road through Digby leads on down to the wharf — on to the Princess of Acadia and at last — why, here as we have been telling this story the boat has pulled well out from the mouth of the Gut and the cliffs of Nova Scotia are receding fast. Before us looms ever clearer the shores of New Brunswick and the islands and mouth of the river. That's where that road goes.

Seeking Information On Pulpwood Prices

Arrangements are being made by the Royal Commission on Pulpwood Prices and Marketing Practices to hold sittings at central points in the Province to enable pulpwood producers and others interested to present their views to the Commission. It is expected that these meetings will be held next month.

Such is the information which has been provided by R. J. MacSweeney, who is acting as a one-man Commission to enquire into matters relating to the marketing of pulpwood in Nova Scotia.

"The Commission", said Mr. and Mrs. Ed Riley and Bruce and Mrs. Gerd Riley of Clements.

MacSweeney is now studying written submissions filed by pulpwood buyers, and producer organizations, together with data received from other sources. It is felt, however, that since the market for pulpwood is a matter of vital importance to a large proportion of the rural population of the Province, an opportunity should be given those concerned to discuss their problems with the Commission in person. Details of time and location at which these hearings will be held will be announced later.

Mr. MacSweeney was unable to say when the work of the Commission would be completed, but he expressed himself as being satisfied with the progress made thus far. He was highly appreciative of the co-operation which the Commission is receiving from companies and producer organizations, as well as from Government Departments, both provincial and federal.

Engagement Announced

Mrs. Harris, At 92, Writes To The Courier

Mrs. Ella Brooks Harris, of 135 West Main St., Hyannis, Mass., forwarded to The Digby Courier last week an account of a special sermon preached by Dr. Egbert Prime, as noted in another part of this issue. The article was taken from the Standard Times.

Mrs. Harris, now 92 years old, came from Freeport, N. S., the native village of Dr. Prime. Mrs. Harris writes that she has seen many changes in her life time and goes on to say that her grandpa Brooks was a ship-builder and employed a number of men from "down shore", as they called it then, now Argyll, Pubnico and Meteghan.

Mrs. Harris says that from the small village of Freeport there used to be so many sea captains and now we have many ministers. She has heard that there is a minister from Central Grove at Harwichport and her 92 years don't seem to be any handicap for she told the Courier "and I am going to meet him." One of his parishioners spoke in glowing terms of him to Mrs. Harris and also of his wife, who sings in the choir. Of Dr. Prime, Mrs. Harris said that people within the church and those without speak very highly of him. Of course, writes Mrs. Harris, when I came from Freeport he was a very young boy but I always enjoyed all of his people. "I told him one morning after hearing him preach", said Mrs. Harris, "that William Henry and Deacon Ethan would have been proud of him if they could have heard him."

Many Nova Scotians have settled on Cape Cod, Mrs. Harris wrote. There are a number in the church she attends and in the store where she trades are people from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Newfoundland.

"I am an elderly lady", said Mrs. Harris, "but Freeport is very dear to me or anyone from Nova Scotia so I wanted to send you the article about Dr. Prime." "And I always like to see the name 'Digby Courier'."

Editor's Note — We enjoyed so very much the letter from Mrs. Harris and thought our readers would like to hear its contents. We hope Mrs. Harris will write again.

Dr. Prime Talks On Alaska

From The Standard Times

Dr. E. C. Prime, interim pastor at the First Baptist Church in Hyannis, Mass., was guest speaker at the meeting of Martha's Vineyard Neighborhood Convention Tuesday at the Community Baptist Church here.

His subject was his visit, about two years ago, to the Baptist mission stations in Alaska, and he showed a number of colored slides of these stations, as well as of many other interesting and beautiful places not only in Alaska, but in Canada also.

Since it was only 97 years ago that this country purchased Alaska from Russia, it is only natural that there is considerable Russian influence still present there. He showed pictures of some Russian churches, and stated that there were many Russians still in Alaska. Russia, he said, only 150 miles away. He said that Alaska is reached almost exclusively either by water or by plane, and that there is one plane to every seven persons there.

The average age of Alaskans is 26 years, and 50 percent are below 18 years of age. Many of the people there are "escapists" — people who have committed some crime against society elsewhere and have come to Alaska for asylum, and people speak quite openly and unashamedly of this fact.

While wages are high, averaging $7,500 to $10,000 a year, so are living expenses high. Expenses are 42 percent higher than in comparatively nearby Seattle. A loaf of bread costs 50 cents, as does a quart of milk, and rentals are very high. There is a bounty on seals, because the seals kill so many salmon which is detrimental to the salmon canning industry. There are not too many flowers, but Dr. Prime showed slides of some extremely lovely ones. Dandelions, he said, grow as tall as 2 feet.

There is not much vegetation because trees die from the "cement" or silt which comes down from the mountains. Most of the people are called Aleuts, but they may be Eskimos, Russians, Japanese or Mexicans.

Dr. Prime mentioned the giant crabs, some weighing as much as 10 pounds, which not only provide delicious eating, but serve in another capacity as well. The women carefully remove all the meat from the big shells, clean them, shellac them, and wear them for hats.

Dr. Prime visited Baptist mission stations in Kodiak, Anchorage, Cordova and other locations and showed slides of churches, schools, Christian centers and hospitals supported by the Baptist denomination. Anchorage, he said, is the fastest growing city in Alaska. The population in 1920 was 856, in 1957 it was 67,000 and it is estimated that it will climb to 112,000 by 1980. A total of 100,000 tourists visit this city annually.

(Dr. Prime was formerly from Freeport.)

The banquet, which proved to be a very enjoyable affair, was attended by a large number of the staff of the Department of Agriculture and Marketing who, by their presence at the function, indicated the high regard in which Professor Cox was held by them.

Letter to the Editor

Bear River, N. S., July 27, 1964.

Digby Courier, Digby, N. S. Dear Editor,

The Cherry Carnival is just past and most visitors had a good feed of cherries. The biggest supply came from out of town but we feel more could be grown locally, if Bear Riverites began a tree growing program.

Most backyards have room for one or two. Someone has said it is better to plant a 50c tree in a $5.00 hole than vice versa. If that is the case the $5.00 hole should be started now and about 4' x 4'. Use this hole for a kitchen waste pit until next spring until that new cherry tree arrives. Into the hole goes scraps from the table plus a layer of manure and some sea weed and a layer of earth to keep the flies away. Continue this way until planting time, then cover with a foot of soil before setting in the new tree. The material below will have already drawn the earthworms, so necessary in keeping the soil aeriated for better absorption of rainfall.

Watson Peck.

On Duty In Cyprus

Above is Alton Orwell, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Outhouse, Centreville, Digby Co., N. S., who is with the U.N. peace force in Cyprus.

Alton, who is a wireless operator of the Royal Canadian Dragoons Sig. T. P., attended the D.R.H.S. In September 1960 he joined the Canadian Army and completed his education at the Royal Canadian School of Signals, Kingston, Ont., in '62. He was stationed at Gagetown, N. B., until March of this year when he, with many other Canadian boys, went to Cyprus, which is 6,000 miles distant by water from Halifax.

Mrs. Outhouse receives word each week from her son, who writes many interesting items such as the country is beautiful; the women do all the work in the fields with oxen and wooden plows, even though they have tractors and modern equipment. They drink goat's milk since cows are scarce. When first arriving in Cyprus, drove four miles from where they were stationed to get drinking water, which cost 35 cents per quart in Canadian money. It takes three days to receive a letter.

On July 8th it was made possible by radio station CFBC to broadcast a tape recording made by Alton on June 5th in the Kyrenia mountains, while enjoying a swimming pool (which the boys made possible to use. Mr. Frank Withers, of CFBC, interviewed the boys.

Latest report, Alton wrote they will be flown by air to Trenton, Ont., via train to Gagetown, when time is permitted for their return.

Homemaker's Corner

(By Janet Walker, Home Economics Representative, Department of Agriculture and Marketing)

"If the ACWW seems too large for you, then you are too small for ACWW." This statement, made by Mrs. Keith Rand during a talk on "The ACWW and You" made a lasting impression on me. How true it is, for as those of us who attended a recent FWIC Convention held in Wolfville were reminded the Associated Country Women of the World is a great and world-wide organization. By means of different speakers, the different aspects of ACWW were explained. This I found very interesting, enlightening and indeed inspiring. Mrs. Rand then gave an excellent talk which helped to clarify and unify what the others had said. The evening was brought to a close by a very effective pageant put on by the Kings West District W.I., under the very capable directorship of Mrs. Kenneth Illsley, portraying the role of ACWW in the United Nations. I certainly wished I had a camera with a colored film as the blue choir gowns and blue and gold streamers linking the various organizations within the U.N. made a colorful scene. I'm sure we all left University Hall that evening with a feeling of pride in being intimately connected to such an organization as the Associated Country Women of the World.

Here is a serious note addressed to you campers. The Consumers Union reminds you that sleeping bags should not be cleaned in a coin operated dry-cleaning machine. Not only may such treatment distort the structure of the comforter, but if the coin-op. drying cycle is inadequate, the bag may emerge with large residues of drycleaning solvent in the padding — thus pose a serious hazard.

Just to show you how serious this hazard can be here is what happened to one family. Last summer while getting ready for camping, they took the sleeping bag to a coin-operated drycleaners and after cleaning put it away in the trunk of the car. Thirty-six hours later, the bag was unrolled, put into a tent, and slept in by a sixteen year old boy.

The next morning he was found in a comatose state and flown to hospital where he died eleven days later of causes induced by inhalation of perchloroethylene fumes from the sleeping bag. Perchloroethylene is the solvent used in most dry cleaning. Other fatalities and near fatalities have been recorded due to inhalation of these fumes.

What can you do about this danger? First, make sure that if you do use one of these coin-operated machines in your travels that you check for possible solvent vapors. If articles are not free of solvent odor, they should be put through another drying cycle. Fluffy, bulky, absorbent items such as pillows, comforters, or bulky woolens especially, call for this precaution. So remember if you are making use of one of these aids to travellers, take a little extra time — better to be safe than sorry!

In driving around the country I noticed many roadside stands selling strawberries. The berries are excellent quality and in good supply for freezing now. Just think how welcome those juicy, red berries will be this winter if you freeze or preserve them now.

If you are picking or buying strawberries for freezing, use ripe, firm berries. The recommended varieties in Nova Scotia are Sparkle, Red Coat, Cavalier and Catskill. Wash and hull the berries. Place the berries in very cold water (two quarts berries to one gallon of water) and remove the caps under water. Drain and chill. You may prefer to pack the berries whole, but the flavor is usually better if sliced in two or three pieces. Use 1 lb. sugar (2 cups) to 45 lbs. berries (21.5 cups). Stir gently with a rubber spatula to draw juice or pack in 1 to 1 syrup.

Here's a nice recipe for Strawberry Freezer Jam:

STRAWBERRY FREEZER JAM (Uncooked Fruit)

(2 cups prepared fruit)
4 cups sugar
3/4 cup water
1 box powdered fruit pectin

Thoroughly crush strawberries. Measure 2 cups of fruit into a large bowl. Measure sugar into fruit. Stir and let stand. Measure water and powdered fruit pectin into a small saucepan. Bring to a boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Add to fruit mixture, stirring well. Continue stirring to dissolve sugar, about 3 minutes. (There will be a few remaining crystals.) Ladle quickly into glasses or freezer containers. Cover jam at once with lids. Let stand 24 hours, then store in freezer. If jam is to be used within 2 to 3 weeks, it may be stored in the refrigerator. Yields about 3 1/2 lbs. of jam.

If you don't have a freezer, perhaps you prefer to can your strawberries.

Wash and hull berries. Add 1 cup sugar to 1 quart of berries. Let stand until juice forms. Place in an enameled pot and simmer for 5 minutes. Pack into cans and seal, process in a boiling water bath for 5 minutes. Cool quickly in ice cold water. Label and store in a cool place.

Girl Cannot be Sure Which is "the One"

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I really have a problem. I've discussed it with my friends, but none of them seem able to help. If you could, I would be grateful. I am 19 years old and I was engaged to a guy but we broke the engagement because of an argument. He has been overseas since last May, a month after we broke up. I've heard from him and he wants to start over when he gets home, which will be very soon. But, after we broke up, I met another guy who is also in service. I guess the reason I care for him is because he is so good to me. He's also asked me to marry him, but in a year and a half, after he gets out of service. I care for both of them in different ways. Both have qualities that I like. "How do you choose between them? How do you know when you've met the right one? I liked the first guy the moment I met him. When I met the second one, I had no idea that I would ever date him. These are the only two I have ever been interested in. I've been with many others, but these two top them all. Please tell me how I can know which is real and how to choose between them."

OUR REPLY: We can tell you only what you already know—that you like both of them. No one can tell you which one you should "choose," or if either is "the one." This is your decision, one of the most important decisions you will ever make. We can only suggest that a happy marriage is based on love, respect and cooperation... and add that marriage is a partnership for life. Your heart and your good judgment should help you here.

Weekend Accidents

Though the car was demolished and the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Thomas suffered about a $100 damage, no one was seriously injured on Saturday night when the car driven by Carol Wilkins, Digby, failed to make the turn near the O. F. Woodman store at Joggin Bridge.

The accident happened about 7:30 in the evening. In the car with Mr. Wilkins were Karl Titus, Fred Haines and Lawrence Lewis. It is said that another car proceeding in the direction from Digby towards Annapolis Royal narrowly escaped being hit.

No one was at home at the Thomas house at the time of the accident but their grandson, Harold Ritchie, who lives nearby and Clyde Roop are said to have seen the accident. This is the fourth or fifth time the Thomas house was struck in a similar manner.

Another accident at Barton sent Mr. and Mrs. John Biggs, of Edmonton, Alberta, to the Digby General Hospital.

The accident, involving 3 cars, happened about 9 p.m. on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Biggs were passengers in a car driven by Roberta Dickson, of Greenwood. Huge Sign In N.Y. Highlights Nova Scotia

Trade and Industry Minister W. S. Kennedy Jones, of Nova Scotia, pulled the switch that illuminated the new centre-piece of the province's promotional activities in New York City.

One of the largest outdoor displays in the world, it is a sign 130 feet across; about half as long as an ordinary city block. Rising above the 27-foot high sign is a large Nova Scotia flag.

Located on the top of the Wurlitzer Building on 42nd Street, just off the Avenue of the Americas, the sign overlooks the famous intersection of 42nd Street and Fifth Avenue.

Nova Scotia is the first Canadian province to undertake such a spectacular means of illustrating its attractions.

"I am confident that this display will assist in bringing the many attractions of Nova Scotia, both as a vacation playground and as a place to do business, to millions of Americans," said Mr. Jones. "Nova Scotia already has many friends in New York and throughout the United States. I believe that this sign will help make us even better known."

The sign invites tourists to vacation in "Nova Scotia—Canada's Ocean Playground." It portrays Nova Scotia's assets in the form of fun, sun, and surf.

In the autumn the theme of the sign will be changed from one which features Nova Scotia as a vacation area to one which points out its many advantages for investment.

During the next two years Nova Scotia expects that more than 500,000 people daily will pass its new outdoor sign. Among them will be thousands of visitors to the New York World's Fair from all over the United States and throughout the world.

Pte. Lester Keddie, R.H.C., Camp Gagetown, is spending his leave at his home in Digby. Also visiting at the same home is Miss Linda Hatheway, Saint John, N. B.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Buckler and son, Grant, of New Germany, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Turnbull.

Sewage Subject Occupies Town Council

A stricter observance of the Sewer Act provisions will be urged on the people of Digby town. Following the report of the superintendent of streets, Frank Robinson, at Monday night's meeting of the Town Council, letters were authorized to go to all people of the town whose properties are not connected with sewers. The people will be reminded of the Sewer Act and requested to connect with the sewers instead of letting sewage overflow into the ditches. Some places near the school where children travel, on Church St., Mount St. and Warwick St. were cited as health hazards and a close check is to be made by the superintendent. It was passed that a sewer be constructed on Church St. to supply the new St. Patrick's School. An engineer has been in town to draw up a master plan for sewers, it was learned.

Parking also used considerable time for discussion at Monday's meeting. It was decided that six half hour meters would be installed in front of Pyne's Market, Shortliffe's Grocery and the Bank of Nova Scotia.

It was reported that revenue from parking meters had exceeded that of last year by $1,272.

His Worship Mayor C. D. Snow was requested to negotiate with the C.P.R. with the purpose of arranging parking facilities at the D.A.R. station yard.

By regular motion it was also decided that trucks should be notified that they can unload down town after five o'clock in the afternoon. Previously they were allowed to unload only before 10:30 a.m.

The mayor was asked to draw up a resolution to be forwarded to proper authorities respecting the concern of lack of docking space at the Digby wharves.

Relief granted for the month of July was $194, according to the report submitted by Bernard Bell.

Permission was granted to David Daley to remodel into a house a two car garage on the property of the late Guy Morehouse. C. D. Snow was given permission to build a fence on his property on west side of King St. and 3rd Ave.

Permission was granted to the Digby Fire Department to hold tag days August 21, 28 and Sept. 4 in connection with their Labor Day Fair program and also to hold the Fair on September 7.

Correspondence was read dealing with the possible formation of a regional planning committee for Shelburne, Yarmouth and Digby. Methods of assessment of costs was dealt with, regional projects which might be achieved, government participation in costs. One special project mentioned was the engaging of an engineer to have available for the three counties.

House Struck By Lightning

The unoccupied house belonging to Albany Gaudet, New Tusket, was burned to the ground with all its contents during a severe electrical storm last week.

The storm, which started at 7:15 p.m. on Wednesday evening, continued until 10:45 p.m. and was considered the worst storm that the place has experienced for many years.

At about 8:30 the residents in New Tusket saw a streak of lightning bolt downwards and in a few minutes smoke was seen to rise from the unoccupied dwelling.

Pie Party At Bay View

A summer tea and pie sale was held on Thursday afternoon on the lawn at the home of Mrs. Harold Emerson, at Bay View. Residents of the community, friends from Digby and out-of-town visitors were present for the gathering.

At last count a sum of $32 was realized, which will be used to aid the United Church, Bay View.

Breathes New Life In Clare Board Of Trade

The Clare Chamber of Commerce held its first general meeting under the new presidency of Bernard LeBlanc, of Bellevue's Cove, at the Court House in Little Brook. Subjects discussed were: improvement of telephone service in the Municipality of Clare; wharf improvement; tourist trade.

At a previous meeting the board had asked for improvement in the toll calls or long distance service. An improvement in this part of the service has been noted and the telephone company has announced that following a survey made by them, additional long distance circuits were established.

Complaints brought forward by some of the members of the Chamber of Commerce are principally the overloading of the party lines, creating difficulties in getting calls through.

The Clare Chamber of Commerce has decided to enter a float in the approaching Acadia Festival for the August 9th parade. This will be the first time that a float has been entered by the Board as their own, though floats for the Evangeline & Gabriel of the Festival have been entered in other years.

The new president stated that monthly meetings of the directors will be held and more general meetings than in former years. Mr. Bernard LeBlanc, president of the Board, and organizer of the ladies, children's and men's wear manufacturing in the Municipality of Clare, presented neckties made of the Nova Scotia Tartan plaid to all the members of the Board who were present at the meeting. Mr. LeBlanc told the group that the neckties are samples of the fine work accomplished by the ladies of Clare.

Mr. LeBlanc told the group that the question of fire protection for the Havelock and Hassetts area will be brought up for discussion at the next meeting in August. Following the destroying of a portion of a mink ranch in the area some time ago, the ranchers in the area are concerned regarding fire protection. Previously they depended on the Weymouth Fire Department, but the town of Weymouth fire department cannot answer calls outside the town limits, it would appear.

The fire departments in Clare have responded to calls outside their district and the particular case of the mink ranch fire, the St. Bernard Fire Department went to the rancher's assistance and was able to save a portion of the ranch, stated Mr. LeBlanc, and it is a very serious question.

New life is being instilled in the Chamber of Commerce with the membership campaign being under way at the

The M.V. Werratal, registered in Hamburg, Germany, which loaded pulpwood here last week, had as a wireless operator a girl from West Germany. While this is not unusual on the continent, it is not generally the custom here.

Request Immediate Dredging Digby Wharf

On motion of Ralph MacIntyre the Digby Board of Trade, at a special meeting on Tuesday evening, passed a resolution that government authorities, Department of Fisheries and Department of Public Works be approached by representatives of the Board with respect to obtaining suitable dredging of the harbour before the winter season of 1964-65.

In discussion leading to the resolution it was learned that as high as seventeen boats lay abreast in several rows at the fishermen's wharf in Digby. This, it is understood, makes it impossible at times to load supplies or unload fish and even preventing vessels from getting out to fish.

President Charles Haliburton will appoint a committee to draw up a resolution and submit it to proper authorities.

Information gathered at the meeting revealed 150 fishermen using the wharf at Digby. 19 boats registered in Digby use the wharf, while some 41 boats registered outside Digby also make use of the facilities now available. Forty of these are sealop fishing boats and four are ground fishing boats. Further to these there are now five new boats ready for the Fall fleet and three others are under construction.

It was supported in principle that a transportation committee from the Digby Board of Trade look into a truck transportation depot for Digby. The president was asked to appoint a chairman who would have power to add to the committee. The fact that there was no regular transportation service from Digby and to Digby for perishable goods, fresh products, was of concern to many. It was mentioned that the Sanborn Transportation company had taken over Boston and Rockland company and that they had showed an interest in coming into Digby with transportation.

It was said that with better transportation and wharf facilities the Digby fishing industry might be revived again to the benefit of the economy of the whole area.

Vincent Snow urged that everything possible be done to obtain a ferry across the Bay of Fundy which would carry trucks and trailers. This brought about discussion on the proposed expressway from Halifax to Montreal making a mileage of only 480 miles. Such a proposition is being placed before the Maritime Provinces Board of Trade and the government authorities by the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade and the Annapolis Royal Board of Trade. The proposal includes ferry service between Deep Brook and a point in Maine. Following discussion the question was posed as to the number of ferries which might have to be used to transport people and products going through a route of 480 miles from Halifax to Montreal.

Keith Raymond, Centerville, brought up the importance to the town of Digby of a bridge from East Ferry to Tiverton. Another Board member remarked, "It would be as good an industry as Digby could get." It was decided to endeavour to get up-to-date information on any surveys which have been made regarding a bridge or causeway across Petite Passage.

A committee consisting of Mayor C. D. Snow, Keith Raymond, Eugene Outhouse and members of the Board transportation committee are to meet with Stephen Pyke, Minister of Highways for Nova Scotia, and with Capt. Hill, the new tourist director for the Annapolis Valley.

Considering the handicap of having insufficient funds to work with in the Board of Trade and the benefits derived by people of a locality from a Board it was decided to raise the membership fee from $5 to $10 for businesses, boat owners and professional persons and from $2 to $5 for other citizens. Comparison with other Boards revealed Digby's fees to be low. E. Adelaar, Weymouth, president of the A.V.A.B.T., who was present, remarked that a Board of Trade should be worth twenty cents a week to a business or ten cents a week to any individual. On the membership committee are C. M. Levy, Graham Saunders and Joseph Hattie. The new fees are to go into effect for the coming year but the committee was urged to obtain as many members as possible for the present year.

The September Board of Trade meeting is to be in the form of a dinner when new persons to town and countryside and at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis are to be invited.

The president reported having registered a protest to the removal of the Communications School at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis. A reply was received stating that the matter would be looked into.

Correspondence announced that A.P.E.C. would be holding a Manufacturing Exhibition in Moncton on October 6 and 7. The object is to see how many of the items used could be made within the area.

Nineteen were present at Tuesday night's meeting presided over by Mr. Haliburton.

Cornwallis In Trade Course Exchange

In a recent announcement, Naval Headquarters has stated that Boatswain Training, presently located in HMCS Stadacona, will shortly be transferred to HMCS Cornwallis, and that some of the trade courses provided by the Communications Division, Cornwallis, are scheduled for transfer to Stadacona. These moves do not alter the prime role of HMCS Cornwallis as a New Entry Training Establishment, nor will the number of staff and personnel on course be greatly affected. They will have no effect upon the number of civilians employed in Cornwallis.

The new training to be given by Cornwallis is closely allied to that presently given by the New Entry Training Organization and the Leadership Division. The Boatswain (more often written in accordance with the pronunciation "Bos'n"), is the professional seaman of the Royal Canadian Navy. Besides being an expert in seamanship, he must have a thorough knowledge of Naval Organization and Administration, Pilotage, Parade Drill, Naval Ceremonial and Naval Discipline. Courses at all levels of the Boatswain trade will be provided, and will include a variety of age groups ranging from ordinary seamen to senior petty officers.

The move of Boatswain Training from Stadacona is planned to commence August 10th, with courses at the Trade Group 2 and 3 levels scheduled to commence in Cornwallis 17 August, 1964. In Communications, approximately eighty percent of the training will continue to be given at the Communications Division, HMCS Cornwallis. This comprises the Trade Group 1 instruction given Ordinary Seamen, as well as all Communications training given University Naval Training Divisions. The more advanced courses for men, and courses for officers, are scheduled to move to Stadacona 27 July, 1964. This will enable personnel taking these courses to have direct access to the equipment used in the Fleet, thus enhancing the quality of the training provided.

Mr. and Mrs. James McGuire and daughter, of Toronto, have returned home after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Robicheau, of Digby.

Hears Of Riots In Canal Zone

Miss Elizabeth McLaughlin, entertained ladies and visiting friends of Zion United Church on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Eugene Saunders, of Balboa Canal Zone, was also present and spoke to the ladies on the political, racial and religious life of the people of that area. Of special interest to those present was the account of what Mrs. Saunders' church group did during the January riots which occurred there—the unpublishing power of more than seventy ladies whose sense of Christian purpose caused them to hold a meeting in the Balboa Union Church despite the riots in Panama at that time. Devotions were led by Mrs. Saunders, wife of a Canal pilot and one of our summer visitors, Mrs. Clarence Goshburg, a Panamanian and wife of a Canal Zone Professor; and Mrs. Walter Reitz, wife of the minister of the Seavall Mission Church (Methodist) in Panama.

The bilingual devotion "Walk Not Alone" which crossed the barriers of language and race varied financial backgrounds and general anxiety preceded a social hour of Panamanian refreshments served by the Seavall ladies. Mrs. Saunders said that these ladies did their cooking by charcoal and one entering the church would believe it to be on fire. The Quaker team of investigators stated shortly after that this meeting was the one bright spot in a cleverly fermented political riot and could be the road to better Latin American and North American understanding.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Austin Morehouse and Mrs. Elmer Lewis.

Record For Fog Broken At Bay View

July, 1964, has become a record-breaking month at Point Prim, Bay View. According to the records kept by the late Mr. Frank Wilson, the former lightkeeper, which date back to 1946, the greatest number of hours during which the fog whistle was in use in any one month was in July, 1959, when there were 328 blowing hours.

Mr. Carman Frankland, the present lightkeeper, reports that during the past month there were 378 hours and 25 minutes of blowing time. There were only three days in the month during which the fog alarm was not in use at all, the 10th, 21st and the 31st.

During the first few months that the new system at Point Prim has been in use, it has certainly been put to the test.

gether after a separation of nearly six years. The entertainment included witnessing the changing of the guard before the Peace Tower, and a conducted tour of the Parliament buildings.

BANKS'

Tiverton Church Burns Mortgage

Rev. W. Ideson, Freeport, minister of the United Baptist Church at Tiverton, burned the mortgage of the church in a ceremony held in the church on Saturday, July 25.

Rev. Mr. Ideson presented the call to worship: "Let Thy work appear unto Thy servants, and Thy glory unto Thy children. And let the beauty of the Lord be upon us; and establish Thou the work of our hands establish Thou it."

The hymn "Stand Up And Bless The Lord" was sung by a choir comprised of adults and juniors. This was followed by the scripture reading from Ephesians 2:8-22 and prayer by Rev. Mr. Ideson.

Chairman of the Building Fund, Clifton Outhouse, presented a brief record of the achievement of the Building Fund which started in July, 1956. He gave the amount that had accumulated at the end of each year. By 1961, he said, including the $3,003.76 which was borrowed from the Home Mission Board, and all donations that amounted to $8,206.96, amount on hand was $11,209.72.

Mr. Outhouse paid tribute to the Sunshine Bible Class for donating $2,265, which did not include monies derived from pantry sales and suppers, which went directly to the fund; also to the Sunday School members who donated $1,137 besides paying the necessary cost of supplies; coin cards accounted for $452, noting that one member alone accounted for 35 cards. The three-part collection envelopes introduced a short time ago contributed $178, and the "good old fashioned Birthday Boxes contributed the equivalent of 9,963 years, or $99.63."

The speaker went on to say that considerable equipment such as tables, dishes, the furnace and other major equipment has been accumulated and paid for in full. He said though there are many other necessary things have to be done — the church needs painting and other work done on the outside of the building, and the choir is very much in need of new gowns. He continued, "However, I think the most important consideration now, as it was in 1956, is the united determination of the members and the help of our many friends to work together to reach our goal."

An impressive burning of the mortgage ceremony closed with the following words by the minister —

"Since these dear people in the interest of this church have discharged the debt on this building and since the mortgage, which has been a sign to them of that debt, is a symbol of that which has no existence, in the name of the Tiverton United Baptist Church I ask you as representatives of the Board of Trustees to let it be consumed in the flames."

"In symbol and sign we have put a good work behind us. By the symbol and sign of a flame which is not quenched, we keep a good work before us, the work of God, even that faith issuing in good works, which live in this church."

Prayer followed and the closing hymn was "Blest Be The Tie That Binds." At the close of the ceremony refreshments were served in the vestry. A sing-song was held with Mrs. Kathleen Ramsey as organist. Mrs. Ramsey is the former Kathleen Blackford, native of Tiverton now residing in the U.S.A.

Dr. DesBarres Passes

The death of Frederick William Walcott DesBarres, B.A., D.D., LL.D., Emeritus Professor of History at Mount Allison University, took place July 29, at the Sackville Memorial Hospital, Sackville, N.B., in his 98th year.

Dr. DesBarres was born at New Glasgow, N.S., March 10, 1867, the son of the late William and Letitia (Hart) DesBarres, and great-grandson of Colonel Joseph Frederick Walcott DesBarres, soldier and cartographer of the 18th century who was with General Wolfe at the capture of Louisbourg and Quebec, and who later founded Sydney, N.S., and was the governor of Cape Breton and Prince Edward Island.

Dr. DesBarres' first wife, the former Nita Churchill, of Hantsport, Nova Scotia, predeceased him in 1942. He is survived by his second wife, the former Stella Lund, of Sackville, N.B., a sister Miss H. A. DesBarres, of Westville, N.S., and three daughters by his first marriage, Mrs. J. E. March (Marie), of Weymouth, N.S.; Mrs. W. B. Bate (Dorothy) of Ottawa, and Nita, of Pictou, N.S. There are also two grandchildren, William DesBarres March, of Halifax, N.S., and Mrs. Peter Clements of Hudson Heights, Quebec, and eight great grandchildren.

In his earlier years Dr. DesBarres was active in community affairs, being one of the founders of the Sackville Golf Club. For many years he was an active Rotarian and he continued as an honorary contributor to public causes, and known for his sympathy and understanding for all groups in his community. Active in the life of the Sackville United Church, he was a member of the Session and frequently assisted in its public services. One of his interests for many years has been the new Chapel of the University whose building was begun the day of his death.

Dr. DesBarres will be remembered by successive classes of students for his learning, his devotion to his work and his generosity and kindnesses in all the associations of college life.

He was the author of "The Story of the English Bible" (1950), and his researches issued in numerous papers and addresses. At the time of his last illness he was preparing a paper "Some comments on Matt. XVI: 13-20" for the meeting of the Chignecto Ministerial Association in September.

During the past year Dr. DesBarres was honoured by The Theological Society of the United and by the Maritime Conference of the United Church on the occasion of his seventieth anniversary of his ordination. Last May the Alumni Society of the University marked the seventy-fifth anniversary of his graduation with speeches in his honour and a presentation; and the Regents and Faculty of the University at a dinner given in his honour by the Chancellor, Dr. Ralph P. Bell likewise noted this anniversary and his long service to the University. On all these occasions, Dr. DesBarres made memorable addresses in response to the good wishes of his friends.

The funeral was held at 3:30 p.m. Friday, July 31, from the Sackville United Church, with Dr. W. T. R. Flemington, former president of the University, assisting in the service.

Accident Claims Life Of Digby County Youth

Reginald Gordon Theriault, 18, of East Ferry, drowned at approximately 11 p.m. Saturday when his vehicle failed to negotiate a turn on the spur road at Digby. His companion, Bradford Tidd, of Whale Cove, was able to jump clear of the vehicle. The accident occurred during a storm, and the rain, darkness and heavy seas made it impossible to locate the car until morning.

Reginald was the son of Gordon and Winnifred (Lewis) Theriault, of East Ferry. He held an administrative position with the firm of Sandy Cove Fisheries. He received his education at Digby Regional High School.

Surviving besides his parents are a brother, Donald, of Los Angeles, Cal., and a sister, Inez (Mrs. Richard Daley), of Oromocto, N. B.

Have Taken Over Meteghan Shipyards

The Meteghan shipyards have been taken over by a Clare firm known as the St. Mary's Bay Industries Ltd., headed by three well known businessmen of the Municipality of Clare, Digby County. Benoit and J. Medard Comeau, sons of Senator J. W. Comeau, of Comeauville, operated a successful contracting firm of B. & J. M. Comeau Construction Company, and Mr. Camille Gaudet, of Little Brook, operated the Clare Construction Company.

The new owners are doing repair jobs and will go into the construction of fishing boats and any other kind of boats. The new company is completing boats that were on the stocks when they took over.

Improvement of the drydock facilities at Meteghan will be undertaken by the new firm when dredging will allow boats to enter and leave drydock at all tides. This will allow boats to enter drydock for a few days and be able to leave when the job is completed. Due to sand closing in on the outer extremity of the drydock bed, difficulties were encountered in the past to have boats enter or leave the drydock without losing much time, due to the tides. The improvement in the facilities of the drydock will be of great benefit to the fishermen and other interested parties who wish to have their boats repaired in the largest drydock in this part of the county.

The Meteghan Shipyard was formerly Clare Industries Ltd.

Fire Prevention Committee Active

The fire prevention committee of the Digby Fire Department, headed by Robert Handsaker, has been unusually active this year. At present they are busy making plans for the coming Fire Prevention Week, observed each year by the local fire department in conjunction with the international committees. This year's program will include a church parade, movies, window displays, open house at the fire station for the public and members, publicity in the schools, distribution of folders and book marks, publicity signs in various parts of town, and the participation in the observance by various organizations in the town. A special meeting has been called for August for representatives from town organizations to make plans suitable for the various organizations.

Plans are also being made by the department for the annual Labor Day Fair at the Cannon Bank. This will include various booths with special tickets and the addition of new booths. There will be fireworks and rides for the kiddies.

A money raising project is also in progress toward the purchase of breathing equipment. This fund at present has close to $150.00. The fund is open to anyone who wishes to donate to this cause for the protection of the men at fires.

A committee has been selected to work at the Hospital Bazaar.

Hector Jourdain has been promoted to Captain and Carl Melanson to Lieutenant, to fill vacancies. Other promotions are to be made at a special meeting of the executive, to be held shortly.

Finds Relatives In Clare And Digby

A pleasing event took place in Church Point when Mrs. Arthur J. Theriot, of Rayne, Louisiana, visited the village to search for relatives. She located Miss Rose Belliveau, who is a cousin of her father, and also visited Mrs. Urban (Catherine) Belliveau, of Belliveau's Cove, and Mrs. Linus (Marie) Dorian, of Digby, who are cousins. Mrs. Theriot also visited Miss Beatrice Thibodeau, a retired school teacher, who was residing at the old homestead. Mrs. Theriot expected to visit cousins in and around Boston, Mass., before returning to Louisiana.

Rayne, Louisiana, is a town of 8,000 inhabitants and the area has rice farming, cotton raising and sugar plantations. Her father, Louis Belliveau, who is now retired, was chief engineer of a sugar plantation in the area. He formerly resided near the present residence of Mrs. Lucille St. Amant and before going to Louisiana years ago.

Mrs. Theriot lives on a sugar plantation and she stated that she has visited Church Point, Louisiana, which is but a short drive from her home. She knows quite a few people in that area, including Mgr. Bienville, who visited Church Point, N. S., and is pastor of Church Point, Louisiana. Mgr. Bienville visited this village two years ago.

Drive Falls Short Of Objective

Receipts for the 1964 Mental Health Campaign in Digby County amounted to $1,437.67, it was reported at the meeting of the executive of the Digby County branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association, held at the Community Mental Health Centre last Thursday evening.

A report on the results of the campaign, presented by Mrs. N. M. Armstrong, showed that receipts from the Digby Neck area totalled $151.38, Weymouth and district reported a total of $99.90, while Bear River and district, including Smith's Cove, showed receipts of $276.85.

