1877-1977

Now and then a printing job had a save in parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad some days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would take you to the largest press in town at the foot but we always opened an outside door to lessen the odors on the main floor.

One of the jobs I had to do, besides putting and graders' devil on the staff, was to... I cleaned one and then... One day not long after I started to get to the grating plant. I decided to climb the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned for some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily. He thought the remark pretty good and whole.

Sometimes the gasoline engine, a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and the "Man" fix it. A man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results. Man would then stand back and come quite dramatically then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of coaxing."

On other occasions when some group refused duty for me and seemed to be brokenhearted, I would say, "use a little oil" and vice versa; after that is said, "use a little oil" and vice versa; after that is said, "use a little oil" and vice versa.

I have often since, have I heard of the value of that remark and the actual need of oil in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and in the right way.

(Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I built "Mac", of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1968 got together just before dark one evening and decided to mutate the newly built outdoor Penn Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just east of the pool, nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys, no thought or time for bathing suits — so the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in. The rest quickly followed and across the pool the swim-rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" inferred to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the boys? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korean), was awarded the Victoria Cross; Squire L. Smith, now prominent druggist; for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale lobster merchant; and myself.

As a young treasurer I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me how about writing your version of the story told about "The Marooning of Jerome". I did it and read it aloud to two somewhat different groups of the men who was found marooned on a French Island some place on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Duffy County. When I read this man's tongue had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jimmie" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and, possibly, some considerable wealth. However, the only thing that could or would ever say after being found and cured was, for by some family in the French town, something that sounded like the name of a letter, either you'd not, or, would not, with, or, with, who he was (or why he was left there) was, it was. And in, one of Digne County, after the war, and, different ideas have been passed on, the facts concerning this man. However, the name is "Mia" was, I felt no urge to say, or, the name was different about this man. The name was, I felt, to be a name of some

From the files of the Chamber of January 22, 1967, the following account has been copied concerning India in 1967:

The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Bay, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles distant from the head of H. Mary's Bay. This land, and not from the water's edge, partly is level ground, and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect a view of the Annapolis Bay, and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in extent, it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth at that name. It was secured by Leyden's tract, New York in 1643, the land of which went nearly to Britain, or, moving to other countries, left the shore

No Boundary Briefs From Digby County

No briefs, either written or oral, were received from any one in Digby County on Thursday when the Electoral Boundaries held a hearing at the Digby Court House and presided over by Mr. Justice Angus L. MacDonald, Halifax. There was no indication whether all Digby County residents are content with the proposed change of County boundaries or if the Digby County populace was not aware that the hearing was to be on Thursday. Advertising for the hearing was placed in four daily papers in the province but it was doubtful if many from the area really read the advertisement. Accompanying Mr. Justice MacDonald was Alex Muggah and clerical staff.

Six briefs were presented by people in Annapolis County who happened to learn about the hearing, though not because of the advertising a spokesman said.

Only one brief from the Annapolis County had been forwarded to the Commission within the scheduled twenty-three days following the advertisement in the daily press. The brief was that of Mrs. Joan Johnson of Middleton. Mrs. Johnson was given an opportunity to present her brief after the informal briefs had been heard. Others who presented in formal briefs were Dr. Gerald Sheehy, M.L.A. Annapolis County; J. M. Parker; Col. H. E. Smale (retired); Greenwood; Edward Ward, Lawrencetown; Peter Chattenburg, Kingston and Mrs. Muriel Reynolds, Bridgetown.

Mrs. Johnson, before she presented the main part of her brief, took the Commission to task for what she termed inadequate advertising for so important a thing. She suggested they should have advertised in the weekly papers which are the ones that people here read most.

Mrs. Johnson objected to having the proposed change in the federal electoral boundaries of the County of Annapolis on geographic, economic, social and linguistic reasons. The brief scored the Federal Government on spending millions of dollars on bilingualism while unemployment is the highest since the 1930's, inflation is soaring, strikes are crippling and taxation on all levels ranks among the highest in the world. Geographically, she argued, that Annapolis County has been traditionally an agricultural entity formed within the historic Annapolis Valley. Hundreds of years of progress in agriculture and transportation are linked with the sister County of Kings. Any detachment of this unit federally would present detrimental effects, she warned. Economically and geographically the bi-county setup is a natural and traditional unit and any detachment would appear illogical and senseless and serve to split the residents apart and create inequities in the Valley region.

Mrs. Johnson continued to object to a situation whereby artificial boundaries are thrown around an area for the sole reason that it happens to contain some 60,000 to 70,000 people with no consideration for traditional, economic, social, racial or linguistic backgrounds of the people concerned. She called the intention to annex Annapolis County to Digby and Yarmouth Counties to form South Western Nova a marriage of convenience rather than a logical and natural union of the region. Annapolis County, Mrs. Johnson claimed is English speaking while Yarmouth and Digby Counties have a high percentage of francophones. She claimed that Annapolis County was 99 per cent anglophone while Digby County and Yarmouth County are 53 per cent francophone in combination.

Mrs. Johnson's brief said that the boundary proposal of Annapolis, Digby and Yarmouth Counties would be detrimental in the fact that most federal jobs in a bilingual riding must be filled by bilingual personnel, and that all levels of government situated in the designated area must ultimately provide all services and education in both languages. Taxes at all levels must rise to pay for these totally unnecessary, but federally enforced language regulations, remarked Mrs. Johnson. Going further she said that all federal employees, or aspiring employees in Agriculture, Canada Manpower, Customs, Fisheries, Unemployment, Postal and other civil servant jobs in Annapolis Co. would face the spectre of learning French or else having their careers detrimentally or even terminally affected.

Mrs. Johnson stated that she could see no reason to have Annapolis County residents to have bilingualism or the French Fact forced upon them. She said that she had no objections to bilingualism that is fairly instituted on a national basis but the dictatorial imposition of Quebec's Bill-22 makes federal bilingualism a one way street and an expensive farce.

Mrs. Johnson repeated her earlier charge that if people had been fully informed

Nomination Day Set

For the fourth time Digby Town has set a Nomination Day in order to secure a mayor for the town. The new date set is November 4th when nominations have to be filed and November 18th has been set for the election of mayor should more than one nomination be submitted.

It was in December 1974 when Willard Kinney who followed Glen Smith as mayor of Digby found he had to resign for want of time to properly care for the needs of the office and contend with the many frustrations. Patrick Comeau followed Mr. Kinney as Digby's Mayor. Mr. Comeau for similar reasons as Mr.

Kinney found it necessary for the good of his health to resign.

Since the resignation of Mr. Comeau there had been three nomination days set which failed to produce a single name. Towns people are disturbed about the reluctance of citizens to offer for the position of mayor and are hopefully looking towards November 4th to find one or more nominations submitted.

A motion to pay a mayor $19,900 a year and Councillors $3,000 with a further $15 for each meeting attended which was not a regular meeting was rescinded within the next week of making the motion.

Water Main Breaks

A break in a water main at the Racquette, Digby, has caused areas of the town to be without water. School was closed entirely on Tuesday in the town's three elementary schools and the Digby Regional High School because of the lack of water. Homes and businesses on the higher levels of ground in the town were also without water and lower level pressures had diminished. The St. Patrick's School had been closed both Monday and Tuesday because of the water situation.

In the meantime, it is understood that the Digby Volunteer Fire Department is using their truck to deliver water to the hospital and many of the homes. The hospital managed with an auxiliary pump and the fire department deliveries and curtailment of operations. Drinking water was brought in from areas not effected.

The trouble began around five o'clock on Sunday evening when about four feet of a twelve inch water line broke under the Racquette Bridge causing the water to spurt out and deplete the supply throughout the town. Workmen and machines worked through the day and night until the break was mended by Tuesday afternoon. Until then water had been entering the line more rapidly than it could be overcome.

It is understood that the steel pipe, though especially heavy had been effected by heavy traffic over the bridge and by salt water at the Racquette.

Later -

Further trouble with Digby water main under the Racquette Bridge continued on Wednesday giving the entire Digby town school students and teachers a second holiday. The mending of the main on Tuesday failed to give permanent relief and town people found themselves without water again. Tides accommodated the workmen to go under bridge by 9:00 a.m. on Wednesday.

Completes Afghan

Mrs. Myrtle Dunn, Tideview Terrace spends few idle moments when there is a possibility of doing hand craft. Many are the articles she donates to charitable organizations. The most recent donation was to the Arthritis and Rheumatism Association. The gift was a new afghan Mrs. Dunn had recently completed to raise funds for the organization by ticket sale. Above, Miss Judy Grimes, C.N.A. at Tideview holds the container while Mrs. Dunn draws the winning ticket. More than a hundred dollars had been passed in from the sale and there was more to come. Time goes so quickly, Mrs. Dunn said, when she works at her hand crafts.

The afghan was won by Bill Chambers of Lawrencetown.

Home For Special Care Week

Home For Special Care Week, September 29th to October 3rd is being observed at Tideview Terrace where they are soliciting the services of car drivers to take the Top Generation for rides to enjoy the splash of red, brown, yellow, orange and green leaves of the Fall season.

Observes 100th Birthday

Mrs. Laura E. Corper, Doucetteville, Digby County, celebrated her 100th birthday on Friday, September 26.

Mrs. Laura E. Corper, Doucetteville, celebrated her 100th birthday on Friday, September 26th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Thibault, Doucetteville. Friends called at the Thibault home in honor of Mrs. Corper and to enjoy the attractive cake made especially for her 100th birthday.

Mrs. Corper, the former Laura Powell, was born at Doucetteville and lived there until she was 14 years when she went with her family to live in Arlington, Mass. Two years ago in April she returned to Doucetteville to the Thibault home.

Mrs. Corper has had an interesting life and has done some travelling during her married years. The late Mr. Corper and Mrs. Corper had run a dance pavilion and a catering establishment called "Eldantern" at Arlington. Weddings and parties were catered to. It is now known as the Arlington Elks Club. The winters were spent at the Belvedere in St. Petersburg in Florida and the late Mr. Corper and Mrs.

Corper enjoyed visits to the West India Islands in the Caribbean and Arizona.

Mrs. Corper did not see too many changes in Doucetteville since the time she left the village and which she visited frequently in summers. Asked what she felt was responsible for her longevity she quickly remarked "No drink and no smoke."

Mrs. Corper says you feel just the same when you are 100 as any other time. Her words were definitely supported by her appearance. Mrs. Corper, at 100 years has the appearance of a lady of 80 or younger. Her hearing and sight are some impaired but she readily carries on an intelligent conversation as if she were a much younger person. Her age and mannerism both seem to be a reflection of a happy and contented life.

Mrs. Corper's husband died in 1938 and they had no children. They did bring up a boy, John Drewe, until he

Kaye Outhouse Prepares Paintings

Mrs. George (Kaye) Outhouse, Brighton, Digby Co., is preparing her paintings for exhibition at the Mezzanine Gallery at the Nova Scotia Museum of Fine Arts in Halifax from October 10th to November 30th.

Bernard Riordon, curator, visited Mrs. Outhouse last week to make arrangements for the exhibits. Mrs. Outhouse will have in the vicinity of 30 paintings to display. The official opening is at noon on October 14th. Born in Newfoundland, Mrs. Outhouse also has a sister, Mrs. Marjorie Lynch of Sacramento, California who is noted for her paintings. Both Mrs. Outhouse and her sister had displays in the Golden Art Gallery in Old Folsom. Contrasting in subjects Mrs. Lynch's display was generally of a floral type while Mrs. Outhouse displayed the rugged sea coast of Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Outhouse settled in Digby in 1945 and was a supervisor tailress for 17 years. Because of a spinal condition she retired ten years ago and turned to painting and writing lyrics and poetry.

Mrs. Outhouse uses seascapes, landscapes and buildings for representation in paints. Until recently she used to go to the beaches to do the paintings but her spinal condition does not allow this at present so she relies on her memory. Her work has been displayed at the Western Nova Scotia Regional Library Exhibition in Digby, Shelburne, Yarmouth and Lockeport.

In the field of poetry and music, Mrs. Outhouse is a member of the Composers Art and Publishers Association of Canada. One of her songs "Welcome to Digby" was used on the inaugural trip of the new Princess of Acadia. Other numbers were Sails in the Morning (Scallop Fleet). Her work has reached the R.P.M. Charts across Canada and she expects to have more records done by Ray Johnson in the future and of Maritime content.

Mrs. Outhouse has kept in touch with master-pieces by visiting Louvre in France; Germany; Holland and various European Art Galleries.

Mr. and Mrs. Outhouse have a son, Stephen who lives next door who besides his carpenter trade works at carving which he frequently displays. One of his carvings can be found in the new R.C.M.P. building in Halifax. Grandchildren are Kathy, Darlene and the twins, Michele and Stephenie. Mrs. Outhouse's current subject Farmyard Excitement, depicts the twins chasing a flock of hens.

The Burtons have two sons, Jack and Ivan at Weymouth and two daughters living, Vera Cosman, Weymouth and Iris Fitzgerald, Halifax. A daughter, June, died in 1946. There are 13 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

BOOST FOR THE WEEKLIES

Mrs. Joan Johnson, Middleton, R.R., certainly handed the weekly or later called community newspapers a big bouquet and a great boost on Thursday. Mrs. Johnson presented a well-thought-out brief at the Electoral Boundaries Commission when they held the hearing in Digby. Before she went into the brief proper she voiced her opinion about what she considered inadequate advertising for the hearing. No one from Digby County presented briefs. The five from Annapolis County and one from Kings County happened to learn about the hearing but not from any advertisement placed by the Commission. The advertisements, we understand, were placed in the seven daily papers while the community papers were ignored. Mrs. Johnson was quite disturbed about this and informed the Commission that the people here depend on the weekly papers, radio and T.V. for their information. Without an advertisement in the weeklies few persons were aware of the hearing, resulting in few attending, she claimed.

We could not help but agree with Mrs. Johnson that the place to advertise such a hearing as that of Electoral Boundaries would be in the community newspapers in the area where the action is. Much to our appreciation Mrs. Johnson advised the Commission on the value of advertising in the weekly newspapers and by so doing reinforced our own (without prejudice) feelings regarding the important product, your community newspaper.

The question is being asked "Why were the community newspapers neglected this way?" "Why were they not included in the advertising?" There are those who, of course, will remark that a lessening of advertising would bring fewer people on hand to oppose the proposed boundary set up. We feel these remarks would be unwarranted and put it down simply to one of those cases where all the plans are made in Halifax and Ottawa by city people who are really fine people but they just do not have a clue how the majority of rural and small town people live. They know little about the needs, the habits or desires of the rural people whom they try to serve. The Commission had their own reasons for avoiding the community papers when placing the advertising. Their one spoken reason was that all the weeklies do not come out on the same day. This, however, we feel was a lame excuse for a simple matter like that could have easily been overcome.

In this particular instance the Electoral Boundaries Commission failed to estimate the value and advertising potential of the community newspapers. This lack of knowledge and misunderstanding contributed to the neglect. The Commission evidently did not know the readership of the weeklies which serve all the local people, young and old. To have advertised in the weekly papers would have been possible to reach the people most concerned.

This failure to estimate the advertising potential of the Community newspapers is not exactly an isolated case. We hope Mrs. Johnson's comments will make the Electoral Boundaries Commission wiser about spending the advertising dollar to greatest advantage. Mrs. Johnson questioned whether the Commission is justified in thinking that the people are content with the proposed boundary lines as shown on the map produced by the Commission when the hearings were not adequately advertised. Another instance of unawareness happened when the "Task Force On The Status of Women" had a hearing in Digby. Digby had been on the advertising copy so while the Task Force arrived here in full strength there were painfully few residents on hand to participate in the discussions.

While Mrs. Johnson spoke solely on the Electoral Boundaries advertising omission she, thereby, raised the same argument that community newspapers have been trying to impress on the advertising public. The combined circulation of weekly newspapers in Nova Scotia is most impressive. The weeklies are read thoroughly from front page to the last by entire families and by their neighbours and further they stay around for reference until the next issue arrives.

Without meaning to do so, Mrs. Johnson gave a boost to community newspapers in general. We are sure that publishers of other weekly newspapers throughout Nova Scotia, appreciate Mrs. Johnson's remarks in favor of the weekly papers for the best advertising value. This holds true not for government advertising only but for private businesses too. We suggest that to reach the people you want to reach, try doing it in the community weeklies.

The largest gathering ever of Nova Scotia Teachers College Alumni met in Truro at the College. September 12-13th for the Annual Alumni Association Convention.

This year the Convention honoured the graduates of every 10th year-beginning with 1905 to 1975.

As this was the Golden Jubilee of the class of 1925, they were especially honoured and each member received a life membership certificate. Also at the banquet the class of 1925 received a special plaque for having the largest number of graduates present.

Those on hand from the Digby area to receive their life membership certificates, were Mrs. D.S. Logan, Digby; Mrs. Amelie Belliveau, St. Bernards; Mrs. J.D. MacLearn, Smiths Cove.

Agricultural Research

The Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture and Marketing and the Nova Scotia Agricultural College are conducting research in a number of areas affecting agricultural production in the province.

These research projects are designed to provide information to aid in the development of the Agricultural Industry in Nova Scotia, according to Hon. John Hawkins, Minister of the Department of Agriculture and Marketing.

During the current year, Mr. Hawkins stated there are 43 areas of Agricultural production under study. These include 18 projects in the area of Agricultural Engineering, 11 in plant science, three in biology, five in chemistry and six in animal science.

The research program is under the direction of a departmental research committee whose chairman is Dr. Lorne Cock, head of the Department of Animal Science at the Nova Scotia Agricultural College.

Committee members are from the branches of the Department of Agriculture and Marketing and the College. Research projects are recommended to the committee by all segments of the Agricultural Industry.

In the field of Agricultural Engineering, such practical projects include studies on the control of field erosion, design of manure storages, ventilation of livestock buildings, development of a blueberry harvester, and weed control in lowbush blueberries.

Other projects in this area include - the development of a weed sprayer for orchards, evaluation of different tillage methods on corn yields, improving harvesting, bulk bin design, and an evaluation of systems for processing agricultural wastes for livestock feed.

Plant science studies include field crop variety trials, the comparison of old and new vegetable varieties, a study of wild rice production, corn harvesting, and production trials with tobacco and blueberries.

In the area of agricultural chemistry, studies include the effects of mineral elements on animal breeding and fertility, water quality, soil analysis and research relating to plant proteins.

Mr. Hawkins said that these applied research programs have been designed in response to specific problems which have been identified within the agricultural industry. The Department of prehensive analysis of air traffic patterns which was completed following the "adequacy of air services" hearings held throughout Atlantic Canada during February, 1974. Mr. Miller has made known publicly on several occasions that the study was being undertaken and recently announced that it was completed.

The Provincial Ministers responsible for transportation in each of the four Provinces have stressed the need for improved air service between urban centres within the region with particular emphasis on better frequency and more convenient flight times.

During the course of the hearings held in February, 1974, there were a large number of complaints that businessmen and other travellers could not travel between many of the points in Atlantic Canada by leaving home in the morning and returning in the evening. The application is aimed towards providing service which, in the opinion of the airline, could result in a very satisfactory pattern with the travelling public as well as create substantial stimulus to the Atlantic Provinces economy. The proposed route system, in addition to being aimed at providing one-day service between the points in Atlantic Canada, is also aimed at providing connections at major points with the jet service of Air Canada and Eastern Provincial Airways.

In establishing the schedule patterns, Mr. Miller stated, "five criteria have been used to provide what would be considered by the airline to be an adequate subsidiary air pattern." The five criteria are as follows: (A) The schedule should permit 5 hours of business at destination.

(B) The trip should not require more than 16 hours away from home assuming a ground transportation allowance of 2 hours at each airport.

(C) The flight should not depart home earlier than 7 a.m.

(D) The flight should not arrive home later than 11 p.m.

(E) The flight should not include more than 2 stops enroute.

Correction
The suggestion made by Councillor Eileen Chipman at the regular Town Council meeting was that downtown business operations be closed at midnight. The time was inadvertently not stated in the account last week. It referred to the night but not midnight.

Agriculture and Marketing has greatly expanded its efforts in the area of applied agricultural research during the past year. It is expected that about $90,000 will be spent on the program this year.

"These projects", Mr. Hawkins said, "have been developed with the well-being of the primary producer in mind and should be of significant use to the farmers and the industry in the province."

85th Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hill returned to their home in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island on Tuesday afternoon after a weekend spent with Mrs. Hill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Marshall, when Mr. Marshall on September 21st celebrated his 85th birthday at his home in Conway. Mr. Marshall received a number of cards and gifts, and a beautifully decorated birthday cake, and was most pleased to greet friends who called to extend congratulations and take gifts to him. Mr. Marshall says he now looks upon this birthday as one of the nicest he has ever enjoyed.

was ten years and of whom the 100 year old lady spoke with much affection. He lives in Santiago, California, and she was awaiting a telephone call from him on her birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Elisse Thibault of the village have a cousin relationship with Mrs. Corper.

Testifying to the many friends and widely scattered acquaintances and relatives, Mrs. Corper received numerous cards from Cape Cod; New Haven, Conn.; San Francisco, and other United States locations. Mrs. Corper said she is very fond of the United States and enjoyed her life there.

Before her departure for U.S.A. when she was 14, Mrs. Corper worked at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hanford VanBlarcom in Barton, Miss. Oda VanBlarcom was then a small girl. Miss VanBlarcom presently lives at Tideview Terrace, Digby and recently celebrated her 90th birthday there. Mrs. Corper still remembered the trip to the VanBlarcom home by horse and wagon.

Looking back to school days Mrs. Corper remembered reciting the Wreck of the Hesperus and enjoyed reading many of Longfellow's poems. She remembered a bit of poetry which circled around the classroom. It went "Love not to talk, love not to boast, grief comes to him who brags the most" She also remembers her mother putting pepper on her tongue when she said something that she ought not to say.

Mrs. Corper still watches T.V. some but retains a great love for music. The symphonies were a favorite and she showed the opera glass which she had used when she patronized opera. Carouso was a favorite and she had collected many of his recordings.

Another favorite pastime for Mrs. Corper was gardening. She loved flowers and wherever they moved they planted a flower garden but vandalism was a problem even then.

Mrs. Corper was a tailor and handcrafts came easy to her in time of war when she did knitting for the Massachusetts Hospital. She at one time made 100 cushions for the 30 canoes and row-boats on Spy Pond at the Dance and Catering business. She also engaged in handwork at the Women's Clubs of the Methodist Church.

formed in ample time to present briefs through recognized groups and persons in the area the objection to the newly proposed boundaries of the South Western Nova constituency would be much stronger than appeared on Thursday.

Approximately ten persons attended the Electoral Boundaries Hearing in the Digby Court House. Dr. Gerald Sheehy M.L.A. spoke in reinforcement of Mrs. Johnson's brief, and added that it would be a loss to the country to lose the name of Annapolis County. Briefs by other speakers voiced many of the sentiments presented by Mrs. Johnson.

Col. H. E. Smale (ret'd) also brought up the lack of advertising for the hearing especially when people were on vacation and could so readily miss that one copy of the daily newspaper. He felt it would be a serious injustice to the people of Annapolis County to be connected with the South West Nova area when their life style, their heritage and economic pattern is that same kind as Kings County of Planter stock. Annapolis County the retired Colonel said was principally an agricultural County while fishing is the prime activity in the economy of Digby and Yarmouth.

Col. Smale said while proposed federal electoral boundaries were based on population, the "overriding considerations" should be to design a structure that would provide the changes needed; minimize the alienation of citizens from government by providing them with a continuous avenue for developing and expressing their views and concerns; and, facilitate "rather than fragment" efforts directed towards the overall economic, social, and cultural development of the area, the province, and the nation.

"I believe", he said "that the formation of a federal electoral district comprising Annapolis, Kings, and West Hants counties would materially aid in the development of the Annapolis Valley region and would ensure the support and continued interests of its residents as citizens of a wider community."

Mr. Justice MacDonald following the presentations said that they would see what can be done to include Annapolis County with that of Kings and West Hants. A second sitting, he felt, would be arranged. This, he said, was the first group to oppose the plan as shown on the map.

HOME FOR SPECIAL CARE WEEK

being alone in their thoughts. Mrs. Rice assured that there is always someone of the Tideview staff available to assist with the patient at all times and ready to accommodate the visitors.

Tideview Terrace officially opened November 22, 1974 has come a long way in patient care and comfort and improvements to the facilities to administer the special care. It was December 4, 1973 when the doors were opened and the first patient, Mabel Turner, arrived from Emoh in Bear River. Mrs. Edith Trask of Digby Neck was the first guest for personal care. Today there are one hundred per cent occupancy and a long waiting list. There are 55 guests with two-thirds under nursing care and the remainder personal care.

Patients who have not walked for years resume walking under the nursing and staff care given at Tideview. Mrs. Rice remarked.

Russell Stonehouse administrator explained the set up involving the two municipal bodies, the town and municipal district. The municipal bodies and Board have full control but there is cost sharing with the province under the Department of Social Services. It was the foresight of the Councils and the original Board which brought Tideview Terrace into being, Mr. Stonehouse said.

The administration was high in his praise for the services of the staff in nursing, in domestic and cooking work, laundry and maintenance.

Mr. Stonehouse remarked "we have a marvellous staff as he advised that three quarters of the original staff is still there at Tideview. Such a slight turnover of staff, Mr. Stonehouse said, speaks well for Tideview Terrace. He was most complimentary to Mrs. Olive Pearce who takes care of the accounting right at the establishment and can always find time to do the little extra things for the patients.

Mrs. Rice remarked that the administration and staff do all they can to get away from an institutional atmosphere. The attractive furnishing are in bright colors and walls are pastel to avoid institutionally white for decor.

Tideview Terrace has an in-service training for nurses aides. The first graduation was held on June 23rd and another is expected to be held in January 1976.

Both Mr. Stonehouse and Mrs. Rice feel the Top Generation needs motivating to get the most out of life. This is evident in the many projects carried on by those under the Tideview roof.

Presently there are handcrafts of burlap floral designs made by the patients and which are expected to be sold at a Bazaar or Tea in the first week of December. The patients entered 14 pieces in the Digby County Exhibition. Four items received first prize and one got second prize. The former handcraft lounge at Tideview became necessary for a dining room so the handcrafts are mostly done in the regular lounge area. Many crafts done by Tideview Terrace guests are sold. A slide projector had been donated by an Auxiliary in Westport but revenue from sales will purchase a 16m. movie and sound projector.

Among other means for motivation were bus trips, picnics, barbecues, visits to the Cherry Carnival, Islands Natal Day, having Open House for Senior Citizen Week and other activity. Mr. Stonehouse and Mrs. Rice are relying on the public to take many of the senior citizens for an outing during the present Home For Special Care Week.

There are nine guests of 90 years and over. They are Fred Franklin, Boyd Farnsworth, Lottie Henshaw, Grace Hutchinson, Hanford Saulnier, Mary Jane Saulnier, Alice Thibodeau, Edith Trask and Oda VanBlarcom. There are 12 tray patients.

Tideview Terrace people are permitted thirty day leaves without losing their beds.

Gospelaire At Digby Wesleyan

Frances Adams

The Gospelaire of Fredericton, N.B., who are perhaps one of the longest active Gospel quartet in the Maritimes appeared at the Digby Wesleyan Church on Sunday morning, September 27th.

It has been said that it was many years since this group last appeared in Digby. Since that time the group has increased in number to eight with about half of the group having joined the Gospelaire in more recent years.

This group which appears to be fast becoming world famous might be divided in half. The first half being a mixed quartet, namely, Janice La Pointe; her father, a long time member of the group William La Pointe, tenor and her uncle the lead singer, Millard Mitchell, who is another long time member of the group; also George Parsons. The second half of the group was composed of four musicians. The organist, Arthur Ingersoll and the pianist, Ghernot Wheeler, are both long faithful members of the group. The bass guitar player was Les Smith. The drummer for the group, Timothy McLaggan, is perhaps the youngest member of the Gospelaire.

The group can be rightly called Canada's Royal Ambassador of Sacred Song. Their music is one of the most distinctive types and does have a special message for all. The singing is always an inspiration.

The Gospelaire ministered to the Wesleyan congregation by the singing of such pieces as "Amazing Grace", "There Is A River", "God's Word is Power" and "I Believe". A favourite hymn of many people was sung by request, namely, "The Old Rugged Cross".

Government of Canada.

She is survived by a son Brigg - Gen. C.S. Gilliat, serving at SHAPE headquarters in Belgium; a daughter, Hortense (Mrs. Donald Padmore), Halifax; eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral was held in St. Luke's Anglican Church, Annapolis Royal, 2 p.m. Wednesday. Rev. D. C. Reid officiated with burial in the family plot, Woodlawn Cemetery.

We Are Losing Our Freedom Because We Do Not Go To Church

Rev. Les Mullen,

Springwater Habitation

How many times recently have we been reminded of how rapidly our freedom is being eroded from under us?

It is now, for instance that to be a driver of a motor vehicle is not a right but a privilege. And there is a noticeably increasing legalism coming to bear upon automobile and truck owners. Legalism being what it always is, the good old days, are unfortunately gone, and I hesitate to add, forever. No longer can we expect to drive peacefully and with the pride of individual responsibility. Our freedom is sharply curtailed by inspection fees paid to often fussy and cranky mechanics, and innumerable police travelling in white doored vehicles whose job it is to critically appraise the worthiness of your vehicle to be on the road which some of your money helped build and maintain.

Further to the insult is the knowledge that you may be struggling to keep a vehicle on the road. It may even be that your livelihood depends on it, while the government you helped elect and which your hard earned cash supports, provides very good high quality vehicles for their increasing staff while you struggle to keep gasoline in your own. One likes to think that he is or can be a responsible citizen without need of an inspector or policeman to force him to be.

The erosion of the individual's integrity is perhaps the worst part what is happening to us.

We know of a family who are fighting to keep their home because even though they love their home and were born and brought up in it, government officials have decided to expropriate their land for highway development. It occurs to me that in a democratic Christian country the individual matters. He has a dignity and a right to his opinions and to all opinions and to all that he has. No one can steal from him without penalty from the hands of those who represent such a society, nor can anyone take his life without similar penalty. But in a Godless state only the political system matters. There are many disturbing marks of totalitarianism in our once free Nova Scotia.

And here is the reason for it as well as the suggested solution. We are becoming what we are because the most important ingredient in a democratic society has been too weak for too long. That ingredient is Christian faith with its accompanying moral fibre. When people can't be trusted the police state rises to make sure sin doesn't go too far. Freedom can only exist when people can be trusted on the grounds that they are morally responsible. I am old fashioned enough and Christian enough to believe that the government that governs best governs least. But the good old days can only return when the public at large, both young and old begins again to go to Church.

And I suggest it ought to happen soon before the same police state forbids us from attending when we decide we want to.

SPORTS

Legion Defeats Clementsport

The Digby Legion once again retained their pool title and the trophy last Saturday, September 27, by defeating the Clementsport Legion contingent. The Digby Legion hosted the match which has become a regular feature of friendly rivalry. The competition was one of the closest ever. After the two rounds of regular play the teams found themselves tied in a deadlock. All names were then placed in a hat for a sudden-death, best out of three game dual. The finish came quickly as Donny Amon and Joe Curry, playing for Digby, put down Clementsport in two straight. Other members who contributed to the winning team, included Rodney Bell, sports director Charlie Francis, Captain Irving Cromwell, Dick Vidito, Captain Archie Dugas, Michael Smith, Fred Smith, Charlie Marshall, Jinx Cowan and J.A. (Hoppy) Cowan.

A tasty buffet was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary. Thanks go out to everyone involved, especially the Clementsport team who provided such tough competition.

Hockey Rule Changes-CAHA

The 1975-76 hockey season will see many new rule changes taken into effect. Following is a general interpretation of the important rule changes:

Rule 30 - Major Penalties
For a second major penalty infraction in the same game, to the same player, including goalkeepers, such a player shall be ruled off the ice for the remainder of the game. (Major penalty plus a Game Misconduct).

Rule 31 - Misconduct Penalties

A Misconduct Penalty, a Game Misconduct penalty, or a Gross Misconduct penalty, shall also carry with it a 2 minute minor penalty.

Rule 40 - Referees and Linesmen - Helmets

All referees and linesmen shall wear a hockey helmet, preferably black in colour.

Rule 53 - Crosschecking

A minor penalty shall be assessed any player who cross-checks an opponent.

Rule changes provide for a major penalty if any player strikes an opponent with a crosscheck above the normal height of his shoulders, whether or not injury results. A match penalty shall be assessed any player who deliberately attempts to injure or deliberately injures an opponent with a crosscheck.

Rule 59 - Fighting

In addition to previous penalties under this rule, the following will also apply:

(1) A player who is identified by the referee as being the instigator of, or the aggressor in a fight, shall be assessed a Game Misconduct penalty in addition to any other penalties he may incur.

(ii) Any player wearing a ring(s), tape or any other material on his hands who is involved in a fight or altercation, shall be assessed a Match penalty in addition to any other penalties he may incur.

(iii) Any player or players continuing to hold their opponent(s) in any manner while a fight is in progress between other players, shall, after being warned once by the referee to desist, be assessed a Minor penalty. If the player or players persist, a Game Misconduct shall also be assessed.

Rules 63 - High Sticks

Complete new rule with changes follows:
a. The carrying of sticks above the normal height of the shoulders is prohibited, and a Minor penalty may be assessed.

b. Any player who strikes an opponent above the normal height of his shoulders with a high stick shall be assessed a Major penalty regardless of whether injury results or not.

c. A Match penalty shall be assessed any player who deliberately attempts to injure or deliberately injures an opponent with a high stick.

d. Contacting the puck with the stick above the normal height of the shoulders shall result in a Minor penalty being assessed. Play shall be stopped immediately.

Rule 73 - Molesting Officials
Complete new rule with changes follows:
a. Any player, coach, manager, trainer or stickboy, who intentionally touches, holds or pushes a Referee, Linesman or Minor official before, during or after a game shall be assessed a Match penalty and shall be reported to the President by the Referee.

b. Any player, coach, manager, trainer or stickboy who deliberately strikes, trips or body checks a referee, linesman or minor official, before, during or after a game shall be assessed a Match penalty and shall be reported to the President by the Referee.

c. Any player, coach, manager, trainer or stickboy who threatens or attempts to strike a referee, linesman or minor official, before, during or after a game shall be assessed a Match penalty and shall be reported to the President by the Referee.

d. Any player, coach, manager, trainer or stickboy who deliberately spits on or at an official or an opponent shall be removed from the bench and ordered to the dressing room for the remainder of the game. The referee shall report full details of the incident to the President.

Rule 84 - Spitting

In addition to present rule, add the following: "Any coach, manager, trainer or stickboy who deliberately spits on or at an official or an opponent shall be removed from the bench and ordered to the dressing room for the remainder of the game. The referee shall report full details of the incident to the President."

PROPOSED CHANGES FOR MINOR HOCKEY

Rule 30 - Major Penalties

The Co-incidental major penalty rule will not be applicable to minor hockey. In minor hockey, any player including the goal-keeper who is assessed a Major penalty under the following infractions, shall be assessed, in addition, a Game Misconduct:

a. Crosschecking
New Rule 53 (b) Crosschecking an opponent above the normal height of his shoulders.

New Rule 53 (c) Crosschecking a goalkeeper while he is in his crease, or injures an opponent as a result of a crosscheck.

b. Fighting
All major penalties for fighting.

c. Highsticking
New Rule 63 (b) highsticking an opponent above the normal height of the shoulders.

d. Hooking Injuring an opponent by hooking.

e. Rule 72 - Leaving the Player's or Penalty Bench during an altercation on the ice.

f. Slashing
Injuring an opponent by slashing.

As is noted by the rule changes, the emphasis is to curb injuries caused by high sticks, crosschecking, slashing and hooking; better protect officials; and deter players from fighting. Once this is accomplished, hockey will become a more enjoyable sport to play, and from the spectators point of view, more enjoyable to watch.

Snowmobiling Featured On Canadian TV Test

Skiing, skating, bob-sledding - almost all of the winter sports carry with them a certain degree of personal danger. But, none is as potentially dangerous for the untrained - nor as fast-growing in popularity - as snowmobiling.

That's why the newest CBC Canadian Test focusses on this sport.

"Handled properly," says CBC-TV producer Bill Bolt, "the snowmobile can give its rider many hours of safe fun. Our Canadian Snowmobile Test is intended to show the proper way to handle the machine. It will provide an hour of entertainment and education that should appeal to a wide audience."

The Canadian Snowmobile Test, which is scheduled for telecast on CBC-TV on Saturday, October 4 at 8 p.m., will look at a number of unsafe practices and ask some pertinent questions about their cause. As with the previous Test programs, this one will feature live action, with the professional drivers making a number of mistakes, all of which lead them into difficulties. Viewers at home are asked to pick out the mistakes to see how well they might do in actual snowmobiling conditions.

Most of the footage for this test was shot in the beautiful winter resort area around Apsley, Ontario, where the big machines and their drivers hold court every winter.

Harold Wright, who recently wrote the very successful Canadian Boating Test, has tackled the same chore for the Snowmobile Test. He has boiled all the exciting action down to 33 questions, guaranteed to test the skills of the most capable driver, but including a number of questions which can be answered by the novice with just a little thought.

Once again, Alan Millar will handle the in-studio segments, tying the package together to give it a semblance of easy-flowing order. Rex Loring adds his talents to the program with voice-over narration.

For producer Bill Bolt, this is the fourteenth in the series, and one of the most exciting so far.

"Snowmobiling is meant to be fun," says Bill, "and we want our viewers to enjoy themselves when they are taking part in the sport. Part of that enjoyment comes from the knowledge that the driver knows what he is doing. That's what this test is trying to teach...how to acquire the necessary skills so you can enjoy the thrill of the ride. With a few basic skills and some basic knowledge, anyone can get in on the fun."

All the viewer will need is a piece of paper and a pencil. The Canadian Snowmobile Test is an opportunity to get a jump on the season, to learn the safe way of driving before tackling the backwoods and hills of that favorite winter paradise.

Bird Haven

Have you got your ticket for the South yet? Most of the birds have. The swallows left several weeks ago.

Everyone speaks of the large number of little birds around this past summer, especially all types of warblers.

I sat one afternoon fairly near my little pool and believe it or not counted twelve different kinds coming for drinks or baths, and this did not include starlings or grackles. There seemed to be fewer robins than usual, have only seen one speckled (young) robin on the lawn this year although I had an early nest in one of my spruce trees, am afraid the nest was robbed by a grackle.

My nephew and I had a wonderful two day visit on Brier Island in early September with the N.S. Bird Society. He was here for a week and explored a great deal of country.

He had been supervising the Loons on Squam Lake in New Hantsshire for the Audubon Society. Now is teaching at a natural History School in N.H.

Had a number of young swallows brought in during the summer but had no luck saving them, can't formula as the four wee ones I raised several years ago. Was successful in raising four very noisy English sparrows

Now is the time to put out chunks of suet lashed to large branch of a tree as the Chick-a-dees are coming around, as they stay all winter it is all right to feed them but don't put out scratch grain yet as it is apt to encourage some of the other birds to remain when they should be in a warmer country for the winter.

My pair of Downy wood peckers were here off and on all summer but now are here several times a day at the suet, 'Joey', the Cedar waxwing that was brought in just a year ago, is very tame.

Have picked and frozen blueberries and blackberries for the winter, he takes those from my fingers.

Several cat victims have been brought in lately but none have survived. A little Palm Warbler was picked up on front street, no doubt had struck a window but after a few hours of quiet was released.

So long for this time.
The Bird Lady.

Wedding

CRESS-WAUGH

The marriage of Christine Elaine Waugh, daughter of Herbert and Florence Waugh, Malagash, to Dan Sinclair Cress, son of Roscoe and Iris Cress, Bear River, took place in the Malagash United Church. Rev. Donald Blakie officiated at the double ring ceremony. Soloist was Ira Drysdale and Alden Blakie the organist.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a floor-length empire waist style gown of polyester and chiffon trimmed with wide lace, stand-up collar, long chiffon sleeves belled at the wrists with an A-line skirt forming a train. Her head piece and elbow-length veil was edged with matching lace and she carried a bouquet of red roses, stephanotis and fern.

The maid of honor was her sister, Donna Waugh and bridesmaids were Cindy McGrath and Lary Sears. Candice Cress was flower girl. They wore matching floorlength dresses of polyester in shades of peach, blue and yellow and carried bouquets of shasta daisies with a single daisy in their hair. The flower girl wore a yellow floor-length flowered dress and carried a basket of variety flowers.

Kim Cress attended his brother as best man. David Waugh, brother of the bride, and Garth Cress, brother of the groom, were ushers. Michael Waugh, brother of the bride, was ring bearer. For her daughter's wedding the bride's mother wore a floor-length gown of blue flowered sheer over taffeta with a matching coat and white accessories. The groom's mother chose a floor length gown of aqua satin with a short matching jacket trimmed with white fur and silver accessories.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Malagash Community Hall.

Two buildings in the business section of Bear River which are owned by the Bear River branch of the Canadian Legion have been joined together. The second floor covers the entire space of the two buildings together. The walls separating the two buildings were removed and thus making one large room. On the ground floor, the middle building shown in the photo, will serve the local ladies of the branch and the ground floor of the first building to the left, will serve as a drop-in and activity centre for the Bear River New Horizons, which they are presently occupying. The Legion branch allows the New Horizons club use that portion of the building rent-free, a generous gesture on the Legion branch's part. (Melanson Photo)

Joe Howe Days

2-11 Oct. '75

HALIFAX, NS. — Marie Nightingale, Executive Director of the Joseph Howe Festival announced today that the program for this year's Festival scheduled for October 2-11 has now been finalized.

"This year's Festival is bigger and better", she says, with many of the events of the previous two years having been enlarged and improved and many new features added.

One of the exciting aspects of this Festival is that many of the events such as the ever-popular Craft Market, Gallery on the Green and Farmer's Market.

One of the exciting aspects of this Festival is that many of the events such as the ever-popular Craft

Market, Gallery on the Green and Farmer's Market will be held in the restored premises of Historic Properties. This location will also house the Fish Chowder Luncheon, sponsored by the Major J. W. Logan Chapter, I.O.D.E. Craft Demonstrations will be featured at Historic Properties throughout the week and Whaler Races will end at Privateers Wharf.

Viewers will be able to watch these races, which will probably include a little serious rowing as well as some humor, from the vantage point offered by Historic Properties.

Close to 150 planned events will round out this year's program. Some of these are already established events of the Festival.

Among these is the Oratorical Contest on Thursday, Oct. 2, where the Young Joe Howe and Mrs. Howe are chosen as the Festival's King and Queen, decided by the best speeches of the evening.

Opening Ceremonies on Friday, October 3, have many added attractions, including the singing of the new theme song "Sing for Joseph Howe" by the Halifax City Schools Honor Choir, accompanied by Stadacona Band.

Everyone should turn out for this event" says Mrs. Nightingale. "It's anything but dull! This year we'll have a real party - with cake and soft drinks for all."

The Festival Band will follow Opening Ceremonies and it will be a grand affair with a buffet dinner being served at 9:00 p.m. Period costumes are preferred, but formal attire is quite acceptable. A trip for two is the door prize. Tickets are $25.00 per couple and are available at the Festival office in City Hall, Argyle Street or CFRD in Dartmouth.

The Beer Fest will feature the lively music of the German Band, "Die Holzhaacker Bub'n" and runs for three nights, Friday, October 3, Saturday, October 4 and Sunday, October 5 at the Armouries.

The Joseph Howe Festival Sailing Regatta, established last year by the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron, will be repeated on Saturday, October 4, as will be the Free Pancake Breakfast on St. Paul's Hill and the Flea Market in Grand Parade.

The second annual Joseph Howe Festival Road Race, which covers an 8 1/2 mile course will be run on Sunday, October 5.

There will also be another Costume Promenade in the Public Gardens on Sunday,

"The Annapolis Valley has had its best tourism year ever," Lloyd Hill, executive manager, Annapolis Valley affiliated Boards of Trade, said in Toronto at the conclusion of three days of meetings with tour wholesalers in three cities last week.

The "marketplaces", set up under auspices of the Nova Scotia Department of Tourism, involved 36 large tour wholesalers in Boston, New York and Toronto.

Provincial tourism of-officials and hotel-motel operators exchanged ideas and suggestions with the wholesalers, agreed with requests to map out tours of the Annapolis Valley for them, and provided market data.

Mr. Hill represents six municipalities and 13 towns and villages from Nova Scotia's Clare area through to Shubenacadie.

"Because of the meetings," he said, "we are already signing up business for the 1976 and 1977 season."

Mr. Hill termed the "marketplaces" as having been "most successful."

Mr. Hill commended the Department of Tourism for sponsoring the sessions between the tour wholesalers and the province's hotel-motel operators.

Tourism minister Glen M. Bagnell said here that bus tour bookings to Nova Scotia this autumn are "50 per cent ahead of those a year ago."

Mr. Bagnell said that 90 per cent of wholesalers who produce tours into Nova Scotia attended the sessions which represent "several million dollars worth of business."

the first time will be a Royal Merit Quadruple Championship and Household Pet Cat Show on Sunday, October 5, at the Halifax Shopping Centre. This will be the first time such a show, with ACFA rules and A.A. scoring has been held in Halifax.

On Monday, October 6, a Cape Breton Ceilidh will be presented at St. Pat's Auditorium. A milling frolic, fiddle music and Scottish and Acadian songs will be featured. This is sure to be a great performance, organized by the Cape Breton Club.

A Dixieland Cruise on the Northwest Arm is another new addition. The three-hour cruise will feature on board the Dixie Tech Seven.

Theatre Antigonish will present "The Fantasticks" on Tuesday, October 7 at St. Pat's Auditorium. Billed as America's longest running play it promises to be a performance well worth seeing.

Another addition which is viewed with great excitement by the Festival organizers is the Family Sing-A-Long on Wednesday, October 8 at Queen Elizabeth Auditorium. Under the direction of Mr. Chalmers Doane and featuring the "A" Ukeleles, here is an opportunity to sing or play your uke in the style of days gone by.

"And we've only skimmed the surface" says Mrs. Nightingale. "There is something for everyone during this third annual Joseph Howe Festival. We want to encourage everyone to participate. Dress up, turn out, and enjoy YOUR Festival. We are making it happen but only you can make it worth while!"

For further information, call the Joseph Howe Festival office at 422-9801, 425-6084 or 423-5434 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

N.S. Task Force

The establishment of an on-going structure to deal with issues of concern to women will be recommended to government by the N.S. Task Force on the status of women.

Although the Task Force has just begun its final session of public hearings, Chairperson, Dr. Mairi St. John MacDonald, said that findings thus far from the hearings and private sessions held by the Task Force, indicate the need for an on-going structure devoted to the concerns and issues which relate to women in the province.

The purpose of announcing the recommendation now is to allow women an opportunity to let the Task Force know, either at the remaining hearings or by letter or phone, what their suggestions are for an on-going structure.

"It is clear from what we have heard and read in briefs presented to us," Dr. MacDonald said, "that women have been giving this much thought. The Task Force will advocate to the Attorney General that a governmental structure be established to implement the recommendations of the Task Force and to undertake long-range planning on the behalf of women in the province. Our recommendations will be based on the suggestions we receive."

All other provinces in Canada, with the exception of Newfoundland, have departments, agencies or bureaus concerned with the status of women, as does the federal government.

"An interesting exception to the Canadian experience," Dr. MacDonald said, "exists in France, where the concerns and activities of women are looked after by a separate government ministry. There are, therefore, a number of models to choose from, but," she said, "we want to recommend a structure that most meets the needs of women as they themselves see them. That is why we are asking for their suggestions."

The Task Force's activities to date, Dr. MacDonald said, have revealed that women are concerned about a number of wide-ranging issues which will not be eradicated at the end of International Women's Year.

Briefs presented to the Task Force thus far, indicate that women's concerns seem to centre on six basic areas. Women have been vocal about the problems they experience as part of the labour force and in voluntary activities. Lack of adequate health care and child care facilities have been mentioned throughout the province, as has the need for upgrading the status of the homemaker. A basic attitudinal change towards the homemaker and parenting functions in society has also been called for to make equality of opportunity a reality for both sexes.

"These issues have come up again and again during the hearings," Dr. MacDonald said, "and we expect them to be raised in this session as well."

Mrs. Ruth Berry was the guest soloist at Zion United Church on Sunday morning. On Monday Mrs. Berry leaves for her former home in California to spend the winter months there. We shall miss her musical talent in our Church.

WEDDING

MYERS-BOTHEN

Gayle Elizabeth Bothen and John Lewis Myers were united in matrimony on August 23 at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Robert Harnish, in Salisbury Cove, Maine. Following the ceremony, a reception was held for friends and relatives from Maine, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Nova Scotia.

Mr. Myers is the son of Drs. Jack and Jessica Myers of Pittsburgh, Pa. Mrs. Myers, a long time summer resident of Sandy Cove, N.S. attended Nova Scotia Agricultural College.

The couple are now residing in Durham, N.C. where the groom is a student at Duke University Medical School and the bride will attend the University of North Carolina.

WARNELL-SNOW

The Edgewood United Church, Halifax, was the scene of a lovely evening wedding when Margaret Vennetta Snow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Snow, Digby, was united in marriage to Ronald Brice Warnell, son of Mrs. Lena Warnell and the late Mr. Dennis Warnell, Halifax County. The Rev. Carman Riggs officiated at the double ring ceremony. The chancel was decorated with baskets of yellow and white gladioli and guest pews were marked with miniature white bells. Musical selections composed of classicals and hymns were rendered by guitarists Ken Davidson and Joe Landry. Prior to the kneeling at the altar for prayer, "Just A Closer Walk With Thee" was played, and the hymn "In The Garden" was chosen as the wedding party left for the signing of the register.

The usherette, Maureen Potter, friend of the bride, was attired in a floor length black skirt and long sleeved deep rose-colored blouse, featuring a soft roll tie collar. The groom was attended by his brother, Clarence Warnell.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, entered the sanctuary to the music of "Renaissance Suite". She looked radiant wearing a floor length fitted and flared gown with princess seaming of deep rose polyester satin, forming its own train at the back. The gown featured a contrasting yoke of white lace with stand-up collar fashioned with a deep rose satin neckband, and long fitted sleeves with lace trim. Her head-dress was a small matching bow of deep rose satin piping, accented with a lace frill and short streamers of piping, trimmed with tiny lace rosettes. She carried a basket of white daisies and fern.

Matron-of-honour was Jean Sheridan, sister of the bride. She wore a fitted and flared floor length gown of mint green embossed ployester, fashioned with long fitted sleeves and sweetheart neckline. A daisy arrangement adorned her hair. Mary Sheridan, niece of the bride was bridesmaid. Her floor length gown was of mint green embossed polyester satin with short gathered sleeves and sweetheart neckline. Both attendants carried a nosegay of yellow and white daisies, encircled by rosettes made from lace, matching the bride's gown.

The bride's mother was attired in a floor length, long sleeved gown of polyester floral print satin suede in tones of yellow, green, grey and rose. The gown was fashioned with a soft cowl neckline and empire waist. She carried a matching drawstring purse and wore a white with pink orchid corsage. The mother of the groom chose a floor length polyester knit gown with floral design on a rose striped background, styled with long belled sleeves and full skirt formed by a slightly pleated empire waistline. She wore matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The reception was held in the Edgewood United Church Hall. The blessing was asked by Rev. Frank Lacey, uncle of the bride, and Harold Sheridan, brother-in-law of the bride, and M.C., proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded. The beautifully decorated three-tiered cake topped with variegated mums of pink and white was cut for serving and passed to the guests by the bride and groom.

Deborah Davidson, friend of the bride and groom, was in charge of the guest book.

For her going away outfit, the bride chose a polyester knit street length, sleeveless, V-neck dress with a black, green and pink floral design on a white background, with matching long sleeved bolero jacket fashioned with pink collar, lapels and cuffs.

The bride and groom left amid showers of confetti for their honeymoon in Ontario, P.E.I., and Digby, after which they returned to Dartmouth where both are employed at the N.S. Hospital.

Prior to the wedding the bride was honored at a dessert party given by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Donald Snow, at her home, and also at other functions given her by her friends and fellow staff members, where she also received many lovely gifts. The groom's sister, Mrs. Harold Rafuse, was hostess at the rehearsal supper held at her home.

Out-of-town guests were present from Ontario, Calgary, Digby, P.E.I., Yarmouth, Cornwallis, Greenwood and Ch�zetcook.

Springwater Habitation Christian Conference Center At Rossway

Co-Directors: Rev. Les Mullen & Rev. Bob Reid

Springwater Habitation, still in it's infancy, had it's first conference last Christmas from Dec. 26th to 28th. Since then a conference has been held each month on the first weekend. The conditions are still rustic but the Christian fellowship is sweet and rewarding to all who desire a deeper more meaningful walk with the Lord Jesus.

The purpose of the conference center being established at Rossway is to provide a place where Christians from any and all denominational backgrounds may come together for Christian fellowship, teaching, praise and prayer. There are no theological axes to be ground. We teach as clearly as possible the Divinity of Christ, his atonement for sin on the cross at Calvary and his bodily resurrection. We expect His return to earth. We also believe the Holy Spirit to be a person and part of the Godhead and available to fill all Christians with power. So, we at Springwater hold fast to the traditional doctrines of the Churches. In doing so we hope we can include all Christian groups and as far as possible we try not to be divisive. We are very conscious of controversy these days over the "charismatic movement" and especially tongues speaking. We are neither Charismatic nor non-Charismatic. We do not believe that all Christians must speak in tongues but we are pleased that some do. We do not think that all Christians must be healed but we are pleased when some are healed by the ministry of the Church. We are anxious that Springwater Habitation be a place where Christians from all denominations can feel at home and each in his own way grow to become part of the beautiful fellowship the Church of Jesus Christ is meant to be.

To that end we have begun a Christian Conference Center. It is to include a camping area for summer campers, a few family cabins for Christian families who want to live with Christians for a weekend holiday time or during conferences. Very soon we hope to have a Chapel for daily worship. At present the guest house is nearly completed and it includes a basement conference room and dining area in the family living room. But we plan to build a larger conference house with Christian library, kitchen and dining facilities as well as a proper conference room. Another aspect of the conference center is farming and fishing. Whereas the conference center is located on a farm we are gradually developing the farm so that it may provide food for staff and guests. To that end we now have a few cattle and some commercial strawberries. Our dream is to also have a fishing boat available for handling and lobstering in either of the two bays surrounding Digby Neck. These two projects not only provide food but also natural recreation opportunities for those who come to Springwater Habitation.

We are registered with federal and provincial governments as a non-profit organization under the societies act and as such we can issue income tax receipts to those who choose to support our work. We are glad to have visitors and of course we welcome any forms of help and assistance as we go about the task of establishing Springwater Habitation as a Center for Christian Revitalization.

Seiner Situation Eases

Seiners having fished their quota and the fishing season having passed, the situation with the Digby Neck weir and net fishermen and the New Brunswick seiners has eased, a spokesperson informed the Digby Courier.

However, the Courier was informed that the petition to be presented to Coline Campbell, MP; Joe Casey, MLA and the Fisheries Departments continue to be signed by interested fishermen. The petition requests the Department of Fisheries to limit the New Brunswick seiners to a three mile inshore closure in the Bay of Fundy. The seining operation, it is felt, sadly reduces the weir and net catch and also floods the market reducing the revenue of the weir and the net fishermen.

Later in the morning Mrs. Melinda MacLean, MLA Colchester, will join Miss Nola Wade, the Executive Director of the Canadian Home Economics Association, and Judge Nancy Morrison, Vancouver, in discussing the "Responsibilities of Professional Women's Organizations".

Some of the additional topics to be discussed during the three-day conference include, "Alternate Life Styles"; "Women in Management"; and "The Rights of Parents and Children".

A display of recent educational materials will form an important part of the Conference. The educational exhibit will include books, tapes, filmstrips, and LAPs (Learning Activity Packets), all of which should be of particular interest to the many teachers of home economics who will be among the delegates attending the Convention.

The Annual Business meetings of the two participating organizations will be held at separate times, to give those who are members of each organization an opportunity to attend both of the meetings.

Liquor Commission Position On Employees's Strike

D.W. Pulsifer, General Manager of Nova Scotia Liquor Commission, expressed concern that figures recently released by union representatives concerning certain wage rates paid to commission employees may be "misleading in the extreme."

Employees of the commission went on strike at 6 P.M. Wednesday, Sept. 24. All retail liquor stores in Nova Scotia are now closed.

"While it is true to say that a clerk 1 at our head office is paid on a scale ranging from $4,934 - $5,875, Mr. Pulsifer said, "it should be pointed out that these wage rates apply only to 7 jobs. These seven employees are office clerks, not store clerks."

The general manager also pointed out that those currently filling these positions have been with the commission for less than 10 months.

"Only 12 of our 618 permanent employees earn under $6,000 per year," said Mr. Pulsifer. "Ninety-six per cent of the permanent employees currently earn more than $8,000 annually," he said.

Mr. Pulsifer pointed out that a store clerk with six months service is paid at the rate of $8,572 a year. Store managers and assistant managers earn between $9,500 and $13,492 a year.

depending on the size of the store and length of service. In discussing the commission's wage offer to the unions, the general manager said that the proposed 15 per cent increase in the first year would immediately increase a store clerk's earnings to $9,858 annually. Effective June 28, 1976, the store clerk's annual salary would increase to at least $10,843. Provisions for a cost-of-living allowance which has been proposed by the commission, could raise that rate even higher.

Managers and assistant managers have been offered a wage package which would increase their earnings by 15 per cent in the first year, putting them into the $10,926 range immediately. Effective June 28, 1976, managers and assistant managers earnings would increase to $12,019 and $16,803 annually.

Cost-of-living provisions, based on the consumer price index, have also been proposed by the commission for managers and assistant managers.

Mr. Pulsifer said that it should be noted that the increase offered store clerks employed by the Nova Scotia liquor commission would make them among the highest paid liquor store clerks in Atlantic Canada.

Mrs. Tanstab, native of Oslo, Norway, was just four years old when her father, Mr. Otto Farstad left his native home in Norway and she did not see him again until recently when she and Mr. Tanstab visited him and Mrs. Farstad at their home at East Ferry.

Father Richard Gidney, Jr., of Kindersley, Sask., brother of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Victorian style, floor length gown of white satin brocade trimmed with daisies. It featured a high neckline, large bouffant sleeves that gathered at the elbow and tapered to the wrists, a tie belt in the back, and a deep ruffle around the bottom. Her floor length veil, sprinkled with daisies, fell from a large picture hat, held at the crown by a cluster of daisies. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of a dozen red roses intermingled with baby's breath.

Fire. Do you really think it can't happen to you.

Last year, there were 1978 reported fires in Nova Scotia. Most of them in places where people live.

Those fires killed 28 people, including 2 children. Fire injured 96 people, including 49 firefighters.

And while you can't put a price on misery, the monetary loss as a result of fire in 1974 was in excess of $14,000,000.

What causes fires?

The majority are caused by carelessness, smoking being the major culprit, responsible for 236 fires last year. Next comes short circuits and faulty wiring; defective and overheated chimneys, stacks and pipes; ignition of fat, grease or tar. Children playing with matches started 55 fires.

How do you prevent fires?

Talk to the fire prevention experts. Visit your local Fire Hall, or contact the Fire Marshal's office.

Remember, make your emergency plans now. Fire safety is everyone's business. Are you doing your part?

Or do you really think it can't happen to you?

Promoting Apple-A-Day In Schools

An Apple-A-Day project will be undertaken in the Colchester-East Hants Amalgamated School Board area in October.

Agricultural Minister John Hawkins said today. This self-supporting program is being undertaken by the Fruit Growers, Scotian Gold Co-Op and local wholesalers in cooperation with the Department of Agriculture and Marketing and the Colchester-East Hants Amalgamated School Board.

It is intended that the program will be promoted by the staff of the Department of Agriculture, who will be making school visits, as well as visiting any parents and community organizations who might wish to assist in this promotion.

"We are certainly seeking the assistance of school principals and their staff, Women's Institutes and Home and School Organizations, for we feel that their support would be most beneficial in a promotion of this kind," Mr. Hawkins said. "The pilot promotion will be tried for a year to assess the benefits to young people and the potential impact upon the apple industry in Nova Scotia."

Some of the objectives of the Promotional Programs are to provide Canada Fancy Grade Apples, grown in Nova Scotia, of 140-count size, cell packed, to the canteens in the schools of the amalgamated area. It is the intention that these apples will be sold at minimum cost, that is, not above 10 cents per apple.

The Colchester-East Hants

Myers, who have spent their vacation in Bangor, Maine, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Langille spent Sunday at Kentville visiting a friend of the Langilles, Mr. Frank Kyte.

Amalgamated School Board area has been selected because it has a mixture of urban and rural population and because this area contains the headquarters of the Department of Agriculture and Marketing, the Women's Institutes, Home and School Association and the Federation of Agriculture. The Department of Agriculture staff in Truro intend to put substantial time in the promotion of this project in the area.

Mr. Hawkins said every attempt will be made to make apples available to all schools in the Amalgamated area who wish to participate in the project. It is expected that these apples will be made available for sale through the school canteens and school lunch programs. Staff of the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture and Marketing will visit each school in the area during the next two weeks to outline details of the promotion and assist the local school authorities in arranging for delivery of apples. It is hoped that this project will be operating by mid-October.

"We feel that the promotion of good eating habits in our young people is a top priority," Mr. Hawkins said, "and it is very important for young people to have the opportunity to obtain top quality apples."

"This is a rather difficult promotion. It has been examined in 1968-69 by the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers Association and was found to have some difficulties. The main problems in the future of this promotion appear to be the economic distribution to outlying areas, storage and the volume of consumption per school. Through this pilot project we hope to determine the necessary steps in the distribution of quality apples to the schools."

Six New Horizon Members Had Birthday

Forty-five attended the September birthday party at the New Horizon Centre on Tuesday afternoon. Several visitors from away were present and always welcome.

The first part of the afternoon's programme started with Mr. Eddie Comeau from Information Canada giving an informative talk on Acadian Folklore. After which the audience was free to ask questions pertaining to the subject. Everyone found his talk interesting and it is hoped he may come back again at a later date to continue more on Folklore of Nova Scotia. The president and Vice-president of Digby New Horizons being absent, Mr. Comeau was introduced to the gathering by the Secretary, Mrs. Waters Comeau, and thanked at the closing, after which games were started until it was time to serve cake and ice-cream. There were six September birthday guests seated at the table with Eddie Comeau as special guest.

Thanks went to the Thorton, Ont., for well wishes and sending fifty feet of small cotton sash cord which cannot be obtained here. It is badly needed for handles for the fish net strung bags which are in great demand, especially by visitors from away to the New Horizons Centre and who see all the Craft's done there, as did the man who knew the cord was needed.

Fire Prevention Week October 5 - 11

We are just in the midst of Fire Prevention Week. All around us we hear how devastating fires can be and we are given instructions on how to prevent fires starting. We are told that in 1974 there were nearly 2000 fires reported in Nova Scotia. Further, according to information from the Department of Labour advertising for Fire Prevention Week, there were 28 deaths due to fires in Nova Scotia. Of these, two were children.

There were 96 injured of which 49 were firefighters. Loss of property was more than $14,000,000. Such figures are, indeed, staggering.

What caused all this devastation. The top culprit, like in traffic accidents, is carelessness and one of the major forms of carelessness is smoking. Matches are carelessly thrown where they readily ignite, sometimes landing on dry grass and bushes or carelessly dropped on floors and furniture. Smoking in bed is a careless and dangerous habit. Electric wiring, overheated stoves, spontaneous combustion and many other careless reasons are responsible for many fires.

The list of culprits is long but fortunately the effective fire prevention list is also long and available for practice. People should make a habit of thinking fire hazards and ways of prevention and escape.

Fire fighting equipment is a necessity. In occupation on fighting one fire, the equipment is also used to prevent the fire spreading to adjoining buildings and property. The possession of equipment itself comes under the heading of Fire Prevention. In this respect we want to congratulate the whole area of Digby County on its firefighting equipment. The last section to acquire equipment was Digby Neck, we understand. This makes complete county coverage, we believe. Firemen and residents have worked hard to establish these safety measures for all of us. They deserve our praise and thank-yous. We owe to them our assistance in maintaining their equipment and additions to equipment for the protection of property and life.

In today's society there is a strong tendency to walk away from responsibility. Sometimes it can be disastrous. Fire safety in the home is a glaring example.

Improved building codes, hydro inspections and fire resistant building materials, all contribute to making home a safer place to live. But people cause fires and most fires are the result of carelessness.

So who is responsible for home fire safety? Isn't it a shared responsibility? Your fire department can only do so much, the rest is up to you and your family.

Today's fire fighter will quickly share his professional knowledge with you but in the final analysis he can only help you to help yourself.

Fire prevention in the home or apartment calls for an awareness of fire hazards and action to eliminate or minimize them. Most of this calls for straight common sense but much of the advice is ignored and the action delayed.

The day to day observance of sound fire prevention practices is both a personal and community responsibility, shared with your fire department.

The theme is public involvement. No longer do you find the curbs littered with empty cigarette packs or discarded candy wrappers.

There will always be jugheads who are litter bugs but today they represent a small minority. We've been educated to observe sanitary ordinances and customs. Our garbage in most instances is carefully placed in containers, not only because of health laws but also because we live up to established neighborhood standards, or most of us do. There's the weight of public opinion quietly influencing our behaviour patterns.

Why then are generally accepted fire prevention practices so frequently ignored? Why this public apathy about fire itself?

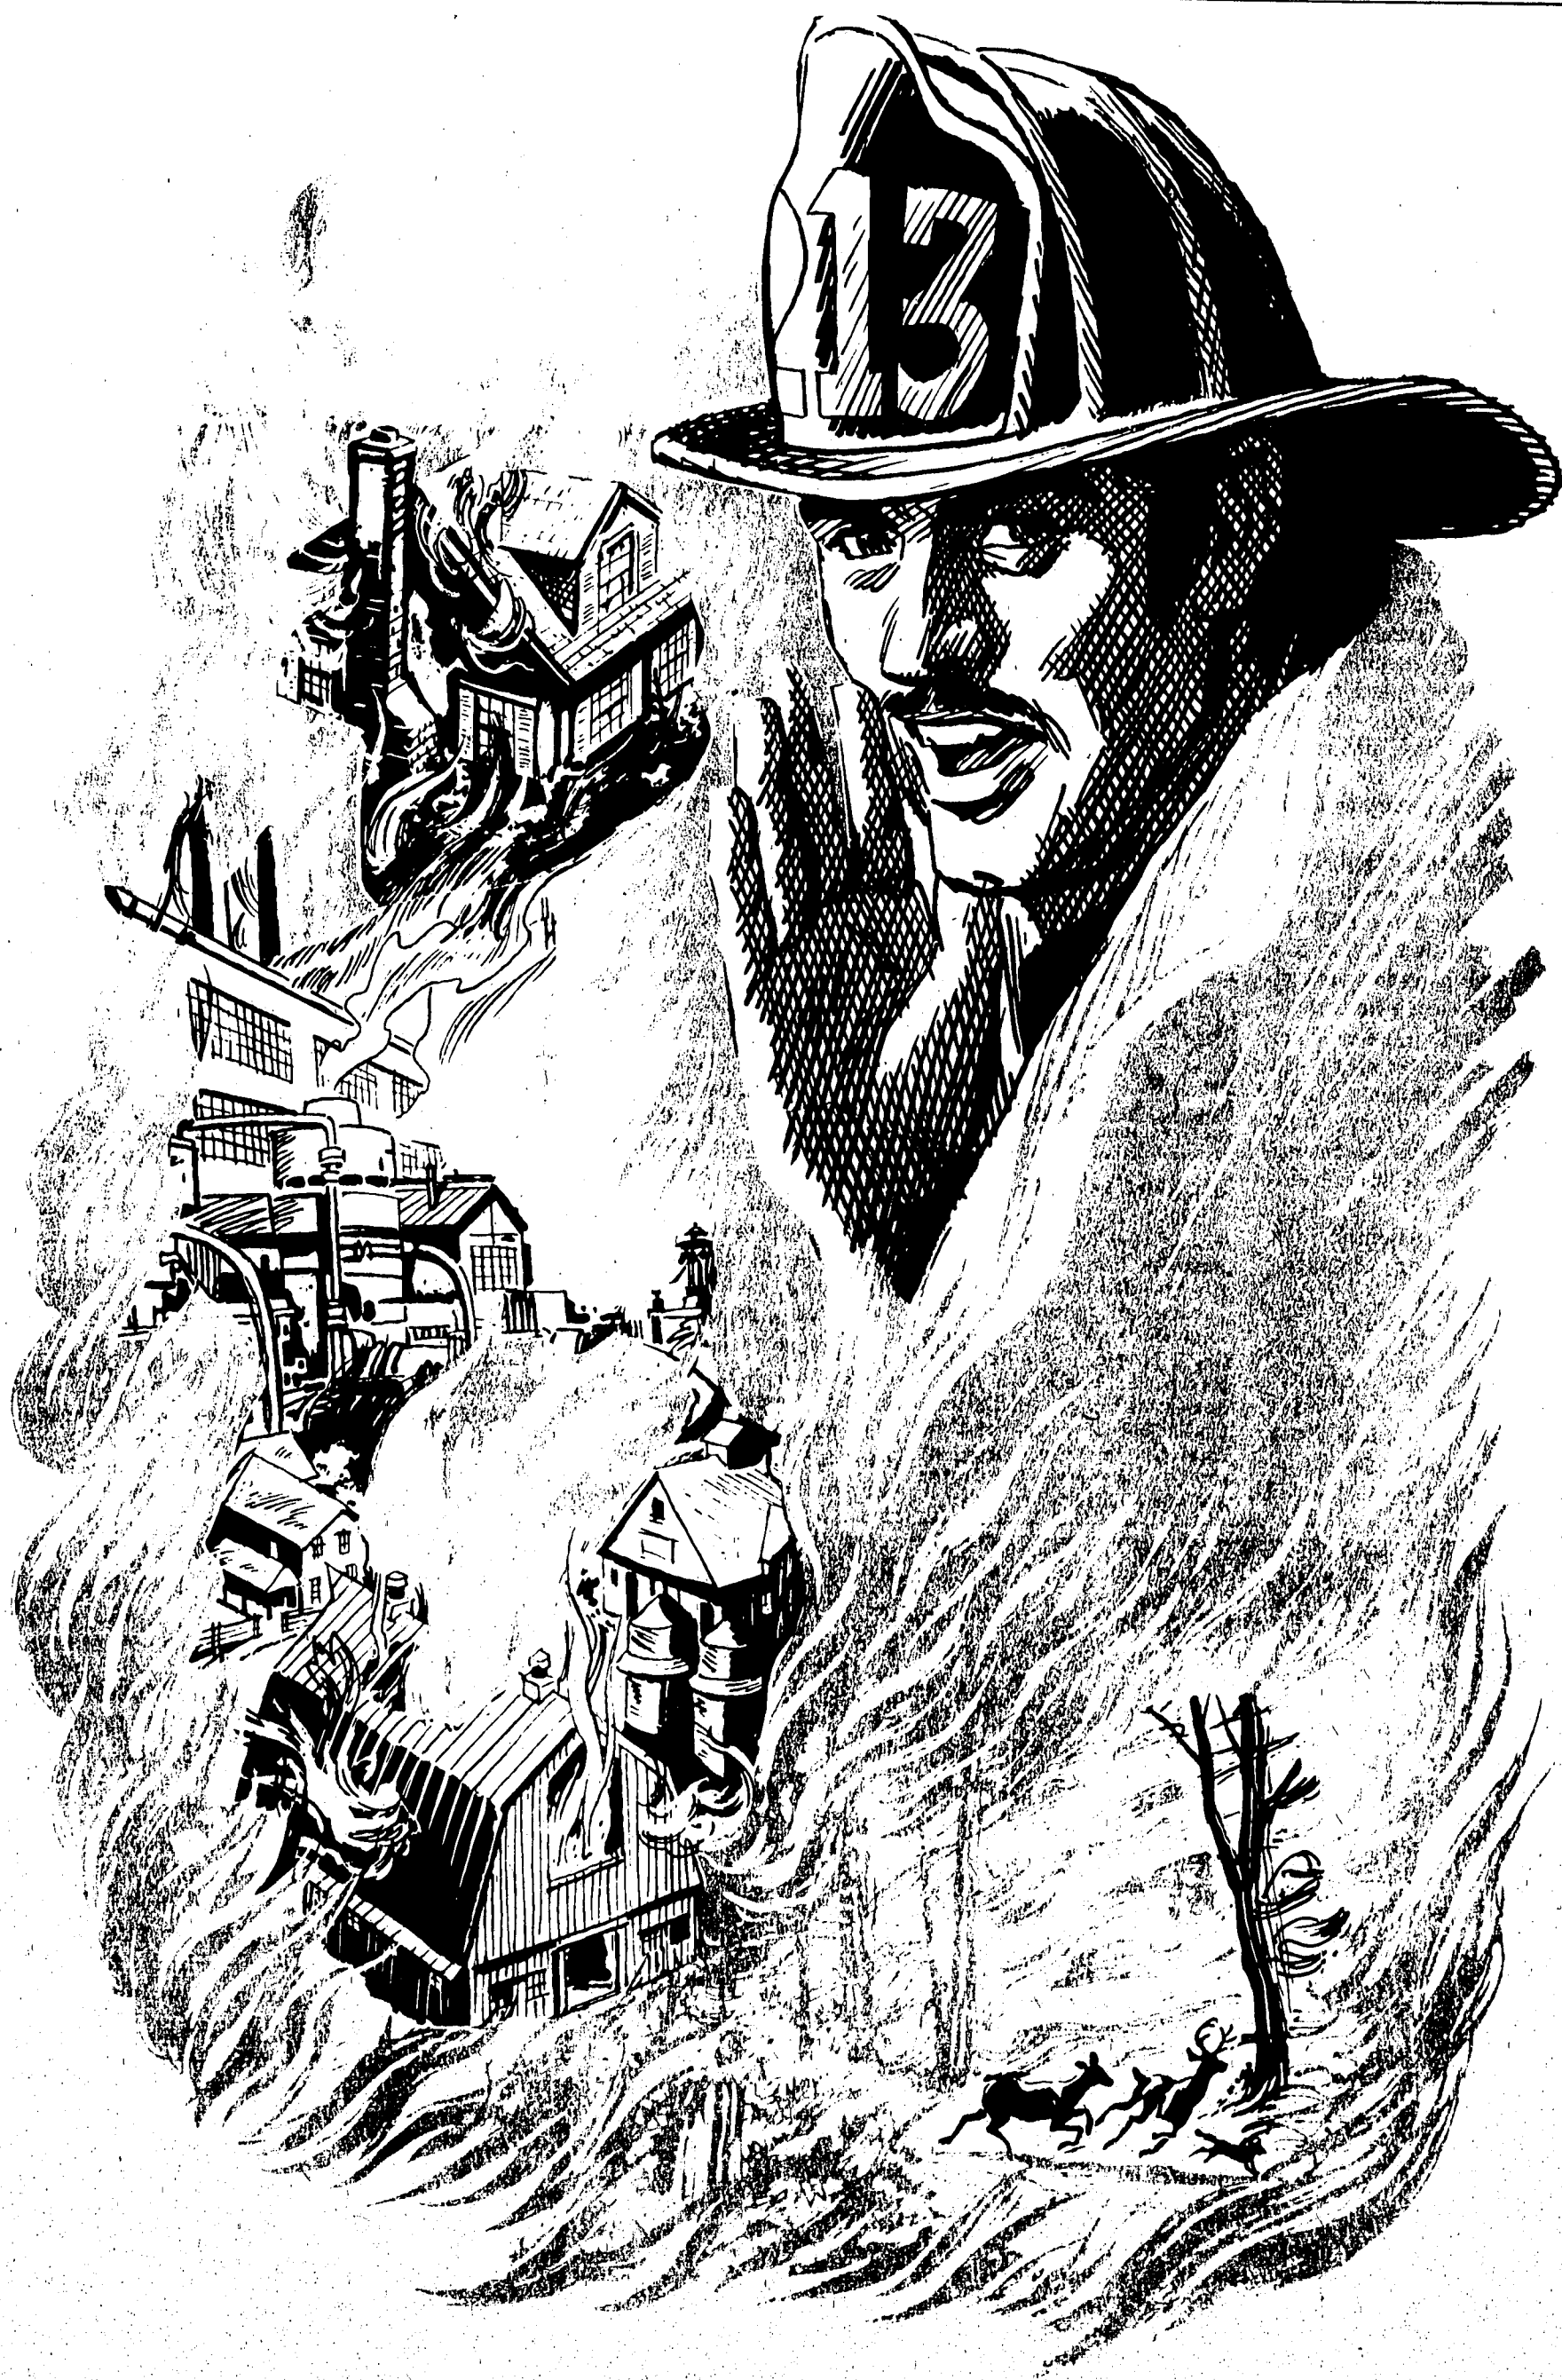

There is no one answer, but partially it is because people have grown up believing fire worries belong to their fire departments. It's a fine vote of confidence but it isn't completely true.

With latest available statistics showing 54,242 residential fires within a 12 months period and property losses crowding the $100 million level, it's time to pause and think. People died too. There were 725 deaths attributed to fire during this same period.

The message is clear and urgent. Fire safety in the home must become a part of our daily life style. The fire department can help us help ourselves but fire prevention is a shared responsibility. After all it's the safety of our families and our property that is at stake.

The Digby Branch, Canadian Bible Society is now in its annual financial campaign and needs your help! The Scriptures are now in 1549 languages and the demand for the Scriptures in the 150 countries in which the work is carried on is the greatest it has ever been. Annual Scripture distribution in Canada by the Canadian Bible Society is three and one-half million, and world distribution is over 250 million each year.

Over the past 25 years generally only the physical needs of man have been emphasized, and as a rule a veritable metaphysical hunger has developed. To fill the spiritual vacuum millions are turning to the Scriptures. Right now Society is facing its greatest challenge in history. Support the Bible Society by contributing.

Hodge Podge

While rural people came to town to wash and take baths when their wells were dry before that welcome rain, the courtesy was returned last week when a 12 in. water main broke under the Racquette Bridge. Mending the main depended much on the tides.

We note that Highway Safety intend being more strict on properly stopping at stop signs. There are places in Digby where you might have an accident if you stop properly at a stop sign. For example at the corner of King St. and Church St. by the Forum you stop at the sign but then you have to edge out far enough to see whether a car is coming from the left or right. There are similar instances in other parts of the town, eg., Mount St. and Montague Row.

As time goes on we might have to rewrite parts of the Bible even though some of us were brought up to neither add to nor take away from the Bible. For example, in Ephesians, Chapter 6, Verse 4 it reads "Ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath." There seems to be no admonition for any adult provoking another adult to wrath. And it is done, without a doubt. We see it sort of regularly these days.

We hope nobody hears us say this, least of all a prospective mayor for the town. Monday night's Town Council meeting would discourage the hardest prospective mayor. How we hate to have that statement go abroad! But, murder will out and so will the Town Council's wranglings.

26 Receive Citizenship

Certificates of Canadian Citizenship were presented to 26 applicants at a special session of the Court of Canadian Citizenship in Halifax on Friday.

The Court session, held in conjunction with the Joseph Howe Festival, was presided over by Citizenship Court Judge Victor Cardoza of Digby. Certificates of citizenship were presented by the Hon. J. Hugh Faulkner, Secretary of State for Canada.

In an address to the applicants prior to the administration of the Oath of Allegiance, Judge Cardoza spoke briefly on the work of Joseph Howe in helping to secure a free press and responsible government. He noted that the Hon. Joseph Howe placed a very high value on citizenship. During his lifetime Howe exemplified many of those qualities of citizenship that could well be emulated today, he said.

Platform guests for the special session of the Court included His Honour, Lieutenant Governor Clarence L. Gosse, Nova Scotia Premier Gerald A. Regan, the Chief Justice of Nova Scotia, the Mayors of Halifax and Dartmouth and the Warden of Halifax County.

Following the court ceremonies a concert was presented by the Halifax city schools honour choir and the "B.L.U.K.E.L.E.S. Master of ceremonies was Allan Saunders. Among numbers presented were "Sing for Joseph Howe", written especially for this year's Howe Festival and winner of the provincial Department of Recreation award; "The Pines of Northeast Arm", written by Joseph Howe; and "Canada, Our Heritage".

It was given to him for use during his life.

Legion Can Help New Citizens

The comradeship which is so much a part of the life of the Royal Canadian Legion could well be extended to the people from other lands and cultures who come to Canada and become Canadian citizens. Judge Victor Cardoza of the Court of Canadian Citizenship told the annual banquet session of the Clementsport branch of the Legion on Saturday evening.

Introduced by Branch

President, Comrade James Smyth, Judge Cardoza said Canadians need to extend a hand of sincere friendship to those who come to Canada to make this country their home. Only in this way can the type of understanding be developed that will ensure that the newcomers have a real appreciation of the values they will share as Canadians. Such contact, he said, will also ensure a deeper appreciation of the cultural heritages being brought to this country by peoples of many lands, many ethnic and cultural backgrounds.

One of the great strengths of Canada, Judge Cardoza said, is the ability of this nation to bring peoples of widely different cultural and ethnic backgrounds together in understanding and acceptance of their differences. The Canadian Legion, he said, has an important role to play in this.

Through comradeship you can help remove unthinking prejudice, you can create a strong bond among peoples of different backgrounds that will help ensure a peaceful future, not for Canada but perhaps the whole world, he said.

If all that is said about the meaning of citizenship in Canada is to be more than mere words, the speaker concluded, an earnest effort must be made, both by groups and individuals, to make certain that it is really true that Canadians share an equality in the things that belong to their citizenship. "Freedom, like many other benefits, can only be thoroughly enjoyed if it is fully shared."

current rate of inflation and increases received in other segments of industry, and represents no real net gain for the dairy industry.

