

Welcome to the Digital DIGBY COURIER

1877-1978

100th Birthday

The hundredth anniversary of the Digby Weekly Courier has brought to mind some fond memories as contained in the following historical chapter of the writer. But first, I wish to congratulate the current editor of the Courier, Mrs. J.M. (Edith) Wallis, for a job well done over the years and still being well done, good service rendered with great fortitude.

According to any record, I have at hand, the Digby Courier, in one hundred years of publication, was controlled under the same family management for 42 years, 1931 to 1973, under the control of Wallis Print Limited. The late J.J. Wallis became editor of the Courier the second time, in 1929, and at the same time of the business, which he had been running for some time previously and which became Wallis Print Limited sometime between 1929 and 1931.

I well remember the last year of the twenties when I worked in the office of the son with the husband and father of the late J.J. Wallis, the Courier. Sometime in 1928 or early 1929, the late J.M. Wallis (Mac), son of "J.J." engaged me to work every day after school hours, Saturdays, and for some months after finishing school. The place of work was in the building of the present Digby town hall on First Avenue. J.J. Wallis then worked occasionally at the print shop but mostly across the street at the Courier office which was then located on land in the general area where The Royal Bank of Canada is now.

Wallis Job Print operated in 1929 with a staff of four consisting of J.J. Wallis, J.M. Wallis, Miss Eva Haynes, who later became Mrs. George Kicup, and myself. I was engaged as a printer in the left Eva's job was to run the printing plant but mostly at the Courier office. "Mac" worked nearly full time at all the different jobs at the Job Print, and I worked at various duties, most of the time being spent at operating printing presses.

We worked ten-hour days, six days a week. "J.J." and "Mac" sometimes worked overtime. I worked only the regular hours being paid a weekly wage which was comparatively good for those times and my lack of experience. I received four or five dollars a week for working after school hours to six o'clock and on Saturday all day, and nine dollars a week for full weeks after finishing school. A two or three dollar a week raise was offered to me in the fall of 1929 for me to stay on at printing, but I had made up my mind to enter a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, starting salary of $300. The bank salary figured out about the same per hour as for the printing job. Nevertheless, the congenial atmosphere of the printing plant those days, and, experience however short, were helpful and appreciated by me.

"J.J." was very jovial in his occasional trip to the Job Print and did considerable kidding all in good fun. "Mac" was a witty person who mixed in a good natured sarcasm now and then for one reason or another. Eva most always had good answers to all the kidding she was called upon to take, and, generally held her own in a quiet sort of way, always busy setting type. We four all got along very well indeed. However, I do remember that some days did seem long and weary because of the monotony of some repetitious jobs.

In spite of the great demand for printing those last boom days of the twenties, business generally being brisk, it looked to me that people had to work long and hard to make any decent profit. There was including treatment of the hands. However, nails and finger ends were used and I was soon back to work.

Now and then a printing job had a dose on parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad those days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would do that job on the largest press, in spite of the fact that we always opened an outside door to lessen the effects on the constitution.

One of the jobs I had to do, being the junior and printers' devil on the staff, was to clean up now and then. One day not long after I started my job at the printing plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily, he thought the remark pretty good and suitable.

Sometimes the gasoline engine or a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and after "Mac" the fix-it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results, "Mac" would then stand back and cuss quite strenuously, then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of cussing."

On other occasions when some gadget refused duty for me and, seemed to be broken, "Mac" would say, "use a little oil," and sure enough, often that is all it took. How often since, have I thought of the value of that remark and the actual need of "oil" in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and, in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1929 got together just before dark one evening and decided to initiate the newly built outdoor Pines Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just east of the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys; no thought or time for bathing suits up to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in, the rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korean), was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent druggist for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale lobster king merchant; and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me "how about writing your version of the story told about 'The Marooning of Jerome'." I had heard and read at least two somewhat different stories about the man who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Digby County. When found this man's tongue had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and possibly of some considerable wealth. However the only thing the man could or would ever say after being found and cared for by some family in the French shore was, something that sounded like the word "Jerome". He either could not, or, would not, write anything about who he was or why he was left the way he was. Well, it was, and is, one of Digby County's mystery stories, and, different ideas have been expressed over the years concerning this man. However my response to "Mac" was, I felt no urge to write anything more or different about this man. The mystery seemed to have been very well explored in the mind of many people, and, he was a sort of curiosity for many people who visited where he lived for many years.

Three years later, I was quite alone in the street that I lived back and forth, led a boat clanking noise, powered by a small engine, and a "plur", and as I remember it, it was a "plur". "J.J." was noted for his sense of humor and his sense of humor.

Digby 172 Years Ago

Compiled by David Sanford

From the files of the Courier of January 23, 1867, the following account has been copied concerning Digby in 1800.

"Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us by friends is a copy of the Saint John Gazette of May, 1802, says the Telegraph and among other advertisements contained in the issue before us is one describing the town and township of Digby, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this area we are told the township of Digby extends from the Gulf of Annapolis westward to the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 130,000 acres." The town plot is thus described:

"The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1783, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to older countries, left the whole free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of which was some Digby's daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Melvin O. Tibert, Freeport, Digby Co.) Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters; I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print". I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like: embossing, stapling, perforating, counting, cutting and trimming paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, but, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "pi", the printers name for a confused mess.

There was a taste of trying to sell job printing outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls around town, spent most of the time at one particular house, and got an order, but,

Years and experiments with the last time I saw him, and personal interest. The last time I saw him, and talked with him was, after one day when he had been wanted to see him at his home. He had been returned from the hospital after a week's absence. I made the visit and brought him back to the plant.

Don't Guess about your BATTERY

THE Plate is the backbone of any Storage Battery, and a large percentage of battery troubles are due to poor Plates.

The Prest-O-Lite Plate represents the greatest advance in battery-making in recent years. Prest-O-Lite Plates, the backbone of the Prest-O-Lite Battery, have the strength and porosity essential to the ideal Battery Plate—strong, so that heat will not buckle it and jolts will not affect it—porous, so that it will provide the reserve power necessary for cold weather starting and emergencies at other times.

Every part of a Prest-O-Lite Battery is made with the same extreme care—the same precise insistence upon perfection in every way. Jars, separators, etc.—every part is made and assembled with the same scrupulous insistence upon excellence. It represents the greatest value you can buy—yet Prest-O-Lite Batteries are sold to-day at less than pre-war prices.

THE MONEY QUESTION

The chief persons at the Genoa conference paid their bills in various kinds of currency and the Prager Tagblatt thus describes that interesting event:

"Mr. Lloyd George pays in gold. Signor Schanzer in silver and lire notes. M. Barthou by means of a cheque on the Credit Foncier."

"When the bill is presented to Herr Schober, Austria's principal representative, he takes out of his portfolio two vast sheets of paper and presents them to the maître d'hôtel."

"Excuse me, your Excellency," ventures the maître d'hôtel, "but are those orders on your bank?" "Oh, no no," replied Herr Schober. "These are two bills of lading. Two wagon loads of Austrian notes are at the Piazza Principe Station. You can obtain them at once."

"Tchitcherine is presented with his bill. From his pocket he takes a packet and throws it on the table. The sound suggests that something metallic is in the packet. It is wondered the maître d'hôtel, some of the gold which the Soviet Government has been taking from the Russian churches?"

"Is it gold or silver?" he asks. "Oh, dear, no: the packet only contains a couple of plates from which we print our bank notes," replies Tchitcherine. "Take them away and print as many as you like."

HEAR MORE OF LIQUOR MATTER

It is not expected that the last has been heard of the amendments to the Canada Temperance Act which were thrown out by the senate in the closing hours of the last session. Representatives of the commonsense spent two hours in conference with managers for the senate, prorogation being postponed for this purpose, in an effort to get the essentials of these amendments through, and it is regarded as probable that the same or similar provisions will be introduced by the government early at the next session.

The bill as it was sent up to the senate had in it two main clauses. The first of these prohibited the export of intoxicating liquor (except by brewers and distillers duly licensed by the dominion) from provinces in which the importation of liquor is forbidden and which have by order in council requested the prohibition of export. The main application of this section is to Saskatchewan, where export houses have been active, but it applies to all provinces which have provincial prohibitory laws and which take steps to bring it into force. This section of the bill was accepted by the senate and became law.

The second main provision prohibited the importation of alcoholic liquor by private parties into provinces which have government control, either directly or by commission. This applied to British Columbia and Quebec, and the legislation was in the first instance asked for by British Columbia. The section prohibits the import of alcoholic liquors into such province generally except where they are consigned to the executive government or to a commission. This is the part of the bill which the senate killed, and it is expected that it will be introduced again early in the next session.

TIP BURN OF POTATOES

(Experimental Farm Note)

This disease is first seen on potato plants about the latter part of July, with the most severe effects from the middle of August to the first week in September. The leaves exhibit a burning at their tips and margins, later the whole top withers and the plant dies prematurely. This condition is most noticeable in hot, dry, windy weather and particularly during periods of dry and sunny weather following rain.

With regard to the cause of this disease, there is much difference of opinion, and several agencies have been suggested as responsible for the burning of the leaves. The effect of excessive evaporation of water from the surface of leaves in extreme heat and sunshine with the consequent death of certain cells in the leaf, has been suggested as the cause of tip burn. Other authorities claim to have definitely demonstrated that the potato leaf hopper is the cause of tip burn; thus the name "hopper burn", which is also shown by the fact that tip burn is transmitted by the leaf hopper and is the direct cause of the burning on the potato leaves. This was shown by the fact that tip burn could be produced by inoculating macerated leaf hoppers into potato leaves.

The regular Bordeaux mixture spray has been found to be beneficial in the control of this disease. Those believing in extreme heat and sunshine as the principal causal agency, associate this control with the laying of Bordeaux on the leaf acting as a protection from severe evaporation. Others claim that it destroys the hoppers and again the spray is also supposed to act as a deterrent for the hoppers.

In any case the Bordeaux mixture has been demonstrated as capable of arresting the development of the burning and this is but further proof of the importance of careful and systematic spraying of potato plants.

NEW VARIETIES OF GRAINS

How The New Varieties Measure Up Under Test

The Cereal Division of the Dominion Experimental Farm system does not distribute new varieties of grain to the public until their superiority to the older sorts has been proved, and the conditions of soil and climate have been determined under which they best thrive. While a few of the new sorts described in the report of the Dominion Cerealist for 1921 will be available for distribution in the near future, the majority required further study before their exact status can be defined. In addition to the experiments and tests being conducted at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, they are being carried on at upwards of twenty other farms and stations covering every province, four being in British Columbia, five in Alberta, three in Saskatchewan, one as well as the Central in Ontario, two in Quebec, two in Nova Scotia, and one each in Manitoba, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, and the Yukon Territory.

Last year there were tried out, according to this report just issued, 112 varieties of spring wheat, of which Garnet Ottawa 652 made the best record, maturing in 85 days from July 16, the date of sowing, and yielding 2,880 lbs. of grain per acre; seven varieties of emmer and spelt, of which the best was Early Emmer Ottawa, maturing in 90 days from July 20, and yielding 2,280 lbs. per acre; 27 varieties of oats, of which Gold Bane proved the best, yielding 2,460 lbs. per acre in 85 days; 103 varieties of barley, of which Stella Ottawa 58 proved the best, the yield being 2,940 lbs. in 77 days; five varieties of spring rye, of which Common yielded 2,460 lbs. per acre in 85 days; 29 varieties of field peas, all sown May 6, of which Early Blue, Ottawa 21, was the earliest ripener and best yielder, the record being 2,490 lbs. per acre in 75 days; 14 varieties of field beans, all sown May 26, the best yielder being White Pea with 3,060 lbs. per acre in 99 days; taking 25 more days to ripen than Carleton Ottawa 718; 137 varieties of flax, of which the best producer was Blue Bird Ottawa 62 with 990 lbs. per acre in 80 days, and 18 varieties of barley for hay, of which the best proved to be Forage Ottawa 675 with 13,607 lbs. per acre in 61 days from July 12, the date of sowing. Forty-four plots of flax were sown for fibre production, the results being handed for examination to the

THE ORIGIN OF THE MILITARY SALUTE

We have seen the soldier raise his right hand to his cap in meeting an officer, and many of us have wondered how the salute originated.

In Roman times, when assassinations were of frequent occurrence, the custom was established that inferiors, when coming into the presence of their superiors, must raise the right hand, holding it with the palm turned outward to show that the hand was empty and contained no weapon. From this has come the custom of saluting.

Until recent years a "sentinel", when accosted, removed his hat as well as saluting with his gun. This was done in the British army at the time of the American Revolution. The headress of those days was far different from the plain army hat of the present day, and it was a difficult matter for a soldier, while saluting with his gun, to remove his hat as well. This therefore was changed to the custom of raising the hand to the brim of the hat in saluting.

Similarly interesting is the reason for asking witnesses to remove their gloves before being sworn. In the old days when a person broke the laws of the time, and became a criminal, it was the custom, upon conviction to brand him on the right hand. In being sworn as a witness the raising of the uncovered right hand with the palm outward, would disclose to those present whether the person about to give testimony had a criminal record or not. A criminal is not a credible witness.

fibre division. An account is given in the report of experiments in the control of smut, which are being continued, and details of the free distribution of 10,061 samples of seed grains.

The Telephone Gets A Quick Decision

It's not often a business transaction of any importance is put through without a lot of bargaining, without adjustments and modifications of offer and acceptance.

In an out-of-town affair of the sort the bargaining can, of course, be conducted by letter writing.

But at what an expense in delay and anxiety!

The telegraph is a still more expensive way of conducting such negotiations even if the delay is less pronounced.

The Long Distance Telephone is the only logical means of fixing up the transaction.

A Telephone Talk has all the flexibility of a face-to-face interview; it permits of modifications on both sides being easily made, and you know at once if you are on or off with the deal.

INSTITUTE MEETING PERSONAL MENTION

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Monday, July 3rd, in Division Hall. Mrs. J. H. Cunningham 1st, Vice President, presided, and in absence owing to illness, of Mrs. J. Arthur Rice, Recording Secretary.

Mrs. W. W. Wade was appointed to fill that office. Owing to unfavorable weather only 17 members were present.

An interesting meeting however, was held, and a great deal of business transacted.

Reports of different committees were very satisfactory and were all adopted.

A letter was read from Miss Mae Daughill of Shorncliffe, for Girls' Truro.

Also one from Smith's Cove in answer to enquiry whether loan of books from their library was feasible. On motion, Mrs. Steadman was appointed to interview members of Smith's Cove library regarding exchange of books.

On motion $25 was voted for the purchase of new books for the Institute library. Executive to select and buy said books.

It was decided not to order another McGill library during the summer months.

Miss Mabel Harris was appointed member of the committee on entertainment.

Two members retiring from entertainment committee, Mrs. Carl Miller and Mrs. W. M. Romans were added.

An important matter brought before the meeting was the reading of letters from Yarmouth Local Council of Women regarding the establishing of that County of an Orphanage or Home for Neglected and Delinquent Children of the four western counties of the Province.

These children are now housed in the various County Homes and Poor Farms amidst surroundings altogether unfit for the training body and mind of a normal or bright child.

The co-operation of the Women's Institutes in those counties is needed and they are being asked to affiliate with the Local Council in this laudable undertaking.

These letters were laid on the table, and after a short discussion it was decided on motion that the Cor-Secy be requested to write for further information and that the matter be brought up for discussion at next meeting.

Miss Mabel Harris then gave her report of the Annual Convention of Provincial Women's Institutes, which was held at Truro in June.

This report was intensely interesting throughout. At the close it was on motion decided to send it to Weekly Courier for publication.

Mrs. Addie Reed also gave some very interesting incidents of Convention happenings.

At conclusion of business the entertainment committee served delicious home made candy and a social hour was spent.

Dr. A. Chas. MacLean arrived on Wednesday to take over the practice of Dr. Dismore.

O. A. Rice and family, returned on Saturday from a trip to Yarmouth and around the South coast, visiting Shelburne, Lockport, Sable River, and Liverpool. His reports the roads good, with the exception of about 20 miles, through Woods Harbor and Sable River. Business appeared quiet in all the seaport towns.

Mrs. Jewett, of Windsor, Vermont, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Omar Rice.

Mrs. Leafe Rice is spending a few weeks with her husband at Nictaux.

Miss Margaret Harris and Master Jack Harris, arrived last week from Brookside, to spend the summer.

James Lovett, arrived from New York, Monday to visit his mother, Mrs. J. Harold Lovett.

Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Lovett returned from Ottawa Monday and are being heartily welcomed by all their old friends, after an absence of four months in Canada's capital, during the session of Federal Parliament.

CHURCH RE-OPENING

The Bear River Methodist Church was re-opened last Sunday after being closed for two weeks, during which time the auditorium was thoroughly cleaned, painted and decorated, the work being done under the supervision of Trustee Mr. Benson, to whom great credit is due for its greatly improved appearance and artistic coloring. The color scheme is in shades of grey, in which the main ceiling and choir chancel is paneled with borders stenciled in shades of green blending beautifully with the same colors in the windows, which are of cutlaid glass. The lower walls and gallery ceilings are done in tones of opaline blending with the general color scheme and furnished with a stenciled border running entirely around the walls and over the arch which divides the choir chancel from the main body of the church. The work, which is itself a work of art, with its pillars and side galleries carved in beautiful oriental design, is done in white. The church now presents a very restful appearance and many compliments are being received on the good results of the work done.

Owing to unfavorable weather the services on Sunday were only fairly well attended, but were of a very inspiring nature.

At the morning service the pastor, Rev. Carl Mack, B. D., preached on the subject, "The House of God." The influence of the building on those worshipping therein and the appeal of beautiful surroundings to the soul nature as well as the physical. The choir rendered splendid music, and Miss Louise Jones, of Mt. Allison, conservatory of music, rendered a solo, "I have a vision of glory." The church was with great expression. She was very much appreciated by all who were present.

At the evening service the choir again gave music of a very high order. Mrs. Mack taking the solos in the anthem in a very pleasing manner. Mrs. Frége also sang a solo, "Consider and Hear Me." "Aired Hooper," in his usual splendid style. The pastor's sermon was "The Church, Its Origin, History and Future," from the spiritual standpoint, and was full of inspiration and deep spiritual feeling throughout. The choir rendered splendid service the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered to a large number of communicants in a fitting close to the services of the day.

