MacEachen Addresses Club Richelieu

Foreign Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen was treated to first-class Acadian hospitality during a speaking visit to students at College Ste. Anne and the Club Richelieu, on Monday.

At the evening dinner, Mr. MacEachen touched on several topics of concern to the External Affairs Department.

He noted that this part of Nova Scotia is "greatly dependent on a successful fishery. Yet, he said, fish stocks are 'seriously depleted' because of overfishing. He termed it a 'crisis situation.'"

"Action is necessary and probably is overdue," Mr. MacEachen continued. The convention, is trying to change international law so coastal states like Canada will have sovereign rights over the living resources of the sea within a 200-mile limit.

This, the Minister felt, would give Canada the opportunity to manage its fishery. If a surplus exists after Canadian requirements are met, that surplus could then be allocated to other fishing nations of the world.

Mr. MacEachen noted there is a "developing consensus" among nations of the world toward the 200-mile limit. But Canada is also taking other steps to achieve its objectives, according to the minister. These include bilateral discussions with countries now fishing off this coast.

He noted that discussions had successfully concluded with Portugal, Poland, Spain and Norway, which accounts for about 40 per cent of the foreign catch.

Negotiations are now underway with the Russians. If an agreement is reached, "we will have covered 88 per cent of all the foreign fishing within the 200-mile limit."

As for any possible unilateral action, the Minister noted Canada had decided to negotiate before any such move is made. He referred to the present "Cod War" between Iceland and Great Britain as an example of problems such a move could create.

Mr. MacEachen said Canadian management of the 200-mile fishing zone would not solve all the problems but "it will help greatly to assist restoration of the fishing industry."

His final note was that bilateral negotiations with the United States might begin early in 1977.

The Minister's address also touched on several other topics. Emphasis was placed on Canada's responsibility to poorer nations of the world. He noted Canada has committed $1 billion to foreign assistance for the coming year.

Mr. MacEachen saw the present state of world poverty as a threat to world peace. "I think we have a great responsibility to help these people."

The Minister also endorsed the federal government's policies on bilingualism and attributed much of the criticism of it to misunderstanding.

Mr. MacEachen was treated to a full dose of Acadian hospitality dinner. Among those sitting at the head table were Club Richelieu president, M. Maurice Belliveau; College Ste. Anne President, Louis Comeau; Provincial Public Works Minister, Benoit Comeau; Clare Warden, Omer Blinn; M.P. Colleen Campbell, and Gerard d'Entremont, Maitre de Cereemonie.

The reception was put on by the Club with co-operation from the College.

Foreign Investment Concerns St. Anne's Students

Foreign investment was the topic creating most student-interest during discussions between Foreign Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen and College Ste. Anne students on Monday.

Mr. MacEachen met with the students for about three-quarters of an hour before moving on to a Club Richelieu reception at the college. M. P. Colleen Campbell accompanied the Minister.

Questioned as to why foreign investment - particularly American - is encouraged, the Minister explained there is not enough saving here for the development required to maintain growth - provide employment opportunities and rising incomes.

"As a country we can't do without foreign investment," Mr. MacEachen said. But we want it on the condition it will contribute to the benefit of Canada.

The minister made mention of the Foreign Investment Review Board through which investors must prove their aims will be of benefit to Canada.

Can't Canadian investors provide the required capital? The Minister thinks not at this time.

Canadians are encouraged to invest in their own country he noted - some do and some invest in the U. S. A.

He noted the Canadian development Commission was established to this end but "we haven't reached the stage - and I don't think we will - of telling investors where to invest."

Mr. MacEachen also spoke of how Canada is seeking to expand its sources of investment to overcome the "difficulty" the country experiences by being so closely tied to the United States.

This policy is not anti-American, he said, but it is felt the United States will be a better partner if we are not dependent on that country for investment.

He said Canadians do not have all the savings needed for the investment needed to increase our growth-to provide jobs for Canadians.

Most new industries have been the result of foreign investment, the Minister said. We must see that this investment works for the good of Canada.

One student noted that some investors bring their talent to Canada with them.

As an example he mentioned the Nova Scotia College of Art and Design which imports American teachers.

"It's a human process - we do our best," Mr.

MacEachen said when questioned as to how we can be sure investment is in Canada's interests.

At this point, the Minister said he is surprised at the mood of the audience.

Foreign investment seemed to be the students' favourite topic but few seemed convinced of the need for it.

The minister was questioned later as to whether anything can be done about the present level of American ownership.

Mr. MacEachen said the only way to do anything about it is to buy back the investment and "I don't think its practicable..."

Cuba

One student questioned why Canada is favourable to trade with Cuba considering that country's recent involvement in Angola.

Mr. MacEachen said Canada has always traded and maintained relations with Cuba - unlike the USA.

He said a "very big trade had developed in which we are the main beneficiaries." Rhodesia, he said, is the only country with which Canada does not trade.

As far as Cuban involvement in Angola is concerned, the Minister said it was been protested by the government, and Prime Minister Trudeau had a "very rigorous argument" with Fidel Castro on the issue.

He said the government is examining the question of whether aid should be given to nations which are involved in a foreign war.

Candu

Canada's policy on the sale of Candu nuclear reactors was also questioned. The questioner recalled the situations which arose in India and Pakistan.

Mr. MacEachen said the Candu is one of the two items of "Canadian high-class technology." He said Canada has decided to make this technology available to other nations and "extract the maximum safeguard arrangements."

Many poor nations, he said, are in great need of power sources and don't have available hydro resources necessary for development.

Unfortunately, he said, in India they used plutonium to make an explosive device - contrary to an agreement they had made with Canada. Recipient nations are required to promise all materials supplied by Canada will be used for peaceful purposes. And now they're (India) saying the "explosion was for peaceful purposes (referring to Indian test explosion).

Oil also was discussed. A student member said this part of Canada is being deprived in having to import oil at a high cost while oil from Western Canada is being exported to the United States.

"We're running out of Canadian oil," Mr. MacEachen said. In a few years we won't be able to export any oil at all. "we'll need it west of the Ottawa Valley line."

But the minister noted that oil costs in the maritimes are being subsidized via the export levy on Canadian oil. Whereas the Americans might pay $12.50 per barrel of Canadian oil - the international price - part of that is being taxed to bring down the cost to those parts of Canada which import oil.

Part of the discussion time was spent on developments of the Law of the Sea Conference in New York. Mr. MacEachen explained the two concepts being sought there.

The first is the 200-mile extension of national sovereignty over the living resources of the sea; the second - the common heritage of mankind - involved the management and exploitation of the seabed beyond national jurisdiction.

The Minister is hopeful these objectives can be met by the end of 1976.

Fundy Fares Increase June 1

SAINT JOHN- Increased fares for the CP Rail-operated Bay of Fundy ferry service between Saint John, N.B. and Digby, N.S. will go into effect June 1.

The one-way fare for adults will increase to $5.75 from $5, while the regular return fare will go to $10 from $8.75. The return rate for same day travel will move to $8 from $7.

Children between the ages of five and 12 will continue to travel at half-fare levels. Children under five travel free when accompanied by an adult.

The flat rate for automobiles will rise to $24 from $22. The bicycle rate will increase 25 cents to $2 and the motorcycle rate will go up 50 cents to $3.50.

Despite growing costs over the last two years, passenger fares have not been increased on the service since May 1, 1974.

The new fares are within the federal government's anti-inflation guidelines.

Bus-Theft, Breaks Under Investigation

Police are still investigating a series of breaks and a school bus-theft which took place in Bear River last week.

Between Thursday night and Friday morning, the thieves broke into a safe at the Bear River Post Office, the Bear River Drug Store, Wagner's Restaurant and the fire department.

About $500 worth of watches and drugs was missing from the drug store, $250 from the restaurant, and a small amount of equipment from the fire department. Nothing was stolen from the post office.

The missing bus was recovered on the Hammonds Plains Road, Halifax County, on Friday morning. Police feel the vehicle may have been used as a get-away after the breaks.

RCMP in both Digby and Bedford are on the lookout for at least two persons in connection with the bus-theft.

The bus was found with a broken window and other damages.

Digby Court Roundup

Three area youths will appear in court for sentencing on April 13 in connection with a safe-break at the Riteway store in Weymouth on March 16.

Robert James Smith, 19, of Digby; Arnold Roy Farnsworth, 18, of Brighton; and Wilson Joseph Lavehy, 24, of Newfoundland, pleaded guilty before Judge P.R. Woolaver on Tuesday.

The trio was arrested in Edmonton, Alberta, on March 23 and were returned here to face charges.

All were remanded in custody.

$25 on each of two charges of failing to file income tax returns in 1974.

Sheldon Scott Miller was convicted of creating a disturbance by fighting. He will be sentenced on April 13. The incident took place in front of the Ship's Wheel.

Jean Lawrence Payette was found not-guilty of a similar charge.

Larry Elwood Robicheau of Digby 24, was sentenced to four months in the Kings County Correctional Centre on a charge of damage to property.

The damage occurred at his mother's home and that of a neighbour.

Village Considers Legal Assessment Advice

Two Village meetings have recently been held at the Community Hall, Freeport. The first was mainly to discuss business of the Village. Among the items being discussed were additional payment for garbage collection, loitering, repairs to fire escape on hall, matters pertaining to the local fire department, and a general discussion of the tax assessments. In general, people cannot understand why the assessments differ in so many respects. The Village Commissions were asked to look into the matter of seeking legal advice.

At the close of this meeting, movies taken by local people of some of the storm of "Ground Hog Day" and the aftermath debris were shown. The second meeting was attended by Sgt. Barlow of the Digby Branch, R. C. M. P. who most kindly answered questions concerning the "policing" of the Village and what citizens can do if no Police officer is available at the time of need. He advised any person to report any incident that should be brought to the attention of the R. C. M. P. and these things would be looked into.

Shelley and Kelly Fletcher received their Canada Cord, the highest award in Girl Guides, on Sunday, February 22, 1976. Father Leo Maillet presented the cords following the church parade held in Saint Patrick's Church to commemorate Thinking Day. The 1st and 2nd Digby Brownies, the 1st Digby Girl Guide Company, the 4th Digby Cub Pack and their leaders attended the service.

Over 200 Attend Kinsmen Convention

Over 200 Kinsmen from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick attended the Spring Zone Convention held in Digby over the past weekend. The convention was highlighted by a banquet, election of a Deputy-Governor and appointment of his new executive.

Other events during the weekend included an Old

Acquaintance Evening at the Kin Centre on Maiden Lane followed by curling on Saturday and Sunday.

The business meeting was held on Saturday at Digby Regional High School.

The new Deputy-Governor elect is Jack Buntain of Kentville. He replaces Mack MacKenzie.

The convention was the first ever held by the Kinsmen in this area.

PRODUCTIVITY PRIORITY

W. Earle McLaughlin, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, has recommended that government impress on all Canadians that productivity is at the top of the nation's list of priorities. Mr. McLaughlin's recommendation is not a new idea, to be sure, but it is one that bears repeating time and time again. Mr. McLaughlin insists that productivity is the key to future economic prosperity. Along the same line of thinking Marcel Belanger, president of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants, told the Canadian Club in Toronto that we must "come to our senses." Coming to our senses, he said, is simply an acceptance of the fact that the input of an economy cannot exceed what we put into it. The root of the whole thing is common sense and self discipline.

Many of us agree with the comments made in recent addresses by these two men and interested persons also see a ray of hope that people in general will eventually come to their senses, so to speak and give productivity its just priority.

Both addresses offered suggestions for achieving economic prosperity. The Royal Bank president suggested that Canadian consumers must revise their attitudes. There is no way to make the pie bigger, he said, except on our own effort, enterprise, ingenuity, savings and investment. Mr. McLaughlin added that businessmen must accept the fact that society demands more of them than just growth and profitability. "It also demands ethical conduct, fair value for a fair price, enlightened employee relations, candour with the public, and a host of other things which can be summed up by the word 'accountability'," he said. He urged business to be consistent and frowned on criticism of government interference when things go well but run to government for help when things go badly. He suggested accentuating the positive and said "let us count our blessings and capitalize on them, rather than wallowing in negativism and mutual criticism. Let us recognize our mistakes and adjust our behaviour accordingly, but without assuming the radical position that everything is wrong and that we need a major restructuring of our institutions," he insisted.

One of these mistakes referred to by Mr. McLaughlin could be our habit of getting something for nothing, and forgetting the importance of producing for the value we receive. We need to correct the mistake of pricing ourselves out of the market by seeking wage rates too high to afford. We forget too that the more social benefits we have to support, the higher are our taxes and higher are the wages demanded to cover the increase in tax payments.

As McLaughlin put it productivity is the key to future economic prosperity. It has priority.

A COMMENDABLE EFFORT

The recent inauguration of "Operation Friendship", an outreach program aimed primarily at the isolated and lonely elderly in the Digby area, is a commendable effort. Those who have spearheaded this project and who are involved in it are to be highly congratulated for their willingness to give themselves in such an endeavour.

The area of Nova Scotia is indeed fortunate in having so many people who are willing to become involved in projects designed to serve others who may be less fortunate than themselves. While it may be true that we do have some whose main contribution to good works seems to be to cast doubts and to raise questions, they are fortunately far outnumbered by those who are willing to give without counting the cost.

When one considers the number of projects and programs that have been successfully undertaken in this area in recent years and the contribution these have made to the welfare, happiness and good health of our people it brings a renewal and strengthening of one's faith in the basic goodness of our institutions.

While it is true that many, if not all, of the projects undertaken would not have been possible without financial support from some level of government, every one of the programs required in addition to this the involvement of people who cared and who were willing to demonstrate this caring by their works. To these people all of us owe a great deal of thanks. Perhaps a measure of this could be shown by publicly letting them know we are appreciative of their efforts and by volunteering some of the talents we possess in a constructive way to their endeavours.

GRASS FIRES SERIOUS THREATS

After being called out to ten grass fires on Saturday, the Digby Fire Department through their chairman of the Fire Prevention Committee, Douglas VanTassell want the public to know the burden that grass fires put on the firemen and the serious consequences which come from setting grass fires. One home, that of Mrs. Mable Raymond in Centerville and two outside buildings were destroyed by fire on Saturday. The origin was thought to be from a grass fire. Besides this, the fire department was called out to nine other grass fires one near to Propane Gas. These fires put an unnecessary burden on the firemen who have to leave their work to fight the fire and such a day as Saturday can prove to extremely tire the firemen physically. The fire equipment, too, is being unnecessarily worn out.

Another point, made by Mr. VanTassell was the danger to accidents to which men and equipment are exposed while on the road. What would happen, questioned Mr. VanTassell if a serious fire broke out in Digby when the men and equipment are out fighting grass fires.

Definitely, Mr. VanTassell said, stronger measures will have to be taken if this state keeps up and pressing charges as is being considered in the Valley will probably have to be also considered here.

Mr. VanTassell urged that we influence the public that if grass fires have to be set then they should be done after five o'clock p.m. At this time the humidity is heavier so that the fire will not spread so rapidly as during the day. In the day a grass fire makes its own draft which hastens the conflagration more than at night. At anytime, Mr. VanTassell cautioned, there should be ample provision made for hose, water, buckets and any kind of fire extinguishers.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

I had reason to visit a certain home in Digby on the morning of March 20 and what I saw caused me to feel very sad. In the cold kitchen was a man and wife standing close to a hot plate on which was one slice of bread, the oil barrel had gone dry two days before, no food, no heat, no money and no friends willing to help. I have been thinking about this a lot since, the more I think about it the more amazed I am. As I left that very poor home I drove around awhile looking at the many beautiful homes and the many Church buildings and I said to myself tomorrow is Sunday and many of us will go to our places of worship and sin "with the hungry share your bread" and I felt worse. I know many will say why didn't they go the welfare office. The welfare is not always the answer. In fact, if you happen to call at the wrong time or wrong day you won't even get an answer. To explain a little more clearly what I mean I will tell you what happened a couple of years ago. One Sunday night about nine o'clock I got a call asking for help. It was late in the fall, a cold windy night. When I arrived, I found a young local man and wife standing on the lee side of an old building dressed in light summer clothes. The young wife had a cold in her face with one side swollen. I asked if they had called the welfare office; they had tried but it was closed for the weekend. I then said what about the town police; they had tried a number of times but no one could tell them where the police could be found. I paid for their room that night and spent the next forenoon persuading others to take some action. Even the faithful old Salvation Army explained that they had no facilities these days for such cases. Nearly everyone that I talked to said that these people don't deserve help, but what about mercy. Deserving and Mercy don't go together. If it's deserved it isn't mercy and if all we ever hope to get is what we deserve, the end of the road is going to be bleak indeed.

It would seem that the welfare department have already more than they can handle and if we just close our eyes and say that is a matter concerning the welfare we have traded our conscience for a government organization. We can in no way justify ourselves if there are people in our midst who have pain because of a cold house and one slice of bread.

Some say, "I worked for my nice home and full deep freeze." Yes, you worked with what you were given, the ability to manage, the know-how to cope with this tricky world.

Others say if something is done for them they will only come back tomorrow. What these people are really saying is I would be willing to help if I could be sure they would never come back.

Some brotherly love there. Some say that it's so hard to help these kind of people. That which is really worth doing is not often easy. One man said if they were given a permanent job they would not stick with it very long. I say if they are willing to work, try them. Some said that it isn't hard to see what their trouble is. If we see what their trouble is; we have a responsibility toward them for they don't see what their trouble is. I say what they have most against them is that they were born on the other side of the tracks. Maybe a family background that isn't what we most admire or maybe they don't belong to our choice of Religious beliefs.

One person even complained because the known poor were seen having a big feed in a Restaurant. Maybe it was the only thing they had to eat in a couple of days while they themselves had many choices from their over-stuffed deep freezes. I say we should not begrudge them their few good days for their days of bewilderment are many. One person said how is it that God allows these people to be so needy. I say maybe they are here in their need to test us. Who could help relieve that need and if that should happen to be the case, I believe we are living very dangerously. Some would give them work if they had anything for them to do. Sometimes we have to forget what we are going to get out of the deal and keep a merciful eye on those in desperation; for soon we will all sleep, may it be in Peace.

Respectfully,
Arthur W. Johnson,
Mount Pleasant.

Dear Editor:

May I use your paper to express my feelings regarding the Digby Neck Fire Department and the recent petition that was circulated?

Let me state first of all that I am not against fire protection. We need it and I have donated towards it. But I feel that the taxpayer should be better informed as to how our money is to be spent. How much is to be added to our tax bills? Some

One Property Burns, Five Others Saved

A tragedy, in Centerville, was averted by the action of the Digby Neck Volunteer Fire Department assisted by the Digby Fire Department. Digby Neck thanks the Digby Fire Department for their prompt action.

Approximately 4 p.m. on Saturday, March 27, a call came into the fire phones in the Digby Neck area. Apparently a fire had started in a grass area which was then fed by unmowed grass and the fire caught the back of the house known as the Ern Raymond property. Fire was ahead of the department when it arrived, but action figures were given, based on last year's assessment but this is not a true picture. How long is it going to take to pay off this loan? Is this loan plus the L.I.P. Grant going to be enough? If not, where is the rest of the money coming from?

I am not against having a fire truck and building big enough to house the truck and equipment - but as to this building which they plan to build, I am not so sure. A big question in my mind right now is this: Is it the intention of the members of the Fire Commission to apply for a liquor license after this building is finished and in operation? If so, I feel that another liquor outlet on Digby Neck is something we do not need. I do not feel that my tax money should be used to put up a building that will eventually be turned into a licensed liquor outlet for this area. We have enough drunken drivers on the highways now.

Regarding this petition that was circulated: In an item in your paper of March 18th, page 10, it stated that, Quote: "the department was informed by the Digby Neck Fire Commission, that the petition for a fire tax levy was approved by more than 80 percent of the resident tax-payers." I have seen a copy of the petition for the Centerville area and there are 12 names appearing on that petition voting "Yes" whose names are not listed on the assessment roll as tax-payers.

Who gave these people the right to sign this petition to permit a tax levy to be added to those of us who are already paying high taxes? There are tax-payers who were not asked to sign the petition, neither my husband or myself were given an opportunity to sign, and we are tax-payers. I was asked one day if my husband was home. He wasn't home but I told that person when he would be home. I was not aware at that time that both husband and wife were permitted to sign. No one came to ask us to sign.

If I had been given an opportunity to sign and been defeated by fellow tax-payers, I would have raised no objections. But when it comes to non-taxpayers being given the right to say I have to pay more taxes to pay for their fire protection, that's not fair play. If this petition is accepted as it is, let us as tax-payers return the favor and have these non-taxpayers put on the assessment roll and be given the privilege of reaching into their own pockets and pay taxes like the rest of us.

A very concerned Taxpayer.

(Mrs.) Ruth Cameron

Finances Healthy

A special meeting of Clementsport Branch No 122, Royal Canadian Legion was held on Tuesday on the call of the president, Comrade President A. James Smyth in the Chair. There were 46 ordinary members and seven associate members present. One guest was introduced, Com Zone Commander Les Whalley.

Ben Cullen, Manager of the Digby Branch of H.R. Doane and Company, Chartered Accountants, was welcomed to the meeting and gave the auditors report for Branch No. 122 for year ending 31 December, 1975. This report showed the Branch to be in a healthy state financially and no discrepancies in any of the books either from the Club management or the treasurer. Although he did state that perhaps the bookkeeping procedures could stand to be updated but that this was not a discredit to the Branch but as in most organizations, personnel in the positions of handling finances were not accountants but were doing a job as best they knew how. This was a credit to the Branch.

Com. Zone Cdr. Less Whalley moved a vote of confidence in the present executive and management. This received a standing ovation.

The meeting moved a further vote of confidence in the present Club manager and staff and asked that they reconsider their resignations. This was agreed upon. Both staff members addressed the meeting and thanked them for their confidence. The meeting had been called due to the resignation of one of the bar staff and the refusal of the manager to extend the contract beyond March 31.

Run as fast as you can into this pole

It is not easy to appreciate just how severe the human collision can be even in low-speed crashes. To help understand what happens, imagine someone walking briskly head-first into a steel post such as a car windshield pillar. This would be about a 3 or 4 mile per hour collision. A person would probably survive without serious injury. And it's not the car's collision that hurts in a crash. It's your collision inside the car. When a car hits something it buckles and bends and then comes to a stop. The second, more important collision is what happens to you. If you're not restrained by seat belts in the car you bounce around until your body or head hits something like the steering wheel or dash. And hitting something that hard with a force of several thousand pounds causes serious injuries and possibly death. Lap and seat belts keep you in your seat and prevent the second collision. The one that hurts.

New Teachers Union President

Joseph Gordon Maidment, Principal of New Aberdeen Elementary School, Glace Bay, has been elected president of the Nova Scotia Teachers Union.

Election results were announced Thursday in Halifax during sessions of the 55th Annual Council of the Teachers Union. Mr. Maidment will serve for a two-year term beginning August 1.

The new president replaces Dominique Henry, Falmouth, who has served the NSTU as president for the past two years.

Mr. Maidment moves to the presidency from the position of first vice-president. A teacher for 25 years, he has been an active member of the organization. He has served as chairman of the Provincial Economic Welfare Committee, and on a large number of the organizations' committees such as publicity, professional development, economic policy and negotiating.

He has been an executive member of the organization and has served terms as secretary-treasurer, first and second vice-presidents and curriculum director.

Mr. Maidment is an active community worker. He is currently a member of the Education Committee, Board of Directors, Canadian Mental Health Association of Cape Breton.

Soliloquy Of A Postage Stamp

The following is a Soliloquy of a Postage Stamp which was published sometime ago in a Stamp Magazine.

Frances Adams
(Mrs. Harry V.)

I am the world's greatest traveler. I've journeyed from pole to pole and all the climes between...by dogsled, camel and horseback, by every land sea and air conveyance, even by submarine, dirigible and rocket. I am the world's greatest art and portrait gallery. The heroes and heroines of mythology pose within my borders. I portray the greats and the near-greats of all time: kings and queens, pharaohs and presidents, princes and princesses, poets, adventurers, tribal chieftains, inventors, moguls, musicians and martyrs, dramatists and novelists, shahs, sultans, saints and sinners. Even the vanished forms of the phoenix, dragon, centaur and unicorn appear upon my face.

I am the world's greatest picture chronicle and miniature encyclopedia. I map communities, countries, and continents, and reveal views from every strange remote corner of the earth. I depict mountains, and valleys, oceans, rivers, lakes, waterfalls, geysers, harbors, bridges and dams, native canoes, sailing ships and modern ocean liners.

monuments and statues; castles, cathedrals, churches, missions, mosques temples and ruins of temples and every type of locomotion from automobiles to zeppelins and steamboats to space ships. I delineate all manner of sports, handicrafts, customs, sacred rites and ceremonies; and nearly every variety of bird, animal, fish, fruit and flower.

I frame the horrors of war, the blessings of peace, the hardships of emigration, the plight of indigence and the blight of famine. I illustrate the adventures of Don Quixote the fairy tales of childhood and the legends of all civilizations. I reflect the symbols of all civilizations. I reflect the symbols of art and culture, of natural resources and industry of trade and commerce, of agriculture and architecture, and of all human endeavor. I commemorate the expeditions and voyages and inventions, discoveries and creations that make life worth living.

Millions of men, women and children are fascinated by me. Through infinite variety they found boundless

BIRD NOTES

Spring is just around the corner, only three more days when it will be officially here.

At time of writing my feeders are full of American goldfinches. They are small birds about the size of a sparrow. The males change colour in the fall and are now turning back to their brilliant yellow and black. One lady remarked they looked like baby evening grosbeaks.

Lots of chick-a-dees around but haven't seen a Blue jay for weeks. Guess they have gone to a new home at Acacia Valley. Seventeen were counted feeding at one time.

The kitchen birds are singing a lot now, so far there has been no sound from the Oriole. He is turning colour now. His head is beginning to look like black velvet. He was an immature bird when he came in and by the time he is released, he will be very striking in his black and orange coat.

Had a visit from a group of Crows the other night. They were all very interested in birds and are going to make bird houses as a project. I enjoyed them very much.

It is not too early to think of cleaning out your bird houses and doing any repairs necessary. The Swallows will be here in another month, April 16th is my first record.

Have had several inquiries about the absence of female evening grosbeaks among the flocks at feeders. I have noticed the same thing, out of a flock of twenty or so there would be only six or eight females. Hope you heard the modern version of the "Parable of the Little Red Hen," by the old Cynic, very good, would like a copy.

Watch out for Robins they should be along soon.

So long
The Bird Lady.

Take another look... HOMELITE 350 Professional Chain Saw has an all stainless steel muffler

Some of the Homelite 350-P's greatest features aren't immediately obvious. Like the stainless steel muffler. And some features can't be photographed. Like a low noise level - easier on the operator's ears. Like high speed for pulp and limbing, yet sufficient power for hardwood operations. Vibration isolated handles for less fatigue.

The 350-P has the features every pro will recognize. Fuel caps located on top of the saw. Electronic Ignition System. Adjustable automatic oil pump, and large capacity fuel tanks. Homelite's 350-P Chain Saw can be equipped with optional safety features such as chain brake and hand guard.

Wesleyan Service At Tideview Terrace

By Frances Adams

Rev. Douglas Hapeman, Pastor of the Digby Wesleyan Church, accompanied by Mrs. Hapeman and approximately 14 members of the choir were present at Tideview Terrace on Sunday. Mrs. Hapeman presided at the piano.

A duet number entitled "Leaning on the Everlasting Arms" was rendered by Mrs. Grace Brewster and Mrs. Zelma Turnbull. Also a second duet number was given by Mr. and Mrs. Allen Potter entitled "Jesus Is Coming Soon."

Mrs. Zelma Turnbull played "When The Roll Is Called Up Yonder" and "Home Sweet Home" on her harmonica.

The pastor shared a few words of paraphrased scripture with those present. He offered prayer following the beautiful rendition of "Why for Me" by Robert Wilson.

Previous to this service Pastor Hapeman showed the film "The Gospel Road" at Tideview. It was much appreciated by those who were present to see it.

A Gospel Rally Service will be led by the Deliverance Quartet on Saturday evening, April 3, 7:30 p.m. at the Smith's Cove Baptist Church, Rev. Wallace H. Jordon, Pastor.

This talented group from New Minas has been presenting the Gospel of Jesus Christ since 1973 when they made their first appearance at the New Minas Baptist Church. Since then they have ministered in other Nova Scotia areas, New Brunswick and in Maine, U.S.A. Richard Fowler, manager, says, "We're not just a singing group. We're doing what God told us to do."

On Sunday, April 4, the Quartet will be ministering in the Clementsport Baptist Church at 11:00 a.m.

TENDER

No. PW76-4
DISPOSAL OF SURPLUS PROPERTY

Sealed Tenders addressed to the Minister of Public Works, Province of Nova Scotia, Halifax, Nova Scotia, will be received up to twelve o'clock noon, Monday, April 12, 1976, at the Department of Public Works, 4th Floor, Hollis Building, Halifax, Nova Scotia, for the demolition and/or removal of one wood frame house and barn, formerly owned by Mr. Desire Doucette, R.R. No. 1, Weymouth, Digby County, Nova Scotia.

A plan showing the property, a description of the buildings, tender specifications and envelopes may be obtained at the office of the Deputy Minister, Department of Public Works, 4th Floor, 1649 Hollis Street, Halifax, Nova Scotia, or by writing the Department of Public Works, P.O. Box 54, Halifax, Nova Scotia, B3J 2L4.

Tenders must be accompanied by a certified cheque payable to the Department of Public Works, Province of Nova Scotia as required in the Tender documents.

The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

HONOURABLE BENOIT COMEAU MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS

at the Bay View home of their leader, Mrs. Carman Frankland.

Mrs. Norma Tibert was in charge of the devotional talk entitled "Thankfulness Unlimited".

The lesson thoughts centred largely around the fact that people do not have because they do not ask.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mary Budd on March 9th.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Haynes were guests of honor during the social hour which followed. They were entertained in honor of their 40th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Carman Frankland presented the bride and groom of 40 years with a gift on behalf of the group. A poem especially composed for the purpose was read by Frances Adams following the presentation.

The hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Eunice Pearson and Mrs. Harry Adams.

A beautiful two-tier anniversary cake on swan shaped pillars centred with the traditional bride and groom was made and decorated by Mrs. Harry Adams.

Rev. William Lewis will be the guest speaker at a Rally on Missions being held in the Baptist Church, Digby on Monday, April 5th, at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Lewis is a native of Toronto and took his training in Ontario, receiving his B.Sc. in Agriculture from the Ontario Agricultural College and later his B.D. from McMaster Divinity College. During his training period he served in church extension work and was instrumental in establishing two new churches, the Harmony Road Baptist Church in Oshawa and the Stanley Park Baptist Church in Kitchener.

In 1950 Bill and his wife, Barbara, volunteered for Missionary work in Kenya, Africa, in the new "Task Force" arrangement with the African Church and Schools of Kenya. After language study in Nairobi they were stationed in Gitoru where Bill has been engaged in lay-leadership training. Barbara, who is a trained nurse, has been assisting in the work of Public Health Clinics. The Lewises came on furlough in 1975 and with their five children are residing in Willowdale, Ontario.

Mr. Lewis is an excellent speaker and has an important message for the church of today, showing how the Gospel message is taking root in Africa and how we in Canada can assist in this vital ministry.

IN MEMORIAM

BAXTER - In loving memory of my dear wife Alcesta Gertrude Baxter who passed away April 5th, 1964.

Life wouldn't seem so bleak today.
Had you not been so dear
Nor the years ahead so empty.
If you could just be here.
But God knew best, He called you home.
Where sorrows are no more,
And love and kindness reign supreme,
On God's great golden shore.

ALWAYS REMEMBERED BY HUSBAND, CHARLES BAXTER. 34:lip

SOLLOWS - In loving memory of my dearest mother, Ida Sollovs, who passed away on March 29, 1973.

Not a day do I forget you
In my heart you are always here,
For I love and miss you dearly

As it ends another year
I can never count the tears
I shed
From the day we had to part

Just four words I miss you Mom
From the bottom of my heart

Remembered and loved Always by daughter
BURLA. 34:lip

ROBICHAUD - In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. John Robichaud, who passed away March 24th, 1962.

Gone are the tomorrows,
Lost in a sea of sorrow.
Faithful to all at beck and call.
The Bible her friend when life did end.

The above tide table is based on the 24-hour clock. All times are Atlantic Standard. Read DOWN rather than ACROSS. The large number is the date, the 4-digit number is the time. The third number in the column is the height of the tide in feet.

To convert times shown to the 12-hour clock, subtract 1200 from the number shown for all times over 1300 hours. (Included), up to and including 2400 hours. This will give you p.m. time Example - 1300 hours is 1:00 p.m., 2400 hours is 12 o'clock midnight. For a.m. time, simply disregard zeroes at the beginning of the number. Example - 0135 hours is 1:35 a.m., 0020 hours is 20 minutes past midnight.

The 24-hour clock begins at 0001, which is 1 minute after midnight on the 12-hour clock.

Legion Auxiliary Anniversary Party

Cutting the Anniversary Cake at the Bear River Legion Ladies Auxiliary - Evelyn Steadman and Pauline Lent.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Bear River Legion, Branch 22, held their Anniversary Banquet, March 25 at The House of Wong. This was the Auxiliary's 27th anniversary.

Mrs. Foster Hall said the grace at the beginning of a delightful meal.

At the close of the banquet, President, Evelyn Steadman, presented past-president's pins to Mary Mayo, Lila Harris, and Dora Riley.

The regular monthly meeting followed at the Bear River Legion Hall.

Applications for membership from Marsha Buckler and Shirley Frost were referred to the committee for investigation.

Application for membership for Nancy Wright was approved. Gladys Wheelhouse reported that the March 2 Pancake Supper, had netted $52.90.

Uniforms were again discussed. It was agreed that members would try to have berets by November for the Remembrance Day Service.

The Royal Canadian Legion Zone Rally will be held April 2. The Auxiliary was asked to cater for the buffet supper.

In lieu of forfeits for April, members are asked to donate $1.00.

A silent Auction will be held at the May meeting. Bring an article for sale.

Following the meeting the Anniversary Cake was cut by Evelyn Steadman and Pauline Lent.

Dora Riley, Lila Harris and Mary Mayo received Past-President's pins at the Bear River Legion, Ladies Auxiliary Banquet.

Painting, Crafts, Metric Study Travel At Bear River Horizons

The Centre has been busy during the last two months with a variety of programmes and some new additions to the regular list. A great deal of work has gone into the preparations for the Easter sale which is to be held on Saturday, April 24, at 2 p.m.

The painting class has been well attended and the students, now in their second year, are showing great progress. The handicrafts group have been experimenting in many new craft products, as well as the traditional quilting. Sewing and dressmaking classes have also been held, since the acquisition of the new sewing machine. Pottery activities continue on their colourful way, and there will be a large number of items available for the Easter sale.

A class in the Metric System has been assisting members to unravel the mysteries of this new innovation, and this is being conducted by Mr. J. C. Dol from Church Point under the scheme for Further Learning now in operation. Despite the inclement weather, no parties have had to be cancelled and they are always an opportunity for fun, thanks to the efforts of the entertainers. Two members of the group, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kaulback, were representatives to the Seminar on Senior Citizens work which was held at Coldbrook, and preparations are now being made for the much larger workshop and display of crafts to be held in Wolfville in June. Besides the official delegates to this event, the whole Centre is planning a bus trip to Wolfville for the main day of the display.

A fascinating trip to Russia, by way of the photographs made during a recent visit by the Rev. LeBlanc, of Church Point, was shared by the members at a special evening meeting last week. Another travelogue of this kind is being planned for the future.

With the advent of spring, visits to other groups will soon be made possible. The Rev. and Mrs. Foster Hall were guests, on behalf of the Centre, at the opening of the new Centre in Lawrencetown last week. Here again, the Royal Canadian Legion have made possible the establishment of a fine New Horizons group, and it is a great tribute to their community spirit that the needs of Senior Citizens are so freely recognized.

The Bear River Centre has still room for new members, and the opportunities for fellowship and creative activity are only limited by the interest of senior citizens to take full advantage of all that is available. They would welcome anyone who wishes to share in the activities provided.

Dialing your own long distance calls can be a rewarding experience...

When you dial direct, you're taking advantage of one of the marvels of modern day computerization. Your call is electronically speeded on its way, at your command, without operator assistance. And you reach your party in a fraction of the time and at a fraction of the cost of an operator assisted call. When you add the extra savings available on evening and Sunday calls it's easy to see that long distance is truly 'one of the great bargains of our time'.

Apart from the time and money-saving advantages of dialing direct, it's also nice to 'do it yourself' and retain more of that spontaneous, friendly feeling when you just want to say 'hello'.

It's a rewarding experience in more ways than one.

Casey In Reply To Speech From The Throne

Fear Nuclear Plant; Sissiboo Development; Windpower; Cornwallis Base

MR. JOE CASEY: Mr. Speaker, I'm so glad to see you looking so well. As you know, your health is my great concern. Each night I pray for your good health.

I'd like to compliment the mover and seconder on the Throne Speech. They, in my estimation, are a couple of budding, young orators. I think I can almost call them latter day Joseph Howes.

Now, before I forget a couple of points that were mentioned by the member for Cape Breton North, I'll refer to these in my first speech. I think the honourable member said that we should rush out and buy our number plates for our car right away in case they went up. Well, an old friend of mine, when she heard that the postage rates had gone from six cents to eight, she rushed down to the Post Office and bought $20 worth, and maybe the same thing applies in this case.

The other is with regard to the Funder Company coming to Digby, and I can say, Mr. Speaker, that I was as disappointed as anybody when this company did not come there, but here are a few things that probably should be told in this House again, and I'll be very brief on that. This company's main reason for coming to Canada was to produce particle board which they planned to supply to the British market. That was 60 per cent of their export that was to go to Britain, the rest to Canada and a very small part of it would go to the United States.

Well, as you know at that time, Britain joined the Common Market and there was, I think, a 16 per cent, if I remember correctly, duty put on immediately, on this material. Now, that, along with the falling pound, you can imagine what position this company would have been in today. They are a very efficient company and I've observed their workings in Austria. They probably would have survived as well as anybody, but all particle board plants in Canada are not getting along that well. I had the occasion to be invited to their opening of their Moxville plant in North Carolina two years ago. It's a wonderful plant. Many people said that this plant was built in lieu of the one for Digby, and that is not true. They buy particle board, the same type of material the Digby plant would have produced, but they buy it from Indiana and I think Wyoming, in states in the western part of the United States and then they put the melamine process on it, they do the final finishing, and they do this for one reason. They are underneath a tariff barrier that protects industries of this type in the United States. Therefore, they buy it from this part of the country much cheaper due to the tariff barrier.

I have kept in touch with him. In fact, two days ago I talked to the President of Hunter America. I keep reminding him that Digby is still there, and we have a good supply of wood and we welcome them at any time.

One other thing that I think probably should be mentioned, a DREE grant was not forthcoming, a federal DREE grant, and that made a very large difference. If you can get 20, 30 per cent bucks-free money you don't have to pay back, it certainly makes you consider opening up a plant in any particular area. This was not coming probably because at that time there were some particles of board plants, in fact one in New Brunswick, that was closed down for economic reasons. So, maybe they were wise in not coming here. I'd much rather have them not come than to come here and fail. Hopefully the things will change and we still will have either that company or another similar one in Digby, and I hope I'm around when it is opened.

Now, just a few days ago, our Premier said that he still hoped we would not have to turn to nuclear power to supply our increasing energy needs. I for one most certainly hope his predictions are correct. I live only 40 miles away, as the gulls flies, and why I say gulls it's across the water, from Point Lepreau. This plant is being built in New Brunswick, and, Mr. Speaker, this is 40 miles too close if a nuclear accident should occur. One plant is dangerous enough, so I would hope that we do not increase our chances of an accident by building others in Nova Scotia.

I would also like to urge the Department of Environment to watch very closely to see that the thermal discharge from this plant will not raise the temperature of the surrounding waters. If even a change of one degree in water temperature did occur, it could be disastrous to fish reproduction. The last thing we need in the Bay of Fundy are schools of impotent fish swimming around. That situation could be most frustrating to both the haddock and the fishermen as well.

I understand that this plant will discharge 825,000 gallons of water per minute. That's a lot of water, and a difference of 24 degrees. It will be 24 degrees hotter than the Bay of Fundy, and some scientists are predicting the effects of this will reach as far as the Grand Banks, which would be, I suppose, 150 miles away from there, maybe farther, and as I said, one degree in temperature can make the fish reproduction stop. So, this should be monitored very closely by our Department of Environment.

I would certainly hope that we give every possible consideration to the following alternatives first: 1) Mr. Speaker, I have on numerous occasions had long and very informative discussions with Mr. Kirkpatrick about the Sissiboo Power Development which is in my constituency. He tells me that intensive studies have been made on this project, but at this time, it is not economically feasible to increase the power potential.

However, in view of the rapid increase in oil prices, this situation could change overnight. This must be kept constantly in mind and the Power Corporation must be ready to move immediately to get an expansion program underway should this happen.

2) Several times each week, I cross the Annapolis River Causeway. What a perfect study in the lack of foresight is evident in this location. Our local Boards of Trade urged upon the government of the day to put in a pilot generating station but to no avail. I know that our present Minister of Finance made representation repeatedly to that government to do something about it and he was turned down. It would have been so much simpler a procedure at that time to have installed a reversible turbine power unit. Of course, all that argument is now so much water under the causeway. I have urged our government to still do this even though it would cost more now, but I have been told that tidal experts say this is impossible. Well, experts have a place in the scheme of things, but I think we should also consider the opinions of some practical thinkers as well. I for one am not fully convinced that this is impossible. I would like to see one power unit installed and then observe the results. I have observed the Bay of Fundy tides and have had to live with them all my life, and certainly realize their power potential, and I can use one story that would illustrate this.

I was guest speaker in Parrsboro one night and usually when I travel around - I'm like Premier Regan and Joe Howe, they liked to brag about the high tides in the Bay of Fundy and I do too. What in the heck are you going to say in Parrsboro? Down home the tide rises 30 feet, up there as high as 56 feet. I did feel a bit inadequate, but I did tell a story that illustrated my point.

There were two fishermen, and I think they were fishing in the area of the honourable member for Annapolis East, fishing on the Bay of Fundy shore, and they had a horse down on the beach tending their weir. There were mud flats there and he got stuck in the mud, really got stuck. They couldn't get him out, and they had the presence of mind, to run up to high water and got two empty oil drums. They rolled them down the beach and they lashed them under his belly and the tide by this time was coming, and it rises about an inch a minute. The pressure was something fantastic, you can't believe it. As the tide got up farther around the horse, just his chin was sticking out and finally he popped out just like that. The pressure was so great it hauled all of his four shoes right off.

Now, I said to these people gathered there, "Now we don't have the highest tides in the world, but by Lord we've got the longest legged horse in Canada." This idea would probably generate more publicity for Nova Scotia, not the horse I mean but the power development. I'm speaking on the causeway, than it would generate kilowatts. However, just think we would be the first to harness tidal power in North and South America. The Russians have built one on the White Sea and it only generated 1,000 kilowatts, that's only four times the power needs at Casey Fisheries, so it is not very much, but a least they have shown the world they are thinking. They have beaten us in hockey and Heaven help us if the get ahead of us in tidal power!

Mr. Speaker, my third alternative is wind power, and I had better not look across the aisles, you know, I could ad lib a bit. Wind is one of the most renewable resources we have, and from my recent observations in Digby County, there seems to be a goodly supply. When I was a boy I built a successful power-generating windmill. At that time man was travelling at the rate of three miles per hour by ox team, slightly better with a fair wind. By this time we have put a man on the moon, we seem to have made rapid strides in every field except designing windmills.

I would think that a small domestic windmill could be designed and mass produced and sold through our mail order houses and thereby each resident could at least supply a portion of his power needs. One must certainly consider when we are looking back to the old $3 per month power bill is to consider our increase in household power demands since those times. I can remember when all the electrical equipment in our house was a few 25 watt bulbs. We turned them on and we turned them off as we went from room to room. In fact, I can remember when we had in our village was oil lamps. I well remember an old fellow that lived near our place. He consumed fair amounts of alcohol and you could always tell when that man went to bed because when he blew out the light there was one heck of an explosion.

Now we have electric ranges, T.V.'s, electric can openers and, my Heavens, even electric toothbrushes. I'd have one probably if I had any teeth.

All this to save work and then we have to jog to get exercise. We have a school bussing system which cost a fortune and uses a tremendous amount of energy. All this so our children won't have to walk to school, then we build gymnasiums at equally high cost to keep them from losing the use of their legs. No wonder our energy costs are so high.

Last November I spent some time in India, Mr. Speaker, and I'm quite serious about this. I will never complain again about the energy costs in Nova Scotia. In that country, gasoline is $2 per gallon and a labourer's daily wage is slightly over one rupee, 12 cents a day, in other words. So a man must work 16 days to earn one gallon of gasoline. Needless to say, most people have to walk. In some cases, they travel by jackass, the man riding and the wife walking behind with all their worldly goods on top of her head in a basket. I asked one of these men why his wife was walking, you know, and the answer was quite simple. He said, "Because she doesn't have a jackass." (Laughter).

AN HON. MEMBER: He could buy her a second hand one, or something.

MR. CASEY: When we were in Kashmir where the temperature is quite chilly, we noticed that the natives were carrying an earthen pot under their coat. They had a charcoal fire going in it. When they sat down in their homes, they still kept it under the coat and instead of heating the whole house, they just heated their bodies. It was most effective and very efficient. In Nova Scotia, we heat a 10-room house just to keep two people warm and, Mr. Speaker, it's like boiling a lake to cook a trout.

Mr. Speaker, we could learn so much from these people who make total use of the things that nature has provided. We, on the other hand, have been spoiled by having what appeared to be a cheap, inexhaustible supply of energy. Now, when this is no longer the case, we find ourselves in a situation that is most frustrating. At this time, I do not think it is the role of our government in a free society to order our citizens to conserve the energy, but I do feel that they should know all the facts.

Mr. Speaker, this probably is a bit out of date, but it's regarding the recent Progressive Conservative convention held in Ottawa. I see that all the delegates were exhausted by the rigors of this convention and they have returned, nevertheless, hale and hearty. Mr. Speaker, on the eve before taking off for Ottawa, the members of the Opposition could hardly contain themselves. It is a pity you could not have been there to witness their mass exit, Mr. Speaker. All the members rushing out of the Assembly, led by their gallant leader, off to the fray, but on their return there seemed to be lack of some of the same enthusiasm displayed by the members upon their departure. Do I sense a note of disappointment in the choice that was made at this historic gathering? Maybe I did not read the signs correctly, nevertheless, I do wish them all well.

Oh My, Mr. Speaker, there is great concern about the Canadian Forces Bases in Annapolis Valley closing, and some of this is out of date. I share the concern of these residents as I well realize the very important role they play in the economy of our area. CFB Cornwallis being closed and the fact that many of my constituents work there, probably concerns me most. I realize one moment, we as taxpayers are urging the government, both federal and provincial to cut spending and the next moment we are alarmed when these cuts affect us directly.

In an underindustrialized constituency such as mine where jobs are few, the closure could be a disaster. I realize the cost of operating these bases is tremendous. In the light of world events, I think these expenditures not only could be justified, but it is critical that we not be caught again with our bases down. When World War II broke out, our defences were in a deplorable shape. The navy only had four destroyers. Equipment was scarce. The sailors and I remember this - the sailors were issued with oilskins that leaked. Rubber boots were not high enough to break joints with oilskins. Each time a sea broke over us, we had to remove our rubber boots to dump out the water.

I finally, for the sake of greater efficiency, cut holes in the bottom of my boots and let the water run right through. I was the only sailor, with scuppers in his boots. The Red Cross - and this is the truth - The Red Cross was publicly appealing for the Canadian ladies to donate their old fur coats to keep the sailors warm. After reading these ads, I had visions of myself walking up onto the bridge in a mink stole.

Part way through the war, I was sent to HMCS Cornwallis to start my training for a commission. At that time, I could only buy one white shirt in naval stores that would fit me. This is how scarce all of our supplies were. Shirts were so scarce at that time, Bing Crosby was singing, "I'm dreaming of a white shirt for Christmas". I was taking rifle drill in August and each noon hour, I would wash out the one shirt, put it on wet and double back up the parade ground with steam coming out from under my collar and several times I looked behind and found eight or ten wrens chasing along behind me. They figured that's where the action was.

Mr. Speaker, there's little chance of this happening now. The steam is pretty well gone. Mr. Speaker, these remarks may not seem relevant, but what I'm trying to make is the point that, in fact, we were woefully unprepared for the conflict in which we found ourselves at that time. We must never lose sight of the fact that one or two countries each year are falling to the Communists. This time I'm speaking about Cambodia, South Vietnam and now Angola, to mention a few. NATO announced recently that within a few months, the Russian navy would have more ships of war than the combined total of all NATO forces. The free world has already lost control of the Indian Ocean and the Mediterranean Sea. These, Mr. Speaker, are sobering facts indeed.

I strongly believe that we cannot at this time, reduce our defence efforts. The next time around, we will not have sufficient time to build up our defence force. Heaven forbid that we ever have occasion to use them, but they must be available on a very short notice.

Now, another case, it was two or three years after the war, there was a ship docked in the pier. It was a navy ship, a destroyer, and I had orders to bring a 5,000-ton ship, into tie-up there. The navy ship was ordered to move. I got up in the channel and found she was there. I had to go back out and anchor and this ship had to get in on time. So I went aboard the ship. The captain was at a party at the base.

I called him and said, "Would you please move the ship around to the end of the wharf?" He said, "I can't do it, I don't have up steam." I said, "How long would it take?" He said, "Four hours to get up steam." Now, Mr. Churchill just the day before that said, "If a nuclear war broke out...", it would be all over within two hours. You'd look darned silly, you wouldn't even have up steam!"

Now this could happen again. It is like the story of Golda Meir. She called for help when the six-day war was imminent, she thought she was going to be attacked by the Arabs and she called the President of the United States for help. She needed equipment the President said, "Well, we just sent you many hundreds of millions of dollars, what about that?" She said, "If they attack tomorrow, what do I do, write out a cheque?" Money doesn't always count.

You got to have the equipment on hand.

Referring to the Speech from the Throne, I just want to mention something that the honourable member from Cape Breton said and I will quote from Hansard, "Indeed we shall deliver electrical power to people at substantial savings over what the present Chairman of the Power Corporation is billing the people." However, he did not explain

Expansion At Conway Co-Op

The Conway Co-op store recently expanded its business area by one-third to include a Hardware and Garden Centre.

The Co-op has been a success story ever since it first opened its doors 18 years ago. Membership since that time has risen to 269.

Increasing business ultimately leads to the need for additional space - room for greater product variety and supply.

No one has to be a member of the Conway Co-op to shop there. But anyone wishing to become a member has only to drop in for a friendly chat with either the General Manager or one of his reliable staff.

There to greet you are Dick Warner, General Manager; and Hardware Manager; Bob Harrison, Grocery Manager; Bruce Baxter, Meat Manager; Myron Marshall, Produce Manager; Jim Drew and Dave Marshall, grocery and meat clerks; Maureen

Doucette, Nellie Drew and Gloria Cook, cashiers; Atlee Cornwell, bookkeeper; Jim Warner, meat department (part-time); and Joe Keast, grocery department (part-time).

Mr. Warner was appointed General Manager in June, 1974.

The co-op opens daily at 9 a.m. from Monday to Saturday and remains open to 9 p.m. - except for Friday when closing time is 10 p.m. The Conway Co-op is owned by its members and guided by its Board of Directors - Rae McCleave, President; Lloyd MacNeil, Secretary; Jack Harris, Vice-President; Arthur Gates, John D. Roope, Bob Gates, Bill Lefort, Rev. George Bell, and Frank Turner.

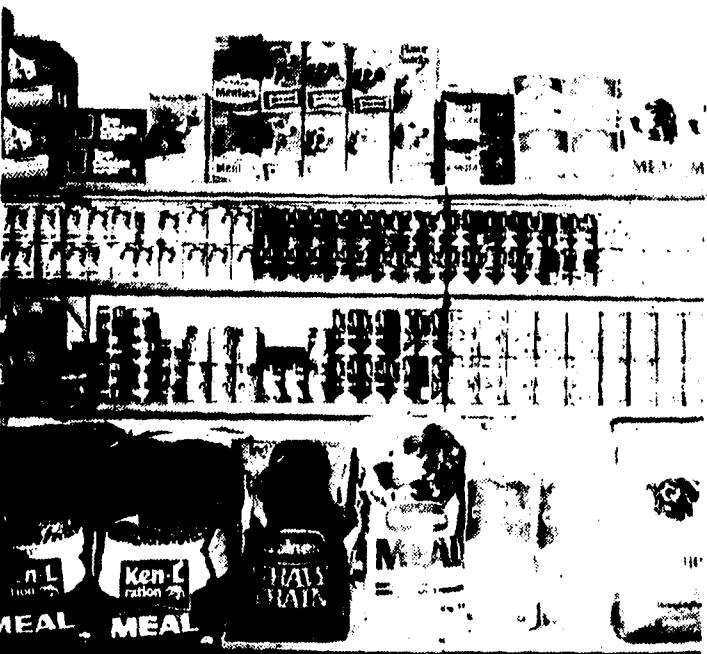

Board meetings are held monthly. An annual meeting will soon be held at which three new Directors will be voted in to replace three who are retiring. Guests and applications for membership are welcomed at the annual meeting.

With planting season just around the corner, gardening supplies will soon be in demand. Seeds and other needed supplies are now in stock at the new Hardware and Garden Centre at Conway Co-op.

Freeport Native Given Honour

A Freeport, Digby County, native and graduate of Acadia University, Wolfville, Dr. Eric Lane Titus, has been made professor emeritus of the Claremont School of Religion in Claremont, Cal., a suburb of Los Angeles.

His wife, the former Mildred Robinson, is a native of Amherst.

Dr. Titus, professor of New Testament, holds the record among faculty at the school with the longest appointment. He came to the college in 1944 when it was the School of Religion at the University of California.

He graduated from Acadia in 1934, and obtained a bachelor of divinity from Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, and a doctorate of philosophy from the University of Chicago.

Dr. Titus, retired, spends summers at a home near Freeport, but has returned to Claremont to teach on special assignment.

He has a sister, Mrs. Curtis Prime, and a brother, Herbert Titus, both of Dartmouth.

Attend Co-Op Meet

Jack D. Harris, Bear River and William LeFort, Weymouth, were among the two hundred delegates gathered at the Hotel Beauséjour, Moncton, on Wednesday and Thursday, March 24 and 25, for the Annual Meeting of Maritime Co-operative Services. The delegates were voting representatives of nearly two hundred locally owned and controlled co-ops which in turn own and control M. C. S., their supply, service, manufacturing and distribution centre.

President Richard Savoie of Caraquet, New Brunswick, in making the opening address, stressed the need for long-range planning. "Our theme for this meeting is 1982: Where do we want to be? To assure real growth in inflationary times, we must plan carefully for the future."

The Business Report presented by General Manager, L. G. Horton, of Moncton observed that for the first time the central co-operatives' annual sales exceeded 100 million dollars. "Our sales have tripled during the past five years," Mr. Horton noted, "and allowing for inflationary factors, our real growth seems to have doubled."

Mr. Horton stressed that the growth of the central co-op reflects a great deal of activity at the local level. "We are pleased with this growth, but to be truly efficient we must co-ordinate our mutual development through appropriate long-range goals."

Dr. Peter Nichols New Deputy Minister

Dr. Nichols is a graduate of Acadia University with a B. Sc. degree in 1961 and received a M.D. Degree from Dalhousie University Medical School in 1966.

Following graduation, Dr. Nichols began a medical practice in North Sydney and late took post graduate courses in health care planning and administration at the University of British Columbia.

The new deputy minister joined the Nova Scotia Health Services and Insurance Commission in 1974. He is a member of the Nova Scotia Medical Society and the Canadian Medical Association.

A two and a half year search for a provincial deputy minister of public health has ended with the appointment of a 36-year-old native Nova Scotian.

Dr. Peter Nichols, a native of Digby, will assume his post immediately. Since November 1974, Dr. Nichols has served as administrator of public hospitals with the Nova Scotia Health Services and Insurance Commission.

Health Minister Allan Sullivan announced Dr. Nichols' appointment in the legislature yesterday. When named to the health portfolio last month, Mr. Sullivan said his first major task would be the procurement of a deputy minister.

Mr. Sullivan said yesterday the province and the government are "fortunate" in obtaining Dr. Nichols for the deputy minister post.

Dr. Thomas McKeough (PC-Cape Breton North) welcomed the appointment. Besides being a veteran member of the legislature, Dr. McKeough is currently president of the Nova Scotia Medical Society.

Dr. McKeough told the House that Dr. Nichols is a "man of vim and vigor" and well-suited for his new post.

Arrives For Interim Pastor

Rev. V. E. Kirkpatrick of Oregon, Illinois has arrived in Digby where he will be interim pastor at the Lighthouse Mission Church of God until the regular pastor takes over in July. Mrs. Kirkpatrick will come to Digby within the next few weeks.

Digby, Nova Scotia, is not new to Rev. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick. They had attended the wedding of their son, Sydney, to Miss Ruth Daley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Daley, Lighthouse Road, and had made other visits here. Rev. and Mrs. Sydney (Ruth) Kirkpatrick are in charge of a pastorate in Rockford, Illinois.

The name Kirkpatrick is synonymous with preaching. Their other son, Rev. Vivian Kirkpatrick is in charge of a church in Indiana and their daughter, Rebekah is married to Rev. Donald Needham and lives in Blanchard, Michigan. Mrs. Kirkpatrick was the daughter of a Christian Minister. Other children of Rev. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick are Deborah, Mrs. Gary Swift whose husband is a graduate of the Oregon Bible College; Judy, Mrs. Gary Myers and Donna who expects to visit in Digby.

Rev. Mr. Kirkpatrick has a varied career. At the time he began preaching, approximately forty years ago a full course theology was not considered essential and with possibly six weeks training and self study the service was begun. Rev. Mr.

World Day Of Prayer

By Frances Adams

The World Day of Prayer was observed on Friday evening, March 19, in the Digby Wesleyan Church.

Members of the Salvation Army Corp, Baptist, United, and Roman Catholic Churches participated along with the members of the Anglican, Seventh Day Advent, Acaciaville Baptist and Wesleyan Churches. The theme was "Education for all of Life."

The call to Prayer was given by Envoy Peter Muise, commanding officer of the Digby Salvation Army Corp.

The service was divided into three scenes. The first scene "The Reality of Poverty" was dramatized by the ladies of the United Church; the second scene "The Reality of Relationships" by members of the Roman Catholic Church and the third scene "The Reality of Repression" was dramatized by the Baptist Church people.

Miss Mary Marshall, representing the Anglican Church, participated in the scene just previous to a solo by Robert Wilson of the Wesleyan Church. He gave a beautiful rendition of "At Kirkpatrick has graduated from other universities and colleges and has taught in the Oregon Bible College and other institutions. In some areas Mr. Kirkpatrick doubled by teaching school through the week and preaching on weekends. Mr. Kirkpatrick changed his occupation a little later as representative of the Scholastic Magazine and Book Services. He has now retired and does interim supply work for the Church of God.

Calvary" and later of "Why for Me." Mrs. Douglas Hapeman presided at the piano.

Rev. Earl Waterman of the Christian Advent Church, Bear River, was guest speaker. He addressed the Congregation on the words:

"Cling to, Trust in, Rely on Him" and his message was an appropriate one for the occasion and the speaker told his congregation about the pattern of purpose power of Unity

Members of the Seventh Day Advent Church participated in the closing section of the service which included the presentation of the offering.

"Bless be the Tie That Binds" was the hymn chosen to conclude the service following which a member of the Acaciaville Baptist Church gave the Commission to "Go Forth into the World."

At the close of the service members formed a circle around the room.

The ladies of the hosting church served a variety of attractive refreshments.

Survival Of Geese Creates Interest

Can domestic geese survive on the Bear River marsh? If so, can they successfully reproduce?

These are just two of the questions John Alcorn is seeking answers to. And we may all find out in the near future if the seven Emdens now feeding along the river are left unmolested.

If all are alive and well at this time, the geese will have made it on their own for seven weeks.

The most interesting part of this experiment may well be can they reproduce? Will they have enough sense to nest above the high-water line? With nesting season at hand we may find out in short order.

As for the availability of food, John figures there is enough feed along the river to support 1000 geese. The area is a stopping-zone for the Canada Goose.

Though the results could well prove interesting, this experiment was not pre-planned. After the geese emigrated from the Alcorn farm is this community, John just decided to let them go and see what happens.

His request to the public, and ours, is "leave the birds alone." The birds are apparently taking advantage of their extensive home-territory. Sightings have been made along the river from the Bear River Bridge to the village.

Joint Band Concert At St. Anne's

Sunday, April 4, the "Fanfare Regionale de Clare" and the Yarmouth Citizens Band will present a joint concert in the College Sainte-Anne Gymnasium.

The "Fanfare Regionale de Clare", conducted by Rev. Maurice LeBlanc, will open the concert with the five following numbers: the march "Activity," "Raindrops Keep Fallin' on my Head," "Mon Pays" (My Home-Land), "Snowbird" and "Five Fingers", a novelty for piano and band.

The Yarmouth Citizens Band under the direction of Mr. Herbie Deveau, will follow with the following selections: "Century of Progress," "The Cricket and the Bullfrog", a duet for piccolo and tuba accompanied by band, "Old Timers Waltz", "Click Go the Shears" and "Amparito Roca", a Spanish march.

The Erjavec family instrumental group, in their national costumes, will offer three Yugoslavian folk melodies, two polkas and a waltz. The group is composed of six members, Dr. and Mrs. Erjavec and their four children, Maya, Nicholas, Mathias and Luke.

The last portion of the programme will be presented by both bands combined together, totalizing the number of musicians to over sixty. This mass band will play an arrangement of "Alouette", "Fantasy for Band," "Blue Tango", "Water Music" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic".

This concert will feature local talents and all are cordially invited to this evening of entertainment at Curtain time: 8:00 p.m. The proceeds will serve as scholarships for the young musicians of the "Fanfare Regionale de Clare" who plan to attend the Summer Music Camp in Sackville next Summer.

The same program will be repeated the following Sunday, April 11, in the Yarmouth High School Auditorium.

Club Ring Ceremony Held

The Tiverton I. A. H. Girl's Club held a cookie sale on Thursday, March 18, to raise money for their club rings. The sum of $46.50 was realized.

The I. A. H. Club held a Ring Ceremony in the Baptist Church Vestry on Friday evening, March 19, when the nine members and their leaders received their rings.

The meeting was opened with a sing-song. Shauna Outhouse, Holly Pyne, and Angela Elliott sang "I'll be Listening" followed by a solo "In The Garden" by Lisa Ossinger. All members joined in singing "Take Off The Old Robe and Put On The New."

Club Leader, Mrs. Herbert Cossaboom, gave a brief outline on how the I. A. H. Club got its beginning.

A candlelight ceremony took place for the presenting of rings. Mrs. Janet Pyne, assistant leader, placed the rings on all members present. Kathy Cossaboom performed the ceremony for the leaders.

The members were very pleased to hear of their newest project. The Club is going to sponsor a child through World Vision, giving the children something to strive for each month.

It was good to have attending the ceremony three mothers and a visitor.

The meeting was closed with a beautiful prayer offered by Shauna Outhouse. The girls then served lunch to all present.

Auxiliary Presents $500

The Freeport Legion Auxiliary president, Mrs. Virginia Crocker, on behalf of the Auxiliary, presented a cheque of $500 to the Legion at the regular monthly meeting on Saturday. The cheque was accepted on behalf of the Legion by Commander Sidney Hooper.

The "Pot Luck Supper" put on by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Legion was well attended on Saturday evening. Many varied casseroles and other foods too numerous to be named were served buffet style, with pie, coffee, and tea. The ladies were complimented on all their delicious fare. Following the supper a number of the men volunteered their services with cleaning up the dishes for which the ladies on the committees were most grateful.

The business meeting of the Auxiliary followed at 8:30 with most members and officers present. It was decided to again hold meetings on the same night as the Legion holds theirs. Due to lack of attendance, the meeting night for this one month was changed to Saturday evening. A Penny Sale is to be held at the next meeting.

Entertain Students

At the last meeting of the Islands Home and School Association, it was decided that the Home and School will be having a banquet for the Safety Patrol members again this year. Committees were formed to provide for the catering and also for the entertainment. The banquet will be held on the next meeting night, April 5, with all the members of the patrol invited plus the five elementary teachers and the school supervisor, Keith Manzer. Following the banquet, there will be an entertainment, then the students will go home and the business meeting of the Home and School will take place.

Since the beginning of the season, the secretary found it difficult to attend the meetings and had to resign. In her place, Mrs. Karleen Kinney had been elected.

The Treasurer also since accepting a place on the nursing staff at the Digby Hospital has not been able to continue with her duties so for the remainder of the year Mrs. Crocker has been asked to do so.

The Progressive 45 parties sponsored by the Home and School have been most successful and it is hoped to continue with these whenever able before school closes for the summer.

Come and join with us some Saturday night and enjoy yourself with an evening of 45s.

THE TIME TO CONSIDER BUYING IN TOWN:

We have a two year old bungalow with partially finished basement; a three bedroom bungalow with fireplace on large lot near shopping and hospitals; an average priced home on good sized lot near schools; a good family home with 1½ baths and fireplace near downtown area; and a smaller two bedroom with acre lot - ideal for retired couple. Also take a look at the up and down duplex on Prince William Street.

THE TIME TO CONSIDER MOVING TO THE COUNTRY:

Two homes in Brighton both with acreage - One with 50 acres and the other with 25 acres. Also in Brighton a new home on shorefront lot - a good buy at $30,000.00.

In Smith's Cove enjoy the view from a three bedroom bungalow, newly decorated and with spacious lot. In Bear River we offer an older style three bedroom home on three acre lot. Interior all redone.

We DARE you to have a look at the two storey brick front home in Deep Brook featuring fireplace, hardwood floors, built-in oven and stove and a generally pleasing interior.

THE TIME TO CONSIDER BUILDING:

We have a variety of lots available ranging from standard building lots to small or large acreage. We are certain we have the one for you.

THE TIME TO CONSIDER SELLING:

List your property with us and enjoy the benefit of a pleasing and qualified staff to handle all the details of the sale.

SONNY AND CHER - Providing a refreshing, often off-beat look at the world through the strange, colorful characters who inhabit it, Sonny and Cher are back on CTV, together in their own hour-long musical-comedy variety show. In addition to outstanding guest performers and personalities, the program showcases the electric combination of Sonny and Cher, with their irrepressible flair for the comic, and the inimitable style and strength they bring to every song.

BY BOB MCVEIGH

TIGERS CAPTURE ATOM CHAMPIONSHIP

The Greg Coole coached Tigers won the Digby-Cornwallis Atom Championship when they took the second game by the score of 4-3, having won the first by shutting out the Cats 3-0. This game was by far the best of the season from all reports, having everything, excellent stops by both goalies, outstanding plays etc., Robbie Kynock scored all four goals for the Tigers, two in the first period, assists going to Michael Goguen and Randy Drew. The Tigers lead 3-0 going into the third when Cats tied the game on successive goals by Kimball Nesbitt, Phillip MacDonald and Jeff Irvine. Both teams battled through a ten minute overtime period without a score and it was decided that each team would be allowed a penalty shot on the opposing goalie. Again there was no score. Then "sudden death" was played and about the seven minute mark, Robbie Kynock scored his fourth goal to win the game and the Championship. Our sincere congratulations to the Tigers and to the Cats, remember its how you play the game that counts. There is no doubt that you gave it your all.

NAMES OF PLAYERS WHO PARTICIPATED FROM DIGBY IN THE ATOM LEAGUE

Tigers: Robbie Kynock, Mike Goguen, Robbie Cullen, Rick Cullen, John Ritchie, Mark Hersey, Keith MacKintosh, Randy Drew, David Barlow, Danny Vantassel, Stacey Daley, Jeff Learn, Bruce Baxter, Robert Whalley.

DIGBY BANTAMS "B" FLYERS WIN WESTERN NOVA SCOTIA CHAMPIONSHIP

The Digby Minor Hockey Association and Digby Legion sponsored Bantams won their second game against Lunenburg by the score of 8-4 and took the two game total goal series by 16-9, having won the first game 8-5, thus winning the Western Nova Scotia Bantam "B" Championship. This was the eighth straight victory for the Flyers in the Provincial playoffs. They eliminated Berwick, Wolfville, Newport and now Lunenburg.

This game played in Lunenburg was penalty riddled. Referee, Mike Surratte, called a total of twenty-nine, and on one occasion awarded a penalty shot to Lunenburg on which they scored. Incidentally, the officiating was of the highest calibre. The first period ended 2-2 on goals by Sean Raymond and Danny LeBlanc for Digby while Lohnes scored both for Lunenburg, one on a penalty shot. Flyers added three unassisted goals in the second, two by Kevin Locke and one by Danny LeBlanc while holding Lunenburg scoreless. In the third a total of nine penalties was called, five to Digby and four to Lunenburg, one a match misconduct to Wilcox for attempt to injure. Locke got his third goal (unassisted) and Danny LeBlanc scored his third (Locke-Mullen) and his fourth (Raymond) for Digby, Wilcox (Munroe) and Lohnes (unassisted), his third of the game, ended the scoring for Lunenburg.

This was the best team the Flyers have met to date. It had balance, depth, offensive power and was well coached by Dr. Kent. Both games played between these teams displayed a keen competitive and fast moving affair with a crowd pleasing flavour, evidenced by the number of penalties called. The Flyers now will be entering the tournament being held at Trenton, this coming week-end, to determine the Provincial Champions in Bantam "B" Division. Realizing the expense involved, by the team being there for the weekend, anyone wishing to donate monies should get in touch with coach Paul Vantassel.

Paul Vantassel is coach; assistant coaches are Richard Daley and Stanley Locke.

CASEY

in detail just how he expected to do this. I feel he will have to be more specific or I am not going to vote NDP next time around.

The honourable member and likewise the Leader of the Opposition reminds me of the story of Will Rogers. He was up on the platform in World War II, and at that time the submarine menace was pretty terrifying, the Germans were beating us hands down, but he said he had a solution to this. They asked him what it was. "All you have to do is heat the North Atlantic up to 212 degrees and you can boil them!" he declared. "How are you going to do it?" He replied, "Don't bother me with details, I am just a policy man myself."

Mr. Speaker, so many times our MLA's are quick to criticize our federal government in Ottawa when they are doing things that we do not fully agree with, but we are sometimes slow to give them credit when they make a good decision. I am no exception, I guess to that rule. What I am about to say will be a good illustration. At the beginning of the fishing season last year, things looked bleak indeed. Fishermen were faced with decreased fish landings, but even more serious than that there was a very weak market, plagued by very low prices. The Minister of Fisheries and his staff very rapidly came up with what he called a bridging program. They paid two and one-half cents per pound to the fishermen on certain ground fish and eight cents per pound on the finished products to fish plant operators, fresh fish to the United States not included. The price paid to fishermen was to be paid only on gutted fish. This was for two reasons. The extra money to pay for increased operating expenses but also to improve the quality of the fish. The market slowly improved and what started out to be a bad year turned out to be not so bad at all. But I can say that if it had not been for this bridging program, many plants would have been forced to close their doors and many fishermen would have operated at a loss.

This program was good for several reasons. The money went directly to the fishermen and the fish plant operators. It was a very simple and direct form of assistance, very little was spent in administration. Many times the cost of administration is so great that very little is left for the people that are supposed to be receiving assistance. The assistance arrived in good time. In this age of rapidly changing world markets governments have to move fast if this help is to be effective. They cannot be like a friend of mine that when he goes rabbit hunting he sometimes fires at the rabbit and shoots the hound, and many times this is the way that governments think. They move so slow it is almost like whipping a toad through tar.

Transportation system, I'd like to just mention one—I always like to throw in some new ideas. We have a railway system through the Valley for one place that is not being used one-tenth of the time it should be and they are always threatening to take off the dayliner and so on. Now I have an idea that might work.

The maintenance man and the president of the company, when he travels to my area, he always comes down in the car that runs on the rails. Now, could not this transportation system be used for private people like us to put their car on there, with slight modifications, you could put a car on there.

Most of them have governors today and you can get them with governors, and you run the thing on the rail, you set the speed at 60 miles per hour. You'd have a radar system on her which is quite simple by today's way of doing things, but you don't have to worry about running into the fellow next to you. If you start getting too close, the radar slows you down. Now, this all can be done.

So you can sit in the car in Digby, and you could take off for Halifax and you could go to sleep almost. Now, you could have turnoff places every 20 or 30 miles. No problem, you lift up your little wheels and you turn off like that. You wouldn't even have to slow down, and you could run all the traffic to go to the west one day and the east the next, or you could split the time up in half, you know, and you could go three hours to the west, and so on.

AN HON. MEMBER: What about the RCMP?

MR. CASEY: I don't know about that. They'd work up a way of getting on that rail somehow. Well, if you can't go past 60 miles an hour, you don't have to worry about speed limits. You don't have to build new highways. You don't have any traffic congestion. The grades are quite gradual. You don't use as much fuel and you think about it, Mr. Speaker. If you come up with a better idea, let me know.

The tourism business in our constituency is probably the best we've ever had and many of the motels are getting booked already for next year, and I would say to the ex-Minister of Tourism, that much of this depends on, or is responsive to promotion programs. Now, some people will disagree with me, but I'm telling you, if nobody had arrived in Digby County, we'd all blame him. So, if they did arrive, we should give him the credit, him and his department.

AN HON. MEMBER: They came to see you, MR. CASEY: That could be. I don't know why. Nevertheless, we must keep coming up with new ideas. We started last year for the first time with Scallop day and what better thing could you think of happening in Digby County.

Digby scallops are known all over the world. In fact, I have a friend of mine that was in Hawaii just last month, and he had some of my scallops there. He said they were black, they had been thawed and frozen so many times. So there are probably some inferior ones going on the market. I'd like to see them come to Digby and eat them when they're freshly caught, then they'd really know what a Digby scallop is. (Applause)

Now, you can have fish fries, you can have clam bakes, lobster boils and all these type of things put on by each community, because the most criticism I get is from people who come to Nova Scotia expecting fish and can't get it.

MR. HOW: Why don't they make you Minister of Tourism.

MR. CASEY: Now, one other point, the food and drug administration in the United States has removed shellfish from the high cholesterol list. This is quite important. Most people were afraid to eat it because it had high cholesterol. It has more than ground fish, but it's much lower than most other high protein foods.

Now, one other thing that we must never forget. Nova Scotians are known as friendly people. I've got about one minute I guess, Mr. Speaker. Can I...

Nova Scotians are known—I don't think any of us will dispute that fact and I would certainly hope that they never forget this fact. This is probably the greatest asset we have. Every citizen is an ambassador in his own right, and this is what you get so little in so many places. We take them through our fish plant. It's an awful nuisance. They get underfoot, they fall and all this type of thing, but I think it's good publicity even if it costs us some money.

One woman visitor stepped on a fish and she went the whole length of the plant on one foot, with one foot up in the air. I could have charged admission, we would have made something off of that. I think if everybody takes time to talk to these people, they certainly appreciate it, and I'll tell you a case where this happened.

I was down on the wharf buying fish one night and a girl who worked at the Pines that I knew, she came down to buy a fish, and while we were talking, she said the American tourists, you know, are the greatest people, but they ask the darndest questions and she was telling about these people, this family had just arrived from the United States and she said they were from a little place called Berea, Kentucky.

She had no more than gotten through and she looked and saw them coming down the wharf. So she took off in another direction, so they didn't know I had any contact with her. They didn't have a car so I could not identify them by their license plates. So, I got talking to them, and finally I said to the lady, I said, "Would you be from Kentucky by any chance?" She said, "Well, how can you tell that?" "Well," I said, "I have a hobby of trying to place people by their accent." "My Lord," she said, "You're right bang on, I am from Kentucky, you know," and so we talked a little longer, and I said, "It wouldn't be from a little place called Berea, would it?" She almost dropped dead, and that girl walked out of there shaking her head. She doesn't know to this day how I knew where she came from, but, I mean, just the minute you talk to a person like that, it gives them something to take back to the United States. She's still wondering, she's telling other people about it, and so on. But take that minute, talk to these people, they'll appreciate it and our business will boom.

That's all, I thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. (Applause)

First Birthday Party

An "At Home" was held Sunday afternoon and evening at the home of Miss Julia Cole, New Tusket, who was celebrating her 80th birthday.

Miss Cole was pleased to have so many neighbours and friends call during the afternoon and evening, as it was the very first birthday party she has ever had.

Refreshments were served.

She received nice gifts, also two birthday cakes, roses, flowers and money, etc.

Everyone wishes her many more happy birthdays.

Earn Conference Money

The Weymouth Youth Group of the Church of Christ, Weymouth are busy workers. At present time they have decided that as of last year they can raise money by doing odd-jobs for anyone who needs work done. The reason for this is they are planning to go to Charlottetown, P.E.I. for the Spring Conference which will be held in April. Last year the response for this project was good.

Last Friday night they held a Bake Sale in the Digby Mall which was a success.

Aid To Guatemalans

A successful pantry sale was held at the weekly Parish binger held in Plympton Parish Hall and sponsored by the Catholic Woman's League of Plympton Parish. The proceeds amounted to $112.15.

Congratulations are extended to the C.W.L. on their work in the years gone by and in this past year. The group have been generous in their donations. Among them were "Development and Peace", the Guatemala tragedy, "Christmas Daddies", "The Church Today" (a Catholic Program shown on TV) and "World Missions."

The C.W.L. also enjoyed quilting parties held at the convent where Mrs. Martina Melanson supplied two lovely rapture pies. Mrs. Genevieve White graciously opened her house to the group on many occasions.

The group remembered the sick and shut-ins of the Parish at Christmas and also those who have passed away were remembered with mass offerings.

The C.W.L. donated an electric broom to the church and curtains and drapes to the rectory, the Sacramentary Book for Masses and the lectionary to the church, confirmation certificates and rosary beads to the Sisters for confirmation. A new Holy Water basin was presented.

Clifford Doucette called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy McCullough of Weymouth, George Morrison of Fredericton, N.B., is visiting at the same home.

Carl Doucette is taking a course at N.S.I.T. in Halifax. Billy Doucette plans to leave via Air Canada on Thursday for Calgary, Alberta, where he will be employed. Billy has spent a few months at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs.

David Doucette. Many of his young friends spoke longingly about the late Walter Deveau who lost his life in a car accident in Halifax. His birthday having been the 12th of this month, he has not been forgotten by his many friends.

The March Break from school is being enjoyed by the youngsters. Many of the young folks going away to school are at their homes this week.

Sympathy is extended to the family of the late Mr. Tommy Comeau who passed away recently. Tommy was well known and a well respected citizen of the community, active in church and many organizations. He is sadly missed by his many friends. Mrs. Frank (Clotilde) Comeau of Windsor, Ontario, formerly of Gilbert Cove was in the area to attend her brother's funeral.

Annapolis County Arts And Crafts Association Display And Design Workshop

There will be a Display and Design Workshop given by Mr. Robert Doyle on Sunday, April 4th at the Annapolis Royal Regional Academy from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.. Mr. Robert Doyle teaches Theatrical Design and is artist in residence at Dalhousie University and owner of the Weaver's Loft in Lunenburg. He was responsible for the costume design at Fortress Louisburg and former costume designer for Neptune Theatre.

This workshop is free to all members of the association and a fee of $5.00 will be charged to non-members. Would anyone attending please bring a lunch - we have the facilities of the Home Economics Department so you can warm soup, etc. Coffee will be available. Please bring three craft objects with you - these will be used in making a group display; also a notebook and any problems you may have encountered in display or setting up exhibits, etc. The importance of advertising and publicity will be stressed.

A similar workshop was given by Mr. Doyle at the N.S. Teacher's College in Truro recently and was described by participants as a fabulous experience. There will be a meeting of the committees for Artisan '76 and the Western Nova Scotia Demonstration and Sale after the workshop and supper to be provided.

Object To Park Name

Reference, to the wildlife park in Upper Clements as the Prescecky Wildlife Park has brought adverse reaction from the Annapolis Basin Tourist and Recreation Council.

Meeting at the Hedley House in Smiths Cove on Wednesday night, the Tour-Rec council decided to express its objections through a letter to the Minister of Tourism, Hon. Maurice DeLoxey.

Council members felt the park's name should indicate its location. Suggestions which will be forwarded to the minister include Annapolis Basin Wild Life Park and Digby-Annapolis Wild Life Park.

Members also felt calling the park "Prescecky" would indicate the land had been donated to the province, which is not the case.

The park was scheduled to open last year on land commonly known as the Prescecky Property. But the opening was delayed for some time pending constructing of turning lane at the entrance. It is now expected to open this spring.

(April 4)

The Gonac, the scallop sloop damaged by fire in Digby, was under repairs at the Shipbuilding Shop. This was the former Reserve Army Barracks purchased by E. A. Chapell. Several contracts for building draggers and fish boats had been accepted and machinery had been ordered. Eight to twelve men were to be employed.

A shortage of heavy timbers delayed repairs at the Spur Pier.

The Department of Trade and Industry was negotiating the purchase of land 100 feet x 100 feet for the purpose of erecting a Tourist Information Bureau.

It was this week that the Digby street lighting system was first controlled by electric eye, a device operating on the principle of the photo electric cell automatically at the coming of daylight.

Town Council that week was a lengthy one, the longest in the history of the then present Council. The Digby Board of Trade sought assistance for the purchase of the R. C. N. Cornwallis rink. E. J. Theriault, on behalf of the merchants of the town, presented a petition proposing a new by-law for Wednesday afternoon store closing. Norman Wright, on behalf of his father, O. Wright, requested Council consider stores open Wednesday afternoons during July and August as this is a tourist town. Council referred the matter to the Retail Merchants Association to be brought up at a later date.

Truency was beginning to develop in town among children from 7 years to 15 years. Parents were being requested to teach children respect for law, respect for property and teach children right from wrong. Children at that age are in formative years and attitudes towards life stay with them reflecting on the future of the country.

Weather in 1946. April is more like March than March was like March. More snow.

Hill Grove

(Mrs. D. A. Roope)

Mrs. Benjamin Marshall is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Scott Marshall and family in St. Johns, Newfoundland. Mr. and Mrs. Albert

The Bear River-Smiths Cove intersection at the Bear River Bridge was also brought up. David Irvine noted the citizen's group is still waiting for planning people to come from Halifax to explain the government's proposal.

A delegation from the council will appear before the next session of Digby Town Council asking that the town accept the $1,250 available from the AVABT for the tourist bureau, and keep it open for the required period of time conditional to accepting the funds.

The Tour-Rec council now has five planning maps in its possession. These are the result of a joint effort with the department of tourism. Various possible uses were discussed.

A draft of by-laws was approved by the group. Council may now look into registering under the Societies Act.

The next meeting will be held at the Fundy Restaurant on April 14. Two films are being ordered for that date- Bluenose Ghosts and Tides of Fundy.

Storm Damage Repairs $470,000

Mr. D. A. Kean, Acting Regional Manager, Small Craft Harbours Branch, Maritimes Region, Environment Canada, has announced that repairs will be carried out at small craft harbour facilities which were damaged during the severe storm of February 2, 1976. Minor repairs will be carried out at the following places: Short Beach, Ledge Harbour, Dennis Point, Abbott's Harbour, of Yarmouth County, Nova Scotia and Shag Harbour, The Hawk and Swin's Point of Shelburne County, Nova Scotia. Extensive repairs will be carried out at Sandy Cove East, Freeport, New Edinburgh, Digby County and Ledge Harbour, Yarmouth County, Nova Scotia. A wharf extension will be carried out at Pereau in Kings County, Nova Scotia, as a result of serious damage which occurred to the wharf at nearby Kingsport. The wharf at Kingsport will be disposed of.

The total cost of the above repairs is estimated at $470,000. Emergency works and general cleanup of harbour facilities have already been completed at a cost of approximately $15,000. These works were carried out by the Federal Department of Public Works. Officials of the Federal Department of Public Works, Nova Scotia district office, have been advised to proceed with the preparation of plans and specifications and it is anticipated that tenders will be called very early in the new fiscal year which commences on April 1, 1976. Most of the repairs should be completed by June 30 but some projects will take longer to complete.

A similar program has been implemented to effect storm damage repairs in New Brunswick. Courier Malcolm

Bagnell Visits Municipality, Gets Interim Financing

By Larry Duchesne

Digby Municipal Council got its chance to talk assessment with Municipal Affairs Minister Glen Bagnell during a meeting between the two parties at the Court House on Monday.

The major criticisms heard by the Minister concerned the one-man Appeal Court, alleged lack of uniformity in assessment values, and control of assessors.

The high point of the meeting came when Mr. Bagnell presented Council with a cheque for $60,890 to "help defray the cost of running the municipal unit for the next few months" until tax bills can be sent out. This amounts to 25 per cent of total grants for the year.

The low point probably came in the Minister's response when questioned as to what can be done about the "unfair and unjust" assessments.

Mr. Bagnell replied: "Appeal to County Court... use the full course of the law that exists."

The meeting started with Mr. Bagnell remarking that the reassessment took place by Council's employees. The next assessment would be carried out by the province, he noted, by the same people with different bosses.

Warden Wilfred Swift started the ball rolling from Council's side. Council might have been paying the bill, he noted, but "it had nothing to do with the assessment."

"We find we are not their bosses...we're paymasters only," Councillor Rice commented. He said Council had little or no control over assessors, and now that they're provincial, "you'll find you have little or no control."

Mr. Bagnell said assessors are "directly answerable to me."

"By their actions, I felt they were answerable to no one," Mr. Rice replied.

Councillor L. E. R. Winchester allowed that there has been no total reassessment since 1967, but listed the comparatively minor increases which took place since then. The highest increase was the 1977 assessment values which rose 47 per cent based on the 1967 assessment.

Mr. Winchester's main attack was against the "so many examples of discriminations and so many examples of errors." Referring to two cases where assessment on land contracted to the provincial government had dropped in assessment value, Councillor Winchester said it seems there is some "sculduggery afoot."

Mr. Bagnell said the government does not pay for land on its assessment value, but on its market value.

Mr. Winchester spoke of several cases in which he felt the assessment values were not fair. In criticising the one-man Court system, Mr. Winchester noted Council has asked for additional court personnel - i.e. a professional realtor, so it would not be a "kangaroo court."

He noted the judge in the one-man system "carries a terrific amount of power", and if he felt insulted "he would throw that appeal out," he said such a case had already occurred during the present hearing.

Mr. Winchester said he could provide facts and figures on any case he mentioned during the meeting.

Mr. Bagnell referred to assessment as a method of distributing the tax load fairly. He understood Mr. Winchester's remarks as an attempt to show the load is not evenly distributed.

The Minister questioned whether the quality of assessments here had been questioned before, and if problems were found, why was the assessment director retained?

The reply, Council had made moves to remove him but was unable to.

Commenting on the Appeal Board, Mr. Bagnell said he had three letters from municipal wardens who felt the one-man board is a "big improvement" over the three-man board. This, he said, resulted in the appellant feeling more relaxed, and others favour more resource people on the board, he noted, an equal number for and against. "I'm not sure we should rigidly go for a one-man Appeal Court."

Councillor Winchester said if Council wants a three-man appeal Court it should be given consideration.

Commenting on farmland and woodlot assessments, Councillor Helen McNeil said "there's no way in the world we could ever get that on the market." She also expressed concern for those unable to go before the Appeals Court. "Nobody likes to go into a court," she noted.

Councillor Thurber expressed his displeasure with assessments on the Islands.

Mr. Bagnell said he had considered the problems of people in resource industries but if they were given a lower rate the homeowners would have to pay the cost. He noted $1,600 in extra grants was being made available to municipalities this year to help farmers and woodlot owners.

Commenting on the assessment procedure, Mr. Bagnell said there's no way he believes it's perfect. "I'm sure it needs change."

Councillor Rice noted that former Municipal Affairs Minister Fraser Mooney had found Council "illegal" in rejecting the new assessments. He wondered why they were brought before Council for approval in the first place.

A little later in the meeting, M.L.A. Joe Casey questioned whether more control over assessment can be given to the municipalities. The minister noted such a move would remove a problem from the province and give it to the municipalities, but the province wants to look at any inequities and he didn't feel such a move would solve any problems.

At one point during the afternoon, Mr. Bagnell noted his department would like to have standard training, upgrading, and information courses for its assessors, and its own manual (assessment guide) for all assessors.

Jean Marshall Returns For Song Service

Jean Marshall, Middleton, accomplished vocalist in Nova Scotia and other provinces of Canada, will be in Digby at the Baptist Church on Sunday evening where she will give a program in testimony and song.

Jean was born in Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, as Jean Eldridge and began singing in that town as a young child. She married Furber Marshall and lived in Digby for a number of years. It was in Digby where she began C.B. C. Radio appearances.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Marshall and family moved to Halifax and Jean began appearances on CBHT-TV and became a regular performer on CBC National radio and TV networks, including the TV series Reflections and Kingfisher Cove.

As her children grew older, Jean began another direction in her career with sacred concerts and guest artist appointments in churches and in-terdenominational religious conferences in many parts of Eastern Canada and USA. For three years, she was soloist with the Invitation to Live Crusades, which took her from Jamaica to Northern Saskatchewan and from Virginia to California.

Jean's freedom in singing has made her equally at home in either tiny churches and hospital wards, often without accompaniment or in the National Arts Centre or professional recording studios with the support of the finest accompanists.

She now makes her home in Middleton, where when at home, is a member of the choir in the Baptist Church there, along with her husband Furber. Jean has had no formal vocal training.

Jean's family has grown up, and only Sheila is at home, attending Annapolis Regional Vocational School. David is attending Acadia University, and Anne is teaching school in Mill Village.

The Atlantic Symphony Comes To Digby

The Second Season: Nova Scotia Concert Tours

When the Atlantic Symphony comes to Digby, it's an occasion for packed auditoriums and smiling faces all around.

Thanks to the most generous support of the Nova Scotia Department of Recreation, Canada's only fully regional Symphony begins its second exciting season of Nova Scotia Concert Tours including Digby.

The first trial tour last year of eleven Nova Scotia centres, not previously included in the A. S. O.'s regular touring itinerary, proved so successful that Symphony and Recreation planners have this season scheduled an additional 14 provincial tours.

Over the years, the Atlantic Symphony Orchestra has looked forward to the day when visits could be made to many more Nova Scotia communities. The Symphony is both pleased and excited that the sponsorship assistance of the Nova Scotia Department of Recreation has this season made it possible for audiences in more centres to experience an evening of music with the Symphony.

Included in each evening's performance will be featured solo presentations by concertmaster Jan Bobak, first violin; Mrs. Anne Krabill, first oboe; David Krabill, first bassoon; and Miss Chang Woo Lee, first cello. The entire orchestra of 47 musicians will combine to perform a complete programme of full orchestral selections.

See and hear the Atlantic Symphony Orchestra live, in concert at the Multi-Purpose Room, Digby Regional High School, Tuesday, April 20 at 8 p.m.

It's family entertainment at its best. Community support for these special concerts has been considerable and is assisting the

A. S. O. in establishing Nova Scotia Concert Tours as an annual event.

Adult tickets are $3 and student tickets $2. For ticket information contact: Levy's Drug Store, Good Neighbour Drug Mart, Digby.

Seminar To Be Held In Digby

Digby Town Council on Monday evening decided by regular motion to sponsor the Municipal Hand Book seminar here at the next regular Town Council meeting.

Municipal Government regulations and methods of dealing with Municipal problems will be studied. The seminar will begin at 7:00 o'clock p.m. on May 3 and the business meeting of the Town continue from 8:00 o'clock.

Digby Town Council supported a resolution from the Western Nova Scotia Regional Library Board requesting the prevention of the government bill cutting library grants from going through the Legislative House.

Council also supported a resolution from the Digby Municipality requesting changes in the Social Services Act which would cut down welfare abuses. These changes would require able bodied persons to work or be denied welfare benefits if they refused to work. Benefits for those between 16 and 18 years should be discretionary and not mandatory and that in families economic needs should be considered rather than family relationships.

Feels Municipality Should Cost Share With Town On Bureau

Mrs. Marion Gott, president of the Annapolis Digby Tourist and Recreation Council, commended Digby Town Council on Monday night for maintaining a fine tourist bureau and staffed by Mrs. Ernest Tufts, attendant. Mrs. Gott said she had heard so many favorable reports on Mrs. Tufts' work in this county and in the U. S. A. She suggested the bureau be kept open longer and that the Municipality of the District of Digby should help maintain the bureau.

In consideration of a letter read by Mrs. Gott from Hon. M. E. DeLory, M. D., Minister of Tourism, the Council decided to write a letter to Dr. DeLory in support of the proposal that the wildlife park in Clementsport should be named the Digby-Annapolis Wildlife Park or similar name and not the Prescesky Park as it has not been meant to be a memorial park.

Minutes of the February meeting were approved after a motion was passed to include in them a matter which had been brought to the attention of Council by Councillor Eileen Chipman. She found there had been no mention on the discussion re the audit which had not been completed for the February 28 deadline nor was it completed before the town clerk had left for his new job in Frobisher Bay, N. W. T. Mrs. Chipman charged that the important things do not get in the minutes but she added, "I think now this omission is over. I hope so."

A budget meeting is to be held in April 11, it was decided by regular motion. A new town clerk, Kenneth Eavis, was appointed at Monday night's meeting and the salary of Mrs. Ruth MacKenzie, office staff was raised by $25 per week. Councillor Chipman objected to this on the grounds that it should have come to the

"Tiny Tattler" Founder Dies

Ivan Avery Shortliffe, 57, Halifax, a well known Maritime newsman died Tuesday at the Halifax Infirmary following a lengthy illness.

A native of Central Grove, Digby County, he was the son of Burton Shortliffe and the late Annie (Delaney) Shortliffe.

He began his long and varied career in Newspaper in 1933 at the age of 14 when he founded at Central Grove the "Tiny Tattler", what was then Canada's smallest newspaper which grew to a circulation of over 5,000.

Tiny Tattler launched a newspaper career which covered both New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

His career also covered all aspects of newspaper work. He was linotype operator at the Digby Courier for a number of years following the expiration of the Tiny Tattler. He worked with the weekly Shelburne Coast Guard and moved to The Halifax Herald Ltd. in 1950 as a linotype operator. He was named classified advertising manager in 1964, a position which he held until he became chief of the Bridgewater news bureau in 1969. He returned to the Halifax office of the Chronical-Herald last year.

Mr. Shortliffe was a member of the Bridgewater United Baptist Church; Acadia Lodge No. 39, AF and AM; and Mae Chapter No. 38 Order of Eastern Star.

He is survived by his wife, the former Peggy Connell; two sons, Harold, Lower Sackville and David, Bridgewater; three daughters, Ruth (Mrs. Gordon Brewer) Corner Brook, Nfld.; Magie (Mrs. Gregory Hebb), Hebbville; Nancy at home; and nine grandchildren.

The body is at Sweeney's Funeral Home, Bridgewater. Funeral service will be held today, 2 p.m., from Bridgewater Baptist Church. Rev. Melville Scott will officiate assisted by Rev. Allen Gibson. Burial will be in Brookside cemetery, Bridgewater.

Five Charged With Trafficking

Five area residents were arrested and charged on Saturday with trafficking in Marijuana. They were released on Sunday morning.

The five are Sheldon Scott Miller, 20 of Jordantown; Daniel Edward Francis, 20, of Conway; Stephen Danard Comeau, 22, of Digby; Terry John Ryan, 19, of Marshalltown; and Keith Gerard Haynes, 19, of Digby.

All appeared before Justice of the Peace William MacMillan in Digby on Monday. They were remanded to appear before Judge P.R. Woolaver on April 13.

The charges arose from several separate incidents.

Digby Has New Town Clerk

Kenneth Eavis, Hill Grove, was on Monday evening at the regular meeting of Digby Town Council, appointed town clerk for the Town of Digby. Mr. Eavis succeeds Glen Pitman, who with his wife and family left early March to reside in Frobisher Bay, N.W.T. Robert Theriault, deputy town clerk has been carrying out the duties of the clerk since Mr. Pitman's departure.

Mr. Eavis comes to his new job at the first of May with 21 years accounting service. He was born in North Sydney but later moved to Saint John, N.B., where he received his early years of education. Higher education was obtained from Algonquin College, Ontario and Dalhousie University, Halifax. He is serving in the accounting department at CFB Cornwallis and has resided in Hill Grove for the past three and a half years. His extensive travels have taken him to many parts of Canada, France, Germany and Italy.

Mr. and Mrs. Eavis have one son, Leslie, age 14 who is a student at the Digby Regional High School. Mrs. Eavis is employed at G.B. Murphy's at the Evangeline Mall, Digby.

The resignation of Mrs. Michael Corbell, employed at the town office was accepted. A request of a raise in salary for Mrs. Ruth MacKenzie, also employed at the town office was granted.

FORESIGHT PREVENTS BLINDNESS

Unless there is a slow down in the acceleration of the world's blind population, today's 16 million blind people will double by the end of the century, it is thought.

For World Health Day, April 7, the World Health Organization (W.H.O.) has declared this year's theme as "foresight prevents blindness". 1976 is an important year for Prevention of Blindness, initiating the commencement of an on-going program of International Prevention. In association with the International Agency for the Prevention of Blindness, countries around the world are forming groups which will examine national prevention programs and develop workable projects to reduce new cases of blindness wherever possible.

It is estimated that six Canadians lose their sight daily, yet many of the causes of blindness can be prevented.

"Buckle up for Safety", is a preventative slogan, which goes unheeded. Seat Belts can save lives; they can also save eyesight. Eye injuries in car accidents are far too common, especially among children. They are just the right height to suffer concussion from knocking their heads against the dashboard on a sudden stop.

A survey of the 1973-74 hockey season by the Canadian Ophthalmological Society revealed that this popular sport poses serious potential hazards to players.

Eye injuries were numerous; they ranged from broken socket bones to nerve damage, hemorrhages and cuts on the eyeball from sticks and pucks. Six percent of these injuries resulted in blindness.

Hazards in the home are easily overlooked. Spray cans that dispense hair spray, perfume, deodorant, insect repellent, air fresheners, cooking aids, paints and waxes, for example, represent potential risks, especially for preschoolers. The ingestion of corrosive or alcoholic liquids such as anti-freeze or cleaning agents, can cause permanent blindness. Homemade and unsupervised fireworks, scissors, knives, pellet guns and elastic bands can also be a great hazard to both children and adults.

A large percentage of blindness can be prevented. Take care of your eyes; they must last a lifetime.

CHILD SAFETY

With the change of season from winter to summer, reading material from all corners is coming in to further the cause of safety, particularly, highway safety. Child Safety Week is May 1 to 7 but the material coming from Canada Safety Council, from Consumer and Corporate Affairs, Nova Scotia Department of Highways and others deals with safety in general.

Special emphasis by the Canada Safety Council this year seems to be defensive maintenance. The Council, in its publications, says "Don't Delay—Cars wear and need care." Drivers are urged to have their cars checked before undertaking long summer journeys. Canada Safety Council president, W. L. Higgit, says that while driving conditions improve in summer, accident statistics do not. Commercial and holiday traffic increases. Children on foot and on bicycles become more numerous. Roads may be ice free but they are congested.

Canada Safety Council, which sponsors Child Safety Week has other suggestions for adults to improve safety all around but they also endeavour to impress on adults the need to apply the safety philosophy especially where children are concerned. The young children, Canada Safety Council says, are not sufficiently experienced to recognize the many hazards in everyday life and must rely on adults for guidance and example.

Already the highways are beginning to be travelled by bicycles operated by children, so we shall not wait until Child Safety Week to draw attention to the booklet "You and Your Bicycle" distributed by the Registry of Motor Vehicles, Department of Highways, Province of Nova Scotia. With bicycles as with car driving there is virtually no hazard which cannot be overcome by practical safety measures. The booklet, which every parent should make available to their bicycle-riding children, names a number of do's and don'ts for the safety of your child.

One of the "do" rules is to obey the law and all traffic rules just as if the bicyclist were driving a motor vehicle. A good example set by an adult will have good effects on the child cyclist now and as he grows into command of a motor vehicle.

The cyclist is reminded to stop when coming out of a driveway, at a railway crossing, at a stop sign and yield at all yield signs. The little booklet "You and Your Bicycle" teaches your child the meaning of the traffic lights, how to ride after dark and if riding in company with other cyclists to ride single file. It tells the child what equipment is necessary for safe driving. If you have a child who rides a bicycle, you will need this booklet for yourself to inform the child or for the child to read the many necessary do's and don'ts and interesting points for safe cycling.

Rules for pedestrians and riders on school buses are also included in "You and Your Bicycle."

WORTHY PERFORMERS

We were proud of our dramatists. They were worthy performers. Their ability to fill the parts in the Digby Regional High School Grade XII drama "The Importance of Being Earnest" is worthy of our mention. The three act play was presented at the multipurpose room at DRHS.

Lines for the play were evidently well learned and rehearsed by the players. At no time was prompting necessary and players seemed to be at home with the characters they represented. All in all, it was a performance which could cause the director, Hal Theriault, to feel proud of his students.

The stage props showed time and thought put into their selection and arrangement also. This was true not only for proper period style of furniture and interior decor but also time was put on garden walks, hedges and rose arbors. Unfortunately, the long row of evergreen tree hedge was hidden from audience view somewhat but the effort was appreciated. Stage arranging time between acts took considerable time but again the effort could be appreciated.

Only one thing seemed to be really disappointing about The Importance of Being Earnest performance. That was the small attendance. It was such a big effort for the high school students to go to and the performance was well done that it seemed a shame more could not have enjoyed the comedy as presented by the students. They must have spent considerable time in the total preparation.

Our congratulations go to the nine performers who did a good job but we also hasten to add all the crew members without whose contribution the same effect could not have been obtained.

MORE SYMPATHETIC EAR

Municipal Affairs Minister Glen Bagnell and Joe Casey MLA, Digby met on Monday afternoon with the Digby Municipal Councillors to discuss subjects of interest to both parties particularly the 1976 property assessment which has caused such a stir in the area since the assessment notices were received by the ratepayers. While few solutions were arrived at and little hope of any corrections looked for this year (if there should be any) the meeting was cordial and every evidence of a sympathetic and understanding ear was given the councillors. The minister asked questions and learned of experiences here which he intimated will be taken into consideration as they proceed with re-assessment to market value within the entire province.

The worrisome controversy began in the Municipality of the District of Digby in January when ratepayers were confronted with an assessment increase of more than 300 per cent over the previous year. The councillors are to be commended for bringing the problem before those in authority up to Monday's meeting here even though they felt buffeted on many occasions along the way. An opportunity to lay the problems out to one who listened and the mutual exchange of advice on Monday has eased the load. It is hoped the good-will will seep through to the Appeal Court and that the 900 to 1000 or more appeals can be reasoned out in justice. Increase, we had been given to understand, was not the highest objection to the assessment but the discrepancies were difficult to comprehend, according to the ratepayers. May they be found with an eye to justice. The more sympathetic ear is appreciated.

Hodge Podge

I hate to be a kicker; I always long for peace, But the wheel that does the squeaking is the wheel that gets the grease. It's nice to be a peaceful soul, and not too hard to please But the dog who does the scratching is the one that has the fleas. The art of softsoap spreading is the thing that palls and pales, But the guy that wields the hammer is the one that drives the nails.

Let me not put harmful, foolish notions in your head But the baby that keeps on yelling is the baby that gets fed.

It would just be too much to expect everybody to like us just as we are. The bus driver called out "Cornwallis." The service man seated next to us says "As though we didn't know it." After answering a query on liking it here the Ontario young man said "Oh well, this is my last day here." "You'll come back to visit some day, won't you?" Answer, "I dunno." Another recruit felt different about his stay. In fact, his family who came here from Ontario for the graduation were so taken with the countryside that they want to retire here.

Sure, if you don't approve of the TV program you can turn it off. So, even if lotteries are legal, you don't have to participate. Trouble is, how about those kids. Will they think violence is the order of the day and that something-for-nothing is a way-of-life acceptable to everybody. Reading about child safety we found our Canada Safety Council saying "The young are not sufficiently experienced to recognize the many hazards of everyday life and must rely on adults for guidance and example. Please help us keep our children safe and sound. "That can apply to TV violence and something-for-nothing idea.

Letter To The Editor

JANNASCH INFORMS ON DUG-OUT CANOE

Dear Editor,
As secretary of the Admiral Digby Library and Historical Association, I would like to inform people of the area, the latest facts concerning the Brier Island Dug-out Canoe.

Niels W. Jannasch, Curator of Marine History at the Nova Scotia Museum in Halifax states that many questions have been posed regarding the age, origin and wood from which the dug-out was made.

Laboratories in Ottawa and Halifax are attempting to identify samples of the wood. Samples have also been sent to Dalhousie University for carbon dating. The process of carbon dating is used to establish the approximate age of an item by measuring the amount of radioactive carbon 14 found.

The canoe, 147 inches in length, is being preserved in Moncton at the Atlantic Conservation Centre. The process will be a long, complicated chemical treatment; therefore, some time will probably elapse before the specialists will have the facts about the canoe. There are many speculations being voiced, but answers will not be forthcoming until the tests have been completed.

Mr. Jannasch has informed the Historical Society that once the dug-out has been fully preserved, the canoe can be exhibited in our area for a few weeks at a time with panels explaining the steps of the preserving process and the development of "dug-outs" in general.

The Board of the Admiral Digby Library and Historical Society looks forward to the time when the dug-out can be displayed in our area.

Sincerely,
(Mrs.) E. Carolyn Brown

Needs Professional Advice Badly

Councillor Eileen Chipman, on Monday evening at a Council meeting of the Town of Digby, declared that the Council needs professional advice badly.

There are four retired bank managers residing in town, she said, and help could be solicited from them. She felt somebody from outside the Council should be brought in. Mrs. Chipman's remark was made when discussion on the finance committee came up. Councillor Gordon Ellis who was chairman of the committee, refused at the last meeting to work on the committee with Councillor Chipman. He told Mayor Charles Haliburton and councillors on Monday evening, "I think I made myself clear."

At a later time, when bills were to be passed for payment, Councillor Chipman advised councillors that they are not here to play house, if so, she felt $20 should be invested in a playpen, put beads on it and use it. When it comes to signing "anything", I don't sign it until I get information I request, she said. The bills for March were approved for payment.

Three resolutions were passed at the meeting all dealing with borrowing of

Insurance Takes 300 Percent Hike

The cost of insuring the Digby Regional High School complex has taken a 300 per cent, hike this year. The school board now finds itself faced with a premium of $25,740, representing coverage in the amount of $2,574,000 on the buildings and contents. Last year's premium was $6,553.

As a result of the unbudgeted-for increase, the Board has requested assistance from the province.

The insurance agent is J.J. Brittain Ltd. Board secretary Dean Pyne said other agents had been money. One was for $1,840,000 for the sewer project as voted by Digby ratepayers; another of $31,000 for water works and facilities and one for $5,113.09 was for sewer. All resolutions were carried.

Mayor Charles Haliburton sought Council advice in dealing with proclamation requests by organizations in town. These by motion were to come before Council, each considered on its own merit.

The matter of tax exemption applications were approved but authorization for exemption to Digby Recreation and Tideview Terrace had not yet been authorized.

contacted but could not offer a better premium.

The matter was discussed at length at the Board's monthly meetings on March 30 and approval was given to the arrangement. The premium is set at 1 per cent of the coverage.

In the Superintendent's Report, the Board was advised that students from the Waldec East area of Annapolis County (11) would discontinue attending classes at DRHS beginning in the 1976-77 school year.

Accounts payable amounting to $9,678.30 were approved. Approval was also given to capital invoices amounting to $3,276.40.

Expenditures amounting to $400 were also approved. This money is for chaperones to accompany the DRHS band on a visit this month to Bangor, Me.

Have Estimates In Writing

Estimates for car repairs must be made in writing if the consumer's interests are to be safeguarded, says Harry M. McIlroy, chief executive officer of the N.S. Department of Consumer Affairs.

Most automotive complaints lodged with the Department's Consumer Services Bureau deal with repair costs that have come in substantially higher than the verbal estimate the car owner had received. A consumer's only protection against such occurrences is to insist on a written estimate before leaving his car at the garage, Mr. McIlroy says.

In addition, car owners should make sure that the estimate clearly describes those parts that are to be and relatives, who were in Halifax for the occasion.

attended by many friends.

In attendance were many of Mr. Hutchins' parishioners from Oxford, Pugwash, Wallace, and River John, as well as his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hutchins, Smith's Cove; Reverend and Mrs. Isaac Butler, Marshalltown; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cameron, Weymouth; Reverend and Mrs. David Reid, Mrs. Gordon MacCormack, Annapolis Royal; Mrs. Winnifred Logan and Mrs. Juliana Mason, Tangier; Dr. and Mrs. R.G. Ritchie, Hantsport.

Clementsport

(Bertha Haviland)

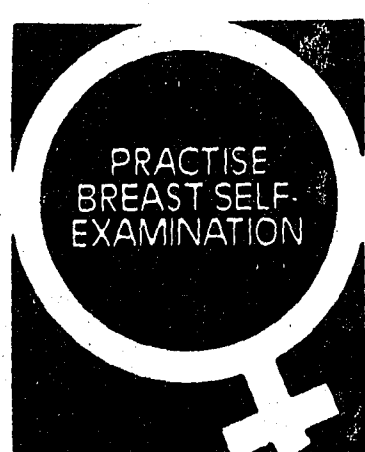

Mrs. Lillian Lowe spent the weekend in Saint John guest of her son Ronald, Mrs. Lowe and family.

Mrs. Robert Trimper Sr., was hostess for a Tri-chem party on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Robert Wright was the demonstrator with twenty five guests. An enjoyable evening was spent trial painting.

Sincere sympathy to relatives and friends of Mrs. George Wear who was buried at Upper Clements on Monday, also to relatives and friends of Chester Wright who was buried at Clements on Monday.

Mrs. Wm. Berteaux was hostess to a Tri-chem party Monday evening. Mrs. Robert Wright was the demonstrator and party was well attended. A pleasant evening was spent doing trial painting.

Patrol Enthusiasm Increases

Sergeant Thomas Barlow of the Digby Detachment RCMP, in placing his report before members of the Digby Town Council on Monday evening, was pleased to advise that the Safety Patrol organized for attending crosswalks on Warwick Street has increased to 15. The patrol had started with three. He expressed the opinion that this is a worthwhile project and should be kept going. He advised Council that crosswalks on Warwick Street need painting.

Sergeant Barlow saw no decline in drug use and mentioned that five had been charged in the last week in trafficking. Sixty-seven complaints had been received in March and attended to in the various categories. Five hundred and fifty-five dollars was collected in fines for the town.

Webster Dunn, parking meter attendant, collected $505.31 in parking meters. Eighty parking violations were reported with collec-

Grants Presented

Coline Campbell, member of Parliament for South Western Nova, announced on behalf of the Honourable John Munro, Minister responsible for Multiculturalism, that the following projects were approved under the Multicultural Program:

The Western Nova Multicultural Association of Digby for the amount of $700. These funds were used to defray the expenses of the Multicultural Workshop which was held recently.

The second grant which was approved was for the Lequille Community Council in the amount of $500 and is to be used to further promote the culture of the black people in the area. A part of this allocation will be used for the play which will be presented by the council on April 8 at the Major Ritchie Community Centre, at 8 p.m.

tions from 27 and one cancellation.

Carl Niemeyer, building inspector, reported six building applications for March, two for new construction, one for alterations and three for repairs. Total amount of construction $33,775 with fees of $35. Question was posed by Councillor Guy Van Tassel of the Fire Committee about the distance of the buildings under construction near the wharf in relation to fire hydrants. The building inspector and fire committee will investigate.

The matter of taking down dead trees again came before council. It was felt that this expense should be budgeted for. It was expected that tree removal would come up at the Horticultural meeting on Wednesday evening.

Council decided to send a letter to Harding Real Estate requesting them to clean up under the unsightly premises act. A letter will also go to Levy's Drug Store re the property in the rear of the Levy building.

Postmaster General To Participate In Cyclathon

The Hon. Bryce Mackasey, Canada's Postmaster General, will participate in the Cyclathon which is being sponsored by the Digby Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association on May 8, it has been learned following a meeting of the Branch Board.

It is understood Mr. Mackasey will be in the Digby area on May 8 and has consented to take part in the Cyclathon. He will be accompanied while in Digby by Miss Coline Campbell, MP for Southwestern Nova, who will also take part in the Cyclathon.

Plans for the Cyclathon, which is being held in conjunction with Canada's Mental Health Week, May 2 to May 8, were finalized at a branch meeting earlier this week. While one of the main purposes of the Cyclathon will be to raise funds needed by the local branch, another important purpose will be to highlight the work of C. M. H. A. on behalf of the mentally ill and in the promotion of mental health.

Promoters of the Cyclathon are hopeful there will be a heavy enrolment of young people in the event and that the participants will receive enthusiastic support through pledges and sponsorship. It is understood prizes will be awarded in various classifications for those taking part, particularly youngsters. Route for the Cyclathon will be from the Knights of Columbus Hall at the Racquette to the Saint John ferry terminal with a number of laps of the terminal parking lot and returning to the Knights of Columbus hall for a total of 20 miles. The route will be patrolled during the event and arrangements are being made for refreshments for the participants along the way.

Entry and pledge forms are available at the Digby Mental Health Centre, basement area. It is understood entry and pledge forms will also be available at the Digby schools.

Was 95 Friday

Mrs. Laura M. Munroe quietly observed her 95th birthday in Sandy Cove on Friday, April 2.

Mrs. Munroe resides with Ralph and Ruth Johnson in this community. Mrs. Johnson is Laura's granddaughter.

In spite of advancing years, Mrs. Munroe is still an active woman. Much of her time now is spent sewing or reading.

An avid Christian, Mrs. Munroe digests lots of Christian reading material including daily readings from the Bible.

Laura was born in Victoria Beach, Annapolis County, where she lived for much of her life. She still returns there in the summer for visits of one or more months.

Her husband, Wilson, (deceased) spent much of his life as a fisherman. Laura has seldom been far from the sea.

Mrs. Munroe's church-going days have not ended as yet. She has been a very active member of the Pentecostal Church and still attends regularly during her stays in Victoria Beach.

She has been spending the past 15 winters in Sandy Cove and in the past five years has spent almost all of her time here.

Mrs. Munroe is the mother of eight children; three son and five daughters: Farrell in Freeport; Milford and Harry in Victoria Beach; Flossie, Mrs. Ben Hardy, Port Wade; Olive, Mrs. George Haynes, Victoria Beach; Annie, Mrs. Harvey Holmes, Port Wade; and two deceased daughters, Minnie (Mrs. Wilford Phinney of Kingston), Leota (Mrs. Thomas Dunham, St. Albans, England).

She has 33 grandchildren, several great-grandchildren and seven great-great-grandchildren (fifth generation).

Laura is a daughter of William and Lenny (Everett) Taylor.

Sunday morning Church Service comes to you this week from Aylesford Baptist Church.

Gospel Road

By Frances Adams

The scenic beauty of the land of Israel was seen, the disciples introduced to you, and you even walked by the sea of Galilee and were present in the Upper Room for the Last Supper, if you were among the many many people who were present on Sunday evening, March 21 in the Digby Wesleyan Church when the film "The Gospel Road" was shown. The church was filled to capacity.

The story of Jesus Christ was told in a real and meaningful way through the film which was conceived and produced by Johnny Cash and his wife June Carter Cash.

Previous to the showing of the film a duet by Heather Steves and Jean Brittan entitled "Amazing Grace" was sung. Also a solo by Wanda Watkins was rendered.

Following the showing of the film a social hour was held in the Church basement. This film "The Gospel Road" was shown again on Monday evening, March 22, at the Digby Wesleyan Church at 7:30 p.m. to a large audience. The second showing accommodated the over flow of congregation from the previous night.

PARTICIPATION

London England 76

By Claude Pothier

On March 13, 1976 three teachers and sixteen Grade 12 students made an overseas visit to London, England. The group consisted of Hal Theriault, Wendy Burton, Sharon Brooks, Claude Pothier, Ben Elms, Mark Connell, Mike Theriault, Robert Dugas, Alan Franklan Roger Tibbets, Peter Benson, Bruce Isles, Pam Graham, Gail French, Joey Trask, Jackie Journeay, Linda Blinn, Judi Lefurgy and Debbie LeFurgy.

This trip to London was not through the school. We were just a group going on our own without chaperones. The school trip this year went to London, England and Paris, France and were chaperoned by Rupert Haley and Stephen Dumphy. Their group consisted of grade 10 and 11 students.

Our flight was supposed to leave at 7:20 p.m. on March 13 but we left at 9:20 p.m. Our plane for the trans-atlantic flight was an Air Canada DC-8. Since our flight was a scheduled flight we stopped over in Gander, Newfoundland for half an hour and Preswick, Scotland for an hour and a half before we finally landed at London's Heathrow Airport. Also on the plane were Springfield students but they stayed at a different hotel. From the airport we went directly to the Royal Kensington Hotel to unpack and rest. The weather in London was not very pleasant. It rained every day or was cloudy except Friday which was sunny and warm. London is a very easy city to get around in. There are a lot of taxis and the underground and bus routes are easy to figure out but some times you would think twice about taking the subway.

A few of us went to English pubs to try them out and also went to Tiffany's which was a discotheque where people could go dance and have a good time.

Then we either went as a group or as individuals to places of interest. We visited St. Paul's Cathedral, Westminster Abbey, Parliament Buildings, Tower of London, London Zoo, Madame Tussaud's Wax Museum, British Natural Museum (dinosaur skeletons) and many other museums. We saw the changing of the guards at Buckingham Palace; saw the play Jesus Christ Super Star; went on a tour of Shakespeare Country to Oxford and Stratford visited Piccadilly Circus, Oxford street, Trafalgar Square and walked through the beautiful Parks seeing many monuments.

Each night we tried different foods and one night most of the group went to a medieval feast of Henry VIII which was a lot of fun.

Before we knew it, it was Sunday morning and departure day. Our flight left at noon, London time. During the flight we stopped over at Preswick and Gander again. Gander was the point of re-entering Canada so we went through customs there which took about an hour and a half. The flight took about seven hours and was quite rough for two hours. When we landed in Halifax it was very foggy and our plane was the only plane that landed. Others were diverted to other airports such as Boston, Bangor and Sydney. When we entered the terminal parents were waiting patiently for their sons and for daughters.

When we walked out side the terminal, it was very windy and rainy and made it a very treacherous journey home after the long flight but it was nice to be back home to Canada.

WILLIAM HUTCHINSON

William Heber Hutchinson, age 84, died Wednesday at Tideview Terrace, Digby, N.S. Born in Roxville, Digby Co., he was a son of the late William and Arebell (Small) Hutchinson.

Surviving are 2 sisters: Welthe, (Mrs. Walter Ross), Portsmouth, N.H., and Nina (Mrs. Ira Wright), Ipswich, Mass.

Body rested at Jayne's Funeral Home, Digby, from

The Deliverance Quartet of New Minas presented an inspirational Gospel concert on Saturday evening, April 3, at the Smith's Cove Baptist Church. Rev. Wallace H. Jordan, pastor, opened the service leading the congregation in singing choruses, Joanne Frankland at the piano.

Rich Fowler, manager and lead singer, introduced the members of the group: his wife, Linda, alto; Bruce Davidson, baritone; Philip Price, bass; Janice Wallis, pianist; Lyle Fowler, bass guitar; Paul Fowler, drums. From the moment they began to sing until the close of the service, this quartet presented their testimony in song of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Near the close, Linda, presented her personal testimony on the leading of Christ in her life, the beginning of the group's ministry in 1973 and the blessings received since that time. The original group members were Rich and Linda, Bruce and Philip.

Rich told of the opportunity to participate in the Jesus Festival held at Acadia University in 1975, of the ups and downs of their experiences in the Maritimes and USA. In the summer of 1975 they were discovered by the Talent Search '75 sponsored by Baldwin Productions, Concert Life, (USA) and returned to Canada the winners of this search.

Those present were impressed by the positive yet relaxing manner this group sang and talked of their love of Christ.

Wedding

OUTHOUSE - MOREHOUSE

A quiet wedding on March 20, 1976, united in marriage Bernice Louise Morehouse and Guy Nelson Outhouse, in a double ring ceremony, performed by Rev. Ronald Stevens at the United Church

Parsonage in Digby. Their attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Lauriston Tidd of Little River.

Others present to witness the marriage were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gidney, Sandy Cove, and Mrs. Greta Turnbull and children of Digby.

After the wedding ceremony, the party met at the home of Mrs. Turnbull where a toast to the newly weds was proposed by granddaughter, Nancy, and a wedding cake cut and served in the traditional manner.

On Saturday, March 27, friends and relatives gathered at their home in Centreville extending congratulations and best wishes.

The Canadian Cancer Society urgently needs the help of all Canadians to participate in its essential and humanitarian program of research support, public education and service to patients. Give generously when the volunteer canvasser knocks on your door.

Hometown Paper Awards On Again

For the sixth year, Dominion Textile Limited has generously volunteered to sponsor the Hometown Newspaper Awards, designed to give recognition to the distinctive and intimate recording of the Canadian scene by the community press in Canada.

