Welcome to the Digital DIGBY COURIER

1877-1978

100th Birthday

The hundredth anniversary of the Digby Weekly Courier has brought to mind some fond memories as contained in the following historical chapter of the writer. But first, I wish to congratulate the current editor of the Courier, Mrs. J.M. (Edith) Wallis, for a job well done over the years and still being well done, good service rendered with great fortitude.

According to any record, I have at hand, the Digby Courier, in one hundred years of publication, was controlled under the same family management for 42 years, 1931 to 1973, under the control of Wallis Print Limited. The late J.J. Wallis became editor of The Courier the second time, in 1929, and at the same time of the business, which he had been running for some time previously and which became Wallis Print Limited sometime between 1929 and 1931.

I well remember the last year of the twenties when I worked in the office of the son with the husband and father of the late J.J. Wallis, the Courier. Sometime in 1928 or early 1929, the late J.M. Wallis (Mac), son of "J.J." engaged me to work every day after school hours, Saturdays, and for some months after full time. The place of work was in the building of the present Digby town hall on First Avenue. J.J. Wallis then worked occasionally at the print shop but mostly across the street at the Courier office which was then located on land in the general area where The Royal Bank of Canada is now.

Wallis Job Print operated in 1929 with a staff of four consisting of J.J. Wallis, J.M. Wallis, Miss Eva Haynes, who later became Mrs. George Kicup, and myself. I was added to the staff in early 1929.

Eva's job was to run the printing plant but mostly at the Courier office. "Mac" worked nearly full time at all the different jobs at the Job Print, and I worked at various duties, most of the time being spent at operating printing presses.

We worked ten-hour days, six days a week. "J.J." and "Mac" sometimes worked overtime. I worked only the regular hours being paid a weekly wage which was comparatively good for those times and my lack of experience. I received four or five dollars a week for working after school hours to six o'clock and on Saturday all day, and nine dollars a week for full weeks after finishing school. A two or three dollar a week raise was offered to me in the fall of 1929 for me to stay on at printing, but I had made up my mind to enter a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, starting salary of $300. The bank salary figured out about the same per hour as for the printing job. Nevertheless, the congenial atmosphere of the printing plant those days, and, experience however short, were helpful and appreciated by me.

"J.J." was very jovial in his occasional trip to the Job Print and did considerable kidding all in good fun. "Mac" was a witty person who mixed in a good natured sarcasm now and then for one reason or another. Eva most always had good answers to all the kidding she was called upon to take, and, generally held her own in a quiet sort of way, always busy setting type. We four all got along very well indeed. However, I do remember that some days did seem long and weary because of the monotony of some repetitious jobs.

In spite of the great demand for printing those last boom days of the twenties, business generally being brisk, it looked to me that people had to work long and hard to make any decent profit. There was including treatment of the hands. However, nails and finger ends were used and I was soon back to work.

Now and then a printing job had a dose on parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad those days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would do that job on the largest press, in spite of the fact that we always opened an outside door to lessen the effects on the constitution.

One of the jobs I had to do, being the junior and printers' devil on the staff, was to clean out and then, one day not long after I started my job at the printing plant, I decided to clean the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned in some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily, he thought the remark pretty good and suitable.

Sometimes the gasoline engine or a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and after "Mac" the fix-it man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results, "Mac" would then stand back and cuss quite strenuously, then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of cussing."

On other occasions when some gadget refused duty for me and, seemed to be broken, "Mac" would say, "use a little oil," and sure enough, often that is all it took. How often since, have I thought of the value of that remark and the actual need of "oil" in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and, in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1929 got together just before dark one evening and decided to initiate the newly built outdoor Pines Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just east of the pool; nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys; no thought or time for bathing suits up to the pool they went. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in, the rest quickly followed and across the pool they swam. "Mac" listened to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Scouts Officially Open Pines Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the four? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Earl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korean), was awarded the Victoria Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent druggist for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby wholesale lobster king merchant; and myself.

As a young teenager I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me "how about writing your version of the story told about 'The Marooning of Jerome'." I had heard and read at least two somewhat different stories about the man who was found marooned on a beach at some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Digby County. When found this man's tongue had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome" appeared to have been a man of some considerable social standing and possibly of some considerable wealth. However the only thing the man could or would ever say after being found and cared for by some family in the French shore was, something that sounded like the word "Jerome". He either could not, or, would not, write anything about who he was or why he was left the way he was. Well, it was, and is, one of Digby County's mystery stories, and, different ideas have been expressed over the years concerning this man. However my response to "Mac" was, I felt no urge to write anything more or different about this man. The mystery seemed to have been very well explored in the mind of many people, and, he was a sort of curiosity for many people who visited where he lived for many years.

Three years later, I was quite alone in the street that I lived back and forth, led a boat clanking noise, powered by a small engine, and a "plur", and as I remember it, it was a "plur". "J.J." was noted for his sense of humor and his ability to make people laugh. In 1928 during the time Mr. Wallis was editor of the Scott Act (Prohibition Law) he was about and advocated by some people, and attached a boys' conference to the event.

Digby 172 Years Ago

Compiled by David Sanford

From the files of the Courier of January 23, 1867, the following account has been copied concerning Digby in 1800.

"Among a number of old newspapers kindly sent to us by friends is a copy of the Saint John Gazette of May, 1802, says the Telegraph and among other advertisements contained in the issue before us is one describing the town and township of Digby, and offering for sale certain lots in the town. In this area we are told the township of Digby extends from the Gulf of Annapolis westward to the extremity of the province of Nova Scotia, and contains about 130,000 acres." The town plot is thus described:

"The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Basin, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles across land from the head of St. Mary's Bay. This laid out from the water's edge, partly on level ground and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect, a view of the Annapolis Basin and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in where it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth of that name. It was settled by Loyalists from New York in 1783, the most of whom went early to farms, or, moving to older countries, left the whole side to be bought proved by about who now reside detached, built dwellings with orchards, and some fishery and. It has communal parts of the common provisions in a cheap, built readily to be from many circumstances, probability of place of some shipbuilding, the West India a cheap and of residence.

free trade with the U.S.A., especially with the New England States. The question was then debated by some Digby High School students one of which was "J.J.'s" daughter, Florence (now Mrs. Melvin O. Tibert, Freeport, Digby Co.) Some days after the debate a man from some part of Nova Scotia came to the printing shop looking for Florence, one of the successful debaters; I had the impression that this man was interested politically but, maybe I was wrong.

Well, I felt that I had learned considerable from my short experience at "The Wallis Job Print". I was learning to do beginner jobs, receiving some knowledge about things like: embossing, stapling, perforating, counting, cutting and trimming paper stock, mixing inks for certain desired colors, and so forth, but, the only experience I had at setting type was just enough to make a "pi", the printers name for a confused mess.

There was a taste of trying to sell job printing outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "how about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls around town, spent most of the time at one particular house, and got an order, but, it was much time and got an order, but,

Rosalind's Rustic Romance

By J. P. SHEPARD

(© 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Rosalind Menthorne turned down the corner of the page she had been perusing, closed the book, shoved it aside on the library table and gave herself up to day dreams.

The title of the book was "The Romance of Roaring Rutherford," and it dealt with a dashing young westerner who performed heroic deeds by the foot, and because of his bravery was rewarded with the hand of the cattle king's lovely daughter.

But Rosalind had another kind of romance to think about, and she was the central figure in it. She was loved desperately and wooed persistently by two young men. Only last night one of them had proposed for his third time, and two days ago the other had "popped the question" after having popped it three previously. Rosalind was satisfied that she loved one of her ardent wooers, but could not determine which of them it was. It was this perplexing puzzle that caused her temporarily to lose interest in "Roaring Rutherford."

She was Crabtree Center's most desirable daughter, when it came to looks and personality. She was plump—not too plump—and she had auburn hair—not red, mind you—and dimples. It might be mentioned in passing that her father possessed something else that was plump—a bank roll. Many Crabtree Center youth, with one eye fixed adoringly on Rosalind and the other attached hungrily to her father's dollars, had entered the arena, but all of them had failed and dropped by the wayside; if you can imagine waysides in an arena.

Only two of them were left. They were Felix Spriggins and Josephus Smartloox. If beauty played a part both were out of the running. The former was built much like the moon and the latter like a straw. Felix weighed 250 and Josephus 125.

During his spare moments when he was not a caller on Rosalind, Felix worked at reducing his girth, using gymnastic apparatus which occupied all the space in his room that was not taken up with the bed. But the more he labored to lose flesh the more he took on.

At the same time Josephus sought to acquire avoirdupois, but the only effect of this was to make him thinner.

Crabtree Center was small and its bank, where both worked, was a little structure resembling a jail. It would not have been in existence only for the fact that the town was built on a corner where the main highway, ways converged and the farmers used it for a social and business gathering place.

"Felix and Josephus are both nice boys," mused Rosalind as she munched a chocolate. "I could marry either of them and be happy—if only there was something romantic about one of them. If one of them would perform deeds of daring like Roaring Rutherford he would be my choice; but who can imagine Felix doing anything heroic? Josephus would be more likely to display bravery, but what opportunity then, for deeds of bravery in Crabtree Center? Yes, they're nice boys, and I know they both love me."

Now, Felix Spriggins had a heart as big as his bulky body. He loved Rosalind with all of his generous heart, and if he gave a thought to her father's financial standing it was only incidental.

Josephus Smartloox was fond of money, and he loved the lucre Mr. Menthorne possessed. Yes, he loved Rosalind because of her auburn hair and dimples, but he loved her more because of the bankroll of which she some day would be the custodian.

"Yes," mused Rosalind, "I must have romance; I must have a brave man. My choice for a husband will be the one who does a heroic deed. I will deliver this to them as an ultimatum."

It was necessary, of course, to deliver the ultimatum to each of her suitors on separate occasions, for nothing would have induced them to get together, not even the power of their love for Rosalind.

"I will marry the man who performs the most daring deed of heroism," was what she said. "I don't know how you can put your bravery to a test in this backwoods town, but I shall wait until you do."

The ultimatum appalled and discouraged Felix, for he knew he was not brave, and he feared his cause was lost. It was Josephus to thinking he was not brave, either, but he had imagination.

Things were humming along in their prosaic way in the Crabtree Center First National Bank. Josephus Smartloox was arranging some greenbacks into piles and Felix Spriggins was doing something with a big book and a bottle of black ink and a bottle of red ink. There were no patrons in the bank at the particular hour referred to.

"Hands up, all of you!" said a steely voice suddenly coming from in front of the inclosure that isolated the employees. "Stand up, every one, and back against the wall!"

The employees looked up and immediately raised their hands above their heads from behind their chairs. When Josephus Smartloox's hands went up each of them held a roll of banknotes.

and when he rose from his chair he chanced to be close to a corner of the wall that jutted out and shut a rear door from view of the masked man who was leveling two revolvers through the teller's window.

Instead of looking against the wall, Josephus dodged behind this projecting corner and slid out of the door, which carelessly had been left open. Little caution was exercised at the First National, for who self-respecting bank robber would think of plying his trade in such a community?

Josephus escaped with his hands full of bills. The robber did not see him, perhaps because Josephus was so thin he scarcely cast a shadow.

Rosalind was again occupied with the daring deeds of Roaring Rutherford when the changing of the door-bell aroused her, but before she could answer the alarm her thin suitor rushed into the room and waved two handfuls of greenbacks in her face. "Win!" Josephus breathed triumphantly. "A robber just robbed the bank, but I escaped with all this money."

He detailed the circumstances with certain elaborations, and Rosalind smiled and told him she guessed he was the winner. When they counted the money he had saved from the bandit the total proved to be $106. Josephus had been so excited he seized piles of one-dollar bills instead of larger denominations, which would have been just as easy.

They had scarcely completed the task of counting the bills when a stout, florid-faced neighbor woman burst into the room.

"Have you heard the news?" she exclaimed between gasps. "The bank has been robbed. And can you guess who was the hero?"

Josephus thrust his shoulders back and his chest forward and smiled with superiority.

"The robber got only $300," the neighbor woman continued. "He got only what was on Mr. Smartloox's desk. The vault was full of money—thousands of dollars—but the robber vaulted the vault, because Felix Spriggins backed up against the vault door and hid it from view."

AMERICAN FIRST IN FIELD

Mahlon Loomis of Massachusetts Had Idea of Wireless Long Before Marconi Perfected It

Mahlon Loomis, who lived in West Springfield, Mass., is credited with having sent the first aerial message in 1855, thus antedating Marconi, who did not begin his experiments until 1895.

In 1872 Loomis obtained a patent for his system of aerial telegraphy, and would today probably have been heralded as the discoverer of wireless telegraphy if he had been given proper financial support and encouragement from the public, instead of being ridiculed. As it was, congress passed the "Loomis aerial telegraph bill" in 1873, appropriating $50,000 for further development, but the sum never reached Loomis.

Loomis made the first public demonstration of wireless possibilities in 1893 from the peak of the Blue Ridge mountain in Virginia, 14 miles apart. A kite was strung across each mountain with a copper wire attached to a telegraphing apparatus, and the message sent by Loomis was received at the other station as though the two had been connected by wires.

Loomis also made successful experiments communicating between vessels in Chesapeake bay. The vessels were stationed about two miles apart, and on each was a telegraphing apparatus. Wires were attached to the instruments with their other ends thrown into the water at a moderate depth. Another insulated wire of much greater strength was thrown into a cold stratum of water. These two strains connected with the same battery made a complete circuit.

Living to Be 105.

Real centenarians seldom have striven to be such. But aspirants to that class are always full of anxiety lest they break self-imposed rules, and are generally contemptuous of the other fellow's schemes.

Two such men who once resided in Toronto used to amuse their friends by their criticisms of each other. One argued that his acquaintance could not possibly live to be one hundred years old because he drank only one glass of water instead of two on rising. The other was equally positive about his rival. "He hasn't got a chance," he was wont to say. "Why? Because he uses salt on his potatoes. I've seen him doing it." Both died before they were sixty years old.

Longevity isn't everything. Trying to live cleanly and do good is better than striving to find a formula for 100 years of tenancy on earth—Toronto Globe.

Whales as Divers.

Although it is a common belief among sailors that whales, when they "sound," descend to enormous depths in the ocean and although it has been estimated that the larger whales commonly dive to a depth of almost two-thirds of a mile, yet a member of an antarctic expedition challenges these statements, and avers that at about 300 feet is the maximum depth to which a whale can dive. He bases his statement partly on the fact that the fish on which they feed, and to obtain which they descend, are accustomed to dwell near the surface, and partly on the fact that at the depth of 1,000 yards or more the pressure is so great that they could not withstand it, and that their muscular strength is not sufficient to propel them into the regions where it prevails.

"Would Wake Up Screaming"

"The Least Sudden Noise or Loud Talking Would Startle Him."

"Up to the age of eight, my boy was a strong, healthy lad, full of life and energy. While playing leap frog one day with some boys of his own age, and, while in a stooped position, a big boy jumped on his back and in falling my boy caught his foot in an iron grating and dislocated his hip. The pain was so great that he fainted and the other boys were so frightened they ran away. He suffered a terrible pain and when found and brought home was very weak, with his right leg swollen twice its size. The doctor set the bone but the pain and exposure were too much for the poor boy and he became unconscious. A high fever set in and for weeks he lay between life and death raving for hours at a stretch. One day he opened his eyes and untrained 'Mother,' but this is the only word he could utter he was so weak, but I knew the time had come. He got stronger but for months was in a nervous condition. The least sudden noise or loud talking would startle him and he would begin trembling. He was quite lame and the swelling still remained. The doctor gave him a tonic and told me to rub the leg with olive oil. This reduced the swelling and took away the lameness, but the nervousness remained. The poor child would wake in the night screaming at the top of his voice. The doctor gave him several different tonics but they were no use. I found a circular about Carnal and it seemed so different from other tonics I had heard of, that I thought I would get a bottle. Three bottles were all that was needed to make my boy like his own self again. It is hard to convince my friends that the change in him now is entirely due to Carnal. Of course I still have to watch him and give him Carnal occasionally, but I know that he will soon be as strong again as ever he was."

APPLE CARGOES MAY GO FROM THIS PORT

The annual meeting of the Digby Board of Trade was held in the town hall last Thursday evening. There was a good attendance when the chair was taken by H. B. Short. The year's activities of the board were briefly reviewed and it was decided to forward a resolution of appreciation to Dr. Lovett, the sitting member for the constituency, thanking him for his efforts in getting the extension to the spur of the government wharf. This matter was referred to a long by the president in his annual address, and he expressed the hope that great things would come to Digby as a result. A number of ocean steamers have been here to load and unload and the captain had been delighted with the quick despatch given them and in comparing conditions here with those at other ports where they loaded Digby came first. Several C. P. R. officials were here in December before the ice was quite so bad and had looked it over with a view to getting a part of the embellishments of the wharf by the Digby Board of Trade. No doubt this will be done concerning next season. Capt. McDonald, of the Empress had given them the assurance that any of the freight steamers could load here with perfect safety. Another matter which the pulp people were trying to arrange was a change. At present the pulp is shipped by the Weymouth Mills is hauled out to the main line and stored until a steamer arrives Digby then it has to be again loaded on cars and brought to the vessel's side. The Maritime Fuel Corporation has offered them the use of any portion of the wharf at the head of the wharf they require (which they now hold under lease) free of charge and, again is expected shortly to look into the matter.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—H. B. Short.
Vice-President—P. C. Harris.
Secretary—T. E. W. Nichols.
Committee—A. A. Shortt, Dr. DuVernet, H. T. Warr, C. F. McBride, P. W. Holdsworth, H. E. Jones, T. G. E. Lynch and J. H. Jones.
Auditors—A. M. Swayby, A. Boden, Collector—A. D. Daley.
Rearrangement committee—P. C. R. Harris, P. W. Holdsworth, J. J. Wallis, H. E. Jones.
Transportation committee—H. T. Warr, H. B. Short, C. F. McBride, Dr. DuVernet, Tourist committee—Dr. Read, C. F. McBride, T. E. W. Nichols, J. J. Wallis.
The latter committee were given authority to get out a small booklet advertising the advantages of Digby as a summer resort.

THE CHILD IN THE MIDST

A Sunday school worker recently wrote that religious education was for the glory of God and to teach the Bible. The pupil was not even worthy of mention. A great many take the same view as is shown by the Sunday school work. The pupil is a mere pawn. But Jesus says the pupil is the first consideration. The consistent recognition of this one principle of the Master Teacher would revolutionize the Sunday school in building, equipment, organization and teaching. It would mean:

1. That school buildings would be designed and erected for the pupils. How often is the Sunday school designed and erected for the pocket book or for the adult alone.

2. That the building is a high vaulted, straight-pewed hall. Why? Because it is suited to the pupils? No one suggests such a thing. It is because the ministers meet there for the monthly or quarterly business sessions. Why do not more have suitable rooms? Because of our educational work we are not following Christ's principle. Blackboards, maps, and tables are very necessary every one asserts. Are they provided? The Sunday school and particularly the rooms for the younger pupils, home-like, bright and suitable, with floor rug, attractive decoration, tables, small chairs, at least one good picture, a copy of some masterpiece, or is it bare and dreary, with straight pews, or other seats so high the children's feet cannot touch the floor with disfigured walls and picture-rail daubs for decorations? The child accepts his religion in the concrete form of material things connected with it. Does the equipment in your schools show that the pupils are of supreme consideration?

Do the S. S. of our own town measure up to this standard? If not why not?

Local and General

The Pulp Steamer Damara is expected the first of the week to load pulp. The proprietress of a road house near Digby was fined $200 and costs on Wednesday.

Ice of an exceptional fine quality is now being harvested—a marked contrast to that which was cut first.

The Scania Steamer Myrtle K. was caught in the ice on Wednesday and had to be towed into the racquette.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church is holding a bazaar sale in S. A. Lettens's store tomorrow afternoon.

On account of the delay of the Halifax Express on Wednesday, the S. S. Empress did not leave Digby prior until 4:45 and arrived in St. John at 7:41.

The housekeeper who uses MORSE'S SELECTED ORANGE PECKO TEA and who brews it exactly 5-12 minutes in water that has just come to the boil, never apologizes to her visitors because her tea is not good.

Methodist Church: Services at 11 and 7. Preacher in the morning the Minister. We have not heard a word as to who will be preaching at the evening service. Mr. Nunn will preach in the evening. Services at Smith's Cove at 3 o'clock.

Next Tuesday will be nomination day for civic honors. No one seems to be taking any interest in it and officially we have not heard a word as to who will run for either the majority or council. Unofficially we have heard one or two names mentioned but there is nothing definite.

In the Baptist Church on Sunday morning the Subject will be One Lord, One Faith, One Baptism. Sunday School at 12. Services at Hill Grove 3 p.m. and in the evening Rev. Mr. Watts will occupy the pulpit. Subject "Jesus and Pontius Pilate." It is hoped this will prove to be rallying services all day after the recent storm, all hearts welcome.

Friends of B. S. Glavin, will be pleased to learn that he is making good in his adopted home in Seattle, Washington. He has been here in the largest fuel business in that city and personally takes charge of one of the large yards. Our informant tells us that he is married and has two children and he speaks very highly of Mr. Glavin as a citizen. Mr. Glavin formerly belonged to Westport.

From a New York paper we find there has been a reassignment of state troopers in that state. Four are especially mentioned and one of the four is Raymond, of Beaver River, in this country. During the first year of the Great War Mr. Raymond came to Digby and enlisted. He went overseas and served three years and six months in the 65th Battalion. He was honored for bravery in the field. On demobilization he went to the United States and became a member of the New Jersey state police and was in charge in Washington, one of the most important of the New Jersey sub-stations.

A clipping from an American newspaper was shown us on Wednesday referring to the activity in all lines of business in Danvers, Mass., and forecasting a big rush of business for the coming summer. The clipping states that the business of Maple Street, has been in operation day and night for the past two weeks in an effort to supply local manufacturing concerns with shipping tags and other printed forms in order to prepare for the big rush of business during the coming year. Many people in Digby will remember Charlie Moore, who learned his trade on the Courier.