The special offerings for the day towards expenses of church repairs amounted to the sum of $10.00.

PLAY IN OAKDENE HALL

On Tuesday evening, in Oakdene Hall, the young people of the church "put on" the three act comedy, "Aaron Slick from Pumpkin Creek." The cast of characters was as follows:

Aaron Slick, not as green as he looks. Mr. Courtney Purdy.
Mr. Wilbur Merriwell, a crooked speculator. Mr. Voorhees Dismore.
Clarence Green, a mysterious young man. Mr. Douglas Wade.
Mrs. Rosy Berry, an Oklahoma widow. Miss June Schumacher.
Gladys May Merriwell, a sweet young thing. Miss Margaret Purdy.
The Girl in Red. Miss Evelyn Martin.
Sir Rigg, a regular tomboy. Miss Maud Purdy.

Hotel Guests.

Although the evening was unfavorable the hall was comfortably filled and the audience thoroughly enjoyed every scene of the side-splitting play. Much credit is due to all the performers who, although new to the stage, rendered their several parts in a most natural and realistic manner. They received congratulations from all sides and were requested by many to repeat the comedy as a matinee on Cherry Carnival afternoon.

The proceeds of the performance (which was 25 cents rush seats, all over the house) amounted to $38.00.

MEN HAVE NOT LEARNED BIRD'S SECRET OF FLIGHT

(From the Kansas City Star.)

Birds still hold the world's championship in aviation for reliability and consistency of performance. Though they sometimes are forced down by collision with the shining lenses of lighthouses, or are blown against wires and tall buildings by violent winds, they make long and fast non-stop flights and seldom come down because of engine trouble or the collapse of a wing. Birds have some secret—many secrets—for navigating the air which man has not learned. Some men aviators have gone higher in the air than any birds seem to go, but so far as human records go there is nothing to show that a condor, eagle or other high-flying bird ever tried for the altitude prize. Birds are extremely practical and do not go to immense heights just for exercise or for the purpose of getting a wide outlook above the earth or for the gratification of individual pride. There is no doubt that the best flyers among the birds would go to far greater heights than their habit if they believed they would find anything to set so near the sky.

Birds in soaring and sailing show that they are proficient in the use of several factors in the art of flying that have not yet been mastered either in principle or practice by the most skillful aviators. A vulture or a crane, after a few preliminary wing-beats, sets its wings and mounts in wide sweeping circles to a great height, apparently overcoming that which we call gravity, with no exertion apparent to human vision even when assisted by powerful telescopes. The Carolina rail, or sora, has small short wings, apparently ill-adapted to protracted flight, and in ordinary circumstances when it is forced to fly it does reluctantly and alights as soon as possible. It flies with such awkwardness and seems so quickly exhausted that several writers on birds have inferred that most of its spring and fall migration must be made on foot. Yet it has been learned that the Carolina rail has one of the longest migration routes of the whole rail family and easily crosses wide reaches of the Caribbean Sea.

The humming bird, smallest of all birds, crosses the Gulf of Mexico flying over 500 miles in a single night. The golden plover flies from Nova Scotia to South America and in fall weather makes the whole distance of about 2,500 miles without a stop and probably requiring not more than 48 hours to make the trip.

The Lake Joli Camp

The Scouts and Guides, with their leaders, went into camp at Lake Joli on Monday, July 3. Transportation was furnished through the generosity of friends of the boys and girls. Among the supplies were many delicacies contributed by generous friends to help in making the camp a delight.

The Guides, under Mrs. Tupper, Guided, assisted by Mrs. J. J. Wallis, and for part time, by Miss Edith Wightman, occupied a very cozy cottage kindly loaned by Messrs. Clarke Brothers Limited, owners of the property. The Scouts under the Scoutmaster, assisted by Fred Roope and, for part time, Mr. Wightman, occupied the large cook-house, which was admirably adapted to their needs.

On Tuesday evening Dr. Read came out and spoke to the Scouts on "Personal and Public Health and First Aid," and on Wednesday afternoon Rev. A. W. L. Smith of Clementsport came out, with two of his laymen, and took supper with us in the Cook House. After supper Mr. Smith gave the boys a very interesting talk on "Some of the Wonders in God's Out-Of-Doors." These addresses were both very much enjoyed by all.

The following is a record of attendance: Guides 10, Mascots 2, Leaders 3, total 15; Wolves 7, Kangaroos 5, Beavers 10, Owls and Young Owls 12, Eagles 10, Wild Geese 8, leaders 3, total 55, grand total in two camps 70. All but 4 of the whole troop of Boy Scouts were in attendance.

In spite of the almost continuous rain the boys and girls had a happy and profitable time. The health and discipline of the camp were excellent. Every facility for enjoyment was placed at the disposal of the boys and girls by those in charge of the buildings, canoes etc., and these men put their knowledge of canoeing and woodcraft at the service of the Guides and Scouts. Nothing that could in any way minister to the pleasure or profit of the campers was withheld by

Mr. and Mrs. Harris, Frank Yeo or his assistant, Paul Dunn. The boys and girls, on their part, did all possible to conduct an orderly and non-destructive camp, and had the pleasure of receiving the highest commendations at the conclusion of the camp. Following will be found some account of employment and enjoyments, contributed by members of the camp. The following resolutions, heartily and unanimously passed on the closing evening of camp will speak for themselves. The Scoutmaster most heartily concurs in them.

D. E. HATT, Scoutmaster.

Whereas—Messrs. Clarke Bros. Ltd. of Bear River, have kindly placed at our disposal accommodation for the housing of the Digby Companies of Boy Scouts and Girl Guides at their property at Lake Joli for their annual summer camp.

Be it therefore resolved, that the troop, in session on this 4th day of July, 1922, do express to the said Clarke Bros. Ltd. the hearty thanks of both Scouts and Guides, together with their leaders for the use of the same.

Furthermore be it resolved that we tender our thanks to Frank Gêbe and Paul Dunn for their kind attentions during our stay at Lake Joli. We also express our gratitude to the citizens of Digby, who gave donations of money and goods for the camp.

Noted Mr. H. E. Jones in addition to his other donations stocked our medicine chest, and also to those who donated their cars to convey us to our camping grounds; and further be it resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the parties concerned, and that they be published in the Digby Weekly Courier.

Moved, seconded and passed unanimously by the assembled camp consisting of seventy members.

They Bargain By Telephone, Now

There was a day when the Farmer loaded his wagon with a glistening pile of the green and red first-fruits of the season and plodded to town along the dusty road to sell his stuff, often enough only to plod home with it again, having found the market oversold.

And there was a time when the Dealer awaited a visit from that same Farmer, but with only languid interest in the transaction to follow the meeting. If one farmer would not come to his terms, another would.

The Telephone has changed all that!

Nowadays the wide-awake Farmer takes no selling trips and takes no chances. He stays at home, bargains with his dealer by telephone, and rides to town with his stuff already sold.

And the Dealer does not now await the Farmer's visit. He must seek the Farmer, or some competitor will get ahead of him. So he, too, takes to his telephone and by its means scours the countryside to supply his needs. The result is, fresh, attractive stock on his shelves that swells the number of his customers.

For their mutual advantage the Telephone Line links the three together—Farmer, Dealer and Consumer.

Not satisfied to spend the day like pretty Parrot Polly. Some of them talked the whole night through.

And raised Cain at Lake Joli. They thought they had a happy time. Perhaps they did, but Polly, I'm sure, was not so happy.

The whole time at Lake Joli. POTATO FIGHT IN THE UPPER STORY.

Down below when all was quiet Up above was naught but riot.

The scout Hobbes known as the Beavers, the worst patrol for the first day at least, had their sleeping quarters for the first night with the Eagles and Wild Geese.

The Beavers are noted haters of peace, so to amuse themselves they had a potato fight with everybody in general. The potatoes whizzed through the air while the songs of the victims jarred the night. It is thought that the cook picked up the potatoes after and fed them to us. Johnny Marshall of the Eagle patrol wanted the whole troop to get up and pull a ghost from under his bed, while Gerald Handsperker sang us a song in his sleep, but he was not clapped back.

A KING SCOUT GOES SWIMMING.

On Monday evening, July 3rd, one of the most noted members of the Beaver Patrol borrowed a canoe without permission, and went for a paddle and a swim. It went this way, the canoe expected some good looking scout, like Ted Mayor, to paddle it, and was so shocked when it saw this chap that it fainted and turned over on its back with him in it. Of course he did not get wet at all, just his clothes, and skin were soaked with water. This show was worth two circus tickets to those who saw it.

GERALD TUPPER GOES CA- NOEING (ON A RAFT).

On Tuesday Gerald Tupper and a party of worthy scouts went for a canoe trip on a raft. He got his number tens wet and wanted to go ashore, so took his paddle and tried to jump to another raft. He missed the raft, but struck the lake. When he missed the raft he opened his mouth and you could see the water go down several feet all around him. For some reason or other he wore a raincoat the rest of the afternoon; we think it was because he had not a spare pair of pants with him.

EDITORIAL.

It is too bad that fire destroyed the dwellings and the big plant at this beautiful spot, necessitating the removal of all but the caretakers of the property. There seems to be little prospect of the plant being rebuilt. These fine cottages and other buildings, with some remodeling, would make an ideal vacation camp, here at the great beauty of a sportsman's paradise. For natural beauty, for access to other lakes and streams, for delightful climate and for hunting and fishing, it is equal, if not superior to Kedgemaquoog, while in the matter of accessibility a railway is far more conveniently situated. It is to be hoped that someone with vision, capital and push will secure the property before the buildings fall into disrepair and adapt them to their purpose. We prophesy that in a very few years, by expert management and judicious advertising, the place would be crowded to capacity with guests.

The Guides are all quarrelling among themselves as to whom the

"Saved My Little Girl!"

Mother tells how her little Ethel's life was saved.

That is what one woman wrote on recently, and then she goes on to say, "Ethel, who is just past eight, caught a bad cold last August. The child is of a highly strung, nervous type. It is to be hoped that everything we could think of to cure her cough. But, the cough became worse and she began to spit up blood. I was in a panic, and my little girl had almost completely shaken off her cough. Her cheeks began to get back their old colour. She started to put on flesh again and would run and play all day without being tired. Today, after having taken two boxes of Carmol, she is looking and feeling better than she has ever felt in her life."

serenade was intended for last night. For in the wee sma hours of the night when all noises had subsided in the girls quarters, two melodious male voices were raised in serenade under their windows. They all listened in silence until the sweet notes died away and then the hubbub arose. "It was me they meant,"—"No, it was not for you either, you know very well it was for me."

We will leave the serenade to settle the question of intent and the scoutmaster to settle the question of discipline.

THE FIRST NIGHT IN CAMP.

Impressions of 'The Girl Guides'.

A dull, foggy day, marked the arrival of the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides at their camping ground, Lake Joli. The Lake at this particular time belied its name, looking far from Jolly. However the boys and girls were in high spirits. The novelty of the situation rendered them incapable of serious criticism on the score of weather.

The time passed quickly until after tea, when the rain began to fall in torrents and we were relegated to our respective houses or to those of our good neighbour for shelter. Frank Gêbe's cottage provided such warmth and he himself such good natured friendliness that soon we were gathered in a semicircle around his open fireplace, filling in the chinks left vacant at tea time with cookies, candy and gum, and enjoying ourselves immensely.

Frank favoured us with several vocal solos, the most notable being entitled "The Preacher and the Bear" which was encored several times. As a matter of fact this ballad appeared to be so appealing that one small Guide was heard next morning beseeching Frank to "sing it again." Paul Dunn contributed a rich and thrilling tenor solo. About the time when the town clock in Digby was striking nine we at Lake Joli were beginning to feel the need of rest, so after several late starts, we eventually reached our own cottages, made up our beds and closed up for the night.

Never was a guide more mistaken than this when in expecting that "lights out" would bring repose. We retired for the night but did not repose. Most of us were new at camping—our mattresses were by no means of the Ostermoor variety, and our nerves were so keyed up to such a pitch that the most usual night sound assumed terrific proportions. One or two of the younger Guides slept the sleep of the just and snored accordingly. The rank and file, however, "just would not sleep."

Doors banged, rain drove in through open windows. Guides, giggled, cut up or tigers entered by unknown means. Robbers caulked across the floor all night. Guides fell off the floor and cracked their bones, and last but not least, the Guide spent most of her night in a vertical position, first encouraging her girls to obedience, then beseeching and finally, as frayed nerves gave way from loss of sleep threatening terrible things when daylight came. As a matter of fact when morning arrived, although rain still fell heavily, our spirits rose with the daylight. But during another story. Thus ended our first night in camp.

On Tuesday evening a fishing party of three grub short travellers, with guide arrived in camp Joli at Lake Joli. We were able to help them out from our bountiful stores. Tuesday afternoon three more guests, accompanied by a Lizzy arrived; they were Rev. A. W. L. Smith, rector of St. Clement's, and two of his prominent laymen.

Rev. Mr. Smith gave an interesting address, telling how the granite boulders got here and how they told their story by the scratches on the slate bed.

In some ways we think those granite boulders were lucky; they rode here on a glacier instead of in Bobby Tucker's truck, and when they got here they stayed, instead of going home in four days.

There are plenty of cows running around here. With a proper set of horns they would be deer, but we notice that at the girl guides camp there are plenty of deer without horns.

Mrs. Harris, who supplies the camp with milk, says that her cows aren't giving much milk but she could manage by giving us the pigs milk. We have known of people drinking cows milk and goats milk but the scouts at Lake Joli had drank pigs milk and didn't know the difference.

There are many pretty islands around the lake, so pretty in fact, that Horace Hayden and a few of his pals went out in a raft and tried to tow one of them ashore.

HOLDS NEW THEORY ABOUT NOAH'S ARK

Egyptologist Believes It Was Not Ship But Great Pyramid Of Cheops.

Noah's Ark, built to save the human race from the flood of ancient Bible times, is still extant for all to see after 30,000 years. This is the belief of Dr. C. E. Gotsinger, now visiting Los Angeles.

Recent discoveries prove that the pyramid—Noah's Ark and the thousands were under the sea for thousands of years. Near the top of each of the pyramids, at the same level, is a highwater line, where a deep niche has been cut into the rock by the lashing of a long-forgotten surf. Also, the inner passages of the pyramids are thickly crusted with salt, which a chemical analysis proves to be sea salt.

SAYS CHEOPS JUST REPAIRED THEM.

Dr. Gotsinger is convinced that these monuments were built thousands of years before Cheops, to whom they have been accredited. Cheops merely repaired and caused casing of stone to be built over them.

And he is convinced that the pyramid stand today a living monument to an old and noble philosophy, a greater civilization than any we have since attained—that great pyramid which, together with the sphinx and the nine smaller pyramids, has for centuries exercised the wonder and astonishment of scientists, who have frankly admitted that they could not have been built upon any known possible conditions, and that we have even today no means by which the immense stones used in the construction could be transported and adjusted into their present position.

Obviously and indubitably, the ancients must have possessed knowledge and powers lost to us. Dr. Gotsinger's explanation is that they were infinitely more spiritual than ourselves, that their power lay in their greater understanding of the universe and its laws, which we are now just beginning to recover by slow and laborious degrees.

In the great pyramid there are three chambers which conform to God's directions to Noah for the building of the Ark against the coming of the great flood—"with lower, second and third stories shall thou make it."

And these three chambers named for the three sons of Noah: Shem, Ham and Japheth. Dr. Gotsinger thinks, are intended to represent the three strata of human life and intelligence. The chamber of Shem, the lower, symbolizes the animals who have no souls. The second chamber, Ham, symbolizes human beings with souls but of lesser intellectual and spiritual attainment. And the highest chamber, that of Japheth, symbolizes the inspired teachers—the spiritual intellectuals.

Souls of greatest understanding. GIVES SPIRITUAL MEANING. The entrance which is 52 feet above the ground, Dr. Gotsinger declares, was so placed that the North Star, could shine directly into the interior from the heavens—which it did 30,000 years ago, and after a complete cycle, it shines again today.

This Egyptologist thinks that the animals that went into the Ark were not material animals but spiritual animals, the animals of the Zodiac—Aries, the Ram; Taurus, the Bull; Cancer, the Crab; Leo, the Lion; Scorpio, the Scorpion (scorpio); Capricornus, the Goat; Pisces, the Fish, together with the Gemini, the Twin; Virgo, the Virgin; Libra, the Balance; Sagittarius, the Archer, and Aquarius, the Water-Bearer.

The great flood of Noah's day did not submerge the whole of the present known world, but included only the ancient lost continent of Atlantis and Egypt. Atlantis has never reappeared, but Egypt, after 12,000 years under the sea, was resettled by immigrants from other lands together with their animals.

The best reason we can give you for having your battery looked to before you start to tour is that it's just plain common sense. A good deal the same as taking along a spare tire, or an extra set of spark plugs, or a couple of headlight bulbs.

If it's right we'll say so. If it isn't we'll do what's necessary to bring it up to the mark.

Whether it's a Willard or not it will be given the benefit of Willard Standards of Battery Service.

HELPED PERRY WIN VICTORY

Peter Tarr Made the Cannon Balls That Scored So Well in the Fight on Lake Erie.

When Commodore Perry defeated the British on Lake Erie, his gunners turned the trick largely with home-made cannon balls, although at the time of the engagement the place where the deadly missiles were made, was a closely guarded secret.

Accidental discovery a few days ago of a small antiquated iron furnace near Steubenville, however, reveals the secret and adds a new chapter to the historical sketches of Perry's victory. The furnace was found by men engaged in erecting furnaces for large West Virginia steel company on the Tarr farm in Hancock county, West Virginia, directly across the river from Steubenville. It is said to have been the first iron furnace in use this side of the Allegheny mountains, and to have been built by Peter Tarr, one of the earliest settlers along the eastern banks of the Ohio river.

Old records in Hancock county show that Peter Tarr worked day and night at his secret task of making cannon balls from ore deposits found in the hillsides about the furnace, and that he sent them overland on mules to Commodore Perry's forces hiding near Put-in-Bay and Kelley's Island, awaiting an opportune time to strike the decisive blow at the British naval forces.

WILL REVIVE PAST GLORIES

Historic Port of Gloucester Likely to Come Back With the American Merchant Marine.