Milk producers, in a period of continuing inflation, will be facing a difficult period during the fall and winter feeding period.

The unusual dry weather this summer has adversely affected pastures and grain crops. Many producers have been feeding cattle out of winter stocks since the middle of July, and will have to supplement feed supplies with hay now costing double the normal value.

In announcing the implementation of the Nova Scotia milk marketing plan, the commission stated the plan will achieve a number of objectives which will benefit the dairy industry.

The market requirement for milk, and particularly fluid milk is relatively constant throughout the year. The supply of milk is not uniformly distributed over the province, consequently some processors do not have a sufficient supply of milk to meet market requirements at all times of the year and therefore, require milk from other areas or out of province sources.

The marketing plan will ensure an adequate supply of milk to each processor from in-province sources, and through uniform quota requirements will provide for a reasonable supply of milk for manufactured dairy products such as ice cream, cheddar and cottage cheese.

$684.50 From Parking Meters

Webster Dunn, parking meter reader, reported to Town Council on Monday evening that $684.50 was collected in September from the parking meters. Fifty-nine traffic tickets were issued, 27 collected and one cancelled. Councillor Eileen Chipman told the meter reader that she has gone down town and has seen as high as six violations.

Mr. Dunn replied that the idea of the meters is to have traffic control and not for making money. He explained to Council that a meter might not carry a violation on his tour of the town but in ten minutes the violation signal could be showing. Councillor Chipman felt that the meters should make money. Opinions differed as to whether there was a police committee or which committee, police or license, would be responsible for establishing communication between the meter reader and Council. Deputy Mayor Philip Robertson called a meeting of the License and Police committee with Mr. Dunn for October 22 at 7:30 p.m.

The evening concert will be at 8 p.m. and at this time the Grand re-opening of the newly renovated Forum will take place. Invitations are going to Premier Gerald Regan, Hon. John Buchanan, and Hon. Jeremy Akerman, Coline Campbell, M.P. and Joseph Casey, M.L.A. Also Hon. Garnet Brown, Minister of Recreation and other Government representatives. It is hoped that these persons will attend and see how well the government grant and Public donations money has been spent.

MILK - Why The Increase?

The Nova Scotia Dairy Commission put into effect an increase of five cents per quart or 9.4 per cent effective Oct. 1.

The commission said that the increased cost of producing, processing and distributing milk during the past year was the reason for the increase.

Quart milk prices in the Annapolis Valley are now 61 cents for Homo, 60 cents for 2 per cent and 55 cents for skim.

The implementation of a marketing plan for milk producers to ensure an adequate supply of milk to meet market requirements at all times of the year also was announced.

Following is the text of the dairy commission announcement:

The Nova Scotia Dairy Commission announced an increase in the consumer price of fluid milk and implementation of a marketing plan for milk producers, effective Oct. 1, 1975.

In making the announcement, the commission stated an increase of five cents per quart or 9.4 per cent was required to offset the increased cost of producing, processing and distributing milk in the period from Oct. 1, 1974 to the end of September, 1975.

The commission stated that a request from producers for an increase of five cents per quart in January, 1975, was deferred at that time until after April 1 so that the Commission could study the effect of the Federal Dairy policy on prices and watch the price of feed which appeared to be stabilizing.

Cost inputs have continued to increase, however, and in September purchased dairy feed prices have risen eight per cent above January and February levels. Production cost monitoring developed for the commission indicates the cost of producing milk has increased by 17.3 per cent in the period from October, 1974, to September, 1975.

In granting an industry increase of 9.4 per cent the commission is aware the adjustment is less than the

Rain Or Shine - The Pony Express Rides

(By Pauline Bullerwell)

The echo of gunfire rolled back from the wooded hills opposite Victoria Beach at 9:15 a.m. on Thursday morning signalling to the offshore boat the arrival of the first Pony Express rider, Mrs. Theta Woodworth.

Approximately one hundred people were gathered to watch the opening ceremonies for the Joseph Howe Festival held for the second year in rain and fog at Victoria Beach, Annapolis County.

A gun crew from CFB Cornwallis fired the signal gun as the Pony Express rider galloped in. Mrs. Woodworth, wet but smiling, was presented with a gift from the Joseph Howe Festival for her part in the ride. Present for the opening ceremonies were Mayor McIsaac and Mrs. McIsaac of Bridgetown, Joseph Casey, M.L.A. of Digby County, residents of Victoria Beach, Annapolis Royal and Granville Ferry as well as a delegation from the Festival in Halifax; President of the Joseph Howe Festival, Bernice Sullivan, Chairman of Opening and Closing Ceremonies, Carolyn Amirault; Joan Kirby, Craft Market and the ladies from Halifax were gowned in lovely period costumes with matching bonnets, carrying reticules and wearing shawls.

Hosts for the occasion were members of Historic Restoration Enterprises: Cmdr. and Mrs. Evan Petley-Jones, Mrs. David Armstrong and Mrs. Marguerite Wagner. They too, were in period costume, the ladies in plumed hats, long skirts and shawls. Cmdr. Petley-Jones in top hat and frock coat. Two choirs under the direction of Brian Dickinson sang several numbers including the Festival Song, Sing For Joseph Howe. The schools were the Deep Brook School and the Granville Ferry Consolidated School.

The members of Historic Restoration Enterprises served coffee and doughnuts at the church hall in Victoria Beach. Members of H.R.E. were also presented with gifts from the President of the Joseph Howe Festival as was Miss M.E. Young on behalf of the Annapolis Royal Historical Association.

Laura Heuer of Paradise took over the saddlebags from Mrs. Woodworth for the second lap of the journey. She rode from the Port Royal Habitation to Dunrobin Campsite where Miss Donna Milne took the saddlebags and rode to Belleisle. Miss Sandra Milne rode from Belleisle to the town of Bridgetown.

One young rider told me she received waves and smiles from each car along the way, as well as greetings from residents along the route. These riders are all members of the Eastern Stock Horse Association and have been showing their mounts all summer at various shows around the country. Some of them will be taking part in the Atlantic Winter Fair Light Horse Show in Halifax next weekend.

Either Joseph Howe is an irascible old gentleman who is displeased with the Festival held in his honour or the gods frown on our backward re-enactment of the Pony Express ride for we have had rain for the past two years for the Opening Ceremony at Victoria Beach. Victoria Beach has some of the most beautiful scenery to be seen anywhere in the area. We hope that next year the sun will shine and our visitors will enjoy the sight which has been hidden in fog and rain the last two years.

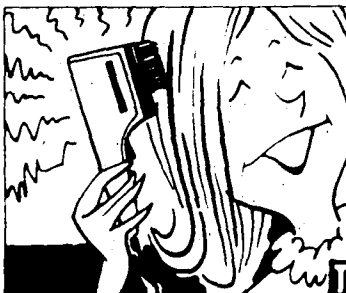

The Mail arrived in Halifax right on schedule on Friday at approximately six-thirty.

Hair Care

How To Cut Your Losses

In the battle against hair-damaging summer sun and heat, you can cut your losses with a quick snip of the scissors.

That's one of the fundamental recommendations of hair-care professionals for pruning the season's ravages.

Another tip: Sun speeds the outpouring of scalp oil, which means you'll need a daily shampoo. Follow up with a hand held styling dryer. For labor and time-saving, try Norelco's Styler-Dryer with its 900-watt power pack that mists, dries, combs, brushes, shapes and styles in minutes.

As for that scissor work: if a no-bother short cut suits your personality, you're lucky. But even long hair can do with a trim. If ends are split and dry, clip above the split.

Don't worry about those lost inches. Hair grows fastest during summer months.

Dogs In The News

Dogs are again in the news. A letter from Richard Warner, Warwick St., Digby, was read at the Digby Town Council meeting on Monday relating to five dogs being on the loose when he took his child to school.

Mr. Warner's complaint was the only written complaint but councillors did receive verbal complaints about dogs running loose. The dog catcher report showed five dogs caught and all claimed by owners.

It was decided to call a meeting with the dog catcher in the near future.

Land Clearing School Proves Valuable

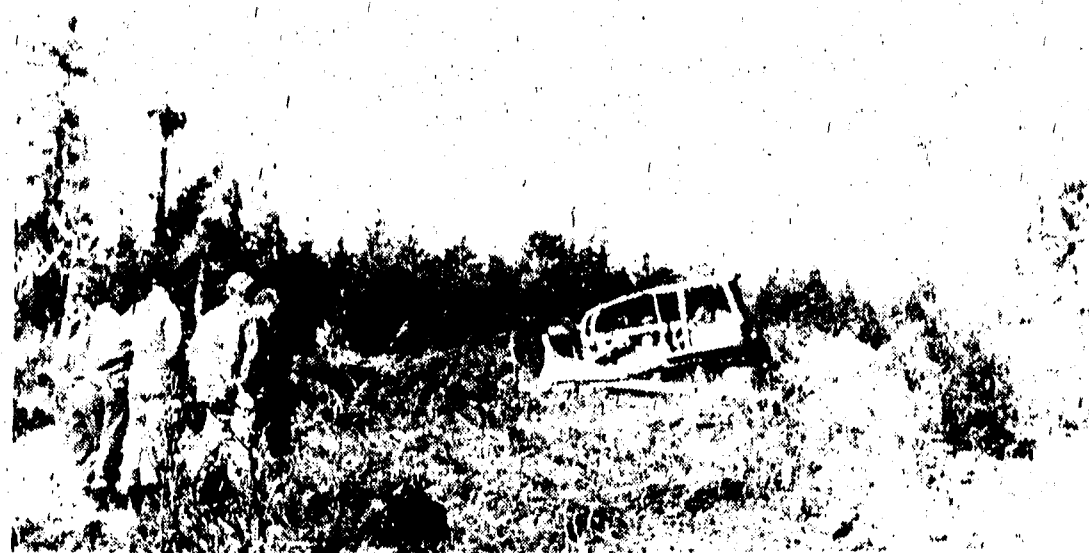

The land clearing school sponsored by the Department of Agriculture and Digby County farmers came to a close Tuesday noon of this week. The school began on Monday, September 22 under supervision of Bruce Gilliat, Digby County Agricultural Representative and proved to be so successful that it was extended for several days more than planned.

The first demonstration was held at the farm of Cameron Johnson, Bear River, where six acres were cleared at a cost approximately $225 per acre, excluding discing and root breaking. The farmer, now or in the Spring, with very little additional work can seed the area.

The second demonstration was at the farm of Perry Freeman, Bear River East, where four acres were cleared. The land clearing at Mr. Freeman's was different due to the number of rocks and type of tree cover to be disposed of. The new method of land clearing did well despite the rocks.

Bruce Gilliat, representative, explained to the Courier interviewer that this method of land clearing is new to the area in that the bulldozer "walked down" the standing trees and bushes before any attempt was made to move the trees. The purpose is to break up trees and to have them lying down parallel to the windrow which is built afterwards. The second step is to clear the base on which to put the windrow and when this is done the operation begins to pile trees in the windrow, clear of mud and dirt.

After piling, the trees are burned and the bulldozer pushing the trees in fire more rapidly. This, the bulldozer with a three ton disc the dozer and then root is done with wheeled pulled by a farm, this time the land for seeding.

Mr. Gaid that the new method clearing makes it to prevent top soil being lost. The initial cost of land clearing is probably higher but using this technique, Mr. Gilliat said, no pile of trees are left in the field to restrict drainage or provide a place for weeds and insects to grow. Land which is rocky uses more time in the process of clearing he remarked.

Mr. Gilliat pronounced the school to be successful and worth the time and effort. He thanked John Higgins from the Department of Agriculture, Truro, and Harry Reynolds, Upper Musquodoboit, bulldozer operator for Mosher Limestone Ltd. for their help with the demonstration. He expressed hope that farmers will use the new land clearing method and preserve the top soil for all time instead of it being pushed aside and destroyed.

To Tape Or Not To Tape

The meeting of the Digby Town Council on Monday evening started with vim and vigor which did not wane but gathered momentum to the very end when a motion was made by Councillor Reginald Hazelton that the tape recorder be removed from the table. The tape-recorder was one which Councillor Eileen Chipman owns and uses. The motion was seconded by Councillor Guy

Van Tassell and carried.

Following the passing of the motion, Deputy Mayor Philip Robertson, gave orders to Councillor Chipman to remove the taperecorder but the Councillor refused to do so. Shortly after Mrs. Chipman moved the recording machine to her lap which might or might not have had any significance.

Temper really got riled just prior to making the motion when "sacred Bible names" were used in a manner foreign to a church group use. Councillor Hazelton was of the opinion that a person's comments can be taped by permission. The remark was not debated by Council. A motion to adjourn the meeting was made.

A special guest at the Western Nova Multicultural Association installation ceremony and program at the Bridgetown High School Auditorium on Thursday was Mrs. Barbara Campbell, Halifax, co-ordinator of the Nova Scotia Multicultural Association. Above is Ms. Campbell with Rev. George Bell, Smith's Cove, co-ordinator for the Western Nova Multicultural Association. Mr. Bell arranged the program of inauguration and entertainment. Judge V.G. Cardoza was master of ceremonies and Joe Casey, M.L.A., gave the inaugural address.

Resign Or Get Down To Work

"We have one of two alternatives, resign or get down to work" said Councillor Reginald Hazelton in addressing the Digby Town Council on Monday evening in the capacity of both councillor and citizen of the Town. Mr. Hazelton followed David VanTassell who appeared before Council to request a sewer be constructed for about 450 feet along from First Avenue to West St. George St.

In his remarks before the Council, Mr. Hazelton said that until he came on the Town Council he had no idea how much work was involved and demands to be met. He informed Council of the number of hours he had put into town service to date and the miles he drove to attend to matters. More than $300 was lost by Councillor Hazelton, he intimated, because a town meeting conflicted with his work in loading fish. He reminded that a living has to be earned and a family needs attention. Mr. Hazelton, spoke of the rude remarks made by two women by the means of radio.

The minutes of the regular September meeting and special meeting were passed after amendments and resolutions were inserted. Mrs. Chipman felt that she was the only Councillor misrepresented in the minutes. She felt that a clerk's function was not to make recommendations while others felt this was part of his duties. To avoid misrepresenting a councillor, the Council felt that motions should be written otherwise the clerk cannot get motions with the same exact wording of the mover.

Nomination Again In November

It was announced at the Digby Town Council meeting on Monday evening that November 4 has been set for receiving nominations for a mayor for Digby Town. If two or more candidates were nominated an election will be held on November 18. The candidates must have all their town bills paid by October 24.

Word was received from the Department of Education that the province will pay 49.01 per cent on the educational programs.

The Digby Kinsmen were granted permission to hold a tag day on October 18.

A report from the Kinsmen in relation to the Cannon Bank building on Maiden Lane was presented to Council. To date they have spent $5180 on a furnace, insulation, etc. Plans are to winterize, paint, make a kitchen, etc. to a sum of $5000. Councillor Eileen Chipman suggested by motion, not seconded, that the Public Properties Committee should inspect the building but most councillors felt this was unnecessary. Councillor

Councillor Eileen Appointed To Board

Councillor Eileen Chipman on Monday evening at the regular Digby Town Council meeting was appointed to represent the town on the Digby General Hospital Board.

Reginald Hazelton refused to go, Councillor William Reid had been there and others had lack of time. The renovations mentioned in the Kinsmen's report were approved by Council.

A letter from R.C.M.P. Headquarters informed Council that there is not an R.C.M.P. available for additional police force for the town. Councillor Chipman said Digby has more problems than any other town. Deputy Mayor Philip Robertson disagreed. It was decided to write again to headquarters asking for another police when available.

By Council passing a resolution Deputy Mayor Robertson proclaimed October 5 - 11 as National Cadet Week in Digby.

Sing a Joyful Song AT THANKSGIVING

Wartime Brings People Together; Peacetime Should - CASEY

In wartime different nations and their people become instant friends and fellow workers by dire necessity and in their own defence. How unfortunate, Joe Casey M.L.A. said, that this same spirit of comradeship is not more evident during peacetime. Mr. Casey was delivering the inaugural address of Thursday evening at the Bridgetown High School Auditorium when the officers of Western Nova Multicultural Association were installed. Mr. Casey stressed the fact that all people should be big enough to put incidents of the past behind instead of using time and energy in hating. He urged the people to spend time looking forward rather than backward and harness together skills, trade, philosophies and cultures to create a better world in which to live. It seems strange, he said, that people have to be on the brink of disaster before they are able to overlook petty differences.

Mr. Casey saw the purpose in the Western Nova Multicultural Association in developing such an attitude. Races of people do not change, he remarked, it is just their attitude which changes.

The speaker in the inaugural address recalled the history of the Western Nova Multicultural Association which started out with a study committee of the Mental Health Association in Digby. The first conference was organized and held in September 1973. The organization was made possible by funding from the Department of the Secretary of State by a grant of $4,500. Since then the Department of the Secretary of State granted $20,000 to carry on a full year's program.

Mr. Casey said that a survey under a student community service program was made last summer which discovered many people of different cultures in the area. Knowing where these people live affords an opportunity to help in their needs or refer them to the place and person who can give assistance.

Highlight of the program was the installation of officers ceremony conducted by Gregg Donovan, Halifax, area director of the Multicultural Association for Nova Scotia. The Western Nova Multicultural Association officers installed were Mrs. Freida Balser, Digby, president; Mrs. Barbara Erjavec, Weymouth, vice-president and George Barton, Acaciaville, treasurer; Mrs. Judy Pearson, Bear River is secretary.

The program arranged by Rev. George Bell, Smith's Cove, co-ordinator for Western Nova Multicultural Association and the entire program was presided over by Judge Victor Cardoza of the Citizenship Court of Nova Scotia.

The guests and local audience were welcomed by His Worship Mayor J. Roy McIsaac, Bridgetown. He congratulated those responsible and who had the vision to establish such a profound and lasting contribution to the social life as the organizing of the Western Nova Multicultural Association. One nation, he said, could have a monopoly over another race or nation in commodities but that is not true when applied to culture. Many and varied cultures are blended into a composite culture in Canada.

Mr. Cardoza, as M.C., introduced special guests, Tony Onu of the Department of State, Ottawa; Mr. Donovan; Dr. Tony Johnson, Director of Ethnic Education at Dalhousie University; Victor Zahorsky, president of the Multicultural Association of Nova Scotia; Duncan L. Macnab, Public Education Officer of Nova Scotia Human Rights Commission, Halifax; Sam Bany, formerly of Digby, now meeting. The September bills of $18,400 were regularly passed for payment.

Councillor Eileen Chipman objected to Councillor Ellis not calling a meeting. Deputy Mayor Robertson reminded Mrs. Chipman that the finance committee meets one hour before the regular Council meeting. He was there he stated on Monday evening and Councillor Chipman, who is on the committee came there but left by 7:05. It only takes two for a meeting the Deputy said but he was the only one of the committee there.

A motion was passed that a Digby plaque be presented at the R.C.M.P. Band which will visit here in October 29th.

Glen Pitman, Town Clerk was given permission by council to attend a refresher course in Halifax on November 5, 6, and 7th.

Mr. Pitman reported that no replies had come to date on their L.I.P. Grants.

Mr. Pitman reported to Council that fuses were blowing out at the Town Hall. It was decided by motion to contact Richard Daley, electrician and have any necessary work done.

A survey of the trees along

Digby streets will be made by Frank Robinson, street superintendent. He will report to Council any dangerous trees, any limbs giving trouble and diseased trees. Removal will be held over for action in the New Year.

Fire Loss

Four calls were answered by the Digby Volunteer Firemen in the month of August, according to the report presented at the Digby Town Council on Monday evening by Councillor Guy VanTassell. Loss in property amounted to $14,445. Two fires were in Digby, one in Culloden and one in Conway.

Five calls were answered in September. One was at Conway, one at Marshalltown and two in Digby town. Loss amounted to $2,500.

Councillor VanTassell presented a bill of $351. for the delivery of water to institutions and residences during the water shut-off last week when a water main beneath the Racquette Bridge broke.

The town was notified that the Digby County Power Board had vacated the room in the old Fire Hall. E.M.O. has applied for renting the room and the Town Council is planning an assessment of the building to determine its possibilities for a Town Hall.

Council decided to purchase the body and hoist for the town truck for $2525. There was only one bid on the grader for sale. This was $526. The Council is accepting the offer.

Councillor Eileen Chipman reported that the town tourist bureau had more than 4000 visitors in 1975 against 2000 in 1974. Costs were $1200 as against $2933 in 1974. The bureau was left in an immaculate condition when closed. A letter of appreciation is to be sent to Mrs. E. B. Tufts, the curator.

Representatives of most municipalities across Nova Scotia attended the annual convention held in Halifax of the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities. What Constitutes A "Drinking Problem"?

The common factor in all drinking problems is the negative effect they have on the health or well-being of the drinker, and on his or her associates.

One authority in the alcohol problem field has suggested these criteria for drinking problems:

1. An one who must drink in order to function or to "cope" with life has a severe drinking problem.
2. Anyone who by his own personal definition, or that of his family and friends, frequently drinks to a state of intoxication has a drinking problem.
3. Anyone who goes to work intoxicated has a drinking problem.

4. Anyone who is intoxicated while driving a car has a drinking problem.

5. Anyone who sustains a bodily injury which requires medical attention as a consequence of an intoxicated state has a drinking problem.

6. Anyone who comes into conflict with the law as a consequence of an intoxicated state has a drinking problem.

7. Anyone who under the influence of alcohol, does something he avows he would never do without alcohol has a drinking problem. Committee on Drug Dependency Digby Local Ph. 245-4709.

Local Committee Drug Dependency Meets

Walter Black, Digby, was elected chairman on Wednesday evening when the Local Committee on Drug Dependency held the first meeting of the Fall season at the New Horizon Centre, Warwick Street.

Reports were presented by Albert Dugas on the Youth and Education Committee, Dr. Richard Denton of the Rehabilitation Committee; Mr. Black on Alcoholics Anonymous and Rev. George R. Bell, secretary treasurer.

Mr. Bell advised the group that the New Horizon's funds were diminishing and it would be necessary for them to charge $10. for the use of building.

Plans were made by the Youth and Education Committee to secure a film suitable for ages 12-18 years and circulate in different areas.

Dr. Denton in making his report said that alcohol was the major problem in this area and attention should be given to this phase of the work. Discussion followed on the possibility of using the old Digby hospital as a detoxification centre. It was noted that besides having beds available there would also have to be staff.

The first twenty-four hours following a person's discharge from an institution is important, it was stated. It is necessary that an effective follow-up program be planned.

The next meeting of the Drug Dependency meeting will be the fourth Tuesday in October.

Need No Government Structure

Women's Inst uses of Nova Scotia does not agree that a government structure devoted to the concerns of women in this province is required.

In a statement released today, W.I. N.S. president Phyllis Nixon said she was surprised at the Task Force recommendation. The W. I. members, she said, applauded the government's actions in establishing the Task Force to look into the status of women in the province, and are hopeful that government will act quickly on their recommendations. We do not feel the government needs a watchdog to make certain this is done.

Rather than establish an on-going structure, she said, the Task Force's report to government should include reasonable dates of implementation with each recommendation. These can be adequately dealt with through existing government departments. At a time when we are all being asked to hold the line on expenses, Mrs. Nixon said, the WINS feels that money which would go towards supporting an on-going structure can be better spent on implementing the Task Force's recommendations.

We would like to see the Nova Scotia government provide leadership to the rest of Canada by acting on the recommendations as quickly as possible. It is to their benefit and the benefit of all Nova Scotians, to eliminate injustice wherever it exists. We see no reason why Nova Scotia should follow the example of other jurisdictions by establishing a government agency to deal solely with women's concerns. They have not proven to be as successful in effecting change and providing leadership as it had been hoped they would be after the Royal Commission on the Status of Women tabled their report. Exec. Secy. WINS.

A Thought Starter

A LOOK AT MAN
(Rev. R. C. MacCormack)

People are so common that they may not impress us any more. Stop to think of it, a human being is a remarkable form of life. Other living things are well put together, but man is special.

Think of the human brain. Its ability to remember, to plan, and to invent; and to reason and wonder is nothing short of a miracle.

The thoughtful person considers how we got started on this planet. Was it an accident of nature, or by the careful planning of a master designer? Here are two schools of thought each with many followers.

Personally, I am convinced that someone bigger than man arranged our creation; also that mere chance leaves too much to speculation. Man wasn't here to do it anyway. Someone bigger than you and I arranged the whole thing, and made us tick by His creative will. When the whole job was finished the creature was expected to worship His Creator, and at

Wayne Maxner New Hawks Coach

By Joe Knycha

Wayne Maxner, one of Nova Scotia's most renowned hockey players, has agreed to be the playing coach of the Bridgetown Hawks of the Nova Scotia Senior Hockey League, this year.

The former leftwinger for the Boston Bruins, and coach for teams across Canada and the United States, begins a training camp at the Bridgetown arena, Friday, Oct. 10.

All positions are open and a large turnout of team hopefuls is expected.

The camp will run from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m. Friday; 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday; and Sunday from 12 noon to 2 p.m.

The 32-year-old Maxner began his professional career when he was drafted by the Boston Bruins organization in 1963, when only six teams composed the National Hockey League.

During the 1964-65 season, he played for Minneapolis and for the Oakland Seals of the Western Hockey League from 1965 to 67.

In his first year with the Seals, he scored 20 goals in 22 games.

Late in the summer of 1968, he broke his ankle while playing fastball in Halifax, and was unable to play hockey that year.

During the winter, the Halifax native coached the Halifax Junior Canadians who won the Maritime Junior A title.

In the next two years, Maxner played for the Eastern League with the Long Island Ducks and in the 1971-72 season played for and coached the Gander Flyers of the Newfoundland Senior Hockey League.

He ended that year with 128 points from 40 games.

He coached a team in Sweden in 1972-73, but terminated his contract when offered to play for Springfield, of the American Hockey League. While playing for Springfield, Maxner played in his hometown against the Voyageurs.

He coached the Windsor Spitfires of the Southern Ontario Junior A League in 1973-74. The team finished first in the league.

He coached for the Gander team again in 1974-75. The Flyers that year won the Newfoundland Championships and the Atlantic Provinces Title.

teams. These boys will also have one hour's practice time paid for by Minor Hockey. An hour per week has also been set aside for the instruction of goal tenders. This year registration fees have been raised to $20.00 per boy with a maximum of $50.00 per family. With the amount of ice-time each boy will receive this year, the hourly cost is 35 cents, so for his $20.00 he is receiving the benefit of a well planned programme, and lots of fun and exercise.

The executive feels that no where can any boy receive these benefits at such a small cost.

A hockey and skating clinic and a Level 1 and II Coaches Clinic is being planned for the beginning of the season. A referee's Clinic is planned for later. It is hoped that all coaches and referees will take advantage of these clinics. In charge of these programmes are Reg Hazelton, 1st Vice President, and Don HaHie, Head Coach.

Scotia Summer Scene

"Scotia Summer Scene" is the title of the latest booklet of poems composed by the late Mrs. Myra Ellis and published by her sons, Pastor A. Bayce Spooner and Harold Spooner. The Scotia Summer Scene title was chosen because of the number of poems written about Nova Scotia or written while the author was there. Pastor Spooner says there will be one more issue "The Fall Scene". That will complete a set of four. The rest of his mother's poems not published will be copied into a complete set of those not in the booklets to be distributed among the children and grand-children and a complete set of the booklets and all other Myra Ellis' poems will be in the pastor's library. Pastor Spooner acknowledges the assistance of his wife, Gladys, in doing the typing. The latest booklet "Scotia Summer Scene" begins with the poem "Digby Neck".

Digby Neck

One of Nova Scotia's fingers fell in quest upon the sea, found it fair, and ever lingers where tides flow strong and free. Strength and length lie in its bending,— rocky hills and fragrant groves; like a story's happy ending, nestle many coves. One who walked upon the ocean, walks in glory now, as then; loving all, in deep devotion, first He called His fishermen. Though upon life's mighty ocean this may be a tiny speck, I have yet the dreamer's notion That my Lord loves Digby Neck

U.S.S.R. And Canada Agree On Fisheries

The Minister of State for Fisheries of Canada, the Honourable Romeo LeBlanc, and the First Vice-Minister of Fisheries for the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Mr. V. M. Kamentsev, announced that officials of the Canadian and Soviet Governments have elaborated a bilateral agreement on fisheries matters.

The agreement will now be referred to the two Governments for their consideration and approval. It provides for the establishment of a Canada-USSR Joint Fisheries Consultative Commission and the appointment of a Soviet fisheries official in Halifax. These arrangements are intended to strengthen bilateral fisheries co-operation between the two countries in the Northwest Atlantic.

Mr. LeBlanc also announced that Canada's Atlantic ports will be open to vessels of the Soviet fishing fleet, in accordance with relevant Canadian laws and regulations, as of September 29, 1975.

Mr. Kamentsev expressed satisfaction with these developments. He stated that the USSR supports the principle of rational, scientifically-based utilization of fishery resources and shares Canada's concern regarding the urgent conservation needs of the fish stocks of the Northwest Atlantic, and indicated that the Soviet delegation supports Canada's proposals for a reduction in fishing effort and lower total allowable catches for certain stocks of ground fish in critical condition, as well as appropriate allocations of allowable catches among countries. These proposals are now being considered by the International Commission for the Northwest Atlantic Fisheries (ICNAF).

In accordance with the Agreed Record of Understanding issued after the Canada-USSR fisheries talks of August 25 to 27, 1975, Mr. LeBlanc and Mr. Kamentsev reaffirmed the readiness of the two Governments to have their officials meet at an early opportunity in order to consider the elaboration of a further bilateral agreement on fisheries co-operation.

Fire Prevention Program

Digby firemen began their Fire Prevention Week program on Tuesday morning by an evacuation practice at St. Patrick's Elementary School and the Queen St. Elementary School. The Digby Regional High School was not in the program as they have had recent evacuations for other purposes.

On Wednesday an evacuation was held at the Digby General Hospital. Demonstrations on the kinds

The Annapolis-Digby United Baptist Association recorded the largest attendance at a fall meeting on Saturday, October 4, when the Association met at the Smith's Cove United Baptist Church.

Rev. Murray Shaw, Digby, opened the morning session by leading in congregational singing and presented a devotion on the theme, "Your Ministry," with text: 1 Corinthians 3:9 - "Laborers together with God." Miss Joanne Frankland, Bay View, organist.

and uses of fire extinguishers were held also stand pipe demonstrations. Included in the demonstrations was that of oil fire extinguishers.

The Digby firemen hope to make all their inspection of businesses before the end of the week.

On Saturday evening the fireman's banquet with invited guests and speakers will be held.

No church services were included in the 1975 program.

Hold Association At Smith's Cove

Rev. Wallace H. Jordon, moderator and pastor of the host church, welcomed the delegates and visitors who filled the church sanctuary.

Following this brief opening portion, the men dispersed to the Smith's Cove Fire Hall, originally the Old Baptist Meeting House, where the Moderator led in a time of personal sharing. A report on the Men's Work was given by Hugh Willett, Granville Centre, and Thurston Banks, Smith's Cove. Matters of Convention and Association concluded this session.

The Women's Missionary Society remained in the church and were led in an inspirational call to worship by the President, Mrs. George P. Allen, Bridgetown. Special music was presented by the Digby Ladies Trio (Jean Brittain and Heather Steeves, Digby; Peggy Rose and Dorothy Pierce, Pianist, Port Maitland). Mrs. Garnett Adams warmly welcomed those present and the response was given by Mrs. Olga Denton, Sandy Cove.

The address was given by Miss Marjorie Gates, Halifax, president of UB-WMU Atlantic Provinces.

During the business session that followed the address, the secretary, Mrs. Ritson Longmire, Milford, recorded 127 ladies present. Mrs. C.P. Gilliat, Granville Centre, welcomed Mrs. Robert Crosthwaite, Lower Granville, Mrs. Paul Legge, Clementsvale, and Mrs. Robert Matthews, Annapolis Royal, wives of new ministers in Association churches since the spring meeting.

The Nominating Committee report, given at the afternoon session, was presented by Miss Sue Winchester, Smith's Cove, with the new slate of officers as: President, Mrs. Clyde Denton, Little River; Vice-President, Mrs. J. J. Brittain, Digby; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. R.M. Winchester, Smith's Cove.

At the afternoon session, reports from committees on Radio and Housing, Commissions on Training, Missions and Witnessing were heard. Also a new Constitution was presented and adopted. Dr. Freeman

Fenerty, Kentville, was guest speaker and presented a "Challenge to Christians."

Dr. G. P. Allen, Bridgetown, opened the evening session with a lively hymn sing. Dr. Harold Mitten, Principal of Acadia Divinity College, was guest speaker.

Association licenses were granted to Lic. Robert Crosthwaite, Lower Granville, Lic. Joe Umidi, Mount Hanley, and Lic. Brian Harpell, Halifax.

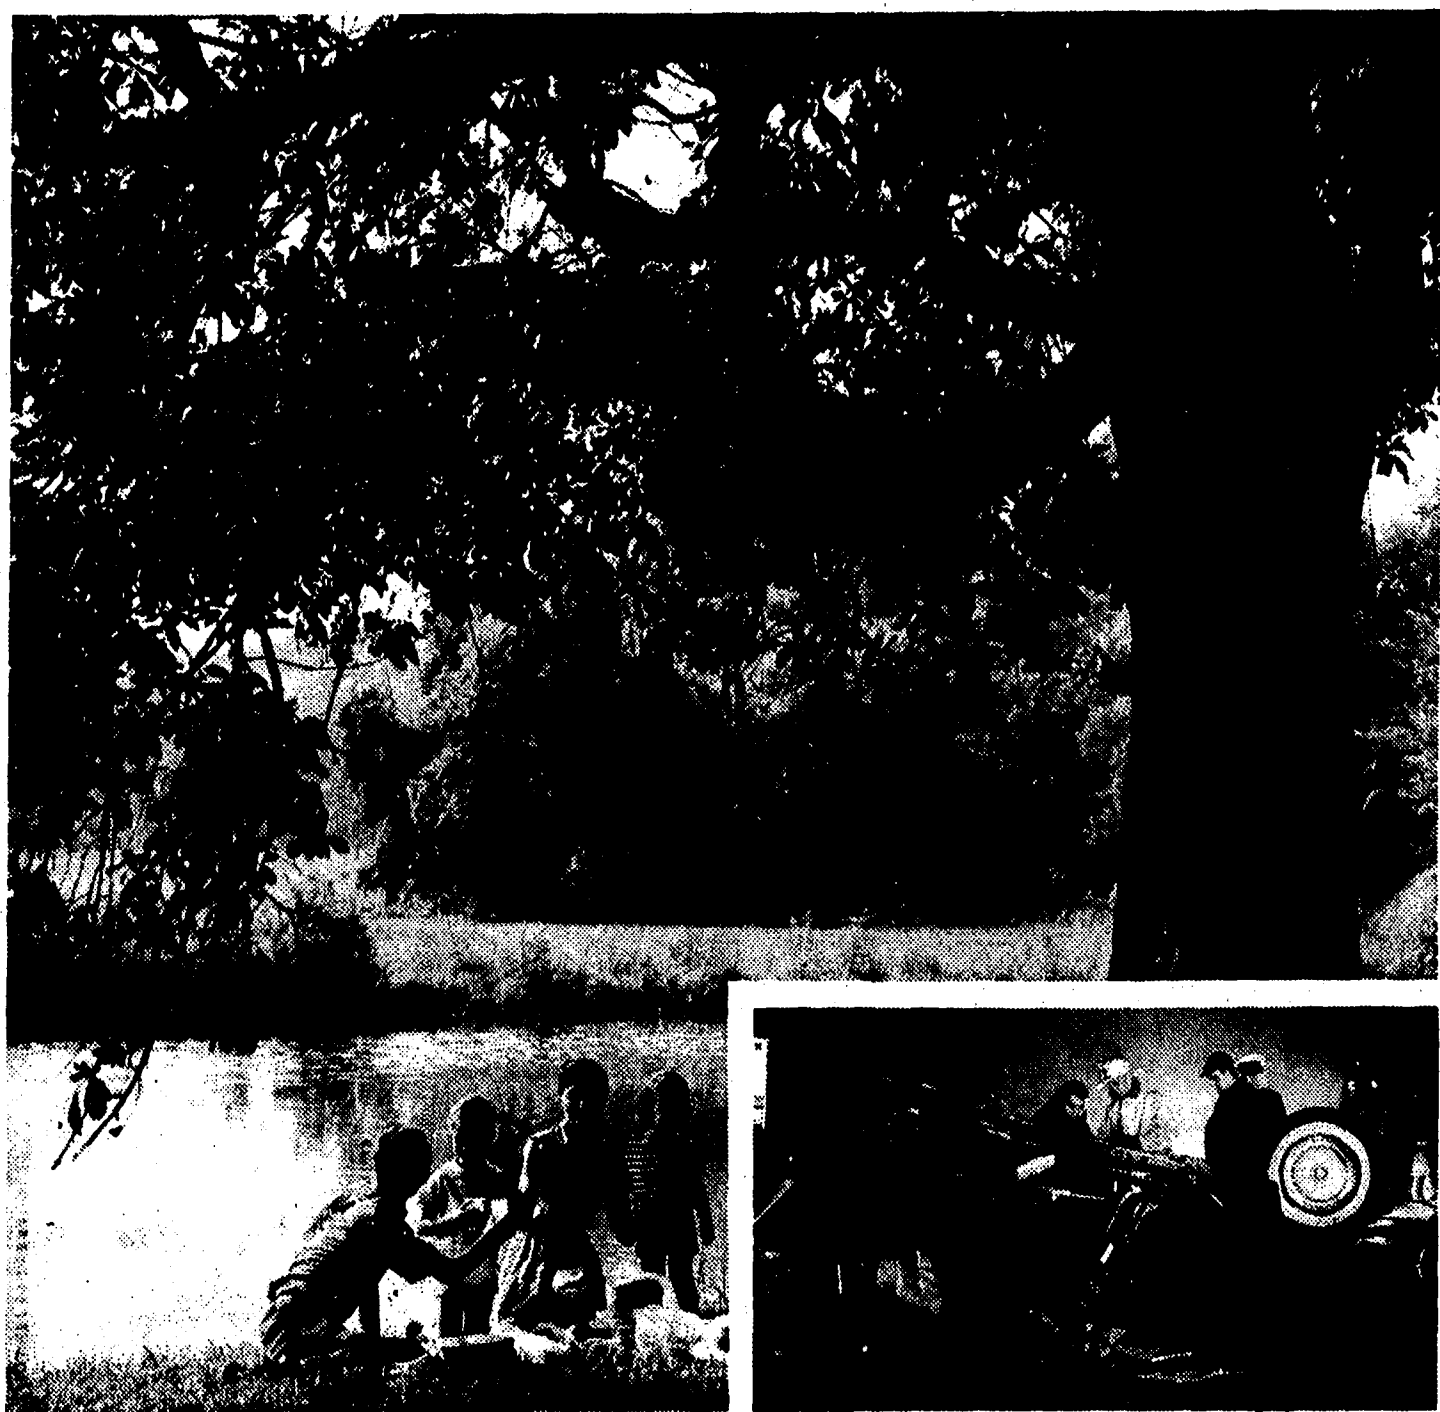

The "Summer of Service '75" youth team, under the direction of Lic. Joe Umidi, presented a resume of their experiences with team leaders, Lic. Brian Harpell, Mary Lee Wilson and Marie Umidi, in their outreach during the summer months.

Dinner for the delegates and visitors at noon was served by the ladies of the Clementsport Baptist W.M.S. and Deep Brook Baptist Dorcas Society. The evening meal was served by the ladies of the Smith's Cove Baptist Auxiliary.

This long weekend could be your last weekend.

During the long weekends last year, 22 people were killed on Nova Scotia roads.

Who killed them?
The biggest single cause of traffic accidents is inattention on the part of the driver.

It's a fact that about 50% of all traffic fatalities involve drinking drivers. Think about it. And realize that you just can't afford to relax until you get where you're going.

Early Detection Saves Lives And Property

Almost two thirds of all fires occur in the home, many in the early morning hours. A simple fire warning device can save the lives of your family.

Only a year ago a fire broke out in a basement closet of a very fine house in Ontario. An expensive fire warning system had been installed to rouse the family and signal the fire department if the temperature at any of 15 points reached 135 degrees fahrenheit. It never went off. But a $59.95 smoke detector erected early in 1974 sounded its raucous signal as did 4 others still in their cartons in the basement. A little smoke triggered the detectors and helped save the lives of the parents and their 5 children.

Although it is unwise to specify any single fire detection system without looking very closely at the details of each situation smoke detectors are steadily winning favour with an increasing number of Canadian home owners. Compactly designed, inexpensive and comparatively easy to install, a number of different models are highly recommended by fire departments.

Early warning is of vital importance and it should be recognized there are four stages to a fire situation. First the incipient stage where no visible smoke, flame or significant heat have developed. Then the smouldering stage when smoke is seen and toxic gases are beginning to generate but without flame or appreciable heat. This is followed by the third or flame stage wherein the volume of smoke may recede as the amount of heat rises. And finally the heat stage where heat, flame, smoke and toxic gases are very evident. You now have a full scale fire raging with all its perils to lives and property.

There are at least four distinctive types of detectors. All perform a function under certain situations but we are dealing with early warnings for fires in the home. Smoke detectors are widely recommended for this purpose.

Thermal or heat detectors as they are commonly known usually only operate when heat at the ceiling level has reached 135 degrees fahrenheit, while the flame detector "senses" light from the flicker of the flames or fire. Both these types are good under certain conditions. The smoke detectors, however, are designed to become operational earlier in the fire cycle. The photo electric type triggers at stage 2 and sounds its warning when visible smoke is present. The "products of combustion" design, sometimes known as ionization detectors, respond at the incipient or fire stage of a fire before even the smoke really becomes apparent.

Both these smoke detector types can serve the home owner or apartment dweller well. Retailing at under $80.00 and in some places for appreciably less, they are compactly constructed, gracefully designed and generally mounted on the ceiling adjacent to the bedrooms. If the bedrooms are on different levels two units are recommended. Many of these smoke detectors can be line powered, that is wired into household circuits, others are battery operated. Similar to all new appliances, instructions should be carefully followed.

Fire can break out fast and one key to safety is "an early warning." A smoke detector is an inexpensive investment well worth considering for your home. Make sure it's listed and labelled by the Underwriters Laboratories of Canada.

Firemen Blame Alarm Delay For Deaths In House Fire

Delays in calling the fire department have tragic consequences.

A man and a woman would be alive today if there hadn't been a 15-minute delay in calling fire-fighters to a blazing four-story rooming house.

The blaze began when a chesterfield caught fire in the basement through careless smoking. Residents thought they had put out the fire but less than an hour later, the chesterfield burst into flames and spread, blocking a centre stairway.

A taxi driver later told fire officials he watched for 15 minutes as people fled the building. He assumed the fire department had been alerted. When he realized no one had done this, he notified the cab company dispatcher on his two-way radio.

Fire department spokesman said "Far too often people take it for granted someone else has turned in the alarm. People shouldn't take this chance."

Fire. Do you really think it can't happen to you.

over into wooden boxes.

Whether the stove be in your country cabin, cottage or home, it's advisable to have your installation checked by a knowledgeable person and have him advise you as to proper use of the damper and how to safely bed the fire down for the night. These stoves present the double hazard of overheating or generating toxic gases. If your wood stove is new to you, you may be glad you checked; if it's an old one, it's probably time you did.

Wood Burning Stoves Back In?

Rising fuel costs and the concern about fuel shortages may be bringing the old time coal or woodburning stoves back in fashion.

Today's generation, however, is not really familiar with this style of heating and old line hazards again rear their dangerous heads. This type of stove must be properly vented to outside the home. A knowledge of proper dampering is essential and over-heated stove pipes can present a real source of danger. Insulation at the back or sides of such stoves must also be considered. Some require special heat insulation from the floor.

All heating plants, pipes or appliances should be at least 18 inches away from any combustible wall or burnable material. Heaters, including stoves, should be on insulated metal, cement or other non-combustible bases. Walls and ceilings near stoves should be protected by asbestos sheeting or other insulating material listed by Underwriters' Laboratories of Canada. Consult the Fire Prevention Bureau of your fire department for advice if needed.

Chimneys should be cleaned every year, and repaired promptly when cracks or loose mortar appear. Never "force" a furnace to get more heat and consult your heating man about safely increasing its efficiency. Always empty hot ashes into metal containers -

Numismatists Meet

On Thursday evening, September 25, a group of interested numismatists met at the Smith's Cove Fire Hall to discuss the feasibility of forming a Coin & Stamp Club. Present, not only from the Smith's Cove area, were several people from Bear River, Deep Brook, Digby, Clementsport, CFB Cornwallis and Granville Ferry. L. E. R. Winchester was named to chair this first meeting.

It was agreed that this effort should be promoted in this area and plans went forward to hold the next meeting at the Fire Hall on October 16 at 8 p.m. At that time, it has been proposed to select the officers and directors and deal with other organizational details with the emphasis on promoting interest of younger people in this age-old hobby. If you are interested, a friendly welcome awaits you and others you may care to bring along to the meeting.

Smith's Cove (Phyllis S. Winchester)

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rogers have returned to their home in Sudbury, Ontario, after visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Young, and family for a week. While here, Mrs. Rogers made the acquaintance of her nephew, Lucas (Luke) Miller. Mrs. Rogers is the former Roselyn Young.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Wolfe, Delta, B.C. were guests of Mrs. Wolfe's aunt, Miss Katherine Weir, this past week. The Wolfes began their trip home on Tuesday, September 23.

Mr. and Mrs. John Oikle and son, Craig, spent the past weekend at The Ovens and Lunenburg Exhibition. The community's population was again increased this past week with the arrival of Laurie Catherine Durling, born September 17, Digby General Hospital. Her big sister, Lisa, is waiting to welcome her home along with father, Randy Durling. Fred Raymond un-

While there Mrs. D'Ambrose celebrated her seventy-sixth Birthday, August 8th at a family dinner party, all present. A Thought Starter

SLAVES OR MASTERS

This is the machine age, and I am glad to live in it. What would we do without our muscle-saving Devices? Every year, or more often, a Gadget comes into the average home which the owner proudly declares to be a time-saver. How did our grandfathers manage to live and find time to do the work which is done for us automatically? How did they break the soil and rear large families without a tractor or an electric washing machine? Yet, our forefathers had time to pray. They had time for family devotions together, and they took time to walk through forest paths to attend church. They had time to befriend their children, and time for genuine hearty good neighborliness. We have saved time but what has become of the time we save? Few families can manage to get together for family devotions, church services are streamlined to suit the rushing worshippers, and neighbors have little time to visit back and forth. Parents and children rarely sit down together and visit an evening in the family room, especially with the TV turned off. What has happened? Why can't we settle down and enjoy this wonderful life which science has given us? Ponder this question. Are people today the slaves or the masters of this machinery? If they are the masters, then the machine age is a blessing. If slaves, then we need to wake up and start living as God intended. Who is our Lord? Is it science or is it the Living God?

Hall Fund. The hall has now been completely renovated. Last year the inside was panelled and kitchen enlarged. Miss Vera Gidney donated a fridge for the kitchen. This year the outside has been shingled and painted and all this made possible by those who helped with the card parties - either by attending, or helping to donate cake and sandwiches for the refreshments.

When the outside work was starting many men from the community came and gave a days work at the frolics. They also enjoyed a supper served them by several of the ladies. New toilet facilities have also been made at the hall

Mrs. Hall Addresses Church Group

Mrs. Foster Hall, Bear River, area vice-president for the Valley Presbyterial of the United Church of Canada, was guest speaker on Tuesday evening when the Digby Grace United Church Women began their Fall session with a Thanksgiving program.

The business and program prepared by Mrs. Bryson Denton, treasurer, was presided over by the president, Mrs. Benjamin Height. Others assisting in the program were Mrs. Isabel Harris, prayer; Mrs. J.M. Wallis, scripture; Mrs. Ronald Stevens, reading and prayer and Mrs. Vincent Snow, pianist. Mrs. William Reid is secretary.

Mrs. Hall divided her contribution to the program into three parts, a Food For Thought meditation, information and music. The meditation dealt with ministry which she said was based on thankfulness and expression of gratitude. The United Church women have a ministry, she remarked and they are servants for Jesus laboring together with God.

Mrs. Hall announced the Fall Rally of the Presbyterial to be held in Kingston, N.S. on Saturday. She informed the women on the South Shore Rally which drew three-hundred from varied parts of the province. She spoke on the Church's Youth Exchange in which one hundred young persons were involved.

The speaker displayed a recent copy of the publication Combo.

Speaking of the Mission work, Mrs. Hall informed the women that while many of the missionaries to Angola had returned home, there is still a need for the knitted bandages and urged the women to continue supplying them.

Mrs. Hall's third part of her program was used to have a sing-song of hymns and songs which were to be sung at the Rally on Saturday.

During the business plans meeting plans were made for a Rummage Sale on October 24 and a Christmas Turkey Supper on November 28. It was decided to have the Digby Branch Canadian Red Cross meet in the United Church Hall for their annual meeting on October 22.

Mrs. Stevens asked for volunteers to collect some areas for the British and Canadian Bible Society. A meeting of the Digby Branch was to have been held on Monday evening but there were not sufficient people attending to carry on the meeting.

Mooney Willing To Develop New Giant Structures

"We as a government are prepared to sit down and develop new grant structures, grants that accommodate the problems of municipalities, grants with built-in escalations so that no one will have to come with hat in hand," the minister of municipal affairs, Hon. J. Fraser Mooney, told the opening session of the 70th Annual Meeting of the Union Of Nova Scotia Municipalities.

"The grants will be written into the legislation."

Mr. Mooney dealt with what he termed the major concern of the municipalities - those items which are not written into proposed legislation now under active discussion by a special committee of the Union Of Municipalities and the Department Of Municipal Affairs.

"Lawyers and Legislative Counsels," Mr. Mooney said, "demand everything in black and white. Politicians are governed not only by legislation but also by policy statements."

The minister said that if those analyzing the proposed legislation dealing with municipal reform would take both the bills as presented in the Legislature and the policy statements made at the time of presentation, they would very clearly see that the intent of the government is not to weaken municipalities but to strengthen them.

Mr. Mooney said that the government is not only willing but is anxious to look at alternative suggestions to the proposed reform legislation.

These, he said, must be practical, acceptable alternatives that will accommodate government policy of relief of the tax burden and guarantee that any tax saving is passed on to the municipal residential taxpayer.

The minister said that the government is not attempting to thrust the reform legislation down the throats of anyone with haste. "We recognize the need for study in this area," he said.

In dealing with another contentious issue surrounding the proposed legislation, Mr. Mooney said that the matter of budget scrutiny was not proposed as a step toward elimination of municipal government.

"The province has no intention of lessening municipal autonomy," he added. "The Provincial Government will be infusing more dollars into this program. This government would therefore want a guarantee that this new money will not be eaten up in grossly extending old programs or initiating massive new programs until such time as a grant structure can be stabilized.

"It is anticipated that these new dollars will help to relieve the tax burden."

Mr. Mooney said that one-third of the municipalities have a surveillance done now on regular budgets and over two-thirds of the municipalities have had their budgets scrutinized for capital programs.

"I ask them if such an exercise has caused them discomfort?" He continued, "I ask them if, in such an exercise, has the Department Of Municipal Affairs set their local priorities? I ask them if such an exercise has been an embarrassment? He concluded.

Mr. Mooney said that municipal reform, municipal budget pressure and concern for rising property taxes have been a number one priority of the government since taking office and will continue to be.

He said that all practical alternatives to the way government has approached major changes will be studied and assessed. Already proposals had been made by the Municipalities' Study Committee and these were under review.

"During changes that we both agree are needed," Mr. Mooney said, "there is the demand to appreciate the aspirations of one another and mutually seek to find satisfactory conclusions with tolerance, understanding and goodwill."

Mrs. Hutchins Re-Elected Society President

Previous to the regular monthly meeting of the Admiral Digby Horticultural Society, the annual meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Donald Logan, with Mrs. B. Hutchins, President, presiding. Twenty-five members, two guests and two new members were present.

At the completion of the annual reports, Mrs. K. Daley, on behalf of the nominating committee, presented a slate of officers for the coming year. President:-Mrs. Nancy Hutchins Vice-President:-Miss Mary Marshall Secretary:-Nettie Grimmer Corr. Secretary:-Miss Marjory Tupper Treasurer:-Miss Mary Robert

In reviewing the past year, Mrs. Hutchins said the many projects undertaken by the Garden Club were successful, considering the dry summer.

All areas under the care of the Garden Club were well cared for and had been kept bright with a variety of flowers during the summer.

Annual reports were given by the various committees in charge of the Admiral Digby Park, Loyalist Cemetery, the garden at the former Tourist Bureau, the Library window boxes and the large concrete planters facing the post office.

It was with regret that the organization was unable to continue with the garden at the War Memorial but it is understood that the Royal Canadian Legion will take over the project.

Girl Guides had ably assisted in keeping the weeds under control at the Admiral Digby Park. The Guides are now offering their services to anyone needing leaves raked. If garbage bags are provided the girls will fill them, well packed, for ten cents each.

Prior to the regular meeting, Miss Marjorie MacCormack was present to explain the aims of a Recreation Commission, a committee of the Town Council, set up to administer funds for worthwhile recreation and funded partially by the Provincial Government.

The Garden Club already has been included in the project and a grant given to carry on the work in helping to keep the Town beautiful or to undertake other projects which are connected with a horticultural society. Mrs. Hutchins thanked Miss MacCormack for coming to the meeting and informing the members of the plans of the Commission. In opening the regular meeting, Mrs. Hutchins said that she would be pleased to carry on with the office of President for the coming year.

The usual reports were given and approved. It was learned that the Year Book compiled by Miss Mabel Marshall and Miss Marjory Tupper had won second place in competition at the annual N.S.A.G.C. at Truro in August. The book was awarded 596 points out of a possible 600.

Bruce Gilliat reported a meeting concerning the Dutch Elm disease will be held on October 10 or November.

Mrs. Louise Stephen remarked on the success of the geraniums in the concrete planters facing the Post Office. It is hoped next summer the blossoms will be even more striking.

Members are asked to care for the plants over the winter months so an ample supply of geraniums will be available next season for use in other areas under the care of Garden Club members.

The business meeting was adjourned and refreshments served by Mrs. Logan assisted by members.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Miss Marjory Tupper.

Status Of Women

Chief among the issues to surface at the N.S. Task Force on the Status Of Women Public Hearings has been the Status Of The Homemaker.

"The consensus seems to be that there is a need for basic attitudinal change towards the homemaking and parenting functions in society," Task Force Chairperson, Dr. Mairi St. John MacDonald said today.

"Women in the Labor Force, The Status Of The Homemaker and The Volunteer have come up again and again in the past hearings," Dr. MacDonald said, "and we expect to be hearing more during this coming session."

Nine public hearings will be undertaken beginning September 18. The Task Force has already held 11 public hearings since their appointment in April, as well as numerous private meetings with groups and individuals across the province.

"It is clear from what we have heard thus far," Dr. MacDonald said, "that we must look again at the multiplicity of skills required for competent homemaking and that we must recognize its value to society both in practical and monetary terms."

Lack of proper career counselling for high school girls has also come in for a great deal of criticism, Dr. MacDonald said. Career stereotyping is only one of the problems that face the woman who works, whether out of choice or necessity. Experience gained by women in voluntary work should also be taken into consideration when they return to the labor force and efforts should be made to make the transition easier.

One matter of major concern to women attending the hearings, Dr. MacDonald said, is the enforcement of the "equal pay for equal work" provisions of the Labor Standards code.

"A desire has also been expressed that 'equal pay for work of equal value' provisions should be adopted, as the British Government has proposed recently," she said.

"Women represent a great deal of potential to Nova Scotia and Canada," Dr. MacDonald said. "If equality of opportunity is to become a reality for both sexes, allowing each to share in the responsibilities of society as well as its privileges, we must rethink some of our basic premises."

The Task Force will conclude its public hearings October 30th in Halifax. Deadline for mailed briefs will be November 17, Dr. MacDonald said.

This year pheasant hunting prospects again look excellent in the Valley. Reports from observers in various parts of Kings County indicate a high number of young birds. And while it probably isn't significant, the flocks I observed appeared to have a higher ratio of cock birds.

A few days ago I was talking with upland game biologist Neil Van Nostrand about the pheasant hunting appeared that a good hunting season was in the offing - that is, good in the sense that there would be plenty of birds. In the season that followed, the pheasant harvest was up over the previous year in the Annapolis Valley. Throughout the rest of the province the

Your Monies Worth In Foods A New Program

The Honourable Jack Hawkins, Nova Scotia's Minister of Agriculture and Marketing, announced Monday, a new program, "Your Monies Worth in Foods". This is an educational and training program, directed to the food buyer and will involve the use of television, radio, newspapers, workshops and community organization in teaching the skills necessary to obtain the most value from food dollars.

In announcing this new Program, the Minister stated the main responsibility of the Department of Agriculture and Marketing is to the farmers of this province. We have a firm commitment to provide services, education and training, to present and future farmers.

However, the Department of Agriculture, also has an interest in those people who buy our Nova Scotia food products, and it is for this reason that we are promoting an educational program on food purchasing.

Their participation gives us every confidence that this will be a successful program, said Mr. Hawkins.

Gordon Gets The Bear

Gordon Wilson with the Department of Lands & Forests, Hillgrove, brought down the bear at Gilbert Cove which was giving Bob Torrey lots of trouble. The bear, as all bears are, was fond of honey and so he raided Mr. Torrey's beehives.

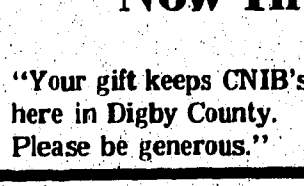

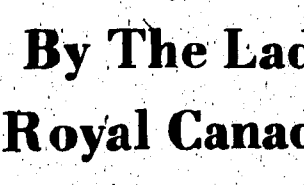

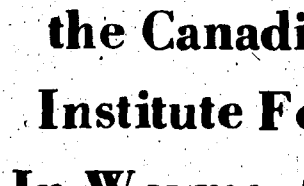

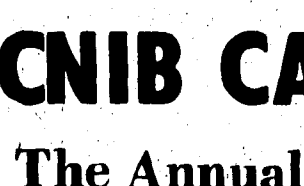

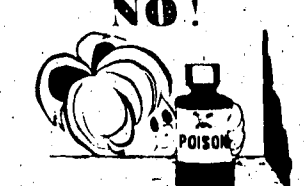

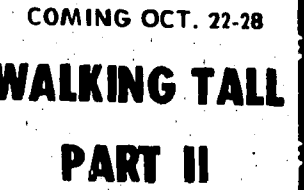

The bear attacked all sixteen of Mr. Torrey's hives, destroying or eating all the honey. An estimated 100 pounds was lost, in addition to at least 50 percent of the equipment.

The bear, which weighed 275 pounds when dressed, appeared Saturday and again Sunday. Mr. Torrey phoned the Department of Lands and Forests Monday morning and up on their arrival in the afternoon four traps were set. By 10:30 p.m. the bear was caught and shot.

Mr. Torrey, who has been keeping bees for a number of years, hopes to repair some of the broken hives and get reimbursed by the government for his loss. It was his first encounter with bears, and hopefully his last.

Promote Food Buying Skills

A new program entitled "Your Monies Worth In Foods" directed at the consumer is being launched by the Department of Agriculture and Marketing. Agriculture Minister Jack Hawkins announced at a news conference.

Designed as an educational program, Mr. Hawkins said it will involve the use of television, radio, newspapers, workshops and community organizations in teaching food buyers the skills necessary to obtain the most value from food dollars.

Aims of the program, the minister said, are to increase the use of Nova Scotia Food Products, to teach homemakers and others about the production, marketing, preservation and preparation of food and to teach the housewives ways and means of obtaining the most value from their food dollars.

Mr. Hawkins said the program was being offered without any increase in budget or personnel using services of all branches of the department co-ordinated by the Home Economics division.

The agriculture minister said the program would benefit farmers in the province by making the consumer aware of the producing capabilities of farmers and encouraging the use of Nova Scotia Food products.

Following is the text of Mr. Hawkins' statement:

The main responsibility of the Department of Agriculture and Marketing is to the farmers of this province. We have a firm commitment to provide services, education and training, to present and future farmers.

The Department of Agriculture, however, also has an interest in those people who buy our Nova Scotia food products, and it is for this reason that we are promoting an educational program on food purchasing, food selection and preparation to be known as "Your Monies Worth In Foods".

The purpose of this program is:

A. To increase the use of Nova Scotia food products.
B. To teach homemakers and others about the production, marketing preservation and preparation of food.
C. To teach the housewife ways and means of obtaining the most value from their food dollars.

This new program, "Your Monies Worth In Foods", is an educational training program, directed to the food buyer and will involve the use of television, radio, newspapers, workshops and community organization in teaching the skills necessary to obtain the most value from food dollars.

The Women's Institutes of Nova Scotia have offered their assistance to organize workshops on a regional basis in this province. We appreciate their co-operation in taking a positive approach to this program. We value the long and close relationship which we have had with the Women's Institutes. Their participation gives us every confidence that this will be a successful program.

This program will, of course, be of benefit to Nova Scotia farmers in that we will be making the consumer aware of the excellent food producing capabilities of our farmers and will encourage the use of Nova Scotia food products.

This service is being provided without any increase in budget or personnel, but is the result of a redirection of emphasis within the home economics group.

To give you more details of this three-point program, emphasis will be on information which will include Nova Scotia produced foods and the selection of foods to meet the family's nutritional needs.

We will use the services of all branches of the Department to provide the food buyer with detailed information on storage, grades and availability of Nova Scotia products.

Our Home Economists, under the supervision of Brenda Gorman, will be co-operating with community groups, with exhibitions, and, will be available to provincial groups to provide them with information on economical food purchases. They will assist these organizations to disseminate factual information to the general public.

Ms. Gorman will be using the television services of the CBC. Her first topic will be "Spending The Food Dollar". Other topics she will be discussing include "Food Shopping Is A Business", "Regional Differences In Food Costs", "Know Your Food Costs", "Random Vs Planned Shopping", along with similarly related topics.

The Home Economist will be making information available to local residents on topics such as food preservation, food preparation, packaging and grades, buying guide for home planning, along with information on the availability of local produce. Many of these same topics will be discussed in co-operation with Women's Institutes at Regional Workshop Meetings.

To increase knowledge of buying skills, our Home Economists will be emphasizing the need to retain the nutritional values of foods during preparation and maintain readily available information on studies from Nutrition Canada and other organizations that generally do research in the area of Nutrition, buying, storage, and selection of food products for good nutrition.

I would encourage the members of the news media in this province to take an active part in this program, because many family budgeters depend on you for up-to-date information and through this program, we will make every effort to see that factual information is readily available for you to distribute to Nova Scotia Food Buyers.

Support Local Airport Service Proposal

The Council of Maritime Premiers announced its support for the Application of Eastern Provincial Airways to operate an integrated local air service in the Maritime provinces. That application has recently been filed with the Canadian Transport Commission.

Local air service has been the subject of study by ministers responsible for transportation policy in the Maritime provinces. They have recommended to the premiers the basic requirements of a local air service to supplement the national and regional service provided by Air Canada and EPA respectively. Its purpose is primarily to facilitate air travel within the region but it would also provide connections from a large number of smaller communities to the long distance flights in and out of the Maritime provinces.

The New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island governments have reviewed the basic principles of a proposal by Eastern Provincial Airways to operate a region-wide local service. After requesting and receiving assurances that EPA would include a number of modifications, the three governments have endorsed the revised proposal as the most effective answer to the long-standing inadequacy of local air service.

The proposed service would include Halifax, New Glasgow, Port Hawkesbury, Sydney, Yarmouth, Digby, Charlottetown, Summerside and the Magdalen Island. The premiers emphasize the advantages of an integrated region-wide local air service but point out that it is not intended to affect any operational local air services of comparable quality on routes for which they currently offer regularly scheduled flights with adequate frequency.

ACTIVATE DIGBY TRADE BOARD

The few Digby Board of Trade members who met at the Town Hall for the regular October meeting decided to call the next meeting for the third Tuesday in November and use it as a special meeting to activate the Digby Board of Trade. The organization has been dormant since May and the October meeting was poorly attended though notices had been mailed to all members. Names on the nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers were Vincent Snow, Gerard Chartrand and James Gillis. Tentative plans were made to hold the annual meeting in January 1976 and have it as a dinner meeting with a speaker.

The Board decided to co-sponsor an Industrial Development Bank seminar here in January or other time convenient to IDB. The registration fee is $15 per person and the seminar will accommodate no fewer than 15. They can accommodate from 15 to 35 and will have the seminar for two days if required because of enrolment. The one day training seminar has a title "Minding Your Own Business."

Problems with the attendance at Digby Board of Trade meetings as before came in for a long discussion, so long that one member suggested that one fault could be that the Board did not get directly down to business. He noted that already they had spent one and a half hours discussing why members did not come out to meetings.

It was the opinion of some members that so few regular attendants should not have to keep the Board surviving when it serves so many people in every walk of life. The experience of one Board of Trade in Nova Scotia was mentioned where they advertised in the media of their indecision on whether or not to continue functioning. This brought members out for the next scheduled meeting.

Rene Richard advised that there should be committees in the Board other than merchants and suggested labor, tourism, professional, civic, welfare, farmers, consumers, to establish a forum for all. Other members replied that the Digby Board had many committees but the chairperson and members of the committees are generally not faithful attendants.

The problem of keeping and obtaining a secretary even when a yearly honorarium of $200 was paid came in for discussion. A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. J.M. Wallis for filling in on secretarial duties.

Vincent Snow reminisced on the Digby Board of Trade activities through the year and said there was no organization could take the place of Board of Trade, not a service organization nor town. He felt that the would-be members became too interested in sports and service clubs to the neglect of Board of Trade. He felt the Digby Board right now should be concerned about the state of the Town in not being able to acquire a mayor and wondered if the Board might be able to induce Deputy Mayor Philip Robertson to run for mayor. The question had come up before members said and the Deputy knows the position whether or not he wants to run for mayor.

The subject of strikes came up and the idea advanced that everybody was better off before the legislation giving the right to strike was issued a year and a half ago.

Welcome New Human Rights Supervisor

David States of Windsor N.S. was on Wednesday, welcomed to Digby as supervisor of Human Rights for the West Nova region. He succeeds Shingai (Steve) Nyajeka, who took over the supervisory office six months after the official opening in 1971. The reception given by the Human Rights which gave David an opportunity to meet people in the area he serves was held at the Digby Branch Canadian Legion Hall.

Mr. States, son of Mrs. Dorothy States, Windsor, is twenty-six years of age. His elementary education was obtained in schools at Five Mile Plains and Three Mile Plains and he is a graduate of Hants Co. West Regional High School. His course in Sociology was completed at St. Mary's University, Halifax. In 1973 he worked on the Human Rights Commission in the Halifax-Windsor area.

George McCurdy, Director of Human Rights, Halifax, presided at the reception, extended greetings on behalf Hon. Allan Sullivan and Professor McKay. In his short address, Mr. McCurdy thanked the people who had so greatly extended the hand of friendship to the predecessor, Mr. Nyajeka and thanked them for attending the reception which is an indication of continued interest. Mr. McCurdy said the Human Rights family has grown, there is a positive momentum and there is a climate created which has a vision of working together and thereby making progress.

Mr. McCurdy introduced guests present who are members of the Commission or involved with the Human Rights Commission - Charlene Theriault, Church Point and Digby; Janet Rawding of the Commission; Mrs. Steven Gibson, Digby; Edith Chisholm, secretary; Lois Willett, Human Rights Officer, Halifax; Helen Price of Human Rights staff and Duncan McNab, Public Education Officer of Nova Scotia Human Rights

David States was on Wednesday tendered a reception at the Legion Hall, Digby, to meet people in the area in which he is serving as supervisor of Human Rights. In the above, left, is Joe Casey, M.L.A. who welcomed David and extended greetings; David, whose office is located in Digby; Chief Richard McEwan, Bear River, guest at the Human Rights reception and George McCurdy, Director of Human Rights for Nova Scotia.

Commission, Halifax; Sam Bany with the Secretary of State, Halifax; Chief Richard McEwan, Bear River; Jules Pottier, Manpower; Mrs. Jean Clayton, B.U.F. and Bradford Barton.

Joe Casey, M.L.A. in extending greetings said that we should not have to have police, we should not have to have war and we should not have to have a Human Rights Commission but Human Rights has a part to play for in the course of life man's inhumanity to man becomes a fact no matter what race or nation. Mr. Casey referred to Steve Nyajeka who had served the area well and made many friends. Mr. Casey said he expected David would do equally as well.

Warden Wilfred Swift extended congratulations and best wishes to David.

Rev. George Bell, West Nova Multicultural Association co-ordinator spoke of the similarities of the Human Rights' Commission and the Nova Scotia Multicultural Association and said that by getting better acquainted means to better understand.

David thanked all who had arranged the reception and all who attended and extended their best wishes. He said he was looking forward to meeting them again in the near future.

Eva Cromwell New Auxiliary President

The 49th Annual Meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Digby General Hospital was held on Monday, October 6 at 6:30 p.m. in the hospital cafeteria when Mrs. Eva Cromwell, Conway, was elected president, succeeding Miss Tupper. Other officers elected were Miss Tupper, first vice-president; Mrs. Hyson Sutherland, second vice-president; Mrs. David Gordon succeeding Mrs. Jack Whalley as secretary and Mrs. Richard Denton succeeding Mrs. Sutherland as treasurer. Mrs. Percy Robert is assistant secretary treasurer. Others on the executive are Mrs. Benjamin Height, canteen manager; Mrs. Celeste Hall, Representative on the Hospital Board and Mrs. Ina Dillon, Candy Stripper Manager.

The president, Miss Marjory Tupper, reported a successful year. She thanked the members for their co-operation, and those non-members without whose help the Auxiliary could not function: the office staff, the dietitian and kitchen staff, the ladies of the community who respond to requests for food, the Admiral Digby Horticultural Society, and Vernon Adams, who maintains the soft drink machine for the Auxiliary.

The secretary, Mrs. Amelia Whalley, listed the various projects for the year: Pantry Sale, Tag Day, Hospital Supper, Penny Sale, Tickets on a Valentine Cake, Baby Name Quilt, Afghan, guessing chances on Walnuts in a Bag, Beans in a Jar. Name pins and new uniforms were purchased for the Candy Strippers. Caps, pins, and stripes were presented to Candy Strippers at the Florence Nightingale Tea in May. Christmas Trees and treats were placed in the patients' rooms. A silver spoon was sent to the first baby of the New Year. Three $100 bursaries were given to girls entering the Nursing profession.

Canteen sales were higher than those of last year. The stork Club made 82 articles for sale.

On behalf of the members, Mrs. Ursula Sutherland, retiring treasurer, thanked Miss Marjory Tupper for her three years of service as president.

The twenty-five members present enjoyed a buffet supper, after which Ralph Stacey, Administrator of the Digby General Hospital, familiarized the ladies with the hospital.

Plympton Is Not Alone

Charles H. Bricknell of Plympton, Mass., historian, was of the opinion that there were two Plymptons in the world, one in England and Plympton, Mass. In July, 1975, he learned there was a Plympton in Nova Scotia. He wrote to the municipal clerk who forwarded the letter to R. Baden Powell, Plympton, N.S., who is also a writer.

Mr. Bricknell wrote to the Silver Lake News at his own town telling of his letter sent piece of equipment which the Auxiliary is purchasing for the hospital.

School Board Begins Plans

At a special Municipal School Board meeting at the Digby Court House on Thursday evening the Board heard a brief presented by James Outhouse on behalf of the Digby Branch Association For Mentally Retarded and took steps toward implementation of Regulation 7(C) for education of handicapped children.

From the brief it was learned that a survey had been conducted by the Digby Branch of the Association when 97 mentally retarded in the area had been interviewed. Of these 27 were children under the age of 18. The brief stated that the 27 were the primary concern of the Association. President of the Digby Branch of the Association is Steven LeBlanc. Accompanying him were seven members of the Association and William Powroz, Halifax, of the Education Committee of the Canadian Association for the Mentally Retarded, Nova Scotia Division.

Two resource persons were at the meeting. C. E. Edwards, Inspector of Schools for Digby and Annapolis Counties was present and Mrs. Nola Jeffrey, Guidance Supervisor at Digby Regional High School, represented the school.

The legislative regulation 7(c) reads "Each Municipal School Board and Board of School Commissioners shall provide for all pupils resident in the municipality, city or town who are entitled to attend school and who are qualified to pursue the studies in the grades or courses for which they are enrolled. Instruction includes that for physically or mentally handicapped children. What had formerly been permissive legislation previous became mandatory January 1, 1973 with the passing of the regulation. In 1971-72 it was found that in the public schools of Nova Scotia there were approximately 1618 educable retarded pupils in 141 auxiliary classes; 273 trainable retarded in 30

Coline Secretary to Secretary of State

South Western Nova MP Coline Campbell of Digby has been appointed parliamentary secretary to Hugh Faulkner, the secretary of state.

Miss Campbell, 35, was first elected to parliament in the July 1974 election, and had been parliamentary secretary to Health Minister Marc Lalonde for the past year.

She is one of five parliamentary secretaries who were re-appointed by the prime minister on Friday, for a second one-year term.

Under existing legislation, each member of the cabinet may have a parliamentary secretary. The appointments are for one year, although Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau has adopted a practice of appointing each for a two-year term, usually with a different minister in the second term.

Parliamentary secretaries work under the direction of the minister, and have no legal authority in respect of the department with which they are associated, and they are not given acting responsibility or any of the powers, duties and functions of their ministers. However,

The trophy donated by the Digby County Ambulance Company was awarded for Company 1 and Company 2 Firehouse Laying Contest.

Auxiliary Presents $2000 To Firemen

Mrs. Carol Van Tassel, secretary of the Digby Volunteer Firemen's Ladies Auxiliary, presented the firemen at their annual banquet on Saturday evening with a cheque of $2000. The presentation, a highlight of the evening was made to the president of the Commission, Everett Hall.

Fire Chief Vaughn Van Tassel and Deputy Fire Chief Joe Doucette presented long service pins to the Digby firemen and representing a grand total of 284 years.

Another presentation was that made by Mrs. George Humphrey, wife of the late Mr. Humphrey who was fire chief in Digby for many years. The presentation was to Donald Jayne for the Fire Hose Laying Contest between Company 1 and Company 2. The trophy was donated by the Digby County Ambulance Service.

Everett Hall presided at the banquet and Joe Casey,

M.L.A. was guest speaker. Mr. Casey spoke on efforts to establish a 200 mile limit to the fishing waters on the Atlantic and the problems which face those concerned. Mr. Casey recently attended a meeting in Washington, USA being the only representative from Nova Scotia. It was welcome news that the United States would go along with Canada on proclaiming the 200 mile limit for without their approval Canada would not be in a position to enforce the regulations. The Soviet Union have massive equipment while Canada has three destroyers.

Mr. Casey said they have also run into the problem that should Africa and South America proclaim a 200 mile limit, the tuna fishermen from this area could be effected.

Another speaker at the banquet was Cecil Slauenwhite, Lawrencetown, Area Fire Chief.

DIGBY AND TOWN COUNCIL

There is much to be said for dignity in Town Council. The modern world trend, of course, is happy-go-lucky, speak your mind, dress as casual as possible and be right in the swing of things. This is fine to a certain extent but, somehow, too much casualness and disregard for others does not seem to fit in when it comes to the responsibilities of the "Town Fathers" (We'll have to get assistance from Human Rights to rephrase that one) Maybe dignity is an old custom that we've been used to but we see no reason to rid ourselves of it entirely.

Despite the capable presiding of the Deputy Mayor at the Digby Town Council October meeting, councillors forgot dignity in coping with what to them appear to be frustrations. It is the hope of many people in the town that the Council will soon get on a sound footing in conducting the town business and thereby accomplish more for the town. While joking about affairs appeared to be the pastime for awhile, the situation has ceased to be funny and citizens are concerned how we look in the eyes of others. They are concerned and fret about the unbusinesslike performances which might effect decisions of industry, visitors or prospective residents in locating here.

We along with the many town people will be happy to see all these minor offenses which build up to mountains at Town Council meetings be set in proper perspective. Councillors have passed the age of minors. They are aware that no councillor or official of any kind is perfect but there is a right and a wrong way to attempt to point out to others their errors or imperfections. Since personalities, instead of other reasons appear presently to be paramount in the functioning of town business we think it is about time that each councillor and official in Digby put trust in one another and get on with the important business of the town instead of too much emphasis and time on trivial matters. Lets grow up and bring dignity, trust and respect back to the Digby Town Council. Somehow, it appears to have been lost in some measure.

SIXTY YEARS OF CGIT 1915 - 1975

This week, October 12th to 19th is CGIT (Canadian Girls In Training) week. Some 30,000 Canadian Girls in Training, ages 12 to 17, are celebrating their 60th anniversary. There are groups in every province and rallies, banquets, parades, and other special events will be held in every part of Canada to mark Sixty Years of CGIT.

CGIT was started in 1915 by leaders from the Anglican, Baptist, Methodist, and Presbyterian Churches, and the YWCA. The only surviving founder is Olive Ziegler who represented the YWCA at those early meetings. Miss Ziegler led her first camp in Prince Edward Island, and now resides in Halifax, N.S. Miss Ziegler will be special guest along with Miss Molly Hewitt at a special event in Halifax on October 19th.

Today, the Church participants are Disciples of Christ, Baptist, Presbyterian and United and the organization is completely self-supporting. The program gives teenage girls experience in forming their own groups. Leaders participate as members of the groups and activities including Bible study, workshop, handicrafts, music, drama, community service and camping.

CGIT girls are known as the girls in middies, the official uniform being a white middie worn with a navy skirt. The middie has changed in cut and style to keep up with fashion trends.

For sixty years Canadian Girls in Training have been united across Canada by a common purpose: to cherish health, seek truth, know God, and serve others. CGIT has helped girls become persons capable of responsibility in every area of Canadian life.

VOTE FOR QUALITY

This fall, most Canadians will have to make some political decisions as municipalities hold elections and referendums. In Ontario and Newfoundland, provincial elections were held recently. People are always asked to study the issues. We wonder how many really do and we wonder how many politicians really have answers?

These issues are myriad -- housing, health, transportation, law and order, education, inflation, government itself -- the list is endless.

How does the average voter, the good citizen concerned with the quality of his life and the future of his children, choose wisely or cope with such a list. Or does he just throw up his hands in horror and turn on the television for some instant escape?

But the issues must be faced, defined, analyzed and finally decided upon. Otherwise we continue to wallow in a morass of indecision, expediency and frustration.

Perhaps the voter should start at home in trying to define issues. What are our major desires? Security, concern for others, good management, a bright future, absence of fear. The list is almost as long as an election platform. It is summed up in "Quality of Life."

Most people today are concerned about the quality of their lives and have a real or nagging feeling that it is much less than it was in the slower days of our parents and grandparents. We cannot, of course, turn the clock backward to a simpler age but we can regain control over our lives.

By defining first, for ourselves and then for our leaders, where it is we want to go and how we want to live then we can deal with the issues. But today, too often, events move so quickly and planning is so reactive, that we deal with the issues before we know how it is that we want to live. The quality of our lives comes first, then the issues can be faced and dealt with. (Un-churched Editorials)

Hodge Podge

It used to be that you could have your birthday announced on the Sunday morning CBC program of Neighbourly News when and after you reached 90. Now you have to be 95 and over for Jack Brayley to let the world know about it. The wedding anniversary is now commented on for those married 55 years and over instead of 50 as previous. The reason chiefly is that Jack's time has been cut to ten minutes instead of 15 minutes. Besides, either people are living longer or communication is better. Jack has of late been putting on speed to fit the birthdays and anniversaries into 15 minutes. The five minute reduction in time certainly has to be found by some other place like curtailing the years. In the meantime, The Digby Courier continues to accept the 90 years and 50 years birthday and wedding anniversaries respectively.

Letter To The Editor

DIGBY WESLEYAN CHURCH
The Digby Courier
Water Street
Digby, Nova Scotia B0V 1A0

Dear Mrs. Wallis:

At a time when we are surrounded by conflicting authorities who would tell us how to manage our town, our schools, our finances, and our families, there has been a bright sun shining that I believe reflects the good nature of many of our Digby people.

With the ending of the telephone strike last week, I would like to express my deep appreciation to the supervisors of Maritime Tel. & Tel. They quite literally sacrificed much of their time and their personal privileges to be of service to us. AND TALK ABOUT SERVICE! It was a pleasant experience to pick up the telephone and find a cheerful voice on the other end. When placing distance calls, I was met with such pleasing service that it caused knots to rise in my throat and I had to squeeze my eyes to stop the flow of emotion. I was actually proud of these men. They didn't have to provide this service, but they did!

Just before the strike was over while placing a distance call, I asked the gentleman if he were glad it was just about over. He said he was, because he had been attempting to finish building his home this Fall. But now he had to let it go until next Spring because of his extra duty during the strike. I admire people like that.

Well, nobody had to tell me this morning that the strike was over, I knew it when I picked up the phone to call Moncton.

Maritime Tel. & Tel., thanks a lot!... not only for the heartfelt service, but also for the Christ-like example you set before us. Wouldn't we all benefit if we were to take this example of joyfully serving one another as our rule of conduct? I'm glad to be a citizen of a town made up of people such as this.

Sincerely,
Doug Hapeman

special classes; 631 pupils with learning disabilities; 71 physically handicapped and 410 receiving speech correction.

