Comeauville Man Terribly Injured on Monday Last

Terribly injured when in some unknown manner he became entangled in the drive wheel of a saw mill operated by water power at Comeauville, late Monday afternoon, Leonce Comeau, shortly before midnight was placed on the danger list at the Yarmouth Hospital, with little hope held out for his recovery.

The ambulance of the Yarmouth Hospital in a desperate effort to save the life of the injured man sped 37 miles over the rough roads to Comeauville Monday night returning to the hospital where the injured man was at once rushed to the operating room. Dr. Campbell, is surgeon in charge.

Leonce Comeau, together with his brother, Arcade Comeau, were saving lumber at a water powered mill in that village when in some unknown manner Leonce became entangled in the drive wheels of the mill. Terribly crushed about the side and one leg, the unfortunate man was dragged beneath the floor into the tall race below. It was not until help was summoned and a portion of the floor removed that the injured man was taken from his uncomfortable and hazardous position. Dr. P. E. Belliveau and Dr. L. E. Dorion were at once summoned to the scene of the accident and an emergency call sent the ambulance of the Yarmouth Hospital speeding to the scene.

Carlos Connell Was
Charlottetown Hockey Star

(Held over from last week.)
"The Royal Bankers eliminated the United Bankers from the finals at the Arctic Saturday night," says the Charlottetown Patriot, "when they defeated them by a score of 4-2, in a game which was packed full of thrills and spills from start to finish. The Royals held control of the play most of the evening, but the United flashed into the limelight now and then. Each player put his all into the game; but one player took the eye of the spectators, and was indeed the outstanding puck chaser on the ice. Mr. Carlos Connell, a former fish of the Digby Ravens, made his first appearance on local ice Saturday night. He was a big worry to the United defence all night, and once indeed he became his old redoubtable self of Digby—he picked up a loose puck inside the United blue line, coasted in on O'Neill, drew him from his citadel and sizzled the rubber fairly through the mesh—ah, Joey Boston. It was without doubt the prettiest goal and nicest bit of hockey of the night."

Mr. A. Bradley, representing Tip Top Tailors, will be at Frederic's today and tomorrow. Now is the time to be measured for a new Tip Top Suit or Topcoat—one price—$19.50.

LET'S HAVE THE TRUTH ABOUT THE BAND GRANT

To the Editor of the Courier.
Sir—It is too bad that anyone believes the increase in our tax rate to be caused by the band grant. It is unfair to the Band. This grant is an insignificant factor in the total sum of $33,729.50 we must pay. In fact it is only 2.2%. Figure it out yourself. If your tax bill is $35.00 for instance, you are paying only 70 cents toward the band. If your bill is $100.00, only $4.00 of it goes to the band. If your bill is $1.80 for the Band. That's all. If your town taxes for 1933 cost you $200.00, only $4.00 of it goes to the band. Does that seem unreasonable? I don't believe any sober man would want the grant. Wasn't all the outcry due to a misunderstanding? Someone in haste made an absurd blunder in his figures and the others followed him. Others not waiting to notice the mistake accepted his figures—and the rebellion was on. Nobody could blame a man paying, for instance, $75 taxes is he put up a howl when $25.00 tells him that ten or twelve dollars of that money goes to the Band. But I am wondering that the same man would do that when he becomes aware that only $1.50 of that money went to the Band. Would he frankly admit that he was mistaken and would he help remove the manifest unfair prejudice against the Band which he helped create?

We are to have so many benefits of a good, permanent band in town, isn't it much better to spread the cost evenly and lightly among all the taxpayers than to put the entire burden on a few public-spirited citizens as we have done in the past? Surely no live man would say, "I don't want to pay for a band in my town, and no thoughtful citizen would say that Digby does not need one. Unfortunately, it is an expensive proposition to equip a band and get it started. But the Music Council and the band boys combined have put the town to the test. The town was asked to contribute only the sum of $500.00 to finish buying the instruments and accessories needed. Howler! The town was asked to buy permanent assets, and not to pay running expenses which the Band must itself look after, and try to ease.

The Town Council was also asked to appropriate $250.00 for a series of open-air concerts next summer. The town band offered to play these concerts at one-half the sum of $50 each which we have been paying outside bands for several years. These two requests totaling $750 were cut 10%, the same as many similar appeals. The Band itself must have cost $140.00, and the first step will probably be a good concert in the near future. The Band will prove its worth, and I am sure that every citizen will soon turn to warm approval. The increased tax rate was an unfortunate necessity, but it was not due to a band grant.

Yours truly,
A Friend of the Band.

We have heard of enthusiastic followers of the taut line and singing reel to whom nothing is a barrier in the quest of the sportive salmon but there is one other, evidently, whom even winter's blasts are no deterrent, judging from reports of a recent exploit on the Mersey River. Within the last fortnight it is stated salmon have been taken from this river with rod and line. Well, there is one thing to be said in favour of this winter sport. There should be no difficulty in preserving the fish and it keeps one in practice when the big run comes in the summer.

Dalhousie University has just published a very interesting and artistic pamphlet on Medical Education at this winter. Brief descriptions of the various departments are given in most cases supported by illustrations of the hospitals and other buildings associated with the Medical School while interior views of the laboratories and clinics will be of special interest to many.

VETERAN STATESMAN PASSES AT OTTAWA

One of the most picturesque figures the public life of Canada has known was the Hon. Frank Oliver, who at the age of fourscore years, passed away at Ottawa on Friday of last week.

Frank Oliver was born in Peel County, Ontario, in 1853, and went West as a pioneer sixty years ago. Throughout a long, crowded and active career he was a printer, merchant, editor, publisher, a member of the old Northwest Council, a member of Parliament at Ottawa, a Minister of the Crown, and a Railway Commissioner.

He joined Laurier's Administration in 1905 as Minister of the Interior, and no man had a more varied or strenuous career in public life in Canada.

In 1923 Mr. Oliver was appointed a member of the Railway Board, from this position he retired by the statutory age limitation five years later, and in the same year was appointed the Board's Special Advisory Officer.

Editor's Note—The Hon. Frank Oliver was one of the delegates and speakers at the Canadian Food Roads Association held at the Pines Hotel last fall.

Obituary

Sinclair Dakin

The death occurred at Westport, March 31st, of Sinclair Dakin, age 73 years, leaving a widow and four children. Mrs. Rex Saunders, of New Jersey; Orin, Colman, Gordon, at home; also one brother, G. W. Dakin, of Westport. Funeral services were from the Baptist Church, on Monday Rev. H. Morgan, officiating.

Mrs. Frederick Grant

The community of Weymouth has been greatly shocked and saddened by the passing of Marion H., beloved wife of Frederick L. Grant, which occurred in Boston, Mass., on Wednesday, March 29th, after a short illness, at the age of 23 years. She was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Halliwell, of Weymouth. The many friends who paid their last respects showed the high esteem in which she was held by all, both in the United States and Nova Scotia. The immediate surviving relatives are: her husband, Frederick L. Grant, of Boston; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Halliwell, Weymouth; one sister, Mrs. Harold J. Westaway, of Belmont, Mass.; one brother, Percy Halliwell, of Jamaica Plain, Mass. The funeral services were held at St. John's Church on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. The Rev. Father Melanson, parish priest, officiating. Interment was in the family plot in St. John's cemetery. The pall bearers were her cousins, James Halliwell, Cecil Halliwell, Lloyd Burke, and friend, Laura Scraggs.

Mrs. J. F. McClelland arrived home on Tuesday from several weeks' visit with her children and two sisters in Boston and vicinity.

Chester Isles and his nephew, Mr. Thomas, of Bear River, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elburn Berry.

Miss Ellen Nichols arrived home from Wolfville on Saturday.

Miss E. B. N. of N. N. of Principedale, spent last week, guest of Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Nichols.

Mrs. Annie Copeland was hostess to the Dorset, Wednesbury, and Saturday. The party was in honor of Mrs. Copeland's birthday. A very pretty quilt was completed for the hostess, while many beautiful gifts were presented. A poem written by Miss Minnie McClelland was read by Miss Ruth Freeman. Daily refreshments were served in the afternoon, and a birthday cake. Those assisting the hostess were, Mrs. C. G. Harris, Miss Ruth Freeman and Miss Bernice Parry.

The regular monthly social of the B. Y. P. U. was held on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Berry. The evening program of games and music was greatly enjoyed by all present, after which the hostess served ice cream and cake.

The ice cream social held at the hall on Saturday evening proved a success, even though the evening was somewhat stormy.

The weekly choir practice of the Baptist Church was held on Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Sherman, Lie. Wm. H. Turner was a week-end guest at the same home.

The contributions made by Canadian plant breeders in the form of superior varieties of field crops stand almost as an epitome of the realm of scientific achievement.

PACKAGE TEAS HAVE THEIR INNINGS AGAIN

Many householders are making a mistake in buying bulk teas that are offered at extremely low prices. They do this out of their sorrow, for while the price may look attractive the tea itself proves to be anything but satisfactory. Many tea drinkers are turning once again to reliable package teas that they know they can depend upon. And let us emphasize the fact that one can hardly complain of being charged too much, for if you consider that MORSE'S STANDARD TEA at 40 cents per pound means 240 cups to the pound, you will see that the cost works out at six cups of delicious tea for a cent. MORSE'S STANDARD TEA is the good old family tea of the Maritimes, and being put up in Canada's oldest tea firm it long ago established its prestige with Maritime tea drinkers who constitute the most critical tea drinking public on this continent.

Mock Trial by the Kiwanis Club was a Great Success

"The Trials of Erastus Carbon," a mirth-provoking mock trial, produced under the auspices of the local Kiwanis Club last night, in the Bijou Dream Theatre, kept a bumper house in excellent good humor for upwards of two hours. The laughable experiences of the witnesses, which included the passengers on the Digby Neck Bus, dangled with the defendant's car, the defendant and his wife. The ridiculous behaviour of the jury, the antics of the drunken lawyer, Mutter (R. H. Lockwood) and the general disregard of strict legal procedure on the part of the court officials, kept the audience in excellent good humor. Some of the witnesses had to prove to the satisfaction of the court that they could do as they claimed, that is, Gladys Glider, a passenger (Mrs. Frank Hayden) claimed she was a singer and was required to render a song; Fanny Flapper (Ruby Landry) said she was a dancer, and with a partner (Francis McKie) did so to the entire satisfaction of the jury. Arthur Gardner's specialties, "Oh, Lord, You Made the Night Too Long" and "The Lonesome Road," were exceptionally well received, as well as another specialty by Bill Williams and Mrs. G. V. Turnbull, "The Defendant, Erastus Carbon (Bill Williams) and his wife, Amanda (Mrs. G. V. Turnbull) took their parts exceptionally well. But, then, everyone did well, and the show went off in good shape. We do not know as yet how it turned out financially, but the returns will be good, and the underprivileged children of Digby will receive the benefit.

JOGGIN BRIDGE

S. E. Rice spent the week-end visiting relatives at North Range. Wallace Potter and grandson, Donald Powers, of Digby, called on friends in the village recently. Miss Margaret Pritchett, of Truro, arrived on Monday and is staying with Mrs. Margaret Foster. Mrs. Margaret Foster, who has been spending the winter in New Jersey, has returned to the village. Mrs. Jas. Winchester spent a few days in Clementsport, a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Marshall. Hugh Haight, of South Range, was in the village one day recently. Mrs. Clarence Wilson spent a few days in Bear River, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ira Rice. The Misses Dorothy and Lucrea Winchester were the recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Franklin, of Acadiaville.

FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1933

PATRONIZE DIGBY STORES

Some residents evidently do not realize to how great an extent they are hurting home trade by occasionally ordering goods from mail-order houses, judging from remarks that have been made since the Courier started the campaign against out-of-town trading.

"What difference does it make," one resident remarked, "if I send a few dollars to mail-order houses every now and then?"

Were her particular case the only one of its nature in town, it would make but little difference, but individual cases in the aggregate do make a great deal of difference. She is only one of hundreds who are doing the same thing she is doing, and, added together, the amounts are heavy. It is the small buyers that keep the mail-order houses going. While we have no way of knowing what the mail-order average in any particular house, yet it is safe to say that the sum is only a few dollars.

The $2.98 you send away today is not in itself, but when it is pooled with hundreds of other like amounts it makes a substantial sum. That $2.98, or 69 cents or however small the amount may be, is a very important matter in every mail-order house. The small sums form by far the greatest part of the millions of dollars of mail-order business done in this country every year.

So spend your $2.98's with local merchants. If you do that, you will not only be helping them and your town, but will also be helping yourself by keeping more money in circulation here. If you spend your $2.98 here, you stand a chance of getting a part of it back some day, but if you spend it away the entire sum is taken out of local circulation.

In its campaign against out-of-town buying, the Courier has called on local merchants to advise their goods more extensively. If you see the purchasing public in Digby will be in a better position to buy at home.

MIRROR REAL AMERICA

Turning from the city newspapers to the small town press exchanges that come to the editor's desk, is like stepping from the slums, full of vile, into an old-fashioned garden sweet with lavender and thyme and the scent of perennial flowers. The pages of the big dailies are so full of murder, thievery, immorality and selfishness, that the better news is obscured by these glaring shatterings of the Decalogue. One puts the papers aside with a seeing of depression and heartache that the world is so full of terrible and unhappy things.

Then picking up the papers that record the happenings of the county around us one gains renewed faith in life. Here are set forth only that which uplifts a community—the activities of the business men, the church news, the civic good accomplished by the women, school items, the happy social gatherings of the people, the marriage, births, and deaths, farm items, and all the things and one daily occurrences that make up the simple annals of the great common people, who are really the foundation of this broad country of ours.

Scandals are seldom published in the country newspapers, but if it so happens that decency demands it, the uglier details are omitted, or given a kindly touch that is wisely different from the unfeeling publicity of the city press. The offenders may be our neighbors, or people we have rubbed elbows with all our lives. They are real human beings to their home town paper, while to the great city dailies they are merely grains of a sort that are ground out hourly in their news mill.

Sometimes people speak lightly of the country newspaper, but it is one of the most potent and uplifting factors in our national existence. The great dailies have their mission, but their scope is too big to touch very closely the inner things of life.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

It gave me a little start when I glanced over the "Advertiser" a few days ago to see in that paper a column headed "Between Ourselves" and also by "Ye Junior Ed." Like like I am not used to have a bit of competition, for "Ye Junior Ed." on the "Advertiser" is giving his readers some pretty good stuff and in order not to lose my reputation, I will have to do a bit of heavy thinking—if such a thing is possible.

Since the "Courier" came out last Friday I have been asked several times why I had no comments to make on the town budget for 1933. I don't think that I would let that slip by without having something to say about it? Most of you know that I have not been one of the working class for the past two months or so, and before taking off my coat and going back to the old grind again, I decided to take a "little trip away" which explains why my comments were among the missing last week.

But, honestly, folks, I think that town budget is one of the strangest things I have ever seen. It is really funny, but the taxpayers, some of them at least, don't quite appreciate the humor of it. For they thought that the town was doing everything possible to economize—the salaries of the officials were cut—it is proposed to cut the salaries of the teaching staff—the Board of Trade at their annual meeting decided it would be best to make a cash advance on the taxpayers' pocket book to ask the Council for a donation to carry out the much talked of Old Home Week in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the coming of the United Empire Loyalists to the town, and on top of all these economies and proposed economies we find in the budget a grant of $675 to the Digby Band—Holy Catholix!

Don't think for one minute that I am not in favor of the band—I am glad to have a band started, and am delighted to know that it is making such splendid progress, and I think it has the whole-hearted support of every citizen of the town of Digby—and a great deal of it is paid in its favor—but, a donation of $675 is preposterous in my way of thinking. Had a grant been $100 or $150 there would have been no complaints heard—but $675 is not so harmonious a tune; one is almost tempted to look for Katus in the woodpile—it doesn't appear quite right that the school teachers and school teaching staff should be asked to pay the band, and the school are to be paid in their salaries—it doesn't seem just that institutions and organizations such as the Digby General Hospital, the Victorian Order of Nurses and the Children's Aid Society who are doing so much good in the town and county should be asked to give grants so much lower when the town feels that they can afford to pay the band $675 out of a treasury which is now about $5,000 over-drawn.

Personally, I think this matter is one for the ratepayers of the town to settle, and I wonder why enough of them don't get together and demand that the question of a $675 grant be voted upon at a public meeting of the property owners of the town of Digby.

Another thing I can't quite understand is the fact that some of those who stepped the hardest on the proposed Old Home Week Celebration because "the taxpayers couldn't afford it these hard times" were among those who were most anxious to put across the $675 grant to the Digby Band.

As I said before, "I am glad that we have a band started and I am delighted that they are making such splendid progress, and I think it has the whole-hearted support of every citizen"—but the tune of $675 is inclined to get under the skin. Nobody believed that it was the intention of the Town Council to reduce the salaries of paid officials for the purpose of making this much talked about grant—but nevertheless, it amounts to that—plus—plus—plus sacrifices been made for some useful purpose it would have been another story. For some time paved streets have been neglected, but it is the general opinion that the town cannot afford them. For years we have been talking a new school, the making of improvements in our present school building—a meeting of the ratepayers is advertised for the 10th of April for the purpose of voting on this same matter—I hope to see it go through by a big majority—these improvements are badly needed—the building is overcrowded, poorly planned, poorly ventilated, poorly of date. If the present structure can be modernized and two extra classrooms and an assembly hall added, for a sum of $16,000 it should be done by all means—the cost of labor and building materials will never be much lower than they are today—and if the school population continues to increase at the same rate it has during the past few years the town will be forced to take such a step when prices are higher.

NOVA SCOTIA'S TOURIST TRAFFIC POSSIBILITIES. No. 9

By Thomas F. Anderson.

If all goes well, I shall next summer be "taken for a ride" with the objective the new Cabot Trail, as the guest of an esteemed editorial friend in Pictou. It is a prospective thrill for which I can scarcely wait.

This kind invitation has inspired me to take as the subject of my current dissertation the lovely, and as yet unexplored, island of Cape Breton; but, before analyzing that section of the province as a tourist land, I would like to hand a little bouquet to Pictou itself.

This is at least one part of our province that has benefited from the Canadian National Railways enterprise, and the attention it has been given by the road is well-deserved, for Pictou is not only a lovely and restful place in its own right, but is an important gateway of tourist travel to neighboring Prince Edward Island and, to a certain extent, Cape Breton. In fact, the entire region between Truro and the Strait of Canso, with its undulating topography and its air of prosperity and peace, is still more or less virgin soil for the cultivation of the tourist business.

The rugged beauty of Cape Breton, and something of its interesting history, are known to many of the inhabitants of the United States—but not to so many of them as they should be. One of the earliest "discoverers" of Cape Breton as a rest resort was Frederick S. Cozens, a Yankee writer, who in 1859, published his interesting book, "Acadia, or, a Month with the Bluesoes." What he said about the Scottish denizens of the island at that time I shall judiciously ignore, but he certainly did give Cape Breton a clean

Is also an entry about a moonlight stroll through the streets of alluring Baddeck, while the Marston started on her way to Sydney, and the fact that I could not find the old jail, made famous in Charles Dudley Warner's book. The most significant detail, however, was one to the effect that Cape Breton was at that time badly in need of more and better hotels. In these forty-three years this lack has been partly met, especially in Sydney, but there is still room for improvement along this line, and a place like Whycocomagh should today be as busy and prosperous in summer time as Digby.

Moreover, few parts of Canada have a more fascinating history than the Louisbourg section of Cape Breton; but for every tourist who visits there, there are at least five who pause at Annapolis Royal or Grand Pre.

It is to be hoped that the opening, last year, of the picturesque Cabot Trail will be an inducement to greater travel to Cape Breton, especially of motorists; and it would also help a lot if a few of the reckless road-hogs and speed-frenzies who infect the Cape Breton highways by day and night could be indefinitely locked up in a jail more secure than the historic one at Baddeck. No normal visitor wants to risk his life and the lives of his family even to enjoy such superb scenery as that of Cape Breton.

Foreign writers have been acclaiming the natural attractions and restful qualities of Cape Breton for two hundred years; and the most recent of them, George Nestler Tricoche, in his "Rambles Through the Maritime Provinces of Canada," stresses the cool nights and invigorating days, the good gravel highways and reasonable hotel rates of the island.

And it was the author of "Baddeck" who wrote of the Little Bras d'Or: "The most electric American, heir of all the nervous diseases of all the ages, could not but find peace in this scene of tranquil beauty, and sail on into a great and deepening contentment."

Replacing his new schooner, the "Edith and Elmer," which was rammed and sunk off Cape Sable Island, Capt. Simon Theriault, formerly of East Ferry, has purchased the former Gloucester fishing schooner "Amurica," formerly of the Davis Bros. fleet.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

HOW DO THE NEW RATES AFFECT YOU?

To the Editor of the Courier,
Sir:—Permit me to address these few remarks to the users of electric energy in the Municipality of Digby. The new rates are now in effect; the people by this time should have received their bills for the past month and confidently looking forward to a reduction in the charges, have expected a lower rate.

Lower rates can mean only one thing, and that is more kilowatts for the established minimum charge.

I hope you did, if so you are more fortunate than I, because I did not. It is highly improbable that I should be the only user that received a bill with a lower rate by about half for light and a higher rate for power by double as much as the former rate. It is also highly improbable that I should be the only user in the Municipality using two meters, one for power and one for light. If you have used only a light meter, and use mostly light, all is to the good and you should now be enjoying more light for the same money. But if you are using power, and have had a power meter, how does that work out? The light rate is 8 1/2 cents per kilowatt. Is not the power rate 8 1/2 cents also?

If the power rate is 8 1/2 cents per kilowatt it has been boosted from 4 cents. Permit me to explain. Under the old or former rate, power users were charged 4 cents per kilowatt, or a minimum charge of $2.00 for 50 kilowatts. Under the new rate for power as it appeared on the bill handed to me I was charged $2.94 for 33 kilowatts. Now this is the part that is important: I paid 64 cents more for power and less than 17 kilowatts less than the minimum permitted in the former rates. I paid less for light than is true, but that is beside the point. What I am dealing with is what I paid for power, because power is light and heat that the users have been encouraged to use. If I am the only user that is charged more for power, then I am paying more than I have no more to say. That should be easily adjusted, but if on the other hand other users of power are charged at the same rate, then I say that the new rates will not be satisfactory.

Rates to be satisfactory must be reduced to 100% of the user. Not 95% or 99%, but the entire one hundred per cent.

When the Municipal Council applied for reduction in rates, resolution, no matter in what terms it was couched, meant a reduction in rates for every user within this municipality. The Council as I understood, did not mince words or indulge in any terms built upon a foundation of false promises. They were asking for a reduction in rates, and that included everything that comes over the wires. The Council did not mean less for light and more for power, but that is what I got, and how many more of you?

The point that I am attempting to drive home is not that I am paying more, but are the users—all the users—getting a square deal. Nothing but a square deal will satisfy the people, and only by getting a square deal will the people retain confidence in our Hydro System.

If we are crossing a stream just now in the history of our hydro system, and we must be very careful not to change horses in the middle of the stream.

Confidence, like faith, will assist in surmounting many obstacles, but confidence and faith alike can only be built upon the foundations of a deal four square.

I wish our Hydro system to grow and to flourish, but only can it flourish when its benefits are for one and for all. In another article I shall deal with another phase of this question.

—JAS. F. HILLMAN.

PUBLIC EXTRAVAGANCE

To the Editor of the Courier,
Sir:—The lavish and lordly manner in which our Town Council hands out the increased tax money for unnecessary purposes, is enough to make ordinary taxpayers sit up and gasp with astonishment. It is the increased tax that the Council would make a vote of money that is apparently illegal, and certainly unwise, so soon after making the costly mistake in regard to the town assessment. Where was our recently appointed Town Solicitor, who, by the way, is said to be receiving the salary of any previous Town Solicitor?

Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer are becoming sensitive these days. Government is touching them on the raw. In the good old times, when living was easy, and money was plentiful in their purses, they were inclined to look with complacency, and even with approval, at waste and extravagance on the part of their representatives. It was nice to be cutting a wide swath and keeping up with the Joneses. Besides, were said representatives not playing the political game extremely well, and putting it all over the rascals of the opposite party?

But now that Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer are experiencing the inevitable consequences of the waste and extravagance in their public affairs, that has been going on for many years; when the hand of Government is sinking ever deeper and deeper into their comparatively empty purses; when they find themselves confronted by enormous public debts, on which they can barely pay the interest, let alone the principal; when they realize that they are tangled up in a complicated and expensive system of bureaucracy and officialism, and that their servants have become their masters, Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer are becoming nervous, critical and even seriously alarmed.

I tremble for Mr. Member of Parliament, Mr. Mayor, Mr. Councillor and Mr. Public Official, if Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer ever become fully aroused and disillusioned. They are capable of being very terrible people.

RATEPAYERS TO DECIDE SCHOOL QUESTION MONDAY

The ratepayers of Digby will meet on Monday night to decide whether or not the necessary improvements to our already out-of-date and overcrowded school house will be made. The resolution to be voted on is as follows:

"Resolved that the Town Council of the Town of Digby be authorized to expend a sum not exceeding Sixteen Thousand Dollars for the extension of the present Academy building, to include two additional classrooms with Assembly Hall overhead, with equipment for hall and rooms, improved system of Heating, Ventilating and Lighting of the present building, and necessary alterations."

The "School Question" has been before the Digby ratepayers for years—it has previously been voted on and turned down by the ratepayers, but there is no getting away from the fact that our school building is far from what it should be.

Previously the plan has been to build a new school building which would cost many times the amount to be voted on at this time.

It should be the duty of every ratepayer to vote in favor of the resolution.

Sheep Solve Tax Problem

Byron MacDormand, of Gulliver's Cove, claims his sheep solved the tax problem for him! From twelve sheep he has had one set of quadruplets; two sets triplets; eight sets twins and one single, twenty-seven in all.

The roads in town are drying up fairly well, but according to all reports those in the country are rotten—and are going to be much worse.

Two crates containing nineteen live wild ptarmigan from Western Canada were recently released in Nova Scotia to add to the stock of game birds. The birds were donated by the Manitoba government and were captured by means of fish nets in their natural habitat in Northern Manitoba. Lt.-Col. W. B. Willis, of Halifax, received the birds and on delivery released them in the Nova Scotia forests to see if the species can be successfully transplanted.

When they wake up and find that they have been betrayed by those whom they have trusted with the management of their public business, and it will make no difference to them whether the blame is on the party to blame for it, through their own indifference, carelessness and partisanship.

THIS SEASON...USE ROADCRAFT Tires and save Money!

STRONGER, SAFER CONSTRUCTION

GUM CUSHIONS
An Extra Value
ROADCRAFT Tires have Cushions of pure gum rubber moulded in between the plies of cord fabric, making a "bearing" that reduces friction and wear at these points as effectively as ball bearings do in machinery.

ROADCRAFT Tire Treads are carefully designed to give the maximum grip of the road surface, thus giving extra traction and braking power.

GREATER MILEAGE. MORE VALUE

ROADCRAFT TIRES—made by Gutta Percha—will cost you less and carry you farther than any similarly priced tire, with greater safety in every mile.

The famous Gum Cushion reinforcing construction protects the ROADCRAFT TIRE from the bruising road shocks which break down the cord fabric in ordinary tires. No other tire at this price has Gum Cushions. The Resisto Tread, rubber insulated cords, reinforced side walls, extra tread width—All these extra values give you longer tire life and save you money.

Mrs. Annie T. Thomas

Word was received here recently by relatives of the passing of Mrs. Annie (Thompson) Thomas, widow of George Allison, Mass., Tuesday morning, March 28th, after a long illness at the age of 78 years. Mrs. Thomas was born in Windsor, the daughter of the late J. Thompson and Mrs. Thompson, but came with her mother when young to reside here, where she was married and lived a number of years, later removing to the United States, where she has since resided, each summer coming to her old home with her daughter, where they spent their vacations. Mrs. Thomas was a member of the United Baptist Church of this town. Her husband predeceased her about fifteen years. She is survived by one daughter, Miss Edna Thomas, teacher, at Chelsea, Mass. The funeral services were held Friday afternoon with interment in the family lot at Arlington, Mass.

Thomas G. Bishop

Lawrencetown, and particularly church circles sustained a great loss Saturday, March 28th, in the passing of Deacon Thomas G. Bishop, his seventy-sixth year. Mr. Bishop's name was always associated with the best in life, gifted as he was with a true judicial mind, coupled with unquestioned integrity, he filled a large place in the community. For thirty-five consecutive years he was the efficient clerk of the Lawrencetown United Baptist Church, and for many years an active deacon, and was interested in the Sunday School and in all departments of church activity. For nine years he served with much acceptance on the Municipal Council. He was an active Temperance worker and a charter member of Nelson Division. For some years he was manager of the Annapolis Fruit Company and always actively associated with the fruit industry. Most notably the passing of Mr. Bishop proved a great shock to his family by whom he was greatly beloved, and to the numerous friends which such a life makes and especially as the end came with tragic suddenness, for at the time it was believed that he was making a speedy recovery from a somewhat serious illness and all his friends were most hopeful, but the call came, to find him ready. The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the church with the Rev. C. O. Howlett, Rev. Dr. M. W. Brown, Rev. H. Barber, Rev. A. S. Adams, Rev. Dr. A. N. Marshall, Rev. L. E. Ackland, and Mr. A. MacLeod. About four hundred attended the service, which was most impressive. The church choir rendered appropriate music. Mr. Marshall led in the prayer. Rev. A. S. Adams read the Scripture, and the pastor paid a glowing tribute to the deceased. The interment took place in the family lot of the old Valley Cemetery. Besides a wide circle of friends Mr. Bishop leaves to mourn, his wife; three sons and two daughters—Carmichael, Fred L. and Clyde L. Mrs. Paul Durling and Mrs. Alton Brown, all of Lawrencetown; also two sis-

Writing about the recent fire at George Oickle's, a Bear River correspondent says: "The fire started from sparks, and as there was a very high wind, there was soon a blaze. Miss Hazel Oickle on coming home from school, discovered the fire, and notified the telephone operator, who kindly notified those who went to help. The roof badly burned and the upper chambers suffered from smoke and water damage. It was only through prompt and efficient assistance that the dwelling and other buildings were saved."

HOLY WEEK

Next week will be commemorated the closing days of our Lord's life culminating with His death upon the Cross and burial. The narration of the events of these seven days occupies more than a quarter of the four Gospels, and comprises the following chapters of the writings of the Evangelists: Matthew 21 to 27; Mark 11 to 15; Luke 19 to 23; and John 13 to 19.

It commences on Palm Sunday with our Lord's triumphant entry into Jerusalem amid the glad shouts of "Hosanna" and the strewing of palms, and His visit to the Temple, and retirement at eventide to Bethany.

On the Monday He again visited the Temple, passing the fruitless fig tree on His way, and purged the Temple of the money-changers and those that bought and sold there. He again returned to Bethany.

As He and His disciples passed the fruitless fig tree on their way to Jerusalem on the Tuesday morn. it was found to be withered. On His arrival at the Temple He was questioned by the chief priests and elders as to His authority, and then gave the parables of the Two Sons, the Unmerciful Husband, and the Mustard Seed of the Kingdom of Heaven.

On the Wednesday He again visited the Temple, passing the fruitless fig tree on His way, and purged the Temple of the money-changers and those that bought and sold there. He again returned to Bethany.

On Thursday He again visited the Temple, passing the fruitless fig tree on His way, and purged the Temple of the money-changers and those that bought and sold there. He again returned to Bethany.

On Friday He again visited the Temple, passing the fruitless fig tree on His way, and purged the Temple of the money-changers and those that bought and sold there. He again returned to Bethany.

On Saturday He again visited the Temple, passing the fruitless fig tree on His way, and purged the Temple of the money-changers and those that bought and sold there. He again returned to Bethany.

On Sunday He again visited the Temple, passing the fruitless fig tree on His way, and purged the Temple of the money-changers and those that bought and sold there. He again returned to Bethany.

On Monday He again visited the Temple, passing the fruitless fig tree on His way, and purged the Temple of the money-changers and those that bought and sold there. He again returned to Bethany.

On Tuesday He again visited the Temple, passing the fruitless fig tree on His way, and purged the Temple of the money-changers and those that bought and sold there. He again returned to Bethany.

On Wednesday He again visited the Temple, passing the fruitless fig tree on His way, and purged the Temple of the money-changers and those that bought and sold there. He again returned to Bethany.

On Thursday He again visited the Temple, passing the fruitless fig tree on His way, and purged the Temple of the money-changers and those that bought and sold there. He again returned to Bethany.

of deepest suffering lasting well into Good Friday. He is delivered by Pontius Pilate, the Roman Governor, to be crucified.

On Calvary's Hill the dreadful deed was consummated, malfeasance being placed on His right hand, and on His left. An inscription was put on His cross.

"Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews."

The saving of the penitent thief on the cross shows that none need despair, but this solitary instance is also a solemn warning that none should presume. Seven times our Lord spoke while on the cross, and there was darkness for three hours and an earthquake. Of His followers we are told of the three Marys and the beloved disciple St. John, being at Calvary.

With a loud cry Jesus finally gave up the Ghost, and the veil of the Temple was rent in twain. His side was subsequently pierced by a soldier, and Joseph of Arimathea took the Sacred Body from Pontius Pilate, and it was buried in a new sepulchre in his garden, which was sealed and watched.

It is impossible, on account of space, to go fully into details, but this is written in the hope that it will induce amongst some of the readers, a closer study and meditation on the events of our Saviour's last week on earth and a realization of the suffering He endured for our salvation. Armistice Day is kept in remembrance of those who died that we might live. How much more reason for the proper observance of Good Friday.

INSTITUTE MEETING

The April meeting of the Bear River Women's Institute was held on Monday afternoon in the Masonic Reading Room, with a fair attendance. The feature of the afternoon was a most interesting and instructive talk by Mr. Harold Hatheway, on the place of a modern Trust Company may play in safeguarding one's interests in connection with the carrying out of wills, etc., for individuals or estates.

TENNIS CLUB MEETING

On Friday evening, March 31st, the annual business meeting of the Bear River Tennis Club was held in the Drug Store, the president, Mr. L. V. Harris in the chair. Twelve members were present.

A most interesting report of the past year's activities was given by President, showing the club in a strong financial position. An expenditure of $122.

Too much praise cannot be given the performers who took their parts so well. The sum of $45.00 was realized which will be used for church purposes.

ADVERTISING AND PROGRESS

Advertising has proven itself to be the barometer of progress. It has not been long since business advertising was as severely criticised and ridiculed as boasting of personal qualifications. At the same time there was as little faith in the claims of advertisements as in the claims of the braggart. Only the quick and the impostor, who had everything to gain and nothing to lose, then resorted to advertising.

Business is ever the standard bearer and apostle of progress, and so it was business which discovered that advertising was a vital factor in all growth. When advertising was admitted to the fireside of business it was not the big business of today. Big business traces its beginning with its employment of advertising.

In its conversion to advertising business was soon followed by industry, commerce and the professions. The benefits of advertising had made themselves manifest in each step forward.

That was the evolution of advertising, until today advertising plays a part in every phase of life and is the working instrument of all except the doctor and the lawyer, who still consider it "unethical" to advertise for business. He may place his "card" in the newspaper, but it is professionally forbidden for the doctor or the lawyer to influence the public of his capabilities.

Nothing in life has attained perfection and evolution as an eternal, over-continuing advancement. The evolution of advertising will not stop with its adoption by medicine and jurisprudence, but that adoption will establish another milestone of progress.

Sales more than DOUBLED

Combined sales more than twice as many in January and February as in same period last year.

THE greatest personal honour a manufacturer can attain is to have, and deserve, the confidence of a large and increasing body of users of his product.

A few weeks ago, I presented, on behalf of our great manufacturing and sales organizations in Canada, the new Chrysler, Dodge, Plymouth and DeSoto cars. You believed me when I said that these cars are great values. You went out and bought them—almost two and a half times as many as last year.

This organization has proved before that the best way to get business is to deserve it.

There are other ways of attracting patronage, but I firmly believe there is no way so sure, so lasting or so profitable, as the simple method of giving the buyer better quality and greater value.

People are quick to appreciate value and the response to our offerings is making automobile history in Canada.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER

"The best way to get business is to DESERVE it"

That retail sales of Chrysler Motors products for January and February are nearly two and a half times the sales for January and February of last year—(241.4% of last year, to be exact) is the record disclosed by official registration figures for Eastern Canada—Western figures not available.

This remarkable achievement of Chrysler Motors products, Chrysler, Dodge, De Soto and Plymouth—is in the face of a slight decline in sales for the industry as a whole.

The reason, in a word, is VALUE.

And that value is due to Chrysler engineering, which has built into these cars . . . Floating Power Engine Mountings, which do away with driving fatigue . . . Chrysler Hydraulic Brakes with Centrifuge Brake Drums, which, with all-steel bodies and safety glass windshield, make the greatest safety combination ever achieved in an automobile . . . Double Door X-Type Girder-Truss frame . . . Oilite Squeak-Proof Springs, which smooth out the rough spots and do away with oiling . . . Alloy Steel Valve Seat Inserts—no more valve grinding . . . Improved Automatic Clutch and Free Wheeling . . . Silent U-Thread type shackles, eliminating rattle and side sway . . . shock-proof effortless steering and many other features that make for comfort, economy and performance.

scientific engineering and courageous investment in cost-reducing tools and machinery.

Ride in a Chrysler Motors car today—you will experience a new thrill in motoring. There's a thrifty car for every pocket book.

There are 45 different body models in the Chrysler Motors family—Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler. Ranging in price from $675 to $5,280, f.o.b. factory. Also a complete line of Dodge Commercial Cars, Standards Trucks and Heavy Duty Trucks—Capacities from 1/2 ton up.

Irving Ruggles and son, Robert, of Tiverton, were in town one day last week.

Rev. A. W. Akery, was a passenger to Saint John on Monday. On his return he was accompanied by Mrs. Akery, who has been spending the past couple of months with her parents, in the city.

Mrs. Clayton Leeman and baby, of Tiverton, were guests of her parents,
Mr. and Mrs. John Thurber, last week.

Mrs. Allan Perry, who has been at Tiverton, returned home last week, accompanied by Mrs. Linwood Perry and two children, Allan and Ardith.
Mrs. Perry is convalescing from a recent illness.

Captain Ralph Haines enjoyed a trip to Saint John a couple of weeks ago on the "Tagit".

The "Tagit" left on Friday morning for Bridgewater, towing a vessel from Bellevue Cove loaded with lumber, Gordon Thurber, of Freeport, also went for the trip.

Theodore Woodman, of the Digby County Power Board, was in town last week in the interest of the hydro board.

Baseball Matters
The Freeport Baseball Club held its first meeting of the season last Thursday evening at the home of Rev. A. W. Akery. Randall Prime acted as chairman and Ernest Haines as secretary. The financial report was read. It was moved and seconded that Earle Haines and Ray Finigan see about the ball field for the season. The following officers were appointed: Aubrey Elliott—Treasurer; Randall Prime—Secretary; Burton Campbell—Captain;
Bert Crocker—Business Manager;
Mr. Akery—Field Manager. It was moved that Lawrence Hersey act as umpire, with Austin Finigan as base umpire, with Austin Finigan as assistant to Ray. It was also moved and seconded that Bernie Blackford and Ernest Haines lend the girls.
After the business was concluded the meeting adjourned.

C. G. I. T. Week
Maritime C. G. I. T. Week was observed by the two groups, "Live-wires" and "Jolly Juniors" of Freeport. On Sunday morning, approximately twenty-five girls entered the church to the strains of a professional hymn and occupied the front section of the church. A special sermon, entitled, "Harmony in Life," was preached to the girls by the pastor, Rev. A. W. Akery, which was very inspiring and helpful to the parents as well as to the girls. On Monday evening the girls evening refreshments in the church vestry. After the usual devotional service the evening was spent in games and contests. Just before closing the girls with their guests sat around a table, prettily decorated with candles and the group colors, green and yellow, and dainty refreshments. There were sandwiches, cake, cookies and cocoa were enjoyed. Instead of the regular Young People's Society on Friday evening a Community Service

BRIGHTON — BARTON SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY CLUB

The next club meeting will be held at the home of the President, at 8 p.m., today (April 7). The Executive Committee will meet at 7 o'clock previous to the regular meeting to decide whether to have the proposed card and croquet party the night following. The first party netted
$6.50. The contributions of the 4-H Club and the Junior Red Cross, together with voluntary contributions, towards the welfare of the children at heart have met the expenses of the planting project. The proposed party would be held to establish a fund to pay the cost of the monthly afternoon use of the Union Hall which has been most kindly offered for the children's use.

Some out-of-town friends becoming interested in the club through the Courier's reports, have led to the establishment of an "associate membership" which will include those who are with us in sympathy if not in person. Fee for associate membership—What you can give in cash of Barton, is our treasurer.)

Temperance Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service
Council and Temperance
Alliance)

"Read that," said Farmer Ned the other day, and he handed me a copy of one of our Nova Scotia papers. It was a paper with a marked editorial on "Industry and Service." "Isn't that good?" he added, as I looked at the editorial. "I am sure it is. It is the idea that industry should be thought of in terms of service rather than the amassing of wealth. Farmer Ned is a good man. He has a lot of his busy days he manages to get a share of time for reading, and he is dainty and fresh. He is a man of fine ideals, the kind of man that out of whom great communities and great nations are built. We talked a little along the lines of the editorial in question. I found him a strong believer in service as fundamental in all that goes on between man and man."

And Farmer Ned is right. When one stops to think of it, that word "service" is really the test-word of the day in which we live. Every feature of our complex lives is being judged on the basis of service rendered. Pass along the streets of a great city and apply the test of service to every man, woman and child.
The baker, the shoemaker, the bookman, the newspaper man, the hardware merchant, the jeweler, the furniture man, the garage man, the teacher, the musician, the banker, the doctor, the lawyer and the others. Surely these are all here rendering real service to the rightful needs of society. Test the institutions—be they school, hospital, the museum, the church, the homes for the aged and the poor, the amusement house, the post office,
the railway, the telephone, the What an array they all make. And they are all to be justified because they stand for service. Why, it would seem as though no man had a right to hang out a sign or occupy valuable floor space in his block unless his business really ministers helpfully to some rightful and actual need of human life.

And then, in the course of his round, the man who stands in front of the liquor saloon, operated by private or public agents. Ask of this the same question. "What rightful service does this man render to society?"
I must confess I find it hard to give a satisfactory answer. Farmer Ned had no answer when he talked with me the other day. I pass it on to you, friends. What service? What?

TRURO — ADOPTS BARTER SYSTEM

The Barter system has struck
Truro. The exchange of services for necessities, which almost borders on technocracy, is made possible by the use of the barter system.

The exchange under the management of D. M. Stewart. In this, Mr.
Stewart, plans that if a man requires shoes and the shoe is a painter and paper hanger and some of the shoe dealers in Truro are in need of a decorator he brings the two together and the exchange takes place. And he says, a barber may need a furnace man and the family of the unemployed may need a barber, so under this system, the barber and his unemployed furnace man will exchange their energies in a barter.

That Mr. Stewart expects good business is evident by the fact that he has engaged an assistant to help him to bring the two together. He considers it a position whereby they might exchange energy for energy.

Miss Eva Haynes was a visitor to Halifax last week.

"JESUS REQUIRES CONFESSION AND LOYALTY"

Golden Text:—"Whoever will come after me, let him deny himself, take up his cross, and follow me."
—Mark 8:34.

Lesson Passage:—Mark 8: 27-38.

O let me hear thee speaking,
In accents clear and still,
Above the storms of passion,
The murmurs of self-will;
O speak to reassure me,
To hasten or control;
O speak, and make me listen,
Thou Guardian of my soul.

A Test Question, 27, 28
Jesus did not lead his disciples to conviction in any magical or instantaneous way. He took time. His work was gradual, but it was thorough. When he led his disciples to Caesarea Philippi, about thirty miles north of Capernaum, he asked them questions to discover their real belief concerning him. He had spent months in training his disciples, and he now knew if teaching in the Sermon on the Mount, had shown them his example as a husband and friend, and sent them out on a missionary tour that they might gain experience.
Now he wished to test out the result of all this training and to know if they realized who he was. Could he trust his message to them? Were they dependable? He first asked them the opinion of others. "What say ye that some thought he was?"
John the Baptist or Elijah, or one of the prophets. Those who gave these answers had not been intimate enough with Jesus to know the real meaning of his appearance. These answers showed that he had attracted men of different minds and that they were not all of the same kind. Peter was the first to answer. He said, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."

Peter's Confession, 29, 30
Suddenly Jesus made his question very direct and personal. "Whom say ye that I am?" As usual Peter was the spokesman for the twelve.
He answered, "Thou art the Christ,
the Son of the living God."

The word "Christ" means "Anointed." Peter's use of this word was equivalent to saying that he was the Messiah, the one whom the Jews were waiting for whom Jewish saints and prophets had waited. It has been said that, by making this confession, Peter was the first Christian. There are those to-day who say that to be a Christian we must live in the spirit of Christ and follow the Golden Rule. This is good in so far as it goes, but Jesus would not have been satisfied with this attitude on the part of his disciples. He wished to warn them against the danger of being misled by the false prophecies of the Jews. He wished to show them that the Christ of the Jews was not the same as the Christ of the world. The Christ of the Jews was a man who was to be a great king and ruler of the world. The Christ of the world was a man who was to be a great teacher and a great savior of souls. Jesus wished to show them that the Christ of the world was not the same as the Christ of the Jews. He wished to show them that the Christ of the world was a man who was to be a great teacher and a great savior of souls. He wished to show them that the Christ of the world was not the same as the Christ of the Jews. He wished to show them that the Christ of the world was a man who was to be a great teacher and a great savior of souls.

As soon as the disciples acknowledged the Messiahship of Jesus, it was necessary for them to be warned against the danger of being misled by the false prophecies of the Jews.
This was the opposite conception of the Messiah as interpreted by Christ himself. He began to tell his disciples that the Son of Man was to suffer many things and die and rise again. He saw clearly that in such a world as that in which he lived suffering and sacrifice were necessary. He saw that the chief priests and scribes were not ready to accept his message. There were too many people with wrong interests for his teaching about the love and fatherhood of God to be accepted readily. His life was not to be one of ease and honor, but of service and suffering, of sacrifice and shame. It is no wonder that the disciples rebelled against this interpretation. We have hardly become accustomed to it even after nineteen hundred years. Yet it is true, in our day as in the day of Christ, that sacrifice and suffering are redemptive.

Peter Rebuked, 32, 33
What different people we may be at different times! One moment we may rise high and the next we fall low. There is what is spoken of as the "defects of our virtues." Peter's readiness to speak his mind had led him to be the first to confess faith in Jesus as the Christ. This same outspokenness soon led him astray.
When he heard the Master speak about suffering and dying, Peter began to rebel. He said this out of loyalty and love, but he was putting temptation in his Master's way.
Jesus rebuked him, uttering stern words, "Get thee behind me, Satan; for thou favorest not the things that be of God, but the things that be of men." He used a phrase that had been used in rebuking the tempter in the wilderness. Jesus said this to Peter, the disciple who had just confessed that he was the Christ. Why did Jesus speak thus harshly to a loyal disciple? Was it not because he realized the persuasiveness of a temptation coming from a friend who loved him? When he said this to Peter, the temptations of our enemies may be easily withstood. They present little attraction to us, but the temptations which come to us from our more decisive in relating them to personal friends are much more dangerous. We must be that much more alert.

The Christian Law, 34, 35
Jesus continued to teach the unpopular doctrine of self-denial. He called the people to him along with his disciples, told them that if they were to be his disciples they must deny themselves and take up the cross. He did not win followers under false pretences, promising them good things and then leading them to the cross. He said that if any wished to save their lives, they must lose their lives. That is, they must give up material things if they wished to win the highest spiritual victory. How literally true this was for the disciples!

Questions for Discussion:

1. Why did Jesus test his disciples' belief about himself?
2. Why did people see in Jesus a resemblance to John the Baptist and Elijah?
3. Peter received praise and rebuke from Jesus; which do we deserve more?
4. What did the cross mean to Christ?
5. What does the cross mean to us?

Digby Ratepayers Defeat School Resolution 83-21

Monday night's meeting of the ratepayers of the town of Digby called to vote on the resolution asking that the Town Council be given authority to expend "a sum not exceeding sixteen thousand dollars" for making alterations and additions to the present academy building, was largely attended, but lacked in enthusiasm. It was quite evident that the people had made up their minds in this matter beforehand. When the vote was taken, the resolution, which was as follows:

"Resolved that the Town Council of the Town of Digby be authorized to expend a sum not exceeding sixteen thousand dollars for the extension of the present Academy building, to include two additional classrooms with Assembly Hall overhauled, with equipment for hall and rooms, improved system of Heating, Ventilating and Lighting of the present building, and necessary alterations."

was defeated 83-21. The general feeling at the meeting seemed to be that the proposed alterations were needed, but that the town could get along without them until conditions were better. Two speakers, W. K. Ganong and town clerk, Alfred Boden expressed themselves that this expenditure should be the first public expenditure of the town when conditions warranted the same.

Mock Parliament by Young People's Society

A Mock Parliament was conducted in the Y.P.S. of the United Church, ship Department. The officials were: President—Patricia McPherson; Leader of Reconstruction Party (Opposition)—Ralph Wright; Speaker—James Appleby; Clerk—Rev. Turnbull; Sergeant at Arms—Rufus Connor; Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod—Dudley Dickie; Minister of Finance—Hattie Cowan; Minister of Public Works—Florence Keen; Minister of Education—Governor Oliver; Deputy Governor-General—Oakley Turnbull; Governor-General—Rev. E. W. Forbes. Exercises of the opening of parliament in the senate chamber were carried on in parliamentary procedure. Two bills were introduced and debated, and the house was then prorogued in parliamentary manner. Dudley Dickie gave a good report of the Tuxis Mock Parliament, at Bridgetown.

HOW DO THE NEW RATES AFFECT YOU? NO. 2

To the Editor of the Courier.
Sir:—There are two aspects of the new Hydro rates which I frankly admit I do not understand. The first is the increase in the rate of power, boosted from 4 cents per kilowatt to 8 1/2 cents per kilowatt. That I am not alone in not understanding is evident in the protests I have received from other sections of the Municipality. It is beyond my power of reasoning to imagine how the new rates could be classed as reduced rates.

It is hard for me to understand how any person could suggest that the people would be satisfied with a power rate that is much higher than the former rate. We are told that it shall work out alright. All you have to do is use more power. More you use, the less you pay, as it were. But suppose you do not care to use more than you need. There is the rub. Perhaps it is very near future we shall have more light on the subject. Another feature of the new schedule is the service charge, or "floor space" as it is more generally known. It is some new thing in Digby County, and we must not press too much.

We must be modern, and think along the lines of the new era. We must be modern, and think along the lines of the new era. We must be modern, and think along the lines of the new era.

Chief of Police Cowan, who has been granted a leave of absence from the town, has been on duty for a few days this week while the relieving police chief, Fred Thibault, is taking treatment at Camp Hill Hospital.

The Sunday School of the Hillgrove United Baptist church will give a concert in the church, Sunday evening, at 8 o'clock.

Chief of Police Cowan, who has been granted a leave of absence from the town, has been on duty for a few days this week while the relieving police chief, Fred Thibault, is taking treatment at Camp Hill Hospital.

I think I can state that the Council are not aware of the fact that the users were going to be assessed in accordance to the size of their houses, and that some of the poorer users of power would not only the service charge, but double cost for power. The poor power user got it coming and going, didn't he?

I do not charge any person with the attempt to put anything over. I am simply stating the facts as they are. I cannot see why we were not given lower rates when we requested lower rates. We get lower rates and a service charge.

What is that service charge for? If your service charge is, say, 50 cents, you would receive about 12 kilowatts for the rest of your minimum charge of $1.50, but with no service charge and the same rate, you would be getting 16 or 17 kilowatts.

MONCTON HAWKS BEING ALLAN CUP TO MARITIMES

Everybody knew that at some time or another the Allan Cup would be brought to the Maritime Provinces. It is now in the hands of the Moncton Hawks, and it has been decided on the up-grade of late years. Two years ago, although they lost three of their best players on the eve of the Maritime championship, the Truro Bearcats eliminated the Quebec champions. That was a starter. Last season the Quebec clubholders eliminated the Maritime champions, but the outstanding players of these provinces-by-the-sea were spread through too many teams. This season, with the formation of the Big Three, the majority of the outstanding players pastime with three clubs. This made all the clubs strong. Perhaps either the Halifax Wolverines or Island Abbies could have clinched the Allan Cup, but it is fitting that the outstanding team in the Maritime, the Hawks, should go through to the Canadian crown. In paying tribute to the Hawks I want to stress the fact that, as players, the Hawks are good. As a team, the Hawks had a hockey machine without a single weakness. After the hockey followed by the basketball, the Hawks are delighted with the play-off exploits of the Hawks.—(W. J. Foley, in the Halifax Chronicle.)

BARTON AND BRIGHTON

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Amoro entertained the 4th Club Saturday night at a surprise party in honor of their son, Roy's fourteenth birthday. Mrs. Margaret Mossman received with the guests at the party. The crockinole game, all kinds of goodies were served. Marjorie Theriault and Margaret Specht assisting with the refreshments. A beautiful birthday cake was the centre of the feast, of course, and many gracious birthday wishes accompanied its disposal. Miss Vera Mullen had the honor of serving at such occasions. Roy was the happy recipient of many appropriate gifts.

Mrs. Eva Wendell, principal of the local school, has been asked to represent the teachers of this district at the Educational Convention, at Sydney, during the Easter holiday.

The Red Cross "Sunbeams" had a puzzle and folk dance party Saturday afternoon. Miss Violet Cosman, assisted by Beatrice and Cosman and Irma Adams, acted as hostesses. Those present were Jean Lamberson, Georgia Adams, Phyllis Lamberson, Cordell Worthley, Patricia Smith and Mary Krausnick. The same young folks will meet tomorrow for an Easter social.

Divine services will be held in the Baptist Church Sunday evening. Prayer meeting as usual on Wednesday. The service will be held on "The Cross." Rev. Mr. Higgins gave two interpretations: first that of redemption being made possible through a satisfaction of the law, and second, that of the "blood atonement." Mrs. M. Bacon rendered a beautiful solo, the full choir took up the chorus.

Services will be held in the United Church, Sunday, at 11 a. m.

GETTING TIRED OF BULK TEAS

Maritime provinces people are getting tired of bulk tea and now that standard package teas are so low in price, housewives are giving their preference to such teas as MORSE'S STANDARD TEA, which has become the "good old family tea of the Maritimes." This tea now sells at 40 cents per pound package and is the same fine-flavored thick liquoring tea that two years ago was regarded as mighty good value at 75 cents per pound package. At 40 cents it is equal in value to much advertised 50-cent blends—perhaps better. It makes 240 cups of delicious tea, and is so good that at the new price of 40 cents its cost on the table is one-sixth of a cent per cup. Where can one get a cheaper beverage than that apart from water?

And where else will one get so much satisfaction in tea drinking for so little money?

Mrs. Bertha Phillips is ill at her home on Carleton Street. George Marshall is seriously ill in the Digby General Hospital. Richard Lyons is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. G. Lynch.

The last week in May a Telephone Bridge will be held for the Y. O. N. D. at Murphy Canadian Immigration Officer, was in town this week on official business.

Mrs. Edward Winchester, who is a patient at the Digby General Hospital, is very much improved yesterday to spend the Easter holidays. He is visiting with Mrs. Harvey's mother, Mrs. L. Y. Winchester. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harvie left for the Digby General Hospital.

ACADEMY NOTES

The girls' basketball team was defeated by the Yarmouth girls; score 43-3. Our girls had a good time, however. They were accompanied on the trip to Yarmouth by a Saint John boys' team who were playing a championship game in Yarmouth. The girls were seen off at the station by quite a few of the local ladies who looked quite sorrowful on seeing the Saint John boys.