The historic port of Gloucester, Mass., is likely to be restored to its one-time maritime glory as the American merchant marine expands. A bulletin of the National Geographic society calls Gloucester the mother of American fisheries. The story of Gloucester's fisher folk is touched on by Kipling in his "Captains Courageous," James B. Connolly, and Mrs. Ward, in "Old Maid's Paradise." Norman's Wood, off Gloucester, is the scene of numerous deep sea tragedies, touched on by Longfellow in his "Wreck of the Hesperus."

Schooners are said to have originated in Gloucester and to have been named by a Gloucester shipwright who, when he launched a vessel, heard a spectator exclaim: "Oh, how she scoons." The expression was used to describe the bounding of a pebble thrown sideways into the water. Gloucester has a floral curiosity of great beauty and fragrance, the magnolia glaucus, which grows in the swamps near the city. Among the natural wonders that Gloucester possesses are Kate's chasm, where the pounding waves churn and rumble; the rocking stone, oscillated for an inch or so by the incoming tides; "Old Mother Ann" and "Whale's Jaw."

Painless Dentistry.
"An American at home, with or without toothache, is not much affected by the sign, 'Painless Dentistry,' but at sight of it in a foreign land he shrills indignantly," a traveler said. "His lure is not professional. Every tooth in his head may be perfectly sound, yet if stranded and homesick he welcomes that sign because all over Europe it is a sure indication that somewhere in the neighborhood lives a citizen of the United States. From the northernmost town of Norway and Sweden to the border of Sahara, the words 'painless dentistry' are likely to hit you in the eye at the most unexpected turning. Usually they are followed or preceded by 'American,' but that qualifying term is rarely unnecessary. Dentists of other countries make no pretense of performing painless dentistry, or if they do they do not advertise their skill. They leave that for their American rivals."

Cold!—Sure.
On one of our most recent cold Saturdays the tenderfoot rank boy scouts of Terre Haute made an all-day hike along the Wabash. They were describing the hike for the benefit of some of their most interested friends. They had described the city bluffs from the river, the frozen ground and the various sensations produced on their spinal columns without winning what they regarded sufficient sympathy from their listeners. Just as they were most disappointed their executive took part. "Why it was so cold that we had to break the ice off the pancakes better between frying cakes," he ejaculated.

And then the audience was moved to speech.—Indianapolis News.

French Views of Indians.
Many French people have a vague idea of the United States, outside of New York and the Eastern coast, as Americans have of France outside of Paris.

C. Michelon, permanent secretary of the Alliance Francaise, tells of receiving a letter from a business firm in Marseilles, one of the largest French ports, asking for information as to the products of the Indians of Indiana.

Sleeping Sickness Mystery.
At a recent meeting of the National Academy of Sciences, Dr. Simon Flexner told what little is known about "sleeping sickness," which has made its appearance in America. Doctor Flexner said the cause, method of propagation and means of cure were as yet unknown.

SHOES TELL TALE

Criminal's Tracks as Good as His Calling Card.

Interesting Story of How Hun Agent Who Attempted to Blow Up Munition Plant Was Speedily Brought to Justice.

During the late war, while labor troubles, strikes and rioting were brought about by enemy agents, which interfered with the production of war material, a daring attempt was made to destroy a large munition plant. But the bomb planted under a pile of boxes in the factory failed to explode, says the Boston Globe.

The criminal forced entrance through a window by the use of a jimmy; his fingerprints were found on the door knobs and on the inside of the door; but he had worn gloves and the prints were useless as evidence.

Deep foot impressions pointing toward the factory were found on the ground surrounding the plant. These were traced to the window where the entrance had been forced.

The deep footprints indicated that the one who made them had been carrying a heavy object, and as he had taken long steps, it showed he was a tall man. A chirologist stationed at a nearby army camp was called into the case and he made several casts of the footprints leading to the factory. The results of the casts showed that the criminal had worn a pointed-toe, English last shoe, with a broad heel; the shoe had been recently half-soled, and that there were heel plates of a foreign make on the heels. There was a marked protrusion of the internal lateral border and also a marked abduction of the right foot, which proved a flat right foot.

Who was this "John Doe" with a marked right foot, wearing pointed-toe, English last shoes, recently half-soled, with foreign make plates on the heels? What cobbler carried imported heel plates and had lately attached a pair to a newly half-soled pointed-toe, English last shoe?

The rest was easy. John Doe was apprehended within 48 hours and is now behind prison bars.

In footprints the same ridge formation will be found as in fingerprints, but footprints taken from the bare foot are only found occasionally, because most people wear shoes. Shoe and boot prints may at times play an important part in the detection of crime, because they reproduce the characteristics of the wearer.

Podiatrists claim that determination is indicated by the feet kept in a parallel position; a calcaneate and curvilinear person takes out considerably; shiftlessness and hesitancy is indicated in a swaying walk; while good health is shown by a brisk gait. Sick people drag their feet along the ground.

In the examination of shoe or boot prints we will be able to determine the exact type of the shoe worn. It will also show heel plates, patches, pegs, stitches, extra nails, and where the shoe is worn more or less.

All these marks present very strong evidence that may lead to the apprehension of a criminal; as each individual by the reason of his own peculiar gait, manner of walking, etc., wears out every pair of shoes in the very same areas.

Old Dwelling Now a Theater.

The Sip manor, built in 1695, has been sold and will be razed to make way for a moving picture theater. The manor stands at Bergen avenue and Newkirk street, Jersey City, and is said to be the oldest structure in this part of the world, a New York correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch writes. The site for the manor was granted on January 2, 1692, by Potus Styvesant to Nicholas Varlet and Balthazar Bayard. In 1776, Lord Cornwallis and a troop of British Infantry passed through what was then Bergen and the English commander slept in the Sip manor that night. When Lafayette visited Cornwallis in Bergen, he planted two elm trees near the Sip manor.

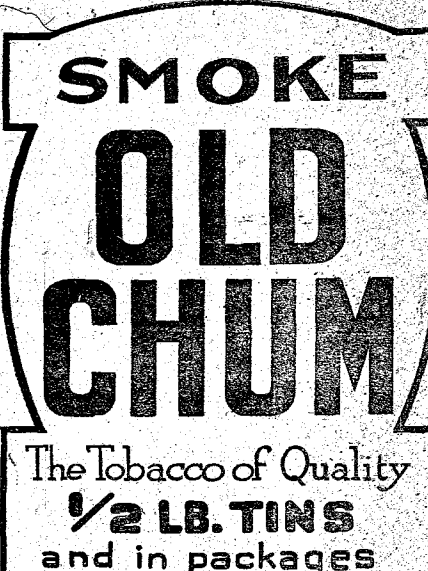

The old dwelling was erected of stones gathered in the neighborhood and filled in with yellow clay and rubble. The place has been improved from time to time, but the original walls stand today as they were when built.

Simplifies Launching.

A big steel cargo boat was launched successfully some weeks ago by the throw of a single electric switch, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Side-wise launchings have been precipitated hitherto by skilled axmen, who chopped through the launching cables at a given signal. Inattention on the part of one man, with this old method, sometimes resulted in an uneven progress down the ways, or even in disaster. With the new system, heavy wooden gullies take the places of the axmen. The weighted blades are held at the tops of the frames by the attraction of electromagnets; when the current is broken, all the blades descend simultaneously and the vessel strikes the water on an even keel.

Lens Coal Mines in Bad Shape.

All of the year 1920 will be required to complete the removal of the debris in the pits of the coal mines around Lens, France. The majority of the mines are flooded, and the destruction of the machinery. Electric pumps are being installed and new cement shafts will be constructed. Two or three years will be needed to pump out all the water.

Appetite Good, Gained 20 lbs. Could Not Feel Better

From a nervous wreck this man was restored to health, strength and happiness.

He tells his own story in this letter.

Mr. Ralph A. Roberts, Lovers, Sask., writes:

"In 1917 I had lost all appetite, failed 25 pounds in weight, became very nervous and shaky and in fact given up all hope of recovery. For some time I had suffered from constipation, which kept getting worse, until I was fast becoming a real wreck. Doctors and their drugs were sending me to my grave at the age of 39.

"Then I read about people being restored by Dr. Chase's Medicine and after three months' use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills I found that my bowels were restored to normal movement each day and the constipation was no more. I had a good appetite, had gained 20 pounds and could not feel better. I shall always be grateful for these benefits."

MCKENZIE SAYS IT PUT HIM ON THE JOB AGAIN

Halifax Citizen Declares Tanlac Entirely Overcome Stomach Trouble
And Helped Him
Make Big Gain in Weight

"Tanlac came to my rescue just in time for I was almost down and out from a case of stomach trouble of eight years standing," declared Richard McKenzie, 32 Longard Road, Halifax, N. S.

"My trouble started with indigestion. My food would turn sour in my stomach and hurt me so I had to go on a milk diet. I would bloat up with gas terribly and seemed to have inflammation of the stomach for I had an awful burning sensation just below my breast bone. I also suffered from a dull pain across my back that hurt me so at night that many times I had to get up and pace the floor. I fell off to one hundred and thirty-two pounds and got so weak I had to lay off from work eight months.

"But the way Tanlac pulled me around was amazing. I soon had a good appetite and haven't had a bit of indigestion or pains since. I now weigh one hundred and ninety and am on the job every day. I'll be glad to tell everybody what a fine medicine Tanlac is."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Statistics given out by Rev. Abbe Ivanhoe-Caron, Colonization Missionary, who returned from a trip in the Abitibi region show that the population in that section of the province has now reached 15,000, divided into 2,600 families. In June, 1913, the population was only 349.

Is Now a Healthy Boy

"From a puny, delicate child, my little Johnny has become a strong sturdy boy."

One mother writes: "If you had seen my little Johnny four months ago you would have to see him today, you would never believe that he is the same boy. Then he weighed only 40 pounds. Today he weighs 80 pounds, almost double what he weighed four months ago. His trouble first started with a cold, which we never noticed because he was strong and like all boys of his age occasionally caught cold. After a while we began to notice that his cough, instead of getting better, was getting worse. Before he caught this cold he had no trouble with his lessons and remained at the head of his class without much study. But we began to notice a change. He didn't seem to care whether he knew his lessons or not and nothing seemed to interest him. He coughed so much and so hard at times that his face would become purple and we thought he would surely burst a blood vessel. Medicines and cough mixtures didn't do him any good. Finally, in desperation and as a last resort, we tried Carrol. In a short time his cough had almost disappeared. His appetite was returning and he was beginning to take an interest in his studies. And, thanks to Carrol, he has become a strong and healthy as he has ever been."

Carrol is sold by your druggist and if taken as recommended after you have tried it, that it has not done you any good, return the empty bottle and we will refund your money.

WHEN CANA- DIANS WED AMERICANS

An exhaustive article by Frederick Cunliffe-Owen, C. B. E., in a recent issue of the New York Times deals with the Thompson Law just passed by a vote of 206 to 9 in the United States Senate. By the terms of this law it is provided that an American woman, marrying a foreigner, retains her citizenship through the simple act of registering at her country's consulate, and may similarly claim the right to have their children brought up as American citizens, though born in a foreign land, by similarly registering their birth. This matter is of a peculiar interest to Canadians owing to the number of marriages between Canadians and Americans, and is an aftermath of the late war. Cunliffe-Owen points out that the matter cannot be thus easily settled out of hand, as many treaties with foreign countries intervene, and must be considered, and marvels that the rights of foreign powers were not considered before the House passed the Act. However he is pleased that Secretary Hughes is to consider the act before it goes to the Senate for ratification. Foreign citizenship, acquired by naturalization or by marriage, carries with it a number of liabilities and of onerous obligations, of a fiscal, political and purely legal character. Thus, an American woman who becomes English through marriage can only secure a dissolution of her matrimonial bonds from an English tribunal. When Mrs. Frank Burke Roche, daughter of the late Frank Work of New York, obtained, years ago, in the American Courts a decree dissolving her marriage with the Lord Fermay (then James Burke Roche, M. P.), the validity of the decree was denied by the English tribunals, which held that, in view of the fact that Mrs. Burke Roche had become a British subject on the occasion of her wedding, that they alone had jurisdiction and the power to grant a divorce. Their contention was subsequently upheld when James Burke Roche instituted proceedings against the publishers of one of the standard "Peacocks" of Great Britain for slander and for heavy damages for having described him in his pages as having been divorced by his wife. He won his suit, the court upholding his contention that there had been no legal severance of the ties of his marriage, since the English Courts alone possessed jurisdiction to determine the case. Still more conclusive was the case of the Earl Russell. It may be remembered that he was sentenced by the House of Lords, that is to say, by his Peers, to a term of imprisonment for bigamy in marrying as his second wife, Miss Marion Somerville, in the United States, on the strength of a divorce obtained from the American Courts, the House holding that inasmuch as the United States tribunals were incompetent to grant him a divorce from his first wife, his American decree must be looked upon as invalid, and his second marriage, therefore, as an act of bigamy.

SEDAN

On Saturday night, July 15th, in the year 1922, two ladies were in Letteney's store. One lived in Digby, the other some five miles away. The male clerk asked the lady who lived out of town, "Are you going to walk home?" And she said "no I am going in an 'auto'." "Yes," said the other "she is going to 'sedan' home." "See Dan home," said the male clerk, "I should think she would much rather see Frank home!" Frank being her husband's name. Well this sedation and seeing Frank home is most delightful, but there is something better than that. What is it? Why buying one of those beautiful dresses at Letteney's. Why sir, I tell you, it's very elevating, it lifts you up towards the moon. Yes sir, it does.

SUNFLOWER VARIETIES

(Experimental Farm Notes.)
Although sunflowers have been known and used for a great many years, it is only in recent years that the wide agricultural possibilities of the crop have been recognized.

With the advent of mixed farming in the former strictly grain growing areas of the country and the increased recognition of the value of the silo has come the demand for silage crops in areas unsuited for corn growing. It is in this connection that sunflowers offer the greatest possibility.

As yet there has not been sufficient breeding work or testing of varieties to warrant any definite statement regarding the different so called commercial varieties. As the sunflower is an open fertilized plant most commercial seed is a mixture of types. This fact however, affords us a good chance of eventually securing uniform varieties of the most desirable habit of growth. At the present time the Forage Crop Division has isolated a large number of types of sunflowers, these range in height from three feet to seventeen feet and in habit of growth from unbranched types having a single head to types having branches at each primary leaf axil, and numerous heads. There is also a wide variation in habit of branching from branches growing straight out to those that grow almost parallel with the main stem. Some of these types give considerable promise of becoming very desirable commercial varieties.

The commercial varieties tested so far at the Central Experimental Farm have shown a variation in yield from as low as ten tons per acre to as high as twenty-three tons. The most satisfactory of these varieties available to the farmer is the Mammoth Russian. The published results of other sunflower experiments in Canada and the United States are also fairly well in accord in recommending this variety as the safest proposition at the present time for the man who desires to grow sunflowers for silage.

A new brand of moonshine was recommended John O'Leary of Hammond, Ind., by his favorite bootlegger. He sampled some July 10 and didn't remember anything for several days. When he came to he had a headache and a wife. He knew where the headache came from, but he could not figure whence came the wife. She informed him that she was Mrs. John O'Leary, formerly Clara Lindsay. O'Leary has started court proceedings to annul the marriage.

NEW STAMP TAXES ARE EXPLAINED

Increased Use of Stamps on Cheques Started Aug. 1.

A circular letter has been issued by the head office of the Bank of Montreal explaining the stamp taxes on cheques, etc., which came into force on August 1.

The letter points out that on all bank cheques receipts for money paid by a bank chargeable against deposit, express money orders or travellers' cheques, and postal money orders, if the amount of money involved does not exceed $50, the tax is two cents. If the amount of money involved exceeds $50, but does not exceed $5,000, for every $50 or fraction thereof the tax is two cents. If the amount of money involved exceeds $5,000 the tax is $2.00.

Regulations may be made by the Minister of Finance governing the issue of embossed cheques.

On bills of exchange, promissory notes, documents or writings in respect of an advance made or to be made by a bank, and bank overdrafts, if the amount of money involved does not exceed $50, the tax is two cents. If the amount exceeds $50, for every $50 or fraction thereof the tax is two cents. In the case of bills of exchange involving sums of money in excess of $5,000, and when such bills are payable on demand or at sight or on presentation, or within three days after date or sight, stamps to the value of $2 only are required to be affixed.

On promissory notes payable on demand, and given to a bank for an advance by the bank, a stamp to the value of two cents only is required, whatever the amount of money for which the note is made. The banks will prepare statements showing the maximum amount of advances represented by such notes outstanding at close of business on any day during the period, and will affix thereto stamps to the value of two cents for every $50 or fraction thereof by which the maximum amount of advances exceeds $50, which is to be payable by the person to whom the advance was made.

QUARTERLY STATEMENTS.

Whenever a document or writing contains a promise to pay, or a pledge of securities to secure payment of an advance made by banks, and no promissory notes or bill of exchange in respect of such advances is transferred or delivered to the bank, the bank will prepare quarterly statements showing the maximum amount of advances represented by such documents outstanding at close of business of any day during the period, and will affix thereto stamps to the value of two cents for every $50 or fraction thereof of such maximum or fraction thereof. The regulations also are to apply to bank overdrafts, except that statements are to be prepared monthly instead of quarterly.

On stock, share and bond transfers, for every $100 or fraction thereof of the par value of the stock, shares or bond sold or transferred, the tax is to be three cents. The first delivery by a corporation of such shares or debenture stock, in order to effect an issue, or the first issue of a bond or a sale or transfer of any bond between any recognized dealers or brokers will not be subject to the tax.

Upon each despatch or message or cable or telegram the tax is to be three cents.

RECEIPTS TAX

The receipts tax does not come into effect until January 1 of next year. The following exceptions, to which the receipts tax does not apply, are noted in the letter:

A receipt given for money deposited in the bank.

A receipt or document in the nature of a receipt which is taxable under any other section of the Special War Revenue Act.

An acknowledgment by a bank of the receipt of a bill of exchange or promissory note for the purpose of being presented for acceptance or payment.

A receipt for or upon the payment of any money paid for any purpose for or out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of Canada, or the General Revenue Fund of any Province or Territory.