WERE THESE DIGBY GUESTS TOO FRESH

A certain hostess, not far from Digby, recently entertained guests at her home and the guests were too fresh.

Now this lady was the fond possessor of a small new shiny tea kettle, in which she was used to boil her tea. It also happened that this same lady was a firm believer in the copious use of salt and water as an antiseptic.

Had the salt and water poured off the water at all might, he has been well, but the salt all unbeknown to the lady, decided to remain in the bottom of the kettle next morning the nice shiny innocent looking tea kettle was carefully set aside for use again in the evening, so when it was time to serve refreshments to these perfectly nice guests, our hostess filled the little kettle as usual and when it had properly boiled, poured it over the guests.

Imagine her consternation when the guests had departed and the members of the party were called to compare notes and she explained that she herself never indulged in salt drinking at night as it kept her awake.

A COMPLAINT FROM DEEP BROOK

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir—On Jan. 20th the stur. Centreville, Limited, arrived at Deep Brook, with a cargo of flour and feed from St. John for J. E. Rawling. After Mr. Rawling had cleared the cargo of flour, so that the Steamer could land her cargo without delay the Steamer had to go to Victoria Bridge at the mouth of Bear River to land for this new landing point. The reason for this was that the Public road leading from the post road to the Government wharf, was blocked with snow, after J. E. Rawling had requested the Road Surveyor to open the same road. We have since learned this request was refused, and the road was not opened for the public, therefore the going on Capt. Elias Rawling of Centreville, to tell the people of Deep Brook as we are sure it is no fault of J. E. Rawling or the Digby Steam Ship Co. Ltd.

FOOD IN FICTION.

Authors Pay More Attention to Heart Than to Stomach.

It is strange that so much should have been written of love and so little of eating," says a writer in John O'London's Weekly. "It is a most elegant pastime; but they are akin in this, as subjects for fiction—that we read more of love married and food split than of perfection in either."

"Gargantuan's birth-feast is the classic example of banqueting on a really large scale. Dickens' meals are mostly comic—David and Dora, in difficulties with a barrel of uncooked mutton; Mr. Pecksniff and his daughter, striving to impress the new pupil, young Martin Chuzzlewit, with slim sandwiches, Captain Bischoff's 'warty' and 'mutton' cake, and current wine. 'Pickwick' is, of course, packed with good, sound, patriotic English feasting, from the foot of the 'warty' and 'mutton' cake, and trimmings to the jovial Christmas dinner at Dingley Dell."

"There is a certain charm in reading about meals with a grotesque setting, as where Chesterton's 'Manalive' leads some of the inmates of the 'warty' and 'mutton' cake, and trimmings to the jovial Christmas dinner at Dingley Dell. Let us seek a contrast in a volume of short stories by Joseph Hergesheimer—'The Happy End.' Turn over the pages till you come to 'Broad.' It stands without rival in its eloquent, detailed, lucid descriptions of a dinner at a restaurant where the broad strike were starving; and, ironically, his disreputable wife was only able to swallow rusk dabbled in water."

"Grant Richards, Norman Davey, and Ernest Oldenhead, among the moderns, all adept at inventing scenes of food and attractive dishes. Arnold Bennett, too, has quite an epicurean reputation; you remember he delivered the opening of Parliament which takes place on Wednesday."

"Miss Merian Shade and Miss Edith Lovett will leave for Sackville on Saturday to resume their studies at the Ladies College."

"Capt. M. Morris, of the term schooner 'Gordale' Park, leaving at Digby on the week-end with his family, on his return Monday he was accompanied by Mrs. Morris who will spend a few days in town."

REPORT OF LADIES CIRCLE

The annual business meeting of the Ladies Circle of the Baptist Church was held on Tuesday evening Jan. 16 at the home of Mrs. R. A. Harris.

Notwithstanding the very bad roads there was a good attendance, all of the officers being present. The first part of the evening was spent in the usual manner after which followed the business part of the meeting. The Treasurer gave a very interesting report showing that the sum of $123 had been raised during the year by the society. Disbursements for the year $120 and with the balance left over from 1922 the society still has in funds $3.58.

The following officers elected for the present year:
Pres.—Mrs. Chipman Harris.
Vice-Pres.—Mrs. O. A. Fraser.
Treas.—Mrs. John Curtis.
Sec.—Miss Edna Peck.

Executive—Mrs. H. Kinney, Mrs. W. W. Clarke, Mrs. R. A. Harris.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake after which the meeting closed with some very interesting selections on the phonograph.

Help Helpless
Blind Babies

A Dominion Charter, without stock subscription was recently obtained for the establishment in the city of Ottawa of a Home Nursery, Hospital and Kindergarten for the blind under six years of age, free to all from any Province in the Dominion. So far nothing has been done for those poor unfortunate. According to reports received from the various Provincial authorities, there are at present nearly 150 in the Dominion. The late Sir Arthur Pearson, before his death claimed that "Sunshine Home," at Chorley Wood, England, was "the only home in the Empire for blind babies."

It is hoped shortly to have the second in Canada. To this end money is urgently required. "Help us with your generous gift. Let us forget. Do it now!"

Cheques should be made payable to the Canadian Blind Babies Home Association. Remittances will be promptly acknowledged.

Address: J. P. McKinley, Treasurer, c/o Blackett Robinson, Cor. Sec., 183 Dufferin Road, Ottawa.

Romany Rose

By DOROTHY SMITH

Derringer had been painting in the deep woods. Now that the picture was completed, he stared at the green tunnel which he had transferred to a bit of blue sky. He frowned at the tawny of his own work.

"It needs life after all," he grumbled. As if evolved from nothingness for his necessity, a girl stood before him—a fantastic figure in gay, clean rags, with a dark vivid face, soft black eyes and a cloud of misty hair under a sequined scarf.

"A gypsy?" he muttered aloud. She nodded and smiled. "A poetess—see me, sir? Cross my palm!" She laughed gleefully as she tossed a handful of silver coins. She caught them and dropped them into her pocket. "So!" She leaned against the nearest tree trunk, so entering deliberately into his picture, and her evasive young form fell into lines that seemed to melt into the rough bark.

"I dream—let me dream herself!" he decided as he hastily scratched in the outline against his painted tree. "Where is your camp?" he asked. She nodded carelessly down the green road. "They are coming," she said.

"Here?" he frowned a little. It was his own land.

"Always—my people camp here," she said curly. He looked around at the worn patches of coarse grass, at the struggling little paths that had seemed unaccountable to him; over there a busy stream whose bank had been worn down by the feet of vagrant horses.

"This is my property," he said after a while. "I do not want your people to camp here. They can go into my south field yonder." And he pointed vaguely beyond the stream where his farm lay.

She shook her head impatiently. "This place is the camp of my people—my father, my grandfather and away back. The wagons are coming now."

Far down the road hung a cloud of gray dust that came up to the tree tops. When the caravan had entered the wood and the wheels crashed along on the dead leaves of many seasons, the dust settled and the gypsy woman began to speak. "My people are coming, and the fat women lying in the upper compartments of the wagons were eastern beauties. Their color and hair set apart from the color and hair of the men. They were dressed in the saddle and approached him. The gypsy was beautiful in a smart way, with laughing bold eyes and black hair. He tossed off a ragged hat and when he spoke his voice dropped into a professional whine.

"The gentleman has a horse," he was beginning when Derringer jumped up and waved a dispersing arm. "Private property. You can camp in my south field," he said grudgingly. "Ah, excellent!" the girl's pleading voice was heard. "It's so hot in the fields and my people poor!"

"Very well," he said good humoredly, and picking up his traps he started down the path toward his home. The girl's voice detained him. "The peasant—you did not finish him?"

"Never mind—I will remember how you looked! Their eyes met and a velvety blush swept her cheek. His heart quickened. "I will come tomorrow—perhaps you will pose again?"

"It may be," she said dreamily, and as he strode down the path he was haunted by a certain lit in her voice. The last words she had spoken were as if spoken in another tongue from the broken patois of his first speech with her.

He thought of her the rest of the evening and he dreamed of her at night. He had determined to cast aside the winds and woo this Romany girl. What a wondrously beautiful wife she would make! He could tame his wild bird of the woods to his civilized ways. He visualized her—her hair dressed in the mode, clothed in amber satin with a sequined tower—she was all that his nature craved for beauty, and the soft goodness of her face told the rest! He determined to cast aside family tradition to the four winds after mid—no so he really fell asleep at last to waken in the early dawn to the soft patter of rain on the roof and the thought of the gypsy camp.

He dressed and breakfasted in haste; then in rough tramping clothes he went out into the rain, pulling his cloth hat well over his eyes—they were too betraying—and he did not want to startle the girl.

The rain was drumming lightly on the canvas tent and the gay wagons. The horses were under a canvas shelter and the children—miraculously clean—played quiet games. Under the largest tent they were eating—about twenty people—some in fantastic garb, others in ordinary garments.

"Hello!" cried a friendly voice, which he was startled to find came from the swart young gypsy of the day before, now clad in gay flannels and a blue jacket. "Come in and have a bit! I guess you forgot some of these eggs from your farmer."

"Yes!" stammered Derringer, feeling foolish under the gaze of so many strange eyes. "I wish you would plain things. Last night I left a gypsy camp here—this morning—" A chorus of laughter greeted his words. Then an older man stepped forward and held out his hand. "My name's Judson," he said. "Have some of the children been feeling you?"

"I don't know—" Derringer shook his head helplessly, and then from among the mirthful women a slender figure detached itself and came to him with outstretched hand. It was Romany Rose—dewy and wonderful in the morning light. She wore a little serge frock and her hair was twisted into a knot.

"I must explain," she exclaimed over her shoulder, and in that engaging voice that he had learned to love over night; "I began it in fun—we are impostors," she confessed. "We are not gypsies—we are only a moving picture company playing at gypsies, and your wood is ideal for a location—but the rain has stopped us."

"Then you must all come to my house and spend the day," he commanded. "I am Bob Derringer."

"I am Mona Deland," and when he had bowed low before the great picture star, she introduced the members of her company.

"I called you 'Romany Rose,'" he confessed, and it so happens that even now, when they are happily married, he always calls her "Rose of the Woods."

CANADA'S FOURTH OF JULY
British North America Act Signed March 29, 1867, Together With Four Other Bills.

Although the Dominion of Canada did not come into actual existence until July 1, 1867, the Dominion may be said to have been born when, on March 29, 1867, royal assent was given to the British North America act, which created the Dominion, and which has been passed by the House of Commons in the House of Commons on July 1, 1867, is considered the birthday of the Dominion, and as such is celebrated as Dominion Day.

The journal entry of March 29, 1867, states that the commonwealth was summoned by the yeoman usher of the black robe to the chamber of the house of lords to hear the royal assent given to five bills, the fourth of which was the British North America act.

The other four bills which regulated the royal assent at the same time were a bill for a dog tax, a bill about marriages of British subjects in Quebec, and a London "poor relief" bill.

The Cathedral of St. Michael, Armagh, began in 501 A. D., the year the Christian nation officially embraced Christianity and became the Cathedral of the Church of Ireland, in the place church in Christendom. It is still in the memories of 17 centuries of Americans who have worshipped there, and has many rare relics and a different atmosphere from most cathedrals in the occidental world. It is in this church that each Catholicos, or head of the Georgian religion, is consecrated after election. When a Catholicos dies, a word, wide vote among Armenians is taken, and it is sometimes a year before the ballots arrive from the seven seas. The new head is usually one who has been closely associated with the deceased.

Strive Always for Ideal.
There's a satisfaction in knowing you have something worth while to live by. It just naturally gives you backbone and gives clearness to your vision. Why, the very idea makes you stronger and you want to try yourself in things that really count. The results seldom fail to be to your taste, but they are infinitely above the taste of others. It's the loftiness of the ideal that leads you to see them as ordinary. That means you will not be satisfied. We will want something better to represent you. So you will strive to offer the world a better product.

Average Yield of Honey.
The average yield of surplus honey in 1919 was 50 pounds to the colony of honey bees, as estimated by the bureau of crop estimates, United States department of agriculture. This is considerably above the average of 45 pounds in 1918, and of 41 and six-tenths pounds for the five years 1913 to 1917. The relative proportions in which the honey of the last two years was marketed are indicated by 58 for extracted honey, 31 for comb honey and ten for bulk honey. About one-third of the product goes to "outside" markets.

Give Your Best.
Temporary holdups serve to "key" you up a bit. Like the flaming cross of Constantine and the fiery sword of Eden there can be no doubt about the inspiration of a living ideal. The very fact that the motto demands much means that you must give much. And it's a law of life that the more you give the more you are able to give. It's the giving that bestows the best. Love is at its best in bestowing itself on others. A spring is never good unless it is constantly pouring itself out. A man never becomes his best until he has learned to give his best constantly. The motto helps him do it.

The Wise Fool.
"Every man has his followers" observed the sage.
"Yes," agreed the fool "even if they are called collectors."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"A Terrible Experience"

"I Recall My Experiences with the Burglar with Feelings of Horror!"

"How would you feel if you awakened in the middle of the night with a flashlight shining in your eyes and the gruff voice of a man threatening to shoot? That was my experience the end of last March when my husband was away in the woods and I was alone with my three children. Everytime I think of this experience a shudder passes over me and as long as I live I shall remember it. At the time I really thought I would die. It's a wonder my heart did not stop beating. I was so weak that even if I had any desire to move, I could not. I was bathed in a cold, clammy perspiration. Even to recall the shocking details now makes me shudder. It was a result of this shock that I contracted a high fever and for hours at a time I was delirious. I got so bad that the doctor finally gave up hope of my ever recovering, but careful nursing. I was finally pronounced out of danger. The shock had left me so weak, that for no reason whatever, I would suddenly break into tears. All the life seemed to have been taken out of me. I kept getting weaker and weaker, so much so that my husband and children were constantly worrying about me. Doctors prescribed for me and while I willingly tried their medicines, only very few of them did me any good, but unfortunately the good was not lasting. My family asked me if I would try Carnol and I said, 'I was willing to try anything,' but felt that it would not do me any good. Four bottles of Carnol taken regularly, has completely restored my former health and strength and, while I occasionally recall my experience with the burglar with feelings of horror, I am otherwise as well and stronger as I have ever been. Carnol is the most wonderful preparation I have ever used for building and restoring health and strength. It has done wonders for several of my friends who I have recommended it." Mrs. Mac. et al.

Don't Travel, Telephone

When you want to speak to an out-of-town customer, you must either travel or telephone.

The glorious uncertainty of railway travel under winter conditions may, in spite of its cost, appeal to you if you are fond of adventure.

For, think: your coach may be too hot or too cold; your fellow travellers may be congenial or the reverse, or you may have to spend hours in speechless solitude; you may complete the trip on approximate time or your train may make a lengthy stay in a snow bank!

But, if you are not keen on adventure; if you are normally shrewd and put definite value on your time, you'll stay at home and use your Telephone.

Seat yourself at your desk in your snuggly office, call your man by Long Distance Telephone and talk to him in comfort.

That's the pleasant, economical, speedy and effective way.

Proceedings of the Council for the Municipality of the District of Digby, January 1923

The Council in and for the Municipality of the District of Digby met at the Court House, Digby, on Tuesday, January 9th, at 2 p.m.

Present: Councillors Rice, Marshall, Saunders, Nase, Outhouse, Pugh, Fitzgerald, Andrews, Cossaboom, Handsaker, Robbins, Hankinson.

The Clerk administered the Oath of Allegiance and of office and called upon the Council to elect a Warden.

Councillor Saunders was chosen as Warden and took the chair.

The minutes of the May meeting were read and approved.

Councillor Hankinson was then elected deputy warden. Councillor Fitzgerald, Hankinson and Rice were appointed a nominating committee and retired to select their committees; their report was as follows:—Assessment, the whole Council; Roads and Bridges, the whole Council; Finance and Public Accounts, Cossaboom, Fitzgerald, Pugh, Outhouse, Robbins, By Laws, Marshall, Cossaboom, Hankinson, Poor and Harless, Insane, Andrews, Nase, Handsaker, Robbins, Tenders and Public Property, Hankinson, Rice, License, Outhouse, Andrews, Pugh, Insane, Rice, Marshall, Fitzgerald, Arbitration, Andrews, Hankinson, Revising Jury Lists, Marshall, Cossaboom; To nominate Standing Committees, Cossaboom, Andrews. The Warden to be a member of all committees.

The report of Dr. W. R. Dickie, medical health officer for 1922 was read and received.

Dr. F. E. Rice was appointed Medical Health Officer for 1923.

Walter Thompson was appointed Inspector under the Nova Scotia Temperance Act for 1923.

A letter from Mr. Roberts, secretary of the Nova Scotia Municipalities Association, was read and a motion passed that the usual fee of $10.00 be paid the Union and that the Warden and Clerk be appointed delegates to attend the meeting at Amherst in August.

The Warden spoke on the matter of Assessment urging the Councillors to be very careful in a choice of assessors.

The question of the clearing of the roads in winter was discussed, many inquiries as to the law in this matter having come from all districts; the matter of having a resolution brought before the Union N. S. Municipalities, asking that the Provincial Government take over the supervision of roads in winter as well as summer, was discussed and a motion to this effect was moved and seconded, but on being put to vote was not carried.

The report of the chief fire ranger was read and on motion ordered to lie on the table.

Moved, seconded and passed that the assessment roll for Plympton be returned to the assessor, and that he make a change in the assessment of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Zeigler, the assessment of $270.00 to be changed to $120.00, this amount to be assessed to Mr. Samuel Zeigler.

Moved, seconded and passed that all assessment roll be returned to the assessors on April 15th, and that the assessors meet with the Council of their district to adjust the number of poll tax payers, and that the rolls be returned to the Clerk within one week.

Moved, seconded and passed that the assessment of the Boutiller Estate, Centerville, district of Sandy Cove, be allowed as $3000.00; it now standing as $7000.00, which amount the assessor writes was an error on his part.

Moved, seconded and passed that the amount of $12.24 be refunded to Ira Graham, Centerville, he having been wrongly assessed.

On a letter being read from the assessor at Hillsburgh asking that certain taxes be refunded it was ordered that the following amounts be refunded: to W. E. Harris Municipal $6.00, Highway $1.20, To Peter Dohohue Municipal $2.25, Highway 45c.

Moved, seconded and passed that road sections No. 1 and 2 in the district of Tiverton be made into one section, extending from Stephen Outhouse south line to Charles Buckman's south line.

Moved, seconded and passed that in Hillsburgh district the men living in district No. 1 from this date shovel snow in the district which they live and not on district No. 14 as they have done heretofore, also that district No. 12 extend to the Franklin Road, so called instead of ending at John Jefferson's as at present.

The report of the chairman of Tenders and Public Property was read and on motion received.

To the Warden, and Councillors of the Municipality of the District of Digby.

GENTLEMEN:

Your Committee on Tenders and Public Property beg leave to present the following report for the year 1922.

The ladies of the Canadian Club of the Municipality of the District of Digby.

Court House

The Janitor, Mr. David Hazelton, was re-engaged for the year and his salary remains at $40.00 per month.

The ladies of the Canadian Club of Digby engaged in relief work have continued to use the Chambers-room gratis during the year.

Your instructions to have Court House repaired by Mr. Rice has not been carried out and the building is becoming more dilapidated every year.

Orders based for Court House painting, including Janitor's salary, during the year amounted to $107.93.

The sum of $1200.00 was voted last year.

Your committee would recommend a vote of $1500 for the present year. Extra repairs $1200.

Jail

The total amount of orders issued during the year 1922 was $809.33. We have had no further trouble with water since the laying of the new drain, but water still comes in through the cellar wall. This is not very satisfactory at times for the janitor. The cost of running the jail, with the janitor's salary was $306.33.

We have had no trouble with our water system. The committee recommends a vote of $900 the coming year.

Poor Outside

Your committee assist on the support of the Poor Outside, the Home, during the year 1922 was $600. Your committee recommends a vote of $1200 for the coming year.

Alms House

Your instructions for water piping in Alms House, have been carried out and more pipe had to be laid in the basement. Since the new pipes were installed we have had no trouble with our water system. We have had considerable trouble with the escape of the inmates from the house and to the jail. This has been postponed for some time already. The committee met at the Alms House for the above purpose during the year and it was thought owing to the high price of material, to put it off, but it is costing entirely too much money looking for the inmates who escape, to delay any longer.

People everywhere like MORSE'S SELECTED ORANGE PEKOE TEA. They like it because it has a richness of flavor that is peculiarly its own. With out exaggeration it can be said that it is the finest, flavored tea sold in America.

For Inside

Orders for $503.02 were issued during the year 1922 for the poor and harless inside the Home. In this particular we still have a full house and expenses have not fallen to any great extent. You voted $400 and $300 for this service in 1922 and your committee would recommend a vote of not less than $4500 and $300 for 1923.

INTERESTING NEWS FROM MANY POINTS.

Charlottetown.

According to the Provincial Department of Agriculture, Prince Edward Island had a total of 793,398 acres under cultivation in 1922. On this acreage was produced 5,337,050 bushels of potatoes, valued at $1,707,956; 11,477,490 bushels of oats, worth $4,591,188; 492,465 bushels of spring wheat, worth $675,581; and 84,888 bushels of barley, valued at $84,888.

Halifax.

An increase of 54 per cent in sales between January 1st and December 2nd, 1922, as compared with the previous year, was recorded by refined sugar manufacturers in Canada. The total for the 1922 period was 1,125,025,148 lbs., compared with 729,597,169 lbs. in the corresponding period of 1921. Total shipments, that is sales, were 1,091,245,289 lbs., compared with 759,962,751 one year ago, an increase of close to fifty per cent.

Sydney.

