

Welcome to the Digital DIGBY COURIER

1877-1978

100th Birthday

The hundredth anniversary of the Digby Weekly Courier has brought to mind some fond memories as contained in the following historical chapter of the writer. But first, I wish to congratulate the current editor of the Courier, Mrs. J.M. (Edith) Wallis, for a job well done over the years and still being well done, good service rendered with great fortitude.

According to any record, I have at hand, the Digby Courier, in one hundred years of publication, was controlled under the same family management for 42 years, 1931 to 1973, under the control of Wallis Print Limited. The late J.J. Wallis became editor of The Courier the second time, in 1929, and at the same time of the business, which he had been running for some time previously and which became Wallis Print Limited sometime between 1929 and 1931.

I well remember the last year of the twenties when I worked in the office of the son with the husband and father of the late J.J. Wallis, the Courier. Sometime in 1928 or early 1929, the late J.J. Wallis (Mac), son of "J.J." engaged me to work every day after school hours, Saturdays, and for some months after finishing school. The place of work was in the building of the present Digby town hall on First Avenue. J.J. Wallis then worked occasionally at the print shop but mostly across the street at the Courier office which was then located on land in the general area where The Royal Bank of Canada is now.

Wallis Job Print operated in 1929 with a staff of four consisting of J.J. Wallis, J.M. Wallis, Miss Eva Haynes, who later became Mrs. George Kicup, and myself. I was engaged as a printer in the left Eva's job was to run the printing plant but mostly at the Courier office. "Mac" worked nearly full time at all the different jobs at the Job Print, and I worked at various duties, most of the time being spent at operating printing presses.

We worked ten-hour days, six days a week. "J.J." and "Mac" sometimes worked overtime. I worked only the regular hours being paid a weekly wage which was comparatively good for those times and my lack of experience. I received four or five dollars a week for working after school hours to six o'clock and on Saturday all day, and nine dollars a week for full weeks after finishing school. A two or three dollar a week raise was offered to me in the fall of 1929 for me to stay on at printing, but I had made up my mind to enter a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, starting salary of $300. The bank salary figured out about the same per hour as for the printing job. Nevertheless, the congenial atmosphere of the printing plant those days, and, experience however short, were helpful and appreciated by me.

"J.J." was very jovial in his occasional trip to the Job Print and did considerable kidding all in good fun. "Mac" was a witty person who mixed in a good natured sarcasm now and then for one reason or another. Eva most always had good answers to all the kidding she was called upon to take, and, generally held her own in a quiet sort of way, always busy setting type. We four all got along very well indeed. However, I do remember that some days did seem long and weary because of the monotony of some repetitious jobs.

In spite of the great demand for printing those last boom days of the twenties, business generally being brisk, it looked to me that people had to work long and hard to make any decent profit. There was including treatment of the hands. However, nails and finger ends were used and I was soon back to work.

Now and then a printing job had a dose on parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad those days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would do that job on the largest press, in spite of the fact that we always opened an outside door to lessen the effects on the constitution.

One of the jobs I had to do, being the junior and printers' devil on the staff, was to clean up now and then. One day not long after I started my job at the printing plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily, he thought the remark pretty good and suitable.

Sometimes the gasoline engine or a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and after "Mac" the fix-it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results, "Mac" would then stand back and cuss quite strenuously, then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of cussing."

On other occasions when some gadget refused duty for me and, seemed to be broken, "Mac" would say, "use a little oil," and sure enough, often that is all it took. How often since, have I thought of the value of that remark and the actual need of "oil" in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and, in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1929 got together just before dark one evening and decided to initiate the newly built outdoor Pines Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just east of the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys; no thought or time for bathing suits up to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in, the rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korean), was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent druggist for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale lobster king merchant; and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me "how about writing your version of the story told about 'The Marooning of Jerome'." I had heard and read at least two somewhat different stories about the man who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Digby County. When found this man's tongue had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and possibly of some considerable wealth. However the only thing the man could or would ever say after being found and cared for by some family in the French shore was, something that sounded like the word "Jerome". He either could not, or, would not, write anything about who he was or why he was left the way he was. Well, it was, and is, one of Digby County's mystery stories, and, different ideas have been expressed over the years concerning this man. However my response to "Mac" was, I felt no urge to write anything more or different about this man. The mystery seemed to have been very well explored in the mind of many people, and, he was a sort of curiosity for many people who visited where he lived for many years.

Three years later, I was quite a young man, and I was back in the street that I had lived in, and I was clanking my powered up car, and I was thinking of "Jerome", and as I remember it, I was thinking of "Jerome". "J.J." was noted for his sense of humor and his ability to make people laugh. I remember the time Mr. Wallis was in the Scott Act (Prohibition) law office, and I was about and advocated by some people, and I was attending a boys' conference in the town of Digby.

Digby 172 Years Ago

Compiled by David Sanford

From the files of the Courier of January 23, 1867, the following account has been copied concerning Digby in 1800.

"Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us by friends is a copy of the Saint John Gazette of May, 1802, says the Telegraph and among other advertisements contained in the issue before us is one describing the town and township of Digby, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this area we are told the township of Digby extends from the Gulf of Annapolis westward to the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 130,000 acres." The town plot is thus described:

"The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1783, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to older countries, left the whole free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of which was some Digby's daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Melvin O. Tibert, Freeport, Digby Co.) Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters; I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print". I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like: embossing, stapling, perforating, counting, cutting and trimming paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, but, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "pi", the printers name for a confused mess.

There was a taste of trying to sell job printing outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls around town, spent most of the time at one particular house, and got an order, but, it was much time and got an order, but, side to be bought proved by about who now reside detached, built dwellings with orchards, and some fishery and. It has communal parts of the communal provisions in a cheap, built readily to be from many circumstances, probability of place of some shipbuilding, the West India a cheap and of residence. This advertisement, at the December, I were to be a No. 100.

The first time wireless telegraphy was used in Digby was in 1911. The equipment was sent from the U.S. and was used for the first time on the 19th of December 1911. The new light house was put in operation on January 15, 1912. The old lighthouse was dismantled and the passage and stairs removed.

Loss of the ship "W. Quinlan" is a tragedy. The ship was a 100-ton schooner, built in Digby, and was on her way to the coast of Nova Scotia. She was lost on the 19th of November 1911. The ship was carrying a large cargo of fish, and the loss was a great blow to the community. The ship was owned by the Digby Fish Company.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of the Courier.

Dear Sir: I shall esteem it a favour if you will kindly grant me a little space in your next issue to express my views with reference to the so-called half-day closing by the grocers of Digby.

Some five or six weeks ago you stated in your editorial that the grocers had signalled their intention to close their stores during the summer months at 1 p. m. every Friday—claiming that this was only for the convenience of the customers.

At the time I was writing this I was not aware of the fact that the grocers were only for the convenience of the customers.

They Shot Him

To the Editor of the Courier:
 Dear Sir—Ours Francis Stoddart, the president of the Scientific Temperance Federation of Boston had occasion to get up some ammunition for a local option fight at Hudson, Mass. One of the features was a stuffed hawk that had annoyed some farmers by killing their hens. The angry farmers shot the hawk and stuffed it. Miss Stoddart put the hawk on exhibition in Hudson with the legend:

"This hawk killed forty hens. Did the farmers license 'him'? They shot him."

The farmers did not say, "Oh! what's the use, let 'em go on killing the hens so we can get the feathers?" They did not say, "If we kill this hawk some other hawk will come and why discriminate between hawks? If we could kill all the hawks at once it would be different."

The farmers did not say, "That hawk has got a lot of money invested in hens and he don't want to destroy all his property?"

The farmers did not say, "I am against interfering with a hawk's personal liberty. Hasn't he a right to make his living just as he sees fit? Why should we interfere with a hawk's private business and dictate to him as to what he shall eat and drink?"

The farmers did not try to work off any of this sort of rot. They destroyed the hawk that was destroying their chickens. Just so it is proposed to destroy the institution known as the saloon which is grinding up the sons and daughters of men in order to make money out of their downfall.

I OWE MY HEALTH

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Washington Park, Ill.—"I am the mother of four children and have suffered with female trouble, backache, nervous spells and the blues. My children's loud talking and running would make me so nervous I could just tear everything to pieces and I would ache all over and feel so sick that I would not want anyone to talk to me at times. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills restored me to health and I want to thank you for the good they have done to me. I have had quite a bit of trouble and worry but it does not affect my youthful looks. My friends say "Why do you look so young and well?" I owe it all to the Lydia E. Pinkham remedies. Mrs. R. R. Stovall, Moore Avenue, Washington Park, Illinois.

We wish every woman who suffers from female troubles, nervousness, backache or the blues could see the letters written by women made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If you have any symptom about which you would like to know write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for helpful advice given free of charge.

Motoghan

Master Leo Aymer, who had been confined with sickness, is gradually improving.
Mr. Willie H. Robichaud left Monday morning for Paradise, Annapolis Co. We wish our genial friend a speedy return in our midst. He was accompanied by Mr. Casimir Comeau. The High Rev. Mgr. Cote was at Salmon River, where he presided over the first session of the High Mass of the Rev. Ambrose Maillet. The Rev. Fr. Maillet is a son of Mr. Nicolas Maillet, of Mavilleville. He studied at St. Ann's College, Church Point, and then at the Holy Heart Seminary, Halifax, where he was ordained to the priesthood by His Grace Archbishop McCarthy on Sunday, May 25th. His brother, Mr. Vincent Maillet, his sister, Miss Isabelle Maillet, Mrs. Jean Theriault, and J. Denis Comeau were present at the ordination. A large number of visitors were also present at Salmon River, including several Fathers of St. Ann's College. The Rev. Fr. Maillet will be with his vicar at Mallet and his taking the place of the Rev. Fr. Comeau, who is to be transferred to Amherst. The Rev. Fr. Maillet has all ways been a studious and pious lad, a great honor conferred on him is the crowning of the exemplary life he has led. To the newly appointed of the Lord we offer our best congratulations, and in memory of that great day of his ordination and first solemn High Mass, we will say "Ad Multos Annos."

Tuesday, June 27th, was the public examination and distribution of prizes in the public schools under the Rev. Sisters of Charity. The examination in the intermediate department was based on reading, language, geography, history, arithmetic and singing. In the advanced department, on reading, arithmetic, grammar, algebra, geometry, history and singing. THE ARTIST OF SOUND

Russell Kinsey lived and worked in a trim studio in New York. He was an artist who had found neither success nor appreciation, but who possessed ideas and, ideas—and a few friends.

In the evening the crimson of the studio used to become scarred and obscured by thick white and purple curves of cigar smoke. The pencil sketches of figures, thumb tacked to the walls, would seem to be drawn out of drawing, and the light from the red globe electric bulbs would struggle through the smoke like winter sunlight breaking out at the close of a gray day. And the least important of the figures in the room—those which were not thumb tacked to the wall—would sit in a group of two or three or four, and smoke and converse lightly upon such frivolous subjects as murders and earthquakes and war fare. Then, perhaps, a little later their cigars would burn unwatched on the edge of the mantelpiece while they held serious conference over the broadening of a line or the heightening of a tone.

A fresh theatrical season began, and brought Adele. A new play to the few, and a new interest to thousands, she danced before the foot lights in some wonderful new gowns, with a pair of wondering gray blue eyes and a sweet, tiny voice all her own.

Kinsey and his friend Van Sythe went to see her from the second balcony on the second night of the run. Kinsey sat through the entire performance uncomfortably and impolitely with his vicar at Mallet and his taking the place of the Rev. Fr. Comeau, who is to be transferred to Amherst. The Rev. Fr. Maillet has all ways been a studious and pious lad, a great honor conferred on him is the crowning of the exemplary life he has led. To the newly appointed of the Lord we offer our best congratulations, and in memory of that great day of his ordination and first solemn High Mass, we will say "Ad Multos Annos."

On the following evening Kinsey presented Van Sythe with his sketch of Adele as "The Pond Lily." A few evenings later there was an introduction to the late himself, which Van Sythe was overjoyed to obtain, and from which Kinsey carefully escaped. After that the studio smoke distorted two or three figures much oftener than four, and even when, in moments of conscious friendship, Van Sythe was present, he might almost as well have been tacked to the wall along with the other outlined forms of people who were living lives beyond the power of Kinsey's art.

Therefore, when the "Pond Lily" had been appearing for some three months, Kinsey found himself surprised, on looking up from a long, lonely afternoon's work, to find Van Sythe, flushed and healthy, standing in the doorway.

"Kinsey," said Van Sythe in a tone of strained intensity, "I am going to—everlastingly love—and marry—Adele!"

"Yes?" commented Kinsey in a tone of mild surprise, as he looked at the man who had been so long a friend. "That's good. Your voice just now would make a good picture." He added with sudden increase of interest.

A look of anger passed over the face of Adele's lover—larger than Kinsey should have been, and he said, "No, my interest only for a picture idea."

"Say, Russ," Van Sythe said in a sudden desire to hurt his friend, "Why do you throw that awful bluff about your interest in pictures?"

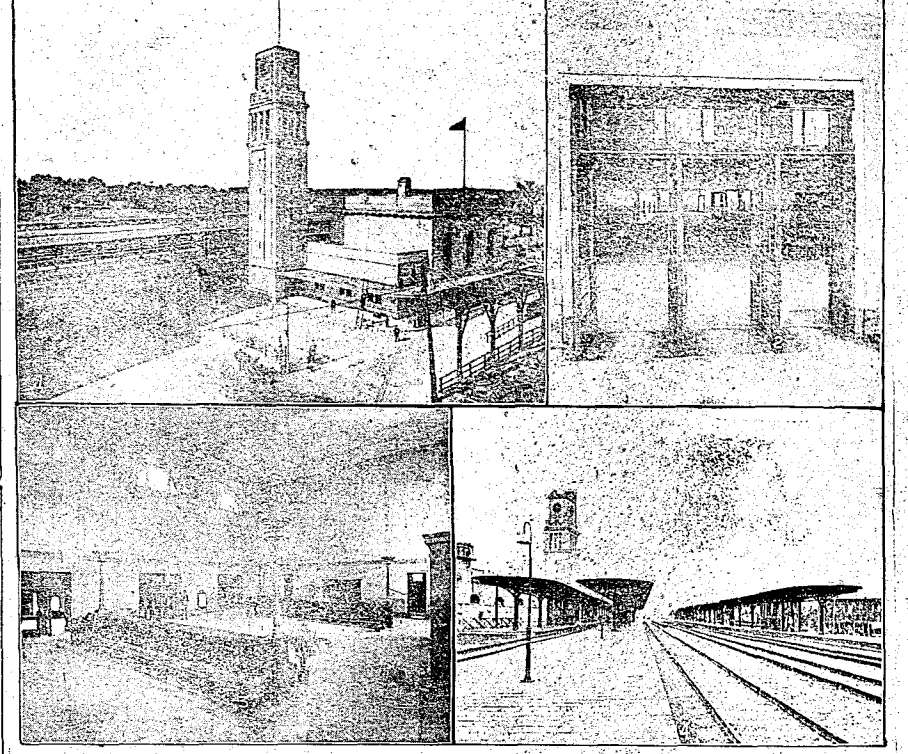

The pencil with which Kinsey had begun a tiny sketch of Van Sythe suddenly paused, and the artist's muscles stiffened.