A receipt endorsed or otherwise written upon or contained in any instrument liable to stamp duty and duly stamped, acknowledging the receipt of the consideration money there expressed.

IN THE SWIM WITH SMILES

This is the season when the water is fine and everybody wants to get into the swim. Even those who cannot swim may hang on the ropes and enjoy thrills—as the incoming waves break over them. Of course, those who can swim probably get greater exercise than the mere bathers. Some of us may use a breast stroke and others prefer the crawl. In fact, the crawl is used by those who wish to attain speed and has been acclaimed a superior stroke for racing. However, the majority of bathers are in the amateur class and are not interested in speed swimming except as spectators. It is with the mere bather that the joke-smiths of the world press home their fun. Perchance some of the wisest wits who write the wet stuff have never been washed by the waves. But they manage to put plenty of splash into their jokes. The editorial staff of "Topics of the Day" Films must all be expert swimmers because their selections of swimming jokes are a tidal wave of success on the screen. Now, friend reader, enjoy yourself in the swim with some smiles.

SMALL TOWN LIFE IN CANADA

The Census Figures of Small Towns in Canada Reveal a High Average of Wealth.—Community Leadership Is The Great Need in Semi-Rural Canada.

The census figures of the small towns in Canada reveal a high average of wealth, taxes that compare in ratio with those in large communities and general good economic standing. One fifteenth of Canada's population is housed in villages and towns of from one to three thousand, yet the general disposition is to regard these small communities of little account. They may be country towns; railway points or just agricultural distribution centres. But they are an important part of the country's general economic life, and many need only adequate local leadership to make them much richer in color and life and more prosperous. In the two hundred and eighty towns of between one and three thousand population, there is a taxable property assessed at $227,000,000. The average per capita is $341. The real value may be put at twice that much or half a billion dollars. The small communities have wealth relatively speaking, but how often do the young people migrate to the larger cities as soon as they can leave home? The Maritime Provinces have several towns which the young people term "dead". Girls in them complain there are no nice young men—these have flown to places of more business opportunity.

Small town life often is monotonous because of petty jealousies and cliques that prevent co-operation in the creation of amusements. How many of these towns have libraries, suitable risks, tennis courts, a recreation field fitted up, a literary society or other aid in youthful enjoyment? How would the young people in the town of Digby like to part with the rink and the recreation field of the D. A. A. A. Towns not blessed with such places for recreation can form but little idea of how they are appreciated. In a small town land is usually fairly cheap, and rents are also moderate.

But leadership in the creation of clubs, societies, or associations, is too often the great lack. Community leadership is the great need of semi-rural Canada. The motor car has been of immense help in allying the unrest of the village youth. Sporting events, picture houses and social attractions in neighboring towns become accessible. But when the motor car so much aids transit, the obligation on community leaders to create new attractions is increased. If the fathers and mothers in these small towns whom the census shows to be financially able to create opportunities of social enjoyment, would pay more attention to the desires of youth, they would find a much stronger disposition by the boys and girls to stay at home, instead of rushing at first chance to the supposedly gay life of the large city.

In a talk on thrift, a baker told a story about a Scotch farmer who, on frequent shopping trips in town, would hitch his horse on Main street, and having securely attached the feed-bag would lift a hen from the wagon and tie her with a stout cord to one of the shafts, in such a manner that she would be able to pick up every bit of oats the horse might drop while wrestling with the feed bag.

CHANGES MADE IN LIGHT STAFF

The regular monthly meeting of the town council was held on Monday evening of this week. The Mayor and Councilors, Lynch, McBride and Carthy were present.

George Shearer asked permission to put down a light on the wharf for the lighting of the wharf. After discussion of several proposed sites a committee consisting of Messrs. Anderson, McBride and Carthy was appointed to look into the matter. R. C. Ellis was re-appointed chief of police.

The report of the superintendent of streets and water showed that not much work beyond necessary repairs had been done.

The report of the electric light committee was read and adopted as follows: The electric light committee beg to report that the debentures for the purchase of the electric light plant from Jean Lacey, amounting to $10,000, have been paid in full.

But last Sunday was not the day. It is now announced positively that they will be here on Sunday (August 6) and will give two concerts at the Pines, one in the afternoon and one in the evening, to which the Annapolis Royal Concert Band, of which Paul Yates is the energetic director is always doing something unexpected.

In September they are bringing the Boston Symphony Ensemble to Annapolis the only small town in Nova Scotia which will have the privilege of hearing the famous orchestra. Mr. Yates also hopes to arrange for two open air concerts in the Digby band-stand during August. But the most interesting event near at hand will occur in the Bijou Theatre Wednesday night, August 16th, when Mary Clark, coloratura soprano of the Chicago Opera Company, will give a concert assisted by the Annapolis Band. This is probably the very finest musical event offered in Digby this season.

Obituary

MRS. A. W. DUNN.

On Sunday morning, Bear River was called upon to mourn the loss of another of its well known and esteemed residents, when Mary, wife of Arthur W. Dunn, passed peacefully to her eternal rest, after an illness of several months. For many years Mrs. Dunn had been known in the community as a lady of high
Christian character and good works.
As a member of the Methodist Church
she never tired of working for her Master in all its various departments. For many years she was a teacher in the Sabbath
School and President of the W. M. S.
Auxiliary, only resigning from the latter office about three months ago because of failing health. Being endowed with natural talents and executive ability she was a leader in the church's activities, and her loss is almost irreplaceable.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon from her late residence and was
B. D. conducted the service. Rev. Harris sang "Sleep on Beloved" with deep feeling, and a male quartet also rendered the grand old hymn "Rock of Ages," which was a favorite of the deceased. The casket was covered with floral tributes.

Get Your Details By Telephone

It's the growing practice with the big newspapers to trust to the Long Distance Telephone in getting out-of-town news where details are of moment.

In a Telephone Talk obscure points in a report can be cleared up, points treated meagrely can be amplified, omitted points can be supplied.

Think of the time and mass of correspondence, the multiplicity of telegrams that would be necessary, if the mails or the telegraph were relied on for that purpose.

The newspapers value that unique quality of flexibility in a Long Distance communication that the Telephone gives.

Men in other businesses might well profit by the hint and in deals where details are important rely on their telephones.

NURSE THINKS NOTHING BETTER
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Advised for All Women in Poor Health

Toronto, Ontario.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years and it is the only potent medicine I ever received. I am a poor health I always felt her to take it. Although you know that doctors and nurses think much of it, I can't say I must say that I think there is nothing better than your Vegetable Compound. When I first took it many years ago I was so tired when I got up in the morning that I could not get dressed and when I went to bed I was so tired I could not sleep. My mother-in-law told me that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was just what I wanted so I tried it and only took two bottles when I felt better. Since then I have found that there is nothing that makes me feel so well, for I seem to build my system right up. I don't know any other medicine that does so much for women."—Mrs. W. H. PARKER, 15 Wellesley Ave., Toronto, Ontario.

Women to try and again find that they have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. "After other medicines have failed," it has been tried for nearly fifty years and not found wanting.

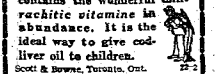

If you are suffering from any of the various ailments which account for many female weaknesses try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

METHODISTS MAY REVISE DISCIPLINE

Among the important questions coming up for consideration by the General Conference of the Methodist Church in Canada, when it meets in Toronto in September, is a memorial to be submitted by the London Conference calling for a revision of the Methodist Church Discipline. It will be urged that the great Methodist gathering appoint a General Conference special committee, or commission, for this work. The object of the proposed revision will be the unified control and co-ordinated operation of the work of the Methodist Church. In this revision, the commission will be asked to apply the principle of equal representation of ministerial and lay members to and for all conference and district committees, boards and courts.

Through the revision the largest possible measure of responsibility will be placed upon the annual conference (their committees, boards, courts and circuits) with freedom to adopt and carry into effect detailed methods of procedure that will secure stability, efficiency and growth of the church within their respective conferences, provided always that the methods employed be in accord with the "Model Deed" and in harmony with the spirit and policy of the Methodist Church.

The commission to assist these bodies in this revision work will initiate correspondence with and solicit from the ministers and members of the whole church suggestions as to the needs, requirements and changes desired for this revision, together with a request for their views and recommendations and co-operation in the matter. After being empowered to commence the revision work, it is expected that the commission will be instructed to make interim reports of their proceedings to the annual conference of 1923, and 1924, and to submit the complete revision plans in 1925.

GERMANY CHUCKLES AT FALL OF CROWN

Berlin Papers Publish Story of Escaped Lunatic and His Money Experience.

Central Europe's chief amusement in these days of fluctuating exchanges is making sport of Austria's almost worthless money. Berlin papers seize each new exchange story with glee and the list of exchange stories is now a long one.

Perhaps the latest incident offered for the delight of Berliners is one from Reichenberger, Czechoslovakia, where a tailor, holding a clearing sale, advertises that to every person buying three and one-half yards of cloth an Austrian 1,000 kronen note will be given as a present. "This," says the paper, "surpasses the former exchange incident wherein a Swiss soapmaker brought thousands of Austrian ten kronen bills and used them for wrappers."

Recently the Germans have been amusing themselves with the story of an Austrian who was placed in an insane asylum just before the war. A few weeks ago, so the story runs, he managed to find his clothes and escape from the asylum. He hailed a taxicab and after riding many miles got out and asked the price of his ride. The driver replied that the bill was 18,000 kronen. The lunatic, fumbling in his clothes, found a twenty kronen gold piece and tendered it with profuse apologies.

"But that's quite all right. I have the change," said the cabman. "Change?" said the astonished man. "Yes, you have 30,000 kronen coming," replied the driver, hauling out a huge bundle of notes. "Just keep it," said the perplexed lunatic, "and drive me back to the asylum."

Saskatoon is referred to as the first Canadian city to adopt the plan of a "Road of Remembrance" an avenue of trees planted in memory of men killed at the front. Calgary's "Memorial Drive" was planned early last spring and many of the trees have already been planted.

HOLY ORDERS FOR WOMEN

Holy orders for women will be put before the coming general convention of the Episcopal Church in Portland, Oregon. Only it has been felt for some time that the Order of Deaconess was not clearly enough defined from the province now covered by the sisterhoods, and a commission was named at the general convention in 1919 to present a report to this convention.

In some of the Protestant bodies women are admitted to full orders and have received pastorates. This is not contemplated in the proposed Episcopal canon, as it is distinctly contrary to another rule which provides that "no deacon may become the pastor of a parish, or be a chaplain in the Army and Navy of the United States."

"Minor orders" only are contemplated, and the report makes this clear in the proviso that nothing in the proposed canon shall be taken as "favoring the opening of the Priesthood to women, but instead, to provide an order similar to the primitive Order of Deaconesses as found in the Epistles of St. Paul and the Acts of the Holy Apostles."

It is expected that this report will create more furor than a similar one passed at the Pan-American Conference, London, in 1920. The fear is expressed that the canon will be used as an opening wedge to the Priesthood for women.

By the proposed canon, a woman will undergo the same examination and be subjected to the same canonical tests for men looking to Deacon's orders, and must be certified by 12 persons in good standing in the diocese before even being accepted as a "postulant," and her papers must be passed upon by the Standing Committee of the Diocese prior to her acceptance by the Bishop. Now, any woman of "good character and report," may be accepted. The Canons also set the literary attainments she must have.

Birth control will come in for denunciation. A commission, including Bishop Fiske of Syracuse, Bishop Ferris of Buffalo, and Rev. Dr. J. H. Mellich of Brooklyn, will report on home life, in which birth control is mentioned as "involving grave dangers to physical health as well as moral innocence, and threatening the future of the human race."

The report also advocates the early teaching of the youth of both sexes in the full mystery of procreation. "Where family life is dishonored, wedded unfaithfulness lightly regarded, parental responsibility neglected, filial respect and obedience slighted, there, we may be sure, society is rotten at the core," the report adds.

The street lights in the town of Reynolds, Ind., burst for two days and a half without interruption because a swarm of bees took possession of the switch box in Monticello, six miles away. Cosmos Shaffer finally did the hero act, invaded the stronghold, routed the bees and put out the lights.

SPANISH BOOK SAYS COLON WAS COLUMBUS' REAL NAME

Insists He Was Born in Village of Pontevedra and Could Not Speak Italian; Ancient Dispute is Revived.

The feud between Italy and Spain as to the nationality of Christopher Columbus, which has been going on merrily for more than three centuries, has been given a fresh lease of life by the publication of a book in the latter country by the historian Sanchez, called "Spain, the Fatherland of Columbus."

Sanchez claims that the real name of Columbus was Colon, and that he was born in the Spanish village of Pontevedra. Among the many documents and photographs shown in the book is what purports to be the reproduction of an agreement signed by the explorer and King Ferdinand in which the name Colon is used.

The writer also claims that Columbus did not know the Italian language and that all the documents left by him were in Spanish. He advances the argument that Columbus first named the land he discovered San Salvatore, which is the name of the parish in Pontevedra which is supposed to be his birthplace.

The Italians still deny the strength of Sanchez's arguments, many of which were put forward by the la Riega before the Spanish Academy of History. They insist that Columbus settled the matter himself when he uttered the phrase, known to every schoolboy, "I am leaving from Genoa, and in Genoa I was born."

Literary circles, however, are taking the new Spanish campaign greatly to heart, especially as it has been announced that Vicente Blasco Ibanez intends to write a realistic novel, based upon the voyages of Columbus and is certain to inject more Spanish coloring into the controversy as well as into the story of the discovery of America.

ABOUT THE BOSTON SYMPHONY ENSEMBLE

The Boston Symphony Ensemble is a small symphony orchestra composed of prominent members of the BOSTON SYMPHONY. One of the great advantages of this organization is that the players are members of this organization. The purpose of the Boston Symphony Ensemble is to introduce to the public the finest music that cannot hear the full Boston Symphony Orchestra, this wonderful opportunity of hearing the greatest masterpieces performed by a representative organization. Not only will we hear movements of the greatest symphonies by the "Boston Symphony" by Tchaikovsky and the "Unfinished Symphony" by Schubert, but we will hear operatic masterpieces performed by this wonderful aggregation of artists from the BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA under the baton of Maestro Vaneau. An added treat is in store for the program, and contain several popular classics and light, effective numbers as well. This organization will play in Amapolis Royal next month, under the auspices of Amapolis Royal Concert Band.

"Saved My Little Girl!"

Mother tells how her little Ethel's life was saved.

That is what one woman wrote us recently, and then she goes on to say: "Ethel, who is just past eight, caught a bad cold last August. The child is of a highly strung, nervous temperament and could not be kept quiet in bed. We tried everything we could think of to cure her cough. But the cough became worse and from a dry, healthy, sturdy girl she became pale and thin. Nothing we did seemed to stop the cough and by this time regular attacks of coughing had developed. These coughing spells left the child weak and completely tired out. I believe that in a short time the cough would have reached the child's lungs. After trying everything I could think of, I saw an advertisement for Carnol, saying that this preparation would build one up. I got a bottle from the drug store and before it was half finished my little girl had almost completely shaken off her cough. Her cheeks began to get back their old color, she started to put on flesh again and would run and play all day without being tired. Today, after having taken two bottles of Carnol, she is looking and feeling better than she has ever felt in her life."

Carnol is sold by all druggists and if you are not sure, write to the company and they will send you a sample bottle and the full literature free.

TEACHING CONSTRUCTIVENESS

The Toronto Globe, in a recent issue, has a very sensible editorial on the above subject. The acts of vandalism committed by some children in Toronto have aroused a good deal of discussion as to cause and remedy. Some say that parents are neglecting their duties; others lay the blame on a certain kind of moving picture in which the smashing of furniture is treated as a joke. The obvious truth is that the childish mind is plastic and imitative, and that by education and other influences childish energy can be turned into either destructive or constructive channels. Every boy likes to see a fire, but he is also interested, though not excited, by processes of building and manufacture. There is an instinct which leads to breaking down trees, and an instinct which leads to planting them and cultivating garden plots. Vandalism must be punished, but education should not stop with that; it is not sufficient to forbid and punish the wrong; the forms of right action must be developed.

There are foolish and mischievous moving pictures in which destruction is suggested, and there are also educational films showing processes of manufacture. The showmen may plead that people do not want to be educated, and it may be that there are many who do not wish to have instruction too obtrusively thrust upon them. What is desirable is to have the constructive idea woven into a story with human interest. For instance, one can imagine a story of pioneer life in Canada, in which the building of the log house is the first real work of the ground could be pictured. Even a modern shack town may have its romance; the shack is sometimes the beginning of independence and comfort. Farming life, neither unduly idealized nor caricatured, could be made both interesting and educative through pictures.

The modern city boy is, in some respects, not as well situated as his father and grandfather. The garage is hardly as picturesque as the old blacksmith's shop, and the city boy has few opportunities of seeing the carpenter, the cooper, and the shoemaker at work. Household chores, such as preparing firewood, having departed to a large extent. A large proportion of city people live in rented houses and apartments, and are thus not very keenly interested in the preservation of the property. The suburbanite who owns his own house and lot becomes interested in repairs, painting, sodding, planting, etc., and this interest can be imparted to children. When this means of education does not exist, other means of fostering the constructive instinct must be used.

Backache

Backache is the outstanding symptom of kidney disease. Women often make the mistake of attributing other causes and overlook the derangement of the kidneys until serious developments have made it difficult to obtain permanent relief.

This letter points to a treatment which has been so thoroughly tried and proven so effective in the great majority of cases that you cannot afford to overlook it when cause arises for its use.

Mrs. Albert Brunet, R.R. No. 1, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for the past two months, having been afflicted with kidney trouble. I used two doctors' medicine previous to this, without any good results. A friend told me to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and the second box made me feel a good deal better. I have now used about six or eight boxes, and am completely relieved."

ANOTHER LITTLE TALK ON THRIFT

Even Five Cents Should Not be Wasted.

(By S. W. Stans, President American Society for Thrift.)

"Even five cents should not be wilfully wasted. Remember, it is the interest on one dollar for almost an entire year."

This statement recently was made by one of the wealthiest and most successful financiers in the world when he witnessed his secretary paying out five cents where it represented an absolute waste.

