AFTER THE STORM.

The second wave seems now to be over. The world has been greatly exercised over the probability of the relations between Great Britain and Germany and was widely startled by the report that the German fleet had sailed. But the tempest has apparently calmed again.

Kaiser William has followed his ill-fated message to the Transvaal President by sending to the Reichstag a bill for the annexation of the Transvaal. This has acted as a tonic upon the troubled waters and no one thinks now that blood will be shed. The flying squadrons of England's Navy, which were collected and organized within the past few weeks, will more likely go to Constantinople than to South Africa. The German press has been lately full of reports of the fleet almost about every vessel in the world. It is well that two European hostilities may continue at peace.

The trouble in the Transvaal is now a mere petty power that has been set on foot by a man who is not really serious yet requires action for settlement. England exercises a suzerainty over Transvaal and the Boers want to be independent. But there is no likelihood that it will. The Boers still have a number of the prisoners of war and are keeping them as hostages. These matters are at present, with occasional bit of a large amount of talk and an undercurrent of seriousness with it all that ought speedily to be attended to.

The two recent war scares will have some good effects and help to sell. Commerce has suffered largely from low amounts are to be extended in increasing the efficiency of the armies and navies and the best way of preparing for war is to be prepared for war. The spirit of the English people has been wonderfully aroused. Their patriotism has shown itself in a new light and the past few weeks in England have been in some respects a rehearsal of the times when Napoleon's advances were checked. Peace is a good thing. Another effect that will show itself in time will be the closing of the various British consulates at Berlin. If we ever are to have trouble with France it is not likely that we will be able to get on with them.

The fact is, and a pleasing one, that it is not so easy to start a war as it used to be. We have seen this clearly illustrated in the recent doings of the nations. Perhaps the impotence of the advocates of war has been largely to test Britain's feeling. That feeling has shown itself and the world is for peace, everything being settled and out of seriousness still matters are calming down. What a source it has been! What a bonanza to the newspapers! What history to go on record!

AN ITK SEE THINGS.

The joys of a politician—what a joy to not know them!

Some people can live well on nothing a year. Newspaper men can't.

Nineteen is beginning the right way for a good year in Canada.

What would the world be like these few weeks without the telegraph?

Because of evil men—with our compliments to President Fitching if he goes to the White House.

Prophet Howell is not a bad warrior at all. Even the Liberal press admits his perseverance.

Yankee finances are in a bad way. It is Europe that is buying the most of the new securities.

Canada will hereafter become British rather than ever she was. We have the best flag on earth anyway.

The British lion's tail has had two years of good luck. But it is a limited corporation.

Single persons have run away with the idea that Cleveland has apologized to the Queen. Not yet.

Wanted: a revision of our voters in the proportion of nine William Tells and one Oliver Cromwell.

England and the United States are coming closer together. Like lawyers they disagree and afterwards make up.

St. John seems to be developing enterprise in the world. The enterprise from other sources that is developing St. John.

Nova Scotia has given Canada not a few of her best politicians. If Fitching goes to the White House another is added to the list of honours.

The Maritime School question is tedious. It has been at the bottom of all the recent flurry at Ottawa and still it is on top.

Times are exciting in Ottawa. And the voters in the country of course think they are being represented better than ever. So mote it be.

We produce a new dictionary to contain terms expressive of the events of the first 60. It will be dedicated to Cleveland and Wilhelm.

A Toronto newspaper man said once that Nova Scotians were the brightest of all Canadians. Nova Scotian politicians are bright at least and Canada knows it.

It seems strange that times of trouble will often bring nations to a feeling of friendliness better than untroubled times. Wars are good things sometimes.

The provincial Parliament has a knotty matter on its programme for discussion—the roads. The roads themselves are worse than knotty in certain localities.

We wonder if Sir Charles Tupper likes to be called a son of the sea. The nursery rhyme "papa-bab" the doting has been well rubbed in by the Conservative press.

The second thought was sober. The third was of a let-up-get-down-kind. By which we mean that the Yankers are getting ashamed of themselves for their war blunders.

It is not improbable that Hon. Mr. Fitching will enter Dominion politics in the long and long way. He is a provincial leader. This is the latest step to shine over the horizon. May the best man always get there.