On Tuesday morning the grass on the school field was set alight. The boys of the High School were called out to extinguish the blaze. These fires are a regular occurrence about this time every year.

School closed for the Easter vacation on Wednesday. Activities will be resumed on Wednesday, April 13. Candy sales in aid of the Junior Red Cross have been held in several of the lower grades. Judging from the number of High School pupils seen eating candy at the time these sales must have been very successful.

Arrangements have been made for the debate between the Weymouth and the Digby Y. P. S. debating teams. This will take place in the United Church hall, at Digby, on Thursday evening next, and will be open to the public. Subject: "Resolved, that the Union of the Maritime Provinces within the Dominion Would be Beneficial from an Economic Standpoint." Digby takes the affirmative.

The next meeting of the United Church Brotherhood will be held on Tuesday evening next. It will be the Civic Night, and a good programme of addresses will be given.

Eric Armstrong, of Acadia University, is spending the Easter vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Armstrong.

A Rummage Sale will be held for the benefit of the Y. O. N. on May 13th, at Mr. Aymar's Store, Mrs. Morrell convenor.

Canada imported 370,000 pounds of Iceland moss in 1932. Among its many uses is that it can be fermented and an alcoholic liquor produced.

NOTICE!

I shall be in my office in the Shortliffe Building in Digby on May 2nd, also on the first Tuesday of each month. ¶ Owing to Money conditions at this time, I find that many persons are neglecting the care of their eyes. This should not be. ¶ To assist all I will take off Two Dollars from the first pair and Three Dollars from each pair after the first pair of glasses ordered by you. ¶ The above is offered so that one can take care of the whole family if necessary at a cost that will surprise you—it will be so small. ¶ This offer is presented for your convenience.

Very truly yours

Little Johnny was just about to run out and play when his mother called to him.

"Johnny," she said, "you remember what today is, don't you?"

"Yes, mother," replied the boy, "we're going to Mrs. Brown's tea party."

"Be back in time to have a good wash before we go," she reminded him.

"But mother," said the boy, "I don't need a wash for that. Mrs. Brown said that it was to be a most informal party."

"JESUS TRANSFIGURED"

Golden Text:—"And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth."—John 1:14.

Lesson Passage:—Mark 9:2-8, 17, 18, 25-29.

And Him evermore I behold
Walking in Galilee
Through the cornfield's waving gold,
In hamlet, in wood, and in wild.
By the shores of the beautiful Sea,
He toucheth the sightless eyes;
Before Him the demons flee;
To the dead He saith: "Arise!"
To the living: "Follow Me!"
And that voice still soundeth on
From the centuries that are gone,
To the centuries that shall be!

The Scene, 2

There is fairly general agreement that the scene of the Transfiguration was Mount Hermon. This mountain has three peaks, towering up nine thousand feet above sea level. It sits near Caesarea Philippi where Jesus and His disciples had been. Attempts have been made to explain what the disciples saw there by the sudden rising of the mist, and the shining of the sun. The significance of the event, however, was not so much outer as inner. The raiment of Jesus appeared white as snow, but something more striking by far was taking place in the experience of Jesus. In the discussion as to whether the incident occurred on Mount Tabor or Mount Hermon, it has been said that the Transfiguration was not a matter of geography. In like manner, as to the method, it may be said that it was not a matter of lighting. It is what the incident meant to Jesus that is of importance to us.

Three Favored Disciples, 2, 3

Peter, James and John went up the mountain with Jesus and shared in his experience. Several times they were chosen for the special privilege of being the sole companions of Jesus. They had qualities of sympathy and insight which fitted them to be with him in such an hour. High honor, indeed, was it for them to be invited to belong to the inner circle of Christ's friendship. It had dangers, also. Peter's self-confidence and the ambition of James and John may have grown out of this recognition of their worth above that of the other disciples. Privilege always requires great power of self-control.

In Hearts, Not in Huts, 5, 6

During the Transfiguration experience Jesus continued with Elijah and Moses, the great representatives of the prophets and the law. Peter wished this experience to be prolonged, and if possible, made permanent. He suggested that three booths or huts might be built to mark the spot. This, however, could not live on in huts, but only in hearts. That it did live on we know from the written words of Peter. Long afterwards he wrote: "We were eye witnesses of his majesty, for he received from God the Father honor and glory when there came such a voice to him. This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased." And this voice which came from heaven we heard when we were with him in the holy mountain. Peter never forgot the Transfiguration.

The Voice, 7

The voice from heaven said: "This is my beloved Son." It was a word of reassurance to Jesus. He was certain of the Father's favor and the Father's will. It had been clear to him that he must die. To the disciples came the word: "Hear him." They too were to follow Jesus. His was the voice which spoke with authority above all others. To us to-day there is need to hear this word: "Hear him." Christ speaks to us. His words are spirit and they are life. We may know this transfiguration experience by listening to the voice of Christ. "We, too, may go apart with the Master of our souls and walk with him on holy levels. We may breathe that upper purer air. We may know and enjoy the divine moonlight. We may be lifted into the sense of exalted fellowship. And our own faces may be illumined by the radiant strength of our devotion."

Obituary

Charles Godet

The death of Charles Godet occurred recently at Boston, Mass., of a brief illness. Deceased was formerly a resident of Corberrie, has resided in the United States for years. He is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Amerault, daughter of Hilaire Amerault, of New Edinburgh; two daughters, the Misses Cora and Laura Godet; four sisters, Mrs. Darnley Godet, of Major Point, N. S.; Mrs. Louis Thibodeau, of Haverhill, Mass.; Mrs. Fred Bourque, of New Brunswick; Mrs. D. Dore, of Quebec; one brother, Moise Godet, of Comeauville. The funeral took place at St. Joseph's Church, Haverhill, Mass., on March 25th.

Mrs. L. K. Rockwell

The many friends of Maud M. Rockwell, who died on March 17th, will learn with deep sorrow of her sudden and unexpected death, which occurred very peacefully at West Monmouth, Mass., on March 17th, at the age of fifty-two years. Deceased was a daughter of E. T. Harris, of Brighton, Digby County, leaves to mourn her loss her husband, L. K. Rockwell, a step-son, Lincoln Rockwell; her mother, Mrs. A. R. Harris, Alliston, Mass., and brother, nine sisters, the being the first break in the family. The surviving sisters and brother are: Mrs. A. D. Harris, of West Monmouth, N.S.; Mrs. Harris, of Toledo, Ohio; Mrs. William Johnson, of Hudson, N.H.; Mrs. Harry B. MacDonald, of Everett, Mass.; Mrs. J. Van Andrews, of North Range; the Misses Ruby M., Gladys M., and Hazel D. Harris, of Alliston, Mass.; Mrs. Dwight F. Main, of York Village, Maine, and Mrs. Walter Lyan, of Toledo, Ohio.

Deceased will be long remembered because of her kind and lovable disposition and wonderful character. The interment was in Mount Auburn, Mass. A very beautiful funeral service was held from the Christian Science Church. Friends and relatives expressed their sympathy in a wealth of lovely floral offerings, which were lovingly appreciated by the bereaved relatives, as were the many cards and letters of sympathy received by them. With the sorrowful loved ones our minds will frequently recur to those beautiful lines by Lord Tennyson: "And the stately ships go on, To their haven under the hill; But Oh for the touch of a vanished hand And the sound of a voice that is still!"

Miss Clothilde Theriault

The death of Miss Clothilde Theriault, of Bellevue's Cove, occurred at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Theriault, on Monday, March 19th, at the age of 22 years. She has been in ill health for some time and is survived by her parents, three sisters, Marguerite, Cecile, and Marie, and a brother, a teacher at Ohio, and Alvin, at home; and two brothers, Paul, student at St. Anne's College, and Felix, at home.

During his public ministry, Jesus was never allowed to be very long away from the appeal of human need. A much greater contrast could hardly be imagined than that between the Transfiguration experience with the voice from heaven followed by the sight of an epileptic boy in convulsions as Jesus and his three disciples regained their plain earthly life. Jesus is seen in the pupils. They do not gloss over the ugly and unpleasant facts of life, the grandeur of Jesus is seen in the way in which he could turn from an hour of communion with God to help the most distressing cases of need. Prayer did not make him isolate himself from human kind. Our collective worship fails unless it makes us reader to minister to individual cases of need.

Heaven's Voice and Earth's Need, 17, 18, 23-27

During his public ministry, Jesus was never allowed to be very long away from the appeal of human need. A much greater contrast could hardly be imagined than that between the Transfiguration experience with the voice from heaven followed by the sight of an epileptic boy in convulsions as Jesus and his three disciples regained their plain earthly life. Jesus is seen in the pupils. They do not gloss over the ugly and unpleasant facts of life, the grandeur of Jesus is seen in the way in which he could turn from an hour of communion with God to help the most distressing cases of need. Prayer did not make him isolate himself from human kind. Our collective worship fails unless it makes us reader to minister to individual cases of need.

Paying the Price, 28, 29

The disciples who had been left on the plain had tried to heal the epileptic boy and had failed. Jesus came down from the Mount of Transfiguration and at once succeeded. When they were alone, the disciples asked Jesus, saying: "Why could not we cast him out?" His answer implied that they had not disciplined themselves enough. Spiritual power cannot come apart from the discipline of Jesus. Every follower of Christ the law still holds true. If we would do any service in the name of Christ, we must seek to know him, and we must seek to discipline ourselves.

Questions for Discussion:

1. Why did Jesus give to Peter, James and John an intimacy which the other nine disciples did not receive?
2. May we have experiences of exaltation corresponding to the Transfiguration of Jesus?
3. Jesus prayed; can we expect to be at our best without prayer?
4. Why do ministers to-day leave healing to doctors of medicine?
5. What is the connection between worship and service?

THAT ALL-TIRED-OUT FEELING IN SPRING CAN BE BANISHED

Actual Authentic Blood Tests Prove That
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Will Correct
Conditions Underlying Lassitude

There is a definite medical reason for that Springtime "all-tired-out feeling." Winter living conditions have thinned and devalued your blood stream. A blood test would probably show that it isn't carrying the amount of oxygen—Nature's great vitalizer—required by the body tissues. Your blood is deficient in haemoglobin, the vital element which carries oxygen through the system. That is why you are languid, listless, and easily fatigued.

This condition can be quickly made right. Actual tests recently directed by a reputable physician definitely proved that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills greatly increase the haemoglobin and the red corpuscles in the blood stream—which is your life stream—and thereby revitalizes the whole system.

Patients of both sexes—whose names and complete records are on file—were given a treatment of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills under the physician's supervision, and actual blood tests were taken by him. In his words: "The improvement was nothing short of remarkable." Every patient showed splendid increases in haemoglobin, some over 20 per cent. The real significance of the restorative effects of this world-famous remedy is seen when it is stated that the symptoms of these patients ranged from slightly "under-par" conditions to those indicating a serious anemia. The results of this blood test confirm the testimony of literally thousands of men, women and youths in 72 different countries that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, by oxygenating the blood stream, have positively relieved anaemic, rundown conditions, under-nourished nervous systems, habitual tiredness and rheumatic sufferings. With the haemoglobin content and red corpuscles of the blood stream restored to normal, tiredness gives way to a new sense of renewed strength. Nervous irritability vanishes. Appetite is sharpened and digestion is stimulated. New energy and new vitality are experienced. If you tire easily, lack ambition to do your work, have poor color and perhaps experience heart palpitation and dizziness—don't drag along day after day without doing anything about your condition. Before it gets any worse, start right away on a treatment of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have a record of 40 years as a standard prescription for rundown, anaemic conditions in people of all ages. They will bring you the new strength and vigor you crave. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are 50 cents a package—and your Druggist has them.

SPEED!

Time counts when you're in pain! Insist on Aspirin, not only for its safety but for its speed.

Aspirin tablets dissolve at once. They are many minutes faster than remedies that are offered in their stead.

If you saw Aspirin made, you would know why it has such uniform, dependable action. If you have ever tried to get rid of a headache, you need, and gets to work before a slower tablet has any effect.

Stick to Aspirin. You know what you are taking. You know it is harmless; nothing in these tablets to depress the heart, or upset the stomach. For headaches, colds, neuralgia, rheumatism, the safe and certain relief is—Aspirin.

GO TO CHURCH EASTER SUNDAY

a day on which we commemorate the resurrection of Christ, is one of the two most inspiring days in the life of man . . . The other day is Christmas, when we observe the anniversary of the birth of the Christ child. . . Easter is always particularly inspiring because all nature seems to be in accord as life bursts forth in every form to teach again the omnipotence of Divine Love. . . So come to church Sunday. . . Be in your favorite church. . . Be inspired by the word of truth you will hear in discourse, in poem, and in song. . . Hear again, refresh memory and fasten faith within your heart of our oneness with our creator. . . The power that rolled the stone away is eternal and is still effective for the sons of God who rely upon Him.

Each of these Churches extends a friendly hand of Welcome to you. Attend one of their services on Easter Sunday - and be a regular attendant every Sunday after that!

BETWEEN OURSELVES

I have before me a copy of last week's Courier and have just read again the letter "Let's Have the Truth About the Band Grant." This letter was written by a man who doubt most of you have read it, and analysed it.
The writer is perfectly right when he states "This grant is an insignificant factor in the total sum of $33,729.00. In fact it is just 2 1/2% of the total sum." The grant of $845,000 through taxation the amount of the much talked of band grant would be even more insignificant insofar as percentages go - figure out.

I am not contending that the $675 band grant was the sole reason for the increase in our tax rate, but it was a factor. If my article last week gave you that impression, it was not meant that way - nevertheless, the band grant does account for a large portion of this increase. The taxable property and income in the town of Digby, less exemptions, was $740,000. The amount required to be raised by taxation as brought down in the town's budget was $33,729. The rate of taxation, as we have seen, has been set at 4.60. Should the amount of the band grant be deducted the budget would call for $33,645. This would make a tax rate of about 4.40 - figure that out, too.

Many are questioning the authority of the Town Council in making this grant - however, I am going to leave that question alone. We might also bear in mind that the town has given the band the use of the electric light and water, and the town would to some extent to put it in condition for them. I am not at all opposed to the grant, but I am for a fair matter, and because I am raising this little kick over the $675 grant it does not mean that I or the Courier are antagonistic toward the band or toward any person connected with it. The Courier has always been glad to give the band publicity - we have printed columns about it, we have been the first to offer our congratulations after their first public concert.

Speaking of bands and band concerts, I was in conversation with a prominent merchant of Annapolis Royal a few days ago. He informed me that Annapolis was making a grant of $100 to their band on condition that they would give ten concerts. Of course, that is a different matter, in that, for their band is well established.

Still, after all I have said about that grant, it is not quite as bad as it appears. "Right" makes it just read the following clipped from that paper:

Several of the grants given by the Digby Town Council include the following, which should be of interest to citizens of this town: Children's Aid Society, $250; V. O. N., $180; Evangelical Tourists' Association, $180; Bowdler Club, $90, and the town band has been given a grant of $675.00.

Monday's public meeting was a dud and it looked like a deliberate case of "passing the buck." The Board of Trade passed a resolution approving of the proposition for increased school accommodation. A committee was appointed and met with the school board. Both these bodies agreed, and the proposition was put up to the Town Council, thus forcing their hand and compelling them to call a public meeting.

The meeting called by the Council received the support of the Board of Trade or the School Board? They did not! Both bodies were conspicuous by their absence, and only two members of the Council were present, thus leaving the mayor holding the bag. A rather mean trick, we think.

ANOTHER CONSUMER COMMENTS ON NEW RATE

To the Editor of the Courier.
Sir: - Having read Mr. James F. Hillman's letter to you in last week's issue of the "Courier," I too can say he is not the only one of hydro who receives a bill which is less for light and more for power, than he is formerly charged.
To be sure, this fact seems inconsistent. It does not encourage the use of more power in the home. We have a surplus of Power to dispense from the source of electrical energy. Why not encourage the purchaser of same to use more or why make the charge for light less at the expense of the power user?

I too, formerly had two meters, one for light and one for power. I paid 4c per kilowatt for power or a minimum of $2.00 for 50 kilowatts. For 50 kilowatts I now have to pay $4.25. Is this fair? Does this encourage the use of power? I have used on an average per month, about 75 to 100 kilowatts, sometimes more.
Now for example: My home, we will say contains 1500 square feet of floor area. I am billed at 3c per 100 sq. ft. which will make my service charge $4.50. Now deduct 45c from $4.50 my former payment and this leaves $1.05 for light at the minimum. This amount will give me approximately 12 kilowatts for my lighting purposes. I formerly got 10 kilowatts for the minimum charge of $1.50. However don't lose sight of this power charge. As far as I can understand it our power is sold in blocks to the amount of our service charge or amount of 45 kilowatts for power. I will pay 8c. for the next 45. I will pay 4c. and thereafter all I use will be charged at 2c per kilowatt. The drawback is this, you are getting up big money before you get any real decision. I don't think this is a sound deal. My power bill will be $3.60 plus the service charge for only 45 kilowatts, against $2.00 for 50 kilowatts, which I formerly received. A difference of $2.00 and don't forget I'm getting 5 kilowatts less. We the average home will have to be a miniature factory and use a hundred kilowatts or more before there will be any reduction in the price per kilowatt and then you'll need lots of money to pay the bill. I can't see why this service charge anyway, I have heard numerous complaints of it. If we are going to have a reduction in lighting and power costs why not give us what we expected. To me, the case of the large house is discriminated against. Simply because he lives in a larger house he is going to get less kilowatts for his money. Is this fair?

What is a meter for, anyway? Is it not to measure the amount of current we use? Why not give all of us the same rate, say a minimum of $1.50 instead of only the small house owner 15 kilowatts for $1.50 and his next-door neighbor only 12 kilowatts for the same money, and the next 10, depending on the floor owner, as I said before?

Because a man lives in a large house and buys, we'll say, a pound of butter or sugar he is not given 14 or 12 ounces for a pound and his neighbor in the small house 16 ounces. No, we give them both 16 ounces. So the same is true for this purpose. What is a meter for?
Let's get together in asking for a fair share of all our electricity. We support it and we only ask for 100% equality in the charges all around and some encouragement. This will encourage the use of electrical accessories which in turn create a demand for more power per house. This will benefit both the hydro system and its customers.

CENTRAL GROVE

Mrs. Robie Tibert, of Freeport, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tibert recently.
Leland MacDormand, teacher at Tidville, visited Central Grove to attend the play, and spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Horace Johnson.
Mrs. Earl Boushield and small daughter, visited Central Grove last week.
Mrs. Edward Tibert left Tuesday to spend a few days with her sisters, at Wolfville.
Pauline Delaney is home after having spent the winter at Bridge-town.

The young people of Central Grove motored to Freeport on Saturday to present the play, "The Runaway Couple," which was presented with great success the week before in the Central Grove hall. The play was presented by the C. G. I. T. of Central Grove, assisted by the young people of the place. The cast of characters was as follows: - Horace Singleton - Tillman Tibert, Mrs. Lucy Singleton - Nettie Tibert.

Roads Reported As Improving

The main roads throughout the county are reported as rapidly improving; most of the muck holes have dried out, and although they are a little rough in spots and need watching, they are not in a very bad condition considering. A week of good weather will make a great difference. Several cars having gone through in the last few years. At Clementsport a new bridge is being built over the Moose River.

Mrs. R. H. Lockward left yesterday for Montreal. From there she will go to New York state where she will visit friends for a month.

BRIGHTON - BARTON SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY CLUB

The club met Friday evening with Dr. W. C. Harris, vice-president, as the chair. After the committee reports were approved, Miss Bertha Fraser, Helping Teacher, made an address which was greatly appreciated, especially as Miss Fraser seems to appreciate the club as highly (we shall have to work hard to be as good as she this year). Through Miss Fraser a Halfway Chapter of I. O. O. F. presented the club with a cabinet, phonograph (Now for some good records! Surely there are many that friends of the school can spare).

Plans are on foot for a benefit party to be given some time during the month to pay for the afternoon use of the hall.

We are looking forward to an Arbor Day Celebration some afternoon around the end of the month. Mr. De Wolfe, of the Department of Rural Education, will give a lantern slide lecture that evening. Many neighboring schools will be represented by their teachers. All residents of Barton and Brighton are invited to be present for the exercises and to assist in the planting of the school grounds.

The Rev. Mr. Mosher, of Weymouth, will give a lantern slide lecture on "The Birds of Nova Scotia," April 21st, at 8 p.m., at the Union Hall. A silver collection will be taken to pay for the hall. The preparation of his slides has been Mr. Mosher's hobby for 30 years, and those who have heard him, speak most highly of his work. Mr. Mosher is the rector of the Barton Anglican Church.

W. Krausnick addressed the 4-H and Junior Red Cross Clubs at the school last Friday on "Science and Engineering." Jack Russell's talk which, by mistake, was scheduled for Good Friday, has been postponed to a more appropriate date.

The Rev. Mr. Ewing will speak early in May in the vocational guidance series. Mr. Collins and Mr. LeBlanc, agricultural representatives of adjacent districts, will also speak soon.

Miss Violet Cosman sponsored a party for the Junior Red Cross Society, and is also doing all the poster work for the club with the assistance of the 4-H girls.

The next meeting will be held on May 5th, at the teachers', Vista Cottage.

United States Swings Away From the Gold Standard

CAR WRECK HAS NO TO METEORIC HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Casimir Robicheau and Mrs. Catherine Robicheau were shocked early Monday morning when they were awakened by a terrific crash and felt the house, owned by the latter, shake.

As they rubbed downstairs they found the stairs had been shifted two or three inches and plaster in the house had fallen from the walls. Their first thought was an earthquake, but investigation disclosed the car of Dennis Robicheau had come into their home. The front of the car projected through the wall and into the cellar, while the cellar stairs had been knocked a foot and a half out of place.

Robicheau was said to have lost control of the car, which crashed into the house with severe damage to both residence and vehicle, but leaving the driver unscathed.

UNITED CHURCH OF CANADA

Rev. E. W. Forbes, Pastor.

Sunday Services:—Digby, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday School and Bible Class at 12. Smith's Cove at 2 p.m.

The Y. P. S. will hold its regular meeting on Tuesday evening. The subject of the programme will be "The Doughboys in Canada." The meeting will be under the leadership of Groups One and Two.

A debate will take place between teams from Weymouth and Digby Young People's Societies in the Hall on Thursday, 27th inst. at 8 p.m. The subject will be: "Resolved that the Union of the Maritime Provinces within the Dominion Would Be Advantageous from an Economic Standpoint." Digby has the affirmative. The teams are Oakley Turnbull, Ralph Wright and Florence Keen, Digby; and G. E. Tingley, Miss Kathleen Fitzgerald, and Miss Martin, Weymouth. The debate will be open to the public.

The Easter services were well attended. In the morning one person was baptized and four received into membership. In the evening the Pageant, "The Unshadowed Cross" was finely rendered by fifteen young ladies. Those taking part were Patricia Mphie, Florence Wallis, Gertrude and Bernice Abramson, Charlene, Anna and Alce Turnbull, Edith Snow, Florence Keen, Edith Snow, Gertrude Budrow, Mildred Oliver, Margaret Hawkesworth, Edna Cummings and Dorothy Dunn. The floral decorations were very beautiful and the choir rendered appropriate Easter music.

Miss Marjorie Marshall, who is studying at the Provincial Normal College, Truro, spent Easter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Marshall, Marshalltown.

The United States swung away from the gold standard on Wednesday, as President Roosevelt prepared to ask Congress for new powers to effect a controlled inflation. Withdrawal of gold support for the American dollar in foreign exchanges by the President was interpreted by the Secretary of the Treasury, William H. Woodin, as meaning temporary suspension of the traditional gold standard of currency. The immediate effect was an upward swing in stocks, and commodity prices as the decision of bonds and of the dollar on world exchanges.

Grace Church Brotherhood Holds Night

The Civic Night in the Brotherhood of Grace United Church, brought out a good evening, and Mayor, Town Clerk and Town Councilors were guests. After a special good supper had been disposed of, addresses were given by Mayor Holdsworth and Mr. A. Boden. Mr. Holdsworth spoke of the development of Digby during his own lifetime, dwelling on the great improvements he had witnessed in such matters as the water system, hydro-electric, fire protection and sidewalks. He emphasized the importance of better school accommodation, and called on his audience to take a real interest in their beautiful town by making it still more attractive with neat flower-gardens and well-kept premises. A citizen is one who not only lives in the town but makes it a better town. A resident is one who merely makes the town his place of abode, and has no interest in its welfare. It was a good strong speech, worthy of a live go-ahead Mayor of a progressive town. Mr. Boden spoke on our government. He traced the development of democratic government and described the manner in which civic affairs are managed in finance, as well as the administration of laws governing town matters. Both speeches were received with close attention and were received with applause.

The treasurer gave his report for the year. The Reds and Blues combined was also brought to a close, the Reds being the winners for the second season with 123 points to 95 for the Blues. A letter of greeting was received from the Belle Riviere United Church Brotherhood. This was the closing meeting for the season. All the meetings have been well attended and interesting. The opening meeting of next season will be the third Tuesday in October.

Miss Mary Daley, who has been spending the Easter holidays with her brother, David Daley, and Mrs. Daley, has returned to her studies at Sacred Heart Academy, Meteghan.

Reginald Stoddard, of Clarence, Annapolis County, has returned to "Adams Cottage," and will operate one of H. T. Warne's Groceries.

BAND NOTES

The first advertised appearance of the Digby Junior Band will be in a very interesting and unusual concert to be played in the Bijou Dream Theatre, Thursday, May 11, at popular prices of 35c, and 50c. A large attendance is anticipated because its many friends will be glad of this opportunity to assist the boys in their urgent need of immediate funds.

Substantial cash donations have been received from George Peters and also from George Wightman who gave $10.00 to help pay for the latest Tuba purchased by the Band. Last Sunday's short concert at the band stand was a great surprise both because the playing was of a high order, and the concert totally unexpected. The bandmen themselves did not decide upon it until just before starting out. But the Director thought it was good chance for the 31 beginners, among the 40 players who had never played in public before to make their debut without the embarrassment of a large crowd of listeners and critics.

The band room needs more chairs. Will it ever get none?

At least two competent critics gave warm praise to the Sunday concert. Rev. Valdemar Muller, a former bandman of long experience, could scarcely believe that the band, less than four months old that day, had accomplished what they had. He complimented them on their tone and unity, and their skill in following the expression indicated by the baton in the fine points of music where most young bands are lamentably weak. Lieut. Ritchie, S. A., thought it was the most enjoyable Sunday concert he had heard in a long time. One man who had signed a petition against the band grant said he intends to scratch his name off. The boys appreciate and need such praise to offset the discouraging hostility of some garrulous knockers.

Married

Hankinson—Drake

A wedding of much interest was that at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Drake, Robie Street, Truro, on Monday, April 17th, when their daughter, Marguerite Frances, became the bride of Thomas Edward Hankinson, son of Mr. G. O. Hankinson, of Weymouth. Rev. A. L. Tedford, of Immanuel Baptist Church, officiating. The drawing room was beautifully decorated with ferns and daffodils. At 3 o'clock to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, rendered by Miss Ida Nowlin, the bride entered the room on the arm of the father. The bride was charmingly dressed in a French gown of white cloth, with a beautiful veil, draped with lilies of the valley. She carried a sheaf of white lilies. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Pauline Drake, of Saint John, N. B., who was becomingly attired in a Patou model of hyacinth blue flat crepe with hat to match. Her bridesmaids wore black and yellow daffodils. The groom was supported by his brother, Curtis Hankinson, Middleton. The bride's mother wore black georgette crepe. The groom's gift to the bride was a substantial diamond ring and a best gold cuff links. The bride's gift to her bridesmaid was a white gold bracelet and to the pianist a gold pendant. Following the ceremony, a dainty buffet lunch was served by girl friends of the bride. The newly wedded couple left on the Maritime Express for a three weeks' honeymoon which will be spent in different parts of Nova Scotia. After returning they will reside in Middleton, where the groom is a prominent business man. The bride travelled in a rose beige and white crepe suit trimmed with beige fur and accessories to match. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. G. O. Hankinson, of Weymouth; Curtis Hankinson, Middleton; Miss Irene Grace Henry, of Middleton. Before her marriage the bride was a teacher in the Domestic Science department of the McDonald Consolidated School at Middleton. She is a graduate of the Provincial Normal College, Truro, and of the General Hospital, Toronto. Before leaving Middleton the bride was the guest of honor at several social events. Many beautiful gifts were received.

The Digby Band makes its first public appearance at the Band Stand Sunday afternoon.

The band, under the able direction of Paul Yates, recognized as one of the best band directors in this section of the province, and for some time director of the Annapolis Royal Band, now consists of about thirty members, and was organized four months ago. At Sunday's practice concert a number of sacred pieces and several regular band pieces were played and very much enjoyed by those who gathered around the band stand to listen. The band is making splendid progress and director Yates says that the boys are doing their best to make their "A" band by their hard work and faithful attendance at all practices.

At their Monday luncheon this week, the Digby Americans enjoyed a rather novel programme, at which every member present was the "guest speaker"—each telling of one of his most embarrassing experiences. The programme was in charge of Kivianman M. C. Denton, and was considered a big success.

They all tell us that "this is good growing weather."

WESTPORT

Gordon Gower, of Preport, and Miss Nina Gower are spending the Easter holidays at their home here.

Miss Elizabeth Kenney, who is attending Normal College at Truro, is spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Kenney.

Millie Hicks and friend, Nelson Parker, arrived home from Wolfville on Friday, returning on Monday.

Lyall Henry, of Mink Cove, is visiting his many friends in Westport.

Lesland Macdonald of Tidville is spending his holidays here.

Miss Evelyn Denton spent the Easter holidays with her friend, at New Germany.

Mrs. R. V. Watkins and son, Albert, were passengers to Saint John on Monday, returning on Thursday.

Miss Stella Payson arrived Thursday to spend the summer at her home here.

Robert Melrose, of Saint John, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Edna Melrose.

Forest Ranger, Carl Miller and son, called on the schools here Wednesday.

Mrs. Claude Bishop, of Liverpool, was called home by the death of her father, Eliza Titus.

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Rogers, who spent the winter here, left for Winchester, Mass., on Monday.

Mrs. Ray Fox and Frank Shaw were called to Yarmouth by the serious illness of their sister.

Our teacher, Miss Florence Wallis, spent the Easter holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Wallis, at Digby.

Little Hilda Guier fell one day last week. Her collar broke and her head is doing nicely under the skillful treatment of Dr. Weir.

TRINITY PARISH NOTES

The Easter Services at Holy Trinity were well attended, many coming in from outside points. The chancel was beautifully supplied with flowers from the Racquette Garden. The committee in charge of the floral decorations under the conchospore of Miss Edna Wright, deserve our highest praise.

The musical setting at the 11 o'clock Eucharist was by Stainer. The anthems sung at the evenings were "What Are These That Are Arrayed in White Robes?" and "I Will Praise Thy Name."

In the afternoon the children had their special Easter Service—choruses, hymns and a talk by the Rector helped to make this service most enjoyable. Each scholar received a beautiful picture of the Sistine Madonna, and a small pot of flowers. The Mission Self-denial Boxes were brought in by the children and offered up before Easter Altar by Ted Walker and Bernard Baxter.

Services on Sunday will be as follows:—8 a.m.—Holy Communion. 9 a.m.—Holy Communion at Rosaway.

10 a.m.—Sunday School. 11 a.m.—Matins. 3 p.m.—Service at Marshalltown. 7 p.m.—Evensong. Choir Rehearsal tonight at 8 o'clock.

The ladies of Trinity will hold their Annual Easter Supper in the Parish Hall on Tuesday, April 25, from 4 to 7 p.m. All are cordially invited to attend.

Kenneth Beckwith, of Paradise, has returned to resume his position at Connell's Store.

Miss Rhoda Handspiker has returned home from Saint John, where she spent her Easter holidays with her aunt, Mrs. George Bain.

Obituary

Mrs. Catherine Doucet

Mrs. Catherine Doucet, of Meteghan, passed away at her home on April 14th. Deceased, who was sixty-one years of age, was born on Christmas Day (1865), died on Good Friday, and was buried on Easter Sunday. Funeral services were held at St. John's Church, Meteghan, by Father Deveau, P.P., officiating. Mrs. Doucet had been in poor health for some time. She leaves four sons, Melbourne, William, Fred, and George, living at home, and Edward, at Meteghan River. The following daughters also survive: Mrs. Louis Thibault, Meteghan; Mrs. E. Grisevill, Mrs. Denis Deveau, of Lynn, Mass., and Catherine and Mary, living in the United States. Deceased was a member of the Society of St. Anne. Her husband, Vincent Doucet, predeceased her a number of years.

Elias Everett

The death occurred Saturday the 15th inst. of Elias Everett, an elderly citizen of Preport. Mr. Everett came to Preport from Digby, where a young man, and came to be a highly respected citizen of the village. He was nearly 80 years of age. He survived by three grandchildren, Mrs. Theodore Griffin, of North Head, N.B., Mrs. Harold Tucker, and Everett Stevens, living in the United States. Mr. Everett was a valued member of the Preport Baptist Church, and of the Independent Order of Oddfellow. The funeral service, from the Baptist Church, was conducted by Rev. A. W. Akerley on Monday afternoon, the local lodge attending in a body. Mrs. Everett predeceased her husband a little over a year ago.

Myra Powell

The death took place in Framingham, Mass., April 10th, of Miss Myra Powell, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Powell, of Central Grove. She had been in ill health since July last, but had been tenderly cared for by her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson, of Central Grove. Her remains home. The deceased was forty years of age, and leaves to mourn, her parents, the above named sister, and her brother, Alex. Dean, of Saint John, N.B. The funeral took place from the Baptist Church, on Saturday afternoon, and was conducted by Rev. A. W. Akerley. The hymns sung were "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer" and "There is a Land That is Fairer Than Day." The pall bearers were the Messrs. Ralph and Elwood Tibert, Alfred Cann and Frank Titus. The flowers were numerous. Sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones in their sorrow. The funeral was largely attended including a number from Triverton, Preport and Westport.

MAKING FRIENDS

The old theory of the way to make friends in a place, was to ask them to come and call on you. Then if they did that, you thought you could call on them, and you would get acquainted and make friends. But people are tired of this formal calling. They are also busy, so they do not run into each other's homes as they did.

Acquaintances made through organization work create friendship now. If you feel lonely and want friends in Digby join some good local organization. Tell the officers that you are interested in it, and would like to take hold and do some work in it. They will nail down that offer before you can say Jack Robinson. Before you know it, you will be running some committee and be quite a hero in that society, and everybody will want to know you. You can make all the friends you want in such ways.

BUYING TOO LITTLE

In 1929 people bought too much. They spent beyond their means; they pledged their income not merely for that year, but for years to come. That was one thing leading to the depression.

In 1933 people have bought too little. Many of course have spent all they had, but many have failed to buy what they could, because of fears of the future. The way to meet those fears is to show people by advertising that you have goods to sell at low prices that will not continue. When anyone is shown that he can buy for $1.00 today something that will probably cost $1.50 next year, he is very likely to set his fears aside and buy it.

Such advertising and buying is breaking the force of this depression.

SUPER-WORKERS

Some people think they are going to be supermen, that is, people capable of knowing and doing much more than other people do. But people who are gifted by nature with exceptional gifts are few.

There are plenty of people who might be called super-workers, who make faster progress than others, because they put more thought and effort into their jobs. At the start they are frequently no more capable than their competitors. But they are so determined to know all there is about their jobs, and to give the best possible service there is, that they become more competent than others. These are the ones who attain success if they are in business for themselves, and win promotion if they work for others.

INFERIOR MERCHANDISE

All that glitters is not gold, and not all alleged bargains are really bargains. So the merchants of Digby will tell you. There is a great deal of demand in times like these, for low priced stuff. The manufacturers are forced to get out goods to sell at certain fixed low prices, but to provide them they frequently have to use such inferior material and hasty workmanship that the goods will never be satisfactory.

A campaign to eliminate inferior merchandise is being promoted under the auspices of the National Retail Dry Goods association, and was opened a few nights ago in New York by P. A. O'Connell, president of that organization. One good way to help on that cause, is for people to buy their supplies of their own local dealers, who can not afford to offend and disappoint their customers by working off inferior stuff on them.

There is not usually any economy in buying inferior goods. If an article sells for 25 per cent under the market, but if it will last only half as long as a first class merchandise, then the buyer has lost when he bought it.

Very remarkable bargains, or those that seem so, are offered everywhere now. Sometimes it seems as if goods were almost given away. But these goods that are sold so very cheaply may be put together so hastily and of such poor materials that there is not a cent of economy in buying them.

If your home store advertises bargains, you can depend on getting your money's worth. But probably your local dealer will say that the things he sells the cheapest, in response to the demand for low priced stuff, are the best quality in the long run. Better pay a little more, and get something with the real old goods in it.

No wonder people are fond of lies. They never have to pay the piper until the truth comes out.

Officials who denounce stealing should add the words, "by others," to avoid offending Japan.

Doctors say alcohol is a depressant, but why does it concentrate in the foot that is on the accelerator?

An orator is a man who denounces evil so eloquently that you forget he doesn't do anything else about it.

Our theory is that the ancient civilizations were not destroyed but merely gave up when too many taxes accumulated.

RETURN OF SPRING

As the robin's voice we hear, We believe that spring is near; And are cheered to know that winter's nearer over.

That the seasons in their flight, Borne of sorrow and delight, Yearly bring to us what nature has in store.

Refrain:— There is comfort in the thought of spring returning, 'Tis a story that so often has been told;

Yearly bringing joy for which our hearts are yearning, Which though oft repeated, never has grown old.

As we hear the robins sing, Sweetly telling us of Spring; We rejoice, as hopes are once again revived,

And we feel that, still in love God is guiding from above, That it is from Him our blessings are derived.

As we daily pass along, Either lone or in the throng, There is divine working we have seen;

Too, have heard "that still small voice," "Make me now your choice— For to save this world—my purpose long has been."

Harken now! that you may hear Robin's voice so strong and clear, As he sings from yonder tree across the way;

Hear his voice so clear and sweet! Singing now his friends to greet— Thus his presence cheers us on from day to day.

Welcome to you, birdie dear, We are glad that you are here! And we trust our love for you shall be maintained.

That we shall, our kindness show, As the seasons' come and go, That your confidence in us may be sustained.

As, to these, respect is shown, Be it now, to others known, We do show regard to Him, who did create—

Seeking, thus, to do His will, Who commands—"Thou shalt not kill."— On whose "law" we too should daily meditate.

JESUS REBUKES SELF-SEEKING

(May be used with temperance applications.)

Golden Text:—"Love worketh no ill to his neighbor: therefore love is the fulfilling of the law."—Romans 13:10.

Lesson Passage:—Mark 9:33-43.

"The nineteenth century will shine in history as a century of discovery. An English scientist has given us a list of them, but he has omitted the greatest of them all, the discovery of the child. Accurately speaking, we could not say 'rediscovery of the child,' for the child was first discovered nineteen hundred years ago by the carpenter of Nazareth. In the first century of our era Jesus took a child and set him in the midst and he has done it again in our time. He has set him in the midst of articles and in increased numbers they have been painting pictures of children. He has set him in the midst of poets and they are studying him furiously. He has set him in the midst of the Church and the greatest work the Church has done in a century has been done among the young."

Personal Ambition, 33-35

Perhaps it was the special privilege enjoyed by Peter, James and John who accompanied Jesus on the Mount of Transfiguration that led to the dispute among the disciples as to which one of them would be the greatest. It may be that Peter, James and John had not been able to conceal their personal satisfaction at belonging to the Inner Circle of the friends of Jesus. Or it may be that some of the other nine disciples had asserted that they were quite as capable as any one of the select three. Probably they raised their voices as they argued. Jesus knew that some differences of opinion were being expressed. When they came into the house in Capernaum, Jesus asked them what it was they had been disputing about by the way. They were ashamed to tell him. While they were with each other they could give rein to their individual ambitions, but in the presence of Jesus the question of rank at once appeared unworthy. Jesus told them that there was only one way to be first. The one who is willing to be last of all and servant of all actually does win first place in the roll of honor. This was a very unpleasant announcement to the disciples who had dreams of power.

Christ and the Child, 36-37

To explain this spiritual law more fully, Jesus took a child and set him in the midst of the disciples. It may have been one of Peter's little children who receives this honor, and served as an object lesson to the self-seeking disciples. Mark tells of Jesus taking the little child in his arms and saying to the disciples, "Whosoever shall receive one of such children in my name, receiveth me; and whosoever shall receive me, receiveth me not, but he that receiveth me." In this way Jesus identified himself with the children. This is a profound social law. Slavery was an inhuman institution because of the way it broke up homes. Intemperance is a specially vicious sin because it has so often impoverished children, and both by heredity and environment destroyed their chances of normal living. Child labor is so-called because it will undermine the health of the children sent to work—and no justification of cheap wages can justify that. The present period of unemployment has borne heavily upon fathers and mothers, but its most lasting results will be in the lives of little children born and brought up during days of want. Christ says that any injury to a child is the same as an injury to him. Any service to a child is equivalent to a service rendered directly to him. A stern test of the civilization of any nation is its care of children.

A Lesson in Tolerance, 38-40

There is an instinct of intolerance in human nature. Such a great soul as Paul could not hold the clothes of those who stoned Stephen. John Calvin was consenting to the burning of Servetus. The Spanish Inquisition was not solely due to the nationality and creed of the persecutors. The spirit of persecution is deeply seated in human nature. Even John, the apostle of love, wanted to forbid one who was using the name of Jesus but who was not a member of the disciple group. The attitude of Jesus was one of tolerance. He said, "He that is not against us is on our part."

To Mr. Name, 41-43

Jesus warned mankind against injuries to children. The Jews were inland people and dreaded the sea. Jesus told his disciples that rather than offend a little child, it was better for any one to have a millstone tied around his neck, and to be cast into the sea, so seriously did he regard the welfare of children. Nearly forty million people are enlisted in Sunday School work according to the statistics of the World's Sunday School Association. This is being done in the name of Christ. The Christ spirit is the great motive for service to children.

Giving Up, 43

This lesson is intended to provide a temperance application. It is a law of life that by giving up certain injurious things we make possible higher blessings. Jesus was very outspoken about the necessity of giving up even good things, which interfered with better things. Admitting that he was speaking figuratively, the force of his statement is still true. If they had offended this, cut it off. The issue does not come to us in the light of cutting off a hand, but it does come as renouncing a habit, changing a desire, exercising power of self-control. So sacrificed inner peace, social influence, noble men and women have sacrificed personal health, even life itself, through becoming enslaved to alcohol, that it is nothing less than simple prudence to be total abstainer in regard to intoxicating drink.

Questions for Discussion

- 1.—Since the relaxation of prohibition, Canadians have spent approximately one billion dollars in liquor. Has this been a factor in the economic depression?
- 2.—What are some modern sins against childhood?
- 3.—What has been the effect of the economic depression upon child welfare?
- 4.—Has any way been found whereby personal ambition may be overcome in the Christian Church?
- 5.—Does tolerance ever cease to be a virtue?

THIS READER LACKS UP THE BAND GRANT

To the Editor of the Courier.

Sir:—In a recent issue of your paper (March 21st), which I chanced to read it is noticed that the "people went fairly wild" over the grant to the Band of $675.00 in the nature of being unemployed.

If you will accept the criticism of an outsider with an outside viewpoint I would like to state it should prove money well voted. Essentially Digby is and has been for many, many years a wonderful tourist centre, attracting people from many parts of the U. S. A. and Canada. Other than what the tourist pays for he has not received much in the way of entertainment. These tourists bring a certain amount of money to Digby and much of it is spent there. This outside revenue helps the local merchant and the people who are employed during the tourist season to realize funds to assist in meeting expenses one which is TAXES. The town has fewer default rates when the taxpayers are "in funds" to meet the tax bill amounts. If Digby can develop a good band it will prove a real asset to the community and can supply many interesting and entertaining evenings during the tourist season which will be appreciated by the tourists. It is assumed that the merchants are "backing the band" as well and I do not know of anything that will bring returns, if not directly—indirectly to your beautiful resort than the Band.

The Town Officials are to be congratulated for giving assistance to this community effort and I feel all right thinking citizens will look at it in the same light.

The Bandsmen are willing to give their time and services and it behooves the citizens to give them full support in this worthy community endeavor.

Saint John, April 11, 1933.

Some time ago several garages in Clare were entered and goods stolen, mostly tires and rims, inner tubes, tools, etc. Constable J. J. Palmer, of the R. C. M. P. and Clare's Chief of Police Genette on Saturday visited the residence of Leo Thibault, at Ashmore and found all kinds of things corresponding with the description of stolen goods. Up to Monday three persons had been recommended for arrest and information against Leo Thibault was arrested and placed in Little Brook jail, he said. He will appear before Magistrate Stehelin.

CHANGES IN CABLE RATES

The following statement was issued jointly by the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs: "Effective April 1st, the present week-end letter cable service from Canada will be discontinued. In addition the cable night-letter rate will be based on one third of the full rate charge with a minimum of twenty-five words. This rate applies to all countries except Great Britain and Ireland, Belgium, France, Holland and Cuba, to which countries there is no change in the present minimum charge and word rates." The above changes were authorized by the cable companies of the world at a recent convention held in Madrid.

HOW DO THE NEW RATES AFFECT YOU?—No. 3

To the Editor of the Courier:—The Hydro Electric system of Digby, owned wholly and solely by the people of the County of Digby, has weathered the economic storm of the past two years, and the rates have been put into effect and this municipal-owned utility is on a new road in its history. It is the wish of every true citizen of this county that our hydro system grow and expand, to develop new business, to increase the revenue that pays the cost of the system, and to make the system a success in the future. I am fully convinced that the rates proposed for the year 1933 are a fair and reasonable one, and that they will be a great help to the system. I am fully convinced that the rates proposed for the year 1933 are a fair and reasonable one, and that they will be a great help to the system. I am fully convinced that the rates proposed for the year 1933 are a fair and reasonable one, and that they will be a great help to the system.

Between Ourselves

Spring is here — so is "spring fever!"

That may explain why I feel so blankly blank right now. Instead of thinking about the things I should be writing about, my mind is a-wandering "way off in the distance" some place—day dreaming of the old fishing holes I know and hankering for the day to come when I can steal off for a little time with a few of my pals to whip the streams and tell our little fairy tales about "the fish" I left behind me — you know what I'm like, if you don't ask any of the boys of Isack Walton—but, if I am going to get anything written, now I had better call my thoughts home from these fishin' holes.

But, speaking of fish and the like, I had a real honest-to-goodness taste of lobster the other day—the boss brought home a few of them from a trip down the Neck. While I think this nine inch lobster law is one of the best things that could happen to the local lobster fishers, we in Digby sure miss the "jinx" whatever they are called. It is almost impossible to get a lobster here in town outside the canned variety unless you go after them—the fishermen aren't catching the small ones and it appears as though they are of the opinion that the larger ones are too good for us folks. It's a wonder to me that somebody doesn't come to town and try to sell a few. Some of our boys are looking for the impression that we in Digby eat fish for breakfast, dinner and supper, and occasionally for dessert, but at this time of the year we have to import most of it, and to get a taste of Digby County lobsters one almost has to go to Boston or Montreal.

I wonder if they are ever going to do anything to the corner where the old Windfall building stood? The old building was bad enough, but not quite the eyesore as the cellar and debris that is left. If this were in another part of the town, it wouldn't matter much, but now it is the first glimpse of Digby to visitors arriving by train and gives rather a poor impression of our town.

It won't be long now before summer comes. Let us hope for the best and even if we are not looking for a big tourist season let's start getting busy now to do all we can to brighten up our town, by cleaning up and preparing flower beds. Digby's flowers attracted the attention of many of our American friends last year and we should hope that we will be even more so in the summer of 1933.

Commenting on my remarks of a couple of weeks ago, Ye Junior Ed. of the Liverpool Advance says:—"The inspiration for the heading 'Between Ourselves' was obtained from a movie magazine. The heading was our own and the title 'Ye Junior Ed.' together with the idea of conducting such a column was stolen from the Digby paper. Thank you, brother! We hope you like it."

So that's the way of it. I might mention that his sub-heading is "My View—Your View—Review" and I have half a notion to swipe it, so, "Friend Dav," don't be surprised if you see a carbon copy of your heading gracing my column one of these days. Although I am using the heading, "Between Ourselves," I seem to be hogging everything, so come along, folks, if you have anything on your mind, send it along and let me see what I can do for you.

It's too bad that more people did not know about the band concert on Easter Sunday, but, as it was, there was a fair turnout and everybody seemed greatly pleased. The Digby band, I understand, was just four months old last Sunday and it was a pleasant surprise to all of us that they were able to do as well as they did and there is little doubt, but what they have one of the best instructors to be had in Paul Yates, and that they are all co-operating with him through their practices to give him and the town a band to be proud of.

"DON'T USE A COLD TEAPOT."

Under this caption directions for the proper preparation of tea were recently published in an ad. by the blunders of Morse's Tea. A prominent hotel manager, on seeing the ad, took it out to the hotel kitchen and instructed the staff there to go by it in future. Another reader tells of overhearing three women discussing the ad and commenting on the virtues of Morse's Tea and how they had always preferred Morse's Tea to any others. Indeed, expressions of appreciation have been so general that no doubt any who missed seeing the ad, in question will be glad of the opportunity of reading the directions now, and here they are:

"The first step in the preparation of a delicious cup of tea is to get Morse's Tea, which is available in grades to suit every purse and every taste. Next step is to warm the teapot—preferably an earthenware teapot. Next, use water freshly taken from tap or well and freshly boiled—don't use water that has been standing or boiled before. After placing a teaspoonful of Morse's Tea, for every cup required, in the warmed teapot, pour on the freshly boiled water and let steep for six minutes—not over the heat, but set back on a part of the range that is still warm. Serve immediately, and if part of the liquor is not to be used, pour off into another receptacle. That's the way to make a cup of tea you'll truly enjoy."

Temperance
Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service Council and Temperance Alliance)

"Why all this chatter about the liquor business anyway?" So may we imagine a visitor from Mars saying after a tour of acquaintance around our little planet. And, when one thinks of it, there has never been such ado about the sale and use of bread or milk or meat or fruit or automobiles. But patriot and reformer, lawmaker and police officer, parent and preacher and politician have ever been hard pressed to find ways and means to fit the liquor business into our social order. Free men, license, prohibition and government sale have all been tried in an attempt to deal with it. Now, just why shouldn't the sale of liquor be as free as the sale of bread or milk or meat, regulated as these by the law of supply and demand? Why so much protest, so much agitation over this particular thing? With so much smoke there must be fire somewhere. "I take it," says the man from Mars, "there must be something wrong somewhere about the whole thing." "Perhaps the wrong is with human nature," suggests some loyal Earthman. "But," replies the inquiring visitor, "it is exactly the same human nature as buys and sells and uses bread and milk and meat. So why is it that liquor alone belongs to the thing itself, the alcoholic drink?"

The drinking of alcoholic liquor has always created a problem, even from the earliest times. We all know the story of Noah and his son Ham, the warnings and restrictions and condemnations of wine drinking that color the old testament literature. History tells of the wine drinking customs in ancient Egypt, and their baneful effects upon both men and women. An Emperor of China in 2245 B. C. saw the evil and banished a man who invented an alcoholic beverage from rice. And Chinese emperors since his day tried many drastic methods to hold the use of alcoholic liquors in leash. From government manufacture and sale to execution. Of the mighty Roman empire it is said that its foundations were laid on the basis of opposition to the use of intoxicating liquors, and that the collapse of that great civilization came with a reversal of its attitude. And then mind you, the drink that "swallowed up" this mighty empire in a deluge of drunkenness was not the harder distilled liquors of our day, but the so-called "pure, harmless, healthful wine" that is being recommended in Europe and America today as the drink that will lead the way to "true temperance."

What wonder if the visitor from Mars, gathering such information should go back to his home in the skies, warning his fellow-Martians never, never, never to have anything to do with alcoholic beverages of any kind!

Reminiscences, Etc. by Former Weymouthian

(By G.R.T.)

A friend has just sent me two old newspapers published in Weymouth. The Sissiboo Echo, of March 8, 1901, and Weymouth Free Press, of June 26, 1905. The latter contains a news item concerning the former, which reads as follows: "The Sissiboo Echo and L'Acadie printing plant was sold Wednesday (June 14, 1905) by Sheriff's Sale. Mr. J. C. Milne of this place, the mortgagee, was the purchaser."

I have no recollection of even seeing or hearing of the "Echo" before. The copy that I have is one of the first issues, being No. 9 of Vol. I. This number, in addition to many other items of interest, contains a very interesting article written by Mr. Thomas Milson describing conditions in general in Weymouth and nearby settlements in 1846 and later years. At the time that Mr. Milson wrote his reminiscences he was 89 years of age. He was born at Tiverton, Devonshire, England, March 24th, 1812. He came to Nova Scotia in 1846 and taught school in Weymouth for several years. His story is as follows: "To the Editor of the Sissiboo Echo: Perhaps some of your many readers may be interested in the personal account of this account of the social and commercial life in Weymouth more than 50 years ago.

In 1846 through the Revd J. M. Campbell, Rector of Granville, I was introduced to the Trustees of the school at Granville Ferry, Annapolis County, and was engaged by them to teach the children of that place. After which I went to Moose River, now called Clementsport and remained there over two years, but I found the number of pupils too large and the remuneration too small to remain there. I had some intention of seeking employment in the United States, but in the interim through the courtesy of the Revd Mr. Godfrey I had an interview with Bishop Inglis—who was then on a confirmation tour through the Province—who informed me that should he hear of any vacancy that would suit me, he would write. Not many days passed before I heard from his Lordship, who informed me that the school at Weymouth was vacant and I had better apply to the Trustees of said school who were Alpheus Jones and John Brown. After an exchange of letters I was engaged to take charge of said school. The school house adjoined St. Peter's Church yard. I found on arrival that the pupils were more advanced than those of the other schools I had met in other sections and I can truthfully say that they were the best behaved pupils I have ever met in the province. They gave me no trouble. The books used were Campbell's Spelling Book, Murray's Grammar, Goldsmith's Geography, few and far between at this period, so that the teacher had to cut the questions on the slates, which, when answered correctly, were copied in their ciphering books; this was the usual custom. As regards writing the copy books were of all sorts and sizes. The pupils had to rule the paper and write the head lines or copies, and before steel pens were introduced, had to make and mend all the pens that were used—no small job in a large school. As regards instructing the children, it was done individually, as blackboards were not then in use, and the school books, being of such a miscellaneous character, it was impossible to classify the pupils. While in this school, Mr. J. W. Dawson, of Pictou, school superintendent, lectured on a Saturday evening at the old Whipple school house, situated on a knoll near Swanson's Brook. Sunday night we walked as far as the school house on the Barrens, where the Rev. Chas. Randall was the preacher. On Monday morning he called at the school house, examined the scholars, and was satisfied with the result.

In 1851 Mr. Dawson wrote a hand-ful in the Geography and Natural History of the Province, also a treatise on "Agriculture for the Use of Farmers." Since that time he has been knighted and made president of McGill College, Montreal.

About that time I was awarded the prize (20 shillings) at the Provincial Exhibition in Halifax as being the best penman in the province. The fee at that time for tuition was ten shillings per quarter. Cash was not very plentiful, and the teacher had to take wood, meat, potatoes and turnips as part payment (and sometimes whole) as an equivalent for his services. The only money you could depend on was the provincial grant, from four pounds to seven pounds, ten shillings, every six months, apportioned out by the school commissioners, who met in May and November each year.

As regards the social conditions of society in the province, I must refer to his services. The only award the palm to the people of Granville Ferry, for the winter spent there, social gatherings were kept up Sunday except the last three weeks and to me the strangest part of the entertainment was, that about ten minutes before tea was

About that time I was awarded the prize (20 shillings) at the Provincial Exhibition in Halifax as being the best penman in the province. The fee at that time for tuition was ten shillings per quarter. Cash was not very plentiful, and the teacher had to take wood, meat, potatoes and turnips as part payment (and sometimes whole) as an equivalent for his services. The only money you could depend on was the provincial grant, from four pounds to seven pounds, ten shillings, every six months, apportioned out by the school commissioners, who met in May and November each year.