Perhaps if we were to analyze the great success of this man we would find that his keen appreciation and consistent application of the principle involved in his kindly rebuke to his subordinate associate was the real secret of his rise to wealth and power. His statement was not prompted by any motive suggestive of the miser, for, while he was speaking, his personal income was a great many times the five cents under discussion. Furthermore, he had just emerged from a conference where plans for the donation of millions of dollars for philanthropic purposes had been under discussion.

"The point he had in mind was that the deliberate waste of even a very small amount is reprehensible and has ultimate effect in the loss of the amount immediately involved."

Thrift, in its broadest aspects, is efficiency and there can be no efficiency where there is deliberate waste.

The point is worth a permanent place in our rules of personal conduct that when we waste a five-cent piece we are throwing away the earning power of a dollar for practically one whole year. And let us keep just as steadfastly in mind the fact that when we save a nickel we are conserving the earning power of a dollar for almost, if not quite an entire twelve months.

Suppose we keep a record of the amount we actually waste during the next thirty days, and we discover that this sum is six dollars. We then have dissipated the normal earnings of one hundred dollars for one year.

The story is told of a boy who wrote his father for a certain toy costing $200, to which the father replied "Son, which would you rather have, this plaything or one dollar a month for life?" And the boy wisely chose the latter. What the father had in mind was that the $200 could be invested to yield $12 a year, plus a lesson in thrift worth many, many times that amount.

When we are tempted to waste even the smallest amounts, let us remember these points and profit by them.

We'll all be interested in the coal strike when we go to buy our winter's coal.

SEALED PARCELS BY PARCEL POST.

Sealed parcels of merchandise will now be accepted at parcel post rates within Canada, the Post Office Department advises, provided the sender place thereon printed labels stating in a general way the nature of the contents. The label may, if desired, be combined with the address label, the label to be wholly in print other than the name and address of the addressee, and having printed thereon the contents, such as "merchandise." This parcel may be open for postal inspection, if necessary. The endorsement of these words in writing or by means of a hand stamp will not meet the postal requirements. When desired these words may be printed on gum paper tape, which is sometimes used for sealing parcels. The public is cautioned against placing unauthorized enclosures in sealed parcels mailed at parcel post rate of postage. Violation in this respect will not only lead to withdrawal of privilege of sending sealed parcels but will result in the sender being fined for infraction of the postal regulations.

RELIGIOUS EVENTS IN TOWNSHIP OF CLARE

Feast of the Assumption Celebrated and a Little Brook Boy
Ordained as Priest at Church Point.

Last Tuesday, Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin into Heaven, a holy day of obligation, and the patronal feast day of the Acadians was celebrated in all parishes along St. Mary's Bay Shore, there being a High Mass chanted by the Parish Priest and a sermon preached suitable to the occasion. In every parish also the members of the Assumption society, in a body, approached the altar and received Holy Communion. On account of the day being a holy day of obligation no great ceremonies marked the national holiday of the Acadians, but the celebration took place on Wednesday and from all parts of the French Shore Acadians went to Grand Pre where the dedication of the memorial church took place. Hundreds of Acadians from Salmon River, Meteghan, Saultierville, Church Point and St. Bernard went all buoyed up, as it were with elation and satisfaction that at last has come the day when they, the descendants of the exiled residents of Acadia, are able to return to the scene of their ancestors and pay homage to their God for the manifold blessings received and to honor the memory of the first settlers in a becoming manner. In the afternoon and evening the members of the Assumption society of St. Bernard and Church Point enjoyed a mammoth clam bake on historic Doucette's Point. At Church Point the celebration of the Feast day of the Acadians was enhanced by the fact that on this day another Acadian priest was chanting his first solemn High Mass. Rev. Joseph M. LeBlanc, son of Moses LeBlanc, of Little Brook, was ordained to the priesthood at Rome on Holy Saturday.

MEMORIAL CLOCK UNVEILED

Erected in Karsdale Baptist Church in Memory of a Devoted Member.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather a large congregation assembled in the Baptist church at Karsdale on Sunday afternoon. In addition to the regular service was the unveiling of a memorial clock in memory of the departed wife of E. S. McElhinney, a former resident of Karsdale, but now a resident of Lynn, Mass. After unveiling the clock E. H. Porter, on behalf of Mr. McElhinney, made the presentation address referring to the splendid Christian record of the deceased, her humble spirituality—freedom from display but patient steady service—until the call came to go up higher, reminding those present of her faithful attendance in his Sunday School class. Closing he expressed the hope that all present would strive to emulate the ideal Christian character of the deceased. Rev. Mr. McKenzie followed with an interesting address. Rev. Mr. Heiser accepted the gift in a few well chosen words and thanked Mr. McElhinney for his continued interest in this church and expressed a hope that others would imitate him in this respect.

W. M. A. S. HELD DELIGHTFUL SESSION

A very delightful session of the W. M. A. S. of Acadiaville and Hill Grove was held on Thursday last week at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Saunders on Shelburne Road. This home is beautifully situated in the midst of hardwood trees, with here and there a stately pine to give variety and added beauty. Everything about the place speaks of rest and comfort. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Robert Bell, President. A very pleasing feature was the presentation of a life membership certificate to Mrs. John A. H. Nichols. Mrs. Nichols expressed her surprise and delight. A very hearty supper was served, and the pastor and Deacon W. W. DeLong, joining the family and the sisters of the Aid Society in this part of the proceedings. Mrs. Saunders' mother, hale and hearty at the age of eighty-four, was also present. Many excellent selections on the Victrola added to the interest and enjoyment of the gathering. After worship, conducted by the pastor, Rev. D. E. Hatt, the company departed, with words of thanks to their genial host and hostess, and wishing for them and their abundant prosperity and happiness.

DR. DEXTER APPOINTED SCOUTMASTER

The Season's Work Will Start in September With a "Come Together" Meeting.

A special meeting of the Boy Scouts Association was held in the Town Hall Monday when H. E. Jones presided. There were also present Messrs Swabie, Smalley, A. R. Turnbull, A. J. Dillon, H. B. Short, A. Boden, Dr. Dexter, Mrs. DuVerne and the Secretary. The Chairman said they were met to receive the resignation of the Rev. D. E. Hatt whom they greatly regretted losing. He had done excellent work with the boys and as citizens they heartily thanked him for it, and wished him every success in the sphere in which he was called.

H. B. Short also spoke of the efficient work of Mr. Hatt and sincerely trusted it would not be allowed to be for naught, but that a successor would be found to take up what Mr. Hatt was leaving. Mr. Short moved "that this meeting express to Mr. Hatt its deep sense of gratitude for the valuable work done on behalf of the Boy Scouts of Digby and greatly regrets the severance occasioned by Mr. Hatt's leaving."

This was seconded by A. J. Dillon and supported by R. C. Smalley and carried. Mr. Hatt suitably responded and said he hoped the 40 boys of the Digby patrols would continue in operation and suggested the appointment of assistants to the new Scoutmaster.

After discussion and on the motion of Mr. Short Dr. Dexter was unanimously chosen Scoutmaster and it was decided to have a gathering of the Scouts in the near future to bring together the boys and those interested and try and maintain a continuity of work. The meeting then terminated.

"Mary Clark has the sweetest voice I ever heard in Digby." "I wouldn't have missed it for twice the price." "The best concert Digby has heard in many years." "What a pity so many people did not realize what a splendid singer Mary Clark is." These remarks were heard at the close of the concert last week. They expressed the opinion of the highly appreciative audience who heard her, and who know what good music is. Why was not the house crowded to capacity? Why were so many people who like to be considered prime movers in the education and elevation of public taste conspicuous by their absence? Why do people throng to hear the stale jokes of a travelling minstrel show and skip the real enjoyment of a high class concert? Do we care more for clown acts and silly stuff which we forget before morning, than we care for good things which leave pleasant and lasting memories? People who heard Mary Clark sing will recall that keen pleasure through many months to come. As a community do we really care for good music, or is "jazz" our limit? Or have we been "stung" so many times that we have become too "cautious" and suspicious of everything advertised as "Dig"? Can we distinguish between "blatant" and honest advertising, or have we come to consider all show advertising as dishonest? Or is money too scarce to warrant anything but the production of low-priced entertainments, and must Digby then be contented with cheap shows? Or are we too busy with our own affairs? Probably a combination of all these brought it about that the Mary Clark concert, though a huge musical success, was a dismal financial failure. The Annapolis Band lost money by bringing her to Digby. This will be discouraging to others who have high class attractions to offer here. Never-the-less, it was a fair-sized audience considering the counter-attraction of two dances, two church garden parties, and the special excursion to Grand Pre, all on the same day.

The following editorial comment appeared in the "Annapolis Spectator" regarding the same concert which was given there the previous evening.

"There is no question that if people had known the musical treat in store for them at the Theatre on Tuesday evening, there would have been few if any vacant seats, but they did not realize how excellently their own band has improved and how the Handmaster, Mr. Yates, has improved his own efficiency likewise, while no one here really knew what sort of a voice Miss Mary Clark has or how she could use it. Her first appearance, however, singing "O Canada" with the band, was such a attraction to attract the audience would not be denied a second stanza, and so it went: "The Rose Tree," "On the Hill," "Madame Butterfly," "Ah, le Vieux Vireux" (from "Roméo et Juliette") and others, many songs in all, concluding with "Ave Maria." The "Little Grey Home in the West" also accompanied in music. But it is seldom if ever that Annapolis Royal has heard a trained operatic soprano of Miss Clark's calibre and tone. That she was appreciated she did not need to be told, for it was spontaneously evident. Miss Uriel Riley, too, as piano accompanist, surprised even her friends with her skill and with high encomiums. To say that the Band did well was not praise. They continued those who have followed their steady improvement in the past few years that it would be difficult to find in North America a combination of 25 high and gentlemen musicians capable of rendering overtures and opera as well as marches and ordinary band music with equal harmony, precision and effect. When they play what they have studied, under the leadership of Mr. Yates, they can certainly make any audience sit up and take notice."

The Annapolis Band will be heard in an outdoor concert at the band stand in Digby tonight.

You Just Try
NR For That Indigestion

Get your organs of digestion, assimilation and elimination working in harmony and watch your trouble disappear. NR does it or money back.

One Day's Test Proves NR Best

The stomach only partly digests the food we eat. The process is finished in the intestines where the food is mixed with bile from the liver. It must be plain to any sensible person who realizes that, that the stomach, liver and bowels must work in harmony if digestive troubles are to be avoided or overcome. This fact also explains why sufferers from indigestion, who suffer more or less from headache, biliousness and constipation.

You know how much better you feel, how much quicker your stomachs bowels will become as regular as clock work, how your constipation clears up and your good, old-time appetite returns! How easy, promptly your food will digest and how your energy, "pep" and "dangar" revive. Just try it.

You take no risk whatever for Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is only one box, enough to last twenty-five days, and it must help and benefit you to your entire satisfaction or money returned.

Five million boxes are sold every year—one million NR Tablets are taken by ailing people every day—that's the best proof of its merits. Nature's Remedy is the best and safest thing you can take for biliousness, constipation, indigestion and similar complaints. It is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

Annual Service in St. Edward's, Clementsport

The annual decoration service was held this year in Old St. Edward's church at Clementsport. As this loyalist church is of the oldest in Nova Scotia unusual interest always attaches to this event and on this occasion there were several memorable features.

The church was filled with summer visitors and descendants of the old families, the altar was decorated with the flowers of early autumn. In the ancient choir box sat members of the Episcopal choirs of Clementsport, Deep Brook and Bear River and of the local Methodist and Baptist choirs.

Eight of the clergy of the deanery marched in to the strains of "O God Our Help in Ages Past." Archdeacon Watson, of Granville, read the service and concluding prayers. The first lesson was read by Rev. Ernest Underwood, rector of Bridgetown. The second lesson was read by the Rev. Rural Dean Driffield, rector of Digby.

Archdeacon Armitage, of Nova Scotia, presented a memorial tablet to the parish on behalf of the Nova Scotia Historical Society. This tablet was accepted by the Chief Justice acting for the governor for the parish. His Lordship is a descendant of Capt. Douwe Dittmars, Loyalist leader who is buried in the churchyard. He thankfully accepted the tablet which bore this:

"To commemorate the loyalty, courage and faith of those United Empire Loyalists who here made new homes in 1783 and built this church, consecrated by Bishop Inglis in 1786.
Nova Scotia Historical Society, 1922.

The group of clergy returned to the altar to the strains of the Nunc Dimittis. The rector of the parish, Rev. A. W. L. Smith, made a brief speech in which he gave directions to the congregation. He then read the following poem which was especially written for the occasion by Joseph F. Gould, of New York City, a descendant of the Vroom family.

This house of worship on the hill,
Which back our minds to days of yore,
Our loyal hearts will render still,
Tribute to those who went before.

A better world is ours than theirs,
Who had to live that we might be,
They made it so, and free from cares
They have no need of memory.

A modest wall; they fought it well
The lasting conquest of the soil,
These hallowed walls are here to tell
The love of God that cheered their toil.

And as we gather here to pray,
Before the old Ancestral shrine,
May every spirit bear away
Some glimmer of the spark divine.

The Venerable Archdeacon Armitage delivered an address, and Venerable F. V. Vroom, Archdeacon of Nova Scotia, pronounced the benediction. The clergy then decorated the grave of Wolham Godfrey, the first rector of the parish. Meanwhile the lay members of the congregation placed flowers on the graves. Naturally the descendants of those who were buried here honored the ancestral graves, but in order that none of the dead and none of the living should be neglected on this day of memorial over a hundred bouquets of flowers had been placed at the disposal of visitors who were unable to bring any. Before the services closed every tomb had been decorated.

Canon and Mrs. S. H. Morris, of Middleton, entertained the Chief Justice and Mrs. Harris had the visiting clergy to tea in their summer cottage, the chalet.

KEEP OUR STREETS CLEAN AND TIDY

Main Thoroughfares Are Made Untidy by Being Littered With Banana Peel, Waste Paper and Similar Matter Carelessly Thrown Away by Pedestrians.

In taking a walk around town, for the purpose, largely drawn from particularly on a Sunday morning, the Boy Scouts, to keep the streets one cannot help but observe the untidy appearance of our main streets. As they go with banana skins, orange peel and peanut shells, waste paper, etc., thrown about, Saturday night promenade. This is not as it should be.

A paragraph has been going the round of a certain number of papers to the effect that a party of American tourists was photographing on a Parisian boulevard the other day, eating a popular confectionary which comes wrapped in paper. The having finished the delicacy, threw the bit of paper away. A moment later he was tapped on the shoulder and turned to confront a smiling gendarme. The officer pointed to the paper on the sidewalk, and suggested by signs that it be picked up. This, the shamefaced visitor did.

The officer then politely escorted the visitor to a nearby receptacle for rubbish where the wrapper was deposited, whereupon the minion of the law bowed low and departed. It must be admitted that compared with European cities, towns over here are not tidy. We are not so much concerned with keeping the streets looking neat as we should be. No doubt the general absence of receptacles for rubbish contributes in some degree to the untidiness, but the greatest need is the education of the people in habits of order and regard for public places. An Ontario exchange in complaining of the carelessness of the public in this respect in Canadian cities very truly remarks that nothing so much spoils the natural beauty of a locality as the presence of litter, and especially of discarded paper. The city of Boston imposes a fine of $5 for violations of its anti-litter regulations, and the city of New York is at present conducting a campaign, employing 8,000 juvenile inspectors.

A new airplane in flier has been perfected in Europe which does not reduce the efficiency of the motor. Silent flying has now become a fact after 18 years of effort by engineers.

Fred Brewer, of Chebague Island, Me., has credit for the largest pollock ever brought into Portland with a headline. The fish weighed 33lbs. and measured four feet and one inch from nose to tail.

A Rhodes Scholar, on being asked what impressed him most at Oxford, said that it was the presence of over four thousand men who would sooner lose a game than win it by unfair means.

What One of the Best Known Travellers in Canada Says.

"Now I am going to give you an un-solicited testimonial to say they in the best means advertising. Heretofore I have had a profound contempt for patent medicine, particularly so-called liniments. Perhaps this is due to the reason that I have been blessed with a sturdy constitution, and have never been ill a day in my life. One day last fall after a very long trip with him physically, I developed a severe pain in my legs and of course like a man who has never had anything wrong with him physically, I complained rather hysterically. The good little wife says: 'It will rub them down with this liniment.' 'Go ahead,' I said, just to honor her. 'Well she comes with a bottle of Minard's Liniment and goes bang. Believe me the pain disappeared a few minutes after, and you can tell the world I said so.'"

(Signed) FRANK H. JOHNS, Montreal.

WEYMOUTH MUSIC LOVERS HAD A TREAT

Music lovers of Weymouth were given a rare treat Sunday evening at the Methodist Church, when they had the pleasure of hearing A. C. Smith, of St. John, the greatest Canadian lyric tenor in solo and duet, assisted by local talent. Mr. Smith, who possesses a wonderful tenor voice of unusual sweetness and clarity of tone, sang "Shepherd's Song" by Jerome K. Jerome. Mr. Smith, who studied singing, was at one time a pupil of the late John Meighen of New York, and is probably without a doubt the greatest Canadian Lyric Tenor. His rendition of the "Shepherd's Song" was magnificent and sang to the audience and continued to his heart's content. L. H. Potter, Basses Cantante, pupil of Bryard Haddock, formerly of Halifax, sang "There were Ninety and Nine" by Clampton. Mr. Potter has been heard before in Weymouth, and his beautiful "Drifting" by Messrs Smith and Potter was greatly enjoyed by all. Weymouth indeed is grateful to Messrs Smith and Potter for the musical treat given by these two soloists, one of the greatest bass cantantes in the Dominion. It is regretted that Mr. Smith could not see his way clear to have given a public recital, during his stay here, for had he consented, the hall would have been filled to capacity. It is to be hoped that the future will again give us the pleasure of hearing Mr. Smith, as those that heard him Sunday night are loud in their praise of his splendid singing and those that missed hearing him will be sure to take the greatest opportunities of their life. Mr. Smith's voice reminded one of the great Caruso, for its wonderful pitch and the inimitable cotti, the greatest lyric tenor of the world.

Miss Grace Farquhar a graduate in music of Mount Allison University, presided at the organ in a pleasing manner. The church was filled to capacity. This is the second occasion this summer the people of Weymouth have had an opportunity to attend a musical treat at the Methodist Church, given by polished singers.