The particular aim of the contest is to involve the readers of community newspapers. The prizes - $400 and a gold medal to the writer of the winning essay, and $200 and a gold medal to the publisher of the paper in which the winning essay is printed - will be presented at the Canadian Community Newspapers Association annual convention in Halifax this coming August.

This unique award will be made to the reader of a CCNA member paper who best describes in his or her own words just what the weekly paper means to him or her. It is not open to the paper's staff or regular contributors.

The objective is to encourage the readers of weekly papers themselves to think about what their newspaper means to them, their families, their lives and their communities, and to set these thoughts down in straightforward language. Polished literary expression is not sought. The judges will be interested in simple, clear exposition that indicates an awareness by the reader of the role of the weekly in the community.

The written expression of frank opinion should be at least 200 words, but should not exceed 700. Judges will not look for excessively high praise of the local weekly; they will study the judgment and understanding by readers of the function of the newspaper.

The judging will be handled by an independent source. All decisions of the judges will be final. Entries coming to this office will first be published in this newspaper. All entries for this year's contest must be in our hands by April 30.

Guides Brownies, Cubs Attend Ice Capades

On Friday, March 26th, members of the Bear River Girl Guides, Brownies, Cubs, along with their leaders boarded a large yellow school bus for the trip to Halifax to attend the Ice Capades. They were blessed with beautiful weather and the journey was completed without incident.

This year it was decided to have the students design their own crests and submit them for a final vote. Pam Somers, Grade 8, submitted the design which received the largest number of votes and was offered congratulations. It is hoped that members of the Digby Regional High School Drama Group will be attending next meeting on Monday, April 26th, and presenting their annual Congress Play.

The girls and boys enjoyed the Ice Capade performance and, although very tired on arrival back in Bear River, were appreciative of the work involved in making this trip possible. Thanks were extended to all who made the trip possible and to the parents who helped on the trip.

Protecting Nova Scotia's Land

The following is a working paper for community discussion mainly on the issue of non-resident exploitation of land in this province. It is hoped that through public debate on this important topic, a working policy can be formulated and enacted in provincial law to protect our heritage.

Why Do We Need Such A Policy?

Non-resident property owners are presently making huge profits through land speculation at the expense of residents. They do not pay provincial taxes, although many do not use all available services, they certainly do not pay their share for services such as highways, police and fire protection, which they most certainly use.

In the municipality of Annapolis County, the total revenue required for 1975 estimated expenditures was set at over 3.5 million dollars. Revenue obtained from assessments was 1.2 million dollars and the balance, that is 2.3 million dollars, was obtained through the provincial government, which is funded by the taxes of residents - thus non-residents are not paying their fair share.

In 1951, the census listed over 23,500 farms in Nova Scotia. Twenty years later in 1971, that number was reduced by 74 percent, to just over 6,000. It is a sad thing when farmers' land taxes exceed productivity and this is definitely the case in Annapolis County, at least with individuals owning small woodlots, but it is not the same case with companies who use their land tax as an income tax deduction. Many have been forced to sell the land which their celebrated his 80th birthday on Thursday, April 1st.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. Robert Winchester and the Misses Winchester were Mrs. Raymond Brinton and Trevor; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Wilson and Shawn; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Adams, Lansdowne; Mr. Vance Comeau, Middleton and the Surette children from Yarmouth.

forefathers diligently cleared by hand, and to turn to less desirable, but more profitable means of earning a livelihood. To eliminate the abandoning of usable farm land a tax rebate must be allowed to those who use their own land.

Other provinces, and states have enacted laws to protect their residents. For example, among the objectives of one province is to give a "tax free" lot of land to every native born person. One of the states allows residents to deduct five thousand dollars from their assessments, and in some cases, increases this to ten thousand dollars. Similar steps taken in Nova Scotia would reduce the present erosion of our heritage.

Proposals

The following changes are proposed in taxation to rectify the injustices which presently exist.

1. Equalize property assessments across the province and make adjustment so taxation can be increased up to double on homes and triple on land over present averages.

2. Offset the home increases to all residents by a system of tax rebates thus increasing non-resident taxes only.

3. Land tax rebates should provide maximum benefits to farmers and native born residents of small holdings who use their land. That is farms of up to 25 acres of tillage land with up to 100 acre woodlot or pasture land should be eligible for a reduction of land taxes to a level of one-third of the present average including road and shore frontage. Regulations should be made to discourage speculation.

Anticipated Results
The enactment of the above or similar proposals should accomplish a number of goals:

1. To control and conserve land including road and shore frontage, and to eliminate the need for further expropriation of unused land.

2. To lower purchase prices for land acreage and to bring such prices into the reach of farmers.

3. To encourage more people to grow their own food and to cut wood for home heating.

4. To aid Nova Scotians in combatting the effects of escalating inflation.

5. To restore Nova Scotia's woodlands to persons who deserves or need it for winter work.

6. To reduce disease and crime through natural foods and interesting work from small farming.

7. To increase tax revenue from all property owned by non-residents and thus changing a burden to an asset that will balance the tax adjustment brought about by small farm rebates.

8. To ensure that non-residents will not buy property for speculative purposes but only enough for their own use.

Obtaining Action

In an article in the Chronicle Herald of February 15, 1974, the Citizen's Alliance noted that non-resident owners of land in Annapolis County had increased from 299 in 1966 to 1,027 in 1974 - an increase of 343 percent in eight years. It was claimed that 35 percent of the acreage of Annapolis County was owned by non-residents.

Natives that are in small farming are encouraged, or forced to give away their priceless heritage, for fast devaluing money that only looks big, that will eventually result in renting from non-resident landlords, thus inviting poverty.

Action is years overdue and has become the responsibility of every person concerned for the welfare of this province. Sympathizing and expressing anger is of no effect without determination to take action to force the Government to legislate changes.

Lottery Bill Before House

A bill to enable the provincial government to conduct lotteries was introduced in the House of Assembly by Recreation Minister A. Garnet Brown.

The bill would create the Nova Scotia Lottery Commission composed of three members: the Minister and Deputy Minister of Recreation and the Deputy Minister of Finance, one of whom would be appointed chairman by order in council and another appointed vice-chairman.

The commission would also be empowered to conduct lotteries in association with governments of other provinces.

The bill provides that lottery profits, after provision for prizes and the payment of expenses, shall be paid into the consolidated fund of the province.

Administration of the act would be paid from the proceeds of lotteries and all accounts and financial transactions would be audited by the Auditor General.

Also stipulated in the proposed legislation is the requirement that the commission submit a report of its activities within two months upon the completion of each financial year to the House of Assembly.

It is pointed out in the bill that "The appointment of the minister to the commission shall not render him ineligible or disqualify him from sitting or voting in the House of Assembly by reason of his being a member of the commission or by reason of any dealing with the commission with the province."

Regulations governing the operations of the commission in connection with the conduct of lotteries under the proposed act are to be drawn up under the Regulations Act, and will cover such areas as values of prizes, price of tickets, distribution and sale of tickets, and the conduct, management and operation of lotteries.

Deputy Minister Of Public Health

Peter Nichols

Dr. Peter Nichols, son of Harold and Lillian Nichols was last week appointed Nova Scotia Deputy Minister of Public Health. The announcement was made by Health Minister Allan Sullivan.

Dr. Nichols was born in Digby and completed his elementary and high school education here.

Dr. Nichols graduated from Acadia University with a Bachelor of Science in 1961 and from Dalhousie University's Medical School in 1966.

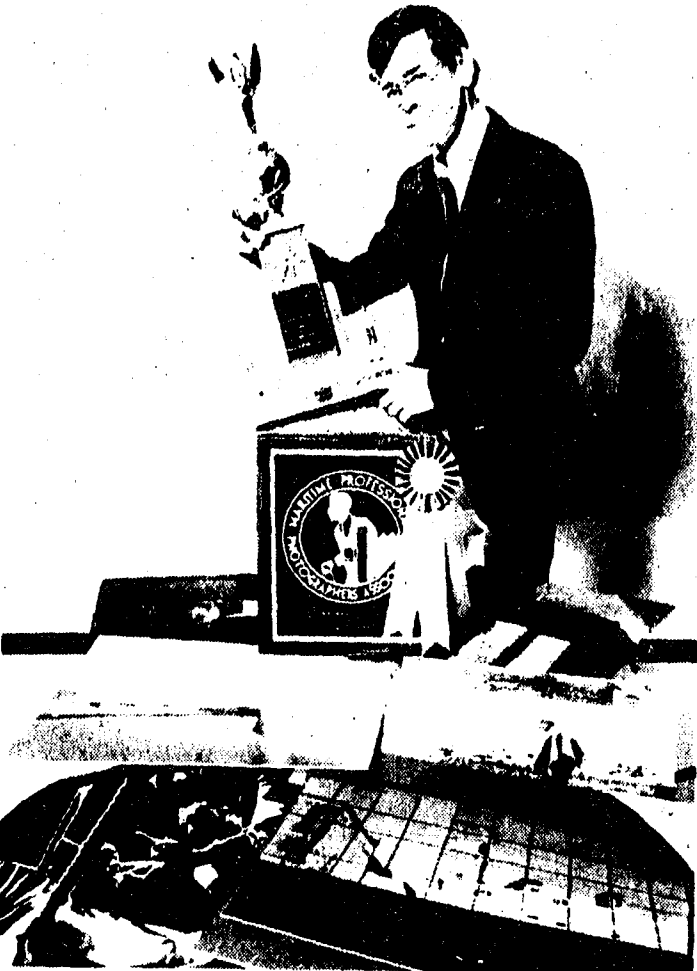

He began a general medical practice in North Sydney in 1966.

In 1973 and 1974 he took post graduate courses in Health care Planning and Administration at the University of British Columbia.

Dr. Nichols joined the Nova Scotia Health Services and Insurance Commission in November 1974, and has served as administrator of Public Hospitals with the commission since that time.

He is 35 years old, and has held membership in the Nova Scotia Medical Society and the Canadian Medical Association since 1965.

Photographer Of The Year

Robert (Bob) Brooks of Halifax, formerly of Yarmouth, and well known in the Digby area, has been named Atlantic Photographer of the Year by the Maritime Professional Photographers' Association.

He was presented with the Braun Award by the Association in recognition of the selection at its convention in Saint John. Mr. Brooks is a member of the photographic staff of the Nova Scotia Communications and Information Centre.

Mr. Brooks submitted six prints of which two were given Awards of Excellence, three Awards of Merit and one of Acceptance. Prior to joining the Nova Scotia Government Service, Mr. Brooks operated a commercial photography business in Yarmouth.

Two Teachers From Digby Elementary Schools

The Digby Board of School Commissioners has been left with the task of cutting two teachers from its staff as a result of the province-wide cut-back program.

The Board is at present studying possibilities which might result in the least difficulty in the town's elementary schools.

The matter was discussed at the Board's monthly meeting on March 30 but nothing concrete resulted. The board got notice of the required teacher-deletion via letter around mid-March.

Teacher aides were discussed but the situation was left stand as previous. Grants for this purpose have been cut back this year.

The question of obtaining a speech therapist was brought up but this was held in abeyance until the results of teacher cut-backs are determined.

Why The Ten Commandments

by Rev. R. C. MacCormack

Proudly, a man says, "I keep the ten commandments, and this is as far as religion needs to go". In ninety percent of the cases, the person who says this couldn't quote half of these commandments, or tell you where to find them in the Bible. It is my belief that no one who ever lived could keep these laws perfectly, even if he tried with all his might. If he did, he would likely become the most self-righteous man in town, and would have reason to boast of a very high achievement in morality. He would be bristling with pride.

A certain newspaper is said to have printed the Ten Commandments, without giving their source. An indignant reader called saying, "you are becoming too personal, cancel my subscription".

If you turn to Exodus 20, and notice how pointed are these brief commands, then you will realize how the reader must have been pricked in conscience.

It is because man lacked power to keep the law of the Old Testament, that God provided for him the mercy of the New Testament. True it is that Christ became the sacrifice for our sin. Sin is when we fall short of God's plan of purity and purpose or fail in keeping His law of righteousness.

Under the law, fractured by our failure and weakness, we have no hope, but by the atonement of the Cross we come by faith to receive what we could not earn.

Seeing that our Salvation is in Christ, not in ourselves, we have no reason to boast, except in the love of the Saviour Who would do this for us.

The Ten Commandments serve to remind us how fallen is the human race, and that hope is available in the sacrifice of Christ.

Premier Gerald A. Regan is given a blood pressure test by Dr. C.M. (Bud) Harlow of Halifax to mark the launching of a month-long drive of the Nova Scotia Division of the Canadian Cancer Society for physical check-ups by all residents of the province. This drive has been undertaken in association with the division's 1976 financial campaign. Dr. Harlow said the Premier is in "top shape". (N.S. CIC Photo)

The Future Of Insecticides An Environmental Problem

Insecticides are an example of the environmental problems facing man as a result of continuing technological development. This development was the result of man's desire to improve his living conditions, but has proceeded to a point where technology may nullify its own gains. Chemical insecticides are indispensable at present for pest control and the maintenance of food production, but the search for alternate control methods must be continued.

Alternate controls are required by the fact that accidental contamination of the environment by excessive or inappropriate use is almost unavoidable, and by the development of insecticide resistant insect species. Progress in the use of sterilization techniques, sex lures, insect hormones and biological insecticides promises that it will be possible to reduce, but not eliminate, the use of chemical insecticides.

More research is needed to guide the battles against pests and pollution, and technology must solve the problems it has created.

And it's not the car's collision that hurts in a crash. It's your collision inside the car. When a car hits something it buckles and bends and then comes to a stop. The second, more important collision is what happens to you. If you're not restrained by seat belts in the car you bounce around until your body or head hits something like the steering wheel or dash. And hitting something that hard with a force of several thousand pounds causes serious injuries and possibly death. Lap and seat belts keep you in your seat and prevent the second collision. The one that hurts.

Highway Safety - it all depends on you!

Alcohol Most Misused Drug

Sgt. Thomas Barlow is shown during presentation of a slide-cassette presentation on drug to the Local Committee on Drug Dependency.

by Larry Duchesne

Drugs, what they are, what they do. That was the subject examined in a slide-Cassette presentation by Sgt. Thomas Barlow, at the Digby Local Committee on Drug Dependency meeting at the New Horizons Centre.

This was just one stopover in an educational campaign being conducted by the Digby RCMP detachment.

The presentation has also been shown to a number of area schools, nurses at Digby General Hospital, and the Knights of Columbus.

Other RCMP members who have taken part in the program are Constables, Lord, Crouse and Shiers.

NCO Sgt. Barlow is satisfied with the interest being shown in the program but would like to meet with more parent groups. Those interested can inquire at the Digby RCMP Office.

The current series of presentations wound up at the Digby Junior High School on Tuesday, but if interest is shown, another series of presentations may be given.

The Sergeant feels this is a good time of year for an educational program since there is generally more drug activity in the summer.

Although alcohol is "certainly the most abused drug," Sgt. Barlow noted that marijuana is the most common among other drug-types in this area.

Marijuana is not noted for causing aggressive behaviour on its user, but the Sergeant said there have been some crimes committed because of it, i.e. someone trying to get money to buy it.

Sgt. Barlow was introduced at the Drug Dependency meeting by Rev. George Bell. Mr. Barlow has been a member of the RCMP for 17 years. About half of that time was spent in plainclothes work dealing with drug problems, etc. Prior to coming to Digby he spent six years in New Glasgow and six in Halifax.

Sgt. Barlow's presentation at the Drug Dependency meeting delved into the various reasons people take drugs, including alcohol. Various possibilities were given, i.e. desire to belong to a certain group, or show one belongs to it, to be "with it", desire of change from everyday routine, defiance of authority, attempt to gain feeling of closeness to God or nature, attempt to try to understand one's own feelings and emotions, prove self to others (result of emotional problem), encourage creativity (grass, hash), experience pleasure, etc. The presentation then took viewers into the effect of drugs on the human body.

The audience was informed that an estimated 80 per cent of Canadians over 15 drink. About three percent of these are alcoholics. Alcoholism results in many deaths yearly by poisoning, accidents or suicide. Other forms of misused drugs were then examined, their source, and effects.

While the use of marijuana does not result in physical addiction, some users do develop psychological dependence. Conviction for trafficking in marijuana leads to a criminal record. Amphetamines, barbiturates, morphine and heroin were also examined. Some of these, especially morphine and heroin, are expensive. Users often have to resort to crime to support their habit.

Penalties for trafficking in these products can result in lengthy jail terms, up to life for morphine and heroin.

Heroin is one of the more dangerous drugs resulting in strong physical and mental addiction. Sgt. Barlow said there are 200 or more heroin addicts in Halifax. The rate of armed robbery, etc., there, he said, can be attributed to the increasing heroin addict population.

1976 Exchange

by Claude Pothier, Band President

This year the B.R.H.S., Concert Band under Donald Scott will be travelling to Bangor, Maine, USA, for their annual exchange. This is the second international exchange for the band, since being formed six years ago. The Band will be taking the Bluenose Ferry from Yarmouth to Bar Harbor, Maine then by bus to Bangor on Friday April 9th. The band will be returning on April 13th. Bangor High Concert Band consists of 65-70 members and Digby Band has 38 members.

The second half of the exchange will take place on April 22-26 when Bangor visits Digby. The Concert will be held at the Multi Purpose Room on April 24th at 8 p.m. (Keep watching for more information).

I am making an invitation for all to come out to our exchange concert and hear both bands separately and the 100 piece combined band. I am hoping to see the Multi Purpose Room filled to capacity on April 22. Support the Concert Band and help make this exchange a huge success.

At the present, the Band is preparing an advertisement to welcome Bangor. Of any business has not been contacted and would like to donate towards this campaign, they are asked to call Claude Pothier at 245-4764. The success of this campaign depends greatly on the amount of sponsors.

During our exchange to Maine, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Stonehouse will be our chaperones. I would like to thank them for taking the time off to make the trip with us.

was led by Rev. Douglas Hapeman at the opening of the meeting.

Those appointed as delegates to the Association for Mentally Retarded convention at Stellarton on April 8, 9, and 10 were Mr. and Mrs. Stephen LeBlanc, Rev. Earl Waterman, Mrs. Thomas Francis, Mrs. Gordon Grace, and Mrs. John Murley. Mrs. Eleanor Elms will also attend as a director of the provincial board.

Elected to the new Board of Directors were Rev. Earl Waterman, Mrs. Eleanor Elms, James Outhouse, Dr. David Gordon, William Amirault, Stephen LeBlanc, Rev. Douglas Hapeman, and Hal Theriault. H. R. Doane Co. Ltd., were appointed auditors.

Cornwallis base on Thursday evenings and bowling is arranged. At the Activity Centre they learn the basic life-skills and later can go into workshops. Handwork of the students is generally on display.

It was noted that both Annapolis and Clare had organized Mentally Retarded Associations so the Flowers of Hope drive this year would be for Digby area. The convener in 1975 was Mrs. Thomas Francis who consented to carry on again this year.

James Outhouse of the House Committee and Hal Theriault of the Ways and means were not present to present their reports. Mrs. Daneen Robbins acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Irene Speichts. Prayer education for retarded. These included Jack Ritcey, supervisor of curriculum; Mrs. Nola Jeffrey, guidance; C.C. MacInnis, superintendent; James Hanscomb, supervisor at Weymouth; and E. C. Edwards, inspector of schools. Mrs. Elms reported on the attempt to make an overall master plan, to determine the philosophy of special education as specified by the Department of Education and to relate the Mentally Retarded Training Classes to the whole school program.

The committee recommended that the Minister of Education be contacted to get something definite established and that a special education advisory committee be formed to keep the program going. Because of the recent cut-backs in school budgets, no one was sure what effect this would have on the proposed special education classes for the school of the the area.

In reporting on the activity Centre, Mrs. LeBlanc said that volunteers since October have been giving five days a week, swimming courses are given at the parts. The Digby Branch Canadian Association for Mentally Retarded showed receipts of $18,607.36 and disbursements of $16,457.63 leaving a balance of $2,149.73 for the year. Balance in bank January, 1975 was $1382.40. Balance December 31, 1975 was $3532.13. The financial statement for the Activity Centre showed receipts $9978.17. Disbursements $9580.13. Balance $1398.04 at end of December 1975.

In his address, Mr. LeBlanc reviewed the highlight of Hope Fellowship beginning in 1970 when three or four families saw the need for an association and were able to obtain a charter. By means of L. I. P. grants, department of social services grants, O. F. Y. grants, grant from the Department of Secretary of State, volunteer help and club donations, buildings were acquired and training work progressed.

Mrs. Eleanor Elms reported for the Hope Fellowship Education Committee dealing chiefly with the Committees from the area schools on Stephen LeBlanc, president, presided at the annual meeting of Hope Fellowship Association for Mentally Retarded which convened at the Activity Centre, Conway, on Thursday evening. Annual reports were received, plans for future operation made, and the 1976 directors elected.

Mr. LeBlanc recommended that a paid instructor as well as volunteers should be considered for the future as we'll as paid organized transportation. The president complimented the 1975 committees and recommended that the good work at the Activity Centre continue, that education and recreation committees, also a ways and means committee continue in service. Referring to the recommendation for a paid instructor, Mr. LeBlanc noted that the Department of Social Services pay 65 per cent of the salaries leaving only 35 per cent to be raised otherwise.

The financial report audited by H. R. Doane and Co. and presented by the treasurer, Mrs. Josephine LeBlanc was given in two Ted Scott, Secretary-Treasurer of Scott & Grace Datsun Limited, Digby, Nova Scotia, was among Datsun dealers to attend the Atlantic Premier of Datsun's new front-wheel drive automobile, in Halifax, Nova Scotia, March 31. Mr. Scott got a first hand briefing on the F10 series from M. H. Miki, President of Nissan Automobile Co. (Canada) Limited. The F10 comes in a 2-door sedan, 3-door wagon and sports hatchback models, has a side mounted 1.4 liter engine which averaged 40 miles per gallon in recent EPA tests. The F10 models will be available in Digby this month.

Immunization Against Influenza Strain

The Nova Scotia Public Health Department will follow the guidelines set down by the National Advisory Committee on Immunization, agents for the selective immunization of high risk groups of Canadians against the A-swine strain of influenza.

Health Minister Allan Sullivan announced today the department has accepted, and is prepared to follow those guidelines.

Under the program, bivalent A-swine and A-Victoria influenza vaccine will be made available to those of all ages with chronic conditions such as heart disease, chronic bronchopulmonary disease, chronic renal disease, diabetes mellitus and other chronic metabolic disorders, and to all people over 65 years of age.

The Minister also said monovalent A-swine influenza vaccine is to be made available for people between the ages of 20 and 50, with priority being given to those responsible for the maintenance of essential services. People between the ages of 20 and 40 are the most susceptible to the virus, the Minister said.

The vaccine is not to be routinely administered to infants and children because of the increased incidence and severity of adverse reactions to the vaccine in those under the age of 16.

Notwithstanding any of these guidelines, the Minister said, the vaccine will be available to all Nova Scotians who feel they have a need for the immunization.

The province has entered into an agreement with Health and Welfare Canada to have the federal agency locate and purchase supplies of the vaccine.

To Teach In Tanzania

In heading for Tanzania, Mr. Hannah is by no means entering unknown territory. He spent his first 13 years of life there and is quite capable in the nation's language - Swahili.

Having taught in a number of school systems, (including Australia, New Zealand, England and Canada) Mr. Hannah looks forward to entering the international education field. He looks on it as a chance for career advancement.

As well as being used by international visitors in Tanzania, the international school is also available to Tanzanian nationals. Students graduate with an International Baccalaureate, accepted as university entrance by almost any university.

Mr. Hannah has resided in Digby for six years. Two of these were spent as Senior History teacher and four as Principal.

He will be accompanied on his journey by wife, Davdene, and daughters, Samantha and Tristin.

D. R. H.S. principal Lister Hannah will conclude his stay in Digby by the next school term. Destination - Tanzania.

In Tanzania, Mr. Hannah will serve as headmaster of an international school affiliated with the Geneva-based International School Association.

The school population, including students of some 26 nationalities, numbers a little in excess of 300.

Western nations have experts in various fields helping Tanzania develop. Through CIDA, Canadians are involved in a grain project there; the Swedes are helping to develop forest industries, etc.

Many of the children of foreign nations are sent to the international school. English is the language of instruction although provision is made for classes in one's own language.

Tiverton

(Mrs. Basil Outhouse)

Mrs. Evelyn Outhouse has returned home after spending several weeks visiting members of her family, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Outhouse, and family at Yarmouth; daughter Marina at Halifax; and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Outhouse and family at Lower Sackville, Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Ena Beck of Halifax spent several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Outhouse.

Sympathy is extended to the family of the late Leonard Howard (Tommy Brown), native of Tiverton who passed away at his home at Freeport last week.

Miss Alberta Outhouse, R. N., left last week for Toronto where she has resumed R. N. duties for a month.

John Outhouse and son, Lee, attended the Johnny Cash movie, "The Gospel Road" shown at the Wesleyan Church at Digby Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Outhouse attended the surprise birthday party held in honor of Mr. Charles Cann at his home at Freeport.

John Outhouse accompanied by Walter Ryan, Sr., and Walter Ryan, Jr., made a business trip to Meteghan one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Cereno MacCallough and son, Francis, of Little River called on their daughter, Mrs. Fraser Outhouse, and family one day recently.

Wishes for a speedy recovery are extended to Brad Perry, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Perry, who at time of writing is a patient in Digby General Hospital.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. Gregory Perry who successfully passed the "Heavy Equipment" course at Windsor Vocational School. He completed the course last week.

Mr. Ray Prime and Mr.

and Mrs. Lindon Titus attended the Ice Capades at Halifax last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Grafton Outhouse visited Joseph Outhouse, patient at the Rehab. Centre at Halifax when enroute home from Florida. BANQUET HELD

The Sunshine Bible Class of the Tiverton United Baptist Church recently sponsored a banquet.

The banquet, held in honor of the Junior and Senior members of the Christian Youth Groups of the churches in the Islands' area, was held in the vestry of the Tiverton United Baptist church.

Purpose of the event was to permit the youth of the Islands an opportunity to experience and share in Christian fellowship and fun.

Main courses served the young people ranged from home-baked beans to chop suey, a standard favorite, with all the fancy fixings that accompany such fare, and also included goodies to satisfy even the sweetest tooth.

The group, 30-40 in all, were served by the members of the Sunshine Bible Class.

Minister, Floyd Gail, organizer and leader of the groups, on behalf of the young people, expressed his thanks to the Bible Class for the time and effort they contributed to the banquet. He also thanked community members who donated food and to all who assisted in making the banquet a success.

Mr. and Mrs. Grafton Outhouse and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Outhouse, Sr., have returned from Florida where they visited for the past month.

Mr. Carlton Sollows, Halifax, spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. Ella Sollows.

Young Man Chosen

Chester Outhouse, Jr., grade twelve student of Islands Consolidated School, Freeport, Nova Scotia, was among the students chosen throughout the counties of Nova Scotia to spend a day in parliament at Ottawa recently.

He said they met opposition leader, Joe Clark, and Miss Coline Campbell, MP, for South Western Nova Scotia. He said the students were granted a question and answer period with the two, Miss Campbell and Mr. Clark, who answered most of the questions the young people asked. They did not get to meet Mr. Trudeau, Mr. Outhouse said, even though the Prime Minister was present.

During their visit to Parliament, former Works Minister, Bud Drury who had previously submitted his resignation, left the building.

Mr. Outhouse said their visit was exciting, im-formative and very helpful in understanding the tremendous responsibilities faced by the members of parliament.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Batson, Bridgetown, were Sunday guests of their daughter, Mrs. Frank Jeffrey, Mr. Jeffrey and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Morehouse spent Thursday in Yarmouth.

Sorry to report Mr. Bob Van had the misfortune to cut his hand while operating a power saw. He is now convalescing at home.

Recreation And Firehall

Top Of Sandy Cove Hill

The regular meeting of the Digby Neck Fire Commission was held in the Sandy Cove Community hall and concerned itself with the building of the firehall-recreation center.

The firehall-recreation center will be built on the top of Sandy Cove hill and many folks are hard at work preparing the site. The all-steel building will be 60 x 100 with 30 x 60 being the firehall and 70 x 60 being the recreation center. Complete kitchen facilities will make the rec hall available for social functions and it is hoped that the communities will take advantage of the facility once it is complete. A large sign says that it is a Federal, Provincial, Community project.

The Commission commended the work of the fire department during the recent fire at Centerville. It is felt that the volunteers performed above and beyond the call of duty. Everyone is grateful to the Digby Fire Department for their prompt assistance.

Saturday night 'bingo' at the Sandy Cove Community Hall is well received and there have been many winners. Last week the large jackpot was won by Muriel Guier and there are jackpots yet to be won. Early bird game is at 7:45 p.m. with regular bingo to follow. It is a social evening enjoyed by young and old alike.

Next meeting of the Commission will be May 7th.

Tax Committee

Blasts Assessment

Assessment in Digby Municipality came under heavy fire during a meeting of the Tax Committee of the Digby County Federation of Agriculture on March 8.

Committee members present to discuss the assessments were Leonard and Stanley Boudreau of Concession, Peter Balser of Shelburne Road and Wayne Comeau of Brighton.

The federation feels the current reassessment is grossly unfair and unjustified at a time when primary industries are needed for a sound base to create secondary industry. It was especially felt that the assessors' definition of cultivated land and classification of cultivated land, pasture land and woodland were completely in error.

"At present, assessment officials have been using the term 'cultivated' loosely and we as agricultural people feel cultivated land according to the dictionary is land that is tilled by labour to prepare for crops," the committee stated in a news release.

"Much of our land has not been cultivated so should only be considered as cleared land. This would be land that has adequate drainage, which is turned over, limed and fertilized," the release continued.

"Digby County has no (top-quality) or excellent cultivated land which is free of stones, well drained and has deep sandy top-soil. Digby County contains 2,000 acres of good agricultural land which is mostly under forest at the present time according to the Nova Scotia Soil Survey published by the Ivan Haight and Leona, Hill Grove; Mrs. Charlie Brooks Sr. Barbara Mullin and Leota Brooks and families visited Mr. and Mrs. David Russell.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Lombard of Freeport; Mr. and Mrs. Joey Parson and two children of New Edinburg, and Mrs. Lenard Thibodeau and daughter of Ashmore, visited Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lombard.

Reginald Comeau is confined at his home with two broken legs.

A grass fire caused the home of Mrs. Mabel Raymond and another building to burn down on Saturday afternoon. Thanks to the Digby Neck Fire Department and Digby fire truck for helping to control the blaze.

An 'Open House' was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Outhouse on Saturday night. They were married at Digby by Rev. Ronald Stevenson March 20th. A lunch was served by Mrs. Lorrison Tidd of Little River and Mrs. Nelson Merritt and Mrs. R. Gidney of Sandy Cove.

Rev. and Mrs. Robert Reid motored to Halifax one day recently.

Lemuel Raymond celebrated his 89th birthday on Sunday, March 21st. He is the oldest man of Centreville.

Mr. and Mrs. David Russell and daughter Blenda, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Brooks at Hassett and other relatives. They also called on Mrs. Carl Watkins at Digby.

Limited

"The top-quality cultivated land in Digby County is fair to good land for agricultural production after considerable amounts of improvement in drainage, stone renovation, land farming, liming and fertilization has been done. This type of land within the county is very limited.

"The majority of cleared land in Digby County is fair to poor land due to its limiting factor such as drainage, stoniness, slope, soil type, relatively low Ph, very infertile and in a run out condition generally.

"With the above factors in mind we, therefore, conclude that pasture land would fall under the exact same categories as above in relation to good, fair and poor pasture land.

"It seems strange that the assessors appraisals are so much higher than provincial departments of government, such as the Nova Scotia Farm Loan Board, Department of Lands and Forests, and the Department of Highways.

Reassessment

"The committee has learned by an official source that of the 960 appeals filed, this represents in excess of 2000 individual properties, which is one-third of the total property owners in the municipality. It also seems strange that as of March 5, approximately 150 of the original appeals have been re-assessed by the local assessors.

"The committee feels that if the assessors had contacted knowledgeable people in the agricultural and forestry field, such as the Digby County Federation of Agriculture and County Woodlot Owners Association, this 'unfair' assessment could have been avoided.

"It has come to the attention of the Committee that the provincial government is appointing and financing legal aid for the assessors in the appeal court and our question is: 'Will the same service be provided by the government of Nova Scotia for the farmer and woodlot owner?' and 'What form will this service take?' In other words, will the lawyer just be present in the courtroom or will he be available (as in the case of the assessors) to help prepare the appeal for the individual.

"In closing, the committee members dispersed with the thought - 'May God help the poor and old who did not have the courage or knowledge to appeal.'

Digby's Bantam Team Tournament Played At Trenton

Rockingham Eagles downed New Waterford 6-2 in the championship game to win the Nova Scotia Minor Hockey Council bantam 'B' title.

Rockingham finished the round robin tourney with a 3-0 mark; New Waterford was second with a 2-1 slate; Trenton wound up in third with a 1-2 record and Digby was winless in three starts.

Steve Brown and Paul Butler both scored a pair of goals to spark Rockingham to their title win while David Howden and David Lake added singles. John Petrosse and Robby Blenhorn replied for New Waterford.

Paul Butler was named the most valuable player and also the all-star centre; John Petrossie was the top scorer and all-star rightwinger; while other all-stars were Kevin Locke, Digby leftwinger; defence Don Loigie, Rockingham and Ron MacMullen, North Sydney; and goal Derrick Pye, North Sydney.

Rockingham Eagles 8- Barry Lynds 3, Steve Brown 3, David Lake, Paul Butler;

Digby 3- Kevin Locke, Danny LeBlanc, Sean Raymond.

North Sydney 9- Gary Fraser 3, Patty Bius 2, John Petrossie 2, Darren Gardiner, Larry Andrea, Mike Corby; Trenton 2- Bob Anderson.

North Sydney 9- John Petrossie 3, Darren Gardiner 3, Patty Bius, Ron MacMullen, Gary Fraser; Digby 3- Kevin Locke 2, Dale Stewart.

Rockingham 2- Barry Lynds, Steve Brown; Trenton 1- Peter Robertson.

Rockingham 6 - Steve

Materials For French-Language Schools

The federal government is contributing $250,000 to the Province of Ontario for its Ontario Learning Materials Development Plan, Secretary of State J. Hugh Faulkner announced today.

The federal government will reimburse the Province of Ontario 50 percent of the funds expended for the development, translation into French as appropriate, and production of French-language learning in honour of the outstanding Digby teams of the past. Competition will be with clubs from southwest Nova Scotia, including the very successful Weymouth squad that went to the N.S. finals of Intermediate B competition last year.

There has not been senior men's baseball in Digby for some time, but other towns in the area, including Weymouth, Saulnierville and Meteghan have all been fielding strong clubs. Digby has made application to join this league.

Digby players trying out for the Ravens include Calvin Barton, Murray Baxter, Robert Morgan, Mitchell Beliveau, Lance Woolaver, Gordie Hand-spiker, Todd Simms, Roland Miller, Roddy Robicheau, Danny Doucet, Charley Walker, Fulton Logan, Perry Simms, Stephen Saulnier, David Banks, Harold Haynes, Peter Cromwell and others. The first practise indoors at the high school gymnasium in Digby, Sunday, April 4, at 1:00 p.m. Anyone wishing to try out is welcome. The only restriction on players is that they be from the Digby area.

The first Ravens games are scheduled for the middle of June. It is expected that league games will be on week nights, after supper, and that exhibition games will take place on the weekend. Proceeds from Ravens games will be donated to the Digby Little League.

materials, both print and audio-visual, by companies acceptable to the Government of Canada in keeping with its policy of supporting Canadian-owned publishing firms.

In making the announcement, Mr. Faulkner indicated that this type of agreement falls within the federal government's plan to work with provincial governments to promote bilingualism in education. The project is also an example of federal support for the development of French language and culture, especially for francophone communities.

The project is part of the Federal-Provincial program of cooperation for the promotion of bilingualism in education. Administered by the Department of the Secretary of State, the program was initiated in 1970 and renewed in 1974 for another five-year period.

Funds contributed to the Canadian Cancer Society and allocated to research are used to erect new buildings at research centres, to pay the salaries of full-time scientists, laboratory technicians and assistants, and to buy essential materials and equipment for the cancer research laboratories. Give generously to the Canadian Cancer Society.

"Pre-Flight" Check by Car Driver

"Dear, will you round up the children while I check the car out? We have to leave in five minutes." Can you imagine yourself - or any driver - going through a formal check-up procedure every time you use your car? However, if you were an airplane pilot, you would be required to check a number of things before every take-off. Called a pre-flight inspection, this pilot's check-up involves scrutiny of fuel and oil, control surfaces, instruments, ignition system, carburetor heat control, this switch and that lever. It is pretty complicated until you know your airplane. But know it you must before you are granted a license to fly.

These checks become routine to a pilot, because he is personally responsible for the condition of his aircraft. He cannot blame anyone else if he runs out of oil at 10,000 feet or, worse out of power as his wheels leave the ground. It would be impractical for a driver to go through a pilot's complicated pre-flight check every time he decided to drive around the corner, but a few simple precautions can save you untold inconvenience...possibly agony.

Here are some pre-flight checks for your car, as suggested by the American Petroleum Institute, that any driver can and should do. They cover the things that can go wrong with your car from one trip to the next (plus some things that sneak up on you), and they constitute the only way to be reasonably sure of your car's condition.

TIRES...Take a walk around your car to see if any tires look low. Watch for bulges, cuts or bruises they may have suffered when you hit a curb or drove over a rock. Spend a few minutes occasionally taking a close look at the tread. Even when tread looks all right at first glance, it may not be deep enough to keep you out of trouble on a wet, smooth surface.

STEERING...A pilot's directional controls are his rudder, aileron and elevators, which he must check before every flight. A driver can check his steering in seconds: A hand on the wheel as you get into the car is all it takes.

Move the wheel two inches to see that the front wheels respond. If your car has power steering, make your test with the engine running. Listen, too, for the squealing noise that warns of impending trouble in the power steering pump or belt.

LIGHTS...In nearly all vehicle safety inspections, lights lead the list of defects. They are either out of focus or just plain out.

Imagine a pilot saying to his passenger during a night flight, "I must remember to get those identification lights fixed one of these days. Would you mind watching for any planes that seem to be coming too close?"

This pilot's chances still would be better than those of the driver who, because he forgot to have a light fixed, hopes other drivers will see him. A walk-around light inspection takes only a few seconds. Your service man will do it for you (including a check of the brake lights and turn signals) if you ask him.

Basin View Apartments

(Miss Delerice Fraill)

Mrs. Emily Abbott, Mrs. Julia Bondy, and Mr. Bing Dickie motored to East Ferry on Sunday.

We regret to report Mrs. Clarence Titus and Mr. Coleman Dakin are patients at Digby General Hospital. We wish them a speedy recovery.

Ern McDormand and Dean Pugh motored to Westport recently with Mr. McDormand's son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley McDormand of Bridgewater.

Mr. McDormand accompanied his son and wife on their return to Bridgewater and is now visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Perry and Mrs. Emily Abbott motored to Plympton Sunday.

Holland Titus motored to Westport last Wednesday for the day. He was accompanied by Mrs. Oda Pyne and her daughter, Mrs. Joe Yeoman, of Kingston.

A Friday evening Bingo and a sing-song were enjoyed. Some from Hillside apartments joined. Refreshments was served.

The International Quilt Competition, sponsored by the Fair and the Women's Institutes of Nova Scotia, which proved so popular at last year's Atlantic Winter Fair, will be held again in 1976.

$250 in prize money will be awarded to the top winner and the winner will also receive a trophy. These quilts will be on display at the Fair, when it is held in Halifax in October. A juried display of the remaining quilts will be on display at the Art Gallery of Mount Saint Vincent University, Halifax. A total of $500 will be given for 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th place.

Entries last year came from five provinces across Canada and it is hoped that this year entries will also come from the U. S. and overseas. The quilts entered in the competition may be the work of an individual or group and must be double bed size. They will be judged by a panel of three qualified judges and judging will be on workmanship and artistic merit.

Entries close September 13, 1976, and anyone wishing a copy of the competition rules should write the Women's Institute Office, Nova Scotia Agricultural College, Truro, Nova Scotia.

Events With A Difference

A day that is different has been planned for the little Town of Parrsboro in Cumberland County. The 1976 Nova Scotia Calendar of Events lists a Blueberry Raking, Baking and Pie Eating Contest for September 7. This struck our imagination when we read it and, of course, having spent one year of a school teaching career there we were further interested. Other events on the list are healthy teeth. Another frequent cause of malocclusion is mouth-breathing, generally caused by tonsils in bad condition, nasal obstructions and infected adenoids. They should be removed when they interfere with normal breathing.

Thumb sucking, tongue thrusting and lip biting are bad habits which, if practised vigorously during childhood, will cause teeth irregularities that may be difficult and expensive to correct. Why risk it, when an ounce of prevention will do the trick. Canadian Dental Association also typical of their provincial locations, making them attractive to visitors throughout the year. They include weekly harness racing, exhibitions, golf championships, festivals, many "with a difference."

Cancer has no respect for race, creed, colour or wealth. With only slight variations, it attacks any group or nationality. It attacks mice, cats, dogs, even oysters and plants.

In the Digby area, events scheduled are the Atlantic Symphony Orchestra Concert, Digby on April 20 and Church Point, April 21; the Annapolis Valley Apple Blossom Festival, June 2 to 6; Dominion Day Celebrations, July 1, at Weymouth; Good Times Day, July 10, Smith's Cove; Scallop Day, Digby, August 21; the Digby Pines Classic Golf Tournament, September 25 and 26 and on October 2 and 3; the Frost Golf Tournament will be held at Clare. Maybe these do not sound like events with a difference. The main point is they've been advertised and now the old reliable can still be revived "with a difference."

Copies of the Nova Scotia Calendar of Events, 1976, and a free Nova Scotia Vacation Kit are available by writing to the Nova Scotia Department of Tourism, P. O. Box 456, Halifax, Nova Scotia, B3J 2R5. Regular summer guests and those contemplating some time in Digby this summer might wish to avail themselves of a copy of the List of Events while our villagers and townsfolk excite their imagination to an "event with a difference."

DANVERS

(Mrs. Philip Gaudet)

Sympathy is extended to the family of the late Mr. Lawson Stone, Hassett's, whose death occurred at the Digby Hospital on Sunday, March 14, and to the family of the late Mrs. Elmer (Hazel) Duran, Wesver Settlement, whose death occurred at the Digby Hospital on March 15.

Get well wishes go out to Mrs. Margaret McGeorge from Moncton, New Brunswick, who is a patient at the Digby General Hospital. Mrs. McGeorge was visiting her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. Budd Lewis, and family when taken ill.

Several ladies from here attended the W. M. S. quilting at the home of Mrs. Vernon Goudey, Riverdale, on Wednesday and Thursday, March 10 and 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Sabean and family, Truro, spent the March break with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cosman and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred White and family, Ashmore, were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cosman on Sunday, March 21.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cosman were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Sabine, Weymouth North, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Taylor and baby, Digby, spent Thursday, March 18, with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Barr.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fulton visited Saturday with Mrs. Hubert Height, Weymouth.

Philip Gaudet visited his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Archie J. Burgess, Kentville, and Forrest Prime, Waterville on Saturday.

Don't Blame Grampa

Whenever there is something wrong with a child, whether morally, physically or even mentally, somebody in the family will talk about the defects as having been inherited. Even if there is nothing wrong with the child, it will be said that the color of his eyes or hair is the same as that of one of his ancestors.

When a child has irregularly-shaped jaws and teeth, Grampa and even Uncle Bill or Auntie Mame is liable to be blamed. Actually, irregularly-shaped jaws and teeth are sometimes inherited. But for every child born with such hereditary tendencies, four others either cause the irregularity themselves or their parents let it develop through lack of proper dental care. Even the child who got his buck-teeth from father or grampa, can improve or correct this condition through proper dental care.

In most cases, malformed teeth and jaws can be prevented. A knowledge of the causes and their removal is all that is necessary. It is of utmost importance, for example, to keep the baby teeth until they are ready to be replaced by the permanent ones.

Malocclusion can also be prevented by a good diet based on Canada's Food Rules and good eating habits. Following these rules will help build strong healthy bones, which support

What Went On In 1912

Bob Raymond brought in an old copy of The Digby Weekly Courier of November 15, 1912. We thank his mother, Mrs. Mable Raymond, for sharing it with us and we in turn will share parts of it with our readers of today.

A new building had just been built and occupied by one of Digby's youngest businessmen, Wesley L. Holdsworth. The building was situated on the east side of Water Street near the Wigwam Post Card Shop and was especially designed for Mr. Holdsworth who leased it from Captain J. W. Snow of Port Wade. The old building which Mr. Holdsworth formerly occupied on the property was moved back as an annex to the new building.

The Courier article of 1912 paid highest compliments to the young businessman and his excellent business relationships.

Guy Morehouse had just closed down his automobile passenger and mail service on Digby Neck for the winter after a successful summer season. Both the automobile services of Mr. Morehouse on the Neck and Ed Black-ford on Long Island were praised publicly.

On item in the November 15, 1912, puzzled this editor. It was that C. V. Henshaw, Deep Brook, had collected during the past year, ending October 22, the following raw furs: 53 lynx, 47 house cats, 14 silver foxes, 2 Newfoundland dogs, 197 skunks, 12,846 muskrats, 6 white foxes, 29 wild cats, one blue fox, 13 fishers, 126 racoons, 1602 weasels, one wolverine, 338 minks, 257 red foxes, 45 cross foxes, 67 bears and 138 otters. (Why so varied a collection and whence cometh all those muskrats.)

It was in the November 15 issue that the formation of a branch of the Nova Scotia League for the Care and Protection of the Feeble-Minded, each in Bear River and Digby, was reported. President of "The Digby League for the Protection of the Feeble-Minded" was Rev. W. Driffield and in Bear River the president was W. K. Tibert.

Dakin Bros. had cooking ranges for $23.50 and at H. T. Warne and Co. Shoe Store there were vacuum cleaners for $4.50 that would do the work of a $100 machine.

Reflecting To 1946

A poll was granted for a plebiscite at Westport, Brier Island for the purpose of voting whether or not the village should be incorporated under the Village Supply Act. Weymouth and Freeport had been incorporated in 1921 and 1923 respectively. Villages under the incorporation act have power to provide electric street lighting, police protection, water, sewage disposal and other provisions.

It was in April 1946 when the Digby Branch Victorian Order of Nurses began an industrial nursing program at H.T. Warne Ltd. The Order also began Mothercraft classes for students and a visiting nurse service for veterans.

Your Town and Mine columnist urged that some action should be taken to curb the tendency to truancy and juvenile delinquency which the town was experiencing. Some of the 7 to 14 year children showed only a tendency to pranks but others were definitely anti-social. The columnist praised the Cubs organization but further warned that no organization can do the job alone. There must be concerted effort on the part of home, school and other organizations to correct the evil which exists. The article said that these youngsters are in the formative stage and the attitude they develop toward life and to the laws of the country will probably remain with them throughout life. The future of the country depends on these children.

Much Interest In Clare Senior Citizens

Activities at the activity centre of the Clare Senior Citizens Club at the Clare Columbus Club hall in Comeauville for the month of March were successful. Besides the weekly card games on every Tuesday open to the public and on Thursdays for club members only, a bingo a month has been organized, which was held on March 12th and held in the evening. Bingos will be held every second Friday of the month. The bingo is principally for entertainment purposes for those who do not care to play cards and for those who like to play bingo. Ceramic prizes have been awarded which have been made by the club members.

Visits to invalids in the area covered by the club has been suspended for a time due to cases of 'flu' in the area but will continue now that spring weather has arrived. A committee was composed of Albert P. Melanson, Camille Gaudet, Mrs. Celeste Bourneuf, Delphis Comeau and Mrs. Charlotte O'Neil to organize entertainment or visiting programs for shut-ins. Only one visit has been made to date but more will be coming.

A delegation of two members, Camille Deveau and Camille Gaudet assisted at the Senior Citizens Seminar held at Coldbrook at the Wandlyn Motel recently.

A supper was served at 5 p.m. at the club's activity centre in Comeauville on Tuesday, March 30th with 65 members in attendance. A bean supper was served by the kitchen committee composed of Mrs. Zoe Saulnier, Mrs. Charlotte O'Neil and they were assisted in serving by other lady members of the club. Over fifteen pies were made by the ladies of the club and an auction of surplus pies brought in the sum of $26.00 with president Delphis Comeau acting as auctioneer. Sales of crafts for the month was $66.40 which consisted of 2 quilt tops, pot holders, aprons, socks made by the ladies.

A marked improvement in attendance during the winter months at the activities of the club has been noted. The ladies have been very generous in donating cakes, pies and other things for the monthly supper. Some of the ladies are busy making afghans, quilt tops, stockings, mittens, aprons for the club. A good stock of craft materials are on hand at all times. Most of the ladies prefer to take the materials to their homes where they can work on their project whenever they have spare moments during the day.

Rental Review Forms

The deadline for filing rental accommodation information forms with the Rent Review Commission has been extended to April 30, 1976.

Ken M. Mounce, Chairman of the Commission, announced the extension today saying that landlords had indicated that the extra time was needed to comply with the terms of the rent review legislation.

All landlords of residential premises are required to file the information forms, Mr. Mounce said. The forms will help the Commission keep track of rent increases. Under the terms of the legislation, residential premises includes houses, apartments, flats, tenements, mobile homes, mobile home parks and spaces, rooming and boarding houses.

The rental accommodation information forms may be picked up from the Rent Review Commission offices or from the Regional Residential Tenancies Board offices in Halifax, Sydney, Truro, Port Hawkesbury, Yarmouth, Bridgewater and Kentville.

Students Spend March Break In France

Six Grade XII students of Weymouth Consolidated High School and their homeroom teacher, Mrs. Renette Amiraault spent their March Break in Paris, France.

During their first full day in Paris they were taken on a bus tour of historical points of interest in the city and attended the play "Mayflower" in the evening. The play was the story of the first voyage to America and the dream of a man trying to find a perfect world.

On two occasions the group went on trips which took them far from Paris. The first trip was to the Loire Valley where they saw many beautiful chateaux. They visited the Chateau de Chambord and the Chateau d'Ambroise, had dinner in Chartres and toured the Cathedral of Chartres which among other things is famous for its beautiful stained glass windows. The second trip took them to the coast of Normandy in northwestern France. There they visited the island monastery and village of Mont St. Michel. Wandering around the village and monastery they were able to see what life was like in a medieval village.

A trip to Paris would not be complete unless you visited the Louvre. There they viewed many masterpieces, the Venus de Milo, Winged Victory and the Mona Lisa to mention a few. A day was spent at Versailles, the home of the last king and queen of France and they also toured Malmaison, the home Napoleon Bonaparte had built for Josephine.

Another highlight of their trip was a boat ride along the River Seine and their evening spent attending a performance at the Folies Bergere nightclub.

They arrived home tired BUT happy and certainly rich in memories of a wonderful trip they will never forget.

The Students who made the trip were Wanda Mullen, Shelley Clayton, Linda Gould, Debby Burton, Rickey John and Dean Gaudet.

Digby Town Reports Surplus $37,629.

Ben Cullen of H. R. Doane and Co., auditors for the Town of Digby reviewed the highlights of the town's financial statement for 1975 at the special meeting of Council on Monday evening when a surplus of $37,629 was declared. Total revenue for the year was $768,621 and expenditures $730,992. Budgeted revenue and expenditure was $724,697.

In presenting the audited figures, Mr. Cullen reminded Council that while they had a surplus of $37,629 they had not put anything in reserve funds as recommended by the Department of Municipal Affairs for provision of outstanding taxes. This, he said, is likely to deplete working capital.

Because of the adverse criticism about financial statements being issued late, Mr. Cullen said that much of the difficulty comes through the sharing process by means of school enrolment. This sharing involves the Digby town school boards and the municipal school boards. He advised the only way to avoid this delay is to project the enrolment and at the next year make necessary adjustments. Two roadblocks to the completion, he said, had come through the guidance and curriculum departments but from the auditors' standpoint the lateness could not be overcome. The lateness had been criticised by Councillor Eileen Chipman.

Councillor Gordon Ellis questioned Mr. Cullen on whether the sewer project in Digby would effect the borrowing power of the town for the future. He also stated that for a number of years he had advocated a reserve fund.

Robert Theriault, deputy town clerk, acting in the capacity of clerk reported on the shareable cost statement issued the Department of Education. The breakdown of net shareable education items is $587,333 of which the province's share is 58.35 per cent or $342,709 and the town portion is $244,624. The department of education pays seventy-five percent of the residential portion which amounts to 53 percent of costs.

Digby Town Grants Tax Exemptions

Digby Town Council in special session on Monday evening granted tax exemptions for 1976 on four properties on which total assessments were $756,500. They included the Digby Recreation Commission assessed at $60,300; Tideview Terrace (Digby Town and Municipal Housing Corporation) $595,600; Digby Kiwanis Swimming Pool, $35,400 and Digby Branch Royal Canadian Legion $65,200. These exemptions had already been passed in principle at an earlier meeting but each were specifically passed on Monday evening.

All motions for the exemptions were passed with the following nay votes recorded: Digby Recreation Commission, Councillors Eileen Chipman and Gordon Ellis; Tideview Terrace, Councillors Reginald Hazelton and Ellis; Kiwanis Swimming Pool, Chipman and Ellis and Digby Legion, Chipman and Ellis. All councillors were present.

The exemptions, according to Mayor Charles Haliburton, who presided, come up for consideration another year.

Councillor Ellis gave his reasons for voting against the exemptions, noting the many necessities like sidewalks, water facilities etc., in the town and by deletion of taxes as were passed at the meeting the taxation to cover these necessities must be picked up from other properties.

Mr. Ellis also referred to the public housing projects in Digby and suggested a raise in rent would be in order. Mr. Ellis felt it was difficult to do much about the financial position of housing when the Council had no jurisdiction over it. Councillor Guy Van Tassell said that rental contracts expire after two years at which time incomes and particulars about tenants are reviewed.

Councillor Chipman in referring to the exemption on the Legion property said that she was strongly opposed to that exemption because of the organization having a liquor license.

Following the passing of the exemption motions Council went into Committee of the whole by regular motion. Only dissenting vote on the motion was Councillor Chipman. The news media and visitors were directed by means of the motion to leave the Council Chamber while Council in Committee proceeded with the 1976 budget.

Speaks On Citizenship Legislation

A review of the history of naturalization and citizenship legislation in Canada was presented at the April meeting of the Bear River Women's Institute last Wednesday by Citizenship Court Judge Victor Cardoza.

Introduced by Mrs. R. K. Purdy, Institute vice-president, Judge Cardoza, noted that new citizenship legislation is at present before the parliament of Canada. He said a number of changes in present requirements and other matters will be effected by the new legislation which has been designed to remedy some of the difficulties occasioned by present legislation.

In his address, the Judge stressed the importance of the sense of belonging which comes with citizenship. He observed this seems to be of particular importance to people who have come here from countries where the freedoms we enjoy are unknown. Native born Canadians, he said, are inclined to take the heritage and the privileges they secure through birth for granted. Sometimes, he said, they are not nearly so aware of what these are as are those who must seek their citizenship through the court.

Judge Cardoza urged his listeners to work through their organization to make those newly come to Canada feel welcome here. In doing this, he said, these people might be made to feel more inclined to become full members of the Canadian family through acquiring citizenship.

Prior to the address, the regular business was conducted by the vice-president, Mrs. Purdy, when reports and correspondence were read.

Mrs. Cecil Miller announced that the Western Area W. I. Convention would be held in Lawrencetown on June 9, the theme being Homesteading. Each W. I. is to have a skit on homesteading and provide old-fashion homemade cookies. Handicrafts will be on display.

Mrs. Miller, district W. I. president, also announced the Sammy Seagull cleanup project would be held May 14 and May 15. This is a joint project with the Nova Scotia Department of Environment. Mrs. Pauline Meek, Canning, N. S., is the provincial chairperson for the Sammy Seagull Clean-Up Program. The W. I. in Bear River is soliciting volunteer help to make the project a success.

It was reported that the Department of Agriculture had published a new cook book entitled, "Back To Basics."

Plans were made to hear yearly reports of the B. R. W. I. at the next meeting.

Mrs. Buckler was hostess to afternoon tea following the Citizenship address.

Sewerage Project Underway

By Larry Duchesne

The final phase of Digby's three-phase sewerage programme is finally underway. Phase III will cost an estimated $1.71 million.

Completion of the project can be expected around the Fall of 1977. At that time, most of the town's residents will have sewerage facilities.

New water mains for Mount and Sydney Streets, and storm sewers on First Avenue are also included in the project.

Most of the work will be sub-contracted by the general contractor - Classic Construction Ltd. of Yarmouth.

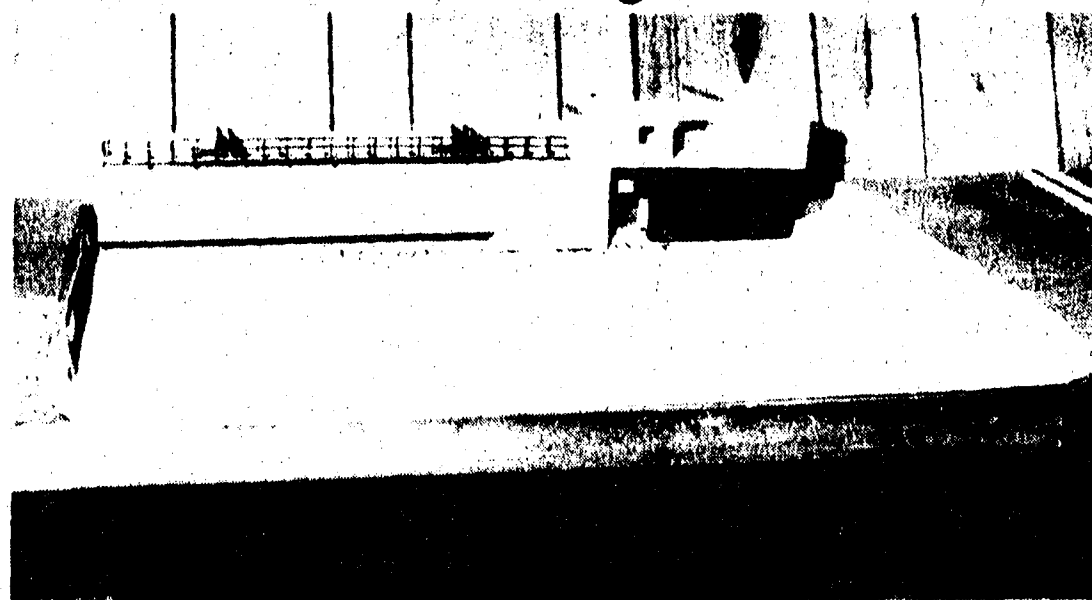

Consulting engineers are W.N. Horner & Associates. R. Wayne MacKinnon is the resident engineer.

Five sewage pumping stations will be constructed to intercept and convey sewage to the treatment plant from sewers presently discharging into the Basin. The treatment plant itself will be constructed on a site off the south end of Queen Street.

It will contain an aeration basin and clarifier as well as sludge storage tanks and will include control and maintenance buildings of concrete masonry construction.

The plant has been designed to serve the town and surrounding area.

Construction will include the installation of about 32,000 lineal feet of 8 in., 10 in. and 12 in. gravity sewer; 8,000 feet of 4 in., 6 in. and 8 in. pressure sewer; and about

A model of the sewage treatment plant soon to be under construction.

Groundwork for Phase III of Digby's sewage program is underway.

2,400 feet of 6 in. and 8 in. water main.

Approval to borrow up to $1,840,000 for the project was obtained at a ratepayers meeting on January 8. The vote was 84-80 in favour. When the effects of grants and financing are computed, the estimated cost to the municipality, including operating expenses, will amount to about $55,000.

Resident engineer Wayne MacKinnon has requested that residents excuse any temporary inconveniences resulting from the sewerage project. Pavement will be torn up as required as the project advances.

All sewerage laterals will extend to a person's property line.

Help Coming For Herring Seiner Fishermen

Coline Campbell, M.P., for Southwest Nova has announced that Hon. Romeo LeBlanc will shortly announce a $750,000 assistance program for Canadian herring seiner fishermen operating principally in the Bay of Fundy area of ICNAF Division 4-X.

Incomes to these fishermen have been drastically reduced by a sharp decline in the price of herring used for fishmeal. In the past, most Bay of Fundy herring have been used for this purpose.

The deficiency payment will apply on the 1975 herring catch of the ICNAF 4-X Division at the rate of $12 per ton up to a maximum of 1,500 tons per vessel.

New measures are being considered, Mr. LeBlanc says, in consultation with the fisherman and processors, to make the maximum out of the herring catch for food consumption in 1976... thus insuring a better return to the fishermen.

Land Trade Approved

A land-trade, and discussions on committee problems and a new town hall highlighted discussions at a special meeting of Digby Town Council on Thursday (April 8).

The land-trade involved a transaction with Jack Gillespie in which the town gave a piece of land measuring about 160 x 60 feet for a piece measuring 40 x 220 feet.

The trade was considered fairly even since the town also got a right-of-way over a portion of Mr. Gillespie's property.

The transaction was deemed necessary so the treatment plant could be built further from the water.

Disband Controversial Finance Committee

On motion of Councillor William Reid, seconded by Councillor Guy VanTassell and unanimously carried the current Digby Town Council Finance Committee was on Monday evening at a special session disbanded and a new one elected. On the new committee are Councillors Gordon Ellis, Councillor VanTassell and Deputy Mayor Philip Robertson.

The motion arose out of a happening at a committee meeting on March 1 when Councillor Ellis found it difficult to work on the same committee with Councillor Eileen Chipman and strongly expressed himself to that effect. Personalities loomed high at Monday evening's town council meeting prior to the passing of the motion to disband the committee. Councillor Chipman accused Councillor Ellis of refusing to answer her questions on finance and she in reprimanding tone criticized Mayor Charles Haliburton in his supervision of Council and the conduct of councillors. She claimed that she was taking care of the public's interest and demanded of Councillor Ellis to state his reason for not being able to work with her. She accused him of holding the controls and suggested he had not been elected.

Councillor VanTassell referred to the March meeting which brought up the subject of Councillor Chipman not signing bills for payment and at which time Mrs. Chipman was supposed to tell Councillor Ellis to "shut your mouth."

Councillor VanTassell requested that the street, public property, sewer and pollution committee be divided as he found it too much of a burden to be chairman of a committee which covered four different items. On the committee are Councillors VanTassell, William Reid, Philip Robertson and Gordon Ellis with VanTassell chairman of streets and public property and Reid of sewer and pollution.

There was some question on the matter of easements. Councillor Gordon Ellis asked how council could have gone to the ratepayers for money when there's "so much we don't know."

Several councillors said they understood the required easements were taken into consideration in the total price. Mayor Haliburton noted that easements are not included in the contract.

Possible committee changes were also discussed during the meeting. These were to be looked at during another Council session Monday night (April 12).

An effort will be made to straighten out the Finance Committee situation. Committee Chairman Councillor Ellis has refused to work with Councillor Eileen Chipman on that committee.

"Life's too short" to stay on a committee with a person who acted as she did, according to Councillor Ellis. He was referring to a committee meeting incident in March.

The committee responsible for Streets, public property and sewers was also to be looked at.

The need for a town hall was also brought up. Councillor Reginald Hazelton termed the present hall a "disgrace". Anything would be better than this," he stated.

Several councillors noted an improvement in atmosphere at this council meeting. All were present except Councillor Eileen Chipman.

Natal Day Committee Meets Tonight

It was brought before the Digby Town Council on Monday evening that Halifax Natal Day is on the same day as Digby has chosen. This poses problems in obtaining bands and parade entries. The subject will be brought up at the Digby Natal Day committee meeting tonight and a decision made whether or not to change the Digby date chosen.

Councillor Guy Van Tassell, reporting for the Fire Committee said that of the 15 calls to the Digby fire department in March, eight were for grass fires.

Councillor Gordon Ellis suggested that Digby should look into the electric power potential in the area with a view of making use of resources.

Yacht Club Gets Lady Commodore

The Royal Western Nova Scotia Yacht Club has its first woman commodore ever in the person of Jean Page of Marshalltown.

Jean was one of two candidates for office at the club's meeting on Wednesday, April 7. The other was George Thomas Sr. think its going to be hard but I don't think its impossible."

"I think its going to be hard but I don't think its impossible." Jean commented to this paper after assuming her new responsibilities.

The rest of the executive has indicated it will "stand behind and support me". The Commodore said. "I'm going to need the help of all the members."

Mrs. Page replaces acting-commodore Louis Dugas as head of her club. She is only into her second year as a senior member although she was an associate member prior to that time. She served as secretary of the club before her step to the top.

Other executive members elected at the club's last meeting include Dr. Ian Anderson, Vice Commodore; Dr. Harold Boudreau, Rear Commodore; Barry Aube, secretary; Charles Haliburton, Fleet Captain and Measurer; and Daphne Dugas, Treasurer.

Digby Scallop Day is on the list of events the club participates in. Last year the Yacht Club sponsored canoe and sailing races, as well as other activities on land. The club hopes to participate again this year.

Senior members now number from 110-120 and the club also has a number of social members. About 11 ladies are full members.

Commodore Page is secretary of the Digby-Annapolis Health Service Board.

THE EASTER MESSAGE: HAVE FAITH!

Behind the lilies and the bunnies and the eggs there lies a thought about Easter that transcends even the orthodox teachings of the Christian church, let alone the fluffy inanities that pass for the usual commercial Easter.

And that thought is a message of hope. The radiance of Easter has always been preceded by the crucifixion. In our world today there are all too many crucifixions and Jesus knew that when he said, "daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but for yourselves and for your children."

And in our world today where selfishness, hatred, violence, cruelty and indifference become the crucifixion, too often there is missing the radiance of Easter, the hope of Easter.

Easter does not tell the world that the stark realities of human suffering are over. Indeed Easter reminds us that we cannot escape these facts. But what Easter does is remind us that we need not become cynical and hopeless.

Because Easter calls us to work, as did Jesus and His disciples after the crucifixion, to help rescue the world from all that plagues it. To work together in a community of love is the message of Easter.

There will be all the trials and pains of the Cross, there will be all the failure that is summed up in that grotesque death, there will be all the weakness and despair, all the frailty and penitence. But at the end will come Easter, the resurrection, the glory, all the things we sing about -- welcome happy morning!

So Easter reminds us of the human condition. We cannot have the victory without the defeat but the assurance is that in God's community of love, there is hope.

So the message of Easter 1976, like the first Easter is: Have faith!

DOWNRIGHT SHAME

You really have to attend Digby Town Council to see and hear the unkind, unfriendly attitude in which those who should be dignified councillors address each other. Maybe that is not a fair statement for in general the Digby Town Councillors do get along well. The word battles, the nasty remarks and cruel attacks all appear to be between Councillor Eileen Chipman and each and everyone of the others around the table including the town solicitor and the present mayor. (Two mayors had resigned last year).

There are those like the Women's Task Force who might think that the Digby Town Council does not appreciate a woman sitting on the Council. But such is not the case as we see it.

Councillor Eileen Chipman seems to be an intelligent person. We give her credit. She has time, certain capabilities, and certain qualifications. Her ability to serve as a councillor in a small town should be excellent if channelled properly. But it does seem that so much good which might be accomplished goes down the drain in confrontation with peers.

Does such a situation come under the umbrella of town business as far as we are concerned? We feel it is part of town business just as well as dollars and cents and minutes and reports are town business. Certainly none of the other councillors, including the clerk and mayor, can operate efficiently under such frustrating circumstances nor do we feel that Councillor Chipman can give optimum service under these circumstances. We feel almost compelled under the name of "town business" to suggest that Councillor Chipman concentrate more on pleasant working relations, even to the extent of easing on what we might term "diligence," in order that herself and others on the Town Council might accomplish what she presently does not seem to be accomplishing.

It is unlike us to "hang our dirty linen" unless necessary. We'd much rather have our beautiful, well respected, scenic town continue to be a shining beacon of good sense in the eyes of our friends, hither and yon, but after Monday night's town council meeting the whole episode seemed to get more and more ridiculous than ever before. It seemed a downright shame to have allowed Council to deteriorate to that extent. We were not proud of the state of affairs nor would any Digby ratepayers (the elite or underdog) have been proud. Surely there are ways to conduct town business without snapping and bickering.

CANCER CONTROL IN CANADA

The cure for cancer is probably the most eagerly anticipated medical breakthrough of our time. Cancer research has certainly consumed more time and resources than any other investigation of disease. Yet, it is unlikely that the eventual defeat of cancer will take the form of one spectacular cure.

Cancer is not one disease. It is a complex system of diseases, each presented unique problems, and all characterized by the disorganized and unregulated growth of cells. Thus, cancer research is directed in a multitude of channels from basic cell research to epidemiological studies.

Canadian scientists are involved in some of the most sophisticated investigations in the world. In Quebec, Drs. S. O. Freedman and Phil Gold have developed a blood test for cancer of the lower bowel, a test which may also be effective in detecting cancer of the lung and breast. Still under investigation at McGill University, it has opened up a new avenue of research.

Several scientific teams in Ontario are working on various aspects of leukemia. Dr. W. M. Mak and Dr. A. F. Howatson of the Ontario Cancer Institute have earned international distinction for isolating virus-like particles from the cells of leukemia patients.

Among a number of projects in Alberta is one on the control of tumour antigens. British Columbia's TRIUMF project will experiment with the use of a new type of radiation -- negative pi-mesons -- which holds great promise for the treatment of cancer. In Nova Scotia, research projects included a study on immuno-radiodiagnosis and immuno-radiotherapy and lymphocytic leukemia.

These are a mere sampling of the research now underway in Canada. Many Canadian scientists, doctors, biologists, chemists, surgeons, physicists, bacteriologists, and technicians are devoting their energies to solving the mysteries of cancer.

Gradually progress is being made and today some cancers no longer pose the threat they once did. Skin cancer, the most prevalent kind, is almost 100 per cent curable. Some other cancers, if treated in time, have encouraging survival rates.

Continued research promises to bring more forms of cancer under control but Canadian scientists need the financial support of the public to carry on with their life-saving quest.

When a canvasser from the Canadian Cancer Society calls on you during the April Campaign, be generous. Don't just sit back and wait for cancer to be beaten -- join in the fight. The objective for the Weymouth and District Unit, which includes all the area in the Municipality of Digby, is $3,208.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

The building of low rental and senior citizens housing in Digby started in 1969 and we now have 95 units - 71 seniors and 24 low rentals.

The housing is operated by a board of management consisting of four people, J.J. Brittain (chairman), Reg Turnbull, Gerry Connolly and Aubrey Frankland.

The management is appointed for a three year term, and the present term expires in June of this year.

Before June, a nominating committee is to be chosen, consisting of three people - one by the town council, one by the federal government and one by the provincial government.

The provincial and federal recommendations will no doubt be presented for recommendation, to the two levels of government by our representatives, Coline Campbell and Joe Casey.

This nominating committee of three then selects four people to manage the housing for the next three years.

Since the opening of public housing in Digby the management has consisted entirely of men. This imbalance is not only discriminatory and contrary to the Human Rights policies promoted by our government to-day, but may not be serving to peak capacity, the best interests of the many elderly female residents who occupy the senior citizens units. In some of the other areas of Nova Scotia, both sexes are represented on the boards of management of these homes.

When this matter comes up, before June, I would ask our two representatives, Miss Campbell and Mr. Casey, who will have a part in the decision, to join me in promoting equality in the formation of future boards of management, which ideally should consist of two male and two female members.

Eileen Chipman
Town Councillor
Digby

Dear Editor:

I am quite pleased to learn that the town of Digby has a new town clerk, but I am disturbed at the way in which town council arrived at the decision.

I was one of fourteen applicants of which only three were chosen for final interviews. Mr. G. Pitman informed me by phone that my interview was to be on Tuesday, March 9, at 4:30 p.m.

During my interview one of the questions was to name my qualifications and describe them. One of them was with the Metropolitan stores of which I was associate manager ready to operate my own store. After describing my duties Mr. Haliburton then said and I quote "In other words you were just a floorwalker." At the time I resented the remark but did not pursue it further. Anyone who has the

Hodge Podge

Now don't fret. Just think about all the extra free publicity you get when a pantry sale was meant to have been a rummage sale. We certainly want to correct our errors. So the United Church Women are planning a rummage sale, not a pantry sale.

Maybe a letter to each of our correspondents would have sufficed, but then the fault might not be altogether with the correspondents. If Mrs. X spends an hour, or eats a meal or spends an evening across the road or a mile down further with Mrs. Y, that is not news. That happens every day and most of our correspondents are aware that such items are not news. Maybe, it is those who submit the items to the correspondent who feel hurt if the across-the-street and up-the-road items are not included in the village notes. Paper and ink and time are all at a premium so do not expect to see your visit in print unless you have travelled at least 20 miles. Of course, if the visitor was 100 years old, or helped to fight a grass fire or quilted a quilt or some other unusual thing, then, it is news. It deserves mention. Please do say where the visitor was from and try to make it at least a 20 mile visit to warrant the time and effort to say nothing about space used unnecessarily.

"Joe, that old town hall is a mess." Yar, answered Sam, she needs a good sweep inside and out.

mentality to think such a thing should not be in a position they are.

Another thing that disturbs me is after my interview Mr. Haliburton told me that I would be informed of the town council's decision within three to four days. Well now it has been five weeks and I still have not been informed. Its a good thing we have newspapers to gather our news. That is how I found out. The mayor, Mr. Haliburton, and some of town council does not have the courtesy to telephone me or write me a letter of their decision. You can't run a business in this manner, so how can this town be run by a bunch of inconsiderate people such as those on town council including the mayor we now have.

According to town council, qualifications don't mean a thing but it is how you act upon your interview. After the final three applicants were picked they went out and conducted more interviews. There are other incidents which I could name but it would take too long and much room in this newspaper. I am not unhappy about the town council choosing a town clerk but it leaves me a little appalled at the way in which one was chosen. The people of this town already know what damage some of town council can do to their town and they know that there are some on town council who can do good, but until they have the direction of a good mayor to lead them on the proper path then the town of Digby is on a down hill run. I can now readily understand why the last election was lost to the liberals.

All the power to the new town clerk, Mr. Eavis, whom I know, and I hope he can do a job as well as Mr. G. Pitman. Congratulations.

Yours respectively,
R. O'Leary

To the Digby Courier
Digby, Nova Scotia
Dear Sirs:

Being a small part of Tiverton each summer, and knowing your delightful newspaper through my mother years ago, I feel compelled to send you this enclosed item. It expresses the feelings of many, many people who have left Nova Scotia for the States, and so few ever get back to the place they loved; and all their young get back if they can and still love it! Mr. Zenas Lovelace is 89 years old, and in a nursing home, and sent this letter to his niece, who had it copied, and sent my a copy. I find it absolutely precious, and thought some of your readers might appreciate it. In case you are interested, Mr. Lovelace is in a nursing home in Clinton, Mass., wrote to his niece in Northboro, Mass., Mrs. Doris MacLeod, and then to me here in Florida. It is a large family and his nieces must have had it copied for the family.

Anyway, it is laying here, and I think it priceless, and it belongs to you to share it with all your "old readers" and also the "new" readers. If there is a cost, and if you do print it, and we could use some copies of the paper; please send a bill to me, and I shall gladly pay it!

My husband's mother was born in Scots Bay and my father was born in Scots Bay; Sarah Lovelace and Frank Loomer; although my mothers people came from the Island of Tiverton, related to the Powell's of Freeport and Weymouth, and the Outhouses of Tiverton. Really no need to write all this, but I am so proud of it, and love each and every one of them. This may be just sentimental "rot" as it is quoted, but I had to get it off to you.

I do hope you can do something with it because I feel there are many more who share all my sentiments of Nova Scotia!

Sincerely,
Rena K. MacAlister

(Mrs. Robert L. MacAlister)

I want to go back to Nova Scotia, land of my birth I want to go back to Nova, it is a long way I want to go back where I was born in Scots Bay I want to see the old Bay of Fundy and to hear it roar I want to see the seagulls and watch them soar I want to see the old school house where I went to school I want to see Cornwallis Valley and North Mountain too I want to see the look of a wonderful view I want to go back to Nova before my end is here.

Dear Editor:

Re. Ratepayers of District No. 3, Municipality of Digby, (Timpany Lane to East Ferry, incl.).

For the benefit of those who have inquired about the Petition for Fire protection circulated recently, this is what it is all about.

It is a request to you, the taxpayer, for permission to allow the Municipality of the District of Digby to make an additional charge, in the form of an area fire rate, to your tax bill. This will not affect the assessment rate. It will, however, increase your Tax bill. Unfortunately, as in the garbage rate, the farmers and land owners will pay the most and receive the least benefit.

The duty of Municipal Council is to either accept or reject the request to collect the money. If Council agrees to levy assessments, then the Bank will loan money for whatever project is in mind. The Bank will charge interest on the Loan. The Municipality will charge a commission for collecting the money to repay the Loan plus interest. And guess who pays the Municipality ... you, the taxpayer.

As a taxpayer, each and every one of you should have a choice to decide whether or not you wish another area rate on your Tax Bill. You should know beforehand the exact purpose of the project to be carried out, the area fire rate per $100.00 of assessment you are expected to pay, the amount of the Bank Loan and interest rate.

Also, you should know the rate of Commission being paid for collecting the Levy and approximately the length of time required to pay off the Loan.

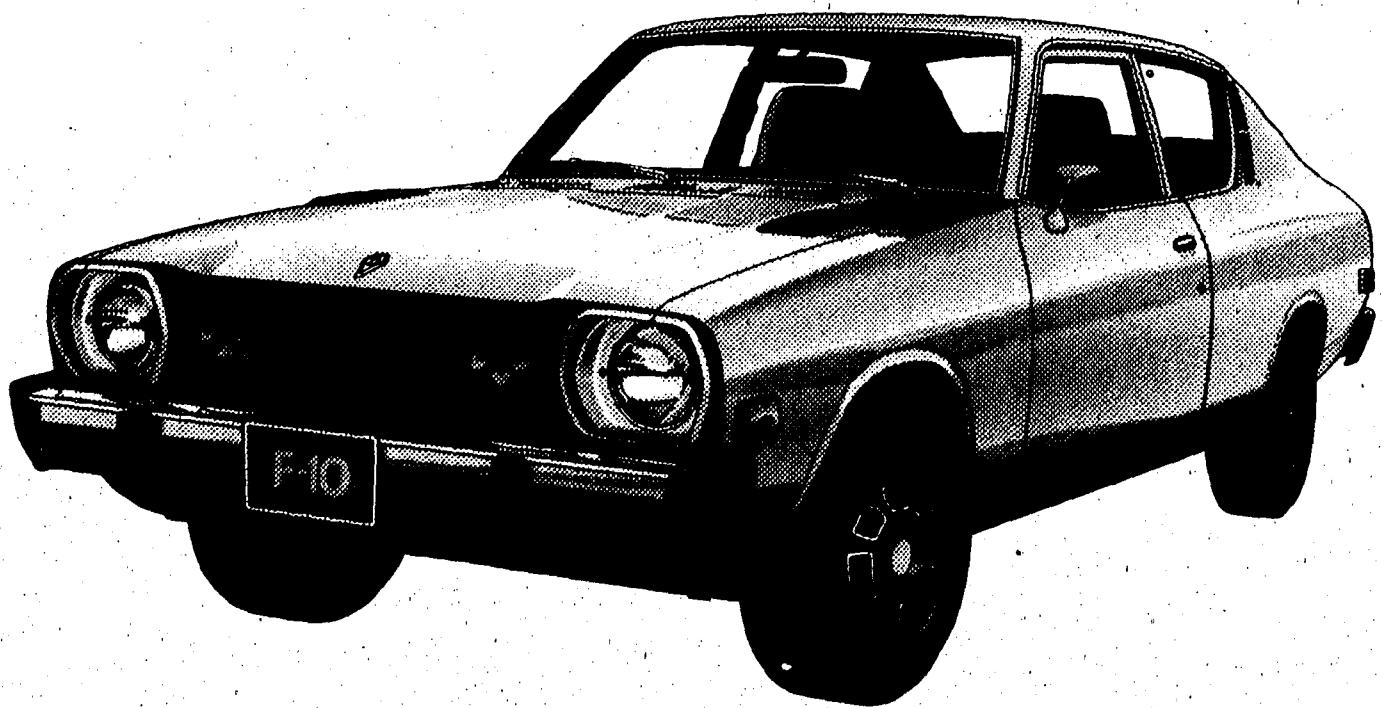

It is only good business procedure to learn the facts. It is not Public knowledge, but a small delegation attended the March Municipal Council meeting to protest the Petition. The reason for the protest was, among other things, that it does not truly and fairly represent the majority of ratepayers in our area. We succeeded only in having acceptance delayed until next Council meeting on April 26th.

As ratepayers of District No. 3, what is your opinion on the matter of Fire protection? Should taxpayers assume the bill regardless of how little or how great their assessed share amounts to or should another solution be worked out whereby every resident is taxed equally.

In this year of high assessment and consequent appeals thereon, it is a good time to ponder justification and fairness of distribution of taxes as a whole, whether it be for garbage, fire or even education, especially the fairness.

Respectfully yours,
Esther Spörle

Appointed To Assistant Director

Mr. J.J. Rusk, Director, Maritime Division, Canadian National Institute for the Blind announced in Halifax today, the appointment of Guy M. Woodland of Fredericton, N.B. to the position of Assistant Director, Maritime Division, CNIB, to take effect May 1st, 1976.

Stationed in Fredericton, N.B. Mr. Woodland will direct the Institute's program of services to the blind and prevention of blindness in that Province. Mr. Rusk stated "that this was a very significant development for CNIB in the Maritimes as it would promote the improvement of services throughout the Division".

Mr. Woodland who is twenty-eight years of age, is a graduate of the Annapolis Royal Academy and a Retail Management Program. He was first employed by Stedman's Department Store and later worked with the Department of Lands and Forest until the partial loss of his sight in 1967 when he joined CNIB Cater Plan Services, working in Halifax and Dartmouth, N.S. and Summerside, PEI. Mr. Woodland then enrolled in the CNIB National Staff Training Program in Toronto in 1969 and in July of that year assumed the position of Field Secretary at Saint John, N.B. and later was named District Administrator at Fredericton, N.B. in 1972. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Woodland, Moschelle.

Women's Centre Officially Opened

Le centre des femmes Acadiennes de Clare was officially opened by MP Coline Campbell on April 4.

The Centre, located in the old school at Church Point, will be open on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Louise Comeau, president of la Federation Acadienne de la Nouvelle-Ecosse, presented an Acadian flag to Marilyn Doucet, president of the Clare Women's Association, during the ceremony.

The Women's Association of Clare was founded during International Women's Year and received a grant of $3,000 from the Secretary of States.

One of the aims of the association is liberation of women in Clare while not radically or completely removing them from the traditional role or definition of a woman.

The association aims to provide various activities and courses at the centre. Such courses as automobile mechanics and minor electrical repairs may be included.

The association hopes to publish a book on contributions made by women of the region.

The association also plans to press for changes in local school programs which effect family life.

The association has an Acadian nationalist character rather than a traditional one. However, it wishes to safeguard and enrich traditional interests such as folklore, old songs etc.

The group aims to integrate area anglophones into community and cultural activities.

Mrs. Titus Made Dominion Life Member

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Westport United Baptist Church was held on Tuesday, April 6, in the home of Mrs. Wylie Poole. Eleven members were present.

Mrs. Lawrence Shaw presided with Mrs. Richard Welch, pianist.

The Devotional was given by Mrs. Robert Glavin - the theme "Easter in Bolivia."

The roll was called to which members responded with Biblical passages containing the word "Cross." Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. It was reported that the supplies for the White Cross box are near completion and will shortly be sent to our White Cross Convener, Mrs. Crosby, in Halifax from which place they will be shipped overseas to Mission Hospitals.

Mrs. Sharpe also reminded the group that the Association meetings are to be held in the Digby United Baptist Church on Saturday, April 24.

One of the pleasant features of the evening was the presentation of a Dominion Life Membership Certificate and pin to Mrs. Arthur Titus by the president, Mrs. Lawrence Shaw assisted by Mrs.

George Clements, Mrs. Richard Welch, and Mrs. Poole.

The programme consisted of Easter readings by Mrs. Lawrence Shaw, Mrs. Earl Webber, Mrs. Richard Welch, Mrs. George Sharpe, Mrs. Arthur Titus, and Mrs. Wickerson Lent.

A social time followed when Mrs. Wickerson Lent, co-hostess, with Mrs. Poole served refreshments.

Leslie G. Crumbaker Author Of Bicentennial Publication

A sixty-five page, 9 x 12", bicentennial publication has been written by Leslie G. Crumbaker for the Needham Historical Society, Inc., of Needham, Mass. The publication deals with the life of William Emerson Baker, Needham, and the Baker Estate or Ridge Hill Farms which he owned in the late 1800's and early 1900's.

William Emerson Baker was a most unusual man and Mr. Crumbaker reveals that life and all its eccentricities in a most entertaining William Emerson Baker was a prosperous sewing machine manufacturer from Boston who built up a section of Needham and area into both beautiful fairland picturesqueness and bizarre attractions. He built a grand hotel, gardens, museums, conservatories, chapel, cavern, bear pits, live animal exhibits, saloon, bowling alley, etc.

The book is fascinating to read whether by a native

Pioneer Experiences At Clark Rutherford School

Mr. Baltzer's Grades 4, 5, and 6 spent March 30 and 31 learning about pioneer life the interesting - but perhaps "hard way" in conjunction with unit on Pioneers. This time was spent by the class at Mr. Baltzer's home in Clementsvalle where the whole class was able to participate in doing different jobs pioneer-fashion, without the aid of electricity or machines.

Although the weather was unfavourable for maple sap to run, the class was nonetheless able to boil down some previously collected sap to maple syrup on a wood stove. Numerous pieces of furniture and tools were made without the use of nails and power tools; a variety of three-legged stools, a hand-rake, hay fork, flail, and fence mauls were completed by the students. Other class activities included road clearing techniques, chopping down trees, sawing and splitting wood. Later in the unit, the class will have the opportunity to make hand-dipped candles at school.

One of the final, and greatly enjoyed activities was a lunch of homemade maple syrup and pancakes for the class.

Mr. Baltzer was pleased with the interest and enthusiasm his class showed in these "pioneer experiences."

Made Sin For Me

He was the Son of God, no sin
He knew
Yet He it was the Roman soldiers slew
Upon the cross.

Upon the cross He died,
made sin for me
That I, through Him alone, might righteous be Before my God.

God looks on me. Because of His dear Son
He does not see the sin that I have done

For I am cleansed.

I'm cleansed! And there's no fear, but peace within
As I confess to Him each daily sin
And I'm forgiven.

Past sins are all forgiven, peace fills my soul
In Him my Righteousness, I am made whole safe and secure.

IN MEMORIAM

EVERETT - In loving memory of my dear husband Raymond Everett, who passed away on April 20, 1975.

"He's not dead, he's just away."
Sadly missed by HIS WIFE, SOPHIE. 36:1p

IN MEMORIAM

DORAN - In loving memory of our sweet baby girl Leah Anne, who passed away on April 15, 1974, at the age of 18 months. We know that now she's gone away.

And will never return to us. But just stop and think where she is right now. Will help to see us through. She's living in a place of beauty. She's wearing a beautiful robe of white. She's happily smiling on Jesus' loving lap. And he's hugging her ever so tight. But Leah, just because you're away doesn't mean, in time we'll forget. Because, as far as we're concerned, You are still here with us yet. Always loved and sadly missed by MOMMY, DADDY, (MELBA, STEPHEN); BROTHERS, WARD, OWEN. 36:lip

DORAN - In loving memory of our dear Granddaughter and niece, Leah Anne, who passed away on April 15, 1974.

In a quiet lonely Church yard, Where the green boughs gently wave, Peacefully sleeps our dear "Baby Doll", Who we loved but could not save.

So sadly missed by GRAMMY AND GRAMPY BARR, (JENNIE AND EARL) AND AUNT JANE. 36:lip

SABEAN - In loving memory of my Dear Husband, Hubert C. Sabean, who passed away suddenly April 18, 1975.

I little knew when I awoke that morning The sorrow the day would bring The call was sudden the shock severe, I never dreamed his death so near, God gave me strength to face it And courage to bear the blow But what it meant to lose you No one will ever know.

Sadly missed by WIFE IDA. 36:1p

IN MEMORIAM

EVERETT - In loving memory of our father, Raymond Everett, who passed away on April 20, 1975.

"He's gone, but not forgotten."

Sadly missed by DAUGHTER SHIRLEY, SON LAURIE AND SON DANNIE, AND THEIR FAMILIES. 36:lip

HANDSPIKER - In memory of a loving mother, Gladys A (Munroe), Handspiker who passed away suddenly April 17, 1965. Ever remembered by the family. 36:1p

HILL - In loving memory of a dear mother, Carrie Evelyn, who passed away April 12, 1971.

Things have changed in many ways But one thing changes never The memory of those happy days When we were all together.

Always remembered by daughter FLORENCE AND FAMILY. 36:lip

Digby Baptists

Hear

Jean Marshall

Jean Marshall, Middleton, gave a service of song and witness at the Digby Baptist Church on Sunday evening, using both the traditional songs of praise and also the more modern versions of sacred music.

Mrs. Vera Robertson presided at the service and introduced the soloist who had spent a number of years in Digby when her husband, Ferber Marshall, was employed with the Maritime Tel. and Tel. Company here. Both Mr. and Mrs. Marshall had freely given of their musical talents both to church and community here. Later the Marshall family moved to Halifax and have recently returned to the Valley.

The scripture on Sunday evening was read by Mr. Marshall. Other passages were read by Mrs. Marshall in reference to her vocal selections. Mrs. Robertson led in prayer.

Mrs. Marshall was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Daneen Robbins who also presided at the church organ for congregational singing. Songs rendered by Mrs. Marshall were His Eye Is On the Sparrow, Here Is My Life, Together, My Tribute, Down From His Glory, Wonderful Saviour, Of Love I Sing, The Greatest Gift, Reach Out and Touch and The Lord's Prayer.

The service closed with the benediction pronounced by Rev. Morley Shaw, pastor of the church after which refreshments were served in the church hall.

Mrs. Marshall leaves within a few days for Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania to sing at special services there. For several years Mrs. Marshall had been a regular vocalist with the Baptist Crusade and had given of her talent both in Canada and the United States.

He was predeceased by a brother.

The body was at Weymouth Funeral Home. Service was held Saturday 2:30 p.m. in the Southville Church of Christ, Rev. Merle Zimmerman officiating. Interment was in Southville cemetery.

Plympton

(Ruberta Potter)

The Plympton and Gilberts Cove Fire Dept. has been kept busy answering calls due to grass fires getting out of control. On four occasions lately in Plympton and North Range the quick action of the fireman averted serious damage to buildings and dwellings in the path of the fires.

Mr. and Mrs. DeMille Raymond and family and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Warner and family of Digby were at the Raymond's cottage here during the weekend and visited Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Warner.

Mrs. Keith Potter returned home last week from a visit to Sault Ste. Marie and Florida.

A Thought Starter

By Rev. R. C. MacCormack
R. R. 4, Fredericton, New Brunswick
The Tide Must Turn

It is said that twenty-one civilizations have flourished since the dawn of written history, and that fourteen of these have disappeared. Each was destroyed, not by an outside enemy, but by an enemy within.

The suffered from inner decay, moral breakdown, and the corruption of the basic fibre of life. Will our civilization endure?

Our Country was founded to a large degree on the Bible, as a nation under God.

What has become of our early foundations? Modern thought would legalize abortion, homosexuality, gambling, the misuse of drugs and other perversions. Divorce is made easy. Burlesque-type films and literature have a hold on modern man. Liquor is increasing its hold on the population, even the young. A recent TV program revealed that over 70 percent of high school people get drunk. There is a drift toward irresponsibility for action taken. For many, the will to work and to support themselves has faded. They want to live by hand-outs and easy money, and by increasing the tax burden on those who do work.

No person can correct the problems of our time. The solution can only come by the intervention of the power of God, through the prayers of Christians. Believers need to humble themselves and pray and to seek the face of the Lord, if sin is to be defeated.

Let us realize our dilemma and seek the mercy of God in revival, to put us back on the Foundations of the Bible.

"Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people." Proverbs 14:34.

Good Friday Service

A community gathering of worship will be conducted in the Wesleyan Church on Good Friday evening. This service, designed for the entire family, will begin at 7:00 p.m.

If you love the Lord Jesus, you really need a time to pause and consider just what he went through when he died for you and me.

The service will include special choir selection, from various churches, scripture readings of Christ's death, a sermonette on the Crucifixion by Rev. Andrew Anderson from our Seventh Day Adventist Church, and a special combined choir.

Believing Christians from all our churches are encouraged to join in this time of reflection on Jesus' sufferings and death. There will be a time of neighborliness following the service in the church basement.

EASTER

The earth grows greener, the days grow longer, the winds are whispering promises now... and the rain is washing away the last gray memories of Winter. It's the season of rebirth... in nature, in life, in the human spirit. Let's take the time... to pause and watch the whole world come alive... to be in touch with ourselves and others... and with the miracle of Easter.

Cultural Sharing At Lequille

A successful program of cultural sharing attracted a capacity audience at the Major Ritchie Community Centre in Lequille last Thursday evening.

Master of ceremonies for the event, which featured an original play written by Raymond Parker of Lequille, was Archie Lowe. Prior to the presentation of the historical play, several vocal, instrumental and dance numbers were presented. Those taking part in these included Myrtle Bailey, Raymond Parker, Jr., and Raymond Parker, Sr., James Stevenson, and the Soul Kids.

The historical play provided a dramatic portrayal of life in a Black home at the turn of the century. The hardships and difficulties and the cheerfulness and faith with which these were met were skillfully presented by the players. Their efforts to overcome a situation which, though they were free, was not too far removed from the days of slavery, were simply and feelingly presented in the words provided for the players by the author, Mr. Parker.

Prior to the presentation of the play, the Master of Ceremonies reviewed the history of the Black people of Nova Scotia with particular reference to the local area. He outlined the many problems faced by the early Black settlers, and noted the decline in the Black population of many of the areas where large numbers had settled.

The cast of the play included Abram Johnson, played by Raymond Parker; Sarah, his wife, played by Ethel Warrington; The Johnson children, played by Perry Jarvis, Debra Currie and Ina Burrell; Samuel, played by Donald Bailey; Blanche, Myrtle Bailey; Levi, Raymond Parker, Jr.; Charlotte, Katherine Burrell; and Mr. and Mrs.

Lower Speed Limits, Higher Fines

A bill to amend the Motor Vehicle Act, which has as a major provision a reduction in maximum speeds to 50 from 60 miles per hour on most of the province's highways, was introduced in the House of Assembly by Hon. J. Fraser Mooney, Minister of Highways.

Maximum speed limit of 50 miles an hour would apply on all highways not posted for higher speeds. The 100 series routes, will continue to post limits at 65 m.p.h.

The Motor Vehicle Act amendments would set a minimum $100 fine for "hit and run" offences.

Others... "creating a serious hazard," would have fines raised to $100 from $25. They are: passing contrary to rules of the road, passing without a proper opportunity to see and avoid oncoming traffic, and passing on a solid line.

Other proposed amendments to the Motor Vehicle Act include provisions to Smith, Frank and Gladys Halliday. Director for the play was George Bell, Coordinator of the Western Nova Multicultural Association which sponsored the program in conjunction with the local community organization.

At the close of the program, Mr. Paul Migas, Coordinator of the Multicultural Centres Program of the Department of the Secretary of State, Ottawa, congratulated the players and performers on the excellence of the program. He urged the community group to continue their work of community development and the encouragement of cultural sharing.

Judge Victor Cardoza of Digby also spoke briefly and added his congratulations to those of Mr. Migas. He also noted the importance of the support of the Department of the Secretary of State in making the work of organizations such as the Western Nova Multicultural Association possible.

At the close of the evening, a social hour was enjoyed during which Mrs. Barbara Campbell of Halifax, coordinator of the Multicultural Association of Nova Scotia; Mr. Samuel Baney, Development Officer with the Department of the Secretary of State; Mrs. Migas and others had an opportunity to chat with the players and performers as well as many from the community and beyond who made up the audience. Among the guests was Mayor George Richardson of Annapolis Royal.

enable prosecution of those apprehended for speeding by means of highways aircraft patrols; requirements that a vehicle sound its horn prior to passing (or attempting to pass) another vehicle going in the same direction; posting of signs prohibiting crossing between divided highways, except for police, fire, emergency or department vehicles.

Owners or operators of trailers or semi-trailers would be prohibited from altering an existing manufacturer's serial numbers on such vehicles, except with approval of Department of Highways.

Another provision would require police officers to forward copies of accident reports to the Provincial Traffic authority, a practice now done by some police agencies.

Validity Of Petition Being Questioned

One item likely to come up for discussion at the April 25 session of Digby Municipal Council is a petition recently circulated through the area served by the Digby Neck Fire Commission seeking authority to levy an area fire rate.

A delegation headed by Angus Boutin of Lake Midway appeared before the last session charging misrepresentation was involved - they claimed all who signed were not ratepayers, some residents were not asked to sign, and planned expenditures go well beyond what is required for fire protection.

The group argued the petition should not be accepted as valid by Council. Council had endorsed the area fire commission to have an area fire rate set via petition if ratepayers were in agreement.

As well as housing fire vehicles, the proposed fire building would have a hall for community activities, and recreational facilities for the firemen.

Groundwork for the building has already been started in Sandy Cove. The fire commission has a grant of $20,000 to cover labour involved in erecting the building.

Before the subject comes before Council again, Municipal Clerk Bill MacMillan is to have reviewed the list and deleted any names not appearing on the assessment roll.

Much of the discussion at the March meeting centred on whether recreational facilities were needed for the firemen.

Delegation members opposing the petition are also expected to attend the April council session.

Forty Farmers Engage In Competition

The first general meeting of the Digby County Soil and Crop Association proved an enthusiastic interest in such an organization. The meeting was held Tuesday, March 30, at the Kinsman Hall, Digby.

Over 40 local farmers turned out for the evening which was highlighted by the Forage and Mixed Hay and Grass Competitions.

Alex Henderson, Agronomist with the Soil and Crop Branch of the Department of Agriculture, judged the forage entries, while Doug Slater, also with the Department, judged the mixed hay and grass. There were a total of 16 entries.

"We feel this was a tremendous response for the first competition held in Digby County, and the interest is extremely encouraging," stressed Bruce Gilliat, Digby County Agricultural Representative.

The judges felt the promotion and production of top quality grasses and grains were of top quality.

"The mixtures were extremely good and well cured and cared for."

Winner of the Mixed Hay competition was Wayne Comeau, Brighton. He was presented with a ball of bailed twine by Lory Hudson, Cyanamid Canada Ltd. representative.

Mr. Comeau's entry was cut and cured with a Barn Hay Dryer.

Kenneth Marshall, Hillgrove, placed second; Cameron Johnson, Bear River, third, and Arthur Gates, Hillgrove, fourth.

The Grass Hay Competition was won by Chipman Chisholm. He received a 50-lb. bag of Bounty Timothy by Bill Raaymakers, Feed Representative with Maritime Services Ltd., Moncton.

Paul Deveau, Salmon River, was second, John Roope, Hillgrove, third, and Elzie LeBlanc, Salmon River, fourth.

Grain Competition was captured by LeRoy Warner, Bloomfield. He received a gallon of M.C.P.A. for his winning entry of Spring Barley, from Perry Freeman, President of the Digby County Soil and Crop Association.

Kenneth Marshall, Hillgrove, placed second with an entry of Oats; LeRoy Warner, Bloomfield, third, with an entry of Wheat; and Arthur Gates, Hillgrove, fourth for his Barley and Oats mixture.

The meeting, chaired by President Perry Freeman, opened with Wayne Comeau's informative explanation of his first year's experience with a commercial hay dryer.

Alex Henderson, showed an excellent slide show, "The Happy Farmer" which was geared at the importance of quality hay, and the differences between

Atlantic Symphony At Digby And St. Anne's

Klaro M. Mizerit will be in Digby on Tuesday evening April 20 when the Atlantic Symphony Orchestra will present a program at the Digby Regional High School, beginning at eight o'clock. On the following evening, April 21, he will conduct the orchestra for a concert at College Ste. Anne Gymnasium, Church Point, at eight o'clock.

Klaro M. Mizerit, conductor and Music Director of the Atlantic Symphony Orchestra, was born in Montfalcone, Italy. He studied violin, composition and conducting at the Academy of Music in Ljubljana, Yugoslavia and in Vienna, winning the first prize in composition in 1942. In 1951, Klaro Mizerit became chief conductor of the Dubrovnik (Yugoslavia) Festival Orchestra. From 1953 to 1968 he was conductor of the Rheinische Philharmonie of Koblenz, Germany. As guest conductor, he has directed in Austria, Italy, Yugoslavia, Switzerland, France, Spain, Holland, American, Canada and Germany. Maestro Mizerit has this year guest-conducted the Auckland Symphony Orchestra during their Summer 75 series, and completed critically successful engagements with the Australian Broadcast Orchestra last June.

Included in each evening's performance will be featured solo presentation by concertmaster Jan Bobak, first violin; Mrs. Anne Krabill, first bassoon; and Miss Chang Woo Lee, first cello. The entire orchestra of 47 musicians will combine to perform a complete programme of full orchestral selections.

ANNE KRABILL Completed her degree in music performance under Mrs. Belinda Code, Mount Allison University. Winner of Festival Awards in her native Prince Edward Island, and in Halifax, she is a former member of the New Brunswick Youth Orchestra and Canada's National Youth Orchestra, now principal oboe with the Atlantic Symphony. This past summer Anne became Mrs. David Krabill.

JAN BOBAK started to study violin at the age of five with the concertmaster of the Bergen, Norway Symphony Orchestra. He studied theory with Ilonka Bartok and violin at the London Royal College of Music with Professor Henry Holst. He has performed throughout the U.S.A. as well as in Norway, Holland and Switzerland. Mr. Bobak has been first violin with many orchestras and has made radio, television and recording appearances before joining the ASO as concertmaster.

Worship On Child Concern

A Workshop on Child Concern, sponsored by the Nursing Service Committee of the Valley Branch of the Registered Nurses' Association of Nova Scotia was held recently at Western Kings Memorial Hospital under the chairmanship of Mrs. Yvonne Nichols.

There was an attendance of fifty-seven people representing hospitals and agencies from Digby to Windsor. The main topic of consideration was that of child abuse or neglect.

The panel consisted of Dr.

Jack Crosbie, Pediatrician, who discussed the abused child, Dr. Douglas Archibald from Fundy Mental Health Clinic who considered the abusing parent, and Mr. Bill Faulkner from Family and Children's Services of Kings County who discussed aspects of what happens after a report of an incident of suspected child abuse is received by his agency.

What constitutes an abused child? Any child who has received non-accidental physical injury, and/or emotional deprivation and neglect from a parent or guardian. The emotional, mental and physical damage to a child who is subjected to violence at the hands of those he looks to for love and care cannot be described. The majority of abused children are under three years of age, mostly less than one year old. Abuse of a child is seldom limited to a single instance. If the first and perhaps relatively mild incident is not discovered, the incidents that follow will get worse. The mortality rate of the abused child is about 10 per cent and the possibility of permanent brain damage is significant. These tragic statistics point out the urgency for rapid identification and treatment services.

The aim of discovering the abused child is not only to prevent further such occurrences, but also to provide help to the abusing parent. These people need special help to guide and counsel them toward accepting their responsibilities as parents. They need professional guidance to help build up their damaged personalities and give them the strength and stability to successfully live up to their parental roles.

The urgency of identifying the abused child is obvious. What can we do? The Child Welfare Act, Section 19A, states that (1) "Every person having information, whether confidential or privileged of the abandonment, desertion, physical ill treatment, or need for protection of a child shall report the information to a Society or the Director."

It further states (2) "No action lies against a person who gives information under Section (1) unless the giving of the information is done maliciously or without reasonable and probable cause." If you are suspicious or concerned, discuss it with any professional person in your community who is in a position to observe, evaluate, and if necessary report.

Hesitation on your part to become involved, your reluctance to interfere, your failure to act, may cost a child's life!

School Board Association To Meet In Digby

The 22nd annual conference of the Nova Scotia School Boards Association will be held this year at the Pines Hotel, Digby, June 11.

School Board Chairman and Secretaries have been notified by a special letter, announcing the meeting and the preliminary work has commenced. Registration forms will be going out before long, but in the meantime, the board is recommending that "it is advisable" for those attending the conference, to make reservations for the hotel at the earliest date.

Last year the conference was held at the Keltic Lodge, Cape Breton, and an overflow attendance resulted. Recent developments involving school boards negotiations with the provincial government indicate that each board throughout the province will be well represented this year.

The Association has also advised its members that any resolutions for presentation must be received by May 11.

This year's meeting will include workshops and it is expected that the provincial government's new regulations over the hiring practices and guidelines will be explored and questioned. Now that Nova Scotia has joined the federal government's anti-inflation guideline program, the recently signed contract with the province's teachers may come under review.

Getting to tour printing shop was one of the steps James Bremner, son of Larry and Gloria Bremner, had to take to achieve his Blue Star. James was shown around the Wallis Print Ltd. by Paul Snow.

Does Tooth Brushing Really Help?

Brushing teeth certainly reduces decay if done within 10 or 15 minutes after eating, because it prevents food from being converted into acid by the germs in the mouth.

In one study, regular after-meal brushing reduced decay by 40 per cent. Properly done, it also keeps the gums in good condition.

Brushing morning and evening has merely a cosmetic effect, unless you eat at a bedtime snack, when, of course, it is useful.

If you can't brush your teeth, rinsing your mouth with water is next best.

You would be wise to teach your children this habit.

Eating raw fruit or vegetables or tough foods like rye bread, especially at the end of a meal, also helps clean the teeth.

Children should be started with a toothbrush at about two years of age, although it will take some time for them to learn to use it. A good-tasting toothpaste is helpful.

Both for children and adults, dentists recommend brushes that are straight along the top, preferably only two tufts wide and more than six long.

They also will show you the best way to use them.

Carpet Shopping Tips

If you're buying a new carpet for your home, here's a few points to keep in mind.

Carpets should be selected according to the wear and tear they will be subject to, says Harry M. McIlroy, chief executive officer of the N. S. Consumer Affairs Department. Medium to good quality carpet should be used for high traffic areas like the living room and halls of your home. Lower quality carpet will suit low traffic areas like bedrooms.

Carpets come in a wide variety of fibres and construction these days, some more durable than others. A good rule of thumb to follow, Mr. McIlroy suggests, is to remember that the thicker the pile, the better the rug. Higher quality carpets also carry higher price tags.

Some carpets come with a built-in underlay, a great convenience to consumers. But if the one you choose does not, then Mr. McIlroy suggests that you buy a separate underlay at the same time as the carpet.

Again, the cost is related to the quality.

Once you've made up your mind on the carpet to buy, take a sample home with you. When your carpet is delivered, check it against the sample to make sure it is the one you ordered. One of the frequent complaints received by the Consumer Services Bureau, Mr. McIlroy says, is that the carpet delivered is lower in quality than the one paid for.

And make sure that you are paying only for the amount of carpet you need. Don't be oversold.

Also check that your sales slip or invoice contains the following information: manufacturer's name, number of square yards purchased, a complete description of the type of carpet and colour, and whether the cost of delivery, installation and underlay are included in the selling price. Also make sure that care and cleaning instructions are written down and kept where they can be located quickly.

FURNASAIID

A new economical wood burning furnace by FAWCETT

Due to the constant consumer demand for an economic and automatic bi-metal draft controlled wood burning furnace, Fawcett engineers have designed a unit constructed of heavy gauge steel which will provide years of heating satisfaction.

The "Furnasaid" Model FH 100 has been designed to work in conjunction with your existing warm air furnace or for use as a separate unit entirely. This unit will put you in a better position to deal with the energy crisis; also will help reduce your high fuel heating costs along with the knowledge of knowing you will have heat during power failures and rising fuel prices.

Let us Worship Together at Easter

A Time to Rejoice In the New Beginnings Everywhere Around Us

As green grass and warm sunshine begin to push aside the ice and snow of Winter, we celebrate the Resurrection of Jesus Christ with jubilation and a sense of ever increasing wonder.

All over the world families rejoice as they come together in fervent prayer and thoughtful contemplation.

We join our good friends and neighbors in proclaiming the glory of this holiest of holidays, and wish them its many blessings.

As you recall that miraculous morn, may you find comfort and inspiration in His message of faith and the promise of new life to come for all.

The Grade VIII class of the Weymouth Consolidated school sold tickets on a clock radio, recently to raise money for their class trip. The Lucky Winner was Mrs. Irene Melanson.

The Christian Mens Fellowship met on Monday evening for their monthly meeting at the North Range Baptist Church. The guest speaker was Rev. R. N. Savory who he showed films on Japan where they served as missionaries. The women were invited to this meeting. Refreshments were served at the close of the service at the hall.

The Registry of Deeds Seminar met at the Nova Scotia Hotel in Halifax. Mr. Clyde Cosman, of the Registry of Deeds Weymouth, attended the Seminar.

Olive Branch Rebekah Lodge No. 100 met on Monday evening in the Guild

Hall for their regular meeting. A Silent Auction was held at the close of the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith motored to Yarmouth on Friday. They were dinner guests at the home of Frank's sister, Ruth. They were supper guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clements. They also spent the afternoon with Frank's mother, Mrs. Jenny Smith. We are glad to report that Jenney Smith is much improved after being ill for over a month.

The Stitch and Chatter Club met on Tuesday evening for their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Morton Frankland with Mrs. Coleen Lewis, president, in the chair.

The Womens Missionary Society of the Weymouth Church of Christ, met on Thursday evening in the Church basement for their regular meeting. With the president, Leota Lewis in the chair. Letters were read from missionaries Cass and Lois Rees. Lois Rees is now on furlough and will be returning early in April. The Cass' of Indonesia, are busy working with people of Javanese and people from Mountain Village in Salatiga. A special offering was taken to be sent for relief at Guatemala. A Devotion on Easter was given by Mrs. Gloria Barr. Refreshments were served by the Committee in charge.

Mrs. E. P. Filleul is a patient at the Digby General Hospital at time of writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Mel Barr and daughter, Heather, returned home, after visiting two weeks with her sisters Helena (Mrs. Louis Shofstall); Beverly, (Mrs. Ivan Burnell) and Arlene (Mrs. Jean Gidwell) all of Encino, California.

Stephen Ford has returned home after visiting the winter months with his daughters, Helena, Beverly and Arlene, all of Encino, California.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. George Cosman and family of the sudden death of her husband George, of Danvers.

A Correction of last weeks Courier should read as follows: Mrs. Resther Gaudet, who has been residing in Dartmouth, with her daughter, Emelda, Mrs. Donald Hoppe and family, has returned to Weymouth and reopened her home. Mr. and Mrs. Hoppe will reside now with her mother, following Mr. Hoppe's retirement of 25 years with the Armed Forces, CAF.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Colwell have returned home after spending the past three months in Arizona and California. On their return they visited in Southern American States, and were accompanied home by Mr. and Mrs. Garey Colwell who have been visiting with them the past month.

Monday morning at the Church of Christ at 10 o'clock Mrs. Lois Rees Missionary of India, met with ladies of the community speaking on her mission work in India and encouraging women to take a more active part in missions.

The Pre-Easter Services of the various churches of the area held their first service on Monday evening at the North Range Baptist Church with the guest speaker, Mr. Merle Zimmerman of Weymouth.

During the service on Thursday evening, the Lord's Supper will be observed. The meetings begin at 7:30, and the host churches are providing the music.

Pre-Easter services are being held by the Weymouth and District Ministerial Association, in the various Protestant Churches during Holy Week. The series started on Monday, April 12th in the United Baptist Church, North Range, with Rev. Merle Zimmerman, speaker. The concluding service will be held on Good Friday in the Wesleyan Church, Havelock, when the film "The Gospel Road" will be shown.

Other services were held in the Church of Christ Southville; Mount Beulah Baptist, Weymouth Falls, and the Church of Christ Weymouth, with the Rev. Willard Clayton, of Weymouth, Rev. Laurence Corey, Havelock, and Rev. Ronald Cunningham, Barton, speakers.

Ken Hankinson and Owen Hankinson were visitors in Halifax on Tuesday.

Missionary Returns To India

A welcome was given to Mrs. David (Lois) Rees, who serves as a Missionary in India, at the regular Service on Sunday evening at the Weymouth Church of Christ. She was presented in all the services of the day. She will be returning to India on the 16th of April.

She showed slides of her work which were very interesting. She spoke on her school, hospital working with lepers helping 20-30 patients daily for the past year and cared for eight outdoor Leprosy and nonleprosy clinics weekly. Their hospital staff is of 25.

They have six churches, eight preachers who serve in parts of South India; 14 teachers on their school staff and ten evangelists who care for 14 Naga churches and preaching points and give assistance to Khasi Churches.

With gasoline $2.50 per gallon, they can't afford to go far. Mrs. Rees said in Canada we do not realize the hardship and kinds of homes in which these people live, and with our luxury, we have she was asking for powdered milk and Jello powders to feed to their patients.

There were 260 who registered at the conference in total. Saturday night there was a banquet held.

Gas Station Classes

The local Fina Station, Weymouth closed its doors last week, when the current lessee, Mr. Emile Blinn, moved to a new location in Ohio, Digby Co., Mr. Blinn leased the station when Mr. Frank Simmonds retired shortly over a year and a half ago. During the past few weeks, the premises were flooded when the tidal wave swept into it, and then it was damaged the same week, when a loaded tractor-trailer truck crashed into it. It is understood that the station will remain closed at least until it is repaired. Mr.

Blinn will be missed in the area and he is wished success in his new venture.

Defensive Driving Course

The Weymouth Kiwanis Club are sponsoring a Defensive Driving Course, which commenced on Monday April 14th, at 7:00 p.m. in the A.V. rooms at Weymouth Consolidated school. These classes are recommended for drivers of all ages and it also affords an opportunity to those who may have missed previous classes to catch up, and complete the course.

Provincial Finalists Finish Well

The Clark Rutherford Memorial School badminton season ended Saturday with the playing of the Provincial Finals at Sackville High School. To this prestigious event, C. R. M. S. advanced two teams; Elizabeth Frail, Junior Girls singles; and Stephen MacDonald (7A) and Wayne Mosher in Junior Boys doubles.

Elizabeth Frail finished second in the province in Junior Girls singles and came within four points of first place in a hard-fought and exceptionally well played match with the eventual winner, Kim Geddes of Truro.

Stephen MacDonald (7A) and Wayne Mosher finished second in the province in Junior Boys doubles. Their determination and skill in many pressure-packed games allowed them to come within a handful of points of first place.

Twelve schools from throughout the province were represented in the Junior Division (under 14) and because of the distribution of placing and points, C. R. M. S. astounded everyone with an overall team placement of second, is indeed a marked tribute to both our provincial finalists and our badminton team as a whole.

To Elizabeth, Stephen and Wayne: Congratulations and many thanks for putting C. R. M. S. on the map! We wish you success with badminton again next year.

TENDER FOR SAWLOGS AND PULPWOOD

Sealed Tenders addressed to "Department of Lands and Forests, Dennis Building, Halifax, Nova Scotia" and plainly marked "TENDER", showing Parcel Number will be received at the Office of the Department of Lands and Forests, Dennis Building, Halifax, Nova Scotia, up to 12 o'clock Noon, Wednesday, April 28, 1976, for the Parcel of sawlogs and pulpwood listed herewith: Parcel No. 3486

O'Brien Lake, Morganville, Digby County
87 acres - approximately 25 M f.b.m. softwood sawlogs at $22.50/M f.b.m.; and approximately 1200 cords softwood pulpwood at $4.50/cord.
All merchantable trees greater than 6 inches (diameter stumpage height) must be utilized.

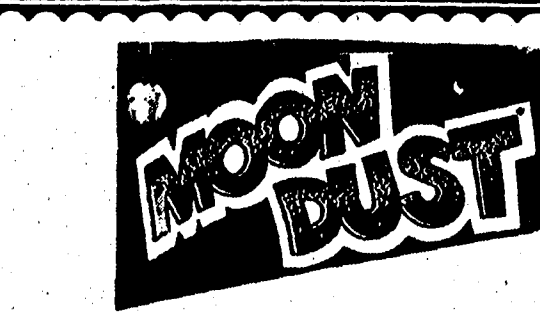

The figures listed above indicate the lowest bid that will be considered. Tender should state the rate willing to pay per thousand feet board measure New Brunswick Log Scale or per cord, a cord being taken as 128 stacked cubic feet.

Unless otherwise stated above, a certified cheque or money order for one-half of the estimated stumpage charge must accompany tender.

Successful tenderers may be required to furnish a surety bond covering the remainder. Cheques and money orders will be returned as promptly as possible to all unsuccessful tenderers.

All cutting must be done in accordance with the terms and conditions as laid out in form 5m-1-57. If any holder of a timber license should for any reason not carry out cutting operations under such license, a sum not less than 10 percent of the statutory deposit made thereon shall be retained by the Department of Lands and Forests to defray expenses incurred. The minimum amount to be withheld shall be fifteen dollars and the maximum amount shall be fifty dollars.

White print copies of plan showing location of Parcel will be supplied on receipt of $1.50 by the Department of Lands and Forests, Halifax. The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted. Tenders are to be submitted on Tender Forms and in Tender Envelopes showing Parcel Number. These forms and envelopes are available at any office of the Department of Lands and Forests.

A new carbonated candy that "sizzles" in the mouth is creating a small sensation among children and adults.

After wide-eyed surprise and delight, the next reaction of many is curiosity. They've been writing the Hostess Division of General Foods Limited to find out how it works.

Secret of the unusual treat is carbon dioxide - the gas that makes soda pop fizz. Carbon dioxide bubbles are trapped inside conventional candy in the manufacturing process. As the candy melts in the mouth, this carbon dioxide is suddenly released with a surprising tickling, snapping and popping effect. Despite the strong sensation, the carbon dioxide released by eating one package is much less than would be consumed in a soft drink.

NOTICE

RATEPAYERS OF THE MUNICIPALITY OF THE DISTRICT OF DIGBY

DUE TO THE INABILITY TO STRIKE A TAX RATE BECAUSE OF THE NUMBER OF ASSESSMENT APPEALS FOR 1976, AND TO AVOID THE ADDITIONAL COST TO THE TAXPAYERS FOR INTERIM BILLING OR BORROWING MONIES FOR OPERATIONAL PURPOSES, YOUR COUNCIL IS REQUESTING YOUR CO-OPERATION IN THE FOLLOWING MANNER. REMIT YOUR 1976 TAXES TO THE MUNICIPAL OFFICE ON THE BASIS OF YOUR 1975 TAXES TO A MAXIMUM OF 50 PERCENT.

ALL REMITTANCES MADE BEFORE JUNE 30, 1976, TO THE MAXIMUM PERCENTAGE TO 50 PERCENT ON THE BASIS OF YOUR 1975 TAXES WILL RECEIVE THE USUAL DISCOUNT AND THE BALANCE PAID WITHIN 30 DAYS AFTER RECEIPT OF YOUR 1976 TAX BILL WILL ALSO QUALIFY FOR DISCOUNT.

IN THE EVENT OF AN OVERPAYMENT OF YOUR INITIAL PAYMENT EXCEEDING THE 1976 TAX, THE APPROPRIATE REFUND WILL BE MADE. ONCE THE RATE HAS BEEN ESTABLISHED, TAX BILLS WILL BE SUBMITTED AND ALL PAYMENTS CREDITED.

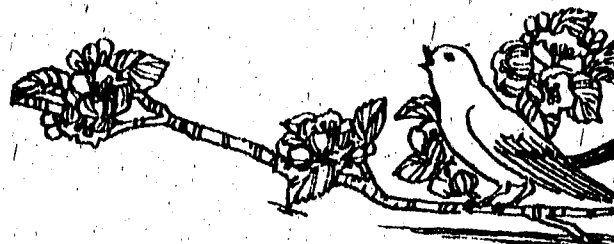

THIS IS OF UTMOST IMPORTANCE TO YOUR MUNICIPALITY AND IN THE FINAL ANALYSIS WILL SAVE EACH RATEPAYER ADDITIONAL COSTS NEXT YEAR.

The Birds Return

We all thought Spring had sprung but looking out my window at time of writing it looks more like the Christmas season than Easter.

Even my Grosbeaks are back at the feeder after being gone for several weeks. Joining them at the feeder are my white throat and song sparrows, cowbirds, a flock of Juncos, Goldfinches and one white crowned sparrow. I must not leave out my bachelor Robin.

He has been the only robin in the yard for a week or so. When the snow came I put out apples for him and in less than five minutes he was having a good breakfast.

The kitchen birds are all singing and this morning the Oriole sang his full song for the first time. Think he was so thankful to be in a warm house. The little white throat has finally learned the last few bars of his song.

I released my mourning dove one nice fine day last week. Opened the gate of the cage and she flew to the top of a spruce tree. Didn't see her until late in the day when she joined the other birds at the feeder for her supper.

The swallows should be here very soon. Get your houses housecleaned. Hope they don't meet with such weather as they did in 1974.