It is reported that negotiations for a schooner to take an expedition to the Labrador "gold fields" early in February are being conducted here by an agent acting on behalf of a company of Glace Bay adventurers. Sydney men are also planning trips to St. John's, but they have no intention of seeing out for the rock-ribbed coast before July 1st.

Halifax.

It is reported that a large hotel, to cost approximately $500,000, will be erected here on the property of Sir Charles Tupper. The plan provides for the erection of a fireproof building, containing 142 guest rooms and allows for two later wing extensions to contain 100 bedrooms each. The structure is to be of brick and steel and will be 225 feet long.

Fredericton.

Exports to the United States from Fredericton district jumped $750,643 during the year just closed, according to the American Consul at this port. The increase is accounted for principally by the larger shipments of lumber, especially spruce, and of laths and pulpwod. Another product which showed a substantial increase was bituminous coal, more than three times the quantity sent into the United States in 1921, having been exported there last year.

Fredericton

It is reported that a new pulp and paper industry is to be established by the Fraser Companies, Ltd., at Grand Falls, in the event of the Provincial Government taking over the leases held there by the International Paper Company interests.

Montreal

A total of 928 vessels from overseas reported at the Montreal port warden's office during the 1922 season, with an aggregate tonnage of 3,341,459, showing an increase of 147 ships and 809,754 tons, as compared with the previous year. Two hundred and thirty vessels cleared for lower ports, with aggregate tonnage of 470,638 tons, an increase of 44 vessels and 116,253 tons over 1921.

Quebec

The Donacosa Company has announced an extension of its plant to provide for a production of 60,000 tons, as compared with 30,000 as at present. Prominent pulp and paper authorities consider that it is only a matter of a short time until the production of newsprint in this country exceeds that of the United States.

Montreal

Announcement is made that the Marconi Company will erect a wireless station at Vancouver at an estimated cost of 10,000,000 and so that direct communication may be established with Europe and Oriental points. Another station will also be erected at Montreal to link up Canada with the United Kingdom and continent.

Toronto

Arrangements have been completed by cable for the bringing out of eighty settlers from the Hebrides to Ontario. They are all agriculturists and range in age from 19 to 66. The bus upon which these immigrants are brought out is a fifty-fifty one between the Ontario and British Governments, with regard to transportation costs. All other expenses of settlement are borne by the province.

"My Heart Would Palpitate, I Had Weak Spells"

Mrs. L. Whiting, 202 King St. West, Brockville, Ont., writes:

"I took very sick with my nerves and stomach, and seemed to be all run down. At times my heart would flutter and palpitate so and I would take such weak spells in the pit of my stomach that I sometimes thought I would never get better. I had almost given up hope when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I did not stop until I had taken twenty-five boxes. It has done wonders for me and I want to recommend it to everyone."

THE VALUE OF NIGHT AIR

"One of the most persistent theories is that about the 'cold damp night air' being injurious to health. As a result of this foolish notion thousands sleep in tightly shut bedrooms breathing over and over again vitiated air and as a result we have colds and other ailments. The question might well be asked, what are we to breathe at night if not night air? But night air has been found to be purer than the air we breathe during the daylight hours. At night the activities of the world are largely at a standstill, and there is less dirt in the atmosphere. Science has demonstrated that night air is purest, but the old notion persists among many people. In summer the matter is not so serious, but in winter thousands and thousands, almost hermetically seal their houses and emerge in the spring like bears. Is it any wonder they suffer from colds and other ailments? 'Pure' fresh air is one of God's greatest gifts. It is most essential to health, and much more attention should be paid to it in school, church, and home, as well as in homes and offices. Let in the pure, fresh air—both by day and night."

REPORT OF ST JOHN'S GUILD, BEAR RIVER, N. S., FOR YEAR ENDING DEC. 31st, 1922.

The year 1922 does not show at closing as good a financial standing as did 1921, but as a whole the Guild has come more towards improving the church property. At Easter the Guild bought new gold vestments to be used on the Altar, and a brass altar cloth. New White Altar hangings were also the work and gift of members of the Guild.

In the early Spring work on the church grounds which was started in the Autumn was completed so that now the lawn in front of the church presents a very creditable appearance. The Guild paid for a large portion of this work at this time. The Guild funds were somewhat short and a balance of some $20 was paid by Mr. Farquhar out of other Church Funds. Thanks are due to Mr. Farquhar for his work and interest and to Mr. W. G. Clarke for his donation of gravel.

We regret the loss during the year of several of our members, but we are glad to welcome some new ones especially two future members the Misses Beiler and Ryle.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Romans very kindly entertained at a Congregation Social as a farewell party to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smith on their leaving for England. The Guild presented Mr. and Mrs. Smith with a small gift.

The Ladies of the Guild assisted at the Annual Garden Party at Clementsport the funds from which are being used for improving the old church burying ground.

"If I had known of Zam-Buk five years ago, it would have saved indescribable misery."

says Mr. F. Asbridge, of St. Paul St., St. Catharines, Ont. "The intense pains often caused me to cry aloud in agony. During my years of suffering I tried just about everything that I heard was good for piles. It was quite useless, however, and I despaired until one day, after using a sample box of Zam-Buk that a friend happened to bring along, I felt such pronounced ease that I was encouraged to persevere with the treatment. I got through three boxes of Zam-Buk in all and by that time my great joy, all evidence of the piles had completely gone.

In piles, abscesses, ulcers, etc., no one should ever submit to an operation before trying Zam-Buk. This renowned herbal balm with its unique soothing, healing and germicidal properties cannot be equalled for dealing with pain, soreness, swelling or inflammation. Zam-Buk is also splendid in eczema, ringworm and scalp sores, burns, scalds, colds on the chest, rheumatism and other winter aches and pains.

Proceedings of the Council for the Municipality of the District of Digby, January, 1923

To The Warden and Council of The Municipality of Digby:

GENTLEMEN:—We have now concluded our audit of the accounts and records of the Municipal Office for the year 1922.

Our work included a complete audit of the financial transactions of the period, the closing of the books and drawing Revenue and Expenditure statements to reveal the income for the year and the purposes to which it was devoted, together with the resulting surplus for the period, also to compile a financial statement at the closing date, showing the Assets and Liabilities of the District and exhibiting in detailed accounts the amounts owed by and to the Municipality and the Surplus of Assets over Liabilities remaining.

The audit reveals that all municipal cash income received by the Treasurer was deposited in the Bank funds and withdrawn therefrom as authorized and ordered for legitimate expenditure, and that the over draft shown by the Bank account is correct.

We find that the duties of Clerk and Treasurer have been carried out in a proper and creditable manner and that the modern system of Municipal Accounts installed by our firm, has been followed out carefully and consistently and that the books as closed are in an excellent condition, any possible information as to the Municipality's financial transactions being at once available for reference.

Local and Personal

Geo. O. Hankinson was a passenger to Yarmouth on Wednesday on business in Camp Hill Hospital for several days. Hankinson, who has arrived there with a cargo of care for St. Bon's, from Portland, Me., Mr. Hankinson expects to be away several days.

"The Shook's Wife" was the special feature drama presented at the Grand Eastern Theatre, Friday evening. The play is very absorbing and the interest is kept until the end of the last act. A good sized audience packed the house for the occasion.

The extremely fine weather of the last two or three days has been used to great advantage in the harvesting of ice. Lester, who had the contract to supply all the owners of ice houses, has quite a few men cutting the ice on Journey's lake, and several others on the other lakes. The ice is about twenty inches thick, with about ten to twelve inches of good ice, and the balance, which is what is to be cut off the ice.

Cap. B. N. Melanson, of Gilbert's Cove was in town Friday on business.

Smith and the Bank Thieves

Duguid Forsythe smiled with the innocent amusement of one who watches himself struggle in the grip of fate and has grown tired of resistance. He looked the door of his cage behind him and, with his suitcase in hand, he had almost reached it when a hand was laid on his shoulder. Forsythe looked up into the kindly face of Mr. Smith, the manager.

"Will you come into my office a moment, Mr. Forsythe," asked the latter.

"Mr. Forsythe," said Smith, "Mr. Swain died suddenly this morning. We thought he would be able to return to duty, but the end came unexpectedly. We have decided to give you his position, and to pay you his salary."

"You have worked for me faithfully and efficiently for seven years. Your present salary is—"

"Two thousand six," answered Forsythe, averting his eyes.

"You will start on Monday morning at $3,500," said Mr. Smith. "That is the assistant manager's regular salary. Please let me see your key."

"I have it in my pocket," said Forsythe, handing over the key. "I will start on Monday at nine o'clock. Thank you! Good-day!"

A minute later Forsythe was standing on the curb in front of the bank, breathless and bewildered. It was a Saturday afternoon, and in his suitcase he had a ticket for Panama and $5,000 in bills, the property of the bank.

He had been driven to it. He had tried to keep Maud and her little girl in comfort. He had plunged deeper and deeper in debt. Loan sharks threatened him with a "bawling out," which would mean the loss of his position. And Maud lay sick in a southern sanatorium, and Maud's health was a relative. Maud had undergone a desperate operation successfully, but it would be weeks before she was well. The news of his defection would not reach her in time.

The crudeness and impossibility of his plan had not troubled him. When a man is surrounded by creditors and sharks his life becomes such a nightmarish struggle that he grasps at any release, knowing that the theft would be discovered till Monday.

And now his brain swam, his senses reeled.

He must get the money back into the safe!

If only he had not yielded to that temptation!

Next day was Sunday. Evidently he went outside his apartment building, his footsteps seemed to turn in the direction of the bank, which lay only a few blocks away.

At eight o'clock that evening he was standing outside for the fourth time that day.

At midnight he was still pacing the street.

One o'clock boomed from the church steeple. Forsythe turned homeward. He would confess upon the morrow. He would go to Mr. Smith and say that he had stolen the money.

He would go to Mr. Smith and say that he had stolen the money.

Severe Kidney Trouble

Mrs. F. Rinehart, Campbellville, Ont., writes:

"I had trouble with my kidneys and very frequent urination. This was followed by pains which at times were very severe. The doctor said I had inflammation of the bladder and that an operation might be necessary. To this I refused, and began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. From the first few doses I felt the benefit. The pains left, urination was corrected, and I have had no recurrence of these ailments."

IRELAND.

Seamus MacManus Speaks Well of "Distressful Country."

A more pleasant picture of Ireland of the present day than is afforded by the cables is given by Seamus MacManus. Only the high spots of conflicts and crimes are usually sent over the wires, and they are doubtless exaggerated, but Mr. MacManus writes in the New York Times of a pleasant Ireland as seen on a return visit.

"Ireland is very much more prosperous than it used to be. This not only holds young people in the country, but has stimulated marriage. Whereas Ireland, through stress of circumstances, had been falling into depressed backwardness, the people now marry early and often, to speak colloquially. Instead of waiting to the age of about 35 to marry, they now take wives in the early 20's. So the blithe fairies who have been disappearing from the Irish hill-sides are covering them thickly again."

"The national habit of drink, Mr. MacManus should be the stark. A recent census shows the turning of the tide of the Irish race. In three quarters of a century the population fell from 9,000,000 to 4,460,000. This dreadful drop has suddenly stopped and the tide has turned. Great work has improved the physical condition of the young men, and the visitor found them far advanced in the bottle race and the Irishman is now in a state of dress and in natural ease of manner. Young men carry themselves with an erectness and independence far away from the cowering, cringing, swagging. Young women have a quiet, easy bearing which becomes their engaging shyness of look."

"The Irishman used to have the name of being a drinker," says Mr. MacManus. "From my observation and the fact that I had with me a few who know, I should say that at the present time the Englishman and Scotsman are running neck and neck in the bottle race and the Irishman is nowhere. The drink reform had been progressing for twenty years, but it was not speeded by the Anglo-Irish sect of the last dozen years—during which the avoidance of drink was, with the boys, a badge of honor as well as a religious tenet."

A Staffordshire Lad.

Henry Clews, the Dean of Wall Street, is one of the leading financiers in the United States, and for thirty years has been active in business affairs.

A native of Staffordshire, England, Henry Clews came to America as a young man, and went into business. He was one of the organizers of the banking firm of Stout, Clews and Jackson. In 1877 he re-organized his interests into Henry Clews & Co., and under his management the firm does business to-day.

Selmon P. Chase, Secretary of the Treasury, and Frank B. Rowland, Secretary of the Civil Service Commission, were in Wall Street in 1881, appointed Mr. Clews, temporary financial agent for the sale of Federal Government bonds. Later on President Garfield appointed him special agent of the United States for all foreign governments. In this capacity he was an adviser in the creation of the modern financial system of Japan, and for his services to that power he was decorated in 1896 as a commander of the Order of the Rising Sun.

Mr. Clews was a founder of the Union League Club of New York, holds membership in many of the prominent clubs in America and abroad, and has long been active in support of various educational and charitable institutions.

Always a staunch Republican in politics, Mr. Clews twice declined office in the creation of the modern financial system of Japan, and for his services to that power he was decorated in 1896 as a commander of the Order of the Rising Sun.

Mr. Clews has written a number of books mostly concerning his experiences in the financial world. His career has been highly interesting and successful and he stands well up in the ranks of American financiers.

The Spinning Top.

Everyone who has ever whirled a string to which a stone is tied must have noticed the strong "pull" as the stone tried to get away. Every part of a spinning top in trying to fly away from the center of the top in exactly the same way. This pull is called centrifugal force—the tendency to fly from the centre.

As each particle of the top had an equal pull, none of them can upset the balance of any of the others, and so we get a balanced force.

So long as this force is strong enough—that is, so long as the spin lasts—it counteracts the ordinary power of gravity, which has to counteract the pull of the top, the only point actually touching the earth.

When the top slows down, the centrifugal force weakens, gravity comes into its own again—and the top falls over.

A Foregone Conclusion.

The argument started with the soup, progressed during the fish, swelled visibly when the joint came, until at dessert husband and wife were so thoroughly in dispute that they could continue no longer. "I don't know what would happen, John, if you ever agreed with me on any subject," the finally said his wife. He looked at her, and sighed; "I'd be wrong," he said, "I'd be wrong!"

REPORT OF WOMAN'S INSTITUTE

The regular session of the Women's Institute was held in Division Hall, Monday afternoon, Feb. 5. The president, Mrs. W. M. Rouman, presided. The report showed a report of $14.00 on hand. The reports from the different committees were very interesting. The health committee reported having served 435 cups of cocoa in the schools during the month of January. The new members for the library committee were Mrs. W. M. Rouman, publicity committee Miss Edna Peck, entertainment committee Mrs. A. G. MacIntyre, school visitors for the month of February Mrs. Fred Harris and Mrs. Arthur Grogan. We were favored with music by a ladies' trio and by the teachers demonstrating calisthenics exercises to music. A special meeting will be held in the library room Saturday afternoon to receive reports from the special committees appointed at the meeting on Monday.

Obituary

The relatives and friends of Mrs. M. C. Hoad were greatly shocked on Saturday morning when the sad news became known that she had suddenly passed to the great beyond. She was 64 years of age. Though not in the best of health for many years, she had been at her household duties, and was as usual on Friday morning when she died. Her death was sudden and unexpected. Her husband, Mr. Hoad, died in 1917. She was a member of the Baptist Church for many years, was of an unassuming quiet disposition, and devoted her life to the interests of her family. She leaves to mourn her death, four children, Mrs. H. C. Hoad, of Charlottetown, P. E. Island, Harry E. Mrs. Norman MacIntyre, and Murray residing in Bear River. Four brothers also survive Edna, Charles, and Lansdale, Pigott, of Bridgetown, and William A. Pigott, of Granville Ferry, also two sisters, Mrs. John Outlet Aylesford, and Mrs. John Lockett, Bridgetown.

The funeral took place from her late residence on Tuesday, Feb. 6th, and was largely attended. Rev. R. S. Gregg officiated and assisted by Rev. Carl MacIntyre. The Baptist choir rendered several hymns concluded with "The Christian's Good Night," after which the casket was laid to rest in the new cemetery. Several beautiful floral tributes evidenced the sympathy of relatives and friends.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilkins (nee Miss Elizabeth Chute) will deeply sympathize with them in the loss by death on Jan. 16th of their little son Roderick aged 13 months. After a very short illness of pneumonia, a peculiarly and poignant in the fact that three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins were called upon to mourn the death of their little daughter, Audrey, from the same disease, while visiting here with her mother at the home of Mrs. Wilkins's parents Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus Chute.

DEEP BROOK.

The Annual Business meeting of the Deep Brook Baptist Church was held on Friday afternoon. The pastor, Rev. J. D. Lytle, was in the chair. The financial statement given by J. E. Barry, the treasurer, showed a balance of $1,000.00. The church, The W. M. A. Society, Mrs. J. M. Nichols, treasurer, reported $1,000.00 raised by the Society this year for Mission work. The best year in its history. The same is true of the Sunday School. The treasurer reported over $100 received by the school. The young women of the Sunday School have just completed the payments for the piano which they purchased last year. The piano was a year ago at a cost of $325. The same Trustees and deacons were re-elected with the addition of W. W. Hawthorn on the board of deacons. Mrs. Beattie McBride was elected assistant clerk. A committee was appointed to arrange for a Roll Call Service which will take place the last of the month.

The Dorcas Society held a pleasant meeting at the home of Mrs. J. M. Nichols, Jan. 21st. A good attendance and good interest in the work preparatory for the summer sale. A short business session was held, and the committee of three, Mrs. L. S. Spurr, Mrs. E. V. Hutchinson and Mrs. J. F. McCallister, were appointed to make arrangements for a Valentine Social to be held on Tuesday evening, Feb. 13th. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. L. E. Sherman, Feb. 21st, weather permitting.

Harry Vroom is in Halifax at the Camp Hill Hospital. He has had an operation for his leg. He is expected home the last of the week.

Mrs. Harry Vroom and two children have been guests of her parents Mr. and Mrs. James Dittmar a part of the time during Mr. Vroom's stay in Halifax.

Mr. W. A. Barry of Bear River, was a week end guest of his sister, Mrs. L. E. Sherman.

It Has to Pass Our Baker First

EVERY "milling" of Quaker Flour must satisfy our baker before it leaves the mills.

The wheat is analyzed by our chemists for protein, gluten and ash; the perfect grains are selected and cleaned. The product is tested at every stage of milling. A perfect flour is the result.

But the supreme test takes place in our own bakery. Every day's "milling" of Quaker Flour must recognize the Q. & A. of our expert bakers. It must produce a perfect in size, flavour, colour and texture, before it can leave the mill. Nothing is left to chance in producing Quaker. You will make far better bread and cake with

Old Cecil Tradition Has Again Made Itself Felt In Politics of England

Spiritualists of Britain, who are hunting for proof of their theories have a matchless opportunity presented to them through the composition of the Bonar Law Cabinet. If their beliefs are well founded they ought to have little difficulty in finding the spirit of a most distinguished statesman hovering in the vicinity of No. 10 Downing Street, London. No less a personage, in fact, than the great Lord Salisbury.

The British Cabinet represents nothing so much as the return of the old Cecil tradition of imperial and domestic policies. Two figures stand out in it—the Marquis of Salisbury, son of the Prime Minister who gave Africa to England, and Lord Curzon, the favorite protégé of Salisbury, picked and educated by him to carry on the Cecil tradition.

In many crises for the British Empire, in the last century, the Cecil family has furnished Premiers or other statesmen to help aid territorial and political organization or save it from disaster. Lord Salisbury, who died in 1903 after a long lease of power, left behind a body of trained young men at No. 10.

His three sons were all educated in foreign affairs and the intricacies of Government. His nephew, Arthur James Balfour, was pushed the head of them because he showed high aptitude for statesmanship. His private secretary, now Lord Curzon, was given an insight into all the ways of British imperial diplomacy and statecraft and the Cecil method of handling such things.

Balfour was given to philosophical doubt and ended up as a supporter of Lloyd George, the Liberal. Lord Hugh Cecil, although a Unionist, has shown signs at times of a highly progressive spirit. Lord Robert Cecil has turned world reformer and has often insisted on trying to upset British home and imperial tradition.

Two remained faithful to the teachings of the great master—the present Lord Salisbury and Lord Curzon, who is now the President of the Council, and Lord Curzon confirmed as head of the Foreign Office.

Save Your Sight.

Though our sight is one of the most precious senses we possess, how very little care we take of it. What is the cause of this? The vibration of the eye is very harmful to the eye if they are made to work, so let them rest in the train, and save your sight for reading at home.

It is a great mistake to read by daylight. It is far too unsteady a light and causes undue strain on the eyes.

A dim light means eye-strain, so does reading in bed, especially if you have only a candle to read by. Reading in bed may help you to go to sleep, it is bound to affect your sight eventually if you practice it regularly.

Stars at bright lights is another fruitful source of trouble. You have only to look at the stars for a minute or two, as you know, to be blinded temporarily. Do this frequently, and a permanent disability will result.

People who overeat or take their meals irregularly, are asking for eye trouble later on, as are those who sit about with damp feet—the cold they bring in for is only one of the minor evils to which they are liable.

The best position for reading is to hold the book erect and let the light come over the left shoulder, if possible. If you use your eyes much with the head bent, or leaning forward, too great a quantity of blood will flow to the eyes, and they will begin to ache.

Place your head with the head towards the window, then you won't have to stare at the light when you wake.

An Englishman's Gift.

The Smithsonian Institute in Washington was established by virtue of a bequest made by an eminent English chemist and philanthropist named James Smithson, who died in Genoa in 1824. Smithson bequeathed on certain conditions, a large sum of money to the United States. In the fall of 1838, by the death of his nephew, the proceeds of his estate, amounting to $100,000, were obtained by an agent of the national government, and deposited in the mint. It had been provided in Smithson's will that the bequest should be used for the establishment at Washington of an institution for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men.

Making Chains.

An improved machine for use in the manufacture and repair of chains, catches, rings, silverware and other jewelry, is described in Popular Mechanics Magazine. It provides three different heads for electric soldering and is said to be the cheapest. A suitable piece of solder is placed upon the carbon electrode, the article to be gripped by the tongs, the current is applied, the joint of the article is put in contact with the solder, and the current is turned on by a foot switch.