Anaemia

Thin, watery blood is no more nourishing than thin, watery milk—skin milk.

But you can soon enrich this blood, overcome the anaemic condition and build up the whole system by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. F. G. Simmons, 42 Curtis St., Brantford, Ont., writes: "For about eight years I suffered from anaemia. My circulation was poor, my gums and lips were pale, and my hands and feet were always cold. I was nervous and unable to sleep well. I had frequent headaches, neuralgia and easily worried or irritated. There was a buzzing sound in my ears. Indigestion was also one of my complaints, and I often was attacked by vertigo. I went to a doctor, who told me I was anaemic, but as I did not get any better I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after the first box I felt brighter and my headaches completely disappeared. I continued using the Nerve Food for a while, and I am quite well now, and cheerfully and gratefully recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to people suffering as I did before I used this splendid medicine."

Brockville, Ontario.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness and female disorders. I was so weak and nervous that I could not stand up. ## BOSTON SYMPHONY ENSEMBLE

We are assured that the coming of the Boston Symphony Ensemble to Annapolis is not merely an "idle report" but has been made a certainty thru the foresight of our local manager who is taking advantage of this opportunity of one of the leading concert organizations of the country, visiting the Province.

The date has been definitely set for Sept. 20th and from the interest which attends the announcement of the coming of this wonderful aggregation of artists, the available seating capacity of King's Theatre will be sold out long in advance of that date.

Maestro Augusto Vannini, the conductor of the Boston Symphony Ensemble has arranged an especially attractive program for Annapolis. This will include not only a symphonic masterpiece, but that wonderful overture from the opera "Mignon," several popular orchestral selections, as well as light, dainty selections, and will end with that masterpiece by the Hungarian composer, Liszt, the famous "Second Hungarian Rhapsody."

The fact that the Boston Symphony Ensemble, comprising as it does, thirteen of the most prominent members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, is to appear with the same personnel as made it famous in all the larger cities of the United States and Canada, will make this concert a magnet for music-lovers for miles around.

A limited number of seats for this concert, will be allotted to Digby and other adjacent towns. But these seats should be engaged well ahead of the date.

Conspicuous among the adornments of the bridal feast in Britain is an artistic and elaborated butter structure, as fanciful and elegant as the most beautiful bridal cake, and into this structure the guests stick bearing coins of gold and silver.

BOY SCOUTS' FAREWELL TO REV. D. E. HATT

The Boy Scouts assembled in the Baptist School Room on Friday evening last to partake of supper, and to bid adieu to their Scoutmaster, Rev. D. E. Hatt, who has been Scoutmaster from the inception of the organization in Digby. With his previous knowledge of the work Mr. Hatt was undoubtedly well qualified to undertake the inauguration of the Boy Scout troop which has now been in active operation for eighteen months or more, and upon relinquishing his connection with the Digby Boy Scouts was able to report a membership of fifty-two boys—many of whom had passed the tests necessary to qualify for King's Scouts.

H. E. Jones presided over the meeting after the supper had been served. The Rev. D. E. Hatt, who was called upon by the Rev. W. H. Driffield, the Rev. W. H. Watts, R. Turnbull, P. C. R. Harris and Dr. Dexter to address the boys; and all the speakers complimented the retiring Scoutmaster upon the effective work accomplished, expressing their thanks due from the Town of Digby as well as from the boys themselves, and wished Mr. Hatt every success in his new work.

A pleasing feature was the presentation of a "Shaving Outfit"

SEPTEMBER WEDDING BELLS RING MERRILY

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Joseph's R. C. Church, Weymouth, Wednesday morning at 7.30 when Miss Lena Boudreau, of Havelock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Remi Boudreau, became the bride of Ernest Mullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Mullen of Easton. The bride looked very charming in a tailored suit of navy blue with hat to match and she carried a prayer book instead of the conventional bouquet. Miss Grace Gaudet of New Tuskent was bridesmaid whilst Alphonsus Tibbault, of Boars Back, supported the groom. After the marriage which was performed by Rev. J. D. Comeau, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, the nuptial mass was celebrated at which Rev. Father Comeau officiated. After the marriage ceremony the happy couple spent part of the day at Weymouth, later motoring to the home of the bride's father where a sumptuous wedding feast was served to a large number of invited guests. The bride and groom received many useful presents from friends and relatives and will make their future home at Easton. The groom is a veteran of the World War and served with distinction with Canadian corps.

A pretty outdoors wedding was solemnized at Easton Wednesday evening, the contracting parties being Harold Mullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Mullen and by Dr. Dexter from the boys, who had carried out the scout idea and earned the money which bought the token.

Rev. Mr. Hatt suitably replied, thanking the donors of the gift and giving a few final words of encouragement and recommending the scouts to be loyal to the new Scoutmaster—Dr. Dexter.

The boys proposed a vote of thanks to the ladies for the splendid supper, and the meeting closed with "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem.

Miss Elsie Mullen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mullen. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. C. Mullen of Maine, a cousin of the groom, in the presence of a score of relatives and friends. The bride looked very charming as she took her place beneath a huge arch which was erected by her friends in the front of her home and awaited the arrival of the groom. After the marriage knot was tied the happy couple repaired to the home of the groom where the evening was spent in games and music, after which refreshments were served. The newlyweds will make their future home at Easton where the groom's parents reside. Besides the guests present there were also several outside friends of the bride and groom who were attending the District Meeting of the Baptist Church at New Tuskent. Both bride and groom received many presents from friends. The bride was the high regard and estimation in which they are held.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Thomas Church, Weymouth, Saturday evening, the contracting parties being Miss Mabel Saulnier and Jesse Dahlgren. Wilfred Ethier acted as groomsmen and Miss Gertrude Morrison, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. The marriage was performed by Rev. M. Taylor.

Under an arch of pink and white crepe paper and white wedding bell, a pretty wedding took place at Ashmore, Digby, Nova Scotia, on Sept. 6 when Miss Hilda A. Marshall became the bride of Mr. Lawrence E. Eaton, both of Brockton, Mass. The marriage was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Marshall. The double ring service was used and the wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. James H. Copeland. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Marshall. The ushers were Mr. Leonard McNeill and Rev. Handley Mullen, cousin of the bride. The house was prettily decorated with pink and white crepe paper, fern and cut flowers. The bride wore a gown of white satin georgette and a wedding veil caught by white stars. Her bridal bouquet were sweet peas. The bridesmaid wore a gown of white pussy willow taffeta and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. Kenneth L. Marshall, of Brockton, Mass. After a wedding trip to Wolfville, Kings Co., and other parts of Nova Scotia, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Eaton will return to Brockton, where they will reside at 44 Palmer St. Fancy ices and cakes were served by Mrs. Leonard McNeill, Mrs. Sarah McNeill, Mrs. Kenneth Marshall and Mrs. Hubert Peters. They received many useful presents consisting of cut glass, silver, linen etc. The guests were present from North Range, New Tuskent, Riverdale, Danvers, Wolfville, Maine, Brockton, Westport and Weymouth North.

At the First Baptist Church, Porchester at 8.30 o'clock Friday evening, Miss Marion A. Cossaboom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cossaboom, became the bride of Clarence C. Arms, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Arms, 541 Salem St. Rev. R. L. Webb, D.D., pastor of the church, performed the ceremony and the single ring service was used. The bride was given away by her father. She was prominent in the musical circles of Dorchester, being a vocalist of some note. She was active in the church work, serving during the past year as Superintendent of the Junior Department of the Sunday School. The groom is a former pupil of Roy L. Frazee, the well known organist, and a graduate of N.E. Conservatory of Music. At present he is Superintendent of music of the public schools of Clarksburg, W. Va. and president of the music section of the State Education Association of West Virginia. The best man was Clerk of Common Council, John E. Luksey, of Malden, a friend of the groom. The bride was gown in white bridal satin with pearl sequin over-dress draped with white tulle, and wore a tulle veil trimmed with lilies of the valley. She wore a pearl head-dress and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. Mrs. Reta R. Graham, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in peach satin. The bridesmaids were Miss Isabel C. Polson and Miss Antoinette Meritt, friends of the bride. They wore the usual taffeta. Mrs. Cossaboom, mother of the bride, was gown in black satin with black sequin over-dress and wore a corsage of orchid flowers. Mrs. F. C. Arms, mother of the groom, was gown in orchid satin with Spanish lace over-dress and carried rosebuds. The bridesmaids were Misses Velma Newman, Vera Bolan, Margaret Titchmarsh and Ethel Polson. The ushers were Wilfred B. Cossaboom, Omar G. Cossaboom, brothers of the bride, and W. C. Newman, 217 Webster St., brother-in-law of the groom, and Wm. J. Clench. Roy L. Frazee played the wedding march from Lohengrin and also gave a short recital before the ceremony. The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond pendant and chain. A reception in the church vestry followed the ceremony and the happy couple were assisted in receiving by their parents. The music at the reception was furnished by a trio from N.E. Conservatory of Music. The church was beautifully decorated, the ceremony being performed beneath a bough of bridal roses. The couple received many beautiful presents. They left by boat for Norfolk, Va., and will visit in Washington before going to Clarksburg, where they will reside.—Com. Weddings continued on inside pages.

CAMPAIGN FOR THE BLIND

"Help the Blind to Help Themselves"

FOR THESE REASONS

The campaign for the blind is launched with these objectives:

To secure funds to pay off the debt against the School for the Blind;

To secure funds to pay off the debt against the Halifax workshop of The National Institute for the Blind;

To secure funds to continue the education of blind children, which the present income of the School for the Blind cannot finance;

To secure funds to carry on the work of the Canadian National Institute workshop in Halifax, where the blind adults are taught handicraft work which enables them to become self-supporting;

To secure funds to carry on the home instruction work of the Canadian National Institute in Halifax, which has the same objectives as the workshop.

There can be no question on the merits of this campaign. Surely YOU will help it to achieve success.

Blind people, who are occupied are among the cheeriest, most optimistic, most successful citizens Nova Scotia has in her borders today. A man or a woman whose eyesight has been destroyed is compensated to a degree which cannot be understood fully by one who enjoys full sight, through the development of other senses to a remarkable pitch of keenness.

It is not difficult for a blind person to learn to read or to write, through the medium of the Braille system of embossed type. Blind students of our own school have made remarkable records as musicians, speakers, office workers, lecturers, and in hundreds of other branches of useful endeavor.

The awful plight of blindness comes only through enforced inactivity.

To compel a blind man or woman to sit all day long in the sun helpless, attended by possibly unsympathetic acquaintances, is cruelty of ultra refinement.

The feeling of utter dependence upon others is far more terrible than the mere loss of sight.

If you deny to a blind person the opportunity to develop latent ability which will make him self-supporting you are inflicting upon him torture which the simple fact of his blindness could never inflict.

And at the same time you withdraw from the community the benefit of the life work of a potentially valuable citizen.

The appeal on behalf of the Nova Scotia blind is not an appeal for charity, but an appeal for a practical expression of community interest.

We do not ask you to pity the blind, but to become interested in them for the greater benefit of the community.

There are approximately 500 blind men, women and children in Nova Scotia. Some of them were born blind; some became blinded through illness or accident after reaching adult years. Many were blinded by the Halifax explosion; and many because of injuries due to war service.

There are at present two principal agencies caring for these sightless fellow citizens of ours, the splendid School for the Blind at Halifax, and the workshop of the National Institute for the Blind, also in Halifax.

Blind children are educated, taught to read and write and to develop their natural talents for music, teaching or light handicrafts at the School for the Blind.

Blind adults, who are by reason of their age not eligible for admission to the School for the Blind are instructed in practical craftsmanship at the Institute workshops.

This appeal and the campaign which follows it are being made on behalf of both these institutions jointly.

There is no misery in blindness, once the afflicted one has been provided with an occupation.

A Concession to Home Investors.

In offering to renew the five and a-half per cent. Canadian Government bonds maturing December 1st, the same rate of interest as is carried by the maturing bonds, and allowing a bonus of one month's interest, the Minister of Finance is making a material concession to the Canadian investor, as this rate is higher than was paid on the recent Canadian loan in New York. The high rate of security which is the very best that can be offered in Canada, and the liberal rate of interest should lead to large investment in these Dominion bonds. Attention is directed to the official advertisement giving details.

Local and General

George E. Banks, editor of the Calderonian, Gold Hunter, was in town on Saturday.

Miss Evelyn Ellis will address a Mass meeting at Smith's Cove this evening at 8 o'clock, in the hall, in the interest of the School for the blind.

A government spool which has been moved from the mill wharf for many months is being converted into a pile driver to be used on the extension to the spur.

Fifteen carloads of pulp are already "parked" on the spur awaiting the arrival of the steamer Sheaf Field. This steamer, which is the smallest to load here so far, will take a full cargo—1,600 tons.

Readers of the Courier are invited when they receive letters from former students of the town in their neighborhood to send us any sentence or paragraph bearing on old times or new conditions that they would like to see in print.

The term schooner Souvenir, Capt. Outhouse, and the schooner Ethel, Capt. Newey both from Beaver Harbor, were in the harbor for the Maritime Fish Corporation. The former cleared to return to Beaver Harbor and the latter for St. John.

Grace Methodist Church: Services for Sunday at 11 and 7:30. Morning subject "The Fatherhood of God." Evening subject "The Holy Spirit." Divine service will also be conducted at Bay View at 3 o'clock. Preacher at each service the Minister.

Three cars parked alongside the curb in front of the Royal Bank were in collision yesterday when the third started ahead too fast and pushed the second down on the first. As usual it was the "innocent bystander" the first, which suffered the damage was slight.

At Partridge, the term schooner Francis Parsons, Captain Edmund Williger, is loading lumber for an American port, shipped by J. W. Kirkland, Schooner Francis and Alice, Captain Howard Taylor is loading coal for Digby. Schooners Hattie McKay and Nellie are loading lumber for the former for Wolfville and the latter for Hantsport.

Chas. P. Hinman, one of the oldest and most respected residents of Bay View has found every reason to be thankful on account of the excessive rain the past few weeks. The grass on his property has never been better and for the fourth time this year he has gathered a crop. Mr. Hinman is in his 84th year and is hale and hearty as a man of 60.

The American government's fleet of 236 war-built wooden ships was sold Tuesday at private competitive sale by the United States Shipping Emergency Fleet Corporation to George D. Perry, member of the law firm of Dent and Humphrey, San Francisco, for $750,000. The cost close to $1,000,000 to build each of these vessels, the fleet was sold for virtually the cost of one ship.

Rev. C. R. Cunningham formerly rector of St. Thomas Parish, Weymouth, but now of Sydney, has been invited to consider a call to the rectory of Holy Trinity Parish, Bridgewater. The rectorship becomes vacant next November when the present incumbent will go to the United States. Mr. Cunningham is the rector of Holy Trinity for five years before going overseas as a chaplain in 1916. He has been rector of St. John's since 1919.

The tug Springfield arrived in port on Monday evening bringing the dredge, Keta, Capt. Ring, and three scows from St. John. The dredge's tender, the tug James S. Gregory, also arrived. They are all the property of J. S. Gregory, of St. John, who has secured the contract for dredging 25,000 yards of material from around the "spur" to enable ocean steamers to lay to at all stages of the tide. The dredge commenced work on Tuesday morning with N. W. Hogg as local Inspector of Dredging.

"A JUBILEE BAND CONCERT."

One year ago last Sunday, which was three days after the big fire, the Annapolis Royal Concert Band put on a "Cheer Up, and Get Busy" Concert, in the pavilion at Fort Anne Park. "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow" was followed by "Work for the Night is Coming" and "Onward Christian Soldiers." Hundreds of auto parties from all parts of the province and throngs of other people viewed the desolation while listening to the strains of sacred and martial music rendered by the band, many of whose players were heavy losers in the fire.

Next Sunday afternoon at the same place and hour (3 o'clock) the band will play a "Praise God" and those who saw Annapolis in ashes just a year ago will find a new and better town, bigger streets, up-to-date furnishings, larger windows, more attractive displays of fresh new stock, and many other evidences of the dauntless spirit and the heart-and-hand co-operation which has made such reconstruction possible in so short a time. Visitors will rejoice with the people of Annapolis at her wonderful rejuvenation.

Local and General

The British steamer Sheffield is due on Tuesday to load pulp for England.

Mr. Watts will conduct service at Mt. Pleasant this (Friday) evening at 8 o'clock.

As will be seen by ad. in another column the Odeffolows are calling for tenders to have advertising in this local newspaper to come to the aid of his business.

Rev. G. P. Raymond, of Berwick, will be the preacher in the Baptist church next Sunday morning and evening; he will also preach at Hillgrove in the afternoon.

The regular monthly meeting of the V. O. N. which was to have been held on Tuesday did not take place, and will be held next Tuesday at the usual hour and place.

It is not surprising that the printers in the German bureau of money engraving have struck. They had to work for three days in order to make on their marks to the credit of one day's wages.

It is now generally recognized that no other teas suit the tastes of Maritime provinces as well as "Morris" tea. These teas have body as well as flavour, which is the combination that best suits our Maritime people.

The Digby, Clark L. Corkum, Capt. Ansel Snow, previously reported at Yarmouth stocked $2,975.26 on the trip of fresh halibut and salt fish sold to Arthur Pickers last Tuesday. The crew shared $58 per man.

George Nichols, of Acadiaville, was in town last week with a quantity of cherries from the trees on his place. He had sold a bucketful the day before. They are known as the September cherry and are as good as any in the market.

A solid concrete foundation has been laid by the town for the soldiers' memorial monument which has arrived and is now awaiting the expert who is to erect it. The foundation is a nice piece of work and reflects great credit on the street superintendent, W. W. Hayden, who superintended it.

The Weymouth term schr. E. P. Theriot completed loading a cargo of 10,000 feet of spruce lumber at Yarmouth on Wednesday. The cargo is consigned to the Genlucos, Cuba, market and after discharging at that place the schooner will proceed to Turks Island and load salt for Parker Blakes Co., Ltd., Yarmouth.

The foundation walls of the new Royal Bank building are now about complete and the floor of the vault has been laid. The vault is next door to the Courthouse and when we occasionally looked at the floor being laid we gave up all hopes of boring through from our basement. Thus does capital interfere with labor continually.