Think these few verses written by Hon. Joseph Howe, apply to this time of the year.

To The Mayflower

Lovely floweret, sweetly blooming
'Neath our drear, ungentle sky-
Shrinking, coy and unassuming
From the gaze of mortal eye.

On thy bed of moss reposing,
Fearless of the drifting snow,
Modestly thy charms disclosing-
Storms but make them brighter glow.

Welcome little crimson favor
To our glades and valley wild Scotia asked, and Flora gave her Precious boon, her fairest child.

A Happy Easter to all.

Chester Visits Parliament

A grade 12 student at Islands Consolidated School, Freeport, was among several students chosen from Nova Scotia to spend a day at Parliament in Ottawa. Chester Outhouse Jr. said he and his fellow students spoke to Opposition Leader Joe Clark and Coline Campbell, MP for South-western Nova.

He said the visit to Parliament proved to be exciting, informative and helpful in understanding the tremendous responsibilities faced by members of Parliament.

Special Service At Westport

On Sunday morning, April 11, the Westport Church of Christ were pleased to have a group of members of Weymouth church as guests. Edgar McDormand opened the service and then turned it over to Mark Zimmerman.

Service started with a sing song with Mr. Vernon Sabean at the organ, then a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Sabean with Mrs. Carol Delsey as organist.

Mark Zimmerman brought the message using scripture Luke 22:54-62, comparing Peter's reaction of denying Christ, how he worshipped afar off to those of us today. Some are indifferent to the teachings of Christ.

After the closing hymn, Mr. Zimmerman dismissed the congregation with prayer. The group, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Zimmerman, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Sabean, Mr. and Mrs. Hanford Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Lewis remained for Sunday School and following this they were served lunch in the church vestry.

playing records and during the evening pizza was served. The amount of $93 was earned. The Auxiliary was pleased with the donations and help they were given.

Guinness Book of Records publisher has been contacted to ensure that this apple pie will be the world's largest. A contest will be conducted in connection with the venture in which residents may purchase tickets on the number of apples in the pie, and be eligible for valuable cash draws.

The giant pie and contest, one of several innovations planned for the 1976 festival, is chaired by Mrs. Kay Bagnall of Greenwood and Art Holmesdale of New Minas. Generous slices of the giant delicacy will likely be sold at a location in the valley during festival weekend. The 1976 festival is from June 3 to 7.

The chairpersons for the theme committee, Mrs. Verna Eaton of Port Williams, said Kentville has submitted the first float theme under the general festival theme of "Valley People Are..." Kentville's float will be pink and white "Blossom Time" with the idea of Kentville's fame for festival time. She said several other communities are expected to announce their float theme shortly.

Dr. A. Annand of Kentville is heading plans for a festival Art Show, while Bruce Caldwell of Kentville is chairing plans to revise the costume and establish the schedule of appearances for Dan D. Apple. The musical director for the festival is John Herman, music director of the Kentville schools.

DON'T BE TAKEN IN

Beware of watch salesmen offering what seems to be the buy of a lifetime, warns the Nova Scotia Department of Consumer Affairs.

The watches being offered by street vendors may appear to be bargains but they're not, says Harry M. McIlroy, Chief Executive Officer of the Department. The Department's Consumer Services Bureau receives many complaints each spring and summer dealing with persons on the street selling wrist watches, he says.

"The watches look expensive and some bear names which are so similar to established trade names, that it is very easy for an unwary consumer to be taken in," Mr. McIlroy says. "On close examination, however, the watches turn out to be of very inferior quality. And although they may be ticking away when you buy them, they break down very quickly and, in many cases, cannot be repaired."

Mr. McIlroy says street vendors will be appearing more frequently now that summer is approaching and he cautions would-be buyers to beware.

"These sellers are not bonded and do not hold a direct seller's license in the province," he says. "They may be selling illegally and in the event that difficulties arise, the Department is unable to offer remedies as the seller is usually long gone from the area."

The solution is to avoid the street vendor, no matter how attractive the price. Always purchase goods from a reputable merchant who offers a warranty or guarantee for your protection, Mr. McIlroy says.

We happen to know that one of the watch salesmen, at least, was in Digby. He tried his salesmanship right at The Digby Courier but he did not tarry. We expect he or others visited other places in Digby.

Then, of course, every once in awhile these telephone calls will come from Toronto offering shares in mining companies or other businesses which are supposed to make you rich "quick". One thousand investment would yield $10,000 in a few years. The investment we heard about hasn't yielded to date, so far as we know.

Then, during the winter just passed, calls came in all the way from British Columbia (likely their late night telephone rates) offering bargains for copying machine supplies. We know. Calls came to us. According to an article in a Nova Scotia newspaper by Betsey Chambers, people did allow themselves to be taken in on this offer.

She says, "Several firms in the metropolitan area of Halifax-Dartmouth, and some in other areas of the province have lost hundreds of dollars each by purchasing various brands of photocopier paper and toner at 'reduced price,' in deals concluded by long distance telephone with a seller in Vancouver."

"The Better Business Bureau for Halifax and Dartmouth issued a corporate alert to warn firms to be wary of such transactions which are being instigated by representatives from a number of British Columbia companies."

"In some cases, the salesmen misrepresent themselves as manufacturers supply agents, the bureau's manager Rob Asprey said.

"Those who conclude deals with the sellers, he said, have received something for their money but it has been products of low quality."

"The callers usually state they are telephoning from Vancouver, he said but never correct assumptions made by the prospective client regarding the salesman's firm or his position with the company."

"The Vancouver group, he said seem to be clever enough to know which firms have photocopiers and their method for deducing this ownership has not been discovered, Mr. Asprey said."

"The callers also have been known to be on the phone before 6 a.m. to reach businessmen in Halifax shortly after stepping into their offices in the morning."

There are other ways to be taken in. Just don't be taken in.

KNOW HOW TO GET OUT

Child Safety Week in May covers the prevention of many kinds of hazards such as highway, water, household, poisons and many others. One way to prevent tragedy is to have children versed in safety from fire, especially to know how to escape from a burning building. Canada Safety Council says that it is essential to have a means of escape from the bedroom other than the normal exit. A secondary escape route should not use the central hall and stairway. Single-level dwellings with low windows usually present no problems. In two-story houses, bedroom windows often open onto a porch roof or deck where rescue can be awaited in fresh air. If there is no outside refuge, escape may call for a ladder, either a permanently mounted one, or the portable type made of rope or chain. Exit drills should be practiced until each family member is capable of using his secondary exit adequately.

CONCERNED ABOUT DRINKING AGE

Governments are having second thoughts about their liberality where lowered liquor drinking age is concerned. Several states in the U.S. have already raised their legal drinking age from 18 years to 19, and others have legislation on the books to that effect.

In 1972 and 1973, spurred by arguments that youths who were old enough to vote or to take up arms for their country were also old enough to decide whether they wanted to drink liquor, states and Canadian provinces went on a spree to admit 18-year-olds to bars and liquor stores.

The move back to a higher legal age has been partly brought on by studies that show marked increases in fatal traffic and lesser accidents involving 18 to 21-year-olds.

Increased prevalence of alcoholism among youths is another concern that has prompted rethinking of the lower legal drinking age.

Besides the legislation of higher drinking ages, there is also growing pressure from parents and other sectors of society that the television medium curb its high-powered promotion of alcohol consumption.

Hodge Podge

A number of people recalled the heavy snow storm in April 1946 which was reflected upon in The Digby Courier last week. Some of the Oddfellows who had been stranded at Freeport were interested and Mrs. Weldon Trask, Sandy Cove, said it brought back memories to her as their son was born at home instead of the Digby General Hospital because of the storm.

Mrs. Doris McKenna of New Hampshire says she enjoys The Digby Courier very much. She spent the Easter holidays in Digby and on Sunday went to Weymouth where she was able to trace her grandmother's home and the grounds where her relatives had been buried. Recently she had a letter in the Courier asking for genealogy information. She is most grateful to Mr. Brooks who supplied her with much information.

Spring ahead and fall back. Sounds like gymnastics but it might help you to regulate your clock for Daylight Saving Time if you by chance have any doubt.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Over the past several weeks we have noted letters from folks that have questioned the work and aim of the Digby Neck Fire Commission. Perhaps a short note is in order.

Today we watched as the Digby Neck Volunteer Fire Department performed a community service.

Perhaps the stress should be on the word "volunteer". A volunteer is one who enters into any service of his own free will. These men give their time and efforts in service to their community.

A fire call was answered which turned out to be a grass fire that was quickly put out. In many cases grass fires come about because of unmowed grass, etc. that has been allowed to stay 'as is' for several years. This is a potential fire hazard and the men had agreed to help, or assist, anyone with problem grass that needed burning.

Several householders had requested help from the department and the men spent the entire day, in service to the community, which ended approximately 8 p.m. For the folks that were helped, it was a time to understand why the men were willing to undertake the task. Several possible fire areas are now safe for the owners and the surrounding homes.

A fire department does not just happen. It takes hours of hard work and dedication. Equipment must be bought and, when bought, must be housed and kept in condition for emergency. All these things have costs that must be paid. The proposed firehall-recreation centre is for the use of all. One portion will be used for fire equipment and the other part will be used to obtain money, thru events, that will pay for the equipment and help to get more equipment, as needed.

The Digby Neck Fire Commission is composed of several people that have the interest of the communities at heart. No one is out for personal gain, but all are working for the benefit of all.

The new firehall-recreation centre will belong to the people of Digby Neck and will be for their use. It is expected that the primary use of the recreation hall will be for the young people. It is hoped that senior citizens of the District 3 area will avail themselves of the facilities for a new Horizons club. All of this takes co-operation and effort by everyone. The Ladies Auxiliary, the Department and the Commission are working for the community. Please help us, we need you.

Digby Neck Fire Commission

Dear Mrs. Wallis:

On behalf of the actors and crew of the Digby Regional High School grade 12 production of The Importance of Being Earnest, I would like to thank you for your kind remarks (editorial, Digby Courier, April 8 1976). You made a couple of comments that, I feel, deserve a bit of explanation.

You mention in your editorial that the students involved must have spent a great deal of time preparing the play. I think it might be interesting to you and your readers to find out exactly what is involved. The play as staged on the 29th and 30th of March in the Multi-Purpose-Room of D.R.H.S. represented the climax of a course entitled Dramatic Production; the grade 12 group has been taking this course since January. This course provides one third of the total English mark these students will receive in June. A great deal of work for only a possible thirty-three and one third points! It speaks well of these young adults that they could work so hard, become so dedicated and devoted and produce such a successful result for only one-third of a high school credit. Obviously, there were more important considerations than marks.

Indeed, the preparation of the actual production occupied only the latter half of the term. The first section of the term was devoted to learning stage jargon and techniques as well as participating in group improvisations and mime. The Importance of Being Earnest was cast in February and rehearsals began about the middle of that month. The original production schedule called for presentation on the 8th and 9th of March. However, mounting pressure from other subjects (due to the fact that the term ended on the 12th of March) caused us to postpone our play.

Full rehearsal for a high school play are often difficult to arrange. To begin with, they must be several hours long and, therefore, must take place after school and in the evenings or on weekends; also, many of the students have part-time jobs and - or are involved in extra-curricular activities that take up much of their time rehearsals must be arranged with a minimum of complications and conflicts with these things. Often the frustrations associated with getting adequate rehearsal time are enough to dampen the greatest enthusiasm. However, we persevere!

Actually, much of the work of a production of this magnitude is born by the stage manager and his crew. The students involved in this aspect of production spent at least four (4) full weekends, several nights until ten o'clock or later and many, many English class periods building, painting, erecting and arranging the sets. Much of the credit for the success of the production goes to these people. Unfortunately, it is, in a way, a thankless job as most audience members are unable to realize the thought and effort required.

The audience can, however, more easily understand the work put into a production by the actors. For nine students to successfully carry a two-hour play is a fantastic achievement. The importance of Being Earnest is what is called high comedy - sophisticated comedy. There is far more involved in it than learning and reciting lines-the lines must be understood and delivered correctly or much of the humour will be missed by the audience. Students must understand their characters and successfully interpret them to the audience. To do this requires hours of sometimes frustrating rehearsal. Every piece of stage "business", every movement is important to the effect of the play. Sometimes very small scenes must be repeated a dozen times or more before the desired effect is created and locked into the performance. This is very arduous and tedious work, especially for active young people! Almost without exception every movement on stage is purposeful and has been preplanned and rehearsed by the actors and director. The attention to detail in acting, as well as in scenery construction, is

4th Digby Cub Pack Has Many Activities

The 4th Digby Cub Pack has been enjoying an active year.

In late February, they had a well-attended Father-Son Banquet during Scout-Guide week. Judge John R. Nichols was guest speaker for the occasion.

They also enjoyed a visit to the local Fire Hall where Doug VanTassell was guide for the evening and showed the Cubs the different trucks and other fire-fighting equipment. A film was shown explaining the proper evacuation of burning buildings. The Cubs entered a coloring and drawing test, and thoroughly enjoyed their visit.

Dale Halliday gave the Pack two evenings of instructions in basic First Aid. Following his thorough instructional program, the Cubs were tested, and 17 Cubs received their First Aider Badge. The Cubs and leaders were deeply grateful to Mr. Halliday for the time he gave in this worthwhile program.

Reg Baird of Clementsvalle, a director of the Nova Scotia Trappers Association, gave an informative talk on the subject of trapping animals for fur, and preparing the fur for sale. He had many slides on the subject plus the Cubs were able to see a large collection of furs from the Department of Lands and Forests.

As the year draws near the end, Cubs remind the many generous people who have supported them in the past, that they will be having their annual bottle drive on Wednesday, April 28, in the early evening. They again solicit support in this project as the funds realized will be used to pay for Cub Camp for the 25 Cubs of the 4th Digby Cub Pack.

What is the result? This is the other point you made in your editorial that I wish to mention. In the twenty-ninth and thirtieth of March these students presented an ambitious and successful production, one any school could be proud of. The process of production had cost about $250, and many, many man hours. The students had an audience of 98 on the first night and about 125 on the second evening. Is this how our community shows its appreciation of sincerity and effort by its young people? I felt, that such an undertaking should cause people of the area to flock to the school to show their support of and interest in our young. I must agree with my students when, in their disappointment, they shrug and say, "They just don't care." It is all too easy to find excuses for being unable to attend. To me, it is a matter of priorities and, I believe, sincere young people should be a first priority of this community. It appears, however, this is far from the case, I have seen many excellent efforts (dramatic, athletic, etc.) by Digby and area students over the last few years; adult support is all too often poor or non-existent. I think the community should question itself and, perhaps, redirect its interests.

To the people who do support these student activities, and our play in particular, we offer thanks. Several people donated valuable pieces of furniture, household decorations, paintings etc. Neptune theatre loaned us their beautiful costumes. Without this support and encouragement, the play would have been impossible. To these people, and to the people who attended the performances, and to you for your praise in the Courier, thank you.

Sincerely,
J. H. Theriault

THE TIME HAS COME

The time has come for Digby to make up its mind whether or not Digby will enter the Annapolis Valley Apple Blossom Festival Parade. Remember? The theme of the floats was to be "Valley People Are-". Recently Greenwood has entered "Valley People are Dandy (Dan D. Apple) People and Berwick will construct a beehive as "Valley People are Busy People." Now what can Digby do if they do? There is some thought of the Digby Board of Trade providing a princess and float. They would probably like any suggestions to be offered them now.

An energetic committee met on Thursday evening to get a start on plans for Digby's Natal Day celebrations. Sadly, however, only a half dozen or fewer people worked up energy to come to the meeting. That means little could be accomplished. Even with the best brains there, numbers are also necessary. There are numerous questions to be considered. Even the date poses a problem. Natal Day plans cannot be made by two or three. Yes, the time has come to plan Natal Day. See you April 29.

Thinking of Natal Day also brings up the fact that the time has come to choose a Digby Citizen of the Year. We heard it suggested that Citizen of the Year should be dropped. We do not think so. What do you think? There are many people in town who have served their community well and should be named Citizen of the Year.

Right here we might mention that so little use is made of the Citizen of the Year between Natal Day events. We miss out on good Natal Day advertising by not using Citizen of the Year to the fullest extent throughout the year. Judge V.G. Cardoza has been our Citizen of the Year 1975-1976. Without doubt, Mr. Cardoza has been a tremendously active man through the year, carrying on the same community help as that which earned him the honor. But, in all those occasions of honor, how often were they especially arranged as Citizen of the Year. The time has come to bring the Citizen of the Year, when chosen, to the forefront as Citizen of the Year throughout the year.

The Time Has Come for so many things to be done. What are your suggestions for making the most of the summer 1976? The calendar of events looks promising but there are many details to be looked into. The time has come to settle these.

LIKE SOME NEW IDEAS ON HOW TO ENJOY BANANAS?

When making your selection, select bananas that are firm and not quite full yellow. They can be ripened further at home at room temperature. Once they've reached the desired ripeness for the individual's taste, they can be refrigerated and held for several days if desired. They can be cooked at any stage of ripeness, whether baked or broiled. Mashed bananas can be utilized in cakes, bread, cookies or milkshakes.

Choral Concert At The College Sainte Anne

Sunday evening, April 25, in the College Sainte-Anne gymnasium, at 8 p.m., the CHORALE DE LA BAIE SAINT-MARIE will give its annual Spring concert, under the direction of Reverend Renaud Côté.

The program will offer a great variety of selections covering the period running from the Renaissance to the contemporary period: "Mon coeur se recommande a vous" by Roland de Lassus (1532-1594), "Toujours", a very lively number published in 1530; "V'Amo di Core" by Mozart; "Canticum Jubilo" by Haendel. In the field of folk music the choir has included in its program "A la claire fontaine," "J'ai cueilli la belle rose," "Voilà du vin," "D'ou venez-vous si crotte," "Minuit sonne", etc. Also included in the program are two negro spirituals, "Jacob's Ladder" and "Lord

I Want".

The list, of course, is incomplete. It will be an hour and a half long program, most interesting one, one to which the whole family will enjoy to attend.

Smith's Cove Man Gets Appointment

The Nova Scotia Animal Breeders Co-operative Limited, Lower Truro, announced that Mr. Otis Robbins, 41, of Smith's Cove, Digby County, has been appointed the new Artificial Insemination Technician for Digby County. Mr. Robbins will be covering the area, farms from the County line at Bear River to Meteghan on Highway Number 1 and to the County line on Route Number 340 where the pavement ends in back of Little Brook, Digby County. Mr. Robbins attended the into it.

The president reported there was a small turnout for the Board's dinner meeting. Three representatives of the F. B. O. B. were on hand.

$250 Taken In Break

Digby RCMP are investigating a break and enter at the Irving Car Wash in Conway.

Entrance was gained by smashing a window. About $250 and some pop were stolen.

The offence took place on Easter day.

Smith's Cove Elementary School and the Digby Regional High School. He and his wife, Alice, have four children and live on their farm in Smith's Cove. Mr. Robbins is a director of the Digby County Federation of Agriculture. Has lived all his life on a farm and at the present time he owns 65 head of Durham and Hereford beef cattle.

Mr. Robbins is now available to provide a breeding service to dairy and beef cattle in Digby County. He has on hand at present semen of the following breeds:

DAIRY:- Guernsey, Holstein, Jersey.

BEEF:- Hereford, (polled and horned) Angus, Charolais, Durham.

The N.S. Animal Breeders Co-op are hoping to increase their service in Digby County through Mr. Robbins who has been trained for this work.

Bruce Gilliat, Digby County Agricultural Representative, was "delighted" with the announcement of an A.I. technician for the county, he said. This project has been one which had fallen vacant a year or so ago and now we have a man to fulfill this service needed in the county, he continued. Mr. Robbins is a bright, energetic young man who has a good knowledge of livestock and knows a great deal about farming, Mr. Gillis said. We in this area are lucky to have a man with his experience to put the A.I. program on for our farmers. Many breeds of cattle are available but semen must be ordered well in advance.

Board Of Trade Executive Chosen

The Digby Board of Trade selected its executive for 1976 during a meeting at Town Hall on April 13.

Ernest Ryan of Conway will continue as president until the annual meeting in January, 1977.

Other members selected were Willard Kinney, First Vice-President; J. Patrick Comeau, Second Vice-President; James Gillis, Treasurer, and Larry Kuchene, Secretary.

Committees for which Chairmen are yet to be named include Membership, Tourism, Merchants, Fisheries, Agriculture, Publicity, Education, Program, Labour, and Port.

Some time during the meeting was spent discussing whether the Board would enter a candidate in the town's search for a Princess.

The Board agreed it would approve expenditures of up to $100 if a candidate can be found and if the group's finances can stand it.

J. Patrick Comeau and Ernest Ryan were left to investigate the matter.

Mr. Comeau spoke strongly in favour of this area's participation in the festival. "I think it's a worthwhile thing to be involved with our friends in the Valley," he referred to this area as a Valley "gateway."

This year the town's princess must live in Digby, or within a radius of 10 miles, or work in the town.

Mr. Ryan reported on the Federal Business Development Bank seminar held in January.

He termed it a success, noting 19 had registered. Another seminar will be held on May 15.

The CONWAY sign at the 101 intersection was brought up. It designates Conway as being toward Hillgrove although most of the community actually runs toward Digby and Acaciaville.

The new rates of the Digby-Saint John Ferry service was brought up but little chance was seen of having the rates lowered again.

Some time was spent discussing lotteries but no stand was taken on the issue.

Vincent Snow noted that if the town gets a new Town Hall there should be a provision for Board of Trade records being kept there.

Another topic brought up was the sewerage system situation at CFB Cornwallis - how it's progressing. Mr. Ryan said he would check

Census Commissioners Named

Under the authority of the Honourable Donald C. Jamieson, Minister of Industry, Trade and Commerce, J. Kevin Power, Regional Director for the Maritime Provinces, Statistics Canada, announces three appointments in this area as Census Commissioners for the 1976 Census of Canada. They are Adolphe LeBlanc, Church Point; Mrs. Barbara Morency, Casa Bara, Deep Brook and Mrs. Theresa McNeil, Granville Ferry.

Contest Winners

DIGBY—The winners of the Digby Brownie Packs 1 & 2 Fire Prevention Contest was announced last week, by Digby Volunteer Fire Department's Fire Prevention Officer Doug VanTassel.

Charlotte Winchester, Digby, a Grade 4 student at St. Patrick's School, placed first in the competition. She received a three dollar cheque award.

Deanna Forrest, also from Digby's 1st Brownie Pack, received the second prize and a two dollar cheque. She is a Grade three student at Digby Elementary.

Over 30 girls took part in the program, which is an ongoing project of the Fire Department to encourage fire prevention involvement with various community groups and organizations.

The contest included a movie and tour of the Fire Station, and free literature. The girls were versed in first aid and evacuation and fire escape planning. They each received a poster and instructed to colour it and draw a fire escape plan from their home.

IN MEMORIAM

PULLEY - In loving memory of my dear mother, Hazel Mae, who passed away April 20, 1974.

Not a day do I forget you
In my heart you are always here.
For I love and miss you dearly
As it ends another year.
I can never count the tears I shed
From the day we had to part
Just four words, "I miss you Mom".
From the bottom of my heart.

Always loved and remembered by
DAUGHTER, LORENA, AND FAMILY. 37:lip

PULLEY - In loving memory of my dear mother, Hazel M. Pulley, who passed away April 20, 1974.

Her busy hands are resting now
Her work on earth is done,
Her worries are all over now,
Her heavenly crown is won.
She sleeps in God's beautiful garden,
Sheltered from sorrow and pain.
And when life's journey is over
We know we shall meet her again.

Sadly missed and always remembered by son,
WESTON, CHRISTINE AND FAMILY. 37:lip

IN MEMORIAM

POTTER - In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Reginald Potter, who passed away April 18, 1971.

The above tide table is based on the 24-hour clock. All times are Atlantic Standard. Read DOWN rather than ACROSS. The large number is the date, the 4-digit number is the time. The third number in the column is the height of the tide in feet.

To convert times shown to the 12-hour clock, subtract 1200 from the number shown for all times over 1300 hours. (Included), up to and including 2400 hours. This will give you p.m. time. Example - 1300 hours is 1:00 p.m., 2400 hours is 12 o'clock midnight. For a.m. time, simply disregard zeroes at the beginning of the number. Example - 0135 hours is 1:35 a.m., 0020 hours is 20 minutes past midnight.

The 24-hour clock begins at 0001, which is 1 minute after midnight on the 12-hour clock.

The Lighthouse Kid

They say that lighthouse keepers Stay awake all night each day, To keep the light a-burning, So ships don't go astray.

A lighthouse keeper, Frank Wilson, Was blowing that big foghorn, It wasn't that it was foggy, But Janet had just been born.

Frank had to announce the occasion, So all the world would know, For he always got excited, Every nine months or so.

Now Janet was just one of seven, Light keepers stay awake all night, Sometimes that causes big families; They don't always just tend the light.

Point Prim and the village of Bay View, Are still proud of what Frank Wilson did, For that Janet grew up very quickly Into one damn smart little kid.

She finished school with high honours, In three years she got her R.N. And up until that time they tell me, Paid no attention to men.

be included in the Dominion Lassie competition. The club is happy to announce that Janet has been made an honorary member of both the Ladies and Men's Curling Clubs. Janet has worked hard and long for the Bridgetown Curling Club, then on the executive for many years at the Provincial level and now her efforts have been rewarded by achieving the highest honor that as "Captain of the ship" on the Federal level. Her many friends wish her the best in the coming year.

In charge of the reception and programme were Betty Jazey and her committee assisted by Doug McFee and his committee.

Mrs. Eugene Merry is the former Janet Wilson of Bay View.

But she became aware of sex, Just as Eugene showed up one day, And neither one could wait, So they got married right away.

She took a course in Pharmacy, Then had a boy and girl, And while she was raising these children, She got busy and learned to curl.

No, I guess she curled before that, Well, on that I'm not too clear, But she's been a member of this club For over twenty years.

She's had her oar in everything, Around this Bridgetown Rink, And one time was Ladies' President, And she did pretty well, I think.

She served on the mixed committee, She served on this and that, And as we see her here tonight, To her, we doff our hat.

Then Janet served the Province, Remember what Stanfield did? Remember how great he was? Well, so was Janet the Kid.

She was President for the Ladies, Of this Province by the sea, Then she hit the Federal Field, Where she did much better than he.

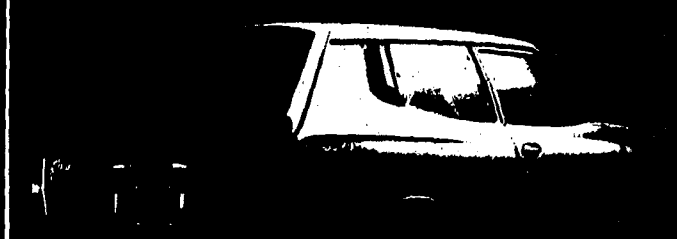

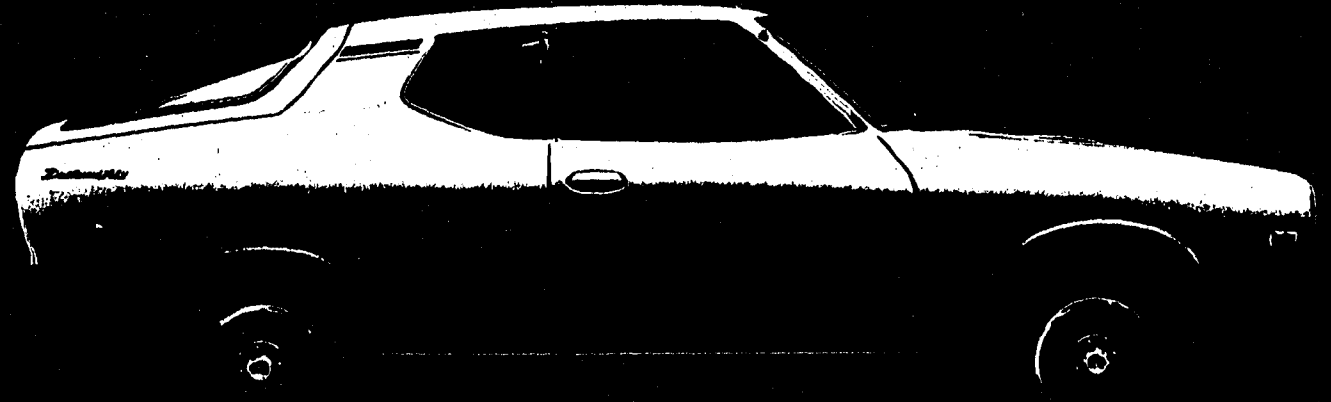

For she got herself elected, To the highest post in the Land, Of the Ladies Curling Officials, On the top of the heap she stands.

There's a rumour around that Trudeau, Won't run in another race, Now don't be surprised if Janet, Should be taking the P.M.'s place.

The Kid is loaded with talent, You can see by what she has done, And I haven't mentioned the half of it, She's smarter than anyone.

We congratulate you, Janet, Best wishes and all that stuff, No matter what anyone says, It still just isn't enough.

Announcing the end of the naked car.

The new front-wheel drive Datsun F-10.

Unlike some cars, which go out into the world stripped of all the extras which make driving a pleasure, the new front-wheel drive Datsun F-10's come fully-equipped.

Even our lowest-priced 2-door Sedan comes with rear window defogger, radial tires, tinted glass, heavy duty battery, and more. All in all, about $500 of extra value built in. You get similar built in value, and fifty cubic feet of luggage space in the F-10 Wagon. And our Sports Hatchback gives you even more features, like an AM/FM radio, tachometer, 5-speed shift and competition steering wheel. No charge.

The F-10 with its rally-proven 1.4 litre engine, gives you the better traction and safer handling of front-wheel drive, and it gets up to 40 miles per gallon in combined city/highway driving.

Anti-corrosion Treatment. An important part of the F-10's extra value is Datsun's new anti-corrosion treatment. We use specially-treated Zincrometal on exposed underside areas, water-proof sealing on body seams, inside doors and quarter panels, and rustproof plastic fender liners. The F-10 is built to last, and styled to look good, year after year.

See your Datsun dealer. A car with the extra value of the new F-10 deserves a close look, and a test-drive.

Cancer is not one disease but a group of diseases characterized by the disorganized and unregulated growth of abnormal body cells. In many cases, there is a favorable response to modern methods of treatment if diagnosis is made before signs of spread are evident. Your contribution to the Canadian Cancer Society is vital to the work of cancer research.

THE DIGBY COURIER

A new carbonated candy that "sizzles" in the mouth is creating a small sensation among children and adults.

After wide-eyed surprise and delight, the next reaction of many is curiosity. They've been writing the Hostess Division of General Foods Limited to find out how it works.

Secret of the unusual treat is carbon dioxide - the gas that makes soda pop fizz. Carbon dioxide bubbles are trapped inside conventional candy in the manufacturing process. As the candy melts in the mouth, this carbon dioxide is suddenly released with a surprising tickling, snapping and popping effect. Despite the strong sensation, the carbon dioxide released by eating one package is much less than would be consumed in a soft drink.

Matthew Bremner, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Bremner, recently underwent surgery at the Children's Hospital, Halifax. We are pleased to report he has now returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Adams, motored to Halifax on Thursday, April 8th. They were accompanied by Mrs. Boyd Ellis and Mrs. Reginald Bremner.

Mrs. Georgie Hatt of Grand Manan has now returned home. She was accompanied by Carman Frankland. Mrs. Hatt visited with her daughter, Mrs. Frankland and Mr. Frankland for the winter months. She also visited with her cousin in the valley for a few weeks.

On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Adams were callers of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taylor, Victoria Beach.

LOOKING FOR A SENSIBLY PRICED HOUSE?

LOOK INTO OUR LISTINGS AND YOU WILL FIND A VARIETY OF RESIDENTIAL PROPERTIES INCLUDING JUST THE ONE YOU'VE BEEN WAITING FOR.

The owners of a two storey brick front home in Deep Brook have asked us to encourage offers so why not inspect this immaculate residence and see for yourself that it's one of the exceptional houses in the area.

A new listing is a 2 1/2 year old bungalow situated in the Queen Street subdivision. Features knotty pine kitchen, built in oven and stove, shag carpet, fireplace and paved driveway. This one certainly deserves your consideration.

If you prefer a shorefront spot, we have a three year old split-entry home with patio doors overlooking St. Mary's Bay. Full basement could be readily converted to apartment.

Perhaps your thoughts won't get past the summer cottage stage. There is an excellent selection of cottages available in the area, situated on Haynes, Porter's and Mallett's Lakes.

Take a drive with us and see these properties for yourself.

Courthouse NEWS

A Newfoundland man was sentenced to nine months in Halifax County Correctional Centre when he appeared before Judge P. R. Woolaver for sentencing on Tuesday.

Wilson Joseph Lavehy, 24, pleaded guilty to a charge of break and enter at a previous Court appearance.

He was charged in connection with a safe theft from the Rite Way Store in Weymouth on March 16. In addition Lavehy received a three month sentence in connection with a cottage break at Sissiboo Falls. The sentences will run consecutively. Two others charged in connection with the same theft were sentenced to six months in the Kings County Correctional Centre. Robert James Smith, 19, Digby, and Arnold Roy Farnsworth, 18, Brighton, had also pleaded guilty at a previous court appearance. The three men were arrested in Edmonton on March 23 and were returned here to face charges.

Adolph Melanson, Ashmore, was placed on probation for one year on a charge of break and enter. The offence took place on January 5 at Bill's Texaco.

Eugene Keith VanTassell of Belliveau Cove was fined $50.00 on a charge of possession of stolen goods.

Two persons were fined for shop-lifting. Brian Wright, Digby, was fined $15.00; Gary David Lewis, Shubenacadie, was fined $20.00.

Terry John Ryan of Marshalltown and Daniel Edward Frances, Conway, pleaded to trafficking in a narcotic. They will be sentenced on April 27. Stephen Darnard Comeau of Digby, and Keith Gerard Haynes pleaded not guilty to a similar charge. They will re-appear on April 27.

Sheldon Scott Miller will appear in Court Tuesday on charges of trafficking in a narcotic and resisting arrest.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Outhouse who recently motored to Halifax called on Joey Outhouse at the Rehab. Centre, Halifax.

the churches of Westport, Freeport, Central Grove and Tiverton in the Digby Co., area, to Charlottetown to attend the conference which began April 9, and continued through the 11th.

Over 250 teenagers registered for the event but many additional young people attended. Said one participant, "the seats were full, the balcony was filled and those who could not obtain a seat stood at the back of the room. The church was really crowded!"

Young people attending were from New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and other areas. The event is held annually in various localities.

Classes began at 9 a.m. and continued until 11 p.m. Participating leaders and ministers were from the Maritime Christian College, Charlottetown and areas, Alan Smith, Niel Burt, Fred Osborne, David Weale and others including Maurice McCabe, native of P.E.I. now pastoring a church at Burt's Corner, N.B. He and youth members of his congregation attended the conference.

Lou Outhouse, native of Tiverton, and a second-year student of M.C.C., scheduled to be president and in charge of the music for the conference, was unable to officiate because of a three week illness. However, his brother, Lee, of the Tiverton attendants, accompanied the singers with his guitar. Mr. Outhouse said he was thrilled to serve in this capacity and was equally thrilled when he was nominated to provide music for the next two upcoming conferences. The presidency was filled by members and students of M.C.C.

The classes and sessions featured Bible Bowls, quizzes, Bible studies, singing, Bible discussions and other features. Enjoyment was also derived from a "Mission Impossible" feature carried out in which a group of young people were requested by their leaders to do an Indian rain dance around a fountain located in a local park; they were asked to locate a taxi driver who would drive them around a block for the price of a dollar or less - the first one encountered answered, "no way!" but the second one said, "sure, pile in!" they were instructed to run through three stores (only one store prohibited the action); and they were to locate a doctor who would sign a paper for one of the group stating he was not afflicted with Bubonic Plague. Other "missions" were successfully and hilariously carried out.

The Islands' group were unable to remain for Sunday's agenda. They had to leave the church to catch the 12 p.m. Borden Ferry for the approximate 350 mile trip home. All are students of Islands Consolidated School, Freeport, and had to prepare for Monday's classes.

For these young people this was the first time they had attended a youth conference of this kind. They found the experience spiritually uplifting and spiritually thrilling. They are eagerly anticipating future conferences.

Top help defray expenses involved in the trip, registration fees, cost of gas, etc., the group staged a rock-a-thon in which members of the I.O.O.F., Rebekahs Volunteer Fire Dept. and others donated money as sponsors. It is understood they acquired approximately $489. The teenagers and the minister, expressed gratitude to all who assisted them by donating money and providing transportation for them.

Sgt. Ken Eavis (left) is shown receiving a plaque on the occasion of his retirement from the Canadian Forces after more than 20 years service. Ken is taking up the position of Town Clerk-Treasurer in Digby with the best wishes of his many friends and co-workers in CFB Cornwallis.

Scollop Dragger Fire

The Digby Volunteer Fire Department was called to the scene of a scallop-dragger fire around 2:20 a.m. on Sunday.

The Alberta Rose, owned by David Longmire, received extensive damage in the blaze. The fire is believed to have started in the area of the stove pipe.

The dragger was stationed at the wharf at the time. The loss was insured.

Reflecting To 1946

The April 25, 1946 issue of the Digby Courier came out on Thursday following Easter. Certainly there were no earth shaking events recorded in the issue. Thieves made small hauls, a man escaped from the "Asylum for Harmless and Insane" but was returned, fire destroyed the home of Mrs. Bertha Small on Victoria St. and the Kiwanians had a Minstrel Show. Accounts of Easter services in the churches were recorded and a third of a column was devoted to the weather at Easter. Quote "Spring coats and Easter bonnets were conspicuous by their absence in Digby's Easter Parade, while fur coats, ear muffs, rubber boots and overshoes predominated". The story goes on to say how fortunate Digby was for at the New Brunswick-Nova Scotia border the Easter storm piled drifts from four to six feet. Hundreds of telegraph and telephone poles were down and traffic and communications were cut short.

An article in the 1946 Courier by Rupert E. Cann of Central Grove was more or less an eye opener. It was one of a series of articles running in the press generally. Rupert, who had been associated with the late Ivan Shortliffe in producing the Tiny Tattler, had just returned from serving overseas. His remarks

Bluenose II On Three Month Cruise

The schooner Bluenose II, Nova Scotia's floating ambassador, left her berth at Halifax's Privateer's Wharf on Thursday, April 15th, for a three-month promotional cruise along the eastern seaboard of the United States. The big schooner will call at 12 United States ports from New Orleans to New York, holding receptions for civic, travel trade and media representatives as well as open house for the general public. The purpose of the cruise is to promote awareness of Nova Scotia as a tourist-holiday destination.

The cities to be visited by Bluenose II are: New Orleans, Miami, Jacksonville, Savannah, Charleston, Norfolk, Newport News, Washington, Annapolis, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and New York. During her call in New York, Bluenose II will take part in Operation Sail '76 on July 4th as part of the U.S. Bicentennial celebrations.

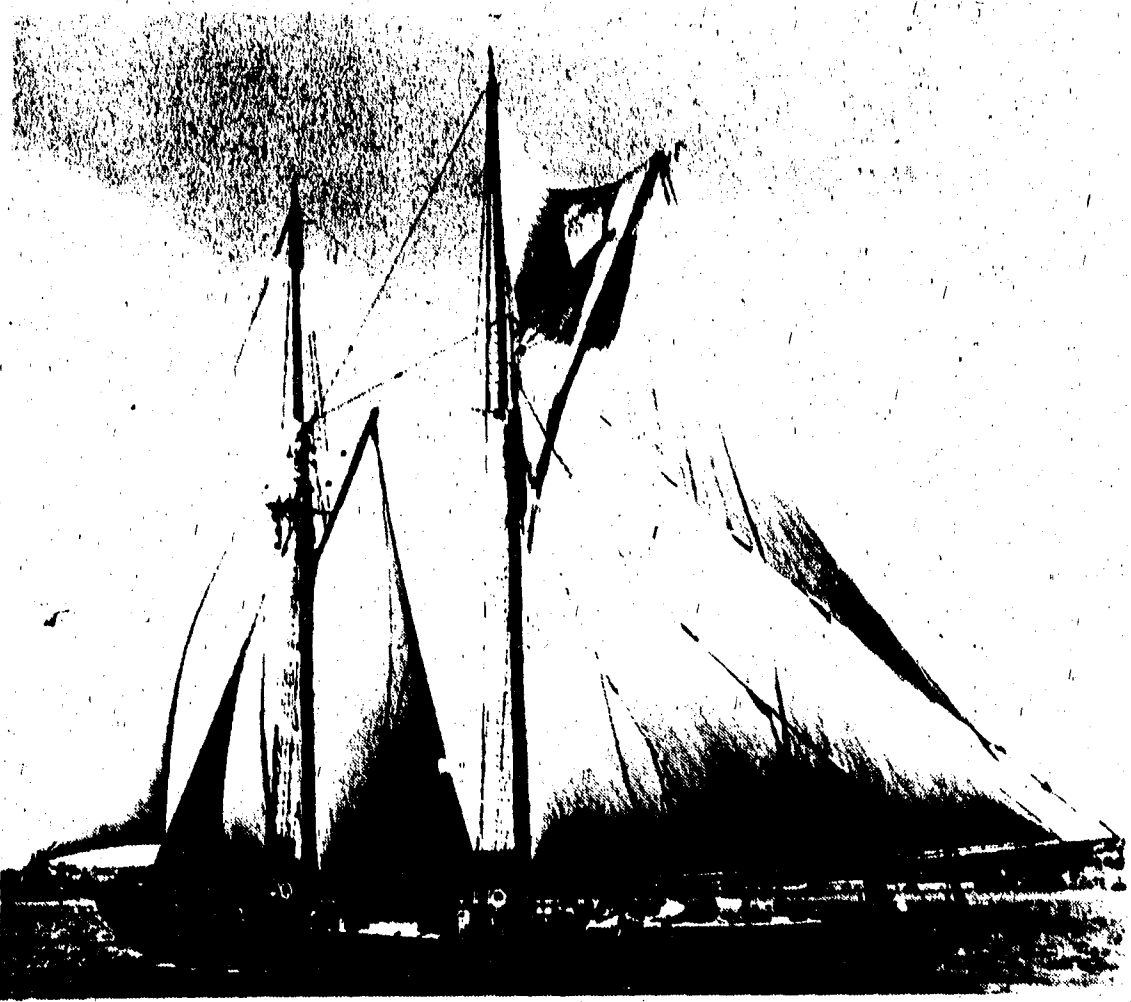

This is the third promotional cruise undertaken by Bluenose II in as many years. The vessel is a replica on the exterior of the original Lunenburg-built Bluenose, the schooner which dominated the International Fishermen's Races from 1921 until 1942 when she was sold. Bluenose was lost at sea in late January, 1946, while working as a freighter in the West Indies.

Bluenose II, like her namesake, is 143 feet long and her main topmast soars more than 125 feet above the deck. The 4100 square foot mainsail is the largest working mainsail in the world.

During May and June of 1974, Bluenose II visited 11 U.S. east coast cities and last year the Nova Scotia vessel thrilled hundreds of thousands of people on a promotional cruise through the Great Lakes, visiting 14 U.S. and Canadian cities. An official of the Nova Scotia Department of Tourism which operates the vessel for the Province, estimated that the schooner obtained for the Province "phenomenal coverage on radio and television... and the newspaper coverage was worth over a million dollars in lineage." In addition to about the accommodations on the troopships were anything but complementary. He called troopships hellships. There were 6000 men on board the Bluenose II is more than the reproduction of a famous fishing and racing schooner. The sight of her taut sails straining against the strong Atlantic breeze evokes centuries of seafaring tradition in Nova Scotia.

BLUENOSE II

It recalls the days when the phrase "wooden ships and iron men" had real meaning, for fishing the Grand Banks with its unpredictable North Atlantic storms was indeed a death-defying occupation.

The original Bluenose, launched in 1921 as a challenge to New England racing schooners remained a champion until her inglorious sinking in the Caribbean in 1946.

Bluenose II, built in 1963 by a private company and now the proud possession of the Nova Scotian people, serves as a cruise and promotional vessel during the spring and summer months.

civic, travel trade and media representatives, more than a quarter of million people lined up, sometimes for blocks, to walk around the deck of Bluenose II. In at least one city, a travel operator set up a package coach tour to bring in interested people from the surrounding area to see the black-hulled schooner.

Bluenose II is scheduled to arrive back in Halifax on July 10th and will begin her regular summer schedule of Halifax Harbour cruises from Privateer's Wharf.

Resolution On Social Assistance Gaining Support

By Larry Duchesne

Response to Digby Municipality's resolution re amendments to the Social Assistance act has started coming in from other municipal units across the province. Of all letters acknowledged at Monday's meeting, 12 supported the resolution, one did not agree with it, and one sought clarification on various points involved. The municipality is proposing amendments to the Act to cut down on abuse of social assistance programs.

The resolution states that able-bodied welfare recipients who refuse to take available jobs should not be able to collect benefits. This would apply even if the job pays less than welfare.

Other points included in the resolution are: (2) benefits to those aged 16 to 18 be discretionary, not mandatory (3) that welfare and family benefit needs be determined on the basis of the economic unit rather than on the traditional common-law marriage or family relationship. (4) stricter means tests to determine who qualifies for benefits.

Those indicating support to date include the town of Annapolis Royal, Shelburne, Guysborough, St. Mary's municipality, Pictou, Yarmouth municipality, Argyle, Chester, Sydney Mines, Barrington municipality, Middleton and Bridgetown.

The social services committee of Port Hawksbury disapproved of the resolution, while the town of Lockeport sought clarification.

Cyclathon Enthusiasm Gains Momentum

Enthusiasm for the Digby Branch Canadian Mental Health Cyclathon took on momentum over the weekend when Coline Campbell, M.P. for South West Nova and Joe Casey M.L.A., Digby, both to be participants, compared notes while in the area. Miss Campbell, who was the first to receive a participant's entry form began immediately to solicit sponsorship and added to her impressive list during her weekend visit. Another preparation by Miss Campbell was getting her twenty year old bicycle safety checked, tires replaced and other additions made. She commented "it will not be a modern vehicle."

Special visitor and participant in the Mental Health Cyclathon will be the Honorable Bryce MacCasey, Canada's Postmaster General. Mr. MacCasey, accompanied by Mrs. MacCasey, will be in Digby for other reasons at the time and the minister has consented to participate.

The Cyclathon starts out at nine o'clock in the morning on Saturday May 8 and will include participants of all ages. The route mapped out will cover 20 miles, three times from the Knights of Columbus Hall at the Racquette to the Saint John ferry terminal and enough laps around the terminal to complete the distance.

Mayors, wardens and councillors of the district have been approached to enter the Cyclathon and pledge sheets are continuing to be picked up by school students at the schools and at the Mental Health Clinic basement room. More are available for those who want to participate.

The Mental Health Cyclathon committee consists of the association president, Vernon Wessell; Ernest Ryan; James Gillis and Benjamin Cullen. On refreshments to be supplied to the cyclists are Mr. Ryan, Mr. Gillis and Mr. Wessell. Judge V. G. Cardoza is on publicity. In charge of pledge sheets are Mrs. Nola Jeffrey, school and Rev. George Bell, clinic. Prizes will be awarded to cyclists.

The Cyclathon has a dual purpose. One is to observe

Mental Health Week, May 2 to 8 and promote the work of the Canadian Mental Health Association. The other is to raise funds to meet expenses in operating the programs in Digby. Among the programs sponsored by the Digby Branch were the New Horizons organization and building; Operation Friendship; Friends of Tideview; Life Long Learning and the Multiculturalism program in the area. A project anticipated for the future is a "help line". The prevention of mental illness and the promotion of good mental health continue to be uppermost on the Digby branch program.

The Cyclathon Committee is looking for volunteers who might man stations on the cyclathon route for protection and wants of the cyclists.

Recreation Grants Approved

The proposed budget of the Municipal Recreation Committee for 1976 was given approval at Monday's regular council session.

The budget calls for spending all of the $11,000 jointly provided by the municipality and the provincial government.

Among groups included in the list for proposed assistance are the Digby Rink Commission, $2,000; a group in Brier Island, $1,621; a recreation group in Freeport, $1,400, Smiths Cove, $1,350; Digby Neck Fire Commission, $150; Brighton-Barton 4-H, $250; Kiwanis Club Weymouth, $450; Weymouth Amateur Athletic Association, $141.97; Digby Minor Hockey, $700; later applications, transportation and expenses, $336.93.

There was some discussion on a sum of $1,910 which was left over from last year's budget.

Under questioning from Councillor Richard Daley, committee chairman, Walter MacAlpine, said the municipality got its application in late last year and didn't get the balance of its funds until the year had ended.

Coun. Daley had expressed concern that a reserve fund was being established. Coun. MacAlpine said the committee was advised to hold back about 10 percent of its budget for later applications.

The committee chairman advised that $1,000 of last year's surplus would be going to a swimming pool project in Freeport.

There was some discussion on a request which came before council for a $200 grant to improve a ballfield in Bear River.

Coun. Rice figured that request possibly could have fit into the recreation programming if it was changed a bit. He suggested it should be pointed out a grant was lost on a technicality - i.e. They requested money to bulldoze.

Coun. MacAlpine maintained the grants were awarded on the basis of programming.

Coun. Daley doubted whether people in the municipality are well informed on requirements for obtaining recreation grants.

The initial budget presented by Coun. MacAlpine called for holding back about $2,286 for late

Present 25 Year Fire Service Awards

Howard Yorke of the Commissioners for the Bear River Fire Protection presented 25 year service awards at the close of the Commissioners' annual fireman's banquet held at the Oddfellow's Hall on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. William Rice accepted the award of her late husband whose death occurred recently. Mr. Rice was one of the most active firemen and at the time of his death was assistant fire chief.

Others who awarded 25 year service certificates were Fire Chief Allister Milner, Carl Parker, Malcolm Parker, Harry Banks, Cecil Bell, Jr., James Harris and Lewis Banks.

In making the presentations, Mr. Yorke reviewed the history of the Bear River Fire fighting services for the past 25 years and the faithful service which the firemen have given. He thanked them for their time so freely given and said "You never hear of firemen going on strike and wonder why."

Mr. Yorke said Bear River began the service with one truck paid for by Bear River ratepayers and since that time the firemen have earned three more trucks by means of Cherry Carnivals and other fund raising. He looked back to the first truck when help from CFB Cornwallis made them familiar with the many gadgets which were at first unknown to them.

Other commissioners assisting Mr. Yorke were Ross Parsons, Byard Marshall and R. K. Purdy.

The banquet presided over by Chief Milner began at 6:30 p.m. when Rev. Foster Hall asked the blessing and a minute silence was observed in memory of assistant fire chief, William Rice whose death occurred recently.

Mr. Milner introduced the guests including Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Slauenwhite, Lawrencetown; and Mr. and Mrs. David Longley, Margaretsville. Mr. Longley is the co-ordinator for the Annapolis County Fire Departments, succeeding Mr. Slauenwhite.

Revive Trout Cove Name For 4-H Club

A new 4-H club has recently been organized in Centreville, Digby County. It is called the Trout Cove 4-H Club because that used to be the name of Centreville. Meetings are held on Friday evenings and the Club is working on a Crafts project first so that everyone can develop a skill. Some people are knitting and others are making stuffed toys or painting. Meetings are held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Morton with Mrs. Ruth Cameron also helping.

On May 1st a Litter-a-thon will be held to raise some money for funds for 4-H educational trips.

Elected to office were Cathy Reid, President; Bobby Nesbitt, vice-president; Cindy Titus, secretary; Judy Lombard, treasurer and Angie Reid, newspaper reporter.

More about Trout Cove 4-H club another time!

applications. Coun. Rice suggested it should include the total amount. Changes were made to eliminate the holdover.

In his address, Mr. Milner said that the firemen had spent $6,200 during 1975 for fire equipment and the Commission had added $2,500 making a sum between $8,000 to $9,000. There were six calls to the firemen in town (Bear River), nine in Annapolis Co. and three in Digby County. There was a fire loss of $7,500, all in the outside area in Annapolis County. One of the heaviest and most dangerous duties they were required to handle was at the time of the Propane Gas Truck accident in Clementsport. Fifteen tons of water was used and 15 hours of time was spent at the scene. The chief reported a better attendance in 1975 at the training meetings, the monthly meetings and at the fire.

Mr. Slauenwhite in his talk linked together fire service, insurance companies, business and home owners. He said he felt the fire services did not always realize the part they play in the business world. He referred to a five to six million dollar recent fire which will increase fire insurance rates by a staggering figure.

In the business world, he said, when asking a banker for financial consideration, the first thing the banker asks for is the insurance policy on the business. Without insurance you do not get mortgage, he said. The insurance companies must recover their losses by higher rates when fires demand payment as of policies so they all tie in together, home owner, business, insurance and fire service.

Mr. Slauenwhite also looked back over firefighting methods and gave respect to the solid streams of water through the 2 1/2 inch hose in comparison with the new fog methods. They were able to save a great many buildings and prevent fires from spreading.

Mrs. Cecil Bell, Jr., Andrew Brooks and Mrs. Frank Marshall were winners of door prizes.

Mr. Longley showed slides of the 1974 fire which destroyed much of the town of Chelsea, Mass. He commented on the fire fighting methods, the handicaps in narrow streets and lanes between homes and many other aspects of the fire.

Cake walks and other entertainment was enjoyed.

Bain Appointed Chief Municipal Constable

Ivan Bain of North Range was appointed Chief Municipal Constable during Monday's Municipal council meeting.

Council accepted a recommendation from the Finance Committee by which Mr. Bain will be paid at the rate of $3.00 per hour, with expenses at 15 cents per mile.

Councillor Winchester summed up the constable's chief responsibilities as - to see that all municipal by-laws are enforced even to the point of bringing people to court.

Councillor Helen McNeil noted that the labour laws state he must be paid for a minimum of three hours even if the job takes only one. Councillor Rice noted, however, that the $3.00 per hour rate was by mutual agreement.

Councillor Winchester said Mr. Bain is going to try to get appointees for each district re. dog control, payment for such services would come from the dog license tax and the appointees would report to Mr. Bain.

Mr. Winchester said whether the deputies or Mr. Bain would act on dog complaints is uncertain at this point. Councillor Winchester was questioned by Councillor McNeil on that matter.

Council has decided to advertise for a building inspector with the idea of hiring one.

Councillor L. E. R. Winchester said the matter was discussed by the Finance Committee which is recommending such a move.

Applications will be handled by the Finance Committee which will make a recommendation to Council.

Council gave support to the Finance Officers Association in seeking to have the Assessment Act amended so municipal clerks won't have to accept notices of appeals.

A letter was received from the Weymouth Fire Department requesting $3000. to serve outside areas. The department's territory was extended this year. Last year the department got $1,600. Councillor McNeil noted her district is being charged $1,000 this year, up from $1,000. She said she didn't think the province would go along with it. The present cost-sharing formula is $4.73 per capita.

Council decided to request a plebiscite as to whether District 4 will be designated a licensing area. A letter on the matter was received from the Liquor Licensing Board.

Councillor McNeil moved that the municipality pay $15. monthly toward the rent of the EMO office in Digby. The town will pay a like amount.

Some information on the airport started to come out later in the meeting but Council went into committee to pursue the matter.

Unsatisfied with answers to her first questions, Councillor McNeil noted, "I don't take this very lightly. We run an airstrip there, she said, and 'I'd like to know what's going on.'"

Councillor Arthur Rice said airstrip paving should be completed by June 2. The strip will measure 100 by 3,000 feet.

He said hopes for a commercial airline are yet a long ways off since an instrument landing system is required.

Councillor Vantassel questioned where money raised by selling fill, wood, etc., is going.

Councillor Winchester noted the Flying Club is an authorized representative of the municipality and had put about $40,000. worth of work there. He said surplus wood and fill could be sold and the returns put back into the airport agreement.

Fill and wood sold to date, he said, would be worth about $2,500. Equipment at the site is in "full swing" while other equipment has not yet returned because of weight restrictions on highways.

Planning Digby Natal Day

Letters have gone out this week under signature of Mayor Charles Halliburton requesting clubs, organizations and businesses of the town represented at a Digby Natal Day planning meeting at the Town Hall on Thursday evening. At the same time a Natal Day chairperson will be selected and a secretary will be named.

It has been suggested that each organization be prepared to undertake two Natal Day activities. Among the suggested activities were fire truck rides, bicycle rodeo, grand parade, children's parade, soap box derby, fish chowder supper, steamed clams, chicken barbecue, boat races, road races, games, dances, entertainment, choosing Miss Natal Day, booths, concessions, majorettes and other suggestions. Further suggestions, it is expected, will come up at Thursday's meeting.

The committee urges a good representation to be on hand for April 29th and each express their choice of activity for the event.

Mrs. Victor Kynack presided at the first 1976 Natal Day planning meeting.

Grade 1 of the Digby Elementary School on Queen St., along with their teacher, Mrs. Bruce (Margaret) Baxter, visited the Admiral Digby Library on Tuesday. Above in the doorway is chief librarian, Mrs. Olive Hazelton and below is Mrs. Baxter.

Grade 1 of the Digby Elementary School, Queen Street, learned on Tuesday morning how to become members of the Admiral Digby Library, how to handle and care for library books and where to find the book they might want. The teacher, Mrs. Bruce (Margaret) Baxter and more than thirty of her class were greeted by the chief librarian, Mrs. Olive Hazelton.

Following this exercise, the librarian read the story of The Blind Man and the Elephant to the children and took them on a library tour. Students also told stories.

On their return to school, the class reviewed what they had learned on the field trip and prepared to take home their new library cards for parents to sign for borrowing books. Mrs. Baxter endeavours to promote reading by introducing her class each year to the local library.

In an interview with Mrs. Hazelton, she expressed fear of the possibility of such programs as these with the school children, the pre school children's program, the weekly hospital and Tideview Terrace visits might have to be discontinued because of lowering grants. She remarked that a petition had been started against the grant cuts by government and this petition is kept inside the front door for those who are interested.

The Interdenominational Bible Study Group met three times during the month of March. The first meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Gerald Budd, Seabrook. Mrs. Eunice Pearson was in charge of the devotional period. She also shared two poems with the group, "Mother's Apron" and "God is Here".

The lesson period was under the leadership of Mrs. Carman Frankland and the lesson was on Trusting.

The Group met for the second time during the month on March 23rd. Ten members gathered at Basin View Apartments with Mrs. Eunice Pearson as the hostess of the evening. Mrs. Oakley Turnbull was in charge of the Devotional Period. Her message was taken from The Daily Bread and four poems of Mrs. Turnbull's own composition were read.

The lesson period was centered around Trusting and Patience.

There were twelve members present for the last meeting and the hostess of the evening was Mrs. Doris Brown. Mrs. Eunice Pearson was convener of the Devotional Period. Message was centered around The Civil War in Lebanon. It was taken from a recent news paper article and another from the Restitution was shared with the group. A solo "Redemption Draweth Nigh" was rendered by Mrs. Brown. The lesson period continued on Trusting.

Each of the meetings concluded with a Social Hour.

REV. ROY SELICK

A CORDIAL INVITATION TO ALL!

PASTOR: Rev. Lawrence W. Corey Phone 837-4796

Another opportunity to hear Rev. Roy Sellick and Rev. and Mrs. Scott Ingersol - Mr. Sellick is a great preacher and this will be the fifth time for him to hold a campaign in Havelock. You will not want to miss him.

Accompanying Mr. Sellick will be as special singers, Rev. and Mrs. Scott Ingersol. They love to sing the old time gospel. You will be thrilled by their presentation of the gospel in song.

Help get these people into trouble.

We seek trouble wherever it occurs. Wherever people need us. Down in Skid Row. In the prisons. Amongst the elderly, the destitute and the down-trodden. Wherever we can offer our Christian help.

Sometimes, it isn't pleasant. But it must be done. And we need your help to do it. Money. Donations to the Red Shield Appeal.

Your gifts get us into trouble. And they help get a lot of people out of trouble.

If you don't need our help we need yours

Joint Band Concert Enjoyed

The second half of the Digby-Bangor High School Band Exchange took place at Digby over the weekend when Digby students welcomed and entertained the Bangor students. Highlight of the occasion was the joint band concert at the Digby Regional High School Multi-Purpose Room on Saturday evening.

The program on Saturday began with the American National Anthem conducted by the Digby director, Donald Scott and the Canadian National Anthem directed by Frank Walker of Bangor High School.

Lister Hannah, principal of D.R.H.S. introduced the guests and Councillor

Reginald Hazelton on behalf the town and school boards extended a welcome and presented the Bangor director with a Digby Town plaque. A flag of Nova Scotia was presented to the guests by Digby's Member of the Legislative Assembly, Joe Casey and best wishes were extended by Miss Coline Campbell, Member of Parliament for South Western Nova. Janet Wilson, youngest member of the boutonnières to the directors.

Mr. Walker expressed pleasure in being in Digby for the exchange, noting that the students fitted together so well and remarked "I don't believe there is much difference in Americans and Canadians." Mr. Walker remarked also on the number of interesting things which were available for them to do while here.

Claude Pothier, president of the D.R.H.S. Concert Band, expressed appreciation to the American visitors for their hospitality to the students and directors while they visited in Bangor.

The Bangor band presented the first part of the program with Riders for the Flag, Light Cavalry Overture, Praeludium and the Blue and the Gray (songs from the Civil War). The D.R.H.S. band presented arrangements of Star Sounds, VII Latin, Rockford Files and Country and Western. The program concluded with the combined bands in Prelude and Fuguetta, Beguine Festival, Fiddler On the Roof and Hogan's Heroes March.

Visitors were taken on historic tours and scenic rides and were entertained at various functions throughout their stay from Thursday, to Monday morning. Tours and rides included the Habitation, Point Prim, Fort Anne, the Wharves and fish plants. Bowling was enjoyed, a dance held at the Knights of Columbus Hall and a wiener roast was held at Joggin Bridge. Open House was held on Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. MacLeod Rogers.

Arrangements are now being made for Digby's Spring Blood Donor Clinic to be held on Tuesday, May 4, in three sessions - 10 to 12 o'clock in the morning, 2 to 4 in the afternoon and 6 to 9 in the evening. A change is being made in the location of the Clinic, which will be held in the Digby Firemen's Hall, as the result of a visit from the Director of Blood Donor Services, Mr. R. Milne, who inspected available premises and decided upon this as affording more space than the Lions Hall which has been used for this purpose formerly.

Mr. Milne addressed a special Red Cross Blood Donor meeting at the time of his visit to Digby and congratulated the Red Cross Committee on having built up the Digby Area Clinics from a total of 103 donors in 1948 to 615 in 1975, while during this same period the provincial total has risen from 8000 donations to 52,000 annually. However, this increase has barely kept pace with the ever-increasing demand for blood as more and more patients are transfused in our hospitals and new techniques are perfected for saving lives. Major heart surgery is now commonplace, kidney transplants are done almost daily, haemophiliacs who were practically doomed a few years ago can now be saved, and leukemia patients can be treated with blood platelets while receiving radiation. In view of all this, it follows that our Blood Donor clinics MUST, of necessity, increase or these modern medical miracles are of no avail.

New breakthroughs in the techniques of using blood are occurring almost every month, stated Mr. Milne. With the new, sophisticated machines now available it is possible to break blood down into its components, he explained, so that every drop can be utilized - some components for one patient, some for another, according to their specific requirements. Thus one blood donation can help save more than one life.

"However," stated Mr. Milne, "the key person in all this life-saving effort is the blood donor. Although five permanent staff members in Halifax can administer the Provincial Blood Donor Program, it is the thousands of Volunteer blood donors all over the province who are the essential ingredient of the whole process."

This fact was further emphasized by the Assistant Director of Blood Donor Services, Mr. A. Joergensen, who also addressed the Digby meeting, describing a visit he had made to a Halifax hospital where he was allowed to observe an open heart operation. He had marvelled at the skill of the surgeons, and the amazing machine which could take over the pumping and cleansing of the patient's blood while the heart was stilled. But back of all this, stated Mr. Joergensen, he could see in his mind's eye all the 12 or 15 individual blood donors who, on the day previous, had come to a Clinic to give the precious fluid which was keeping the machine and patient functioning. Without the volunteer blood donors the operation could not have taken place.

Without YOU, the BLOOD DONOR, this whole service could not go on. The Digby Red Cross Committee urges EVERYONE to think seriously of the need and attend this May Clinic if at all possible.

The Digby clinic serves the whole area from Cornwallis and Bear River to Weymouth, Digby Neck and the Islands. Further information regarding the Clinic or about transportation may be obtained from any of the following members of the Digby Area Blood Donor Recruitment Committee: E. B. Tufts, Chairman; Stewart MacNaughton, Vice-Chairman; Charles Haliburton, Mayor of Digby; Everett Hall, President of the Digby Fire Company; Mrs. H. M. Warne, Red Cross Branch, all of Digby; Lawrence Henshaw, Bear River; Ralph Cosman, Weymouth; Mrs. Ivan Moore, Freeport. Additional Community Chairmen are as follows: Cornwallis Area, Capt. Wheelhouse; Deep Brook, Robert Ecker; Smith's Cove, Mrs. Frances Berry; Barton, Mrs. Lloyd Grant; Plympton, Mrs. Walter Melanson; Rossway, Mrs. Waters Comeau; Waterford, Mrs. Barbara Raymond; Sandy Cove, Mrs. Morehouse; Little River, Mrs. Margaret Jay; Digby Red Cross Youth, Miss Linda Macintosh.

Kick The Habit Week

Kick The Habit Week will be observed in Nova Scotia May 2-8 when Five Thousand (5000) kits will be made available to the general public on request free of charge. The Nova Scotia Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association will be joined in activities this week by Victoria General Hospital; Halifax Infirmary; IWK Hospital for children; Aberdeen Hospital, New Glasgow; Lillian Fraser Memorial, Tatamagouche; Grace Maternity Hospital, Halifax; Miller Hospital, Kentville; Highland View Hospital, Amherst; HMC Dockyard Health Unit; Point Pleasant Lodge, Halifax; Soldiers Memorial, Middleton; Digby General Hospital; Dalhousie Family Medical Centre; St. Martha's Hospital, Antigonish. The Registered Nurses' Association will sponsor a seminar for occupational Nurses May 6-8 using Kick The Habit Materials.

At a meeting of the Faculty of Medicine of Dalhousie University held February 18, 1976, it was moved by Dr. William Josenhans, seconded by Dr. Gordon, that no smoking be allowed in the Lecture room of this Medical School. This motion was carried.

Dr. John Dill, associate professor at Dalhousie Medical School, who is doing research in Immunological Diseases of the Lung, will be interviewed during Kick the Habit Week by Leona LeBlanc on her Afternoon TV Program "In Conversation". The CBC Radio Program "Information Morning," will again feature Dr. Dill, to let their listeners know.

The Nova Scotia council on smoking and health has been revived under chairmanship of Mr. Ralph E. J. Ricketts. The first meeting of the new council will be held on May 3rd when Mr. Kurt Baugarten of the Canadian Council on Smoking and Health will speak on Non Smoking Week 1977 activities and the role of the National and Provincial Interagencies.

Recipe Remains A Mystery

With a Kentucky Fried Chicken outlet now located in our community, we thought we'd have a great chance to find out the Colonel's special recipe.

But Colonel's Sanders' secret still remains a mystery.

"I think there's only one person in Canada who knows the recipe, and that's the Colonel himself," says manager Wayne Hendsbee.

Kentucky Fried Chicken's newest outlet is located at the corner of Warwick and Victoria Streets in Digby. It's been serving area residents since April 13.

The outlet has been scheduled to be officially opened by Mayor Charles Haliburton at a ribbon-cutting ceremony this morning (Thursday) at 11 a.m.

Frank Williams, General Manager of Edward's Fine Food which has the Kentucky Fried Chicken franchise here, is also scheduled to attend.

There are now 15 people employed at the Digby location, besides Mr. Hendsbee. Whether or not that number will change during the summer season will depend on business volume.

Mr. Hendsbee is confident the Digby outlet will succeed. "I think its going to go over very well.... business so far has been very, very good."

Mr. Hendsbee also manages the Kentucky Fried Chicken outlet in Yarmouth. He has been a manager with Edward's Fine Foods since 1972.

The local outlet is now open from 11 a.m. to 12 midnight. These hours, however, are subject to change.

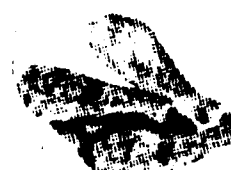

Going out tonight? Meet your friends at Kentucky.

Mrs. Lillian Melanson Heads Plympton C.W.L.

The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Women's League of Plympton was held at the rectory following Lenten Devotions and Eucharistic Celebration, on Wednesday evening, April 7, 1976.

The president, Mrs. Lillian Melanson, led the members in the opening League prayer.

The treasurer reported a bank balance of $279.30.

Election of officers resulted in:

President: Mrs. Lillian Melanson

First Vice-President: Mrs. Marie Tebo

Second Vice-President: Mrs. Cecilia Amero

Secretary: Mrs. Mary Viall

Treasurer: Mrs. Marie Tebo

Membership Covenor: Mrs. Cecilia Amero

Church Life Covenor: Mrs. Catherine Doucette

Social Life Covenor: Mrs. Bernice McCullough

Communications Covenor: Mrs. Mary Ann Doucette

Mrs. Cecilia Amero was absent from the meeting and the members presumed she would reaccept the office of Second Vice-President and Membership Covenor. In the case she would decline the function, Mrs. Alice Doucette volunteered to take over.

Sister Aube expressed her regret for not being able to accept secretarial functions next year, as she expects to leave the parish in July. Mrs. Mary Viall, although a new member, graciously accepted to fill in the office.

The president and members expressed their regret at Sister Aube's departure and thanked her for the work she has done for the C.W.L. in the past years. Thanks were also extended to Mrs. Mary Viall for generously accepting the office.

The first Wednesday of each month was agreed upon as the most convenient time for next year's meetings.

Father LeBlanc thanked the members who had accepted offices at this evening's meeting and also for the members contribution to the parish. As the members have adopted a missionary in the Dominican Republic Father LeBlanc suggested that personal contact be encouraged by letters as well as by financial help.

Relating to unfinished business, Father LeBlanc stated that the invoice for the Sacramentary purchased by the C.W.L. members for the church had not yet been received. Mrs. Bernice McCullough generously donated the sum of twenty-five dollars toward this purchase.

The President informed the members that quilting frames had been bought for the Plympton group. These will be used to fill in demands from exterior sources which keep coming in and also for the members themselves, whenever the frames are available.

Mrs. Mary Viall, a new member, was greeted and most welcomed with a round of applause. The president expressed her pleasure at having Mrs. Viall join the group and the members manifested their contentment by the warmth of their greeting.

Mrs. Lillian Melanson explained that the dues could be paid in April or May at the usual fee of two dollars, but they may be also accounted for in June at which time they will be raised to three dollars.

The diocesan contribution will be sent in when the name of the new secretary for the diocese of Yarmouth becomes known at the May Convention. Thirteen members paid their dues. The president reported that the Yarmouth diocesan Council Convention would be held in Yarmouth, at St.

Most of the extra curricular activity at Islands Consolidated lately has been centered around badminton practices where 20 competitors were hitting shots and laying out strategy in an all out effort to win congress honors in badminton. When the smoke cleared after the initial rounds' play we had fallen slightly short of the objective capturing only a tie for second place in the standings. But all was not lost as this marked an improvement of two positions over the 4th place finish of a year earlier. More important of the 15 titles up for grabs the school cornered 5 of them which allowed these teams to enter regional play offs the following week.

In first round play (county play offs) the teams dominated the Seven section, held their own on the Junior level and were soundly beaten in the inexperienced intermediate section.

Those advancing to Regional play offs were, Stephen Comeau, 6 wins no losses, for the Under 20 Singles, Wayne Buckman-Ambrose Church Hall, on Sunday, May 16, at 10 a.m. The registration fee of one dollar is charged. Luncheon will be served at 12 noon and the business session will resume at 1:30 to end before suppertime. The president stated that the Convention was opened to any member who wishes to attend. The Provincial Convention is to take place in Sydney Mines, Cape Treton, on May 5 and 6. Here again, the members are free to attend if they so desire.

Yarn has been provided by the Christmas Daddies Fund Committee of Digby, and the members are invited to help in the knitting of socks and mittens for the needy children. These will be given out in the hampers at Christmas time.

Refreshments were served.

THE DIGBY COURIER, Island Consolidated Badminton Hi-Lights

Kim Elliott, 6 wins no losses., for the Under 20 mixed Doubles: Billy Howard-Tony Thurber., 6 wins no losses for the Under 20 Boys Doubles.

Jane Thurber- Wendy Titus 6 wins no losses for the under 20 Girls' Doubles.

Beverly Elliott- Shelley Leeman 5 wins 1 loss for the under 14 Girls Doubles.

These 5 teams entered Regional playdowns in Kentville and gave an exremely good account of themselves.

Wayne Buckman and Kim Comeau defeated Central Kings by scores of 15-3, 15-10 and were extended to 3 games before losing 15-9, 6-15, 15-9.

In Senior Boys doubles Tony Thurber and Billy Howard scored an easy win over St. Anne de Rousseau by scores of 15-10, 15-6 but also lost in a 3 game final to New Germany by scores of

Jean Raymond New Curling President

Mrs. Jean Raymond was elected president when the 26th Annual Meeting of the Digby Ladies Curling Club was held Wednesday, April 14, 1976. The evening began with a joint banquet with the Men's Club, presidents, Patricia Wilson and Ernest Ryan, presiding.

After various committee reports Jean Brittain gave a summary of the Clubs' activities during the past year. She noted that the home-and-home series for the Motor Mart Trophy was won by Yarmouth by a slim two-point margin. The series with Bridgetown for the Neville Trophy had to be cancelled this year. Kiki Nichols, Rena Dunn, Pat Wilson, and Vera Morgan travelled to Cornwallis for a fun day of curling against teams from Scotland on tour in Canada late in November and succeeded in tying their game. The team of Jean Brittain Pat Wilson, Vera Morgan, and Flo Grimmer played in the Western Counties Bonspiel in Berwick and captured the runner-up consolation prize in the Moir Bonspiel. This is a new bonspiel replacing the Hawboldt Trophy Bonspiel and Digby had the honour and pleasure of hosting the first play.

In inter-house play Rena Dunn presented prizes and trophies to the various draw winners. The Cameron's Trophy was won by Jean Brittain, Betty Margolian, and Carol Marshall; The MacDonald Motor Trophy winners were Rena Dunn, Flo Grimmer, and Johnnie Burke; and the Presidents' Trophy was captured by Lynn Cook, Pat Wilson, Dolly Milberry, and Coleen Cameron.

Before assuming her duties as president, Jean Raymond presented Pat with a corsage of red carnations and thanked her for a job well done.

Pat Wilson, in her farewell summary, noted that although membership was low this year, the season had been successful. She thanked all the members for their support and wished the new president lots of luck.

Rena Dunn then presented the new slate of officers: President- Jean Raymond; First-Vice, Freida Balser; Second- Vice, Beverley Gidney; Treasurer, Verna Stonehouse; Secretary, Lynn Cook; Committees-Match, Winnifred Brittain; Bonspiel - Mimi McCullough; Hoysse, Vera Morgan, Flo Grimmer, Dolly Milberry; Ways and Means, Beverley Gidney; Membership, Pat Wilson, Lynn Cook; Supper, Betty Margolian, Mary King, Rena Dunn; advertising and reporting, Verna Stonehouse.

Before assuming her duties as president, Jean Raymond presented Pat with a corsage of red carnations and thanked her for a job well done.

In Junior Girls Doubles, Bev. Elliott and Shelley Leeman defeated Kentville 15-0, 15-1, but lost to Chester in 3 games 3-15, 15-6, 15-9.

On a winning note, Stephen Comeau took top honors in under 20 Singles defeating West Kings 15-1, 15-0 and St. Anne de Rousseau 15-1, 15-11.

The Cinderella team of our school, Wendy Titus and Jane Thurber who prior to the start of play off competition beat their 7th consecutive school gaining victories this time over Barrington, Central Kings and New Germany.

Stephen, Wendy and Jane advance to the Provincial finals to be played at Sackville. With them go the good wishes of the school and Island Communities.

Rossway (W. R. Comeau)

Rev. Lester Mullen of Springwater Habitation, The Christian Conference Centre, of Rossway conducted the Communion Service at all Saint's Anglican Church on Thursday evening, at 7:30 p.m. to a nearly packed church congregation from the Rossway Anglican and the Rossway and Centreville Baptist Churches.

Mrs. Hetty Handspiker and Herbert Nesbitt of Mount Pleasant were Friday evening visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Waters Comeau.

Mrs. Eileen Burns and family of Digby spent Easter Monday with Mrs. Burn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Halliday in Gulliver's Cove.

Shows Create Buyer Awareness

Participation in the 1975 Toronto Gift Show by six Nova Scotia companies resulted in on-the-spot orders amounting to $55,000, with projected sales of $150,000 over a 12-month period.

These figures were released by the Department of Development following an evaluation of results experienced by Provincial Exhibitors taking part in the event under sponsorship of the marketing and Trade Development Division of the Department.

Development Minister George M. Mitchell said the success of the venture "Confirms our conviction that when Nova Scotia's small business firms display their products at these important national exhibitions, they create buyer-awareness, which produces immediate sales and generates future business."

Basin View Apts

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Flewelling of Saint John N.B. and Mrs. Suzie Glavin of Westport visited with friends of Basin View Apts. and were supper guests with Holland Titus.

Mrs. Oda Pyne spent Easter with her grandson Mr. and Mrs. Donald Yeoman and granddaughter, Linda of Kingston, N.S. Mrs. Pyne, daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Yeoman, are visiting relatives in London, Ontario.

"Pop" Hanson spent Easter weekend with his daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Nixon, and family of Berwick.

Mrs. Nellie Graham was pleased to have Mr. Morris Raymond, who has regained better health and now at Tideview Terrace, call on her last week. Mrs. Violet Cann from Tideview, also visited Mrs. Graham one afternoon.

Debbie Graham, granddaughter of Mrs. Nellie Graham visited her for the weekend. She is stationed at CFB, Halifax, but will be attending a four month course this summer at CFB, Chillawacke, British Columbia.

Easter guest of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Perry was his brother, Welland Perry of Saint John. While here he visited his mother at Tideview Terrace.

Mrs. Nellie Graham spent Easter Sunday with her son and family at Sandy Cove. Other members of the family called on her while there. "Bing" Dickie spent

Easter weekend with his daughter, Joan, in Halifax.

Mrs. Emily Abbot motored to The Gaspé Coast for Palm

Sunday weekend and was guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Robertson. They spent Easter weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Frail and family, Westfield N.S.

Saturday afternoon "Pop" Hanson, Bing Dickie and Mrs. Emily Abbot had an enjoyable trip to East Ferry, then around Bear River and Clementsport. We of Nova Scotia should be proud to belong to N.S. It is a beautiful place.

Artists Invited

To Display And Sell

The talents and handwork of Annapolis Valley Artists will be exhibited and offered for sale in two art exhibitions during the 44th Annapolis Valley Apple Blossom Festival.

A senior exhibition, for artists of 17 years and over, will be featured at the Country Gardens Shopping Centre in New Minas during shopping hours on festival weekend.

The senior exhibition is under the direction of a committee headed by Dr. S. V. Anand, Fielding Avenue, Kentville.

Dr. Anand is now receiving entries in sculpture, photography, drawings and paintings from Annapolis Valley artists. The deadline for entries is May 15. There is a registration fee of $1.00 and entries will be limited to three per person. A selection committee will make the final decision if the entries are too numerous to handle. Artists may offer their work for sale by attaching price tags, and 15 percent of the sales will be retained by the committee.

A junior art exhibit is also being planned and will be held at the County Fair Mall in New Minas. Plans for the junior exhibition by artists of 16 years and under are being headed up by Mrs.

Doreen Roberts, Academy Street, Kentville. The junior exhibits will likely be handled through valley schools. The 1976 Apple Blossom Festival will be staged from June 3 to 7 with inter-community competitions, coronations, balls, parades, concerts and other celebrations.

Get your rear in gear. Take a walk.

Reflecting To 1946

A glance through the early May edition of The Digby Courier 1946 seemed to give the appearance of little exciting news. No murders, no fires, no arrests. All was peace and quiet seemingly. Then we caught this simple heading "Battle of the Hours". The story began "It was not the Battle of the Century but the Battle of the Hours in Digby this week. Yes you've guessed it. Daylight Saving Time. Digby went on D. S. T. on Saturday, the only town between Halifax and Yarmouth to do so. Opponents of the time started a barrage of phone calls to the Town Hall on Monday morning. Soon town councillors joined the telephone brigade seeking tactical advice. One of the high points of the fray was reached on Monday when a school bus from Smith's Cove arrived shortly before ten o'clock. Then residents of outlying districts rallied to the side of the Anti-Daylighters and stormed the Town Hall. By Wednesday a special meeting decided the Town of Digby would revert to Standard Time at midnight, Saturday, May 4.

In the next column to the Daylight Saving story, we noticed where beautiful hand-painted scarves, handkerchiefs, shell jewellery, tooled leather purses, etched glassware, etc. were on display at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. McCleave. All the work was done by a class of seven ranging in ages from eight to fourteen years, under the direction of Mrs. McCleave. The class consisted of Phyllis Handspiker, Walter Johnson, Joycelyn Mullen, Junior Mullen, Norma Mullen, Irene Daley and Graham McCleave. Much praise was given in the article on the painstaking effort and excellence of instruction given.

One item got special mention, that of a luncheon cloth made by Junior Mullen. It was floral pattern and must have required many hours of work.

Seven hundred and fifty dollars gross at a Kiwanis Minstrel Show was a good sum. The program was staged under direction of Mrs. Helen Anthony and Mrs. Louise Stephen. Baseball season had started and the full summer program published. Also an Athletic Club was formed with David Daley, president; the late M. H. Barnes, treasurer; and P. R. (Nink) Woolaver (Judge Philip Woolaver), secretary.

As we open an invitation in 1976 to a function making the start of Direct Distance Dialing for the Annapolis Valley we read on the left hand page of the May 2, 1946, Courier that Digby was soon to have an up-to-date telephone system installed.

See where a party from New York was here trying to interest people in the guahags industry. (Haven't seen any fruits of the visit).

Whose responsibility is it to pay for repairs and replacement work on the abutments along the road near the Racquette Bridge. That question came up in 1946 and once in awhile crops up in later years. In 1946, abutments were destroyed by a heavy storm.

For those who are especially interested in hydro operations in this area, the 1946 issue of The Digby Courier reports the hydro system in Clare had improved and advanced from 317 outlets in 1937 to 940 in 1945. The original rate was 16 cents per k. w. hour and the rate (1946) was 3 3/4 cents per k. w. h. for the first block, 2 1/2 cents for the second block and 1 1/2 cents for all additional power. Power was purchased from the Digby County Power Board. Power purchased in 1945 was $17,800. Revenue in 1945 was $30,000 compared with $6,200 in 1934.

200 Mile Car Rally Slated

A 200 mile valley wide car rally covering the by-roads and passing many of the historic sites of the Annapolis Valley will again be a major Sunday event on Apple Blossom Festival weekend. The 44th festival is scheduled from June 3 to 7. R. G. Patterson of Berwick is heading up plans for the popular event in which a driver and a navigator pit their skills against other teams in taking proper directions and driving at prescribed speeds to win the day-long event.

Mr. Patterson says the rally programming is well on schedule. He urges newcomers interested in entering the Apple Blossom Rally to get an introduction by taking part in an earlier rally from Bedford to Windsor on a Sunday in May.

In addition, Mr. Patterson said an early Sunday morning school will be conducted at Windsor Regional Vocational School to acquaint newcomers with the directions and rules before the big blossom rally gets underway. He said there will be participation from within and outside the Valley, and he suggested that entrants get a town or community to sponsor their car and its two-man team with a big sign on the car to give added interest to the rally.

Mr. Patterson said there will be professional and novice class awards as well as top valley placing. Mr. Patterson said the teams will be given their routes as the rally begins. Arriving at the various checkpoints along the valley area too early or too late will cost the teams a certain amount of points.

Nothing there will be civic stops at Kentville and Bridgetown, and a lunch break, civic stop in Berwick. Mr. Patterson urged those civic leaders to try something a little more than a handshake for the rally crews. He said it provides an ideal time to give samples of valley apple juice, info about your community, or other goodwill gestures to ensure that the Apple Blossom Car Rally will long be remembered by both in-province and out-of-province competitors. There were over 30 entries in the first annual rally last year and more

Annapolis-Digby County Baptist Rally

Taxes Capacity Of B.R.H.S.

Rev. Wallace Jordan, Moderator of the Annapolis-Digby County Baptist Association; Rev. C. Roden Evans, Rally preacher; Garland Myers, massed choir director; Dr. George Allen, pastor in charge of arrangements and song leader.

Over seven hundred crowded into the Bridgetown Regional High School auditorium on Sunday evening to attend an Association Rally conducted by the Baptist Churches of Annapolis and Digby Counties.

Rev. Wallace Jordan, pastor of the Deep Brook pastorate, and Moderator of the Association, conducted the service. He expressed great delight in the response of the congregations and extended a warm welcome to all who were in attendance. Dr. George Allen led the great gathering in a spirited hymn-sing into which the entire congregation entered with great vigour and inspiration. Mrs. J. Fred Hall presided at the piano as accompanist for the evening's music.

A massed choir, composed of members of the Associations Churches, under the direction of Garland Myers of Upper Clements, sang the selection, "To God Be the Glory" and "He Lives".

The evening Scripture lesson was read by Lic. Jack Allen of Margaretsville and was from St. Paul's letter to the Romans, chapter 12. Prayer was offered by Rev. Herman Spinney, Paradise.

The Bridgetown male quartette, Robert Hall, Fred Hall, Clayton Spicer and George Allen, sang the inspirational quartette arrangement of "Heaven Came Down and Glory Filled My Soul".

The "Lightshine Singers" of Middleton, under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Umdil, sang three selections with Mrs. David Watt, piano accompanist, and other instrumental accompaniment. The music of the young singers was welcomed with enthusiastic appreciation.

During the announcements, coloured slides of Hamilton Place, where the Baptist Federation of Canada's summer gathering will take place, were shown and encouragement given to all who might wish to attend the Canadian Baptist Rally to be held July 8-11th.

Rev. Eugene Thompson, area minister for Annapolis Valley, introduced the Rally speaker, Rev. C. Roden Evans. Rev. Mr. Evans was inducted, recently, as the Pastor of the West End Baptist Church, Halifax. He spoke on the theme of the Rally, "With Eyes Wide Open", with deep insight and inspiration.

The evening's rally was brought to a close with the benediction by the incoming Moderator of the Association, Rufus "Scotty" McGilchrist, of Parker's Cove.

The Annapolis-Digby County Association of Baptists deeply appreciates the use of the B.R.H.S. auditorium granted by Mr. Jack Walker, and for the willing co-operative help of Mr. Ernest Robichaud in arranging chairs and other facilities for the meeting.

Head table guests for the occasion will be Base Commander Capt. T. E. Connors, and Mrs. Connors; Fred Cruickshank, PMC of the WO & Sgts. Mess, and Mrs. Cruickshank; CWO Jack Marsh and guest; Ken Brook, M.C.; Committee Co-chairman Lloyd Thompson and Mrs. Thompson; and Committee Co-chairman Stuart Morency and Mrs. Morency.

For any retired or serving navy personnel interested, a few tickets are still available. These can be obtained by writing Barb Morency in Deep Brook, Annapolis County; or telephone Mrs. May Thompson at 638-8074. Registration will take

Naval Personnel To Converge On Cornwallis

Sergeant's Mess on Saturday evening.

That will be followed by a buffet supper and dancing to the Marcom Band from CFB Halifax. On Sunday afternoon the traditional "De-Briefing" will be held at the same location. - a chance for delegates to do their own thing.

Sunday's music will come from the Sterotones. A buffet will be served.

Some 250 Navy men and their wives will converge on CFB Cornwallis on May 1 and 2 for the fifth annual Western Nova Scotia Naval Reunion.

Most attending will likely hail from Nova Scotia, the Halifax-Dartmouth area in particular. But others will be travelling from much more distant parts of Canada.

The weekend fun gets underway on Saturday, May 1, with registration from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

Among highlights planned for the event is the traditional "Tot Time" in the Warrant Officers and entries are expected in 1976.

The valley car dealer's association has been approached to raise funds for approximately $1000.00 in prizes.

The rally will end and prizes awarded in Digby at the end of the day.

1976 TAX RATE

by Larry Duchesne

This year's tax rate for the town of Digby has been set at $2.69, residential and $3.73, commercial. Last year's general rate was $2.92.

The rates are based on a residential taxable assessment of $8,666,730 and a commercial assessment of $7,556,080.

After the residential education grant of $90,450 is considered, there is $514,977 left to be raised by taxes. It is hoped $281,042 of this will be generated by commercial taxation, and $233,135 from the residential section.

In announcing the rates, Mayor Haliburton noted the town's assessment base didn't increase this year, although expenses did.

He said the town will have to take a second look at tax exemptions by the year's end. The effects of several exemptions recently granted are felt in this budget.

The total budget calls for expenditures of $842,965. Last year's expenditures were $768,621.

Before announcing the tax rates on Monday, the Mayor noted that a lot of the programs had been cut by one-half from the amount council would like to have spent on them.

There are two items appearing on the budget this year for the first time however, - Breastwork, $20,000; and Trees, $2,500.

He noted the money allotted for trees was not enough to do what has to be done in light of the spread of Dutch Elm Disease, but would allow some pruning, spraying and tree-culture.

The mayor expressed hope this item would be the forerunner of a tree commission.

Mayor Haliburton said council is conscious of the need for municipal planning but doesn't have the money for it. If the province wants the town to get involved in this it will have to provide funds, he noted during an afternoon session to review the budget.

He noted Council has also had to forego the hiring of a recreation director.

Outstanding taxes and the town's reserves for such should be equal, the mayor noted. But the town has not been able to budget a sufficient amount for this purpose. The benefit of doing so would be that the town would not have to borrow money so early in the year.

The budget allows for the beginnings of a "modest" town hall. An amount of $15,000 has been allowed for this purpose. If a start is not made this year, the money will be put into reserve.

Some major budget items are fixed. Council is told how much it has to spend. This leaves little room to manoeuvre.

As for police protection, the town had to give up its idea of having four constables for the town instead of the present three.

Mayor Haliburton noted that reserves are not at a satisfactory level and these could be further reduced if the town has to pay any penal expenses. The cost of maintaining a prisoner at a correctional centre is now $38 per day.

There were three budget-related motions passed during the evening session. Councillor Eileen Chipman voted against all. She wanted the budget gone over in detail.

The first motion was the budget approved while the second concerned the tax rates.

It was decided that two percent discount would be allowed on all taxes paid before July 15, with interest at the rate of 14 percent being charged on taxes paid after August 15.

Project expenditures for the coming year call for $305,300 for Recreational-Cultural Service of which the bulk at $263,300; Fiscal services - $142,673; Public Health and Welfare, $82,000;

Environmental Health Services, 11,000; Transportation services, $158,935; Protective Services, $82,657; and General Government - $60,400.

Revenue: Taxation (including 75 percent grant for residential portion of shareable cost of education) - $605,427; Land Transfer Tax-$10,244; Grants in lieu of taxes, $57,463; Sales of Services, $20,420; Other Revenue (interest on taxes, fines, etc.) $10,705; Unconditional Transfers, $8,416; Conditional Transfers, $130,290.

In other council activity, May 9 to 15 was declared National Week for the Mentally Retarded.

A letter from Thomas Amusements requesting a permit to operate its carnival at the Mall from June 22 to 27 was turned over to the fire department.

A letter was received from the Kinsmen club re tax exemption on the Kinsmen Hall. They will be advised nothing can be done at this date.

Authority was given to hire an assistant Superintendent of Streets and Water at a salary of $200 per week.

The Town Clerk and deputy clerk were authorized to hire temporary office help at the minimum wage.

Minister To Open Cyclathon

Coline Campbell, Member of Parliament for South Western Nova, announces that the Honourable Bryce Mackasey, Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs and Postmaster General will be visiting parts of South Western Nova on May 8 and 9.

In particular, Mr. Mackasey will open the Digby Mental Health Cyclathon at 9:30 a.m. on May 8. Later in the morning, Mr. Mackasey will tour areas in Digby and Annapolis Counties. In the evening, he will attend the bean supper which is put on by the South Western Nova Liberal Association and the annual meeting which will be held at the Saulnierville Parish Hall. This will be Mr. Mackasey's first visit to the constituency.

Miss Campbell will also participate in the Cyclathon, riding her 20 year old bike. Another participant will be Joe Casey, M. L. A. Mayors, wardens, school students and the town's business, professional and organization heads are expected to vie for prizes and raise proceeds for the Digby Mental Health Association.

Rory Rogers Gets Chief Scout Award

Rory Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. MacLeod Rogers, Digby, was among those who had earned their Chief Scout Awards in the past year and who were honoured on Friday evening, when certificates were presented by the Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. Clarence L. Gosse, to Pathfinder Scouts and Venturers.

The ceremony took place at King's College University, with the 69 recipients coming from all areas of the province.

The Chief Scout's Award was inaugurated in September, 1973, by the then Governor-General, Hon. Roland Mitchner. The Award reflects His Excellency's close relationship with Scouting and provides a focal point for the Scout badge system.

The Scout receiving the Chief Scout's Award has exemplified the principals of Scouting through his leadership, his voluntary service to his community and his out-door skills.

The Queen's Venturer Award is presented to the Venturer who has acquired competence and skills that will be of considerable use to himself, his company, and the community. He has in the opinion of those who know him, both the character and the ability to be of significant help to other people.

Edouard Mazier, Consul De France, Addresses Graduates

By Larry Duchesne

French Consul Edouard Mazier paid special tribute to College Ste Anne, this province's only bilingual college, during an address to graduating students here Sunday.

This, he noted, is where young students whose mother tongues are different, live and study in perfect harmony.

For the theme of his speech, Mr. Mazier used The Year 2024, the title of a book written by Jean Dutoit.

He told the young graduates they would be the senior citizens in 2024 and invited them to think seriously about the society they will have, and the responsibility to create for themselves. He told them to pause for a deep reflection on the virtues and values they have been taught.

The consul congratulated the students for having studied the two official languages of Canada. There is a bright future for graduates who master both the French and English languages, he said, especially since there are 231 million French-speaking people on five continents.

La Fanfare Regionale de Clare, under the direction of Maurice LeBlanc, started the afternoon off treating students, their families and visitors to several musical selections. The presentation of certificates and awards followed.

This year's winner of the Governor General's medal was Deborah Spurr of Middleton, Annapolis County. This medal is awarded annually to the student maintaining the best general average at the Baccalaureate level. Deborah also won the Senator Theriault trophy, awarded annually to the student contributing most to life at the college.

Louise Comeau of Halifax received the Judge V.J. Poitier Scholarship of $1,000. The farewell address on behalf of the students was given by Deborah Spurr. This was followed by a brief address by College Ste Anne President Louis R. Comeau.

"I believe we are the college of the future," Mr. Comeau said. He looked to future years of increasing enrolment and reviewed recent accomplishments at the college.

Desire Boudreau was the final speaker. He congratulated the students and stated his belief that the program here offers the opportunity for every student to become bilingual and learn to adapt to new situations.

Graduates at the Baccalaureate level were Arden Bell of Bear River; David Bishara of Yarmouth; Yvette Blanchard of Charlottetown; Dale Boudreau of Concession; Adrienne Comeau of Meteghan River; Lorraine Doucet of Little Brook; Dorothy Joyce of Canning; Laurent Landry of Belleville; Richard Landry of Petit de Grat; Wayne LeBlanc of Tusket; Michael Lutz of Digby; Lynn MacFarlane of Williams Point; Marriette Saulnier of Little Brook; Deborah Spurr of Middleton; Paul Surette of Lower Eel Brook; Pamela Theriault of St. Bernard; Claudette Tufts of Saulnierville; and Elizabeth Wilson of Charlottetown.

Graduates At Tideview Terrace

Seven nursing assistants and one orderly graduated at Tideview Terrace on Thursday evening at a special occasion held at the Home. Russell Stonehouse, administrator presided; Warden Wilfred Swift, chairman of the Board of Directors, presented the certificates and Mrs. Eleanor Rice, superintendent of Nurses presented the pins. Front row is Mrs. Verna George, valedictorian and also Mrs. Sheila Porter, who made the highest average, 96, on exams. Second row are Iris Hudson, Mispah MacInnis, Erma Peck, Marjorie Taylor, Helena Winchester, Timothy Young, orderly and Mrs. Rice. Left rear are Mr. Swift and Mr. Stonehouse.

We are not here to heal patients so that they may return to jobs or responsibilities but to make every day a good day and a meaningful day for them. This is the essence of a happy life. These were remarks made by Mrs. Eleanor Rice, Superintendent of Nursing, in her address to the graduating nursing assistants and orderly at Tideview Terrace on Thursday evening. Mrs. Rice told her class that a good geriatric nurse requires understanding of the patient, must have hopefulness, respect and a sense of humor. It is the mental attitude and the way geriatrics are helped to accept their limitations which is important, she continued.

Mrs. Rice referred to care of the aged having been in their own homes in earlier years and also that life expectancy has been pushed ahead by 20 years making homes for special care a necessary part of the entire health plan. It is a privilege Mrs. Rice said to make these homes, especially Tideview Terrace for them, "a home away from home." When guests come to Tideview, she remarked, we (staff) become their family. Geriatric Nursing, she said, is rewarding and challenging but often heartbreaking.

The graduation exercises were presided over by Russell Stonehouse, administrator, who in his opening remarks and congratulatory message to the graduates reminded the guests that the students' success didn't just happen but the time and effort put into the training has made it all worthwhile. The Aide Training Programme was given which will improve service of those involved in health care and become key persons on the nursing staff.

The administrator further said that the type of service given at homes for special care did not just happen. Tideview Terrace, he said, has become a well accepted part of the total Health Care Service offered locally but a lot of planning, set backs and continual uphill battles had to be fought by municipal bodies involved before the doors of Tideview opened in 1973. The problems, however, he said, didn't just disappear by opening. Problems continue in operation and the Board of Management keeps striving to improve liaison with the government.

Mr. Stonehouse went on to say that a Home such as Tideview can only be judged by the care given. Staff must be willing to be an adult care institutional worker and work in a setting that is not always the easiest. Tideview is continually being assessed by the Board of Management, he said, by the provincial government and by the families of the patients and guests under care but he said he is never afraid of any

Appointments

David M. Evans

Hon. Maurice R. Delary, Minister of Tourism, today announced appointments of Victor N. Bradshaw as Manager, the Pines Resort Hotel, Digby, N. S., and David M. Evans as Manager, Liscombe Lodge, Liscombe Mills, N. S.

The appointments are now effective.

The Pines and Liscombe Lodge are operated by the Nova Scotia Department of Tourism.

Mr. Bradshaw succeeds Roy J. Forhan who joined the Department of Public Works in an executive capacity.

Mr. Bradshaw joined the Department of Tourism at Halifax in 1974. He has worked in supervisory positions with the hotel and hospitality industries in England, France, and Italy.

In Canada, he was formerly employed in hotels at Montreal and Mont Gabriel, Quebec, and St. John's, Newfoundland.

He holds diplomas of the

Victor W. Bradshaw

American Hotel and Motel Association and Westminster Hotel School, London, England. He is a graduate of Holiday Inn University, Olive Branch, Mississippi. In 1973, Mr. Bradshaw received one of Top 100 Food Beverage Director Awards of the worldwide Holiday Inn system.

He is a member of the Innkeepers Guild of Nova Scotia.

Mr. Evans joined the Department of Tourism in 1969 and worked for several years in management capacities at the Pines. He was formerly with Canadian National hotels in Ottawa, Halifax and St. John's, Newfoundland. From 1961 to 1963 he was employed with the Princeton Inn, Princeton, New Jersey.

He is a graduate of St. Bonaventure's College in St. John's.

Mr. Evans is a member of the Innkeepers Guild of Nova Scotia.

Natal Day A Weekend Event

Digby Natal Day will become a weekend event this year beginning on Friday, July 23, and winding up on Sunday, July 25.

That decision was made at Thursday night's meeting of the Digby Natal Day Committee.

The executive for the planning group has also been selected. This consists of Pat Kynock, chairman; Stan Perry, vice-chairman; Gloria Webb, secretary; and Rae McCleave, treasurer.

Various events are already in the planning stages, although nothing has been finalized.

A Miss Natal Day Dance is being planned for Friday night at which the successful princess will be crowned.

On Saturday, some of the customary events will be held such as fire truck rides for the kiddies, a children parade, soap-box derby, and probably a bicycle parade.

Other events being planned for Saturday include the Grand Street Parade, one or two baseball games, and booths at the mall.

It is hoped to have a church service along with the memorial service this year, and a concert later in the afternoon. Participation of various organizations in the community is anticipated.

Other events being planned include boat races, a beer garden, Citizen of the Year Ceremony, and probably and once on Saturday night.

Club Chairman, Mrs. Pat Kynock, feels the change to a weekend event will bring more outside people into the town, and thus be more profitable for the committee and businesses.

The Sandy Cove Fire Department has offered to participate in this year's event.

Red Shield Appeal

The Red Shield Appeal conducted throughout Canada by the Salvation Army is now on. Here in Digby County Envoy Peter Muise, campaign director, has started the drive, which continues throughout May. It is the one time of the year that the Salvation Army makes an appeal to the public other than at Christmas when the ringing kettles can be found on street corners or in shop doorways.

Envoy Muise is soliciting your donations and while they are not setting their goals in 1976 any higher than in 1975, it must be realized that Salvation Army expenses have felt the sting of inflation like everything else. Donors might give this consideration.

Why is the Red Shield worthy of your contribution? Simply because the Salvation Army in Christian mercy and care carries on a tremendous work. It was just last week that Envoy Muise gave us the figure of $2549.65 spent on welfare at the Digby Salvation Army from September 1974 to April 1976. There are other calls for their help too, so Envoy Muise puts much thought into where the money is placed. However, any legitimate need is met whenever possible.

The Salvation Army has long been known for its special care. The elderly, the destitute, the lonely have been given comfort and care by the Salvation Army. The down trodden, prisoners and inhabitants of skid row have been the concern of the Salvation Army. They have in many cases found a better way of life with the help of the Salvation Army and your donation through the Red Shield Appeal. Your privilege to share in the care of the more unfortunate has come again. Pass your contributions to L.H. Savage, treasurer, at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce; Envoy Muise; Elton Wilkins, campaign chairman or to a Red Shield Appeal Canvasser.

This Week For Mental Health

Highlight of Mental Health Week in Digby (May 1 to 7) is the cyclathon to be staged on Saturday morning with Hon. Bryce Mackesey, Postmaster General; Miss Coline Campbell, M.P.; Joseph Casey, M.L.A.; wardens, mayors, clerks and dozens of well known persons participating. The Digby function is to raise as much money as possible to carry on the Mental Health Digby program and also to make the public conscious of Mental Health and educate them in the strides which have been made toward better mental health in the communities. Added to these, Mental Health Week is making a special effort to solicit volunteer helpers. "There is a tremendous amount of work to be done in the mental health field," says the Association. "And a tremendous amount of satisfaction in helping to do it."

"As a volunteer, you can serve on the Board or on a Committee of your local mental health association. You can help professional workers in mental health clinics and hospitals. You can visit people in hospitals. You can help organize and run social activities. You can help people who have suffered mental illness make the transition back into the community. You can help plan and develop job training programs. You can help care for the elderly. Or you can become involved in the rehabilitation of children and teenagers with emotional problems." Right now you can volunteer to sponsor a cyclist for Saturday morning or you can volunteer your services in operating the cyclathon which takes place in the area between the ferry wharf and the Knights of Columbus Hall.

You are needed to fight an illness which temporarily disables one out of three and requires psychiatric treatment for one in six. Costs for mental illness amounts to more than $1.5 billion a year.

Dance Students Pass Tests

Seventy-eight students of the Frances Peters School of Dancing were successful in passing tests conducted by Miss Effie McCowan of Glasgow, Scotland, examiner for the British Association of Teachers for Dancing.

Tests were conducted for pre-bronze medal, bronze medal and silver medals in tap dancing and in bronze and silver for ballet.

Mrs. Anna Marie Comeau, who has been studying under Mrs. Peters, was accepted as an associate member and will teach in conjunction with Mrs. Peters in the Clare District.

Mrs. Peters is a member of the British Association of Teachers for Dancing and of the Canadian Dance Teachers Association.

Letters To The Editor

Opinions expressed in the Letters to the Editor are not necessarily those of this newspaper. Editor.

Dear Editor:

This letter is for the purpose of adding further comment to the remarks submitted by Mr. O'Leary to your newspaper with regard to the position of Town Clerk and also to add a few comments about the present Town Council.

I, too, am one of the rejected. However, Mr. O'Leary at least had the distinction of receiving an interview, most applicants did not. My twenty years experience in administration and my fifteen years as a resident of the area merely earned me a brief note, signed by the Deputy Town Clerk, saying, in essence, thanks but no thanks. There was no other word received, verbal or written, from either the mayor, the council members responsible for the interviews, or any other council member. I shudder to think that the deputy town clerk had any input into the decision of whom to hire!!

The mayor and council of this Town are guilty of what could almost be construed as false advertisement. There were no terms of reference mentioned, no salary range and basically no information regarding the position. Rest assured, Mr. O'Leary, that not one of the candidates had the remotest chance at the outset of getting the job of Town Clerk at any time. I suggest to you that a new man was already selected before the interviews, such as they were, began. I further suggest that the council committee merely went through the motions to appease public opinion and for no other reason. The reason Mr. Eavis was given to job, apart from the fact that he possesses excellent qualifications, was because the man they had originally approached declined the position and left them literally holding the bag. How, in the name of common sense, could one applicant be honestly accepted out of fourteen without interviewing all applicants and selecting the best man for the job. There are more things to investigate than just professional qualifications. I do not disagree with the selection of Mr. Eavis. On the contrary, I think that he is an excellent choice. Although I do not know him personally, I have friends who do and his professional background is tailor-made for the job. I do, however, strongly object to the manner in which he was selected. It is not only poor business practice, but borrowed on dishonesty and certainly ignorance.

The Town of Digby has the dubious distinction of being represented by a collection of almost total incompetents.

It is making a joke of the public image of this Town. The one exception is probably Councillor Chipman. Although she is much maligned in public and in private, I say to you, citizens of Digby, that she is at least trying to be honest and has a strong desire to advise the constituents of this Town as to what it is their right to know. I do not always agree with her opinion and her methods, but have you ever wondered why there is so much bickering between Councillor Chipman and the other members? Apart from the obvious personality clashes, could it be that the councillors are conducting town business slightly below table level at times? If the procedure followed in selecting the new Town Clerk is an example of how the council operates, then my friends, we are as sheep being led to the slaughter.

As for your editorial entitled "Downright Shame" dear editor, let me suggest that if the council members play at honest rules with the best interests of the towns' people at heart, then I am sure Councillor Chipman would be most happy to refrain from "mud slinging" at council meetings which presently appears to be required to get them off their collective butts. Your newspaper articles with reference to the in-fighting between council members is rapidly becoming an embarrassment to the citizens of this town. I am sure that the towns' people could be best served if you just print the news and let the councillors solve their own personal differences. I hardly think anyone is much interested in what councillor Chipman called councillor Ellis and vice versa at any particular meeting.

In retrospect, I feel rather fortunate that I didn't get the job as Town Clerk. I don't think I could stomach some of the present council members as a regular diet. Some of them have worked hard and served the community well, but others are strictly "out to lunch."

I wish Ken Eavis every success in his new endeavours and I am sure your twenty odd years of military background will stand you in good stead when the going gets a little rough. The hiring of you, with your credentials, is probably the only intelligent thing the council has achieved in recent times, even if it was not the original intent.

In closing, let me suggest that council members, one and all, put aside their personal differences and get on with the job you were elected to do. If you cannot, then please have the common sense to step down and do not compound the situation by standing for re-election in future.

Yours truly,

R.W. Fadelle

Dear Mrs. Wallis:

I would like to comment on the letter written by Mr. Hal Theriault which appeared in last week's paper. It was concerning the amount of work and effort by the Grade 12 Drama class for their play "The Importance of Being Earnest." It also mentioned the very obvious lack of public support.

I had the pleasure of attending this play and was not surprised at the very small turnout. This was also the case at last year's presentation, which was also very well performed. Last year's play, "The Matchmaker", also required a great deal of work and effort not only on students' parts, but also on Mr. Theriault's. As my son played one of the leading parts in "The Matchmaker", I can recall the many hours he spent in rehearsing his lines, not only at school, but also many hours at home.

I suppose many people will wonder why they bother to put on these plays considering the amount of work involved for such a small percentage of their total mark. I believe one of the reasons is that Mr. Theriault is very well liked by his students and shows a great deal of interest in them. Maybe if more of us adults would do the same our young people would be more encouraged to take part in the school's activities.

In closing, a couple of months ago a lady being interviewed on our local radio station, stated that the teachers shouldn't mind being on duty outside with the children as they only work five hours a day anyway! I hope she read Mr. Theriault's letter as I believe we have many dedicated teachers in our area.

Thank you for the space in your paper and for printing Mr. Theriault's letter which no doubt many people found very informative.

Yours truly,
(Mrs.) Barbara Ross
3rd Ave., Digby

POLICE WEEK - MAY 9-15

The Digby RCMP detachment will observe Police Week (May 9 to 15) with a breathalyzer demonstration and a welcome to any groups in the town wishing to tour their facilities on King Street.

The breathalyzer van will be available for a demonstration at the mall sometime during the week. Any groups wishing to tour the detachment should contact NCO Sgt. Barlow at the police station.

Hodge Podge

Brake failure, when the brake pedal goes right to the floor without slowing the vehicle down. Pump the brakes to restore pressure in the system. Leaving the vehicle in gear apply the hand brake and then shift to a lower gear. If these reactions fail to slow the car down look for something to side swipe, it is better than the possibility of a head on collision says the Dominion Automobile Association Safety Director.

-This is one of the weeks among weeks. Promoting what is good becomes the order of the day. For instance, it is Mental Health Week. The Salvation Army started its appeal the first of May and we are running into the special week for the Mentally Retarded. We'll probably tell you all about that next week. Even arthritis comes into the news columns because of that $50,000 Royal Bank of Canada award received by Miss Mary Pack of Vancouver who has given so much to better the health care for arthritic sufferers. Then, too, the V.O.N. is calling for publicity. Likely the Mental Health Cyclathon will predominate for the week. Its important personages participating will help to feature that and bring Mental Health in mind. Do we understand some school classes or clubs are having walkathons on Saturday for summer camp financing? Never a dull moment living in Digby-

-Are we right? Did we hear or read that a walkathon for mentally retarded held in Kentville last week raised some $10,000. By that, pushing a bicycle for 20 miles for mental health should get a good response. It is not too late to join the crowd.

-The Digby Couriers of last week went like hot cakes. Newstands sold out and returned for extras. One lady came to the Courier office for ten papers when she couldn't find them around town. What for? To take advantage of that coupon for Kentucky Fried Chicken throughout the month of May.

On May 14, the Movie series (ABC-TV) will televise the film Return To Earth, based on the book by Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin. The National Association of Mental Health highlights the importance of the film. An emotional dramatic presentation, RETURN TO EARTH, is filled with important, accurate messages about depression and about getting help for an emotional problem. It reinforces the reminder that anyone might, at some time in his or her life, need professional help. It is an open, honest account of one of the astronauts (often seen as almost super-human) who needed help, sought that help and is not ashamed to talk about the experience.

Simpfen Gets "Adopted"

Little Simpen, age five, of Bali, Indonesia has been "adopted" by a Digby General Hospital Group. They have joined the Foster Parents Plan of Canada. By a monthly contribution of $17, material and financial assistance to both child and family are provided, including vitamins, blankets, towels, soap, medical and dental care, guidance and counselling. Simpen is a four year old son of I Nengah Numpek and Ni Wayan Lempong of Banjar Juntal, Kubu, Karangasem. The father is a tenant farmer earning $3.00 per month and also makes sugar supports for seventy-five cents per month while the mother gets $1.25 per month for doing odd jobs. Total family income per month is $5.00.

Foster Parents Plan is currently working in eleven countries in South America, Asia and Africa. Over 60,000 children are currently being aided by individuals, groups and families in Canada, the U.S.A., Australia, and The Netherlands. It is a non-profit, non-sectarian, non-political independent organization.

assessment because of the quality of care given by the staff, their devotion to their work and to the patient. He closed with the words "To cure sometimes, to comfort often, to care always."

Graduating on Thursday evening were Verna George, Iris Hudson, Mispah MacInnis, Sheila Porter, Erma Peck, Marjorie Taylor, Helena Winchester and Timothy Young. Graduation certificates were presented by the Chairman of the Board, Warden Wilfred Swift and pins were presented by Mrs. Rice. Other members of the Board present were Deputy Mayor Philip Robertson, Councillors Eileen Chipman, Eric VanTassell, Guy VanTassell and Richard Daley. Congratulations from the nursing staff were extended by Mrs. Bonnie VanTassell who offered the advice to have compassion, courtesy, tact, gentleness and love for fellowman in geriatric nursing.

In her valedictory Mrs. George expressed appreciation to Mrs. Rice, Mr. Stonehouse and Mrs. Eunice Pearson and revealed a confidence in feeling better qualified to give patient care by their success in graduating. Presentations were made to the nursing aides by Mrs. Ethel Wade, on behalf the aides to Mrs. Pearson, to Mr. Stonehouse by Mrs. Marjorie Taylor, to Mrs. Rice by Timothy Young and to the valedictorian by Mrs. Linda Sabine.

Amidst floral table arrangements the graduating class processed to the platform and recessed before the social hour began. Before recessing Mrs. Sheila Porter, who had the highest average, 95, cut the graduation cake. All returned for refreshments.

ANNOUNCEMENT

John J. Brittain wishes to announce that he has retired from active participation in the firm of J. J. Brittain Limited and that a re-organization of the company management has resulted. The firm will be under the general management of W. Jean Brittain with Hugh D. Dickie serving as manager of the Insurance Department assisted in the office by Linda Rawding, Helen Sweeney, Donna Barr and Wanda Watkins. The Real Estate Department will be managed by Pat Wilson along with Tom Cleveland and Jean Brittain.

Although retired from active participation, Mr. Brittain, will continue to act in an advisory capacity and will be offering his experience and knowledge in meeting your appraisal needs.

The above change in no way affects the B. L. Ellis Insurance Agency which will continue to be serviced by Tom Cleveland.

VIRGINIA - In the heart of the picturesque Virginia East Lake Country, this 19 acre block of land has a good car road reaching almost to the lake front on Bailey Lake. Lightly wooded, it is ideally situated for someone seeking quiet natural beauty and solitude.

PLYMPTON - Very attractive, large farm house with 25 acres bounded by No. 1 Highway and the French Road. There is a large barn with an excellent independent water supply. This house was built for gracious family living in an era when space was not a major consideration. It has a potential for several building lots with a good view of St. Mary's Bay. Attractively priced with high ratio mortgage money available.

SMITH'S COVE - A cozy starter home in this quiet resort area just a few minutes drive from Digby has got to be a solid investment at $7500. Modern kitchen, full bath, forced air furnace and newly decorated inside. You really should take a look at this one.

DIGBY - A corner building lot near schools and all amenities in a part of town soon to be included in the town water and sewage system can be yours for just $3000.

For more information on these and many, many, more attractive properties call in at the office or contact one of our sales staff anytime.

Good Friday Service

(Mrs. Harry V. Adams)

The Interdenominational Good Friday Service was conducted by clergy and lay people from the Wesleyan, Seventh Day Adventist, United, Roman Catholic, Salvation Army, Anglican and Baptist Churches of Digby on April 16, at 7 pm.

The service was held in the Wesleyan Church with Mrs. Debbie Hapeman, Mrs. Maurine Arnold and Mrs. Doreen Robbins presiding at the piano.

Various portions of Scripture taken from both the old and new testaments were used during the service and read by Mr. A. Milner, Rev. Murray Shaw, Mrs. Vera Robertson, Rev. Isaac Butler, Envoy Peter Mulse and Quarter Master Sergeant Elton Wilkins, Father Leo Maillet, Patrick Comeau and Jack Ritcey. Rev. Ronald Stevens offered prayer.

Combined choirs of approximately 30 people participated in the service. The Wesleyan Choir sang "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross", the United Church Choir rendered "The Ballad of the Trees and The Master" and the Baptist Choir sang "He Died for Me".

The offering received totaled $71.35 and will be used for the work of the Canadian Bible Society.

Rev. Andrew Anderson, Pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, gave the message. The speaker told his audience that Jesus came into the world to be a pattern for us.

"Were You There?" and "In the Cross of Christ I Glory" were two numbers beautifully rendered by the combined choirs.

Rev. Mr. Hapeman gave the benediction.

Following the service a large number of people gathered for a time of friendship and fellowship.

Baptist Association Meets In Digby

The Annapolis-Digby Baptist Association will hold its spring session on Saturday, April 24, at the Digby United Baptist Church. The theme will be: "With Eyes Wide Open ... to the mercies of God."

The morning session begins at 9:30 a.m. with a general assembly of delegates and visitors. At 10:00 a.m., the assembly will disperse into three groups: Women's Missionary Society, Baptist Men and Baptist Youth.

The Women's Missionary Society will be in charge of the President, Mrs. Clyde Denton. Along with regular business, there will be special music, a Memorial Service and an address by Mrs. Hedley Hopkins, missionary who served in Bolivia.

The Baptist Men will be under the leadership of the Chairman, Hugh B. Willett. Guest speaker will be Emerson Carroll, Chairman of the Baptist Men of the Atlantic Provinces.

Baptist Youth will be led by Youth Representative, Joanne Frankland, and Resource Counsellor, Lic. Joe Umidi.

The afternoon session will begin at 1:30 p.m. with Moderator, Rev. Wallace H. Jordan, leading. Reports will be given by the chairmen of the Commissions of the Association. Dr. Stuart Murray, Principal, Atlantic Bible College, Moncton, N.B., will report on that institution.

At 7:00 p.m., the evening session will begin with a hymn singing and special music will be presented by the Youth. The address will be given by Dr. Stuart Murray. A RALLY SERVICE will be held on Sunday evening, 7:30 p.m., at the Bridgetown Regional High School. This service will feature special music by "The Lightshine Singers" of Middleton, the Bridgetown Quartet and a Mass Choir of Association Churches plus a Sing-Song under the leadership of Dr. G. P. Allen, of Bridgetown. Guest speaker will be Rev. C. Roden Evans, pastor of the West End Baptist Church, Halifax. Mr. Evans' message will be "Give Me A Vision - With Eyes Wide Open". The public is cordially invited to attend this Rally Service.

Induction Speaker At Barton Baptist

The Rev. Bill McLeod of Saskatoon will be the guest speaker at the Induction Service for Rev. Ronald Cunningham at the Barton United Baptist Church, Tuesday, May 11, at 8:00 p.m. Rev. McLeod was pastor of the Ebenezzer Baptist Church in Saskatoon when what has become known as the Western Revival began in his church in 1972. Since then several books have been written on the marvelous spiritual awakening that has followed. The Rev. McLeod will leave here and fly to Argentina for Revival Services there.

Tuesday evening, Jean Marshall will be guest soloist.

However, he will be speaking at the New Life Crusade Services in the Barton Church May 11 to 16 at 8:00 p.m. These services are of an Interdenominational nature and all are invited to attend.

Bay View Red Cross

By Canvass

The Red Cross Canvass in the Bay View Area, has been recently completed.

The Canvassers for the 1976 campaign here were Ruth Bremner, Valerie Bremner and Bernice Emerson.

The amount of $98.00 was realized. This sum exceeds the one received in Bay View last year but more interesting to note that this 1976 Canvass in Bay View has been reported the most successful ever for this area.

Accident Claims Life

Emile Pierre Deveau, 30, of Beaver River, Digby County, died on Friday evening as the result of a single-car accident in St. Alphonse early Friday morning.

A passenger in the Deveau vehicle, Donald Trahan of Mavillette, received broken bones in the mishap.

The accident is still under investigation. No decision has been made on an inquest.

ELMER JARVIS
Elmer Jarvis, 83, of Weymouth Falls, passed away at his residence on Monday.

Born in Weymouth Falls, he was a son of the late Samuel and Sarah (Falls) Jarvis.

Surviving are one son: Gifford of Weymouth Falls, two daughters, Lil' (Mrs. Fred Johnson) and Evelyn both of Weymouth Falls, eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The remains are resting at Weymouth Funeral Home. Funeral service will be held on Thursday at 2:30 p.m. from St. Mathews Church with Rev. Isaac Butler.

Interment in Church Cemetery.

MRS. ROLAND KENNEY

Mrs. Roland Kenney, 86, of Ashmore, passed away at the Digby General Hospital on Thursday.

REV. J. EARLE DELONG

Rev. J. Earle DeLong, 70, was buried in Havelock, N.B., cemetery following service in Union Street Baptist Church, Rev. Roger H. Prentice officiating.

Rev. DeLong graduated from Acadia University and served as minister at a number of churches in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia as well as in Winnipeg. He was at one time minister at the Digby United Baptist.

