

1877- 1978

1877-1977

However, nails and finger nails were short and I was sent back to work.

Now and then a printing job had a page or two of "chicken paper" which required a heavy kind of printers' ink which smudged very badly some days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would tell that job on the largest press, in spite of the fact that we always spread an outside sheet to lessen the chances on the next print.

One of the jobs I had to do, besides putting and printers devil on the staff, was to... I cleaned one and then... (one day not long after I started to get to the printing plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned for some considerable time.)

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily. He thought the remark pretty good and sensible.

Sometimes the gasoline engine, a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and the "Man" fix it. A man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results. Man would then stand back and come over dramatically then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of coaxing."

On other occasions when some people refused duty for the and, seemed to be brokenhearted, I would say, "use a little oil" and note again, after that I did it too. They often since, have I heard of the value of that remark and the actual need of oil in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I took "Mac" and four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1968 got together just before dark one evening and decided to initiate the newly built outdoor Pines Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just out of the pool, nobody else seemed to be around except the four

Clothes were thrown out behind the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys, no thought or time for bathing suits, so in the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in. The rest quickly followed and across the pool the steam "Mac" inflated to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Seeps Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars, second world war; Kurtz, was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent druggist, for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale dealer in hardware and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day, "he" said to me how about writing your version of the story told about "The Marooning of Jerome". I said I had and read at least two somewhat different versions of the main who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore of St. Marys Bay, Durbly County. When I read this man's account, I was excited and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was tremendously left by some vessel before, and one missing, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and considerable wealth. However, the man could not or would not say after being asked for by some family in the French who something that sounded like O'Connell either, you'd not, or, would that, who he was or why he was left there. It was, and is, one of Dugby County and different ideas have been put forward concerning this man. However, "Mia" was, I felt on a high level, different about this man. The man has been very well explored by people, and he was a sort of trouble who started where he started.

The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis basin, and thence runs from Annapolis town, and six miles distant east from the head of W. Mear's lake. This land not then, the water's edge, partly on level ground, and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and glebaud, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis basin and its cultivated shores by twenty miles in extent it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth at that name. free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of whom was J.J.'s daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Abbott of Tibet, Prescott, Digby Co.). Some days later the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters. I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print." I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like embossing, stamping, perforating, counting, cutting and stitching paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, but, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "go," the printers name for a confused mess.

There was a taste of trying to do it all inside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls around town, spent most of the time at one particular house, but much time and got an order, but podroina at the office of the head of police. The proclamation evidently did not concern him, since the emergency was not a threat to him; but he wished to make sure that nothing would hinder his departure from the town.

Michael then returned to the other side of the Volga, to the quarter in which was the office of the head of police.

An immense crowd was collected

there, for though all foreigners were ordered to quit the province, they had not withstanding to go through certain forms before they could depart.

Without this precaution some Russian more or less implicated in the Tartar movement would have been able in a disguise to pass the frontier—just those whom the order was intended to prevent going.

The strangers went away, but still had to gain permission to go.

Mountebanks, gypsies, Tsiganes,

Zingisars, mingled with merchants

from Persia, Turkey, India, Turkestan, China, filled the court and offices of the police station.

Every one was in a hurry, for the means of transport would be much sought for among this crowd of banished people, and those who did not want to leave the town

noted with a great deal of interest the small number of not being able to get the passports, which were being issued in the morning.

Exposure to some but at treatment from the Governor's agents.

Owing to the strength of his elbows, Michael Strogoff was able to cross the court. But to get into the office and up to the clerk's little window was a much more difficult business. However, a word into an inspector's ear and a few judicious

given roubles were powerful enough to gain him a passage. The man,

after taking him into the waiting-room, went to call an upper clerk.

Michael Strogoff would not be long in making everything right

with the police and being free in his movements.

While waiting he looked about him, and what did he see? There,

fallen rather than seated, on a bench

was a girl, a prey to silent despair,

although her face could scarcely be seen, the profile alone being visible

against the wall.

Michael Strogoff could not be mistaken. He instantly recognized the young Livonian.

Not knowing the Governor's orders, she had come to the police office to get her passport signed. They had refused to sign it. No doubt

she was authorized to go to Irkutsk,

but the order was not yet issued.

She had been waiting for some time, and the previous authoriza-tions, and the routes to Siberia were closed to her. Michael, delighted at having found her again, approached the girl.

She looked up for a moment and her face brightened on recognizing her traveling companion. She instinctively rose, and like a drowning man who clutches at a spar, she was about to ask his help. At that moment the agent touched Michael on the shoulder.

stern, gazed at the receding town,

so disturbed by the Governor's order. Michael had as yet said nothing to the girl; he had not even questioned her. He waited until she should speak to him whenever that was necessary. She had been anxious to leave that town, in which

but for the providential intervention of this unexpected protector, she would have remained imprisoned.

She said nothing but her looks spoke her thanks.

The Volga, the Rha of the ancients,

is considered to be the largest river in all Europe, and is not less than four thousand versts in length.

Its waters, rather unwholesome in its upper part, are improved at Nijni Novgorod by those of the Oka, a rapid affluent, issuing from the central provinces of Russia.

The system of Russian canals and river has been justly compared to a gigantic tree whose branches spread over every part of the empire. The Volga forms the trunk of this tree,

and it has about seventy mouths

opening into the Caspian Sea. It is navigable as far as Riazan, a town in the Government of Tver, that is,

along the greater part of its course.

The steamboats plying between

Perm and Nijni-Novgorod rapidly perform the three hundred and fifty

versts which separate this town

from the town of Kusan. It is true that the Volga has only one depart, but it is a very good one.

Two miles per current per hour

is the average speed; but on arriving at the confluence of the Kama, a little below Kusan, they are obliged to quit the Volga for the smaller river,

up which they ascend to Perm.

Powerful as were her machines, the Caucasus could not thus, after entering the Kama, make against the current more than sixteen versts

an hour. Including an hour's stoppage at Kusan, the voyage from

Nijni-Novgorod to Perm would take from sixty to sixty-two hours.

The steamer was very well arranged, and the passengers, according to their condition or resources, occupied three distinct classes on board. Michael Strogoff had taken care to engage two first class cabins, so that his young companion might retire into hers and be quiet whenever she liked.

The Caucasus was loaded with passengers of every description. A number of Asiatic traders had thought it best to leave Nijni-Novgorod immediately. In that part of the steamer reserved for the first class might be seen Armenians in their robes and a sort of mitre on their heads; Jews, known by their conical caps, rich Chinese in their traditional costume, a very wide

blue, violet or black robe, open in front and at the back, and covered by a second robe with wide sleeves,

the cut of which recalls that of the pope's; Turks wearing the national turban; Hindoos, with square caps

and a simple string for a girdle,

and some of whom, more especially designated under the name of Shikar-poris, hold in their hands all the traffic of Central Asia; and, lastly,

the Tartars, wearing boots ornamented with many colored braid,

and the breast a mass of embroidery.

All these merchants had been obliged to pile up their numerous ba-

ges and chests in the hold and on deck;

and the transport of their baggage

would cost them dear, for according to the regulations, each person

had only a right to twenty pounds' weight.

In the bows of the Caucasus were more numerous groups of passengers, not only foreigners, but also

Russians, who were not forbidden

by the order to go back to the towns

in the province.

There were mujiks with caps on their heads wearing checkered shirts under their wide pelisses;

and some of the Volga, with blue trousers stuffed to the top with resembles of cotton shirts, drawn in by a cord, full caps; a few women, hab-

ited in flower-patterned dresses, gay

colored aprons, and bright handkerchiefs on their heads. These were principally third-class passengers,

who were, happily, not troubled by the prospect of a long return voyage.

In short, this part of the deck was crowded. The cabin passengers did not venture among these mixed groups, whose place was marked beyond the piddle boxes.

MICHAEL STROGOFF.

Of The Courier of the Czar.

BY JULES VERNE.

CHAPTER VII.—Continued.

GOING UP THE KAMA.

About ten o'clock in the morning,

the young Livonian, leaving her cabin, appeared on deck. Michael

Strogoff went forward and took her hand.

"Look, sister!" said he, leading her to the bows of the Caucasus.

The view was indeed well worth examining.

The Caucasus had just then reached the confluence of the Volga and the Kama. There she would leave the former river, after having de-

scented it for more than four hundred versts, to ascend the latter for four hundred and sixty versts.

The Kama was here very wide,

and its wooded banks lovely. A few white sails enlivened the sparling water. The horizon was closed

by a line of hills covered with aspens,

alders, and sometimes large oaks.

But these beauties of nature could not distract the thoughts of the young Livonian. For, for an instant,

she had left her hand in that of her companion, and soon turning to him

said:

"At what distance are we from Moscow?"

"Nine hundred versts," answered

Michael.

"Nine hundred out of seven thousand!"

The bell now announced the breakfast hour. Nadia followed

Michael Strogoff to the restaurant.

She ate little, as a poor girl whose means are small would do. Michael

Keeping Cider Sweet.

If we knew of any process for keeping sweet cider sweet we should certainly look for a secret in our own hearts; for of all the insidious compounds for transforming men into brutes and stupid, settled demons, sour sweet cider is the worst. The man who habitually gets intoxicated through the use of sour sweet cider, fastens upon himself the most miserable and hopeless form of inebrity known to medical men; and in order to prevent the development of such a disease with all its fatal consequences, we propose the following recipe for keeping cider sweet: Let it remain in the apples. If temperance people will follow this recipe, it will prevent some of the bad influence and demoralizing effects of sour sweet cider. We have known cases where the ruin wrought by a few barrels, or a few cisterns of sour sweet cider, kept among the farmers, was greater, if possible, than would have been wrought by an open bar in their neighborhood. There are communities where farmers and city citizens, and pour into them ten, fifteen, or twenty barrels of sour sweet cider, drugged to prevent acetous fermentation, then put a pump in them, and from these reservoirs of inflammation and demoralization to the community, and thus defy all law and Gospel. This has occurred in towns where no license was the voice of the people for years in succession, and the result has been a harvest of drunkards and desolated homes, and all the crimes and outrages that follow in the train of such demoralization. Let all temperance people cease dilly-dallying with this fatal tempter. There must be nothing hidden in our tents if we expect to gain the victory.

Effecting a Compromise.

In a certain Maine town lives a man who for many years has been engaged in the grocery business, but receiving a good offer he sold out to a younger man and retired to private life. But the ruling passion was so strong to let him long be idle, so he commenced building a store on his land, which adjoined that of the Methodist church. For a time everything went harmoniously, and the new store neared a state of completion. But just at this point up came one of the trustees of the church and said, "Your store steps over our land one foot and it will have to be moved." This rather staggered the prospective grocer, and he retired to ponder over the question and study the deeds of his land and test the measurements. In doing this he discovered that the back of the church rested over on his side of the line three feet. Armed with this new argument he said to the church officers, "If you will move your church three feet I will move my store over. This view of the case was a new one to the church authorities, but recognizing its force they made all haste to effect a compromise.—Leviathan Journal.

Using up the Earth's Stores.

The death of the earth and sun must both come, and with their death the end of all life upon this earth, but the human race to day is taking care that it shall cease to exist millions of years before this shall come to pass. So rapidly have two kinds of accumulated earth stores—petroleum and natural gas—been exhausted in America that within one generation alone stores which were millions of years accumulating will have been almost wholly exhausted. And all this time population increases so fast that at the rate of growth during the last twenty years the inhabitants of Great Britain in 130 years time will number more than 300,000,000, if indeed they were not practically an impossibility for them to exist with only six square feet of earth surface apiece to live on.—Westminster Review.

