Beautiful Services ushered in the New Year at Trinity Church. There was a large number of communicants at the Choral Eucharist in the morning and the Evening Service of Song also well attended.

The Choir sang several carols and four choruses as follows:—"Swing Ajar," "Christians Awake," "While Shepherds Watched," and "Sing O Heavens." Firemen Arrange Socials And Elect Officers

At Wednesday night's meeting of the Digby Fire Company, it was decided to raise funds by holding card socials during the winter months. A committee was appointed to call on the merchants of the town and so far they have all been willing to donate prizes. A committee was also appointed to look for a suitable place to hold these gatherings. Watch for the first social.

At a recent meeting the following officers were elected for 1933:

THE BAND MAKES "WHOOOP-EE!"

The liveliest and noisiest organization in town is the Junior Band now numbering thirty-eight and still growing daily. Two regular meetings are held each week, and individual groups are gathering every day for practice. The Director informs us that he has over fifty men available for band work, including the old stand-bys. It is hard to imagine so large a number as fifty players in Digby, but a few prominent citizens who attended the last rehearsal are loud in their praise of the work in progress, and astonished at the musical effects where they expected only noise from that big ensemble of brass and reeds. The Music Council has been in the purchase of a Tenor Saxophone and are hoping that the Baritone will soon be forthcoming to complete the Saxophone Quartet. They have also ordered complete sets of covers to preserve the two sides of music used, the cost of band music being so great that its careful preservation is important.

New Year Sermonette To Sick and Shut-Ins

"Happy New Year" is the greeting on the street and in the home. But what a difference in the tone of one's voice as we say "Happy New Year" to the sick or shut-in! And yet that soul may possess a peace and joy not to be found in the lives of many who wear the mask of happiness as they go about their duties in the grim business world.

The opening words of our meditation give us the joy of the present tense—the happiness has begun and will continue if we allow our hope to take wings. "The Lord taketh pleasure... in those that hope in His mercy." In Matthew 28, verse 20. He promises His presence—we may not always see Him or realize His presence; we may be blinded by our tears or dazzled with the false glare of this evil world; we may even like Jesus Himself, in moments of crushing sorrow, reckon ourselves forsaken. But all this will not alter the fact that He is with us. "I am with you, all thy days."

"All thy days"—this is so much better than the "always" of the Authorized Version of the Bible. It seems to specialize on every kind of day. "All thy days"—sad days, sunless days, days of sickness and pain, days of temptation and perplexity—just as much, yea perhaps more tenderly than the days when the heart is full of joy. That day never comes when the Lord Jesus is not at the side of His saint. Lover and friend stand perhaps afar, but He walks beside them through the fires; He fords the rivers with them; He stands by them when face to face with danger and temptation. We can never be alone.

200 years ago, there lived a simple minded man, Brother Lawrence. He was the cook in the monastery and at the same time one of God's saints. Wandering at the age of 18 through a wood in the depth of winter, he suddenly thought how these very trees, naked and bare would ere long be clothed in glorious leafage quivering in the summer breeze. In a moment he realized that God must be there; and if there, also everywhere. And he said to himself, "I can never again be out of His Holy Presence." This sense of the nearness and presence of God became thenceforth one of the great thoughts of his soul; it never left him even in his menial task in the kitchen.

I should like it to do the same for you and we have the warrant for it in the words of Jesus. "I am with you all thy days."
—Rev. A. E. Gabriel.

Kiwanians Install Officers For the Year

Last Tuesday was installation day in the Kiwanis Club of Digby. The luncheon meeting was held on the Princess Helena on Tuesday instead of Monday, as Monday was a holiday. Considering the change of date the attendance was fairly good. A splendid luncheon—everything from soup to nuts—was served, and after that the retiring president, Maynard Denton, installed the following officers for the year:

President—P. W. Holdsworth.
Vice-President—R. H. Lockward.
Treasurer—C. L. Bowly.
Secretary—H. J. Campbell.
The president's retiring address is published in this issue and contains a lot of matter of interest.

The new president, in thanking the members for the office, gave a splendid address, urging greater activity and a closer adherence to the principles of Kiwanis.

ONE MORE TO BE REMEMBERED

On looking back over the last two weeks—the wishes of our people—one to the other of a "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year," the kindly smile which means so much if we only realized it, and the generosity of our Digby people always.

The Kiwanis Club of Digby has been looking after the families of children who needed warm clothes and shoes, for school and many of us who have given privately; the spirit of giving pleasure to the children of the Town, by Capt. Morrell who brought Santa Claus to his garage with two hundred red oranges and one hundred and twenty bags of candy, thinking this would be plenty, but when these were all gone and still boys and girls were coming, Santa was forced to jump into his pony carriage and fly to the hills. Now with all these kind thoughts and pleasant greetings, I think we have forgotten a most deserving citizen, Mr. C. E. Walker, who probably has felt as much if not more than any of the business men in town, a slump in funds. Mr. Walker has a good sized family to provide for, and spends his money in Digby. He has always been most generous in letting his hall be organized, to give concerts, either for the churches, generally free of charge. Now, let us as citizens one and all, give him a benefit house on Saturday night, thereby showing our appreciation. When in Halifax a few months ago visiting, telephones rang from one friend to another telling them "George Arliss is at the Capitol, be sure and see him." Now I can say to you, "George Arliss is at the Bijou Dream Theatre on Saturday night. Don't miss it! Let us give Mr. Walker a Bumper House!"

—Citizen.

Retiring President's Address To Kiwanians

The Kiwanis Club of Digby, Dear Fellow Workers:—

The time has now arrived when I have finished my term as serving in the capacity as your President. It therefore becomes my duty to submit to you a report of the Club's activities for the past eighteen months. May I say in the beginning, I thank you for the confidence you reposed in me in making me your first President. A service club in Digby eighteen months ago was an unknown quantity, and in a club of this nature as in any worth while organization, you have to put something into it, or you can take nothing out, or no good will come of it. I feel sure you will all agree with me that The Kiwanis Club of Digby has demonstrated that its existence is justified. I wish to thank you one and all, for your co-operation and help, and ask that you will continue the work.

Our activities have been of a social as well as a service nature, and I wish first to remind you of your service activities.

Our first service rendered was a cash donation to The Children's Aid Society of twenty-five dollars, and second a cash donation of twenty-five dollars to the Boy Scouts.

Then at the 1931 Christmas season we distributed 61 pairs stockings, 34 pieces underwear, 8 vests, 6 sweaters, 4 shirts, 4 jerseys, 4 pairs mittens, 4 pairs bloomers, 1 skirt, 1 romper, 14 yards of dress material, 17 pairs coats, 12 pairs rubbers, 6 pairs raincoats, 5 pairs shoes, 4 pairs Lumbermen's rubbers, 2 pairs Lumbermen's socks, 2 pairs slippers, 2 pairs of 60 children and their parents' night and entertaining the staff of the Digby Academy. On June 20, made up of 65 pounds of beef.

potatoes, carrots, squash, turnips, apples, etc., 14 large mince pies, 14 pounds candy and 5 dozen oranges. During the winter where assistance was needed to keep children in school, we supplied the following: 8 pairs boots, 10 pairs rubbers and rubber shoes, 7 pairs stockings, 2 pairs overalls, 1 sweater, 6 jerseys and 14 pieces underwear, incurring an expenditure of $52.17 from February to May.

Last spring the matter of providing a fresh air camp for underprivileged children was discussed, but was deemed advisable that our work for the present was most needed in other than summer months, and the matter of camp was laid over for future consideration.

However, we have aided in the following during the summer, viz:—paid the Digby General Hospital on four different occasions a total of $66.00 for use of operating room and rooms for 7 patients, mostly tonsil cases in children, and interested in having the surgical work done gratis; and also paid $8.00 for renewing lens in eyes glasses. We also furnished transportation Digby to Yarmouth and return for eight children for attention to eyes by specialist. In this case the Red Cross Society through the efforts of their representative, Kiwanian, F. L. Anderson, paid for glasses and service. The local V. O. Nurse, Mrs. Sturgeon, had supervision of the children and our club furnished the transportation.

Our activities at the Christmas season of 1932 were as follows:—Distributed 32 pairs of stockings, 7 pieces of underwear, 6 vests, 4 sweaters, 8 shirts, 13 pairs of bloomers, 1 pair overalls, 1 blouse, flannel, 1 air bed cushion, 5 pairs of

Municipal Council In January Session

The Digby Municipal Council came together for their annual January session in the Court House, on Tuesday afternoon, with the Warden, J. Vian Andrews, of North Range, and Councillors H. H. Marshall, Marshalltown; H. B. FitzGerald, Weymouth North; J. F. Hill, Colborne; F. L. Lepp, Preport; E. B. Pugh, Westport; D. C. Outhouse, Tiverton; W. Woodman, Smith's Cove; H. Chisholm, Bear River; H. Cossaboon, Centreville, and C. Cornwell, Rossway.

The Warden in his opening address spoke at length on the depressing conditions of the day and its effects on the country. Taxpayers are behind in their taxes because of lack of employment and lack of markets for their produce, he stated, and consequently there has been heavy demands on the treasury for outdoor relief. He expressed his confidence that the tide was turning for the better.

At the first meeting of the session a resolution of appreciation for their generosity to the poor was sent to the Kiwanis Club of Digby.

On Wednesday Dr. F. E. Rice, of Sandy Cove, was appointed medical health officer for the county, and Dr. E. DuVernet, physician to the County Almshouse at Marshalltown. The application for jail physician was held over. E. J. Theriault, of Digby, was appointed Municipal Solicitor.

The report of Dr. Dickie and Dr. Harris showed that the health of the county during the year just passed was good, and the conditions at the Almshouse were satisfactory.

Dr. G. V. Turnbull and Fritz Dakin appeared representing the Town of Digby School Board with a request that one of the small rooms in the Court House Building be used as a school class room, the Digby Academy now being filled to its capacity. The Council granted the request charging only a small monthly fee.

The report of the Chairman of the Committee on Pensions and Public Property showed a large increase in the allowance for outside poor—an amount of $5,019.35 being spent, more than twice the amount set aside by the estimates. He recommended that the Council make application for direct relief from the Federal and Provincial Governments.

Tenders for supplies were awarded as follows:—Flour, feed, etc., H. T. Warner; wood, L. E. Melanson; boots and shoes, A. J. Dillon; coal, A. B. Turnbull; medical attendance, Dr. E. DuVernet; dog goods, B. J. Roper. The auditors' report showed a

UNITED CHURCH OF CANADA

Sunday Services:—Digby 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday School and Bible Class at 12. Bay View, 3 p. m.

The Brotherhood will meet on Tuesday evening next. The meeting will take the form of a Father and Son Banquet. A programme of toasts will be given, and the special speaker will be Rev. A. S. Adams, of Lawrencetown, who will speak on his experiences in Labrador. Every member of the Brotherhood is expected to bring his son or some other boy as his guest.

The Young People's Society will meet on Thursday next. This will be an open meeting, and H. B. Short, M. P., will give an address on Parliament, how it is elected and how it is carried on. The high school students have been invited to attend.

A pleasing feature of the Grace United Church School last Sunday was the presentation of a gold piece by the Adult Bible Class to its faithful and efficient teacher, Weston Crawford. As it happened this was also Mr. and Mrs. Crawford's Golden Wedding Anniversary, a fact that the Class did not know of, and the gift was all the more appropriate.

The Men's Choir will have charge of the music on Sunday evening.

THE TEA FOR THESE TIMES

Whatever else Marlins may have to eliminate from their expenditures at this juncture, tea need not be one of them. When they can get a full-flavored, thick-liquoring tea like MORSE'S BLUENOSE TEA at 35 cents per pound package, they will find that tea is absolutely the most economical beverage they can get apart from water. Indeed, MORSE'S BLUENOSE TEA is known as "the great economy tea" in addition to which it enjoys a reputation for satisfying flavor and full-bodied character. It is not surprising that in the past year its sales have increased enormously. It is pre-eminently the tea for these times.

There will be a Hockey Match—Digby vs. Annapolis Royal, at the Victoria Rink, Friday evening, January 20th.

Large increase in taxes outstanding. Further news of the Municipal Council session will appear in our next issue.

CALVIN COOLIDGE, FORMER U. S. PRESIDENT DIES

Calvin Coolidge, only living former President of the United States, died suddenly in his home at Northampton, Mass., last week. He was 69 years old.

The former President had lived in retirement at his home there since he left the White House. His health had not caused concern so far as had been known. Death was attributed to heart disease.

Mr. Coolidge died at the home which he and Mrs. Coolidge rebuilt after his return from Washington. Mr. Coolidge, apparently in good health, went to his law office at about 8.30 a. m., on January 5th. After about an hour and a half at work, he and his secretary, Harry Ross, left for the Coolidge home, "The Beeches." The former President was found dead on the floor of his bedroom by Mrs. Coolidge when she returned from a shopping trip. Secretary Ross was in the house at the time but not in the room where Mr. Coolidge died. Dr. Edward W. Brown, medical examiner, was summoned and after examination of the body, pronounced death due to heart failure. The former President had been dead thirty minutes, according to physicians.

The tragic death of the sturdy New Englander, who less than four years ago relinquished his high office in apparently the best of health, provided a parallel with the sudden death of his predecessor, Warren G. Harding, who died in a San Francisco hotel while his wife was reading to him, and after physicians had believed he had passed a serious crisis.

It was upon the death of Harding, that Mr. Coolidge, then vice-president, assumed office. The oath, it was recalled, was given to him in a pump-trip room of an old farmhouse, by his late father—a justice of the peace.

President Hoover was said by friends to have been "terribly shocked" when the news of the death of Calvin Coolidge was given to him at the luncheon table in Washington.

The Hon. R. B. Bennett expressed his deepest regret on the death of former President Calvin Coolidge. The news reached Premier Bennett during his luncheon at Ottawa.

Born and reared in the humble surroundings of a Vermont farm, Calvin Coolidge was destined to go by successive steps to the highest and mightiest office of a great nation, to administer its affairs for six years and to terminate his presidential career virtually of his own volition.

To the vice-presidency and to the presidency, he brought a shrewd common sense, a quiet personality, a vivid contrast with some of his predecessors, a keen native wit and many homely likes and dislikes retained from his New England boyhood.

Miss Beatrice Dexter, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Yorke, in Boston for several months, has returned home.

Miss Webster has returned from Picton to resume her duties as manager of the Canadian Pacific Telegraph office here.

The first card social of the Digby Fire Company will be held at the Court House on January 31st. Everybody welcome.

Harold A. Nichols, who has been spending his vacation at his home here, returned to Dalhousie University, Halifax, this week.

Charles I. VanFassel, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Paul Yates, and Mrs. Edna McGowan, spent the week-end with relatives in Saint John.

We understand that heavy trucks have been ordered off the county roads until they freeze up again. We wonder why the authorities waited so long before taking this step.

A Benefit Dance for the Centreville Hockey Team will be held in the Hall at Centreville, on Monday evening, Jan. 22. An orchestra will be present. Admission 25 cents and 35 cents.

An alarm of fire Wednesday noon called the department out to a chimney fire in the Warner block, and another shortly before six yesterday was for a chimney fire in the Webster building. There was no damage in either case.

The Ladies' Hospital Aid acknowledges in thanks the following donations forwarded to the Hospital: jam, jelly and pickles from Plympton; jam, jelly, pickles and an assortment of canned goods from Annapolis Royal.

Quite a number of Oddfellows and Rebekahs met in the lodge room Thursday evening to listen to the addresses being broadcast from Moncton. The reception, however, was very poor, but an enjoyable social evening was spent, even if the speakers did not do much good.

Oliver Starling, of Port George, Annapolis County, was injured at H. T. Warner's mill on Friday morning last, when his arm came in contact with a saw, causing a severe cut. He was admitted to the General Hospital, where Dr. J. R. MacCleave is attending him.

WHO KNOWS ANYTHING ABOUT WHITNEY BRODIE?

His Worship, the Mayor, has received a letter from Mrs. Arthur W. Perry, of Stonington, Mass., asking for information about her father, Whitney Brodie, a former resident of Digby. She was left home when she was only a year old and she would like to know whether he was alive or dead. She had heard that some years ago he lived in Roslindale, Mass. She writes that her mother, who is very old and has been an invalid for years and whose time is short, is constantly calling for him and praying that she might see him again. He had two sisters, Alice and Mary Brodie. The latter married a William Hatfield, and he is supposed to be somewhere in this section of the Province now. Mrs. Perry's name was Flossie Jean Brodie, and she has a brother, also in Stonington, named Bert Brodie. Brodie, perhaps some of our readers can give us the information required.

WILLIAM CRAIG ATTEMPTS TO END LIFE

William Fairfield Craig, former postmaster of Lynn, Mass., an ex-senator, representative, former city chemist, and a Lynn attorney, attempted suicide by shooting himself in the head and mouth Christmas night in his home, 40 Orchard circle, Swampscott, Mass.

Craig shot himself a few minutes after he telephoned his brother-in-law, Lawrence Sampson, 22 Hamden street, where his wife and two sons were visiting, requesting Mr. Sampson to hurry to Craig's home. Accompanying the request was the stipulation "be sure and enter the house first." It is believed that the shooting occurred immediately after the telephone conversation ended.

Sampson hurried to the Craig home, and on entering the house he found the ex-postmaster lying on the kitchen floor with blood pouring from a wound in his head. He called the police, and Patrolman Francis Delano and Herbert Frazier responded in the ambulance.

After satisfying themselves that the wound was self-inflicted, they rushed Craig to Lynn hospital where his name was immediately placed on the danger list.

X-ray examination disclosed that Mr. Craig shot himself twice, once in the mouth, and again in the head, the former shot passing through the back of the mouth and lodging near the spinal column, and the latter passing through the head from the right side, and lodging beneath the base of the brain well back of the mouth. On account of the location of the bullets no attempt will be made to remove them. The bullet near the spine has caused a paralysis of the right arm.

Mr. Craig has played an important part in the political life of Lynn. He took an active part in Republican affairs and was elected to the Legislature from the 11th Essex district in 1901, then to the senate and in 1905 was appointed postmaster of Lynn. President Roosevelt, Horace H. Atherton, registrar of probate, was named assistant at that time. Craig served continuously until succeeded by Former Postmaster Edmund S. Higgins.

Mr. Craig, a native of Digby, went to Lynn at the age of 18 years and secured work with the Frank H. Broad & Co. druggists. In 1886, he enrolled in the Massachusetts State College of Pharmacy, and graduated in 1890. He was then admitted to the study of chemistry at Harvard college. He became a member of the Broad company. For a time, he was city chemist in the board of health.

Craig was married Nov. 8, 1913, to Edith May Sampson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sampson, by Rev. Donald H. Gerrish, former pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church. They have two sons.

Please remember the Annual Parish Meeting to be held in the Parish Hall, Monday, January 16, at 8 p. m.

About fifty young people gathered in Trinity Parish Hall on Thursday evening, January 5th. The party got away to a smash start with a Paul Jones, followed by Bridge, Forty-Fives, Table Tennis, Crokinole and close harmony. After delicious refreshments, contributed by the ladies, there was more dancing and a spelling game which sorely tried the modern young person's ability to get letters in their right places. It is hoped to have these gatherings once a month and judging by the enthusiasm displayed at the first meeting there is no doubt that the following ones will be well attended.

TIGERS CHALK UP 6-3 WIN OVER RAVENS

Fast Hockey Deled Out by Old Rivals in Exhibition Game

The Annapolis Tigers defeated the Digby Ravens six to three at the Annapolis Royal Arena, on Wednesday night, in an exhibition match played on a water-covered surface. Both teams tallied in the first period. Ritchie for the Tigers and Hutchinson for the visitors, although the latter tally was disputed. The Tigers jumped into the lead in the second, F. Munro denting the Ravens only to have Tyson even matters again after ten minutes of play, taking Walker's pass to beat Dunbar. Before the bell, however, C. Riley gave the homesters the lead.

F. Munro stressed the Tigers, lead early in the third but Hutchinson kept the Ravens in the picture four minutes later. Munro, registered another marker at the nine minute count and this was also disputed. Before the match ended, however, Ritchie left little doubt as to the result when he bagged Annapolis' sixth score.

The Ravens haven't had a work-out this season, owing to scarcity of ice, and Wednesday night marked their first appearance as a team.

To the Editor of the Courier,

Dear Sir:—Now that the annual Christmas Tuberculosis Seal Sale in your community is over, please permit me, through your valuable columns, to express our appreciation of the splendid work of the Victorian Order of Nurses in the Town of Digby.

Wherever this Order is located, they are complete co-operators in all efforts of tuberculosis control. The Digby V. O. N. takes full cognizance of the undernourished and underdeveloped child problem, which is one of the big factors in the control of tuberculosis.

Your local V. O. N. is giving splendid preventive service in their weekly Mothers' conferences with their babies; and their oversight of school children. Your V. O. N. also looks after the tuberculous clinics of the travelling health specialists at the Department of Health; and their bedside services to the poor are of the highest order of merit. This splendid Order, born and nurtured in the Christian spirit of charity and loving service, is worthy of the fullest support of the whole community.

44 PLAYERS NOW IN THE JUNIOR BAND

Interest in the Junior Band is thoroughly aroused and everybody seems eager to help. H. B. Short has the honor of making the first cash donation—$35 to apply on the purchase of the Baritone Saxophone to complete the Saxophone Quartet. This instrument cost $233, but only $35 more is needed to pay for it. The Band is indebted to B. Haver for two chairs and two much needed tables. Chairs have been supplied also this week by Miss Lizzie MacGregor, Wm. Winchester, and Fred McBride, but a dozen more are needed. W. C. Hoeg, Digby's new sign painter, lettered the front window blind, and Messrs. Robinson and Winchester have done all trucking without charge. The players are progressing finely and working hard, but a few thoughtless ones have been up to the child's trick of "playing hockey." They'll quit that as soon as they realize that unnecessary absence from practice cannot be tolerated, nor can a good band exist unless all its members are loyal enough to make no dates for rehearsals nights. No player was admitted to the Junior Band until he signed his name to a binding agreement to "attend rehearsals regularly, and ON TIME."