The Department of Education realizes the difficulty that school boards would have in trying to implement the regulations immediately because time is needed to identify and diagnose the needs of each pupil. The program to meet these needs must take planning and trained staff and necessary facilities must be provided.

Boards are required to provide courses for the children from five years to twenty-one if they have the following qualifications; the ability to communicate sufficiently to profit by instruction; the ability to care for personal needs; the ability to cope with physical demands and the ability to behave in a satisfactory manner.

Mr. Edwards noted that a Board may provide the courses for the handicapped in its own school or pay tuition to another Board which will accept them. Conveyance would also be required which are shareable under regular rates.

Each School Board is required to prepare a list of all persons of school age in the area who are not in school and find the reasons for non-attendance.

Mrs. Jeffrey advised the Board and Association members that Digby schools had provided for handicapped children by auxiliary classes but following the introduction of the ungraded school there seemed to be no need for this as students absorbed in their own pace by that process. The new philosophy now is not separated classes but integrated, at least part time.

Mr. Powroz remarked on the responsibility of parents. They have an obligation to register their children from 5-21 and from 6-16 years is compulsory. He also reminded the Board that some sort of educational diagnosis must be made before plans can be made.

Mrs. Josephine LeBlanc told the Board about the volunteer work of this type done by the Hope Fellowship but they had a struggle in financing. She remarked at the ability which handicapped have.

Mr. Edwards congratulated the people of the Association and others who took the responsibility to make a survey and present

PLYMPTON IS NOT ALONE

Empire Loyalists and Acadians who settled there and the thriving shipbuilding industry that had been established. He told of the views. He stressed looking at their strengths of the handicapped and not disabilities.

Mr. LeBlanc felt it is necessary to educate parents to the facilities as they are available.

Following the presentation of the brief and discussion the Board decided to take up the matter at the regular Municipal School Board meeting on October 14. The Board felt inadequate to deal with the requirements of regulation 7(c) and requested Inspector C. E. Edwards and the school administration to bring in recommendations. Mr. Edwards was to look into availability from Annapolis County or otherwise of diagnosticians and look into the possibility of arranging with Annapolis in fulfilling the obligations of regulation 7(c).

place having been known as Everett Settlement and Judge Savary, the County's first member in the federal house, Ottawa, recommending the name to be Plympton. Mr. Powell further wrote on the size and population of Plympton and that it is a village to where many people retire.

Mr. Powell who has published two "Scrap Books" on Digby County has recently published a fiction story based on fact entitled Gaskill's Cove.

Gaskill's Cove which recently came off the press at the Petheric Press sells, we understand, for $3.95.

The story has developed around a fictional family and pioneer community on the shores of the St. Mary's Bay. People at Gaskill's Cove had not been subjected to hard times in the period of decline following periods of boom as neighbouring areas.

Gaskill's Cove had developed by the Gaskill business added one enterprise to another.

Mr. Powell, in his book Gaskill's Cove, has a 21 year-old grandson of Wilfred Rogers Gaskill to tell the story of Wilfred Rogers making a trip to Nova Scotia when he made a chance meeting on the shores of the St. Mary's Bay and leading to Gaskill's Cove and a job in learning the shipbuilding trade. The story brings in the drowning at sea of the captain's only son. Family conflicts are found in the story which ends with the death of the captain and responsibilities fall on a grandson, the story teller's Uncle Bruce.

Besides his two books on Digby Town and Municipality and the fiction story, Mr. Powell has had articles published in magazines and newspapers when teaching school drama classes, Mr. Powell often used his own plays which he had written.

David E. Lewis, Columnist, Author Dies

Widely known Nova Scotia author and columnist, David Earle Lewis, 56, Bridgetown, died Monday at Solider's Memorial Hospital in Middleton.

Born in Melvern Square, Annapolis County, he was the only son of Isabel Jean (Laing) Lewis and the late Earle G. Lewis.

He was a graduate of Bridgetown High School and held B.A. and B.Ed. degrees from Acadia University.

After graduating from Acadia, he worked as music librarian at CHNS radio station, Halifax, and as a reporter at Canadian Press in Halifax.

During the Second World War, he spent three years with the Royal Canadian Navy in St. John's, Nfld., and subsequently taught Latin and English at Bridgetown Regional High School. After operating a bookstore in Montreal for several years, he returned to the staff of the Bridgetown school from which he retired in 1972.

As an author he received national recognition for "Every Lover Needs a Guitar", a collection of short sketches on the Annapolis Valley, published in 1973.

Mr. Lewis published short stories and poems in Reader's Digest and Maclean's as well as columns in eight weekly newspapers in the Atlantic Provinces.

The body will be at the Robert L. Hall funeral home, Bridgetown, until Thursday afternoon. Cremation will follow, with interment at a later date.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Royal Bank of Canada, Bridgetown, for the Bridgetown Cultural Centre Building Fund.

He was well known for his talents in the field of music, art and writing, and as a gifted teacher in the educational system.

Savings Bonds Available At 9.38 Percent

An attractive yield and terms designed to meet the savings needs of individual Canadian investors have been incorporated in the 1975-76 Series of Canada Savings Bonds.

An average annual yield to maturity of 9.38 per cent is offered over the 9-year period of this new bond. The issue will carry a coupon rate of 8 1/2 per cent in its first year, and a coupon rate of 9 1/2 per cent in each of the remaining eight years to maturity.

The simple design introduced with last year's Canada Savings Bonds is being retained. After the first year, coupon rates will be unchanged and there will be no compound interest feature.

Bonds in the 1975-76 Series, as with previous issues of Canada Savings Bonds, will be cashable at any time for their full face value plus earned interest. They will be sold by Canadian chartered banks, authorized sales agents including investment dealers, stock brokers, trust and loan companies and credit unions. They may be bought for cash, on the instalment savings plan or through payroll deduction.

The payroll sales campaign for Canada Savings Bonds will begin within a few days among 5,000 participating corporations across the country. Cash and instalment sales will commence this year on October 14.

The bonds will be dated November 1, and investors will not be required to pay accrued interest on bonds purchased between November 1 and November 14. The Minister of Finance reserves the right to terminate cash and official monthly savings plan purchases at any time after November 7 without advance notice. Such action, however, will not affect the November 14 cutoff date for purchase applications under the Payroll Savings Plan.

The new Series of Canada Savings Bonds will be available to individual purchasers to a maximum of $25,000. They may be bought by bona fide Canadian residents and estates of deceased persons.

The Minister also said that for the 1975-76 Series, investors will be permitted to register their bonds in the name of a trust governed by a Registered Retirement Savings Plan, Registered Home Ownership Savings Plan, registered pension plan, deferred profit sharing plan or employee profit sharing plan. Registration must show the names of the trustee, the beneficiary under the plan, as well as the title and registered plan number. The new bonds are transferable to the trust governed by such plans, and back to the beneficiary.

The bonds are available in two forms. Coupon bonds registered as to principal are available in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $25,000. Bonds in this form will have an initial coupon of 8 1/2 per cent and, thereafter, eight coupons of 9 1/2 per cent, due on November 1 each year. Fully registered bonds are available in denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $25,000. Bonds in this form will be registered as to principal and interest, and the interest will be paid directly to holders on November 1 each year by cheque.

As in previous years, interest payments on all Series of Canada Savings Bonds must be reported as income for tax purposes, although such income is eligible for inclusion under the $1,000 interest income deduction of the Income Tax Act. The majority of taxpayers report their interest income only in the year it is actually received, that is, as they clip and cash coupons. The few taxpayers reporting income on an accrual basis - reporting interest as it is being earned each year, whether or not coupons are cashed - are required to be consistent with all their Canada Savings Bonds and similar securities.

Gregg Donavan, Area Director of the Department of Secretary of State, Halifax, installed members of the executive of the Western Nova Multicultural Association at a special inaugural ceremony at the Bridgetown High School Auditorium on Thursday evening. Left to right are George Barton, Acaciaville, treasurer; Mrs. Barbara Erjavec, Weymouth, vice president; Mrs. Frieda Balser, president and Mr. Donavan. Lay Down The Placards

The long weeks of strike are over for employees of the Maritime Tel and Tel. On Monday the complete staff of M.T. & T employees in Digby were back to work and had laid their placards down. Preparing to rid themselves of the placards above are, left to right, Susan Hayes, Cindy Bell and Mark Marshall.

Locate 25 Cultures

The Western Nova Multicultural Association has gained valuable information through the Student Community Service Program carried out during the summer.

A survey was designed to locate people of various Cultures and obtain reasonable numbers throughout the counties of Annapolis, Digby and Yarmouth. In turn it was a means of informing the various groups about the Multicultural Association. Four students worked during their summer vacation from classes. They visited homes and solicited information which would enable the Western Nova Multicultural Association to do more effective work in the three counties.

The Association tries to help the New Comers by providing information and arranging contacts so that they may enter readily into the community life of their new homes. It works with minority groups encouraging them in their community organizations and assists where ever possible. It works with people of all Ethnic Origins encouraging them, to preserve and develop their culture and to share it with others.

This summer project has located twenty-five cultures with six or more members in the area, including the older groups of Mic Mac Indians, French Acadian, Blacks and British. Many more cultures are represented with smaller numbers.

Requests for information have been received and are being met by referral to departments or individuals. Among them are: Upgrading Education, Language Training, home repair programs, handicraft training and correspondence with groups of similar Ethnic Origin.

Many skills and hobbies have been tabulated. People have indicated their willingness to share their talents if assistance in finding opportunities can be arranged.

The Western Nova Multicultural Association is most grateful to all who co-operated with the Student Interviewers in making this project a success.

A special note of thanks goes from the Western Nova Area to the Department of the Secretary of State for funding the Student Community Service Program, thereby providing summer employment for four students in a "helping others" experience, and to the staff of the Regional Office in Halifax.

Should anyone in this area wish further information, do not hesitate to contact the Co-ordinator's office of the Western Nova Multicultural Association, P. O. Box 508 in Digby or phone 245-4662.

Time did not allow contact with every home and the Association is aware that there is more information that could be gained. You are invited to participate in this great work of sharing.

Courier Correction

In the story last week on the Multicultural meeting in Bridgetown when the officers of Western Nova Multicultural Association were installed by Gregg Donovan, Mr. Donovan was reported as area director 7th M.A. for N.S. This should have been Regional Director for the Department of Secretary of State, Halifax. Carman Comeau was Project Officer for the Student Committee Service Program which made the 1975 summer survey.

RYAN-POTTER

St. Theresa's Church, Marshalltown, was the scene of a lovely autumn wedding on Saturday, September 27th, 1975 at 2:00 p.m., when Lorraine Janet, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Potter, Bear River, was united in marriage to Michael Anthony, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ryan, Marshalltown; Rev. Gerald Young of Church Point, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Miss Elizabeth Potter, cousin of the bride, was the organist. She played Wagner's "Wedding March" as processional and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" as recessional. During the signing of the register Mrs. Earl Waterman, friend of the bride, sang "O Perfect Love".

Baskets of gladioli, tinted daisies, and large mums adorned the church and two large candelabra, holding seven tapers each, stood on each side of the altar. They were trimmed with white roses and green ribbon. Guest pews were marked with sprays of Lily of the Valley tied with white bows.

Father Young and the two mass servers, Kevin and Kelly Ryan, brothers of the groom, met the bridal party at the door of the church. The bride entered on the arm of her father, followed by the mother of the bride then came the flower girl and ring bearer, followed by the matron of honor and best man. Next came the bridesmaids and their attendants.

The bride was radiant in a long floor-length gown of white nylon tiered lace over taffeta, fitted waist line and long tapered sleeves, scooped neck line and her long train of lace matched her gown. It fell from the shoulder seams in a full circular sweep. She wore a shoulder length veil which was adorned with tiny red roses and she carried a cascade of red roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Arnie Raymond, sister of the groom, was matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of green polyester. The empire style had a yoke of flowered chiffon and she carried a nosegay of red roses and green tinted daisies.

Miss Marianne Potter, sister of the bride, and Miss Juliette Ryan, sister of the groom, were the bridesmaids. Miss Potter wore a gown of white flowered polyester satin and matching flower headpiece. Miss Ryan wore a gown of green flowered polyester satin with matching headpiece. They carried nosegays of pink roses and pink tinted daisies. Miss Tracey Potter, as flower girl, was charming in a floor length gown of green flowered chiffon over taffeta. She carried a basket of pink and white daisies. Miss Krista Potter acted as ring bearer and wore a gown of green flowered chiffon like that of the flower girl. They wore headbands of daisies and fern. All the attendants' lovely gowns were made by Mrs. Charlie Ryan of Marshalltown.

Attending the groom was Arnie Raymond, brother-in-law of the groom, and Ed Harnish and John Tureott were the other attendants. Ushers were Cliff Surette, friend of the bride, and Terry Ryan, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Potter, mother of the bride, chose a floor-length gown of flowered print polyester with matching rust colored jacket. She wore black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The groom's mother wore a floor-length gown of blue double knit polyester with lace bodice and long sleeves. Her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of red and white carnations.

The bride's grandmother wore a long gown of winter white with matching fur trimmed jacket. Her corsage was red carnations. Mrs. Hugh Amero, grandmother of the groom, looked elegant in a two piece street length dress of blue and white print polyester. Her corsage was pink and white carnations.

A reception was held at the church hall following the ceremony. Miss Carol Potter, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book. Miss Karen Keast, cousin of the groom, served the bridal table. A three tier beautifully decorated cake with red roses and green leaves, made by Mrs. Helena Banks of Smith's Cove, graced the center of the table. A beautiful floral arrangement added color to the table also. Mrs. Hughie Melanson presided at the tea table, assisted by Mrs. Peggy Amon. The best man proposed the toast to the bride after which the groom responded. Those serving the cold salad plates were Mrs. Kenneth Ryan, Mrs. Clifford Doucette, Mrs. James Melanson, assisted by Mrs. Arlene Drew, Penny Ryan, and Cathy Ryan.

After the bride and groom cut the cake in the traditional manner, it was removed from the bride's table and finished cutting by Mrs. Scott Reid, an aunt of the groom, then served to the guests by the bride and groom.

A dance was held following the reception. Music was supplied by two groups of young people from Bear River. One band was led by Peter McEwan and the other was led by his brother, Greg McEwan. Everyone enjoyed the entertainment, especially since they have both formed recently.

Guests attending the wedding were from Halifax, Dartmouth, Plympton and local areas. The happy couple are residing in Bear River.

OICKLE-MAILMAN

The marriage of Sandra Lynn, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mailman, Annapolis Royal, to George Winslow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Oickle, Digby, took place in St. Luke's Anglican Church, Annapolis Royal. Rev. David Reid officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Donald B. Mailman was organist and Miss Elizabeth Dunnington, the soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white floor-length gown of silk organza, embroidered with daisies, high neckline edged with lace, empire waist and full circular train. Her veil of three tier illusion fell from a cap of silk petals and pearl tipped lily-of-the-valley. She carried a cascade of pink roses and fern.

Mrs. Richard Mailman was matron of honor and wore a floor-length gown of white sheer over taffeta with floral pattern in blues and green and carried a colonial bouquet of blue and white shasta daisy mums.

The bridesmaids, Miss Carolyn Mailman and Miss Nancy Aunbaugh wore gowns of floral sheer in shades of pink and yellow and carried colonial bouquets of white and yellow shasta mums. Miss Angela Sanford was flower girl and wore a pink floor-length gown.

PUBLIC NOTICE

from THE NOVA SCOTIA LIQUOR COMMISSION

Our employees initiated a legal strike at 6 p.m. Wednesday, September 24, 1975.

The major area of dispute with all three unions representing our employees is wages in the first year of the proposed agreement.

The Commission's proposal submitted to the unions prior to the strike was rejected. Had it been accepted, the offer would have established a level of earnings for liquor store employees, as summarized in the following table:

	Effective June/75	Effective June/76 *
Store Manager	$12,151 - 15,276	$13,366 - 16,803
Assistant Manager	$10,926 - 13,738	$12,019 - 15,111
Store Clerk	$ 9,258 - 9,858	$10,093 - 10,843
Casual Employees	$ 4.01 per hour	$ 4.41 per hour

* Provision for cost-of-living allowance as of June 1976 could result in higher rates.

The figures shown in the above table are applicable to 518 employees out of our total unionized staff of 621 employees. Of the remainder only 12 would earn less than $7,000 in the first year of the Commission's wage proposal.

Ninety-six per cent of the permanent employees would earn more than $9,200 per year, if the Commission's proposal was accepted.

The Nova Scotia Liquor Commission regrets the inconvenience to customers, and hopes for an early settlement so that normal service can be resumed.

Alcohol Is A Family Affair

Responsible Family Drinking Patterns

The only protection against excessive drinking is not to drink at all. Yet it has been demonstrated that many families and cultural groups can use alcoholic beverages responsibly. Researchers have found that most low-risk groups of drinkers have these customs.

- If they drink, parents present a constant example of drinking responsibly and in moderation - without lecturing or preaching. They teach by example.

- Ground rules for using alcohol - or not using it - are well established in the family, agreed upon by all. - Excessive drinking is not acceptable to the family. Over-indulgence is not looked upon as comical. - Drinking is considered by parents to have no moral importance. To them, it's neither virtuous nor evil. - Drinking is not viewed as an escape, a proof of adult status, or anything else. - Drinking is not engaged in for its own sake, but as a part of other activities.

- No pressure is placed on a family member or a guest to drink.

- No social significance is attached to a person saying, "No thank you. I don't drink."

Invitations to Drinking Disaster

In contrast, problem drinkers generally come from families that show far different practices, beliefs, and attitudes.

- The family "ground rules" for drinking are vague, and inconsistent.

- One set of rules holds for men, another for women. - Often, one parent favors drinking, the other opposes it.

- If children have been using pep pills, marijuana, and similar drugs, some parents seem relieved when these children turn instead to alcohol abuse.

The result of such practices and attitudes are:

- Children, experiment with alcohol in their mid or late teens, usually away from home.

- Young people become accustomed to drinking on irregular occasions (such as the weekend "beer-bust") and to drinking large amounts on an empty stomach. They rarely drink mainly with meals.

- Children see - both adults and young people - drink to escape from emotional and uncomfortable situations, and they adopt these practices for themselves.

- Children see pressure placed on others to drink. To them, not to drink is scorned as a sign of cowardice or unfriendliness.

- Young people boast of their drinking powers.

- Young people drink to win acceptance from their peers, or to prove something - their manliness, glamour, sexual equality, or independence from their parents.

- Intoxication is viewed as comical or socially acceptable.

Tragically, the message that children get from their parents is, "Drink as I say, but not as I do."

Time for Action Toward Prevention of Problem Drinking

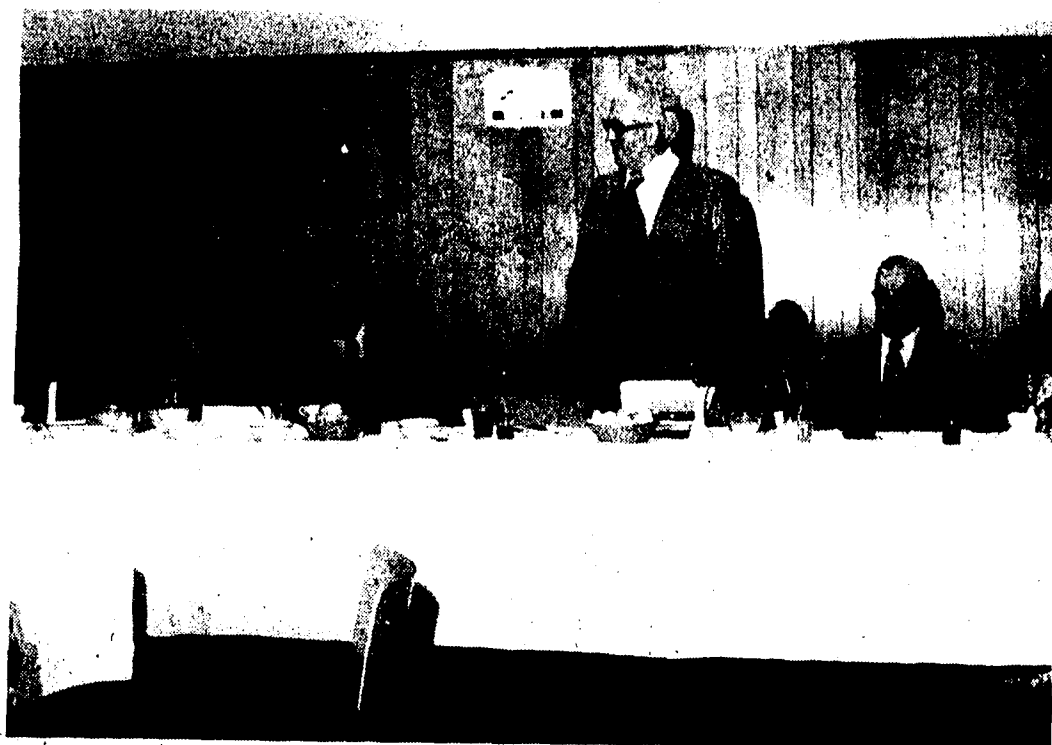

Let's ask ourselves, "How does my family score on these questions: What are we saying? What are we thinking? What are we doing? What are we really teaching our children?"

Alcohol-related problems touch all of us - in one way or another. Your family can take the first step in an information prevention program - TODAY - by examining and discussing honestly your own attitudes and ground rules on drinking. The time to start is NOW.

Reading This Column ... May Cost You

Over the centuries God has spoken through the Bible to millions of people at decisive moments in their lives with astonishing results. We cannot be indifferent to the strong desire of thousands and thousands of people to have a copy of the scriptures in their own language. This can only be made possible when people in more affluent countries such as Canada help.

The Canadian Bible Society is one of 56 National Bible Societies which all work together in the translation and distribution of scriptures in some 150 countries. Bible Societies distribute scriptures to peoples and countries who cannot afford to pay the cost of producing copies in their own language. Over 300 million scriptures will be distributed by the societies during this year.

The Digby branch of the Canadian Bible Society is currently soliciting funds for the work of Bible Societies around the world. The Digby area canvass will continue throughout the remainder of October and into November.

All church groups work together in supporting the Canadian Bible Society, so when the solicitor calls upon you this year, give a cheerful contribution. Yes, it will cost you something, but there will be two blessings in it for you:

1) Your contribution will be tax deductible, and

2) Down inside you will sense a good feeling knowing that you just helped someone in darkness find some light.

Weights And Measures And Gas Acts Centennial

One hundred years ago in 1875, the federal government enacted its first consumer protection legislation. That was the year in which two Acts were proclaimed: The Weights and Measures Act and the Gas Inspection Act. (Electricity did not exist commercially at that time; hence an Act covering electricity inspection was not passed until 1894.)

The Weights and Measures and Gas Inspection Acts sought to establish uniform standards of weights and measures throughout the nation, and to develop an inspection system which would maintain those standards.

A graphic depicting a stylized equal arm balance has been created this year to commemorate the centennial of these two Acts.

Inspectors across the country are using this symbol throughout the year and it is hoped Canadians will come to recognize it as one hundred years of protection.

In the beginning, to give teeth to the Acts, 94 deputy inspectors monitored weights and measures in Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Manitoba, while eight gas inspectors checked meters in Halifax, Pictou, Saint John, Fredericton, Quebec, Montreal, Toronto and Hamilton. Today the inspection staff has increased to 475. Included in the approximately 575,000 weighing and measuring devices they inspect are gasoline dispensers, gas trucks, supermarket and industrial scales and, of course, electricity and gas meters.

In the early days, inspectors carried their scale-testing equipment, often weighing hundreds of pounds, on horse-drawn wagons. Today three-axle trucks, carrying some 21,000 pounds of weights plus assorted handling equipment, and grossing 45,000 pounds, have replaced the wagons.

Travel requirements have increased also. In the 1800's, gas inspection was confined mainly to cities. Today's inspectors go to remote areas in order to take readings on, for example, the Trans-Canada Pipeline, or at distant drilling sites in the gas-producing provinces.

Nor is the job without dangers. Weights and Measures men who check propane meters must be careful of the smallest leak which could instantly freeze a hand and inspectors in gas fields are constantly alert for poisonous fumes.

Weights and measures inspectors also keep a vigilant eye on business practices. Supermarket spot checks for short weight on pre-packaged items are common.

Even this duty is occasionally fraught with danger: on one such venture, two inspectors, disguised as hunters intent upon purchasing steaks, were arrested by police. It seemed they had picked exactly the wrong moment to park in front of the local bank, where there had been a tip-off on a planned bank robbery.

Making sure you get a fair deal in the weights and measures and electricity and gas fields will cost the government $8,000,000 in 1975. This represents less than 33 cents per citizen — one of the few bargains left.

During this, their centennial year, weights and measures and gas and electricity inspectors across the country can look back with pride on their accomplishments over the past hundred years, and forward with the knowledge that their activities will continue to afford protection to Canadian consumers against abuses in the marketplace.

A Thought Starter

By Rev. R. C. MacCormack
R.R.4, Fredericton, N.B.

THE MISUNDERSTOOD WAY

The Christian Way is amazing.

Those who follow it are considered queer by everyone else.

To be joyful while suffering pain is hard to fathom.

To be bouyed up and contented when possessions are lost or taken away is no ordinary way to live.

To love enemies enough to pray for them and do them good is better than retaliation. Yet, this is common among people who have partaken of the nature of the living Christ.

To be rich though poor, and wise though uneducated are experiences to baffle the observer.

To go out of one's way to forgive another and to be poised and strong when under attack surely speak well of the grace of God within.

To refrain from exalting one's self and to promote others can only happen when the Spirit of the Lord has dealt with pride.

To keep from talking incessantly about ourselves and to build up others in esteem is a mark often to be noted among God's people.

Paul, the Apostle, remembered that "We are never far from death, yet here we are alive, always going through it, yet never going under" 11 Cor. 6:8-9 Phillips.

It sounds like a drastic way to live but it is exciting and rewarding.

Those who haven't tried the way of the fullness of God, have missed the best of all.

Busy Auxiliary

The Westport Recreation Auxiliary which was formed in July of this year has had fund raising projects underway every month, starting with Brier Island Ole Times Day, which was very successful.

On September 11th a Harvest Sale was held and the amount of $102.00 was realized.

Tickets have been sold on various items; a toaster going to Mrs. Vera Arthurs Saint John, N.B., and the lucky winner of the coffee percolator was Mrs. Rexie Titus, Westport, N.S.

Instead of having projects for the months of October and November, it has been decided to combine these projects in one big Bazaar and tea to be held on the first Saturday in December. Members are now preparing a quilt for the bazaar and tickets will be sold on it.

Tickets are also being sold on a Barbie Doll house, plus Barbie doll and various outfits; and a Big Jim set with motorcycle; also tickets on a money tree worth $25.00. These articles are being sponsored by the Auxiliary.

It is hoped that everyone will lend their support to the efforts of the Auxiliary.

Everyone in the Community benefits from these efforts.

A Thought Starter

(Rev. Ronald C. MacCormack)

A great test of maturity and spiritual stature can be seen in the way a person accepts just criticism and correction. It is hard to accept any hint that we might improve. To suggest that one's way of life and work could change for the better often invites resentment.

Yet, the kind advice of friends, even their gentle criticism of our efforts could be worthwhile and productive.

Even unwarranted rebuke can be accepted in the Spirit

Unique Experiment

A unique experiment in woodlot management has been recorded in detail in a new 80-page book published by the Nova Scotia Department of Lands and Forests.

The book, "20 Years of Forestry on the Antrim Woodlot," presents a history of forest management, cutting practices and economics in a Nova Scotia woodlot between 1951 and 1970. The book would be of value to any concerned about resource management.

When the 173-acre Antrim woodlot, located about 14 miles southeast of Shubenacadie, came under crown jurisdiction 25 years ago, it was quite evident that no major cutting had been done since the early 1900's. Old stumps indicated scattered cutting had occurred during the 1930's or 1940's. Blow-down mounds and up-rooted trees told their own story - that the wind had taken its toll over the years. Some new blow-down occurred with the hurricane in August of this year.

The Antrim woodlot today shows great improvement brought about by the management practices of the Department of Lands and Forests which has been operating the lot as a field experiment and a means of demonstrating good forest management practices.

Much of the work at Antrim has been done by the book's author, G. David Dwyer, once extension forester with the Department, now Executive Officer of the Forest Practices Improvement Board. He has been associated with the forest industry of Nova Scotia for almost three decades, both before and since graduation from the Maritime Forest Ranger School and the University of New Brunswick, where he obtained his B. Sc. in Forestry.

A partial cut of trees, marked in 1950 by Lands and Forests personnel, removed 35,315 board feet. Since then, at regular intervals and according to plan, other cuts have been made, woods roads were constructed, and so was a woodland fire pond - just in case it might be needed in an emergency some day.

All in all, over a 20 year period, records show the woodlots have returned a profit, some $1,284.97 to be exact, ($64.25 per annum) after meeting all expenditures for everything - the hiring of labour, horses, powersaws, machinery, the building of the road, a cabin, hovel, the fire pond, and the payment of annual taxes.

For instance, if the owner worked as one of a three-man crew, for approximately one month - the average time required to harvest the annual allowable cut and carry out improvements - he would receive, not only the $64.25 as annual net income from the lot but an additional income of $264.24 in wages. This adds up to an average of $310.49 per year to the owner.

Aside from the profit obtained in operating the Antrim woodlot, there is another angle - the investment of owning and operating the woodlot - which should be considered. In this case, the woodlot has increased in value from $4,000 in 1950 to an estimated $20,000 in 1971. Today, based on current values, it is even higher.

An annual harvest has been taken and the growing stock maintained. Cutting has improved the stands and road construction has improved access. With continued good cutting and utilization practices, and road maintenance, there is no doubt whatsoever but that the woodlot will continue to increase both in value and productive capacity.

Twenty Years of Forestry on the Antrim Woodlot contains color photographs of operations in the woodlot, tabular material on cutting and economics and maps showing changes in forest cover.

The book is available from the Nova Scotia Government Bookstore at 1683 Barrington Street, Halifax for $2.50.

CLEMENTSPORT

Judge

Guest Speaker

of Him Who went to the Cross for no sin of His own. He faced in silence those who railed at Him, and Pilate who cross examined Him.

Silence in the face of wrongful harassment can quell attack, and add to the dignity of one who will not lower himself to retribution.

The part of a person which wants to be on the defensive is the old carnal nature, which in Christ can be replaced with a new nature. This new man in Christ has victory and peace in situations which formerly would have caused him great hurt. This is not an easy goal. It is the miracle of Christ imparting His nature to us. Correction is good for the soul, especially when it comes from God. Proverbs 3:11, "My son, despise not the chastening of the Lord; neither be weary of His correction".

The Anniversary dinner at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall, Clementsport on Saturday evening was well attended. The tables were nicely arranged where one hundred and fifty covers were laid. The banquet was catered to by the famous cooks from CFB Cornwallis.

Judge V.S. Cardozo was guest speaker. He gave a talk on Citizenship and Comradeship. He emphasized that the Royal Canadian Legion played a great part in this all over Canada.

After the Banquet dancing was enjoyed until the wee hours. Music was furnished by Whiskey Sam of Weymouth.

International Women's Year

What is it all about? Why do women need a year? What is its relevance to me? Typical reactions to International Women's Year in this area include ridicule "Ha, ha, ha, crazy women's libbers!"; disinterest, "I don't believe in women's liberation"; or curiosity "What's it all about? We need something like this."

HISTORY
In 1947, the United Nations set up a Commission on the Status of Women. The Commission, which now includes representatives from thirty-two countries has been active since then in working towards three primary goals: equality of the sexes; full integration of women in the total development effort; and recognition of the unique role which women can play in working towards world peace. Too often women have been excluded from active participation in important international concerns. Significant steps have been taken by the Commission on the Status of Women over the past twenty-five years in many countries. International Women's Year celebrates the twenty-fifth anniversary of United Nations work towards a better utilization of women's resources for development and peace.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT PROGRAM

The federal government of this country has chosen to celebrate this special year by a national educational program. The Task Force, which we have been reading about, circulates to different communities to gather information on problems and inequities existing in the country at the present time. A series of research projects have also been funded by the government to gather information. Finally, careful efforts are being made within the civil service to identify and get rid of discriminatory hiring practices. These efforts towards a more just society are sponsored by the International Women's Year Secretariat.

IN NOVA SCOTIA

Within this province, the IWY Secretariat is also sponsoring a program to dispense information and to allow people to express their feelings about the status of women. A series of mini-conferences have been set up throughout the province, under the direction of federal coordinator, Joan Fraser. The purpose of these meetings is to promote awareness and attitudinal change.

The local meetings are planned by local coordinators and employ local resource people. They focus upon the concerns of the local community. Where these concerns merit consideration for legislative change, recommendations are made to the Task Force, which, in turn, presents them to the government.

Mrs. Fraser reports that previous conferences held throughout the province have proven very successful. People find them informative and useful, and enjoy airing their views, whatever position they take. Everyone from the liberationists to the nappy traditionalists are welcome. One of these conferences has been planned for the Middleton area, and will take place on November 1 at the Vocational School. Anyone who is interested is invited to attend. There is no charge and no obligation. The meeting is called "A WOMAN'S PLACE." We hope it will prove to be a worthwhile experience for all who attend.

DIGBY FIRE HALL
TUESDAY, OCTOBER 21

ALL CHILDREN OF SCHOOL AGE ARE WELCOME.

Use this calculator to measure the efficiency of your oil or gas furnace. The book explains everything that you and your serviceman should do to save fuel and money. Both free when you send in the coupon below.

How much of your heating dollar is going up in smoke?

Get your furnace in shape for winter—so you can be both warm and a little richer. You'll cut your fuel bill by as much as 25%, and help to conserve Canada's fast-dwindling energy reserves:

AS A NATION we waste more energy than some countries consume in total. We're on an energy binge that we can no longer afford. Modest cut-backs now will be easier to face than shortages and even higher prices in a few years time.

For every $100 you spend on energy at home, more than half of it goes into heating. So your furnace is a great place to start saving.

Check the efficiency of your oil furnace.

Is your oil furnace working at top efficiency? Find out:

Look for a dirty flame. Lift the flap that covers the small hole on the front of your furnace. If you see black smoke coming from the tip of the flame, your burn needs adjustment. Call the serviceman.

Inspect for soot. Shut the furnace off and poke a flashlight inside the box. An accumulation of soot means it's time for a service call.

Check the barometric damper. This valve between the furnace and chimney bumps open and shut as the wind blows and as the furnace cuts in and out. If it sticks in any position, you're wasting energy.

Put your serviceman to work twice a year.

A thorough oil furnace check-up in summer and mid-winter can cut as much as 25% from your fuel bill. (If you have a gas furnace it should be checked once a year.)

Remember, it will take your serviceman about two hours to do a good job on an oil furnace (somewhat less on gas).

He should remove soot from the firepot, heat exchanger and pipes; check the stack temperature; perhaps try an oil nozzle 10% to 20% smaller (or the lowest firing rate recommended for your furnace).

If you're paying for a complete check of the furnace and heating system, make sure you get it. Start by reading The Billpayer's Guide to Furnace Servicing.

This free book explains everything that you and your serviceman should do to save fuel and money. (See coupon below.) It has a complete oil and gas furnace checklist, and a calculator for determining overall furnace efficiency.

Lower your thermostat.

Dropping your setting from 72 to 68°F will save about 10%. If each of us saves 10%, Canada will conserve 8 million barrels of oil and 24 million cubic feet of natural gas each year.

It's time to pay the piper.

We can't live in the future as we do now. The resources simply won't be available. Here are two facts to ponder:

- If we continue to consume at our present rate of increase, Canada will need twice as much energy in 12 years.

- The capital costs of developing new sources of energy will soar to $110 billion over the next 10 years—an investment of about $20,000 for each Canadian family.

It's no longer a matter of choice. We must save energy to save ourselves.

Free information to help us all.

TWO FREE BOOKS: The Billpayer's Guide to Furnace Servicing shows you how to save fuel by proper furnace servicing. It explains what you can do, and what your serviceman should do. Free when you send in the coupon.

AIRPORT CONSTRUCTION UNDERWAY

Bulldozers and other heavy machinery have moved in on the site of the Digby Municipal Airport at Hillgrove where they are busy clearing, grubbing, excavating, grading and graveling the runways. The contract was given to Martel Construction Company, Bedford, N.S., who had made the lowest bid on the tender call.

Work began under the federal and provincial grants on October 6th. Since then more machinery was brought in and more is still to come we understand. The company expects to finish this phase of the work at the Digby Municipal Airport in December. Paving will begin in the Spring after the present construction settles throughout the winter.

Eastern Provincial Airways (E.P.A.) have indicated their interest in using Digby Municipal Airport on its route from Halifax to Yarmouth.

Government Gives Preference To Municipal Taxation Question

Municipal Taxation, which is a question on many minds and tourism advertising were the two main topics discussed by Hon. Fraser Mooney, Minister of Municipal Affairs and minister in charge of the Liquor Control Act, when he addressed the annual meeting of the Digby Liberal Association held at the Lions Club Hall on Saturday and presided over by the president, Emanuel Adelaar, Weymouth.

The slow implementation of the legislation regarding municipal taxation, he said, was because the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities had not reached a consensus of opinion of the matter. Mr. Mooney said legislation is aimed at homeowners relief from municipal taxation and has first priority with the provincial government. Until the municipalities come to an agreeable opinion no action can be taken. The Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities, he said, were told that the government would be willing to look at a more equitable alternate proposal to that suggested by the Graham Royal Commission. He expressed hope that the government would be in a position to begin moving forward by the first of January next.

Mr. Mooney said that the implementation of the Municipal Taxation proposal would not be an easy and quick solution but would take several years to bring into effect and of benefit to Nova Scotians everywhere. He told the audience that the proposal would not take away the municipal tax base as some municipalities feared.

The minister announced at the meeting that Weymouth would have a new Liquor store started soon. They have purchased land, however, capital expenses must be cut and the store might not be so large but it would be done right away, would be constructed for possible expansion and it would be a less traffic hazard than the present store.

Turning to tourism, the minister said that 1975 was a banner year and he would defy anyone who felt they could assess the real value of advertising. He felt the proof of the pudding "was in the increase in the tourist trade." The promotion had reached U.S.A., Quebec and Ontario. Any criticism of the advertising he said is unfounded. The Rose Bowl Parade, the Bluenose and the International Tuna Fishing Tournament did a good job at advertising.

In looking at inflation Mr. Mooney expressed satisfaction in the fact that while inflation in Canada is undesirable, Canada is three years behind the United States and other countries in feeling inflation effects.

Miss Coline Campbell M. P. urged delegations to come to Ottawa with any fishing problems. She said that fifteen interested in fishing came to Ottawa in February but representation of the various kinds of fishing industries were not represented. She looks for more in put from South Western Nova.

Touching on inflation, Miss Campbell said that the United States economy is on the rise and there is great expectation that Canada will follow. In the meantime anti-inflation programs are taking place. She felt that people in cities feel the inflation more than, say, fishing communities.

In reviewing progress in the area from Federal funds, Miss Campbell noted the $175,000 grant the Department of Transport made towards the Digby Municipal Airport at Hill Grove and the expectancy of a third rate air passenger service for a Digby-Halifax-Yarmouth line. Multiculturalism through the Secretary of State, Senior Citizens and other programs were reviewed by Miss Campbell.

Joe Casey, M. L. A. introduced Mr. Mooney and told of his visit to Washington representing the government of Nova Scotia. While he expected they would not do so, he said, the United States Senate has passed Bill H. R. - 200 giving the U. S. Government power to unilaterally declare a 200 mile fishing limit. He noted that U. S. A. is now negotiating with other countries as Canada has been doing. Unilateral declaration must be seriously looked at before enforced, he remarked, since the Russians within a few months will have a fleet as large as the fleet of the combined United Nations. Mr. Casey said that herring fisheries had become a problem. The weirs can catch herring but they cannot sell them. He spoke of Canpol in Digby but the plant does not accept small fish. The possibility is being explored for a sardine factory but it would have to be very large.

In other matters touched on by Mr. Casey he saw agriculture coming ahead and young people interested in farming. He spoke of the 700 acres of reclaimed marshland and the repaired dyke. Two miles of highway paving had been done in the constituency this year and repatching of the Digby Neck road was done.

Honor McGill Professor

Dr. F. Clarke Fraser, Acadia '40, Professor of Medical Genetics in the Dept. of Biology, McGill University and Director of the Dept. of Medical Genetics at the Montreal Children's Hospital, was recently awarded the Medal of Honor of the American Association of Plastic Surgeons for his work on the causes of Congenital Cleft lip and palate and on the development of genetic counselling.

He received the award in Scottsdale, Arizona, at the fifty-fourth annual meeting in April 1975. The Medal of Honor has been granted only 13 times previously by the Society.

Dr. Fraser, who received an honorary degree from Acadia in 1967, is a past President of the American Society of Human Genetics and last year received the Honors Award of the American Cleft Palate Association.

Adelaar Heads Digby Liberals

Emanuel Adelaar, Weymouth, was re-elected president of the Digby Liberal Association when the annual meeting was held at the Lions Club Hall on Saturday evening. Elected vice-president was Mrs. Grant Sabine, Riverdale; Mrs. Helen Matheson, secretary and R. MacLeod Rogers, treasurer.

Other members of the executive are Joe Hattie, special events, Herbert Margolian, publicity and public relations and Gerald Handspiker, director of youth. Elected to the directorship were Dr. J.E. Comeau, Pat Lyons, Elliott

Van Tassell, Ronald Morehouse, Robert Winchester, Basil Porter, Walter MacAlpine, Dr. N. Birsel, R. K. Purdy, and Gilbert Bates of Freeport.

In his opening address Mr. Adelaar said that this is a difficult time for any government in power, the economy ran wild and would not stop until somebody put on the brakes. Pressures, he said, came from outside Canada.

Following the address by Hon. Fraser Mooney, and the remarks by Coline Campbell M.P. and Joe Casey M.L.A., Mr. Adelaar left the meeting open for questions and answers when Louis Theriault questioned about the two and a half cents paid to fishermen only if the fish are dressed. This was to improve the quality of the fish he was advised by Miss Campbell and Mr. Casey. There is no kick back on quality fish.

In closing the meeting Mr. Adelaar again brought seriousness of inflation and the need to apply brakes. He expressed the hope that the government would not cut down on production expenses such as wharves and breakwaters etc., but cut down on those things which encourages people to not work.

Community Recreation Complex Highest Rating

Though the suggestions for improvement in picturesque Bear River were many and varied, it was readily seen that a Community Recreation Complex rated highest with the Citizens of Bear River when a workshop under the Community Planning Association of Canada was held on Friday and Saturday at the Legion Hall in Bear River.

Sponsored by the Bear River Board of Trade, Barry Dixon, had spent a few months in the village to estimate the opportunities and possibilities for the village.

The afternoon on Friday was given over to viewing the many maps, designs, pictures (old and new), films, and generally filling out papers on things which the citizens of Bear River looked

SYMPATHY EXPRESSED

The town of Digby and surrounding villages were deeply moved on Friday on hearing of the deaths of three promising young men who lost their lives in a tragic highway accident. Our sympathy goes out to the parents and families of these boys. Triple tragedy is bound to make the town and village people sad and thoughts are expressed in heartfelt affection as the loss to family and friends is mentioned. The Christian fortitude displayed by parents and families in bearing their burden has been much admired by many people.

Our sympathy is extended to both families of the young boys. In a few short weeks the annual Highway Safety Campaign will be conducted at which time the loss of these young men will be keenly felt.

POSTAL STRIKE HITS AREA

The Postal Strike of inside workers which effects post offices in Digby and other provincial towns is here again. Such strikes as began on Monday will cripple business and personal communication to no good end and most people make the remark "Good thing the telephone strike is over."

There is one consolation to the strike as it affects the area, the smaller village post office employees do not come under the strike stipulations and mail can be routed from one of the small Post Office in the area to others. Anything mailed from or to Digby stays just where it is for Digby P.O. Employees are out on strike.

NICE BREAK

Bear River was afforded a good opportunity last Friday and Saturday to get together and talk about their village needs and wants. So far as we know there was no Bear River expense involved. The Board of Trade in Bear River sponsored the Community Planning Workshop but all expense tabs were picked up by the Canadian Community Planning Association.

We feel this was a good opportunity to just talk. The villagers were under no obligation whatsoever, a capable young man had spent the summer at Bear River studying all its features and a panel of experts were here on Friday and Saturday to answer questions and lead discussions. Where could you get a nicer break than that for a small town or village. Some change for the good might come out of the workshop session but if not, at least, there has been nothing lost. Bear River has added to its knowledge instead of standing to lose.

A "pat on the back" is deserving to the Bear River people who came prepared with ideas, questions and concerns for the things Bear River should have and the things which Bear River should not have. There was foundation and good common sense in every suggestion offered. And no serious obligation unless the villagers want it so.

Hodge Podge

- Did you ever ride in the dog teams? That was the reaction of one from Oregon, U.S.A., when one of our College students from Digby area told that she lived in Nova Scotia. How little they know about Nova Scotia!

- A week ago Monday was the Thanksgiving holiday. Some of the correspondent's copy did not arrive on time for last week's edition of The Digby Courier. We can hardly blame our postal service for that. The holiday was the culprit. However, the holiday had little to do with seven letters received (all in one day) by a gentleman in town. His wife sent him a letter from Oregon each day for seven days expecting him to have a word from home each day. Instead, he got the seven on one day. United States mail service could be worse even than Canada's.

- It needs something stimulating to stir up Board of Traders. The last Board of Trade meeting in Bear River had an attendance of 35. Digby's Board needs eleven for a quorum. The Digby Board executive, while they'd like to see 35 anytime, they are mighty glad when they get a quorum. See what the "activation committee" can do for the November meeting. That is the meeting month to activate the Digby Board of Trade.

- Some three weeks ago we rode over the hills in Bear River on a Sunday afternoon to see the usually brilliant colors in the leaves. We were disappointed. Where were those fascinating reds, yellows and orange in the foliage. On Friday for another reason we went to Bear River by the river road. We knew then why there were no pretty leaves a couple weeks before. We were just too early. There is a difference in time of color in different places. The foliage up Bear River road on Friday was simply "out of this world". As one leaf after another covers the pavement in our town we feel a sadness that summer has gone and the brilliant hues of the hardwood trees soon will have faded from view. Should they still contain their glory to this point, do go to see them along the river road into Bear River.

COMMUNITY RECREATION COMPLEX HIGHEST RATING

forward to for the benefit of the people in the village. While the Community Planning Association had the Board of Trade as a sponsoring body, the project, it was emphasized, was totally community wide in its aspect.

The evening on Friday was spent listening to opening remarks and meeting the experts who came to give of their knowledge to the 50-60 citizens of the village who were in attendance.

Mr. Dixon, the coordinator was Master of Ceremonies. He welcomed the people and asked them to be free to express opinions. He introduced Joe Casey, M.L.A. for Digby, who brought greetings from the government. Mr. Casey praised Barry for his dedication to the job he was asked to undertake and he urged the Bear River citizens to make use of all the expertise available at the workshop and afterward Mr. Casey encouraged the group to organize because financial assistance is available from the Department of Municipal Affairs and Department of Recreation when the group becomes a continuing organization. Among those present and introduced by Barry were Harold Verge, Planning & Development Consultant; Drew Sperry, Architect, Dartmouth; Kenn Soosaar, Architect, Dartmouth; Ed Goguen, Community Development Worker, Amherst; Marc MacMillan, Community Development Worker, Amherst; Jim Sweeney, Community Development Worker, Amherst; George Zagoudis, Planning Aid, Halifax; Peggy Haughan, Planning Aid, Halifax; Joanne Lamey, Community Planning Association of Canada, Nova Scotia Division; Eddy Comeau, Mobile Officer, Information Canada; Eric Allen, Regional Representative Department of Development, Middlesex; John Bateman, Regional Representative Department of Recreation, Bear River; Chris Lloyd, Planner Community Planning Division Department of Municipal Affairs; Terry Crowe, Planner, Annapolis County District Planning Commission, Annapolis Royal, and Peter Turette.

Rev. Foster Hall spoke on problems and possibilities found in improvements to Bear River village and in doing so linked the past history of the village to the present and future. Bear River, he said, had early been established as a trading and shipbuilding centre and a market place for local and international trade. By 1815 it rated highest in population, in variety of industries and its economic value in this end of the province.

One of the interesting things about Bear River is that for 125 years the village has not been without a medical doctor. In 1897 it produced its own newspaper and in 1861 had been rated third in Nova Scotia for its volume of imports and export. Mr. Hall remarked that the Bear River men seemed to have had exceptional ability in taking full advantage of its natural resources by applying their own resourcefulness to their development. The social and economic changes of the 20th century brought advantages to most of Canada but to Bear River and similar villages it had brought disaster. With the advent of steam and iron ships the shipbuilding in Bear River declined rapidly. Other small industries as mills, spinning, grist, lumber, granite sawing, etc., all shipped into disuse. All this brought social changes, changes in farm life, in leadership and many other ways which put Bear River in a "limbo" position without being able to attract industry and resulting in that each generation of youth had to acquire employment in further away fields. This left Bear River imbalanced so far as age was concerned.

Today 59 percent of the adult population in Bear River is 65 years and over. Half of these are 75 years. These people, Mr. Hall said, have had their share of fighting battles.

Mr. Hall noted some sign of advancement in farming. A new interest in the land has come in the "back to the land" attitude by the younger people. This he said, is a good point to start if change is to be effected. Employment for many years in Bear River has come principally from CFB Cornwallis.

The purpose of the meetings and workshop is to gather up all resources that Bear River has in material, memories, hopes, traditions and concerns, Mr. Hall said and seek the advice of those who are expert in Planning Activities. He welcomed the team of experts to the Bear River Planning Workshop.

Following remarks from the various persons on the visiting teams, Mark MacMillan arranged small discussion groups who later pooled their findings to the whole assembly. Acting as secretaries for the group were Mrs. Marshall Wheelhouse, David Banks, William Cox, Drew Sperry and Robert Thurber.

The workshop continued throughout Saturday after the team of experts had opportunity to study the suggestions presented by the groups. No definite action for organization was made on Saturday by closing time out the villagers had... the suggestions for consideration, the one for a Community Centre Complex having been suggested more times than any other.

Children and adults offered suggestions for improvements and presented their needs or wants. Besides the Youth Centre Complex to keep youth active other suggestions were bus service for youth to Digby and or Annapolis Royal, keeping Bear River in its scenic state, more industry but also non-polluting industry, smaller homes for elderly persons, Day Care Centre, New Fire Hall, rink and swimming pool (Recreation Complex), tennis court, more parking space down town and use of wharves for parking, more and better police protection, sewage disposal, riding, and snowmobile trails, clean up river bank especially as well as especially as well as general cleanup, village incorporation, more parental interest, upgrade ball facilities, improve roads such as Chute route, land use control, architecture to fit in with present Bear River architecture, land for house lots made available, employment office in Bear River, historical restoration, closer communication within the village and less apathy expansion of Cherry Carnival and a two-way bridge in the village, etc.

- We do get the most friendly notes from our Courier subscribers from time to time and we like them very much. Like the one from Mrs. Ernest Grimard in California. She asked to have her subscription cancelled for a little while until after she moves. We enjoy the Courier very much, she says. Her father owned and operated the schooner Tyled. He was Captain Hantford Outhouse, who died in 1917.

- We won't disbelieve any more when someone says the transport trucks shake the house and crack the walls as they pass by in the night.

Did You Know?

The first of the worldwide Bible Societies was the British and Foreign Bible Society, London, England, established in 1804. Presently there are 56 national Bible Societies. The American Bible Society was founded in 1816, and The Canadian Society was organized nationally in 1904, although bible society work in Canada began in the Atlantic Provinces as early as 1807.

The Bible Society provides scriptures for people, missionaries, and churches in 150 countries. If you were to travel throughout the world you would find that for most people in Asia, Africa, Latin America, and the South Pacific, The Bible Society is the sole source of scriptures.

The Digby branch of The Canadian Bible Society is presently canvassing the Digby area in support of this great missionary work. The Bible Society is financed by the contributions of thoughtful, christian people, so when the solicitor knocks on your door, give a generous donation.

UNICEF aid was provided to projects in 105 countries in 1974. About $45 million was allocated to child health and nutrition, and more than $20 million to formal and non-formal education. The criterion for deciding which children received aid was not politics, but need.

Newport Hosts

United Church Women

The valley Presbyterian, U.C.W. held their Fall Rally at Brooklyn when the morning session opened with devotions conducted by the Avondale U.C.W.

One of the projects commemorating the 50th Anniversary of the United Church of Canada was the sponsoring of Exchange

Students. The guest speaker, Miss Judy Bishop sponsored by the Valley Presbyterian, showed slides depicting the lifestyle of Korea. Following lunch and a sing song Mrs. Ellis, with the use of skits, introduced the study packets on the work of the missions, the meeting concluded with a dialogue on Stewardship.

Our Master Is Speaking

(by Sendel Barr)

In the remaining days our Lord spent on the earth after his resurrection some of the last words he ever spoke were "...Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, to the close of the age." Matt. 28: 19-20.

How many of us have been obedient to this command? According to the facts not many of us; Christians are still a minority in the world. Instead of presenting Christ and the pure gospel to the people we have preferred to add our own particular interpretation to the scriptures; our Lord never told us to add or take away. We were to preach it as it is written; because of fear and defensiveness we have entrenched ourselves in the rut of our thinking, dug in well and shoot back at each other, sometimes we score a direct hit, and say to ourselves boy, did I do a good deed for my denomination today. We love to float over the fact of how superior our denomination is to someone else's.

We love to divide off into little groups, some at one end of the table some at the other end; we like to get close to those who agree with us and divide into little cliques. How grieved our Lord must be with us at times as He sees us so content, busily building our own individual denominational empires, it is because of fear and defensiveness that we do this; it makes us feel secure within the confines of our own denomination, we feel secure with the fence up. "There is no fear in love, but perfect love casteth out fear." 1 John 4:18. We fear to love because that is running a risk and we might get hurt.

The church is under heavy attack from within and without; could it be that some of the secure denominational empires that we have built up are crumbling? If we have built our faith on the solid rock of Jesus Christ we have nothing to fear, but if we have built on the shallow sands of men's interpretation of the scriptures then we have much to fear. If we have worshipped our church's doctrine, fine building, theology, structure, method, forms and not the living Christ then we are in trouble. Like the Pharisees, we take pride in our great denomination and often we sit around and talk theology and Social concerns while the world goes to hell.

In our world today we see and hear of rusty old denominational empires collapsing. It is no time for fright or panic, it is a time for rejoicing because Christ is being given his rightful place in the church, being restored as head of the church. Could this noise be the sound of the church being born anew of the water and of the spirit, and the sound of our Master's voice saying, "He has made known to us his hidden purpose - such was his will and pleasure determined beforehand in Christ - to be put into effect when the time was ripe: namely, that the universe, all in heaven and on earth, might be brought into a unity in Christ." Ephesians 1: 9-10. Im closing, may I say rejoice for our Master is speaking. Are we listening?

A Thought Starter

A WILD TONGUE

Deep pain is often inflicted by the heavy artillery of words. It has been said that the tongue of man causes most of the mischief of the world. We have learned to control running water and fire. Men have conquered germs, and now master the atoms. However, no science has come up with a way to hush up a misquoting and lying tongue.

Why in the name of fairness and decency do people receive such a thrill in digging up and spreading foul tales about someone else? Why do women and men rejoice in degrading the reputation of others without asking if the juicy story is true?

Even if the scandal or the garbage seems to be true, let it drop.

The gossip-spreader lives a negative, vain, unhappy life, and derives puny pleasure from pulling down the high achievements of those with purer minds.

There must be a way to tie reckless tongues. The best way to stop this devilish and thoughtless custom is to refuse to listen to the tale-bearer. When there is no willing audience the tattler may see his sin and turn to more honorable pursuits for fun. Physicians, when examining the tongue, can detect diseases of the body; also by the tongue Christians may note the diseases of the soul.

There is real joy and inspiration in searching out and talking about the good points of our fellow men. The Lord Himself must control our words.

A Poem From The Heart

Many of our young people will be leaving home for the first time to attend University this fall. The following poem was penned by a Mother of one of these young people and describes her thoughts as she reflects on the years of care that lead to this moment.

A MOTHER'S FAREWELL
by Shirley Sears

It seems like only yesterday,
When first I saw his face.
I counted fingers, toes and all,
To make sure they were in place.

I marvelled at his impish grin,
His body so tiny yet strong,
I wondered at his hardy cry,
His surly turned up chin.

Little did I know it then,
Just how swiftly years would fly,
And never pondered thoughts of woe,
That someday, I'd be saying good-bye.

I gathered joy in his first words,
His childish pranks, his stubborn ways,
But all too soon my baby was gone,
And quickly came time for school days.

I praised each funny scribbled sketch,
Each tiny gift so carefully made,
And though he doesn't know it still,
They all have a place where they are laid.

The years went by and my son grew,
And tragedy stalked our door,
But with God's help we saw it through,
And He made him well once more.

It soon came time for questions,
About girls and books and such,
And mother answered best she could,
But often wondered if she helped that much.

Throughout the years of high school,
Came problems big and small,
But somehow mother managed,
And we surpassed them all.

Then finally came that special day,
That we all so proudly hope for,
I sat with pride with all the rest,
And cheered him on for doing his best.

And now my son to manhood has grown,
The time has come for him to leave home,
With a tear in my eye, I must bid goodbye,
And pray God watch o'er him wherever he may roam.

La Jardiniere Garden Club Busy 25 Years

La Jardiniere Garden Club will have served the Municipality of Clare for a period of 25 years in November of this year. Organized on November 15th in 1951, originally organized by a group of veterans at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Comeau at Meteghan River. Eighteen persons attended the first meeting.

Two representatives of the Veterans Loans Act, Mr. C. M. Davis and M. C. Good had been invited to attend this particular meeting of veterans and friends. Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Comeau, Delphis Comeau, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Boudreau, Mr. and Mrs. Delille Boudreau, Rev. Thomas Castonguay, pastor of Saulnierville parish, Mr. Adolph and Clara Comeau, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Comeau, Mr. and Mrs. Etienne (Steve) LeBlanc, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Tufts and Benoit Doucet.

Both Mr. Good and Mr. Davis told the group that they would like to see the veterans homes and grounds made more attractive and productive. Miss Patsy Harney, assistant horticulturist of the provincial government department of agriculture, spoke on the subject of trees, shrubs and flowers as well as on the care of lawns.

From this humble beginning La Jardiniere Garden Club continued to work in Clare in encouraging its members, which had added other persons to join, having as their projects of improvement of the lawns and planting of trees, flowers and shrubs to make Clare beautiful.

During the first years of operation the club held its meetings in the homes of its members although Rev. Castonguay had offered the use of the Saulnierville parish hall to the club for meetings, but they felt a more pleasing atmosphere existed in the homes of its members.

Membership became open to all home owners who were interested in improving their grounds around the home. Each member was asked to bring along a friend to an early meeting and it worked out beautifully with 16 new members joining.

The first president of the club was Mrs. Edith (Daniel) Tufts and Mrs. Thomas Comeau of Meteghan Centre was the first secretary. Mrs. Tufts of Meteghan at that time, served for two years as president and her husband Daniel, served a one year term.

In 1957 the home owners from the Meteghan village area were invited to join the garden club and a good number of new members entered the club. In 1958, a float was entered in the third Acadian Festival of Clare. The first Flower show of the club was held at the Fire Hall at Meteghan in the same year. The flower show was a huge success, the first such show to be held in the Municipality of Clare.

Trees of various types were planted in different areas of the Municipality of Clare to find out which trees would stand up to our winter. Salt spray and heavy winds make it difficult for certain types of trees to grow properly in this area.

Other projects that followed in succeeding years were: the planting of flowers at the "Grotto" at the Colonie de la Jeunesse Acadien (CJA) at Victor's Lake in Concession which was operated by Les DAMES Pauronnesse de la C. J. A. A dahlia club within the bounds of La Jardiniere Garden club was organized and exchange of Dahlia bulbs was made by members.

Ten flower shows were held by La Jardiniere Garden club, 9 of which took place during the Acadian Festival of Clare. The Gay Nineties fashion parade was put on two years in succession during the flower shows and afternoon teas also organized during the flower shows.

The club entered floats in 12 Acadian Festival parades. District meetings were held in Clare during the years of 1962-67-69-72 which consisted of Digby, Shelburne and Annapolis counties in the district. Tulip bulbs were ordered for the club's members direct from Holland.

Mr. Blackburn visited the area on behalf of the club to give advice to club members regarding landscaping of the grounds around the homes and many home owners took advantage of this project. The club also assisted in the Rural Beautification program with assistance by Mr. Jack Harris of Bear River. The latter was guest speaker for the club on numerous occasions during the years.

The club planted flowers at the Soldiers monument at Lower Saulnierville and the following year 1969 undertook a similar project at the Municipal Tourist Bureau at the provincial picnic park at Meteghan. Both are continuing programs.

Trees planted in Clare by members are: tree of heaven; sycamore, maple, white poplar and Carolina poplars. In 1962 the club asked the Parks Branch of the Department of Lands and Forests of the province to have a picnic park established in the Municipality of Clare.

The first park was established at Church Point near Seraphin's Lake near Gerald Comeau's body shop. It served the area for several years but was closed when a new picnic park was established at l'Anse aux Hirondelles (Swallow's Cove) commonly called Smugglers Cove, at Meteghan.

The club purchased a large quantity of limestone for distribution among its membership. Many other benefits were obtained such as better prices for flowers from the nurseries and also garden materials. The fact that a garden club existed in the Municipality of Clare throughout the years since 1951, great improvements to lawns and grounds of the homes has been made. Encouraging home owners to beautify the grounds of their homes has been one of the main objects of the club. The homes in Clare today are a far cry from other years of abandonment of the grounds. Today Clare can be proud of their homes and surroundings.

The presidents of La Jardiniere club since 1951 were: 1951-52 (2 years) Mrs. Edith Tufts (formerly of Meteghan) now of Saulnierville; 1953 Mr.

Daniel Tufts; 1954-55 (2 years) Mrs. Angele Boudreau, Meteghan River; 1956 Mrs. Jacqueline Comeau, Meteghan River; 1957 Mrs. Antoinette Comeau, Meteghan; 1958 Mrs. Lucille Comeau, Meteghan River; 1959 Mrs. Lena Comeau, Meteghan; 1960 Mr. Etienne (Steve) of Saulnierville but now of Digby; 1961 Mrs. Rose Belliveau, Meteghan; 1963 Mrs. Catherine Melanson, Church Point; 1964 Antoinette Comeau, Meteghan; 1965 Mr. Etienne LeBlanc, Saulnierville; 1966 Mrs. Louise Doucet, Meteghan Station; 1967-68 Josephine Comeau, Meteghan River; 1969-70 Mrs. Philomene Saulnier, Saulnierville Station; 1971-72-73 Mrs. Dorothy Jubis, Meteghan; 1974-75 Mrs. Ruth Saulnier, Saulnierville.

Two members of La Jardiniere Garden Club were presented with awards at the Nova Scotia Association of Garden Clubs convention held at the Agricultural College in Truro this summer. Mrs. Doris (Adolph) Comeau, of Meteghan received "The Green Thumb Award" and Mrs. Catherine Comeau, Church Point the "Award of Merit" for the fine work accomplished by them as members of the club.

A Yard Full Of Birds

About this time last year I wrote about the scarcity of birds in the yard. This year I have never seen so many, this is typical all over town. The robins are thick in the yard eating barberry and hawthorn berries and sandwiche in worms from the newly turned garden.

Two little chick-a-dees are coming regularly to the suet along with a hairy and downy woodpecker.

Several hermit thrush have been in the yard and one grey cheeked thrush, a ruby crowned kinglet, two new ones to add to my list of 101 different species seen in the yard over the years.

Lots of birds have been brought in lately. One lady arrived in a dainty pair of bedroom slippers with a sparrow she said "she would have used a siren on her car if she had had one, she was so anxious to get it to me quickly."

The little one is doing nicely but will never fly out again.

A little Junco was brought to me by two children. He was minus his tail and had an injured wing. I was told his name was Pete and that he couldn't fly.

After being in the hospital cage overnight he seemed very perky so I tried him outdoors but he just flopped to the ground and started running with me after him, I finally lost him under some spruce trees, later on in the day I saw him on the lawn, another attempt to catch him failed.

A day passed and no sign of him, I feared the worst but the next day driving along Queen Street I noticed two Junco's on the side of the road, one flew away the other didn't. I then realized it must be my little stray. I got my dip net and went looking for him, finally caught him and he is happy with the rest of my family that now numbers a dozen.

A cedar waxing that hit a window spent the night in the house but was released in the morning.

Found a Goldfinch left in a paper bag on the back door knob. He seemed very dumpy and didn't survive.

Prepare Shrubs For Winter

Homeowners should prepare their shrubs and trees for winter before the ground freezes, caution officials of the Canadian Forestry Service's Maritimes Forest Research Centre, Environment Canada.

Winter injury cannot be prevented entirely, says Mr. T.R. Renault, Centre tree pest extension officer, but the following precautions taken in the fall will help to reduce it:

Apply about six inches of mulch (i.e. leaves or peat moss) to tree bases to prevent deep freezing of the soil.

Protect small ornamentals, particularly evergreens, by placing evergreen branches around them. This will help to hold the snow, partially shade shrubs from sunlight, and protect them from drying winds. Burlap supported by a light framework placed around the tree will serve the same purpose.

Winter damage is characterized by dead branches on hardwoods and red foliage on evergreens, and is caused by early frost and by winter drying.

Injury by early autumn frosts occurs occasionally. Trees that continue to grow late in the season are most susceptible to this injury. Leaves, shoots, and buds are injured or killed and symptoms are similar to, but not as striking as, those resulting from late spring frosts. Linden and elm are more often injured by autumn frosts than are other hardwoods.

Winter drying, also known as "winter killing", is a condition prevalent in conifers. Injury occurs in midwinter or early spring, during mild sunny days with drying winds that follow periods of cold weather. Under such conditions there is excessive loss of water through the needles. This water cannot be replaced because soil moisture, either frozen or too cold, is not available to the roots. Injury therefore is caused by a form of drought. Foliage under snow is not effected.

Native trees adjust to normal seasonal temperatures, but can be injured by abnormally low temperatures at anytime during the year. Frost causes the most serious damage during the early part of the growing season when living tissues are most susceptible. Warm days in early spring stimulate premature growth, and the tree is readily injured by freezing temperatures that follow. Sudden fluctuations from high to low temperatures are more unfavorable to the trees' health than a gradual drop. The most conspicuous symptoms of injury by late spring frost are discoloration, wilting, and death of new leaves and shoots. In conifers the leaves turn red or brown and the shoots curl.

Susceptible species often withstand low temperatures better when planted in soil with good drainage and aeration. The tree pest extension officer therefore suggests that well-drained soils be selected as planting sites for such species. It is also helpful to fertilize and aerate the soil to increase root growth and encourage deeper rooting. Aeration can be obtained by spading the open soil around the trees. However, digging should be shallow, so that feeding roots growing near the surface are not disturbed.

One of the best materials for fertilizing small trees is wellrotted manure, but commercial fertilizers are also suitable and generally more readily available. A fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash in proportions of about 10-8-6 or 10-6-4 is generally recommended. For small evergreens and shrubs, use 2 to 4 pounds of fertilizer to each 100 square feet of ground. Larger trees will require from 1 to 2 pounds for each inch in diameter of the trunk. The fertilizer should be broadcast evenly on the surface of the ground before the soil becomes frozen. It may be either left on the surface or worked into the soil about two inches.

Staff From College Ste. Anne On Provincial Language Training

Premier Gerald Regan has inaugurated a new "Provincial Language Training Unit" on the second floor of the Hollis Building, Halifax.

The furnishings and language training equipment of the new facility to teach oral French have been paid for by the Federal Government and the cost of operating the facility will be borne jointly by the Provincial and Federal Governments.

"The purpose is to assist members of the Provincial Civil Service to learn French when desired, so as to make it possible for them to communicate with other Canadians in both official languages," explained Arthur McDermott, director of the Provincial Government's Projects Implementation Group, which installed the facility.

"The course given at the Language Training Unit is that designed by the Federal Language Bureau for use by Civil Servants, and is known as 'Dialogue Canada'," Mr. McDermott added. It is basically an audio-visual course and will be given on a continuous basis of one hour a day over a three-month period at the introductory, intermediate and advanced levels of language competence.

The Provincial Language Training Unit will be staffed by personnel from College Ste. Anne, who are specialists in the language training field.

The Civil Service Commission said that the training is voluntary. No employee's career prospects will be advanced by enrolling for such studies nor will they be impeded by not enrolling.

A proposed daily schedule with three alternative hours has been prepared. Decisions on the number and frequency of courses will be based on the response from provincial government employees. Similarly, the response will determine who among those indicating a desire to acquire a French instruction will attend the classes and when they will attend.

In addition to the need for working knowledge of French to perform one's duties, the workload and efficient work flow of a department will be factors Digby County now has an official Foster Parent Association. The Association was formed at a Foster Parent Conference which was held at the Admiral Digby Inn, October 16.

Active support for the project was evident by the large turnout of concerned individuals. John Campbell, chairman for the affair, presented an afternoon film and discussion entitled "Children of our Time".

The current problems and new approaches to the difficulties that both foster children as well as foster parents encounter continued as the theme of the panel discussion. The panel included Dr. D. Gordon, General Practitioner; Mr. Jim Outhouse, Lawyer; Mr. B. Kapur, Guidance Counsellor; Miss Rosemary Rippon, Child Welfare Consultant; and Chairman Stan Locke.

"What more can a parent do in order to understand children's problems from their point of view?" was a centering question which the panel shed new light on.

The banquet meal which was accompanied with entertainment and wine, was highlighted by remarks by M.L.A. Joe Casey.

"I know that the work you people do to help the children, and humanity is excellent. Please keep up the fine work."

conference was William MacLeod, Superintendent of the Nova Scotia School for Girls, Truro. Mr. MacLeod, who worked for Social Services for seven years in Digby prior to his present appointment, felt that more emphasis should be placed on teaching children as they are growing up, on how to be a parent.

"Good families don't just happen. We inherit many of the mistakes of our parents, and becoming a good parent is an education in itself," pointed out Mr. MacLeod.

"Parents tend to be idealistic, rather than realistic."

He went on to discuss many of the new attitudes and programs which have been implemented at the school in order to open new avenues of communication and co-operation between the girls and the staff. No matter what situation a foster child is in, whether it be at the school or in a foster home, the more we can show we care and we trust them, the more this attitude will be reciprocal, concluded Mr. MacLeod.

Education Department Assumes Driver Education Costs

The Department of Education in Nova Scotia will be responsible for one hundred percent of Driver Education costs, it was learned on Monday evening from the report of Superintendent C.C. MacInnes before the Digby Regional High School Board. Approximately $750,000, it is understood is earmarked for Driver Education throughout the province.

1976-77 year. They were Gary Morrison, Brian Coker and Hubert Poller.

A letter was authorized to be sent to the Digby Municipal School Board requesting the use of a bus to transport students once a week to CFB Cornwallis for swimming courses from seven o'clock to 8:45 p.m.

Superintendent C.C. MacInnes was given permission to attend a Supervisor's Conference in Halifax on November 12, 13 and 14.

Lester Hannah, principal, extended an invitation to the Board members to visit the school on Wednesday afternoon when the teachers and parents in open discussion will consider educational problems if they have any.

Prior to the High School Board meeting, Board of School Commissioners, under the chairmanship of Capt. Reginald Hazelton, met and approved a total operational budget of $739,315. This, it is understood is $545.55 increase over the previous year. The $739,315 approval does not include teachers salaries. The Commissioners have not yet been made aware of their amount for inclusion in the budget.

William Reid was named vice-chairman of the Board of School Commissioners.

What Is Drunkness?

Drunkness, or intoxication, is the temporary loss of control over physical and mental powers due to overconsumption of alcoholic beverages.

Symptoms, and their severity, vary from person to person. The widespread feeling in the United States that drunkness is acceptable, or even a "comical" form of behavior, may contribute to problem drinking in our society.

Drunkness is legally defined in many States as a .10 percent blood alcohol level, which produces lack of coordination. In other States, it is defined as .15 percent. In either case, it is illegal to drive a car after the specified blood alcohol concentration is reached. (In Canada, the blood alcohol level for legal definition of drunkness is .08).

Old wives' tales to the contrary, you cannot sober up by drinking black coffee, taking a cold shower, or breathing pure oxygen. Alcohol takes a specific amount of time to burn up in the body. Most of the work is done in the liver. (As a general rule, it will take as

Regulations For Direct Sellers

Hon. Maynard MacAskill, minister responsible for the Consumer Services Bureau, says the new Direct Sellers' Licensing and Regulation Act which became effective October 2 requires direct sellers and salespersons employed by direct sellers to be licensed.

Dr. MacAskill says the act will provide more protection to consumers and is intended to eliminate certain unethical direct selling practices.

The new statute defines direct selling of goods and services to a consumer to include almost any merchandising technique other than that of a merchant selling from a recognized retail store.

A major provision of the act provides consumers with a 10-day cooling-off period whereby a direct sales contract may be cancelled. Previous legislation allowed for a five-day period.

The provisions of the new act specifically include the sale or solicitation for sale of hearing aids. Persons selling hearing aids, upon request, must produce their licence which contains the name of the sales person, the company represented, and related information.

The act, passed in the spring session of the legislature, also requires that direct sellers be bonded as well as licensed.

Dr. MacAskill said provisions of the act will be strictly enforced.

Licensing under the act is carried out by the Consumer Services Bureau in Halifax. The bureau also operates offices in Sydney, New Glasgow, Springhill and Middleton.

COUNCIL CONSIDERS PUBLIC HOUSING

G. M. MacPherson, Regional Manager for the Nova Scotia Housing Commission, Middleton, appeared by request of Council at the October meeting on Monday of the Digby Municipal Council when information on Public Housing was given to Council members. Low Rental Housing, Senior Citizen Housing and Co-operative Housing were explained. Senior Citizen Housing, for people who cannot afford the high rents or cannot afford to keep up their own homes, is subsidized by federal, provincial and municipal funds. Mr. MacPherson advised. He further advised that if the Digby Municipality is interested they should start right away for it could take as high as two years to get the project accomplished. Since there is not too much money he said, the point system is used, the first, come and most needy will be served first. Construction costs are provided 75 per cent by the federal government and 25 per cent by provincial and no cost to the municipal unit. Services, however much be shared in by the municipal unit except in rural areas where septic tanks might be used. Mr. MacPherson said the average rent per month for Senior Citizen Housing is $60 while average upkeep per month is $180, resulting in a federal and provincial loss. The structures are not taxable but the municipalities are paid grants equal to the amount of the taxes. Steps which are followed in applying for public housing or senior citizens construction are to form a special resolution, examine the need, how many units needed, find available land to suit requirements and price, when land is approved put out for tender usually lowest accepted, supervise construction, establish housing authority or manager, operate on budget. The Nova Scotia Housing Commission already owns property in Acadiaville, it was mentioned. The land has not been judged by the criteria of health standards, distance from school, Post Office, church, transportation. A series of questions by councillor to Mr. MacPherson gave information on the P and S structure. Usually it is made up of three persons, unpaid and named one each by the federal, provincial and municipal authorities. Usually the manager is part time, the bookkeeper is frequently done by him. The public can attend the Housing Authority or Board meetings but it is not considered to the best interest of the service. Speaking on low rental housing Mr. MacPherson said that these have not proved satisfactory and have not been continued. They have often created slum conditions, a feature which they were designed to overcome. They were planned for helping people to get back on their feet financially by charging rent in proportion to their income. They were supposed to have the rent raised as the income of the person raised and eventually the rent could exceed that which the client would have to pay by private rent. In discussing available land for public housing it was emphasized that useful and good houses should not be torn down for construction as this would defeat the purpose. Mr. MacPherson briefly outlined co-operative housing and left brochures on the subject with each councillor. The Assisted Home Ownership Cooperative program is sponsored by the Nova Scotia government in close cooperation with the federal government. It is a building program in group cooperation. Mortgage money comes from the Nova Scotia Housing Commission and the Commission administers the entire program. Mortgage amounts go up to $29,500 according to income and the brochure sets out interest arrangements, taxes and other pertinent information. Land must be approved by the Commission. Applicants for Cooperative Housing who own their own home are not eligible for the program unless their present home is inadequate.

Do We Have A Nomination For Mayor?

Before going to press it was rumored that the name of Charles Haliburton, local barrister, will be submitted as nomination for Digby Mayor.

Report On Swimming Pool

Until July 1975, anyone interested in learning to swim, had to do it themselves or go to CFB Cornwallis, John Rogers told the Digby Branch Canadian Red Cross in reporting to the Water Safety Committee of the Digby Branch Canadian Red Cross at their annual meeting on Wednesday. John Rogers was the Assistant Director at the Digby Swimming Pool who took over the directorship for Bill Olsen in August, 1975.

With the opening of the Digby Swimming Pool sponsored by the Digby Kiwanis Club in July, 1975, people in Digby had an easily accessible swimming area where swimming was taught and also enjoyed as recreation, John's report revealed.

John told the Red Cross that the pool constructed of vinyl and galvanized steel is of standard commercial size,

Warwick St. Sidewalk Contract To Sign

The Municipality of the District of Digby at their October Council Meeting on Monday decided to request their retained barrister to check a contract submitted by the Nova Scotia Department of Highways regarding the construction of a sidewalk on one side of Warwick St. from the Digby town line East for 1.02 miles to Highway 101.

The construction of the highway is wholly financed by the Department of Highways while the maintenance is a shareable cost between the municipality and the department. The matter of snow removal expense was discussed with the consensus of opinion being that the residents bear the expense of the municipality share of snow removal from the sidewalk.

A letter from Joe Casey, M.L.A. Digby, announced a meeting with Hon George Mitchell on Nov. 18, '75 when the councillors of town and municipality will be invited to discuss the possibility of a sardine factory for the area.

Councillor Ervin Marshall reported that at the end of September there was a balance of $140,000 in the Welfare budget. However, he said, this could be wiped out if the diem rate is raised retroactively. He also noted that the number of recipients seemed to be lessening within the past few months. A new agreement is to be drafted, the councillor reported.

Councillor Helen MacNeil brought to the attention of the councillor that the John Roope farm in Hill Grove has the only dairy herd in Digby County. This she felt is startling. Mrs. MacNeil was presenting her report for the Veterinary Board. She mentioned the veterinarian from Middleton had not been here since July.

Rene Richard, Marshalltown, who attended the full day at Council as a spectator was welcomed by the Warden, Wilfred Swift and Councillor MacNeil. He was thanked for attending and councillors expressed the hope that others might follow his example.

Red Cross Branch Reports 1268 Articles Shipped

Rev. Ronald Stevens, who was re-elected president of the Digby Branch Canadian Red Cross on Wednesday, presided at the 36th annual meeting when it was reported that a total of 1268 completed articles had been forwarded to Halifax from the Digby Red Cross Women's Work Committee.

Though the 1268 articles was a drop from the 1400 articles sent in 1974, there were fewer workers, Mrs. H. M. Warne revealed in presenting the report as co-convenor with Mrs. Allan Stark on the Women's Work Committee. Several unforeseen interruptions in holding of work sessions also contributed to the lesser articles accomplished. Some of the articles included in the total were 50 Afghans, 556 terry diapers, 139 terry towels, 260 terry face cloths, 48 sterilizing covers, 56 dressing sheets, 79 flannellette blankets, 6 cotton dresses, and 13 pairs of baby booties. Also there were 3,225 gauze wipes done.

Cost of materials to do the above articles was estimated at $1000. There were 600 yds of terry towelling used, 166 yards of factory cotton, 79 yards of flannellette and 46 pounds of knitting wool.

A quilt which was finished brought $300 proceeds to go to the Nova Scotia Division's "Money Crisis Fund". The quilt with the "Grandmother's Flower Garden" pattern was donated by Mrs. William Sutcliffe of Mass. and Digby.

115 Minors Registered

Mrs. Reginald Hazleton reported at Monday night's Minor Hockey meeting in Digby that to date 115 Minor hockey players had registered. Another registration will be held on November 1st from 2 to 4 p.m. when it is expected that 20 from the Islands will register. Sale and exchange of equipment can also be made.

The meeting on Monday evening was presided over by Mrs. Victor Kynock, president. R. John Nichol was welcomed as second vice-president and Mrs. Peter Comeau on the finance committee.

Ben Cullen, treasurer, reported $1110.68 as a bank balance plus $1740.00 from registrations, making a total of $2850.68. It is understood that an amount in the vicinity of $4000 will be necessary.

two months after which an evaluation would again be made.

It was suggested that players be requested to help pay transportation gas.

No head referee had been found for the Digby Minor Hockey. A referee clinic at CFB Cornwallis at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, November 1st D.M.G.C. will pay the fee for those who attend with the understanding that they will referee the Digby teams when possible.

It was reported that nine attended the Coaches Clinic Level 1 and there will be a Level 2 clinic November 11th.

Hockey boundaries will remain as originally, it was announced.

The next Digby Minor Hockey meeting is November 24th.

Corporal Earle Smith, R.C.M.P. drug co-ordinator for Nova Scotia said the problem is big enough to warrant a squad in the area.

Cpl. Smith said he did not know why there was a predominance of drugs in the four towns. "Maybe they have a more affluent society. Maybe the kids have more money."

Yarmouth has had a lot of crime, he said. Last summer there was a fairly high crime rate. Drug involvement and crime "go hand in hand."

Mayor Trask agreed drug abuse and crime "go together." If drug users have to steal they will, he said.

When there is a large drug involvement in an area Cpl. Smith said, there will be a spinoff high crime rate with a lot of criminal code offences committed by people involved in the drug trade.