Following his service in Springhill during the mine disasters of 1956 and 1958, Rev. DeLong had given interim service to many congregations in the Atlantic provinces and Quebec. He last served as interim minister of West End Baptist Church, Halifax, in 1975.

Rev. DeLong held many offices in the United Baptist Convention of the Atlantic Provinces, serving on many boards and committees and as vice-president of the convention in 1951-51.

Surviving besides his wife, Winnifred, are a son, John, Saint John; four brothers, Robert, Moncton; Kenneth, Kelowna, B.C.; Verner, Meadow Lake, Sask.; Burton, Havelock; a sister, Flora, Woodstock, N.B.

ERNEST H. SABEAN

Ernest Hadden Sabean, 79, of 409 Cedar St. Hanover, Mass., passed away on April 20th, 1976 at the Del Manor Nursing Home in Rockland, Mass., after a long illness.

Born in New Tuskett, N.S., he was the oldest son of the late Charles Franklin and Alice Matilda (DeLong) Sabean. He had lived many years in Waltham, Mass., moving to Hanover, Mass., in 1950.

He was an employee for many years at Rhodes Bros., in Boston, later an employee of the former Phillips Box Co. of Hanover, before retiring 14 years ago. He served in the Canadian Army during the first World War. He had been a member of Tremont Baptist Church for over 50 years.

His wife Mildred A. (Doty) Sabean predeceased him in 1960.

He is survived by two brothers, Dwight L. Sabean of Yarmouth and Kenneth V. Sabean of New Tuskett; and two sisters, Mrs. Helen A. Ford of New Tuskett and Mrs. Bessie M. Thornton of Hanover, Mass., also several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held on Friday, April 23rd at 11 a.m. in the William R. Miller Funeral Chapel, 27 Spruce Street, Waltham, Mass., with burial in Mount Feake Cemetery, Waltham, Mass.

Farmers Rally For Chisholm Fencing Bee

The days of neighbourly co-operation are long from finished in this area of Nova Scotia. This fact was aptly pointed out in Saturday's Fencing Bee here.

Over 50 farmers, coming from an area bounded by Annapolis Royal and Concession, Digby County, pooled their resources to erect five miles of fencing for Chipman Chisholm, a well-known farmer who hasn't had life easy lately.

Chipman entered hospital shortly after Christmas. An amputation has left him unable to work. About 75 head of cattle were waiting to be put to pasture, but most of the land had no fencing. To make matters worse, his hay supply was dwindling.

So one night last week, area farmers got together to plan for a Fencing Bee in what happens to be a very busy time of year for any farmer.

There was plenty of work to be done, and as it turned out, plenty of hands to make the burden lighter.

Participants brought along the necessary tools and equipment.

Lloyd MacNeil of Marshalltown supplied a trailer; Glendon Robbins of Smiths Cove brought a tractor and trailer; Wayne Comeau of Brighton came with a tractor and post-hole digger; others brought power saws, wire stretchers, hammers, etc.

Workers found there was little old fencing to start with. A lot of it had been destroyed by the Groundhog Day storm on February 2.

"It doesn't happen very often," Digby County Ag. Rep. Bruce Gilliat said of the Fencing Bee. "Everybody and their dog was there."

Mr. Gilliat felt the success of the effort proves agriculture is going ahead in this area and farmers are working together.

Chipman is chairman of the St. Mary's Bay Marshland Association and a former president of the Digby County Federation of Agriculture. He is expected to be laid up for another three months. Anyone wishing to help out in the meantime can contact his wife, Elizabeth.

Work Leader for Saturday's Bee was Cameron Johnson of Bear River.

Vidito had as their guests over the Easter Vacation their daughters, Mrs. Susan Jefferson with children Shawn and Andrea of Dartmouth, also Mrs. Wayne McFarlane with children, Kevin and Jill of Lower Sackville.

Congratulations to Mrs. C. Balcomb on winning one of the jackpots at Bingo Thursday evening at the Royal Canadian Legion.

The Society of Friends Club met on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Chester Brinton. After the business meeting the members enjoyed a musical evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jefferson returned home on Tuesday after spending a month visiting relatives and friends in British Columbia and Alberta.

Rev. George R. Bell has been a frequent visitor in Kentville the past two weeks where he visited his wife who is a patient in the Miller Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Brinton spent the weekend in New Minas visiting their daughter, Mrs. Ronald Wright, Mr. Wright and family. They visited with Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Delbert Wagner and family on the passing of her cousin, Russell Keddy, at the Miller Hospital, Kentville on Thursday April 29.

A Bridal Shower was held in the Bear River East Church Vestry in honor of Maria Reece on Saturday night. Mrs. Bernard Taylor and Mrs. David Hasson assisted in opening the gifts. Many lovely and useful gifts were received. A delicious lunch was served at close of evening.

Gail Baxter, Spryfield, spent several days last week with her mother Mrs. Levia Baxter and Wayne. She was also a dinner guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Wagner on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hasson, Dartmouth, Mr. and Mrs. Ian Adams and girls, Hubbards, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Reece.

Wedding

HASSON-REECE

On April 10 at 2:30 p.m., a lovely spring wedding took place at the Bear River East Baptist Church when Pamela Rosemary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Reece, became the bride of William David, eldest son of Mrs. William Hasson and the late Mr. Hasson of New Castle, England. Rev. Paul Legg officiated at the single ring ceremony. Mrs. Cleveland Dukeshire was organist with Mrs. Bernard Morine singing "We Have Only Just Begun."

The Church was beautifully decorated with spring flowers. The guests pews were marked with pink and white bows and blue ribbons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in a floor length gown of white crepe under sheer nylon with tiny white pearls covering the yoke of the long sleeved dress. Her veil and matching train was held in place by a white cap with seed pearls and petals. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations with Lily of the Valley.

Debbie Riley, Dartmouth, close friend of the bride was Maid of Honor. She wore a floor length gown of peach polyester knit with a blege picture hat and carried a bouquet of daisies and white ribbons. Bridesmaids were sisters of the bride. They were identically gowned in floor length gowns of turquoise polyester knit with beige picture hats and carried bouquets of daisies and yellow ribbons.

Flower girl was Michelle Adams, niece of the bride. She wore a floor length gown of peach polyester knit and carried a basket of daisies and white ribbon. Ring bearer was Tony Freeman, friend of the bride. He was dressed in black pants and white jacket with black velvet collar and matching bow tie.

Best man was Ian Adams, Hubbards, brother-in-law of the bride. Ushers were Darrell Taylor, Baddeck, Cape Breton, and Richard White, Dartmouth, friends of the bride and groom.

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother chose a floor length gown of green knit with matching fur trim and white accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother chose a navy suit with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Clementsvale Church hall. The hall was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers. The bride's table held a beautiful 3-tier wedding cake. The bride and groom served their own cake.

Mrs. Ed Haley, friend of the bride, and Mrs. Henry Payne, cousin of the bride, poured the tea. Serving the bride's table were Mrs. Bernard Taylor, Nancy Riley, and Mrs. Robert Wagner, friends of the bride. Serving the punch were Donna Riley and Wendy Marshall. Margaret Riley was in charge of the guest book.

The happy couple spent their honeymoon touring the South Shore before returning to Dartmouth where they are both employed.

April 30th at the same home. A number from here attended the Annapolis-Digby County Baptist Rally, at the Bridgetown Regional High School, Sunday evening April 25th.

Mr. and Mrs. William Forbes Sr. of Yarmouth and Mrs. Marguerite Irwin, of Jordan Bay, spent, Sunday, April 25th with Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Durling.

Mrs. Douglas Uhlman and daughter Corinne visited Mrs. Herbert Riley and Mrs. Joan Acker Bear River East, on a recent Sunday.

Service Has India Theme

by Mrs. Harry V. Adams

The service in the Wesleyan Church on Easter Sunday night was under the leadership of the Young Missionary Workers Band director, Mrs. Allan Potter.

Mrs. Potter spoke on India telling the congregation that India was about one third the size of the U. S. A. and had a dense population with about six times as many people residing there. They were also told gasoline was now $3.00 a gallon and because of this some of the missionary workers were using other means of travel.

About 20 children from the YMWB were dressed like the boys and girls of India. One of the girls participating in the service was attired in a gray dress with a small flower pattern which had been made in India and given to her for the occasion. Tanya Trimmer presided at the piano and Nancy Riley assisted the children in the singing of the various songs used during the service. "Jesus Loves Me" was sung in English as well as in a language native to the people of India.

The offering received will be used to send a food package to India and to purchase reading course books.

A food table on display at the back of the church showed some of the food packages donated by the children. The same table displayed a linen dresser cover made in India.

The congregation enjoyed a trip to Nepal, India, by means of slides shown by David Long.

14 Search And Rescue Certificates Issued

Fourteen members of the Digby Ground Search and Rescue team received their graduating certificates at the fire hall on April 21.

The certificates were presented after several classes in map and compass work, instruction in basic search techniques, ground search and rescue practices, etc.

The presentations were made by Tom Allen, Western Zone Commander of EMO; Guy VanTassel, the town's Fire Committee Chairman; and Helen McNeil, municipal councillor.

In their new capacity the graduates will be working closely with the RCMP and the Department of Lands and Forests. They will be on 24-hour standby in case their assistance is required. The fire department is headquarters for the team. Officers of the group are Mason Vantassel, President; David VanTassel, vice-president; Madeline McWhinnie, secretary; Budd Barr, treasurer; Lloyd Jefferson, searchmaster; and Budd Barr, alternate searchmaster.

Instructors for the course were Don Brown, Supervisor of Forest Resources; Burton Green, technician, Forest Resources; and Thomas Barlow, NCO Digby RCMP.

Head Table at the graduating dinner included Helen McNeil, Tom Allen, Don Brown, Guy VanTassel and EMO officer John Gray.

Anyone interested in getting involved with the group should contact Mason Vantassel.

Easter Season Services At Deep Brook Baptist

Services on the Deep Brook United Baptist Pastorate during the observance of Passion week were held in all three churches.

On Sunday, April 11, the Clementsport Church service was taped for broadcast on the Annapolis Valley network on Easter Sunday morning. Special music was presented by the Church Choir, Men's Quartet (Wallace H. Jordan, Garland Myers, Franklin Thompson, Alan Wilcox), and Ken Robinson. Miss Elizabeth Potter was organist.

Rev. Wallace H. Jordan, pastor, spoke on "The Crown Beyond the Cross" with scripture taken from Mark 9:31-38.

A Good Friday service was held in the evening at the Deep Brook Church under the leadership of the pastor, assisted by Rev. Paul Legge, pastor of the Clementsvale Baptist Pastorate. Mr. Legge led over 100 in attendance from Deep Brook, Clementsport, Smith's Cove, Clementsvale and Bear River East in the singing of hymns and choruses, using his accordion for accompaniment. Testimonies were given by many during the sing-song. Special music was presented by the Deep Brook Church Choir directed by Mrs. Bernice Adams, organist, by the Deep Brook Youth Group, and Ken Robinson.

Following a meditation on the events of Good Friday presented by the pastor, Thibault and Mrs. Louise Comeau visited Mr. and Mrs. Donald Boudreau of St. Bernard.

On Easter Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Delphis Comeau visited Mr. Comeau's sister, Mrs. Hazel Comeau of Little Brook and Mr. and Mrs. James Jacquard of Concession.

Mrs. Mazouca of Jamaica is visiting her daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Robert Theriault.

Rev. Wallace H. Jordan, the congregation participated in the Observance of the Lord's Supper.

At the close of the service, a fellowship hour was held in the Vestry with the women of the Deep Brook Church providing lunch.

Saturday evening, the Pioneer Girls Club of the Pastorate presented a well-arranged program on the events of Passion Week. Each group within the Club had chosen a specific episode and portrayed it in drama, pantomime or in music.

Mrs. Shirley Burrell, Coordinator, led the program assisted by the Guides. Her son, Mike, was in charge of the lighting and Ron Harrison set up the audio equipment. Gary Selig, assisted by some of the girls, had painted a background for this program which added greatly to the dramatic presentations.

Easter Sunday, special music was presented at the services of the Clementsport and Deep Brook Churches in the morning services. Rev. Jordan spoke on "The Two-Fold Witness" with scripture from Luke 24:1-12; 36-49.

At the evening service, Smith's Cove, the Church Choir presented a special program of music, featuring the Ladies Quartet (Joanne Frankland, Alice Brinton, Linda Carty, Phyllis S. Winchester), Men and the Choir, and soloists, Rev. Wallace H. Jordan, Joanne Frankland and Phyllis S. Winchester. The Choir closed the service with the singing of "Christ Has Triumphed!"

A Baptismal Service was held on Easter Sunday afternoon at the Deep Brook Church with special music presented by the Deep Brook Church Choir and Ken Robinson, Clementsport, also the Deep Brook Youth Group. Joanne Frankland accompanied the Youth Group, and Mrs. Bernice Adams, was organist for the congregational singing and choir.

The Pastor, Rev. Wallace H. Jordan, spoke on Luke 12: 1-12 on the meaning of Baptism before officiating for the baptism of eight candidates from the Clementsport, Deep Brook and Smith's Cove Churches.

A fellowship hour was held in the Vestry following this service with lunch served by the ladies of the church.

New Move To Conserve Fish Stock Contemplated

Federal Fishery officials are contemplating increasing and standardizing the net mesh size for East Coast draggers operating with Otter Trawl for groundfish. They say the move is being seriously considered to set the mesh size at 4 1/2 inches, regardless of material used, as a further move to conserve dwindling stocks of certain species, namely haddock, cod and flounder. These senior officials say consideration of this decision has been prompted by strong representation made to the department by various fishermen's organizations throughout the Atlantic region, provincial governments, fishing agencies and individuals engaged in the commercial fishery.

They point out that such an increase in mesh size for Canadian licenced draggers will allow escapement of a greater number of various immature species for ultimate utilization for food since a large percentage is now processed as fish meal.

Enactment of such a regulation to increase the mesh size for Canadian draggers, they add, would not generally apply to off-shore vessels, the majority which fish under a by-catch basis of 5,000 pounds or 10 per cent of catch, but would apply to those inshore vessels who claim exemptions under the above rules but who in reality conduct a directed fishery for those mentioned species.

Implementation Of Lobster Policy Delayed

OTTAWA-The Minister of State for Fisheries, Roméo LeBlanc, said today that the implementation of the policy concerning the exclusion of moonlighters in the lobster fishery in the Maritime provinces has been delayed for those areas where a spring and summer fishery takes place.

The decision means that all holders of licences who received letters questioning their status in the fishery and those who were refused licences, will be able to engage in normal operations for this season.

Mr. LeBlanc recognized the work and effort of the local advisory committees and said that he had arrived at this decision because of the unavoidable delays brought about by the time required to respond fully, fairly and justly to the final process of appeal to the Minister.

The Minister said that because of the several hundred appeals requiring his attention and his desire to ensure that each appellant receives a fair and just review of his case, he has decided to delay the implementation of the policy for districts where spring and summer fishery is carried out.

The decision means that all holders of licences who received letters questioning their status in the fishery will be able to engage in normal operations for this season.

Mr. LeBlanc emphasized that the policy of limiting lobster fisheries to those persons who do not have full time employment outside the fishery remains unchanged and the prohibition of transfers under review remain in effect.

This announcement applies to the Maritime region only. In the case of Newfoundland, where licence limitation went into effect for the first time this year, the review of cases is continuing and an announcement will be made at an early date.

Results of the contest will be announced in the Press early in May. Winners cheques will be mailed to School Principals about May 10.

Nautical Institute

Students at the Nova Scotia Nautical Institute, on the historic Halifax waterfront, now can meet and solve dangerous and sophisticated navigation problems without fear of running their vessel aground.

With a recently-installed $250,000 custom-built Digital Marine Radar Simulator, prospective officers learn an "on the bridge" situation within the confines of the Institute.

"Safety of our own and other ships at sea is always the foremost thought in the minds of ships' officers," says Capt. John Samson, the Institute's principal and a master mariner himself. "Constant practice and thought are required to prevent situations which could hazard the ship, its company and cargo."

The radar simulator combines the capabilities of a digital computer and marine radar to simulate actual traffic and navigational problems which may arise both on the high seas and entering port. The simulator can be programmed to create situations involving coastal vessels of 500 tons to supertankers of 200,000 tons and everything in between. The trainer features four booths where students operate in pairs as they would as master and navigator on the bridge. Each student team is provided with a radar plan position indicator on which can be displayed a wide variety of navigational conditions involving as many as six other ships, coastlines, hazards both man-made and natural, and radar beacons.

The students are in control of their "ship's" course and speed and they can respond to an instructor manning a master console. The instructor can introduce moving target ships approaching on collision courses, coastlines and various radar video effects.

The entire exercise may be pre-programmed through the digital computer, leaving the instructor free to evaluate the performance of each student and give on-the-spot advice.

J. W. E. Mingo, Chairman of the Halifax-Dartmouth Port Commission commended the new simulator as a large plus for development of marine safety.

The majority of the students are sea-going officers who are preparing themselves for various certificates of competency required for promotion by the Ministry of Transport. A 12-week new entry seaman course is also provided for students who have not been to sea. Enrolment in the various courses varies, according to the season, from 125 to 175.

Students enrolled in a two-year post-secondary school course in mechanical engineering at the Nova Scotia Institute of Technology may obtain paid sea service during the summer break and write examinations upon graduation to qualify as Junior Engineering Officers.

"A student can proceed from able seaman to master, or from oiler to Chief Engineer in less than 10 years, including sea time," Captain Samson said. "Salaries range from $20,000 to $40,000 and employment is readily available at home or abroad."

Located due west of George's Island, the Institute's classrooms in Halifax ocean Terminals at Pier 21, offer a close-up view of all vessels entering and leaving Halifax Harbour.

"A marine career is no longer necessarily a lifetime spent at sea," Captain Samson said. Although sea service is necessary for qualification, modern working conditions provide for liberal shore time.

"There are many shore job opportunities as well for qualified marine officers in shipping companies, inspection services, shipbuilding and supply industries."

The Nova Scotia Nautical Institute, stems from the Nova Scotia Marine Navigation School founded by the Canadian Government in 1872. In 1951, the navigation school was placed under the direction of the Nova Scotia Department of Education and it was amalgamated with the Nova Scotia Marine Engineering School in 1974 to form the present Institute.

Business Management Seminar At Digby

A business management seminar primarily for people interested in small business will be held in Digby, N. S., at the Fundy Restaurant on May 18, 1976, at 8:30 a.m. Arranged by the Management Services Department of the Federal Business Development Bank, in co-operation with Board of Trade, the seminar will be one of several hundred conducted by the Bank in smaller cities and town across Canada.

Some 25 to 30 people interested in business are expected to attend the seminar. They will be using the case study method to examine a small business, its PERSONNEL AD-MINISTRATION, MANAGEMENT OF HUMAN RESOURCES, COST CONTROLS, MANAGEMENT CONTROLS AND FINANCIAL STATEMENTS.

The Bank's Management Services has three main spheres of activity: Management Training, Management Counselling and an Information Service.

The Information Service provides details of approximately 100 Federal Government assistance programs to business. There is also a pamphlet series entitled "Minding Your Own Business" which now contains 14 pamphlets on various subjects. The Small Business News is issued quarterly.

The Management Counselling provided by the Bank is done mainly by retired executives and concentrates on solving the problems of small business which cannot afford to employ experts on a full-time basis. This service is provided at a nominal daily rate.

The Management Training program, as well as providing seminars on various subjects of interest to business people, also provides management courses to provincial educational institutions for the owners and managers of small businesses.

New Advertising Manager At Digby Courier

Irene Efford of Clementsport has taken over as advertising manager of the Digby Courier, replacing Mrs. Doris Brown who withdrew her services at the end of April.

Irene is not new to the advertising business and claims to like the advertising business, especially the sales aspect which allows her to meet the public.

She "definitely" believes it pays to advertise. "That's why I like selling advertising because I think I'm selling what the people need."

"Everyone advertises in some way or other," she says whether they say they believe in it or not. Even the hard-liner advertises with a sign over his shop, sponsors a little-league ball team, or uses some other means of promotion.

Irene has lived in Clementsport for the past six years.

She and her husband, Fred, have three children, one dog, two cats, four rabbits, six ducks and two pigeons (the population of various family members varies on occasion).

The best time to contact Irene on Courier business is from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays.

Deep Brook Man Honored By University

The President of the University of King's College, Dr. J. Graham Morgan, has announced the recipients of honorary degrees to be awarded at the University's Encaenia exercises May 12.

They are Dr. R. W. Begg, President of the University of Saskatchewan, and Dr. A. D. Pickett, an internationally-known entomologist living at Deep Brook.

Dr. Pickett was born at Lower Kars, King's County, New Brunswick. He graduated from the Ontario Agricultural College with a BSc. degree in Agriculture in 1929, and received his MSc. degree from McGill University in 1936. His thesis work on the apple maggot was a major contribution to the knowledge of the taxonomy and biology of this complex species.

Dr. Pickett was appointed the first Provincial Agricultural Representative for King's County, N. S., in 1928. From 1933 to 1937 he was head of the biology and horticulture section of the Nova Scotia Agriculture College, where he taught zoology and genetics. He spent many summers directing the extension program on pest control in the Annapolis Valley, and from 1950 to 1962 led the entomological research program at the Dominion Experimental Farm, in Kentville.

Dr. Pickett was a pioneer in recognizing and speaking out against the harmfulness and ineffectiveness of pesticides. He is credited with saving the Nova Scotia honey industry by eliminating sprays at blossom time.

An honorary Doctor of Science degree was conferred on him by McGill University in 1959, and in 1965 the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada awarded him its Gold Medal for distinguished work in the pure and applied sciences.

Following his retirement from the Department of Agriculture in 1965, Dr. Pickett organized and headed the International Capsid Research Team at the Cocoa Research Institute at Akim, Ghana. After two years in Ghana, he returned to his farm at Deep Brook, Annapolis County, where he now lives.

A native of New Brunswick, Dr. Begg received his early education at schools in Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia. He graduated from the University of King's College with a BSc. degree in 1936, and received his MSc. and MD degrees from Dalhousie. After active service in the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, Dr. Begg attended the University of Oxford and obtained the DPhil. degree for research in biochemistry.

Returning to Canada, Dr. Begg was appointed assistant professor of biochemistry at Dalhousie. In 1948 he became research associate professor of biochemistry and a Fellow of the National Cancer Institute of Canada.

At one time an honorary physician to the Queen, Dr. Begg was named a Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians of Canada in 1965. He was recently appointed an officer of the Order of Canada.

Navy Reunion At CFB Cornwallis

CFB CORNWALLIS: Some 230 ex and serving navy personnel gathered here to renew old acquaintances and have a merry time over the weekend. The occasion was the 5th Annual Western Nova Scotia Naval Reunion.

Highlights of activities was the "lot time" on Saturday, followed by a benefit and dancing; and the Debriefing on Sunday.

Several prizes were awarded, and organizational workers acknowledged during Saturday evening's buffet at the W. O. and Sgt's Mess.

Prizes included a white ensign which went to Ralph Watson of Scarborough, Ontario, for coming the farthest for his first reunion; a weekend at the Dresden Arms in Halifax won by Bob Coe of Halifax for being first to register at the desk; and a weekend at the Holiday Inn in Dartmouth which went to Joe Doucette of Dartmouth (door Prize). Prizes were also awarded for each of four sets of spot dances.

At the end of the prize presentations, Base Commander Capt. (N) T. E. Connors was presented with an antique quadrant by Stuart Morency, committee co-chairman. The quadrant originally belonged to Capt. Alonzo Merritt of Clementsport. Mrs. Connors was presented with an oil lamp.

Capt. Connors will be retiring this August. During a brief address, he noted he would be settling in Granville Ferry.

After the De-Briefing on Sunday, delegates bade sad farewells and made promises to return next year.

Head table guests on Saturday evening were Base Commander Cpt. T. E. Connors and Mrs. Connors, Fred Cruickshank, PMC of the W. O. and Sgts. Mess, and Mrs. Cruickshank; CWO Jack Marsh and guest; Ken Brook MC and Mrs. Brook; Committee co-chairman Lloyd Thomson and Mrs. Thomson; and committee co-chairman Stuart Morency and Mrs. Morency.

International Concert A Success

By Claude Pothier, Band President

Two weeks ago, the Bangor High School Concert Band from Maine was here to present an International Exchange Concert with the D. R. H. S. Concert Band. They arrived Thursday, April 22, from Yarmouth approximately 6 p.m. That evening, everybody headed out to the bowling lanes. This turned out to be a lot of fun because the Bangor students were used to bowling with big balls. Even the Bangor chaperones got in on the act.

Friday, the Bangor Band was given a tour of Annapolis Royal, Fort Anne and Port Royal. They enjoyed this because they learned a bit about Canadian history. That evening we held a dance for band members at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Saturday morning we had our rehearsal from 9 a.m. until noon. Then in the afternoon we all met at the old wharf for a tour of the fishing fleet and fish plants.

Saturday's International Concert finally came at 8 p.m. This concert was a huge success. The MPR was filled to capacity with 400-450 persons in attendance. Before the concert, Reg Hazelton presented Mr. Walker who was Bangor's director with a town plaque on behalf of the town. Joe Casey, our M. L. A., presented Mr. Walker with a Nova Scotia flag on behalf of the Provincial Government. Coline Campbell, our Member of Parliament, welcomed them to Canada and had a Nova Scotian and Canadian pin for each Bangor member.

The concert went well. Both bands played excellently. This was recognized by the audience by a standing ovation after Bangor played their half of the concert, when Digby played their half, and again after the combined bands had played their portion of the concert. After the concert, we all got together at the home of Mr. and Mrs. MacLeod Rogers until midnight.

Sunday was free time for church, and individual tours of Point Prim, Digby Neck, Bear River, etc. Sunday evening we had a bonfire at Joggin Bridge Beach which was a lot of fun for everyone.

Monday morning we were all up at 4:30 a.m. We all gathered at the MPR for the last time. On behalf of the D. R. H. S. Concert Band, I presented each of the Bangor students and chaperones with a Nova Scotia tourism envelope and a porcelain, scallop-shell shaped, ashtray with a map of Nova Scotia on it. They boarded the bus and were on their way to Yarmouth for their trip home.

On behalf of the D. R. H. S. Concert Band thanks were extended to Knights of Columbus for the use of their hall, Jones Bottling Company and to anyone who donated towards the beach party. Thanks were extended to all parents who accommodated the Bangor students for the weekend and to Mr. and Mrs. Rogers for the use of their home.

If it wasn't for the hard work of Mr. Scott and Mr. Walker and the cooperation of both the D. R. H. S. Concert Band and Bangor High Band, this exchange night would not have gone as smoothly as it did. Because of all this cooperation and help from everyone, this was our best exchange ever and it turned out to be a great success. Thank you to everyone.

Digby County History Indexed

Much of Digby County's history is unavailable to many seeking more knowledge about those whose fortitude and faith built the foundation for today's generation.

Col. Leonard H. Smith Jr. of Clearwater Florida knew his forebears were from Nova Scotia, but he had been told the records he sought "were burned in the church fire". He continued to search; even made a trip to Digby County. After that trip he acquired a copy of the reprinted edition of Isaiah Wilson's History of Digby County, Nova Scotia.

Wilson's book is considered to be the most authoritative source of Digby's History. In order to make his search easier, Colonel Smith indexed Wilson's book and published the index to make it available to others interested in the Digby Area. He has indexed the women under their maiden name and married name when known. There are more than 3000 names, and every effort has been made to follow the variations of spelling as they appear in the book. Several Nova Scotian students have told him his index has doubled the value of Wilson's book as a research tool.

Colonel Smith quickly realized there was an intermingling of English and French. It also became apparent the French records also were difficult to locate.

Spring Blood Donor Clinic

Capt James Wheelhouse, Mayor of Cornwallis, was one of many blood donors attending the clinic at the Digby fire hall. Digby on Tuesday. Cathlene McMillan of Halifax prepares to start the blood-flow.

Fortunately, he learned of some church records which had been believed lost. He has transcribed, edited and indexed, with a French-English glossary, the Catalogue of Families of St. Mary's Bay Roman Catholic Parish, Clare, Digby County, Nova Scotia. There are two volumes. One includes two separate catalogues from 1818 to 1823 and from 1823 to 1829. The other volume deals with the period between 1840 and 1844. These catalogues were originally made by Father Jean-Mande Sigogne. They helped Colonel Smith to identify several of his forebears.

At present he is transcribing and abstracting more church records which he hopes will aid others who are seeking family information.

A complete list of the books Colonel Smith has completed is available on request to him at 1660 Harmony Drive, Clearwater, Florida 33516, U.S.A.

Inspector Edwards And Warrens Participate In Education Conference

As a follow-up to a Provincial Conference on Values Education, held in P. E. I. in November, Mr. C. E. Edwards, together with two of his teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Warren, Clark Rutherford, CFB Cornwallis, presented an all-day program to a largely attended seminar held in Alberton, P. E. I., over the weekend. Seminar participants included school administrators, teachers, parents, clergy, and representatives of various P. E. I. organizations, including Home and School.

Following the key note address, delivered by Mr. Edwards, the audience heard a tape recording of the reaction of some twenty members of Mr. Edwards' own Values Education weekend program which he conducts in Bridgetown. This tape, in itself, gives convincing evidence of the importance of the program and of the methods used.

During the noon hour Values Education films were shown, other media demonstrated, and their values discussed.

Highlighting the afternoon program was a videotaped presentation of the Values Education program offered in the Clark Rutherford School, under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Warren. The film showed the use of both film and tape as discussion starters. It also showed actual discussions under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Warren, and the students themselves.

A panel, with audience participation, concluded the program, which was videotaped for use throughout P. E. I. as an aid in promoting the implementation of Values Education programs in the schools of the Province. In the year ahead, a formal Values Education program, with college credit, will be introduced in the schools of Unit 1.

As Media Education Committee Chairman with the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation, Mr. Edwards is promoting Values Education as a vital force in the Canadian classroom.

Members of the 4th Digby Cub Pack are shown getting ready to start their bottle drive on April 28. Money raised will be used to cover their stay at the Johnson's Christian Camp in South Range.

Weight Restrictions Lifted

Weight restrictions were lifted on all Nova Scotia highways effective April 28, according to Hon. J. Fraser Mooney, Minister of Highways. Earlier this month they were lifted on roads in nine counties in some central, western and southern parts of the province.

While weight restrictions were in effect, they applied to any vehicle having a single axle weight of more than 13,000 pounds. Passenger buses, including school buses, were limited to gross loads of 25,000 pounds. Tolerances on weights were not permitted while restrictions applied.

on Celebrity II if you buy before May 31st.

Here's a sweeping gesture from Hoover—buy a Celebrity II Air-Ride before May 31st, 1976 and pocket $20 in the bargain. Just look at these features:

Powermatic nozzle

If there's one thing that makes a Celebrity II famous, it's Hoover's exclusive Powermatic Nozzle. Its heart is a motor-driven agitator that beats-as-it-sweeps-as-it-cleans. With its hardened steel beater bar it can handle the toughest jobs.

Full-time edge cleaning

With Celebrity II, the suction power works right up to the nozzle edges, so you get a clean right up to the baseboards.

3-position handle

Only Hoover's handle gives you 3-position adjustment. For storage. Operating. And under furniture. It means that you can stop shopping.

Model S3071
Air-Ride Celebrity II

Toe-touch surface selector

You can adjust Celebrity II for hard surface or carpeted floors with just a touch of the toe. There's a built-in brush that bears down on bare floors. And the indicator on top where you can keep an eye on the setting.

Huge, multi-magnum bag

Inside every Celebrity II Air-Ride, there's a multi-magnum bag. A yard long. With a remarkable 780 square inches of filter area.

Add up the features and subtract $20, and see for yourself why now is the time to buy the Hoover Celebrity II Air-Ride.

More Than 200 At Baptist Association

More than 200 delegates assembled at the Digby United Baptist Church on Saturday for the Spring session of the Annapolis - Digby Association of United Baptist Churches and Moderator was Rev. Wallace Jordan.

Sessions were held morning, afternoon and evening with dinner and supper served in the church hall by the women of Digby, Hill Grove and Acaciaville Baptist.

Simultaneous sessions were held in the morning by the Women's Missionary Society, Baptist Men and Baptist Youth. The W.M.S. was led by the president, Mrs. Clyde Denton. Guest speaker was Mrs. Hedley Hopkins, Wolfville, presently home on furlough from mission fields.

Chairman of the Baptist Men's meeting was Hugh Willett and special speaker was Emerson Carroll, chairman of the Baptist Men for the Atlantic Provinces, Moncton.

Youth director was Lic. Joe Umidi of Middleton.

Morning devotion was conducted by Rev. Paul Legge, Clementsvale. Reports were received and business conducted in the afternoon.

The Association Rally was held on Saturday evening with Dr. Stuart Murray, principal of the Atlantic Baptist College Moncton, as guest preacher.

On Sunday, April 25, the Association concluded at Bridgetown Regional High School with an Association Rally at 7:30 featuring a massed choir, the Lightshine singers from Middleton. Music was also provided by the Bridgetown quartette. The message was given by Rev. C. Roden Evans, pastor of the West End Baptist Church, Halifax.

One delegation member said he signed "yes" based on improper information. He said he was told there were only two people in the area against it - which, he said, is not true.

The delegation repeated that its strong objection that any money raised by a fire-levy might be used for the recreation portion of the proposed fire building.

Coun. Richard Daley said the fire department had acted legally re the petition, and it is now a legal document.

If you check, he said, "I think you'll find the recreation portion of the building being done through grants from the provincial government...."

He said that although the department had asked for authorization to borrow up to $80,000, he was reasonably sure only $60,000 would be required for the fire department section.

Coun. Daley suggested the petition be let stand until a plebescite or additional petition is held to cancel the first.

A group of Digby Neck residents have been unsuccessful to date in having a fire-levy petition recently circulated through the Digby Neck Fire Commission area declared illegal by municipal council.

"There's nothing we can do about it," Warden Wilfred Swift told a delegation at Monday's municipal council meeting.

Following the March council session, Municipal Clerk Bill MacMillan was left to delete the name of any persons appearing on the list who were not included on the assessment roll.

He said the revision had been made but the balance in favour was still sufficient - 85 per cent.

Delegation members repeated their charges that some residents were not contacted in any way re the petition, and others didn't know there was a "no" sheet attached to it.

Esther Spruce charged that the "majority is not ruling. The majority has had no vote."

South Range West (Mrs. M. Marshall)

Mr. and Mrs. Roger LeBlanc and baby of Halifax spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Marshall motored to Clarence Sunday to help celebrate the birthday of her mother, Mrs. Carl Zwicker. Mrs. Zwicker was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall.

Sympathy is extended to the families of the late Chester Wright.

Several from this community attended the funeral of the late Chester Wright of Wolfville.

Pastor of the South Range Church of Christ is a patient in Kentville Hospital, where he will undergo surgery.

Mrs. George Lewis, Acamac, N. S., visited with Mrs. Dora Marshall over the holiday week-end. She also called on other friends and relatives in the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Marshall and Dora, Centerville, Kings Co., were Easter Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Marshall and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Marshall and family of Barton recently visited with Mrs. Dora Marshall.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Marshall visited Saturday at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Sabean, Weymouth North.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Marshall flew via air-Canada to Ontario on business. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Marshall.

Reduce Teacher Cutbacks

Appeals by local school boards to the Education Assistance Committee have resulted in fewer teacher cutbacks than previously announced by the Department of Education.

Acting Minister of Education A. M. (Sandy) Cameron announced today that approval has been given to retain 99 teachers. This effectively diminishes the province-wide reduction to 330 teachers.

Mr. Cameron said the decisions to reduce the cutbacks were based on factors including evidence of particular need caused by increased enrolment, recent establishment of new facilities, or by location in a remote area of the province.

He emphasized that the appeals had been held without delay to enable school boards to plan for the coming year. Teacher contracts expire at the end of April.

School boards which appealed to the committee are being informed immediately of the decision and can expect early written confirmation.

The Education Assistance Committee is composed of senior staff of the Department of Education, with representation from the Department of Municipal Affairs and the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities - the major bodies concerned with the administration of school programs and financing.

The committee was established in 1969 to make recommendations to the Minister of Education on educational finance and budgeting, and to consider appeals arising from ministerial decisions in this area. The recommended limitation in the number of teachers to be employed in the coming school year gave rise to an unusually large number of appeals.

"This quite modest reduction in the number of teachers in the provincial school system can be considered the result of a natural situation," Mr. Cameron added. "In 1972 there were 218,583 pupils in the schools of the province for a total of 10,351 teachers and in 1976 there are 207,069 pupils and 11,658 teachers.

"The enrolment in the past four years has decreased by 11,514 while the number of teachers has increased by 1,307.

St. Mary's Chapter Holds Musical Tea

Jacqueline, Juanita, and Joy Tidd of Little River provided some of Saturday's entertainment at the Order of the Eastern Star's Musical Tea at the I.O.O.F. Hall. They are shown here with pianist Mrs. Myrna Farnsworth, also of Little River.

A well attended and successful Musical Tea was held in the Masonic Temple on Saturday afternoon, May 1st, by St. Mary's Chapter No. 35, O.E.S.

The Worthy Matron, Mrs. Beatrice Height, welcomed the guests, after which Mrs. Maurine Arnold and Mrs. Cheryl Denton who were in charge of the Musical program, announced the program numbers. All were of excellent quality, and consisted of piano selections by Mrs. Clinton Miller of Bear River, and Mrs. Llewellyn Farnsworth of Little River, both of whom, as well as Mrs. Bailey Gidney of Sandy Cove and Mrs. Maurine Arnold of Digby, accompanied the soloists and group singers on the piano.

Soloists were Miss Margo Levy, Miss Joy Fleet, Mrs. Connie Casey, all of Digby; Mrs. Barbara Hemsley, Bear River, Little Miss Pamela Tidd, and Mrs. Cheryl Denton, both of Little River; Miss Karla Warden of Windsor, who accompanied herself on the guitar, and Mr. John Jago of Centreville, who sang unaccompanied. Group selections were sung by a Ladies' Chorus from Little River, and a trio of young sisters, Joy, Jacqueline, and Juanita

Tidd, also of Little River. Conveners of the Tea were Mrs. Owen Irving, Mrs. Kirk Whitman and Mrs. Benjamin Height. Assisting in serving and replenishing were Mrs. Vincent Raymond, Mrs. Thomas Sabean, Mrs. John Pineo, Mrs. Clyde Denton, Mrs. Chester Brinton, Miss Penny Height, Mrs. Allen Harris, Mrs. Gordon Jay and Mrs. Leroy Brooks. Mrs. J. J. Brittain and Mrs. Reginald Weir were in charge of the "White Elephant Table," and Mrs. Darcy Roope of tickets.

Bird Haven Notes

Why go wandering around the countryside birding, when you can sit at home and count fifteen different kinds in your own garden, plus fourteen red squirrels. That was the experience of friends in Smiths Cove.

A pair of Evening Grosbeaks had breakfast at Bird Haven one of the cold days last week, hope they have decided to stay. They have been nesting in N.S., the last few years.

The swallows arrived last week, but haven't seen any in my yard. Their houses are all house cleaned and ready.

Have been mayflowering several times, and found few birds in the woods. Heard one song that was not familiar but didn't see the singer.

The Woodcock are nesting now, and are so well camouflaged on their nests made of dried leaves on the ground, it is hard to see them. Once I put my hand on one before it flew.

Two Cubs arrived at the door one day and presented me with a bag of scratch grain for the birds with their love. There was an article in the paper recently with headline, "Trees for Canada," telling of the Boys Scouts and Cubs in N.S. planting trees during the first three weeks in May.

Many years ago when I was in School, Arbor Day was a special day. We studied our native trees and planted some. The maples in front of the red school and court house and on the McBride park were planted by school children. Unfortunately, some are gradually dying from the salt put on the street.

Why not replace them, Scouts? A row part way down the bank. We are losing too many of our trees.

These verses were in a third grade reader years ago, but still apply to these days.

The Planting of a Tree.

He who plants a tree, He plants love;
Tents of coolness spreading out above wayfarers, he may not live to see.
Gifts that grow are best.
Hands that bless are blest,
Plant! Life does the rest.
Heaven and earth help him who plants a tree
And his work its own reward shall be.

To Make the Payment of your Domestic Electric Account more convenient...

The Nova Scotia Power Corporation has two budget plans available which may make things a little easier for its bi-monthly domestic service customers. For instance, some customers may find it more convenient to pay a portion of their bills each month rather than pay the two month charge at one time. Others may wish to continue on the bi-monthly basis as they have in the past. Electric heat customers not already on a monthly budget plan may wish to make use of this facility.

nova scotia power corporation

- All Electric Budget Plan
This is for electric heat customers only and is based on a prearranged payment calculated on your average use over the past twelve (12) months. Application for this plan should be made between March 1st and October 31st for the coming heating season.
  - Interim Billing Plan
An interim bill for domestic customers other than electric heat. This plan is based on the issuance of an interim bill calculated on the average monthly KWH's used for the previous twelve (12) months on the existing rate structure. This plan becomes effective following payment of your current bill.
- If you wish to take advantage of the plan that is applicable to you or want more information, complete the coupon and send it to us.

Soccer Association Elects Slate

The annual meeting of the Annapolis Valley Soccer Association was held at Horton High School on Saturday, April 24, 1976. Approximately eighty soccer enthusiasts attended.

A review of the previous year's activity was outlined by retiring President, William Wagstaff of Auburn, N.S., who stated that the six-a-side soccer program, which had been followed throughout the season, had proven extremely popular. Some tournaments had attracted as many as 30 teams from all sections of the Valley.

The new Executive for the 1976-77 season, voted to office at the meeting comprise: President - Donald P. Sheehan, Woldville; Exec. Vice - Conrad McNeil, Wolfville; Secretary - David Lang, Port Williams; Treasurer - Brian Eyre, Wolfville; Area Vice Presidents - Tony Bently, Digby; John DeKoe, Middleton; Tony Defreitos, Greenwood; Alan Deacon, New Minas; Brian Harvey, Wolfville; Roger Caulfield, Avonport; Danny Silver, Canning; Bill Bartlett, Windsor. Individuals interested in representing the communities of Hantsport, Kentville, Berwick, Bridgetown and Annapolis are requested to contact any of the new executive. The soccer program to be offered this year throughout the Valley, will again principally concentrate on six-a-side soccer. This year the program will be supported by Recreation Directors in most communities, and will be arranged to accommodate minors from 6 to 16 years, plus adult unlimited age groups. It is intended to make the program appeal to males and females, adults and minors who wish to participate in healthy outdoor activity, and to keep in shape for fall and winter sports.

Registration for minors will be conducted through the schools, with registration for adults, interested in any phase of soccer, i.e., playing, officiating, coaching, administration, etc., to be held through the mail and in-person, at a number of convenient locations. The times and locations for in-person registration will be announced shortly.

Returns To China

The Westport Church of Christ has had guest speakers for two Sunday Morning services. On April 25, Dan Reese, who has graduated from Bible College in United States and is travelling to visit churches until June, spoke. He will then join his parents and return to Hong Kong, China, where he will be a missionary. His parents are missionaries who worked in China and Africa.

For his scripture he read from 1st chapter of Romans and spoke on the word "Gospel" meaning good news and likened this to evangelists who spread the good news of Christ. He says his work in China is to do just that, to go far into the country and spread the gospel to all who will listen. While here he was a guest of Mrs. Lou Bailey.

On May 2nd Philip Welch was guest speaker and chose as scripture St. Mark Ch. 5:1-20 and his topic was "Go Home and Tell". Jesus was teaching and healing on the shores of Galilee and surrounding country, he said. Watching from a distance in the country of Gadarenes was a man possessed of demons who finally came to Jesus to be healed. Jesus tells him to go home and be a missionary by telling the great things that had been done, to be a living testimony for God, who had touched him and changed his life.

In the evening Mr. Welch was guest speaker in the United Baptist Church and used as his scriptures the entire 6th chapter of Daniel and entitled his sermon "Christians in the Lion's Den". During the service Mrs. James McDormand sang "Fill My Cup, Lord."

Quitting Job Not Advantageous

Persons quitting their jobs and expecting to draw Unemployment Insurance benefits are finding themselves without funds for a lengthy period of time. As a result of recent legislative changes to the Unemployment Insurance Act, anyone leaving their employ without just cause can be disqualified for up to six weeks. Add to this the mandatory two weeks waiting period, and taking into consideration that the first cheque is not issued until the third week after the waiting period, a disqualified claimant could be without benefits for about 11 weeks, almost three months.

Delbert Doucet, Public Liaison Officer with the Unemployment Insurance Commission, said today that the legislative change is serving as a deterrent to those who think they are going to have a paid holiday when they quit their jobs.

"Prior to the changes," he said, "a large number of people left their jobs and served the three weeks disqualification period. Today they think twice before leaving a good job." The extension of the disqualification for voluntary quit was one of several changes brought about the first of the year.

Women who leave their employ temporarily because of pregnancy, are now entitled to draw Unemployment Insurance benefits for up to 15 weeks at any time between the eighth week prior to confinement and the 17th week after the child is born.

Under the former regulations, benefits were available for 15 weeks, but only between the eighth week prior to confinement and six weeks after the week of confinement. This presented a problem for those women who were able to continue to work for as long as possible prior to the birth of the child. It meant they receive benefits for a shorter period of time.

"Under the new regulations," Mr. Doucet said, "she may commence drawing her benefits the week she is confined to hospital, and this would allow a longer period of time to adjust the home environment to the new arrival."

Persons reaching age 65 and remaining in the labour force are no longer insurable under the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Mr. Doucet said that since 1971, there has been a considerable increase in both federal and provincial programs of income support for persons 65 years of age and over. However, those persons who were con-

The ladies of the U.C.W. met at the home of Mrs. George Townsend on Tuesday afternoon to sew squares for a quilt, the quilt which was finished last week found a ready sale. The Hostess served a delicious lunch at the tea hour.

Mrs. George Townsend and Selas spent Wednesday at Lockeport visiting friends.

Mrs. Catherine Sproule of Yarmouth, who has been touring the Valley visiting interesting places as an antique collector was a weekend visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Ring.

Mrs. Douglas Ring returned home on Friday after a vacation spent in Toronto, Ontario, and Vancouver, B.C.

Congratulations to Miss Kim Wright and Miss Mary Wade who won Jackpots at Bingo on Thursday evening at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall.

Reflecting To 1946

What seemed to be of much concern in the May 9, 1946, issue of The Digby Courier was that the ferries to the Islands were considered unsafe. Councillor D. B. Kenney, Westport, brought the matter before a session of the Council of the Municipality of the District of Digby. He said there was danger of losing life, cars and trucks. According to the councillor if it had not been for the prompt action of fishermen the ferries would have foundered in heavy rips.

Again Wednesday afternoon closing-time came up at Town Council by Milton Turnbull, president, on behalf of the Retail Merchants Association. Norman Wright felt the stores should be open on Wednesday afternoons in the summer for tourists who wish to make purchases. He stressed the advertising value to the town of having stores open to accommodate tourists with a three-hour wait for train or boat or a short stop when driving through.

Hants Wholesalers (Digby) Limited opened a retail business in Digby according to an advertisement. Staff consisted of Roy Carpenter, William H. Eldridge, Frank Raymond, Mrs. Eleanor Wood, Walter Wray, and Winston Marshall.

Once again in 1946, Town Council was petitioned for a new Town Hall. M. C. Denton presented a petition from Branch 20 Canadian Legion asking that a new Town Hall be built and requesting quarters be made available for the veterans. He mentioned the need of a memorial that would serve as a usable and living symbol for the sacrifice of those who did not return but also in appreciation of those who will spend their years here.

The Board of Trade, Kiwanis and Town Council each expressed interest in establishing a regional library in town. Digby's portion of the budget would be $550. To this the government would add another $550. This would pay for librarian wages and books, but the town would also have to provide accommodation.

Patrollers Given Banquet

The Safety Patrol Banquet for members of the Island School Safety Patrol was held recently in the Home Ec. Room at the school. A turkey dinner with all the "fixings" followed by ice-cream sundaes and cupcakes was served to all the Patrol, plus the Elementary teachers and the school supervisor, Mr. Keith Manzer. A number of H and S members prepared and served the dinner and another group cleared and washed dishes. Chocolate Easter Bunnies were given to these students. They were thanked by Mr. Manzer for their help this year with the various duties they have been doing, such as supervising on playground and busses, street corners, etc. Following the supper, films taken locally, were shown of the "Ground Hog Day" storm. The students were then transported to their homes and the Home and School business meeting was held. Much time was spent on discussing the teacher cut backs and the majority of parents are dissatisfied at the prospect of losing qualified teachers from the High School and the subject was raised that students will not perhaps be able to have the same quality of subject teaching as in other schools.

Other English speaking countries of the world. It is to be made available to schools, public and church libraries, as well as being promoted through book stores, newsstands and department stores.

Kaye To Have Poems In Anthology

Local poet and teacher, Mrs. Anne Kaye, has recently received international recognition for her literary skills.

It has been announced that two of her works, "Eternal Flame" and "Peggy's Cove", have been selected in Young Publication's Annual Anthology, "Yearbook of Modern Poetry-1976".

The poem "Eternal Flame" was written while Mrs. Kaye was visiting Arlington Cemetery, the grave place of the late President Kennedy, in Virginia. The other selection, "Peggy's Cove", was inspired while at this scenic fishing village in Halifax County. "It is our opinion that these poems are of exceptional literary merit and they deserve a place in the libraries of the world where they may be read and reflected upon by contemporaries as well as generations yet unborn," stated Publisher and Educator Lincoln Young, in making the announcement. The Anthology will be circulated throughout the United States, Canada and Kirk Melanson, five, is presented with a Scotiabank Savings Certificate by Patrick Fletcher, Manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia Digby branch. Kirk was one of 25 winners in the March Scotia Bank Hockey College Draw. Kirk is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Melanson of Mount Street, Digby. The certificate has a value of $70 at maturity.

Residents Appear In Court

Two Weymouth Falls residents appeared in court in Little Brook on Tuesday charged with causing a disturbance and causing mischief resulting in damage to property.

Ernest Oliver and Kevin Cromwell both pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance and not guilty to mischief.

The two will reappear on the mischief charge on May 17. The offences took place near the cenotaph in Weymouth on May 2.

Pink And Blue Shower

A surprise Pink and Blue shower was held at the home of Mrs. Dora Marshall, South Range West in honour of Mrs. Larry Marshall. Mrs. Guy Marshall was hostess and Marilyn Marshall was co-hostess.

Gifts placed on a table were many and useful. Refreshments were served at the close of an enjoyable evening.

Feeling listless? Out of sorts? Fight it! Take a walk.

Princess Digby To Be Chosen Saturday, May 15th

Marlene McCarlie

Jacqueline Journey

The arrangements for the choosing of Princess Digby for the Apple Blossom Festival are taking shape. At the moment, the three candidates of whom we have been notified are Jacqueline Journey, sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion; Francine Pothier, who is sponsored by the Kiwanis and Marleen McCarlie, sponsored by the Digby Board of Trade. If other clubs wish to sponsor candidates, they must advise the Town Hall of this intention before noon on Friday, May 14.

Jacqueline Journey, the Legion's choice, is an 18-year-old grade 12 student at D. R. H. S. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Journey, live in Digby. Her interests are varied and include swimming, sewing and traveling. Next year she plans to attend Mount Allison University to begin the bachelor of Arts Course. She works part-time at the Good Neighbour Drug Mart.

Francine Pothier, sponsored by the Kiwanis, is 20 years of age and a stenographer with the department of Social Services. She is a graduate of D. R. H. S. and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Pothier, Smith's Cove. She is a former High School band member and presently takes part in the Digby Stage Band. Her other interests include sewing, various crafts, and many sports.

Marleen McCarlie is a first year student of Physical Education at Dalhousie University and a graduate of D. R. H. S. She is nineteen years old and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent McCarlie of Digby. Marleen is sponsored by the Digby Board of Trade. Her interests are centred around sports but she also enjoys music and reading. She is employed for the summer with Digby Riteway Grocery.

The princess will be chosen Saturday, May 15. One that day, the candidates will attend a tea and dinner at the Admiral Digby Inn. The tea will begin at 4 on May 15 and is open to the public. It is hoped many will come out to see Digby's choices.

On the same evening, the girls will proceed to the lights of Columbus Hall where a dance will be held in their honour. The announcement of the judge's choice will be made during the dance. Digby's Princess will represent the area in the Annapolis Valley Blossom Festival in June.

Hospital Board Informs On Measures To Meet Inflation

In a statement made recently, the Chairman of the Digby General Hospital Board, Mr. R. MacLeod Rogers, Q. C., announced that because of the Nova Scotia government's restraint on expenditure program, the Digby General Hospital will have to get by this year on approximately $80,000 less than the amount it calculated necessary to provide the same services as it did last year.

While the Board can well understand the necessity of cutting governmental expenses in an attempt to fight inflation, said Mr. Rogers; nevertheless, the reduction in the budget of the Digby General Hospital will severely handicap the Hospital's ability to deliver the same volume of high quality health care to the Community.

After a number of meetings and after considering a number of options open to it, the Hospital Board has concluded that certain measures be taken immediately to bring the hospital expenses within the confines of the restraint or expenditure program of the government:

1) The Pediatric Wing of the Hospital will be closed and five beds on the Surgical Ward will be allocated to child pediatric patients.

2) Four beds on the Medical Ward will be closed immediately, and four more beds in the Medical Ward will be closed for the months of June, July, and August.

This means that the hospital will be operating at a 5-bed level for child patients, and at a 60-bed level for adult patients, as compared to the previous 21-bed level for child patients and 69-bed level for adult patients. Of course, during the summer four more adult beds will be cut.

3) The hospital will no longer train the Combined Laboratory and X-Ray Technicians, which it has been doing for the last number of years.

4) No relief will be supplied to any Department, except Nursing, and then only on an individual basis.

5) Reduce staff in the Housekeeping and Dietary Departments, and the Laboratory and X-Ray Departments.

6) The Speech Therapist will have to be retired.

7) One of the two Physiotherapists will have to be retired.

With these rather stringent measures, Mr. Rogers said, the Hospital will reduce its expenses by an amount approaching the $80,000 reduction required. He said, however, that more cuts may be necessary later on, if it is clear that the hospital is not operating within its new confined budget.

The Chairman of the Hospital Board wished to advise the public that the hospital would, nevertheless, and despite the restrictions, make every effort to continue its past excellent service to the community. Hopefully, the government's expenditure restraint program would end in the foreseeable future and once again the Digby General Hospital could revert to its original status as a fully equipped and manned 90-bed Community Hospital.

Police Investigate Accident

Digby RCMP are continuing their investigation into the Friday night accident in Clementsvalle which claimed the lives of two teenagers.

Mark Lyndon Clarke, 17, of Parker Mountain Road, and Daphne Darlene Hand-spiker, 16, of Princedale lost their lives in the accident.

Police report the car left the Clementsport Road Friday night and caught fire. Heat damage has prevented police from ascertaining whether the car rolled over. Two occupants of the vehicle were rescued before the flames engulfed it. Joseph Harry Clarke, 20, of Granville Ferry, and Christine May Young, 17, of Phinney's Cove were both sent to Digby General Hospital. Both have cuts and bruises and Clark suffered broken ribs.

A hospital check on Tuesday revealed that Christine Young had been released, while Joseph Clarke remained in hospital.

Police believe the car caught fire upon impact after leaving the road. Mark Clarke was driving the vehicle. A door of the car had to be pried off to remove the bodies of the deceased. The two survivors had been removed from the car when the RCMP arrived.

The Bear River Volunteer Fire Department remained on the scene for about two hours.

RCMP Constable Ken Allen said the actions of some bystanders on the scene were "heroic" in attempts to rescue occupants of the vehicle.

The accident occurred when the car failed to negotiate a curve.

Coline Pushes For Fundy Tide Announces Citizenship Day

Miss Coline Campbell, M. P. for South West Nova, Secretary to Secretary of State, spoke in Federal House at Ottawa on May 4 on the energy crisis which has arisen in the Maritime Provinces. She noted that the problem is being recognized by government through federal-provincial meetings and that Hon. Bill Gillis had spent much of his Easter recess touring Canada because of the crisis.

Miss Campbell said, "Well, we cannot arrive at a solution. I just mention that for members of the opposition. Is it unreasonable to say at this time, perhaps Nova Scotia is in trouble but the solution we obtain for Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island should help all the provinces as well as Canada? It is time for us to forget our regionalism in the light of such a problem. We as a province enjoyed having access to the cheap oil producing countries, therefore, we did not get subsidies on pipelines or on oil and gas production in the west."

Miss Campbell then went on to refer to the article "Energy by Fundy Tides" by Clark quoting, "...that the one and only area in Canada and in fact in North America where it is feasible to harness tide waters for energy purposes is in the Bay of Fundy. The world's most powerful tides are experienced in the inlets and estuaries of the Bay of Fundy. We also have the highest tides in the world, achieving up to 53 foot tides. Many locations have been indicated as ideal in the Bay of Fundy. Studies of tidal power have been going on since 1915. In 1967, the Atlantic Tidal Power Programming Board was established to deal with the study. It cost $2.5 million when it was finished in 1969. It reiterated former studies, that is, a tidal power development is technically but not economically feasible."

Miss Campbell recalled the latest study, as recommended by the Bay of Fundy Tidal Power Board, announced in November, 1974. To be known as the Bay of Fundy Tidal Power Study, it is to cost some $3 million and will again be sponsored by the federal government, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia - with the federal government putting up half the funds for the investigation. Nova Scotia, which is more affected by oil price increases than New Brunswick and is thus vitally interested in tidal power development, has been concerned for quick advancement of the study. Its purpose is to make a more in-depth study of certain areas. In my view, the Annapolis Basin or Digby, which are not being studied at this time, would probably be prime locations because there are no mud deposits as there are up higher. Mud seems to be one of the problems in establishing tidal power."

Further commenting, the member from South West Nova said, "I do not profess to be a scientist. I merely want to compare the $3 billion estimated cost with the $10 billion the federal government plans to invest in the exploration and the development of unknown areas. That is how much we shall spend in the next ten years in our search for oil and gas. Perhaps Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and other provinces should bring this matter up at some provincial conference. The $10 billion figure does not take into account the subsidized cost of oil and the need for subsidized oil in future. Actually by mid-summer this year the subsidy for the Atlantic provinces will amount to about $1 billion.

Historical Society Meets

The Smith's Cove Historical Society met in the Community Hall on Monday evening, May 10, with David Irvine, president, presiding. During the brief business meeting, the need for volunteers to assist this summer as guides at the Museum was mentioned. Those desiring to volunteer for this service were asked to contact Mrs. Cecil Raymond. There was also discussion on the need for protection of the Cenotaph area which is being trampled by youth using it as a playground.

The evening's program was opened by Harold A. Sulis drawing the attention of the over thirty persons present to the pencil sketch of Isaiah W. Wilson, author of a history of Digby County. William Snow, Jr., was the artist.

In telling about Mr. Wilson, Mr. Sulis mentioned that Isaiah Wilson had walked hundreds of miles to get material for this history, even to Halifax and Yarmouth. He spoke of Mr. Wilson's handicaps, being partially blind and deaf, Isaiah had been hit by trains twice, but no injuries sustained, during these treks around the Province. Mr. Wilson was a staunch supporter of the Sons of Temperance.

Several of those present recalled hearing of Mr. Wilson's beautiful penmanship, also of his arriving at the old Smith's Cove school to light the fires, and of his wife, Charity, who worked in homes of the area.

Displays of old photographs and other historical items were placed around the hall for relaxed viewing. Among these was the original Charter of the Sons of Temperance, the pencil sketch of Isaiah W. Wilson, album of the Winchester (Charles)-Rice-Roop families of the Joggin Bridge area; autograph book of Mary E. Cossett of 1885 with signatures of pupils she taught; "Brief History of Canada" used by Mrs. Helena Banks' grandfather in grade 6; tin plates of the William B. Snow family; old thread holder, and many more. Photo albums and photographs were on display of several families including Sulis, Smith, Thomas, Snow.

Announces Citizenship Day

A letter from the office of the Court of Canadian Citizenship under Judge V.G. Cardoza has announced that Friday, May 21 is Citizenship Day. In the letter circulated by Mrs. M. Blaxland, manager, Registration Services notes that although it is not a public holiday, it is an annual observance on which we may become more deeply conscious of our citizenship and all that it implies. On that particular day Mrs. Blaxland writes there will be a special session of the Citizenship Court in Halifax and six other centres in Nova Scotia will be visited between May 19 and May 27. One of these special sessions of the Court will be held at the County Court House in Digby on Thursday, 27 May at 2:00 p.m. It is planned that about 39 students and two teachers from the Digby Regional High School will receive their certificates of proof of their Canadian Citizenship.

Crosby, Welsh, Francis, Cossaboom, the Rev. Charles Cossitt family, Charles Winchester (Joggin Bridge) and Charles Winchester and family of the Cove, several taken by J. J. Winchester.

A Topographical Township Map of Digby County, published in 1864 by A. F. Church & Co., Halifax had a prominent place on one wall. This map was given to Kelsey Raymond by the late Roy Lawrence, former clerk of Legislature. The map proved to be of much interest as many scanned it to see family names printed and other points of interest and information regarding business firms in the area.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. David Irvine and Mrs. Kelsey Raymond for Mrs. Frank Wightman, who was unable to be present, and Harold Sulis, committee for the evening.

The next regular meeting of the Society is scheduled for September 13, but Good Times Day will take place on July 10.

Mrs. Blaxland plans to be at the Canada Manpower Centre, Water Street in Digby from 10:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. the same day, 27 May 1976, to accept applications. It is becoming more and more important for anyone who was not born in Canada to obtain proof of their citizenship status if they have a claim. We are also anxious to assist anyone who is eligible to apply for citizenship, intends to reside here permanently and fully participate in our way of life.

Inquiries to the office, 1660 Hollis St., Halifax, are answered promptly by letter or telephone and they visit Digby periodically to provide counselling and assistance in completing appropriate applications.

"Islands" Badminton Champs

On May 1 in what was probably the last major badminton tournament of the season an inspired group of students and ex-grads of Islands Consolidated captured the trophy emblematic of team supremacy of the South West Nova Badminton tournament. This year's tournament, hosted by the Yarmouth badminton club, was closely contested throughout and only in the final few games did Islands eke out a close points victory over their closest competitor, Yarmouth. The strength of the Islands club was most evident in the strong "A" section where they captured all events. Individual heroics were provided by Steve Comeau and Michelle Kinney. Steve, the current under 20 Provincial Singles champion, swept all three events in which he entered. Michelle Kinney, a Grade 7 student at I. C. S., was not even expected to play doubles but at the last moment filled in for an ailing Kim Elliott in a tough "A" section, and along with her partner, Judy Thimot captured the trophy for that division.

The day was long and tiring but it was a happy crew that reached the Island late that Saturday night well satisfied with their most inspired badminton showing in a number of years.

"A" Mens Doubles - Steve Comeau and badminton coach, Keith Manzer
A Mixed Doubles - Steve Comeau and Jane Thurber
A Ladies Doubles - Judy Thimot and Michelle Kinney
"B" Mixed Doubles - Arden and Judy Thimot

Strong performances were given by other competitors among the more notable, Betty Ann McDormand and Rita Barnaby deserve commendation winning a game though playing in their first badminton tournament ever.

In mixed doubles the teams of - (a) Wayne Buckman and Brenda Nickerson and (b) Davis Elliott and Michelle Kinney played "heads up" badminton winning 4 games each in their division. The teams Brenda Nickerson-Dale Titus and Hartwell Sullivan-Arthur Titus won three games each while Davis Elliott and Roger Outhouse, a staff member at Islands Consolidated, narrowly missed winning the "B" section mens doubles.

The day was long and tiring but it was a happy crew that reached the Island late that Saturday night well satisfied with their most inspired badminton showing in a number of years.

HOPE FOR THE MENTALLY RETARDED

Children who are handicapped mentally may be born into any family whether it be high or low on the social scale, mental retardation plays no favourites. Anyone, and anyone's neighbour can have this problem in his family. There is no sin, shame or blame attached to it.

Retarded children were once discarded children. They were treated with fear and rejection. Then, under the influence of education and science, the emphasis progressed through pity to acceptance and understanding.

We know today the vast majority of the retarded can be successfully integrated into the mainstream of Canadian life. A great number can in fact progress to the point of total self-care; many can become semi-dependant and a substantial number become self-supporting. Canadians are deeply concerned about the problem and are putting forth great efforts to solve it.

Our society spotlights those who cannot keep up with the mass, but it also offers hope to them. We believe that every child in Canada, no matter what his limitations may be, is entitled as of right to a chance to develop in accordance with his capacity. We must give him - if we are to live up to our principles - what is needed to enable him to realize his potential whatever it may be.

Society's responsibility is to provide the Mentally retarded with (1) the opportunity for self-fulfillment; (2) the preservation of personal dignity and the protection of rights; (3) the opportunity to participate and contribute; (4) the opportunity to attain happiness.

This is a high ideal, but no higher than the situation warrants. We have an estimated 800,000 mentally retarded children and adults and well over two million persons in their families are affected.

Less than a generation ago many of the experts held that intelligence was fixed at birth. The stimulation animating workers in the field today springs from living proof that mental ability can grow when nourished with human warmth and encouragement.

There is abundant evidence that intelligence is strongly affected by environment. It is new knowledge which has sparked governments, parents, churches, schools, and professional people at all levels to acknowledge their obligations to provide the environment in which retarded children can blossom into participating members of Society.

Some children are slow starters and may catch up on the second lap. You cannot jump to the conclusion that because a child is performing at half his chronological age today his I.Q. will be fifty in later years.

Causes of retardation is difficult to determine. Over-200 causes have been identified.

The discovery of retardation in a child is a crisis situation in even the best informed family.

Parents can make not only mature acceptance but a courageous and intelligent response to the challenge.

The Canadian Association for Mentally Retarded has played an important role in helping with the establishment of clinics, centres and treatment facilities throughout the country. The C. A. M. R. has organized itself so as to emphasize progress with every new discovery.

The prevention and treatment of mental retardation requires as much human study and effort as did the achievement of landing on the moon. The C. A. M. R. provincial and local associations are co-operating to bring together the thousands of professional workers and those who need their services.

There is a high ground-swell of interest and excitement surging all about those who are giving their effort and support to this work.

The workers base their effort on these beliefs; the retarded persons are human beings; they need and respond to love and affection; they can truly learn; they need the opportunity to express themselves and to be creative; they desperately need companionship.

No one summed up the nation's obligation and opportunity better than the late George P. Vanier, the Governor General of Canada: "I throw out this challenge to all those who believe in the value of the human being. There are hundreds of thousands of inadequately cared-for persons who need your scientific knowledge, who have need for your heart, your affection, and your love. They have already been waiting too long."

May 9 to 15 has been declared National Week for the Mentally Retarded. Your support is needed to make schools, workshops, residences, and recreation programs available to these people so they can be part of the community.

Support your local association for the Mentally Retarded. For further information contact president Steve LeBlanc - 245-2581 or 245-2255.

BRING ON SAMMY SEAGULL

Everyone calls Sammy a seagull. He is really a herring gull, one of fourteen kinds of gulls found along the coast. A herring gull is useful because he helps keep our shores clean. It is up to you to make him useful.

So right now bring on Sammy Seagull. We need him. There is a great stack of garbage on the Shore Road up the hill from the Princess of Acadia Ferry wharf. That has been neglected both by Sammy Seagull and all his human friends. Just go take a look. This, of course, is not the first time this spot has been neglected. It happens to be brought to our attention more vividly as you drive along that road and think of tourists arriving soon for 1976. Would it be too difficult to find who is the guilty party?

There is another reason to prepare for the appearance of Sammy Seagull. The Women's Institutes in Nova Scotia in conjunction with the Nova Scotia Department of Environment are sponsoring a Sammy Seagull Clean-Up Program and have designated May 14 and May 15 as special days to bring out Sammy Seagull, their special garbage bag. In areas where there is a Women's Institute we expect the program to go over well, but they cannot do it alone. Sammy Seagull is depending on everyone in every community to join the clean-up gang and rid our town, villages and countryside of refuse and unsightly wastes. Why not make it a garbathon. Be a leader. Offer your truck and gather the crowd to clear up all debris from winter.

IMMUNIZATION —

THE FORGOTTEN GENERATION (Contributed)

In all immunization programs, the emphasis has been placed on children and adults are left very much to their own devices. This is correct in some respects in that the children cannot speak for themselves and have not had exposure to the diseases for which protection is available. All health workers are very much concerned with the immunization of children and our record in this respect is very good and getting better. This is being accomplished through education of parents, the provision of immunizing materials to doctor's offices and the setting up of pre-school and school clinics for immunization purposes.

However, in accomplishing this we have forgotten adults can also be susceptible to diseases and that booster doses are necessary throughout life, in most instances, to protect against the same diseases. Most adults under thirty years of age have probably had immunization but those older than this may never have had inoculations carried out. Even the thirty year olds probably have not had booster doses for some period of time and seem to assume that these are not necessary. We have been fortunate in this Province in that polio has disappeared because of the immunization program, but unless this immunity is maintained through booster doses the disease could happen again. A recent report in the Provincial newspaper from the Ottawa area indicated the virulent polio virus was found in the sewage in that area very recently and concern was expressed about the immunization status of the public. Sewage monitoring is carried out throughout Nova Scotia each summer and we have been fortunate so far in that we have not had any indication of the disease being present in our community, but this does not ensure that it cannot happen here.

As a first step in trying to improve the adult immunization status, the Department of Health is going to establish an Adult Immunization Clinic in Digby town on Friday, May 21 at the Evangeline Shopping Mall. Public Health Nurses will be in attendance from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. and 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. on that date to give free immunization to anyone that requests it. The immunizing agent being used will be for protection against Lockjaw and Poliomyelitis. This will basically be a booster clinic but if it is found necessary additional clinics will be held at a later date to continue with this immunization program. This is being done on a trial basis at this time to determine the response from the adult population in this area alone. We would certainly recommend to the public at large that they take advantage of this opportunity to either start their protection against these diseases or re-enforce it if they have already been immunized in the past.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

We are a retired couple who came here from Ontario a year ago. We had visited here on vacations and fell in love with this part of Nova Scotia. We now own a rustic house in the woods by a lake.

All year we watched the ferns and flowers along the roadsides. Gorgeous lupins! The swamp maples in fall colors - lovely! Have spent many hours watching chickadees and blue jays, woodpeckers and two pair of cheeky little red squirrels! All winter they were daily visitors at the feeders.

The squirrels have nests up in the loft of my husband's workshop and we are impatiently waiting for wee ones to appear.

Now spring is here again. The loons send out their high musical calls and the frogs are peeping. Any day now old grumpy frog will be sounding his Grunk! Grunk!

The swallows are back. They inspected their nice clean house and chose the lower apartments.

Hi to the Bird Lady. I like her letters. They are a cheery part of the paper.

Happy days!!

Dear Editor:
I would like to express my deep appreciation to the Digby High School Regional Band and all the people in Digby and the surrounding towns for the wonderful five days.

I was a chaperone with the Bangor High School band when it arrived for the international exchange concert recently.

From the moment we were met by a cavalcade of cars outside of town until we left early on April 26 by bus for Yarmouth our days were filled.

I have never seen such warmth and hospitality in my life.

My family have travelled extensively over the years as we are campers and have driven across the United States twice and up to Alaska over the Alcan Highway, but you people are blue ribbon winners when it comes to making people feel welcome. You opened your hearts as well as your homes and we thank you.

The friendships made by our students are invaluable and the good-will that was promoted by the two groups will go far towards understanding and tolerance of others.

The concert itself was superb and I do hope we can do it again soon.
To everyone that made this exchange possible - thank you.

Sincerely,

Dear Editor and Citizens of Digby:

At the monthly meeting of Digby Town Council on May 3, we were informed that the tax rate had been set at $2.69 for residential (homes) and $3.73 for commercial property. (The dual rate now in Nova Scotia is the result of the province taking over 75 percent of the shareable cost of education on residential property.)

With the somewhat startling announcement of a reduction of only 23 cents on residential, after major school costs had been removed, and an increase of 81 cents on commercial, I assumed that the high rates had been set to provide some of the long awaited services, such as sidewalks, additional street lighting, etc. Not so.

In the past few weeks, four closed door sessions of full council have been held on the budget. One, on April 12, was called as an open meeting and was attended by some interested citizens. After opening, the Mayor made the surprise announcement that the councillors preferred to close the budget business to the public. I asked who had requested this secrecy and all hands went up. The citizens picked up their coats and left. When I asked the Mayor if he supported this move, he quite casually "hadn't thought about it."

All the discussion at that meeting was on public business from which no taxpayer should have been barred. I attended two of these secret sessions but refused to continue unless at least some of the discussion preceding the final important decisions was open.

On the afternoon of May 3 at 4 p.m., the finance committee of three, Ellis, VanTassel, and Robertson, with the Mayor, invited members of the local press to the town hall and presented them with their budget "release." Contrary to a Mirror report, this was not an open meeting, the public was not informed, nor was I aware of it.

In the evening when the budget was presented for adoption it was evident that little time was to be allowed for discussion or questions for the benefit of those present. Questions asked of fire committee chairman, VanTassel, regarding the small pittance requested by firemen to compensate for loss of clothes, produced the usual voluminous tones, and a request for information on another department brought the curt reply from Deputy Mayor Robertson, "We've been over it three times IN COMMITTEE and with the press, and I think that should be sufficient."

I have before me the rates of 22 municipal units of Nova Scotia which have so far been reported in the daily press. Digby's residential rate is the highest of the 22. On the commercial rate, 18 of the 22 units are lower than Digby.

In spite of my efforts to increase the discount for early payment of taxes and to decrease the penalty for overdue, the council held firm that this would not be changed. "Finance Minister" Ellis, with the backing of former clerk, Pitman, remained unyielding at any suggestion of an increase in the 2 percent discount, though in 1974 a motion by Ellis and Robertson, on the recommendation of Pitman, increased the penalty for overdue accounts from 10 to 14 percent where it has remained ever since. Again, from the daily press reports, I note that discounts for early payment range from 3 to 10 percent and the highest penalty I have seen for overdue accounts is 12 percent.

Why the determination for so much secrecy regarding the town's finances? Why the unanswered questions on all matters of finance? Is this responsible government? Citizens of Digby, ask yourselves these questions. It's your money.

Eileen Chipman
Town Councillor
Digby

LETTER TO THE EDITOR Reply

Dear Ann:
Another 200 words of good material gone to waste. Rules are rules so while the pen name "Ann Non Emous" could have been used in your letter to appear before the public, the hard and fast rule of this newspaper is that the editor must have the signature of the letter writer. Our guessing at who wrote the letter just doesn't do. The signature, however, remains entirely in the editor's confidence.

How about that "Ann Non Emous". May we have your signature and then print your letter. However, in case we fail to get the signature we want to take this opportunity for blowing our own horn and take this opportunity to thank you for the remark "What man could do the job you've done the past 30 years?" Also the sentence, "I would like to see your daughter, Janet, write some more material for your paper. I enjoy her writings and miss them so much." Thanks. We'll pass the word also.

Sincerely,
Editor

Hospital Workers Reject Contract Offer

Local 1027, Digby General Hospital, met Tuesday with Harold Martel, CUPE representative and co-ordinator of hospital negotiations, to discuss their upcoming contract.

The workers voted to reject the final offer of the Nova Scotia Association of Health Organizations.

The association offered a 28 and 31 percent plus $400 increase for C.N.A.'s in 1976; and a 10 percent plus $480 increase for all other workers this year. The offer called for an eight percent increase for all workers in 1977.

Gordon Burnham, centre, advisor to the Minister of Finance and former chief director of trusts and debt management for the province, was honored on his retirement at a ceremony at Province House. Finance Minister Peter Nicholson presented Mr. Burnham with the Province of Nova Scotia Public Service Award for 42 years service with the government. Mr. Burnham, a native of Digby, was the founding president of the N.S. Government Employees Association, 1956-1961. At right is Mrs. Burnham. (N.S. CIC Photo)

Mackasey Urges Restraint To Make Inflation Program Work

Wage and Price controls will remain in effect until it is evident inflation will tone down to a tolerable level, Bryce Mackasey told about 400 attending the Annual Liberal Meeting for Southwestern Nova here.

The Postmaster General and Minister of Corporate and Consumer Affairs said we all have to get in as Canadians and practice restraint regardless of our backgrounds or differences and make government and the inflation program work.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Mackasey was scheduled to officially open a bikeathon for the Digby County Mental Health Association. However, rain forced cancellation of that event until this coming Saturday.

"To be a Liberal requires courage," Mr. Mackasey told his Saunierville Parish Hall audience, "We're not popular because we have had to do unpopular things for the good of this country."

The minister said inflation must be stopped from eating into the dollar. The victims, he said, are those on fixed incomes - "the senior citizens, the people who see prices rising day in and day out, the people who have to live on welfare because they haven't got the capacity to live, or in some parts of the country they have to live on U.I.C. because there aren't jobs. They are the victims of inflation," and we have the responsibility to say to everybody, including the powerful leaders of labour in this country; Shape up! Practice restraint! Or we'll make you do it.

Mr. Mackasey spoke of the need for government spending and said if cutbacks are to be made, he wants them to be made on waste, not on essential services.

The minister was extremely witty in many instances throughout his address. He received a standing ovation when he finished.

In other business during the evening, Hugh John

Fraser, a Yarmouth lawyer, was chosen as president of the Southwestern Nova Liberal Association. He reaffirmed the organization's confidence in Coline Campbell, M.P.

A change was made in the constitution of the association. Anyone attending meetings, who is a supporter of the Liberal Party, provided he has registered and signed his name at the door, can vote at party meetings.

In her address Miss Campbell noted the government's gun-control legislation caused a lot of concern in this constituency. She said the legislation was certainly something she would like to see because the activity behind its introduction came from the people.

The M.P. then termed the gun-control bill urban legislation and said it has met opposition in rural areas for this reason.

However, she noted, as a result of committee meeting in the House of Commons, some changes in the legislation will come about to make it easier for adaptation in the rural communities.

Honourable Robert L. Stanfield Will Be Honoured At A Testimonial Dinner In Halifax

Halifax, April 30, 1976: The Honourable Robert L. Stanfield's quarter century of public service will be honoured at his Testimonial Dinner in Halifax, Sunday, June 6.

The dinner, a fund raising effort hosted by the Provincial Progressive Conservative Association, will reflect on a political career that started in 1948 when Stanfield was elected leader of the Provincial Conservative Party. Three years earlier, in the 1945 election, the provincial Tories had been shut out of the legislature, not being able to capture any of the 37 seats available.

The necessary change proved a good one. One year later, in 1949, the Tories under Stanfield won eight provincial seats, increasing that to 12 in 1953 and finally to the formation of a Provincial Conservative Government in 1956.

Stanfield guided Nova Scotia for 11 years, marking the longest ever tory administration in a province which has been predominantly Liberal since 1882.

Stanfield's political sights were aimed at Ottawa in 1967, when he left the provincial arena to capture the national Conservative Leadership responsibility. As Leader of the Official Opposition, Stanfield made three attempts at forming a Conservative government, including the October 30, 1972 election which saw the commons divided among 107 Tories and 109 Liberals.

After close to a decade as the Conservative Chief, Stanfield announced he would not seek the leadership mandate for another term, prompting the leadership convention won by Alberta's Joe Clark last February.

The Stanfield Testimonial Dinner will be held in the Commonwealth Room of the Hotel Nova Scotian.

IN MEMORIAM

BAIN - In loving memory of a dear Dad and Grampy, George B. Bain who entered into rest, May 4, 1954.

Tis sweet to know we'll meet again,
Where troubles are no more
And that the one we loved so well
Has just gone on before.
Shielded in the Rock of Ages,
Resting on the golden shore,
In the loving arms of Jesus,
To abide forever more.
Loved and remembered by
DAUGHTER SYLVIA AND FAMILY. 40:1p

COLLINS - In loving memory of my aunt Verna who passed away on May 13th, 1975.

So many things have happened,
Since you were called away,
So many things to share with you
Had you been left to stay.
Every day in some small way,
Memories of you come my way
Though absent, you are ever near.
Still missed, still loved and always dear.

Always remembered and deeply missed by her NIECE, MURIEL (MRS. STEWART LARRIMORE) 40:lip

HARNISH - In loving memory of a dear friend, Gary Lee Harnish who was drowned May 1, 1974. Sadly missed by his friend JOAN. 40:lip

CARDS OF THANKS

ROBICHEAU - I would like to thank all my friends and relatives for cards, visits and gifts while I was a patient at the Digby General Hospital. Special thanks to Dr. Black Sr. and Dr. Brennan and to the nurses and staff for their care and kindness to me. LAURA ROBICHEAU. 40:lip

IN MEMORIAM

MELANSON - In loving memory of a very special uncle who was like a father to us, Charles F. Melanson, who passed away May 4, 1975.

Memories we cherish from year to year,
Remain with us and keep you near.
Your memory will never leave our mind,
You were so tender, loving, and kind,
From us you passed so quickly away,
We never had time to say:
"We love you, 'dad', and in our hearts you will for ever stay!"

Those who have felt the loss,
Know truly the pain that death has cost.

Always cherished and deeply missed by MRS. SUSIE BARRY A.D. FAMILY. 40:lip

CARDS OF THANKS

RAMSAY - I would like to extend sincere thanks to all my friends for their cards, flowers and visits while I was a patient at Digby General Hospital. Special thanks to the doctors and nurses on the 3rd floor. CHARLES RAMSAY 40:lip

THURBER - My sincere thanks to all who so kindly remembered me with cards, letters, and gifts while I was a patient at the Halifax Infirmary. Special thanks to Dr. Grogons, staff and nurses. MRS. LAURENCE THURBER. 40:lip

Folk Art

Halifax folk artist Fred Trask goes to jail every day. The jovial Digby native isn't a chronic offender, but a Halifax County correctional officer who paints scenes of country life in his off-duty hours. (N.S. CIC Photo)

by John Knight

Folk art is where you find it.

Though he goes to jail every evening, Halifax folk artist Fred Trask isn't a habitual criminal. He just works there.

By night he is a guard at the Halifax County Correctional Centre but comes the dawn and he's Fred Trask, artist.

During off-duty hours Fred uses as much of the daylight as he can to paint and draw by his living-room window.

Like many other folk artists Fred began almost by accident.

"I just picked up a pencil one day and I've been at it ever since," he said. "I don't know if I understand why I do it, but I know I love it. I'd like nothing better than to have a cabin in the woods and paint all the time."

In fact, he's been known to present unsuspecting waitresses with detailed drawings done on the napkin while awaiting his sandwich!

A native of Digby, he first received encouragement for his scenes of life in that area.

He has painted many country kitchens with their old wood stoves. Recognition is spreading and he is preparing for a one-man show at the Dartmouth Heritage Museum from July 4 to 25.

Another Halifax folk artist, mines the rich vein of 20 years' experience as a carnival roustabout for his paintings.

"I just worked at everything you know," recounts Joe Sleep. "And before that I was a fisherman in New Brunswick."

Joe is about sixty years old but he's not sure. "I was born aboard ship between here and England and there's no records," he says. "Some told me I was born in '14, some said in '16, and maybe it was '18."

Today, by happy accident, he's working full-time as an artist and muses over the whole turn of events that began with a spell in the hospital.

The nurses gave him a drawing of a vase of flowers to colour and help pass the time while convalescing. Pretty soon he couldn't get enough art work to satisfy himself and there was no other way but to continue painting when he was released from hospital.

Joe is now something of a celebrity around Halifax. He has been in the papers, on television, he had a show in conjunction with the Joseph Howe Festival, and he donated paintings for auction to aid a "Save the Whales" campaign.

"The fishes are some of my favourite animals," he says. They are also one of his favourite themes, the other being the distinctive motifs and bright colours of carnival life.

Though his "fame" has spread to other circles, Joe is still a regular at the local tavern where he meets daily with his cronies. "You can't work all the time, y'know! Cheers!"

Right now he is featured in a solo exhibition at a leading Halifax gallery and he's also getting ready to present works to the selection committee of the Nova Scotia Folk Art Exhibition.

For folk artist, collectors and students the exhibition of Nova Scotia Folk Art at present being organized by the Art Gallery of Nova Scotia, in co-operation with the National Museum of Canada, is this year's main event.

Tentatively set to open in Halifax on Sept. 30, it will be the first comprehensive gathering of the province's rich folk art resources. Works from previously recognized folk artists will be included but the search is on from Cape North to Cape Sable for paintings, drawings, models and carvings by other Nova Scotians.

"We're sure there are many talented people across the province who consider that their activities are only a hobby," says Art Gallery

Curator Bernard Riordon.

"We're hoping to reach these people and encourage them."

It seems that folk art isn't created by what many people call "artists" but by everyday people without benefit of any formal art training or lessons. "It just comes naturally" you might say.

"Folk artists are not generally in touch with the mainstream currents of the art world," says Gerry Ferguson of the Folk Art Exhibition Committee. "They create out of their own situation, in their own unique style, for unself-conscious reasons."

Nova Scotia has an especially rich heritage and according to Ellen Huntington of the Folk Art Committee. "Folk artists are a valuable asset to all of us," she says. "They help us keep in touch with our past and our roots. Folk art is natural and spontaneous and reminds us of who we are."

After showing at the Art Gallery of Nova Scotia the exhibition will be made available to other art galleries and centres across Canada during 1977 and 1978.

"We are evaluating and choosing works now," says Bernard Riordon, "and we would like to hear from people who are interested or who know of someone who could be considered a folk artist."

Mr. Riordon and the Folk Art Committee may be

Five awards were presented on Tuesday evening when the Annual Inspection of the Digby Sea Cadets was held in the Drill Hall at CFB Cornwallis.

General Proficiency Award was presented to Petty Officer Robert Purdy. Robert joined the Corps in January 1976. In the summer of 1973 Cadet Purdy attended the two week basic training course at CFB Cornwallis. In the summer of 1974 he successfully completed a six week Communications Course in British Columbia and last summer he completed a six week Air Technician course at CFB Trenton. While in the Corps Cadet Purdy has demonstrated a high degree of interest and has maintained an excellent record of attendance. The award is new this year and will be offered annually by Scott and Grace Datsun.

Chief Petty Officer, Gerald Robicheau, won the Smith Award for outstanding Leadership. Gerald joined the Corps in 1973 and in the summer of 1974 he attended the two week Basic Training Course at CFB Cornwallis. Last summer he successfully completed a six week Boatswain Course at CFB Halifax. At the end of the course he was presented with the award for Excellence in Drill. During the current training year he has been Chief of the Corps. The award is donated by Glen Smith, Digby.

Ordinary Cadet Wayne Sweeney was presented with the McBride Cup, an annual award given by the Digby Branch of the Navy League of Canada. Cadet Wayne Sweeney joined the Corps in September 1975. He has a perfect attendance record for parade training. He has participated in the outdoor camps including the one in February. He has been chosen to attend the two week Basic Training Course in British Columbia this summer.

The best attendance award went to Leading Cadet Thane Miller.

This award is offered annually by the officers of the Corps to the cadet who has maintained the best record of attendance at weekly parades. Leading Cadet Thane Miller joined the corps in September 1974. He has an excellent attendance record for the past two years. As well as a perfect record of attendance this year Cadet Miller has maintained a high standard of personal appearance and discipline. Last summer he attended the two week Basic Training Course at CFB Cornwallis and this summer has been chosen to attend the six week Junior Leadership Course at CFB Cornwallis.

A new award this year and one which will be offered annually by the Knights of Columbus, 5848 Council, Digby is the Camping and Woodcraft award won by Leading Cadet Kevin George. Leading Cadet Kevin George joined the Corps in February 1974. During the summer of 1975 he attended the two week Basic Training Course at CFB Cornwallis and this summer he has been chosen to attend a six week Boatswain Course in British Columbia. While in the Corps Cadet George has participated in a number of camping and canoe trips. He had demonstrated a high degree of knowledge and responsibility while in the woods and is well deserving of this award.

Officers and instructors are Captain C.E. Light, Clementsport; Lieut. L. Banks Digby; Maurice George, Digby and Captain D.A. McClafferty. The presentations were made by Judge John R. Nichols, president of the Digby Branch Navy League of Canada, the sponsoring body; Captain T.E. Connors, CFB Cornwallis; Lorne Hutt, secretary of the Nova Scotia Division of Navy League of Canada and Lieutenant Banks.

President Nichols thanked Captain Connors, officers and staff of CFB Cornwallis for their assistance in promoting the program for the youth of the Annapolis Basin area. He urged that more parents might work with the Navy League to help make the Cadet Corps become the best in Nova Scotia.

Following the inspection by Captain Connors, the Captain extended a welcome to the guests and congratulated the Cadets on their accomplishments. He advised the cadets to get as much education as possible both academic and vocational and later take a look at the Armed Forces when seeking a career.

Parents and friends were invited to view displays and demonstrations of rigging a sailing dinghy, boatswain chair ropework and mapwork. The cadets had also learned safe gun handling.

Refreshments were served with a special cake served for the occasion of the Sea Cadet Annual Inspection 1976.

Horticultural Society Meets

Twenty-one members attended the monthly meeting of the Admiral Digby Horticultural Society at the home of Miss Elsie Robertson on the evening of May 5. Mrs. Hutchins, president, presided.

Mrs. Hutchins extended a welcome to Mr. Walter Ricketson, the guest speaker for the evening and two Garden Club members, Mrs. J. MacLearn and Mrs. R. Lent, who had returned from spending a winter vacation in Florida.

Reports were given on the work carried on by appointed committees and it was learned geraniums will be placed in the large concrete planters within a few days and the area around the Town Information Bureau will be made ready for the summer flowers. Work at the Admiral Digby Park, Loyalist Cemetery and the window boxes at the Library is again under the supervision of individual Garden Club members.

The main business discussion centered around reached at the Art Gallery of Nova Scotia, 6152 Coburg Road, Halifax of by telephoning 424-7542.

the possibility of carrying on with the annual Flower Show and Tea. Considering the work involved, it was decided to try and arrange to have some other organization be responsible for the tea and the Garden Club carry on with the show. A general disappointment has been expressed at cancelling the affair. If possible, a decision will be made at the June meeting when it is learned what arrangements can be made.

On May 13, twenty members from the group will attend the 1976 Annual meeting of the Regional Association of Garden Clubs, to be sponsored by the Champlain Garden Club, at Annapolis Royal.

At the close of the business meeting, Mr. Gilliat introduced Mr. Ricketson, West Paradise, who on retirement from the Research Station, Fredericton, N.B., moved to Nova Scotia and is now the owner of a greenhouse and interested in mixed farming.

Mr. Ricketson explained the type of soil mixture needed for various types of flowers and vegetables, showing samples and how they were obtained.

All seeds are not planted in the same way, as tiny ones should not be covered with soil but lightly covered with a damp newspaper to conserve moisture and to be well cared for with sufficient air and light warmth.

Fertilizer should not be added at first, but later. A warm temperature from 70-80 degrees was proper for starting seeds to germinate.

Demonstrations were given as to the proper method to plant geraniums from cuttings. When purchasing plants it is important to know if they are ready for outside planting, unless the weather is warm. Seedlings should be transplanted to the outside before they start to bloom.

On behalf of the Garden Club members, Mrs. Hutchins thanked Mr. Ricketson for a helpful and interesting program.

The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. P. Robert, Queen Street.

Refreshments were served by Miss Robertson with co-hostesses Mrs. B. Ellis and Mrs. Como and assisted by Garden Club members.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION FOR NATIONAL WEEK FOR THE MENTALLY RETARDED May 9 to May 15, 1976.

WHEREAS Mental Retardation is one of the most prevalent handicaps of children and adults;

AND WHEREAS it is now known that with proper training and the opportunity to develop their skills, mentally retarded persons can come a long way towards independent living;

AND WHEREAS this community can only benefit, both socially and economically, from the training and education of mentally retarded persons;

AND WHEREAS the C.A.M.R. Digby Branch is a voluntary association of citizens working together in a supportive role to assure the rights of mentally retarded persons;

AND WHEREAS at this time the C.A.M.R. Digby Branch is seeking public understanding and support for its programs on behalf of mentally retarded persons in our community;

NOW THERE I, Charles Haliburton, Mayor of the Town of Digby, do hereby proclaim the period of time from May 9 to May 15, (inclusive) 1976, as National Week for the Mentally Retarded, and urge every member of this community to give thoughtful support and understanding to programs which will strengthen and enrich the lives of mentally retarded persons.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the Town of Digby to be affixed this 3rd day of May, A.D., 1976.

Seminar On Local Church History

A Seminar on Local Church History will take place at the United Baptist Church (Christian Education Room) in Annapolis Royal, on Saturday, May 15, 1976, from 2:00 p.m. till 5:00 p.m. The purpose of the seminar is to stimulate more interest in the history of local churches and to provide training in the following areas: How to preserve church records; How to interview persons with interesting experiences in Christian life; and How to write and present history of a church.

The main leader of the seminar will be Dr. A. Ronald Tonks, of Nashville, Tenn. A native of Vancouver, B.C., Doctor Tonks received his basic education in Montreal, including a B.A. degree from McGill University. He was trained for Christian Ministry at McMaster University (B.D.) and ordained in Montreal in 1958. He served as Baptist pastor in Montreal and later in Southern Indiana while pursuing doctoral studies (Th.D.) at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky. He taught history at Indiana Central College in Indianapolis, Ind., and in 1972 he was appointed Research Director and later Assistant Executive Secretary of the Historical Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention in Nashville, Tenn. Doctor Tonks has devoted much of his time to research in Baptist history and to train local church historians throughout the U.S.A. He has published a large number of articles and is co-author of two new books, Baptists, Meet Your Past (1975) and Faith, Stars and Stripes (1976).

Doctor Tonks will be assisted by Professor Barry Moody of Acadia University, Wolfville, and Dr. Frank H. Sinnott, Chairman of the Historical Records Committee, of Port Williams, N.S.

This is one of a series of seminars organized by the Baptist Churches in the Maritime Provinces in cooperation with the Historical Records Committee of the United Baptist Convention of the Atlantic Provinces. It is open to the general public and particularly to persons interested in local history. There will be a registration fee of $1.00 per person or family. A question period will follow each presentation and refreshments will be served half-way through the seminar. Hopefully, many will take advantage of this opportunity to learn interesting facts on local church history.

Change" will be led by Millie.

On Saturday evening a film entitled "The Incredible, Hopeful, Helpful, Changing, Growing Sunday School" will be shown and the Rev. Roland Griswold will bring a devotional message entitled "A Student Will Be Like..."

The Sunday morning speaker will be the Rev. Roland Griswold and his message will be "Our Debt to This Generation." The closing message on Sunday night will be "The Impossible Dream."

Seminars will be held at 9:45 a.m. and 1:45 p.m. daily. Evening service Thursday through Saturday will begin at 7:30 p.m. Morning Worship is at 10:30 a.m. and the evening service at 7:00 p.m. on Sunday only. The public, particularly those interested in Christian Education and Youth Work, are invited to the services.

Joe Clark, M.P., newly elected leader of the Progressive Conservative Party of Canada, is pictured above receiving a hearty welcome from Nova Scotia Progressive Conservative leader, John M. Buchanan, Q.C., M.L.A. Mr. Clark, visiting Nova Scotia for the first time since assuming the National P.C. Leadership, addressed an overflow crowd at the Halifax Federal Riding Annual Meeting. Hon. Robert L. Stanfield, P.C., Q.C., M.P., and John Buchanan were also guest speakers at the meeting.

on Celebrity II if you buy before May 31st.

Here's a sweeping gesture from Hoover—buy a Celebrity II Air-Ride before May 31st, 1976 and pocket $20 in the bargain. Just look at these features:

Powermatic nozzle

It's there one thing that makes a Celebrity II famous...it's Hoover's exclusive Powermatic Nozzle. Its heart is a motor-driven agitator that beats as it sweeps across a floor. With its hardened steel beater bar it can handle the toughest soils.

Full-time edge cleaning

With Celebrity II the suction power works right up to the nozzle edges, so you can clean right up to the baseboards.

3-position handle

Only Hoover's handle gives you 3-position adjustment. For storage, the tangle. And under furniture, it means that you can stop the Hoover right where you want it.

Model S-8071 Air-Ride Celebrity II

Toe-touch surface selector

You can adjust Celebrity II for hard surface or carpeted floors with just a touch of the toe. There's a built-in brush that beats down on bare floors. And the indicator's on top where you can keep an eye on the setting.

Huge, multi-magnum bag

Inside every Celebrity II Air-Ride there's a multi-magnum bag. A yard long. With a remarkable 760 square inches of filter area.

Add up the features and subtract $20, and see for yourself why now is the time to buy the Hoover Celebrity II Air-Ride.

Clementsport To Get New Post Office

Hon. Bryce Mackasey, Post Master General, who was in the area on Saturday to open the Digby Mental Health Association Cyclathon and to attend a party meeting at Saulnierville, announced that the village of Clementsport is to have a new Post Office. A decision on the location has not been made but several properties have been looked over.

The Cyclathon which Mr. Mackasey was to open and also in which he was to participate had to be postponed until May 15th, but a planned Press Conference convened when the Post Master General answered questions and gave information on the Post Office in respect to the whole of Canada.

Pieces of mail processed by the post office three years ago, he said, amounted to 5 billion, today the pieces number 7 billion. It is the 3rd best postal service in the world, next to Belgium and Japan, he continued.

Unfortunately air mail is not as reliable as rail mail when it comes to weather and this creates problems and there are still a few labor problems, the minister said, but in general he was much pleased with the post office situation. He defended the post office using their own courier mail system as against private couriers and said the post office department needed the revenue if the post office service is to be supplied to extreme ends of Canada. Otherwise he said taxpayers would have to subsidize to a great extent.

On the subject of inflation, Mr. Mackasey said that people do not seem to realize the seriousness of the situation and that inflation can be beaten if they will get behind the restraint program.

Digby Area Blood Donor Clinic Has Good Response

With a total of 262 blood donors registered, the recent Red Cross Clinic was rated a success, even though falling short of the quota which had hopefully been set at 300. The large number of people still feeling after-effects of last winter's flu may have helped to cut down the hope-for attendance, but the Red Cross Chairman, E. B. Tufts, expressed his gratitude on behalf of the Committee to one and all of those who came from all parts of the area to make up a goodly total of blood donations for the Blood Bank. Although the new, computerized system of registration does not provide a list of donors by communities, as was formerly available, it was apparent that the donors came not only from Digby town but also from a wide area, with outstanding support as usual from Digby Neck and the Islands. There was also much appreciated support from C. F. B. Cornwallis, the R. C. M. P. and the Digby General Hospital staff.

The Digby Clinic was held for the first time in the Firemen's Hall, which afforded spacious and very convenient working conditions for all those involved.

Special thanks are expressed to the members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Fire Department, who assisted with refreshments by providing the tea and coffee, which were served by workers under the auspices of the Red Cross Branch. The Blood Donor Committee also wishes to extend thanks to the Digby School Principal, Mr. Hannah, for his co-operation in giving leave-of-absence to the high school boys who were most helpful in unloading the equipment of the Red Cross Mobile Team in the morning. Thanks are also due to Miss Linda Mackintosh of the Red Cross Youth group who prepared the reminder notices sent to all former blood donors throughout the area.

Arrangements for the Clinic were made by the Digby Area Blood Donor Recruitment Committee, under the chairmanship of E. B. Tufts, assisted by the various local representatives on the Committee.

Nursing assistance for the Mobile Team in the Clinic Room was provided under the convensorship of Mrs. C. D. Snow, R.N., assisted by the following registered nurses from Digby: Mrs. D. G. Black, Mrs. A. M. Lawley, Mrs. A. L. Robinson, Mrs. Sidney Smith, Mrs. Robert Wallace, and Mrs. Desmond Woods.

Members of the Digby Red Cross Branch convened the large group of workers who assisted with the various other duties connected with the Clinic, including registration and ushering of the donors and the serving of refreshments. Registrars were Mrs. Frank Mackintosh, Mrs. Paul VanTassell, Mrs. Victor Comeau, Mrs. Andrew Thibodeau, Mrs. Robert Wilson, Mrs. Allen Stark, and Mrs. Elliott VanTassell. Ushering were Mrs. Allan Harris, Mrs. Clyde Bremner, and Mrs. M. A. Pyne.

Those providing refreshments included Mrs. Vaughan VanTassell, Mrs. Guy VanTassell, Mrs. David VanTassell, Mrs. Douglas VanTassell, Mrs. Donald Jayne and Miss Verna Hanff of the Ladies Auxiliary, together with the following servers under the convensorship of the Digby Red Cross Branch: Mrs. Raymond Everett, Mrs. Burton Ellis, Mrs. Loran Hayden, Mrs. Avery Crowell, Mrs. Frank Larche, Mrs. Bernard O'Neil, Mrs. Wilfred Comeau, Mrs. Clyde Bremner, Mrs. E. Kennedy and Miss Carrie Clark.

The customary valuable assistance was also provided throughout all three sessions of the Clinic by Mr. Layton Hinxman, while Christopher Tufts and Nathan Winchester lent helping hands to the Mobile Team in loading the equipment at the close of the day. To one and all of those who helped to make the Digby Blood Donor Clinic a success the Red Cross Committee extends heartfelt thanks.

A Thought Starter

By Rev. R. C. MacCormack
R. R. 4, Fredericton, N. B.

The Blood of the Martyrs

Both Christians and unbelievers in the free parts of the 20th Century world are equally protected. It is not always so in history or in the present day.

In ancient Roman times, Christians were forced to hide. Some fled to the forests. Many lived in dark tunnels known as catacombs, under Rome. Here they held their simple, praise-filled Gospel meetings, and whenever possible boldly witnessed. When caught they were ordered to recant, or to face a painful death.

Records tell that a great number of faithful followers of the Lamb of God, were tied to stakes and burned, while sadistic mobs cheered. The Roman Coliseum, an amphitheatre seating nearly 100,000 became the scene of much agony. Christians were forced, without defense, to face well armed gladiators, and were quickly cut down. The faithful were sometimes stripped, men, women and children, and pushed into arenas where nearly starved lions would tear them apart. In their last moments, these would muster all their stamina and would shout a testimony of their hope in Christ to the vast throngs who gathered. They preached as they died, and Christianity grew by their commitment.

"The blood of the martyrs is the seed of the Church." When some give all, others are brought to the Kingdom.

Are we standing today as the first martyrs stood?

Fishing Vessel Subsidies Maintained Same

OTTAWA - The federal government's fishing vessel subsidy program will be continued in the current fiscal year, with funding being maintained at last year's level of $4,000,000, Romeo LeBlanc, Minister of State for Fisheries, confirmed today.

Noting that there was a carry-over commitment of $700,000 for completion of vessels under construction at the end of the last fiscal year, Mr. LeBlanc said that there would be $3,300,000 remaining for new undertakings in 1976-77.

Subsidies are currently available only for new construction, but Mr. LeBlanc said that new regulations and policies will be introduced within two months which will extend the scope of the program to include modifications and conversions which will be initiated this year on a modest scale in response to specific requests, in order to increase the safety and efficiency of existing vessels.

Another major revision which will be contained in the new regulations reduces the minimum length requirement from 35 feet for all vessels to 30 feet, for those engaged in the sea fisheries, and to 20 feet for those in the freshwater fisheries, for both new construction and modifications and conversions.

Vessels greater than 75 feet in length will not be subsidized for modifications or conversion, with the exception of special provisions for Bay of Fundy and west coast herring vessels, nor will a subsidy be available for construction of vessels of this size other than that provided by the Department of Industry, Trade and Commerce.

Mr. LeBlanc said that the subsidy demands have always exceeded the available funds and that 1976-77 is no exception. He said, therefore, that it was necessary for him to establish the following order of priorities for allocation of the current year's funds:

1) $700,000 carry-over of 1975-76 construction commitments; 2) $1,000,000 for introduction of the conversion-and-modification subsidy program in all regions, with preference being given to the Bay of Fundy herring fleet to assist with its conversion to a food fishery, and to the west coast herring fleet in order to improve safety features; 3) eligible applications which were returned to applicants after last year's funds were fully committed, in the order in which they were received; and 4) eligible applications received since April 1, 1976, in the order in which they are received, until funds are fully committed.

Mr. LeBlanc said that applications received after the current year's funds are fully committed will be maintained on file pending a review of spending patterns next September, following which there may be a reallocation of funds which could allow additional applications on file to be processed. He emphasized, however, that there was no certainty that applications received after this year's funds are fully committed will be given priority later in the year or in 1977-78 and subsequent years.

Sandy Cove

(Mrs. E.C. Morehouse)

Dr. and Mrs. Homer L. Brayton, Milton, Mass., arrived last week to spend the summer at their home here. We welcome them and other summer residents who have returned to their homes here.

Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Goodwin, Upper Granville, spent several days last week with Mrs. Goodwin's sister, Mrs. Nora Saunders. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Saunders, Halifax, were Saturday overnight visitors at the same home.

Mrs. Joseph Brickerton (Sharon Morehouse), Oromocto, N.B., spent several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morehouse.

Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Brayton, Jennifer and Laura spent the weekend here. Mrs. Brayton and daughters having returned on Friday from Florida where they visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Gozma for several weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Gozma who spent three months in Florida also returned on Friday to their home here.

Mrs. Seldon Merritt and daughter, Mrs. Reg Grout spent last week in Black's Harbour, with Mrs. Merritt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gaudet and other relatives there.

Tiverton

(Mrs. John Outhouse)

Wishes for a speedy recovery are extended to Heber Outhouse and Art Langor who are patients in Digby Hospital, and to Chester Outhouse, Sr., who is ill at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Cereno MacCallough and son, Francis, also Mrs. Bruce MacCallough recently called on the former's daughters, Mrs. Gregory Perry and Mrs. Fraser Outhouse.

John Outhouse and sons, Lou and Lee, attended the service presented by members of M.C.C. of P. E. I. at Westport Christian Church on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Finimore (nee Althea Sollows) of Saint John, N. B., are visiting her mother, Mrs. Ella Sollows.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Sollows motored to Yarmouth one day last week.

Miss Alberta Outhouse, R. N., has returned from Ontario and now resides with her sister, Miss Treeva Outhouse.

Westport

(Mrs. Charles McDormand)

Sidney D. Morehouse and Mr. Miller, Sudbury, Ontario, spent a week visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Morehouse.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. MacKinnon and family spent a recent weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Shaw. They were accompanied to Dartmouth by Mrs. Shaw who visited for two weeks, returning home with Mr. Shaw who visited a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wallace are spending a visit at their home.

Bradford Titus, Halifax, Mrs. Terry Thomas and Rochelle, Digby, spent a few days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Titus.

Mrs. Evelyn Saunders and son, Terry Pleasant Lake, Yarmouth County, are visiting with her mother, Mrs. E. B. Pugh.

The water front at Westport is beginning to look different. Large trucks are hauling stone from Harris' Bluff and dumping it along the front street on the water side making a stone breastwork. It isn't too beautiful to look at, but it will keep the water from coming over and washing out the road. Some of the fishermen are beginning to rebuild their fish shops and wharves. This all takes time but each week sees a different appearance to the onlooker.

Rossway

(M. R. Comeau)

Mrs. Willie Hersey, Mr. David Balser, and Mr. Harold Scott are patients in the Digby General Hospital at time of writing, May 3.

Reflecting To 1946

Heated discussions were going on at the Digby Municipal Council on the condition of the Digby Neck ferries. Opinions as to safety differed. (Improvements in the ferries at Petite and Grand Passages up to 1976 are much noticed and appreciated by the people).

Preparations were being made for paving 8.2 miles road between Digby and Gulliver's Cove.

In the May 16 issue there was anticipation of the Inter-City Airlines, Ltd., Saint John, making two flights daily between Saint John, Grand Manan, Digby and Yarmouth. Plans for the Digby Board of Trade Fair were being made with the objective of $4,000 and a rink for Digby.

The Victorian Order of Nurses and preparing for its 25th anniversary.

Of interest, as in May 1976, was the matter of regional libraries. Miss Marion Gilroy had met with Digby Town, Digby Municipality and the Municipality of Clare regarding a regional library, cost of which would be about 50 cents per capita per annum. The Town of Digby would pay about $550 which would be matched by the government. Half the costs would be shared by the three municipal bodies and the other half by the government. Some thought the regional library a good plan, others a luxury. As a whole, some felt that Digby suffered from literary malnutrition, condemning the shelves and local newstands for their cluttering with cheap literary trash. They felt guidance and education were in need of a good library.

The war was over. Veterans had returned. Hon. Harold Connolly of the Department of Industry and Tourism expected much summer travelling to add thousands of dollars to Nova Scotia incomes. He put on a vigorous campaign inviting people to open their private homes to tourists in order to carry the industry over the first emergency year, a year which might determine travel trends for decades.

Fire Damages House

A day earlier or an hour later might have been the answer to whether Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Marshall, South Range East, would still have their home in which to live. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall returned from a visit to the United States on Saturday morning about four o'clock.

That night shortly after the Marshall's retired they heard a crackling noise in another room on the second floor. On investigation they found the room to be on fire.

Neighbours were aroused and a fire alarm sounded to which all rallied with promptness and efficiency and confined the fire to only some of the upper story and roof damage. Bear River Volunteer Fire Department and the Plympton Fire Department responded to the call.

Had the fire started a day earlier they would not have been there, Mrs. Marshall said and if it had started an hour later they would have been asleep and the fire would have gone unnoticed for some time. She was counting her blessings.

Another good fortune was that they possessed a hose that reached clear to the attic. Chimed in Mr. Marshall "and, the phone rang the first time we tried." Mr. and Mrs. Marshall who have recently moved here from the U.S.A., have found the phone service in the area in which they live to be rather inadequate service most of the time.

The Marshall's had no insurance to cover the damage.

Award Presented

Among Mount St. Vincent Graduates

Among Mount Saint Vincent Graduates in Bachelor of Home Economics, was Miss Anne Marie Belliveau, Magna Cum Laude, graduating with distinction in food and nutrition. Miss Belliveau is from Church Point, Digby County.

Other Home Economics graduates were Miss Simone Marie Comeau, Saulnierville and Miss Judith Anne Dugas, Weymouth, N.S.

At the forty-ninth annual convocation held Sunday, 333 students successfully completed their course of study. The honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters was awarded to Sylva M. Gelber, former director of the Women's Bureau, Department of Labour.

The degrees were conferred by Sister Mary

The Digby Volunteer Fire Department was formally presented with its 1975 fire-prevention award by the town's Fire Committee Chairman, Guy VanTassel. Accepting on behalf of the department were Vaughn Vantassell, Fire Chief and Doug Vantassell, Fire Prevention Officer.

Age 90

Cyclathon Postponed To May 15

Torrents of rain on Saturday morning prevented the Digby Branch Mental Health Cyclathon from taking place and caused a decision to postpone the event until Saturday May 15 at the same hour 9:30 a.m.

Despite the deluge and the announcement that the Cyclathon was postponed there were those who got an early start and had arrived in any case. They included Hon. Bryce Mackasey, Post Master General, who was both to open the event and participate; Miss Coline Campbell, M.P., participant; Andrew Crooks, Mental Health - Nova Scotia, executive secretary; Warden Wilfred Swift of Westport and Mental Health Digby officers and committee members.

The honourable minister will not be able to return for the Cyclathon on the 15th but Miss Campbell will continue to shine and safety-make her 20 year old bicycle to ride for the prizes on Saturday.

Because Mr. Mackasey cannot be present on the 15th, a special souvenir of Nova Scotia planned for him was presented before a few members of the Association available. The presentation was made by Vernon Wessell, president of Mental Health-Digby while Mrs. J.M. Wallis presented to Mr. Mackasey the corsage intended for Mrs. Mackasey who did not make the visit.

It was of particular interest to the officers and members of Mental Health-Digby that both Hon. Bryce Mackasey and Mrs. Mackasey are both highly interested in the cause of good mental health.

SAUNDEROSA STABLES

DIGBY, NOVA SCOTIA

Saunders Stables, another first for Digby, owned by G. L. Saunders Enterprises Limited and operated by Jackie Saunders. The purpose of the stables is to operate a riding school which is under the direction of Jackie. She is well versed in the horse business and teaching young people of all ages. The school has several horses, one to suit every type of rider. The school is also very fortunate to have Mrs. Shelagh Starr from Toronto, Ontario now living in the Digby area, who is an extremely well qualified instructor and has been working with horses all of her life.

"Nero", Top Hunter at Saunders Stables, will be entered in many upcoming competitions this season. Seen with her owner, Jackie Saunders, "Nero" makes an excellent addition to Digby's newest riding school.

Doreen Troupe, Vickie Kynock, and Allison Nichols, are grooming "Captain Gregg" in readiness for this year's season at Saunders Stables.

Riding lessons to all levels and all ages. Private and group-lessons.
Breaking, training, schooling. Qualified instructors.

Digby Recreation Commission Elects Hazelton Chairman

Captain Reginald Hazelton was on Thursday evening elected chairman of the Digby Recreation Commission at the annual meeting held at the Forum. Vice-chairman is Frank Macintosh, secretary, Olive Hazelton and treasurer, Digby Town Clerk.

Representatives on the Board are Captain Hazelton, Digby School Board; Charles Haliburton, Mayor of Digby; Philip Robertson, Deputy Mayor and Ernest Ryan, Digby Board of Trade.

The five elected members on the Commission are Roderick LaForte; Mrs. Olive Hazelton; Frank Macintosh; Donnie Hattie and Richard Daley.

While $6639.10 bills faced the Commission for payment it was passed by regular motion that the smaller bills totalling up to $4000 be cleared off at once and the others be paid as soon as possible when the grants come in.

Kenneth Initski presented his report as manager at the Forum. Much praise was given to Mr. Initski for the manner in which the Forum was run and he was complimented on the appearance of the Forum.

Mr. Initski had several proposals for fund raising for the Forum during the summer, one including the Garden Bros. Three Ring Circus tour coming to Digby. Contracts were authorized by motion.

Charges for such sports as Tennis, Badminton, hery, pellets, etc. were discussed in relation to adding to the Forum revenue and providing sports facilities.

Boer War Veteran Visits Tiverton

Arthur Finamore, 94, veteran of the second Boer War, is visiting his mother-in-law, Mrs. Ella Sollows at Tiverton.

Mrs. Finamore who accompanied her husband on the visit, divulged the information that Mr. Finamore, who is one of two surviving Boer War veterans living in the Saint John area, was recently presented with a silver tray in recognition of services rendered during the decisive Battle of Paardeburg, South Africa, in which he served in 1900. Premier Richard Hatfield made the presentation during recent 76th anniversary observances of the battle.

In recalling memories of the Boer War, the distinguished visitor recalled one dark evening while he was on guard duty, a Padre, barely recognizable in the blackness of the night, came to him and slipped a copy of the New Testament into Mr. Finamore's hand and whispered that the contents of the Book would be most beneficial to him. This is still in his possession and is one of his most cherished souvenirs of that epoch.

Mr. Finamore also served during the second World War. He was not wounded during either war.

Usually, on one's first encounter with this noted gentleman, he will inevitably question, "Can you recite the books of the Bible?" then, without hesitating for the answer, he will proceed to demonstrate how it's done!

Mr. Finamore has always been interested in athletics and has kept himself in top physical condition by participating in all sports. He said, "I have played every game under heaven." He excelled in each one, baseball particularly. He has acquired many medals that prove his achievements in the field of sports. A further mark in recognition of his accomplishments in the field of sports will take place June 5, 1976, when his name will be inducted in the New Brunswick Sports Hall of Fame.

Prior to his retirement, Mr. Finamore was head of the Agriculture Department of New Brunswick. His wife is the former Althea Sollows, native of Tiverton.

Jacqueline Journey, the Digby Legion's successful entry in the Princess Digby contest, was crowned on Saturday night by Gail Buckler, last year's Princess.

Jacqueline, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Journey of Digby. She is a Grade 12 student at Digby Regional High School. Runner-up in the contest was Francine Pothier, 20. Francine, a stenographer with the department of social services, was sponsored by the Digby Kiwanis Club.

The two other candidates were Marlene McCarlie, sponsored by the Digby Board of Trade, and Jean Denton, sponsored by the Kinettes. Saturday's princess-related events started off with the Princess Tea at the Admiral Inn at 4 p.m. This was followed by a dinner at 6 p.m. and a dance at the Knights of Columbus Hall later in the evening.

During the dinner, each of the sponsors made presentations to their contestants. Gloria Webb represented the Legion;

Chet Levy the Kiwanis Club, Ernie Ryan the Board of Trade and Ruth MacKenzie the Kinettes.

After the crowning later that night, Deputy Mayor Phillip Robertson presented the new Princess Digby with a gift of money from the town. She also received gifts from Muttarts Style Shop and Good Neighbour Drug Mart.

The Princess Dinner was put on by the town with the co-operation of Doug French and Jackie Handsaker. Mr. French put on the tea, compliments to the town.

Glenn Smith acted as Master of Ceremonies at events prior to the dance.

The dance turned out to be a full-house event.

Assistance was rendered by Gerry Connely and Steve LeBlanc.

Carman Anderson, who looked after the Princess-events along with Ina Dillon, said the Knights of Columbus are to be thanked for their co-operation.

All events went quite smoothly, Mrs. Anderson said.

Board Of Trade Objects To New Ferry Fares

Increasing fares on the Princess of Acadia ferry service came under attack at the Digby Board of Trade's May meeting.

The new ferry rates, which go into effect on June 1, came to the table while the Board was considering resolutions which might be brought before the AVABT's annual business meeting on June 19.

Arthur Robinson, Chairman of the Board's Transportation Committee, said that mile-for-mile, the rates on the Princess of Acadia are way out of line with other ferry services.

When the increases go into effect, the flat rate for automobiles will rise to $24 from $22, $2 from $1.75 for bicycles, and $3.50 from $3.00 for motorcycles.

The fare for each adult increases to $5.75 from $5 while the regular return fare rises to $10 from $8.75. The return rate for same-day travel will be $8 instead of the previous $7.

Board of Trade members agreed this is one of the priorities they should be working on.

Other matters the board may draw up resolutions on are the intersection of Highway 101 and the Digby turnoff, and the intersection at the Bear River Bridge.

Mr. Robinson said the provincial government should be asked to start Highway 101 from the Bear River Bridge as promised.

He recalled such a promise being made at the sod-turning ceremony at the Bear River Bridge that this section would be done next.

Ernest Ryan noted the need for an intersection and interchange at the bridge.

Returning to the ferry discussion, Leigh Everett charged the government is definitely not as interested in subsidizing this area as they are others. "It hasn't changed a bloody thing... It might as well be a CPR boat," he said, referring to the federal government take over of the boat. Vincent Snow noted the government pours a lot of money into undeveloped areas of the country but said it seems to have backfired in some areas.

Quoting from a 1975 edition of Atlantic Report, he noted family incomes in Halifax are 101.3 per cent of the national average while in Digby they are only 56 per cent. He referred to it as interprovincial disparity.

He questioned what better method there is of raising the economy of an area than by insuring good transportation links. "If they want help this part of the country, this is the best way to do it."

Cyclathon Expectations $1500

Close to one hundred youngsters and adults, including a number of public figures, took part in the Cyclathon on Saturday, sponsored by the Digby Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

Among the public figures participating were Digby Municipal Warden Wilfred Swift, Municipal Clerk Bill MacMillan, Digby M.L.A. Joe Casey and Coline Campbell, M.P. for South-western Nova. Assisting in the operation of the cyclathon were board members of the Digby Mental Health Association and many other volunteers.

Originally scheduled for the previous Saturday, the cyclathon had to be postponed a week, due to a severe rainstorm. Although rain threatened the event again Saturday, skies cleared early in the morning and a sunny day with rather brisk winds greeted the cyclists when they started off shortly after 9 a.m.

Although complete returns are not yet available, Digby Mental Health President G. Vernon Wessell estimated the event would bring in over $1,500. He said the Digby and Kings County branches of the CMHA were the only ones to hold cyclathons in Nova Scotia this year. It is hoped the event will be an annual fund raising activity for CMHA across the province.

Mr. Wessell was warm in his praise for all who took part and for those who supported the cyclists with their pledges. He noted that, while previous commitments had prevented some people taking part on the postponed date, involvement was at a high level. He said the event was a real success and expressed the hope it could be continued on an annual basis.

Digby RCMP Observe Police Week

About 65 percent of all motor vehicle accidents involve the use of alcohol.

That was one of the points Digby RCMP Const.'s David Crouse and Danny Shiers stressed at the Evangeline Shoppers' Mall on Thursday night.

In conjunction with Police Week in Canada, the local RCMP detachment decided to jump on the theme - alcohol and drug abuse, especially how it concerns the use of motor vehicles.

Mechanized Death and Signal 30, two films produced by the Ohio State Highway Patrol was screened between the hours of 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. Const. Crouse estimates the films were viewed by 100 people.

The police also made use of a car which had been involved in an accident at Clementsport. That particular mishap did not involve alcohol. The driver lost control in slippery driving conditions. One adult and one child each suffered a broken arm while the driver received bruises.

Const. Crouse said citizens groups wishing to see the films shown at the Mall or other films can call the local RCMP detachment for arrangements.

Announce Forestry Poster Contest Winners

The Nova Scotia Forestry has announced their poster contest winners which comprise six from Digby County schools. In Digby, Yvette Pollier of St. Patrick's School and Jeff Adams of 94 Warwick were winners.