"Bluff?" he uttered harshly. "Why, sure, it's bluff!" Van Sythe glared in the case with which he had put Kinsey on the defensive. "I've known you was a fake ever since you did at the theatre. I know you sat there and drew me by sound."

Van Sythe's face was a mask of anger as he said, "I've known you was a fake ever since you did at the theatre. I know you sat there and drew me by sound."

North Toronto Station

(1) New C.P.R. North Toronto Station. (2) Entrance to Train Platform. (3) General Waiting Room. (4) Train Sheds.

The opening of the North Toronto Station of the Canadian Pacific Railway a few days ago marked a new chapter in the history of the Queen City of the West. The banquet given by the Mayor and Aldermen of Toronto to Mr. A. D. MacTavish, the general manager of the C.P.R., showed distinctly the amicable relations which exist between the Company and the city. The new station was turned over to the hands of the city and under skilful hands was elaborately decorated with a profusion of bunting, and the evening ceremony, at which Mr. MacTavish formally declared the station open for business, was attended by thousands of people, who thronged every part of the station. Mayor Church said a great tribute to the Canadian Pacific and its representatives, and that to the young ticket office, who in the North of the waiting room is the Concourse beyond which are the parcel, baggage and express rooms. Opening from the Concourse is the midway which is 20 feet wide and 150 feet long, passing underneath the tracks and from which access is had to the various overhead platforms. Flanking the building at its northwest corner is the mosaics from the Tyndall quarries, Manitoba; the choice of this Canadian stone has been justified by the excellent color effect of the masonry in the mass, an effect equal to any that could be obtained by the importation of the better kind of building stone from the States. A large and spacious waiting room 70 feet by 50 feet, of lofty proportions occupies the centre portion of the structure, marked on the South elevation of the building by three large semicircular headed windows. It faces the South with the main entrance centrally placed on the front. To East and West of this central block are two subsidiary wings rooted at lower level and devoted to station facilities, that to the East to men's and women's rooms with their respective lavatories, and that to the West to ticket office, baggage and express rooms. Flanking the building at its northwest corner is the clock tower rising to the height of 140 feet, plane so as to avoid as far as possible, all effects and other distracting projections. The plaster ceilings are treated in a broad manner, the concourse is a broad mansard vestibule under the tower leads to the concourse. A sidewalk (protected by a marquee) is laid along the height as are the stairs leading up to the platform. At night the main waiting room will be illuminated by the use of those passengers who have already secured tickets and only requires to pass directly to the trains, relieving the main waiting room of much of the congestion that might otherwise occur. A private railway also runs along the West side of the station so that vehicles may drive up to either entrance, and pass through under the track to the baggage and express rooms and out on Yonge Street to the North of the station. Internally, the waiting room, lower vestibule and concourse are lined with marble for their entire height, the architectural effect being obtained by the use of different colored marbles all set in precisely the

"Ah!" he said, exultingly. "Do you know where your lady is now? Call her up on the phone, and let me hear her voice for two sentences. Then go to her, look at her. Note her dress—her hair. While you are here, I shall draw her, just—as she is!"

For a moment Van Sythe hesitated; then he stepped to the telephone and took down the receiver. In the pause that succeeded his mention of the number, Kinsey prepared a piece of drawing paper and sharpened pencil. His mouth was a deadly white line.

"Hello!" Kinsey could hear the voice nearly as plainly as the man at the receiver could. "Sweet, sharp, but very shrill it sounded."

"Hello, Adele?" Van Sythe hardly steeled his own voice. "Are you engaged for this afternoon?"

that could make another feel what he felt himself—that color, form, light are all perceived and realized by the sense of sound—that even blindingly no reason why one should not see. But now he knew that he had succeeded, for as truly as he had seen every detail of Adele's face and figure when he heard the voice of her voice, he could now, by gazing on his picture of her, hear every note and fall, every note, every variation of her changing treble.

He drew a breath of happy satisfaction. With the relief this brought, his thoughts returned to the real Adele, and he could now, by gazing on his picture of her, hear every note and fall, every note, every variation of her changing treble.

outdoors, a happy twilight in his eyes. "Well!" he said.

Kinsey looked at him, staringly for a moment.

"Well?" he echoed, finally. "Did you see her?"

"Just for a moment—just long enough to see how she was dressed," replied the other. She came out into the hall to speak to me. She was very busy."

"Ah! Then there was some one else there?" said Kinsey.

Lynn Pianist Graduates

[From the Lynn Daily Item]
Miss Marion Averill Bacon, of 15 Allen Avenue, was graduated with honors from the New England Conservatory of Music, at largely attended commencement exercises, held in Jordan Hall, Boston, Tuesday, June 20. Miss Bacon has completed the course in piano, having received the highest honors in the principal study. Miss Bacon was also honored in having a place on the commencement program, playing the "Scherzo Introduction and Allegro Op. 9, No. 2," for piano, with orchestra accompaniment.

Miss Bacon is a graduate of the Lynn Classical High School, class of 1911, and is one of Lynn's most successful young pianists teachers. She has been under the instruction of Mr. Dr. Vito next season. Before entering the conservatory, Miss Bacon was a pupil of the late Miss Mary W. Brown.

"The talented young lady above mentioned is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bacon, formerly of Hill Grove, Digby County, and has many friends here who extend cordial congratulations."

Cathedral Deacons Cannot Be Deared
by their applications, as they cannot read the Bible in the way of the church. There is only one way to be a cathedral deacon, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Cathedral deacons are caused by an inflamed condition of the prostate gland, which is a common ailment of the aged. It is a very serious condition, and if not treated, it will lead to a fatal result. The only safe and reliable remedy is the one we offer. It is a constitutional remedy, and it is the only one that will cure the disease. It is the only one that will cure the disease. It is the only one that will cure the disease.

Britain's Army 4,000,000.

BEST CARED FOR IN HISTORY, SAYS
DOCTOR—CRIPPLED AMERICAN RETURNS.

(From a New York Paper.)
Among the passengers arriving yesterday on the French liner Chicago from Bordeaux was Dr. Francis R. Holbrook of New York, who had been serving for the last thirteen months with the British Red Cross in Belgium and France.

"When I left the war zone near Ypres," he said, "the British and Belgian armies were all ready to start the big offensive. From all I could hear in official circles the British had about 4,000,000 troops in France and Flanders by the end of May."

"The British Army has attained to a high state of efficiency which I do not think is equaled by the Germans today. The soldiers fight bravely and with a steady determination to beat the enemy, and they are better trained than any army has had before in history."

The doctor said the health of the men in the trenches was much better than was a year ago, and there were a great many less gangrene cases, as the treatment of wounds had been very much improved.

With regard to the war, the general opinion was that it would last at least another year—one general officer said two years and a pessimistic Colonel of the staff told confidentially that the British Government was making preparations for the war to continue four years.

Another passenger on the Chicago was Brooke Bartlett Bonnell of Swarthmore College, Pennsylvania, who lost his right leg at Champagne on Sept. 28, 1915, while fighting with the French.

Mr. Bonnell, who is only about 26 years old, walked down the gangplank leaning on a cane. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall, well built, and an ideal figure for a soldier. Speaking of his experience, Mr. Bonnell said:

"I was in the same regiment with Henry Farnsworth and was only ten feet away when he was killed. I was shot through the right knee as we were charging over the open field just before sundown on Sept. 28 and lay on the field of Champagne all night until dawn, when the stretcher bearers found me and took me to the field hospital. The surgeons found that I had a compound fracture of the knee and did all they could to save my leg, but it had to be taken off."

Death has entered our quiet neighborhood and taken from our midst one of our young men, Mr. Murdoch Clayton, at the early age of 19 years. Murdoch enlisted in the 112th Battalion in February last and there he contracted the measles, which developed in tuberculosis. He was removed from Digby on May 1st at the home of his parents here, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Clayton. All that could be done by the local, father and mother and medical assistance was of no avail to him. He leaves to mourn their loss a father, mother, 7 brothers and 3 sisters and a large circle of friends. The funeral was very largely attended. The pall bearers were Arthur Weir, Willard Guest, Charles Campbell and Gordon Weir. Rev. I. Brindley, Baptist, performed the ceremony at the house and grave.

Meteghan

DEPARTURE OF THE REV. J. DENIS COMEAU,
VICAR AT METEGHAN, FOR AMHERST,
N. S.

Sunday the Rev. J. D. Comeau announced his immediate transfer from this parish to the vicariate of Amherst, Cumberland Co. Accordingly a committee was formed composed of Messrs. Desire Deraen, merchant; J. A. Deveau, Corbier representative; Edmund D. Saluiter and Albert H. Deveau to organize a farewell reception to the Rev. Fr. Comeau. Collectors were appointed to visit the different parts of the parish and a long list of names was secured. The local branch of the "Ariettes" gave the sum of ten dollars. Accordingly, Thursday evening after the Holy Hour's devotion. Mr. Jule Robichaud, student at St. Ann's College, Church Point, Mr. Elie LeBlanc, also of the same institution, and Mr. Albert H. Deveau, advanced to the altar railing where Mr. Jule Robichaud gave the following address in French: To the Reverend J. Denis Comeau, Priest, vicar at Meteghan, St. Mary's Bay, Newfoundland and beloved father, a year has not more than elapsed, where with the most profound joy we were united here to wish you the most cordial welcome in our midst, and now we are obliged to come to offer you our most tender wishes, as well as our most sincere regrets on the occasion of your near departure. Faithful to the obedience sworn on the day of your ordination, you are going to leave us for another part of the "Vineyard of the Lord." Our hearts bleed at the thought of that separation, but we must submit to the will of God. Not a thing which has the glory of God for object who has not received your support and encouragement. We shall have you with us in our most fervent prayers for the Most High, so that His protection will be with you always. Reverend Father, before taking leave, please accept this little gift as a symbol of the love and the esteem we have for you. We would have wished to do more but our means are limited. Reverend Father, in bidding you farewell, we recommend ourselves to your prayers, and once more we implore your blessing. "Ariettes" and parishioners of Meteghan. Meteghan, July 15th, 1916.

The Rev. Fr. Comeau in a few touching remarks said that the time he had spent at Meteghan had been very short, and amid the tribulations of the ministry, he had always been contented and happy. He hoped the people of Meteghan would remember him, as he would never forget them himself. He expressed his thanks for the gift presented to him, and for what had been done to him since he had been here. The gift consisted of a well filled purse. The collectors were Mr. Edmund D. Saluiter, Mr. Denis Robichaud, Mr. Jule Robichaud and Mr. Albert Deveau. The Rev. Fr. Comeau left Friday morning for Amherst to enter into the duties of his new vicariate. His predecessor there, the Rev. Fr. Bourneau is being transferred to the rectory of the parish of Westport.

Cataract Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a continuous course of treatment at the Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital, New York City. It is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. The tube is inflamed, and the result is a running discharge from the ear. The inflammation can be reduced and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be restored forever. Many cases of deafness are cured by this method. The Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital, New York City, will give you a free literature. All cases of catarrhal deafness that cannot be cured by local treatment, can be cured by this method. S.S. Empress for Bay Route.

THE C. P. R. steamer Empress recently took the place of the S.S. Yarmouth between St. John, N.B., and Digby. The Empress is an ideal passenger and freight boat. She has all the accommodations of an Atlantic liner and the fittings hardly can be surpassed for convenience. Her staterooms are large and well furnished with all that is necessary, while her saloon is very commodious and occupies mostly the length of the ship. Like the staterooms the saloon is furnished and upholstered in plush, while the chairs are roomy and comfortable. To the person travelling for pleasure or business the main thing is comfortable accommodation and no better can be found on many a larger steamship than the Empress possesses. The ship also possesses a post office where letters, etc., can be posted without looking up the purser.

Another feature is a covered observation look-out, situated at the stern of the steamer, where there are clear views all around, and also sheltered from rain and high winds. In fact, the Empress is fitted out with all necessary for the comfort of the traveller.

The Empress machinery is of the latest design, such as triple expansion engines and all other new devices in marine equipment. She was built at Newcastle-on-Tyne in 1906. She is an iron vessel of 1,542 tons gross and 612 registered. She is 235 feet in length, 34 breadth of beam and 29 feet in depth. Her engines are of 365 horse power. She was on the route between Shediac and Summerside for nine years.

THEIR MURDER SLEEP AND NO ONE KNOWS

(Boston Globe.)

Walter Emerson, in his breezy and altogether readable new book on Maine, called "The Latchstring," has a few words to say about the things that prevent Maine people from making as much as they might out of their own resort business. Well up in his list comes the unthoughtful resort boat crew.

"It was one of those calm, still evening nights," he writes by way of introducing the subject, "when even the undertow had gone to sleep: one of those nights made for complete, unconscious rest, a night when you could sleep on the porch or open all the windows in order that the boundless silence of all outdoors may make more peaceful your peaceful slumbers."

"And we were awakened no less than a dozen times by those senseless, exasperating, spattering motor boats, which exhaust their gasoline engines above the waterline and without mufflers. Some of the offenders, in an apparent effort to outstrip their fellow offenders in offense, run the exhaust pipe out at the side of the boat, and thus get the added effect of a sounding board."

"There are all pitches, from thundering basses to high, scintillating tenors. In order to avoid what hypnotists call the monotony of stimulation, they 'skip' at irregular intervals, and this makes it certain that you do not doze for any considerable time."

"WASN'T NO HAND TO MAKE TROUBLE."

"And on an otherwise silent night, and all night, the whole vicious, wracking, sleep killing fusillade came ashore with galling staccato and sledge gun powers of destruction."

"I say criminal, because there is a law of the State against this particular form of foulness. But the constable, or the sheriff, or whoever it may be that should invoke it, seems loath to act because probably it might make trouble for some of his neighbors, which at most could only be putting the exhaust under water or adding an inexpensive muffler to the equipment."

"Which reminds me of a hired man of one village of years ago, in whose ancestry was a grandmother who saw a man kill his wife and put the body in a well. He used to brag about this 'good deed'—the killing, but his grandmother's seeing it. Nothing was ever done about the murder. And one day some one asked him what action she took."

"'O, Lor!', he replied, 'She just didn't do nothin'. She was a'n't no hand to make trouble.'"

"But last night, after lobstermen and bake fishermen had exhausted this word in two senses—everybody's patience, the milkman and the vegetable peddlers came pounding into the cove about 4:30, and the little colony, seeking rest and quiet from ceaseless metropolitan roar, gave up in despair."

AUTHORITIES TAKE NO ACTION.

Mr. Emerson, who speculates at Squirrel Island, though one cannot say he writes of it in this instance—gives two concrete examples of the effect of the noisy motor boat exhausts. He tells of a neighbor who, acting on his physician's advice, built a sleeping porch on his cottage large enough for his family of five. They came earlier in the spring than usual, on account of the new porch. One of the children that had been ill in the winter, began to pick up wonderfully after sleeping on the porch.