Crimes committed involve robberies and break and enter including forced entries into drug stores, he said. These people needed money to buy drugs.

DIGBY AND TOWN COUNCIL

There is much to be said for dignity in Town Council. The modern world trend, of course, is happy-go-lucky, speak your mind, dress as casual as possible and be right in the swing of things. This is fine to a certain extent but, somehow, too much casualness and disregard for others does not seem to fit in when it comes to the responsibilities of the "Town Fathers" (We'll have to get assistance from Human Rights to rephrase that one) Maybe dignity is an old custom that we've been used to but we see no reason to rid ourselves of it entirely.

Despite the capable presiding of the Deputy Mayor at the Digby Town Council October meeting, councillors forgot dignity in coping with what to them appear to be frustrations. It is the hope of many people in the town that the Council will soon get on a sound footing in conducting the town business and thereby accomplish more for the town. While joking about affairs appeared to be the pastime for awhile, the situation has ceased to be funny and citizens are concerned how we look in the eyes of others. They are concerned and fret about the unbusinesslike performances which might effect decisions of industry, visitors or prospective residents in locating here.

We along with the many town people will be happy to see all these minor offenses which build up to mountains at Town Council meetings be set in proper perspective. Councillors have passed the age of minors. They are aware that no councillor or official of any kind is perfect but there is a right and a wrong way to attempt to point out to others their errors or imperfections. Since personalities, instead of other reasons appear presently to be paramount in the functioning of town business we think it is about time that each councillor and official in Digby put trust in one another and get on with the important business of the town instead of too much emphasis and time on trivial matters. Lets grow up and bring dignity, trust and respect back to the Digby Town Council. Somehow, it appears to have been lost in some measure.

CARE FOR OUR CHILDREN

What is more important to write about this week than about the safety on Friday (Hallowe'en). The Lions Club in Digby do a fine job each year to entertain the children and ever since they started the practice a marked improvement can be seen in the way Hallowe'en is celebrated not only in town but also the surrounding area. However, there are some places in Digby County which do not have an organization to provide such an outlet for children's Hallowe'en excitement and even in town there are the scattering children who'd rather stay on the street than to enjoy the prizes, eats and pop inside. It is to these and their parents that we feel we must bring up the hazards subject and preventive measures to overcome hazards.

Our first warning goes to the car drivers who are not out Hallowe'ening. Remember that Friday is Hallowe'en night and keep a careful watch out for excited children who probably forget about your vehicle and you. We also plead to the teenage Hallowe'eners who have little respect for safety by interfering with the driving safety. Many accidents happen on Hallowe'en night that become fearful regrets the following day.

Parents should be sure to have flame retardant costumes for children. The costume and containers should reflect a light (tape) and the Hallowe'eners should be equipped with a flashlight. Of course daylight is much safer. Masks prevent a child from seeing so it is recommended that make-up on the face should take the place of masks (Children might like to draw on paper what they want to represent. Cold cream under the make-up is suggested). Bicycles are not recommended to use with wearing costumes and carrying containers. Do not carry sharp or dangerous items in completion of the costume.

Of recent years it has become necessary to ask children not to eat Hallowe'en treats until they have been examined by parents. Some demented people have found a dubious pleasure in treating children with dangerously concocted candy and fruits thereby taking away some of the joys of Hallowe'en.

Having written this in hope that we are helping to protect our innocent Hallowe'eners we wish all those who enjoy the fun of Hallowe'ening to have a safe and happy time. We'll see you Hallowe'ening.

NOMINATIONS, YES OR NO

Newspapers and electronic media have been advertising our Digby Nomination Day for Mayor all the way from here to Toronto. We scarcely need to mention it. But, just to do our duty, we'll remind all our respectable Digby citizens (that includes everybody, we hope) that Nomination Day for major (that is the last day Nominations have to be in by five o'clock) is on Tuesday, November 4.

We are big timers in Digby. We make the big city metropolitan pages for worse or for better. It could be for better if some of our sane and capable men or women (for nondiscrimination purposes, called persons) would just have enough of this nonsense and decide to put our house in order. We wish we could write that with a little more confidence but we can hope, can't we? There is little we can say without unconventionally editorializing by sermonizing.

Premier Gerald Regan

It is understood that more than two hundred delegates from in the Commonwealth are attending. From Canada are five members of parliament and two senators besides the Premier and the Casey's.

One of the features of the sessions is an attempt to further development of greater trade and cultural relations throughout the Commonwealth. The week-long meetings began Tuesday.

HIGHWAY SAFETY-CROSSWALK SAFETY

Without meaning to belabor the fact or stress one or two highway accidents more than others, we must confess that accidents in this area have become most terrifying. Within the period of a week the lives of four young men were claimed by the highways. An accident on Friday claimed the life of a Gilbert Cove young man, age 23, bringing the death rate up to four in one week and within a possible 20 mile radius or less. Naturally, such accidents make us very conscious of highway perils. With Highway Safety Week coming we feel compelled to do our bit to encourage highway safety in our columns at this time.

We also are inclined to draw attention to sidewalk safety. No, it isn't a danger of falling in holes or tripping over stones on some of our "sidewalks." These are being rectified to some measure. We refer to staying safe on the sidewalk until you are convinced you are safe in the crosswalk. Vehicle drivers are not exempt from responsibility. Indeed, it is just the opposite. The point we'd like to make is that both driver and pedestrian have a responsibility.

Can the driver see you as a pedestrian in the crosswalk in time or did you suddenly dash out from being screened by a parked car too near the crosswalk? Accidents can happen to the most careful. There are pedestrians, we've seen, who take no precautions but defiantly cross on the crosswalk with the air of "Dare to hit me!"

Unless a crosswalk is very distinctly marked be aware of visitors who might not be prepared to stop quickly when confronted with dangers. Cautiousness and courtesy are much safer than defiance. Take your responsibility seriously both on the highway and the townway. Practice safety.

Hodge Podge

Even editors wouldn't be caught eaves dropping. When an editor hears next table in the House of Wong, the name of Randy Ellis, Birch St., you can't butt in but you can look interested. That clicked. The visitors ventured "Would you know how to get to the Randy Ellis house on Birch St." Luck was with them. The editor lives next door. "Bill Trohon, West Bridgewater, Mass. wants us to call on the Ellis", said the visitors. "Oh, how nice, remember me to Bill" we replied. Yes, Digby is a friendly town, now isn't it! "Bill is a fine man" was the next remark. Well, of course, he came from Digby!

Difference of opinion on how and who on the nominating committee and standing committees brought Warden Wilfred Swift to say that when he chooses a committee he looks for them to do a job and doesn't suspect any underhandedness. Mr. Swift was presiding at the October Digby Municipal Council meeting. He was satisfied for twelve years to be on the Jail Committee. Another councillor said he was on the Jail Committee until he was promoted to the "Harmless and Insane." Suspicion of underhandedness can ruin relationship as we've seen in other organizations. We hope Warden Swift has made his point and will not be burdened.

Dukes Of Kent Parade Of Harmony

Over the years the Kentville Chapter of the S.P.E.B. S.Q.S.A. has enabled many organizations to raise funds for their service work. As well as this the Chapter supports speech therapy, entertains at Hospitals, and other institutions. Mr. R. Wendell Phinney has been the musical director since the chapter was organized. PLAN NOW TO ATTEND — and hear some top-notch "Barbershopping". It is certain you will not be disappointed.

The group has just returned from a competition in Montreal consisting of Barber Shoppers from the Eastern Division.

They will appear in Bridgetown through the efforts of the Bridgetown Lions Club, on November 4th at 8 p.m. at the high school.

SAFE IMPS AND GOBLINS
I have yet to decide who has more fun on Hallowe'en - the giggling witches and impish pirates or the rest of us who watch the delightful little bands of children parading the streets.
To make this Hallowe'en a carefree and memorable evening I hope you will think about our Safety Rules for Favorite Little Ghosts.
Do have adults accompany young children.
Hallowe'en masks restrict vision. Why not be creative with facial make-up instead?
Children should carry flashlights if they are going to be out after dark.
Children's visits should be confined to the IMMEDIATE neighborhood and to known neighbors.
Welcome trick or treaters by turning on porch lights. Children should only call on houses with exterior lights on.
Encourage children to accept only wrapped or sealed candies. Inspect all candy before eating.
Keep pumpkins with candles away from children and passageways.
From the Great Pumpkin Patch at Save-Easy greetings for a Happy Hallowe'en!

AMERO—In loving memory of my dad, Chester Amero, who passed away October 30, 1971.

Farewell, dear father, thy work is o'er

No one on earth we'll find like you.
Always remembered by son Eric, daughter-in-law Carolyn, and grandson Dean. 12:1ip AMERO—In loving memory of a dear Grandfather, Chester Amero who passed away October 30, 1971.

IN MEMORIAM

AMERO—In memory of the late Mr. Chester Amero, who passed away November 30, 1971.

Dearest Chester, you have left us
And our loss we deeply feel.
But 'tis God who has bereft us.

He can all our sorrows heal.
By the medals which you left us
We all know that you were brave.

But to win them you did leave us
And many years of toil you gave.

While your thoughts were ever with us
You fought bravely over seas.

As your aim was that to save us
And to keep your country free.

Your heart was always with us
While pursuing the enemy.
The King's letter truly shows us
That you were highly esteemed.

Those who are here can witness
To the glory of your fame.
Your Faith was gravely shaken.
And at times was very dim.

But you picked up all your courage
And again returned to Him.
Your Communion very fervent
And your prayers so often said.

With your sufferings, Oh, so cruel,
As you lay so long in bed.
All these have surely won you
A grand place above the sky.

Where your loved ones will enjoy you
If they live good Christian lives.
You are missed by all around us
And by those you held most dear.

Yet again we hope to meet you
When the day of life is fled
When in Heaven we can greet you
Where no farewell tear is shed.

In loving memory by wife Rachel.
(Poem written by Sr. Francis Edward, sister of Rachel Amero) 12:1ip

IN MEMORIAM

GLAVIN—In loving memory of our dear mother, Irene Emily Glavin, who departed from our midst, Sunday, October 27, 1974:

A MOTHER'S LOVE IS ALWAYS WITH HER CHILDREN

The healing touch of time
Will ease the sorrow that we bear

Take if from our troubled hearts
And leave warm memories there.

And may those cherished memories
Give us courage, strength and peace
As we realize a love so great

Can never, never cease
She will always be with us,
Daughters May and Alva, sons Lawrence, Merrill,
Weldon and Donald and families. 12:1ip

WAGNER—In loving memory of a dear husband and father Elijah H. Wagner, who passed away October 30, 1974.

Father's not with us any more;
We can not see him with our eyes,
But still within our hearts and minds,
The tender precious memory lies.

Memories of our childhood days,
Wisdom and ways we will never forget,
Kind understanding and love that guides,
An unending spirit that's part of us yet.

So we think of the sun that sets at night.
Taken from view of human eyes,
And with hope and with faith we walk each day,
Knowing tomorrow the sun will rise.

Sadly missed by wife Nellie and family. 12:1ip

WAGNER—In loving memory of a dear Grandfather, and great-grandfather, Elijah H. Wagner who passed away October 30, 1974.

As Angels keep their watch up here
Please God, just let Him know that we Down here, do not forget,
We loved and missed him so.

Always remembered by Grand-daughter Ginney, husband Gary and Great-Grandson Mark. 12:1ic

IN MEMORIAM

YOUNGE—In loving memory of my dear Mum, who left us November 5, 1972

WHERE DO THEY GO
Where do they go, the ones who leave us lonely.

What do they hear when all life's sands run low,
That with a smile, as if by angels bidden,

They loose our clasp, and seem so glad to go?

What do they see that to our eyes are hidden,
What do they hear that beckons them afar
Is it some voice unheard by us, or only

A sapphire gleam from some lonely star?
Where do they go, the ones who leave us lonely,

It is so fair, the land we do not know,
So pure the joys to which their souls are bidden,
So green the fields through which death's waters flow?

What do they see that our eyes are hidden,
That, leaving us behind the earthy bar,

They set their faces heaven-ward — is it only
The lights of home that signal them afar?
Sadly missed by daughter Connie Wood. 12:1ip

Supports Inflation Program

The following message was sent to Prime Minister Trudeau by Premier Gerald A. Regan on Wednesday, October 22, by Telex.

As you know, Nova Scotia and the other maritime provinces support fully the anti-inflation program.

To make wage and salary guidelines both fair and acceptable, everything possible must be done to restrain increases in the cost of living. You are aware of the maritimes unique position in regard to our reliance on imported oil for electrical generation.

As a result of higher oil prices, power rates to the average Nova Scotia household have had to be increased by 36 per cent in the last seven months. In addition, there was a general rate increase of 14 per cent, bringing to 50 per cent the total increase in average household rates. Further large increases will occur as old contracts expire and crude price increases work their way through the system. Since Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island already have the highest electrical rates in the country, further increases can only exacerbate an already bad situation and add to living costs in a way that will affect no other group of Canadians.

Nova Scotia requests, therefore, that urgent consideration be given to a special, short-term measure that will enable the Maritimes to restrict future power increases to percentages that would conform to the Anti-inflation guidelines.

Such a commitment by your government would help to persuade Nova Scotians of the fairness of the Anti-inflation program, and would ease the financial blows that they will face over the next several months. Consumers are constantly aware of the impact of electricity prices and if these costs continue to escalate at the rate they have in recent months, it will be extremely difficult to convince Nova Scotians of the equity involved in curtailing their wage and salary demands.

Graduates Have Dance

"Mutual Aid" at its finest was displayed last Thursday when the Digby Firemen allowed the Digby Neck Firemen, the use of their hall. Through circumstances beyond its control the Digby Neck Fire Department was unable to have its pre-graduation dance at the place scheduled. Because of the cooperation of the Digby Firemen, the Digby Neck Fire Department had their dance as scheduled and a good time was had by all.

This "mutual aid" was appreciated by all. On Saturday night it was bingo as usual. The door prize was won by Eugene Cann. The raffle donated by Myrtle Titus was won by Mrs. Phillip Newell. A Jackpot was won by Mrs. Myrtle Titus.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Digby Neck Volunteer Fire Department had a quilt raffle and had the winning number pulled at the bingo party. Mrs. Laura Tidd was the winner of the quilt.

How Can We Prevent Alcohol Problems?

Problem drinking and alcoholism can never be controlled solely by treating the casualties. The goal must be prevention and this requires early identification of alcohol problems in an individual, and the development of responsible attitudes and behavior in the use of alcoholic beverages. It also requires full respect and acceptance of an individual's choice not to drink; not drinking is as responsible and acceptable a decision as sensible drinking.

Hosts and hostesses have a responsibility to their friends to prevent irresponsible drinking at dinner parties or social gatherings. Food should always be served before and with drinks, and soft drinks made available as an alternative to alcoholic beverages. No guest who elects not to drink alcoholic beverages should be cajoled or shamed into doing so. This includes the abstainer, the recovered alcoholic, or the social drinker who recognizes he has had enough.

Attitudes that accompany responsible drinking behavior in other cultures have been identified. In societies where drinking is practiced only as an adjunct to other activity, where guidelines for drinking are strictly adhered to, and where drunkenness is severely censured, problem drinking is rare. On the other hand, where drinking is accepted as a way of avoiding reality, or where drunkenness is condoned or tolerated, there is a high incidence of problem drinking.

Studies comparing social drinkers with persons who have drinking problems show that for the most part the latter were introduced to alcohol later in life, began with hard liquors, had their first drinking experience outside the home, and got drunk the very first time. Conversely, responsible drinkers usually first tasted alcoholic beverages with their family when they were young, drank occasionally at home, started with wine or beer, and did not get drunk. Programs of education about alcohol, its properties and effects, its potential for harm, and its responsible and irresponsible uses, are now underway by the Federal Government and many local agencies. The aim is prevention of alcohol abuse, alcohol problems, and alcoholism, through developing public awareness of the facts about alcohol.

Woman Uses Guerrilla Tactics In Council Warfare

AFTER QUESTIONS ASKED ABOUT BUSINESS TIES, DIGBY MAYOR DECLARES CONFLICT OF INTEREST, QUILTS

By THOMAS COLEMAN
Globe and Mail Reporter

Digby, N.S. — It was only a few weeks after Councillor Eileen Chipman started asking questions about former Mayor Willard Kinney's business connections with a development company and with town insurance business that Mr. Kinney, who was mayor from January to November, 1974, submitted his resignation.

"She tried to make a lot out of that but I found I just didn't have the time to do both jobs — be mayor and earn a livelihood," Mr. Kinney said. "I declared a conflict of interest. Everybody knew my connection. It's making an issue over things like that which stops this town from moving ahead."

Mr. Kinney, who works as a land appraiser for J.J. Brittain Ltd., a prominent local real estate and insurance firm, was also director of a development company that got $58,000 for sewers and water from the town to serve 27 new dwelling units. "The taxes will pay that back in six years," he said.

Mrs. Chipman demanded that town insurance policies be put out to public tender after she learned that 11 of the 16 town policies with total premiums worth several thousand dollars, were awarded to J.J. Brittain Ltd. without inviting competing bids from other town insurance firms.

The fact that town committee meetings are still held in private continues to bother Mrs. Chipman. Town clerk Glenn Pitman explains that with only three members on most committees, the committee meetings have to be held whenever two or three members are able to find time from work to get together and the public can't be notified in time.

"Most business in this town is still conducted in somebody's store or in somebody's office," Mrs. Chipman says. "They show up at the council meetings and they've got it all arranged how they're going to vote."

Her guerrilla tactics — making motions, amendments and challenges — fluster and confuse the arrangements, however.

"I don't have respect for any of them and some I really pity," Mrs. Chipman says of her five fellow council members. "Some of them don't know a thing about municipal politics — they've never even read the town act and they don't even want to be bothered."

Philip Robertson, the deputy mayor, whom several local groups like the board of trade have urged to become mayor, says he feels "we have a pretty good council with one exception. She's been attending council for years, you think she would know more about its business. She doesn't trust anybody. Anyone in power — the town clerk or the town solicitor — just seems to go against her grain."

He says he won't run for mayor because he hasn't got the time with his business operations.

The job of mayor in Digby pays only $500 a year which is what a councillor earns, Glen Smith, who was mayor until 1974, didn't use to accept the $500. honorarium. He worked for the federal fisheries ministry. Mr. Smith feels he's not got the time to run again.

"As mayor, every time you'd take a trip to Halifax or were going to be out of town more than a day, they would question it and challenge you for wasting taxpayers' money," said former mayor Patrick Comeau.

"And the council couldn't see how to plan ahead. This community is not too well off. You couldn't do projects all in one year because people couldn't afford it. But the council couldn't see how you had to plan a few years ahead to do anything. It just got into personalities, meeting after meeting and I got so frustrated my doctor told me I'd better get out for health reasons."

Mr. Comeau, 65, who resigned as Digby's last mayor on June 2, is retired, as is about a quarter of the town's population. But retired people, he says, won't want to or can't put up with "that kind of aggravation."

Four retired bank managers have been approached to become mayor, but all have refused.

Mrs. Chipman was startled at the September meeting when "right out of the blue" Councillor Regionald Hazleton made a motion to pay the mayor $12,000 a year and councillors each $3,000 a year plus $15 for each meeting attended.

She voted against it, but was the only one. However, her letter to the editor — one of seven or eight she has written since elected — helped prompt a special meeting to reconsider the issue. Ten days later, the whole increase was repealed.

"I changed my vote because it was really just something to draw attention to the problem. You know, we thought it would give people food for thoughts and get them interested," said Deputy Mayor Robertson. "I think $12,000 for mayor this town is too much, but it should be more like $3,000 a year. Then it might get someone interested in the job."

None of the present councillors says he would even consider running for mayor, at any price.

"You'd have to be crazy with a council like this," said Mr. Hazleton, who won acclamation in January to the seat on council Mr. Comeau vacated to become mayor.

Mrs. Chipman is one of the six persons who signed his nomination papers. "but it was a mistake. I just wanted to see someone fill the seat," she says now.

Mr. Hazleton lives outside of town and doesn't own property in the town valued at $3,000 assessment, one stipulation to be eligible for mayor. The only other requirement is that all your town bills are paid by nomination day.

In fact, Mrs. Chipman says she has had a property assessor recently check out the fish storage shed Mr. Hazleton used to qualify for his $500 minimum assessment required to run as a councillor.

"He told me it wasn't worth $100," she says.

There have been three special nomination days set aside for getting a mayor since June. No one has taken out the nomination papers.

Mr. Pitman has arranged another nomination day for November 4 but he doesn't expect any different result. The advertising for each day costs from $75 to $100.

Mrs. Chipman, who has hauled her personal drinking water supply from outside the town limits twice a week for 15 years. "You'd be risking your life to drink town water, nobody does who has any choice," says only a complete investigation of town business by the province can possibly set things straight.

In a letter to the editor in June, she wrote "Since my election, I have questioned and sought information on several areas of town management. This seems to have upset a small group of men who appear to be attempting to intimidate me by viciously attacking my credibility as a public official."

"I believe there is a need for a thorough investigation of the multi-million-dollar business known as the Town of Digby, and sincerely hope for such action, without further delay."

Her pleas to the Legislature in Halifax, however, have so far fallen on deaf ears, except for one curt reply from a provincial solicitor who told her, in effect, that decisions of the majority rule in municipal politics.

Most other councillors feel that sanity will only return to Digby council when Mrs. Chipman quits.

"My car has been damaged twice while I was at council meetings," she says. "But I won't quit until I fulfil my term, unless they shoot me first. I don't care how they threaten me."

Others, like councillor Bill Reid's wife Gloria, say Mrs. Chipman is "using her sex" to advantage.

"They'd put her in her place in short order if she was a man," says Mrs. Reid. "I think if there was another woman on council it would help settle her down a bit."

"I guess we're all a bunch of mice," says deputy mayor Robertson, a burly man. "She uses her sex, there's no doubt. But I'll tell you this — if she was a man, it wouldn't have been a tape recorder that would have got pitched out the window at the last meeting."

Mr. Hazleton has been urging the other members of council to resign en masse. Only with a new election will the people be able to decide what kind of council they want, he says.

In an open letter to council at the last meeting, he said it was either time for the councillors "to do a job or quit."

"And there has been a lot of talk about town clerk Glenn Pitman, that he is receiving too high a salary for his services, that he is rude to councillors and uncooperative. I feel this is very unfair. If the public knew the amount of time that Mr. Pitman puts into town business, perhaps the opinions would change. For example, while he was on vacation, at my request, he drove from his home on a Sunday to the town hall to get tickets for wrestling which he delivered to my house because I had neglected to get them while the town hall was open. I have always found Mr. Pitman as co-operative."

Mrs. Chipman is one of only three town council members who were elected. The others were acclaimed through an election process that sees the major and four councillors elected one year and three more councillors elected the next.

All serve for three-year terms, so there is no regular election the third year. This is the third year. Of those elected, Mrs. Chipman had the highest vote total — 354 votes compared to 352 for deputy mayor Robertson. But she says she didn't want the deputy's job, to which she was properly entitled, but that it wasn't offered to her in any case.

"I'm going to write a book when my three years are over" says Mrs. Chipman who has been praised for her active role in political life by the Nova Scotia Task Force on the Status of Women when it came to town for a session this summer. She uses her tape recordings and clippings for her filing system and for correspondence.

"I'm already working on the book. I'm going to call it, Three Years behind the Iron Curtain."

Most folks in Digby, while they may not like the national notoriety she has given the town, agree with her devil's advocate political role.

"It's the old ladies who put her in there," said one councillor.

"It's the poor people who support her — the welfare cases," said another.

But more typical was the reaction of grocery store manager Robert Warner when a reporter tried to interview him about town politics. "I'm not going to shoot my mouth off to a paper," he said. "I'm man ager of a store here."

Arthritis Prevalent And Disabling

"Recent arthritis research has substantially increased our knowledge of rheumatoid arthritis, one of the most common and most severe types of arthritis," according to Dr. Hugh Smythe, Chairman of The Arthritis Society's Medical and Scientific Committee. "There are two reasons why this is important: one because it is so prevalent and, secondly, because it can be the most disabling and deceptive form of arthritis. In terms of cost to the economy it far exceeds the waste of the big killers," he says.

Rheumatoid arthritis, more common among women than men, affects the whole body, not just the joints. It may leave the patient bedridden, or confined to a wheelchair; unable to walk, unable to write, unable to comb her hair or feed herself. And she may suffer intense, severe pain. "No matter what the type, arthritis tends to run a different course in each of its victims," Dr. Smythe points out.

Fortunately, today there is help and there is hope. The Arthritis Society spearheads the attack on arthritis. It encourages governments, hospitals and the health professions to play their part in the conquest of arthritis. "We are now on the threshold of the best arthritis control program in the western world," Dr. Smythe continues. "And, despite the absence of a cure, substantial advances have been

The Arthritis Society's grants are made to help research workers acquire the technicians, equipment and supplies necessary for the prosecution of effective arthritis research. The recipients derive no pecuniary benefits whatsoever from their grants, Dr. Smythe stresses.

"Arthritis research has produced understanding of this disease beyond the most optimistic forecasts of 10 or 20 years ago," says Dr. Smythe. "We shall count on continued financial support to help conquer arthritis — anybody's illness. It is better to prevent disability than to correct it."

Gold In The Hills

There is a touch of sadness in the air, It is Autumn everywhere. The sky, one vast, pastured blue, for flocks of cloud-heards passing through. The wide expanse and drifting slowly, in scattered state of melancholy. The world awaits, breathless in the silent air, crimson, red and golden dressed, in Autumn's lovely vividness. A new spice to winds, where distant hills are bold, beckoning not to fortune-hunters, greedy for gold. Only for us, who seek for Beauty, addicted to her charms, quiet, lost in wonder, held close in Autumn's arms. Then turn away, with wistful thoughts, we sadly journey on, knowing Winter comes to stake His claim, with silver, white chiffon. Anne Kaye

Minor Hockey Changes

CAHA

The 1975-76 hockey season will see many new rule changes taken into effect. Following is a general interpretation of the important rule changes and or additions:

Rule 30 - Major Penalties

For a second, major penalty infraction in the same game, to the same player, including goalkeepers, such a player shall be ruled off the ice for the remainder of the game.

(Major penalty plus a Game Misconduct)

Rule 31 - Misconduct

Penalties

A Misconduct Penalty, a Game Misconduct penalty, or a Gross Misconduct penalty, shall also carry with it a 2 minute minor penalty.

Rule 40 - Referees and Linesmen - Helmets

All referees and linesmen shall wear a hockey helmet, preferably black in colour.

Rule 53 - Crosschecking

A minor penalty shall be assessed any player who crosschecks an opponent.

Rule changes provide for a major penalty if any player strikes an opponent with a crosscheck above the normal height of his shoulders, whether or not injury results. A match penalty shall be assessed any player who deliberately attempts to injure or deliberately injures an opponent with a crosscheck.

Rule 59 - Fighting

In addition to previous penalties under this rule, the following will also apply:

1. a player who is identified by the referee as being the instigator of, or the aggressor in a fight, shall be assessed a Game Misconduct penalty in addition to any other penalties he may incur.

2. any player wearing a ring(s), tape or any other material on his hands who is involved in a fight or altercation, shall be assessed a Match penalty in addition to any other penalties he may incur.

3. any player or players continuing to hold their opponent(s) in any manner while a fight is in progress between other players, shall, after being warned once by the referee, to desist, be assessed a Minor penalty. If the player or players persist, a Game Misconduct shall also be assessed.

Complete new rule with changes follows:

a. The carrying of sticks above the normal height of the shoulders is prohibited, and a Minor penalty may be assessed any player violating this rule.

b. Any player who strikes an opponent above the normal height of his shoulders with a high stick shall be assessed a Major penalty regardless of whether injury results or not.

c. A Match penalty shall be assessed any player who deliberately attempts to injure or deliberately injures an opponent with a high stick.

d. contacting the puck with the stick above the normal height of the shoulders shall result in a Minor penalty being assessed. Play shall be stopped immediately.

Rule 73 - Molesting Officials

Complete new rule with changes follows:

a. Any player, coach, manager, trainer or stickboy, who intentionally touches, holds or pushes a Referee, Linesman or Minor official before, during or after a game shall be assessed a Match penalty and shall be reported to the President by the Referee.

b. Any player, coach, manager, trainer or stickboy who deliberately strikes, trips or body checks a referee, linesman or minor official before, during or after a game shall be assessed a Match penalty and shall be reported to the President by the Referee.

c. Any player, coach, manager, trainer or stickboy who threatens or attempts to strike a referee, linesman or minor official, before, during or after a game shall be assessed a Match penalty and shall be reported to the President by the Referee.

Rule 84 - Spitting

In addition to present rule, add the following:

"Any coach, manager, trainer or stickboy who deliberately spits on or at an official or an opponent shall be removed from the bench and ordered to the dressing room for the remainder of the game. The referee shall report full details of the incident to the President."

MINOR HOCKEY CHANGES

The Co-incidental major penalty rule will not be applicable to minor hockey. In minor hockey, any player including, the goalkeeper who is assessed a Major penalty under the following infractions, shall be assessed, in addition, a game Misconduct:

a. Crosschecking

New Rule 53 (b)

Crosschecking an opponent above the normal height of his shoulders

New Rule 53 (c)

Crosschecking a goalkeeper while he is in his crease, or injures an opponent as a result of a crosscheck.

b. Fighting

all major penalties for fighting.

c. Highsticking

New Rule 63 (b) highsticking an opponent above the normal height of the shoulders

d. Hooking-injuring an opponent by hooking. Rule 72

- Leaving the Player's or Penalty Bench during an altercation on the ice.

f. Slashing

Injuring an opponent by slashing.

As is noted by the rule changes, the emphasis is to curb injuries caused by high sticks, crosschecking, slashing and hooking; better protect officials; and deter players from fighting.

Once this is accomplished, hockey will become a more enjoyable sport to play, and from the spectators point of view, more enjoyable to watch.

NOTE: - Any further information, interpretations, or explanations may be had by contacting NSHA area representative ERNIE LE FORT at 46 Hillside Dr., Cornwallis, N.S., Phone No. 638-8064; Work: 638-8367.

Champion Softball Team

Bridgetown Acadian Distillers softball team is the Nova Scotia Intermediate "D" Champ for 1975.

Bridgetown, to win this title, had to face teams from Springhill, New Waterford and Dartmouth in a tournament at New Waterford on October 12 and 13.

The first team Bridgetown had to meet was New Waterford and defeated this team by a score of 11-6.

Next Bridgetown met Dartmouth, with Bridgetown winning this game by a score of 6-3. Due to rain the tournament couldn't be completed and was delayed until this past weekend, October 25, in Trenton, with Dartmouth and Springhill playing to determine which team would play Bridgetown in the finals.

Dartmouth and Bridgetown met again for the finals and a very interesting game was had. Bridgetown won by a score of 3-1, thus Bridgetown went undefeated.

Bridgetown Acadian Distillers will host the Maritime Championship between Hoyt, N.B., on Sunday with game times at 11:00 a.m.; 1:00 p.m., and 3:00 p.m. if necessary.

Islands Consolidated - Badminton

This year, for the first time, a boys team from Islands Consolidated School entered the Canadian Junior Team Badminton Championships sponsored by the Pepsi Cola Company. Every school in Canada is entitled to enter a team of not less than 4 nor more than 6 boys. (The girls play-off, structure is similar). These teams compete on a local, regional, provincial and inter-provincial basis until a Canadian Champion is declared. Only winning teams advance into play, with the losses each time dropping to the sidelines. Each confrontation between two teams consists of 9 matches, (5 singles, 4 doubles).

The team representing Islands consolidated this year was not really expected to advance very far. To be sure, there was talent present. One of the members, Stephen Comeau, is one of the more highly talented junior players in the county today. The others, however, had not played much competitive badminton. The second ranked player, Tony Thurber, was an "under 14 Provincial champion 5 years ago and had not played since that time. The third ranked player, Billy Howard, took the game seriously only last year and has made giant strides thereafter. The last member of the team, Randy Elliott, is a converted basketball player who has attended practices only since September. But together these four, tabbed by their friends as the "fearless foursome" took on the best badminton talent in the province and when the smoke cleared, they weren't far from the top.

Their record during the past few weeks looks something like this. The first opposition came from Digby, who had defeated Bridgetown to reach the second plateau of the play-offs. Capitalizing on strong singles play, the Islands team defeated Digby 7-2. Next came a most formidable from Kentville, perennial badminton champs in almost all categories. All games here were hard fought, but an indomitable spirit proved the difference as Islands won 5-

4. And now the moment of truth - The provincial championships. Here the winners of the 4 provincial regions met to decide provincial supremacy. The semi-final action pitted Islands VS. Sackville. In this the doubles matches were even and the singles long and close but the sense of victory was imminent. Again a victory - this time by a 6-3 margin. And finally Truro, Provincial "runner-ups" for 3 consecutive years. A strategy conference was in order. If Islands won three singles matches they'd only need to break even on doubles. "Voila" Islands had the singles 3-2.

DEER HUNTERS:

1975 HUNTING REGULATIONS FOR DIGBY, YARMOUTH, SHELBURNE CO.'S

During the hunting season November 1 - November 30, Digby, Yarmouth and Shelburne counties are designated as an experimental deer management zone. For 1975, special deer hunting regulations are in effect.

Regulations respecting Deer Hunting made pursuant to Section 130A of the Lands and Forests Act:

2. (1) Subject to the Lands and Forests Act, as amended, and these regulations, a person, being the holder of a valid Big Game License and within the period from the first day of November to the thirtieth day of November in any year, both dates inclusive, may hunt:

(a) deer with visible antlers exposed above the skin, at least one of which must be three inches in length from burr to tip, in the Counties of Shelburne and Yarmouth, and
(b) deer, regardless of sex or antler growth in all other Counties of the Province.

Farm Machinery Course Offered

A comprehensive course in the adjustment, maintenance and repair of farm machinery is being offered for the first time this year at the Nova Scotia Agricultural College in Truro.

The course was introduced as the result of the demand for farm equipment technicians on farms, in machinery dealers' repair shops and with the equipment companies themselves.

With an emphasis on shop work, the course includes instruction in the adjustment, care and repair of farm diesel and gasoline powered tractors, two cycle engines, hand and power tools, the identification of parts, recognition of defective parts and the procedures to be followed in tearing down and re-assembling equipment.

Instruction will also be given in oxyacetylene and electric arc welding and hydraulic principles and systems as they apply to farm equipment. Some related subjects include basic accounting procedures, the maintenance of inventory and record systems.

Other topics included in the course are work simplification, shop management, communications and safety.

The third semester of the course, from May to July, will be arranged so that students will be able to gain practical experience with farm equipment dealers.

Graduates of the present agricultural engineering technician course can negotiate approximately 50 per cent of their credits if they wish to enter the farm equipment technician program.

DIGBY HAS A MAYOR

A young Digby barrister, Charles (Charlie) Haliburton was on Tuesday elected mayor of the Town of Digby by acclamation. The nomination of Mr. Haliburton was the only one placed until five o'clock closing time on Tuesday.

Mr. Haliburton came to Digby in 1962 when he completed his law studies at Dalhousie University. In Digby he was in practice in the law firm of M. S. Leonard until he opened his own practice. Born in the Valley, the son of Hon. E. D. Haliburton and Mrs. Haliburton, Wolfville, Mr. Haliburton received his earlier education at Horton Academy and Acadia University, Wolfville.

The new mayor has experience on three levels of government, the municipal (town) where he served as a councillor in the Town of Digby for a term of two years; provincial because of his close association with his father who was a provincial M.L.A. and member of the cabinet and on the federal level where he represented South West Nova in 1972-1974.

Charles Haliburton's nomination came in the fourth call for candidates for the mayorship of Digby. Three previous nomination dates failed to bring forth any offers. The mayor's chair had been vacant since May 1975 when the then mayor, Patrick Comeau found it necessary to resign. Six months prior the mayor's chair was declared vacant by the resignation of Mayor Willard Kinney. Mr. Kinney had been successful in winning the seat less than a year before.

In an interview with Mr. Haliburton, The Digby Courier was told that he had been strongly urged by many people to let his name be submitted. He felt there was a need for a mayor and no one seemed to have the confidence to come forward. He hopes, he said, that the next time will be different and someone else will offer. Mr. Haliburton is anxious to have the co-operation and the participation of the town's people and looks forward to worthy suggestions, advice and interest from the citizens. He intimated that he favored volunteer committees from the town to examine and assist and be in general helpful to what he hoped to be an on-going prosperous town. He asked that people come forward and offer their services.

R.C.M.P. Band Performs

More than 1800 Digby school children in the afternoon and hundreds of adults in the evening enjoyed the forty-five member full dress uniform R.C.M.P. Band from Ottawa which presented concerts at the Digby Forum on October 29th.

The occasion coincided with the opening of the Digby Forum following the installation of new freezing equipment. In December of 1974, the Digby Recreation Commission was faced with the expense of the unit when an explosion destroyed the plant as existed. By efforts of a fund raising committee chaired by Mrs. Reginald (Olive) Hazelton and grants from governments (including locals) and organizations the magnificent project was accomplished.

Here for the opening, which preceded the R.C.M.P. Band concert, was "Bill" Spurr, formerly of Deep Brook and Weymouth and now employed with the Department of Recreation, Halifax.

Captain Reginald

Hazelton, president of the Digby Recreation Commission, presided as Master of Ceremonies and introduced guests and the members of the fund raising committee. He also presided at an informal reception at Barnacle Bills following the concert.

Among the numbers presented were a Tribute to Walt Disney; tunes from the World of Show Business; a medley with a Latin American beat; a musical tribute to Chicago; theme music from several TV shows; "A Visit To Nashville", an arrangement with a country flavor; and "On The Quarterdeck" march. The concert closed with "O Canada". Nearly all of their music is arranged by their own band members. They have two full time arrangers, and one part time arranger, Blenis Pennell from Glace Bay, Nova Scotia

Project $2,908,250 Into Five Year Program

A $2,908,250 projection for a five year program was approved at Digby Town Council on Monday evening. By municipal requirements a five year projection is necessary. The budget presented by Town Clerk, Glen Pitman, was moved for approval by Councillor Gordon Ellis, Finance Chairman, seconded by Councillor William Reid.

The five year plan for general government included such items as $40,000 for fire truck; $5,000 for fire alarm system; $35,000 for paving; $3,000 for tractor; $12,000 for truck; $50,000 for water works (Com.); $1,992,250 for sewer; $16,000 for rink; $15,000 for electric facilities; $100,000 for Town Hall; $115,000 for paving (1976-79); $50,000 for storm sewer (77-78); $60,000 for sidewalks (76-79); $150,000 for breastwork (76-77) and $50,000 for recreation complex.

October current bills passed for payment amounted to $6,497.00.

Kiwanians Campaign For Pool Funds

A press conference held on Friday morning by the Digby Kiwanis Swimming Pool Committee announced the launching of a fund-raising campaign for the Digby Swimming Pool. Present to answer questions and offer information were J.J. Brittain, special pool fund-raising Chairman; R. MacLeod Rogers, president and James Gillis, treasurer.

Already the committee, it was found, have prepared letters of solicitation to mail after the postal strike is over to provincial business and industrial firms. These will be followed by requests for donations from service clubs and local merchants and professional people. Donations from individual contributors will also be welcomed, the committee advised.

The Kiwanis Club has bills to the amount of $25,000 to pay and the campaign now being launched is hoping to get $12,500 of the $25,000 needed. There is no operational deficit for the pool but there are capital expenditures to be covered, before 1976, president Rogers told the press.

The pool opened in June 1975 is of standard commercial size and is of vinyl and galvanized steel construction. It is 82 feet long and 42 feet (6 lanes) in width. It ranges in depth from 3 feet 6 inches in the shallow end to 9 feet in the deep end of the pool. The pool has a relatively large shallow end which allows ample room for instruction of two or three classes of non-swimmers at once. The change house adjacent to the pool houses separate change rooms for males and females with appropriate shower, basin and toilet facilities, an office and reception area and an engine room, which houses the circulation pump and chlorination equipment.

The pool was staffed in the summer of 1975 by competent and qualified instructors and lifeguards and operated under the rules and guidelines laid down by the Canadian Red Cross Society and the Royal Life Saving Society. Both swimming and life saving were taught. An Opportunity for Youth grant, applied for and obtained by the young group who managed the pool for the summer, provided most of the operating and maintenance cost. Without the initiative of this group and the grant they obtained, it is doubtful that we could have opened the pool in the summer of 1975.

The need for this facility in the town, Mr. Rogers said, is evidenced by the fact that approximately 400 people, mostly children, but some adults, registered in the three instructional periods through the summer (each program lasted three weeks). Together with the recreational swimming, it is estimated that the pool was used by individuals over 10,000 times.

The need of a swimming pool for Digby youth has always been a vision of the Digby Kiwanis Club. In its earlier years the Kiwanis Club had established a swimming pool at the Racquette but because of pollution it had to be abandoned. All means of fund raising for the project had been used such as apple sales, sponsored Easter pages in a local newspaper and means. Similar fund raising means have been used for the Kiwanis Swim Pool on Mount St. with the walk-a-thon project of late years being a substantial contribution.

Reviewing the costs, of the present pool, Mr. Rogers said, the total cost of the pool complex, which included the installation of the pool itself, the construction of the change house and deck around the pool, the erection of a protective fence around the pool and landscaping amounts to approximately $80,000. Of this amount, the Nova Scotia Department of Recreation contributed $30,000. The Kiwanis Club of Digby and a number of its friends and benefactors provided approximately $25,000, leaving a balance of $25,000 yet to raise. Cheques should be made payable to the Kiwanis Club of Digby, Swimming Pool Trust, and sent or delivered to the Royal Bank of Canada, P.O. Box 1000, Digby, Nova Scotia. Receipts will be provided promptly for Income Tax purposes, it is understood.

High Fundy Seas Claim Woman's Life

High seas on the Bay of Fundy on Saturday claimed the life of Mrs. Leona Cole, Saint John, N.B., age 42 years. Mrs. Cole was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Middleton, Weymouth Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cole had visited Mr. and Mrs. Middleton enroute from Halifax and were returning on Saturday to Saint John, N.B. with their car and Prowler Travel Trailer on the Princess of Acadia. Mrs. Cole became seasick and decided to rest in the trailer when a freak accident of a transport truck turning over on the trailer caused Mrs. Cole's death. Mr. Cole was taken to Saint John General Hospital for treatment on arrival.

It is said that seas were extremely rough and the tide in the Bay of Fundy high. Gusts of wind during the day reached 54 miles per hour.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Cole was held in Saint John, N.B. on Wednesday at one p.m.

93 Year Old Grows Big Turnip

C.E. Lambertson, Barton, will be 93 years old tomorrow. Being so near to 93 did not hinder Mr. Lambertson even a little when he brought to The Digby Courier a king size turnip last week. The turnip weighed fourteen and a half pounds and measured 29.8 inches by 32 inches around.

During his life Mr. Lambertson spent seventeen years in the United States doing landscaping. He and his wife again returned to Barton where they ran a boarding home. In 1950 Mrs. Lambertson passed away and Mr. Lambertson has lived alone since.

Mr. Lambertson enjoys his garden and gardens fairly extensively. The dry 1975 summer did not deter the crops which produced for Mr. Lambertson ten quarts of peas, one bushel of beets, string beans, lettuce, carrots, turnips and parsnips.

Dahlias seem to be a specialty for Mr. Lambertson. Being a dry summer, 1975 was particularly good for dahlias. They do better in dry weather, he says. His yield is usually about one hundred bulbs and one hundred pounds.

Robert Dugas Paid To Play

Robert Dugas, seventeen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Luke Dugas, Conway, has come to the place where he is now being paid to play hockey. He is playing with a senior team in Halifax and in the first game on Sunday, Robert scored two goals and three assists. The team, it is expected, will play a game in Digby.

Midget Hockey Camp where his course taught him how to teach hockey to others.

Robert and his father Luke, have been avid supporters and participants in Digby Minor Hockey. In the 1975 summer, Robert represented Digby at the

Woodworking Plant Opened

Donald Cameron of Industrial Estates Ltd., small business financing of Halifax (above) cut the ribbon when the Digby Woodworkers Incorporated had their official opening on October 20. The plant is located in Smith's Cove. The blessing prayer was given by Father Maillett, Digby, and S.C. Belson, manager of Industrial Incentives, D.R.E.E., spoke to the audience of some one hundred persons. Other guests included Eric Allen of Industrial Estates Ltd.

A welcome was extended by Andrew Brooks, an owner of the plant before a tour of the establishment was made. Also leading the tour were Lawrence Banks and son, Rodney Banks also owners and directors of the business.

Cecile Lyold was winner of a door prize donated by T.P. Calkin.

Costume above does not always carry away the Hallowe'en costume awards. Trudy and Wendy Hall, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hall, King St., Digby, especially adapted themselves to characteristics of elderly persons at the Digby Lions Club Hallowe'en party. Their walk, posture and movements were portrayed as by veterans in the art. This had much to do with their best costume prize.

CLEAR SAILING

This is really not meant to be an editorial. It is an explanation instead. Ordinarily our policy would be to let sleeping dogs lie and give a new mayor or other new officer or leader clear sailing. We hope this to be. In order to give our readers (those concerned) an idea of what was being said about us in high places and give them an opportunity to assess the situation, we printed the second installment of the article about Digby in the Toronto Globe and Mail. Oddly enough we were given a copy of number two first and number one was passed to us too late for our last issue. We feel that to be fair to everybody we must also print installment one. Nobody will be happier than us for serenity.

Which also reminds us. Thanks to all the kind people who called to compliment us on our "Dignity" editorial when we apologized to someone for inflicting it, by mistake on our readers twice they remarked "We thought that was for emphasis. It was a good editorial." Thanks anyway.

And again Clear Sailing.

QUIET HALLOWE'EN

It was a nice quiet Hallowe'en in Digby and as far as we could see it was the same in villages around Digby County. Those in authority were quite pleased. Such reports must restore anyone's faith in humanity, especially in our young people, if faith was ever lost.

Personally, we had prepared, as of other years, for about 50 guests but, do you know what? We had exactly two pre-schoolers (and mothers), four schoolers (and mother) and one high schooler. However, the Lions Club Hall was filled with lots of well behaved children. We feel that says something to all of us.

We enjoyed our own entertaining of our Hallowe'en guests. Maybe a little unusual. At least a little different. Just that same day we were asked "How do you manage about the kids trick and treat when you go to the Lions Club Hall on Hallowe'en night?" Oh, we said, we just put the dishes out and the children help themselves. We have never had any one to abuse the privilege of helping themselves, we said, or, at least, to very little extent. Nothing that we were ever sure about, anyway. In fact, we got the idea from the late Mrs. Hortense Gilliat, Annapolis Royal. If she can trust the kids, why can't we, we had argued with ourselves. So we tried it and it worked.

That was why we were so much amused about our experience in 1975. A delightfully fine looking boy we knew him and he knew us by name (editorial we and us only). He wasn't wearing a mask this year and drew this to our attention. Could he have two of the chocolate bars placed out in the dish on the table, he asked. Why of course, we replied. Next our visitors wanted to know if we had a bandaid for his hand. "Sure". We examined the scratch to be certain it didn't require professional medical attention and then casually wended our way to the kitchen for supplies as usual we were humming (no it wasn't "His Eye Is On the Sparrow and I Know He Watches Me", it was that song "Her Eye Is On The Bar - ows And I Know She Watches Me"). Our errand didn't take long. We were back in a jiffy. Couldn't find the band aids in a jiffy though, so we chose other medicinally recognized aids for skinned palms.

Our point is, of course, that in that time our Hallowe'ener had seen "someone" (and we knew it) come in the porch and go right out without saluting his hostess. The dish of 30 to 40 chocolate bars went out too. We told the visitor not to have them returned. After all, that wasn't the sterling silver bowl which held the chocolate bars, it was nothing but the white plastic mixing bowl. And chocolate bars! We can think of things more polluting and damaging than those. They had fulfilled their purpose anyway. They were for Hallowe'en. Whose Hallowe'en didn't matter.

Oh, by the way, we began to prepare the gauze to bind up our visitor's "wounded hand" but we always did hear that "time is a good healer". And it was.

Now, we wouldn't need to worry if those mystifying TV programs never got anymore brutal or murderous than that. Would we? Could we have talent and script at hand. A quiet Hallowe'en 1975. How about 1976? Come back again friends. You're welcome.

Hodge Podge

"The mail must go through." That has been a quotable quote for many years defying rain, snow, or hail and even strikes. However, one might get a bit carried away with that slogan. For instance, the person who demanded their newspaper last week "even if you have to bring it on your own two feet." Of course, that could be a compliment to the newspaper. Maybe Mackasey ought to be notified about the prestige of some newspapers and call a halt to this strike irrespective of spiralling costs! —

How Digby does progress! A write-up on Digby in the Toronto Globe and Mail had to be accommodated in two installments to get the Digby story across in a satisfactory manner. To the reporter we were accommodated by receiving installment two but we haven't seen installment one. Likely the postal strike has interfered. We've having a wrestle with our conscience whether to consider the postal strike, therefore, a curse or a blessing in disguise. —

My how we've grown! Two years when we first went off set one vehicle would carry the Couriers for Digby and vicinity. This week it took two heavily laden cars to cover the same area.

—The editor thought she ought to be getting a nice new portrait done by about this time before Christmas. Unexpectedly, though appreciatively, however, she doesn't need to. You know how Ottawa hands out cheques to senior citizens (if there happens to be any). Well, somewhere in Toronto they hand out portraits, sort of pictures in words. Didn't think about asking if they give them to senior citizens too, or just editors! Anyway a newspaper reporter from that fair city described your Digby editor as demure. Made a pretty good picture for Digby. It means brave, staid, shy, seemingly modest (kinda like that one) and of good manners. You ask how we know all that. Looked it up in the dictionary of course. Can't take any chances with those big city daily reporters. So we've found. —

—Oh, oh, somebody's fingers will get rapped by the Human Rights. Did you see the advertisement last week for a nightwatchman? Get out your Human Rights "by-laws". That should have been nightwatchperson. It excluded women, worse than anything else it excludes women in International Women's Year. Can't you right now see all those women clammering for that night watchperson job if they hadn't been so blandly discriminated against! Watch out for that Task Force On The Status of Women. Oh, pardon, pardon, we mean Status of Persons. Well, lucky for us all that we've had and have two fine men, Steve and David, at Human Rights in Digby office to keep us straightened out. Human Rights can get awfully confusing. —

—That's a new one on us! What's a quickie-squisie? Sounds something like that. Anyway, it is on right now at the Grace United Church Hall. They tell us some of those quickie-squisie items go for as high as 25 cents. We'd better all go. It will be all over at noon. We even get education thrown in free of charge. We find out what a quickie-squisie is and, who knows, we might learn how to spell it. —

Letters To The Editor

DEAR MRS. WALLIS,
DIGBY COURIER AND MOTHERS OF BROWNIES AND GUIDES:

Recently a meeting of Digby Local Association of Brownies and Guides was held at Digby Lions Hall. With the exception of the leaders and executive, there were only two Mothers present. It was suggested that perhaps the Mothers did not realize what the L.A. (Local Association) and its purposes were, hence this letter.

The L.A. is an organization that aids the Brownies and Guides in any way it can - it raises money through cookie day, pantry sales, etc., often with the help of Brownies and Guides. This money is used for camping equipment, outings, badges, support of the Provincial Guiding Movement, buying uniforms for the underprivileged children, and support of the local packs. The L.A. is also a liaison between Guiding on the Provincial and Local levels.

Anyone who is interested in the Guiding movement is welcomed to become a member of the L.A. Our principal members, however, have been MOTHERS, and all are urged to take some interest in this work.

The L.A. meets only two or three times a year and the time involved is slight. We realize, of course, that you may be involved in other things or may feel you have nothing to offer - there is always a need for people to teach badge work and to test. Also, committee work, ways and means, uniform clearance, telephone calling and transportation. We feel that any parent who is interested enough to send their children to take part in the Guiding Movement would be pleased to help - once the need is realized.

Please, if you have any question, call me at 245-5466. You may also call Mrs. Gloria Reid at 245-2165, or Mrs. Florence Fletcher at 245-4903. Do try to make our next L.A. meeting - we would like to have you.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Patricia Kynock

Editor,
Digby Courier,
"BEEF" NO. 2

When I bought my nice home in Digby, a couple of months ago, I had the idea that you were a progressive and up-and-coming town, as many of the residents said you were, but in the direction field your town fathers are all at sea. Either they are not the best business men in the world or lack some of the requirements of good administrators.

The lack of directional signs is one of the areas where they fall down badly. This is "Beef" No. 2, but I wrote you "Beef" No. 1 after nearly getting lost trying to maneuver my way down town from my new home on Second Avenue. Because of lack of signs on the corners, I had to stop my car several times and ask directions to the post office, bank, or wherever I wanted to go. But time and my powers of observation overcame that and I can now get around very nicely. But the suggested signs have not been erected yet, as far as I can see, so I am still wondering how the strangers and tourists are getting along.

But the lack of road signs are by no means your worst short sightedness. What about your Town Hall, so called? In the first place, it is not in the proper location, but should be on or near Water Street. Hence my "Beef" No. 2.

In order to find the town hall to pay some bills yesterday, I had to get directions from a stranger, who said it was on a side street, opposite the Bank of Nova Scotia. He was right to a point, but it was not across from the bank, but up the hill another block, and even when I did "locate it", I couldn't find any name or sign to tell me it was the town hall. I went in the small building anyway, which had "No Parking" signs around it, so I went up stairs, and sure enough I at last found it.

If your town fathers haven't got enough money to buy a proper building for your headquarters, surely they can get a sign-painter to erect and paint a few signs leading from Water St. up to the building you have, and on the hall paint IN LARGE LETTERS, "TOWN HALL".

That shouldn't cost too much or be out of reason. Big letters, mind you, a couple or three feet high announcing TOWN HALL, would tell the confused tax payer where you were located.

Do you want me to give you "Beef" No. 3? I just might do that some day, because I'm keeping my eyes open.

Welcome To Digby Town

(By Kay Outhouse)

I don't envy the folks out in the city
I'm tired of bright lights and twisted steel
I found a quiet place in Nova Scotia
In Digby Town where the folks are real.

Where a hard working friendly people
Make a living from the land and from the sea
Since the days of iron men and wooden vessels
Digby's Fishermen go out to sea.

Where the tidal waters play along the Fundy
Come have yourself a clam-bake on the shore
Or you may have a good old scallop chowder
Come on in, there's fishing

Smith's Cove Volunteer Fire Department Sponsors Supper

The Smith's Cove Volunteer Fire Company sponsored a fish chowder and chili supper on Saturday, November 1. In the above photo, taken in the Galley of the Smith's Cove Meeting House, Lynwood Thompson assists David Irvine as he ladles out the delicious fish chowder - chef Tom Milner. Chili and pies were made by ladies of Smith's Cove.

The men of the Company worked diligently as waiters, galley aids, and generally seeing that the wheels of service ran smoothly throughout the evening.

Proceeds from the supper, $241, will go into needed equipment and upkeep for the Company.

Few If Any Idle Hands

At Tideview

Motivated by the activity planner, Mrs. Dorothy VanTassel, the senior citizens at Tideview Terrace have tolerance for few, if any, idle hands. From nine in the morning until five in the afternoon, visitors are likely to see the Tideview citizens with busy hands in the work room, taking time off only for a brief rest and meals.

What is the excitement all about? They are preparing for a Christmas Gift Sale to take place at Tideview on December 3rd. They are making many plans not only looking forward to plenty gifts but also many patrons to buy their wares.

Articles all ready and in process for the sale include burlap flowers, stuffed toys, phentex articles, coasters, reed baskets, jewellery boxes and numerous other items for the Christmas gift seekers.

One of the amazing features of the sale activity is that in some cases this is the first attempt some of these citizens, both men and women, have ever made at hand work. Even some of those in the infirmary are working, too. Mrs. Eleanor Rice, the nursing superintendent said. It is surprising, she said, how well the articles are done and how interested and anxious the workers are. She gave all the credit to Mrs. VanTassel. One of the workers the interviewers noted was Mrs. Louise Barton. She had been bed ridden one time and it seemed remarkable to see her preparing gifts for the December 3rd, Christmas Gift Sale. Mrs. Rice added, "Louise had spent two years in bed. Now she is walking with a walker."

Mrs. Rice was asked if there were any vacant rooms at Tideview. Right at that moment there happened to be two personal-care beds empty but no infirmary beds. The question was prompted by the tidy well-made beds and polished floors seen as the visitor or interviewer walked the corridor in mid morning.

Von Service Recipients

Increase

Total recipients of the Digby Association Victorian Order of Nurses services to date in 1975 are 507. In 1974 the total number to the same date were 353. New recipients in 1975 to date are 30 and in 1974 were 21.

The figures were presented on October 14 by the nurses, Mrs. Phyllis Brennan and Mrs. Pauline Gates at the meeting held in Annapolis Royal. Mrs. W. H. Christie, Digby, vice-president, presided. Eight were present.

The treasurer, Stewart MacNaughton, Digby, reported that the finances, other than the arrangement with the Department of Public Health on financing the Digby pilot project, are not as comfortable as might be wished. It was decided to raise the mileage fee to seventeen cents per mile. The patient visit fee rate was raised to $8.00 per visit but the actual cost per visit is substantially more than the rate charged. Cost per visit to the VON is $10.30.

Christmas Daddies Progressing

The Christmas Daddies program is progressing according to reports coming from the Committee. It has been decided that all families wishing to receive a Christmas Daddies' hamper this year will be required to complete a written application form. These are available at grocery stores throughout Digby County, and in Annapolis County, west of Lawrencetown. Please complete the application and mail it to the address given on the form. All applications must be received by the committee by Friday, December 5, 1975.

Even if applicants received a Christmas

Service began with a hymn sing led by Deacon Clyde Mullen with the hymns "Stepping In The Light" and "Faith Is The Victory."

Daddies' hamper last year, the name will not be on this year's list unless an application is completed.

In keeping with the philosophy of the Christmas Daddies' Fund Committee, only those families with children up to the age of sixteen will be eligible for a hamper, it is understood.

Children's Play At College Sainte-Anne

For its eighth season, the "Théâtre des Pissenlits" (Dandelions Theatre), professional theatre company for children, presents "Le Petit Coq Desobeissant" (The Disobedient Little Rooster) by the Roumanian playwright, Ion Lucian. Ion Lucian came specially from Roumania to direct the play.

A musical comedy filled with feathers, laughter, songs, pantomime and music, a play with amusing animals, a rooster, a bear, a squirrel, a fox, a crow and rabbits, a show with fantasy and a complete new spirit, such is the "Petit Coq Desobeissant". In the play, actors, puppets, a revolving set, are all having fun.

The "Petit Coq Desobeissant" is the story of a rooster, a little too much on the "show-off" side. He lives in a little house, close to the woods with his two companions, the bear and the squirrel. He is kidnapped by the fox. Of course his two friends, with the help of the crow and the rabbits, search for him and finally find him to the utmost confusion of the fox.

This play, with actors and puppets, is intended to be performed for children of all ages, without practically any language barrier.

It will be presented in the College Saint-Anne Chapel, Friday, Nov. 7, at 8:00 p.m.

Bird Haven

The summer birds are nearly all gone and our winter ones are arriving. The Evening Grosbeaks arrived on the 25th of October, a flock of Pine Grosbeaks are in the yard eating maple seeds. These birds are about the size of a robin only plumper, varying in colour, females grey with olive gold head and the male fairly bright red, both have white wing bars, and are very tame. They can almost be picked up. One was brought in the other day after striking a window but was soon after fully recovered.

Still plenty of robins around and very active, usually the ones that remain during the winter are the older ones.

A wonderful sight at Brighton beach last week, about two hundred Canada geese feeding on the flats.

A knock at the door the other night during wind and rain, a gentleman handed me a box containing a black and white bird about six inches long, a little larger than our common English sparrow.

The gentleman had spotted it on the highway and turned around and went back and picked it up.

I kept it in the hospital cage for the night. In the morning I bathed its eye which was found completely blind and severe bruise on its head.

I put it in the large cage as I thought it would be more apt to eat along with the other birds, unfortunately it refused to eat and died during the night, no doubt it had received severe brain damage.

This was one of the kindest things I have ever heard of, a person driving 40 miles hoping for help to an injured bird.

Kind hearts are the gardens,
Kind thoughts are the roots,
Kind world are the blossoms,
Kind deeds are the fruits.

P. S. The above bird was a Snow Bunting.
So long, The Bird Lady

Wedding

WAGNER - WAGNER

The Church of Christ, Weymouth, N.S. was the scene of a pretty fall wedding on October 4, 1975 when Regina Mildred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wagner, Bear River became the bride of Kenneth Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wagner, Barton.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the pastor of the church, Rev. Merle Zimmerman. Organist was Mrs. Frank Lewis, aunt of the bride and soloist was Mrs. Merle Zimmerman who sang two selections.

The bride given in marriage by her parents wore a gown of acetate and nylon lace lined with nylon tulle. The back train of lace was gathered from a shoulder yoke with a large bow. Her veil was held in place by seed pearls centered with nylon sheer flowers. She carried a bouquet of pink rose buds.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Garth Cress, of Truro was matron of honor and wore a floor length gown of blue crimplene, trimmed with white lace. The two bridesmaids Rachel Wagner, sister of the bride and Debbie Franklin, Digby, wore gowns identical to the matron of honor, one in rose, the other in blue. They carried nosegays of miniature carnations tinted to match their dresses. Little two year old Cheryl Wagner, sister of the bride, was a winsome flower girl in her rose crimplene gown and carried a basket of carnations.

Best man was Brian Wagner, Wolfville, cousin of the groom.

Ushers were Michael Grace, Digby and Josh Peck, Bear River.

The bride's mother wore a floor length gown of blue flowered polyester and corsage of blue tinted carnations.

The groom's mother chose a floor length gown of light green polyester with matching lace coat and green tinted carnations as a corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church basement. Stewart Lewis gave the toast to the bride, responded to by the groom. The guest book was circulated by Sandra Wagner, the bride's sister. Serving the bride's table were her sister, Mrs. Brian Harris, and her cousin, Mrs. Mark Zimmerman.

After a short honeymoon the bride and groom are residing on King St. in Digby.

Missionary Conference At Church Of God

The annual Missionary Conference was held at the Church of God on Saturday, November 1. The theme for the conference was "Reach Out With the Gospel". In keeping with the Missionary Conference, the Missionary Board of the church had previously promoted a special literature distribution campaign in Digby and surrounding areas distributing 1000 bags of literature. Ten persons met on Thursday afternoon, October 16, and packaged a Restitutions Herald and three tracts in plastic bags - doorknob style. Then during the week of October 19th approximately 25 young people and adults distributed the bags of literature. The Restitutions Herald was a special issue with the history of the Lighthouse Church of God and the back page advertising the Missionary Conference as well as the regular services of the church.

The program began, Saturday, at 9:45 a.m. in registering those attending. During the day, the program consisted of a devotional period, the showing of slides of the U. S. A. and a mission church in Bangalore, India, report of the work of the Lighthouse Church of God Mission Board, testimonies of "How the Lord had blessed during the past year," the handing out of "faith promise" cards, a report on Prison Ministry, a skit on "Being a Missionary," a session on How to have Home Bible Study classes and a resume of the boards and departments of the Church of God General Conference, headquarters at Oregon, Illinois.

The closing part of the program was the taking up of "faith promise" cards and the totaling of the promised

Remembrance Day

What do we remember today?
Each in his own heart remembers someone
Special, and as each one keeps his sacred memory,
There is a wall of silence, all 'round the world.
And in this wall of silence we hear a host
Of distant voices
What is it that they whisper?
What is it that they say?
Listen.....Listen.....
This message is for you.
Today, you wear a poppy, red,
and bearing four small petals, symbol, of us, who gave to you this life
you now enjoy.
One petal for the freedom, we fought for,
and another for the bravery, with which we faced each day, until there were no more.
The third is for the land we loved and left behind, to never see again.
The last is for our sacrifice,
Our lives, so freely given and never truly lived.
To never see again the joyous days of summer, the glory that is Autumn, the re-birth of mother earth in springtime.
To You... we threw our Torch of Peace and Freedom, for you to hold it high, and hoped as only spirits hope that you will never let it die.

A THOUGHT STARTER

BY Rev. R.C. MacCormack
RR4 Fredericton, N.B.

IMITATORS

Try as we might, no one can stop others from watching him. They do not always gaze out of curiosity or rudeness. Some are searching to find someone they want to imitate. Life as they know it is bleak and dull. Day after day they keep looking to find a person living a rich life, which can serve them as a model.

There may not be many ideals to copy. Can you imagine for instance someone wanting to live just like you live? Is your life so complete and attractive that you would be happy to recommend that others copy your life style.

This thought can be brushed off with the feeling that no one is noticing. But, they do even unconsciously.

You and I could hang our heads in shame over the times others have followed us only to end up as we do in shame, despair or sin, "Blind leaders of the blind," both falling into the ditch. It is the task of the blind to start seeing, that they may not lead others into the gutter.

Firemen Achieve

80 Mark And More

Friday night, October 24, 1975, was the night for graduation of twenty-six (26) recognized fire-fighters of the Digby Neck Volunteer Fire Department No. 1. The meeting was held at the Sandy Cove Community Hall and opened at 8:30 p.m.

Chief Reg Comeau welcomed the firemen and their guests. He then turned the meeting over to Mason VanTassel, Instructor, for the purpose of presenting certificates. Mr. VanTassel explained that certificates would be received for two courses. Assisted by Larry Carter, Mr. VanTassel presented certificates, for completing and passing Fire-fighting Part "A", to Donald Addington, Douglas Brown, Reg Comeau, Austin Denton, Chester Denton, George Feswick, George Gavel, Lewis Frost, John Jago, Percy Harris, Stephen Morehouse, Louis Morin, Lawrence O'Neil, David Russell, Eugene Shaw, Garfield Trask, Sr., Cleveland Theriault, Alvin Titus, Richard Titus, Wilfred Titus, Larry Walker, Phillip Walker, Rodney O'Neil, Garfield Trask, Jr. David Taylor and Emerson Hersey, Jr.

Certificates, for completing and passing the pumper course given in Digby, were received by Reg Comeau, David Russell, Garfield Trask, Sr., and Lawrence O'Neil.

Mr. VanTassel congratulated the men and said that none had a mark under 80. This was greeted with cheers and applause.

Sidney Westcott, President of the Digby Neck Fire Commission, thanked the men for their devotion to duty and assured them the Commission would do all in its power to help them maintain the first fire department to be had on Digby Neck. Councillor Richard Daley was introduced and assured the men of his support in their efforts. He commended them on their achievement and stressed that there were more avenues open for them to learn. He assured them that he would continue to be behind them 100 percent.

A presentation, of a standing cribbage board, was made to Mr. VanTassel. This board was made from a single slab which was polished and made by the men themselves. It was received with surprise and appreciation. For once, the instructor was speechless.

A financial report was given, by the Commission, so the men could know what was going on. It is expected that another course will be given, starting in February. The Department stressed that they would like more volunteers and that all have a part in expanding the first fire department for Digby Neck.

The next meeting of the department will be held on Friday, November 14, 1975, at the Sandy Cove Community Hall at 8 p.m., with the annual meeting coming in December.

The Arctic Witch, a wooden sailing vessel built in Nova Scotia on the lines of 18th century craft, will sail for the Arctic Ocean next year carrying $25,000 worth of electronic equipment.

The Arctic has seen many strange sights, as its balladeer Robert Service has told us, but a wooden sailboat with radio, radar and facsimile receiving equipment must rank among the most unusual.

The ship is a 45-foot privateer ketch designed by James D. Rosborough of Halifax. She was built for Arctic Communications Ltd. of Edmonton, for testing navigation and communication equipment in the Arctic.

Mr. Rosborough and the Nova Scotian shipyard he uses as builders normally cater to the luxury cruising yacht class of people who can afford a comfortable vessel for around-the-world cruises or extended sojourns in Caribbean or Mediterranean waters. A privateer ketch seems an odd choice for electronic research in Arctic waters.

Not so, according to E. L. MacKay, head of Arctic Communications Ltd. and other Edmonton companies involved in Arctic work.

"The wooden hulls of Mr. Rosborough's boats eliminate magnetic interference we could face from a steel hull," Mr. MacKay said.

"There's some advantages to her being a sailing vessel," he added. "We can use the standing rigging, the shrouds and stays, as part of an antenna system."

"We can use the sails to cut down on fuel requirements. For what we want to do in the north, we might need a vessel of 150 feet just to carry enough fuel for our needs and still allow us the room we have aboard the Arctic Witch."

With the short navigation season in the Arctic, usually only four to six weeks, it's too late to go north this year. Mr. MacKay plans to depart Halifax in June of 1976 for Davis Strait.

Although the Arctic Witch has an 85 horsepower diesel engine with a cruising range of 1,000 miles, she'll be under sail for the first long leg of the trip.

"We'll sail from Halifax, across the Grand Banks and along the coast of Labrador," Mr. MacKay

Mrs. Arnold Prime of Tiverton were visitors Sunday November 2nd also at the home of her sister, Mrs. Clyde Mullen and Mr. Mullen.

On Saturday evening November 1st, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marr in honor of their son, Michael and bride, Claudette Henshaw, who had been married during the afternoon. Many friends gathered with gifts and good wishes for the newlyweds.

Service in the United Baptist Church on November 1st was conducted by the Young People and enjoyed by all who attended. A communion Service followed the regular service.

said. "This will conserve our fuel for manoeuvring among ice floes and pack ice in the Arctic."

Aboard the Arctic Witch, a regular radio watch will be kept for weather forecasts and reports on ice conditions. As part of the ship's communication system, her crew can receive facsimile transmissions of weather and ice maps from meteorological service spotter planes.

In addition, radio facilities aboard the vessel will keep her in touch with associated companies, client companies and others engaged in work in the north. Information on weather and ice conditions, vital knowledge for Arctic navigation, will always be available.

It is because of his companies' professional interests in Arctic development that the trip is being made.

"There are various communications and navigation systems we will be investigating," Mr. MacKay said. "A major interest is the Omega Navigation System, a new one being installed worldwide."

"It involves eight broadcasting stations throughout the world transmitting identifiable signals from known locations. Any plane or ship with the proper receiving equipment will be able to fix its position with this system."

Because of the problems of magnetic interference, weather and other environmental conditions, navigation in the Arctic, Canada's frontier, is important.

With the problems of cold weather and ice, the Arctic Witch will probably take two or three seasons to get through the Northwest Passage.

"The best time for navigation is the four weeks from mid-August to mid-September," Mr. MacKay said. "In the first season, we hope to get as far as Gjoa Haven on King William Island."

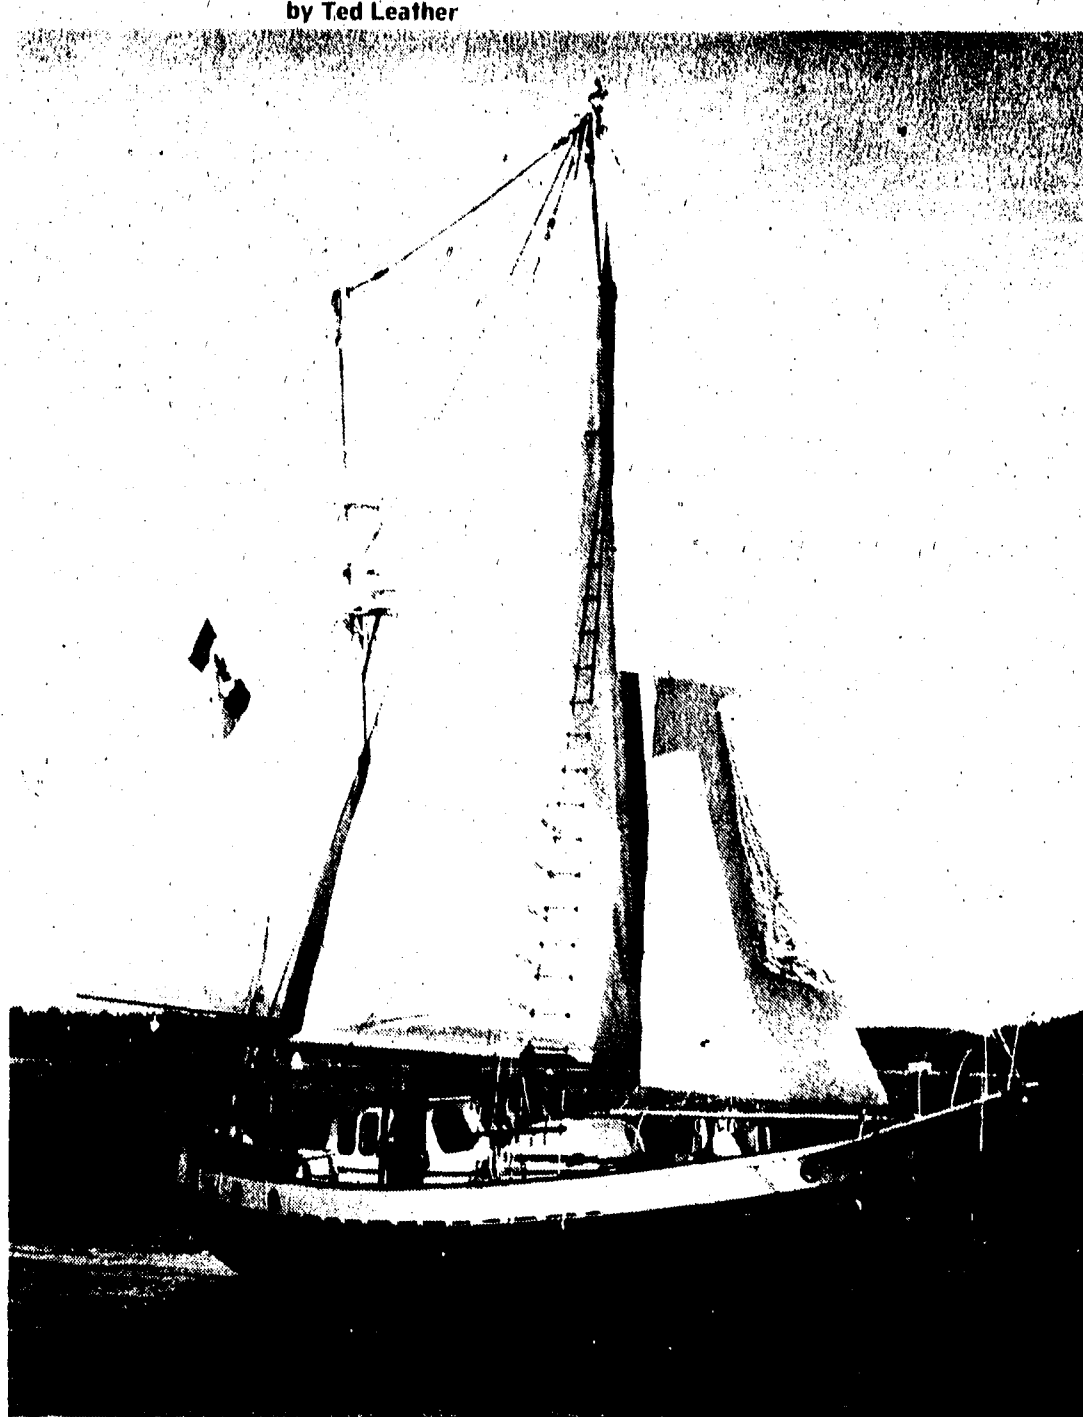

"When freeze-up comes, we want to be in a sheltered cove to avoid moving ice. We'll let the ship get frozen in until the ice breaks up the next year. The crew needn't spend a winter there. They'll be flown back for the next navigation season."

This was another reason for choosing a Rosborough-designed ship. The stout timber construction provides the strength required for this type of work although it is standard on the cruising yachts.

"Slight hull reinforcement at the bow and a fully enclosed wheelhouse were the only structural modifications for Arctic use from our standard hulls," Mr. Rosborough said.

"A 50,000 BTU (British Thermal Unit) diesel furnace was also installed to keep the accommodation comfortable in cold weather."

Osmond Yorke, a skilled Nova Scotian shipbuilder. Her maiden voyage and shake-down cruise was the trip from her builder's yard, of Nova Scotia and up the Atlantic Coast to Halifax.

As built for Arctic Communications Ltd., the privateer ketch has three cabins and the enclosed wheelhouse. The forecastle sleeps two and has room for stowage. The main salon has bunks, seats, dining table and galley. The stern cabin has bunks, stowage, a chart table and a freezer for meat and other food items.

The 45-foot privateer is a popular model from Mr. Rosborough's drawing board. However, his designs range from 30-foot ketch-rigged vessels to 85-foot ships rigged as barques or tern schooners.

"My ships are for people who want comfortable accommodation aboard cruising yachts," he said. "Too many modern yacht designs follow the lines of racing yachts even if they're meant for cruising. To do this, the sacrifice space aboard for a knot or two of speed.

"I don't design for the Market. My clients want comfort. They want their yachts to be like a home, afloat whether they plan a circumnavigation or a holiday in Florida."

Mr. Rosborough has been successful in meeting the market he wants. In the ten years he has been building new boats, he's sold 62.

"I do the designs and have them built by one of about five shipyards here in Nova Scotia where they still have the skills of wooden ship construction," he said. "I don't build them myself. I regard myself as a constructor, an old-fashioned term that means a designer who also supervises construction by shipyard staff."

With his customers regularly requiring custom features in interior layout, decor or equipment, the job of supervision is as important as the design.

After his customers take delivery of their ship, they often correspond with him. Photographs and letters tell fascinating stories about members of the Rosborough Fleet in interesting ports of the world.

A new member of the fleet, the Arctic Witch, will have her own story to tell of the ice-bound hazards of the north.

JUDGE CARDOZA BANQUET SPEAKER

across the Bering Straits. One of the greatest strengths of Canada, he said, is our ability as a nation to bring peoples of widely different cultural and ethnic backgrounds together as citizens of this land. Canadian citizenship, the Judge said, represents a pulling together of all of Canada's past - long-standing and immediate - contributed to by many people from many lands. Each succeeding generation has added to the wealth of knowledge and the store of wisdom bequeathed to it.

The role of the Royal Canadian Legion in helping new Canadians feel truly at home here could be very important, Citizenship Judge Victor Cardoza told an audience of close to three hundred at the annual Remembrance Day banquet here.

In extending the comradeship which is so much a part of the Legion's activities, to new Canadians and potential citizens a stronger and more effective bond can be developed that will strengthen Canada, he said.

Judge Cardoza noted that almost, if not all, the nationalities of the world are represented in the citizenry of Canada. He said that Canada is indeed a nation of immigrants since all of Canada's citizens either came here themselves or are descended from people who came to Canada from countries outside our borders. There is evidence that even the Indians and Eskimos, he said, came here

It is Canada's belief, the speaker said, that our nation can be strengthened in its identity and unity through inter-racial, inter-cultural understanding and through increased participation by all citizens in their local and national communities.

Judge Cardoza was introduced by Legion branch President Gerry Campbell, and the thanks of the gathering to the speaker were expressed by Legionnaire Glen W. Smith. A standing ovation was given by the 300 attendants.

The banquet was presided over by the Legion president, Gerald Campbell. Rev Ronald Stevens asked the blessing and Comrade Charles Francis, vice-president, led in a toast to Her majesty, Queen Elizabeth II.

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation to the Legion made on behalf of the Digby Legion

Remembrance Sunday At Grace United

"Think Canada" was the theme used by Rev. Ronald Stevens on Sunday when he delivered the Remembrance Day address before the members of the Digby Branch Canadian Legion No. 20, the Auxiliary and Cadets at Grace United Church, Digby. A large congregation joined in the two minute silence, prayers of remembrance and regular service of worship.

Taking his text from the Book of Ephesians, Chapter 6, "Put on the whole armor of God, that you may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil", Mr. Stevens said that unless we put on the armor of God we will lose the war against the Sadist forces. Think Canada, he said, does not mean to think of Canada in a selfish, narrow way but in a big way, believing in the value of freedom and democracy to the individual and ordinary man.

Think Canada, Mr. Stevens told the congregation is to think in terms of world citizens. He looked back to the years in which Canada in its traditional manner went to the aid of Poland which had been invaded and to the aid of other nations. Canada, he said, was deeply involved in the United Nations and sent peace keeping forces to all parts of the world. He referred to those who had sacrificed their lives in the two World Wars.

Canadians can help the underdeveloped countries by financial assistance today. Canada can give more and be more to the underdeveloped nations of the world, Mr. Stevens charged his congregation as he remembered those who laid down their lives. He advised to Think Canada in the same spirit as did those who fought for freedom and democracy in the World Wars.

Comrade Joe Tanner read the scripture and Reginald Turnbull read the names of those from Grace United Church congregation who had lost their lives in service.

Appropriate special music was rendered in a duet by Mrs. Gerald Wilson and Norman Wright and by the senior choir, directed by Mrs. E. G. Arnold, organist.

Board Seeks Advice On Bomb Threats

The Digby Regional High School Board have called a meeting of parents at the multi-purpose room tonight to explain the policy of the Board and seek advice from parents and officials in dealing with the bomb scare situation.

The meeting was prompted, it is understood, by a group of parents arriving at the school on Friday of last week after the Digby Regional High School was closed parts of four days, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Demonstrations against these telephoned bomb threats were carried out on Thursday, it is understood, by high school students who strenuously object to such pranks which hinder the progress of the school in delivering the prescribed education for students. A petition had also been circulated in September.

Both Digby Regional High School and Weymouth Consolidated High School had been plagued by the "bomb-scare" telephone calls within the past months.

R.B. Powell's Gaskill's Cove

by Edith M. Wallis

This writer has long been a friend of the Powells at Plympton. The Digby Adult Education Classes, started the acquaintance, no doubt; then there were high school daughters in Mr. Powell's drama classes at Digby Regional High School; press interviews on provincial level politics added to the friendship and Baden Powell's visits at The Digby Courier to consult history pages of the files covering 100 years. The Wallis Print Ltd., had printed the two editions of Scrap Book of Digby Town and Municipality which resulted from much of his Courier historical research.