Other winners were Paulette Dugas, St. Bernard Consolidated School; Rachel Ford, Weymouth Consolidated; Stephen Moir, Smith's Cove Consolidated and Peggy Amoro Barton Consolidated.

Winners in Annapolis County were: Dawn Parker, Middleton MacDonald Con; Maura Doucette, Annapolis

Royal Elem; Kevin Bower, Granville Cons; John Ritchie, R.R. 4, Box 4, Lequille; Fay Ann Potter, Clements Cons; Robert Chute, Middleton MacDonald Cons.

Over 2,600 posters, the largest in recent years, competed for the 108 prizes. The theme "Why I like the Forest" brought out many different ideas from Skidooing in the Forest, Trees are fun to play in, Barns for the animals, A useful source for papers, Maple Syrup and many others. Cheques for the winners will be mailed to School Principals in a few days.

Dyke Repairs Underway

Work is now underway to repair the dyke protecting the St. Mary's Bay Marshland and save the rich farmland here.

The road along the dyke is now being made fit for heavy traffic so clay can be hauled in to fill the holes which resulted from the February 2 Groundhog Day Storm.

Funds for the project are being provided by the Emergency Measures Organization. The final total cost may be in the area of $300,000.

Concerned farmers had expressed fear that the high tides in April might result in further damage. But Wayne Comeau, a marshland owner, said temporary repairs were made in time.

Around Fall or Winter, more rock will be placed on the face of the dyke. The dyke will be a higher than it previously had been.

The repairs program started earlier this month.

Candy Strippers Get Pin And Cap Stripes

Between 70 and 80 persons were served during the Florence Nightingale Tea held in the Digby General Hospital cafeteria on Wednesday afternoon.

The tea was "quite a success" according to one of those involved, Miss Marjorie Tupper.

Winner of the floral arrangement donated by Cameron's Florists was Steve LeBlanc. Tickets had been sold on it.

The floral centrepieces for the tea tables were arranged by Mrs. Chester Levy. Miss Louise Daley arranged the centrepiece for the pouring table.

Those assisting at the tea were Mrs. Carey Clark, Mrs. Phyllis Winchester, Mrs. Amilia Whalley, Mrs. Charlotte Englehart, Mrs. Hilma Woods, Mrs. Celeste Hall, Mrs. Jan Tupper and Marjorie Tupper.

The Florence Nightingale Tea is held annually on or near National Hospital Day which this year fell on May 12. It is sponsored by the Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary.

One of the afternoon's attractions was the awarding of pin and cap-stripes to the Candy Strippers. Gertrude Melanson also received a Certificate of Achievement.

EXHIBITIONS HELP FOOD PRODUCTION

There is nothing more important than finding food to feed the hungry mouths throughout the world today and being assured that enough will be found to continue to sustain people in our own country and in what we term the underdeveloped countries of the world. Canada will invest more than one billion dollars over the next five years to assist developing countries increase food production, we read. That, however, does not relieve us from using our own land to best advantage.

What can we do about it? The country seems so vast. The future has not been looking so promising. Nevertheless, it is only by each doing his or her small part that food production can be increased. We can plant gardens. We can voice our opinions on using land for food producing or for covering with pavement. We can do our bit in conserving the land.

Whether or not we do these we can all do our share in encouraging and helping with those exhibitions that were at one time designed specifically to improve agriculture. There are fourteen exhibitions in Nova Scotia and fourteen will be operating this summer. One is our own Digby County Exhibition in Bear River. If you cannot plant a garden or prune the trees or such work each can find some way to aid in the exhibition and consequently add to food production by doing so. The main original purpose of exhibitions might have slipped, agriculture itself, probably slipped, but with so much talk of a hungry world and so much talk of rise in prices, it might be well to get back to the land. We can promote this some through exhibitions. Farmers learn new methods and best ways of producing. They thrive by competition and are encouraged by talking with others.

Springtime planting is here. Plant with the exhibition in mind and keep up the exhibition interest throughout the summer. You will add to the social and economic life of the community and add to food production in general.

BOAT SAFETY

Summer and vacation is just about on us. Already boat enthusiasts are beginning to prepare for the summer launching and some have been enjoying the pleasure of boating along with sport fishing trips. Still others use boats to earn their bread and butter. All in all, it is boating by whatever term.

Whatever the reason for using a boat, the same safety cautions must be exercised. Probably one of the most dangerous practices is overloading the boat. How many people can be safely carried will depend on the type of boat, the water conditions (wind, etc.) and the distribution of passengers or equipment.

Like any other means of travel, there are "rules of the road."

Do not stand up when starting an outboard motor; be sure to wear a life jacket; carry an anchor and sufficient rope or chain; obey fire precaution regulations and at night carry red flares; slow down when passing dredges and when making sharp turns. Do not try to "buck it" when a storm threatens, instead, head for the nearest safe anchorage or landing. Don't be a "show-off" and don't mix liquor and boating. These are just some rules of the road to learn and practice.

The Minister of Transport, Otto Lang, Ottawa, Ontario, has issued the 1976 Boating Safety Guide which contains much useful information. It teaches the marine distress signals; fuelling, licensing and many more of the do's and don'ts than we have named. Why not have one.

Oh, yes, there is a Safe Boating Week. It is July 1 to 7 and endorsed by nearly twenty organizations such as Boy Scouts, boating associations, health organizations, yacht clubs, Naval Associations of Canada, Canada Safety Council, etc. You will probably hear from us again before or on the week of 1 to 7. In the meantime, take care. We do not want you to drown or anything happen to you while we wait for a special week of observance to come.

Letter To The Editor

Opinions expressed in the Letters to the Editor are not necessarily those of this newspaper. Editor.

THE EDITOR

DIGBY COURIER
During the past two weeks, my wife Doris, and I, visited in Ottawa. Because of the happiness I found there, I wish to relate some of our experiences. First, was to be united with our son John, his wife Diane, and young grandchildren, Lisa, Mark and Paul, at their home in Manor Park. The inclement weather, didn't effect our being able to participate in the life of this beautiful city. Ottawa being a city where beautiful landscapes, flowers and residential areas are, made it easy for me to appreciate the market place, where we saw thousands of floral displays, natural food products, etc. The people themselves, in throngs, contrary to any thought of confusion, made it a pleasure to be there.

We had the pleasure of attending confirmation service, in Notre Dame Cathedral, a beautiful gothic edifice which to me, a student of Architecture, exemplifies beauty of proportion and exquisite detail. Our grandson, Mark, was one of many candidates being confirmed. Happiness is to behold beauty, and I found so much to inspire me here.

Through the courtesy of a Member of Parliament who invited us to lunch, we had the pleasure of sitting in the House of Parliament Restaurant, in the company of many M.P.'s. We also took seats in the Public Gallery, to hear the Questions and Answers period. Hearing first hand some of the deliberations that are so much a basis for the enactment of laws governing our way of life, left me with a more profound appreciation of government, of total government, that all members, even if in minority and in Opposition must be appreciated. No effort or desire should be exercised to minimize a possible contribution to better Canadian life.

I would not want to omit our desire to thank the wonderful people who were responsible for our comfort and enjoyment during our flight to Ottawa and return. I was invited to the flight deck of the jet-liner, to meet the captain and pilot.

One cannot but be impressed by the multitude of dials, gauges, etc., which communicates to the captain and pilot, every reaction of this wonderful machine.

All in all, our visit was most memorable. I am thankful for the many nice people we met, and for the way we were treated. I thank our Lord for his guidance, especially while we were in flight. I confess I am not very brave, and even the beauty of earth and clouds below, didn't make me forget we were six miles high.

Smith's Cove

(Phyllis S. Winchester)

Mr. and Mrs. H.H. Oliver, Ensenada, Puerto Rico, have arrived at their home, "The Highlands" for the summer months.

Mr. LeMert Raymond is a patient at the Yarmouth Regional Hospital.

Miss Jennie Mills, Granville Ferry, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Milner for several days last week.

Miss Patricia Milner, R.N., Toronto, has moved back to the Cove and is employed at the Digby General Hospital.

We welcome to our community Vernon Adams, formerly of Bear River, who has purchased the Hugh Dickie property.

A belated congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Thomas who observed their 33rd Wedding Anniversary on May 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jefferson returned last week after enjoying a trip to British Columbia and Seattle, Washington.

Princess Weekend Sailings Increase

The CP Rail-operated Princess of Acadia will increase its Saturday and Sunday sailings, effective May 15. Saturday departures from Saint John will be at 12:15 a.m., 10:45 a.m. and 6:15 p.m. while return trips from Digby will be at 4:45 a.m., 2:45 p.m. and 9:45 p.m.

Sunday departures from Saint John will be at 10:45 a.m. and 6:15 p.m., and from Digby at 2:45 and 9:45 p.m. Monday departure from Saint John will be at 11:00 a.m. with return trip leaving Digby at 4:45 p.m.

Tuesday through Friday sailings from Saint John will be at 12:15 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. and return trips departing Digby at 4:45 a.m. and 4:45 p.m.

The new schedule will remain in effect until June 17 when weekday sailings will be increased to three.

Clare Tax Rates Set

Clare Municipal Council has set this area's tax rate at $2.25 per $100 of assessment for residential ratepayers and $3.10 for commercial.

For residential ratepayers this means a decrease of 25 cents from last year's general rate of $2.50. Commercial ratepayers are faced with an increase of 60 cents.

Acadia University Professor's Address On "Belief"

"WHY—What is belief, How do you express it, and It's up to You", was the theme of the Maritime Conference of United Church Women held recently in Truro with delegates attending from the Maritime Provinces and Bermuda.

Concern was expressed regarding the amount of crime, violence, sex and language seen and heard on television programs watched by children. It was resolved to urge the Federal government and the CRTC to do everything in their power to bring purer types of programs for viewing.

The Canadian Government was urged to spend one per cent of its gross income on foreign aid.

It was also resolved to continue to protest against any extension of permits for gambling casinos.

Dr. J.R.C. Perkin, head of the Dept. of Religious Studies at Acadia University, addressed three study sessions on the meaning and expression of belief. Dr. Perkin defined belief as a set of attitudes which shape our lives; these being expressed as intellectual, emotional, devotional and practical. Dr. Perkin defined belief in the Christian sense as a belief in the reliability of God and experience of the resurrection of Jesus.

Highlights of Saturday evening's celebration were "Cool in the Furnace", a musical presentation of the Jews captivity in Babylon, "Music Makers" from Pictou, under the direction of the Rev. Hugh Farquhar and the Nova Scotia Youth Training Choir directed by Carmel Carrigan.

Speaker of the morning church service at St. David's United Church was past-president, Mrs. Marty Walker, Mosherville, N.S., whose theme was "Journey to Wholeness".

Officers elected were Mrs. Barbara Stewart, Dalhousie, N.B., president, Maritime Conference, U.C.W.; Mrs. Madeline McGowan, Antigonish, vice-president; Mrs. Ruth Thorton, Dartmouth, treasurer; Mrs. Jean Scott, Bathurst, N.B., corresponding secretary and Mrs. Florence Young, Douglastown, N.B., recording secretary.

Donald Ross Succeeds Hannah

Donald G. Ross has been appointed by the Digby Regional School Board to the position of Principal of the Digby Regional High School Junior and Senior sections. He replaces Lister W. Hannah who has resigned to accept the position of Headmaster at the International School Moshi, Tanzania.

Mr. Ross has been involved in the teaching profession for the past 18 years, both as a teacher and administrator. His services as a teacher have been in the Montreal area where he taught mathematics and history. His administrative experience includes responsibilities as Department Head of Education in an overseas teacher's training college and administration from a military point of view through his active services with the Militia. Mr. Ross has been involved in curriculum development, scheduling, implementation of new programs, administration of a professional staff responsible for teacher training and supervision of practice teaching by teachers in training.

Mr. Ross's formal academic education led to a Bachelor of Arts in history from Sir George Williams University; Bachelor of Education from Bishop's University; and Master of Education from Bishop's. In addition, he has completed a number of business courses at Loyola including finance, procedural accounting, management accounting and marketing.

Mr. Ross is married with two sons. His wife has pursued an academic career and possesses a Bachelor of Art with a major in library science. He and his family are expected in Digby early in August.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Nelson Pingree of Newberryport, Mass., and daughter, Mrs. Judith Walters of Los Angeles, California, have been guests of Mrs. Ruth Swiber, Digby; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Potter, Mrs. Owen Balcomb and Mr. and Mrs. Creighton Balcomb, Clementsport. It was their first time to Nova Scotia.

Digby Presents Drama And Music To Oakdene Home And School

The Oakdene Home and School Association was pleased to have members of the Digby Regional High School Drama Group attend their meeting on May 3, 1976. The play "The Death of The Hired Man" was enjoyed by all present. Thanks were extended to Rupert Haley and all members of the group for this delightful presentation.

Following a lunch, a short business meeting was held, chaired by the President, Mrs. Williams. The Book Award was won by Frank Marshall's Grade 8 class.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, May 31st.

This will be a Musical Concert and several groups and individuals will be entertaining. The Community Band of Digby and area under the direction of Don Scott, will be the highlight of the program. It is hoped the New Horizon's Choral Group, the 1st Bear River Girl Guide Co., as well as individuals will be offering vocal selections.

The concert will begin at 7:30 p.m. and everyone is welcome. There will be a small admission charge and fudge will be sold at the door.

Happiness is helping.

Joan Pell Gets Appointment

Consumer & Corporate Affairs Regional Director, W.A. Empeke, today announced the appointment by the Public Service Commission of Mrs. Jean Pell, Yarmouth, formerly of the Valley, to the position of Manager Consumer Services for the Atlantic Region.

Prior to joining the Department, Mrs. Pell had been with Information Canada, joining that agency early in 1973 to help develop and administer the highly-successful mobile officer program. Mrs. Pell was later involved with the development and implementation of other programs in the Atlantic region and nationally. She served in Ottawa for several months as Acting Chief of Regional Co-ordination. In the Maritimes she is perhaps best known as the author, for 20 years, of the CBC program, "The Gillans".

In her new position, which became effective April 12, Mrs. Pell will be responsible for administering the Department's Consumer Services policies and

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. C. Bailey Gidney and Reid of Sandy Cove were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Gidney, Northfield, and also visited Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lowe at Bridgewater.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hattie have returned after visiting three and a half weeks in Lahr, Germany with their daughter and family, M.W.O. MacDonald. While there they also visited France and Switzerland and many parts of Germany. Judy MacDonald sent regards to all her friends in Digby.

Notes From Bird Haven

The Yellow Warblers are back with us singing their sweet song. They build their nests in low shrubs or hedges and with the price of building materials I am sure they would appreciate some hand out of very short pieces of string and cotton wool for insulating.

It takes them some time to find a suitable location. Have seen them build a nest, then change their minds and move it to another site and finally move it all back to the original spot.

Had a wee black duck brought in last week picked up in the road by a gentleman. There was no sign of any mother or other babies around.

Looked up in my books Bird Ambulance to see what to feed it. It refused all food but did drink water and played in it, however it did not make the grade. I found it dead within a few hours.

Maybe it was retarded and its mother disowned it. That happens in bird life.

Another visitor for overnight was brought in by friends in Smith Cove. It was an immature Gannett, a large sea bird with webbed feet and a wing spread of over forty inches. It had spent the day in a field and was tormented by some gulls.

It was placed in a large cage and in the morning took it to the shore where it would be able to fend for itself. There were no broken wings or legs. Maybe it is like the little Doveki, has to be in water to take off.

This is the season of the year when they are nesting by the thousands on the Gaspé Coast. How they ever find their own nest is a mystery.

My Oriole was released last week and do I miss his lovely song. Hope he has met up with more of his kind. Several have been reported.

I hope the Squirrels Lady will enjoy her Squirrels as much as I do my birds. Welcome to Nova Scotia.

If you want a lovely drive go around Acadia Valley. It is full of Shad brush and lovely shade of green leaves.

So Long
The Bird Lady.

Men Score In Pool

Down eight points to two after a swift opening attack by Branch 20's "Happy Hookers" team of ladies, the men's pool team rallied to tie the first round of the First Annual Ladies vs Men Pool Tournament to force a tie and then to salvage a win in a tie-breaking second round. Final score: MEN- 13, LADIES- 11.

The tournament was a result of a winter-long program of pool instruction and practice by the ladies, a number of whom had never handled a cue before, and all of whom gave a good account of themselves around the green-covered tables. An enthusiastic gallery stayed with the tournament on Saturday afternoon, May 15, at the Legion Hall and considerable surprise was expressed at the progress the ladies had made during their practice sessions. And lest anyone be confused as to the origin of their club name: Happy Hookers, and perhaps identifying it with a well-known book by the same name, let it be said that the term originated because of the ability of the ladies to leave their opponents "hooked" - i.e., in a difficult position for playing their next shot.

With a team lineup of Virginia Gupell, Barbara Van Tassel, Pat Burns, Simone Sibley, Betty Simms and Roddy Knowlton, the ladies had as their opponents, Jimmy Simms, Fred Smith, Dick Sibley, Keith Van Tassel, Vic Kynock and Ed Knowlton, and the rallying cry of the Happy Hookers after their two-point defeat by the men was: Wait till next year!!!!

A suitable trophy designed by Dave Wood, was the prize and will be on display in the Legion Trophy Case as part of the permanent trophy collection.

Wedding Bells

HAIGHT-BANKS

A pretty spring wedding took place on May 1, 1976 at the home of the bride when Annie Doris, only daughter of the late, Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Banks of Bear River N.S., was united in marriage to Donald Albert son of Mrs. Warren Haight and the late James Curtis Haight of North Range, N.S. Rev. R.R. Winchester officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. R.R. Winchester presided at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Arnold, was attired in a floor length gown of pink crimpoline with a pink nylon flowered bodice. Her head dress was daisies and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and daisies. She was attended as matron of honor by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Rose Banks, who wore a floor length gown of aqua crimpoline trimmed in white. She carried a nosegay of pink roses and daisies.

The groom was attended by his brother, Keith, of Montague, P.E.I., Mrs. Haight, mother of the groom chose a two piece dress in purple with black accessories and was wearing a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Royal Canadian Legion hall.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Arnold Banks and responded to by the groom. Mrs. Lila Harris friend of the bride served the bridal party. Miss Crystal Beals, Nictaux Falls, niece of the groom was in charge of the guest book.

Later the bride and groom left on a honeymoon trip through the Annapolis Valley and Halifax. For travelling the bride chose a pant suit of white and navy with a corsage of red carnations.

The couple will reside in Bear River, the groom is employed at C.F.B. Cornwallis.

Surviving are a son Pierre, Little Brook Station; eight grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

Funeral service was held from Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Concession, Wednesday at 10 a.m., Rev. Emmanuel Gallant officiating. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

WELCH-DELSEY

A wedding of interest took place recently in Westport, as William Welch and Carol (Morehouse) Delsey were united in marriage by the Rev. J.W. Derby, former minister in Westport for many years. On Saturday, May 1, at the home of Mr. Sidney Morehouse, Mr. Derby performed a beautiful ceremony, including readings, scripture, and admonitions on the beauties and duties of marriage, as he conducted the single ring ceremony.

The bride, wearing a pale blue floor length gown and short veil, carried a blue and white bouquet attached to her late grandmother's Bible, and wore a string of pearls which had been in the family for three generations. Attending the bride was her cousin Mary MacDormand, in a pink floor length gown and with a matching bouquet in pink and white.

Mrs. Norma Morehouse, mother of the bride, wore a full-length blue gown with jacket, while Mrs. Gertrude Welch, mother of the groom wore a full-length coral gown and both wore corsages of tinted pink carnations. Special guest was Mrs. Cora Thompson, grandmother of the groom, who wore a smart green suit-dress with corsage of yellow tinted carnations.

The guests, who consisted of immediate family members only, were ushered to their places by Master Michael Bezan.

The groom, dressed in a smartly tailored grey suit was attended by his brother, Mr. Phillip Welch. As the bride and her attendant descended the lovely old staircase, the two daughters of the bride, Joy and Sandra, played and sang "Joy Overflowing, Peace Like a River." Mr. Sidney Morehouse, father of the bride, gave her away.

Joy and Sandra, who also wore floor-length gowns with tinted carnation corsages, provided interim music by singing their version of "Four Strong Winds" and accompanied the exit of the bride and groom with "I've Got Love Everlasting."

The ceremony was followed by a lovely reception put on by the ladies of the Christian Church and included a prettily decorated wedding cake made by Miss

GHAHAM-LEWIS

On April 10 at 2:00 p.m. a lovely spring wedding took place at the Baptist Church Digby, when Shirley Leona, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Graham, became the bride of Graham Clayton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Lewis. Rev. Murray Shaw performed the double ring ceremony. The bride looked lovely in a floor length gown of blue polyester knit, with full cape sleeves and a V-neck plunging to an empire waistband. She wore a blue picture hat to match. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white daisies, lily of the valley.

Carol Graham, sister of the bride was bridesmaid. She wore a floor length gown of blue flower print made of polyester cotton, and a corsage of red roses.

Stanley Lewis, brother of the groom was best man. Flower girls were Karen Graham and Lillian Graham, nieces of the bride. They wore floor length gowns of blue gingham and carried bouquets of red roses. For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother chose a floor length gown of blue polyester knit, and a corsage of red roses.

The groom's mother chose a peach polyester knit floor length gown and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Knights of Columbus Hall. The Hall was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers. The bride's table held a beautiful 3-tier wedding cake. The bride and groom served their own cake.

Serving the bride's table was Joan Lewis sister of the groom and Sherri Lewis sister-in-law of the groom. Gloria Graham, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

The happy couple spent their honeymoon in Annapolis Valley. They are residing in Digby where the groom is employed at the Digby Forging Machine Shop.

Play School Now Open

Digby has finally acquired a licensed play school for pre-schoolers. With the sanction of the Department of Social Services, the Hilltop Play school officially opened its doors this week.

Owner Bob O'Flaherty this week outlined the policy and facilities which will be offered.

"This is something which Digby has been lacking for some time," he explained. "It is more than just a nursery, and is geared to the needs of the children and provides excellent preschool experience."

The staff includes Cathy LeBlanc, who will be in charge of the personal supervision of the children, and her assistant Donna Flaherty. Both have had experience in day-care training and have worked with other organizations in the past. As well, Brenda Dunphy, a qualified teacher, is on staff as a consultant, and will be assisting in setting up the on-going program schedule.

The school will be open from Monday to Friday, and is located two miles out the Lighthouse Road. It is housed in a new building, over 2,000 square feet, and includes full kitchen facilities. Each child will receive two snacks per day, as well as a home cooked full course lunch.

There is a reading-story telling room, a sick-nap room, a "muck room" for creative arts such as clay and finger painting, coloring, and paper mache. The main game room is available for playing with toys, games and various play activities. There is also a full basement for more open activities such as riding, swings, and dancing.

The facilities are open to children from two to six years, providing they are toilet trained. Hilltop has room for up to 20 children at the present time.

Individual needs and educational oriented activities are stressed. And there is no television.

"Whatever you can find on television for children we hope to be able to supply at Hilltop in real life, whether it be through puppet shows, music, guided discussions or whatever would be considered advantageous to the child concerned," concluded Mr. O'Flaherty.

Horticultural Societies Report At Annual

Sixteen members of the Admiral Digby Horticultural Society attended the annual meeting of the District of Western Nova Scotia Garden Clubs held in the Baptist Hall at Annapolis Royal on Thursday evening, May 13. Mrs. Winnie Smith, president of the Champlain Garden Club, welcomed the out-of-town members and acted as hostess for the evening. Jack Harris of Bear River, president of the Nova Scotia Association of Garden Clubs, and in his capacity as district chairman, directed the program and introduced the personnel taking part. From the Provincial Association Mr. Harris brought news of the annual convention scheduled for August 6 and 7 with registration required by July 1. He also announced the establishment of a Memorial Fund to honour deceased members of the provincial clubs, the money from which will be used to build up the slides library. Mr. Harris also made a strong plea for a director for Western Nova Scotia clubs so that he need no longer serve in the dual capacity.

After roll-call, which showed the Digby Club to have the largest representation, each club made a report of its activities. Mrs. Betty Hankinson reported for Weymouth; Mary Marshall for Digby; Mrs. Rae Gilliat for Hill n' Dale, Bear River; Mrs. Percy for Champlain, and Ted Selig for Wilnot. Each club also contributed an informative item to the program: Dorothy Hall showed and described a unique plant; Mrs. Rae Gilliat, a gardening apron to hold tools as well as protect the gardener's slack; Mabel Marshall a demonstration of making pictures from dried flowers and grasses; Mrs. Hall Troy of Granville added her attractive pictures to Miss Marshall's collection.

Door prizes donated by the members of the hostess club and distributed during the evening were a pink, blooming geranium, an African violet, gardening gloves, and bags of fertilizer.

A quiz competition based upon information contained in the Garden Clubs' paper, The Landscape News, was conducted by Jack Harris and won by Bear River, which team will take part in the provincial quiz competition in August. The Digby Club, represented by Mrs. Maud Ellis, Mrs. Hubert Warne, Mrs. Bruce Gilliat, and Verna Hanf placed second in a tie with the Weymouth Club.

Bruce Gilliat, local Department of Agriculture representative showed slides and explained the organic matter in the soil, using a script and slides prepared by Tom Haliburton also also of the Department of Agriculture, and showed what constitutes life in the soil. He pointed out that organic matter in the soil of this area is 13 percent compared with, for example, the 5 or 6 percent of King's County area. Two inches in organic mulch, Mr. Gilliat advised, should be turned into the soil each year, and lime should be added to decompose it.

Al Ford and A. Petrie of Port Williams, brought to the convention bags of Valley Blend, a fertilizer that their company developed from hen manure, peat moss, and lime. Each club was given a twenty-five pound bag of the mix, a donation from the Port Williams company.

The Digby Couriers' Annapolis-Digby Baptist Ministers' Institute Hears Dr. J.R.C. Perkin

The Annapolis-Digby County Baptist Ministers' Institute met last Wednesday at the home of the Area Minister, Rev. Eugene Thompson, Middleton, and heard Dr. J.R.C. Perkins of Acadia University speaking on the subject of Religious Radio Broadcasting. Dr. Perkin presented some practical ideas for the preparation and presentation of Religious Broadcasting for the shorter devotional programs and for the hour long church service.

Blend, a fertilizer that their company developed from hen manure, peat moss, and lime. Each club was given a twenty-five pound bag of the mix, a donation from the Port Williams company.

Les Blackburn, a technologist in ornamental landscaping of the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture, showed slides and explained the care of trees with special attention to correct pruning of trees and shrubs.

Attending from the Admiral Digby Horticultural Society were Mrs. Bruce Hutchins, President; Mrs. Kate Daley; Mabel Marshall; Mrs. Frank Larche; Mrs. Bess Hayden; Verna Hanf; Mr. and Mrs. Don White; Mary Marshall; Elsie Robertson; Mrs. Maud Ellis; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gilliat, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Warner and Mrs. Percy Robert.

vices presented over the Valley network. Dr. Perkin illustrated his address with tape recordings of programs he had prepared and presented over Atlantic radio stations.

Rev. Willard Smith, Lawrencetown, chairman, presided over the meeting and conducted the opening devotions. Officers appointed for the 1976-1977 session were, Rev. Ronald Baxter, Nictaux, chairman; Rev. George Allen, Bridgetown, vice-chairman; Rev. Gordon DeLong, Paradise, secretary-treasurer.

Following the presentation of the program by Dr. Perkin an interesting and profitable discussion took place, and, at the conclusion of the meeting, the host and hostess, Rev. and Mrs. Eugene Thompson, served a delicious buffet dinner to the ministers and their wives.

Doucetteville (Louise Comeau)

Garry Thibault of Halifax spent the week end visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elisee Thibault. On Monday his mother accompanied him as far as Annapolis.

A speedy recovery to Laura Robicheau who has recently returned from the Digby General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Elisee Thibault and Mr. and Mrs. Delphis Comeau enjoyed dinner at the House of Wong on Mother's Day.

Mrs. Robert Theriault and her mother, Mrs. Mazuca, motored to Halifax on Saturday. They visited Mrs. Emile Amaro who is a patient at the V.G. hospital.

Sympathy is extended to the family of the late Ernie Robicheau of Sudbury, Ontario, who passed away suddenly. Mr. Robicheau was formerly of Doucetteville.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hall

Presented With 60-Year Jewel

BERWICK— Right Worshipful Brother Beals was presented with his 60 year jewel at the regular meeting of Valley Lodge No. 90. The jewel was presented by Grand Master of Masons, J. G. Veinot, who made this special evening his regular visit to the Lodge. A large gathering attended the meeting for this occasion. Right Worshipful Brother Beals was initiated April 18, 1916; passed in June and raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason in July 1916 in the Keith Lodge, Bear River, N.S. He affiliated with Valley Lodge No. 90 on April 19, 1926 and went right to work. He served the Lodge as Worshipful Master in 1926; was appointed treasurer in 1927 and served in that capacity until 1959, when he was then elected secretary and served from 1959 to 1961. In 1966 he was appointed District Deputy Grand Master and served in that office with distinction. Brother Beals has been connected with the history of Valley Lodge since its 25th anniversary and helped write the history to that date. He still continues to write its history, being the historian for many years.

Brother Beals is also a 50 year Royal Arch Mason. Masonry has been benefited by this long association of R. W. Brother Beals and Valley Lodge owes him a deep debt of gratitude for his integrity, companionship and sound advice over this period of years.

Not least of his contribution to Valley Lodge has been his voluntarily assuming the duties of caretaker of the Temple since its construction with no financial remuneration... For this and the other numerous contributions of R. W. Brother Beals the members of Valley Lodge say "thank-you" and may you enjoy many years of continued good health.

Fire Destroys Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Philips, Clementsvalle, was completely destroyed by fire on Monday evening. The fire started around 9:00 o'clock in the evening and when the Bear River Volunteer Fire Department arrived the home was completely engulfed in flames. Cause of the fire is not definite but it is believed to have started around the kitchen stove.

Mr. and Mrs. Philips, who have a two month old baby, lost all their personal possessions and have no insurance coverage. The Clementsvalle Baptist Church has started a campaign for clothes for the parents and child. They can be left at the parsonage. Mr. Philips is a carpenter at CFB Cornwallis and lost all his carpenter tools. Neighbors will construct a new home for the Philips' family, it is understood, if donations of building materials can be supplied to them.

Institute Elects Hilda Mullen President

The New Tusket and area Womens Institute met at the Havelock Consolidated School on May 10th. It being the annual business meeting, much business was discussed and the minutes of the last annual meeting was read as well as the minutes of the April meeting.

The members have all been busy during the past year and plan on another busy year. Several quilts have been quilted during the year, including one made and quilted by the Institute and sent on to Truro to be judged and then sent on to a Rally which is being held later on in Prince Edward Island. Another quilt is being made by the W.I. Group at the present time.

The Sammy Sea Gull garbage bags were distributed to the members and others to the Schools.

Next meeting will be in the form of a pot luck supper during the month of June. It will be in the community.

The Nominating Committee's Report resulted in the following officers: President Hilda Mullen; 1st Vice President, Rilla Barr; 2nd Vice President, Rosalie Mullen; Secretary, Dianna Mullen; Treasurer, Sheila Mullen; Program Committee, Audrey Frankland and Judy Mullen; Ways and Means Committee, Audrey Zimmerman and Linda Sabean; Refreshment Committee, Edith Sabean; Home Economics, Phyllis Mullen, and Lorraine Barr; Membership Committee, Helen Goudey and Judy Prime and Directors Glenice Sabean, Jean (Mrs. Austin) Mullen, Florence McCollough and Judy Prime.

Each committee having the power to add, if needed.

Speaks On Acadian Settlers

Rev. Msgr. Nil Theriault, pastor of St. Bernard, was guest speaker of the general meeting of La Societe Historique Acadienne de la Baie Ste Marie (Acadian historical Society of St. Mary's Bay) on May 10th, at College Ste. Anne in Church Point. A very good attendance on hand. Rev. Theriault spoke on the Acadians settled in Louisiana and also showed slides of the area that he had visited recently in the states of Louisiana, near Lafayette.

The first Acadians to arrive in Louisiana numbered 20 and settled in 1764. These people were originally deported from Grand Pre in 1755 to other United States area on the eastern seaboard, who decided to immigrate to Louisiana. In 1765 a group from Baltimore arrived to settle in Louisiana. Today the Acadians number 300,000. Rev. Theriault told the group that he stayed with a Boudreau family and he was treated royally by them. The descendants in the area near Lafayette where he visited were very hospitable and they spoke in French quite similar to the people of Clare. A certain number of the Acadian descendants could not speak English.

He visited Church Point a town of quite large proportion in Louisiana (in a district called originally "district of Opelousas"). The first chapel of Immaculate Heart of Mary of Plaquemine Brule or Church Point so named today was built in what is now Acadia civil parish in 1849.

Many Acadians of Louisiana have the same family names as those in Clare but he said he could not find any descendants of the Belliveau family. He also stated that Mr. and Mrs. Pierre-Alphonse Belliveau and family had visited the French area in Louisiana after he had made his visit.

Mr. J. Alphonse Deveau, president over the meeting and Rev. Msgr. Theriault was introduced to the entire group, most of whom knew him very well. The business of the historical society was very short to allow more time with the guest speaker. Rev. Theriault presented a showing of slides that he had taken while visiting Louisiana with fitting commentaries.

RCMP Constables David Crouse and Danny Shiers are shown with the damaged motor vehicle on display at the Evangeline Shoppers' Mall on May 13.

Uphold Indian Rights

Chief Leona Pictou of the Indian Reserve, Bear River; George Labrador and Violet Harlow, of the same reserve, recently attended the sixth annual Assembly of Nova Scotia Indians held at the Abenaki Hotel, Truro.

Will Basque, Shubenacadie, president of the Boston Indian Council, in speaking before the Assembly urged that Canadian people instead of trying to take away Micmac's aboriginal rights, should be trying to achieve the same rights Micmac's have. He said the educational system which teaches that North American history began in 1492, and that Canadian history began in 1867 has robbed the Canadian people much of their own natural history. It was obvious to Micmacs who had lived in Nova Scotia for more than 11,000 years that Canada was more than 100 years old, he said. Throughout this time the Micmac way of life, based on giving and sharing and a respect for all living things, had evolved, Mr. Basque said.

Further to the annual Assembly meeting Chief Pictou referred in her interview to information in the March 1976 Supplement to MicMac News. The article referred to the "historic ruling of Indians free to hunt at anytime." Mrs. Pictou felt many people did not realize that the provisions of the Nova Scotia Lands and Forests Act did not apply to Indians on an Indian Reserve, noting that Chief Justice Ian M. MacKeigan, of the appeal division, Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, overturned a decision of Judge Leo MacIntyne of Port Hawkesbury Magistrate's Court, which had convicted an Indian, Stephen Isaac, of hunting at Barra Head, with no license and out of season.

The story in the MicMac News quotes the Chief Justice as follows:

"Does a provision of a Nova Scotia Act regulating the hunting of game apply to an Indian hunting on an Indian reserve? In my opinion we should answer 'no' to that question."

Chief Justice MacKeigan said: "The legislative history confirms that Parliament has always considered regulation of hunting on reserves as its prerogative."

"The Indian Act as it was before the 1951 revision delegated no regulatory power as to hunting, except that the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs was given the control and management of all Indian land."

"...I conclude that Indians on Nova Scotia reserves have a usufructory right in the reserve land, a legal right to use that land and its resources, including, of course, the right to hunt on that land."

In my opinion that right arises in our customary or common law, was confirmed by Royal Proclamation of 1963 and other authoritative declarations was preserved in respect of reserve lands when they were originally set apart

Child Killed In Amherst

Six year old Margo Moses, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Moses, Amherst, formerly of Digby and Yarmouth, died on Tuesday afternoon, May 11 when struck by a motorcycle near her home in Amherst. The child died enroute to the hospital in Moncton, N.B. after the accident. The driver of the motorcycle was Brian Johnson of Tyndale Road.

Margo Jill is survived by her parents, brother Michael, and sisters Marcia and Melanie and by maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bethune, Port Maitland.

A funeral service was held in Amherst on Wednesday evening and burial was on Thursday in the Hillside Cemetery, South Ohio, Yarmouth County.

Princesses Meet Public On Friday

Apple Blossom Princesses representing towns and villages from Digby to Windsor at the 44th Annapolis Valley Apple Blossom Festival, will make their public debut as a group at the annual Blossom Tea in the Kentville Fire Hall on Friday afternoon, June 4.

Digby's princess is Miss Jacqueline Journeay, who was chosen at an Apple Blossom Festival Dance on Saturday.

The Blossom Tea is open to the entire Annapolis Valley and provides Valley residents with the first opportunity to see the many princesses together and "second guess the judges" on the choice for Queen Annapolis 44th.

The princesses will be escorted to the tea and introduced by the mayors and village commissioners, and each will briefly address the gathering while under the watchful eyes of the queen's judges. The judges will be present for the tea, as well as earlier Annapolis Valley Radio interviews and an evening banquet before announcing their choice for the 1976 Apple Blossom Queen.

National TV host Jim Perry will be master of ceremonies at the tea and arrangements are being made by the Kentville Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary under the direction of Mrs. George Coleman.

Admission is $1.50. The first event on the 1976 Festival calendar, and a new musical treat this year is a Blossom Concert by the senior Kentville School Symphonic Band under the direction of Mr. John Herman.

The versatile and talented 37-member senior high school band will perform a diversified program ranging from light classics to modern and show tune selections.

The concert will be held at Denton Hall, Acadia University, Wolfville, on June 2nd at 8 p.m.

Apple Blossom Festival T-shirts, one of the nov 1 fund raisers for this year's Festival, are on sale in limited quantities at several locations from Digby to Windsor.

The white T-shirts, imprinted with Apple Blossom Festival and Dan D. Apple, are being offered in boys and mens small, medium and large sizes.

Gets Masters In Library Service

Holly Elaine (Berry) Lewis, Halifax, was awarded a Master of Library Service degree at the first Convocation of the Faculty of Administrative Studies at Dalhousie University held Friday morning, May 14, in the Rebecca Cohn Auditorium. Mrs. Lewis holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Acadia University, Wolfville.

Attending the convocation were her husband, Paul, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Berry, Smith's Cove.

This long weekend could be your last weekend.

During the long weekends last year, 13 people were killed on Nova Scotia roads. Who killed them?

The biggest single cause of traffic accidents is inattention on the part of the driver.

It's a fact that about 50% of all traffic fatalities involve drinking drivers.

Not wearing seatbelts is another factor. During 1975, 26 people in Nova Scotia died when they were thrown from their vehicles. They were not wearing seatbelts.

Think about it. And realize that you just can't afford to relax until you get where you're going.

Highway Safety — it all depends on you!

Twin Cities opens modern plant

Most efficient dairy plant ever, product of farmers determination to market milk

In 1961 a few Nova Scotian farmers met in the kitchen of a Windsor farmhouse to share a dream. The dream was modest — a milk-marketing operation owned by the milk producers themselves.

From the kitchen meeting and the realization of that modest dream has come the most modern milk processing plant in the world. The only cheese plant in Nova Scotia. The only spray dry milk powder plant in Atlantic Canada. The first only butter, margarine spread plant in Canada. An assured market for all their product upon which Nova Scotia's dairy farmers can build to meet the competitive demands of today's dairy industry. The first butter, vegetable oil spread in Canada. An assured market for all the milk farmers can produce upon which farmers can plan, build and prosper. An assured supply of milk permitting the building of plants to manufacture milk products. Retention of broad Nova Scotia ownership of a basic industry.

The official opening of Twin Cities' new Hammonds Plains milk processing plant, May 12, 1976 comes early in the 15th year of the company's operation. Growth of the company internally and through the merging of 15 smaller dairies with the growing co-operative has enabled the company to serve its hundreds of farmer owners, the consumers of Nova Scotia and the Nova Scotian economy better despite increasing economic pressures. The new plant takes one more step, a giant step, toward increasing the efficiencies required to remain competitive. Nova Scotia's dairies operating on the narrowest margin between prices set for raw milk acquisition and for processed fluid milk sales by the Dairy Commission must keep abreast of technological change to remain viable. Twin Cities Co-operative Dairy Limited is governed by a Board of Directors elected by shareholder members. Voting is conducted on the basis of one man, one vote.

21st Century in action in new Twin Cities facility

Computers that hum, signal lights that gleam, gauges which report subtle changes in the precise processing of the wide variety of milk products the consumer expects today herald a new generation of dairy plant efficiency. And it's all on view at Twin Cities Co-operative Dairy facility at Hammonds Plains Road, Bedford N.S.

In addition to the accomplishments in plant and systems construction there has been an extraordinary achievement in the area of manpower. Almost 200 workers whose jobs were completely changed by the requirements of the new plant and its ultra-modern systems had to be retrained. Twin Cities cooperating closely with the Department of Manpower & Immigration, the Adult Education Division of the Nova Scotia Education training programs which enabled virtually all regular workers to make the transition to employment at the new plant smoothly.

Prudence, alone, argues against simply describing Co-operative Dairy's new plant at Hammonds Plains as the ultimate milk processing facility. It is appropriate, however, to assume the plant will be functioning as effectively and competitively in the mid-21st century as it is today.

At this writing it is the most modern facility of its kind in the world. It has been engineered and designed to meet the demands of dairy technology throughout the foreseeable future while performing cost effectively in the present. Computerized controls, automatic processing and cleansing, completely closed systems for fluid milk products of all varieties insure maximum retention of milk quality. Computerized control and virtually total automation result in higher production volumes by fewer personnel.

About 2,000 well paid jobs are directly associated with the dairy products marketed by Twin Cities.

Farmers — a "hometown" product almost everywhere in mainland Nova Scotia

If you are drinking milk, eating ice cream, dieting with yogurt and cottage cheese, or having a slice of cheddar on your apple pie, it's odds on you are enjoying a product produced on a farm near home.

The nearly 400 milk producing farms which ship their product to Twin Cities Co-operative Dairy's new plant at Hammonds Plains lie within a great loop that covers almost all of mainland Nova Scotia. The loop runs from New Glasgow on the north through the Wentworth Valley, southeast through the Annapolis Valley to Yarmouth and returns up the South Shore and through Musquodoboit.

No one has ever measured the effect of the satisfaction of seeing the completeness of one's work has on quality. The effect, however, must be substantial and positive. Being surrounded by customers who are also neighbors provides a strong motive for producing the best.

The milk producers who ship to Twin Cities enjoy a satisfaction not given to many basic producers whose products generally disappear into time and distance. The dairy farmers who are also shareholding owners of Twin Cities not only have the pleasure of seeing their product bought and picked up on a regular schedule they get to see their neighbors buying their milk products on every trip to the supermarket.

Garden Clubs Get Together

The Annual Meeting of the Nova Scotia Association of Garden Clubs, Western Area, presided over by Mr. Jack Harris, was held at the Baptist Church Hall, Annapolis Royal, on Thursday, May 13th.

Weymouth, Digby, Bear River and Wilnot garden clubs joined members of the Champlain Garden Club of Annapolis Royal in an enjoyable evening program of speakers, quizzes, demonstrations of flower pressing, prizes and refreshments. Guest speakers were Mr. Bruce Gilliat who gave the audience an interesting talk, with slides, on soils, and Mr. L. Blackburn who spoke on pruning.

Activities reported by the various clubs included a report of the activities of the Champlain Garden Club of Annapolis-Granville whose members were responsible for the nurturing and additional planting of the 18th century garden at the Old McNamara School House on St. George Street, the planting of bulbs and annuals at the Court House, the lovely window boxes of trailing lobelia and geraniums at the Tourist Bureau, the growing of indoor bulbs which were given to nursing homes and shut-ins, and the Garden Table at the Hospital Fete which realized $124.45.

Though membership during the year was small, interest was high. Programs included rock gardens, indoor bulbs, propagation of African violets from leaves, beneficial and harmful insects, slides of English and Scottish gardens, terrariums, flower pressing, etc. Members are looking forward with confidence to 1976-77 season. Anyone wishing to know more about the Champlain Garden Club of Annapolis-Granville may contact the secretary, Mrs. H. R. Percy, Granville Ferry, 532-2146.

Municipality Teacher Loss Decreases Five To Two

The Digby Municipal School Board will lose two teachers this year, and not five as previously announced. The reduced number resulted from an appeal to the Education Assistance Committee.

At its May meeting at the Municipal building the Board decided to reimburse the Smiths Cove School for approximately $280 taken in a break there recently. All school supervisors are being urged to be sure no money is left in the schools.

Breaks also occurred recently at the Digby Neck Consolidated School and the Barton school but little was reported missing.

The Board accepted the resignation of teachers Barbara Waddell and Albert Driscoll from the Weymouth Consolidated School. Leave of absence was granted to Margaret King for 1976-77.

Three teachers were hired for the Weymouth school for the coming year.

Catherine Langille was released from her contract provided a suitable replacement can be found.

The roofing damage caused at the Weymouth school by the February 2 storm was discussed. A decision was made to go to tender for the repairs.

Registered letters are being sent to several former students informing them not to trespass on school property or face prosecution.

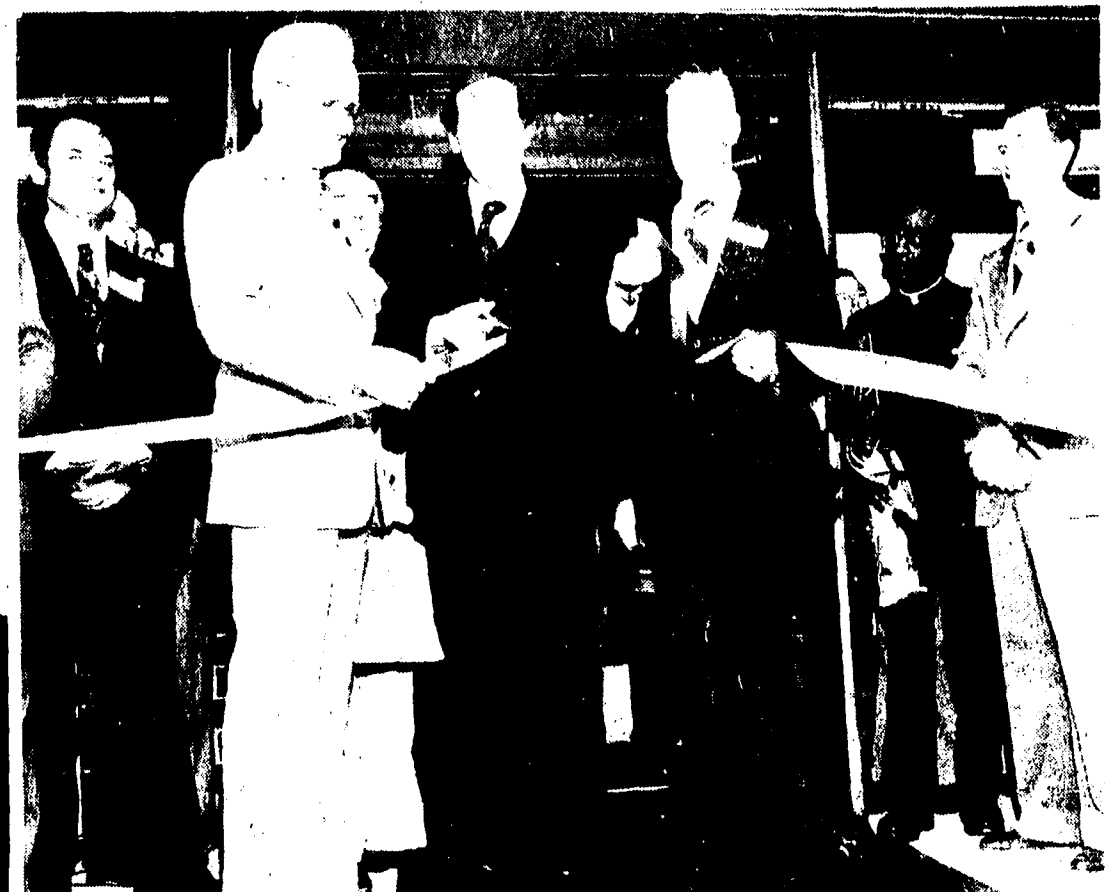

James Hanscomb was given permission to attend the ASA conference in Charlottetown.

Six teachers from the Islands school were given permission to attend a conference at Annapolis Royal.

Twin Cities Co-Operative Dairy Opens World's Most Modern Production Facility

HAMMONDS PLAINS, N.S. — Premier Gerald Regan officially opened the new ultra-modern Twin Cities Co-operative Dairy Limited dairy foods processing plant here May 12.

In addition to Premier Regan, the Honourable Jack Hawkins, Agricultural Minister and Warden Ira Settle of Halifax County were among the distinguished guests.

The new plant, said by its designers, the DeLaval Company, outstanding designers of such fluid processing systems, to be one of two most modern milk processing facilities in the world, has a capacity of 750,000 pounds of milk per day— in and out. The designs allows for convenient expansion. Freezer capacity is 70,000 gallons of ice cream. Computerized and automated closed systems protect milk quality and reduce waste to an absolute minimum. For example, should a serious spill take place electric eyes in floor drains shunt the spill to salvage tanks from whence it is shipped for use as animal food.

Energy and water conservation are achieved by use of new low pressure boilers, reuse of waste heat from refrigeration and automatic sterilization of the closed systems. More than 300,000 less gallons of water per day are used by the new plant than by the old plant in Halifax. Efficiency of the new processing equipment reduces effluent. Such effluent as does occur is treated by the company's own sewage plant up to 20 days before it is introduced to the municipal sewage disposal system.

A supper dance for the more than 700 employees of Twin Cities was held in the evening following the opening ceremonies.

Twin Cities Co-operative Dairy Limited was incorporated 10th of August, 1961 by dairy farmers in Nova Scotia who wanted to have some say in the marketing of their product. More than 700 shareholders, 400 of whom were producers—shippers last year, operate the company through an elected board of directors who are themselves, active dairy farmers. The Co-operative operates on a one man, one vote system. Earned surplus which is distributed is done so as a patronage rebate to those farmers who have shipped milk during the year on a pro rata basis. Owner members include farmers from Yarmouth to Stewiacke along the South Shore and through the Annapolis Valley.

Twin Cities also operates a cheese making and spray dry powdered milk plant in Truro and produces butter, vegetable oil spreads and margarine in its Middleton Branch. A machinery division, service operation and truck body shop are also operated in Middleton.

PROTECT CANADA'S FORESTS

June 1 is Census Day and everyone counts.

The Census of Canada will be taken on Tuesday, June 1, and Canada is counting on you to count yourself in. The questions are easy to answer, and it doesn't take long to fill in the questionnaire.

Why we take the Census.

The facts only you can provide on Census Day are needed to update a statistical picture of your community, and your country. Census information will be used in the coming years for the planning of social services for all Canadian communities.

How we take the Census.

Within the next few days, a census representative will deliver a Census Questionnaire to your home. You can choose to have yours in either English or French.

All you have to do is use a pencil to answer all the questions. If a pre-paid envelope was included in your census package, mail back the completed questionnaire. If you don't get an envelope, simply keep the completed questionnaire, and a census representative will pick it up after Census Day.

Our lips are sealed.

Only Statistics Canada personnel who are sworn to secrecy see your completed questionnaire, and they are subject to severe legal penalties if they disclose your answers to anyone else.

The Census of Agriculture. It's extra special.

If you're a farmer, you're asked to complete both a general and a Census of Agriculture questionnaire. Please fill in both questionnaires, but don't mail them back. They will be picked up by your census representative shortly after Census Day.

It wouldn't be right without you.

Please remember that everyone living in your household must be counted, and that all questions in your Census Questionnaire must be answered. We all have a stake in Canada's future, so please help us make the Census of Canada a complete success.

Joshua Slocum Ferry Admired

Two Manitobans have been looking at the Nova Scotia Department of Highways ferries this week.

John M.D. MacDonald, Associate Deputy Minister of Manitoba's Department of Renewable Resources and Transportation Services at Winnipeg, and Captain J. "Jack" Maloney, a marine consultant from Selkirk, were here on a fact-finding trip in connection with developing an enlarged program of highways ferry services in the northern part of their province.

A ferry that caught their eye while here was the Joshua Slocum, in service since 1974, at Petite Passage, Digby County. They believe its type may well be right for ferry transport in areas of northern Manitoba. 'Slocum' is one of eight vessels operated in Nova Scotia by its Department of Highways.

While in Halifax-Dartmouth, the Manitobans boarded a replica of the Joshua Slocum which is nearing completion of construction at the Halifax Metalworkers Ltd., harbourfront location. This ferry has been built here on order from the government of New Brunswick.

"Manitoba can learn a lot from Nova Scotia about highways ferries," said Mr. MacDonald. Nova Scotia's service is efficient and sophisticated, he added, and does its job very well. Showing Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Maloney around during their fact-finding visit was W.A. 'Bill' Landry, P. Eng., Manager of Equipment and Ferries, Nova Scotia Department of Highways. "Simple, safe and standard" is the way he sums up operations of this province's highways ferries system.

Mr. Landry said the Joshua Slocum was developed by the Department of Highways and is designed to cope with tides and currents encountered at Petite Passage.

Of special interest to the Manitoba officials was her right angle drive propulsion system that enables the propeller to steer the ferry. Such a feature would be suitable to conditions found in northern Manitoba, concluded the men from Manitoba. Another advantage is that the propeller can be automatically raised where the vessel docks at regular intervals for inspection and maintenance. It's not necessary to put the ferry in dry dock or send down a diver to check the propulsion system.

Before returning to Manitoba, Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Maloney will have visited British Columbia, Alberta, Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

N.S.A.C. Graduate

Caye Avis Harris, Bear River, N.S. received a diploma in plant science when the 71st. class of students graduated from the Nova Scotia Agricultural College on Wednesday, May 5.

The class of 136 graduates was the largest class to graduate in the history of the institution. Robert Wentzell, Petite Riviere, N.S. was the valedictorian and the Hon. W. J. Hawkins, Minister of Agriculture and Marketing, brought greetings from the Government of Nova Scotia.

Principal MacRae presented the diplomas to the graduates and made mention of the fact that there were 23 honor students and 17 high honor students which was an indication of the excellent academic level of the graduating class.

This graduation also marked the occasion of the first graduates of the new program in Farming Technology.

Dr. Harold LeRoy Chute, Director of Development, University of Maine, was presented with an honorary associate and brought the graduation address. The Cobequid Educational Centre Symphonic Band, under the direction of Mr. Ron MacKay, presented music suitable for the occasion.

Appointed Executive Director

Mrs. Elizabeth Ross has been appointed Executive Director of the newly formed Federation of Museums, Heritage and Historical Societies of Nova Scotia. Mrs. Ross was selected from more than one dozen applicants for the position. At present Mrs. Ross is the Assistant to the Cultural Co-ordinator for the Department of Recreation, Province of Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Ross will take up her new position in late May.

Mrs. Ross attended Edgemoor School for Girls, Windsor, Queen Elizabeth High School and Halifax Academy before obtaining a Diploma in Fine Arts from the Nova Scotia College of Art & Design, Halifax. She pursued her Fine Arts studies at Byam Shaw College, London, England.

An experienced photographer, she has done fashion, architectural and portrait photography in London, England; Winnipeg and Ottawa. She has twice served as Co-ordinator of the Canadian Inventory of Historic Buildings for the Atlantic Provinces; and in the winter co-ordinated and supervised a similar programme for the Province of Ontario. She is a member of the Heritage Trust of Nova Scotia, Heritage Canada, New York State Historical Association and a member of the executive of the St. George's Society, Halifax.

How Many Apples In Pie?

Any Annapolis Valley homemaker can tell you it takes about six Spy apples to make a nine inch apple pie - but how many apples will it take to bake Dan D. Apple's giant apple pie measuring six feet in diameter and two inches in thickness?

Valley residents, using a little math, some pie baking experience and some ingenuity, are entering their answers on tickets that are on sale in the giant apple pie guessing contest.

For $1.00 a guess, anyone can test their skill and with a little touch of luck, could win their share of the contest's $650.00 in prizes.

Various organizations are selling the tickets from Digby to Windsor, including schools, youth activity groups, minor hockey, the Middleton swim team, the Kingston Junior Rec's and other groups in the eastern end of the Valley.

The young ticket salesmen receive 10 percent of sales for their organization's activities - the contest winners will receive a first prize of $400.00, two 2nd prizes of $150.00 each, and two 3rd prizes of $50.00 each.

Every participant in this major fund raising project not only qualifies for the prize money and boosts local youth activity groups, but also assists the Apple Blossom Festival Committee to help defray parade and other major expenses of the 44th annual Festival.

P.C. Caucus Meets

At one point, Ken Green was acknowledged for the contribution he has made to the party over the years.

Master of Ceremonies was Annapolis West P.C. Association President, Greg Kerr.

The province of Nova Scotia is in debt to the tune of about $7,000 per taxpayer in Nova Scotia and "that's a pretty alarming situation," Progressive Conservative Financial Critic Roland Thornhill (Dartmouth South) told the gathering.

Mr. Thornhill accused the province of attempting to gloss over the situation, noting Finance Minister Peter Nicholson has said the government had the economic muscle to cope with the rising debt.

The debt is out of control he said, and even a slight turn around in the economy would leave the province in serious trouble. The province's finances are in "extremely delicate shape," he said, and unless control is exercised "we could get into a lot more trouble than we're in today".

Mr. Thornhill noted there are 33,000 people in the province who can't find work, about 10 percent of the total work force. The gross provincial debt now stands at $1.3 billion while the net debt totals $319 million. These figures could rise "dramatically" in the next number of years, Mr. Thornhill warned.

He placed much of the blame on two crown corporations, Sydney Steel and the Nova Scotia Power Corp. The Power Corporation, he said, lost some 7.5 million last year while Sydney Steel has been losing money at the rate of $25-30 million a year.

Considering an increase of $1.35 per barrel of oil next year, we could see "extreme increases" in the gross and net debt picture.

Mr. Thornhill noted 50 per cent of the province's total revenues are the result of equalization payments from the federal government and are dependent on the economic picture in other areas.

If federal revenues are reduced, the payments would decrease, he said. "Therefore the government of Nova Scotia has got to be 'extremely careful'."

Mr. Thornhill criticized government thoughts of building a $15-20 million sports complex in Halifax. He said such moves increase the public debt and considering where it stands now we "really have to wonder where one's priorities are."

The cost of servicing the debt, the critic said, is $94 million. The time has come when government can no longer do all the people ask, he said.

Mr. Thornhill's remarks came during a question-and-answer period following a party caucus meeting and dinner. He was responding to a question from Annapolis Royal Mayor George Richardson who wondered what the future holds for the province in light of current debt charges.

Opposition Leader John Buchanan noted this is the fourth such caucus meeting held this year in various provincial locations. Another is expected to be held in Digby in the early fall.

Mr. Buchanan said his party is opposed to the government's present policies on teacher cutbacks. He termed it a "regressive move" which will seriously affect the quality of education in Nova Scotia.

Mr. Buchanan said abuse of the Social Services system is "one of the most serious problems in society today." He said PC's must respect initiative and the work ethic but must be responsible to those who have needs through no fault of their own.

Questioned as to why the power corporation is not making better use of hydro resources in the province, Mr. Buchanan said according to power corporation surveys it would be uneconomical to harness any more energy from the rivers. The questioner noted available power is not being utilized and we here are paying the oil costs of power generation for other parts of the province. Mr. Buchanan replied that if the government is not getting on with the job after the next election "we'll do it."

On a question re. breakdown of communications between the people and government, Mr. Buchanan said many young people are cynical about government, one reason being that government has become very dictatorial, secretive, and often oversteps the boundaries of its own mandate.

"The government was never elected to take over the power corporation," he said. He said more openness in government is required, and people must have an opportunity for input.

One questioner expressed concern that here in the oldest part of Canada we can't get provincial CBC television coverage. Mr. Buchanan said he would ensure the federal representatives are made aware of the situation again, and press for improvements in Ottawa.

Responding to a question re. Highway 101, Dr. Gerry Sheehy (Annapolis West) noted this year's plans include an intersection at Berwick, paving from Berwick to Aylesford and a little preparatory work to Kingston. There is no decision yet, he said as to where the highway will go through Annapolis County.

Speaking re. seatbelt legislation, Mr. Buchanan said the government introduced its legislation before at least one half of the cabinet had even seen it. They supported it, he said, but it was never proclaimed. This is "just another indication of the kind of government we have in Nova Scotia." It's very disorganized, he said.

Mr. Thornhill termed highway safety "very serious business" and said he voted against the seatbelt legislation because it is "uninforceable," and could result in disrespect for the law.

He said he has introduced a resolution to reduce highway speed limits to 55 miles per hour. He suggested this should be tried for a one-year period after which the accident rate would be assessed.

New Travel Service For Valley

BRIDGETOWN, May 18—Betty Jazey, proprietor of Betty's Specialty Shoppe, has been appointed sales representative for Atlas Travel Service Limited of Halifax. The announcement was made at a noon luncheon held at the Bridgetown Motor Hotel and attended by a number of invited guests from Digby and Annapolis Counties. Representing the head office was Charlie Renouf, vice-president, and Brenda Gallagher, sales consultant.

Specializing in fast, personalized service the new business will fill a long-standing need in this part of the valley. Not only will Betty be handling all types of local and national business travel, Atlas Travel has earned a reputation for taking the worry out of vacation travel.

The luncheon on Tuesday was followed in the afternoon by an Open House at the Bridgetown Curling Rink. The Monitor joins friends in wishing Betty success in her new undertaking.

Clare Forms Mental Health Unit

The newly formed Clare Unit of the Canadian Mental Health Association was presented their charter by Mr. Andrew Crook of Dartmouth and executive director of the Provincial Canadian Mental Health Association on Saturday afternoon at College Ste Anne at Church Point. A very good attendance was on hand.

Special guests attending were Dr. Khalik Kareemi, neuropsychiatrist who serves the area between Middleton, Digby and the Municipality of Clare; Dr. Philippe LeBlanc, Little Brook; Hon. Benoit Comeau, minister of public works of the province; and Dr. William Draper, Halifax.

Dr. Khalik Kareemi told the group that he has been serving his area for the last three years and that he has been available to the people in the municipality of Clare to help people suffering with mental problems and requiring psychiatric treatments. There was a lack of communications in this area and the new organization just formed will be able to correct this problem.

He stated that he and his staff will look at the problems at a different angle and there will be no segregation of people. People who are depressed require psychiatric treatments and they will treat persons of all ages.

The doctor said that he needed some assistance and the new association will fill these needs. The association can arrange schedules for persons requiring his services. It can also improve the communication problem by giving information to those requiring help where they can get the services and when. Visits are being made in Clare at Meteghan and at Ste. Anne's college in Church Point by him, mentioned the psychiatrist.

Dr. Philippe LeBlanc of Mr. Clark praised Mr. MacKay for his diligent and effective effort to get at the bottom of how airport concessions and contracts are awarded by the Trudeau government. Mr. MacKay was formerly Caucus Committee Chairman on Regional and Economic Expansion, and more recently on the Solicitor General.

Mr. Clark also appointed Patrick Nowlan, M.P. for Annapolis Valley, Caucus Chairman of the Communications committee. Lloyd Crouse, M.P. for South Shore was given a new appointment as Chairman of the Fisheries committee.

Mike Forrestal, M.P. for Dartmouth-Halifax East has been appointed Vice-Chairman of the Transportation committee, with particular responsibility for ports policy.

Left to right: Miss Francine Quenneville, secretary of the newly formed Clare Unit of the Canadian Mental Health Association; Mrs. Joanne Armstrong, vice-president; Jean R. Doucet, president; Andrew Crook of Dartmouth, executive director of the Provincial Mental Health Association who presented the Charter to the Clare Unit, and Miss Alice De-la-durantaye, treasurer. Here the group is admiring the new Charter. (Melanson Photo)

Little Brook also spoke to the group and told them that persons with problems requiring psychiatric treatments may also have these disorders due to organic reasons. Dr. LeBlanc stated that psychiatric disorders are due to the following factors: cultural, social, personal behavior, and family, among the most causes.

Dr. LeBlanc congratulated the organizers of the newly formed association and mentioned that he would cooperate with the association and wished them great success in the new venture.

Mr. Andrew Crook, of Dartmouth, presented the association with its charter making the presentation to the new and first president Jean R. Doucet. He mentioned that previous to 1945 there were no Mental health centres in the province and now we have ten such centres. He also stated that those who are in mental hospitals of the province are but a tip of the iceberg relating to the number of people who are suffering with mental health. It is not the former (those in hospitals) that we are interested in, but those who are continuing their everyday life at their homes. We will have to seek what the population wants as to their needs of assistance and we hope that the new association will be able to do this.

The aims of the Mental Health Clare Unit are: 1. Present information to the population of the Municipality of Clare; 2. Locate a site for a centre where specialists can work efficiently; 3. discover the needs of the population of the Municipality of Clare and fulfil these needs.

Officers are: President, Jean R. Doucet; Vice-president, Mrs. Joanne Armstrong; secretary, Miss Francine Quenneville; treasurer, Miss Alice De-la-durantaye. Directors are: Rev. Leger Comeau, Owen McGowan, Albert Dugas, Mrs. Diane Belliveau, Ms. Jane Doucette, Andre Turbide, Victor LeBlanc, Mrs. Anysie Doucet, Catherine Doucet, Mrs. Huberte Boissinault, Norbert Comeau, Mrs. Bernadette Blinn, Ms. Blanche Gaudet, Miss Renette LeBlanc, Michael Thibeault, Miss Glenda Doucet, Miss Dale Boudreau, Mrs. Jacqueline Gaudet, Mrs. Simone Dugas and Maurice Robichaud.

Appointments Made

Opposition Leader Joe Clark has made several recent appointments of specific interest to Nova Scotia.

Elmer MacKay, M.P. for Central Nova, has been appointed Caucus Chairman. In making the appointment,

Reflecting To 1946

It seems a lot of thought went into the 1946 attempt to have a new town hall built as a War Memorial to the service men. A special meeting of Council was held to discuss the proposed erection. The council went on record as favouring the erection of the hall and the Finance Committee was instructed to investigate the matter, look over all possible sites and secure plans and estimates of costs.

See where the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association was to be held in Halifax in September. This brought 300 extra persons into Digby. They had luncheon at the Pines Hotel and left by special train for Halifax. (The same convention, Canadian Community Newspapers Association, meets in Halifax in August 1976. Maybe they too, will stop in Digby). The total convention was probably 700.

May 1976 brought the accustomed Florence Nightingale Tea by the Ladies Hospital Auxiliary. In May 1946, the same organization had a Perennial Tea (bulbs, shrubs, etc.). They raised $40.

Each issue of The Digby Courier seemed to recognize the return of service men in some form. The town council made plans for a Civic Welcome Home Party. The Legion appointed F.C. Purdy to head a committee to look after the affair.

Women's Lib was beginning in earnest in 1946. Three women in Nova Scotia collected Fishermen's Bounty. Two in Digby County and one on the South Shore.

Municipal Council Votes Support To Ambulance

Tourist And Recreation Council Plans Scallop Day

By Larry Duchesne

The Digby County Ambulance service, threatened by a depreciating financial situation, has been given a new lease on life by Digby Municipal Council.

Council agreed on Tuesday to provide the necessary financing to keep the service going until a meeting of the Joint Expenditures Board can be held. That meeting will involve the municipalities of the town of Digby, Digby Municipality, Clare and representation from Annapolis County.

Council was told that if financial support was not forthcoming, the service would be discontinued.

A report brought before Council indicated that projected calls this year would drop to 350 from last year's level of 705. The decrease is forecast because of cutbacks in service at Digby General Hospital.

The service consists of two regular ambulances and one stationwagon on standby. Digby town, Digby Municipality and a section of Clare and Annapolis County are covered by the service.

The written report to Council noted that employment expenses would not drop because of the area to be covered. The ambulance staff, which includes one qualified paramedic, is currently seeking salary increases.

The municipal units have not directly supported the ambulance service in the past. Ambulance service operators get money from the province on the basis of calls made and mileage.

Only one councillor voted against the motion of support for the ambulance service.

Councillor Walter MacAlpine said his negative vote was cast because the amount of financing was left open.

Councillors Helen McNeil and L. E. R. (Bud) Winchester were two of the more vocal supporters of assistance for the ambulance service.

"It's a startling thing that we may be without ambulance service in this area", Coun. McNeil said, "and we're going to be if something isn't done."

Within the next two to three weeks some 15,000 scallop-shaped promotion pieces supplied by Shell Canada Limited to the Annapolis Basin Tourist and Recreation Council will begin distribution throughout Nova Scotia and other potential tourist markets to spread the story of Digby's Second Annual Scallop Day: August 21, 1976.

Such was the announcement made by Penny Gott, President of the Council at the regular meeting on 12 May at the Fundy Restaurant.

Following the announcement, Chairman Mike Casey of the Scallop Day Committee reported plans for the gala celebration are already well underway, with morning events including dory and boat races of several kinds, tours of fish, scallop and clam plants and tours of scallop druggers at Fishermen's Wharf. Afternoon events include a Band Concert at the bandstand on Water Street, clam and scallop shucking contests at the Wharf, planned beer garden and shis-ke-bab scallops for sale on Cannon Bank. The evening will be given over to a street dance from 9-12 p.m. Also, at lunch and dinner time restaurants and motel dining rooms will feature scallop dishes for sampling by tourists and residents alike.

"Like year was a good beginning," Casey said, "and this year we expect it to be bigger and better in every way. Scallops are Digby's own product and we shall do our best to see that both tourists and residents will have a chance to enjoy them and the celebration."

At the same meeting a number of other matters of interest to the community were discussed. Among them, a membership drive to be conducted by membership committee, a request for suggestions for new projects from local business people, and the announcement of the opening of Upper Clements Wildlife Park scheduled for 15 May. This park is a direct result of the efforts of the Annapolis Basin Tourist and Recreation Council in obtaining the former Presceski property and promises to be unrivalled in Nova Scotia for recreational and cultural opportunities offered to tourists and residents throughout the year.

Welcomed to the meeting was Mr. Vic Bradshaw, the new manager of the Pines whose offers of substantial assistance and encouragement to the work of the Council were warmly received. Also, Mr. Gordon Price of Mountain Gap Inn was appointed Chairman of a committee for planning long-range development for the Annapolis Basin area.

In closing the meeting, President Gott expressed the hope that many more business and resource people of the community will feel free to attend the next meeting of the Council to be held in June on a date to be announced.

Support Mounting For Welfare Resolution

Digby Municipality's resolution on abuse of social assistance has received support from nine additional municipal units over the past month.

Council is seeking changes in the Social Assistance Act, one of which would deny welfare benefits to able-bodied recipients who refuse to take available jobs.

The letters of support acknowledged at Monday's council meeting brings the total number of endorsements to 21. Two have sought further clarification, one tabled the matter for study, and two rejected the recommended changes.

Those indicating support at this month's session were the municipalities of Hantsport, Westville, Trenton, East Hants, Lunenburg, Berwick, Stewiacke, North Sydney and Colchester.

Sydney tabled the matter for study, Clare opposed it in its present format, and Kings sought further clarification.

Digby District's resolution on the matter had been sent to all municipal units in the province as well as to the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities and the Minister of Social Services. More replies are expected.

Twelve letters of support were acknowledged at last month's council session. At that time, one rejection and one request for clarification were received.

Appointed President Of Digby Legion, Branch 20

Charlie Francis of Digby was sworn in as president of the Digby Legion, Branch 20, on May 17.

Mr. Francis is a veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict. He has been a member of the Digby Legion branch for nine years, two years in an executive capacity.

Charlie will fill the unexpired term of Joe Tanner who recently resigned. The term expires in January.

Digby Debaters Champions

The resolution "Nova Scotia seatbelt laws should be put into effect immediately" was defeated by the Digby Regional High School team in the Nova Scotia Junior High School Debating Tournament in Halifax.

Sir Robert Borden Junior High School led the teams for most of the day and chose the affirmative side for the championship debate, the last of the day.

The Digby team Paul Brown, Robert Levings, Rory Rogers and Michael Nichols, under coach Regina Tate argued the use of seatbelts was a matter of individual responsibility, that their use had on occasion been the cause of injury and that enforcement posed a substantial problem. Damon Loomer of Sir Robert Borden received the award for best individual debater and Philip Hartling of Grosvenor-Wentworth-Park placed second in that category. Paul Brown came third. All three Digby speakers were in the top fifteen.

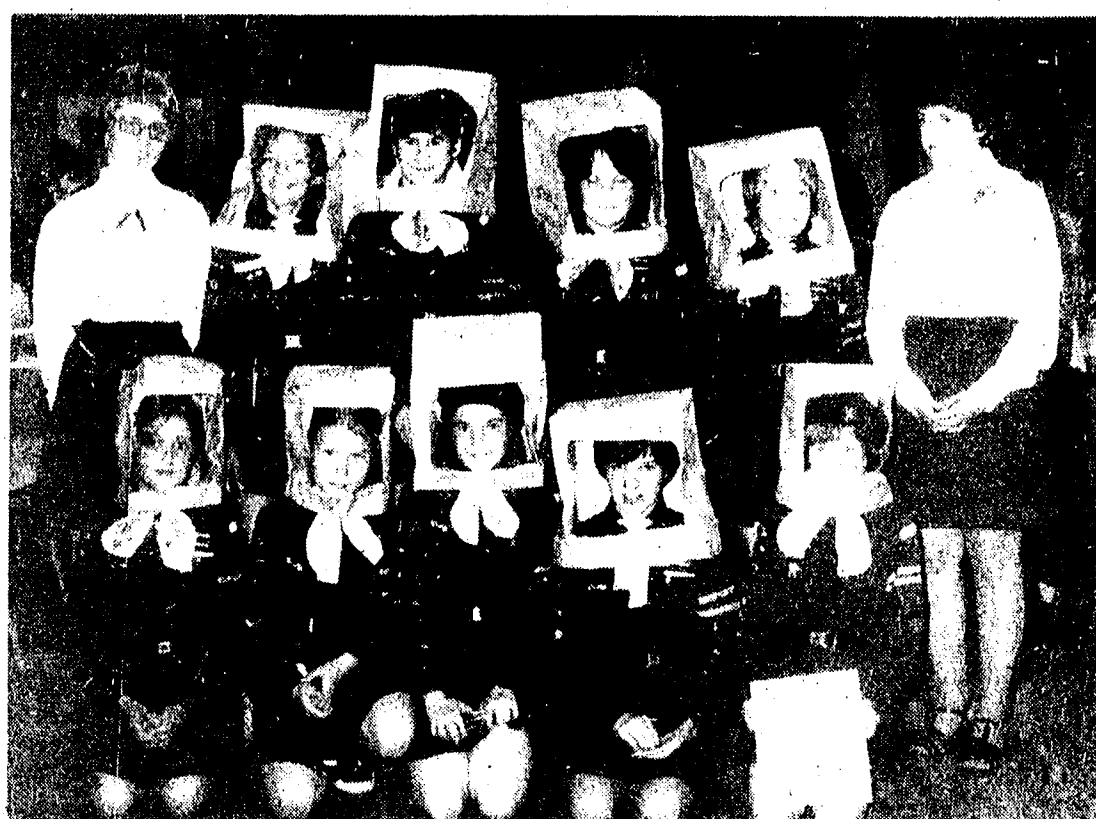

Digby debating team also debated "resolved that the federal government should assume full financial responsibility in the 1976 Olympics". The team walked off with the trophy after reaching the finals with the seat belt resolution. Debaters had opportunity to debate both, in negative and affirmative positions. A toss of a coin brought Digby into the negative seatbelt resolution for finals but they were equal to the task.

Guides And Brownies Have Annual Banquet

The Local Association Girl Guides and Brownies sponsored the annual banquet for the girls and their mothers at the Digby Lions Club Hall on Wednesday evening. The dinner was donated and served by the Digby Lions and the Association president, Mrs. Lorna Mullen, made special mention of this fact. Marylou Jayne offered prayer at the opening of the banquet and Miss Margo Levy led the toast to Her Majesty, the Queen.

Special speaker for the evening was Mrs. Shirley Williams, Camp Advisor, Bear River, who used the time for an alertness test by telling the story of A King With A Terrible Temper. Other head table guests introduced by Mrs. Mullen were Mrs. J.M. Wallis, Mrs. Robert Marshall, Clementsport, Brown Owl Division Commissioner; Mrs. William Reid, badge secretary and a former president; Mrs. Patrick Fletcher, treasurer of Local Association; Mrs. Patricia Kynock, past president and Miss Shelley Fletcher, Guide Captain. A special introduction was given to Brown Owls Mrs. Lillian VanTassell and Mrs. Doris VanTassell who conducted the Fly Up ceremony for approximately ten of the thirty Brownies who were welcomed by about twenty Guides.

One of the special presentations of the evening was when Mrs. Shirley Williams presented the all-round Cords to each Miss Cheryl Donnelly and Miss Nancy Reid. Certificates of merit and accomplishments in various types of

Weymouth Music Students Give Recital

Exceptional talent was shown at the annual music recital given in the A.V. room of Weymouth Consolidated School on Wednesday evening, under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor Hankinson. Mrs. Hankinson's pupils performed in piano solos, duets and a recorder group. Solos and a trio were played by the students of Sue Manzer, solos and duets by the students of Laurie Lewis, solos by the students of Debby Mullen, and Mrs. Mary Mullen. These young teachers are all students of Mrs. Hankinson. Chris LeBlanc played an accordion solo, and is a student of Mrs. Doris Brown, in Digby, and Renette and Yvette Belliveau and Angeline Thimot presented a delightful ballet, as students of Mrs. Frances Peters in Digby, Debby Comeau, also one of her students performed a tap dance.

Piano students taking part, were David Mullen, Karen Brown, Stephen

Barr, Bruce Comeau, Marilyn Amiro, Yvette and Renette Belliveau, Cathy and Holly Barr, Rachel and Edwina Ford, Kelton Mullen, Blake Frankland, Esther, Lynn and Maureen McCracken, Floris Mullen, Paula Mullen, Debby Comeau, Dwight Mullen, Heather Clayton, Nancy Thurber, Trudy Mullen, Pam Barr, Debby Mullen, Laurie Lewis, Twila Sabine, Cheryl Peters, Darlene Goudey, Sue Manzer.

The young ladies looked especially nice in the pretty dresses and corsages, while the young men gave a fine impression by wearing their suits with a boutonniere.

Certificates and awards were presented at the end of the programme by the various teachers, to their pupils. The beginner students had all written theory tests and piano tests, prior to the recital. A special prize was given to Debby Mullen for her work throughout the year.

Mr. Hankinson thanked Mr. Hanscombe and Mr.

Clayton for their splendid co-operation, Mr. Nelson Cromwell, Fred Smith and Lloyd Bright, the janitors for their help, and Mrs. Carol Sabine for the assistance she had given with programmes and other help during the year. Tokens of appreciation were given them, on behalf of the piano teachers. Mr. Clayton thanked Mrs. Hankinson and the student teachers for the effort they were making to provide the young people with this type of music, and giving them the opportunity to perform under such inspiring conditions.

Mrs. Hankinson was presented with a bouquet of red roses, and a silver chain necklace, by Trudy Mullen on behalf of her students. Her student teachers also presented her with a crystal bud vase. The other piano teachers were also presented with gifts from their students. Thirty-three young musicians performed during the evening to a room filled to capacity.

COUNTRY VACATION

When the Nova Scotia Farm and Country Vacations 1976 Guide booklet came out some time ago we were rather surprised that more farming and fishing homes in Digby County had not registered for the program. As far as we see there is only one home listed from Digby County, that of Bethel Cottage, Barton. In all there are 49 listings from Yarmouth to Cape Breton.

Farm and Country Vacations have proven successful before and were beneficial to both host and vacationer. The idea is to give the city dweller an opportunity to meet and live with a country family in Nova Scotia, to be part of the family, to learn from the family and their friends, to eat from their table and see how they earn a living by land and sea. Country Vacation provides the city dweller with an opportunity to live in the open where there is fresh clean air and where the children can enjoy farm animals first hand and feed on the fresh products of the earth.

One of the joys of Country Vacations is that living so closely in a family circle for two or more weeks of summer can make for worthwhile and lasting friendships. The vacationers will have the responsibility of fitting in as well as possible with the ways of the country life and the rules of country persons, particularly for the safety of children visiting on the farm. The host, too, will, of course, realize that farm life is as different to the city dweller as the city life can be to the farmer. Consideration is necessary on both sides.

The Nova Scotia Farm and Country Vacation Program is government sponsored so naturally farm homes which cater must meet standards of cleanliness, hospitality, proper facilities, safe drinking water, comfort and other requirements for which the visitor pays.

Maybe another year others from Digby County might follow Miss Ruth Speicht at Bethel Cottage, Barton. We hope the 1976 summer is mutually happy for the visitor and host at Barton and that others might be influenced to follow the example.

QUEEN OF QUEENS

While the Valley is busy right now preparing for the selection of Queen Annapolis for 1976 there are others throughout Nova Scotia and in parts of Canada preparing for the visit of the Queen of Queens, Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II and His Royal Highness, Prince Philip. The Valley is indeed fortunate to have Her Majesty favor it with her visit in July. With the month of June upon us, it is none too soon to prepare children for the infrequent event of having a real reigning Queen honor us by her presence. It is an especially good time to teach the children what the Monarch has meant to us throughout the years and what it can continue to mean throughout the years to come.

Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II has been reigning since February 1952, almost 25 years, a quarter of a century and in that time has won the honor and high respect of the people she has served. Always gracious, kind and considerate, Queen Elizabeth II, has won the hearts of the people of her realm. In so doing she has used her high office to strengthen the Monarchy and use it for the best and noblest interests of all her people. She is a capable leader, she has outstanding personal qualities and is a powerful example of that which is right and just to set before the world today. She was only 25 years of age when she was required to assume such grave responsibility but has carried the burden well.

The fact that the Queen of Queens visits the Annapolis Valley in July, should in no way detract from the glamour and pride in our yearly Queen Annapolis. In fact, the coming visit of a really reigning monarch should make the Annapolis event that much more exciting, more exacting, more impressive and with loftier objectives than ordinarily.

May the 1976 Annapolis Valley Apple Blossom Festival be a success, let us take pride in Queen Annapolis and prepare for her coming and all the time think, too, of the grave responsibility as well as the joy connected with the visit of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II to Canada. Long Live The Queen.

PROUD AGAIN, WE ARE

It was a delight to pick up the daily newspaper last week and read that the Digby Junior High School Debating Team had won provincial recognition. Right proud we were of those people whose accomplishments not only brought pleasure and admiration to themselves but also bore high the torch for all of Digby. It is good for all of us.

We believe in fun and recommend that high school students have their share but we were most favorably impressed with the choice of serious, down-to-earth topics debated by the students — whether or not mandatory seat-belts and whether or not the federal tax money should support the Olympics.

NATIONAL TRANSPORTATION WEEK INCLUDES US

Canada is observing National Transportation Week from May 30 to June 5. The purpose of National Transportation Week is to remind all Canadians of the importance that transportation plays in today's society and to recognize the contribution made by the transportation industry and its more than 800,000 employees in keeping the people and commerce of Canada moving.

Transportation Week, like every special week is to arouse the interest of people in the subject, especially those who are directly or indirectly involved. Here in Digby most people are involved in one way or another. We earn a living here. Transportation costs figure into our way of life, into the price we pay for goods arriving here and into the profits we can make when exporting any products we might have to offer.

One of the chief transportation problems, as you have heard for years and have read about of late is the rates across the Bay of Fundy by way of the Princess of Acadia. New rates on the Princess come into effect on June 1. According to reports when the increases go into effect, the flat rate for automobiles will rise to $24 from $22, $2 from $1.75 for bicycles, and $3.50 from $3.00 for motorcycles. The fare for each adult increases to $5.75 from $5 while the regular return fare rises to $10 from $8.75. The return rate for same-day travel will be $8 instead of the previous $7.

Who is concerned about the increased prices? The Digby Board of Trade has been discussing the rates and has been preparing resolutions to pass on to those in authority. The Board of Trade while deeply concerned should not be the only people protesting and endeavouring to keep transportation rates for passengers and vehicles at reasonable figures. The Board needs support from everybody.

National Transportation Week, May 30 to June 5, is not alone for those who will dine in celebration of the event but National Transportation Week includes us making a noise here in our special location for a better economic outlook for the Atlantic provinces and our own Digby County.

Hodge Podge

Trout seem to be coming bigger and better. Aldolphe Comeau of Comeauville, landed a 2¼ pound rainbow trout, which is 17½ inches long, recently. He and his wife also caught a 16 inch and a 14½ inch trout on the same day, Saturday, May 1.

Daylight saving has been practiced even before the invention of the clock and artificial lighting. Years ago man automatically adjusted his life to the daylight hours. He would get up when the sun rose and retire when it got dark. Not only did this save switching the clocks back and forth each summer and fall, it also saved the turning on and off of the lights each day. Nowadays we require additional lighting in most of our homes and businesses during the daylight hours as well as in the night time. Benjamin Franklin wrote in an essay that many candles would be saved if Americans arose from their beds earlier in the summertime and retired before darkness fell. Most people just smiled at the idea. - Vernal Press, Utah.

Graduates, Awards, Scholarships

Letter To The Editor Doctor And Hospital Thanked After Nearly Thirty Years

It was nearly thirty years ago, back in 1947 or 1948 when Harold Chute now of 52 Hertle Avenue, Toronto, Ontario, M4L 2T4 had a serious traffic accident. The years have not depreciated his gratefulness to the doctor and staff of the Digby General Hospital for their care. The following letter was received at The Digby Courier from Mr. Chute:

I am not sure of the date but it was in 1947 or 1948. I was in a serious accident, I was riding a bike and was hit by a truck.

I would like to thank Dr. Cleave and the staff that was at Digby General Hospital at that time and all the people who prayed for me during those critical hours.

Over the years I have often thought of the accident and realize how hard Dr. Cleave and the staff worked to save my life, and I am grateful to them, and all those who prayed for me.

Thank you
Harold Chute formerly of Bear River.

Degrees From Mount St. Vincent

Among those receiving degrees from Mount Saint Vincent at the annual convocation in Halifax, were Ina Gaylene Mullen, Weymouth, Bachelor of Arts, Simone Marie Comeau, Saulnierville and Judith Anne Dugas, Weymouth, Bachelor of Secretarial Arts and Anne Marie Belliveau, Church Point, Bachelor of Home Economics, Magna Cum Laude with distinction in Foods and Nutrition.

Three hundred and thirty-three degrees were conferred by the Mount.

Married 59 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Comeau, Lower Saulnierville, are receiving congratulations on the celebration of their fifty-ninth wedding anniversary on May 15. Both Mr.

Comeau, age 86 and Mrs. Comeau, 84, are in good health and attend to their own daily household duties.

Mr. Comeau painted his own house this Spring.

Poetry Corner

"THOUGHTS OF GOD"

God is my ideal,
He is more than that to me.
He is my solace, in despair.
His love has set me free.

From Him, I get my knowledge
Of things that are to be,
Of all past happenings and present; now I see.

He is my comfort in sorrow,
My recovery in pain,
My shining light in darkness,
And my sunshine, in the rain.

I owe to Him, my everything.
I cannot ever repay
The deeds of kindness and thoughtfulness
That He has brought my way.

Without Him, I am nothing,
I do not even count.
I might as well be a statue,
Or a picture on a mount.

So, may I follow always;
Follow in his step,
To show to others also
That His teachings, I have kept.

M.T.

NOSTALGIA

May, and the wild birds' songs;
The lilac budding near;
The haze of spring hangs o'er the hills;
But you're not here.
The fields are green again;
Each proud poplar tree
Stands waiting in new foliage bright
For you to come and see;
The swallows have returned
To their nest beside the sill,
They ponder as the long days pass
Why all within is still;
The sun sinks low
And adds its lonely-twilight touch;
A robin calls; he seems to trill your name
In wistful tones, he misses you so much;
A nostalgic air the wind
Is singing to the sea,
Because it's May, and you're not here
To meet the spring with me.

V. Tibert, Brich St.

TROUBLE WITH PREPOSITIONS

I lately lost a preposition;
It hid, I thought, beneath my chair
And angrily I cried, "Perdition!
Up from out of in under there."

Correctness is my vade mecum
And struggling phrases I abhor,
And yet I wondered: What should he come Up from out of in under for?"

-Morris Bishop

ALL AROUND US
In Canada, forests are "part of all our lives" in part because they are so extensive. More than one third of the total land area is covered by trees. In fact, there are more than 36 acres of forest for every man, woman and child in this country. The green belt stretches from the east coast of Newfoundland to Vancouver Island and well into the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

With the exception of the southern part of the Prairie Provinces, the forest is within ready access of most Canadians who live within 100-miles of the Canada-U.S. A. border. Even in the mid-west, a few hours' drive is all that is needed to reach wooded country.

In Canada's major cities, remnants of the forest may be seen in many city parks. Trees flourish along streets and around homes in even densely populated areas.

The view from the top of a high rise apartment is often one of tree crowns stretching above the roof lines.

The very fact that the forest is such a normal and ever-present part of the landscape may account for the fact that we tend to take it for granted.

Pubnicos Are Oldest Acadian Villages

On the west coast of Nova Scotia near the town of Yarmouth are six Acadian villages, all by the name of Pubnico. Along with an English village, also named Pubnico, they are the oldest Acadian villages still inhabited by descendants of the original settlers. The Pubnicos date back to before 1651, when some of Charles de La Tour's soldiers settled there.

Of the seven villages, only the English settlement is named simply Pubnico. The rest of the Acadian French speaking villages are spread along both sides of the Pubnico Harbour. There is West, Middle West and Lower West Pubnico on one side and East, Middle East and Lower East on the other side.

Among the 1,200 people living in the Pubnicos, the names d'Eon (formerly Duon), d'Entremont, Amiro and Amirault are very common. All of these names signify that the current families are probably descendants of the original settlers.

Both the "East side" and the "West side" economies depend on the fishery and some farming as a base. The region is famous for lobster during the winter months when the season is open on that part of the coast. Several small boat building yards produce Cape Island style boats for the fishery and deluxe wooden motor yachts up to 70 feet in length.

Although the Pubnicos were once considered "poor fishing villages" the residents have in recent years become more conscious of their surroundings and during the past year placed third in Nova Scotia in the Provincial rural beautification contest.

With a long and interesting history of its own, the Pubnicos are located at the centre of one of the oldest European-settled areas in North America. From Port Royal with its exact reconstruction of "The Habitation" where Champlain, DeMonts and their men spent the winter of 1605, all along the "French shore" to Liverpool on the south shore of Nova Scotia, the entire area is steeped in early history. The area was one of the few places resettled by Acadians after the Expulsion in the 1750's. Many of the returning Acadians came to the Pubnicos, sponsored by English businessmen of Boston who wished to continue the lucrative trade in Nova Scotia fish.

Canadian Made Pacemaker Implanted

The first cardiac pacemaker to be made in Canada is the XYTRON model, manufactured by Medtronic of Canada Ltd., of Mississauga, Ontario. This Model 5950 pacemaker weighs 135 grams and measures 57.5 millimeters in diameter.

The first implant of the first Canadian manufactured cardiac pacemaker took place Thursday at Victoria General Hospital in Halifax. The pacemaker, manufactured by Medtronic of Canada Ltd., the only company manufacturing cardiac pacemakers in Canada, was implanted in John Edward Godwin, a Halifax lawyer. Dr. David Murphy, cardiovascular surgeon, performed the operation.

The pacemaker consists of a battery-powered pulse generator and lead which electrically stimulates the heart. The Medtronic Xytron model pacemakers are produced at the company's new plant in Mississauga, Ontario. The pulse generator, which is expected to last four to five years, is manufactured in a rigidly controlled environment. An eight-week manufacturing cycle is involved, including a seven-day quarantine period following sterilization of the product.

Xytron model pacemakers are available throughout Canada and will also be

For Purchasing Recreational Land Consider These Points

- It's great to have a place to "get away to" on weekends or during vacations. But if you're considering buying land for a summer cottage or even a hunting lodge, there are several things you should investigate beforehand, advises the N.S. Department of Consumer Affairs.
- You should take as much care when purchasing recreational land as you do when purchasing land for a permanent home, Harry M. McIlroy, Chief Executive Officer, warns.
- Here are several points to keep in mind.
1. Consider exactly what you want the land for, and purchase in an area according to that purpose. If, for example, you want a hunting camp, you obviously shouldn't purchase land in the middle of a recreational area near other cottages.
  2. Determine the credibility of the firm or individual you are dealing with before you sign the agreement to purchase. This is easily done by contacting people they have previously had dealings with.
  3. Contact the local Municipal Planning Board to determine if the area is being considered for any development or construction, or if there are any building restrictions. Check out any advertising claims by the company with municipal authorities.
  4. Make sure you fully understand the agreement of purchase or sale before you sign. Find out exactly what the costs of the land will be, including Lawyers' fees, Salesman's fees and all other costs.
  5. Have your Lawyer search the title. This will establish whether your land is free of any lien or legal encumbrance.
  6. Contact the local Public Health Inspector to determine what type of land you are purchasing and whether or not you can use a septic system. Also, it is advisable to have him do a percolation test to determine what the drainage of the lot will be like. In many areas of the Province, a building permit will not be issued without a Board of Health Permit.
  7. Also check with the Public Health Inspector or the Department of Environment to find out if there is water on your land, and its quality. They will also be able to advise you on the type of well you will need.
  8. Before you commence construction or purchase the land or cottage, make sure it has been surveyed by a registered professional surveyor. This way you are assured you are building on your land. Obtain a plan which is prepared in accordance with the provisions of the Registry Act.
- If the person or firm you intend to purchase from is reputable, they will co-operate in helping you obtain any information you wish, Mr. McIlroy says. Be careful of too-well-advertised land deals which seem too good to be true, he says. They probably are.

Physical Education Week

Physical Education Week in Nova Scotia will be officially proclaimed by Premier Gerald Regan from May 31 to June 4. The announcement was made today by Mike McNeil, President of the Teachers Association for Physical Education (TAPE).

Mr. MacNeil said this year's Week is taking on added emphasis due to the attention being focused on the Olympics. "Our concern, however, as teachers of physical education, is that there may be too much stress placed on the glitter and glamour of the Olympics, and less attention paid the true value of physical education."

He said the provincial association hoped to promote the need of physical education for all children during Physical Education Week. "Many medical doctors have indicated the problems which occur in later life when the body does not participate in some form of physical activity."

"There have been studies made and articles prepared, showing adults who have spent years in sedentary jobs, following inactive years as teenagers, come to experience heart and lung problems, weight control and even emotional stress."

He said many areas of the province do not consider physical education an integral portion of their curriculum. Describing this as "most unfortunate", Mr. MacNeil said physical education is much more "than running around in a gymnasium, or playing sports. It is a calculated plan and design to instill in young people the need and liking for physical activities which will carry them through later life."

Nova Scotia Culture At Olympics

More than 200 visual and performing Nova Scotian artists will represent the Province at the Cultural Olympics being held in Montreal in July. Hon. A. Garnet Brown, Minister, Nova Scotia Department of Recreation, announced today.

The Nova Scotia Department of Recreation is co-ordinating Nova Scotians participation with the organizing committee of the Olympic Games and the Secretary of States Touring Office (Canada Council) and is responsible for all local preparation of the invited groups.

In the performing arts, the province will be represented by the following: Mermaid Theatre, which has gained national recognition, at the Grand Theatre, Kingston, July 15, and at Le Theatre De Quat'sous, Montreal, July 19 and 24. The 10-member company will perform "Glooscap and the Mighty Bullfrog", an hour-long original play based on Micmac Indian legend, with the use of masked dancers and giant puppets.

The Black Symposium Choir will perform July 10 at the Cafe Terrace, Olympic Village. This choir, founded in 1973, consists of 55 people who have put together in song, a moving story of the blacks who came to Nova Scotia from the mid-18th century on.

The Men of The Deeps, North America's Miners' Choir from Cape Breton, will be performing, times to be announced. This choir of 28 working miners was formed in 1966 and has toured nationally, singing songs which have been handed down for generations, and of their own lives 'down under'. They have been invited to tour China later this year.

Two Nova Scotia poets, Terry Crawford, Wolfville, and Don Domanski, Halifax, will represent the province in the Poetry reading Category and are scheduled for July 24 at Theatre De Verdure located in LaFontaine Park, Corridor, Montreal.

Nova Scotia will also be represented in the visual arts exhibitions by the works

SMITH - In loving memory of our dear brother Hatfield Smith who passed away May 19, 1975.

We could never count the many times
We wished that you were here,
Or ever forget the memories
Of one we love so dear.
We could never tell the tears
We shed
From the day we had to part,
Just three small words
We miss you
From the bottom of our hearts

Lovingly remembered and always missed by SISTER ARDENNA BROTHERS DYAS AND GARFIELD. 42:1ip

CANN - Sincere thanks to relatives and friends for the cards, letters, flowers, fruit, and books. Also the visits I received when I was a patient at the Blanchard Fraser Memorial Hospital and at my home.

IN MEMORIAM

SCOTT - In loving memory of a dear grandfather, Arthur J. Scott, who passed away May 26th, 1973.

Memories grow sweeter as time travels on
When you long for a face and a voice that is gone;
We think of your sayings and treasure your smile
And feel you're not lost, just gone for a while.
Deep in our hearts your memory is kept,
To love and to cherish and never forget;
As time unfolds another year,
Memories keep you ever near.

Loved and remembered by GRANDDAUGHTER CHRIS, DEAN, AND SHELLEY. 42:1ip

STARK - In loving memory of my dear husband Allen Stark who passed away June 1-1971.

A token of love and remembrance
To the one I shall never forget,
His memory to me is a treasure,
His loss a lifetime regret.

Sadly missed and always remembered by WIFE EDNA. 42:1ip

IN MEMORIAM

WOODMAN - In loving memory of our Dear Daughter Wilda Woodman who passed away suddenly May 30th, 1975.

The Pearly Gates were open,
A gentle voice said "Come in"

And with farewells left unspoken,
She gently entered home.
To us she has not gone away,
Nor has she travelled far,
Just entered God's eternal home

Loved, and remembered by MUM AND DAD. 42:1ip

POWELL - In memory of my dear Aunt Coral Powell who passed away May 10, 1973.

Gone, but not forgotten
Are the words we sometimes hear,
But the love you left behind you
Grows dearer every year.
Lovingly remembered by NIECE FREDA. 42:1ip

SAVARY - In loving memory of my father, Russell Savary who died a year ago.

Farewell, dear father, thy work is o'er,
Thy willing hands will toil no more,
A loving father, kind and true,
No one on earth we'll find like you.

Remembered by JAMES E. SAVORY, Conway. 42:1ip

Maintaining Prisoners Costly

The cost of maintaining prisoners at regional correctional centres brought some discussion during Digby Municipal Council's meeting on Monday.

Council was informed by letter that Kings County is faced with heavy borrowing charges as the result of some municipalities refusing to pay their costs.

The municipality's debt at the end of March stood at $24,426.06. The per diem rate at the Kings County Correctional Centre is now about $38.50. The suggestion was made that perhaps in those sentenced to prison terms could serve them in Digby. Attempts will be made to have the situation changed.

A letter from Attorney General Leonard Pace advised the municipality owed $17,881.06 as of the end of December for maintenance costs. The municipality decided to hold off their payments a little longer.

Coun. Helen McNeil gave notice of motion to have exemptions on assessment raised from $3,500 to $4,500 for people over 65, widows and spinsters, and deserted mothers.

A capital expenditure of about $11,000 was approved to extend power in the Haines Lake area. Coun.'s McNeil and Walter MacAlpine voted against the proposal. The municipal grant to the library in Weymouth was increased from $50 to $100. Coun. McNeil voted against the motion.

Coun. Irven Marshall reported the social assistance budget has been cut by the province by $100,000. The budget, he said, has been re-submitted and the cause will be fought in Halifax if necessary.

The resignation of Ivan Bain as Municipal Chief Constable and dog-warden was accepted. A new one will be advertised for.

All dog-licences are due and payable on June 1st.

Clare Arts Council

The Clare Arts Council held its annual meeting at college Ste. Anne's in Church Point on Tuesday, May 11th with a very good attendance.

Emile Melanson, of the Clare District High School Staff, of Church Point was elected president replacing Gerald Boudreau of Ste. Anne's college staff and also of Church Point, who resigned after serving the council for the last several years.

Other officers elected were, Mrs. Pierre-Alphonse Belliveau, of Belliveau Cove, secretary-treasurer, replacing Miss Edith Thibodeau who served faithfully for the last several years; Mrs. Clarice Comeau, 1st vice president and Mrs. Catherine Melanson as 2nd vice president, both of Church Point.

Projects of the last term consisted of grants given to a ballet school with our own Acadian and famous teacher of dancing of Boston, Mr. Adolph Robicheau, a native of Meteghan, which was held in Saulnierville parish hall, for children; assisted financially in the dancing school held in the Municipality of Clare with Mrs. Peters of Digby as instructor; also paid a good portion of the cost for the salary paid to a provincial animator for the Acadians in four sections of the province.

The animator is Mr. Jules Chlanson; the Council also organized an exhibition and sales of arts and crafts during the 1976 Acadian Festival of Clare with demonstration.

The idea of having a boutique to sell arts and crafts made by the people of the municipality of Clare was discussed quite extensively. It was suggested that an arts and crafts co-operative be formed such as one working in the Cheticamp area in Cape Breton, which has proven quite successful. Although there has been arts and crafts sales during a period of approximately six weeks in July and August by opportunity for youth programs, a co-operative would present crafts for sale for a longer period of time.

Before handing over the duty of president to the new president, Gerald Boudreau, outgoing president, told the group that the constitution states that each parish in the municipality is allowed a representative, if no member is presently enrolled in the council, which would act as director. It is very important that each parish in Clare be represented on the council as the Arts Council is for the entire municipality.

The aim of the council is to work towards the development and appreciation of the arts and craft sales in the region of Clare. To attain this end, the council will work in co-operation with the committee of Adult education of College Ste. Anne and the Continuing education (adult education) of the department of Education of the province and the Clare school Commission of Clare.

All persons who live in the municipality of Clare who have been approved by the Arts Council may become members. There are two groups of members: a) the senior group, persons 16 years of age; and over; b) those under 16 years, the junior group and they shall not have a vote.

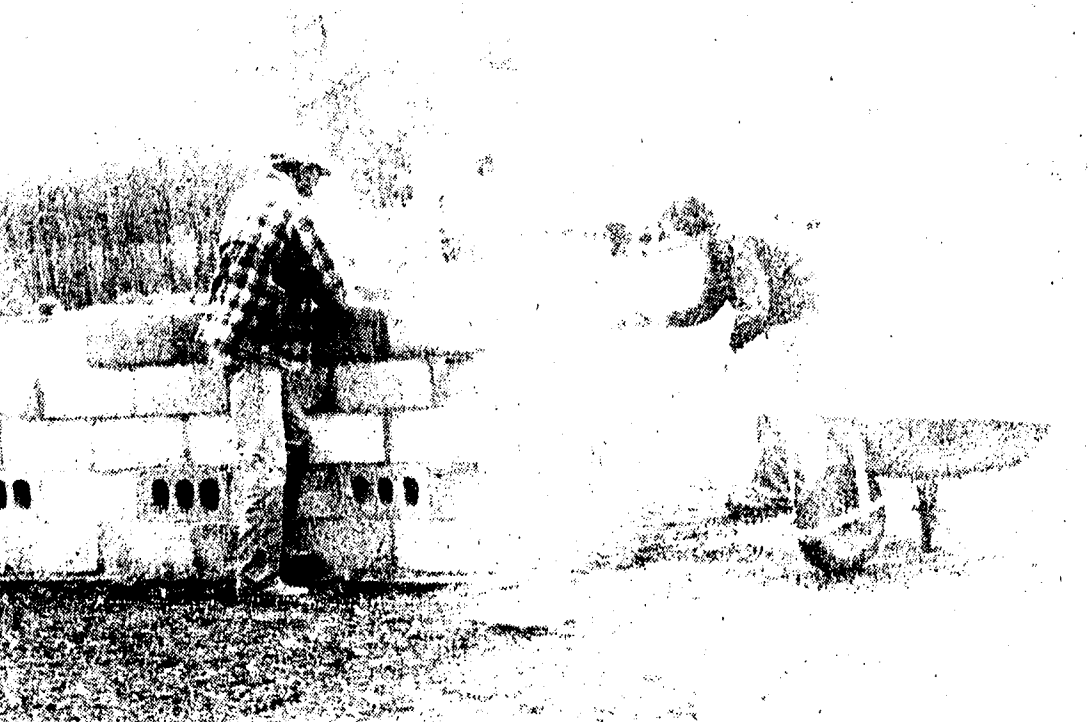

The newly elected president, Mr. Emile Melanson, spoke briefly to the group and outlined projects that could be organized in the coming term. Some of these were: Exhibition of Arts & Crafts and sales in the 1976 Acadian Festival of Clare; have post cards in colors on sale in the area with some of the scenic beauty of the French Shore; posters; silk-screen painting or printing; photography courses, drama; encourage membership in La Jeunesse Musicale programs. It was discussed a project of purchasing a certain number of tickets to La Jeunesse Musicale programs to be presented to certain youths so as to encourage them in good music.

Mr. Melanson stated that he would do his utmost to make the council meetings and projects interesting to a large number of persons who will attend the meetings.

Recreation Park Taking Shape

This pool, which is now part of the Bill Rice Memorial Recreation Park, has undergone improvements recently with the help of an L.I.P. grant obtained by the Bear River Board of Trade.

A change-house begins to take shape at the Bill Rice Memorial Recreation Park in Bear River.

The Bill Benson Memorial Recreation Park, now under construction in Bear River, is expected to be ready for opening by the first Saturday in July.

The swimming hole which has been popular with neighbourhood youngsters for sometime is being improved, a picnic area is being established; a two-section changehouse is being erected, and landscaping work carried out in a project which is expected to cost about $14,000.

The five-acre site opposite the Bear River power house and adjoining the river's southwest branch, is owned by the Bear River Board of Trade. The Board received an L.I.P. grant to carry out the program.

The pool has been in bad shape according to project chief Rev. Foster Hall, but the usual muddy water problem should be at an end now. Edges of the pool have been lined with rock and concrete and the refilling capacity of the pool has been increased. Space for swimmers will be available. Landscaping has reached the stage where planting can begin. Shrubbery, flowering plants, etc. are being requested from the community.

Much of the park land was covered with bush-growth when five men started work on the project in January.

Since that time, clearing has been done and fill brought in.

During periods of bad weather, concrete blocks were fabricated in a shed on the site. The block-machine was obtained from Keith Fraser.

Toilet facilities are also included in project plans. Mr. Hall is hopeful a combination tennis-basketball court can be built for the following year. It is also hoped to eventually have the pool supervised.

The park has been so named in honour of active community worker Bill Benson who passed away last year.

Help 1.2 Million Dollar Industry To Greater Production

Capital grants to commercial berry and vegetable crop producers for the purchase of new irrigation equipment has been increased from $500 to $2,000 per grower, Agriculture Minister Jack Hawkins announced today.

Mr. Hawkins said the purpose of this program is to assist growers in the purchase of equipment which will be used to provide protection to the crops from frost and drought.

Research work conducted on strawberries in the province has indicated that in a dry season irrigation alone is the most economic practice for a grower to follow. It has also been shown to increase fruit firmness.

The policy was initially introduced in 1975 and during that year $6,110 was provided to 20 growers in the form of capital grants to purchase new irrigation equipment.

The revised policy provides for a 20 per cent capital grant on the cost of new irrigation equipment for outdoor use to a maximum of $2,000 per farm. Growers who wish to make application for assistance under this policy should contact their nearest agricultural representative for an application form.

In announcing the program Mr. Hawkins said the strawberry industry in this province is worth $1.2 million. At the present time Nova Scotia produces about 2,376,000 pounds of strawberries which are mainly sold on the fresh market. Nova Scotia's production of strawberries is the fourth largest in Canada, exceeded only by Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia.

There has been a general trend towards the increased production of strawberries for the very popular pick-your-own operations.

Vegetable producers throughout the province also use irrigation systems. There are approximately 10,000 acres of vegetables which are grown on a commercial scale in the province. This industry is worth about $5.5 million to the growers.

Mr. Hawkins said he is pleased to be able to increase the amount of assistance to the berry growers and vegetable producers through the revised policy.

The revised program will enable more growers to increase their irrigation capacity which will assist in the prevention of frost and drought damages, and lead to increased production in this sector of the agricultural industry, he said.

Building Committee Formed

George Barton, Mrs. Patricia Kynock, Mrs. Helen McNeil and the chairman of the Digby Regional High School Board were elected to a committee at the D.R.H.S. Board meeting to look into repairs and renovations to the school building during the summer vacation. The committee was empowered to tender for the work which is to be done.

Permission was requested to use the school gymnasium during the summer for basketball and other recreation. By motion the privilege was granted if it did not interfere with the scheduled maintenance and if the janitorial work was attended to.

The resignation of Mrs. Carolyn Brown from the teaching staff, effective at the close of the present term was regrettably accepted. Resignations were regrettably accepted from six other staff members. Donald Ross was engaged to succeed the place made vacant by the resignation of Lister Hannah. Roy Landry was recommended for the Business Education Department.

It was agreed that anyone who wished to attend the annual meeting of Nova Scotia School Board Association at the Pines Hotel in Digby in the summer should be free to attend.

A great deal of discussion centered around the responsibility of a school board when school children are on swimming, camping, cycling or other special functions sanctioned by the school board and supervised by teaching staff. Each, it was felt, must be handled on an individual basis.

Objective Eliminate Arthritis

The Royal Bank of Canada recently honored a woman whose outstanding achievement contributed to human welfare. The award of $50,000 went to Miss Mary Pack. She was the first woman to receive the award and she was chosen because of her personal crusade toward better health care for arthritis sufferers. Miss Pack is recognized as the moving force behind the founding of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatic Society (CARS) established in 1947. Her recognition by the Royal Bank of Canada not only brought admiration for Miss Pack but it has brought the work of the Society to the forefront.

Digby has a branch of CARS and people of the area have been alerted by the recognition and are interested in what the Canada wide Society aims to achieve. The Arthritis Society is the only organization in Canada devoted to solving the problem of arthritis, and to the alleviation of suffering and disability caused by it. Its ultimate objective is the elimination of the disease. Medical science can prevent disability in about four out of five patients suffering even the most severe forms of arthritis. Arthritis is now being controlled for some, but not for all.

Those who are closely associated with CARS admit that the prevention of disability is good, but it is not good enough. We now need to discover the cause and cure of arthritis. Even more important, we must discover how to prevent it. Medicine is close to understanding the inflammatory processes which cause the destruction of tissues involved in arthritis. It is likely that the cause and cure will be known within 10 years. The Society's program is developing the specially-trained people to apply existing knowledge to improve care of arthritis patients now and to bring ever nearer the conquest of arthritis.

Mrs. Edwina Frost Made Provincial Life Member

Mrs. Kingsley Denton was hostess to the members of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Baptist Church for the May meeting held on Tuesday, May 4th, with fifteen members present. Mrs. Lawrence Shaw presided.

Mrs. Albert Bailey gave the devotional, her theme, "Growth of the Church in Bolivia". The roll was called to which members responded with scriptural word "Love".

One of the pleasant features of the meeting was the presentation of a Provincial Life Membership certificate to Mrs. Edwina Frost. Mrs. Shaw made the presentation.

The program was presented by Mrs. Earl Webber, Westport, assisted by Mrs. George Clements.

Mrs. Richard Welch gave a report of the Digby-Annapolis Association meetings which they attended.

Mrs. Welch conducted the quiz entitled "Everything you always wanted to know about Missionaries - but were afraid to ask" - which was included in the Association meeting of the Women's Missionary Societies.

The Spiritual Life lesson was based on "Love"; more love for Christ, more love for our friends, more love for everyone.

Mrs. Richard Welch was pianist. A social period followed with Mrs. Robert Glavin co-hostess with Mrs. Denton.

Mrs. Welch favored by beautiful instrumental music.

Truck Accident

Two Centreville residents were sent to Digby General Hospital on Tuesday following a single truck accident on Prince William Street.

Digby R.C.M.P. report Wayne Raymond, driver of the truck, apparently had a blackout and lost control. The truck overturned in a ditch.

The passenger in the vehicle, Arthur Melanson, remained in hospital yesterday.

Potato Seed Handling

Growers often overlook the importance of planting warm seed, according to Rick Delbridge, Plant pathologist with the Department of Agriculture and Marketing.

Seed must be warmed to 20 degrees Celsius for two weeks, preferably in light. Cold seed going into warm soil only spells trouble, the plant pathologist says.

Growers are advised to inspect seed on arrival and during cutting. Tuber showing rot should be discarded. Although research has not shown any yield advantage, seed-piece treatment is beneficial. It is insurance against decay by seed corn maggot, scab, Verticillium wilt carried on the seed, Rhizoctonia and Fusarium.

Seed piece treatment will not protect against bacterial decay. To protect against this, warm the seed do not plant in a cold wet soil or a hot dry soil and plant cut seed immediately. In other words, provide good conditions for healing over cuts and bruises.

Disinfect the cutter and planter at least once a day to prevent spreading disease too far. Disinfect between fields, varieties or seed lots as well, Mr. Delbridge advises growers.

The Census of Agriculture.

How are things on your farm?

The Census of Canada will provide important benefits for all Canadians, but the farming community has special needs. That's why you are asked to complete the agricultural questionnaire, in addition to the general questionnaire.

How is the information used?

Farming is so complex that we need all the information we can get to develop policies and programs to meet agriculture's rapidly changing needs.

The facts only you can provide are used to help agricultural associations and government agencies plan and develop new and existing programs.

Our lips are sealed.

The information you provide on Census Day is so vital to the future of Canada that there is a law requiring you to count yourself in. This law also ensures that none of your answers shall be passed on to any other government department. Only Statistics Canada personnel, who are sworn to secrecy, see your questionnaire.

naire and they are subject to legal penalties if they disclose your answers to anyone else.

What to do if you don't know what to do.

If you have problems with the Census of Agriculture questionnaire, fill in all the questions you are able to answer and leave the rest until the census representative comes around to pick up your completed documents.

If you didn't receive either questionnaire by May 31st, or the questionnaires in the official language of your choice, call the long distance operator and ask for ZENITH 0-1976. There is no charge.

We're counting on you.

The 1976 Census of Agriculture is important to everyone who farms. It's something we can't do without you. So please help us make the 1976 Census of Agriculture a complete success.

Forests Widely Used

Canada's forests enter into the daily lives of all Canadians. The house they live in, the furniture they use, the games they play and the papers they read all depend on the forest. It has been said that there are at least 5,000 products from wood but indeed there are many more. Forests form a focal point for vacations and trips of many Canadians and the national and provincial parks approach 2,000 in number including 28 national parks and approximately 1,800 provincial preserves.

More than that, however, it is not generally realized that more recreation days are spent outside the park areas in multiple use forests which are being used by the woods industry or for other purposes. Private ownership, too, provides forest playgrounds for millions of Canadians and these range all the way from maple sugar woodlots and campgrounds owned by individuals to the almost one-half million vacation homes located largely in Canada's forest areas.

A Thought Starter

by Rev. R. C. MacCormack

SPRINGTIME IS LIFE

Winter has a dead look.
With no leaves on trees, and plants dead and buried in cold snow, it all looks very hopeless.

If we had never seen the arrival of the growing season, how could we believe that life could blossom so beautifully?

Since we have all lived through a number of summers, we know now what to expect. Life is a miracle, and only God can do miracles.

The death of winter is not the end. Spring follows for sure.

Our lives are like that. The winter of old age and death is not the last word.

There is a rising.

One day the tomb of Jesus Christ was empty. He was alive forevermore.

He became the pattern of ongoing life, for those who have His Presence in them.

This is also a miracle, possibly only in that supreme Power.

This is faith which is not hard at all.

It is merely opening our tired eyes to the excitement of what God can do for us and in us.

Here is the thrilling lesson from Springtime to those who will look around.

quota" systems whereby companies are guaranteed a long term annual volume of raw material rather than given the rights to harvest timber over large areas set aside for them.

Integrated forest use is being encouraged by various methods across Canada.
The forestland base-although vast - is limited and both society's needs and environmental needs can often be satisfied in a given area through good management, changing priorities with time, and improvements such as roads planned in keeping with integrated use requirements.

The changes taking place in provincial forest legislation and the success with which they are implemented, are of fundamental importance to all Canadians. It is expected that expanding fibre demand will result in a balance between annual allowable cut and harvest by the end of this century. Recreational demands on forestland will multiply many times.

Watershed protection will become even more significant as Canada's agriculture is pressed to feed a hungry world.

Although there are different opinions as to the right way to meet these objectives, there is growing awareness that forest management must be intensified now if the demands only 25 years hence are to be met. Provincial governments are adopting a variety of new approaches to meet these important challenges.

A newly produced booklet, Our Forests, is being shown to Hon. A.M. (Sandy) Cameron, Nova Scotia's Minister of Lands and Forests. With him are, at left, Dr. G.W.I. Creighton, president of the Nova Scotia Forestry Association, and Hugh Fairn, chairman of the Provincial Forest Practices Improvement Board. The booklet outlines the history of Nova Scotia's concern for the forest resource, the multi-use benefits of this resource and steps to protect it and promote future forest growth. (N.S. CIC Photo)

Provincial Forest Policies Change

During the 1970's, there have been major changes in forest policies in practically every province of Canada, notes the Canadian Forestry Association. These reflect decisions by provincial governments to have greater input on forest management to meet present and future demands on this basic renewable Canadian resource.

New policies, reflect, in part, awareness that many areas which have been harvested or struck by fire, insects or disease are not forested to adequate levels.
Greater emphasis on tree
nursery establishment, planting, development of genetically superior trees and special treatments to encourage better natural regeneration are evident across the country.

In many provinces the license or leasing arrangement between government and industry is being reviewed and in some cases replaced with "volume

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Harvey and daughter, Patty Fewrell of Kokomo, Indiana are visiting friends, Mrs. Raymond Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Leda Hand-spiker and Elaine.

Rev. and Mrs. V.E. Kirkpatrick II and son, Vivian III of Lafayette, Indiana and Donna Kirkpatrick of Oregon, Illinois who had visited relatives and friends in Digby returned home on Thursday. They had been accompanied here by Mrs. V.E. Kirkpatrick I who remained to be with her husband until June 1976.

Rev. Mr. Kirkpatrick I has been a supply preacher at the Lighthouse Church of God, Digby. The late Rev. Raymond Brown had occupied the pulpit on a regular basis prior to November 1974.

Over 800 Golden Tulips are in full bloom on the Clementsvalle grounds, the result of a nation-wide planting program to observe the Legion's 50th anniversary.

The tulip bulbs were grown in Holland last year, and were then distributed to Legion branches across Canada. The tulips can also be seen on other properties in the area.

Les Wright looked after the required planting work at the Legion property. His little companion had nothing to do with it.

The tulips are planted to form the shape of the Legion badge.

DDD - Direct Distance Dialing allows you to dial your own low cost station-to-station long distance calls direct - to any point in Canada and the U.S.

It's fast and it's easy. To place DDD calls within Nova Scotia, or P.E.I., simply dial "1" - then your party's number. To call points outside Nova Scotia or P.E.I., first dial "1", then the area code of the place you are calling, then the number of your party.

For complete instructions on how to use DDD, consult your special DDD pamphlet or the Call Guide pages of your telephone book.

Milkshakes - Are They Really Good?

Guidelines for the Sanitary Preparation of Milkshakes have been produced by the Nova Scotia Department of Health.

Health Minister Allan Sullivan states the guidelines are just that, for the guidance of the industry and not compulsory regulations.

He noted however that officials of his department would be closely monitoring the results of adherence to the guidelines, and action could be taken to formalize them into regulations at a later date.

The drawing up of the guidelines resulted from an investigation carried out by the Department last fall with respect to the quality of the milkshakes served in the province.

The results of the testing showed the bacterial quality of milkshakes generally well below what health officials felt it should be. However, Mr. Sullivan said, there are no standards for milkshakes in Canada at the present times which could be used for comparison.

There are, however, standards for some of the ingredients of milkshakes, such as ice cream and milk, the minister said.

Included in the guidelines are both standard plate count and coliform count for both finished milkshakes and for the various ingredients.

They also deal with sanitation requirements for utensils. The guidelines call for the washing and sanitizing of beaters at least hourly; that mixing containers should preferably be of the single service type, or if not, washed and sanitized after each use; only scoop wells with continuous water should be permitted; alternatives, however, would include single service scoops or the use of several scoops on a rotating basis, washing and sanitizing the scoop after each use.

Coupled with the guidelines, the operators of the outlets where milkshakes will be encouraged to ensure that a high degree of cleanliness and sanitation are attained in their establishments by voluntary compliance with the guidelines and ensuring that all their employees receive adequate training in sanitation procedures and principles.

Shubenacadie Park Visitors Treated To Display

The peacock at Shubenacadie Wildlife Park had a chance to display its colorful feathers to the season's first visitors when the park opened Saturday, May 15.

Eldon Pace, park superintendent, says that park visitors will see a number of changes this year including one new resident, a Canada Lynx from the highlands of Cape Breton. "Right now the park looks a little bare compared to last year," says Mr. Pace.

"Winter storms blew over a lot of trees and we had to plant more than 500 new ones."