As regards the social conditions of society in the province, I must refer to his services. Not many days passed before I heard from his Lordship, who informed me that the school at Weymouth was vacant and I had better apply to the Trustees of said school who were Alpheus Jones and John Brown. After an exchange of letters I was engaged to take charge of said school. The school house adjoined St. Peter's Church yard. I found on arrival that the pupils were more advanced than those of the other schools I had met in other sections and I can truthfully say that they were the best behaved pupils I have ever met in the province. They gave me no trouble. The books used were Campbell's Spelling Book, Murray's Grammar, Goldsmith's Geography, few and far between at this period, so that the teacher had to cut the questions on the slates, which, when answered correctly, were copied in their ciphering books; this was the usual custom. As regards writing the copy books were of all sorts and sizes. The pupils had to rule the paper and write the head lines or copies, and before steel pens were introduced, had to make and mend all the pens that were used—no small job in a large school. As regards instructing the children, it was done individually, as blackboards were not then in use, and the school books, being of such a miscellaneous character, it was impossible to classify the pupils. While in this school, Mr. J. W. Dawson, of Pictou, school superintendent, lectured on a Saturday evening at the old Whipple school house, situated on a knoll near Swanson's Brook. Sunday night we walked as far as the school house on the Barrens, where the Rev. Chas. Randall was the preacher. On Monday morning he called at the school house, examined the scholars, and was satisfied with the result.

In 1851 Mr. Dawson wrote a hand-ful in the Geography and Natural History of the Province, also a treatise on "Agriculture for the Use of Farmers." Since that time he has been knighted and made president of McGill College, Montreal.

ready the host would come into the sitting room and invite guests into another apartment to partake of a glass or the "ardent" to give them an appetite.

In respect to the sociability of the people of Weymouth I have nothing to complain of, as I and my family have found them hospitable and kind but on the whole I do not think they are as sociable today as they were 40 or 50 years ago. Then the ladies would go out of an afternoon and make their sewing or knitting and enjoy a social cup of tea. I once heard a respectable lady say that if she wanted to do a good day's work in sewing she would go out and spend the day with a neighbor, but now (in 1901) the style is very different, you must only call on certain days, and then you call out with card case in hand, to call upon your neighbors and have a ten minute chat. Regarding the commercial life at this period (1850)—The only store in Weymouth was kept by Corne O. Jones, who was also postmaster. The mail from Halifax used to pass through here Sunday afternoon. At Weymouth Bridge on the northern side two stores were kept by Colin Campbell, Jr., and Charles Jones. On the southern side there were three stores kept by James Journey, William Payson and Edward Oakes. Charles Jones owned a school and Colin Campbell, Jr., two or three. A few years afterwards Wm. Hanksinson, Sr., built several large barques at Weymouth Point for Colin Campbell, who sent them to Glasgow laden with deals. The merchants used to import dry goods from St. John; flour and meal from the States; sugar and molasses from the West Indies. They exported fish, barrel staves, cordwood and lumber."

March 8, 1910.

Well folks, what do you think of the pay of school teachers back in the good old days of 1846, when teachers had to take firewood, meat and potatoes as part payment for their services? I wonder if they took their small change in the form of carrots, parsnips and onions? In spite of all that I am sure that some of Mr. Milson's students would have said that he did a mighty good job of teaching the youth of Weymouth in those old days. Mr. Milson had retired as a teacher long before my school days began but I remember seeing many samples of his perfect penmanship in the old school books, and the scroll work were beautiful examples of the penman's art.

Business and professional men of Weymouth as well as the railroad and steamship companies seem to have been liberal purchasers of advertising space in the "Echo." Approximately six columns of the paper were taken for local advertising.

Here are a few local news items of the March 8, 1901 issue: "The Mayor of Digby, was in town Monday."

Sheriff Smith, of Digby, was in town Tuesday.

Miss Nellie Paley arrived home from Boston Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Burdell are at present in Montreal.

Our genial Customs Officer, Mr. Forbes Jones is able to resume his regular duties after a severe attack of the grippe.

Mr. Hottinguer, who lately arrived from France, is visiting his friend and former companion in arms, Mr. Chas. Stiehl.

We are sorry to learn that two of our bright children are confined to their homes through illness, Master Rex McDonald and little Miss Agnes Comeau, daughter of E. S. Comeau Esq.

We are pleased to learn that Brigadier F. S. Oakes, son of B. L. Oakes, of Weymouth, who is at present stationed with the Royal Artillery Co. No. 1, at St. Lucia, W. I., has been promoted."

Getting back to 1933 again: I suppose that those of you who read that splendid newspaper, The Halifax Mail, know more about the earthquake in Southern California than I can possibly tell you. Long Beach suffered the greatest damage. That city had many old and poorly constructed buildings that were never intended to stand up under such a shaking. The new and modern steel frame buildings were not damaged to any extent. San Francisco, until recently, the home of California earthquakes, did not feel the slightest tremor from this latest quake.

Tourists will, perhaps, keep away from Long Beach for a while, but they will come back again as they have done at San Francisco and Santa Barbara. If you have never been through the excitement of an earthquake you can have no idea of how helpless those tremblers can make one feel. I have been through some of the minor shocks in California, but luckily have missed all of the severe ones. I came within a few hours of being in the San Franisco disaster, which was close enough, but being close does not count as a real earthquake experience.

Yo Ho! and a bottle of beer! That is what we are going to have after April 7th, instead of a bottle of pop or an ice cream soda, and on and after that day the U. S. A. will be back where it was in 1918, foamingly and frothingly speaking. A lot of barley and hop growers will be out, brewers and beer drinkers will go back to work and an equal number of ice cream makers and soft drink makers will join the unemployed.

The U. S. Government will receive considerable revenue that formerly went to bootleggers. Prohibition made bootleggers possible and Repeal is supposed to make them impossible. The old patriotic slogan: "Give till it hurts" is about to be blossomed two weeks ago. The hills changed to "Drink till it hurts." The new price is to be a dime per bottle and "Brother can you spare a dime" will now be heard oftener than ever. But here come the San Francisco brewers with the alarming news that there is only enough beer in the country to last six months. Well, the first six months are always the hardest. What an uproarious, jolly and glorious and surely bilious old time some folks are going to have getting their share of that green unaged beer.

We are still having our spring rains; the country is beautiful, peach trees are pink with blossoms, apricot and almond trees looking as if they had been covered with pop corn. "Give till it hurts" is about to be blossomed two weeks ago. The hills changed to "Drink till it hurts." The new price is to be a dime per bottle and "Brother can you spare a dime" will now be heard oftener than ever. BISHOP RICHARDSON IN OLD TRINITY, NEW YORK

The Right Rev. John A. Richardson, D. D., Bishop of Fredericton, was preaching at all the "noontime" services for business people in Old Trinity, New York, during Holy Week, and for the "Service of the Passion," 12 to 3 p.m., on Good Friday.

Bishop Richardson is well known in Nova Scotia, particularly in this section of the province, where he makes his summer home. A brief review of these marvelous services may, therefore, be of interest to Nova Scotians, many of whom it has been the good fortune of the writer to meet there, having been closely associated therewith for many years. Situated in the busiest downtown section of New York, this church is jammed to capacity at the busiest time of day, after day, by business people—all sorts and conditions of men. Ship captains, sailors, telegraph operators, bankers, brokers, stock-exchange messengers, in their grey uniforms, stenographers, Salvation Army girls in their grey and scarlet cloaks, dock laborers, "white collar" men, men without collars, old and young, men and women of every condition of life, who find it worth while to use fully forty-five minutes of their "one hour for lunch" daily, to attend these services, which begin on the stroke of noon, daily, and end at exactly 12.30. Ten minutes before the hour the church is practically empty. Five minutes later they begin to pour in, and in a few minutes the great church is filled to capacity. A few brief prayers, the Creed, two hymns, and a fifteen minute address. No choir. All singing, led by Channing Lefebvre at the great organ. I have travelled in many lands and have yet to see anything to equal it—even in London.

On Maundy Thursday (preceding this service) at 11 a.m., occurs a full choir Eucharist; all violet hangings being removed, the cross veiled in white, and the high altar a blaze of light, in vivid contrast to Good Friday, when the entire white alabaster rosettes and altar are draped in black, in the centre of which is set a large crucifix, with two tapers of yellow wax burning upon the altar. Nothing else visible. On Good Friday, the detail of police is stationed in front of the church, to assist in handling the vast throngs in addition to the fifteen men of the "Men's Committee," who are on duty for these services. An hour before the service every seat is filled, including extra benches and chairs, placed in every available space in transepts, side-chapel and choir; even the kneeling cushions at the altar rail are filled, until not one more can be seated—only what is recalled by a well known and charming resident of Halifax, whom it was my regretful duty to inform that standing only was all that was available—despite the strenuous efforts of fourteen of my colleagues. The crowds extend beyond the wide apse, and block the traffic in Broadway. No ingress or egress is permitted, except during the singing of the hymns. It is estimated that ten thousand persons pass through the church, from time to time, on Good Friday. The Easter services are magnificent, and the assistance of the police is again in requisition, for the pressure is very great and the aisles must be kept clear for "Solemn Procession," headed by the crucifer, bearing the beautiful golden Crucifix (bequeathed to Trinity), flanked by acolytes in their scarlet cassocks and bearing tapers, and followed by the gorgeous Trinity banner, and those of the golden guilds, while myriad lights gleam from the high altar, bedecked with flowers, which, later, are distributed to the sick poor of the surrounding tenement district, for, be it known, Trinity Church, today, is the church of the poor. No person, however humble in station, nor however far removed, is ever "lost sight of," nor forgotten, by Trinity.

MORE ABOUT THE BAND GRANT

To the Editor of the Courier.
Dear Sir:—Being confident that the COURIER would gladly correct any error appearing in its columns from whatever source, I trust you will give due prominence to the following plain statement. Two weeks ago you printed my request that we "Have the Truth About the Band Grant."

In the same issue, the following was printed: "The band grant of $33,729.86, which was much enjoyed by all. Friends here recently, has gone to Seal Island, Yarmouth Co., to spend a few weeks." "Schools Elinor S. Capt. Hicks, Westport; Grace Lee, Capt. Welsh, Halifax, were in port last week." "Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bailey and two daughters, of the United States, are visiting Mrs. Bailey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Perry." "Miss Pearl Outhouse is spending a few months at Smith's Cove." "Miss Alida Outhouse spent Easter with relatives at Central Grove."

Today we are thinking of someone who was loving, kind and true. Who smile was as bright as the sun. That someone, dear Mother, was you.
Sweet is the memory, dear to our hearts. The place that you hold there will never depart. And all through the years, be they many or few, Shall be filled with remembrance dear Mother, of you.
Always remembered by her family.
IN MEMORIAM—In loving memory of Ruth R. Trimmer who died April, 1930.
Sleep on dear Sister, and take thy rest. They miss you most, who loved you best.
—Lovingly your Sister, Mildred Pulley. 38-11c

WARMS AND PROPERTIES WANTED—During the past ten days I have had a number of requests for property, and practically all of them have been for a small farm, and Digby. Two Winnipeg men want small farms; a Lynn man wants a 1 or 2-acre lot on the south side of the road on which I live.

My own bungalow; another man wants a small house with not more than two acres of land; a Wellesley man wants a small farm, and two brothers in Digby County want a farm that will keep from 12 to 15 head of stock. But in every case I have been told that the price must be well down.—J. J. Wallis, Digby, N. S.

FOR SALE—That very desirable property on Queen Street owned by the C. J. Eldridge estate, and used as an annex to Lour Lodge; large living rooms, on three floors, with modern appointments. Was occupied for years as a double residence, and can be again used that way, or would make a summer hotel or all the year round boarding house.—Apply to J. J. Wallis, Digby.

Miss Grace Marshall, who spent the Easter holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Marshall, at Marshtown, has returned to her school at East Ferry.

TIVERTON

Rainbow Lodge, 113, I. O. O. F., celebrated their anniversary on Tuesday evening, April 18th, in the Oddfellows Hall. A three-act comedy, entitled "Aron Slick From Punkin City," was presented by the Tiverton players, after which a very nice supper was served. Following this a dance was held, which was much enjoyed by all.

PRETZEL

There was a time when sociologists called the pretzel reasoning that it would die like a trumper swan after its old home, the saloon, disappeared. But, far from passing away, the tough and crusty morsel sought more stately mansions and became good form, though it has never quite returned to such a high milieu as that in which it had its origin, the monastery.

The onomatopoeically snappy name is derived from the Latin pretiola, "a small reward." The bits of twisted dough got their name from the custom of priests to give little cakes to children who learned their prayers dutifully. Then one day a priest twisted the dough to resemble a child's arms folded in prayer, and no device but hands has ever reproduced that twist.

As long as there are pretzels so long our civilization will be saved from the utter dominance of the machine. Though they have taken oriental rugs from the hands of the Eastern weaver, sewing from seamstresses and telegraphy from the telegrapher, when it comes to that delicate deed that gives the pretzel its inimitable individuality every contraption known to science and invention stalls, for only the human hand can add the twist.

Inventors have spent their lives trying to perfect a pretzel-twisting machine without success, yet a champion animate pretzel-twister can complete about 60 a minute.

CANCER

Cancer now stands second in mortality. Every boy and girl who reaches the age of 10 years has one chance in 10 of dying from cancer.

These statistics, taken alone, are startling. They at once suggest a wide spread of this dread disease. But there is one factor in the situation that is frequently overlooked and which consequently leads to considerable misunderstanding and needless anxiety. That is the fact that as recently as 20 years ago mortality among the young was considerably higher than it is today.

Great advances have been made in eliminating the causes of early death. Antitoxin has removed the ravages of diphtheria, pure water and pasteurized milk have cut down the deaths from typhoid, there is a better understanding of infant feeding. Deaths from appendicitis, once common, are now comparatively rare. Other instances might be cited to show the marked progress of preventive medicine that has shifted the high mortality rate from the lower to the upper age brackets.

There was less cancer 20 or 30 years ago because fewer persons survived the ailments and diseases of youth and middle age to reach the time when man is most susceptible to the degenerative diseases, of which cancer is one.

WHERE OPPORTUNITY BECKONS

Some people are forever complaining that none of the big little opportunities come their way. They hear of a neighbor who got a real bargain in a used automobile and wonder why his chance had not been theirs. And when a neighbor shows them a bit of furniture or other household article he had picked up for a fraction of its real worth and they again wonder why others are favored over them.

Paradoxical though it seems, these men and women who covet the opportunities offered to and grasped by others could find the secret of the other fellows good fortune in the newspaper read by them both. That secret is the classified advertising columns. It is there that the golden opportunities are offered and found. The "want" page is the mecca for those who have golden opportunities to offer and for those who wisely hunt their "acres of diamonds" at home.

If the store with its show windows, glass cases, counters and open doors can not do business without newspaper advertisements, how can the seller and the buyer of the used article expect to "do business" without advertising? The "want ad" or classified advertisement is the show window and counter for the private citizen who has something to sell or wants to buy something the other citizen has.

INDEFATIGABLE

The public wants the news, and must have it, in the form of articles and descriptions and pictures. The greatest organization in the world—the press—is constantly bent upon the public service, and tropical heat of passion is all in the day's work. Fortitude in the line of duty is as well preserved in the race of newspaper photographers as it is in the reportorial group, which has given many examples of courage and intelligence and hardihood in the pursuit of a story.

King, look this way!" It was a newspaper photographer who said that, or something like that, when a royal personage wasn't taking exactly the right pose as he landed in the United States. Perhaps it was a queen to whom he addressed the command. Queen or King, it would have made no difference.

Newspaper reporters and photographers are constantly taking risks that the readers may have the news in their picture. If they are informal and abrupt, they are also indefatigable and brave. Courage is equally divided among the members of the fraternity.

NOVA SCOTIA'S TOURIST TRADE POSSIBILITIES. NO. 11

By Thomas F. Anderson.

This little sermonee in our soon-to-end series will deal with tourist trade, cindered chops, rancid butter, anemic coffee, incessant "canned Scotch" port, and inferior service and a few other things that have been suggested to me as among the pressing problems of the Nova Scotia tourist trade.

These articles have brought me many letters from readers (all of them commendatory thus far) and among them a red-hot epistle from a cultured and widely-travelled lady of my acquaintance who handles the good Quebec without gloves in the following language:

"Please mention in one of your articles the subject of cooking in Nova Scotia. I do not refer to that of the million-dollar hotel, but to ordinary wayside inns, tea-rooms, etc. As you know, I have been about a bit, but never have I known more meals than those cooked for sale in Nova Scotia. We went to Cape Breton last year. The meals were shockingly poor everywhere. A meal fit for a king can be produced anywhere in Nova Scotia by using meats, fish, berries, etc., in season. Although the nation is brought up on potatoes, how many times are these served just right? Usually a soggy, glutinous mass, not cooked, but rather overcooked bread. All kinds of muffins, rolls, but biscuits, blueberry muffins, etc., could be made to order, and sold (too lazy, of course), that are practically unknown on a menu. Hot gingerbread is delicious. I never met it in this land when buying a meal."

"Then there is the parsimony displayed in small portions, topped up with a standardized jelly. Why not let blackberry jelly, or grape jelly? Why not delicious clam chowder, or fish chowder (known here) fish chowder, Irish stew, etc. Seemingly, the last thing folks in Nova Scotia do when they open up a tea-room is to cook. They open up and buy bakers' stuff and what have you."

To go with this terrific blast, I might quote an article in a similar vein, published in a Halifax daily several weeks ago, in which this critic badly abuses the rate at the leading hotels of the Province there is hardly one place where food is served in which the traveller receives any attention.

ORANGE PEKOE BLEND

"FRESH FROM THE GARDENS"

Did you ever stop to think of the value of a good cup of tea?

During the warm season one likes to stop at a hotel that has installed a good cooling system, one can eat and sleep in comfort. It is warm outside as I write this, but delightfully cool and comfortable all over the Oklahoma Billmore Hotel at Oklahoma City, where I am stopping for the day.

No great accomplishment in life has ever been achieved by a pessimist. It has always been the optimist who has done his best things.

When business is lagging is the time to spend more money for advertising. Those business concerns who do so feel a depression much less than those who cut expenses by cutting down advertising.

A lot of cities nowadays act as though they believe in "saying it with flowers" instead of saying it with action.

Some men who are constantly throwing cold water on projects that mean better business often get into "not water."

The town that thinks it can get something without working for it is just dreaming, and so long as they keep dreaming just that long will they get no real development.

You should never forget the importance of the various industries that make your town possible and never lose an opportunity to encourage and assist them in their growth, for therein rests the success of your community and the welfare of all who live and work there.

The ever-changing conditions of civilization are a constant challenge to the resourcefulness of those in charge of industry.

Every citizen is an asset or a liability to his home town. Which are you?

WORSE THAN VERSE

Whatever trouble Adam had, no man in days of more could see when Adam told a joke, "I've heard that one before."

tention except of a most perfunctory sort. The travelling public, however, has no such attitude of a little courteous and expert attention for the stolid indifference and inefficiency which characterize the many of these places. This same writer also deplores the conspicuous absence of fish courses on the menu of the restaurants and tea-rooms and this in Nova Scotia of all places! (She very truthfully adds that the famous "shore dinner" of New East money is found in the Province, Nova Scotia, nor is there much greater effort made to popularize Nova Scotia's world-famous apples.)

A certain very popular hotel in western Nova Scotia that I am familiar with such as serving well-cooked scallops to its guests, but the chef never had heard of the virtues of tartar-sauce in relation thereto until I suggested it to him last summer. In another place (a small summer boarding-house) on a casual visit there I found that the butter served at dinner was considerably stronger than our new 3.2 percent beer; and the reason for this was that the thrifty landlord never had made it a practice to keep ice—and, of course, was entirely guiltless of an electric refrigerator.

It is not even possible to buy first-class fruit such as oranges, bananas and grape-fruit, in any but the very largest Nova Scotian communities, so that the luckless "summer boarder" does not even have this recourse.

In the capital city of Halifax there are always one or more restaurants or tea-rooms where good food, properly served, may be counted on, but while there last summer, I found that the service in the restaurant of a widely advertised hotel was about the poorest I had ever experienced.

No Canadian hostelry ever had a better or more bountiful cuisine, or more perfect service, than the old Halifax Hotel under the management of later. It compared with the best in New York and London. In descriptive articles written in the late M. F. Sweetser, in 1886, the following: "ices, pastry and confectionery were obtained at the shops on Barrington Street. The Hollis American beverages are compounded at the bar in the Halifax House" does not even have this recourse.

But this is a painful subject to pursue, even "just among ourselves." There seems to be a need for a "School of Culinary Composition" in Nova Scotia, organized and directed, of course, by women, for the higher education of the tourist-catering inhabitants of the Province in modern cooking and service!

"JESUS SETS NEW STANDARD OF LIVING"

Golden Text:—"As ye would that men should do to you, ye also do to them likewise."—John 6:31.

Lesson Passage:—Mark 10: 13-17.

To every man there openeth
A way, and ways, and a way,
And the high soul climbs the high way.

And the low soul gropes the low;
And in between, on the misty flats,
The rest drift to and fro,
But to every man there openeth
A high way and a low,
And every man decideth
The way his soul shall go.

—John Oxenham.

The Money Test, 17-20

In a discussion as to the distinguishing marks of a Christian, a man remarked: "My test of a Christian is his attitude to money." He meant that if a person has conquered the love of money, it is proof that he is thoroughly Christian. The man young man who came to Jesus had many good qualities. He was respectable. His outward conduct was commendable to all. He could say without fear of contradiction, that he had kept the commandments. More important still, he had genuine spiritual yearnings and aspirations. He knew that there was something before him and said: "Good Master, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?" Such a question, revealing such a spiritual desire, was a recommendation of this young man. The majority of people know this man's reputation, and hearing his question would have given him an unreserved certificate of character. But Jesus saw deeper. He knew that there was something holding the young man back. Jesus discerned the young man's dissatisfaction with himself. Respectable as he was, he could not stand this money test.

A Hard Demand, 21
Jesus had no dislike of the wealth as a class. He was occasionally the guest of the rich. Several of his parables indicated that he fully recognized the virtues of the rich. His heart immediately went forth in sympathy to this rich young man who came running to him. We are told that Jesus beholding him, loved him. Therefore, we may be sure that he was not of the class of the rich who had no sympathy with the poor. Jesus made of him. How then did he explain this strange demand? "One thing thou lackest, to sell whatsoever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come, take up thy cross, and follow me. He did not make this demand of all others. Apparently there was something in this young man's case. He was thinking too much of his possessions. As yet, the love of wealth had not completely quenched the spirit of the young man. He sought to discover the secret of eternal life. But Jesus saw that in a few years all such spiritual interest would be forgotten. The young man must at once make a clear and final choice between two ideals of life, if he were to live for the highest.

The Great Refusal, 22

Jesus invited this young man to follow him. He saw spiritual possibilities in him. It was a fateful choice for the young man and he decided with a firmness of will. Jesus, but he wanted to retain his wealth more than he wanted to follow Jesus. "He went away grieved; for he had great possessions." His dominant desire decided his choice. If he could have kept his wealth and followed Jesus, he would gladly have done so, but when the sharp alternative was presented to him, he chose his money bags and titles. Had he chosen differently, he might have ranked among the immortals. As it is, we do not even know his name. That the demand of the young man was not unreasonable is seen from the experience of the disciples. They left all and followed Jesus. They were not as wealthy as the young man was, but they gave up all they had. In the end, they were not disappointed. Their reward was not in the fame of being apostles, but in the fellowship with Jesus and understanding of his teachings. A similar choice is demanded of us. Shall we try to make the best of both worlds and make an attempt to serve both God and man?—a sheer impossibility according to Jesus. Or shall we place first things first and, above all else, seek the kingdom of God and his righteousness?

The Rich Man's Peril, 23-25
From this particular incident, Jesus drew a general principle. He said that it was hard for the rich to enter into the kingdom of God. The disciples expressed such a statement as the principle, modifying it somewhat: "How hard it is for them that trust in riches to enter into the kingdom of God!" The fault does not lie alone in having wealth, but in trusting in wealth. This does not make Christ's word very much less exacting, as those who have wealth are constantly exposed to the temptation to put their trust in their riches. Jesus proceeded to make his statement stronger than ever, phrasing it in picturesque Oriental fashion: "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God."

Why did Jesus speak so decisively about the perils of riches? He regarded all material blessings as good gifts from the fatherly God, but he knew how easy it was for riches to come between the soul and God. He knew that those who have wealth are constantly exposed to the temptation to put their trust in their riches. Jesus proceeded to make his statement stronger than ever, phrasing it in picturesque Oriental fashion: "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God."

Questions for Discussion:
1. What was it that the rich young man refused to give up?
2. Is it wrong for Christian people to seek to be prosperous?
3. Has post-war prosperity been a real blessing to the world?
4. Have people become more generous during the depression?
5. Would you be as religious as you are if you were rich?
6. Is there any relation between the poverty of Jesus and his lasting spiritual influence?

Temperance Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service Council and Temperance)

Do you know that there was a day when life insurance companies considered the total abstainer a precarious risk? Total abstinence is not a new thing. It has been practiced for centuries. In 1840 that one Robert Warner, a teetotaler, was denied a policy except at the advanced rate. Disgusted by this, he resolved to demonstrate the falsity of the basis on which it rested. Along with a man named Baker and another named Ellis he organized that very first United Kingdom Total Abstinence Life Association. In five years the death rate of policy-holders was only 7.8 per thousand, while the best record shown by the most prosperous of the older companies for the same period was 15 per thousand. In 1847 a general section was opened for moderate drinkers and the name of the company changed accordingly. In thirty-five years the ratio of accidents to deaths in the moderate drinkers section exceeded those in the total abstainers section by more than 35 percent.

It did not take long for the new discovery to tell all along the line of life insurance. In fifty years from the founding of this first total abstinence company the attitude was a right about face. And this was not because life insurance companies had started out on a temperance campaign, but simply because they were out to do a larger and a safer business. They had faced facts and learned from experience that the total abstainer from alcoholic beverages lived a longer and a healthier life.

So, in 1893, when the New York Voice sent out a questionnaire to all the life insurance companies of the United States, asking them: "Does your company, in considering applications for insurance, discriminate in any way against habitual users of intoxicating beverages?" all but four of the sixty-six companies replying gave an affirmative answer, and even these four stated that they looked into consideration the drinking habits of applicants, though they did not say how. This changed front in life insurance is but one of many life changes on many fronts, as we shall see. Don't let yourselves get panicky from any sensational "landslides" in the temperance field, but rather let us calmly consider the controlling force. We live in an age of discovery, and one of the most significant discoveries of our time is the essentially vicious effects of alcohol in any form upon the human body. Because of this discovery allies of the total abstinence cause are coming forward from every quarter. King Alcohol is being steadily pursued by vital forces that he cannot resist.

DESPAIR
A Story of Human Interest
A dozen helpless eyes despairingly watched that figure at the top window. What could any of these watchers do to avert the disaster? Nothing!
What they wondered, had driven the man to do this? Was it domestic trouble? His wife, they suspected, had nagged and nagged at him incessantly. Was it surprising that he had given way? He pushed the window open a little wider, and leaned out still farther.
There was a gasp of horror from below. There was no doubt about his intention now. "Don't be a fool, man!" somebody called up despairingly. But he gave no sign of having heard, and climbing out onto the window sill, he raised his arms. Evidently he had made up his mind, and was not to be stopped.
Thank heavens, the helpless watchers were all men. This was not the sort of scene a woman should

How to get to SLEEP
When you can't sleep, it's because your nerves won't let you. Don't waste time "counting sheep." Don't lose half your needed rest in reading. Take two tablets of Aspirin, drink a glass of water—and go to sleep.

This simple remedy is all that's needed to insure a night's rest. It's all you need to relieve a headache during the day—or to dispose of other pains. Get these Aspirin tablets and you will get immediate relief.
Aspirin dissolves immediately—gets to work without delay. This desirable speed is not dangerous; it does not depress the heart. Just be sure you get Aspirin tablets.

Between Ourselves

I doubt if anyone could be more pleased than I am over the action taken by the Digby Music Council regarding the grant voted at the March session of the Digby Town Council. Their action, I believe, will be heartily approved by the citizens of the town in general and will do away with the ill-feeling that has existed in some quarters. It was, I believe, the means of the band getting some assistance from the town when they are ready to give their concerts. SOUTH RANGE

(Held over from last week).
The W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. Harold Marshall on April 14th. Although the roads were bad the meeting was a success.

Mr. and Mrs. George White and children, of Kempt, spent the Easter holidays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Mallett.

Mrs. Harold Marshall, Mrs. Wm. Johnson, Verna Marshall and Clarence Hill motored to Southville one Sunday recently.

Mrs. Andrew Marshall, who has been on the sick list, is improving in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sabean and children, who have recently been built, Miss Esther Wagner, accompanied by Lawrence Sabean, were holiday guests at the home of Manley Wagner, of Danvers.

John J. Marshall was in Hill Grove on business one day recently. We are glad to welcome Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Torrie; also Mr. and Mrs. H. Reicker, who have returned to their respective cottages for the summer.

Miss Marguerite Marshall, who has been spending the Easter holidays at her home has returned to her school at Sissiboo.

Freepoint People Hold Enjoyable "Get Together"

Many former residents of Freepoint, Digby County, journeyed to the home of Mrs. Hilburne M. Crocker, in Cliftondale, Mass., on Sunday evening, April 23rd, for an informal hymn sing. In their characteristic hospitable manner, Mr. and Mrs. Crocker, with June and Joe, welcomed the guests to their home on Anawan Avenue, between seven and eight o'clock. Some of the friends had not seen each other since they lived in Freepoint, and much time was spent in social chat and reminiscence. However, it was not a talking contest but a real song feast, rivaling Seth Parker's hour, and it was not until after eleven o'clock that the guests reluctantly departed for their homes. Solos and duets were sung by Mrs. Crocker, Mr. Crocker and Mrs. Perry. Mrs. Crocker served refreshments before the gathering dispersed. Those present included:

Mr. and Mrs. Hilburne Crocker, Cliftondale; Grafton Crocker, Malden; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Campbell, Malden; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Perry and son, Paul, Cliftondale; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Prime, South Natick, Mass.; Mrs. Della M. Perry, West Lynn; Mrs. E. Haines, Somerville; Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Campbell, Somerville; Mr. and Mrs. J. Clyde Nunn, Everett; Mrs. Bert Crowell, Malden; Miss Haines, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Lindy Haines, Melrose; Mr. and Mrs. James Flett, Milton; Seth Prime, Freepoint, N. S.; Robert Prime, Pawtucket, R. I.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perry and daughter, Blanche, Mettapan; Mr. and Mrs. Walleit Perry, Mettapan.

Mrs. Howard Anderson has returned from Albanie, N. C., where she spent the winter with her daughter, Mrs. F. A. Bower and Rev. F. A. Bower.

IN MEMORIAM—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Alice P. Raymond, who departed this life May 15, 1932.

We mourn for one we dearly loved,
For one who could not save;
Beloved in life, mourned in death,
Remembered in the grave.

Her loving voice will never forget,
Though years may pass away;
The loss of her we sadly feel
As keen as that first day.

When all is still and silent,
And no one makes our eyes,
Our thoughts are in the silent grave
Where our dear one lies.

What happy years we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still;
But they have left an aching heart
The world can never fill.

—Sadly missed by husband and children. 39-11c

IN MEMORIAM—In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Lizzie R. Stanton, who passed away May 1st, 1928.

Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Thank my many friends for their help
Memory keeps her ever near us.
Though she died five years ago.

No one knows the silent heartaches,
No one knows those can tell
Who have lost their best and dearest
And have said the last farewell.

—Her daughters—Mrs. Reta and Hilma Trask, 641 Plymouth St., Holbrook, Mass. 39-11p

CARD OF THANKS—We wish to extend our sincere thanks to the many friends, relatives and neighbors who so kindly assisted either by sending floral offerings, words of sympathy or helped in any way in the recent loss of our daughter and sister, who passed away April 10th, 1933.—Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Dolron. 39-11p

Dr. W. C. Harris will address the 4-H and Junior Red Cross Clubs at the school this afternoon at 3 o'clock, on "The Government of Canada." "Grown-ups are welcome."

The Arbor Day programme and planting has been postponed to May 5th, at 2 p. m. Many of our club members and other public spirited citizens, with several teams, worked the school grounds in preparation for this event last Saturday and will complete the work this week.

Mr. L. A. DeWolfe will give a lecture slide lecture that evening at 8 o'clock. The public is invited.

The regular monthly club meeting will be held at 7 o'clock Friday evening, May 5th. It is expected that the school trustees, Inspector M. C. Foster, Miss Bertha Fraser, Helping Teacher and Mr. DeWolfe, superintendent of rural education, will be present and hold a round table discussion on school work.

The Digby Branch reports the Rev. M. R. Ewing will address the 4-H Club in their Vocational Guidance series of talks.

Rev. W. Mosher's talk on "Birds of Nova Scotia" was a great success and will be reported later.

A meeting of the Executive Committee was called Wednesday to determine action on several matters which came up since the last regular meeting, and which had to be reported in full at the Supper Meeting on May 5th.

The fire department was called out early Saturday afternoon to fight a small blaze on the roof of S. A. Kent's building at the corner of First Avenue and Sydney Street. The fire is supposed to have started from a spark from a passing locomotive. The damage was only slight.

C. H. Denton, of Rossaway, writes us that on the 22nd of this month a lamb was born to his flock which tipped the scales at a good weight of 16 lbs. "I have a lot of lambs hard to beat in quality, but for quantity Mr. Macdonald has me beat a mile," he says. The lamb referred to is a coal black ewe and will be known as "Madam Queen."

The Digby Neck "bus" is all ready for the road again, as Guy says, "with everything new but the driver" —no kick coming there, no "bus on Digby Neck would look quite right unless Guy was behind the wheel."

Mrs. T. J. Harris and Miss Margaret, left on Saturday for Saint John, and will return today in company with Miss Scott and Miss Whitman who have been spending the winter months at the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Graham and daughter, Kathleen, have returned from Halifax, where they spent the winter months, and have re-opened their home at the Racquette.

LITTLE RIVER

Special music and sermon in keeping with the great Easter message, enjoyed at the Baptist church in Little River, Sunday. A large congregation was present at the three services held. Miss Kathleen Denton presented two large bouquets, occupied both sides of the pulpit. Two candidates were baptized in the river at 2.30 o'clock, and a large number witnessed the service. This was followed by a service in the church at which the right hand of fellowship was given.

Sgt. C. J. Chute, confined to the house with the flu and wish him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Arthur Reed, of Halifax, is spending a few days with her father, Wm. B. Denton, who also returned home from Halifax a week ago, after spending the winter with his two daughters, Mrs. Fred Phalen and Mrs. A. Reed.

Miss Georgiana Denton spent the Easter holidays with her aunt, Mrs. H. M. Mullen, Weymouth, returning via Digby.

The Tiverton young folks presented at the play, "Aaron Slick from Pumpkin Creek," under the direction of Mrs. Outhouse, in the Hall, on Saturday evening.

Clifford Edwards, of Hill Grove, spent the Easter holidays with his sister, Mrs. Robert Denton.

Miss Kathleen Denton, of Cliftondale, has returned to her school, also Miss Leona Trask to Centreville; Miss Meredith Moushore to Lake Midway, and Miss Ruth Cheney to Waterford.

Miss Faye Denton spent a few days at Sandy Cove, recently.

Only two more days to run on your old number plates!

Mrs. L. B. Eldridge, who has been ill at her home is improving.

May Session of Municipal Council Opened Tuesday

The Municipal Council for the Municipality of Digby opened their day of this week with the Warden, J. Van Andrews, of North Range, in the chair. Other Council members present were J. F. Hillman, representing the Collierton district; H. M. Marshall, representing Brighton; Capt. E. B. FitzGerald, Weymouth North; E. F. Hankinson, Weymouth; Harry Chisholm, Bear River; William Woodman, Smith's Cove; H. W. Cossaboon, Centerville; Clarence Cornwall, Rosaway; F. H. Lent, Freeport; W. A. Pugh, Westport. Councillor Outhouse, of Tiverton, was not present.

In his opening address Warden Andrews spoke on the depressing conditions throughout the country and the outstanding features of the Municipality and urged that the Council devise some means for the collection of the same.

On Wednesday the Central Committee on Unemployment Direct Relief brought in their report. There was considerable discussion on the same.

Dr. W. C. Harris, of Barton, was appointed jail physician for the year.

In the matter of three sheep killed by dogs the sum of three dollars was allowed for each sheep. It was decided that three dollars was sufficient compensation.

Special constables were appointed by the Council to collect over dues now due the Municipality.

They were Lee Elliott, Maurice Benson and George Merritt, appointments to take effect immediately.

H. J. Campbell, superintendent of the Digby County Power Board, addressed the Council, explaining in detail the working of the new rates which have been granted by a recent decision of the Nova Scotia Board of Public Utilities.

William H. Langford, of Conaway, was up before the Council on Monday, May 1st, charged with unlawfully feeding swine upon garbage or swill, and was fined $5.00 where fed, without first having obtained special permission therefor in writing from the Veterinary Director-General, contrary to the provisions of the Animal Contagious Diseases Act and amendments thereto.

He was convicted of the offence charged and adjudged to pay a penalty of fifty dollars and costs, fine payable on or before the 23rd day of May, or in default one month in the common jail at Digby.

Information was laid against the accused by A. Baker, an officer of the Federal Department of Agriculture. Frank Jones, K.C., appeared for the crown; Langford was not defended by counsel.

Local & Personal

Mrs. C. F. McBride, who has been visiting Mrs. Fitch, of Malden, Mass., for the past month, returned to Digby on Friday of last week.

Mrs. Clarke and J. L. Peters returned on Tuesday after spending the winter months in Florida and other parts of the United States.

Robert C. Swim, of Yarmouth North, a former president of the Digby Academy, was elected president of the "Acadia Club," organized at Yarmouth recently.

Parker and O'Neill have taken over the fish business of Lent's Market. Read their advertisement in this week's issue.

E. A. Thornton, proprietor of the Mountain Gap Inn, Joggins Bridge, and Mrs. Thornton, who have been spending the winter at Lake Hamilton, Florida, returned to Joggins Bridge on Friday last.

The Yarmouth Herald says that Rev. Clyde W. Robbins, of Westport, Mass., will preach at Argyle, Yarmouth County during the nine Sundays of July and August. Mr. Robbins is a former pastor of the United Baptist Church, Digby.

Hospital Benefit Forty-Fives, May 16th. Save the date!

Corporal and Mrs. Joseph Hetherington and family returned from Halifax on Saturday where Corporal Hetherington has been taking an R. C. M. P. training course. Constable Roy Snow who has also been in training has returned, and is now a uniformed member of the force.

BAND NOTES

Next Thursday night is the night when everybody can judge for himself whether our Band is going to be a money-maker for the town, or only a money-loser for the boys who like to play. Anyhow it is a sure thing that the progress made by this group of boys in a little over four months is phenomenal, surpassing the highest hopes of its founders.

Three youthful soloists are booked for the concert—Joe Turnbull (age 10), Clarinet; Bobby Weir (age 12) and Billy Christie (age 13) Baritone horns.

This band is smarter than you. When you were just four months old you could only squall and cry. The same age this Band actually sings and plays—and mightily well, too.

Abundance of delicious homemade candy will be sold during the intermission, and several large boxes will contain a coupon, the lucky number winning a valuable prize donated for the purpose by Miss E. A. Forsythe.

Visitors are not wanted at rehearsals until after the concert, the band room being over-crowded. It has been suggested that after that date visitors should be admitted only upon the deposit of a coin, large or small, in the "Music Box."

SMITH'S COVE

(Held over from last week.)

Miss Lois Walker, of Digby, was the weekend guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McHugh.

Sorry to report Miss Mary E. Sullis still on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williams, of Halifax, were the over-night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer B. Weir, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Payson entertained a number of their friends at a social gathering at their home, evening last. A very enjoyable evening was spent during which delicious refreshments were served.

Mr. J. Albert Robbins, while visiting his daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Jackson, Deep Brook, was suddenly taken ill, suffering with a paralytic stroke.

Mrs. Dean Clayton and daughter, Helena, returned to Kingston on Tuesday last.

Charles Bragg, of North Range, is the weekend guest of William Potter for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Merry and two sons, Eugene and John, were the Easter guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Andrew Pearson, Greenview.

Miss Anderson, Health Nurse, of Annapolis Royal, called on the school one day last week.

J. J. Wallis is visiting the Islands in the interest of the Courier.

Hardy Bent is back at his old shoe-shining stand in front of the Courier office.

Please note that the V. O. N. will meet in the Town Hall, on May 9th, at 3 o'clock.

If you wish, your donations to the V. O. N. Rummage Sale will be called for, "Thurs."

H. C. Comeau has opened a cobbling shop in the store recently occupied by Charles Green.

Mrs. John Roy, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Armstrong, has returned to Bear River.

Miss Hilda Campbell, R. N., of Cambridge, Mass., has arrived at her home at the Raquette to attend her brother, Roy, who is very ill.

Walter J. O'Hearn, K. C., Judge of the County Court, and former Attorney-General of Nova Scotia, died at his home in Halifax, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Appleby and two children, of Middleton, were the weekend guests of Mrs. Jaber Appleby and Mr. and Mrs. E. Shaffner.

The regular monthly meeting of the executive of the Digby Children's Aid Society will be held at the Town Hall at four o'clock this afternoon.

"The Waigle of Kil' Kil" as Scotty McGinnis presents it is worth the price of Thursday's Concert—to say nothing of the musical novelties.

SUPREME COURT IN SESSION TUES. NEXT

Docket Said to Be the Longest in More than 20 Years

His Honor, Judge Graham will preside over one of the longest dockets to come before the Supreme Court at Digby in more than twenty years, during the Supreme Court sessions which open at the County House here on Tuesday of next week. The docket comprises eight criminal cases and six civil cases, as follows:

Criminal: The King vs. F. J. Willoughby, criminal libel; the King vs. Henry W. Cossaboon, breaking and entering; the King vs. W. L. Baker, writing threatening letters; the King vs. Donald Robichaud, common assault.

Civil: The King vs. The Royal Bank of Canada vs. J. A. Goodwin; The Royal Bank of Canada vs. Goodwin and Baker; open at the County House here on Tuesday of next week. The King vs. J. A. and Ella Goodwin; The Royal Bank of Canada vs. R. J. and Pearl Bartlett.

Civil: The King vs. Mary Holmes vs. Innocent and Phillip Comeau; John Flemming vs. Carl Miller.

Two manslaughter cases on the Criminal Docket: The case of the King vs. Joseph Alfred Hatfield, was reduced from murder by Stephen Rev. J. B. Blanchard, of Church Point. This case arose out of the alleged shooting of John Sedgwick, at the village of Digby, on the morning of November 4th, 1932, when Charles Holmes was killed by an auto truck alleged to have been driven by Phillip Comeau, of Concession.

URGENT STUDY OF MARITIME POSITION IN CONFEDERATION

"The problems of the Maritimes," said Dr. C. K. Ganong in his address to the Digby Kiwanis Club at the Monday Luncheon, can be put under three classifications. First, the problems of our own making; second, the problems which are the result of Confederation; and third, the problems which are a direct result of failure to meet the terms of the Confederation Pact.

The Maritime Confederation League, he said, "has nothing to do with politics. Its aim is to bring the people of the Maritimes together to seek a solution of the problems of Confederation and to foster a spirit of co-operation within the Maritimes."

"The Provincial debts," he said, "grow and continue to grow, they are not in sight." This he considered as one of the problems we have brought upon ourselves. We have not changed governments, but we have merely changed politicians.

For the sake of illustration he put it this way: "The voters of the Maritimes were Liberal and Conservative. These could always be depended upon to vote 'right.' The remaining 20% he called the 'dependent' vote—their vote depended upon which party they thought would give them the most.

The political party or politician who succeeded in getting 11% of this 'dependent' vote won at the polls. To win this vote meant promises, and to fulfill even a few of these promises meant added expenditure and more borrowing; bigger deficits, and a greater public debt. Elections are won, not through making friends, but by the party in power losing friends," he said.

Lumbering and fishing he classed as the two principal industries of the Maritimes. Both of these industries have gone down, the lumbering industry cannot return, he said, and must develop our agricultural industries in order to take its place. He claimed that we imported millions of dollars worth of agricultural products annually. We in the Maritimes must get together as a consuming public and pledge ourselves to support our Maritime Products and manufacturers.

In years gone by, he said, the exports of our commodities brought in enough to pay for our imports. We are not now, and are consequently are no longer able to maintain the standard of living by spending for imports the monies we received for exports.

In discussing the Confederation he said that there were three documents which should be carefully studied: "The London Agreement," "The British North America Act," and the "Railways Loan Act," which authorized the lending to Canada sums for financing the Intercolonial Railway which was the basic consideration for the Maritime Provinces coming into the Union. The Intercolonial Railway, he said, was given to Nova Scotia and New Brunswick to give our industries a fair chance in competition with Quebec and Ontario. This railway has not been operated according to the spirit of the agreement, and the Maritime Provinces cannot get into the Canadian Market on a competitive basis. In his opinion this problem is one to be handled by the Maritime Provinces of the Maritimes, and should they feel that the agreement cannot be lived up to under present conditions, they, as parties in the Confederation should demand an amendment that would be fair to the Maritime Provinces.

P. L. Anderson and daughter, Jean, motored to Wolfville on Sunday.

Dr. H. V. Kirkpatrick, of Halifax, will be at his office in Middleton for treatment of diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat, on Tuesday, May 16th, and Wednesday, May 17th. Glasses fitted.

WESTPORT MAN DROWNED

A sad drowning accident occurred at Westport on Friday last, when Captain Lawrence F. Brennan, while trying to pass through the inner gap at Seal Rock, Bear River, capsized his boat and was drowned. His boat was picked up bottom up off the Western Light, and the Westport fishing boats and towed to Freeport, where it is being held for salvage. Capt. Brennan had been residing in Westport several months and had just fitted up new gear for lobster fishing. He had been setting a load of traps and was on his way home when drowned. The wife is expected to arrive this week. The body has not been recovered.

Salvation Army Launches Self-Defence Effort

Monday of next week will see the Salvation Army in this town launch its Annual Self-Defence Effort. Hard times have brought more work for the Army and from every direction calls come which must be met.

In past years Digby's response to the Army's appeal has been a very good one. The Army's Self-Defence campaign this year is no better way for your money to reach the actual channel of need.

UNITED CHURCH OF CANADA

Sunday Services:—Digby, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday School and Bible Class at 12. Bay View, 3 p.m. Rev. J. B. Blanchard, of Bear River, will be the preacher for this day.

The May meeting of the Annapolis Presbytery was held in the United Church, Sandy Cove, on Tuesday afternoon and evening. There were twenty-one delegates present from Digby, Centerville, Middleton, Bridgetown, Annapolis Royal, Granville Ferry, Aylenford and Bear River. In the afternoon Rev. A. V. Byers, Field Secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, gave a brief report of his work. Delegates were elected to Conference, and the officers and chairmen of Committees of the Presbytery were appointed. Chairman—Rev. A. G. Penta, Aylenford; Secretary—Rev. A. I. Higgins, Middleton; Treasurer—Rev. M. R. Ewing, Weymouth. In the evening Mr. Robert Brainerd, of Annapolis, was licensed to preach. The speaker of the evening was Rev. Mr. Hamalson, of Bridgetown. The Presbytery was entertained by the ladies of Zion United Church at a lobster supper at the home of Capt. and Mrs. E. D. Morehouse.

The regular meeting of the Y. P. S. will be held on Tuesday evening, May 9th, at 7:30 p.m. in the hall of the Anti-Cant' Class in the hall on Friday evening at 8.

BARTON AND BRIGHTON

(Held over from last week.)

Mrs. Mary O'Neill has taken an apartment in the home of Mrs. Wilfrid Prime.

Mrs. Helen Robinson, of Boston, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Chas. Lamberston, at the Barton House.

James Tibbitts has been called to Boston through the death of a relative.

Edgar VanBlarcom, after a severe siege is now convalescent, sitting up a few hours each day.

Miss Estelle Brooks spent her Easter holiday in Middleton, visiting friends.

Mrs. Chas. Smith reports a very enjoyable visit in Boston.

The baseball club gave a Forty-fives and Krokinoale Party at the Union Hall Tuesday evening for the benefit of that sport. Lloyd Gault, of Smith and A. Worthylake were in charge. Delicious refreshments were served and the apparently inexhaustible supply of cakes with most delectable frostings filled even the fourteen-year-old boys to repletion.

Will Hold Annual Tournament at Digby

The Nova Scotia Golf Association will hold its annual tournament at Digby, where the Provincial Championship will be played over the Pines Golf Course. The tournament is scheduled for July 17-18-19. Golfers throughout the province are looking forward to a keen contest, the 18-hole course of the Pines Golf being rated as one of the finest in all Canada.

If everybody that reads this item will buy a concert ticket for next Thursday, it will help to make the $1,000 Band must raise this year.

ANNAPOLIS ROYAL

At this time of year, parts of the countryside are very dry and several early daphne, whose flowers appear earlier than the leaves, but the plant is seldom seen in cultivation. And many have tried to transplant it without success. Ernest A. Mills has been more successful however, and a hedge the length of the driveway and several individual plants in full bloom may be seen on his property on School Street. The daphne, sometimes called an "escaper" from the old French gardens, belongs to the Mezereum family, and one of the places it appears in greatest beauty is in the garden of the Pines Golf Course between Moschelle and Round Hill. — Halifax Chronicle. (This plant has been very profuse in the Pines in the past, and this year the fields it could be seen from the road-side. It is also quite plentiful in the vicinity of Clementsport and Clements. The bloom is pretty well gone from these plants now.)

Obituary

Mrs. William Robinson

The death occurred early yesterday morning in the Digby General Hospital of Beatrice, wife of William Robinson, Conway. The deceased, who was 32 years of age, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Simms, Digby, who survive. She is also survived by her husband and five children, Dorothy, Douglas, Wilma, William and Virginia, all at home. Funeral services will be held on Sunday afternoon at 1:30 with interment in the Smith's Cove Cemetery. Lieut. W. H. Turner will conduct the services. (Toronto papers please copy.)

HOW DO YOU PREPARE YOUR TEA?

The preparation of a delicious cup of tea is a simple enough matter, and using MORSE'S TEA can follow these directions faithfully and always depend upon having satisfactory results. MORSE'S TEAS, by the way, have been on the market for a long time. They are the product of a house that has specialized on tea longer than any other firm in Canada. When J. E. Morse opened up in business in 1870 he determined to deal in nothing but tea and to make quality the principal consideration. The one study of the firm ever since has been how to most surely satisfy the taste of Maritime tea drinkers, who constitute the most critical tea drinking public on this continent. How well the firm have succeeded in consistently following the principles laid down by Mr. Morse is shown in the fact that the prestige which MORSE'S TEAS have with Maritime tea drinkers is maintained at a time when so many blends are competing for consumer favor. MORSE'S TEAS are standard each in their respective price classes.

"It has been reported from a Liberal source," says a Provincial paper, "that A. S. Macmillan, M. L. A. for Digby and present leader of the Nova Scotia opposition in the Legislature, might be chosen as one of the Liberal candidates for Colchester in the forthcoming provincial election."

Edgar A. Guest, evening, United Church Hall, tonight. Admission 25 cents.

At one of the most enthusiastic shareholders' meetings of the Digby Golf Company Limited, held at the Town Hall last evening, it was definitely decided to open the course for the 1933 season. The course will be under the management of the President and maintenance will be superintended by Vernon Franklin, who kept the course in such splendid condition during the 1932 season.

The Digby Golf Company's nine-hole course overlooking the town is one of the best known in the Province and has been operating for a number of years.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:—

President—F. L. Anderson.

1st. Vice-President—F. B. Withersby.

2nd. Vice-President—Alfred Bodin.

Secretary—Fritz Dakin.

Treasurer—S. S. Aymar.

Greens Committee—W. E. Tupper, T. G. Lynch, Alfred Boden and F. B. Withersby.

FRASES GOLF CLUB BACKERS

To the Editor of the Courier, Dear Sir:—This morning's report that the Digby Golf Club has taken vigorous action and will keep the course open this summer is the most gratifying Digby news I have heard this season. Its special volume for the vision and public spirit of the men who back it without profit to themselves. They know, as I do, that your summer guests are largely golf enthusiasts who delight in the excellent condition and the beautiful location of your course, and who would cease coming to Digby were it not for the pleasure afforded by these convenient and attractive grounds.

I hope the widest publicity will be given to the fact that the rumored closing of the course is without foundation. This rumor has already acted as a deterrent to some of your prospective visitors, a rumor which, if true, might indicate that your delightful resort is on the down grade, and that impression would be grievously deplored by

Yours truly, —Visitor.

Digby, May, 1933.

With summer now far off, the Digby hotels are preparing for the summer tourist season. Although we have not had an opportunity to interview many of the hotel people, it appears as though the hotels in this section are looking forward to a fair season and it is expected that there will be as many visitors as last year at least.

"JESUS FACES THE CROSS"

Golden Text:—"And it came to pass, when the time was come that he should be received up, he steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem."—Luke 9:51.

Lesson Passage:—Mark 10:32-45.

"Small service is true service while it lasts: Of humblest friends, bright Creature! scorn not one; The Daisy, by the shadow that it casts, Protects the lingering dew drop from the Sun."

To a Child: Written in Her Album.—Wordsworth.

Foreseeing the Worst. 32-34.

Jesus was on his way to Jerusalem. Deep in thought he walked ahead of his disciples. In distance he was but a few feet away from them, but in moral purpose he was continents removed. The separation was not one of miles but of moods. Jesus knew full well the treatment awaiting him. His hero hour did not take him by surprise. It was an act of sublime courage when he steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem.

Forewarned is forearmed. Jesus shared with his disciples his predictions of his fate. He wished to give them opportunity also for mental and moral preparation. He would not allow his disciples to go to the Passover Feast thinking that it was an occasion for celebrating a great national festival; he deliberately announced to them what was going to happen to himself, foretelling that he was to be betrayed and killed. As the disciples saw the look upon the Saviour's face and heard his words they were amazed, and became afraid.

When Friends Disappoint. 34-40. While Jesus had been predicting his death, two of his disciples had scarcely listened; they were thinking of themselves and making plans for their advancement. James and John, the sons of Zebedee, came to Jesus and tried to lead him to pledge himself to grant their wish before he knew their request. He asked them graciously what they wanted, and they replied, asking that they might sit one on his left hand and one on his right hand in his glory. Peter all along had been the spokesman of the twelve, and it may be that the two brothers resented the prominence of Peter, and thought in this way to get ahead of him. This request of James and John showed how little they had grasped the teaching of the Master. For months he had been sharing his thoughts with them. They had heard his Sermon on the Mount, but their minds had not grasped the spirit of the Beatitudes.

Although two of his closest friends were grievously disappointing him, Jesus showed no anger. He was more concerned about them than for himself. He asked them if they could drink the cup of which he was to drink, he baptized with the baptism of suffering with which he was to be baptized. With unthinking self-assurance, they said that they could. Christ's cup was martyrdom, and at this time James and John were not equal to martyrdom. "No one knows how he will bear up under fire," in fairness to James and John, it must be said that they redeemed themselves afterwards. James was the first of the twelve to meet the martyr's death (Acts 12: 2); John, the last, according to some traditions. On the road to Jerusalem, however, they were thinking about thrones, while Jesus was thinking about a Cross.