Bearskin Coats Keep Out Heat.

The Turkish peninsula in Asia Minor being in keeping out of the heat as well as the cold, and it is not uncommon to see in many parts of the country people wearing bearskin coats in the midst of summer, with the thermometer standing at 100 degrees.

Her Mixup in Men

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Ernie Crane knew at once that the girl had made a mistake when she beckoned to him and made him sit beside her in her high-priced, brand-new roadster. He was positive she had never seen her before and because she seemed to think she knew who he was. And, also, he knew she had made a mistake because she started at once calling him George.

But Ernie didn't care much whether the girl had made a mistake or not. She was tremendously pretty and attractive, the day was soft and balmy and he was in the mood for an adventure. "It's awfully important—awfully," the girl told him. "I have to have help and—"

"I looked helpful," suggested Ernie. "That's all I said. I was looking at you," she said, blue eyes that were shaded by long, silky lashes.

Ernie felt his heart thrill at this. It had been a long time, a long long time since he had been so close to a girl. "I wish you would tell me your name and—what is it you want me to do?" declared Ernie, as they swept through the city out upon a macadam pike.

"My name?" echoed the girl. "My name's Grace Jennings. You've heard of me?"

"How could I help it?" cried Ernie, although he'd never heard of her in his life.

"I knew you would have heard of me," Grace went on. "As you say, you could hardly have helped it. And the thing I want you to do, oh—she looked at him with sudden, honest distress—"I wish you would tell me your name."

Ernie looked at her sympathetically. "Is it as bad as that?" he queried.

The girl nodded vigorously.

"Now that I've met you and seen you, it's very much harder for me," she confessed in a harassed tone of voice.

Whereas Ernie wondered immensely. How in the world could the fact that she had met him make things harder for her?

"I'm sorry," said Ernie soliloquially. "Perhaps things would be easier for you if you were to drop me here and let me stop some other motorist and get him to take me back."

A perfect panic of fear swept over Grace's face at this.

"No, no!" she cried. "That wouldn't do at all. No, I've got to go through with it now that I'm in it. But wish you would tell me your name, do. You'll remember that about me, you know, after it's all over?"

Ernie gasped at her in intense surprise. Why was she so sorrowful and petting him about it and what was she getting him into, anyhow? The mystery was growing deeper all the time.

"I'll remember that you are charming and pretty and adorable, no matter what happens," said Ernie.

For a long time the great novelists refused to admit that his wife's infirmity was more than an illness, and he spent hours of each day trying to bring the light of reason back to this new creature of his own making. Worse, and finally even her husband admitted that it would be better to take her to an institution. Their union was extraordinarily happy between the years of their marriage and Mrs. Thackeray's affliction.

Ever since the custom among men of carrying pictures of their wives, sweethearts or children pasted on the inside of their hats, it has been a substitute for a photograph has been used, but practically none of these has survived. "Lately," said this young woman, "I've noticed that a good many of the hats checked here have pictures of girls, elderly women or children pasted inside the crown just below the maker's name. Besides keeping the photographs of their loved ones near, this new practice enables the men to tell at a glance whether or not I hand them the correct hats in return for their checks."—New York Sun.

ROYAL DANCERS

Some of Them Even Performed in the Ballet.

King George is said to have few royal rivals as a skillful and light-footed dancer, but he would require a very elastic fancy to picture his Majesty posturing in a ballet, as his predecessor, the eighth Henry, loved to do.

On New Year's Day, 1515, this royal monarch took part in a ballet of his own design in the Queen's presence, in the company of the Duke of Suffolk, two other great nobles, and four of the most graceful and lovely ladies of the court. The Queen, who was told, was entranced by her lord's skill and agility, and after removing with her own hands the visors of the dancers, "heartily thanked the King's Grace for her good pastime, and blessed him."

Probably no sovereign was ever a more enthusiastic worker of Topsy-turvy than "King Hal," who did ever display a most marvellous activities in the dance, and who was the envy of the youngest of his courtiers.

Henry's daughter, Elizabeth, was no whit behind her father in her enthusiasm for the dance. Not only was her Majesty the "Innovation of Queenly grace and agility" in the ball-room, often dancing with Raleigh and another nobleman, but she was also a dancer, and it is said she made Sir Christopher Hatton Lord Chancellor because he danced the pavane so well.

But even Elizabeth had to yield the palm to her sister Mary, who as a girl was the acknowledged queen of the dance, her work in the Queen's court.

Our second Charles, who is told "to have himself up to the delights of dancing was the ambition of a boy." There is an account by a contemporary chronicler of a court ball held at Whitehall in 1662. We read: "By the Duke of Devonshire, who was all the great ones. After seating themselves, all rose again. The King took out the Duchess of York; the Duke of Devonshire, the Duke of Monmouth, my Lady Gage, and other lords and ladies, and they danced the 'bravante.' The Duchess of Devonshire, who was all the ladies in the room, and the Queen herself, stood up."

The Duchess of Devonshire, a ball, given at Whitehall in the year 1666, to celebrate the Queen's birthday, is recorded as follows:

"After the King was come in, he took the Queen, and about fourteen more couples there were, and began the bravante. After the King and Queen had danced a glorious night to see the King in his vest of rich silk and silver trimmings, with Mrs. Stuart, in black and white lace, and her head and shoulders dressed with diamonds."

"What? In me old time?" was the reply. "Not likely! Wait till we start again!"

Here and There

St. John, N.B.—J. M. Woodman, general superintendent of the C. P. R. by the St. John district, announced that the only large enterprise in his district during the year will be for ballasting and bridge work. Mr. Woodman returned from Montreal, where he was on a business trip.

Edmonton. The northern railway extensions, which under the recently announced agreement with the Union Bank will be proceeded with next spring are to be built by the Canadian Pacific Railway Construction Department. One of the conditions of the agreement between the provincial government and the bank interests is that the C. P. R. do the construction work, it is stated by Premier Greenfield, and the conditions will be complied with by the government, which had originally intended building the roads under its own railway department.

Port Arthur. Additional track accommodation will be constructed by the Canadian Pacific Railway in its Port Arthur yards this coming summer, especially at the increasing grain trade to be handled by the elevators there. Other work will also be done locally and at Port Arthur, where the grain trade is taken, including the replacement of the two large freight sheds destroyed recently by fire, with buildings of improved and fireproof type.

Carlton Place, Ont.—On the occasion of the retirement of rooming house and section foreman J. M. Kelly from the C. P. R. Company's service, the fellow employees and their wives gathered at the Carlton hall, Saturday, and a social evening was spent. The tables were laden with the very best that a caterer from Ottawa could provide, and about 150 people were present from all classes of the city's services.

St. John, N.B.—C. E. McPherson, Assistant Passenger Traffic Manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway with headquarters at St. John, was in St. John recently, the guest of his brother-in-law, Dr. W. W. McPherson. Dr. McPherson is always a welcome visitor to St. John where he was for many years as the representative of the C. P. R. up to 1897 when he went to Toronto, and later in 1899 to Winnipeg. His headquarters since. He has worked in this Western metropolis for over 20 years, of 40,000 to a city of 200,000.

Sold in Digby by H. E. Jones, and in Bear River by Bear River Drug Store.

Winnipeg. Great interest in the increasing facilities for the shipping and handling of grain at the head of the lakes was reported by Mr. J. H. Murphy, general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who returned from Port William, Mr. Murphy stated there would be an enlargement of at least 100,000 bushels in the storage capacity during the coming summer, and it was hoped the new equipment would be in working order in time to take care of the next crop. It was pointed out that the buildings of the Saskatchewan co-operative company were to be enlarged he stated. One construction outfit was already on the ground and construction would be rushed as soon as weather conditions permitted.

A Sign of Contempt.

In southern countries the fig is the commonest of fruits, so to say that "I don't care a fig" means "I care nothing."

Now the action of pushing the thumb between the two first fingers produces a shape roughly like a fig, and to hold up the hand thus means to show contempt. This is a very old gesture has become corrupted into the contemptuous snap of the fingers is one explanation.

For the more probable supposition is that our snap of contempt is the descendant of the old map with which we used to show contempt. To summon your slaves, much as one would kick a dog, and that when we snap our fingers today we are merely showing contempt, and thus we would feel for the meanness of slaves.

Saving Time.

Little Isabel was on a visit to her grandmother in the country. They had chicken for dinner, which pleased the little girl. "Oh, where did you get that chicken, grandma?" she asked.

"From the chicken-yard," said her grandmother.

"What one of those you saw this morning?" "What one of those I fed?" "Yes, darling," "Oh, did you?" said Emmeline. "At home we buy ours ready made!"

Pimples Disappear

"You don't need mercury, polish or any other strong mineral to cure pimples caused by poor blood. Take Extract of Root of the Sassafras tree. It is a natural Curative Syrup and your skin will clear up as fresh as a baby's. It will sweeten your stomach and regulate your bowels." Call for it at all drug stores.

SCOTIA MAIDEN ABANDONED AT SEA

The Canadian auxiliary vessel Scotia Maiden, from Marcellus, has been abandoned because she was a mass of flames. Captain Keller and crew were rescued by the steamer Frenchchurch, all hands being taken off the burning ship in two boats. The Scotia Maiden, still afloat and afloat and a danger to navigation, was abandoned at two o'clock this afternoon in latitude 44 north longitude 15 east.

The schooner Scotia Maiden, reported from Gibraltar as abandoned on account of fire, and was built at Churchill Point, Digby County, N. S., in 1919, for the Scotia Maiden Company, Halifax, but was sold to the Vegetable Oil Corporation, and was carrying a cargo of vegetable oil from the Society Islands to Marcellus. The vessel was a large schooner of 519 tons and had two crews of 11 men. She was commanded by Captain Kohler, of Lunenburg.

FATHER AND SON SERVICE

A Father and Son Service was held in the Baptist church, Sunday evening. The church was comfortably filled. Singing was led by a father and son choir of twenty-five voices. Dr. Connor, acting as organist. The choir rendered several items of music during the service, which was conducted throughout by the boys and their fathers.

The pastor, in the course of his address, strongly urged the men for the boys' sake, to "stay the man" in regard to the liquor laws and to help make the fair town of Digby a safe place for the boys, who were following them.

The programme was as follows:
Organist—Dr. Connor
Singing—led by special father and son choir.
Service, 6:55 p.m.—Jesus Lover of My Soul. Fight the Good Fight—choir, Father of Heaven Whose Love is Profound.

Later than that, Dr. W. H. Holdsworth, of the Scripture—selected, L. B. C. Moore. Choir—"Saved, Saved, Saved", Songs for Service—Deacon Carthy.
Offering—"If Your Heart Keeps Right", choir. No. 32.
Notices—Deacon Collins.
Hymn—Ourselves Christian Soldiers, (2nd, verse male voices only, 3rd, verse ladies only).
Illustrated Address—Pastor.
Duet—"Nailed to the Cross".
Hymn—Jesus Saviour Pious Men.
Benediction.
Hubert Warras acted as Signaller.

$2,000.00 IN CASH PRIZES

Frank J. D. Barjum, of Annapolis Royal and Montreal, who recently awarded $2,000 in prizes for the best treatise on the most practical methods of preserving Canadian timber from further destruction by the budworm and other insect pests which have recently caused such great losses to our forests, is now offering $2,000 in prizes for the most convincing argument in favor of prohibiting the export of unmanufactured wood from Canada. One thousand dollars of this will be paid for the best argument written in the English language, and $1,000 for the best in French, in the following manner: Five hundred dollars to the winner of the first prize in each language; $250 to the second; $150 to the third, and $100 to the fourth. The competition is open to all residents of Canada. The essays must not exceed 600 words in length. The competition will close on March 15th and no entry will be eligible for postmark later than that date. Entries should be addressed to Frank D. Barjum, New Birks Bldg., Montreal, Que.
Mr. Barjum is giving advocates of the policy of retreating Canada's timber supply in the country for the protection of Canadian industry for the benefit of our own people, and one of his purposes in instituting this competition is to start more people thinking and also obtain the Government action on what he regards as Canada's most vital problem, namely, forest conservation.

A QUERY

To the Editor of the Courier:
Sir—Are our fishermen in the Bay of Fundy not entitled to some protection? I am told that the scallop fishery is proving to be very important. Over $25,000 worth of scallops were exported from the States from this port in 1922, and this fishery is just in its infancy. About a month ago Bradford Smith lost his scallop boat which cost him $1,000.
Two months ago a scallop boat from Grandville, had engine trouble. The men could not get her back to shore at night, and were picked up by the Empress next day. Had the C. G. S. Arloux, fishing protection boat, which is now laid up in a South Shore port, been stationed here, these boats would not have been lost.
Are these boats not entitled to protection just as much as the South Shore fishermen who have the C. G. S. "Arrows" until they stop fishing? The Life Saving Station has been taken from us.
The Northern Shore is well protected. Why should the Arloux not be stationed in Digby to protect the fisheries during winter months? A smaller patrol boat would be of no use.

Are Red Rose Ads. Read?

We often wonder---

The following letter appears to answer the question.

Halifax, N. S., January 26th, 1923.
James Buchanan: Re your contest for display advertising. In my opinion, today's best advertisement is that which appears on page Thirteen, displaying "RED ROSE TEA." This ad. is noticed immediately on account of where it appears on the page, also the black ground and white letters. This cannot but be noticed. The wording is very brief, and would be read by most people reading this paper.

PERSONAL MENTION

Frank Anderson was a passenger to St. John Tuesday.

Mrs. George H. Peters is the guest of Mrs. O. C. Jones, Bridgetown.

Dr. B. W. Tobin, of Toronto, was in town during the past week.

Miss Irene Balcom, of Annapolis Royal, spent the week-end at Digby.

Freeman Raymond arrived home from Halifax on Wednesday, having been sent for on account of his mother's illness.

Miss Florine Sprague, of Lynn, Mass., is the guest of Mrs. Casey. Before returning to U. S. A., she will visit in Paradise.

Mrs. H. H. Whitman, who has been visiting Mrs. A. E. Abramson, for the past week was a passenger to Lunenburg on Monday.

Martin A. Tinker of Geo. Frost & Co., Boston Mass. is spending two weeks vacation in Montreal, guest of Miss Evelyn Alward, 5 Seymour Ave. Westmont.

A very pleasant evening, on Jan. 28, was spent at the home of Edmund H. Atkinson, of West Head, Shelburne Co., when his daughter, Mrs. F. E. Cunningham, gave a reception in honor of the bride and groom of January 8. The groom is her brother Oscar S. Atkinson, of West Head, and the bride was formerly Miss Viola B. Macdonald, of Centerville, Digby Co., who has for a number of years been one of Nova Scotia's school teachers. The reception was largely attended there being about seventy guests present. This gave the bride the pleasure of meeting her old friends, added to new ones. Games and singing added to enjoyment of the evening. Refreshments consisted of cake and ice cream. The bride was the recipient of many pretty and useful presents. Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson are making their home in West Head.

Obituary

REV. A. J. PYNE

The people of Kingston were greatly grieved and shocked Thursday on learning that their pastor, Rev. Joseph Alway Pyne, had passed away during the night. Death was due to heart failure following an attack of flu and pleurisy. Mr. Pyne was a native of Tiverton, Digby Co., and had an exceedingly promising career before him. He was thirty-one years of age, and graduated from Acadia with the class of '22. He was very popular both with classmates and in his parish. He leaves a widow and one little daughter, an aged father, mother and a sister, all living in Freeport. The interment will take place at Boston.

MRS. MARGARET O'NEILL

There passed away on Feb. 7th at her home in Plympton after a prolonged illness, Mrs. Margaret O'Neill, widow of the late Morgan O'Neill, and who was in her 80th year. The funeral was held at her home on Sunday, the 9th, interment in the Barton Cemetery. Mr. Young, of Weymouth conducted the service at the home. Mrs. O'Neill leaves to survive her loss two sons, Harry D. who is a traveller for the Standard Oil Co., N. Y. and Harvey, of St. John.

MRS. COLEMAN VAN TASSELL

Cynthia, wife of Coleman VanTassell, died on Monday aged 75 years. She was a daughter of the late James Daley, and was born in Culloden. Besides her husband she leaves to mourn three daughters, Mrs. S. E. Woodman, of Digby; Mrs. J. J. Keefe, of Boston, and two sons by a former marriage, Blissh and Edward Budd; also one sister, Mrs. Oscar Dakin, of Digby.

MRS. L. D. MORTON

Mrs. Amelia K. Morton beloved wife of Capt. L. D. Morton passed away at her home in Santa Barbara, Calif., on Tuesday morning Jan. 30th. She was 48 but five days with an attack of influenza which settled in pneumonia. The funeral took place on Thursday at 2:30 p.m., the service being conducted by the Rev. J. T. Niles pastor of the Methodist church of Santa Barbara, with interment in the Santa Barbara cemetery. The floral tributes were most beautiful. Beside her husband she leaves in Santa Barbara her daughter, Mrs. Ariadne J. Wright and granddaughter, Belva Wright, and her youngest sister, Lottie G. Corcoran, who made her home with her for the past eight years, and her sister Bertha B. Smith who resides in Edgerton, Alberta with numerous relatives in Nova Scotia and Massachusetts. She was 64 years and 5 months old and before going to California eleven years ago her home was in Mortons Lodge, Bay Road, Digby, after returning from the sea with Capt. Morton with whom she sailed in the old time sailing ship to all parts of the world.

She was beloved by all who knew her and will be greatly missed. Her broken hearted husband to whom she had been a constant companion for nearly forty six years is also in a critical condition.

ACADIA

In the stormy and misty Atlantic between north latitude 43° 23' and 47° 40' and between west longitude 55° 40' and 66° 23' lies a small island, a tiny country, who lies anchored to the great Dominion of Canada by a low isthmus sixteen miles wide a British Province whose area, although not more than 21000 square miles, forms a remarkable coastline of 1200 miles. This vineland with its unbounded coasts of nature, first discovered by the people greater than the greatest of 1000 A. D., has won fame through its history and its great men. The original and beautiful name of the country was Acadia which is an Indian word meaning "Plenty Here." The Mic Mac Indians of Nova Scotia were noted for their habit of bestowing on places the names of useful things consequently Acadia, meaning a place of abundance, was given to Nova Scotia. This poetical name should never have been supplanted by such names as New Brunswick or Nova Scotia especially when the name was so appropriate for a country, overloaded with minerals, crowned with forests, flooded with wealthy rivers, food from the sea which makes it richer in resources than any place of similar size in all North America and able to support a greater population than any other area of the same size in the entire world. With coal, iron, and gold in such quantities, with inestimable resources of the sea, woodland, and valleys populated by people famous for brain and brawn, why is it that a country affording all this is not to-day more wealthy and more populous? Will Acadia someday assert its natural pre-eminence and be found amid power and place, or will its sons continue to eke as the year 1000 A. D. Let the discoverer, son of Erik, sailed from Iceland through the Arctic seas to Greenland, and thence along the coast of Newfoundland, which he called Helluland meaning slate rock, and across the Gulf of St. Lawrence to a country he called Markland now known as Nova Scotia. He described it as a low country with white sandy shores, dense woods, abundance of berries, and herds of wild animals. This is the first record we have of Nova Scotia. Then for many years the country was not claimed until the English under Sebastian Cabot re-discovered it in 1497. Although England claimed Nova Scotia through first discovery, the French were the first to attempt to colonize the country. In the spring of 1605 DeMonts sailed into the beautiful Annapolis Basin and founded the town of Port Royal now known as Annapolis Royal. They found from the Indians that the name of the country was Acadia.

DROWNED BY FALLING INTO WELL

Theresa, the eight year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Comeau, of Weymouth was drowned in an old, unused well, at the rear of the drug store Wednesday afternoon. As near as can be ascertained, the tragedy occurred between 5.30 and 6 o'clock. At that time the victim was playing with two little girl chums near the well, when she was suddenly missed by her playmates, one of whom went to the Comeau residence and learned from Theresa's brother that she had not returned home. At six o'clock, Mr. Comeau began a search for his daughter, assisted by W. C. Blackadar, and his brother, Harold A. Blackadar, and traced the little girl's footsteps to the well, near which her red stocking-cap was found. With the aid of ladders and grappling chains the body was recovered from the bottom of the well, in which the water was twenty-five feet deep.

The body was conveyed to the home of the bereaved parents where an inquest was held. Dr. E. O. Hallett was acting coroner.

The well is owned by Dunbar and Kemp and was always well-planked, until about two or three months ago when the S. S. Grace Hankinson used the water and the planks were only replaced in criss-cross fashion, leaving spaces sixteen inches square. These were covered with snow and it is believed the unfortunate little girl stepped on this and fell through. The victim was a winsome little girl and a great favorite with everybody. The bereaved parents are heartbroken. The funeral will be held Saturday morning at St. Joseph's church. The school children from the three departments are sending a wreath.

Wedding Bells

The marriage of Joseph Amiralet of Hillsboro and Miss Florence Comeau of Marshalltown was solemnized last week at St. Croix R. C. church, the pastor, Rev. P. C. Thibault, officiating at the marriage ceremony and the nuptial Mass which followed. The happy couple repaired immediately to their home in Hillsboro where they will reside.

ELLIS-NICKERSON

A rather romantic wedding was that of Monday last when Boyd Ellis, the well-known blind piano tuner and Digby, went to the home of Rev. Archdeacon Watson in Granville with the marriage license and the "party of the other part," the daughter of a Mr. Nickerson, of Yarmouth. It seems that the parents of the bride, who had been a student at Acadia Seminary, Wolfville, had sought to prevent the match and she was a guest at the home of W. S. Cummings, this town, when she disappeared before breakfast on Monday with the above results. Annapolis Spectator.