With 44 players, and more to come, the task of securing suitable instruments is a serious one, and the Director is combing the Dominion to find them. He has heard from both Alberta and Saskatchewan—and Brian Ilderton, Jamie Dillon who attained his musical knighthood in the Digby Band about sixteen years ago, and who is now known all over the continent as trombone soloist of the famous Guy Lombardo's Royal Canadians, writes his congratulations on the admirable system of expansion in our Junior Band, and predicts a brilliant future. He says: "There is where I got my start. My foundation was laid in Digby, and those that helped me I will never forget. I only wish I could be there once again and take part in the band that is being so successfully organized." Thanks, Jamie, we wish so too.

New Cookery Course by Anna Lee Scott Offered to Digby Girls and Women

12 Fascinating Lessons in Domestic Science as Taught by Modern Colleges

HANDSOME DIPLOMA AWARDED
25 Piece Kitchen Shower Also Given Away

Anna Lee Scott, Domestic Science Authority, author of Cookery Arts and Kitchen Management and other widely read books on dietetics and household economics, whose books are used in both schools and colleges because of their soundness and compactness and because they are easily understood, again offers to girls and women in the Maritime provinces a new and more extensive course in cookery through the Maple Leaf Cooking School sponsored by the Maple Leaf Milling Company.

Her previous course on Cookery Arts and Kitchen Management met with a tremendous response from Maritime women and her new correspondence course just announced by the Maple Leaf Milling Company will undoubtedly be given an even more enthusiastic reception.

In a special interview to the Courier Miss Scott emphasized the importance to the modern girl or woman of having an up-to-date knowledge of the fine art of cooking and household economics.

"What accomplishment can a girl or woman have which can in any way compare with that of being a good cook?" said Miss Scott. "Especially if we remember that the knowledge of a good cook does not end—but only begins with the ability to bake, fry or stew. A good cook knows how and where to buy and how to make the most delightful things from the most inexpensive material—and she never wastes a crumb. What will go on her table tomorrow and the next day is influenced by what she served today and yesterday. There is sound reason for this and she knows the reason. There is not much dyspepsia in her family, consequently there is better efficiency for the daily task among all those who sit at her table."

"This is straight from the shoulder gospel truth. A good cook in the true sense of the word has a tremendous influence on the health, wealth and happiness of the family."

Speaking of her new course being offered through "The Maple Leaf Cooking School," Miss Scott said: "We are bringing to your community what is, I believe, the most generous offer ever made by any manufacturer. A costly correspondence course which offers unstinted assistance to every housekeeper and to every girl, from eight years up, who may at any future time be responsible for the food for the family whether she expects eventually to do her own work or be surrounded by a staff of servants, the importance of this is equal in either instance."

"The new Maple Leaf Cooking School brings to any girl or woman the real worth while fundamentals of cooking as taught in the domestic science departments of our best schools and colleges. What the students are taught there is of precisely the same character as that which we furnish to the student, in the form of 12 thoroughly practical, strictly modern, easily understood lessons, which any bright little girl of 8 years can understand and immediately step into the kitchen and put into practice, yet which is intensely interesting, consequently informative, to the most experienced cook. This course is not in any sense a recipe book any more than the domestic science department of a school or college is a recipe book. It is a sound, practical course in household economics, which should be taken seriously by every girl or woman in Canada, if she does not already enjoy these advantages which are derived from a cookery course in a recognized educational institution, yet it is free to all users of Maple Leaf, Cream of the West flour."

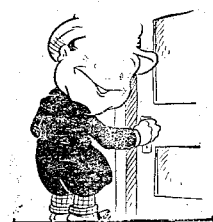

"The course is spread over a term of about 90 days and is followed by examination papers on which are asked 19 major questions, with some sub-questions. Every one of these questions are of importance. There is not any one question in the lot which every woman should not be able to answer but it is doubtful if there is a woman in the land who, without having studied this course, can pass this examination, unless she is a domestic science graduate or a teacher, or one who has made a most serious study of the subject."

"When the papers are returned to me at the Maple Leaf Cooking School, they will be turned over to a corps of domestic science teachers, associated with Toronto schools, for marking and they will mark them the same as they would mark papers for their own students and these marks will be final."

"A handsome Diploma will be awarded to all who write satisfactory papers and the awarding of Diplomas will be based on a strictly fair grade handicap. 100 Points will be considered perfect. Points required will be based on grade handicap as follows:—

Age 8 years—standing of 50 or better.
Age 9 years—standing of 55 or better.
Age 10 years—standing of 60 or better.
Age 10-12 years—standing of 65 or better.

Smilin' Charlie Says

Th' progressive feller ain't gonna worry about th' wolf at th' door—he'll have wolf steak fr' supper

Age 12-15 years—standing of 70 or better.

Age 16 years—standing of 75, or better."

"In addition to all of these things," said Miss Scott, "The Maple Leaf Milling Company commission me to select twenty-five kitchen utensils that I would choose myself if I wanted to give a kitchen shower as a gift to someone."

"I had a real afternoon's fun shopping for these items. They include a fine oven thermometer and other things that a good cook loves to have. They then advised me that three hundred of these kitchen showers—each one containing the twenty-five unusual but highly useful kitchen articles—are to be given free to the three hundred best students in the Maritime Provinces. All students who write satisfactory examinations will be awarded diplomas, but three hundred of the students with the highest standings in their respective communities, will also be given this kitchen shower. But I guess I had not better say any more or I will be giving away the whole story that the advertising will be telling about soon."

Reminiscences, Etc. by Former Weymouthian

(By G.R.T.)

Last week I mentioned the names of a couple of vessels hailing from the port of Weymouth, and lest some of our readers form an idea that they alone constituted the entire fleet of Weymouth owned ships, let us scrape off some of the barnacles from the bottom of memory and see if we cannot bring up the names of other vessels that were sailing down the bay in by-gone days, some of which we sadly remember, never returned—for Weymouth too had its quota of missing ships. Others of the fleet that survived the battles of the sea have no doubt ended their usefulness as carriers of cargo and perhaps are now slowly falling to pieces in some graveyard of forgotten ships, if they have not actually been broken up and sold for junk.

For years Weymouth was noted for its merchant marine ranging in size from the full rigged ships of the Campbell fleet down to the pinkie "Mary Ann" built, owned and skippered by Captain Looney. Among them, and a mighty trim little craft too, was the "Mary Ann" engaged in the harbor pollock and flounder trade, and sometimes loaded with rockweed and kelp, she came and went unrestricted by the formalities of Custom House clearings or Government null inspection. Neither was she a worry to the operator of the railroad draw bridge (Alex Beaton) for the spars of this vessel did not prevent her passing under the bridge at any time or condition of tide. For if there was anything in the world that took the joy out of life for our old friend, Beaton, it was getting out of bed three o'clock on a cold morning to hustle down to the bridge to open the "draw" for some hooker with a main topmast that just lacked six feet of being short enough to allow safe clearance through the bridge with out opening the gate.

I fancy that shipbuilding in Weymouth began shortly after the arrival of the first settlers, and as the sea afforded the easiest and quickest means of transportation for the needs of the people at that time it was necessary to have vessels, which either had to be purchased or built. With an abundance of timber so close at hand it was natural that they should build their own as soon as possible and that is what they did—built their own.

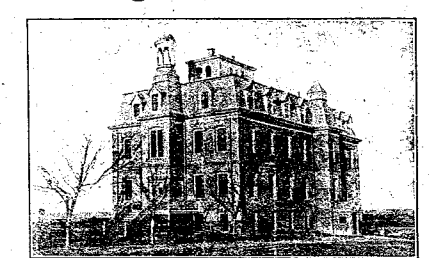

One of the first vessels constructed on the Sissiboo River was called the "Ocean Telegraph." I have a faint recollection of hearing some of the old folks talk about it, which seems to have been in the West India trade to some extent and made one final voyage from which she never returned and was never heard of again. Of other ships that were built later, but prior to those built by Colin Campbell I have no recollection, but the Campbell ships were still in service when I was a small boy. The pictures of these ships, in colors, showing them under full sail usually "Of Flush" hung upon the walls of the Campbell office in the store at the Bridge and it was one of the delights of my small boy experiences of that day to slip into the office and gaze with admiration upon the works of noted marine artists and formulate dreams for "A life on the ocean wave" as soon as my age would permit. Dreams however, that never came true.

Colin Campbell named his ships for members of his family, beginning with the "Thomas Campbell," a brig, and ending with the last and largest of the line, with the rest of the fleet bearing the names "Mary K.", "Susan L.", "Harriet", "Helen" and I believe there was also a ship named the "Minnie Campbell." The "Thomas Campbell" and the "Mary K. Campbell" were better known in Weymouth than any of the other ships as they came home oftener, the larger vessels being engaged in foreign trade and long voyages to distant ports. Upon the death of Colin Campbell the shipping business was operated for a time by his sons, John and G. D. Campbell until it became necessary to dispose of the property in settlement of the estate and the ships were then sold to other firms and thus passed from the business life of Weymouth a goodly portion of an industry that had furnished desirable employment to many of its citizens.

All of the Campbell ships were built in the Campbell yards at North Weymouth, and were manned by officers and crews from Weymouth and near by towns. Reuben Hankinson, a master ship-builder had charge of the construction of a number of these ships including the "Campbell." The list of Weymouth captains is quite a long one, many of them have passed away, but I believe a few are still residing in Weymouth who could furnish the readers of this paper with some very interesting stories of their experiences with fair winds and foul on deep sea voyages.

Some of these old Weymouth Captains sailing in the Campbell ships were:

ADVANTAGES:

- 1—The thoroughness of its courses, including all grades from I to XII.
- 2—The exceptional opportunities it affords for the study of French, special attention being paid to conversation and composition in that language.
- 3—The attention that it pays to the moulding of character.

- 6—Its accessibility, not only to pupils from the Maritime Provinces, but also to students from Boston, New York and vicinity, it being only an hour's journey from Yarmouth, the terminus of the boats from those cities.
- 7—Its delightful and healthful situation, removed from the distractions of town life, which makes it an ideal spot for study.
- 8—The fact that it is an examination station, which permits its pupils to write the provincial examinations in familiar surroundings—a circumstance which tends to lessen feelings of nervousness evoked by new situations.

(Editor's Note—Capt. Ansel Grey and Capt. Richard Marshall are still residing at Weymouth and Weymouth North, the others having all "sailed on.")

Other ship owners with headquarters at Weymouth, who were operating at the same time that Colin Campbell was rounding out his career as a shipping magnate, were George Dunbar, James Cosman and St. Clair Jones, but I do not remember the names of their ships. Possibly some reference to them could be found in Isaiah Wilson's "History of Digby County." If you can find such a history, I have been trying to locate one for some time, but up to the present writing my efforts have been futile. However, I suppose we can drift along without the history or even a chart to guide us. No doubt some other historian will pop up who will give us some good reading in these columns on the subject of "Weymouth Ships."

Perhaps some of you recollect the sinking of the Brig owned and commanded by Capt. George Grant. I think the name of the vessel was the "Confederate" and was bound for Saint John heavily laden with ammunitions. Within a few hours of her destination and feeling the way through one of those "open soup" fogs that frequently hung over the Bay of Fundy, she was crashed into by an outward bound ship and sank within a few minutes after being struck. Captain Grant lost his life in the collision, but the rest of the crew were saved. A strange story of the sea has been told of this tragedy, of how one of the crew becoming so excited, and confused that he rushed into the cabin, closing all doors behind him, went down with the ship and came up with it again. On the way down the vessel was in such a position that the cargo of hard coal ran out of the great hole that had been torn in her side by the collision and on being relieved of her load, the air that remained below decks was sufficient to send her to the surface again. The sailor was taken off by a passing ship and his submarine adventure became headline stuff for the newspapers for days.

There are many Grants on the register of Weymouth sea captains.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Backache
4087 THE PROPHET

The love of the sea seems to have been in their blood, life on those old square riggers held no terrors for them, but later we were to see the three sons of Capt. George Grant—George Jr., Charles and Ainsley, making fine records for themselves as commanders of the splendid tank ships of the Standard Oil Co. and Union Oil Co. of San Francisco.

"Drifting back again to the smaller ships that beat their way up and down the river and brought the bridge watchman out at all hours of the day and night to open the draw for them, the schooner "Edith" owned by the Leary family of Sandy Cove, with Capt. Chas. Leary in charge, made regular trips between Saint John and Weymouth from early spring to late fall bringing supplies to Weymouth merchants; everybody knew Charlie Leary and loved him. After the steamer and rail service via Digby became so highly competitive Captain Leary sold his packet and retired from the sea, taking up his residence in Weymouth. He was for a number of years connected with the firm of Charles Burrell & Co., but during the later years of his life had his own store at the "Bridge" when, no doubt, many of the present day residents of the town did more or less business with him.

Possibly some of the aforesaid residents remember the old schooner "Onward," a decrepit old tub purchased at Sheriff's Sale by Captain Tom Randall and was operated by him as a wood carrier between Weymouth and Boston. The "Onward" was a standing joke among the sailormen up and down the Sissiboo River and it was a marvel to them how Captain Tom managed to keep her afloat, but with a little patching and a liberal use of coal tar he succeeded in getting several years service out of her before she piled up on a rocky coast one foggy night, and ending her career at all time. Shortly afterwards Capt. Randall took over the command of the schooner "R. Leach," owned by Henry E. Oakes. The "Leach" was about as trim a craft as ever sailed out of the river in those days. She had the rather unusual distinction for a time, of being the only vessel to enter Boston harbor flying the white and gold flag of the Sons of Temperance and carrying a temperance crew, who were all members of the Weymouth Bridge Division, S. of T. and there is an item for Mr. "Believe It or Not" Ripley, to keep company with the rest of his Nova Scotia wonders.

The ending of the career of the "R. Leach" as well as the lives of her crew was tragic. Loaded with a cargo of green lumber late in December she was towed down the river, there, to await the clearing up of a snowstorm. On the following tide, however, an attempt was made to face the gale, but the schooner got no farther than Sandy Cove and from there, on the next day the "Leach" put to sea in one of the worst storms ever known on St. Mary's Bay and the Bay of Fundy. She never reached her destination nor was any of the crew ever heard from.

Some months later some ship reported the sighting of a waterlogged and dismasted derelict in mid-ocean bearing a name that appeared to be "Leach." No other report of sighting was ever made and another entry was written into the record of missing ships. The why and wherefore of the putting to sea in the face of such a terrific gale was long a

UPLIFT

I wonder how many of us going through life ever think how much we could help each other by a little uplift. I have seen horses going up a hill heavily loaded—the driver stops them, goes over to them, pats them on the head, speaks kindly, and away they take that heavy load without a stop. I have often in walking through the garden, noticed a plant that had been crushed by some careless person who preceded me. I have lifted it up, put little sticks around, propped it up and it has repaid me by becoming one of the most beautiful plants. Had I stepped on it again, it would have died. So, if we can take these trivial daily day happenings as lessons, how much happier we would become if we accepted these tasks as privileges to help and uplift our fellow creatures, to help those carry their burdens who are heavy laden, to be courteous and kind to people we meet on the street, a smile and bow of recognition costs us so little effort, but pays the highest dividends. Like "the quality of mercy, it is not strained"—it helps our own character building as well as those we are kind to and trying to help. —Contributed.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

"I am a sick man, I know it, there is nothing left for me to do but wait—I may get better, but I may not—why should I send for a doctor. He would only tell me what ails me, he would charge me for his services and would cost me good money—I know I am sick so why should I pay a doctor to tell me so?"

A very foolish argument you say—no right thinking man would make such a remark. When a man is taken seriously ill he sends for a doctor at once. He wants to get better just as soon as possible—he has wandered off the road of health, he looks at the doctor as the man who will aid him in finding himself again. As a general rule people don't patronize their doctor when they are enjoying good health—they may try and follow his advice and live according to the rules of health he has given them—but they don't call him until sickness strikes and they realize he is needed.

Yet, there are business people in Digby and elsewhere who tell us "Business is so dull that I can't afford to advertise."

In the opinion of the newspaper man the business people who don't advertise because "business is dull" is very much like the man who would set forth the same argument as I have written for the first paragraph of this article. Advertisements are the newspaper man's prescription, and like any other medicine, they cost money. To get the best out of life we desire good health, most of us feel, in a sense, that good health pays its own bills.

The real job of business is to attract buyers. The real job of advertising is to create a desire to buy. I will admit that advertising is not only confined to the columns of a newspaper—it takes in a very large scope. Fair dealing, courteous service, moderate prices and a thousand and one other things which make people want to come to your store are actually advertisements. Your window displays are also amongst your best ads. In any city that more merchants don't realize this, but, it is impossible to show your wares and to tell those who live within the shopping radius of Digby of your wares and of the bargains you have to offer, except through the advertising columns of the local paper.

You can't move your display windows around from home to home. Therefore, why not consider newspaper advertisements as additional display windows? They are just that, and much more—they give you an opportunity to "tell all to sell all." Advertising will pay its own bills.

Not advertising because "business is dull" is the sort of thrift that saves a dime and loses a dollar in the end. Newspaper advertising is one of the most essential factors in business of any kind today. Newspaper advertising has increased business in times of prosperity and in less prosperous times has perhaps done more than any other medium to increase the volume of sales—the wise advertiser keeps at it.

I have often wondered what some people think newspaper advertising is—if they are of the opinion that they are making a contribution to our paper when they pay their advertising bills. It almost appears that way when some will tell us that "Business is so dull we can't afford to advertise." We feel that you should give us all the advertising you can, not for the sake of our business, but for the sake of your business—especially when "business is dull."

There were a lot of other things I wanted to write along the same line at this time, but, on looking over what I have already written, I feel that I have taken up enough space on the subject of advertising for the present time, so that will be all for now.

Not long ago a group of young people in Digby gave a debate: "Resolved that the city offers greater opportunities to the young man than the country." I didn't hear it, and I forget which side won—but, believe me, I would much rather live "in the country" and I am not going to take any part in the debate myself.

It is not because I haven't any ambition, but I sometimes hope that I will always make my home in a town like Digby—a little larger or smaller wouldn't hurt a bit—in fact, I wouldn't feel that Fate were unkind to me should be destined to spend the rest of my life here. Small towns like Digby may not have all the advantages of the larger cities, but there is that something which makes them much more "homey." I have worked in a city for a time—I like to visit a city once in awhile—but there is no lonelier spot than a city of a million strangers? You are just one of the million. Here and there you will meet someone who knows you, but you seldom find anyone who is really interested in you. You fight your way through the streets—people everywhere—and yet not one to whom you can say "hello"—you are not even an object of curiosity—you are just one of a million.

There may not be the surging crowds in Digby—the old "main drag" may look deserted and forsaken, but you can walk down street at almost any time and say "Hello Tom"—"Hi Dick"—"Good Night, Harry"—there is scarcely a soul you don't know—not just as an acquaintance, but as a friend. You feel more or less interested in everybody and at the same time, feel that everybody is more or less interested in you.

It may be that I have a small town mind, but I do prefer the small town life.

—Ye Junior Ed.

HIGH SCHOOL AMATEURS PRESENT PLAY

A four-act play, "Mom", was presented at the Community Theatre, Weymouth, on Saturday evening, by the Weymouth High School Dramatic Club, under the direction of their teacher, Baden Powell, of Plympton.

Despite inclement weather conditions, the theatre was well filled with an appreciative audience, and the interest was well maintained from the opening curtain until it had fallen on the last act.

The first, second and fourth acts were laid in the joining yards of the Thornton and Forrest homes. The second act being several years later than the first, and the fourth act was laid in the dining room of Claudius Forrest's home, three months after his marriage.

With the opening curtain the audience was introduced to "Mom" Thornton, a motherly person and splendid cook, who was about to open a boarding house; and her only son—her daughter, Julie, whose one ambition of becoming a high-brow, was finally granted without losing the charming and tender manner of "Mom's" own daughter. These two parts were splendidly portrayed by the Misses Elaine Moore and Lois Tooker.

With the progress of the play we became acquainted with Jimmie Blakely, a newspaper reporter, whom "Mom" had been seeing for a long time. He had been killed. Mrs. Alice Forrest, the snobbish neighbor, who nearly ruined her son's life by keeping him from her apron strings, but who finally, after living on her own cooking for a few weeks, became reconciled to his marriage and also to having "Mom" as a neighbor; when she discovered that "Mom" was both a good cook and a grandchild of Joseph Howe. Dan Adams, a prominent lawyer, who "Bless my soul," wanted a re-wife. Ruth Forrest, nicknamed "Twine", who fell for Jimmie, and consented to marry him, provided they spend their honeymoon at Mom's boarding house. Minnie Miles, who had seen better days, but thanks to "Mom", was given a new start. Maggie, the old faithful servant of the Forrests, who played an important part in teaching Julie to cook, and thus saving the newlyweds (Julie and Claudius) from divorce. These parts were all excellently portrayed by Ellsworth Coggins, Miss Helen Tooker, Willis Mullen, Miss Lois Doty, Miss Nina Titus and Miss Loretta Bonnenfant. Baden Powell, as Claudius Forrest, his mother's boy and a college professor, upon his appearance in the first act, brought forth bursts of laughter and considerable applause which increased throughout the play. This part was portrayed in a manner that would win his place in character at any time he wishes to change his profession from the routine of teaching school.