The insurance appraisers on the Odeffolows building, damaged by fire two weeks ago, have adjusted the loss and awarded the insurance which is only $150 less than the total amount carried. As total insurance was awarded on the contents of the building, both in the theatre and in the Odeffolows hall, and only $150 less than the total amount on the building itself, a better idea can be had as to the extent of the fire.

Work on the construction of a hundred-foot extension to the government pier has commenced, with William Oliver in charge of the work. Only a small staff is engaged at present, as the fact that a quantity of material bound here on the schooner Abbie Stubbs, is delayed on account of the surety of that schooner by the sheriff in Machiasport, Maine, brought about by a claim for damages in a collision case. It is expected the legal technicalities will soon be completed with the schooner will be here shortly.

The two masted schr. Catherine M. built at Belliveau's Cove, Digby County, in 1920, for the Catherine M. Shipbuilding Co. Ltd., was sold last week to British Columbia account. The vessel is one of the best known fresh fisher along this coast and since launching two years ago the schooner has been continuously discharging out of Yarmouth or the Pulp Mills. The Catherine M. is 87 feet long, 21.5 wide, 15 deep and registers 70 tons. The vessel is fitted with good power and will probably prove a very convenient craft for her new owners.

The meeting called for last Monday in the interest of the blind did not have such an audience that it should have had, considering the importance of the subject. The chair was taken by Rev. Wm. Driffield and after speeches by J. F. Downes, the provincial organizer, and Miss Evelyn Ellis, one of our own town girls who is the staff of the school for the blind, a resolution was passed endorsing the proposed campaign in the interest of the blind. Advertising was authorized and arrangements made for another meeting in the Methodist church next Monday evening. The Women's Canadian Club has been asked to take charge.

THE SYMBION LEADER

To the Editor of the Courier

SIR—Just as we do not have a general public can we do the wonderful event of the day, night when the famous Boston Symphony in a concert which will be for years by the time it is for the one concert which for each performer is a world-famous Boston Symphony.

Mr. and Mrs. Vannin, who have been in the same grade of the Orchestra, Wexford, and Lansdowne, solo singing, solo piano, and solo voice from the other members of the Boston Orchestra.

Never heard of a man who heard in this part of the world, never again. Annapolis Royal, N.S.

Down with "Nerve" and such a cost, and frequently missed. A travelling minstrel company was a joke or a great orchestra is a potent artist of the highest order.

The Boston Ensemble is the real thing. In presenting this masterpiece, the band relies on the judgment of the public.

Every musician, of the culture and social prominence, the other players and any event possible.

Directors: Annapolis Royal, N.S.

An innocent friend says "this high brow music, it was head." Don't fool yourself, for miss it, my innocent friend Vannin has arranged a sure skill to make every delight for the untold as well as for the capacious.

They Want Their Customers to Use the Telephone

A large manufacturing concern having many distributing warehouses established throughout the province recently wrote us for lists of Long Distance Telephone numbers between the places where these warehouses are located and the districts served by them.

This concern's object was to use the lists in connection with sales letters to customers and to encourage them to telephone their orders to these warehouses.

We were glad to furnish the lists.

That company is one of the ever increasing ones that appreciate how orders telephoned in make prompt shipments possible, and prompt shipments, as every business man knows, form an important element in the buying and maintaining of good will between manufacturer and dealer.

DIGBY BAPTISTS REGRET MR. HATT'S DEPARTURE

The United Baptists of Digby County met in semi-annual gathering, in the New Tuskent Baptist Church, Sept. 8 and 9. The opening service was held on Tuesday evening, when, after a song service led by Rev. J. H. Copeland, L. S. M. Hirtle, of Barton, preached a sermon from Nehemiah 6:9. "For they all made us afraid saying, their hands shall be weakened from the work, that it be not done. Now therefore O God strengthen my hands."

The devotional exercise which opened the morning and afternoon sessions on Wednesday were conducted by Rev. S. S. Gregg, of Bear River. Mr. Gregg's morning address was based on the words of Jeremiah 8:22. "Is there no balm in Gilead; is there no physician there? Why then is not the health of the daughter of my people recovered?" The text of the afternoon discourse was James 4:7. "Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin."

In both addresses the speaker strongly pointed out the need of God—the need of a closer walk and communion with Him—to the end that the individual live a higher and better life, and that the great evils of the world to-day be removed.

In the business meeting on Wednesday morning, C. F. Sabean, Clerk of the New Tuskent Church, welcomed the delegates. Rev. D. E. Hatt, of Digby, replied in appropriate words.

One item of the business meeting that touched sadness into the proceedings, Rev. D. E. Hatt, who shortly leaves Digby to take up his new duties as manager of the Canadian Branch (in Toronto) of the American Baptist Publication Society, tendered his resignation as secretary-treasurer. His resignation was regretfully accepted.

Pastors Copeland and Gregg spoke feelingly of Mr. Hatt and of his fellowship. The following resolution was passed unanimously to be recorded in the minutes:—"Resolved: that the Digby County U. B. Quarterly express its sincere appreciation of Rev. D. E. Hatt's services to the Quarterly as secretary-treasurer, and of the earnest interest which he has manifested in all phases of its work; its deep regret at his impending departure; and its hearty good wishes for his happiness and success in his new and wider sphere of duty."

The following officers and committee were appointed:—
Rev. C. E. Rockingham—Secretary-Treasurer.
L. S. M. Hirtle—pro tem.
Rev. D. E. Hatt, Bro. C. F. Sabean, Committee on Resolutions.

In the afternoon (Wednesday) the question of Denominational Funds was ably presented by Rev. D. Hatt. The increased allotments was explained. Miss Elliott, missionary on furlough from Bokili, India, gave a view of the Denominational Funds question from the foreign missions point of view, and showed how the decrease in the allotment to foreign missions is carried on in foreign lands. Surely the feeling in this matter must become, "We dare not fail to our trust; we must fulfil all our obligations."

Rev. D. E. Hatt closed the afternoon session with a report on the Temperance situation, giving a few flashlights of this situation, in different countries of the world, when passing to the situation in Canada, to that in our own province, to that in Digby County, and finally to that obtaining in the individual community. The speaker sketched the efforts made to bring Digby County under the Nova Scotia Temperance Act, and stated that, within a few weeks, this purpose will have been achieved.

On Wednesday evening, Miss Elliott, missionary in charge of the girls' boarding school in Bokili, addressed the Quarterly. She told of the millions of Telegu children, and of their physical, educational, moral, and spiritual needs. She held the interested attention of her hearers as she took them through a day's routine in her boarding school. Surely all who listened to Miss Elliott, have a larger appreciation of the great work being done in India, and a deeper sense of their own responsibility.

Resolutions were adopted expressing the Quarterly's thanks for the welcome and hospitality given by the New Tuskent pastor (Rev. J. H. Copeland) and people; and for the presence, and inspiring address of Miss Elliott; also were adopted resolutions expressive of satisfaction that better temperance legislation is at hand, and of the desirability of the fullest measure of law enforcement; of the recognition of the Presence and Power of Christ as the only cure for the world's ills, and of the need of prayer and of the forceful preaching of the whole gospel of Christ; of the wisdom and duty of patronizing our own denominational publishing house in the matter of supplies; and of the necessity of all churches keeping before the people, the allotments for Denominational Funds to the end that the whole sum asked may be raised and our Boards unembarrassed by lack of funds, and of the necessity of the churches keeping their spiritual life strong and sweet, ever laying emphasis upon the need of regeneration for the unsaved, and of the lives of practical consecration for all their members.

These resolutions indicate better than anything else in this summary, the nature of these meetings. In the beautiful New Tuskent district with its velvet hills of field and forest, in the spirit of warm hearted hospitality of its people, the meetings found an ideal setting and atmosphere for consideration of the work of God.

Has Not Lost A Day Since He Took Tanlac

"Before I had finished my first bottle of Tanlac, I began to straighten right up," was the statement made recently by William Anderson, a boiler maker, living at 97 St. James St., St. John, N. B.

"I had suffered from indigestion for five years and neither medicines or dieting seemed to do me any good. There was a steady gnawing pain in the pit of my stomach day and night. Sometimes I was in such agony from it that the sweat would just roll off me and I would get so weak I simply had to give up. I couldn't sleep or rest and got up mornings all in. During this time I had to give up work several times, and the last time was for four weeks."

"But in a short time after I began taking Tanlac I was ready for my three square meals a day. I have not lost a day from work on account of my health since Tanlac set me right, nearly two years ago. I eat anything I want, sleep fine and I can do an honest day's work and feel good and strong at the finish. My wife was all run down and her blood was poor, but she took Tanlac, too, and today she is as well as she ever was."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

They're talking about importing Welsh coal to keep warm this winter. We know some men who would prefer to keep warm with imported Scotch.

PERPETUATING OUR FISHING RESOURCES

Fishery Branch Propagation and Research Work Producing Results.

A report just issued by the Fish Culture Branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries furnishes some very interesting information respecting the work of that branch in maintaining the productivity of Canada's important fisheries. As a result of the collection and hatching of eggs, and the subsequent placing of almost countless numbers of fry in cognate waters, both the game fisheries and the coastal waters and inland lakes utilized by commercial fishing interests are replenished.

The principal species with which the branch concerned itself were the salmon of the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, and the whitefish, pickerel and salmon trout of the inland fisheries. In all approximately $46,000,000 fish and fish eggs were distributed, including 21,000,000 of Atlantic salmon, $5,000,000 sockeye salmon of the Pacific coast, 165,000,000 pickerel and $35,000,000 whitefish.

CO-OPERATION OF COM- MERCIAL INTERESTS.

In securing the eggs the branch cooperates very closely with the commercial fishing interests. A large proportion of the whitefish and pickerel eggs, and practically all the salmon eggs are obtained from the

"My Boy was Starving to Death"

"As He Was Getting No Nourishment He Was Gradually Wasting Away."

"Here's a story which will interest every mother. Before my boy was born, I was in such delicate health that the doctor didn't think I could survive the ordeal. For weeks after he was born my life was despaired of, so I couldn't feed him and the poor little fellow was left to the care of friends. He wasn't naturally strong. No care was taken in choosing his food and his poor little stomach became so weakened that he couldn't keep anything on it. As he was getting no nourishment from his food, he was gradually wasting away. Finally, in desperation, we sent for a child specialist and he said that my boy was starving to death. He gave him some medicine and advised a certain diet. The child did improve but somehow couldn't seem to get strong. This went on for four or five years and the boy still remained weak and puny looking. He could not play like other children without having to lie down and rest. My sister who lives on a farm near the sea, said that she could fix him up if I would send him to her. While I hated being separated from him, I was ready to make any sacrifice to get him strong. He was away from me for three months and it was with feelings of great excitement that I awaited his return as my sister had written me that I would be surprised when I saw him. When my sister got off the train, I could not believe that it was my own boy but she was leading by the hand. I never saw such a change in any child. He was fat and rosy and full of life with a happy smile. 'What on earth have you done to him?' I said. 'Why,' she replied, 'I simply made him live out of doors, gave him good food—and here's the real secret. I gave him three bottles of Carniol. Before he had taken half a bottle his whole appearance had changed. He got heavier, his face took on a colour and he would run round for hours at a time. The change in my boy is the most wonderful event in my life. I am a regular 'fan' for Carniol and never lose a chance to boost it. As I believe I am looking out of the window and when I see that rosy, active, healthy child running round, I cannot believe that he was once a puny, delicate boy.'

Carniol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money.

Transacted Thousands of Dollars' Worth of Business While Sitting in His Office ---By Telephone, Of Course

Mr. George S. Davis, sales manager of the Inverness Railway & Collieries Limited, Port Hastings, voices appreciation of our Telephone service in a letter addressed to our exchange manager at Port Hawkesbury:

"I have used the telephone for 90 per cent. of my business in the past three years and while I have had occasion to telephone from almost every important town in the Maritime Provinces, and have had no occasion to complain of service, I would not be doing justice to your office if I did not state that the service there was absolutely the best, in my opinion, to be obtained anywhere."

"I had occasion, twice recently, to talk to New York and successfully transacted some thousands of dollars' worth of business while sitting here in my own office."

Mr. Davis' experience is just another illustration of the fact that in almost every instance it is as easy to do business by the Long Distance Telephone as in a face-to-face interview.

ADD AN ISLAND TO CANADA'S LAND AREA

Interior Department—Surveyors Find Large Island In Great Slave Lake

In consequence of the renewed interest in mining and other activities in the Northwest Territories, the survey of Great Slave lake, in the Mackenzie river district, is this year being continued by the Topographical Survey Branch of the Department of the Interior. The lake is the second largest in Western Canada, exceeded only by Great Bear lake, both being larger than either Lake Ontario or Lake Erie. This survey is required for the purpose of establishing reference monuments to which isolated surveys may be referred, and for providing accurate maps of this locality.

Great Slave lake was discovered in 1771 by Samuel Hearne. Although many travellers and explorers have written of the land and its vicinity, among them Alexander commercial catch. Weather conditions largely affect the collecting of the eggs and the number that may be obtained, especially on the Great Lakes, where many of the Department's hatcheries are situated.

The parent fish are taken principally in nets and eggs removed. In the hatcheries close study must be given to the methods of rearing the fry. Experiments are constantly being conducted in regard to feeding. Many different foods are used and prepared in various ways. Certain foods are found to be excellent, but prove too expensive, while the fry soon tire of other varieties.

Canadian fisheries are an important natural resource which, apart from providing a substantial source of food supply, enter largely into export trade, yielding a large credit balance in foreign trade to offset necessary imports of commodities which Canada does not produce. Thus, every effort made toward stabilizing or increasing the output of fisheries by means of conservation and propagation should be encouraged.

MacKenzie, who gave his name to the river that carries the waters of the lake northward to the Arctic ocean, Dr. George Back, Win Ogilvie, Warburton Pike, J. W. Tyrrell, Seton Thompson, and others, yet no accurate map of its many topographical features has been prepared. Some 90 miles of the southwest shore line was surveyed last year by the department surveyors, but of the remainder of the lake, particularly the northeastern part, but little is known.

As an illustration of how much is yet to be learned of our more immediate northern country, Mr. G. H. Blanchet, D. L. S., of the Topographical Survey Branch, who is in charge of the survey, reports the discovery of a hitherto uncharted island on the lake, 40 miles in length and from 10 to 20 miles in width. It is situated about 20 miles north of the south shore, between the mouths of Slave and Taton rivers. There are hundreds of other islands of lesser extent in the lake. These also require to be surveyed and mapped. One of the more important is Caribou island, where there has been much recent activity in the staking of gold claims. Considerable interest in staking claims is also reported in the vicinity of Yellowknife river on the north shore.

The uncharted portion of the lake is reported to be dangerous to navigation for anything larger than a canoe, as there are many submerged rocky islands and reefs. It is part of the work of the surveyors to take soundings and to mark out water routes along the main channels.

Jack Russell, son of John Russell, of this town, is one of the party of surveyors to whom is due the honor of this discovery. In an interesting letter to a young friend in this town—Mac Wallis—he tells of some of his experiences in that remote region.—News editor Courier.)

STORAGE OF VEGETABLES

Winter storage of vegetables is an old question often discussed, but apparently not yet well understood. To store the crop seems a comparatively easy task, but to guard against heavy loss while in storage is sometimes quite a problem even for the most experienced growers.

Some of the first and most important factors influencing the keeping of vegetables in storage are to see that the vegetables are free from disease, well grown, fully matured and free from injuries such as bruises caused by careless handling at harvest time. If these important points are kept in mind and carefully attended to at the time of selecting of material for storage, much worry and subsequent loss in dollars and cents will be avoided by the grower later on.

For the storage of such crops as beets, carrots, potatoes, cabbage, celery, parsnips and turnips, a properly constructed, frost proof cellar should be available, with adequate ventilation to keep the temperature as constant as possible around 36 F. at all times during the storage period. By no means should a storage cellar become excessively damp, because excessive moisture favours the development of many of the common diseases attacking vegetables in storage, and more especially when in warm, ill-ventilated cellars. Moderate-sized, slatted bins or crates should be used for the storage of roots and potatoes, while cabbage can be stored on slatted shelves or in bins. Celery is usually stored in the root cellar. The plants are stripped of all rough leaves and placed in an upright position on moist sand, more sand being placed around the roots. However, where only small quantities of vegetables are to be stored for household use, and a basement is available, a compartment or room should be provided therein, of such construction as to exclude the heat from the furnace and with suitable venting in the wall to provide good ventilation. It is not advisable to store a great quantity of cabbage or turnips in the cellar of a dwelling house. A good earthen floor in the storage room is to be preferred to cement. Where an earthen floor can be had in a well constructed vegetable room, it is seldom necessary to store the carrots, beets, parsnips and potatoes in sand, because, as a rule, sufficient moisture will escape from the floor to keep the air moist enough to prevent the vegetables from wilting up.

Onions require quite different conditions, while in storage, to the other varieties of vegetables. A dry, cool, dark room is best suited for this crop, where the temperature can be kept around 34F. By no means should onions be stored in a cellar, except where it is possible to maintain a dry, cool atmosphere. Squash and pumpkins should be stored in a dry, moderately warm room, where a temperature of 50F can be maintained. Particularly careful handling is necessary at harvest time if this crop is to be kept for any length of time. Place the squash or pumpkins on shelves or on a table in a single layer.

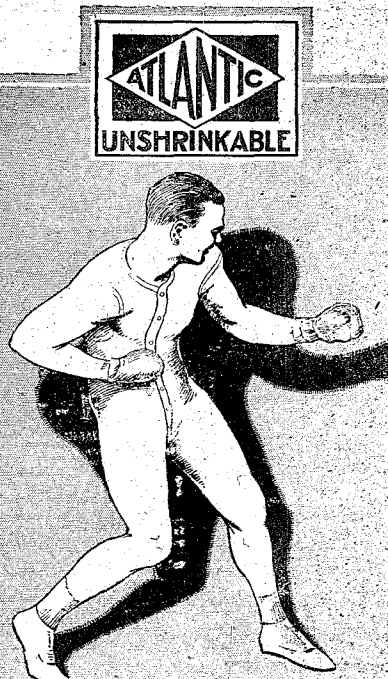

Mrs. William M. Polk, aged 65, of Portland, Me., has made 64 trips across the Atlantic Ocean. Her voyages have been to Europe and Northern Africa, but she is contemplating a trip to the Orient.