BELL-HILL

A very pleasing event took place at the Baptist Parsonage, by the Rev. Mr. Nunns, on Feb. 19th, when Dorothy M. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hill, was united in marriage to Ross Bell, of Lynn, Mass., son of the late Elkanah and Helena Bell of Hill Grove. The bride was without unattended, looked charming in blue messaline silk, with hat to match. The groom was supported by his uncle, Ross Smallie, of Digby. After the ceremony the happy couple were driven to the home of the bride, where an informal reception was tendered them. The presents were numerous and valuable, and show the high esteem in which the young couple were held. Tuesday, the 20th, the newly married couple left by the west bound train for Yarmouth, enroute for Lynn, Mass., their future home.

HIGHER TEA PRICES EXPLAINED
The Salada Tea Company, the largest distributor of tea in Canada, recently announced an increase in price on each of their blends. This course was forced upon them, according to information received about the situation, in order to maintain the quality of "SALADA" Tea, when paying the highest prices ever recorded on the open market for the unblended leaf.

The story of riots on the tea plantations, dock strikes in Calcutta and delay shipping, all contribute to obtain costly labor to pluck the tea from the bushes, all bring home to us the fact that the social unrest that has been everywhere apparent since the war has spread even to the remotest tea gardens in India.

Mrs. Marshall's son, Gordon Benson accompanied the remains. C. C. Nichol who is a nephew of the deceased, and an undertaker had charge of the body, having been called to Bear River Thursday. Deceased leaves to mourn her passing, two brothers, Fred Nichol, of Bridgeport, N. S., and Watson Nichol, of Alliston, Mass. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon with burial in the Baptist cemetery at Weymouth North.

The death occurred recently at Crosses Coques, of Philippe, the eleven year old son of Mrs. Rita Robichaud. His mother, deceased, survived by two sisters and three brothers all of Crosses Coques. The funeral was held at Church Point Wednesday with a High Mass of Requiem chanted for the repose of his soul.

Miss Stephanie Bellevue, a respected old lady, who had reached the venerable age of 80 years passed peacefully away Thursday at the home of Mrs. Adrien Dugas, Crosses Coques, with whom she had made her home for the last several years. The late Miss Bellevue leaves no near relatives, she being the last of the family. The funeral was held at Church Point, Saturday, Rev. Father Mery, P. P., conducting the funeral services. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Church Point.

The remains of Nazaire Bellevue, whose death occurred at Salem Mass., following an illness of pneumonia, at the early age of 19 years, arrived Friday via St. John and were met at Church Point by undertaker, John B. Thibodeau. Deceased is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Bellevue and one brother, Edward, all of Crosses Coques. His death followed quickly upon the sudden death of his sister, Miss Virginia Bellevue, which also occurred at Salem, was a severe blow to his parents, especially to his mother, who in the space of a few days has been called upon to sustain the loss of her mother, her uncle, and two children. Deceased left for the U. S., a few months ago, the prospects for a bright future, yet just as he was stepping on the threshold of life, death came and blotted all fond hopes. The funeral was held at Church Point, Saturday, A Requiem Mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Father Mery, who also officiated at the burial services.

The funeral of the late Ambrose Robichaud, was held Thursday at Plympton, Rev. Father Thibault, celebrated a Requiem Mass and officiated at the burial services which were made in St. Croix cemetery. Many friends and relatives followed the funeral cortege to the church.

HELP HELPLESS BLIND BABIES

A Dominion Charter, without stock subscription, was recently obtained for the establishment in the city of Ottawa, of a Home Nursery, Hospital and Kindergarten, for the blind under six years of age, free to all from any Province in the Dominion. So far nothing has been done for these poor unfortunate. According to reports received from the various Provincial authorities, there are at present thirty-five blind babies in the late Sir Arthur Pearson, before his death claimed that "Sunshine Home," at Chorley Wood, England, was "the home in the Empire for blind babies." It is hoped shortly to have the second in Canada. To this end money is urgently required. Help us with your generous gift. "Let us forget. Do it now!" Cheques should be made payable to the Canadian Blind Babies Home Association. Remittances will be promptly acknowledged.

YOUNG DAUGHTER MADE WELL

Mother Tells How Her Daughter Suffered and Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Vancouver, B.C.—"My daughter is a young girl who has been having severe pains and weak and dizzy feelings for some time and had lost her appetite. Through an old doctor who had heard of a woman who was taking it for the same trouble, we were told of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My daughter has been taking it for several months and is quite all right now. It has done all it was represented to do and we have told a number of friends about it. I am never without a bottle of it in the house, for I myself take it for that weak, tired, worn-out feeling which sometimes comes to us all. I find it is building me up and I strongly recommend it to women who are suffering from aches and pains of the body."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for such conditions.

From a page of twelve a girl needs all the care a thoughtful mother can give. Many a woman has suffered years of pain and misery the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance of the mother who should have guided her during this time.

If she complains of headaches, pains in the back and lower limbs, or if you notice a slowness of thought, nervousness or irritability on the part of your daughter, make life easier for her.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for such conditions.

Luella, the Backslider By CLARA DELAFIELD

"Now, Miss Luella, something's wrong with you," said Mr. Meyer, shaking his finger playfully in front of Luella's nose.

"You're off your feed, Miss Luella. Gone down four pounds in these two weeks, you have. You're away below the three-hundred mark. You got to climb back, Miss Luella. You got to climb. Now how about a nice pot of cocoa, with a two-pound box of chocolates and a couple of pies for lunch?"

The fat girl sighed wearily. "Seems to me you'll have to cut out one of the pies, Mr. Meyer," she answered. "It's the hot weather, I guess."

"You just take life easy, Miss Luella," said the manager of the circus. "You ain't done growing yet. There's no reason why you shouldn't top the four-hundred mark before you're through."

Luella sighed as a handsome man in lights and spangles with black, upturned mustache, passed by with a friendly greeting. "It was Monsieur Maraschino, the lion-tamer."

They had been such friends. Luella, the fat girl—she was only nineteen—had evaporated pounds and pounds of flesh in spite of over Monsieur Maraschino. At night dreams of him haunted her. She loved him.

Too well she knew the handicap that a fat girl endures. Some men like them rather fat, but not when they're the circle close to the three-hundred-pound mark.

Luella had been three years with the circus. She had started at two hundred and progressed steadily until the dream of Monsieur Maraschino's love had her head. Then she had begun to go down hill, despite the crowds that came from far and wide to see her. Love is such a destroyer of ambition.

The bearded lady in the next recess. "Men were deceivers ever. I know. I've hurtled three."

"Oh, he's so handsome," said Luella, with a little sigh. "He—he used to tell me I was his treasure, and now he—he only needs to me."

"There's as good fish in the sea as ever came out of it," said the bearded lady.

Luella, desperate in her love, had decided upon a fatal course. She had resolved to get thin. She knew that this meant professional ruin, but the fine eyes and upturned mustaches of Monsieur Maraschino bewitched her.

The course of dreadful death on which she entered was well known to the other members of the circus. Every meal-time she slipped pounds and pounds of food to the living skeletons upon the other side of her. And she was rewarded by a gradual increase of interest on the part of the lion-tamer. For Luella was not a bad-looking girl.

"I can't make it out," said Mr. Meyer sadly. "Here's you, Miss Luella, down to two-seventy-five, and now Mr. Longshanks is getting up weight and touching the fifty mark. I guess if this hot weather don't let up I'll have to close this section of the show."

It was a curious thing, but in proportion as Monsieur Maraschino began to show an awakening interest in Miss Luella, Miss Luella seemed more interested in him. Such is the way of the world and even fat girls are not exempt from the laws of love.

On the other hand, the pathetic, haunting brown eyes of Mr. Longshanks appeared to be strangely attracted to her. Longshanks was only twenty, a poor boy who, half-starved all his short life, seemed destined to be starved for the rest of it in Mr. Meyer's circus. He had been so grateful for those candies that Luella slipped him.

He had been so thankful for those cups of cocoa passed surreptitiously into his den. He had been so touched by the marshmallows and the cod-liver oil. He had nearly wept over the sweet pudding.

And so the eventful drama drew toward its close. Time, midnight. Place, anywhere. The circus has closed. Two people sit, oblivious of the passage of time and hand in hand. "I'm only a poor living skeleton, Miss Luella, but I love you. Tell me that you'll be mine."

Luella's head sank on the edge of the living skeleton's shoulder. "Oh, yes," she breathed.

And the eyes and mustaches of Monsieur Maraschino troubled her no further.

"Say, Miss Luella, you're picking up fast," said Mr. Meyer a week later. "Ten pounds up this week. That sure is some record. I guess we'll touch the four-hundred yet. Odd," he mused, "now Mr. Longshanks seems to be going down just the same amount. I guess it's love, Miss Luella. You two sure will have one swell wedding."

Now Mr. Longshanks seems to be going down just the same amount. I guess it's love, Miss Luella. You two sure will have one swell wedding."

The plaintive murmur of Mr. Longshanks reached Luella's ears:

"Just one marshmallow, darling!" "None," said Luella, craving an almond chocolate. "You've got to be brave, darling. We've got to do our duty. No trifling with the bread-winners."

The living skeleton sighed. Life was so strangely interwoven of joy and pain.

The Canadian Club of Boston Wants Old Home Week in 1924

Petition to Premier Murray and Mayors of Cities and Towns Throughout the Maritime Provinces

To Hon. E. H. Armstrong, Premier of Nova Scotia, and Mayors and Leaders of cities and towns throughout the Maritime Provinces:

The Canadian Club of Boston is ever mindful of the great responsibility resting upon it as the representative organization composed of 1000 members of Canadian birth and affiliations living in Boston and New England, and conscious of the great need of still further stimulating sentimental and business ties now existing between Canada, the land of our birth, and New England.

At an executive meeting of this Club held on 19th inst., the following resolution was unanimously passed: We forward this to you with the sincere hope that you will cause a Commission or Committee to take cognizance thereof, and take such steps as to bring the matter of Old Home Week throughout Nova Scotia and Cape Breton to a successful conclusion in the summer of 1924.

VOTED

Whereas, the matter of Old Home Week in 1924 has been before the people of Nova Scotia and the Maritime Provinces for some years and its many advantages have been fully explained and admitted, and as the matter has been again forcibly brought to our attention by the great interest manifest by the County of Pictou celebrating the coming summer the landing of the good ship "Hector" which brought settlers from Scotland to that County, we feel compelled by a sense of the fitness of the occasion and the subject of Old Home Week to present the matter before you for the following reasons:

1. An Old Home Week held throughout Nova Scotia in the summer of 1924, in all the Counties, Cities and Towns, will attract attention far and wide in the minds of the Sons and Daughters of Nova Scotia and the Maritime Provinces from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and particularly throughout Nova Scotia.

2. Thousands of persons here have expressed a great desire to participate in the Old Home Week, as was evidenced at the great Mass Meeting of Canadians at Symphony Hall last April. The representatives of Canada who spoke at that meeting were impressed and convinced, that such a great desire exists here.

3. The Old Home Week will be the means of attracting such a great number of former Nova Scotians to visit their homeland, that large sums of money will be put in circulation in every city, town and county, which must greatly benefit the Provinces.

4. A great mental stimulus will be created, a higher estimation of Nova Scotia and the Maritime Provinces as the great Summer Resort, a great Playground for New England, that its reactive effect upon the American tourist class and travelling public will be stimulating and helpful to the transportation Companies, hotels and boarding houses, so that every avenue of Commercial activity, will be benefited.

RESOLVED

That as the above reasons for holding an Old Home Week in the summer of 1924 are so convincing, making such an event in our opinion an absolute necessity, particularly to emphasize and announce the great betterment and establishment of fine automobile highways constructed at great expense throughout the Provinces, we therefore petition you, on behalf of the many thousands of former Canadians living here to accede to the great wish and desire and take immediate steps to put this plan for Old Home Week in the summer of 1924 into execution and accomplishment.

The grateful thanks of the members of the Canadian Club here, in behalf of all Canadians, including the members of the Women's Auxiliary (400 Members) who join in the request are hereby conveyed to you with full expectation and hope that the subject may receive prompt and favorable consideration of yourself and on the part of the Government of the Provinces, and Mayors of Cities and Towns.

AN APPRECIATION MAN OF LETTERS THANKS TANLAC

Joseph Allaby Pyne, B. A., of Thorton, entered into rest Thursday morning, March 8th, at the age of thirty-one. Mr. Pyne was the worthy son of pious parents and reared in humble circumstances. In his early youth he went fishing with his father. While pursuing his vocation he heard the gentle call of his Master. "Follow me and I will make you a fisher of men." Realizing the need of an equipment for such a calling, he proceeded to Horton Academy and took up his Academic studies with the aim of entering Acadia College. His first year imposed upon him a heavy task, owing to the lack of a common school education. The Sombre Shadows of discouragement fell upon his life at the close of his first year in Horton. To the great surprise of many he pulled himself together and struck in on his second year. With grim determination he said to himself: Pyne get this work up or die. With the assistance of kind and sympathetic teachers he made good in all the subjects of the Academic course and was graduated in May 1922. At the last Central Association in Windsor Baptist church he came before an ordaining council and stood a rigid examination. His account of his conversation, call to the ministry, views of doctrine and church policy were clear and concise. He was duly set apart to the work of the gospel ministry by the laying on of hands. After this he came to the Lower Aylesford church and entered on his first pastorate with the prospects of a long and successful career. He had the good fortune of bringing to his pastorate a beautiful christian wife esteemed and loved by all along this country side.

He came every Sabbath to his pulpit with a carefully prepared message which was attracting people of different thought. They leaned forward in their seats with eager looks, endeavouring to grasp the impact of the soul stirring message. He attained rapid growth as a pastor preacher and pulpit orator. The writer knows that he outlined an extensive program for the winter's work in all the sections of this church. He began in Mead Owale. After weeks of hard work there, he went to Harmony. Storms came on, roads blocked with snow. But on he went thru blinding drifts drawing on every physical resource in order to centralize the sections into a strong body of aggressive workers. "Swards of the manifold grace of God." News went out, he was sick and under the doctor's hands and last came that he was much improved. But on Thursday morning he roused from a deep sleep, called for the nurse and his wife and he crossed the great divide and joined the "Spirits of the Just made perfect." His funeral took place on Sunday the 11th at Tremont at 3 o'clock p.m. Rev. E. S. Maron conducted the ceremonies. He gave a beautifully worded address, "Death swallowed up in Victory." On the platform with him were the neighbouring pastors and representatives of orders to which Mr. Pyne belonged. All paid eloquent tributes to the departed Servant of God. A quartet rendered "The Wayside Cross," with great effect. The choir "Lead Kindly Light." An arch of flowers tribute of the church, was placed before the pulpit and a broad white ribbon drawn diagonally across the front and on which were written letters of gold, "Pastor of the Lower Aylesford Baptist Church." To his parents and relatives the writer extends his sympathies.

Canadian Writer Declares He Never Saw Its Equal For Building One Up.

"Tanlac is a faithful old friend that never fails me," declared James A. Brain, 871 Gerrard St. E. Toronto, Ont., recently. Mr. Brain is one of Toronto's best known citizens, and in addition to being a successful business man, he has written many poems and songs that have gained wide popularity.

"I've been taking an occasional treatment of Tanlac for four years, and it keeps me in fine condition. Why, right now, I feel like I could hold ground in a foot race with any man my age in Canada."

"Before taking Tanlac, I was all run-down, had little appetite, and was suffering from indigestion. I wasn't sleeping well and was often so weak and nervous I couldn't attend to business."

"Well, sir, all these ailments disappeared with my first treatment of Tanlac, and to this good day I've been eating, sleeping and feeling fine. In any season, I've never seen the equal of Tanlac, and I just wouldn't be without it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35-million bottles sold.

WONDERFUL VALUE FOR $2.00

It is a source of constant wonder to publishers the world over how The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal can be printed and mailed to any part of Canada for the small subscription price of two dollars a year.

Some other papers may quote a lower subscription price but they do not contain one-fifth, nor in many cases not even one-tenth of the reading matter published each week by the Family Herald and Weekly Star. People everywhere are now selecting their reading material with greater discrimination than in the past. Instead of being loaded with a lot of second rate papers and magazines, they are now saving money by discarding the cheap and subscribing to the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal—the one big all-around journal that provides in its seventy-two pages every week an ample volume and variety of reading to satisfy every member of the family.

In addition to being the best informed, most practical and helpful paper for farmers, the Family Herald and Weekly Star provides the best of serial and short stories, complete departments for young people, and powerful editorials on the most important topics of the day, a complete weekly digest of world news, in fact a veritable library of information, entertainment and inspiration. On account of its clean, wholesome and helpful character its phenomenal value and powerful influence for good, it is not too much to say that the Family Herald and Weekly Star should be in every Canadian home.

WHY ONLY FOUR PAGES

On account of the heavy snow storm which has thrown all the trains off schedule the Courier this week appears in only a four page form. Perhaps many will wonder how the train service affects us that way. Ordinarily it would not but since September we have been running very much undermanned. A year ago we had eight in our mechanical department; since September we have been running five and during the past three weeks only three, resignations and sickness having reduced our staff, and it has been impossible to fill the vacancies. For the past three weeks we have engaged the services of the Bridgetown Monitor to set our village notes and our Bear River page and they have been sending the type down to us on Thursday's train. Yesterday there were no trains and our type is still in Bridgetown. This includes all our village notes which arrived previous to Wednesday and the Bear River copy which was sent to them direct from Bear River. Next week we are in hopes of having a larger staff on, but when one takes into consideration the fact that the ever since Labor Day the editor has been also the foreman, pressman, engineer, job printer, and janitor, and has set all the display advertisements and made up all the forms, doing the work of three men, many will wonder how it is that the paper has been published at all.

We used to hear a line of talk something like this: "Oh, if we only had a steady winter no matter how cold it was or how much snow. If we had a steady winter like they have in some countries, we would be so much better off. It would be healthier 'an' everything." Well, you chatters, we have had it: how did you like it? Was it as good as you claimed or did it make your teeth chatter too dinged much?

Here and There

QUEBEC, Que.—The request made by Mayor Curley of Boston for the return of the small gun said to have been captured by the British on June 17, 1775, at the battle of Bunker Hill, and which now stands on the square of the Quebec Citadel, has been returned to the Minister of Militia at Ottawa.

PORT ARTHUR.—An official announcement by the C. P. R. at Winnipeg says: "At Port Arthur additional trackage will be provided to accommodate grain consigned to the terminal elevators at Current River."

KORE.—Sixty tons of Canadian commodities of various kinds have arrived at Shanghai to be placed in the newly-established Canadian sample salesrooms originated by Dr. W. Ross, Canadian Government trade commissioner at Shanghai. The show rooms will be in charge of D. B. Spafford, who has spent several years in China as a representative of Canadian manufacturers. Dr. Ross states that Canada is more interested than ever in the upbuilding of trade with the Orient, and the opening of the sales rooms at Shanghai is a tangible indication of the efforts being made to accomplish that purpose.

ST. JOHN, N.B.—At the present rate of shipment of grain, the 20,000,000 mark may be attained this season. The first shipment of wheat to the end of January, the total export of wheat through the C. P. R. elevators was officially given at 4,044,335 bushels, compared with 4,576,233 bushels for the previous winter season. The increase for this winter to the end of January is 4,238,102. Grain shipments on February 1st of this year had equalled the total for March last year.

LETHBRIDGE.—C. C. Stubbard, D.S.O., for some time C. P. R. trainmaster here, has been transferred to Penitentiary, B.C., where he will occupy the same position on the Kettle Valley Railway, a branch of the Canadian Pacific. Mr. Stubbard is succeeded here by C. E. Legg, of Penitentiary. Mr. Legg will assume his duties at once. Contrary to the reports from overseas August 1, 1920, Mr. Stubbard has been a resident of the city continuously since that time.

KINGSTON.—Prominent officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway were in the city in connection with local matters connected with the railway service. H. J. Main, superintendent of the division, and Col. Ripley, district engineer, inspected the new overhead bridge on the new line entering the city and which is now about complete. The rails are being laid and soon the trains of the Canadian National line, as well as those of the C. P. R., will be running over them and a great source of danger will be removed in the diamond switch that has been in operation for so many years at heavy expense.

CALGARY.—Those who knew Grant Hall, Vice-President Canadian Pacific Railway, in the olden days in the West, can recall his remarkable prowess with a gun. Although he now has little time for hunting expeditions he has by no means lost his well-known aim. While his train was proceeding in a rapid descent between Weyburn and Lethbridge his party noticed a coyote come flitting sideways. "Hit him," he remarked. "Taken," said the Vice-President. Bang went his gun and the coyote rolled over. "The Call of the Wild," remarked the Vice-President with a smile.

MEDICINE HAT.—Within the past year, three locomotive engineers of the Medicine Hat division, James Fisher, Tom Penhale and Harry Hardy, have been retired from active service of the Canadian Pacific Railway on pensions. All three were veterans in service, having been pioneer construction trains in the pioneer days of road building, and many years ago had been promoted to passenger runs. Tom Penhale is the oldest in service with the company, having enlisted in 1881. He has taken an active part in the community, and was an alderman of the city for several years. "Uncle" Fisher has spent fifty-two years of his life railroad, covering during the entire period over two million miles in the cab of a locomotive. He was the first engineer on the Intercolonial, and joined the Canadian Pacific in 1881, having pulled a passenger train for the past thirty-six years. Harry Hardy joined with the company in 1887 at Broadview, and later worked on a construction train on the Prince Albert branch in 1890.

In Uganda, the price of a fowl is still two yards of cotton cloth. Two eggs costs a needle, while several old beer bottles will purchase as much firewood as a man can carry.

Kathleen's Great Chance

By MARGARET M. LUKES

© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Dr. Robert Granville and Kathleen Hicks, sitting before the open fire in the flicks living room, kept perfectly quiet for a moment.