The receipts from the town of Digby and surrounding area totalled $469.85 and the total for the district of Clare was $191.50. Special names receipts totalled $223.00 and miscellaneous receipts, including student contributions from the Weymouth Consolidated School, were $26.19.

The meeting decided a special executive session would be held September 27th, at which time definite arrangements would be made for fund raising events to be held during the fall and winter in an effort to raise additional needed funds to meet costs of operation.

Loaded Truck Hits Weymouth Bridge

Casualties were miraculously avoided on Tuesday morning when a three ton truck, loaded with bales of hay, ran out of control on Campbell's hill, going into the town of Weymouth.

The driver, Fred Fiske, of Lawrencetown, ran the truck into the bridge to avoid running into traffic at the other end. Several people miraculously escaped death, as they ran to safety. One truck was rammed, and bales of hay were thrown in every direction, some hitting the men employed in repairing the bridge. Cars on the other end of the bridge quickly reversed, one being damaged as he backed up.

This one-way bridge is considered a bottleneck in the business section on the main highway. When traffic from

Two Digby Girls In Painting Project

Students attending the Canadian Legion youth leadership course in Wolfville were told to select some community project to do.

A trio, consisting of Claudette Melanson, of Grosses Coques, in Clare; Sandra Raymond, of Digby; and Anne MacNeil, of Glace Bay, cleaned and painted town parking meters.

The Bluenose comes through in the afternoon, frequently the whole business section is a traffic jam.

Fortunately, in this instance, no one was hurt, but the truck was badly demolished, and the bridge rails damaged as the truck hit it to slow down. It finally came to a halt by the Rexall Drug Store.

Nosegays Sold For Twenty Years

For twenty years nosegays have been sold in Digby in connection with the Digby General Hospital Fair and for the twenty years Mrs. E. J. Theriault has been a prominent figure in the sale, being chosen for most of those years.

Above are the 1964 sales girls in their Nova Scotia tartan costumes and velvet jackets as they appeared on the steps at the front of the Digby Pines Hotel. They are, from left, Deldre Smith and Wendy Robicheau. Back, left, is Karen Watkins and Betty Ann Connolly.

The girls visited the hotels and restaurants with their 250 'noses' of roses. Guests at the hotels bought them at twenty-five cents each and wore them at the evening dinners. At the Pines Hotel the girls earned $42.00 and in the day realized $74.50 for the Digby General Hospital Ladies Auxiliary. This sum will be added to the proceeds of the Hospital Fair, to be held on August 19.

Assisting Mrs. Theriault this year in making the nosegays were Mrs. Alex Wentzell, Mrs. LeRoy Robicheau, Mrs. Herbert Theriault, and Mrs. Garland O'Neil, Digby.

Cactus, Amaryllis, Geraniums In Her Family

The interviewer counted between fifty-five and sixty house plants at the home of Mrs. Stella McGuire, Smith's Cove, and then made a guess at the number as sixty. "People ask me why I keep so many plants," said Mrs. McGuire. "I answer them, they are my family."

The visit to the home of Mrs. McGuire was made especially to see an unusual cactus plant in bloom. The structure of the flower is something like a huge water lily but the five petals are pointed, giving the appearance of a star. The colors in the bloom are rose and green, with a deep maroon centre. The whole bloom is covered with a white fuzz or hairs. Expanse across the bloom from point to point measured 12 inches. Before the bud had opened it appeared in shape like the flower of a jack o'lantern plant. Mrs. McGuire was around when the bud gave the faint puffing sound as it split open into bloom.

The strange cactus plant, which has two such large blooms, was started from a half inch slip planted in a 2 1/2 inch in diameter pot about 3 years ago. It still remains in the 2 1/2 inch pot. The slip was given to Mrs. McGuire by Mrs. Vera Langman, who had brought her plant from Ontario 16 years ago. In the 16 years the plant of Mrs. Langman had no blooms.

The next plant brought to the attention of the interviewer was an amaryllis, with two stalks each 30 inches high. Mrs. McGuire said that she had read in a magazine lately of an amaryllis 18 inches tall which had five blooms at once. A month ago Mrs. McGuire's amaryllis had nine blooms at one time.

In the sunporch were several varieties of geraniums, all in bloom in their various colors. There didn't seem to be anything unusual about the geraniums until Mrs. McGuire pointed to the Ivy geranium. "That is the same root and, as far as I know, is in the same pot and some of the same earth which my mother had when she was living." How old would that be? Mrs. McGuire was asked. Mrs. McGuire judged the plant to be about fifty years old, for her mother, the late Mrs. Herbert Woodman, had passed away thirty-two years ago.

Mrs. McGuire showed other plants which had been her mother's, such as the oxalis and begonia.

Among Mrs. McGuire's collection of sixty plants were several varieties of cactus, like the Christmas and orchid cactus, other plants like the Star of Bethlehem, elephant's ears, rabbit foot fern, etc. I have no failures, said Mrs. McGuire. "They just grow so large. I give lots away but I couldn't throw them out," she continued. "The house would look bare to me, without the plants."

Mrs. McGuire used to have a lovely outside flower garden. While she still has some outside blooms, her health does not permit her to work in the garden now.

Home baking used to be another hobby of Mrs. McGuire. She has discontinued this, but besides her general housework and caring for her plants, she continues in another hobby, that of handwork such as crocheting and other fancy work.

Mrs. McGuire lives in a cottage directly behind Logan's Basin View Cabins, where she has full view of the Annapolis Basin and the Digby Gut. She built the cottage only two years ago, having until that time lived in the house of her parents on the old post road on the hill. At one time the Woodman property extended all the way from the hill to the shore. By today much has been sold, including all the shore-line properties.

Mrs. Otis Stark and children, Joye and Ronnie, recently visited her daughter, Gladys McIntosh, and two children, in Prescott, Ont. Mrs. Stark also visited relatives and friends in Hamilton, Burlington, Beamsville, Richmond Hill and Toronto.

Acadian Festival Former Pines Gets Underway Manager Passes

Despite unfavorable weather Saturday afternoon and evening, the chicken barbecue of the Acadian Festival, held at Major's Point, in Belliveau's Cove, went on without a hitch until 9:30, when rain drenched the grounds and ended further festivities on the historic site of the first cemetery in Clare. No damage, financially, occurred as all the servings of barbecued chicken were sold when the deluge started.

Other items of the program to take place at Major's Point were cancelled due to high winds. Thousands travelled to Major's Point to savor the barbecued chicken.

On Friday evening, August 7th, Dr. H. J. Pothier, M.L.A., representing Clare, officially declared the festival open with special ceremonies at the Acadian Hall at the Clare District High School at Meteghan River. Dr. Pothier stated: "Being your representative in the Nova Scotia Legislature, I bring you best wishes and success to your Acadian Festival in the name of the legislative assembly and principally from the Minister of Trade and Industry. Today there are 14 million Acadians in North America, of which there are nearly 8,000 in our province. In this area, a corner of the province, there are over 8,000. We therefore have good reasons to be pleased and honored to have remained in the domain where the Acadian race was founded by our ancestors."

Mr. Fred Armstrong, of Yarmouth, Member of the Federal Government representing Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clare, officially crowned the Evangeline and Gabriel of the Festival, who were Miss Carmella Comeau, of Meteghan River, and Felix Comeau, of Meteghan Station. Before the crowning ceremonies, Mr. Armstrong spoke briefly to the large attendance as follows: "It is a pleasure to me to have been asked to crown the Evangeline and Gabriel of your Festival of 1964. It is always a pleasure for me to attend your Festival and be among you fellow Acadians to revive the beautiful customs of our ancestors. I wish to urge the young people to encourage them to continue the beautiful traditions that form part of our and your cultures."

Sunday afternoon the Acadian Festival Parade was blessed with beautiful sunny weather following a morning of heavy mist which had followed the heavy storm of the preceding evening. Sixteen floats were entered in the parade which started from St. Bernard Consolidated School in St. Bernard and wended its way to St. Ann's College campus grounds at Church Point, a distance of 6 miles. Every vantage place where cars could be parked along the six mile stretch and thousands of people sat in front of their homes to watch the parade pass. Les Dames Patronesses held their bazaar on the college grounds, where a very large crowd converged following the parade.

The first prize in religious theme was won by a float representing the Vatican Council, entered by the Parish of Meteghan; second prize went to Le Club Jardiniere, garden club, of Meteghan, with their float representing the shrine of Lourdes.

First prize in the commercial category was won by Comeau's Sea Foods, of Saultierville, and second prize was won by L'Assomption Society of Saultierville, representing education.

First prize in the most original float was won by Comeau's Green House, of Saultierville Station, with a miniature greenhouse with real tomato plants in full operation. Second place went to the Richelieu Club of Church Point, representing Yesterday and Today, with a team of yoked oxen representing "yesterday" and a farm tractor representing "today". The best decorated car went to Dennis LeBlanc, of St. Martin.

Judges of the parade were Professor Willie Belliveau, of Belliveau's Cove, and Dr. Erjeve, of Weymouth. Judges Bernard's Church in the same village at 8 p.m. In the afternoon a water sports program will be held at Kiwanis Park, near St. Bernard, starting at one o'clock in the afternoon, with various games, canteen and chicken barbecue, with servings all afternoon and evening.

Report From Parliament Hill

George C. Nowlan
August 1, 1961

More than twenty-five years ago, the Institute of Public Affairs, in cooperation with the CBC, started to hold a yearly conference at Lake Couchiching, in the Muskoka District of Ontario. The Conference is of one week's duration. Every evening during that week, for one half hour, the CBC carries a portion of the debate. This, of course, started long before anyone had heard of television. I got interested in the Conference at that time, and every night tried to be home to listen to these discussions. The description of the pine groves, the wind whispering through the trees, the people relaxed, but at the same time very argumentative, painted a background which appealed to me very much. I always had hoped that sometime I would be able to attend such a gathering. This year I was invited by the Institute of Public Affairs to be one of the Leaders at the Conference, and I readily accepted. So, for the last week, I have been away from the heat of Ottawa, and have been taking part in the most stimulating and interesting discussion of public affairs in surroundings which are comparable to almost any lake in Nova Scotia.

Physically, the lake is narrow, but about fourteen miles long. The terrain is similar to what we would find in, shall we say, the Boy Scout Camp at Summit Lake, dry soil, pine and spruce trees, and far enough in the woods to make one think that he is very isolated, but actually only a five mile drive from the Town of Orillia.

The topic this year was "Order and Good Government". They wanted on the discussion panels Members of Parliament who had had some experience in Government, and in dealing with the problems of the citizen under our modern system of Government. The panelists included Members of the House of Commons in London, of the American Congress, and of course of our Parliament. In addition, there were Professors from American Universities, from the London School of Economics, and from various Canadian Universities. Among former political leaders, there was the Honourable M. J. Coldwell, as well as Mr. Lloyd, the former Premier of Saskatchewan and Mr. Brocklebank, his Provincial Treasurer. Altogether, there were approximately 450 in attendance, many of them school teachers who were combining a vacation in an ideal location, with an opportunity to discuss matters which would be of assistance to them in the classroom. There also were a substantial number of labour leaders and by the strike of the typographers in the three Toronto Newspapers, a dozen or more of whom decided to leave the troubles of the Union behind them and enjoy a week in the woods.

There was no partisan discussion as such at least not in the open conference meetings, but one could tell from the applause which various speakers received that the majority of those in attendance were definitely of socialist inclination, and many of them, of course were persons active in the N.D.P. Party.

There was one surprising development which came almost as a shock to most of us there. Davie Fulton had delivered a paper on reforms needed in Parliament. This was criticized and I use "criticized" in the proper sense of the term, by Peter Newman, now of the Toronto Star and formerly of Maclean's Magazine and the author of "Renegade Prime Minister". The hall was crowded, and everyone was listening intently, and everyone was good-humoured. After Mr. Newman finished his discussion of Mr. Fulton's paper, he was asked some questions, and in reply to one of them, he said, half as a quip, "Well remember, all we do report the news as it happens." Then the surprise. I would think that a majority of the people present, at least one hundred to one hundred and fifty boomed and jeered at that answer. It was a spontaneous display and showed apparently the bitterness with which many people there looked upon the Press. When Peter stated that the function of a newspaperman was to report the news, at least half the people there just didn't believe him. This display did not come from the professional politicians present, who might have had some reason to feel aggrieved at the way in which newspapers from time to time colour their activities. This display came from the rank and file of those present on the floor. It was a surprise to all of us, but it was a distant shock to the newspaper men present. As a result the following evening, they put up a strong panel to defend their professional reputation. The panel consisted of Charles Lynch, Norman Depee and Christopher Young. I am afraid they did not improve the situation very much. For three days, the Conference had been dealing with criticism of Government and the Members of Parliament, in which criticism the Members themselves always joined and always admitted. The three newspaper men, however, appeared clothed in white robes and had apparently gargled and disinfected themselves of all germs before they went on the platform. They could confess no weakness, no sin, and simply stated that the audience did not understand what a newspaperman had to do. They argued that although editorials could be based and should be, yet all of the news stories were absolutely objective, correct and factual. That was derided and laughed at by the majority of the people present. As a result, the Globe and Mail two days later published a long and thoughtful editorial in which it admitted that there was a great deal of legitimate criticism of the press today. Newspaper men had stopped reporting the news as such and were really writing commentaries on the news, in which they express their own opinions. However, the Toronto Telegram and the Toronto Star also published editorials in which they could find no justification for the criticism whatsoever.

The discussions which took place during the week were instructive and constructive, and undoubtedly were of benefit to all those who took part. However, the memory which will endure the longest is the hostile reception that the press received, and which I know they took very much to heart, although in private conversations with some of them they argued that there was no justification for the hostile reception accorded them.

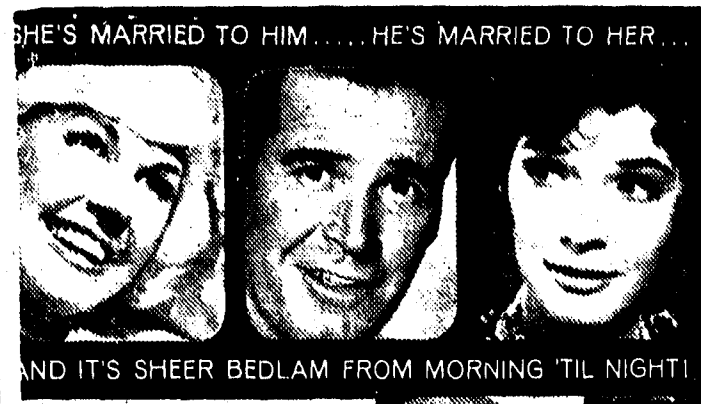

Now we are back in Ottawa to face the heat again in what looks like a much longer debate than that which took place at Lake Couchiching.

Public Health Nutritionists spend approximately 80 per cent of their time in the school throughout Nova Scotia.

Homemaker's Corner

(By Janet Walker, Home Economics Representative, Department of Agriculture and Marketing)

In many kitchens a pressure cooker performs a daily job, quick cooking potatoes, perhaps, or a pot roast with rich pungent gravy. But I've heard so many women say "My pressure cooker sits on the shelf." They remember how disappointed they were when their first trials with this method of cooking resulted in flavorless overcooked foods. If this was your experience, don't give up for this need not be.

A pressure cooker can help you in making quick meals. But don't expect magic. You do have to follow the rules when it comes to handling your cooker and timing and controlling the heat. Your care and skills in seasoning and browning meats and in making gravy are just as important as in any other kind of cooking.

Once you become thoroughly acquainted with your cooker, courtesy of the instruction book, try some of your own favorite recipes. Keep these general directions in mind.

1. Season foods as exactly as you can before cooking. It's hard to change afterwards! When cooking a vegetable try adding a little butter, then serve the juice with the vegetable.

2. Brown meats and poultry for browning slowly and thoroughly. Sufficient browning is essential for good flavour and appearance.

To produce a flavorful sauce or gravy for poultry or braised meat of any kind, add only enough water to make the desired quantity of sauce. Very little evaporates during cooking. Check a similar recipe in your instruction booklet to make sure you use the minimum amount of water to keep the food from cooking dry.

3. When estimating cooking time for a new dish, your instruction booklet can help you again. It's a good rule to underestimate the time needed for you can easily cook the dish longer if necessary. Note for future reference the time finally adopted.

4. If your cooker has a choice of pressures, a pressure of 10 pounds gives the best, most flavorful and juicy results for meat. A beef goulash for example, cooks in less than an hour at this pressure. Fowl are done to turn in 20-25 minutes at 15 pounds pressure.

Many people are asking about food poisoning at this time of year. It should be emphasized that extra attention should be given to food handling during the summer months. I came across some basic rules to be used to avoid the bacterial spoilage of food which leads to food poisoning, so I'll pass them on to you.

1. Do not let perishable foods (meat, fish, poultry, salad mixtures, cream-filled pies and cakes, etc.) remain out of the refrigerator longer than is absolutely necessary. Keep such foods refrigerated until you are ready to serve them, and return any leftovers to the refrigerator as soon as possible.

2. When you cook meat, fish or poultry for later use, cool and refrigerate it as soon as possible. It is not necessary to allow it to cool to room temperature before putting it into the refrigerator. In fact, doing this provides ideal conditions for rapid growth of bacteria and resulting in food spoilage. So never hesitate to put warm foods directly into the refrigerator. Sometimes when a container of warm soup, gravy, etc., is placed in the refrigerator moisture condenses on the underside of the cover. If this happens, just wipe the cover dry and replace it to help prevent souring.

or poultry for later use, cool and refrigerate it as soon as possible. It is not necessary to allow it to cool to room temperature before putting it into the refrigerator. In fact, doing this provides ideal conditions for rapid growth of bacteria and resulting in food spoilage. So never hesitate to put warm foods directly into the refrigerator. Sometimes when a container of warm soup, gravy, etc., is placed in the refrigerator moisture condenses on the underside of the cover. If this happens, just wipe the cover dry and replace it to help prevent souring.

3. If at all possible, avoid preparing meat loaves, stews, salad mixture, and so on too far ahead of cooking or serving time. These mixtures do tend to spoil more rapidly than the individual ingredients. Flake the fish, cut up the meat, chop the onions, if you like, but store each item separately and combine just before cooking.

4. In the case of preparing large quantities of salad several hours before serving time, don't refrigerate it in one large bowl. Large amounts slow down the rate of chilling so spoilage can easily occur. Divide it up into small containers.

5. Don't take perishable foods on a picnic unless you can keep them ice cold. Refrigerate what you do plan to take well in advance so that it will be good and cold. If you don't have an insulated bag or cooler, wrap each dish or jar in several layers of newspaper. This will insulate it surprisingly well.

Of course if you have a home freezer, it is ideal to start out with the foods in frozen condition. They will thaw during the journey and will be fresh and ready to eat when needed.

I seem to have given you a great many rules and regulations today. I hope they will be of some benefit to you.

Still on the subject of meals while travelling, puts me in mind of a little ballad —

Ballad of the Late Lunch

We sat in the back as the car sped on.
The endless miles defeating;
He in the front kept his mind on his work.
And we kept our mind on eating.

"Please stop on a road with an inn by its side!"
Begged we in the back, at noon.
He in the front answered, "Not quite yet."
"We'll hit a better place soon."

"It is four o'clock!" cried we in the back.
"And we long for food and drink!"
With his foot on the gas, he answered us.
"There's a good place soon, I think."

The moonlight illuminated a perfect inn
With welcoming open door.
"Aha!" he exclaimed as he stopped the car.
"This was worth waiting for!"

"We'd like some lunch," he cheerfully boomed.
As we drooped in a hungry line.
"Only tea and toast," smiled she at the desk.
"The dining room closed at nine."

He sits in the front, while we in the back Sadder, and probably thinner.
Are wondering where he will stop the car
For tomorrow morning's dinner.

Freezer Demonstration
"I never realized just how much you can save with a home freezer."

"Yes, I picked up a lot of tips on freezing."
These were some of the comments I heard after the Freezing Demonstration at Port Williams recently. It was very gratifying to see so many out there were approximately seventy people; most institutes in the county of Kings were well represented.

There were several questions asked which others may be asking too.

What is the best way to freeze beans? One lady in Hants County passed along this tip to us. Sprinkle a brine solution — 1 teaspoon of salt to 1 quart of water — over the beans. The beans should not be soaked in this; an amount of about ¼ - 1 inch of solution in the bottom of the container is sufficient. Remember too, that the most important thing is to use beans which are young and tender, blanch for 2 - 3 minutes, then chill.

Corn seems to be another problem vegetable. Be sure the corn is young and milky. Corn on the cob must be blanched for a longer period than other vegetables — 5 - 6 minutes, then well chilled. If you prefer kernel corn, remove the kernels after you have blanched and chilled the corn. Remember that corn on the cob, unlike most frozen fruits, vegetables, must be completely thawed before cooking.

For those of you in Hants and Annapolis Counties, watch this column for news of a freezer demonstration in your area. I have tentatively planned on the tenth week in August for Freezing Demonstrations in Windsor and Lawrencetown. Digby County may be fitted in this week too, or perhaps later.

Mr. MacKinnon stated: "We want to preserve the identity of these organizations and the citizen interest and concern that has been so much a part of them. What we are doing is combining forces as far as administration, staff and fund-raising are concerned so that donors will get the maximum value out of the dollars which they contribute to the organizations and so that the services provided will be just as efficient as possible."

Put Your Municipality On The Map

Invitations have gone out to Canadian cities asking them to help create a miniature city in Saint John that would include scale models of Canada's most famous buildings. This comes from The Financial Post which says the "city" would be modeled after Madurodam in the Netherlands, which has become one of that nation's biggest single tourist attractions. It is expected the Saint John miniature community would have a road through it at least a mile long, with a waterfront, ship and railway yards. The new city hall for Toronto, the Parliament buildings for Ottawa and the towering legislature building for Newfoundland.

"We're looking for anything representative of Canadian life," said a committee spokesman. "We would like to get buildings that typified Canada before 1867 and afterward. With any kind of co-operation from the rest of Canada, we'll be able to present one of the most appropriate tributes to confederation of any Canadian city." Communities interested in joining in the project can provide two buildings if they wish, one of pre-confederation vintage and the other modern. The miniature city would be built in two parts, one depicting Canada as it was before 1867 and the other as it is today.

Letter to the Editor

Westport Foggy Still Westport,
Brier Island,
Digby Co.,
Nova Scotia.

Editor,
The Digby Courier.

Dear Madam:
I was reading an item in your paper in regard to the fog alarm at Point Prim and I see where Mrs. Frankland says that it is a record for that station.

Well, here on Brier Island there are two fog alarms and one on Peter's Island in Grand Passage. The latter blew for 547 hrs. and 05 minutes during the month of July and I have no doubt that Brier Island had more hours on their station than what I did, and Northern Point as many.

Enjoy your paper every week and look forward to getting it.

Yours truly,
Richard Thompson, Keeper,
Peter's Island Light,
Brier Island.

Woodhouse Explorations

Westport,
Digby Co., N. S.

Dear Editor:

I haven't found my Franklin stove. While waiting, I have been exploring the woodhouse and have found a few treasures.

First there is the coal scuttle, an old fashioned one with a long snout. With two coats of white paint and green vines trailing from its snout and artificial flowers of various colors filling the scuttle part, it makes a colorful spot on my veranda rail. I planned to have nasturtiums, but it was too late for planting.

Next, we found a set of old scales, small table scales. The rust of many years covered them and they presented a discouraging picture. My grandson took them apart and with sandpaper, steel wool and plenty of elbow grease, I made them smooth enough for painting. They have a flute shaped bottom and two plate-like tops for the weights. These are about the size of tea plates. The weights go from one pound to four. After carefully painting each part with gold paint, they were put together again. On a marble topped table, one side holding a small African violet in full bloom and the other side holding a small quartz rock deeply veined with Nova Scotia amethyst, they make a lovely and shining centerpiece in my old parlor. The golden weights rest closely by.

In the loft of the woodhouse I found a large, wooden sugar bucket. It has wooden hoops and handle and a flat wooden cover. I do not know what it was formerly used for, but it was painted and splashed with yellow and red paint, which made it look a little more professionally upholstered. As a footstool or a seat, and holding sewing materials or magazines, it will be useful as well as beautiful.

I still have exploring to do in the woodhouse loft. It is amazing what one can find in an old woodhouse!

Repeating History As Mail Carrier

Paul Morehouse, East Ferry, is repeating the system of mail carrying service that his father, the late Guy Morehouse, began in 1911.

In that year, the late Guy Morehouse was awarded the contract to carry mail and passengers for intervening stations on Digby Neck and across Petite Passage for the Islands.

A year or so later, mail and passengers, from Digby and beyond, en route for the Islands, were transferred from Tiverton to Freeport by the late Edward Blackford. After his death, the position was accepted by Lloyd Blackford. When he retired, the franchise was given to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crocker, of Freeport. When they gave it up several weeks ago, Paul Morehouse, who has been delivering mail and passengers on Digby Neck for quite a number of years, took over and now has his vehicle ferried across Petite Passage for deliveries on the island.

The methods of transporting mail and passengers have undergone many changes since 1911. Guy Morehouse's first deliveries, which began in January, 1911 were made by horse and carriage.

In April of the same year, he transferred mail and passengers in a Russel touring car which was replaced in 1912 by a Reo bus with a body especially built to accommodate his mail service.

By 1946 the influx of passengers and mail had increased to such an extent that two 29-passenger buses were required. Gradually vehicles became more numerous, and Mr. Morehouse had less passengers. Only one bus was used at his retirement early in 1963.

Vehicles have become so numerous that today Paul Morehouse makes his deliveries in a standard, late model car. However, he also keeps a bus on hand in the event there should be unexpected passengers or increase in mail. Mrs. Morehouse often assists her husband in his mail and passenger delivery service.

This I covered the top of the bucket, using a foam rubber padding and green upholstery tacks. With yarn the color of the deepest green in the print, I shall, with French knots, make it look a little more professionally upholstered. As a footstool or a seat, and holding sewing materials or magazines, it will be useful as well as beautiful.

I still have exploring to do in the woodhouse loft. It is amazing what one can find in an old woodhouse!

VACATION
Time, give me the day off!
I've so weary grown
Of having my life run
By minutes alone.
Let me lie on a hilltop
Where winds run along,
Tell time by a robin
And live by a song.

Golden Wedding

A pleasant social evening was enjoyed at the Church of Christ vestry, Weymouth, on Saturday evening, August 1st, when about one hundred twenty invited guests and relatives met to offer their congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Mullen, a popular and esteemed couple of New Tuskot, Digby County, who were celebrating their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Mullen, the former Bertha Greene, were married fifty years ago at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Greene of New Tuskot by Reverend Josiah Webb, the Baptist pastor at that time. They have one son, Carl, of Windsor, who is married to the former Agnes Payson of Weymouth, and two grandsons, Peter and Vaughn.

After a program of hymn singing, quartets, and solos, the ladies of the Christian Women's Fellowship served delicious refreshments. The bride and groom's table was tastefully decorated with gold candles and a beautiful three tiered wedding cake. Seated at the table with the bride and groom of fifty years were members of the group who were at the wedding in 1914. One of these guests was Mrs. Emma Greene, aunt of the bride, who is now ninety years young and had come from Windsor to be present at this anniversary.

Two foster daughters, Mrs. Donald Barr and Mrs. Iver Mullen served the bridal table. Mrs. Lena Guthrie and Mrs. Laura Schofield of Mass., U.S.A., cousins of Mrs. Mullen poured. Mrs. Ernest Churchill also a cousin was in charge of the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Mullen then opened their shower of beautiful gifts which included linen, china, electrical appliances, and money. Mrs. Carl Mullen read the accompanying expressions of good wishes and congratulations. Congratulatory messages were also received from Dr. H. J. Pothier, M.L.A., Premier R. L. Stanfield, and George C. Nowlan, M.P.

After Mr. and Mrs. Mullen graciously thanked their guests, a verse of "God Be With You till We Meet Again" was sung followed by prayer by Elder Albert Jones. Out of town guests were present from Yarmouth, Windsor, and Mass., U.S.A. As the guests departed they wished many more years of health and happiness to this couple who has enriched the lives of their friends and communities in so many ways. One of their greatest contributions has been a member of the Baptist choir for years and Mrs. Mullen the pianist. No social gathering is complete without Mrs. Mullen at the piano leading the hymn singing which has become so much a part of the gathering at which they were present.

Many Attend Witnesses Convention

The four day "Fruitage of the Spirit" District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses reached its climax Sunday afternoon when 1,166 persons at the Bridgewater Arena heard the stirring Bible talk entitled "Peace Among Men of Good Will or Armageddon - Which?" Mr. Levi Wall, district supervisor for the Maritimes, told delegates from 32 congregations, including many residents of Digby, Centreville and Bear River, that Christian blessings are not given to every individual, but rather "We have to do something toward gaining God's good will."

"For over a thousand years it has been very easy for Christendom to sing 'Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to men of good will,'" said Mr. Wall in his hour-long discourse, "but history shows that this has not promoted or established world peace." He stated that of the 3,426 years since Moses received the ten commandments a mere 268 could be described as peaceful, and today responsible world leaders look forward gloomily to a "thermo-nuclear Armageddon."

But according to Mr. Wall, these leaders overlook the fact that the Armageddon referred to in Chapter 16 of the last book of the Holy Bible is not a conflict among nations, "for it is a war by the political rulers of this world against God and against His Son, Jesus Christ." He added, "In that battle the 'men of good will' are to have no part in the fighting, for their God will fight from heaven in behalf of what is right."

With the battle of Armageddon "the goatlike enemies of God's kingdom will go into everlasting punishment, the everlasting cutting off from existence anywhere. The righteous sheeplike people will enter 'into everlasting life' under God's kingdom." Mr. Wall concluded with the injunction that the kingdom "can become yours if you now take steps to 'escape from destruction with divinely disapproved men at Armageddon and you now choose wholeheartedly to become God's 'men of good will', enjoying His peace."

Sunday's public discourse was only one of the many talks the Witnesses heard within the four days. The wealth of scriptural instruction centered around a theme taken from the 22nd verse of

Oldest Acadian House Preserved

The oldest Acadian dwelling, La Vieille Maison, has been preserved in its original condition at Meteghan. Meteghan itself is on St. Mary's Bay in the heart of the province's Acadian region.

The house was built soon after the exiled Acadian returned to the district and was moved to the Bonaventure (Bouan) Robicheau ancestral site. This was the original Crown grant that was distributed among the repatriated Acadians.

Well restored, the building's interior is relieved by white trimmings, a blue door and the original small-paned windows. The visitor is first greeted by the sight of the Robicheau coat-of-arms which are emblazoned over the front entrance.

The building's interior contains open beams, wide boarded ceilings and the original fieldstone hearth. It is entirely of wood. The furnishings are typical of a well-appointed Acadian household. The visitor to La Vieille Maison will see such items as family heirlooms, authentic antiques, country-made furniture, hand-turned beds, raw-hide chairs, and sea chests.

The wooden and earthenware utensils rest in their accustomed places. Also on display are a collection of ironstone china and the Acadian craft of rugmaking, quilting and needlework.

The earliest known oil portrait of one of the Acadian settlers, "La Vieille Gigi", is painted in the primitive style and is one of the treasures of the place. Another of the treasures to be found is a burette (cruet) undoubtedly brought from France and used in the first Roman Catholic mass in the region. Legal documents and signatures of Bonaventure Robicheau, early recorder and justice of the peace, are kept in the dwelling.

Three Flower Shows Highly Praised

R. S. Morton of the Department of Agriculture, Truro, had high praise for the three flower shows held in Digby County at Digby, Weymouth and Meteghan River. Mr. Morton was judge for the shows. Above in the picture are four who helped to make the Digby show a success. Left to right they are Mrs. E. R. Mathers, Mrs. Blanche Porter, Miss Edith Wightman and Mrs. H. M. Warne. Mrs. Mathers and Miss Wightman were hostesses and Mrs. Porter and Mrs. Warne were co-conveners of the show. They admire the bowl of pink roses and green pine which were cleverly combined by Mrs. George Robbins to win 1st prize in the pink perfection list.

Judged the best exhibit in the show was the entry of gladioli by Miss Gail Hersey. Mrs. H. M. Warne's driftwood arrangement took top honors in this class with the judge making special mention of arrangements which appeared in the Digby show sponsored by the Digby Horticultural Society. He considered these the best seen in the valley shows.

In the children's arrangements where young talent is encouraged to aid the beauty of nature by human artistic touch, Deborah Sullivan won first prize in cultivated flowers, Cindy Rowell for novelty and Billie Howell for any other.

Prizes were awarded for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd places. First prizes were won in decoration arrangements by Mrs. W. G. Suttcliffe for Pettit and Chit-Chit; Miss Edith Wightman for Coffee - Break; Mrs. H. M. Warne for Dinner at Eight; In High Places, How Green Was my Valley, Pick A Posy, Beach Party, Harvest Time, Tall Tales, Mother Goose, Sincerity and Beyond Time; Miss Louise Daley for House Beautiful; Mrs. George Robbins for The Pink of Perfection; Mrs. Blanche Porter for It's For the Birds and My Choice; Kenneth Beckwith for The Circle of the Species. Also taking second place in arrangements were Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Warne, Mrs. Eva Wendell, Miss Daley, Mrs. Suttcliffe, Hubert Warne. Third places were won by Mrs. Warne, Mr. Beckwith, Miss Edith Lynch, Mrs. Beckwith, Mrs. W. W. Flett, Mrs. Porter, Mrs. John Russell, Mrs. David O'Connell, Mary Ruth Durrant, Miss Daley, Mrs. George Winfield and Mrs. C. M. Levy. Getting honorable mention were Mrs. Rita Mathers and Mrs. E. H. Anderson.

First prizes in annuals were won by Miss Dora Warne, Mrs. George Winfield, Ralph Berwick, Mrs. D. Comeau, Mrs. A. Cook, Mrs. E. Weyhe, Mr. Beckwith, Miss N. Amoro, Mrs. C. Hersey, Kenneth Harris, Mrs. Robbins, Mrs. J. Condon, Miss Daley, Miss Wightman, Mrs. Warne, Mrs. William Potter. Others receiving prizes for annuals were Mrs. Beckwith, Susan Comeau, Mrs. D. Lewis, Miss Amelia Como, Mrs. C. Hersey, Miss Anna Como, J. W. Tatem, Mrs. Eva Wendell, Miss D. Morehouse and Miss M. Tupper.

First prizes for perennials went to Mrs. D. Comeau, Miss Warne, Mrs. D. Black, Ken Harris, Mrs. Condon, Mrs. Frank Anderson. Others getting prizes in this class were Mr. Berwick, Mrs. Squires, Miss Tupper, Mrs. Weyhe, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Winfield, Mr. Beckwith.

Federations Want Increase In Pulpwood Prices

A brief was presented on Tuesday by the Digby County Federation of Agriculture to the first hearing in Nova Scotia of the Royal Commission to Enquire Into Pulpwood Prices. The meeting was held at the Digby Regional High School under the chairmanship of Lloyd S. Hawboldt, Director of Extension for the Department of Lands and Forests. Secretary was F. E. Scammell of the marketing division for the department.

In the brief the Digby County Federation of Agriculture stated that the price of $12 per cord rough wood at roadside now being obtained for pulpwood was too low and did not give ample return for the producer's product and labor.

It was thought by some present at the meeting that the price of pulpwood was too low to warrant cutting it. It was felt the prices should be stabilized and be more closely in line with increasing prices for newsprint. Costs of labor in cutting pulpwood was estimated at $6 per cord, cutting by the day, and further the cost for getting the wood to the roadside was estimated at $3 per cord. Many present felt that stumpage should be at least $5.

A delegation from the Pulpwood Board of the Annapolis County Federation of Agriculture also voiced disapproval at the present prices of pulpwood. They stated that cutters could not afford to work in the woods for $5 or $6 a day or in the words of one speaker "starvation wages". This had a detrimental effect on the industry because much of the wood is being decayed in the woods and not being cut, they said. By higher prices, the industry would be able to take care of a good amount of the unemployment in rural areas, it was felt, and young people would be encouraged to stay on the farms of rural Nova Scotia. A suggestion of prices was from $18 to $20 per cord of rough wood at the roadside.

Another matter raised by the Annapolis delegation was that of planned reforestation which would bring a new growth in a ten year period.

To Attend Baptist Assemblies

A number of delegates and visitors from the Baptist Church of Digby will be attending one or more of the Baptist assemblies being held at Acadia University commencing this weekend.

The gatherings will include the sessions of the Baptist Federation of Canada, the Atlantic Baptist Convention, the Young People's Convention and the Convention of the Women's Missionary Societies of the Atlantic Provinces. The young people's convention, which will be the first to convene this weekend will be attended by a number of the young people of the Digby and Hill Grove churches for at least one day and transportation is being provided for them.

The pastor of the church, Rev. H. S. Hartlin, resumed his duties in the pulpit last Sunday following his vacation. During his absence the services of the two churches were conducted by Rev. E. C. Churchill, Dr. Harvey Denton, Dr. Denton Neilly, and Rev. L. R. Atkinson.