A Friend

Wishes to speak through the Register of the beneficial results he has received from a regular use of Ayer's Pills. He says: "I was feeling sick and tired and my stomach seemed all out of order. I tried a number of remedies, but none seemed to give me relief until I was induced to try the old reliable Ayer's Pills. I have taken only one box, but I feel like a new man. I think they are the most pleasant and easy to take of anything I ever used, being so finely sugar-coated that even a child will take them. I urge upon all who are of a laxative to try Ayer's Pills.—Boothbay (Me.) Register.

In Need

"Between the ages of five and fifteen, I was troubled with a kind of salt-rheum, or eruption, chiefly confined to the legs, and especially to the bend of the knee above the calf. It was a running sore, formed which would scab over, but would break immediately on moving the leg. My mother tried everything she could think of, but all was in vain. Although a child, I read in the papers about the beneficial effects of Ayer's Pills, and persuaded my mother to let me try them. Within no great faith in the result, she procured and I began to use them, and soon noticed an improvement. Encouraged by this, I kept on till I took two boxes, when the sores disappeared and have never troubled me since."—L. Chipman, Real Estate Agent, Rockport, Me.

Ayer's Pills

"I suffered for years from stomach and kidney troubles, causing very severe pains in various parts of the body. None of the remedies I tried afforded me any relief until I began taking Ayer's Pills, and was cured."—Wm. Giddard, Notary Public, Five Lakes, Mich.

Every Dose Effective

Cause of Bad Dreams.

Methods Recommended to Rid the Afflicted of the Horrible Night-mare.

Children are particularly subject to nightmare, and when they wake terror-stricken they need all the kind and soothing care possible. Effective methods ought to be taken at once to prevent a repetition. Every kind of butchery meat should be avoided, and a plain, simple diet, consisting largely of milk, should be given, and personal hygiene strongly insisted upon.

Family nervousness predisposes to nightmare, which thus becomes related to the thousand and one ills which we inherit from our ancestors. The most potent cause of bad dreams has yet to be mentioned. This is worry, which is one of the most fatal disorders which attack mankind. For one who is injured or killed by hard work, a hundred are struck down by worry. Girls who are preparing for examinations often worry themselves into a fever which prevents sleep or else causes it to be broken by horrid visions of unsolvable problems or impending failure. Remember also that we go to bed to sleep, and not to review the events of the day.

Don't think in bed. This may seem to be impossible advice in many, but it is certain that we can dismiss thought if we make sufficient effort to do so. Reading in bed is a very bad habit, which ought never to be contracted, or if it has been contracted, it ought to be given up resolutely. It is habitually connected to some extent by the example of many eminent people, but it is radically wrong for all that.

Finally, no words are strong enough to point out the danger of slow poisoning by drugs which are often taken to procure sleep, whether it be an alcoholic night cap, morphine, opium, chloral, or any other. The medical man has recourse to with reluctance to these as a last and temporary resort and only he can tell how many lives are wrecked by the ill-timed use of them and their subsequent abuse. And of all horrible dreams none are so awful as those which assail people who habitually use these false comforters. Better than all the drugs in the world for procuring sleep are simple food, a regular life, and a calm mind.

Good Night.

There is a tender sweetness about some of our common phrases of affectionate greeting, simple and unobtrusive as they are, which falls like dew upon the heart. Good night! The little one lingers it as, gazing in white, with shining face and hands and prayers said, she toddles off to bed. Sisters and brothers exchange the wish. Wishes and children, friends and friends. Familiar use has robbed it of its significance to some of us; we repeat it automatically without much thought. But consider. We are, as voyagers, putting off from time to time upon an unexplored sea. Our bark of life set sail and go onward into the darkness; and we, asleep on our pillows, take no such care as we do when awake and journeying by daylight. Of the perils of the night, whatever they may be, we take no heed. An unsleeping vigilance of one stronger and wiser than we, who is the Eternal Good. Good and God spring from the same root, and are the same in meaning. "Good-by" is only "God be with you." "Good night" is really "God with you." "God guard the night." It would be a church household, in which these gentle forms of speech were ignored or did not exist. Alas, the happy and the sorrowful, day by day, may say "Good night."

The Revival of Cities.

The revival of such cities as Athens and Damascus can be explained by the untried advantage of their location, an advantage which has more than once proved the salvation of Constantinople. The fire service of the Turkish capital is a century behind the average of the times, and in the southern suburbs there are miles of streets lined with nothing but wooden houses, but the aristocratic quarters in their present condition are really almost fireproof. The palaces of the Turkish grandees are built almost exclusively of stone, the very houses consisting of a mosaic of variegated marble, while an abundance of water is supplied by indoor baths and fountains, in addition to all that they are surrounded by acres of evergreen shrubs, which in their turn are enclosed by massive stone walls. A single establishment of that sort—and their number runs up in the hundreds—could stand unscathed in the midst of flaming streets, and old Stamboul may in the same way survive a bombardment of the predicted Russian invasion. Its site at all events would insure its resurrection.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Enthusiastic Wyoming Women.

The enthusiasm shown in registering by women in Wyoming in qualification for the presidential election was a complete refutation of the hackneyed charge that "the sex" do not appreciate nor generally care for the privilege of suffrage. Not only were the wives of prominent citizens registered—they went further by instructing their help in things political and insuring their registering as well. Whenever it has been made worth while to them the women have seldom, if ever, failed to show how real is their interest in the use of the ballot.—Portland (Me.)

An English Woman's Dress.

The clothes of English women! In one of the new London plays Miss Ailsa Craig, Ellen Terry's daughter, appeared as the typical strong-minded English woman abroad in violet and black striped satin, over which is a black and white meekintosh made of the same material as the ordinary sponge bag, a crocheted lace fichu adorned with a cameo brooch, and to finish the masterpiece, side spring boots and mittens!—New York Tribune.

Children Cry for

Roumania is perhaps the highest taxed country in the world. Every bottle of foreign wine has to pay a shilling duty. There is a tax even on female servants; there is a tax on one's door plate; there is a tax which doctors must pay yearly for the privilege of exercising their profession.

When in Despair.

When in despair of being cured of lung troubles, there is still a hope, and a strong hope of perfect cure in Dr. Wood's Norway Syrup. This medicine cures even after all others have failed, and no one suffering from coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, hoarseness, etc., need despair of cure while Norway Pine Syrup is obtainable.

Russia still has many odd and curious marriage customs. One is for the bride and bridegroom to race rapidly down the aisle as soon as the bridal procession enters the church, because of the belief that whichever places a foot first on the cloth in front of the altar will be master in the household.

"Here's to the maiden of bashful fifteen. And here's to the widow of forty!" They have each reached a period in life that females need assistance in finding their way through the shoals which so often completely wreck their after lives. In producing healthy children, the health of the female organs, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription stands without a peer. At a time when nature gives them increased burdens, so many young girls have their health for life shattered. If you wish your daughter to miss these periods, agonizing backaches, and dizzy headaches, and tired feelings, accompanied with, rough, pimply skin and dull, heavy eyes, catch a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If you have reached the latter period of danger and weakness, you will need a bottle too. Satisfaction given in every case or money returned.

Of the total number of 109,000 locomotive engines which are at present running on the earth's surface, Europe claims 63,000, America, 40,000, Asia, 3,500, Australia, 2,000, and Africa, 700.

The best of all ways

To keep your bowels regular, try Dr. Wood's Purgative Pellets. For nine-tenths of the diseases of the body begin with constipation or the clogging up of the bowels, through which the impurities of the blood escape, so that they are re-absorbed into the system. The Purgative Pellets act gently but thoroughly upon the stomach and liver, and are the best laxative known. Without racking and straining the organs, they open the bowels and restore a natural healthy digestion. Unequalled in dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, piles or any of the resulting diseases.

The custom of setting several glasses before each person for the different wines that are to be served, belongs to the nineteenth century. In the eighteenth century the glass was dipped at each new wine into small earthenware vessels filled with water which were placed upon the table within reach of the guests.

Not a Participle.

A feature worth noting in regard to Purge Blood Bitters is that it does not contain one particle of poisonous matter. It cures and cures quickly without the use of any injurious ingredients. B.B.B. is a purely vegetable specific for dyspepsia, constipation, bad blood, headache, biliousness and all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels and blood.

About 250,000 canaries are raised every year in Germany, and besides the 100,000 birds that are sent to America the English market takes about 50,000; the next best customers being Brazil, China, the Argentine Republic, and Austria, to which countries salesmen are sent with large numbers of birds every year.

Baltimore Bulletin.

Sus.—I had a troublesome cold which would not yield until I tried Dr. Wood's Pectoral Balm, and I am glad to say that it completely cured me.
Rost, McQuarrie, Baltimore, Md.

When, as sometimes happens, one is forced to wear an uncomfortably tight shoe, it may be of value to know that folded cloth wet in hot water laid over the pinching point will often speedily afford relief. Change the cloth several times to keep up the heat, which shortly stretches the shoe and shapes it to the foot.

Reduced to a Science.

The treatment of disease is now almost reduced to a science. A scientific product of medical skill for the cure of all blood diseases from a common impure to the worst scrofulous one which has held popular esteem for years and increased in favor is Burdock Blood Bitters. Its cures prove its worth.

Her Father.—Is there any chance of promotion in your business or increase in your salary? Son.—Is there? Why my position is next to the lowest in the establishment!

Dandruff is an exudation from the pores of the scalp that spreads and dries, forming scurf and causing the hair to fall out. Hall's Hair Renewer cures it.

Not the Weaker Sex.

To refer to women as the weaker sex, a German scientist says, is surely a mistake, for they have always known how to preserve their dominion over the so-called stronger sex. Men are indeed women's most obedient slaves. Solomon said his wives were bitterer than death, and surely there never was a greater slave to woman. Statistics show that seven wives survive every ten famous men. Heloise survived the loss of her beloved Abelard twenty-two years, and similarly the wife of Washington, though she declared she could never get over the death of her husband, outlived him thirty years.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Watching the Hour-glass.

When we approach the serene and yellowed face of old age, we are told to be content. A clear conscience and sound health will lighten our gloomy reflections. Health is the greatest blessing. It is an unusual thing for a turtle to lay as many as one hundred and twenty-five eggs, although from sixty to one hundred eggs is a more usual lay.

Don't waste time, money, and health, trying every new medicine you may see advertised in the papers. If the cause of your trouble is in the blood, liver, stomach, bowels, take Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla at once, and be sure of a cure. Take no other.

In France there is an unwritten but immutable law that a painting shall not be exhibited without the artist's consent, no matter what the wishes of the owner may be.

There is no claim made for Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a blood-purifier. This fact plainly proves that the blood is the source of most disorders and that Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best of blood-purifiers. Try it this month.

The orange was originally a pear-shaped fruit about the size of the common wild cherry. Its evolution is believed by naturalists to be due to twelve hundred years of cultivation.

Today Hood's Sarsaparilla stands at the head in the medicine world, admitted in prosperity and envied in merit by thousands of would-be competitors. It has a larger sale than any other medicine. Its efficacy could not be won without positive merit.