Then Kathleen spoke again. "You see, Bob," she exclaimed impulsively, "it's the chance I've been waiting for, for years—well, for two years anyway. That was before you came to Tintonville. It was that having the lead in the chess play that made me just know that some day I'd have a chance to go on the stage. And now comes this great chance through your Foster's article. It's only a little part of course, Bob, you don't understand how wonderful it is to stand up there and—"

Kathleen's eager voice trailed into dreams. Her dark blue eyes shone like stars. The freight shed a glow on her soft golden hair. Finally Bob, big and good looking in his awkward way, slowly rose to his feet. "You've made up your mind," he said huskily, "nothing that I can say would make you change it?" Kathleen shook her head. "Oh, Bob," she burst forth again, "you don't know what it is to want a life where unusual things happen. Here I always know just what is going to happen next. I even always know what you're going to do next. From the day Bob had come as a young doctor to the pretty little town of Tintonville and he had met Kathleen the day he came—he had fallen hopelessly in love with her. It was characteristic of him now to go back to his cozy white house, a stone's throw from the Tintonville hospital, without pleading his cause. It was characteristic of him, too, to go down to the station the next morning and cheerfully say good-by to him, smartly dressed Kathleen.

But when the New York express had come and gone and Mrs. Hicks, the fussy little mother of Kathleen, with her father had been consecrated to the stage venture, asked Doctor Bob to come back to the house for lunch, he only shook his head and said he thought he'd go for a little walk in the country.

To describe the first few days of the tour of "The Truce Makers" would be to describe a cloud of rose glory for Kathleen. With the strain of many rehearsals all over excitement flattered about her mind like a gay-colored little bird. At first there was no thrill in the world like getting up each night to say her little part. It wasn't much, but it was a little bit of a job in a small town in the early cold hours of the morning to make a train for the next stand. Still, a person had to make sacrifices for art, Kathleen argued to herself.

It was just at the beginning of the fourth week that Kathleen, sitting quietly in a small stuffy dressing room in Castleton, Iowa, heard the play was going to fail.

"Fail," she echoed faintly to the character woman as she drew a generous line of grease paint under her left eye.

"Why, yes, of course, you little angel from the skies. Don't you ever see them baby blue eyes to take a peek through the curtain hole and see how many people's out front? There wasn't any more than three handfulls last night. Jake Sullivan got a wire from New York last night telling the show off the boards if it didn't start to break even in three nights."

The gossip of the other members of the company soon proved to Kathleen that the character woman was not fooling. They sat on the trunks in each other's dressing rooms and gathered in small indignant groups in the busy streets of the theatre and their one topic of conversation was the "bust-up" of the show. Kathleen learned that the whole trouble was that they were simply passing through a certain section of the country where there was financial depression; that once tided over and out of this "belt" the show would be on its feet. However, the manager in New York refused to stand further losses and wait for larger audiences.

That night Kathleen sat for a long time on the edge of the little white iron bed, her two long golden braids hanging dejectedly over her shoulders. It was the thought of winning to tell some one all about it that made her finally reach for the little pad and pencil in her suitcase and write her mother a long letter.

The next three days passed like all the others with the exception that every one was cross and gloomy. The fatal third day itself landed them in a town called "Heartsease" and they laughed at the irony of it.

It was at midnight that Jake Sullivan, manager, suddenly appeared at the long table where they were sitting, cleared his throat and made this announcement:

In the company ran this way and that for water and finally summoned a doctor who happened to be staying in the hotel.

When Kathleen, lying on a couch in a little parlor, came to fifteen minutes later, she was looking into the eyes of Bob Granville.

"Bob," she cried, and for some reason the character woman standing near stole quietly out of the room.

"Bob," she cried again, suddenly sitting bolt upright and seizing his two hands, whatever are you doing here?" The old boyish grin spread over his face. "I'm backing the show."

"Then you're the man?" Bob nodded. "I didn't mean to tell you. Er—er—I'm interested in shows and your mother happened to tell me this one was in trouble—so I thought I'd come out and help."

Now Kathleen might have had the appearance of a fluffy little doll baby, but deep in her heart she had that intuition that determines the course of every woman's life. "Bob, dear," she said slowly, "you're not telling me the truth. You didn't come out here because you were interested in the show business. You came out to save the show because you thought being in it made me happy. Now I want you to do something. Take me home. I want to wash my face with a break in her voice. 'I want to cook in a little white kitchen, to wash and iron and mend stockings on the front porch. Oh, Bob, I want always to know what's going to happen next.'"

Dumbfounded, he stood there. "You mean," he said at last, and there was a great light shining in his eyes, "Fifteen minutes later when the two had come slowly back to earth they realized Doctor Bob had pledged himself to back a third rate show in case it came to disaster that evening. But, however, is sometimes kind to lovers. "The Truce Makers" did not fail. The town of Heartsease turned out to be just on the edge of the prosperity belt. All the town turned out to see the show and the next morning by way of celebration the members of the company, including a jubilant understudy of all parts who would now slip into a new role, attended the wedding of one Dr. Robert Granville and Miss Kathleen Hicks.

"It was 'Heartsease' after all," the character woman called as she waved good-by to them on the observation platform of the train due east.

N. Y.'S UPPER BROADWAY

Writer Tells of Difference in Shows and People Found on Great Thoroughfare.

Upper Broadway has a certain opulence achieved by no other part of Manhattan, a writer in The St. Louis Globe Democrat says. The shops are newer—and the people different. The street seems to give a new shake to window kaleidoscopes in the store. The delicatessens try to outdo each other in gaudy displays—sausages, cheese, pickles, jams and what not—fashioned into automobiles, country homes and subway kiosks. Every other store has its circulating library and the drug stores have red and green lights and really sell drugs. Baby carriages crowd the paves, and the young girls actually go out of evenings with mamma and papa. Apparently not ashamed of anything, and they have any number of little cheese shops—these exclusively in cheese imported and domestic. The butchers wear cleaner aprons than they do downtown, and their cheeks are redder. The movies go in for a new western drama of "the dirty work on the border" school and heart-throbbing films of simple lassies who fall the villain at the last spin of the reel.

Wife's Faith Aid to Ingersoll. Robert Ingersoll fell in love with Eva Parker, afterward his wife, because she was "the first woman he had ever known who had ideas." She was the daughter of a "free thinking" square who lived near Peoria in a little town called Groveland, where young Ingersoll went to try a law case. Eva admired his eloquence, and when it was discovered that they shared the same views about theology and politics, they fell in love and were soon married, when Eva was a beautiful girl of nineteen. Ingersoll's religious views soon attracted widespread and hostile attention. It was his wife's sympathy and belief that made it possible for him to face the bitter opposition which came to him from all quarters. It has been said by a biographer that but for Mrs. Ingersoll's bravery and faith the world would never have heard a great deal about her distinguished husband.

Natural Curiosity in Scotland. A singular natural curiosity located in the valley of the Achan in Scotland, is what is known as the Devil's Beest-tub. It is in the form of a hollow or basin, surrounded by high hills which make it so secluded a spot that a large number of persons can conceal themselves in it with ease and remain unseen by others in the immediate neighborhood.

In ancient times it was frequently used as a hiding place for stolen cattle, and it is this fact which has given it its name. It is mentioned in several of the novels of Sir Walter Scott.

Perplexing. Judge—Did you steal those hogs? Rastus—No, suh, I never stole no haws, jedge, yo' honor.

CONNELL STAMPS VERY VALUABLE

Stamp collectors throughout the Dominion will learn with much interest of the recent acquisition by George A. Lowe, the Toronto philatelist, of one of the exceedingly rare five-cent "Connell" stamps which created somewhat of a sensation when issued for the Government of the Province of New Brunswick, just sixty-three years ago.

This issue which was permitted but a very brief existence, raised a considerable rumour. To-day the stamp is declared to rank as the second rarest postage stamp issued in Canada, the first honors being conceded to a 12 penny Canada stamp which is valued at $650. The present value of the Connell stamp which has come into the possession of Mr. Lowe is valued by connoisseurs at about $160. It would be worth much more if it bore cancellation marks such as distinguish one which was added to the collection of W. H. Brouse, the Toronto stock broker, some years ago, as very few of the stamps were used in the service for which they were printed. In official circles it has been noted that any were used and naturally the subject has occasioned considerable controversy and speculation in the ranks of stamp enthusiasts.

Stamp historians have gone into the question very thoroughly on numerous occasions. As soon as Mr. Lowe learned of the existence of one of the stamps in England, he lost no time in getting after it and his efforts proved successful.

When, in December, 1859, Hon. J. H. T. Manners-Sutton, Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick, and his Executive Council authorized the then Postmaster-General, Hon. Chas. Connell, to procure a new set of postage stamps in accord with the new decimal currency, they little reckoned what trouble they were raising for themselves and Mr. Connell.

Rightly or wrongly, Mr. Connell believed that he had been given full power and discretion as to design of the new stamps, and he visited New York to order supplies. The designs chosen were satisfactory in every way except in regard to the five-cent stamp. For this Mr. Connell had chosen a portrait of himself, and when the first consignment of stamps reached Fredericton and the design of the five-cent was noticed there was a great "to do".

Mr. Connell's letter was laid before the Lieutenant Governor and Council and the reply elicited impelled him to resign in protest against what he considered usurpation of his authority.

The resignation was accepted and Mr. Connell was given permission to publish any explanation he wished. In his explanation he claimed that he did not resign because of the veto of the five-cent stamp, but because he differed strongly from his colleagues on other legislation. But there seems very little doubt that the real reason of Connell's resignation was the fact that his stamp was discredited.

Naturally the whole affair caused excitement in New Brunswick and Connell was bitterly assailed or unmercifully chaffed in the Canadian press. It has been asserted that this five-cent stamp bearing Connell's portrait was used for two or three days, but official correspondence refutes this. As half a million of the offending stamps were printed, and no official information was published as to their disposal, it has always been somewhat of a mystery why the variety should be so rare. An intimate acquaintance of Mr. Connell's is on record as stating that Connell himself bought the stamps and ultimately burned them.

The unfortunate affair evidently did not terminate Mr. Connell's political career, for not many years afterwards he was elected without opposition to represent the County of Carleton in the House of Commons.

The Connell stamp is of a rather dark brown color. It bears the numeral five on each corner, surrounding a face of Mr. Connell, circled by the words "New Brunswick Postage" and at the bottom "5 cents 5".

Marguerite Rudolph, of Bridgewater, N.S., aged 4 years and 3 months, selected out of a thousand entries in a child beauty contest conducted by The Halifax Evening Echo as the Loveliest Child in Nova Scotia. Marguerite, who is even more beautiful than her picture, was born on the day the Armistice was signed.

When, in December, 1859, Hon. J. H. T. Manners-Sutton, Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick, and his Executive Council authorized the then Postmaster-General, Hon. Chas. Connell, to procure a new set of postage stamps in accord with the new decimal currency, they little reckoned what trouble they were raising for themselves and Mr. Connell.

NEWSPAPER MEN

COMING EAST

Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association Will Visit Here
In June.

The manager of the Courier has been notified that a very large party of newspaper men from all over Canada will visit Digby in June next.

The Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, which is composed of the publishers of nearly all the weekly papers in the Dominion are coming east and on to Halifax where they will hold their annual convention on June 18th and 19th.

Last year over five hundred delegates assembled at Ottawa and in 1921 about five hundred met at Vancouver, B.C., so it is expected that this year will be even greater.

So far as known the special train will leave Toronto, June 14th. The first stop in New Brunswick will be at Fredericton. From Fredericton to St. John the special train will go over the Valley railway. From St. John the delegates will cross the B.V. to Digby and proceed thence via the Annapolis Valley to Halifax.

After the convention is over the special train will proceed to Cape Breton, there to P. E. I. and on to Quebec via the North Shore. Stops will be made at Newcastle and Campbellton.

Among this party will be some of the brightest men in the newspaper world in Canada.

Arrangements will be made for entertainment at this point.

in official circles.

The executive Council claimed the right of approving the stamps before they were issued and ordered that the five-cent stamp should not be put in circulation with the other denominations and that a new five-cent stamp with the portrait of Queen Victoria should be ordered at once. These instructions were forwarded to the Postmaster-General in due course, but he still insisted on his right to issue the five-cent stamps already on hand, and wrote to the Provincial Secretary expressing himself strongly to that effect.

Mr. Connell's letter was laid before the Lieutenant Governor and Council and the reply elicited impelled him to resign in protest against what he considered usurpation of his authority.

The resignation was accepted and Mr. Connell was given permission to publish any explanation he wished. In his explanation he claimed that he did not resign because of the veto of the five-cent stamp, but because he differed strongly from his colleagues on other legislation. ## LIFE WAS BURDEN SAYS THIS MAN

John McNeen's Condition Was Such That His Arms and Legs Felt As If They Were Cracking Every Time He Moved—

Stomach Trouble, Constipation and Indigestion Cured By Drego

John B. McNeen of Fredrickton, N. B., is a farmer and like the average farmer his life has meant hard work, exposure, and a certain amount of worry. At the age of 62 he found this had told on him and the penalty was a stomach that did not function properly, constipation and rheumatism. Now John McNeen is another man. He has taken three bottles of Drego and in three weeks he has gained six lbs., in weight and his general condition is wonderfully improved.

"I was troubled so with rheumatism," says Mr. McNeen, "that at times I thought every bone in my arms and legs was cracking. My pain was so severe. My kidneys were also very weak and I had a poor appetite. The little that I eat would sour in my stomach and gas would form after every meal. I suffered terribly with constipation and was always looking for strong laxatives which gave poor results. That naturally kept me in a weakened condition. Living was really a burden to me."

"I thank the day I started taking Drego as it has made a new man out of me. I can enjoy my meals now. The gas and the pains in my stomach are gone. My kidneys are in a fine condition, better than ever. The rheumatism in my joints is practically gone and my bowels are regular. I sleep all night like a boy of 10. I am continuing the treatment and am sure I will get the best of results."

There are many farmers and city people who suffer just as Mr. McNeen did. Such conditions are unnecessary when one or two bottles of Drego, that wonderful root and herb corrective, would make things right.

Drego is being specially introduced at Digby by P. W. Holdsworth, and is sold by good druggists everywhere.

PREPOT

A joint meeting of the executive of the W. M. Aid of the County of Digby of the Bible School was held Sunday afternoon, when plans were made for a united meeting of the Bible School and the Missionary Aid on Easter Sunday evening. An attractive programme will be provided to which the Church Choir will contribute Easter Anthems.

Notwithstanding the snow-blocked roads the men's class had the splendid attendance of 38 on Sunday when the "Message of Calvary," to the individual, was discussed. The Mission Band will hold a special session on Friday afternoon at 3:45 under the leadership of Mrs. Ray Finigan.

The Young Peoples Union will be held and addressed by Mrs. Frank Lent on Friday at 7 p. m.

Special sermons on the "Hill called Calvary" will be given next Sunday in the Church by the Pastor.

In the absence of the church organist through sickness, Mrs. Westcott led in the singing.

Signs of the break-up of the winter in the memory of the oldest citizens are appearing to the great relief of all our people.

BUILT BY ROMANS

Archeologists Revel in Discovery of Old Temple.

Exploration of German Bomb Unearthed Ruins of Structure Believed to Date From First Century.

A German bomb which played havoc in the heart of Amiens in 1918 has also caused much excitement among eminent archeologists. The bomb in question plunged through a cellar and in exploding laid bare the foundations of a Roman temple dating back, it is said, to the First century of the Christian era.

Two thousand years of history, of war and conquest and civilization lay buried in this rubbish heap, with only two or three fragments of stone wall rising into the daylight above the medieval and modern wreckage of the houses. The bits of Roman wall, splintered by high explosive stood in tact through the rest of the war. They and their fragments in the dust remained, only to invoke scorn and disdain at the encroachments of an invading army that failed even in its conquest of modern Gaul. The existence of this ruin offered striking indication of the advance of Roman civilization in the northern provinces, for the temple ruins are of vast dimensions going beyond the street fragments of wall reappearing again under a demolished house half a block away.

The objects of value found since July, 1920, when the temple was discovered, include many Roman bronzes, some with ornamentation, a considerable number of bronze and gold pins and small articles attachable to wearing apparel. In the bottom of the well was found a bronze hand capable of being highly polished. Alongside this were a few women's hair ornaments in bronze. There were bone sockets for door hinges, some curious pendants ascribed to the wardrobe of Roman emperors, their marriage, and the objects in best preservation consisted of a group of beautiful, iridescent glass bottles. There were also a number of coins which, unhappily, are illegible. The fragments of wall, in the opinion of older archeologists, indicated that at one time the temple had been richly adorned, as each fragment was from a different section. So far there has not been any decipherable matter found to throw light on the history of the structure, though from what records are obtainable on early Gallic history and the Roman conquest by Caesar, it is presumed the temple was constructed during the first century after the colonization of Gaul had been started.

Revolutionized Illustration.

With the death of John Karst at his country home in Sullivan county, N. Y., there passed away an artist who did much for wood engraving.

Karst was born in Sengen on the Rhine eighty-six years ago, coming to this country when an infant. He learned the trade of wood engraving which he quickly made a profession. He was not long in convincing the heads of such publications as Harper's and Frank Leslie's that wood engraving was an art.

When the old plan of photographing a picture on the block was adopted Karst was one of the few wood engravers who survived the change. He induced a great publishing house to substitute artistic engraving for the old plan of photographing a picture on the block. He filled their books. An edition of a geography with the most beautiful pictures ever printed in such a textbook resulted in revolutionizing wood engraving.

For the next 30 years there was scarcely an illustrated educational textbook of value the engravings of which were not made in Karst's studio.

Karst was an authority on porcelains, prints and first editions of books. His knowledge was broad, and every publisher of his time valued his friendship, and not a few sought his advice.

Mines in Arizona.

Quebec, in Canada, is the principal source of the world's asbestos, but valuable deposits exist in California and Arizona. In the latter state a new field is being opened on ridges that lead from the Sierra Ancha and the Mogollon mountain ranges, where more than two hundred claims are already staked. The principal holdings are those of the Triangle Asbestos Association. Eighty acres of the association's ground has been taken by Los Angeles interests, who are preparing to ship to independent consumers in the East. The fiber is found in a series of "layers," each of them several inches thick, lying one above the other and separated by a foot of waste rock. It is cheaply mined in a comparatively soft formation, but the ore is not clean.

"Bleach on Her Leg."

The youngsters were wading and splashing, and now and then picking leeches off their little white legs. The elders sat on the bank watching the youngsters and harking back to the time when leeches were a sovereign remedy of the medics who believed in the curative power of bleeding.

"Why, they used to call doctors leeches, didn't they?" said a middle-aged father.

Little Flora waded out, and looking down on her leg and seeing a leech, remarked almost heroically:

"Oh, mamma, I've got a 'bleech' on me."

CANADIAN NATIONAL EXPRESS COMPANY

The Speed Ideal in National Service

YOU can't begin delivering goods to your customers, or using them, until you get them. Dealers cannot re-order until they have had a chance to test out demand. They buy more readily if they do not have to carry large stocks and can re-order goods to be shipped by express. Speedy distribution therefore ensures quicker turnover.

The Coast-to-Coast service of the Canadian National Express Company is the latest step toward a National ideal of speedy service. Its growth enables the Company to plan on a larger scale and serve you with increased effectiveness.

Special attention is given to handling the fish traffic from the Maritime Provinces so as to secure speedy transportation, close train connections and direct routing to destinations in the Eastern United States as well as the consuming centers in Canada.

For speedy, personal service transportation of packages and guaranteed delivery consult a Canadian National Express Company employee. Telephone to have him call on you. As a traffic expert his first consideration is the shipper and his interest.

The Canadian National Express Company transports small and valuable parcels, as rapidly and as safely as automobile and other machinery parts, or perishable articles.

Mrs. James Morrell who has been spending a few weeks at Yarmouth the guest of her sister, Mrs. Chas. Southern returned today.

Mrs. Mary Sanders who has spent the past two months with Mrs. Ethel Davis, returned to Yarmouth Thursday evening.

Mrs. S. T. Payson is spending a few weeks in St. John.

On Sunday morning, March 11, Roy, the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Garret Frost, aged 9 months passed away very suddenly.

Mrs. Ethel Davis was a passenger to Yarmouth on Thursday evening by S. S. Keith Cano, where she will make her future home. She will be greatly missed both in the church and the community where she has faithfully labored for over 38 years.

Halifax Times arrived on Sunday with his fine new motor boat which he has had built at Clark's Harbor.

On account of bad weather and the ice the lobster fishermen will hardly get started at work before April 1st. They feel that they should be granted an extension of time.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Barkhouse and daughter, Mrs. Poole left for Yarmouth March 10, by S. S. Grace Hanksen where they will remain for a few months.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Welch, of Yarmouth North, are visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Albert Welch, of the Western Lighthouse has purchased a Ford car from Charles Welch.

A special meeting of the U. B. W. M. W. was held on Tuesday evening March 13, at the home of Mrs. Elvett Dutton to tender a farewell to Mrs. Estel D. via. After singing, the 23rd, Psalm was recited in unison and prayer was offered by Mrs. Anderson.

The following programme was then rendered: Reading—Miss Gillett. Duet—Mrs. Rosalind Watkins and Mrs. Fred Denton.

Remarks and reading—Mrs. Anderson. Piano and Violin Duet—Mrs. Ralph Welch and Mrs. Roy Repol.

Remarks and reading—Mrs. Anderson. Mrs. E. C. Bower then read an address of appreciation of Mrs. Davis' work in the Union and presented her on behalf of the society with a beautiful Bible suitably engraved with her name. Mrs. Davis then sang a hymn and thanked the ladies for their kind attentions. A letter was then read from Mrs. W. E. Kent who was unable to be present, speaking of Mrs. Davis' great work in the Sunday School in past years and the great influence she exerted there. God be with you till we meet again was sung and the "Mizpah" benediction was read in unison. The ladies were then invited to the dining room where delicious refreshments were served and a social half hour was spent.

Foolish Saving

A penny saved is not always a penny earned. Sometimes it is two pennies lost. The merchant who spends nothing on advertising loses much more than he saves.

The money spent for plate glass windows is not looked on as lost; nor is the money spent on better interior lighting.