Many visitors from various sections of the United States and Canada are being greeted at the Sunday morning services of the Digby church.

Family Reunion

A family reunion is taking place after five years at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Theriault, Digby. Home are Cpl. and Mrs. Bruce Davey and four children of Falconbridge, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Langis, of Moncton, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Theriault and son, John Robert, also Mr. and Mrs. Abe Marzouca and son, Patrick, and grandson, Joseph, all of Jamaica, West Indies.

Miss Jean Brittain, who last Friday received her Bachelor of Education degree from Acadia University. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Brittain, Digby.

Degrees From Acadia Summer School

Miss Jean Brittain, of Digby, and Miss Margaret Wilhelm, of Oshington, Tiverton, received their Bachelor of Education degrees at the Acadia University Convocation held on Friday. Bachelor of Arts degrees were received by C. C. MacInnes, Digby, and by Miss Margaret Susan Carson, also of Digby.

Miss Carolyn May Welch, of Westport, obtained a senior diploma in education.

In all 72 degrees and diplomas were conferred at the summer school convocation when the new Acadia president, Dr. J. M. R. Beveridge, officiated at his first convocation at the university.

Dr. Beveridge, who assumed office August 1, conferred an honorary degree of Doctor of Letters upon his predecessor, Dr. Watson Kirkconnell, who was given a standing ovation by the students, faculty and friends.

The new president also bestowed an honorary degree of Doctor of Civil Laws upon Dr. Marion Elder Grant, who retired from the Acadia faculty as Dean of Women in 1963, after serving on the staff since 1936.

Merchants Take N. S. Team 5th First Place In Golf Meet

The "Ober" Oberlander coached Merchants captured top position in the Digby little league standings by defeating the Kiwanis 8-6 on Wednesday, August 13. The Lions and Legion ended in a tie but the Legion took over second spot by virtue of scoring more runs. The final league standings are as follows:

	G	Won	Lost
Merchants	6	4	2
Legion	6	3	3
Lions	6	3	3
Kiwanis	6	2	4

The playoffs got under way on Monday, August 17, and saw the Lions upset the Merchants by the score of 8-5. These semi finals are a two out of three series and are between first and third placed teams and the second and fourth placed teams. In the first semi final game it was fairly close until the fifth inning when the Lions scored 5 runs on one hit and five walks. The Merchants lead 3-0 for the first three innings behind the one hit pitching of Jerry VanTassel. Jerry was replaced by Teddy Weagle in the fourth. Teddy gave up 4 walks, one hit and three runs in the fourth. Jerry VanTassel again took the mound in the fifth inning with the score 8-3. Jerry allowed three hits, one walk and the Kiwanis scored two runs, the final score 8-5.

Robert Denton got a ground rule double in the bottom of the sixth. Mike Wilson was the winning pitcher. He allowed six hits over the six inning route. Incidentally, the Lions were managed by Joe Turnbull in the absence of Mike Moses.

Now that the playoffs are here it would certainly be to the advantage of the adult population to support their little leaguers by attendance at the games. There is very little to choose between the teams as the final standings bear out.

Games this week are on Thursday, Aug. 20, Merchants vs. Lions; Saturday, Aug. 22, Legion vs. Kiwanis. Support your little leaguers.

N. S. Tourist Cars Up By 8,107

Tourist statistics for June and July indicate that visitors to Nova Scotia will exceed the record set last year. Trade and Industry Minister W. S. Kennedy Jones said today.

Last year, 752,000 visitors came to Nova Scotia during the June 1 to Sept. 30 period. They estimated to have spent more than $54,000,000 during that time.

Seventy per cent of the cars entering the province originated in other parts of Canada; the remainder, in the United States.

The largest increase came in traffic entering the province at Caribou in Pictou County. This entry point is the Nova Scotia terminus for the Prince Edward Island ferry. The number of cars entering here increased from 7,860 in June of 1963 to 9,742 in the same period this year.

Total cars for other entry points during the 1964 period were: Amherst, 69,073; Tides, 9,497; Digby, 2,778; Yarmouth, 5,804; and North Sydney, 1,780.

Dr. Kirkconnell said, "You have passed a notable milestone on the highway of knowledge but I will not deceive you, however, into believing that you have reached any destination. The road lies before you, mile after mile. Its length is infinite and its goal as far away as the stars".

Dr. Kirkconnell spoke of the precariousness of the period of history in which we live. "A threat more disastrous than the barbarian invasion of Britain hangs over our world today. The stockpiles of nuclear bombs already in existence, like vast clutches of tarantula eggs would suffice to destroy all living things on our planet and to leave most of its surfaces uninhabitable for centuries".

Dealing with some of the Apostle Paul's pronouncements, Dr. Kirkconnell said in Paul's day, as in ours, there were plenty of men who denied the existence of any values whatsoever.

N. S. Team 5th In Golf Meet

The Nova Scotia team, including Donald Fleet, Digby, came fifth in the Willingdon Cup interprovincial golf play-off at Saskatoon, Sask. on Tuesday.

The Nova Scotia team consisted of: Hope, Dartmouth (152), Bryant, Halifax (150), Locke, Dartmouth (163), and Fleet, Digby (152).

Further word on Thursday showed that Fleet and Hope won their first matches in the elimination play offs.

Digby Summer Visitor Passes In Philadelphia

Mr. Archibald O. Leighton, well known building contractor and long time visitor to Nova Scotia, passed away at the Presbyterian Hospital in Philadelphia on August 17, after a brief illness. Mr. Leighton had been visiting in Smith's Cove, Digby Co. prior to his illness and only returned to Philadelphia where he entered hospital on August 3.

Born in Belfast, Ireland, in 1880, Mr. Leighton would have been 81 on September 7. He was the son of John Alexander Leighton of Belfast, a solicitor, and Caroline (Wilson) Leighton.

He came to Philadelphia in 1906 and founded his construction firm in 1909. He continued active in the firm, Irwin & Leighton, Inc. until his recent illness and at the time of his death was chairman of the board. During his business career he constructed many well known buildings throughout the United States. In World War I he constructed the Camp Dix army base in Maryland and during World War II built a similar base at Aberdeen, Md. Other structures erected by Mr. Leighton's firm include the United States Treasury Annex in Washington, the Union Station in Jacksonville, Fla., Bancroft Hall at the Annapolis Naval College in Maryland; the Fidelity Trust building in Philadelphia; the derelict hangars in Lakehurst, N. J., Hollister Hall and the School of Business and Public Administration at Cornell University, and a number of buildings for the Ford Motor Co. in Detroit.

Mr. Leighton first came to Nova Scotia in 1916 and has been almost a constant summer visitor here since that time. He first rented a house in Digby and later built a summer home in Smith's Cove. He had a great love for Nova Scotia and particularly enjoyed fishing.

Despite his heavy involvement in the construction industry, Mr. Leighton also enjoyed a number of hobbies. Included in these were music and the graphic arts.

Mr. Leighton is survived by his second wife, the former Rose M. Witkowski; by one son, Dr. Alexander H. Leighton, Professor of Psychiatry (Social Psychiatry) and Professor of Sociology and Anthropology, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., and by a daughter, Gertrude Leighton, chairwoman of the department of political science at Bryn Mawr, Penn. Also surviving are two grandchildren. His first wife, Gertrude Hamilton Leighton, predeceased him in 1958.

Funeral services will be held in St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Philadelphia, Thursday afternoon with interment later in the family lot at Smith's Cove, where his first wife is also buried.

Lions Hold Annual Picnic

The Digby Lions Club held their annual picnic on Saturday, August 15, at Defaga Lodge, on Haines Lake.

During the afternoon over a hundred children enjoyed swimming and other activities. Treats and prizes, which included hot dogs, soft drinks and watermelon, were distributed during the afternoon. Cotton candy was also made for the children by a machine procured by the Lions for this occasion.

In the evening the Lions, their wives and guests enjoyed a steak-fry followed by a dance. Chairman for the event was Lion Jack Walker.

Evangeline and Gabriel

Felix Comeau of Meteghan Station and Miss Carmella Comeau of Meteghan River, were selected the Evangeline and Gabriel of the Acadian Festival during the opening ceremonies at the Clare District High School at the Acadian ball. The Evangeline and Gabriel of the festival attended all activities of the program.

Annual Service Old St. Edward's

Very Rev. E. B. Cochran, Dean of Nova Scotia, was the preacher at the 43rd annual memorial service at Old St. Edward's in the Parish of Clements on Sunday afternoon.

Very Rev. Mr. Cochran paid tribute to the pioneers in their ability to create from vision of love and opportunity the kind of community which was to their glory. They found a good way of life. Old St. Edward's was completed in the year 1795 and consecrated in 1797. The church is not used for regular services today, but is maintained as a historic site and an annual service is held.

The Dean also paid tribute to the late Reverend A. W. L. Smith, who served in the Parish of Clements, saying that had it not been for this great man, the Old St. Edward's Church might have disappeared instead of having been restored.

In dealing with the vision of the pioneers, the Very Rev. Mr. Cochran took his text from the Songs of Solomon, chapter 4 verses 16. He said the pioneers had the vision of beauty and song of thanksgiving. They were filled with the joy of serving God and wanted to have a church to which they could gather in service to Him and to others. Today, he said, we have lost some of this and we need to recapture their spirit. He reminded the audience that the rich heritage we possess must be spread to ease the need in many parts of the world for the Saviour was not the saviour of one church or of one group of people, but of all. Millions are waiting to hear the name of Jesus, to know the love of Christ and that someone cares.

Evangelism was said by Rev. H. A. Kay, a former rector at St. Clements, now of New Jersey. Others who took part in the service were Rev. Dr. R. O. Stannard, Anglican Chaplain at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis; Rt. Rev. R. H. Waterman, former Bishop of Nova Scotia; Capt. J. M. Paul, commanding officer, H.M.C.S. Cornwallis and the rector Rev. W. H. Logan.

Music was provided by the choir of the parish with Mrs. W. H. Spurr as organist. The Dutch Hymn of Thanksgiving was sung with the first and last stanzas, (sung by the choir) in the Dutch language.

Parish wardens are Harold Purdy and Eric Jefferson. Chairman of the museum, Miss S. E. G. Macdonald.

On the Wednesday evening previous to Sunday, His Lordship, Bishop R. H. Waterman, celebrated Holy Communion at the historic old church in memory of Bishop Charles Inglis. Bishop Inglis was the man who officiated in the Plan Field Day

Plans have been completed for a Field Day and twilight meeting for the farmers of Digby County and area to be held Friday, August 21.

The field day will begin at two o'clock in the afternoon at the farm of Eugene Chipman in the Bear River area. From there the farmers will move on to visit the farm operations of Harold Apt, Chipman Chisholm, Gerald Chute and Bruce Read, also in the Bear River area. The tour will then proceed to the farm of Ben Seeley Jr., in Lansdowne.

Following the visit to the Seeley farm the group will disperse for supper and then meet again at 6:30 at the farm of Arthur McKay, Hill Grove. Plans are also to visit the farms of Hubert Warne and Arthur Gates, also in the Hill Grove area.

After these visits the group will assemble at the agricultural research sub-station in Hill Grove where a tour of experimental plots of grapes, small fruits, tree fruits, high bush blueberries and other experimental plots will be made.

Guest speaker at the twilight meeting at Hill Grove research sub-station will be Dr. Donald Craig, research officer and head of the small fruits section at the Kentville research station of the federal department of agriculture. Dr. Craig has just returned from Scotland where he undertook an intensive study of small fruit culture. The meeting in Hill Grove will mark Dr. Craig's first appearance at a farm group gathering in Nova Scotia since his return from Scotland.

Another federal agricultural official taking part in the field day and twilight meeting will be Dr. David Crowe, research officer in tree fruits at the Kentville research station. Gordon Kinsman, director of horticultural and biological services for the provincial department of agriculture, will also take part in the program. Others taking part will include Robert Murray, small fruits specialist; Charles Embree, tree fruits specialist; T. Halliburton, vegetable specialist and Eugene Chipman, vegetable research officer. Arrangements for the field day and twilight meeting have been made under direction of Ralph Morehouse, regional representative of the department of agriculture, who will also be in attendance, and William LeFort, local agricultural representative, who will also attend and take part in the field day program and twilight meeting.

About This and That

Friendly Gardens

The flower shows in Digby County are over. Despite the unfavourable weather during the summer, the shows were a success and were enjoyed by a goodly number of people.

But, flower shows are enjoyed by only a limited number of people. As we drove by Deep Brook and Upper Clements during the past couple weeks we could not help noticing those properties with the entire frontage bordered with roses and other summer blooms. They were really a thing of beauty. There they were for all the people who live here to enjoy and also for the tourists to enjoy as they travel our number 1 highway.

As we viewed these gardens, the thought went through our minds that these are friendly or unselfish gardens. There are some of us who have no flower gardens worth showing. There are those of us who have our gardens enclosed within our own back yards to be enjoyed by ourselves and our limited number of friends who visit. But these front lawn gardens — these friendly gardens — are to be enjoyed by every passer by. What a pleasure they are to our own people and how much they must do for that seven letter word "tourism" on which our whole country has learned to depend so much.

We commend the flower shows and congratulate those who have brought them again to success in 1964. We credit them with the interest which has been taken in a great many flower gardens in the last few years. All of the gardens add to the enjoyment of all the people who see them — citizen or tourist from afar. We especially appreciate the "friendly gardens" open to every viewer's eye. These friendly gardens also include the hanging baskets by the Digby Federal Building which are receiving many appreciative comments. They include the parks which are kept up by the horticultural societies and garden clubs. These are the same groups who are responsible for the fine flower shows. Appreciation can be shown these groups by adding still more beautiful gardens — especially more of the friendly gardens.

What A Lovely Garden Plot

Maybe it is pure selfishness on our part at the Courier office for we would like to look across and enjoy a nice flower garden or park kept up by somebody who had the time, the wealth and knowledge about gardens. Maybe it is none of our business to snoop into the affairs of private companies or persons. But, how often we've thought that the Acadian Lines parking area could be made a place of beauty in Digby town. How attractive that triangular plot could be made for the benefit of our visitors who travel by bus, train and boat — all three.

Especially have we thought about the lovely garden plot since the Acadia Lines does not seem to be using the plot of ground at the present time. Especially did we think about it when we saw bus passengers sitting on suit cases in public view in front of a closed bus stop and with nothing more to do than to look at the bare paved sidewalk. A bench or two among some flower beds would add greatly to the pleasure and comfort of the waiting passenger. But this was only a thought in our "not too bright" head. We don't want to interfere where we have no business to do so. Or, is it our business?

Something To Attract

We are carrying a story this week (or our intention is to do so) on the increase of visitors to Nova Scotia. We take the statement for granted. We have no intention of denying it. The one thing which struck us was that the largest increase came in traffic entering the province at Caribou in Pictou County. The increase of cars entering at this point from Pictou Island was almost 2,000 over June and July of last year and the whole increase of cars entering the province was 8,107. The question we want to ask is how many of the 2,000 increase were Nova Scotians who had gone to P.E.I. for the province's special celebrations and were returning via Caribou. If so, can these really be counted as tourists or visitors entering the province?

Whether these were Nova Scotians returning from P.E.I., or visitors who were also taking in the Province of Nova Scotia we do not know but in any case we figure that "something to attract" in P.E.I. accounted for the increase. We doubt if 2,000 more Islanders were coming to N.S. to visit.

Which also brings up the point, how many more tourists might we have had in Nova Scotia if the World's Fair in New York had not competed. That again, was something to attract visitors. Or, could it be that we benefited by the World's Fair in far away visitors.

We note the total number of cars entering the province through Digby in June and July numbered 2,778. Sorry, we have no figures for comparison right now. Have you? Maybe we need "something to attract" at this part of the province.

We Are Not Doing Our Duty

(Hants Journal)

The shocking tragedy in Halifax last week end must serve to bring home to us the plain fact that we are shirking our duties in not providing sufficient avenues of care for poor unfortunates who suffer in health in such a manner that the events of last week can happen. Certainly we need more facilities for these people that they should receive care and attention and perhaps more education directed towards parents that they should see what is happening to their children in such cases might be the answer. But something should be done, and done immediately. All the care and education in the world would not prevent every happening such as this from taking place but if even a small percentage were avoided, the money involved would be well spent.

I knew little Jimmy Squires well. I had watched him grow up for the past seven years, the light of his parents' eyes and it was a bitter thing to look at the child in his coffin in the Lutheran Church of Chester on Tuesday afternoon and realize that, somewhere along the line, we had failed to such an extent that this fine little life, along with another, had been suddenly snuffed out by someone who should evidently have been under psychiatric care long ago, the care he is now receiving when it is too late.

If we have shirked our responsibilities in the past because of a price tag, it is not too late to start anew.

Gets Acclaim As Writer

Lawrence Dakin, son of Mrs. Jeanette Dakin, Granville Beach, and the late Mr. Blair Dakin of Sandy Cove, Digby Co., has won high acclaim as a world wide poet and writer.

The New York Tribune said "It was a happy stroke of fate that led Lawrence Dakin, a graduate of Columbia University Medical School, to abandon his study of medicine and turn to literature."

Mr. Dakin after giving up medicine studied at Sorbonne in Paris, and at the Ca Foscari in Venice. He speaks six languages fluently and reads nine. He has made translations from the Italian of Leonardo, Pascoli and Zanelli from the Greek of Anacreon and Sappho; from Spanish folk songs and the works of Jose Ciscano, Ruben Dario and Becquer; and from the French of Verlaine and Ronsard. In turn Mr. Dakin's works have been translated into Spanish, Italian, French and Armenian.

His sonnets and lyrics have won praises from Tagore, Indian poet and mystic, and the late John Masfield. The late Burns Martin in the Dalhousie Review spoke of his work "Marco Polo" as "rich and varied the whole drama shot through with exquisite lyric". Professor George P. Oikonomos of the Academy of Athens wrote of Mr. Dakin's "Prometheus, the Fire Giver" "A beautiful lyric drama by a deep and inspired creator".

His "Dream of Abaris" and poem "The Skylark" have been translated into Italian for use in the schools in Italy.

"Tancered" was the first work of this talented Canadian poet to be published in Canada. Critics in England, where most of his works have been published, give him a high place among contemporary poets. A skilled craftsman, his work exhibits sincerity, strength and beauty, emerging in exquisite word patterns. Richard Church said of his two earlier works, "The sincerity of mood, the range of consciousness, and the full material cannot fail to satisfy the fastidious reader".

Much of Mr. Dakin's life has been spent in Europe, though he has lived in South America and Asia. His home now is in Sava, Fiji Islands. He is married and has one son, Marco.

Letter to the Editor

2138 East Highlands, Brenton, Washington.

To the Editor, The Digby Courier.

Dear Mrs. Wallis: Upon our return home I was indeed very happy to find the Courier awaiting with the fine write up, a triple spread in the centre of the front page! Thank you, A nice memento of what I expect was our last wonderful vacation to east coast. We are getting along in years, you know.

I enjoyed reading all twelve pages of Courier, including the ads. Find all the familiar names in the same villages. How well I remember correcting the county correspondents' notes, having to rewrite them in some instances.

Your editorial on Victoria Bridge was especially noted. I heartily agree with your comments. We were surprised to find the old single lane bridge (of my childhood and land knows how many years previous!) with its dangerous approaches, still in existence. Since Nova Scotia advertises and promotes its scenic wonders, among other things, to attract strangers, a new safe bridge would seem all important for strangers not acquainted with the present antiquated structure. I'd hate to meet a truck on that bridge of a dark, stormy night and have to back up half its length.

Thanks again for the fine write up. And may you and the Courier enjoy long and continued success.

Sincerely, Muriel (Dunham) Innes

Church Point Harbor Dredged

Dredging of 2200 cubic yards of sand and mud from the Church Point harbour by Ulysse and Elzee Doucet, of Bellevue Cove, sub-contractors, has just been completed. This will enable the fishing boats to enter or leave the wharf earlier than they previously were able.

The largest herring curing plant in the Municipality of Clare and possibly western Nova Scotia is situated at Church Point wharf and the dredging will allow fishing boats to enter and leave before the tide is low. No boats can enter Church Point wharf at low tide as there is not sufficient water.

Vinegar cured and smoked herring are processed in the Frankland Canning Company Ltd. fish plant and over 35 carloads are shipped from here each year. Fresh fish is landed here and trucked to filleting plants in other areas nearby.

NEW MILL IN OPERATION LEWIS LUMBER

COMPANY LIMITED

Rebuilds After Fire Of March 11

MILL IN OPERATION SIX WEEKS

The first shipment of lumber from the newly reconstructed mill of the Lewis Lumber Co. Ltd. in Weymouth built to replace the Lewis Mill destroyed by fire on March 11, 1964, has left Weymouth North.

Carrying more than a million feet of lumber produced at the Lewis mill, the German freighter "Jenny Porr" cleared harbor at Weymouth North recently for Garston, England. Agents and overseas shippers for the Lewis Lumber Co. Ltd. are the Minas Basin Pulp and Power Co. Ltd. of Hantsport.

The new Lewis Lumber Co. Ltd. mill in Weymouth construction of which was started April 20th, is modern in design and layout. The main building, of metal construction, is 30 by 130 feet in size. Adjacent to the new mill is the "green chain" where the produced lumber is sorted, graded and piled. This structure is 80 by 100 feet in size.

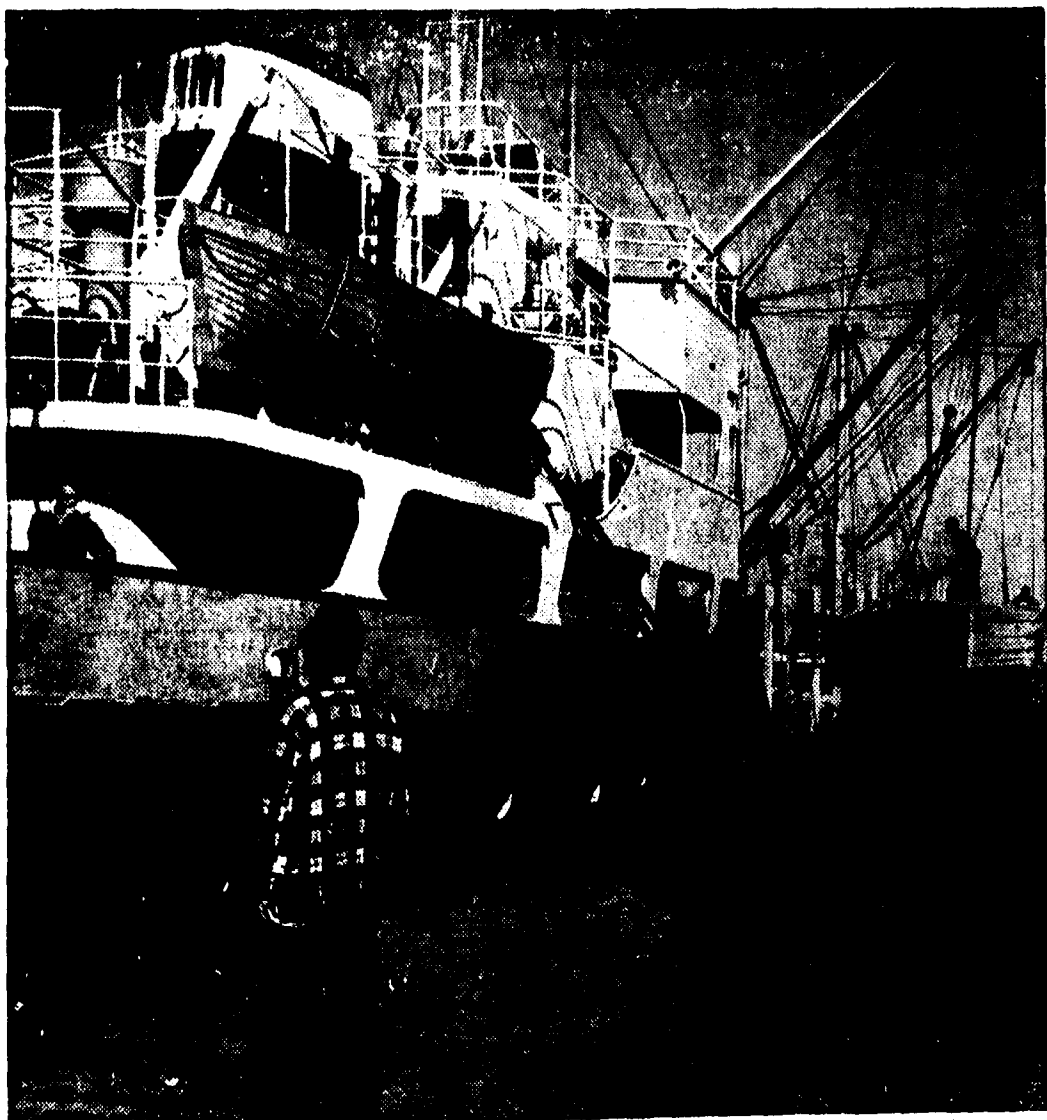

Motive power for the new mill is entirely electric. Production averages some 20,000 feet per day. In addition the new plant is equipped with a debarker and chipper and average chip production is 11 cords per day. A safety waste burner has also been constructed for the new mill.

The Lewis Lumber Co. Ltd., which was incorporated in 1951, was founded in the early 1940's by Harry Lewis who is president of the company. Other officers are Gifford Lewis, vice president and Clyde Cosman, secretary-treasurer. The fire this March which destroyed the lumber company's mill marked the second time the plant was destroyed by fire. The first blaze, which occurred in August, 1959, also wiped out the plant and a new plant was soon in operation.

On its direct payroll the Lewis Lumber Company, one of Weymouth's largest employers of labor, employs some 75 men. Indirectly it also provides income and employment to many more people in the area, woodsmen who sell their logs to the firm, truckers and suppliers.

The new mill was built on a different site than the one burned in March. Near the bottom of the picture can be seen the rubble and burned remnants of the old mill.

Lumber For England

The German freighter "Jenny Porr" is shown above at Weymouth North loading a cargo of one million feet of lumber for Garston, England. The lumber was produced in the newly reconstructed mill of Lewis Lumber Company Limited in Weymouth and was the first shipment from the new mill, built to replace a mill destroyed by fire in March, 1964. The toast to the bride was proposed by her brother, Marcel.

For a wedding trip to Prince Edward Island, the bride chose a pink suit with white accessories.

The bride was on the teaching staff of Clare High School. They will reside at Gagetown, N.B., where Lance Corporal Boudreau is stationed.

Deveau — Deveau

A lovely wedding took place at St. Vincent de Paul Church Salmon River, when Teresa Marie Deveau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Camille Deveau of Mavillette, became the bride of Martin Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garry Deveau of Mavillette.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. L. Comeau, pastor. Mrs. Clarence Comeau rendered the wedding music and Mrs. Arthur Hall was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long gown of white organza with fitted bodice and scalloped applied neckline. The sleeves tapered to the wrists and delicate appliques trimmed the flared skirt. Her bouffant veil of illusion was held in place by a headdress of flowers and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Clayton Kaiser, sister of the bride, was matron of honour. The bride's little twin nieces, Donna and Doreen Kaiser, acted as flower girls.

The bridegroom was attended by Clayton Kaiser. Following the marriage ceremony, a reception was held at Snare Lake Lodge. Mr. and Mrs. Deveau will reside in Halifax.

Wade — Robar

Elaine Anne, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Parker Robar of Clements vale, became the bride of William Bruce Wade, son of Mr.

and Mrs. William Wade of Annapolis Royal, in a ceremony at Deep Brook. Rev. George Brydson officiated.

The bride wore a street-length dress of white nylon sheer with lace bodice and carried a nosegay of red and white roses.

A reception was held following the ceremony, at the home of the bride, for relatives and immediate friends.

For travelling the bride chose a beige sheath gown with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations and lily of the valley. After a motor trip through the province they will make their home in Annapolis Royal, where Mr. Wade is employed.

Cornwallis Sailor Loses Leg In Accident

Twenty-five year old Able Seaman John Guy of HMCS Cornwallis was flown to HMCS Stadacona at Halifax by helicopter on Saturday after having lost one of his legs in an accident at Joggin Bridge, near Digby, last week.

The accident involved two vehicles but Guy, according to reports was not a passenger in either. A truck, said to be driven by Herbert Caldwell, Deep Brook, was in collision with a car driven by Pearl Whynot, of Kingston, N.S.

Details of the accident are not completed but authorities think it possible that the seaman was walking on the highway. Neither driver is reported as having seen him.

The sailor's leg was completely severed from his body at the time of the accident. The drivers of the vehicles, and Mrs. Whynot, who was a passenger in her husband's car, were not injured.

Mrs. Guy is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Caldwell, of Deep Brook, formerly of Clementsport.

Licensed To Hunt Moose

The names of 400 successful applicants in last Friday's drawing for a licence to hunt moose were released today by Lands and Forests Minister E. D. Haliburton. Those successful in Digby County were Willard A. Carter, Digby; Aubrey M. Elliott, Tiverton; James McDormand, Westport; and Joseph P. Thibault, Weymouth. In Annapolis County successful applicants were Barry M. Baxter, Clementsport; Harry E. Burgoyne, Middleton; Stanley K. Grim, Annapolis Royal; Donald Leroy Johnson, RR3 Middleton; C. Landry, of Annapolis Royal; Gerald Mack, of Bridgetown; William Rice, Bear River; Basil V. Saunders, of Granville Ferry; James Walsh, Annapolis Royal; Rev. Paul Underwood, Annapolis Royal; and Wilbert Gerald Watson, Middleton.

All counties with the exception of Victoria had successful applicants. Cumberland County led with 96 winners, followed closely by Colchester, 92; Halifax, 91; Pictou, 38 and Antigonish, 14.

The winners, including 25 women, may buy a permit at $15 to shoot one moose of either sex from Sept. 23 to Oct. 3 in the northern counties of Colchester, Cumberland, Pictou and Antigonish.

One hundred reserve members were also drawn from the nearly 7,000 applications by G. D. Anderson, Halifax, president of the Nova Scotia Fish and Game Association. These applicants will get a chance to buy a permit if any of the first 400 does not pay the fee before Sept. 8.

Sister Rosella Blinn of the religious order of Notre Dame du Sacre Coeur of Moncton, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Blinn of Comeauville, took her perpetual vow in the order recently at special religious ceremonies held at St. Joseph, N.B.

His Excellency Mgr. Norbert Robichaud officiated at low mass and also preached the sermon of circumstances. He was assisted by Rev. Hector Léger, provincial of the Ste. Croix congregation of priesthood, of Pres-d'En-haut, N.B. and Rev. Yvon Barbeau, secretary of his Excellency.

Sister Rosella Blinn is well known in the parish of St. Mary's with its headquarters at Church Point, having completed her studies in the Clare schools at Comeauville and the Gay School, Saulnierville.

Bazaar Proceeds Fifth Annual Double and More Flower Show

The gross proceeds of the annual Hospital Bazaar sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Digby General Hospital and held at Digby Regional High School on August 19th, exceeded $2000.00. The expenses entailed were less than $125.00. This is more than double the proceeds of the previous year, and exceeded the estimates of the most optimistic of the members.

Outside groups sponsoring booths were the Southville - Riverdale organization, the Acaciaville organization, and the Women's Institute of Bear River. In addition the Digby Auxiliary provided the following attractions: the stork club booth, the apron booth, the doll booth, fancy work booth, a plant booth, a grab booth, a book booth, a parcel post booth, a candy booth, and the blanket booth. Many of the articles offered for sale at the various booths were donated by interested groups in outside communities. There were generous donations from St. Bernard's Parish, Weymouth, Ashmore, and Little River, Centreville, Westport, and East Ferry.

The Digby Firemen assisted by providing an opportunity to play "Bingo", and a salad supper was served.

Some years ago an outside Hospital Auxiliary was organized in Freeport. This group has been exceedingly active, holding annually its own supper and sale. Recently this group presented the Digby Auxiliary with a cheque for $1000.00 to be used to sponsor a room in the new Digby General Hospital. This amount has not been included in the gross proceeds quoted above. This community effort was highly commended by the parent auxiliary.

Much of the final planning for the Bazaar was done when the Digby Auxiliary held its regular meeting at the cottage of Mrs. Sidney Smith on Porter's Lake.

Among the members of the winning team, all stationed at Camp Gagetown, N.B., is Sgt. Vincent Kavanaugh, of Stittsville, Ont., son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Marshall, Digby.

Kiwanis vs Merchants In Finals

The Kiwanis defeated the Legion in two straight games to enter the (by virtue) finals and the Merchants took the two out of three series from Lions by a 7-4 victory on Monday, August 24.

The Jerry Campbell coached Legion team after being defeated badly in the first contest bounced back to put up a very tough battle before bowing out 6-5 to the Kiwanis on Saturday, August 22. Incidentally, this particular game produced good ball, excellent pitching and by far the best all around game of the year. Kurt Maas pitched for the Legion and went all the way and allowed a total of three hits, struck out thirteen batters, walked one and hit one while allowing six runs. Paul Butler and Max Woolaver pitched three innings a piece for the Kiwanis. They allowed a total of five runs, four hits, three walks and struck out nine batters. This game saw doubles being hit by McVeigh and Woolaver for the Kiwanis and Higgins and Maas for the Legion.

The Moses managed Surette coached Lions were knocked out of the running for the championship of the Digby Little League when behind the four hit pitching of Jerry VanTassel the Merchants took the Lions by the score of 7-4. This game produced poor base running by the Lions who had three base runners caught at third base. Players like Hodgson, Pleasant, Theriault and Stevenson played very well and scored three of the four runs the Lions were able to gather. The other scores in this series were 8-5 for the Lions and 13-7 for the Merchants.

The finals start on Wednesday night at 6 o'clock. This

The school is financed by the School Boards of both Annapolis and Digby Counties.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Everett spent their vacation in Saint John.

series will end on Monday, August 31. The Ober Oberlander coached Merchants and the Brown managed and Wood coached Kiwanis will provide the calibre of ball that should be a down to the wire game series. Really get out and back your team.

The drawing for the $50.00 will take place at the ball field on Monday, August 31.

Jimmie Wade Does Recordings Of Folk Songs

Falls 30 Feet

A Deep Brook man is in Digby Hospital with scalp lacerations and back and knee injuries as a result of a 30-foot fall.

Gordon Long, 47, a civilian employee at HMCS Cornwallis, was working at repairs to one of the housing blocks on Monday when the staging broke and he fell to the concrete below.

He was taken by ambulance to Digby Hospital where he received more than a dozen stitches in the scalp and several in the knee.

A fellow worker, Murray Potter, of Clementsvalle, was able to hold on and was brought to the ground by ladder.

Jimmie Wade

Talents of three Digby people combined to produce the recording for a Toronto company of four Maritime folk songs. The voice which brings the songs to the enjoyment of the public is that of Jimmie Wade, Digby, who possesses a fine baritone to tenor range.

Words for the folk songs were written by Mrs. Helen Thurber, Digby, and the music was written by both Mrs. Thurber and Mrs. Frances Peters. The songs recorded for the Toronto company and which are on sale locally are Blue, Blue Tartan, Hello Marjimes, Eight Sails In The Breeze and Ballad of the Blue-nose.

The musical background was provided by Duke Nielsen, Vic Mullin and Cecil McEachern of the Don Messer's Jubilee show on TV.

Mrs. Thurber, who has also done some history writing, has been writing words for folk songs for the past few years and has had a number set to music. Her first number was Blue Tartan, the music for which was written by Eline Eaton.

Mrs. Peters has been known especially for her dancing, having taught various types of dancing and having some of her students appear on TV programs.

Mr. Wade is presently employed at the Digby post office. He was born in Edmundston, N.B., and later moved to Fredericton where he sang with different choirs and in various concerts.

While working with Mussons (Canada) Ltd., the company sponsored Wade on a radio program over CFNB. For a while he lived in Montreal where he voluntarily made use of his voice in night clubs. In the Royal Canadian Navy his only performances were as a member of naval choirs.

Since in Digby he has been a member of the Digby Baptist Church choir. His talent was discovered more particularly in Digby, however, through his participation in a recent Minstrel Show sponsored by the Digby Lions Club.

Improved TV Reception For S. W. Nova Scotia

The Canadian Broadcasting Corp. recently announced plans for improvement of television reception in southwestern Nova Scotia. The CBC said in Halifax that applications currently before the Board of Broadcast Governors are designed to bring about improved service in large sections of Yarmouth, Digby and Shelburne counties.

Viewers in that section of the province watch the program service of CBHT in Halifax via a chain of three television rebroadcasting stations located at Liverpool, Shelburne and Yarmouth. Each of these stations receives the program signal, off-air, in much the same manner as a home television receiver, then amplifies it and retransmits it on another channel.

The CBC's plans call for a change in the antenna site of the Yarmouth rebroadcasting station, in order to permit an increase in the height of the antenna and an increase in power. The rebroadcasting station at Liverpool, N.S., also would have its antenna height increased.