Hood's Pills cure constipation by restoring the peristaltic action of the alimentary canal. They are the best family cathartic. Of the total number of 109,000 locomotive engines which are at present running on the earth's surface, Europe claims 63,000, America, 40,000, Asia, 3,500, Australia, 2,000, and Africa, 700.

No flowery rhetoric can tell the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla as well as the cures accomplished by this excellent medicine.

The bay bird of India ingeniously illuminates its nest. It catches fireflies, and without killing them, with moist clay sticks them to its nest. On a dark night the bay's nest is like a bright beacon.

Chronic Derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Blood, are speedily removed by the active principle of the ingredients entering into the composition of Farmlee's Vegetable Pills. These pills are a powerful and reliable remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, and all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels and blood.

It is generally supposed that the oyster is an exceptionally nutritious article of food, but chemical analysis shows that the nutritive value of a quart of solid oyster meats is equal only to that of two thirds of a pound of bread.

A LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson, Cameron, states: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by the physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Williams' Electric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on his advice, I procured the medicine and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly had no other remedy. I feel now, with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

During the time of George I. and II. the wedding-ring, though placed upon the nuptial finger at the time of marriage, was sometimes worn on the thumb, in which position it is often seen on the portraits of titled ladies in those days.

Important Discovery.

Tonkors, Feb. 20.—Among the surprising strides made by medical science in the last decade perhaps none is of more importance to humanity than the discovery of cure for Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. This remedy completely masters this terrible disease as well as all other diseases which the kidneys are subject to. It is now an established fact. Every day brings news of the most surprising cures resulting from its use. The case of Mrs. Brown of Toronto, who, when about to enter the Home for Incurables, given up by the Hospital authorities as well as by fifteen prominent medical men, also that of Sam. Murray of Gravenhurst, who was given up by four doctors and who was paid his life disability claims by the Grand Trunk Ry. has attracted widespread attention. Both were completely cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Endorsed by the Leaders.

When a remedy is endorsed by ministers, editors, farmers and leading men of all classes, it is strong evidence that that remedy has great merit and does what is claimed for it. Such a remedy is Burdock Blood Bitters, its wonderful success as a cure for dyspepsia, bad blood, etc., is well known to old and young.

According to the best and most recent calculations 100,000,000 tons of water pour over Niagara every hour. This represents 16,000,000 horse power. The annual coal production of the world would not furnish steam power sufficient to pump it back again.

The King of Remedies.

"For a long time I was afflicted with a severe pain in my right side, and between my shoulder blades, with no appetite, an awful taste in my mouth in the morning, and which continued constantly with me. I employed a doctor who attended me three or four weeks, and my family got alarmed, as I was getting no better, but, if anything, worse. At last my wife sent me a bottle of Norton's Dock Blood Purifier. I took it as directed and in three days' time I was able to sit up, the pain between my shoulders and side being all gone. Before I finished the bottle I was a new man; my appetite was good, and I relished my food so well that gained strength very fast. Three bottles cured me. We now use it as our family medicine, and, all from the oldest to the youngest, have received great benefit from its use. We never used such a good medicine before, especially after colds and la grippe. It is a splendid tonic, a great purifier, and a thorough Blood Cleanser, and we believe it to be 'The King of Remedies' for all diseases of the Liver and Kidneys."

I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one of the bottles of South American Nerve, which did me more good than any $50 worth of medicine I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." A trial bottle will convince you.

Sandy Cove Notes.

Mrs. Alex. Lang, of St. John, is a guest of Mrs. W. W. Leary. Alfred Johnson, of Cambridge, Mass., formerly of this place, is home on a visit. Geo. E. Vorse, of New York, arrived here Saturday after a two years' absence. We are glad to know that Mrs. W. H. Eldridge is convalescent after a serious illness. Our sportsmen are making great havoc among the wild ducks. W. Johnson seems to be the most fortunate in that line, bringing down four and five at nearly every shot. The sch. Freddie Stephens, Capt. Foster, was dragged ashore on the lower point Sunday by the ice, but got off next day without any damage, and is now at the wharf discharging freight for W. H. Eldridge.

Flympton Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher, who have been visiting relatives here, returned to St. John last Wednesday. Mrs. Alex. McDonald is still in very poor health. Mrs. Sabin Savary is so far recovered, as to sit up part of each day. Mrs. Henry Comen, of this place, became deranged some time ago, and has been obliged to remove her to the poor house, as for lack of means he was unable to have her cared for at home. Mr. Comen has a large family of small children, for whom he is endeavoring to find homes, not wishing them to become town charges, and being unable to care for them himself. The sch. W. E. Smith, Cleveland master, will go to Bellville Cove this week to lead piling for the New York market. Rev. P. O. McGee, pastor of the St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, is holding religious meetings at Flympton during the week. May the blessing of God attend.

Westport Notes.

The weather here continues cold with occasional snow storms. The sleighing is excellent. The sch. Joseph, of Weymouth, Capt. Drury, has discharged about 50 tons of hard coal from New York. Elisha Beckman, and Chas. Sullivan were passengers by the sch. Jura to Weymouth Tuesday.

Mr. A. B. Crocker was unable to attend to his usual customers last week, owing to a lame hand caused by a goring accident. Mr. Fred Barkhouse's barber shop presents a fine appearance. Everything in apple pie order.

It is stated that Capt. J. A. Morrison is going to fit out his vessel, the Black Viper, for bank fishing.

Quite a number of vessels will be added to the fishing fleet next summer. The sch. Hattie, Capt. Osinger, will fit out for the fishing business, and the Mabel will also fit out. Capt. Geo. Coggins will command the latter.

Fewish Pugh and Elmer Gower took a trip to Yarmouth Saturday on the Westport, returning same day, and looking much better after their voyage.

The Moon Shiners made their appearance last week. They have adjourned their meetings to a later date.

Mr. James A. Peters has returned home from Digby. The sch. Mary Queen, Capt. Coggins, has not returned from Grand Manan yet. The Safford, Capt. Lent's vessel, has been having a new foremast and jib-boom.

Mr. Fred Olsen, is expected home daily from England.

Rabbits seem to be very unhealy lately, as some of our young men were taken ill after eating them.

Tiverton Notes.

The weather continues cold and stormy at present; there is good sleighing. Hay is reported quite plentiful. There are about 20 tons of hay for sale in the district of Tiverton. Very few as yet are inquiring for hay. The market price is $10 per ton.

Some very heavy pigs were killed here last week, which were sent to the city. The heaviest one was killed by our postmaster, Milton Oudous, Esq., which tipped the scales at 315 lbs. and if this can be excelled in the County of Digby. Quite a number of others were killed weighing over 300 lbs.

Mr. Edward Stephenson and wife, of Eastport, Mr. J. A. Peterson, and friends at this place.

Dr. Morgan, of Weymouth, is at present at Mr. Milton Oudous's trying to relieve all who are troubled with the toothache.

This has been a very healthy winter. So far only one death reported from this little town.

The lobster fishermen complain of the scarcity of lobsters. Large quantities of ice coming down St. Mary's Bay cut away the traps.

Mr. Ralph Messenger, of Bridgetown, who is teaching school at this place, has been instrumental in organizing a young people's Christian Endeavor Society, in the Christian church at this place. Its aim is to promote an earnest Christian life among its members, to increase their mutual acquaintance, and to make them more useful in the service of God. Mr. Messenger is very highly respected as a Christian gentleman, and also as a school teacher.

Elder H. A. De Voe, who has been away at Gulliver's Cove holding meetings, is at home again.

Haddock fishing is beginning to close up for the winter. All who have been engaged in it have done fairly well. Some boats have lost considerable trawl.

Our merchants apparently are doing a good business. Their stores are all filled to their utmost capacity. They are all good, honest, upright men, richly deserving the custom of the people.

Maritime Province Baptists.

The Baptist year-book has been published. It shows that there are three associations in New Brunswick with 161 churches and 15,826 members. There are 194 Sunday schools, 374 teachers and 10,669 scholars. The contributions were: For home purposes $14,786, and for outside objects, $5,488. In Prince Edward Island there are 27 churches, with 1,800 members. There are 27 Sunday schools with 108 teachers and 1,256 scholars. The reported contributions are: For home purposes, $8,192, and for other objects, $770.

In Nova Scotia there are four associations, 206 churches and 26,275 members. Of these there are connected with the African association 17 churches and 561 members. There are 102 Sunday schools, with 1,555 teachers and 17,170 scholars. The amount reported as contributed for home purposes is $94,828, and for outside religious and benevolent purposes $15,408.

This makes a total for the maritime provinces of 394 churches and 43,996 members; 522 Sunday schools, with 2,937 teachers and 29,004 scholars; contributions for home purposes, $152,982, and for other objects, $21,666 an aggregate of $174,649.

The Bridgetown Case.

Bridgetown, Feb. 22.—Sundary Forsythe opened his court at 2 p. m. today. Mrs. Cameron was brought up from Annapolis and was present in court. She looked greatly improved in health since the adjournment. Word was received from Mr. McFadyen, of St. John, the analyst, stating that his report was not ready, and a further adjournment was made until Wednesday, March 1st, when he is expected to be present and give his testimony. All interest in the case has entirely died out. Should no poison be found in Cameron's stomach the case will be dismissed, as the evidence taken so far fails to connect Mrs. Cameron with the crime charged. The counsel for the defence were absent today and only a few spectators were in court.

Refloating; Last Week's Gale of Halifax Harbor—Disastrous at the Cape-Crow Disasters—But Cargo Escaped—The Ship's Fate.

While the thermometer was going down last week sugar was going up, but Capt. Thibault, of Freeport, in command of the ship, was not so fortunate in that line, bringing down four and five at nearly every shot.

The organization meeting of the Dominion coal company took place at Boston on Friday last, when the following officers were elected:

President—H. M. Whitney, Boston. Treasurer—John S. McLennan, Montreal. General manager—F. S. Pearson, Boston. Resident manager—D. McKinn, Sydney. Secretary—B. F. Pearson, Halifax. Directors—W. D. Dyer, New York; Robert Winsor, of Kidder, Peabody & Co.; Alfred Winsor, president of the Boston Low-boat company; W. B. Ross, barrister, Halifax; Sir Donald Smith, W. C. A. Horn and Hugh McLennan, Montreal.

The business will be managed by a committee of four, who will almost have the same powers as the board of directors. Nothing was decided as regards the Halifax agency. B. F. Pearson will not remove to Boston, but will continue to reside in Halifax.

Another Deacon Goes Wrong. A Port George correspondent writes: Another good man has gone wrong. This time it is a Port George deacon who is also a justice of the peace. The deacon is a great temperance man and very pious; nevertheless he was suborned as a witness for the prosecution in a recent Scott act case. He took the subpoena and pocketed the fees. The deacon was called on to give evidence. He took the oath and gave evidence. He was found guilty and fined.

The Ring. New York, Feb. 19.—Mitchell's and Corbett's backers tonight withdrew their stake money and signed an agreement to meet on the Canadian side of Niagara Falls, February 25th, at 9 p. m., to deposit the stakes and sign articles. This action is due to the fact that the fight is expected to be a close one, and the backers are anxious to secure a large stake.

A Third Atlantic Cable.

To Be Laid By the "Hawkeye" Bank of Canada and Field For Cost of the Cable Company.