Congratulations are due to the entire cast, as well as the director on the successful way in which they presented the play; it being the first public performance of this High School Dramatic Club.

The cast was as follows:—
"Mom" Thornton—Miss Elaine Moore.

Julie Thornton—Miss Lois Tooker.
Mrs. Alice Forrest—Miss Helen Tooker.

Claudius Forrest—Baden Powell.
Ruth Forrest—Miss Lois Doty.
David Callins—Willis Mullen.

Jimmie Blakely—Ellsworth Coggins.
Minnie Miles—Miss Nina Titus.

Maggie—Miss Loretta Bonnenfant.
Miss Leslie Ruggles, another of the High School pupils acted as announcer and also played a piano solo between the second and third acts which was greatly appreciated by the audience.

THE NIGHT WATCHMAN

(After chatting with A. D. who for thirty years was night watchman on the waterfront at Halifax).

By L. Weldon Mosher.

From sun to sun, from dark till light,
Along the road path of the night
I've made my beat; I've punched the clock
That tells my walk from street to dock.

My walk went in my walk came out,
From shed to shed, I've moved about;
I've paused, and then, with mute
Gone back to punch the clock again, chagrin.

I've cursed the fates who once begot
This task to watch—in life my lot;
And challenged God to show to me
The need of this iniquity.

These thirty years with half remorse,
I've watched the cold stars in their course,
Whose spell was like a toxic wine
Loured pressed from Bacchus' fruitful vine.

In blasting storm, in nights forlorn
I've kept the watch; I've craved the morn;
Seen spirits of the night appear—
Like ghostly shapes they hovered near.

And now at life's calm eventide,
I lay my task "to watch" aside;
Full proud to say midst falling tears
"I've kept the watch for thirty years."

BEATTY FORESEES BUSINESS UPTURN

C.P.R. President Points to Many Helpful Factors But Says Further Adjustment Necessary to Complete Re-establishment.

"THE after-war period of adjustment through which this country is going is still short of completion," says W. Beatty, C.P.R., in his annual review "but I would add the positive assertion that, unhappily as the past year may have been and as lacking in re-assuring factors as the immediate future may appear, 1932 has continued to show drastic and unprecedented declines. That is what has happened. The decrease people of Canada would be willing to accept rather than upon the stern necessities of the case. Nor was it then apparent that conditions that had brought about the immediate need for effective relief for a situation that threatened national bankruptcy would be business still more aggravated as business offering for the railroads continued to show drastic and unprecedented declines. That is what has happened. The decrease very much further indeed than has yet been considered by a great number of our people who, it is only fair to state, have not had even a fair opportunity of informing themselves upon the situation. For years we have been impelled towards the capital expenditure, while at the same time competitive transportation agencies, railways, highways and canals have been built up and maintained out of public funds. Keeping these facts in view and having in mind the probable course of economic events over the next few years, the urgency of the need for fundamental changes in our railway policy should be clearly apparent. I think that in the wider field of world economics we have witnessed important developments leading towards trade stabilization and encouragement. The improvement in the situation with regard to international war debts and the hope contained in the coming World Trade Conference can certainly be regarded with equal force to the side of the ledger, while the first results from the Imperial Trade Conference at Ottawa in the way of improved intra-empire trade provide honest ground for quiet congratulation.

I am still a great optimist as ever on the subject of Canada's ultimate future. The inherent confidence and equal strengthens me in this opinion. I do not think that our business recovery will come with a rush, since the temptations to forget the economic lessons we have learned would be too strong. For one thing, I do not hesitate to state that if within three years we found ourselves again in such a period of economic inflation as we experienced about 1923, and if we had not then definitely settled the railway problem on sound and permanent economic basis, we would again be swept off our feet by the flood of competition and competitive extravagance. This, I think, applies with equal force to all forms of business.

Referring a year ago to the Royal Commission on the subject of the people of Canada should meet its suggested solutions for our problems with earnest consideration of their economic values unclouded by political color or preconceived prejudices. The question is now more than ever a matter of urgent public discussion and will continue so for many months. It cannot satisfactorily be dealt with in a way to save the country from disaster unless it be considered as an economic question and settled in accordance with the economic truth that transportation agencies are no different from any other form of industrial institution in that they must be both allowed and required to pay their way.

Any other attempted solution of the difficulty would be ineffectual, and it is the inescapable obligation of the people of Canada to apply this test to whatever proposals for settlement of the problem may come forward.

Mr. W. Beatty, Chairman and President Canadian Pacific Ry.

Freight car loadings which began in 1930 have continued almost uninterrupted. In 1931 up to the end of the first week of December, 558,555 less freight cars had been loaded on all Canadian railways than for the same period of the previous year. During the same period this year 376,016 less cars were loaded than in 1931. The decline in passenger business has been relatively the same. The resultant effect upon railway earnings has been naturally disastrous. For the first ten months of 1931 Canadian Pacific gross revenue declined 22.1 per cent as compared with that of 1930. For the first ten-months of this year now closing the revenue has declined 15.4 per cent. The decline continues, and there certainly appears to be no evidence in sight that for many years we shall see them entirely eliminated and our earnings back to the level of 1928. It is true that the railways have effected drastic economies. As compared with 1931 Canadian Pacific operating costs for the first ten months of 1932 were 15.3 per cent lower, and we expect that we shall save in 1933 at least 10 per cent in regard throughout the year.

Having the best hope in the world, I hesitate to prophesy any great increase in gross earnings, but it is my deeply considered opinion that if the railways are to live anywhere within their income, economies will have to go topic for debate when local sailors gathered for a gabfest, but what ever the cause, the act was generally admitted to have been a rash and disastrous one. Other members of the crew who lost their lives along with Capt. Randall, were Capt. Ben Freeman, Charlie Doty and Ike Cunningham. I am unable at this time to remember the names of the other three men.

I wonder whether the three masted schooner "Grace Rice," built near the "Bridle" by the Rice Bros. in the late eighties, and Captained by Capt. Richard Marshall, is still remembered by any of our readers? And later, the topsail schooner, Herbert Rice. What do you remember about this ship? The reason I recollect these two vessels so well is that they were built practically in the front yard of my old home. Every day I "inspected" the work in progress from the laying of their keels to the day of their launching—and then received from Mr. Ned Rice the great honor of being invited to be on board when the ships were launched, and both times I accepted the invitation, and each time almost, but not quite, made up my mind that a sailor's life was the life for me, but just one thing kept me from going to sea and that was my inability to go aloft, that is one thing that I never could get used to, even to this day I cannot look straight down from the upper windows of a tall office building without getting the "jimmies" or whatever that strange feeling is that comes to some people when looking down from unusual heights.

And now we go from sail to steam. For forty years or so ago, we had a couple of steamers that plowed the still waters of the Sissiboo from early March 'till late December. The first one was the "Alameda" formerly a Yarmouth tug boat that had been out in two and lengthened out and equipped with accommodations for passengers on the daylight run between Westport, Weymouth and intermediate landings along both sides of St. Mary's Bay. This boat also handled freight between the various points on the bay. Joe D. Payson was the captain and what a hectic time he had of it keeping passengers comfortable and smoothing out the claims and complaints of shippers.

The management of this steamship line which later included the steamer "Weymouth" was in the hands of Chas. Burrell & Co. who at that time carried on quite an extensive general merchandising business, some lines of which were wholesaled as well as retailed. The "Weymouth" was built in the yard adjoining that of the Rice shipyard and was of course a wooden boat, built by Weymouth workmen, with engines and boilers furnished by the Burrell Johnson Iron Works of Yarmouth. The "Weymouth" was intended for freight and passenger service between Saint John and Weymouth including the intermediate ports at the "Islands" and along St. Mary's Bay, but proved to be too small for the Saint John route, and too large for the local business on the Bay. Whether this boat was ever a financial success and what finally became of her are questions that will have to be answered by some of the stockholders of the company, now living in Weymouth. Captain Payson was put in charge of the "Weymouth" as soon as she was completed and continued in that position for a number of years.

Well, the day of the wind jammer—as sailing ships are sometimes called, has passed. Possibly there are not over a dozen full rigged ships today, upon all of the seven seas. Among the forty odd ships listed in port at San Francisco this morning there is not a single sailing vessel among them. But across the bay in what is known as the Oakland Estuary, there are many of these old ships, and two or three that were quite famous in their days, as clipper ships. There they lie stripped of their gear and canvas, masts and spars turning a weather beaten brown and hulls rusting and rotting away. Occasionally some of the moving picture companies of Hollywood rent or purchase one of these old ships, for a special sea picture. Several have been converted into fishing barges and are anchored off Los Angeles Harbor. Otherwise they are as obsolete and useless as Noah's Ark. In contrast to this picture of "has beens" and "down and outers," imagine if you can what the harbour of San Francisco must have looked like in the seventies and early eighties, when as old timers have told me, it was not an unusual event for as many as one hundred and fifty ships to be in this port at one time, for San Francisco is the great port of the world and ships of all nations have brought cargo to its docks. An old friend has told me of a day when he stood on a hill in San Francisco and watched a fleet of some thirty or more clipper ships, racing for the "Golden Gate" outward bound. Their freshly painted black hulls and newly varnished spars glistening in the sunlight with their tiers of white canvas billowing against the blue California sky, made a picture that he never could forget. How could anyone forget such a scene? Those who have never seen a ship under full sail bowling along before a freshening breeze have missed a sight truly worth while.

When seafaring men which includes Captain, mates and sailors get ready to quit the sea they usually settle down on a farm or engage in some business connected with farming. All up and down the Pacific coast we find many farmers who at some time in their lives went to sea. I know two men in Los Angeles engaged in the dairy business who have made fortunes in the retail distributing of milk. Quitting their ship after a hard voyage they began life anew, peddling milk from door to door, which they purchased from a farmer in five gallon lots—today it requires a fleet of 50 trucks to handle their daily output.

I think that most of our Weymouth captains and sailors also retired to the quietude of farm life. The most ancient mariner of them all, at least the one who goes furthest back in my memory was Captain David Kinney Sr. who went through with the daily farm chores of milking the cows, stopping the hogs and issuing various and sundry orders to the folks about the house, would stroll down to the "Bride" and make a few predictions on the future of Weymouth. "A great granite city" was in his opinion what the village was destined to become. "We have the granite and we have everything else but the money and we will get that," he would assure his listeners. Apparently the captain was a good deal of an optimist. I believe, however, that Weymouth still has most of its granite and building stone. Another stunt that the old captain seemed to enjoy was to be on hand when one of the larger vessels was being warped into dock. Sometimes the turn of the tide made the job a little difficult, but Captain Kinney knew just how it should be done and gave his advice freely. How he would stamp and snort and bawl orders to the ship's officers and crew, who paid not the slightest attention to his remarks. But the crowd on the wharf enjoyed the show immensely.

Yes sir! Life on the farm must have seemed nice and quiet after spending years at sea in the old sailing ships. The voyages were frequently long and sometimes took thirty days or more from Liverpool to New York, and as many as one hundred and eighty days from New York to San Francisco by the way of Cape Horn. Calm weather and rough weather, white squalls and black hurricanes, battling through snow storms with frozen running gear, sometimes with an ugly crew and often with a lazy crew, were all in the day's work, these old captains will tell you. And what does the old time sailor of square rig days say about his experiences before the mast? Of long hard voyages on hard ships and on easy ships, on good crews and on bad crews, and others that were hard as nails, of being ordered aloft at any time of day or night to shorten sail in a raging storm with wet and slippery boots trying to grip the foot ropes and with numb and bleeding fingers clawing frantically at the stiff canvas whipping in the gale, with the ship rolling and pitching in an angry sea. To this, one of the old timers trying to say to me, "Sure, the life was a hard one, but once a sailor, or always a sailor, and there were plenty of good times along with the rough times, and you will have to agree that it took a lot of nerve and bone and brawn to stay with the game," but, "just the same," he would remark confidentially, "a snug berth aboard a milk wagon isn't half bad for an old sailor."

It looks as if it was time for me to "hail" or "pipe down" or I'll be feeling the weight of somebody's sea boots.

Tomorrow is Christmas, and we have had a windy and rainy week, but the weather man says "Fair weather today and tomorrow in San Francisco and the bay region." The sun is shining brightly and the air is soft and warm and clean smelling. Christmas shoppers are rushing frantically around buying the things for the "frozen man" who they have decided to remember after all. The Christmas tree man has disposed of all of his trees and wreaths, the relief organizations have arranged to furnish a real Christmas dinner to all comers, the Governor has pardoned 166 violators of the old California Liquor Law that was voted out in November, so considering all things it looks as if tomorrow will actually be a Merry Christmas for everyone. The outdoor Christmas trees in California cities and towns will be more beautiful than ever this year, the custom of decorating and lighting with multi-colored electric bulbs one or more trees in the front yards is fast becoming an accepted Christmas observance. Beginning in Los Angeles a few years ago the idea has been taken up in all parts of the state. Some towns where trees line the street or highway for some distance, have in some cases as much as a mile of lighted trees, and in Pasadena, the lane of cedar trees—probably half a mile in length—decorated and lighted especially for the holidays is one of the sights of Southern California.

RESOLVE FOR EVERY MORNING

Not only when the New Year's footsteps sound
Upon the threshold of my door shall I Make resolution—every flaming dawn
Shall find me waiting earnestly to try
To live the glorious hours of one brief day
Simply and serenely at my best;
To serve, if there be need for me to serve;
To rest, if there should be the need of rest.

And I shall always try to be sincere:
To search for truth, and find it where I can;
I shall be charitable, knowing well
The good that lies within my fellow-man.
I would be cheerful, and I would be brave
Beneath whatever load, or chastening rod,
And oh, these two things I shall try to keep:
A steadfast faith, a childlike trust in God.

—Grace Noll Crowell.

"JESUS AT WORK"

Golden Text—"My Father worketh hitherto, and I work."—John 5:17.

Lesson Passage—Mark 1:21-25

THE NEW PATRIOT

Who is the patriot? he who lights the torch of war from hill to hill? Or he who kindles on the heights the beacon of a world's good will?

Who is the patriot? Only he whose business is the general good. Whose keener sword is sympathy. Whose deeper flag is brotherhood.

Leaving Home, 21

There are people who have lived their whole lives in one town. This has advantages as it affords opportunities for unbroken friendship and thorough familiarity with local scenes and traditions. But it must also become monotonous and hold the mental stimulation which comes through change and travel. Jesus lived his boyhood days in Nazareth, a small village where life was simple and he could have seclusion. When he began his public ministry, however, he made Capernaum his headquarters. This was a busy place, a fishing town on the lake-shore with more stir and business.

When young people leave home and go to a large city, it always entails a test of their religion. Will they keep up the religious practices to which they have been accustomed during youth at home? Jesus had gone to the synagogue in Nazareth, and he continued the custom at Capernaum.

Christ the Teacher, 22

Jesus was preeminently a teacher. The word translated "Master" in the Gospels may equally well be translated "teacher." He spent much of his time teaching and training his disciples to teach. He had truths which he believed would transform the world if only they were known. His teaching was informal but vital. It was close to life; it contained eternal principles; it arose out of the needs of the moment and was as modern as today. His hearers were astonished at his doctrine for he taught as one who had authority and not as the scribes. He did not seek literary immortality from quotations, but spoke out of his own living experience. He shared with others living water not from a cistern but from a running spring. Whenever a wave of emotional revival sweeps a church or a country, it is well to remember how much importance Jesus attached to his "sayings." The words which he spoke will never pass away. A study of the Gospels is one of the most lasting evangelistic forces.

A Sufferer Cured, 23-28

The work of Jesus, however, was not confined to theory; it issued in actual practice. While he taught in the synagogue at Capernaum, a man with a disordered reason disturbed him. Jesus healed the sufferer and his fame spread abroad immediately throughout the region about Galilee. Jesus was a great healer. That is the historic fact which withstands the file of criticism. And he has given to his followers this healing impulse. Hospitals throughout the Christian world bear witness to the force of his example. The death rate has been significantly lowered in Christian lands. There may be a division in Christian work between doctors and teachers but both may serve the Great Teacher and the Great Physician who in the synagogue at Capernaum taught and healed at the one time. Education and health are good ideals for any community.

A Return for Hospitality, 29-31

Coming home from church Jesus was not allowed to rest. His host was Simon and Simon's wife's mother was sick. Jesus went to her bedside, took her by the hand and lifted her up and immediately the power left her and she ministered unto them. Such was his return for Peter's hospitality. Peter was usually the spokesman for the twelve. In his readiness to champion the cause of Christ one motive may have been his gratitude for this act of healing in the early days of the ministry of Jesus. The relationship of Jesus with his disciples was not a cold official thing; it was a matter of heart and home, the sharing of daily needs and daily help.

The Evening Hour, 32-35

Mark has given to us in these verses a picture of a Sabbath evening in Capernaum. A hymn writer, Henry Twells, has given us the picture in poetry, in the beautiful hymn, "At even when the day is done and quiet." Two things stand out in the picture—widespread human need and Christ's willingness to help. All the sick people of the neighborhood came to the teacher. They did not come in rain, but his suffering and distress was not easy. Jesus had to renew his reserves in the morning. Rising up a great while before day, he went out to a solitary place to pray.

Medical science has made great progress since the time of Jesus, yet physical need remains appalling. Hospitals are crowded, dozens of different kinds of healers are at work, at clinics there is a steady stream of patients. In non-Christian lands medical science is too often associated with superstition and even in the most progressive countries where medical science and hospital service have reached their highest, there is still much suffering and distress. In a small Ontario village a doctor has demonstrated that he possesses special skill in foot treatment. His treatments show a percentage of failure as well as of success, yet year after year hundreds of people come daily for treatment. There is need today for Christian doctors and nurses to carry on the healing ministry of Christ as well as for Christian teachers to spread his truth.

QUESTIONS:

1. Why did Jesus make Capernaum his headquarters instead of Nazareth?
2. How did Jesus differ from the scribes as a teacher?
3. What can be done to stop the alarming increase in the number of patients in mental hospitals?
4. How is the healing ministry of Jesus being carried on in the world today?
5. Jesus had his quiet hour early in the morning. Do we?

OPTIMISM KEYNOTE IN WEYMOUTH

Community Looks for Real Advancement During New Year

The beautiful village of Weymouth, cradled amongst forest-clad hills, forty-five miles west of Yarmouth, the western gateway of Nova Scotia, and twenty miles east of Digby, opens the door to the famous Land of Evangeline rich in its romantic lure and historic significance.

Good roads feature its precincts with unsurpassed scenery in one's travels. To command the invigorating atmosphere of the salt brine wafted from the resplendent waters of Saint Mary's Bay where deep sea fishing abounds, as well as the drowsy perfume distilled from its inland lakes, streams and dells, where fish and game exist in great abundance to the joy and admiration of the tourist.

Quiet and Rest
Weymouth appeals to those who seek quiet and rest from the noisy turmoil and congestion of the over-crowded cities. Here it can be truly said that one will find a haven of rest from the ills that torment and the fears which distract. Here hospitality abounds which knows no limit where the comfort and pleasure of its guests are concerned.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-three enters the gateway of a New Year. We have slipped away through the Christmas lights under the shadow of time, and we have hardly noticed its passing so busy are we preparing for the days and months that are to come.

Hopes Are High
We stand on the threshold of this New Year with high hopes, that the dawn of a new era already breaks on the horizon, with a more glorious conception of our great destiny as a unit in the design and purpose of a greater unified Nova Scotia, whose ramifications and attractions are so diversified, that none can but appreciate its outstanding opportunities. Its significant appeal as the Playground of the Atlantic, carries beyond the imagination into the realm of fact those attractive features ures which none can deny or fail to comprehend.

All distressing thoughts are but the memories of yesterdays. A bountiful harvest more than sufficient for our needs is a source of hearty thanksgiving and grateful recognition of our extremely fortunate situation. If the depression has taught us anything, we have learned to discriminate between essentials and non-essentials to give more concern to the necessity of an honest purpose to hold high the torch that shall blaze the pathway of our honest endeavor—Halifax Herald.

Leonard Rudolf, of Saint John, spent the New Year's week-end with his mother, Mrs. H. L. Rudolf, at Weymouth North.

Russell Henshaw, who has been at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Doty at Weymouth North, returned to his home in Wadlock Line on Wednesday.

Richard Gaudet of Weymouth North, who spent the Christmas vacation at Deep Brook, has returned home.

MERCHANDISE OF QUALITY

DIGBY, N. S.

Mr. Customer,
Digby and Vicinity, N. S.

Dear Mr. Customer:—

How can we get more value for our money?
"How?" says you and "How" says I.

If I could answer that with intelligence you would, I am sure, vote me a medal.

Looking for the why of things, I am just wondering if we are letting fear take the "pep" and "punch" out of us. We cannot win if we are scared.

Let's decide you and I on an increase of buying for the balance of January. Buy reliable Standard Goods that will give satisfaction and will give you the utmost for your money.

Josh Billings says, "I like the Rooster for two reasons, first his crow and second, his spurs to back the crow up with."

If this sounds like a crow, here are the spurs. We have taken a lot of Standard Goods and marked them away down for immediate selling. We take stock the end of January. This will make a turn for both and enable us to show a reduced stock sheet for the end of our year.

ACTION—Come in, telephone or mail your wants now. You will be buying Canadian employment.