Applications for the necessary changes at Liverpool and Yarmouth will be heard at the public hearing of the Board of Broadcast Governors, to be held in Halifax on September 1. The major change for CBHT-1, at Liverpool, would be an increase of 422 feet in height of the antenna to 647 feet EHAAT (estimated height above average terrain). This would be designed to help reception of the Liverpool signal at CBHT-2, Shelburne, which, in turn, sends the program signal on to Yarmouth.

The Yarmouth transmitter, CBHT-3, which transmits on channel 11, would have its power boosted from 426-watts video to 15,900-watts video; and from 256-watts audio to 7,900-watts audio. The increase in power, combined with an increase to 620-feet EHAAT of the antenna, should provide good television reception to much larger areas of southwestern Nova Scotia.

The CBC said it expects that these changes, if approved, would see the "A" contour of the Yarmouth signal extend area.

Exchange Cadets For Training

Thirty-four United States sea cadets have completed a two week training course at Cornwallis naval base, and 16 Canadian cadets are undergoing training in New York City, a navy spokesman said in Halifax Wednesday. The exchange program was organized by sea cadet headquarters in both countries.

The U.S. cadets were flown to Nova Scotia by U.S. navy aircraft. They trained with Canadian cadets in the regular summer program at Cornwallis.

The cadets must be 17 years or older and must have the rank of leading cadet or higher to be eligible for exchange training.

Mrs. Charles Ellis of Saint John, N.B., has returned home after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Roger Winchester.

from Lower West Pubnico, in Yarmouth county, to Saulnierville, in Digby county.

The CBC added that it expected the "B" contour would embrace the area lying west of a line drawn from the outskirts of Digby to the outskirts of Shelburne.

At present, CBHT-3, Yarmouth, is received well within only a small portion of that the Yarmouth signal extend area.

About This and That

Volume XC No. 1

We almost feel like celebrating at The Digby Courier as we write Volume XC No. 1. We have entered our 90th year of publication. However, the way we figure it, we are not a fully fledged nonagenarian until we have completed the 90th year. So, we're simply be thankful for the successful completion of one more volume and for the past 89 years in which the Courier had the opportunity of serving the public.

We look forward to this ninetieth year with much enthusiasm and hope to complete the ninetieth year as successfully as the past.

Little League Baseball

Who can look at the pictures of the Little League Baseball players without feeling a spark of emotion? Here are lads of tender years with their time, their minds and their energies occupied with something interesting, healthful and educational. They are probably not being educated during these summer months in spelling, history and science but Little League Baseball is teaching them fair play. It is teaching them that it is fun to work and play together without thought of discrimination in race, creed or wealth. Little League Baseball teaches the young lads how to be good sports. Little League Baseball is keeping the little leaguers from being misdirected to mischief. They cannot help but be better off for having joined a team.

But none of this could be possible for these sixty or seventy boys if some grown ups didn't unselfishly give of their own time to direct the boys in this worthwhile occupation. None of this could be possible either if the Lions, the Kiwanians, the merchants and the League didn't sponsor the teams.

The whole town and all of society will surely be better off from the efforts and generosity of those who coached, managed, donated or in some way helped the Little Leaguers.

Airstrip

We became quite excited a few weeks ago when we heard a rumor that an airstrip was going to be opened between Digby and Grand Manan. We haven't heard anymore so we take it that it was a rumor. Then following on the heels of that story we heard that an airstrip had been started in Digby. The man who was supposed to have started the airstrip was named. A telephone call soon placed that story in its right place.

But, now we wish the stories had not been rumors. We need an airstrip in Digby. If we had one we believe it would be used a great deal. Just a couple of weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Nangeroni from Ithaca, N.Y., flew here in a private plane but they had to land at Greenwood over five miles away. This is only one instance. We expect there are many more.

Education On Cigarette Smoking

We've come to acknowledge that there is a direct link between cigarette smoking and cancer of the lungs. We are so sure of this that a program of education on the hazards from cigarette smoking is to be introduced into our Nova Scotia schools. While Judy LaMarsh hasn't ordered the educational program in Nova Scotia was must give her credit for being persistent in her effort against a health hazard. Her stand probably wasn't welcomed by cigarette manufacturers or many smokers but non-popularity with these did not phase Miss LaMarsh.

However, getting back to the Nova Scotia educational program on the subject - what better place than in the school room can this be taught? Since there are so few parents (mothers and fathers) who do not smoke today and who do not intend to give up the habit, the home cannot be relied upon to get the educational program across. It is difficult to teach what you do not practice. At least, few, if any, teachers smoke in the class room. If they smoke outside the example is not directly before the students.

Why have so many people taken up smoking? Usually it is not so much that they enjoy it for its own sake but simply because they want to be one of the gang or appear to be grown up. If cigarette smoking is a health hazard, the school is the best place to get the idea across.

What about the ill affects from "drinking" If there are any we probably need a Judy LaMarsh to put them across to the public.

Motivation

The boy had been a school drop-out before that term was popular. He had taken to hanging around the steps of the local hotel, where older men and unemployed workers and transients visited and loafed. He complained bitterly of not being able to get decent work "in this slow burgh."

A retired farmer, who often sunned himself in front of the same hotel, took a notion to the boy. First he won his confidence with idle chatter; and then he began to work on the lad's character.

"One thing you've got," he told the lad, "is time aplenty, and your folks support. Ever think what you could do with that time?"

"There's nothing to do," the boy said.

"One thing," his old friend said, "you could do. You could be the cleanest, neatest looking young man in town. You have the time, in the morning, to bath and shave and fix yourself up. Lots of men must hurry that job. You have time."

"And I bet you'd like to be strong," he added. "Most men would. You have time for exercise. You could put on some running shoes and shorts and trot a mile or two a day. First thing you know, you'd be in better condition, physically, than any other fellow in these parts."

That boy is a leading merchant in his community today. The old man got him started working on himself. Later, he helped get him a job, clerking in the local general store. Within a few years, he helped him get a loan to buy a store of his own. The boy made good. What he had needed most was motivation - the knowledge that whether you are on someone else's payroll or not, you can go to work at once on yourself.

Human Kindness

That there are plenty of people who have a great deal of human kindness in their hearts and will go out of their way to alleviate pain and suffering of our feathered friends, also of animals, is indicated by news stories which appear in print from time to time.

Take the case of Jack Nichols, a Digby truck driver, who, at Tiverton, broke through the concrete top of a wharf to rescue a cat which was slowly starving to death. Then there was the case of George Benson, who delayed building operations until a brood of robins were able to fly. Another story reported Miss Louise Daley caring for four baby barn swallows who had been deserted by their mother, and of feeding them with a pair of tweezers.

Stories like this are in twofold contrast to those so often heard of wanton destruction of wild life. It is a great pity that thoughts of human kindness could not be uppermost in the minds of all people at all times, so that needless pain and suffering would be a thing unheard of. - Progress Enterprise, Lunenburg, N.S.

Wedding Of Interest At Smith's Cove

Everett — Robbins

A wedding of wide interest was solemnized at the Smith's Cove Baptist Church on Friday, August 7, at 7:30 p.m. when Judith Jean Robbins, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Glendon Robbins of Smith's Cove, was united in marriage to Nolen Reginald Everett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Everett, of Bear River. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. G. D. Brydon, Deep Brook.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white ballerina length gown of lace over satin. The long pointed sleeves of the lace jacket were trimmed with self covered buttons at the finger tips. While the bodice of the gown was trimmed with a satin bow, the full skirt featured lace and net mill details. The shoulder-length veil of nylon tulle was held in place by a crown of simulated pearls. Her American Beauty bouquet was of gardenias with lily of the valley held together with a large florist bow of the same color.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Christine Berry, as bridesmaid. Her pink dress was of nylon over taffeta with scoop neckline. The satin-trimmed jacket was of lace with long sleeves. With her small white pillbox hat topped with a tiny veil, she wore matching shoes. She carried a nosegay of pink and white gardenias and lily of the valley with pink and white streamers.

The best man was Blair Everett, brother of the groom. Ushers were Louis Riley, of Moschelle, and Russell Snow, of Hamilton, Ont., uncles of the bride.

The mother of the bride chose a three piece navy blue suit with white accessories and a corsage of white roses. The mother of the groom chose a pink suit with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Mrs. J. J. Wallis was organist for the occasion. Mrs. J. M. Wallis sang The Wedding Prayer before the bride entered the church. During the signing of the register she sang Lord Who at Cana's Wedding Feast.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception for approximately one hundred was held in the church vestry. Miss Joanne Robbins, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book and was assisted by her cousin, Miss Vivian Hewey.

For travelling through various places of interest in Nova Scotia, the bride chose a three piece dark knit suit of blue with white accessories. Her corsage was of white roses.

The happy couple will reside in Clementsport.

Humphrey — Swift

Basketbuns of white tiny chrysanthemums adorned the altar and pink and white roses and lily of the valley marked the guest pews of Douglas Avenue Christian Church, in Saint John, N. B., when Donna Gail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde A. Swift, of Saint John, formerly of Westport, N. S., and Norman Carl Humphrey, son of Mrs. Manning MacNeill and the late Edward Humphrey, Lancaster, were united in marriage on July 25.

Rev. Cecil D. Fletcher officiated. Donald Welsford played the nuptial music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Shirley Atkins.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Mrs. Thomas Lynch as matron of honor. Miss Kitchener, the bride wore a Nancy Doreen Lee were the bridesmaids. Miss Cindy Lee Taylor was flower girl. Edward Humphrey was the best man and the ushers were James Humphrey and Douglas Lee.

The bride was wearing a floor length gown of peau de faillie with Sabrina neckline. The controlled skirt with side panels was designed with silk braid and seed pearls and extended into a train. Her elbow length veil of nylon net fell from a coronet of pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Her attendants wore nylon over taffeta in shades of blue.

Brooks — Tetroe

At 11 o'clock on August 8 in Essex Anglican Church the Rev. Walter Barnes united in marriage Muriel Carole Tetroe and Howard Ernest Brooks. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. J. H. Tetroe, of Parkside St., South Windsor, and the late Flight Lieutenant Tetroe, and Howard is the son of Mrs. Doris Brooks of Kitchener and the late Mr. Ernest L. Brooks.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Mrs. Thomas Lynch as matron of honor. Miss Kitchener, the bride wore a Nancy Doreen Lee were the bridesmaids. Miss Cindy Lee Taylor was flower girl. Edward Humphrey was the best man and the ushers were James Humphrey and Douglas Lee.

Melanson — Nadon

One of the season's prettiest August weddings was solemnized Saturday afternoon when Miss Irene Nadon became the bride of Albert Melanson at St. Anthony's Cathedral.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nadon of Timmins. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Alvina Melanson of Weymouth, N. S., and the late Dr. H. J. Melanson.

The church was decorated with red roses. Rev. G. Gell has officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Elizabeth Chabot of Sudbury, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Jean - Louis Brisson, of Ansonville, sang traditional wedding hymns, accompanied at the organ by Miss Helene Pitre.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk faced peau with a bodice of pearl embroidered Algonquin lace. Embroidered silk peau bordered the elbow length sleeves. A removable Watteau train with pearl and crystal embroidery, highlighted the emerald gown. She wore a pouf veil and carried a bouquet of red roses.

The matron of honour was Mrs. Pleurette Galipeau, of Timmins. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Leona Bradet of Montreal, and Mrs. Elizabeth Chabot of Sudbury, all sisters of the bride.

They chose gold silk peau

bell shaped gowns. Cording of silk peau accentuated the scoop necklines and at the waistline was a bronze rose of chiffon. They wore bronze point veils attached to pleated pill box hats and white gloves. Their bouquets were of white flowers with gold silk peau leaves.

The best men were Jerry Chabot of Sudbury, Gilles Bradette of Montreal, and Arnel Galipeau of Timmins. Ushers were Marcel Bourdon and Robert Mainville of Timmins.

Following the ceremony a wedding reception was held at the Imperial Room of the Empire Hotel.

The bride's mother received the guests and wore a greyish blue lace sheath dress with jacket in silk organzine peau. She chose champagne tone accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a light blue lace sheath dress with three-quarter length coat. She chose whipped cream tone accessories.

Later the newlyweds left on a wedding trip to the Maritime Provinces and Eastern United States. For travelling the bride changed to a blue and gold sheath dress with three-quarter length cape trimmed with black fringe and gold accessories.

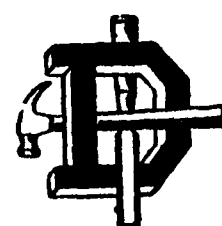

On their return they will reside at 165 Deschamps, Ottawa, where the groom is a fourth year medical student at Ottawa University.

Letter to the Editor

Smith's Cove, N. S.
24 August, 1964.
To The Editor,
The Digby Courier,
Digby, N. S.
Dear Mrs. Wallis:

I have just had an opportunity to look at a copy of "Le Droit", a well known and highly rated French Canadian newspaper published in Ottawa. In it was given the results of a recent poll taken on the flag issue by a nationally known organization. I was interested to learn of the results and feel that your readers may also like to see them. They showed that in every Province of Canada, with the exception of Quebec, the majority of the people are in favor of the retention of the Red Ensign. In the Province of Quebec, however, the opposite situation exists very noticeably. There some 3,650,000 voted in favor of the new flag with the three red maple leaves while only 160,000 supported the Red Ensign.

With this very sobering thought before me I am searching for the reason. Surely the Red Ensign has something in its favor which Quebec might consider. Is it not emblazoned with the arms of Canada, which include the arms of England, Scotland, Ireland, the old Royal Standard of France, as well as the three maple leaves. Besides having been flown in Canada since 1892 it has legal recognition since 1924 when Parliament enacted a law providing that it should be flown over all Canadian buildings abroad. It has always been carried by Canadian teams in the Olympics. It was flown in two world wars. It was flown over the Peace Tower of the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa on V. E. Day in 1945, and since that date, and has always been the symbol of Canada at the United Nations.

In this modern world of continuous changes surely we should retain something of the emotional past against which to brace ourselves.

Sincerely,
Paul Davidson.

August 9, 1964.
To The Editor,
The Digby Courier,
Dear Mrs. Wallis:

As I have been thinking over our holidays I decided to write you the impressions of various aspects, more as a summary of my opinions which no doubt express the same of many others who spend time in your town or nearby.

Your post office staff are a credit to your town, in their friendly, helpful ways, which really are beyond their duties. Although they were often very busy they were never impatient and I feel they are giving your town a "friendly" air. The majority of the clerks in the stores, banks, etc., were pleasant, and may I add that you and your office girls have an inviting attitude that encourages folks to want to return to Digby.

The horticultural society deserves much credit for the added beauty at the Admiral Digby Well, the old cemetery and the baskets on front street and your editorials have at-ready touched on that, and the lovely flowers in private gardens.

We found that Digby County had everything that the average tourist would want, it was bass fishing or deep sea fishing, swimming in salt water on sandy beaches or at fresh water lakes.

The fish and game association has done a wonderful job on Haynes Lake for swimming, near Defaga Lodge, and the Kiwanis Club of Weymouth at their park on Journey Lake.

Fresh fruit, wild berries as well as cultivated fresh vegetables, eggs, poultry are all plentiful, and fresh fish such as scallops, haddock, clams and "quo haugs" (that may be spelled wrong the last two could be dug as a form of entertainment and roasted on an open fire on a beach nearby.

Where can the scenery be surpassed? The beautiful sunsets watched from Point Prim or Sunset Hill are a joy to those who love nature and have an extra hour "to run out of town". A drive through the Acacia Valley while the Acacia trees are in bloom is a great pleasure for the flower lovers.

One can find two large Christian Camps in Digby County, a R.C. one near Concession, and one belonging to the Church of Christ Disciples at South Range. These show the interest and hard work of the churches concerned, and a great deal of commendation should be given them.

Digby County has its share of painters and many visit Mrs. Lewis at Marshalltown, and Mr. Raymond at Smith's Cove, and receive a welcome.

Those interested in bird watching can find a special welcome at the home of Miss Louise Daley, and many spots in the county are well known for bird migration in the fall. Banding is carried on at Briar Island. The annual field day for N. S. was held in Digby vicinity this year.

July is the month that one can plan on seeing parades in the county, as on July 1 one is held in Digby, one in Weymouth and the annual Cherry Carnival held in Bear River really puts a lot of thought and time in their parade. Water sports, ball games are among sports held in the county.

The secondary roads with the exception of a very few are good and an hour's ride can take you to a new spot day after day. Then add the beautiful St. Bernard's church, first Acadian cemetery, chapels, Savary Park, tenting grounds, lighthouses, plaques of Joshua Slocum, Pines and its swimming pool, Camp Acadie, Camp Aldercliff and Camp Champlain and it looks as though Digby and surroundings have everything.

Now I'll list what I feel would add to the many attractions: a library and museum even though it starts from a small building (and not forgetting the private library that Miss Constance Carr and friends have in Weymouth North), and once started, it would be surprising the articles available; the lack of a place to wait for the bus, train and boat; rest rooms. A combined Sunday evening service by the United and Baptist churches, once or twice a month during the summer months would be pleasant. Of course, I realize that it must have been for lack of "hearers" that the churches were closed Sunday evenings.

One thing I noticed and it's quite extensive, is the damage done to cherry trees. With people destroying so many trees by throwing away the branches, there will be a shortage of cherries within a very few years. It was surprising to see so many people who were old enough to know better, destroying other people's property.

I guess I've covered a little of everything.

The main complaints from tourists in this area is the long wait to cross at East Ferry and Tiverton; the lack of a restaurant and a rest room at Westport.

You should be proud to have so many attractions in the county, then again we should work for the many needs.

Thank you again for the loan of the book, being an autographed one I was glad when it was back in your hands. I thoroughly enjoyed reading it and it was kind of you to loan it.

Sincerely,
A Visitor.

Experiments Yield Good Fruits And Vegetables

Farmers from Digby County on Friday night held a twilight meeting at the agricultural research substation in Hillgrove where they inspected experimental plantings of grapes and fruit trees such as apricots, peaches, pears, plums and nectarines. Speakers for the occasion were Dr. Donald Craig, research officer and head of the small fruit section at the Kentville Research Station and Dr. Robert Longley, tree fruits specialist.

Dr. Craig explained the experimental work being undertaken with grapes at Hillgrove and said it is hoped this might lead to the local development of a profitable agricultural potential in the area. He stated results so far had been good with killback only about 10 per cent and growth good.

Dr. Longley explained in detail the experiments being carried out with fruits in Hillgrove. He said very little die-back had been experienced with the peaches, far less than in Kentville. Experiments with cherries, he said, are being undertaken, along with other fruit trees, to determine best varieties for the area's climate and soil conditions. It is to be hoped, he said, that there might be a revival of cherry production in the Bear River area which for more than a century had a great reputation for its cherries.

Before the twilight meeting the farmers had visited various farms in the area. At the farm of Eugene Chipman in Waldee they saw 800 sour and 200 sweet cherry trees which had been set out in the spring of 1964.

On this farm five acres of sweet corn are now in full production and 24,000 quarts of strawberries were produced this summer.

The earliness of the growing season in the Digby County area was demonstrated on the Chipman farm this year when turnips were seeded on April 17 and 400 bushels marketed on July 10. Other farms in the district have also demonstrated that crops can be planted and harvested much earlier in this part of the province than in almost any other.

Following their visit to the Chipman farm the group looked over the farms of Harold Apt, Chipman Chisholm, Gerald Chute and Bruce Read, all in the Bear River area. At the Read farm experimental plantings of grapes were inspected. Plantings of sweet corn, strawberries, cherries, pickling cucumbers, squash, cabbage and turnips were inspected on the farms.

It was pointed out during the farm visits that strawberry production in Digby County has doubled over the past four years. The gross dollar value of strawberries now produced is over $10,000. Digby County is particularly well suited to strawberry culture and the yearly growing season permits early marketing of quality fruit.

At the farm of Ben Seeley, Jr., in Lansdowne, plantings of cabbages, tomatoes, potatoes and strawberries were inspected. The group also inspected plantings of garden vegetables, corn, strawberries and potatoes at the farms of Arthur McKay and Arthur Gates in Hillgrove. Plantings of 1,800 high bush blueberries were inspected on the farm of H. M. Warne, also in Acaciaville.

Farmers attending the twilight meeting and who visited the farms showed great interest in the experiment and concluded that there is a good potential for the development and expansion of fruit and vegetable growing in Digby County. It was felt that a satisfactory income could be realized from a comparatively small acreage if reasonable amount of care is given to the crops.

Gilberts Cove

Mr. and Mrs. Joe White of Plympton are visiting in Cape Breton for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Doucette and Faith, Jimmie Melanson, Chester Stevenson, Mrs. Edith Smith and children, Mrs. Clifford Doucette and children had a wicker roast on the beach on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Babi VanTassel and family of Oromocto, N.B. called on Mrs. Clifford Doucette one day recently. Irvin Melanson was a visitor at the Gilbert Point Light house.

Six Sisters Bowl

Five of the Kelly sisters frequently get together to bowl. Last week when Miss Vera Kelly arrived from Toronto to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Kelly, Little River, the six Kelly sisters again enjoyed their favourite sport. Buys Camp

For several years Annapolis, Yarmouth, Lunenburg Queens and Windsor Presbyteries of the United Church of Canada have been searching for a property on which to establish a church camp. After investigating a number of properties a suitable one has been found and purchased at Sherbrooke Lunenburg County, 39 miles from Kentville in Kings Co. and not more than 65 miles from Halifax by way of Chester Basin and New Ross. The last six miles is a good dirt road.

The camp will be for girls, boys and adults of the United Church in Western Nova Scotia. This campsite is on the north end of Sherbrooke Lake, which is nine miles in length. On the camp property is a beautiful sand beach of a thousand feet in length.

Immediate plans call for a well, levelling of the land, road improvement and eventually the construction of a main lodge and numerous cabins. The camp is expected to be ready for the 1965 season.

Our recent Sale was a tremendous success. However there are still plenty of good bargains left. SEE US NOW.

C.G.I.T. To Build Centre

Miss Ruth Tillman, national secretary of the CGIT, says that a site has been chosen near Diakarta, on the island of Java, for the building of a Christian Youth Centre, a gift from Canadian teenage girls to Indonesia.

A down payment has already been sent to Indonesia and the CGIT groups all across Canada are pledged to raise $50,000 during the coming months to mark their own 50th year as a national organization.

The Canadian Girls In Training, whose navy blue skirts and white middie are their distinctive costume, is a Protestant church-centred group designed to help teenage girls develop skills for effective Christian living.

Because friendship with each other and understanding of people in distant lands is a strong plank in the CGIT program, the girls chose a project in Indonesia instead of one for themselves, to celebrate their anniversary. Fifty thousand dollars will go much further in Indonesia than it would in this country and it's estimated that this sum will be adequate for the centre planned.

Former members of the CGIT are expected to rally round to assist the girls of today with their big golden anniversary gift.

Time means naught to her Who's sleeping safe in Jesus' gentle care. But to us who still remember Know that it has been eight years Since the Master called our mother.

Eased her pain and gave her rest. And some day we hope to join her in heaven Where she is among the blest.

One sad and lonely year has passed Since my great sorrow fell. The shock that I received that evening

And courage to bear the blow. But what it meant to lose you No one will ever know.

It's lonely here without you, I miss you more each day. For life is not the same to me Since you were called away.

You had no one a last farewell. Not even said good-bye. You were gone before I realized.

And only God knows why. - Sadly missed and always remembered by wife, Florence. 1:1p

JOHNSON - In loving memory of my dear father, Elmer Johnson, who passed away August 31, 1963.

I never could have said good-bye to one I loved so well. Not a day do I forget you. Daddy, in my heart you're always near.

God alone knows how much I miss you, bringing many a silent tear.

Coffee AT janes

The adjustment from gypsy to housewife was somewhat eased this morning by the arrival of the ever faithful Mrs. Fowlie. With her as an inspiration, I managed to get the morning's wash done, while she scraped off the layers of grey un-lived-inness which seems to accumulate in my house whenever I go away for any length of time. The house always looks fairly clean when I leave it — fairly clean to me — but I have not got over expecting a bright, cheery, untrammelled house when I return. Instead I am met by a dull, dismal, echoing, uninhabited space.

We keep promising ourselves a holiday without the children some time. It might be fun, but I suspect that a good part of the enjoyment we get from our vacations is a direct result of having them along. I will not deny that some of the less pleasant memories may have been created by those three and under members of the family. There seems to have been so much crowded into these past two weeks. I suppose it has been richer than our daily lives because each experience was a new one. Everything we did we were doing for the first time, or for the first time in a particular place, or the experience was made fresh through the reactions of the children.

We borrowed the tent and the sleeping bags. We had the food box and the stove anyway, so our initial outlay was nil. Our expenses were incredibly low. On my first day home, after restocking the house with food, paying Mrs. Fowlie, and my telephone bill, and buying a roll of film, I have paid out almost half of my entire expenses for the trip. Here it must be admitted that the other well-heeled member of the family was also spending money, and that as well, we spent a good deal of time with relatives as non-paying guests.

Our trip was around the Cabot Trail, and down the Eastern and South Shores of Nova Scotia. We took in as many adventures en route as we could, since we had no schedule to follow, and no appointments to keep. The children took to living in a tent, and eating at the side of the road as if they had never known anything else. They have become the youngest, and best, "picnic place" and "camp place" spotters on Canadian highways.

We climbed a mountain, and we swam in the ocean. Even I, who am the most timid of swimmers, learned that when we had walked out beyond the breakers ocean swimming is easier, and much more fun than swimming in the calmest of lakes. The men of the family, big and little, went fishing. The three-year-old, who recognizes bagpipe music on the radio, pardon me, but in my humble opinion, this is a fair test for a three-year-old, met his first piper face to face, and was thrilled to the point of being overawed. Even the little one can execute a one-year-old version of the Highland fling when she hears the winning skin of that beautiful, blood-tinging instrument.

We played on sandy beaches, and walked on rocky shores. We explored caves, and climbed to the top of every lighthouse we could get into. One member of the family had the first train ride he can remember. The kids rode ponies several times, and twice we managed to be in towns which were having celebrations — Parrsboro for Old Home Week, and Annapolis Royal for Natal Day, so we even had our fill of merry-go-rounds. We managed another trip to the Wildlife Park in Shubenacadie. I am not sure what the secret is, but this park far outstrips similar ones in both New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. The inhabitant of the park which most won my heart this last trip was a little moose calf, one of triplets, which had been abandoned by her mother who could only care for two. She had already found her own kind, not always reliable, and nobody had told her to be afraid of humans, so she followed two men out of the woods. They were kind enough to give her to the park, where she is rapidly repressing her moose ancestry in an effort to enter the human world.

The adults were awakened to the fact that the cannon, at several of our national historic shrines were used by cowboys, this gem as a result of three years of intensive study of cowboys by one small boy. The kids have never heard of anybody named Longfellow, and do not care about Evangeline and Gabriel, but they are still talking about the myriad of tiny frogs jumping about in the lily ponds at Grand Pre. Their historical significance may be doubtful, but their biological significance was real and immediate.

Even the weather was good to us. In the middle of a generally bad summer, we managed to reach several places on their first fine day in a couple of weeks, but it would be our third, or fourth, or fifth day in a row.

So now we are home. The nagging feeling I always have on homeward journeys that we will find something terribly wrong when we get there was wrong as usual. The cats are well, and were no trouble to the kind lady who looked after them for us — well, that is if one discounts the fact that one of them is about to increase the feline population very shortly. I have made my circuit through the neighborhood checking on the comings and goings, births, retirements and broken toes. Of all these there had been the usual quota. There was also the usual bundle of bills in the mail, including, as usual, one which we had already paid. This called forth one of the slightly nasty letters I enjoy sending on these occasions.

And, tomorrow, the routine starts in earnest.

Don't Live In The Past

The Acadian Festival annual banquet was fortunate in having Hon. Gerald J. Doucet, provincial Secretary and his charming wife along with the deputy provincial secretary, Mr. Beasley, as special guests. Hon. G. Doucet was guest speaker, delivering his speech in French, stated: "We should see ourselves as the descendants of expelled people who have matured to the point of living in the present and in the future, not the past."

"We do not and should not hold grudges against anyone," said he. "We condemn those who would want to separate and divide Canada, but we also sympathize with them because they know not what they do."

"Never before had so much national and international attention been focused on the habits, behavior, ideas and general way of life and leadership of the French Acadian people by what had been taking place in the Province of Quebec," said Mr. Doucet. "We should work together in such a way that our ancestors would be pleased of the work that they transmitted to us. I am certain that Joseph Dugas, who set foot on the soil of what is now Clare on the shores of St. Mary's Bay for the first time in 1768 near Belliveau's Cove would be pleased with what he would see."

"Your Acadian Festival is a marvelous innovation that makes your area known outside the province and I congratulate you for organizing such a festival."

Rev. L. d'Entremont, president of St. Ann's college of Church Point, thanked the guest speaker and told him that he should feel completely at home here in the presence of his fellow Acadians. It was very pleasant indeed, stated Rev. d'Entremont, to have Acadians of other areas of the province visit us and the presence of Hon. Gerald Doucet was exceptionally pleasing. Many students from his native village of Grand Etang, Cape Breton, had attended St.

Ann's and Rev. Henri Cormier and Rev. Albert Doucet, relatives of the minister, had attended St. Ann's.

Alain Doucet of Maville and a member of the Festival committee acted as master of ceremonies and did his work well. He thanked all the personnel who had a hand at the organizing of the festival and those who attended the banquet in such large numbers.

Dr. Julius Comeau, of Meteghan, introduced the guest speaker, giving a brief history of his life which is a successful one up to the time he was appointed provincial secretary.

The famous Acadian dish, pate-a-lapature was the main dish served. Popular demand for this Acadian dish at the banquet has now become a necessity. Many strangers were present at the banquet along with many interested Acadians from St. Mary's Bay shore.

Dr. H. J. Pothier, MLA, was present and wore the traditional Acadian costume which was greatly appreciated by the festival committees.

"If Ever You Chance Upon Westport"

"If ever you should chance upon Westport, a lucky person you will be indeed." These are sentiments we have expressed through The Digby Courier time and time again and these are the very words written by Jack Dulmage, especially for The Windsor Star, of August 12, 1964.

Dulmage says "Westporters, proud, generous, warm, are a strong people. The pulse and throb of the sea is in their eyes. It was a restoration for me to know them, to receive their unstinting kindnesses." Mentioning Dan Kenney and Charlie McDormand in particular, Mr. Dulmage said "They took us into their homes and into their hearts."

In his article in The Windsor Star, Dulmage gives a detailed description of how to get to Westport on Brier Island, the final extremity of Digby Neck, as he puts it. He writes: "It pains me to say it, but while Windsor was sweltering in the 90's, I wore, while fishing in the harbor approaches, Arctic jacket with parka."

The writer expounded on his pleasure in deep sea fishing for sport and also wrote most interestingly on the commercial fishing at Westport, Dulmage writes that Dan Kenney's fish plant at Westport can handle at peak capacity 70,000 lbs. of pollock and cod in a single day.

"What happens to the pollock?" says Dulmage. "They pickle and dry it and export it to the West Indies where it is made into soup."

Boat Develops Leak, Towed Home

The scallop dragger "Chesley & Russell" was towed from the fishing grounds on Wednesday after a leak developed and the vessel began to fill with water quite rapidly. The "Chesley & Russell" is operated by Allan Gregory, with Morrell Gregory and Harold Hanifer as crew members.

With the aid of Malcolm Gregory's "Meldon G." and the Bay View life boat, the dragger was towed from the grounds and grounded at the Indian Beach, south of Victoria Beach wharves. The boat lost all power after the engines became flooded.

At time of going to press extent of damage was not known.

Arrange Booth For Exhibition

With a view to further education of the public in the benefits of good mental health the Digby County Mental Health Association has arranged to have a booth at the Digby County Exhibition to be held at Bear River next week. These plans were made by the executive of the association which met at the Mental Health Clinic building in Digby on Thursday. Members of the executive from Weymouth, Smith Cove, Digby and Little River were present.

Other business discussed was methods of raising money to make up difference between the amount realized from the recent campaign and the amount needed to meet expenses. Several possibilities were mentioned such as an amateur concert, tag day, area meetings, collection receptacles in stores, rummage sale, but none was decided upon. A later meeting will be called to make a decision on a fund raising project.

Baptist Women Meet At Wolfville

The fifty-eighth Annual Convention of the United Baptist Woman's Missionary Union of the Atlantic Provinces met in the Baptist Church at Wolfville, Nova Scotia, on August 26th and 27th. These meetings were presided over by the President, Mrs. A. G. Crowe, Campbellton, N. B.

The devotional periods of the Convention were led by Miss Mattie Curry, of Ottawa, who recently retired as Missionary to India.

The speaker of the evening meeting was Mrs. Ruth McKinney, of Cleveland, Ohio, vice-president of the Baptist Assembly of Ohio.

Missionaries present at the Convention were welcomed and introduced by Mrs. H. K. Grimmer, of Halifax. These included: Miss Evelyn Eaton, Miss Vivian Waldron, Mrs. R. E. Gullison, Miss Lois Knowles, Miss Mattie Curry and Mrs. Gordon Barss, all retired from mission work in India. Also Mrs. Walter Johnson, Miss Miriam Ross and Mrs. Howard Taylor, who recently returned to Canada after serving in the Congo.

Officers elected for 1965 are:

President, Mrs. A. G. Crowe, Campbellton, N. B.; Vice-Presidents, Mrs. Walter DeBow, Moncton, N. B., Mrs. G. N. Hamilton, Kentville, N. S., Mrs. T. W. Howard, North River, P. E. Miss Elizabeth Ricker, General Treasurer, reported the sum of $153,507.99 was raised during 1963 for all purposes of the U.B.W.M.U. The budget for next year is to be a total of $158,800 — for Foreign Missions $105,000; $37,800 for Home Missions; $16,000 for Administration and Promotion of our work here and abroad.

News from the Mission work in Africa and of troubled conditions there was very ably presented by Mrs. Walter Johnson, who served with her husband, Dr. Johnson, in a hospital for the refugees of Angola. Miss Miriam Ross, of Springhill, who also served there, told of her work.

The closing meeting of the Convention was held jointly with the General Convention, being held at University Hall.

In a brilliant series the league leading Merchants edged out the Kiwanis in the final game by the score of 5-4 in seven innings. This game produced many outstanding plays on both sides. The Merchants started R. Marshall on the mound and he was relieved by Jerry VanTassel in the fifth inning, the score being 3-2 in favour of the Merchants. Jerry proceeded to strike out Lindon Geron, Mike Roy grounded out to first and Robert McVeigh received a walk and got around to third, only to die there when D. Marshall was called out on strikes.

The Kiwanis, trailing in the ball game by the score of 3-2 going into the top of the sixth inning, pushed across two runs on one hit and a walk, but the Merchants tied it again in the bottom of the sixth on back to back hits by Weagle and M. Baxter. The Kiwanis were unable to score in the top of the seventh, although they had a runner on third, and the Merchants scored the winning run with two out in the bottom of the seventh on a triple by Robert Denton, who stole home on a throwing error.

Probably the most surprising play of the game was made by Phillip Denton when with two on in the sixth and the score 3-2 in favour of the Merchants, Phillip drove a triple to right field scoring Woolaver and King, to put the Kiwanis ahead. This particular play electrified the large crowd.

Paul Butler went six full innings for the Kiwanis, giving up three hits, two walks and striking out three. Max Woolaver pitched the seventh inning.

The first two games were also thrillers. The Merchants won the first by the score of 5-4 and the Kiwanis the second by the score of 12-11.

This concludes a very fine little league season and it is to be hoped that all the kids who played in the league gained a little "something".

Congratulations to the winners and also a thank you to the losers for the fine way in which you bowed out. Always remember, "It's not to win or lose but how you played the game that counts."

Incidentally, the winner of the $50 draw was Frank Cosby, Smith's Cove.

Prime Appointed Five Digby Co. Wildlife Director Post Office Buildings

Lands and Forests Minister E. D. Haliburton announced Friday that Dr. Donald G. Dadds, director of the wildlife division, has been granted a one-year leave of absence.

Merrill H. Prime, division fisheries biologist, has been appointed acting director.

Dr. Dadds has accepted a position as associate professor of biology at Acadia University in Wolfville.

Mr. Prime is a native of Freeport, Digby County, and joined the department in May, 1961.

He attended school in Freeport and Rochester, N. Y., and received a science degree in entomology from Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph.

Mr. Prime spent a further two years there studying fisheries biology and will receive his master's degree this fall.

During the past three years he has worked on a variety of lake and stream surveys which included the investigation of physical, chemical and biological conditions of 35 provincial lakes.

From this study the department hopes to formulate a management program to cope with increasing sport fishing pressure, Mr. Haliburton said. Mr. Prime is married, has two children and resides in Wolfville.

Government Aid In Sewer Construction

Communities installing collector sewers, trunk mains and sewage treatment plants will be entitled to provincial aid of 20 per cent of capital construction costs, Hon. W. S. Kennedy Jones, Minister Under the Water Act announced.