New York, February 21.—The commercial cable company announced at its annual meeting, on the 20th inst., the laying of a third Atlantic cable, on the back of the cable already laid, to existing shareholders, which will bring the capital up to $10,000,000. This money will be used to acquire the cable, and the company will, with the other cash assets of the company, give them over $3,000,000 of cash, besides $355,000 of stock in the company, which will be given to the shareholders, and will also be a great protection to the existing business and will greatly enhance the safety and value of the cable as an investment. The company, at the end of this year, will have paid off $2,000,000 of six per cent. bonds out

MICHAEL STROGOFF.

Or The Courier of the Czar.

BY JULES VÉRNE.

CHAPTER XI Continued.

TRAVELERS IN DISTRESS.

This was the report that Michael had just heard. In an instant he was on the spot. Another bound and he was between the bear and the girl. His arm made one movement upwards, and the enormous beast, ripped up by that terrible knife, fell to the ground a lifeless mass. He had exerted in splendid style the famous blow of the Sibierian hunters, who endeavor not to damage the precious fur of the bear,

which fetches a high price.

"You are not wounded, sister?"

said Michael springing to the side of the young girl.

"No, brother," replied Nadia.

At that moment the two journalists came up. Alcide seized the horse's head, and in an instant, his strong wrist mastered it. His companion had seen Michael's rapid stroke.

"Bravo!" cried Alcide; "for a simple merchant, Mr. Korpanoff,

you handle the hunter's knife in a most masterly fashion."

"Most masterly, indeed," added

Harry.

"In Siberia," replied Michael,

"we are obliged to do a little of everything."

Alcide regarded him attentively.

Seen in the bright glare, his

knit dripping with blood, his tall

placed firmly on the huge carcass,

he was indeed worth looking at.

"A formidable fellow," said Al-

cide to himself.

Then advancing respectfully, his hat in his hand, he saluted the young girl.

Nadia bowed slightly.

Alcide turning towards his companion:

"A sister worthy of the brother!"

said he. "Now were I a bear, I should not meddle with a couple at the same time so brave and so charming."

Harry Blount, perfectly upright, stood hat in hand, at some distance.

His companion's easy manners only increased his own stiffness.

At that moment the iemshik,

who had succeeded in recapturing

the two horses, reappeared. He cast a regretful glance at the magnificent animal lying on the ground,

loath to leave it to the birds of prey,

and then proceeded once more to harness his team.

Michael acquainted him with the travelers' situation, and his intention of putting one of the horses at their disposal.

"As you please," replied the iemshik. "Only, you know, two carriages instead of one."

"All right, my friend," said Alcide, who understood the insinuation, "we will pay double."

"Then go up, my turtle-doves!"

cried the iemshik.

Nadia again took her place in the tarantass. Michael and his companions followed on foot.

It was three o'clock. The storm,

now decreasing no longer, swept with terrific violence across the defile. The remainder of the ascent was rapidly performed.

When the first streaks of daylight appeared the tarantass had reached the telga, which was still consensually imbedded as far as the center of the wheels. Such being the case, it can easily be understood how

a sudden jerk would separate the front months nursing of some poor little infant?"

"I never heard it," replied Harry

Blount.

"Then you do not know what that suckling had become by the time judgment was given in favor of the nurse?"

"What was he, pray?"

"Colonel of the Imperial Guard!"

At this reply all burst into a laugh.

Alcide, enchanted with his own joke, drew out his pipe, and in it wrote the following memo-

rum, destined to figure in a forthcoming French and Russian dictionary:

"Telga, a Russian carriage with four wheels, that is, when it starts;

with two wheels when it arrives at its destination."

Why Should I Sign the Pledge?

MRS. S. M. I. HENRY.

"I'm not a drunkard."
"I don't drink anything to speak of."
"If I want a drink I take it; it doesn't hurt me."
"I never take so much that I don't know what I am about."
"I can drink a little or much; it never hurts me."
"I can drink or let it alone."
"Why should I sign the pledge?"

Because—
1. You don't want to be a drunkard. I never found a man that did; and the disappointment of men who wake up to find themselves drunkards is something too terrible to take the slightest chance on, and a pledge of total abstinence taken and kept will turn any man or woman from the path of the drunkard and the shame to which it leads.

2. A deliberate promise is the strongest tie with which any man can bind a good purpose. You have a purpose to be sober, reliable, pure; then bind the habits of your life to it with a solemn promise to abstain forever from all intoxicating liquors including wine, beer and cider, and you are safe from that dragon.

3. You should sign the pledge and stop all use of intoxicating drink, because if you drink it ever so moderately you are in danger. The subtle poison of alcohol has just one way with human blood and nerves and brain, and if you take one glass to one of light wine, the chances are ten to one that you will die a drunkard. You will follow in the road that is filled up with drunkards, who all began with the first glass, which opened the gate to all that has followed of shame and sorrow.

A Speaker's Right.

All for a Barley Corn.

LaFontaine, in one of his fables, tells of a barnyard fowl that scratched up a gem, while scratching for corn. Not knowing its value, he gave it to a stone cutter for a barley corn. Thus many persons throw away the priceless pearl of health. A trifling cough is neglected, then comes Consumption, then death. Stay the cough or look out for a coffin. Dr. Pierce's Great Medical Discovery will cure catarrh in the head, bronchial or throat affections, or lung-sore, and all other troubles of the consumption of the lungs. If taken in time, and given a fair trial, it will cure, or the money paid for it will be refunded. It is the only guaranteed cure.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Is superior to all other preparations claiming to be blood-purifiers. First of all, because the principal ingredient used in it is the extract of genuine Honduras sarsaparilla root, the variety richest in medicinal properties. Also, because it cures Catarrh, the yellow raised expressly for the company, is always fresh and of the very best kind. With equal discrimination and care, each of the other ingredients are selected and compounded. It is because it is always the same in appearance, flavor, and effect, and, being highly concentrated, only small doses are needed. It is, therefore, the most economical blood-purifier in existence. It makes food nourishing, work pleasant, sleep refreshing, and life enjoyable. It reaches out all impurities in the system and expels them harmlessly by the natural channels. AYER'S Sarsaparilla gives elasticity to the step, and imparts to the aged and infirm, renewed health, strength, and vitality.

THE Superior Medicine

SENTIMENTAL BEINGS.

Male Artists are Mighty Queer Fellows When Single.

The Painter of Figures is Naturally Romantic and Very Early and Very Readily Falls in Love—His Income, however, is Open to the Public.

Very few of our younger artists are married, but they may be accepted as a fact that they all want to be. Cupid finds no mark so tempting to his shaft as that presented by a painter at his easel. Studio life and sentiment are almost synonymous terms. Why this should be so is easily explained. An artist's life is almost invariably a lonely one. No matter how sociable his temperament may be, his working hours are generally spent in silence and seclusion. Being essentially of a sensitive nature he longs for such sympathy as women alone can give. The failure of a picture or its complete success are matters that require more condolence or congratulation than can be expressed by a brother painter. The kindest of neighbors cannot go further than to say: "Look here, old fellow, I am awfully sorry that they sent your picture from the academy. It's a beastly shame. That's what I call it." Or: "By Jove, old man, you're in luck. I know lots of fellows with a big name who have been looking for a year back to catch the show or Evans prize, and you got it away from 'em all. But you always were a lucky dog."

A woman does these things better. That is the reason he wants to marry her. The painter is naturally romantic. In his opinion girlhood is always angelic. He may have individual preference for blondes or brunettes, for little or tall or intellectual or womanly woman, but the entire sex is still beautiful to him, not perhaps in its physical features, but in its mental possibilities. Hence he is attracted to it in love and retained from matrimony only by the difficulty of supporting two people on an income that is barely sufficient for one. To be an artist you must be an idealist. Studio life has extraordinary vicissitudes at times, but it is always made up more or less of visionary elements. Occasionally the artist's dreams turn into nightmares, and he has a very bad quarter of an hour. But when events disillusion him he hopes for a short period and proceeds to fall in love with a new charmer.

Last spring two young men, one a painter, his companion a sculptor, were joint companions of studio in New York. The department of art do not always agree, inasmuch as the dust and dirt of a sculptor's modeling platform interfere considerably with the purity of a portrait maker's paints. But neither of the young fellows was rich, and by clubbing together they managed to pay the rent of a larger studio than they could have had separately. The sculptor made as little dust as possible and kept it well down by frequently using a water sprinkler. Not to be behindhand in courtesy, the painter was patient, and by keeping a sheet of wrappings in constant readiness was enabled instantly to cover his canvas when his comrade unavoidably threw out a cloud of powdered plaster of paris. They were comrades in every sense of the word, and had a union of pocketbooks as well as of sympathies. On one occasion the sculptor was so hard up on the final receipt of a commission for a large statue that he was unable to buy the clay necessary for his model, whereupon the painter denied himself cigars, took to a pipe and by this economy paid for the material to pay for the necessary materials.

Some time afterward the artist received an important order and had not the wherewithal to purchase the large canvas essential for its execution. The sculptor said nothing, but putting on his street coat went out for a walk. An hour later he came back accompanied by a boy, and between them they carried a canvas twelve feet long by six wide. It was quite a windy day, and the sculptor was quite exhausted by the effort of getting his heavily burdened past gusty corners. But after a few minutes breathing spell the two friends embraced each other affectionately and went to work in their respective corners. So ideal a friendship as this ought to have lasted throughout a lifetime. But an event happened which changed the current of amiability in the studio and estranged the two young men so that at present they are not even nodding acquaintances.

One day the painter received an order for a sketch of a man in armor. The sculptor readily consented to pose for his friend, and after some effort finally got him buckled into a suit of mail. By one of those accidents that sometimes occur at the most inopportune times the sculptor's fiancée happened to call at the studio chaperoned by a lively married relative. In order to get into the armor the sculptor, who is of large frame, had to strip to the skin. To get out of the suit of mail was not to be considered. So he had to stand awkwardly listening to the merry laughter of the ladies over his comical appearance. His fiancée, encouraged by the witty comments of her friend, made such fun of the unfortunate's coupled that he became furious and broke off the engagement. That evening he employed a truckman and removed all his things from the studio without vouchsafing as much as good by to his chum. The experience effected an entire change in his opinion of the ladies. His first innamorata was still, distinguished looking brunette. He is now engaged to a little, round-faced blonde, who, despite her resemblance to a French doll, is declared by him to be the epitome of all the charms and graces of womanhood.—New York Sun.

Children Cry for

Pitcher's Castoria.

A Strange Death.

Thomas Odell, a living ever, miles back to Greenup, Ky., has met death in a strange manner. He had been a puzzle to physicians for several years. He was affected by what he ate to such an extent that when he indulged in beef eating about an hour afterward he would become restless and wander out in search of cattle and bellow as an ox, and would get down on his hands and knees and eat grass like a cow. When he partook of mutton his actions were those of a sheep; and he would plausibly bleat like a lamb. When he ate chicken he would go out and scratch for worms, which he would devour with apparent relish.

After eating fish he would wander to the creek and go in swimming. One day his father killed several squirrels, of which the son ate heartily for dinner. He left the house shortly after and was followed by the father. The father saw him enter an oak grove, and soon saw his son jumping nimbly from limb to limb, at the same time barking like a squirrel. He called for him to come down, but this only seemed to make the boy want to escape, and he attempted to jump from one tree to another, but missed and fell to the ground, a mangled, breathless mass of humanity, and expired in less than five minutes.—Atlanta Constitution.

To Get at the Facts

Regarding Hood's Sarsaparilla, ask the people who take this medicine, or read the testimonials often published in this paper. They will certainly convince you that Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses unequalled merit, and that Hood's cures.