Several improvements have been made to park facilities including new

Roy Campbell Evangelist

The Lower Granville church announces a special Crusade for Christ with Rev. Roy Campbell, Director of Evangelism for the Atlantic Baptist Convention. Services will be held nightly at Port Wade Baptist Church from June 6 to 13th at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Campbell has preached in many of the foremost churches of Canada and America, as well as in London, England. He was former Director of Maritime Youth for Christ and the "Light of Life Hour", heard in the Maritimes and Maine on radio. He has served for 8 years as Pastor of First Baptist Church in Corner Brook, Newfoundland, where he had a daily TV program and often appeared on radio to preach the Gospel of Christ.

Mr. Campbell makes an appeal to all ages and firmly believes that the Lord Jesus Christ has "the Answer" to the dilemma of modern life and that the Gospel is relevant to our problems. The public is warmly welcome!

Special music is being arranged and will feature choirs, trios, duets.

Fly Fishing School

On Monday evening May 10, 1976, George Kregling, expert fly fisherman and master fly tier of Clementsvalle held a very successful fly fishing school at Bob Sanford's pond.

About 20 avid fishermen gathered for the school and listened with great interest as Mr. Kregling explained how to "match the Hatch" for successful fly fishing.

He also stressed the need for a rod, line and leader that balance perfectly for more pleasurable fishing.

Mr. Kregling ended with a fly casting demonstration that left his audience shaking their heads in amazement at the ease with which he could handle the whole length of a normal fly line.

Plans Formulated For Cherry Carnival

The Bear River Cherry Carnival is some time away yet (July 31) but planning for the event is already well underway.

"We had a successful year in 1975 and we're hoping this year's event will be as good or better," says carnival Chairman Frank Marshall.

The year 1975 was the best ever for the carnival which has continually grown over the years. It is now one of the most successful community events in Nova Scotia.

Mr. Marshall said organizers will likely keep on with the successful format followed for the past couple of years. Tourists have been showing up at the cherry carnival in increasing numbers and many now plan their vacations around it.

One of the annual attractions is the giant auction which starts at 6 p.m. and runs into the evening. Anyone with anything to offer for the event is asked to

LittleRed Schoolhouse Program Successful

The Little Red Schoolhouse Program has been such a success, Recreation Minister A. Garnet Brown is looking for ways to improve it from the people most involved.

He says more than 425 small community recreation centres have opened or expanded their programs under the department's $2,000 capital grant program and that he's delighted such a variety of activities are under way in each one.

"I am grateful to the community groups which responded to this program and to all those who have done so much to bring back a sense of community spirit," he said.

Because the program has been so successful, Mr. Brown wants to see it expanded; but, first, he needs to collect the ideas and views of the people most directly involved.

"We want to know how they view the department's role in this and whether or not they think we can help them stimulate and initiate programs they know will increase community participation," he said.

It's a "known fact" that the little red schoolhouse program has reawakened community involvement which was lost when school consolidation was introduced some 20 years ago, he added.

"But this was only possible because the people themselves responded and provided the kind of volunteer leadership so necessary for any project to succeed."

The Minister said there are many interesting things happening throughout rural Nova Scotia "which our Little Red Schoolhouse Groups might like to take advantage of".

"It's just a matter of organization and maybe that's how we can help," he said.

He points out that the recently held Nova Scotia High School Drama Festival had 40 entries from all over the province. "It seems to

Yes, the Musical Ride is really coming, the dates being 21 and 22 July. They will be performing at the Lawrencetown Exhibition Grounds each evening at 7:30 p.m. Tickets will be going on sale soon, all seats $2.50.

The Ride is being sponsored in this area by the Annapolis County 4-H Leaders' Council. This Council is a group of 4-H leaders and junior leaders of the 4-H Clubs in the County, who help set guide lines for 4-H. The Council appointed a planning committee consisting of: Robert Dechman, Agricultural Representative for the County; Weldon Smith, 4-H Representative for Annapolis, Digby and Yarmouth Counties; Vickie Barteaux, President of Annapolis 4-H Leaders' Council; Nancy Phelan, Jean Ward, Gerry Whitman, and Jack van Roestel. Mrs. Belinda Robar and Mrs. Betty Rushton are being asked to organize a 4-H gymkana as part of the programme and Frank Salsman and Ron Barteaux are working on the Barns and Grounds Committee.

The planning committee met with Inspector Al Anderson of Ottawa to finalize plans for the show. Cpl. Don McIntosh of the Bridgetown Detachment is working as the liaison officer for the group. There will be more information at a later date. So, for a chance of a lifetime, keep these dates in mind - 21, 22 July, 1976.

41 Get Proof Certificates

Forty-one students were presented with proof-certificates of Canadian citizenship during a Citizen Court ceremony in Digby.

Prior to the presentation of certificates, a Canadian flag was presented to the court on behalf of the Digby Legion by Legion president Charlie Francis and RCMP Constable Jim Webb.

Citizenship Court Judge Vic Cardoza paid a brief tribute to the flag, which he termed a "truly Canadian symbol."

The colours red and white, he said, are Canada's national colours. The maple leaf has been used extensively as a symbol and mark of identity by the Canadian Armed Forces.

Mr. Cardoza expressed hope the flag might find a permanent home in the court room as a symbol of the Legion's role.

He went on to speak of the importance of citizenship, the practice of which is one of the ingredients for a good nation.

He spoke of the "shared benefits" of citizenship in which one does not stand alone. Canada, he said, is a nation of immigrants. About three million arrived since World War II.

Several others spoke to the students after Judge Cardoza's remarks.

Earlier in the year, Judge Cardoza had spoken on citizenship to several groups of Mrs. Carolyn Brown's classes in English.

He told them citizenship is the highest honor a nation can confer on an individual who is not born in that country; and traced the history of citizenship from early Greek and Roman times to the present.

As a result of discussions, students became interested in obtaining proof certificates. The card serves as a means of identifications when travelling and is proof of Canadian Citizenship.

Gertrude Melanson acted as co-ordinator of the project. Applications had to be filled out, legal proof given, and processing of photographs done in Ottawa on the identification cards.

Students receiving the proof certificates were: Paul Reid, Roxanne Borden, Sarah Gaudett, Marvin Peck.

Municipality Wants Tax Sharing Changes

By Larry Duchesne

A discussion on financial woes occupied much of the time at Monday's Meeting of Digby Municipal Council.

At the end of the discussion, a resolution was adopted recommending changes to give municipal units a more favorable share of tax dollars raised in their respective areas.

The municipality will attempt to have the resolution brought before the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities meeting in September.

The topic started off with Councillor Helen McNeil questioning the municipality's current status, especially in light of funding cutbacks by the province.

She noted the municipality's tax rate has not been set (pending completion of assessment appeals) and questioned how much the council and taxpayers could pick up.

Councillor Arthur Rice carried the discussion into the area of tax-sharing. "It seems we have three-level government with a two-level taxation system," he noted.

Councillor Rice said a different system of taxation is necessary if we are to achieve good municipal government. He said Digby Municipality has no federal-fund benefits to compare with other units (i.e. CFB Cornwallis, College Ste Anne).

"I think a bigger percentage of this (tax benefits) belongs to us," he said.

Questioned on the municipality's present financial status, Councillor L. E. R. Winchester said the unit is "solvent" at this time and no money has been borrowed yet this year.

However, nothing has yet been paid on the $200,000 borrowed last year.

Councillor Ervin Marshall also got in on the cost-sharing debate noting we get a very small portion of federal funding here. "What we've got in this country today is socialism."

It's nobody's fault but our own if we're not being funded like the other municipal units, according to Councillor Richard Daley. Councillor McNeil agreed. She said the municipality never went to the province for help and we missed out. This is one of three units which didn't request help, she said.

"We're on a crash course to destruction," Councillor Rice noted. He said there's no way the municipality can provide the same services without getting its fair share (tax dollars).

Questioning what good it does to complain, Councillor Winchester said, "Their (province) biggest weapon is - they ignore you."

Councillor Rice then stretched the discussion a little further to touch on assessment. He said council has an obligation to the people to "raise old hell" to find out why we can't have a more fair assessment.

Moves in this direction are unlikely to occur at least until the assessment appeals are concluded, possibly at the end of July or in early August.

Power

Councillor Ervin Marshall advised he as Chairman of the Power Board, had been trying to meet with the Premier re the fuel adjustment charge.

He requested a letter from the municipality utility to Gerald Regan seeking a public hearing on the matter.

The fuel adjustment charge is opposed in this area since most of power needs come from hydro-generated electricity.

Councillor Marshall advised the eight percent sales tax on power obtained from the power corporation has apparently been removed.

A motion was passed that when confirmation of the change is received, Council will seek repayment of all money paid to date. "If it's wrong to pay it now, it was wrong to pay it then," - Councillor Rice.

Through an additional motion on the sharing of tax dollars, council will seek to have Joe Casey and Coline Campbell appear before council to discuss the matter.

Sewerage

The municipality has authorized its Board of Health to look into the feasibility of looking into the town's sewerage system which is now under construction.

In another action, Carl Niemeyer was hired as Building Inspector. The Building Committee will establish a set of guidelines for him to follow.

Dan D. Apple Here

Dan D. Apple will be at the Soccer Field at the Digby Regional High School this morning at nine o'clock where he will issue a proclamation that the Annapolis Valley Apple Blossom Festival for 1976 is about to be held. Dan D. Apple leaves Digby to be at CFB Cornwallis Elementary School at 9:45 and the Annapolis Royal Elementary School at 10:30 a.m.

Dan D. Apple who gets as far as Berwick by 2:30 p.m. will continue the schools to Hantsport on Friday.

In each of the Valley towns the proclamation presentations will be made to the town mayor.

Cyclathon Reaches $1600.00

Approximately $1600 was the last estimated proceeds from the recent cyclathon sponsored by Mental Health Digby. There were at the time of the Mental Health meeting on Thursday evening, a few more persons to pass in their results but the bulk of the proceeds had been received.

Tentative plans for the annual meeting of Mental Health-Digby were set for Thursday, June 17 at the Digby New Horizons building. Final plans will be made after arrangements with a guest speaker. Named to the nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers for 1976-77 were Mrs. Mary Robert, Mrs. J.M. Wallis and Mrs. Donald Buckler.

Rev. John Stokoe, Bear River, a member of the Digby Annapolis Mental Health Clinic Board reviewed the events which brought the Board under the same jurisdiction as the Digby General Hospital

Jail Nets Fire Department $880.00

A number of prominent Digby citizens served time in jail over the weekend, including some RCMP officers.

Altogether, about 175 spent time in the Digby Volunteer Fire Department's mock jail at the Evangeline Shoppers' Mall on Friday and Saturday.

All for a reasonable cause, however. The $880 raised is to be used to purchase uniforms for the Digby Fire Department Majorette Twirlers.

Those serving time were sponsored by friends and enemies at a cost of 50 cents per hour. If the victim didn't want to serve all his time he could buy his way out at the same price.

Several comments were heard on the jail design, that was looked after by Lloyd Thibodeau, alias Sparky.

Ronald VanTassel, manager of the Met, earned the distinction of serving the longest sentence - one hour and twenty minutes.

The Bonded Stock helped out on Saturday afternoon with a little music. A number of firemen were on hand to do the arresting and tend the jail. A number also served time there.

Freedom is about to end for Ken Murray (Save Easy Manager) and John Souffley (bakery supervisor). Both fell victim to the fire department's mock jail. Dale Halliday and Doug VanTassel are shown guarding the prisoners. Sparky, right, appears anxious to get the prisoners into the cell and away from the public.

Mr. Roy V. Mailman, President of Wallis Print Ltd., was arrested and sentenced to serve 16 minutes in Digby on Friday. Charges were laid and court costs of 50 cents per minute were paid by staff and friends of the Courier. The warrant was served by "Officers" Brian Turnbull and Dale Halliday. Mr. Mailman is seen above handcuffed to Mr. Halliday. After spending 3 minutes in solitary confinement Publisher Roy agreed to pay a fine of $8.00 and was released in the custody of Editor Edith Wallis.

On the 13th of May, 1976 the final documents were signed by the Ministry of Transport and Kiki Nichols, QMP 163 117 became the first lady pilot of the Yarmouth Flying Club and in Western Nova Scotia.

In order to obtain her credentials she was required to pass a solo exam, a solo cross country test which meant that she had to fly by herself in a small plane to Halifax International Airport, land and clear through the big jets, re-fuel the plane by herself and return via the picturesque Annapolis Valley and Digby to Yarmouth. She then was required to complete a flight check given by Examiner Jack Smith of the Waterville Flying Club.

Prior to completing her final check she obtained a Cessna 172 Skyhawk aircraft which is a single engine four seater plane and was lucky enough to obtain registration letters from the Ministry of Transport C-G KJN, her initials. The blue and white high winged single

Mental Health Hospital Amalgamation Complete

The Mental Health Clinic in Digby is now under the jurisdiction of the Digby General Hospital Board.

The centre was formerly looked after by the Digby-Annapolis Mental Health Services Board. Members of that board now act in only an advisory capacity to the hospital board.

Such amalgamations are either underway or being considered in other parts of the province. It was requested by the Hospital Services and Insurance Commission that Mental Health Centres come under the wing of designated general hospitals.

The Digby-Annapolis Mental Health Service Board and the hospital board were among the first in the province to reach agreement.

The agreement will see two representatives of the mental health board appointed to the hospital board each year. One will represent Digby County and the other, Annapolis County.

R. MacLeod Rogers, Chairman of the hospital board, sees no effect on mental health services resulting from the change.

He said it is an "economic measure" by which the province can get funding for mental health from the federal government.

The province, he said, had laid out its suggestions "Which were pretty firm" to board administrators and chairmen at a meeting in Halifax, and Mr. Nicholson indicated in his budget that this would have to happen.

The amalgamation took effect early in May.

DIGBY MINOR HOCKEY COMMENCES

What! Digby Minor Hockey Commences. How do we reason that? Simply like the universities which when closing have their commencement exercises. Practically every kind of closing is a commencement and Digby Minor Hockey is no exception. Digby Minor Hockey had its closing banquet on Sunday evening but that means that the preparation for next winter's Minor Hockey Program begins now and through the summer of 1976 or there just might not be a Minor Hockey in Digby in the Fall of 1976.

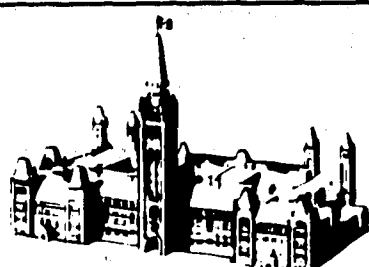

Digby Minor Hockey is in crucial financial straits as far as we can gather from the Digby Minor Hockey Association. In order to carry on next year, the support of parents and friends is imperative. Parents will have to come to a decision whether or not they want Minor Hockey for the children. We have frequently written about the benefits of Minor Hockey to the young bodies and minds so we shall not repeat those here. These parents know.

The Digby Minor Hockey Association sees a definite need to commence now in planning fund-raising. The summertime is the fundamental fund-raising time here. Visitors are here to patronize events and in general fund-raising events are much more successful in the summer weather. There's a rallying call being sounded now. This is necessary if Minor Hockey in Digby is to survive.

Mrs. Pat Kynock is president of the Digby Minor Hockey Association and William MacMillan has been newly appointed to the fund-raising committee. We find from the treasurer, Ben Cullin, that the Digby Minor Hockey Association had a deficit of $800 on the operation of the 1975-1976 season. The Association issued the following statement to the public "The Digby Minor Hockey Association needs your help if it is to survive much less flourish in the coming season. We are presently out of money and the prospects of improvement in this regard are indeed poor. It is a very strong feeling of the Minor Hockey Association executive that without energetic involvement and generous financial support by the community as a whole our Minor Hockey survival prospects are slim."

The treasurer reviewed the past year's problems and the future potential with hope for a possible solution. You will find the Digby Minor Hockey Association appeal in other columns of this issue. The Association needs money but it also needs genuinely interested people. Are you one? There are decisions to be made that could effect you. Take your responsibility. Involvement is the word.

OTTAWA and Small Business

The lottery shell game

Government lotteries, like printing money, are simply political devices which subvert the democratic process and undermine our free economic system. When governments can expand their spending without repercussions at the polls, there is no limit to their growth. The taxpayer forfeits his only means of redress - through his MP - because the extra spending is outside the tax structure. The system is no longer democratic. It's run by the bureaucracy.

How long would the Vietnam War have lasted if U.S. governments had raised taxes to pay for it? Six months? Every recent war in history has been paid for by printing money. So was the American Revolution. So was the French.

Printing money and government lotteries are the tools of political charlatans. They simply stretch the free lunch counter still further. It's this - the something-for-nothing philosophy - which the Little Red Rooster campaign is aimed at. Wake Up Canada advertisements of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business will be appearing over the next twelve months in community newspapers across Canada. The target: galloping government spending that is not financed by taxes.

The first three winners of the McKee Trophy, awarded annually to the person giving the greatest service to the advancement of Canadian aviation, were the northern bush pilots H.A. "Doc" Oaks, C.H. "Runch" Dickens and W.R. "Wop" May.

Hodge Podge

— Read in that history "How Canada Got Its Capital" written by Nadja (Nafthal) Corkum that when the parliament buildings were being constructed back in the 1860's, the government ran out of money to pay the workers and contractors and after two years all construction stopped. The work stoppage caused a great deal of hardship and other places to work had to be secured for the men. The buildings were eventually completed in 1865. Does sounds a little like 1976 when you talk about governments running out of money. We just express it more in "deficit financing".

— We sorrowfully watched those brown spots on our cedar shrubs around Digby but were glad to see new sprouts in many places eventually shoving the dead brown branches out. We didn't think we had much to complain about when we saw those totally browned cedars along the properties in Saint John, N.B., over the weekend. The theory we heard expressed was that the salt spray from the Ground Hog Day storm had caused the damage. We did not consult a scientist for authenticity.

— When we get a report on the 1976 Census figures we'll be curious to see how far above 2,330 the Digby town census figures raised. Somebody has to be living in all the new houses, apartments, senior citizens homes and social welfare housing units. Somehow the census figures for Digby seemed to remain almost constant for many years despite the fact that homes were added each year. Just the same we must confess that taking of the census is important in planning for the future. For example while Nova Scotia census in 1971 showed a decline in the number of children, those persons over the age of 65 increased. This has bearing on school planning and social services. In 1951, we understand Nova Scotia had 481 more women senior citizens than men of that age; in 1971 women of that age outnumbered men by 7000. These changes are significant to government planning on all levels as well as to businesses and trades.

Letter To The Editor

Courier Malcolm
Managing Editor,
Digby Courier,
Digby, N.S.

Dear Sir or Madam:

On behalf of the Provincial Public Relations Committee and Board of Directors, Nova Scotia Division, please accept our most grateful appreciation for the publicity you have given to the Society during this year's Annual Campaign. We realize that your generosity to this Division extends far beyond what the small budget can actually accommodate, in bringing the message of the Canadian Cancer Society to the readers in your area.

From all appearances to date, the 1976 Campaign is going to be very successful indeed. We know that a great deal of the credit goes to the personnel of your newspaper, for the wonderful support given to our volunteers in the Units served by your paper.

Once again, thank you, for your excellent co-operation in the fight against cancer.

Yours very sincerely
J. Richard Green

Nosey Neckers Write

Dear Readers:

Once the Dept. of Highways sees fit to repave the Neck, we would like to find another Provincial Department to erect a windbreak around the Neck.

No more pushing the old lawnmowers. It's now "Ride 'em". Can hardly wait until the grass grows again.

Burnside Barn burns, birdseye view from Bedrock. Neckers came to watch their Volunteer fire Dept. in action. A job well done.

One bird came home to roost but may have to leave again. Ottawa climate more appealing?

Some gates still swing and some don't.

The Mink Cove S.M.C. (Stink Manufacturing Company) is in full production once again. The summer months aroma is not really a tourist attraction.

Sandy Cove Hall is getting a facelift.

The Auxiliary of the DNVFD held a bake sale at Champlain Trailer Park. Thank you, Mr. Pratt, for your cooperation.

Rather cool for camping, wasn't it, Faye and Judy?

Lawrence has been in a creative mood - a cart to pull the twins in behind the lawnmower.

Work on the fire Hall seems to be progressing well.

Fellow Neckers, this is just a sample of what we would like to write, now and then, to add a bit of humour and more of a personal touch. Hope to have more Nosey notes from a wider area next time.

Just Nosey Neckers.

Admiral Digby Library Annual Planned

The annual meeting of the Digby Library and Historical Association will be held on June 15 at 8 p.m. Arrangements for the place of meeting have not yet been finalized.

The upstairs rooms have been prepared for museum displays. Three large display cases were recently purchased at an auction. Two are floor type, and one a table model. They are of heavy oak and have a wide display area covered by glass.

Derby tickets were sold to raise money and Tag Days held on May 28 and 29. A good response was given by friends and people in the community when a new furnace was needed during the winter. The situation was an emergency, as there were no funds to buy or install a new furnace. Money was borrowed until the money could be raised and Gerald Stoddart capably replaced the old furnace in a short time.

A work party was held to clean the upstairs room. Jamie Baxter and Darrell O'Neil from grade ten helped during the clean-up work.

Special Activities Grants from the Federal Museum Association have been requested to assist in procuring needed museum materials. More foundation work and renovations need to be carried out, however, funds are scarce.

The annual meeting will give an overview of the year's work and Chairman Judge Nichols plans to have a speaker on some aspect of museum interest.

Brigantine

The 21-ton brigantine Distant Star runs before the wind in sea trials on the Bay of Fundy off Parrsboro, Nova Scotia. She will sail to New York on her maiden voyage under owner-skipper Lou Tolve of Mamaroneck, N.Y.

(N.S. CIC Photo)

by John Knight

Lou Tolve dreamed of a distant star and it led him from his home in Mamaroneck, N.Y. to Parrsboro, Nova Scotia.

Here in this quiet country town on the Bay of Fundy shore, Distant Star lifted off her cradle on the incoming tide and brought Lou's dream to life.

In the age of the supertanker, the square-rigged sailing vessel is an anachronism to many. For Lou Tolve, it was a dream, a thing of beauty and the only way to go sailing.

An experienced racing sailor and deepwater cruising man, the youthful skipper of Distant Star had long seen traditional, character-laden boats passage-making through his imagination.

"She's just fabulous - couldn't be better," says skipper Tolve. "I didn't think it was possible to build such a vessel for $80,000 these days."

The soft-spoken young businessman was most emphatic when asked if the brigantine would do charter work. "Hell, no! She's for pleasure only. That's why I picked Doug's design. I want a boat that's easy to sail that I can relax on and run before the trade winds all day."

Soon after lifting from her cradle Distant Star received her baptism. The wind off the Bay of Fundy was biting cold, and the mist alternately hid and revealed the forested headlands.

If you have dreams, then you need a dream merchant and that's where Doug Rosborough and Osmond Yorke came in.

Doug is a quiet approachable man who designs and supervises construction of some of the most distinctive and lovely vessels on the water anywhere. His ships ply the waters of the Mediterranean, the islands of Molokai, Maui and Hawaii, the English Channel, Great Lakes and the Emerald Isles of the Caribbean.

The pride of the master shipwright burns bright in Osmond Yorke of Windjammer Yachts, Parrsboro, Nova Scotia. Distant Star is the fourth ship he has launched from his yard in conjunction with Doug Rosborough. "Pride in our work is part of our profit" is Doug's motto and Osmond wouldn't have it any other way either.

Windjammer Yachts employs six master craftsmen who know how to build the right way and no other way. No corners are cut here, these are serious ships built for serious sailors. Out in the grey fury of the Atlantic shortcuts in construction can shorten lives.

"Distant Star took about 7,000 man-hours to build," Osmond says. "She's 21 tons displacement and she can hoist 1,600 square feet of sail. All our materials are native to Nova Scotia, except for the teak and mahogany trim. We're lucky, of course, because it's all here - pine, spruce and white oak."

He's right, of course, for Nova Scotia has been among the world's great shipbuilders for over 200 years. But what Osmond doesn't tell you about are the supreme skills he and his men needed to steam four-inch by four-inch white oak frames into shape and bend one-and-a-half-inch white pine planking over them to fit tight as a bottle. Everything is finished to the Nth degree; no nails or screws are visible to interrupt the eye as it passes over the unbroken wood surfaces.

The 46-foot brigantine is a true live-aboard vessel with six feet four inches of headroom in her great cabin aft. Lit with a handsome skylight and heavy steel-framed stern windows, she makes any captain feel like an admiral of the fleet.

She sleeps eight in three cabins with full headroom and her berths are wide and comfortable for sailors coming off watch. She sails comfortably too, with her generous six-foot draft and six and one-half tons of cast-iron ballast to keep her stiff in a blow.

Doug Rosborough's son Bob took the helm and turned her up into the wind as skipper Tolve and mate John Manges, of New York, hoisted the jib, staysail and mainsail. With whoops and whistles from all aboard she took the wind as Bob Rosborough spun the spoked wheel in his sure hands.

Beside him, eyes keen and feet well-planted in his sea boots, Osmond Yorke drew quietly on a cigarette as Distant Star thrashed through the waves and rain.

"They're all different," he says. "I'm always a little nervous in the trials, but there's a good feeling too. You're always keen to see how she wears her sails."

As the wind freshened Lou Tolve sprang aloft and bent on the square fore topsail with its blue and red shooting star emblem. The square sail billowed in the wind as Distant Star rolled along and Lou let loose a yell as the spray flecked his beard and plastered his hair down.

According to Doug Rosborough, square sails enable a ship to sail on a reach or run before the wind. "They're very easy to handle because they're self-contained and attached at a centre point on the mast," he said. "They lift the boat as well, giving her extra speed."

Lou gave the order to splice the main brace and in true naval tradition, dark rum was passed around to all hands as Distant Star ran before the wind - one man's dream come true.

Digby Retains Queen's Day Championship

The second annual Queen's Day Dart Tournament was won for the second consecutive year by the Digby Legion team.

Thirteen teams from Greenwood to Freeport participated in the eight-hour event hosted by the CFB Cornwallis Junior Ranks Club.

Runner-up was the Clementsport "A" team, one of two teams representing the Clementsport Legion.

Individual trophy winners were Leo Perrone (high start, Bob Marshall (high score), and Fred Cress (high finish.)

As winners, the Digby team was presented with the Moosehead Award. The presentation was made by Moosehead representative Chris Coughland.

Members of the Digby team were Rodney (Bull) Bell, Dave Woods (captain), Allan McCormick, Arnold Doucette, Danny Doucette, Bob Marshall, Robbie Robicheau, Larry Duchesne and Fred Smith.

Cornwallis chefs provided all players with a complimentary meal.

Contract Award

A $125,000 contract for a Liquor Store in Weymouth has been awarded to Atlantis Ltd., Lunenburg, Public Works Minister Benoit Comeau announced today. Construction of the store is expected to begin immediately, with completion slated in mid-October.

The store is designed to fit the village atmosphere, blending architecturally with the community.

Entertains For

Mrs. Brennan, V.O.N.

A delightful afternoon tea was held on May 26 at the home of Mrs. W.H. Christie, Vice-Pres. of the local branch of the V.O.N. in honor of Mrs. Phyllis Brennan who has served for six years with the Order and who has resigned her position as Nurse in Charge to take up residence in Ottawa with her family.

Mrs. Monique Hiebert, V.O.N. in the Digby area was also present as were the Digby members of the V.O.N. board. Mrs. A.J. Dillon presided at the tea table and at the close Mayor Charles Haliburton presented Mrs. Brennan with a farewell gift, reminding her that she will be greatly missed for her most efficient and faithful service, which has endeared her to patients and friends alike.

Mayor Haliburton is a past president of the Local Association Victorian Of Nurses and is convener of publicity.

OBITUARIES

MRS. OTTO LONG

Mrs. Otto Long, 74, Bear River East, died Monday at home.

Born in Bear River, she was the former Rita Mae Chute, daughter of the late Myron and Catherine (Veniot) Chute.

Surviving are a son, Lewis, Bear River East, a daughter, Hilda (Mrs. Esmond Whynott), Liverpool; a sister, Ethel (Mrs. Maurice Stover), Calif.; five grandchildren; two great-grandchildren.

She was predeceased by her husband and three brothers.

The body was at Jayne's Funeral Home, Digby, from where funeral service was held Thursday at 2:30 p.m., Melvin Toole officiating. Interment was in Clementsfield cemetery.

Monsignor Joseph Emile Bourneuf, 91, Grosses Coques, died Tuesday, at the Villa St. Joseph, Yarmouth. Born in Grosses Coques, he was the son of the late Pierre and Collette (Comeau) Bourneuf.

He was ordained to the priesthood on June 29, 1909 in Halifax, he served as the curate in Amherst, and pastor at Middle East Pubnico, St. Bernard's and Meteghan Stella Maris Parish for 28 years. He retired from the ministry in 1965.

In 1940, he received the title of domestic prelate from Rome and in 1950 the honor of prothonotary apostolic. He served as the first Vicar General to the Diocese of Yarmouth.

Surviving are a brother, Delphis, and a sister, Louise, both of Grosses Coques.

Service was held Friday at 10 a.m. at St. Mary's Church, Church Point, Bishop Austin Burke officiating. Burial was in the parish cemetery.

Joseph Lellis LeBlanc, 69, Yarmouth, died Monday at his home, 72 King Street. Mr. LeBlanc, a native of Wedgeport, was correspondent for various newspapers.

During the same period, he covered sports events for a Kentville radio station and for the monthly magazine The Fans, and wrote both news and sports reports for the Yarmouth Herald and Yarmouth Light.

After his retirement in 1971, he continued to write articles and a column for several Fundy Group publications.

Throughout his career, Mr. LeBlanc was closely associated with sports groups such as Yarmouth Amateur Athletic Association. He was also active in boxing and wrestling promotion.

He was a member of the Knights of Columbus council 2181, Yarmouth.

The son of Mrs. Lena (Pothier) LeBlanc, and the late Ligouri LeBlanc, he is survived by his mother, two daughters, Leona, Halifax; Jeanne (Mrs. Gerald Boudreau), Church Point; six sisters, Ursula (Mrs. Jack Neville, Halifax; Vivian, Montreal; Claire, Yarmouth; Rosa (Mrs. Nelson Deveau), Liverpool; Mrs. Kathryn Shaughnessy, Yarmouth; Geraldine (Mrs. Joe d'Eon, Yarmouth; and a brother, Donald, Guelph, Ontario.

Innkeepers Tour Visits Digby

A restructuring of objectives, membership rates, and programs, by the Innkeepers Guild of Nova Scotia will be outlined in June by President Chris Gowers (Manager, Hotel Nova Scotia) in a province-wide tour. The tour reaches Middleton and Digby on June 10.

The tour is being organized by the Provincial Executive, and as one of the key points of discussion Mr. Gowers will table a recommendation that a base fee of $10 membership dues be charged the smaller operators in the past have been too high, and have therefore prohibited some from joining the Guild.

"We don't want an organization of superstars", said the President. "While at the moment we have most all of the largest hotels and motels, we must have a membership that is representative of the entire industry."

"There is no doubt that the Guild as it now stands is a strong voice in the industry, but our objectives are to give it added strength. We hope to achieve as near 100 percent membership as is possible," he said.

Among the foremost concerns and opportunities facing the industry were municipal taxation; utility charges; transportation matters affecting ferries, highways, air communication; and the like; financial strength of segments of the industry; and staff education and training opportunities.

"Our recommendation to the membership also embraces division of the Guild into seven regions, to line the membership up with the officially-proclaimed tourist regions as established by the Provincial Government", said Mr. Gowers. "This will give us flexibility of action. It will be obvious that concerns in ferry transportation, for example, would gain the attention of the Annapolis Valley, North Shore, and Cape Breton segments with more emphasis than it would the Eastern Shore.

The Library Goes To School

Starting this week, a librarian from the Western Counties Regional Library is visiting schools in the three counties served by the Regional Library.

Rosemary Keelan, the Bookmobile Co-ordinator for the Western Counties Regional Library is visiting about twenty schools and talking to children mainly in Grades 3 to 6 to encourage them to use the Bookmobiles during their summer holidays. As part of her program, Ms. Keelan informs the children how they can join the library and when the Bookmobile will be stopping in their communities. The children receive registration cards for membership and copies of the Bookmobile schedules to take home to their parents. In addition, Ms. Keelan takes with her a collection of books to show the children what they might find on the Bookmobile. The older children are told that on the Bookmobiles they are only seeing about one-fifteenth of the Regional Library's collection and they can request books on any topic they choose.

The library hopes that this program will introduce many new children to borrowing from the Library; it is hoped, too, that these children can persuade their parents to come to the Bookmobiles and make it a family visit.

LABOUR ACTION UNITS

Labourers and wage earners, employed or unemployed, organize, in the spirit of a Christian Partnership, for mutual support and joint action to put forth every effort possible in your community or district, to:

- Seek gainfull employment for the unemployed members,
- Help establish and maintain satisfactory working conditions, maximum hours of work and minimum rates of pay,
- Carry on educational and welfare work, and
- Organize the unorganized labourers and wage earners.

Wedding Bells

MANSEY - WINCHESTER

On April 24, 1976, in Saint Patrick's Church, Digby, N.S., was the scene of a beautiful Spring Wedding, when Lorraine Ann Winchester, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Winchester, became the bride of Charles Russell Manser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Manser of Yarmouth. Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in her floor length gown of sueded satin and train to match. She wore a shoulder length veil and her bouquet was baby red roses and baby mums.

Maid of Honor, Darlene Sulis, wore a floor length gown of pink polyester crepe print and matching picture hat and carried a nosegay of tinted pink mums and daisies. Bridesmaids were Beverly Lewis, friend of the bride, Lorna Burnham and Theta Woodworth, sisters of the bride. All wore floor length gowns of blue polyester crepe print and carried nosegays of tinted blue mums and daisies.

Penny Burnham, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a floor length gown of pink polyester crepe print and carried a basket of daisies and pink mums.

Best man was Victor Walker, Ushers were Danny Manser, brother of the groom, Ronnie Webb, Saint John; Wayne McCumber of Yarmouth. Ronald Winchester, nephew of the bride was ring bearer. All were full dress tuxedos of blue.

Mother of the bride chose for her daughter's wedding a floor length gown of blue polyester jacquard crepe with silver accessories and corsage of carnations tinted blue.

Mother of the groom wore a floor length gown blue venetian garbadine with white accessories, corsage of carnations tinted blue.

Grandmother of the groom wore a street length dress of navy trimmed with white and wore a corsage of carnations tinted blue.

Father Mallett performed the double ring ceremony. Sister Gullivan was the organist. Margo Levy was the soloist and rendered two solos "A Time For Us" and at the signing of the register Margo sang "Sunrise-Sunset."

Reception was held at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall, Digby. Brenda Smith was in charge of the guest book. Lowell Winchester, brother of the bride was Master of Ceremonies.

Presiding at the silver tea service were Mrs. Patrick Comeau and Mrs. Howard Burchill, aunts of the bride.

Patrick Comeau, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast, responded to by the groom.

For travelling, the bride chose a blue pant suit. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles

GLAVIN-GALLANT

The home of Robert and Leitha Glavin was the scene of a lovely spring wedding on May 22, 1976 when Theresa Gallant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gallant of Kinkora, PEI was united in the holy bands of matrimony to Brian William Glavin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glavin of Westport, N.S.

Lic Dave Keith officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Helen Welch, provided the music "I Love You Truly" which was played during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long beige gown. She carried a nosegay of Sweetheart Red Roses.

The brides-maid was Miss Vicki Glavin, sister of the groom. She wore a floor length gown of creme and blue color and carried one long stem yellow rose.

Mr. Michael Flinn of Summerside, PEI, was best man.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride, wore a gown of pale green knit. The mother of the groom wore a gown of deep pink knit. Both wore corsages of white miniature carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glavin. The toast to the bride was proposed by the best man, Mr. Michael Flinn and responded to by the groom.

Miss Carol Glavin, sister of the groom and Mrs. Kathy Reeves, sister of the bride served the bridal party. Tony Glavin, brother of the groom was in charge of the guest book.

Later the bride and groom left on a honeymoon trip to N.B. and Maine, USA.

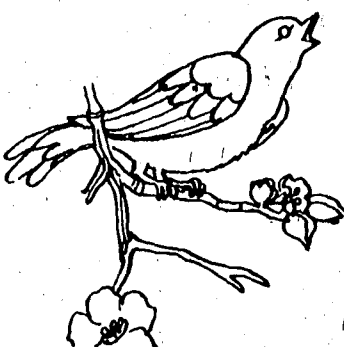

The couple will reside in Summerside, PEI, where they both are employed.

Out of town guests were from Ontario PEI, and Saulnierville N.S.

Manser now reside at 97 Church Avenue, Sussex, N.B. Mr. Manser is employed with the Metropolitan Stores.

Shower Tendered

The hall at Johnson Christian Park was crowded out on the evening of May 24 when friends and relatives from far and near gathered together to give a shower of gifts and cash donations to Betty White and Bill Johns, who will be married in June.

RECIPE FOR GRACKLE PAP

Take any number of pieces of stale bread, pick out the the largest one, grasp it tightly in your beak, then fly up to the water dish, drop it in being careful not to splash yourself, leave it for a second or two then pick it out and you have a fine dish of pap for your babies. This watched from my window.

The Warblers of all kinds are with us again. This morning a pair of Maryland-yellow throats were singing in the garden, more orioles are reported in different sections of the town. They are definitely becoming more plentiful in this part of the country each year. Had two baby English sparrows brought in last week. Quite a difference in their size. The tiny one would open its mouth to be fed, the larger one had to be forced fed for a couple of days, then he found he could feed himself. He grew and grew and was finally released.

The little one didn't make it, he was deformed.

My beloved cat bird is back singing all around the yard. This is a slate coloured bird about the size of a robin but a bit slighter, with a black cap and a rusty patch

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Whitman from New Hampshire; Mrs. Hazel White and daughter Hilda; Mrs. Leona Hurburt and son Alfred; and Miss Barbara Sabean, all from Yarmouth.

Notes From Bird Haven

under its tail.

Its song is a jumble of sweet notes with an occasional mew.

Must tell you a story of one year ago in the Church. I was arranging some flowers in a small room and heard this bird singing. Thought it was too loud to be outdoors, finally located it in the Chancel of the Church.

It flew from one spot to another singing each time he lit. I kept shoving him to the lower part of the building where he lit on the Font, sang one more song and went out the open door.

I will never forget the sound of his voice in that huge empty Church. It was heavenly.

There will soon be young birds falling to the ground from their nests, if you have a cat please bell it, it really does help.

If you find young birds, it is usually best to leave them alone, the parents are likely very handy and will look after them.

So long
The Bird Lady.

IN MEMORIAM

ROBICHEAU - In loving memory of William Robicheau who passed away May 22, 1966. God looked around His garden And found an empty space, He then looked down upon the earth And saw your tired face. He put His arms around you And lifted you to rest, God's garden must be beautiful, He only takes the best.

Always remembered by
WIFE FRED AND SONS. 43:1ip

ROBICHEAU - In loving memory of our father, William Robicheau, who died May 22, 1966.

Farewell, dear father, thy work is o'er.
Thy willing hands will toil no more,
A loving father, kind and true,
No one on earth we'll find like you.
S O N S A R D E N ,
LEWELLYN, CARMAN
AND CLAUDE. 43:1ip

COOK - In sad and loving memory of a dear grandson, Kenzie Cook, who passed away June 4th. Six years have passed since that sad day The one we loved was called away, God took him home, it was his will, But in our hearts he liveth still. Always remembered by NANA STARK.

IN MEMORIAM

STEELE - In loving memory of our dear father, Hermon Thomas Steele, who passed away June 7th, 1959. Sweet memories will linger forever.

Time cannot change them it's true;
Years that may come cannot sever
Our loving remembrance of you.
Sadly missed by
WINIFRED, MARGUERITE, FLORENCE, EVONNE AND STEDMAN. 43:1ip

COOK - In loving memory of our dear little son and brother, Kenny R. who lost his life June 4th, 1970.

We could never count the many times,
We've wished that you were here,
Or ever forget the memories,
Of a son we loved so dear,
We could never count the tears we've shed,
From the day we had to part,
Just four small words "We Miss You Son"

From the bottom of our hearts,
Always loved and dearly missed by
MOMMY, DADDY, BROTHER KEVIN AND SISTER WENDY. 43:1ip

THE DIGBY COURIER

A Tour Of Neptune

Some time ago we had the privilege of hearing the three act play "The Importance of Being Earnest" which was presented by some of our Digby Regional High School students. They did an excellent job, by the way. We had also admired their stage props and costumes. It was after their director, J.H. Theriault, had written in appreciation of our comments on the play in The Digby Courier that we realized the costumes came from Neptune Theatre. They were loaned to Digby. This brought to mind a day in January of this year when the writer tagged along with grades 5 and 6 of the Sir Charles Tupper School in Halifax, to tour Neptune Theatre. One of the departments which impressed us most was the costumes. We had toured Neptune on its opening night back in the early nineteen sixties but at that time there were few costumes hanging on the clothing racks. In January we had estimated thousands of costumes hanging in their various departments.

The guide on that particular day was Mrs. Janet Louise (Wallis) Garnhum, Halifax, formerly of Digby. As a member of the Trident organization, Mrs. Garnhum is co-ordinator of the Neptune Theatre tours assisted by eleven volunteer guides.

Many of the schools take advantage of the opportunity presented by Trident to tour the theatre. It is an interesting and educational experience. Carpenters are on hand to build stage props, some of which are complicated and are stored or changed to accommodate future plays. Seamstresses are found in the costume room continually and busily laying out patterns and designing to represent the period of history or style necessary. Lighting and sound effects at the stage and reasons for its own particular structure were explained to the students by Mrs. Garnhum.

Trident was organized especially for the benefit of Neptune Theatre. The present president is Mrs. Claudette Sapp. Trident means a three pronged sceptre, a symbol of Neptune, god of the sea.

The Neptune Theatre founder was Leon Major. Director is John Wood and production director is Michael Tarasoff. The present building of Neptune Theatre was erected in 1900 as a vaudeville house, The Strand, where travelling performers played until 1939. It was vacant from 1938, the 1947 when it was opened as a third rate movie theatre, Garrick. In 1961, the Neptune Theatre Foundation bought the place and had it rebuilt by government, private individual and company finances.

The stage type is "proscenium thrust," allows for an orchestra pit and looks bigger from the audience than actually is. Scenery, it is understood is moved by weight system and the furniture is suspended from the ceiling until needed in the next scene. Sometimes with alternate performances the stage furniture remains suspended until the following night. The stage manager has a big responsibility. He or she has a copy of manuscripts all made for lights, sound, scenery, props etc, for each play.

There is much involved in the weeks, probably about three weeks, prior to a production. Costuming is one of the time consuming features. Samples of material must be in the hands of the designers, preliminary fittings and final fittings must be arranged with the actors.

Fortunately, schools like Digby other drama groups and party groups are privileged to rent or borrow the costumes and are also privileged to take the theatre tours. Drama is part of the entire educational program. It serves its purpose.

Edna Williams Retires

Progress of Children her Greatest Reward

On May 31, 1976, the communities of Deep Brook and Clementsport gathered to pay tribute to a long time teacher, Mrs. Edna Williams. Mrs. Williams has been teaching for 32 years.

Mr. Alfred Boutilier, principal of Clements Consolidated School, made the opening remarks and reflected favorably on his association with Mrs. Williams. He presented her with a scroll from the Nova Scotia Teachers Union in recognition of 31 and two fifths years of service to the youth of Nova Scotia Schools.

Mr. Boutilier introduced C.E. Edwards, Inspector of Schools. Mr. Edwards was also a former classmate of Mrs. Williams. Mr. Edwards was high in praise of Mrs. Williams' teaching methods calling her "far from ordinary," and an "outstanding teacher." He said Mrs. Williams was a dedicated teacher who "has not worked for money." He thanked Mrs. Williams for a superb contribution.

Philip Lake, Supervisor of Schools, spoke briefly of Mrs. Williams' fine contribution and he introduced Mr. L. Snell, Municipal Councillor, who presented a cheque for $300 as a token of appreciation for service.

K. L. Chappell, Supervisor of Curriculum, Annapolis County, who has had nine years association with Mrs. Williams, spoke briefly and gave thanks to a "very special person."

Mrs. Bonnie Hudson, president of Clements Consolidated Home and School, presented a gift from the combined communities, as an expression of gratitude from parents whose children had received the benefit of Mrs. Williams' fine teaching.

Mrs. Williams thanked everyone for their kindness and said that the "progress of the children was her greatest reward."

Two Get Mark Of 100 Percent

A successful St. John Ambulance Home Nursing course was completed recently in Bear River. Although financed by the Continuing Education Program, this Course was brought about through the efforts of the Community School of Bear River and Area. Mrs. Lynn Milbury taught the 12-week course to a class of sixteen, all successfully completing all parts of the program.

Class members were Bernice Morine, Sherry Harlow, Pat Harlow, George Labrador, Debbie Milner, Darlene Musie, Mrs. B. Morash, Beryl Henderson, Jean Marshall, Gloria Wiles, Joan Trimper, Karen Trimper, Terry Leonard, Marjorie Tibbetts, Eva-Belle Tibbetts and Deedee Wade.

At the closing meeting on Tuesday, May 18, Mrs. Milbury presented achievement awards to two class members, Gloria Wiles, and Jean Marshall, who had received the mark of 100 percent on all aspects of the work. Mrs. Joan Peck presented Mrs. Milbury with a gift on behalf of the class and expressed thanks to her. A lunch was enjoyed by all.

Digby County Man Gets Appointment

Three regional co-ordinators have been appointed by the Nova Scotia Criminal Justice Project which was established last year as a joint federal-provincial undertaking to assess and improve the administration of criminal justice in the province.

The co-ordinators are Timothy Boudreau of Clare, Digby County, who will be responsible for southwestern Nova Scotia; Lou Maroun of Dartmouth, central area, and Brian Smith of Sydney, the six eastern counties (including Cape Breton).

All three co-ordinators have working experience in criminal justice ranging from police to probation and corrections.

The co-ordinators were selected from approximately 100 applicants for the positions by a three member selection panel.

With the recent completion of their initial orientation and training the regional co-ordinators are now beginning to approach officials and the public in their respective areas.

Brian Joseph, chief director of the project, said levels of reported crime continue to rise both in Nova Scotia and nationally. According to Statistics Canada figures, robberies increased 44 percent across the country in the first six months of 1975 as compared to the same period a year earlier. The number involving firearms rose across the country by 43 percent. While the other three Atlantic Provinces showed decreases, Nova Scotia witnessed a 48 percent growth in the number of robberies in the first six months of 1975.

"Against this background federal and provincial authorities are co-operating to assess both weak and strong areas in the present criminal justice system. The Nova Scotia Criminal Justice Project aims to upgrade manpower standards, to implement preventive policing and to provide greater information to the public on criminal justice matters in order to gain strong public and community support for necessary improvements," Mr. Joseph said.

Bass Competition

The annual Nova Scotia Bass Competition which started the week of May 15 will continue until October 2.

There is a prize each week for the largest fish caught during the week. At the end of the season there will be

Nova Scotia School Boards

To Meet At Pines

The Nova Scotia School Boards Association will hold its 22nd annual conference at The Pines on Friday to Sunday, June 11-13.

The conference theme will be New Challenges; New Legislation - The Requirements of a Modern Education Act.

The first Conference Session will be held on Friday with keynote speaker Dr. John G. Egnatoff, president of the Canadian School Trustees Association. Later, the Royal Bank of Canada will host a reception.

Saturday's events will include the second and third conference sessions and a workshop on proposals for a new Education Act.

A banquet will be held on Saturday evening with guest speaker Premier Gerald Regan or (alternative) Dr. William Hamilton, Director of the Atlantic Institute of Education.

A local tour is being arranged for those not directly involved in association business.

Sunday's activities will feature the fourth conference, a business wind-up, report of the nominating committee and election of officers, and a meeting of the new executive.

Digby Lions Receive $500.00

Kiwanis Club president, R. MacLeod Rogers accepted a cheque of $500 from Claude Westcott during the Digby Lions Club's recent dinner meeting.

The Lions pledged the money toward capital expenditures at the Kiwanis swimming pool earlier in the year. The funds were raised through a fishing gear raffle ($200) and bingos.

Does Open Abortion Liberate Women?

By Father Joe Hattie, OMI, Chaplain, the Campus Minister in Dalhousie University

The Nova Scotia Government has financed a massive time bomb. The maker of this bomb is the Nova Scotia Task Force on the Status of Women. It has had a year, that has been well financed, to prepare this bomb. Where is it located? It is found in the heart of the Task Force's recommendations for improving the status of women in N.S. It recommends the removal of all laws protecting the lives of infants before birth.

It wants us to believe that open abortion liberates women. Does it also want us to accept the intellectual consequences of such an assumption?

To assume that open abortion liberates a woman is to assume, men are the enemy, that pregnancy is a punishment, and that the sexual relationship of man and woman is warfare.

That liberation can only come by creating another victim - If I can get rid of this Fetus I will be free.

That the child in the womb is really the enemy of its mother: the enemy of society. All the hate and resentment is focused on the Fetus.

That, tragically, the universal symbol of peace - the mother and child - should become the symbol of war. Our symbols educate us.

That the symbol of harmony becomes the symbol of disharmony.

That we accept destruction as more exhilarating than creation.

That we love one another by hating one another. Hate destroys.

That matter is evil and therefore the body is evil.

These are some of the intellectual assumptions made by abortion on demand. Assumptions that when translated into action, will destroy our society and civilization. And in such destruction it is always the women who suffer the most, who are destroyed first.

Are you aware ladies, that already at such "advanced" centres as the Texas Medical Centre - where pregnant women come daily for tests to determine the sex of the child they are carrying, likewise daily, several of these women whose unborn children are female apply for abortions on that ground alone - namely, the female sex of the baby.

Can you imagine anything more "male" sexist, chauvinist, anti-feminist than this? Do we hear any voices raised in protest against this oppression of women?

On page 62 of the Task Force's report it states, "We have learned with sorrow that the cry of these our people, has been ignored by those who make decisions in our province. We are determined that their voice shall be heard, and at the top level, and have made this promise at public meetings.

This can only be done if the cry of all women is heard. To recommend open abortion is a refusal to hear the cry of those females living in the womb before birth. To deny their value is to deny your own. To deny your own value is to defeat all the good things the Task Force wants to accomplish. To ask the women of Nova Scotia to participate in their own enslavement and ultimate destruction - which in turn destroys society. To ask us to accept abortion as liberation without recognizing the full intellectual consequences is asking us to feed the cancer planted in our heart, to ignite the fuse of the time bomb.

I would like to register my vote of protest against the Task Force's recommendation on abortion. If I am to be intellectually honest, I cannot vote for recommendations that will make women less than human. - Chronicle-Herald.

Beautiful your neighbourhood. Get out on the street. Take a walk.

Over 125 Parade Entries In Festival

Valley People Are "Happy, Community Minded and Busy As Bees" according to the home-town drum beating that will take place during the annual apple blossom festival June 3-7 when colorful floats will interpret the festival theme "Valley People Are..."

Grand Parade Marshall A. M. MacAulay said up to seventeen "Princess or community sponsored floats are expected to take part in the parade comprising a total of sixty-five floats altogether and some 125 parade entries.

There will be fifteen bands in the Grand Parade that takes place Saturday afternoon, June 5, scheduled to leave New Minas at 1 p.m. and arrive at Kentville's Memorial Park around 2 p.m.

In the vanguard of the parade will be Queen Annapolis accompanied by Honorary Festival President Frank Burns and Honorary Parade Marshall Hon. Eugene Whalen, Federal Minister of Agriculture.

In keeping with the fiftieth anniversary this year of the Royal Canadian Legion, color parties from several provincial legion units will also be up front in the parade.

Seventeen majorette units have indicated their intention to take part in the parade to date. Some of the communities sponsoring Princesses and floats and their themes are: Port Williams, "The Poultry Industry"; Berwick, "Happy People"; Wolfville, "Of Many Lands and Cultures"; Middleton, "Busy as Bees"; Hantsport, "Community Minded"; Windsor, "Fair-minded"; Wolfville Lions Club "Serving People"; Kentville "Famous For Apple Blossom Times."

Colorful windup of the grand parade will be the assembly at Memorial Park at the west end of Kentville where prizes will be presented and entertainment will include the Dan D. Apple "Olympics" with clowns and various "Sports" characters participating.

The Valley's Small Fry will take the front stage in the annual Junior Parade in Kentville on Saturday morning, June 5. Under the theme "Valley People Are...", the junior entries assemble at 9 a.m. for judging of such categories as groups, historical, comical and most original. The parade begins at 10 a.m.

The singing of several selections by the Guide Company brought the evening to a close.

Shut-In Sunday June 6th

Sick! To those who think of sickness in terms of the periodic headache or the seasonal indisposition of a cold, there is a whole world unknown to them. It is a world of lengthy confinement where folks for one reason or another must view the world through the eyes of others. There remains for the shut-in the newspaper, the radio and TV, the personal visitation the greatest

When you dial your own long distance calls, you go first class at economy rates.

In fact, when you dial direct, you can make a call for a fraction of the cost of an operator-assisted call. How much you save depends on where you're calling and when you call.

To points within Nova Scotia or P.E.I. for example, a DDD call is about 1/4 the cost of a person-to-person call. And that's during the daytime. After 6 p.m. and all day Sunday, there's another 30% saving and after 10 p.m., seven days a week, you save 50%. We call it "Moonlight Saving Time". And there are similar savings on calls to points outside Nova Scotia or P.E.I.

Whether it's business or personal, when you dial direct, you not only get through quicker and save money, your call is more spontaneous and friendly. It's first class... in more ways than one.

Ox-Haul, Horse Show, Scheduled For Exhibition Grounds

An ox-haul and horse show will be held at the Digby County Exhibition grounds in Bear River on Saturday, June 12.

The open ox-haul will start at 1 p.m. It will be conducted under Ox-Teamsters Association rules. Trophies will be awarded.

Earlier in the day, beginning at 9 a.m., the 4-H Trailblazers of Bear River will sponsor an open horse show. Seven trophies and rosette ribbons will be presented. For this event, each flat class - 50 cents; games 25 cents each.

Admission to the grounds is free for both events. Money raised will be used for the new kitchen and dining room being built this summer. Canteen facilities will open at 10 a.m.

Plans for the Digby County Exhibition are now well underway. The planning association has received confirmation that the Bill Lynch Shows will be present this year. The Exhibition will be held from September 1 to 4.

Anyone desiring information on the open horse show can contact Esther (Mrs. David) Banks in Bear River.

of these being the personal visit.

The setting apart, therefore, of the first Sunday in June, annually, when the invitation is given to us to visit some of these folks who are sick, is of more than ordinary significance. Not that one should ever feel that he has discharged his full obligation by such observance on one Sunday a year. It is but a token of our recognition and remembrance of the shut-in at all times.

Furthermore, let no one think that by making such visits, we are conferring a favor upon those visited. In a very real sense just the opposite is true! They present us with a privilege and invariably they render us a service. There is no greater corrective for our distorted vision and false sense of values than to talk to one who has made and continues to make, the skillful adjustment to the restraint and restriction that is the normal life of the shut-in. Anyone who has had the close friendship of one of these has experienced the enlargement of his own life. One comes to realize how feebly he exercises the mind

Commercial flying to Canada's north began in 1920 producing a remarkable crop of daring bush pilots. One of these, W.R. "Wop" May, in bitter cold January weather, carried diphtheria antitoxin 500 miles north from Edmonton to Fort Vermilion in the open cockpit of an Avro Avion.

It was a Western Canada airways plane, piloted by W. Leigh Brintnell, that took Gilbert Labine north on the journey which resulted in the discovery of uranium at Great Bear Lake.

"Punch" Dickens made the first flight across the barrens from Winnipeg to Lade Athabaska and less than a year later reached Akavik on the Arctic coast.

which he possesses as compared with the amazing use that others make of their limited capital of these resources. Truly, they live a large life in a small room.

In his name, "I was sick and you visited me," let us unite in making the first Sunday in June, June 6th, 1976, a rare and unforgettable day for the glorious company of the shut-in and for ourselves.

I have been a shut-in! I know what its like!

A Thought Starter

By Rev. R. C. MacCormack
RR 4, Fredericton, N. B.

Names are Personal People are becoming depersonalized. It is degrading to realize that everyone is a number with the government, insurance companies, and many other agencies. Our feelings and names matter little, it seems.

No wonder folks sense that they are forgotten and unimportant. Some, to compensate, will assert themselves more vigorously, even viciously to gain a place in the eyes of the world.

In John 10:3, the Lord compares Himself to a shepherd, "He calleth His own sheep by name." It is a very stimulating thought to realize that with God we are not just numbers, but individuals with names. Jesus made His relationship with people very close, warm and personal, and still does.

We live daily in the very presence of our Saviour who knows all about us, including our names. If life is hollow He knows it. If we have ambitions which are unworthy and sinful, He knows this, too. We may do good things for wrong reasons, even out of selfishness, and He knows this.

God has given each of us a message through His Word. This means that He has made it possible for each of us to know Him, and to discover His best plan for our living. We call this God's will. It must be known personally.

Perhaps the most tender aspect of our personal union with God is in prayer. Here we can talk with Him one to one, coming by the channel of faith and humility.

For Recent

Fire Victims

A Benefit Show, for the recent fire victims was held Saturday evening in the North Range Community Hall.

A wide variety of talent and much goodwill working together resulted in a very enjoyable 2 1/2 hour programme. Several children sang hymns and Sunday School choruses.

The Thibault boys from Ashmore played and sang Western and Cowboy music, bringing in comedy with "Joan" which everyone enjoyed.

Neven's group played Gospel Songs.

The programme concluded with an impressive duet "I'll meet you in the Rapture" by Mr. and Mrs. Terry Stone.

No charge was made for the hall, and the proceeds amounted to over $100.

Premier Gerald A. Regan watches children at Joseph Howe School go through their class gymnastics in preparation for Physical Education Week in Nova Scotia. With the Premier is Les Beanlands. (left).

Nova Scotia Physical Education Week

I am pleased to bring to the attention of all Nova Scotians the fact that May 31 to June 4 has been set aside as Nova Scotia Physical Education Week.

The purpose of this special week is to promote public awareness of the value of physical education within the school curriculum. All physical education teachers in the province have been busy planning ways in which their respective programs may best be promoted for the occasion.

I would point out that the government recognizes the need for physical activity and healthy exercise for all Nova Scotians, and this is particularly important for the children within our schools who are in those important skill-learning years.

While in school, children should have the appropriate opportunities to develop positive health and fitness attitudes as well as acquire important motor skills so that they may continually enjoy physical activities.

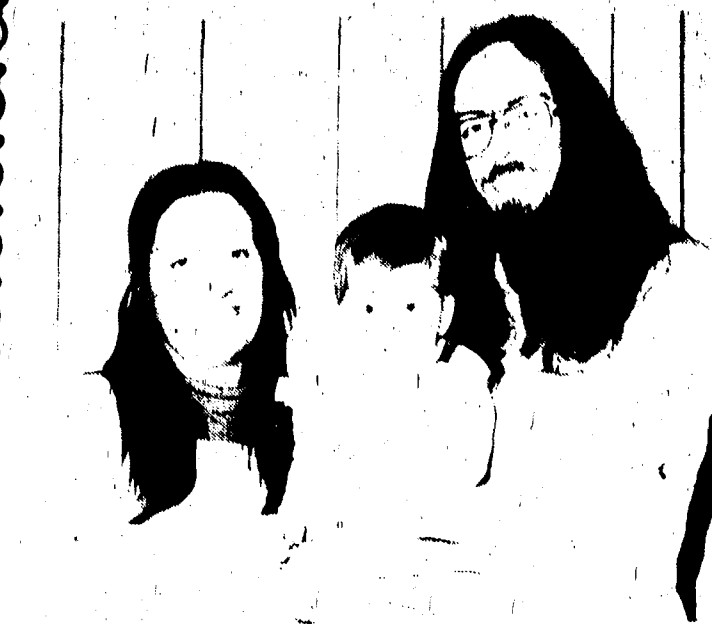

If the physical fitness level of adult Canadians is below appropriate standards, then most definitely it is particularly important to recognize the physical education programs in the schools which are planned for all young Nova Scotians.

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the Teachers' Association for Physical Education, a group within the Nova Scotia Teachers' Union, for their efforts and interest in promoting public awareness of the value of strong physical education programs in our school system.

With these thoughts in mind, I take great pleasure in proclaiming the week of May 31 to June 4, as Physical Education Week in Nova Scotia and I recommend its observance by all Nova Scotians.

The Basis For Success - Togetherness

(by S. A. MacNeil)

Togetherness seems to be the basis for success, and this is the formula used by the Robinsons of Phinney Cove. A family of three, Jeanne and Spider have a year and a half old daughter, Luanna Mountainborne.

Landed immigrants, they came to Canada separately, meeting in Nova Scotia and almost instantly falling in love with the country of the North Mountain.

A 1971 graduate of the State University of New York, Spider is making his presence felt in the literary world, more specifically in the science fiction field, dealing with people rather than rockets and machines.

He began writing in 1972 while a night watchman and "purely from boredom" began putting his thoughts on paper to be shared with others.

To date he has sold two novels. The first, Telemath, to be released in December of this year, is based on empathy, the proper road to communication. The book will appear in both hard cover and paperback form, published by Putnam's Sons, New York.

The second novel will be published by Grosset and Dunlap, New York, and will be a paperback edition. Callahan's Crosstime Saloon is a collection of science fiction short stories.

Day to day expenses are provided for by income from short stories, published frequently in Galaxy and Analog, and a review column, Galaxy Bookshelf, dealing with both fact and fantasy. He also writes under the penname of B. D. Wyatt.

A combined effort of Spider and Jeanne is Stardance. To be published next year as an Analog cover story, it deals with a dancer in orbit in zero gravity.

In 1974, Spider and Jeanne made a trip to Washington, D.C., where he was presented with the John D. Campbell Award for being the best new science fiction writer. This was a world-wide competition for which ballet to jazz, modern to ballroom dancing. Her aim is not to create exceptional dancers but to help people of all ages, shapes and sizes, to discover the joy of movement.

The dance studio, located at 19 Park Street, Bridgetown, is the first of its kind in the Annapolis Valley and has been well received.

Jeanne is a former graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music, Dance and Drama and one of the founding members of the Halcyon Dance Theatre, Nova Scotia's first dance company, as well as Halifax's Dance Co-op. She has also proved very versatile. She has performed in many professional modern dance and ballet productions, preparing the choreography in many cases. Acting and summer stock have also played a major part in her career.

Spider and Jeanne combine their musical talents, and work part time as folk singers.

Togetherness and love for one another and their daughter Luanna, seems to be the key for the Robinsons, and with a combination like that, how can their chosen careers be anything but successful.

Halifax, N. S., May 25th - Mr. J. Clifford Sinclair, 48, a former manager of the Royal Bank main branch in St. John's, Newfoundland, has been appointed General Manager of the Royal Bank Atlantic Provinces District, it was announced today.

He succeeds Mr. J. J. Fortune who retires from the bank after 41 years' service. Mr. Fortune has been General Manager of the District for the past six years.

Mr. Sinclair's appointment is effective June 1. He comes to the Atlantic District from Toronto where he has been Assistant General Manager, Corporate Banking for the Royal Bank in Metropolitan Toronto.

Mr. Sinclair was born in Port Coquitlam, B. C., and joined the Royal Bank in Vancouver. He served in numerous British Columbia branches until 1958 when he joined the Supervisor's Department in Vancouver as a credit officer, later moving to the credit department of the bank's head office in Montreal.

He was appointed assistant inspector for Quebec District in 1963 and in 1976, was named senior assistant manager, Toronto branch.

Mr. Sinclair first came to the Atlantic Provinces when he was appointed manager of St. John's, Newfoundland, main branch December 28, 1970, and stayed in that post for some two years.

In 1973, he was promoted to Assistant General Manager and transferred to Toronto.

Mr. Sinclair is married and has two children.

Digby Minor Hockey Seeks Support

The Digby Minor Hockey Association needs your help if it is to survive much less flourish in the coming season. We are presently out of money and the prospect for improvement in this regard is indeed poor. It is the very strong feeling of the Minor Hockey executive that without energetic involvement and generous financial support by the community as a whole our Minor Hockey survival prospects are slim. We will try here to review with you our problems, potential and hopefully a possible solution.

1975-76 Season

Summary of events:

1. Registration fee increased from $10. - $20.
2. Registered players chopped approximately 50 or a loss of $1000 in fees.
3. Hockey program was expanded to provide more ice time for all teams.
4. The rink increased the hourly rental charge from $12. - $20 half way through the season.
5. Through the year fund raising activities provided less than $2000 in much needed financial relief.
6. The year ended with expenditures exceeding receipts by about $800.

1976-77 Season Prospects

1. Budget

With ice at $20. per hour, budgeted expenses include 400 hr. at $20.00 or $8,000; other expenses $4,000; total $12,000. At $25. per hr. the 400 hours figure at $10,000; other $4,000 for a total of $14,000.

Budgeted revenue from grants $2700; fund raising $2,000; registration 175 at $42 or $7300; total $12,000. Or, grants $2,700; fund raising $2,000; 175 registrations at $53 for $9,300 for a total of $14,000.

2. Ice rental has been rumoured to be staying the same in 1976-77 or possibly increasing to $25. per hour therefore we have included both possibilities in the above budget.

3. Figures were made to both the town and municipal councils for grants of $4000 each. It is our understanding that only 2700 of the 8000 in requests will be forthcoming.

4. The quoted registration fees would be if past performance held true for support in through the year campaigns.

Steps to Solution

1. Obtain the interest and support of the community as a whole and use this to promote greater parent participation in the Minor Hockey program.
2. Approach business firms and service clubs in the area for financial support and possible limited sponsorship of Minor Hockey teams.
3. Solicit parent feed-back on Minor Hockey short comings and possible weaknesses in financial and organizational structure.
4. Organize one major fund raising project each year which could be worked on by all Minor Hockey players and hopefully a majority of parents with a view to lessening the continuous flow of small low producing projects.

In conclusion it is our sincere hope that you understand our position and will assist us by any means at your disposal in providing funds to bring the registration charge from the admittedly excessive $42 or $53 projection. Your support and suggestion would be appreciated so let's hear from you.

Yours sincerely

Digby Minor Hockey

Joggin Bridge

The regular meeting of the Society of Friends Club met with Mrs. Terry Turner on Tuesday evening, May 11. Following the business session a successful penny sale was held and the members were entertained with organ music by Terry on her electric Hammond organ.

Rev George Bill motored to Kentville on Friday and on his return he was accompanied by his wife, who has been a patient at the Miller Hospital for several weeks. We are all pleased to welcome her home again.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bell and daughters, Kim and Tara, Halifax, spent the holiday weekend with his parents, Rev and Mrs.

George Bell. Mr. Bell has returned to the city but Mrs. Bell and girls will be guests of the Bell's for an indefinite period.

Congratulations to Mr. Gregg Turner who received his B Sc at the 1976 Spring Convocation at Acadia University. Attending the Convocation were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Turner and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs.

Everett Daniels.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Weir, Sr., and son Perry; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brinton and sons, Bruce and Trevor; and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Brinton spent the holiday weekend at Loomer's Camper's Haven, Yarmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lewis, Dartmouth, were recent visitors at the home of his sister, Mrs. Thurston Banks and Mr. Banks.

Miss Sue Winchester was the local canvasser for the annual Cancer Society Drive. She collected $140.65 for the Society.

Allison Goodwin, Halifax, was a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harrison on Thursday evening. He was a former resident of Digby, when his father, Gerald Goodwin was an accountant at the Digby Branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Abriel and small son, Lower Sackville, spent the holiday weekend visiting her mother, Edith Kempton.

Soccer Nova Scotia

The Board of Directors of Soccer Nova Scotia have announced the appointments of Ed Escobar as Coach and Kevan Pipe as Manager of the 1977 Nova Scotia Canada Games Soccer Team.

Mr. Escobar, a native of Honduras, has resided in Halifax the past five years. At 17 years of age, Escobar was a pre-selection for the Honduras National Team and later played semi professional soccer in Central America. He has coached senior and college teams in both Honduras and Canada. Presently, Mr. Escobar is the head coach for both Saint Mary's University Soccer Team and Helas of the Central Senior Soccer League.

Mr. Pipe, from Halifax, graduated this year from the Masters program at Dalhousie University where he played varsity soccer for four years, the last two as captain of the team.

He has coached many local teams and has been hired by both Soccer Nova Scotia and Dalhousie University to coach at various clinics. He is the Treasurer of the Provincial Association, Coach of the Halifax Celtic U14 Team and a playing member of Olands Soccer Club of the Senior Central League.

Both Escobar and Pipe plan on observing as many players this summer as possible as well as holding intermittent tryout camps. The nucleus of the team will be formed this fall in order to begin concentrated training for the 1977 Games.

All players in Nova Scotia who will be under 21 before January 1st, 1977, are eligible for this team. Further information may be Adventure in Citizenship was the name of the project which took Miss Yvette Gaudet, New Edinburgh, Digby Co. to Ottawa for a week. Miss Gaudet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gaudet, won first prize on a citizenship essay and was chosen by the Yarmouth Rotary Club to represent them.

Miss Gaudet, and grade 12 student at Clare District High School will further her studies at Ste. Anne College.

The winning essay was delivered by Miss Gaudet at the Rotary banquet at the Grand Hotel in Yarmouth.

Blossom Time

Let me walk once more with Beauty, when the blossoms bloom again, as the orchards wear their garments, pink and white as soft chiffon. Where the rivers wind their pathway, silver threads through velvet green, and the sound of music drifting, speaks of Springtime's finest hour. Here, we find a sweet communion with Nature's wonders, sure to please, when the mist is on the mountains, and the blossoms bless the trees.

Anne Kaye

Pamela Graham, of Little River, was awarded $1000.00 to attend Acadia University. Gail Smith, Digby, won a $1500.00 Entrance Scholarship to Mount Saint Vincent.

Pamela, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Graham, got her award for high Academic achievement. Her studies at D.R.H.S. earned her the Lieutenant Governor General Medal and the F. C. Purdy Scholastic Award.

Miss Graham is class president this year, editor of the Year Book and involved in other school activities. She will likely study Science and Arts next year. Her scholarship is renewable.

The $1500.00 scholarship won by Gail Smith was the top paying one available from Mount Saint Vincent.

Gail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Smith, is a student at D.R.H.S. She is employed part-time with H. R. Doane & Co. Last year she received first place honors in the D.R.H.S. Grade XI program.

Miss Smith intends to further her studies toward a Bachelor of Business Administration Degree, eventually to become a Chartered Accountant.

During the past year she has been enrolled in a Certified General Accountancy Correspondence Course where she placed third in the Atlantic Provinces. She hopes to complete her University degree in two years because of previous credits and summer session plans.

What's In The Freezer?

Some of the earliest produce will be available earlier this year so now is the time to check your freezer for possible overzealous budgeting of winter supplies. Is it still full of last year's food? If so, it is about time you started eating your way through it and making room for the fresh Nova Scotia fruit and vegetables that are about to appear on our markets. For example, we are only days away from the first offerings of fresh Nova Scotia asparagus which will be closely followed by Nova Scotia field rhubarb.

After emptying your freezer be sure to clean it out well before refilling. This is easily done by washing your freezer out with soap and warm water. Be careful not to use abrasive cleaners as they may damage the lining of your freezer. Be sure freezer is completely dry before refilling.

For a complete list of pointers for good home freezer management consult your nearest Department of Agriculture and Marketing Home Economist.

ANNAPOLIS RIVER SHAD MANIA

"These fishermen had about a dozen shad laying on the grass beside their truck. When they got ready to leave, they drove away and left the shad there."

"Along the bank anglers were lined almost elbow to elbow. Most of them were trying to jig shad. When one of them managed to hook a fish, the person next to him wouldn't even take his line from the water so he could play it."

This is some of what a friend had to say about a recent trip to the shad pools on the Annapolis River. For him the trip was one of the most discouraging experiences he's had in a number of years.

"I went down for an afternoon of fun, hoping to catch some shad," he said. "All I saw while there was a greedy display by people who apparently had left all sense of decency and fair play at home. If that's what goes on, you can have your shad fishing."

Neyer having been shad fishing before and going only by what I'd told him about it, the friend was disappointed by his outing, to say the least. I'd told him about the excitement and thrill of taking shad on flies and I'd urged him to go down to the Annapolis River. So I listened in sympathy while he described his afternoon on the river.

"Out of all the people on the river," he said, "I saw maybe three people besides myself trying to catch shad legally. A lot of fishermen had jig hooks and weights on their lines. They made no bones about it that they were out to get shad any way they could."

"Even the fishermen with proper spinning lures on were trying to jig. Instead of fishing a lure in, they jerked it through the water as hard as they could. The only thing they had in mind doing this was to jig."

Several days after talking with my friend I went down shad fishing. I found that just as he said, almost every angler on the river was using large jig hooks and weights. While I watched, not one fisherman tried to take shad the legal and sporting way — with spinning lures and flies.

One man out of about 20 fishermen was using a dart, the most effective spinning lure you can find for shad. This was about the extent of his honesty. Like the men with jigs, he continually gave the dart/swift sideways movements. Which is not the way you use a dart if you want shad to take it, but the way you use it if you want to foul hook.

The actions of the fishermen on the Annapolis didn't surprise me. I'd seen it all before. What was surprising was the increasing number of people who now fish for shad illegally.

A few years ago maybe only a handful of shad fishermen stooped to jigging fish. Jigging was the exception then. Today the exception is the honest shad fisherman, the one who fishes lawfully and with some idea of what sportsmanship is all about.

I'm beginning to suspect that if you filled a pond with trout and put up a sign inviting the Annapolis River shad anglers to help themselves, at least half the people that came along would try to take every fish. And one of them would probably steal the sign.

If this sounds like a too harsh condemnation of today's breed of angler, a visit to the Annapolis River will show you what I mean. It's sad to have to say it, but a class of fishermen haunts the river today that has no sense of fair play and cares little about conservation.

Fortunately, not every angler belongs to this class. There are honest, considerate fishermen. They fish by the rules, written and unwritten. They fish not to excess but only for what they can use. They believe in leaving something for another day, so that others that follow can enjoy what has been their privilege to enjoy.

For that other sad class of fishermen there apparently is no tomorrow. At least they act as if there will be none. They leave litter—paper, beer bottles and bear cans. They clean shad and leave heads and guts to stink up the banks.

Most of all, they leave a sick feeling in the stomach. That fishermen can be so destructive and so careless with a priceless resource is difficult to believe. The shad

Where is God?

A discouraged man sat across the table from me recently in a restaurant. We chatted about this and that. He could see no reason for living, and no hope for himself nor anyone else.

I asked, "Do you ever think about God?" He replied, "No I never think about Him."

Again, I asked, "To you where is God anyway?"

His answer with a gesture of the hand, "He is way out there somewhere."

My response, "This could be your problem; do you know where God wants to be?"

His reply, "I never thought of that."

My answer, "He wants to live in you, to meet your need, and to keep you from defeat."

His come back, "I never heard anything like that before."

To many people, it seems that God is way off won't run up our rivers forever. Let's wake up to that fact right now.

somewhere, sitting on a cloud, or living in space. This would not be much help. It is true, God wants to live in all of us, to control and run our lives His way. This is why the Holy Spirit was sent, who is the comforter, strengthener or fortifier to dwell in us. "He dwelleth with you and shall be in you." John 14:17.

"The Lord is the strength of my life," Psalm 27:1.

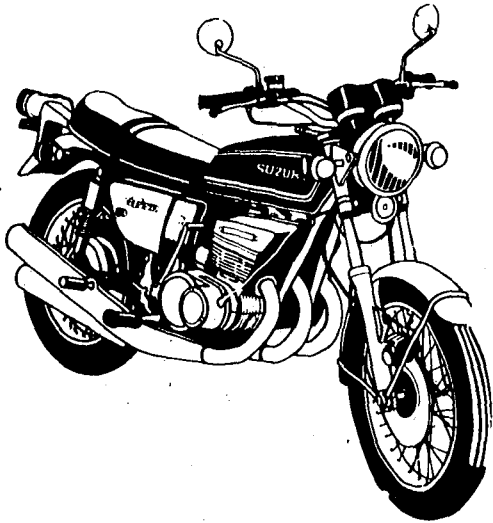

Although a rare practice today, there is a tradition which accompanies the crossing of the Arctic Circle as in the case of crossing the equator and International Date Line. Travellers on non-commercial flights are warned about invading "razorback ice-worms" which defend the north. The plane rollercoasts over the Arctic circle, champagne is sipped and certificates are passed out.

Total Arctic night arrives around the 75th parallel (southern Melville Island) about the end of October and this part of the world does not see the sun again until February 15th.

Mail Orders
Not Always Satisfactory

Each year, millions of dollars of consumer goods are bought by mail order in Canada. But, many mail order transactions turn sour, resulting in frustration, misunderstanding and complaints for the consumer.

According to the N. S. Department of Consumer Affairs, the most common complaints are long delays in delivery of prepaid goods; non-delivery; failure or delay in providing refunds for undelivered goods; and failure to act on complaints or even to answer letters of complaint.

Nova Scotians buy a great many items by mail, reports Harry M. McIlroy, chief executive officer of the department. They include books, records, appliances, clothing and novelty items among other things. But to avoid disappointment, Mr. McIlroy offers the following tips:

First, read the agreement carefully before you sign it. By signing the application form, you are agreeing to all the terms and conditions in the advertisement, he says, some of which may be stated in very small print.

Second, keep a copy of the advertisement which outlines the conditions of the agreement. Too often, Mr. McIlroy says, it gets thrown out with the magazine or newspaper it came in. Then when problems arise, con-

Tourists search for fossils at Joggins, Cumberland County. Here relics of pre-historic times may be picked up along the beach and in the fields. Fossilized trees and other plants may be seen imbedded in the 150-foot sandstone cliffs. This is a protected site and interested parties must obtain a permit (free of charge) from the Nova Scotia Museum in Halifax.

Beware Of Hidden Costs

Take the hidden costs into consideration before committing yourself to buying a mobile home, says Harry M. McIlroy, Chief Executive Officer of the N.S. Department of Consumer Affairs.

The first thing to bear in mind is financing your purchase. In most cases, because the mobile home you will be buying is not on a foundation, it is not eligible for a mortgage loan. As a result, you will have to arrange a personal loan at current interest rates which are three to four or more per cent higher. Spread out over a number of years, this added cost could be a substantial amount.

Make sure you check with the dealer to see what is included in the purchase price and what you will have to be responsible for yourself, says Mr. McIlroy. Putting the home on blocks, hooking up water, sewer and electricity, and installing an oil drum could add between $300 and $400 to the original purchase price.

When you've found the mobile home park in which you want to live, Mr. McIlroy says, obtain a copy of its regulations. They will indicate the monthly rental charge and the work that you will be responsible for doing. These added expenses could include skirting the trailer, which usually must be done within a certain length of time, building a porch and steps and painting them.

Plumbing pipes will have to be covered with electrical heating tape to keep them from freezing in the winter and the cost of electricity for this item must also be kept in mind, he says. Ensure that the mobile

Remember when the Maple Leaf Agricultural Society held a Community Fair and Field Day in Conway. The June 6, 1946 copy of The Digby Courier tells of plans to hold such a Fair on the newly acquired property there. A committee was to be appointed to prepare the grounds for the Fair and Field Day.

The Digby Locals Nova Scotia Teachers Union held a banquet at the Myrtle House in honor of Miss Elizabeth MacWhinnie retiring vice-principal of Digby Academy. Guest speaker was Professor A.S. Mowat, Dean of Education, Dalhousie University who said that a big school problem is to make life in school touch on and deal with problems met out side the school wall. (Former students of Miss MacWhinnie's and friends are glad to learn of her good health thirty years later.)

Mrs. Helen Anthony and Mrs. Louise Stephen were busy prompting girls entering the "Miss Digby County" contest for the Dominion Day celebrations. Their advice given through the columns of The Digby Courier was "A girl who has lovely hair, a happy face and smile and who stands and walks as though she were glad to be alive, is quite as likely to be one of the winners as a girl with pretty features but who may slouch or look a little grumpy."

$662.85
Collected

The Digby Legion Ladies Auxiliary have just completed the collection of $662.85 for the Canadian Cancer Society. This is a hundred dollars more than that collected in the same district previous years.

Volunteer canvassers were Mrs. Arthur Winchester, Mrs. Jim Webb, Mrs. Bernard O'Neill, Mrs. Steve Gibson and Mrs. Bradford Wood, with Mrs. Winchester, chairperson or captain. Mrs. Winchester expressed gratitude to those who collected and those who donated. Those who have not had opportunity to donate to date may contribute to the Weymouth and District Unit, Canadian Cancer Society, Weymouth BOW 370.

Plan Addition To Police Force

Digby Town Council on Monday evening passed a motion to accept an offer contained in a letter from R.C.M.P. headquarters regarding an additional constable and policing of municipalities. It was felt that if the offer is turned down there might not be another available. Councillors also expressed concern that it is difficult for the present staff to do the policing in the number of hours in the day.

The month of May police report was presented on Monday evening by Corporal David Lord, when it was revealed that 77 complaints had been laid and 77 attended to. There were four charges under the criminal code, 19 motor vehicle, six liquor control. There were five doors in business places found unlocked. Fines collected were municipal $820., provincial $700. and federal $35. Several breaks and enters are under investigation and street light damage has been a problem.

Council decided to forward a letter to traffic authority of the Department of Highways in appreciation of the Driver Education courses.

Complaints had been read in a letter from R. G. Robinson about the excessive noise and the drinking at the Digby Branch Royal Canadian Legion on Mount St. This was referred to the police committee for consideration. Mr. Robinson objected to the Legion tax exemption.

The report of Frank Robinson, superintendent of streets, water and sewer showed necessary repairs and street preparation for summer and the cleaning and placing of benches and tables done.

Webster Dunn reported $408.01 collected from parking meters, 38 tickets issued and 31 collected.

Those persons whose dogs are found running loose will have their names published according to motion adopted at the Town Council meeting on Monday evening. The report of Clifford Vido showed eight complaints had been received. Owners claimed some of the dogs others had been disposed of.

A letter read before the Council revealed there is no tax exemption for the Digby Kiwanis Club Swimming Pool property.

Accounts approved for payment on Monday evening amounted to $27,689. One thousand five hundred and sixty-five dollars arrears in taxes were to be written off.

Nothing In Budget For Sidewalks

A letter from the provincial department of highways read at the Digby Town Council meeting on Monday evening gave estimates on sidewalks which might be constructed on Warwick St. from Victoria St. to within the town boundaries. Gravel sidewalks were estimated at $9,500 and paved $11,000. A motion was passed that a letter go to the Department stating that there is nothing in the budget for sidewalks.

Another motion referred to the use of the Victoria St. for Princess of Acadia traffic and the safety hazards it creates. The motion passed will ask the Department to reconsider the original route planned for that traffic. A motion was passed that either the Department fix up the Victoria St. road or the town close it off to the Department use. In fact councillors felt the government had a moral obligation because they use the highway.

It was announced that a hearing would be held in Halifax on June 14th at the Lord Nelson Hotel regarding the Eastern Provincial Airways application to the Air Transport Command to serve, Digby, Halifax and Saint John. Council went on record as endorsing the service.

A letter was read from the Municipality of the County of Kings regarding amounts owing from Digby for maintenance costs for prisoners. The amount stated was $12,858. It was decided to contact other municipalities to see what their intentions were.

The question arose, following the reading of May minutes, regarding the hiring of an assistant superintendent, whether for summer or as a permanent position and whether the twenty-five per cent increase in the salary of Robert Theriault was retroactive to January. If the latter is correct the question arose as to why the public works crew increase in salary of eight per cent was not also retroactive to January. One councillor termed this discriminatory. Council decided to have the finance committee check over the amount in the budget to see if there is enough to cover the retroactive proposal and if not to leave it as it is.

Natal Day Grant Not Increased

On behalf of the Digby Natal Day Committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Pat Kynock, Councillor William Reid on Monday night requested that the Natal Day grant from the Town of Digby be increased from $700. to $1000. The motion made at the Town Council meeting by Mr. Reid and seconded by Deputy Mayor Philip Robertson failed to get an affirmative vote. While the Natal Day Committee of 1975 did not use all the $700. granted last year, costs of bands and other necessities for Natal Day had risen so high it was felt by the committee that $1000 would be needed.

It was decided to send the Digby Town Float used in the Annapolis Valley Apple Blossom Festival to any place within reasonable distance, which might ask for it. The float which was a second prize winner in the Apple Blossom Parade, was made by Lloyd Thibodeau. A letter of recognition was passed to be sent to Mr. Thibodeau.

The Digby Branch Royal

Canadian Legion Auxiliary was given permission to hold a tag day, June 25 and 26th for the Walter Callow fund.

Mrs. Nettie Titus appeared before Council about the fact that she has not been permitted to use two cars for taxi operating in Digby. The money and application for a second license had been returned to her. Most taxi drivers, she told council, have other income but she has not. Eventually it was suggested that the license committee meet with the taxi drivers and thrash the matter out. Some complaints had been heard about the failure of being able to procure taxi service for the early morning boat from and to Saint John and after ten at night. Mrs. Titus' taxi was an exception, it was agreed.

Lawrence Potter requested permission to raise taxi fares from $1.00 to $1.25 plus 25 cents for stops and pick-up charges. This was referred to the Police Committee.

July 11-17 was declared a Social Services Special Week.

Digby Red Cross Branch Closes For Summer

The June business meeting of the Digby Red Cross Branch, held last week at the Court House, marked the official closing of the Branch for the summer holidays. Highlight of the meeting was the drawing for the "Star" quilt which had been on sale by ticket for the past several weeks, and which was won by Mrs. G. Ross Parsons of Bear River. The sum of $253 was realized from this project and it was moved that the entire proceeds be forwarded by the Branch Treasurer to the Red Cross Division in Halifax for the "Money Crisis Fund". The Secretary was requested to write a letter of thanks to Miss Aileen Swallow for her assistance in displaying the quilt at The Elite Shop, where she also sold many of the tickets.

The business meeting was chaired by the Branch President, Rev. Ronald Stevens, and the minutes of the May meeting were read by the Secretary, Mrs. Mary Robert. Reports were heard from standing committees, with Mrs. H.M. Warne reporting for Women's Work that the season's final shipment of finished articles would be forwarded to Headquarters following the completion of the quilt which was then in the frames. An order form for new materials had been received and work would be on hand for the reopening of the Work Room in September, when it was hoped that some extra workers might be recruited.

A full report of the activities of the Sickroom Loan Committee was presented by Mrs. Alice Winfield, who stated that the following items are presently on loan in Digby and vicinity: 4 Wheelchairs, 1 Hospital Bed with sides, 1 Commode Chair, 4 prs. Crutches, 1 Walker and 1 Cane. Returned during the past month were 2 Wheelchairs, 2 prs. Crutches and 1 Hospital Bed, with 2 sides having been donated. Two cash donations, totalling $7 were gratefully acknowledged for the use of equipment.

The report of the Ways and Means Committee, prepared by Mrs. Allan Harris, showed a total of $81.49 on hand from the proceeds of weekly teas and from donations. It was moved that the sum of $50 from this fund be donated to the Digby Swimming Pool to assist in its operation for the summer months.

An interim report from Mr. Patrick Fletcher, Campaign Chairman, showed a total of over $1900 received to date, with several districts yet to be heard from.

Following the decision to defer the setting of a date for the Annual Meeting until after our September reopening, at which time it was hoped that a representative from the Nova Scotia Division might be in attendance, the meeting was adjourned and refreshments served by the Ways and Means Committee.

Guest Preacher For Anniversary

Rev. James MacIntosh, Base Chaplain at C.F. Cornwallis, will be guest speaker at Grace United Church on Sunday Morning when the 115th anniversary of the church will be observed. Rev. Ronald Stevens, pastor of the church, will conduct the service and the senior choir under the direction of Mrs. Elton Arnold will provide the special music.

Grace United Church is the largest of the three churches now in the Digby Pastoral Charge of the United Church of Canada. The other two congregations are Sandy Cove and Bay View which have been open throughout the entire year. Looking back into the history of Grace United it is found that at one time the Digby circuit comprised Digby, Brighton, Barton, Weymouth, Centreville, Sandy Cove and Westport. In 1869 Weymouth, St. Mary's Bay and parts adjacent were made into one charge and Digby along with the others made another.

Smith's Cove church was opened in 1885 and also Culloden and Bay View were established and circuit changes again came about. Smith's Cove which had been in the Digby pastoral charge elected in 1954 to be in the Bear River charge. Services are not being presently

Courtney Purdy Honored At Party

The Digby General Hospital Board held a party at the Admiral Digby Inn on Saturday in honor of F. Courtney Purdy.

Mr. Purdy has served Chairman of the Board for 25 years. He has been a board member for over 31 years.

During the supper, Mr. Purdy was presented with a watch by Dr. John McCleave. A photograph of the Board Chairman will be hung at the hospital board room.

About 50 board members, medical staff, and their respective spouses showed up for the occasion. Speakers included Wilfred Swift, Digby Municipal Warden; Charles Halliburton, Digby Mayor; Lawrence Snell on behalf of Annapolis County council; and Ralph Stacey, Hospital Administrator.

Party Chairman was R. MacLeod Rogers.

Major, the Rev. James H. MacIntosh, CD, BA, MDiv.

held at Smith's Cove. Sandy Cove and Centreville which for some time were in the Weymouth charge have not returned to Digby and Weymouth has joined Bear River and Clementsport in a United Church charge.

Rev. Ronald Stevens who came to Digby pastoral charge in 1970 is the thirtieth minister since 1855. Rev. Dr. Thomas W. Hodgson who continues to reside in Digby came here in 1934 and was followed by Rev. James Brooks in 1951. Rev. R.H. Hughes immediately preceded Rev. Mr. Stevens.

The first resident minister dates back to Rev. James Taylor in 1854 but history names others who had done preliminary service in the area, in fact, the earliest reference to Methodism (the original congregation) in Digby (1785) is associated with black people and a Methodist evangelist, Rev. Freeborn Garretson visited. Also William Black held services in the area. Methodism survived in Digby and by 1819 Rev. Sampson Busby began the erection of a church which was not finished until Rev. Michael Pickles came in 1831, the present church being completed in 1860.

The physical structure of the church has undergone, through the years some changes from spire to basement and many attractive features like stained glass windows and modern improvements have been added for the benefit of Christian Education facilities and atmosphere of worship.

The special service at eleven o'clock on Sunday morning is expected to bring visitors and residents to worship, in many cases "back home to the familiar surroundings of a yesteryear."

Roseanna Deveau Chosen Miss Clare

by Larry Duchesne

An estimated 500 people gathered at the Meteghan Wharf on Sunday for the annual Blessing of the Fleet and accompanying events.

The blessing ceremony was performed by Father Louis Comeau of Meteghan. Those in attendance included Public Works Minister Benoit Comeau, M.P. Coline Campbell, Clare Warden, Omer Blinn, the newly-chosen Miss Clare and her two princesses.

Eighteen year old Roseanna Deveau of Saulnierville became Miss Clare during the Fisherman's Ball here on Saturday night. She was crowned by last year's Miss Clare, Charlotte Tufts of Saulnierville.

The new queen will enter College St. Anne as a student this fall. Miss Tufts graduated from the college this year.

The princesses are Marie Broulette of Saulnierville and Janice Thimot of Mavillette. Other events yesterday included a chicken barbecue,

Royal Tour Visits Digby

Digby's Princess Jacqueline Journeay was presented with a bouquet of roses by little Mary Lee Lord during the Valley Royal Tour.

The Valley Royal Tour was welcomed to Digby on Monday by Mayor Charles Haliburton.

Upon arrival, Queen Annapolis, Fredda Murray of Wolfville, and her princesses were escorted to the Bandstand for a formal ceremony and presentations. Little Mary Lee Lord, daughter of David and Betty Ann Lord of Digby, presented the Digby princess, Jacqueline Journeay with a bouquet of flowers. She also made a presentation to Queen Annapolis.

Brief addresses were given by the Queen, Princess Digby, her chaperon, Mrs. Ina Dillon, and Mayor Haliburton.

Freeport Legion Gets Pool

The swimming pool for the Legion has arrived and has been set up and ready for use promptly. The instructor, Miss Gale Stewart is here and is a guest of Mrs. Jean Franklin for her stay on the Island. She has her classes planned and will be accepting application for swimming lessons soon.

Miss Stewart has been at the school talking with the students, also to an executive meeting of the Legion and the Ladies Auxiliary about plans for the pool.

A special meeting of all Auxiliary members has been plimented the town on its "wonderful float" during her address. She noted it had earned second place in the most original.

"We've all had a wonderful weekend," she said, and we'll remember it for a long time.

called for the evening of June 15th to discuss plans for canteen service and for the upcoming handicrafts and afternoon "teas" for July. A pantry sale sponsored by the L.A. is to be held on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Legion Hall.

A Wine and Cheese party was held last month also a dance with the Bonded Stock providing the music. These were well attended.

Mr. & Mrs. John Harrison and children are having their vacation now and are on their way to Florida to visit Disney World and see some of the sights traveling throughout part of the U.S. by car.

Walter Floyd, who has been ill at the Digby Hospital for several weeks, has returned to Freeport and is making his home with his daughter, Mrs. Watson Crocker, Mr. Crocker and their daughter, Bette.

WEYMOUTH DAY IS DOMINION DAY

We have probably had advance publicity sent to us from half the celebrating events in Nova Scotia for the summer 1976. All, of course, are seeking free advertising on something a little extra along with their paid advertising. They are anxious to attract as large a crowd as possible whether for the purpose of adding to the coffers of a sponsoring organization or to put the name of the town or village before the public in general and add to the general economic position of the area.

If we remember correctly the Pictou Lobster Festival was the last brochure of that nature to come in and we do not mind also mentioning that their festival is generally well enjoyed. However, we have been sitting in on meetings which indicate that even festivals are feeling the pinch of inflation. Costs are going up, even to engaging bands for such occasions. This makes tremendously difficult sledding for the committees in charge of these special days. We feel we have an obligation to assist, first of all, our summer functions are here.

That then begins at Weymouth. Weymouth Day is always held on Dominion Day and in this way has a patriotic connotation as well as a service inclination. The service part comes from the fact that Weymouth Day is sponsored by the Weymouth Kiwanis Club. The club uses the Weymouth Day proceeds for their youth camp and swimming project. Who would not feel privileged to share in fund-raising for that purpose alone. Think of the many advantages afforded by the community service. Think of the tourism advantages, the publicity opportunities and many other reasons which make it proper to lend a hand by involvement or attendance on Weymouth Day. Your community gets out of the project according to what you put into it.

The Weymouth Day always offers a good program—parade, midway, chicken barbecue, potato salad booth, soft drinks, quick lunch, games and other attractions. Of special interest are the ox-pulls in the afternoons and fire works at night. The entertainment is worth the price. The meeting of old friends and new friends makes for a joyful, relaxing and a special time to throw away cares and rest body and mind.

The project is worthwhile. Plan now for Weymouth Day on Dominion Day. Get involved, even now in the first of the summer functions in Digby County and look forward to those to follow.

FARMHOUSE VACATIONS

Great minds run in the same channel!! We had just printed our editorial last week about Country Vacations when Ellery VanBlarcom, Montreal, sent us an article from the Montreal Star on Farmhouse Vacations, Wake Up To Those Blue, Bird-song Mornings In Nova Scotia, by Hazel Lowe. We thank Mr. VanBlarcom for thinking about The Digby Courier and forwarding the copy to us. We also are pleased that Nova Scotia got all that publicity in the Montreal area. We expect (except for the Olympics competition) to reap some benefits from that free publicity.

Some of the Lowe article was similar to our editorial referring to the recently published 1976 Nova Scotia Farm and Country Vacation Guide so we shall not repeat that here.

The article in the Montreal Star describes the Fundy Tides, some of the Nova Scotia villages, the summer events and quotes from Fred Walsh, secretary-treasurer of the Nova Scotia Farm and Country Vacation Association. Quoting from Mr. Walsh "Good cooking rates high on the list and 'we look for people who like people, who will treat their paying guests just like friends or relatives.'"

"Now mind, these homes don't operate by motel or hotel standards. It's rural hospitality and a chance for city people to meet and get to know Nova Scotia farmers.

"Don't expect hotel-type food. We offer three meals a day of good, old-fashioned country cooking. All these women are good farm cooks and they go in for plenty of home baking and fresh fish and vegetables. Not the sort of thing you'd be lucky enough to find in an hotel."

And, he warns, farm vacations aren't everyone's cup of tea. Visitors must learn to tell time by a country clock—early breakfast, dinner at noon (although hostesses are glad to pack picnic lunches for restless explorers and supper before sunset.

Artists, writers or ordinary refugees from the high-rise rat race can discover the farm of their dreams in the 1976 Nova Scotia Farm & Country Vacation Guide, available through the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture, Kentville, N.S., B4N 1J5 — Except that the Islands Consolidated School Sports Banquet was held up who should worry about spending an hour waiting at East Ferry. The scenery over the Passage was superb. The Joshua Slocum had lost a leg and was over in Meteghan being repaired. It took us some time to reason out how a ferry could lose a leg but eventually we learned it was a leg to a propeller blade that got lost.

Hodge Podge

Must say that when the Joshua Slocum got to Tiverton it took few minutes to cross the water and organize into regular schedule —

— Behaviour was excellent, sport enthusiasm great, school spirit exceptional. Judging from the Islands Consolidated School Sports Banquet, the Islands parents can be proud of the schooling their children are getting. C. E. Edwards, Inspector of Schools, was justly pleased with the attitude displayed and complimented the school on its overall program combining sports and academic studies. You could readily see that his sentiments were genuine and why they were. The spirit of the supervisor himself and the staff generated enthusiasm to the students. "You learn what you live and you live what you learn" was apropos. Just hope CBC or A.T.V. doesn't hear about Manzer. He has great possibilities for a T.V. commentator. Maybe sports specialty.—

Eight hundred and eighty dollars is not to be sneezed at. We do, however, notice Bridgewater Fire Department raised $3000 by their "Jail" project. Are we better living here or just not as advertising conscious.

Know how to raise money quickly. Have a few nice large cakes donated. Auction them off. Who doesn't buy under the thrill of an auction? Auction them all over (providing the owners are willing) a few times. The price runs up, we learned that at the Legion banquet in Clementsport. It was hilarious and made a good evening of fun.

Old Times Day is again planned for Westport, under the auspices of the Westport Firemen's Ladies Auxiliary. Right soon we expect to see the date announced and activity begun.

Fine Weather Blesses Festival Weekend

Cloudless, blue skies and summer-like temperatures greeted record crowds to visit the Annapolis Valley over the weekend to join in the pageantry, celebrations and sports events of the 44th Apple Blossom Festival.

Although most of the pink and white apple blossoms had come and gone because of the early season, no one seemed too concerned as Valley residents and their visitors enjoyed parades, concerts, dances, tasted the giant apple pie, cheered the finalists in the Dan D. Apple Olympics, and greeted Queen Annapolis and the princesses on their Valley tour.

Brown-haired Fredda Murray, the 20-year old Wolfville Princess, was crowned the 44th Queen Annapolis on Friday evening at University Hall in Wolfville by Nova Scotia Lieutenant Governor C.L. Gosse assisted by Federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan. Queen Fredda is the hazel-eyed daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Murray of Grand Pre and will not only be the Valley's goodwill ambassador as Queen Annapolis, but will greet visitors throughout the summer as the chief guide at Grand Pre National Historic Park.

Lady In Waiting is 20-year-old Greenwood Princess Sylvie Begin.

The 44th Apple Blossom Festival actually began on Friday evening, May 28, at Kingston when the Greenwood Bombers and Club Capri captured the western semi-finals in the Dan D. Apple Olympics. They advanced against the eastern semi-finalists, the New Minas and Wolfville Lions Club teams in the finals at Memorial Park in Kentville following the Parade on Saturday. The four teams battled it out right down to the wire in a series of crowd-pleasing and zany events before the New Minas Lions captured the championship trophy. Winning Team members are Eli Cooper, Frank Martin, Sharon Manley, Lynn Hebb, Jane Arbreaux, Terry Topak, Rex Martin, Gene Manley, Jim Arbreaux, Doreen Barrett and Coach Les Barrett.

As the master bakers at Berwick Bakery were preparing the giant Apple Pie in Berwick on Wednesday evening, an appreciative audience at Denton Hall in Wolfville was enjoying a musical concert by the Kentville Symphonic Band under the direction of John Herman. Several awards were announced during the concert, including summer music camp scholarships to music students Allan Zinck and Debra Pulsifer and the Band Directors annual award to Gail Jebson of Kentville.

The festival's symbolic character Dan D. Apple began to deliver the Festival Proclamation to civic officials from Digby to Windsor on Thursday morning as Valley artists exhibited their talents in Senior and Junior

Whelan Meets The Press

Canada's Minister of Agriculture Eugene Whelan met with representatives of the Valley farming community, at breakfast on Saturday, and at a press conference later in the day, told news media representatives "We can improve the productivity of farmland in Nova Scotia by 50 percent in some cases." He said Canada spends too much abroad including some food supplies but noted that it is difficult to compete in such cases as the Alabama broiler producers who enjoy less labor costs, cheaper grain prices and lower interest rates.

He said the federal anti-inflation measures are not yet at the stage that they can be considered a complete success or a complete failure but "we only hope to get reasonable people back to good common sense."

Mr. Whelan said some stipulations will be placed on funds available through the yet unsigned subsidy agreement for the agricultural sector between Ottawa and Nova Scotia. He said there is concern by the Treasury Board to ensure that the funds are not used to produce things that are already in surplus.

Saturday was parade day in the 44th festival and the warm, sunny weather brought record crowds to view record entry lists in both the Junior and Grand Street Parades.

Junior Parade winners included a red and white mini-float representing Valley people as big pie makers and entered by the MacMillan children to capture the grand championship and theme trophies.

The most comical entry was won by Steven and Michael Glavin of Kentville who depicted everything grows better in the Annapolis Valley. The group winner featured Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs on the theme of "no one can resist a good apple" and entered by the Spicer, Kitz, Maynard, Betik, Lund and MacDonald families of Kentville. Most original was Bert Benjamin as Johnny Applesseed, while Debbie and Steven Jefferson won the historical award.

An estimated 40 to 50,000 people from all over the Maritimes and New England states jammed the streets of Kentville on Saturday afternoon to the floats, bands and majorettes that made up a Grand Parade entry list of 140.

The Town of Wolfville maintained its presence throughout the Festival with Art Shows in New Minas.

The Princesses Tea, the official cutting of the giant apple pie, a large entry list in the Blossom Horse Show at Windsor and capacity audience for the Concert and Coronation were highlights of the Friday festivities.

their Princess chosen as Queen Annapolis, their float depicting Valley people are of many lands and cultures capturing the grand prize, and the Wolfville Lions entry winning the service club category.

Kentville's pink and white float "famous for apple blossom time", received the most artistic award, and Windsor's "Valley people are fair minded" was awarded most original, while the oldest in the parade was won by the George White entry of Middleton. The Junior Broomball float entered by Valley Toyota won the commercial group and the comic winner was a home-made dune buggy, entered by David Miller and depicting mountaineer folk.

The saddle horse winner was the Golden Gaits group of palominos, appaloosas, paints and quarter horses from Prince Edward Island, and the top band was judged to be the Wylde Thyme pipes and drums. The North Star majorettes, led by former Miss Nova Scotia Joanne Pinaud, won the majorettes category while the judges gave special recognition to floats entered by the Kings County Hospital, Kings Regional Vocational School and the Boy Scouts diamond jubilee.

Several hundred persons strolled through the 14-acre Grand Pre Park on Sunday afternoon, were greeted by Queen Annapolis and the Princesses and enjoyed a variety of bands and choral groups performing at various locations on the park grounds.

The Blossom Bowling Tournament at Valley Lanes in New Minas was won by The New Minas Laundromat team of Maggie Ryan, Wayne Eisener, Don Trites, Al Merritt and Mary White. Chris Poberenzy of Windsor captured men's high single and high average, while Maddie Porter of Valley Lanes captured ladies high single and Maggie Ryan of New Minas won the ladies high average. Best Sportsman was Bernie Wilson.

The Blossom Car Rally attracted some 50 entries with the Novice class won by David Hocky and Gerald Porter of Kentville-New Minas and the Experienced Class captured by John and Jennifer Slade of Halifax.

The Valley Royal Tour and Closing Ball at CFB Greenwood on Monday concluded the 44th Festival celebrations.

If you like The Digby Courier

... you will love winning $400.

That's right ...

$400 and a gold medal is yours if you can write the best essay on what the The Digby Courier means to you.

"This is a unique award made to the reader of a CCNA member paper who best describes in his or her own words just what the weekly paper means to him or her. It is not open to the paper's staff or regular contributors.

The objective is to encourage the readers of weekly papers themselves to think about what their newspaper means to them, their families, their lives and their communities and to set these thoughts down in straightforward language. Polished literary expression is not sought."

This written expression of frank opinion should be at least 250 words, and not more than 700. Judges will not look for excessively high praise of the weekly; they will study the judgement and understanding by readers of the paper's function. This could come from a paper of any size - large or small.

This award is made possible by the generosity of

OBITUARIES

J. NORMAN FILLEUL

J. Norman Filleul, 69 of Hotchkiss, Alta., died Saturday at home.

Born in Weymouth, Digby County, he was a son of the late Henry and Mary Filleul.

He was a resident of Alberta for the past 50 years where he was engaged in wheat farming in the Peace River district. He was a member of the Anglican Church of Canada.

He is survived by a brother, Donald, Halifax; and three nieces.

He was predeceased by a sister, Kathleen and a brother, Philip.

JEFFERY MURON

Jeffery Muron, 17 of Ashmore, died on June 3 as the result of an automobile accident.

His body rested at the Weymouth Funeral Home until burial at the Plympton Holy Cross Church cemetery on Sunday.

Funeral services were performed by Father Rene LeBlanc on Sunday at 2 p.m.

Jeffery is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Muron of Lower Sackville; and three sisters: Joanne Ryan of Weymouth North, Patricia of Ashmore and Glenda of Lower Sackville.

"I'm sure everyone who knew him laughed with him, and he will be greatly missed."

LEBERT FREDERICK

RAYMOND

LeMert Frederick Raymond, 55, of Smith's Cove, died Wednesday at Yarmouth Regional Hospital.

Born in Waterford, he was a son of the late Frederick and Alice (Denton) Raymond.

Surviving besides his wife, the former Millie Specht, are two sons, Fred and Ralph, both at home; a daughter Linda (Mrs. Roger Carty), Smith's Cove; a sister, Constance (Mrs. Vinald Theriault), Gardiner, Mass.; a brother, Vincent, Waterford; and a grandchild.

He was predeceased by a sister and a brother.

The body was at the R. McCleave Funeral Home, Digby. Service was held Saturday at 4:00 p.m. from the Smith's Cove Baptist Church, Rev. Wallace Jordan officiating. Interment was in Smith-Salis Cemetery, Smith's Cove.

MRS. CECIL SIMMONS

Mrs. Cecil Simmons, 64, of Weymouth Falls, died Wednesday at the Digby General Hospital.

Born in Weymouth Falls, she was the former Ellen Augusta Langford, a daughter of the late Colin and Annie (Falls) Langford.

Surviving besides her husband, are three

LIGHTHOUSE ROAD - The privacy of a quiet rural setting plus a view of the Bay plus a 6 month old 3 bedroom home with attractive design and many extras combine to make a package that will surprise you by its economy of price, utilities and maintenance.

CLEMENTSVALE - Cozy smaller home in quiet village, 5 miles from Cornwallis. Finished with impeccable good taste has a 2 bedroom home downstairs plus 3 partially finished bedrooms upstairs. A detached garage, neatly landscaped corner lot and frontage on pavement are just a few of the features that make this a truly attractive home.

CLEMENTSVALE - Here's the rural building site you've been looking for. 25 lightly wooded acres with approximately 800 feet frontage on well maintained year round road. School bus and mail service to your door. Ideal for a spacious private building site or well suited for subdivision. A snap at $3500.

Mrs. Titus W.M.S. Hostess

Mrs. Arthur Titus was hostess to the Women's Missionary Society of the United Baptist Church on Tuesday June 1st when they met for the June meeting. There were fourteen present.

Mrs. Lawrence Shaw

presided. Mrs. Edwin Frost gave the devotional taken from "In a Hospital Room" written by Frances Gardner Hunter. A special offering was taken as it is annually for the Christmas and Emergency Fund.

The Spiritual Life lesson was from 1 Peter's 5:1 "God's Care". Several members took part in the reading portions of scripture relevant to the theme.

Mrs. Robert Saunders, whom they were pleased to have as guest, read John

The annual picnic meeting will be held in the church vestry on July 6th.

CARTY - In loving memory of our dear little granddaughter, Loretta Lynn, who died June 5, 1973.

To some you may be forgotten, To some a part of the past But to us who loved and lost you, Your memory will always last.

Remembered and sadly missed by GRAMPY AND GRAMMIE WAGNER. 44:1ip

SULIS - In memory of Mrs. H. A. Sulis, who passed away June 6, 1975.

God saw you were getting tired So he did what he thought was best.

He opened the gates of heaven

And said "Come and rest." Always remembered by HER FAMILY. 44:1ip

IN MEMORIAM

CARTY - In loving memory of our little daughter, Loretta Lynn, who died June 5, 1973.

Loretta, dear little Loretta How much we miss you so Since you were taken from us

Not more than three years ago.

We miss those little good-nite kisses

Those loving hugs even more

We miss your very presence here And wished there'd been many more.

But Loretta, just because you're away Doesn't mean in time we'll forget

Because, as far as we're concerned

You're still here with us yet.

Always remembered and sadly missed by MOMMIE, DADDY, DEAN, IAN AND LYNETTE. 44:1ip

DON'T DIE WITHOUT A WILL

You have heard many times "Everyone should have a will." But why? All wills go through probate court regardless of how small the estate. If there is no will the beneficiaries will in every case experience delays, legal fees, and the estate will be in the hands of the court for a long time. ALL THIS CAN BE AVOIDED. We will send you a simple but binding Will Form with self-explanatory instructions. This form is made up of a four-page book containing 11 of 20 percent satisfied, return within 10 days for full refund. But don't delay. Act today.

Send $1.00 name and address to:
Deemone Enterprises Dept. Box 129
Greenwood, Nova Scotia BOP 1N0

Basketball Clinic

There will be a series of basketball clinics held this summer at the Digby Regional High School gym. The clinics will be held for boys and girls between the ages of 9 to 12. The clinics will run from 9:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon on the following days:

JULY - 6, 7, 15, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29.

AUGUST - 3, 4, 5, 10, 11, 12.

At these clinics the basics in basketball skill and rules will be taught through the use of individual coaching, films and actual participation. All players will be given an equal chance to participate in games. There will also be an emphasis on sportsmanlike conduct. A $2.00 registration fee is required to cover costs.

The only equipment the child needs is sneakers and shorts. Any parent wishing to have their child attend these clinics can do so by filling out the following form and mailing it with the registration fee to:

Mr. G. Jamieson

Around Weymouth Village

(Mrs. June Cosman)

Weymouth

(Mrs. J. Cosman)

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Cosman and family and Mrs. Zelia Cosman were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cosman in Avonport.

The Sunday School class of Melbourne Barr spent the weekend at New France on a fishing trip. This is an annual trip which Mr. Barr takes with his class.

Stephen Ford is a patient at the Digby General Hospital. Get well wishes are extended to him.

Married 50 Years

The two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Smiley, Barton, honoured their parents at an "At Home" on Saturday, May 29th, in celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Miss Marguerite McKay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. McKay, Barton, John Smiley were married on May 27, 1926 and lived in California where Mr. Smiley was a proprietor of a restaurant. They were regular summer visitors to Barton and since their retirement they continue to spend the winters in California.

Approximately 60 guests arrived at the Smiley home for the occasion during the afternoon and evening, among them being their daughter, Mrs. James Marvin and Mr. Marvin of California and Mr. Smiley's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Conrad, Halifax, and husband, Mrs. Muriel Bavalara, Weymouth, presided over the teas. The cake was made and presented as a gift by Mrs. Vernon Wessell.

Mr. and Mrs. Smiley have two daughters, Mrs. Marvin and Mrs. George Humphreys, Barton. There are four grandchildren, James and Robert Marvin and Cynthia and John Word.

Mr. and Mrs. Smiley spend a great deal of time visiting friends, watching T.V., reading and Mrs. Smiley also enjoys handcraft. Mr. Smiley attends the Masonic Lodge and is a 50-year jewel member.

The happy couple received telegrams and other messages from Governor General Leger; Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau; Miss Coline Campbell, M.P.; and Joseph Casey, M.L.A. Many gifts were received.

Married 25 Years

A large number of relatives and friends gathered at the North Range Baptist Church Hall on Saturday evening, June 5, 1976, in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Elton McCullough of South Range on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The bride and groom sat beneath a large white wedding bell at an appropriately decorated gift table. Assisting them in opening their gifts was their daughter, Paula Dawn, who also read the greetings and cards of congratulations.

Among the many lovely gifts received was a well

"decorated" money tree. The bride and groom both expressed their appreciation, which was greeted by a hearty round of applause. The three tier anniversary cake was then cut in traditional manner and other refreshments served.

The guest book was circulated by Mrs. Walton Mullen (Phyllis) sister of the groom who also was responsible for the signature of the guests twenty-five years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. McCullough were married on June 8, 1951, at the Church of Christ parsonage, Weymouth by Rev. Max Webb. The attendants were Miss Arlene Hill (Mrs. James McKichan) as bridesmaid while Victor Freeman supported the groom. They have one daughter, Miss Paula Dawn McCullough.

Mrs. McCullough is the youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ira Sabean and they reside in her parent's old home at South Range.

Best wishes from a host of friends are extended for many, many more years of happiness.

New Tusket

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Ford of Ohio were visitors Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gaudet.

Decoration Day

Decoration Day Ceremonies were held at Weymouth Falls Community Centre on May 29. The various church ministers accompanied by Legion members and people of Weymouth area had a short remembrance prayer at grave sites. They then returned to the Centre for dinner of potatoes, pork scraps, dry fish, mashed turnips, plus lots of sweets, tea or coffee.

Special guests were Father Boyd, Mr. Potter, Rev. and Mrs. Isaac Butler, Rev. and Mrs. Savary, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Comeau, Colonel Stanley Hallett, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Cromwell (Ralph being Master of Ceremonies).

Deacon and Mrs. Sydney Cromwell, Rev. Butler, Rev. Savary, Arnold Comeau, Deacon Cromwell, Rev. Boyd and Colonel Hallett were guest speakers.

The president, Harrison Jarvis, then extended thanks to the speakers, to the kitchen workers and anyone who helped make this affair a success.

Dialing your own long distance calls can be a rewarding experience...

like saving money.

When you dial direct, you're taking advantage of one of the marvels of modern day computerization. Your call is electronically speeded on its way, at your command, without operator assistance. And you reach your party in a fraction of the time and at a fraction of the cost of an operator assisted call. When you add the extra savings available on evening and Sunday calls it's easy to see that long distance is truly "one of the great bargains of our time".

Apart from the time and money-saving advantages of dialing direct, it's also nice to "do it yourself" and retain more of that spontaneous, friendly feeling when you just want to say "hello". It's a rewarding experience... in more ways than one.

Fleas For Sale?

A flea market will soon be starting up in this area. But whether or not fleas will be stocked and sold is as yet uncertain.

Actually, fleas aren't intended to be sold at a flea market. But just about anything under the sun can be.

In a flea market, any seller of goods pays a fee to the market operator for the privilege of using the market grounds. He brings his goods, whatever they be and displays them as he sees fit. The public pays a small fee for admission to the grounds.

This concept will be tried by Dave Irvine at the Harbour View House in Smith's Cove beginning on June 20. Mr. Irving regards it as a place for anyone with anything to sell. Individuals, handicrafts people and some local dealers are expected to participate.

Hopes are that later in the year people with extra fruit, vegetables and flowers will sell them here.

Hours of business will be from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. each

THE DIGBY COURIER

Sunday. The seasonal length of the market will depend on response. First off, the market will be held strictly outside, but later in July inside facilities will be available on rainy days. Snack bar service will be set up.

Hill Grove

(Mrs. D Roope)

Get well wishes are extended to Mrs. Roy Warner who is a patient in Digby General Hospital.

NOW A TOUGH LITTLE PICKUP WITH A GREAT BIG CAB.

Datsun Sportruck Deluxe Cab.

Datsun's newest pickup has nearly a foot of extra space in the cab. All the space you need for features like fully-adjustable reclining bucket seats, carpeting, console, arm rest and optional automatic transmission. Even with the seats in a reclining position there's still plenty of room behind them to keep your luggage or anything else you want, out of the weather. It's economical, too. According to E.P.A. tests, it gets 37 m.p.g. on the highway and 26 m.p.g. in the city.

The best-selling import in North America.

Pool Match

The Digby and Clementsport Legion pool teams will play a two game series on June 19 and 26. Play will be held in Digby on the 19th and Clementsport on the 26th. Digby retained the area pool trophy on June 5 against Clementsport.

Basin View Apartments

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Pugh have returned home after spending a few days in Halifax, visiting their daughter and family. Mrs. Mable VanTassel is visiting her daughter and family in Halifax for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Penny left last Friday for a trip to Newfoundland to visit her brother and sisters and friends.

Mr. Ernest MacDormand has gone to spend a few weeks with his son and family in Bridgewater. Mrs. Pamela Graham, granddaughter of Mrs. Nellie Graham has received a scholarship. We send congratulations and good luck in future studies.

Recent guests of Miss Emily Abbot were her nephew, Wallace Amero and wife (former Miss Marjorie Knapp of Pensacola, Florida). Enroute they visited New Hampshire, and called on his mother, Mrs. Ann Amero and sister in Tracy, N.B. They have returned home. They honeymooned in Digby.

Mr. and Mrs. William McNeary of Dartmouth are visiting their daughter, Mrs.

Julie Bondy. They were supper guests of Emily Abbot, Sunday. Julie played the piano in the lounge - everyone enjoyed it. Come again!

Baptist Women Held Crusade

The annual CRUSADE of the Women's Missionary Society, Smith's Cove United Baptist Church, was held at the church on Thursday evening, June 3, with Mrs. Wilfred Rice, president, conducting the meeting. There were over 90 present from sister societies of Bear River, Centreville, Clementsvalle, Digby, Hill Grove, Little River, North Range, Rossway, Weymouth and guests from Weymouth Falls and Bridgetown.

Miss Marie Morehouse, vice-president, gave the Scripture reading from the "Love Chapter" - 1 Corinthians 13. Prayer was offerred by Mrs. R. M. Winchester, secretary. A special moment of tribute was given by Mrs. Rice on a departed member, Mrs. Oakley (Hazel) Smith, who passed away in March. Mrs. Smith had been a member for many years of the Local society, was a Dominion Life Member and had served faithfully and enthusiastically as member and in several terms as an officer of the society. Special music was presented by Mrs. Minnie Clayton of Digby, who sang "Let Me Be Worthy," and Mrs. Marguerite Brown of Weymouth Falls, who sang "How Great Thou Art." They were accompanied on the piano by Miss Joanne Frankland.

The Little River W.M.S. members sang "There Is A River" and were accompanied by Mrs. Ava Gidney. Mrs. George P. Allen of Bridgetown, immediate past president of the Annapolis-Digby Baptist Association W.M.S., was guest speaker for this special service. Mrs. Allen brought an inspirational message and challenge on the theme of spring cleaning the windows of our lives.

A social hour followed the service in the Vestry of the church served by the W.M.S. members and assisted by Mrs. H.H. Weir, Sr. During this time the ladies of Smith's Cove were glad to see their former president, Mrs. Alice Landers, who now lives in Bridgetown and accompanied Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Joyce White, also of Bridgetown on the trip to the Cove.

Tiverton

(Mrs. John P. Outhouse)

HOME TO STAY

After a period of eight months spent in Halifax Hospitals- the V.G., the Infirmary, the Rehab Centre following a swimming accident in which he sustained a broken neck, last August, Joseph Outhouse, Tiverton, has returned home to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Outhouse and family. Though confined to a wheelchair he expects to attend church services and Sunday School.

Miss Elizabeth MacDonald R.N. and sister, Mrs. Boyd, Rexton, N.B., spent Monday with Miss Mariam Clifford.

Mr. and Mrs. John Outhouse and son, Lee made a business trip to Wilmot on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Waterman, North Range, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Outhouse on Sunday.

The Westport Firemen's Ladies Auxiliary held a meeting on June 4th in the I.O.O.F. hall, with a good attendance. New officers were elected. Mrs. Mary Graham replacing Carole Frost as president. Carole Frost was elected Vice-president, Mrs. Verna Williamson was re-elected as secretary-treasurer.

Plans were made for another Olden Times Day. This event was a huge success last year, thanks to the hard work of the Fire Department, the Auxiliary and the support of the people of Westport and many others.

A great deal of money was also raised during the past year through dances, lunches, pizza parties, etc. In spite of serious setbacks the outer part of the recreation-fire hall is nearing completion, however much work remains to be done to the interior. The L.I.P. and Recreation grants will soon expire. From then on volunteer labor will be needed. Plans for the Olden Times Day include an auction, and fish chowder supper, a bazaar where plants, books, baked goods, home made items odds and ends and old things will be sold, races a bike parade and a dance. The people of Westport young and old are again asked to help make Olden Times Day 1976 an even greater success.