It is not because of that close association with the Powells that I do not consider myself the best source of review for Baden's newest literary effort. Gaskill's Cove. It is more that fact that I may be able to follow the Gaskill's too readily as they go about their daily routines. I can so easily visualize the Digby to Gaskill's Cove trek by family and employees in 1800's because my vision of the present route, along St. Mary's Bay, though paved, gives me the basis for imagination. The history of the Annapolis to Halifax coach passage is not new and pathways which might lead from Gaskill's Cove to Port Edinburgh and Sissiboo in the other direction come readily to mind. Long Island, Digby County, is well known by those of us who live here, far better than Saint John, N.B., is known to remote people who will be reading Gaskill's Cove. Broad Cove is another village that one such as me can bring to mind. It is on the Bay of Fundy and Powell uses it to introduce Dentons and Trasks into his literary ventures. Wrecks on these shores have made historical conversation for a number of years. Then, of course, there are the LeBlanc's at Clare supplying the Acadian element to make the book truly Digby County.

For a person who has lived around ships, their building, their launching and their trips to the fishing grounds on to the West Indies from where they brought back salt, molasses and other domestics, it is comparatively simple to follow the winding of the interesting characters as they are interwoven into the tale of Gaskill's Cove, a book of fiction based on historical fact.

Nevertheless, while there are aspects which could seemingly be used to prejudice my review I, on

Mrs. B. Hutchins, president, presided at the monthly meeting of the Admiral Digby Horticultural Society, at the home of Miss Marjory Tupper November 5th, when twenty-five members were present and made plans to have an evergreen tree planted at a suitable location and in memory of the late Kenneth Beckwith under whose care the special project of the Admiral Digby Park was successfully carried out.

During the business session, reports were given by the various committees and on an executive meeting held in October at the home of Miss Mary Marshall.

Twenty small evergreen trees, with red berries, have been planted in the Digby Library window boxes. Geraniums have been removed from the large concrete planters on Water Street and stored for winter. Fall work will be carried on at the Loyalist Cemetery as well as a general cleaning before winter, at the Admiral Digby Park.

Considerable vandalism has taken place at the Park.

with benches and picnic table damaged as well as flowers destroyed. It is hoped next summer a workman may be hired to care for the area, keeping the grounds clean and attractive and in good condition.

A meeting concerning the Dutch Elm disease will be held on November 25th, place to be announced.

A committee has been appointed to arrange for the annual Christmas Party in December. It is hoped the general public will attend and enter competitive arrangements in keeping with the holiday season. Entries will be for living-room, mantle, religious, dining-table, coffee table, door or wall hanging and winter bouquets. A special request is for smaller arrangements, non-competitive, that can be taken to shut-ins after the party.

Prior to refreshments being served by Miss Tupper assisted by co-hostesses, Mrs. G. Winfield and Mrs. R. Weir, a lively penny sale was enjoyed with a variety of items being displayed.

Even Post Office Workers Tired Of Loafing

Post Office workers in some places became tired of striking, questioned its benefits and desirability and returned to work on Monday in opposition to expectations of the Postal Union leaders.

Digby Post Office was open on Monday, Tuesday, Remembrance Day, was a regular holiday and though little mail was in need of sorting on Wednesday, the Digby Postal Staff returned to work. Other post offices which saw staff back to work were Yarmouth, Middleton and Lower Sackville. Smaller post offices in the area, not effected by the Union had remained open during the strike. The only mail which went through in Digby on Monday and Wednesday were despatches to town and rural routes out of Digby.

Digby Union, a spokesman said has always stood together and lived up to the aims of the union. They now felt that ample time and satisfaction had been received for consideration and it was time to go back to work. They felt that the National Union Office should have held a secret ballot without pressure but they did not have that privilege.

Newly elected Mayor of Digby, Charles Halliburton, lays the wreath at the Digby cenotaph on Tuesday on behalf of the Town of Digby and in memory of those who fell in two world wars.

Still Expecting L.I.P. Grant For Fire Hall

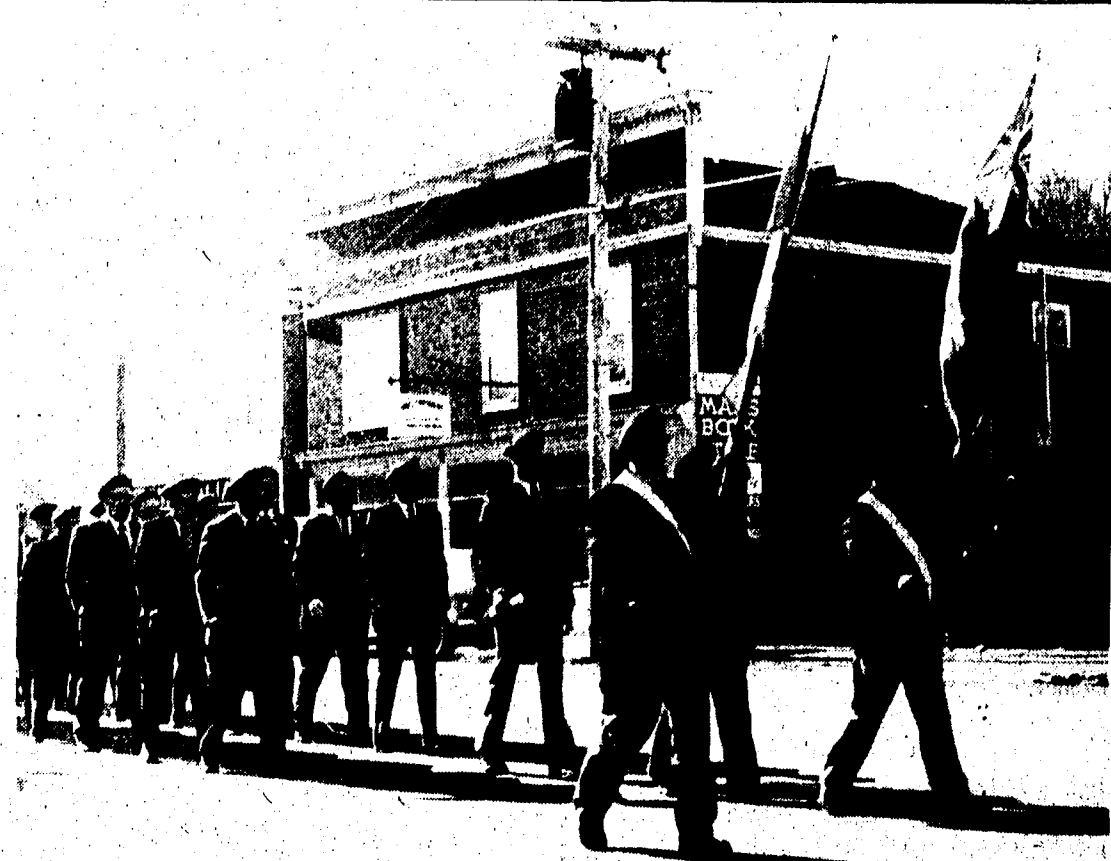

A regular meeting of the Digby Neck Fire Commissioners was held at the Sandy Cove Community Hall on Friday, November 7th, with Sidney Westcott, president, presiding. Discussion of the evening was the application for L.I.P. grant to build a Firehall-Recreation center on Digby Neck. The group was disappointed that no word had been received since the work was supposed to commence on November 6th. At time of application the Commission had been informed that the grants would be accepted or rejected. The Commission has not been informed either.

MUST FIND ANOTHER WAY

Somebody came up last Spring with the idea that if the bomb-scare "kids" were not given the attention they were looking for, they would give up the pranks. This was not only a trend of thought in Digby area but some other towns and municipalities in the province seemed to be of the same mind. No chances were being taken but neither was publicity given. We at The Digby Courier followed the line of reasoning for if there was any way to get the prankster's mental powers reversed and the schools operating normally without telephoned bomb threats, we were all for it. We made as little of the pranks as possible as did many other media, here and there. The motive was not to suppress news but to help in curbing "juvenile" delinquency.

Somehow, our philosophy did not bring the desired results. Our law enforcement and our educational boards and supervising personnel are going to have to come up with a better idea if the pranksters (pranksters, at least to date) are going to be curbed and the education of the worthy students go uninterrupted.

This bomb-scare bit has got past any leinency stage in the minds of students as well as parents, supervisors and officers. And rightly so. A school year is too important to the majority of students to have these interruptions. Therefore, we would urge our readers in towns and municipality to attend the public meeting tonight at D.R.H.S. and help those who are trying to deal with the matter to come up with a solution. Frankly, we are not prepared to offer a solution but we sincerely hope that there can be found another way. Ignoring a problem just won't make it go away. The bomb-scares are our problem. We should all have a concern about them and do our part to correct the abnormal conditions which cause "kids" to do such abnormal deeds in such abnormal ways.

Hodge Podge

- Padre H. Irvine Hale of Summerside, P.E.I., formerly of CFB Cornwallis attended, along with others from the Base paper in P.E.I., the Atlantic Community Newspapers Association in Moncton, N.B. on Friday and Saturday. Padre Hale frequently supplied in Protestant pulpits outside the Base. He was happy at the Association meeting to hear about many of his friends in the area, particularly Smith's Cove.

- Correspondence from our loyal correspondents in the rural parts of our readership area came to us on Monday of this week via the Digby Post Office. That is, the correspondence held up somewhere since October 13 and October 20 because of the strike. While it is too late to use the correspondence we want to have our correspondents know we had appreciated their efforts. A personal letter of October 20 which arrived on Monday was as fresh and enjoyable as a yesterday's posting. That particular weekly letter, usually two to five pages, is always a delight to receive and keeps the editor up-to-date on tid-bits concerning three grandchildren, art shows, Neptune and Museum tours, movies attended, reading to blind children and a host of other interests. Some people just have a flare for writing and can hold the reader's interest, even after three or four week's mail strikes or much, much longer. But let's not try to determine how long. We don't like mail strikes even though the editor might like to learn the art.

- As far as we can find out Joe was just being a little conservative with a small "c" when he took to eating bananas in India.

Heard all on the same day. From the Valley direction: That's a wonderful hospital in Digby. It saved my life. From the Islands on the same day a similar expression showed appreciation for the Digby Hospital facilities and staff.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:
Digby Courier,

A Time to Remember

In August of this year, we, my wife and I journeyed to Halifax to attend the reunion of the Princess Louise Fusiliers, the regiment of which I was a member during World War II.

As we motored from Weymouth through the beautiful Annapolis Valley, then from Windsor by 101 to Bedford, I was amazed (as I am every time I travel) by the affluence of our society. Fine new highways, shopping centres, private homes, and the highway full of all kinds of recreation vehicles, from a V.W. Bug with a two man tent tied on top, to the largest mobile home, complete with all modern conveniences. I believe you will all agree with the statement ("We never had it so good.")

Yes, we are affluent and free, so let's enjoy it, and be thankful and "Remember" that a terrible price was paid for the things we have. In two World Wars more than 110,000 Canadians died, and many more spent the years since in hospitals and other institutions, torn in body, mind and spirit.

Who and what should we remember, first the men of the Navy, they sailed our fighting ships, guarded the convoys, fought off the U-Boats, endured the cold of the North Atlantic winter. Then the Merchant Navy who sailed our merchant ships, carrying the men, tanks, guns and oil for the forces overseas. The Air Force, who did so many things, guarding convoys, Battle of Britain, in support of front line troops; in bombers over Europe. The army who endured so much, tank men with their Shermans, out gunned but not out fought by the Germans with their panthers and tigers and 8.8 C.M. guns. The machine gunners with their out dated 303 Vickers. They, the front line troops endured cold, wet, heat, dust, shellfire from rifle to the largest artillery, on static fronts, we slept in holes dug in the ground and many times awaking in the night finding your fox hole half full of water, so you jump out, wring out your blanket and roll up on the open ground, thinking, which is the greater of the two evils, death by drowning or shell fire. And a perpetual diet of hardtack and mutton and vegetable stew (M & V).

And so today they lie in Sicily, Italy, North West Europe, and many more in unknown graves.

And so in closing as your great each new morning, Thank God that He has seen fit to bless us so abundantly and that we are enjoying the blessings of other mens sacrifice.

Sherwood Marshall

To The Editor:
The Digby Courier

Dear Madam:

Quite a few years ago, when we were living in the States, I was on a bus in Orange, N.J., just before Christmas. Two men in front of me were talking and, from the chance remarks heard, it developed that they were discussing an impending strike of the Public Service Electric and Gas Company employees, and that they were two of those involved.

One of them said, "Well, the strike is set for (blank date). There was a silence. Then his companion said, "you mean that this Christmas season there will be no electric or gas for the public?" "Yes", said his friend. Another silence developed. Then the first murmured, "What about our families? They won't have these facilities, either." "That is a horse of another color," they both conjectured, and THERE WAS NO STRIKE.

Apparently, we are going full circle. If there is a strike in the Postal Department, there will be little or no Christmas for the children, or for the striking families, nor will there be any Christmas Spirit in the land. Gloom will hang heavy, undoubtedly so...for it takes Christmas Spirit to make Christmas.

Think it over!

way. They are still hoping that word will be received from Ottawa informing them that the project can get underway.

Several members of the Digby Neck Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary were present at the meeting and informed the Commission that they have several projects to benefit the department. They assured the Commission that they are behind their efforts 100 percent.

the otherhand, feel that Powell's portrayal of characters in such a vivid and interesting manner gives all his readers an opportunity to feel and live the pioneering days of William Rogers, later William Gaskill. The country life; the ambitions, joys and problems so successfully interwoven into a pattern can keep the remotest reader lost into the captivating suspense throughout the pages.

The story begins with the arrival at Gaskill's Cove of a 21 year old English chap who had wandered to the shores of St. Mary's Bay. The author's imagination is superior as he navigates the Rogers boy into the presence of a man of the cloth who, in turn, influences William Rogers to seek employment at a local shipbuilding establishment. All will want to read the exciting events as Rogers has a change of name for most unusual purposes and under most unusual circumstances; how he marries a Gaskill daughter, becomes rich and lives life at Gaskill's Cove for many years into the days of his grandchildren.

Baden's book, Gaskill's Cove, can be purchased at "The Little Arks Antiques" in Plympton. It was printed by the Petheric Press.

Mr. Powell was born in Westport, the son of Captain Byard and Mrs. Celestia (Gilliland) Powell, where he lived to the age of seven. The family moved to Yarmouth where it resided until he was eleven years of age. The next move was to Little River, Digby Co., and Baden lived there until he was sixteen when he returned to Yarmouth to complete his high school education. The following year he attended the Teachers' Normal College, Truro, following which he went to Manitoba and taught school for one year. Also while in Alberta he contributed articles and short stories to western magazines and journals.

He returned to Nova Scotia in 1928 and became engaged in poultry raising and selling feed and flour and taught school in Ashmore and in Weymouth North.

In 1933 Mr. Powell married Rae Hankinson of Weymouth and they have two children, Dorothy and Janet. Dorothy is now Mrs. Teddie and lives in Wisconsin and Janet is Mrs. Mulch and lives in Kentville, N.S. There are nine grandchildren.

At the outbreak of the Second World War Mr. Powell was given a commission in the artillery, which he resigned in November, 1939, to join the 1st Cdn. Survey Regiment and then proceeded overseas in December of the same year. In 1942 he became the Educational N.C.O. of the regiment. Late the next year he was drafted for the Mediterranean area and attached to the 3rd Brigade workshops in Italy. In 1944 he was posted to his original regiment and went with them to the Western theatre of war in 1945. While in Italy he was mentioned in despatches.

After the war Mr. Powell returned to teaching in the Digby Rural High School. He retired from teaching in 1963 and the following year was elected as the Conservative member in the provincial legislature. He was re-elected in the 1967 election.

Continuing Education

From Donald E. Burgoyne

In 1975, there were almost 32,000 adult students enrolled in the 2,016 continuing education classes offered by school boards in Nova Scotia. Of that number, a significant proportion requested the advice of the trained counsellors provided by school boards to help adults in making the best choice for their needs.

Counsellors were called upon to advise some clients about enrolling in academic classes, which would provide them with the certificate or diploma as a prerequisite for further education. They advised others on how to acquire specific work skills through vocational classes. They brought together people interested in a particular field such as law, or metric conversion, or income tax preparation, for the purpose of learning more about that subject. New Canadians approached them for information about citizenship classes, and for advice on the level of language study they should undertake.

Some of the counsellors' clientele were young and inexperienced. Others were older and wiser, but were seeking new fields of exploration. All were seeking direction about their future course of action.

To help meet the needs of people registering for continuing education classes, local school boards are empowered to employ qualified counsellors. This support service is funded by the continuing education program of the Nova Scotia Department of Education.

Counselling of prospective adult students may also be carried out by the local administrator of continuing education classes. Counselling services are always available at registration time, and throughout the duration of the classes, as needed.

Community and professional groups can often benefit from wise counselling. In this case, the counselling service of the Continuing Education Program is provided through the regional representative.

The regional representative can provide direction about a wide range of services open to community organizations, including provision of leadership training seminars or workshops; access to a range of resources to be employed in achieving their objectives; guidelines to organize and assistance in organizing an effective conference; suggestions regarding worthwhile volunteer programs; information on management training; contact with Department of Education advisors in the fields of art, drama, handicrafts and music; and assistance in developing adequate communication.

The educational counselling services supported by the Continuing Education Program are free of charge. Counselling is available at any time through the regional representative, and throughout the duration of school-board operated classes for adults. Counselling can be formal or informal, according to circumstances and need.

Two young people, above, arrived in Digby on October 1 with the purpose of opening the area full time for a mission of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints (Mormons). Left is Elden Bird who comes from Vanderhoof, B.C. and right is Elden Bird from Nephi, Utah, U.S.A. These young men, on their own time and on their own expense, will serve the church for two years and will acquaint people in the Digby County area with the Mormon religion and their beliefs. They are willing, they said, in discussing the subject with anyone who is interested.

Wedding Song Evangelist Appears In Digby

TITUS - SABEAN

(Frances Adams)

Trinity Anglican Church, Digby, was the scene of a lovely autumn wedding on Saturday October 11, 1975 at 2:30 p.m. when Susan Anne, daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Sabean and the late Hallett B. Sabean, Weymouth, was united in marriage to Gerry Lee Titus, son of Mrs. Audrey Titus and the late Carl Titus, Centerville.

Rev. Isaac Butler officiated the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Butler was the organist. Miss Margo Levi sang, "Walk Hand in Hand" and "Love is a Symphony."

The bride given in marriage by her brother, Irving Sabean of Shilo, Manitoba, wore a floor length gown of white satin and chantilly lace, featuring a high neckline with empire waistline and long sleeves. A train fell from the waist edged with wide bands of lace to match the gown. She wore a short illusion veil held by a Juliet cap trimmed with chantilly lace. She carried a bouquet of red roses with white carnations.

The maid of honor, Miss Pam Sabean, friend of the bride, wore a blue gown and carried a bouquet of white and blue daisies.

The flower girl, niece of the bride, was little Sherry Ann Kedy of Tantallon. She wore a blue floor length dress and carried a small bouquet of blue and white daisies with a matching headpiece.

Freddy Horner, friend of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Tony Titus, brother of the groom, and Andrew White of Tantallon, nephew of the bride.

The mother of the bride chose a floor length gown of blue jersey and wore a corsage of pink carnations. The mother of the groom chose a rust colored floor length gown of jersey and wore a corsage of autumn colors.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Royal Canadian Legion, Digby. Miss Karen White, Tantallon, niece of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

On their honeymoon the happy couple travelled through New Brunswick and the states to Hyanis, Cape Cod, Mass. They will reside in Halifax where they both are employed.

On Sunday, October 26th, the song Evangelist, John MacDonald, from Ontario was present for the day at the Digby Wesleyan Church.

During the morning service Mr. MacDonald's ministry of song included two groups of three numbers. The first group was a medley including "Fill my Cup Lord" and "Amazing Grace".

A testimony was given by the song Evangelist after which he rendered his second group of numbers which dealt with the peace of the Lord Jesus Christ and included the number "Jesus Whispers Peace".

Rev. Douglas Hapeman, pastor of the church, spoke to the congregation present using the second Chapter of the Song of Solomon for the scripture lesson.

The morning service concluded with the singing of the hymn "Rock of Ages".

Mr. MacDonald, who

Weymouth North. Flowers placed in the church were in memory of Deacon and Mrs. H. M. Mullen.

Mrs. Daniel Hankinson presided at the organ and accompanied the guest soloist.

Others taking part in the service were Deacon S. W. Brooks, Ashmore, who led the opening sing song; Deacon Donald Mullen, of the United Baptist Church, New Tuskett and Deacon Harry Lewis of the Church of Christ, Weymouth, who led in prayer.

A special offering was received on behalf of the Missionary and Extension fund.

Special Roll Call Service

Rev. George G. Hadley, B.A., Halifax, was guest speaker at the combined Roll Call service of the members and friends of the Riverside United Baptist Church, Weymouth North and the Bethel United Baptist Church, Ashmore which was held at the Riverside church on Sunday afternoon and conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. Clayton, B.A., B.D., B. Ed. Basing his remarks on Proverbs 29:18, Mr. Hadley spoke of our need of a vision of ourselves-what God thinks; our need of a vision of the coming of Jesus Christ and the need of a vision of Calvary. He spoke of the need of revival and that all Baptist Churches- every church-should be on fire for God.

Although Mr. Hadley has been forced by illness to give up the active work of a pastorate, since living in Halifax, he has been holding services in various nursing homes in the area.

Guest soloist at the service was Mr. David Wilson who now resides in New Edinburgh. Mr. Wilson, who is lead singer with THE INSPIRATIONS of New Brunswick, recently moved into the area as manager of the local Jones Bottling Company plant. He recently accompanied the Gospelsaires to Nashville and told something of this trip as well as singing "I Never Could Outlive the Lord", "Fill My Cup" and "Because He Lives".

The rolls of the two churches were called by the respective clerks, Mr. Parker Manzer, Ashmore, and Miss Hilda Brooks,

Bear River

Recent weekend visitors of Mr. and Mrs. William Dondale were Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Crosby and son from Sydney, N.S. and Mrs. Vernon Crosby from Richmond, Yarmouth County. Supper guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Ayn and Miss Evonne Steele, Southville; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Haight, Hill Grove and daughter, Mrs. Turnbull, Digby. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ron Dondale, Graywood, Annapolis County and Mrs. Paul King and son, George of West Pownsend, Mass.

Remembrance Service At Bear River

The Annual Remembrance service sponsored by Bear River Legion, with the co-operation of the local churches in Bear River was held in the United Church on Sunday morning.

Members of the Legion and the Auxiliary paraded to the church, followed by the local contingents of Cubs, Brownies, Guides and Scouts. A large number of local citizens were in church when the parade arrived, and the gallery of the church was needed to seat those present.

After the reception of the Colours, the service was opened by the Branch Chaplain, the Rev. F. Foster Hall, minister of the United Church. He was assisted throughout the service by the Rev. F. Waterman, minister of the Advent Church; and the Rev. R. Winchester. Members of all three churches shared in the leading of the worship in the choir. In his address, the Rev. Mr. Hall spoke of some of the problems of the modern age, especially those springing from a materialistic outlook which was setting the pattern for standards of conduct and personal relationships. These were noted as being a prime cause of much of the dissatisfaction and personal frustration in the social and industrial life of the country. Too many important values had been traded away to obtain the prizes of modern life, and it was time to challenge the assumption that a good life could only be obtained by securing a multitude of possessions.

Rev. Mr. Hall reminded his listeners that man does not need to be moulded by his environment; but has the power to change the patterns of life around him. He pointed out that in this act of Remembrance, they should be reminded that there was period in history when this happened. The selfishness, courage, and concern for the needs of others was found in a time of great national need, and persisted long after the last battle was fought; the existence of the Legion itself, with its continuing concern for the needs of veterans is adequate proof that we are capable of unselfishness and a respect for one another's life, he remarked.

Yet this was not enough. The words of Jesus "The words I speak are spirit, and they are life" gives one approach to the problems of our lives, he said. The material is important, but there must be a spiritual component in our human lives if they are to be in any way complete. This cannot come through legislation.

but must be of deliberate choice. The old values of honesty, unselfishness, and concern for the needs of others had to be taken up again as a practical ongoing part of our human relationships, not under the pressure of some national calamity, but because of a recognition of their absolute necessity.

Also taking part in the service were Mrs. G. Hemsley, who sang a solo; and president Arnold Banks, who read the Roll of Honour and conducted the Act of Remembrance. Sgt. at Arms Reg Miller was in charge of the parade arrangements.

The congregation then moved to the Village Cenotaph, where many wreaths were laid by members of the community and organizations in tribute to the fallen. The fine weather made possible the presence of many of the older people, and it was encouraging to see the interest taken by the younger members of the community in both services.

Encourage Community Bands

Financial assistance to community bands in Nova Scotia through the cultural and travel policies of the Nova Scotia Department of Recreation is paying high dividends in the interest being shown in this activity, Honorable A. Garnet Brown, Minister said.

"The philosophy of this department is to encourage recreational pursuits in the broadest sense and community bands provide an excellent opportunity for participation by all ages in an exciting endeavor," Mr. Brown said.

Mr. Brown drew a comparison to some forms of athletics, pointing out that in many instances, athletic teams must be restricted to all male or all female participants, and are also more often restricted by age.

"But the community band is open to anyone who can learn to play an instrument, and bands are so often composed of participants of all ages, both male and female."

"These community bands provide a focus for musical activity and appeal to all age groups," he said.

As an example, he cited the performance of the Parrsboro Citizens Band in the recent Joseph Howe Festival Parade, and expressed the hope that more of these bands, with the assistance of the Department of Recreation, will be heard more often in such events as festivals, parades and other regional and provincial celebrations.

The stimulus to create and maintain bands was provided two years ago through a workshop sponsored by the Department of Recreation, and since then, the department has initiated a band policy which provides funding for this purpose.

There are now over 65 community bands throughout Nova Scotia from Yarmouth to Cape Breton as compared to some 40 bands two years ago, and the number continues to grow. These include pipe and drum bands, stage bands, marching bands and concert bands.

Mr. Brown commented on the high quality of the bands and pointed out that numerous provincial bands have received recognition, not only in this province, but nationally and internationally.

Among these are the Middleton Band which was selected as the outstanding band in its category at the Harrogate Festival in England; the Port Hawkesbury Band, chosen as the outstanding marching band in a parade in New York City; the Halifax City Schools Senior Jazz Band, which has won several national awards in competitions in Toronto; and the Windsor Band which was judged best in the National Please Turn To Page 5

ENCOURAGE COMMUNITY BANDS BY FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

Junior Championship in Toronto this year.

Mr. Brown also mentioned the 20 pipe and drum bands in the province which have among their ranks provincial, national, and international winners.

He particularly noted the accomplishments of the Antigonish "A" Band and the outstanding community contribution of the Halifax Based Wilde Thyme Pipe and Drum Band.

"In order to encourage and ensure the continuance of this community band development, the department plans to maintain its band policy," Mr. Brown said.

Under this policy the department provides 20 per cent up to a maximum of $2500 toward the cost of establishing a new band; a one-time maximum grant of $2500 in an emergency situation to a band whose instruments have badly deteriorated; and an annual grant up to $1000 for instrument repairs or leadership assistance.

Bands are also eligible for travel grants under the cultural travel policy of the department.

The minister particularly lauded the unsung heroes of band development in Nova Scotia - the volunteer band directors and workers who organized the groups and generated funds, provided transportation and a myriad of other efforts to make such projects a success.

The community band development program in Nova Scotia is the greatest example we have of the value and importance of the volunteer sector to the creation of worthwhile recreation programs, said Mr. Brown.

Favourable Position For Province

Nova Scotia Finance Minister, Peter Nicholson has expressed cautious optimism for the economic future of the province and gratification that "Despite the world-wide economic difficulties which have plagued the western world during 1974 and 1975, Nova Scotia is again able to record a favourable financial position."

Mr. Nicholson told an audience of some 300 business and financial executives at a Toronto luncheon hosted by the province that "The abridged financial report for the last fiscal year which ended March 31, 1975, shows a modest surplus after providing for increased governmental assistance in the major public service programs such as health, education, and welfare, and providing funds to reserve accounts to provide for future contingencies."

Mr. Nicholson said that "Today the Hallmark of economic credibility is fiscal responsibility" and we in Nova Scotia have traditionally honoured this philosophy, and practised it."

"Our government has consistently based its fiscal policy on the solid concept that governments, like businesses and family units, should balance their current operating budgets, while providing for the orderly retirement of debts out of available revenues," the minister added.

"In keeping with this basic principle, our province has continued to borrow only for capital purposes, and has continued to appropriate adequate amounts to sinking funds to ensure repayment of our outstanding debts at maturity."

"And today, after a history of more than 200 years, we are still able to point - I think with justifiable pride - to the fact that Nova Scotia has never defaulted on payment of any maturing debt. And we are determined that we never will."

Mr. Nicholson said "Nova Scotia is of course keenly interested in the continued development of the manufacturing sector of our economy. But in this pursuit, we intend to exercise prudence in striking a realistic balance between the legitimate demands of industrial development and the economic facts of life."

"I would like to underscore as well that in addition to being a borrower of funds, our province is an investor," he said. "We have an investments policy which includes other provincial governments securities, as well as our own bonds, mortgages and some equity holdings. For example, we have something in the range of 20 percent of our portfolio in Ontario-based securities, which included more than 20 million dollars in government bonds."

"I cite this as but one tangible demonstration of our recognition that provincial bond issues in Canada are sold in all regions of the country, and that our investment policy is in no way parochial, but rather is geared to a balanced distribution of Canadian securities."

"This we believe is a rational approach, and an approach which I hope is shared by other parts of Canada."

Commenting on the position the Nova Scotia government has adopted with regard to the current anti-inflation program, Mr. Nicholson said:

"We firmly believe that the success of any measures designed to overcome and reverse the deterioration in Canada's economic condition caused by inflation will depend upon the cooperation of all Canadians."

Nova Scotia has publicly pledged her cooperation in full measure.

"This policy, I believe it is fair to say, is consistent as well with our traditional respect for fiscal responsibility."

Dockyard, Halifax.

New Guidelines For Winter Sports

The Nova Scotia Department of Recreation is holding discussions with representatives of industry, parks, snowmobile and ski clubs with a view to setting up guidelines for use and utilization of woodland resources for winter sports, says recreation Minister A. Garnet Brown.

"As more people become interested in a year-round recreational activity, one sport which is becoming increasingly popular is cross-country (Nordic) skiing. And this opens tremendous possibilities for family recreation," he says.

Its appeal is largely due to the fact that cross-country skiing can be a leisurely pursuit for the whole family; but, for the more ardent skier, it also can be competitive.

The other major advantages are the opportunities to ski in almost any accessible area, and the simpler lightweight equipment used, which is less costly than downhill skiing equipment.

For those interested in skiing but wary of tricky down steep slopes, cross-country skiing is the ideal answer. But as enthusiasts of the sport point out, the sport does require a certain amount of conditioning and if a skier wishes to get into the competitive aspect, he or she must be in good physical condition to build the necessary stamina.

A number of trails specifically designed for cross-country skiing are now in existence - the most extensive one being some 40 miles in the Wentworth area.

Known trails are mapped and the Nova Scotia Zone of the Canadian Ski Association is preparing brochures containing information on these trails, which should be available by the start of the skiing season.

It is not necessary to confine cross-country skiing to fixed trails, however, and skiers can utilize parks, golf courses and other open spaces, says Mr. Brown.

One inhibiting factor for cross-country skiers is often the presence of snowmobiles, which tend to use many of the same trails with the exception of strictly controlled areas.

The Nova Scotia Department of Recreation is looking at this problem and has begun negotiations with snowmobile associations, industry and parks representatives with a view to setting up guidelines for use and utilization of woodland resources for winter sport.

"This department sees cross-country skiing as both a recreational pursuit and a good form of physical fitness which everyone can enjoy," Mr. Brown says.

Eight representatives from Nova Scotia recently attended a national symposium on cross-country skiing held in Ottawa, when up-to-date information on equipment training, trail development, and promotion of the sport, were among the topics discussed. They were supported by the Nova Scotia Department of Recreation, the Nova Scotia Zone, and Local Ski Clubs.

In Nova Scotia, in addition to the Nova Scotia Zone of the Canadian Ski Association and the Canadian Youth Hostels Association Ski Club, which promote cross-country skiing, there are six cross-country ski clubs already in existence, and more are expected to be formed this year.

Most clubs hold orientation meetings at the beginning of the season and conduct ski clinics or beginner sessions once the snow is on the ground.

Two Honoured On Retirement

Henry Ross, Culloden and Gordon Cowan, Digby, were honoured at a retirement dinner held at the Digby Legion on Monday evening, October 27.

The presentations, an annual event of Local 784 of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, also included thirteen 25 year pins to long standing members.

The Local, which boasts 46 members, includes the entire non-management personnel at the Digby Ferry Terminal. This involves complete on-shore operation and maintenance of the terminal.

Chairman Guy VanTassell spoke of the recent reduction in staff which resulted in two union employees being laid off.

"I'm still fighting for you," commented Mr. VanTassell. He added that his letters to government officials had, as of that time, met with little response.

Mr. Cowan had been an active member for 35 years, while Mr. Ross, who was not able to attend, having put in 32 years of service.

Those receiving pins included Joseph Saulnier, Gerald VanTassell, Edmund Amoro, Gordon Cowan, Randall Bair, Dennis Belliveau, Carl Melanson, Daniel Comeau, Joseph Comeau, Aubrey Everett and A. Skillin.

Community Concert Association For Digby?

A meeting was held at the Digby Regional High School on Thursday evening, the 6th November to discuss the feasibility of starting a Community Concert Association in Digby to serve both the town and the surrounding communities.

The aim of such an association would be to bring good music to people who are unable to travel long distances to attend concerts, to expose young musicians in the area to "live" performances and widen their musical horizon, and to bring both established and young artists to the attention of a much larger audience throughout the country.

Mrs. Betty Pushie of Columbia Artists Incorporated, New York, had been invited to come to Digby by Lister Hannah, principal of the Digby

Regional School. She explained what steps are needed to be taken to start a Community Concert Association, what money would be needed, and what type of artist one could expect to hear. Mrs. Pushie told the meeting that hundreds of Association had been set up in Canada and the United States, and many towns in Nova Scotia had established C.C.A.'s successfully for many years. Columbia Artists were able to offer 231 solo artists including string quartets, orchestras, wind instrument groups, minstrels and folk singers. The fees for the artists vary in price but are set and regulated by Columbia Artists who guarantee three concerts a year. The C.C.A. would pay the artist's fee and their own local expenses, which may include publicity for a membership drive and, if necessary, the renting of a hall.

A yearly membership ticket for three concerts would cost twelve dollars for an adult and six dollars for a student. Under this Planned Audience Scheme no tickets would be sold at the door, but members who would perhaps be unable to attend all the concerts could sell their tickets privately.

Mrs. Pushie suggested that 400 members, drawn from the whole area, would be a sufficient number to make the scheme worth while, and it was decided that a preliminary survey should be carried out to determine how many people would be interested in joining the association.

It is hoped that one or two people from each of the surrounding communities, and several people from the town of Digby would conduct a simple survey of their own, and with their findings, come to a meeting on?

Those people who are unable to come to the meeting are asked to write to Mr. Hannah at the school.

Digby New Horizons Visit Bear River

Thirty members of the Digby New Horizon Club motored to Bear River on Thursday afternoon to visit the New Horizon Group there. Mr. Miller of Bear River welcomed the Digby Group and it was responded to with thanks from the Vice Pres. of the Digby Group, Mrs. Alice Westcott. A most enjoyable time was spent viewing all their various crafts on display and watching Mrs. Gilliat of the Bear River Group demonstrating how to make various kinds of Christmas decorations. A lovely sing song followed after which the Bear River ladies served delicious refreshments before the Digby Group departed for home.

Married 25 Years

Friends and relatives from Barton and surrounding communities gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wagner, Barton, on the evening of October 4th, the occasion being their Silver Wedding Anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Wagner had attended the wedding of their younger son in the afternoon and were completely surprised when the eighty or more guests began filing into their home.

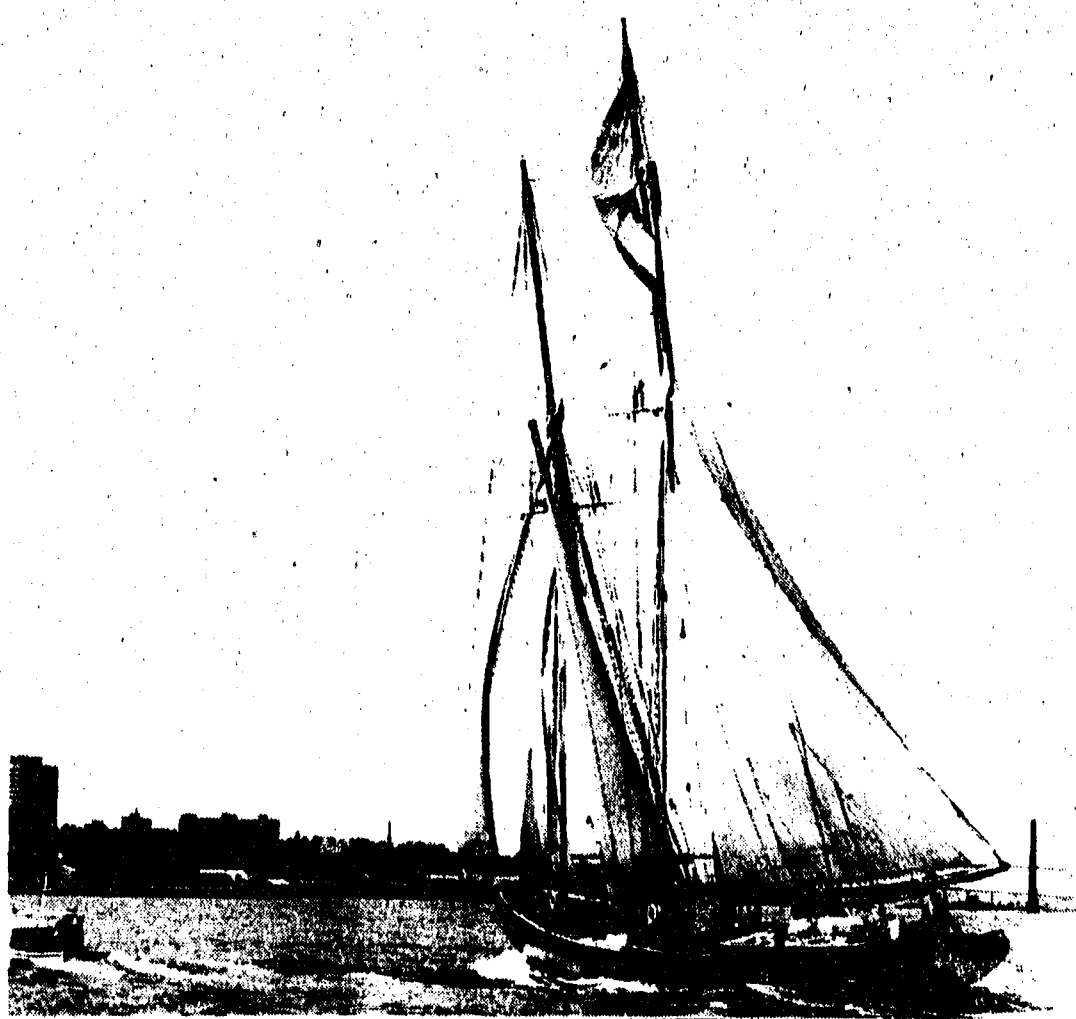

A toast to the "bride" was given by Norman Tebo of Plympton and responded to by the "groom", Mrs. Willard Amaro of Plympton; Mrs. Jack Gillespie, Barton, and Mrs. Scott Haight, North Range, were the hostesses.

Many beautiful gifts of silver were received from their friends including a four piece silver tea service, and a pole lamp from the members of the three communities.

Mrs. Wagner was the work by these directors that a number of most important topics will be covered that evening.

"I would encourage every county farmer and their guests to take part in this program as this organization benefits all of us, particularly in a time of very high cost of production and low prices for some farm commodities.

Bluenose II carried 7674 passengers on harbour cruises this year. Here she tacks towards her berth at Privateers Wharf in Halifax on returning from a cruise to Canadian and American Great Lakes ports last Spring. "She brought a breath of salt air to inland North America," said her master Ernest Hartling of Dartmouth, N.S. (N.S. CIC Photo)

Ties Up For Winter

Schooner Bluenose II has tied up for the winter at Privateers Wharf after a record season in which passenger carryings on harbour cruises jumped by 91.6 percent over those of 1974.

The great majority of passengers were those taking Halifax harbour cruises.

Tourism Minister Glen M. Bagnell said here today that a total of 7674 passengers took the two hour cruises on the schooner, up 3669 over the comparable figure for the June-through-October season of 1974. Last year she carried 4005 passengers.

Bluenose II has been in cruise service since June 24.

Largest carryings this year were in July and August when 2719 and 3225 people respectively took trips.

Mr. Bagnell attributed the increases to good sailing weather, reduced fares, and more public awareness of Bluenose II, especially after completion of her successful tour to 14 Canadian and American Great Lake ports last Spring.

"She brought a breath of salt air to inland North America," said her master, Ernest Hartling of Dartmouth, N.S.

During the 4,000 mile, five week cruise, more than 100,000 people in Quebec, Ontario, New York state, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan visited aboard Bluenose II, said Mr. Bagnell. Toronto was the site of most visitors with over 20,000 crossing her gangway.

The schooner will be manned by a reduced crew complement during the winter layover.

How Can A Person With An Alcohol Problem Be Helped?

The idea that nothing can be done for a person with a drinking problem no longer prevails in our society. A person can be helped at any stage as long as treatment and rehabilitation resources are available, the stigma of having an alcohol problem is not allowed to interfere, and he or she is treated by the caregivers with acceptance and understanding.

Problem drinking or alcoholism is recognized by professionals as a symptom of more than just a drinking problem. Help can be provided by a doctor, a clergyman, a local welfare agency, a clinic, a social worker, psychologist or psychiatrist, a general hospital or psychiatric hospital, or the local chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous.

Many large business or industrial firms and labor unions also have programs to help their alcoholic employees and members find treatment and rehabilitation.

Alcoholics Anonymous is probably the best known agency offering help to people with drinking problems and alcoholic persons. AA is a self-help group in which members help themselves and one another in a type of group therapy setting that utilizes mutual experience for mutual support.

Many other community and social agencies offer referral services or direct help. Local affiliates of the National Council on Alcoholism exist in many communities, and every State and many communities have official alcoholism programs where help can be found or sources of treatment recommended.

For some persons, doctors prescribe drugs which make the person violently ill if he drinks alcohol.

Tranquilizers are also used to quiet the anxieties that lead many to problem drinking. Psychotherapy may be used to provide long-range help to some alcoholic patients. For acute intoxication, hospitalization is often required for a short period of time.

The primary goal of treatment is to help the drinker alter his drinking pattern and handle his problems without resorting to irresponsible use of alcohol, and to develop a new life style not revolving around the use of alcohol. For the individual addicted to alcohol, recovery is best maintained by total abstinence. Between one-third and two-thirds of the people who seek help recover from alcoholism, a figure that compares favorably with the results of treatment for other psychological or behavioral problems.

Digby County Federation Of Agriculture Annual Meeting Tonight

LeRoy Warner, President, Digby County Federation of Agriculture, announced that the annual meeting of the Digby County Federation of Agriculture will be held at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall, Weymouth, on Thursday, November 13th, 1975.

A completely new format in the 1975 program has been developed with the theme: "Farm Income Stabilization".

"The idea of the farm income insurance program has been in the minds of Canadian farmers for some time and I believe, we in the Federation, should become more familiar with the concept".

One province in Canada, British Columbia, is now working under such a program.

Howard Fuller, Director, Canadian Federation of Agriculture, Hortonville, Kings County, as well as Mr. Arnold Rovers, Director, Agricultural Economics, Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture and Marketing, Halifax, will be going into some details on the background and general situation that exists with the farm income stabilization program.

Many farmers in Nova Scotia are not familiar with the idea and we hope that our county farmers will have a chance to find out more about the program that will affect them in the future. From 7 to 8:00 p.m. farm machinery and equipment dealers, fertilizer companies and feed companies, etc. will be on hand to discuss their products with persons attending the meeting. These company representatives will be available with pamphlets and other information relating to their products and they will be making door prizes available which will be drawn throughout the evening program.

1976 Digby County Federation of Agriculture membership will be available during this display hour and I encourage all farmers to become members of this organization.

"When the regular meeting begins at 8:00 p.m. a good deal of the business will be dispensed with as all county organizations have co-operated in the publishing of 1975 Federation Report booklet which is now available to Federation members."

Guests in this part of the program are Mr. Mike Oulten, Windsor, President, Nova Scotia Beef Producers Association, and Mr. R. J. Huggard, Director, Extension and Economics Branch, Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture and Marketing, Truro.

Board directors of the Digby County Federation of Agriculture have spent a great deal of time in planning this meeting and I feel with such organizational Snowfall measured in cm (centimetres)

3 cm

A light snowfall. Reminder to put on your snowtires. Normal traffic will probably make the snow disappear from the roads. A broom is all you need to clean off porch and sidewalks.

30 cm

Skiers and tobogganers will love it. Snowstorms of this nature will require plows to keep traffic moving. Shovelling your driveway and sidewalks is a must.

Deer Or Deere

There is a hunting season story about a farmer, who, not wanting his cows mistaken for deer by 'ignorant city hunters', painted the word 'COW' in large letters on each side of all his animals. After completing the job, he retired for the night feeling confident that his herd would be safe from mistaken slaughter the next day when hunting season opened.

Hearing shots in the early morning stillness, the farmer ran from his house to discover that some obviously 'ignorant city hunter' had blasted three holes in his tractor which had the words 'JOHN DEERE' painted on both sides.

PARTICIPATION

Fitness. In your heart you know it's right.

Rainfall measured in mm (millimetres)

2.5 mm

A light shower. Enough to settle the dust on the roads, but not enough to discourage children from playing outside or prompt golfers to come in off the course.

25 mm

A heavy downpour. Dirt roads will be slippery. Raincoats and umbrellas are in order. You won't need to water the lawn or garden for a few days.

What Is New In Recreation?

Orienteering is one of the newest and fastest growing sports in Canada and has an appeal for all ages and for both serious competitors and casual hikers.

The Nova Scotia Department of Recreation is aware of the benefits of orienteering, not only as an outlet for physical fitness, but for its educational value, said Minister A. Garnet Brown, in announcing a recent grant to the Orienteering Association of Nova Scotia.

A total of $6300 has been given to the OANS to assist in conducting clinics, competitions, workshops, and meets, as well as assistance for mapping five new areas for recreation and towards the hosting of the 1977 Canadian National Championships to be held in Nova Scotia.

"Directions play an important part in our lives," Mr. Brown said. "We are unconsciously making use of the points of the compass every day."

Orienteering is basically using a compass and map to plot a course and navigate it on land.

The skills of orienteering are basic for hiking, mountaineering, camping, hunting, conservation, and nature lore. In schools, it can be and is taught in relation to physical education, geography, science, and outdoor education in general.

Orienteering is simple to learn. Basic skills can be taught in less than an hour, with growth in experience and stamina, more complicated and challenging courses can be tackled.

The costs to the individual are practically nothing. One needs ordinary hiking clothing, (i.e. jeans and comfortable shoes), and at meets, compasses can be rented at a small fee. For example, at a provincial high school orienteering meet held in Lawrencetown in November, which was sponsored by the Canadian

Flowers always available call:

Cameron's Florist and Nursery
245-2609

Youth Hostels Association, the compasses were available for twenty-five cents.

There are nine orienteering clubs in Nova Scotia which are members of the Orienteering Association of Nova Scotia, which in turn is affiliated with the Canadian Orienteering Association.

They are the Canadian Youth Hostels Orienteering Club, and Armbrae Orienteering Club, Halifax; a Timberlea Club, the Oxford Navigators; Dartmouth Academy Orienteering club; Kings College School Wilderness Club; the Tracker Club, Dartmouth; the Streakers Club, Colchester County.

Orienteering meets are held from late spring until November, but in the winter, orienteering is often done in conjunction with cross-skiing; and in some areas it is also being done through canoeing.

The sport has been introduced to school children particularly at the junior and senior high levels as part of the outdoor recreational programming. It is being taught in three Halifax High Schools and in a number of junior high levels, and the Halifax School Board runs an after school in-service program for both teachers and students.

Freda Wales, who conducts the Halifax schools program said she would like to see more classroom teachers become involved in the sport.

The Orienteering Association is now planning to contact all junior and senior high schools throughout the province during this year to ascertain the interest in beginning programs.

The Association is also in the process of preparing 10 new maps of various locations to be used in instruction and competitions.

Other organizations such as the boy scouts, girl guides, and cadet groups run their own orienteering programs or take part in Orienteering Association meets.

Any individual or organization wishing to learn about orienteering can contact the Association through Sport Nova Scotia. Clubs are willing to go into an area to show films and conduct short clinics.

Recreation Committee Holds First Hallowe'en Party

October 31st was the first Community Halloween Party held in the Rossway Community Hall. There were around seventy children up to 15 years, thirty parents of the children and even some grandmas and Grandpas attended.

The hall was gaily decorated with cut out witches, goblins, ghosts, black cats, pumpkins and black and orange streamers in keeping with Halloween.

All the children were in costume. The party started at 6:30, with judging of the costumes taking place around 7 p.m. Mrs. Sydney Westcott, Mrs. Waters Comeau and Earl Smeltzer were the judges.

In the 1 to 5 year old group Gary Dukeshire captured first prize dressed as a hobo. 2nd prize went to Kevin Harnish dressed as an Indian Squaw with 3rd prize going to little Melissa Tidd dressed as a fat red pig complete with curly tail.

In the 5 to 10 year old group, 1st prize went to Kelly Dukeshire dressed as a witch, 2nd prize to Heather Goucher dressed as a black cat and 3rd prize to Verna Frolic as a gypsy girl.

In the 10 to 15 year old group 1st prize went to Robert Dukeshire dressed as old man 2nd prize to Robert Westcott as a pumpkin and 3rd prize to Mark Harnish as a gaily dressed bow legged clown.

After the prizes were given out after judging the costumes, the children in all age groups tried bobbing for apples which provided much fun until the treats were given out. The children lined up with their bags and marched around as the treats were given them.

Some of the treats were given by the residents who normally gave them to the Halloweeners at their doors.

The party through the efforts of the newly formed Recreation Committee is to be commended for providing the entertaining and successful evening, as well as keeping the children off the roads.

Canadians Show Little Interest In Investment

Development Minister George Mitchell told a luncheon gathering here today that, while the Nova Scotia Government welcomed foreign investment in industry in his province, it would prefer to deal with Canadians in stimulating job opportunities.

"Unfortunately there has been little interest from Canadians in the past - with, of course, some notable exceptions such as Electrohome Limited," he said.

Mr. Mitchell noted that Nova Scotia had a large and increasing supply of skilled labour in most fields related to commerce and industry, that the province's problems arising out of strikes were fewer than in most other areas of Canada and that the federal freight rate assistance program provided considerable help on the movement of manufactured goods westward from Nova Scotia.

"The benefit of a maritime location is vastly more interesting of one brings raw materials from abroad and seeks offshore markets for its products," the minister said.

Mr. Mitchell suggested that the New Brunswick involvement with a company such as Bricklin "is a clear indication of its desperation to attract industry and this, in turn, reflects the apparent disinterest of central Canadian industrialists."

"We will continue to encourage foreign investment but we are still Canadians and the increase and strengthening of the sinews of industry can only contribute to better binding together our great country," he said.

A sleek Cessna prepares to land in the blackness of night.

Inside a well-appointed cockpit, industrialist-pilot Richard Banz tunes his radio to 122.8 megacycles and taps the microphone button five times within five seconds. Instantly, the brilliant flash of lights illuminates a modern 5,000-foot runway.

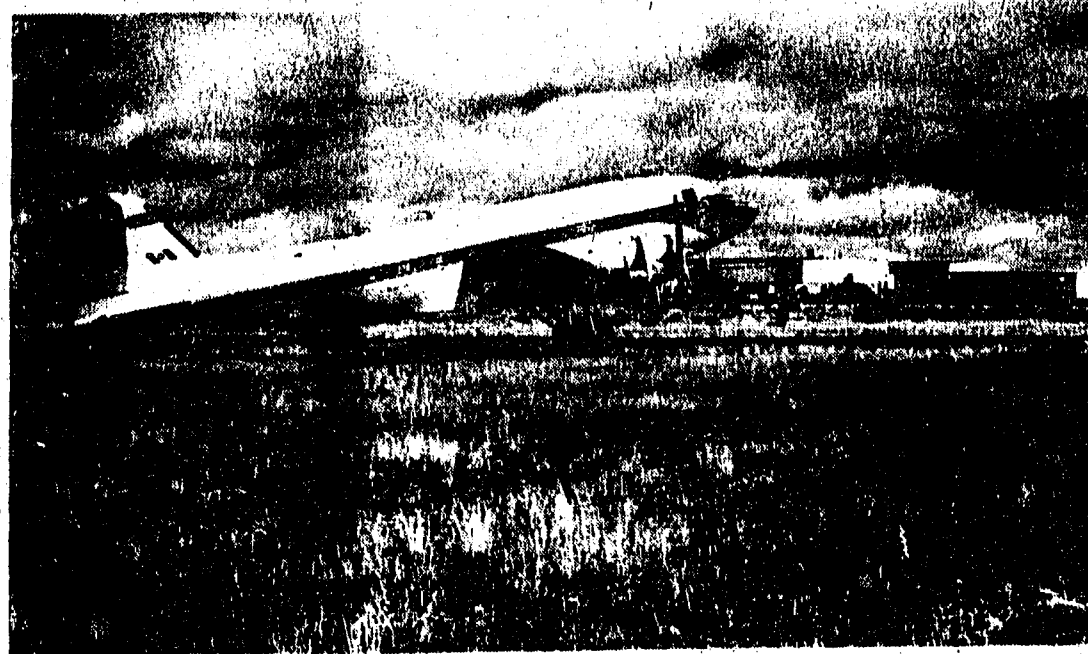

The plane lands safely, another flight from Toronto completed. Banz, the president and general manager of the Plastwood Manufacturing Company Limited, descends and is driven to town 10 miles away. In the morning, he will commence his weekly inspection of Plastwood's plant at the recently-opened Debert Air Industrial Park, where he has just landed.

One of only a handful in Canada, Debert is a facility which may well revolutionize industrial planning in this country.

Located in central Nova Scotia, Debert lies 10 miles northwest of Truro, often referred to as the distribution centre of the Atlantic provinces.

The Air Park is bounded on the north by the Canadian National Railways line, and on the south by the Trans Canada Highway. Sixty miles away is Halifax Harbour with its container port and other cargo facilities.

Air Industrial Park

But for Banz, whose company is the largest manufacturer of reformed counter tops in Canada, Debert's major attractions were the nearby markets of Atlantic Canada - and an airport.

With two production plants in Scarborough and a combination warehouse and fabrication system in Ottawa, Central Canadian markets were already well-served.

"We had been coming into the Maritimes from Ontario for about five years," Banz explained, referring to the period before Plastwood's fully-integrated Debert plant became operational in July, 1974.

"But from Debert we are able to service the Atlantic provinces better and more economically."

The presence of an airport greatly influenced Banz's decision to locate at Debert. "It's a major contributor to the movement of people, equipment and critical supplies. The airport is an important link."

Banz, 41, is very much satisfied with the productivity of his Debert plant, which employs 18 of a total 100 Plastwood employees. (Last year the company did a volume business exceeding $3,000,000).

"We believe we have turned the corner," said Banz, who formed Plastwood in 1959.

So is the Debert Air Industrial Park.

The property, formerly Debert Air Base, was built during World War II and utilized as a personnel holding depot for shipment of thousands of troops overseas and as an operational air training base.

It was a vibrant centre of air transportation then, as it is now.

Six large buildings constructed at the base during the early 40's have been refurbished for industrial purposes. Twelve smaller structures may be 'recycled' in the future. Three 5,000-foot runways, each 150 feet wide and one with a 24-hour lighting system, have been upgraded for modern use.

"If we had to build an air park from scratch, it would have cost the taxpayers millions of dollars," said Ernie Lund, supervisor of provincially-owned industrial parks and the driving force behind the Debert Project. (The Province of Nova Scotia purchased the land and its buildings for development as an Air Industrial Park in 1970.)

"In fact, it's extremely doubtful that the air portion of the park would have been built at all. But with excellent airport facilities already here, the site was a natural."

"Airports attract industry and provide existing business with a tool to stay abreast of the competition," he stated.

"Of 2,500 of the largest companies operating in the United States, 2,300 own aircraft. In addition, thousands of individuals fly their own planes for personal travel. Charter services and air taxi provide the convenience for distant trips that auto taxis give locally."

Lund summarized: "The economic impact of an airport is broad, deep and constant."

Eighty highly-diversified industries at present occupy 160 acres in the 2,500-acre Air Park. In addition, a fully-serviced 175-acre section has just been completed and is available for industrial development.

Companies based in the Park manufacture a wide-ranging variety of products - from heavy duty trucks and modular homes to automotive radiators and decorative wooden fences.

Plastwood's head office is in Toronto, one company is relocated in Debert, one is local, one is from Maine, two are from New Brunswick and a couple are the result of money backers from New York and Quebec making arrangements deals with Debert-based concerns.

An acre of fully-serviced land costs $8,000 while an acre of fully-serviced land with access to a rail spur costs $8,500. Of 35 sites in the newly developed 175-acre division, 18 have access to a rail spur line.

Debert's water reservoir and sewage treatment plant will be completed in February, 1976.

"Geographically," Lund says, "we are located on an industrial ellipse which also passes through Halifax. We are bounded by a railway and a highway which lead to Central Canada. The airport may well provide the final incentive for companies to locate here."

Construction of the Park's first planned and serviced subdivision began last year under a cost sharing arrangement between the province and Department of Regional Economic Expansion's capital winter works program. Lund, a staunch environmentalist, refuses to destroy the many beautiful pine trees on Debert's level, well-drained land.

"We want to keep as many trees as possible in order to provide each occupied lot with adequate cover," he said, "we want Debert to be an attractive industrial park, not an ugly, barren outdoor factory."

Recently, Lund has received enquiries from companies in Virginia, Texas and Minnesota.

Debert's airfield has been classified by the Canadian Owners and Pilot Association as one of the best facilities of its kind in Canada. Owned by the Department of Development, its day-to-day operation is contracted to the Truro Flying Club.

The airfield is open year round and snow removal equipment provides service during the winter months.

At present, eight planes are based at the Park but Lund foresees the day when Debert "is the training centre for light aircraft pilots in Atlantic Canada." Some 950 landings and takeoffs were recorded at Debert from Aug. 1 to Aug. 31.

Debert is capable of handling aircraft up to executive jet configuration, although its air facilities are virtually unlimited and one airstrip can be extended 5,000 to 10,000 feet; which would give cargo-laden jumbo jets access to the field.

An application will be made shortly to have the airport licence upgraded to permit 24-hour visual flight rule operation. Two private hangars, capable of housing six planes, are being erected.

Debert's prospects appear bright.

An increasing number of companies are becoming air freight-oriented in order to quickly and efficiently transport high value, low cubic content goods like jewellery, electrical components and perishable foods.

With the industrial trend toward decentralization, company management must visit greatly-dispersed manufacturing centres.

The Air Park is an ideal solution to both requirements.

NO FURTHER CLASS INTERRUPTIONS

There shall be no further interruption of classes (school) because of the "bomb scare pranks." This was the decision made on Thursday evening when approximately 500 parents or interested persons met at the Digby Regional High School to discuss the many phone calls to schools stating there has been a bomb planted in the school. The Digby Regional High School has been mostly the pranksters target but the elementary schools and Weymouth School have also been a target for prankster attacks.

Charles Haliburton, Digby's newly elected mayor, presided at the meeting which had been called by the D. R. H. S.

Board to set forth to parents the Board's policy regarding the "bomb pranks." The motion to adopt the resolution presented by the School Board was made by Mrs. Gerald Wilson, seconded by Mrs. Maxine Connell and passed by a wide majority.

The Board's resolution called for the employment of two commissioners to monitor the two main entrances to D. R. H. S. during the day and also employ night surveillance. The policy calls for contacting immediately the proper authorities in the event of a bomb threat to the school. Announcement to that effect will then be made over the entire school P. A. system, a security check will be made. Only students with written consent shall leave the school at this time. Regarding those students who leave the school in event of a bomb call, the Board feels it cannot be responsible for students who leave during regular school hours. In such case parents must sign a waiver of liability to the School Board in an approved form. The student who leaves is further required to have written authorization from parent to return to school. Mr. Haliburton introduced the chairman of the D. R. H. S. Board, Austin Morehouse, Sandy Cove, and other members of the Board. Mrs. Vivian O'Neil, Board member, acted as spokesman for the Board and explained the policy which was considered in the light of the school continuing with the least interruption possible. About 16 persons from the audience took part in the discussion.

Also introduced was Sergeant T. E. Barlow, R. C. M. P. who explained how other areas handled situations of the same sort. Present also were C. C. MacInnes, superintendent; Lister Hannah, Principal of D. R. H. S. and Rupert Haley, Vice-principal.

All calls of "bomb threats" have been and - or are being investigated by the Digby detachment of the R. C. M. P. There have been eleven such calls including those at Digby and Weymouth. Five have been concluded and six are under investigation (at time of writing). There are two suspects and four open for investigation. Six are charged and two to be charged.

Ratepayers To Decide On Sewer Completion

Ratepayers of Digby will be asked to vote on the completion of the town sewer system which has been under construction for several years. The third phase costing some $1,840,000 will complete the entire town system should the ratepayers vote in favor of the completion. In such an event the tender of the Classic Construction Ltd., will be accepted. This was the decision of councillors at a special meeting of Town Council held on Monday evening, November 10. Tentative date set for the meeting was December 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the new Digby Fire Hall.

W.N. Horner of W.N. Horner Construction who has had the contracts for the Digby sewer system plans was present at the special meeting to go into detail on the tenders which were opened at the previous regular Town Council meeting at which he had also been present.

One of the highlights of the special meeting was the swearing-in ceremony for the newly elected mayor, Charles Haliburton. Vows and allegiance was made before Judge John Nichols. Until the ceremony was completed, the special Council meeting was presided over by Deputy Mayor Philip Robertson.

Mayor Haliburton expressed his appreciation of the people of the town who expressed confidence in him by urging him to accept the mayoralty. He expressed the hope that each individual of the town would assist with their interest and ideas for town improvement.

Council passed a school operating budget non shareable costs, of $47,080.

Pleads Guilty To Break

Harry Allan Milbury, Brighton, Digby County, pleaded guilty on Tuesday at the Digby County Court presided over by Judge Philip Woolaver to break and enter at Allied Furnishings Ltd., Water Street, Digby, on Sunday evening, November 16th.

Charged also in break and enter on the same night at Allied Furnishings Ltd. and Kennedys Shoe Store Ltd. was Arnold Andrews Jr., Waldeck. A juvenile was also among the three picked up on the break and enter cases.

The charges were laid by the Digby Detachment R.C.M.P. and investigation continues. Some damage was done and merchandise stolen. Some merchandise was recovered.

Trudeau Meets The Press

Relaxed in a straight chair tipped back against the wall, Pierre Elliott Trudeau, Canada's Prime Minister answered questions on Thursday evening posed by members of the Atlantic Community Newspapers Association. The press conference held in the Lunenburg Room at Hotel Nova Scotian, Halifax, had been preceded with a dinner by the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council attended by 600 persons and at which the Prime Minister was speaker. Questions posed at the A.C.N.A. press conference brought out new thoughts and in many cases followed for clarification purposes the statements and proposals made by Mr. Trudeau in his address at the A.P.E.C. dinner.

In defending the Canadian governments newly imposed anti-inflation measures, the Prime Minister made it clear that basically the measures would rely on the free will of Canadians to obey the new set of economic rules in the same way as they obey rules of traffic and other rules.

The Prime Minister told the A.P.E.C. banquet that he has found a willingness amongst Canadians to accept the rules, in fact, in democratic terms, he found the anti-inflation fight to be much simpler than the government had first visualized. His address challenged Canadians to the rediscovery of the sense of brotherhood and good neighborliness on which society must be based.

Further elaborating on anti-inflation, Mr. Trudeau said that it had become obvious that the country could no longer rely on freedom of decision-makers to make things work in the face of the inflation and high unemployment and it became necessary for government to set reasonable rules. To bring the economy under control Canadians must put restraint on their liberties but the government is not introducing measures which will work hardships on anyone, he said. Unions were guaranteed an annual 12 per cent increase in wages and on the prices side, the government ensures that its guidelines will be enforced.

Prime Minister Trudeau made it clear that he did not feel the economic problems facing the country had been caused by any "single villain."

In answering questions at press conferences the Prime Minister said that any new government expenditures would have to be the result of cutbacks in existing programs or changes in spending priorities but he also made it clear that the government has no plans to cut budget spending in Atlantic Canada. It was noted, however, that he could not sanction the blaming of government by Canadians on one hand for high expenditures and then in the same breath making demands of government for additional spending.

Mr. Trudeau said the program was not meant to solve regional disparity in the country but to control the spiralling inflation. Grants and assistance will continue from the Department of Regional Economic Expansion.

The Atlantic Community Newspapers Association members also posed questions on student loans, the postal strike, causing hardship to small businesses, medical care in the inflation period and the fact of raises for civil servants and government personnel. Mr. Trudeau's reply to the last question that it is so easy to use that subject for a "whipping boy" while in fact the increases were less than six per cent per year and in future this would be less.

Regarding student loans, Mr. Trudeau said they were not contemplating raises and all must accept the fact of spending less. In the medicare subject, the Prime Minister suggested more in the line of convalescence homes to eliminate some of the high costs.

Coline Campbell M.P. Announces L.I.P. Project Approvals

Coline Campbell, Member of Parliament for South Western Nova, announced that the Minister of Manpower and Immigration, the Hon. Robert Andras, has approved the Local Initiatives Projects for her area.

Married Sixty Years

Sixty years ago November, 17, 1915, Miss Della Handspiker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Handspiker, Mount Pleasant, became the bride of Gordon Van Tassell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Tassell, Mount Pleasant. The marriage vows were taken at the Methodist Church in Digby with Rev. Robert MacArthur, officiating.

On Monday evening November 17, 1975, Mr. and Mrs. Van Tassell were honored by a 60th wedding anniversary celebration at the Digby Lions Club Hall when relatives and friends extended good wishes and more happy years. In charge of the reception was Mr. and Mrs. Van Tassell's daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Kennedy and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Truman Van Tassell. Following the refreshments and cake cutting ceremony the well-wishers enjoyed a game of 45's.

Mr. Van Tassell's gift to his bride of 60 years was a diamond and the gift of the bride to her husband of 60 years was a watch. Mr. and Mrs. Van Tassell lived their entire married life at Mount Pleasant where Mr. Van Tassell was a gardener by trade and being employed by the D.A.R. for many years caring for the garden at the Digby Railway Station, one of the gardens greatly admired for its

School Supervisors Meet In Halifax

More than 200 senior education administrators from throughout the province attended a two-day supervisory conference in Halifax last week to engage in close dialogue about current topics and problems in the educational system. Attending from the Digby area were Jack Ritcey, Supervisor of Curriculum in Digby Municipal Schools; C. C. MacInness, Superintendent Digby Schools;

Keith Manzer, Supervisor Islands Consolidated Schools; C. E. Edwards, Bridgetown, Inspector of Digby and Annapolis County Schools and Keith Chappell, Supervisor of Curriculum in the Annapolis County Schools. Mr. Chappell participated in the program on the subject of introducing new programs.

The conference was opened by Education Minister Hon. William Gillis, and the keynote address, Today's Trends, Need They Be Tomorrow's Problems, was delivered by Dr. Tom Williams, chairman of the education administration department of the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education.

Dr. Williams told the delegates that administrators must be able to cope with the existing trend of shrinking budgets and enrolments coupled with increasing militancy of interest groups and participation by senior governments.

The adaptability of administrators to meet the increasingly complex problems in the next five years and to anticipate realistic solutions will be

DRIVE SAFELY ALL YEAR ROUND

Safe driving is a year round program. It's not just a one week activity. The good driver is the one who adopts his driving to the existing driving conditions. So says the Nova Scotia Highway Safety Council, prior to the launching of the 1975 Safe Driving Week, December 1-7.

The message emphasizes the need for drivers to adjust their driving conditions to winter conditions.

President of the Council, E. A. LeBlanc, Q. C. said in an interview that the woes of winter driving can be reduced greatly if drivers prepare themselves for the worst and know what to do in severe ice and snow conditions.

Mr. LeBlanc said that there was a total previous year, with increase in total property damage increased by 20 percent to $14,066,200. previous year, with increase in total property damage increased by 20 percent to $14,066,200.

"Few drivers are really bad all of the time - just as not nearly enough are really good all of the time. It is the momentary lapse that can create traffic havoc. The brief period of inattention, the failure to verify road and traffic condition for that one extra trip, the temporary procrastination about getting the wiper blade fixed or the burned-out headlamp replaced, or the one seasonal party too many, when the vehicle should best have been left at home, or even at the office or plant!" Mr. LeBlanc added.

"Safe Driving Week" isn't aimed at the small group of really bad drivers, according to the Nova Scotia Highway Safety Council. "The messages would probably not be seen or heeded anyway. It is the basically good driver who will most often notice and heed a safety tip - and appreciate it," he added.

OUR BIRD LADY WINS AWARD

Miss Louise Daley, The Bird Lady, who writes the column, Bird Haven, in The Digby Courier on alternate weeks, has been chosen for a 1975 Kindness To Animal Award from the Maritime Provinces Kindness Club.

The Digby Courier takes extreme pleasure in congratulating Louise on receiving this well deserved honor for "her humanitarianism and demonstrated concern for kindness to animals" and may we add, especially to the many birds which happen along or are brought to her "sanctuary" on Queen St., Digby. We know the Kindness Club could not have made a better choice than that of Miss Daley and while we do not know Mrs. Watson MacDonald, Pictou and Charles Smith, Pictou so well as Louise, we are sure the judges were wise in making their selection.

We live here where The Bird Lady lives so we had learned of Louise's concern for animals and birds long before she began writing Bird Haven column. Those who now have grown to men and women with children of their own can well remember the injured sea gull wing, the robins which miscalculated the weather and all those other birds of so many other descriptions and kinds which landed with their broken legs at the Daley door. None were turned away without the greatest attention and a real love and gentle kindness to wildlife was created and developed by young people who encountered the Bird Lady during the years.

Once again The Digby Courier expresses appreciation to Miss Daley, not wholly because of her being a valued columnist for us but because of the honors she has won by her living example of true humanitarianism. She will be presented with the award later by Mrs. H. J. Fleming of Fredericton, N.B., founder of the Kindness Club, or by Mrs. Margaret Stanbury, president.

THE QUIET REVOLUTION

Normalization.

The word may not mean much to you.

You may not even find it in your dictionary.

But for more than two million Canadians, or one-tenth of our population, the word is becoming increasingly important.

The Canadians in question are the approximately 640,000 mentally retarded citizens and their parents and families. For them, normalization brings almost revolutionary hope and new expectations.

Normalization, simply put, means letting the mentally retarded person obtain an existence as close to the normal as possible.

It means for example, that the mentally retarded person be given the chance to do things we've long denied him, because our expectations of him were so low.

It means we must free him to live in more normal settings. Sleeping in wards of 50 or more, taking every meal in huge cafeterias, or bathing in mass showers will never produce normal behaviour. So we must change that.

It means we must free him to move and communicate in ways typical for his age: to use typical community resources be they recreational, religious, medical, social or whatever. Being isolated in remote institutions or hospitals where one is labelled as a patient or inmate, and where one cannot mix with other community residents or enjoy community amenities, is hardly conducive to normal behaviour. So we must change that.

For too long, we have reduced the potential and normalcy of the mentally retarded person, and have further retarded his development. We have stressed the negative, not the positive. We have pointed out his "differentness" not his likeness to the rest of us. The Mentally Retarded person, for his part, being neither vocal or articulate, has accepted his fate quietly. The Canadian Association for the Mentally Retarded and its nine provincial and 350 local associations are trying to change that. And we must help.

Normalization means, therefore, many things for the Mentally Retarded. But it also means something for those of us who make up the so-called "normal" segment of society.

It's time we revolutionized our thinking. It's time we raised our expectations of the mentally retarded.

Old attitudes and fears die hard.

But let's give normalization - and the mentally retarded - a chance.

Hodge Podge

News is news. If Aunt Sarah goes across the street or a mile or two down the road for dinner, that is not news. When the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, that is not news. If hymn 25 was sung, that is not news. We often have to blue-pencil items of that nature which cross our desk. Hope you don't mind.

Bear River and Barton represented this area at the provincial Arts and Crafts show at the Dalhousie Arts Centre, Halifax, on the weekend. It was pleasing to see and hear of craft and art displays from the hands of our own craftsmen and artists. In a crowd like that which viewed the exhibits on Saturday one can be forgiven if every table wasn't seen by home-towners.

We are not alone in Digby with these school wish bomb scares. The Atlantic Community Newspapers Association members discussed the problem at the annual meeting held in Moncton, New Brunswick, last week. The majority felt that good publicity should be given. It had reached the point where it was needed. Many editors seemed to have been confronted by the same problem.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Regarding the bomb scares at the Digby Regional High School and the large cost and loss resulting from them, it seems to me, the employment of commissionaires or watchguards of the right quality is the right step to meet the present bomb scare situation so that it will be reasonably safe for all students to regularly attend classes in spite of any notice of intimidation, and, employment of such persons could be for other good reasons as well.

The cost of this surveillance as purposed at the public meeting November 13 last would of course add to the already too high cost of the education, but, what are we to do now but go along with the lesser of two evils and, seriously try to do something about the root causes. Let all persons directly connected with the educational process learn to do a better job at economizing to help pay for it all.

When the question, asked at the large public meeting in question, should strong action be taken against persons who cause or make bomb scares, the answer was strongly positive and revealing.

Where does the real enemy and remedy lie? I am not a professional teacher, minister or priest, but I am a parent, a grand-parent, and among other things, an employer of labor including some school students, and at least to some degree, a scholar myself.

As I see it, there are too many people, including parents, teachers and others of us who too often do not give enough attention and time to most important matters, such as running the real business of home, church, school and community at large, but, often give too high priority to such things as activities of a recreational nature, and to clubs organized for a variety of reasons and purposes.

All too often the financing of some clubs is done by questionable means and the recreational activities too often display bad behavior and bad example, resulting in more harm done than good. Recreation too often reaches the point where it ceases to be true recreation. All of which compounds our social ills. With it all, many people are trying to live on the highest social plane long before they have earned the right to do so, and the need to economize here and there is given little consideration.

Parents, school teachers and heads of churches, particularly, are supposed to be educating for better living, but, what of the school teachers for instance, who do not spend any real time with representatives of business and industry in the forums of business and industry. Should not school teachers be well represented and be active in organizations such as Boards of Trade - each side would or could learn much from the other in a matter of time, especially whereas institutions of learning are supposed to be preparing students for business and industry as well as anything else.

I wish to submit that the financial cost of Education has become too much of a burden on business and industry for what is received in return. Even the efforts of Canada Manpower Centres with their program of educational upgrading with all the great cost involved do not seem to have been very successful to say the least. The "stick to your bush" kind of education does not seem to be taught these days and, as a result, there is little stability.

The truth is, it does not appear that the real needs of present day society are being well enough met in home, church, school, business and industry, and in all the varied number of community organizations, there needs to be better liaison between some of these entities. The church and other persuasions of the spiritual side of life have been tragically neglected by most people of all walks of life, but, especially by parents and professional teachers who are most responsible.

Surley we must learn to

He also emphasized the importance of continuing communication between management and the school principals who must get the job done - especially when education control is decentralized.

Hugh Noble, conference chairman and chief inspector of schools for the province, emphasized the value of the conference to be the opportunity for supervising educators employed by school boards and by the Department of Education to meet the share ideas of common concern.

Delegates spent most of the time in open discussion on a series of current topics in workshops chaired by people with particular experience in that field.

The emphasis is more easily placed on the individual child, and the student assumes an active rather than a passive role," Mr. MacDougall said.

"Children have the opportunity to develop responsibility for setting and meeting their individual educational goals through a variety of activities which progress simultaneously."

Discussion on public involvement in education was led by Karl Perry, Dartmouth school superintendent, and Audrey Manzer, parent and librarian.

Among involvement methods suggested were the use of community resource people in the schools, increased community use of school facilities and a good public relations program.

The major question, said Mr. Perry, is how to get the right degree of interested public participation while at the same time avoiding chaos.

do a better job of regulating and legislating wherever helpful for sake of good discipline, along with teaching of good principles. We do need good laws and good education working together against all persons, things and their agents that would afflict and destroy. Let nobody think that good laws and good regulations are made to be broken, without suitable punishment, and, let nobody be so foolish to think that good laws against crime and vice only encourage people to commit crime or vice of any kind in any way.

Persons under sixteen years of age are juveniles, according to existing law, and seem to be treated, more or less, as irresponsible persons by law authorities, so, if this is true and right, then, for sake of God and humanity, should not parents, teachers and guardians of such children do a better job of restricting, controlling teaching, guiding and protecting these children. This, in two words means, good discipline.

However, this, in my humble opinion, can never, and never will be done, until we persons, sixteen years of age and over, do a better job of self discipline, and, the most responsible are, the parents, teachers, preachers, lawyers, judges and law officers of the whole community. These most responsible persons should get together now and then for better understanding, and, for better cooperation in action.

Second Jeunesses Musicales Concert At The College Sainte-Anne

Wednesday evening, November 26, at 8:00 p.m., in the College Sainte-Anne chapel, the second Jeunesses Musicales concert will be held featuring Janice Taylor, contralto, Ronald Taylor, flautist, and Pierre Augé, guitarist. JANICE TAYLOR began vocal training in Montreal with the renowned teacher, Bernard Diamant, and gave her debut recital with the accompanist John Newmark at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. After being selected to participate in Maureen Forrester's master classes at Stratford, she took part in a Mahler recital at the Stratford Festival. She has been heard with the Quebec Symphony Orchestra, the Toronto Symphony Orchestra and with the Kingston Symphony. She is equally at home in chamber ensembles with her husband, flautist Ronald Taylor, and the harpist Susana Remeny.

A specialist in the solo and chamber repertoire of his instrument, RONALD TAYLOR's early studies in flute were undertaken in New York with John Oberbrunner. Later in Montreal he continued his private instruction with the late Wolfgang Kander of the Montreal Symphony Orchestra, and studied chamber music with Mirelle Lagacé at the University of Montreal. He held the position of solo flute with the Canada Symphony Orchestra. A member of the faculty of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto, Mr. Taylor maintains an active performing and teaching schedule in both Montreal and Toronto.

Born in France in 1941, PIERRE AUGÉ was a student at the Guitar Academy in Paris. He settled in Toronto in 1967, and continued his studies under Wli Kassar, instructor at the Faculty of Music of the University of Toronto. Mr. Augé has recorded the music for several documentary films. An active member of the Guitar Society of Toronto, he is a faculty member of St. Michael's Choir, the Brodie School of Music, and also teaches at the Music Faculty of the University of Ottawa.

Jeunesses Musicales Season Ticket holders may attend the recital of this wonderful trio. Whoever wishes to purchase a season ticket may do so at the door the night of the concert. There are still three concerts left in the series. The season tickets sell $6.00 for adults and $3.00 for students. The concert will begin at 8:00 p.m.

Wedding

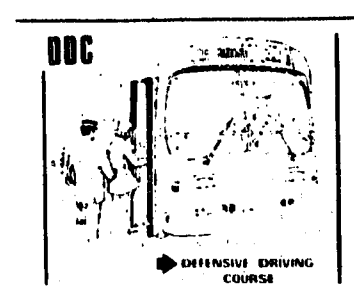

Doucette - Wagner

A lovely summer wedding was solemnized in North Range United Baptist Church on July 12th, when Marilyn Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Wagner, Plympton, Nova Scotia, became the bride of Daniel A. Doucette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Doucette, Sudbury, Ontario.

Rev. W. P. Clayton, Weymouth, Nova Scotia, officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Ivan Bain, North Range, played the nuptial music. Mrs. Brenda Hannam and Mrs. Ivan Bain, North Range, sang a beautiful duet during the signing of the register. Mixed flowers were arranged in the church for the occasion.

The bride looked charming as she entered the church on the arm of her father wearing a Victorian styled gown of slipper satin with overskirt of nylon organza. The bodice and long sleeves were accented with lace. Her floor length veil and train of nylon tulle edged in matching lace were held in place by a Juliet Cap of lace.

Rev. Earl Waterman officiating. Burial was in Mount Hope cemetery.

Rev. Clayton said grace before the meal and the toast was proposed by the best man, Brian Wagner, and responded to by the groom.

The bride's mother wore a floor length gown of soft green polyester with white accessories and a corsage of green tinted carnations. The groom's mother chose a blue floor length gown of polyester with white accessories and a corsage of blue tinted carnations.

Mrs. Gerald Wagner and Mrs. Eugene Dugas, aunts of the bride and groom, presided over the tea service. Those serving the brides table were Mrs. Gary Wagner and Mrs. Ronald Pitre, Sudbury, Ontario.