Hood's Pills cure constipation by restoring the peristaltic action of the alimentary canal. They are the best family cathartic.

Among the Roses.

Bags full of roses, baskets heavy with roses, carts laden with roses; roses, roses, a feast of roses, a surfeit of roses, if that is possible. The women stick roses in their long, braided hair, the men in their belts, the children pluck them and play with them and leave them on the road to die.

There is roseleaf jam to eat—very fresh and sweet it is—and there is roseleaf syrup to drink. Every vase and vessel is full of roses; they drop on you from unexpected places; great bunches of bright pink heads lying on the ground admonish you to pick them up; you can make a bed of them if you will go to the grove—roses, I suppose it should be called—and there you will find as soft and sweet a couch as ever laid in the Arabian Nights for eastern princes to dream upon.

This is how it came about that I saw such a multiplicity of roses. We fulfilled a long cherished scheme and went to Kezanlik, the Valley of Roses, in the Balkans, once the famous rose garden of Turkey.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Worn and Weak and Weak and Weary.

Bole women worn and weary, with wan faces and so indubitably weak. Those distressing, dragging-down pains, and that constant weakness and weariness can be cured. For all such sufferers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Pile Cure is a panacea of inestimable value. As an invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system. For "overworked," "worn-out," debilitated women, dress-makers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Pile Cure is the greatest earthly boon. It cures an appetizing, healthy, and restorative tonic. As a soothing and strengthening nerve "Favorite Pile Cure" is unequalled and invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms, commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Nerves and Nerve.

After a seven years' courtship George Bailey, a well-to-do farmer, and Esther Bailey, his cousin, have made two attempts to get married in Norwich, Pa., within two weeks, and the wedding is off. The ceremony was to have been performed Wednesday of last week, and a large number of guests were present. Suddenly the prospective bride disappeared and was found locked in her room. To her parents' appeals to come out she only replied, "I'm too nervous! I'm too nervous! I'll have to be put off!"

Nothing would do but a postponement to Monday. Monday came, and the bride was over her nervousness and ready with the guests. But when the bridegroom did not come, she was left to her own thoughts. "I'm not nervous. On the contrary, I've got nerve enough to postpone this wedding indefinitely." And it was postponed.—Philadelphia Record.

The McLean Case.

SUNSHINE, Mar. 6.—The case of Mr. McLean of Harniss Mills as published last week is still the talk of the vicinity, and many people have taken the trouble to go to Harniss Mills to see him. Mr. Beltry, the druggist here, who sold Mr. McLean the pills vouches for the truth of the statement as also does Mr. Wm. Jolly, Ex-M.P. for Dufferin County. Dolly's Kidney Pills are indeed a wonderful remedy, as they cure the most prevalent diseases that affect humanity, namely, Bright's Disease as well as all forms of kidney troubles, Dropsy, Diabetes, Stone in Bladder, and most especially Rheumatism.

More Than He Bargained For.

"When I used to travel about the country lecturing," said a retired temperance talker, "I carried with me as a brilliant example a man with a brilliant red nose, and during my remarks I would call upon him for testimony. On one occasion we struck a small town where we had an audience of about a hundred people. I was making fine headway with my lecture, and at the proper time I glanced over the crowd and said, 'Will the gentleman with the red nose please rise to his feet?' Of course my man got up, but before he could do so thirty-seven men had risen slowly to their feet, and I don't think I was ever more embarrassed in my life."—Toledo Blade.

The Bergamot Tree.

There is but one spot in the world where the bergamot tree can be cultivated with profit—a fact of some importance, since its essence is indispensable in the manufacture of numerous perfumes and medical preparations. The spot referred to is Reggio, in Calabria, at the extremity of the Italian peninsula which is familiarly known as "the toe of the boot." Mr. Kerrieh suggests that there is a good chance here for enterprising capitalists of getting a highly profitable monopoly of the bergamot tree by buying up from the producers all that they can grow. At present the Reggio bergamot is inferior both in quality and reputation through the frauds of small traders, who, it is said, mix it with ten parts of adulterating matter.—Chicago Tribune.

Bad Blood Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters for bad blood and find it, without exception, the best purifying tonic in use. A short time ago two very large and painful boils came on the back of my neck, B. B. B. completely drove them away.

Animals in the Rain.

Horses and cattle never look so miserable as when standing exposed to cold and driving rain. Every field in which cattle are turned loose should have some loose shelter provided, however rough and hardy the stock. If left to themselves in a state of nature they would travel miles to some well known bank or thicket, which would at least give cover against the wind. Shut up between four hedges, they are denied the aid of human forethought and of their own instinct.

Berwick's vignettes of old houses or unhappy donkeys, huddled together in driving showers on some bleak common, express a vast amount of animal misery in an inch of woodcut.—London Spectator.

Neatness in Girls.

Neatness is a good thing for a girl, and if she does not learn it when she is young, she never will. It takes a great deal more neatness to make a girl look well than it does to make a boy look passable. Not because a boy to start with, is better looking than a girl, but his clothes are of a different sort; and not so many colors in them, and people don't expect a boy to look so pretty as a girl. A girl that is not neatly dressed is called a sloven; and no one likes to look at her. Her face may be pretty and her eyes bright, but if there is a spot of dirt on her cheek, and her shoes are not laced or buttoned up, and her apron is dirty, and her collar is not buttoned, and her skirt is torn, she cannot be liked. Learn to be neat, and when you have learned it it will almost take care of itself.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsville, Ind., says: "I had been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness, Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion and my health has gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nerve, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." A trial bottle will convince you.

In a Railroad Wreck.

"Say, these things are mighty funny afterward," said the baggage man, "but when they happen it's nothing to laugh about. When we bumped into that freight just out of Chicago three years ago I was sitting back in the car checking up. It threw me down and then I stayed in bed for a week. The tender telegraphed and came through at me. I didn't stop till I was within four feet of the back of the car, and I sat there waiting for it to catch me. I remember it had '48' in red figures, and as it came grinding through at me every figure looked ten feet high. When it stopped I could reach out and touch it."—Chicago News-Record.

On a grand day in the old chivalric times, when the lady of each knightly heart was pledged by name, when it came to St. Leon's turn he lifted the sparkling cup on high and gave them this: "I drink to one," he said, "whose image never may depart, deep carved on the human heart, till memory is dead." Photography and Medical Diagnosis.

It seems there must be added to the already numerous applications of photography that of an agent in medical diagnosis. A Berlin lady was having her photograph taken. This face in the first negative came out covered with spots. Examination showing nothing abnormal in the sitter; a second was taken, and the same result, so it could not be the fault of the plates.

What to do? In a week the poor woman died of smallpox. The cleverest physician could have perceived nothing, but the sensitive film of photographic plate had detected an actinic alteration of the skin where the pustules were to develop.—London Tid-Bits.

Young Adolphus Fitzwilliam, he loved a fair maid, But to ask her to marry him he was afraid. Because of catarrh, which she had very bad, So much so that often the youth was quite glad To omit, at the parting, the kiss of the lover.

The reason of this she set out to discover. "Catarrh makes me loathsome. Its fatal to love me." O, darling Adolphus, by all that's above I vow I'll not lose thee if something there is To drive out catarrh and to sweeten a kiss.

So this wise young woman began searching for a cure, and good luck attended her. She found Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, at the drug store, and felt convinced that it was the cure which the physician had such confidence in that they were willing to offer to pay $500 for a case they cannot cure, must be worth trying. She bought it. She tried it, it cured her. And when Adolphus kissed her at the altar last week, her kiss was as sweet and pure as roses in June.

Girls, a word of advice: If you want a lover to stay a lover, you must get rid of catarrh. Use this wonderful cure, and get the only sure remedy for this disgusting and dangerous disease—Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

GATES' Life of Man Bitters

Purifies the Blood. ONLY 50 CENTS.

ARTHUR M. FOSTER, Esq., of the Houghton Mifflin Co., writes that in the year 1876 his wife was sick with liver complaint and general debility, and three doctors pronounced her incurable, and after suffering for five or six years I heard of your Life of Man Bitters, and went to Bridgetown to get it. I saw one of the doctors and told him she wanted to try Gates' medicine, and he said by all means do so, for if it did no good it would do no harm. I got the Bitters and used it for a few days, and she was well and able to attend to her household affairs. Since that time I have kept Gates' medicine in my house nearly all the time, and have tried some other medicines highly advertised, but always to no avail. I do believe there is no better medicine in the market to-day, and an unwilling to answer any one that will write to me about it.

Beer for Christians.

Mark was a hard-working blacksmith, accustomed to the daily use of beer. He thought he needed it to assist his digestion, and to give him strength for his daily tasks. He was a young convert, but he had not learned the truth about beer. He thought it was good, and so his conscience did not tell him to give it up. His pastor reasoned with him, and other friends pleaded so far in vain. But doubts of its value crept in, and then conscience reproved him, and he became restless and irritable. He even went so far as to return a sharp reply to his pastor on this subject, as they walked together to the prayer-meeting. There were great searchings of heart that night, and he became convinced that it was the indulgence of his appetite, and not the need of the beer, that stood in his way. Before the close of the meeting there was a season of silent prayer, and while on his knees at that solemn moment he resolved to give up the beer. He lost no time in telling his pastor, his wife, and his fellow-Christians of his vow, which he faithfully kept. Often since that time we have heard him say: "My brethren, I am now convinced that I can not be a true Christian, and yet indulge in a glass of beer."

We do not say that no true Christian drinks beer. So great is our ignorance and so many are our imperfections, that we fear very many of our practices are not pleasing in the sight of a pure God. But because He bears with us, that is no reason why we should persist in a bad practice. It is our duty to find out the truth about beer of once, and act upon it. If it poisons and makes us ill, and injures others, it will do the same to us. It is never a help to Christian life, and it will be likely to lead our hearts away from God, if we persist in it. Through such practices many are weak, many are defiled, many make shipwreck of faith, and those who rise to the higher walks of Christian life feel constrained to practice total abstinence from all that intoxicates. Certainly in this favored land, where temperance and Christianity go hand in hand, and where the true nature and effects of the use of beer are so clearly explained to all the people, each one of us ought to join with Mark, and say: "As for me, I can not be a Christian and drink beer."

A Perplexing Family.

The strangest combination resulting from the marriage of relatives, that we have ever heard of is that in the family of Lewis Osborne, who has recently removed to Pomona from Selma, Fresno county. Mr. Osborne tells us that he has been 10 years trying to unravel the perplexities of relationship that his second marriage has caused. In 1888 he married a young widow, who was the own grandmother's third wife. The couple had a little son.

Given this simple statement and a number of peculiar family relationships may be deduced. For example, Mr. Osborne is a grandchild of his wife. His son being also a son of his (Osborne's) grandmother, is an uncle to his own father. Osborne becomes a brother to his uncles and aunts and also a stepfather to them. The boy, being the child of Osborne as a grandson, is thereby a great-grandson of his own mother, while his father may rejoice in the title of great-grandfather to his own child. Thus the boy becomes a grandchild to himself and his parents' great-grandchild. Osborne is the boy's father and great-grandfather at the same time, and also the husband of his own grandmother, enjoys the distinction of being his own grandfather as well.