Regulations relating to the assistance were passed at the last sitting of the Legislature and have been proclaimed by Governor in Council.

The regulations make it possible for municipalities to obtain assistance from the provincial government for the construction of one or more trunk collector sewers, or the construction or expansion of a central plant for the treatment and disposal of domestic sewage wastes, or any combination of these.

The Provincial government's portion of costs will be payable upon completion of the project and when it has been inspected and accepted by the Water Authority.

To obtain assistance, municipalities must undertake the project as part of an over-all plan for the elimination of water and soil pollution within the Municipality. Evidence that the over-all plan will be carried out within a reasonable length of time must be supplied.

Design of the project must be acceptable to the Nova Scotia Water Authority and the proposed method of financing the project must be approved by the Minister of Municipal Affairs.

Five Digby Co. Post Office Buildings

Little Brook, Saulnierville, Plympton, Tiverton and Westport were named among the 39 post offices in Nova Scotia under proposal for construction during the next winter. The total proposal has been submitted to the department of Public Works it was announced by Labor Minister MacEachen and Post Master General Nicholson.

Approval in principle to the program has been given by Mr. MacEachen and Mr. Nicholson, but completion of the entire program will be subject to the department of public works being able to make a satisfactory arrangement with respect to the acquisition of sites and to obtain tenders which they consider reasonable in cost.

The total project was expected to mean close to half million dollars of construction, since Atlantic area post offices of similar nature had ranged from $10,000 to $13,000 each.

The project would be undertaken as a joint program by the department of labor, post office and department of public works, under the supplementary federal government winter construction program launched last year.

About This and That

Digby County Exhibition

Next week by this time the Digby County Exhibition will be in full swing. In full swing accordingly as the people of Digby County rally to its needs and support the Exhibition.

We particularly emphasize that this is the Digby County Exhibition. The exhibition is held in Bear River and for years the people of Bear River have borne the brunt of responsibility. This is hardly fair to the Bear River people nor is it fair to the exhibition itself. For an exhibition to grow, for it to be representative of the county, it must be supported by all the people in the county by entries, planning, labor and attendance. A few people cannot be expected to run an exhibition today. This can readily be seen when visiting other exhibitions in the province. Few are standing still. Most are going ahead and attracting crowds of people.

We would like for all the people in Digby County to ask themselves these questions. Do we need a Digby County Exhibition? What is its purpose? Is it fulfilling that purpose? Does it benefit me directly? Does it benefit me indirectly? Unless we give some serious thought to these questions we will not attract people to Bear River and we will continue to see even Digby County people attending outside exhibitions and forgetting to attend our very own. An exhibition cannot exist without full co-operation and participation by all whom it serves.

The Digby County Exhibition could be made to benefit our farming, our fishing and our tourist industry, to say nothing of handicrafts, cooking, school work and other arts. Do we want these improved? Then, let's get behind the Digby County Exhibition. Every member of every Board of Trade within this county should be calling Al. Denton or Chipman Chisholm to see how they can help improve or assist in the Digby County Exhibition. By so doing they will be furthering one of their own causes — to help the economy of the Digby County area. That goes too for many other organizations.

See you, then, next week at the Digby County Exhibition — either as a spectator or operating your own booth. Had you thought of that? Good advertising, remember.

Blueberries

We hope that H. M. Warne might have a few of those nice high bush blueberries to display at the Digby County Exhibition. We feel everybody should have an opportunity to see them and see what can be grown in Digby County soil and by Digby County climate.

There was a nice box left on the editor's desk last week and, believe it or not, we measured them three-quarters of an inch and more in diameter and two and five-eighths inches in circumference. You'd have to see them to believe it. We hope they are not out of season for the exhibition and that you'll have an opportunity to see them. Our customers exclaimed, "They can't be blueberries!"

By the way, they were sweet and juicy with a delicious flavor but we don't suggest that you sample everything displayed at the exhibition.

School Is Open

School will already have opened for the 1964-65 year by the time this is being read. We extend a welcome to the teaching staff, to those who have come new to our community and to those who have returned to the duties of the school room in Digby.

To the teacher has come a high calling. Not only is the teacher responsible that his charge receives book education but with five and six hours of a student's day spent in the school room with teachers, the student's life cannot help, but be influenced by this association. Fortunately, we usually have teachers who have regard for teaching the whole child, morally and spiritually as well as intellectually. Good manners in every field are readily picked up by the student from the teacher and especially from the teacher for whom the student has a special admiration.

Be that as it is, no teacher can guide the child properly unless the parents in the home take their full responsibility also. The home has a basic and important part to play in the child's education — morally, spiritually and also intellectually. The school and home cannot be separated. They must work together.

Parents must see that the proper environment is created for the development of the complete boy or girl. It has been said that low moral and intellectual values in a home are in direct relationship to early school leaving. The parent first of all must see that the child feels secure in his own family, that he feels a place of importance in his own family. This will help him to develop and flourish in all his undertakings in school and outside. Proper environment, guidance, interest, discipline and encouragement at home can give the student ability to continue in his work at school. It will prevent early leaving school so completely unequipped to contend with life in a highly technological age.

School has just begun for the year. To make it a completely successful year, teacher and parent must work together to shape the child's life and to guide him into full responsibility for his own life as a fully grown adult.

Watch For Children

The vacation's over for most of Nova Scotia school children this week. Grown-ups should remember that children are forgetful and often unaware of traffic hazards — especially during the early weeks of school. Be extremely watchful when driving in residential and school areas. Help protect child life with foresight and caution.

Cats have nine lives — children, you know, have only one. Parents depend on you drivers to help their children hang on to life. Slow down and drive with extra care around school zones and where children travel to and from school.

Driver Attitude

Want a quick indication of what a man is really like? Just watch him drive. If he's a true gentleman, he'll remain one even under stress. Most anyone can give the appearance of being a gentleman when everything goes his way, but if he thinks someone is taking advantage of him, watch out — that's when the phony will betray his true nature. Let any driver detain him for a few seconds, cut in front of him, or obstruct his so-called right-of-way, and he's out to show everyone who's boss. Self-centered, hot-tempered drivers are not only unpleasant people, they're dangerous as well. Remember, that your driving reflects you. If you're really a responsible adult, you'll act like one behind the wheel. The Nova Scotia Highway Safety Council says: Safe Driving depends not only on skill, but on patience and consideration for the other fellow. The alert driver who's the nice one on the road, regardless of circumstances, is usually the one with a clean safety record.

Drive carefully this holiday weekend and every day.

Cottage Closing Hints

A great many people today have their own cottages by the lake or sea where they spend the summer months. With the opening of school most of these cottages are closed until another year. When you close the cottage for the winter, there are a few precautions that can be taken to make things safe and healthier for the next year.

Matches should be put into glass or metal containers and closed tightly so that mice cannot chew them and cause a fire.

Canned foods that contain liquids may freeze and burst, so don't leave them in the cottage — if you do leave them, don't eat them next year, since there may be a tiny hole in the tin and the food may be contaminated. So that mice and squirrels will not be attracted into the cottage, make sure that no crumbs or food scraps are left.

Many of the insects and vermin are carriers of disease germs — the use of repellents will help to discourage winter visitors from taking up residence and defiling or contaminating the kitchen area.

Mice and squirrels will get into cottages and destroy pillows, mattresses, linen and clothing in their efforts to make warm winter nests. Put a small jar filled with cotton batting soaked in javel water to keep vermin out of drawers and other nesting places.

If possible, put a lid on top of the chimney, not only to keep out animals and insects but also to prevent leaves from clogging the chimney and causing a fire hazard next summer.

Don't leave old medicines at the cottage through the winter months. Time and temperature changes may cause deterioration of some medicines or cause some drugs to become either dangerously potent or quite useless.

Flies, wasps and other insects may be carriers of disease germs. When closing up, spray the windows and panes thoroughly in each room and scatter mothballs over the floor, on shelves, beds and on ledges. Scrape a thick line with a mothball along the bottom of the door on the floor to deter anything from crawling underneath.

Report From Parliament Hill

The Government has suggested some changes in its proposal, and the Maritime representatives have refused to accept the Government's suggested changes. I think it can be suggested as fairly definite that at the worst, the Government will make some modifications in the proposal which is supposed to come into effect on 31 August. These modifications will not be good enough to meet the problems of which our farmers are confronted but it will be a definite improvement over the former proposal. Alternatively, the Government may suspend the whole new proposal and defer it until a later date. In other words, the old rates may be kept in effect. Before you read this we will know exactly what has happened.

In the meantime the Nova Scotia members have felt it advisable not to raise the matter on the floor of the House of Commons. The Minister is obviously trying to work out some compromise which will be reasonably satisfactory; at least he hopes it will be. I do not think it is advisable to embarrass him by any political comment until the issue is clarified. In short, if a satisfactory compromise is reached, we will not discuss the matter in the House at all. Of course, alternatively if not, we will raise the matter on the floor of the House and bring pressure to bear on the Government to effect changes which may be necessary.

Security measures are being drastically tightened up insofar as visitors to the gallery is concerned. A man who nearly hit me with "the blood bomb" carried an attaché case into the gallery and calmly opened it, took out his package, unwrapped it and then threw it down on the floor of the House. To day, anyone coming into the gallery with brief cases or attaché cases receive a very suspicious stare and either have to open them or else leave them outside the gallery entirely. The galleries are packed every day and it would be very easy for a "crack-pot" to do something drastic with much more serious results than a mere stain on the carpet. If the package which was thrown from the gallery the other day had struck someone on the head, it could have had serious results. The surprising thing about it was that everyone kept calm. With blood spattered over various members and dripping from several desks, some would naturally expect some commotion. However, with the exception of a call from one member "I see a spy", no one uttered a word. For a few moments the atmosphere was rather tense, and you can appreciate that I found it somewhat difficult to continue with my speech. By now you will know from the press and radio that the culprit was apprehended and dealt with by due process of the law, and the debate continues.

One facet of the debate rather intrigues me. After the Prime Minister spoke to the Legion in Winnipeg I was deluged with hundreds of letters and scores of petitions protesting the new flag. Then the mail dwindled off. Then Mr. Diefenbaker made his appeal to "write your Member" and again I received a substantial number of letters. Then again the mail dwindled off. But the last two weeks for some strange reason, there has been a constant increase. This obviously is not organized because it comes from all parts of the constituency, but everyday now one gets 15 to 20 letters. Sometimes a dozen persons have signed the same letter. They all urge that the Red Ensign be maintained. Apparently the message of the debate which is being carried on here is now registering in the various constituencies across the country.

Suddenly, with no warning at all, the little members of this family have turned helpful. Their father's remark on some of their efforts is "With help like this, I'm glad I don't have any hindrances."

I must say, I could gladly do without some of their help. These days it takes three people to do the dishes, unless by some stroke of good management I have got them both to bed, or both out of the house before I start. My daughter stands on a chair on one side of me, dropping dishes into the water in no particular order, stopping here and there to pour a cupful of dirty dishwasher back and forth, from cup, to glass, to frying pan to milk bottle, spilling copious quantities as she goes. My son stands on a chair on the other side, giving the washed dishes a cursory swipe with the towel, and setting them back in the drainer until I can do a more thorough job. The floor, at this rate, gets scrubbed about three times a day.

They help me make the bed too. The clean sheets have to be dragged across the floor, and the used ones, for no reason that makes sense to me, are invariably used as boats. All boats in this family, from the last week's sheet variety, to the kind made out of cardboard cartons, and the toy submarines in the bathroom, have only one destination, Saint John. I think there will be howls of disappointment on the day that they find out that boats have been known to call at other ports. They do get off their boat to Saint John long enough, however, to make an elaborately careful show of pulling the bed spread up over the pillows.

I am not so blinded by infatuation for my little demons, or so patient that I have never been tempted (or succumbed to the temptation) to throw them out during some of these very annoying helping parties, but their pride in their efforts is so real, and their desire to help so genuine, that I feel like a fiend.

Some of their help is quite genuine. Perhaps it is part of the process of evolution or something, but it has just come about in the last week. All at once, when my wee Miss is through playing with buttons on the floor, she puts them back in the bottle. Suddenly, a brother, who has put up three valiant years of resistance to helping, actually helps his sister. Not only do they put away the toys when I ask them to, but they wipe up their spills, run little errands from room to room for me, and hang their clothes on the low level hooks we arranged for such a purpose. Generally, this is a very pleasant experience. I wonder how long it will last.

If I were a good columnist, I would write a little article about "How I got my children to enjoy helping." I wish I could honestly say that I brought this about by some clever bit of child psychology, or that any teachings of mine, or the Sunday School's, or any other person or institution involved in teaching children virtues had anything to do with this minor revolution in the family circle. Perhaps if there were some explicable reason for it, I could expect it to go on. As it is, it will probably pass as quickly as it came. Suggestions on how to encourage this pleasant state of affairs will be welcome.

Related to this surge of helpfulness is a surge of politeness. My son still calls the little girl next door "Stupid", and he yells "You Nut-Head" with great relish at drivers who pass us on the highway, but in spite of these little outbursts, he has been known to say "No thank you" with no prompting at all. There are even "excuse me's" these days. The promise of a trip to town or to visit a neighbor, or even to church, brings on a long list of the things he is going to do. "I'm coming down town with you, Mommy," he says, "and I'll be a real good boy. I won't whine. I'll be quiet. I won't ask for anything." Each of these little statements is punctuated by a sort of low bow, ending with a jerk of a very blond head. This must be a sort of emphasis to lend credence to his promises.

Probably it would be unchivalrous to suggest that at least part of this is brought about by the discovery that there are certain rewards (such as mother's approval) to be gotten from being good. At least we are never in doubt about the three-year-old's behavior. He announces to us a dozen times a day that he is a good boy, that he is a big help, and that he is not crying, fighting, or breaking his toys. It seems especially important that we be informed of the things he is not doing if the baby happens to be doing one or more such things at the time.

There is the sound of an impending storm outdoors. I have to gather my strength. I may be faced with two helpful children in the rain tomorrow, which will be much more than helpful children on days when I can send them out if their assistance is more than I can take.

Navy Goes To Skull Lake

An Expeditionary Training Camp of HMCS Cornwallis, located around Skull Lake, about eight miles from Cornwallis, is in operation.

The purpose of the camp is to provide a setting for training of naval personnel in survival, search procedures, forest fire fighting and bush navigation.

Expeditionary training encompasses four groups: staff personnel, regular force, new entries and University Naval Training Division Cadets and Sea Cadets. The latter two groups are summer trainees.

The Cornwallis staff is trained for rapid action against forest fires, and in the management of search and rescue operations. This includes not only "front line" work in the bush, but also the problems of supplying victuals and equipment rapidly in adequate volume to large parties in the field. New Entries are sent to Skull Lake for recreation and instruction in search and bush survival, including twelve hours afloat in the twenty-man life raft. Parties of New Entries usually spend from Friday morning until Sunday evening at the camp.

UNTD Cadets stay at the camp from Monday until Friday afternoon for development of leadership qualities, endurance and stamina, and for recreation. The Cadet program includes bush navigation, twelve hours in the life raft, survival in the woods, and two infiltration exercises, when one-half of the cadets attempt to guard a "strategic site" while the other half tries to "infiltrate". Recreation, in most instances, consists of sleeping. The Sea Cadets have a similar but less strenuous program, with more emphasis on search exercises and more recreational sports.

Personnel under training at Skull Lake are divided into groups, and duties such as Group Leader, Duty Cook, etc., are rotated daily. A "highlight" of the many experiences at the camp is the night spent on board the twenty-man life raft. Each party must swim, in working gear with inflatable life jackets, out to the raft, which is inflated at this time, enter the raft, wring out all clothing, and settle down for the night. The water below and the cold air above combine to chill the "voyagers" to the bone, and often the choice must be made between closed flaps, with relative warmth but near suffocation, or opened flaps with easy breathing but lack of heat retention. Little sleep is usually the result.

Many of the trainees have tried, in the past, to bring along such articles as cards, cigarettes, radios, food, etcetera, wrapped in watertight bags, but in most cases these attempts have been thwarted by the keen observant eyes of the vigilant staff.

The staff is directed by Lieutenant Roy Evans, a former high school teacher and IOC of Naval Academic Section, whose interests in hunting and fishing and whose extensive knowledge of the local area make him exceptionally capable in this job.

VOLUME XC, No. 3

Exhibition In Progress

No spectacular difference was noted in the number of spectators or exhibits at the Digby County Exhibition which opened yesterday at Bear River. Exhibitors increased by sixteen over 1963, while exhibits increased by six.

One of the most attractive exhibit booths was that of the flowers, which had increased over the previous year and which were undoubtedly of high quality. Flower exhibits were entered from communities between Bridgetown and Weymouth, and included various types of arrangements, some of which were the usual driftwood. The flower booth showed that even ordinary varieties of weeds can be utilized for attractive displays having on the stand caraway painted in a variety of brilliant colors.

The fruit booth also showed an increase over last year with the peaches, for which the Digby County Exhibition has been noted for a few years, still in high quality. The home cooking booth, though of high standard, did not reach in the number of entries to that of previous years. Fancy work, however, had increased, showing a fine display of home hooked rugs and paintings. Two of the paintings which attracted attention were those of the late President John Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy.

The 4-H booth is again notably fine with entries from Bear River, Saint Bernard, St. Alphonse, Saultville, and Salmon River.

In the commercial building are seen the beautiful booth of the Hill & Dale Garden Club, the Bear River Community Swimming Pool booth, the Bear River Home and School booth and the Digby County Council Home and School booth, and Bear River Home Furnishings Ltd. Special mention is justified in the Bear River Home Furnishings booth, which occupies a space of eighty feet in length and is by far the most attractive of its type of booth ever displayed at the Digby County Exhibition. Other booths include the usual vegetable booth, school work, Gideon's booth, Ladies Auxiliary of the Legion, Digby County Mental Health Association, Women's Institute, and Nic-nac Mart.

The ox pull and single horse pull got underway early yesterday afternoon, the results of which will appear in the next issue of the Courier. Oxen were entered from as far south as Bridgewater, west to Yarmouth, and from points in the Valley.

The official opening of the Exhibition took place last evening when the chief speaker was Alex Thomson, Truro, Secretary of the Union of Nova Scotia Exhibitions. Mr. Thomson for some years managed the Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition at Truro, he was former manager of the Maritime Winter Fair, secretary of Nova Scotia Association of Exhibitions and past president of the Canadian Association of Exhibitions. Mr. Thomson declared the exhibition open.

Others who took part in the opening, presided over by Al Denton, president, were Mrs. J. M. Wallis, Digby; Chipman Chisholm, secretary, Bear River; V. G. Cardoza, Digby; Baden Powell, Plympton, MLA for Digby; William LeFort, Weymouth, Department of Agriculture, (Accounts of the addresses will appear next week.) The Tartan Four presented a program.

Attractions for today will be a double horse pull and a doll carriage parade this afternoon, the band of HMCS Cornwallis, and a physical training display by HMCS Cornwallis this evening. Other interesting features of the Exhibition will be a tug-of-war, including a ladies' tug, a tractor rodeo, and free-for-all horse and ox pull. The Thomas merry-go-round and wheel features are on hand for amusements for children and young people.

Wins First Prize

Mrs. Clarence Titus, Westport, has received word from the Saint John Exhibition that her fancy work has taken first prize.

She will receive a ribbon and cash prize from the Exhibition and a prize of merchandise from one of the leading Saint John stores.

Eugene Outhouse Addresses West Novas

Eugene Outhouse, M.M., provincial president of the Nova Scotia Command, Royal Canadian Legion, was guest speaker at the annual dinner of the West Nova Scotia Regiment Association, which met at the headquarters of the Digby Branch Canadian Legion on Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Outhouse urged all veterans to join the Royal Canadian Legion, which, he said, had been instrumental in having much legislation enacted which was favorable to veterans. The West Nova Scotia Regiment, he said, is carrying on the proud tradition of the 85th Battalion.

Mr. Outhouse was introduced by Thomas Cleveland, president of the Digby Branch Canadian Legion.

Another speaker at the banquet, which was catered to by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Digby branch, Royal Canadian Legion, included Lt. Col. D. L. Harlow, officer commanding the regiment.

The toast to the regiment at the banquet was proposed by Col. G. W. Bullock, and responded to by Major Eisenhauer.

About two hundred attended the gathering, presided over by Dennis LeBlanc, Weymouth, president of the West Nova Scotia Regiment Association.

On Sunday morning the annual parade, march-past and drum-head service was held at the Digby Cenotaph and bandstand. Taking the salute was Brigadier A. Rogers (Ret'd.), of Charlottetown, P. E. I.

A wreath in memory of her son, Sgt. Alfred Amoro, of the WNSR, who was killed in action in World War II, was placed at the Cenotaph by Mrs. Denis Amoro, of Digby. Col. Bullock laid a wreath in memory of fallen comrades.

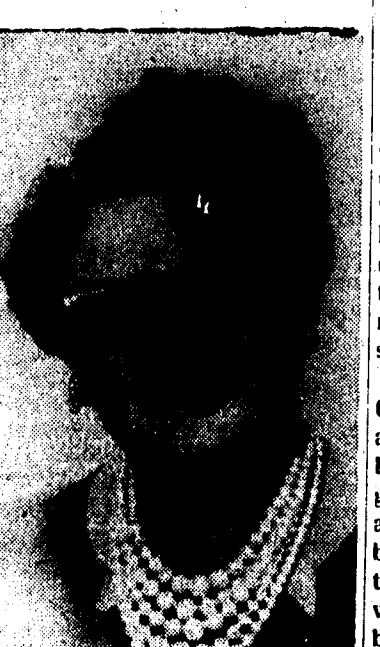

Special preacher at the drum-head service was Rev. R. A. B. MacLean, RCN, Chaplain (Protestant), HMCS Cornwallis, who also conducted the service. Music for the parade and drum-head service was provided by the band of HMCS Cornwallis, by permission of Capt. Paul, officer commanding the naval base.

Officers were elected at the annual meeting when Warren Lohnes, Bridgewater, succeeded Mr. LeBlanc as president.

Other officers elected were Gerald Crouse, of Bridgewater, treasurer, and Scott Harlow, also of Bridgewater, secretary.

An invitation was accepted from Bridgewater to hold the 1965 reunion there.

Society Admits Local Hospital Administrator

Mrs. Grace Edwards, Administrator of Digby General Hospital, was admitted to the American College of Hospital Administrators at the professional society's 30th Annual Convocation Ceremony on Sunday afternoon, August 23, in the Arle Crown Theater of Chicago's McCormick Place.

The announcement was made by ACHA President Robert W. Bachmeyer, Executive Director of The Youngstown Hospital Association, Youngstown, Ohio, who presided at the ceremony. The Convocation Ceremony is held annually preceding the yearly meeting of the College, which takes place in conjunction with the convention of the American Hospital Association.

FISHING IN DIGBY LAGGING BEHIND — BETTER FACILITIES NEEDED

Digby Neck and Islands are being aggressive, keeping up to-date and in pace with the rest of the province in fishing said Hon. E. D. Halliburton, Nova Scotia Minister of Fisheries and Lands and Forests, but Digby town lags behind the rest of the country in this important industry. The same opinion was voiced by the Deputy Minister of Fisheries, Brian Marr. Both men voiced these sentiments at a special meeting of the Digby Board of Trade on Tuesday evening after they had made a tour of Digby and Digby Neck and Islands during the day.

Speaking of the Neck and Islands, Mr. Halliburton said that for a given area no part of the province has so many up-to-date fish plants and modern fishing boats but because of the trend for larger boats and because of winter fishing it is obvious that better facilities are necessary to keep up with competition.

Here in Digby — the one good harbour in the area — the fishing industry has developed less than in other parts of the province", Mr. Halliburton said, and from an obviously one time good fishing port, Digby has fallen behind. The docking facilities are completely inadequate", was the emphatic statement made by the minister. Mr. Halliburton continued that he watched the fishermen land scallops across eight or ten decks at the Digby Wharf and such a congested situation would be difficult to find in any other part of the province (see picture). A suggestion also made by the minister was that packaging and selling of scallops should be an industry in Digby.

Mr. Marr spoke of the rapid strides of the fishing industry in Nova Scotia and said that in a few years a hundred million dollars of fish a year should be sold from the province. The (Please turn to page 10)

Digby Flower Show Ranked High

(By Eva Wendell)

"Business before pleasure," states the old adage, but the procedure was reversed when the Admiral Digby Horticultural Society held its September meeting at the cottage of Mrs. G. R. Weir, on Mallett's Lake. Savory smells of barbecuing hamburgers, and boiling corn, greeted the members as they approached the cottage, and more exotic fragrances emanated from the kitchen. Routine business was forgotten until everybody had eaten a most delicious and satisfying meal. Then the gavel of the President, R. K. Beckwith, sounded and the business meeting began.

An excellent report of the Flower Show was given by Mrs. H. M. Warne, Chairman of the Flower Show Committee. The number of entries this year was 308, which was 27 more than last year. Regret was expressed that in spite of this, the number of entries in the Arrangement Classes was much lower. Mrs. Warne felt that an effort must be made both to determine why this was so, and to stimulate interest so that it would not happen another year.

Mr. R. K. Beckwith, the delegate to the Annual Meeting of the Nova Scotia Association of Garden Clubs held in July, gave his report. He also gave an account of two visits he had made to two Flower Shows reputed to be among the best in Nova Scotia, one in Dartmouth and the other in Rockingham. He felt that in some ways the Digby Flower Show was better than either of these, and considered that our show ranked well up near the top among the best shows held in Nova Scotia.

All committees reported on the various gardening projects, and the feeling that we had had an unusually successful gardening year was quite unanimous. Although there has been much less wanton destruction of gardens this year, it was reported that there has been some subtle sabotage. Attention was drawn to the number of tourists who stop to admire and photograph the gardens on the Cannon Bank. A member of a photography club in Boston stated that he had seen a great number of pictures of the "Welcome To Digby Sign Gardens" taken by club members.

It was felt that the organization had not only an exceptionally good coverage in the daily and weekly press, but in Mrs. B. C. Silver's book, "A Short History of the Nova Scotia Association of Garden Clubs" as well.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Weir for her hospitality in entertaining at her cottage, which has become an annual event.

Appeals For Blood Donors

Digby's semi-annual Blood Donor Clinic will be held in the Lions Club Hall on Monday, September 14, according to an announcement by E. B. Tufts, chairman of the Red Cross Blood Donor Committee. Mayor C. D. Snow and Mr. Stewart MacNaughton, manager of the Digby County Power Board, are additional members of the committee and are lending their support to an all-out campaign of blood donor recruitment in the Digby area, which it is hoped will result in a record number of blood donations.

The committee is being ably assisted by the Digby Lionettes Club, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Richard Baxter. In contacting the panel of former blood donors and inviting them to attend the Clinic. Mrs. Sidney Smith, convener of Red Cross Nursing Services, and Mrs. R. B. Lent, Digby Branch President, will be in charge of Red Cross volunteer services at the Clinic room, where local nurses will assist the Provincial Blood Donor team from Halifax, and Red Cross branch workers will welcome and register the donors, as well as serving them refreshments before they leave the Clinic.

The importance of a successful Blood Donor Clinic cannot be over-emphasized. Locally, the Digby General Hospital uses, on an average, over 4 bottles of blood per week, or approximately 250 pints per year. Although this life-saving service is free both to the hospital and to the patient, the cost to the Canadian Red Cross Society is more than $7 per bottle. This sum includes the cost of collecting the blood at clinics, then typing and processing it in the laboratory in Halifax, and means that the Digby area is receiving a gift of between $1500 and $2000 from the Red Cross each year. Moreover, were it not for the Red Cross Free Blood Transfusion Service, the cost to the patient for each transfusion would be at least $20 for each pint of blood, plus hospital and medical charges for administration, which are also free under the Red Cross plan. Thus the same service might cost Digby patients over $6,000 were it not for the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinics.

Much more important than its monetary value is the availability of the blood. Technicians in the Halifax laboratory can process, type and cross-match it, but only YOU, the Donor, can provide it. Without the life-saving combination of the Red Cross Clinic, plus YOU the Donor, each operation or accident might become an emergency. Now we hear of emergency appeals only for rare types of blood. But any type of blood is rare if it is needed and it is not

Seeks Addition To Wharf

In an effort to alleviate the congestion at the Fishermen's Wharf at Tiverton, fishermen are circulating a petition urging that two 200-foot additions be built on the existing facility.

Up until 1958, ferrymen transferring passengers and vehicles across Petite Passage by means of ferryboat and scow (this is the only connection linking the island with the mainland at East Ferry on Highway 17) used this wharf, also. With the increase in motor vehicle traffic and the expansion of the Tiverton fishing fleet, ferrymen were finding it increasingly difficult to manoeuvre the ferryboat and scow among the boats congested in the harbor.

During that year a new 500-foot government wharf and breakwater were built some distance above the original one. The new wharf, replete to ferry slip, is used by ferrymen and by government supply vessels such as the M.V. "Mohawk," which carries supplies to the area from Saint John and Yarmouth.

The "Thomas Carleton" also docks here occasionally with supplies for the lighthouse at Boar's Head, and others.

Because of interference with the transferring of passengers and vehicles across Petite Passage and freight activities carried on at the new wharf, fishermen of the area and others who seek shelter here, are forced to tie up at the Fishermen's Wharf.

There are 15 trawlers (an addition of five, compared to last year) operating from the Tiverton area. These boats average from 30 to 40 feet in size. There are three draggers, an addition of one, compared to last year and as many as forty seiners have been counted in the harbor at one time.

As many of these local fishing boats do not have harbor-mooring facilities, they tie up at the wharf. There is not enough room for all the boats at the wharf, so they tie up one to the other.

This practice often results in damages to smaller boats by sea and wind during storms.

Margolian Wins Shooting Honors

Herb Margolian brought shooting honors to Digby over the weekend when he won the Maritime Trap Single championship shoot at Halifax. He won with 94 out of 100 birds. There were 76 contestants in the trap singles.

Margolian not only won the single trap but with Ron Hatfield of Clark's Harbour he also won a two-man trap. Margolian scored 94 and Hatfield 87. Besides Mr. Margolian was also one of the five-man team championship winners.

Tech. Students Here

Digby has been "abuzz" this week with seventeen architectural students from the Nova Scotia Technical College here under their teacher, Professor E. Lingmin, making a study of the town. The young men, fourth year students, can be seen perched on top of buildings or sitting on door steps, crayons in hand, making sketches of building structures.

Besides studying architectural patterns in Digby and the functional history of the architectural designs, the students are interested in Digby's pattern of traffic; the tides and the moods created by them; the character of people, the way they think and talk and general history of the town.

Last year the students, including not only Nova Scotians but boys from Quebec and other provinces, made a study of Lunenburg. They are required to submit 150 sketches in a year.

Tri-Service Golf Meet At Pines

Warrant Officer Hank Siefred, Vancouver native playing for RCAF Summerside, captured the Maritime tri-service golf championship at the Digby Pines Saturday with a score of 189.

Second was defending champion LAC Barry Babcock, Greenwood, with 195. Siefred had scores of 78-75-36 for the 45 holes of stroke play.

The field of 110 played 36 holes and the top 18 players competed in an extra nine holes.

RCAF captured the service team championship with a score of 635, nine strokes lower than the RCN team. Best nine hole score was 75 by Boyd Hutchinson, Cornwallis. The unit low net prize went to Cornwallis with 574 and the unit low gross to Greenwood with 651.

Major-General E. C. Plow, former Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia, presented the prizes.

Auxiliary To Sponsor Hospital Room

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Digby General Hospital held its September meeting at the Nurses' Home. Complete returns from the Hospital Bazaar were not available. Total receipts to date of meeting were $2,002.39, but there are more funds to be passed in and the expenses have not all been taken into consideration. The project was considered a very successful venture, and the sponsoring organization, it was felt, owed much to public spirited citizens outside the organization.

Members were asked to give some thought to rooms that the organization wished to sponsor in the new Digby General Hospital. It was generally agreed that the Good Cheer Room should be sponsored in loving memory of those who initiated this project.

A nominating committee was appointed to present a slate of officers to the Annual Meeting, which will be held at the Nurses' Residence in October.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth VanTassel and their four children, Michael, Jean, Stella and Billy have returned to their home in Jonquiere, Quebec, having spent a week with Kenneth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orbin VanTassel.

Firemen's Day Successful — Gross $1,220.00

Transferred

After nine years J. C. McCutag, manager of the Dominion Atlantic Railway, Kentville, and well known in Digby, has been transferred to Preston, Ont., where he will be manager of Electric Lines, a subsidiary of the Canadian Pacific Railway. His new appointment becomes effective Oct. 1.

During his years in Kentville Mr. McCutag has served as president of the Nova Scotia Accident Prevention Association, and as a member of numerous clubs and organizations including the Kentville Board of Trade, the Rotary Club, the St. Johns Ambulance Brigade, and the New Minas Male Choir. He was recently appointed a director of the United Elastic Ltd., Bridgetown.

Car-Truck Crash

An accident, which involved a car and a truck, sent four Digby women to hospital for examination Thursday night. The mishap occurred at the Racquette, in Digby's north end.

The women, Mrs. Lorna Mullen, Mrs. Jessie Daley, Mrs. Irene Mullen and Mrs. Joanne VanTassel were passengers in a car driven by Mrs. Paul VanTassel. The car was in collision with a truck driven by Eber Balser. The truck driver escaped injury. The women were released from hospital following examination.

Both vehicles were badly damaged. The truck plunged over an embankment and landed on the beach below.

Tells Of Trip To Cuba

Twenty-one years old Lawrence (Sonny) Banks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Banks, Conway, returned recently after spending most of the summer in Cuba.

Sonny received his B.A. degree from Acadia University this spring and will return next week to work towards his B.Ed. degree. He was part of a group of forty-five university students from across Canada who during the visit made a study of life and customs on the small controversial island. The trip was sponsored by the Cuban government and in Canada by the Fair-Play For Cuba Committee. Sonny, the only member of the group from Nova Scotia, left Canada June 30. The trip was made by air from Halifax, Windsor, Ont., and Mexico City. In Mexico the group visited pyramids and other tourist spots, and experienced an earthquake.

In an interview Sonny told the Courier that although Mexico City has a population of over 5 million people it seemed no larger than Toronto or Montreal. He said there are few new buildings, and few real tall ones — the tallest being about 25 stories. "The city looked ancient, with the Latin-American touch," he said. While in Mexico the group ate native food, and attended a bullfight.

The students spent about seven weeks in Cuba, arriving there July 6. They made a general tour of the island, met representatives of the government and visited factories and talked with their managers. "We were on our own most of the time to go anywhere we pleased," Sonny said. "For a week we worked, ate and slept with Cuban construction workers." Generally speaking the working class loved Fidel Castro, Sonny told the Courier. "Slogans written on buildings and in floodlights seem to reflect the workers' feelings. Most slogans read 'Patria O Muerte Venceremos' which means 'Fatherland or Death, we will win.' Castro seems to have improved working conditions immensely. We saw many new housing developments underway with prefabricated homes replacing the old style bohio," he said. "Castro has also introduced free medical care to the island. Formerly there were hospitals only in the central cities and they were not free. Education is now free and available to all people, and there seems to be much enthusiasm among the people towards learning."

With excellent weather conditions the Digby Firemen's Day got off to a good start Labor Day with free rides on the fire truck for the kiddies at 1 p.m. This is always a popular pastime for the kids. There were the usual games, wheels, bingo, etc., and these all showed a good attendance, with a gross of $1,220.00 being taken in. It is expected that the net proceeds will amount to approximately $700.00 and these will be paid on the new pumper purchased and delivered just a year ago for the protection of the town and municipal areas.

The ladies of the department took an active part in the fair this year, assisting with the fudge booth and through their efforts there was an abundance of fudge to last the full time of the fair. However, it is only through the efforts of the public that the fair can be termed a success. The members of the department and the ladies have thanked everyone for the support given the fire department in their annual drive to raise funds.

Winners of the prizes were: Dianne Raymond, R.R.3, of the decorated cake; Mrs. Minnie O'Neil, first prize on the special draw, and Frank Hand-spiker was winner of the second prize in this drawing. Winners in the drawing for Firemen's Day were: Flossie Hand-spiker, 5th prize, of a painting set; 4th prize to Cora Skellan, of a Kodak camera; 3rd prize of a table lamp went to Wilfred Gidney, of Mink Cove; the end tables, which was 2nd prize, went to Winning Wong, of Digby; and winner of the $50.00 cash prize went to Louis Pothier, of Kenny Construction Co., at Digby General Hospital.

Lions Prepare For Busy Season

The Digby Lions, under the leadership of King Lion Richard Baxter, are making plans for a busy season. Commencing with the Blood Donor Clinic next Monday, under the chairmanship of Past King Lion E. B. Tufts, the Lions have undertaken many worthwhile projects for the coming year.