But as the season advanced, and still the noise came, the family was driven from the porch by the rapid fire guns of the motor boats. The expensive porch was useless. The owner protested to the town authorities, without result.

Another case was that of a steam yacht owner who enjoyed visiting certain small, deep harbor on the Maine coast with his big vessel. He went there for years and each summer fitted out there for a cruise to Nova Scotia, having never less than $1000 and sometimes $1500 in the village, for fuel and provisions.

Now he never visits that harbor. Asked why, he replied, "Your cursed motor boats without mufflers. Couldn't any of us sleep nights, or have any peace days."

"The owner of this yacht took up the matter with the local authorities and officers of a local yacht club, but nothing happened."

HATTIE WARREN
Port Robinson, Ont., July 18, 1915.

"We have used 'Fruit-a-lives' in our house for over three years and have always found them a good medicine. Our little girl, Hattie, was troubled with Kidney Disease. The Doctor said she was threatened with Dropsy. Her limbs and body were all swollen and we began to think she could not live. Finally, we decided to try 'Fruit-a-lives'. She began to show improvement after we had given her four tablets. In a short time, the swelling had all gone down and her flesh began to look more natural. Now she is the healthiest one in the family and has no signs of the old ailment. We can not say too much for 'Fruit-a-lives' and would never be without them."

HEALTHIEST ONE IN THE FAMILY

No Sign Of Dropsy And Kidney Trouble Since Taking "FRUIT-A-LIVES"

HATTIE WARREN
Port Robinson, Ont., July 18, 1915.

"We have used 'Fruit-a-lives' in our house for over three years and have always found them a good medicine. Our little girl, Hattie, was troubled with Kidney Disease. The Doctor said she was threatened with Dropsy. Her limbs and body were all swollen and we began to think she could not live. Finally, we decided to try 'Fruit-a-lives'. She began to show improvement after we had given her four tablets. In a short time, the swelling had all gone down and her flesh began to look more natural. Now she is the healthiest one in the family and has no signs of the old ailment. We can not say too much for 'Fruit-a-lives' and would never be without them."

WHY WOMEN WRITE LETTERS

To Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co.

Women who are well often ask "Are the letters which the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. are continually publishing, genuine?" "Are they truthful?" "Why do women write such letters?"

In answer we say that never have we published a fictioned letter, or one without the full and written consent of the woman who wrote it.

The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives, once burdened with pain and suffering.

It has relieved women from some of the worst forms of female trouble, from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, nervousness, weakness, stomach troubles and from the blues.

It is impossible for any woman who is well and who has never suffered from these troubles, to realize how these poor, suffering women feel when restored to health; their keen desire to help other women who are suffering as they did.

Big Fire in Ontario.

HUNDREDS OF LIVES WERE LOST—PROPERTY LOSS IS ESTIMATED AT EIGHT MILLION DOLLARS.
ENGLISHTOWN, Ont., July 30.—Forest fires, which for some days have threatened the northernmost towns and the outlying settlements of Northern Ontario, yesterday and today culminated in a holocaust which has wiped out entire communities, licked the fringe of large towns, and levied a death toll which cannot at present be accurately computed, but which will range from 140 to 200. Scores of persons are suffering from injuries, many of whom are likely to succumb. The loss of life so far reported is as follows:
At Nipissing, a French Canadian settlement, fifty-seven.
At Cochrane, eighteen dead, 24 injured.
At Matheson, thirty-four dead.
At Hamour, fifteen dead.
At Troquois Falls, fifteen dead and many injured.
At European Junction, number of dead unknown, but the town was wiped out, with the exception of the station.
In addition to the known dead, there are many outlying places which will materially swell the list of victims when the rescue parties return. It is feared that at Ashland and Koroosk many prospectors may have been trapped.
Nipissing suffered worst, it consisted of a score of frame dwellings and an absolute ruin. It was practically surrounded, walls of fire cutting off all escape to the south and north, and with no river or lake at hand the inhabitants were doomed.
Cochrane was entirely burned with the exception of Second and Third Avenues. The proximity of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario tracks and the lake saved most of the residents.
Ramsay, a small settlement, was completely wiped out. Matheson is totally destroyed, with the exception of a dozen houses, and thirty-four bodies are laid out on the station platform. South Porcupine suffered on the loss of the saw mill and the station. At Timmins the flames were checked on the outskirts, after licking up sawwood houses.
At Troquois Falls, nothing remains but part of the paper mills and one store.
The list of dead is likely to be largely increased from among the outlying places. One settler and ten children perished while his wife was absent to seek aid. The property loss is estimated at eight million dollars.
Refugees, destitute of food and clothing, are pouring into the towns to the south of the burned districts. A large number have arrived here, and are being distributed to New Liskeard, Cobalt and Hamilton. Citizens are doing their best all night long to feed and clothe the victims prior to distribution.
The rain was falling in Matheson and several other points, but it will take several days of rain to quell the fires and prevent a further southward sweep.

The Misses Norma and Biddie MacNeil spent a few days last week with the latter's aunt, Mrs. John Franklin, of Accomac.

Quite a number of the young folks from this place attended the lecture at Barton Wednesday evening, July 26th, given by the Salvation Army and boy scouts of St. John.

Mrs. John Franklin, of Barton, went to New York on Friday last to be present at the memorial service on Sunday, July 30th, of the late Henry Green, who was killed in action some time in France.

MISS MARJORIE ADAMS BECOMES BRIDE OF ALGERNON OSBORNE.

The following is reprinted from last Sunday's Call, Newark, N. J.:

Miss Marjorie Adams, daughter of Mr. Robert Weir Adams, 475 M. Prospect avenue, became the bride of Algernon Osborn, son of the late Mr. R. L. Osborn, of the late Mrs. L. Osborn, yesterday afternoon.

The ceremony, which took place in St. Mark's Episcopal church, was performed by the rector, the Rev. Alvan H. Thompson, formerly an assistant of the bridegroom's father, the late Mr. J. H. Thompson, Trinity Episcopal church, this city.

Grass Shaffer, organist of St. Mark's, played the wedding music.

Miss Adams was attired in a formal gown of white satin, and wore a large veil which was caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and valley lilies.

Miss Eleanor Adams, a sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor and was attired in a gown of white satin and a large veil.

She carried a formal bouquet of pink roses and forget-me-nots.

Schuyler Van Ness, of this city, acted as best man while the ushers were Dr. Daniel B. Robert, of Brooklyn; Frank Harrington, of Baltimore; and Charles Ashman, of this city.

The wedding was witnessed only by the members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends. Through out the church, the bride and groom were surrounded by a large number of guests.

After the ceremony, the bride and groom were taken to the home of the bride's mother, where a profusion of pink roses and gladioli adorned the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams will make their home in Washington, Pa., where they will be "at home" in September.

[Mr. Osborn for many years spent his summers in Digby and has many friends here who extend congratulation.]

Married at Granville Ferry.

PICKET-HARWICK.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at Granville Ferry, N. S., on Wednesday, August 2, when Helen I. Pickett, the second daughter of the Hon. S. W. V. Pickett, was married to Lance Corporal Richard H. Harwick, of the 237th Battalion, only the immediate relatives being present.

Mr. Harwick is a son of Andrew Harwick, Esq., of Granville Ferry, and before enlisting was manager of the Royal Bank of Canada at Weymouth, N.S.

The bride looked charming in a wedding gown of white embroidered net over white silk.

Her train was a beautiful blue silk with black velvet trimmings and black velvet.

The groom was attended by Mr. R. E. Day, of Halifax.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Adams, after a simple breakfast which was served on small tables on the veranda, Mr. and Mrs. Harwick left by auto for Kentville, N. S.

The unavoidable absence of the bride's brothers was regretted. Samuel Pickett, Jr., of the Royal Bank of Canada, being in Victoria, B. C., Captain William A. Pickett, C. A. M. C., on duty in Hillingdon House Hospital, England, and Lieut. Walter V. Pickett, M. C., on duty in the hospital at Digby.

Mr. Harwick will be very much missed at Granville as she had always lived here in the work of the Methodist church and her help had been to everything for the mutual improvement of the village.

It will be followed by the good wishes of very many friends for their future happiness.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Light Beers

To the Editor of the Courier:

DEAR SIR:—The Pioneer is doing a good job of publishing a note of warning against the insidious danger which threatens our long fought prohibition of the liquor traffic.

I hope the following from that paper will be taken to heart by all friends of temperance.

"For years the liquor traffic has been preaching beerdrinking. The distillers do not raise any objection to this. They know that beer drinking develops an alcoholic appetite, that demands stronger beverages. They know that the disgraceful and lying statements by which beer men have been endeavoring to induce women to drink will tend towards the shocking spirit drinking of wives and mothers that curses Great Britain."

"Germany's beer gardens have produced a brutality that will make Germany a byword for centuries to come. Yet at the same time the beer garden is being established in the United States. It is not strange that the great philanthropist who is General Secretary of the Research Dept. of the M. E. Temperance Society is so much interested in the liquor business in God's name."

"Let us have the bar room where men take their drink standing and fully realize that they are poisoning themselves. Keep the women and children out of the bar room. Let us have regard to the liquor problem, but Europe can't teach us anything, to say the least, the Beer Garden Professors cannot."

"When there are symptoms already of a campaign in Ontario looking to the cultivation of a public opinion in favor of beer and wine, when the 1919 referendum comes. It is with deep regret that we read in an editorial in the Woodstock Sentinel Review that the liquor traffic is being organized to total prohibition would disappear at once or in time if some provision were made for the sale of light beers and wines. A good many of us do not like compulsion but we are not going to have a law restricting the sale of stronger drinks as the sale of drugs is restricted, but they contend that the attempt to cut off all alcoholic drinks at once is not only unnecessary but impracticable and that the liquor traffic will be able to outwit the prohibitionists."

"That's the old song to a new tune, but we must remember that we're drinking more alcohol now than ever before in the form of spirits. And it must not be forgotten that beer contains a little bit of alcohol, and it pure, contains only one; also that beer drinkers make up in quantity what is lacking in strength of alcohol."

GRACEFUL THIRTY PAID BY VISITORS AS OFFICERS OF 337TH, TOAST THE KING.

Visitors at Digby on Sunday tell of an incident at one of Digby's summer hotels which is interesting. At this time of the year Digby as seen in its most populous state as a great many tourists from the United States spend the summer here. The mess for the officers of the battalion is set in one portion of the dining room, the remaining space being utilized for the guests. After dinner on Sunday the 23rd, the officers of the 337th, toasts the King, God Bless Him, and then all sang the national anthem. The officers, of course, honored the toast with willingness but the many visitors from the republic to the south were less than willing. All soon learned that the toast was announced and joined with a right good will and as the strains of the national anthem burst out many joined more heartily than the many citizens of the United States who are spending their holidays under the Union Jack. There were some splendid voices among the visitors, too, and never was the national anthem heard with more enthusiasm and more vigor than when the visitors' voices joined to those of the King's soldiers.

Minard's Liniment Cures Gout in Cows

At the present of the present was the optimistic tone taken by the newspapers under the inspiration of the military publicists. The Press Association did much to recover the country from the threatened business panic.

Ever since that time the publishers have given most freely of their publicity for the advancement of recruiting, the Red Cross, the Patriotic Fund and a hundred and one other movements in which the public have been deeply interested in this crisis time.

But while general business in Canada has benefited rather than otherwise from the war yet the publishers have been hard hit, harder probably than any other class of citizens. Their outside advertising has almost wholly disappeared as the munition business which has so largely replaced their lines of industrial activity avoids publicity.

The Canadian newspapers have just passed through the two hardest years of their experience. Where the local business and professional men have failed to show their appreciation of the services their newspapers have rendered the community, the circumstances of the publishers have been doubly difficult.

But now the newspapers are up against a new difficulty. During the past few weeks the prices of all kinds of paper have been going up and many kinds of paper it is not of question of price, but of getting it at all prices. Papers have been advanced all the way from 10 to 100 per cent. There has been little flexibility in the prices under which newspapers obtain their ink from the ink companies.

The regular session of the Rural Science Training School in Truro is now in full swing. The attendance is still rapidly increasing. In 1914-15 the enrollment was 130. In 1915 it was 155, and in 1916 it has grown to 190. Through this number, it is assumed that the school is popular they also indicate that our accommodations are not sufficient to meet the demand.

As usual, enthusiasm is the chief virtue acquired at these Summer Schools. Students are required to read "Everyone has a cross." Some are scouring the field for insects. Others are learning to grow vegetables. Others are learning to master everything, and incidentally, learn that they can't.

Like all our teachers, the students are not knowing all that can be known, they carry with them an enormous amount of knowledge, and their influence on the schools of the province through out the coming year. The optimism of the students holds them back.

In spite of all difficulties, school gardening and elementary agriculture are making progress.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 2.—Radio message received here today says that the German submarine Deutschland was off New Point Comfort, near the entrance to Mobjack Bay, fully 15 miles from Cape Henry. This would mean a four hours' run to Cape Henry in the event that Captain Koenig decided to make his dash to sea tonight.

HOW MRS. BEAN MET THE CRISIS

Carried Safely Through Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Nashville, Tenn. "When I was going through the Change of Life I had a child's head. The doctor said it was three hours coming and gave me medicine for it until I was called away from the city for some time. Of course I could not go to him then, so my sister-in-law told me that she thought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would cure it. It helped both the Change of Life and the tumor and when I got home I did not need a doctor. I took the Pinkham remedies until the tumor was gone, the doctor said, and I have not felt it since. I tell every one how I was cured. If this letter will help others you are welcome to use it."

The Change of Time. He went back about a year or two to the events of his early days. But time had weighted the foot of him and altered his youthful ways.

Though the days were there where he used to play, and the lanes where he used to run, the things that he had done were not in the light of his mind.

The laughter he had heard to hear was still in his mind, though he had heard it. It was the first time he had heard it, and he had heard it before.

And the kindly face that he had seen there, had not waited for him to come. It was the first time he had seen it, and he had seen it before.

There is a time in every man's life when he is alone. There is a time when he is alone, and he is alone, and he is alone.

Will and but the silent marks of time and the path where the years have rolled.

Jay's Popular Minister

BAPTIST CHURCH ENJOYING GREAT PROSPERITY UNDER MR. POWELL, 2ND SON OF CAPT. H. POWELL, OF LITTLE RIVER, DIGBY CO.

[From the Franklin, Mass Journal] The Jay Baptist church is enjoying a period of prosperity and blessing through the labors of its pastor, Rev. Harry H. Powell.

Mr. Powell was born in Prospect, Nova Scotia, in 1891. His family soon after moved to Westport, where he attended school and graduated from Yarmouth Academy.

He was a sea captain and he has followed the sea after which he was for a time a commercial traveler. He then went to Winnipeg, Manitoba, where he was sales manager of one of the largest coal companies in the city.