"When I was a boy, I had a bronchial trouble of such a persistent and stubborn character, that the doctor pronounced it incurable with ordinary remedies, but he recommended me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and one bottle cured me. For the last fifteen years, I have used this preparation with good effect whenever I take a bad cold, and I know of numbers of people who keep it in the house all the time, not considering it safe to be without it."—J. C. Woodson, P.M. Forest Hill, W. Va.

Cough

"For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe as to cause hemorrhage, the paroxysms frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles, was thoroughly cured."—Franz Hoffman, Clay Center, Kans.

La Grippe

"Last spring I was taken down with la grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breast seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I begun taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid and the cure so complete."—W. H. Jeems Busby's Wood Sawin'.

When the people of Peakville, Vt., are searching for something with which to compare a sharp business transaction, they usually say, "Twas about as close as Jeems Busby's wood sawin'." Jeems Busby was an elderly man of a decided indolent temperament, who lived for the most part upon his friends and relatives, but now and then secured an "odd job" about which he busied himself in a spasmodic fashion until it was finished.

It was in one of these spasms of industry that he undertook to saw and split a cord of wood for "Square" Willet, who had the reputation of being the "best" man in Peakville. Mr. Busby had no saw and was also without an axe. He presented these facts to the squire, and they made an agreement to this effect: Mr. Busby was to hire the squire's saw and axe for the sum of 6 cents an hour. He was to receive $2.50 for the work when finished and was to do it at his own convenience.

At the end of a week Mr. Busby appeared before the squire and announced that the work was accomplished.

"How many hours did you take to do the job?" asked the squire. "Thirty-seven," replied Mr. Busby. "Well at 6 cents an hour that comes to $2.22, don't it?" inquired Squire Willet.

"I reckon it does, just about that," assented Mr. Busby after a long and evidently painful mental struggle.

"Well, then," said the squire, "as I was to pay you $2.50, it seems that I owe you 28 cents. Is that right?"

"I presume I say it is just about right," said Mr. Busby as the "balance" changed hands. "But I'd 'nized what I was doin' for now lookin' at the bill," said the squire, "I might just as well have took a lettuce green more comfort on a few extra hours and the hull thing would've come round even, with nothing out of your pocket, squire!"

Then he departed to spend the story, jingling the 28 coppers as he went.—Youth's Companion.

A Cat's Trip To India.

A good cat story (says the London correspondent of the Yorkshire Post) comes from Bombay. In August a Liverpool resident proceeding to Bombay took out with him a cat which he intended to present to a friend in India. Some days after the arrival of the steamer in Bombay pussy was missed, and though he was searched for high and low, she was nowhere to be found. He owner had quite given her up for lost when he received intelligence from England that the cat had made her appearance at her old Liverpool home on the 25th October as calm and collected as though a trip to India and back was quite in the ordinary course of her life. The facts are vouched for by a Bombay paper, and there is no reason to doubt their substantial accuracy, but it is not made clear whether the cat was stowed away in the steamer in which she went to India, and carried back on its return voyage in the ordinary course. Under any circumstances her adventures are, however, sufficiently remarkable to deserve recording.

The Sarcastic Maiden.

The sarcastic maiden is not a pleasant companion. She is too sharp to be agreeable. Her cutting speech, rife with scathing personalities, cause her to be shunned rather than selected as one of those charming sort of girls men and women both admire. If she writes a letter her pen seems to have been dipped in vinegar, and though her composition may be the very acme of elegance, still such an epistle is not received with the warmth that the one of those bustling, girlish, but altogether friendly ones always obtain. One can be bright and say clever things without hurting the feelings of others by keen knife-edged opinions that are subtle with bitterness and teeming with gall. Sarcasm is not a quality to be cultivated. It is a rank weed that once started grows, choking out the little plants of kindness, thoughtfulness and consideration until it overruns the garden of the mind, dominating and controlling each thought with a disagreeable pungent odor that cannot be eradicated.—Detroit Free Press.

Agricultural.

Remember.

That a trained horse is worth twice as much as a broken one. In dealing with "horse sense" in dealing with your horses and colts.

That your horses enjoy, and need, a good, clean, dry bed, this cold weather as much as you do.

That the accumulation of manure in the stable is a fruitless source of disease among animals.

That the whip and brute force may break your colt, but nothing but kindness can train and educate him.

That all changes in the feeding of your stock should be from dry to green food or vice versa.

That a horse when compelled to stand on the street nowdays in the cold, needs a blanket as much as you need a top coat.

That you will make more money if you are a farmer by raising general purpose horses than you will by attempting to raise trotters.

That it is a good plan to allow your stock, especially young stock, to enjoy a little freedom in some field for a few hours every day when the weather will permit.

That good grooming goes a great deal in keeping the skin of your horses healthy, and this should not be neglected even if your horse is not working every day.

That the same and fresh air are cheap medicine, and your stock will take it with greater eagerness and benefit than they will any of the highly advertised condition powders.

That your horses will need less food to keep them in a healthy growing condition, if good sanitary measures are adopted, and your stable is comfortably warm during the winter.

"When I was a young man," said Jonathan Gray, "I was a fellow who knew it, you bet."

It would cramp him all up in a colicky way, and God Lord, what a twisting his insides he'd get!

But the pills in use now a days by sensible folks are as easy to take as pleasant as jokers."

"Of course, the kind referred to by Mr. Gray was Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the very best Liver Pill ever made—mild, but sure and effective. The only pills sold by druggists absolutely reliable! Satisfaction guaranteed, or your money is returned."

That Was Good Enough.

The boy was sitting lazily in the stern of a boat, dangling his feet in the water, when a man from the dock called sharply to him:

"What are you doing there?" he cried.

"Nothing," responded the boy.

"Do you get any pay for it?"

"Nops," and he drew one foot out of the water ready to run if need were.

"Why don't you go to work?"

"Will you give me a job?"

"Yes."

"Steady?"

"Yes."

"Pay anything?"

"Well, no," hesitated the man, "not the first week."

"How about the second?"

"Then I will."

"All right; I'll come around the second week. This is good enough for me now," and the boy stuck the foot back in the water and winked at the man out on the dock.

Back-Ache.—Back ache is caused by sick kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills will remove their peculiar action on the kidneys, they impart activity and benefit the system by purifying the blood. You can not have pure blood with diseased kidneys; health's existence depends upon their natural condition; they are the governors of the system, continual disorder results in kidney consumption, which is Bright's disease.

Leisure is time for doing something useful.

A dinner pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Farmacia's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity upon the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They cleanse the system, and if troubled with indigestion or Dyspepsia.

Sugar moistened with vinegar is good for hiccup.

The Poet's Soliloquy.—"Kiss" rhymes to "liss," in fact as well as verse, And "ill" with "pill," and "worse" with "hearse." In fact and verse, we find "complete recovery" Rhymes best with "Golden Medical Discovery."

For driving out scrofulous and all other taints of the blood, fortifying the constitution against leucocritia or consumption, for strengthening the digestive organs and invigorating the entire system by sending streams of pure blood through all the veins there is nothing equal to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is the only guaranteed Blood, Liver and Lung remedy sold.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabio says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by a car on the Street Railway. We at once commenced bathing the foot with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

Facts in Astronomy.

The nearest fixed star is 21,000,000,000 miles from the earth.

The moon is without water and destitute of an atmosphere.

Some of the stars move with a velocity of nearly 50 miles a second.

The fixed stars are suns and each may have its own planetary system.

There are 20 stars of the first magnitude and 70 of the second.

To the naked eye 4,000 stars are visible, the best telescopes show 5,000,000.

The fixed stars are of all colors, violet, blue, green, and red predominating.

There are stars whose diameter is greater than that of our whole solar system.

The strongest telescopes bring the moon to the apparent distance of 100 miles.

The planets Venus and Mars most nearly resemble the earth in climate and conditions.

The tail of a comet is believed to be matter similar to that contained in the nebulae.

The spectroscope has shown that the prominences of the sun are outbursts of glowing hydrogen.

Some stars are believed to be so far away that 2,000,000 years are required for their light to reach the earth.

The calculations of the astronomer Baily proved that the weight of the earth is 6,049,845,000,000,000 tons.

The motion of the earth round the sun is 68,350 miles an hour, over 1,000 miles a minute, or 19 miles a second.

The spectroscope has demonstrated that all the so-called fixed stars are in motion—some in one direction and some in another.

An error of a thousandth part of a second in an astronomical calculation would mean an error of 200,000,000 miles in the distance of a star.

The sun's volume is 1,407,124 times that of the earth, and 600 times greater than all the planets.

The earth has three motions: Round its axis, round the sun and with the sun and solar system.

The moon gives out heat enough to effect a thermometer and make a difference of three degrees.

From The Far North.

In northern climates people are very subject to colds, but the natural remedy is also produced in the same climate. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Price 25c. and 50c.

Machines for making tacks were first made by Thomas Blanchard in 1806.

A Cure For Dyspepsia.

Dyspepsia is a prolific cause of such diseases as bad blood, constipation, headache and liver complaint. Burdock Blood Bitters is guaranteed to cure or relieve dyspepsia if used according to directions. Thousands have tested it with best results.

Campbor menthol is an excellent inhalant if one is suffering from catarrh.

Baldness is either hereditary or caused by sickness, mental exhaustion, wearing tight-fitting hats, and over work and trouble. Hall's Renewer will prevent it.

It was estimated that upward of 18,000 horses die or are killed annually in London.

For Sprains and Bruises.—No other remedy cures sprains, bruises, cuts, wounds, chilblains, sore throat, rheumatism, etc., so promptly as Hagar's Yellow Oil. It is an old standard remedy that has given perfect satisfaction for 35 years.

The state of Washington is one of the heaviest consumers of condensed milk in the country.

A Valuable Hint.—When you are attacked by cough or cold do not delay but commence at once to use Hagar's Rectory Balm. This old standard remedy removes all irritation, loosens the phlegm, and heals the mucous surfaces, curing coughs and colds of all kinds.

Communication by land and sea was established between London and Constantinople in 1858.

For all derangements of the throat and lungs, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the speediest and most reliable remedy. Even in the advanced stages of Consumption, this wonderful preparation affords great relief, checks coughing, and induces sleep.

There is no virtue in doing what we have to do, for even the devil will behave himself when he is chained.

Elderly people remember their spring bitters with a shudder. The present generation have much to be thankful for, not the least of their blessings being such a pleasant and reliable remedy as the health restorer as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is a health restorer and life maintainer.

At a railway restaurant—"Is this pound cake?" "Well, we used to pound it, but we now find it easier to let cars run over it along with the sand-wiches."

First boy.—Did you ever see Prof. Thinkum play chess blindfolded?" Second boy.—No, but I saw him slip down a coal hole with his eyes open."

Dooley—"They may talk about business being bad, but I know a man whose trade is looking up. Hum—'Indeed! What is he?' Dooley—"An astronomer."

"Give me a half pound of tea. Grocers clerk.—"Ten? yes; m; greens, or black?"

"Better give me black, it's for a funeral."

A Novel Method of Voting.