Lions plan to continue with the Teenagers Club and a dance to start the season is scheduled for early in October. Halloweeners can expect the usual party on October 31, with games and treats galore for the wee ones. The club has plans for selling "trick or treat" tickets in the same manner as they did last year, but this year children who receive prizes will be divided into age groups.

This year again the Lions will light up the town for Christmas shoppers with colored lights across the streets in the shopping district. The club has received many letters expressing appreciation for their efforts in making Digby beautiful at Christmastime.

New plans for this season call for a drum and bugle band with majorettes to be formed by the Lions. It is understood that persons between 12 and 18 years of age who are interested will be given free music instruction.

A sacred concert in charge of Mrs. Kathleen Schlup, Washington, D. C., and Mrs. J. J. Wallis, organist was presented at the United Church, Smith's Cove on Sunday night to a packed house. Rev. About This and That

Auxiliary Classes At School

Something new has been added to Digby schools this year. There are auxiliary classes where the student can learn at his own pace. Competing with other students, cramming for examinations on a certain day and studying the lesson that everybody else studies at the same time, we believe, will not be there to cause further confusion to the child's mind. These classes should be welcomed by parents. Surely it is better for a child to learn slowly and get somewhere than to come to a state of frustration and fail to grasp all that is possible for him to get.

We have in mind a child of some years ago. If we remember correctly the lad left school in Grade V still printing his work. Evidently, he was thought to be a backward child and was graded along with others simply to move him along, thus, adding more and more to his frustration. After leaving school he began using a dictionary and writing intelligent letters in an attractive script. Here was evidence that the child had the ability to do better but needed his own time to develop. Without that own time he got in over his depth and schooling was one confusion after another resulting in no actual progress at all. Had the child been given an opportunity to learn at his own speed instead of having to measure up to the standard of others his life might have been relieved of the confusion which hindered any worthwhile progress at all.

We must bear in mind, too, that a child who appears slow to learn might not be too slow at all but might have been a psychologically disturbed individual before he even came to school age. A slower pace of living and individual attention might be all the child is needing. Auxiliary classes provide both of these. When the child appears conditioned to cope with the pace of the regular classes and he wants to be in them we understand another term will probably find him in the regular routine. Being in an auxiliary class one year does not mean the child cannot be relieved from this "special attention class" another term.

Dead Looking Friday Nights

It is seldom that we attempt to drive through the Annapolis Valley on Friday night. That is shopping night and we make a point to avoid heavy traffic when we can. However, last Friday night brought us through the Valley during the Friday night shopping hours and actually we didn't seem to experience any difficulty at all.

In fact, two towns in particular seemed rather "dead" for Friday night. Either one had plenty of places to park right in the height of shopping hours and in one town we walked two blocks and met two people — both from Digby.

This is not meant to be a protest against Friday night open. This is merely to say that if the lack of parking space in Digby on Friday night is any indication of the business we are doing, then, in comparison with some other towns, let's not complain.

Flower Shows

We were right proud last Thursday when Ruth Morton, of the Dartmouth Free Press, told us that she read where Digby and Dartmouth Flower Shows were the best in the province and the only two which did not show signs of the poor growing weather this summer. After reading the story this week submitted by Mrs. Eva Wendell, of the Digby Horticultural Society, we are not sure who is wrong. At any rate, Digby must have been somewhere near the top and we continue to be proud of that.

We also see by Farm News that an excellent flower show was included in the Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition. We quote: "The show this week was by far and away the best flower show which has ever been seen in Nova Scotia. There was some comment offered to the effect that it was the best show ever seen in Atlantic Canada. . . . Certainly, in all our experience in this province, and in some other provinces as well, we have never seen anything that approached the quality of bloom, the number of entries and the excellence of the display generally than that which we saw at the Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition this week."

While we write this there is no way to know what the flower show at the Digby County Exhibition at Bear River will be like this year. We do know that the one last year was most commendable. By the time you read this we will have seen the show for this year. If you haven't visited the flower show at the 1964 Digby County Exhibition just take a ride to Bear River on Thursday or Friday to see it. Entries should be there from all over Digby County, especially from those centres which have had successful flower shows this season.

By the way, I wonder if the exhibition booklet provides prizes for flower arrangements. Must take a look. As times change all these things must be updated and new attractions added. And the people who would most likely be concerned should be notified, too.

Make Her Future — Theirs

We would like to pass on to our readers further comments from the Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition which were made by Hon. I. W. Akerley, Minister of Agriculture and Marketing. They are apropos to our County and our time and bear repeating here —

"There is still yet another main division to this show to which I should refer and, if I mention it last, it is not because I regard the 4-H division as least.

"Here, Mr. Chairman, I found a cross-section of the rural youth of Nova Scotia and, in this section of the show, I caught the contagious spirit of enthusiasm which these young people have for this great industry of agriculture. Here, ladies and gentlemen, are the young men and the young women who will people our farms in the tomorrows. The young men and young women who I met this afternoon and who will be participating in this programme a little later, are young, enthusiastic, competent, and energetic. It seems to me, Mr. Chairman, that we who are older must ensure that these young people coming after us have opportunities available to them such as did not exist in our time . . .

"To do this, we must ensure . . . that this great industry of agriculture offers just as bright a future for a competent young man or young woman as does any other profession, vocation, or business. It is no longer good enough for us to expect that we are going to build up a prosperous rural Nova Scotia by continually skimming off the cream of our rural population and diverting these bright young minds into channels of industry which we normally associate with urbanization.

"If we are going to build up a prosperous Nova Scotia, and if Nova Scotia is to achieve the position she should hold in this great Canada of ours, then we must ensure that rural Nova Scotia is sufficiently attractive to its young men and its young women that they will want to make her future theirs."

LOANS FOR STUDENTS Guaranteed by the Government of Canada

Purpose: The purpose of the Canada Student Loans Act is to facilitate bank loans for students who need financial help to continue full-time studies beyond secondary school level at Universities and other educational institutions.

Who can apply: Any Canadian citizen, or anyone resident in Canada for one year who intends to live in Canada after completion of studies, may apply for a loan under the Act. An applicant must be enrolled or intend to enroll as a full-time student at an educational institution approved by provincial authorities, and must meet the standards of academic qualification and financial need established by the student loan authority in the Province in which he applies.

Amount of loans: Depending upon individual circumstances and financial need, loans up to $1,000 a year may be made, with a maximum of $5,000 during a student's academic career. The Provincial Authority receiving applications and determining eligibility will issue a certificate to each eligible student stating the maximum amount the student may borrow. This Certificate of Eligibility is required before a student can arrange a Government Guaranteed Student Loan with the bank of his choice.

Repayment: Interest-Free and Delayed Repayment Period
To assist students, the interest on loans during the period a student continues full-time studies, and for six months thereafter, will be paid by the Government of Canada. During this same period no repayment of principal is required, nor will any service charge or fee be payable by the student.

Method of Repayment
Borrowers will begin to pay interest and to repay loans six months after they cease to be full-time students. The current interest rate to students is 5 3/4% per annum. Normally the repayment period will be five to ten years. Borrowers have the right to repay loans in part or in full at any time without penalty.

Life Insured
In the event of the death of a borrower responsibility for repayment of the loans will be assumed by the Government of Canada.

Where to apply: Students resident in Nova Scotia, regardless of where they intend to study, should apply for a Certificate of Eligibility to:

Canada Student Loans Committee,
Department of Education,
Halifax, Nova Scotia.

The above notes are based upon the Canada Student Loans Act 1964 and are for reference only. All applications and loans are subject to the full terms and conditions of the Act.

Labor Day Message

(Hon. N. Layton Fergusson)

I consider it a privilege once again to extend greetings to the working people of the Province of Nova Scotia on Labor Day, 1964.

Nova Scotians, as enlightened people, recognize, I am sure the contribution labor has made over the years to the development of our great country. Mutual understanding and co-operation between people of good will can do much to advance the cause of industrial relations.

The work of the Joint Labor-Management Study Committee, operating under the auspices of the Institute of Public Affairs, Dalhousie University, is being watched with keen interest.

The first Six-Point Labor-Management Agreement arrived at in 1962 was followed in 1963 by a second Six-Point Agreement. This second Agreement and the joint Labor-Management brief submitted to Government in support thereof represent further significant development in the area of labor-management relations during the past year.

Of special significance is the fact that in 1963 representatives of large groups of labor and management made a joint appeal for certain amendments to the Nova Scotia Trade Union Act. It had been the usual procedure previously for labor and management to make separate appeals. This further instance of joint effort may well prove to be another step forward by labor and management in the area of mutual understanding and co-operation.

The amendments to the Trade Union Act in 1964 substantially implemented the changes sought in the joint presentation. Particular changes in the legislation appear to be in keeping with the recommendations of the Judge A. H. McKinnon Fact Finding Body re Labor Legislation that there should be more effort on the part of both parties to resolve their disagreements without recourse to a third party.

Utilization of manpower likewise is an area of concern to labor management and government, and to the people of the Province in general. The more effective the utilization of manpower the more effective should be the productive results in industry.

In recent years, rapid advances in technology have brought into sharp focus the growing need for more vocational and technical facilities at all levels of our labor force. To those already in the labor force, it means in many instances upgrading their skills or re-training to prepare for changing employment opportunities. To youth, it means that they not only must remain at school longer, but more of them must seek out apprenticeship, the trade school and the technical institute. To employers, it means more training opportunities must be provided.

Times have changed and indeed times are still changing. The continuing effects of the Industrial Revolution which began in the last century are well known. A second industrial revolution has been developing more recently. Automation has followed mechanization and more rapid changes are following in the wake of automation.

Automation appears to present both a challenge and an opportunity. The challenge is to ensure that unnecessary hardship does not fall on those persons who must adapt themselves to change. The opportunity opens up an ever widening field in the struggle for the betterment of humanity.

The province of Nova Scotia has embarked upon a program of Voluntary Economic Planning, which is the first of its kind in this part of the world. Scholarships and bursaries at University and school levels are available in

Hackett - Sabine

At Weymouth Church of Christ (Disciples), on August 29, a lovely evening wedding was solemnized by Rev. Kenneth Sullivan, of Wollaston, Mass., when Constance Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Sabine, Riverdale, was united in marriage to Frederick Plemon Hackett, son of Nina and the late William Hackett, of Tobin Street, Halifax.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white lace and net over satin, with pearl and sequin trim on bodice. A shoulder-length veil of nylon tulle was held in place with a crown also of pearl and sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of red sweetheart roses.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Arthur Holly, of Halifax, as matron of honour, who wore jade green nylon over tulle with matching head-dress. She carried a nosegay of sweet peas and fern.

The bridesmaids, Geraldine Cosman, Danvers, and JoAnn Prime, of Darling's Lake, cousins of the bride, wore identical dresses of peacock blue and flamingo pink nylon sheer with matching head-dress, and also carried nosegays of sweet peas and fern.

The groom was attended by Arthur Holly, of Halifax, and the ushers were Grant Sabine, brother of the bride, and Bruce Brown, of Westphal, brother-in-law of the groom.

The bride's mother chose a floss pink linen and lace with matching marabou hat and white accessories with pink and white peppermint stripe carnations.

Mrs. Hackett, mother of the groom, wore a gown of turquoise.

certain cases. The province in association with Federal and Municipal Governments, has erected training schools throughout the Province. Facilities for training of persons are provided in these schools. The Federal Government shares in the training costs of this latter type of education.

The Department of Labor is concerned with an apprenticeship program for the Province. In the Spring of this year, the Department sponsored a Provincial Conference on Apprenticeship to provide an opportunity for those concerned with this type of training to make an appraisal of the present apprenticeship program and of the future needs for training skilled tradesmen. The apprenticeship program is a co-operative effort between labor, management and government. It is hoped that the program will continue to receive the stimulation it deserves.

The past two years have advanced in labor-management co-operation, and in other matters. On this Labor Day, 1964, I salute the efforts already

Smoking Hazards

The Canadian Cancer Society has been working in co-operation with the Provincial Departments of Public Health and Education in the preparation of an educational program on the hazards resulting from cigarette smoking.

The program, designed as a supplement to the regular health class, will be introduced in the junior and senior public schools of Nova Scotia this fall.

Volunteers from the Canadian Cancer Society have worked 100 hours to assemble more than 6,000 information kits containing 60,000 pieces of smoking literature.

The kits provide information on the relations between cigarette smoking and lung cancer. They include posters, pamphlets, comic books, reprints and reference lists of films, studies and papers, selected and reprinted by the federal department of Health and Welfare.

A cross of deep pink sweet peas on a heart of Queen Anne's lace, flanked by baskets of pale pink and white gladioli was the centre decoration at the Digby United Baptist Church when the wedding of Ruth Edna Atkinson, Digby, and Charles David Turner, Sackville, was solemnized on Saturday, August 22. The bride, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Atkinson, Digby, is a graduate of Gordon College, Winham, Mass., and a teacher at The Pike School, Andover, Mass. The bridegroom, also a graduate of Gordon, is the youngest son of Mr. E. B. Turner and the late Mrs. Turner, of Sackville, N. B., and a student at Gordon Divinity School.

Rev. H. S. Hartlin performed the double ring ceremony, in which the bride and groom recited their vows. Mrs. Lorne MacKay, Sackville, was organist, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Charles Estabrooks, also of Sackville, who sang "Wedding Hymn," by Handel, and the prayer of the bride and groom — "May the Mind of Christ My Saviour." During the signing of the register he sang "A Wedding Benediction" and just before the couple left after the reception, the Song of Ruth, "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silk faille with fitted bodice and bracelet length sleeves. The scoop neckline was appliqued with hand cut embroidered lace. The skirt featuring unpressed pleats fell in soft folds flowing into a chapel train. Her bouffant shoulder length veil of hand rolled tulle illusion fell from a crown of pearls and diamante. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis. Carol Atkinson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and wore a street length dress of pale pink embroidered organza over taffeta. Pink tulle illusion fell from a rose and pearls forming the headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink rosebuds and blue stephanotis.

David Cook, Sackville, also a student at Gordon, was best man, and ushers were Clarence Turner, brother of the groom, and Colin Tower, both of Sackville.

The mother of the bride wore a dress of rose and beige brocade, beige flower hat, and beige accessories. Mrs. Turner, stepmother of the groom, wore a light beige embroidered dress with hat of black velvet embroidered on beige and black accessories. Corsages for both were pink and white orchids.

A reception for about a hundred guests followed in the lounge of the Pines Hotel. The three-tier wedding cake was cut in traditional manner. Presiding at the silver tea service were Mrs. V. G. Greeno, Kingston, and Mrs. Clarence Turner, Sackville, with Mrs. E. D. Morton, Centreville, and Mrs. C. N. Morehouse, Noel, N. S., assisting. Miss Marilyn Atkinson, cousin of the bride, served the wedding party. Miss Bernice VanTassel also assisted in serving.

Miss Carolyn Hoar, Moncton, Gordon classmate of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

Rev. H. S. Hartlin proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded, asking for the prayers of friends as they give their lives in service to God.

For a wedding trip to Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, and on to their home near Gordon Divinity School, the bride chose a blue silk shantung dress with lace bodice, matching jacket, white accessories and corsage of pink rosebuds.

Out of town guests were from West Newton, Mass., Moncton, Sackville, N. B., Dartmouth, Halifax, Kingston,

Harley S. McCormick

Harley S. McCormick, well known Digby County machinist, died at the Digby General Hospital Friday.

Born at Bear River, 65 years ago, he was a son of the late Decker and Rebecca (MacDougall) McCormick. His wife is the former Ruby Daley.

He resided in Massachusetts for 25 years and in 1950 returned to Nova Scotia and settled at Marshalltown where he has operated a business as a machinist and welder. He was a member of the Bear River United Baptist Church.

Surviving besides his wife is a daughter, Edna (Mrs. David Murphy) of Lynn, Mass., and four grandchildren. He is also survived by a brother, Vernon of Bear River and sisters, Della Alcorn of Bar Harbour, Me., and Pauline (Mrs. Ernest Thornburn), West Somerville, Mass.

The remains rested at his late residence, Marshalltown, from which place funeral service was held at 2 p.m. Monday. Rev. H. S. Hartlin conducted the service and interment was at Mount Hope Cemetery, Bear River.

New Fence At Forest Hill Cemetery

At the Sunday morning service in Trinity Church last Sunday, the Rector, the Rev. James Pike, received and offered to God, a new stone fence, fronting Forest Hill Cemetery. This gift has greatly improved the approach to the cemetery and indeed the whole area, of this part of the Town of Digby.

This gift was given by Miss Edith Lynch, in memory of her father, Mr. T. E. G. Lynch, a well known and respected member of the Town for many years, as well as being Churchwarden for Trinity Church for a long time. In addition to Miss Lynch, other members of the Lynch family were present for the service, including Major General and Mrs. Plow, and Mr. Richard Lynch.

During his sermon, the Rector referred to the deep interest the late Mr. Lynch had in the work of the Church and said that it was due to his and the interest of others like him, that the Parish had made such progress through its long history. In thinking of those who had faithfully served God and who are now at rest, the Rector reminded the congregation, that though we see them no longer, they are not dead. Life is continued beyond the grave. It is life under new conditions but at the same time a continuation of the life lived here on earth. We should thank God continually, he said, for the blessed hope that is ours as Christians. Christianity teaches us that we may look forward to a joyful reunion with all our loved ones in the presence of God.

"We all hope one day to join our loved ones in Life Eternal," he said.

"We can make certain of that here and now, by determining to follow Christ faithfully and walk in His way of life, here on earth."

Stuart Murray. Special music will be provided by the choir. The meeting is open to the general public.

Full activities in the Baptist Church of Digby are getting underway with the Women's League meeting having been held on Tuesday evening of this week. The first meeting of the Cubs is being held on Thursday evening, and next Monday evening the Boy Scouts commence activities. The C.G.L.T. and Explorer groups will commence meetings at an early date. Re-enactment Confederation

The disembarkment at Halifax in 1864 of the Fathers of Confederation was re-enacted in the city on Thursday when frock coated gentlemen came down the gangplank of the "S. S. Queen Victoria". Awaiting their arrival was "P. C. Hill of 1864, mayor of Halifax" and sailors dressed in 1864 style uniforms. Bearded actors portrayed such characters as Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Charles Tupper, D'Arcy McGee and other fathers of Confederation. The morning program on arrival was almost identical to the original 1864 visit to Halifax of the Canadian dignitaries previous to 1867 Confederation.

The "Fathers" were given a tour of modern day Halifax in the afternoon when they visited Government House with Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. McKeen and the Province House where they were welcomed by Premier Robert Stanfield.

A civic luncheon was held at noon when at the luncheon Mayor Charles Vaughan of Halifax spoke briefly, commending the job being done by the centennial committee headed by John Fisher. Mr. Fisher presented the City of Halifax with a commemorative scroll, a replica of the document giving the original Fathers permission to hold the first Maritime conference.

In the evening a dinner by the Province of Nova Scotia was held at the Nova Scotian Hotel which was kept as closely as possible to the dinner tendered the "Fathers" in 1864. Following the dinner guests heard the play John A. Beats the Devil at the Neptune Theatre.

Attending the dinner and theatre from Digby was Mrs. J. M. Wallis.

es Pike baptised the greatest number of children at any one service in this Church in the memory of anyone living here now.

Baptised were, Ruby Irene and Rex Allen, twin children of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Halliday; Gary Lee, Ricky Charles, David LeRoy and Diana Louise, children of Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Harnish; and Mark Todd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy B. Harnish.

Godparents for the children were, Mr. and Mrs. William Melanson, Mrs. Dorothy Haynes, Mr. Albert Harnish, Mr. Roy Harnish, Mrs. Mabel Wentzell and Mrs. Wallace Harnish.

In his address to the unusually large congregation the Rector said that whereas these children had previously borne their family names, they had now received their Christian names. At Baptism, people are made members of Christ, children of God and inheritors of the Kingdom of Heaven. These children he said, had now started on the Christian way of life, during which they would meet many obstacles. By living close to God by regular public and private worship, and through receiving the Sacraments of the Church, they would receive the spiritual strength necessary to live such a life.

The Rector reminded the Godparents and others, of

Heaf Test Continues In Digby County

The Heaf Tuberculin Testing Survey, consisting of a Testing Clinic followed one week later by a Reading Clinic and X-Ray Clinic is continuing its program in Digby County this fall. This Tuberculin Survey is sponsored by the Nova Scotia Tuberculosis Association and supported by the annual sale of Christmas seals. This free public health service is carried out in close co-operation with the Department of Public Health, under the direction of Dr. V. K. Rideout, Western Health Unit.

This survey is a continuation of the program which was first launched in Yarmouth County in the fall of 1961. Since that time the Counties of Yarmouth and Shelburne have been tested and the Municipality of Clare in Digby County. To date 37 new cases have been discovered. Information gathered from this survey has proven very helpful to the Department of Public Health in tracing the source of tuberculosis infection during an outbreak.

Much emphasis is placed on the importance of Heaf testing the older people as there is a high incidence of the disease in this age group. The biggest problem is to keep the public aware that tuberculosis still exists. World wide tuberculosis is responsible for some two million deaths each year; here in Canada tuberculosis still leads all other serious infectious diseases. Last year 28 new active cases of tuberculosis were discovered in the Western Health Unit.

Education of the public to the facts of the disease and Tuberculin Testing is a very important part of the survey. This consists of organizational work prior to the clinics. This work and the clinics are under the direction of Mrs. Allan W. d'Entremont, R. N., Middle West Pubnico. Instructions are given to women's groups in the different communities as they are organized and they in turn carry out a house to house education program where cards are made out for every person from the age of six months up to the oldest resident. The role of the canvasser is a very essential one and much praise must be directed to these different groups of volunteer workers.

Watch your local newspaper for the dates and times of these clinics as they are being organized. Much publicity is given to the survey through every medium of advertising and it is hoped that public interest will promote all communities to co-operate in this free public health service. The first clinics are scheduled for the Islands in September.

Rally Day At Grace United

At a recent meeting of the Session, Christian Education Committee and Church School teachers, held in Grace United Church Hall, it was decided to hold Rally Day service on Sunday morning at eleven o'clock in the church, with all teachers and scholars attending.

The 1964 Rally Day service theme is Sharing in the Teaching Ministry of the Church and it precedes the inauguration of a new curriculum for the Church School. The curriculum is designed so that the whole family has an interest in the lesson of the day. Its purpose is to provoke the scholar to a greater awareness of his Christian life and the Christian part he plays in the world around him.

The following Sunday, September 20, the Senior School will resume at ten o'clock. All young people from twelve years up are invited. The Junior School will worship with the church congregation at eleven o'clock. At eleven fifteen they will go to their classes in the Church Hall.

A nursery has been provided, to which the parents can bring their children and worship together in church. The meeting, which was held to plan the Rally, was advised that a high chair, toys and other articles suitable for a nursery were their solemn duty to have their children brought up as true Christians and exhorted the older people to set a good example for the children by their own regular attendance at worship and by regularly receiving the Sacrament of Holy Communion.

Inducted

On Wednesday, September 16, 1964, a special service will be held at the Church of Christ (Disciples), Weymouth, at which time Rev. Russell Carr will be inducted into the pastorate of Weymouth, Southville and South Range Churches of Christ (Disciples).

The Weymouth and District Ministerial Association will assist in conducting the service.

Rev. Russell Carr was born in Charlottetown, P. E. I., and received his early education in that city. In 1939 he joined the RCAF and served for five years in the administrative branch. After receiving his discharge in 1944, he studied at the Alberta Bible College for the Christian ministry. He was ordained at Calgary in 1948. Since this time he has taken special work at the Christian Theological Seminary, Indianapolis, Indiana, and also at Bethany College, Bethany, West Virginia.

Rev. Mr. Carr has served the following churches before coming to Weymouth: Erskine, Alberta; Ridgeway, Ontario; Milton, N. S.; St. John, N. B.; and Dartmouth, N. S. He has also served six years in U.S.A., in Columbia Avenue Christian Church, Rochester, N. Y., and the First Christian Church, Endicott, N. Y. He has also served on the executive of the Council of Churches both in Canada and U.S.A.

Just previous to his coming to Weymouth he was vice-president of the Dartmouth Ministerial Association.

Rev. Mr. Carr is married, with four children: Paula, who is married to Rev. B. Herring, Indianapolis, Ind.; David, who is studying for the ministry at the Johnston Bible College, Tennessee; Joan, still in high school; and William, who is in grade school.

The induction service will be at 8:00 p.m.

Polio Campaign Begins October 1

A follow-up oral polio immunization campaign will be held throughout the province Oct. 1 - 16, it has been announced by Health Minister R. A.

still required. It was also noted that leaders for some youth organizations were required and there were openings for teachers in the Church School.

Thought was given to holding a Youth Service on one Sunday evening a month.

Crowned Royalties Of 4-H

Sixteen-year-old Sharon Jefferson, Clementsvalle, and 18-year-old Donnie Fiske, Lawrencetown, are crowned queen and king of the Annapolis County 4-H Club by Mrs. Fred Duncan, Queen Annapolis I. The crowning took place at a grand coronation dance held in Lawrencetown Consolidated School, attended by well over 200 4-H members. (Goldston)

Donahoe. Sponsored by the provincial Health Department the campaign will act as a follow-up to the successful mass oral polio clinics held in May.

All children between the ages of one and 19 years are eligible to receive the vaccine. For most children this will be their follow-up dose. But for others it will be their first polio vaccination.

Mr. Donahoe urged parents to have their pre-school age children one year of age and older vaccinated. "Often this age group is overlooked," he said. "But pre-school age children are just as likely to contract poliomyelitis as school age children." The oral vaccine will be administered free at local clinics in schools and community centres. Schedules of the clinics with times and locations will be given at a later date.

Sabin oral polio vaccine not only protects against poliomyelitis, but eliminates the carrier state. Another important advantage of the vaccine is that it is given in a carefully balanced mixture to protect against the three deadly types of paralytic polio.

The Sabin vaccine is taken by mouth, therefore doing away with needles and syringes which have deterred many individuals in the past from receiving polio immunization. Endorsed by the Nova Scotia Medical Society, Sabin oral polio vaccine also bears the stamp of approval of the federal government. More than 100,000,000 persons throughout the world have received Sabin oral vaccine.

By yesterday all the slides we took on our vacation trip were back. There were very few duds among them. We had our little family slide show, an activity which the kids love. The littlest one pokes her finger into the projector to see where the picture comes from. The big one, although he knows what a camera is, what it means to take a picture, and what a picture is, has not yet connected all these phenomena in a logical sequence. He squeals in delight, "We saw that place." "That yooks yike my Daddy." He has no idea that the pictures we took are the ones we are showing.

Our biggest one has a memory now. He remembers events as far back as last summer, but he is beginning to remember places now, as the slides show. He sees a picture of Peggy's Cove, and says "That's where the water splashed us." When we showed the slide of Point Enrage light in Cape Breton, he remembered that we climbed up in the lighthouse, and that we had our dinner there. Even when he sees pictures of deer, rabbits, turkeys, or peacocks in books, he is likely to exclaim "We saw one of those at the 'parkin' place." (The 'parkin place' is his name for the wildlife park at Shubenacadie.)

We weeded out the bad pictures. Our definition of a bad picture is any one that needs an explanation. If we find ourselves explaining why we took a slide, or explaining what we did wrong, we take it out. Naturally, those that require commentary are admitted, they are the basis of the collection. There are a few exceptions to the other rule too, some of our favorites are unintelligible to other people. I am very proud of my photographs of fireworks, which nobody ever recognizes. I have one of a very thick fog on the Annapolis Basin. Technically, this is a colored picture, with occasional darker grey dots which are boats. No one knows what that is either, which makes me more, rather than less, proud.

I am an amateur (very amateur) painter, but I would give photography the credit for teaching me how to see. So often, when seeing our pictures, people have exclaimed that they never see anything to take pictures of. A friend of ours from New Brunswick once lamented on looking at some scenes of Nova Scotia, that Nova Scotia must be much more beautiful than New Brunswick, there was nothing that lovely there, I swear that seeing is an art which must be learned. An artist friend once told me something which I have remembered ever since. He said that at any given time an artist is surrounded by four things to paint, what is in front of him, what is in back of him, what is to the left, and what is to the right. This is as true of just plain living as it is for painting.

I have been indulging in my very small way, in photography for about ten years. I suppose, in a way, my indulgence is a sort of compulsion. At a very rough estimate I would guess that filed away in boxes in this house are about six hundred colored slides, as well as numerous black and white efforts. Neither the technique, nor the composition, nor the subject matter has improved markedly during all this time and effort. Naturally, I admit, neither of us have any pretense at being professional, and we do have some better than average pictures in our collection, so that should not cause any sleepless nights. The trouble is that we are not using this simple process to its full potential. I suppose we think it undignified, or unsophisticated, or something to show slides to our guests. In any case, it has been several years since they have been seen by anybody outside of the family. Occasionally, when we have the projector out, I entertain a little secret hope that someone might drop in so we can show them, but this never happens.

Come over tomorrow. Would you like to see a picture of the tiniest tent in the world? Or the kids running from the breakers? Or Her Little Majesty on a swing? Or John Cabot's statue at night?

We could go back further than that. I could show you my lovely valentine roses from 1960, or that record snow storm in Halifax in 1959. I didn't tell you about our trip to Ontario, did I? And didn't Jimmy look silly wearing my hat!

Oh, I did win third prize in a contest once with a picture of the budgie reading a book.

fully, but still have no substantial effect upon our economy. The Government of Nova Scotia believes that the Atlantic Development Board fund and program should attack our fundamental problems so as to have a substantial effect on our economy. We assume this is also the aim of ADB. We have urged the ADB to provide adequate industrial incentives as the most effective method of developing our economy.

In view of Mr. Pickersgill's comment on the Government of Nova Scotia in the House of Commons August 25th, I must now say in public what the Government of Nova Scotia has been saying privately to the Atlantic Development Board. We are very disappointed that the Atlantic Development Board turned down Nova Scotia's proposal for incentives to industry and very unhappy about the present arrangements for administering the $20,000,000 the Atlantic Development Board has set aside to assist industry in Nova Scotia.

Our submission was based upon the recommendations of Professor Wilson of Glasgow University who was retained by the Atlantic Provinces Research Board to study industrial incentives in the Atlantic Province. Professor Wilson concluded that cash grants to reduce initial costs are the most effective incentive to industry and recommended the use of cash grants in this area.

Nova Scotia's proposal to the Atlantic Development Board incorporated Professor Wilson's recommendations but modified them some in the course of discussion with ADB officials. Our proposal was not accepted.

I wish to emphasize that Mr. MacKeigan, the Chairman of the Atlantic Development Board, and his staff have been helpful and co-operative in their attitude. A happy relationship between ADB and the Government of Nova Scotia requires understanding and patience on both sides. It is important that we do not let little things or even bigger things spoil a friendly and fruitful association.

It is easy to spend $20,000, 900 or $25,000,000 in Nova Scotia. It is easy to spend it use-

Volume and value of fish had increased twenty percent in the first part of the year and another ten per cent is expected by the end of the year. In a few years Nova Scotia's fishing should be equal to the other four Atlantic provinces combined as Nova Scotia has boat builders and everything for the best kind of fishing industry.

Mr. Marr was pleased to see the Digby Board of Trade taking an interest in developing the fishing industry in the town and commended the Board for its active part in stimulating life in the community.

Tuesday night's dinner meeting of the Digby Board of Trade, presided over by Charles Halliburton, president was called especially to extend a welcome to newcomers to Digby and vicinity. Capt. J. M. Paul, Commanding Officer at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, and Herbert Warren, newly appointed manager of the Digby Branch Bank of Nova Scotia were head table guests.

Capt. Paul, is not entirely a newcomer to the community as, he put it in addressing the audience, he had pioneered H.M.C.S. Cornwallis up to his knees in mud. Later he had returned in charge of the leadership school and today he is here for the third time, but in the capacity of commanding officer.

Capt. Paul said that there are presently, about 700 new entries under training at Cornwallis. He asked the communities to be tolerant with these young people for some of their lives have been mixed up affecting their behavior at times. He expressed the hope to be of service to the communities, to help make life more enjoyable and to make the good name for the navy that it deserves.

Mr. Warren told the dinner guests that he was looking forward to his stay in Digby, he admired the scenery but as he

Addresses Trade Board

Hon. E. D. Haliburton, Minister of Fisheries, addressed J. M. Paul, newly appointed the Digby Board of Trade last week, when newcomers to the area were entertained by the Charles Haliburton, president of the Digby Board of Trade.

Harbour Improvement Will Begin This Fall

The Digby Board of Trade has been informed from the office of the Minister of Public Works that the department is "actively considering proposals for the improvement of Digby harbour."

Charles E. Haliburton, president of the Digby Board of Trade, told the Courier yesterday that in a recent letter from the minister's office he was told that an area approximately 225 feet by 150 feet is expected to be dredged this year to provide moorings for an additional row of druggers.

"The Canadian Pacific Railway Company is involved in these plans," the letter stated. "Proposals for a new ferry terminal, which would leave additional space at the existing wharf free for the fishing industry, are now being studied. This program of harbour improvements also envisages the eventual reconstruction and modernization of the existing dock to meet the requirements of the fishing and pulpwood industries," the letter continued.

Mr. Haliburton told the Courier that further word from officials of the engineering branch of the public works department, in Halifax, assured the Trade Board that dredging of a possible 7,000 cubic yards will begin sometime this fall.

Officials of the department were in town about ten days ago, Mr. Haliburton said, and at that time it became evident that there is a definite need of dredging immediately outside the harbour. A survey is presently being made and material gathered in hopes that authorization for dredging of the floor of the harbour, both inside and outside, be done at the same time, he said.

Blood Donor Clinic "Best Yet"

Lion Art Robinson, recently back from an extensive tour of the United States, addressed a meeting of the Digby Lions Club. Mr. Robinson gave a most interesting account of his travels, and said that after his 16,000-mile trip he saw nothing to equal the "beauty of scenery and landscape we have right here in good old Digby."

Lion Mike Moses, manager of the Lions Little League baseball team, addressed the group, telling highlights of baseball play during the summer. He said that although the Lions team did not win the championship this year, they made a tremendous showing. Latest word from the blood donor clinic, held Monday, showed a terrific success, and although the Digby turnout was disappointing, the outside districts such as Digby Neck and Bear River, made this year's donation the best ever. Chairman for the event was Lion Ernie Tufts.

Child Killed

The little 5 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Comeau was instantly killed on Sunday morning in front of his home. He was born in New Waterford, Cape Breton, and is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Joseph Comeau, and one sister, Leona.

Thomson Says Maintain Proper Balance

In opening the Digby County Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition last week, Alex Thomson said that exhibitions must above all maintain the proper balance between urban and rural interests, between agriculture and entertainment. We must avoid becoming too sophisticated because that is the sure road to extinction, he continued. Mr. Thomson is secretary of the Nova Scotia Association of Exhibitions and past president of the Canadian Association of Exhibitions.

Agricultural exhibitions have developed and grown along more modern lines, the speaker said. They have become a matter of display and advertising, of education, of the improvement of better agricultural production. He emphasized the important role in this respect with the 4-H Clubs, the real grass-roots of agricultural improvement.

Exhibitions have had, and continue to have, a profound effect on the improvement of livestock quality, on the improvement of field crops, fruits and vegetables on practically every phase of agricultural production which lends itself to display at agricultural exhibitions. Mr. Thomson said agriculture deserves, and must have, the support of exhibitions.

R. Baden Powell, M.L.A. for Digby, spoke on the advancement in agriculture and the part that exhibitions have played but he felt that agriculture in this area is still a perplexing problem. He spoke of the 900 students in Digby Regional High School this year and wondered how many of these students were going to find a place of employment on the farms. He felt a real change in agriculture was necessary to provide a better life for people in the rural communities.

V. G. Cardozo congratulated the Digby County Exhibition managers on the fine show which indicated a tremendous amount of organization and pulling together. He urged the rural people to make use of organizations such as Federation of Agriculture, 4-H and Women's Institutes and to learn of the assistance available for a better life in rural communities.

Mrs. J. M. Wallis, representing the county newspaper, said that both institutions, the news paper and the exhibition, had the same purpose, that of improving the economy and general life of the people who live in the area. Mrs. Wallis expressed disappointment that more firms did not make use of booth space and felt the opportunity for advertising. She suggested adding to amusements and interests for people each year, as exhibitions must change with changing times, but never to let the exhibitions (Please turn to page 10)

Widen First Avenue Urged Of Council

At a regular postponed meeting of the Digby Town Council, a group of merchants urged the council to give consideration to the plan of widening of the railway tracks on First Avenue, between Sydney and Church Streets. It was pointed out by Mr. A. R. Pyne, who headed the group, that some eight feet would be added to the width of the street, which at the present time is hardly wide enough for safe passing. The council decided to contact the D.A.R. concerning the matter.

All mobile trailer home owners are required to apply for permits before setting up in the town, it was decided. The decision was necessary because of requests for water and light service. Proof of adequate sanitary disposal facilities is also demanded. Over-all policy regarding this type of home is necessary, it was pointed out.