LOCAL MILK DEALER REDUCES MILK TO 5 CENTS

Milk at 5 cents a quart! Sounds like old times, doesn't it? And so old, at that, that none of the present generation ever saw that price and not too many of the past generation. But it is a fact in Digby. H. T. Warner makes the announcement that that fresh milk of the best quality will be sold at his store at 5 cents a quart. You will have to carry your own containers—bottles, pailers or kettles or what have you—but the milk is there and you can carry it away for 5 cents a quart. Mr. Warner tells us that he has been shipping his milk to the creameries and only got 5 cents for it there—so why not keep it in town and let our local people have it at that price! He will be money in and the people will benefit.

He described the country and its people and told of his own experiences, as he was called on to act as missionary, but as doctor, mail-man, lawyer, road-builder and everything in general. All present enjoyed a good time together. The next regular meeting will be February 21st.

An uneducated church member rebuked the Rector when the word "Parishioner" was pronounced. "If all depends," replied the parson. "If you are zealous and active in the Parish and want things to go well and work for it, you are a 'Parish-Shunner'; but if you neglect your Church, fail to attend meetings, run down your parish, etc., you are a 'Parish-Shunner'." One can always find a good number of these latter kind. Their slogan is usually "What's the matter with everything and everybody, except themselves."

GOLFING IN JANUARY!

Two local golfers, A. L. Robinson and George Garland, on Monday afternoon dug out their clubs and teed off for a complete round of golf on the local 9-hole course. They found the course almost as good as in summer—the greens were in fine shape, and on the fairways, with the exception of a few holes, they made faster time than in the regular season. Robinson, the winner, got two pars; Nos. 5 and 9 and finished the game, winning 6 holes and tying for three. On Tuesday, although the weather was a bit cooler, they had another round—and this all happened in the middle of January. Can you beat it?

MR. AND MRS. HOWARD MERRITT CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

January 10th was a joyous occasion in the Merritt home on Washington street, Holliston, Mass., when Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Merritt observed their 50th wedding anniversary, surrounded by the eight children, fifteen grandchildren and a host of friends.

The happy couple received under a lovely white and gold arch in the living room. On either side of the arch was a large basket of beautiful flowers and there were many other lovely floral decorations about the home.

Time has dealt lightly with the happy couple and judging from appearance, many more happy years are in store for them. A touching scene was enacted when they renewed their marriage vows as their youngest child, Rev. L. Morse Merritt, read the ceremony. Rev. William H. Tabbot, of the Baptist Church, offered prayer, preceding the ceremony.

A reception was held from 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and 7 to 9 in the evening. There was a constant stream of well wishers arriving and departing during these hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Merritt received many lovely gifts, several in gold, and messages of congratulations were received from Nova Scotia, Texas, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont and other distant points.

NOVA SCOTIA AND ITS TOURIST TRADE POSSI-BILITIES—NO. 2

By Thomas F. Anderson

Right now is the time for all Nova Scotian communities catering to the tourist business to vigorously start their campaign for the 1933 season. Too many of these communities put off this important work until the very eve of the vacation period. Procrastination in this case is likely to bring but poor results.

I know of some towns in the Province rating themselves as vacation centres that do not wake up to the advertising needs of the current season until about March. This is the time for maple sap to be running, but a poor time to be embarking on vacation season publicity.

As a matter of fact, this work for the coming year should be started immediately after the close of the current season, and a general survey of results made. If your town has no local Board of Trade or Village Improvement Society, it is perfectly easy to organize a local tourist committee on which, of course, every hotel and boarding-house proprietor should be represented.

In addition to the individual "literature" that always is issued by the hotels, every community entitled to rank as a tourist centre should publish a community booklet or leaflet of some kind, and see to it that these are distributed in a sensible manner, and not thrown away indiscriminately like handbills at the doors of residences. I may have something more to say on this important point later.

All legitimate efforts to attract new "customers" are to be commended, but don't forget the "standbys" who have been regularly coming to your community for summer rest and recreation for many years—in some instances, for thirty or forty years.

Whether these are hotel patrons or resident cottagers, all of them from time to time should receive some sort of cordial greeting from the local tourist community in addition to those they get from landlords and property owners. Such remembrances are certain to greatly enhance the goodwill of these visitors toward the town. A satisfied customer that one is sure of is a better investment than ten uncertain "prospects."

Every actual or potential tourist community, from Yarmouth to the end of Cabot Trail, should be "on its toes," right now!

For his fellow man is too often determined by the business he can get.

For his country is not proved by the profit he makes out of war materials.

Between Ourselves

It was a real pleasure to be present at the twelfth annual meeting of the Digby Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses on Friday evening last—to hear the reports of the president, the secretary, the treasurer, the nurse and of the splendid committee. They were all splendid reports, and in my mind if more of our townspeople attended the annual meetings of the V. O. N., they would have a better insight on the splendid work this society is doing in our community, particularly in our schools. The V. O. N. deserves more than our congratulations on their year's work; they need your support and co-operation in every way possible.

I liked the suggestion made by Mrs. George Peters very much—that the public attend the monthly meetings of the executive and find out for themselves in that way what the V. O. N. is doing for them and Digby. Somehow I think the majority of us had the idea tucked away in our heads that these monthly meetings were conducted behind closed doors—the public were not invited. Now that we know better it wouldn't be a bad idea for some of us to spare a little time and pay them a visit some afternoon. I intend to sometime, but it is not the easiest thing in the world for me to get away during the afternoons. However, some sweet day, before long, I hope to be "among those present."

At this time I would like to make a few remarks on the report of our V. O. N. Nurse, but I am afraid that if I ever got started, I wouldn't know when to stop! It was a marvellous report, and one cannot help but wonder how she manages to find time to accomplish so much. The V. O. N. certainly have a very capable and efficient nurse in Mrs. Sturgeon. Make sure that you read her report which is published in full in this weeks issue.

I am sure that everybody enjoyed Miss Audrey Holdsworth's prize essay—and it was another shining example of the good work the Victorian Order Nurse is doing in our town by conducting these Mothercraft Classes. Audrey's essay proved that she knew about everything the little Miss should know about making the best of what I'll wager that there are many experienced housewives in this town who only wish that they had had the same advantages in their day.

On the afternoon of the same day the Ladies' Aid of the Digby Hospital, conducted their annual meeting. I am sorry that it was impossible for me to attend their meeting. They certainly do deserve the best wishes of the public and our heartfelt congratulations for the work they are doing, and have done, toward the support and upkeep of the Digby General Hospital. During the year they made a contribution of $687.00 to the Hospital Board of Management, and at their Annual Meeting voted another $500.00 to be used for the purpose of reducing the Hospital loan.

Well, Nomination Day is only a little more than a week away! Who are going to receive the honors this time? I have heard the names of Frank Anderson and C. Fred McBride mentioned and none other. Well, most of us will agree that they are two very capable fellows, and they know the ins and outs of town government. Both have been members of the Town Council, and Frank has served the town as mayor. Let me see, now, how does the Town Council stand? The retiring councillors are Bowles, Eisener and Oliver, which leaves Morehouse, Morrell and Casswell—I guess that's right, isn't it?

The Municipal Council session is over until May. We have been given to understand that the proceedings will not be published, either in book form, or in the columns of the Courier until after the May session. This year I couldn't manage to get up to any of their business meetings, but thanks to Jim Hillman, Councilor for Culloden, and Digby correspondent to the Halifax Herald and Saint John Telegraph-Journal, I managed to get the "flow down" on these meetings. The Digby Municipal Council, like most Municipal Councils, are up against the perplexing problem of unpaid taxes and seem to be having a hard job at making both ends meet—they have applied to the Government for aid under the Relief Act. In 1932 they spent over $5,000 for Outside Poor, which was more than twice the amount provided by the estimates. This year they have appropriated the sum of $9,000 for Outside Poor. We note also that they have reduced all wages and salaries coming under their control by 10%. But I have been given to understand that some of the Council did not realize that this 10% cut affected them until after the resolution had passed. However, this cut, must of necessity, mean the saving of many dollars for the Municipality.

"JESUS FORGIVING SIN"

Golden Text:—"The Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins."—Mark 2:10.

Lesson Passage:—Mark 2:1-12.

On Him the Spirit, largely shed,
Exerts His sacred fire;
Wisdom and might, and zeal and love,
His holy breast inspire.

He comes, the broken hearts to bind,
The bleeding souls to cure;
And with the treasures of His grace
To enrich the humble poor.

How News Spreads, 1, 2

One of the triumphs of modern science is the rapidity with which news is gathered from the four corners of the earth. Formerly it was considered a marvel that, at the breakfast table, the morning newspaper would bring news of events in South America, Russia or Japan. But now the radio gives a news summary of the day before mid-night, and listeners in have the great events of the world before they go to bed. With telegraph systems and wireless the whole world is encircled by a news gathering agency. In ancient days, though this news spreading agency was lacking, the desire to hear news and to tell news was very strong. Missionaries in the jungles of Africa have been surprised at the rapidity with which news could spread, relayed from village to village by word of mouth or signals. "Grape vine radio" can be marvelously speedy. When Jesus entered the village of Capernaum it was noised about that he was in Peter's house, and a great crowd gathered there, the streets as well as the house. The fame of what he had done on a previous visit made everyone in Capernaum eager to see and hear him again.

The Friends, 3
Though they did not know it the four friends of the man sick of the palsy gained immortal fame when they carried the suffering neighbor up the stairs, dug a hole in the roof, and let the sick man down before Jesus. The names of these four men are unknown. Which one of them was the leader, who suggested this unconventional proceeding, their helplessness when their device succeeded—none of the details are given but the beauty of their active friendship stands out clearly.

With us relief work is highly organized. There is a Medical Health Officer to protect against contagious diseases and to see that drinking water is pure. District nurses and school nurses are employed. Hospitals are kept up by public subscription. Neighborhood workers prevent overlapping in gifts. Communities are in Hesperianoga on business one appeal for funds. During years of depression provincial governments and the Dominion government have organized for relief work on a national scale. Churches also have shipped carloads of food and clothing, and an emergency fund is necessary, but it is essential that the spirit of the four friends enter into the administration of relief. When people are suffering from want or sickness, human friendship is as essential as direct relief.

The Patient, 4, 5
Little is told us about this patient except that his disease was palsy. How long he had suffered, and what was the cause of his disease we do not know. Evidently he was helpless, unable to walk and care for himself. He had lost his sense of independence, had become a burden upon his friends, and he was a financial liability upon the community. Estimates may be made as to the public loss of each sick person, but no one can estimate the amount of personal anguish the sufferer endures. Jesus did not regard this patient primarily from a medical point of view. "Son, thy sins" these were the startling words which Jesus uttered. The cure of soul was more imperative than the cure of the body. He did not lead up to the great announcement, but with complete confidence asserted, "Son, thy sins be forgiven thee." How well Jesus knew the human heart! Spiritual sickness may be more deeply rooted than physical disease. Jesus offered forgiveness first and healing second to this man sick with the palsy.

The Critics, 6, 7
Certain of the scribes were in the audience, and they "dialogued in their hearts." They thought that it was blasphemy for Jesus to speak of forgiveness, and that he was usurping the power of God. Jesus who had been so sensitive to the need of the palsied man was equally sensitive to the adverse mental attitude of the scribes. The scribes, of course, could neither heal the man nor overcome his sin whereas Jesus was able to do both. The scribes were more concerned about theological niceties than helping a human sufferer. It would have been very easy for Jesus to show that his critics were powerless to help. Always it is true that criticism is easier than art.

The Saviour, 8-12
This healing incident was an interlude. Jesus was teaching in Capernaum when he was rudely interrupted by the sick man being let down through the roof and by the opposition of the scribes. After the incident he went back to the synagogue and taught. Plainly Jesus attached great importance to his teaching ministry than his healing ministry, but he was always ready to respond to the appeal of need. He demonstrated his power to forgive souls by his power to restore a palsied man. If he could do the one, it was proof that he could do the other. Which has the greater task, the doctor or the minister? Their services have been divided, though they are in reality co-workers and each may help the other. This incident indicates that the cure of the spiritual malady may often be necessary as a precursor of the cure of the physical disease. There are millions of health seekers. Doctors' offices, hospitals, healing springs are crowded. Much fewer in number are those who are seeking the more radical remedy of forgiveness for sin. Yet this is the great need of the world today. Forgiveness is free, and it may be won by repentance, faith and a changed life. The witness of this healed man in Capernaum was not so much that he had been carried in and was able to walk home, but that a new peace, a lasting joy and a permanent love of goodness were his ever afterward.

Questions for Discussion:
1. Whose responsibility would it be to repair that roof?
2. Has religion become too conventional?
3. What are the advantages and disadvantages of organized relief?
4. How do you account for Christ's unique compassion toward the sick and sinful?

Highways Closed
To Heavy Trucks

The highways of Nova Scotia have been closed to motor vehicles weighing 4,000 pounds or over. This action has been found necessary by reason of constant use of highways when frost conditions have not been sufficiently uniform to protect the road surface.

Hon. Percy C. Black, Minister of Highways, when interviewed with reference to the effect upon the roads of the unusual weather conditions stated that it was most regrettable that many truck owners apparently used little or no discretion in operating the highways when conditions will not permit of heavy traffic.

The road surface in a great many parts of the Province, the Minister said, has become badly rutted almost entirely due to the fact that owners of heavy commercial vehicles continued to operate their trucks while the road surface is soft. There are instances where truck owners have operated until they have made the roadway so bad it is not possible for them to operate further, with no regard to the interests of the Province or other motorists. Mr. Black stated that in view of the persistent operation of trucks the Department found it necessary to prohibit the use of highways to all motor vehicles having a total weight of vehicle and load in excess of 4,000 pounds. Asked if this would not be an injustice when the road was frozen and when such vehicles could operate without doing injury to the highways, Mr. Black replied that instructions had been issued to the Police to enforce the regulations strictly in cases of persons found operating on soft roads and to hold any such operators responsible for damage as well as for other penalties provided.

CATERPILLAR "FARM" MAKES PROFIT FOR BOYS

While trapping of animals is a favorite pastime for many boys in the Northern Minnesota, four Duluth high school youths have turned a hobby of raising caterpillars into a profitable venture.

The boys started a caterpillar "farm" three years ago, gathering an assortment of rare butterflies, moths and caterpillars. This year they are raising about 1000 caterpillars, which will hatch into butterflies and moths.

The insects then are to be mounted and sold to entomologists. Rare specimens have been sold to numerous collectors.

The four boys, Raymond Spence, Donald Plant, Richard Hensley and Carl Carlson are organizers of the "Arrowhead Lepidoptera Society."

RAH! RAH! "YE JUNIOR ED."
You are to be congratulated on the newsy items in your column—it makes the old Courier more readable. I am sure to many, and I fancy more copies are sold each week. I have waited expectantly for some time for someone in the town to write up comments on Mr. Anderson's first letter in "Walking Up"—for if ever a community needed waking up, it is in this beautiful little town of Digby. If a new man comes here with brilliant ideas; if some of the people have never seen or heard of them, they are no good. I hope the new boys will stay, for his bread and cookies are excellent.

Annual Meeting of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society, of Digby

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society of Digby was held on Friday afternoon last, Mrs. W. R. Dickie presiding. After the reading of the minutes, the secretary and treasurer presented reports which showed a very successful year's work. The year 1932 closed with a balance of $74.05, the sum of $1,002.03 having been taken in by the society, besides the $1,636.45 raised at the annual fair. The sum of $1,670.00 had been paid over to the Board of Management of the Hospital and a motion was passed that an additional $500.00 be paid to reduce the Hospital Loan.

Numbers of donations to the hospital during the year were reported, among which was an electric refrigerator purchased with the proceeds of a bridge given at the Pines Hotel by Mrs. Dora Davies, of New York. The following officers were elected:—
Honorary President—Mrs. E. DuVernet.
President—Mrs. H. Anderson.
1st. Vice-President—Mrs. W. R. Dickie.
2nd. Vice-President—Mrs. R. B. Lent.
Secretary—Mrs. H. M. Warner.
Treasurer—Mrs. G. V. Turnbull.
Assistant Secretary—Treasurer—Mrs. B. H. Ruggles.

Committees were also formed, Mrs. J. A. Paust being Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, and Mrs. A. J. Dillon of the Buying Committee. It was decided to continue the use of the Hospital Calendars this year, and a committee formed to distribute the new supply in the near future. The reports for the year were as follows:—
Report of the Secretary for the Year Ending December, 1932

Madam Chairman, Ladies:—
I beg to submit the eighth annual report of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society of Digby:—
We observe a tendency on the part of chroniclers of the year 1932 to pass over their subject a little lightly, there being so little to say in its favor. Progress seems to have become a thing of the past, retrenchment the order of the day, and can an individual or an organization but hold its ground, it has fulfilled our highest expectations. This it was with a feeling of trepidation that I approached my task for this year, fearing that the marshalled array of facts for the past twelve months would present a sorry appearance when held up for comparison with more prosperous periods. It was indeed a pleasure, therefore, to find that the records of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society in that fortunate group which has succeeded in holding its own financially.

Our good fortune is also evident in the fact that the new hospital building and equipment were obtained while it was easier to do so. In 1931 our society was called upon for an expenditure of over $1,200.00 for hospital supplies and equipment, while during the past year our expenditure for the same purpose has been under $30.00. This exceptionally small amount is of course due to the fact that the linen and furnishings are new, but in the natural course of events the future cost of replacements will never reach an excessive figure. This leaves the major portion of our earnings in readiness to meet other emergencies.

Two such emergencies arose during the past year. In the first case, the Board of Directors of the Hospital wished to inaugurate the calendar system of raising funds, but were not prepared for the initial investment. The Hospital Aid, however, purchased 1000 calendars at $130.00, retained 200 for our own use, and donated the remaining 800 to the Board, from which a goodly revenue is being obtained. Later the Board was again in need of funds and the Aid gave them a direct loan of $500.00. In addition to this, other smaller amounts totalling $57.00, have been passed over to the Board, making a total contribution of $557.00 during the year, notwithstanding which we have a bank balance of $674.05 to our credit at the present time.

Looking back over our year's work, one very successful feature was the functioning of the Hospital Clubs. In the fall of 1931, seven clubs were organized meeting once a week for bridge or sewing and paying the small sum of ten or fifteen cents per member. During the 1931-32 season the sum of $254.49 was raised in this way. Mrs. H. T. Warner's Sewing Club being higher than the sum of $78.24 to their credit, having actually cleared their earnings by a Fall Sale and the sale of articles made at their meetings. In the fall of 1932 the clubs were re-organized for the present season, six groups again meeting each week, with what we hope will prove to be as great success when the end of the season shows the complete returns.

Previous to 1932, one source of our revenue has been the sale and collection of the ladies of the town were solicited for fifty cent contributions, yielding approximately $100. As previously intimated, this year we adopted the calendar system in the majority of smaller hospitals in the Maritime Provinces, this supplanting the collections. Of the 200 calendars placed in homes in the town, it was inevitable that a certain proportion would be unfilled, but it is very gratifying to have receipts of $214.50 with a possibility of a small amount yet to come in.

METECHAN

Valerie Deveau, of Meteghan Station, was a recent visitor at Concession.

Misses Leonie Comeau and Marie Deveau, of Meteghan Centre, have returned to the Provincial Normal College, at Truro, to resume their studies.

Mrs. Denis Deveau recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Yarmouth General Hospital.

Sister Agnita, of Wedgeport, spent the holidays at Sacred Heart Convent.

WILL BE LEAVING WEYMOUTH

It will be a surprise for many to learn that the Rev. L. W. Mosher, who came to Weymouth two years ago, as Rector of the Church of England, will be leaving the parish on the first of September of this year. It is not definitely known where Mr. Mosher will locate, but it is thought that he will take up temporary residence in the United States.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Since trifles make the sum of human things,
And half our misery from foibles springs;
Since life's joys consist in peace and ease,
And few can save or serve, but all can please—
Oh, let the ungentle spirit learn from hence,
A small unkindness is a great offence.
Large bounties to bestow we wish in vain,
But all may shun the gift of giving pain.

He called to take out his fance
"What did your father say when you told him of our engagement?"
"Give it up, dear."
"Why, that's exactly what he did say," she burst out. "How ever did you know?"

Arm Numb With Rheumatism

WOMAN'S THANKS TO KRUSCHEN

"I have been suffering from rheumatism for years. At one time I could not walk with pain in my feet. The thumb of my left hand was so stiff I could only bend it with the aid of the right hand. I was afraid to go to bed as my right hand and arm up to the elbow used to go numb, and the pain was just terrible. I got the cure from Kruschen again. I started to take a half-teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast, and before I knew it I felt a different woman. I tell everyone what I take, and the good it has done me." (Mrs.) W. A. B. Kruschen contains six mineral salts which tone up the liver, kidneys and stomach—and keep them working smoothly and efficiently. The reward of this internal cleanliness is a fresher and invigorated blood-stream. Poisonous uric acid is expelled through the urinary channels, and the pains of rheumatism cease. And as you continue with Kruschen, your whole being—body and mind—responds to its purifying force.

Royal Bank of Canada Presents Strong Statement

Cash Assets 164 Million Dollars
"Canada Has Maintained Her Credit Unimpaired"

Sir Herbert Holt deals vigorously with Railway and other national problems. — Emphasizes need for Government Economy — Imperial Conference — Canadian Business Conditions — International Outlook.

Mr. M. W. Wilson reports on satisfactory years operations — Central Bank discussed — Measures needed for business recovery.

The Sixty-fourth Annual Meeting of the Royal Bank of Canada marked the close of a very successful year. The Statement submitted showed the Bank to be in a very strong financial position. Of the Total Assets of $765,512,929, the Liquid Assets amounted to as much as $355,929,915, and were equal to 46.38% of all Liabilities to the Public. An outstanding feature of the Liquid Assets was the large holding of Cash Assets, which reached a total of One Hundred and Sixty-Four Millions.