In a number of the towns of the State of New York, when the spring elections are held this year, there will be a very novel scene. Each voter will walk into a little room with walls of sheetiron, will see before him a neat array of bright knobs—to each of which is attached the name of a candidate for office, the whole number including all the names placed in nomination—will push in the knob for every name he wishes to vote, and will pass out having taken, according to the experiment in Lockport last year, less than forty seconds. By the machinery thus employed every vote is securely and secretly recorded, and every voter can cast one vote, and no more, for one candidate for each office. There is no printing or balloting required, there is no chance of misprinted names, or of changing accidental or intended, or of changing the returns. The election held in Lockport in the spring of 1892 was very favorably reported on by those who watched it, and the like elections this year will be closely studied. If the machinery does, in all places what it did in Lockport, it would seem that the ingenuity of the Yankee inventor had settled the vexed question of ballot reform, and by a voting machine had destroyed much of the viciousness of machine-voting. The Australian system, for which so much energy and ink have been expended, can at best only secure secrecy where the voter is bent on having it, but this machine seems to compel secrecy, and to make the various abuses of electoral politics and abuses physical impossibilities. The saving of money is said to be very great, but the saving in political demoralization and corruption must be, if the machine works uniformly and continuously well, simply incalculable.—Harper's Weekly.

What is a Wife?—Some Pat Answers to a School Teacher's Question.

The pretty school teacher, for a little diversion, had asked her class for the best original definition of "wife" and the boy in the corner had promptly responded, "A rib."

She looked at him reproachfully, and nodded to the boy with dreamy eyes, who seemed anxious to say something.

"Man's gutting star and guardian angel," he said, in response to the nod.

"A helpmate," put in a little flaxen-haired girl.

"One who soothes man in adversity," suggested a demure little girl.

"And spends his money when he's flush," added the corrigible boy in the corner.

There was a lull, and the pretty, dark-eyed girl said slowly:

"A wife is the envy of spinsters."

"One who makes a man bustle," was the next suggestion.

"And keeps him from making a fool of himself," put in another girl.

"Some one for a man to find fault with when things go wrong," said a somewhat little maiden.

"Stop right there," said the pretty school teacher. "That's the best definition."

Later the sorrowful little maiden sidled up to her and asked:

"Aren't you going to marry that handsome man who calls for you nearly every day?"

"Yes, dear," she replied, "but with us nothing will ever go wrong. He said so himself."

Amy: "Why, Mabel, you haven't any mistletoe hung up." Mabel: "O, Fred never seems to need any."

Cuban barbers lather their patrons with their hands from a bowl made to fit under the chin. No brush is used.

A princess called Kawoian (Kain-lani Huanilo Kalaninuiahi-lipalapa) throne after his baptism. Even royalty has its limitations, and the cost of printing that name at the head of every statute would break any nation in the world. No wonder Hawaii rebelled.

G. C. Richards & Co. Gents.—I have used your MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family for a number of years for various cases of sickness, and more particularly in the case of a gripe which I contracted last winter, and I firmly believe that it was the means of saving my life.

Tar Cough Mixture,

for the cure of Coughs, Colds,
Bronchitis, Infant's Consumption,
and Gravel of old people.

Rev. John L. Spooner, Methodist Minister, Middleton, N. S., writes: "Suffering from Bronchial affection, aggravated by cold and having heard of the healing properties of your 'Tar Cough Mixture' I was induced to make a trial of it. And I am glad to inform you that I received much benefit from its use. In my case it soothed and alleviated irritation, and aided expectoration. I kept it constantly at my house."

Miss H. Baker, Margareville, writes: "My little child was very low with Bronchitis and consumption, following a severe cold. Dr.
Miller's 'Tar Cough Mixture' was completely
restored her to health."

E. Thompson, Insurance Agent, Middleton, N. S., writes: "Daughter aged 11 very ill last spring. Friends thought her far advanced in consumption. Dr. Miller's 'Tar Cough Mixture' restored her to perfect health again."

Dr. Miller's Tonic Dinner Pills

D. Miller's Compound Syrup
Tar Cough Mixture,
for the cure of Coughs, Colds,
Bronchitis, Incontinent Consumption,
and Gravel of old people.

Rev. JOHN L. SPOONER, Methodist Minister, Middleton, says:—Suffering from Bronchitis, I can distinctly remember your "Tar Cough Mixture" was induced to use
it. And I am glad to inform you that I received much benefit from its use. In my case it acted as a powerful expectorant, and aided expectoration. I kept it constantly at
my house.
Mrs. H. BAKER, Margareville, writes: My
little child was very low with Bronchitis and croup, following a gripe. Used Dr.
Miller's Tar Cough Mixture, which completely
restored her to health.
C. Thompson, General Insurance Agent, Middleton, says:—Having used Dr. Miller's "Tar Cough Mixture" I can say that it is superior to anything I have ever used for croup, whooping cough, and all the ailments connected with the throat and lungs. I have used it in my family, and it has cured many cases of croup, whooping cough, and all the ailments connected with the throat and lungs. I have used it in my family,
and it has cured many cases of croup,
whooping cough, and all the ailments
connected with the throat and lungs.

Dr. Miller's "Tonic Dinner Pills"
always sell well, as they cure Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, and make new rich blood. A general tonic.
Those using them once will use
no other.

A Halifax Advertiser, says:—From my own experience I can distinctly remember your "Tonic Dinner Pills" as a cure for Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, and all the ailments connected with the throat and lungs. I have used it in my family, and it has cured many cases of croup, whooping cough, and all the ailments
connected with the throat and lungs.

A. R. Andrews, M. D., late Surgeon to the British Colonial Service, says:—I consider it the best formula for a Dinner Pill with which I am acquainted.

Sleepers, Awake!

Dr. Caylor Calls the Church to Action.

It seems to me that Christ's Church is as clearly bound to fight drunkenness and the customs which lead to drunkenness as it is to fight paganism, or infidelity, or Sabbath-breaking, or any other soul destroying evil.

It is more a bodily disease, but a soul damning sin that we are to contend against.

And in this warfare against the bottle there is a safe ground and a broad common ground on which all ministers and churches ought to be able to stand together.

The church of Christ should antagonize not only the dramshop, but the dram; not only the saloon, but the social glass.

The enemy is at our own doors, brethren and sisters.

It lies in wait for your sons and daughters.

It is destroying more souls than any other single evil in the land.

"An old story," do you say?

Yes, it is, and so is every sin and every sorrow.

The remedy too is an old remedy; but no better has been discovered.

The Church of God has got to take God's weapons—Gospel truth, solid argument, loving personal effort, and the power of a clean example, and use them fearlessly and faithfully.

In every prayer meeting this enterprise ought to be remembered as earnestly as the sacred cause of missions.

It is Christians who walk before this ghastly sin and curse, they brand themselves as cowards.

Rough Experiences.

David Christie Murray, the novelist, writes: "Eight or nine years ago I was sitting in the Savage club in the company of four distinguished men of letters. One was the editor of a London daily, and he was talking rather too humbly, as I thought about his own career. 'I do not suppose,' he said, 'that any man in my present position has experienced in London the privations I knew when I first came here. I went hungry for three days, twenty years back, and for three nights I slept in the park.' One of the party turned to me: 'You say that, Christie?'

I answered, 'Four nights on the embankment, four days hungry. My left hand neighbor was a poet, and he chimed in laconically, 'Five.' In effect it proved that there was not one of us who had not slept in that Hotel of the Beautiful Star which is always open to everybody. We had been frequent guests there, and now we were all prosperous and had found other and more comfortable lodgings."

Nineteen Boxes.

BRANFORD, March 20th.—The Expositor last week published an article on the case of Archie Rymal of this city, which has caused considerable excitement in Branford and district. It appears Mr. Rymal had had more than his share of suffering during the past few years, so far as he was run down from kidney disease that he had lost the power of his limbs and back. He could only get around with the aid of two crutches, and when assisted by kind hands. His death was duly expected. On the advice of his wife he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills, and took in all nineteen boxes. His improvement was marked from the second box. He is now completely cured, and a living testimony of the curative powers of that wonderful remedy.

Scientific Calculations.

An electrical writer has calculated that the firing of a small pilot sets free about 600 foot pounds of energy, while a watch consumes about 154,000,000th of horsepower, the energy of the bullet being sufficient to keep the time for two years. An Edison telephone transmitter requires about 1,000th of the energy in a watch. It would therefore be worked for 2,000 years on the energy exerted in the pilot. A light 12,000 lamp, burning 121,000th of a second, would run a 160 horsepower engine for 10 seconds.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

Has no equal for the prompt relief of Croup, Hoarseness, Loss of Voice, Preacher's Sore Throat, Asthma, Bronchitis, La Grippe, and other derangements of the throat and lungs. The best known cough cure in the world, it is recommended by eminent physicians, and is the favorite preparation with singers, actors, preachers and teachers. It soothes the inflamed membrane, loosens the phlegm, stops coughing, and induces repose.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

taken for consumption, in its early stages, checks further progress of the disease, and even in the later stages, it eases the distressing cough and promotes refreshing sleep. It is agreeable to the taste, needs but small doses, and does not interfere with digestion or any of the regular organic functions. As an emergency medicine, every household should be provided with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"Having used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for many years, I can confidently recommend it for all the complaints it is claimed to cure. Its sale is increasing yearly with me, and my customers think this preparation has no equal as a cough cure."

S. W. Parent, Queensbury, N.B.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price 25¢ per bottle. Prompt to act, sure to cure.

When does a Day Begin.

An Interesting Explanation of an Interesting Fact.

Questions of time and chronology are always puzzling. When does a day begin? When does Saturday or Sunday begin? Is Sunday universal over the earth, or is it partly Sunday and partly Saturday or Monday of some other day? Is to day the same day of the month at New York and New Zealand at Bombay and at San Francisco? Let me say that there is always day and night on the globe—that is to say somewhere it is always perpetual day and somewhere perpetual night around the world. The sun is always waking up in the morning and chasing away the shadow of night. And night is always following up the day. Where, then, does the day begin? Now suppose we begin our investigation of this subject at Chicago, near the 90th meridian of west longitude. On Saturday morning at 6 o'clock, we shall find the local time of New York to be 7 o'clock a.m.; 10 a.m. at the Azores in Mid Atlantic; noon in London; 7:30 a.m. at Pekin China, while at New Zealand the day is drawing to a close. Thus it is early morning at Chicago, breakfast time in London, and supper time in Perthin all the same day.

Suppose we now take a step to the westward of Chicago. It is 4 a.m. at San Francisco and 1:30 a.m. at Honolulu. But all this Saturday, a civil day 24 hours long, and as the civil day begins at midnight, it is evident that this particular day was born a little to the west of Honolulu. Civil days are divided with two periods of 12 hours; hence all clock dials are divided into 12 spaces of one hour each. To a person living at Honolulu, then, Saturday has just begun; to one living at London, it is noon Saturday; to one living in New Zealand Saturday is nearly over and he is sleeping into Sunday morning; to a resident of Chicago Sunday is 18 hours away while to a Londoner it is but 12 hours away. Now it is clear that by the time Sunday gets to Honolulu, it is Monday morning at New Zealand. Though Honolulu and New Zealand are not far apart in longitude, they are far apart as regards latitude, the one being in the north latitude and the other in south latitude. But latitude does not affect time.

The people of Europe have observed their Sundays while the people of the United States are sleeping, and while the people of the United States are observing their Sundays, the people of Europe are sleeping into Monday morning. It is evident, therefore, that for purposes of commerce and navigation there must be a beginning somewhere of a day, at some point on the earth a day must begin and end, that is, the commercial civil day; Saturday, for instance, the day we have just been describing.