Anything that increases favor, that adds to sales, that multiplies customers is very properly regarded as a good investment.

Advertising is a good investment—just as plate glass windows are. Advertising sells more goods to more persons than shop-windows do.

A SURPRISE PARTY

Mrs. Willis Rice was very pleasantly surprised on Monday, March 13th when a number of the members of the Elita Rebekah Lodge gathered at her home, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. After a short time spent in social chat and games, Miss Mable Harris, in behalf of those present, presented Mrs. Rice with a purse of gold. Refreshments were then served. An elaborate birthday cake was provided by Mrs. Theobald Rice on which the hostess lighted the candles. There was much enjoyment as each guest in turn made a wish and extinguished a light. The cake was then cut and served with ice cream. As Mrs. Rice is leaving town in a short time, she and her husband were the recipients of many hearty good wishes for a happy future. The guests then departed to their homes. This evening spent with the pleasure will remain one of the most enjoyable events in the memory of all who were present.

C. G. I. T. BANQUET.

Last Tuesday evening, March 9, a banquet was held in the basement of the Methodist church by the C. G. I. T. Girls. The tables were daintily set and fairly groined beneath the weight of good things provided.

When the hall rang twenty-one fair maidens, with the pastor and his wife, sat down to do justice to the tempting repast. After supper a short spicy programme was rendered which was followed by a number of games provided by the organization. The function was informally closed and the girls departed, declaring that they had spent a very pleasant evening.

BOY SCOUT ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED

On Friday, March 9th, the Provincial Scout Commissioners visited Bear River and held a Scout Rally in the Green Lantern Theatre. As a result of the rally, a Scout Association was formed and an Advisory Committee appointed the same evening. The committee consisted of J. H. Cunningham, chairman; Rev. S. S. Sprague, secretary; Joseph Lemay, Capt. Goodway, W. E. Read, H. O. Rice and all the local clergymen as ex-officio members. The appointment of a committee member from the Advent church will be announced later.

The committee has elected scout masters as follows: Joseph Warren, chief scoutmaster; Rev. Carl Mack and Joseph Steadman, assistant scoutmasters. An application was made to the school trustees for the janitors room at the Academy for scout headquarters and the request was granted.

The boys are very enthusiastic over the movement and a number are already preparing to qualify as "Tenderfoot" scouts. The organization is being completed as rapidly as possible and it is hoped that regular meetings will begin next week. The fund-raising campaign is not large and to provide funds it has been voted that the Scout Association will consist of all adult well-wishers in the community who will pay the membership fee of twenty-five cents. It is hoped that membership will be entered into voluntarily and that the fund-raising campaign will be a highly commendable movement will pass in their names and membership fee to any member of the committee so that the fund will be available to meet the small incidental expenses necessary in providing the simple equipment for the start. The Scout Association of the Association are extended to Mr. Power and all those connected with the management of the Green Lantern for the free use of the hall and the donation of the services for the organization meeting.

American seedlings, fast growing in height, types, already are beginning to bear the scars of war. Europe. Not only are they being grown in France and Belgium, but in Great Britain also and in Ireland.

The French ministry has ordered that the seedlings shall be located in places readily accessible to main travel roads, and if possible, near historic sites. With the view that such future forests shall remain as a monument to the partnership of France and America in the great war. The same sentiment prevails in Great Britain, which actually lost more forest cover than any other country by the sudden demands of war for materials. In Belgium, in the once beautiful Ardennes, where the German axe left nothing standing, the beautiful American Douglas fir is lifting its head.

Arthur Newson Peck of Princeton, N. J., has just made a report to the American Forestry association, which knows the seedlings after a three-months' inspection of the plantings. He reports the trees everywhere are regarded as growing monuments to cordial relations between the allies in the great war. In Belgium, he says, the seedlings have been planted along the Chemin des Dames, around Lille, Valenciennes and Hirsion, at the doors of recovering industry; in the forest of St. Gobain and around the ruins of the famous Coucy-le-Chateau, in the forest of Mormal, where in a 25,000-acre forest of pine and beech the German axe left nothing but the smallest saplings; in the Ardennes mountains bordering the old duchy of Luxembourg; in County Tyrone, Ireland, where the best nursery showing of any planted by the British Forestry commission has been made, and along the Caledonian canal in Scotland.

Because it was there the American submarine chasers were mobilized. The magnitude of the work ahead is shown in the report, which brings out that the British program calls for 14,000 pounds of seed a year, while France needs an equal amount, and because of the summer drought, Belgium needs almost as much.

When Robert T. Lincoln went to England as the American minister he soon became noted for the charm of his conversation. Mr. Gladstone, we learn from the American Embassy in London, was anxious to meet Mr. Lincoln and enjoy a pleasant evening with him. So finally a common friend, Henry Labouchere, arranged for a dinner at his house, which was on Monday, March 19th, at 10 o'clock. Mr. Gladstone's city residence, Mrs. Gladstone before permitting her husband to go made Mr. Labouchere promise that Mr. Gladstone should be back at 10 o'clock.

The dinner had no sooner sat down than some question rose that interested and excited Mr. Gladstone, and he at once began to talk. He talked and talked and talked, and there was no way of interrupting him without being rude. When the hands of the clock were nearing eleven, and Mr. Lincoln had had no chance whatever to interpose a remark, Mr. Labouchere interposed. Mr. Gladstone's torrent of words by saying, "Mr. Gladstone, now 11 o'clock; it is an hour's ride to London, and I promised Mrs. Gladstone, to have you back at 10."

Later, when the two were seated in the carriage Mr. Labouchere said to Mr. Gladstone, "Well, you have passed an evening with Mr. Lincoln; what do you think of him?"

"Mr. Lincoln is a charming person," was the reply, "but he does not seem to have much conversation."

Costly Russian Papers.

The Izvestia, the most widely circulated Moscow daily, prints from 170,000 to 200,000 copies. Next come the Pravda, with 70,000 copies; the Ekonomicheskaya, with 27,000; and Journal of the Cooperatives, with 17,000. The Izvestia ("Tidings") pays for its paper 3,000,000 rubles the ton (40 pounds). 500,000 rubles for the setting of 1,000 letters, 100 million rubles for the make-up of each page, 5 million rubles for the printing of 1,000 copies—New York Tribune.

Don't Worry About Fuel.

When we have need of alcohol for fuel purposes it will be produced commercially in sufficient quantity to meet all requirements, says Henry Ford, in an interview in the Popular Science Monthly. There is enough alcohol in an acre of Michigan potatoes to grow the acre of ground that raises them for a hundred years! The "fuel problem" will take care of itself. It need be no source of worry now.

Peat to Help Out Fuel.

According to the United States geological survey, the development of some deposits here would help greatly in fuel shortage. It is estimated that 12,000,000,000 tons of fuel could be furnished by the swamp and peat beds here. Peat is a dark brown or black deposit, produced by the partial decomposition of mosses, sedges and other vegetable matter in marshes and wet meadows.

April Verse.

"This poem was written to welcome April," said the bard, "if you don't hurry up and meet May will be here." "I understand your point of view exactly," said the editor, "but perhaps we'll have some rain in May and then it will be quite appropriate to rhyme flowers with 'showers'."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT OF THE TOWN DURING 1922.

MAYOR'S REPORT

To the Ratepayers of the Town of Digby:
LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—As our financial year has drawn to a close it becomes my duty to present to you the Annual Report.
Faced by an overdraft of $1547.95, your Council had the difficult problem of trying to finance efficiently the different services of the town and at the same time not to increase the already heavy burden of taxation, in consequence of this all estimates had to be pared down to the finest possible point and lived up to throughout the year. The forces of nature, however, were not taken into consideration, and the heavy rains and floods during the Summer and Autumn caused an immense amount of damage to our streets, necessitating in this department, an expenditure over estimates of nearly $1,000, this, together with an unforeseen outlay of $250 at the dam made it impossible to keep within the general estimates and in consequence we are still forced to carry an overdraft amounting to $1387.97.

STREETS:—The exceptionally wet season and heavy motor traffic played havoc with our streets, making it practically impossible to keep them in a good state of repair. In this regard Digby is faced by a serious problem, the poor material at hand for making streets, the side hill situation, and sandy soil, all lend themselves to easy damage and difficult upkeep, and until some better road material is found our streets will always require a heavy yearly outlay.

WATER:—During the year an abundant supply of good, pure, wholesome water has been maintained. Owing to the ageing of the system, gates, hydrants and many standpipes had to be taken up and repaired or renewed, thus adding very materially to the cost of upkeep.

SCHOOLS:—With the exception of two resident teachers a new staff was engaged for the Academy. As the salaries demanded by male Principals were beyond the means of this Board, it was found necessary to engage a lady Principal and Vice-Principal, this change has had no detrimental effect upon the school, good order is maintained and the pupils seem to be progressing satisfactorily. Although an epidemic of Measles has kept many away, the average attendance has been good. During the Summer vacation the school building was thoroughly renovated.

ELECTRIC LIGHT:—At a public meeting held in the Court House on the 15th day of March, a majority of the ratepayers decided that it was in the best interest of the town to take over the John Daley electric light plant, at a sum not exceeding $18,000. This mandate was carried out by the Mayor and Council and the town took possession on the first day of June. A contract of one year's duration was entered into with H. T. Warner to supply the steam required to run the plant, this contract is being faithfully lived up to, and it can be safely said that during the seven months of operation, the town has had a better light and more efficient service than ever before. Although handicapped by not having any working capital, and having to incur a considerable debt at the outset for repairs, supplies, etc., sufficient has been earned to pay off all indebtedness including interest on the bonds, and leave a small surplus to the credit of the Electric Light Account. At the same time the cost of electricity to the consumer was reduced from 25 cents to 20 cents per kilowatt hour. In this property and franchise the town has a valuable asset and one that will increase in value as the years go by.

TEMPERANCE:—Throughout the year the Temperance Commission practically ceased to function, maintaining that with its present working material it was useless to attempt to start anything, under this regime of laissez aller, the rum seller flourished and the boot-logger did a thriving business. On the 21st of November the Canada Temperance Act, or what is commonly known as the Scott Act, ceased to exist, as far as this County is concerned, and the Nova Scotia Temperance Act came into force, this Act necessitated the appointment, by the town, of a Vendor and Inspector. It is hoped that when this new law gets running smoothly that there will be an improvement in the temperance situation. It must be acknowledged, however, that the ultimate outlook for temperance is not bright, since Governments, which are the law-makers of our land, have gone into the liquor business more for the purpose of making money out of it than of stopping its sale; and thus making of their own laws a farce.

PUBLIC HEALTH:—During the year many infectious diseases prevailed within the town, Measles, Whooping Cough, and Chicken-pox have been epidemic, with also a few cases of Scarlet Fever. The spread of these diseases has been due in some cases to people wilfully keeping the disease concealed, but in the majority of cases to carelessness and non notification. The haphazard medical inspection of school children as performed by the County Nurse has been replaced by a more systematic inspection carried out by our Victorian nurse. In accordance with the Cancer Control Movement a public meeting was held at the Court House in the month of November. The object of this meeting was to impress upon the public the importance of the early recognition and removal of cancer as the only sure means of preventing the great waste of life that is occurring every year from this dread disease.

SOLDIERS' MEMORIAL:—The Committee who had this work in charge completed their labors during the Summer and an outstanding and creditable memorial was erected on the harbor front at the foot of Sydney Street. The custody of this memorial was handed over to the town, with appropriate ceremony, on the 24th day of September. The knowledge that this tribute has at last been paid to those of our brave lads who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War, must be a source of relief and satisfaction to every loyal citizen.

DIGBY AS A SHIPPING PORT:—It is pleasing to note that our citizens are at last awakening to the possibilities of Digby as a shipping port. The addition to the spur pier makes it possible for the ordinary Trans-Atlantic freighter to dock and load with ease and safety, and the shipping of pulp through this port has already become an established industry. The coming of these steamships means big business for the town, and as the port of Digby is the natural outlet for the products of the Annapolis Valley and Western Nova Scotia, it ought to be made so in fact. It is, however, reassuring to know that our Board of Trade has this matter actively in hand and results are expected in the near future.

I have the honor to be,
Your obedient servant,

E. DuVERNET, M. D.

Mayor

(The above report was read at the last regular Council meeting in January—News Editor Courier).

AUDITORS' REPORT

To the Mayor and Town Council of the Town of Digby:

Gentlemen:—We herewith beg to advise that we have examined the books, accounts and vouchers of the Town of Digby for the year ending December 31st, 1922, and find them correct. We have also inspected the bonds in custody of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Attached hereto are the Statement of Assets and Liabilities, General Balance Sheet and Abstracts of Receipts and Expenditures. We are pleased to note that Mr. Boden has apparently maintained the standard of efficiency he set during the previous year.

We beg to submit the following suggestions and recommendations:

Streets and Water Pay Rolls:—In view of the taxes on cheques and receipts, we suggest that one cheque, covering the total amount of the pay rolls for the month, be drawn and the men paid in cash, thus saving stamps and labour. This procedure might also be applied to various other transactions.

Electric Light Accounts:—The method of collecting consumers' accounts adopted at present is, in our opinion, not uniform. Mr. Daley collects some of the accounts and hands the cash received to the Town Clerk, but does not give an official receipt, merely receipting the statements of account. Other accounts are collected by the Town Clerk who gives an official receipt.

We recommend that either (1) Mr. Daley be given receipt forms to issue on payment, or (2) a typewritten list, in duplicate, be made out each month, giving consumers' names or photo numbers (which also appear on each statement of account), and amount due; one copy to be used by Mr. Daley and one by the Town Clerk. Those accounts paid to Mr. Daley would be marked by him on his list as paid, and those paid to the Town Clerk treated in like manner. This action, of course, to be taken at the time of payment. At the same time the statements of account would be receipted, or (3) all accounts could be made payable at the Town Hall.

We also think that the present method of dealing with the stock might be improved upon. We suggest that the electrician, whenever he withdraws stock either for sale to customers or for use on the system should make notation of his action, in duplicate, one copy for the book-keeper and one copy to be retained in connection with the stock record. This method would enable a more correct statement of "Profit and Loss" to be arrived at. As some $1,500 has been expended on new stock since the plant was purchased, in addition to that taken over at the time, it can be seen that quite a considerable sum is involved.

E. T. VYSE,
J. A. TAYLOR,
Auditors.

DRECO CURED AFTER EVERY- THING FAILED

John H. Parkins of St. John, N. B., Tried Everything That Money Could Procure to Rescue Self From Clutches of Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble

Dreco Now Has My Highest Praise.

Ten years of suffering from rheumatism and kidney trouble—ten years of endless effort to find a cure—a decade of spending money—all this ended when John H. Parkins of 16 St. Paul St. St. John, N. B. discovered Dreco. In Dreco, the pure extract of twelve roots, herbs and leaves of health-giving plants, he found a relief. Mr. Parkins is 44 years old, at that critical age when a man needs all the energy that nature intended him to have, and thanks to Dreco, he now has it after using four bottles.

Mr. Parkins' own words are convincing: He says, "I have been suffering from rheumatism and kidney trouble for the past ten years. I had tried everything that money could procure but everything that I had tried was of no benefit to me at all. The pains were so severe at times, especially during the night, I was kept awake most of the night. I had also terrible pains in the back due to very weak kidneys. My bowels were very irregular and I had to take a strong laxative nearly every night. This would keep me in a weak condition."

"After consulting the Dreco expert I decided to give my preparation a trial. After taking only one bottle of Dreco I found it so wonderful and the relief was so prompt that I decided to buy three more. The pains in my joints are practically gone, my kidneys are fine; really feel like a young boy—full of pep. It is only since I started taking Dreco that I enjoy a good night's sleep. It has really made a new man out of me. My appetite is also 100 per cent better and my bowels are as regular as a clock."

"After such good results in a very short time I cannot help but recommend Dreco as being the best remedy for any cases of rheumatism and kidney trouble. Dreco will always have my highest praise."

Dreco is being specially introduced in Digby by P. W. Holdsworth, and is sold by good druggists everywhere.

Digby, March 30th, 1923.

SCHOONER LEO
LEBLANC MADE FAST RUN

The Weymouth schooner, Leo LeBlanc, Captain Oliver Comeau, arrived at Yarmouth Friday afternoon after a remarkably quick passage from New York. Capt. Comeau reports he left port at 10 a. m. Thursday and arrived at Yarmouth at 10 p. m. The schooner was under way for the last four hours from the time the vessel left New York he made the Lurcher Lightship off Cape Cod at 10 p. m. After discharging the cargo of coal and lumber, the vessel went out to sea and the weather was hazy. Through the forenoon, however, the wind breezed somewhat and he headed the three-master for Yarmouth. The weather was then fair and the wind favorable for him to sail right up to his dock which he reached shortly after two o'clock Friday afternoon or about fifty-two hours from the time of sailing from the United States port of New York.

On arrival the Leo LeBlanc completed a round voyage from Yarmouth. The vessel left last November for Shelburne and returned for New York. After discharging the cargo, the vessel was chartered to the Franklin Baker Co., and loaded general cargo for Halifax, British Columbia, returning from there to New York with a cargo of coconuts and thence to that port with a cargo of 460 tons of hard coal. All done in less than four months.

The Canadian schooner Fieldwood, Capt. Forsythe, is going to Church Point from Yarmouth, to load lumber for Bridgeport, Conn. This handsome vessel sustained a broken rudder stock while in the dock caused by steamers breaking and crowding heavy ice against the rudder during the winter weather.

THE LISTENING POST

Quite frequently I read
Articles in our local paper Urging readers (I was going to Say citizens, but though a man may Live in Digby, and even read the Courier, he is not necessarily
A citizen in the full Sense of the word)
As I was saying, urging readers
To boost their town instead of Knocking it, and as a citizen—I Mean reader, I am heartily in accord
With those sentiments.
Someone, I think it was Confucius,
Said that the only proper place
For a knocker was on a door,
But I would point out that since
His day they have become obsolete
Even on doors. Instead, we use PUSH buttons. Why not then push
Your home town for all it is worth.
When you hear an outsider making Extraneous claims concerning his Home town, and knowing what that Town is like you wonder where he Expects to go when he dies, just Pause to think how you can sing
The praises of Digby without any Fear of future torments.
Whining you many of them.
There will be a special service in Grace
Methodist Church this (Good Friday) evening at 8 o'clock to be followed by the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.
The address for the evening will be "The Five Calvaryes."

Local and General

Not much like Easter!
Better put those summer clothes away again.
Six below zero yesterday! Can you beat it!
This has been a great winter—for the fuel merchant.
C. F. McBride has been appointed warden here in place of J. Outram Dakin.
There will be Public Worship D. V. at Ray View on Thursday evening April the 5th at 7.30.
Zero weather and below at Easter time —but that will make no difference in the millinery displays.
James Merkel, of the Traveller's Inn, has a small spray of cherry blossoms from one of A. D. Daley's trees.
Yarmouth Basket Ball Team passed through Digby on Tuesday enroute their way to play the V. M. C. A. in St. John.
In a recent liquor case a witness testified that the drink he purchased consisted of a red mixture. Sort of "rosy swig" as it were.
There was no train from Halifax yesterday. The railroad had the worst block of the season between Annapolis and Windsor.
One of the young ladies in the post office was sporting a bouquet of mayflowers yesterday in spite of the six below zero weather.
The monthly meeting of the Canadian Club will take place on Tuesday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock at the home of the president.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church will hold a pantry sale on Saturday afternoon, March 31, in St.
A. Lettany's store.
Captain William Snow, of Digby, went to Halifax on Saturday to take over command of the schooner J. Duff, which is fitted out for ballast fishing for the National Fish Company.
The horse attached to the Digby Neck mail sleigh took fright and bolted from the post office yard on Wednesday. The sleigh was badly smashed and the mail had to be transferred to another.
Eugene and George Mose both carry a rather interesting souvenir of the Great War in the shape of Roman coins dug up while "digging in" in France. It is said that over two hundred were found.
The children of the Methodist Sunday school will give an Easter concert on Sunday evening, in the Methodist church, instead of the regular church service. An interesting programme is promised.

Rev. Mr. Watts will lecture at Mount Pleasant School House on Friday evening
April the 6th at 7.45.
Liverpool, England to Halifax, Nova Scotia. Admission by silver collection.
The Buds of Promise' Mission Band of Rossport will hold an Easter service on the Rosway Baptist church on Sunday evening, at 7.30. If stormy will be held following day evening. A free invitation is extended to all.
Good Friday service will be held in the Salvation Army Hall at 8 o'clock.
The meeting Sunday night will commence at 8 o'clock instead of 7 o'clock. An illustration Easter service will be given in the Hall on Monday the 2nd. Admission 15 cents.

A committee from the Social Service council, town council, W. C. T. U. and various other bodies waited on the stipen-dary magistrate on Tuesday evening to ask him to tender his resignation. He promised to take the matter under consideration.

In a case for violation of the Nova Scotia Temperance Act, tried last Friday, the defendant was acquitted. Another case was tried on Wednesday against the wife of last Friday's defendant and this time the defendant was found guilty and a fine of $200 and cost imposed.
The people of the British Isles are great consumers of tea—but not as great as the people of Pictou County and Cape Breton—the latter use about 8 pound red tea per annum and are in interest in ing fact, they drink tea of the best quality —they drink MORSE'S—have been drinking it for over 30 years.

A despatch from Montreal Monday says: "A receivership for the affairs of Clarke Brothers, Ltd., pulp, paper and fibre board manufacturers, of Bear River, N. S., has been sought this week on behalf of two applicants, the first a Canadian, the second Perkins, Goodwin & Co., the large paper board house of New York city."

A service appropriate to the Easter
Festival will be conducted in the Bay
View Church on Sunday afternoon at 2.
There will be special Easter Hymns, and an address by the Minister on "Job's Question or the Difficult which the Easter Message has Made." The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered at the close.
Miss Viola Collins, of Hollingsworth Street, recently having come to Lynn, from her home in Digby, N. S., to pursue her musical education, is making a name for herself as a violinist. She has developed a technique and individuality in her playing which has gained the admiration of her teachers. She will be heard in a recital in the near future.—American exchange.