Service Is Greatness. 40-44. When the disciples heard about the selfish ambition of James and John they were very angry. Their displeasure was not so much because James and John had failed to enter sympathetically into the mood of their Master, but because these two privileged disciples had thought to steal a march on the other ten. They had the decency not to quarrel in the presence of their Leader. Possibly he overheard their angry voices and he called them to him, and gave to them his great speech about service. Out of evil good may come. The ambitious request of the sons of Zebedee was the occasion of the most wonderful of your will be the chiefest, shall be servant of all."

Jesus said that personal ambition was a pagan ideal. The Gentile ruler sought lordship. They wanted place and power. He might also have said that the Jewish leaders were guilty of this same selfish ambition. The disciples themselves at times hoped that Jesus would be a great leader setting up a kingdom on earth, overthrowing the Roman Empire and making the Jewish people dominant. Jesus absolutely repudiated this Jewish ambition to conquer and rule the pagan world. His ideal was, "Greatest servant—greatest slave." As a student John R. Mott had the expectation of a successful career in law. One day the spirit of God spoke to him through this verse of scripture: "Seeketh thou great things for thyself? seek them not." From that day to this his life has been devoted to Christian service.

The Son of Man. 45. It was no empty assertion when Jesus said, "I am among you as one who serves." Christ's whole life was sacrificial. When he said that the way to greatness was through service, he was not talking idle theory. He had tried it out and was able to give this teaching as a personal testimony. What a contrast to the self-seeking of the disciples! Jesus is the Son of Man. He is representative or typical or ideal man. He came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life as a ransom for many. A ransom was the price paid to set a slave free. Christ was willing to give his life as a ransom to free people from their sins. He was willing to wash his disciples' feet to teach them the spirit of lowly service. Whether teaching by the wayside, healing in the sickroom, praying in the garden, or dying on the Cross, Christ thought not of himself, but of service to fellow-men, whom he loved and whom he asserted God supremely loved.

- Questions to Discuss:
- 1.—Why was Jesus so patient when his disciples were slow to understand?
 - 2.—Knowing that he faced certain death, why did Jesus go to Jerusalem?
 - 3.—In what ways is ambition legitimate for a Christian?
 - 4.—Would the ideal of service have become so popular of late, if it were not thought of as a means of profit?
 - 5.—How far do we judge people by ownership?
 - 6.—How did Christ minister to mankind?
 - 7.—What is the true goal of life? Why do we so often reject it?

OFF COLOUR? HOW IS YOUR LIVER?

Wake up your Liver Bile—Without Calomel

Your liver's a very small organ, but it certainly can get your digestive and eliminative organs out of kilter by refusing to pour out the daily two pints of liquid bile into your bowels. You work constantly toward such a condition by taking salt, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or cathartics. When they've done your bowels they're through—and you need a liver stimulant.

H. W. Archer, Editor of The Manchester (England) Evening News, says:

"Newspaper advertising gets home, but it does not stop there. It is the silent salesmanship that is always speaking for itself."

"Good business is said to advertise itself, but good advertising makes good business better."

"The man who tries to cut down his overheads by reducing his advertising is cutting the ground away from under his own feet."

"The secret of good business is not making a secret of it."

"Newspaper advertising began as an accident, but it has now become developed into a science and an art. Those who study it most carefully are those who discover the most direct approach to the pockets of the public."

"It is the most potent weapon for use in the war on depression because it reaches the man with money to spend when he has time to think about the best way to spend it."

"It extends the shop window beyond the sidewalk to the other side of the street."

"If newspaper advertisers ever want a patron saint of their own they should choose St. Simon Stylites, who was the first man to realize the publicity value of a position at the top of a column."

Temperance Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service Council and Temperance Alliance)

Haven't the Moncton Hawks done great in their tour across Canada, winning the Allen Cup as Canadian champions in hockey? Young Ted Green could hardly contain himself in his enthusiasm as he talked for a minute in their praise, all the while bubbling over with sheer delight. He is a bit of an athlete himself and a fair for long mile runs from the world of sport. He is a clean living chap too. I am sure a career awaits him in hockey or something else along that line—if he keeps straight.

The sport field today is a fair for clean living as never before. There was a day, not so long ago either, when it was associated with rather daring morals. Folks were not surprised, they were even forgiving, when they heard of a sporting team going a little "fast" when off the ice or campus. A little drinking was winked at as just the natural thing for such as they, yes, even an advantage to them. But things are changing here as elsewhere. The moral demands of life are higher today, and certainly we are doing everything on a more scientific basis, good enough sports to face facts and learn their lesson.

A United States sporting editor a few years ago sought the opinion of champion athletes as to the use of alcoholic liquors. He was told by swimmers, runners, weight lifters, and boxers that it is strictly essential during training to abstain from all alcoholic drinks, especially in contests demanding skill, endurance, quick decisions, and perfect vision. William T. Tilden, America's champion tennis player, says: "It is certain injury to touch alcoholic drink in any form during tournament play. Alcohol is a poison that affects the eye, the mind, and the wind, three essentials in tennis." Amos Alonzo Stagg, famous football coach, said before the American Senate Judicial Committee in 1926: "As a coach, I do not believe, and none of the coaches believe, in the use of alcoholic beverages. I was a member of the coaching staff of the Olympic team two years ago (1924) and that was one of the forbidden things when we went over to Paris. The men were not to drink anything except water—Now the American athletes stand at the top. The only ones that approximate us at all were the Finnish athletes, and they do not use liquor."

The athlete is, after all, just the average man developed on a finer model. He exhibits what everyone should aspire to possess. He attains to nothing in body or mind that is not needed for everyday living. The average man, sound health is an asset to every man, where is the walk in life in which well developed muscle, steady nerve, self-control, quick decision, or capacity for endurance do not count? If alcoholic liquors must be ruled out in order to attain these in the athlete, can any person give an honest and justifiable reason why they should not be ruled out everywhere? Even if we adopt no higher ethics than "the survival of the fittest" it is plain that the drinker of alcoholic beverages is steadily making himself unfit for survival in the world of sport or anywhere else. I have my eye on Ted Green, and I hope he will keep that wonderful body of his, and that fine mind it houses, fit for the useful tasks that surely await him.

FUNERAL SERVICE

C. C. NICHOLL—Weymouth, N.S.

After two years' study of the proper equipment necessary for a Digby Co. roads, we have modeled a Funeral Car that is adaptable to our roads at any time, practically similar to the cars used in the larger cities of United States and Canada, demanding instant recognition and traffic rights as a Funeral Car. Our Equipment is valued today at seven times its value eleven years ago, proving our rapid growth. We are constantly adding new equipment as it demonstrates its value to the public. We employ a man entirely soliciting patronage by the merits of our service. Prices are kept down to the minimum and our service the best, with transportation easily possible to and from any point in Nova Scotia.

CANADA—THE IDEAL VACATION LAND

A COUNTRY OF SCENIC CHARM AND OUTDOOR RECREATION

In recent years Canada has become one of the most popular playgrounds of the North American continent and millions of tourists visit this country annually, in search of recreation.

Canada possesses an extensive system of modern highways with good secondary roads linking together the main routes of travel. Excellent train services are in operation between the principal cities, while steamship lines connect lake and ocean ports. Every class of travel accommodation is available, from tourist camp to luxurious hotel. Our larger Canadian cities possess some of the finest hotels in the world and the majority of smaller cities and towns have modern establishments which cater to the travelling public.

Recreational Attractions Nearby
Within reasonable touring distance of the main centres of population, recreational attractions of outstanding merit are to be found. Lakes and rivers well stocked with fish, hunting areas of vast extent and camping grounds in their natural state are only a few of the many features which make the country a popular vacation land during all seasons of the year. An atmosphere of old France permeates Quebec and the Maritimes, while Ontario and the Western provinces have much to offer by way of historic sites and monuments.

Numerous Game Trails
For those who desire a vacation close to nature, a canoe trip is ideal and Canada's extensive system of rivers and lakes offers a limitless choice of route and type of trip. For the novice there are many trips close to civilization, which may be taken with comfort and perfect safety, while unexplored regions challenge the expert canoeist. Canoes and equipment may be rented and guides are available in practically all districts. Subject to the usual fire prevention regulations, the canoeist, camper, camera hunter or student of wild life, may come and go as he pleases throughout the country's vast forested areas.

Obituary

Mrs. Ben Ameriault

The death of Mrs. Ben Ameriault occurred at her home in Weymouth on Saturday morning. Deceased who was in the seventies, had been ill for several months. She was survived by four daughters: Mrs. Victor Bishop, of Montreal; Mrs. A. F. Comeau, Miss Minnie Ameriault, and Miss Alice Ameriault, all of Weymouth; and one son, Leonard, of Boston, all of whom were home at the time of her death. The funeral service was held at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, on Tuesday morning, Rev. Father Melanson, Parish Priest, officiating, with interment in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Randall MacDonald
The death of Randall MacDonald, of Burtonvale, occurred at his home on Friday. Deceased who was 91 years of age, had been in ill health for some time, and his death was not unexpected. He is survived by his wife and six children. One daughter, Mrs. E. F. Hankinson, of Weymouth; and five sons, Louis, Brooks, Charlie and Clifford, of Weymouth, and Fletcher in the West. The funeral service was held from his late home on Saturday afternoon, with interment in the old Tabernacle Baptist Cemetery, at Weymouth. Rev. James Neilson, Pastor of the Baptist Church, officiating.

Uriah Savary Smith

Uriah Savary Smith, aged 83 years and 10 months, passed away at his daughter's home, 32 David street, Springfield, Mass. April 22nd. He was the eldest son of the late John Smith and Diedamia Savary. He was born at Saint John, N. B., and went to Plympton when a small boy with his parents. He followed his father in the spar making business. He married Miss Alma Lewis in 1879. His wife passed away in 1884 leaving three small children, the youngest, Calvin Orwell following his mother in death in about three years. Soon after this he took up his residence in the United States living there up to the time of his death, and returning to Plympton only on short visits. He leaves two daughters and four grandchildren, Edna (Mrs. Ralph Mann), Louise (Mrs. L. A. Gaudet), and six sisters, Diedamia (Mrs. Frank Thomas) Ena (Mrs. Judson Reed), Ada May

Excellent Fishing

Canada's fishing waters, on account of their extent, and diversified nature, provide an exceptional range of sport for the angler. The game fish include: salmon, brook trout, lake trout, bass, muskellunge, pike, pickerel, grayling, steelhead and tuna. Intelligent protection, and constant restocking help to keep up the supply of fish in the popular districts, while in the more remote areas there are still plenty of virgin waters. The cost of fishing licenses, is moderate and the open seasons are long.

Golf and Tennis Popular

Canada is well supplied with golf courses and new ones are being built in every province. No city is without at least one golf club and most of the larger towns and popular summer resorts have courses. Tennis is also popular in all parts of the country.

Government Bureau Free Information Service

A number of specially prepared booklets on Canada's recreational attractions and automobile road maps indicating the main connecting highways between one province and another may be obtained free of charge by adults, from the National Development Bureau of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa. The Bureau also has on file information concerning practically all phases of recreation in Canada, which will be gladly provided, upon request. In order that the most complete information may be supplied it is desirable that applicants be as specific as possible as to the areas in which interested.

OLD LANDMARK IS RENOVATED

William Melanson is remodeling his residence, one of the oldest buildings in Church Point. It was erected around 1844 by his father, Mande Melanson and used as a hotel and relay station for the Mail Coach when mail and passengers were carried from Digby to Yarmouth in a four-in-hand.

Weymouth Team Wins Debate

Three young people representing the Young People's Society of the United Church, Weymouth, on Thursday evening of last week debated with three young people of the Grace United Church Young People's Society, Digby, on the following resolution: "Resolved: That a Union of the Maritime Provinces Within Confederation Would Be Beneficial from an Economic Standpoint." The Digby debaters taking the affirmative, and the Weymouth debaters the negative side of the question.

Representing Weymouth were G. E. Tingley, leader, Miss Mullen and Miss Kathleen FitzGerald. The Digby team was composed of J. Oakley Turnbull, leader; Ralph Wright and Florence Keen. Reginald Turnbull was chairman.

The judges, Rev. C. L. Blanchard, Bear River; F. Courtney Purdy, Digby; and E. G. Baker, Weymouth, gave their decision in favor of the Weymouth team.

The debate on Thursday night was the first of a series to be held between the Young People's Societies of Bear River, Annapolis Royal, Weymouth, Digby, Sandy Cove and Centreville.

Help the Salvation Army to Help Others

Between Ourselves

It looks almost as though our good friend, Thomas F. Anderson started something when he wrote the editorial which appeared in last week's "Courier." This fine article, No. 11 of his series, "Nova Scotia's Tourist Possibilities" also appeared in a number of other local weeklies, and to date we have read a few comments.

This (Monday) morning one of our local hotelmen called on me and he told his son and told me that he was sending us a letter in reply to it for this week's paper.

Still, we all know "Uncle Tom" here—we all know that he means well and we don't think that when he comes "down east" next summer he is going to "high hat" any of us because we cannot agree with him on everything. On the whole his series have been very helpful and instructive and have tended to show us many of the wonderful opportunities we are "passing up" as tourists resorts, and somehow I feel that he will welcome any criticisms that we or our readers have to offer. He is a regular guy, and there are few people who have the interests of this Bluenose Province as a vacation land so much at heart as this same Thomas F. Anderson.

Once again "daylight saving time" is here—some cities have already adopted it; others will be pushing their timepieces an hour ahead a little later on in the season. Personally I like this daylight saving idea, but as it has been in these parts for the past few years, it is a bloming nuisance, and with town running on daylight time; the next town on standard time—we don't know where we're at or how we're coming.

The publisher of a small town newspaper was trying to get the general store owner to advertise.

Merchant—"I've been in this town 30 years and every man, woman and child knows where I am and what I sell. I don't need to advertise."

Publisher—"Is that so? Tell me how long the Methodist Church has been here?"

Merchant—"Fifty years, I believe, why?"

Publisher—"Well, don't they still ring the bell every Sunday morning?"

We are glad to say that advertising is "picking up" with us and that the "Courier" is recognized as one of the best advertising mediums in Western Nova Scotia. However, there are some who seem to feel that reading matter is being sacrificed for advertising. This is not the case, for most of the Courier is now being set in smaller type which makes about 45 more lines to the column—and more words on a line.

Everybody for miles around is sympathizing with Ralph Dunn of Lansdowne. Mr. Dunn lost his barn and all his farming equipment including live stock by fire last Thursday morning. Ralph is one of the most likable chaps we know, a hard worker and a good worker, and I feel that my readers will like to have me tell him in this way how sorry we all are over his misfortune. We all hope that he will soon be able to gather his material together for a bigger and a better start.

—Ye Junior Ed.

ANOTHER $1,000 OFFERED FOR NAMES IN CAKE CONTEST

Winners in March Magic Mystery Cake Contest Are Announced

First Prize Won by Drumbo Woman Who Chose "Mosaic Leaf Cake"

The judging of another Magic Mystery Cake Contest has been completed and a few days and checks totalling one thousand dollars were mailed by the makers of Magic Baking Powder to the lucky contestants whose suggested names, for the March Magic Mystery Cake originally by Miss Lillian Loughton, found favor with the judging committee. "Mosaic Leaf Cake," the name submitted by Mrs. Wm. Harner of Drumbo, Ontario, won first prize of $250. Second prize of $100 was awarded to Mrs. A. D. Davis, Sherbrooke, P.Q., while Mrs. O. V. Thada, Havard, Sask., was the winner of third prize $50. Sixty additional prizes of $10 each were sent to other contestants. Contestants from all parts of the Dominion with every Province having a generous representation in the list of prize-winners. Entries in the April Magic Mystery Cake Contest are now being judged. Meanwhile on page five of this week's paper the announcement of the fifth Magic Mystery Cake recipe appears, together with full details of the contest. This month's cake contest was very popular and no doubt Digby will have its fair share of entries in this widely discussed contest sponsored by the makers of Magic Baking Powder. The contest is open to everyone, it costs nothing to enter and the prizes totalling $1,000 are well worth winning. In these times. Turn to page five now and read the recipe contest rules. Yours may be the lucky entry to win the $250 first prize, or one of the other 60 cash prizes offered for naming the May Magic Mystery Cake.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AT HILL GROVE

The annual R. E. C. Sunday School Convention of the Bear River—Digby district was held in the Hill Grove Baptist Church on Friday afternoon and evening of last week. At the afternoon session reports from the various Sunday Schools of the District were given by the delegates present, and the Maritime Secretary, Rev. Alexander Gibson delivered an address on the importance of Sunday School work.

Mrs. Dean Clayton, who has served the convention for many years, tendered her resignation by letter, she having moved to another district. A nominating committee was appointed to nominate the officers for the ensuing year. They brought in their report as follows at the evening session:

President—J. Vian Andrews, of North Range.
Vice-President—Rev. Stanley Steeves, Bear River.

Secretary—Treasurer—Robert Smith, Smith's Cove.

Children's Work Superintendent—Miss A. L. Jagger, Smith's Cove. All the officers were duly elected on motion by the convention. Regret was expressed on the resignation of Mrs. Clayton and the new secretary was instructed to send her a letter of appreciation for her services in the past.

Rev. Mr. Gibson delivered an address in the evening on the methods of teaching in Sunday School Class, dwelling chiefly on the methods of dealing with the different ages of scholars, the importance of well prepared lessons by the teachers, and of teacher-training classes. He also stressed the need of greater cooperation between the church and the Sunday School.

A REPLY TO T. F. ANDERSON'S LETTER

To the Editor of the Courier.
Sir—In your issue of Friday, 28th, inst., there appeared an article entitled "Nova Scotia's Tourist Trade Possibilities, No. 11" by Thos. F. Anderson which noted two letters re. conditions in Nova Scotia Hotels and houses catering for Tourist trade. I was surprised that you had no editorial on this article when you are doing your best for the development of this business and the building up of Digby as a great summer resort.

While it may be true that there are some places where conditions exist as described, it is far from true and it is unfair to base the whole province for the guilty ones. The writers of those two letters have been most unfortunate in the places they did not come to some of our summer colonies in Western Nova Scotia, where there is an abundant supply of healthy food, well cooked, well served; vegetables fresh from the gardens, fish fresh from the waters, berries from the field or garden. Courteous treatment. These things are evidenced by the yearly return of cultured educated people, who will read with surprise the letters quoted in your article. We trust that the writers of these letters may yet find a place in our Fair Province where they will get satisfaction and be at peace.

If these conditions with the names of the offending parties had been forwarded to the Tourist Bureaus in Nova Scotia listing them, instead of broadcasting them in the press, I feel more good would be accomplished. However, Nova Scotia offers a cordial welcome to the Tourist and an abundant supply of clean, healthy appetizing food cooked to a turn and well served. It cannot be expected to get in our country summer places what one gets at the large Italian and French Resorts; neither does one pay the same. We may conclude by saying: Come to Nova Scotia this 1933 with your hearts filled with a love of the great open spaces, a sympathetic feeling for your fellow man, and your visit will mean HAPPINESS LONG REMEMBERED.

—Summer Resort in Western Nova Scotia.

Obituary

Mrs. Gifford Haynes

A very sad funeral took place at Port Wade, Monday noon, after the arrival of ferry boat, "Port Wade," when the remains of Mrs. Mary A. wife of Gifford Haynes, of Saint John, were conveyed there and interred in the United Baptist cemetery. The service was conducted by the Rev. J. A. Corbett, of Annapolis Royal. Accompanying the remains were her husband and son, George, of Saint John; an elder son, Harry, of Trenton, N. J.; her daughter, Mrs. (Capt.) Chas. Hilton, of New York; Vernon Cooper, son-in-law, from Saint John, and Mr. and Mrs. George Haynes, Sr., of Digby. The family returned via the Princess Helene on the same afternoon. Mrs. Haynes, with her family, has spent many summers at Port Wade, and was highly esteemed by a large circle of friends. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

PARKER'S COVE

(Held over from last week.)
We are having very cold backward weather for springtime, making it very hard for the farmers, who are tilling and seeding the land at present.

Mrs. Hiram Young and two boys, of Belle Isle, were guests of Mrs. Young's sister, Mrs. W. H. Anderson and Mr. Anderson last week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Weir and family and Mr. and Mrs. John Halliday motored to Clementsport on Sunday. Mrs. Wilfred Weir accompanied them on their return.

Thomas and Frank Milner were at Bridgetown on a business trip on Monday.

Stewart Saunders, of Belle Isle, recently visited his friend, Boyd Robinson.

Earl Forcey and son, Junior, of Annapolis Royal, were guests of Mrs. Gertrude Halliday, on April 24th. Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Milner were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hudson, of Hillsburn; Mrs. Wilfred Gregory, of Litchfield, and Harry Longmire and daughter, Margaret, of Delap's Cove.

Judson Hudson, of Port Wade, was a guest of his friend, Claude E. Milner on the 23rd.

Miss Annie Milner, of Annapolis Royal, was a guest of Mrs. Sybil Genser over the week-end.

WESTPORT

Miss Mae Lent and friend spent the week-end at her home here.

FRIDAY, MAY 5, 1933

HELP OF ALL NEEDED

Every citizen interested in the future of Digby dreams of the time when it will be a bigger and better community. He wants it to have more fine homes, more factories, more stores and more beautiful public buildings.

These are commendable hopes but they accomplish little or nothing unless they inspire efforts aimed at fulfillment. Castles in the air are beautiful to dream about but a "dream city" is not what progressive citizens have in mind.

To make Digby a bigger and better town its people must do something besides dream about it. The booster must do more than talk about the wonders of his home town, and others must do more than talk about co-operation.

A community grows when the great body of its citizens concentrate their mental and physical efforts and financial resources on this one idea of making it grow in size and prosperity.

There is a need for outside talent and capital, but Digby has not begun to tap its own resources in individual talent and capital. Men and money can be found to make existing business enterprises larger and sounder and to exploit as yet untapped natural resources and advantages of the community.

Home enterprises, home talent and ability, and home investment are the soundest and most lasting foundations upon which substantial growth of the town depends.

Build Digby by encouraging home industry, by praising and patronizing home business, by promoting real estate development, by improving employment conditions at home, by investing capital here.

THE MAN HIMSELF

Complex adjustments in statecraft and the mutations of world politics prove again and again that the processes of social evolution, though deliberate, are not impersonal. Again and again there is a crisis which demands a man, and a leader of men.

'Till he comes upon the scene there is confusion; among the leadership there is groping and speculation and an eager quest of light.

All the soulless machinery that has been put into the world, the fleets and armaments, the re-enforced concrete of tremendous buildings, the mileage of railways, the colossal steamships, cannot dispense with the force of mortal and human control. Steel cannot replace flesh and blood nor electricity function in the place of nerves nor any automation supplant the mind. That is why it is a mistake to impress on men and women their inconsequence in the universal scheme and to tell them that they do not matter; that they might as well not be; that there are so many persons upon earth and we are small and inconspicuous when we and our world are measured against the stars.

Each of us, in his own place, at his own work, does more than report for a duty and fulfill a routine and collect the rewards of his performance according to its quality. Each has a responsibility to all the rest, and the others depend on him even as he looks to them in turn to play their part. It is a democratic age and the public holds the only absolute sovereignty there is. But that rule is a composite of what we severally and individually are.

GOOD OLD SUMMER

What is the best season of the year? Summer, to most people—though the other seasons, especially spring, have their charms. And the older you get, the more you will like summer, the more you will dread winter.

Spring corresponds to our babyhood. It is the sprouting season, full of hope, dreams, uncertainty, danger of frost.

Autumn is like the waning years of life, when we harvest as we have sown, when we suffer for our negligence and mistakes and are rewarded for our effort. Most of us, when we look backward in the autumn of life, say: "If I only had my life to live over again..."

Winter, of course, corresponds to human death, the hibernating of old growth until new growth is ready to sprout and bud.

All three of these seasons are preparatory to or the aftermath of summer. And summer is the period of LIFE—of accomplishment—symbolic of the lives we are living. Lucky are you who have survived the frosts of life's springtime. Your crop of success is started. Toil and weep, for autumn of life will be upon you before you are aware. For results, it's now or never.

Another way to reduce is to worry too much about business.

When you want to have fun get a crowd to telling their middle names.

Report of Biological Board

Re. Watering Scallops

A few weeks ago the "Courier" published a short paragraph relating to the alleged watering of scallops by local fishermen. At the time we stated that samples had been forwarded to the Biological Board at Ottawa to be analyzed. We are publishing herewith a copy of the summarized report as received by the local fisheries office, which should be of interest to all fishermen engaged in the scallop industry.

April 20th, 1933.
D. H. Sutherland, Esq.,
Chief Supervisor of Fisheries,
Dept. of Fisheries,
Halifax, N. S.

With reference to the analysis of scallop muscles, I am giving you herewith a summarized report.

Three lots of suspicious muscles were received, and these were compared with fresh unshelled scallops.

The determination of moisture contents of the shelled scallops gave the following results:

Lot No. 1—1st determination, 86.5%; 2nd determination, 86.4%; Average, 86.5%. Lot No. 2—1st determination, 84.9%; 2nd determination, 84.8%; Average, 84.85%. Lot No. 3—1st determination, 83.2%; 2nd determination, 80.0%; Average, 81.6%.

Six of the fresh unshelled scallops were taken and the muscle divided into equal halves. One half of each was used for a moisture determination with the following results:

No. 1 79% water
No. 2 79% "
No. 3 79% "
No. 4 79% "
No. 5 79% "
No. 6 78% "
Average 78.3%

It seems clear then that there was a higher water content in the suspicious samples than in the fresh scallops. This might be caused by soaking in either fresh or low concentration salt brines.

Dr. Beatty took the other half of the fresh scallops referred to above and soaked them for 14 hours in fresh water. The increase in weight produced varied from 54.4% to 78.5%, and on determining the moisture content of these specimens soaked in the laboratory, they were found to vary from 87.7% to 91.2%, with an average at 89.5%. The greater increase in this case is probably due to the prolonged soaking of small pieces of muscle in a comparatively large volume of water.

Apart from the increase in weight which soaking produces through the absorption of water by the muscle, there is another action which detracts from the food value of the soaked scallops. There was a protein loss amounting to from 11 to 19% of the original content. Possibly this loss is not entirely protein. The muscle contains some carbohydrate and fat, and no attempt was made to determine whether carbohydrate were lost as well as protein.

Yours very truly,

MEN'S CLUB PRESENTS MINSTREL SHOW

A large audience greeted the performance of the Minstrel Show, put on in the Community Theatre, Weymouth, Saturday evening, May 22, by members of the Men's Club of the Anglican Church. The star performer of the evening was Fletcher Bartlett.

The programme consisted of choruses by the cast, including "Old Black Joe," "Golden Slippers," "The Black and White," and "The Prisoner's Song." The latter having solo parts taken by Fletcher Bartlett, Andrew Elliott, John Dunkley and the Gilden Campbell. Songs were "Who Put on Airs"—Andrew Elliott; "Hey, Young Fellow"—Donald Barkhouse; "Chick- Chick- Chick"—Fletcher Bartlett; and "I Don't Work for a Living"—Edward Jaycock. Jokes by the end men and members of the cast, A. Skit, "Love and Ner," "Foolish Facts," Fletcher Bartlett and Andrew Elliott. A large number of local hits were introduced which brought forth considerable laughter.

Music was furnished by the Weymouth Orchestra between the acts, and before the beginning of the show. Those playing in the orchestra were: Miss Elizabeth Brooks, Miss Phyllis Journey, Mrs. S. L. Killam, Miss Pauline Blackadar, Miss Mabel Sabin and Messrs. A. H. Brooks, Robert Brooks, Ernest Brooks and Freddie Kilham.

Those taking part in the show were: Capt. R. D. Barkhouse, and Messrs. John Dunkley, Clare Ruggles, Jack Walker, Andrew Elliott, Gilden Campbell, George Taylor, Edward Jaycock, Baden Powell H. B. Grant, N. L. Ruggles, Fletcher Bartlett, Rev. L. W. Mosher, R. S. Hallett, (Interlocutor), and Donald Barkhouse (Mascot).

"I'm going over to comfort Mrs. Brown," said Mrs. Jackson to her daughter, Mary. "Mr. Brown hanged himself in the attic last night."

"Oh, Mother, don't go! You know you always say the wrong thing."

"Yes, I'm going, Mary. I'll just talk about the weather. That's a safe enough subject."

Mrs. Jackson went on her visit of condolence.

"We have had rainy weather, haven't we, Mrs. Brown?"

"Yes," replied the widow. "I haven't been able to get the week's wash dried."

"Oh," said Mrs. Jackson, "I shouldn't think you would have any trouble. You have such a nice attic to hang things in."

WEYMOUTH A. A. HOLDS MEETING

A meeting of the Weymouth Amateur Athletic Association was held in the Armouries on Saturday evening, April 15th, with a good attendance of active members. The following committee was appointed to see after clearing up the field and setting it in condition for playing upon: F. B. Brooks, James Halliwell, Herbert Tocker, William Comau, Jr., and Clarence Gaudet, while a committee consisting of Clarence Gaudet, R. S. Hallett, Baden Powell, Cleveland Burke and J. A. Batt was appointed to make arrangements for the annual May 24th Field Day, also for all entertainments for the season.

The treasurer's report showed a small credit balance in the bank. It was decided that the team should take out membership with the M. F. B. A. U. of Canada; also that it should join the Digby County League for the 1933 season.

The following officers were appointed: President—R. S. Hallett. Vice-President—James Halliwell. Secretary-Treasurer—R. B. Brooks. Auditors—J. A. Batt and P. E. Filleul.

The work has already been commenced upon the field and is progressing favourably.

A young woman who went to a certain college to get her degree of doctor of philosophy, married her professor in the middle of her second year. When she announced her engagement one of her friends said: "But Edith, I thought you came up here to get your Ph.D." "So I did," replied Edith, "but I had no idea I would get him so soon."

A FEW RULES FOR THE MOTORIST

- 1.—Watch children—slow down! Sound horn!
- 2.—Look out for pedestrians near street crossings.
- 3.—Read and observe all warning signs, especially at railway crossings.
- 4.—Do not stop or park on highway, especially on curves, or near the crest of a hill.
- 5.—Keep your car in good mechanical condition, especially brakes, steering, tires, light and horn. Repair immediately even slight defects. Have your car inspected at least twice a year.

Common Sense

- 1.—Do not dawdle along middle of road. Give all faster moving traffic right of way.
- 2.—Do not speed up when overtaken by faster moving traffic.
- 3.—Do not cut in closely ahead of the car you have just passed.
- 4.—Be considerate of all others on the highways. Don't be mean or obstinate.
- 5.—Be considerate of your passengers. In the event of a crash, they almost invariably receive more serious injuries than the driver.

Common Sense

- 1.—Drive at speeds in keeping with safety of others and with your experience as a driver—never fast in crowded traffic or on curves or bad roads.
- 2.—Keep on the right side of the road except when passing.
- 3.—Never pass on blind curves or when nearing crest of hill. Always be sure there is ample time and space.
- 4.—Obey all traffic signals; stop at red light; stop at stop signs; stop at through streets and highways; stop at all intersections slowly and only when way is clear.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Get Down Your Fishing Tackle.

The season for trout fishing is now at hand and favorite rods, along with tackle, are being taken out of the moth balls and given the "once over" with the golf clubs. The streams are running free and salmon and trout will be lying in wait for the angler. The province of New Brunswick has a seven-day family fishing license which proved popular with tourists last year and it is expected that it will continue to prove an attraction during the season of 1933. Nova Scotia is all lined up waiting for the first rush of sportsmen and there will be no dearth of good salmon and trout fishing as runs have been exceptional.

Reminiscences and a Few Other Things

"Sweet April showers
Do bring Mayflowers."

That is what those selfsame showers did years ago and the April rains also brought running brooks and muddy roads, over which the pedestrian had to carefully pick his way or get mired in the mud. And if he did not carry a kerosene lantern on those dark rainy nights he would have a terrible time getting anywhere. The roads were no better, I hope. No more going into the hubs and being pried out with a fence rail, at least not along the main highway. The automobile certainly boosted good highway building, but at the same time just about put an end to railroad building, for no longer do we hear the rattle and banging of work trains throughout the land or the clanging of bells being unloaded from flat cars and spoked into place by gangs of husky hammer swingers who swung swift and hard and sure, never missing a stroke as they drove their spikes deep into the old hick-matack ties, holding the rail in place with a firmness that would last for many a day and the pounding of locomotive and train of any size or weight. There are still some of those old trackmen left, but they are men and no longer lay track at the "front" for a thing of the past in railroad parlance. In another fifty years I wonder if there will be any railroads in the country at all. Roadways turned into highways, tracks and engines sold for junk, passenger and sleeping cars dismantled and sold for roadside lunch rooms, and Union Stations turned into hotels and garages. What a prospect! But one of the possibilities of the none too distant future. And what has all this to do with April showers and Mayflowers? You can search me. I stand out in a rain storm and ended up in a brain storm.

But in Nova Scotia it surely rains in April, as of yore, and will no doubt continue to do so as long as the month of April rolls around regardless of whether people roll hither and yon over concrete highways in automobiles or along shining rails of steel in Pullman Palace Cars. And how about the Mayflowers? Isn't it time for the early mayflower hunters to be searching the pastures and the fields back of the old Mickey Montague farm for those beautiful little pink and white and fragrant blossoms, so dear to the heart of Nova Scotia? The delicately tinted orchid, the glorious rose and the gorgeous but rather pompous dahlia may hold aloft with smug complacency and proclaim themselves aristocrats of the floral kingdom, but who cares? These blue bloods of hot house and garden can be as easily and utterly forgotten, as the posies from a Babylonian supper table, or the garlands and festoons that bedecked Cleopatra's famous rowboat—when Mayflowers begin to bloom. It won't be long until the Gazette will be acknowledging the receipt of the first Mayflowers of the season which were placed on the Editor's desk by our well-known wild flower enthusiast, Miss Sadie Smithers. And what about the cowslips? I suppose, as usual, they could not wait until the snow was off the ground before popping up their velvety heads with a smiling howd-you-do. Violets and daffydowns, too, must have been on Ye Editor's desk this. And I'll bet, that by this time there is a gorgeous display of tulips along the edge of Hanks pond, near the Baptist Church—I hope the pond is still there. Lilacs ought to be budding now, how thick and large they grow in Nova Scotia, and how fragrant! California lilacs are small in blossoms and weak in perfume, as compared with the Canadian variety. Possibly the cold and frosty something to do with the performance of lilac bushes and other shrubbery that do so much better in the northern climate.

Friends, you should see the orchards of Northern California in this first week of April. Hundreds of acres of apple, cherry and plum trees in full bloom and the air heavy with the perfume of these glorious blossoms. In the beautiful Santa Clara Valley one can drive over splendid concrete highways for miles through wonderful orchards that make you wish to stop and spend the rest of your life there, but if you keep on going you will come to some other spot equally as beautiful and perhaps a little more attractive. California has many such bits of Paradise that allure and bewilder the newcomer.

Apricot and plum trees were unusually heavy with blossoms this year, but heavy blooming does not always mean a big crop. Some growers are hoping for a light frost which would save the orchardists the expense of thinning their trees later. But Jack Frost, when he does come, does not pay much attention to the wishes of the grower or the planter. It's pretty late in the season, however, for a heavy frost.

Here's something new from the Hawaiian Islands, new potatoes, graded as to size, wrapped in paper and packed in thirty pound cartons. And we thought all the time that all those Kanakas did was to grow pineapples and ride surf boards. I wouldn't be surprised to hear of the powers that be, digging up some old quarantine law that will prohibit landing new potatoes in California which have been raised outside the state. A jalousie outfit are the California farmers, but they will say that this is only because of the danger of foreign and dangerous potato bugs getting into the country that an embargo should be placed against "foreign" grown spuds. Try and buy an Arizona, Texas or Florida orange in California sometime and see if you can get one. Even if they were good California would not allow "foreign" oranges to enter.

Today I wandered down along the Embarras—San Francisco's waterfront—to pier 38 where the old United States frigate "Constitution" is docked. The ship is there for exhibition purposes only, and thousands of persons have visited this old frigate since its arrival. March 14th. Many of the old timers of sailing days would have liked to have seen her come in through the Golden Gate and on up the bay under her own canvas, but they were disappointed. The Navy Department of the United States decided that it was safer to tow her here from Los Angeles Harbor. The old ship isn't what she used to be and a brush with a heavy sea might have proven more or less disastrous. The "Constitution" sometimes called "Old Ironsides," was built at Boston between 1794 and 1797, is 178 feet long and has a tonnage displacement of approximately 1500 tons. In her best days she carried 44 guns (twenty-four pounders). The ship has been rebuilt three or four times. In 1829 she was condemned by the U.S. Naval Board and ordered broken up and sold, but public sentiment strongly opposed such action, and in 1835 the Navy Dept. ordered the ship rebuilt at the Boston Navy Yard. In 1906 the Secretary of the Navy thought the "Constitution" had outlived her usefulness and was about to order her out to sea to be used as a target for the guns of some of the newer warships, but 3000 indignant patriots of the State of Massachusetts rose up and opposed the idea and sent a petition to Washington which resulted in the Naval Secretary cancelling his order.

From 1907 to 1929 the ship was laid up at the Boston Navy Yard where she was slowly and surely rotting away. In 1929 the U.S. Government was persuaded to once more rebuild the old vessel and restore her as nearly as possible to her likeness of 1812. Naval architects estimated that the job would cost one million dollars. But the Government found that it had only $271,000 available for such work. Patriotic organizations and women's clubs throughout the nation got busy with the school children who collected 650,000 in pennies, nickels and dimes and the amount added to the Government fund made it possible to build a practically new ship along the same model and lines of the "Constitution" as it was supposed to look in 1812. At the time the new work began the old ship was actually falling to pieces. When the job was finished in 1931, it was estimated that only about ten or twelve per cent of the ship's original material and fittings had gone into the rebuilding job—in other words modern workmen did a new piece of work in creating an antique of the period of 1812.

The exhibit is certainly a very interesting one. Everything from the old twenty-four pounders with their swabs, rammers, extractors and leather powder bags to the original galley stove and the surgeon's operating chair has been reproduced as faithfully as human skill and research could contrive. Even the old "Grog Tub"—from which the crew received its daily ration of its favorite beverage—is there alongside its larger brother the "Seattle But". The ship's original material, containing ordinary drinking water, and the Harness Cask which held the ship's supply of salt meat. Old cutlasses, boarding pikes and flintlock muskets recall tales of naval battles when fighting ships grappled each other in deadly combat and boarding crews fought the enemy hand to hand.

Great crowds estimated at as many as 50,000 in a single day, have visited the "Constitution" since her arrival in San Francisco. School children in charge of their teachers are visiting the ship daily as part of their school lessons. And what a time those worried teachers were having keeping their classes together. Counting them every few minutes and rounding up the strays—My Land! Three missing. Let's see now, who are they?—Mickey McOney, Izzy Studensky and Joe Banning, of course they would be missing. The three explorers, and investigators and likewise the devil musketeers of the class were still somewhere on board the ship. George Washington Jones was detailed to search for the three—Mickey McOney, Izzy Studensky and Joe Banning, of course they would be missing. George Bernard Shaw has been to San Francisco and is on his merry way again. The United States was discovered by the famous Irish playwright, author and explorer on Thursday, March 22nd, 1492. He had a wonderful time with the native reporters and it was a grand performance by a great trouper. He discussed everything and everything, including himself, with magnificent fluency. But when one of the side three crest-fallen and badly scared young buccaners were being escorted down the gang plank by a petty officer, while two cutlasses and a boarding pike were being put back in place aboard ship—Once more the fantastic plan for a bloody affair out among the sand dunes of North Beach between Captain Kidd and his band of corsairs and the followers of Black Jack Johnson of the Barbary Coast had gone to smash. Teacher is once more counting heads—all here but G. W. Jones, if he would only show up the class could be on its way back to school; the bus is waiting and the driver is getting nervous. Teacher was surely having a hectic day of it.

I enjoyed my trip down the Embarras. It was a fine walk and there was a fine breeze blowing in off the bay. The Pacific liners, Malolo, Mariposa and Santa Rosa, were at their docks, big beautiful ships and wonderful to look at. I saw everything there was to see aboard her "Constitution" and a good snuff of bilge water besides. I won't attempt to relate any of the doings of the "Constitution" during the wars of 1812 and later years, as detailed in American History, perhaps you know why.

The bond between us new and strong.

We'll find old customs stale and dull,
Old-fashioned creeds out-worn,
Out of the crucible of woe,
Shall hope and faith be born.
With kinder thoughts for other folk,
The grace to share our neighbor's yoke.

From fears that compass us about,
From slinking shadows grey,
We shall come forth with thankful hearts,
To greet this newer day.
The night is gone—oh Heart arise—
The Dawn is shining in our eyes.
—Edna Jaques.

SENTENCE SERMONS

Rev. Roy L. Smith.

Without a Love—
—For friends, no man will have any.
—For books, the richest men will be poor.
—For truth, no scientist is scientist.
—For justice, no man is fit to judge.
—For little children, no man has a love for life.
—For something beside himself,
any man has little to live for.
—For God, man becomes a wanderer through life.

CONCERT HELD AT BELLIVEAU'S COVE

The Women's Institute of Belliveau's Cove, held an enjoyable concert in the hall in that place on evening last week, to a large audience which filled the hall to capacity and a number of people being turned away. The proceeds of the evening amounted to $64.00. The Institute members are thinking of taking the concert to some of the near-by villages in the near future.

Following is the programme:
Opening song.
Specialty dance. With banjo and harmonica accompaniment.
Play: "The Old Maid's Convention."
Fairy Dance—Miss Elina Blinn.
Song by Miss Gaudet.
Skit—"Frightened of Ghosts."
Messrs. Basil and Ulysse Belliveau.
Monologue—"Back Seat Driving."
—Miss Katharine Doucet.
National Anthem.
—Miss Pauline Melanson, of Weymouth, Graduate of Mount St. Vincent, acted as accompanist for the evening, and rendered several piano solos which were greatly appreciated.

birthday on April 15. At the age of 93, he is the oldest resident of this place, and his many friends hope he will enjoy many more happy birthdays.

A NEWSPAPER'S MISTAKES

A few people criticize their local newspaper because they occasionally find an error there. And these people scarcely ever take a thought of the mistakes they themselves commit. If one will consider for a moment how many chances of making mistakes the newspapers avoid, they will cease to be critics.
A statistician has worked out a number of chances for mistakes in one column of print. The number is 10,000 to one. In an ordinary newspaper column there are 10,000 letters of type; there are 7 wrong positions that a letter may be put in;
there are 70,000 chances to make an error and millions of chances for transpositions. In the short sentence, "To be or not to be," by transposition alone, it is possible to make 2,378,000 errors.

Pleased with New Books

Muriel VanBuskirk of the Bear River East Junior High School, of Digby, reports that they are delighted with the beautiful set of leather bound volumes given to them by a member of the North Range Junior High School.
There is something for every grade and we feel that the Peter Pan Juniors will make good use of them. One of the most interesting sections gave two new flower boxes to the school.
Already their daffodils are in bloom.
The boys have painted the flower boxes and have started to prepare the ground for play equipment. One of the pupils, Mary Dukeshire, who had an operation for appendicitis, has recovered and is back in school. The pupils are looking forward to their Arbor Day Program, May 6th.

Barton News

Barrie Cosman of the Barton
4-H Club reports that they like very much the grammar book presented by the John Stewart Chapter, I.O.
D.E. Recently the pupils of both schools have been learning singing songs at the Barton Music Festival. Last Friday evening, an illustrated lecture on the "Birds of Nova Scotia", was enjoyed by the club members.
Some of the projects undertaken by this club are (1) A School Magazine;
(2) Protecting Birds; (3) A Kind
Deed Every Day; (4) Bird Survey;
(5) Improving School and Grounds; (6) First Aid; (7) Health
Fosters.

Arbor Day

The spring schedule of Arbor Day plantings begins this week with the following programs:
Barton—Friday, May 5, 2 p.m.
Bear River East, Saturday, May 6,
8 a.m.
Clementsville—Saturday, May 6,
11 a.m.
Upper Clementis—Monday, May 8,
9 a.m.

In addition, there will be a public meeting with an illustrated lecture on the "Birds of Nova Scotia" at the Hall, on Friday evening, May 5th.
The public is cordially invited to any or all of these programs.

Bigger Hands

As Frankie stood beside his mother who was making some purchases, the grocer told him to help himself to a handful of nuts. But Frankie shook his head.

"Why, what's the matter?" asked the grocer. "Don't you like nuts?"
"Yes," replied Frankie.

"Well, go ahead and take some."
Frankie hesitated, whereupon the grocer put a generous handful in

Crosby's GOLD STAR Molasses

Crosby's Gold Star is the cream of the cane—rich in lime and iron, retaining its flavor. By the economical gallon or in metal containers at grocers'.

Frankie's pocket.

When they had left the shop, his mother turned to her small son and asked, "Why did you not take the nuts when the kind man asked you?"
"Cause his hand was bigger than mine," Frankie replied.

MANSLAUGHTER CASES CONCLUDED AT SUPREME COURT SESSIONS YESTERDAY

Joseph Albert Hatfield Found "Guilty" Mercy Recommended

The May session of the Supreme Court opened here on Tuesday morning with His Lordship, Mr. Justice Graham presiding. Legal talent present were D. K. Grant, of the Attorney-General's Department, Frank Jones, K. C., V. C. Fother and E. J. Theriault.

The docket is said to be one of the longest to be tried by the Supreme Court here in more than twenty years, and consists of eight criminal cases, four civil cases with jury and two civil cases without jury. In the criminal cases, the Grand Jury found "True Bills" in the cases of the King vs. Joseph Albert Hatfield, on the charge of manslaughter arising out of the fatal shooting of John Jeddy at St. Alphonse de Clare, Digby County, on the evening of January 24th of this year; the King vs. Philip Comeau, of Concession, also charged with manslaughter in the killing of Charles Holmes as the result of a collision between Comeau's auto truck and an ox team driven by Holmes on the Main highway at Brighton on the morning of November 4th.

True Bills were also found in the cases of P. J. Willoby, accused of writing libelous letters; the King vs. Amos Thibeault, accused of breaking and entering the store of S. P. Theriault at Weymouth and stealing a quantity of goods; the King vs.

A Social Event in Waltham, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Coughsey, of Winter Street, Waltham, Mass., gave a luncheon at their home on Friday, May 5th, in honor of Mrs. Coughsey's sister, Miss Viola B. Kinney, of Auburn, Mass. The occasion being her birthday. There were relatives present from Waltham, Weston, Lincoln and Auburndale. The luncheon was very attractive, climaxed by a prettily decorated birthday cake which was cut by Miss Kinney. Among the "remembrances" was a crocheted centrepiece made by Mrs. Joseph Kinney. After luncheon all gathered on the lawn with a background of cherry and peach trees in bloom, and the camera gave evidence of a pleasant reunion. As the guests departed, all wished Miss Kinney many "Happy Returns of the Day," and looked forward to someone in the group celebrating their birthday in the near future.

B. W. Ralston, former Mayor of Amherst, and father of Colonel, of Hon. J. L. Ralston, for Yarmouth, and former Minister of National Defence, under the King administration, passed away at Amherst on Tuesday morning.

W. J. Agate spent the week-end in Saint John.

Married

Doane-Hayden

An event of more than usual interest took place on Monday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, when Miss Anna Margaret Hayden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hayden, of Port Wade, became the bride of Harvey Doane, C. A., a member of the firm of Nightingale & Doane, of Halifax, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Doane of that city. The ceremony which took place at the home of the bride's parents, was witnessed by the relatives and intimate friends of the young couple. The double parlor was decorated with ferns and posies. The bride looked beautiful in a dress of pink silk with veil and carried a bouquet of roses and forget-me-nots. Miss Ruth Blackadder, of Yarmouth, as bridesmaid, while the groom was supported by his brother, Earle Doane, of Halifax. Miss Baine, of Yarmouth, presided at the piano and rendered the Wedding March, as the bridal party descended the stairs. The ceremony was officiated by Rev. S. J. Hartlin, of the United Baptist Church, the bride being given away by her father. During the reception which followed the ceremony, the bride and groom were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Doane, mother of the groom, and Mrs. Hayden, mother of the bride. Afterwards a dainty luncheon was served and the young couple left on a honeymoon trip, which includes Boston and other cities in Massachusetts. On their return they will reside in Halifax. The bride and groom are very popular among a large circle of friends and were the recipients of many pretty and useful gifts.

DIGBY BAND PRESENTS FIRST CONCERT

A large and appreciative audience greeted the first public performance of the Digby Civic and Junior Band, under the direction of Paul Tupper, at the Bijou Grand Theatre last evening. The program was well selected and the numbers by the full band, the youthful soloists and the individual band members, well McGillic, Scotch Entertainer, in his special numbers, provided an evening's entertainment that delighted the audience, and more than one was heard to remark, that it was almost unbelievable that a band only four months old, could put on such an excellent concert. A full account will appear in our next issue.

Obituary

Mrs. John C. Comeau

There passed away at Salem, Mass., on May 3rd, Rose Comeau, widow of the late John C. Comeau, at the advanced age of 89 years. The remains were accompanied to Little Brook station by her daughter, Mrs. Charles M. Mallett, with whom she resided in Salem. Interment was at Mount Carmel Cemetery, Concession, Sunday afternoon, May 7th, and was largely attended. Rev. Father Lequembre officiating. Besides Mrs. Mallett, deceased, leaves to mourn their loss two sons: Edward, of Stoneham and Deane, of Little Brook Station; also Mrs. Denis Amant, of Ohio, Weymouth. She also leaves 19 grandchildren and 19 great grandchildren.

Charles Comeau

The death occurred on May 7th, at Saultville, of Charles Comeau, brother of Mrs. George Trohon, of this town. The deceased, who was in his sixty-first year, was a well-known resident of Clare. He is survived by his wife and five children, and a large number of his friends. The funeral services took place from Sacred Heart, Saultville, on Tuesday, May 9th.

Mrs. Catherine Tibert

The death of Mrs. Catherine Tibert, aged 82, occurred at the home of James H. Tibert, Digby County, on May 10th. She was the daughter of the late Samuel and Patsy Hersey, and is survived by her three sons, Charles, with whom she made her home; Emmon, of Little River, and Fred, of Bear River; also two daughters, Mrs. Mendell Frost and Mrs. Arthur Trask, both of Little River. One daughter, Mrs. Cynthia Lord, of Castine, Maine, also survives. Funeral services took place on Thursday, May 11th, at 10 o'clock, at the home of the deceased, officiating, The pallbearers were Captain Ansel Snow, Fred Snow and Harry Hersey, of Digby. And a grandson of the deceased, Earl Frost, of Little River.

Sunday School Class Presents Edgar A. Guest Concert

The Edgar A. Guest entertainment given by the girls of the "Anti-Cant" Class of Grace United Church Sunday School, on Friday evening last, was a complete success. The girls had prepared from the works of this great American poet were rendered by the girls, several of the numbers interpreted by the girls being dramatized in a most pleasing manner.

The hall was very well filled and those present were most complimentary in their comments on a total of $20 was raised by the girls to start a fund for a tennis court which they hope to build on the church grounds in the near future.

Numbers which were especially well received were "Ma and the Auto," presented by Florence Keen and Hattie Cowan. Pa and Ma had an improvised auto on the stage, while Ma did the back seat driving. The "Honeymoon" scene was also especially well done.

Mrs. Frank Hayden assisted the girls with a vocal solo.

We understand that the "Anti-Cant's" intend putting on another concert of this sort at some future date.

WALTER FOSTER AND MISS ARDENA THURBER "SURPRISED" BY FRIENDS

On Wednesday evening, April 26, the many friends of Miss Ardena Thurber and Mr. Walter Foster met at the home of Mrs. Annie Farnsworth, in Hampton, Annapolis County, to give them a pleasant surprise. Miss Thurber and Mr. Foster had been invited to a singing-society, with no intimation of a "surprise." When they arrived the friends were singing some familiar hymns, and a most pleasant social interlude, Masters Walter Kearnes and Claude Hamilton, wearing tall caps made of crepe paper, came into the room carrying a large basket filled with gifts and placed it beside Miss Thurber, who was genuinely surprised. After the singing, the friends presented the couple with gifts. Delicious refreshments were served. The hostesses were Mrs. Annie Farnsworth, Mrs. Joseph Marshall and Mrs. John Titus.

Jury Returns With Verdict "Not Guilty" in Comeau Case

The second manslaughter case to come before the court, was the King vs. Philip Comeau. Comeau, a resident of Concession, was the driver of the truck which, early in the morning of November 4 last, struck and killed Charles Holmes, Marshalltown. The accident occurred on the main highway at Brighton. Holmes was driving an ox cart. D. K. Grant, of the attorney-general's department, prosecuted, with E. J. Theriault for the defence. Witnesses heard Wednesday were John Russell, land surveyor, Dr. W. C. Harris, Barton, R. C. M. P. Constable Roy Snow; Stanley A. Keen, coroner; Frank Hazelton and Archibald Sibley.

The Comeau manslaughter case was taken up again on Thursday morning, and several witnesses heard for the prosecution and the defence. E. J. Theriault, defence counsel, and D. K. Grant, prosecutor, addressed the jury and His Lordship, Mr. Justice Graham delivered his charge to the jury. The jury retired at 3.25 and returned with a verdict of "Not Guilty" at 5.05 p.m.

The prisoner was discharged by His Lordship.

In the cases of the King vs. P. J. Willoby, the King vs. Amos Thibeault and the King vs. William Albright, the accused men pleaded

THE "BLUENOSE" SAILS WITH "BLUENOSE" TEA

The interest of Bluenose people is now centering around the cruise of the schooner "Bluenose" to the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition. Our champion fishing schooner, known fondly by the sobriquet of "The Queen of the North Atlantic fishing fleet," is now on the way, having sailed from Lunenburg on the first instant to call at Halifax enroute, where she was to be open to inspection before finally casting off for the Great Lakes.

An interesting incident of the cruise is that MORSE'S BLUENOSE TEA will be used by the officers, crew and guests aboard, and the ship having sailed with an ample supply. It is more than fitting that two champions should go together, for it may be said that MORSE'S BLUENOSE TEA is the champion tea in its price class, having quality as good as that of many teas sold at a higher price.

MORSE'S BLUENOSE TEA has delicious flavour, superior strength, constant uniformity, rich amber color, thick-lacquered consistency in the cup—the qualities that BLUENOSE TEA consumers like. The retail price is 35 cents per pound package.

PLANTING DAY AT BEAR RIVER EAST

Arbor Day was celebrated at Bear River East School Saturday, May 6. At the appointed time, 9 a. m., the entire school and a large number of visitors had gathered at the school-house, among the visitors being Miss Bertha Fraser, Helping Teacher; L. A. DeWolfe, Director of Rural Education and Rev. C. L. Blanchard.

The youthful chairman, Clayton Yarrille, presided at the meeting. The program by the school consisted of Arbor Day—Chorus by School; History of Arbor Day—Recitation by Avon Wagner; "The Planter's Dialogue by Grade VII; The Value of Trees—Speech by Miss V. A. Buskirk; Arbor Day—Recitation by Advanced Grades.

Following this program, the teacher, Miss White, thanked the people of the community for their co-operation in all improvements, making all feel glad they had a part in the good work.

Mr. DeWolfe and Rev. C. L. Blanchard each gave a short but inspiring talk based on the School and Community Works. After this a beautiful flag donated by the John Stewart Chapter I. O. O. E. was presented to the school by Miss Fraser and Mr. Blanchard.

Following this all returned to the school ground where under the efficient direction of A. DeWolfe, in an incredibly short time over 100 shrubs were planted, twenty-five of which were donated by the Brighton-Boston School, and were much appreciated.

BASEBALL NOTES

Several well attended baseball meetings have been held during the past weeks, and a field has finally been decided upon. The committee recommended the old baseball field, situated on the Lansdowne Road—

CHURCH NEWS

The special services being conducted in the Baptist Church by the Pastor, will continue through this week, concluding Friday evening.

Mother's Day will be observed in the Baptist Church, Sunday, May 13th, and the semi-annual session of the Municipal Council held at Digby last week.