Tenders were opened for the position of Superintendent of Streets and Water, and decision set aside until Wednesday, September 16.

Regular agreement with Department of Highways regarding upkeep expenses of jointly controlled through-streets was to be signed with provision that if any universal changes throughout the province, Digby would benefit.

It was pointed out by Mayor C. D. Snow that "the retaining wall along Water Street is fast becoming in need of repair and serious thought on the matter is necessary. Cost sharing by the Provincial Government is a possibility," he said.

There were nineteen complaints during the past month on the police blotter. Eight required some field investigation. All complaints except two terminated to the satisfaction of those concerned — two persons were taken to court. All cases were disposed of, and were under the N. S. Liquor Control Act. Fines collected were $20.

Kenney Construction Company was given permission to remodel the Snow property on King Street, and also to erect a two storey building on the site of the old Shreve building. The bandstand and the fence at the monument were painted.

Mount Street was widened and gravelled. October 4-10 was declared "Clean-up Week" and "Fire Prevention Week" at the request of the Digby Fire Department.

What Caused Power Failure?

Officials of the Digby County Power Board are investigating the cause of a power failure in the town last Friday evening. The failure, which occurred at 11 p.m., lasted about one-half hour.

It is understood a terrific "flash" was reported in the vicinity of the new St. Patrick's School. This flash was probably caused by a short circuit, and officials say the circuit could have been shorted by a bird, or by some metal object crossing the wires. As a result an 11,000 volt circuit, which supplies most of the town's electrical power, was knocked useless. Streets in Digby's south end and portions of streets parallel to Water Street did not lose their power.

The failure left Digby wharves in blackness, and outside areas affected were Bay View and Culloden. The light-house at Point Prim made use of its auxiliary generating facilities. Areas which were not directly affected noticed the power failure when C.J.C.H. TV left the air for this period.

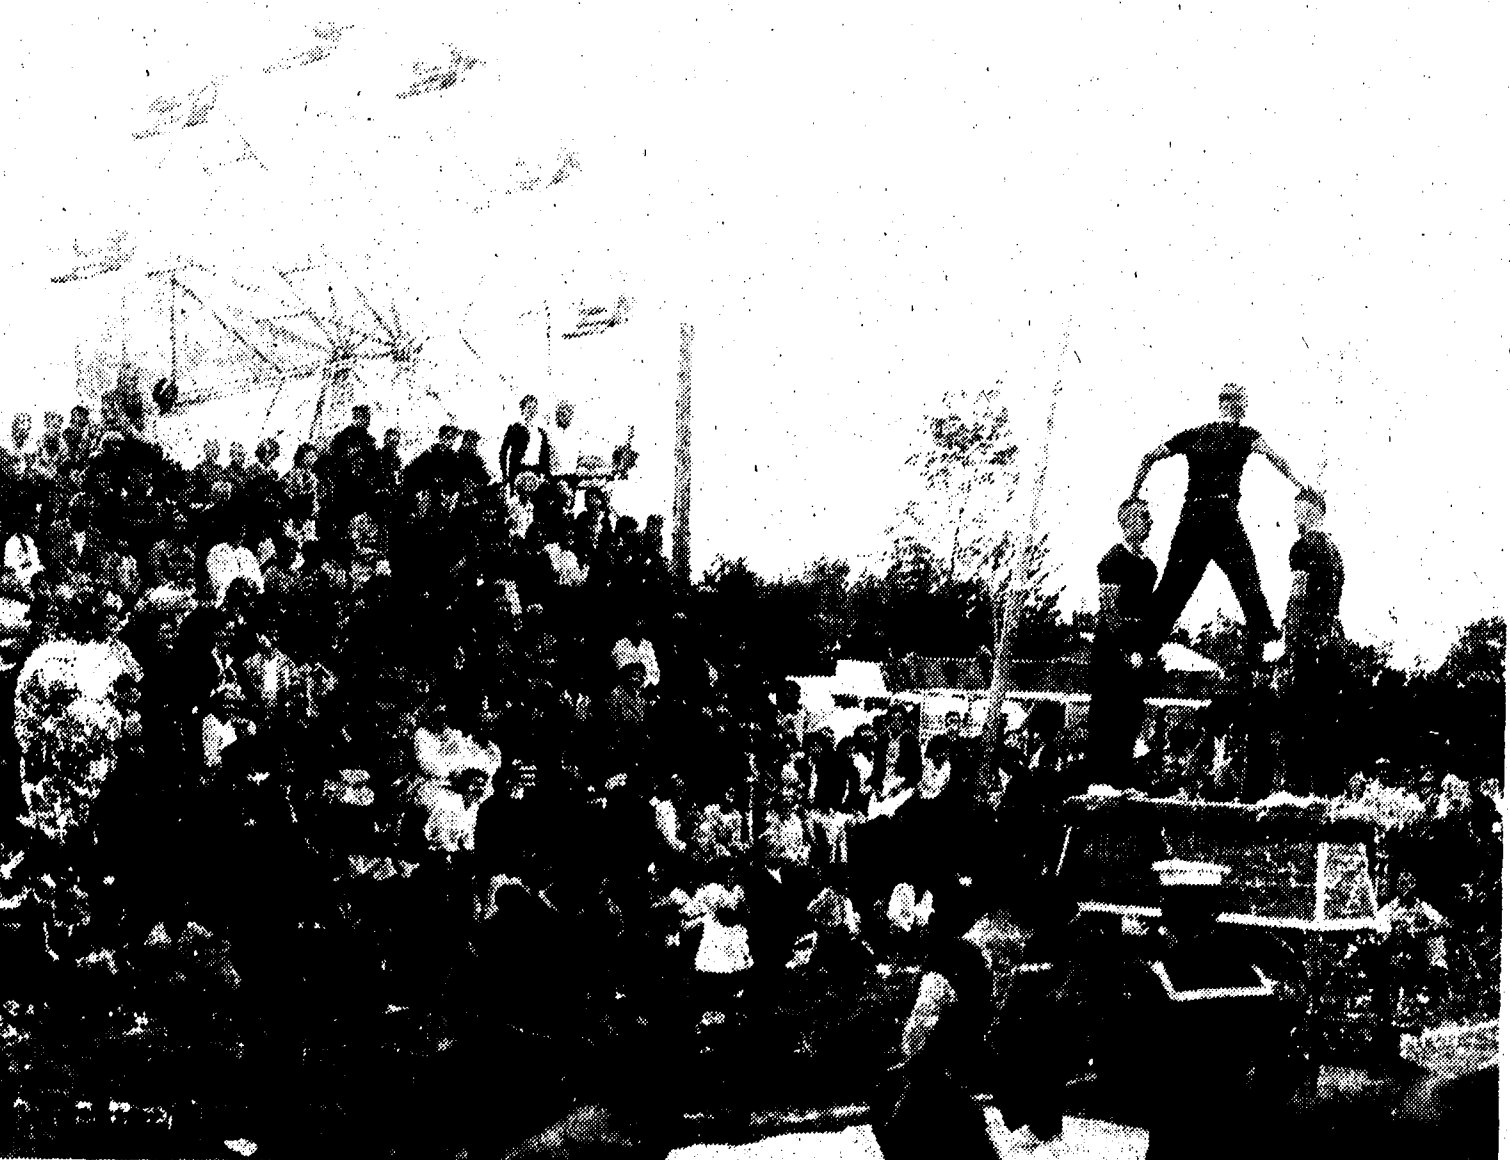

Bernie O'Neil Has Seven Home Runs

Bernie O'Neil proved to be the star of the Legion softball team as they swamped the Digby Firemen 47-23 at the ball park on Sunday afternoon. O'Neil brought in 7 home runs and hurled until the 5th inning, granting 5 runs and 7 hits. Alvin Lawrence, coach of the Digby Legion team, played an outstanding game on first base.

Ralph Arthurs relieved O'Neil in the 5th. Police Chief Webb Dunn went in as a pinch-hitter in the 6th, brought in four runs and continued to play the rest of the game.

Jerry Campbell, manager of the Legion team, said "we all like V. VanTassel, pitcher for the losing team, because he is so easy to hit." It is understood that another game is slated this Sunday at 1 p.m.

Bowling Teams Join Country Club

Digby Club Non-active

A meeting of the Digby Bowling Club was held on Tuesday evening, September 8th, at the Firemen's Hall, Maiden Lane building. Twenty-one members were in attendance. Also present was Don Wilson, a representative of the Scallop Bowl, where this year's play will be held.

The meeting decided that since only four men's teams and three ladies' teams were available to the Digby club this year, the club would remain non-active during the 1964-65 season. All finances of the club are to remain in the bank and trophies for annual competition will be collected and stored. At the next annual meeting it will be decided if the club should resume activities or disband. Teams present at the meeting decided to join the Country Bowling Club this season.

"Sonny" Banks Addresses Kiwanians

Members of the Kiwanis Club of Digby listened to a most interesting address last Thursday at their weekly dinner when Lawrence Banks told of his experiences during his recent visit to Cuba.

Lawrence had spent seven weeks in that country as one of a group of university students from across Canada who had been invited to make a study of Cuba. He enlivened his address with personal anecdotes and incidents experienced at first hand and made some enlightening observations from what he saw and heard. The meeting was held at the Scotia Restaurant. Preparations are under way for the Fall program of the Club. Having undertaken to furnish a children's ward in the new hospital, the Club will be busy in seeking to raise the necessary funds. A Variety Concert is being planned for the near future. It was reported that the chicken barbecue, held recently at Defaga Lodge, was most successful in results. The usual sale of apples undertaken by members of the Club every Fall will again be sponsored this year and in time for Halloween.

During the summer the Club regretted the loss of two of its members who had left Digby. These included Dr. E. Frigault and Lt.-Cmdr. John Till. Kiwanian Stewart MacNaughton was appointed to take charge of the annual Easter Seals drive on behalf of the Crippled Children's Fund.

A number of the members of the Club plan to attend the Inter-Club meeting at Meteghan on September 20th, in honor of the visit of over seventy members of Kiwanis from Medford, Mass.

Fifty-nine successful students received diplomas and degrees at graduation exercises of the Halifax Infirmary held recent at St. Patrick's High School.

Historical Plaques Unveiled

Two plaques of historical interest were unveiled yesterday in Clementsport. A plaque in memory of 14 members of the Rawding family, all master mariners, whose activities date back to 1771, was unveiled. At the same ceremony a second plaque to mark the site of the first iron mines in Nova Scotia was uncovered.

The ceremony was sponsored by the Historical Society of Annapolis Royal, with president, Major R. D. Thexton, Annapolis Royal, and councillor L. L. Snell, Deep Brook, as co-chairman. It took place in the village square. Speakers were Dr. Will R. Bird, chairman, Nova Scotia Advisory Council, and Dr. Arthur Kelsall, member of the council.

A bronze plaque near the site of the first iron mines in the province was unveiled by Hon. Donald Smith, minister of mines, who gave an address on the old mines of Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Henry How, Wolfville, direct descendant, unveiled a bronze plaque commemorating the 14 master mariners in the Rawding family. Jimmy Rawding, sixth generation descendant, Clementsport, placed flowers at the base of the cairn.

Capt. J. M. Pat, commanding officer, HMCS Cornwallis, spoke on the unique master mariners, five of whom were brothers and all residents in Clementsport and members of a family who commanded some of the largest ships of their day.

The five brothers are Capt. James Edmund Rawding, Llewellyn Spurgeon Rawding, Robert Crusen Rawding, Herbert Leslie Rawding, and John Balcom Rawding. Capt. Joseph Rawding heads the list of names on the plaque.

Children Escape Serious Injury

Two Marshalltown children, Kathleen Marie Abbot, 10, and Robert Ring, 7, escaped serious injury Friday evening when they were involved in an accident with a car driven by George P. Comeau, of Comeauville.

It is understood that the children ran across the road in the path of the oncoming vehicle. Young Ring is in Digby General Hospital suffering a fractured right leg. The girl was shaken up but released from hospital following observation.

About This and That

Exhibition

With the risk of being told that we have a one track mind we are going to again mention that word, exhibition. But, isn't this the time to take note of the attractive and the unattractive features of the exhibition when it is fresh in our minds? If we jot down these notes now we'll have them on hand for planning the next exhibition. Actually that planning starts now.

Firstly, we congratulate the managers of the Digby County Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition. They put on an improved and better show again this year. Gradually, the Digby County Exhibition will be rejuvenated and be the showpiece that it is intended to be.

We were pleased to see some new features added this year such as the HMCS Cornwallis P.T. display and the Cornwallis band. We do not want to get away from the real purpose of the exhibition, of course, but "we must", as Alex Thomson, who opened the Digby County Exhibition, said, "keep a proper balance." We want to attract the crowd and while a large pumpkin and a beautiful quilt might be attraction enough for some, there are others who are attracted only to bright lights and plenty of sound. And there are those versatile enough to be attracted to both. We commend the directors of the Digby County Exhibition on their aggressiveness. They have a long road ahead, we realize, but with their ambition, their interest, coupled with greater interest by the public, the Digby County Exhibition can be brought to a high place among exhibitions in Nova Scotia.

One thing which disappointed us at this year's D.C.A. & I.E. was the few booth spaces utilized in the commercial building. What an opportunity was lost there to display, advertise and assure future sales by exhibiting wares before hundreds of people at one time. Those who did use space at the commercial building are to be commended and we especially mention Hill 'n' Dale Garden Club and Bear River Home Furnishings Ltd. But there was much, much more space to be utilized. Next year, we'd suggest the managers make an out-and-out selling job of this space. It is disappointing to visitors at an exhibition to see empty space when they have their minds set on seeing and chatting at the booths. And while it is on our minds and as an interest to those who want to use booth space next year — how about trying some action display rather than all static exhibits, as attractive as these may be? How about a piece of machinery in actual operation? Action will keep people's interest much longer than a static display.

Here is something which we've mentioned before — how about name signs over the buildings? True, anybody who wants to get from one building to the other at the Digby County Exhibition is not going to have a difficult time finding where to go. But, wouldn't names on the buildings add to their attractiveness. Wouldn't names on the buildings make you a bit more curious to go there and see what is inside? To our mind name signs are inviting. For example, the dinner might be excellent at the dining room but unless you are attracted in some way, if hunger pains are not bothering you, you won't think of eating. Look down the field and see "Dining Room" in large letters and you are more likely to say "Let's eat." Signs, even if not elaborate, give life to buildings. They make you feel there is something inside. Watch as you drive through the country some day.

We notice that Pictou is finding it most successful in starting their exhibition on Labor Day each year. We are not suggesting that we steal the day from any other organization, but we are just mentioning the idea for any time if and when the day happens to become free.

Again we congratulate the managers of our Digby County Exhibition. We have one interest by any of the remarks we make. That is, to help, if we can, to improve the exhibition. We want to arouse public interest and help the Digby County Exhibition to perform its true function — to improve Digby County in agriculture, (fishing, too) in industry and in general.

Tourist Season Over

While a few tourists are still roaming our land, for the most part the doors to tourist gift shops, eating places and rooming houses are closed for another year. There are those who are more than pleased with the 1964 tourist season, while others have found it disappointing. Grant you, those who are catering to the tourist business directly stand to gain most by tourist promotion, possibly, but all of us gain indirectly from this business — the farmers, the fishermen, the carpenters and men of other occupations. The question is, what did we do to promote tourism in Digby for 1964? What are we going to do for 1965?

Suggestions, made by Capt. Lloyd Hill, recently appointed tourist director for the Annapolis Valley, were to step up the tourist industry in the Valley by better telling and better feeding.

When it comes to better telling we think we are falling down and falling hard right in our own town. Even people directly concerned with tourism are often offenders in the telling. One tourist we happen to be thinking about somehow found his way to Digby. Having arrived he was interested in staying a few days so he asked (and this was someone who should know) what he could do while visiting in Digby. The conversation ran something like this — He: "What is there to do in Digby if I stay a few days?" Answer: "Oh, Digby is only a small town, there isn't much to do in Digby." He: "There must be fishing." Answer: "There are scallop boats at the wharf, you can see them from here." Certainly, that tourist didn't get any friendly advice from that conversation. It is more than likely his dozen or so friends heard from him that "there isn't anything to do in Digby." There are things to do in Digby and the tourist should have been told so by his informant who really was someone who should have known better. If not the informant certainly was in the wrong employment.

We agree with Capt. Hill that better telling is required. Better telling is required by word of mouth and by literature. And, by the way, the tourist brochures for the Annapolis Valley are to be stepped up from 6,000 in 1964, to 50,000 for 1965. We hope Digby comes in for some of the tourists which the brochures bring to the Valley. The number we get will likely be in ratio to our own telling effort.

We sat down to dinner with one tourist this summer who said, "There must be fresh peas on the market!" Enough said. We agree with Capt. Hill — at least, feeding could be improved in some places.

At another occasion Capt. Hill also added these suggestions for a stepped-up tourist program — well staffed tourist bureaus, more picnic tables, more camping sites, better transportation and more entertainment. These are projects which we should start on now for the year 1965. Now is now, not the late Spring of another year.

Free, Free, Free

How those words captivate! But, your editor has a prejudice. A strong prejudice. Naturally, our prejudice stems from "free" in the advertising world for that is our business. Oh, don't mistake us. We have ego enough to think we are as generous as the next person. It is the way the word "free" is being tainted to which we object. And that gives us a prejudice against the word.

Yes, sometimes we almost see the word "theft" when we see the word "free". Why, even the words "public relations" are being cursed with that word "free". We know it for our desk gets cluttered with all sorts of public relations material from all sorts of people and from every walk of life. What should be a legitimate advertising expense is tried to be stolen into news columns by some high salaried public relations person. We would be doing wrong by encouraging such practices by using the material. We, too, believe in good public relations but we believe in obtaining it honestly and by fair play.

Of course, we have a prejudice against that word "free" which really shouldn't be a nasty word at all. But, we do think the very word "free" is breeding a lot of unhealthiness. It creeps into things with most unwholesome motives. It creeps into the minds of our young and we adults are to blame. It creeps into the finest kinds of organizations. We have in mind right at the moment an organization which must handle six or seven, or maybe more, thousand dollars a year. We were rapped last week for sending an advertising bill to them for something over one dollar. But the release was supposed to be a news story! The fact that it gave the place, the date, the time and probably the price didn't seem to matter. On another occasion we met a youth who enquired about advertising. He was given the price and in the next breath he asked, "Is there any way in which we can get it 'free'?" Is this a healthy attitude for any organization, no matter how well principled it might be otherwise?

Yes, we have a prejudice, but to come to the point we really want to make — is anything really free? We hear people say that we should get some piece of work done by the government, or by the municipality, or by the town because we get it "free". Do we? Doesn't somebody pay? Bingo is played sometimes not for the fun of playing but to see what can be obtained "free". It isn't free. Somebody, somewhere, in this case the other players, is paying. There are "give-aways". We have a feeling that somewhere, somebody pays for these. All of us by the price tag. Then, is anything really free? Just think about it.

Rally Day

Rally Day was held at Grace United Church on Sunday morning when Rev. R. H. Hughes delivered his address on David and Goliath chiefly to the boys and girls assembled. David, Mr. Hughes told them, wanted to be himself. Mr. Hughes advised the boys and girls to be themselves, to use their own talents and be the kind of persons God meant them to be. Don't follow the mob or try to be somebody else, he cautioned, but develop your own personal Christian character, and your own faith in God. The giants in the world are getting taller and stronger, Mr. Hughes said in referring to laziness, alcohol, falsehood, deception and immorality.

Mr. Hughes told the parents of the new curriculum which will be started in the United Church schools next week. It is a new method of teaching, he said, in which both pupils and parents learn. The new curriculum, too, will call out the very best in preparation by the teacher. It will lead the boys and girls and parents to a living faith in God.

Scripture was read by James Purves, and James Wade, guest soloist, sang "How Great Thou Art".

Partnership In Gospel Program

Grace United Church last week launched a Partnership In The Gospel program when letters went out to all the congregation announcing a dinner, to be held on September 2, and a visitation on October 1. An interesting meeting was called by Committee of Stewards on Monday night, when plans for the program were furthered. Rev. J. R. Calder Fraser, Bridgetown, will be the guest dinner speaker.

The meeting on Monday was presided over by William Troupe, chairman of Committee of Stewards, and was attended by the Stewards, Session, M. & M. committee and representatives of other interested groups of the church.

Mrs. Reigh Jayne, general chairman of the Partnership In The Gospel program, reviewed the work done to date. Mrs. J. M. Wallis, publicity, reported the pamphlets and cards had arrived from the United Church House in Toronto and would be distributed. Charles Halliburton, in charge of the dinner, gave a detailed report of plans.

Rev. R. H. Hughes, minister of the church, and head of the Vision committee, along with Oakley Turnbull, superintendent of the Church School, and members of the Session, gave to the group instruction on visitations. The visitors, he said, must be convinced, have confidence and have a good attitude toward the program. The visitations, which are also for the purpose of receiving pledges, are to help create fellowship interest and enthusiasm and to try to make people realize what the church means to the congregation and community.

Discussion at the meetings found that the envelope givings were not increasing in proportion to the rise in expenses. It was further pointed out that the income potential of the congregation was high and that no difficulty should be experienced in raising church funds for home or overseas work.

Digby Baptist C.Y.C. Meets

At a meeting of the Christian Youth Council of the Baptist Church of Digby, held last Sunday evening, plans were made for the Fall program of the various youth groups of the church.

Scoutmaster Donald Brown reported that the Scouts were commencing meetings this week with a substantial enrolment. Bernard Bell, leader of the Cub Pack, stated that his group had already met for their first meeting and that he will be assisted by John Comeau and by William Poole. On Thursday evening of this week members of the C.G.I.T. will conduct their first Fall meeting, with Mrs. Amelia Whally as leader, assisted by Miss Diane Rupert. Mrs. Paul Snow, because of the pressure of other duties, will not be able to carry on the work of the Explorers this year, but Mrs. Charles Hersey will continue to give leadership to this group and it is expected that an assistant will be secured.

Mr. Brown reported with regret the loss of his assistant, Scoutmaster Richard Applejohn, who has recently moved to HMCS Cornwallis. Mr. Applejohn gave excellent leadership to the Scout group during his stay in Digby. On October 10th a Chicken Supper, sponsored by the Scouts and Cubs, and the Boys' Work Committee, will be held in the church hall.

During the meeting some discussion was given to the possibility of enclosing the alley way between the church and the hall to provide more space for Sunday School and general youth activities. The Council had already gone on record in recommending this addition and believes that it would serve a useful purpose.

The pastor, Rev. H. S. Hartlin, stated that the Digby County Fall Rally of Baptist Youth would be held in the Acadiaville Church on Saturday, October 17th.

In discussion with the Sunday School Superintendent, C. M. Levy, it was decided to hold the Sunday School Rally during the worship service on Sunday morning, September 27th. The C.G.I.T. will have charge of the choir for this service.

Bible Society Holds Rally

On Tuesday evening at the Centreville Baptist Church a rally was held to aid and promote the work of the Canadian Bible Society in the Digby Neck area. Representatives from the communities of Rossby, Centreville and Little River attended the meeting, also Mr. L. Wood from Weymouth, pastor of the United Church in this area. Organist for the evening was Mrs. Loran Shaw.

The meeting opened with a hymn sung led by Mr. Royce Elderkin from Little River. Deacon Loran Shaw extended welcome to all visitors and the scripture was read by Mr. Loran Banks from Rossby. Rev. Victor Mercereau, Little River, led in prayer after which Mrs. L. Wood favored with a solo.

Rev. Max Spencer and Mr. L. Wood introduced Rev. M. C. P. Macintosh, District Secretary of the Canadian Bible Society who addressed the meeting. Rev. Macintosh told of the work the Society is doing and of the need for more interest in the work and the need of increased financial aid if the Society is to carry on its work supplying Bibles to the needy millions all over the world. There was a display of Bible Society work, translations and scriptures. Included in this was part of the Braille Bible.

At the close of his address, Rev. Macintosh closed the meeting with a benediction, after which those present had an opportunity to examine more closely the display of Bible Society work.

Following the formal meeting a social hour was held at the community hall where refreshments were served by Mrs. Guy Outhouse and Mrs. Roy Cameron.

Predicts "Era Of Expansion"

In an address to the Rotary Club of Wolfville, J. C. Mc-Cuaig, General Manager of the Dominion Atlantic Railway, urged Canada's parliament to stop "nattering about flags and start talking about doing something for the railroads of Canada."

"If we had 15 different flags it would not effect the economy of the country one way or the other. Give us some no-holds-barred legislation so we can get out and really do a first class business for industry," Mr. McCuaig said. He was speaking on the eve of his departure, October 1, to a new posting with the CPR in Preston, Ontario.
Mr. McCuaig saw a great future for small industry in the Annapolis Valley and he held no brief for people "who are always talking down the area." "You have the greatest reservoir of trainable labor that can be found anywhere in Canada. No area in the country has the things to offer light industry that you possess here in the Valley."

Speaking of the need of money for universities, he said
"what is the good of putting money into education if that education is not put to use here? It is not enough just to provide superior training.
There has got to be a balance."
Emphasis on tourism was alright "but what about the other nine months of the year?" Mr. McCuaig spoke of the industries that had come here in recent years and said there was room for more and urged business to "talk up" the attractions wherever they go. That's what he planned to do in his new posting in Ontario. He predicted a "wonderful era of expansion in Nova Scotia."

Salt Water Fishing Tourist Attraction

The tourist business is Canada's greatest industry and the Nova Scotia Information Bureau of the department of Trade and Industry of the province is endeavoring to obtain a fair share of the tourist dollars for Nova Scotia, stated Mr. John McIntyre at a Clare Chamber of Commerce meeting held at the Little Brook Court House in Digby County, Nova Scotia holds third place in the number of tourists attracted to Canada.
It is estimated that over $54-000,000.00 was spent by tourist in the province in 1963 and it is believed that this amount will be exceeded by ten per cent in 1964, stated Mr. McIntyre.

One way to attract tourist to this area is the potential salt water fishing feature that could be developed. To date only several boats have been outfitted from Cape St. Mary's and these were principally for tuna fishing. Salt water fishing for cod and pollock can be developed in this area as well as at Wedgeport and Port Maitland, stated Mr. McIntyre.

Basically there are four ways to improve the economy of the province: agricultural and manufacturing development and the tourist trade.
The latter is the easiest and the quickest to develop. There are very few areas in our province that has nothing to offer to the tourists. In your area, you have hospitality, friendliness of the inhabitants and the churches are among the best in the province, stated Mr.
McIntyre. Tourist require information and this must be given in a friendly manner.
You evaluate what you have to offer to the tourists and go ahead and do something about it, said Mr. McIntyre.

You should not emulate the English speaking peoples in cooking or in preparing the food for your eating places, but rather should present French cooking and give the area a French atmosphere, stated Mr. McIntyre.
Following Mr. McIntyre's talk on Tourism, Mr. Lloyd Hill, executive manager of the Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade, which covers the valley and Clare Municipality, spoke on what was being accomplished by the affiliated boards regarding attracting the tourist trade to our area. Mr. Hill showed the group a colored folder which had been prepared for the 1964 tourist season and gave an account of a survey that he had made at Bar Harbour and Yarmouth terminals regarding the tourist trade.

Mr. Hill explained how the tourist dollar was divided, which was as follows: Retail stores 25 cents; Restaurants etc. 19 cents; Hotels and Motels
17 cents; Service Stations 12 cents; Entertainment 9 cents;
Travel 7 cents; refreshments 5 cents; and souvenir and novelty stores 3 cents.

You must also consider the Canadian tourist as he is considered the greatest spender.
Advertising must be taken into account in planning to attract the tourist to your area, stated Mr. Hill and the assistance of all Boards of Trade in our section is necessary to make the tourist aware of what we have to offer by advertising our points of interest, said Mr. Hill.
The President of the Clare
Chamber of Commerce, Mr.
Bernard LeBlanc, thanked the speakers and the members for their kind attention and stated that the Board is interested in sponsoring an information bureau in our area for next season. But, stated Mr. LeBlanc, work must be started at once.
Members of the various organizations and clubs were invited to attend the meeting as it was in the interest of all peoples of Clare.

A report of the Acadian Festival was read by the secretary, Mr. Marcel Valotaire, which showed that the program of the Festival turned out to be quite successful. It was stressed by the President of the Festival, that more costumes should be worn by people of Clare to increase the value of such festivals. Comments from tourists who attended the festivities were very encouraging.
Mr. J. Medic Comeau, chairman of the Tourist Committee introduced the two speakers and Mr. M. Valotaire thanked them on behalf of the members of the Clare Chamber of Commerce. Following the meeting, the president, Mr.
Bernard LeBlanc of Belliveau's Cove invited the members present along with the guest speakers to meet at his camp at Journey's Lake in St. Bernard where the majority of the members enjoyed the evening.

P.C. Women Library Centennial Project

Mrs. Harrison Smith, of Kedowna, B. C., lawyer and president of the National Women's Progressive Conservative Association, spoke to nearly three hundred women at a public meeting held in the Annapolis Royal High School auditorium on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Smith spoke chiefly on the new library which the 11,000 Progressive Conservative women all across Canada are erecting in Ottawa as a centennial project for 1967.

The library will be known as the Sir John A. Macdonald-Sir George Etienne Cartier Library. The project, Mrs. Smith said, indicates awareness by the women of the importance of preserving the history of our country. One of the main features will be the archives section. Hundreds of important papers and documents have accumulated over the years and await proper cataloguing.
These will be contained in the new library. Biographies of political figures who have stamped their names on the history of Canada will be kept on file as a valuable aid to students, authors, and historians of the future.

Mrs. Smith continued that the centennial project indicates the unity of the P.C. party in Canada, the strength of the women, and the dedication of the P.C. women to the work of good citizenship. The women want to be ready to celebrate in 1967 in a manner commensurate as Conservatives have contributed to the growth and unity of Canada in the past.

The new library, she said, will help to preserve Canadian culture. It will be a focal point for all and assist in building unity. There will be a place where visitors to the Capital will be able to gather in a feeling of friendship and fellowship.

Mrs. Smith said that a memorial book will be placed in the library and will contain names of all who contributed to the erection of the MacDonald-Cartier Library. The price each woman is requested to pay is $1. Mrs. Smith looked forward to the future when the new library would contain as many volumes as the British Museum, established in 1759, boasts of at the present time and that it will rank among the great libraries of Canada.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Lewis Mills, of Granville Centre, and other speakers were Mrs. Nowlan, wife of the Honorable George C. Nowlan; Mrs. A. A. Mac-Donald, President of the Nova Scotia Women's P.C. Organization; Mrs. Gladys Porter, M.L.A. Mrs. E. J. Twohig presented Mrs. Smith with a gift on behalf of the Digby-Annapolis-Kings P.C. Women. On the platform were, as guests,
Mrs. Owen Smith, Fredericton,
N. B., National Secretary; Miss Kay MacFarland, from Napanee, Ontario, Chairman of the centennial project; Mrs.
Isabel MacCauley, Halifax;
Mrs. Lenora Biglow, Truro;
P.C. Women's Presidents and other officials.

Mrs. Nowlan, in her remarks, took issue with the idea of the Honourable Lester Pearson,
Prime Minister, taking upon himself the business of imposing a flag upon the people of Canada in an undemocratic way. She said that the Liberals were to blame that the debate on the flag continued for such a long time. Any new flag,
Mrs. Nowlan said, should represent both the French and the English in a bilingual nation as ours and should not neglect our long and happy connections in the Commonwealth.

Mrs. Nowlan, in her remarks,
took issue with the idea of the Honourable Lester Pearson,
Prime Minister, taking upon
himself the business of imposing a flag upon the people of

Tuna Plentiful But Won't Bite

Over 15,550 pounds of tuna were landed at Cape St. Mary's in Digby County, during the month of August, which includes 26 tuna landed by rod and reel sports fishermen.
This is believed to be the greatest number of blue fins caught in any one area in the province.

One 325 pound tuna was landed and 13 in the 500 pound to 590 category. Nine weighing 600 pounds to 681, and 3 weighing over 700 pounds were caught.

Despite a decrease in catch, over last year when 77 were landed, every year to date thousands have schooled in the Cape St. Mary's area. It was not the lack of the big fish but they were not always in a biting mood.

It would appear that an investigation to find out why they will not take the herring bait, customarily used, would explain the low number of tuna landed.

The same trouble seems to be encountered elsewhere in Nova Scotia but the Cape has always come up with the largest numbers landed in provincial waters for the last 5 or 6 years.

The lateness of the fish in arriving at Cape St. Mary's presents a handicap, as usually the big game fishermen have made arrangements to fish elsewhere in the fall months, although the tuna are still lingering in the waters of St.
Mary's Bay.

My darlings have just gone to bed. The pattern was typical. The big one made no fuss at all. He sat on my lap as I rocked him, and read to him. Then we went upstairs, he got undressed, kissed me goodnight, and snuggled cosily down into his bed.

The wee one shrieked and screamed. I tried to rock her, but she pointed in no apparent direction, saying something that sounded like "bear". I did not know what she meant. She looked out of the window and whimpered for Daddy, who is working late tonight. Daddy has more insight into the minds of little girls than I have. The settling down procedure was generally getting absolutely nowhere, so I took her to bed, still screaming and pointing vaguely to "bear". I gave her Teddy Bear, but she threw him on the floor.

My patience, which is rather fragile at the best of times, falls apart when I am faced with a screaming child. When I do not know what it is crying about, a crying baby literally brings out the worst in me. Suddenly its humanity is turned off. I stare at it, trying to muster up some feeling of affection, trying to remember that the tear-redened face, the tiny hands and feet, are the same face, the same hands and feet which give me so much pleasure when not attached to an angry scream. But the crying baby has become a nothing, and I, in spite of weighing five times as much, in spite of all my pretensions to being the good mother, become as angry as that howling little blob of protoplasm, which is a baby when it is not screaming.

I let her out of bed to see if she could show me what "bear" was. She walked to our bedroom, reached up on the dresser, and picked up a bottle of nasal decongestant spray, which she hugged like a lost friend. At this point, I was no longer particularly rational. I figured if that was what she wanted, that was what she would get, so I gave her a good healthy squish up each nostril. Naturally, the effect was not exactly soothing. With the screams doubled in vigor, I felt sorry, so I brought her downstairs to rock her, and try to renew our friendship. She was still pointing to "bear", so I let her try to show me again. She walked to the kitchen cupboard. The light dawned on me. "Bread?" I asked. The screams immediately subsided into a convulsive sob. The tear-streaked face burst into a smile. She nodded her head excitedly, and hopped up and down. She had finally got through.

With a slice of bread and butter in her hand she went to bed without complaint, and, once more I was ashamed of this personality clash which already manifests itself between me and my daughter.

Persistence is one of her qualities, or at least, I suppose it will be a quality some day. As it is, for these past nineteen months, my daughter's persistence has strained the mother-daughter relationship at all points which can stand it, and a few which cannot. My little girl cried for a bottle at three o'clock in the morning every night of her life until she was thirteen months old. In the infinite wisdom acquired from having had one child before, I knew how to cope with that. You simply let the baby cry for a few minutes longer each night, until one night it goes back to sleep before you get up to attend to it, and the night bottle is over for ever. This method has worked marvelously with my son. My daughter outcried me by two solid hours, until she had me well trained. Thereafter, for another year, with occasional unsuccessful attempts to break the habit, I staggered out of bed and down to the kitchen in the small hours of every morning.

My girl child learned to creep at five months, to stand at six months, and to walk at ten months. Approximately ten times a day, during her babyhood, she would creep to the edge of something and fall off. I did not learn as fast as I should have. After each of these crashes, I would put her back in the same place, figuring that now she knew enough not to fall off. She would promptly creep to the edge, and fall again. It is a morning ritual to bring the kids into our bed as soon as they wake up in the morning. The big one dozes off with us. The little one fell off the bed so many times after we had gone to sleep, that I began to take each fall as a personal affront.

Now, at nineteen months, her motor skills are not far behind those of her brother, who is just over twice her age, and who is pretty manually adept himself. She has absolutely no fear in spite of the more than average number of tumbles she has taken. She tries something, falls, and tries again.

I mentioned once, to a neighbor, who is wiser than I am in the ways of children, that my little one never learns anything from being hurt. Her answer showed an insight granted only to people who are closer to the angels than the rest of us. "If children ever learned anything from being hurt," she said, "none of us would be able to walk."

I have tried to keep this thought with me, as I cope with my determined little daughter, but I only remember it after she has driven me to the point of exasperation. I hope she manages to keep this rare, innate tenacity of hers, she should be able to do great things with it. Somehow, I hope, I will gain the humor and imagination I need to stand her until she grows up.

Tells Of Trip To North

In a recent letter from Resolute Bay, Northwest Territories, E. D. (Duke or Dutch) Woodman, of Digby, tells the Courier of life in Canada's rugged northland.