The Annual Meeting brought together a large number of shareholders, and was marked by interesting and instructive addresses by Sir Herbert Holt, the President, and Morris W. Wilson, Vice-President. Vigorous comment and suggestions as regards several of the outstanding domestic problems of Canada, and the able summary of the world economic situation and the prospects ahead; a strong plea for the amalgamation of the two Canadian railway systems, the only manner in which the grave Canadian railway situation can be solved; a plea for the provincial governments to conserve Canada's natural resources, and to prevent the collapse of the vitally important strong efforts being made to secure co-operation are not successful, and a condemnation of excessive governmental expenditure, featured the address of the president.

Sir Herbert said in part: "The power of resistance which this country has shown during the third year of the depression, and for congratulation. With no financial assistance from other countries, and with a small amount of re-financing, which was arranged on a strictly business basis, with currency depreciation in terms of gold to the extent of 25 per cent, and with none of the restrictions on foreign exchange or international trade which have been placed on Canada, we have managed to live up to the letter of our contracts and maintained her credit unimpaired. In doing so she has followed the path of the British Empire as a whole. It is no exaggeration to say that the stability and soundness of the Empire's banking institutions have played an important part in the creation of this good record."

Pointing out that the banking system in Canada adequately serves the needs of the country, he said that a Central Bank could perform a valuable service in the present system, and would not in any sense do away with the necessity of requiring adequate security for banking accommodation, nor permit banks to undertake long-term transactions instead of short-term advances for reproductive purposes. Recognizing that the question of central banking is not one to be disposed of summarily, he said: "It should be hoped that Parliament is called upon to deal with the matter, the Government will first have the project examined thoroughly by a body of experts, including several from older countries who have had experience in the practical working of a central bank, and that the reluctance to tinker with our financial machinery in a time like this."

On previous occasions we have stressed the importance of restoring the world price structure to approximately 1924-25 levels. I remarked last year that such action was essential if the present deflation is to be liquidated in an orderly manner, pointing out that deflation had been increased, and that anti-deflation measures were urgently required. Unfortunately, the world price level has fallen until the end of June, and the rise which commenced at that time has since been cancelled. The decline for the year as indicated by the United States Bureau of Labor Index will be approximately 7 per cent, which compares with 13 per cent in 1931 and 17 per cent in 1930. The best that can be said is that the rate of fall was appreciably less than in previous years.

The vital necessity for increasing prices is now commonly recognized, but the difficulty of countering deflation increases as the depression continues. We must hope that the forthcoming World Economic Conference will point the way to constructive action in this respect.

There is little inclination to indulge in prophecy as to the future. As Sir Herbert stated, there are indications of a gradual increase in stability throughout the world. This is particularly true in Europe, where conditions were anything but favorable a year ago. In the United States, the financial crisis is apparently over, and a return of greater confidence is in evidence. Many problems of business readjustment remain to be met, both abroad and in Canada, but real progress toward recovery has been made, and the prospect of further improvement in the coming year is much more hopeful than it was a year ago.

"I have full confidence in the character of our people and of our institutions, and without minimizing the importance of the problems that must be dealt with, I look to the future with increasing optimism."

Reviewing the Imperial Conference at Ottawa, Sir Herbert said that the material achievements at

Backache and Headache Quickly Disappeared

Says Prince Edward Island Man After Using Dodd's Kidney Pills

John McKee Suffered With His Kidneys For Over a Year.

Wool Island, P.E.I., Jan. 16, Special.

"I had been bothered with backache and headache for over a year," writes John McKee, a well-known resident of the place.

"I thought I would try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and am now glad I did. After using four boxes my backache and headache all disappeared. I always keep a box on hand. I give all kidney sufferers Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial."

The road to good health lies through the kidneys. If they are not well, all the impurities are strained out of the blood.

If they are weak and out of order the impurities stay in the blood and disease is the sure result.

Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys in good condition to do their work of cleaning and purifying the blood.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are excellent for Backache, Rheumatism, Bladder and Urinary Troubles.

High Strung Girls

Grateful Testimony to the Way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Tide Them Over Danger Period

WHAT ARE YOU HERE FOR?

If you've never made another have a happier time in life.

If you've never helped a brother through his struggle and his strife.

If you've never been a comfort to the weary and the worn.

Will you tell us what you're here for in this lovely land of morn?

If you've never made the pathway of some neighbor glow with sun.

If you've never brought a bubble to some fellow heart with fun.

If you've never cheered a toiler that you tried to help along.

Will you tell us what you're here for in this lovely land of song?

If you've never made a comrade feel the world a sweeter place.

Because you lived within it and had served it with your race.

If you've never heard a woman or a little child proclaim.

A blessing on your bounty—you're a poor hand at the game.

YOUR THOUGHTS

Think long of the loveliest thing you know.

Perhaps a smile on a dear old face.

A dim still wood where the violets grow.

Or a little child's unconscious grace.

Perhaps an hour from anyone's care.

An hour of time's rare sweets distilled.

Or the stranger loveliness of tears.

That flow when hopes have been fulfilled.

Think much of the happiest thing you know.

Because, with that happiness under.

Your life will gain a share in its glow.

You will greet the days in a joyous mood!

Think often of beauty and strength and peace.

In the night of these thoughts at last you will rise.

To claim all bondage a sure release.

To know that life's pattern is wholly wise!

—Aline Michaels.

George Nathan, the critic, was criticizing Victorian plays and books.

"These plays and books," he said, "pretend that all the people were as guileless then as the inhabitants of Digby."

"A native son came back to visit the old home town. He said to the druggist:

"I understand you have a 9 o'clock curfew law here?"

"No," said the druggist. "We did have, but we had to give her up. Too many complaints. When the curfew bell rang at 9 o'clock it woke up the whole town." —Philadelphia Bulletin.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:
Our work has gone steadily forward during the year. There has been no serious epidemic; the Nurse has had more time to spend on School and Educational Work; having regular office hours at the Clinic Room has helped to a great extent the welfare of the school children.
The Well Baby Clinics have been well attended. To my mind this is one of the greatest assets of the V. O. N., for a good start in life means so much for every baby, and I am sure, would the townspeople visit these Clinics they would enjoy the sight of the laughing healthy babies.
We have had 13 regular meetings with an average attendance of 13.

NURSE'S REPORT

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:
Before submitting my report I would like to read two messages, which appeared in "The News Letter" published by our Head Office this month. One is by The Honorable George P. Graham, President of the Victorian Order of Nurses, National Office, and the other by Miss Smellie, Chief Superintendent of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

My Dear Colleagues:
The days have flown, the months have passed, and we bid farewell to 1932. Looking backward, do we not experience a deep thrill and feel blessed beyond measure, in having been permitted to follow closely in the footsteps of Him who "went about doing good?"

In the knowledge that our mission is Heaven-sent and the reward beyond comprehension, let us face the coming year with joyous hope and unswerving confidence.

Sincerely,
George P. Graham, President.

"Three months ago as your representative and their guest I was sent by the Rockefeller Foundation to observe maternal welfare work as carried on in certain European centres and countries. Our National Executive was good enough to allow me leave of absence.

This proved to be a most stimulating and instructive opportunity, and I shall be glad, as opportunity offers, to tell you about it. Incidentally one was able to get a bird's eye view of public health development generally, and to learn something of the facilities provided for medical, hospital and convalescent care and of the various schemes of health insurance, voluntary and compulsory, adopted in each country. Everywhere are economic difficulties. In no country is the need for further development along public health lines minimized, although in the meantime only the most essential services can be maintained.

Many messages were sent from nurses abroad to their co-workers in Canada. Several I met had kind recollections of the International Meeting in Montreal and of Canadian hospitality. Others, again, through the Rockefeller Foundation, had had opportunity of post-graduate study and work in Canada. These without exception were most appreciative in their references to those who had directed their activities while here and to the staff workers in the different organizations who helped them day by day to grapple with their difficulties as regards language and customs in a new country. Consequently my path was made smooth, and the kindness showered upon me wherever I went will never be forgotten.

"A New Year's Greeting to all of you!"

"District work is never easy under the best of circumstances. We are acutely aware here of your individual difficulties, far more so than you realize. The past two years have added tremendously to the responsibilities of local associations and nurses. Never was our type of service so much needed or appreciated. Therefore, it is all the more necessary that workers be well, live reasonably, and have sufficient relaxation and recreation to face the daily grind cheerfully and effectively. Let us help you where we can."

This message is from the Chief Superintendent. I am sure you will agree with me that these are two very encouraging messages.

I beg to submit the twelfth annual report for the Digby Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

In 1932 there were 156 patients, classified as follows:—65 medical, 22 surgical, 2 communicable, 24 prenatal, 11 obstetrical (emergency), 23 infants of obstetrical cases, 3 postnatal and 5 infants of postnatal cases. 1 Health Instruction.

Nationalities—154 Canadians (English speaking) and 2 Canadians (French speaking).
Religions—127 Protestants, 27 Roman Catholics, 2 Hebrews.

Visits:
There were 88 to prenatals, 205 obstetrical (these include visits made during confinement), 88 infants of obstetrical cases, 84 postnatals, 80 infants of postnatal cases, 4 Tuberculosis, 2 communicable, 2 cancer, 4 chronic, 344 to others. Total nursing visits 1,061.

Non-Nursing Instructional Visits:
Clinics and classes 246, school inspection 88, home school 159, child welfare 379, instructive 127 (including 15 Tuberculosis), on behalf of patients 331, to patients not seen 16. Grand total of visits made, 2250.

There were 137 free bedside visits given, 5 of these being free confinements. This year we had 56 more emergency visits than in 1931. 20 confinements attended; 11 were emergency obstetrical; 8 of these were cases out of town and the nurse was only present at the time of confinement, being taken there by the doctor. Emergency obstetrical cases are cases that are not reported to us until the time of confinement.

13 operations were attended, the majority of these being patients taken to the hospital by the nurse. We are thankful to say that there has not been as much illness in town this year and no epidemics. Last year we had 34 prenatals in comparison with 24 this year, and visits made to the mothers before the baby arrives and after the mother is out of bed are counted as nursing visits.

Comparing the nursing visits with last year—

	1931	1932
Prenatals	162	88
Obstetricals	242	205
(This includes visits during confinement)
Infants of Obs.	194	88
Postnatals	151	84
Infants of Postnatals	136	80
Tuberculosis	11	4
Communicable	17	2
Cancers and Chronic	43	6
All Others	340	244
	1296	901

This makes a difference of 395 less nursing visits in 1932 than in 1931.

Fees:
Patients for Delivery Service $ 35.50
Patients for all other Services 215.83
Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. 215.83

Total $311.05

The fees are considerably less than in last year, $185.79, $425.27 this amount was from patients. Comparing the dismissed cases with last year, this will show where some of the difference may be found:
In 1932 22 cases were dismissed as full paid—47 this year.
In 1931 21 cases were dismissed as part paid—27 this year.
In 1931 26 cases were dismissed as free—46 this year.

It was with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. where we had the greatest difference, $142.22 less than in the previous year. Although there were only 137 less visits made to Metropolitan policy holders 78 of these were to infants of policy holders for which the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. allowed us 25 cents a visit. Also in 1931 for the first six months we received 97 cents a visit instead of 75 cents from policy holders. This year we collected the straight 75 cents. In a few cases the patients we have nursed in previous years, collecting from the Metropolitan for nursing fees, this year their policies have lapsed and cases were dismissed as part paid and in some as free.

Prenatal Work

We endeavour to impress on these visits to the expectant mother, the importance of early and frequent visits to her physician, especially if when making our first visit we find she has not already seen him; we also teach the safe-guarding of her own health, and in so doing, that of her baby, by proper diet, personal hygiene and the proper preparation for confinement, if she is to remain at home. Unfortunately a number of expected mothers are not reported to us; these visits mean so much to them, especially with the new mothers-to-be, and as the service is absolutely free, it is a pity it is not used more. We are only too willing and happy to assist any expected mother, regardless of where she is to be confined. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company consider these visits of such value that they allow us seventy-five cents a month for each of their policy holders.

We are pleased to report that we did not have a maternal or infant's death under one month, during the year.

Postnatal Work
Postnatal visits are visits made to patients who have been confined at home or in the hospital, and are usually made after the patient is out of bed. At these visits we check up on the mother's condition, weigh the baby and instruct the mother as to the proper care of her infant, and assist with its feeding under the physician's directions. These visits are usually made until the infant is six weeks old, or until the mother is able to bring the baby to the Well Baby Clinic.

Babies under one year of age are called once or twice monthly at conferences and by their progress. There were 379 of these visits made this year.

Well Baby Clinic

Our Well Baby Clinics or rather Mothers' Conferences, as we unfortunately haven't a doctor in attendance, were well attended this year, taking into consideration the number of wet and stormy days we had. There were 39 of these conferences held with a total attendance of 431, an average of 11. There were 7 babies referred to own physician, 8 Group Talks to mothers, 192 consultations with the nurse. These consultations may be due to anything from an infant's feeding to the cause of one biting its finger nails.

Mrs. Walker has been very faithful in assisting me at these weekly conferences and when unable to come, which did not occur often, Miss Louise Daley very kindly took charge of the refreshments. To both these ladies I would like to extend my sincere appreciation and to all who sent refreshments to the clinic through the year.

On December 15th, in the Council Chamber, which was decorated for the occasion, the Christmas tree for the babies and small kiddies who attend our clinic, was held. After the majority of the babies had been weighed and refreshments had been served by members of the committee, Santa Claus' bells were heard outside, and the next thing we knew he had climbed in the window, and after greeting the kiddies, he assisted with the gifts from the heavily laden Christmas tree. There was a gift for the kiddies under two years, and the older ones received an orange and candy.

There were sixty-three babies and kiddies present and a number of the committee and friends of the Order, among them His Worship the Mayor and Mr. Boden, who both spoke very encouragingly of our work. I know we not only made the kiddies happy at this time, but their mothers as well, as all gifts were appreciated.

To everyone who contributed and assisted at this happy function, I am very grateful.

Your liver's a very small organ, but it certainly can put your digestive and eliminative organs in a state of disrepair. It takes only a few drops of liquid bile to put the liver into a state of disrepair. more time to the school work, but also more regular hours, when the teachers and pupils know when and where to find the nurse. These hours have been kept twice daily since September at the V. O. N. room in the Court House, when the work on the district permitted.

There were 86 visits made to the school, 2133 individual inspections, 559 pupils weighed, nearly all the pupils have been weighed and measured twice this year. 38 defects corrected (this includes teeth, removal of tonsils, defective eyesight corrected, and a large number of pupils had gained and were up to the normal weight for their age and height), 196 minor treatments given, 88 referred to their family physician, 20 referred to Health Officer, 3 excluded for minor skin diseases, 159 home school visits made, 26 Health Talks given, 136 visits made, in connection with school work.

Although it is not the regular work of the Medical Health Officer, Dr. McCleave examined all of the pupils from grades one to eight at the Court House, last spring. All pupils were weighed and measured by the nurse and the doctor gave as thorough physical examination as time permitted. Afterwards notices were sent to the parents and 81 pupils were referred to their family physician.

Particular notice was given to the underweight pupils. Twenty of these with the consent of their family physician. were referred to and examined at Dr. McFetich's chest clinic, which was held at the Court House in June. 5 were advised to be re-examined, and one was advised to take the rest cure at home for a year.

TWELFTH ANNUAL MEETING DIGBY BRANCH VICTORIAN ORDER OF NURSES

Two Dental Surveys were held. Dr. Turnbull and MacGregor examined 159 pupils, and afterwards a Dental Clinic was held on December 14th, when Dr. Turnbull very kindly gave his services and 9 underprivileged pupils had decayed teeth extracted.

In August 4 underprivileged pupils were taken to Dr. Phinney, the Eye Specialist, in Yarmouth, by the nurse; the Kiwanis Club provided transportation and the Junior Red Cross paid for the glasses. Six underprivileged children had their tonsils and adenoids removed, 5 of these were school children. The donors gave their services and the Kiwanis Club paid the Hospital expenses.

5 pupils received dental work through the kindness of the School Board.

The Kiwanis Club supplied rims of glasses for an underprivileged pupil. The local branch of the Red Cross replaced a pair of glasses for an underprivileged pupil.

Milk was supplied to 24 underprivileged pupils from January 1st to May 31st, with funds from the sale of the Tuberculosis Christmas Seals. The School Board realized the benefit of this plan of work and began the 1st of December, they are supplying 28 underprivileged pupils with milk at recess.

Classes: One Mothercraft Class of eight girls that was organized in a small class, after completing their lectures, which included several cooking lessons by Miss Blair, of the Department of Agriculture, received their diplomas. A class of eight girls put on a Health House Tea Party, which was like its name, a house made of good nourishing food such as a young growing child requires, a prize for the best essay, written on the work, was given. The course was read by the winner, Audrey Holdsworth (and which I hope you will have the opportunity of hearing tonight). The rest of the class were presented with a copy of "Evanescence". An admission fee was charged at this affair and with the proceeds, minus the expenses, a cupboard was bought for the clinic room.

Another Mothercraft Class of eleven girls was organized in September. This class assisted with the sale of the Tuberculosis Christmas Seals.

A small class of three girls, who would not have the opportunity at home, received several lectures in Personal Hygiene and Sewing. A sewing class of ten girls was organized in the fall with Miss Blair in charge, and the same sewing class is now in the summer to have an exhibit of the work of this class.

In the month of December the Order took charge of the sale of the Tuberculosis Christmas Seals. This sale proved a great success, and the total amount collected was $100.67.

I wish to express my heartfelt appreciation to all who contributed so generously to the success of the year, who typed the circular letters; also the collectors who assisted me.

Dr. McFetich, Tuberculosis specialist, held three clinics at the Court House during the year, and 24 patients were examined.

Dr. Acker, Orthopedic Specialist, of Halifax, held a clinic here on May 24th, when 3 patients were examined.

Dr. Hayes, of the Tuberculosis Association of Halifax, was here in January and November, in regard to the sale of the Tuberculosis Christmas Seals.

Miss Dawson, Eastern Supervisor for the Victorian Order of Nurses, visited this district in April and December. Both these visits were very helpful and stimulating.

In closing I would like to take the opportunity of thanking the medical men, especially the Medical Health Officer, for assistance with the school work; the dentists for services given; the Kiwanis School Board and teachers, for their splendid co-operation and assistance to officers and members of the Victorian Order, the Supply Committee, under the capable direction of Mrs. T. H. Lockward, for their hearty co-operation, and to all who have assisted with our work in any way during the year.

Respectfully submitted, Charlotte Gulliver Sturgeon, Nurse.

SUPPLY COMMITTEE'S REPORT

Obituary

George Tuttle Cooke

Word has been received here of the death of George Tuttle Cooke, of Ethelton, Sask., formerly of Westmouth, deceased, who was 75 years of age, is survived by nine children, two of whom, Mrs. A. L. Thurber and Mrs. Willis Cosman, reside at Westmouth North.

Lewis F. Cossitt

Lewis F. Cossitt, of Centreville, died suddenly at his home there on Sunday last. He was a son of the late William and Eleanor Cossitt, of Smith's Cove, and was born in that village 55 years ago. He leaves to mourn their loss, his widow, four sons, Murray, Delmar and Kenneth, in Centreville; and Ambrose, in Windsor; and five daughters, Mrs. Boyd Wentzell, Rosaway; Mrs. Harold Mount, Digby; and Misses Lottie, Adrienne and Rowena, at home; besides eight sisters and two brothers. The funeral took place on Tuesday, Interment was in the Lake Midway cemetery, and A. C. Stewart, of Halifax, officiated.

Mrs. E. S. Duff

On January 11th, at her home in Smith's Cove, Digby County, where she resided with her daughter, Mrs. J. P. MacNaughton, there passed away after a short illness, Mrs. Elizabeth Suberlin Duff, at the age of 97 years. She was a native of Pictou County and had resided at Smith's Cove about four years, where she was well known and much beloved. After a service at her home conducted by Rev. E. W. Forbes, of the United Church, the body was taken to Auburn cemetery, Westville, Pictou County, where interment took place on January 13th. The service was conducted by Rev. Roy Stewart, of the Presbyterian Church, of which church the deceased was a life-long member.

SURPRISE PARTY GIVEN AT CENTRAL GROVE

On Tuesday evening last a surprise party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tibert, at Central Grove, in honor of their daughter, Margaret, who left on Thursday to enter the training course at Yarmouth.

Miss Margaret was completely surprised to find the house filled with her friends when she was driven home from the house where she was visiting, on some pretended mission, and the evening was very pleasantly passed in games and singing. Of special interest were the selections given by a quartette from Presport, Reynolds, Haines, Sheehan and Harold Tidd and Aubrey Elliott. Before the party ended Margaret was presented with several beautiful little gifts. She will be greatly missed in the community, for she was a leader in all the activities and one of the most popular young people on the island.

We have been obliged to hold over a large amount of country correspondence. This will be published in our next issue.

women's hats, caps, 2 dresses, 7 blouses, nightgowns, shoes, overshoes, 27 suits underwear, material for clothing, 25 yards flannel, 21 men's dresses, 24 shirts, 24 scarves, pyjamas, men's suits, boys' suits, dishes, household furnishings, pillows, mattresses, sheets, quilts, 27 blankets, old linen, rubber sheeting, 2000s, 3000s, 4000s, 5000s.

Baby blankets, baby shawls, woolen bands, rompers, bibs, 25 pairs booties, baby bonnets, baby stockings, dresses, sweaters and jackets.

Men's and women's clothing supplied to destitute inmates of jail.

Sum of $131.82 expended on milk for underprivileged children.