The Last Moose 39 Years Ago

The grass was green the earth was wide, And the herd came down to feed;

From behind the hill we shoot to kill For fun and not for need. We braided ropes, we bought more guns, And our belts were full of lead; And the trail of pain was broad and plain With the crippled and the dead.

The wounded bull the moaning calf, And charming cow went down; In a steady flood gushed out their blood On the hill near Flat Brook head.

The crows hung close on withering flanks, With their guts so tight and sore; For fresh and sweet was the wasted meat Their long beaks ripped and tore.

By the campfire side, un-washed and grim We glugged our carrons feed, And we held debate till the night was late, Which had made the most to bleed.

We did not care when the Warden came down For we are as sharp as him; That the night wind swept and the moonlight crept, O'er the great eyes glazed and dim.

There's a white bone here and a bleached horn there, And the tall grass chokes the shore, In the gloomy brake by old Fleet Lake, Where the herd will come no more. Hunting Fools

BEDTIME STORY

In 1965 two friends, Jim and John, decided that they were not going to pay rent for the rest of their lives; that they were going to purchase their own homes. Both had $1000 in cash and both found that they could afford $186 per month.

Jim bought immediately a "standard" new home for $24,500. His $1000 down payment left him a mortgage of $23,500. for 25 years at 8 1/2 percent with payments of $186 per month.

John was more cautious. He continued to rent for the next ten years at an average rate of $100 per month and invested the remaining $86 per month very carefully, ending up with $15,000. in cash this year. He now went shopping feeling he was far ahead of poor old impetuous Jim.

He found that with $15,000 down his budget of $186 per month would now buy him a home priced at $32,500 which just happened to be the exact present market price of a ten year old "Standard X" home.

Their present status? Both live in identical homes. John owes the mortgage company $55,800. Jim owes the mortgage company $33,480.

Jim's Net Gain $22,320. Besides his financial gain Jim has enjoyed the freedom of choice, pride of possession and the security of home ownership for ten years longer than John.

Remembrance At Weymouth

"The Baptist Women's Day of Prayer" service was observed by the members of the Freeport Baptist W.M.S. Group when "One World, One Lord" was the theme of the several meditations.

These were read by Mrs. Lillian Haines, Mrs. Vera Crocker, Mrs. Eleanor Teed and Mrs. Elsie Young.

Prayers were presented by Mrs. Ernestine Hewitt, Mrs. Christena Cann, Mrs. Ruth Ideson and Mrs. Elsie Young.

The theme was further illustrated by a white banner with silver letters "One World, One Lord" hung on a blue background. Four of the members, Mrs. Alida Tibert, Mrs. Lillian Haines, Mrs. Ernestine Hewitt and Mrs. Christena Cann, dressed to represent different people of the world, sat before this background. A globe of the world illustrated the goal of such a service "To reach all people with God's message."

These services were instituted in 1950 and the theme is similar to the one used in the World Alliance Meetings in Stockholm in July 1975.

"The Offering and Its Uses", a reading by Mrs. Alida Tibert, told of the services the offerings provide. The Offering was received by Mrs. Mildred Bates.

A short business meeting was held when plans were made for the Christmas meeting and supper. The president, Miss Eleanor Thurber thanked all who had helped in the service.

OWNERSHIP PROBLEMS

Should the Municipality of Clare decide to sell their share of the Digby County hydro system, what are those shares and what facilities would they be selling. In fact, can the Municipality of Clare sell "their shares" of the system without the other owners agreeing to sell. These were some of the questions which presented themselves on Monday morning at the Municipality of the District of Digby Council meeting held at the Digby Court House.

The Digby County hydro system is jointly owned by the Municipality of Clare, the Municipality of the District of Digby, the Town of Digby and the Village of Weymouth. Omer Blinn, Warden of the Municipality of Clare, appeared before the Digby Municipal Council on Monday morning, not, as he put it, to try to convince the Municipality of Digby but to advise them of Clare's decision respecting the hydro system. With Warden Blinn were Eric Gaudet, deputy municipal clerk at Clare and William Melanson, Hydro Manager at Clare.

Also representing owners of the Digby County Power Board on hydro system were Digby Mayor, Charles Haliburton, accompanied by Stuart MacNaughton, superintendent of the Digby County Power Board, Digby, and Emanuel Adelaar and Commissioner Morton Frankland, representing Weymouth Village.

Mr. Blinn told Warden Wilfred Swift and councillors that Clare had decided last year that a sale of the hydro system would not take place and Clare would stay in the Digby County Power Board system but within the last two weeks reconsideration has been given with the result that Clare has decided to sell their shares and facilities. The study going on presently is whether or not Clare can sell their own share without the other owners doing the same.

Warden Blinn said that energy costs was one of their reasons for making the decision, difficulty in meeting capital expenditures was another. Union wages, unfair tax burdens in comparison with the Nova Scotia Power Corporation oil taxes, and future possibility of inability to borrow financially. Mr. Blinn said these reasons were not necessarily named in order of importance.

Mr. Blinn referred to the fuel adjustment tax which he expects to be raised even more in the future. Energy costs per 1500 kw. h. is greater, he said, by $5.09 per month than that of the Nova Scotia Power Corporation, 82% of which is solely fuel adjustment tax. As far as capital costs, Mr. Blinn pointed out the Clare hydro capital costs in 1972 were 64,000 which wavered up and down through the years until the present year which to date has been 67,000 and expected to be 77,000 for the entire year. He anticipates no let up for 1976, he said.

The meeting was presided over by Warden Wilfred Swift and the Clare delegation was welcomed by Councillor Ervin Marshall of the Digby County Power Board executive who had invited the representatives to meet with Council.

Mayor Haliburton felt the first mistake was made when the generating plant was sold some years ago. He said that two injustices seem to be levelled, the health tax and line loss, but he felt every avenue should be exhausted in pressing to be on equal basis with others before deciding to sell. Mr. Haliburton also posed the question as to how to divide the spoils if they do sell. How much belongs to Clare

Municipality, Digby Municipal District, Digby Town and the Village of Weymouth.

Mr. Adelaar intimated that if capital expense is required then Weymouth cannot afford to "hang on". He advised Digby Municipality to weigh the issues carefully. Warden Swift suggested a period of waiting until information could be obtained from the investigation of procedures being made on behalf of Clare.

Councillor Ervin Marshall said that under the Act of Incorporation all four parties would have to either agree or disagree to a sale of all or part of the system. The agreement, he said, must be a unanimous decision.

A notice of motion had been given by Councillor Eric VanTassell at the October meeting regarding installation of street lights in district 8. A motion, however, was passed, 5-2, to table the street lights discussion to a later date or until the move information is available on the future of the electric light utility. Mr. Marshall also reported that a vehicle equipped to do the job would also create a problem just at the present time.

$5,300 Swimming Pool Response

J. J. Brittain, chairman of the Kiwanis Swimming Pool campaign committee announced on Thursday evening at the regular meeting of the Digby Kiwanis Club that $5,300 in cheques and pledges had been received from 13 donors for the special campaign to raise $25,000 to complete payments on the construction of the Digby Swimming Pool on Mount St.

Of this amount $1,000 was donated by the firm of J. J. Brittain Ltd. Above left to right is MacLeod Rogers Q. C., president of the Digby Kiwanis Club, being presented the $1,000 cheque by John Englehart, vice-president of J. J. Brittain Ltd.; Ray McCleave of R McCleave Funeral Home Ltd. who gave a donation of $250 and Charles Haliburton of Haliburton and Comeau which firm made a presentation of $300. Every member of the J. J. Brittain Ltd. staff contributed.

Other donors to date have been the Digby Recreation Committee, $1,000; Rogers and Outhouse, $500; Bank of Nova Scotia, Royal Bank of Canada and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, $500 each; Douglas French Company, $300; House of Wong, $100 and Dr. Desmond Woods $100.

The Kiwanis Swimming Pool Committee expressed much satisfaction in the $5,300 which had been raised to date in the campaign of business establishments. The objective for the fall was set at 12,000, half of the total amount needed to cover invoices but the committee felt that more than the $12,000 could be raised since the early response is so generous.

Mr. Rogers said that if there had been no postal strike, donors would have made an even better showing. Two hundred letters to would-be donors and interested parties are prepared and still awaiting posting. Some of these letters are addressed to more distant areas but to date the campaign is of necessity confined close by.

Mr. Brittain, chairman, had prepared six lists with names of prospective donors solicited by members of the Club. He requested that each of these canvassers bring in $200. He suggested that the donors might wish to extend their pledges over a two year period if this would be more convenient to accommodate.

Mr. Rogers reported on the information which had been sent out by the letters of solicitation. This information revealed that the pool is of standard commercial size and is of vinyl and galvanized steel construction. It is 82 feet long and 42 feet (16 lanes) in width. It ranges in depth from 3 feet 6 inches in shallow end to 9 feet in the deep end of the pool. The change house adjacent to the pool houses separate change rooms for males and females with appropriate shower, basin and toilet facilities, an office and reception area and an engine room, which houses the circulation pump and chlorination equipment.

The pool was staffed in 1975 with competent and qualified instructors and lifeguards and operated under the rules and guidelines laid down by the Canadian Red Cross Society and the Royal Life Saving Society.

Look Into Sarding Plant Potential

More than fifty persons met in the Digby Lions club Hall on Friday evening, November 21 to discuss the possibility of having a sardine plant or other fish producing plant established in the area in order to provide more employment. Among those present were John Mullally, Deputy Minister of Fisheries; Joe Casey, M.L.A. Digby; Eric Allan, Stephen Hawboldt, Douglas MacClafferty, Richard MacDormand, Paul Winchester, Mr. McPhail representing the Department of Fisheries and Environment.

Charles Haliburton, Mayor of Digby, presided at the meeting which resulted in forming a committee to look into the potential for establishing a sardine plant in the area. The motion to form a committee was moved by Mr. Alfred Bouthier and seconded by Rene Richard and included the Mayor of Digby, the Warden of Digby Municipality, fishermen, businessmen, C. D. Snow, Clifford Mullen Jr. and Claude Westcott. The Mayor and Warden were asked to appoint their own committees. Also included in the committee were George O'Neil and Audrey Frankland with power to add.

The meeting had been called for Friday evening by Mr. Casey and a regular motion by Councillor Richard Daley, seconded by Mrs. Bouthier put responsibility on Mr. Casey to call the committee together when they would elect their own chairman. Personnel from the departments of fisheries and environment, it was stated, would be available for information on finances available and technical advice necessary.

Problems such as suitable size of plant, means of transportation, marketing, sites available and availability of workers, amount of investment, storage facilities, fish supply and other pertinent questions were discussed. Supply of fresh water, use of salt water, environmental stipulations and available services came under discussion. The determination of a site is entirely up to the local committee if the project materializes but the most economical and resourceful area for operating is to be considered. Benefits to the Town of Digby and to the municipal area were mentioned.

Mrs. Bouthier strongly expressed the opinion that new buildings should not be erected when there were so many vacant and available buildings on Digby Neck. The gathering was not totally in support of Mrs. Bouthier's statement or argument.

Name brand use, versatility, local or outside ownership, protection from being swallowed up by large companies, type of containers and other matters came under discussion before the close of the meeting.

Government Awareness Credited For Sainte-Anne Growth

Government awareness of the 1971 dilemma of College Sainte Anne, Church Point, and the government's ongoing financial assistance since 1971 was credited by Hon. Benoit Comeau for much of the growth of the college. Prior to 1971 the college had suffered a slump. Mr. Comeau congratulated the president, Louis R.

Coline Campbell, representing the federal government, congratulates Hon. Benoit Comeau, Minister of Public Works for Nova Scotia, upon the opening of a new swimming pool at College Ste. Anne in Church Point. The six lane, 25 meter pool is one of the largest in the province. (N.S.C.I.C. Photo)

Comeau for the work he has done to further the growth of College Sainte Anne since 1971.

Mr. Comeau was speaking at the recent official opening of the institution's new swimming pool attended by some six hundred persons.

He said that through government participation, the public was being made aware of the new role College Ste Anne could play, because it not only had an educational duty to fulfill toward the social, intellectual, and physical development of the youth, but also an economical function which can compare to that of an industry. He told the audience that money received by College Sainte Anne was re-used to pay workers, professionals and merchants of the area.

Federation Elects Directors

LeRoy Warner, Bloomfield, president of the Digby County Federation of Agriculture, presided at the annual meeting of the organization on Thursday when the following directors were elected: Mr. Warner, Leonard Boudreau, Concession and Hubert LeBlanc, Concession, (re-elected) and Otis Robbins, Smith's Cove. Directors whose terms are unexpired are Malcolm Justason, Bear River; Stanley Boudreau, Concession; Wayne Comeau, Brighton; Louis Comeau, Comeauville; Murray Prime, New Tusket and Peter Balser, Shelburne Road.

In his president's address, Mr. Warner thanked all those who had been so co-operative during the present year of his presidency. He said that in this day of high cost of production and not so high prices being paid for the farmers' product, it is more meaningful than ever for farmers in Digby County to work together and the county Federation of Agriculture. This, he said, will work, as in the past for the betterment of all farmers.

Mother 94, Daughter 73 Both At Tideview

When Mrs. Hattie E. Langford, of Weymouth Falls, Nova Scotia, moved into Tideview Terrace in Digby, she helped establish a record for the home, and possibly for the other nursing homes in the province, by giving Tideview a mother-daughter combination. Her daughter, Mrs. Norma Barnes, has been a guest at Tideview Terrace since February.

Mrs. Langford, who is 94 years old, celebrated her 75th wedding anniversary in December 1973. Her husband passed away the following April. Out of eleven children, she has four who are still living. Mrs.

Barnes, who is now 73, is her oldest daughter, and in recent years had lived with her mother until moving into Tideview. The past nine months Mrs. Langford has made her home with another daughter in Weymouth Falls.

Mrs. Barnes keeps active, making daily visits to the Digby General Hospital and doing errands for many of the patients there as well as for guests of Tideview who are unable to get out. For years she was a member of the Weymouth Falls Choir, and still sings with them when they are performing in the Digby area.

Accident Claims Life Of Nineteen Year Old

Judith Ann Dunnington, Warwick St., Digby, age 19, lost her life on Friday, November 21, when the car in which she was a passenger left the road near the Savary Park when enroute to Weymouth from Digby. The accident happened at approximately five o'clock.

Driver of the car was Diana Kim Gaudet, who apparently lost control of the car when passing another vehicle. Both Miss Dunnington and Miss Gaudet were employees of Maritime Tel. and Tel. Digby. Miss Dunnington, daughter of Harold and Jane Dunnington, Annapolis Royal, was a graduate of the Annapolis Royal Regional Academy.

Miss Dunnington is survived by four sisters and one brother, Elizabeth, Catherine, Dorothy, Jo-Ann and Russell and her parents. Also surviving is her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Beatrice Dunnington, Granville Ferry and maternal grandparents in Ontario.

Digby R.C.M.P. detachment have the accident under investigation.

HUMAN CARELESSNESS

A goat, pet or producing, was shot. Disregarding a prank or evil intent, each of which would seem too cruel to name, we can put it down only to carelessness. Such an incident, we've been given to understand, happened in Bear River on the Sissiboo Road on a Saturday between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. when the owners were away. The waste of meat and - or milk or maybe the loss of a pet goat seem to be matters of little importance when a hunter becomes trigger happy.

If hunting carelessness can cause the death of a domestic animal grazing in a field 60 feet from the road, can humans have any measure of confidence for their safety when they travel the roadway or stroll the woods. Whatever it is which causes the hunter to lose judgment on a domestic animal could also cause a lack of judgment when humans are involved. Is it over excitement, over indulgence or what is it that makes judgment so poor at such a time.

Being kind and putting it down to human carelessness, it is a type of carelessness that needs to be corrected. Too many accidents have happened, some very serious, by the careless hunter.

Hodge Podge

Just as simple as that, Mr. A. who has a family of four children earns $4500. per year. He gives by the Biblical tithe. He has $4050 left to feed and clothe his family. Mr. B., on the other hand has a family of two children and earns $9000. per year. A tenth of $9000. is $900. just twice as much as Mr. A. gave but he has left $8,100 on which to support his half as big family. We are not making a case for or against tithing. That is a matter of individual conscience. Next Mr. A. and Mr. B. meet up with inflation. Living costs soar. Wage increase is 10 per cent. Mr. A. gets a raise of $450 to $4950 per year to overcome the inflationary costs. Mr. B's raise is $900 making a salary of $9,900 per year to provide for his family and overcome inflated living costs. To him that has much, more shall be added. You can figure out the $25,000 a year income, the $50,000 and the $75,000. They are out of our bracket. Where is the justice we speak about.

Believe it or not, on Friday, November 21, 1975, the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) began paying its members $40. a week strike pay for purchasing "groceries". When, oh, when, was the last time Postal workers had to live on $40 per week? To what profit, the Postal strike?

Letter To The Editor

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE RESIDENTS OF BEAR RIVER FROM BARRY DIXON CO-ORDINATOR OF THE BEAR RIVER COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

Many of you, as active concerned residents of Bear River, have been involved in some way with my work in your village over the past six months. There are many of you also who are somewhat unaware of my presence in your area. It is to all of you that I address this letter.

In the next few days, you will receive a copy of a report concerning the Planning Workshop which was held in Bear River on Friday, October 17 and Saturday, October 18. It contains a good deal of information which ought to be of interest to you. I want to personally urge you to read the report completely, discuss it with your friends and neighbors and decide what it all means to you personally.

My job in your village in the past months has been to impress upon you, as residents of Bear River, the important need to assume an active role in planning and directing the change and development that will eventually take place in your area. It is your right and responsibility to have a say in what happens in Bear River in the future. A sum in excess of $15,000.00 has been spent in order to give you the interim professional assistance which you require.

My involvement in your village is soon to end - I cannot stay on without some firm and definite commitment from an organized community group to assist and advise me. My last visit here will be made in about

Running Loose Dog Damages Car

A running loose dog is reported to have damaged the taxi vehicle of Larry Potter of Montague Row as he returned from a taxi call on Tuesday morning, at approximately eleven o'clock. According to Mr. Potter, the dog ran into his pathway when being chased by another dog and damaged his car to the extent of $175. to $200.

The accident happened on Warwick Street into Digby between Queen Street and First Avenue. Mr. Potter's vehicle came to a full stop but the running-loose dog was injured in the impact with the car.

Two weeks - at that time I will be attending a general village meeting to explain the situation and answer questions related to the Bear River Community Development Program. The time and place of the meeting will be announced well in advance. You are invited to attend and participate if you feel that the effort of planning the future of your village is important.

In conclusion, I want to add that I leave my work with Bear River regretfully. Though I can no longer be actively involved unless you, as an organized community group request it, I shall be available by mail or telephone to help in any way possible.

Thank you

Painted Crosswalks For Conway

Following a letter read at the November meeting of the Municipality of the District of Digby Council from the Department of Highways, a motion was passed that a letter be forwarded to the department requesting them to instruct the local Department of Highways personnel to paint suitable crosswalks on Warwick Street through Conway.

The letter from the Department to the Municipality advised that the proposed sidewalk in the area would not be finalized until the spring of 1976. While the Department pays one hundred per cent of the cost of laying the sidewalk there are questions as to who owns the sidewalk, liability for slipping or falling, snow removal and ice control.

Following a request by the Weymouth Kiwanis Club, a service club, for a write-off of tax arrears and future tax exemption a motion was made by Councillor Richard Daley, seconded by Councillor Arthur Rice and passed that any non-profit organization in the Municipality of Digby be given full consideration to tax write-off through a private member's bill in the legislation. Many favorable comments on the work of the Weymouth Kiwanis Club were made and to the fact that their money goes back into the community to help the children and citizens. It was the opinion that a financial statement should be available to the Council for consideration.

Finance And Tax Report

Monday afternoon was taken up specifically with finances and taxes when the Council of the Municipality of the District of Digby met in regular session at the Court House. The report of the Law Amendments Committee was also adopted.

The finance report given by Councillor L. E. R. Winchester, showed that up to November 15, the municipality expenses had exceeded the budgeted expenses by $5,000. This was considered good financing in the light of the fact that a deficit of $337,000 school deficit had been picked up and extra office help had been employed to bring the tax accounts up to date. Estimated budget was $1,375,920, actual expenses $1,400,589 to date.

Some $24,700 was figured in back taxes and a list of tax delinquents in each district was given to councillors to study and bring in recommendations to the January meeting. In general, the tax delinquent situation for the municipality was not considered to be serious.

Rides On A Cushion Of Air

Something new might be coming to Digby - something which is a far cry from the motor boats and small sailing boats which transported passengers from Victoria Beach to Digby some years back. It's the hovercraft, a type of craft which rides on a cushion of air. Digby's M. L. A. Joe Casey, according to reports is looking forward to spring when he might get this type of transportation system to run between his home at Victoria Beach and his fish plant in Digby, a distance of 15 miles.

Mr. Casey discussed the hovercraft feasibility with L. K. Hill, Canning executive manager of the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade. He was in Cumberland County supervising the construction of an ice storage facility at the new wharf in Delhaven, Kings County. The new structure would hold 12 to 14 tons of ice and eliminate the need to truck flounder catches.

Mr. Casey said many improvements had been made on the hovercraft which is used extensively in England. He felt a system of transportation across Minas Basin, such as the hovercraft might revive the commercial and tourist traffic in the area.

Marr - Henshaw

The Havelock Wesleyan Church was the scene of a pretty fall wedding, November 1, 1975, at 4 p.m. when Rev. Lawrence Corey united in marriage Claudette Ruth Henshaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Henshaw of Bear River, and Michael Steel Marr, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marr.

The church was decorated with baskets of beautiful flowers.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her away.

The wedding march was played by Miss Sherilyn Mullen, a classmate of the bride.

The bride was charming in a floor length flowered gown of green polyester and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

She was attended by her sister, Barbara Hensway, who was gowned in a rust colored floor length gown. The groom was attended by his brother Alvin.

The brides mother wore a long green gown of polyester. The grooms mother chose a long pink crimplene gown. They both wore corsages to match their gowns.

A reception was held Saturday evening at the home of the grooms parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marr, when many friends and relatives gathered, to add their best wishes for many years of happiness to the bride and groom. The wedding cake was cut and served by the bride and groom. The brides aunt, Mrs. Ronald Jefferson, assisted the bride and groom with their gifts. Miss Mildred Henshaw, sister of the bride, had charge of the guest book.

Guests were present from Kentville, Kingston, Bear River, as well as the surrounding areas.

They will reside in New Tusket.

BARTON - ROBINSON

On October 11th, 7 p.m. at the Acaciaville Baptist Church a lovely Candlelight wedding took place when Marlene Rose Robinson daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Robinson Jr., Conway, and Larry Wayne Barton son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Barton, Acaciaville exchanged marriage vows.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Murray Shaw, pastor of the Acaciaville Baptist Church. Miss Mae Cromwell presided at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a floor length gown of white lace featuring a square neckline, long sleeves and empire bodice. Layers of lace fell from the waist to the scalloped hem. Her head piece was a Victorian style bonnet with long trailing veil.

She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Lelia Barton sister of the bride was maid of honour. Miss Sharon Robinson, also sister of the bride and Mrs. Mildred Francis, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. They were identically gowned in floor length dresses of pink and green polyester crepe with matching picture hats and all carried nosegays of carnations and mums.

The flower girl was Marjorie Cromwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cromwell, who looked charming in her floor length gown of green silk in chiffon and carried a bouquet of carnations and daisies.

Ronald Barton of Halifax was best-man. Ushers were the groom's brother-in-law, Louis Francis and Andrew Miller of Halifax. Shawn Warrington was ring bearer.

The groom and his attendants all wore brown tuxedos trimmed with brown crushed velvet and beige shirts with brown trim. They wore white boutonnieres.

David Hill of Halifax and Calvin Barton of Digby ushered guests to seats.

The bride's mother wore a floor length gown of blue Crimplene trimmed with silver and featuring long pleated sleeves. A silver stole, matching accessories and corsage completed her costume.

A long dress of green polyester was chosen by the groom's mother with gold corsage and matching accessories.

During the signing of the register Mrs. Marilyn Cromwell sang "O Perfect Love" accompanied by Miss Mal. Cromwell at the organ.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Church Hall which was appropriately decorated. The bride's table held a beautifully decorated three tier wedding cake. The table was blessed by Deacon Bradford Barton Sr.

The toast to the bride was proposed by the best man, Ronald Barton, and responded to by the groom.

Serving the bride's table were Wanda Elms and Mayola Miller. Leta Barton, youngest sister of the groom, was in charge of the guest book.

Out of town guests included friends of the newly weds from Halifax; Mrs. Eugene Bias, Hanson, Mass., aunt of the bride and Mrs. Albert Simms of Salem, Mass.

The couple is residing in Halifax where they are both employed.

Wedding

Theriault-Milbury

A very pretty decorated arch of pink and white wedding bells and mixed red and white roses was the setting of a summer outdoor wedding at the home of the bride at Brighton, Digby Co. on Saturday July 19th, at 2 o'clock, when June Irene, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Milbury was united in marriage with Leigh Edward Theriault, son of Mrs. Stella Theriault and the late Mr. John Theriault of Bloomfield.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Murray Shaw of Digby.

The bride, given in marriage by Victor Walker, friend of the bride, was very charming as she walked down the front steps from the mobile home and entered the arch, while the wedding march was being played by violin music.

The bride's gown was a floor length of sheer organza with high neck, full sleeves, buttoned at the wrist, and gathered at the waist with inserts of lace and embroidered flowers at the hem line and up the front. Her three tiered veil was held by a Juliet cap accented with pearls and small rose petals. She carried a large bouquet of red and white roses, with streamers and rose-buds attached. The bride wore a double-strand of pearls a gift from her mother. Little Susan Milbury, niece of the bride was a charming flower girl. She wore a floor length gown of yellow flowered polyester and matching ribbon in her hair. Belinda Langhorn and Lesa Burnie wore long gowns and ribbons, carried the bride's train. Leta Theriault, nephew of the groom was ring bearer. Carol Burnie, cousin was

The band consisted of very close friends of the bride and groom which was largely attended. Refreshments again were served at the dance.

At this place the bride chose to present their attendants with gifts. Out-of-town guests were from Ontario, St. John, Halifax, Middleton, Annapolis.

The newlyweds went to P.E.I. and Cape Breton for their honeymoon. The bride chose a red and white pant suit for travelling. Mr. and Mrs. Theriault will reside in Lower Sackville where they have purchased a new mobile home. Mr. Theriault is employed with Matron of honour, and Gloria and Linda sisters of the bride were the brides attendants. They were gowned in floor length gowns of nylon flowered sheer, they carried mixed flowers and wore floppy brimmed hats. The groom chose a white suit. The groom's attendants were Mick Warner, Ross Potter and Allan Milbury, younger brother of the bride. The bride's mother wore a floor length gown of yellow polyester knit and matching hat, while the groom's mother chose a floor length gown of blue crepe. They each wore double mixed carnations and white accessories.

After congratulations and photos were finished a delicious buffet supper was served to one hundred and fifty guests.

The brides table was adorned with mixed flowers and silver candle holders held the tapered candles at either side of the wedding cake which was made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Longmure. Mr. George Beals, Middleton, proposed the toast to the bride which was fittingly responded to by the groom. The bride and groom served their own cake to the guests. The guest book was attended to by Suzette Longmure, cousin of the bride. Following the reception, a dance was held at the Marshalltown Hall, for everyone.

The mother of the bride wore a long gown of printed polyester knit in shades of rust and green with mink stole.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride.

The couple will reside in London, England.

Miss Chesley lived in Bear River during much of the time her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Seldon Chesley, resided here, when Mr.

Rev. J.W. Tattine officiated at the double ring ceremony. David Zwickler was the organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white imported crepe, empire style with bodice and long sleeves of Holland lace. Her long veil of silk illusion was lace trimmed and held by a lace capelet. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and orange gladioli.

The bridesmaid, Miss Nancy Wynn, Halifax and New Germany, chose a floor-length gown of mint green Swiss dotted plaid polyester with square neckline and trimmed with white lace. She carried a basket of flowers similar to those carried by the bride and wore matching flowers in her hair.

Inter-Denominational Meets On Remembrance Day

The Interdenominational Bible Study Class with nine people present met at the Bay View home of Mrs. Harry Adams on Remembrance Day, November 11.

Mrs. Leta Handsaker was in charge of the Devotional Period and her message was centered around Memorials. Three poems appropriate for Remembrance Day were read. The first one was entitled "Remembrance Day". It was written by Anne Kay and was read by the hostess for the evening, Mrs. Harry Adams. This poem described what each of the four small poppy petals represented.

Mrs. Alice Hayes gave two beautiful readings, one being that famous and well loved poem "In Flanders Field" and in her second poem the group was reminded again that "peace will come when 'love thy neighbor' is the universal creed."

The lesson period was under the leadership of Mrs. Carman Frankland.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Layton Hinxman on November 25.

Mrs. Carman Frankland and Mrs. Alice Haynes assisted the hostess in the serving of refreshments.

Wedding

WAGNER-RICHARDSON

Inglisville United Baptist Church was the scene of the marriage of Joyce Louise Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Richardson Inglisville, to Gary Allan Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Wagner Plympton, Digby County. Rev. Willard Smith, Lawrencetown, performed the double ring ceremony. Earl Llewellyn, Lakeville, was the soloist and Shirley Stewart, New Albany, was the Organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length princess style dress of white sheer over crepe with long sheer sleeves and a square neckline. The empire waistline was accented with large white daisies. She wore a sheer hood attached to a train both of which were edged with large white daisies. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white mums.

The maid of honor was Elva Richardson, Halifax sister of the bride. She wore a floor length princess style dress with empire waist, a square neckline and short puffy sleeves of a light blue-polyester with a pattern of small raised flowers. She wore a large white picture hat and carried a bouquet of white mums. The bridesmaids were Juanita Richardson, Kingston and Ardis Richardson, Halifax, sisters of the bride. They wore yellow gowns styled the same as the maid of honor's and carried bouquets of white mums.

Robert Wagner, Sackville, brother of the groom, was best man and ushers were Brian Wagner, Wolfville, brother of the groom and Stanley Richardson, Hilden, brother of the bride. The mother of the bride was attired in a street-length long-sleeved flowered jersey dress in beige, yellow and rose colors. The mother of the groom chose a street-length long-sleeved dress of medium blue crepe.

Following the ceremony a reception was held on the lawn of the home of the bride. The happy couple are making their home at 104 Arklou Drive, Dartmouth N.S. The groom is employed at Halifax Dock Yards where he is an electronics technician and the bride is employed at Maritime Tel and Tel.

A committee was set up on Saturday evening to look into the feasibility and manner of procedure to be followed in an effort to get a sardine factory or fish processing plant started in the area.

Inspection Vehicle On Patrol

With winter here the mobile inspection vehicle of the Department of Highways will be doing random checks of motor vehicles around the province to see if they're in shape for cold weather driving.

This is the first winter that the Inspection Vehicle will patrol Nova Scotia Highways. Since going into service last April, it has logged 5,312 miles.

Inspectors work alone or in co-operation with the RCMP and Local Police. They check floor pans for seepage of carbon monoxide fumes and tire treads.

Operators are cautioned to be very careful when "Boosting" batteries to start motors. Improper placing of cables could cause an explosion.

Hon. Leonard L. Pace, Q.C., Minister of Highways, reminded motorists that section 234 of the Motor Vehicle Act requires that vehicles be in sound mechanical condition. The province's 400,000 operators also are required by law to have vehicles checked at a mechanical inspection station at least once a year.

There are 965 certified inspection stations in Nova Scotia.

Motorists should be aware that proper functioning of exhaust systems is critical in cold weather when occupants may encounter long delays in traffic. Driving with windows slightly open is recommended, Mr. Pace said.

Workshop At College St. Anne

Saturday, November 29, from nine o'clock in the morning until four in the afternoon, a band workshop will be held at the College Sainte Anne in the college band room. Anyone having some experience in band instruments may attend the workshop which will be conducted by three specialists of the brasses, the woodwinds and the percussion.

Donald Campbell from Lower Sackville will look after the woodwinds. Mr. Campbell has a wide experience with bands. He joined the British Army as a musician in 1947. He graduated from the Royal Military School of Music in 1958 and entered the Birmingham Conservatory. He was principal clarinet in 1953 and kept the same position in the Royal Canadian Artillery Band when he moved to Canada in 1958. Since 1971 he is on the Faculty of Music at the Memorial University in St. John's, Newfoundland, and was appointed in 1973 the supervising instructor of the woodwinds at the same university. He was the principal clarinet of the Halifax Symphony Orchestra and also in the Mall Concerts organized by Gordon MacPherson. He has given many solo performances and recitals on C.B.C.

Wilf Harvey of Middleton has been connected with bands for the past fifty years. At the age of seventeen he conducted a band for the first time. During the war he was a member of the RCAF Band in Trenton. After his discharge from the forces in 1946, he came to Middleton and entered the local concert band of which he became the conductor in 1950. In that same year he also became director of the Western N.S. Regimental Band, a position he kept for fifteen years. He has been connected with the High School ever since 1951. Mr. Harvey has mainly a wide experience with the brasses and will conduct the brass instrument workshop at the college.

Mr. William Brousseau from Lower Sackville is an excellent percussionist. He has been in the service since 1948 and has travelled extensively, most of the time in the service. His career is mainly involved in the military band percussions. This workshop is held, thanks to a special grant from the Department of Education, through an adult education program. Registration is free.

Still Splits Own Firewood

Mrs. Elizabeth Fournier aged 91 years on August 18th, 1975 is "up and around" and keeping busy. She is seen here making a quilt top and she says that her eyes are good for work done close up but not so good for distances.

Although living with her son, John, next door, Mrs. Fournier goes to her own home every day when the weather is good and says that her home is her workshop.

She can still cut her kindling wood as her home is heated by a woodfire. Last summer she split some of the firewood and carried it into a shed close by.

She is well for her age and is cheerful and still interested in the community of Saulnierville Station.

Clare Arts Council Stage Interesting Show

The Clare Arts Council held a general meeting on Monday evening, October 27th with president Gerald Boudreau presiding. A showing of slides: Nova Scotia Arts by Rev. Maurice LeBlanc of Ste Anne's college staff, proved to be interesting. The slides program depicted the various types of the arts of printing, oil painting and silk screen poster making.

The program showed drawings, prints, painting, pencil, pen and ink drawings, water color, tempera, oil painting, acrylic, woodcuts and engraving plates for printing. Silk Screen samples were displayed for the gathering previous to the showing of slides of the arts.

A report of the Arts & Crafts exhibition and demonstration during the Acadian Festival of Clare 1975 was given by Mrs. Lucille Comeau and she stated that important commentaries by the visitors to the exhibition were encouraging. The exhibition was a success, stated Mrs. Comeau. The exhibition was a week long affair in 1975. Ninety persons had articles on exhibition and eight demonstrators were on hand to show how various crafts were made and this proved to be a very interesting part of the exhibition, said Mrs. Comeau.

One of the highlights of the exhibition as well as the Acadian Festival of Clare was the visit of Prime Minister Pierre E. Trudeau. He was pleased with the exhibits of the Acadian people in the exhibition and complimented the exhibitors for such fine work, stated Mrs. Comeau. Rev. Maurice LeBlanc, cultural advisors to the Arts Council reported on the activities which has taken place and also of future activities that will take place during the year at St. Anne's college and elsewhere. He stated that the Jeunes Musicales Program has 186 members to date with more expected to purchase tickets for the season shortly. Fifteen students of the college have shown interest in the program and students from the area are interested. Two concerts are expected to be presented. On Nov. 7th, the Pis-en-lis group will present a concert at Ste Anne's; on Nov. 17th Artists of Acadia will give a concert. In December there will be a Christmas Concert by the Choral de la Baie Ste Marie, the Choral group from West Pubnico and the Regional Band. In April the Atlantic Symphony Orchestra is expected to present a concert.

In speaking of the regional band, Rev. Maurice LeBlanc stated that there are thirty-four regular members in the band and thirteen debutantes with practices held Monday evenings at the college. Rev. LeBlanc is pleased with the enthusiasm shown by the members of the band and also the newcomers.

President Gerald Boudreau told the gathering that the Clare Arts Council had requested and received a grant for the purpose of employing a cultural animator for the province of Nova Scotia, for the Acadians of the province. The grant received from the Federal Government was in the amount of $7000.00 approximately.

Louise Comeau, president of the Federation Acadian de la Nouvelle Ecosse, told the group that the Federation would do all it can to assist financially to get the program going.

In listing what the Arts Council had accomplished in the last term, the Secretary Treasurer, Miss Edith Thibodeau, stated that the Council had assisted Nadine Boudreau, on of Clare's budding artist, in paying the cost of advertising for her exhibition of oil paintings held at Ste Anne's college; Assisted the youths of Clare by donating $300.00 to follow music courses at Mount Allison during the summer month; the Council purchased a Kiln and has rented it to groups who are interested in pottery ceramics. Quilt display racks were made for the exhibition and will be on hand for future exhibitions. The Council also has lipidiary equipment such as stone cutting equipment which is presently at Stella Maris school at Meteghan and also have a pottery wheel.

Mrs. Lucille Comeau told the group that the Arts & Crafts exhibition committee consisted of herself, Jean Belliveau of St. Bernard and Mrs. Catherine Melanson of Church Point with Mrs. Catherine Doucet of Belliveau Cove also giving a hand. Sales to the amount of $1,589.00 was made during the exhibition for the exhibitors, stated Mrs. Comeau.

The Council presented the Regional Band of Clare with $500.00 for the purchase of instruments; supported projects in crafts for youths; in photography and pottery. Asked the Municipal School Board to hire a music teacher for the schools which was urgently required in Clare.

Officers of the Clare Arts Council are: President, Gerald Boudreau; 1st Vice President, Mrs. Clarice Comeau, 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. Catherine Melanson, secretary-treasurer, Miss Edith Thibodeau all of Church Point. Mrs. Lucille Comeau, is past president and Rev. Maurice LeBlanc is cultural and artistic advisor of the Council.

Wear House

Something new has come to Digby - a jean shop, known as the Digby Wear House, where the young adults can purchase in style to meet the modern wearing apparel of the day. The shop is located near the war memorial in Digby down town, the store having been occupied for many years by Connell's Variety Store and later purchased by them. Occupants have changed in the past few years with Mrs. Olive Birsell proprietor of the Digby Wear House presently utilizing the building.

The staff work to the sound of modern day music in a shop that has been rustically decorated in keeping with the type of merchandise on display. The indoor-outdoor carpeting in rust lends to the colourful atmosphere and emphasizes the unfinished wood so prominent to the eye of the entering customer. The orange curtains marking the dressing rooms and the decor with a blending touch.

Mrs. Birsell says she has opened the store to fill a need where the young people of today can have made available to them the type of clothing so much in vogue and satisfying to the tastes of all teen-agers. There are men's shirts, girls' shirts, belts, suspenders, jeans in flares and superflares.

Again going along with the styles and wants of the modern teen-agers and young adults, Mrs. Birsell has stocked records both for use at the store with its musical atmosphere and also for sale.

YESTER YEARS IN PORT LORNE

by Mary Anthony Ellis

I have read many accounts of the villages nestled along the Bay of Fundy shore, in one of the newspapers now serving Western Nova Scotia. However, as long as I can remember, the Monitor has served the public well and I wish through its pages, to bring to the attention of its readers an article regarding the beautiful village of Port Lorne as it was many years ago.

During most of his life my grandfather, Capt. John Anthony, spent his time on the sea. He was not the gold braid type sea captain but what is often referred to as an Old Salt. I assure you that in every respect this title was appropriate. Many times he addressed me in no uncertain terms as he ordered, "You, go get my pipe and my tobacco." He was generous to a fault and was quite frequently known to present his grandchildren with gold pieces which he secured on sea voyages.

When he retired from the sea my grandfather established a general store. It was the exact kind of store we read about in Joseph Lincoln's books, and many others. A pot-bellied stove stood in the middle of the store and around it gathered the men who lived in the villages on most winter days. Many problems were settled there, at least to the satisfaction of those concerned. Occasionally a sizzling sound could be heard and whence it came I will leave to the imagination of the readers.

If the government had been entrusted to those who should be in power, according to my grandfather's views, the Post Office was located in his store. Captain John was so enthusiastic concerning his political persuasions that he hung the party banners across the road so that, since it was the only road, everyone must pass under them as they walked or drove up and down the village street.

When the politicians, campaigning for his favored party, honored Port Lorne with their presence for the purpose of holding political meetings to solicit votes, they were always royally entertained in the Anthony home.

I would like to have you go with me to my grandmother's kitchen, not because it was my grandmother's home but because this room is typical of the many comfortable kitchens to be found at the Port in the happy yesteryears. On the window sills bright, red, white and pink geraniums never seemed to tire of blooming. Through those windows the sun shone brightly in the early mornings giving an atmosphere of comfort and warmth.

The kitchen stove always very bright and very black was made with a high oven. It was round in shape and separated from the cooking surface of the stove. From that oven emanated the wonderful fragrance of baking bread and rolls. The delicious large loaves were golden crusted and the rolls as fluffy as down, so tempting; and on countless occasions I tasted several, covered with butter which melted and dripped from the rolls for I couldn't wait for them to cool.

A comfortable sofa with raised head rest was given a place in grandmother's kitchen just under the mantel which supported the ticking kitchen clock. (It was shaped like a little church replete with steeple.) Many times members of the family enjoyed forty winks when just about that much time could be spared from the day's occupation.

The floor of that kitchen was made of wide sheathing boards. It was scrubbed until it was almost white, and partly covered with hooked and braided mats, made by my grandmother.

A large square table was a very important article of furniture. It was covered with a clean white cloth at mealtime but at all other times table covers of printed soft woollen material were used. Each member of the family owned and used a napkin ring. They were made of silver or pewter and kept well polished. They often bore the name of their owners. At mealtime a castor set graced the center of the table. A spoon holder was always on the table as was a covered butter dish.

The family always ate together in those days. I recall some of the meals served at that table, such as salt fish with pork scraps, salt mackerel and potatoes boiled in their skins, clams prepared in many ways, fresh killed home raised pork, head cheese and many other foods which appealed to me. Grandmother made apple pies but they were not to my liking because I couldn't persuade her not to flavor them with caraway seed. That was a general practise in those days.

Kerosene lamps, some of them beautiful in design were kept on the kitchen mantel. Every morning the chimneys were carefully cleaned, the wicks trimmed and the lamps filled with oil. The lamps were the only source of light when darkness fell. The family depended on them as they gathered in the long winter evenings to sew, to knit, to tat, or to read and when at last they climbed the "wooden hill", the lamps guided them to their places of rest.

Captain John thoroughly enjoyed teasing everyone, especially my grandmother. When guests were present at meals and grandmother was using the best china and goblets, in fact, putting her best foot forward, he always did his very best to make her uncomfortable. He was known to call out, "Bring me an extra plate for the hairs, Julie." It was a joy for him to pour his tea into his saucer, blow on it and drink it as noisily as possible to my grandmother's annoyance.

Many of the fishermen sold their fish to Captain John. He supplied most of their needs from the store.

Besides food they bought fishing oiled clothes and supplies of all kinds. Spring and Fall he visited Saint John, N.B., to sell fish and buy store supplies. The store boasted a back room where salt fish, oiled clothes, rope, molasses, kerosene oil, fishing gear, etc., were kept. The odor encountered there defies description.

My father, in after years, possessed the store account books and one matter has always puzzled me. Butter, eggs, etc., were traded at the store for many kinds of merchandise but flour and sugar were always cash sales.

There were other stores in Port Lorne. I shall name the owners but space does not permit me to elaborate.

They were, according to my memory, Captain Samuel Beardsley, Captain Freeman Beardsley, Charles Cropley, Anderson brothers (Percy and Harold) and John Banks, also my uncle, Young Anthony, who owned the store after my grandfather's retirement.

There were two cobblers, Mr. Johnson Corbett and Mr. Maurice Dalton.

Port Lorne also boasted of a magistrate in the person of Mr. Albert Marshall.

At sun down the light in the light house was lighted. Port Lorne was a busy fishing village. Many boats were tied up at the long wharf and the numerous fish houses were in use as the fishermen cleaned and salted their fish for future sale. A smoke house was used to smoke some of the herring.

Mr. Thomas Templeman fished a weir and many a glistening salmon was caught in the seine and eaten by the guests at the hotel.

In the days of sail, many sailing vessels with fuel sail travelled up and down the Bay. Often I hurried down a winding path by the shore line to the home of my great uncle. He was the owner of a telescope and was always willing to allow an excited child to gaze through it to obtain a better view of a ship which was sailing on the Bay. Uncle Jim and Aunt Roselia were so hospitable and often supplied us with cookies from a jar which was never empty.

A steam boat, the Ruby L., plied the waters of the Bay of Fundy between Margareville and Saint John, N.B. Captain Clair Baker was her captain. The boat served all of the villages along the Bay, loading fish and other cargo and discharging supplies for the stores on her return from Saint John. When the boat's whistle sounded signalling her approach to the village's pier, many people hurried down the hill to welcome her. It was considered an event. My uncle, Young Anthony had a handsome black horse, Prince and he was harnessed to an express wagon to haul supplies from the wharf to the store.

A wide swift flowing brook flows down beside the village road and mingles eventually with the waters of the Bay of Fundy. The children sail their boats in a pond formed by the rocks in the brook.

Along the banks, sweet smelling pink wild roses bloom. My grandmother told me that when she was first married it was not unusual for her to do the family wash by the brookside since there was a plentiful water supply.

The village church was the meeting house for one and all years ago. When I was very young the older ladies wore their beautiful black shawls and bonnets when they attended public worship during the fine summer months. They arrived at the church in shining black horse drawn carriages as the church bells rang out its welcome, "O Come To The Church In The Dell."

Port Lorne, in summer was such a busy active place. Summer cottages were opened, and children of the village residents returned to visit their parents and other relatives. Strangers came also and stayed at The Bay View House owned for many years by Mrs. Thomas Templeman, a sister to Dudley Foster, the famous midjet.

Later the hotel was operated by Mr. and Mrs. Royal Raymond. Everyone enjoyed spending even a short time in this beautiful village by the sea where the air is cool and clear.

The hospitable people who lived in Port Lorne entertained the summer visitors in their homes. Sing songs were enjoyed around the organs in the parlors, or around a blazing beach fire where old and young gathered to enjoy the lovely summer evenings.

There were pie socials, box socials, and home made ice cream parties, also the tea meetings. These events were planned to raise money for different projects and, of course, there was a bit of strange money about while all the summer visitors were in the village. Everyone looked forward to these pleasant occasions and entered into the spirit of the events.

Fields and pastures were sure to yield strawberries and raspberries which we picked, all the while looking forward to the delicious berry pies, short cakes and home made ice cream with which our efforts would surely be rewarded.

Occasionally the young people were allowed to tread a load of hay as the sweet-smelling grass was piled on the wagons and taken to the barns.

should be made of Peter J. Switch and his family. Their summers were spent at their lovely home, Fundy Lodge. Mr. Smith and his four daughters, especially Miss Grace, were greatly interested in the Church School. A public library was established in their home. Mrs. Smith taught a sewing class. In every way possible the entire Smith family made a great contribution to the life of the village of Port Lorne through their untiring efforts.

Many times in my youth, my parents, my sister, Frances, and I went to Port Lorne from our home in Bridgetown, to spend Christmas holiday seasons with my grandparents and my uncle. I anticipated with such pleasure that moment when we would reach the mountain top and I could view the Bay of Fundy. As we neared the village the air smelled salt and fresh.

The preparation for Christmas was such fun and so exciting. My grandmother made raised doughnuts, fruit cakes and other delicious foods had been prepared and stored in the cellar. Many foods were stored there for winter use such as pails of salted herring and mackerel, a barrel of fat salt pork, preserves, pickles, apples and vegetables. Supplies were stored in abundance.

It had to be that way because my grandmother could never be sure of the number she would be serving at any meal. When customers arrived at the store, from a distance, at meal time, their teams were cared for and the customers invited to the house to share the family meal.

I often think of the Christmas concerts held in the church at Port Lorne by lamp light. The lamps were placed in brackets along the sides of the walls. I well remember the handsome Christmas trees so sweet-smelling, and decorated with red, white and green paper chains, popcorn, red and green filled candy bags, oranges tied on the trees and small Christmas candles clipped on the branches. The church was heated by a wood burning stove. The burning hard wood gave forth a wonderful odor. Everyone was excited and so happy. We slept in a feather bed which had been warmed by hot bricks. We were happy children awaiting a call from Santa who never failed to visit us.

When the day came when we at last must return home to Bridgetown we sometimes had to travel in a horse drawn sleigh. Snow had fallen and was so deep that we were forced to travel through the fields.

In retrospect I live over these wonderful holidays, in summer or in winter, spent in Port Lorne. I think of the sunsets on the Bay, especially in winter when the monuments in the cemetery were lighted in silhouette by the sitting sun as it disappeared in a blaze of glory over the Bay. Often as my aged grandmother and my father sat in the gloaming, they sang the wonderful beloved hymns found in The Dulcimar, a book of music which was once used at singing school. They sang, "By Cool Siloam's Shady Rill How Sweet the Lilies Blow", and "Day Is Dying In The West," or "Now The Day Is Over."

The village of Port Lorne has changed greatly during the past half century but those who were so well loved, now live in memory within our hearts. We who spent so many happy days in Port Lorne still remember it as it was in our youth.

We remember the high standards maintained by those who lived in Port Lorne. Their verbal promise was enough to seal a bargain. Their word was good. Our forebears who lived by the sea passed on to us a goodly heritage of which we are justly proud. May succeeding generations have reason to say as much of us. We are privileged to follow in the foot steps of true greatness.

The Bobby Vinton Show

"Moja droga ja cie kocham" means that "I love you so", and when Bobby Vinton sings this to his audience, they believe it. "The Bobby Vinton Show", premiering on CTV this Fall on Tuesdays, 7:30-8:00 p.m. EDT, is taped partly before a live audience who respond enthusiastically to the flamboyant costumes, flashing lights, and high spirits which are abundantly evident.

In addition to performing his familiar Gold Record hits and current pop favorites, Bobby welcomes a guest star each week and participates with them in humorous sketches.

Vinton's Polish heritage influenced him to write his latest and biggest release, "Melody of Love". The popularity of this song, with its Polish-English lyrics, caused an upsurge of feeling among North America's Polish population who suddenly found pride in their heritage - a heritage which had been the brunt of offensive jokes for too long. Said Bobby, "I gave the Polish-Americans something they never had before - a pop Polish hit song." "The Bobby Vinton Show" will maintain this level of pride with an undercurrent of language and humor appealing to that particular audience, but Bobby gives equal time to other nationalities as well. His popularity lies in his ability to appeal to the general public - young or old, black or white, English, French or Polish.

Trademarks of Bobby's stage performances - kissing the ladies and dancing with the audience - will be a natural part of his television show as well.

and ruthless plainclothes policeman whose methods could make him feel at home on either side of the law.

STARRING: CHARLES BRONSON, MARTIN BALSAM.

When he's not on tour, Bobby relaxes in his four-acre estate in Southern California, a home which has belonged to such notables as Cary Grant and Barbara Hutton, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and David O. Selznick.

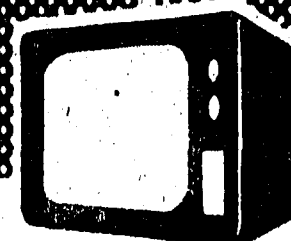

Biography

Bobby Vinton was born Stanley (Stash) Robert Vinton, Jr., the son of a locally popular big band leader in Canonsburg, Pa. In High School Bobby became the leader of his own 'big band' composed of fellow students, whose stints helped pay his way through Duquesne University where he studied oboe and graduated with a degree in music. He also became proficient on piano, trumpet, trombone, saxophone, guitar and drums.

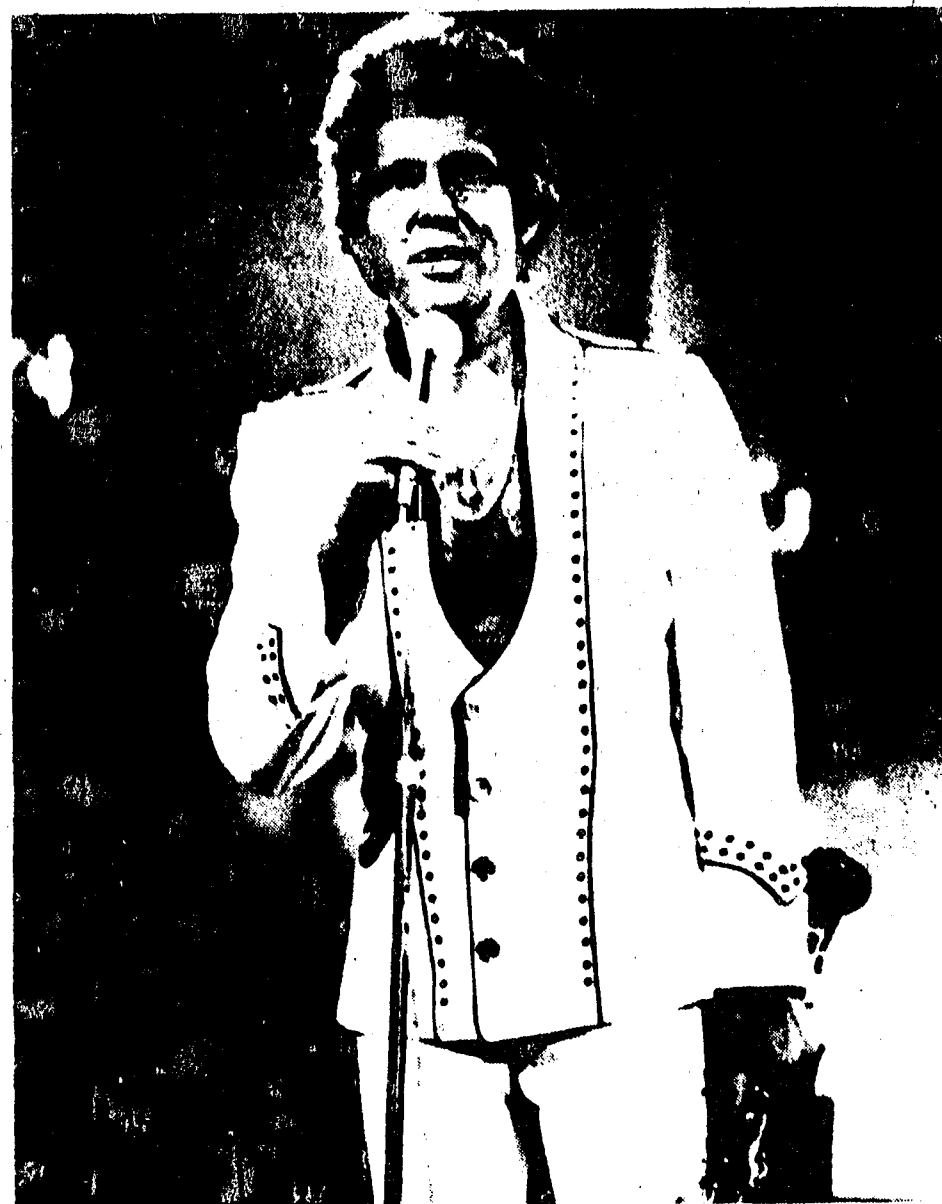

After six months in the Army (the inspiration for one of his biggest hits, "Mr. Lonely"), he and his group appeared on Guy Lombardo's television show which led to a contract with Epic Records. In 1962 he tried his hand as a vocalist and cut the song "Roses Are Red", which sold three million copies. His career was firmly launched and he went on to earn over 12 Gold Records for his million selling hits including "Blue Velvet", "Mr. Lonely", "There, I've Said It Again", "Please Love Me Forever", "Blue on Blue", "Tell Me Why", "Every Day of My Life", "Sealed With a Kiss", and "Melody of Love".

Vinton has also proven himself successful in other aspects of the entertainment field. He has set house attendance records in several nightclubs from New York to Pittsburgh to Las Vegas. His concert tours are sold out weeks in advance; he plays more fairs annually to SRP audiences than any other pop star.

DRIVE SAFELY

DON'T CUT SHORT A CHILD'S LEARNING...

CAR=DRIVER

APRIL 1975

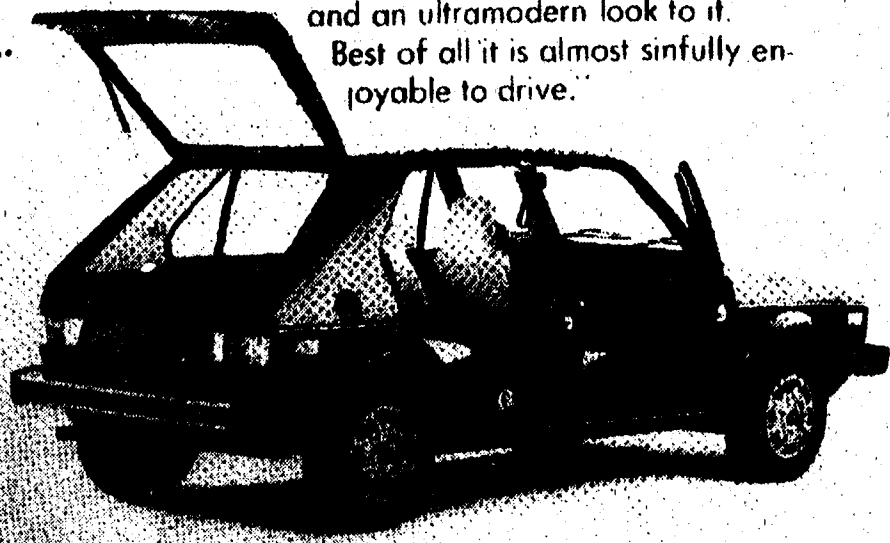

Whole populations of drivers will live for years with this car, strongly impressed by its generally nimble disposition and its sensitive feel of the road through the steering wheel and brake pedal. It slips through city traffic like a bicycle and thrives on the parking-space remnants most cars pass by. You can stuff enough groceries for a football team through the rear hatch while the back seat folds and pivots forward out of the way. The only thing you'll need a trailer for is objects too heavy to boost across the high lift-over.

ROAD & TRACK

The winner, and not by a hare (sorry, couldn't resist). This car does it all: it's small, light, roomy and fast, with nimble and responsive steering, ride and handling. A modern and sophisticated car with a handsome Guigiaro-designed hatchback body. The Rabbit offers one of the most space-saving mechanical layouts we've seen yet: front-wheel drive, transverse engine and a unique, independent rear suspension featuring an integral anti-roll bar and using so little space it's remarkable. The Rabbit has a solid feel and an ultramodern look to it.

Best of all it is almost sinfully enjoyable to drive.

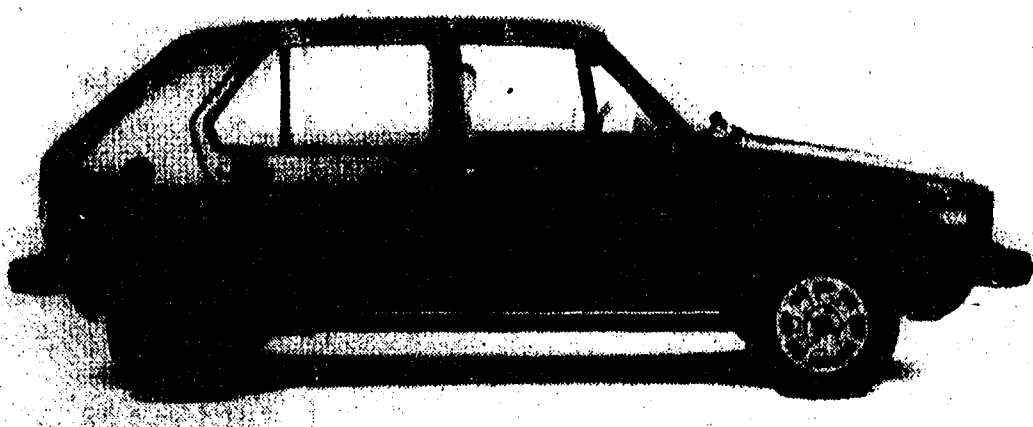

Esquire

THE MAGAZINE FOR MEN AUGUST 1975

VW's new Rabbit is significant because it is a complete departure for Volkswagen, and also because it is the specific type of car that Detroit will be building in the 1980's.

The statistics speak for themselves: accommodation for four, a seventy-horsepower engine, fuel consumption of thirty-eight mpg (U.S.) and a weight of under two thousand pounds.

What they came up with was a car that doesn't have an ounce of fat, one which provides excellent operating economy, as well as performance and value. Personally, I think that VW's Rabbit is one very good idea ahead of its time.

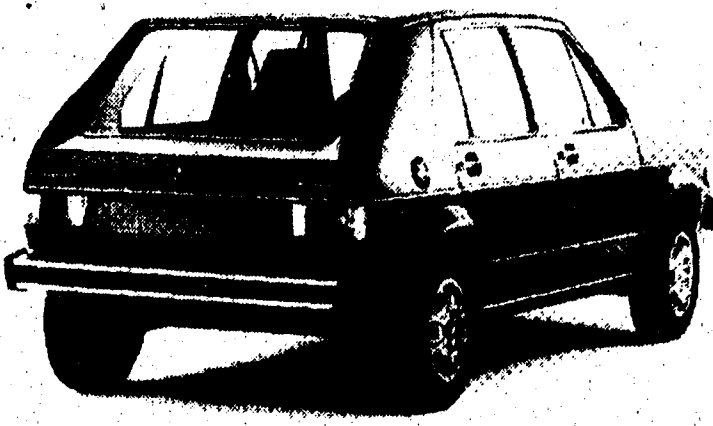

Popular Mechanics

APRIL 1975

The most important new import for 1975 is the VW Rabbit.

The 1800-pound Rabbit is a mechanical masterpiece. It gets up to 60 mph in about 12 seconds—giving it the edge on some V8 subcompacts. Its hatchback design provides 24.7 cubic feet of luggage capacity with the rear seat folded.

VW got the greatest possible amount of usable interior space into the smallest possible outer shell—and an exterior with some style.

Money can't buy this kind of advertising.

Cigarette Smoking Causes Eighty Percent of Cancer - Harlow

The Canadian Cancer Society, Clare Unit, held its annual meeting at the Canadian Legion, Saulnierville branch hall with one hundred persons attending, which is the largest number to attend in years. Special guest speaker was Dr. C.M. Harlow of Halifax who spoke on the danger of cigarette smoking which he said has caused 80 per cent of cancer of the lung.

The number one killer today is heart conditions and attacks; the number two is Cancer, stated Dr. Harlow and Number three is accidents. In 1900 the average age of a person living was 40 years but today it is in the 70 year range. The latter average of 70 is due mainly to improved medication that are used to kill germs which were not available in early 1900's.

Cancer Society is endeavoring that the cancer patients receive the very best of care. He also said that the people in general do not eat enough roughage and do not have planned balanced meals. Following his talk, a question and answer period was held and during the lunch period, those requiring more personal answers to their questions were heard in private.

A delicious lunch was served to the large group attending. The food served was donated by grocery stores in the area of Clare, which was very much appreciated by the officers and directors of the Clare Unit. Yarmouth was represented by Mr. Fred Emin, and Weymouth by Mr. Lewis, president of the Weymouth Unit. In the reports given it was shown that 39 persons in Clare received assistance for transportation to attend the Tumor Clinic which is held in Halifax at the Victoria General Hospital. Twenty persons received other services from the Clare Unit, such as Cancer pads and bedroom equipment.

To be eligible to receive assistance from any Cancer Unit a person must have a revenue of less $5,200.00. Transportation is actually paid by the provincial government through the Canadian Cancer Society headquarters of Halifax and the work is done by the Units regarding the payment for transportation to the persons making a request for same. This is paid from funds granted to units by the Halifax headquarters of the Canadian Cancer Society.

The financial report showed that Transportation paid to attend Tumor Clinic at Halifax was $4,556.45 for the year terminating September 30th 1975; Welfare & assistance and transportation to local hospitals $1,069.18; Postage, back charges, officers expenses to attend meetings outside of Clare and delegates to annual conference in Halifax $151.87 for a total of $5,777.50.

It was announced that memorial donations sent to Headquarters was $603.00. Memorial cards are available from Mrs. Philomene Saulnier (Charles), of Saulnierville Station (mail address RR NO. 1 Saulnierville); Mrs. Leigh Sabine, Riverdale through Weymouth rural route delivery, Miss Edith

Winter Just Around The Corner

Safe Driving Week, 1975, tells us that winter cannot be far behind - if indeed it has not arrived in many parts of Canada.

It is consequently a time when every driver must make some adjustments to driving habits in order to survive - and in today's traffic survival is the name of the game, according to the Canada Safety Council.

The biggest single adjustment is probably the downward adjustment in speed - the ability to not only anticipate stops, but to be able to stop when the need arises. Another adjustment we must all make, is to allow time each morning (if the car is parked outside) to clean frost and snow from ALL windows to ensure good visibility. A six by four inch patch, on a rear window 'laboriously' cleared of snow or ice is worse than useless.

The Council has one new visibility tip for Canadian drivers. When clearing snow from the rear window, take an extra moment or two and brush it from the roof as well. This will prevent the wind moving in back onto the window as soon as the car is driven.

Visibility is all important! Keep the windows clear, and, with these dark evenings, make sure all the vehicle lights work every time the car is driven.

MAYOR TALKS ON SEWER PROPOSAL

In preparation for the Digby Town Rate-payers Meeting tonight, Mayor Charles Haliburton was requested to give information to the Digby Board of Trade on Thursday evening regarding the proposal to be placed before the ratepayers. The meeting will seek the approval of ratepayers to the borrowing by the Town of a sum not exceeding $1,840,000 for the purpose of constructing, altering, extending and improving public sewers or drains in town and acquiring or purchasing materials, machinery, implements or plant deemed requisite or advisable for maintaining public sewers and drains. In simple words, to complete phase three of the system proposed in 1971.

Mr. Haliburton outlined the history of the sewer system from the early 1971 discussions to the present time. In 1972 a ratepayers information meeting was held but action was postponed until in 1973 the proposal was approved for $830,000. This again had been held up for various reasons.

Phase one was undertaken in 1974 at a cost of $104,000. In 1975, phase two was completed at a cost of $76,000 covered by short term loans and government grants of $39,000.

During the present year tenders were called for phase three on completion of the entire system with five new pumping stations and a treatment plant to be located near the Joggins with outlet at low water. Lowest tender was $1,710,000. Grants to offset some of the amount were figured at $993,000 bringing the cost to $816,000.

A further meeting with the Department of Environment revealed that the treatment plant was not required at present which would lower the cost to the town to $698,000 after grants received.

Mr. Haliburton broke down yearly payments to $62,000 with treatment plant and operation considered and $44,000 without the treatment plant. Also considered was tax rebate and frontage levy. Cost per household per year with treatment plant would be $54.50 and without treatment plant $40.00.

Methods of charging householders were discussed with the suggestion made that the charge could be on the monthly water bill, divided into six payments.

Mayor's Interview

In an interview with Mayor Charles Haliburton on the Town of Digby ratepayers meeting tonight, Mr. Haliburton reminded the interviewer that approval had already been given to the proposed sewer construction by a phase system. He was not prepared to say over what period of time.

His opinion is that collection sewers are vital and it could be that the opportunity might not come again to install the system at comparable figures as those presented.

Mr. Haliburton also interjected that while the Department of Environment does not now require a treatment plant, there is no way to tell whether this will be required later.

The mayor said that one of his chief concerns is that every ratepayer have access to all the facts and information sheets on costs would be circulated tonight. He admitted that he would be recommending the total system installation but each ratepayer should make up his or her own mind. There are questions, he said, which have not yet been answered to his own satisfaction but the decision is one for the ratepayers.

Location New Town Hall Gives Concern

The New Town Hall Committee's recommendation that the present Tourist Bureau site in Digby Town be used for a New Town Hall caused concern to the Annapolis Basin Tourist and Recreation Council, according to David Irvine, president, who appeared before Digby Town Council on Monday evening.

Mr. Irvine asked the councillors to reconsider the location recommended by the committee and protect the existing view at the bandstand. In his remarks he recommended the old D.A.R. railway station as a better place.

Mr. Irvine felt that the town should set an example in preserving old buildings and not dispose of them. He felt the tourist bureau and bandstand would disappear as would also the staff if that location were used. A new building would rob the only green space left and costs would be higher for engineering at the embankment.

Supporting Mr. Irvine was Harold Riley also of the Tourist and Recreation Council. He suggested since the Digby Dairy is closed, that building might be available.

Discussion by councillors arose in which Councillor Gordon Ellis remarked that the Tourist and Recreation Council seemed to be quite a ways ahead of the Town Council and as for the use of the railway station, that is "for the birds".

Mayor Charles Haliburton advised the visitors that the whole subject was still in the discussion stage and while he had his own views where the location should be he would like to ask a selected group to help in the Town Council's decision.

A letter was also read from the Admiral Digby Horticultural Society requesting the preservation of existing buildings and locating a new town hall at another place rather than on the Tourist Bureau property.

Glen Pitman, town clerk, in his monthly report read a letter from the Maritime Realty Co., in reply to one in which he sought information regarding the Digby railway station. The letter stated they would place the request before the railway company for consideration.

The debates at University of Kings were of two forms. The parliamentary form of debate was used in the morning on the topic "Resolved that Canada severely curtail immigration" and in the afternoon the cross examination style was used in the debate "Should Canadian Immigration Policy be based solely on national self interest."

Approve Housing Authority Budget

J. J. Brittain, chairman of the Digby Housing Authority presented the 1976 budget to Digby Town Council on Monday evening and gave pertinent information regarding the operating and financing of the Digby Senior Citizens Apartments and the Public Housing Units. Mr. Brittain was accompanied by Reginald Turnbull, manager.

There are 71 senior citizen units, Mr. Brittain reported and 12 public housing units. In January twelve more public housing units will be occupied.

Mr. Brittain explained that the average rental per unit per month is $60 and while this is not sufficient to cover all necessary expenses the rentals on the public housing are proportioned to income.

Taxes amount to $20,000 he said, making a deficit of more than $100,000 for the year. The deficit to the end of 1974 was $117,000.

The Housing project is a combined federal, provincial and municipal project, Mr. Brittain advised and some of the debt is returned.

Responding to Councillor Eileen Chipman's question, Mr. Brittain explained that the Housing Authority consists of two persons appointed by the town one by the province and one is a federal appointment, each for four years. All the appointments expire in 1976.

Mr. Brittain said that the Housing Authority is tied to guide lines by the Housing Commission in their operation.

Digby Minor Hockey Sponsors Skate-A-Thon

After a long lay-off since the ice plant failure last year, Digby Minor Hockey is now progressing into high gear. All teams have had several practice sessions, Rep teams have been chosen and a few exhibition games with outside teams have been staged.

Several new approaches have been adopted this year which include a Rep team league between Digby, Bridgetown and Cornwallis, a House team league with Cornwallis and a skating and hockey skills program for the Novice Division. Ice time provided by Minor Hockey has also been considerably increased over prior years and it is hoped this will aid in skill development and greater enjoyment by the children, said Ben Cullen, treasurer of Digby Minor Hockey.

However costs of operating such a program are heavy, Mr. Cullen said, and only so much of these costs can be picked up in

Against Blank Speed Limit Reductions

Hon. Leonard Pace, Nova Scotia Minister of Highways, told members of the news media at the annual Highway Safety Dinner held on Friday at Hotel Nova Scotia, Halifax, that he is not in accord with a blank reduction of highway speed as a saving on energy costs. He was referring to the statement of Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie when he said he would press for a reduction to a 55 mile highway speed limit at a federal-provincial conference to be held in Ottawa. The dinner was held in connection with Highway Safety Week, December 1 to 7.

Mr. Pace resisted the blank reduction on the grounds that little energy cost would be saved in vehicle operation by the reduction and consumer price would have a tendency to increase. A recent study made in Nova Scotia, he said, found that a decrease of 10 miles per hour from 65 to 55 would save approximately $26 per year only.

Dealing with the effect of a 55 mile per hour speed limit in relation to consumer costs, the Honorable Mr. Pace said, because they think it will reduce accidents. Mr. Pace gave indication of measures which he felt relieved fatal accidents in the province of Nova Scotia, from 400 in the previous year to 218 up to the present time in 1975.

goods, he felt would mean more jobs and more money for Nova Scotia people.

It is in urban transportation, Mr. Pace said, that excessive energy is used and not on the Trans Canada highways. Less than one-twentieth of the Nova Scotia highways are in the Trans Canada system. Most Nova Scotians, at least 85 per cent, drive sanely and carefully, the minister said. He felt that speed limits can only be forced when acceptable to the people and the 55 mile per hour is not acceptable to the public, he feared. The average speeder on the four-lane highway clocks 75 miles per hour, he said, and it would be almost impossible to control a 55 mile limit with 400,000 cars to be controlled by 250 R.C.M.P. officers.

The minister did approve of any thought of lowering the speed limit on gravel roads. Fifty miles per hour is high enough for those, he said, especially in some places. Secondary roads, he said, make up about fifty per cent of the highways in Nova Scotia.

Some people on emotional purpose approve of a 10 mile per hour reduction, Mr. Pace said, because they think it will reduce accidents. Mr. Pace gave indication of measures which he felt relieved fatal accidents in the province of Nova Scotia, from 400 in the previous year to 218 up to the present time in 1975.

Not To Hood Meters

A motion to hood the parking meters down town for two weeks before Christmas was defeated at Digby Town Council on Monday evening. A motion did pass by which the merchants will be asked to put welcome signs on the meters for down town shoppers.

In making the first motion Councillor Eileen Chipman felt the down town merchants should have equal rights with others and not be penalized in the Christmas shopping by parking meters. Others felt that the meters could not be hooded if installed in a town. Others said that hooding meters had been tried but it did not work out because merchants and employees parked in the spaces.

It could have been worse. But, how much worse? A complete home was destroyed. The owner, Wendell Trimper and two sons Perry and Scott, who were inside, were shaken by the crash of an 18 wheel bomb. When we talk about a bomb, we are talking about a Superior Propane Ltd. truck, weighing approximately 25 tons and holding 7000 gallons of propane. The driver received only minor lacerations and bruises.

This all took place in Clementsport about 8:20 a.m.

Tuesday. It is believed that mechanical failure in the tractor trailer was the cause. R.C.M.P. Cornwallis, Annapolis and Bear River Fire Depts., when they arrived shortly after the mishap, were in full control. Thanks go out from all the firemen and police to C.F.B. Cornwallis for hot coffee and lunches supplied. This is a good example of real community effort.

HIGHWAY SAFETY WEEK. DECEMBER 1 TO 7

The snow and the ice is bound to come and make our highways hazardous, despite the exceptionally fine weather we have experienced this Fall until now. It is well, then, that we be more conscious of safe driving for, without a doubt, slippery roads do add to the highway fatalities and injuries. December 1st to December 7th is just about a good time to impress on drivers the importance of driving carefully.

Then, again, December brings more people using the roads under all kinds of conditions. There is the Christmas shopping to be done, the Christmas visiting to be done and the Christmas partying which is increasing in Christmas merriment each year. Much to our discredit, some of these parties become bad risks for safe driving. December 1st to December 7th is a good time to caution drivers against these hazards and hope that the virtues of safe driving will continue throughout the following year.

As you read in this issue of The Digby Courier and learn by other media, not everybody agrees on what safety measures are. There are those who feel that a reduction in speed limits would not only preserve energy but would also save lives. There are others who feel that reduction in speed limit would not be so effective. There are those who, seemingly put all their faith in seatbelts for highway safety. There are those who oppose this line of thought, there are those who agree to a certain extent but feel that seatbelt use should come voluntarily and there are those who consider seat belts a deterrent to safety in some respects as in case of burning cars or cars submerged in water. These latter happenings, we understand from C. E. Pass, Nova Scotia's director of highway safety, occur in about one per cent or less of accidents.

Whether the questions on speed limits and seat belts are ever determined or not, there is one factor which cannot be easily thrust aside. It is the human factor occurring in every car accident. Carelessness, particularly taking the eye off the road for brief seconds, contributes to a large percentage of accidents.

As we mentioned before, speed limits on the highways and use of seatbelts are questions now being considered by highway departments. It is only right that every driver consider these matters. Only drivers can give an experienced opinion on these subjects and express views to the Department of Highways. We refer our readers also to a news story in this paper on an address by Leonard Pace, Minister of Highways in Nova Scotia. The way is still open to agree or disagree. In any case let two words HIGHWAY SAFETY be paramount in all your thinking.

Sometimes there is a difference of opinion as to the benefit of seminars, conferences, workshops and meetings so far as time consumed and any monetary expense involved. Generally, however, these methods of dispensing general information and distributing special knowledge are most worthwhile and educational.

They frequently make for better efficiency in handling affairs. One such seminar was held in Yarmouth recently on Municipal Administration and sponsored by the Institute of Public Affairs, Dalhousie University. The seminar was designed to assist in municipal effectiveness. Councillor Eileen Chipman reported to Digby Town Council on Monday night that she had attended this seminar which was most satisfactory in content. Attendance at such seminars on workshops benefits not only those attending but are of benefit to all citizens of the area through those who attend. Back through the years members of Boards of Trade, tourist councils, school bodies have freely given of their time and often bore their own expenses to attend these informative gatherings. Appreciation for this service was frequently overlooked by those who stood to benefit most. Not everybody, of course, could or can bear this output on their own, especially in days of inflation as today. Possibly Mrs. Chipman bore her own expense, we had not asked. However, attendance at the seminars is worthy of consideration by councils, Boards and organizations even if expense to the body is involved.

There's lots of kindness still left in this old world. A short time ago an aged bent gentleman was having a difficult time making his way on crutches. One crutch and his package along with his glove were on the ground while he struggled to retrieve them. Shortly a red car came along, the young lady driver saw the predicament of the elderly man, picked up his crutch, parcel and glove, helped him to adjust his coat and got him started on his way again. She jumped into her car and away she went, having done her kind deed for the day.

Letters To The Editor

The Editor
Digby Weekly Courier
Digby, N. S.

Dear Editor:

We believe that freedom, peace, prosperity and happiness for all the people rest in man's partnership with God and his fellowman. That the moral law was given to us not only to direct the way of our soul, but also to regulate our economic and political life, that as we err away from the moral law, rewarding our greed for economic and political powers instead, we punish ourselves by the fruit of our own philosophy; the concentration of wealth in the hands of the few, international cartels, political dictatorships, wars and the afflictions of wars.

We believe that democracy is something we must live, that it is a way of life based on Christianity, not merely a cry to rally the common man to the defence of capitalistic dictatorships. Where is the post-war world promised to the defenders of Christianity, once secured human greed not human needs is the dominant factor.

No wonder today the youth stands confused and lost in his endeavor to reconcile the impulses of his inner soul with the crede of the economic and political set-up that surrounds and controls him. So man will not need one creed for his soul and another for business, the Christian International Union is organizing for Christian Partnership.

We live what we preach. Our first "Labour Agreement" was qualified as "an historic document" by the following extract in the Halifax, Chronicle Herald of December, 1952:

"Digby, June 20 - A recent report of a Conciliation Board, presided by County Court Judge K. L. Crowell, was described as "an historic document" by Arthur D. Cronin, Boston insurance executive, in an address before the District Conference of Rotary International at the Digby Pines Hotel today. Speaking on the report which was handed down following the sittings of a Conciliation Board in a dispute between a local industry and its employees, Mr. Cronin states it set out in concise terms the moral law. This was done, he said, when the report suggested that with greater co-operation between labor and management the future financial position of the company could be such as to distribute a larger share to the employees."

"The only practicable approach to greater comfort and security; to freedom from want and fear is through a concerted, co-operative effort on the part capital, management and labor. Looking to the production of more to everyone at less cost to everyone. That is the highway, to middle ground between anarchic individualism and statism" the speaker stated."

It is a must, by our Constitution, Rules and Regulations, that the "Labour Units" of the Christian International Union endeavor at all times to have all their members to deal with each other, their employer or employers, and the other functional economic groups in the spirit of a Christian Partnership.

Yours very truly,

Rene A. Richard

of seven representatives who cover all fishing communities throughout the province.

Dear Editor:

A Municipal Administration Program (MAP) designed to assist elected municipal officials in becoming more efficient in the performance of their duties has been co-ordinated by the Institute of Public Affairs, Dalhousie University. Twelve regional seminars are being held throughout the province and it was my privilege to attend one of these in Yarmouth on the evening of November 19. Two of the eleven chapters of the project were covered at this seminar - Chapter 2, dealing with the legal framework of local government and Chapter 4, on council operations and procedures.

The latter, opening with discussion on conduct of meetings, brought into sharp focus the importance of the operation of councils in a manner which merits public respect and confidence. It was pointed out that meetings of councils be open to the public and that all business become a matter of public information. (It was interesting at this point, to hear a Barrington representative report that all special council meetings in that municipality, are advertised well in advance, in the local press.)

The importance of the chairman being familiar with prescribed procedure, and his obligation to refrain, while in the chair, from expressing personal opinions concerning all matters that come before his meetings, were stressed, as well as his obligation to insist that minority views be given due consideration.

The subject of council "agenda" was of particular interest to me, as I have several times requested, without success, that the agenda of monthly meetings be made available to the local press for publication in the edition preceding the meeting. This would give citizens some advance notice and an opportunity for consideration and discussion on issues to be dealt with. The program director emphasized that the agenda should be circulated well in advance of meetings, together with copies of relevant reports and other documents scheduled for attention. "Advance circulation," he stressed, "gives individual councillors and committee members an opportunity to make preliminary enquiries and to prepare themselves for productive debate and decision." This should be noted particularly by our council, where it has become the custom to send out the agenda on the Saturday preceding Monday's meeting, without copies of reports or documents, and thus the uninformed councillor is required to make "on the spot" decisions on important business, without any advance information. It was noted that many municipalities have a by-law concerning this.