Lights Drift

With Tide

Members of the I.A.H. (I am His) club, Tiverton, held their final meeting of the season at Bear Cove, June 4.

After a sing-song and several skits a marshmallow, and wiener roast was enjoyed.

The highlight of the evening took place at dusk when all members lit their candles and sang "This Little Light of Mine." They then placed the lighted candles in the water. The speaker said the lighted candles presented a beautiful sight as they drifted out with the tide. She said when the group left for home the candle lights were still burning significant of our lives going out into the world as shining lights for all to see.

Miss Elizabeth MacDonald R.N. and sister, Mrs. Boyd, Rexton, N.B., spent Monday with Miss Mariam Clifford.

Mr. and Mrs. John Outhouse and son, Lee made a business trip to Wilmot on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Waterman, North Range, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Outhouse on Sunday.

Blames Adults Sports Program Failures

It isn't the kids who cause the sports program to fail but it is the adults who do not supply the leadership who play a large part in the failure when there is one. This was the chastisement handed out by Keith Bridgeo, Yarmouth, the special guest speaker at the School Sports Banquet held at the Islands Consolidated School on Friday evening. The banquet marked an especially successful year in sports at the I.C.S., attaining in some instances provincial championship.

One of the ways in which adults can help is in transportation Mr. Bridgeo said as this is one of the most difficult phases of the sports program. Travel through sports, he remarked, is a good way to see the country and to meet people. It is an inspiration for future sports and future life.

The speaker saw many ways in which sports helps to improve life and make it successful. He attributed his employment with retarded children having been given to him because of his own sports background and ability because of this to care for the needs of the handicapped.

In sports, as in life, Mr. Bridgeo said, strive to keep working towards that which is better. It is a sacrifice in time, he said, to be in sports but he gave proof from his own experiences which proved it all worth while. He told the students that they could be good athletes but they can still be good in academic work and he, himself, had to hitchhike home from school after spending extra time in sports.

Mr. Bridgeo, a sports editor with the Fundy Group Publications in Yarmouth and is a keen sportsman, especially in baseball. He has done counselling and has worked with retarded children.

He was introduced on Friday evening by Mr. Tudor of the Islands Consolidated School and thanked by Kim Elliott.

C.C. Edwards, inspector of school for Digby and Annapolis Counties praised the school for its blend of academic and athletic programs, saying that it is the best kind of education given in the Province of Nova Scotia. He complimented the School Board, Keith Manzer, supervisor; the staff and students on their amazing sports record from a program of no organized sports seven years ago to provincial recognition this year.

Islands Consolidated School marked a special occasion on Friday evening when a Sports Banquet was held to honor those who had contributed so much to the success of sports in the year 1975-76. Among the outstanding girl athletes were left, kneeling, Lorna Crocker (soccer), right Wendy Thurber (basketball). Back-left to right, are Wendy Titus (basketball) Joy Delsey, (floor bowling) Jane Barnaby (basketball), Betty McDormand, (Darts), Ruth Ellen Robicheau (volleyball), Dawn Thurber (softball) and Kelly Welch (hand ball).

Mr. Edwards referred to the athletic program as educational and as preparation for life and in his remarks to the students and adults present that "we live what we learn and we learn what we live."

The Sports Banquet on Friday evening was presided over by the school supervisor, Keith Manzer who traced sports progress in the Islands Consolidated School and explained their House System in sports which aroused competition and aided student involvement. He reviewed each achievement and success until the program expanded to the present year, the finest year in sports the school has had. Mr. Manzer extended appreciation to all those who contributed to their success, the students, the teachers, those who arranged transportation, the Digby Municipal School Board, the Royal Canadian Legion, Freeport. He said the name of Islands Consolidated has extended further than Freeport and the Islands and especially remarked of the banner year in badminton where the school came third in the province, and Steve Comeau became champion of the whole province and they had won the South West Nova Trophy.

The dinner began with the blessing by Mr. Gale and closed with award presentations. Team trophies went to Steve Comeau, softball, soccer, basketball; Randy Elliott, floor bowling, handball; Tony Thurber, darts, volleyball; Steve Glavin, soccer. Outstanding boy players were Billy Howard, basketball; Everett Pyne, floor bowling; Randy Elliott, Bantam Hockey, handball; Tony Thurber, volleyball; Steve Comeau, basketball and softball; Gerry Bailey, darts and Jeffrey Leeman, soccer.

Outstanding girls were Wendy Thurber, basketball; Joy Delsey, floor bowling; Kelly Welch, handball; Ruth Ellen Robicheau, volleyball; Wendy Titus, basketball; Dawn Thurber, softball; Betty Ann McDormand, darts and Lorna Crocker, soccer.

Other recognitions went to Jane Barnaby, most improved player in basketball; outstanding hockey player, Ronnie Dextor; outstanding soccer player, Lareta Welch; Billy Howard, sportsmanship and Jimmy Titus.

Those taking part in the presentations were Edward Donovero, Mrs. Raymond Tudor; Mr. Manzer, Mr. Gale, Warden Wilfred Swift, Councillor John Thurber and Inspector of Schools, C.E. Edwards.

Reflecting To 1946

School closings were much in the news in the June 13 issue of The Digby Courier but some changes have been made in the past 30 years. F. C. Purdy was Supervisor at the Digby Academy and announced the School Closing program for the term. First of all they were to have the Sea Cadet inspection at the grounds behind the old academy (red brick building, Queen St.). In the evening there was the Junior High graduation at the Community Hall and school displays. The common school closing was in the morning of the next day and on Sunday evening the annual Baccalaureate Service was to be held in the Trinity Anglican Church.

A complete list of teachers for the 1946-47 school year was issued. Grade 1 complete through high school would have 17 teachers. Of the total staff only one, Mrs. Philip Kaye, Grade two, is now on the Digby teaching staff. There was a class known as the "overflow room".

Installation of Radar equipment on the Princess Helene, Canadian Pacific steamship across the Bay of Fundy, was made. The equipment of most modern design greatly increased the safety when visibility was poor and showed continually all objects in the water around the vessel, according to the tests made about eight miles from the Nova Scotia coastline.

The "Elizabeth Cann", sister ship to the ill-fated Robert Cann which sank in February, went aground at Cape Spencer near Saint John. The Elizabeth Cann was one of the Fundy's best trading boats carrying cargoes between Harborville, Margareville, Canada Creek, Halls Harbour, Saint John, Parrsboro and Yarmouth. The vessel was in charge of Capt. George Merriam.

J. J. Brittain was heading up "Blitz Day". This was the National Clothing Drive for overseas clothing donations. Mr. Brittain was chairman.

C. H. Robertson had just resigned as Digby General Hospital manager.

Like many places, Digby struck a building boom. Among those mentioned as building homes were Burgess Van Tassell, Harold Surrence, Guy Van Tassell, Town Clerk, C. W. Smith, Boyd Haynes and Victor Dukeshire.

Mental Health Centre Gets $14,042

The Digby-Annapolis Mental Health Centre will receive a grant of $14,042 to develop a bilingual educational resource in the community about health problems and services. The announcement made by Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde said that seven students would be involved in the program.

There are 25 projects funded in the Atlantic provinces through the department's Health Activities Summer Employment Program for Students (HASEPS) at a cost of $137,025.

Under the terms of the program 76 post-secondary students in these provinces will obtain summer employment with the voluntary health and health-related organizations which have received funding. HASEPS is a program of the Health Programs Branch of the Department of National Health and Welfare administered with the assistance of the Canadian Public Health Association.

Since the program was announced on March 15, students have been encouraged to apply to Canada Student Manpower Centres. Voluntary organizations are required to contact these centres in their recruitment of candidates for projects.

Married 49 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Dakin, Centreville, celebrated their 49th wedding anniversary in Bowmansville, Ontario, on May 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Dakin are visiting their son, Milton and Mrs. Dakin who gave a turkey supper in their honor. There were 20 present including eight grandchildren. Also present were Mrs.

Dakin's brother, Melbourne and wife of Hampton, Ontario and daughter, Mrs. Carolyn Buckner, of Bowmansville and Mr. and Mrs. B. Killam of Hampton. An evening lunch was also served.

Mr. and Mrs. Dakin plan to return to Nova Scotia by car at the end of June with their daughter, Mrs. Guy (Lorraine) Marshall.

Legion To Change By-Laws

Among items to be dealt with at the regular Digby Legion meeting on Monday, June 21 is a motion to amend the branch's by-laws and the election of a second Vice-President.

A notice of motion to amend the by-laws was given at the Legion's May meeting. A committee headed by Comrade Guy VanTassell has been busy re-writing the existing by-laws.

The election was made necessary after Comrade Charlie Francis was sworn in as Legion president last month. Second Vice-President, Comrade David Wood, moved up as First Vice-President, leaving the Second Vice-President position vacant.

+Buy your ground beef no more than a day before the barbeque unless you plan to freeze the meat.

-Thaw frozen meat in the refrigerator to prevent the growth of bacteria. Once thawed, do not allow this meat to stand unrefrigerated for more than an hour at the most. If the wieners are vacuum packaged and are frozen, break the seal before thawing and thaw only in the refrigerator. Barbeque all the thawed wieners that day to avoid spoilage.

-Always wash your hands thoroughly with soap and hot water before and after handling raw meat. Do not handle meat if you have cuts or sores on your hands.

-Cook hamburgers and wieners in batches small enough to be used quickly so that they do not stand around to allow bacteria to grow.

-Use sufficient ice packs in your coolers to keep food which will be transported sufficiently cold to prevent spoilage.

Your family may enjoy meals every day without problems, but on hot summer days, when meals are transported without adequate refrigeration, bacterial growth can be a very real problem. Bacteria can cause food poisoning. All that they require to grow is the right combination of time, temperature and moisture. Treat your food with respect and prevent an unpleasant ending to what was a happy barbeque.

'Examinations Have Value'-MacAskill

"In dispensing with formal examinations we may unwittingly have dispensed with some of the good educational qualities and practices that examinations were designed to test," Hon. Maynard MacAskill told the annual meeting of the Nova Scotia School Boards here Saturday.

"Examinations do have value; they offer an incentive to the students, forcing them to concentrate on learning and really mastering ideas and their application. They give some guidance to teachers. Above all, they provided a proof of proficiency verified by an objective authority external to the school."

Referring to student assessments which have replaced examinations all over North America, Mr. MacAskill suggested more regular and reliable testing procedures may be required. He did not, however, advocate a return to the pre-1971 type of examinations.

"The elimination of failure is not necessarily a bad thing for some people who cannot take failure. But what about these who are spurred on by it to greater efforts?" the minister questioned.

Mr. MacAskill warned that the "back to standards" call in education may obscure the real concern. "The real issue that is being obscured by all the talk of standards and going back is that what we need to do is go forward to better standards."

Among today's needs in education, Mr. MacAskill included the need for a further reliable means of measuring school progress, and to communicate with parents and the public regarding the state of progress. "Indeed, more involvement and understanding by parents is perhaps our greatest need."

In his call for a more regular and reliable means of evaluating and monitoring performance, Mr. MacAskill said "we need a reliable means of identifying weaknesses. We need this so that we can take steps to correct weaknesses."

"It is not here so much a matter of examinations being wrong, the Minister said, "rather of being used wrongly in the past."

"We are not so much interested in the ability of students to memorize and pass exams, as in their grasp of basic concepts and their skill and in applying these."

He recommended "various forms of internal and external skill testing at regular intervals during a student's progress through school."

Noting complaints from universities regarding the standard of education of students they now admit, Mr. MacAskill said universities are not admitting a larger segment of the high school population and "they must face the challenge to improve standards - in the same way as school systems must face it."

Another reason given for the apparent lowering of standards is that schools are educating more students longer and many students are now finding their way into college who would not have done so 40 years ago."

Schools, he said, should not merely be considered as a training ground for universities. Yet, he noted, the majority of courses in high school are still directed to university entrance.

He summed up the function of today's school as - to provide a grasp of the basic skills of language, communication and computation, and to provide opportunity for students to develop as whole citizens, intellectually, morally, socially and creatively - to the fullest extent of their capability.

Mr. MacAskill praised school boards for acting responsibly with regard to financial restraint "as shown by your patient appeals and by your painstaking efforts to ensure that our limited resources are utilized as equitably and as effectively as possible."

ABTRC Joins Battle Against Ferry Rates

The Annapolis Basin Tourist and Recreation Council has added its voice to protests over rising fares on the Princess of Acadia ferry service between Digby and Saint John. The new fares went into effect earlier this month.

Tourec members voted to condemn the Canadian government for apparent collusion with C.P. in raising fares on the ferry. They claim the move is detrimental to the tourist industry of Nova Scotia.

The Council also went on record as protesting the condition of Victoria Street, Digby, as an entrance route for tourists to the province. Ed Knowlton will send a letter of concern to the town and news media.

The condition of the old Bear River bridge abutments was brought up. An effort will be made to have the safety factor there improved.

Penny Gott complained about the poor telecommunication service in this area. A protest letter is to be sent out on this matter.

Dave Irvine informed members that the Upper Clements Wildlife Park would officially open on July 9. The animals are now on location.

He said the tourist publication "The Basin" would go to press on June 23 and would be out a few days later.

Syd Webber attended the meeting on behalf of the Digby Yacht Club. He said the club is prepared to do what it can to help with Scallop Day. The guest will be invited to attend an upcoming Scallop Day committee meeting.

Proposed hours for the town's tourist information bureau were protested. Dave Irvine said the bureau will be open from 12 noon to 6 p.m. Concern was expressed for tourists entering the town in the morning via the ferry.

PROTEST FERRY FARE HIKE

The Digby Board of Trade approved a strongly worded resolution of protest against recent increases in fares on the Princess of Acadia at the June meeting.

The board members are hoping to have the resolution adopted at the Annapolis Valley Affiliated Boards of Trade's annual meeting Saturday in Middleton. Several board members are expected to be present to verbally back the resolution.

Copies were forwarded to Joe Casey, MLA, and Coline Campbell, MP.

School Boards Speak For Parents

"The public must have a strong voice in school curriculum development, the setting of performance criteria, and the evaluation of school achievement," according to Mr. R.C. Atherton.

In a speech delivered to the annual conference of Nova Scotia School Boards Association, outgoing president R.C. Atherton, Kings County told board members that strong voice which must speak for the parents and the public when school decisions are being made. "We must establish close contact with parents and clarify educational objectives as the basis for local programs," Mr. Atherton said. "Further, we must become more knowledgeable in the area of school law. The growing trend in the United States and Western Canada for taking school problems to court will soon become the style."

Mr. Atherton said the Association must, "press the government for immediate commencement of the work involved in rewriting the Education Act," making certain the final result includes the Association views of what is needed and important, will require hard work on the part of the association executive.

The very good relations which we believe exist between ourselves and the new Minister of Education, The Hon. Maynard C. MacAskill, should contribute to making the work fruitful, Mr. Atherton said.

Technicians Graduate At Digby General Hospital

Four combined X-ray and laboratory technicians graduated at the Digby General Hospital in a special ceremony held at the Board Room of the hospital. Graduates were Miss Susan George, Janvri's Harbour, Cape Breton; Miss Mary Fleming, Middle Musquodoboit; Miss Janice Frankland, Digby and Miss Julie Roberts, Chezzetcook.

The certificates were presented by Dr. D. E. Lewis, Chief of Medical Staff and the caps were presented by Mrs. Heather Harris and Miss Carol Marshall.

Richard Applejohn, Chief laboratory technician, presided at the graduation exercises and extended a welcome to the guests on behalf of himself and the X-ray technician, Richard Moore.

F. C. Purdy, past president of the Digby General Hospital Board extended greetings on behalf of R. MacLeod Rogers, president, who was unable to be present. Mr. Purdy said this course has been offered at the Digby General Hospital for the past eight years giving the students basic principals in lab technology and radiological knowledge and has prepared them to go out to smaller hospitals to work where more advanced technology is not needed. He expressed hope that the graduates would find their work challenging.

Mr. Moore also extended wishes to the graduates that they might find their work to their satisfaction and contentment.

In his remarks Dr. Lewis greeted the graduates as part of the medical team and emphasized how valuable a member of the team a technician is. Diagnosis of a disease or illness is made much more easily by means of accurate X-rays, he said. He asked the students to bear with it if doctors are sometimes critical and skeptical as they must have repeat X-rays and lab tests to be sure they do not miss something of importance to the patient. He said that people trust their lives to the medical team of which the graduates are a part.

Tea was served for graduates, parents and friends in the cafeteria.

Education Minister Tours Digby County Schools

The one-day tour of College Saint Anne and Digby County schools by the Nova Scotia Minister Education, Hon. Maynard MacAskill, ended on Monday at the Digby Regional High School where the minister was entertained by the Digby School boards.

Accompanying Dr. MacAskill was Gerald McCarthy, assistant chief director of the education program and C. E. Edwards, inspector of schools for Digby and Annapolis Counties. At the Digby Regional High School, the guests were introduced by Mr. Edwards. On behalf of the Boards Captain Reginald Hazleton, chairman of the D.R.H.S. Board and Board of School Commissioners welcomed Dr. MacAskill.

In a few remarks Dr. MacAskill explained the purpose of the tour. He wanted to meet the teachers, learn of their concerns and answer their questions. He said he wanted to see the present facilities, find out what needs up-grading and in general familiarize himself with the school systems of the province.

Monday's tour began at the schools in the Clare Municipality after which he was entertained by the Clare School Board. A tour of College Saint Anne and luncheon followed.

At the Weymouth Consolidated, the minister, Inspector Edwards and Mr. McCarthy were welcomed by James Hanscomb, supervisor, who led a thorough tour of the building and drew attention to those facilities which needed up-grading. Most pronounced among them were the lack of shower facilities for gym purposes and the lack of a stage for the auditorium. The minister expressed amazement that the school had been built without shower facilities.

From Weymouth the party proceeded to Barton where they were met by Mrs. Brooks, principal, and staff and then continued on to the Digby Neck School at Sandy Cove where Miss Elizabeth McCullough is principal. In each of these schools Dr. MacAskill talked with the pupils as well as their teachers, much to the pleasure of both pupils and minister. A number of high school students also had an opportunity to converse with the minister at the D.R.H.S.

Two elementary schools in the town were visited by the touring party, the Elementary School on Queen Street and St. Patrick's School on Church Street. Although pupils had departed for home before this, Mrs. Frank Robinson, principal, pointed out the drawbacks at the Queen Street school as she toured the entire building, the original building having been erected in 1890 and the additional wing in 1948. Two points stood out, the noisy quality of the building and the difficulty in supervising due to the layout and lack of hallways in the structure.

At St. Patrick's teachers questioned Dr. MacAskill about the teacher cutback. The minister said that for the past few years the enrollment has been going down while the teaching staff has been increasing but now they are on right footing and full consideration can be given to the matter. He said there were no plans made to reduce the number of teachers even though reference had been made somewhere of a 1500 reduction by 1981. If by 1981 there were 20,000 students fewer by birthrate there would probably need to be a reduction of 1500 teachers but there are no plans for reduction. Reduction of teachers would depend on enrollment and not necessarily be over all the province. He also stated that the "special teacher" had not been included this year in the reduction and it is quite likely in some areas this might call for an increase in teachers.

Another subject discussed at St. Patrick's was the amalgamation of school boards. The minister said every co-operation would be given to school boards which considered amalgamation and he felt that now was the time for those people who now belong to the boards to get together if they wished.

come forward, Mr. Atherton said, and "we'd find ourselves rebutting it. The Education Act, per se, preceded our inauguration, and that's why I say its antiquated." He guessed the act had been in effect for some 50-60 years.

Care has to be taken when talking about re-writing a new education act, Mr. Atherton said, and "We've got to be very careful that when that is done, it doesn't have to have any patchwork done to it."

Mr. Atherton expressed satisfaction, of late with reaction to the association from the department of education. He said resolutions emerging from the three-day meeting will not be based on monetary considerations entirely. Whereas the association is talking about principle of education, he said, the expected reaction from government will be a good one.

"I wouldn't hesitate to say it's the largest", Mr. Atherton said, commenting on attendance at this meeting. "The interest among school board members is certainly great."

"We feel that as a result of the present situation in education, school boards are going to emerge as a much stronger body than they have ever been heretofore."

Buchanan Predicts Early Election

Progressive Conservative Leader John Buchanan was in Digby on June 10 for the annual meeting of the Digby County Progressive Conservative Association.

He was welcomed on behalf of the town by Mayor Charles Haliburton. Officers elected at the meeting were John Comeau, president, replacing Richard (Dick) Levy; Owen Hankinson, vice-president; Ryan Lockhart, secretary, and Keith Raymond, treasurer. The report of the nominating committee was presented by chairman Frank Marshall of Bear River.

By motions, the association decided to form a publicity committee and to appoint five vice-presidents to represent the various districts of the constituency. On accepting the association presidency, Mr. Comeau committed himself to an open association in which everyone can have input.

Mr. Buchanan took the opportunity to predict a provincial election within the next 12 to 18 months.

He said that government would go to the polls before a 60 per cent power rate increase. It would come out with a new plan for the Sydney steel plant, and attempt to benefit from the federal government's imposition of a 200-mile fishery-control zone.

The P.C. leader stressed local organization and said the party is on the move, most noticeably in the Annapolis Valley.

Mr. Buchanan was introduced by Charlie Haliburton, and he was thanked by John Comeau.

New Education Act Sought

The present Education Act in Nova Scotia is "well out of date," R.C. Atherton,

Mr. Haliburton said it is the duty of the party to capitalize on the interest and momentum raised by the party's national convention.

Democracy is based on interested people taking an active part in politics, Mr. Haliburton said. He noted the P.C. party has been in power so little in this century that one can hardly say we have a two-party system in this country.

Without change "democracy suffers". If you're always on the outside it's difficult to contemplate what it is like on the inside. But, he said, those always on the inside, become "completely immune to criticism."

Mr. Haliburton warned the association to be on guard against any "slick" campaign in the next election. The P.C.'s he said, must be prepared in terms of organization and knowledge.

outgoing president of the Nova Scotia School Boards Association, said here Saturday at a press conference.

Not only do we have an Education Act, Mr. Atherton said, we also have half a dozen other acts which have a bearing on education. "And all of these have to be examined and come under the one umbrella."

"We should have one education act which should govern education in Nova Scotia. We shouldn't have to refer to other acts and regulations of other acts, Mr. Atherton said.

"The Education Act is certainly sufficiently important...it's one of our major expenses, and it should be an act unto itself."

Mr. Atherton termed the association's approach to the act this year as a "breakthrough". This is the first time, he said, the association got down to a re-writing of the Education Act.

Prior to this year, an amendment to the act would

 Miss Nellie Amiraault, 62, died Monday at Digby General Hospital. Born in Plympton, she was the daughter of the late Wallace and Susie (Amiraault) Amiraault. Surviving is a sister, Millie (Mrs. Daniel Comeau), Digby.

The body was at Jayne's Funeral Home, where rosary was recited at 8 p.m. Tuesday. Service was held Wednesday at 11 a.m. from St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, Rev. Leo Maillet officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery.

THOMAS L. SAULNIER
 Thomas Le Saulnier, 86, of 8 Gardener Street, Yarmouth, died Sunday at Yarmouth Regional Hospital.

Born in Saulnierville, he was a son of the late Tatophile and Mary (Gaudet) Saulnier. He was a retired employee of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

He is survived by four daughters, Elizabeth (Mrs. James Muise), Mrs. Ida Muise; Patricia (Mrs. Patrick Smith), Mrs. Thelma Robicheau, all of Yarmouth; and one sister, Mrs. Mary Smith, Digby. He was predeceased by his wife, Jeanette; a son, Frank and a daughter Martha; two sisters and 12 brothers.

Service was held Wednesday at 10 a.m. in St. Ambrose Cathedral, Rev. Harlyn Deon officiating. Interment was in Our Lady of Calvary cemetery, Yarmouth.

CPL. DONALD JEFFERSON
 Donald Jefferson passed away on June 11th in hospital at CFB Gagetown, at the age of 47.

Born in Deep Brook he was the eldest son of Mrs. Dorothy Jefferson and the late Cleveland Jefferson.

He joined the army 22 years ago, and during that time, 9 years was spent on overseas duty in Germany. For the past few years he has been stationed at CFB Gagetown at section R.C.E.M.E.

Surviving beside his mother is one sister Marjorie Mrs. Stanley Webb of Auburn; three brothers, Gerald, Claire, and Warren all of Deep Brook.

The body was accompanied by Lieut. McEwan to Jaynes funeral parlor in Digby on Saturday.

Funeral service was held in the Deep Brook Baptist Church on Monday at 2:30 with Rev. Wallace Jordan officiating.

Members of the Royal Canadian Legion; Clementsport Branch, were pallbearers and interment was in the family lot in Clementsville.

Refreshments were served by the Committee in charge.

More Christianity Needed

BOSTON: Christian Scientists from around the world were told this week that the only sufficient response to challenges confronting churches in general and their denomination in particular is "more Christianity."

"Not just the Christianity that acknowledges Jesus as the Savior," said Lenore D. Hanks, Chairman of The Christian Science Board of Directors, "or the Christianity that may be a sort of lip service. But, the Christianity that follows the Christ so closely it adds spiritual dimension to everything we do."

An estimated 10,000-12,000 members of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., were on hand to hear the keynote message, including several from the Province of Nova Scotia. Many of the denomination's more than 3,000 branches in 57 countries were represented at the 81st Annual Meeting.

Accounts of healing solely through prayer were shared throughout the meeting. "In Christian Science, Christianity and healing are forever linked," Mrs. Hanks commented. "We can't really have one without the other."

In order to involve members more deeply in the meeting, they were invited six months ago to submit talks and questions. More than 250 talks were received and many played an important part in the three days of inspirational discussions and church reports.

Mrs. Hanks spoke frankly about a decrease in numbers of those in the healing ministry of Christian Science and of the need for strengthening branch church membership in many areas.

Historian Robert Peel recalled to members that Mary Baker Eddy's first address in The Mother church "didn't indulge in a paean of triumph. Instead she gave them the quiet reminder: 'Christianity is not superfluous. Its redemptive power is seen in sore trials, self-denials, and crucifixions of the flesh. But these come to the rescue of mortals, to admonish them, and plant the feet steadfastly in Christ.'"

Members were asked to commit themselves to four objectives: more objectivity in their lives; better healing; a stronger appreciation of church; and greater alertness to rising materialism in the signs of the times.

Marc Engeler, Treasurer of The Mother Church, denied recent rumors of financial crisis. "The Mother Church," he said, "has emerged from a worldwide recession in strong financial shape, with a sounder structure of income and wider base of support." He commented on reduced spending but emphasized the continuing need for strong, regular financial support for current operations.

The new President of The Mother Church is Naomi Price of London, England. Mrs. Price is an associate editor of the church's religious periodicals.

Flirting With Danger

HALIFAX—Householders who try to beat the high cost of heating their homes by installing wood and coal-burning systems, may be flirting with danger unless these systems are properly installed and maintained.

This warning comes from Insurance Bureau of Canada which represents most property-casualty insurance companies doing business in Canada.

"An increasing number of serious home fires caused by secondary heating units is being reported by insurance companies," IBC Manager Donald Tutt said. "Unfortunately, many people are not aware of the hazards involved."

The Bureau points out that the rising cost of fuel oil and natural gas has caused many homeowners to install simple boxstoves and Franklin-style solid fuel burning stoves. All too often these units are installed dangerously close to wooden walls, or are vented to chimneys that are not designed to withstand the additional heat of a wood or coal burning unit. And a major fire and explosion hazard is created if such units are connected to existing chimneys which are part of oil-burning furnace systems.

"The average consumer buying one of these stoves will also buy a chimney that is suitable for a maximum temperature of 1000 degree F—unaware that a wood-burning unit needs a chimney rated for a maximum temperature of 1800 degree F," Mr. Tutt points out. "And unless the chimneys of solid fuel burning units are cleaned out regularly, the accumulated soot poses an additional hazard raising the chimney temperature even higher."

The Bureau is urging all homeowners who have installed such secondary heating systems, or are contemplating doing so, to have them carefully checked for these dangers. They should also report installation of auxiliary heating units to their insurance company or agent.

Visits Parents In Weymouth

A welcoming dinner on May 29th was given by John's mother and father, Marion and Gordon Cameron. At this occasion Ms. Alison Killam, the Reverend Michael Boyd, and Adrian Potter and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Turner of Plympton were present.

John re-visited his former Alma Mater (Acadia University) in Wolfville on May 31st. This was followed by a birthday dinner party given by Mr. Raymond Jefferson for his wife, Clara (nee Nowlan) at the Old Orchard Inn, Wolfville.

Mr. Jefferson is well remembered as the Senior counsellor during Mr. Roy Claycomb's many years operation of Camp Alder-cliff.

Gilbert Cove

Sympathy is extended to the family of the late Mr. Asborne Handspiker who passed away suddenly at Digby Hospital recently. Also to the relatives of the late Mrs. Mary M. Morrisey.

Capt. and Mrs. Charles Melanson and son, Gary and friend, Miss Edith Hart of Halifax, visited Miss Edith Melanson. Also visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hersey and daughter, Mrs. Wilson Fitz and son, Allison of Digby, and Halifax.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Melanson visited their son and sister in Toronto. They travelled to Toronto via Air Canada. They motored to Ottawa to visit their daughter, Lorraine.

Mrs. Levina Melanson is visiting her mother and brother, Mrs. Lizzie Melanson and Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Melanson. She had recently returned from Toronto where she visited her sister and relatives.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Melanson home have been Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Melanson of Port Lorne and Sister Theresa of Sacred Heart Convent in Pittsburg, Penn. Mr. and Mrs. George White of North Range. Howard Melanson of Gross Coques was a dinner guest at the same home.

Wedding

TUFTS-BALSER

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Port Williams on May 27th when Emma Beatrice Balser of Barton became the bride of Irvin Leroy Tufts of Middleton. The double ring ceremony was performed by Reverend Donald Jackson, close friend of the groom.

The bride was gowned in pastel rose cut velvet and wore a corsage of rosebuds and baby's breath. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Her sister, Mrs. Anne Gates of Port Williams was her Matron of Honour. She was gowned in lime-yellow polyester jersey and wore a corsage of yellow carnations. Norman Hall of Middleton supported the groom as best man. Mrs. Donald Jackson also attended and wore a blue gown with corsage of blue carnations.

Following the ceremony the members of the wedding party motored to the Old Orchard Inn where a delightful dinner was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Tufts spent several days in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, visiting old friends and of interest, and enjoying the beautiful countryside.

Mrs. Tufts will continue to operate Balser's Rest Home in Barton. Mr. Tufts is associated with Valley Drug Mart in Middleton.

IN MEMORIAM

COOK - In loving memory of our dear nephew, Kenny Cook, who passed away June 4, 1970.

Sadly missed along life's way. Quietly remembered every day.

No longer in our life to share. But in our hearts he's always there.

Lovingly remembered by AUNT ELSIE, UNCLE JOHNIE, Toronto, Ontario.

JOHNSON - In loving memory of a dear mother, Dorothy Lillian Johnson, who passed away June 24, 1970.

We miss you mother and always will.

An empty place no one can fill. You fell asleep without good bye.

But memories we have will never die. Always loved and remembered by DAUGHTERS:

AMY AND INA, SON ROBERT AND GRAND-CHILDREN.

MCKINNON - In loving memory of a dear mother, Nellie McKinnon, who passed away June 13, 1965.

Mom you are not forgotten. Though on earth you are no more.

Still in memory you are with me. As you always were before.

Always remembered by daughter HILDA.

IN MEMORIAM

WOOD - In loving memory of Walter F. Wood who left me June 20, 1972.

Life works out a pattern on the tapestry of Time. The threads of hope, of love and grief, of fear and faith sublime.

- of happiness and bitterness, of joy and misery - are stitched into the great design of human destiny.

Within so vast a frame our tiny patch we cannot see. Too close we stand to trace the pattern on the tapestry.

- But someday looking from afar, perhaps we shall behold - Our little bit of the design, our own small thread of gold.

Lovingly remembered by wife, Connie.

HANDSPIKER - In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Clyde Handspiker, who passed away June 19, 1961.

Beautiful memories are wonderful things. They never wear out, they never get lost.

And can never be given away. To some you may be forgotten.

To others a thing of the past. But to us who loved and lost you.

Our memories of you will ever last. Always remembered by MOM AND DAD AND SISTERS: HELEN, LOUISE, BEULAH, AND BELVA.

LENT - In loving memory of my dear husband, father, Francis Lent, who passed away June 19, 1967. WIFE LUCY.

Attend W.I. Convention

On Wednesday, twenty-two members of the New Tusk and area Women's Institute attended the Nova Scotia Women's Institute Western Area Convention held at the Lawrencetown Survey Institute, Lawrencetown. The theme for the day was "Homesteading".

Registration was at 9:30 a.m. and with a lunch of coffee and cookies every one was ready to begin activities at 10:00 a.m.

Business, addresses, introductions were started after "O Canada" and Mary Stewart Collect, Welcome and introductions were completed.

A dinner was served at noon. The afternoon session started with a singsong and voting on resolutions and other business matters.

Everyone enjoyed visiting the many booths with all the many interesting exhibits of Governments. Displays, Hand Craft Displays, Old Fashioned Kitchen and many more to numerous to mention. The hand craft booth, including beautiful quilts, beautiful ceramics and ever so many articles one had to see to really enjoy. Four skits, which were introduced by Ann Patten were very much enjoyed by all present and much praise was given the actresses for the fine way each did her part. After the Hymn of Nations, during which time Pennies for Friendship took place, the meeting adjourned with "The Queen" Everyone left well pleased with the days activities.

criticism is at the wrong person, the one who works and not the one in the "rocking chair."

Rev. Ronald Stevens conducted the service and Mrs. Elton Arnold directed the choir in two special anthems.

On Sunday, June 20, there will be an exchange of pulpits at Grace United Church. Rev. Donald MacLeod of Kingston will be in charge of the service and preach the sermon.

Grace United Celebrates 15th Anniversary

Church worship needs preparation. It must be serious and sustained. Cares and problems should be left at home when coming to worship. Worship is to usher men and women into the presence of God. All must be done to the glory of God and not to be seen of men. The basic purpose of religion is to discover the wisdom of God. These were some of the remarks made by Major, The Rev. James H. MacIntosh, CFB Cornwallis, in dealing with the spiritual aspect of the church when he delivered the one hundred and fifteenth anniversary sermon at Grace United Church, Digby, on Sunday morning.

Mr. MacIntosh's subject was "what constitutes a Church?" The other two aspects were physical and social. In dealing with the physical aspect, the speaker said the church building is a holy place and deserves attention and respect and the utmost care. He remarked that in church as in other areas of life the inflation calls for greater sacrifice. The church's weakness lies in its membership.

Where Christ is there must be fellowship, love and harmony, Mr. MacIntosh said. Without these the church falls short of its responsibility to those who went before. In dealing with the social aspect of the sermon the speaker said criticism of the church is good, but there can be great injustice done if the criticism is negative. Too often the Right in the Town of Digby our summer events do not seem to be in too flourishing a condition. To-night there is supposed to be a Natal Day Committee meeting. True, there are other meetings going on such as the annual

Digby Mental Health Association. One hardly dares to promote any one meeting as it could have adverse effects on another. For instance, we know how important it is to have a good mental health organization, on the other hand we feel for those in charge of such events as Natal Day. It is a big job to be pulled through by two or three or a handful of people particularly when costs go up and money value diminishes. It might come to the place of deciding whether or not Digby is to have a Natal Day in 1976. Even that question should not be left in the hands of a few to decide. The responsibility is fairly heavy.

The Scallop Day Committee, too, seems to be working under difficulties. They also need many hands to make the work lighter.

Probably the most advanced in preparation is the Bear River Cherry Carnival. They are in a unique position. The Cherry Carnival has become a well known event, one of the best and most successful financially in the province. Indeed, it has become so popular and worthy that the committee does not usually have to seek the entrance of bands. They are more likely to be asked (free of charge) an opportunity to participate. The experience is valuable and the publicity beneficial.

Although of a smaller range, the Good Times Day at Smith's Cove is gaining popularity and can generally boast of a good financial gain. This Day follows closely on the heels of Weymouth Day, which is the first of Digby County's special summer events to get on the way.

For those here mentioned and those which are yet to be mentioned we urge the support of our summer events. Maybe the merchants have some ideas. Do they think these events pay off where they are concerned. How about the tourist businesses. It would be interesting to know how these feel and what support they can promise the committees.

Postal Rates

Domestic rate increases for third class and parcel mail as well as most special services and related fees were announced by Postmaster General Bryce

Mackasey today. The increases follow a rate of adjustment in first and second class mail announced last month by the minister. The cost of a 2-ounce third class addressed item will rise to 8 cents from 6 cents effective September 1 and then to 10 cents on March 1, 1977, maintaining that current 2-cent differential between first and third class addressed mail.

On May 21, Mr. Mackasey announced that the cost of mailing a 1-ounce first class letter would rise to 10 cents on September 1 and to 12 on March 1, 1977. On the same day, he announced a 20-percent increase would take effect on March 1, 1977, for second class mail.

The two-stage phasing of third class basic rates and the delay of rate action on third class addressed quantity rate, publishers' book rate and third class unaddressed until March 1, 1977, is designed to permit orderly adjustment to the new rate levels.

Another highlight of the changes announced by Mr. Mackasey is the September 1 implementation of a new parcel zoning structure based on the first character of the postal code that is more suited to operational and competitive realities, thereby reducing inconsistencies in the existing rate scale, and the introducing of a new "short-haul" rate zone.

Haying Underway For Digby Farmers

On Monday, June 7th, 1976, one farmer in the Digby area started haying for the 1976 season and with the excellent weather conditions recently, he was able to harvest his crop in good condition. Since that time, other farmers have started to cut hay, orchard grass and legumes such as clover and alfalfa.

With the early season, hay will generally be maturing much earlier than normal. Therefore, farmers cannot wait until the end of June of first of July to start haying. Early cut hay has the best quality with more nutrients per ton and it is very palatable to the animal.

In some cases farmers are considering a second crop of hay and would like to apply an application of fertilizer, such as 100 lbs of ammonium nitrate per acre, but the dry conditions experienced during the past couple week would not warrant this application. It has been advised that if there happens to be rain in the near future then the above application of fertilizer could be applied at that time.

Model Rocket Launched

The seventeen grade nine rocketry class students made thirty six successful launchings at the Weymouth school in the noon hour on Wednesday. In perfect weather the whole student body watched as the gaily coloured rockets swished to heights of over 300 feet.

Stephen Rice and Terry Thibault had rockets which topped the 400 foot mark.

The rockets were constructed by the students themselves in their Industrial Arts class under the direction of Mr. Laurie Stockdale.

The Olde Village Inn was built in 1895 and has been completely restored for your comfort and leisure in quiet and quaint surroundings.

ROOMS & COTTAGES

Spacious dining room in antique setting featuring delicious seafood.

2 Beaches, trails, within walking distance.

Rockhounds' paradise.

Painters' and photographers' delight.

The 8 rooms of the inn are decorated to preserve the charm of the building.

Completely carpeted.

All rooms have double beds.

The 2 cottages each have bathroom, 2 bedrooms and a cozy living area.

All buildings have fire alarm system protection.

Chargex and Master Charge Credit Cards are accepted.

Brightness and cheerfulness greets the guest just the minute he or she disembarks from a vehicle or walks up to the entrance of The Olde Village Inn, Sandy Cove. The tiered terrace steps to the front sunporch is covered with an attractive green indoor-outdoor carpeting which leads directly to the golden hue of the sunporch carpeted floor. Here wicker furniture in yellows create a relaxing atmosphere for those who want to enjoy the afternoon sun or the evening twilight hours.

The mood changes as one steps into the office and hallway where an appearance of luxury abounds in the soft blue wall-to-wall carpeting extending throughout the entire dining area, the stairway and the upstairs hallway.

Guests were greeted in this atmosphere on Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van, owners, as they arrived to congratulate the Vans on the opening of the once Harbour View Hotel, now the Olde Village Inn, which has been so attractively redecorated.

Residents of the Sandy Cove village and the surrounding area made up the afternoon guest list while business men, professionals and friends from Digby and other areas were invited to the evening function.

The Saturday opening was in the form of a buffet with the dining room waitresses and other employees for the summer on hand to attend to comfort and desires of guests.

White painted woodwork added to the decor giving The Olde Village Inn effect while the blue predominated throughout. Enhancing the effect also was the wall paper in white background and blue design. Attractive shelf arrangements of antique pieces in keeping with The Olde Village Inn theme in office and dining area brought admiration from Saturday's guests.

Eight to ten rooms are available for guests in the hotel proper and there are two available cabins. Each of the Inn bedrooms have white bedspreads but each individual room has its own characteristics giving a preference to guests who have particular tastes. The white spreads multiply the air of perfect cleanliness while floors and walls lend individuality in red wall-to-wall carpet and orange-red wallpaper pattern; green carpet with yellow flowered paper; taupe floor covering with red chairs and pink floral wallpaper while other floors have a floral pattern to the carpets and harmonizing shades in furniture and paper. Double beds, two in a room or one to a room and single bed rooms can be found at The Olde Village Inn.

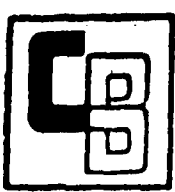

The kitchen has had its renovations providing some of the modern facilities of the day. Here John Gartland, a chef of international experience and his good wife look after those whose holiday delight is a gourmet appetite.

The Olde Village Inn was built in 1895 and has been completely restored for comfort and leisure in the usual quiet surroundings of the village of Sandy Cove.

Agenda For The Royal Visit

The completed program for the forthcoming visit to Nova Scotia of Her Majesty the Queen and His Royal Highness Prince Philip was released today by Premier Gerald A. Regan.

The Royal couple will arrive in Halifax aboard Her Majesty's Yacht Britannia at 9:15 a.m. on Tuesday, July 13, from Boston, and remain in the province until Thursday morning, July 15, when the party will depart for a two-day visit to New Brunswick before proceeding to Montreal, where the Queen will officially open the Olympic Games. During their visit to Nova Scotia, Her Majesty and Prince Philip will stay at Government House. The Britannia, which will dock at HMC Dockyard Jetty 5, will depart at midnight Tuesday for Montreal to await the Royal couple's arrival in that city by air on Friday, July 16.

The finalized program for Nova Scotia lists a number of events which were not contained in the original announcement made by the premier on March 23. These include a review by the Queen of a special presentation at Saint Mary's University Stadium by the Province's 734 participants in the Cultural Program to be associated with the Olympic Games, and a "TAFI Royal Festival Picnic" on the Campus of Acadia University, where Her Majesty will witness a number of events performed by Annapolis Valley Artists.

The three-day program follows:

Tuesday, July 13
 9:15 a.m. HMV Britannia Docks at Jetty 5, HMC Dockyard.
 9:50 a.m. Hon. Allan J. MacEachern, Secretary of State for external affairs and Nova Scotia Representative in the Federal Cabinet, is received aboard HMV Britannia and presented to Her Majesty.
 10:00 a.m. Her Majesty and His Royal Highness Prince Philip disembark and are greeted by Lieutenant Governor Clarence L. Gosse, M.D., C.M., and Mrs. Gosse, and Premier Gerald A. Regan, Q.C., and Mrs. Regan.
 Premier and Mrs. Regan present to Her Majesty and Prince Philip Members of the Official welcoming party comprising: Mayor Edmund Morris, of Halifax, and Mrs. Morris Mayor Eileen Stubbs, of Dartmouth, and Mr. Wilfred Stubbs, Warden Ira Settle, of the Municipality of Halifax County; General J.A. Dextraze, Chief of the Defence Staff, Department of National Defence, and Mrs. Dextraze; Commissioner M.J. Nadon, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and Mrs. Nadon. Vice Admiral Douglas S. Boyle, Commander of Maritime Command, and Mrs. Boyle.
 Her Majesty and Prince Philip proceed on foot to the Dockyard parade square to accept a Royal Salute, inspect a guard of honour, and receive members of the Provincial Cabinet and speaker of the Legislature and their wives.
 10:25 a.m. Her Majesty and Prince Philip are greeted at City Hall grand parade by Mayor Edmund Morris and Mrs. Morris and escorted to City Hall steps where members of the city council and their spouses are presented and Her Majesty receives a gift from the City of Halifax.
 10:35 Her Majesty and Prince Philip proceed on foot to the site of the New Halifax Metro Centre to turn the sod for official commencement of construction. Members of the board of Directors of Halifax Metro Centre and spouses are presented.
 11:30 a.m. Reception on Board HMV Britannia for members of the new media covering Her Majesty's Canadian tour and associated personnel.
 12:30 p.m. Royal couple attends luncheon at Government house hosted by Lieutenant Governor Clarence L. Gosse, M.D., C.M., and Mrs. Gosse.
 2:45 p.m. Royal couple visits Halifax Shipyards to inspect oil drilling rig and oil drilling ship under construction.
 3:20 p.m. Royal couple unveils plaque at Northwood centre marking final phase of building complex and meets residents.

3:55 p.m. Royal couple reviews "Nova Scotia's Royal tribute" preolympic cultural presentation at Saint Mary's University Stadium. Official welcome to be extended by honourable A. Garnet Brown, Minister of Recreation, and Mrs. Brown. (Because of restricted space, admission will be by ticket only. These tickets will be made available to the general public in advance at a time and location to be announced later).
 5:00 p.m. On board HMV Britannia, Prince Philip presents certificates to Nova Scotia and Newfoundland winners of Duke of Edinburgh Gold Awards and the Prince of Wales Yachting Trophy for 1976.
 8:30 p.m. Her Majesty entertains at a private dinner on board HMV Britannia.
 10:00 p.m. Reception on board HMV Britannia. (Following the reception, Her Majesty and His Royal Highness will transfer to Government House for remainder of the Nova Scotia visit. HMV Britannia will then sail for Quebec.)

Wednesday, July 14 10:15 a.m. Her Majesty and Prince Philip are received at Dartmouth City Hall by Mayor Eileen Stubbs and husband, Mr. Wilfred Stubbs. Members of the Dartmouth City Council and the Dartmouth Chief of Police and their spouses are presented and Her Majesty receives an official gift from the City of Dartmouth.
 10:55 a.m. Royal couple arrives at CFB Shearwater.

UNTAMED WORLD - Pachyderms - On Sunday, June 20, 6:00 p.m. EDT, ATV's "Untamed World" travels to Africa for a look at the dwindling elephant population that once wandered freely over the entire continent. The expansion of civilization has meant a drastic reduction in the elephant's feeding territory, so that the giant animal's only hope for survival lies in man's careful regulation of herd size and grazing land.

Club Members

The canoe trip scheduled for June 20th at Defaga Lodge will be held on the 27th as the 20th is Father's Day.

That's the 27th of June.
Did you say how come the ski-doo club is going canoeing. Well, we decided to keep the club going full speed ahead.

Why not ski-doo all winter and canoe all summer!
That's the way to keep a club together.

Have lots to eat, everyone brings a picnic lunch.
There will be a general meeting after.

If you don't have a canoe

a vacationer's Paradise of N.S.

Webster Young who resides in the U.S.A. has been visiting and traveling here with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Owen Young. He has now returned home.

bring your lunch and bring yourself.

The date again is June 27th
at Defaga Lodge, Haynes Lake. Come early or late no special time.

Club news reporter
Mike Dondale.

Deep Brook
(L. Vroom)

Mrs. Kaye Amero and daughter, Joann, spent the weekend with her daughter, Mrs. David VanValkenburg in Lower Sackville.

Mrs. Sadie Hynes had as her guest recently Mr. Spencer Sacco, of Newton Centre, Mass.

On Wednesday evening the Neighbourly club held their meeting in the Parish hall. It took the form of a birthday party and closing for summer vacation. The entertainment committee provided games. Gifts and cards were presented to those having celebrated birthday anniversaries. At the close of the evening refreshments were served and included a beautiful birthday cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holden of Dartmouth, spent the week with their daughter, Mrs. Malcolm McWhinnie, Mr. McWhinnie and family.

On Saturday afternoon the Deep Brook Baptist Dorcas Society held a food sale in the Baptist Church hall.

Mrs. Judith Grimes spent the weekend in Halifax, visiting friends.

Sympathy is extended the family of the late Donald Jefferson.

Mother-To-Be Honored

The home of Mrs. Layton Hinman was the scene of a surprise shower on Thursday evening when the members of the Wesleyan Church Auxiliary and friends gathered to honor Mrs. Bernard MacBride who is expecting her second child.

There were about 20 guests present and games were under the direction of the pastor's wife Debbie Hapeman and Carol Potter. The honored guest was the recipient of many useful items for the baby.

She was assisted in the opening of her gifts by her sister Judy MacBride.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by ladies of the Church Auxiliary.

Smokey Bear Is Back!

Again this summer Smokey Bear's Reading Club is visiting all the branch libraries and bookmobiles within the Western Counties Regional Library. During the summer months, children will be reading books on nature and the environment. If they read 10 books, they will receive AA Smokey Bear Vacation

Reading Club Certificate. Children registering for the Club will receive a Smokey Bear registration card, bookmark and booklist. All children up to 14 years old are invited to have fun this summer and to learn what Smokey knows about nature and the environment. Pre registration for the Yarmouth, Digby, Clark's Harbour, Shelburne and Lockport Branch Libraries will be June 23 - 30, with the program actually beginning July 2. For bookmobile borrowers, pre registration is the first week in July with the program actually beginning on the next bookmobile visit after that.

The Inn has been completely renovated with much white paint, lovely wallpaper, and wall-to-wall carpets, etc., etc. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Van much success.

Quality Forage

Since the beginning of May heat accumulation or degree days has been well above normal. This combined with a good moisture supply has provided very rapid and early forage growth. As a result many hay fields should be harvested.

High quality forage is influenced by several factors such as:

1. Species

2. Fertilization
3. Harvest Method
4. Maturity of the crop when harvested

By this time, farmers have long since decided on the first three factors, so I would like to focus on the maturity of the crop or harvest date.

High quality forage is harvested at some yield expense. A satisfactory compromise must be achieved between a high protein, digestible energy, and the reduced yield resulting from the earlier harvest.

Forage yield, in terms of dry weight, increased up to mid or late bloom. However, maximum feeding value is reached by early bloom with alfalfa, and very early heading with all our grasses such as timothy, brome, orchard and reedcanary. Beyond the early bloom stage of alfalfa, digestibility declines about 5 per cent per day. Because livestock eat less, total feeding value is reduced about 1 percent for each cutting day delay beyond early bloom. A delay in harvesting grasses will result in a more rapid decline in feed quality than occurs with legumes.

For top quality forage, harvest the first cutting of alfalfa at the very late bud to first flower stage; red clover, one-quarter bloom; birdsfoot trefoil, one-half bloom. All grasses should be in the very early heading stage.

Cutting early offers several alternatives in the management of a forage crop. It often permits taking off second cut and sometimes three cuts of alfalfa. If a second or 3rd crop is anticipated it must be fed proper amounts of plant food. If the first crop was 50 per cent or more legume, apply 2-300 lbs per acre of 0-0-60 fertilizer immediately after the first crop is removed. If the crop was less than 50 per cent legume apply 300 lbs per acre of 18-6-18.

A second alternative is to establish a new forage stand. A field that is run-out and ready for reseeding could be cut in early June, then harrowed once with a heavy disc. One or two tons of lime and 500 lbs of 5-20-20 2B or 12-24-24 is applied depending upon the ratio of grasses and legumes in the seed mixture. After one more cross discing the field is ready for seeding. Direct seeding in this manner has a number of advantages:

1. The land can be worked on dull days during haying
2. No erosion losses
3. One crop is certain and most years a second harvest is obtained from the new seeding
4. Weeds can be controlled by cutting the new seeding for hay or silage before weed seeds have developed

Permission For Swimming

Children Included In Kejimikujik Summer Interpretation Program

Saturday, June 19 is the opening date for this summer's Interpretation Program at Kejimikujik National Park. Until September 6, Park Interpreters will present daily events including slide-illustrated talks at the Outdoor Theatre, children's programs and guided events in many different areas of the Park. An Exhibit Centre, near Jacques Landing, features a short slide program and exhibits to aid in introducing visitors to the Park.

An Interpretation

Program is presented in Kejimikujik, and in other National Parks, to help participants understand and enjoy the wealth of natural features and intriguing human history of the Park. This program is meant for all Park visitors whether they are local residents making a day visit or campers staying overnight. Guided canoe Paddles are a specialty of the Kejimikujik program. The paddles, offered several times each week, are designed to explore our rivers and lakes requested by the school that the swimming be part of the Islands Consolidated School physical education program.

R. MacLeod Rogers, Q.C. requested, on behalf of the Digby Kiwanis Club, use of the Digby Municipal School buses for children to take advantage of swimming lessons at the Digby Kiwanis Swimming Pool on Mount St.

Tuesday's Board meeting announced the engaging of two new teachers for the Weymouth Consolidated School, David MacKinnon and Dianne MacNeil.

while offering an event suitable for the novice as well as the experienced canoeist.

Guided walks lead through some of the many forest communities concentrating on plant and animal life. Other walks visit an old farm or tell the story of the Micmac Indians who once inhabited the area. These events are leisurely strolls, offering something for visitors of all ages, while a special children's program is held three times per week for youngsters from 6 to 11 years old.

Programs for special groups can be arranged at any time of the year by contacting the Park in advance. For the latest information on happenings in the Interpretation Program enquire at the Park Information Office or at the Exhibit Centre.

Entertain For Birthday

On Monday evening at the dinner hour Mrs. Cecil Potter entertained the Anglican Guild when covers were laid for twenty at the beautifully appointed table. Delicious roast pork was served for which a fee was charged. This money was added to the treasury. A business meeting followed. This will be the last meeting of the Guild until fall.

The Ladies of the United Church Women met on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Gertrude to quilt on a Bow Tie quilt. There was also a short business session. Reports of all committees were favorably received. Plans were under discussion to paint the outside of Church. The Hostess served a lovely lunch at the tea hour.

An editorial sum of one hundred and twenty five dollars and fifty cents (125.50) was collected by Mrs. Bertha Haviland in the Clementsport area for the Canadian Cancer Society. This makes a grand total of 625.50 for Clementsport. Thanks to all the donors. This amount was collected by Mrs. Haviland alone.

The Golden Anniversary dinner of The Royal Canadian Legion held on Saturday at the Legion Hall was attended by nearly two hundred men and their wives. A dance followed in the evening when the "Journymen" Band from Kentville supplied the music. More details in another column.

Reflecting To 1946

What would we do about the Digby-Saint John ferry freight rates if we didn't have them to wrestle with. They were wrestling back in June 20, 1946. We read in The Digby Courier that the C.P.R. refused the Digby Board of Trade's demand that the same treatment of freight rates on goods shipped from Saint John to Digby via Princess Helene be given as to "beyond points". Meetings were held to try straighten out the matter. However, the C.P.R. claimed it was a D.A.R. matter. The Digby Board then enlisted the support of the Saint John Board of Trade and through them the Transportation Committee of the Maritime Board of Trade. A joint meeting of the C.P.R., D.A.R., Saint John Board of Trade and Digby Board of Trade did not materialize as rail officials deemed the meeting unnecessary.

See where the School Board made plans to continue consolidation at the Academy for another year. Wagner Tour buses were used.

The Digby Board of Trade slogan for their July 1 Fair was "Rink for Digby". Objective $4,000. Fair manager was William Troupe Sr. Another Board of Trade project was an athletic field for youth. They had purchased the old Digby Golf Course for a ballfield and open air rink, etc. It was mentioned that the Digby Red Raven Hockey Team (best known team in the Maritimes) dropped place after the old Victoria Rink fire and they hoped to revive the team.

Kiwanians were also busy in service work. Their special project for that week was entertaining patients at the D.V.A. Hospital. Prominent in performers of "Utter Relaxation" were Mrs. Helen Anthony, Mrs. Bessie Hayden, Mrs. Louise Stevens, Mrs. Harry Kirkpatrick and Robert Taylor. Kiwanians also presented the hospital with a new electric record player. The Kiwanian musicians also took pleasure in using for the first time in public performance the beautiful new piano mounted on portable platform presented by the I.O.D.E.

Arthur Sibley caught a one hundred and fifty pound sturgeon in a weir. The seven pounds of sturgeon roe or caviar was being sold at a fancy price.

Maritime Hospital Association met at Digby and 150 dieticians also attended a conference at the Pines.

Weather? It was dry, dry, dry, and a heavy shower relieved the situation. Could now stop boiling water by a notice which appeared in the Courier.

Forest Fires In 1975

The fire season was bad over most of eastern Canada during 1975. Dangerous conditions in many regions stretched from spring well into late summer. A total of 11,240 fires burned over 2,249,768 acres of forestland.

Many provinces noted the highest fire occurrence in years. Ontario had a record year and Quebec had the second largest number of fires in their history. Notwithstanding the large number of fires, and the abnormally dry and prolonged danger season, fire control forces were very successful in keeping damage to a minimum.

Much of the burning took place in areas where there was limited or no forest protection. Forest values in these remote northern regions are considered too low to warrant high costs of intensive fire control. Over 300 fires in this category accounted for 1,707,517 acres and Mrs. D. Randy Davis and grand-daughter Christa, in the heart of the Humber Valley, Corner Brook, Newfoundland.

of the total. The remaining fires - almost 11,000 in number - were restricted to approximately 542,000 acres.

This compares very favourably with the fire management record over the last decade.

Human carelessness continued to account for the majority of fires although some regions - like British Columbia - reported that almost half their total was caused by lightning and therefore not preventable.

As costs of suppressing fires increases, fire control agencies are finding it more and more important to distinguish between areas which need a high degree of surveillance and control from those areas where fire is less important to human terms and values protected relatively low.

She Finds Dressing Loyalists Is "A Pleasure"

By Sandra Davis
Staff Writer
Evening Times Globe

For some, sewing is a chore to be undertaken only as a last resort, but for Mrs. Robert Cormack, Saint John, N.B. a seamstress responsible for many of the costumes displayed during Loyalist Days, "It's a joy and a pleasure."

Last year, Mrs. Cormack made Squire John's outfit, costumes for persons depicting members of the landing party and for many individuals in need of a costume who approached her on a personal basis. She stresses she is not in business as a seamstress and prefers to sew for friends. She relents because she feels it is her duty to help make Loyalist Days a success.

"But I just can't cope with all the requests I've had to date," she said, "It would be nice if other people who can sew would get on the band wagon."

"This year I told myself I wouldn't get involved in sewing costumes for Loyalist Days. I've already turned many people away, but I do what I can. I only wish I had someone to refer these people to. Most people who sew don't want to become involved in costumes." But sewing a costume is not really that difficult, she stressed. "People have the wrong slant on this. Costumes don't necessarily have to be well constructed. They're worn only for a couple days and there is no need to finish or fit them perfectly," she said.

For this year's celebrations, Mrs. Cormack has relented to make outfits for members of Camp Gagetown who wish to play a part in the activities. This will involve an intricate bit of sewing for which no patterns are available but Mrs. Cormack has an asset most seamstresses lack. When approached with a sketch or design for a costume she is able to interpret it in terms of the sewing style the pattern demands and match it with the proportions of the client.

But this calibre of talent is not necessarily needed by a seamstress to enable her to sew a costume, "Most seamstresses are afraid to tackle men's costumes, especially. But a costume doesn't have to have all the work a tailor puts into a suit. It is no harder than making a lady's costume. And a man is so pleased that someone is able to make a costume for him."

Children's costumes are easy to make also, she said though it can become demanding when you are asked to reproduce, on a smaller scale. "It's a shame more children don't become dressed up and involved in Loyalist Days," she said.

"Mine just love to get all dressed up in their costumes."

For industrious folk, who are able to do a bit of sewing on their own, Mrs. Cormack said there are now patterns available in most outlets in Saint John for making various costumes. She recommends a heavy drapery material and advises that a brocade design be chosen, which would best depict the clothing style of both men and women during the Loyalist landing.

Mrs. Cormack was the former Jean Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Lewis, Gulliver's Cove, Digby Co.

Women Hear Panel On Church Work

The "Muriel Bent" Society met in the Vestry Thursday afternoon for their monthly meeting.

The devotional presented by Mrs. Tibbetts noted three mountain top experiences by Jesus before he came down into the valley to minister to physical, mental and spiritual needs. So we too must have our mountain top experiences to be able to meet the needs of those around us, Mrs. Tibbetts said.

As service was stressed in the devotional so pioneering was the topic of the program. A short panel was presented about Miss Maria Norris organizing the W.M. Societies and of Alexander MacDonald opening up Baptist work in the Canadian West.

Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Beland and Trevor Stark of Scarborough, Ontario, arrived on Saturday to spend two weeks with Mrs. Beland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stark and families. Trevor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Stark.

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stark were Mrs. Terry Dorey and two children of Halifax; Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Pulley of Bear River; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Trimmer and three boys of Mt. Pleasant; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stark Jr. and baby of Sea Brook; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Carty and three boys; Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Connelly and son and Mr. and Mrs. Randy Vantassel and two boys.

He leaves to mourn, his wife Lois and one daughter and two sons. One of their supporters is the Weymouth Church of Christ, also the Weymouth Women's Missionary Society. They have packed several boxes of food and medical supplies, etc. in the past for their mission.

Westport Men Win Prizes

On Sunday, June 6, residents of Westport travelled by boat and cars to Meteghan to attend the annual Blessing of the Fleet. It was a beautiful day and the function was largely attended.

In the boat races Westport men again won prizes-In the 6 cylinder race Eldridge (Squid) Garrison won first prize and was awarded the trophy for the second time. Kingsley Denton was first prize winner in the eight cylinder race and this was his second year for the trophy. Clyde Titus was the runner up in the eight cylinder race.

Mrs. Al Wilder, Alton Bay, N.H. was a recent visitor of her brother Mr. & Mrs. Earl Webber.

Mr. & Mrs. Roger King and son Shannon, Yarmouth are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. & Mrs. George Clements. Sunday visitors at the same home were Mr. & Mrs. Leonard Telfer and family of Yarmouth.

Bill Bigelow, P.E.I. spent a week visiting his mother, Mrs. Mary Bigelow and brother Nathaniel.

Recent visitors of Mr. & Mrs. Lloyd Frost were her sisters, Mrs. Dorothy Maas of Halifax and Mr. & Mrs. Red Pilon and family of Greenwood.

Mrs. Bernard Bowers and Mrs. Albert Moore spent a few days at Digby visiting Mr. & Mrs. Ted Woodman and called on Mr. & Mrs. Avery Crowell.

At time of writing Mr. Wickerson Lent is a patient at Digby Hospital. Mrs. Lent is visiting at Barton with Mrs. Margaret Lent.

Traffic Increased 22 Percent

The Princess of Acadia carried almost 17 per cent more passengers across the bay in 1975 than it did the previous year. In terms of people, the count jumped from around 173,000 in 1974 to over 202,000 in 1975. This was revealed on Wednesday evening by Barry D. Margetts, Montreal, General Manager Coastal Marine Operations of the Canadian Pacific Railway at a reception and cruise on board the Acadia. More than 100 from Saint John and Digby area enjoyed the cruise, eight being from Digby.

Mr. Margetts also told his guests that the number of automobiles moved by the Princess went up by more than 22 per cent. They carried over 46,000 cars in 1975, compared to 38,000 in 1974, and bus tours, increased by 11 per cent.

Finally, the most surprising statistics, he said, concern freight carryings. They rose significantly last year, by about 18 per cent.

In actual numbers, he said they moved about 19,700 trucks in 1975, about 3,000 more than carried in 1974.

In 1974 the Princess was sold to the federal government, based on a 1968 agreement. CP Rail was retained to operate the vessel, pending results of a government study. This arrangement was extended for another year last August, based on performance over the past year he said they expect a continued relationship with this operation.

In discussing the success, Mr. Margetts said it was because people want to make the voyage for reasons as simple as Saturday night dances in Saint John and Friday night dances at Digby. The staff's friendly, positive attitude helps customers relax and enjoy the crossing, he said.

The food services, too, have been improved by the addition of a speed lunch counter, which complements our cafeteria, he said. It's a bonus during the peak tourist season. Also a flexible schedule is a key reason why they are attracting both tourists and more freight business. When the Princess began operating in 1971, they had one round trip between midnight and early morning directed at truck traffic, with a day trip aimed at passenger and automobile volumes he said. They added a third round trip in 1972 to handle more tourist traffic, and maintained that service in 1973 and 1974. Last year, the Princess made three daily round-trip journeys during the summer, and two in winter.

The Princess begins its 1976 summer schedule on Friday. Three return trips will be made every day except Sunday, when the run will be made twice. And they are extending the summer schedule for an additional week in September.

Mr. Margetts also felt it was because fares have had a closer relationship to their operating costs than those of other Maritimes ferry services. He claimed that price increases in 1976 reflect only increased costs for the year.

However, Mr. Margetts attributed much of the success to increased advertising. He said that when you raise your marketing and advertising budget from $52,000 to $120,000 in one year, that's because you want to capture a larger share of a rapidly growing market. He said they expect a rise in tourism for both Nova Scotia and New Brunswick of between five and ten per cent.

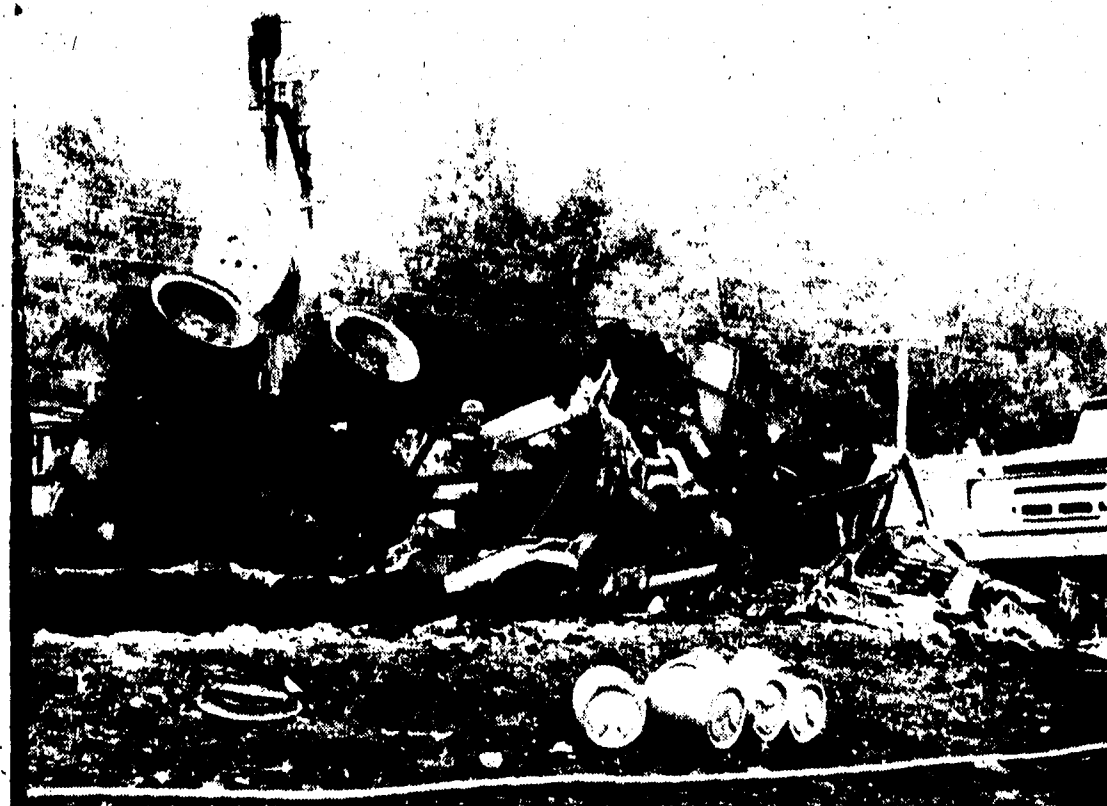

The Princess of Acadia is, an efficient business, the speaker continued, yet there's more to running the vessel than financial results, he said. Organized groups of socially disadvantaged and chronically handicapped citizens of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick can travel on the Princess. They have the chance to experience—at no cost—what so many of us take for granted. As a responsible corporate citizen, or as a good neighbor, the Acadia management wants to make certain they can provide these facilities to less advantaged neighbors, by an outings program. Several excursions are planned for this summer.

Coming into the present year, Mr. Margetts said that a large jump in freight traffic of 45 per cent highlighted the performance from January to April.

Automobile traffic increased by around nine per cent. Based on this trend, they are projecting a hike of 15 to 20 per cent in freight volumes for 1976 and both passenger and automobile traffic to go up by six to eight per cent. Bus tours are running about 20 per cent ahead of last year's volumes. They should grow by another ten to 15 per cent this season, he remarked.

Gasoline Truck Explodes

A Bridgewater area man was sent to Digby General Hospital after a gasoline truck explosion in Deep Brook, Monday afternoon. Carroll Fancy, 34, suffered burns to about 36 percent of his body.

Digby RCMP report the truck apparently went out of control on a turn. The tank, with a capacity of 7800 gallons, exploded after the truck overturned. No other vehicles were involved. Mr. Fancy was conscious when transported to hospital. He was apparently able to extinguish fire on his clothing after the mishap.

The truck, property of James R. Seaboyer of LaHave, Lunenburg County, was completely destroyed.

Highway One traffic was rerouted around the accident scene from about 3:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Some of it proceeded via Bear River, through to Clementsport and some up the Purdy Road through Waldec.

Four fire departments from Digby, Bear River, Smith's Cove and CFB Cornwallis, were at the scene of the accident. Thick black smoke from the fire could be seen for some distance. (Duchessene Photo)

McIsaac Speaks On Mental And Physical Health Merger

Mayor Roy McIsaac, Bridgetown, brought the Digby Mental Health Association up to date on the merger of the Digby Hospital Board and the Digby-Annapolis Mental Health Service Board under the Nova Scotia Hospital Commission. Mr. McIsaac was guest speaker at the annual meeting of Mental Health-Digby, held at the Digby New Horizons building on Thursday. The provincial Department of Health had proposed that all Mental Health Boards and or clinics should merge with designated hospitals in their respective areas. To date Digby Mental Health Board can claim to be the first and only Mental Health Board in the province to complete a merger with a hospital and to have effected it on the designated date of May 1st.

Mr. McIsaac was happy about the merger which, he said, might cause to be developed a more wholesome, more intelligent and more tolerant recognition of mental health as a basic field of medicine, on the part of hospitals and the medical profession generally. Referring specifically to the merger in Digby, Mr. McIsaac said the Board had been studying carefully, as much as two years ago, the possibility and the wisdom of combining with the Digby hospital in the programme of extended service and cooperative planning of overall health service in the area.

The basic functions of the Mental Health Centre will continue as they are, the speaker advised viz service to patients, cooperation with other agencies, organizations and professional personnel concerned with Mental Health and emphasis will continue to center on primary as well as secondary and tertiary prevention.

Mr. McIsaac felt the Mental Health Board should advise the Hospital Board on what is needed or expected. The input from the communities must come from the Mental Health Association working with and through the advisory committee. It is imperative he said that legislation be enacted at an early date to amend or replace the present inadequate Health Services Act. He urged the Mental Health Association members to pursue and prompt the required action on the part of the provincial government, whose responsibility it is to see that it's obligation to the people of the province is determined forthwith.

In such a merger, the speaker said, there are going to be problems of organization and administration to be worked out but all seems to be working smoothly to date and authority has been given by the Health Services Insurance Commission to engage a psychiatric nurse.

According to the speaker, administration of Mental Health in Digby, Annapolis and Clare will center in the Digby hospital. The Clinic Board will continue to have its own operating budget, which will be non-portable and thus allow the scope required to carry on the present well established community clinical activities. The Mental Health Centre executive director will be responsible under the hospital administration and hospital board, for the operation of all Mental Health services and the present staff of the Centre will continue as part of that department.

The meeting was presided over by Vernon Wessell, who was re-elected president of the Association. Other officers elected were Honorary President - Judge V. G. Cardoza; First Vice-President, Rev. Isaac Butler; second vice-president, Mrs. M. C. Gott; secretary, Mrs. Donald Buckler and treasurer, Ben Cullen.

Other Board members elected were Joseph Hattie, Mrs. Nola Jeffrey, Mrs. J. M. Wallis, Mrs. Mary Robert, E. B. Tufts, Herbert Warren, Ernest Ryan, Dr. Shahab Ahmad, Rev. John Stokoe, Rev. George Bell, James Gillis and John Englehart. The slate of officers and Board was presented by Mrs. Robert.

Mr. Ben Cullen, treasurer, reported revenue for 1975 of $1539 and expenses $696. His report also showed that $1928 has been received so far from the Cyclathon held in May and there is still more expected.

Rev. George Bell outlined a new program launched as

Judge Nichols Re-elected Society President

Judge John Nichols was on Tuesday evening re-elected president of the Admiral Digby Library and Historical Society when the annual meeting was held at the Digby Baptist Church. Other officers elected were Honorary Vice-president, Judge V.G. Cardoza; vice-president, Lawrence Banks, Jr.; treasurer, F.C. Purdy and secretary, Miss Mary Marshall.

The Board of Trustees include: Mrs. Donald Brown, Miss Louise Daley, Mrs. Richard Denton, Mr. Harold Emerson, Mr. Barry an outgrowth of the Community Youth Service Program in which adults having difficulty with reading and writing are given aid in this regard. Mr. Bell felt this was another opportunity for the Digby Mental Health Association to serve.

Miss Francene Quenneville, president of the Clare Association spoke on the newly formed organization.

Andrew Crooks, Provincial Mental Health Executive Director urged members to contact the M.L.A.'s to support a redraft of the present archaic health legislation. He also spoke on the Community Action for Troubled People program and the Partnership Action. There are so many troubled people, he said, that single groups cannot expect to do the job alone. He mentioned that the Digby group has had a tradition of involving clergy, teachers and other professionals and community minded persons to help. He also spoke on the merger in the Digby area and that integration has been advocated by Mental Health since 1955.

Mr. MacIsaac was introduced by Rev. John Stokoe and thanked by Judge Cardoza who also extended thanks to Mr. Crooks. Mr. Cardoza also suggested that the Association at the next meeting name six members to the Digby Annapolis Mental Health Service Board.

Jennings, Dr. Alexander Leighton, Mrs. Douglas Lewis, Mr. John Ritchey, Mrs. Percy Robert, Mr. Philip Robertson, Mrs. MacLeod Rogers, Mrs. Louise Stephen, Miss Regina Tate, Miss Marjorie Tupper and Mrs. Hubert Warne.

Ex-officio members are: Mayor Charles Haliburton, Warden Wilfred Swift.

Committee chairpersons for 1976-77 will be Finance, Mr. C. Purdy, Treasurer; Building, Mr. Emerson and Mr. Banks; Program, Mrs. Brown assisted by Miss Tate and Mr. Jennings; and Publicity, Miss Tate. The Museum Coordinator will be Mrs. Rogers, and the membership chairperson will be chosen June 28th.

Judge Nichols extended greetings to members of the Board and guests and Joseph H. Casey, MLA brought greetings from the Provincial Government and spoke about the provincial budget in regard to libraries and museums. He clarified the position of the government and answered questions posed to him from the audience.

Kenneth Eavis, Town Clerk, spoke concerning historical items which are at the town hall. He presented to the chairman, Judge Nichols, copies of the Town of Digby, Annual Reports dating between 1911 and 1954. The reports list the Mayors from 1890, owners of registered dogs, and expenses of the town. The expenses during 1911 for the Town Hall were $238. Mr. Eavis mentioned that he would be willing to talk more about the land grant document and other items of historical interest at a later date.

The Chairman told the group that Graham McBride is preparing a permanent exhibit regarding local schooners. Judge Nichols related briefly about the origins and establishing of the regional libraries in the area of western Nova Scotia. He emphasized the tremendous need to preserve the heritage.

He commented on the various written reports. The local Horticultural Society prepares the window boxes for the library building each year. Lawrence Banks and Harold Emerson do an efficient job in taking care of building needs. The furnace repair carried out by Gerald Stoddard was a huge task for the year financial wise. The community and friends were generous in their donations so that the furnace drive was met to install a new furnace during the winter. Other means of raising money, was the sale of Derby tickets capably handled by F.C. Purdy and Mrs. Rogers, assisted in swelling the funds.

Miss Mary Marshall, the representative from the Digby Board to the Western Counties Regional Library Board asked to be relieved of the position. Mr. Nichols thanked Miss Marshall for her faithful representation and Mr. Nichols was duly elected to take Miss Marshall's place. Mr. Philip Robertson will continue as a representative from the Town Council to the Regional Library Board.

Special mention was made of the Little Red Schoolhouse Grant from the provincial government which helped greatly in completing projects involving repair work for the museum rooms.

Mr. Lawrence Banks had overseen the work of the contractor. Mention was also made of the dugout canoe and interest shown as to how old it might be when the carbon-dating process is completed.

Requests for a book drop and more shelf space in the library section of the building will be met if permission can be obtained to provide these additions.

As 1976 is the tenth Anniversary year of the library discussion was given as to what to do to celebrate the decennial year.

Miss Tupper suggested that it was a capital idea to have a celebration and made the motion that the matter be referred to the executive to decide a date.

The group had been informed by Mr. Eavis, Town Clerk that the original land grant, 1797, prepared by the King's secretary, Wentworth, needs repair and to be photocopied so that a copy can be placed in the town hall and the original put in safe keeping. He suggested that a second copy could be prepared for viewing in the museum. He also told the group that the "Colt" pistol which has been put up for tender, is the original gun used by the police in Digby. Many people in the community feel strongly that the gun should be housed in the museum rather than being sold. Too many items are lost or sold which are of historical value or become historical in time. We need only think of the many truck loads of Nova Scotia furniture which leave our province and will never be seen in the area again because they have been bought by museums or people interested in the items. Our need to preserve the heritage of our area must be much stronger if we want to keep what rightfully belongs to the Digby area, the meeting felt.

By letter and drawing Curtis Dahl of Wheaton College inquired about a polychrome stone church work which was done between 1875-1894. A quote given within the letter states, "In Digby, Nova Scotia stands a small church, mute testimony to his handiwork (the builder)." Several copies of sketches are in the letter but could not be identified by anyone present.

Exhibits of materials from classes of Mrs. Carolyn Brown, and Mr. Howe of the Digby Regional High School and Mr. Jennings of the Elementary School were viewed by the people present. A film, "Bluenose Ghosts", based on the story of Helen Creighton's book was shown.

The next meeting will be Monday, June 21st, at the library building at 8 p.m. The main item on the agenda will be "Decennial Year: 1976; also, chairperson for membership.

Preliminary Work Underway

A conservation team is currently at work in Karsdale doing preliminary work required before the suddenly-renowned painted room is shipped to Ottawa.

The team is headed by Prof. Ian Hodgkinson, chief of conservation at Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario.

The job faced by the conservationists is a tedious one. All the flaky paint must be patted back in position, and a detailed accounting must be made of missing spots of paint, cracks in the plaster, etc.

When the time comes to take the gigantic mural apart, efforts will be made to make use of the cracks now existing in the plaster.

The actual removal process is not expected to begin for another month. Installation in Ottawa by the National Gallery of Canada will come in 1977.

The rumoured cost of the transfer operation is in the vicinity of $250,000.

The room, located at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hall, was painted in the 19th century. The mural depicts some rural Nova Scotia scenes and 19th century scenes of life in London.

News of the room's sale has prompted adverse reaction from a number of historic-minded people in the area and province.

One of the latest groups to protest the move was the Federation of Museums, Heritage and Historical Societies of Nova Scotia which went on record as protesting the "proposed removal of a valuable historic and artistic treasure from this province."

The federation urged that a joint provincial-federal effort should be instituted aimed at the purchase and retention of this mural in the Annapolis Royal area.

AIRPORT BIG STEP

Every improvement to Digby's activity, especially if it effects the economy is worth mentioning but a happening on this coming Saturday, June 26, is a big step forward and needs special mention. We refer to the official opening of the Digby Municipal Airport at Hill Grove on Saturday morning at eleven o'clock. Yes, it is news worth bringing out a 50 piece stage band to held celebrate the occasion and that is exactly what will be done on Saturday. From 10 o'clock on Digby's own Digby Stage Band will perform.

It was just this week that the 75 ft. by 3000 ft. paving was completed on the 4000 ft. runway. There is taxiway and aircraft parking available. All this was made available by the combined efforts of municipal, provincial and federal governments so among the guests, of course, will be representatives from these bodies. All the general public is invited too.

Right here is a good place to suggest that the public should turn out in vast numbers to witness this opening. Saturday could be the forerunner of some most exciting days for Digby. What does it mean to you and to me to have prospects of an active airport in our area. How will it effect tourism and how does tourism effect the people as a whole. Definitely, more people will be coming here by private or chartered planes when services are complete.

Then there are products such as fish to be exported from Digby and western Nova Scotia. No one need elaborate on the value of quick service.

There are many ways in which air travel to and from the Digby Municipal Airport can facilitate transportation.

There is also a Digby Flying Club established with about 40 members. Training has been given to young pilots. We understand an instructor will be on hand on Saturday and opportunities for training will continue. An aircraft flypast will be held, new aircraft can be viewed and plane rides will be available.

It is some two years since the Municipality of the District of Digby purchased the Hill Grove air strip and later acquired additional property and it is amazing what has been accomplished by the committee headed by Ervin Marshall, the Digby Flying Club and friends in so short a space of time. It would be unfair if the name of Louis Wyles was not given credit also in the promotion of this project. The latest effort has been attending the hearing in Halifax in relation to the interest of Eastern Provincial Airways establishing a Digby, Halifax, Saint John route. Attending the hearing was a town representative, Mayor Charles Haliburton, Joe Casey M.L.A. and Miss Coline Campbell M.P.

The Digby Municipal Airport could change the face of Digby much to its economic betterment. It is well and right that the public show interest on Saturday.

Hodge Podge

The Nova Scotia Highway Safety Council urges you not to be a menace on the highway. Please permit other vehicles to pass if traffic builds up behind you. Your action will show your good driving manners, your respect for the law and plain good sense. It could also save your life.

Summer calls for an extra safe driving effort because of increased traffic. Don't demand the right of way. Instead make courtesy and patience your constant companions, the Nova Scotia Highway Safety Council asks. Share the road is more than a slogan—it could save your life.

How about bicycles? Are they not suppose to stop at crosswalks when people are crossing the street?

Again on town traffic. Is there any place before entering "Jew Cove" where a "slow" sign can be erected. There's a bit of a curve and before you can get out into the street far enough to see if a car is coming, one of those speedsters is right abreast.

Are all those white traffic lines well marked for our own residents and especially for our tourists who are not aware of our traffic regulations. Time is here.

Jerry J. Amero, Saint John, formerly of Digby County remarked that it is so nice to see the community standing behind the young people and keeping them from going to larger cities to get a job as he had to do. He congratulated Jerry Robicheau and wished the best of luck to Gerry Robicheau and his position as postmaster in Plympton.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Mrs. Wallis:-

In recent weeks there has been much written about noise at The Royal Canadian Legion Branch No. 20 on Saturday nights. My husband is the Padre and we do not indulge in Saturday night entertainment or any other place. But I have been associated with quite a lot of Welfare work for over two years. Many times I have been called by veteran's wives for help. And when I know they are veteran's wives or widows I refer them to The Royal Canadian Legion and their needs are met immediately. Many thousands of dollars are put out in the town of Digby and Community.

Perhaps Mr. R.G. Robinson gets annoyed by the noise if he is an early bed going man. My son comes home from Halifax and goes to the Legion on Saturday evening but is always home by 12:30.

As far as squealing tires and horn blowing is concerned we get that day and night. But the biggest noise problem hasn't been mentioned. The town of Digby is polluted with dogs that bark day and night. There are many people who never get a good night's rest who don't have their rest broken by dogs barking.

Also there are many people who have to do night duty and sleep in the day time. There are our RCMP, hospital workers and many more. Mr. Robinson should consider himself lucky if he only loses a couple hours sleep on Saturday night. If I am not mistaken I think the Legion hall was in town before Mr. Robinson came to our town.

Mrs. Eugene A. Dexter
37 St. Mary's St. Digby

Dear Mrs. Wallis,

A short time ago, my son who lives in Massachusetts came home for a few days to attend the funeral of his brother in law.

While he was home, he and I went to visit his father's grave in Lake Midway cemetery. He remembered that his father loved flowers, and so he decided to set out a couple of plants so that they would bloom all summer.

He bought two beautiful potted tuberous begonias all in bloom. He planted them in the ground as they told him to do at the flower shop.

A week later we went down to see if they were growing and they looked lovely.

Yesterday a relative went there and some one had dug up one of the plants and taken it away.

I really cannot imagine how any one can be mean enough to do a thing like that, and I hope that they get the pleasure they deserve from it.

Yours truly
Stella Specht

Digby Horizon Club Receives Award

A Certificate of Achievement, signed by Prime Minister Trudeau, was presented to the Digby Horizon Club by Major Paul Stehelin, former head of the New Horizons program for Nova Scotia, at the second anniversary celebration of the Digby Group in the New Horizons Centre.

In presenting the certificate on behalf of the Prime Minister, Major Stehelin read the inscription which stated the certificate was being presented "for the development of a New Horizons Project benefiting retired people and the community." Mrs. Alice Westcott, President of the Digby Horizons Club, accepted the certificate on behalf of the club.

Major Stehelin, speaking briefly prior to the presentation, commended the club on their efforts and also referred to a number of other projects in the Digby area which have been promoted for the benefit of retired persons and senior citizens.

At the opening of the anniversary program, Mrs. Waters Comeau, Secretary of the Club, reviewed the history of the Digby Horizon Club and told of a number of hurdles that had been overcome in the development of the project. She noted the involvement of the Digby Mental Health Association in the sponsoring of the club and the work of a number of individuals and government departments in making the activity centre a reality.

Judge Victor Cardoza, former President of the Digby Mental Health Association who had acted as a consultant to the club in its formative stage, described the development of the Digby Horizon Club as a real example of the effectiveness of partnership. He noted that local groups such as the Mental Health Association and the Digby Horizon Club had worked in partnership with other agencies and such governmental bodies as the Department of Health and Welfare, the Department of Secretary of State, the Department of Recreation and the Department of Social Services to make the local program and the centre a viable project.

Sam Bany of the Department of Secretary of State, who played an active part in assisting the Digby Horizon Club in a number of programs, also spoke at the anniversary gathering. Mr. Bany commended the officers and members of the Digby Horizon Club for their accomplishments since the club was first organized.

A letter of commendation from Miss Coline Campbell, M.P. for Southwestern Nova, was read by Mrs. Waters Comeau. In her letter Miss Campbell expressed her regrets at her inability to be present for the anniversary and wished the organization every success in the future.

Digby Mayor Charles Haliburton brought greetings and good wishes from the Council and citizens of Digby to the Digby Horizon Club. He noted the importance of such programs as those being carried out by the club and expressed the hope they would be continued and expanded. He paid tribute to the people involved.

During the afternoon's program a memorial clock, placed in the centre in memory of Mrs. Oakley Smith, formerly an active member of the club, was dedicated to her memory by the Rev. Isaac Butler, Vice President. In making the dedication, Mr. Butler referred to the work and interest of the late Mrs. Smith in the Digby Horizon Club.

Special speaker at the anniversary program was Joseph H. Casey, M.L.A. for the Electoral District of Digby. In his remarks Mr. Casey, who is Deputy Speaker and Chairman of the whole House in the Nova Scotia Legislature, told of his experiences in attending the sessions of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association in India. In a most interesting, informative and often amusing manner Mr. Casey described life as he had observed it during his visit to India. He noted that abject poverty existed side by side with such splendours as the Taj Mahal and said that some of the customs and habits of the people were difficult to understand by people from the western world. He said much is being accomplished in India but many handicaps and problems have still to be overcome. He noted the size of the population and the annual increase in numbers of people. Although efforts are being made to provide a control on population growth, he said, the sheer number of the population poses real problems. In his address Mr. Casey also referred to some of the technological advances being made in India and said these are having an effect on the life of the country.

Following the formal anniversary program a social hour was enjoyed by the capacity audience present for the occasion. Mrs. Alice Westcott, President of the Digby Horizon Club, acted as chairperson for the afternoon's program. In her remarks Mrs. Westcott paid tribute to many members of the club who have provided leadership, particularly in the field of training in handicrafts. She noted the success the club is having in its handicraft program and said this was proving most valuable in maintaining the work of the club and the interest of its members.

Academic Vice-President At Sainte Anne

"It gives me great pleasures to announce the appointment of our new academic vice-president in the person of Doctor Jean-Jacques Jolais, dean of undergraduate studies at the University of Quebec at Montreal, Dean of the same Faculty, and Registrar at the University of Quebec at Montreal. In 1971, Dr. Jolais became assistant to the president at the University of Quebec at Montreal, and in 1972, he undertook the position of Dean of undergraduate studies at the University of Quebec at Montreal, a position he has held up to this date.

Born in Paris, Dr. Jolais obtained his B.A. in 1947 in Paris, and a Specialized Teacher's Certificate in 1962 from Laval University, P.Q., an M.A. in Education in 1963 from the University of Montreal, P.Q., and a D. Litt. in 1966 from the University of Lille, France.

From 1953 to 1957, Dr. Jolais taught at College E. Loubet in Tunisia and from 1958 to 1961 he was professor in Jonquiere, P.Q. The following decade, 1961-

Dr. Jolais has also strong interests and talents in painting and sports.

In the field of Judo, Dr. Jolais holds a black belt, second degree, is a national Judo referee, and is president of the educational commission of the Quebec Federation of Judo.

The appointment of Dr. Jean-Jacques Jolais will become effective August 1, 1976.

Cross-Country Skiers

Growing interest in crosscountry skiing is the main reason for a sharp rise in the number of visitors to National Parks in Eastern Canada this winter, according to Judd Buchanan, the Minister responsible for Parks Canada.

Statistics on 1976 attendance at National Parks and Sites show an increase of 36 per cent in the number of winter visitors to national parks in Quebec and the Atlantic provinces compared with the same period in 1975.

In the four month period from December 1, 1975 to March 31, 1976, there were 1,874,772 visitors to all of the national parks of Canada. That was almost the same number of total visitors as in the previous winter (1,878,000).

Attendance increased slightly in the six Atlantic region national parks this winter.

Women Hear Of Habitat Concerns

Unit 1 of Grace United Church Women held their regular monthly meeting at the residence of Mrs. Joseph MacDormand, on June 15th. The meeting was chaired by the Unit leader, Mrs. Bryson Denton.

Eighteen members and guests were present and an inspiring period of worship was led by Mrs. William Clayton.

Scripture taken from 1st Corinthians, 3rd chapter was read by Mrs. Ronald Stevens, following the singing of the well known hymn, "Work for the Night is coming."

Mrs. Clayton presented a theme based on the subject, "God's World and God's Work."

Mrs. Boyd Ellis read poetry which emphasized the theme of the evening.

Mrs. Denton conducted the business meeting.

Reports of the secretary, and treasurer, Mrs. Donald Fleet and Mrs. Pearl Handspiker, respectively, were accepted as read.

Plans for summer projects were discussed and arrangements finalized for the summer picnic to be held at the summer cottage of Mrs. MacDormand.

Reports were heard from the Combined Halifax and Valley Presbyterian Rally which was convened in the United Church of Canada in Wolfville on June 12th.

Mrs. Boyd Ellis reported the morning session, the speaker being Dr. J.R.C. Perkins from Acadia University. His subject was the work and accomplishments of William Tyndale. He advised that Tyndale translation are still valuable and widely used and that he died for his convictions in 1536.

Mrs. William Clayton, Mrs. Iva Dillon and Mrs. Pearl Handspiker brought highlights from the afternoon session. Of very pertinent interest was the recently concluded Habitat Conference, held in Vancouver. It is a subject relevant to our future way of life and which concerns every nation in this world. Canadians must carefully study its content.

Following adjournment refreshments were served by Mrs. MacDormand, Mrs. Stillmore Handspiker and Mrs. Boyd Ellis.

week's vacation spent with relatives in Rhode Island and Maine.

Fred Graham and Gordon Walker, Centreville, called on Freda Robicheau on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vantassel and daughter, Heather, from Saint John, New Brunswick, were week end visitors of his mother, Mrs. Hattie Vantassel.

Mr. and Mrs. Loran Shaw spent a few days with their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Shaw, in New Minas last week. They were accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Wilfred Gidney, Mink Cove.

Mrs. Russell Lewis and Mrs. Glen Barr, Danvers, were visitors of Mrs. Ora McNeill and Ella Baxter last Thursday.

Darrel Porter and two sisters, Willa and Eva, visited Thursday with their sister Mrs. Ella Baxter.

Victoria Senior Citizens Apartments

(By Ora McNeill)

Mrs. Freda Robicheau and Mrs. Helen Anderson were visitors in Middleton last week, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Robicheau.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Wright, Clementsvalle, and Mrs. Verna Lohnes, Cornwallis, visited their mother, Mrs. Leota Sandford on Sunday.

Mrs. Dolly Mason, Lansdowne, was a guest of her sister Mrs. Ella Height for several days last week.

Mrs. Ella Baxter has returned from Digby Hospital after a week spent there for surgery. Mr. and Mrs. Emmerson Titus have returned from a Neil, all of Smith's Cove; Arnold, Lansdowne; Vaughn, Digby; and seven grandchildren.

Funeral service was held Friday at 2:30 p.m. in Middleton Baptist Church, Rev. David Watt officiating. Interment was in Pine Grove Cemetery, Middleton.

Regina (Mrs. Nicholas Gleboz), Chateaugay, Quebec; Loretta (Mrs. Charles Connell), Montreal; Margaret (Mrs. Allen Pyne), Digby; Annette (Mrs. Ronald Hale), San Francisco, California; 13 grandchildren.

He was predeceased by two brothers, Bernard and James and one sister Mary. The body rested at Sands Mortuary Ltd., Victoria, B.C., where service was held from the Memorial Chapel of Chimes. Father Pelletier officiated, assisted by Archdeacon A.E. Hendy. Interment at St. Patrick's Cemetery, DSigby.

Hill Grove

(Mrs. D. A. Roope)

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Harold Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hill and family on the death of Mr. Harold Marshall which occurred at the Digby General Hospital on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Berry of Hamilton, Ontario, were Tuesday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. William Roope.

Mr. Lyle Lowery and sons Michael and Shawn of Dartmouth, are visiting for several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Franklin. Mr. Rodney Franklin of Toronto, is also spending his vacation at the same home.

Roll Call Services will be held in the Hill Grove Baptist Church next Sunday, June 27th at 3 and 7 p.m. when the guest speaker will be Dr. Harold L. Mitton, Principal of Acadia Divinity College.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Franklin Jr. of Wilnot, were weekend visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Franklin Sr.

Flowers were placed in the Hill Grove Baptist Church on Sunday in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gates, by their son Mr. Harry Gates of Dedham, Mass., and family.

Miss Joanne Roope went on a school trip to the Habitation at Lower Granville on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burke and son Stephen of Dartmouth, Mrs. Albert Vincent and Mrs. Ralph Marshall of Saint John; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Keen of Halifax, and Mrs. D.C. MacKay of Tideview Terrace were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur MacKay and Miss Susie Nichols, and all attended a family birthday dinner at Fundy Restaurant in honor of Mr. MacKay.

Visiting with the three

Roope families for several days were Mr. Donald Fillmore and son Jimmie of Detroit, Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Brandon Roope of Morris Hill, Maine, and Mr. and Mrs. James Roope of Ashland, Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Minard of Fredericton spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gates and Mr. and Mrs. Orbin Minard.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Murley of Digby were Sunday evening visitors with Mr. and Mrs. John Roope.

Smith's Cove

(Phyllis S. Winchester)

The "Do-Your-Bit" Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Ted Miller, Smith's Cove, on Wednesday afternoon, June 16. As the ladies entered they saw the tables beautifully adorned with rose centerpieces. Fourteen were in attendance at this closing meeting, until fall, and enjoyed a delicious pot-luck lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Brooks and son of Calgary, Alta., called on Miss Catherine Weir last Thursday, June 17. Miss Weir had not seen her cousin, Mr. Brooks, in many years.

Hold Annual Banquet

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Smith's Cove Baptist Church held their annual closing banquet at the House of Wong on Tuesday evening, June 15. Twenty members were present on this special occasion.

One member, Mrs. Sandra Jordan, was pleasantly surprised to have a lovely, red rose set at her place, a belated birthday remembrance from her Secret Pal.

The meetings of the Auxiliary will resume in September.

MOREHOUSE-WISCOMBE

The St. Columba Chapel, Atlantic School of Theology, Halifax, was the scene March 27th when Janice Mae Wiscombe and John deWitt Morehouse were united in marriage. The officiating clergyman was the Reverend R. G. R. Webber at the double ring ceremony. A dinner-dance reception was held at the Lord Nelson Hotel after which the young couple left for a short honeymoon to Barbados.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Wiscombe of Marystown, Newfoundland. She is on the staff of the Victoria General Hospital. The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence K. Morehouse of Milwaukee, Wisconsin and Sandy Cove, Nova Scotia. His grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. John Ambrose Morehouse of Sandy Cove and the late Dr. and Mrs. Avery deWitt of Wolfville.

Besides the immediate family, the guests include friends and relatives from Nova Scotia and Newfoundland. Guests attending from the U.S.A. were Mrs. Charles Vasilakis (sister of the groom), Oaha, Hawaii; Dr. and Mrs. Homer Bryton (aunt of the groom), Boston, Massachusetts; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hinemann, Pomfret, Connecticut; and M. Neil Oppen, California.

KNAPP-AMERO

Marjorie Ann Knapp of Pensacola, Fla., and Wallace Frank Amero of Digby, Nova Scotia, Canada, were married Wednesday evening at Linwood United Methodist Church. Rev. W.A. Knight officiated at the seven o'clock ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marlon Reynolds Knapp of Linwood, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Frank Amero of Tracy, New Brunswick, Canada, and the late Mr. Amero.

For her wedding the bride wore a gown of natural crinkle polyester made with a banded empire bodice that featured a square neckline and lace-trimmed angel sleeves. The highrise waistband formed a sash that tied in back with streamers to the hemline. Her only ornament was an amethyst pendant, a gift from the bridegroom. Her lace-trimmed veil of illusion fell from a lace-covered headpiece, and she carried a white prayer book centered with a white orchid encircled with white roses and daisies.

Mrs. Joseph Ingerson of Rochester, N.Y. was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a sleeveless gown of polyester in varied hues of peach to apricot that was accented with a lace cape. She carried a nosegay of ivory roses and Stephanotis.

Joseph Ingerson attended the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were Robert Nathan Knapp of Linwood, the bride's brother and Anson Dann of Charleston, S.C.

Mrs. Charlie Smith was organist for the service, and David Smith was soloist.

Mrs. Amero, a registered dietitian, is a graduate of Cornell University in

The young couple will reside in Halifax where Mr. Morehouse is with Speed and Real Estate.

Ithaca, N.Y., with a degree in institutional management.

She earned a master of science degree at Florida State University in Tallahassee, and has worked as food production manager at Duke University and as institutional nutrition consultant for the Florida State Board of Health. She is also a former test kitchen manager for the University of New Hampshire, and she is currently employed as an instructor of food service technology at Pensacola Junior College.

Mr. Amero received his education in Nova Scotia schools and served in the Fifth Canadian Armoured Division during World War II.

He also worked for 10 years as a mobile equipment specialist in the Canadian Air Force and is currently in the Canadian Corps of Commissionaires, employed as fire and security officer at Rothesay Limited in Saint John, New Brunswick.

After a wedding trip to Nova Scotia, they will live in Pensacola, Florida.

The bride and bridegroom received with her parents in the church fellowship hall following the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Leonard directed guests to the entertainment area where they were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Jack McClung.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ingerson, and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Graham also assisted in receiving guests in the fellowship hall.

The refreshment table, covered with green linen and white lace cloths, featured a silver candelabra centerpiece of spring flowers and white tapers. The three tiered wedding cake was decorated with white roses.

Mrs. Anson Dann of Charleston, S.C., a former roommate of the bride, served the cake; and Victoria Canetto of Crescent City, Fla. poured punch.

Mrs. Tommy Koonts registered the guests, and goodbyes were said by Mr.

and Mrs. Eston Stokes.

Out of town guests were from Crescent City, Fla., Charleston, S.C. Waterville, N.Y., Raleigh, Durham, Burlington, Pittsboro, and Brevard.

LEWIS-HAIGHT

A quiet, but pretty wedding took place on May 29, 1976 in the Amherst United Baptist Church when Deborah Sadie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Haigh became the bride of James Burton, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis. Only the immediate families of the bride and groom attended the wedding.

Rev. R.S. Dunn of Amherst, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a floor length gown of batiste eyelet over satin and carried a single red rose. She was attended by Eva Tibbetts who wore a floor length gown of peach polyester knit. Best man was Michael Lewis, brother of the groom.

The happy couple spent the following week touring Prince Edward Island, after which they returned home to visit their parents.

On June 5th, 1976 a reception, to honour their wedding, was held for friends and relatives at the Rosway Baptist Church Hall. Refreshments were served, which included a pretty three tiered wedding cake made and decorated by the bride's mother. The couple received many lovely gifts and a sum of money. They have taken up residence in Amherst.

CARDS OF THANKS

GALLAGHER - I would like to thank everyone who helped us when our mobile home blew away in the Feb. 2nd storm. Thanks to all who helped me gather up the broken things. Many things have not been delivered to me yet such as my furnace, sinks, and a quilt my grandmother made, etc. I would appreciate the return of these things very much and thanks for saving them for me. I would also like to express deep appreciation to those who contributed to us at the party my mother, Mrs. Hector Hill, gave for us. A special thanks to Mrs. Rosalie Mullen. MR. AND MRS. EUGENE GALLAGHER. 46:1p

BANKS - The family of the late Terrance Wayne Banks, Lower Sackville, wish to express their sincere gratitude and appreciation to all relatives and friends who were so kind and thoughtful during our recent sad bereavement. Also for floral tributes, sympathy cards, letters and donations. Special thanks to Rev. Steeves, Bedford, Lester Mullen, Rossway, Digby Co., who officiated at the funeral service, organist and soloist, the choir of Rossway Baptist Church, pallbearers and others who helped in various ways. Thanks to Lyndsay's Funeral Home, Bedford. Your kindness will always be remembered and appreciated by the family. MRS. SADIE BANKS AND FAMILY. 46:1p

VANTASSEL - I would like to thank my friends for their cards and flowers, while I was a patient at the Halifax Infirmary. MRS. MILLIE VANTASSELL 46:1p

HANDSPIKER - Thanks to friends and relatives who called, sent cards, flowers, magazines and treats while I was a patient at Digby General Hospital. Special thanks to Dr. John R. MacCleave. Nurses in Intensive Care Unit, and the Second Floor for their kindness and good care and the many acts of kindness and consideration shown to my family and myself since returning home. ## A Thought Starter Is God Reasonable?

Is there a prevailing sense that God is a tyrant, who wilfully taunts and punishes everyone according to His fancy? Some I talk with are afraid of God. They even run from Him and from His Church.

Nothing can be farther from the truth. He is out to love and to lift, to forgive and to restore all the lost and wandering sheep. Those who are in sin, and who are suffering from pain, sickness, loss and disappointment must not necessarily conclude that He is punishing them. When a child suffers, the parents will take the little one into their arms and make him feel secure and comfortable. This is the true picture of God as a loving heavenly Father.

While we deserve nothing from Him, yet by His mercy He will offer to us every treasure from His heart. The Grace of God is a term which means that He is not out to get even when we sin, but He is out to cover all our wrong by His tenderness.

God is reasonable in not expecting us to be flawless, but rather to be committed to His cleansing and empowering. He is reasonable in not expecting us to do more for Him than He gives us strength to do. We are not to know that He will receive us any time we come sincerely for the victory there is in the Presence of the Living Christ.

"Present your bodies a living sacrifice....which is your reasonable service." Romans 12:1

Unveil Monument

A monument of the pioneer settler in the Municipality of Clare of Digby County was officially unveiled at Joseph Dugas School on June 18th at 2 o'clock when Hon Benoit Comeau, Minister of Public Works of the Provincial Government assisted by Omer Blinn, warden of the Municipal Council participated in the unveiling ceremonies.

J. Alphonse Deveau, Clare's famous writer and historian, was guest speaker. He told the gathering, that he was very pleased to be invited to this special and historical event as president of the newly organized Historical Society of St. Mary's Bay. The ceremony was of great importance for everyone here.

Firstly, I wish to congratulate the persons who had the initiative to have a monument erected in honor of Joseph Dugas, the first settler in Clare, also the provincial government and the Municipal Council of Clare. As Joseph Howe stated, it is a wise government that preserves by monuments the memory of honored citizens and heroes", said Mr. Deveau.

Although Joseph Dugas did not accomplish a heroic act he nevertheless should be recognized as a man of little more than an ordinary man, stated Mr. Deveau, as he was a man that could get himself out of entanglements. We know that our hero was always where there was action. We find that in 1758 he was at Louisbourg and at Restigouche in 1760 where he took part in battles at these places. We have very little details of his activities during the period of the deportation in 1755 but we do know that his name was not among the list of the deportees nor as prisoners. Later he proved his courage before ordeals that he encountered when he set out to settle in Clare with his wife and small daughter Isobel in 1768 and reached White's Cove, near Belliveau Cove, where he established himself and family on the shores of St. Mary's Bay, stated Mr. Deveau.

We can believe that if Joseph and his wife Marie Dugas had not established themselves in Clare the other families of Belliveau, Comeaus, LeBlanc, Thibaults, Robicheaus and Deveaus and the other pioneer families that came to St. Mary's Bay, would have remained in the valley. Joseph, his wife Marie and daughter Isobel bore a son twenty days after their arrival in Clare and he was given the name of Joseph, after his father. He was born on September 25th, 1768 the first Acadian born in Clare along St. Mary's Bay.

It was after having learned that Joseph Dugas and his family were leading a life of promise and liberty that was possible along the shores of St. Mary's Bay that the other families decided to reach the area settled by Joseph Dugas in 1769. The results were that the population augmented to 96 in 1771, from 4 in 1768 and 1,050 in 1800.

We owe a large debt of gratitude to Joseph Dugas, and this monument in his memory shall be the expression of our sentiments to be preserved for ever, stated Mr. Deveau, in terminating. Hon. Benoit Comeau, representative for Clare in the provincial government and Minister of Public Works, spoke briefly. He told the gathering that only the week previously he had visited the Joseph Dugas school with the Minister of Education. The descendants of Joseph Dugas should thank the two students of schools in Clare, David Comeau and Paul K. Comeau both of Meteghan and students of Grade 6, who selected the name of the new school in a contest sponsored by the Clare Municipal Council.

Mr. J. L. Martin, director of the Nova Scotia Museum spoke to the large attendance. He told them that the Acadians are responsible in more "firsts" in Nova Scotia than any other ethnic group. It was the Acadians who established the first school in Canada, when your forefathers established a school in La Have, said Mr. Martin.

The Nova Scotia Museum is unlike any other museum in Canada. We are not in favor of constructing a large building to house all historical items but prefer to give grants to various areas of the province through branches throughout the province, instead of having all historical items in a museum in Halifax, stated Mr. Martin. There is only one Acadian museum in the province that we have supported and that is in Cheticamp. The government will not come to you. We ask you to make it known to the government. I am glad to learn that Historical Society was organized recently. We will be glad to help you, stated Mr. Martin.

The monument of Joseph Dugas at the school bearing his name at Church Point is on the Patrice road, (Church Point-Corberrie road). The monument consists of a large block of cement, with slated front upon which a bronze plate with inscription in English in French stating some facts about the pioneer settler of Clare. The English version reads: "This monument honors the memory of Joseph Dugas, senior, his wife Marie-Joseph Robichaud and their young daughter Isobel, who arrived at LeBlanc's Cove September 5th, 1768, the first Acadian to settle in the District of Clare. Twenty days after their arrival, Marie-Joseph gave birth to Joseph junior, the first Acadian child born along the shores of Saint Mary's Bay.

The courage of this couple, who faced and surmounted all the difficulties of survival by themselves, has inspired a feeling of pride among all the settlers who followed them." The bronze plate was given by the Nova Scotia Museum. Among those from outside the area were: His excellency Austin Burke, Bishop of Yarmouth, who blessed the new monument; Desire Boudreau, inspector of schools for Argyle and Clare Municipalities; Maurice Belliveau, superintendent of schools of the municipality of Clare; Omer Blinn, warden; Henry Mazier, president of the Clare Municipal School Board; Eric Gaudet, secretary-treasurer of the Municipal School Board and members of the municipal school Board. Members of the Historical Society of Acadians of St. Mary's Bay were represented by J. Alphonse Deveau, Salmon River, president of the new organization and several members in attendance.

A lunch was served in the school cafeteria following the ceremonies. Principal of the school, Mr. Melbourn Blinn of Little Brook, invited everyone present to the cafeteria.

New President Urges New Education Act

Newly elected president Dan Munroe of the Nova Scotia School Boards Association said this week he hopes to work closely with the Nova Scotia Teachers Union and the Department of Education in an effort to arrive at solutions to problems through "discussion rather than confrontation."

"There are a number of groups with legitimate interests in our school programs and each should be heard regarding areas within their areas of interest," Mr. Munroe said. "I will be prepared to approach in a reasonable fashion the views of NSTU, the Home and School Association, and the provincial Department of Education."

Mr. Munroe, who is the Mayor of Glace Bay, Nova Scotia said that he would lead the School Boards Association's effort to have a completely new Education Act written and adopted to replace the present outdated statutes. He added that whatever streamlining may be required, the fundamental responsibility for school programs in Nova Scotia properly lies in the hands of local school boards, as representatives of the parents of their communities.

Attending the recent annual meeting at the Pines Hotel were: Captain and Mrs. Reginald Hazelton, George Barton, Mr. and Mrs. George O'Neil, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kynock, Mr. Clinton McInnes, Warden and Mrs. Wilfred K. Swift, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Daley, Parker Thurber, Helen McNeil, Arthur Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Sabine, Mr. and Mrs. W.L. McMillan, Mrs. Eileen Chipman and K. Eavis.

School Boat

by John Knight

Ingram Wolfe is one school bus driver who really knows his rules of the road.

In fact, there's little he doesn't know about the tides and winds, currents and channels in the LaHave Islands.

Ingram's "Bus" has only one wheel and that's for steering. But she does have a snug cabin and a jaunty spanker sail to keep her pointed into the wind when she's moored.

"Althea" is the "school bus" for the children of the fishermen living on Bell's, Hirtle, Wolfe and Mosher Islands down where the LaHave River meets the Atlantic Ocean south of Bridgewater.

"She's a fine built boat," declares Ingram. "She's dry and quiet, never gives any trouble. We make the run twice each morning and afternoon and I reckon the kids like her as well as I do."

Seven youngsters, including one of Ingram's daughters, ride "Althea" up to 60 days of the year in the fall and spring. Comes the winter and boats are brought ashore, school children are as well. Winter conditions make it impossible to travel to and from the islands so the schoolage children board on the mainland with relatives and friends until "Althea" can once again navigate clear waters.

A lighthouse keeper by occupation, Ingram came to his present posting at Mosher Island six years ago. Having a school-age daughter made it necessary to ferry her ashore daily to meet a regular school bus. He was approached about providing a regular service for other children in the "neighbourhood" and he is completing his sixth year without a hitch.

"Althea" carries seven children in two groups each morning and afternoon. Four elementary school children, make up the first group and three high schoolers make the second trip.

Hired by the Municipal School Board of Lunenburg County "Althea" is considered to be a regular school bus and as such has to be safety inspected. The Board of Commissioners of Public Utilities inspects all Nova Scotia school buses twice each school term through certified local mechanics.

Ingram's Cape Island-type bus is an exception, however. She undergoes a rigorous annual inspection by the Ship Safety Branch of the Canadian Coast Guard and her skipper receives a certificate attesting to her seaworthiness and safety. Like other buses she carries a fire extinguisher and submits to a thorough motor examination as well. Life jackets, and fathoms of rope, a good anchor and bailing cans accent her different character as well as being legal requirements.

"I keep her in day-to-day shape myself," Ingram says. "I go fishing and do errands every day as well as taking the kids. The main thing is to prevent trouble before it happens." Living on Mosher Island without a telephone means that "Althea" is the lifeline to the mainland for the Wolfe family.

Ingram Wolfe is Nova Scotia's only driver of a sea-going school bus although Tanook Island children travel on the water to school each day. Their mode of transport is the regular Tanook Ferry service to Chester.

Though the island children must travel a fair distance to school, how many others can enjoy a boat ride among some of the prettiest unspoiled islands in the province, breathe salt air and feel the spray on the way to school? It's something unique and the kind of thing fond memories are made of.

What The Digby Courier Means To Me

WHAT THE DIGBY COURIER MEANS TO ME

I am not one hundred and two years old as the Digby Courier is, but I have been around for quite some time. As far back as I can remember the Courier came through the mail each week to us.

At the present time I am clipping items from the Couriers that I have saved over the years. I am finding a lot of material for the records that I am collecting.

I especially like the "Flash Back News" of days gone by. In one of these columns, back 98 years ago, it refers to one of John Frude's little boys, who upset a pitcher of boiling water over himself. That boy was my father, Burton Frude, who was born in 1878. In April 1968 The Courier recorded the last item about him - his death.

There has been an upsurge of interest recently in historical events and genealogy. The Courier is a "Gold Mine" for those of us who are interested in these subjects. One has only to save the births, deaths, and marriages recorded in the Courier to have the "Family Trees" of most of the people around this district.

I received a letter recently, from the United States, stating that they were at present reading with great interest some microfilm from the Digby Courier. I am sure that they will find a lot of information, as their ancestors came from Digby. I am glad that so many of the back issues of the Courier have been Micro-filmed. In this way they can be stored in a safe place and people can go and view them.

We can all feel that the Courier is our own newspaper. The Editor encourages people to write to her and she will publish them in the paper without charge. "The Letters to the Editor" brings out into the open things that should be known and then others can express their views on those subjects.

All through the years we have waited for the Courier to read the advertisements. Just the weekly "Specials" on the groceries would save enough money to buy many Couriers.

Many would be poets have got started by having their first poem published by the Courier. From that encouragement, they have gone on to write others. I know because it has done that for me.

The Editor of a weekly newspaper has to be very dedicated in the work for it is not an easy job. They cannot please everyone all the time. If more praise were given to Mrs. Wallis it would make her work easier.

Because the Dominion Textile Limited asked the question I for one have started to think just what the Digby Courier does mean to me.

Thank You Mrs. Wallis.

THE NEIGHBOURHOOD PAPER

by Nancy Hutchins

I wonder how much lettuce costs this week.

Look in THE COURIER

What time is service at Trinity on Sunday?

Look in THE COURIER

I wonder whether Marilyn had her baby yet.

I didn't see the notice in THE COURIER

We need a little stove in the work-shed.

Find one second-hand in THE COURIER

THE DIGBY COURIER is the paper that answers questions such as these about our daily needs, serving our communities with local information.

THE COURIER is the weekly record of community events. Some we are able to attend, but others through the pages of our weekly paper we can read about. The actions, discussions, and problems of councils both town and municipal are recorded in detail, as are concerts by the local band, sports played by local teams or players, birthday parties at the New Horizons gatherings, achievements of fishermen, high school teams, of school and college graduates, of Boy Scouts and Venturers, of Brownies, Guides, and Rangers, the words and music of worship in neighbouring churches. These are the stories brought to us each week in THE DIGBY COURIER, and these are stories that help us to know both our neighbourhood and our neighbours.

Notices to draw our attention to coming events in our neighbourhood are an important feature of THE DIGBY COURIER. Although the daily paper gave full coverage to the Annapolis Valley Blossom Festival, only THE COURIER advised that to see Queen Annapolis and our local princess one must be at the band-stand on Digby's waterfront at four-thirty on the seventh of June. Opportunities to buy home-baked goodies, to attend an auction or garage sale, to see a Rose Show in Bear River or a Flower Show in Digby, to cheer for the boys in the minor hockey league, to have advance notice of fine arts events at College Ste. Anne, all are known to readers of the local paper.

Regular features also appear in THE DIGBY COURIER. On the editorial page one can always find alert and thoughtful, sometimes controversial, comment by the editor(s). On the same page appear LETTERS TO THE EDITOR, a voicing of beefs and gripes, of praise and blame, and occasionally suggestions for the betterment of the community. Representatives in both federal and provincial Houses contribute their comments on government decisions and plans affecting fishermen, farmers, educators, and, of course, taxpayers in this locality. A delightful local feature appears regularly from the pen of THE BIRD LADY, who watches the comings and goings of the birds, and not only "sees the little sparrow fall" but picks him up and nurses him back to life.

"Love thy neighbour as thyself." To this commandment the neighbourhood paper makes its unique contribution; it tells us about our neighbours, about their joys and sorrows, about their victories and their defeats.

What the Digby Courier Means to Me

By Gerald L. Wade

"Where is the Courier?"

This is a question I have heard many times around our house, since I was a small child. Ever since I can remember the Courier was a part of our family routine, like getting the groceries on Friday night, or going to church on Sunday. Thursday was Courier day. It still is.

The Courier means even more to me as an adult member of the community, as a communicator of information. It is the way I become informed of events in and around Digby. It is the public reaching me, whether it be merchants advertising their products, or reporters giving details of events, or letters to the editor whereby citizens express their opinions on topics of importance to the communities served by the paper. And, of course, the editor reaches me with editorials which stimulate thought on a variety of topics.

The Courier also provides a way I can reach the public. I can express my opinions in letters to the editor. I have available at a very low cost the opportunity to advertise products for sale or rent, or to try to locate something I want badly which someone else in the community may have. As a professional person, I sometimes need the services of the Courier to reach the public with notices or announcements. It is indeed a form of two-way communication.

Digby is a little town with its own "personality". The Courier helps maintain our own identity, by reflecting it back to us and helping us see ourselves as we are. It therefore also helps us improve our community by showing us our blemishes as well as our strengths. It tells it like it is, but in a very responsible way. I have often been impressed with the responsible way the editor of the Courier reports the news of controversial issues in our little town, with the welfare of the town and the town's people always being taken into consideration. This is rare in other forms of the media today.

The Courier, besides its very practical services, is a paper which can be read for just the pleasure of reading. It can be very relaxing to sit back and put your feet up and read the Courier. It is one of life's little pleasures, worth far more than the subscription price. It is not full of violence and bad news, and is a welcome change from the other media.

The Courier is like a nerve line or artery, pulsating with the heartbeat of the communities it serves. It is an

WHAT THE DIGBY COURIER MEANS TO ME

The Digby Courier is like a member of our family. As soon as I buy it I hurry home and read it and then pass it on to other members of my family. As you read the paper through, then you really can feel what the Courier means. You will read of happy occasions and then sad ones as well.

People you have known for some time who were very good friends you will read with sadness of their obituaries and then you will read of some people you know who are visiting friends and relatives in far distant places. You feel happy for them because once again they will be seeing their friends and relatives and, of course, you will read of weddings of people you have known. You can't help but saying to yourself, "Best of luck and many happy years of married life."

You will also take time to read the letters to the editor which are very interesting. I was reading one not long ago and it described the story so well you could shut your eyes and almost think you were there, too, not forgetting our Bird Lady who is so kind to our feathered friends. Without her, what would happen to our little birds in summer and winter. I have followed her advice in feeding them myself.

So you see what the Courier means to me. It means a lot to know what is happening in our town of Digby, be it happy occasions or sad ones. As I said at the beginning of this letter "The Digby Courier seems to me like a big happy family, the big happy family of Digby."

old friend, who never gets old, but continues with vim and vitality to provide a service no other media could hope to do. It's a comforting feeling just to know "it's there", and I hope it always will be.

Why do I like the 'Digby Courier'?

(Not 'like,' but LOVE!)

Realizing that such a newspaper must be of inestimable value to the Community, with its business Ads and Obituaries, Personal News, and so forth, nevertheless this letter will have to describe just my own feelings and needs, because I live a considerable distance away from Digby area: Massachusetts, U.S.A. is where I must live, but it isn't where my Heart abides.....

Nova Scotia, especially your area, is the place my Heart Loves best!

Three enchanting years were once spent there, going to school, picking wild strawberries, bathing in the then-cleaner River (Bear River), and such delightful activities..... So now, when the weekly 'Digby Courier' arrives, it reproduces a feeling of delight, as well as being able to read of personal events and news of acquaintances and friends of earlier years. Also it tells me of progress in area politics, religious activities, perhaps bridge-building, road-building, and even of terrible storms-all of intense interest to me.... When it is occasionally delayed (malls, you know), I really feel its temporary loss, as though a friend had disappointed me; I feel uneasy until it finally shows up, belatedly..... (To myself I grumble, asking the Post Office if they realize what they do to me by delaying my home-town newspaper!.....)

Sometimes I love to write to contributors, if I agree with or enjoy something they have expressed; many times I have received answers, which delights me and serves as a sort of bond to assuage my feelings of loneliness and homesickness of Nova Scotia..... Yes, I do LOVE the 'Digby Courier'!

I do!

I do!

Congratulations to everyone who contributes to it's success!

To the Digby Courier:

The Digby Courier is quite valuable to me in that it provides a great deal of information that would otherwise be difficult to obtain. It is important to have a good quality community newspaper that regularly presents a broad spectrum of what is going on in the area and what is available to residents here. The key is to have a place that all of us, whether individual, group, or business, can use to present (and obtain) information that concerns us.