It was during his connection with this firm that he was converted. Suffering his connection there, he studied for a short time at Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S., and then at Gordon Bible Institute in Boston.

He came to Digby in September, 1915, with his wife, who was Miss Rita Nash, with whom he was united in marriage Nov. 19, 1914. They have a young son, Shannon, a few months old. Mr. Powell expects to enter Colby or some other Maine college the coming fall.

His first pastorate and during his stay in Digby he has been added to the church by baptism and letter. The attendance at prayer meeting and Sunday School has also doubled, and the financial support is following. It is earnestly hoped his work in Digby may be continued for a long period.

King George's Message

LONDON, Aug. 4.—King George to day telegraphed the heads of the British Empire on the occasion of the second anniversary of the Great War.

On this the twenty-second anniversary of the commencement of the great conflict in which my country and her gallant Allies are engaged, I desire to convey to you my steadfast resolution to prosecute the struggle until our united efforts have attained the objects for which we in common have taken up arms.

"I feel assured that we are in accord with me in the determination to see the sacrifices our people have so nobly made shall not have been offered in vain, and that the liberties for which they are fighting shall be fully guaranteed and secured."

King George also sent the following message to King Albert of Belgium: "I desire to assure you of my confidence that the united efforts of the Allies will liberate Belgium from the oppression of her aggressors, and restore to her the full enjoyment of her national and economic independence."

He also desires to express his sympathy in the previous trials to which Belgium is so unjustly subjected and which she has borne with such admirable fortitude."

SHELTER PORT

Ben laughed, lounging in the doorway with the Gordon sister nosing at his hand.

"You'd tack any one under your wing, wouldn't you, Aunt Polly, if he needed it? Old Brookside Farm is a regular Port of Shelter in time of trouble."

The next day he drove down to meet Aunt Polly's latest waif of chance, Loving and motherly by nature, with no child of her own to pet and tend, she always seemed to be giving out help to some one.

Her sister Esther had written to her about Myrtis Lampton. She had brought up in one of the church homes at Wakefield, the orphaned daughter of a schoolmaster of Bathurst.

When she was eighteen, Esther found her a position at the town library and kept an eye on her, until she had come down in the winter with typhoid fever. She needs loving and chirking up, that's all."

Ben agreed heartily when he was the lone figure got off the Providence train and came toward him. White faced she was, with big blue eyes, and he knew by the way she got into the carriage she was still weak and shaky.

Through the long summer days she lay out under the maples in the ham mock getting stronger slowly. Miss Calder would sit near in one of the rustic rockers, reading or sewing, sleeping softly to herself, and ready with a smile when Myrtis awakened.

"I'm too useless, Aunt Polly," she said one day. "I'm no more good to you than a weed."

"Some weeds have turned out healing herbs, dearie," answered Aunt Polly happily. "I just read to think of going away." She said to Miss Calder one day in early August. The latter looked at her over the tops of her glasses.

"Well, I shouldn't if I were you, Myrtis," she responded, pleasantly. "Why don't you take the school examination over here at the cross roads and teach there. It's twelve a week, and you could board here if you liked."

"Do you think I'd pass?" she asked eagerly. "Of course you would, child. I taught there myself years ago when out here to teach. I'll write to the school board to-morrow, and on better let me drive you over there and face it. I'll coach you up on it."

Ben said nothing when he heard of the plan, but he smiled across the table at Myrtis, and she colored delightfully.

"When the weather's rough this winter Ben can drive over with you," said Aunt Polly happily, so busy serving dinner she never noticed what was happening right under her nose.

"Like enough you won't be a bit homesick about here. Would you rather go back to Esther and do library work?" "Oh, I'd much rather be here with you," Myrtis exclaimed. "It's home now."

"Well, just stay then, child. We love to have you, don't we, Ben?" "Certainly do," said Ben. "Seems as if you belonged here now. Aunt Polly took me when I was a little shaver, but my folks died and brought me up, and I know how I love the place."

The latter came the following week notifying the new teacher of her appointment, and Aunt Polly was as if anything, more enthusiastic than Myrtis herself. She sang about the house singing, and Myrtis stole down to the walk by the brook in the pine grove just to think how wonderful life had turned out for her. It was so good just to be wanted and loved after having been a waif on the waves of chance and circumstance.

The hemlock branches cracked on the slope above where she sat. Ben called hello to her.

"Have you seen the black cat anywhere?" "No down here."

"I've been hunting for an hour," he declared without a quail. He swung down the slope and landed on the rocks just below her. "Don't you love this place?" he asked, coming when I was a little fellow and listen to the water as it broke over the rocks. I'm glad you're going to stay."

"It's dear of Aunt Polly to let me stay here," she said. "She just about gave you the right way to get somewhere and makes it seem easy. I was afraid to face the winter alone."

"You wouldn't have had to go," Ben blurted out. It wasn't going to let you go away." He stopped and looked up at her as she sat on the bank, ferns and pine needles around her. I'd have told you right straight off. Now, I suppose I ought to wait till spring."

Myrtis was silent. Her chin leaning on her hand, she looked down at the brook, afraid to meet the big boy's eyes.

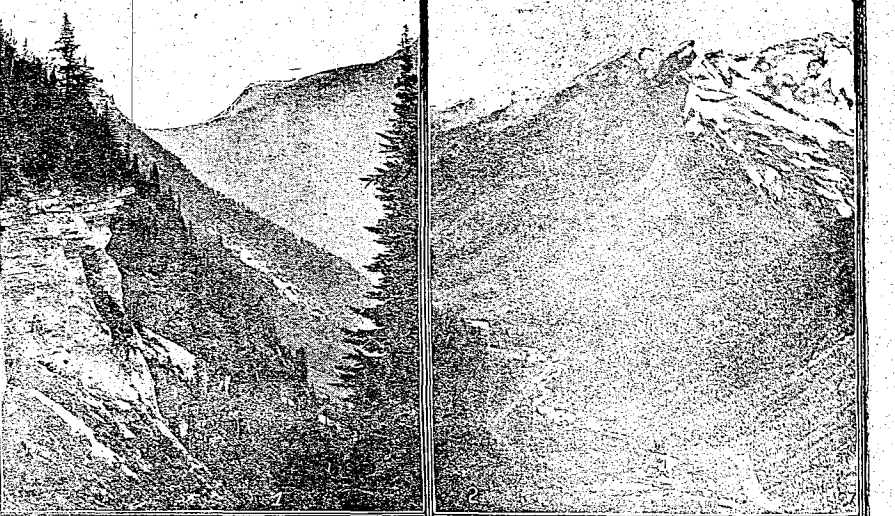

"It's natural for you to stay here," he went on. "The place will be mine as soon as you leave. You'll love you. You can teach this winter if you want to, but the minute you get tired, Myrtis, I want you to quit, and I've got mother's wedding ring she gave when she died, and told me some day it would be the girl I love best. Myrtis, can't you say anything at all to me?"

She met his eyes with tear filled ones, and held out her hands to him, whispering: "I'm so glad, Ben."

But there is yet another sight. Yonder is a cabin with a guide in charge who will conduct you through Canada's cavern world, only discovered within recent years. Here one may scramble and scramble through wild underground streets, where the Cougar river has chiselled out its mysterious channels and where the imprisoned river is still at its task of cave-making as it has been for a trifle of forty thousand years.

The roar of the imprisoned stream, ever leaping from boulder to boulder, is awesomely deafening, for the mountain holds within its honeycombed arteries a series of Niagara's cavern rooms of large dimensions and small.

You may walk down the Steps of Time, visit the Witches Dancing Hall and the Broken, gaze upon the Bridal Chamber, shrink back from the Inferno and feel small in the Judgment Hall. Walls of limestone look like the shifting scenes of a theatre, gothic arches and windows pierce the upper walls, fluted columns and exquisite draperies mark nature's imitations.

In this vast chamber of eternal night one may hear the sepulchral notes of far away deeper torrents; or later, stand on their brink—with sound that drowns the loudest effort of the human voice.

A glint of daylight, through a cave roof told us we were near the outer crust of mother earth, and a last scramble over a mass of boulders brought us out of the black world into the sunlight, one which looked more beautiful than ever. F. Y.

Rule Britannia

THE BRITISH AND COMMONWEALTH FAIR FOR RESERVATION, LONDON. LONDON, Aug. 8.—Here is an unpublished glimpse of the "Julian" battle, or rather a glimpse of the sequel. For scene, imagine an empty waste of water in the "gray" of the summer twilight. Enter from the east a war-bearing an inordinate number of British blue-jackets "padding" themselves as a while an hour in the direction of England. Enter a "red" loaded with Germans, laboriously travelling in the opposite direction. The "rats" slowly approach. The British blue-jackets debate what to do. They have had a "clasp knife" amongst them, the Germans outnumber them, and attack is ruled out. They sit up and "slap" "Rule Britannia!" "The Germans" at once reply feelingly with the "Hymn of Hate." Each crew gives three cheers, and resumes its journey in the general direction of England. Germany, as the case may be.

August Rod and Gun

Bonnycastle Dale gives some advice on how not to paddle in his article, "A Light Canoe will build Me!" in the August issue of "The Canadian" and also some pointers on how to paddle with the least danger of an upset.

"Temagami Men" by R. F. Fraser is a tribute to the guides of Temagami than whom there are "no finer" guides of men. "Hes. Snow" contributes "Little Incident" involving "Big" McIntyre, P. V. Williams, "Killer" Kirkik, the well known New Brunswick guide, Avery Morehouse, a British officer with a 52 inch girth, "Secured before breakfast." B. C. Thibault gives some experience in "Sledging" and various other stories and articles of equal interest preceded the regular departments which are replete as usual with information for the lover of gun, rod and dog. W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont. are the publishers of this representative Canadian sportsman's magazine.

BEAR RIVER, N. S.

IMPORTANCE OF FRUIT INDUSTRY

(1) Gaspeaux Valley, King's Co.
(2) Starr's Point, King's Co., N.S.
(3) Packing Room at Hillcrest, N.S.

IT is said $10,000,000 has been invested in Canadian fruit production so that this is one of our great national industries. In a year of average production 15,000,000 bushels of Canadian apples are marketed, of which Ontario alone ships on an average 1,300 car-loads into the prairie provinces.

Most famous of all orchard areas is the Annapolis Valley in Nova Scotia nine miles wide and eighty miles long. With the Dominion Atlantic Railway running through the valley the growers have ideal packing and shipping facilities. 50 p.c. of the crop being handled co-operatively by one central association. Plums and pears are also grown here on a commercial scale.

Ontario is the proud possessor of the original McIntosh Red Tree which still stands at Dundas. Large apple orchard districts are found (1) Along the lakeshore from the C.P.R. (2) West of Toronto bordering on Lake Erie and Lake Huron. (3) In the Georgian Bay District, and (4) in the Niagara Peninsula, which also produces 85 p.c. of the grape crop and at least 75 p.c. of the Ontario peach crop. Plums and pears are grown wherever apples are produced in Ontario.

British Columbia has developed its fruit industry during quite recent years, the number of fruit trees increasing from 650,000 in 1901 to approximately 2,000,000 in 1913; and the production of apples from 210,000 bushels in 1910 to 737,750 bushels in 1913. The principal fruit-producing section of the Province is the Okanagan Valley, where fruit is packed and marketed largely in co-operative way, similar to that in vogue in Nova Scotia. There is also a large apple section in the Kootenay Lake District and on the Lower Mainland. Pears and plums are also grown very successfully in these sections of the province.

Already mentioned, and practices have been planted quite extensively in the southern part of the Okanagan Valley. Between 1,250,000 and 1,500,000 barrels of Canadian apples are consumed outside of Canada every year, and most of these in Great Britain. The growers of Nova Scotia and Ontario cater especially to the Old Country market, though some British Columbia fruit also reaches it.

ACCOUNTS SQUARED

This is a double tale of piracy on the high seas. It begins early in the day. There was a lumpy sea and a rumbling north westerly wind. The sun on watch was keeping a bright look out, for nowadays it behooves every ship to go sailing through the waters of the North Sea.

One kittiwake had her gullet full of fish, and the robbers straightway singled her out for attack. Turn and twist as she would, they stuck to her on either flank, burying her to make her drop the breakfast that they coveted. The kittiwake, hard pressed, swooped over the Susan's funnel, and through the trail of greasy smoke that hung behind her. The skua, keen as greyhound, were none the less, wary fowl.

They checked abruptly, mistaking the smoke curtain, and suspicious of man's neighborhood. After hawking round for a few moments they withdrew, buffed, in search of other prey.

It was all over quickly and before their black sword wings had dashed out of sight the man on watch had returned to his scrutiny of the horizon. But in the thump of the engines, and in the streak of billowing smoke, the kittiwake, hitherward recognized a safe corner. They swung astern and followed the ship, rising and falling like shuttlecocks as they inspected the foam thrashed up by the propeller, in search of jotson from the galley, and talked together in high contentment.

Since daybreak a sinister blur had softened the eastern horizon, and then at eight bells, driven by a little idle wind, the fog came down thick and dark. The Susan blared a warning horn, and the whistler might turn to the black night that lay beyond her bows, and then was straightway enveloped. As the engine room bell rang for "half" she slowed down, as it seemed, willing, like a tired horse, and rolled a little to the starboard. She felt her way noisily into the fog.

"That'll let 'em know a bit where we are, right enough," grumbled one of the deck hands, "but I'd like to know a bit where they are before we go advertising ourselves in this way."

"May as well be sunk by the Germans as broke up by one of our own," said his mate.

"That's the only craft there is here about," said the first speaker, peering into the blackness. "They're coming in to the kittiwakes as they swing alongside on a leisurely patrol."

All afternoon the fog enclosed the ship, slipping past like an endless succession of soft white curtains that were drawn backwards and forwards and backwards again. Sometimes the Susan tooted her whereabouts. More often she lay silent, and from the bridge the skipper looked vainly and anxiously for a lifting of the mist which would show him the Northumbrian coast.

At four-bells the fog was thicker than ever, and presently the Susan lay to altogether with the water lip lapping along her dirty sides. There was a collar of mist about her bows, and the water towered together in black and counterblast of their spray like two fore-wandered animals lost in the dark. The fog had laid firm fingers on the waves, smoothing them into a great rolling swell. The ship topped them and wallowing there for a moment like a hogged horse before climbing up the next slope. The kittiwakes hovered around for a while, and then, seeing that there was little doing, they slipped away among the mist wreaths to leeward.

The captain shivered a little and turned up the collar of his coat. He wished that they were inside the Tynce. The damp was depressing, and he wished that he knew that there was a chance that the underwriters might reckon at twenty or fifty or five hundred to one—but still a chance—that from minute to minute one of the rollers that were crashing by might carry with it death crashing against the ship and send her gurgling down to the cod fish. Long ravellid skeins of fog drove past like troops and battalions of white armed, white skirted water nixies that rounded the twilight. Even the gulls had disappeared, though if the captain's ears had not been muffled in his greatcoat he might have heard them calling close at hand.