Town Topics of Interest.

TWO OR THREE THINGS PERTAINING TO DIGBY.

There promises to be next summer a good amount of building in Digby. We need it. We will all be glad to see it. The Digby architect and carpenter are not commencing in earnest until the middle of the summer. Other towns are ahead of us. Our public buildings are not crowded with new enterprises and have often proved inadequate to the services they are called upon to give. Our houses are not a great improvement this year but there is more for more than last year. It is very much in advance of it in the style of its buildings. Annapolis has been and is being given place to the new. While we are not by any means wishing to be in the front of the improvement until the old is displaced by new and better. There is a number of old buildings around town that should be done and good. Commercial buildings in their place. We are to be the hub of western Nova Scotia, we should launch forth a little more in the new style in all ways open. The indications are of two or three large blocks, at least, will go up this coming season.

Excavation matters kept pretty fully alive. The election of the new town hall last year's heat. The card of Mr. John Daley to the election of the new town hall last year's heat. The card of Mr. John Daley to the election of the new town hall last year's heat.

Trade has brightened up considerably since the sleighing.

The Monticello makes her sailings under new management in good style. We have become accustomed to her weekly to the new or old of things.

The story of a long journey down the Neck was recently made an afternoon by hitting his horse in the head with a stone. The horse was well settled but it seems out of the eternal blindness of things.

DIGBY, TUESDAY AFTERNOON, Jan. 28, '96.

MURDER AT BEAR RIVER

Annie Kempton, 16 Year Old Daughter of Isaac Kempton,
the Victim of an Outrageous Assault.

Bear River Startled This Morning.
—The Details are Sickening—The Worst That Digby County has Ever Seen and There Have Been Few More Revolting Crimes in all Canada.

Between eight and nine o'clock this morning the village of Bear River was startled with the intelligence, at first hardly believed, that a murder had been committed within its borders only a few hours before. The victim was Annie Kempton, the sixteen year old daughter of Isaac Kempton. Investigation proved that the terrible news was all true.

Mr. Kempton lives in the last house on the road just past the Electric Light Station, about one mile out of town. He left a few days ago for Lent Lake, near Lake Tom Wallace, where he was engaged in lumbering, and his daughter was in charge of the house and alone, the mother being at the time in Boston.

The unfortunate girl was in town up to nearly nine o'clock last night, the picture of health, good spirits and her usual courage of action. After making purchases she left for home. She had generally had the company at nights of a neighbor's daughter but was altogether alone last night, it appearing that she had had the promise of another acquaintance's company which however failed her.

At eight o'clock this morning Mr. Peter Wheeler, a neighbor, called at the house, as his custom was, to buy milk. On entering the kitchen he found the girl lying on the floor, dead, in a pool of blood.

Shortly after the news was made public the COURIER man went to the spot to gather what was known of the facts and viewed the body exactly as it had been found a few hours before.

It was the most terrible sight that could be conceived of as a single-victim murder.

The girl was lying as she fell, clothed only in her night-apparel, with a bed quilt around her, her hair blood-clotted, her limbs all bruised and showing fearful usage, her skull broken in, a gash across her face, her throat cut from ear to ear, and both jugular veins severed. Blood was spattered all around; a pool was by her head and there were even drops on the window panes.

The stick of stove-wood that had dealt the blow diagonally across her face lay by her side, blood-stained; two silver case-knives were also near her head and blood on them; a butcher's knife was on a table in the room, but not stained; a cup and spoon, however, also on the table, had blood on their edges.

When and why the foul deed was done is a mystery. It was evidently committed very early, at one or two o'clock, the body being cold and stiff when found this morning. The girl was presumably dragged from the bed which was torn and disarranged, there being signs of a severe struggle. The carpet was torn, chairs overturned and other signs that the girl fought hard for her liberty.

It would appear as if the inhuman wretch, or wretches, had been secreted in the house before her return from town, and had awaited the opportunity of night to commit the most brutal deed we have almost ever heard of. This is however only conjecture and as yet any statement of the when and how and by whom can only be conjecture, the facts not having sufficiently evolved. Whether there was more than one who did the deed or not is also yet unrevealed. There were tracks, showing blood, leading from the house a short distance and these will form an important clue in the investigation.