In one sense the Courier is a community bulletin board that gives public notice and a schedule of events, such as meetings, concerts, sales, etc. People need a paper to look to where they trust they will find information that is relevant to the area. The Courier is sensible in providing general news of the Digby area and also more particular news of each smaller community within the area.

When it comes to public issues such as local politics, taxes, public meetings, and schools, etc., there is a definite need to have a well informed public. The Courier has provided a well balanced public record on these issues. Without a central forum to get across information and views it would be quite confusing for most of us. Simply to have weekly editorial comment and access to "Letters to the Editor" department is important.

I view the Courier as an important historical record because it is the prime way we have to record life in the area. Anyone wanting to know the history of Digby would look first to the newspaper accounts.

I use the Courier as a directory for professional services and items for sale as listed in the Want Ads and advertisements. It makes it much easier to have information of this kind right in front of me.

As I write this I realize that the main thing The Digby Courier means to me is the providing of a forum for all manner of public notice and news. I can't imagine a community without such a forum.

Sincerely yours,
Theodore H. Hong

WHAT THE DIGBY COURIER MEANS TO ME

This indeed, is a challenge that awakens in me, the desire to combat the passive state of mind that appears to be so much a factor in our way of life today. Therefore, having taken a last yawn and stretch, imaginatively speaking, it behooves me to acknowledge my concern and appreciation for the effort put forth by the Editor and staff of the Digby Courier. In order that I may know the successes, the joys and sorrows, as well as the anticipations of my friends and neighbours throughout the community, I would say that the Digby Courier is like a personal friend, who comes in to visit me each week. It tells me the sad story of the passing of someone. It tells me of the joy of a new baby coming to fill the hearts of those who really love. There are the inspiring and delightful poems of talented writers. The Courier tells me of the exercises in the realms of religion, education, civic government, etc. I appreciate the Editorials, for in such, I ponder over my own interpretations of the subject, relative thereto. There are the letters to the editor, a forum expressing opposition to, or support for action or principle.

Every word and line expresses a message of importance to me. Even though I may not know the person named in the story or passage related, to whisper the name is thanksgiving to God for His giving to me of His creation. A person who walks with me by destiny. I never before took time to meditate on the reason the "Courier" is welcome at our house.

The summation of my thoughts is, that in the "Courier", I find a human interest. This is the important world I wish to know about. When there is joy and happiness in my neighbours house, I like to know so I can rejoice. If there is sorrow, at least I can offer a silent prayer.

Thanks to the Digby Courier for bringing me all these values.

What the Digby Courier Means to Me

By Mrs. Stella R. Murley, Digby, R.R. 2

The Digby Courier has come to my home every week for many years. It is still as welcome as a day in June. I wait for the mailman every Thursday morning to bring my weekly friend, my informer and my advertiser.

Let us consider and make a list of a few of the worthwhile articles found in practically all local papers.

1. The Editorial in the Digby Courier is always interesting and informative and usually covers important happenings. Not only in the local area but farther afield.

2. Hodge-Podge is always worth reading concerning current events and a few bits of wisdom thrown in. "A word to the wise is sufficient".

3. Proceedings of official bodies, such as Municipal Council, Town Council, School Boards, Hospital Board, Board of Trade to mention a few sometimes make headlines and keep us up to date on local affairs.

4. Then there is the page of classified ads with sales of everything from antiques to a snow-blower or mobile home, which benefits not only the advertiser but the one looking for these items.

5. Business and professional men have their ads in the Courier so if one is in need of a Doctor, Lawyer, Ambulance, Plumber, Realtor, etc., just turn to our weekly newspaper.

6. The clothing stores, shoe stores, drug stores, car dealers and other places of business open to the public have their goods advertised with "specials" offered occasionally.

7. Speaking of specials we always look for those at the local grocery stores-the I.G.A., Save Easy, Rite Way and Co-Op.

8. Are you looking for a home or a building lot or have same for sale? Just look up Harding Real Estate, W.E. Cosman & Son or J.J. Brittain Ltd., and your needs may be fulfilled.

9. Festive days such as Apple Blossom Festivals, Natal Days, Cherry Carnivals and Scallop Days are advertised in advance with dates and programs on the agenda.

10. The addition of photos of important events and people adds to the life of the paper. Wedding photos are always of interest to friends and relatives, especially if they are subscribers in other countries.

11. If you are interested in shows the Little Cinema and the Drive-in Theatre list their current movies.

12. It is always interesting to read the personal columns and local news items and so find out where our friends and neighbors are visiting or travelling.

13. We find letters to the Editor voicing opinions on various subjects which are good for controversy, especially if the topic concerns governments, inflation or environment.

14. Do you like to reflect on the past? The Digby Courier has its column reflecting back some thirty or forty years ago which is of special interest to us, who can remember some of those events of days gone by.

15. We must not overlook the Church Directory with its list of Church services in the town and surrounding area. Surely we have room for all who are seeking guidance and a place to worship on Sundays.

16. Births, engagements and deaths are announced also cards of thanks and in Memoriams. A morning service over radio station CKDY is always there for those who are shut-in or unable to get out to Church. The Digby Courier covers these articles I have mentioned and many more events as they happen from time to time. It is a real "encyclopedia" of knowledge, news and facts.

For a number of years the Kiwanis Club of Weymouth has been sponsoring Weymouth Day

The day will begin with a Parade through Weymouth to the Cricket Field beginning at 10:30 a.m.

The Cricket Field is the site of the Thomas Show; a midway; rides for the kiddies and adults, and fun and games for all.

A gigantic Chicken Barbecue also sponsored by Kiwanis is held on the grounds from 10:00 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the evening of Thursday, July 1st.

There will be other booths with hot dogs, french fries, soft drinks, canteen, etc. and local organizations will sponsor 3 booths to go along with the delicious barbecue chicken.

The annual Ox Pulling Contest begins at the Cricket Field at 1:00 p.m. with many teams participating. Teams are included from the South Shore, Yarmouth, and the Valley. There will be prizes for the Top Teams as usual.

For information, contact Emile Belliveau, 837-4203.

At 2:00 p.m. a Baseball game will be played.

The Weymouth Fire Department will again operate their Dunking Pool which will provide entertainment for all.

During the afternoon and evening the Weymouth Falls Community Council will have continuous Bingo in the Hall.

Later in the evening there will be a fireworks display.

The entire proceeds from Weymouth Day will go to the Youth Programs which are sponsored by Kiwanis. Their main project is a Swimming and Water Safety Program with instructions for children at all levels.

This program is conducted at Journey's Lake where a lifeguard and instructor are on hand at all times during the instruction periods. Information on the program is distributed through the area schools before summer vacation; and further information on the program can be obtained by calling any Kiwanis member.

The committee wishes to extend their thanks to all those who have contributed in any way to the success of Weymouth Day; and extend an invitation for all to join in the fun on Canada's Birthday in Weymouth.

 837-5105; 837-5136; 837-4770.*

Removal Of Room 'Totally Unacceptable'

The residents of Annapolis County, and indeed, throughout Nova Scotia, are up in arms in protest over the removal of the Painted Room from the province, and well they should be.

Work on the preservation has already begun with removal slated to start next month.

This room, located in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hall, Karsdale, should not be allowed to leave the province and strong protests are being made to retain it with the possibility of having it installed in the Patterson House.

People have been aware of the room and its historical value but not until its safety was threatened did anyone give much thought to its eventual fate.

Now, the room has been purchased to be removed to the National Art Gallery in Ottawa, but it is felt that if enough protests are made and enough money raised, the room will remain in Nova Scotia, hopefully Karsdale.

One Windsor resident feels so strongly toward this, he has offered $25,000 to the cause.

It is regrettable that at a time when the provincial government has agreed to provide funding to prepare a presentation which will recommend that Annapolis Royal, as the oldest town in Canada, be declared a conservation area, federal agencies should be removing one of our greatest historical pieces.

Join the protest, either as a group or individual. If the protest is loud enough, perhaps it will be heeded.

The attached telegram was sent to:

Karsdale, Annapolis County,

Nova Scotia.

The Federation of Historical Societies of Nova Scotia wishes to register its protest of and opposition to the proposed removal of a valuable historic and artistic treasure from this province.

The item in question is a large mural on the walls of a room in a privately owned home in Karsdale, Annapolis County. At present it would appear that not only is the National Art Gallery in the final stages of acquisition of this item but also the Gallery proposes to remove the mural to Ottawa.

The proposed removal of this mural to Ottawa or any other area outside of Nova Scotia is unacceptable. Such a course would represent an exercise in sanctioned and sponsored vandalism which flies directly in the face of the Federal Government's avowed policy of decentralizing our cultural heritage. We submit either a centre should be erected or

Winners Of Postal Draw Announced

Winners of the second Nova Scotia Postal Draw in the "Operation 50,000" contest have been announced Monday by District Director, W.L. Ryan.

Winning entries were drawn by Mayor Earle Tubrett in his Sydney Office.

First prize of a combination set of precious metal Olympic Stamp sculptures went to: Winnifred Sweet, 1442 Edward St., Halifax and postal employee: Harold Melanson, 3390 Desmond Ave., Halifax, N.S.

Winners of the second prize, a silver set of stamp sculptures, were: Mr. Leonard M. Dean, Birch Grove, Cape Breton, N.S. and postal employee: Mrs. M.L. MacIntyre, Birch Grove, C.B. N.S.

Third prize of a bronze set went to: Mr. Karman Hunt, Box 291, Eastern Passage and postal employee: Mr. C.J. Noseworthy, 83 Slayter St., Dartmouth N.S. an adequate structure obtained in the Annapolis Royal area in which to house this Nova Scotia treasure.

We regret that at a time when the Provincial Government has agreed to provide the funding to prepare a presentation which will recommend that Annapolis Royal, the oldest town in Canada, be declared a "conservation area", federal agencies should be engaged in negotiations which could seriously undermine this provincial effort and remove a major attraction from the proposed "conservation area".

We solicit your interest and support in this matter. We urge a joint provincial-federal effort should be instituted aimed at the purchase and retention of this mural in the Annapolis Royal Signed: Allan Dunlop, President Federation of Museums, Heritage and Historical Societies

There have been 74 traffic deaths in Nova Scotia this year reports the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

This is seven less than the 81 road fatalities that occurred up to this time in 1975.

There were no deaths last week in highway traffic in the province.

Fatal accidents to date this year number 60, eight less than the 68 which were recorded at the like period in 1975.

Figures are as of Sunday night, June 13th.

Entrants were required to have correct postal code and 50 cents of Olympic action stamps. Twelve cents of the money from each entry supports the Olympics, eight cents for postage, and 30 cents for prizes.

A total of 2,500 entries from Nova Scotia, including the winning cards, have been sent to Ottawa for the National Draw on July 28, to select winners of a trip to any place in Canada plus $1500.

One other District draw for stamp sculptures is slated for July 19 in Kentville.

Forest Fires Burn 49,000 Acres In April

A total of 822 forest fires, affecting 49,000 acres, were reported across Canada during the month of April, according to the Canadian Forestry Service in its first forest fire report of the 1976 season.

The figures are compared with 248 fires affecting only 2,000 acres of forest land during the same period of 1975, and an average of 532 fires and 8,000 acres for the month of April during the past decade.

These statistics are compiled monthly from April to October by Environment Canada's Forest Fire Research Institute in Ottawa.

Highway Fatalities Down

There have been 74 traffic deaths in Nova Scotia this year reports the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

This is seven less than the 81 road fatalities that occurred up to this time in 1975.

There were no deaths last week in highway traffic in the province.

Fatal accidents to date this year number 60, eight less than the 68 which were recorded at the like period in 1975.

Home Canning Equipment

The busy home canning season is just weeks away and it's no time to be ill-equipped. Far too many people decide at the last minute to can the abundance of fresh fruits which hit the market and because they don't have adequate or proper supplies they make do with what's available resulting in a waste of good food, time, energy and money.

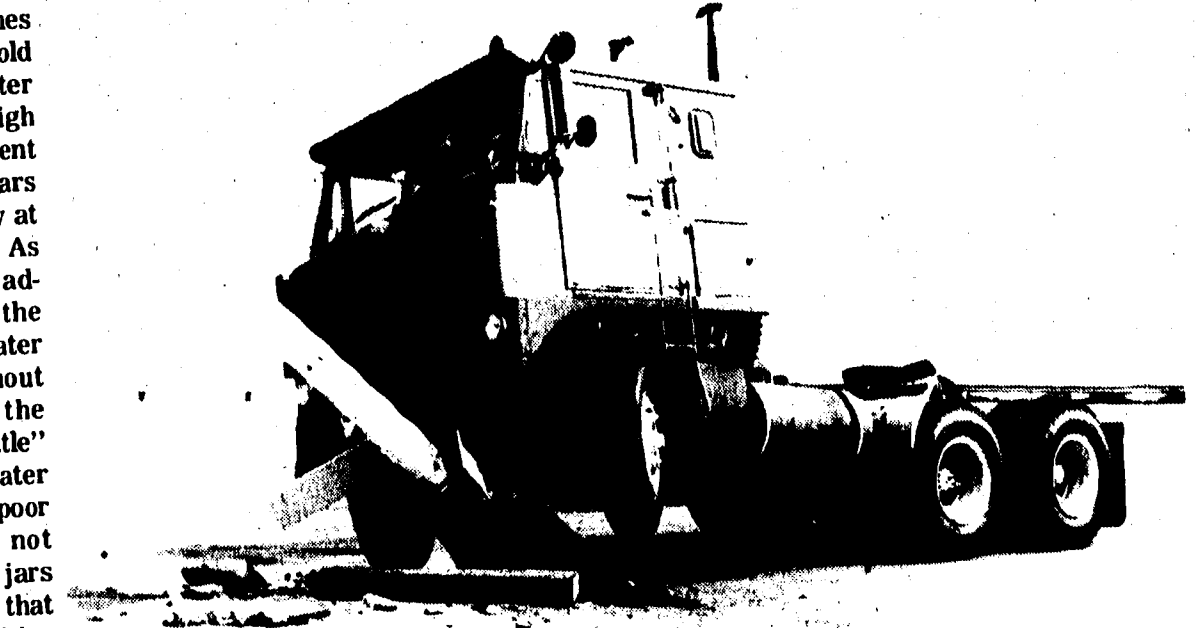

If you plan to can fruits this summer, you must use a hot water bath processor. This piece of equipment is simply a large pot, similar to a stock pot, which comes equipped with a rack to hold canning jars. The hot water bath processor must be high enough to allow sufficient water to cover the jars completely, preferably by at least one or two inches. As well, there should be additional space in the processor to allow this water to boil rapidly without spilling over. Using the oven or the "open kettle" methods instead of hot water bath processor are very poor substitutes and are not recommended. Mason jars or other canning jars that are not in perfect condition are the only suitable glass containers recommended for home canning. Commercial jars, such as those used for peanut butter, mayonnaise or coffee, are not tempered to withstand the rapid heat changes that occur in the canning process, nor do they have an adequate closure to ensure proper seal.

Attempting to fit a regular mason jar cap on a commercial jar could be dangerous. The rims of commercial jars have varying size specifications which differ from mason jars and many of them have a "thread" on the side of the opening which will not properly fit a mason ring band. If undue pressure is applied to these jars by an improperly fitted lid, they could break during processing. It is strongly recommended that if you plan to can you contact the Home Economics Division Box 550, Truro, for a copy of "Canning Canadian Fruits and Vegetables."

Interest in antique cars can start at an early age. Here Holly Mount of Digby and Heather Abbott of Smiths Cove admire a pre-war model Rolls Royce at the Mountain Gap Inn, last Thursday.

This Annapolis Valley Peat Moss truck came to an abrupt stop while hauling a trailer from the Princess of Acadia early Friday morning. Driver of the truck was Brian Balcolm of Berwick.

They say the answer to your problems is just around the corner. Why not take a walk and find out.

UCW Holds Nursery Party

Bear River United Church Women held their annual nursery party in the vestry of the Church on Tuesday afternoon. The seventeen children present enjoyed music, games, stories and playing with brightly colored balloons. After a treat of ice cream, cookies and a coolade each child was given a gift. If noise was any indication they all had a wonderful time.

After the children and their parents had gone home the UCW had their business meeting with the president, Mrs. Reginald Handspiker, presiding. It was decided to have no meetings in July and August. Plans for the supper to be held in the Vestry on June twenty-seventh were discussed. The congregations of Weymouth, Clementsport and Bear River, are uniting for a Church service at three o'clock. This will be Mr. Hall's last service as minister. Following the service, supper will be in the Church vestry.

Antique Cars On Tour

About 65 antique Rolls Royce and Bentley automobiles received a measure of local attention during their stay in the Digby area on June 16 and 17. The cars pictured here were on display at the Mountain Gap Inn, Smiths Cove.

bers internationally.

Most of the cars participating in the tour were of American origin, some travelling from as far as Texas, Louisiana and Florida.

The group arrived in Yarmouth aboard the Bolara from Portland, Me. around 8 a.m. Wednesday. The tour originated in Woodstock, Vermont.

After leaving Digby, the tour headed for St. Andrews, N.B., thence to Bar Harbour, site of the tour's end.

A number of the cars are pre World War II Silver Ghosts and Phantoms. Tour member Fred Kelly of Washington, D.C., put the value of each of these in the vicinity of $85,000 to $100,000. He placed the value of post-war models at about $25,000 each.

In spite of the age of many of the cars, Mr. Kelly said no traffic problems have been encountered so far. "They move right along," he said. All are able to maintain a travelling speed of 55-60 mph.

The only problems encountered in the tour to date have been minor, relating to tires, sticking brakes and the like.

Study Life Of Missionary From Nova Scotia

The Women's Missionary Society of Clementsport, Baptist Church, consists of 13 members who meet monthly. The June meeting met with Mrs. Sable MacNinch on Wednesday 9th at 2:30 p.m.

The meeting opened with prayer by the president, Mrs. Inez Barteaux and Miss Pattie Myers who was a guest, having come over on the Princess Acadia that afternoon to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Myers.

The devotional was by Mrs. Eva Coates, her scripture was taken from 1 Cor. 3rd Chapter. The secretary, Mrs. Vivian Langille gave her report, followed by the treasurer's report. The Spiritual Life lesson was by the vice-president Mrs. Borden Fountain, using as her theme "Cast All Your Cares Upon Him", for He Cometh for You", Matt. 15:25.

The lesson was given by Mrs. Garland Myers on the life of a Missionary and her work in the mission fields at Nairobi, Kenya, in the person of Sylvia Kinsman who once lived in Brookfield Queen's Co., N.S., and went to school there.

The July meeting will be with Mrs. Sarah Costello of Malden Mass., either on the 12 or 13th of July at her summer home, Terrace Cottage. The devotional and lesson will be by Mrs. Inez Barteaux and Mrs. Mildred Gates. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. MacNinch.

THE DIGBY COURIER

Dialing direct is the "do it yourself" way to save on long distance calls.

It's fun too!

You dial the number, and you're there. Just like a local call. It's spontaneous and friendly. And it costs a lot less than a person-to-person call.

Even during busy daytime hours, you can call any point in Nova Scotia or P.E.I. for about 1/4 the cost of an operator-assisted call. Dial your call after 6 p.m. or all day Sunday and you can save another 30%. And after 10 p.m. you save 50%, any day of the week.

Direct Distance Dialing (DDD) makes long distance calling so economical, you don't have to wait for a special occasion. So, "do it yourself." Call during the day, evening or night time. But remember... Be brave. Be a DDDer and save.

MARITIME TEL&TEL

You save more when you dial direct during "Moonlight Saving Time."

God's Love

I may not understand God's love.
It is so vast, so great, so pure.
It goes beyond my finite mind,
But this just makes His love more sure.
I only know the little now,

For this is all that I can see,
And so I cannot know ahead,
What God in wisdom plans for me.

But I can trust in Him each day,
And let His Word in me abide.

In His great love I rest secure.
May He alone be glorified.

Dorothy Marshall.

Smokey Bear Is Back!

The Smokey Bear Vacation Reading Club will be held in all the branches and bookmobiles of Western ### Plan now to join the fun "Doin' the Digby"!

Princess of Acadia Friday night Dance cruises on the Bay of Fundy

Digby to Saint John and Return. Leaving on Friday nights of June 25, July 16, August 6, August 27, September 10 at 8 P.M.

Again this summer, by popular demand, everyone's "Doin' the Digby"! Because there's nothing else like it in Atlantic Canada—a mini sea-cruise with continuous pleasure.

Just park your car at the dock and come aboard. Cruise in comfort—feel relaxed and refreshed. Dance to a great live band "The Bonded Stock", playing modern and old-time music. Enjoy your favourite drinks at popular prices in the restful bar/lounge. And have a wonderful time!

$10.00 PER PERSON INCLUDES DELICIOUS BUFFET

Tickets available to sailing time at the Digby Terminal, or reservations can be made by phoning Bay of Fundy Passenger Ferry Service at 245-2116.

Operated by CPRail Bay of Fundy Service

Counties Regional Library again this summer. To earn a Smokey Bear Certificate, children must read ten books on nature and the environment during July and August.

Everyone registering for the program will receive a Smokey Bear bookmark and registration card. All children are invited to join the fun and to learn what Smokey knows by joining his club at the Digby, Yarmouth, Clark's Harbour, Shelburne and Lockeport Branch Libraries, as well as on the two bookmobiles. The program runs from July 2 to August 30, with pre-registration the week before.

DIGBY NECK & ISLANDS

Westport

(Mrs. Charles McDormand)

Mrs. Terry Thomas and daughter, Rochelle, Digby, spent the weekend with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Titus. Rochelle will visit for a month with her grandparents.

Miss Catherine LeBlanc spent the weekend at Church Point with her father and family.

Mrs. Audrey Stevens and family, Falmouth, were weekend visitors of her mother, Mrs. Fred Swift.

Mrs. William Sharpe, Bridgewater, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Delaney.

Miss Wendy Dawn Calder, Grand Manan has been visiting her aunt Mrs. John Graham and Mr. Graham while her mother Mrs. Doris Calder is in Hospital in Saint John, N.B.

Visitors of Mrs. Evelyn Saunders and Terry have been Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whitehouse, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Saunders all of Yarmouth; Mr. and Mrs. Frank MacAlpine of Islands Pond, Yarmouth Co.

Mrs. Raymond Robicheau is visiting at Oshawa, Ontario with her mother, Mrs. G.S. Verburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomas, Tiverton, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Douglas Delaney and family.

Mrs. Robert German and family, Meteghan Center, spent the weekend with her sister, Mrs. Herman Dakin and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Swift were overnight visitors in Saint John, N.B., where they visited their daughter Mrs. Doris Calder at Saint John General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bill, Kentville, spent a few days visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Welch.

Mrs. E. B. Pugh is visiting at Greenwood with her daughter Mrs. Murray Thomas and will be going to Halifax, for medical treatment.

Mrs. Albert McDormand and three grandchildren, motored to Dartmouth where they visited the former's daughter, Mrs. Brenda Guptill.

Lic. and Mrs. David Keith, daughter Lynn have moved to Rossway, Digby Co., where he has accepted a pastorate of Rossway and Centerville churches.

During the summer months Mr. Lou Outhouse, a student of M.C.C. in Prince Edward Island and a resident of Tiverton, will be working with the Westport United Baptist Church.

On a recent Sunday afternoon a concert was held in the United Baptist Church when the Keynote Quartet and the Longards gave an entertaining afternoon in song. At the supper hour they and a number of residents of Westport were served supper in the vestry.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert MacFadyen, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bailey motored to the valley and attended the Apple Blossom festivities.

Mr. Bob Brooks, Halifax, accompanied by Mr. Richard McDormand, Smith's Cove, were in town taking pictures of the island. Mr. Brooks stated it was a before and after pictures, following storm damage of February 2nd.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Strickland motored to Middleton, where they attended the graduation of their niece, Miss Linda McDormand at Vocational School.

Freeport

(Mrs. Virginia Crocker)

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton MacNeill on Saturday May 29th, the occasion being Mr. MacNeill's 86th birthday. Friends and relatives came to call and wish him a "Happy Birthday" among them his oldest son, Dr. Blair and Mrs. MacNeill from Guelph, Ontario. Many cards and gifts were received by Mr. MacNeill and a birthday cake presented to him from a neighbor, Mrs. Merrill Stanton. We also wish Mr. MacNeill many more happy and healthy birthdays.

Friends and relatives of Mrs. Avery (Mary) Finigan called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Finigan to wish her a "Happy Birthday" on June 10th. Among the lovely cards and gifts she received was a pretty birthday cake from a friend Mrs. Florence Campbell. Refreshments were served to all those who called. We wish her many more happy birthdays.

Mrs. June Campbell has returned to spend several days more visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Tibert after visiting with relatives in Nassau, N.H. She will soon be returning to Africa via Montreal and Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graham and daughter, Kimberly, Centerville and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Comeau, Hill Grove were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Prime. Roy Leeman and Clifton

Thurber who have been patients at the Digby Hospital have now returned home and we hope that they are feeling much better.

Mrs. Isobel Powell has returned from Halifax after spending several days there visiting her husband who is a patient at V.G. hospital.

Its nice to see Rev. and Mrs. Eric Titus back for the summer months at their home here. They make the trip from California every summer to spend their vacation on the island.

Mrs. David (Doris) Titus and daughters California, are spending the summer vacation visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hooper.

William Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moore, was a recent patient at the Digby General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kinney and daughters, Michelle, Wendy and Denise spent the weekend at Windsor with Mrs. Mrs. Kinney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elstrom Thomas.

Fair Isle Rebekah Lodge was hostess to the Sunset and Sunrise Lodges from Tiverton and Westport at their last meeting on June 10th. After the business meeting games were played followed by a buffet supper of cold ham, salads, jellied molds, tea, coffee and cake.

Organ Donor Week

The 1976 Organ Donor Week was opened by the provincial branch of the Kidney Foundation of Canada today with a goal of having every adult in Nova Scotia becoming a card-carrying volunteer for the donation of vital tissues for transplant upon their deaths.

With an increasing number of Canadians, many of them in this province, suffering from kidney failure and other incurable disorders, the need for kidney transplants is greater than ever, said Organ Donor Campaign Chairman, Peter Andrewes of Halifax.

Scores of Nova Scotians are alive and healthy today because of the gifts of kidneys having been passed to them.

Among these is business executive Scott Nason, the new President of the Nova Scotia Branch of the Foundation, and such other recent recipients as ten-year-old Oran Mosher of Kinsac, Halifax County, and 18-year-old high school student Debbie MacLean of New Glasgow. Miss MacLean first had her bladder removed at the age of 12 and suffered kidney failure last year. After a year of dialysis machine care, a replacement kidney was successfully transferred two months ago from her brother Phillip.

"The Organ Donor Program is part of a nation-wide effort which, we hope, will make it possible to save hundreds of lives of people who otherwise must die because of insufficient kidney donors," said Mr. Nason.

"We now have teams of specialists in Nova Scotia and elsewhere who are highly skilled in the medical art of transferring these and other organs from bodies of the dead or living to people in need of these kidneys and other organs so they may lead normal lives again. These are highly dedicated physicians, ready and anxious to provide continued life to kidney failure sufferers but they can do nothing without sufficient people being ready—and making their readiness known by the signing of pledge cards and informing their next-of-kin—to have the needed organs transplanted from their bodies within the required time immediately after death," Mr. Nason pointed out.

Since the Victoria General Hospital Kidney transplant team was organized in 1969, 107 successful transplant operations have been performed on Nova Scotians. More than three dozen other kidney failure sufferers are now on dialysis treatment waiting for healthy kidneys to be made available to them.

Organ donor cards are available upon request from the Secretary of the Nova Scotia Branch of the Kidney Foundation, Mrs. Ruth Fisher of Dartmouth, by telephoning 429-9298 or writing to P.O. Box 3301, Halifax.

Reflecting To 1946

"The Cross of Christ, erected as a memorial to the twelve who perished when the coastal steamer, Robert Cann, battered by the fury of a winter storm, sank in the Bay of Fundy in February, now stands overlooking the quiet waters of Riley's Cove on the Bay of Fundy Coast of Digby Neck."

That was the lead paragraph of the story entitled "Monument Erected to Lost Seamen" in the June 27, 1946 issue of The Digby Courier. The Cross stands on a cairn erected from rocks gathered on the beach where Captain Arthur Ellis and his dying comrade Joseph Muise stumbled to a frozen shore from a lifeboat which held the bodies of their dead companions. The remainder of the story retold the incident from the time of that February 15 afternoon when the Robert Cann cleared from Saint John for Tiverton with a general cargo. Her crew comprised 12 men and one stewardess. The captain was Emery Peters and the mate Arthur Ellis of Port Greville. A winter storm blew on the morning of the sixteenth and the crew took to the lifeboat. For nineteen hours they tossed about. By midnight when the lifeboat grounded on the rock beach at Riley's Cove, only two of the thirteen were alive. Ellis led the way through the forest to Lake Midway and the home of Mrs. J. T. Dimock, widow of Rev. J. T. Dimock. Mr. Muise, the other living man at landing died enroute to hospital. The monument erected at Riley's Cove was made by Carl Dimock of Lake Midway who was the first to hear of the disaster. The five-foot cylindrical base of the monument was constructed from beach rock gathered by Mr. Dimock. A plaque reads "S.S. Robert Cann Disaster Survivor Captain A. Ellis..." The names of those who died were also there.

More than three hundred attended the Maritime Hospital Association's fourth annual convention held at the Pines Hotel. The ladies were guests at an afternoon tea sponsored by the Digby Ladies Hospital Aid and held at the Nurses' Residence of the Digby General Hospital.

Thousands attended the annual celebration of the religious feast of Corpus Christi on Sunday at Church Point. The occasion is commonly called "French Walk." About 1500 participated in the procession.

The Bear River Branch of the Canadian Legion were raising funds for the purpose of erecting a Community Hall as a memorial to the boys of that area who paid the Supreme Sacrifice during the war 1939-1946.

A writer notes that pollock fishing is in full swing and are being caught in thirty to forty in a catch. There was a great deal of sport to catching pollock according to the writer but no real concerted effort, however, is being made to capitalize on the pollock fishing as a tourist attraction such as was done with tuna.

Many Attend Drive-In

In spite of the grey skies and threat of rain, over one hundred turned out for the opening Drive-In Service on the grounds of the Smith's Cove Consolidated School last Sunday evening, June 20.

The Pastor, Rev. Wallace H. Jordan, led the service and brought a message for this Father's Day service on "Choose You This Day Whom You Will Serve," on Joshua's proclamation to the people of Israel as written in the Old Testament, Joshua 24:1-24.

Special music was provided by the Men's Group of the Pastorate and surrounding areas, as they presented old favorites, "At Calvary," "Love Lifted Me," "Kneel At the Cross," and others.

The service this Sunday, June 27, special music will be presented by the Smith's Cove Baptist Choir and the Ladies Trio. Pastor Jordan will bring the Gospel message.

Barn Destroyed
By Fire

Mid-Tuesday afternoon the barn belonging to Robert Brown, Upper Clements, was completely destroyed by fire. Answering a Mutual Call from the Annapolis Royal Volunteer Department were firemen from Bear River and Bridgetown.

Fireman Eric Orde was taken by ambulance to the A. G. Hospital, suffering leg injuries.

The Smiths Cove fire department was first alerted of the fire by a six year old boy, Graham Coker, of Smiths Cove.

P. Marion Gott, who received the call, said the Grade I Student reported the situation very clearly.

Maine To Digby
- In A Rowboat

Boating enthusiast Mike Kotzen of Newport Rhode Island arrived in Digby on June 17 after a non-stop row from Monhegan Island, Maine.

Mike, 24, made the trip in a souflex fibreglass boat he designed and built himself last summer. The approximately 100 miles were covered in about 4 1/2 days.

Prevailing winds throughout the trip were from the southwest which is not a bad direction for the Digby trip. But they blew somewhat stronger than anticipated.

Mike kept on course with the aid of two compasses and a direction finder. He was given assistance through the Digby Gut current via a tow from a local fishing vessel.

Some food during the trip was cooked on a small burner, but sandwiches made up most of the traveller's diet. Mike managed to sleep at night without going too far off track.

The visitor was accommodated at the Digby Yacht Club during his one-night stay here. On Friday he started out on a hitchhiking trip to Halifax, whence he will fly to Boston.

His boat and remaining equipment will be hauled back home later.

AIRPORT OFFICIALLY OPENS

Official opening of the Digby Municipal Airport in a rain-shortened ceremony in Hillgrove on Saturday, has raised hopes of a brighter future for this comparatively have not area of Nova Scotia.

The next step in the minds of many is to get a regular air service operating here. Eastern Provincial Airways has already applied to the department of transport for authority to include Digby in its operations.

Peter Nicholson, provincial minister of finance, performed the official ribbon-cutting function in the absence of Transport Minister Otto Lang.

In a brief address to a somewhat soggy audience, Mr. Nicholson said he envisions air traffic flowing between Digby and New Brunswick. "We put a high priority on it (airport) because of its inter-provincial potential," Mr. Nicholson said.

Wilfred Swift, Warden of the District of Digby, noted this as a proud day for himself and the municipal council. A municipal airport has been talked about and dreamed of for a long time, he said, but today it is a reality. He said there has never been so many people worthy of so much thanks.

Total cost of the airport project to date has been about $500,000. The land is owned by the municipality.

Interest in the airport was rejuvenated when the Digby Flying Club was organized in 1974. The latest improvement was paving of a 4000 ft. by 100 ft. runway which was recently completed.

The federal involvement in the program amounted to about $175,000 while the province contributed about $350,000.

Irven Marshall, Chairman of the municipal Airport Committee, is one of the optimistic persons who believes the airport will give this area a new lease on life. He believes there'll be "no way to hold this area back" once a regular service is started.

Others included MOT Atlantic Regional director Tom Prescott, Art McDermit for the provincial projects implementation group, and Clare Warden Omer Blinn.

In passing out thanks,

Warden Swift mentioned the municipal council, Louis Wyles, Colleen Campbell, Joe Casey, The Digby Flying Club, Irven Marshall and Art McDermit.

School Boards Prepare For Coming Year

While school has closed for the summer, school boards are using the summer months to prepare buildings and making plans for the year 1976-77. At the Digby Regional High School Board presided over by the chairman, Capt. Reginald Hazelton on Monday evening, the board decided to have Harold Murphy repair and calk the 1948-57-61 and 70 wings of the school. Valley Paving Co., was engaged to finish the driveway paving and Andrews Department Store tender was chosen for supplying drapes to the Home Economics Room etc. Total summer maintenance was estimated at $9223.45.

By regular motion it was decided to use students for casual labor in summer maintenance.

Bills for the month passed for payment amounted to $7598.82. A motion was also passed to pay the Annapolis-Digby Physical Education $102.10 to defray operating costs.

Owing to the resignation of Lester Hannah from the Recreation Committee because of taking up educational duties in Africa, Rick Olsen was named to take his place on the committee.

The resignation of Thomas Chmiel was accepted from the teaching staff and Mrs. Marion Croft was accepted on the staff for the 1976-77 year.

At the Digby Board of School Commissioners, Jack Ritey, Supervisor of Curriculum and Mrs. Nola Jeffrey's, Guidance, reported 87 pre school enrollments making a half class increase. Along with the increase is also a two teacher cut back to be considered.

A motion made by Mrs. Eileen Chipman at the Commissioners' meeting that a letter of approval for election of school board members be sent to the government was defeated because of lack of a second.

Tenders for paving were delayed for a later opening date when more Board members could be present.

The differential in amounts various school boards receive for expenses for attending meetings came into question. It was felt that this would be overcome with school board amalgamation. By motion it was decided to seek information from the school inspector, C. E. Edwards regarding amalgamation of the D.R.H.S. Board, the Digby Municipal Board and the Board of School Commissioners.

30 Students Bid Farewell To DRHS

Risk to be different! That was the message brought to 30 Digby Regional High School students during graduating exercises.

The graduation exercises lasted about 2½ hours. Mood music was provided by The DRHS Concert Band under the direction of Don Scott.

Pamela Dawn Graham led the list of award, scholarship and bursary recipients during the evening. Her prizes included the Mayor's Scholastic cup, presented by Mayor C.E. Haliburton; The Regional High School Memorial Cup, presented by C.C. MacInnes; the Queen Elizabeth II Award, presented by Reginald Hazelton; The Gidney Memorial Award, presented by Nola Jeffrey; the Gregory R. Stonehouse Memorial Award presented by C.B. Page; and the Bernice M. Purdy Memorial award, presented by J.E. Ritey.

In addition, Pamela was awarded a $1,000 renewable scholars to Acadia University for three or four years.

Other awards included the Royal Canadian Legion Memorial Trophy, presented to Robert Luke Dugas and Ellen Margaret Cann by Legion President Charlie Francis; the Student Leadership Award, to Benjamin MacAllister Elms, by R.D. Haley; the Lieutenant Governor's Medal, to Gertrude Martha Melanson and James Bruce Kempton, by Vivian O'Neill; the Staff Award, to Marilyn Sadie Clayton, by W.V. Troupe; the F.C. Purdy Scholastic Award, to Eric Richard Woods, by G. W. Barton; the Frederick C. Giles Memorial award, to Rachel Joanne Wagner, by R. J. Ross; the Dr. Linus Doiron Memorial Award, to Alan Chester Frankland, by H.J. Poller; the Major E. H. Anderson Memorial Shield, to Patricia Anne Sutherland and Eric Richard Woods, by Pat Kynock; the School Board Athletic Trophies to Linda Rachel Blinn and Robert Luke Dugas, by P.M. Thurber; the Two-year Secretarial Program Award, to Jacquelyn Ann McCullough, by Beverly Champion; the Eva Wendell Current Events Cup, to Randy Joseph O'Connell, by W.E. Schofield; the Mathematics Prize, to Jennifer Eileen Morehouse, by G.A. Carman the Social Studies Award, to Rachel Joanne Wagner by C.L. Boodoosingh; the DRHS English Award, to Terry Lee Silver, by J.F. Theriault; and the Accounting Award, to Patsy Myrna Height, by P.A. Belliveau.

Other university scholarships went to Joseph Anthonie Marzouca, a renewable scholarship of $700 to St. Mary's University; Gail Jean Smith, an entrance scholarship to Mount St. Vincent University of $1,500; and Jacqueline Dawn Journeay, a renewable Sharp Scholarship of $500 to Mount Allison University.

Winners of the two bursaries of $150 each provided by the Digby Council of the Knights of Columbus were Randy Joseph O'Connell and Ruth Charlotte Bremner; The Royal Canadian Legion Bursary of $300 went to Claude Hector Pothier, The Digby Local of the N.S. Teachers' Union award of $200 went to Ruth Charlotte Bremner and Judi Gayle LeFurgey; the Acaciaville Conway Community Betterment Association Award of $100 went to Benjamin MacAllister Elms.

Guest Speaker for the evening was Dr. William B. Hamilton, Director of the Atlantic Institute of Education.

Dr. Hamilton used the Loyalists as a model in his address, not because of their political cause, but because they were a minority group, dissenters, and dared to be different.

He made mention of Col James Moody who gave up a farm in Delaware to come to Nova Scotia. His tombstone can be found on the grounds of St. Peter's Church in Weymouth, the speaker said.

It may be pleasant to follow the multitudes, Mr.

Dr. W. B. Hamilton, Director of the Atlantic Institute of Education addressed graduating students at Digby Regional High School. Dr. Hamilton has been widely published in the field of Canadian social and educational history.

Hamilton said, but it is a pleasure dearly bought at the expense of one's conscience. He urged the students not to fear holding unpopular views.

Dr. Hamilton was introduced by C.E. MacInnes and thanked by Rachel Wagner.

The official welcome to the graduating exercises had earlier been given by Reginald Hazelton. This graduation, he said marks an educational milestone - for some it is the end of formal education, but for most it is only the groundwork of a life long learning process.

He urged the students to put their best effort into whatever they do.

Validictorian this year was Pamela Dawn Graham. She

Lawyers Make Better Politicians

Lawyers usually make better politicians than people in other professions because of the nature of their legal training, former national Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said here on the weekend.

He predicted that members of the legal profession would continue to dominate Parliament and legislatures for some time to come.

Provincial Recreation Minister Garnet Brown said recently that most legislatures have too many lawyers, who lack the practical experience of businessmen.

Mr. Stanfield said it was fine for Mr. Brown to deplore the influence of lawyers, "but nobody has figured out any way of ending the dominance of lawyers in politics in Canada."

(Mr. Stanfield is a lawyer, and Mr. Brown is a business man.)

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Nova Scotia Barristers Society and the provincial branch of the Canadian Bar Association, Mr. Stanfield said businessmen do not so frequently make good practising legislators.

Lawyers had certain advantages because they felt more at ease with parliamentary procedures.

"Even when they do not understand it, which is frequent, they do not let that bother them; perhaps because they are used to bluffing their way through much of their day's work anyway, never allowing ignorance of the finer points in law to bother them in the slightest."

The bluffing and fabrication of arguments that took place in most legislatures was really a way of life for lawyers anyway.

Many lawyers took to legislature like ducks took to water; they felt at ease and had long experience in trying to make the best of a bad case where necessary.

A businessman or a Canadian in most other walks of life, was likely to feel ill at ease making an argument he did not really believe.

"That is an enormous handicap in politics, one from which lawyers rarely said attempts must be made to work together to overcome evils in today's society.

suffer," said Mr. Stanfield. THREE MORE SUPREME COURT JUSTICES URGED

The Nova Scotia Barristers Society Saturday approved a resolution calling for the appointment of three additional judges to the province's Supremes Court.

The resolution, which was passed by a majority of delegates to the Society's annual meeting, authorizes the Bar council to request the government to amend the province's Judicature Act to allow the appointment of two new judges to the trial division and one to the appeals division of the Supreme Court.

The appointment of more judges was thought to be necessary to deal with the increasing caseload of the Supreme Court, and to rectify the problem of long delays in having matters heard by the court.

A report concerning caseload problems had been presented to the annual meeting by society first vice-president, Senator G.I. Smith, QC. The author of the report was K. M. Matthews, QC, chairman of a special committee which the Society had set up in the fall to investigate congestion in the province's courts.

The report recommended not only the appointment of more judges, but also called upon the barristers' society executive to meet with the provincial government in order to achieve early passage of the proposed amendments.

Prowlers Strike Conway, Weymouth

Digby RCMP are investigating a rash of break and enters which occurred in this area between June 20 and 22.

Sometime during the night of June 20-21 breaks occurred at Weymouth Motors and the Imperial Oil bulk plant in Weymouth. A car taken from Weymouth Motors was recovered at the parking lot of the Evangeline Shoppers' Mall on Saturday.

On the same night, minor damage resulted from two cottage breaks in Gilbert Cove.

The next night, prowlers victimized the Gulf service station, Doug's Irving, Height's Take Out service, The Co-Op and The Cove all in Conway. Police reported only minor losses resulted.

O CANADA

O Canada, our home, our native land. Seems to us that we can remember when much more gusto went into the singing of O Canada than has been put into it for the past few years. But, that might not show a lack of pride in Canada since people and their ways of expressing themselves change from generation to generation. Many of the older ones of this generation, for instance, will be glad some day to sit through quieter music than the young people of today enjoy.

Even the words "our home, our native land" might have changed somewhat in meaning during the past few years. The whole world has become smaller and many happenings make us wonder where and how much is our native land. The fact of the Habitat Conference and the news stories which came out from it have a tendency to make people think more in terms of world-wide than in sections of the globe of which Canada is a part.

Yet, it is well for each of us to bear in mind that tomorrow, Thursday, is July 1. It is Dominion Day if we wish to call it that, or Canada Day. It is a day to think of Canada not so much in a selfish patriotism as in a thankful spirit, grateful for the good life enjoyed in this land in the past.

For the past week various regions, towns and villages have been trying to make the citizens Canada conscious by Canada Week celebrations. Canada Week as such ends tomorrow and our fear is that like so many weeks, when the week has ceased so will the consciousness of Canada, our home, our native land. Instead let us tomorrow, attend whatever function for fund-raising or for celebrating that is being held in our community, reflect with grateful pride on achievements of the past but resolve not to drop that pride when Canada Day or Canada Week has ended.

The speaker at the Digby Regional High School graduation on Thursday evening, Dr. Hamilton, mentioned several Loyalists by name who had put up with struggles and hardships to begin life in our own area of Canada called Digby. Looking back with admiration and pride and learning from their philosophy on life is worthwhile exercise. It is useful to look back, to appreciate what others have done whether in our own immediate area or throughout an entire nation. It is so easy to forget and become unappreciative. Looking back with pride, however, would be of little consequence without faith in the future. So tomorrow on Dominion Day adopt an optimistic look into the future of the country, a country which is made up of people from many origins but people who can together both appreciate the past and look into a happy future.

"O Canada, our home, our native land." Yes, it can be sung by all of us whether we have been here a long time or whether we are new to the land. Let's sing it with gusto and mean it. It can continue to be land.

Letters To The Editor

Editor

Dear Mrs. Wallis:

In the June 17 issue of The Courier there were two rather interesting letters, and because of particular statements made, some facts should, I think, be pointed out and seriously considered.

First, we all know that not every soldier is or was a good soldier, no more than every civilian is or was a good civilian. However, people generally are, better behaved and better performing when not under the influence of alcohol.

Now, human nature being what it is, it most always depends on whose toes are being stepped on who does the complaining and, this truth, of course, applies to whose peace or sleep is being broken or arrested. Intemperance, over the years, has broken the peace and security of countless homes, and is now threatening the peace and security of countless more.

There is plenty of good reasons to say, and evidence to show, that any money made from liquor sales does not really pay for anything, because people as a whole are more heavily taxed to pay for the many adverse results stemming from alcoholism and alcohol intoxication.

Since efforts were made about fifteen years ago to relax the liquor laws in Nova Scotia, to accommodate the tourist industry, such industry has less than doubled on the real value of the dollar, but, during the same period of time, alcoholism and alcohol intoxication in Nova Scotia has considerably more than doubled, with all its related crime, ill health, accidents, absenteeism, inferior workmanship, and considerable loss of peace and security in many homes and communities.

In particular regard to the question at hand, I am very mindful of certain complaints made some years ago by two war veterans, each on different occasions. On each occasion, the veteran had his

Hodge Podge

Some people have all the luck - or maybe talent. There's Joe Casey who has risen to considerable fame because he knew how to win an election. After his election he became famous for telling stories (jokes, not falsehoods) and the highest and latest rise to fame he has attained, we hear, is in the field of photography. The Digby Courier has not investigated the authenticity of this last credit. All we saw was the name Joe Casey. But, what's in a name?

About this time every year homeowners become concerned about the insects and diseases that affect their gardens. When pesticides are used as a control method, safe practices are extremely important. If chemical control measures are to be used, make sure the right one is used for the particular problem and do not mix batches of different chemicals. It is important to read the label and follow the instructions carefully. Make sure the recommended dosage is not exceeded nor the concentration increased. When the concentration is increased, there is a danger of damaging the plants, killing beneficial parasites and predators and making food crops inedible.

Wonderful to have newspapers. If we didn't how would we ever know that 30 years ago the school principal had laryngitis and was not able to deliver his address at the Digby Senior High School graduation exercises.

See where the Women's Institute Convention in Lawrencetown passed a resolution to urge people to preserve trillium, ladyslippers and mayflowers in their natural habitat before they might become extinct Trillium and ladyslippers, along with mayflowers they were special to Arbor Day. And that was back when.

The Safety Council urges drivers not to undertake long trips on an empty stomach, which can increase drowsiness, and if driving extensively with windows open, have frequent drinks of coffee, tea, milk, water of soft drinks along with rest periods. Before starting a trip, spend a few minutes inspecting the vehicle to avoid highway breakdown or accident, and especially check tire pressure with a gauge while tires are cool.

A Canadian Red Cross Summer Tip: Accidents to children can happen more quickly than you think. On the beach and in the water keep an eye on children every minute. A child out of sight or out of hearing may be a dead child.

If you must change seats in a small boat, keep your weight low, move slowly, and hold on to both sides of the gunwale. Do not stand up.

Secretary of State J. Hugh Faulkner has announced 33 grants totalling $108,685 under the program of assistance to voluntary associations. This program, administered by the Secretary of State Department's Language Programs Branch, makes it possible to provide grants and technical assistance to non-profit associations, to encourage them to make use of both official languages. The grants are aimed at helping the associations meet the cost of simultaneous interpretation and translation services at important conferences, and the cost of translating their main documents. The associations are required to meet part of these costs themselves. It is hoped that the program will gradually encourage these associations to consider interpretation and translation services as part of their normal operating costs.

Nothing like being booked up early! Digby's band isn't very old but it is in high demand, we hear. Even way on to New Year. What a nice cool thought for a hot summer day.

sleep broken and complained bitterly about it, even though it resulted from quite legitimate and necessary business reasons.

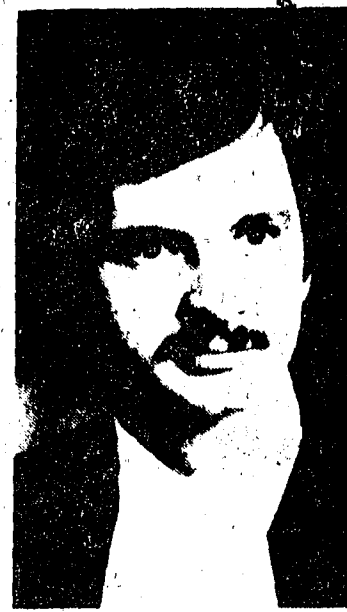

However, when night-time sleep of a man and his family is frequently arrested, week after week, by intemperance, unthinking, and inconsiderate persons, then, it seems very sensible and reasonable to me that such persons so aggravated have full right to complain and, deserve redress for such aggravation.

Let the custodians of peace do their duty in putting an end to such license. Furthermore, let no establishment that sells alcoholic beverages receive any tax exemption - it just is not right to exempt such an establishment.

Everything considered, money received from liquor sales, be it in the form of tax revenue or donations to charity, does not really pay for anything. Is it not a case of robbing Peter to pay Paul with considerable cost and loss as a result of the method used? Some are helped while more are hurt. Trying to attain a certain end certainly does not justify all means to attain it.

Some years before and during the first part of the last world war we heard and read about the famous French Maginot line being a permanent defense against German attack. It was called the ultra modern defensive fortification. We also heard about the well trained, well equipped and large French army. Nevertheless, when the German army and other forces decided to attack and the cold war grew hot, the German army and air force soon disabled the Maginot line and the army quickly fought its way around one end of the line to engage the French.

It did not take very long for the French government to acknowledge defeat, whereupon a new French cabinet was formed under the leadership of the aged and venerable Marshal Henri Petain to ask for an armistice.

Marshal Petain sometime later was quoted to have said to the effect that, the French army could not really fight because of too much alcoholism and drunkenness.

Let us not be so foolish that we destroy our communities and nation by (slow, but sure) alcohol and other drug poisoning with its attending irresponsible behavior. Rather, much rather, let us have reasonable peace and security (the basics for building a decent and happy human society). There is no doubt in my mind that increasing use of alcohol (a drug), now widespread, has resulted in increasing use of other drugs as well.

I have always thought that the real soldiers in action fought for peace and security and, fight to preserve such, in peace time - not to destroy it!

Special Committee Report regarding Painted Room in Karsdale submitted by Mrs. A. McCormick, Town Councillor, and Professor Barry Moody, Historian. 21st June, 1976.

We the executive and members of Historic Restoration Enterprises Society of Annapolis County, have learned with interest and some unease of the planned removal of the "Painted Room" in Karsdale, Annapolis County. As a society actively engaged in the preservation and display of Nova Scotia's heritage, we have long been concerned about the future of this unique relic of our past. Several of our members, over the years, have aided the Halls in their often frustrating attempts to secure aid for the mural's preservation. Our society's continuing concern over the future of this room as well as our deep commitment to the concept of heritage preservation has prompted this report.

First, it should be underscored that our society applauds the steps taken by the National Gallery to secure and restore the paintings. We feel that it is the Gallery's right as well as its obligation to purchase, remove, restore and display this room. No other organization at least not in Nova Scotia, has the financial resources and the technical know-how to undertake such a costly and difficult job. As this is fully understood by our society, we have only praise for the National Gallery's foresight and leadership.

It is really only on the

What The Digby Courier Means To Me

The Digby Courier means a lot to me. I like to read it every week because I like to know what goes on each day around our community. It also has a lot of notices in it that people probably wouldn't even know about if they didn't read the paper. I like it because it tells what shows are on at the Little Cinema and Drive-In. I think it is nice that it has the TV telecaster in shows are on at the Little Cinema and Drive-In. I think it is nice that it has the TV telecaster in shows are on at the Little Cinema and Drive-In. I think it is nice that it has the TV telecaster in shows are on at the Little Cinema and Drive-In.

I also like to look at the pictures in the Digby Courier and if there are any pictures of anyone I know, I can cut them out and keep them. It is nice that it also has the sales for groceries so people can tell where they can get their groceries cheaper than other places.

The Courier also tells some of the things that are going to happen in the future. The Digby Courier means a lot to me because if there wasn't a paper we would miss out on a lot of news. I find it interesting to read the "Reflecting To 1946" column because it tells you what happened back at that time.

I hope the Digby Courier means as much to a lot of other people as it does to me. It also takes a lot of work to putting the Courier together so we can receive it each week and I look forward to reading it every week.

Funds Just Not Available

Criticism of the provincial Department of Recreation over the removal to Ottawa of the Painted Room at Granville Ferry has been answered by Recreation Minister A. Garnet Brown in a letter to Allan Dunlop, President of the Federation of Museums, Heritage and Historical Societies.

Mr. Brown expressed concern about the loss of the Painted Room from the province, but he indicated that more pressing priorities were being faced in the visual arts area by the province. He said that an interim report on a study of the province's art collection indicates that 25 to 50 per cent of the 2,500 pieces of art owned by the province are in need of repair and conservation work.

"Funds have to be provided for that purpose on a high priority basis, or we are in danger of losing some of the valuable pieces of art in our existing collections," the minister said.

Following are further excerpts from Mr. Brown's letter to Mr. Dunlop:

"We are certainly aware of the National Gallery's interest and concern in the Painted Room, and about a year ago we attempted to have it kept in Nova Scotia. It has been the reported $250,000 to $300,000 which is necessary to ensure its proper preservation and public display.

"In a time of budgetary restraints and simply in a priority assessment of other arts needs of both an historic and contemporary nature, we have been forced to make a decision in favour of strengthening and protecting the art collections now in our possession rather than making an investment which represents at least two years of our total Art Gallery budget under present circumstances.

"The lack of an adequate art acquisition fund is, of course, the crux of the problem and it is further accentuated by the void we face in Nova Scotia because of a lack of cultural Foundations and Trusts which could come forth with substantial donations to assist government and or the private sector to acquire items of the nature of the Serres paintings or the Painted Room.

"I am sure that in the future we will face many more critical decisions such as the loss of the Painted Room, and unless there is a concerted effort to find a solution to the problem, Nova Scotia will continue to suffer losses such as those recently experienced.

"Rather than berating the National Gallery for attempting to save the Painted Room, I feel we in Nova Scotia should thank them for recognizing that this art should be preserved for future generations for being willing to make such a substantial investment in ensuring that it was not lost or damaged.

Last Year For Digby Natal Day?

The Digby Natal Day committee is finding itself plagued with community apathy in planning for this year's Natal Day. But in spite of this "terrible" situation, the committee is still hopeful of a good Natal Day.

After the committee meeting on June 17th attracted only two people, Chairman Pat Kynock decided there are better things to do with her time than sit in an empty room. She decided not to hold a meeting scheduled for later this month. "I don't think there will be a Natal Day next year unless different people get involved in it," Mrs. Kynock told the Digby Courier Tuesday, but, considering the lack of response and help being received things are beginning to shape up well.

Such events as the Grand Street Parade, soap box derby, children's parade, fire truck rides, bicycle rodeo, etc. will materialize.

The yacht club will again have their boat races and the Fire Department's Majorettes will perform for the first time. Chicken barbecues, games, booths, etc. are expected to be set up although a number of Clubs haven't been heard from yet. A committee composed of Midge Myra, Bill Reid and Pat Comeau is looking after Citizen Of The Year applications. At least until July, Mrs. Kynock plans to keep up the planning work at home, hoping interest and help will come soon.

Digby Natal Day will run from July 23 to July 25.

Sports Day proved to be a fun event for a number of elementary school children in Digby. These youngsters are participating in a women's clothing relay race.

Form Kindness Club

A Kindness To Animals Club was formed in Digby recently when Miss Susan Ritcey was elected president; Alice Haynes, vice-president; Wesley Tidd, secretary and Larry LeBlanc, treasurer. The "Raccoon Captain" or house mother, Mrs. Orlando Tidd, believe it to be our right to expect that the National Gallery will undertake to assure that the Karsdale painted room will be preserved in Nova Scotia for all Canadians to enjoy.

will be on hand for all the meetings. Miss Susan Tidd, one of the eight members, is actively engaged in the club from the angle of publicity. Susan, in her interview, said that at the meetings they will talk financing and do art and crafts. The Courier, in the interview, asked if they would try to teach people to be responsible for kindness to animals, immediately replied, "That is what the whole thing is all about. You stick up for all animals and especially the helpless animals."

Heads Pensioners Concerned, Nova Scotia

Mrs. Edith Harvey, Halifax, the former Edith Winchester of Digby, heads the Nova Scotia branch of Pensioners Concerned. The Nova Scotia branch is an offshoot of the Canadian Pensioners Concerned, established in 1969 and Mrs. Harvey, who is always interested in the Canada wide organization, was one of the original founders of the Nova Scotia division in 1971. Recently, Mrs. Harvey and her efforts on behalf of the senior citizens of Nova Scotia was written-up in the 4th Estate.

Mrs. Harvey revealed through the media that getting Pensioners Concerned off the ground in Nova Scotia was not an easy task, although she would not take the credit for its progress.

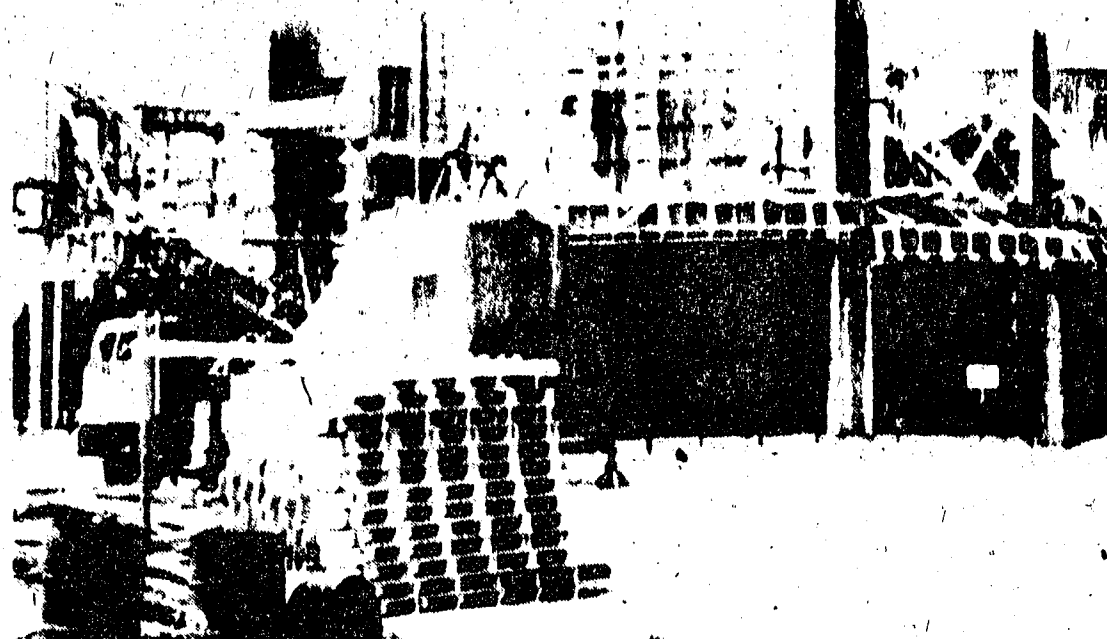

Quoting from the 4th Estate of April 14, 1976 "Mrs. Harvey and Pensioners Concerned have managed to rock a few boats in the past few years and they have, in many cases, rocked the boat around until it began heading in the right direction."

They've inundated government ministers with briefs and letters about problems facing those over 65 and their efforts have paid off in a number of areas.

They've tackled taxation, medical needs, hearing aid rip-offs, poverty, housing and a wide range of issues that would still be just issues today had it not been for the Pensioners Concerned lobby. They've done most of their work on a shoe-string budget and, at times, on no budget at all.

Pensioners Concerned operated for almost two years out of the pockets (and homes) of its members. In 1973, '74 and '75, the group received assistance from the federal secretary of state's department, amounting to a total of about $6400. They still have about $1500 of that amount in the bank and Mrs. Harvey says they're doing their bit for the fight against inflation by not asking for any more government money for operation in 1976. They've introduced a modest membership fee and hope to operate on that revenue plus the cash in the bank.

Having great hordes of money in the bank to spend is not really the point of the Pensioners Concerned

A new four story building is presently under construction on Ste. Anne's college campus at Church Point will house the library on the main floor and the other three stories will be for the cultural centre. This marks the continuing improvement program of the college with improving the facilities on campus for students. A gymnasium swimming pool and ladies residences numbering six, have been constructed previously. (Melanson Photo) operation anyway, says Mrs. Harvey.

"We're trying to get elderly people organized, not to help others, but to help themselves. That doesn't take a lot of money."

Pensioners Concerned holds its monthly meetings in Sunrise Manor on Gottingen Street. The meeting room is provided free of charge, eliminating the greatest potential overhead cost.

Other overhead costs are almost non-existent.

Other groups Mrs. Harvey has been involved with include The Nova Scotia Senior Citizens Commission (which Pensioners Concerned was instrumental in having set up), The Halifax Housing Task Force, The Live and Learn Commission, The Senior Citizens Festival Committee and the Gerontology Commission.

Earlier this year, she was offered the post of president of the national organization of Pensioners Concerned, but she turned it down because she wasn't ready and because she thought the job could be better handled by someone in Toronto and Central Canada. "I just wasn't ready for that responsibility," she says and the tone of her voice tells you declining the offer wasn't an easy decision.

There's still lots to be done right here in Nova Scotia anyway, says Mrs. Harvey.

"I'd like to see all the various senior citizens clubs and organizations band together and really organize themselves in one large, cohesive unit. There are still problems to solve with pensions, health needs, housing and just a whole lot of things we should be doing to help make the retirement years what they should be. We're beginning to get the respect of the politicians and bureaucrats and we have to keep pushing."

People have to be made to realize what elderly people go through, mentally as well as physically, says Mrs. Harvey.

Set to go! Wheel barrel races were among the events enjoyed by Digby elementary students during Sports Day.

Something For Everyone

If you like gardening, there is an interesting and inexpensive week-end event coming up at the Agricultural College in Truro, August 6 and 7.

It's the annual convention of the Nova Scotia Association of Garden Clubs, whose theme for 1976 is "something for everyone". The program has been specially designed to appeal to as wide a cross-section of amateur gardeners as possible.

It will include such diverse topics as vegetable storage, meal planning, old time fruits and flowers, beekeeping, and the care of trees and shrubs.

Among the personalities present will be the Maritime Gardener, Gordon Warren; newspaper columnist Robert K. Mann, and a number of other well-known Nova Scotia horticultural specialists.

The convention will provide amateur gardeners with an ideal opportunity to talk to the experts for information on any particular gardening problems they may have.

The weekend provides a chicken barbecue Friday evening, overnight accommodation and meals on Saturday, with an awards banquet closing the convention.

Gardeners who are not members of garden clubs are welcome to attend but must register in advance for accommodation and meals as soon as possible, and should contact Mrs. E.W. Johnstone, Box 55, North Sydney, N.S. for registration forms.

Persons wishing to attend meetings only may register at the convention.

SUMMER MAGIC

Survey the loveliness it is summer. By sudden magic, the world is turned to beauty. Long graceful wings are aloft in the sky. Where white clouds form cathedrals in the sapphire blue. Long fingers of sun caress the slopes. Where gentle winds sing a summer song. We turn our faces to the sun, as a peaceful haze softens the sunlit skies. Then as twilight holds the promise of an evening dream, We listen to the silence of the mountains, and reflect that Time is but a simple heart-beat, in the depth and vastness of Eternity.

Young Adults In Digby Take Up Pro-Life Challenge

Under the able leadership of Minnie Kimber - Mrs. Norman Kimber - of Digby, petition forms containing more than 450 signatures from concerned citizens of Digby and surrounding area were presented last week to Miss Coleen Campbell, our Member of Parliament, as voices raised in protest against the Task Force's recommendation on abortion. Also, upon request of Mr. Joe Casey, M.L.A., a duplicate of the petition forms was presented by Mr. Casey to the Minister of Health for the Province of Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Kimber had also given a strong message on radio, using Father Joe Hattie's article Does Open Abortion Liberate Women? As a concerned wife, a parent, and a member of Birthright, she explained how anyone who is pregnant and finds herself in mental distress can get immediate help - without revealing her identity - by using the telephone directory BIRTHRIGHT zenith number. Volunteer helpers lend a listening and sympathetic ear, and gently guide that girl or woman in distress, helping her to see what she should do.

It is particularly in her approach to the youth that Mrs. Kimber found ready and willing cooperation. The DIGBY PAX CLUB who had already been privileged in getting a full presentation on the seriousness of Abortion - by Dr. Dennis Bowie last March 21st - now found the time and occasion ripe for action.

At the Youth Folk Service on the eve of Father's Day, Sharon George a grade 11 student and vice-president of the PAX CLUB - read the prayer of the UNBORN CHILD: Now, I'll never wind my baby arms around my mother's neck,

And I'll never sit upon my daddy's knee,
I'll never see the golden sun shine on my sister's hair,
These joys are meant for others, not for me.
For my life was ended far too soon within my mother's womb;
The cruel surgeon's knife made her my tomb.
My father who created me now holds me in His Hand,
But I long to build some castles in the sand!
I'd love to pick a yellow flower,
Just once to see the sky;
It seems to me I'm much too young to die.

So, Heavenly Father, listen to this unborn baby's plea:
Don't let mothers kill, as my poor mom killed me.
Tell them they will want us cause we bring our love along,
To let us live, to grow up big and strong;
My mother didn't understand because I was so small
That some day her little boy would grow to six feet tall.
Louise Summerhill

Then Sharon invited the people to sign the petition forms. In doing this, according to your conscience, she said, you will be helping us to keep our commitment to DO ALL WE CAN as a follow-up to our challenge on PRO-LIFE.

Otto Lang Will Visit Friday

Otto Lang, Minister of Transport, will visit the Princess of Acadia during tour of this federal constituency on July 2. The ferry was bought in December 1974 by the federal government from CPR at a cost of about $10 million. It is now leased to the CPR who operate it for the Department of Transport.

This will be the first visit

Smith's Cove (Phyllis S. Winchester)

Rev. Brian Hutchins, Pugwash, spent a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hutchins. He returned to Pugwash on Saturday, June 26.

Mrs. Marie Harney and daughter, Dr. Patricia Harney, Guelph, Ontario, are spending the summer at their home here.

Mrs. Randy Durling was hostess for a Tupperware Party last week. Demonstrator was Mrs. Gertrude Trask, Little River.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Sutherland, Vancouver, B.C., visited her aunt, Miss Catherine Weir on Thursday and Friday of last week. Mrs. Sutherland is the former Barbara Payson.

Young Kimbra Carty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Linda Carty is recuperating from major surgery on June 15 at Izaak Walton Children's Hospital, Halifax.

Congratulations to James Kempton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kempton, who received the Lt. Governor's Medal during the graduation ceremonies at Digby Regional High School on Thursday, June 24. Our best wishes go to this young man as he continues his education for his chosen career of the future.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Neil A Daws on the death of her brother, Wesley Poole.

School Building Becomes Activity Centre

The Clare Senior Citizens Club entered their newly obtained activity centre, the former Comeauville school building in the village of Comeauville, on Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. when a card party open to the public was held. During the summer months the club will use at least three of the four former classrooms.

The former school building is on the main highway and will enable some of the members in Little Brook and Comeauville to walk to the Centre. At the present time, activities will be limited until things are in order at the centre. The usual card parties of Tuesday evenings and Thursday afternoons will continue on a weekly basis.

A canteen is being organized and is presently open to members and will carry a stock of pop of various flavors and some confectionary. A lounge is expected to be set up shortly. A black-and-white television set was donated to the club by Norbert Comeau, Proprietor of Comeau's Fish Market in the village.

The building will receive a coat of paint, which will refresh the looks of the centre and some painting will take place in the interior. The carpenter members shown in the photo, Denis P. LeBlanc, Church Point; Edward Boudreau, Concession and Camille Comeau, Little Brook Station installed 45 panes of glass in the windows of the former school. The windows had been broken by some young children in the area. More were not broken because the Municipal Council had plywood placed on the windows before the entire window panes in the school were broken. These carpenters also worked in constructing a serving counter and remodeled a section of a room as a kitchen, free of charge.

The president, Delphis Comeau, of the Clare Senior Citizens Club, New Horizons has announced that the club was successful in obtaining a "Little Red School House" grant of $2,000.00. This grant money will be used to paint the exterior and interior of the school, kitchen etc.

As soon as the members can settle down in the new activity centre, work will begin on crafts to be made to sell to raise funds for the upkeep of the new centre. A good supply of craft articles are on hand in the craft cupboard, made by the members. Quilting bees will be organized a little later on as several quilt covers have been completed and await the finishing touches.

Wedding Bells

BARR-O'NEIL

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Glendon Barr, Danvers, was the scene of a quiet summer wedding on June 21st at 4:30 p.m., when Peggy Sue O'Neil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Neil, Roxville, became the bride of Ronald Lee Barr, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Glendon Barr.

Mr. Merle Zimmerman officiated at the double ring ceremony. Pianist was Floyd Gale, uncle of the groom and Mrs. Merle Zimmerman sang, "I'll Walk Beside You."

The bride was lovely in a floor length gown of blue and white crimplene and wide brimmed hat to match. She carried a basket of roses and wild flowers. Her only attendant was her sister Beverley who wore an identical dress and hat in pink.

The groom's attendant was his friend Mark Zimmerman.

For her daughters wedding the bride's mother wore a floor length dress of green crimplene, and the mother of the groom chose a floor length dusky rose figured jersey.

Following the marriage ceremony a reception was held for about fifty invited guests. After a short trip the happy couple will take up residence in Danvers.

Doucetteville

Paralegal Assistants

Urged

The Nova Scotia Barristers' Society Saturday approved employing legal assistants in some areas of the delivery of legal services in the province, and recommended the establishment of acceptable paralegal training programs.

The annual meeting voted to accept the report of the society's paralegal committee, which recommended broad guidelines for the further integration of paraprofessional persons in the province's legal profession.

The report was presented to the meeting by paralegal committee chairman Peter G. Green.

Mr. Green said it is appropriate that the barristers' society should adopt statements of policy regarding legal assistants, because of the increasingly large role being played in the profession by paralegals.

Among resolutions which were accepted by the meeting were statements recognizing that there is a role in the legal profession for non-professional assistants, and encouraging the use of paralegals in the delivery of certain legal services.

The lawyer using the legal assistant would be responsible for all the work performed by the paralegal, and all work would be under the direction and supervision of the professional.

In addition, the report recommended that strict limitations be placed on what could, and could not, be done by the paralegal person.

The society formally encouraged the establishment of on-the-job training programs and the development of a post-high school academic training course for paralegals.

Mr. Green pointed out that paralegal trainees qualify for on-the-job training grants from the manpower and immigration department. He said many law firms in the province now take advantage of these grants.

In addition at least one post-secondary educational institution in the province has expressed an interest in starting an academic training program.

Mr. Green recommended further discussions between the appropriate committees to elaborate and define the role of legal assistants in the legal profession.

Robert L. Stanfield, member of Parliament for Halifax and former leader of the Progressive Conservative party was in Digby on Saturday to address the annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Barristers' Society.

Canadian society must cease to be dominated by divisive self-interests and the pursuit of affluence, and must seek instead co-

Operation Dolomite

Corporal Greg Cromwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Cromwell, Box 111, RR 4, Weymouth, N.S., helps an Italian family recover their valuables from the rubble of their home in Piverno in northern Italy. A 300-man Canadian Forces disaster relief task force moved from their NATO base at Lahr, Germany to give humanitarian and engineering assistance in the earthquake-stricken area. Medical, feeding, water purification and sheltering facilities with heat and electricity were provided, as well as assistance in clearing rubble and recovering valuables. (Canadian Forces Photo) operation and genuine respect for diversity, as the most effective means for achieving common interests and national goals, he said. Mr. Stanfield said that our society has tended to become increasingly adversarial as traditions have weakened and special interest groups have organized themselves to push their own causes, with a "myopic view of the welfare of the whole."

What is needed to improve the future of all Canadians, he said, is a positive nationalism, in the sense of support and affection of common traditions and goals.

"This is more in keeping with our traditions than is an exaggerated worship of affluence."

Mr. Stanfield said he was addressing the assembled lawyers as representatives of the dominant group in Canadian political life.

He said because of their domination of all legislatures, lawyers bear a responsibility for the health, or ill-health, of Canadian society.

Mr. Stanfield urged the legal profession to occasionally depart from pragmatism, and take a general survey of where Canadians are heading.

Western liberal democracies, he said, are being increasingly criticized by the developing world for their apparent lack of idealism and excessive materialism.

"While leaders in the third world may well envy our standard of living in North America. I do not believe they now generally admire our institutions and ideals."

Mr. Stanfield warned that liberal democratic government is often regarded by the developing countries as a device for ensuring the continued power and dominance of ruling power cliques.

He said the falling-off of respect for liberal democracy and the so-called free economy must be of concern to Canadians. "Because of world economic disparities, more and more of the world will become indifferent to our system of government and antagonistic to our sort of economic operations."

Mr. Stanfield said strength in Canada's social fabric and belief in national goals will be necessary in order to maintain the national position.

He said while economic prosperity is important, it must not be allowed to displace other virtues as the aspiration of western democracies.

The pursuit of affluence, he said, can produce unfortunate and divisive results when everybody tries to become rich at once.

"Economic progress is clearly important, but the preeminence of affluence as a social goal is certain to produce tension, conflict, and division within our country."

Mr. Stanfield said it is in keeping with the greatest of Canadian traditions to respect individual differences and diversities, and it must be remembered that in a democracy, people must try to recognize and understand the points of view of others.

Working toward these ideals, he said, will require an "endless process of conciliation, and a continuing effort of citizenship."

Mr. Stanfield said in keeping with the finest traditions and inheritances of Canadians, we must build a new tradition of citizenship through political participation.

"We must all develop a greater sense of co-operation, of participation, and of our common interest."

"FOR HOME AND COUNTRY" EDITED BY WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Drive-In Services Begin

The opening Drive-In Service, sponsored by the Smith's Cove United Baptist Church, is scheduled for Sunday, June 20, at 7:00 p.m. on the grounds of the Smith's Cove Consolidated School.

The Pastor, Rev. Wallace H. Jordan, will bring a special message for Father's Day and special music will be presented by the Men's Group and choir members of the Clementsport Baptist Church.

The outdoor services, now in the sixth year, are open to all who desire to fellowship together with others during the summer months amid the splendours of God's world. The invitation is open to not only local people, but to those from surrounding areas and tourists to "COME AS YOU ARE AND BRING A FRIEND!"

Two Locals Complete Assessors Course

Seven candidates were recently successful in completing the three year correspondence course for assessors in Nova Scotia.

Among those receiving certificates from Dalhousie University are David J. Grant, Barton and Eric D. Cox, Bear River, employees of the Annapolis-Digby Assessment Region.

The three-year correspondence course for assessors, provided by the Institute of Public Affairs of Dalhousie University and sponsored by the Department of Municipal Affairs, Province of Nova Scotia, is designed to meet the needs of assessors by providing a comprehensive explanation of the elements of the assessment process, together with an overview of the legal and administrative structures within which assessments are conducted.

The course is offered also for the provinces of New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland, tailored to the specific legislation of the provinces.

Other employees of the Annapolis-Digby Assessment Region successfully completing courses of study are David W. Dugas (second year) and Steven G. Mitchell (part 2 of first year).

Mrs. Darres Re-elected President

The Bear River Branch of the Red Cross held its annual meeting in the I.O.O.F. Hall on June 10th, following a Pot Luck Supper.

The President, Mrs. Mary Darres, presided at the meeting.

The financial campaign Chairman, Jack Harris, reported that the quota had been exceeded.

No report was available from the Blood Donor chairman.

Mrs. Viola Cress, chairman of Women's Work, reported the following articles had been shipped to headquarters this year. 96,000 swabs, 12,040 wipes, 46 baby flannellette baby gowns, 189 cotton gowns, 60 girls dresses, 90 pillow cases, 53 baby vests, 162 baby blankets, 145 towels, 61 boys shirts, 8 quilts, 2 baby quilts, 6 pr. boys socks, 4 pr. mitts, 1 baby sweater. This work is done by fourteen or fifteen ladies.

Chairman of Sick and Loan reported 11 patients served.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year - Pres. - Mrs. Lawrence Darres; Sect. - Mrs. Allister Milner; Treas. - Mrs. Lawrence Henshaw. Rod Milne of the Blood Donor Service of Headquarters was guest speaker. During his remarks he stressed the importance of getting more people interested in giving blood donations as the need increased more each year. At the present the hospital in the area uses more blood than is donated by the donors at the local clinics. He also spoke on the research that is being done on blood now making it possible for five patients to benefit from one donation.

At this time Mr. Milne presented Jack Harris with a service pin and citation for his untiring work in the campaigns each year.

A Distinguished Service pin and citation was presented to Mrs. Lawrence Darres for her many years of faithful service both on the local level and as a Regional President.

A Blood Donor award was presented to Allister Milner for giving 35 or more donations of blood at the local clinics.

Rev. And Mrs. Hall Attend June Festival

1530 marked a turning point in man's freedom to read for himself and to experience the working of God in the universe" stated Dr. Perkin at the June Festival in Wolfville when the Halifax Presbyterial were guests of the Valley United Church Women.

Dr. J.R.C. Perkin, Professor of Religious Studies, Acadia University gave a resume of the life and works of William Tyndale, who through the translations of the bible from Greek to English, opened a whole new experience to the world.

Another portion of the program was a three-way feature presentation with Margaret Meade who had just returned from "Habitat" in Vancouver who told about the great security that was necessary, and shared a few of her impressions of that conference.

Louise Corbett played parts of the tane of the presentation made by Barbara Ward, noted English economist at Habitat. Nadine McNamara urged the women to send letters to the federal government questioning the stand of Canada which was taken at the recent UNC-TAD, (United Nations Conference on Trade and Development) conference on its support of the Third World countries.

Don Gunn, Department of Agriculture, stirred a new awareness in the group by his comments on land Use or Land Abuse in this country so richly endowed by God.

Throughout the day there was time for learning new songs under the direction of Rev. and Mrs. Foster Hall, Bear River, watching a demonstration of decoupage by Mrs. Lewis Flanders and admiring the beautiful articles of handiwork which decorated the four walls of the dining hall.

Saint John's Day Service At Bear River

On Sunday morning, June 27, 1976 an emergency meeting was held at "The Keith Lodge No. 16". After the opening the brethren marched to the Advent Christian church at Bear River where they were celebrating the life of Saint John the Baptist who is the Patron Saint of Free-Masonry and was born about six months before our Saviour and prophesied the coming of Christ.

pastor of the host church gave a very soul searching address, taking his text from Romans chapter 1 v18-22, portraying God's wrath against sin, with the question? "Is God satisfied with us as Masons?"

The choir rendered appropriate music with the soloists being Mrs. Barbara Morash and Rev. Waterman. Mrs. Frances Peck was organist and Mrs. Waterman presided at the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Smith have sold their home on the Hill and have moved to New Minas. Mr. and Mrs. Barkhardt and family, the new owners, will be moving in this week. Welcome to our Village.

Guests for a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Potter were relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Potter, Mr. Larry Potter, Mrs. Potter and son Corey of Saskatchewan. They returned home on Monday. The United Church Ladies met at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Magill on Wednesday afternoon. There were eight ladies and one guest to work on a quilt. A very pleasant afternoon was spent making plans for a Sunday service and supper to be held at Bear River Church in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Foster Hall who are retiring from church activities and taking up residence in Bear River.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dudley of Revere, Mass. arrived on Saturday to spend a week at their cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ramsay and Miss Penny Ramsay left on Saturday to spend their vacation with Mrs. Ramsay's sister, Irene, at Burlington, Mass. Sincere sympathy goes out to relatives and friends of Mrs. Fred Potter who passed away and was buried from the United Church on Monday. Burial was in Woodland Cemetery. Mrs. Ken Robertson, Mrs. F. Thompson, Mrs. Rae Potter, Mrs. Inez Bartheaux and Mrs. Bertha Haviland were special guests from here to attend the Pioneer Girls and Girl Guides dinner and entertainment at the Parish Hall on Thursday evening at 6:30 p.m.

Clementsport (Bertha Haviland)

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bartheaux and family are spending the weekend with Keith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bartheaux. They returned home to Oromocto, N.B. on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Hanson of Halifax spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Milner. On their return home, Mrs. Gordon Milner and Donnie accompanied them to be their guests for a week.

A lovely wedding reception was held at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall on Saturday afternoon for the Starke-Sutherland wedding. Covers were laid for one hundred and fifteen plate repast at the beautiful appointed tables which were centred with bowls of pansys and other spring flowers. The head table was centred with a bowl of peonies and two wedding cakes. The Ladies Auxiliary catered to this wedding reception.

Rhodesia - Insight From Margaret Bishop

Margaret Bishop, recently returned for a visit from Rhodesia, is seen at the home of Judge John Nichols in Digby.

When one thinks of Rhodesia today, the first thought in mind is an ugly racial situation, compliments of press reports on that nation. But the picture brought home by native Nova Scotian Margaret Bishop is not quite that drastic.

Margaret has been living in Rhodesia for the past three years and has lived in Kenya for about 13. The following information was obtained while she was in Digby visiting with her brother, Judge John R. Nichols. The magnet which attracted her here was her daughter's graduation from Acadia University in Wolfville.

What effects are United Nations sanctions against Rhodesia having? Will the appointment of tribal chiefs to government positions ease any friction? And what of the impending ugly conflict we've been hearing about lately? Margaret gave her thoughts on these and other and other questions.

FOUR CHIEFS

"It may well work out but Mr. Smith was hesitant because he could see there would be difficulties..." Margaret said, referring to Premier Ian Smith's appointment of four tribal chiefs to cabinet positions. Why the hesitancy? Because, says Margaret, the man-in-the-street resents the incomes the chiefs will receive. She said each chief would receive a salary of $22,000 along with any income he may have as tribal chief. The man-on-the-street? Well, he earns about $8 to $15 Rhodesian dollars per month. "As one of them said: 'What's in it for me?'" In addition to the four chiefs already chosen an additional six are to be appointed "Under advice", Mrs. Bishop tells us.

SELF SUPPORTING

United Nations sanctions which have been in effect against Rhodesia for some ten years, have resulted in changes. One of the major ones is a much greater degree of self-sufficiency. To what degree? "I would say completely." According to our informant, Rhodesian industry filled the void to a large extent, and to a certain degree, residents learned to make do with what they have. No U.N. country can officially send any goods to Rhodesia.

Today, the cost of living in Rhodesia is much lower for a family with children, says Margaret. One handicap, however, has been the inability of Rhodesian athletes to compete in the Olympics. Margaret noted that many athletes have reached Olympic records during competitions against other nations such as South Africa, but, because of sanctions, cannot participate in the Olympic Games.

ENGLAND IS HOME

"Until recently they still sang the Queen," says Margaret. "A great number of people think of England as home."

As for the Royal family, "there are more pictures, magazines and references to the Royal Family than in any country in the world that I've seen." But because of the foreign exchange situation "many will never see home again. Margaret, herself, is unable to transfer money to Canada from her bank account in Rhodesia.

NO TRUST

"I would say they don't trust them," Margaret said when asked whether Rhodesians might welcome American support in their present situation. "They saw what happened in Viet Nam; they saw what happened in Angola." She felt many Rhodesians think their country will be used as an excuse to forgive a lot of American sins.

"I think the feeling is very strong that the Americans have no right whatsoever to interfere, and that the consensus of opinion would be that if other countries would leave Rhodesians, black and white, alone to find their own solution, then we won't have a bloodbath like Uganda."

A CONFLICT

Via the news media we are told of an impending "ugly" conflict in Rhodesia. The threat is apparently not causing an undue amount of panic in the country.

Margaret does not intend to run away from the possibility. "I have no intentions of leaving Rhodesia because of the political or military situation." She does not, however, rule out the possibility of leaving for other reasons, i.e. her love of travelling.

In the event of a bloodbath "I'd probably be the first to join up," possibly in Red Cross work or working with children. She noted many Africans have three or four wives, which makes for a country of many children.

If a bloodbath does come, she feels, it will also affect South Africa and will "be far worse" there. Weapons being taken in battles with guerillas on Rhodesia's borders are of Russian and Chinese fabrication.

MAJORITY RULE

"I think it would be a great mistake to give majority rule on the basis of one man, one vote." I know its very difficult to understand on this side of the world, but out there in a tribal situation its not one man - one vote; it depends on who he is and what he's done."

"I'm not a great believer in majority-rule because I don't believe being a majority make them right. When a system of universal education comes about "then it should come about naturally." In spite of the tense military situation in Rhodesia, conscription applies only to Europeans over 18. Africans volunteer for service but now comprise about 90 per cent of those enlisted.

"Ninety per cent of people fighting on our border are Africans fighting for their homeland," Says Margaret. Africans can now rise through the service ranks.

Government policies in Rhodesia, as in South Africa, are often regarded as apartheid, but "the question of apartheid, as such, does not arise in Rhodesia," says Margaret. Generally speaking, a black can go wherever he can pay his way, and the university is "wide open".

"I think they want to see that once people are qualified, the place is wide open. I think this has come out strongly in the past 2-3 years."

What about Premier Ian Smith? Margaret believes he's highly regarded by both sides. .... "They think he's trying to get the best for Rhodesia." If every country would kindly keep its fingers out, ... Rhodesia never had a chance to try on its own."

Speaking on Education, Mrs. Bishop feels it would be a "great stride if schools could start at the primary level for all students of the country."

She said the amount spent on education per African child is probably far less than on whites, but compared this to a situation in which "Nova Scotia probably doesn't get the top amount of federal grants issued."

An improvement could be made on the home front, she said, if black Rhodesians attending school in England start coming back to Rhodesia instead of to America to make a fast buck. "Then we'll get along very well."

She noted Rhodesia does not have a "hippie problem", large groups of young people living off U.I.C. "That thing for that group does not exist."

Mrs. Bishop feels press coverage of the Rhodesian situation has been somewhat lacking. They said there are no guns or tanks in Mozambique heading for Rhodesia. Well, "most people take that with a grain of salt."

Margaret then went on to compare Rhodesia to an island not unlike England, "but England had the channel." for Rhodesians there is no way out of the country by land except for one road with an armed convoy. "So its no wonder they're going to stay here and fight." Aside from that, ... "a lot don't want to run away."

Around Salisbury, in a suburb of which Margaret lives, there are still areas in which blacks live, and others for whites. All black areas are not deprived, however. Mrs. Bishop told us that some blacks have homes in the $50,000 to $75,000 range and there are about 14 black millionaires in Salisbury alone.

Almost every European has servants' quarters in his home. Africans working or looking for work are about the only blacks Margaret sees in her white neighbourhood.

Margaret sees more changes coming in Rhodesia's break with the past. "I think Africans can buy anything they can afford, and they can afford more and more nowadays." ... things are opening up so much more... I think in a few years people will be able to buy and live with their peers."

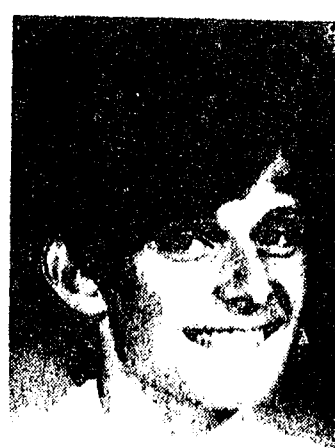

And the feeling of five per cent white, 95 per cent black is also disappearing, she said. Africans are con-

A Fond Embrace

Mrs. Bertha Haviland receives a fond embrace by Clementsport Royal Canadian Legion Branch president, James Smythe, following the presentation to the Legion of a cheque for $1000. The presentation by Mrs. Haviland, a personal donation by Mrs. Haviland, is to purchase carpeting for the newly constructed Haviland Room at the Legion Hall.

Awarded Dal. Scholarship

John Stephen Nunn has received a $300.00 scholarship from Dalhousie University for 1976-77 academic session. The letter in part states, we wish you continued success at Dalhousie University. Please accept our congratulations for winning this scholarship for which there has been considerable competition. John is a graduate of D.R.H.S. and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Nunn of Digby.

Attains Highest Standing

Glen Stanton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Stanton, Tiddville had the highest standing in architectural drafting in the two year course he completed at the Dr. George a Burridge Regional Vocational School. Glen is also a grade twelve graduate of the Digby Regional High School.

cerned that if Europeans are forced to leave - who will pay the salaries and look after the babies when they're sick?

According to Margaret's reports, changes are coming to Rhodesia. But apparently the rate of change is not fast enough to satisfy others in the world.

One can only wonder what a bloodbath would accomplish.

Destruction Discourages Society Work

The monthly meeting of the Admiral Digby Horticultural Society, held on the evening of June 2nd at the home of Mrs. Percy Robert, dealt mainly with the August Flower Show and Tea to be held on Tuesday afternoon, August 3rd.

Mrs. Bruce Hutchins, president, conducted a short business meeting when committees in charge of the various summer projects, gave reports. The large concrete planters near the Post Office and the window boxes at the Town Information Bureau, have been filled with geraniums and the window boxes at the Library planted with petunias. Already some geraniums have been taken, but will be replaced.

The memorial tree in memory of a late president, Kenneth Beckwith, has been planted in the Loyalist Cemetery and a suitable plaque made ready.

Considerable work has been done at the Admiral Digby Park and there is an uncertainty if this project will be carried on another year as so much destruction takes place and the area becomes badly littered along the cars parked along the front of the park, are obstructing the view.

Mrs. Hutchins and Mrs. A. Giliatt were nominated as representatives from the Digby Garden Club to attend the annual convention of N.S. Association of Garden Club, at Truro, on August 6th and 7th.

Mrs. Hutchins gave an interesting report of the 1976 annual meeting of the Regional Association of Garden Clubs, held at Annapolis on the evening of May 13th. The Digby Garden Club had the largest representation of members attending.

Reporting on an Executive meeting held on May 17th concerning the Flower Show, it was learned that this year there will be no special theme but have simple arrangements in fourteen classes. Program schedules are now being prepared and will be available in the near future.

No special entries for children are planned but any exhibits in the classes named will be welcome. It is hoped more adults and children will feel free to participate in the show and make entries.

Afternoon tea will be served under the direction of a local women's organization.

At the close of the business meeting, Miss Marjory Tupper conducted an amusing and interesting quiz, entitled, "A Love Story in Flowers".

At the social hour Mrs. Robert was assisted in serving refreshments by co-hostesses, Mrs. A. Wentzell and Mrs. S. MacNaughton.

The July meeting will be at the home of Miss Louise Daley.

Smith's Cove Prepares For Good Times Day

Smith's Cove Good Times Day is on Saturday July 10 this year. The men of the Smith's Cove Fire Department will hold a real country auction starting at 12 o'clock noon at the Smith's Cove fire hall. Items too numerous to mention will be auctioned to the highest bidder. Furniture, antiques, used appliances, etc.

While the auction is going on there will be many other attractions including games of chance and skill. Hot dogs, hamburgers, ice cream, cold drinks etc., will be for sale.

Later in the afternoon cooked lobsters will be available while the supply lasts. Steamed clams also, if available at that time.

The Smith's Cove Historical Society who co-sponsor Good Times Day will be having bigger and better booths which will offer for sale real home cooking, arts and crafts, potted and other plants, older and newer books of all kinds, and a real fine table of attic treasures.

Afternoon tea will be served beginning shortly after two o'clock in the old meeting hall at the fire station.

Back again- Rah, Rah, Rah!

Men busy fishing, building weirs, fishing weirs, planting gardens. But still a bit of time for play. All work and no play!

Did you hear that the Sandy Cove weirmen fished an unusual one from the weir the other day? It was Louie swimming around with the fish - just taking like easy.

Looks like the Dept. of Highways is patching the patches once more on the Neck. Why must we have to drive on such a road! Not only us! Digby Neck and Islands have long been tourist Country. Will tourists want to drive and, in some instances, pull trailers over such a highway? A petition last year and letters to the Minister of Highways apparently have had no results. Let's get together and shout louder.

(M. R. Comeau)

Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. Laura Height were her two sisters, Mrs. Charles Theriault and Mr. Theriault and Mrs. Dan MacKenzie all of Middleton. Recent visitors at the same home were Mrs. Heights' daughter, Mrs. Stillman Freeman and children Brian, Dale, Heather and Larry of Brickton, Anna Co.

Last Friday evening at the Mall, Mrs. Laura Height had the experience of being "thrust into jail" on the charge of "sleeping too much". She was released after two minutes and a fine of one dollar. However, it was all part of the Fireman's Day Programme to raise money so it was all for a good cause.

Eight and a half tables of cards were played Tuesday evening at the Community Hall. Miss Vera Gidney won the door prize and the cake donated by Mrs. Waters Comeau was won by Trueman Wentzell who had it cut and served with the refreshments. Mrs. Roy Harnish and Mrs. Earl Smeltzer supplied the sandwiches for the evening.

National Legion News

four days of business which saw the Legion concern itself with resolutions asking for facilities to provide special care for aging veterans. One resolution said that domiciliary and chronic care homes should be built at strategic locations across the country.

A heated debate was sparked during the presentation of the membership report concerning the question of whether to allow voting privileges to sons and daughters of Legion members who were admitted as associate members as a result of the changes in membership qualifications passed two years ago.

Membership chairman Douglas McDonald, in reporting that the Legion's membership had grown from 20,000 to over 450,000 in the 50-year history of the Legion, said that the 52,000 sons and daughters who had joined the Legion should be encouraged to get involved in the activities of the branch and be given responsibilities.

However, he felt it was too early yet to give them voting privileges. A resolution excluding them from the right to vote in branch meetings was passed by a narrow margin.

Sharp criticism of the Legion's ACTION program which was overwhelmingly introduced by the Legion two years ago, sparked another debate. The delegates narrowly defeated a vote to cut the ACTION Committee's budget for 1977 after retiring Dominion President McChesney appealed to them to give it a chance.

"We're just now starting to get results", he said. The program is intended to educate the general public on improving the quality of life in Canada, but some felt that Legion members' needs should be given priority over the public when funds and energy are limited.

Many of the resolutions dealt with requests to the Department of Veterans Affairs for improvements in pension, war veterans allowance and treatment regulations. Other resolutions included approval of Legion membership in the World Veterans Federation; denial of Legion membership to Canadians who were called up during the wars under the National Mobilization Resources Act; creation of a $100,000 national sports foundation to sponsor a national track and field program for minor athletes, the money to be provided from the annual interest on the Centennial Fund.

He also referred to another Legion contribution to Canada, namely the ACTION (A Commitment to Improve Our Nation) program, adopted two years ago. It is the first step to improve the quality of life, step by step, throughout the nation.

STREAMER FISHING

Fishermen usually talk about two kinds of fly fishing—wet and dry.

Most fishermen know the difference between the two. Without getting too technical, dry flies are fished on the surface, the fly representing an insect that has lit or one that has "hatched" and is temporarily floating along.

Wet flies are fished under the surface and they represent, among other things, drowned insects. How deep you fish the wets depends upon circumstances.

Actually there should be a third classification of fly fishing - streamers and bucktails. These flies, tied generally to imitate small fish such as the various minnows, are usually classed with the wets.

The technique used for fishing streamers and bucktails - let's call them streamers from here on - is completely different from wet fly methods. Since streamers represent small fishes and are designed to look like they're moving through the water, you fish them with plenty of rod and line movement.

Again I'm speaking generally, since there are times when streamers can successfully be fished simply by floating them along with little movement of rod or line. However, you usually keep the streamer moving. The more action you put in it, the better it seems to work.

Most of my wet fly fishing is done with streamers. Some of the patterns I use are the Squirreltail, Badger, Edson Tiger, Mickey Finn, Red and White, Little Brook Trout and Little Brown Trout, the first two being my favourites. There are numerous other good patterns.

As I mentioned, streamers are usually fished with plenty of action. A typical method is to cast across stream and retrieve in six inch to foot long jerks, with or without rod tip movement.

When I cover a stretch of river with a streamer, I usually stand in one place for several minutes and fish every reachable piece of water, up, across and downstream. The first cast is made upstream. Each cast is made about a foot lower than the previous one until you're finally casting straight down the river.

I cast the streamer as close to the other bank as possible. The retrieve is started the moment the fly hits the water - there's no waiting for the fly to sink. Once in a while you'll cause a disturbance on the surface by retrieving immediately, but don't worry about it. I suspect this attracts trout and gets strikes.

And don't fret about dropping your fly daintily. Snap it out. Let it plop down on the water now and then. You'll find you often get a strike the moment the fly slaps the water noisily.

You can choose your own method of retrieve. I like holding the line between the fingers and thumb of the rod hand. Line is stripped in with the free hand and coiled up or dropped at the feet. The free hand easily controls the retrieve speed. The rod hand can put tension on the line immediately when there's a strike.

I don't know why, but I get the best results with streamers after a heavy rain, just when the water is starting to clear up. I'm speaking here mainly about fishing in July and August and only from personal experience. Your experiences may have been different than mine and you may have reached other conclusions.

In past seasons I've had some memorable experiences with streamer fishing shortly after a rain. One that stands out most was the time I hooked two trout in a row that weighed close to three pounds each. I caught them a few minutes apart without moving from one spot.

On that night the water was still high and a bit hazy. It had rained hard two days before. I got to the river around seven o'clock in the evening on a July day, a hot day that was almost damp with high humidity.

I fished upstream with a Badger for about a quarter-mile without moving a fish. Then on a usually productive bend I nailed the first trout with an across-river cast.

After landing the trout and admiring it for a minute - it was an eighteen incher in good shape - I checked the leader and started casting again. Several casts later and no more than a rod length below where I'd taken the trout, another fish hit the streamer. It was almost a twin of the first trout with little difference in weight or length.

That was a night when big trout were feeding. On numerous pools along a short piece of river I moved five more big trout. They all came boiling across river after the streamer, swirling savagely and making my heart pound. I hooked solidly into another heavy fish towards dusk. It seemed to be solid, but after I played it several minutes the fly came loose.

Whenever I fish streamers with a fast retrieve either up or across river, I get some kind of action. I hardly ever fail to move at least one or two good fish, even if I don't always hook them.

There's something enticing about a streamer that big trout can hardly resist at times. If you've never tried them, you're denying yourself the possibility of some great fishing.

Although Fort Franklin has existed since 1825, when Sir John Franklin used it as a base for his exploration activities, the present community, a predominantly Hare Indian one, has developed only in the last 15 years.

Outstanding Teaching Ability Recognized

The communities of Deep Brook and Clementsport gathered recently to pay tribute to a long time teacher, Mrs. Edna Williams, a teacher with 32 years experience.

Mr. Alfred Boutillier, principal of Clements Consolidated School, reflected favorably on his association with Mrs. Williams, presenting her with a scroll from the Nova Scotia Teachers Union in recognition of 31 and two fifths years of service to the youth of Nova Scotia Schools.

Mr. Boutillier introduced C. E. Edwards, Inspector of Schools, a former classmate of Mrs. Williams. He was high in praise of Mrs. Williams' teaching methods calling her "far from ordinary," and an "outstanding teacher." He said Mrs. Williams was a dedicated teacher who has not worked for money, but for the youth and thanked her for her superb contribution. Philip Lake, Supervisor of Schools, spoke briefly of Mrs. Williams' fine contributions and he introduced Mr. L. Snell, Municipal Councillor, who presented a cheque for $300 as a token of appreciation for service.

K. L. Chappell, Supervisor of Curriculum, Annapolis County, who has had nine years association with Mrs. Williams, spoke briefly and gave thanks to a "very special person."

Mrs. Bonnie Hudson, president of Clements Consolidated Home and School, presented a gift from the combined communities, as an expression of gratitude from parents whose children had received the benefit of Mrs. Williams' teaching.

Mrs. Williams thanked everyone for their kindness and said that the progress of the children was her greatest reward.

Slugs A Problem For Home Gardeners

Many homeowners are converting sections of their yards to vegetable or flower gardens. Most attempt to do a good job of growing their favorite crops following such basic horticultural practices as adding manure or providing a layer of mulch to retain soil moisture and keep weeds under control. While these particular practices promote better plant growth, they provide the gardener with great numbers of an unwanted pest: the garden slug. Soil moisture and soil temperature are important in slug survival. Thus, anything which promotes retention of moisture and avoidance of temperature extremes increased the ability of slugs to survive. Slug feeding on a wide range of plants in home gardens is not a new problem. The renewed concern about these pests results from the larger numbers of home gardeners and the carving of these gardens from areas which may have been left undisturbed for several years. Slugs are essentially snails without shells. They feed and survive on just about any kind of plant material, but have preferences when choices are available. Characteristic feeding injury consists of irregular holes eaten in foliage or holes eaten in ripe fruits. Usually, a slimy trail of a mucous-like substance is a clue that a slug is the damaging culprit. Slugs move around by secreting mucous and sliding over at night and return to their hiding places soon after sunrise. On cloudy days, however, they may return active during daylight hours. Most materials for slug control are granular or pelletized baits containing the poison metaldehyde and an attractant, such as wheat bran or pomace. Baits are scattered on the soil surface in areas where slugs have been a problem. Several pesticides have been evaluated for slug control. One called Mesural was the best material tested but it is not registered for use on vegetables. The answer to slug problems, then, appears to be either in registration of an effective chemical for slug control, or promotion of natural enemies in untreated areas. At present, poison baits probably offer the most practical solution. God, nor refusal to enter into formal worship, but rather a refusal to let Him have His way in our lives, even in details. It is forgetting that we belong to Him, and He has the right to control our ideas and conduct. This is not so far-fetched, it is the only way to have a victorious, satisfying life. A test of where we now fit in this scheme is to ask, does my life presently revolve around God or around me? Is He considered very much or very little in every day decisions? Is there a personal experiential surrender to the fact that He owns me, and can do a better job at managing my affairs than I can? He has the right to rule.

The power of sin is so great that no man can break this tyranny himself. Many try to reform and to improve themselves, but soon slip back. No human being can forgive or transform himself, to come into the abundant life. The key to this ongoing enslavement is pride. There is a common desire to move away from the sovereignty of God, then to proudly manage things all alone. Sin's trick is to keep self, instead of God on the throne. Christ alone can break this strangle hold and give a new kind of peace and victory. John 10:10

A large barn belonging to Robert Brown in Upper Clements was completely destroyed by fire on June 22. The fire is pictured here in its latter stages. One fireman was injured fighting the blaze.

Old Age Security Pension Payments Rise In July

OTTAWA—Increases in the Old Age Security pension, Guaranteed Income Supplement and Spouse's Allowance, effective in July 1976, were announced today by Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde.

Increases in Old Age Security pension and Guaranteed Income Supplement payments represent the eleventh quarterly escalation based on the cost of living, as provided for in the Old Age Security Act. The new monthly total at the single rate for persons receiving both the basic Old Age Security pension and maximum Guaranteed Income Supplement will be $233.19. For a married couple who are both pensioners, the combination of the basic pension and maximum supplement will provide a payment of $444.84 for the couple monthly.

The basic Old Age Security pension will rise in July to $137.06 from the present $135.43.

The maximum Guaranteed Income Supplement for a single person, or a married person whose spouse is not a pensioner and is not receiving a Spouse's Allowance, will go up in July to $96.13 from its current $94.99. The maximum supplement for a married couple, both pensioners, will increase to $85.36 each from $84.35. Added to the basic pension, this will give each married pensioner $222.42 monthly, or a total of $444.84 for the couple.

Maximum Spouse's Allowance will increase to $222.42 from $218.78. The maximum Spouse's Allowance is made up of an amount equivalent to the basic Old Age Security pension and an amount equivalent to the maximum Guaranteed Income Supplement at the married rate.

Three carpenter members of the Clare Senior Citizens club that gave their time free of charge to put the newly obtained activity centre of the club in order before the club moved into their new quarters. The former Comeauville school will serve as the new centre and the first activity was held on June 8th. Here the men posed a moment while finishing a counter in the kitchen-recreation room section.

Corridor Study To Be Undertaken

Hon. A. M. (Sandy) Cameron, Minister of Lands and Forests, and Hon. Judd Buchanan, Federal Minister of Indian and Northern Affairs, have agreed to jointly study the feasibility of establishing a recreation and conservation corridor between Amherst and Dartmouth.

The area to be studied includes the Chignecto Peninsula, the coastal area around the Minas Basin and the Shubenacadie River Valley and Canal.

The study will be jointly undertaken by a team representing the Government of Nova Scotia and the Agreements for Recreation and Conservation (ARC) Branch of Parks Canada.

The study team will identify those natural and historical resources meriting preservation as well as areas of recreational potential. The study will make recommendations to the respective ministers on the feasibility of preserving and developing these resources within a designated recreation and conservation corridor.

The proposed waterway would involve a recreational waterway as well as scenic land routes.

Groups which have expressed an interest in resource preservation and the provision of recreational facilities in the area are welcomed to contact the study team.

This study is the first step which could lead to a federal-provincial agreement to establish an arc corridor in which the two governments would ensure the preservation of elements of the natural and human heritage and provide outdoor recreational opportunities.

The bulk of the work will be carried out by federal and provincial departmental staff and outside costs will be insignificant, the minister said.

The study which will begin later this month is expected to be completed in approximately five months.

The Parks Canada mandate for operating and developing national parks and national historic parks and sites was considerably expanded in 1972 by the establishment of the Byways and Special Places Program which has now become known as Agreements for Recreation and Conservation (ARC).

Under this new program, Parks Canada is jointly initiating with the provinces new approaches in the conservation of our historic, natural and scenic heritage. These approaches include the establishment of corridors incorporating historic waterways, historic and scenic land routes, and wild rivers.

An important aim in the development of such corridors is the provision of recreational opportunities for the Canadian people.

Notes From Bird Haven

Yes; we have hatched. The young Starlings arrived in full force. Counted fifteen young birds, accompanied by four adult birds, feeding and squawking on the lawn. Guess the ones that made the most noise were fed first. Where they nested, I have no idea. They really do a lot of good cleaning of those big white grubs and weed seeds.

Had an adult male robin brought in (taken from a cat) minus his tail feathers. It was placed in the hospital cage with water and left quiet overnight. In the morning I gave him three nice juicy worms which he ate with relish. As he seemed very perky, I tried him outdoors, so opened the cage gate and off he went. Saw him a couple of days later at the pond having a drink.

A beautiful Hairy Woodpecker did not fare so well. He was brought up from Digby Neck early one morning. After several hours he was trying to get out of the cage, so I took him out and put him on a spruce bough. He sat for a minute then took off flying high and strong in the Neck direction.

Late in the afternoon he was returned after being picked up on front street. He was put back in the hospital cage with a chunk of suet, but within a short time he was dead. Apparently he had struck a building or eaten a poisoned bug.

The beautiful birds are black and white with red on their head. They have a very long bill which enables them to get in crevices in bark of the trees where they clean up all kinds of bugs.

The Downy Woodpecker is similar, only much smaller. Then there is the Pileated Woodpecker, much larger, found in the heavy woods where he pecks at trees for grubs leaving a pile of chips on the ground.

The first one I heard you would have vowed it was a man chopping wood.

Be sure to keep a pan of water out for your birds and do be careful of fires in the woods. Our birds need the trees as well as we do.

So long

There Must Be An Answer

Are things the way they ought to be?

In moments of serious self examination most of us become aware of defeat, and inner distress.

However, pride tells us never to admit weakness, inner guilt and need. Grin and bear it, is the old adage. It seems somehow beneath us to acknowledge that efforts of self improvement have not always brought inner peace.

The older we become the less able we seem to be in meeting fear and upsets.

There must be an answer to internal hurts, and personal powerlessness.

It is God, in His fullness and living Presence. Where is He? Not in outer space, or attending to the cries of other people only. He is personal, when we receive Him by faith in Jesus Christ. He makes His home in our inner being. None of the new fangled false religions can do the job of satisfying which the Lord can do. His grace and love alone will meet our desperate needs. This is an unbeatable fact. He is not out there, but rather in me.

We live, then, by the energy of the living Christ Who has shown us the Father.

He understands and cares.

LETTER

BLOOMFIELD COMPLAINT

Its nice to have an airport in Digby County. The road leading to the airport is very nice. As you turn at the entrance of the airport the road ahead looks like a woods road going to a camp.

woods road there are twenty four homes and families. Most of these families have new cars. The road doesn't even have ditches for the water to run, it goes down the road and washes out everyone's driveway. The road is not wide enough to pass the school bus, the alders are growing so you don't know where the ditches are. They put a new bridge in and every car has to stop because of so many holes in the road. They didn't even put a load of gravel over the mud. It is nearly July and they have never put a spot of chloride on to keep the dust down. Most of the time you have to keep the windows closed.

Yours truly,

The People of Bloomfield
Signed Mrs. Lloyd Ambrose.

Public Should Be Consulted By Ronald Barkhouse, M.L.A.

Lunenburg East,

Progressive Conservative Education Critic

The recently announced teacher cutbacks in Nova Scotia is another sad commentary on the inability of this Government to plan, to look ahead, to inform and to consult.

This party is in complete agreement that there must be restraints, but plans should have commenced many, many months ago, and certainly this is a matter which the Government should have raised with the Nova Scotia Teachers' Union during wage negotiations, which concluded only a few short months ago, and with school boards and municipal people throughout this province.

This Government ought to obtain the views of the public at all times. Certainly, in this particular case that information was available from an organized group, a very important group with the facts at their fingertips, The Nova Scotia Teachers' Union. The information and the consultation was only a phone call away, and was there for the asking. Rather than take this easy and simple course, The Government decided to act unilaterally.

Mr. speaker, we have paid a substantial amount of money to train and help educate our teachers, both indirectly through the school and university system, and directly through grants, loans, bursaries and scholarships.

We have made a considerable investment in our own teachers, and it is therefore only basic common sense that any move to eliminate job opportunities ought not to be made until consultation is first held well in advance with the teachers' Union, so that any cutbacks found absolutely necessary can be phased in rather than imposed suddenly as the Government has done.

It is obvious that a policy of consultation, had it been initiated several years ago, would have caused less, and perhaps no confrontation and no disruption in the economic lives of those in the teaching profession, or, could it be that the economic buoyancy which the Government led us to believe would occur, did not materialize - the consequence of this being that the cutbacks we are experiencing today are a direct result of the lack of economic progress and an economy gone flat. I might ask the question, Mr. Speaker, - is this situation an admission that the economy of Nova Scotia has not developed over the past five years in the manner which the premier indicated and promised?

While it is true that there have been cutbacks in admissions to the Nova Scotia Teachers' College at Truro, these same cutbacks have not been applied to our universities. This is a clear admission from the record that the Government was well aware that the situation which is now causing disruptions, misunderstandings and confrontations, would occur. But, there was no attempt to phase in these changes, when of course there should have been. The Government had plenty of lead time and it is clear that a reduction in the total number of teachers over the past four or five years could have been obtained through retirement and other attrition factors.

We have made a substantial investment in our teachers. That investment ought to be preserved, but under the program of cutbacks which this Government has initiated many of our teachers, and therefore much of our investment, may very well be lost to other provinces and jurisdictions, and their talents lost to the province.

Mr. Speaker, it has already been said, in time of an economic down turn, restraints must be applied, but at no time should one of our professional groups be the subject of unplanned and uncoordinated policies. In addition, it is fair to say, and reasonable to expect, that all Government policies and programs are subject to constant review, with an eye to future requirements, and furthermore, any government which fails to operate in this manner is operating for all intents and purposes in a vacuum, and is courting disaster.

I have demonstrated in these remarks that the Government has had plenty of warning with respect to this particular situation developing, and also demonstrated the manner in which it has failed to pass this information along so that the appropriate action could have been taken at the proper time and disaster avoided.

It is our view that Government policy must be tailored not only to meet the needs and requirements of the day, it must anticipate to the greatest extent possible, future needs and requirements.

It is worthy of note that in the past six years, there have been no less than four ministers of Education. Not only is the Department of Education one of the largest and most complicated departments of Government, but it is also one of the most demanding from the point of view of the Minister understanding and comprehending fully the education system and how it works and operates. As soon as we get a minister trained to handle the portfolio, a change is made. I believe that this is one of the reasons that we are having the difficulties I am talking about today. It is not being suggested when this is said, that an individual should have a permanent mandate to be minister of education, or minister of any other portfolio. However, I do believe that the Department of Education has suffered by the frequent changes which have occurred.

This is a situation which would not have occurred under a Progressive Conservative Government. We would have planned systematically and intelligently. In addition, we would have consulted with the Nova Scotia Teachers' Union, as well as with the school boards of this province, and worked with them to determine exactly what the future requirements were and what policies would have to be initiated to meet these requirements, without creating the turmoil and insecurity which is so evident today.

It appears that the Government opted for wholesale slaughter, rather than making a sane assessment of the needs of individual schools and school boards.

Now, Mr. Speaker, what have we learned from this whole experience of teacher cutbacks, and how do you correct it? How do you correct a situation which is obviously the result of lack of planning? The hands of the clock cannot be turned back. Unfortunately, the jobless teachers of this province will bear the brunt, because this Government doesn't have an ear to the ground nor an eye to the future. And what have we learned? We learned, Mr. Speaker, to user and old cliché, we learned a lesson, or we should have. Never again should this or any segment of Nova Scotia Society be dealt with in such a haphazard manner.

There has been great emphasis placed on developing a high quality of education in Nova Scotia in the past. It is obvious to everyone that quality of education is one of the more important factors in the development of society and those who make up society. It is for this reason that education must at all times be one of the major priorities of any Government, and once a certain quality has been attained, the objective should always be to improve that quality. I believe that the vast majority of teachers in Nova Scotia are dedicated to their profession, dedicated to their students and have a keen and abiding interest in being as certain as they can that their responsibilities are discharged in a responsible manner. The same courtesy has not been extended to them by this Government.

It's not work to walk.
So why not walk to work?

Tourist Operators Plan Dominion Day Protest

A number of restaurant, hotel and motel operators decided to take protest action against changes to the Labor Standard Code which would require higher rates of pay for employees working on statutory holidays.

The protest action could result in most Digby area restaurants being closed on Dominion Day (Thursday) and a total lack of service staff personnel in hotels and motels.

Through legislation recently passed by the provincial legislature, operators will be required to double time and a half to use employees who work on statutory holidays who have become employed with the company within 15 days of the holiday, and who work the day prior and the day after the holiday. This would amount to over $60 per day based on the minimum wage.

Penny Gott, who acted as Chairman of the meeting held at the Fundy Restaurant in Digby, said the employment regulation, which until now had not applied to the tourist industry, had been put through the legislature in a labour package by civil servants with most legislature members not even being aware of it.

In spite of their concern for accommodating tourists most of those attending the meeting decided their longterm interests would best be served by staying closed on Dominion Day.

The meeting was attended by 12 operators of restaurant, hotel and motel operators in this area. Representation from Conway, Smiths Cove, Sandy Cove, Allans River, as well as Digby, was present.

Indications are that some operators of tourist businesses not present at the meeting will also shut down.

Champion Debaters

The Digby team won on the negative resolution "Nova Scotia seatbelt laws should be put into effect immediately". They also debated "resolved that the federal government should assume full financial responsibility in the 1976 Olympics".

Reflecting To 1946

The late Rev. Harvey Denton was the guest speaker at the Senior High School Closing held in the Community Hall. Dr. J.R. McCleave, chairman of the school board spoke on consolidation of schools and urged the people to press for such development.

About 3000 attended Digby Dominion Day celebration when Miss Shirley Snow was chosen Miss Digby County (princess). Judges were five delegates attending the Home Economics Convention held at the Pines Hotel that week. The princess party were entertained at dinner at the Pines.

The price of herring scales had slumped from 85 cents per pound in the Spring to 25 cents per pound as recorded in the July 4, 1946 issue of The Digby Courier. Ten boats from New Brunswick were transporting fish from Digby area to the New Brunswick canneries and processing plants. Herring were selling at $16.50 a hoghead and at 85 cents per pound the scales often bought more than the herring.

Herring fishermen thirty years ago suffered the same frustrations that might be expected even today "plenty herring in the Bay but they are not getting into the weirs."

Junior Gets Hole In One

A hole in one was scored at the Digby Pines Golf Course on Monday, June 7 by one of the Digby Golf Club junior players, Frank Jefferson. The achievement was on number 16 hole, one hundred and thirty yards and using a 9 iron. Frank's playing partner was Joey Hattie of the Digby Golf Club.

A Tribute To "The Friends Of Tideview"

The Women's Auxiliary of the Terrace
by L. Russell Stonehouse, Administrator

"The Terrace" has been most fortunate to have an auxiliary right from our opening date in 1973. Other Senior Citizen Homes are just now trying to organize such an auxiliary. They often ask us "How did Tideview Terrace come up with an Auxiliary?" We feel we are indeed privileged that these dedicated ladies saw the need and have put so much effort into providing those extras that enrich a persons life.

They have quietly served, without fanfare, and we would like, at this time, to publicly acknowledge our appreciation of their efforts. We would like the public to know of some of these "extras" they have provided. "The Friends" have sponsored and paid for several bus trips to see the Apple Blossoms, Christmas Lights, etc., supplied some room dividers to give guests more needed privacy, provided handcraft materials, supplied a doctor's examining table, purchased a 16 M.M. sound projector to enable the guests to enjoy their own movies. This is only a partial list of the wonderful things they have done.

Right now they are busy furnishing a patio area where the guests may enjoy sitting out in the open air. They are also in the process of supplying attractive drapes to darken the lounge when they are showing films.

Whenever we have an "Open House," a Handcraft and Bakery Sale, or any other public function, the ladies of the "Friends of Tideview" are always willing to lend a helping hand.

This week they are sponsoring our Activity Workers workshop at Acadia University. To raise money for these projects, these ladies hold pantry sales, sell tickets on homemade quilts, etc. They applied for and got a grant through "New Horizons" to help finance their projects at the Terrace.

I feel this is a most impressive record for such a small group of ladies, nine in all. With Senior Citizens Week coming up, July 11-17, 1976 and you find yourself asking this question, "what can I do," come up to the Terrace on Wednesday, July 14th, from 2-4 p.m., to our "Open House" where you may talk to these auxiliary members and express your appreciation to them and get some worthwhile answers.

As Administrator of Tideview Terrace I would like to express my sincere thanks to our ladies of the auxiliary of the Terrace, THE FRIENDS OF TIDEVIEW, who are making more cheerful yesterdays and more confident tomorrows for the guests of the "Terrace."

END OF THE MARCH TO MOSCOW

For three weeks, the German tank generals burned, bombed and smashed their way deep into Russia, flushing with what was almost a German victory. They devastated the Russian countryside and population.

Hitler, by now, had set up his headquarters at Rastenburg in East Prussia and from here directed the German war effort, personally planning it himself down to the tiniest detail.

The Russians had lost a million men as prisoners and the desperation turned to a struggle to keep Russia alive. People worked themselves to exhaustion and death. Before the end of 1941, 1,523 industrial plants were moved east of the Ural Mountains out of the reach of the Germans.

Even the massive movement of German troops toward Moscow slowed down as the Russians destroyed everything that could possibly be used by the invaders. Meanwhile, the Russians were producing arms at a greater rate than the Germans, and partisans along the lines were doing damage to the German supply lines.

Then came the rain and the cold. Throughout the worst winter in 140 years, the German challenge was accepted, and even with the sieges of Leningrad, Smolensk and Sevastopol,

Six Years Of Russian-German War

Part I ATV July 4 11:00 p.m.

When the CTV Television Network undertook the tremendous job of producing three one-hour specials about the Russian-German war, it obtained, through negotiations with the Soviet Union, ten hours of remarkable historical film-footage that eyewitnessed the events of the gruesome war as it occurred.

Most of this film has never been seen outside the Soviet Union, and much of it is the only filmed record of the events of that war as seen in captured German and original Russian records. Supplemented by exclusive footage from Western sources, the research and documentation is massive. The result is the only truly comprehensive and objective filmed history in existence of Russia and Germany as they were, in an all-out confrontation.

Not a simple recital of dates and places, but an expert analysis of the politicians and those diplomatic moves behind the events, "The Russian-German War" is a unique, often terrifying, social and historical documentary series that sheds light on a war that is yet with us in terms of global politics.

THE POLITICS OF FEAR

For the Germans, the easy defeat of Central Europe seemed like a sign that the dream was ready for the taking. The dream, 'lebensraum' - living space - meant a million square miles in the rich meadowland of Central Europe. It was land to be returned to its virgin state, the population star-