Then, as suddenly as it closed, the fog lifted a little, and with a sigh of relief the skipper rang for "half speed ahead," and the screw began to churn furiously through the swell. There was a sudden outcry to starboard. The kittiwakes were rising and falling, just as they swoop and splash over the heaving shoals of the Outer Islands. Their voices were loud with surprise and curious announcement of something that lay beneath them in the deep. So great was their sudden clamour that for a moment it caught the captain's attention. Then all at once, as if galvanised, his hand jerked the engine room bell to stop. The ship halted, and the skipper stepped to the man at the wheel. Behind the cascade of thin grey cylinders above the water, the steering gear hissed and rumbled as the Susan swung round, and she shuddered under the sudden thrust of the propeller. Then all at once the men, staring back, each with a pulse in his throat, saw a faint white as if a shark had slipped quietly under her stern. There was a gasp that seemed to come not only from human throats, but from the ship herself as she heaved over a wave, then the swirl passed silently to port. Missing its mark by an ox's length, the unseen death had stolen by. The next minute she coasted down into the trough. There was a swirl on the surface, and a thin circle of foam as if some leviathan had stirred the water in his fight. That and nothing more except a grating shudder as if steel met steel, and conquered it. Then the fog surged round again, but

(1) Trail to Yoho Valley. (2) C.P.R. Station and Hotel at Glacier. (3) The Trail to the Illecillewaet Glacier. (4) A Mountain Trail.

CANADA is a land of trails. Trails over mountains and hills, across prairies and through forests, by the banks of rivers, bays and across country to the heart of the continent. By red men, by white men, and by nature.

But the mountain trails are the most alluring of them all, and hitting trails is the rarest of sport in Rockies or Selkirk, all the way from the Kananaskis Pass on the east to the Yale gateway on the west.

The trail traveller feels the charm of the trail as soon as it is hit. It keeps you guessing where it is a hit-or-miss highway, where you require the aid of a guide to tell the way by the alights of signs—a few times broken here, the mould of a horse's foot there, a blurred tree over-of a few yards that will throw you off the scent if you don't look out. Sometimes the trail is the way of a mountain stream, but just where you should emerge on the other side is a mystery. A hard, too, will play tricks on you, for it carries few traces of other trails.

Hundreds of miles of excellent trails have been made in the Canadian mountain ranges by the Canadian Pacific Railway and the National Parks department of the Canadian Government. Most of them are made for pay use, and mounted on one of these sure-footed little heathens of the west, you can be an explorer of the wilds and revel in the experience.

Every mile of the journey is a word of varying charm, every turn of the trail reveals new wonders. Many trail trips are now made in rept several days of last week with his sister, Mrs. W. B. Snow, of this place. Mr. Herbert L. Woodman, of Digby, with a party of friends, left for the Yukon, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Woodman, a few days ago.

Mr. Baird Cook, son of Arthur and daughter Helen, of Lynn, who are summering at Bear River, spent several days last week in this place as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Snow.

Miss Pringle McKee and little daughter Maxine, of Yarmouth, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Corbett. She is accompanied by her friend, Miss Nina Powell, of Yarmouth.

Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Archibald and family, of Wolfville, and Miss Mary Freeman, of Halifax, who are spending the summer at their cottage at Deep Brook were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Snow.

THE FLUME AT BROOKS

(1) Where C.P.R. crosses the Brooks Aqueduct.
(2) The Aqueduct.
(3) The interior of the Aqueduct.

THE Basano Dam is the most important engineering work in the Eastern Section of the Canadian Pacific Irrigation Block, but it is not the only important feature by any means. Next to it in importance comes the Brooks Aqueduct. The main irrigation canal, which is fed from the lake created by the Basano Dam, runs in an easterly direction for about five miles and then divides into two branches, one going north and the other east. The east branch, after having fed several smaller branches, discharges the bulk of its water into the Lake Newell reservoir which has been artificially formed in a depression in the hills, is nine miles long by four wide, has a storage capacity of over 50,000,000 gallons, and is designed to be filled during the non-irrigation season. Just east of the Lake Newell reservoir is a deep valley about 3 miles wide and it is for the purpose of crossing it that the Brooks Aqueduct was constructed consisting of a reinforced concrete flume 10,480 feet long with a curved cross section some 23 feet wide at the top and nearly 9 feet deep from full-flow water level at the top to the centre of the curve at bottom. It has a discharge capacity of 900 cubic feet per second, the eastern end being 4.85 feet lower than the western end so as to create a grade for the water flow, and it carries water for the irrigation of 125,000 acres situated in the Bantry Hills. The flume, the walls of which are five inches thick, is supported by a reinforced concrete base made up of two rows of columns with a maximum height of 60 feet, but lower in places according to the contour of the valley. About three miles east of the town of Brooks, Alberta, the line of the aqueduct is crossed by the Canadian Pacific Ry. and the track being at such an elevation that it was impossible to carry the flume over it, it was necessary to build a siphon under the track. At the widest side of the track this curved form of the flume is continued "round" until a completely circular pipe is made, which dips at an angle of about 45 degrees and enters the ground, passing under the hills at a slight depth for a distance of about 50 feet when it rises again to the original level.

MURDER NEAR DIGBY

Charles Robert, of Yarmouth. Shoots Wife at Westville.

HE BOUGHT A REVOLVER IN YARMOUTH AND CAME TO DIGBY TO DO THE DEED—NOW IN DIGBY JAIL AWAITING TRIAL AT SUPREME COURT.

Digby has another murder case. There is, however, but little excitement as no mystery surrounds it. From the evidence brought out at the coroner's inquest and at the preliminary examination it appears that Charles Robert, colored, a freeman on the steamer Prince George, residing between Boston and Yarmouth, came up on Saturday's Bluenose, hired an auto, and was driven to the house of "Luka" Francis, at Westville, a village near Digby, where his wife, also colored, had been staying since Wednesday. There was any warning, it is alleged, he drew a 33 calibre revolver and shot her through the shoulder, killing her almost instantly. He then came out to the road and returned to Digby in the same auto.

At the Post Office he gave himself up to Chief of Police Peck, at the same time handing him the revolver. He said:

"She has fooled me long enough, broke up my home, sold my stuff, and I made up my mind she would never do again. I have fixed her, I think, and I am willing to take the consequences."

The affair took place at about 11.30. An inquest was held Saturday afternoon before Coroner Daley at which the following verdict was returned:

We, the jury, empaneled in the county of Digby, do hereby find that the death of Kitty Robert, colored, wife of Charles Robert, colored, was caused by a gunshot wound inflicted by her husband, Charles Robert, colored, on the 12th day of August, A. D. 1916, at Westville, Digby Co., N. S.

Charles Robert and Kitty Keeland were married in Acadia, Yarmouth county, Oct. 26, 1910, by the Rev. Benj. Hill, a Methodist clergyman, now stationed in Bermuda. Both Robert and his wife are natives of Yarmouth county, Robert of Lower Salmon River and his wife of Hardcastle. Their last home was on the north side of Starr's Road.

At the time of the shooting in Westville there was only one woman in the house besides the victim of the tragedy, and that was Kate Francis, wife of Luka Francis. The house is a little distance from the road which probably accounts for the auto driver not knowing that a murder had been committed.

The preliminary examination was held in Digby Tuesday afternoon before Stipendiary Magistrate Taylor, the examination being conducted by Crown Prosecutor H. L. Dennison, K. G.

Robert was committed for trial on the charge of murder. He was taken to the Yarmouth House of Correction on Friday morning. There were no new elements brought out during the examination. The auto was driven by a Weir, an employee at Gavel's. The body of the murdered woman was sent to Yarmouth Monday afternoon, in charge of relatives of the deceased.

Tuesday's Yarmouth Herald contains the following: "Charles Robert, colored, employed on the steamer Prince George as a freeman, upon his arrival in Yarmouth on Friday morning went to his home on the north side of Starr's Road, and finding it vacant, with a portion of the furniture missing, went to the house of Luka Francis, a colored man, who lives near the house of Luka Francis, and there he shot and killed his wife, Kitty Robert, colored, who was staying there."

NOVA SCOTIA GUIDES.

Sports at Yarmouth Were a Big Success.

ALL THE EVENTS WERE WELL FILLED AND KEENLY CONTESTED—THE MEETING WAS ONE OF THE MOST SUCCESSFUL EVER HELD.

YARMOUTH, N. S., August 12.—A heavy rainstorm interfered on Friday with the enjoyment and comfort of the spectators and contestants at the Nova Scotia Guides' meet, events of which have been staged for the last two days at Lakeside Park. However, the rain did not dampen the ardor of these lovers of the big outdoors, and in every event the best of feeling prevailed, demonstrating that whether out on the trail or at their annual meet the boys of the "Camp and Caravan" are all true fellows who get on well under perfect weather conditions, and a very large crowd was on hand to see the events. These, with the following special attractions, were very interesting, and from all sides were heard words of praise for Messrs. Roy Kelly, H. Cary and the numerous officials of the guides' association executive.

A children's pageant, "The Shepherd Boy's Dream," in 150 lines, boys and girls taking part, all nicely dressed and representing different characters of fairy lore, was a most interesting feature, and will not soon be forgotten. This was under the direction of the Ladies' Committee, and received well merited applause.

Another feature was a one hundred yard sprint shooting match between a team of amateurs, W. "Nick" Boynton, of Newburg, Florida, and Sheriff H. A. E. Smith, of Digby, and two professionals, John S. Boas, of the Dominion Cartridge Co., Montreal, and J. J. McNeil, of the Dominion Cartridge Co., St. John. The pros were victorious in this event, but the amateurs were breaking them up in the style and every man had to shoot his best.

Another special feature was the aquatic exhibition given by the boys of Messrs. Camp. These lads from across the border were very at home in the water and their diving and swimming were of a high order.

One of the most interesting events given was the shooting of a rifle and shot gun shooting up on by John S. Boas, of the Dominion Cartridge Co., Montreal, and J. J. Another special feature was the aquatic exhibition given by the boys of Messrs. Camp. These lads from across the border were very at home in the water and their diving and swimming were of a high order.

One of the most interesting events given was the shooting of a rifle and shot gun shooting up on by John S. Boas, of the Dominion Cartridge Co., Montreal, and J. J. McNeil, of the Dominion Cartridge Co., St. John. The pros were victorious in this event, but the amateurs were breaking them up in the style and every man had to shoot his best.

NOVA SCOTIA GUIDES.

Sports at Yarmouth Were a Big Success.

ALL THE EVENTS WERE WELL FILLED AND KEENLY CONTESTED—THE MEETING WAS ONE OF THE MOST SUCCESSFUL EVER HELD.

YARMOUTH, N. S., August 12.—A heavy rainstorm interfered on Friday with the enjoyment and comfort of the spectators and contestants at the Nova Scotia Guides' meet, events of which have been staged for the last two days at Lakeside Park. However, the rain did not dampen the ardor of these lovers of the big outdoors, and in every event the best of feeling prevailed, demonstrating that whether out on the trail or at their annual meet the boys of the "Camp and Caravan" are all true fellows who get on well under perfect weather conditions, and a very large crowd was on hand to see the events. These, with the following special attractions, were very interesting, and from all sides were heard words of praise for Messrs. Roy Kelly, H. Cary and the numerous officials of the guides' association executive.

A children's pageant, "The Shepherd Boy's Dream," in 150 lines, boys and girls taking part, all nicely dressed and representing different characters of fairy lore, was a most interesting feature, and will not soon be forgotten. This was under the direction of the Ladies' Committee, and received well merited applause.

Another feature was a one hundred yard sprint shooting match between a team of amateurs, W. "Nick" Boynton, of Newburg, Florida, and Sheriff H. A. E. Smith, of Digby, and two professionals, John S. Boas, of the Dominion Cartridge Co., Montreal, and J. J. McNeil, of the Dominion Cartridge Co., St. John. The pros were victorious in this event, but the amateurs were breaking them up in the style and every man had to shoot his best.

MUCH-TRAVELLED SERGEANT OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

Has Been Through Many Campaigns.
Both Military and Naval.

LIVED AMONG ESKIMOS, AND NOW SERVES
SPICE OF ADVENTURE IN FIGHT AGAINST HCN.

Sergeant Jack Bliss, American citizen of Nome (Alaska), San Francisco (Cal.), Siberia, New York, Cuba, Mexico and the South Atlantic, has gone to Montreal to do some recruiting for the 107th Battalion, American Legion, in Digby, Nova Scotia, where the battalion had its headquarters, where they decided it would be a good idea to send home a sample of the type of American the battalion is looking for, so Sergeant Bliss is the man they have chosen.

Deserting a whaler, at an Eskimo trading village on the Siberian coast two years ago, Sergeant Bliss had many adventures before reaching Montreal in the King's uniform. Nine years in the U. S. army and two in the U. S. navy had made him fit to tackle most contingencies, and he got out of every scrape very nicely. His desertion from the whaler was not a very bad thing to do. He had been promised so much a month and a share of the catch. The owner had forgotten to pay him so much a month and the catch was still up to the point when the whaler reached Siberia, after cruising up the Behring Straits. "I was thirteen months with the Eskimos up there," he said, telling his story. "Not a bad thirteen months, either."

"I learned a lot about cooking: I had been a cook before, in San Francisco, but I had never cooked walrus steaks, and I didn't know how dog tasted. I know these things now, and let me tell you there's nothing I like better than fried walrus liver. I lived with the Eskimos all those thirteen months and learned the language. I also learned to smoke bad tobacco that I had to walk sixty miles to get."

"One day I took it into my head that Siberia was no place for a young man with ambition, so I left with an Eskimo family in a twenty-four foot boat they called an Oonook, made of skins and so light that the Eskimos loaded all their belongings on her, everything except the igloo. We ran into a storm and had to put into Diomed Island, a Russian station. When the storm was over, we got across to Cape Prince of Wales, in Alaska."

"From Cape Prince of Wales we towed down the coast to Cape York, with the dogs on the tow line. At Cape York I gave the Eskimos some skins—money was no use to them—and I left them and started on the trail to Nome. I was all alone."

"At Nome I heard about the war and saw a chance of some real adventure. I stuck around until I had made some money by trading, and then I took a steamboat to Vancouver. At Vancouver I enlisted in the 107th Battalion, Toronto. They shipped me down to Toronto pretty soon, and then I transferred to the 237th."

A TEXAS RANGER

Just as Sergeant Bliss was finishing his story a man walked into the recruiting office and announced that he wanted to know all about the American Legion. He thought he might join. He had just come from Columbus, Texas, he said.

"Did you know Jimmy Smith down here?"

The newcomer did know Jimmy Smith. He also knew a lot of people Sergeant Bliss knew, and he discussed a great length the faulty points in General Pershing's strategy. They also discussed the respective merits of the Lewis, the Colt, the Maxim Vickers, and the Nordenfolt machine guns, and the difference between fighting with rifles and fighting with machine guns.

"Think a crack at the bandits on myself," said Bliss. I was fighting for Huerta then, because there didn't seem anything else to do at the time. I was showing them how to use a machine gun, and getting $3 a day for it. The rebels captured my machine gun section and locked us up in a wooden jail and invited us to be principals in a little shooting party in the morning. We remembered another engagement across the United States border, took a bar out of the jail window and hit the sentry over the head with it. The Mexican government owes me several weeks' back pay to this day."