A service will be conducted by Rev. Stanley F. Steeves, at Lansdowne, on Sunday, May 14, at 3 p.m.

PARISH OF ST. CLEMENT

Rev. A. W. L. Smith, Rural Dean, Rector.

Next Sunday will be the 4th Sunday after Easter. Services are arranged as follows:

10.30 a.m.—Deep Brook.
3.00 p.m.—Bear River, at which the Oddfellows will be present.

7.30 p.m.—Clementston.
Sunday School at Clementston at 2 p.m. and at Bear River at 7 p.m.

It's the Church's special function To teach the finer things.
To teach that way of living From which all that's noble springs; From which the Clergyman, the Priest, the Single-handed and alone, For the laymen of the Parish Are the Church's corner stone.

Now a layman has his business, And a layman has his joys, But he also has his trials, Of his little girls and boys, And I wonder how he'd like it If there were no churches here, And he had to raise his children In a Godless atmosphere.

When you see a Church that's empty Through the doors are open wide, It's not the Church that's dying; It's the laymen who have died; For it's not by hymn or sermon That the Church's work is done, It's the laymen of the Parish Who for God must carry on.

DEEP BROOK

Mrs. J. Albert Robbins returned to her home in Smith's Cove last Friday. She is gradually recovering from her recent serious illness.

We were happy to see Mrs. S. A. Spry out on Monday, after being confined to her home for many weeks. Also Mrs. Frank Nichols who has been ill for a number of weeks.

Norman Sulis entertained members of the choir on Sunday evening for their regular weekly practice.

Mrs. L. E. Sherman spent Thursday in Bear River, guest of her sister, Mrs. E. H. Snell, and Mr. Snell.

Other dinner guests were Mrs. Ethel C. Orde, R. N. of Wakefield, Mass., and Jesse Berry, of Bear River.

THAT the future of every town rests in the hands of its individual citizens.

If a town is to become the town that every loyal citizen believes it will become, a great spirit of co-operation must be shown before the community spirit can be developed.

A town must have men who are willing to work for the good of the town as well as for individual interests, but they can get nowhere until they first have faith in the home town.

Where faith exists there is no task too great when there is co-operation, backed up with energy.

Mistakes of the past must be forgotten.

Every citizen must be a home town booster.

They should spend their money at home.

The home town will be what the home people want it to be when they look awake and keep going ahead until they reach their goal.

Waiting for something to happen never built a town, because things don't just happen.

If a town wants something to happen, they must keep busy until it happens.

"JESUS ASSERTS HIS KINGSHIP"

Golden Text:—"Behold, thy King cometh unto thee; he is just, and having salvation."—Zechariah 9:9.

Lesson Passage:—Mark 11: 1-10, 15-18.

"The roses of joy are red,
The roses of pain are white;
But I think, when the day is sped
And I stand by the gate at night,
I shall not just this, when the day is dead,
That a rose is sweet be it white or red."

—Percy C. Ainsworth.

Preparation in Advance, 1-2

The triumphal entrance into Jerusalem was deliberately planned. Hitherto Jesus had sought to escape publicity, but now he deliberately sought to make a dramatic appeal to Jerusalem. He sent two of his disciples to borrow a colt. Probably this arrangement had been made beforehand, as Jesus left nothing to chance. It is no sign of faith to trust to the moment. Great achievements are made possible only by thorough planning. This is especially true in modern church work.

To run a successful Sunday School or to stage an effective convention requires attention to the last detail. There are Christians who have no gift of eloquence but who have excellent organizing capacity. Men of high executive ability are usually found to be those who make arrangements far ahead. When Jesus rode into Jerusalem the Palm Sunday it was a deliberate assertion of his Messiahship and a deliberate challenge to the authorities in Jerusalem.

Riding a Colt, 3-6

"The beast upon which Jesus rode into the city was an ass's colt, or we should say, a donkey. This fact had symbolic significance. Kings rode upon a charger going forth to war, but upon a donkey when setting forth on errands of peace. The colt was borrowed, an evidence of the lowliness of Jesus. It was a colt upon which man had never sat, because it was the custom of the Jews in their sacred ceremonies to employ only beasts which had never been used. A poor horse, words into the mouth of this donkey describing his pitiable appearance, his long ears, his unmusical voice, his lowly place in the animal scale, but proud of the fact that in this unique procession palms and coats had been thrown around his feet.

The story told of a cowboy who heard for the first time the account of the triumphal entrance. "He listened very carefully and then said, 'What wonderful hands he must have had!' Those who were present said, 'Why do you say that?' 'Well,' he said, 'a man who can sit on a colt on which no one has ever sat before, and master it, and guide it, and soothe it when people are quarreling, those are its ears, and waving palms before it, and throwing clothes in front of it; that man must have wonderful hands.'"

A Triumphal Host, 7-10

It was a genuine demonstration of loyalty that his Galilean followers gave to Jesus as he entered Jerusalem. They cast their garments on the ground, they cut down branches to scatter on his path, and they shouted, "Hosanna. Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. Hosanna in the highest." It is frequently quoted that they who shouted, "Hosanna" to Jesus one day, shouted, "Crucify him!" the next. This is an error. Those shouting out "Hosanna" were his loyal followers from Galilee—"the people" referred to in the sentence. "The scribes and priests sought to lay hands on him, but they feared the people." Those who shouted, "Crucify him!" were dwellers in Jerusalem angered because of his action in driving the traders and money-changers out of the Temple.

All in One Sentence, 11

Four relationships of Jesus are indicated in this one sentence. He entered Jerusalem, the city over which he had made his last appeal in vain. He entered the Temple and looked around at everything that was going on in driving the traders and money-changers out of the Temple.

When everyone was coming out to Bethany, the home where dwell some of his dearest friends. With him were the twelve disciples who had been his companions during his public ministry. The life of Jesus was rich in affection, loyalty and friendship. His feelings were deep, and his emotions were strong.

The Courage of Jesus, 15-18

Many artists have pictured the scene of Jesus driving the traders from the Temple. His action has appealed to imagination. In his inaugural address President Roosevelt used phrases from this narrative in announcing his intention to inaugurate banking reform. The oftener we read this story, the more we marvel at the sheer courage of Christ. Let one man say that religion has nothing to do with economics. Jesus would never allow religion and morality to be divorced. Perhaps the truest test of Christianity is not correct worship but everyday business ethics in our land. True religion will not allow greed and graft to be sheltered under the very shadow of the Temple. Yet when Jesus cleansed the Temple he awakened antagonism which made the Cross inevitable.

Questions to Discuss:

- 1.—Jesus entered Jerusalem as the Prince of Peace, and the next day drove the money-changers from the Temple. How do you explain this?
- 2.—How may we consecrate our possessions to the service of Christ to-day?
- 3.—Is the banking system of Canada any concern of the Christian Church?
- 4.—"Hosanna!" "Crucify him!" Why did Jesus awaken such different responses from different people?
- 5.—Christ's kingdom may be based upon his triumphal entrance or upon his Cross. Which makes the stronger appeal to you?

"It took eight sittings."
"What are you having your portrait painted?"
"No learning to skate."

Backache Gone-Feels Like Different Woman

Says Prince Edward Island Lady After Using Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mrs. Duncan Livingston Is Very Satisfied With the Results Obtained by Taking Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., May 8, Special
I was troubled so much with backache for some time, writes Mrs. Duncan Livingston, 48 Kent St., this place, "I tried many remedies but they did not help me at all. A friend of mine recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills, so I decided to try them. They soon helped my back troubles and I feel like a different woman since taking Dodd's Kidney Pills. I have taken six boxes and will always keep them in the house."

By toning up the system and revitalizing the kidneys, your body is kept healthy and able to withstand the attacks of what may be serious ailments if neglected. Don't delay. the white crusade a great opportunity Almost 600 Nova Scotian lives are lost every year through the dread white plague, tuberculosis, and this appalling loss of life is preventable. The plague can be wiped out in less than a generation—and live so much safer for our children—if only we track down and treat all active "t. b." cases, so that they can not spread the infection to others.

But, to quote a recognized authority, "the disease can never be controlled by treating only those who are out of pay... the crux of the whole problem of tubercular control is the case treatment of the poor who are unable to secure treatment for themselves."

Only by tackling this problem can the dreadful spread of infection be cut down, and the purpose of the White Crusade is to do this work, to locate these cases and see that in every instance some thing is done, that proper treatment is given either in hospital or at home.

The work of the White Crusade, carried on by the Nova Scotia Tuberculosis Commission, has the unqualified endorsement and support of outstanding Nova Scotians, and it is the privilege and duty of every citizen to join the great work. You can do your share (1) by enrolling as a Crusader, contributing according to your means and (2) by persuading your friends to enroll. Will you help?

DIGBY, NOVA SCOTIA, FRIDAY, MAY 19, 1933

VOLUME LIX, NO. 42

Petition to Open Road is Largely Signed

A petition to the Hon. Minister of Highways with the request that the old "post road" from Culloden to the Digby Neck Highway be reopened is now being circulated in Digby by James F. Hillman, Councillor for that district, and already this petition has been signed by many. Culloden is a fairly sizeable community situated on the Bay of Fundy shore of the Digby Neck, and to the residents of that place to go down to the other settlements on the Neck, they have first to drive to Digby and then take the Digby Neck road. The old post road which used to run from Culloden, comes out at Roxville about seven miles from Digby—and if it could be reopened it would mean a saving of many miles. The old road is clearly marked, but impassable most of the way for motor vehicles or for horse-drawn teams. The re-opening of this road has been talked of for some years, but no action has ever been taken.

AGED PLYMPTON RESIDENT MISSING SINCE SATURDAY

Israel Melanson, 77 year old resident of Plympton, has been missing since Saturday. It is feared that he was seized with a heart attack while digging clams on the beach in back of his home. He left his house at 6:30 Saturday morning, and when he did not return at noon his people became alarmed and started a search immediately. About six o'clock that evening a half filled bucket of clams and a clam had been found on the beach. On Sunday a searching party of more than one hundred men were engaged at coming the shores for the body of the missing man. The search is being carried on on the Digby Neck shore of St. Mary's Bay, as well.

Digby Base Ball fans are getting enthusiastic since Digby joined the new league. A contract has been let for cutting down the wall of earth that spoiled the left field, and extensive grading of the whole field has already been started. When completed Digby will have a good ball field, and a fine school playground. The work has been undertaken without funds to cover the cost, but the team is confident that the public will help liberally in raising the amount necessary. The first home game will be with Annapolis, Victoria Day, after the Band Concert.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Titus returned to Digby on Friday after wintering in Florida and other parts of the United States.

Obituary

Mrs. (Dr.) I. M. Lovitt

The funeral of the late Mrs. (Dr.) I. M. Lovitt was held from St. Ambrose Roman Catholic Church, Yarmouth, Saturday morning last and was largely attended. The Very Rev. Monsignor Young officiated. The pall bearers were Dr. Williamson, Dr. Webster, W. H. MacKinnon and V. J. Pottier. Interment was made in Mountain Cemetery. (Mrs. Lovitt is well-known in Digby, in connection with her valued contribution to the hospital.)

Henry J. Usher

The death of Henry J. Usher, aged 69 years and four months, a well-known and respected citizen of Bermuda, and a summer visitor to Digby since 1911, occurred recently at Spanish Point, Bermuda. The deceased, who was once a member of the Corporation of Hamilton, is survived by his widow; two sons, Newton, M. and Hubert A. two grandsons, Carroll A. and Henry James, and three granddaughters, Sylvia, Helen and Thelma Blanche. (Said John and Halifax papers please copy.)

Mrs. Nettie Denton

The death occurred at Westport, on Wednesday evening last, of Mrs. Nettie Denton, aged 72 years, widow of Hantford Denton, who predeceased her about two years. She was a highly respected citizen and a faithful member of the United Baptist Church, and the Ladies' Aid Society. She is survived by three sons, M. and Hubert A. and Harold, of Westport; nine grandchildren, one sister, Miss Alice Hicks, of Winthrop, Mass.; three brothers, one in England, Thomas and Stewart Hicks, of Westport.

UNITED CHURCH OF CANADA

S. will be held on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the church hall. It will take the form of a Banquet. The guests of honor will be Rev. Donald W. King, Secretary of the Maritime Religious Education Council, and Mr. G. E. Tingley, President of the Annapolis West Young People's Union of the United Church. Rewards will be presented to the winners in the inter-group contest.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Prize winners at the Hospital Benefit Box, which was held at the Court House on Tuesday evening were as follows:—Ladies' First—Miss Mabel Robichaud. Gentlemen's First—Dudley Dickie. Ladies' Consolation—Mrs. Wm. Warrington. Gentlemen's Consolation—Richard Dunn. Lucky Prize—Miss Mary Keen. Thanks are extended to those who donated prizes and assisted in any way.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society will be held at the Court House on Friday, May 26th, at 3 p.m.

ACADEMY NOTES

On Friday morning Mr. Boden gave the pupils of the High School one of the finest talks he has ever given. The subject of the address was "Our Mothers." To conclude his address Mr. Boden read a beautiful little poem by Kipling, "Mother O'Mine." A track team consisting of Jack Nicholson, Bob Robinson, Bill Walker and Bob Muise will represent Digby High at the track meet to be held at Acadia on May 20. The boys will compete in the 100 yard high jump, 60 yard; shot put, and broad jump. The pupils of the Academy will not only on any refresher work for Arbor Day this year. Special programmes reflecting the spirit of the day have been planned for several of the rooms.

BARTON - BRIGHTON SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY CLUB

J. Russell had a most successful afternoon with the 4-H and Junior Red Cross last Friday. Subject: "A Surveyor's Life in Our North-west." Rev. M. R. Ewing of the United Church, will meet with the children to discuss for them the educational requirements for entrance to theological schools, type of work done there, and the great opportunity for spiritual rewards the ministry affords. (All of the speakers in the Vocational Guidance series of talks will be glad to answer questions put by children or parents.) Rev. Mr. Higgins addressed the School. A School Benefit party will be held in the Barton Hall next weekend. Forty-fives, Bridge, Krokink, ice cream, etc. See next week's Courier and watch for the posters in the stores. The Junior Red Cross and Mrs. Krausnick will have their afternoon tea with programme soon. It was postponed on account of the late illness. The children will present some of their dramatic work. It learned as part of their regular program and Mrs. Krausnick will read "I, from Bernard Shaw's 'St. Joan'." The next regular club meeting will be held on Friday, June 2nd, place to be announced later. Your president would like to check up on membership and committee work that night. Visitors are always welcome, but need to know our paid-up membership so that we can report to the Rural Education Department accurately. Out-of-town friends and those who are unable to attend personally, may be associate members if they wish to be identified with the club. Mr. H. G. Payne, Provincial Apologist, will be in the schoolhouse at 3 p.m., on Friday, June 2nd, and will speak to the 3 P. M. Public School. He has many fine diagrams and charts, all of which should add interest to an always interesting subject.

Waldeck people got a scare yesterday afternoon when a brush fire broke out in some woodland back of the village, burning over three lots before being put under control. The fire from Bear River and Clements' village came out to help fight the blaze.

Cecil C. Dakin, of Centreville, has something quite new in the way of a fish truck. The truck is, in itself, an up-to-date fish market on wheels. Inside are two ten foot ice boxes each divided into three partitions, and in these the fish are kept as fresh as though they had just come from the water. Mr. Dakin's route is from Digby to Kingston. We wish to congratulate him for his enterprise and wish him every success.

Notice to Correspondents

Next Wednesday, being May 24th, and a public holiday, correspondents are requested to have their copy at this office not later than Monday.

Sentenced to Eight Years in Dorchester

Joseph Albert Hatfield, 17-year-old St. Alphonsus de Clare youth, was sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary, Dorchester, by his Lordship, Justice Graham, who presided at the May session of the Supreme Court, at Digby last week. Hatfield was charged on the charge of manslaughter, arising out of the fatal shooting of John Jeddry in the post office at St. Alphonsus de Clare on January 24. Ainsley Thibault, of Ashmore, who pleaded "guilty" on a charge of receiving stolen goods, was sentenced to four months in the common jail at Digby. F. O. Willoby, young Irish immigrant, who pleaded "guilty" to writing a libellous letter to an Immigration official of the C. P. R., was given suspended sentence, as was also William Albright, of Freeport, who pleaded "guilty" on a bodily harm charge arising out of an automobile accident at Freeport in which Reuben Thurber was injured. In the case of the King vs. W. L. Baker, charged with writing threatening letters, the defence elected to be tried by the Court. The Grand Jury found "No Bill" in the case of the King vs. L. H. Potter, charged with conspiring to defraud. The civil cases to have been tried at this session were held over.

Local & Personal

The Dominion Parliament will adjourn tomorrow. A. P. Sullivan, a passenger to Saint John, on Wednesday, James W. Merkel takes over his duties as postmaster to-day. The Rev. Mr. Higgins is visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Williams, in Halifax. Miss Lydia Haynes is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Silver, Deep Brook. S. A. Keen and his mother, Mrs. James Keen, have been spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Comeau, of Centreville, spent the week-end in Digby, visiting her husband and relatives.

Bro. Ron McKee, Dick, of Tucker's Town, Bermuda, are in town visiting Mrs. H. J. Campbell. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Farnham have returned to Digby, after spending the winter months in New York.

Singing! Hospital Variety Sale on Saturday, May 27th, in the Ayer Building. Are your donations ready?

W. Ward, of Kentville, went to Meteham Station on Saturday to relieve the station agent at that place. Mr. A. J. Nauffts, who has been a guest at the United Church Parsonage during the winter, left for his home in Dartmouth, this week. The Normal College will close on June 22. The summer school at Halifax will begin on July 5, with registration on the two days previous.

Harold A. Nichols, who this week graduated from the Dalhousie Law School, Halifax, has returned to his home here. Mr. Nichols was admitted to the Bar on Wednesday. According to an announcement made in the Halifax papers, the Yerk's stores at Digby, Annapolis Royal, Kentville, Middleton, Wolfville and Yarmouth are to be sold either as a chain or separately.

SCOUT NOTES

With a rousing game of basketball, the scouts started their evening's work and sport. It was a close game, with lots of fun and errors, but the boys learned a lot. The Patrol Leader called out some of the mistakes.

The scout work was taken up in the hall and for time a debate was carried on the subject being "The Aeroplane vs. the Submarine in Time of War." The boys taking part did very well and delivered their facts with plenty of vim. Throughout, the assistant Cub Master, Rufus Connor, was judge. The Normal College will close on June 22. The summer school at Halifax will begin on July 5, with registration on the two days previous.

Last Saturday fifteen scouts went to Bear River and took part in a hike under the leadership of S. M. Campbell, Anderson, Bowby and Mrs. Wright. The hike was kind of a drive to Bear River and back. The boys had a great time and think the Bear River Scouts are really doing a fine job. It looks like two or three years of good scouting ahead, and any assistance from the interested adults in the town is thoroughly appreciated by the troop.

BAND NOTES

Victoria Day, next Wednesday, will not pass without the recognition of the Digby Band. There will be a Band Concert in the Pavilion at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and a base-ball game, May 24th, at 4 o'clock. If stormy the concert will be played at 3.15 from the shelter on the spur pier where it should be heard in all parts of town. The proposal of the Band to give this concert was heartily endorsed by the Mayor and announced in his formal opening of the first concert in the theatre last week. The management thought it a good chance for the Band to prove its usefulness on this occasion which ought to be patriotically observed, and which might prove a very dull day without the Band. And as the Band gets no pay for this concert, it seemed a good opportunity to ask for contributions to the "Music and Satchel Fund" of the Band, for which over $100. is required, much of it for immediate use. Band music is an expensive item and must be preserved. Each player, requiring a water-proof satchel to insure his books and loose music from loss or damage.

The collection will be taken during the concert, but additional contributions will be needed to raise the money to purchase a new house-house solicitation has been proposed for Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning.

By the way, several generous supporters sent in cash to pay for tickets after the concert was over, and others bought tickets though unable to attend.

The players were surprised and embarrassed by the flood of congratulatory letters upon their appearance. Overpraise might breed conceit, but these young men have accepted the sincere compliments of the community and are spurred to more earnest endeavour to deserve the approval of the community they serve. How can the management express its thanks to the people of Digby? The readiest co-operation was given by everyone approached, and many thanks are due to the five speakers, the Mayor, Arthur Turnbull, Tupper, Farnham, Rev. E. C. Gabriel and Father Murphy, but not omitting the lady accompanists, Mrs. Frank Hayden and Mrs. Jabez Appleby.

The band was obliged to decline an engagement at Weymouth for the 24th, in order to give a concert at home.

THE BRITISH SOLDIER'S TEA

The beverage of the British army to-day is tea. It was estimated that in the region of Salisbury Plain, when manoeuvres were in progress there last year, between twenty and thirty cups of tea were sold to every pint of beer. This may be taken as an evidence of increasing popularity of tea among the British people. At any rate it is a good augury for the efficiency of soldiers if they use such a harmless stimulant.

The general effects of tea drinking, when the tea is properly prepared and consumed in reasonable quantities, are these:—it becomes clearer, thoughts flow more easily and rapidly, fatigue and drowsiness are relieved, intellectual effort can be sustained longer, sensory impressions are more accurately appreciated, and ideas are better associated. Accuracy in intellectual work is greater.

Tea, it may be said, is the popular beverage of the Maritimes. And among the tea brands offered to consumers in these provinces, one may pick out MOHSE'S STANDARD TEA—a good old family tea of the Maritimes—one that will be sure to satisfy. It sells at 40 cents per pound package but has quality equal to that of higher priced teas that sell at 50 cents per pound.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowman P. Collins, of Little River, announce the engagement of their daughter, Elsa Lillian, to Frederick Albert Hunt, of Truro. The marriage will take place at Little River on June 21st.

Miss Evelyn Cummings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Cummings, of Digby, who began her training at St. Luke's Hospital, New Bedford, Mass., for the past three years, graduated yesterday. Mrs. Cummings left Digby on Tuesday for New Bedford, to present at the graduation exercises.

Last Friday afternoon at the local offices of the Metropolitan Life Assurance Company, a very pleasant affair in place of the usual business of the staff of the office and agents, Mr. E. H. Collins, a retired agent of the Company at Digby, was presented with a Veteran's Badge in honor of twenty years' service with the Metropolitan in that district. D. G. Gass, general assistant manager of the company, who is at Yarmouth in charge of the offices during Manager Gordon McLeod's absence, made the presentation with an appropriate reference to Mr. Collins' long and faithful service, who in turn expressed his thanks for the honor conferred.—Yarmouth Light.

Mayor P. W. Holdsworth has been spending a few days in the woods. J. W. Marshall, of Ashmore Shore, spent a few days last week in Digby.

Married

Foster-Thurber

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Foster, Hampton, on Saturday evening, May 6th, when their son, Walter LeRoy, was united in marriage to Ardena Geraldine Thurber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Thurber, of Freeport. A large number of guests were present from St. Croix Cove, Bridgeport, Hampton and Freeport. Some of the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Foster and daughter, Marguerite, of Bridgeport; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Foster, of Bridgeport; Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Hall and daughter, Florence, of St. Croix Cove; Mr. and Mrs. Zachary Hall, also of St. Croix Cove; also the bride's father, Austin Thurber and daughter, Elsie, of Freeport. At 7:45 the wedding march was played by Miss Marguerite Foster, and during the playing the bride entered on the arm of her father and took her place before the groom under an arch of flowers and white roses. The bride and groom were unattended. The bride was wearing a white crepe and wore a bridal veil with orange blossoms. Directly after the ceremony a wedding supper was served. The presents were numerous and well selected, consisting of money, linen, china, silver, etc. Previous to their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Foster were given a miscellaneous shower by their friends, at the home of Mrs. Farnsworth. Mr. and Mrs. Foster will reside in Hampton.

BASEBALL LEAGUE ORGANIZED

The Digby and Annapolis Counties Baseball League, organized at a meeting held in the Courier Building last evening plan to play their first game on May 24th. The game will be played on twilight league schedules, and will be of seven innings each. Delagated to represent from Weymouth, Bear River, Annapolis Royal and Digby at Monday night's meeting. The league will comprise the four above mentioned towns.

On motion it was decided that no league games will be played on Sunday, May 24th, as the weather is own gate receipts and pay its own expenses.

Temporary officers were elected as follows:—President—Jack Keen, Digby. Secretary—Treasurer—Vernon Bent, Digby.

Executive—E. C. Atkinson, Annapolis Royal; V. L. Harris, Bear River, and H. Brooks, Weymouth.

Max Piggett, who injured his foot recently while handling freight at the D. A. R. Station, is spending some time at his home in Bridgeport. Don Winchester is relieving at the station here.

Mrs. Burton Harvie, of Kentville has been visiting her son, Fred and Mrs. Harvie, at the Winchester Hotel.

Mr. H. A. P. Smith, of Halifax, is in town.

Band Boys Present Delightful Entertainment

On Thursday evening last the Digby Civic and Junior Bands made their initial formal appearance before a capacity audience in the Theatre Dream Theatre, when they gave a thoroughly enjoyable concert, which was opened by a few choice remarks from His Worship Mayor P. W. Holdsworth.

The bands, under the capable direction of Paul Yates, were organized on December 15th, 1932, and were therefore less than five months old when making their first public appearance. Mr. Yates and his band boys deserve the best praises of the public in this splendid and remarkable effort. There were fifty-one players on the stage, and the Courier understands that five months ago thirty-six of these had never had an instrument in their hands.

During the entertainment, A. K. Turnbull, Rev. A. E. Gabriel, H. T. Warne and Rev. Father Murphy addressed the audience, paying tribute to the band and their leader, and speaking of the value of such an organization to the community.

Special features of the program were a clarinet solo, "Moonlight and Roses," rendered by ten year old "Joe" Turnbull, the Junior member of the band; a baritone melody, "Evening Shadows," by Billie Christie (13) and Bobby Weir (12). The Junior "The Wideside Chapel," an original arrangement by the director, Paul Yates, introduced by church bells and small brass ensemble organ and hymn solo by Hedley Dakin, with male choir and brass quartette, was a general favorite.

"Scotty" McGinis, of Annapolis Royal, brought in a number of specialties and was especially well received.

SHIPPING NOTES

The "Arwana," Capt. Chisholm, arrived from Saint John, May 16, with a general cargo for H. T. Warne, and cleared the same day.

The "Alva J. Kenney," Capt. Thurber, arrived at Westport, May 15, in ballast from Gloucester, Mass.

The "Willard and Daggett" arrived at Westport, May 13, in ballast from Portland, clearing later with 12,000 lbs. of live lobsters.

On May 13, the "Taggart" cleared from Freeport for Gloucester with 730 cartons prepared clams; 16 bbls. salt mackerel and 3,000 lbs. salt fish.

Tomorrow the choir of the United Baptist Church, Digby, will hold their annual "birthday party," leaving Digby by the Digby Neck Ferry, when they will go to East Ferry for supper. In the evening they will hold a song service in the Sandy Cove Baptist Church. The Choir have been very understanding that they will also take part in the launching of the new ferry boat from the Tiverton-East Ferry service.

Mr. H. A. P. Smith, of Halifax, is in town.

"GREAT TEA"

"Fresh from the Gardens"

C. M. Young, Publisher of the Helena (Ark.) World, Says:

"Newspaper advertising is the only medium of merchandising that offers a complete check of results obtained and is the most consistent form of advertising available."

"The greatest trouble with the average merchant using newspaper advertising is inconsistency, or hit and miss advertising. While results are produced through this practice, a definite program will prove more beneficial. Constant use is necessary to reap profits."

"Not one single merchant would eat one meal a week and expect this to last him for seven days. So it is with newspaper advertising. Once the fires are kindled they must be kept burning."

"Newspaper advertising affords a merchandising medium which costs per sale are far below any other methods. Every issue of newspaper space, however, should be set aside a proportionate amount of operating budget for this use—it is in its entirety—not exceed it, and increase it with the amount of increase in volume that is sure to come."

New Railway Counsel

An official circular issued recently at Montreal, announces the appointment of E. E. Fairweather as Acting Chief Counsel, Canadian National Railways. Following upon the retirement of Gerard Ruel, the position of Vice President in charge of Legal Affairs, Canadian National Railways, was abolished and E. E. Fairweather, now named Acting Chief Counsel, was placed in charge of the Legal Department. Mr. Fairweather's title has hitherto been General Executive Assistant and Counsel. He was born at Apohaqui, N. B.

E. E. FAIRWEATHER

Mr. Fairweather, who has been in the legal profession for many years, was born at Apohaqui, N. B., and was educated at the University of New Brunswick. He has been a member of the Law Society of New Brunswick since 1908, and has been a member of the Canadian Bar Association since 1912. He has been a member of the Law Society of the Province of New Brunswick since 1912, and has been a member of the Canadian Bar Association since 1912.

EASTERN STEAMSHIP HEAD

URGES COOPERATION

"Cooperation is the bulwark of any enterprise," George Hawley, newly appointed Acting President of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., says in a letter he has sent to more than 3000 employees of that organization.

"We can only put our shoulders to the wheel and by a wholesome outpouring of our strength, we can face and a strong faith in the future, guide the destinies of our company to a prosperity which is bound to come."

Mr. Hawley is temporarily taking the place of the late president of the Eastern, Captain Eugene E. O'Donnell, whose title has been friend, and he is going to do his best, he says, to carry out the ideals of Captain O'Donnell.

Mr. Smart received a letter from his friend, Mr. Sharp and as it bore no stamp, he had to pay double postage.

The letter read: "You will be glad to hear I am doing the best of health. Yours, Sharp."

Mr. Smart wrapped up a stone and without paying the postage sent it to Sharp with the following note: "I am doing the best of my mind when I heard the good news."

"JESUS ANSWERS HIS ADVERSARIES"

Golden Text: "Never man spake like this man."—John 7:46.

Lesson Passage:—Mark 12:28-40.

"Nor doth it lessen what he taught. Or make the gospel Jesus brought Less precious, that his lips retold: Denying not the proven seers; The tested wisdom of the years; Confronting with his own impress The common law of righteousness."—Whittier.

Debate in the Temple, 28-31. As Jesus taught in the Temple during his passion week, he met many interruptions. The Pharisees sought to catch him in his words by their questions about giving tribute to Caesar. The Sadducees sought to entangle him by a question about the resurrection. The mental keenness of Jesus was shown in his replies. He was more than a match for any of his hearers. Intrigued by the replies, a scribe or lawyer asked him which was the first and greatest commandment. Jesus replied by quoting the Shema, the well known word of scripture from the Old Testament, because it was the heart of the Hebrew religion upon which all the other commandments were based. Jesus quoted the Shema, the well known word of scripture from the Old Testament, because it was the heart of the Hebrew religion upon which all the other commandments were based.

Married

Harris-Adams

The marriage of Miss Freda Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loran Adams, of Deep Brook, and Miss Harris, of Vernon Harris, of Bear River, took place at Annapolis Royal, on Sunday evening, May 14th. Rev. D. W. White performed the ceremony.

DEEP BROOK

Harry Burrill spent last week in Clementsford, called there by the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. Catherine Burrill, who passed away Tuesday morning. A very largely attended funeral service was held on Friday afternoon, conducted by Lic. Wm. H. Turner, assisted by Rev. L. H. Macdonald, of the United Church, Annapolis Royal.

Mothers' Day was appropriately recognized in both churches here on Sunday, at St. Clements (Anglican) in the morning and the Baptist in the afternoon. Good congregations were present. Helpful sermons were preached with special music by the choir. The altars were decorated with plants and cut flowers.

FRIENDSHIP LODGE ATTENDED DIVINE SERVICE, SUNDAY

Friendship Lodge, No. 122, I. O. O. F., commended the one hundred and fourteenth anniversary of the Order by parading to St. John's Church on Sunday afternoon, where they attended Divine Service. A. W. L. Smith was the preacher and gave an interesting and instructive sermon, taking the story of "The Good Samaritan" as his subject. The Lodge was honored in having Deputy Grand Master W. A. McDonald, of Halifax, preside with them on this occasion. The members were addressed by him on their return to the Lodge room. About 30 members were in attendance.

SCOUT HIKE

On Saturday the hiking season opened for the local troop and they had as visitors a large representation from the Digby Troop. The Digby boys arrived at 9:30 and in a short time twenty-six members of both troops started off for the head of the tide and then up the East Branch road to the picnic grounds in the Big Salmon Hole. After arriving there the group was organized into four patrols, two of which were put under the leadership of the two under Bear River Patrol Leaders. Assistant Scout Master McDormand had supervision over two patrols and Troop Leader Purdy over the other two. Each Patrol had their own fire for the mid-day meal and some cooking tests were passed.

Around Our Town

Tourist Travel in 1933

Tourist travel for the summer of 1933 is now of extreme interest locally. With money scarce from other sources, the prospective contribution from tourists this year is one of our most interesting prospects. We spent a half hour one day recently with Mr. A. T. Smith, the General Freight and Passenger Agent of the D. A. R., and summer tourist travel for 1933 was almost the entire subject of our conversation. Mr. Smith told us that their organization had been making inquiries among tourist agencies of New England, and had been rather encouraged by what they had been told but he himself recognized that the scarcity of money last year still persisted, and he was wondering how the cancellation of prohibition on beer would affect the travel habit of those American citizens who had felt an urge to go to Canada in recent years.

There was no doubt Mr. Smith thought that summer resorts in their own country would be more attractive to a lot of American people in 1933 than they were last year and for some previous years. But on the other hand, he said, Nova Scotia's attractions were now much better known than in earlier days, and the stories of our summer climate, our motor drives, our scenery, and the opportunities for golf, tennis, fishing and shooting, also the hospitality of our people, had created an appetite for seeing us. He was bound to show results in many places even in a season when supplies of money for holidaying were far below normal.

"Time was," continued Mr. Smith, "when tourist travel to the Maritimes was handicapped by poor roads for motor cars and a poor hotel service. These disadvantages, however, have now entirely disappeared. Speaking of hotels, I might observe that the Lakeside Inn at Yarmouth, will open on June 28th, and the Pines at Digby on June 27th."

Asked about the summer steamship service from the United States to Maritime ports, Mr. Smith said that the new ship "Saint John" would have three sailings from Boston to Saint John each week, and that after June 15th, between Boston and Yarmouth there would be two sailings per week. Sailings between New York and Yarmouth will open on June 15th, and there will be two each week. Incidentally, the Flying Bluebonnet train between Halifax and Yarmouth will be operated only on the days when connection can be made with the New York steamer; in other words, twice a week.

"The D. A. R.," said Mr. Smith, "is making a special effort to bring outside people to the Apple Blossom Festival at Kentville on June 2, 3 and 4. The Nova Scotia Government has invited Senator Byrd, of Virginia, and Hon. Alfred B. Smith, once a presidential candidate, to be their guests at this festival. The latter is well-known to Canadian and the former is said to be one of the largest producers of apples in the world. We hope they will both come. We are trying to secure a number of visitors from the United States on this particular occasion, and we, rather the C. P. R., will run a special train from Montreal to Saint John to connect with steamer service across the Bay for that particular date. It is not safe to make positive predictions, but we are hopeful that they shall bring quite a few outsiders to the Kentville Festival this year."

For several years, Mr. Smith told us, the D. A. R. has been giving special encouragement to the visit of American school teachers. "They felt," said he, "that visitors of this class were likely to be good story tellers, and that the stories they told their pupils about the delights of the Maritimes, would have a far-reaching effect. Last year a teacher's paper, 'The Instructor,' published at Danville, New York, offered a prize for the best story of a visit by any of its readers in the previous year. The story that won first prize was written by Sister Lorette of the Immaculate Conception Convent, Tuckahoe, N. Y., and the subject was 'The Land of the Maritimes.' All over the United States, this story was read, and many inquiries have already come to us from people who hope to visit Nova Scotia this year. Mr. Smith mentioned another factor which has a lot to do with the making of a good tourist season. This is the weather. The sun, and heat come early, it means that travel makes an earlier start. He was hoping that this year would be a long one. (Courtesy of 'The Maritime Merchant'.)

Obituary

Roscoe Hassett

Roscoe Hassett, 56, contractor at South Yarmouth, Mass., and a resident of Somerville, for many years, died at his home on April 27th, after a long illness. Mr. Hassett was a native of Digby County but went to Boston as a young man. He was employed for many years in the trucking business of A. M. Davis there, and later with the Fruit and Produce Exchange of Somerville. In 1917 he married Edna M. Taylor, of Somerville. They moved to the Cape Cod. He was a member of John Abbott Lodge, A. P. and A. M., and Howard Lodge, South Yarmouth; the Eastern Star, of Yarmouth, and the First Corps Cadets, Surviving are Mrs. Hassett, three children, James, Jean and John; and three brothers and six sisters, Harlow and Marjorie of Weymouth, Conn.; Clinton, of Boston; Mrs. Arthur M. Seaborn, of Waltham; Mrs. Ida L. Davis, of Somerville, Mass.; Mrs. John C. Delphin, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Herbert S. Mullen, of New Tuxedo, Digby Co.; Mrs. Harold Hallock, of Cape Cod; Mrs. Frank Hughes, of Arlington, Mass.

Joan Agnes Bonenfant

Word has been received by relatives at Belliveau's Cove, of the death of Joan Agnes, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Bonenfant, which occurred at the Hartford Hospital on May 8th, of meningitis. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved parents.

Norris Rand

The death of Norris Rand occurred at his late home at Weymouth North, at an early hour on Friday morning. Although deceased had not been in good health for some time, he had only been confined to his bed for a few days. His death came as a great shock to his relatives and friends. He was 61 years of age. He was survived by his widow, who was formerly Mrs. Annie Hanks, of Weymouth North; two daughters, the Misses Ruberta and Margaret; and a son, Frederick, at home; also three sisters, Mrs. Percy Ellis, of Cunard; Mrs. Jackson, of Dartmouth, and Mrs. Denison, of Weymouth. A funeral service was held from his late home at Weymouth North, on Sunday afternoon with interment in St. Peter's Anglican cemetery. Rev. L. W. Mosher, rector of the church, officiating. The funeral was largely attended.

Rural Deacons Meet at Middleton

The Digby-Annapolis County Deacons met in Holy Trinity Church at Middleton, on Tuesday and Wednesday last week with Dr. A. B. Smith, of Clements, in the chair. The clergy present were Canon Underwood, Bridgetown; Reverends Rand, Middleton; Anderson, Grandville; Mosher, Weymouth, and Gabriel, Digby. The service opened on Tuesday, the address being delivered by Rev. Mr. Anderson. A congregational service was held Tuesday evening in which Canon Underwood, Mr. Gabriel, Mr. Mosher and Mr. Anderson took part. The Deacons address was delivered in an earnest and masterly manner by the Rural Deacons. Wednesday sessions were opened by celebration of Holy Communion at 9 a.m. An interesting paper was given by Rev. Mr. Mosher on the Oxford Movement.

Temperance Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service Council and Temperance Alliance)

You have all heard of the famous British philanthropist, Dr. Thomas John Barnardo. He was the founder of the famous Barnardo Homes, established in London, England, in 1866, and now multiplied to 150 branches of various kinds, not only in the chief cities and towns of England, but also in Canada and other British dominions. The homes have had as their object the rescuing, training, and placing out in suitable situations in life of destitute, orphaned and forlorn children, irrespective of age, sex or creed. They have done a marvellous work, no fewer than 110,000 children having passed under their care during the sixty or more years of their existence.

Back in 1871, some five years after the work was begun, the Earl of Shaftesbury, who did much to reform the social conditions of his time, asked Dr. Barnardo to compile statistics of his wards and let him know what was the chief cause of the children's destitution, and to work and make a faithful survey. Here are his words:

"I tabulated in special columns the various traceable causes which led to the children becoming candidates for the home, and the astonishing fact emerged (doubtless astonishing to me, because I was not then a total abstainer myself nor even in sympathy with the movement) that no less than 85 per cent. owed their social ruin and the long train of their distress to the influence, direct or indirect, of the drinking habits of their parents, grandparents or other relatives."

This discovery shocked Dr. Barnardo into becoming a total abstainer himself. Sixty years ago, knowledge of the many ramifications of the drink evil was only dawning upon the minds of even quite intelligent people. We have travelled far since that day. Temperance education, organization and legislation have done much to cleanse society of many of the bitter evils of intemperance. The younger folk of today are growing up in a comparatively sober atmosphere, and have not seen with their own eyes the disastrous blight of the drink evil. Let us be thankful for all that. But we are not so much pleased to see the action. The same old ugly monster appears before this generation, robed in most attractive guise and speaking a language of smooth and winsome words that may deceive the elect. Would it not be pathetic, yes tragic, if we had to go back to the practice of drinking of other days, and let history repeat itself with withering blight, in order to learn the direful evils out of which we have been through the travail of the years at least partly rescued?

VALLEY MEDICAL SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Valley Medical Society was held at Annapolis on Friday, with afternoon and evening sessions at the Queen hotel. Fifteen members were in attendance.

Papers were read by Dr. A. B. Campbell, Bear River; Dr. E. A. Ferguson, Weymouth; Dr. H. R. Corbett, of the Sanatorium staff, Kentville; Dr. O. R. Stone, Bridgetown; and Dr. W. R. Dickie, Digby.

The following officers were elected: President, Dr. L. B. Braine, Annapolis; Vice-Presidents, Dr. Hugh MacKinnon, Berwick, for Kings; Dr. E. B. Hall, Bridgetown, for Annapolis; Dr. Ferguson, Weymouth, for Digby; and Secretary-Treasurer, Dr. E. H. Kelly, Middleton.

ELBOW GREASE NOT NEEDED

Dirt washes off without scrubbing... With Gillett's Pure Flake Lye you can actually wash the dirt away. Use a solution of 1 teaspoonful of Gillett's Lye dissolved in a quart of cold water. One combi-bomb and stains. No scrubbing. No scrubbing needed.

Gillett's Pure Flake Lye will not harm enamel or plumbing. Use it full strength for cleaning toilet bowls and clearing drains. It kills germs, and takes away odor, too. Order a tin today. At your grocer's. Never dissolve lye in hot water. The action of the lye itself heats the water.

RICHES

(Edgar A. Guest)
He who has gold has little to hold. But he with a friend or two Has treasures which shall make him rich. His whole long lifetime through. He who has fame its joy may claim 'Til a clever man shall rise, But he who is kind shall friendship find. 'Til death shall shut his eyes. He who has land may respect command But the man with a friend to his journey's end 'Til change shall his fortune steal, Has something whose worth is real. He who has power in one short swift hour To a stronger man may fall. But who has stayed true to the best he knew Has wealth that surpasseth all.

The Schoolmaster, having completed his lesson on America, asked one of the pupils, "What is a bison?" The youthful scholar was astonished for a moment. The question was too simple. Then he replied: "A bison! Why a bison is what maverick makes the puddin' in."

Yet some of the group are fated to become tubercular cases within the next five years unless...

The dread "t. b.", which takes a toll of almost 600 lives every year in Nova Scotia, is no respecter of persons. It is a disease that may strike down anyone, rich or poor, whose resistance happens to be temporarily lowered.

But it is developed and spread most readily amongst the poor and underprivileged, who are unable to pay for the necessary care and treatment. The disease in consequence, necessary care and treatment. The disease in consequence, necessary care and treatment. The disease in consequence, necessary care and treatment.

It is this vital problem which is now being tackled by the White Crusaders, and in which your enlistment is asked. By joining the White Crusade, and persuading others to join, you can help to save lives—and protect the health and happiness of your family and friends.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

Recently the daily press announced that there would be no complimentary passes given out for the Provincial Exhibition at Halifax, this year. Right on top of that announcement we receive columns of propaganda which we are expected to publish free of charge.

The nerve of some people.

I know that those who think us newspaper chaps have a soft snap of it—passes to this and passes to that, but believe me, we have to work for such little courtesies, and more times than not we are expected to print columns of material before the big event takes place, and give a glowing account of it. It is all over, at the same time forking over the price of admission just the same as anybody else. Also, it is not unusual for us to be given "Hall, Columbia!" because our account was not as full of the little details that the sponsors would like to see.

However, we don't mind this much, in fact it is a pleasure to publish such accounts, especially when we are charged for use of our columns for advertising, but it does hurt sometimes to pay our hard earned half back to see the show, then spend a half hour or so waiting after it, instead of a "thank you" have someone call on us later to ask what sort of a paper we're running and why we thunder didn't we say such and such.

I'm merely getting a few remarks off my chest, not hitting at anybody in particular. Somebody once made a remark that there were two things the public knew more about than those who made them their life work—one of those things was to run a newspaper, the other, to build roads. Let's let it go at that.

Are we proud of the Digby Band? I should say we are. Since Thursday night's concert a great deal has been said and all seem to think that Paul Yates has accomplished nothing short of a miracle in training those lads as he has. Think of it! Five months ago, thirty-six (I believe) of the fifty-one players on the stage last Thursday couldn't read a note of music, and there isn't a hand in the Province who could on a concert such as the Digby Civic and Junior Bands put on in the Elbow Dream Theatre on Thursday night. We all realize that it must have meant a tremendous amount of hard work and patience on the part of the leader and players.

"The big oak does not grow from the little acorn that has no ambition."

—Ye Junior Ed.

JUNIOR CLUB NEWS

A Concert

The Clementsvalle Dramatic Club held a concert in their school on Wednesday evening, May 3rd. We shall look forward to hearing a more detailed report of its success. These pupils have been very active in several lines, this winter.

The Music Festivals

Tentative dates for our Field Days and Music Festivals are: Barton, June 5th; Clementsvalle, June 6th; Nictaux, June 7th; Carleton Corner, June 8th. All schools are now busy making preparations for these events. Every school should have a banner showing the school's name and chosen colors. It would be a fine feature if we could arrange a simple parade of all schools, just previous to the musical program at 2 o'clock. In view of this, each school could now plan its banner which could be made by some of the older pupils. Fasten your banner to a wooden frame (this could be made of laths), so as to make it solid and easy to carry. This banner could be the permanent property of your club for many years. It could be made of cotton, flannel, felt or any other material.

your teacher thinks is suitable.

O Canada

Schools entered in the Music Festivals will sing "O Canada" and "God Save the King." This will be sung by all schools at one time. For the accepted version of the words see Journal of Education, March 1932.

JUST AROUND THE CORNER

Development and wealth do not come unassisted. It may be just around the corner, but some other place will entice it away unless it is gone after. It is going somewhere and should come to Digby.

The town must be made attractive to both people and capital before it can be successfully developed. Parks and playgrounds, entertainments for diversion of mind, and the best in churches and schools. Opportunities presented such as exceptional musical attraction should not be overlooked. Natural attractions must be augmented and as long as a town is content to remain idle while far less advantageous places work, development and prosperity will ever be just around the corner or a little further away.

A better understanding and appreciation of the worth to the individual is necessary. With the realization that the town's growth and development means individual growth and development, and more and better opportunities for their children, then will there be greater cooperation. It is difficult to impress too strongly the importance of the work that is necessary to be done.

ENJOYING THE OUTDOORS

Life becomes more rosy for everybody as column after column in the newspapers announces a camp for this group, an outing for that group, a picnic for store employees, an excursion for plant workmen, all in the name of healthful outdoor relaxation.

This hieing to the open has become a great national custom. And it is not all sentiment. Foremen and employers have learned the psychology of turning their workers loose on the picnic grounds for even half a day's outing. Clerks are enspirited by the very announcement of such pleasure and anticipation of the event keeps them on their toes while at work. Even after the great day ends and the prospect of the work day dawns, there is a new kind of enthusiasm for the job at hand.

The misfortune in Canada is that this highly desirable break-away from the job occurs only during the summer. Other seasons of the year make such interruptions in the work just as desirable. The Saturday half-day runs through the year in many establishments. If Canadians could spend more time in the open, they would be the better for it. They are spending much more than they once did, but they can spend still more without indulging in excesses.

Another nice thing to lay up for a rainy day is a reputation for paying your bills.

Nothing else reconciles you to hateful people like the discovery that you can use them.

All the average man wants is a dollar that will buy lots of everything except what he has to sell.

The world grows better in some ways. Those who are playing bridge can't recite poetry at you.

The age of discretion is when you realize that your troubles would have been few if you had kept your mouth shut.

But, alas! Your grandchildren will thank you a liar when you tell them how cheap you could have bought it in 1933.

It would be great if some people talked as well as they do loud.

Temperance
Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service

Science has become a teetotaler. Speaking of the Pasteur Institute, Paris, in "My Magazine" of August, 1931, Arthur Mee, the editor wrote: "Here is that science became a teetotaler, for it was in this Pasteur Institute that Metchnikoff made his immortal discovery of what alcohol really does." It was Van Leeuwenhoek, a Dutch microscopist of the 17th century, who first discovered that the blood, that great transportation agency of the body, is made up of cells or corpuscles, some red, some white. Louis Pasteur, a noted French scientist of the 19th century, opened up a new world for mankind in his discovery of microbes in the air as a source of disease. Metchnikoff, the Russian biologist, coming after them both, announced to the world that the white corpuscles in the blood are nature's defence garrison against the invading microbes that produce disease. Ever at the beck and call of headquarters, these white corpuscles rush at a given signal to the point invaded and line up in active battle against the foreign foe. The battle goes on for days or weeks or years, new corpuscles replacing old ones as they are slain in the fight. Upon the issue of the battle hangs the life of the patient. Metchnikoff discovered that alcohol by its ever-deadening touch weakens these white corpuscles in their battle with the enemy of life.

Then, too, there are the red corpuscles which function in part as distributors of oxygen, the life of the lungs to all parts of the body. It is said that every red corpuscle of the millions in the blood makes a complete circuit once every minute in the fourteen days of its existence. Always there are old corpuscles finishing their career, always there are new ones being produced to take their place. Metchnikoff has shown that alcohol, not content with crippling the white corpuscles in their emergency duties of defence, cripples also the red corpuscles in their constant, ever-present task of ministering the essentials of life to the body. Again Arthur Mee says, "The indictment upon which science has sentenced alcohol to death is that it is the red cells in distributing life and hinders the white cells in resisting death." And this is the thing that tries to pass among us in the guise of friendship. And this is the thing that has won for itself many ardent advocates! If they only knew—

ARBOR DAY AT WEYMOUTH AND WEYMOUTH NORTH SCHOOLS

Arbor Day was celebrated in the Weymouth and Weymouth North schools on Friday. In the afternoon the pupils of the two schools held a soft ball game and two basketball games on the Weymouth Athletic Association Grounds, it being the first time the school teams have played this year.

The soft ball game was uneventful and one sided, the Weymouth North girls put up a good fight, but the Weymouth girls seemed to have it all over them, and the score at the end of the three innings played was 25-8 in favor of Weymouth. The baseball games were however, much more interesting and the good work done by all of the teams in the two games played by over one hundred guests, a large array of pretty and useful gifts being received. The happy couple left the following day on a honeymoon trip to New York and Washington, D. C. On their return they will reside in Lynn, Mass.

Married

Comeau—Spragg

The marriage of Miss Annabelle Spragg, daughter of Mr. Mary and the late Walter Spragg, of Weymouth, N.S., to Leo Comeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Comeau, also of Weymouth Mills, was solemnized in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Weymouth, one morning recently, Rev. Father Melanson, officiating. The bride was attired in a dress of white lace and carried as bridesmaid, Ernest Thibault acted as groomsmen.

Comeau—Deveau

The marriage of Miss Mary Deveau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin B. Deveau, of Salmon River, to Eugene Comeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Comeau, also of Salmon River, was solemnized at the Roman Catholic Church of St. Vincent de Paul on Wednesday morning, May 10th, Rev. Father A. Maillet, officiating. The ceremony was followed by the Nuptial High Mass. Miss Ina Deveau, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while Leo H. Deveau assisted the groom. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride immediately after the ceremony, after which the happy couple motored to Yarmouth, and upon their return a wedding supper and reception was held at the home of the groom's parents. They were the recipients of a number of pretty and useful gifts. The happy couple will reside in Salmon River.

LaVallee—Comeau

St. John's Baptist Church at Lynn, Mass., was recently the scene of a pretty wedding when Miss Helen Comeau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Comeau, of Meteghan River, was united in marriage to Harold LaVallee, of Malden, Mass. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father A. Vigneault, the church being beautifully decorated for the occasion. The bride was attractively gowned in white satin and antique lace with conventional veil and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Emma Drouin, who was dressed in pale orchard crepe and carried a bouquet of tea roses. Arthur Comeau, brother of the bride, acted as groomsmen. After the ceremony a reception was held at the Deer Cove Inn at Swampscott, Mass., which was attended by over one hundred guests, a large array of pretty and useful gifts being received. The happy couple left the following day on a honeymoon trip to New York and Washington, D. C. On their return they will reside in Lynn, Mass.

JIG SAW
Give me that little scrap of tree—
And take this bit of roof!
That's grass, I guess; and this must be the off coach horse's hoof!
Now just a minute; please don't mind;
This fits that jag of red;
And this goes thus—and so we find
The landlord has a head!
Just like those English supplements
To Christmas magazines,
Now take those clippings wing and wing,
Or that lion by the sea—
They're really more the sort of thing

That have appeal for me.
No! No! Don't put that wiggle one Down there... Like this... Look here!
I guess that funny piece was done
To represent a deer.
Oh, look! It's her father kissing her!
So, with a desperate intent,
They strove from plight to plight—
And one who wondered what it meant
Fled gibbering through the night!
You keep the horses where they were.
I've got that coachman now—
Oh, look! It's her father kissing her!
So, with a desperate intent,
They strove from plight to plight—
And one who wondered what it meant
Fled gibbering through the night!
You keep the horses where they

Obituary

J. Howe Gidney

The death occurred at Wolfville, the Sunday morning, May 21st, of J. Howe Gidney, after an illness. Gidney was the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gidney, of Digby County. His eldest brother, Samuel Gidney, predeceased him eleven months ago. He is survived by his wife, who before her marriage, was Mary Robbins, of Rossport, one son, E. M. Gidney, of Halifax, and three grandchildren, Doris, Marjorie and Mary Gidney. The funeral service was held at his late residence, on Acadia Street, and was conducted by Rev. G. A. Ernst, rector of Saint John's Church, assisted by Rev. F. H. Eaton. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful. Burial was made in the Aylesford cemetery.

Mrs. James Rook, wife of James Rook, occurred at her home in Hill Grove early Tuesday morning. The deceased, who was 66 years of age, was the wife of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Nichols, and is survived by her husband, one brother, Goudy Nichols, of Acadiaville, one sister, Mrs. Mary Nichols, of Acadiaville, and one son, William, of Acadiaville. The funeral service was held at her home, on Hill Grove, and was conducted by Rev. G. A. Ernst, rector of Saint John's Church, assisted by Rev. F. H. Eaton. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful. Burial was made in the Aylesford cemetery.

William Lent, On Friday morning, May 19th, at the home of Mrs. Annie Copeland, Deep Brook, passed away William Lent, aged 72 years. He was a few days ill. He is survived by a wife and four children, all in the United States. One son, Leslie, who is on his way to Camp Hill Hospital, Halifax, for treatment, arrived here a few days before his father's death and remained for the funeral services which were held Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. A. W. L. Smith, of St. Matthew's Church. The funeral took place in Mount Hope cemetery, at Bear River. Rev. Stanley S. Steeves of the Bear River Baptist Church conducted the service at the graveside.

JUNIOR CLUB NEWS

News From Virginia East
From Hilda Robar, Virginia East school, we have a report of their activities. Hilda says they have been busy preparing an Empire Day program. They have eight house plants in their windows at school and other members are yet to donate something in that line to add to the appearance of the school. They have four baskets of candy, and they are anxiously watched by the club members. In a Junior Red Cross Portfolio they are making their own money by selling candy. The chalk-board borders for Empire Day were to be made up of the emblems of many countries of the world.

Attention, Everybody!
Field Days with Sports and Music will be held at the following places on the dates given: Bear River, 5th; Clementsport, June 6th; Nic-tau, June 7th and Carleton's Corner, June 8th. The Sports program will begin at ten a. m. and the music at two in the afternoon. There will be a Singing Game, a Song and a Folk Dance by each school, so you see this will be a worthwhile event. Your interest and support can best be manifested by your attendance. The Clementsport program will be Sports alone and the program will begin in the afternoon at two o'clock, instead of in the morning as in the other places mentioned.