The last item—milk for underprivileged children, is probably the most important; we all know the greatest asset of any Nation is its children, and the care given to the children of today determines what the next adult generation will be.

The child who suffers from lack of quantity or quality in his food is permanently scarred. It is, therefore, our duty to see that no child is even temporarily deprived of his proper food.

In child welfare work and in health education, the public health nurse has been, and still is the most important factor. She is a health teacher in the home, the school and in the clinic. As Canadians we recognize the need of a sturdy, healthy population. We must consider health in a national way, and do our utmost to see that all Canadians have the benefit of scientific knowledge, which will tend to make their lives healthy and efficient.

In closing this report, we would like to emphasize the personal pleasure it has been to work with this Committee. If the little work we have done has brought joy to others, we feel satisfied of our accomplishment, as we have helped in a certain way to brighten the lives of less fortunate ones.

Respectfully submitted, E. S. Duff, R. Lockward, Convener of Supply Com.

A TEA THAT FORGED AHEAD

The firm of J. E. Morse & Company in the tea business has attracted much attention not being distracted to various other lines of merchandise they have been able to give tea exclusive attention; and having been at it now for sixty-two years they have acquired a knowledge of the tea trade in general and such a particular knowledge of the tea tastes of Maritime tea drinkers, that they have been able to blend teas that exactly click with the critical tastes of this the most critical tea-drinking public on this continent. In view of this fact and the unrivalled purchasing facilities this firm have acquired in the producing countries, it is not surprising that the teas that MOHSE'S TEAS enjoy the prestige they do to-day in the Maritime Provinces. The newest member of the MOHSE'S TEA group, MOHSE'S BLUEBERRY TEA, has made enormous strides in public favor. In the past year its sales steadily rose. At the popular price of 35 cents per pound package it is especially suited to the needs of these times for as it is so good it has also the full flavor and full body in the cup so much prized in the Maritimes.

ORDINATION OF DEACONS

On Sunday, January 1st, Charles Height and Hugh Denton were ordained as Deacons of the Little River Baptist Church, and on Thursday, January 12th, Kenneth Carly was ordained as Deacon of the Sandy Cove Baptist Church. The pastor, Rev. C. L. Chute, was in charge of these services, addressing the church and the candidates in each case, while Rev. I. D. Harvey offered the ordaining prayer. Rev. J. T. Dimock, of Centreville, preached the sermon at the ordination of Mr. Carly. The spiritual growth of these churches during the past year has been very encouraging.

"JESUS AND THE SABBATH"

Golden Text:—"The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath: Therefore the Son of man is Lord also of the Sabbath."—Mark 2: 27, 28.

Lesson Passage:—Mark 2: 23 to 3: 6

This is the day of rest:
Our failing strength renewed;
On weary brain and troubled breast
Shed Thou Thy freshening dew.

This is the day of peace:
Thy peace our spirits fill;
Bid Thou the blasts of discord cease
The waves of strife be still.

This is the day of prayer:
Let earth to heaven draw near;
Lift up our hearts to seek Thee there,
Come down to meet us here.

Two Points of View, 23, 24

Jesus had the disciples of Jesus have a different standard of sabbath observance than the Pharisees? They had all been trained in the same faith and knew the fourth commandment. Yet the disciples felt free to pluck some ears of corn as they went through the corn fields on the sabbath day, while the Pharisees were scandalized at this action, and asked, "Why do they on the sabbath day that which is not lawful?" The Pharisees had been brought up in a school of strict tradition. They had exalted the sabbath laws until the sabbath had become a fetish—a burden instead of a delight. Such small details were emphasized, wearing nails in boots or carrying a chair to sit down. The disciples had shared the liberating influence of the thought of Jesus, and they had no hesitation in eating some grain as they passed through the field.

Human Welfare First, 25, 26

Jesus came to the defence of his disciples. He did not at first argue the case on its merits, but quoted an instance where Jesus had authority to the Pharisees. He recalled that David in extreme hunger had gone in the Temple and eaten the shewbread. Jesus did not counsel this as a regular habit, but he quoted this example to show that it was lawful as an emergency measure. Human need comes before ritual observance. There was a measure of humor in the situation as the Pharisees would see the implication that they were more scrupulous in their observance of the sabbath than David, their nation's great king.

The Law of Liberty, 27

Few words have been so decisive and epoch-making in the realm of morals and religion as this declaration of Jesus, "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath." It has been pointed out that whereas the teaching of Jesus made the keeping of all other commandments more difficult, his teaching makes the observance of this commandment easier. Outwardly this is true. He released his followers from the petty details of rabbinical laws of sabbath observance but at the same time he has made the keeping of the day of rest a positive rather than a negative thing. We are to judge our Sundays not by what we do not do, but by what we do. Idleness, gossip and self-righteousness may make a Sunday harmless quite as much as games, pleasure and travel. The test is do our Sundays make us stronger morally and spiritually? Sunday should not be a vacuum. It should be the best day in the whole week because of family fellowship, private meditation, public worship and high-minded purposes.

There is a story of a missionary who told the Indians under his care that their corn would not grow if they planted it on Sunday. They did the natural thing and defied the missionary by planting one acre of corn on Sunday and hoeing it every Sunday throughout the season. Because of the extra work done upon this acre the yield of corn was greater than anywhere else on the reserve, and the Indians refused to go to church or listen to the missionary. The real test, of course, should not have been the ground but the hoe. What does Sunday do for people? If it leaves them fagged, dispirited, weaker in moral fibre—they have not used Sunday aright. If it has made them feel that life is a wonderful opportunity, that heaven lies about us while on earth, that God is our great companion, that love is the secret of right living, then the Sunday has been wisely used. The Sabbath was made for man.

The Lord's Day, 28

People who observe the weekly rest day as Sunday merely may get mental and physical benefit, even though the word Sunday comes from ancient mythology. But those who regard the weekly rest day as the Lord's Day find it filled with a larger meaning. It is a day which commemorates the resurrection of Christ, a day in which Christians meet with their ever-living Lord. Christians have sought to express their appreciation of the Lord's Day by singing, "This is the day of light," "Hail, thou bright and sacred morning," "Oh day of rest and gladness," "Behold we come, dear Lord, to thee," "Jesus Christ is risen to-day." Never does the day of rest become so much our day as when we observe it as the Lord's Day.

What Caused the Plot? 1-6

The Sabbath controversy was soon resumed in a new form. In the synagogue on the Sabbath Jesus healed a man with a withered hand. Perhaps the scribes and Pharisees might have been excused for criticizing the disciples when they harvested corn on the Sabbath, even in a small way and for their own personal needs, but only the hard of heart could find fault with Jesus for healing a man with a useless hand. Jesus asked them, "Is it lawful to do good on the Sabbath day, or to do evil? To save life, or to kill?" This controversy about the sabbath was no trifling matter. It caused such hostility to Jesus that the Pharisees plotted how they might destroy him. To us it seems that they had less of a desire to transgress the sixth commandment than the fourth.

Questions for Discussion:

1. Do you plan how you will spend Sunday or leave the matter to chance?
2. How has the motor car affected the observance of the Lord's Day?
3. Is the Lord's Day Act of Canada enforced as strictly as other laws?
4. How may you get the most good from Sunday?
5. How may you do the most good on Sunday?

Always Tired, Sluggish

Mrs. Hartwell's Run-Down Health Restored by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, She States

"I have derived great benefit from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," writes Mrs. Lorne Hartwell, Osnaburgh, N. S. "My health got poor; indigestion followed, and I was nervous and irritable. My heart was also bad. I got up in the morning more tired than when I went to bed. My weight was reduced, my ambition shattered, my memory uncertain. I was unable to do my housework and I was so discouraged that life was a burden. A friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. While taking the first box my appetite revived. The daily use of the Pills for a time restored my health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills earn high praise from benefited users because they actually rebuild health by enriching the blood. Nervous, run-down conditions yield to their blood-building properties. Young girls are wonderfully helped in their growth and development. At your druggist's in the new protective glass vials. Try them. 50c. package.

Obituary

Mrs. Decker McCormick

The passing peacefully away at an early hour on Sunday morning last of Mrs. Decker McCormick, came as a great shock to her husband, family and many friends. The deceased was formerly Mary Jane Cameron, of Antigonish. Her early part of her life was spent in the United States. She was early married to the late Augustus Wentzell of this place, who predeceased her many years ago. By this union were born daughter, now Mrs. Roy Snell, of Morganville and Mrs. Chas. D'Armond, of Melrose, Mass.; and one son, Otis, now of Manitoba; two sisters in Massachusetts also survive. Her husband died in 1905. The funeral services in charge of Wm. Ramsay, and conducted by Rev. Mr. Steeves, of the Baptist Church, took place on Tuesday afternoon, with interment in Mount Hope cemetery. There were many floral tributes. She will be greatly missed by all who knew her as well as by her immediate family, to whom the deep sympathy of the community is extended.

Delicate Baby

"For a delicate Baby there is nothing better than BABY'S OWN TABLETS," says Dr. Harry Baker, Lunenburg, N.S. "My advice to every Mother of delicate children is to give them BABY'S OWN TABLETS, and note how quickly the Babies will gain." Mrs. Baker, like many other Mothers, has found that BABY'S OWN TABLETS sweeten children's stomachs, correct intestinal disorders and make everything easy. These Tablets are of guaranteed safety and purity. The certificate of analysis in each 25-cent package.

1932 REPORT OF WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF THE UNITED CHURCH

The Women's Missionary Society of the United Church have held eleven regular meetings during the year.

Our programmes have been interesting and helpful. The Study Book has been taken up during the year, a member taking the study of one chapter for each meeting.

One meeting was given over to the Temperance Secretary, a splendid programme given along Temperance lines, and one meeting was in charge of Christian Fellowship.

In January our delegates, Mrs. H. Harris and Mrs. T. H. Davidson attended Presbyterial at Middleton and brought back splendid reports of the proceedings.

World Day of Prayer was observed in the Baptist Church and was well attended by members of the different congregations.

The Annual Thank-Offering meeting and Mile Box Meetings were held during the year.

Our Society sent a large box of warm clothing to the New Aberdeen Mission at Sydney. Also Christmas greeting cards were sent to all absent members and shut-ins, and one hundred and forty-two calls have been made by the Society on the sick during the year.

Our activities for earning money have included: an afternoon tea at the home of Mrs. Harry Harris; a pageant entitled, "Sunrise in the Garden" given in the church at Easter, and a pantry sale held in October. We have forwarded to our Presbyterial treasurer, ninety-two dollars; also Branch Fund of two dollars, making a total of ninety-four dollars earned by the Society for Missions.

One of our well loved members has passed away during the year—Miss Frances Boyle. Another very generous friend of the W. M. S. and beloved by members of the congregation has been called to higher service—Mr. Wilbur Ryerson.

The President and members have worked together to try and do the Master's work in the carrying on of mission work.

Respectfully submitted,
Lillian Morine.

HIGHEST CREAM PRICES

Our returns for December Cream was 20½ cents per pound butter fat. It is the average price for the month that counts and not the price for any one week.

Yarmouth Creamery

"BUT YOU ARE ASKING FOR A MIRACLE!" SAID DODGE ENGINEERS
"THEN GIVE ME ONE!" WALTER P. CHRYSLER REPLIED

AND SO THE NEW DODGE WAS BORN

A "Miracle Car" if there ever was one! —$730

Only the combined creative genius of Walter P. Chrysler and the Dodge Organization could have built this big New Dodge Six at such a price

NO ONE had dared dream of it before! Even Dodge engineers thought Mr. Chrysler was asking for a miracle.

The New Dodge "DQ" Six must embody every feature for which Dodge cars are famous... Floating Power engine mountings... Hydraulic Brakes... Mono-piece steel bodies... Double-drop bridge-type frame... Free wheeling... everything... not a thing omitted... Many new, startling improvements added—and sell for as low as $730!

That said it just couldn't be done—BUT—IT WAS DONE. Only the combined genius of Walter P. Chrysler and the great Dodge organization made this seeming miracle possible.

A car so big—so roomy and comfortable, with such luxurious appointments! Yet priced right down among the lowest priced cars.

Wait until you drive it! You've never known anything like it! Speed... go... getaway! Push her to 60—70—80—90. Smooth all the way. No vibration. That's the result of Floating Power engine mountings.

Relax! There's no rattling, no noise. The gears are silent in every speed, including reverse. Springs squeak—they're special "Oilite" springs.

And what a relief you feel in the super-safety of the new Dodge Six, with its Mono-piece steel body. No wood, no glue, no joints to loosen. Duplicate safety plate glass windshield—non-glare, shatterproof. Low centre of gravity. And hydraulic brakes with centrifugal drums.

If you want to see real VALUE, then see this new Dodge Six. Imagine the thrill of making it yours for so little.

PRaises "G. R. T."

The articles written by "G. R. T." each week for the Weymouth Gazette, are also re-printed in the Digby Courier, copies of which, every week reach the desk of "I. C. R.", the well-known writer in the Halifax Herald. In "I. C. R.'s" article in Saturday's Herald, he reprinted part of "G. R. T.'s" article published in the Digby Courier. Now, the Digby Courier is a fine town and County paper and I read it with relish every week. Of late I have been enjoying a series of articles therein written by one "G. R. T.", and dated from Richmond, California, and believe me, they are worth while. Last week's letter dealt with Digby County shipping, that is, the Weymouth part of it, for the letters all deal with Weymouth, and I only wish I could reproduce that letter in its entirety, for I know the old salts who read this would be delighted to have it."

SENTENCE SERMONS

By Rev. Roy L. Smith.

The Biggest Problem--

—Of any government is to find a tax no one objects to paying.
—Of a home is to keep the authority in the right hands.
—Of a town is to raise the average of the undesirable citizens.
—Of a school is to train youth to love the truth.
—Of any congregation is to find some willing to accept responsibility.
—Of a highway is the driver who thinks of it as a speedway.

MOuntain CHILDREN GET WINTER VACATIONS

Vacation time comes in the winter months for five hundred school pupils of Pennsylvania. These are the boys and girls living in the mountainous regions, shut off entirely in their homes during the most severe periods of the winter. In these districts school is conducted in the spring and summer, with the period from Thanksgiving to April observed as "vacation."

WARDEN OF CLARE PROUD OF SHOWING

At the closing of the Municipal Council of Clare, Warden Charles L. Deveau, Salmon River, expressed satisfaction at the fine showing made. He is of the opinion that although business is quiet and prices obtainable for products of the country are low, a real sign of improvement is visible in every line of the country's activities. He advised severe retrenchments in the expenditures of the municipality and advocated economy in every branch of the municipal services, as was suggested by the council.

carefully followed up last year. Mr. Deveau states that Clare Municipality is $5000 ahead, over and above. The costs of almshouses have been reduced from $2.33 to $1.91 per person. Aid to children was reduced $100 and rates for taxes maintained at $3.10.

DANGER IS SEEN IN SAND BAR ACCUMULATING AT CHURCH POINT

A huge pile of gravel and sand have accumulated at the entrance of Church Point wharf rendering navigation extremely precarious. Unless taking a pilot any vessel drawing more than six feet will strand on that newly formed bar if trying to get to the wharf. Last summer a similar bar was removed, but, owing to the conditions of the breakwater which fills now to divert gravel it is probable that every year the same obstruction will reappear.

As a winter port on St. Mary's Bay, Church Point is the only one where a vessel drawing fourteen or fifteen feet of water can find a good shelter, either in a gale or for wintering purposes.

DR. E. V. HOGAN IS DEAD AFTER YEARS' ILLNESS

Had Distinguished War Record with Dalhousie Hospital Unit Winning Honor for Services

There passed away Friday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at Camp Hill Hospital, Dr. E. V. Hogan, one of the best known surgeons in the city of Halifax. Dr. Hogan, who resided at 109 College Street, had many friends in the city, who will hear with sorrow of his passing.

Outstanding Surgeon

Dr. Edward Vincent Hogan was very well known throughout Canada both professionally and personally. His surgical skill was of the best, and he was one of the best surgeons who ever practised in the City of Halifax as regards to surgical diagnosis. He knew when it was in the best interests of the patient to operate; his many successful operations testifying to this. His fellow surgeons felt that his place will be hard to fill.

During his last illness his true character came to the fore. Although he was sick for almost a year he bore his affliction cheerfully and uncomplainingly, and he was always glad to see visitors. Dr. Hogan suffered from a bad heart condition for a long time, and although this was always a great handicap to him he never complained about it.

Born in Weymouth

Dr. E. V. Hogan was born 59 years ago, in 1874, in the town of Weymouth, the son of Edward Hogan, Digby County. He was educated in the public schools of Weymouth, and later studied at Saint Francis Xavier University, where he obtained his Bachelor of Arts degree. He graduated from McGill University in medicine, in 1896, and in 1898 he did post graduate work in medicine, in London, England. He then came to Halifax and was ship's surgeon on the Mackay Bennett, a Western Union Cable ship, for several years.

Dr. Hogan married Miss Margaret Carney, a daughter of the late Michael Carney, of Halifax, in 1905. She died six years later in 1911. In 1920 he married Elizabeth Doyle, the widow of Dr. Joseph Doyle, of Halifax. Mrs. Hogan survives her husband. He is also survived by two sons, Louis Richardson, at home, and William Vincent, who graduated from Dalhousie Dental School last year, and who is now a house surgeon in New York, and by two stepsons, Paul and Allan Doyle. Another son, Frederick died about a year ago.

Dr. Hogan was a sincere Roman Catholic. He was a member of the committee of the Halifax Club. An ardent fisherman and hunter he had a bungalow on Minerva, where he used to go for the salmon fishing. He was one of the organizers of a hunting and fishing lodge in Petite Riviere, along with several other well known local doctors. Dr. Hogan was also known to be a very enthusiastic bridge player and his friends enjoyed his companionship in many a friendly rubber of bridge.

THE SKATERS

By L. Weldon Mosher.

Across the glassy surfaced pond, Our sharpened blades wing fast to night; As twenty million stars on high Shed forth their twinkling mellow light.

The pointed spruces stand in line A stately Gothic spired sight; Arrayed as sentinels in mass To guard the skaters in their flight.

A falling moon with fitful light, Reveals the skaters passing by In twos and threes; like darting rays Of fire light on ceilings high.

The night is cold yet youth feels not, But revels in its youthful feats. Of litheness, and magnetism, Designed with Mercury's winged feet.

THE GOOD OLD FAMILY TEA

Teas may come and teas may go, but MORSE'S STANDARD TEA, "the good old family tea of the Maritimes," maintains its place in the affection of Maritime tea consumers.

There are good reasons for this. In sixty-two years of constant attention to the tea producing areas of Maritime families, J. E. Morse & Company have learned fully what most exactly suits the critical tastes of Maritime tea consumers; and having established the most ample buying connections they are able, not only to buy most economical teas, but to secure most nearly the teas that are needed to maintain the MORSE'S Standard quality.

This tea is a full cup of fine flavored, full-bodied tea to the pound, so that at its present price the net cost to the consumer is hardly more than five cents for each pound.

It is not possible to get a cheaper beverage than this, apart from cold water, nor can a more satisfying beverage for the moment be found anywhere.

The Y. M. W. League met at the home of Mrs. J. Sherman Thibault, North Range, on January 17th.

A large number were present. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, after which games were played.

JOHN JEDREY SHOT

fore, and have always got the best of me, but you will do so no longer," at the same moment pulling a revolver from his pocket, he shot Jedrey in the breast, killing him instantly. During the confusion which followed, Hatfield rushed through the door, and a few minutes after burst into the kitchen of his foster mother, Mrs. Marie Robichaud, and said to have cried out, "I have shot John."

Meanwhile, the priest, doctor and R. C. M. P. officers were summoned, only to find the victim of the tragedy dead and the slayer gone, but, before any action could be taken, however, Hatfield surprised the company by returning in their hands. He was immediately placed under arrest by constables Charles D'On and James Palmer, and incarcerated in the jail at Little Brook, but was removed to the Digby jail Wednesday by the local officers of the R. C. M. P., where he awaits hearing on February 2nd.

Albert Hatfield, age 17, an orphan at four years of age, born in Yarmouth, was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LeBlanc, of St. Alphonse de Clare. At his baptism, after his legal adoption, he was given the name of LeBlanc, and until the death of his foster parents, was regarded by them as a son. After their death he made his home with Mrs. Marie Robichaud, a sister of his foster mother.

John Jedrey, the victim, was 24 years of age, and is survived by his mother, four sisters, Mrs. Harold Dunbar, of Skowhegan, Me.; Mary, Marguerite and Lillian, at home; four brothers, James and Joseph, residing in Aylesford; Edmund and Arthur, at home; he was the sole support of the family.

CENTREVILLE'S OPEN AIR RINK
NEARING COMPLETION

An open air skating rink, built at Centreville, is now about completed. The rink is a high board enclosure 171 feet by 71 feet, equipped with dressing room and electric lights; the surface has been levelled and rolled and a well to provide water for flooding, dug nearby.

The work, to a large extent, has been done by the boys of the Hockey Team, who have also had the co-operation of the young men of the locality, as well as the assistance of the farmers with their teams. Much credit is also due Ernest Shaw, Fred Graham and J. Wagoner, who have given generously of time and labor in order to hasten the completion of the work.