Then the would-be recruit started telling stories about the Sixteenth, Tenth, and Aldershot, and South Africa, and India, and New Zealand, and the Barbary coast. Talking of Australia, reminded Bliss of the South Pacific, and he grew reminiscent about the United States navy. It appeared Bliss had had rather a quiet, uneventful time in the United States navy, and was almost ashamed to take his wages.

Then Bliss talked about the Philipines, and Manila Bay, and the price of a meal in El Paso in comparison to the price of a meal in Montreal. "It would be nice if we could have a little talk," suggested the recruit at this stage.

"I think it would," said Bliss. "Let's talk about Europe. This Berlin place looks good to me."

"I FEEL LIKE A NEW BEING"

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Brought The Joy Of Health After Two Years' Suffering

MADAM LAPLANTE
35 St. Rose St., Montreal, April 4th.

"For over two years I was sick and miserable. I suffered from constant headaches, and had palpitation of the heart so badly that I feared I would die. There seemed to be a lump in my stomach and the constipation was dreadful. I suffered from Pain in the Back and Kidney Disease."

I was treated by a physician for a year and a half and he did me no good at all. I tried "Fruit-a-tives" as a last resort. After using three boxes, I was greatly improved and twelve boxes made me well. Now I can work all day and there are no headaches, no palpitation, no heart trouble, no constipation, no Pain in the Kidney, and I feel like a new being—and it was "Fruit-a-tives" that gave me back my health."

REVELSTOKE and its BEAUTIES

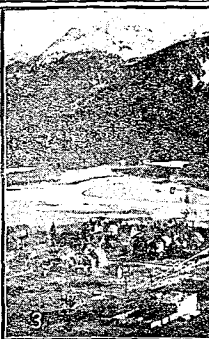

- (1) Alfred Lake, Mt. Revelstoke Park, B.C.
- (2) Silver Tip Falls, on Eight Mile Creek, eight miles north of Revelstoke.
- (3) Revelstoke, B.C., in Summer, showing Snow-Capped Mt. Begbie.

REVELSTOKE is situated on the Canadian Pacific Railway about half way between Kamloops and Vancouver. It is a town of about 4,500 people, having altogether nine hotels. The hotel and hotel house the "Revelstoke" situated right at the Depot. Revelstoke is most picturesquely situated in the Valley of the Columbia River, and practically surrounded by mountains. Mount Begbie is always on increasing sight, and the glacier on Mount Begbie can always be seen from Revelstoke. The view from the hotel on a summer evening is magnificent. There are two trips from this place which are absolutely unique in the whole Canadian Pacific Rockies. One trip is nine miles north of Revelstoke, along the Columbia River to Silver Tip Falls, through the famous Columbia Canyon, which for scenic beauty and thrill is unsurpassed on the American Continent; and the other is up Mount Revelstoke. The Dominion Government is now building an automobile road from Revelstoke to the top of this mountain, and has recently expended $200,000.00 on this road, which is now on miles up the mountain. The road zig-zags up the mountain, having an excellent grade, a high-powered automobile being able to go up this road on high gear. Tourists who have made this trip as far as the road is completed, claim that there is no trip on the American continent that can compare with it. Should tourists be desirous, arrangements can be made to have saddle horses awaiting them at the end of the automobile road, so that they can continue to the top of Mount Revelstoke where the most beautiful natural park is situated.

In the months of July and August, this park is a most brilliant panorama of color, being covered with the most beautiful of wild flowers, which give the appearance of the whole mountain top being one glorious mass of red, yellow, and green. In the centre of which are Lakes Eva, Mullan, and Prospect, the background being the famous Revelstoke glacier. The lakes are about five miles from the end of the automobile road.

Over Seas' In Receives War Office Recognition

The British War Office has just given official recognition to the work of the Over Seas Club, which since the commencement of the war, has presented the Government with 72 aeroplanes and biplanes, costing from $7,500 to $11,500 each. The money for these machines which have been placed at the disposal of the Royal Flying Corps, has all been raised through the instrumentality of members of this Over Seas Club; and several of machines have been sent to the front and donated to Canada. We have just received from Francis R. Jones, the Organizing Secretary in Canada, whose office is in the Windsor Hotel at Montreal, copies of the above mentioned official recognition which has been granted to the Club, as follows:

"Office of the Director-General of Voluntary Organizations,
Scotland House, New Scotland Yard, S. W., 20th June, 1916.
"DEAR MR. JONES: May I thank you again for the great work which the Over-Seas Club has done in raising money for such well appreciated benefits on our troops. The director-general of Voluntary Organizations, I am able to appreciate even more clearly than others the very satisfactory results of your patriotic labors.
"Wishing your organization the continued success which it so well merits.
"Believe me, yours sincerely,
"Frederic W. C. Jones."

German Account for Losses.

BERLIN, Aug. 20, 540 p. m.—Following is the announcement today: "North of the Somme the fighting has gradually decreased in intensity. Near Ouliers hand to hand fighting continued until evening. Northwest of Poitiers and on both sides of Fourneaux Wood isolated British attacks were repulsed.
"Information is now at hand that at least eight British and four French divisions (about 300,000 men) took part in the attack of Friday.
"On the right bank of the Meuse (Verden front) the enemy yesterday evening repeated his attacks in the Thimont Fleury sector and again penetrated the village of Fleury. Elsewhere he was repulsed. North-west of Thimont Wood and in Chapelle Wood, the enemy made attacks with hand grenades which were unsuccessful.
"British patrols were repulsed near Fromelles and northwest of Ligny, Near Leintury and took some prisoners."

Would Give No Free Ad.

They were getting up a charity concert in the small provincial town, and the committee determined to work hard to make a great success of it. The local magistrate and tradesmen were called on, and to one of the latter, a coal merchant, whose native place was somewhere in the north, an appeal was duly made. "A'm very sorry," was the coal merchant's reply to one of the committee, "but A've stopped subscribin' tae a' these things." "Well, you'll give us an order for an advertisement on the programme," suggested the caller. The coal merchant shook his head. Then a sudden inspiration seized him. "A tell ye what A'll do though," he said. "A'll get my dochter tae sing for ye." "Right you are," said the other. "What will I put her down for?" "Keep the Home Fires Burning." "Can't be done," declared the concert man emphatically, folding up his papers. "If you won't subscribe I'll take jolly good care you get no free advertisement on our programme."

Spotted

"Bill had charge of the animal tent," said the old circus man, "and among his pets was a leopard, the only one we had with the show, and quite enough too. The leopard gave Bill more trouble than all the rest of the menagerie put together. It was certainly an ugly brute.
"Well, one day when we were resting downstate, I had come up to town to arrange about some advance business. I was eating my dinner in the hotel when a telegram was handed to me. It was from Bill, and read: 'The leopard has escaped. Frowning about town. What shall I do?'
"That was just like Bill. He had to have explicit directions, even in an emergency like this. He didn't want to make a mistake.
"I immediately wired back to Bill: 'Shoot him on the spot.' I didn't think any more about it until a couple of hours later, when I received another telegram from conscientious careful Bill, asking, 'Which spot?'"

British "Zepp-Ins" Failed

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The Daily Express features an article by its naval expert on Our New Zeppelins, which says: "During the past week I have watched the great British airship at work and, although I am unable to make practical comparisons with the German Zeppelins, our new airship certainly seems marvellously rigid and beautifully designed. Mariners who have made close observations of German dirigibles consider our new airships capable of being handled more readily, of finer model and altogether less cumbersome than the German type. The British airships, moreover, attain an amazingly high speed."

He Won

A scottish minister once noticed a crowd of archers clustered around a dog of doubtful pedigree. "What are you doing, my little boys?" he asked with fatherly interest. "Swapping lies volunteered one of the boys. 'The fellow that tells the biggest one gets the pup.'" "Shocking!" exclaimed the minister. "Why when I was your age I never thought of telling an untruth." "You win," chorused the archer. "The dog's yours, mister."

THE ISLAND OF WONDERLAND

- (1) James Bay Embankment and C.P.R. Hotel, Victoria, B.C.
- (2) On the Way to Cameron Lake, Vancouver Island.
- (3) Fishing on Cowichan River, Vancouver Island.

EVERY year a larger and ever increasing number of motorists, and those who wish to spend their vacations in an entire change of environment, make their way to the Island of Vancouver—the gateway to which is Victoria, the capital city of British Columbia—the best known tourist resort in the Pacific Northwest. It is entirely different from any other territory known to automobile travel. True, it is in Canada, and reached by the Canadian Pacific via road and magnificent appointed steamers, but it is as British as if it were one of the British Isles. This is realized immediately one lands from the steamer in Victoria, and by the way this landing is interesting and affords an excellent example of the courtesy of Canadian customs officials, and the extreme ease with its automobilists, who are residents of the United States, can enter into this, to them, foreign country.

But to return to one's first impressions upon leaving the steamer at Victoria. As the steamer glides to her berth through the unique inner harbor, considered one of the most picturesque in the world, there immediately looms up on the right, the magnificent Parliament building, the fish Columbia—one of the architectural features of Canada. They are situated overlooking the harbor, facing James Bay embankment and the City of Victoria.

The six-horse tally-hos and the three-passenger and smaller sight-seeing cars lined up on the side streets, all competing for business in a vigorous, and somewhat unfamiliar manner, is another indication that we have within a short space of five hours, been transported into a new and invigorating environment. The City of Victoria is the starting point of the Island highway, which brings the automobile in close touch with the main portion of Vancouver Island, and all its summer and fishing resorts; its quaint villages, enterprising townships, agricultural settlements, wonderful forests reached by tributary highways, and the commencement of the Canadian highway, the terminus of which is at Alberni.

It is an easy matter to spend a week in the City of Victoria, and to take an entirely separate and distinct, and at the same time most interesting tour, every day. In fact, during the past summer, enthusiastic motorists from California, Utah, Washington, Oregon, and even Eastern Canada spent from two to five weeks in this city and island, and left with the greatest possible regret.

Mr. Frederick Wagner, in the Seattle Times, thus describes his first visit to Victoria and the island: "Picturesque and rugged in its matchless beauty of unlimited variety, wealthy in magnificent driveways and offering unsurpassed hotel accommodations, with lavish hospitality ever conspicuously present, that is Vancouver Island, in the Canadian province of British Columbia, paradise for motorists and nature lovers, and destined to rank as one of the world's greatest touring fields."

ing for this scenic wonderland, and the people of Vancouver Island have capitalized it by constructing a system of splendid highways that is dotted with attractive hotels where excellent accommodations are to be obtained. And they have supplemented this work by a display of genuine hospitality that is justly entitled to be classed as a valuable asset in the exploitation of their country.

"The chain of mountains that penetrate Vancouver Island and the beautiful valleys, with their numerous streams, lakes and luxuriant vegetation, combine to set before the eyes of the traveler a variety of scenic splendor that beggars description."

"So where you will on Vancouver Island and you will find scenery that causes you to marvel at the lavishness of nature."

"The coastline of the island is very beautiful, being indented with deep bays and fiords. The western coast differs somewhat from the eastern coastline, for on the ocean side a number of canals reach far inland, as it is to the minor and the Humboldt to get his product to market with ease; while on the other side of the island there are many pleasant bays and several beaches, where summer homes and resorts are to be found."

A WORTH WHILE HOLIDAY

(1) View Near Lake Louise.
(2) An interesting Bit of Rock-Work.
(3) Panoramic View of Lake Louise and its Chateaux.
(4) Lake Oesee and Mt. Hungabee.

At Lake Louise, we are disappointed in our hands to swing on to the moving steps and waved hats and handkerchiefs to our friends as our west-bound train slowly pulled out of the station at Calgary, that wide-awake, progressive, western city, which pulsates with the life of representatives from almost all nations of the globe.

We were a happy party of holiday-makers with two glorious care-free months ahead of us, which we had decided to spend at the most interesting points along that section of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which lies between Calgary and Victoria. As the train sped along following the river-valley of the Bow, one could see the undulating prairie well-cultivated with prosperous ranchers until the town of Cochrane was reached, which is the beginning of the real foothills and pressed on to the eastern gateway of the Rockies—Banff.

Even since the Canadian Pacific Railway rails were laid in the early eighties, Banff has been the rendezvous for people from almost every corner of the civilized globe. Here a tourist may meet an Australian politician, an English lord, an American magnate or a Prussian Prince. The National Park, of which Banff is the hub, is the largest in the world and no part of the Canadian Rockies exhibits a greater variety of wonderful and sublime scenery and, because of the many good roads and bridge paths, nowhere are features of special interest so accessible. The magnificent Banff Springs Hotel, belonging to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, is situated about a mile south of the Station on an eminence between the Spray river and the beautiful Bow river falls. This hotel has every luxury and convenience and is most favorably placed for health, picturesque views and as a centre for the many sports indulged in—canoeing, boating, mountain-climbing, driving, riding, and golfing. Some of the most courageous of our party started from the town one night at midnight, and by "The Light of the Silver Moon" climbed to the observatory at the top of Sulphur mountain, a height of 8,000 feet. From here they saw the sun peep out from behind the impenetrable dark peaks to the East and touch summit after summit with gold and leave for a time the valleys "bathed in gloom." Far below, Lake Minnewanka could be seen for a short time dark and cold, then suddenly shining like silver; and the morning express, like a tiny serpent crept slowly into the station.

For the lover of nature in her primordial fastnesses and for the mountaineer, the Canadian Rockies, Solikirk and Cascade ranges are realms of untold delight in which may be placed most wonderful and unique experiences. To climb the last ledge and come out upon the very peak of things ten thousand feet in the air; to see a wilderness of snow-dusted peaks around you; myriads of lakes ranging in color from the deepest blue to palest green beneath you; to scramble down rocks again; to glide down glaciers; to be cleared into camp as the first party returning; and, last, to be welcomed as an active member of the Canadian Alpine Club is surely an experience worth having!

Upon reaching the Lake Louise Chateau, a distance of two and a half miles from the C.P.R. station, one almost thinks that some good fairy has transported him to fairyland. Through the windows can be seen as in a framed picture, an immense crescent-shaped river of ice, called Victoria Glacier, in front of which is the shining blue water of Lake Louise and, immediately in the foreground, the beautiful grounds of the Chateau. From here there is a bridge-path to Mirror Lake and a still further ascent to Lake Agnes. Each of these lakes are situated at the foot of the beautiful mountains like children in their mothers' arms. Between Lake Louise and the lake above, the trail is a steep climb and reduces the grade from 45 to 22, with an approximate cost of work of $1,500,000.