From Lower Granville
Pauline Johnson, of Lower Granville says they are busy with School Fair work. Recently they put on a short program at which their parents were present. They had songs, readings and recitations. At the School Fair they will sing the song, "The Founding of Granville."

Caring For Shrubs
From Bear River East they write that they are caring for their shrubs and watching them grow. In a few years their school ground will be a place of beauty if they continue to care for it. The pupils have organized their efforts in caring for the plants so that they can get the best possible results. They have play-ground equipment now. Two swans, two ducks and jumping standards. They are all very proud to be able to salute their new flag every morning. It is a gift from the John Stewart Chapter I. O. D. E.

A Contest
A prize will be given for the best cover design submitted for the Junior Club News. Members trying this contest may use any design they think is appropriate for the season. All designs must be original and lettering as well as good spacing and attention to margins.

Between Ourselves

"Believe It or Not!" I was an honorary member of the Digby Baptist Choir last Saturday afternoon and evening—and yet at home my Dad never throws his shoes at a concert unless he is sure that I am in the house—he's afraid that it may not be a home after all and that it might be me singing "Just an Echo in the Valley."

Honestly folks, last Saturday afternoon and evening with the Baptist Choir folks was one of the merriest days of my young life, spent with the choicest and loveliest people in the land. I don't know yet how I can thank them, especially "Mr. Guy" and "By" Blackford.

Guy Morehouse called me up last Tuesday morning and invited me to come along. It took no coaxing or flattery for me to accept. We left Saturday afternoon with a bus full of mail, parcels of all sorts and descriptions, including a live pig. There were about a dozen of us, and we were all in the mood to go. We took the East Ferry and picked up six girl hikers—the men folk had no trouble finding lap room for them.

When we arrived at East Ferry "By" Blackford took us across the bridge to Tiverton in his new ferry boat—the first trip of this fine new craft was saved especially for us. Afterward he took us on a little cruise through the passage down to Bear's Head. Light and landed us safe and sound, with good appetites at the East Ferry Breakwater.

"By's" new boat certainly is a credit to him and to its builder, J. Burwell Outhouse. Roomy and comfortable and fitted out with a fine cabin and three powerful motors. I asked "By" what he was going to name it, and he said, "I think I'll call it—I think I will."

At Mrs. Ella Harris', East Ferry, we filled up on the best lobster chowder you ever tasted with everything needed to go with it. I'm not going to "tell tales out of school" but I am still wondering how Chester Levy found room for everything, and how we all found room for the delicious ice cream and humpteen keds of cake served us at Sandy Cove by the ladies of the Sandy Cove Baptist Church later in the evening, but that comes later.

After supper we piled in the 'bus again and went to Sandy Cove where the choir held a song service in the Baptist Church in that beautiful village. By the way the church filled up I think that they were expecting something out of the ordinary in the way of a musical treat. They were not disappointed, it was a wonderful service and I only wish I knew enough about music to describe it. The pastor of the church, Rev. C. L. Chute, gave us a short address and expressed his appreciation on behalf of the congregation to the choir.

After the service we started for home, singing old hymns and favorite songs most of the way, in fact not even a note was missed while driving over the bumps and bumps on the road through Lake Midway, and that is saying a whole lot.

Well, thanks again folks—and if you don't mind, I'm going to drop a little hint right now, and say that when next year you "read" that I hope I'll be an honorary member of the choir on your birthday picnic again.

The Apple Blossom Festival is to be held at Kentville on June 3-4-5—that's next week-end isn't it? Many of us hope to be there. The "Kentville Advertiser" is certainly to be congratulated on the splendid 40-page advertising supplement they printed last week in connection with the Festival.

NOVA SCOTIA'S TOURIST TRADE OPPORTUNITIES. NO. 13
By Thomas F. Anderson.

I have recently been enjoying a brief tour through parts of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, re-seeing the apple-blossoms, the lilacs, the wisteria and other blooms that in a few weeks are to be the pride and glory of Nova Scotia. Incidentally, I may have acquired a little "inspiration" for this article.

The whole world seems to have recently become apple-blossom conscious—even Massachusetts, which is famous for its orchards, has been grabbed from Nova Scotia, and adopted as the official State flower, some years ago.

The Boston "Herald" also has become apple-blossom conscious, and lately editorialized to the effect that "persons who rhapsodize the natural beauties of Europe, or tell of apple-blossom time in Normandy, or run over to Washington to enjoy the fiery of the peach trees, should not forget that there is a comparable spring show in Massachusetts every spring."

The Herald also adds that the "blow" of apple-blossoms is unusually striking this year, and that in the orchard sections a spectacular exhibition is about due. The writer adds that "when the low-lying trees, and the tall, snow-covered trees are in full bloom, they are magnificent. Their day of glory is over, but the memory of beauty which comes from an hour among them is long and fragrant."

All of which reminds me that, ac-

According to a report from a friend of mine who has been recently vacationing in Virginia, the annual Shenandoah Apple-Blossom Festival in that state this spring attracted fully 75,000 spectators. Millions of apple trees were in bloom there in the Fall; program, included the crowning of the Queen of the Festival; Miss Francoise May, daughter of the Belgian Ambassador to the United States.

The substantial aftermath of this picturesque blossom festival in the historic Shenandoah Valley is, of course, the great harvest of ripe apples in the Fall; and it is estimated that more than 4,000 bushel baskets of these are shipped by Winchester residents as individual gifts to friends in the East and elsewhere. The city of Winchester, itself, with a population of 10,000, has one of the world's largest cold-storage plants, with a capacity of 750,000 barrels.

My friend also writes me (although it has not yet been definitely announced here) that Virginia has decided to open an official tourist bureau in Boston—meaning more tourist trade competition for New England and the Maritime Provinces.

The state of Washington also has been having its Fourteenth Annual Apple-Blossom Festival in the Wenatchee Valley, May 6, at which the festival prize was awarded to "Miss Prosperity" in the attractive person of Miss Roberta Hansel, who practically constituted a decorative float all by herself.

Meantime, the Boston Newspapers are blossoming out with attractive apple-blossom advertising, announcing the coming Fall Apple-Blossom Festival at Kentville, Nova Scotia—advertisements that are most seductive, and which undoubtedly will attract a considerable number of lovers of nature from New England. These announcements, of course, are by the interested transportation companies.

The Kentville Festival, with its well-thought-out and alluring program, means so much to the future of Nova Scotia as a tourist section that I have felt constrained to return to the subject, and to express the hope that the people of the entire Province will give it their support and forget any possible "local jealousies."

What Kentville is doing for itself and the Annapolis Valley next month will help to advertise the whole beautiful Province, from Cape Fortune to Cape North, and everybody will eventually benefit from it. Nothing but exceptionally bad weather can prevent the Kentville celebration from being the most important advertisement for Nova Scotia that it has had in recent years.

Miss McKersy, of the Department of Mother's Allowances, was in Bear River on Friday last in the interest of her department, leaving here to go to Margaretsville.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Harris, Mrs. W. Romans, Miss Mary Romans and Henry Romans motored to Bridgetown on Tuesday and spent the day with friends.

Miss Maude Jenkins, of Saint John, has been the guest of the Grand Central Hotel for the past week, working in the interest of "The Chateaufort Magazine."

Cordon Benson returned from Halifax on Friday last. Friendly greetings were extended to him by his little daughter, Joyce, who will regret to know that she is away from school again through illness.

Dr. J. D. MacKenzie, of Halifax, Provincial Pathologist, was the guest of his niece, Mrs. J. D. Hubley and Mr. Hubley for the week-end, leaving on Sunday evening to return to the city.

Mrs. Rose Ford spent several days in Halifax last week, attending the graduation exercises of the N. S. Technical College, where her son, Wilson Harlow Ford graduated in electrical engineering.

Mrs. A. M. Simons entertained at three tables of "Contract" on Thursday evening last week, in honor of Mrs. MacNeill, of Antigonish, who received a dainty prize.

The other honors went to Mrs. A. G. MacIntyre and Mrs. A. J. McKenna. Mrs. J. H. Cunningham and Mrs. A. G. MacIntyre entertained at a most enjoyable bridge on Monday evening.

The prizes were won by Mrs. L. V. Harris and Miss Mary Romans. Mrs. MacNeill received a special prize.

Mrs. W. M. Romans held a very delightful three table bridge on Saturday evening, when the prizes went to Mrs. H. H. Cunningham and Mrs. A. G. MacIntyre.

Mrs. MacNeill, of Antigonish, the affair also celebrated the birthday of Miss Mary Romans.

The many friends of H. Clifford Rice, of Kennebec, will be interested to hear of his marriage on May 24, to Miss Agnes McPherson, R. V. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McPherson, of Hampton, N. B.

The ceremony was performed at early mass by Father McCarthy. After short trip they will reside in Kennebec.

Bear River Will Hold Exhibition This Fall Is Decided

A social gathering under the auspices of the Bear River Agricultural Society was held on Monday evening, May 22, in Mrs. Hubley's Tea Room.

After the serving of a tasteful bear supper matters appertaining to the welfare of the Agricultural Society were presented to the guests by President H. E. Chisholm and Secretary F. H. Parker.

Various questions were discussed, chief among which was the matter of holding an exhibition in Bear River the coming fall.

It was unanimously decided that an exhibition should be held for two days—on September 10th and 20th—and it is hoped that in this connection the Agricultural Society will have the moral as well as the financial support of the community at large.

Efforts are to be made to erect a number of sheds to house the live stock being exhibited, and it is felt that with some voluntary labor this can be accomplished without excessive expenditure.

During the evening a membership roll was circulated and signed up 100 per cent.

The fee is only one dollar, but with a membership of 300, means all paying their fee of one dollar, would mean financial support of considerable weight to the society.

ES in your dollar to President Chisholm or Secretary Parker and help the cause along.

Rev. A. W. L. Smith, Rural Dean.
Rector.

Next Sunday will be the Sunday after Ascension, often referred to as Expectation Sunday, being in the period during which the disciples were waiting in prayer and supplication the promised gift of the Holy Ghost, who came on Pentecost.

Between the Ascension and Pentecost was a period of ten days, the Twelve Apostles to fill the place of the traitor Judas Iscariot, who had hanged himself.

The arrangement for Sunday services is:—
10.30 a.m.—Bear River
3.00 p.m.—Clementsport
7.30 p.m.—Victory
Sunday School at Clementsport at 2 p.m., and at Bear River at 3 p.m.

It is the hope of the Synod for collections on behalf of Canadian missions.

I would not if I could Renew a life which still seems sweet and good;

I keep it in my prime,
A not uncheerful step with time.

THE MERRY MONTH OF MAY
She is like a fairy Queen
All arrayed in emerald green.
When the violets lift their heads
From their low and mossy beds,
They will leave us all too soon
For that Rose decked month of June.

The merry month of May
When the robins build their nests,
Choosing mates to love the best,
And the world is full of song,
Children "happy" all day long,
Spring will leave us all too soon
For that Rose decked month of June.

The merry month of May
When the apples blossoms bloom,
Fill the air with sweet perfume.
Yellow daisies lift their heads
To the dainty cow-slip beds,
They will leave us all too soon
For that Rose decked month of June.

"JESUS AND HIS FRIENDS"
Golden Text:—"Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you."—John 14: 14.

Lesson Passage:—Mark 13: 32-34: 9.

"I thank thee, Father, for this, another day.
May I receive it as a trust from thee.
For this my Lord, my God, I pray.

Fill me with thy love divine this day.
May I bring hope and cheer to weary souls;
For this my Lord, my God, I pray.

Help me to conquer sin and self to-day.
To banish fear, alarm; and trust for thee;
For this my Lord, my God, I pray.

May I thy boundless love reveal this day;
Thy truth declare, thy errands run.
May I but know and do thy Holy will, I pray!"

—Frederick D. Raymond.

On Guard, 33-37

In reading of the last days of Jesus with his disciples one feels the limitations of human nature.

They had been greatly privileged by sharing the companionship of Jesus. During those last days he had explained to them very fully his purpose. They had been quickened spiritually, and should have risen to great heights of devotion. Yet it was at this very time that they signally failed, miserably even, in that they were in danger, and undertook to warn them. He was more concerned for them than for himself. After events proved that his warning was needed. They failed to watch and pray, and they failed to keep their hearts from being troubled. They were physically tired and emotionally distraught, but the fact is that Christ's prediction was fulfilled, and he found them sleeping. Instead of condemning the disciples harshly, let us frankly recognize how much we resemble them. All of us alike need to be on guard against temptation. It is not enough to watch, we must watch and pray, because prayer builds strength into the character, and makes us faithful in keeping guard.

New Brunswick Lady Found Relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mrs. A. Logan Took Friend's Advice and Now Feels Free

St. John, N.B., May 22.—(Special) Amongst the many persons paying their tribute to Dodd's Kidney Pills it is noticeable that the great majority are women. The reason for this being that nearly all of women's ills come from the kidneys.

The following statement comes from Mrs. Arthur Logan, 92 Adelaide St. St. John, N.B. She writes: "My back ached to ache terribly and morning and night I got up in the morning with my hands and ankles were swollen. I did not care whether I did my housework or not. I did not seem to get any relief from many remedies, but they did not seem to do any good. A friend of mine told me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I got a box and they helped me. I took three more boxes and now I am well. I cannot praise Dodd's Kidney Pills enough. I recommend them to every woman who suffers from kidney ailments, and I always keep a box on hand in case I need them again."

A Lasting Memorial, 6-9

This week approximately ten million in Sunday schools in the North American continent will hear the story of the announcing in Bethany. The narrative may be read in nearly every Sunday school in the world. In the hands of different tongues and dialects into which the New Testament has been translated around the globe. The saying of Jesus has been literally fulfilled. The world's friend in Bethany is known.

He did not do to her because he looked to him for guidance. Or Hitler, a few days ago, making his speech urging Nationalism for Germany. He gave a most striking address in his country, with his burning words and over production of merchandise.

One could also picture the war conditions in China and Japan, and see Gandhi with his homespun shawl about his shoulders sitting in an Indian prison, while his thousands looked to him for guidance. Or Hitler, a few days ago, making his speech urging Nationalism for Germany. He gave a most striking address in his country, with his burning words and over production of merchandise.

possessed it. How much happier was the memory that she had bestowed it upon Jesus while opportunity remained!

Questions to Discuss:
1.—Against what do we most need to be on guard?
2.—In former times there were men who would not speak during the week, but would not whistle on Sunday. What kind of training accounts for these standards?
3.—The Disciples who expended on church architecture and church organs been well spent?
4.—The florist has to live? How far does this justify lavish displays at funerals?
5.—Why did Jesus expect his gospel to be preached throughout the world?
6.—If you had a million dollars to bequeath, what form of memorial would you choose?

Arbor Day
At Clementsport

Arbor Day was celebrated at the Clementsport School on Friday last. Twenty men with teams and the school boys worked on the grounds.

One hundred feet of drain pipe was laid between the school grounds and the highway. The grounds at the rear of the building were graded off, enlarging and improving them for a playground. Fifty shrubs and a number of bulbs were planted.

The boys were worked on the grounds the girls completely house-cleaned the building. The ladies of the community served dinner to the guests.

The Baptist Church. The teachers, Miss Kathleen Denton and Mrs. Beulah Berry, wish to thank those who so kindly co-operated in making the Arbor Day a success.

The section is so well pleased with the results of the work that they hope to continue the work next May. A sign-board bearing the name of the school is to be erected in the near future.

Objects to the Name "Evangeline"

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir—I note it is proposed to name the new constituency—Digby-Annapolis-Kings—"Evangeline." I regret that this is not an appropriate or dignified term to apply to this very important district. The heroine Evangeline never existed except in the poet's brain, and the poem is not historically correct, as may be seen by reading the works of Parkman, the American historian, or by a perusal of the official report on the subject made to the Nova Scotia legislature.

I suggest that the new constituency be named either (1) Cornwallis, or (2) Fundy. While the first has a somewhat restricted application it is strikingly euphonic and distinctly historic. The term "Fundy," it seems to me, meets all the requirements, in that it is the name of the mighty arm of the sea which washes the shores of the three counties involved.

As a name for a political subdivision of Canada, the name Evangeline seems to me as incongruous as would be "Sweet Adeline."

DO YOU REMEMBER WHEN?

The younger people will have no recollection of it at all, but many of the middle aged and older people will recall the time when the "Merry Widow" hat was in vogue; the time when women wore long skirts trailing in the dust; the time when balloon sleeves were all the rage. That was twenty-five years ago or more. Many other things, too, have changed with the intervening years—this and that and dear knows what. One thing, however, has remained constant, and that is the quality of MORSE'S TEAS. Established on the highest plane of quality in their respective price classes, MORSE'S TEAS have stuck tenaciously to it. This is why MORSE'S TEAS have held the confidence of critical Maritime tea-somers, just as they had it twenty-five years ago—fifty years ago—sixty years ago.

Between Ourselves

We are all aware of the fact that there is going to be an election shortly, and yet around town we hear very little talk on the subject—neither party has held a convention and no candidates are in the field. Did you ever see the best of it?

Still, I'll bet there will be a grand hustle and bustle just as soon as the date is officially announced. There'll be lots of fun then, no doubt.

As usual the Courier will remain independent. We will do our best to print brief and unbiased accounts of the campaign and take all the advertising either side wishes to give us. It may be that we're old-fashioned, then again it may be that we have a modern point of view, but whatever it is, we can't see how a weekly newspaper such as ours has any business butting into party politics, when there are so many other ways of getting ourselves in "touch" with our subscribers without deliberately inviting trouble from that source.

All of this reminds me of a little sentence I read in the "International Sunday School Lesson" as printed in the Courier last week. In case you missed it, I will quote it: "Political partisanship will prevent us from seeing any good in the opposing party, and will also blind us from seeing evil in our own."

Now, I am going to ask for help. The baseball season is under way; the league is open in full swing and we all expect to see a number of games played here this summer. I hate to admit it, but I know next to nothing about the game—I've tried to understand it; I've tried to follow it, but I can't make head or tail out of it. When I try to write up a game, I make a "bally mess" of it; perhaps it's the English blunder in my veins—at any rate I know it doesn't sound natural for a fellow of my age in the newspaper game to admit that he knows "next to nothing" about baseball.

The Courier is anxious to give the baseball boys their share of publicity, and if one of you fellows who know the fine points of the game would be good enough to do a little bit of reporting in this connection for me, I sure would appreciate it. What about it? "Aha boy, I knew you would. Of course I know you will put as much pep as you can in your stories, and keep them as brief as possible."

"Men are born with two eyes and one tongue in order that they should see twice as much as they say."

—Ye Junior Ed.

A REPLY TO "DULSE"

To the Editor of the Courier.

I noticed in the last issue of the Courier a correspondence signed "Dulse," regarding the proposed name of "Evangeline" for the new constituency of Digby-Annapolis-Kings. That being, either male or female, comes out squarely against such a name. "Dulse," "the heroine has never existed except in the poet's brain and the poem is not historically correct."

I would ask "Dulse" if the exile of the Acadians and all on an equal basis and tribulations are not historical facts that can be easily proved, in spite of all that Parkman may have written? Many a person during the exile suffered the same tribulations as the supposed (according to "Dulse") Gabriel and Evangeline. I do not want to use old sores, or to create any racial troubles, but as a descendant of those martyrs of 1755 I cannot bear to have it imputed by anyone, that the sufferings endured by my forefathers during the exile are in part a myth. I contend that the name "Evangeline" is the proper one if there is to be a new name for the new constituency. Furthermore, I heartily congratulate the proposer of such a name. "Sweet Adeline" may suit such a being as "Dulse" but it is not suitable to the French-Acadian race, who, after having been scattered to the four winds of Heaven, is now a nation, well able to take care of itself, and on an equal footing with all the other nationalities that form our glorious Dominion.

"Evangeline" should be the name, though it may act as a fly on the brains of my honorable friend, "Dulse."

Thanks, Mr. Editor for your courtesy.

—French-Acadian.

(Held over from last week.)

Lloyd Grant, Richard Doucette, Clara Doucette and Evelyn Morrell motored to Yarmouth on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cosman and children recently visited Mrs. Cosman's mother, Mrs. M. Young.

TRIP TO ENGLAND AT 86

Not so very long before she made a trip from Vancouver to London, England, this woman of 86 was most helpless with rheumatism. Her daughter tells how she was able to make such a journey:

"Some years ago my mother was a martyr to rheumatism, and could not get about without the use of two sticks. She was told of Kruschen salts and decided to try them. After taking one bottle she found great relief, and after two bottles was able to walk without the aid of sticks. She has never been without Kruschen since, and takes a small dose two or three times a week. She is still able to travel and go about, although she was 89 last February. Indeed, at 86 she travelled the double journey between Vancouver and London, England. She has recommended Kruschen to many people who have also found benefit from it."

K. B. L.

What a lesson there for the younger folk! Why should anyone suffer from untidiness, rheumatism, constipation, backache—after reading this woman's letter? What Kruschen can do for a woman of advanced age, it can surely do for you.

"The culprit has left clues, remarking the budding detective after making a careful inspection of the room. The culprit has short black hair, was five feet, six inches tall, smoked Russian cigarettes, wore woolen socks, played a good game of golf, drove a car, and drank, but not to excess."

"Marvellous!" exclaimed the old and experienced inspector. "But was the culprit a man or a woman?"

It was then that a baffled look came over the young man's gaze.

RADIO QUESTIONS AND THEIR ANSWERS, NO. 2.

1. Q.—Will a vari-mu tube when substituted for a type 224, increase the selectivity of a receiver? Will it increase the sensitivity of a receiver?

Ans.—It will not increase the selectivity of a receiver because it does not contain a tuner. It will not increase the sensitivity either, for at low bias it has about the same characteristics as the 224 and at high bias it does not amplify nearly as well. It will reduce modulation hum and cross modulation (which are due to the same thing) because it was designed to do this.

2. Q.—Is it possible to get as good quality from a magnet dynamic speaker as from the larger speakers?

Ans.—It is quite possible to get equally good quality from these speakers, but not so much volume because these magnets overload easily. The magnet speaker needs a much larger baffle-board in order to faithfully reproduce the low notes.

3. Q.—Is it possible to use tuned

Radio Frequency amplifiers for short waves?

Ans.—Yes, it is possible, though such an amplifier must be shielded and stabilized.

JUDGE RUGGLES DIES IN VANCOUVER

Judge Henry Dwight Ruggles, 72, Judge of Vancouver County Court, and a native of Annapolis Royal, died Saturday at his home in North Vancouver, B. C. He had been ill for some time. A year ago he retired temporarily, owing to illness, but resumed his duties April 1st. He was a descendant of General Ruggles, who came to Canada with the United Empire Loyalists. He was a judge of the law in Nova Scotia for some time before going to British Columbia, 23 years ago.

Judge Ruggles was an uncle of Mrs. L. V. Harris (of Bear River).

INSTITUTE'S REGULAR MEETING

The regular meeting of the Bear River Women's Institute will be held on Monday next, in the Masonic Reading Room. The ladies of the Smith's Cove Institute will be the guests. An address will be given by Fulton Parker, of special interest to all institute members. A full attendance is requested.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE AT CLEMENTSVILLE

While Nature was clothed in her soft beautiful garment of green, and looking her best, on Sunday last, at 10 o'clock, a.m., the members and adherents of the Clementsville United Baptist Church gathered at Elm Street Brook. The ordinance of baptism was administered to nine candidates by the pastor, Rev. F. C. Burnett.

At 10 o'clock, the church bell called the people to worship, when Dr. E. S. Mason, Superintendent of Home Missions, gave an inspiring address to a large and appreciative congregation. His subject was "Baptism and Its Meaning".

The Roll Call service was in the afternoon. A very large gathering attended this service. Willis Potter, clerk of the church, called the roll, composed of 263 members, the majority of whom are residents.

The church was tastefully decorated for the occasion; the music and singing rendered by the local choir was of the day amounted to $116, which was largely expended in missionary interests.

CLEMENTSVILLE UNITED BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. F. C. Burnett, Pastor.

The services on Sunday will be as follows:

Sunday School at 10 o'clock.

Preaching Service at Clementsville at 11 a.m., and 7.30 p.m.; and at Upper Waldeck at 3.00 p.m. All are welcome.

Rev. A. W. L. Smith, Rural Dean.

Today, Friday, there will be the usual weekly service at Smith's Cove at 8 o'clock, p.m.

Sunday will be Whit-Sunday, one of the great festivals of the church commemorating the descent of the Holy Ghost on the Day of Pentecost. Services are arranged as follows:

10.30 a.m.—Deep Brook

7.30 p.m.—Bear River

Sunday at Clementsport at 2 p.m., and at Bear River at 5 p.m.

Whit-Monday and Whit-Tuesday are also appointed by the Church at Eastville.

Wednesday, Friday and Saturday following are Ember Days for intercession on behalf of those shortly to be baptized.

Next week the Crusaders of the Anglican Church Army are visiting for a parish, and services are to be held at:

Bear River, Wednesday, 7th, at 7.30 o'clock, p.m.

Deep Brook, Thursday, 8th, at 7.30 p.m.

The names of the men taking part in these services are Captains Gibson, Doerns, Allan and Penny.

UNITED BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. Stanley F. Stevens, Pastor

Midweek Service, Wednesday, at 8 o'clock, p.m.

B. Y. P. U., Friday, at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, Worship, at 11 o'clock.

Sunday evening, Worship, at 7.30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tatro, son of Mr. Tatro, arrived in Bear River on Friday last and have been guests at Riverview Lodge for the week. Mr. Tatro and Bill spent several days at Indian Gardens on a fishing trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Carol Clarke and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Warren motored to Wolfville on Friday. On their return they were accompanied by Miss Rosalind Warren, who has completed her first year as a student at Acadia University.

The Bear River United Baptist church was crowded Sunday evening to witness a beautiful baptism of five candidates, by the pastor. The altar was decorated with beautiful bouquets of apple blossoms and tulips, and this, together with the lightings effect, made the ordinance a very impressive one.

SCHOOL ORCHESTRA CONCERT

The concert presented by the Oakdene School Orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Carol Clarke, was thoroughly enjoyed by an appreciative audience. Great credit is due the leader and members of the orchestra for the splendid progress made during the year.

Special numbers rendered included:

Violin Solo, "Reve Angelique," Rubenstein—Miss Marguerite Baird.

Musical Readings "Just Plain Dog," Hazard; "The Clown's Prayer," Grogan—Miss Vera Hiesler.

"Vocal Solos—'Calling Me Home,' 'Love's Old Sweet Song'—Miss Bertha Duthie.

Cornet Duet—"Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes," "There's Music In the Air"—Lenfest Ruggles, Billy Benson.

Following the solo given by Miss Baird, little Miss Emma Benson, in a large and appreciative presentation to her, a small token of their appreciation of her deep interest and splendid help during the past three years.

The Members of the orchestra, in her usual delightful manner, thanked the orchestra.

Previous to the last number on the programme, Mrs. Clarke expressed the thanks of the entire orchestra to all who assisted in making the evening so successful.

Special mention was made of Walter Harris, who has so faithfully assisted in conducting the orchestra during the practice.

The Members of the orchestra are:

Pianist—Louise Harris

1st Violins—Marguerite Baird, Roy Gehue, Watson Flett.

2nd Violins—Aileen Seamone, Daniel Marvin.

Trombone—Geraldine Purdy.

Trombones—Lenfest Harris, Billy Benson.

Horn—Lewis Langley.

Cymbals—John Harris.

Triangle—Bennett.

Drums—John Sullivan, Clayton Hirtle.

Conductor—Mrs. C. Clarke.

OUR COUNTRY DOCTOR

He's just a Country Doctor,

And a quack, some say;

A Country Doctor he may be,

But to our hearts most dear.

He always hastens when we call,

No matter what the weather.

Or if we pay him for that call,

Or make him wait forever.

He never seems to mind a bit

When we get cross and grouchy.

And call him out for things he does,

Just smiles and keeps on doing.

Sometimes we think he's rather stern

His manner grows a bit cold;

But underneath, Ah! well, we know,

There lies a heart of gold.

He travels miles through drifted snow

To those in sick bed's lying;

He aids them in their hours of pain,

And comforts them, if dying.

We talk about our heroes great

And of the deeds they do;

But in the hearts that love him best

He is a hero too.

And in that land of glory bright,

When golden deeds are read,

We'll find our Country Doctor,

With a halo 'round his head.

—Dedicated to Dr. L. J. Lovett, by a grateful patient.

Large Acreage Used for Production of Turnip Seed

The growing of seed turnips in Western Annapolis County, more particularly in the vicinity of Deep Brook, has, during the past few years, become an important industry.

The wide spread and acres of seed turnips have been set out, and every year thousands of pounds of registered turnip seed are produced.

Many farmers receive large proportions of their cultivated lands to this, for us, unique crop. The production in the Deep Brook district has shown a large increase each year and present indications promise that this year's crop will beat all previous records.

Sorry to report Joyce Benson on the sick list.

Dr. and Mrs. Barker and two daughters, of Manchester, England, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Jefferson on Sunday last. They are visiting relatives in Nova Scotia for a few months.

"JESUS FACES BETRAYAL AND DENIAL"

Golden Text—"He is despised and rejected of men, a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief."—Isaiah 53:3.

Lesson Passage:—Mark 14:17-31.

Into the woods my Master went.

Clean forsook, forsook.

Into the woods my Master came.

Forsook with love and shame.

But the olive trees were not blind to Him;

The little gray leaves were kind to Him.

The thorn-tree had a mind to Him.

When into the woods He came.

Out of the woods my Master went.

And He was well content.

Out of the woods my Master came.

Content with death and shame.

When Death and Shame would woo Him last,

From under the trees they drew Him last.

'Twas on a tree they slew Him last—

When out of the woods He came.

—Sidney Lanier.

The Master's Mood, 17-21

It was night and Jesus was a tired man. He had come into Jerusalem under cover of darkness and had made his way to the Upper Room to share the Passover Feast with his disciples for the last time.

He knew that the end was near. Also he was conscious that one of his own disciples, one of the twelve, a table companion was about to betray him. The treachery was made worse by the traitor eating out of the same dish with him. Perhaps their hands touched as they drank of bread in the bowl together. To this day Arabs will not violate their standards of hospitality by harming one who has broken bread with them in the tent. When the sad news was announced, the disciples did not begin to accuse one another.

Each asked, "Is it I?" Jesus did not answer the question directly, but Judas understood that the Master knew. Many attempts have been made to excuse Judas and to tone down the blood-guiltiness of his crime, but Jesus did not minimize the offence under cover of darkness and had made his way to the Upper Room to share the Passover Feast with his disciples for the last time.

The treachery was made worse by the traitor eating out of the same dish with him. Perhaps their hands touched as they drank of bread in the bowl together. To this day Arabs will not violate their standards of hospitality by harming one who has broken bread with them in the tent. When the sad news was announced, the disciples did not begin to accuse one another.

Each asked, "Is it I?" Jesus did not answer the question directly, but Judas understood that the Master knew. Many attempts have been made to excuse Judas and to tone down the blood-guiltiness of his crime, but Jesus did not minimize the offence under cover of darkness and had made his way to the Upper Room to share the Passover Feast with his disciples for the last time.

He knew that the end was near. Also he was

Reminiscences and a Few Other Things

— BY G. R. T.

A few days ago a friend sent me a copy of Isaac Wilson's "History of Digby County". The writer began his work on the book February 1st, 1897, and completed it August 1st, 1899, and the book came off the press some time in 1900, and contains 471 pages, and while much space is given to the history of the county, it is also a collection of public documents and details of the lives of public and private persons, together with the names of the early settlers and the members of the various military organizations, temperance societies and religious bodies, the book contains a vast amount of information for those interested in the early settlement of Digby County, and when the amount of research work undertaken and performed by the writer of this history, under conditions, that at times must have been discouraging, is considered, there is this to say—Wilson did an amazingly good piece of work. An undated newspaper item regarding his death at the age of 81 says of Mr. Wilson, "He was a writer of no mean ability, leaving as a monument to his endeavors a 'History of Digby County', many copies of which are owned by former residents of the county who are now living in the United States. The first year of his labors he worked by the light of tallow candles, but he lived to see the light of the electric light, furnished by the water power of his native county."

I suppose there are many copies of this book in the hands of people who still reside in Digby County, and it seems to me that those who own one of these books should hold on to it, for in time the book is bound to become quite valuable, if not already so. I suppose the book has been out of print for a long time and it is doubtful if any publisher could be induced to undertake the expense of reprinting. It is probable that Isaac Wilson did not realize any great pecuniary reward for his efforts as the demand for his book could hardly have been great enough to cause it to be ranked as one of the "best sellers," and it may not be unreasonable to say that he wrote it as a labor of love rather than with the expectation of making any great amount of profit from it.

Mr. Wilson was born at Hillgrove

SPEED!

Time counts when you're in pain! Aspirin dissolves at once. They are many minutes faster than remedies that are offered in their stead. If you saw Aspirin made, you would know why it has such uniform, quick results. If you have ever "suffered," you know that it dissolves and gets to work before a slower tablet has any effect. Stick to Aspirin. You know what you are taking. You know it is harmless; nothing in this tablet to depress the heart. You know you will get results. For headaches, colds, neuralgia, rheumatism, the safe and certain relief is—Aspirin.

live that the seating facilities of the old church prior to 1823 were not any too comfortable and probably long hard benches were the best that the church could have had. The year mentioned the wardens arranged for the building of pews in the church, which when finished were of the old style, but of the church treasury the sum of forty-six pounds, ten shillings.

I remember those old shup-in pews of old times, with my father with a door that fastened on the outside with an old-fashioned butterfly catch. They had seats of leather, and the inside which was cushioned or left bare of upholstery according to the notion or idea of the owner or owner was very attractive to the youngsters of that time who looked upon them as private rooms set apart for their occupancy, and into which they were daunted to smuggle their pet cats and dogs. Or standing upon the seats, and looking over the tops of the pews engaged in a game of "peek" with their neighbors.

With the building of the new church the old style of pews was abandoned, and the new St. Peter's was furnished with open pews free for all.

The new St. Peter's was indeed a beautiful and comfortable place, and which the church with its reorganization the church to capacity at morning and evening services. As a matter of fact all churches were well attended, for church-going at that time was a well established habit with all denominations in Weymouth.

It was one of the joys of my youthful days when my father, a Sunday morning, "Well, I guess we will go down the river to walking of course, for we had no family carriage, but we both loved to walk, and it was only a mile or so, and of course, we enjoyed the beautiful morning in June—when all nature seemed to have put on, like a Sabbath garment, an atmosphere of divinity. We enjoyed every step of the walk up through the evergreen woods to the end of the new road, where we enjoyed the view of the river at high tide, calm, serene and beautiful as its waters filled the channel from the grassy bank of the river to the wooded shore of the New Edinburgh hills, and stretched seaward past the old lighthouse and merged itself into the blue waters of St. Mary's Bay. And perhaps at the Campbell wharf would be one of the feet of the same name bedecked with all the flags of the International Signal Code and other flags, adding a bit of color to the scene. It was a sort of a holy of holies, it would seem to be, where a deep and most impressive solemnity and a sense of indescribable reverence took hold of the congregation, sending them forth from the service with an air of contentment and satisfaction upon their countenances that indicated that all was well with the soul within. People loved their church in those days and revered it—and perhaps they do today—for there seems to be a pick up again in church attendance in these days of 1933 when people have a little more time and inclination to take stock of themselves spiritually, than they seemed to have had a few years ago.

Dr. Fillet or "Parson" Fillet as he was better known, did great work for his parish. In addition to the new St. Peter's Church, three other churches were built as the result of his exertions. St. Thomas' at the "Bridge," St. James, at New Tuskett, and St. Mary's, at Barton, and this work he was faithfully and generously supported by his parishioners and numerous friends. One reason for the success of Dr. Fillet's ministry was that he kept in close touch with all members of his church regardless of their station in life. At Christmas time he never forgot the very poor and needy and always saw to it that they were provided with a substantial box of groceries and useful articles of clothing.

A splendid minister and a fine friend was Parson Fillet.

REBEKAHS HOLD SUCCESSFUL DISTRICT MEETING

The District Association of the Rebekeh Ladies of Digby and Annapolis held their annual meeting with Zelma Rebekeh Lodge, on Wednesday afternoon and evening. The afternoon session was devoted to business appointments to the district—business of general interest to all the lodges concerned. There were present, in an advisory capacity, Mrs. Grace Hebb, of Lunenburg, and Mrs. Margaret Peters, of the Rebekeh Assembly of Nova Scotia. The afternoon session was exceptionally well attended.

The officers elected to serve the district during the ensuing year were: President—Kathleen Fitzgerald, of Olive Branch Lodge, Weymouth. Vice-President—Mrs. Lena Perry, of Fair Isle Lodge, Freeport.

Secretary—Mildred Amero, of Olive Branch Lodge, Weymouth. In the evening the work was in the form of a social. Zelma Lodge, of Weymouth, and Zelma Lodge, of Digby, gave a very interesting and instructive talk on the subject of "The Rebekeh in the Past and Future."

The service was in memory of the following sisters and brothers, who during the past year, had been called to serve in the Higher Lodge above: Sister Jane Fleming, Fair Isle Lodge, Freeport. Sister Elizabeth Everett, Fair Isle Lodge, Freeport.

Sister Violet Harnish, Unity, Annapolis Royal. Sister Mary Orde, Unity, Annapolis Royal. Bro. Freeman Welch, Emerald, Westport. Sister Estelle Aymar, Zelma Lodge, Digby.

At 8 o'clock a special session of Zelma Lodge opened for the purpose of exempting the Rebekeh Lodge. The seating capacity of the large hall—one of the largest Odd-fellows halls in the Maritimes—was taxed to the utmost. Zelma Lodge, in its degree work, specializes in tableaux, and the effect is beautiful in the extreme. The work was well on and received much favorable comment.

A delicious supper was served the evening Rebekeh in the United Church. The tables were very tastefully decorated in pink and green, the emblematic colors of the Rebekeh.

Bill Grove Church holds Roll Call Service. The annual Roll Call Service of the United Baptist Church, held on Tuesday afternoon and evening, was a complete success in every way. The roll was called by the clerk of the church, Deacon John A. H. Nichols, a great many of the members responding with a verse of Scripture or testimony. The response to the roll was one of the largest in the history of the church.

Rev. F. E. Bishop, of Digby, pastor of the church led in the devotional exercises. At the evening service an address was given by Rev. Stanley Stevens, pastor of the United Baptist Church at Bear River. Rev. M. C. Higgins of Barton, spoke in the afternoon. Music was furnished by the Men's Brotherhood of the Hill Grove Church. The offering amounted to $145.28.

CARELESSNESS

Hydro service for a large portion of Digby County was interrupted for two hours Tuesday morning by a break in the main line at Brighton. According to the Superintendent of the Digby County Power Board, the break was caused through carelessness on the part of highway workmen, who were blasting rocks on the side of the main Halifax and Yarmouth highway at that place, neglecting to properly cover their charge. The break occurred shortly after eight o'clock, causing great inconvenience to power users all along the line.

Rally Day For The County Schools

A Rally Day sponsored by the Rural Teachers' Study Club, and Miss Fraser, Helping Teacher, in which the schools of the county presented, Rossway, Rosville, Acacia, Mount Pleasant, Marshalltown, Hill Grove, North Range and Brighton, was held on Tuesday, June 5th. The morning was devoted to sports—dashes, relays, broad jumps, high jumps, sack races, etc. Each school assembled behind a banner bearing the name of the school. Rev. Mr. Higgins, of Brighton, acted as official sports announcer, Earl Anderson, of Digby, as Clerk of the Course, and Lewis Fraser, of Clementsport, starter, while A. Ward Worthylake, of Brighton, and Fred Worthylake, of Rossway, served as judges. The sports were particularly well organized and all events showed good form. The total scores of schools at the close were: Barton-Brighton 88 North Range 60 Hill Grove 24 Marshalltown 24 Rossway 15 Mount Pleasant 6

Each school brought their own picnic lunch, the ladies of Barton-Brighton, Hill Grove, and Community Club providing hot cocoa.

The afternoon programme, presided over by Warden J. Vian Anderson, consisted of a song, a singing game and a folk dance; all schools participating in the programme. The programme was concluded with the singing of "God Save the King," followed by the respective yells of the different schools. There were two hundred and fifty school children present and equally as many spectators, among whom were Miss Fraser, Helping Teacher, of Annapolis-Digby, and Miss Rebekeh, of Annapolis-Digby, who were largely responsible for the success of this new event, which the Study Club contemplate making an annual affair.

COULD NOT MAKE GOOD TEA WITH ANY BRAND BUT MORSE'S Although no effort has been made to put Morse's Teas on the American market, there are users of Morse's Teas scattered here and there throughout the American Union. These are people who are once residents of the Maritime Provinces and who have come to know and value Morse's Teas while touring the Maritimes. Every now and then the firm of J. E. Morse & Company sends a letter to people living in the States asking to have a quantity forwarded to them. The other day a letter arrived from Michigan in which the writer said: "Once again I am writing for some Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe Tea. We had to buy it at dinner tonight I excused the poor quality of the 'brew' by explaining that I could not make good tea with any brand but Morse's."

"I am enclosing cheque and should like to have five one-pound packages of Morse's Selected Orange Pekoe. I realize that it is a great bother, but I should like so much to have the tea, if you have not stopped filling such bothersome orders as mine."

Digby Wins 3-1 Over Bear River

A record crowd of Bear River people enjoyed a keenly contested game between the Bear River and Digby baseball teams on Friday evening, June 8th. The game was a 1-0 until the first half of the ninth inning, when a batting rally gave Digby three runs.

R. Winchster started the ball rolling with a nicely placed ball and beat the play to first base (How that man can run); a smashing single by Jack Keen then placed another batter and Winchester crossed the plate to tie the score 1-1. Loran Hayden came up to try to turn the game by lining out a nice single, bringing in Daley and Keen, and making the score 3-1.

"Red" Robinson pitched five innings, and allowed no runs and struck out seven. The Bear River team are a smooth bunch of players and played a tight ball all through. C. Hirtle, the first man up, hit a three-bagger and brought in the only run for Bear River in the first inning. Bear River and Weymouth had to play 11 innings on 5th of May to decide the game, so it looks like keen competition in baseball this season.

Baseball Club Benefits Through Band Concert

The Church Point team defeated the Weymouth A. A. team by a score of 7-5 at an exhibition game played on the W. A. A. grounds on Saturday afternoon before a large number of fans.

Rev. A. A. MacLeod has accepted a call to the churches composing the pastorate of Pettitodiac, N. B., and began his work in his new charge last Sunday. Mr. MacLeod's last pastorate was at Bear River, N. S., which he resigned last fall to continue his theological studies at Acadia. At the recent Convention he was granted the B. D. degree. While the pastorate at Pettitodiac is undergoing repairs, Mrs. MacLeod and family will be in charge of the church, under the supervision of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Murchison, Point Prim, P. E. I.

Mrs. Gifford Melanson, of Plympton, was a visitor to Digby on Monday.

"The Best 50c. Worth of Fun You Ever Bought" was the cry at the Band Concert and Dance at the Weymouth Theatre, June 15. The Digby Bands and Orchestra.

NEWSPAPER ENGLISH

Present-day purists are becoming reconciled to newspaper English, some of the most finical grant it a word of praise. The National Council of English teachers of America praises the newspapers' part in making the written and spoken word of America both more fluid and flexible.

This is a pleasant reaction from the attitude of the teachers of a decade or two ago. To them, newspaper English was "patois" and "jargon" and "awful" and all sorts of evil things that, undertook merely to set down facts in approximation. Perhaps, too, it is a tribute to the advance of the modern newspapers.

Not the least of the newspapers' contributions to the English language come from the diversity of the modern paper, with its financial, sport, fashion, political and local news content. Colorful and pungent expressions are continually carried from one phase of reporting to another. The newspaper becomes the meeting place as well as the distribution point for many activities, each with its own language.

Human qualities alone do not make greatness, in its true sense. The possession of real greatness comes from qualities of the divine which show forth in the demeanor of man. Greatness that is genuine is characterized by simplicity. He who is truly great does not put himself forward. Perfect poise, which manifests itself in speech and in action, is an outstanding mark of greatness. The world spontaneously volunteers admiration for the one who can remain unmoved by the storms of strife and passion which sway other men about him.

Candor and straightforward speaking are found in those who are really great. They have nothing to conceal, they have no need to deceive. What they say comes from their hearts and may be depended upon. The great man is tolerant of the opinions of others; he is charitable toward their failings; he is genuinely sympathetic in their sorrow; he rejoices in their successes.

Such are some of the qualities of greatness, which are deeper and of more worth than many of the material symbols for which men are often more inclined to work toward. Real greatness consists in showing forth the image and likeness of God.

"JESUS ON THE CROSS"

Golden Text:—"But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us."—Romans 5:8.

Lesson Passage:—Mark 15:22-39.

Thou who art so prone to measure Perfect life by ceaseless pleasure, Think upon the Holy Cross, Be the cross of thy contemplation, Counting all things else as lost.

—Bonaventura

—Courage on the Cross, 22-23

Over two months have passed since Good Friday when we commemorated Christ's death upon the cross during Passion Week. This lesson, however, is not inappropriate and the splendor of June for the cross is at heart of life. Gamaliel Bradford spoke of "this beautiful hideous word so hard to hand in hand. The cross combined cruelty and courage. Jesus was brought to Golgotha, the place of a skull, the place of execution, and the transfigured its horror by an act of sublime courage. It was the custom of a guild of kind and women to provide a drink containing a stupefying drug to deaden the pain of criminals in the death throes by crucifixion. This was offered to Jesus and he refused to take it. He would face death with consciousness undimmed. Sensitive above others, he would bear the whole pain. Though Christ died of a broken heart he would not lessen the "pains he had to bear."

Contrasts of the Cross, 24-28

While Christ was suffering upon the cross, the Roman soldiers gambled for his garments. To them it was all in the day's work and they were hardened to tragedy. Over the cross was written the inscription The King of the Jews, while the King of kings was dying a death of shame. Jesus was crucified between two thieves, the sinless one with a criminal on either side. The Roman soldiers cared more for Christ's garments than for his glory. A soldier chose an inscription that would not let Jesus be a victim of his taint the nationalistic Jews; he carried, Death by crucifixion was regarded as the lowest shame; yet Jesus had to endure the added refinement of the torture of dying between two criminals. The writer of the story did not try to soften the details; he let these cruel contrasts stand out in bold relief. Christ was numbered with the transgressors, or as Dr. Moffatt translates: "He was classed among criminals."

Challenged on the Cross, 29-32

Having endured insults during his hurried trial, Jesus could not escape the taunts of his enemies even in his dying hours. The passers-by wagged their heads at him and cast up to him his word about rebuilding the temple in three days. The chief priests also joined the scribes in mocking him, saying, "He saved others, himself he cannot save." What he uttered as an insult has become high eulogy. Christ could save others but he would not save himself from pain. The two thieves also reviled him. Their action may be forgiven because of their pain, but let us not forget the others who taunted him were religious men, the religious leaders of their day. They would not have Jesus crucified within the city walls lest the city be ceremonially defiled. Yet outside they could enjoy the spectacle of the death of the Son of Man. To such lengths of hard heartedness and moral unbalance can religious prejudice lead.

The Cry from the Cross, 33-38

Words are clumsy tools with which to describe the pathos of the cross. The sun darkened, even Nature seemed to sense the gloom. Jesus cried out in the words of the twenty-second Psalm, "My God, why hast thou forsaken me?" Those standing by misunderstood his words.

NOBODY orders a telephone installed because he wishes actually to communicate with 32 million other telephones.

Yet the fact that he can be connected with such a vast number makes his telephone of striking value to him.

The more people his telephone reaches, the more certainly he can talk with just the persons he desires—whether they are in the next block or the next continent.

Today your telephone is a bigger "buy" than ever before.

MARITIME TELEGRAPH & TELEPHONE CO. LTD.

Then with another loud cry, the end came, and the veil of the temple was rent from top to bottom. Into Christ's inner feeling in that last hour of anguish we cannot enter because we are neither good enough nor sympathetic enough to understand all that it meant to Jesus. Did he actually feel that even God had forsaken him or were the words of the Psalm an expression of faith in that the Psalm whine through to triumph faith? Whichever interpretation is taken, Christ's cry from the cross is filled with a spiritual distress greater even than his physical pain. We do not know all that he suffered because we have never loved as he loved.

Confession at the Cross, 39

The Roman soldiers showed up badly at the cross in that they gambled for the clothes of Jesus. One Roman soldier, however, was able to appreciate in some degree, at least, the significance of what had happened. Doubtless this centurion had seen many prisoners die, but Jesus met death differently and the centurion said, "Truly this man was the Son of God." The centurion's confession of faith was the precursor of many in the Roman Empire. Several centuries later a Roman emperor accepted Christianity. On Calvary's mound the Roman eagle seemed supreme, but time was on the side of the cross.

How odd that on a common hill Beyond the rabble town,

That there a felon cross should spill The Roman Empire down.

That He should cancel Roman hope And build a lovelier crown, That He with but a heart's bare scope Should touch an Empire down.

Questions for Discussion

- 1.—Dr. Jowett said: "When I visit Calvary life is transformed from a picnic into a crusade." Why?
- 2.—When anaesthetics were first used, some people had religious scruples against them. Why has this prejudice passed away?
- 3.—Is it right to speak of a mere inconvenience as a "cross"?
- 4.—A crucifix is a symbol; what spiritual reality does it represent?
- 5.—In what sense is there a cross for everyone?
- 6.—Is the cross a Christian is called to bear the same as the cross of Jesus?

ESKIMOS WILL MUNCH "MARITIME MAID" BISCUITS

In the course of a month or two many Eskimos on the confines of the Arctic Circle will be munching Maritime Maid Biscuits; they will be saying in Eskimo language what you say in English when you eat "Maritime Maid" biscuits. "My, but they're mighty good," in fact, Mr. and Mrs. Eskimo may express their appreciation in much stronger words than these. Who knows?

The Brown-Holder Biscuits, Limited, of Moncton, recently received a splendid order from the Hudson Bay Company for biscuits to be shipped to Montreal, whence they will proceed by steamer, by canoe, by portage, into the far north, to the outposts of civilization, to many trading posts, where trappers trade where furs are bought.

The Maritime Maid biscuits, specially made to stand the severe strain of long journeys and changing climate, are put up in packages of a size, suitable to be transported over land and sea—much of it. Perhaps nothing could be said that would tell the story of the progress of Brown-Holder so well as this order for choice biscuits. Pilot and sweets—which after weeks of travel over waters infrequently navigated, will at length reach their destination and be appreciated by our brothers in the north. Music may be the universal language, but good things to eat assuredly appeal to men and women no matter where you find them and no matter what their condition, mental, moral, physical, social.

Temperance Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service Council and Temperance Alliance)

The Great War was a great re-veler. Where physical and mental fitness were in great demand it was like a straight-edge making plain the kinks and curves of unfitness: hitherto unsuspected. It was David Lloyd George who caught the ear of the world by declaring to England in war days that of her two great enemies of that day, Germany and Drink, the greater of these was Drink. Then it was that a man like Sir Thomas Anderson Stuart, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine in Sydney University, Australia, said:

"Speaking entirely personally, I might be permitted to counsel earnestly all who value individual and national efficiency, to avoid the use of alcohol in any form, even in the smallest quantities, except on the written prescription of their medical attendant, for, as events of the day, in connection with the Great War, prove, it is the most soul destroying, body destroying, nation destroying, substance ever known."

Great Britain's drink bill before the War had reached the enormous sum of $80,000,000. Then came the War and told the story of drink's injury. According to figures presented to the House of Commons, out of nearly two and a half millions of men examined, only 872,000 or about 35 per cent., were able to pass the standard for a normal drinking habit. In the light of Dean Stuart's words these figures constitute a severe arraignment of the drink evil. Sometimes we hear the drinking customs of Great Britain quoted as an example; should they rather be quoted as a warning? And then one recalls that more than a decade after the Great War Canada's annual drink bill is about $209,000,000. It does not look as though we had very seriously to heart the tragic lessons thunders at us in the Great War.

Reminiscences and a Few Other Things

- BY A. R. T.

Early Days of the Methodist Church in Digby and Weymouth, as Recorded in I. W. Wilson's History of Digby County.

Rev. William Black, the earliest Wesleyan missionary in this province, accompanied by Rev. Ebenezer Garrison, an American preacher in Digby and its suburbs, organizing a society in Brimley Town (Westville), July 10th, 1866, with seventy-eight members, sixty-eight of whom were colored persons.

"When the largest part of Brimley Town emigrated to Sierra Leone, a time disappeared from the County."

"When the Wesleyan sect was revived in Digby by Rev. Wm. St. Cliffe in 1869-10, the Warringtons, Lettenes and Starks were among the principal adherents. As the churches in Nova Scotia had been under the care of the English Conference since the beginning of the nineteenth century nearly all of the clergymen were natives of the motherland."

"The successive pastors of Annapolis preached at various points of old Digby township during the second, third and fourth decades of this century. Finally a commodious chapel was constructed in Digby on the northwestern corner of Sydney St. and the Alley, between Water and Queen Streets, previous to 1837. The site was afterwards greatly aided by George Henderson, who removed to Digby from Annapolis and prosecuted an extensive mercantile business in the little church, known as the People's Church, built during the ministry of Rev. T. C. Hooper, about 1868 or 1869."

Mr. Wilson does not give the date of the erection of the first Methodist church at Weymouth Bridge, which was replaced by the pretty and comfortable little church, known as the People's Church, built during the ministry of Rev. T. C. Hooper, about 1868 or 1869.

Here is a list of the Methodist ministers who were in charge of the Weymouth pastorate—which includes Plympton, Barton and Bloomfield—from 1869 to 1894: Rev. John

M. Fulton, 1869; Frederick M. Pickles, 1871; George F. Day, 1872; E. E. England, 1873; John Craig, 1874; Richard Williams, 1875; Chas. Nicklin, 1876; Wm. H. Evans, 1877; Wm. Ainley, 1879-81; Geo. F. Johnson, 1881-82; J. W. Prestwood, 1883; Wm. Shears, 1884; Thomas C. Hooper, 1885-89; J. E. Donkin, 1892-93; J. W. Shepherdson, 1892-94. The names of many of these are familiar to people now living in Weymouth. I remember one from 1879 to 1892, and the one that stands out most clearly in my memory is that of Rev. Mr. Hooper, a wiry and tenacious little Englishman who wrestled with the problems of his district for four long years, and apparently had a strenuous time of it balancing his personal budget and keeping the bread and butter fund out of the red ink. I remember one of his addresses in which he told the people there assembled a few things about the delights and disappointments of a village preacher's life and incidentally gave out some interesting statistics concerning salary versus food and clothing that were not particularly flattering to some of his listeners.

But for all that Rev. Hooper knew how to preach and loved his work. His church was always well filled, and for the community as a whole, had a very high regard for him personally, as well as for his sermons.

"Know thou the land where the lemon trees bloom. Where the gold orange glows in the deep thickets' gloom. Where a wind ever soft from the blue heaven blows. And the groves are of laurel and myrtle and rose?"

The German poet Goethe wrote these lines some 150 years ago but he could not have been enquiring about California, for at that time there was no such thing in this part of the world as an orange tree and probably not over ten or twelve lemon trees growing at that time in all of Southern California. There was, however, plenty of blue sky and soft breezes, and thousands of acres of land suitable for the growing of lemons and oranges, but the rest of the world knew very little about it except a few Spanish adventurers who were not saving much about their findings along the western coast of the new world.

The country that Goethe had in mind was not sunny California but sunny Italy, and if he loved his orange juice in the morning and enjoyed a glass of hot lemonade at bedtime he probably satisfied these simple desires with the juices of Italian or Sicilian grown oranges and lemons, not overlooking, of course, the "kick" that he must have gotten from the view from his bedroom window of the citrus groves and the inhalation of the perfume from their blossoms.