The marriage took place at Stella Maris Church, Meteghan, on Wednesday morning, of George Saulnier of Saulnierville to Stella Deyau of Meteghan. Mr. A. B. Cote the rector of the church, celebrated the marriage and officiated at the nuptial mass which followed. After the ceremony the couple enjoyed a nuptial repast at the home of the bride's parents and later drove to Digby where the day was spent.

Obituary

The funeral of the late Mrs. Augustine Saulnier whose death occurred Tuesday night of last week at her home, was held at Saulnierville Thursday, Rev. Father Levesque, conducting the services and officiating at the Requiem mass. Besides her husband she leaves seven children, five daughters, Mrs. Edward Comeau, Saulnierville; Adele, Flora at home, Evangeline and Celeste in the United States and two sons, Emile in Boston and Elie at home. Two sisters, Mrs. (Capt.) Frank Deyau and Mrs. Margaret Deyau of Salmon River, and one brother, Moses Comeau of Meteghan, also survive. The death has occurred at Little River of Mrs. Bernard L. Morehouse who had been ill for three months. But hopes were entertained for her recovery and her sudden passing has cast a gloom over the whole community. She leaves to mourn their loss a loving husband, three sons, the youngest about two months, besides her mother, three sisters, two at home, and Mrs. James Adamson in California; two brothers at home. She was a faithful member of the Baptist Church and an active member of the Ladies' Aid Society of which she was secretary previous to her illness. The funeral which was largely attended took place Wednesday afternoon, conducted by the pastor, Rev. T. F. MacWilliams, with interment in the Baptist cemetery. The floral tributes were beautiful. The Philanthia Class, of which she was a member donated a beautiful wreath, also the W. M. A. S. a cross of white flowers while other friends sent sprays.

Wedding Bells

A pretty church wedding was solemnized at St. Croix R. C. Church, Plympton, Thursday morning at eight o'clock, when Nora daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theophilus Melancon became the bride of William White, formerly of Gilbert's Cove, but now of Salem, Mass. ## Gains 15 Pounds On Only Two Bottles

"I took two bottles of Tanlac a year ago and gained fifty fifteen pounds, and I have been, in fine health ever since," declared Mr. St. John, N. B. a few days ago.

"My appearance has changed wonderfully, too, and many people have told me how well I look since this grand medicine restored my health."

"For five years I have suffered from stomach trouble and in spite of all my efforts to find relief, I gradually grew worse. What little food I ate, and was little indeed, would form gas and frequently caused severe griping pains in my stomach. At times I had a dreadful choking sensation and such shortness of breath that I would actually have to go outdoors so I could breathe easier. I had such bilious spells, dizziness and head aches that I was miserable and half-sick all the time and I was so weak and run down that my housework was a big burden to me."

"It was not long after I started on Tanlac until it was entirely rid of my troubles, eating heartily and easily doing all my housework. Tanlac is one medicine that will give you lasting relief."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Probably the only gum mines in the world are in New Zealand, where there is a whole district in which fossilized gum from trees that died centuries ago is found a few feet below the surface. The substance is valuable, for it makes the best kind of transparent varnish, and many fortunes have been made by men who have worked it.

Rural Route No. 1, Maccoche, Quebec. The Minard's Liniment People, Sir—I feel that I should be doing a wrong if I neglected to write you. I have had four tumors growing on my head for years. I had them cut off by a surgeon about fifteen years ago but they grew again. I had three more, and I had one as large and shaped like a lady's tumbler, on the very place where my hair should be parted, and it was getting so embarrassing in public that it was a constant worry to me. About three months ago I got a bottle of your Liniment for another purpose and saw on the label good for tumors. Well I tried it and kept it for exactly two months, with the result that has entirely removed all trace of the tumor, and were it not that they had been cut fifteen years ago, no mark would be seen. I have been asked for this testimonial and you can use it as you see fit.

(Signed) FRED C. ROBINSON.
P.S.—I am a farmer and intend using Minard's Liniment on a mare for a strained tendon, and am hoping for some results.

Questions and Answers on Forestry

by the Canadian Forestry Association

Q. What mechanical equipment is used nowadays by fire rangers in detecting and suppressing forest conflagrations?

A. Lookout towers for detection with here and there the service of seaplanes for the same purpose. Fire finding machines are used in the towers for fixing the location of the blaze. Motor speeders and velocipedes are widely employed for patrolling railway lines. Gasoline pumps are highly effective for fighting incipient fires. Small motor cars and trucks are used where roads permit. All these and other devices are helping to check forest fires.

Q. How large an area would be required to be planted with timber trees in order to give enough timber to support a small pulp mill?

A. The Chief Forester of the Laurentide Company estimates that 250 square miles will yield 100,000 cords of pulpwood in perpetuity. It would take just ten times that area, of course, to keep one of our big newspaper plants going. Please bear in mind that this refers to a planted forest which should yield 75 cords an acre, whereas the natural forest in Eastern Canada now yields only from four to ten cords an acre.

Q. I understand from explorers that enormous masses of logs are found at the mouth of the Mackenzie River. Where does this material come from?

A. The Geological Survey, Ottawa, reports that the derelict logs massed at times at the mouth of the rivers flowing into the Arctic have been carried all the way from Siberia, Norway and the St.

Lawrence.

Q. As a newspaper editor, I have always maintained that the daily and weekly press are paying the bills for forest fires. I refer of course, to the destruction of paper making woods, spruce and balsam.

A. Your statement is not exaggerated. Spruce and balsam are the raw materials of newspaper paper. Dear wood automatically follows forest fires, as the United States paper mills are finding today. When Ontario loses 700,000 acres of timberlands by fire in a single season, and Quebec another 600,000 acres, it is not difficult to understand that the price of depletion must be paid by the ultimate consumer of wood products. We cannot hold down the price of newspaper paper and at the same time allow forest fires the right of way.

ANNUAL FIRE LOSS IS TREMENDOUS

Next Week is Fire Prevention Week—Clean Up and Exercise Care to Avoid Fires and Remind Others to Do the Same

To School Principals and Teachers:—By Royal Proclamation, His Excellency the Governor General of Canada has been graciously pleased to designate the week commencing October 2nd, 1922, as Fire Prevention Week. The object of the period thus set apart for observance, is to reduce the tremendous fire waste of the Dominion, especially that which is directly due to carelessness and avoidable causes. To the furtherance of this purpose, it is recommended that special instruction on the subject of Fire Prevention be given by the teachers, that suitable literature be distributed to the pupils and that fire drills be held in all the schools, colleges and educational institutions throughout Canada.

It is obvious that the schools of Canada provide one of the most fertile fields for propagating the truths of Fire Prevention. If the minds of the young can be impressed with the fact that carelessness and carelessness characterize good citizenship, fire waste in Canada will eventually decrease. The lessons learned at school will be carried home and cannot but measurably affect parental habits. Will you therefore during the school week commencing Monday, October 2nd, carry out the programme we have herein suggested? It has frequently been stated that the teachings of our schools fail to touch practical things and does not prepare the pupils to take an intelligent part in every day life. If the observance of Fire Prevention Week, 1922, awakens general interest in conditions that cause the annual destruction of Canada of property worth more than $45,000,000 besides hundreds of lives, such will be eminently practical. Habits of care so inculcated and the sense of personal responsibility so created, will relate the teaching of our schools to a subject that measurably affects the economic welfare of the nation at large and vitally concerns every community and every individual in the land.

Most earnestly requesting your cooperation in this work I have the honor to be, Your obedient servant,
J. GROVE SMITH,
Dominion Fire Commissioner

During the past ten years three thousand lives have been lost and insurable property worth two hundred and fifty

"Would Wake Up Screaming"

"The Least Sudden Noise or Loud Talking Would Startle Him."

"Up to the age of eight, my boy was a strong, healthy lad, full of life and energy. While playing leap frog one day with some boys of his own age, and, while in a stooped position, a big boy jumped on his back and in falling my boy caught his foot in an iron grating and dislocated his hip. The pain was so great that he fainted and the other boys were so frightened they ran away. For hours he suffered terrible pain and when found and brought home was very weak, with his thigh and leg swollen twice its size. The doctor set the bone but the pain and exposure were too much for the poor boy and he became unconscious. A high fever set in and for weeks he lay between life and death, raving for hours at a stretch. One day he opened his eyes and murmured 'Mother', but this was the only word he could utter he was so weak, but I knew the worst was over. He got stronger but for months was in a nervous condition. The least noise or loud talking would startle him and he would begin trembling. He was quite lame and the swelling still remained. The doctor gave him a tonic and told me to rub the leg with olive oil. This reduced the swelling and took away the lameness, but the nervousness remained. The poor child would wake in the night screaming at the top of his voice. The doctor gave him several different tonics but they were no use. I found a circular about Carnol and it seemed so different from other tonics I like his own self again. It is hard to convince my friends that the change in him now is entirely due to Carnol. Of course I still have to watch him and give him Carnol occasionally but I know that he will soon be as strong again as ever he was."

Mrs. F. J. Montreal

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, "I have tried it, it did it, I have done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money."

THE SLEEPLESS ONE.

The hours I spend awake at night, Are not as peaceful as you think, I count each time those hours strike, And long the morning light to see; With nervous restlessness the motor boat Strikes on my ear with dismal note.

For want of sleep, each hour I toss
The weary frame, and seek repose;
The voices of the night are lost.
Then comes the day with all its woes:
The weeks go by, we long for rest.
It's hard to think, this way is best.

The memories that come by night,
When sleep we vainly seek to woo,
Reach round the world, see every sight,
The present, past and future view.
Our thoughts distract and make us wild,
We cry for sleep, as when a child.

Thus days and weeks and months pass by,
To those who lie on beds of pain,
They often dread when night is high,
And long for rest by day in vain;
But hark! those words in accents sweet,
"He giveth His beloved sleep."

million dollars destroyed by fires in Canada. In addition there has been destruction of timber of incalculable value. It is necessary only to consider the figures to understand the importance of a fire prevention week, and of every possible effort to educate the public against preventable fire waste.

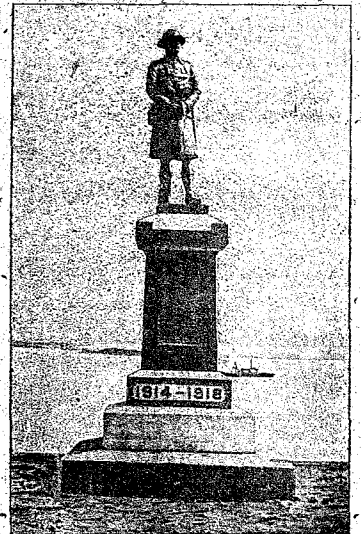

Circulars giving figures of the fire losses in Canada during the last decade, and suggestions for fire prevention, have been sent to all schools and distributed in all communities. Safety rules for the use of matches, lights, stores, open fires, coal oil, electricity, gasoline, gas and tobacco, as well as suggestions for the disposal of rubbish, best means of fighting fires, and of conducting fire drills, are contained in one of the school pamphlets.

In the proclamation calling for the observance of fire prevention week it is pointed out that during the past decade more than 3,000 lives have been lost, and insurable property valued in excess of $250,000,000 has been destroyed by fires. In addition to this recorded waste of human life and created resources, fire annually destroys merchantable timber worth many millions of dollars, and immature forest growth of incalculable value. Ninety per cent. of this great waste could be prevented by proper precautions, it is stated.

The attention of school children will be drawn to dangerous conditions existing about their own homes by a questionnaire to be filled out by every scholar. The children will be asked whether piles of old papers are left in their garrets at home; whether inflammable rubbish is piled in the yard; conditions of chimneys and stove-pipes and other pertinent questions. It is suggested that during Fire Prevention Week fire chiefs of Fire Department and other officials be asked to address the scholars in schools, and demonstrations will be given on the use of fire extinguishers and other apparatus.

LARGE NUMBER WITNESS UNVEILING OF MONUMENT

The Veterans, With Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, Turned Out in Strength and Citizens were Present from All Parts of the County

A beautiful monument—a sermon in bronze and stone—was unveiled here Sunday afternoon in memory of those from Digby and vicinity who fell during the great war. It stands on the principal business street of the town in a conspicuous position where it will ever be a reminder to the Digby people of the sacrifices made by our Digby people in the years gone by.

The dedication services opened at three o'clock with Rev. Wm. Driffield, rector of Trinity church—who has been chairman of the memorial committee since it was formed—presiding. After the singing of "O God Our Help in Ages Past," the statue was unveiled by Mrs. George

Turnbull, mother of one of the boys in whose honor the memorial was erected. The inscription on the tablet was then read by Mr. Driffield, as follows:

IN MEMORY OF THE MEN OF THIS TOWN WHO GAVE THEIR LIVES FOR KING AND COUNTRY IN THE GREAT WAR 1914-1918

Lieut. Chas. Dayrell Shreve, M. C.
Corp. Louis Lawrence Churchill
Arnold Morgan
Robert A. Cairnes
Barnwell Hutchison
William Blesley Hayden
Wilbur Shortliffe
George Archer Turnbull
Walter Van Fassel
Joseph Hopley Winchester
Leland Fournier Young
Edison Handwerker
William Sawrey Gilpin
DeVore D'Arcy
Harry Levy
Cyril W. Muike
James Robinson, Jr.

"Their Name Liveth Forevermore"

A devotional service conducted by Rev. Mr. Driffield followed, after which "O Canada" was sung by the assembled choir. Mr. Driffield, then, as chairman of the Soldiers' Memorial Committee, formally handed over the memorial to the mayor and town council of the town in perpetuity. In his remarks he reviewed the history of the movement from its inception by the G. W. V. A. until the completion of the work.

Mayor Driffield, in a strong, patriotic and stirring address, accepted the monument on behalf of the town and congratulated the committee on the successful completion of their labors.

Following the singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers" Rev. Mr. H. W. Watts spoke of the twofold object of the monument, first, it is our tribute to those who have laid down their lives, and second, it is to remind us that new duties, new responsibilities and new obligations are ours. The monument, just unveiled will constantly call to our attention the words: "Let Us Forget," and will also be a constant reminder of the covenant between ourselves, the men who have died for us and the God whom we serve. Three things are symbolized by the monument, first, the dignity of sacrificial service, second, the oneness of the British Empire, and third, the greatest unity of forces ever known. Our heroic dead had a vision of an ideal Canada, where the men, women and children of today should be true to that ideal.

Rev. G. P. Raymond, of New Brunswick, who is supplying the Baptist churches here for a few Sundays, was the last speaker. He expressed his pleasure at having been asked to take part in the dedication exercises. He pointed to the noble deeds of the Canadian forces in the war, deeds which have made the name "Canadian" one of which to be proud. No matter in what part of the world we are it is an honor to be able to say "I am a Canadian." And it is to those who made the word "Canadian" such an honored one that this memorial and similar memorials are being erected all over Canada, from Halifax to Vancouver. These war memorials are being honored by these monuments have written the name "Canada" high in history.

The report of the superintendent of streets and water was read as follows:

To the Mayor and Councilors of Digby: Gentlemen—Considerable work has been done on the following streets, namely: Water, Prince William, Carleton, George and King streets, and this work consisting of cleaning out ditches, rounding up the middle of the streets and hauling and filling in the following places with gravel.

The foundation for the Soldiers' Memorial has been built at the foot of Sydney St. at the cost of $15.08 made up as follows: 10 days labour at $3.00 per day $30.00, Mason one day at $4.50, 53 bags of cement $11.30 per bag, $58.90, lumber and nails $4.30, gas and oil for truck $2.78.

One wooden bridge has been put in new at corner of 2nd Ave. and Mary's St. of same 24x44; there has been also 2 cross water ways on the corner of St. George and King streets, and the Victoria St. near Meador Thomas residence. A lot of material such as stone and dirt has been hauled to fill up a large hole in the street at J. L. Feter's store.

The truck has hauled 145 loads of gravel for the street during the month.

There has been very little work done on the streets system during the month. I have dug up 3 water services, repaired and put back in good condition those of R. A. Abramson, G. Watkins and J. L. Peters store.

Had the water pipe opened at the dam and let the water run for a few days, also flushed out some of the hydrants, in order to try to clear the water.

Yours obediently, W. W. Hayden; Supt. of Streets and Water.

The report of the electric lighting management committee was read as follows:

The Electric Light Management Committee beg to report that during the month of September the plant has been working in every way satisfactorily, and the current maintained.

Several additions to existing installations were made and new wiring done. It is with great satisfaction that your Committee are able to report receipts of upwards of twelve hundred dollars during the month, with more than twice hundred dollars still to collect. The following figures will show a steady increase in the amount collected:

Collected in July for June supplies 790.00
" Aug. " July " 919.28
" Sept. " Aug. " 1099.20

There is now credit balance of $118.05 in the bank which, with the amounts still unpaid is almost sufficient to pay all liabilities to the Electric Light Co.

E. DuVERNET, Chairman.

Coun. Lynch, a delegate to the Convention of Municipalities, gave a verbal report of the proceedings. Interesting papers were read and speeches delivered but not of this nature much real good had been accomplished. He would not recommend the council to disassociate itself from the union as sometime it may be found to be an advantage.

The following accounts were read and ordered to be paid:

Coun. Lynch made a formal complaint of the number of drunken men found on the streets at the south end and suggested that more police protection be available. He cited cases where ladies had been accosted by men under the influence of liquor and stated that ladies of his acquaintance were in personal fear.

A general discussion followed and the chief of police was called in and plainly told of the condition and instructed to take steps to remedy matters and bring before the magistrate all cases of drunkenness and infractions of the temperance act.

On motion the police committee was authorized to employ additional constables if it is deemed necessary.

The Small Town Merchant Keeps

Up-to-date Stock -- If He Uses the Long Distance Telephone

The merchant in the small town store dislikes overstocking, but he likes even more being caught sold out or with out-of-date goods on his shelves.

If he uses his Long Distance Telephone discreetly he need not overstock, and he can always have a sufficiency of up-to-date merchandise in hand.

All he has to do is to keep an eye on his requirements and telephone the wholesalers or manufacturers according to his needs.

Besides the pleasure of handling timely goods he has then the satisfaction of knowing that his capital is not unnecessarily and indefinitely tied up.