The format of minutes was discussed, and motions and amendments to motions dealt with in some detail. This seminar was attended by councillors, wardens and mayors from Clare, Yarmouth, Argyle, Clark's Harbour, Lockeport, Carleton, Hebron and Digby municipality. Carrying the torch alone from the Digby town council, I felt that this was an educational project, sponsored by the Department of Municipal Affairs and three other agencies, from which all public officials, concerned with approved efficiency, might benefit.

Fileen Chipman

for many years," Mr. McDormand said. "I've worked at lobstering and herring seining and, I had my own 40-foot Cape Island style lobster boat.

"At one time, I thought I wanted something else so I worked with a bank for six years," he said. "That was good business experience and it taught me things I can use but I was glad to get back to fishing.

"I'd been fishing again for six years when I took this job as a Fisheries Representative for the provincial Department."

The Bay of Fundy fishery is mainly an inshore one although there are a few dragger which occasionally fish on Brown Bank and other offshore grounds.

As with other provincial Fisheries Representatives, Mr. McDormand is one of a wide variety of problems. "Facilities for the industry are a major problem," he said. "New or expanded wharves, better harbour facilities are always needed especially in my area of the high Fundy tides. The winds and seas that we get here in the winter are hard on the structures and there is a constant need for dredging because areas fill in fast.

"These are federal problems, of course, but requests for assistance in these fields are often channelled through me and the provincial Department."

A major concern of fishermen in Mr. McDormand's area as well as in other districts is the decline in fish stocks.

"I've seen a great change in the last 10 years," he said. "I used to go fishing with my father near Grand Manan Island and can remember seeing schools of pollock breaking water as far as you could see.

"You don't see that today."

Mr. McDormand feels that the Bay of Fundy inshore fishermen will not overfish the stocks. To him, it is offshore fleets, many of them foreign fleets, that have been harvesting too many fish.

"When we do get the 200-mile limit, Canada will have to enforce catch limits of all fleets," he added. "I don't know how long it will take to bring the fish stocks back to what they were but we must increase our conservation efforts immediately.

"We have an extreme diversification in the fishing industry in this area and consequently there are a number of problems that are very difficult to solve: the conflict that exists between lobster fishermen and dragger fishermen in St. Mary's Bay, another between the herring seiners and the weir and gill net fishermen in the Bay of Fundy and a third one between the handliners and longliners and the draggers in the Bay of Fundy. There just aren't any answers to these disputes without hurting one sector or the other."

On another front, inflation has certainly hit the fishing industry as it has everyone else. The cost of gear has increased so much that it is difficult to get into the business.

"In my area, young men entering the fishery usually start with used boats and used gear, hoping to move up to newer and better equipment in the years ahead."

Mr. McDormand said. "However, with the decline in fish stocks, even that is difficult."

Many young men as well as older fishermen have taken advantage of training at the Fisheries Training School in Pictou or at the outport classes held by the Department's mobile units.

"I'd like to see more enrolment because fishermen will need additional knowledge in the fishery of the future," he said.

"The fishery is important to the men who have chosen to make their livelihood from it. They're concerned about the future of the industry and for the most part hopeful that we can work together to improve it."

which were structured in 1926, he said, were unrealistic now. The present fines are a deterrent but the previous fines gave the offender the privilege of paying $10 with a smirk, losing his licence for a week and lose one point.

Mr. Pace praised the airplane observation method of highway safety program and it looks, he said as if the tempo of operation would increase with more planes and more employees. He noted the easy observance of any vehicle break down or accidents on the highways besides detecting offenders.

The success of Driver Education in schools was noted. The under 25 years population still have the highest accident rate, he said, but conduct and attitude of the driver education students has greatly improved. He also spoke of the twenty-five per cent insurance reduction enjoyed by Driver Education students. The most difficulty in this program he said is the lack of trained teachers.

Another government measure which aided in highway safety, Mr. Pace, said was the breathalyzer introduction to the program.

The minister indicated the reasons for his approval of compulsory seatbelt usage. These have been found of tremendous value in keeping the accident persons from being ejected from the vehicle and from being thrown against the windshield or interior of the car. Incidents of motorists trapped in water or fire by seatbelts is considered less than one percent.

Mr. Pace gave much credit to the news media in helping to promote highway safety and the need for stronger measures. He would like to see the day, he said, when it would be unnecessary to do things to keep people from hurting themselves but much praise for the media efforts was given by the minister.

Among those from the area media who attended the dinner were Roy Mailman, Bill Knight and Mrs. Edith Wallis.

Registration for the present year, in fact, had been doubled from $10 to $20, he continued, but has been reasonably well received by parents understanding the costs of operating the program. The number of children participating, however, dropped off and it costs just as much to ice a twelve player as an eighteen player team, he remarked.

Minor Hockey has turned to other sources to cover costs beyond their present resources. The first such

Veterinarians Paid By Time And Mileage

Beginning in April 1975, all Veterinary Boards in the Province went under the new veterinary agreement whereby veterinarians are paid by time and mileage. This was information contained in the report of the Livestock Health Services Board presented by the chairperson, Mrs. Helen MacNeil, at the annual meeting of the Digby County Federation of Agriculture. A change of districts for veterinary services also occurred in 1975, according to Mrs. MacNeil's report. During the period of January 1st to April 30th, 1975, Digby County was serviced by Dr. Paul Dion in the Municipality of Clare and Valley Veterinarians Limited of Middleton in the Municipality of Digby. Together they had made 55 calls.

On April 22, 1975 the Digby District Livestock Health Services Board was formed - when Walter MacAlpine, Weymouth North, appointed to the Board by the Municipality of Digby and Malcolm Justason, Bear River by the Province of Nova Scotia.

Homemade Christmas

Traditionally the Yule season has been a do-it-yourselfer's delight. The men of the house used to do everything from chopping down the tree to going after the holiday bird. While the modern family head is usually spared such back-breaking chores, he still finds the workshop a great place to work some Christmas magic.

A charming doll house for your little girl from a discarded bookcase can be made. Just clean it up, sand it down, add wood or heavy cardboard partitions for rooms, and paint it playful colors. Some miniature, a Christmas doll - and really - the most beautiful gift ever!

A wooden box painted in bright colors makes a sturdy toy chest. Another idea using a wooden box is to turn it upside down, paint, then top with a colorful cushion, you'll have a brand new child's hassock.

The Remarkable Rocket

The story of a boasting, self-pitying rocket who expects to be the highlight of the royal fireworks display in the kingdom of Once Upon A Time, but instead is left unused and unappreciated by the animals and people he encounters. The half hour animated story by Oscar Wilde, airing Dec. 7:00 p.m. on ATV, satirizes the dubious rewards of egotism and self-puffery.

Santaklausen

Christmas is the most important festival of the year in Austria, but Saint Nicholas (Santaklausen), the patron saint of the children, appears on Dec. 6th. Santaklausen is accompanied by the devil and demands that the children tell of their bad deeds, as well as their good ones. After the children promise to be good, Santaklausen rewards them with candies, fruits and nuts.

Fragile Egg Shells

An English proverb says "Better half an egg than an empty shell". However, creators of exquisite decorated egg shells have refuted this.

Take empty shells and a variety of other small fragile things - fake pearls and brilliant stones, miniature gift ornaments, the tiniest of artificial flowers and ferns - and create Christmas tree ornaments of heirloom quality.

It is precisely because they are so fragile that these ornaments are so charming. Even one, strategically hung, could have a place of honor on your tree

Dec. 4th to Dec 10th

Legend has it that every Christmas the angel who appeared to the shepherds near Bethlehem returns to earth. He comes to listen to the carols echoing his message of so many years before. This is the setting for "The Christmas Messenger", telecasting Friday, December 5, 7:00 p.m. EST, on the ATV Television Network.

A young boy remembers the previous Christmas Eve, when, unintentionally, he disturbed a stranger listening to the carol singers in the street. The stranger, it seemed, had been waiting for the boy and together they followed the singing children almost missed the stranger's true identity.

This special, which combines live action with animated sequences, includes carols: "The Three Ships", "The Band of Children", "Deck the Halls" and "Good King Wenceslas".

"The Christmas Messenger" is produced by Potterton Productions Inc. The Co-Producers are Murray Shostak and Stan Schwartz with director Peter Sander. The stranger is portrayed by Richard Chamberlain. "The Christmas Messenger" is fully sponsored by Mattel Canada Ltd. on the ATV Television Network.

Agriculture Efficiency Increases Across Canada

The efficiency of agricultural operations in Nova Scotia and across Canada generally has increased markedly with enough to feed 52 people being produced by the average farmer of today compared with enough for only 12 people 35 years ago.

A part of this increased production can be attributed to the development of commodity marketing boards where supply-management is the key to successful operations for many farmers, according to Frank E. Scammell, secretary of the Nova Scotia Marketing Board.

At the end of 1973 there were 113 marketing boards in Canada for agricultural products representing 480,000 producers across the country which in 1973-74 generated over 50 per cent of the nation's total farm cash receipts. Varying in size from the relatively small to large organizations such as the Canadian Wheat Board, all were developed to give primary producers a chance to market their own output in markets dominated by a relatively small number of large and influential buyers.

As a means of providing farmers with a fair return on their investment, the boards are playing an increasingly larger role in the agricultural industry to the benefit of the producer and ultimately the consumer, Mr. Scammell said.

The six boards operating in the province, established by Order-in-Council, are the Chicken Marketing Board, the Egg and Pullet Producers Marketing Board, the Hog Marketing Board, the Turkey Marketing Board, the Wool Marketing Board and the Tobacco Marketing Board.

The primary producer, through the mechanisms established by the various marketing boards, has found a way to survive in the marketplace where his products must compete with many others for the consumer's food dollars, the board secretary said.

As an example, the Nova Scotia Chicken Marketing Board this year will have marketed some 21 million pounds of broilers on behalf of its 64 producer members. The major function of the Chicken Marketing Board like that of the others, is to negotiate prices with processors and establish production levels or quotas for producers.

The supply-management mechanism from time to time results in chicken being stored in a quantity that is rarely in excess of a week's market demand, allowing producers time to adjust to market conditions, Mr. Scammell said.

Under the marketing board system, the individual producer can earn a better-than-average income only by being a better-than-average producer and manager and this comes through adopting cost-cutting techniques while developing high quality products, he added.

The marketing board system gives the farmer a fair chance to recover the heavy capital investment needed to be efficient in agricultural production because of the income stability it offers.

ANIMALS AT CHRISTMAS

Legends about animals at Christmas are especially touching. It was told that the night of Jesus' birth was the darkest ever known, but when the child was born a great light spread across the skies. Dead black branches put out green leaves; blossoms and berries appeared on withered vines; flowers never seen before sprang out of dry earth. At that moment the cattle kneeled down in stalls of the little manger. They spoke to each other. A cock crowed, "Christ is born!" and the animals whispered, "Let us all worship together."

Multicultural Concert At Weymouth Falls

Members of the Bright family of Southville can always be counted on when singers are needed to make a really enjoyable program. Above is Harlen Bright, age 4 years, too small in stature to reach the microphone from the floor, singing at the Multicultural Concert held at Weymouth Falls Community Centre on Thursday evening. The entertainment was sponsored by the Western Nova Multicultural Association which includes Annapolis, Digby and Yarmouth areas. Other members of the Bright family who participated were the father, Kenneth Bright, Alfred, Nadene, age nine and Dean, age ten.

The concert was opened by Harrison Jarvis, president of the Weymouth Falls Community Association, who welcomed the special guests and audience before turning the program over to Judge Victor Cardoza as Master of Ceremonies.

Others of the Multicultural Associations present were Mrs. Barbara Campbell, provincial co-ordinator of multiculturalism; Rev. George Bell, co-ordinator for the Western Nova Association and Mrs. Freda Balser president of the Western Nova Multicultural Association who extended thanks to all the participants in the program.

The Guild Digas Olds, a vocal and instrumental trio from College Ste. Anne consisting of Norman LeBlanc, Church Point, guitar; Susan Greene, London, Ontario, guitar and Harlen Bright, age 4, with a voice as powerful as an adult, stands on a chair in order to reach the microphone when he sang a special number at the Western Nova Multicultural Association concert held at Weymouth Falls recently. Harlen's brother, Alfred, accompanies him.

Moir Monahan, Halifax, flute, captivated the audience with their talent and were repeatedly brought back for encore. Many of their numbers were their own compositions.

Other numbers included a violin solo and a step dance by Richard MacEwan, formerly Micmac Chief, Bear River; Dutch songs by Mrs. Freda Balser and son Eric, Digby, and drums and guitar music by Stephen Meuse and Peter MacEwan, Bear River. In his remarks Judge Cardoza stressed the necessity and the worthwhileness of getting together by concerts and other means to share heritage and to endeavour to maintain heritages of different kinds. He said that all of us are descended from people who came from lands outside this Canada and urged that multiculturalism would not be by words only but demonstrated by action.

Digby County Claims 75 Percent Mink Production

Digby County can claim approximately seventy-five percent of the mink produced in Nova Scotia, said Donald Mullen in his report to the annual meeting of the Digby County Federation of Agriculture. Mr. Mullen of Havelock, Digby County, is president of the Nova Scotia Mink Breeders Association. There are 59 registered mink ranches in the province, his report indicated, which produced a total of 109,199 pelts in the 1973-74 season by 2,000 pelts. Prices, it was found, decreased by twenty percent.

There was a rapid rise in cost of feed and electric and fuel bills in 1974-75, Mr. Mullen said in his report and while the Nova Scotia mink ranchers managed to survive, further increases would really be serious unless pelt prices would also rise.

Another misfortune which happened at the ranches in Digby County in the late Fall of 1974 was an outbreak of listeriosis. Ten ranches were hit and losses ran from a few mink on some ranches to several hundred on others. No reason for the outbreak could be found, the ranchers having followed a strict vaccination program for a number of years.

The distemper was responsible for cancellation of live mink shows on Field Days but Educational Field Days were held at College Ste Anne and in Cape Breton.

Mr. Mullen reported on successful Short Courses in Mink Production sponsored by Canada Manpower and held at College Ste Anne with Hugh Freeman of Ontario as chief instructor. Reme Comeau, formerly of Digby County, Ranch Manager for Master Feeds, Toronto, showed slides and was principle speaker at another educational evening at Ste Anne. Mr. Mullen thanked College Ste Anne, Church Point, for making the facilities at the college available for so many courses and programs. One of these was a dinner meeting by Elbeco of New York when the company explained their system of marketing mink.

Hear AVABT Report

Communication from Lloyd Hill, Executive Manager of the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade to the Digby Board of Trade revealed 407,894 guest days in the AVABT region in 1974. This was an increase of more than six per cent and represented sixteen per cent of the provinces total. The letter was read at the Digby Board on Thursday evening.

To encourage more tours to the area, the AVABT participated in Major Market Place in September at Boston, New York and Toronto, along with four wholesalers and hotel and motel managers.

The ferry service between Digby and Saint John proved an asset economically in 1975, the report said with increases for various kinds of vehicles travelling ranging from 13 per cent to 57 per cent.

Mayor Charles Haliburton said that plans are being made to have new brochures made for the town and he solicited the cooperation of the Board.

A motion was made and carried to change the Board's by-laws so that five paid up members would be legal for an executive meeting and seven for a general meeting.

The suggestion was made that steno work for the Board be given out to be done for payment and that Gerard Chartrand take minutes at the meetings.

Ernest Ryan, president, reported that applications have been received for the seminar planned for January in Digby.

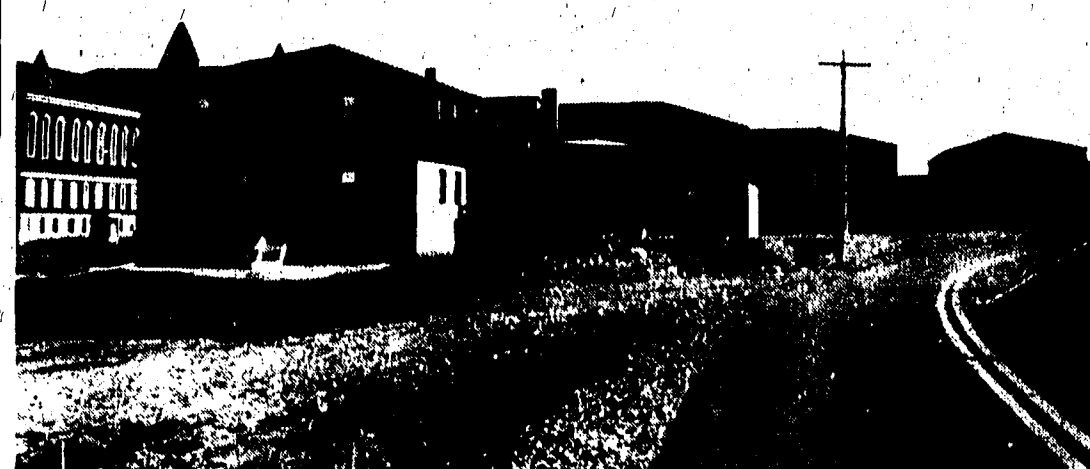

The AVABT letter also reported that the Bahamas Charter Flight sponsored by the Boards of Trade is set for March 12 to 19, 1976.

residents on the Nova Scotia Mink Breeders Association are Mr. Mullen, president; Austin Mullen, Havelock; Emile Thimot, Little Brook, Digby; Glendon Barr, Danvers; Maynard Mullen, Havelock, and Alphon LeBlanc, Little Brook.

Driving Facts

FACT: In an emergency situation, safety belts keep passengers in their seats and enable the driver to stay where he belongs behind the wheel - to better control his vehicle.

FACT: Lap safety belts should be worn snugly over the hip bones, not the abdomen. This applies to pregnant women as well.

Two new ladies residences will be built on Ste Anne's college campus, Church Point. Work commenced recently with excavation for the foundations of the two buildings. The two residences will be to the southwest of the two residences completed in September. Four girls residences are shown in the photo which are near the Church Point light road which is paved up to the skating arena parking space. (Melanson Photo)

After all phases of the Ritualistic work of the order had been exemplified by the officers and members of the Chapter the District Deputy Grand Matron addressed the Chapter members and visitors on the program of the Worthy Grand Matron for 1976, and on other work pertaining to the Order.

BIRD HAVEN

Winter Birds

All are safely gathered in, I hope, now I have thirteen in the big cage, five additional ones since fall.

The last but by far not the least was Mr. Oriole. He and a female had been around for a week but she left after a few days. He had other ideas and when we had our first real snow he came to the window and looked right at me as if to say "aren't you taking me in?"

I put out a small cage with grapes inside and by the time I was back in the window he was inside. A kindly Starling lit on the gate and shut it, so I didn't have to put a string on the gate to shut it now he is settled in with all the others.

Now that the hunting season is over I felt it was safe to go to the woods and gather my winter supply of moss for their cage also a supply of little fir trees. They love to roost in the branches.

A chap came to the door the other day and asked if I was the Bird Lady and did I stuff birds. I only stuff them with food. He apparently had a "Saw-whet" he wanted stuffed. He called it a baby owl but there are no baby owls this time of the year. Owls start nesting late in March or early April.

No evening grosbeaks for several weeks, no doubt they will be back when the ground is covered with snow. There are lots of Maple seeds to feed on yet.

A mockingbird passed through the yard one day, hope he was on his way south, although one survived at Clementsport last winter.

A pair of cardinals raised a family at Barrington last summer, the Southern birds surely are wending their way farther north each year.

A beautiful red-tailed hawk was brought to show me by two gentlemen. It must have been an old bird on the way out, no sign of it having been shot. It refused food of any kind and eventually died. It was a magnificent bird with a wing spread of 48 inches.

Five chick-a-dees eating from my hands, ten bluejays and a flock of white throated sparrows make up my outdoor family at present.

Time to get in your supply of suet, sunflower seed and scratch grain for winter feeding. Most stores have a good supply in now.

Good winter birding

APRIL 1975

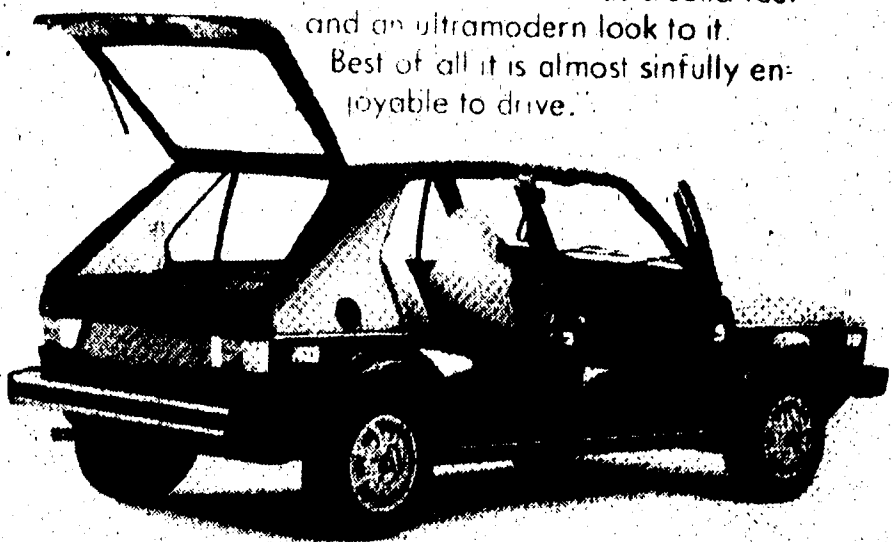

Whole populations of drivers will live for years with this car, strongly impressed by its generally nimble disposition and its sensitive feel at the road through the steering wheel and brake pedal. It slips through city traffic like a fish and thrives on the parking-space remnants most cars pass by. You can stuff enough groceries for a football team through the rear hatch while the back seat folds and pivots forward out of the way. The only thing you'll need a trailer for is objects too heavy to boost across the high lift over.

ROAD&TRACK

The winner and not by a hare (sorry, couldn't resist). This car does it all: it's small, light, roomy and fast, with nimble and responsive steering, ride and handling. A modern and sophisticated car with a handsome Guigiaro-designed hatchback body. The Rabbit offers one of the most space-saving mechanical layouts we've seen yet: front-wheel drive, transverse engine and a unique, independent rear suspension featuring an integral anti-roll bar and using so little space it's remarkable. The Rabbit has a solid feel and an ultramodern look to it.

Best of all it is almost sinfully enjoyable to drive.

Esquire

THE MAGAZINE FOR MEN AUGUST 1975

VW's new Rabbit is significant because it is a complete departure for Volkswagen, and also because it is the specific type of car that Detroit will be building in the 1980's.

The statistics speak for themselves: accommodation for four, a seventy-horsepower engine, fuel consumption of thirty-eight mpg (U.S.) and a weight of under two thousand pounds.

What they came up with was a car that doesn't have an ounce of fat, one which provides excellent operating economy, as well as performance and value. Personally, I think that VW's Rabbit is one very good idea ahead of its time.

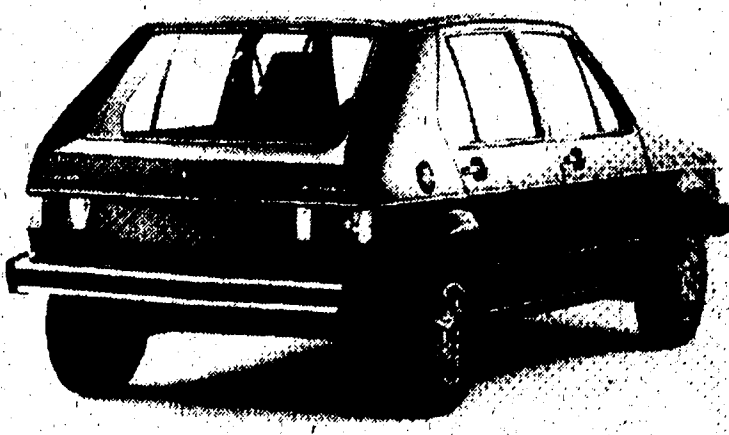

Popular Mechanics

APRIL 1975

The most important new import for 1975 is the VW Rabbit.

The 1800-pound Rabbit is a mechanical masterpiece. It gets up to 60 mph in about 12 seconds—giving it the edge on some V8 subcompacts. Its hatchback design provides 24.7 cubic feet of luggage capacity with the rear seat folded.

VW got the greatest possible amount of usable interior space into the smallest possible outer shell—and an exterior with some style.

Money can't buy this kind of advertising.

Safety Belts!!!

HERE ARE THE FACTS! 40 per cent of the deaths in automobile crashes could be prevented if all drivers and passengers wore lap safety belts.

53 per cent of such deaths could be prevented by the use of combination lap and shoulder belts.

FICTION: Safety belts are unsuitable for small children.

FACT: Children weighing 40 pounds or more should always use safety belts. Children weighing under 40 pounds should be restrained in a child safety seat approved by Consumer and Corporate Affairs.

Investigate Grain Potential

Results from the Nova Scotia Grain Project '75, sponsored by the Soils and Crops Branch of the Department of Agriculture and Marketing, indicate that there are many areas in Nova Scotia where the production of grain may be a very profitable crop," said the Honourable Jack Hawkins, Nova Scotia's Minister of Agriculture and Marketing.

Nova Scotia Grain Project '75 is designed to investigate the potential of cereal grain production in terms of yield and cost per acre on a number of Nova Scotia farms through the use of presently known and accepted management practices for each geographical area where project fields are located.

Grain Project '75 is designed essentially to involve farmers in farm-grain projects whereby the co-operating farmer undertakes to produce the highest possible yield of grain on a limited acreage, under the most favourable set of conditions for his given location. Requirements of the participating farmer involve taking an accurate soil sample, making adequate applications of fertilizer and lime, early seeding, and the use of recommended agricultural practices such as weed and insect control, where necessary.

Farmers involved in these projects are receiving technical services from specialists in the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture and Marketing.

There are 27 farmers involved in this project in 7 counties, the largest number being located in Cumberland County: Bob Cooper, Great Village, Colchester County, is one of the co-operating farmers. A hog producer with 90 sows, he requires approximately 450 tons of grain per year. Mr. Cooper is aiming for greater self-sufficiency in grain production and estimates that 275 acres will be devoted to grain in 1976.

Grain production costs have increased significantly in the past three years due to higher fertilizer, seed and machinery costs. Project '75 is a means of assessing current production costs against the cost of purchased grain.

After establishing grain costs and returns at several locations across the province, the Department as well as farmers, will have a better basis on which to decide where livestock feed can be grown successfully.

"These plots serve a very useful purpose in that they demonstrate agricultural practices and update the farmer as to the actual economics of grain production," said Mr. Hawkins.

Farmers participating in Grain Project '75 are eligible to receive up to $35 per acre from the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture and Marketing on each project for a maximum of 10 acres.

Recognition for those who exceed the target yield set for their farm will include an Award of Merit, membership in a High Yield Grain Club, and a $100 cash prize.

Shortened By Man's Will

Life so short, and yet shorter still: Not shortened by God, but by man's will. Four lives, with radiance given, gone. Gone forever, their gifts of life's song.

Kind and gentle, they confidently gazed at Men, some creature in a bloodthirsty haze; Finding courage and manhood destroying with guns;

Proving themselves in what they call fun?

Trapped in a home that was built to protect them, Where real people with hearts could gain a peace from them. Not fairly hunted for need, but slaughtered for what? For the soulless joy of a creature, who hasn't the guts.

To face life and stand up to the peaceful gaze of a deer. Written in protest to the act when four deer were shot in their protected area at Shubenacadie.

Digby County Produces Nine Percent N.S. Hog Market

Digby County produced about nine percent of the hogs marketed in Nova Scotia in 1975, according to information obtained from the Clare Co-Operative Shipping Ltd. report presented by the secretary of C.C.O.S. Leonard Boudreau, before the annual meeting of the Digby County Federation of Agriculture.

Mr. Boudreau report revealed 8651 hogs from commercial farms produced in 1974 and 6987 in 1975. The revenue from the 1974 hogs was $727,916.12 and in 1975 it was $751,485.63. From the non-commercial farms there were produced 208 hogs in 1974 and 229 in 1975. Grand total hogs in 1974 numbered 8859 and 1975 there were produced 7216 hogs. Value in 1974 was $774,502.32.

SEWAGE PROPOSAL DEFEATED 42-36

With more than 800 ratepayers in the Town of Digby eligible to vote, only 78 were at the ratepayers meeting on Thursday night when the proposal to complete Phase three of Digby's sewage project was turned down by a vote of 42 to 36.

The meeting was presided over by His Worship Mayor Charles Haliburton and Glen Pitman, town clerk, read the resolution that this public meeting of the ratepayers of the Town of Digby hereby approves of the proposed borrowing by the said Town of a sum not exceeding One Million Eight Hundred Forty Thousand Dollars ($1,840,000.00) for the purpose of constructing, altering, extending, and improving public sewers or drains in the town and acquiring or purchasing materials, machinery, implements or plant deemed requisite or advisable therefore, or for maintaining such public sewers or drains.

The resolution was moved by Councillor Guy VanTassell and seconded by Deputy Mayor Philip Robertson. Mrs. David Landers and James Gillis were named scrutineers.

Mayor Haliburton traced the history of the Digby sewage proposal since the year 1970, when the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the Department of Municipal Affairs and the Provincial Department of Environment stopped building unless proper sewers could be provided. It was then proposed to work in three phases, number one, South end, number two, North and three the remainder of the town.

The mayor explained the proposal as placed before the ratepayers by resolution and also brought up the fact that there is a possibility that a treatment plant might not be necessary at present.

Circulars on the pertinent financing figures were distributed showing an estimated cost (November 1975) of $2,000,000. Grants from CMHC, Nova Scotia Department of Environment, Municipal Affairs, Fisheries and other grants to be applied against this figure amounted to $993,000. Also applied against this were tax rebates of $91,000 and frontage charge of $100,000 lowering the figure by $1,184,000 to $816,000.

CMHC loans were estimated to be $562,000 leaving $254,000 for other financing.

Mr. Haliburton broke the figure down to a new annual amortization cost to the town of $47,000 plus $15,000 for operating and maintenance cost for a total annual cost of $62,000.

The methods of paying for the sewer were discussed but no decision was arrived at before the vote was taken. A flat rate by unit, a tax rate and a "water" rate were discussed. Many questions were placed by the ratepayers to the mayor and W.H. Horner of the W.H. Horner Company who attended the meeting in an informant capacity. The "water rate" method of payment appeared to be the best solution in order to involve those institutions exempt from taxes and so that the general person would not be burdened too heavily.

Town Council Favors Basis Of Water Used

On motion of Deputy Mayor Philip Robertson, seconded by Councillor Guy VanTassell the Councillors of the Town of Digby went of record as favoring the charge to residents for Phase three sewage disposal project if it materializes on the basis of the amount of water used. Absent from the special meeting were Councillors Gordon Ellis and William Reid. There were four votes in favor of the motion with the vote of Councillor Chipman the only one dissenting.

In introducing the sewage subject at the special meeting on Monday evening the Mayor remarked "Where do we go from where we are", referring to the defeated motion at the Digby Ratepayers Meeting held on Thursday seeking authorization for borrowing up to $1,840,000 to complete phase three of the town's sewer project.

Mayor Haliburton said there had been a number of unanswered questions at the ratepayers meeting such as the Montague Row sewer, the manner of paying for the sewage service, etc. He asked the town clerk to request the contractors to extend the contract for thirty days and have a consultant break down the prices with treatment plant and without. He suggested phase three might be done in stages. He also felt that if the municipal services act require certain stipulations then the grants should be comparable.

W. H. Horner of the construction company whose tender was accepted suggested, it was understood, to have the councillors meet with the Minister of Environment, Finance and Municipal Affairs regarding the necessity or not of the treatment plant and other pertinent information.

Mr. Robertson felt that residents of Digby would not be any more adverse to $50.00 payment a year including the treatment plant than to $40.00 per year without the treatment plant. Councillor Eileen Chipman remarked that millionaires would not mind the difference but it made a difference for peasants. Mrs. Chipman said she was interested in finishing sewers on streets that now do not have any. Councillor VanTassell felt that Council should go back to the ratepayers for the collection system without treatment. The question, it is understood, will be laid aside until a meeting with the government departments can be arranged.

Councillor Reginald Hazelton made a motion that the W. H. Horner Company be requested to check out the sewer system now used by residents on the West side of Montague Row. This was seconded by Philip Robertson and passed. The motion was prompted by a discussion at the ratepayers meeting which led many to believe that these people would be put to considerable expense to enter the newly proposed sewer. A factual answer is hoped to be obtained.

Vincent Snow was given permission to address the Council and proposed that the fall-out be in the North of the town rather than the South for the protection of the shellfish industry.

Another item on the agenda was a report on the Regional Assessment Committee meeting held at Annapolis Royal in November and attended by His Worship Mayor Charles Haliburton.

David Armstrong, Philip Dondale and Allison Denton, Bear River were on a committee to engage an additional assessor. Their interview resulted in engaging Steven Mitchell presently of Bridgewater but a native of the Valley.

Christmas Daddies Raise $13,912.14

The top sum of $13,912.14 was raised for the Christmas Daddies fund on Sunday, exceeding the 1974 Christmas Daddies fund by some $2000. The event is an annual one sponsored by the CKDY radio station with helpers from the community people throughout Digby and Annapolis.

V. G. Cardoza officially opened the show after Miss Joanne Frankland brought the atmosphere to a real Christmas spirit by the vocal selection "Birthday of a King."

Those who congratulated the sponsors and community workers for their outstanding efforts in the name of Christmas and in helping the less fortunate to enjoy the holiday season were Miss Coline Campbell, M.P. for South Western Nova; Joe Connors, commander at CFB Cornwallis who commented that this was the fourth year in which he was privileged to attend the Christmas Daddies which brings so much happiness to people. The reason he comes he said, is because he believes in it.

The program was staged in an attractively and seasonal scheme at the Multi Purpose Room at the Digby Regional High School where the Happiness Tree laden with gifts and under the direction of Mrs. Grace Pulsifer had a prominent place.

Solo vocal and instrumental selections were rendered by Miss Margo Levy, Reggie Taylor, Mrs. Doris Jarvis, Glen Grant, Rev. Francis Burnett, Father Albeni D'Entremont, Steve Trimmer, Eva Messenger, Mrs. Phyllis Winchester, Bob Dakin, Ms. Carol Dondale and a new comer to the Christmas Daddies Show, little Miss Christine Van Tassell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Van Tassell.

A trio was sung by Roger Thibault, Mildred Doucette and Bobby Thibault.

Other music was provided by Bonded Stock and Bob Murphy and Big Buffalo.

Special numbers were presented by the R.C.M.P. and by their wives and Hal Sproule read The Night Before Christmas all as special requests.

The program came to a close with prayer by John Banks, age 5 and with Miss Frankland singing the "Thank You."

Mr. Cardoza again expressed thanks as the program went off the air.

Digby Recreation Committee

It is now just a year since the Digby Recreation Committee, a Committee of the Town Council established to promote recreation, came into existence. Its membership consists, as it did then, of Don Brown, Lister Hannah (Chairman), Don Hattie, Marj. McCormick, and Bill Reid. What has been achieved?

The first task was to establish a budget; this was approved by Town Council in February. With guidelines now laid down for organizations wishing to obtain financial assistance the Committee has been able to assist such organizations as the Junior Golf Club, Girl Guides, Minor Hockey, Little League Baseball, the Horticultural Society, by off-setting costs for leadership training, purchase of equipment and materials, transportation to tournaments, development of facilities.

The Committee also arranged and organized the well-attended and enjoyed Atlantic Symphony Orchestra concert in April, and have confirmed another such concert next April with this Orchestra. At present the groundwork is being laid for a Community Concert Association.

However the main thrust of the Committee has been to try to get a Recreation Coordinator for the Town. Just recently the Town Council gave their approval for the Committee to proceed to advertise for such a person. It is hoped that, as has happened in other communities, such a person would be able to generate more use of the many halls, the rink, and school facilities in Digby, for the broadening of recreational opportunities not only for youth but for all age groups.

That then is the first year's effort. Hopefully as the Recreation Committee goes into its second year it will become better known and less confused with the Digby Recreation Commission, and it will continue to boost the development of recreation in Digby.

D.R. H. S. Drama - A Christmas Carol

On Monday, the 15th of December, the grade eleven drama class of Digby Regional High School will present their version of Charles Dickens A Christmas Carol.

Students have been busy for the past three weeks making props, designing sets and learning lines. The series of bomb threats set the work back about three weeks in rehearsal time but it is hoped to have a successful production next week.

Due to the postal strike, the students were unable to get scripts of the story of Scrooge, so they adapted their own from the novel.

Hours have been spent in designing a workable script that keeps the spirit of the original and yet can be presented on the multi-

WE NEED CHRISTMAS MORE THAN EVER!

How merry can Christmas be in the face of current inflation, unemployment, strikes, sagging investments, rising crime and similar woes?

That will depend largely on our response to the joyful aspects of the Yule season which are too often taken for granted. Maybe we should look at its traditional observances with fresh appreciation.

Consider, for instance, all the heart-warming personal encounters that go with the season. Joyful family homecomings and gatherings, parties, get-togethers with old friends, fellow-workers and various other groups give our spirits a needed lift. So do Christmas cards.

True, in this year of strained budgets gifts may be more modest. But they'll still be offered "with love" and that gives one an inner glow.

Everywhere, too, colorful lights and decorations spread cheer and beauty. And anyone can enjoy the various plays, pageants, ballets and movies designed for holiday moods. Even TV mixes in some Christmas specials for relief from the surfeit of crime shows.

And ah, the glorious Christmas music! How it can inspire us with great works performed in church and concert halls. While carols and popular Christmas songs take a merciless beating from repetition on the radio and shopping plaza sound systems, at least they add to our festive feeling.

Above all, the ideal antidote to today's tensions and anxieties is to open mind and heart to the original Christmas message of hope and joy.

December 11 might be somewhat late for this information but the Consumer Services Bureau says that getting into the Christmas spirit is no fun if you end up paying for Christmas gifts all year long. Control the urge to splurge, says the Consumer Services Bureau, and spend your money wisely.

The Bureau has drawn up 14 shopping tips to keep in mind while you're battling the holiday shopping crowds.

DO -

Spend your dollars wisely.

Decide what you want to buy and buy only what you can honestly afford.

Buy from reliable, reputable merchants.

Budget all year for Christmas spending.

If you're buying on credit, ask yourself if the gift is worth the worry of paying for it later.

Know exactly what the article is costing in dollars and cents, with all carrying charges included.

Check store policy regarding refunds and exchanges before you buy.

Keep all sales slips as proof of purchase in case an exchange becomes necessary.

DON'T -

Sign a contract without reading it carefully first.

Accept merchandise on approval. The receipt you sign may be a sales contract. Get caught up in the Christmas rush and buy in haste.

Fall prey to the smooth-talking salesman with the wonderful product and easy payment plan.

Be misled by "special" sale tickets, free gifts or other inducements.

Be fooled by misleading claims in a guarantee or warranty.

The wise shopper, the Consumer Services Bureau says, is the one who will enjoy Christmas to its fullest.

LIFE-LONG LEARNING

It is a well known axiom that the learning process is one which should continue throughout a person's lifetime. Too often, however, opportunities for formal learning are not too readily available for persons who could be described as in the "mellow years" of life.

Through the efforts of a group of concerned citizens in Digby and Yarmouth Counties, headed by Judge Victor Cardoza of Digby, however, the lack of opportunities for formal learning by elderly and retired persons is being remedied. Aided by a grant secured from the Federal Department of Health and Welfare (New Horizons) and with the co-operation of College Ste Anne, a project has been launched which should meet the needs of the elderly and retired in this area for educational opportunities.

Titled "Life-long Learning Group", the new organization has been meeting for the past several months developing a program and working out ways and means of making programs in learning available in all sections of the two counties. Through the extension services of College Ste Anne and the interest of qualified persons in various fields of learning and education, arrangements have been made so that a wide range of courses of various lengths at university level can be provided in communities throughout the whole area. Because of the support of the New Horizons grant, direct cost to the participants is kept at a very low minimum and no real obstacle now stands in the way of retired persons and senior citizens who are desirous of renewing or beginning studies in well nigh any subject in which they might have a real interest.

It is to be hoped there will be a good response to this new program. It appears to very satisfactorily fill what has been an expressed need in this area over a long time. The committee has worked long, hard and unselfishly to develop the project. All that is now needed is a response from the target population - Let It Be Heard!

—Letters from the early and middle October still saunter into our office. For instance, our 86 year old friend, Avarad Lewis, Saint John, N.B., sent his Courier subscription renewal on October 21st. It arrived Friday. At the time he wrote the letter his 87 year old good wife was in hospital. Their 59th wedding anniversary was in November. As usual, Mr. Lewis says "I am always interested in news from the Islands, my native birth place."

Letters To The Editor

Dear Mrs. Wallis:

Why did such a small percentage of eligible voters turn out at the December 4th rate payers meeting to decide the important matter presented at such meeting?

It seems very unfortunate and regrettable that such a small percentage of eligible voters can make such a decision. Should it not be required by law that a majority of at least 50 percent of eligible voters should vote on such major matters before any binding decision could be made?

There is no doubt that Digby needs an improved and extended sewage system for both present and future needs and, of course a comparatively large amount of money is required.

A better system is necessary for hospital, schools, business, industry, and all residences, for safe and proper future development. Why was it that so many eligible and responsible voters failed to appear and take their stand?

Certainly, something positive should be done, for surely it is unwise to leave the situation as it is.

Not many years ago some people of the town and area asked for liquor plebiscites to be held for the privilege of having licensed premises for selling liquor by the glass in public places. The vote on one particular occasion for the town went two to one against such sale and, the percentage of eligible voters who voted was over sixty per cent.

In spite of this very decisive vote, a few years later, another plebiscite was called for, instigated by much the same persons. This time the percentage of eligible voters who voted was comparatively small indeed and, as a result, a "yes" vote won the day.

Since "yes" votes were won both inside and outside the town, there has been a considerable and significant increase in financial cost and loss to the town and area through increases in policing and court costs; hospitalizations; health and welfare; lost man hours in business and industry; greatly increased vandalism and shoplifting, etc.

The big question is, how wise are the eligible voters in the town of Digby? Sewage pollutes, so does alcohol. Why, in a very real sense, do we allow these polluted conditions to exist and grow, either by voting, or not voting?

Vincent Snow

HOW POOR CAN WE GET!

Editor
Digby Courier
Digby, Nova Scotia

Dear Editor:

Really now, are we that poor, that each family unit in this town of Digby, cannot afford to invest less and 3 cents per day to receive Government Grants totalling nearly 1 million dollars. How proud are we of our town, in my case, my adopted town? How much do we want new industries; improved living standards; more modern facilities; more new homes; growth in population? Very little, I am afraid.

I am of course referring to the ratepayer's meeting held on 4 December 1975. I hope no visitors attended that meeting, for they would have, without even being observant, seen a most deplorable display of sabotaging possibly over witnessed in this town. Why was the whole town council not in front to assist our new Mayor in answering questions from the ratepayers. For after all who was placing the proposal before the ratepayers. Surely the councillors who were forever jumping to their feet, like Mexican Jumping Beans, and posing needling questions to His Worship and placing him in embarrassing situations, and who claim to be so conversant with and abreast of, Council proceedings and activities, must have known the answers to the questions they themselves asked. If not, then exactly what have they been doing during the past one, two or three years.

Possibly our previous Mayors had more than just cause to complain, possibly it is true some Councillors are there for the sole purpose of criticizing and destroying everything they themselves do not propose. If they only rationalized their actions, their destructive and harmful attitudes and looked to the future beyond the end of their tongue, this town of Digby would realize its potential and be in a position to encourage industries and business to look favorably to Digby as an area for expanding or establishing therein.

We are only playing the ostrich and burying our heads in the excrement laden flats excuse me, sands if for one moment we believe we have saved the ratepayers of Digby hundreds of thousands of dollars. We have saved for the moment exactly less than 3 cents per day per unit. And for what? A system that will have to be replaced in 10 years. At the present rate of inflation this could mean more than twice the price, plus the present near $800,000 we will have to borrow anyway to install a sewage disposal system not acceptable to Environment Departments.

Do you call this Progress? Looking to the Future? Or Standing Still? Even taking a Backward Step? I would like to end this letter with at least a charitable thought: "My God Forgive them, for they know not what they do."

COURSES FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

Persons wishing to enrol in any of the courses may secure an application form from Mr. F. C. Purdy, Digby. On the form the applicant may state the subject or subjects in which he or she is interested. Once a list of preferences is completed, applicants will be advised of the dates and locations of the courses. So far as possible courses will be made available in the home community of the applicant. In cases where the original choice of subject is unavailable additional offerings will be indicated. Applicants should state choices in order of preference.

In the main, instructors and leaders for the courses will be supplied through College Ste. Anne. In some cases, however, instructors and discussion leaders will be recruited from other sources. The courses, which will be of varying lengths, will initially be available over an eighteen month period. Most of the courses will be at university level but will not be for academic credit. The offerings will seek to meet the interest needs of the elderly and retired of the area in as wide as possible range.

Officers of the Lifelong Learning Group are Judge Victor Cardoza, President; Mrs. F.R. Wellington, Secretary and F.C. Purdy, Treasurer. Board members are Rev. George Bell, F. Wellington, Fred Emin, Henri Briset, Felix Thibideau, Camille LeBlanc, Norman Pothier and Rev. Leger Comeau. Eddie Comeau of Information Canada is a consultant to the Group.

At a recent meeting of the Board it was decided that travel assistance for pooled car travel would be made available to participants attending courses at a rate of 15 cents a mile. Funds for hall rental for the courses would also be available at a rate of $10.00 per evening. In addition monies for refreshments not exceeding $15.00 and based on attendance would be available for the courses. Honoraria would also be available for lecturers and discussion-study leaders.

Board members expressed the hope a lively response to the program would be forthcoming. It is anticipated courses will get underway following the holiday season and continue through until summer with resumption in the fall. Application forms are available from Board members in the area.

Digby Town And Municipality Planning

The special meeting of Digby Town Council on Monday evening, presided over by His Worship Mayor Charles Haliburton, decided to approach the Municipality of the District of Digby to meet with the town to discuss joint planning. The motion to that effect was made by Councillor Guy VanTassel and seconded by Deputy Mayor Philip Robertson. It passed unanimously. A planning meeting had been held sometime ago, the Mayor said, but he found it frustrating with the rigid regulations necessary to put the plans through. The Department of Municipal Affairs lay down the rules and a Zoning By-law must be filed with the department dealing with inventory aspects, sewage, water, properties and town development into the future. Mr. Haliburton said the planning committee must consist of town councillors and citizens at large with the councillors in the majority. He suggested that with the question of town planning and building by-laws it would seem wise to engage a consultant and the expense might run to $20,000. It was mentioned that Annapolis Royal has both a Planning Officer and a Development Officer. The suggestion was made that the officers from Annapolis Royal might be willing to attend a joint meeting of Digby Town and Digby Municipality councils and give information if it can be arranged.

Mayor Haliburton reminded councillors before the close of the meeting that Councillor Eileen Chipman had given a notice of motion at the last meeting to be brought to the next regular meeting on the question of abolishing property transfer tax. He asked the councillors to be informed on the subject in preparation for the motion.

First Man Noble Grand At Westport Lodge

Glendon Titus recently became the first man to be elected as Noble Grand during the 50-year existence of the Sunset Rebekah Lodge in Westport. His installation took place during the special fiftieth anniversary meeting of the Sunset Lodge, and was carried out by Mrs. Gail So flows, District Deputy President, assisted by members of Sunrise Lodge of Tiverton.

A most interesting commemorative service followed, including the reading of the minutes from fifty years ago and special honours for the fifty-year members present—Sister O'Neita Welch, Sister Norma Morehouse, Sister Mary Bailey, Sister Susie Glavin, and Sister Cora Thompson, who is the oldest member of the Lodge. All present were most satisfied with the tasty supper which concluded the evening.

At a previous meeting of the Lodge in October, the installation of the other officers of Sunset Lodge took place, also carried out by Mrs. Gail So flows and members of the Sunrise Lodge. In a memorable ceremony the following elected officers were installed: Sister Diane Titus, Vice-Grand; Sister Carol Delsey, Recording Secretary; Sister Margaret Glavin, Financial Secretary; Sister Norma Morehouse, Treasurer.

Guest Speaker At Wesleyan Church

by FRANCES ADAMS

Mr. Richard Phillippi of Oakland, California, was guest speaker in the Digby Wesleyan Church at both sessions on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillippi are associated with the Shilo Temple Ministry "How to keep from being discouraged in the Christian Life" was the topic of the Sermon Mr. Phillippi gave at the morning service when he admonished all present to live above discouragement. He said he considered to do this four things were necessary. These were faith, obedience, realization and thanks.

Mr. Phillippi, during the evening service, spoke on "The Making of a Man of God". He spoke on three well known men of the Bible namely Job, David and Peter. He reminded those present that Job failed God by his motives, David failed God by his morals and that Peter failed God by his mission.

He also referred to Failure, Confusion and Isolation saying "Failure was a place of learning" "confusion was to teach walking by faith and not by feeling" and that "Isolation period in life when each feels alone without God."

The ring bearer was Master Keith Robbins, nephew of the bride, attired in a burgundy and grey plaid jacket suit with a white carnation boutonniere.

The groom was attended by David W. Reynolds. Ushers were Donald Robbins (brother of the bride) and William Langridge.

Realize $450 At Sale

The approximate sum of $450 was realized at the Christmas Food and Craft sale held the at the Digby New Horizons Centre on Friday. The day was beautiful weatherwise and the Centre was gaily trimmed for the Yuletide season completely decorated with a lighted tree.

Tea tables were conveniently placed and many arrived to enjoy refreshments and also the sociality with friends.

The Lobster-Trap-Lighthouse table lamp was won by Dominic Melanson.

Thanks were extended to those who helped to make the day successful.

Realize $455

The tea and bazaar held at Tideview Terrace on Wednesday proved to be a tremendous success in the exceptionally large number of patrons and the substantial sum of $455 realized. This fund is not for the Tideview Terrace institution but for the guests themselves who put on the tea and bazaar. The money will, it is expected go into a fund to further the handcraft project and necessary equipment. A decision is expected to be made by meeting together and plans will be made for the next project.

The many products, all of which were sold, were most remarkable considering the average age of Tideview guests is 80-85 years. Credit was given to Mrs. Dorothy Van Tassel who is head of the handcrafts and who enthused the guests to begin preparation two months ago. More than two hundred tickets for the tea had been sold.

Wednesday, December 3 was also the second anniversary of the opening of Tideview to the first guest. All the charter guests and all the charter staff were recognized at the Tea and Bazaar.

A generous amount of gifts donated by members and others were placed under a prettily decorated tree and later packed for patients at the Nova Scotia Sanatorium. Refreshments were enjoyed, prepared by the returning president, Mrs. Selig.

Cornwallis Midgets Defeat Bridgetown Midgets 2-1

The first period was a two way hard fought period with no scoring.

Things began to happen late in the second period as Cornwallis scored their first goal. Two minutes later, Paul McNeil of the Bridgetown team evened the score.

Bridgetown came out fighting in the third period. Hard digging and good fore checking paid off in the end for the Bridgetown team as Steve Walker scored the winning goal late in the third period.

The game ended with Bridgetown defeating Cornwallis 2-1.

SEASON'S GREETINGS

The Bear River Courier

"FOR HOME AND COUNTRY"

EDITED BY WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Leona Pictou Succeeds Chief McEwan

Bear River Indian Reserve has a new Chief and in keeping with the trend of National Women's Year, the Chief elected to succeed Richard McEwan in November was Mrs. Leona Pictou. Chief McEwan had served in that capacity for 12 years.

Mrs. Pictou is the first lady chief in Bear River and as far as it is known the second lady Chief in Nova Scotia. As a chief, she will be on the Board of Directors of the Union of Nova Scotia Indians representing the forty two Micmacs at the Bear River Reserve. Her term of office will be 2 years.

Chief Leona Pictou who has resided at the Bear River Reserve for five years will be looking after road needs and bring them before the people responsible. Housing will be her concern as well as many other projects which affect the life of her people. Her position as chief will take her to the nearby Indian Band Office each day. Serving with her are George Labrador and Violet Harlow.

Mrs. Pictou was the former Leona Jeremy of Middleton. The late Tom Pictou and Mrs. Pictou have two children, a son John and a daughter, Mrs. Marion Harlow. There are two grandchildren.

Former Chief McEwan who continues at the Band Hall to complete various projects which were started, told the Digby Courier he found that to be a successful Chief you must really have a love for people. There is no pay involved and even the Chief of the Council is only now getting some financial consideration by the Department of Indian Affairs but this is not in the form of salary. Mr. McEwan said the effort is a continuous one in carrying out the duties of chief. It is on your mind all the time he said and as one problem is solved another arises. He linked it to happiness which is happiness only if it is replenished.

Mrs. Pictou, who is well prepared for the new venture, said she likes a challenge. She has been vice-president of the N.S. Native Women's Association on the N.S. Board of Native Cultural Association and President of the Bear River Native Cultural Association.

will be sent to the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch No. 22, to assist in their annual Christmas Treats. Miss Milner's Grade 4 class won the Book Award.

Clerk Reports On Finances

Glen Pitman, Digby Town Clerk, reported to the monthly meeting of the Council on Monday evening that to November the accounts for the town amounted to $610,000 and it is expected there will be approximately $114,500 expenses to the end of December making approximately $724,600 on the expense account for the year. The budget for 1975 was $732,000 leaving a projected surplus in the vicinity of $6,000. He urged that the budget for both capital and operating expenses for 1976 be set early so that the tax rate can be set and tax collections for the year to begin early.

Councillor Reginald Hazelton, Chairman of the Board of School Commissioners presented the non-shareable budget for the school which was $47,080. This was increased by $13,310 to $60,390 because of the salary of a special French teacher which the Department of Education does not consider a shareable cost. A letter will be sent to the Minister of Education, according to motion passed on Monday evening, again applying to have this expense on the shareable costs.

The November accounts of $19,841 (including $12,693 for truck) presented by Councillors Gordon Ellis of the Finance Committee was adopted.

The Digby Regional High School capital budget approved by the Council amounted to $63,000. The Digby Elementary School Capital Budget of $13,440 was accepted on behalf of the Queen St., Mount St., and St. Patrick's Schools.

A request by Lester Hannah, principal at the D.R.H.S. for storage space for old books was placed before Council. The storage space for these at the Municipal School Garage had to be vacated. The matter was left in the hands of the properties committee.

The financial report to date 1975 of the Digby Town Electric Utility was read and accepted showing an over expenditure of $11,000 in capital expenses. Capital expenses in November were $19,079. Revenue from January to October 1975 was $316,191 and in 1974 for the same period was $232,000. Expenses of $315,000 in 1975 and $229,000 in 1974.

Mayor Charles Haliburton advised Council that he had been asked to attend the Council of the Municipality of the District of Digby when Warden Omer Blinn of Clare Municipality made known the decision of Clare to sell their share of the Digby County Power board hydro system. Presently the legal aspects of "selling" are being looked in to because of the four municipal bodies being involved. It was stated that low power users were more benefitted by using power from the Nova Scotia Power Corporation. Mr. Blinn had reported that Clare hydro had no cash reserves to meet emergencies such as breaks in lines by storms.

Mr. Haliburton said that Clare had work to be done there, as reported by Stuart MacNaughton, superintendent of the Digby County Power Board but there was a lack of equipment to do the service.

Councillor Guy Van-Tassell, chairman of the Digby Town Electric Utilities Committee, said that at a meeting held in the Fall of 1974 between the four parties the decision had been to not sell. The town committee expect to meet with the Digby Municipal Committee on December 11 at 7:30 p.m.

Town Hall Committee To Meet

The Digby Library Association requested by letter to the Digby Town Council on Monday evening that old buildings be preserved as part as the heritage of Digby and remain in dignity.

A meeting of the New Town Hall Committee is expected to be called in January to which the rest of council and others including the interested clubs and societies will be invited.

Councillor Gordon Ellis interjected that the old Town Hall should be painted and preserved.

A letter was read from the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade that if there is to be no funds requested for capital expenditures for the Tourist Bureau than more than the $800 for operating expenses can be requested. This will be dealt with by Council.

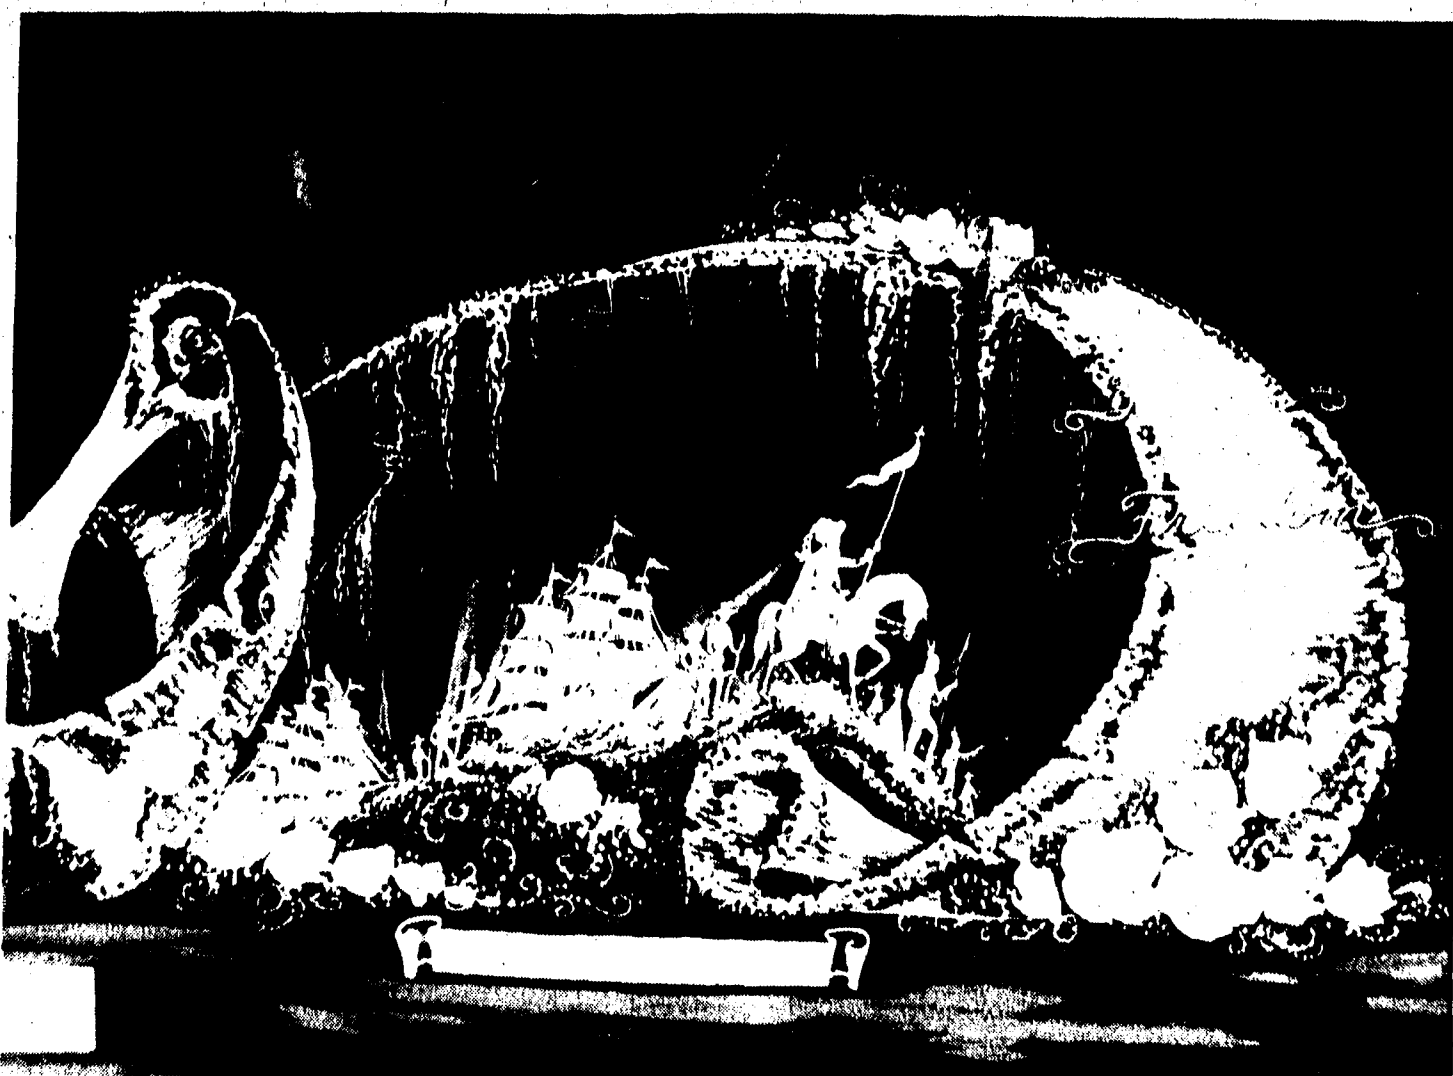

Mention was made of a new brochure for Digby and it was suggested that historical inquiries from school students might be passed on to students here for reply.

Motion To Abolish Transfer Tax

Councillor Eileen Chipman gave notice to the Digby Town Council on Monday evening that she will make a motion at the next Council meeting to abolish the property transfer tax.

By regular motion a resolution proposing that Tideview Terrace be exempt from town taxes was passed and will be forwarded to Joe Casey, M.L.A., before it is presented for reading in the legislature. The three representatives of the Town on the Tideview Terrace Boards, Councillors Phillip Robertson, Eileen Chipman and Guy VanTassell answered questions for information of the Council. Councillor Gordon Ellis felt that they should know more about the financial situation and was told that all he has to do is request it. Mr. Robertson figured that about 15 more beds were needed to operate satisfactorily financially. Staffing he said is according to specifications and most are paid only the minimum wage.

By regular motion, the Council on Monday night also approved a resolution to

Grain Project '75

"Results from the Nova Scotia Grain Project '75, sponsored by the Soils and Crops Branch of the Department of Agriculture and Marketing, indicate that there are many areas in Nova Scotia where the production of grain may be a very profitable crop," said the Honourable Jack Hawkins, Nova Scotia's Minister of Agriculture and Marketing.

Nova Scotia Grain Project '75 is designed to investigate the potential of cereal grain production in terms of yield and cost per acre on a number of Nova Scotia farms through the use of presently known and accepted management practices for each geographical area where project fields are located.

Grain Project '75 is designed essentially to involve farmers in farm-grain projects whereby the co-operating farmer undertakes to produce the highest possible yield of grain on a limited acreage, under the most favourable set of conditions for his given location. Requirements of the participating farmer involve taking an accurate soil sample, making adequate applications of fertilizer and lime, early seeding, and the use of recommended agricultural practices such as weed and insect control, where necessary.

Farmers involved in these projects are receiving technical services from specialists in the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture and Marketing.

There are 27 farmers involved in this project in 7 counties, the largest number being located in Cumberland County. Bob Cooper, Great Village, Colchester County, is one of the co-operating farmers. A hog producer with 90 sows, he requires approximately 450 tons of motion to grant the Commission their request was passed.

escorted to the East.

November Convictions Down

R.C.M.P. who serve also as Digby Police Control reported at Digby Town Council on Monday evening that convictions were down in the month of November. Six cases came under criminal code, one under the narcotics and drug act, eight motor vehicle and seven liquor control. Sixty-nine cases were under investigation.

Fines forwarded to the town for the month were $355 and to the provincial coffers $290. Mileage was in the vicinity of 2180 miles.

The matter of disposal of "found property" was left in the hands of the "chief of police" of the R.C.M.P. and that the understanding from the Attorney General's Department is that if these items are not claimed they must be kept for a year, advertised and then there is the privilege of selling and passing the revenue to the town.

Sergeant Tom Barlow reported a parking problem on Church St. near the Forum. He was given permission to put up "NO Parking" signs.

Sergeant Barlow reported that the "bomb scares" seem to be defeated, "thanks" to the Digby Regional High School Board. There were 11 bomb scares in October and November with 10 prosecutions.

By regular motion passed the R.C.M.P. was advised that for those things which need attention they can refer to the police committee.

The report of the Parking Meters was given by the meter reader, Webster Dunn, who said $610.77 had been collected, 61 tickets issued, 53 returned and one cancelled. Reported adopted.

Carl Niemeyer, building inspector, reported one application only for construction, the amount being $1000.

Town Clerk, Glen Pitman, reported that they had not received an immediately favorable reply to their request for an increase in the R.C.M.P. staff for the town but that attention would continue to be given the request.

The quilt was won by Miss Betty McDormand and drawn by John Swift; Big Jim Kung Foo Studio won by Sean McDormand and a Barbie Country House won by Heidi Titus were both drawn by Jim MacLauchlan; Money Tree won by Floyd Graham and drawn by Al Mount. The last three articles were placed there by the Auxiliary. A door prize of a Christmas Tree cake made and donated by Mrs. Danny Kenney was won by Miss Jackie Thompson and drawn by Mr. Ray Tudor.

When the afternoon was over the amount earned was $451.00. The auxiliary members were pleased with the response, for those who had donated money, food for the buffet table, for all the articles for the bazaar, to all who had helped in any way to make the day a big success. The money earned is to benefit the community because it is being used to help some way in the Fire Hall and Recreation Centre which is now being erected in the village. When weather permits men are busy putting the dome type building together.

Refreshments were served by Mr. Trask and co-hostess, Mrs. Muriel Denton.

Door prize winners have been Heather Crocker, Kim Van, Muriel Elliott and Kathy Clayton. The afghan, donated by Nellie Varner, was won by Mary Ann Wilson and a turkey, donated by Little River Trading Post, was won by Donald Addington. Another turkey, also donated by Little River Trading Post, will be raffled at the December 20th bingo. Jackpot prizes were won by Maxine Comeau and Alberta Hersev.

Pufnstuf

Friday, December 26

9:00 p.m.

Based on the acclaimed TV series "H. R. Pufnstuf", this unusual and innovative fantasy combines witches and real-life youngsters with the animal characters created through the extraordinary skill of puppeteers Sid and Mary Krofft. The strong cast features Jack Wild as Jimmy who stumbles, quite literally, into a talking boat which takes him on a trip to Living Island. There he meets the mayor, a dragon-like character with the unlikely name of H. R. Pufnstuf, Martha Raye and the late Cass Elliott give colorful performances as Boss Witch and Witch Hazel respectively.

Sam The Bear, Tim, and all their puppet friends from ATV Funtime take time out from their busy schedule for a photograph. ATV Funtime is seen Saturdays at 8:00 a.m. on the ATV System.

Holiday TreatsRASPBERRY-PEACH COMPOTE

2 pkgs. frozen raspberries, thawed
8 peach halves, drained
3 egg whites
6 tablespoons sugar

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in sugar until smooth and glossy. Place peaches, cut side up, in shallow baking dish; top each with a spoonful of meringue. Bake at 450 degrees for 5 minutes. Place raspberries in serving dish; remove peaches carefully from dish and float on raspberries.

WIPE UP

When cooking the big holiday meal remember to wipe up grease splatters or spills from the kitchen floor promptly to prevent slipping and flash fires. Your best tool: A damp sponge sprinkled with sal soda concentrated. Sal quickly emulsifies grease.

CHRISTMAS IN MID-SUMMER

In Central and South America, where the holiday comes in midsummer, Santa Claus and Christmas trees are seldom seen. But after midnight mass on Christmas Eve, or at dinner on Christmas Day, families gather to enjoy the traditional roast suckling pig and their wide assortment of desserts.

Cover batter and set in a warm place for 45 minutes. Stir the batter down and beat for half a minute. Pour into greased 1 1/2 quart casserole or two 9 x 5 loaf pans. Bake uncovered at 375 degrees for one hour.

For Holiday TreatLEBKUCHEN ROUNDS ARE FAVORITE

1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

Life's Scales

There is a legend of a Goblin who made an annual pilgrimage among the people at Christmastime, evaluating their thoughts and deeds by their weight. One day the Goblin saw a man with a new automobile, which he had purchased for himself and family as a Christmas token. Here, thought the Goblin, is something very valuable. So he put it on the scales, but, to his dismay, it weighed nothing. Next he saw a boy who appeared very happy. "Why are you so glad?" asked the Goblin. "I'm going to get a lot of nice things for Christmas - I know, because I've seen them in the closet," said the boy. The Goblin put them all on the scales, but they weighed nothing. There was a young girl who was frowning. "What are you frowning for?" asked the Goblin. "Oh, a friend of mine gave me a little old handkerchief for Christmas last year, and I'll have to give her one this year because she will expect it." The Goblin put the handkerchief on the scales, but it weighed nothing. The Goblin looked up and saw a richly attired woman sitting at a window knitting. "What are you doing?" he asked. "I am knitting a scarf for a sick friend who is cold and miserable," said the woman. "There isn't a scarf in all the stores that I care to give her, so I am knitting one." The Goblin put the scarf on the scales and it weighed very much. Looking down the street, the Goblin saw an aged couple carrying a well-fitted basket between them. He approached the couple, and saw that they were very poor. "Where are you taking that basket of food?" he asked. "To a kindly friend," said the man. "But do you not need this for yourselves?" asked the Goblin.

"We can spare it; besides, our food tastes better when we divide it with those who need it worse than we do," was the answer. The Goblin put the basket on the scales, and it weighed to the limit of the scales.

Ancient Legend

An ancient Italian legend tells of the Three Wise Men stopping to ask directions of an old woman, Befana. They invited her to go with them to worship the new born King, but she would not leave until she had swept her house and baked her bread. So the Wise Men left without her. When her housework was finished, Befana packed a basket of toys for the Christ Child and set out after the Wise Men, but she never overtaken them. So every Christmas she searches for the Christ Child with her basket of toys, leaving gifts for the children in each house.

How Many Drinks

The liver breaks down about 90 per cent of alcohol a person consumes into usable food. The lungs and kidneys eliminate most of the remainder. But these human body processes need TIME to remove alcohol from one's system. In terms of usual alcoholic beverages, IT TAKES MORE THAN AN HOUR TO ELIMINATE EACH 120Z. BOTTLE OF NORMAL STRENGTH BEER OR 1½ OZ. DRINK OF SPIRITS OR 30ZS. OF FORTIFIED WINE OR 5 OZS. OF TABLE WINE OR 2 OZS. OF LIQUEUR.

Some people seem to be able to "hold their liquor" better than others and this excuse is often aired by those who don't want to believe that a few drinks can seriously impair driving ability. Because of body weight, fatigue, emotional condition or a number of other reasons, individuals may show differing effects from drinking the same amount of alcohol. However, they may be equally impaired.

Another danger develops when the alcohol starts to "wear off." A person can easily convince himself that he no longer feels the effects and is perfectly sober. This state of mind is a delusion. The individual is comparing his peak feeling of impairment with the declining impairment that he feels as his body eliminates the alcohol from his blood. But he is not sober. He is only making a dangerous comparison.

OLD WIVES' TALES
 Most of us have tried them at one time or another... black coffee, cold showers, taking a jog around the block. But we must recognize them for what they are... old wives tales. There is only one thing that can sober a person: TIME.

ON GROWING OLDER
 As one grows older, or if one has a medical condition or is taking medications, even the one-hour per drink rule of thumb may not be sufficient protection against impairment.

Individuals who, for any reason, have poor eyesight or hearing, hardening of the arteries, heart disease, diabetes, epilepsy and certain other medical conditions, or who are taking drugs such as tranquilizers or medicines for high blood pressure, allergies, or colds, may be particularly susceptible to the effects of even a small amount of alcohol. Some should not drink at all if they are going to drive. Others should alter their "rule of thumb" to one drink every hour and a half or two hours. The best thing to do is consult a doctor for the proper advice regarding one's condition and drinking precautions for driving.

THE SOCIAL DRINKER IS ONE OF THE LEADING CAUSES OF TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

Remember: as a driver you have responsibility to yourself, to your passengers and to other people on the road!

.08 AND THE COURTS
 Even if one is well below the .08 level of alcohol in the blood, accepted as the legal level by the courts, one can still be impaired. And the courts recognize this. Being caught at above .08 per cent blood alcohol in the bloodstream, in itself, is a criminal offence, BUT you can be impaired on one drink and can be charged and convicted with less than .08 in your bloodstream if you show other symptoms of inebriation.

THE PENALTIES
 The penalties for impaired driving can range from those provided in the new Criminal Code of Canada - which include: fine, imprisonment, or both, and loss of driver's licence - to the possible loss of insurance, higher annual insurance rates, loss of job, even social disgrace.

Section 234 of the Criminal Code of Canada states that impaired driving is an offence even if the driver's blood alcohol is less than .08 per cent and that the PENALTY FOR A FIRST OFFENCE is: a fine of not more than $500 or less than $50 or jail for three months or both. For the SECOND OFFENCE it is jail for not more than three months and not less than 14 days. Subsequent offences mean jail for not more than one year but not less than three months.

Section 235 of the Code states that breath tests for blood alcohol are COMPULSORY. It is an offence to refuse to take a breathalyzer test for blood alcohol when such a test is demanded by a peace officer. The PENALTY on summary conviction only is a fine of not more than $1,000 or less than $50 or jail for not more than six months or both.

Section 236 of the code states that it is an offence to drive if the driver's blood alcohol exceeds .08 per cent. PENALTY: the same as for section 235.

Hints for the host and hostess

1. Serve snack foods early in the evening. This tends to slow down the assimilation of alcohol.
 2. Since some types of drinks carry a greater "kick" than others, stick to the recipe.

Most people can feel the effect of a drink soon after drinking it. The effect differs with each individual and depends on many factors, including the type and size of the drink, a person's body weight, whether the drink is taken on an empty stomach, the rate at which the drink is consumed and many other factors. Different people reach different impairment levels with the same amount of alcohol. IT'S A GOOD IDEA TO USE THE CANADA SAFETY COUNCIL'S BLOOD ALCOHOL CHART AS A GUIDE and realize that different people reach a level of impairment at different times.

3. Plan some activity such as dancing or games. This usually tends to cut down on the amount of alcohol consumed.

4. Always respect the wishes of any guest who says

"No, thanks" to the offer of a final drink or who says "I'll just have coffee." Never press alcoholic beverages on a guest who is going to drive.

Remember that it takes TIME to eliminate alcohol from your body system.

5. Make it part of your entertainment to close the bar an hour or so before guests are expected to leave. This can be done casually by serving coffee and food. Your guests will realize that is the way things are done in your house.

6. Have non-alcoholic beverages...coffee, tea, soft drinks, or fruit punch available for the final "one for the road." Remember coffee does nothing to sober your guest. But it will give his body time to eliminate some alcohol.

7. If worst comes to pass and you realize, too late, that someone has had too much to drink, turn on the diplomatic charm. Suggest tactfully a car pool with another guest, or arrange transportation by taxi. Don't expect that this will be easy. The person least able to operate a car safely usually is the one who is most convinced that he is in brilliant shape for driving.

Persuasion is possible. And you don't want to see him in court, or hear him listed as a statistic the next morning on the radio.

Either as a guest or host, you have a responsibility to yourself and others including other people on the road.

Christmas Decorations Made At Weymouth Garden Club

The regular meeting of the Weymouth Garden Club was held on December 4th, at the home of Mrs. E.A. Ferguson.

Despite the inclement weather, a good number of members attended, and after a brief business session, they enjoyed a demonstration on the preparation of decorations suitable for the Christmas table. The presentation was made by Mrs. Gordon Cameron.

The use of odd household utensils and items, together with spruce twigs, and Sundry ornaments etc., resulted in the creation of surprisingly beautiful centre pieces in the traditional Christmas style.

A draw for one of these was held at the end of the demonstration, the winner was Mrs. D. Bellworthy.

CANADIAN ARTISTS FEATURED IN 1975 UNICEF CARD COLLECTION

"Snow in the Woods" by Tom Thomson, is a winter scene of northern woods in subtle shades of blues and purples. This canvas, by one of Canada's most famous painters, is reproduced through the courtesy of the MacMichael Canadian Collection, Kleinburg, Ontario.

A striking pen-and-ink drawing by Thoreau MacDonald, "Quail" printed on 100% recycled paper, is one of UNICEF's new line of ecology cards. Appropriately, MacDonald's main interests are wildlife, forestry, geology, and the whole outdoor world, and his paintings and drawings reflect this dedication to nature.

Ferry Seeking Subsidy

The Hon. George M. Mitchell, Minister of Development, has announced that the Province of Nova Scotia has been approached by Lion Ferry A-B, operators of the Yarmouth to Portland Ferry Service, for an operating subsidy to offset losses to Lion Ferry as a result of low traffic volumes and revenues during the winter months.

Mr. Mitchell advised that he has discussed the service with the Hon. Otto Lang, Federal Minister of Transport, but the Federal Government is unwilling to consider any assistance. Mr. Mitchell has communicated this to Lion Ferry and has also informed it that the Province is unwilling to consider operating subsidies.

Mr. Mitchell said: "The Province negotiated a contract with Lion Ferry under which they are required to operate two vessels in the summer period and one vessel in the winter until Sept. 1, 1981. I have advised the company that the Province fully expects them to live up to the terms of their contract."

Mr. Mitchell further advised that the Province is continuing to press the Federal Government to replace the MV Bluenose, operating between Yarmouth and Bar Harbour, with a new, larger vessel.

Mr. Mitchell commented that, in his opinion, the Federal Government made a commitment to do so in 1974. As recently as last week, Mr. Mitchell, accompanied by the Hon. J. Fraser Mooney, Minister of Municipal Affairs and Mr. Hugh Tinkham, M.L.A. for Yarmouth, met in Ottawa with Mr. Lang.

In the discussion the Provincial delegation pressed for early action to replace the Bluenose, pointing out to Mr. Lang both the Federal commitment and the importance of this service to the Province.

Mr. Mitchell further pointed out to the Federal Minister that the threat of Lion Ferry to discontinue their winter service emphasized the need for a new ship to replace the Bluenose so that the Province can be sure of continuity of both summer and winter service with a modern, government-operated vessel capable of handling commercial traffic.

Mr. Mitchell said: "In spite of our representations and the fact that the Province has committed itself to contributing $2,000,000 towards the cost of a replacement for the Bluenose, we were unable to obtain any positive response from the Federal Minister.

"On the contrary, the Federal Government appears to be developing a policy under which it will withdraw from providing any further assistance to Ferry services other than those required by constitutional obligation such as to Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island.

"The Province of Nova Scotia strongly disagreed with this position and has indicated so to the Federal authorities. About the only positive thing that came out of our meeting with Mr. Lang was that there is no apparent threat to the continued operation of the present Bluenose."

National Parks Usage Down In '75

Tourism Ministers Blame Higher Fees

WOLFVILLE—Atlantic Tourism Ministers have condemned Federal Government policies in respect to implementation of National Park entrance fees within the region.

The four Ministers unanimously agreed that entrance fees imposed at National Parks were creating hardships on business, tourists and local residents and were in general terms "a nuisance tax that would reap the Federal Treasury little net benefit."

Imposition of the Park fees, the Ministers claimed, had the effect of reducing usage of the National Parks in Atlantic Canada to the extent of 20 per cent in 1975, and this in turn had resulted in a similar degree of additional pressure being placed on Provincially-operated Parks, and contributed to the indiscriminate use of unprotected areas.

The reduction in usage has had a significant effect upon the income of business operators holding concessions within the National Parks, and communities adjacent to the Parks had also suffered severely due mainly to the fact that in numerous instances Park users were penalized for each occasion they re-entered Park boundaries.

In addition, the Ministers deplore the restriction of free access to the Provincial facilities within Federal Park boundaries.

The new fees imposed in 1975 at a number of National Parks in the region were also cited as an inconvenience to persons living within National Parks and to persons driving through with no intention of using park facilities.

Therefore, the four provincial tourism denning the park fees, expressed consternation at the inconsistency of Federal policies which resulted in considerable expenditures

Snowmobile Enthusiasts Meet

The first meeting of this winter's season of the Ponderosa Snowmobile Club was held Wednesday, December 3rd at Valley Marine Supplies in Moschelle. Coincidentally, the weatherman arranged for a snowfall the same day to get everyone in the mood.

This season marks the beginning of the tenth consecutive year that the club has been in existence. The club was formed ten years ago by a small group of people in Moschelle and immediate area, at a time when snowmobiles were looked down upon as no more than extravagant toys. In ten years, though, all that has changed, and snowmobiling has gained such an acceptance that it is now one of North America's most popular winter sports.

We are fortunate, in this area, to have a very good network of woods roads and lakes that enable snowmobilers to get out and enjoy what our countryside has to offer. The Ponderosa Club has grown along with the sport's popularity so that now it enjoys an average yearly membership of better than seventy snowmobilers. The Club is an informal association with members from every community in the Annapolis Royal area, and from as far away as the Middleton and Digby areas. The Club, with the help of its various committees, sponsors a variety of family activities throughout the winter season. Among these are organized snowmobile trips to different areas every weekend, snowmobile racing at Lake LaRose, delicious pot luck suppers and home-made ice cream parties at the Ponderosa Clubhouse in Moschelle, and snowmobile safety films and other films about snowmobiling for the general entertainment of the members.

This year, a map will be made available to the members, detailing all the usable snowmobile trails in the County. To compliment the map, a program of sign posting was initiated last year, and now a good percentage of the trails are identified with signs and trail markers. This year, the Club hopes to extend its trails west to Digby, to meet with the newly formed snowmobile club in that area. The club would then have access to good trails that now extend all the way to Yarmouth.