Goethe's biographers tell us that he spent considerable time in Southern Italy studying botany and writing poetry, and if there is anything to be learned from his biography, it would be that continual day by day sniffing of an atmosphere scented with orange blossoms. We therefore do not blame him for getting poetical over the situation—he might have done something a good deal worse. Goethe, however, was a grade "A" poet, a German Shakespeare, and that being the case it wouldn't have made any difference whether he was basking in the perfume of Italian citrus groves or back in Frankfurt-on-Main groping his way through the smoke and fumes of his mother's kitchen, volent with the odors of steaming sauerkraut and ham knuckles—ach, Loey, dot feller would have made poetry mit it just the same.

Now if Goethe had paddled over to Southern Spain and addressed his poetical epistle to any of the Spanish racketeers, recently returned from America, they might have pointed out to him, with a good deal of pride, a lot of Spanish groves that had been bearing lemons and oranges since the year 1500 A.D., but as to California, if he knew where that was—the only lemon trees there were the few that the padres took with them from Spain and planted near San Diego somewhere about 1775.

The growing and marketing of lemons on a large scale did not begin in California until about 1890, and even then it was not considered such a profitable industry for competition with Italian and Spanish grown fruit, made the life of the California grower a worrisome one. But some years later the U. S. government, anxious to protect the infant industries—clapped a heavy duty upon foreign grown lemons, and since that time California lemon growers have been paying cash for automobiles, electric washing machines, refrigerators and what have you, and putting something aside for a rainy day as well as the dark and dreary days of business depression.

The lemon grower like the orange grower does a lot of work in his orchard before he gets anything back from his investment. Planting, cultivating, spraying, fumigating, fertilizing, purchase of water or installation of pumping plant for irrigation of the citrus groves, the expense of smudging or orchard heating are costs which eat into the grower's bank account at an alarming rate before he begins to pick his fruit. Seven years of watchful waiting and hustling while he waits, is the usual period required before his orchard comes into full bearing and he begins to make a profit. Even then returns are delayed for a time, for, believe it or not, lemons are not often shipped as soon as picked, and if you think that those bright yellow lemons that you bought this morning were that color when picked from the tree, the chances are that you are mistaken. Usually lemons are picked green and kept in curing plants as much as six months before their color begins to turn and properly cured lemons may be kept for months and will improve in market quality by a thinning and toughening of the skin and by an increase in juice content.

There are several ways of curing lemons but perhaps the most satisfactory way is by storing them in the basement of the house or in packing houses. After putting the fruit through the washing, brushing and drying process, it is stored in a dark basement with ventilation regulated to a point between wetting and sweating—too much moisture inducing decay and too little causing shrivelling. During the curing period lemons must be carefully watched against moulding, for a mouldy lemon in a bin of ripe fruit can put the entire bin to the bad almost overnight.

Here ripened lemons are usually larger and are prone to decay and are disposed of in large markets as much as possible.

Some of the packing houses store as many as fifty to one hundred carloads at a time, which is equal to approximately twenty thousand to forty thousand boxes. And the Lord only knows how much lemonade and how many lemon pies could be made from that many lemons.

If the foregoing has not soured you on the subject of lemons and you can stand a little more lemon data, the following, which comes from a noted physician in Los Angeles, may interest you:

"Lemons may sound singularly uninteresting, but at the risk of boring the reader I am offering a little of their early history. The fruit has been widely consumed for many centuries, but it was not known to those mighty protagonists of health, the Greeks, nor yet did Rome, in the days of the Caesars, enjoy its benefits. So far as has been ascertained it was introduced into Spain by the Arabs in the twelfth century, and was originally obtained in a wild state from the Valleys of Komoan and Shihai, in the northwest province of India.

"Many years elapsed before its value was recognized sufficiently for it to be cultivated to any extent. Indeed it was not until 1500 A.D. that lemon plantations became an accomplished fact. Spain gave the rest of the world the lead and her example was quickly followed by Portugal.

"No fruit has such a great variety of uses, nor can any other expedient claim equal merits in a great number of cases. Its valuable properties lie mainly in its tremendous percentage of natural citric acid. It would be well to point out here that commercial citric acid cannot be classed with that of the lemon. It contains none of the properties remedial or otherwise that nature has endowed the fruit with.

"The lemon should be included in everyone's daily diet for it is very rich in vitamins and contains more vitamin C than any other fruit. Ranking high among the lemons are lemons and lemons. The other fruits in the citrus group—the orange, the lime and the grapefruit—do not compare with it in this respect. As a blood purifier and alkalizer it has no equal, hence its great medicinal value in rheumatism and other diseases where the internal secretions have set up general toxicity, and given rise to micro-organisms and acids foreign to the healthy body. The effect of lemon juice on these substances is precisely what is needed. It dissolves them and thus neutralizes their effect. Having become soluble they then pass out of the system by the usual channels."

Maybe a lemon a day will keep the doctor away.

Did you buy some good socks last week, or did you put your money into "cats and dogs"?

the job again and flooding the malls with their literature.

"You can buy guineas once more on 'cat jumping' and red hot tips on the movement of any stock on the board."

"The service will cost you anywhere from five dollars to one hundred and twenty per year, and you will be told 'how to beat the stock market.' Oh, Yeah! Ask anyone who has ever tried it.

PARADE FINEST IN METEGHAN

Stella Maris Church was filled on Sunday evening May 27th, when visitors from surrounding parishes assisted at the most beautiful May procession ever held there. Over 300 children paraded through the aisles. Organist Mrs. Joseph S. LeBlanc played and Arthur Robicheau and Jules J. Robicheau sang the solo parts. Miss Celeste Robicheau, the president of the Sodality of the Children of Mary, crowned the statue. Philomena Comeau, Clara Brideau, Lucina Deveau, May Saulnier, Enlène Maillet, Emma Deveau, Marie Helen Deveau and Esther Amiraux were received into the Sodality of the Children of Mary. Rev. Father Deveau, P.P., performed the ceremony and gave a short address following the reception.

Rev. Roy L. Smith

He Most Lives

—who keeps closest company with great thoughts;

—who feels the greatest indignation at the sight of injustice;

—who thinks most deeply on the question of duty;

—who lives every day with himself least in mind;

—who keeps every day squared with conscience;

—who looks most towards tomorrow;

—who is most willing to serve.

Protect your Home with SCREENS

Flies are carriers of disease and contaminate everything they touch. Mosquitoes are annoying. Why put up with these dangerous pests when you can have your home properly and completely screened at a very modest cost? Why not enjoy the healthfulness and cool comfort of plenty of fresh air which screens make possible.

We have a complete stock of screening and our prices are very low. Now is the time to arrange for screening doors, windows, and verandas.

GOOD OLD SUMMER TIME

The electric fan drives industriously, the ice tinkles in the glasses — but still it's hot. Beads of perspiration persist in popping out on your face, and your collar is in a sad state of collapse. Some heartless friend persists in reading aloud the cheerful items on the front page of the paper concerning the deaths from heat prostration, and, turning over to the next page, discourses on the grave danger of forest fires.

You drink another glass of ice-water, mop your brow again, and wish it were a little cooler. A passing acquaintance brutally asks, "Is it hot enough for you?" An equally pesterous human calamity grabs you by the lapel and insists on explaining that it's not the heat but the humidity. Your dog lies drooping on the doorstep, his tongue hanging out, stirring himself once in a while to shake off the flies and mosquitoes that annoy him.

It's the good old summer time. It's the time that the poets and the song writers praise. And remember, it's the time you were wishing for four or five months ago when you felt those raw winds blowing. You remember how you wished so fervently for the summer time. Well, it's here. Say, is it hot enough for you?

WHEN YOUTH LEARNS

Education does not begin until one is 25 and continues until 35, if it ends at all, says a British novelist. Tell that to the sophisticated youth of the present. Is there a flapper who does not think that she knows infinitely more than her mother, and is there a cigaretted youth who does not think he can teach his father? While the older may know better, youth holds its fancied superiority.

As for the diplomated thousands, how dare even the boldest novelist question their education? Do not most of them nurse the illusion that they know all that is to be known? Age will teach them otherwise, but youth has to learn for itself. And when it has learned that its fancied wisdom was largely folly and that its imagined education was lacking in much of the real thing, it is no longer youth. That is the tragedy of it.

The dogs of war would keep quiet if diplomats weren't so catty.

Beware of the man who boasts of his honesty. He probably has never been tried out.

Probably before Noah took to the ark he had spent everything he had laid aside for a rainy day.

All things are relative, and the weather you whine about would make some other community boast.

Almost everybody has good intentions, and doubtless Cain's idea was to reform his brother Abel.

If politicians talked less about the tax problem they would have time to do something about it.

An evangelist says the depression has not reached heaven and yet they claim the world is getting worse.

There are two kinds of people: Those who stay up late to do things and those who get up early to get things done.

The chances are the fellow who looks like 30 cents has the 30 cents and the fellow who looks like a million doesn't.

"And what prompted you to propose to me, dear?"
"You," said he, simply and sadly.

Last week I gave you a couple of war stories. I cannot do better to-day than give you one or two more. You have all heard of Sir Frederick D'Almeida, at one time surgeon to the Emperor of Ethiopia. He was killed by Edward VII. Well, he is in the South African War at the turn of the century. Speaking of the march to Ladysmith in that campaign, he said:

"I was, as you know, with the relief column that moved on Ladysmith, and, of course, it was an extremely trying time by reason of the hot weather. In that enormous column of thirty thousand men, the first who dropped out were not the tall men or the short men, the big men, or the little men; they were drinkers, and they dropped out as clearly as if they had been labelled with a big letter on their backs."

And now turn your eye to the Far East where the Russo-Japanese war was being fought about the year 1904. Two Japanese officers were wounded in the lung and the other in both lungs. They both had the same car and attended to the same thing happened. The officer with his two lungs wounded got better first; the other with a less serious wound was a whole month longer in hospital. He was much puzzled about it and asked the doctor why his friend should have got better so long before him. And the doctor told him that his friend's blood was pure and healthy.

"Yours," said the doctor, "has been polluted by alcohol. It is why your wounds are so slow in healing." The officer took the words to heart. When he was well again and returned to the army, he told the men about his experience. They decided that as they wanted to keep fit and healthy, they too, would stop drinking any alcoholic beverages. Japanese or Englishman, Ethiopian or Mongolian or Caucasian, alcohol is deadly enemy. And the men about his experience. They decided that as they wanted to keep fit and healthy, they too, would stop drinking any alcoholic beverages.

And though I may think my efforts through the day have been in vain, I've made a mess of living. There my faith comes back again. There dark gloom is chased with laughter. Morbid thoughts are chased with glees.

And I feel, well, mightily thankful That my life belongs to me.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

The clouds are always passing. The clouds are always passing. Clean out the foggy mind. And each is silver lined.

The world is what you make it. Then make it bright and glad. For when you say it's gloomy It isn't the world—it's you.

Moses Doucet, famous boat-builder, entered the Yarmouth Hospital for treatment recently, following a severe attack of pneumonia. Mrs. Doucet accompanied him to Yarmouth, also his son, Roy M. Adrian Doucet has arrived from Lynn, Mass., to spend the summer with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doucet, after an absence of six years.

Edwin Doucet has returned from a visit to his aunt, Mrs. Elizee Melanson, of St. Benoit.

Eddie Doucet visited his sister, Mrs. Moses Sumner one day recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Geddy and Mrs. John La Pave, of Mayflower, visited relatives here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Elizee Melanson and Eddie Romain visited friends here on the 4th.

As a salesman in a San Francisco haberdashery, John used to get down on wrapping paper some of the humorous quips as they came to his mind.

In the excitement of making a sale many a purchase went out of the wrapping. One day an irate customer complained to the German proprietor who wisely observed:

"Well, if you must be a viscerackee why don't you do it where you get paid for it. You're fired!"

And so John left and got a job writing for a newspaper which eventually proved far more remunerative than writing for wrapping paper.

THE ROAD TO HOME

Harold S. Wood.

There's a road I like to travel When the busy day is through, Where the sun is always friendly And the skies are always blue, 'Tis the road that leads me home—ward.

Where the little children gaily Sweep the petty cares away.

Oh, that pathway holds more gladness Than this heart of mine can find. As my happy thoughts soar onward And my captive soul takes wing, Winging quickly on before me To that little place I know Where the rarest gems of heaven Shed their brightness here below.

And though I may think my efforts through the day have been in vain, I've made a mess of living. There my faith comes back again. There dark gloom is chased with laughter. Morbid thoughts are chased with glees.

And I feel, well, mightily thankful That my life belongs to me.

CHURCH ARMY CRUSADE

Those who had the privilege of hearing the Church Army Crusade, who recently visited this parish will no doubt be interested in the following history of the Crusade. The Church Army was started fifty-one years ago by Wilson Carlile, a clergyman of the Anglican Church. It is a Missionary Society consisting of 1200 Evangelists. It has four training colleges, the one in Canada being in Toronto and the Warden is the Rt. Rev. J. R. Lucas, formerly Bishop of Montreal. Besides doing Evangelistic work it also carries out social service work among the unemployed, and morally fallen. It has a Hostel for homeless and unemployed youths in Toronto, and also a similar institution in the city of Ottawa. In the city of Toronto a Church Army officer attends the Police Court daily to render aid to Anglicans who are in need of help and guidance. There are Church Army Evangelists in charge of parishes as far west as Moose Jaw and as far east as Prince Edward Island. There are also several officers at work in the construction camps in the various Provinces. Their motto is "More Christians and Better."

BASEBALL

The Digby team defeated Weymouth at Digby on Friday, by a score of 3-0, and forged ahead to first place in the Western Valley League. The visitors held the Digby team without a count until the fourth inning, when they got one earned run and two runs by Weymouth's errors.

Tucker pitched for Weymouth and went the full distance, striking out 10, and allowing but 3 hits, giving 1 base on balls and having 1 hit batsman. "Ted" Dakin started for Digby, allowing 2 hits, striking out 7, and giving 1 base on balls. He was replaced by Art Robinson in the 6th, who allowed 1 hit, struck out 5 and gave 1 base on balls.

C. Campbell got one stolen base for Weymouth and E. Anderson 2 for Digby.

The W. A. A. Team defeated Annapolis Royal in a game played on the Weymouth grounds on Wednesday last week.

E. Clarke hurled the pill for Annapolis Royal, allowing 7 hits, striking out 9, giving one base on balls and having one hit batsman. R. Brooks, who did the mound duty for Weymouth, allowed 6 hits and struck out eleven.

R. Riley and F. Munro each succeeded in stealing one base for Annapolis Royal. E. Tooker and C. Gaudet for Weymouth. Annapolis had no sacrifice hits. Weymouth 2—one by

CHURCH POINT

Ken Smith, of Annapolis Royal, visited Paul Stehelin, on his way to Yarmouth, recently. Mrs. Ted Kariagan, Mrs. Theophile LeBlanc and young daughter, and cohort Thibault, returned to Boston last week. About 30 returned soldiers of the Canadian Legion, E. S. L., at Weymouth on the 3rd of June, after taking part in a parade at Soldiers' Memorial monument. Isaac LeBlanc is working at Digby, where Oly Ross is erecting a very elaborate log cabin. Nicolas Comeau passed a few days recently at Metesthan, the guest of his daughter, Mrs. Leger Comeau. Benoit Geddy, of St. Alphonse de Clare, visited his brother, Annis Geddy, at St. Anne's College, one day recently.

A teacher spent a considerable time driving the theory of vulgar fractions into the heads of her class. When she felt that the class had grasped the fundamentals involved, she asked: "Which would you rather have—one ounce of toffee or two half ounces of toffee?" One of the boys shouted instantly, "Two half-ounces, Miss." The teacher sighed. "Now, why do you say that?" she asked. "Please, Miss," replied the boy, "there's another bag to bust!"

Obituary

Mrs. Thaddeus Harris

The many friends of Mrs. Thaddeus Harris were greatly shocked to hear of her sudden death from pneumonia, on Wednesday evening, June 14th, as only a few days previous, she had been down town in her usual health. The late Mrs. Harris was sixty-nine years old, and was a life-long resident of Bear River. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Alcorn, of Kent Corner, Digby County, and leaves a host of friends to mourn her "passing." Some years ago, her husband, who by an accident, and the entire community extends sympathy particularly to her irreparable loss of the faithful wife, who has been a constant companion in her affliction, and untiring in her efforts to mitigate his misfortune. She was a sterling Christian character, and neighborly good will, she will be greatly missed by her associates. Both in the community and in the Bear River United Church of Canada, of which she was a faithful member, and in the early years of her life, she was a devoted mother. Besides her husband, there are one son, Lovett, resident on the home-land; two daughters, Mrs. Charles Davis, of New Brunswick, and Mrs. Edward Betty, Dorchester, Mass.; one sister, Mrs. C. Yarrigle, Bear River, and five brothers, residing in the United States. Her husband, Charles, Edward, Benjamin and Reuben Alcorn. The impressive funeral services were held at the Harris residence on Saturday afternoon, the profusion of beautiful flowers softening the grim realities of death, and testifying to the esteem and affection of relatives and friends. The clergyman officiating at the services, was Rev. C. L. Blanchard.

RADIO QUESTIONS AND THEIR ANSWERS, No. 3.

Q.—What tubes are most suitable for a portable radio? I want a set using about 5 tubes and capable of operating a loudspeaker. I plan to use this set, both in my car and in a camp.

A.—There are two types of tubes now available which may be used in a portable set. The 2.5 volt type and the 6.3 volt type.

Q.—I have a set designed especially for the automobile radio. Since you desire to use your set in the car, I would advise the use of the automobile type tubes.

Q.—Will you kindly explain how to compute the grid bias resistor needed for a screen grid tube used in a radio receiver.

A.—Any good tube chart will give the screen and plate currents drawn by the tube when a certain voltage is applied to the grid and plate. To find the value of the resistor required, add together the plate current and the screen current, and divide the sum by the voltage by this sum, expressed in amperes. This will give the bias resistor value in ohms.

Q.—I will not injure the battery provided that there are connections on each cell so that the cells may be used alternately. That is, do not completely discharge one battery but shift from one to the other from time to time and so distribute the load on all the cells.

Q.—Can you tell me where I can obtain an automatic volume control for my set?

A.—It is not available yet as a unit for separate attachment. The automatic volume control is a special circuit incorporated in certain sets, and it amplifies and reverses to the intensity of the stations carrier wave.

FIELD DAY AT CLEMENTS

The Annual Field Day for 1933 was held at Clements, on Tuesday, June 13th.

The direction of the Teachers' Study Club, assisted by Miss Bertha Fraser, Helping Teacher.

Six schools participated in the event, Bear River East, Clements, Upper Clements and Deep Brook.

The field, which had been carefully prepared for the event by the Clements school teachers and pupils, was in splendid condition.

Small pennants marked the position of each school, while in the centre of the field the banner for which the schools were contending floated prominently in the breeze.

The judges were Rev. W. F. Turner, Rev. A. W. L. Smith and C. E. Clarke. Starter, Lewis Fraser, scorekeeper, John Lowe, Fred Foster and E. Clarke.

Highest individual scores were won by Clayton Yarrigle, Bear River School, 26 points; Vernon Elliott, Clements, 17½ points and Gertrude Perkins, Bear River East, 16 points.

After shooting her husband a Chicago woman sobbed on his grave, "I am going to miss him." She ought to have resolved on that when she aimed.

On being pressed for the reason why she steadfastly refused to attend a local concert, Grandmother eventually confessed that she understood the main item on the program was the "Song of the Vulgar Boatmen."

Reminiscences and a Few Other Things

— BY G. R. T.

Tonight I am listening in on the evening service of the First Baptist Church of Saint John, that beautiful metropolis of the delightful Santa Clara Valley some 45 miles south of Oakland, California. The singing comes rolling in over the air with an old time fervor that reminds me of another Baptist Church where the members sang hymns in the old days with a joy and gladness in every heart and voice that told of an old fashioned faith, yet ever new, in the wonder working power of the blood of the Lamb.

It was the Baptist Church down at Weymouth Point. Alas! In those days the broadcasting did not carry out very far upon the air and if one wished to enjoy one of these songs services he had to attend in person and that was too bad for those who were shut in or had no way of getting to church—too far away to walk and no means of transportation.

The Radio is one of God's blessings to the "shut-ins" of today—I knew of one very old lady, partially paralyzed but still very keen in mind, who looked forward to the radio services from the Church of the Air with all the enthusiasm of her early church-going days, this with the news and other broadcasts seems to have added years to her life. There are thousands of similar cases, of course.

Well! If I did not have the radio in the old days we had something akin to it that carried the sweet music of the Baptist Church bell far up the river on quiet summer evenings. Tones of that bell falling sweetly upon the ear seemed to fill one with a soothing feeling of peace and happiness toward the world and all mankind, including the tax collector, that was almost magical.

I am having difficulty tonight in keeping the radio service of the Saint John Church and that of the First Presbyterian Church of Holywood church, 450 miles away comes in with a clearness and a loudness which threatens to drown out the Saint John church, but of course a Baptist cannot be held down very long under a deluge of either water or words and this latter church has a very energetic lady as choir director whose methods put me in mind of Aimee Semple McPherson, of Los Angeles, and maybe you all know how hard it was to keep her down and out. At the present moment it looks as if Saint John is going to hold its place on the air, anyway I seem to have gotten the Baptists and the Presbyterians into their proper air channels and am sitting back preparing to hear a powerful address by the Rev. Mr. Fraser, of Saint John, a preacher of the old time religion who has a mighty voice and gives into the tone the full value of their A's, E's, I's and O's as he dwells upon the Glow-ray of the low-red and Per-se-cu-tion of the Sow-el and the bow-dy, but for that a very interesting man to listen to, who carries you aloft in a flight of beautiful words and brings you back to earth again in a nose dive that gives you the thrill of your lifetime.

I wonder how many Gazette readers are familiar with the history of the Baptist Church in Weymouth? Here are a few items gleaned from I. W. Wilson's History of Digby County, that are interesting.

Rev. Joseph Dimock while enroute to Yarmouth, held a preaching service at Weymouth in 1791. Probably this was the advent of Baptist Missions in the county.

In 1799 Rev. Enoch Townner was very active in Baptist Missionary work in Digby County and preached in Weymouth on every two weeks. "Elder Townner held meetings in the various sections at different times. Perhaps on a given Sunday a service at Sissiboo would be held in the morning. Reuben Hanksin in the morning. David Shook during the afternoon, on the following Wednesday evening at John Roop's, on Shuburne Road; the next night at Daniel O'Dell's, Smith's Cove; then proceeded to Digby Neck, holding forth at David Cossaboom's, Gulliver's Cove; thence to Sandy Cove in the house of Morris Peters, and reaching Westport soon as possible, where meetings would convene at the residence of Andrew Coggins. The ensuing fortnight would find Elder Townner at Weymouth. When Smith's Cove was not visited he would preach at Westport, one Sabbath. Sissiboo the next. Elders Thomas Ainsley, James Manning and Harris Harding assisted the Pastor in his work at Smith's Cove, Weymouth and intervening localities. The followers of Mr. Townner contemplated erecting churches. One was reared on the eastern corner, west side of the river, in the land, then occupied by Benjamin Sabean, one of its members. Rev. Mr. Townner himself resided some years on the site of the present church, immediately west of the Baptist Church in Kilmoryton. Some meetings were held there and in the McConnell residence further east."

"A Baptist Church of worship was erected about 1827 on the site of the present chapel at Weymouth Point. Another called "Tabernacle" was reared and soon completed at Mapletree Corner, Sissiboo, on the eastern side of the old post road on the original Garrison Farm. The era of sermons in private dwellings, barns, school-houses and the open air was passing away and religious freedom coupled with increased population and multiplication of capital were inducing comfortable edifices for divine services in various centres. A more generous spirit by Episcopalians toward Dissenters was apparent.

Each denomination, Catholic and Protestant, were worshipping freely as they desired. Baptists were the most flourishing sect during the town of Digby and the Post Road from the Episcopal Church, Sissiboo to the river, they were rapidly preponderating."

I see that instructions from Middlebury, Conn., have been complied with and a general program of clean up and improvement is under way. That's the spirit, clean up, put on a new frock, and pack all your rubbish in your old liver bag and smile, smile, smile. Now is your chance to get rid of that accumulation of nick-nacks and bric-a-brac that has been chattering up the garret, and woodshed for so long.

Maybe you will tear down that old band stand and build a new one or put in a swimming pool, or a public woodyard.

Get out the old whitewash brush and a bucket of lime water and give the old picket fence the once over, spray a few barrels of the stuff over the barn and dab some red paint on the roof and the old barn doors, nothing looks so fine to the tourist as a lot of white and red farm buildings against a background of green fields. And don't forget cleaning up in the chicken coop. Scratch around in the front yard, trim up the lawn and get the posies ready to bloom and get the vegetable beds ready for radishes, lettuce and spinach.

Don't you wish that old friend W. S. Hall Dabron was there to furnish all the tomato and cabbage plants that you can use? Isn't he the grand old gardener? And after the houses and shops are painted and all this trimming and polishing up is finished the old town will look as bright and shiny as a New Haven alarm clock.

Don't bank too heavily on the tourist crop this season. From what I hear from Tourist Agents this is going to be the greatest stay at home year of all time. What with plenty of real beer on this side of the line and gasoline selling at 1929 prices and ready cash that just ain't, and jobs somewhere in the offing folks are going to put off touring for another year.

Up to date none of that Roosevelt "refuted" currency has made its appearance in this part of the country. But like John D. Rockefeller No. 1, "we are hoping"—"We are all hoping"—and in that respect, Father Rockefeller has no monopoly. By the way, have you read "God's Gold," by John T. Flynn? It is a very interesting biography of Mr. Rockefeller.

Keeping pace with the comeback of the bicycle, roller skates are with us again. Down in Hollywood they are taking to this old-new sport with such a gusto that they are wearing out the sidewalks along Hollywood boulevard. The wife of a prominent movie magnate borrowed her daughter's skates to go marketing a few mornings ago—you know the movie people are doing their own work now—another fad—Well! On her way home with her arms full of meat and potatoes and other things she came suddenly upon a dip in the sidewalk and out went her feet from under her, and tumbled—bump, bump, bump. And she had all of her eggs in one basket too.

If I remember correctly roller skating was never very popular in Weymouth, the streets were too rough and hilly and those old wooden sidewalks too uneven to skate on. But as a winter sport ice skating was the most popular of all. And many there were who indulged in plain and fancy skating doing some wonderful spread eagle and pigeon wing Dutch roll and figure eight cutting, out on the river and under the Levee. And a very beautiful and graceful skater among the ladies in those days was our good friend, Mrs. Adeline Moore.

Are you buying any stocks at these present day prices? Don't forget another old Wall Street saying, "What goes up must come down." Some of them are climbing pretty fast. Don't borrow money to buy stocks with, and don't sell "short" in plain and fancy skating doing some wonderful spread eagle and pigeon wing Dutch roll and figure eight cutting, out on the river and under the Levee. And a very beautiful and graceful skater among the ladies in those days was our good friend, Mrs. Adeline Moore.

Some one who signs himself "A. T. Pisto" wrote me a week or so ago a letter in which he remembered a foot race between Alf Ellis, the Saint John Drummer, and Jimmy Cook, the Butcher. To my mind I don't think I would regret that, I do, and some day if the Gazette grants me space I will endeavor to give you a few details of that interesting event. — G. R. T.

Richmond, California.

CONCESSION

Miss Gertrude Anderson, District Nurse, Annapolis, motored here recently, to visit Mrs. Willie O'Neill, who is ill.

Innocent Comeau, his daughter, Charlotte and three sons, Emilie, Philip and Frank, who would resign that, I do, and some day if the Gazette grants me space I will endeavor to give you a few details of that interesting event. — G. R. T.

Mrs. Joseph Gaudet and her sister, Fricola Comeau, were recent business visitors to Yarmouth.

Dennis Comeau, Little Brook, was the Sunday guest of Miss Leonie Comeau and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sammie Comeau, recently.

Urban LeBlanc recently hired to Hassett and back through the woods on business, a distance of about twenty-four miles. While there he was the guest of his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doucet, and Mr. and Mrs. Simon Doucet.

BELLIVEAU'S COVE

Mrs. Wilfred Belliveau has left for Boston, to visit friends and relatives. Mrs. Joseph A. Gaudet, of St. Bernard, and children, left on June 3rd, for Lynn, Mass., to visit her sister, who is ill.

Charles Theriault, of Yarmouth North, was the week-end guest of relatives here.

Miss Marguerite Blinn, of Boston, Mass., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Blinn.

Charles Doucet, who has spent the winter yachting around Miami, Florida, is spending some time with his family in White's Cove.

The schooner "Mary B. Brooks," which has been hauled up at Weymouth North, during the winter, proceeded to Yarmouth on Saturday to load a cargo of lumber for Boston. The cargo was shipped by G. O. Hankinson.

HECTANOOGA

The Rev. Father A. Maillet, rector of St. Vincent de Paul Church, at Salmon River, was here Sunday to celebrate Low Mass. It being Holy Trinity Sunday. The choir rendered appropriate music for the occasion. The credo was sung as a public profession of faith in the teaching of the Holy Catholic Church. The Rev. Father also presided at the devotions to the Sacred Heart, Saturday evening, which are taking place in the church every evening at 7 o'clock.

Miss Gertrude Deveau arrived last week from Lynn, Mass., on a visit to her father, Joseph B. Deveau. Miss Yvonne Doucet and her brother, Robert Doucet, have returned from a few days' outing at Camp "I'm Alone," Beaver Lake, where they were with a party of friends. They report good trout fishing round about, having themselves brought in several specimens of the "speckled beauties."

Mrs. Evangeline Boudreau, teacher, spent the week-end at Yarmouth, on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Armand A. Deveau and Elie Smith, of Mayflower, attended Mass here, Sunday. Jacob Bouzianey, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. George Boudreau, Mr. and Mrs. Marie Hannon, Emile Boudreau, Miss Margaret Boudreau, Patty Boudreau, Miss Emilie Boudreau, Miss Elida Boudreau and Arnold Boudreau, of Meteghan Station; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Thibault and Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Boudreau, held a picnic supper at the river, in the rear of Harrington, Sunday evening. Part of the menu consisted of fried trout, caught in the river, pastries of different kinds, and for dessert, five kinds of fruit. All reported a jolly time.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SERVICE CLUB CONDUCTS SERVICE

In the absence of the Minister, Rev. M. R. Ewing, who is attending the conference at Sackville; three members of the Young People's Service Club of the Heart Memorial United Church of Canada, of Weymouth, motored to Barton on Sunday evening where they took charge of the service at the United Church of that place.

G. E. Tingley, President of the Young People's Service Club, conducted the service, and also gave a brief discourse on "The Church." Prayers were given by the Misses Pauline Blackadar and Kathleen FitzGerald, who each read papers, the former's being entitled "The Successful Life," and the latter's, "The Need of Prayer." Appropriate music consisting of a solo, "Our Sweetly Solemn Thought," and three anthems were rendered by the choir of the Barton church in a very pleasing manner. The church was beautifully decorated with cut flowers, and the congregation large and attentive.

WEYMOUTH
and Vicinity

Mrs. W. C. Hankinson and son, William, of Weymouth North, motored to Yarmouth on Saturday. They were accompanied by the Misses Allie Forbes and Ruth Brannan, who were returning to their homes in Wood's Harbour, after spending several weeks with the latter's aunt, Mrs. A. G. Lenz and Mr. Lenz, at Weymouth North.

The motor vessel "Tilley," Capt. Bagdell, arrived in port at Weymouth North on Sunday, to complete loading a cargo of pulpwood, having taken part cargo at Plympton. The cargo was shipped by Capt. B. N. Melanson, of Gilbert's Cove, for the Morsey Plant at Liverpool. The "Tilley" sailed on Monday.

Mrs. Winnifred Moore left on Monday for Smith's Cove, where she has accepted a position at the "Out-of-the-Way Inn" for the summer months.

Mrs. Vernon Jones left on Monday for Digby, where she has accepted a position at the Lour Lodge Hotel for the summer months.

Messrs. John and Clyde Raymond, Elsworth Doty and Harvey Fitzgerald, Jr., motored to Yarmouth on Monday.

Miss Grace Blagdon, Mrs. E. Baker, Mrs. Haines Marshall and J. F. Blagdon motored to Digby on Friday. They were accompanied by the Weymouth North School, spent the week-end at his home in Plympton.

Several people at Weymouth North enjoyed the first strawberries of the season on Sunday.

Mrs. L. H. Potter was called to Saint John on Friday, by the serious illness of her mother.

Jesse Dahlgren, recently underwent an operation at the Halifax General Hospital.

Miss Grace Briar, of Boston, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. W. M. Hogan.

State Was Originally East and West Jersey

"The Jerseys" frequently occurs in American historical writing as the familiar name of New Jersey. Everybody, for instance, has read of Washington's historic retreat through the Jerseys. This arose from the fact that what now comprises the state of New Jersey was at one time divided into two provinces known as East Jersey and West Jersey. This territory was originally part of New Netherland or New York and along with that province was granted by Charles II to his brother, James, duke of York. In the same year, 1665, the duke of York granted the tract between the Hudson and Delaware rivers to Lord John Berkeley and Sir George Carteret. It was called New Jersey in honor of Carteret, who had been governor of the island of Jersey. At first the territory was governed as one province, but when it was later partitioned the portion originally granted to Berkeley was called West Jersey and that to Carteret East Jersey. In 1682 the province of East Jersey was sold at public auction to William Penn and 11 associates for £3,400. Penn had already obtained an interest in West Jersey. In 1702 the proprietors, who reserved the right to the soil, transferred all right of jurisdiction to the crown, and the two provinces were united under a government similar to that of the other royal provinces. Although at the time of the Revolution East Jersey and West Jersey had composed a single colony for nearly three quarters of a century, many people were still in the habit of speaking of them as "the Jerseys."—Pittsburgh Magazine.

Prussian King's Really Good Joke on Voltaire

There was once a courtier at Frederick the Great of Prussia, an Englishman with an amazing memory. One day Voltaire was due to read to Frederick a new poem in his honor. Frederick asked that the Englishman should be able to recite it from the next room.

Voltaire arrived and read out his masterpiece—an ode of great length. "Very nice," said Frederick, "but of course I have heard it before."

At this point the Englishman wandered in casually and was asked if he had ever heard a poem beginning so-and-so.

To Voltaire's horror, the Englishman took up the line and went on reciting word for word the poem Voltaire had just read. Anguished, Voltaire tore his manuscript to pieces. Then, the joke being explained, the Englishman had to dictate the poem again to Voltaire.—Golden Book Magazine.

Visit to Vik in Norway

In the ancient Hardanger village of Vik in Norway, the tourist will find an epitome of many of the attractions in this region. It is one of the oldest and most picturesque. Here will still be found some of the old turf roof cottages. The turf is laid on several layers of birch bark and is absolutely watertight. Spinning wheels and looms will also be found in some of the homes. The church is a typical peasant church of pre-Reformation days and one of the first of its kind. It has ancient frescoes and carved furniture, all the work of local talent. An ancient leather collection bag, fixed to the end of a long stick, has a small bell attached, to wake the sleeping worshiper.

A Forgotten Drink

Many of the large New England hayfields have disappeared; so has switchel, which is now merely a name. Switchel was a mixture of molasses, ginger, water and a dash of vinegar, contained in a brown jug each under the shade of a bunch of alders or partly submerged in a spring hole. On a hot day when men were mowing, racing or pitching hay, frequent trips were made to the switchel jug. Dusty throats needed something to wash away the hayseed, and switchel was the answer. It was consumed in quantities. The coldness of the water was tempered by the molasses, while the ginger and vinegar prevented cramps.

An Imperial Court

The court of the judicial committee of the privy council in Downing street, London, is one of the most famous places in England, for here is laid down the law for the empire. The three law lords sit in judgment on many issues involving large and small affairs, and the rights of people of all races and religions are determined in the larger cities of the United Kingdom in a local Indian court often finds its way to the privy council, or perhaps an African chief who believes that his time-honored rights have been violated will insist on being heard in the Downing Street court, where learned barristers in wig and gown argue solemnly.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

H. F. Pullen, Publisher of the Prince Rupert (B. C.) Daily News, Says:

THAT Canada is the closest neighbor of the United States and so people that it would be difficult for a visitor to either country to be sure on which side of the boundary he was if he were not told.

We are Canadians and the people of the United States call themselves Americans, but all come from the same original stock. In each country there is a predominance of people of British origin with British ideals and a British outlook. There is also a large admixture of other European peoples, all being gradually welded into a new nation, one to the south and the other to the north of an arbitrary dividing line.

The southern climate of the United States is more attractive to the ordinary visitor who wishes relaxation but the climate of Canada is the more bracing and tends to make a harder and more virile people.

Between the two peoples there is a tariff and immigration wall that separates them much more completely than does the Atlantic Ocean cut each off from Europe. Canadians cannot buy in the United States because the import duty is high and people south of the line cannot buy in Canada for a similar reason. People in one country cannot migrate to the other except under the strictest supervision. However, they do exchange their goods and services, and this interchange of visits is on the increase.

Today leading citizens on either side of the line are beginning to see the advantage of closer relations with their neighbors. Canada has a large market for many United States products and the United States could with advantage use Canadian paper, pulp, lumber and fish. We are developing business with countries thousands of miles away and neglecting to trade over the fence with our next door neighbors because they have refused to trade with us.

The logical move is for statesmen from Canada and United States to sit around a table and discuss these matters as friends and neighbors and make permanent arrangements for buying and selling and for coming and going back and forth across the unfenced line.

There's life alone in duty done, and rest alone in striving.

THE "BUSH" THAT GOOD WINE DOESN'T NEED

Everyone is familiar with the phrase "Good wine needs no bush," but while its significance is well understood, it is in these days some of the puzzle and many people to understand the connection of "bush" with "wine." Once upon a time it was perfectly clear to everybody. In the olden days the term "bush" was applied to the branch or bunch of ivy (perhaps as sacred to Bacchus) which was hung up as a victor's sign. Later when sign boards came into use, the term was applied to the sign-board of a tavern. But good wine needed no bush (or sign-board) because everyone in the community knew where the best wine was to be had. Just as the world makes a beaten path to the door of the man who can make a better mouse-trap than anyone else, so the community made a beaten path to the door of the vintner who made the best wine and it didn't matter whether he hung out a bush or not.

It is the same way with all commodities and it is really a sign of weakness when too frantic efforts are made to interest people in a product. The much "bush" sometimes causes the consumer to wonder if the product is all that it is cracked up to be. Take tea for instance. It is a perfect lodge when you buy a pound of tea and get a tea saw puzzle or some other present thrown in, you are paying for two things—a pound of tea and whatever the present may be. Teas like MORSE'S TEAS do not depend upon prizes, premiums and presents for their popularity. In fact, the popularity of MORSE'S TEAS was built up on quality and on that basis it will be maintained. As a consequence of following this sound business policy MORSE'S BLUE-NOSE TEA at 35 cents per pound package has as good quality as most 40 cent teas and MORSE'S STANDARD TEA at 40 cents has quality equal to that of highly advertised teas offered at 50 cents.

A BOARDING SCHOOL FOR GIRLS CONDUCTED BY THE SISTERS OF CHARITY

ADVANTAGES:

- 1.—The thoroughness of its courses, including all grades from I to XII.
- 2.—The exceptional opportunities it affords for the study of French, special attention being paid to conversation and composition in that language.
- 3.—The attention that it pays to the moulding of character.
- 4.—The training that it gives in Art, in Music, in Plain and Fancy Sewing, in Light Domestic Duties.
- 5.—Its exceptionally low rates, notwithstanding the fact that the board is of very good quality.
- 6.—Its accessibility, not only to pupils from the Maritime Provinces, but also to students from Boston, New York and vicinity, it being only an hour's journey from Yarmouth, the terminus of the boats from those cities.
- 7.—Its delightful and healthful situation, removed from the distractions of town life, which makes it an ideal spot for study.
- 8.—The fact that it is an examination station, which permits its pupils to write the provincial examinations in familiar surroundings—a circumstance which tends to lessen feelings of nervousness evoked by new situations.

Band Stand Should Be Raised

To the Editor of the Courier,
Sir—Listening to the comments of the audience at Tuesday night's Band Concert, it was made quite plain that the people would appreciate more volume. Our Band is a good one and balance being excellent for a young ensemble and to the writer the solution of the volume problem is the raising of the Band stand four or five feet. Most of us remember when the stand was well up from the ground, but a lot of it has been put in around it so that it is very low at the present time. The Band can give more volume but it is very apt to be at the sacrifice of quality. In the near future this stand will be used as a speaker's platform for the Governor-General, and any one trying to speak from this low platform will have quite a job.
—An Old Bandsman.

DOMINION DAY, JULY 1

July 1st, Canada's greatest National Holiday, falls on Saturday this year. What are we going to do about it? Are we going to sacrifice to trade and commerce, forget it, or postpone it? Digby's observance of holidays National and otherwise, has become somewhat of a joke—some observe them, and some don't. On a holiday we find most of our stores and places of business open at least part of the day. The only holidays we observe to any extent are Sundays and even then a lot of business is done.

DIGBY UNITED BAPTIST CHURCH

A special Sacred Service with an all male choir will be held in the United Baptist Church, Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The new lighting fixtures just installed by the Young Men's Class, will be dedicated at this service.

The Provincial High School Examinations will start at Digby Academy on Monday, 26th June. Forty-one candidates have applied to write at Digby Examination Station, 4 in Grade XII and 37 in Grade XI. Mr. B. H. Ruggles has been appointed Deputy Examiner at this station.

Freepoint plays will present a three-act comedy, "She Waits in Her Sleep" in the Bijou Dream Theatre, next Friday evening under the Hospital auspices.

Obituary

Wilfred L. Manser

There passed away on June 11th, at the home of his uncle, William Brooks, Ashmore, Wilfred L. Manser. He was in his 21st year and had been failing in health for the past four months. He had made his home with his uncle for the past seven years. He was a member of the Baptist Church and was of an unquestionable Christian character. He leaves to mourn their loss his father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Manser, two brothers, Colin and John, three sisters, Eva, Josephine and Muriel and three half-brothers, all residing in Avon, Mass. His grandmother, Mrs. Lalla Manser, of Ashmore, also uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brooks and a number of other relatives and friends. The funeral service was held on Tuesday from the home of his uncle with interment in the Riverside Baptist cemetery. A very impressive sermon was preached by Rev. James Neilson. The floral offerings were many and beautiful including a pretty spray from the young men.

Harriet Rice

Mrs. Harriet Rice, widow of Charles Rice, formerly of Waltham, Mass., passed away at the home of her son, Harold G. Rice, of Toronto, Ont., after an illness of about three weeks. Mrs. Rice was a native of Plymouth, Digby County, the daughter of John and Daniel Smith. For the past ten years she has made her home in Canada, but she had lived in Waltham, Mass., with her sister, Mrs. Ena M. Reed. Besides her son, Harold G. Rice and a granddaughter, Harriet, she had five sisters: Mrs. Damia Thomas, Mrs. Cassie Brown and Miss Emma Smith, all of Plymouth; Mrs. Ena M. Reed and Mrs. Ada May Warner of Waltham, Mass., and several nieces and one nephew, of Waltham. The funeral service was held at Waltham, June 17th, the Rev. William H. Dyas, formerly of the Beth Eden Baptist Church of Waltham, officiating.

Mrs. Roland Welch

Mrs. Elizabeth Sabina Welch, beloved wife of Roland Welch, passed away at her home in Freepoint, on June 13, aged 76 years, after a lingering illness, borne with remarkable patience and fortitude. She leaves besides her husband, two daughters

A. S. MACMILLAN NOMINATED IN HANTS

A. S. MacMillan, M.L.A., for Digby, was chosen as standard bearer for the Liberal party of Hants County at a convention held at the Hants Hall, Kennetcook Corners, on Thursday last week. Mr. MacMillan, a Liberal M.L.A., was elected to the House of Commons for the Hants constituency in the Provincial Election of 1928.

MARINE NEWS

The tern schooner Edith Belliveau is at present at Moncton, discharging cargo of Barbados molasses. Capt. P. Boudreau, of Church Point, is replacing Capt. Oliver Comau, her former skipper, who is now in command of the tern schooner, Ullula, for the season. The Ullula is in the Boston trade.

C. G. S. Halkett, which is fitting out at the Fisheries Experimental Station wharf, Halifax, will soon leave on an expedition seeking new scallop beds off the coast of Nova Scotia. Captain Zina of Lunenburg, formerly well-known of the tern schooner Abundance, is in command.

The Tagati, Captain Thubert, arrived in port from Saint John, on Wednesday with a general cargo for H. T. Warner.

Politics Are In The Air

This afternoon, at a convention in Weymouth, the Digby County Liberals will select their candidate to contest a seat for the coming Provincial Election, and next Friday the Conservative party will select their candidate at a convention, also to be held at Weymouth. Both political parties have been holding local committee meetings getting things "lined up" for the conventions and campaign.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Grierson (nee Louise Dargie, of New York, were among the passengers on the steamship Yarmouth Saturday morning and left for Weymouth to visit Mr. Grierson's parents, Judge and Mrs. A. Grierson, also visit Mrs. Grierson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dargie, Annapolis. They intend making a trip to Lunenburg before returning to their home in New York.

Mrs. Albert Thompson and Mrs. L. J. Beller, of Westport, and two sisters, Mrs. Mina Crosby, Leominster, Mass., Mrs. Frank Goudey, Quincy, Mass., and one brother, Walter Thubert, Saint John, N. B. The funeral was held from the home of Mrs. Albert Thompson, June 15th, the service being conducted by Rev. Malcolm Outhouse, pastor of the Christian Church. The hymns sung were a duet by Mrs. R. V. Watkins and Rev. Outhouse. The burial was in the "Dark Valley" and "Jesus Lord of My Soul" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," by the choir. The floral offerings were many and very beautiful.

Mrs. Annie Dexter and son, Donald, of Halifax, were visitors at the home of "The Elms" over the week-end.

Mrs. Earl Boswell (nee Pauline Gidney) arrived this week to spend some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Gidney, Mink Cove.

TENNIS BENEFIT TEA, Saturday, June 24, from 4 to 6 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. William Walker, 55, Gerald ("Jerry") Feck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Feck, of Somerville, Mass., formerly of Digby, was grand. He was the only boy in school that won 4 letters in Athletics.

Mrs. Charles A. Lindstrom was "At Home" to a large circle of friends on Wednesday afternoon. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Joseph Snow, who received with her. Mrs. Abbott poured tea, while Mrs. R. H. Lockward, Mrs. F. A. Graham, Miss Kathleen Graham and Miss Louise Gram, assisted in serving. Miss Muriel Snow waited on the door. The rooms were beautifully decorated with cut flowers. Mrs. Marilla Walker, of Digby, attended the funeral of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Coleman Powell, at Central Grove, last week.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society will be held at the Court House on Friday, June 30th, at 3 p. m.

O. C. Jones, manager of the Pines Hotel, is in town supervising the getting ready of the hotel for the summer season. The Pines will open on Tuesday.

Rev. Elmer G. Dakin, of the First Church, Sanford, Maine, formerly of Centreville, recently baptized fourteen candidates. The youngest was eleven years of age and the eighty-three. Last year this church contributed $1,850 to the denominational program, thus standing fourth in missionary giving in the State.

Rev. F. M. Kirkus, D.D., of Wilmington, Delaware, who, for the past two years has been in charge of the American Congregation of the American Church, Munich, Bavaria, will take charge of the services at Holy Trinity Church, on Sunday, during the absence of the rector, Rev. A. E. Gabriel, who will preach at All Saints' Cathedral, Halifax, on that day.

The Digby and Yarmouth Kiwanis Clubs will hold an Inter-club Meet at the Myrtle Hotel here, on the evening of Monday next. Kiwanis and their Queen of the Clubs will be present, and a good program is being arranged by the committee in charge. The Digby Kiwanis are also helping to finance the Boy Scout Camp which is to be held at Porter's Lake (Digby Co.) from the 30th of this month until the 4th of July.

Mrs. Boyd Germain and Mrs. Loran Handspiker spent Sunday the guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Digby Baxter.

Mrs. Eva Ring, of Newton Plains, Mass., arrived on Saturday to spend the summer with her daughter, Mrs. Guy Dunn, Lighthouse Road.

Kendall Bryant and bride, of Boston, have arrived to spend the summer in their summer home, "Birchmore," on the Shore Road.

Rev. F. E. Bishop returned from New Germany, on Monday, where he had been attending the Western Association of the Baptist Churches.

An enjoyable time was had at the "Poverty Social" at the United Church Hall last Friday evening. Proceeds were for the Sunday School.

Dr. E. DuVernet went to Saint John on Tuesday, to attend the Canadian Medical Convention, held in that city this week. He returned yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Morse and two children, of Halifax, and Mrs. M. E. Morse, of St. John's, N. B., spent the week with his mother, Mrs. L. H. Morse.

The annual Garden Party of St. Patrick's Church will be held on the church grounds, Queen Street, Wednesday, July 26th. Proceeds for church funds.

Many chestnut trees are in glorious bloom all over town this week. We have a wonderful lot of these handsome trees around Digby; see them everywhere, east and west.

Misses Bertha M. Budd and Esther V. Budd, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. Budd, of Sea Brook, spent several days last week visiting friends in Mink Cove and Centreville.

A notable feature of motoring these days is the almost complete absence of the freak cars marked up with inscriptions intended for humor, or that used to clutter up the highways.

A number of jobs of building, repairing, painting and other structural work about town, are daily reminders that returning prosperity is slowly but surely, gaining a new foothold.

Miss Bertha Curry was the recipient of a "Shower" on Tuesday evening, at the home of Mrs. Clara Carter, where a large number of her friends gathered in honor of a coming happy event.

Gordon Potter, who has been taking a post-graduate course at McGill University, Montreal, has returned to spend the summer with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Potter, Plympton.

The fields are now white with daisies and motor parties are returning from the country with great bouquets of them. Laurel is also in bloom in localities where it has sprung the wholesale raids of flower gatherers.

Bicycle riding seems to be on the increase this season, especially in Clare. Some "bikes" are well equipped with devices for eliminating many of the dangers of modern traffic, but too many lacking even lights, are especially at night, a real menace to safe driving.

The Use of Matches!

is always dangerous, Avoid all possibility of fire by using flash-lights. We have them from 65c. up.

CORPUS CHRISTI PROCESSION WATCHED BY 2,500

The procession of Corpus Christi took place Sunday afternoon at Church Point, with a large attendance from Digby and Yarmouth counties. It is estimated that about 2,500 people were present. After vespers, the procession headed by the cross carried by Maudie Comeau, followed by school boys and small girls in white, went through the St. Anne's grounds at Comeauville and Little Brook repository, which this year has been made permanent by the erection of an elaborate mass chapel. After the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, the procession proceeded to The Memorial Chapel on the Point, where its arrival was saluted by the ringing of the new bell "Marie Louise" recently dedicated. The souvenir chapel for the occasion had been artistically decorated by Mrs. John J. Thibodeau, Mrs. Leger Comeau and Miss Celestie Thibodeau.

Going from there to Grosses Coues and the Benediction, the procession returned to St. Mary's Church, where the benediction was given. Father Bourneau, St. Bernard's, was in charge of the carrying the Host under a silk canopy, assisted by Rev. Maximin LeBlanc as sacristan and Father Bourneau as sub-deacon. Immediately before the Host, little girls in white were throwing flowers. The men marched behind the Host, headed by Rev. D. F. P. The church was decorated under direction of Jean Thibodeau. Prof. Ulysse Comeau presided at the organ.

Boy Scouts Give Supper and Entertainment

The First Digby Boy Scout Troop held a successful supper and entertainment in the Boy Scout Hall on Tuesday evening. The supper was excellent, and the program as planned by the Scouts was well received. The men marched behind the Host, headed by Rev. D. F. P. The church was decorated under direction of Jean Thibodeau. Prof. Ulysse Comeau presided at the organ.

Married

Hunt-Collins

A very pretty wedding took place in the United Baptist Church at Little River, Wednesday morning, when Ella Lillian, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Collins, Little River, became the bride of Frederick Albert Hunt, son of Mrs. Katherine Hunt and the late A. E. Hunt, Truro. The church was beautifully decorated in pink and white for the occasion. The bride was attended by her sister, Florence (Mrs. R. A. Lockhart) while the groom was attended by R. A. Lockhart. Ushers were Messrs Ruth Cheney and Verna Collins, friends of the bride. The bride was given away by her father. The ceremony was solemnized by Rev. C. L. Chute, pastor of the church. During the signing of the register, Linden Collins, a brother of the bride, rendered a solo, "O Promise Me." Following the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Hunt later left by car on a two weeks' motor trip through the Province. On their return they will reside at Truro, where Mr. Hunt manages a men's clothing store.

RADIO QUESTIONS AND THEIR ANSWERS. NO. 4

1st Q.—I am bothered by noise on my short wave radio, especially down around 20 meters, whenever cars pass the house. Can you tell me some way to eliminate this trouble?

Ans.—Noise reducing antennas have very little effect on this kind of interference. Therefore you might try persuading all motorists to install noise filters on their cars (a million system hit) or it might be easier for you to move.

2nd Q.—I have purchased a short-wave converter, but so far I have been unable to get a peep out of it. What do you think is wrong?

Ans.—There is a possibility that some lead may have broken or the set become damaged in shipment. If this is not the case, try a complete new set of tubes. It is quite common that converters don't work because they have not been properly connected to the broadcast set. Make sure of these connections and tune the converter very slowly.

3rd Q.—How does one find the frequency of radio waves when the wavelength is known, or the wavelength when the frequency is known?

Ans.—Radio waves travel at a speed of about 300,000,000 meters per second. To find the frequency, divide this figure by the wavelength. When the frequency is known divide the speed of radio waves by the frequency expressed in cycles. To turn cycles to kilocycles, divide by one thousand (1,000) or by multiplying kilocycles by 1,000 will give the answer in cycles.

4th Q.—Why is it that the radio stations which broadcast for entertainment purposes use a wavelength somewhere between 200 and 550 meters, when it is an established fact that radio waves travel much greater distances when the station uses a wavelength less than 200 meters?

Ans.—While it is a fact that stations using a short wavelength will radiate over a greater distance than the "Broadcast Band," reception on the shorter wavelengths is very unreliable. Sometimes the signals come in with good quality and volume; at others it may not be heard at all. It will vary sometimes between a maximum strength and a minimum in less than five (5) seconds. Naturally when one expects to use a programme for entertainment purposes, they prefer the steady signal. This kind of signal is found anywhere above 200 meters, favorable atmospheric conditions states that there is absolutely no fading on wavelengths of about 2,000 meters.

LOWER GRANVILLE

Ritson Longmire, of Somerville, Mass., is spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Shaffner.

Katherine Cronin, of Port Wade, spent Sunday with her friend, Pearl Melanson.

Mrs. Hugh Foster was operated on successfully on Wednesday last, and is doing fine. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

On Friday evening, June 16th, a meeting was held in the Lower Granville Hall, when J. Chute, of Berwick, a member of the Maggot Control Board, gave an interesting and instructive address regarding farmers organizing to control the maggot. Mr. Kelsall, of Annapolis Royal, gave a very interesting address on the maggot, its habits, and how to fight the pest.

Between Ourselves

I spent last evening looking over the advertisements in one of the well known American publications. I am amazed at the way the human race will take a foul smelling lot we are! What we lack! Maybe we had better give up and say "what the use?"

We are warned that if we don't bathe in Sunny Boy Soap or some other kind of soap, we will have nothing to do with us. If we don't gargle with Sweet-scent Mouth Wash, the girl friend will surely "give us the snit." We're doomed for falling arches and drooping eyebrows if we neglect to use that famed Mudecane Shampoo. In-growing toenails and elephant's feet will be our lot if we don't bathe our tootsies with Cannon Ball Soft Soap Liniment, and if the little woman doesn't brush her teeth with Acheamouth Tooth Paste she is going to be an old maid for sure.