From the inception of the enterprise, C. R. Morton, who believes in wholesome sport for the boys, has been indefatigable in his efforts to make the project a success and has enlisted the interest of outside parties, who have made substantial donations towards the work. T. M. Avery & Sons donated electric light fixtures; Emmerson and Fisher gave 100 feet rubber hose with fittings; Fred Graham and J. Wagoner contributed material; W. H. Thorne & Co., Irving Oil Company, T. H. Estabrooks, Willet Fruit Co., Ganong Bros. and George Weston, Funnell and Varnish Co., Montreal; W. L. Harding, Yarmouth, and Mr. Smith, The Imperial Tobacco Co., Halifax. Cecil Dakin, of Centreville, gave 1,000 feet of lumber with the trucking, and also the truckage of another 1,000 feet. Added to this generous assistance, were a number of cash donations from travellers, and the proceeds of several benefit socials held in the community.

The Centreville team was organized last winter and made a good showing at their initial season, before their own team, and other teams, and in a number of instances, winning victories over teams composed of seasoned players.

Firemen's Card Social
Was a Success

The Firemen's card social held at the Court House on Tuesday evening was a great success, the sum of $31.50 being realized. The ladies' prize, donated by O. Wright, was won by Mrs. Cecil Dakin. The men's prize, donated by A. A. Shortliffe, was won by David Daley. The consolation prize, donated by J. F. Hillman, was won by Jack Ken. The door prize, a bag of flour, donated by A. P. Turnbull, was won by J. F. Millberry, who redeavored same to the Fire Company; it was later sent to the Digby General Hospital. Some time ago the Fire Company had collected canvassing the town for funds with which to purchase uniforms, and the sum of $40.00 was collected and deposited in the bank. The proceeds from these socials sponsored by the Firemen will be used for the same purpose. At the conclusion of the evening the delicious refreshments were served. The Fire Company wish to thank all who helped to make this social the success it was. The next social will be held at the Court House on February 16th, at 8 p. m.

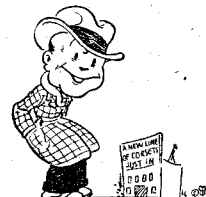

RAZOR CLAIMS SAID TO BE

Razor claims are said to be quite numerous in local flats this winter. Since they have been but little market value the clamblers usually pass them by. However, the razor has a few friends who consider them quite a delicacy. When obtained properly, the shells open as do the ordinary clam. The meat is but a small nub, but pleasant in flavor, it is said. Digging razor claims requires all the skill of the clam-diggers' art, say those who have had the experience. Unlike other shellfish, the "razor" is never caught netting and before capture will invariably give the digger a merry chase. Like a mouse lying close to his hole, the razor clam lies close to the surface of the mud, but at the first sign of attack, goes into reverse, and like a worm, draws backward into his hole so fast that no ordinary digger can keep him in sight, let alone make a capture. On these occasions the razor resembles a rabbit pursued by hunters. No one knows what course he will take, and if he is captured at all, it is usually because the pursuer happened to head him off just at the right time and place.

The Clare Bridge Club was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bellevue, at Bellevue's Cove, one evening last week, there being four tables in play. The ladies' first prize was won by Miss Martha Harney, of Meteghan River, while Resther LeBlanc, of Little Brook, captured the gentlemen's first. The consolation prizes went to Mrs. V. W. Comeau, of Little Brook and Basil Bellevue, of Bellevue's Cove. At the conclusion of the evening delicious refreshments were served.

Among your Christmas Gifts did you receive a fine photograph of a dear friend? Are you going to lose it? The best way to keep it before you, and to show your appreciation is to frame it. Very low prices on all styles of frames are offered now at The Digby Studio.

Reminiscences, Etc. by Former Weymouthian

(By G. R. T.)

Well, the Christmas cigars were pretty good this year! It's wonderful how much good tobacco one can buy for a nickel or five cents in U. S. money in these days. The cigarettes, however, were as unsatisfactory as usual, and I regret the claim of one of the big tobacco companies, that "they are mild and they satisfy." Cigarettes do not hit the spot for me—it takes too many of them to satisfy and besides too much time is wasted in lighting up, and disposing of the ashes and butts. Many years ago when I met Mr. John L. Sullivan for the first, and only time, he expressed this opinion of cigarettes. "What the good do them pimp sticks do a man?" "More harm than good." "Leave the 'd-m' things alone." "If you want to smoke, smoke a cigar or pipe." And that was the advice of the great champion. I have never since then smoked a cigarette. I hate to tell you, but I won't deceive you either. It was in Mahoney's "place" on LaGrande St. in Boston, and the time was one summer evening that I saw a series of "Gentlemen" Jim Corbett being made so well-known. Jimmy McMahon and I were cruising around taking in the sights and looking up some of the prominent people. Mahoney's Saloon was the principal hang-out for the Great John L. and other gentlemen of sporting proclivities, we took to gather there. So we took a chance on meeting the champion and we were not disappointed. John was there, even doing a little training with the other John—Barleycorn—as sparring partner. Jimmy thought it was a great experience and so did I. Alas, poor Jimmy! He passed into the next world several years later. Comrades, we were from small boyhood and I loved him as a brother, one of the best hearted and truest friends that I have ever known. I wonder what John L. would think if he could come back to earth now and witness the tremendous development of the cigarette habit, with boys and girls, their mothers and grandmothers smoking openly in every respectable and semi-respectable place, and with content. Habits, tastes, and opinions certainly do change. In 1900 the United States collected a tobacco tax on cigarettes of four and one quarter million dollars; in 1929 the tax amounted to three hundred and forty-two million dollars, which looks as if the habit is going strong and is fairly well established. But if we can believe the reports of investigators, we have formed a habit which impairs mental efficiency to a greater or less extent, but on the other hand, promotes mental comfort and—camaraderie—great world that, I suppose it means advancing apace and livery light stable manners to the level of parlor etiquette, cluttering up your home or office with a lot of half burned cigarettes and having your piano or new dining room table decorated with a lot of cigarette burns. And if that gives anyone mental comfort, all well and good. The habit is classed by some as a nervous habit supplanting the other nervous habits, in toothpicks, chewing, fingering, twiddling the thumbs, and the twirling of buttons, which after all, merely proves that a nervous person must have something to occupy the mind. Personally, I don't see the harm, just one or two in the latter part of the day, usually one fairly good one, two is the limit, three start my nerves to dancing and make me as jumpy as a rabbit in a dog race.

Dear reader, can you recall the names of some of our foremost citizens who enjoyed a pull at the pipe in the days of yore? Was it ever your good fortune to enjoy the acquaintance of an old gentleman who for years conducted a jewelry and watchmaking business in a little store at the south side of the "Bridge"? If you knew Mr. John Wood well enough to visit him at his home you would have been delighted with the aroma of the wonderful English tobacco that he smoked. "Cavendish," I believe was the brand. He was not an inveterate smoker, but he did enjoy his pipe evenings and Sunday afternoons, when he could read, smoke and think and be at peace with all the world. He smoked his weed in a long stemmed clay which was not allowed to become too old. Then there was Mr. Forbes Jones, an Inn keeper of renown, known to traveling men from everywhere. He loved his pipe, a well seasoned briar, with a long amber bit, fitted with freshly cut and rolled "Myrtle Navy" and replenished often from the rubber pouch in which he kept a supply for his daily needs. Forbes was one of the so-called "Hard" smokers and easily in the same class with the late Mr. George W. Benson, notoriously speaking of course. Perhaps Mr. Henry Brooks will also be remembered as one who was not so slow on the draw when it came to getting the best there was in a pipe. I remember correctly he liked a pipe that was old enough to stand alone, which some will say is just a matter of taste. Smoking, however, did not seem to affect the fine quality of his singing voice for he was for a long time the leading male singer in St. Thomas' choir and took part in many of the singing events of his day. And now in contradiction to the smoking habits of the old-fashioned gentlemen let us disclose the name of another well-known and prominent citizen who never used tobacco in his life and who frowned upon the use of it by his employees and public having the scale of the weed in any and all forms from his stores, much to the inconvenience and astonishment of the "charge" customers. Mr. G. D. Campbell it was, who so strenuously objected to the use of tobacco and became perhaps Weymouth's first and only anti-tobacco crusader.

Here we are at the end of the year, and there will be a great time in the old town of St. Francis to tonight, with the blowing of whistles and tooting of horns and tossing of confetti, streets and cafes thronged with a gay and hilarious crowd finishing off old 1932 and ushering in a young and timid 1933. Let us hope the infant develops quickly into a strong and vigorous young giant. Police are prepared to handle unusually large crowds this year and the word has gone out "Let the crowds enjoy themselves" and while the law will look with tolerant eye on the merrymaking, no "rough stuff" will be tolerated.

If the old "Sissiboo" is frozen over by this time I suppose there will be many skaters out on Monday, climbing over barricades of broken ice at low tide or skipping from floe to floe at high tide to get out on the wide expanse of solid river ice. Great sport and wonderful exercise is ice skating. We do not have much open air skating in California, except on the mountain lakes which are too far away and too hard to get to. In San Francisco, Oakland and Los Angeles there are some indoor rinks of artificial ice, where some cracking good—shinney—I should say hockey games are played between the local and coast clubs and occasionally with Canadian visitors.

What about the old time sport of horse racing on the frozen river, did that go out when automobiles came in? Who are the horsemen of today that take the place of Dr. Morse, Jimmy Brown, Dr. Ellison and Charlie Annie? Do you remember how Charlie Annie loved to exercise his nags on that long stretch of ice above the bridge? Lots of excitement with only a small amount of money changing hands. I believe the outstanding horseman of them all was Charlie Annie, the harness maker. He almost lived with his ponies, training them from early childhood, and could be found on the road early in the morning and late in the evening putting the young animal through its paces. Running along beside a young colt he would whisper sweet words of praise and encouragement in its ear, or perched upon the hurricane deck of a two wheeled sulky he would gently persuade, coax and cajole the young animal into better performance from day to day, but if the response to all of this flattery sometimes happened to be of a negative nature, he would then launch into a torrent of language registering such disparaging, disgust and disparagement, that the pony would become ashamed of itself and settle down to a trot that would astonish the driver, and bring a hope to his heart that another "M. and S." was already in the early stages of rapid development. Yet Charlie Annie knew his "hosses" and was perhaps the best versed student of "hoss" psychology and "hoss" language in all the Western Counties.

Adios amigos. See you again sometime.

Throw OFF That COLD!

Some men and women fight colds all winter long. Others enjoy the protection of Aspirin. A table in time, and the first symptoms of a cold get no further. If a cold has caught you unawares, keep on with Aspirin until the cold is gone. Aspirin can't harm you. It does not depress the heart. If your throat is sore, dissolve several tablets in water and gargle. You will get instant relief. There's danger in a cold that bangs on your nose. To say nothing of the pain and discomfort Asprin might have spared you! All drugs; with proven directions for colds, headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism.

Anna Lee Scott

WHO has devoted her best efforts to its preparation that every girl may become a good cook. Miss Scott believes that every woman's cookery knowledge should extend far beyond mere baking, boiling, and frying. She believes that every girl, and every woman of today is eager to learn all they possibly can about food, provided they can depend upon the available information. She believes you all are vitally interested in the newer methods, which save time, save money and safeguard the health of the family.

And so we have the new course that the busy girl or woman who has not, or who cannot take, a modern college or school course in this greatest of all subjects may, in their homes, get the actual fundamentals in a remarkably short time. All may write the examination if they choose. The handsome Diploma of the Maple Leaf Cooking School should be possible to all who master what is clearly and simply taught in the course, and in the Easy Way Series of books which follow.

THE MAYOR'S REPORT

To the Ratepayers of the Town of Digby:

Ladies and Gentlemen:—The Financial Statement of the Town now before you discloses a fairly satisfactory position of strength and progress in nearly all departments, notwithstanding the year we have just passed through has been a very difficult one in civic administration. It has, admittedly, tested the strength of business generally and the courage and mettle of business men. In face of depression and pessimism your Council have carried on, and it can be truthfully said that Digby has managed to hold her own during a strenuous year in spite of adverse economical and industrial conditions.

It was found necessary to increase the rate of taxation in order to protect the over-draft from the year 1931 amounting to $1,529.33 and the additional sinking fund and interest payments on $37,000.00 of new debentures issued the year previous, to cover the cost of sewer construction and the replacement of breastwork carried away by storm. Generally speaking, all expenditures for the year have been kept well within the estimated appropriations, through the exercise of care and foresight on the part of the Committees.

Tax collections have fallen down as compared with the previous year, which is to be expected during a period of economic strain. At the same time, it is gratifying to note that approximately 87% of the assessment had been collected at the close of the fiscal year and additional payments have been made during the present year. Uncollected taxes are more than sufficient to permit the over-draft as shown in the financial statement.

Streets.—In an effort to improve the condition of our main street, which has been unsatisfactory for years, an experiment was made with so-called "rotten rock" on a section of Water Street, and while this is the best surfacing material so far used on our streets, it proved to be very expensive and by no means permanent. There is only one solution of this problem, namely permanent paving, and this should be done as soon as practicable, as hundreds of dollars have heretofore been thrown away in this connection. During the year, traffic signs have been placed at most of the important street intersections as a means of eliminating motor accidents. Considerable work has been done in beautifying the boulevard on Water Street, which I am sure, meets with your entire approval. More work of this nature should be done from year to year in a moderate way to improve this part of the Town especially.

Water.—This Department has made a splendid showing during the year. Receipts have increased and there has been an abundant supply of water both at Lily Lake and the Reservoir.

Sewer.—The new sewer constructed in 1931 from Mount Street to the Oddfellows' Hall was extended during the months of May and June, north along Water Street to the outlet northeast of the Government Pier at a cost of $4,900.00. The main sewer as now completed is a very valuable improvement, eliminating all the surface drains on our water-front.

Electric Light.—The amount of energy consumed has increased from year to year since the Hydro Development was installed and the receipts show an increase this year together with a small gain after providing for sinking funds and all operation expenses. An application was made to the Board of Public Utilities for a reduction in rates, and it is hoped that some concessions will be made. The hearing was held in October, and while a lower schedule of rates has been fixed for the Power Board, no decision has so far been made by the Town.

Academy.—A wonderful spirit of co-operation exists between the Board of School Commissioners and the Principal and the teaching staff of our schools and splendid progress is being made in all departments. The Academy was opened with the same teachers as last year. With sincere regret, the Board accepted Miss Bessie Turnbull's resignation in December, and expressed the earnest hope that she would soon be restored to health and able to return to her school room. Mrs. Fred May was engaged to fill her position temporarily. New drainage was constructed around the school grounds to carry off surface water and thus improve a miserable condition which has existed for years during wet weather. Extensive improvements were also made on the playgrounds at the rear of the school building, much to the satisfaction of those who enjoy sports. The school building is now taxed beyond its full capacity, and an additional room for teaching primary work has been secured at the Court House for the overflow. With this situation in mind, it is hardly necessary for me to state that you will soon have to provide a new school building, or enlarge the old one.

The Digby General Hospital, the Kiwanis Club, the Children's Aid Society and the Victorian Order of Nurses are all serving the community in a splendid manner with most excellent results. I would particularly commend the services of the V. O. Nurse, Mrs. Sturgeon, who has devoted a great deal of time to improve the health of the school children, with marked success.

During the year, the officers and sailors of H. M. Ship "Heliopole" and H. M. C. Ship "Saguenay" and "Champlain", were entertained in port and the summer tourist season closed with the convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association, one of the largest and most important conventions ever held in Digby.

I wish to convey to Mr. Boden, our faithful official, my sincere thanks for the many courtesies extended, and the valuable assistance given, to me throughout the year. I also extend my thanks to the members of the Council, to the Superintendent of Streets and Water, the Chief of Police and all officers of the Town for the kind consideration shown me at all times.

As we approach the New Year with confidence, we are optimistic enough to believe that the worst is behind us and that better conditions are ahead, with attendant greater peace of mind.

I have pleasure in submitting herewith the Abstract of Accounts, the Financial Statement and the Auditors' Report for your consideration, and thanking you for electing me Mayor of your Town.

I have the honor to remain, Ladies and Gentlemen,

Yours faithfully,

P. W. HOLDSWORTH,

Mayor.

AUDITORS' REPORT

January 13, 1933.
To His Worship, The Mayor and Gentlemen of The Town of Digby, N. S.

Gentlemen:—We have completed the audit of the Town's affairs for the year ended December 31, 1932.

We have vouched the revenue from original records and money received has been properly deposited in the bank.

All payments have been made by check, and these, supported by authorized vouchers, have been examined and found to be in order.

Of the total assessment of $32,824.90 for 1932, $26,469.78 has been collected during the year, representing approximately 87%, after taking into account discounts, etc. Although this is less than last year's figure, it is, in view of the universal difficulty of the collection now presenting itself, considered very satisfactory.

We have discussed with your clerk, Mr. Boden, the question of placing your accounting system on a true double entry basis, and of definitely establishing the capital position of the town and a Balance Sheet to record this. He is desirous that this be done and we strongly recommend it.

We beg to remain,

Yours truly,

BELVEA, MCNEICE & COMPANY,

Obituary

Horace Moore

There passed away at his home here, on Tuesday afternoon, January 24th, Horace Moore, aged 75 years. He was the son of the late John Moore and Mrs. Jane (Specht) Moore. When young, he left Bear River and secured a position in Boston in one of the leading railway offices, where he worked for over 25 years. On account of ill health, he returned to his home a few years ago and with his sisters, has since resided at the old family home. He was a Past Master of the North Lodge, A. F. and M. and a member of the choir in the United Church of Canada. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Mary Hubbard, of Bear River; Miss Jennie Moore, of St. Paul, Minn.; three brothers, James and William, in the American West, and one in Cambridge, Mass. The funeral was held on Friday afternoon from his late residence, conducted by Rev. L. W. Blanchard, assisted by Rev. A. W. L. Smith and Rev. S. Stevens. The choir of the United Church sang "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Burial was in the cemetery at 10 o'clock. The funeral was very feelingly, "Crossing the Bar." After the regular services, a burial service of the Masonic Order, was conducted by officers of the lodge. Interment was in Mount Hope cemetery. There were many floral tributes.

Evangeline Lewis, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lewis, passed away on Saturday last, at the age of one year and seven months. She was born in the town of Monmouth. The funeral was held on Monday afternoon, conducted by Father Murphy; burial in the R. C. cemetery.

A CORRECTED REPORT

In report given in last week's issue of the Bear River sheet, re the Institute Card Party at Mrs. Romans', one paragraph was incomplete.

It should have read: "The personnel of the committee who made all arrangements, supplying cards, tables, and refreshments, and the dainty cakes and sandwiches, also donating prizes, was as follows: Mrs. W. Romans, (Coon), Mrs. A. J. MacDonna, Mrs. A. M. Simons, Mrs. A. B. Campbell, Mrs. Fred Harris, Mrs. L. J. Lovett. Other members who donated coffee, cream and bread, were: Mrs. Harry Harris, Mrs. Green, Mrs. J. Warren, Mrs. J. Cunningham, Mrs. Hubbard, Mrs. C. D. Rice, and Mrs. K. A. M. It is the practice of the Institute, to select groups of its members for assisting in 'teas,' etc., so that the members of the Institute are able to apologize for the omission of the ladies' names who 'assisted,' in my report last week.

BEARS SHOT

While Howard MacNeill, of Barton and Elsie Hardy, of Bear River were trailing a wildcat in the woods on January 17th, a bear's attention was attracted by what proved to be a bear's den. Four bears were making it their winter quarters. A shot of 16 shotguns was fired. A find like this is quite unusual. This is a brief mention of what in actual is a most interesting bear story, carrying a bit of a thrill with it.

"CANADA 1933"

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics announces the publication of the 1933 edition of the official annual handbook dealing with present conditions and recent progress in the Dominion.

The publication opens with a foreword by the Hon. H. H. Stevens, an introduction of eight pages outlining the world situation as it affects Canada. Material dealing with topography and climate and constitution and government has been omitted in this edition in order to make way for a fairly broad treatment of the Imperial Economic Conference, which appears as Chapter I. Detailed treatments of all phases of the national endeavour including Forestry, Agriculture, Fisheries, Fur Trade, Manufactures, Transportation, Trade, Finance, Labour, Education, etc., follow.

The book is designed to give a concise but well-rounded picture of the current Canadian situation to those at home and abroad, and to provide a better basis of information for the discussion of Canadian affairs generally and particularly for dealing with the business problems of 1933. It is profusely illustrated and printed in type to harmonize with the artistic cover.

Throughout the handbook the latest available information is included in each section, the figures in many cases extending to the end of 1932. Applications for copies of the handbook should be addressed to the Dominion Statistician, Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa.

HONEST TOLL

Come, all who know the worth of the joy of honest toil; Whether you plow the toiling seas Or turn the mellow soil—Or guide the soaring plane—Come, raise the shout for all who use Their muscle and their brain!

From jungle dank and desert dry, This world has come to be A place of homes and shops and farms Secure for you and me; And those who swing the biting ax Or handle pick and spade, Still carry on the splendid work. Our brave forefathers made.

It matters not what tools we use, But that we use them well—For some must write and some must print, And some must preach and some must play And some must plot and plan—But this rule holds for one and all: "Do just the best you can!"

—Rev. Roy L. Smith—

You Do Not Need—
—Money to make happiness if you have the spirit of joy in your heart.
—Companions to make company if your mind is stored with ideas.
—Publicity to make your thinking important if it is important.
—Help if you are making no effort in your own behalf.

TOO MANY LITTLE LAMBS BROUGHT TO THIS SCHOOL

Mary and her little lamb incident was re-enacted last at a district school near Wapato, Wash. In fact little girls brought so many pet lambs to school during the lambing time that an order to parents to forbid such actions resulted. During lambing time in the Yakima Valley the majority of lambs were quickly adopted by households. Children often carried the woolly pets to school without their parents' knowledge, it was found.

HEN'S BUSY

The treasurer of the Ladies' Aid Society of a Greensburg church made a deposit for her organization in a Greensburg bank recently.