It is very gratifying to the fishermen of Yarmouth, according to the Telegram to know that Capt. Ansel Snow, although sailing a fresh halibut out of Boston, expects to make Yarmouth his landing port, shipping his fish in bond to Boston.
Last year with the schooner Clarke, Corkum, Capt. Snow was amongst the highest liners of the North Atlantic fresh fish fleet and he is out this year to out-do his record of last year. Capt. Snow was in Digby two weeks ago, but has since sailed for the grounds on a short trip and is expected almost daily to arrive in Yarmouth. He is now skipper and owner of the Flora L. Oliver.

IN THE BAPTIST CHURCH

A lantern service was held in the Hill

THE PEARL WEDDING

A pleasing event occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sabean, Hassett, on Saturday evening, Mar. 17, when a large number of friends and relatives were received and entertained to celebrate the fourteenth anniversary of their wedding, the "Pearl Wedding." Mr. and Mrs. Sa-bean were united in the Holy Bonds of Matrimony by Rev. Mr. Whitcomb, Wes-mouth, on Mar. 17, 1909. The wedding out-of-doors was all that could be desired, while in-doors the atmosphere of "Welcome" was even more so. The house was pleasingly decorated, in honor of the good old patron, St. Patrick, with shamrocks, white green, combined with white, predominated in the nicely arranged festooning.
The guests were given a warm reception and made to feel at home while at intervals they were charmed with choice selections on the Cabinet Phonograph, the groom's gift to his "Bride of thirty years."
A dining luncheon was served at the close of the evening, consisting of ice cream and tempting cakes, the latter testifying to the bride's ability in the art of cooking, and was enjoyed by all. Beside the above mentioned gift, which, by the way, is a fine instrument. Mr. and Mrs. Sabean conceived many other nice and useful presents, including silver cut glass, china, aluminum, linen and cash. After a season of piano music, the guests departed, each well pleased and spent a very enjoyable evening. We all join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Sabean many more years of married life and hope that they may be spared to celebrate the 60th anniversary of the Golden Wedding.

LECTURE

R. W. Tufts, of Wolfville, Chief Federal Migratory Bird Officer for the Maritime Provinces, will give a lecture at the Bijou Theatre on the evening of April eleventh, on "Birds," illustrated by pictures. This lecture is given under the auspices of the Women's Canadian Club. Tickets will not be sold, a silver collection will be taken during the intermission, which we hope will be a generous one. This club during the winter has helped those needing assistance, also sending little comforts to the sick, consequently our funds are low. Help us now that we may help others. As the lecture is an educational one we ask the Teachers to take it up in the schools so that the children may have an opportunity of seeing pictures of our own Canadian Birds.

Dr. Read will be home to resume his practice on Friday, April 6th. Special attention given to Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, and the fitting of glasses.

HAS "COME BACK"

Man of Fifty Need No Longer Remain on the Shelf.

Formerly Classed as Elderly, He Now Makes Strong Appeal to Girl on Life's Threshold.

An attractive personality in the eyes of the Girl of Twenty is the Man of Fifty. It is the attraction of the opposite.

To a girl who is just on the threshold of life, the years of the Man of Fifty make a strong appeal, writes a Girl of Twenty in the Continental Edition of the London Mail. She lacks the experience and knowledge of the world, and though she may not admit it she realizes it. His presence acts as an antidote. For a time she has done with youth and her interests are centered in those older than herself. It is often only a passing phase, but nevertheless it is a very real one.

Miss Twenty is flattered that a man many years her senior should find pleasure in her society. For the attraction is mutual.

The Man of Fifty is allured by the unsophisticated outlook of a young girl. He is amused and interested and, maybe, in her way, flattered.

It has always been thus, and it is natural that it should be so. But never has the Man of Fifty been appreciated as he is today.

Conditions have changed and the Man of Fifty has changed—or rather, he has adapted himself to changed conditions. Incidentally, it has been the making of him.

In these dim days before the war, and the annihilation of so many younger men, there was no place for the Man of Fifty. He was even "too old at forty," and at fifty he was relegated to his armchair.

Things have changed since then. There are many gaps to fill and the Man of Fifty is still filling them—not only in work, but also in play.

In so doing he is recovering his youth, which he was in danger of losing. One has only to take a look at the modern ballroom to confirm this.

There are many ironical heads there. They tell tales although the feet do not give anything away. These foot-trotters were not learned 20 years ago—they have been learned today and learned well.

Thus in many ways Mr. Fifty meets Miss Twenty on equal terms. He is not only guide, philosopher and friend, but also "pal."

He is still active enough to enjoy games with her—lawn tennis and golf are not too strenuous for him. They might be so to a woman of his own age—that is where the girl scores.

On the other hand, a girl of twenty is in many ways, younger than a boy of the same age. He is still a boy, she is a woman—that is where the Man of Fifty scores.

This Man of Fifty is not always married and if not, he is not always single and unattached. He has not quite forgotten all about romance and sometimes he is very romantic. Then he marries Miss Twenty. Is not that the essence of romance?

Divide Money to Get Home.

The old-stock salesman told of his vacation scheme the other day. It is one he used several years. Its advantage is that you always get home without having to draw a check or telegraph headquarters for funds.

"It's like this," he said. "During the year I put aside something each week toward my vacation fund. Then when the time to go comes I count it up and divide it into two even rolls. One my wife sews into the lining of the coat I am going to wear. The other I put into my right hand trousers pocket. Then we start out.

"We go in one direction until the roll in the right hand trousers pocket is gone. Then the roll in my lining is ripped out and we start back. Sometimes we have to figure pretty close, but we always get back all right."

TRIBUTES OF APPRECIATION

On Friday evening a special meeting of the Ladies' Lodge, L. O. E. F. held in their Lodge room, when the degree was conferred on one candidate and other business transacted. At the close of a very interesting session the doors were thrown open to a number of visiting friends in honor of Past Noble Grand sister John A. Harris. The degree was conferred by Past Noble Grand sister John A. Harris. Then Noble Grand Josephine Miller, in a few fitting remarks, expressed the deep regret of the members of the Lodge at the coming departure from their midst, in a few days, of sister Harris, and the great loss that would be sustained by her removal from this Lodge, where she had been an active and untiring worker ever since its organization. In behalf of the Lodge, Past Noble Grand sister Digby, with a purse of money, as a slight appreciation of her valuable services, and assured her of the continued love and good wishes of the Lodge members during all her future career.

Sister Harris, though completely taken by surprise, expressed in very telling and well-chosen words her high regard for all those connected with her in the work of the Order, assuring them of her continued interest in its work in the future, and thanking them for this unexpected token of their regard. Hands were then clasped in a circle and all joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne."

At the close of the session of the Baptist Sunday School on Sunday morning, a vote of appreciation for her valuable services as a Sunday School teacher; also for her very efficient work as trustee and church funds, was tendered Miss Mabel Harris.

The Women's Institute also wishes to take this opportunity of expressing its gratitude and appreciation of Miss Harris' worth as a member of that organization. During the past year, she has acted as recording secretary during the greater part of the time, which position she has filled in a capable and pleasing manner. During the past three months she has also served on the publicity committee in the same faithful capacity.

Her willingness to serve in all good works in her old home town, and her cheerful personality, will cause her to be much missed during her absence from us; but we hasten to bid her God-speed as she journeys from the old scenes of labor to the new and untrodden path before her, and is followed by the hearty good wishes of all her friends.

Mrs. Wm. Henshaw, who has been visiting in the city, is expected to return to her home in the future.

BASEBALL

The Annual meeting of the Valley Baseball League was held at Kentville on the 28th, and the local club was represented by J. H. Cunningham. The principal business of the meeting was the suggestion of the Bear River Club that a rearrangement of the existing schedule be attempted. It was pointed out that the most of the club finds difficulty in financing due to heavy travelling expenses. The meeting was adjourned to the next meeting to be held in the preliminary games this difficulty would be overcome. The division suggested put the Bear River and Annapolis in the Western section; Bridgeport, Middleton, Lawrencetown and Kentville in the Eastern section. Each of these sections would play off a preliminary schedule of games, and the winner of each would play off a final game.

A committee member was appointed for each section to try and make arrangements for the teams to enter. The chair was occupied by Pres. A. L. Davidson and the officers elected for the ensuing year were: A. R. H. (Western), Harry McKenzie, V. P. (Eastern), G. C. McElhinney, V. P. (Eastern), and J. H. Cunningham, V. P. (Western).

The Yarmouth club was also represented by Jimmie Saunders by invitation.

BEAR RIVER EAST

Miss Emma VanDusik, left on Tuesday to visit her mother and friends in Boston and New York.

Mrs. Amanda Sanford had the misfortune to be thrown from a sleigh on Friday evening, while en route to her home. Mr. Arthur Jeffers, who has been visiting for several weeks is slowly improving.

Miss Freda Wright leaves on Tuesday for Boston, where she expects to remain the coming summer.

EASTER SUNDAY IN THE CHURCHES

METHODIST.

In the Methodist church on Sunday the services were appropriate to the day. The choral part of the Easter program will be exceptionally attractive, and will include solo duets, ladies' trio and full chorus. The "Old Easter Anthem" will be sung by a full choir both morning and evening. This quaint yet magnificent composition is rendered every Easter in the many of the largest churches. In the morning the pastor, Rev. Carl Mack, B. D., will preach an Easter sermon and in the evening will deliver a dramatic sermon, entitled, "The Governor." The following is a summary of this sermon: Part 1. Pilate relieves the Roman soldiers. Part 2. An old friend from Rome visits Pilate. They sit and the governor tells of his governing. Part 3. The trial of Jesus. Part 4. Pilate's remorse. Don't miss hearing this unusual and unique story of Easter. And let the preacher know if you have any criticism regarding it, as being his special request. Services will all be held in the auditorium of church.

BAPTIST.

In the Baptist church on Sunday morning the Rev. R. S. Gregg will preach a sermon in keeping with the Easter Season and the choir will render several special anthems. In the evening the service will be under the auspices of the Mission Band, assisted by the choir. They will render a special offering will be taken for missions. All services on Sunday will be in the auditorium, irrespective of weather conditions.

ODD KINDS OF FRIENDSHIP

Strange Attachments Formed by High-Strung Racing Horses—Dog and Wild Fox Pals.

Animals form strange friendships at times. Many famous horses have had companions without which they were nervous, and sometimes so ugly of temper that they could not be approached by strangers. Says a writer in the New York Herald:

There was the Godolphin Arabian, the story of whose devotion to a black cat has been handed down by tradition. The cat is seen along with the horse in the pictures by Wotton, Murrier and Stubbs. Kingston, when he was racing at his best, had a terrier in his box, while Clifford's companion was a bantam rooster.

Cats have been favorites with many famous horses as a means of getting a nervous horse over bad habits, like weaving and stall walking. Ties formed under such conditions cannot be readily broken without upsetting the highly sensitive mechanism of these temperamental beasts, and every bit stable has its own story of how pets of this type had to be replaced before any progress could be made in training when other cats or other animals were introduced.

One of the strangest cases of animals of dissimilar types becoming attached to each other has developed within the last month in Maryland, where a lion belonging to a small circus which wintered at Havre de Grace has taken such a fancy to a cur dog thrust into the cage to see how the kind of beast will behave, that he will not permit the dog to be removed. The lion shares his food with the dog, which during a street parade appeared to be entirely at home in the lion's cage.

Another example of much the same character has developed at the Havre de Grace race course, where a young female police dog has made the acquaintance of a dog fox which comes almost nightly from the adjacent woods for a frolic about the barn of the Lexington stables, to which the dog Stale is attached. The watchman and others have watched the pair play in the moonlight all winter.

Solitude is often responsible for some of the odd attachments, but in other cases sideights are cast on the workings of nature in her most versatile moods.

Teeth Gnashing as an Art.

I suppose that primitive man had the teeth-gnashing faculty, as I have known one man who had it as powerfully as it exists in the dog, peccaries and pigs of all kinds, and other fierce mammals.

This man was a Spanish basque, a workman, and he was musically inclined. He had utilized his wonderfully strong teeth and teeth-gnashing faculty by turning his mouth into a musical instrument. Planting an elbow on the table and resting his chin on his hand he would start the performance and go through a number of marches and martial airs far in advance, as music, of any performance on the bones I have ever listened to; and while the teeth were grinding, rattling and crashing together the lips were rapidly moving to soften, deaden and lighten the sounds.

It was an astonishing kind of music, but not agreeable to me on account of an apprehension I felt that at any loud crash or rattle the teeth would fly into pieces all over the room, like two large clubs were being violently into collision.—W. H. Hudson in the Century Magazine.

Knowing Her Own.

I was married recently for the second time, and my little daughter, Virginia, came to the hotel where we were staying. She was very happy. One morning Virginia and I came down to get our mail as a number of the other guests came for theirs. She spied a box on the counter addressed to Virginia, and she came to it.

She was much excited, and exclaimed, "Oh, that's a Christmas present for me, mother."

The mail clerk looked at it and said, "No, that's for Barton."

Thus, to the general amusement of the guests, Virginia replied, "Well, that's for me, all right, isn't it, mother? He was our first husband!"—Exchange.

Gold-Bearing Whiskers.

Years ago an Illinois barber traded his razor for a pick and pan, and started for the Klondike. Unsuccessful in mining, he opened a shampoo parlor, where he equipped himself with a cyanide tank. The tank leaked from the hair and beard of the miners, he says, "assayed $100 the ton in the cyanide tank." The dollar apiece charged for shampoos and massages provided him with pocket money, but the cyanide full of gold which he brought back with him is all from the wealth-laden clippings that went through his cyanide bath, and he claims that this money has provided him with a fortune of $500,000.

New Use for Silk Wastes.

A new use for artificial silk waste, previously employed to some extent for mixing with wool to impart luster, has been found by Horv von Werroth, a well known fiber and dyestuffs expert, of Fuerstberg, Mecklenburg, Germany. The new Werroth process involves the breaking up of the waste, chemically treating it to resist water, spinning it on the worsted system and then weaving it into cloth. The process is said to have brought forth a fabric which can be washed and boiled with soap without harm.

AN APPRECIATION FROM ONE WHO KNOWS

DEAR MR. WALLIS:
Indeed you are to be congratulated for your place in keeping the Courier in spite of all the difficulties you had to contend with. You accomplished what we call in French a "tour de force". Should your director have any practical experience with running a printing shop or a newspaper without any more help than you had, they certainly would value your services at a high price, and realize that even extra pay does not compensate them entirely. Having had a large printing plant of my own, published also a weekly, I know what I am talking about.

A SAFE FOOD FOR BABIES.

Insure for your baby a long and happy life by giving him Eagle Brand milk. Eagle Brand milk is a clean, safe and wholesome food, prepared especially for baby feeding. Easy to prepare, and your baby will digest it as readily as your own milk.

In this paper from time to time you will find an advertisement of Borden's Eagle Brand Milk, a food that has raised more healthy babies than all the prepared infant foods combined. Cut out the advertisement and mail it to The Borden Company, Limited, Montreal, and they will send you, free of charge, what you want, either instructions in your own language for feeding your baby or a baby book or a recipe book telling you how to make tasty dishes with Eagle Brand. Ask for by name what you would like to have.

LIFE'S GREAT DAY

To East Indian Girl, Marriage Means Emancipation.

Prospective Bride's Outlook Changes Almost From Moment of Betrothal—Wedding "Ring" on Wrist

From the moment of her betrothal the Indian girl's experiences gradually change, and from the day of her marriage there grows about her an atmosphere of calmness and reserve. Even her appearance undergoes a change. Her hair is parted, no longer childishly brushed back, and at the parting there is a touch of vermilion. Her hands are always covered with a red veil. On the bride's wedding ring is brought before her young husband, and they are told that the moment is auspicious for their first look at each other. It is the parents of the bride and the bridegroom who arrange the preliminaries of marriage, and husband and wife see each other for the first time only when the ceremony is performed. The old Vedic fire is used to celebrate the rites of the union. This is a custom that had its origin in the sacred Vedas, the books compiled by Manu, whose name is revered throughout the length and breadth of India. The girl rings a garland of flowers about the neck of her bridegroom, in exquisite symbolism of the bond that is to hold them; and finally they take seven steps together, hand in hand, while the priest chants appropriate verses for each stage of life. Such is the wedding, written "An Indian Prince" in Current History.

The young wife's feet are unshod, and the gold wedding bracelet on the left wrist supplies the hint of girlish vanity. But she has other jewels. Those that she wears daily are of plain gold, more or less richly worked, but on her wedding night she wears the silk, or triple coral, set with gems. Arms and neck are gay with flashing stones. All these are her dowry, given by her father to be her personal property. Not even her husband can touch them without her consent, though he will add to them occasionally at festive moments. These more elaborate ornaments, however, are worn only on great occasions, but meanwhile the silver anklets, the hidden necklet, and a few bangles are enough for daily use. The wife knows her right to her own ornaments quite well, yet often an Indian wife will voluntarily give up the whole of this little resource in order that her husband may weather some financial crisis, and an Indian mother will make the same sacrifice in order to give her son an education. The one thing from which the wife will never part, however, unless widowhood lays her hand upon her life, is that ring of iron covered with gold and worn on the left wrist, which is the sign of the indissoluble bond of marriage—her wedding ring, in fact.

Rockets Aid Bridge Building.
The best suspension bridge in England is at Clifton. It is 702 feet long and 21 feet wide at the base, and 200 feet above the River Avon. It is said that the cable was put in place by the aid of a kite. First a string was sent over by a kite, then a heavier cord was pulled across, then a heavier and heavier, and finally the cable.

A more unusual way was adopted for starting the great bridge across the Zambesi river in South Africa. The bridge is the highest in the world, 400 feet above the water, and runs from cliff to cliff.
A rocket to which a string was attached was used at the beginning of construction. The rocket took the cord across, and the way was made for the cable. A wire and the wire was used to pull over a small cable. On this a truck crossed, carrying the main cable of the bridge, which is 200 feet long, and the greatest engineering work in South Africa.

Bare Walls Spoil Radio Transmission.
Bare walls are not the best thing in the world for the radioophone broadcast studio, says the Scientific American. Recently, one of the leading studios moved into a large, beautifully decorated room, with paneled walls and smooth, unbroken ceiling. Previous to that, the studio had been in a factory office, where the bare walls had to be hidden with draperies and rugs, while the ceiling was broken up by beams.

However, the results obtained with the old studio room were excellent, for the reason that there was practically no echo or sound reflection from the walls. The new studio room, with its tapestries or some other form of sound-absorbing hangings in order to reduce echo.

The Galilean theory of Relativity.
Professor Einstein was recently expounding his theory of relativity to an audience on the left bank of the Rhine, and as the majority of his hearers were women he deemed it necessary to use the simplest of illustrations. He declared that the system of co-ordinates finds its most perfect realization in the case of a man who succeeded in holding on to his wrist-watch without removing his coat.

This simple manner of illustrating such an abstract theory was keenly appreciated, and at night at home the few gentlemen who had attended the 5 o'clock lecture, tried to take off their waistcoats without removing their coats.
It is not told how they succeeded!

Obituary

MRS. CHARLES FROST

The community of Little River was saddened and shocked at the sudden death of Mrs. Charles Frost, Tuesday of last week. She was stricken with a paralytic stroke at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning and became unconscious remaining so until 6 o'clock that evening, when she passed to her eternal home. She spent Saturday evening with friends and was about Sunday and Monday and went to bed Monday night in her usual health. She was a member of the Women's Aid Society and had been serving the term of membership in the program for the evening. The funeral service was held Friday afternoon and conducted by Rev. T. F. MacWilliams of the Baptist church. A large concourse of people followed her to her last resting place. She leaves to mourn their loss, a loving husband and daughter Elaine, her aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Denton, besides two sisters Mrs. George Eldridge of Sandy Cove, and Mrs. Charles Morehouse and four brothers, Ernest, Omar, Austin and Clayton, of this place. The members of the Aid Society kept a beautiful wreath while Mrs. Samuel Gidney, Mrs. E. Gidney of Sandy Cove, and Mrs. Geo. Morehouse also sent floral tributes.

We are sorry to report that James Hayden, Post Master at Bay View, after serving the term of membership in the program for the evening, has resigned. He will be succeeded by his brother Harit Hayden after Mar. 31st. We wish the new Post Master every success.

"Would Wake Up Screaming"

"The Least Sudden Noise or Loud Talking Would Startle Him."

"Up to the age of eight, my boy was a strong, healthy lad, full of life and energy. While playing leap frog one day with some boys of his own age, and while in a stooped position, a big boy jumped on his back and in falling my boy caught his foot in an iron grating and dislocated his hip. The pain was so great that he fainted, and the other boys were so frightened they ran away. For hours he suffered terrible pain and when found and brought home was very weak, with his thigh and leg swollen twice its size. The doctor set the bone but the pain and exposure were too much for the poor boy and he became unconscious. A high fever set in and for weeks he lay between life and death, raving for hours at a stretch. One day he opened his eyes and murmured 'Mother,' but this was the only word he could utter so he was so weak, but I knew the worst was over. He got stronger but for months was in a nervous condition. The least sudden noise or loud talking would startle him and he would begin trembling. He was quite lame and the swelling still remained. The doctor gave him a brace and told me to rub the leg with olive oil. This reduced the lameness, but the nervousness remained. The poor child would awaken in the night screaming at the top of his voice. The doctor gave him several different tonics but they were no use. I found a circular about Carnol and it seemed so different from other tonics I had heard of that I thought I would try a bottle. Three bottles were all that was needed to make my boy like his own self again. It helped to convince my friends that the change in him now is entirely due to Carnol. Of course I still have to watch him and give him Carnol occasionally, but I know that he will soon be as strong again as ever he was."