All of us are ruining our cars by using Garbosh Motor Oil or by not filling the gas tank with that good old Snail's Pace Gasoline. It's terrible when we think of the risks we take by not putting Fireproof Bulbs in the sockets of our head-lights, and no other battery should be used but the Nogo.

None of us have any idea of what good tobacco is until we take the first drag on one of Hades' Sunburnt and Juicy West Cigarettes. They are all due for an attack of hay fever or acute indigestion by not chewing Rubber Set Gum after every glass of ginger ale. Our friends are in the blink through our neglect to take our daily dozen of Ironbound Pills. We lack pep and are discouraged because the good lady of the house doesn't serve Tupper's Sawdust Breakfast Cereal every morning.

We wake up in the mornings feeling like the morning after the night before" just because we forgot to take that dose of Dizzy Fliz before retiring. We toss and turn in our beds at night because we neglected to take a hot cup of Knoesep. Our dogs and cats suffer from fleas and hen lice because we neglect them by not feeding them their rations of Itch-en-Scratch Dog and Cat Food.

Certainly I believe in advertising and lots of it. I believe that advertising is the best means of telling the consuming public what you have to sell and why they should buy it. But don't you think with me that many well-known national advertisers are going a bit strong; that their advertisements are a bit too far fetched to be effective? In my opinion many of them are. They are too full of forceful wording is a good quality in advertising, but some copy writers go to the extreme—And the "funny papers" will be too deep for many of us, to understand by the way some of the advertisers are keeping the cartoonists working overtime in order that they may tell us why we are shunned by our fellow creatures.

Had everything come as it should have gone Digby would now be all set for that United Empire Loyalist Old Home Week which was talked so much about early in the winter. You may remember it. We were going to celebrate the 150th Anniversary of the Landing of the United Empire Loyalists in Digby—at the occasion which should have been celebrated with a "BANG." We were afraid of the depression, and let the matter drop.

Saint John folks didn't let the depression scare them. They went right ahead with their celebration. "Hard times be having no effect on our motto. Our friends in Kentville weren't afraid to tackle something brand new. They put on their Apple Blossom Festival and had a great time. Both of these celebrations took place before most of us thought summer was here; and both were a round, but we preferred to continue with our little nap, and blame it all on old man Depression."

I wonder if the Bear River folks are going to have an acute case of "Depression Blues" now that Cherry Carnival time is near? If I wonder if they plan to give the Carnival the "go bye" again this year? Let's all hope that they follow the example to her home here to spend her vacation.

Obituary

Mrs. Harriett Robbins

The death took place at the Victoria General Hospital at Halifax, June 19, of Mrs. Harriett Robbins, widow of the late Valentine Robbins, who was killed in action during the Crimean War. Mrs. Robbins was born at Bear River, forty-eight years ago, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Botsford Rice and has lived all her life in this vicinity and was a woman well loved by her friends and neighbors. One son, Clayton, of the H. M. S. "Saguenay", Halifax, is left to mourn a loving and kind mother. Two children, Leland and Carlean, predeceased her a few years ago. Her father and mother, both of whom were of the Holy Spirit. Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always even unto the end of the world.—Matthew 28:18-20.

Devolitional Reading: 1 Peter 1:3-9. Spoken History: who are the victors? Unroll thy long annals and say, Are these whom the world called the victors, who won the success of a day? The martyrs or Nero? The Spartans, who fell at Thermopylae's trust, Or the Persians and Xerxes? His judges or Socrates? Pilate or Christ?

The Fact of Christ. The Peter-Mark Gospel is the shortest of the four. It is divided into sixteen chapters. The length is about twenty thousand words. Yet for six months we have been studying this Gospel without beginning to exhaust it. Further, this Gospel only tells of the earthly ministry of Jesus. Could Mark and Peter return to earth, how amazed they would be at what has happened since! They would find that the calendar date time from the birth of Christ. He was the great watershed of history. Art has gone to the gospels for themes; some of the most gratifying. It all had to do with an advertisement inserted in the Herald's Swap-Barter column. The advertisement was in read as follows: "Will trade 5-tube battery radio receiving set, complete with tubes and loud speaker, for good milk cow."

There passed peacefully away on Sunday morning, June 18, at Roxbury, Mass., George D. Crouse, aged 82 years. He was the son of the late Henry V. Crouse and Lavina Dodge Crouse. Born in Bear River, in early manhood, he had moved to the town of New Brunswick, N. B., building contractor, but had retired from business a number of years ago. He was a devout member of the St. John's Baptist Church, at Dorchester. His wife predeceased him a number of years. He leaves one sister, Mrs. (Caroline) W. Crouse, of Dorchester, besides a large number of nieces and nephews. The funeral will be held at 4:30 p.m. at St. John's Baptist Church, at Dorchester. Mr. Crouse was a member of the St. John's Baptist Church, at Dorchester. His wife predeceased him a number of years. He leaves one sister, Mrs. (Caroline) W. Crouse, of Dorchester, besides a large number of nieces and nephews. The funeral will be held at 4:30 p.m. at St. John's Baptist Church, at Dorchester.

W. M. S. MEETING

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Bear River Church, held a very interesting meeting on Saturday afternoon, after the usual opening exercises, Mrs. Crouse read a letter from the Episcopate.

Mrs. C. L. Blanchard conducted the study for the afternoon, "A Half-Century of Mission."

Mrs. J. T. Davidson, the delegate to the annual meeting of the W. M. S. at St. John's, was the guest of the day's meeting. Next month the society's proceedings will be taken up.

REVIEW: "JESUS OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR"

Golden Text: "All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth. Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit: Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always even unto the end of the world."—Matthew 28:18-20.

Devolitional Reading: 1 Peter 1:3-9. Spoken History: who are the victors? Unroll thy long annals and say, Are these whom the world called the victors, who won the success of a day? The martyrs or Nero? The Spartans, who fell at Thermopylae's trust, Or the Persians and Xerxes? His judges or Socrates? Pilate or Christ?

The Fact of Christ. The Peter-Mark Gospel is the shortest of the four. It is divided into sixteen chapters. The length is about twenty thousand words. Yet for six months we have been studying this Gospel without beginning to exhaust it. Further, this Gospel only tells of the earthly ministry of Jesus. Could Mark and Peter return to earth, how amazed they would be at what has happened since! They would find that the calendar date time from the birth of Christ. He was the great watershed of history. Art has gone to the gospels for themes; some of the most gratifying. It all had to do with an advertisement inserted in the Herald's Swap-Barter column. The advertisement was in read as follows: "Will trade 5-tube battery radio receiving set, complete with tubes and loud speaker, for good milk cow."

"Just as the copy was about to go out to the linotype operator to be put in type, along came a member of the town's clergy. He spotted the copy and the humorous side of his make-up could not be controlled. He suggested that the phrasing of the advertisement be changed. We agreed, and as a result the copy appeared in print as follows: "Will trade 5-tube battery radio receiving set, complete with tubes and loud speaker, for good milk cow."

Prince Edward Island Lady Used Dodd's Kidney Pills

Three Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills Completely Relieved Her Sore Back.

Mount Stewart, P.E.I., June 19—(Special)

"My mother had a sore back for a long while," writes Mrs. Wm. N. Griffin, a resident of this place. "Her trouble was caused through strain on the back, and she was unable to turn in bed without help. All kinds of different remedies were tried, but they did no good. Finally she tried Dodd's Kidney Pills, taking in all, three boxes. She has not had a sore back since."

With the primer months come colds and flu, which double the work of the kidneys. Often the results are serious, for if the kidneys are allowed to become clogged with poisons, the result is a condition known as rheumatism, which is a very serious disease. This treatment relieves you of discomfort, and wards off Rheumatism, Lumbago, and Sciatica. An old word, Dodd's Kidney Pills will prevent kidney disorders.

The Saviour

Christ was a great healer. Many came to him to be saved from their aches and pains. Salvation means health, wholeness, freedom from restored health to the sick and has awakened a passion for service to those who are in need of help. He cannot save a tooth until he have contacted with those who have learned of Christ. People also came to Jesus to be saved from their sins. Here too he showed his saving power. He gave release from evil habit and brought power to achieve moral victory. He vindicated his teaching by going to the cross in utter selflessness and love for others. He is our Saviour because he has taught us to believe in the love of God, our Father in heaven. Men had cruel thoughts of God which caused them to live in the shadow of the God of love who cares for all, who numbers the hairs of the head and marks the sparrow's fall. He is still able to awaken this truth in our day when the universe has become so vast, and we have become so microscopic.

Jesus the Saviour of the world in the sense that he is the most adequate disclosure of the character of God. To see the Father, He has made evident all men the sacrificial, suffering love of a God who so loved the world that he gave himself for the redemption of those who are in need of that love. The life and death of Jesus are one pattern, and not to be taught of Christ.

Do we seek money or position to follow the teachings of Jesus?

Are you one of those who would be equally shocked to have Christianity either doubted or practised?

What is our answer to Christ's question: "Who say ye that I am?"

Our Lord

Many of the Hebrew people would not pronounce the word for Lord and in writing, as a mark of reverence,

Married

Todd-Morgan

A quiet, but pretty wedding took place at Bridgetown, Monday afternoon, June 19, at 3 o'clock, in the United Church, where Miss Mary Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan, of Bear River, became the bride of Ritchie Aubrey Todd, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Todd, of Dalhousie West. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Howard Hamilton, and was witnessed only by the immediate friends of the contracting parties. The bride looked charming in a smart swaggar suit of blue with white hat to match and accessories in matching shades. Both bride and groom were unattended. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Todd left on a honeymoon trip and their return will make their home for the present with the groom's parents, at Dalhousie West.

"Most interesting of all, however, was the fact that a farmer in the Herald district wrote in to say that he wanted the radio and had come to offer in trade. The applicant did not state whether or not the cow came up to the specifications as set forth in the advertisement. At any rate we handed the reply to the advertiser and it is hoped that both parties are now satisfied."

NORTH RANGE

Henry Bragg has returned home from North West River.

Ephraim Cook, of Digby, recently visited his brother, T. W. Cook, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sherman.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph MacNeill, daughter, Marguerite, and little Lawrence Lewis, accompanied by Mrs. W. W. Clark, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Larramonde, Clementsville.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Van Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Andrews, and Manning MacNeill attended the Western United Baptist Association of Nova Scotia, held at Bars Corner, Annapolis County, last week.

F. H. Parker motored to Yarmouth on Saturday.

REAL ESTATE

FOR SALE—Eight desirable buildings on lots on the property owned by John Eustice, bounded by Birch and Carleton streets and Maiden Lane—J. J. Wallis, Digby.

FOR SALE—A fairly large farm at Waterford, over 150 acres, a large part of it cleared. Good barn, but no house. Will be sold cheap.

FOR SALE—A very desirable summer home (suitable for all year round occupancy) in the prettiest location in the neighborhood of Digby. Part of the money can remain on mortgage.

FOR SALE—A very desirable farm on the Eastern Road to Bear River, contains 90 acres more or less, and the buildings are in good condition; enough wood cut and in the woods for several seasons of fire wood (25 tons) cut and in the barn; growing crops approximate: 75 to 100 barrels apples, 200 bushels grain, 150 bushels corn, 150 bushels mangels, 75 bushels turnips, cabbage, beets, parsnips. All stock, crops and tools, wagons, etc., worth $1000.00. The owner is "tired" with the farm, which is offered at a very low price. There is a small mortgage on the property which can be paid off at once, or the owner is willing to allow another mortgage to a desirable purchaser.

WANTED—A gentleman wants to rent a small farm suitable for chicken raising and gardening somewhere between Clementsport and Weymouth. Hands County farmer wants to buy a small farm on monthly instalments—J. J. Wallis, Digby.

"The results were almost spontaneous. The Herald had been in the mails; but a few hours when the phone began to buzz with enquiries about the cow with tubes and loud speaker. Passersby tapped on the office window and laughingly asked us if we still had the cow. Saturday morning's mail from the west had its quota of comments."

"Most interesting of all, however, was the fact that a farmer in the Herald district wrote in to say that he wanted the radio and had come to offer in trade. The applicant did not state whether or not the cow came up to the specifications as set forth in the advertisement. A Good Time for Independents

To the Editor of the Courier.

Sir:—It is known to everyone that a Provincial Election must be held this year, and already party candidates have been chosen in several counties. Politicians are ever alert at Election time. The Ins, who are at present the Conservatives, want to stay in. The Outs, who are now the Liberals, want to get in. That is about all that Party stands for in this Province. It is a scramble for office and nothing more. No important difference of principle or policy distinguishes the Conservatives from the Liberal Party in Provincial affairs.

What reason have the people, therefore, to keep up the distinction of party in the coming Election? Clearly none at all. Would it not be better for the men and women of each County to select the best qualified person available, regardless of party, and elect that person by acclamation, or at least by an overwhelming majority? Of course it would. Could it be done easily? Yes, if the people want to do it.

What relief from their present wretched burdens can the people of Nova Scotia expect to get by turning out one set of Party office-seekers and putting the other one in? Probably none whatever. Were it not better to scrap both party machines, ignore party candidates, and put in a set of capable business men, who, forgetful of party, would grasp the present dangerous situation, and remedy the evils from which the people are now suffering? This is our golden opportunity, and we should not let it pass. Are we going to drag along in the same old way or not? Five years is a long time to wait for another chance. It is hard to say what may happen before then.

—Voter.

BAND NOTES

The first Sunday Afternoon Concert by the Digby Bands will be given at the pavilion next Sunday at 3 o'clock. An interesting program is expected.

The Weymouth trip last Thursday was quite a success. The receipts were $70.00 and the Band was well received by Weymouth people.

The Music Council is indebted to the kindness of Mr. Chas. Carty for a fine conductor's platform which he built for use at the band stand and in other concerts.

Critics have been very lenient in commenting on the band-stand concerts, and have been liberal in words of praise, especially in view of the band's short existence of six months. However, we have been hearing so many complaints that the music does not sound loud enough except to listeners near the stand, and the Director has carefully observed the fact hoping to remedy the fault, which is not due to the players. He asserts that the situation of the band stand is most unfortunate, and that the music will never sound at its best until the stand is raised at least four to six feet. The sound then will carry over the heads in the front row instead of being blocked by striking directly on the bodies of the nearest listeners. This change must be made before good music can be expected. The matter is under discussion. The cost would be trifling. Moving the stand further back would be a good idea.

Miss Margaret (Peggy) Hall, of Halifax, spent the week-end with friends here.

HARLEM

Mrs. Hector Barr and son spent last week with her mother, Mrs. Margaret Tooker, at Weymouth North.

If You Are... ANAEMIC ALWAYS TIRED WEAK NERVOUS RUN-DOWN LOSING WEIGHT RHEUMATIC

Better Look to Your Blood Stream!

Recently a practicing physician, who knew the formula of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, tested the blood of eleven people before and after taking this widely-known blood-building remedy. At the start, these patients were all easily tired, lacked energy and were underweight. Their Blood Streams were found to be deficient in haemoglobin and red corpuscles. In a short time, however, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills improved their condition in a manner that was, to quote the physician, "nothing short of remarkable."

Increases Oxygen

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills recondition and revitalize the Blood Stream, which is your Life Stream. They create new red blood cells. They stimulate the blood stream to carry more Oxygen—life's great vitalizer—to all parts of the body. This Oxygen rebuilds tissue and clears away system poisons.

Gives New Strength and Vitality

With the reconditioning of your blood stream, new vitality, new power, new energy course through your arteries to every organ of the body. Your appetite picks up. Your digestion improves. Day by day you feel yourself becoming stronger and better able to resist dangerous diseases.

Don't wait too long—get a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from your Druggist. 50 cents a package.

Owner of America's Largest Watch Collection Visits Town

A man with a very unusual hobby—the collection of ancient timepieces—was in town on Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning. It was John J. Lightstone, of Montreal, a traveller who was here on a business trip.

On Tuesday night the editor called on him at the Winchester Hotel, and was entertained at considerable length by Mr. Lightstone, who showed him several specimens of the horological art and also records of over 400 which have been catalogued, and photographed, but this 400 does not by any means represent his entire collection, as he has about 300 not yet catalogued. His collection is the largest one in North America, and one of the largest in the world.

Mr. Lightstone had just come from Yarmouth, where he had picked up several fine watches, and he showed us one particularly fine specimen he had secured. It was a watch made by Thomas Wagstaff, in London, Wagstaff was a watchmaker par excellence. He was born in 1766 and died in 1844. He was a very famous watchmaker in his profession. There is one specimen of his work in the Pierpont Morgan museum in New York.

Mr. Lightstone is a particularly fine piece of work. Of course, like all watches of its period, it is entirely made of metal. It is a beautiful and the entire movement is finished in gold. It is a chain driven, as were all the watches of that day, and the links of the chain (made by hand) are too small to be seen with the naked eye.

Other watches which Mr. Lightstone has in his collection and refers to as outstanding specimens are: one by Thomas Taylor, in 1686; one by Benjamin Taylor, England, 1683, and another by Julien LeRoy, Paris, who lived from 1686 to 1759. He also has one by Thomas Pace, 1630-1680, which has over 300 drillings on the cock-plate in which is set a diamond, and he has one by John Taylor, of Exeter, a Straßburg, made by A. Kauffmann—an exceptionally rare piece.

Mr. Lightstone was much interested in a watch owned by the editor. This watch was given to the editor when he was a boy, by his grandfather, who was 73 years old at the time. She told him that it had belonged to her great grandfather, which would make it about 150 years old. But the watch is older even than that would indicate. The watch's name is engraved on the plate. William Nash, and Mr. Lightstone, looking up his records, found that William Nash was appointed in 1663 as a member of the Clockmakers' Company. He has a brother, John, who was apprenticed in 1669 and married Miss Thomas, apprenticed in 1717. Mr. Lightstone has a watch by Thomas. He pronounced the watch as a very rare and beautiful specimen of seventeenth century horological art, and an excellent museum piece.

He was also interested in an old clock in the editor's home built by Eli Terry about 1775. Terry's home was in Plymouth, Litchfield County, Conn., and he is said to be the inventor of the clock.

Mr. Lightstone also showed us a famous book, "Sam Slick, the Clockmaker."

Smith's Cove Women's Institute Holds Special Meeting

A special meeting of the Smith's Cove Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Edward Payson, on Tuesday afternoon, the president, Mrs. George Weir, presided. Arrangements were made to hold a fair in the Harbor View Casino, on Wednesday afternoon, July 19th. Committee members were asked to take charge of the afternoon tea, fancy work, candy and grab.

A letter from Mrs. Robert Austin was read expressing her appreciation of the "card shower" sent her by the members. It was decided at this meeting to purchase a Nova Scotia flag and present it to the school, at the beginning of the new school year in September.

On Wednesday, June 21st, twenty-two members of the Institute had the pleasure of attending the District Rally of the W. N. S. held at Belliveau's Cove. Their part in the programme was a demonstration on "The Costumes of the Tourist that arrived in Smith's Cove 30 years ago and those of the present day." Miss Ceceneth Thomas in her very pleasing manner described the costumes, which were worn by the following members: Travelling—Mrs. George Weir and Mrs. Elmer Weir; Eldridge—Mrs. Mary Payson and Mrs. Mark Longworth; Bathing—Mrs. Oran Woodman and Mrs. Elroy Woodman; Evening—Mrs. B. Taylor and Mrs. George Wightman; Sleeping—Mrs. T. O. Morgan and Mrs. William Woodman.

Two signal songs composed by Mrs. George Austin were sung by the cast.

At the close of the rally, members of the Belliveau's Cove Women's Institute served afternoon tea, which was greatly enjoyed by all.

RECEIVED DEGREE

D. H. Collins, Principal of the Lunenburg Academy, was successful in obtaining his Bachelor's degree from the University of Toronto with second class honors. Mr. Collins has been engaged at study for this course for the past two years. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Collins, Digby.

Gov't-General and Lady to Arrive Thursday

Their Excellencies Earl Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, and Lady Bessborough, will arrive in Digby at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, remaining here until 12 o'clock, noon.

At the station they will be met by the Mayor and Town Council. The Digby Civic Band will play a few bars of "God Save the King," while the Boy Scout Troop or Digby Legion will act as guard of honor. From the station the vice-regal party will be escorted to the band stand where they will be tendered an address of welcome by the Mayor. The band will be in attendance.

Very little outside of the ordinary routine of affairs was discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Town Council held on Tuesday evening last.

After the reading of the minutes of the last regular session and of a special session held June 13th, the report of W. W. Hayden, superintendent of streets and water, was read. Mr. Hayden in his report stated that his men had put in one new bridge and had widened the corner of Saint Mary's and Victoria Streets. The band stand had also been painted.

Mr. Hayden also advised the Council that some work had been done to attend the formal dance in many cases it would be necessary to "fill" in several places with short pieces of timber or logs to prevent small cracks from working through by the heavy seas and thereby causing serious damage.

A two day session leading to the government pier had been taken up and renewed for a distance of nearly 300 feet. The town water supply, which had been cut off for several days during the month five had been taken out. Work had been done at the reservoir well, and he now considered the supply well improved.

Mayor Holdsworth urged the Street Committee to give their attention to the matter of the formal dance. Councillor Morrell, Chairman of the Streets Committee, suggested that the matter should be attended to immediately.

An invitation from the Digby Fire Department was tendered to the Mayor, Council and other town officials to attend the formal dance at the Myrtle Hotel in connection with the Maritime Fire Chiefs' Convention to be held at Digby on Wednesday, July 6th. The matter of the formal dance in the form of a petition requesting that the Council meet with citizens of the town to discuss matters regarding sewerage rates, etc., was brought before the Council. This matter was left in the hands of the Committee to be given for their consideration and should they consider it necessary a special meeting of the Council will be called to meet with the citizens.

The matter of the visit of their Excellencies Earl and Lady Bessborough, and party to Digby on Thursday (July 6th) was discussed, with plans for their reception. On motion of Councillor Morehouse, seconded by Councillor Turnbull, a sum of $200 was voted to the Digby Band for five concerts to be given during the month of July.

The matter of the observance of the Dominion Day Holiday, which falls on a Saturday this year, was also discussed. His Worship urged that the holiday be faithfully kept, and that the citizens of the town decorate their premises with bunting.

PLYMPTON

Misses Georgina Surratt and Agnes Doucette, of Yarmouth, spent the week-end with their friends, Mrs. Henry Tibbets, at Gilbert's Cove.

Fred Melanson, of Plympton, has returned to spend his vacation with his parents.

Henry Tibbets spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. Eva Tibbets.

Miss Alice Comeau is spending her vacation with her parents.

Dick Sabean spent a few days recently with his mother at Weymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ganders, of Hartford, Conn., arrived in Digby to spend some time with Mrs. Candor's mother.

Gus Melanson, of Plympton, spent Sunday afternoon in Coveville.

Mrs. Linden Collins, of Little River, gave a miscellaneous shower to Miss Bessie Porter, teacher at that place, recently, whose marriage to Henry Tibbets, at Gilbert's Cove.

She was completely surprised when called on an errand. On entering the room three cheers were given for the bride. The gift was hidden in different parts of the room and she had to find them and read appropriate verses accompanying them, causing much laughter. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

A surprise party in honor of Miss Grace Whitman, of Hantsport, for the past two years Primary teacher at Weymouth, was held in the Guild Hall, Weymouth, North, on Friday evening. A most enjoyable time was spent playing games, after which Rev. L. W. Mosher, Rector of the Anglican Church, presented Miss Whitman with a leather bound hymn book with the music, from friends in St. Peter's Parish. Delicious refreshments were then served.

Miss Whitman has been a very faithful worker in her church, and both during the past two years and also the previous year when she taught at Ashmore, being a Sunday School teacher, member of the choir, and it is with a deep feeling of regret that her many friends learn that she is leaving here.

A number of people miraculously escaped injury on Sunday, when the axle of the truck in which they were driving to South Range to attend the service at the Christian Church there, broke while going up the Campbell hill at Weymouth. The truck backed down the hill and the car from the back of the truck was parked in front of the Goodwin Hotel, while the occupants had supper at the hotel. The truck was driven by Roy Wagner, of Riverdale. The R. C. M. B. were notified and checked up on the accident.

Arrived, June 24, "Tagati," Capt. Thurber, from Saint John, with general cargo, clearing same day for Freeport in ballast.

June 26, motor vessel "Till," Capt. Bagnese, arrived from Bear River, with 300 cords of pulpwood, taking on 200 cords more at Digby, and cleared for Freeport.

"Arwana," Capt. Milner, cleared on June 27, for Saint John.

Fisheries patrol boat "Capelin," Capt. E. Lewis, arrived in port on Wednesday, from Grand Manan.

Lighting Fixtures Dedicated At Sunday Service

The new electric lighting fixtures of the Digby United Baptist Church were dedicated at a special service on Sunday evening, when the young men's class, assisted by a male choir of twenty-one voices, took charge of the services.

Chester Levy, President of the Men's Class of the Church, made the presentation to the congregation. In his address he gave a brief history of the class and told how the class members had taken upon themselves the responsibility of installing and paying for the new lighting fixtures. Deacon Charles Carby, on behalf of the congregation gave a short address of acceptance and thanks. Rev. F. E. Bishop, pastor of the church, then dedicated them for use of the congregation standing.

Harry Eldridge, class teacher, read from the Scriptures, choosing the eighth chapter of John, commencing the twelfth verse. Mr. Eldridge also offered prayer. During the taking up of the offering Guy Morehouse and Harry Eldridge rendered a sacrosanct duet with pipe organ accompaniment.

Rev. F. E. Bishop preached a sermon very appropriate for the occasion, choosing for his text the words of Christ, "I am the light of the world." The service was mostly musical, many special selections by the male choir. Mrs. Guy Morehouse presided at the organ. All loose collection went to the class to go toward paying for the fixtures.

The large church was filled to its capacity, camp stools and other improvised seats being placed between the aisles to accommodate the large congregation.

BASEBALL NOTES

Digby continued to show their supremacy in the League by defeating Annapolis Wednesday by a score of 13-8, on Annapolis grounds. Despite the score, good baseball was played by both teams, and many brilliant plays were featured. E. Clarke hurled for Annapolis, while the mound was manned by Dakin, Robinson and Stoddart, for Digby.

WILL DOMINION SURVIVE

Remember this as you celebrate the First of July: No governmental system ever yet devised by the wit of man is strong enough to resist the corroding selfishness of human nature.

In spite of all our proud brags, by after-dinner orators, the fate of Canada is in the end subject to the identical ordeals that doomed all other governmental experiments—from the days of the Pharaohs, to the passing of the Russian of yesterday.

Indulge your own luxury, idleness, squandering, forget your country, and your country cannot long survive.

Love your country, uphold your country, be proud of your country; and the people of this land shall live long.

They say: Rome fell before the Goths, coming out of the Teutonic forests, breaking down the walls of Rome, destroying the ancient civilization, replacing culture with barbarism.

All wrong. Rome committed race-suicide; refused to breed her own kind; and for many hundreds of years before the days of the Hun the Roman Empire was digging her own grave.

The coming of the barbarians was a mere episode.

They say: Greece fell before the lust of the Romans for conquering. Not at all. The sap of Greece's youth was gone. She no longer had a sense of self-protection. Family brawls, bickering, rivalry of hill-top cities, "the glory that was Greece" was forgotten in petty selfishness of rival rulers. She even forgot how to defend herself.

Then, along came the Romans, who placed on the necks of the Greeks the iron collar of the conquered. The famous Greek marbles were knocked down, shipped to Rome, there sent to the kilns, burnt to make lime for building walls, aqueducts, pavements. What a satire on man's finite littleness!

PLEASE READ ALL OF THIS —OR NONE

It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years—not in the lifetime of most men who read this paper—has there been so little grave and deep apprehension; never has the future seemed so incalculable as at this time. In our own country there is universal commercial prostration and panic, and thousands of our poorest fellow citizens are looking out against the approaching winter without employment and without the prospect of it.

In France, the political caudron seethes and bubbles with uncertainty; Russia hangs, as usual, like a cloud, dark and silent upon the horizon of Europe; while all the energies, resources and influences of the British Empire are sorely tried, and are yet to be tried more sorely, in coping with the vast and deadly Indian insurrection, and with its disturbed relations in China.

It is a solemn moment, and no man can see the end. They are, fortunately, as yet mainly commercial; and if we are only to lose money, and by painful poverty to be taught wisdom—the wisdom of honor, of faith, of sympathy and of charity, no man need seriously despair. And yet the very haste to be rich, which is the occasion of this widespread calamity, has also tended to destroy the moral forces with which we are to resist and subdue the calamity.

Good friends—let our conduct prove that the call comes to men who have large hearts, however narrow their homes may be; who have open hands, however empty their purses. In time of peril we have nothing but manhood, strong in its faith in God, to rely upon; and whoever shows himself truly a God-fearing man now, by helping wherever and however he can, will be blessed and beloved as a great light in darkness.

Now comes the remarkable fact. What you have just read was not written yesterday, about the conditions of today—but it is a verbatim report of an editorial which appeared in Harper's Weekly on October 10, 1857.

July of that year was normal. September marked the beginning of depression. This editorial appeared in October. Seventeen months later in March 1859, business was back at normal again.

"Of our own troubles no man can see the end." They said it in 1857—76 years ago—and it has been said many times, before and since. Depressions have occurred in business during the past hundreds of years, and every one has looked black, and seemed unending.

But—every depression has, without fail, been followed by a sure recovery—and prosperity.

Hot air and cold feet are usually pals.

You can't uplift people by sitting down on them.

The only safe side to any argument is in the middle.

If ignorance were bliss, everybody would be happy.

If one wasn't born every minute this would be a dull world.

Many hands make light work, and many hands make light of work.

Temperance
Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service Council and Temperance Alliance)

I listened in the other day to an interesting discussion between two good friends of mine as they aired in a good-natured way their diverse opinions on the temperance question. They touched upon a number of knotty points, but through it all one could detect that they were each putting a different meaning into the word "temperance." And they are not the only ones who do this. My two friends really represented the line-up between many pros and cons on this issue today.

Neighbor Ben finally came out plain and found fault with the folks who use the term in the sense of total abstinence. "Why," he said, "temperance as applied to the use of alcoholic liquors means just the same as when applied to anything else whatsoever. It means moderation. The Good Book itself tells us to 'be moderate in all things.' There you have it—moderation in all things, in eating and drinking, in working and sleeping, in sport and reading and all the rest of it. A man can surely take a glass of good liquor without going on to make a hog of himself. You total abstinence folks simply go too far. I doubt if you have any right to use that word 'temperance' to describe your position. You believe in total abstinence for the individual, and in prohibition, or forced total abstinence, for the nation. I believe a man ought to decide for himself whether he will drink liquor or not, and then that we should educate the people to exercise self-control and drink in moderation. That's what I call true temperance."

I was all ears to hear what Farmer Ned would say in reply. Neighbor Ben had put it to him pretty strongly. But Farmer Ned smiled his well-known, good-natured smile. "I was just thinking," he said, "and you were defining that word 'temperance' and quoting the Bible in your support, that, to be consistent, you should have gone on to apply the term 'moderation' in that sense to all things. Let a man be temperate or moderate in stealing, lying, dishonesty, profanity, for example. How does that sound to your own virtue-loving ears? I think you will have to grant that Paul was thinking only of things in themselves that are good and not bad, helpful and not harmful, when he advocated temperance or moderation in the use of them. Imagine being 'temperate' in your sense in the eating and drinking of all unwholesome or poisonous things! You see, Neighbor Ben, before you advocate the moderate use of alcoholic drinks you must prove that they are in themselves good and not bad, helpful and not harmful. If you do that, then I shall be your ally in advocating with all my heart the 'moderate' use of them. And science, not our personal likes and dislikes, must teach us here. And everywhere science is teaching today the injurious effects of alcoholic liquors even in small quantities. Ask the first schoolboy you meet what he is learning about alcohol. Don't you think, after all, that true temperance means moderation in all things helpful and abstinence in all things harmful?"

• What a leisurely and deliberate game was Croquet, yet how attractive our grandparents found the green lawns, the painted hoops, the gaily striped mallets and balls. Other and more strenuous games have replaced it, but how suited it was to the sports clothes of the time!

Sports Clothes of the Eighties were so different from ours... Yet they, too, were washed with SURPRISE SOAP.

- Clothes in the Eighties were mostly hand-made and could only be replaced after many hours of painstaking sewing. Even then they were washed with Surprise Soap and the results proved that housewives of today also know that the outstanding quality of Surprise is its safety.
- Surprise Soap always does a thorough washing. The rich, penetrating lather foams up easily and quickly, yet the gentle suds are so pure and mild that the most delicate garment cannot possibly come to any harm.
- Dainty fabrics and exquisite colours are always safe with Surprise Soap because it washes so quickly and with so little rubbing. And this helps clothes to last longer, too, for this easy washing keeps them shapely and unfaded.

"Quality First" was the policy adopted when the first bar of Surprise Soap was made in St. Stephen, N.B., 40 years ago. This policy has never been altered and the quality of improved with advancing years, keeping pace with modern requirements.

THE BIG GOLDEN BAR

Who Knows of
More "First-Things?"

To the Editor of the Courier, —Many readers have probably seen a booklet "Historic Nova Scotia" issued by Department of Highways, Halifax, with a list of "first things" in Canada that occurred in Nova Scotia.

Matters noted include first water power, first grist mill, first coal mine, first light-house, first Protestant church, first Catholic church, first printing press, first stationary steam engine, first hockey, first Marconi station and similar items.

I fancy this list is incomplete and that there may be other "first" items in the Maritime Provinces and will be glad to receive suggestions from readers who happen to have information of this sort. —John W. Regan.

THE BOY WHO DIDN'T PASS

A sad-faced little fellow sits alone in deep disabuse.

There's a lump arising in his throat and tears stream down his face;

He wandered from his playmates, for he doesn't want to hear

Their shouts of merry laughter since the world has lost its cheer;

He has sipped the cup of sorrow, he has drained the bitter glass,

And his heart is fairly breaking; he's the boy who didn't pass.

In the apple tree the robin sings a cheery little song,

But he doesn't seem to hear it, showing plainly something's wrong;

Comes his faithful little spaniel for a romp and bit of play,

But the troubled little fellow sternly bids him go away.

And alone he sits in sorrow, with his hair a tangled mass,

And his eyes are red with weeping; he's the boy who didn't pass.

Oh, you who boast a laughing son and speak of him so bright,

And you who loved a little girl who comes to you tonight

With smiling eyes and dancing feet, with horrors from her school,

Turn to that lonely boy who thinks he is a fool,

And take him kindly by the hand, the dullest in the class;

He is the one who needs most love—the boy who didn't pass.

How to play has not really learned how to work.

How to pray has not learned his own soul.

How to serve without praise has not learned to serve.

How to accept criticism has not learned to grow.

How to forget has not learned to live without friction.

Obituary

James L. Muise

There passed away at the Sanatorium, Kentville, Thursday morning, June 22nd, James L. Muise, son of Mrs. Kate Kope, and grandson of the late Governor James Muise of the Indian Reserve, aged 38 years. He enlisted in Colchester Co. in the 193rd Battalion, N. S. Brigade, and served 2 years overseas. He was also a champion runner in the Canadian Army in England; instructor in Scout and End, and belonged to the Canadian Legion. Coming home after the war, he entered the running races at Prince Edward Island, and was a member of the team. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Kope, who mourns the loss of her only son and child. The body was brought home on Friday and the service was held from the Roman Catholic Church, Father Leo Murphy conducting the service. The war veterans marched in a body, and the last post was sounded by C. B. Miller. Interment was in the Catholic burial grounds.

PARISH OF ST. CLEMENT

SUNSHINE SUNDAY

What is known as "Sunshine Sunday" will be observed in the Bear River Baptist Church, Sunday, July 2, 1933. The special service will be held on the morning of 11 o'clock, and arrangements will be made by the committee in charge to provide a means of conveyance for those members of the congregation who because of age or for some other reason, are unable to attend regular services of worship. It is planned to follow the service especially attractive for the children.

The music and message for the service are being prepared with this in mind. The service of Communion will immediately follow the morning worship.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES HOLD RALLY AT BELLIVEAU'S COVE

On June 21st, a most enthusiastic and enjoyable Rally was held at Belliveau's Cove, over one hundred and fifty members being in attendance.

Mrs. J. L. Peters, of Bridgetown, District President, presided, in the absence of Miss Helen MacDonell. Miss Hewitt, Assistant Superintendent, attended the Rally as the representative from Truro. Miss MacDonell sent a message regretting her inability to be present.

"After singing 'The Maple Leaf'—the Flag Salute, and reciting the creed, an address of welcome was given by Mrs. H. Cunningham.

The following programme was then carried out—First, Demonstration of bed-making, mattress changing, and preparing a maternity bed, by Miss Mary Romans, R. N. (Bear River). The war veterans moved most instructive and acceptable.

A clever Playette—"Mallard Bridge Institute, 'Lazie Speaks Up'." This playette pointed out many ways by which an Institute may help toward improvement in matters relating to our schools.

Belliveau's Cove Institute then presented Miss Melanson, of Weymouth, a graduate of the Conservatory of Music of Mount St. Vincent, who contributed a very enjoyable piano solo.

Mrs. Comau, of Meteghan Institute, with her assistant, next demonstrated most clearly and efficiently the making of a "Sandwich Loaf"—a loaf which must be seen to be fully appreciated, and which when completed was of art with its garnishing of water lilies and leaves. As it was nearing noonday, all appetites were keen after watching this demonstration.

The members of Belliveau's Cove then sang "Oh Canada" in French—once more making those who spoke only English feel that we have a great deal to learn from our French-English sisters.

At noon the guests were asked to leave the Hall for a short time while the hostesses prepared coffee and placed tables. How conveniently and pleasantly the work was done!

The guests returned to the Hall which had been a pleasant comfortable table at which to sit, delicious coffee and delicious cake were served. During the noon recess the District Executive held a meeting and elected officers for the coming year.

After the afternoon session, which opened with a period of singing, following this Miss Hewitt spoke briefly, explaining the various phases of the work, particularly of the District Executive.

William Institute then gave a period of instruction on National Food—four members being in costume. This was very enjoyable and was followed by a song from the hostess Institute.

A very humorous "Character Reading" was given by Miss Nellie, who, in her costume, color and costume—and she kindly favored with an encore. A piano solo followed.

It was announced that Mrs. Charles Good had been elected Convenor of the Agricultural Committee of the Canadian Federation. Mrs. Good spoke very briefly, relating her appointment and the benefits she hoped might accrue to W. I. N. S. through them.

Smith's Cove Institute, Miss Coneth Thomas, leader, gave all present an opportunity of comparing their costumes of thirty years ago with those of 1933. Costumes shown were those used for travelling, riding, swimming, dancing, sleeping, and for various other purposes in luggage carried may account for the lowering of railway profits in 1933—but WHO would care to go back and carry the weight of clothing shown as worn in 1903?

Bridgetown Institute supplied a fund of information regarding Nova Scotia products by a paper written by Mrs. Wentzell and read by Mrs. Abbott. I am sure everyone present would like to buy Nova Scotia products whenever possible.

The announcement of election of officers was made as follows:—District President—Mrs. A. B. Campbell, Bear River.

Vice-President—Mrs. R. J. Messinger, Bridgetown.

Secretary—Mrs. H. E. Banks, Tupperville.

Members of Executive—Mrs. Lydia Comau, Mrs. Day, Mrs. Melanson, Mrs. Woodman, Mrs. Gouette, Mrs. Parke Kempton, Mrs. Banks, Mrs. Hilton, Mrs. Longley, Mrs. Ruggles, Mrs. Slodard.

A hearty note of thanks was extended to the Hostess Institute for their kindness in entertaining at the Rally, also to Miss Melanson for her generous service as pianist for the day, without which the programme could not have proceeded with such a competency and liveliness.

After singing the National Anthem, those who had to leave at once did so, while a large number remained to partake of the refreshments. The C. O. I. T. having provided tea and sandwiches which were then served.

Too much praise cannot be given Miss Agla Belliveau, President of Belliveau's Cove Institute, as well as each and every member, for the manner in which the Rally was conducted, for the conveniences supplied at the meal hour, for the help given in visiting matters in connection with putting on the different items of the programme, and for the true hospitality which were fully appreciated and truly shown. That they were fully appreciated and truly shown.

As the Rally was so successful, it will be long and happily remembered.

"JOSHUA"

Golden Text:—"Be strong and of good courage; . . . for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest."—Joshua 1:9.

Lesson Passages:—Joshua 1:1-9; 23:1, 2, 14.

I will go forth "more men" Not maled in scorn But in the armour of a pure intent. Great duties are before me and great sorrows.

And whether crowned or crownless When I fall, It matters not so as God's work is done. I've learned to prize the quiet light—Not the applauding thunder at its heels Which men call fame.

—Alexander Smith

A Call to Leadership, 1, 2 As the people of Israel were undergoing the consolidation of tribes into a nation, they had special need of a strong leader. Virtually their safety and faith depended upon one man. After the death of Moses, the responsibility fell upon Joshua, who had been the helper of Moses, in a sense, his "chief of staff."

Originally he was called Josue, which was changed by Moses to Joshua. After the death of Moses, he had been related very closely to the work of Moses—after the manner of Elieha to Elijah, this experience was an excellent education for the future leader of Israel. In addition he had been consecrated by the laying on of hands.

Different men are needed for different tasks. Joshua could never have done the work of Moses, and Moses could not have done what Joshua did. Moses, excelled as a law giver, while Joshua was brilliant as a military commander and political administrator. Moses was patient and strong in leading the people through the wilderness, but Joshua was strong and resolute in leading them through the conquest of Canaan. Joshua displayed a wonderful combination of strength and sympathy. Even in the midst of long campaigns he preserved his spiritual faith. A priestly heart beat beneath the warrior's armor. In his unswerving faith and obedience to the call, in the incorruptible righteousness of his administration, in the gentle severity of his rebuke, as well as in his love, Joshua (Hebrews 4:8) the son of Nun, is the veritable type of Jesus, the Son of God.

The promise of the possession of the land of Canaan that had been made to Moses was renewed to Joshua. The boundaries on the north and south were "The Wilderness" on the north, Lebanon; on the west, the Mediterranean or "Great Sea." These boundaries, though the natural ones geographically, were not natural for a happy home and the realm of David and Solomon. For this territory, Joshua was to wage a long and, in the end, successful warfare. Around this centre of hope of Israel were to centre for thousands of years. The promise is still held as valid by ardent Zionists and to the Jew, as well as to the Christian, it is the centre of his hope of the future. It was a small stretch of territory, but it has been unique in its influence upon the religious life of mankind.

Assurance of Help, 5, 6 In addition to the guarantee of territory, Joshua was given a promise of divine help personally. Consider the difficulty of the task to which Joshua was addressing himself—he was at the head of a people that lacked discipline for war. The Israelites had been shepherds and then they had been slaves. Their traditions were not military. Their hope had been broken by the prolonged delay in the wilderness. In the land which they were entering to capture the strong warriors, and fenced cities, Joshua needed the assurance of God's help, for, judged by military estimates, the situation was hopeless. His chief strength was God's promise, "I will be with thee; I will not leave thee nor forsake thee."

God's favor was made conditionally upon Joshua's obedience to the law. Joshua was to set the example of obedience to the people. The law which had been given to Moses was to be his guide. He was not to turn from it to the right hand or the left. If he did this, the faith of the people would be shattered and he would be assured of good success wherever he went. The book of the law, whatever part of the Pentateuch it included, was every true Christian dependent upon the Bible for teaching and guidance. And the promise of the divine presence is our inheritance. Joshua 1:3.

A Farewell Address, 23:1, 2, 14 In the opening verses of the book of Joshua, we see the successor of Moses together and recounted their leadership. In the twenty-third chapter, he looked back over the way in which he had come and was convinced that God had kept faith with him. His task was nearly done. The nation had rest from foes. Old and well stricken in years, he called his leaders together and recounted their successes and ascribed all the glory to God who fought for them. They had trusted in God, and had not been put to shame. Their helper in the past was their hope for days to come.

Questions for Discussion: 1.—Judah was taken from the Canaanites and North America from the Indians. Can you justify such conquests? 2.—The hero of the Book of Joshua is not Joshua but Jehovah. Explain. 3.—Falestine has been called the "bridge of the world." Why? 4.—Is the Old Testament a help towards the ideal of a warless world? 5.—Which did more to make Israel a nation, the law of the prophets?

Some History and Some Other Things

According to the History of Digby County by I. W. Wilson, the first settlement on the Sissiboo River was made at New Edinburgh, January 21, 1783. Anthony Stewart and Samuel Goudsbury, Scotchmen, having explored St. Mary's Bay and Sissiboo River, selected that beautiful spot on the western side of the river for a town. "With modest but meritable zeal they exerted themselves in clearing the lands and erecting dwellings, a 'market', stores and other buildings." Anthony Stewart, chief promoter of the enterprise and leading agent for the settlers, who had been imprisoned in New York for his Toryism, losing his estate there as recompense for his attachment to the British cause, returned to his former home the following summer and completed the face of emigrants for the first town in Digby County, called by Stewart and Goudsbury, New Edinburgh, after the capital of Scotland, their native city. The memorial for recognition and legal possession of the townsite was placed in the hands of Sir Guy Carleton and the prayer was readily granted. Warrants of survey were promptly issued and the town plot mapped out by Morris, Surveyor-General, Colonel John Taylor, Samuel Goudsbury and the Rev. John Jones, Commissioners appointed by the Governor to assist in locating settlers. Samuel Goudsbury lived on Goudsbury's Point and the Rev. John Jones, principal land-owning settler, had a considerable establishment. He also engaged in the lumber business, owning a large share in the saw-mill built by Solomon Bunnell on the north side of Sissiboo River. William Johnson also settled in the town and kept a store there in 1787.

And that is that about New Edinburgh. I have wondered often why this French village had a Scotch name, but apparently when the Scotch moved into the French moved in. Mr. Wilson states in his book that every effort (on his part) to collect additional data concerning New Edinburgh failed and regretted his inability to locate the "Market" and other centres which tradition says were erected there, but he was able to locate traces of ancient streets of the town.

Concerning the first settlers at Weymouth, Mr. Wilson's record is far from clear. He mentions the names of Jeremiah Sabeau, Jonathan and Christopher Strickland, Moses and Robert Morrill and Borden Thurber, who visited St. Mary's Bay in the Summer of 1765 and in the following year Sabeau erected a dwelling on the east side of Sissiboo River. The Stricklands—natives of Weymouth, Mass., settled at Sissiboo, on Lots 12 and 13, Strickland's Cove, New Edinburgh. In 1788 Lot 12 was deeded to Col. James Moody by Bethiah Strickland, widow of Jonathan Strickland, first settler of Weymouth.

Regarding the name "Weymouth" Mr. Wilson has this to say: "The immediate derivation of the name 'Weymouth' is perhaps a little obscure. Some trace it to the borough of Weymouth, Dorsetshire, England, because there the River Wey empties into the English Channel. Others affirm that it was so named from Weymouth, Normandy, a famous chateau, the former home of some of Weymouth's pioneers" (The Stricklands).

One man's guess is as good as the other. Apparently the first settlement was called Sissiboo and that name we are told is derived from the French numeral "6" (seeks) and "Eh-hon" (echo) signifying a little because that number of ovals were seen at one time flying over the river by a French explorer and his Indian guides who named the river "Six Ovals" in French. And so the French named the river, which no one seems to be able to deny.

The real settlement of Weymouth apparently did not begin until 1783 and 1784 when the Loyalists began to arrive from Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and other States. Among these Loyalists were Cerneno Upland Jones, afterwards a prominent merchant, and his son, Charles H. Jones. Joseph Jones, who settled on the lands later owned by N. E. Butler and Louis Bonenfant. Stephen Jones, great grandfather of the late Hon. Alfred G. Jones, located on the land later owned by Bernard Haney. Cerneno M. Jones and his mother located on the land later occupied by Forbes Jones, and still later erected a dwelling on the land now owned by the late Hon. Alfred G. Jones, located on the land later owned by Bernard Haney. Cerneno M. Jones and his mother located on the land later occupied by Forbes Jones, and still later erected a dwelling on the land now owned by the late Hon. Alfred G. Jones, located on the land later owned by Bernard Haney.

Weymouth Bridge was not inhabited at once by the Loyalists. The territory was first entered by the "pioneers" at that time. Nevertheless, Colonel John Taylor settled on the Point near the river, on lands later owned by H. D. Fitzpatrick. Taylor soon removed to a site adjoining the west side of Indian Creek (now known as "Arney Creek") and erected a mill. His son, George Taylor, subsequently erected the dwelling later occupied by George Taylor and resided there until 1839 when he sold to the latter. William Journeay, a Loyalist, built a house in 1787 near the river on his land in Indian Creek, but he shortly afterwards returned to New York. His relative, John Journeay, settled on the Point near the river, on lands later owned by H. D. Fitzpatrick. Taylor soon removed to a site adjoining the west side of Indian Creek (now known as "Arney Creek") and erected a mill. His son, George Taylor, subsequently erected the dwelling later occupied by George Taylor and resided there until 1839 when he sold to the latter.

Cerneno A. Jones and John Moody, son of Colonel Moody were the earliest merchants in Weymouth. Their building began about 1793. The first craft (name not recorded) is credited to Colonel Moody and Taylor. The first voyage was to Liverpool, England, and took eighteen days. Deldamia Sabeau, daughter of Jeremiah Sabeau (the Valois) Sabeau, born in 1765, was the first native child reared in Sissiboo and indeed within the County.

Mr. Wilson does not give the date of the building of the first bridge across the Sissiboo, which was located near the farm of Thomas Milford, but we are under the impression that it was constructed about 1820. If that is the case then the settlers who located on the south side of the river in 1783 must have used some sort of a ferryboat to cross the river. The second bridge was built in 1835 on the same location now occupied by the iron bridge. John Journeay was the contractor and builder.

The first Collector of Customs for the port of New Edinburgh and Weymouth was Col. Samuel Goudsbury, 1784 to 1800, followed by Reuben Hankinson, who served until his death in 1853; succeeded by Samuel Robert and Edward Journeay.

Of plumbers no mention is made in the History for the very good reason that in those days there was nothing but to plumb and the use of bath tubs had not begun until about 1884. However there were plenty of good bathing places on the riverside and no doubt those early settlers made good use of them during the bathing season.

When the bathing was done between the chilly months of September and May has not been told or even hinted at. However, many of our readers know that many a man pulled through the winter months with nothing better than a dry rub or two and found themselves in the best of condition on April 30th, or even later, but a few impatient souls who took "their baths" too early in the spring, were generally complaining that they could not be real sure whether it was this early bathing or Campbell who held the office until his demise in 1881 when Dr. H. B. Ruston was appointed and filled the position until 1885 when he was succeeded by Sterns Jones, followed by Norman B. Jones, Forbes Jones and A. H. Brooks.

First Postmasters: New Edinburgh, Thomas Bannister, 1784 to 1797, office closed. Weymouth: Colin Campbell Sr., 1833; Colin Campbell Jr., 1835 to 1845; Cerneno M. Jones, 1845 to 1873; C. Dwight Jones, 1873 to 1894. Weymouth Bridge: William W. Fayson, 1872; Jasper Journeay, 1873 to 1877; George J. Hoyt, 1877.

Looking over the list of early settlers of New Edinburgh and Weymouth, we do not find many of their names on the tax rolls of today. The Jones family of whom there were quite a number, and whose descendants were quite numerous, as late as 1915 and who were prominent in political, business and social affairs of the town from its founding, have all vanished from the town directory and the names of Strickland, Goudsbury, Moody and Bunnell have passed entirely out of the picture. The Sabeaus and Journeays seem to hold their own in numbers but the descendants of Colonel Taylor are not numerous.

It would have been rather interesting, I think, if Mr. Wilson had included a little information concerning the personality and characteristics of some of the pioneers, but for some reason he has avoided putting anything concerning the human side of the early settlers in his book. Some of their grandsons no doubt could have furnished him with a lot of data concerning the activities of their ancestors, of their hardships and calamities, of their joys and sorrows incident to the job of pioneering and lastly and by no means not the most uninteresting, the high lights as well as the low down on the habits and peculiarities of Sissiboo's first citizens. It would have been interesting to know how many carpenters were paid in those days and how much lumber was consumed at "house raisings" and timber hauling here. We fancy that there was an item that would have been of interest to write about, for if we have not been misinformed concerning those affairs there was always a ten gallon keg of West India rum located in a shady place with a dipper attached whereby one might dip and drink to his heart's content and further, all depending upon the self-control or capacity of the party behind the dipper, although it has been asserted that no one ever got drunk on such occasions, the chances are that some of them reached a point of extreme sociability unless they were of the really sober builders, which of course means something else again.

On the muster roll of July 18, 1784, there appears the name of William Wilson, a carpenter and I suspect that he was the first member of the jack plane and hand-saw fraternity to arrive in Weymouth, but most of the housebuilding and general carpentering that comes within my recollection was done by drummers of the Journeay family and many of the residences and other buildings in Weymouth were constructed by these busy builders, Robert and Edward Journeay.

Comeau-Comeau
A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Michael's Church, Meteghan, one day last week, when Rev. Father Deveau, Parish Priest, united in marriage Miss Lena Comeau, daughter of Valant Comeau, and Alphonse Comeau, son of Auguste Comeau, of St. Alphonse de Clare. The bride, who was most charmingly attired in a gown of white satin with conventional veil and carried a bouquet of white lilies, was attended by Miss Catherine Comeau, while Fidele Deveau acted as best man. Mrs. Joseph S. LeBlanc, of Meteghan, presided at the wedding organ and rendered suitable music throughout the ceremony, as well as the wedding marches. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of their adopted mother, Mrs. Adelaide LeBlanc, after which they motored to West Clare, where they will spend their honeymoon with Rev. Elie LeBlanc, another adopted son of Mrs. Adelaide LeBlanc. Upon their return they will reside at their old home at Meteghan.

the changing from red flannels to white muslins that gave them such a cold.

I find no record of a doctor among the first settlers to land at Weymouth Point or New Edinburgh, not a surgeon or a medic in the crowd, but perhaps some of those old army officers had a working knowledge of bone setting and wound dressing and no doubt the women folks were adepts in distilling of spring tonics from dandelion, burdock and sarsaparilla, and who was there that didn't have a mug of goose grease and the makings of a mustard plaster about the house, and if there were any apples to be had—Well, an apple a day kept the doctor away, who weary?

Nedentists either were with that band of Loyalists who preferred to live under the flag of King George rather than swear allegiance to the banner of George Washington, but it wouldn't be surprising if the carpenter had a pair of forceps in his kit and did the tooth pulling for the little colony when called upon to do so. As for tooth powder and mouth washes, well, they do say that some of the old timers used a bit of sulphur powder sprinkled on the roughened end of a pine stick and rubbed their teeth with it, that, after which they washed out their mouths with cold water. But for that much advertised trouble made famous by the sponsors of Ames and Andy programs there simply was no cure or relief—but after all—I suppose better halitosis than no breath at all.

Of the first shoemakers in the settlement Mr. Wilson has not mentioned a word, but it is not unlikely that the first shoemaker was a Journeyman for long years ago William Journeay operated a tannery and shoemaking establishment on Journeay's Creek, where he took cowhides and calfskins in the raw and converted them into high grade leather which he later worked up into boots and various forms of the footwear.

I have hunted the book through to see if I could find out who the first tailor was that made clothes for the men folks of the settlement, but I do not find any mention of such a person and I am wondering whether Uncle Joseph Roberts was not the first to take up the needle and thread in his abode in the quiet village of Weymouth and attend to the sartorial needs of its gentry? Although his arrival did not take place until many years after the landing of the Loyalist contingent he could easily be classed as one of the pioneers. There are some in Weymouth now who will remember that quaint little man in his outfit of black broadcloth, with a white collar and white stock, topped off with a tall stove-pipe hat. He loved a bit of chewing tobacco which he kept rolling back and forth with his tongue retaining the juice thereof which he claimed was most excellent for his health.