There were innumerable interesting spots as we went along, but we could not tarry at all of them. At Yoho we had the privilege of seeing Ned Stroud, the only one living of the first twenty white men, other than Hudson's Bay factors, who crossed the mountains fifty-five years ago—the rest having been killed shortly afterwards by Indians. For a day after passing the great divide, the Canadian Pacific Railway follows the river valley of the Columbia, which at first comes with his hand as he reaches down the village street, then of the stilted and more or less modern concrete all the while, and as the river widens and flows along in all its majesty, of his stately, old man, grizzled at the head, worked out life's problems well. This river and its immediate environment abound in scenic splendor. The snow-capped summits of the Rockies and Cascade ranges with their rivulets and glaciers, lakes as clear as crystal and confining mountains, and abundant in many of the trout and other fish, the dense forests and meadows extend from the larger group of mountains and invite the sportsman and mountain lover to the sportsman's camp. A motorist, who can easily reach a motorist's camp, can enjoy a view of a mountain city. Along its banks can be seen magnificent canyons, cliffs, which tower from dizzy heights and are clad with verdure from base to summit, deep and shady canyons and gorges. Here it is smooth and untroubled with no perceptible motion. A little farther along and it is still waving, conflict to the barriers to its uninterrupted flow. It rushes to the partly submerged rocks in the distance, away in foam. It is ceaseless in its attack, unrelenting in its endeavors and irresistible in the last.

Seventy miles east from Vancouver, on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and picturesque spot situated at the foot of the beautiful Harrison Lake, a delightful drive of four or five miles from the station of Asulkan, see the famous Harrison Hot Field. One sees a wonderful bit of mountain engineering. The track forms the figure-eight in a tunnel and reduces the grade from 45 to 22, with an approximate cost of work of $1,500,000.

Defies the Frost King

King Winter is armed with countless millions of ice-hard snow-crystals, driven by the full force of winter winds; his destructive work is aided by rapid changes in temperature, which freeze tiny particles of water in the pores of unprotected woodwork, tearing the wood fibres apart as freezing water splits a wrought-iron pipe. In the course of a long Canadian winter he can cause irreparable damage to an unprotected silo, barn or home. He attacks in vain, however, the building protected with

B-H "ENGLISH" PAINT

The pure white lead (70%) and pure white zinc (30%) which it contains, serve as a thin but effective metallic armor-plate, defying all the forces of natural decay for many years.

The superiority of B-H "English" Paint is due both to the purity of its ingredients and to our special methods of manufacture. These produce a paint, which on account of its smoothness and marvellous fineness, spreads easily and penetrates far into the fibres of the wood.

Apples For the American Market

ANNAPOLIS VALLEY FRUIT IS BEING BOOMED IN THE UNITED STATES.

[From the Yarmouth Times]
The Times recently published an address delivered by F. G. J. Comeau, General Freight Agent of the D. A. Railway, before the United Fruit Companies of Nova Scotia. This organization is entirely a Nova Scotia Company. Its membership includes 4000 of the most progressive fruit growers of the famous Annapolis Valley. It is, as its name implies, a co-operative company comprised of 43 subsidiary fruit companies under one management, thereby enabling the dealer and consumer to get the best from the fruit lands of Nova Scotia at the minimum cost. Mr. MacMahon, the general manager of this company, accompanied by F. G. J. Comeau, of the D. A. R., proceeded to Boston and New York as guests of the United Fruit Company and Yarmouth S. S. Company. At Boston these gentlemen were met by John F. Masters, of the latter company. Large dealers in fruit, especially in apples, were visited and it was found that there is a large place for Nova Scotia apples in the American fruit markets. The way has been prepared in the New England and other markets for the placing of shipments from Nova Scotia. A list containing the names of 13,000 residents of New England and who are natives or former residents of the Maritime Provinces, has been obtained. Circulars and letters are being sent to them telling them of the new scheme to boom Annapolis Valley apples, and requesting them to assist in the establishment of a New England market by purchasing and booming the produce by others of Nova Scotia fruit. The Yarmouth route makes the shipment of farm products from Maritime ports to Boston quick and easy, and there is no doubt that a tremendous business will be done over this route in the near future. Everything possible is being done at present to influence the farmers of the Maritime provinces to improve their farming methods and to increase their crops. A great effort is also being made to create a market in Boston for the products of these Maritime farms, and there is no doubt that the cost of living in New England will be lowered by the shipment of Maritime products into Boston. It is the purpose of those behind the campaign to create markets in New England for Maritime products to establish distributing centres in the principal cities of the East. The products will be shipped to Boston and distributed from that port. Throughout the Maritime Provinces a mailing service has been established by which the farmers receive charts and literature showing them how and when to best box and ship their products. The farmers are kept advised as to market quotations and they are furnished charts and show clearly the cost of freight of their products from all points. Import duty is also clearly shown on these charts. Mr. MacMahon states that there is every indication of a fair crop of good Gravenstein this fall. Speaking of the prospects he says: "Climate conditions are such that there is every reason to hope that the Gravenstein this year will be of excellent quality, nothing having occurred which is likely to develop fungus disease. The Gravenstein has made this province famous as an apple producing country and although Gravensteins are grown elsewhere they never have the same delicious flavor as the Nova Scotia product. This is the purpose of the United Fruit Companies to make a determined effort to place considerable quantities of this delicious apple in the New England States and we feel sure that on account of the large number of Nova Scotians who are living in those States an excellent demand should be created. We find that in the past the Nova Scotia package has been very favorably received in the States and it is therefore our intention to introduce into Nova Scotia an entirely fresh package which we shall use exclusively for this trade. This package, which will be more attractive in appearance than the barrel which is at present being used will conform more with the American Grower, and we hope in that way to remove the prejudice against the Nova Scotia barrel. It is our intention to take the produce of a few of our best orchards for this trade, in that way insuring that the fruit so used will be well colored, bright and attractive in appearance, coming from young trees. All that remains to be done is to give the widest publicity to this plan and to induce fruit growers everywhere to lend their aid in the development of so important and lucrative an industry. Had an Accident Mamma received a letter which made her feel sad. Bobby, 6, seeing mamma crying, asked what was the matter. Mamma told him that her father had had a stroke of apoplexy and for some time he was out of his head and didn't know anything. Bobby later ran excitedly down the street to meet papa, exclaiming: "Some one struck grandpa on the head with an apple, and now he's crazy and don't know anything."

AFTER SIX YEARS OF SUFFERING

Woman Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Columbus, Ohio.—I had almost given up. I had been sick for six years with female troubles and nervousness. I had a pain in my right side and could not eat anything without hurting my stomach. I could not drink cold water at all nor eat any kind of raw fruit, nor fresh meat nor chicken. From 178 pounds I went to 118 and would get so weak at times that I fell over. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and ten days later I could eat and it did not hurt my stomach. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel like a new woman. I weigh 127 pounds and so you can see what it has done for me. My husband says he knows your medicine has saved my life."—Mrs. J. S. BARLOW, 1624 South 4th St., Columbus, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains just the virtues of roots and herbs needed to restore health and strength to the weakened organs of the body. That is why Mrs. Barlow, a chronic invalid, recovered so completely. It pays for women suffering from any female ailments to insist upon having Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The Unprofitable Hen.

Once invested in a hen
I felt her worth in a penny,
And had her teeth bit hot every day;
I mentioned each thing to her,
And kept the germ from off her tail.
And when her price was lowered up
I felt her from a china cup.
An owl, said I, "I'll have some eggs
I'll put them out in early and late."
But did she lay? Not on your life!
She filled me with regret and strife,
The more I cooked, the more she ate,
The more she stood around and peeped.
But when the price of eggs went down
We heard her cluck all over town.
She pecked and cackled with all her might
And laid eggs morning, noon and night.
When prices went down and down,
She would take time out of her sleep.
And then I laid her to the pen
To share things up with Mrs. Ben.
I'll never put her out in early and late,
'Twixt me and that cackling bird,
Or how I heaped her with abuse,
And then thought I what is the use
Of giving way to all this grief?
Why can't I turn her off for good?
And I took that birdy's life.
Then I changed my mind and kept her,
And without any more ado
Straightway prepared her for a stew.
She came out such delicious food
It quite appeased my angry mood.
And then this thought came to my mind
Which helps me quite a bit, I find,
Instead of killing at my will,
To make the best of what I've got.

A SLICE OF LUCK

Harvey Elton, walking slowly up Constitution Hill, pondered with him bit bitterness of soul the amazing piece of luck which had befallen him. Last week he had been a mere private in the 2nd Wessex, and not, on the whole, dissatisfied with life. Certainly the months he had spent in the army had been the happiest he had known for some time. And then there was always the hope of being sent to the front and the chance of a bullet ending his troubles.

To day he was still nominally a private in the 2nd Wessex, but he was also—thanks to an incredible turn of fortune's wheel—no less a personage than the Earl of Arrandale, with three magnificent estates in England, a baronetcy in Scotland, and a rent roll which ran into many thousands a year.

Three years ago he had not had the smallest prospect of succeeding to the position. His relationship with the then Earl was so remote that he had never even taken the trouble to discover its exact nature. But he knew that the Earl had three healthy and vigorous sons, and that there were three or four more lives between him and the earldom.

He would have needed some earth-shaking catastrophe to remove all these lives within a year of each other. And who, three years ago, could have foreseen the coming of such a catastrophe, in the shape of this world embracing war?

If he had foreseen it, he surely would not have ruined his life so hopelessly and finally. He had the sense to recognize his own weakness; but there were other reasons that had contributed to the crowning folly of his youth.

The greenness of his prospects, the certainty that what ever he did mattered nothing to any other human being, and above all, the knowledge that the only girl he cared for would never be his—these were the causes of his undoing.

Sometimes he wondered if a word of encouragement from that girl would have kept him straight. He thought it would, but it was hard to be certain. And in any case he could not blame her for his lack of courage.

He only learned the news the day before. A considerable colonel had at once given him a month's leave to come to town and arrange his affairs. But so far he had done nothing, but brood over his lot. He had not even called on his lawyers. And at this moment he was walking on vaguely with no fixed idea as to where he was going.

He reached Hyde Park Corner and turned into the park, and as he strolled along he saw a motor car coming towards him and stopped at the curb and he heard his name called.

He looked up with a start. In the car was seated an elderly lady with white hair and a worldly look, but not unpleasant face. "Have you not seen her for three years, but he recognized her at once. Yes, as he looked at her he hesitated.

"My dear Mr. Elton," said the lady leaning forward with a gracious smile; "I should say, Mr. Arrandale, you surely haven't forgotten an old friend."

Harvey smiled. "Please forgive me, Lady Gliding," he said. "I was thinking of other things."

"I am not surprised," returned Lady Gliding. "The new must have been a shock—though, after all, a pleasant one. And now where are you off to?"

"Nowhere in particular," he answered awkwardly.

"Then come along and take a turn round the park with me," said Lady Gliding. "I'm dying to hear all your news, though, as you see, I know the best of it."

Trust Lady Gliding to know it! There was little that escaped her actively quickened senses.

Harvey, as he took his seat beside her, smiled again. He could not help recalling the last time he had seen her, when he had the presumption to ask her to recognize his engagement to her young daughter.

Even now he could remember the charming politeness with which Lady Gliding had listened to his pleading and the infinite tact with which she had made it plain to him that he must not call on her again.

Well, after all, he bore her no grudge. No mother would be expected to welcome such a hopeless ineligible as he was at the time. But Violet herself, he thought bitterly—Violet, who had told him she would never love any man but him, she at least might have sent him a farewell letter—Lady Gliding's mind.

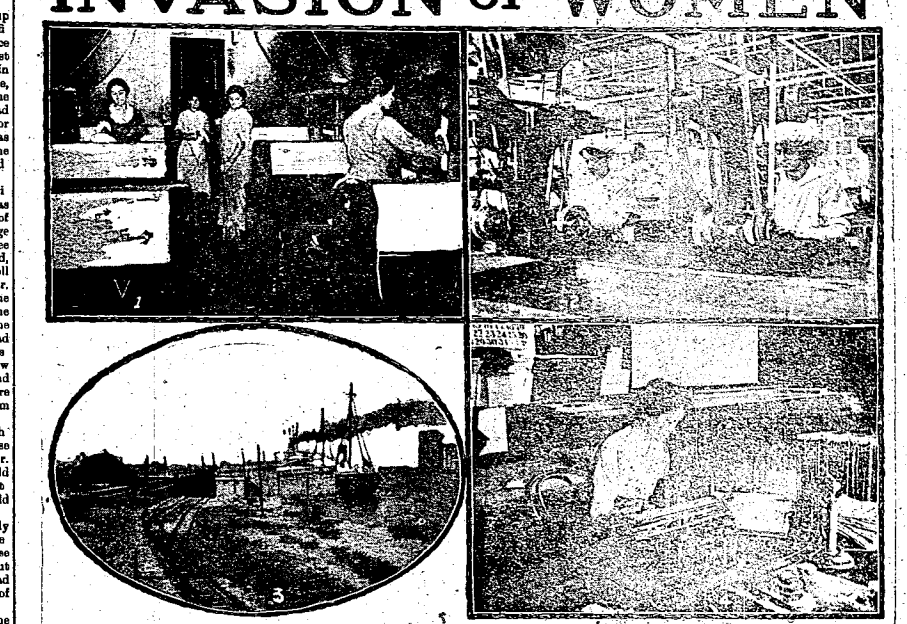

"Very well," he said, "on condition that you will come in and have some tea. Only I warn you that my lodging is hardly—"

"I understand," interrupted Lady Gliding hastily. "Naturally. But it must be quite romantic in the circumstances."

Whether Lady Gliding thought it quite so romantic when the car eventually stopped outside a dingy, neglected lodging house in a mean street near Victoria may be questioned.

He led the way up the narrow stair to a room on the second floor. Lady Gliding, inwardly agonized,

INVASION OF WOMEN

(1) Woman Car Cleaners at Work. (2) Turning Gears. (3) Port McNeill. (4) Women Workers at Calt.

BEFORE the war there were five million, five hundred women wage earners in Great Britain; to-day there are said to be over ten million. Five million more have enlisted for active service, and a woman has taken the place of every able-bodied man who might have been engaged in peaceful occupations. England has never been so busy a manufacturing and industrial country as she is to-day, but this would never have been possible if women had not stepped into the breach.

In Canada there is not the same supply of surplus available women, so that in this respect Canada has not experienced as great a revolution in industrial life, but many of the occupations are being opened to Canadian women, and the demand for women workers in factories and in the great industrial life of the railways is steadily on the increase. If Sir Robert Borden is to secure his 500,000 soldiers, 100,000 women must temporarily step into the shoes of men so that the latter may be released for service, as the limit of available men seems almost to be reached. Women are already working, along with men in factoring and handling of grain at the Great Lakes elevators, in the Canadian Pacific yards and shops where they are cleaning cars in the telegraph service and in many clerical positions hitherto held by men. They are acting in some places as Station Agents with satisfaction to their employers. But Canadians who visit England are surprised to find women ticket inspectors and guards, women as elevator attendants, women as chauffeurs, and train conductors, women as road cars, porters and check clerks, women as locomotive cleaners and track greasers.

Following his voice roused him from these memories.

"And where are you staying?" she asked, in her most honeyed tones.

With—oh, with a friend," he answered vaguely.