The maritime powers of the world have agreed to regard this 18th degree of longitude from London (or Greenwich) as the point where the day changes. This meridian, therefore, leads the day. Its passage under the 18th or midnight meridian marks the beginning of a new day on earth; here to-day becomes to-morrow. We have a new day for the month and a new day in the week for the transition. It is here that Saturday ends and Sunday begins. It is here then that Sunday is born, just to the west of Honolulu, but bear in mind that the day travels westward; therefore, the new born day does not visit Honolulu until it has made the circuit of the round globe. Honolulu and New Zealand are only about 30 degrees apart in longitude but they are a whole day apart as regards any particular day, because the day changes lie between them.

Skeptical.—This is unhappily an age of skepticism, but there is one point upon which persons are quainted with the subject agree, namely, that Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is a medicine which can be relied upon to cure a cough, remove catarrh, heal sores of various kinds, and benefit any inflamed portion of the body to which it is applied.

English Sparrows.

It has been said that the pugnacious sparrow drives away our native birds, but so far as the writer's observation goes, the charge has little foundation in fact. Others, too, have observed a large number of robins, bluebirds, and chipmunks nesting in the neighborhood, and that they are not molested by the sparrows. A pair of robins select a tree near the sidewalk, not over fifty feet from our front door, and many times a day we see the parent birds gathering their food upon the lawn, and never once, there or else where, have we seen them disturbed by sparrows. A bluebird had a nest in a house at a neighbor's just diagonally across the street, and a chipmunk family of young in a tree only a few rods to our left, and never once have we known of either being molested. We believe the truth to be that the numerous shotguns in the hands of wanton destroyers of innocent bird life, or in those who are killing birds for the millions to dress hats with, are responsible for the wholesale destruction of native song birds, or driving them away more than the ever present, active sparrow, who is so busily engaged in providing for his own wants or those of his little household, that he has neither time nor inclination to war upon his inoffensive neighbors.

"Brace Up"

Is a tantalizing admonition to those who at this season feel all tired out, weak, with out appetite and discouraged. But the way in which Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the tired frame and gives a good appetite, is really wonderful. So we say, "Take Hood's and it will brace you up."

For a general family cathartic we can confidently recommend Hood's Pills.

Nowhere have such rare tastes in food been developed as among the Romans in ancient times and the Chinese.

There is no reason why child should be allowed to suffer from ichtheous scrofulous sores and similar swellings, when such a pleasant, effective, and economical medicine as Ayer's Sarsaparilla may be procured of the nearest druggist. Be sure you get Ayer's.

SOME ODD STORIES.

Interesting Incidents Related by Major A. R. Calhoun.

How Larry Whalen Started a Saloon and Kept the Trade All the Time.

Larry Whalen was a railroad laborer and lived along the line in a clapboard shanty with his wife, Kitty. There were honest enough people. Both had a fondness for a glass of whisky and an intense yearning for some occupation that would enable them to live without hard work.

Larry Whalen and his wife believed, whether rightly or not, that there was no calling that paid as well for the time that it took and the money invested as buying whisky by the barrel and selling it by the glass.

"It's a fine, aisy loile thim barkeepers does be havin'," said Mr. Whalen one evening as he and his wife sat before the red-hot stove in their shanty smoking in concert and listening to the sleet beating a tattoo on the shingles overhead.

"Yes, Larry," responded Mrs. Whalen, "and do be thinkin that if we iver do start in the business it's toime we was at. Sure, we've got enough on hand now to begin, not in a grand way, to be sure—that'll come later on—but quiet and sure loike."

An examination of their working capital revealed the fact that they had on hand enough money to buy a barrel of whisky and a box of cigars, and just ten cents over. As work was slack with Larry, and there were many of his companions out of employment, they decided that time of beginning was opportune.

Larry bought the whisky, and cigars, and then extemporized a bar by laying a plank between the heads of two barrels. And now, with Kitty behind the bar, the establishment was ready for business.

As the day was stormy and the opening had not been extensively advertised, customers were not forthcoming at once, so Larry recalled that he had a working capital of ten cents in his pocket by way of encouragement, and quenching his thirst he decided to get his money into circulation.

He and Kitty had ciphered out that if every customer who bought a ten cent glass of whisky were to fill his glass they would still make five cents clear on every glass.

By way of doing the thing up in good form, Larry went outside, then re-entered, wiping his lips with one hand and grasping in the other his working capital of ten cents.

"The top of the mornin to you, Mrs. Whalen, and how's business in the bar today?" asked Larry as he took an admiring look about the establishment.

"It might be better, and it might be worse," was Mrs. Whalen's guarded response.

"Well, I don't mind helpin an honest business along. Let me have a drink of your best whisky, and if thim cents is the price of the same there's your money," and Larry laid the coin on the plank.

The liquor was drawn and drank, and as Mrs. Whalen looked at the money she said:

"Begorra, Larry, there's five cents made clear on that little deal. Now, avick, do you stand behind the bar and let me play 'im a customer."

Larry stepped behind the plank, and his wife went out and re-entered and delivered herself of the regulation speech as to business and the weather. She ended by laying down the ten cents and getting a glass of whisky.

"Hoop!" shouted Larry as he regained possession of the working capital. "Five cents more made without lettin the thim cents or the money git out of the family. Let us keep it up, Kitty; let us encourage thim thim politicians dose be callin the home market."

The day was cheerless without, but there was joy that accompanies remunerative work in the cabin of Larry Whalen.

That coin alternated between him and his wife so long as they were able to stand up and drink, and we may be sure that as they were clearing five cents on every glass they kept their feet as long as they were able.

The next day they continued the business "at the same old stand in the same old way." Entirely satisfied with the profit of the home market, they became indifferent to commerce of the outside world and highly delighted with this phase of home consumption.

At length there came a day when the barrel was empty and only the ten cents remained, and with the exhaustion of the liquid Larry and his wife may be said to have gone into liquidation.

A young fellow died in an insane asylum a year afterward. His neighbors said that he lost his mind in a desperate effort to fully understand the mysteries of a home market and how it came about that the grey steadily poorer while he and his wife were making five cents a glass on the whisky they consumed.

Gives Strength and Appetite.

DEAR SIR.—Last year I was very thin and reducing very fast owing to the bad state of my blood and appetite. A friend of mine induced me to get a bottle of B. B. B. which I did. I obtained immediate perceptible relief from it, have gained strength and appetite, and now weigh 132 pounds.

When His Luck Turned.

How an Englishman's Presence of Mind Saved a Frenchman.

At Monte Carlo a few days ago I was witness of the following incident: says a recent writer: I was seated at a table on the cafe of a Paris hotel, which joins the Casino, with a group of tourists when a haggard and disheveled Frenchman entered hurriedly called for a glass of absinthe, and seating himself, proceeded to write vigorously on a sheet of note paper in front of him. My attention was attracted by his appearance and evident nervousness, my interest deepened when I saw him take from his pocket a gold plated revolver. He examined the weapon very carefully, as though he contemplated using it, and wanted to see that it was in proper order, then hastily put it back into his pocket and resumed his writing.

By this time the attention of the whole group had been attracted to the man, especially as they saw him remove the revolver from his pocket and toy with it nervously. A stout, florid Englishman sat near me: "My dear fellow, the chap means to do away with himself, I take it." Then, before I could reply, he quickly turned to the Frenchman and said: "You wish to sell that weapon?"

The Frenchman drew back in astonishment. He gazed in amazement at the Englishman and hesitated as if he had been insulted. Then there apparently ensued a revulsion of feeling, for a smile overspread his haggard face as he exclaimed, with a shrug of the shoulders, "If you wish sir."

He placed the revolver mechanically upon the table and picked up the gold pieces laid down by the Englishman. Then he drank his absinthe with the seeming satisfaction. He brightened up. His entire manner underwent a change. A few minutes later he walked leisurely out of the cafe and we saw him again enter the Casino.

The Englishman and myself concluded to follow him. We were surprised to find on entering that luck was evidently with him, for a small pile of gold and silver lay before him on the roulette table. We learned later from one of the attendants that he had won 1,200 francs.

Eating Several Meals a Day.

When, as rarely happens, English farm laborers come to this country, they find it extremely difficult to accommodate themselves to the current American custom of eating but three meals a day. An English maid-servant and nurse, who lived to be more than 100 years old, averred that she had always been accustomed to "a dew bit and breakfast, a stray bit and dinner, a minnet, a crummet, and a bit after supper."

Extra meals are common enough during the harvest season in this country. The hasty breakfast at 3:30 in the morning is followed by a "stray bit" at 9 o'clock and by a luncheon between the noonday dinner and the after sunset supper. In parts of southern Pennsylvania the dinner hour is 11 o'clock in the morning, and it would be difficult to show that Americans living on the same meridian are different from the way from that hour until 7 in the evening. The great mass of country folk still dine at noon.

For a long time I suffered with stomach and liver troubles, and could find no relief until I began to use Ayer's Pills. I took them regularly for a few months, and my health was completely restored.—D. W. Baine, New Bern, N. C.

Superstitions of Scotch Fishermen.

Some still existing superstitions among fishermen are communicated by a resident. At the beginning of the herring season the crew all try to seize the herring first on board to see if it be a male or female. If it is a male their fishing must be expected to be a poor one; if a female a good one. Sometimes, however, the skipper secures it and hides it away, salting it and laying it aside for the season. The boat must not be turned against the sun.

Certain animals considered of ill omen must not be spoken of in the boat, and ministers in this respect occupy the same place as rabbits, hares and pigs. Fishermen do not like to lend anything to a neighboring boat lest their luck should go with it. If they lend a match they will contrive, secretly if possible, to break it and keep part, hoping thereby to retain their luck. Their dislike to having anything stolen is increased by the fear that the thief may have stolen their luck with it. To ask the question, "Where are you going?" of any one who is going on board is equivalent to destroying all his chances for that time. Persons with certain names are held to be of bad omen, the dreaded names being different in different villages.—Fraserburg Free Press.

How the Ocean Became Salt.

Professor Edward Hull, in a lecture to the Victoria Institute. London, explained that throughout all geological time the ocean had been receiving continual supplies from rivers bringing down not only sediments but salts and carbonates, together with free silica, in solution. The sediment was deposited over the ocean floor, and generally not far from the lands, while the dissolved ingredients were carried by the currents into all parts. Meanwhile the ocean surface was constantly giving off particularly over the equatorial regions, enormous quantities of vapour, which are carried into the higher regions of the atmosphere, and were precipitated in the form of rain and snow over the lands. Part, of course, fell on the sea again, but the greater quantity fell on the land surfaces, and was returned to the ocean in streams charged with the fresh salts and carbonates. The consequence of that process must clearly be that the saline ingredients had been increasing in the oceanic waters from the earliest periods down to the present day.

Wolves in China.

The plague of wolves in Shen-See, a mountainous province of north central China, is described as becoming more and more alarming. A correspondent in that part writes that in the villages in which he is sojourning the head of 11 persons being carried off by these animals in seven days. Most of the victims were children, the rest young persons of 16, 19 and 20 years of age.

"They come," says the writer, "to our village here every night just now. Men are bestirring themselves, going out in large numbers to hunt them, as yet, however, unsuccessful. Tonight we have put poisoned bait in two places not far off, hoping to find at least one dead wolf tomorrow. They roam in open night, boldly entering villages and carrying off helpless little ones. Three went in company a few days ago into a native village. One of the number entered a hut and snatched a little child from his father's arms. Pursuit in every case has been futile. It seems this is their breeding time; hence their abnormal boldness."—London News.