The Ponderosa Snowmobile Club welcomes any snowmobilers and their families who share an enthusiasm for this winter sport, and extends a warm invitation to them to attend the next meeting and see what the Club is all about. For anyone wishing to become a member, the cost is minimal (last year, it was $2.00 per family for the season). The club is looking forward to an enjoyable winter and extends this general invitation to everyone to join in the activities.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, December 17th at 8:00 p.m. at Valley Marine Supplies Limited in Moschelle. SEE YOU THERE!!!!

Christmas Dinner Date Varies

The date of the big Christmas dinner varies around the world; many countries have it on Christmas Eve, before or after midnight services. Our traditional Christmas turkey does not appear on many menus. The French reveillon, a feast which occurs after midnight mass, is apt to feature oysters and sausages; in the French province of Brittany, buckwheat cakes with sour cream are served. The Norwegian Christmas dinner features a fish called lutefisk. At a Polish Christmas Eve dinner, the number of courses is fixed at seven, nine, or eleven; a Lithuanian Christmas feast must include twelve courses, one for each of the disciples.

During the Christmas season, Germans and Rumanians bake long, thin cakes that symbolize the Christ Child wrapped in swaddling clothes. In the Ukrainian part of Russia, cattle are given the first taste of the Christmas supper, because animals were the first to behold Christ. In parts of rural Germany, this is carried one step further - cattle and their owners both fast the day before Christmas, and eat well on Christmas Eve.

Birth Of Christ

Christmas in medieval England was called Christes Masse, then Christ's Mass, until it acquired its present spelling. The day is still known in many European countries as "Christ's Birthday" and is called Noel by the French, Natale by the Italians, Weihnacht by the Germans, and Yulen Jul by the Scandinavians.

Most scholars agree that Dec. 25 is most certainly not the birthday anniversary of the Savior, and that He was not born in what we now measure as 1 A.D. The custom of celebrating Christ's Birthday on Dec. 25 originated in Rome in the fourth century of the Christian Era, some say in 354 A.D. The Roman monk Dionysius Exiguus, who made the calculations for the calendar in the sixth century, probably misplaced A.D. by at least six years.

Herod the Great, according to the current Gregorian calendar, died in 4 B.C. He is said to have put to death the boy babies in Bethlehem who were two years old and younger. The first Christmas may have been as early as 6 B.C.

In finally choosing Dec. 25 for Christmas, the early church fathers probably were not unmindful that the Roman feast week of the Saturnalia ended on Dec. 24, after which some purification of the soul would be in order. Worshippers of the Persian god Mithras celebrated Dec. 25 as the advent of the Sun.

The place of Christ's birth is much better established than the time. If you went to Bethlehem this Christmas and asked to see where Jesus Christ was born, the inhabitants would direct you to a small grotto, or cave, beneath the Church of Nativity.

History fixes the year of the Savior's birth at 6 B.C.

Additional Monies For V.O.N.

Additional Government support for the Victorian Order of Nurses was announced tonight by Public Health Minister Bill MacEachern.

In a statement in the Legislature Mr. MacEachern said the current financial plight of the V.O.N. was brought before cabinet, and he had been authorized to advise the agency that money to help meet the agency's operating expenses over and above the regular grant of $49,000 will be provided.

Deficits for 1974 and 1975 will be considered, he said.

Following is a text of Mr. MacEachern's statement:

Mr. Speaker, with your permission, and the indulgence of the house, I would like to make a statement on the Victorian Order of Nurses and the request from that organization for additional financial support from the Government of Nova Scotia.

I am aware, both from my own contacts and observations, as well as from the many comments that have come from members of this house - and the public generally - of the high regard in which this organization, and particularly its member nurses, are held by residents of this Province.

Throughout the years, and especially in years when public involvement in, and financial support for, health care was modest, or non-existent the V.O.N. provided an essential and welcome and indeed, a life-sustaining service to thousands of residents of this Province.

With the advent of medicare and hospital insurance, this role, of bringing nursing care to the home continued, although with a changed emphasis.

It has been argued that a good home nursing care program is a money-saving operation, because it permits many ill people who might otherwise be hospitalized to receive treatment at home - either because the service makes hospitalization unnecessary or because persons hospitalized can be reached earlier.

This is perhaps a valid argument, in so far as such a service will enable existing hospital facilities, existing active treatment beds, to serve an expanding population without being added to.

The stronger argument, and the one we should be making about the V.O.N., and about the Public Health Nurses who carry out similar duties under the Aegis of my department, is that they provide for a better health delivery system, and they enable us to have a range of services available to the people of this Province which is in keeping with our needs, and in line with modern health concepts.

It is because of these considerations, and because of the value which we place in the services of the V.O.N. that this government and preceding administrations,

Shop Wisely

With the Christmas shopping season at its peak, the Consumer Services Bureau reminds shoppers to shop wisely. If the deal sounds too good to be true, chances are that you should take a long, hard look at it. No one is in the business of giving merchandise away, not even at Christmas.

To get the most out of your available Christmas shopping money, the Bureau advises consumers to make out a list and stick to it.

for the Departments of Tourism by such agencies as the Canadian Government Office of Tourism and The Department of Regional Economic Expansion, compared with the negative and harmful effects of the Parks Canada entrance fees which were being imposed.

Limit yourself to the amount of money you want to spend. You'll then be more likely to make a wise choice.

If you buy something on impulse, you'll probably regret it later. Such purchases rarely come up to expectations on closer examination.

Make sure you know all there is to know about the product before you buy it, including the details of warranties and guarantees, the Consumer Services Bureau says. If there's the slightest doubt, put off your purchase until you can think about it thoroughly. Stores are not obligated to take back merchandise you have had second thoughts about, therefore it's better to do your thinking before buying.

If the seller includes a warranty or guarantee with the product, make sure it is in writing. Verbal promises are worth nothing, no matter who offers them. A reputable merchant or manufacturer will put all warranties and guarantees in writing. If a written commitment isn't forthcoming, shop elsewhere, the Consumer Services Bureau advises. There are plenty of other places eager to do business on your terms, especially at Christmas.

The Box Social

Pauline Bullerwell

Recently in a copy of the Spectator there appeared a notice for a Box Social, a type of old-fashioned entertainment I had not thought of in years. In the small villages years ago there was not much in the way of entertainment. Church, Prayer Meeting, the annual Christmas Concert and Sewing Circle was about all there was to do during the long winters.

A Box Social was quite an event and was usually held in the one-room school, it being the only building of any size. Box Socials were held to make money for the school or some other worthy cause.

Great excitement was generated among the girls for two weeks before the night. You had to decide on decorations for your box. You couldn't just run to a store and buy decorations, you had to use what was on hand. The box was decorated in secret for no one was supposed to know which box belonged to which girl. You covered the box with coloured crepe paper with scalloped or crimped edging. Some boxes were lovely. They could be elaborate or simple according to your artistic talents. Some were in the shape of houses, some made like an iced cake. They could be round or square whatever your fancy dictated. Some were covered with crepe paper roses or cut-outs of flowers or birds; some had silver or gilt, bows or ribbons, but each one was as pretty as you could make it.

Looks weren't everything by a long shot; many a boy was led astray by a pretty box containing a poor lunch. Most important was what went into the box. The girl or her mother baked their best cakes, pies and cookies. A chicken might be roasted and dainty sandwiches made.

In a small community the boys pretty well know from past experience which girls were the good cooks and which mother had the reputation of being a poor cook. Mother's cooking could make or break your evening. Of course, if you were older and went steady the boy was expected to buy your box. If you were a poor cook, he suffered in silence no doubt hoping you would improve with time.

The Friday afternoon before the Social as soon as school was out, the older boys took the seats out. This required some effort for they were double desks and were often bolted to the floor. They had to be back in place before Monday morning for school. The pot-bellied stove went out too for with a crowd square dancing who needed heat?

Naturally you had told your current beau what your box was like so he would bid on the right one. If not, a bratty younger brother just might steer him wrong.

If you had no beau but had your sights on one, a trusted girl friend came in hand to drop a few subtle hints. After that it was up to the boy.

There was always the wall flower or perhaps two of them. They were the girls who couldn't cook and who couldn't dance. Their boxes, if the boys guessed right, were left till the last, then sold for a mere pittance. She was the girl whose brother had to dance with her all evening because Ma said so. If her box sold, it was usually to some boy even she wouldn't take on a bet.

The boxes were well wrapped to be taken to the school so no one would see them. You tried to sneak them on the table with the others.

On the eve of the Box Social you took great pains with your toilette. Don't let that word fool you, there weren't any! You took a chilly sponge bath in a basin in a cool bedroom and put on your best bib and tucker. Then came the hair-do. There were no permanents and if you weren't endowed with naturally curly hair something had to be done about that straight hair.

This required curling your hair with curling tongs heated over a kerosene lamp. You had to turn the wick up to heat the curlers which resulted in a smokey flame. Unless you were an expert you ended up with frizzy hair and a strong aroma of scorched hair and kerosene smoke.

Some hair-dos were held together with numerous bobby pins which tended to work loose during the more energetic dances.

Garters too could be a problem. You wore rayon or lisle stockings rolled around a piece of half inch elastic. Medical reports now tell us round garters, as we called them, cause varicose veins. There must have been a great number of varicose veins for how else could you keep your stockings up? You can see the problem you would have if the garter broke at a dance.

Once the hair was done then came the make-up. There were no creamy make ups in jars or bottles. You rubbed in some cold cream, patted on a little powder and occasionally a spot of rouge, but that was quite daring.

If you were one of those smart girls who cut coupons out of magazines and sent them away with ten cents you had a supply of 10 dabs of various colour Max Factor lipsticks to experiment with. Other goodies could be yours for ten cents and a coupon.

If you had no access to coupons, you no doubt fell back on good, old faithful Tangee. You could buy it at the Five and Dime store for 19 cents. Yes, you unbelievers, you could actually buy things for five and ten cents! Now to get back to Tangee. It came in Natural or Theatrical Red. Most of the girls wore Natural, it turned to YOUR colour on your lips! Anyway Theatrical Red was a brilliant red and no one wanted to be classified as painted, which also labelled you as "fast".

You sprinkled yourself well with Evening In Paris or Ashes of Roses if you were a girl of good taste. A less discriminating girl used Ben Hur or Sweet Pea. One thing I guarantee, if you used the latter the smell of scorched hair was no longer noticeable. Once you were sure you had done the best you could with what Mother Nature had endowed you, you joined the girls for the walk to the schoolhouse.

Dancing was done to a fiddle, a mouth organ and a guitar. Few schools had pianos, in fact few people had them. The old-fashioned parlor organ was more apt to be found in homes. There were line dances such as Hull's Victory and Boston Fancy; you waltzed to My Wild Irish Rose or Over The Waves and fox trotted to Redwing. The final square dance was always the Soldier's Joy and then a waltz, Goodnight Ladies. All through the evening you worried. There were so many pitfalls to worry about, it was quite nerve-racking - Would he get your box? Someone quite impossible might get it! What if it didn't sell for a goodly sum? Would Jim or George or whoever you had your eye on bid on your box? Or had that Susie told him the right one, she just might have described her own?

Many a romance budded at a Box Social; and many a romance was blighted.

There were always a few boys who couldn't get a girl. They were the smart aces who would pool their resources and bid a girl's box up so high her beau had to give up for lack of money. They got such a kick out of it too, the creeps.

If one lone rival tried to by himself he might just get his come-uppance. The boy might drop the bid on him knowing full well he didn't have the money. Then said rival was an object of much laughter and jeering and had to retire in shame and the beau got the box anyway for his last bid.

There was the boy you really liked but he was so shy he would never bid on a box and if he did venture a bid he would give up too soon. The girls were in an agony of embarrassment waiting to see who was going to be the lucky boy. Some of the boys might make a mistake and pick the wrong box and then he ended up with a girl-friend who wasn't speaking to him because she thought he did it on purpose because he liked the other girl better.

There was seldom if ever any drinking at Box Socials. For one thing there were no Liquor Outlets. A little home-made hard cider was the most potent brew in the community. The girls didn't smoke and there was no open smooching. Your reputation would be in shreds if you tried anything like that. That was left for the walk home. Don't get the idea we didn't have fun. We did, we had more fun than the young people of today have. You could hear yourself think at a dance, carry on a normal conversation without trying to scream about the orchestra. You could even tell who was dancing with whom and they talked. These days, I understand they use body language. Probably we did too but it wasn't called that and it wasn't done in public. I like a lot of today's sounds but I don't have to have them turned up as loud to enjoy them. Many of our dances were even sillier looking than the kids today standing two feet apart wiggling their bodies. Kip To My Lou was one of these.

The boys from the neighbouring lumber camps often came out to a Box Social. They had little or no entertainment in camp and nowhere to spend their money so they often had more money than the local boys. They would walk off with the best boxes and sometimes the prettiest girls. The girls weren't averse to a mild flirtation with a new boy so the visitors on the whole weren't very popular.

At the end of the square dancing, the boxes were auctioned off. There was always one man in the community with a gift of gab and a sense of humour who acted as auctioneer.

The girls gathered together on one side of the room looking nervous and the boys stood in an embarrassed group at the other side. The auctioneer knew how to whet their appetites. He would hold up a box and extol the beauties of the decorations and remark that the "little girl who went with this box was as pretty as a picture". He wouldn't have the faintest idea whose box it was but he could convince the boys. He always acted as if he knew.

He would take a peek into a box and exclaim, "Oh my, some lucky boy is going to get this box!" Another peek. "Mumum! Would you look at that? Wish my wife could cook like that! Now who's going to start the bidding?" You there, Joe, what are you going to bid? Now don't you be bashful, Joe, how about a quarter?" Poor Joe would be the shyest boy in the room who never never looked at a girl. He would turn red, squirm and shuffle his feet around while the braver boys laughed and the girls giggled in their corner. When the bidding finally started the boxes would go quite quickly. The lucky boy would cross the floor to the girl whose box he had bought feeling as if he were under fire. Custom dictated that you eat with the boy who bought your box and he had the privilege of walking you home.

If you got stuck with some boy you ordinarily wouldn't be caught dead with, it was a long, silent walk home. You inwardly raged and fumed thinking of your own beau walking home with some little blonde while here you were stuck with this lout.

If everything went alright, the school was twenty-three dollars richer and you were walking down a country road in the moonlight with your best beau after a perfect evening. What more could a girl ask of a Box Social?

Horticultural Society Has Christmas Party

Trinity Parish Hall, Digby, N.S. was bright with Christmas colors of red, green and silver, on the evening of December 3rd for the annual Christmas party of the Admiral Digby Horticultural Society. Attractive Christmas entries by members and non-members, added to the holiday atmosphere for the coming yuletide season.

On behalf of the Garden Club, Mrs. Hutchins, president, extended a welcome to the party, expressing the wish that the evening would be an enjoyable one.

Present were several guests from the local area and members from the Hill-Dale Garden Club, Bear River.

Special mention was made on several small decorated Christmas trees in pots, made by the 1st Company Digby Girl Guides, under the leadership of Miss Marjorie MacCormack. These entries were non-competitive and were donated to be taken along with other arrangements to shut-ins after the party.

Jack Harris, President N.S. Association of Garden Clubs, spoke briefly, bringing greetings from the various other Garden Clubs and remarking on the ability of so many persons to create the attractive arrangements on display. He also said more young people should become involved.

City Lights The Way

During the holidays, Albuquerque is called Luminaria City. Millions of paper sacks are lighted by a single candle inside. They are called Luminarias or farolitos after the Spanish who originated the custom.

Entire neighborhoods go together to "light the way for the lost Christ Child," as the Spanish tradition has it. The lights give the appearance of golden lanterns when spaced about three feet apart on the edges of the sidewalks, flat roofs and beside steps.

New Mexicans have decorated their homes at Christmas with luminarias for about 300 years.

Mexicans used little bonfires of bright burning pinon and pine to light the paths of processions and festivities at Christmas. Small lanterns from Mexico were also used. It is not known who first used the paper sack luminaria, but each year the custom has spread until today they are the traditional New Mexico Christmas light.

About two inches of sand or dirt is placed in each sack, and the top of the sacks are folded down one time. Inside the sack goes a small vetive candle which burns about two hours.

Christmas

QUESTION: WHO PUT 'X' IN CHRISTMAS?

Almost every year from this time on, the question comes up again - who put the "X" in Christmas, and cries such as the unchristian approach to an otherwise solemn occasion.

Actually, it's been there all the time. An X, used alone or in combination with other letters, often stands for the word "Christ"; and an Episcopalian priest, explains: "This usage is quite ancient or as ancient certainly as the term 'Christmas' itself."

It isn't so much how you spell it as how you keep it that determines how blessed will be the joyous season.

Christmas Story

THE MESSIAH and joy the happy Wise Men found.

The Messiah oratorio, a Christmas tradition, was composed by George Frederick Handel in only twenty five days, according to world book encyclopedia. It was first performed in 1742 in Dublin. A year later King George II set the custom of standing during the oratorio's "Hallelujah Chorus."

When Christmas brings the story so often told before, Of Wise men and the star that shone above the stable door -

May happiness, good will and love, within your hearts abound, And Christmas hold the hope

THE WISE MEN...

The montage depicts the wise men journeying through the desert, following the star that shone above the manger in which Jesus lay, and bearing their gifts to the new born Messiah. It also shows the shepherds who saw the star while tending their flocks. The Goodrich Christmas special, "Christ is Born," recounts this most famous of the Christmas stories.

Credit Card Interest May Be Modified

Nova Scotia National Credit Card holders who feel that they are being unfairly charged interest on unpaid accounts because of the Postal Strike are being urged to ask their Banks to make appropriate adjustments.

The Minister in charge of the Consumer Services Act, Hon. Maynard MacAskill, said today that although all major Oil Companies had informed him that interest will not be charged on Credit Card and domestic oil accounts for the duration of the strike, the situation regarding Chagex and Mastercharge is not as clear cut.

In a Telegram Nov. 28th, the Minister had asked all major credit card companies to clarify their policies regarding payment of accounts, billing and interest charges during the Postal Strike. Lack of a clear policy statement had caused confusion among consumers, the Minister said, and some, especially those in smaller population centres where inadequate facilities for payment exist, could suffer.

Two Chagex participating Banks have replied to his telegram as of this afternoon, the Minister said. The Royal Bank will reverse interest charges applied on accounts which normally are paid in full within 25 days of billing if the cardholder applies to the Bank. The Bank of Commerce will make an appropriate interest adjustment if delivery of statements is delayed due to Postal disruptions, thus leaving insufficient time for payment before the due date.

No reply has been received from The Bank of Montreal regarding Mastercharge, the Minister said.

Board Supports Airlines Application

The Digby Board of Trade on Tuesday evening went on record in support of a letter written by the Council of the Town of Digby to the Atlantic Transport Commission and the Canadian Transport Commission advising of their endorsement of the application of Eastern Provincial Airways to provide air service to the Digby and Yarmouth area.

The letter stated that due to lack of air transportation the local economy has suffered. Digby is proud of its landing facilities to facilitate commercial airlines travel, providing a one-day stopover and the letter expressed appreciation and urgency for their acceptance of the application. By regular motion the Board gave support to the principle of wage and price controls and a letter will be sent to the minister in charge to that effect. The entire Board was not convinced that wage and price control was good but they felt it was the best under present circumstances. They advised cutting down on government spending such as unnecessary and useless LIP grants and highly furnished offices, to name a few.

The subject of the outcome of the Digby Ratepayers Meeting on the sewer proposal came in for discussion. The meeting asked approval for the Town of Digby to borrow up to $1,800,000 for the purpose of completing phase three of the sewer project started in the early 1970's. Mayor

Charles Haliburton said he had the impression that ratepayers were too much at loose ends in their information to make a decision at the meeting. Nothing definite had been decided on the method of collecting monies for capital and operating expenses for the proposal and the question which arose on the Montague Row users entering the new sewer was not classified. He felt that the Council should again go back to the government either on terms of the treatment plant or a lesser cost of collection sewerage.

The Board agreed that taxpayers must be knowledgeable of what it is all about and that the Town Council should be together on the proposal if it is to be put before the ratepayers.

Patrick Comeau, a former mayor of Digby, immediately preceding Charles Haliburton, told the Digby Board of Trade of the study he had made of the sewer situation in 1974 and for which he had documents at home. His 10 year phasing program had been adopted by Digby Town Council and had been looked on favorably by government officials. It was suggested that Mr. Comeau might be invited to go along to Halifax with the Town delegation.

The next Board of Trade meeting will be on Thursday, January 20, in the form of a dinner meeting with Board Members and their wives attending. The election of officers will take place.

F. C. Purdy, left, presents to Reverend Isaac Butler and Mrs. Butler, a gift of money and a citation on behalf the Wardens, Vestry and Congregation of Trinity Parish, Digby. Reverend Mr. Butler retires as Rector of Trinity Anglican Church and also from the ministry at the end of the year.

Rev. And Mrs. Isaac Butler Honored On Retirement

At the close of the present year, Rev. Isaac Butler retires as Rector of Trinity Anglican Church, Digby, and also closes a long career of Rectorship in the Anglican Church of Canada. This retirement was recognized on Thursday evening at Trinity Parish Hall when the congregation gathered to show their appreciation by presentations of gifts and to extend best wishes for happy and long retired years.

Rev. Mr. Butler is prepared to provide service to the Digby Parish during the interim period while the Selection Committee, in consultation with the Bishop, is looking into securing a new Rector.

C. F. Purdy on behalf of the Wardens, Vestry and Congregation of Trinity Parish, Digby, presented Reverend and Mrs. Butler with a purse of money and a citation. Mr. Purdy was high in the praise of the spiritual leadership afforded the congregation by Mr. Butler and for the comfort and counsel given to those in grief and distress.

Mr. Purdy also recognized Mr. Butler's involvement in community affairs, such as New Horizons and visiting at the Digby General Hospital, Tideview, Senior Citizens Apartments at the Children's Training Centre.

The faithful service of Mrs. Butler as organist of the church for five years was recognized as well as her work with the Trinity Guild, her gracious welcome to the Rectory as hostess and her involvement in the community, too. Mr. Purdy said it would be difficult to really access the impact of Rectory Life upon the lives of the parishioners.

Expressions of thankfulness were heard in the fact that the Butlers are making their permanent home in Digby County at Marshalltown.

Other presentations were made to Mrs. Butler by Miss Paula Ryan, youngest member of Trinity Church Choir, on behalf of the choir; by Ernest Ryan to Rev. Mr. Butler, on behalf of the Church and to Mrs. Butler, by Mrs. Raymond Lent on behalf of the Trinity Guild.

The retirement social function was presided over by Ernest Ryan. Miss Edith Shreve and Miss Elsie Robertson presided at the tea tables.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Butler responded to the presentations and expressed their pleasure in serving the Parish for the past five years and remarked on the difficulty in making a decision to retire both from Trinity and the ministry. Both Mr. and Mrs. Butler reminisced on their lives and their experiences in the ministry for 42 years and two months. Mr. Butler recalled two near drowning accidents but he took it all in due course.

Both Reverend and Mrs. Butler were born in Newfoundland, Mrs. Butler being the former Julia (June) Earle, Fogo, Newfoundland. They were married in Fogo in 1940.

Mr. Butler was born at Kelligrews and educated at the High School there. He continued studies at Bishop Field College, St. Johns; Queens College, Newfoundland and St. Durham University, England. He was ordained in 1933 at the Cathedral, St. Johns.

In 1965, the Reverend Isaac Butler and Mrs. Butler came to Nova Scotia where they occupied the rectory at Mulgrave for some years. Other parishes in Nova Scotia in which they labored were Bible Hill and Digby.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler have two sons, Bernard in Montreal and Jeffrey, speech therapist in Digby. There are two daughters, Mrs. Margaret MacKenzie, Ottawa, and Mrs. Barbara Digdon, Mulgrave. There are five grandchildren, Stephen Butler, 8, and Erica, 4; Eleanor MacKenzie, 5, and Andrew, 2, and William, one year.

Tourist Council Uses Maps For Planning Development

Two representatives of the department of tourism were on hand for the meeting of the Annapolis Basin Tourist and Recreation Council on Wednesday evening. The guests were Rick Young, coordinator of planning and development for the Department of Tourism and Paul Crawford, tourism development officer.

The meeting was held at the Fundy Restaurant under the chairmanship of Dave Irvine. Pat Comeau acted as secretary.

Some time was spent on a number of maps being drawn up by the department for the council's use. Council members are providing information on facilities in the area.

The idea behind the maps is to give the council some basis from which to plan for the future. When needs are determined, means will be sought to fill them.

The council looks forward to having more activities in the area for the future. The likely result would be more tourists thus creating a need for more facilities such as rooms and eating facilities. Please Turn To Page 2

Protection Given, Now Foot The Bills

The protection against bomb scares which interrupted the smooth running of the Digby Regional High School for some months is costing the taxpayers $663 per week. To date that has amounted to approximately $3,300 plus a few hundred dollars for registered mailing of circulars advising parents of the D. R. H. S. Board's decision and seeking their wishes regarding their own children.

The D. R. H. S. Board, in order to have their decisions verified called a meeting of parents and interested adults at the multi-purpose room at D. R. H. S. It was remarked at a meeting of the D. R. H. S. Board on Monday evening that the room was filled with parents and adults who gave overwhelming sanction by vote to the Board's decision to engage Commissioners for daytime and the school be under surveillance at night. It was reported on Monday evening that no calls have come in since the policy was established.

Recently the D. R. H. S. Board had sent out the cost figures to both the Town of Digby and the Municipality of the District of Digby as they related to the "bomb scare" protection. School Board member, Town Councillor Reginald Hazelton, raised the question of where the money would come from to pay these bills when they were not included in the financial budgets. No one was aware either whether or not the expense was cost sharing with the Department of Education but a decision to seek cost sharing was made.

Lively and heated discussion ensued between Councillor Hazelton who found it difficult, he said, to place the expense before Council and Mrs. Vivian O'Neil, Board member, who was one of the most interested and hard-working members who spear-headed the action which led to the Board's decision. Mrs. O'Neil felt that at that time parents wanted the protection of their children and appreciated the fact that their education would be uninterrupted so she could not see Mr. Hazelton's line of reasoning regarding the payment of costs. Since the whole argument arose from the lack of a budgeted expense, a supplementary budget was considered.

CHILDREN LEARN WHAT THEY LIVE

Hanging on a wall in a room at the Digby Mental Health Clinic is a plaque on poster entitled "Children Learn What They Live." The first time we had read that wall hanging, we felt that here was something which should hang in every school room where there is a teacher, in every medical consulting office, in every sports arena where there are coaches and referees and, yes, in every politician's office. Children might profit some by reading the hanging but the grown-ups are the people who can contribute most to the world by heeding the advice, whether they be parent, teacher, group leader, counsellor, sports director or political leader.

The advice in part says that if a child lives with approval, he learns to like himself; if he lives with tolerance he learns to be patient; if he lives with praise he learns to appreciate. All these and the other bits of advice, too, are words of wisdom, especially in the home where the lives of children are so much influenced by parents.

Another of the gems of caution on the wall-hanging is "if a child lives with hostility it learns to fight". This is the one which seems to give us most concern today. Or, does it? Maybe if it did, then we would turn off our T. V. sets more often. Today many children live T. V. The way of life on T. V. becomes the accepted way of life for the child. Hostility, violence and crime become the normal course of events with the steady T. V. viewer. It takes a lot of parental example and sports leadership to counteract the harm done from watching violent and crime filled programs.

Fortunately, Mental Health and people in several walks of life are seeing the detrimental effect these displays of hostility are having on children and they are trying to do something about it. There are sports leaders who are trying to get away from "winning the game at any cost" to a more desirable goal of fair play and the game played in a manner approved by good sportsmanship. The latter provides the physical and mental stimulation necessary without violence.

Whether at home, at school or at play, children learn what they live. It is really up to parents, teachers, leaders and even T. V. programmers to provide the proper environment.

Hodge Podge

- If you need a drink to be sociable, that is not social drinking.

- Money makes money, who wouldn't believe it. Interest through the years for the proposed sewer project borrowings in Digby would be approximately a million and a half dollars. So we've heard.

- Not with the idea of running down Annapolis County roads but simply to congratulate those responsible for clearing snow and ice in the Digby area, we've heard some comparisons being made already this year. None of our business? Ah, yes, we, too, travel on those roads.

Would you believe it. One store manager told us the other night that he never saw such sales for Christmas as there have been this year. We could have dismissed that on the fact that prices are up, so sales are up. However, we've got to believe it. We've seen the cars parked down town. This 1975 Christmas shopping spree has visited Halifax, too, we hear.

You sure have to hand it to all those dedicated people at the Children's Training Centre. Everytime you visit there the children have improved in behavior, awareness and communication. Noticed by the press this week that $7,028 a year or less for a family of four is below the poverty line. Wonder where the one person family draws the poverty line. For example, the old age pensioners. Where is that poverty line? A hike in salary for provincial deputy ministers of $2,400, might beat inflation for them with a $26,400 salary. How about beating inflation on a $1500 to $3000 pensioner's salary. And there we go. Those abused teachers in Toronto are on strike. Wonder if any teachers remember buying a car and operating it on a $500 to $700 a year salary. That must have been in days of recession and not inflation. Take your choice.

Try psychology. We noticed in the Chronicle Herald recently a picture where a striker was holding a placard "We Don't U.I.C. Welfare. We Want Work". Thess you dare not call mental retardation by erm. It is learning disability. We don't vny stigma attached. (How did it get to be ma unless our attitudes made it so? Our veistence on avoiding the words "mental retan" shows up our prejudice) You can ha intestinal disorder but not a mental dis. Thank goodness attitudes are beginni change. Take another case. You don't sabody is on welfare anymore. He is ng social assistance. "Welfare" has a sti according to us bigots. But, we might be a work this bigotry to the advantage of our gb country. Let's call this unemployment ince by the name of unemployment welfaree placard read. Wonder how many uneyment insurance recipients would hasten to work to get off the welfare bit. Of se, unemployment insurance is an excething and certainly should have no stigmached. We just want to use psychology to deh the free loaders. Gee, that's a good term.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor;

Once again the Christmas season has brought to the streets of our towns, an invasion of con artists who approach shoppers and citizens with cards asking for handouts. A number of young fellows, and I understand, at least one girl, "played" Digby business areas last week, presenting cards which read, "I am a deaf mute, in poor health, and would like a donation." One of these pan-handlers, a particularly healthy appearing youth, approached me in a store last Saturday. Although he indicated that he clearly understood what I was saying, he refused any identification, and when I mentioned calling the police he fled from the store and ran the full length of the street, pausing only long enough to warn another member of the gang, before disappearing on the beach.

The Star Weekly has quoted the Canadian Hearing Society as saying this is a racket and definitely illegal. It is never approved and not condoned by any organization of the deaf. Even if a person really is deaf he is not allowed to do this. What to do about it? The Weekly says, "Call the police."

According to the Deaf Canadian, the national magazine for the deaf, professiongars make over $500, pretending to be deaumb, and the interproschool for the Deaf in A has stated, "Deaf aions across Canada ben fighting this profor years. There is son for deaf persons t to beg, and the prag not condoned."

A newsletter by an official speech and hearing (some time ago) urged who comes in contact with deaf people who are deaf ending to be deaf, to them away empty hahe majority of peopleis province who are dnot approve of this resenation, they are iy connected with it most are determin to live productiv the letter stated.

Too oft bearers of these carv upon the pity of thehearted, and particularlylderly, who may feel of guilt if they refte "poor" youth- wht very well be laughins sleeve at the gullibers, as he walks awa his loot.

Mental Health Campaign In May

At the regular meeting of Mental Health - Digby presided over by Vernon Wessell, president, on Wednesday, plans were made to have the campaign for funds to be held in May of 1976. This month had been the usual Mental Health Campaign month and it coincides with Mental Health Week throughout the country. The campaign, it is expected, will get away with a good start by a bike-a-thon which has for sometime been scheduled for May 1976.

Rev. George Bell advised the meeting of the interest being taken in what they term "Operation Friendship" whereby elderly or lonely shut-in persons can be contacted regularly and keep in touch with the outside world. There are more than 500 in this area, he said, which need such attention.

Some people, he remarked, are attracted to crafts, some by social communication and some favor intellectual pursuits.

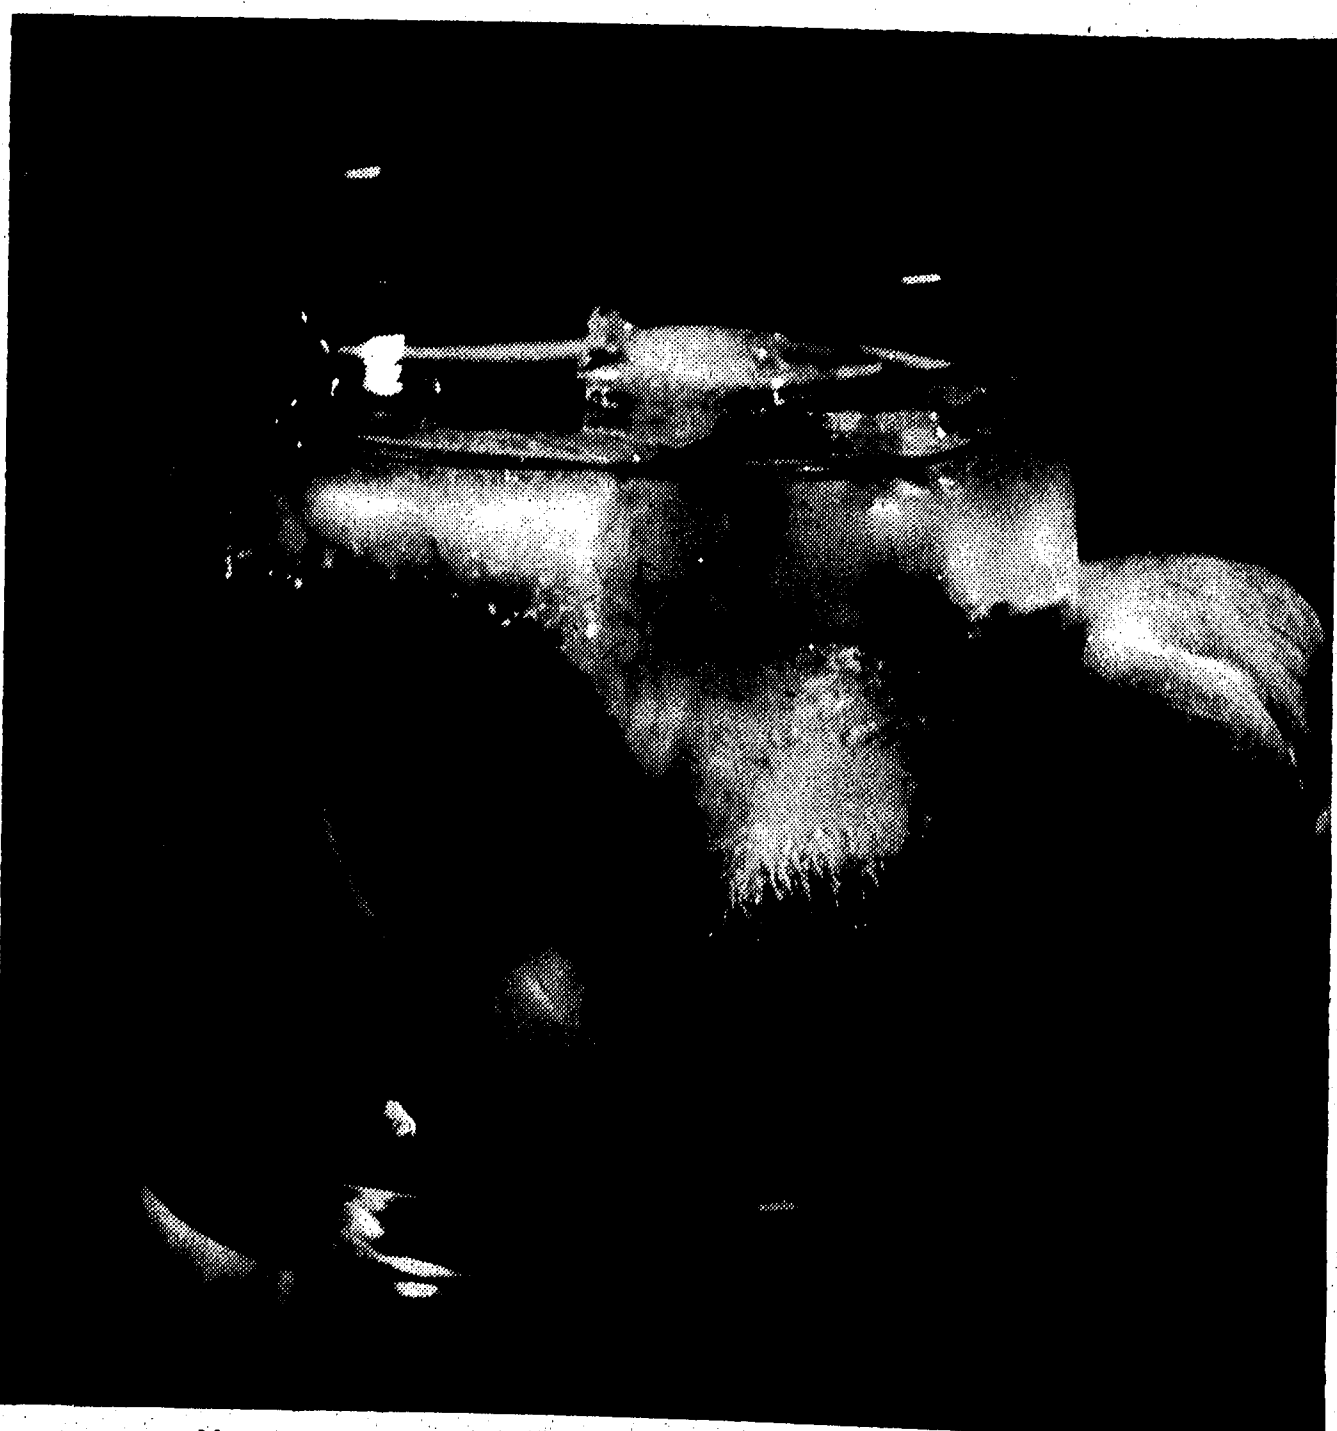

An interesting feature of the evening was the drawing of a ticket on an Afghan made and donated by Mrs. V.G. Cordoza. Proceeds $212. Mrs. Cordoza drew the ticket won by Victor Jeffrey.

THIBODEAU - TIBBETS

Why Do People Use Drugs?

Drugs have been part of the human scene since its beginnings. As early as 5,000 B. C. opium was used in Mesopotamia. The first known brewery operated in Egypt in 3,700 B. C. and there is evidence that people used alcohol as far back as the Stone Age.

Her are some of the reasons why people use drugs today:

Medical
Many drugs are used for medical reasons. The doctor prescribes drugs to combat infection or pain, to restore a healthy chemical balance, or to bolster faltering body processes. While mood-modifying drugs proved to be of immense value in psychiatric treatment, there is evidence, however, of increasing misuse of prescription drugs. Over-prescribing, "doctor-shopping" and lack of responsibility in production controls all contribute to this. In addition, self-prescription and consumption of over-the-counter packaged relief support a multimillion dollar industry.

NON-MEDICAL
If you think of the people you know who use drugs, you'll see that all the reasons aren't medical. Some people, who are curious and want new experiences, experiment with them.

Some people use drugs for pleasure. Often wine is used to increase the enjoyment of a good meal. Other people use them because they hope to enjoy the sensations of altered perception.

Coffee and alcohol are but two of the drugs used for social reasons. They help some people get together and enjoy themselves.

A lovely fall wedding was solemnized in a double ring ceremony at the Smith's Cove United Baptist Church by Rev. Wallace H. Jordan when Wanda Dale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Tibbets, Smith's Cove, became the bride of Larry James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Thibodeau, North Range. The church was decorated with candleabras and baskets of green mums and white daisies.

The bride, entering the church on the arm of her father, looked radiant in a floor length gown of sueding empire style with a three-quarter length veil falling from a headpiece of white orchids. She carried a bouquet of red roses, white carnations and baby breath.

Miss Gail Tibbets, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her empire style gown was pale green and white. She carried a bouquet of red roses, white daisies and green mums.

Miss Darlene Thompson, cousin of the bride, and Miss Marlene Hosking, friend of the bride, were bridesmaids, wearing pale green empire style gowns identical to the honor attendant's. They carried green mums and white daisies.

Best man was Leonard Chafe, North Range. Ushers were Roger Tibbets, brother of the bride, and Richard Thibodeau, brother of the groom.

The bride's mother chose a floor length coral gown trimmed with ecru lace. Her corsage was pink and white carnations. The groom's mother chose floor length pink gown trimmed with pale pink lace. Her corsage was yellow and white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the Defaga Lodge. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered antique cake, centered with moonbeam bride and groom, silver candle holders and trimmed with pink and white streamers. Miss Marlene Wear, cousin of the bride, served the bride's table.

Mrs. Shirley Thompson, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Shirley Clark, sister of the groom poured or the buffet lunch.

Master of ceremonies was Rev. Jordan who gave the bride's toast.

Miss Suzette Thompson, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

For her wedding trip to the Cabot Trail, Cape Breton and Fort Louisbourg, the bride chose a pale green print pinafore gown with white blouse accented with a corsage of red roses and white carnations.

The happy couple reside in North Range where the groom is employed as a mason in the Digby area. Mrs. Thibodeau is a graduate nurse on the staff of the Digby General Hospital.

Out of town guests were present from Annapolis, Middleton, Port Williams, Dartmouth-Halifax area, Oyster Pond and Jeddore.

C.G.I.T. Serves Cake

The C.G.I.T. Vesper Service for Christmas 1975 was somewhat different from previous years and Grace United Church C.G.I.T. under the direction of the leaders, Miss Jean McLellan and Miss Sylvia Johnson followed the program offered under the National C.G.I.T. Committee. Mrs. Bryndon Denton, a former C.G.I.T. leader prepared and donated a decorated birthday cake in keeping with the program theme "Come Celebrate the Birthday of the King". At the close of the service the C.G.I.T. served the cake to the congregation who had retired to the church hall where fruit punch had been donated by Mrs. Ina Dillon.

The opening scene saw the C.G.I.T. girls preparing for the Birthday of the King by a demonstration of cake making. Readings, songs and symbols of the Christmas theme were prominent throughout the Vespers.

The leaders role was taken by Miss Joy Fleet and the readers were Miss Kathy Troupe and Miss Janet Wilson. The parts of Mary and Joseph were portrayed by Petrena Karen and Andrew Chodakowski.

Miss Joanne Wilson had charge of the cake with its lighted candles throughout the service and Miss Margaret Reid and Miss Maureen Troupe received the offering. The offertory hymn was a special rendition of "All That I Am" by the C.G.I.T. girls. The senior choir of Grace United assisted with the hymns and several special numbers.

Rev. Ronald Stevens pronounced the benediction. White Gift Sunday was observed at Grace United on Sunday morning when a special offering was taken to be applied to mission field work. Receiving the offering were Mitchell Brooks, Peter Hoare, Mark Hoare and Peter Handsaker.

Special numbers were sung by the senior choir under the direction of the organist, Mrs. Elton Arnold. Mrs. Donald Fleet and the C.G.I.T. girls decorated the church for both services in the festive theme.

Miracle Of The Bells

Quiet, reverent was the evening, in the chapel on the hill, Where the bells had long been silent, no Christmas Carols, all was still. All the people softly praying for a Miracle sent from Heaven, It was said that this would happen, when a Perfect Gift was given. Many gifts lay on the altar, shining tinsel all around, but still the bells were hushed and silent, their joyous notes made not a sound. Then...a child came to the altar, with his gift, quite plain indeed, He was late, for on his journey, he had helped a friend, in need. Suddenly...earth was filled with Music, Sacred music rose and fell, 'Twas this tender gift of loving, returned the music of the bells. So...if this legend has a message, and it's story you recall, remember, giving, loving, helping others, are the finest Gifts of all.

The Digby Municipal School Board held its monthly session at the Islands' Consolidated School in Freeport last week.

Municipal Warden Wilfred Swift was nominated as a possible member of the Regional Vocational School in Middleton. That position has not yet been confirmed.

The board received an invitation to attend a meeting in Bridgetown on December 22. At that time

(Note, it was later learned that the date was changed to January 12, 1975)

Mrs. Clarence Height (Doris) was pleasantly surprised Thursday evening when she opened the door to the singing of Happy Birthday by her bowling team, "The Alley Cats, consisting of Ellen O'Neil, Anne Germaine, Alice Cook and Millie VanTassel, who came to help her celebrate her birthday. They had an enjoyable evening playing cards after which a nice lunch was served.

SEASONS GREETINGS

One of our most recent customs, the exchanging of Christmas cards, began in England in the 1840's. Christmas cards were first introduced in the United States by Louis Prang, a German immigrant who settled in Roxbury, Massachusetts. He was often called the "Father of the American Christmas card," and printed his first "Seasons Greetings" in 1873.

7 WAYS TO SAVE on new phone rates in Nova Scotia.

1 Dial long distance direct

... it's still the cheapest way to go! While long distance rates have gone up (see typical new rates below), it's still true that the "station-to-station" calls you dial yourself are much less than the cost of other calls. Collect calls, credit card calls, calls you bill to a third number cost 35 cents extra; person-to-person calls are three to four times the cost of DDD calls.

2 Plan your conversation

... not only how long you talk but when you talk, as well! All long distance calls in Nova Scotia are based on a low, one-minute rate — whether they're person-to-person or station-to-station. (See table, below). But if you plan your conversation for after 6 p.m. weekdays, or all day Sunday, you save 30 per cent on the one-minute rate. And if you call after 10 p.m. any evening, you save 50 per cent on the per-minute rate. (remember, though, there's a minimum 25 cents charge on all long distance calls.)

3 Look in the book.

For numbers in communities shown in your directory, always check your directory first. It's a good habit to get into now, because starting February 1st there will be a charge when you dial Directory Assistance for these numbers if they're already listed in your directory. The charge will be 25 cents for each call over three per month.

For out-of-town calls, your phone book lists many outlying communities, so check there first. For numbers in Nova Scotia or P.E.I. communities not in your book, dial "1-555-1212", for other communities in Canada and the U.S., include the area code — 1-(Area Code)-555-1212. Then dial - and - save the DDD way.

4 Avoid changes

... and you can save a lot. Here's what to do. If you're moving to another home or apartment, you can simply accept the phones that are already installed. That way, under the new rates the service connection charge is only $10. If you wish to make changes, (other than those shown under Item 5), the new rate for this is $15 as our installer must visit the premises. Whichever you choose, try to be sure the phones you get are the ones you want, where you want them. Subsequent changes may cost you $10-$15 each time.

For details of charges and costs for moves and changes in business phones, talk to the Communications Consultant at your nearest MT&T Business Office.

5 Take advantage of free installation.

There is no extra installation charge when you add new services to your home such as extension phones, or special-design phones such as Contempra, Decorator, etc. And when you move to another home or apartment, there is no additional charge beyond basic installation costs no matter how complex the job — so it's a good idea to order complete service at the outset, and avoid extra charges later.

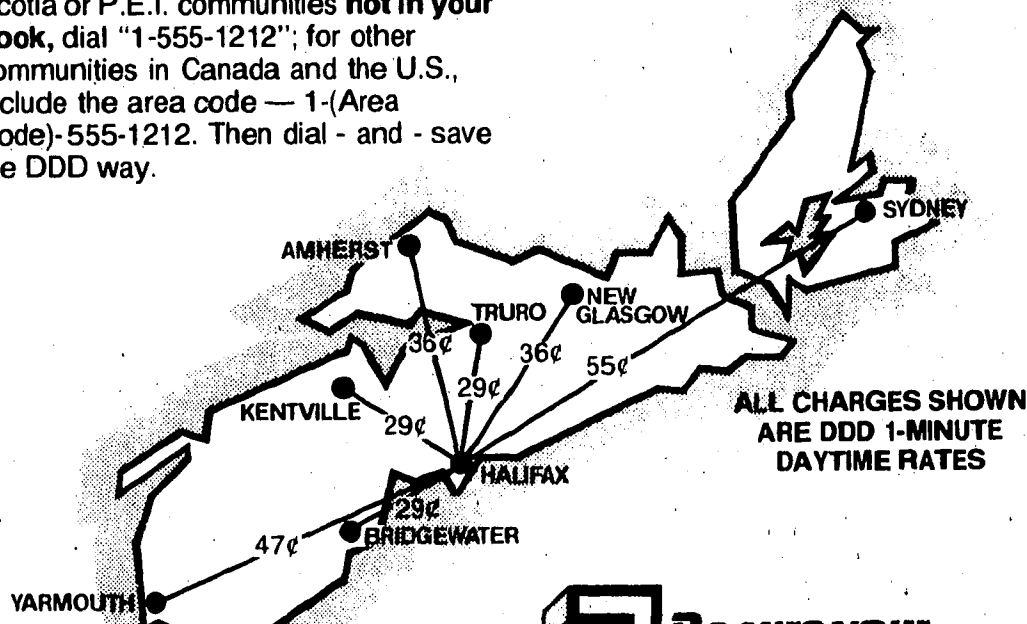

For details of charges and costs for business installations talk to your Communications Consultant at your nearest MT&T Business Office.

6 Watch the due date on your bill

... and you could save money this way, too. MT&T sends your bill "in arrears", for service already received. Thus payment is due as shown on your bill. And if you make it a habit to pay within the time shown, you'll avoid having service temporarily suspended. When this happens, the re-connection charge under new telephone rates for re-establishing service is $10.

7 Be sure your number is in the book.

Surprisingly, there are many thousands of telephone customers who choose not to have their numbers listed in the directory. One result is serious inconvenience when friends and associates cannot reach them. As well, a great amount of time is required by MT&T staff — operators, directory assistance and others — in explaining to frustrated callers that the number is not listed. Finally, the cost to you is not insignificant — $1.25 extra each month, if yours is an unlisted number. We urge you to consider listing it — saving yourself both inconvenience, and money!

By comparing distances on this map, you can estimate long distance charges to and from your own community.

NEW MONTHLY RATES

Depending on where you reside and the type of service you have, your basic monthly bill (exclusive of mileage charges, where applicable) for your home phone — starting December 1st — will increase. Some home bills will go up 25 cents, 50 cents, or $1.25 depending on the type of service and the size of the exchange — but for private line and two-party service the increase in all communities is $1.50.

Basic business line increases in monthly rates range between $2.25 and $5 monthly, again depending on the size of the area served by your exchange. For more details, consult the Communications Consultant in the Business Office nearest you.

Because of space restrictions, this table of rates applies to calls from and to the Halifax-Dartmouth area only.

Christmas Message From Little Men

by Barkat M. Khokhar

What an imaginative lad he was! Instead of five loaves and two fish he carried four different translations of the Bible. He sat next to me at Halifax Forum where a crowd of 3000 had assembled to hear the Gospel message from David Wilkerson, the author of "The Cross and the Switchblade".

"Why are you carrying these four different translations?" I inquired. "Different translations help me to approach different people according to their spiritual needs and level of understanding. In Halifax, there are many ignorant, half-educated and uneducated people. I use the translation which a person can easily understand," was the precise reply of young evangelist. In downtown Halifax is Mary's Basilica. During lunch interval many people drop in at this beautiful house of prayer to revitalize their gloomy spirits. Among the humble visitors is a man who works as a cleaner in Halifax Infirmary. "Come, my heart, cheer up," is the message I heard from his radiant face. No pride. No pomp and no position or wealth. simple! So joyful!

Luke writes that the Apostles were "Uneducated and common men." So are my little men.

Reginald Comeau Elected Fire Chief

A special meeting of the Digby Neck Volunteer Fire department was held on December 14, 1976 for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year, and other business.

The report was received from the nominating committee regarding their recommendations for officers for the following year. Nominating committee was Percy Harris, Chairman with members Emerson Carty, Steve Morehouse, Eugene Shaw, and Austin Denton. The following officers were proposed: Fire Chief, Reg. Comeau.

Assistant Chiefs- Austin Denton and David Taylor. Captains - Donald Addington, Garfield Trask, Sr., Cleveland Theriault and Alvin Titus. Lieutenants- Rodney O'Neil, Wilfred Titus, Percy Harris and Dieter Oswald. Secretary-Treasurer- John Jago. Drivers- Garfield Trask, Jr. David Russell, Lewis Frost, Lawrence O'Neil, and Emerson Carty. No nominations were made from the floor and the above officers were elected unanimously and took office immediately.

Meeting was chaired by the Fire Chief, Reg. Comeau. The Chief introduced Councillor Richard Daley, who was present to explain, to the men, the current status of their building, grants issued, and property acquired. Many questions were asked and discussed.

The men appreciated the clear, concise answers given to them by Councillor Daley. It was voted that the Department go on record as supporting the Digby Neck Fire Commission in their efforts to build a firehall-recreation center.

Mr. John Gray, of the Digby Ambulance Service, attended the meeting and presented the firemen with a resuscitator for use in their work. This presentation was received with thanks and applause.

A report was given regarding a $1000 check that had been presented to the Chief, Reg. Comeau, by Mrs. Carol Addington, President of the Ladies Auxiliary. This check represented monies that had been raised by activities of the Auxiliary and was their expression of support for the fire department. The check was accepted with thanks, will be deposited and used for the needs of the department.

It was stressed that applications are available, for membership in the department, and volunteers are needed. Regular meetings are held the 2nd Friday of each month at the Sandy Cove Community Hall, 8 p.m. Bingo parties are held each Saturday in the same location. All are invited to attend and assist in raising money for the Digby Neck Volunteer Fire Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Sabean and family, Doucetteville, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sabean, Sunday.

Around the base of the tree the many exchange gifts from Secret Pals and for Rev. and Mrs. Wallace H. Jordan and family added their part to the colorful scheme. The fire place was supplied with an abundance of burning wood which cast their myriad lights and shadows round and about the living room.

At 5:30 all sat down to a pot luck supper which was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Rev. Wallace H. Jordan asked the Blessing. The tables were beautiful and each one centered with a Christmas candle or decoration. Following the supper, each one journeyed back to the living room and received a gift from the tree which was opened up to learn the identity of their Secret Pals and to see what was inside. So ended a happy evening and all left wishing each and every one a Very Merry Christmas.

U.C.W. Observe Christmas Season

Unit one of the Grace United Church Women enjoyed a pleasant evening on Tuesday December 9th. The meeting was held in the Church Hall.

A business session was chaired by Mrs. Marjorie Denton, president, who welcomed several guests.

Mrs. Audrey Milbury convened the period of worship which opened with the singing of O Little Town of Bethlehem. The hymn was followed by prayer. The Christmas story as found in St. Matthew, chapters one and two was read by Mrs. Mary Ellis. Mrs. Milbury in her devotion stressed the spirit of Christmas. Mrs. Marjorie Geauverau presented an appropriate poem after which Mrs. Maurine Arnold read a Christmas story, entitled The Christmas Poinsettia. The worship service closed with the singing of the carol While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks By Night.

A Christmas party was planned and carried out by Mrs. Helen Fleet. Games were gaily entered into by all present. Several prizes which were awarded brought forth much hilarity.

Santa had previously left gifts for each member and guest. He had made the deliveries in person not wishing to trust such an important mission to uncertain mailing conditions.

A special Christmas Collation was served as all present were seated around the festive board. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Pearl Handspiker, Mrs. Helen Fleet, and Mrs. Mary Ellis.

As the guests departed after such a happy occasion, the opinion was voiced unanimously that the evening had been well spent.

needed for assessment purposes.

The act is now to come into force on January 1, 1976.

"The changes do not alter one of the basic concepts of the original bill," Mr. Mooney said. "Which is to provide a provincially-administered service operating uniformly in all municipal units."

"The process of consultation has been enlightening and beneficial to both sides, and will continue," Mayor Duggan added.

Mrs. Louis Blinn who returned home from the Digby General Hospital a few weeks ago, is again a patient there.

Grant and Karen Potter were weekend visitors at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Potter.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Potter attended the Evangeline Trail Antique Dealer's Association dinner at the Colonial Kitchen on Monday.

After dinner the members met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Deming at Belleisle. Mr. and Mrs. William Blinn, of Head of St. Margarets Bay visited Mr. Blinn's mother Mrs. Eva Blinn and family during the weekend, before leaving for Newfoundland where they will spend Christmas with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Blinn and family.

DAY, DECEMBER 25, 1975

Humble shepherds left their flocks in the fields that holy night, and sought the Babe whose birth angels had proclaimed unto them. They beheld him lying in a manger in the City of David, wrapped in swaddling clothes.

And from the East, following the brilliant Star, Wise Men came to adore, and to offer precious gifts to the newborn King.

Today, nations and peoples share in that first Christmas, in its boundless hope and its promise of peace, with joyous celebrations. May you and your loved ones keep the spirit of this holy season always in your hearts, perpetuating its strength and comfort.

Adopts Indonesian Child

A special commitment has been made by members of the community where St. Cleophas Mission Church of DIGBY COUNTY, Nova Scotia has joined Foster Parents Plan of Canada. They have adopted little Sri Rahayu aged eleven years of YOGYAKARTA, Indonesia. A monthly contribution of $17.00 brings material and financial assistance to both child and family and is aimed at strengthening the family unit by helping each member.

$17.00 a month provides the family with a monthly cash grant, distribution of goods such as vitamins, blankets, towels, soap and other useful items, medical and dental care, the sustained guidance and counselling of social workers and the benefit of special programs. A strong emphasis is placed on education. All Foster Children (and their brothers and sisters, if possible) must attend school. Vocational training courses are available to Foster Children, their brothers and sisters and in some cases, their parents. The aim is to give the family the tools to help them become independent and self-supporting. Special programs adapted to the needs of each country also meet these aims.

Foster Parents and Foster Children correspond monthly (letters are translated by PLAN) and often develop warm and affectionate relationships which mean as much to the child as the material and financial aid.

Foster Parents Plan is currently working in ten countries in South America and Asia. Over 50,000 children are currently being aided by individuals, groups and families in Canada, the U.S.A. and Australia. For more information on this non-profit, non-sectarian, non-political independent organization, write Foster Parents Plan of Canada, 153 St. Clair Avenue West, Toronto, Ontario M4V 1P8.

Christmas Message

Christmas is a special time of year. For family and friends, it is an occasion of touching reunions, for children, a fantasy land come true. It is a reverent time, a time for universal brotherhood, kindness and goodwill. Love and peace become happy realities as mankind celebrates the birth of the Christchild. For most Nova Scotians, it is a time of warmth, and security in the comfortable presence of loved ones. Yet, there are some among us who are less fortunate. Therefore, I ask that all Nova Scotians capable of sharing look to the real meaning of Christmas and give of themselves. Regardless of the value or the form of the gift, it will be priceless.

Despite recent, troubled economic times, as Canadians we have been very fortunate. What better time to give thanks and reflect upon our good fortune than during the humanitarian glow of the Christmas Festival.

It is with great pleasure that I extend to all Nova Scotians my warmest personal greetings and best wishes for a happy Holiday Season.

Sincerely,
Gerald A. Regan
Premier of Nova Scotia

Christmas Blessings

A Christmas Message From The Lieutenant Governor

GOVERNMENT HOUSE
HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA
83J122

I would like to extend to all Nova Scotians my warmest wishes, and those of my wife, for a very happy Christmas.

Along with our happiness, however, this is, for most of us, a Christmas of concern. We are in the midst of one of the most difficult times in our history. Our standard of living is high, yet we are having difficulty in maintaining it. We have much unemployment, yet in some areas, we are unable to find a sufficient supply of workers. We have the capacity to produce an unlimited amount of food, yet some people are going hungry. Our governments, our business leaders, our labour unions, and in fact, all of us, are searching for a new direction.

However, despite our problems, we are still better off than people in most parts of the world. This past year, I attended two citizenship courts where immigrants from at least twenty other countries were made new Canadians, and indeed, new Nova Scotians. The expression on their faces, and the sincerity in their voices as they took the Oath of Allegiance, left little doubt that they were proud and happy to have come to live with us.

I sometimes wonder, however, if we extend to these people the warmth of true Nova Scotian hospitality. Are we sufficiently understanding of their language problems and of their desire to retain some of the customs of their native land.

Could we not at this Christmas time, pause and reflect and perhaps realize that our association with those who speak a different language, who have different characteristics and complexions, and who have a different way of life, may make a broader and more informed people out of all of us, and in the end, make us the richer for it.

Christmas is universally regarded as a time of giving and forgiving. Should we not, therefore, give thanks for all the good things God has given us and resolve to find in our hearts the charity to give more of ourselves to others, to reconcile our individual and collective differences, and to live day by day in peace and harmony.

To all of you in Nova Scotia, and indeed, to all people everywhere, may this be a truly joyous Christmas and a re-dedication to the "Golden Rule."

Clarence L. Gosse, M.D.
Lieutenant Governor

The Nativity Scene

One of the most revered Christmas customs is the reenactment of Christ's birth with a Nativity Scene. This custom was popularized in the 13th century by St. Francis of Assisi. At a time when few books were available, and most people couldn't read anyway, St. Francis dramatized the Nativity in 1224, to help the people of Greccio, Italy, understand the meaning of Christmas. Villagers took the parts of Mary, Joseph, and shepherds. Live animals were used, and a life-sized wax figure of the Christ Child was placed in the manger.

It was St. Francis who led the villagers in joyous dancing around the Nativity Scene.

Santa Helper

Santa needs another helper - not another street corner bell ringer, but "a man with a broom".

Santa's presents, as everyone knows who has seen the aftermath around the family Christmas tree, carry with them their share of litter.

It is estimated that the average Christmas package is about 20 percent wrappings, ribbons and ornaments - all potential litter.

The best way to help Santa with the Christmas litter problem is to follow three simple rules:

Pack and store reusable gift wrappings in a safe, out-of-the-way place.

Take down your Christmas tree when the needles start falling and dispose of it where it won't cause litter or be a fire hazard.

A final warning: "Don't let Christmas become New Year's litter."

Miss Heather Hoare, a Digby Regional High School student, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hoare, Digby, delighted the audience on Wednesday evening when she starred with a vocal number using the theme song of the Stage Band, Frosty the Snowman. She was accompanied by the Band of which she was a member. Miss Hoare is also a capable instrumentalist with the Digby Regional High School Concert Band. The D.R.H.S. Concert on Thursday evening at the Multi-Purpose room at the D.R.H.S. in the vocal selection Frosty the Snow Man accompanied by the Stage Band. Three bands, D.R.H.S.; Digby Community Concert Band and the Digby Stage Band; also a student - teacher choral group participated.

The concert under the direction of Don Scott, member of the D.R.R.S. Staff was composed of five parts. The High School Concert Band opened the concert. Highlights were their performances of Drummer Boy and a Fantasy on the Twelve Days of Christmas.

"Penny" Donates Library Cart

Marion P. Gott is shown here with the Barkhouse family. On Friday she donated the library cart in foreground to Tideview Terrace in memory of Susan Lyn Barkhouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Barkhouse. (centre and sister to Cynthia and Natalie, 1st and 2nd from left).

Tideview Terrace has a new library cart, compliments of Marion (Penny) Gott of Smiths Cove.

Mrs. Gott donated the cart in memory of Susan Lyn Barkhouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Barkhouse of Windsor, formerly of Digby.

The cart, it is hoped, will enable better service to Tideview by the Western Counties Regional Library. This is one of ways in which the home's management is trying to allow Tideview residents to remain a part of the community at large.

Books made available to the residents are in large print, making reading easier and more enjoyable for the senior citizens.

On hand for the official presentation were Marion P. Gott, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Barkhouse, Cynthia and Natalie Barkhouse (sisters to Susan Lyn), Tideview administrator Russell Stonehouse, Mrs. Eleanor Rice, (Supervisor of nursing) and Olive Hazelton, librarian.

Barton Potter Visits Ottawa Show

The Ottawa Christmas Crafts Show did not have much Maritimes work on display. The trip however proved worthwhile for Hank Lewis and Paul Moeller of Lewis Pottery in Barton.

Mr. Lewis said he found the show successful both in terms of sales and acceptance of his patterns.

The show, held recently in the Ottawa Civic Centre in Landsdown Park, was described by Mr. Lewis as being the largest in Ontario. About 230 craftsmen participated, most from Ontario and Quebec.

The five day show opened on Sunday, Nov. 9th and ended on Thursday. It ran from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Some of the crafts included jewellery, weaving, leather goods, wood-work, blown glass, marble works, etc. Mr. Lewis said the trip was a great opportunity to meet with other craftsmen from different parts of Canada and to exchange ideas. He also met a number of former Nova Scotians there.

The trip paid off in another way. While there the local participants were invited to be contributing editors for Nova Scotia to Crafts Canada, a national crafts publication.

They brought back several copies which they have available in their Barton shop. Subscription forms can also be obtained there. Mr. Lewis feels the publication is probably the best in this country on what professional craftsmen are doing across the nation.

Another interesting event during the Ontario visit was an interview on CBC radio which was shown on a news broadcast.

Summing up his feelings on the event, Mr. Lewis termed it a "great show, the first of its kind for Ottawa."

For the future, the show's organizers have hopes of making it bigger and better each year. Mr. Lewis feels it will be one of the best shows in Canada.

Participation in the Ottawa show is by invitation. Samples or photographs of sample works must be submitted to a standards committee in advance of the show.

While in Ottawa the local craftsmen also got invited to other shows in Ontario.

Former Digby School Inspector Retires

Chester B. LeGrow, Inspector of Schools for Queens, Shelburne and Yarmouth will retire at the end of December after 39 years service in Canadian education which has included 28 years with the Nova Scotia Department of Education.

A native of Broad Cove, Newfoundland, Mr. LeGrow received his early education there and attended Prince of Wales College and Memorial University in St. John's before proceeding to Dalhousie University where he received a B.A. and Diploma in Education.

After graduation, Mr. LeGrow, now affectionately known as "the dean" by his fellow inspectors, returned to his native Newfoundland to launch his teaching career in Bay Roberts where he taught for two years before going on to Columbia University to earn his Masters degree in 1939.

He then returned to his adopted province of Nova Scotia to teach for 10 years in Riverport and Bridgewater in Lunenburg County and in Bear River, Annapolis County.

"It was during this time," said fellow inspector Clifford Edwards at a recent retirement dinner tendered by the School Inspectors Association to honour Mr. LeGrow, "that our colleague's philosophy of education and talents became known and his outstanding leadership qualities recognized." As a result Mr. LeGrow was invited in 1947 to join the Inspection Section of the Department of Education.

He began his career as inspector at large in the Counties of Queens, Shelburne, Yarmouth and Digby, working out of Yarmouth on the team of Clem Crowell, Director of Education for all of Western Nova Scotia and inspector of schools for the same area.

In 1952 Ches LeGrow became inspector of schools for Queens and Shelburne and with Mr. Crowell's retirement in 1960 the District of Yarmouth was added to his inspectorate.

"During his years of service to the province Mr. LeGrow contributed extensively to the development of Nova Scotia's school programs in general, and in particular to the cultural aspects," was the tribute paid by Hugh Noble, provincial director of inspection services, who presided at the retirement dinner held in Wedgeport at the conclusion of a provincial inspectors conference.

Mr. LeGrow was founding president of the Nova Scotia Federation of Music Festivals and later served as chairman of the education department's music committee which secured the establishment of the teacher training program in music currently offered at the Nova Scotia Teachers College. He also originated the formula for the television program "Festival Plus".

During the past nine years he has been chairman of the department's music curriculum committee during which a completely new music curriculum for the schools of the province has been established. Next year the program will extend up to grade 12.

Service as president of the Association of School Inspectors and three years on the teaching staff of the Nova Scotia Summer School for teachers have been among the many other contributions the respected "Dean of Inspectors" has made during his career.

Chester LeGrow and his wife Phyllis plan to continue Digby, working out of Yarmouth on the team of Clem Crowell, Director of Education for all of Western Nova Scotia and inspector of schools for the same area.

A VISIT FROM HEAVEN

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the land
Every creature was stirring, as Caesar had planned;
A census was taken in which every soul
In the Empire of Rome must be placed on the roll.
Up from Galilee, out of Nazareth came
A pair which was Joseph and Mary by name;
To their city of birth which is called Bethlehem
They came as descendants of King David's stem.
There the days were accomplished that she should give birth
To a son who would reign as King o'er the earth.
She brought forth her first-born, and with her own hands
She wrapped the sweet Child in soft swaddling bands;
In a manger so lowly this life did begin,
Since there was no room for them in the inn.

In the country the shepherds abode in the field,
Keeping watch o'er their flock as in silence they kneeled
In the shadows of night, with their rods and their staves,
Having just settled down in the warmth of the caves,
When out of the sky there shone a great light
That filled the men's hearts with a terrible fright.
They sprang from the ground with a leap and a dash
To see what was causing this unearthly flash.
'Twas the glory of God shining down on the ground
With a halo of radiance on the sheep all around.

When, what to their questioning eyes should draw near,
But the angel of God with a message: "Don't fear!"
For behold! I bring you good tidings of joy,
For all men and women, for each girl and boy;
For to you is born a Saviour this day,
In the city of David, as prophets did say."

Then suddenly with the bright angel appeared
A heavenly host, praising God as they cheered:
'To God in the highest may glory abound,
On earth peace, and good will to men all around."
Near at hand, far beyond, on the left, on the right,
The heavenly seraphs were poised in their flight.
Then as snowflakes before the fierce storm winds do fly,
Passing o'er the wide fields, soar up to the sky,
So up into heaven the angels they flew
Having given their message so wondrously new.
Then the shepherds declared with faces aglow:
'To the village of Bethlehem quickly let's go,
And see this great thing which has come to pass,
Which the Lord in this night has made known unto us."

There they found Joseph and Mary so mild,
And in the rough manger the dear little Child.
So when they had seen Him they made known abroad
The message as told by the angel of God.
The people they wondered at that which they heard
As told by the shepherds in angelic word;
But Mary, who knew all these things from the start,
Kept pondering this great event in her heart.
The shepherds returned giving glory and praise
To the God of their fathers, the Ancient of Days:
'To God in the highest may glory abound,
On earth peace, and good will to men all around."

HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

Home for Christmas. Few people have not experienced the exhilarating feeling of going home for Christmas. Such joyful anticipation. Such glorious home expectation. Even the most hard hearted melt at the very thought. Alas, all too often this joyous expectation turns to cruel disappointment when the haste and the excitement causes a relaxation of highway safety precautions.

It is late in December. The hazards of winter driving are here and the Nova Scotia Highway Safety Council warns all motorists to be doubly alert to increased accident situations. icy streets, particularly at intersections, reduce stopping distance. Slow down sooner and maintain that safe following distance. Don't ride the bumper of the vehicle ahead. Watch out for pedestrians. Be mindful of approaching bridges and overpasses. Their driving surfaces may be covered with frost while surrounding road surfaces are dry.

Remember - if you drive so as to prevent accidents in spite of the incorrect actions of others and adverse conditions, you will be practising Defensive Driving. That is what it's all about, says the Nova Scotia Highway Safety Council.

To assure that your anticipated "Home for Christmas" becomes a reality, practice defensive driving with the utmost caution this Christmas season. You are not the only person or family going Home for Christmas via Nova Scotia highways.

Hodge Podge

- Guess there is no age faultless. Ever see an older person driving a car and forgetting to signal to the driver behind him that he intends to stop. That's a bad failing, especially on slippery roads. We saw that on Sunday. Another failing of the elderly is to forget to look both ways before crossing a street. Another incident to contend with on Sunday's slippery roads. It is taken for granted that children have to be protected from mishaps, so there we have the youngest and oldest carefully protected in the recesses of our minds. Well, we have the young people who probably could make the safest age on the road. Our Sunday excursion found two successive roadside public telephone booths dismantled, however such vandalism is usually attributed to youth. Suppose somebody needed a phone in an emergency. Anyway the middle age is left. Maybe they can be the protectors of highway safety.

- That cup of "Holiday Cheer" can be as dangerous for a pedestrian as it is for a motorist, according to the Nova Scotia Highway Safety Council. Last year more than half the pedestrian fatalities examined had been drinking, and were "under the influence" by our legal standards. They were over .08. Drinking and driving or walking just don't mix.

- Keep your patience when driving whether in winter or summer. We especially emphasize it though at this busy and hazardous time of the year. The impatient driver who likes to stay within shouting distance of the car ahead often gets a rude shock. The Nova Scotia Highway Safety Council points out that following too closely was blamed for 2,334 crashes last year, an increase of 561 over the previous year. Allow

LETTER TO HON. JAMES RICHARDSON FROM THE MUNICIPALITY OF CLARE
Hon. James A. Richardson
Mr. Minister:

In the face of protests, which often reach near hostile proportions, from a group of persons against the installation of a French squadron at CFB Greenwood, a fear exists that you are being made aware of only one opinion. That is why the Municipality of the County of Clare in Digby County, Nova Scotia, asks that you pay close attention to our feelings on this matter.

The Municipality of Clare, likewise know as the Ville française de Nova Scotia, contains a population of close to 9,000 residents of which almost all are francophone. This Acadian population was established along the coastline of the Sainte Marie Bay after the deportation in 1755. Before that date, the Acadians lived peacefully in this territory, even in the area where your office is considering the establishment of a francophone military base. Living in relative prosperity along the shores of the south-west of Nova Scotia, the Acadians never dreamed of revenge and a return to their lands of the abundant Annapolis Valley.

In contrast, the panic which has seized certain elements of the anglophone population of the Annapolis Valley at the announcement of the possible establishment of a French squadron at Greenwood, seems to indicate that the population, which was established on former Acadian land, has completely barricaded itself against all French presence and influence, as if it was concerned with dangerous or evil action against it.

We deplore this attitude which opposes the reality of Canadian life today. We are profoundly aware that the survival of Canadian identity and unity depends on its bilingual character.

We accord our total support to the federal government's policies on bilingualism and biculturalism. All qualified means to assure the promotion of bilingualism and biculturalism across the country must receive the encouragement of all the Canadian people. Without it there would soon not be a Canada.

The establishment of a French squadron at Greenwood should have delighted the population of the province who should see in this their contribution to the strengthening and preservation of one Canada, distinct and strong. It is with this viewpoint that the Municipal Council of Clare welcomes the intentions of your office and grants you its support.

The Municipality of Clare has always maintained cordial ties with the other municipalities in the Annapolis Valley. This was almost always at the expense of sacrificing its language and culture to accommodate the English-speaking population. We were within our rights to expect a little gesture of accommodation and reception on the part of the population of the Annapolis Valley.

Wishing to make known our opinions on this matter, we take the liberty of making copies of this letter available to various people.

Please believe, Mr. Minister, that we are prepared to offer you our complete co-operation.

(Translated)

L'Honorable James A. Richardson
Ministre de la défense nationale
Chambre des Communes
Ottawa, Ontario
Monsieur le Ministre,

Devant les protestations parfois véhémentes d'un groupe de personnes contre l'installation d'une escadille française à la base militaire de Greenwood, il est à craindre qu'un seul son de cloche n'arrive à vos oreilles. Voilà pourquoi le Conseil Municipal de Clare dans le comté de Digby en Nouvelle-Ecosse vous prie de bien vouloir entendre l'expression de ses sentiments à cet effet.

La municipalité de Clare, appelée également la Ville française de la Nouvelle-Ecosse, regroupe une population de près de 9,000 habitants dont la presque totalité est francophone. Cette population acadienne s'est établie le long du littoral de la baie Sainte Marie après la déportation de 1755. Avant cette date, les acadiens vivaient paisiblement en ce territoire même où votre Ministère songe à établir une unité militaire francophone. Vivant dans une prospérité relative le long des côtes du sud-ouest de la Nouvelle-Ecosse, les Acadiens n'ont jamais rêvé d'une revanche et d'un retour à leurs terres de la plantureuse vallée d'Annapolis. Par contre, la panique qui a saisi certains éléments de la population anglophone de la vallée d'Annapolis, à l'annonce de la possibilité de l'établissement d'une escadille française à Greenwood, semble indiquer que cette population, une fois établie en terre acadienne, s'est à tout jamais barricadée contre toute présence et influence française comme s'il s'agissait d'une action dangereuse et néfaste.

Nous déplorons cette attitude qui s'oppose à la réalité de la vie canadienne d'aujourd'hui. Nous sommes profondément conscients que la survie même de l'identité et de l'unité canadienne dépend de son caractère bilingue. Nous accordons notre appui entier aux politiques du gouvernement fédéral en matière de bilinguisme et de biculturalisme. Toute mesure apte à assurer la promotion du bilinguisme et du biculturalisme à travers le pays devrait recevoir l'encouragement de la population canadienne toute entière, sans qu'il n'y ait bientôt plus de Canada.

L'établissement d'une escadille française à Greenwood devrait réjouir toute la population de la province qui y verrait leur contribution à l'édification et à la préservation d'un Canada, pays distinct et fort. C'est dans cette optique que le Conseil Municipal de Clare accueille les desseins de votre Ministère et vous accorde son entier appui.

La municipalité de Clare a toujours entretenu des liens cordiaux avec les municipalités de la vallée d'Annapolis. Ce fut presque toujours en sacrifiant sa langue et sa culture pour accommoder la population de langue anglaise. Nous étions en droit de nous attendre à un petit geste d'accommodation et d'accueil de la part de la population de la vallée d'Annapolis.

Voulant faire connaître nos opinions à ce sujet, nous nous permettons de faire parvenir une copie de cette lettre à diverses personnes.

Veillez croire monsieur le Ministre que nous sommes disposés à vous offrir notre entière collaboration,

Bien à vous,
Omer Blinn, C.A.

I think of your sayings and treasure your smile And feel your not lost but gone for awhile. Sadly missed: always remembered by Patsy. 20:11p

Three Die On Mackay Highway

An inquest has been ordered into a two-car collision earlier this month at the intersection of the Mackay Highway and the Marr Road which claimed three lives and sent eight others to hospital.

Rothsay, N. B., police chief Grant Lewis identified the dead as Mrs. Rosaline Veinot, about 45, of McNamara Trailer Park, Quispamsis; her son, James Allan Veinot, about 20, of the same address and Andrew Stewart Jamieson, Fairview.

Preliminary investigation indicated one of the cars was headed toward Saint John at the time of the accident while the other vehicle was pulling onto the Mackay Highway from the Marr Road.

It is believed Mr. Jamieson is from England. James Veinot was a son of A. Reginald Veinot and the late Rosalind (Amoro) Veinot of the McNamara Trailer Park.

DECORATING TREES

It was in heavily-forested northern Europe that decorating Christmas trees began. St. Boniface, an eighth century monk who converted the pagans living in what is now Germany, convinced them to stop worshipping Odin's sacred oak and, instead, to adorn fir trees in their homes in tribute to the Christ Child.

Fund Raising

Boy Scout troops in the the Digby area began a new fund raising project this Christmas, harvesting and selling Christmas trees. The project is a joint venture of Bowater Mersey Paper Company Limited of Liverpool and the local Scout Association. It is designed to help the boys earn some operating money and to teach them about Nova Scotia's forest resources.

About 20 Scouts and leaders took part in last Saturday's tree harvest on Bowater lands in the Weymouth area.

Scout leader, J. Macintosh of the 1st Cornwallis Scout Troop is shown along with some of his Scouts during the Bowater-Scout Christmas Tree harvest last Saturday.

Malawi Persecutes Jehovah's Witnesses

"Thousands of Christians are now under brutal persecution in Malawi," declared Alvin Stromgren, presiding overseer of the Annapolis Royal congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses. "Starting August 19, 1975, more than 34,000 Jehovah's Witnesses from Malawi who fled as refugees to Mozambique in 1972 because of severe persecution were forced to return to Malawi and now experience brutal persecution again. All of this because of their refusal to join a political party."

Alvin Stromgren said he had received a report from

K.A. Little at the Toronto Headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses in Canada. Little said that when a group of Jehovah's Witnesses arrived at the Malawi border, the Minister for the Central Region, Mr. Kumbweza Banda greeted them: "We welcome you with both hands. You left Malawi of your own accord and now you have returned of your own accord. The Malawi Congress Party is still in power in the country. Go back to your home villages and cooperate with the party officials." The referring to the members of the League of Malawi Youth, he said:

"My boys are here to see that you do cooperate with the party." Soon roads in the north and central regions of Malawi were filled with Jehovah's Witnesses on their way back to their home villages.

In some instances the witnesses were allowed to enter their villages and take up occupancy of houses they abandoned in 1972. However, in most cases the Youth Leaguers soon called to ask if they were prepared to buy political party cards. Referring to Jesus' example of political neutrality, the Witnesses refused. Immediately beatings, rapings and other atrocities began again and many were driven from their homes. In Kanichenche six witness women were all raped by several men. In Sosola village a group of men and women including the local member of Parliament, Mr. Elson Muluzi, seized the possessions of the Witnesses and drove them from the village.

Early in September youths under the direction of the Kasanjola branch of the

A similar project in Queens County is also underway. Scouts from Liverpool and Caledonia conducted a harvest in late November on Bowater lands in the Medway region and have had successful tree sales in their home towns.

Malawi Congress party visited home of Jehovah's Witnesses in six villages, demanding they buy party cards. When they refused, the youths stole all their belongings, subjected them to terrible beatings and urinated on the supply of flour that these refugees had brought with them, making it unfit for food. In other locations the Witnesses were stripped naked, their hair burned off their bodies with torches and beaten until blood came out of their mouths and noses. This happened at Chimasongwe village in Lilongwe under the direction of the local chairman of the Youth League, Mr. Chipukupuku, while attackers were urged on by local women members of the League of Malawi Women.

Because no one will accept them, many Witnesses have been forced to wander in the cities by day, sleeping in nearby forests by night. Upward of 4,800 fled to neighboring Zambia, but reports just received say they were repatriated to Malawi by force.

Dr. H. Kamuzu Banda, Life President of Malawi, recently instructed the Malawi police to round up adult Jehovah's Witnesses and put them in detention camps. The children are being left behind either to stay with relatives or fend for themselves. The government order applies this even to nursing infants. The police have ruthlessly executed this order. Whole congregations of Witnesses,