Mr. Kempton was sent for and reached the sad spot shortly before noon; he is nearly heart-broken; the mother has also been sent for.

We understand that Detective Power has been summoned and will probably be on the spot to-morrow.

There have been rumors this afternoon that a couple of men have been arrested but we have not verified them as we go to press. Two suspicious characters were seen on the road last night and were arrested at Annapolis this morning and lodged in gaol. They tell a straight story, however, and are not thought to be implicated.

The Coroner's Inquest was held at two o'clock under Dr. Lovett. It has been a long investigation and we have not yet received reliable particulars of its findings. One evidence only has been heard and there are a large number yet to appear.

The affair is nearly without a parallel in the criminal records of the province. The details are sickening, even in the short mention we make herewith. It ranks with the worst of London slum scandals: a young girl, quiet, clever, intelligent and generally liked, frightfully maltreated and murdered in cold blood without the slightest cause or provocation. The perpetrator must be nearer brute than human; may he secure his deserts.

Purified Blood

Based on operation in the following case. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures

all skin diseases. It makes pure blood. A year ago my father, William

Thompson, was taken suddenly ill with inflammation of the bladder. He suffered a great deal and was very low for some time. At last the doctor said he would not get well unless an operation was performed. At this time we read of Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before we had used it three bottles he had been able to eat and

A BROAD MINDED DIVINE

Does Not Hesitate to Speak For The Good His Words Wield

A SCHOLARLY CHRISTIAN AND A BELOVED PASTOR WHO BELIEVES IN TRUTHING THE BODY AS WELL AS THE MIND.

The twenty-ninth day of April is a notable day in the history of the Memorial Church in New Brunswick, as it is the anniversary of the Rev. Samuel R. Cathrop, D. D., the eminent divine who long has ministered to the spiritual as well as the physical needs of his flock.

Dr. Cathrop was born in England and came to this country in 1847, entering Trinity College, Cambridge, where he became a brilliant student. He was a member of the University of Cambridge, and in the middle of the century he visited Syracuse and made of his first impressions of the young city that nearly a score of years later he came to choose as his home and which his labors have been so long and effective.

The ministerial duties of Dr. Cathrop have not only in his religious life, but in his intellectual and scientific life. He has been a student in the elements of the physical sciences, and has been a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Dr. Cathrop has a striking personality. He is tall and well built, with a high forehead, deep-set eyes, and a full beard. He is a man of great energy and a strong will, and his labors have been so long and effective.

Live-Stock Notes

A new to obtain best results should be in good flesh and gaining, not overfed or fat, when bred.

The feeding of hares at this time of the year is by no means a new thing, but much damage has been done by them. It is a good idea to keep them in a pen, and to feed them on a diet of grain and water.

Hares that work in cold and more especially in stormy weather need to be rubbed and dried as soon as they come to the house, and to be kept in a warm place. It is a good idea to keep them in a pen, and to feed them on a diet of grain and water.

Mr. Cutter's Surprise.

BY W. L. ALDEN.

It had been an intensely hot day.

The thermometer had stood at ninety degrees in the shade at nine o'clock in the morning, and it had steadily mounted ever since. At four o'clock in the afternoon there was not a breath of air stirring, and the sky had the tint of a grey copper when the sun was low in the sky.

It was a very hot day, and the people were all in a hurry to get home.

And let me take my train up the road.

"I did tell one of the men," replied

the captain of the schooner, "to telegraph to Chicago for a wrecking tug.

If he didn't forget to do it before he found any whiskey that there tug will be along in about two days, and then we'll see what we can do about getting the schooner into water again.

"You mean to tell me that I've got to wait for two days and more?"

"I'll do nothing of the kind. I'll make kindling wood of her."

"Considering that I am at anchor

with a proper light displayed," replied the man, "it's your business to keep clear of me, and I've no concern about it. That's the law of the road, and if you don't mind, please come aboard and I'll show it to you."

A shrill whistle, prolonged at the same pitch, and growing momentarily louder, interrupted the station master.

"What's up now, wonder?" he exclaimed. "There ain't no train due here at this hour."

"We both went out on the platform.