In Resolute Bay for a sea lift, Mr. Woodman travelled from Quebec on the C.C.G. ice breaker "deIberville". "We saw more than one hundred large icebergs this trip," he writes. This is his seventh time there. "We got in some heavy ice and turned back to go around to make it easier for other ships. When we got here the 12th of August the Bay was frozen solid... 63 inches of ice. Our ice breaker broke ice all night... as you know, it does not get dark here this time of year. The next day some of us flew ashore by helicopter. The others walked ashore on the ice with their baggage. We are staying ashore this year for the first time.

"We cannot work as yet... too much ice in the Bay. It may have to be dynamited before we can work, and the wind has to change to blow the ice out of the bay.

Mr. Woodman mentioned his picture-taking adventures with the eskimos, and his trips over the mountain ridges after musk-ox.

"This is the first year that the lake has been frozen all summer. There is on shore by the village a row of drift ice ten feet high. There is ice as far as one can see tonight. It is 12:30 midnight and the sun is shining over the ice. It would be 3:30 a.m. in Digby."

"I have taken over one hundred pictures since leaving Quebec," Mr. Woodman writes. "Everything is so fascinating. Right now there is a pack of huskies going by. They are large dogs... partly wolves". "We were picking flowers today. I hope to bring a variety home this year. I do hope I can put on a show for you and friends this fall. There are twenty-eight men here from Saint John and some from Nova Scotia and Montreal. George Legere of Saint John is our superintendent. Today we are expecting the Canadian coast guard ship "Sir John A. MacDonald", the one that Roy Peters of Digby is on as second steward.

"We have been informed that an ice flow has gone aground in one hundred feet of water, so you can imagine the depth of that ice."

"See you this fall if all goes well...."

Minimum Wage Board Meets In Digby

Although the Digby meeting of the Minimum Wage Board was not largely attended, Chairman H. L. Ritcey told the Courier it was one of their best gatherings. "We met the type of people we wanted to meet," he said. The board met yesterday at the Court House. Digby is the seventh Nova Scotia centre to host meetings, and the Courier was told that other than Sydney and Kentville, attendance has been "unsatisfactory." There were no briefs presented at the Digby session. Government minimum wage in the Digby area at present is set at 40c per hour for a 48 hour week for female workers. Nova Scotia has no minimum wage for men.

In addressing the board William Troupe, of Fundy Restaurant Ltd., said he endorsed a brief already presented by the restaurant association. The association feels, he said, that any increase in wages would force an increase on general menu prices, and as a result could put many of the smaller restaurant owners out of business. Rumors are that an increase of 80c to $1.00 is being considered, he said. "That's double the present minimum wage in this area," he stated that he is not against an increase in wages, but felt it should not be a large one and such an increase should not take effect immediately. Mr. Troupe suggested a minimum wage of 50c per hour for women. Men are generally entitled to more, he said. Reference was made to the U. S. national minimum wage of $1.25 per hour.

Four employees of a local firm presented their feelings of local wages to the board. From their report it would appear that most of the firm's staff earn less than 80c per hour, and less than $1.75 per month. The four suggested this is insufficient salary for a married person with a family. They agreed that a set minimum wage should be more than $1.00 per hour.

Mrs. Marion Gott, of the Hedley House Motor Hotel, Smith's Cove, told the board that the major problem in this area is finding employees to work for business such as the one she represents. Competition for labour is excessively keen, she said. Hedley House rates have increased 50c in five years, yet costs have tripled. Mrs. Gott told the board. "Think carefully on wages on a regional basis," she said. "Volume of business is far less here than in larger centres in the province. We pay more here for Nova Scotia lobsters than people do in Boston." Mrs. Gott said the root of the employment problem rests with the present methods of paying unemployment insurance, and she suggested that never and more adequate methods be investigated. Mr. Thrasher, of the Innkeepers' Guild, also addressed the meeting.

E. B. Richardson, representing the Digby branch of National Sea Products Ltd., told the board that the 26 men and women on his staff "seem quite happy with their wages." He said his employees receive from 85c to 91c per hour for a 48 hour week. Last year's payroll totalled more than $48,500.00, Mr. Richardson said. He found no difficulty in obtaining workers, but mentioned that many fishermen prefer to discontinue operations as soon as they have received sufficient stamps for unemployment insurance.

Eileen Chipman told the board she is "interested in the plight of employees in this area." Store and office workers have been underpaid for many years, she said. "They probably average $30 - $35 per week, which is not sufficient to maintain a decent standard of living." She suggested a minimum hourly wage of $1.35 and a 40 hour week, and that it should come into effect immediately. "One clerk told me she works 44 hours each week for $25.00. She works 10 1/2 hours on Fridays, and I don't believe she gets paid for overtime," Mrs. Chipman said. She did not agree with provincial zoning concerning wages.

A motor mechanic from the Digby area said that a $1.00 hourly wage would be fair, but that it should be increased gradually. The board meets today in Yarmouth.

Board Will Meet December 7th

E. Adelaar, president of the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade, has announced that the annual meeting of the board will be held Saturday, December 7, at Kentville.

Mr. Adelaar, in discussing the appointment ten weeks ago of a full time director, Capt. Lloyd Hill, with headquarters at Middleton, remarked, "the future is good if we can continue along the line we have planned."

The executive, he added, is holding quarterly meetings to which county and town councillors are invited. "The purpose of this," he declared, "is to keep the councils informed regarding our activities for without their support we would not be in existence and we will not be, without their continued support."

A financial statement presented by Treasurer George Wamboldt, Bridgetown, showed all bills paid and a favorable balance of approximately $4,500, with prospects of another $1,000 coming from the provincial government in keeping with the promised support of up to $4,000 provided required conditions were met.

Blood Donor Clinic A Success

A record attendance of 222 donors made last week's Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic an outstanding success.

Chairman E. B. Tufts and his committee are receiving congratulations on the success of their efforts in promoting the Clinic, and they, in turn, are extending thanks to the Lionettes Club, who assisted in the recruitment of donors, and to the donors themselves, many of whom travelled miles through a heavy rain storm to give their blood. The committee reports 34 new donors, as the majority continue to come back.

Bear River again heads the honor roll, percentage wise, with 90 donors, while Digby with its larger population and nearness to the Clinic, had 98. Other Digby County areas were credited with the following donors: Freeport and Tiverton area, 12; Centreville area, 6; Smith's Cove and Joggins Bridge area, 5; Barton area, 4; Little River, Plympton and Weymouth areas, 2 each; Sandy Cove area, 1.

Mr. Tufts, Chairman of the Red Cross Blood Donor Committee, extends thanks for the use of the Lions Club Hall and facilities, and also to the many local volunteer workers who assisted the Red Cross Team of nurses and technicians from Halifax in the carrying on of the Clinic.

Digby nurses who assisted at the Clinic, under the convener'ship of Mrs. Sidney Smith, R.N., chairman of the Red Cross Nursing Committee, were Mrs. Clayton Snow, R.N., Mrs. Richard Baxter, R.N., Mrs. Sherman Rice, R.N., and Miss Rupert, V.O.N. Registration, ushering and the serving of refreshments to donors were done by members of the Digby Red Cross Branch, under the chairmanship of the President, Mrs. R. B. Lent, those assisting at the afternoon and evening sessions being Mrs. Ralph Berwick, Mrs. J. J. Brittain, Mrs. Daniel Comeau, Mrs. Blair Daley, Mrs. Fred Daley, Miss Louise Daley, Mrs. A. J. Dillon, Mrs. Sydney Hall, Mrs. Allan Harris, Miss Daisy MacKinnon, Mrs. Percy Robert, Mrs. B. H. Ruggles, Mrs. El-

Olsen Elected Treasurer Of Rovers

On the Labor Day weekend the Ramblers Rover Crew went on the 3rd Provincial Rover Moot, held in Elderbank. The members of the crew were Bill Olsen, Rick Olsen, Mike Baxter, Mike Surette and Skipper Bill Poole. As this was the first moot, they placed 5th out of 13 other crews, but they hope to do better the next time.

Other events of the day were car adventure, civil defence demonstration, survival, and skill testing events. The Scotian Ramblers extended thanks to Keith Dunn and others who helped make the trip possible.

At this moot Billy Olsen was elected treasurer of the provincial Rover round table.

Accident At Roxville

Stanley L. Stanton and Ray Tidd have been patients at Digby General Hospital following a highway accident at Roxville, on Digby Neck. It is understood the truck, driven by Stanton, went out of control, overturned and ditched following a flat tire. Tidd was a passenger. Both men received minor injuries.

Stewardess "Jennie" Retires

"When I came on ship as stewardess in November, 1924, for one week to help out, it was an elastic week," said Mrs. Janet Beckwith, who made her last trip as stewardess across the Bay of Fundy yesterday.

After six weeks of vacation Mrs. Beckwith retires on October 31, having completed forty years of service as stewardess on the Bay of Fundy C.P.R. route.

Mrs. Beckwith, the former Janet Neilson, from Fredericton, N. B., actually made her first trip in the capacity of stewardess as a young girl at the age of 20 years in 1920 and left a short time after. Having married Leo Beckwith and also having an infant daughter, Leona (now Mrs. Leona Giles), by November 1924, Mrs. Beckwith went on the S.S. Empress, but only for a week — the week that was elastic enough to stretch to 1964. Through these years Mrs. Beckwith had many home problems to endure. Her husband, a war veteran, became ill and passed away in 1941.

What are your plans for the future, we asked Mrs. Beckwith. But Mrs. Beckwith had no definite plans and it could readily be seen that while others look forward to a life of ease Mrs. Beckwith or "Jennie" felt a deep sadness at retirement from the life on ship which had become part of her and which she loved.

"Jennie" commented that the trips across the Bay never

Kiwanis Presidents Honoured

William MacLeod, president of Digby Kiwanis Club, and Bernard LeBlanc, president of Weymouth Kiwanis Club, were honored along with several other Kiwanis presidents in District No. 11 at a dinner held at Meteghan over the weekend. The dinner, attended by five district clubs and presided over by Lieutenant Governor William Mooney, Yarmouth, had as guests of honor Mayor John J. McGlynn, Kiwanis President Roland Pothier, and a delegation from Medford, Mass.

Mayor McGlynn, who was guest speaker, spoke on the mutual understanding and friendship between the United States of America and Canada as signified by the unguarded border. He also spoke of the brotherhood and fine relations which existed and is fostered by Kiwanis.

Presentations were made to the Nova Scotia presidents individually proclaiming each of them honorary citizens of the City of Medford and delegating to each all the powers, rights and privileges thereto.

To each club the Medford mayor spoke on the outstanding devotion of the clubs to the improving of the lives of their brethren. The presidents, he said, were outstanding leaders devoting untold hours to their fellow-men.

Digby Man Wins Two Shucking Titles

Don Snow Heads Committee

Donald H. Snow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Snow, of Digby, has been named chairman of Halifax Jaycees membership committee.

He joined the Halifax Jaycees in 1962 and during that year was a member of the civic Christmas lighting, teenage road-ee, and Natal Day parade committees. At the end of his first year he was named the outstanding new Jaycee and was subsequently elected a director for the following year.

Form Planning Board

In Critical Condition

Garfield Germaine, Digby, is in hospital in Bridgewater suffering severe burns received last Thursday at Mahone Bay.

Mr. Germaine was in the process of cleaning a chimney when it is believed the aluminum ladder on which he was standing, fell against electrical wires.

North America's first scallop shucking champion is Digby's Gary Robinson. And Gary is also Canada's own champion shucker. He won both titles last week at the third day of the Nova Scotia Fisheries Exhibition, held in Lunenburg, beating all Canadian comers and then going on to win the first international shucking contest between Canada and the United States.

Gary, and fellow Nova Scotian Amos Johnson, from West Dover, met Tom Trigg and Soren Hendriksen, from New Bedford, Mass.

At the end of an exciting contest, in which scallop shells flew in all directions, Gary and Amos, using the distinctive "Digby" shucking method, finished first, throwing the remains of his 200th scallop on the ground well ahead of his competitors. He was declared winner with 139 points, compared with Tom Trigg's 137, Johnson's 132 and Hendriksen's 130. Both the new international champion and Mr. Johnson will go to New Bedford's Scallop Festival next year to defend the title.

Two queens presented the king shucker with a handsome silver trophy. Lunenburg's Queen of the Sea, Miss Diane MacInnes, and the New Bedford Scallop Queen, Miss Carol Olsen.

Harvey Roberts, of Digby, was the winner of the fish filleting contest, beating Fred Snow, of Halifax, by the narrow margin of 261.6 points to 261.4.

Two Sentenced To Jail

About This and That

Are You Willing To Serve?

Do you have the necessary qualifications and don't you have the spirit of public service in your veins? Don't be modest about it. Let the people know. Or, do you know of somebody who has the qualifications and who would make a good community leader? Speak up. Suggest to him that he serve.

Yes, the time of year has rolled around again when nominations must be made for people to fill seats on the municipal council. We hope that in most cases there will be elections, with more candidates in the field than there are seats to be filled, but past experience indicates that in a majority of cases 'acclamations' will be the rule. While some of our best councillors have taken seats by acclamation, we strongly favor an election. It shows more interest by the people being served. In either case, the important thing is to have a person in office who is dedicated to what is right and proper.

Municipal government is not a job just for anybody, but there are among the people in Digby municipality a great many who are capable of taking on this honorable and worthwhile contribution to their communities. Truly, it is often a thankless service. Certainly any citizen serving in this capacity deserves the respect and gratitude of his or her fellow residents. But, whether getting it or not, the satisfaction of knowing one has contributed to the progress and well-being of the community by thus serving, will remain long after the contribution has been made.

Yes, serving on municipal councils often entails sacrifices. Always it demands devoting time and talents in the services of the home community. Municipal government is the lowest level in the scale of governments — but it probably is the most important and has more to do than to spend days on one item such as choosing a flag. It is, indeed, an honor to serve on municipal government. There is no $18,000 per annum, one-third of it tax-free, together with 'fringe' benefits such as free airplane rides, telephone and postal franks, and the like, in payment for services rendered. In fact, there will be no 'pay' at all to those who serve. Nevertheless, those public-spirited people who accept the responsibility of serving as councillors render an invaluable service in shouldering their big share of the load of citizenship and helping to keep their village or rural municipality in the forefront of progress. It is an honor, above price, to be trusted by one's fellows with a seat on the council, and it should not be taken lightly.

It is important, extremely important, that the municipal council seats be filled with worthy and dedicated people. It is important that the people become interested in finding willing people to serve. It is this willingness of good citizens to give of their time and abilities in selfless service on local government bodies in communities all across this province that helps greatly to keep the wheels of progress turning. Time is getting short. Praise your councillors and urge that they return to office or find others, now, whom you think have equal or better qualifications to fill the vacancies which occur.

1965 BUICK WILDCAT

Buick's new styling for 1965 features long, sloping rooflines and a sculptured treatment of the rear-end design. Definitive treatment distinguishes each of the four series through new grille design, new body moldings, new dramatic sweeping roof-lines and new rear profiles. This is the new Wildcat Sport Coupe with its peaked-design grille. A new crossflow radiator permits lower hood lines in all models, with a wide-span grille, widespread headlights, new parking lights and Tri-Shield and Ring emblem. Horizontal contour lines dominate on body and fenders, offset by new moldings, new wheel covers, new taillights and rear bumper in the sculptured rear end. The 126-inch wheelbase is three inches longer. Engines are 325 - 360 - h.p. with new full-perimeter frame and improved steering and ride.

1965 PONTIAC PARISIENNE

All new outside from the massive twin grille back through the dynamic new roofline styling; all new beneath with sturdier, wider track chassis, Pontiac for '65 sets the pace in its field. The sturdy elegance of the deeper grille and full wraparound front bumper is backed up by a new perimeter frame. Tread is more than two inches larger in front and more than three inches in the rear. New torque box construction, new Full Coil suspension, wider stance rear springs and shock absorbers give Pontiac '65 a more stable ride and improved handling. A new larger and flatter windshield blends with the sweeping roofline. New wheel trim covers and hub caps blend in with body contours. Curved side windows slim down the roof and give added room. This is the Parisienne Custom Sport Coupe which has a concealed centre gas filler and is available with Sport Top material. In the Parisienne, Laurentian and Strato Chief series there are 14 models.

is child's work

Oh sure, they sometimes balk on chores, try to weasel out of taking the garbage or shining their shoes. But never think kids don't work, because work is really a matter of burning up energy.

And how they burn it up, with play, chores and just plain GROWING!

Of course, a balanced diet is necessary to replace that burned-up energy. That's where Ben's BUTTERMILK BREAD can play an important part because it is a wonderful source of food energy.

Ben's BUTTERMILK BREAD tastes good too!

FOR GROWING YOUNGSTERS it's the bread to buy!

Letter to the Editor

Digby, N. S.,
Sept. 22, 1964.

Editor,
Digby Courier.

Dear Mrs. Wallis,
In support of the coming meeting in Digby on behalf of the Canadian Bible Society (advertised in this week's issue of the Courier) I wish to say a few words.

According to authentic reports, the Bible Society does a tremendous good work throughout the world in helping to make all people of the world literate, by translations of the greatest literature this world affords. In a certain way, it spreads a message of hope and comfort backed by the power of the Holy Spirit not found in any other area of life.

Let us duly consider the truth of the above statement and show our needed interest by attending the above-mentioned church meeting if we possibly can.

Firefighters Gain Revenge

Ninety runs in one game. That was the story Sunday as Digby Firemen healed the wound inflicted recently by the Legionnaires.

For Branch No. 20 it was an uphill battle all the way as the victors crossed the plate in an unending line.

Players on both sides suffered as muscles brought in from retirement began to stiffen and ache.

While the Legion nine tried many changes on the mound they were unable to find the right man for the job.

Reid, pitcher for the Firefighters, held the opposition in hand until the ninth when VanTassel took over "to give them a chance." Even this ended in disaster as the Legion went down swinging.

Final score of the game was Firefighters 59, Legionnaires 38. Gerry Campbell, manager of the losing team, could not be reached for comment after the game.

The last game of the three game series will be played on Sunday at 1:00 o'clock.

Dr. John Corston Anniversary Speaker

Rev. Dr. John Corston, of Pine Hill Divinity Hall, Halifax, was guest preacher on Sunday, at 9:30, when the United Church at Clementsvalle celebrated its 103rd anniversary.

Dr. Corston spoke from the text in 2nd Peter: "Therefore, I intend always to remind you of these things." It is not enough, he told the congregation, to use God's sacred gift of memory to cherish the past but to also remember that the church is the living body of Christ. We must add virtue to faith and translate the faith that has come down to us into active life and conduct. If the church has more faith than love, then something is wrong, the speaker said, and unless faith is transformed into virtue we do not have real faith. We must remember, said Dr. Corston, to add our witness to our faith and heritage and remember Jesus Christ in whom is rooted and grounded all we say and recall.

The service was conducted by Rev. Elmer Asaph, pastor of the church, and guest soloist was Mrs. J. M. Wallis, Digby, accompanied by Mrs. Howard Potter, church organist.

THIS IS NATIONAL FOREST PRODUCTS WEEK IN CANADA

IT SERVES TO FOCUS ATTENTION ON OUR OLDEST MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY, LUMBERING. ACCORDING TO THE CANADIAN WOOD DEVELOPMENT COUNCIL THE FIRST BUSINESS IN CANADA WAS LUMBERING. THE FIRST LUMBER WAS SAID TO HAVE BEEN CUT ON THE LAHAVE RIVER AND ON THE WESTERN END OF LUNenburg BAY IN 1632. THE FIRST PLANKS, RAFTERS AND OTHER LUMBER WERE SHIPPED TO FRANCE TWO YEARS LATER. THIS WAS THE FIRST MANUFACTURING COMMODITY EVER SHIPPED OUT OF WHAT IS NOW CANADA.

WOOD IS THE OLDEST BUILDING MATERIAL USED BY MAN. AND, IN SPITE OF ALL THIS, IT IS STILL A MOST IMPORTANT COMMODITY TODAY. IT IS, IN FACT, SO MUCH A PART OF OUR DAILY LIVES THAT WE OFTEN OVERLOOK IT. THUS TO HAVE A NATIONAL FOREST PRODUCTS WEEK SERVES A USEFUL PURPOSE, THAT OF REMINDING US OF THE IMPORTANCE OF THE FORESTS AND FORESTRY PRODUCTS IN OUR LIVES TODAY.

Speaks On Bible Society Work

It is the mission of the church to see that the Bible becomes known and read, said Rev. R. H. Hughes, who spoke on Sunday morning at Grace United Church on the work of the Bible Society. He spoke of the many millions of people in the world who do not have the Bible. Of ninety million people in Japan only 500,000 are Christians; of thirty million in Korea only two million are Christians; and of four hundred million in India only eight million are Christians.

In the distribution of the Bible, Mr. Hughes said, it is necessary to regard four characteristics. The Bible must be clear to the recipient. It is useless to send the Bible in English to people who cannot speak or read English. The Bible must be translated in their language or dialect. The Bible must be in a color that appeals because of superstitions in some countries and it must be well bound for endurance from weather and insects. The type must be easy to read. We must believe the message of the Bible is great enough for all to be saved by it, the speaker said, and that it is a way to lead to peace. We have the message, Mr. Hughes continued, and it is our responsibility to send the message. In speaking of the countries which do not have the Bible, the speaker said that if we do not worry about them today, we might suffer by their hands tomorrow. At the present rate of population expansion there will be 6.3 billion people in the world by the year 2,000. Asia will have sixty percent of the world's population and U.S.A. and Canada will have five percent. He urged doubling the present circulation of the scriptures in the year 1964.

Mr. Hughes announced that a public meeting of the Bible Society would be held in the Digby Baptist Church on September 29. Rev. P. Macintosh will be the speaker.

Mrs. Gerald Wilson and Norman Wright rendered a duet as a special choir selection.

GILBERT COVE

We were never sure. Now we know. It is Gilbert Cove and not Gilbert's Cove. So says our correspondent, Mrs. Mary Doucette of Gilbert Cove. The fact was brought to Mrs. Doucette's attention by some of the "old timers" of the village. We, too, stand corrected.

In Memoriam

PYNE - In loving memory of Ernest Augustus and Annie Mae, my dear parents, who died Sept. 17th, 1955 and Sept. 28th, 1938.

They were just two plain dear parents
A loving smile on their face each day
Always ready to do for others
As they journeyed along life's way

To those who have a mom and dad
Cherish them with loving care
For you will never know their value
Till you find they are not there.

Lovingly remembered by daughter, Georgia. 5:1p

GUIER - In loving memory of our dear father Eldred Guier who passed away Sept. 24, 1961.

Tis only a grave, but still it needs care.
For the father we love is sleeping there.
Gone and forgotten by some you may be.
But never dear father are you forgotten by me.

Always remembered by son Orland, Iva and family. 5:1p

GUIER - In loving memory of a dear husband, Eldred Guier who passed away Sept. 24, 1961.

I often sit and think of him when I am all alone.
For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own.
Like ivy on the withered oak,
When all other things decay,
My love for him will still keep,
Green and never fade away.

Always remembered and sadly missed by his wife, Pearl. 5:1p

THERIAULT - In memory of a dear father, Wilfred Theriault who passed away Sept. 26, 1955.

We did not stand beside you to see your life depart,
But when we heard that you were gone it nearly broke our hearts,
We only have your memory "Dad" to remember our whole life through,
But the sweetness will linger forever, as we treasure the memory of you.

Always remembered by daughter Edith, son-in-law Henry and grandchildren. 5:1p

HANDSPIKER - In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Ainslie S. Handspiker, who passed away September 28, 1961.

All the days since he's been gone
Have been lonely, but today is the saddest, for on this one,
Three years ago he passed away
Left us grieving for his presence.

In a home that ne'er will see him passing through its rooms, again.
Except in memory.
Always remembered by wife, Dora, son's Arnold, Garret, Osborne, daughter Audrey. 5:1p

GUIER - In loving memory of our father, Eldred Guier, who passed away Sept. 24, 1961.

You are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more,
Still in memory you are with us.
As you always were before.

Always remembered by daughter Hilda, son-in-law Malcolm and grandchildren Elena and Rodney. 5:1p

Is it a big car?
Is it a small car?
Is it a compact?

Yes.

It's a Volkswagen 1500. It's a big car because it can carry seven children, a mother and eight smiles. Or it can hold five grown-ups sitting down. It's a small car because it's three feet shorter than most station wagons. And it's a compact because we don't waste a single inch of space. The engine is hidden away deep down in the back. So you have a 5½ foot flat loading area. And up under the front hood there's a trunk. Just like in Volkswagen's famous beetle-shaped sedan. And our VW 1500 has all the other advantages of the more familiar looking Volkswagen. It gets better footing in mud and snow because the engine weight is over the drive wheels. There's no radiator to freeze or boil. And it doesn't use much gas. The VW 1500 usually gets about 35 miles on a gallon. That goes a long way with seven children and a mother.

Marriage

DeLong — Anderson

White gladioli on the altar of St. Luke's Anglican Church, with baskets of white asters, pink gladioli and pink dahlias in the chancel, was the setting for a pretty and informal wedding, when Alexandra Jean, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Anderson of Annapolis Royal, was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to Robert Edward, son of Dr. Walter DeLong and Mrs. DeLong of Kentville. The Rector Rev. H. C. Quartermain officiated at the double ring ceremony.

John Thomas Palmer, Mus. B.A., LTCL, ARTC, of Windsor, N.S., was the organist.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length dress of light blue crystal charm with matching floral headpiece and veil. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds.

Her older sister, Mrs. Robert Black of Antigonish, was matron of honor.

William MacKenzie, B.A., of Acadia University, of Sydney, N.S., was best man.

A reception was held at Marshall's Ranch House. The best man proposed the toasts to the bride and her attendant.

For travelling on their trip through the Maritimes, the bride wore a wool suit of cherry-red with black accessories and a white rosebud corsage. The bride received her B.A. and B.Ed. degrees from Acadia University. The groom has his B.A. and B.Ed. degrees also from Acadia University.

They will make their new home in Halifax, where Mr. DeLong is on the staff of the Halifax Grammar School.

Mr. DeLong is known in Weymouth, where he has frequently visited his aunt, Mrs. Chas. DeLong.

Standard equipment: a bank loan

It has become almost standard practice today for people to go to their bank to finance the purchase of cars and other family items. You, too, may have found it a good idea to borrow where you save — at your local bank. It is often simpler, because the bank already knows you as a savings customer. And it also may save you money because bank loans are low-cost loans. For borrowing and saving, and for any other bank service you may need, just visit your local chartered bank. It's the one place where you can get all your banking done, under one roof.

H. & S. Plans Centennial Projects

Three hundred thousand Home and School (Parent-Teacher) members are to be asked to help plan, and finance provincial and national programs that will contribute to Canada's 100th birthday celebrations in 1967.

This was one of the major decisions of the annual meeting of The Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation held in Charlottetown, P.E.I., July 13th to 17th.
It was attended by Inspector
C. E. Edwards, Eastern Vice-President and Mrs. Edwards, of Bridgetown. Also representing Nova Scotia were Dr.
Remi Chaisson, St. Francis Xavier University, President of the Nova Scotia Federation, Mrs. Marjorie Hallman, New Glasgow, Executive Vice-President, Mr. Jack Sands, Shelburne, Mrs. Eileen Stubbs, Dartmouth, and Mrs. Russell
McLaughlin, also of Dartmouth.

This history-making decision for Canada's largest voluntary organization was the culmination of a suggestion made by a small group of Home and School members in a schoolroom in Pickering Township, Ontario, that their national organization should "plan and implement a program that will fittingly mark Home and School's contribution to the great occasion." Endorsed by the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations at its huge Convention in Toronto in January this year, it has now been accepted unanimously by the representatives of the Canadian Federation.

A Project Fund has been set up, to be open to voluntary contributions from individuals, and Home and School Associations. A special feature of the fund is that the designation of "founding contributor", involving some special privileges, will go to each Association or individual who contributes the symbolic sum of $19.67.

A committee has been established to recommend the specific national projects to be undertaken. The Provincial Home and School Federations will decide upon the form of their individual 1967 projects.

The suggestion to make a major coast-to-coast effort to celebrate the Centennial was received with unanimity and almost boisterous enthusiasm.
Immediately the terms of the $19.67 founding contribution-were announced, there was a shower of $20.00 bills from members around the conference table wanting to be among the first few contributors.

By this action Home and School is providing one answer to remarks made in May, 1964, by the Hon. Maurice Lamontagne, Secretary of State of Canada:

"The celebration of the Centennial of Confederation will be almost meaningless if it is left exclusively to the government. All private groups, all individuals should prepare for this great event and be ready to participate in the celebration. Private initiative has a great role to play in the preparation and celebration of the Centennial, but I regret to say that the private sector has not yet faced up to its responsibilities."

Other decisions reached at
The Canadian Home and School Federation in P.E.I. included: That the Federation investigate the possibility of convening a meeting between ourselves, the CBC, the CTV, the B.B.C. and a few selected - outstanding sociologists and research people and that this group discuss the whole area of the influence of television on children and young people; that the Federation present a comprehensive brief to the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism; and that every provincial federation have a representation from provincial school librarians, public or regional librarians, departments of education and others vitaly concerned, as well as Home and School.

Resolutions calling for the standardization of basic curricula, the teaching of French and English beginning with the primary grades in all Canadian schools, and the study of the proposed establishment of a World University in the Arts of Peace, were endorsed among several others.

A highlight of the week's meeting was the address given by Dr. Arthur L. Harris, Assistant Commissioner of the U.S. Office of Education, who outlined the role of the U.S.
Federal Office of Education in U.S.A. This office, without infringing on the rights of the individual States, speaks for Education in U.S.A., supervises and co-ordinates Federal activities in Education, stimulates and conducts educational research, and establishes - and maintains liaison with other countries on matters relating to education. This address was followed by a panel, Does Canada Need a Federal Office of Education?, chaired by Dr.

Henry D. Hicks, President of Dalhousie University. Others participating included: Dr.
Arthur L. Harris, Dr. John B.
Stewart, M.P., Miss Gene Morrison, Past President, C.T.F.,
Mr. Gaston Dugas, Director of Information, Montreal Catholic School Commission, and Mrs. R. V. McCullough, Canadian Federation.

At the annual meeting C. E.
Edwards was appointed Chairman of the Federations Audio-Visual Education Committee.
This office Mr. Edwards held during two consecutive terms of three years each during the '50s.

Where Does That Road Go?

F. I. W.
(The Wayfarer)

June 28, 1964.

"What is so rare as a day in June?"
Then if ever come perfect days

When heaven tries the earth
if it be in tune and over it,
Softly her warm ear lays.
Whether we look or whether we listen, we hear life murmur or see it glisten."

The agave I have quoted, I hope correctly, from Browning's "Pippa Passes". But Browning's little girl never lived in Canada or she would find that July in this fair land has lovely days too. And on such a day I sit down to re-type the experience of a lovely June evening when, on the eve of departure from the province where we had spent 14 interesting years, we drove out to say farewell to a friend who was also to leave that weekend to return to his native
New Brunswick.

Alas, when we arrived at the home in New Tuskett it was to find the house already vacated and empty.

Fortunately a neighbor was able to direct us to where our friend with his family were staying overnight. Following this man's directions, we turned back for three or four miles off the main highway, down what we thought was the right but what turned out to be the wrong road. Nothing daunted us; we went back to the main road and shortly found the right road, the road to Riverdale and Southville and Danvers. We were seeking Riverdale.

We did not regret our determination to seek our friend. The road leads past the homes of several coloured families and perhaps three miles from the pavement, past some of the loveliest little ponds, lakes and streams that one could wish to see anywhere. Two churches, one of them Roman Catholic, the other that of the Disciples of Christ, stand near to one another and the road is good and grows increasingly attractive.

Soon a division of the road indicates that the one straight ahead leads to New France and that to the left to Riverdale itself. We are told the New France road is passable by truck but not too good for a light car. Well we didn't want to go to New France, though much might be written of that interesting attempt at a settlement, now abandoned.
The road we travel to Riverdale is a delightfully rewarding one where the trees are in full foliage and not cut back too far from the road. The wayside plants give a message of peaceful quietness and most rewarding.

And, too, at our journey's end we find our friend and his family and bid farewell and God-speed. Somehow as we parted from one another in the calm and loveliness of that place, the peace of God was upon us and it, we think, as we parted.

Well, that's where the road to Riverdale goes. Try it yourself on a nice calm summer evening.

but the mine itself had been referred to locally as "The Potter Mine." The mine was situated about 3.7 miles south of Clementsport, a short distance west from what is now known as "The Quarry Road." It was on the property of the late Joseph Potter. The ore was transported following the banks of the Moose River on a railway, using rails of maple wood, the trucks drawn by horses.

The buildings for the smelting, iron-workings and charcoal storage were of stone or brick, quite extensive, and were situated just above high tide level on the east side of the mouth of Moose River. A stone dam and bridge were erected just above the head of the tide, as a water reservoir, for the smelting operations.

Sometime prior to 1825 Joseph Potter, of Clementsport, went to New York to organize a company to build a foundry in Clementsport. He was later lost at sea. But leading from this, the company was organized in 1825 under the auspices of Dr. Charles Jackson, of Boston, and associate Mr. Francis Alger, the former a well known geologist and both apparently men of scientific attainments.

It continued successful operations until later than 1836 (probably about 1840), when through a mishap the furnaces were allowed to cool with the metallic contents in them. The loss was so heavy that it was impossible to finance resumption of operations.

However, the mines and foundry resumed operations about 1857 or 1858 under the control of a Bangor, Maine, association, and continued in operation until 1862 when financial reverses were encountered and the plant closed.

A report by Prof. George Chase to the Hon. Mr. Mills in 1863 states the property consisted of about 8 acres of land. There was a stack 35 feet high, a water wheel 30 feet in diameter. There was a smelting house and storage house. There were other lands including over 5,000 acres of woodland. The orebody consisted of the Milner Vein, the Potter Vein, the Milbury Vein, the Bloomfield Ore and the Digby Neck Ores.

In 1872 one of the deposits, the Potter property, was reopened and the furnace ran for ten weeks, using 600 tons of ore, 1,000 tons being raised. In 1873 the furnace ran for six weeks, during which 538 tons of ore were mined at Clementsport and 630 smelted, the balance being largely bog ore from Bloomfield, a settlement to the southwest. In 1874 the properties passed into the hands of the New York and Nova Scotia Iron and Coal Mining Company, which, however, never seemed to have done work upon the mines. Since that time there has been no activity.

Hon. Mr. Smith continued his address on mining in general in Nova Scotia, stating that Nova Scotia in 1963 had produced approximately $3,000 of minerals per square mile of area, which is almost double that of the province of Ontario, the nation's richest mineral producer. Prospecting licenses are being issued in 1964 at a higher rate than in 1963.

Before closing his address, Hon. Mr. Smith drew attention to an excellent essay by Kirk Anderson, a grade eight student at Annapolis Royal, on "The Annapolis Iron Foundry". Kirk, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Anderson, won the L. M. Fortier memorial prize in the historical essay contest sponsored by the Historical Association of Annapolis Royal.

RAWDING PLAQUE

In speaking of the Rawding captains, Dr. Kelsall looked at the ebb tide and remarked that it was hard to believe that captains ever sailed up to Clementsport.

Dr. Will R. Bird, chairman of the Historic Sites Advisory Council for Nova Scotia, addressed the audience, stating that this was the 33rd plaque to be erected by the Historic Sites and there were two more to be erected for this year, placing Nova Scotia foremost in North America. There are 103 places marked and no other province in Canada has as many. A map of Nova Scotia marks all the plaques.

He mentioned a number of plaques erected in recent years and stated that Nova Scotians should be proud of their province. The greatest thing Nova Scotia has for its visitors, he said, is its history, and then he closed his remarks with a poem of which he is the author.

Major Thexton presented copies of Miss Charlotte Perkins' book, "The Romance of Old Annapolis Royal" to Hon. Mr. Smith, Mrs. Henry Hov, and Dr. Will R. Bird, and extended thanks to them for coming and participating in the program.

Following the unveiling ceremony a tea was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Potts, Clementsport, when Mrs. Arthur Kelsall and Mrs. Leonard Rafuse presided over the tea cups.

BETTERMENT ASS'N.

The Acaciaville Community Betterment Association was organized in June, 1963. It serves the coloured residents of the area served by the Acaciaville African Baptist Church, although membership is not confined to any religious or denominational group but is open to all residents of the area which comprises, not only the community of Acaciaville but also a wider area, including a section along the main highway leading from Digby to Annapolis, part of the district of Conway.

Since its organization the Acaciaville Community Betterment Association has established a Community Centre in the former New Conway school; set up adult education classes for the people of the area; established a community library and set up a continuing series of weekly social evenings for young people of the community. During the past summer the association was also responsible for the carrying out of a vacation school program in the community centre and a sports program. In this work they were assisted by three young people, Carol Newman, Sue MacElwre and David Marion, of the Cornell United Religious Workers' Group of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., who spent six weeks in the Acaciaville community.

The death of Edith Maria Mullen occurred at her Warwick St. home in Digby on Wednesday, September 16th. Only two days before this she was showered with cards congratulating her on her 85th birthday.