"Because," went on Lady Gliding determined not to lose sight of this very eligible young man now that she had the luck to meet him; "I shall be delighted to put you up while you stay in town if you have nowhere to go. Poor Violet is not very well just now. She hopes a little, I think; but I am sure the sight of you would cheer her up."

Harvey understood her meaning. She could hardly have intimated more plainly that if he chose to repeat his once unwelcome question he would get a very different answer.

"Thank you," he said, "I'm afraid it's impossible. I'm so—so busy," he added, lamely.

"At any rate," said Lady Gliding, "you must come and dine with us one night soon. Shall we say Thursday? And now tell me all about your plans. I suppose you will take a commission to start with?"

"Yes," said Harvey; "I mean to apply for a commission. I want to go out to the front as soon as I can. Haven't had the luck to get there yet."

Lady Gliding seemed disturbed at the suggestion.

"I quite understand," she said, "but I think you could get some staff appointments. One must do one's duty, of course, but you mustn't forget that you have—responsibilities, too, that must not be ignored."

One of them, as Harvey realized was the paramount necessity of marrying Lady Gliding's youngest daughter before risking his life at the front.

"You know," she went on, "I have some little influence, which I shall be only too pleased to place at your disposal. I feel sure that with judicious management, I could secure you a staff appointment."

This was getting intolerable. "I think I'll get out, then," said Harvey. "I don't see what you mean."

"Oh, but you must let me drive you home," expostulated Lady Gliding. "Positively I insist."

"You know," she went on, "I have some little influence, which I shall be only too pleased to place at your disposal. I feel sure that with judicious management, I could secure you a staff appointment."

"Very well," he said, "on condition that you will come in and have some tea. Only I warn you that my lodging is hardly—"

"I understand," interrupted Lady Gliding hastily. "Naturally. But it must be quite romantic in the circumstances."

Whether Lady Gliding thought it quite so romantic when the car eventually stopped outside a dingy, neglected lodging house in a mean street near Victoria may be questioned.

He led the way up the narrow stair to a room on the second floor. Lady Gliding, inwardly agonized, followed him into a poorly furnished and untidy bed sitting room.

Lying on the bed, and obviously sleeping off the effects of an overdose of alcoholic liquors, was the unkempt figure of a young woman. Her face might once have been pretty.

Lady Gliding started at her in dismay.

"This is dreadful!" she exclaimed; "this is dreadful! You must come away with me at once. A drunken landlady, too!"

Harvey gazed at the heavily breathing figure on the bed for some moments in silence. Then he turned to Lady Gliding with a harsh laugh.

"Allow me," he said, "speaking very deliberately and distinctly, to introduce you to the Countess of Arrandale."

Harvest moon this month; October 1st, moon.

Victoria Rink will be open three nights next week—Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

The Western Nova Scotia Yacht Club have already gone into winter quarters. Many people are planning to attend the Digby County Exhibition on Bear River on Thursday, October 12th. See adv. in another column.

There will be a party sale held at the Baptist vestry Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock, also home made candy for sale. Proceeds for the Mission fund.

Mr. Harley Woodman's automobile was stolen from opposite Victoria Rink Friday evening. He found it Saturday on the side of the road at Mt. Pleasant. The machine was uninjured.

A special meeting of the County Executive of the Canadian Patriotic Fund will be held in the Town Hall this afternoon at 3 o'clock, to consider and take action on the recent report from the Lieut. Governor. It is hoped that every member will be present.

Another Visiting Yacht.

Since the organization of the Western Nova Scotia Yacht Club at Digby in 1912, many yachts have visited this port and enjoyed the facilities of the landing slip. The last one arrived here Friday, remaining until Sunday. We refer to the trim little aux. sloop Annela, of New York, whose owner, Mr. H. M. Merriman, of Waterville, Me., came on to the wharf at Campbell, where he owns a cottage and other real estate. Mr. Merriman had with him, besides his engineer, his two sons who, like their father, greatly enjoy an outing on the water. After having outed at the wharf at Campbell, Mr. Merriman was so much impressed with Digby, that he intended to return here with his family before leaving for their winter home in Waterville. They made many friends here during their short stay who will welcome their return.

Digby County Boy Wounded in France.

Official notice from the War Office to Mr. Thomas Farnham, Jamaica Plain, Mass., states that his son Bertram A. Farnham was wounded in the Gallipoli campaign in the left leg, and had been admitted to the Stationary Hospital at Rouen, France.

In a letter just received from Bertram he says that shrapnel had gone through the middle of his leg, while changing the German second line trenches at La Boisselle, France, and that the wound was not serious. He was removed from the front to France, to Poitiers, Manchester, Eng., and later to the Aux. Military Hospital at Bury, Limburgh, where he is now convalescing. As soon as he is able he will go on sick leave with friends in England.

Death of Mrs. William Ross.

The residents of Roxville, Digby Neck, were shocked on Tuesday when they learned of the sudden death of Mrs. William Ross, who was the wife of William Ross, of that village, which took place during the afternoon. The deceased, who was aged 40 years, was a daughter of the late Mr. George Collins, of Sandy Cove, and is survived by one sister, Mrs. Walter Collins, of that village. She leaves a husband and two children, a son and a daughter, who have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their bereavement. The funeral service was largely attended, took place yesterday afternoon with interment in Rosevale cemetery. The Rev. C. W. Robbins, pastor of the Digby Baptist Church.

WHEN you put your foot into shoes that were never intended for your nature rebels. It doesn't help to have shoes a size or two larger—chafing is just as bad as squeezing. The remedy is to choose from a line that considers the natural needs of the human foot—not just one perfect foot—but all kinds of feet.

Red T Shoes offer comfort, and ease, and that true style that follows when your feet are properly fitted, because in the complete line there is probably a last and a style for every pair of feet that enter a shoe store.

Red T Shoes

THE ROBERT TAYLOR CO., LIMITED, HALIFAX, N. S.

Why?

Because white lead and white zinc, mixed in these proportions, produce a paint that resists the elements better than that made by any other formula. Scientific tests and practical experience extending over many years absolutely prove this to be so, and that is why is made by this formula. It is pure paint in the truest sense of the word. A mixture of 10% white lead and 90% white zinc might be called "pure paint" but the expression would be misleading, because the compound would not fulfil all the requirements of a first-class exterior paint.

B-H "English" Paint is pure paint that works easily, penetrates deeply, spreads well, holds its color and lasts years longer than ordinary kinds.

Knowing what Chamberlain's Tablets have done for thousands who suffered from Constipation, Indigestion, Headaches, etc., we earnestly counsel you to start them to-day if you are a sufferer. You hardly realize you are taking medicine when their action is so gentle—but sure. The liver acts vigorously. The bowels respond regularly. Your digestion becomes normal. on a cut or skin injury becoming infected by disease germs of which the air is full. Use Zamb-Buk immediately an injury is sustained, and you will have no further trouble. Zamb-Buk is a powerful germ-destroyer, as well as a powerful healer, and many a case of blood-poisoning could have been avoided had the victim only taken the precaution to use Zamb-Buk at first.

Mr. J. F. Warren, of Renfrew, Ont., writes: "I cut the palm of my hand badly with a rusty knife, and as I was some distance from home I could not get it properly attended to, and my hand quickly became stiff and swollen. Immediately I reached home I washed the wound with hot water and Zamb-Buk Soap, and then applied Zamb-Buk. This soothing balm soon ended the pain, gradually the swelling disappeared, and soon the cut was quite healed."

Zamb-Buk is just as good for eczema, old sores, ulcers, boils, pimples, ringworm, piles and burns. 50c. box, $1.25. Druggist, or Zamb-Buk Co., Toronto.

Methodist District Meets at Grandville.

On Wednesday, Sept. 6th, the Methodist ministers of the Annapolis District convened at the Methodist church in Grandville.

Rev. W. H. Langille, Chairman of the District, took charge of the sessions and distinguished visitors were present in the persons of the Rev. Hamilton Wigle, B. A., President of the Nova Scotia Conference, Rev. H. H. Davis, D. D., and the Rev. George Steel, D. D., Superintendent of Missions.

A number of laymen were also in attendance.

Rev. H. Wigle and Dr. Hearle clearly and effectively presented the claims of the Supernumerary Fund upon the Methodist people. Within the next year or so the Nova Scotia Conference has set itself the task of raising eighteen thousand dollars for this worthy fund. Of this amount fifteen thousand dollars are to provide an adequate endowment and three thousand dollars are to pay the deficiencies there will be in the sums paid to the retired ministers this year.

After a thorough discussion the Annapolis District unanimously accepted the plan, and pledged themselves as its active in the forthcoming October campaign.

A public meeting, which was well attended, was held at seven-thirty o'clock in the evening and was of unusual interest.

This year is commemorated the centenary of the issuing of the first local Freeholder's License in Nova Scotia. This was to Robert R. Crane at Grandville in August, 1816. Dr. M. E. Armstrong read a most illuminating and much appreciated paper on the subject.

Mr. Wigle and Dr. Hearle also stirred the meeting by their admirable addresses.

The ladies of the Granville Methodist church served a bountiful repast in the Hall, and the heartiest thanks were tendered to all concerned for their generous hospitality.

She Was a Woman.

A nice young man resolved the other day to present his beloved girl with a pair of shoes. He accordingly procured her measure and purchased a 10 shilling pair.

In order to make the present appear more valuable he marked 25 shillings upon the soles of the shoes and, at his request, the clerk, who was a friend of his, put a receipted bill for 25 shillings into one of them. The presentation was made and the lovers were happy, as lovers should be. But mark the sequel.

The girl examined the shoes in the daylight and was not satisfied. She was convinced that her lover had been cheated in the purchase of such a pair of shoes at that price. She decided to go and change the shoes and obtain a better bargain.

Next day she appeared in the shop and selected a pair of shoes, price 15 shillings, and politely requested the clerk to take back the shoes for which her friend had paid 25 shillings.

The receipted bill, it is produced in proof and the bootman found it impossible to go "behind the returns."

The smart girl took her 15 shilling pair of shoes, obtained 10 shillings in money and went home satisfied. The boot seller sent a fresh bill to the young man, who promptly paid the difference, but he thinks that girl may prove too smart for him later on.

September Red and Gun.

In his story "Two Bags of Wild Ducks," in the September number of Roll and Gun, which is now on the news stands, Bonny Castle Dale, the naturalist writer and contributor to many Canadian as well as American journals, compares shooting with the gun to shooting with a camera.

"Duck Days on Pitt Meadows" describes a duck shooting expedition in another Province, that of British Columbia. "A Bit of Selkirk Duck" is a humorous sketch of an expedition through the Selkirk hills "With Dad in the Forests of Quebec" tells something about the good hunting and shooting that is to be had in that Province. The magazine, for September, is ready with all the interest to the lover of the out of doors and the special departments devoted to Guns and Ammunition, Conservations, Fishing Notes, The Kennel, etc., are of particular interest. This representative Canadian sportsman's magazine is published at Woodstock by W. J. Taylor, Limited.

Room in Shipbuilding in Nova Scotia

LIST OF THE VESSELS UNDER CONSTRUCTION IN YARDS OF WESTERN NOVA SCOTIA.

For months there have been rumors of activity in shipbuilding circles in western Nova Scotia. First, in Shelburne, then on St. Mary's Bay, and again other places would be mentioned. Coming in piecemeal in this way it was hard to form any tangible idea of what was going on, but your correspondent has been given copies of the report sent into Washington by H. H. Balch, the United States consul for the coastal district of Nova Scotia, whose headquarters are in Yarmouth. He says:

"Previous to 1907 the shipbuilding industry of the Province of Nova Scotia was greater than that of any of the other provinces of the Dominion. Since 1907, however, Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia have each furnished a greater number of vessels and tonnage than Nova Scotia. According to an official report on the department of marine and fisheries there were 2,058 vessels owned in Nova Scotia on December 31, 1914, measuring a total of 135,053 tons, which is only about twenty six per cent of the total registered tonnage owned in the province forty years ago. The registered tonnage at the port of Yarmouth alone in 1874 was 131,773, which is greater than the total present tonnage of Nova Scotia. The shipbuilding industry of Yarmouth, however, has entirely disappeared. Much of the present wealth found in Nova Scotia was accumulated through the shipbuilding and shipping of former years.

"The following are addresses of the principal shipbuilders and the number of vessels with the total tonnage being constructed by each the present year:

- "D. C. Mulhail, Liverpool, two schooners, 650 tons.
- "Southern Salvage company, Liverpool, two schooners, 890 tons.
- "J. S. Gardner, Liverpool, two schooners, 700 tons.
- "Joseph McGill estate, Shelburne, seven schooners, 810 tons.
- "W. C. McKay & Son, Shelburne, five schooners, 780 tons.
- "George A. Cox, Shelburne, two schooners, 450 tons.
- "Innocent Comeau, Little Brook, one schooner, 300 tons.
- "John Deveau, Meteghan, one schooner, 400 tons.
- "Dr. MacDonald, Meteghan, one schooner, 500 tons.
- "Agapit Comeau, Meteghan River, one schooner, 250 tons.
- "Oliver Blinn, Grosses Coques, one schooner, 250 tons.
- "Benjamin Belliveau, Belliveau's Cove, two schooners, 500 tons.
- "H. T. LeBlanc, Wedgeport, one steamer, 250 tons."

Since the above was written Hugh Cunn and Sons, Limited, of Yarmouth, have decided to build a fairly large steamer of 2,500 horse power capacity at least—for the Bay of Fundy service between Yarmouth and St. John, calling at intermediate ports.

September Excursions to the Canadian Metropolis

"Montreal, Alt. 48.3. Population 700,000, the commercial metropolis of Canada and sixth largest city in North America. Beautifully situated at the foot of Mount Royal on an island in the St. Lawrence River, about 700 miles from the estuary of this mighty artery through which pulsates so large a portion of Canada's commercial life.

The city is built on the site of the ancient Indian village of Hochelaga, first visited by Jacques Cartier in 1535. Over 250 years ago the early French navigators established a trading post for furs here, and it was the last section of French Canada to pass into the possession of Great Britain in 1760. At the head of ocean navigation, with command of one of the three water routes by which the products of the west can reach Europe, Montreal has seven miles of fine wharves of masonry, vast warehouses and grain elevators, and the largest floating dry dock in the world. Big transatlantic steamers call here regularly from ports in Europe during the season of navigation and the harbour has won its place amongst the most important of the world, both as regards the sufficiency of the equipment and the extent of business done.

Numerous railway lines make Montreal a centre for a vast and constantly growing traffic. Montreal is a city of great enterprises, where mighty results are achieved, with a record for stability equal to that of any of the great cities of America, and is advancing year by year to a still greater future. Besides its commercial greatness, the city has the additional charm of historic attractions and there are many places of interest which link the present with the great past. With imposing public buildings, universities, educational institutions, magnificent churches, fine business blocks, substantial manufacturing establishments, splendid hotels and handsome residences, the city possesses all that is calculated to make a city attractive. Evidence of prosperity and wealth are everywhere."