At the deposit window she spoke to the teller, who she knew.

"The deposit was a considerable one for a church organization and as she passed in the money she said: 'Here's the aid money.'"

"The teller understood her to say, 'Here's the egg money.' Then came the break."

"Well, it looks as though the old hen has been laying pretty good lately," was his comment.

Could Not Turn in Bed Her Back Was So Bad

Prince Edward Island Lady Used Dodd's Kidney Pills

Three Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills Completely Relieved Her Sore Back Mount Stewart, P.E.I.—Jan. 30.—(Special.)

"My mother had a sore back for a long while," writes Mrs. Wm. N. Griffin, a resident of this place. "Her trouble was caused through strain and cold. It got so bad she could not turn in bed without help. All kinds of different remedies were tried, but they did no good. Finally she bought Dodd's Kidney Pills, taking in all, three boxes. She has not had a sore back since."

With the winter months come colds and chills, which double the work of the kidneys. Often the results are serious, for, if the kidneys weaken, harmful acid and other poisons are allowed to escape. Backache, dizziness and urinary disorders should not be neglected. Use Dodd's Kidney Pills to stimulate kidney activity. This treatment relieves you of discomfort, and wards off Rheumatism, Lumbago and Sciatica. An encouraging case of Dodd's Kidney Pills will prevent kidney disorders.

Albert Hatfield Sent Up for Trial on Manslaughter Charge

Yesterday afternoon, in the Court House at Digby, Albert Hatfield, arrested on January 24th, at St. Alphonse de Clare, charged with the shooting of John Jeddry, was sent up for trial on the charge of manslaughter. The hearing was held at St. Alphonse de Clare, Thursday before Stipendiary Magistrate Emile Stehelin and a number of witnesses were examined. Fourteen carloads of Canadian leaf tobacco passed through Digby by the Bay of Fundy route yesterday and Wednesday. The tobacco is going to England to be made into cigarettes.

B. H. Ruggles' north window is drawing considerable attention. A basin has been set up with waste pipes and fixtures complete; there is nothing unusual in that, but above the basin is a faucet suspended from a wire from which a full stream of water is constantly flowing. As the faucet is not connected with any piping, the spectators are puzzled to know where the water comes from. It's easy when you know how, but the majority are mystified.

The next meeting will be a "Valentine Meeting," and the ladies will be present.

There is a special law governing the compiling of the lists for the provincial elections.

Always Tired, Sluggish

Mrs. Hartwell's Run-Down Health Restored by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, She States

"I have derived great benefit from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," writes Mrs. Lorne Hartwell, Osnaburgh, Canada.

"My health got poor; indigestion followed, and I was nervous and irritable. My heart was also bad. I got up in the morning more tired than when I went to bed. My weight was reduced, my ambition shattered, my memory uncertain. I was unable to do my housework and I was so discouraged that life was a burden. A friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When I found the first box my appetite revived. The daily use of the Pills for a time restored my health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills earn high praise from benefited users because they actually rebuild health by enriching the blood. Nervous, run-down conditions yield to their blood-building properties. Young girls are wonderfully helped in their growth and development. At your druggist's in the new protective capsules. Try them. 50c. package.

Playing their third game of the season and the second on home ice, the Digby Ravens defeated the St. John's team of Saint John, 7 to 1 in an exhibition game at the Victoria Rink here Friday night last.

Owing to the mild weather the ice was in poor condition, but both teams worked hard and at the final goal were going at a furious pace.

St. Peters drew first blood at 2 minutes, Tebo getting their one and only goal. Winchester tied the score shortly after, and before the period closed Walker and Hixon scored for the locals. Hutchinson got the only goal in the second frame. In the third the Ravens staged a regular bombardment on the Saint John net, and only the sensational work of the visitors' net-guardian saved St. Peter's from a bigger defeat. In this period Hixon accounted for two goals for the locals while Smith tied the score. Two offside goals were ruled out. St. Peter's put up a game fight, but were handicapped with only two rellers and the result was inevitable.

The Saint John goalie handed 43 shots to Eldridge. Four hundred people attended the game.

Ravens—Goal, Eldridge; defence Muise, Raymond, Holdsworth; forwards, Hixon, Hutchinson, C. Walker, Bill Wallis, and J. Winchester. St. Peter's—Goal, Comeau; defence Manning, Belliveau; forwards, Tebo, Lifford, Dever, Patterson, Quinn.

Referee—Dr. G. V. Turnbull.

The regular meeting of the Digby Fire Company was held in their rooms on Wednesday of last week. After quite a lot of discussions, especially as regards chimney-fires, a resolution was passed to recommend the names of five citizens, three of whom will act as Fire Wardens for the year 1933. Before the meeting came to a close a short address was given by A. J. Shortt, who was a former member of the company, acting as Secretary-Treasurer for quite a number of years, and has always taken a deep interest in the affairs of the company. The company enjoyed his donation of cigars and cigarettes.

Here endeth a decidedly bad chapter in the history of Digby, and incidentally $380 of the taxpayers' money has gone to — oh, well, it's gone, anyway, and at least one of the recipients is having a good time in a warmer climate.

NEAREST TO THE TEA GARDENS

The city of Halifax may be said to be the nearest point on the eastern seaboard of the North American continent to the tea gardens of India and Ceylon. The reason for this is that Halifax is the first port of call for the direct steamers which bring the tea from Calcutta and Colombo, and indeed, the only port of call in Canada. This is one reason why MORSE'S TEAS, blended by Canada's oldest tea firm, J. E. Morse & Company, can be put in the hands of the consumer in the freshest condition possible. MORSE'S TEAS move in the "minimum of time from garden to tea cup." The teas which compose the various MORSE blends are selected with a view to satisfying the critical taste of Maritime tea drinkers and that the ideas of the latter with respect to both flavour and price have been accurately met is testified to by the large place they occupy in the preference of Maritime people.

NOVA SCOTIA'S TOURIST
TRADE POSSIBILITIES.
NO. 4

By Thomas F. Anderson.

The farm-house phase of Nova Scotia's tourist "industry" always has greatly interested me, and it has been a matter of regret that comparatively so few of the province's nearly 40,000 farmers have manifested any real interest in this opportunity to increase their incomes.

To be sure, there are a considerable number of such vacation accommodations listed with the railway companies or the Provincial Department of Highways every year, but it does seem as though this number could easily be augmented.

The jazz age in which we now live (or were recently living), naturally has driven thoughts of the more quiet and restful summer vacation from the minds of many; but there still are a large number of persons who prefer the less strenuous life of the typical farm-house to the more artificial one of the summer hotel. Among these may be included large numbers of school-teachers, office-workers, and nurses, whose exacting life for more than eleven months of the year really requires a measure of quietude.

Even this class of vacationists do not want to be "buried" (there are plenty of wilderness camps if any of them do), but they look for a reasonable amount of indoor and outdoor amusement, even though they do not wish excitement.

Hundreds of these weary workers would welcome the opportunity to spend a few weeks on a real honest-to-goodness well-managed farm such as, for example, are to be found from one end of the Annapolis Valley to the other, but in many cases they do not know where to look for them.

The farmer who has a slightly location and a house equipped with comfortable beds, modern plumbing, and furnishing good plain eatables, has a real asset if he cares to cater to this class of vacationists. I believe that in Annapolis and Kings Counties alone there are more than 5,000 farms, all but a few of them owned by their occupants. Not many of these will be found in the printed lists of farm boarding houses, however.

To be sure, there are many farms, and some locations, in Nova Scotia that do not at all interest themselves to this business, and it would be a mistake to advertise them.

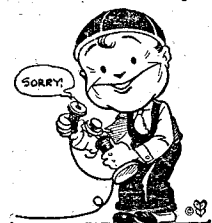

In the stereoscopic lectures about Nova Scotia which I gave in New England for many years, there were no views that pleased my audiences so obviously as the farm-house scenes, with the happy family groups gathered in the foreground. The farm and its attractive home always has, and always will have, a strong appeal even to those who never lived on a farm.

Naturally, a business unit as small as the farm boarding house can not stand very much in the way of advertising expense, and the chief reliance of the owner in this respect must be the word-of-mouth publicity of the satisfied guest. At the same time the railroad and steamship companies are always glad to bring such places to the attention of prospective patrons.

rons, provided the farm owners themselves will do their part by letting the companies know of their destinations ranging from the farm-house to the million dollar hotel, Nova Scotia should lead the continent as a vacation country.

VETERAN NEWSPAPER MAN RETIRES

After 55 years active service as news editor and editor of the Halifax Evening Mail, Hiram Wier, was retired on superannuation last week, and at the same time was made vice-president of the Halifax Herald Publishing Company, Limited. The writer has very pleasant memories of Hiram Wier. During the three years we were on the writing staff of the Herald, 1903-06—we formed a friendship with Mr. Wier which has continued down to the present time, and ever since then a visit to Halifax had never been complete unless we called to the Herald office to shake hands with Hiram Wier, Frank Dexter and "Larry" Doyle, all of whom were on the staff at that time, when the present Senator Dennis, now the principal owner, was "galley boy." The Herald and Mail have a number of "old timers" on the staff. There is George Mullane, who came from the Recorder, and who was an occasional writer on the Herald and Mail thirty years ago; J. W. Power, for a great many years one of the sports writers of the province who was also originally on the Reporter staff; W. D. Taunton, who writes I. C. R., Ferry Tales and Mr. Wolfe, and was for 19 years editor of the Chronicle, but for the past 25 years has been connected with the Recorder, and who was an occasional writer on the Herald and Mail.

As one of his warm newspaper friends, we met him while we were on the Herald, but did not become really acquainted until 1909 when we were associated on the Lunenburg Progress-Enterprise. But Mr. Wier was the dean of them all. We heartily congratulate him on his advancement to the vice-presidency, and we sincerely hope he will be spared many years to enjoy the leisure which he has so well earned.

PURPOSE

— Edgar A. Guest —

I sit and look at life all day and wonder what it's all about
I see men hurry down the way and try to figure the reason out,
And all I know is that here on earth in the morning sun and the evening gleam Man's greatest chance to prove his worth abides in the place that he calls home.

Oh, why do they hurry and why do they tell some shinning bulbs in a crystal dome
For a few flowers in a patch of soil, a new red rug and a big arm chair.

For steel blue smoke from a chimney due to some shining bulbs in a crystal dome
All the work of the bustling world men do, for the peace and joy of the place called home.

A blazing fire and a shelf of books; some curtains white at the window panes,
For the dreams of lovers in cozy nooks, a roof o'er head through the autumn rains.

For the fragrant scent of the evening meal—'tis for these men battle and toil and roam
For the only joy on the earth that's real—is the peace and charm of the place called home.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

This is my creed: To do some good, To bear my ills without complaining, To press on as a brave man should For honors that are worth the gaining;

To seek no profits where I may By winning them bring grief to others, To do some service day by day In helping on my toiling brothers.

"If you go first, dear, you will wait for me on the other shore, won't you?" questioned the fond wife wistfully.

"I suppose so," replied the husband, with a sigh. "I never went anywhere yet without having to wait for you."

"BROTHERHOOD OF BACHELORS" STAGE ENTERTAINMENT

On Thursday evening the "Brotherhood of Bachelors", of Weymouth, entertained their lady friends at a most delightful party in the Guild Hall, Weymouth North, which proved to be one of the most entertaining gatherings of the season.

Rev. L. W. Mosher, High Potentate of those who dwell in that Single State of Blessedness, (or that Blessed State of Singleness) gave Greetings, and an address of Welcome to all present. Mr. Mosher in his usual forceful way urged the Bachelors present to do all in their power to further the cause of Bachelordom, and to accept the solemn pledge and motto of their Brotherhood which is:

"We will stick together through thick and thin—We will not let the women in!"

At this point in the address, in female tones were heard cries of: "Tch, tch! What next!" "Just try to keep us out!" "We're here!" "We are going to stay!" etc., etc. Still undaunted the speaker continued with his address, although occasionally a shoe aimed at the head of the hall where the ladies were gathered, but fortunately for the High Potentate, they were aimed by a woman, so went wide of their mark, and he was able to conclude his speech unmolested; ending with words to both the Bachelors and Ladies present.

Mr. Baden Powell, husky henchman of the High Potentate, then gave a lengthy speech entitled: "Why I Will Never Marry." Truly, the speech was a masterpiece; and the only regret of the Brotherhood was that more of the Bachelors, young and inexperienced in the wiles of this wicked world, (particularly the wiles of the females), could not have been present and lent a listening ear.

Mr. Powell gave as his first reason for not having married, the fact that he was nearly married once—

"Secondly that he tried again, but was late for the ceremony, and the young lady not wishing to be cheated out of the wedding gifts, married someone else. He gave as his final reason, a dream or vision which he had recently had. In this terrible vision—this terribly sad vision, he who was still true to his Single vows, visited three homes; the matrimonial homes of the Rev. L. W. Mosher, and Messrs. Scott, Hankinson and Gerald Tingley. The sights which met his eyes as he visited these homes, and gazed upon the poor hen-pecked, heart-rending, "Napoleon-like" looking husbands, filled him with sadness and amazement—but that was not the worst of the dream, from a personal standpoint, just as he discovered he had been caught, and was nearly in the same condition as Brother Tingley, he awoke and saved himself from utter annihilation.

Finally resolved never, never, NEVER—no never, to marry—unless of course he changes his mind.

Mr. Gerald Tingley, third of the High Cuckoldrums of the Bachelor Brotherhood, then gave a speech on "Why I Prefer to Remain a Bachelor."

His choice of subject and the impressive way in which this speech was delivered, plainly showed that he had given the subject much serious thought.

Mr. Tingley did not quote from dreams or visions, his conclusions were based upon hard actual facts, gleaned from personal experiences and observations. In case that some of the friends present might get a wrong impression of things, and in their own minds be pitying him, that he had not been able to win a fair maiden, he assured them in no uncertain terms, that such was not the case. Firmly emphasizing the fact that he remained a Bachelor chiefly from CHOICE not Necessity.

ESSITY, as everybody loves a fat man! He stated that during the past leap year, he had had a very difficult time in avoiding the wiles and snares of adventuring females. (Which as our friend Ripley would say—"Believe it or not.")

He intimated that to his mind the famous war cry of the French Revolution—"Liberty, Equality and Fraternity" should be added to the motto of the Bachelors and enumerated some of the many advantages the Bachelor has over his less fortunate married brothers. Giving for example some of the woe-filled pictures the married man at times presents, stating that although, married men are everlastingly changing the evil that I know, (if Bachelorhood be an evil) for the evil which I do not know, although I have an idea of it? Why exchange a life of freedom, ease, contentment, for a life of everlasting change, worry, work, bickering and so forth. Well, I don't know why—but men do funny things."

The remainder of the programme consisted of choruses by the assembled guests; piano selections by Rev. L. W. Mosher, and the Robert Marston and Katharine Blackadar. A reading: "The Shooting of Dan MacGregor" by G. E. Tingley—this poem from the immortal classics was given chiefly to impress upon the Bachelors present that the terrible tragedy of the poem—the shooting of the two chief characters—was all caused by one woman. The life of two men taken because of a mere female!

Upon being asked by one of the Brothers, why men showed their age so much more quickly than the women do, the High Potentate gave as his reply, a solo—"The Prune Song."

A progressive Crokinole Party then followed. In a play off between the Misses Louise Mullen and Mary Anderson, the first prize of a box of stationery went to Miss Anderson, while the Gentlemen's prize of a fountain pen, went to Robert Brooks.

Miss Rae—Hankinson and Donald Blackadar played off for the consolation prize, a pocket comb, which went to Miss Hankinson.

The tables were then placed side by side, and most delicious refreshments of ice cream and several kinds of cake, were served by Rev. L. W. Mosher, assisted by Messrs. Gerald Tingley and Baden Powell.

The Bachelors claimed the honor of the prize for the refreshments, "Believe it or Bust" as one guest was overheard to exclaim; but judging from the generous portion which they humbly scribbled enjoyed—if the Bachelors can cook like that, we say—"Up Girls and at 'em"—men that can cook like that, shouldn't slip through your fingers, they would be very useful in any household!

The ladies present, not being entirely satisfied with the subject matter of the programme already given, the High Potentate called upon them, to know if they had anything to say. Being females, needless to say they did.

Katharine Blackadar, in a most appropriate and becoming costume, gave a splendid rendition of the poem: "Maybe You Would, But I Doubt It," while Kathleen FitzGerald read "Bible Stories, as Told by Rev. L. W. Mosher."

The delightful evening closed with the singing of a group of familiar songs—songs which were most appropriate for a Bachelor Brotherhood, with such inspiring and uplifting (???) mottoes as it has. The titles of some were: "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "Long, Long Trail," "Sidewalks of New York," "Peggy O'Neill," "Good Night Sweetheart," "Let the Best of the World Go By," "Somebody Loves You," "The Prisoner's Song," and "Show Me the Way to Go Home." The crowning feature of the programme was the male rendition of "Sweet Adeline." Truly it was thought—Donald Blackadar, Baden Powell how have the mighty fallen!

"Good Night Ladies" was sung, and a hearty vote of thanks from the ladies, extended to the Bachelors for their most enjoyable evening, with the hope that although the first, it might not be the last of the gatherings of the "Brotherhood of Bachelors" and their "Queens." Those present were: The Misses Katharine, Marion and Pauline Blackadar, Louise Mullen, Greta Journeay, Mary Go By, "Somebody Loves You," Anderson, Clara and Rae Hankinson and Kathleen FitzGerald, Rev. L. W. Mosher, and Messrs. Robert Brooks, Hugh Potter, Jack Hankinson, the male rendition of "Sweet Adeline." Truly it was thought—Donald Blackadar, Baden Powell how have the mighty fallen!

FORMER DIGBY GIRL URGES MORE ATTENTION TO PUBLIC SCHOOL

Huntington, West Va., U.S.A. January 27th, 1933.

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir: You no doubt will be surprised to hear from me, but after reading Friday (Jan. 20th's) issue of the Courier (by-the-way my family send the Courier each week and I look forward to it's coming with much interest—for after all, I am still "One of the Down Homers"), wherein you tell of the Board of Trade Annual Meeting. My attention was attracted when I came to the paragraph where Dr. Turnbull spoke to the question of overcrowded schoolrooms, also poorly ventilated, and that in some instances 56 pupils were registered with one teacher. This is a grave injustice both to student and teacher.

Right here, you no doubt are wondering why I am so deeply interested. So I might say—that as Chairman of Departmental Work of the Huntington Woman's Club, also a member of the Juvenile Delinquency Board and Playground and Recreation Committee in this city, I know whereof I speak.

This is my recollection of the schoolhouse of my childhood—dark dreary hallways and classrooms, sadly in need of paint or something to brighten them—not forgetting the "Smelly Basement" and close, stifling air. Surely this condition after 40 years is not still existing! This is not only my recollection, but the recollection of many with whom I attended school. Do you want this to be the recollection of children now attending school? Of course this is a very real and somewhat sentimental reason for the necessary school improvement in Digby School. The major reason is—you as a town give very little time and attention to your young people in comparison to the time and attention given trying to figure out how to make Digby more attractive to the Summer Tourist. How much time does the Board of Trade or any other working civic organization give to trying to make Digby attractive to her young people? As I see it by watching carefully your columns, the only time the young people of Digby are given a great deal of consideration, time or thought is either when they are under-privileged (not casting any reflections upon the fine work of the Kiwanis Club, as this is such a necessary and arduous work in any city or town, and I watch their progress with great interest) or come to the attention of the Children's Aid Society, or commit some misdemeanor. When a boy or girl leaves your town and makes good, how proud you are to claim them. Don't forget how little you have done toward this boy's or girl's success, in comparison to what you might have done. You have not even given them proper School facilities. Surely Digby doesn't want to be a back number in the educating of her young people. Don't consider them only after they have become a problem for Charitable Organizations or become Juvenile Delinquents.

I would like to make one suggestion which might help, and that is—the organizing of a Parent Teacher Association in the town. Those of you who are familiar with this work know this would solve one problem which has had to be faced by the Digby School Board for years. That is—in getting the parents interested. For as you know it is surprising how many parents are disinterested in their own children. How many of the parents in Digby call on the school teacher and visit the class room each month? How many tax-paying fathers have called to look over the school in which their children spend three-quarters of the time each day? These, and many other fine things would come from the organizing of a Parent Teacher Association. Most important of all creates and establishes an interest between the Parent and Teacher.

Parents, I implore you, do not fail to see your duty in co-operating with the teacher of your child, for here is a hard lot. In many instances her duties are not only the teaching of the three R's, but the teaching of Cleanliness and Goodness, teachings which we as Parents, in many instances sadly neglect at home.

I want before closing this letter, to congratulate Mr. Yates upon his good work along the lines of promoting for the interest of the young people a Band, and I wish him every success, and in passing, the Scout Movement must not be overlooked, a movement in which many a Digby boy has benefited.

Now, many a visit has been paid by the citizens of the town to the "Generating Plant of your Electric Light System" at Sissiboo Falls—don't fail to remember to visit once in a while that vastly more important "Generating System of your Town: The Public School."

Enicue Milberry Uhl, "An Interested Down Homers"

During the past few days there have been several minor "breaks" in town. The first was at Woodman's Garage which was entered and a quantity of light bulbs, a cash box containing a few cents and a number of keys taken. H. H. Sydn's garage was entered and a tire disappeared; a warehouse of Floyd Snow's was broken into and some oil and grease went; and yesterday morning a strange key in Yerra's front door, would indicate that some one tried to get in that store, but the key stuck.

M. L. Saunders has resumed his duties at the C. P. R. Telegraph office after two months' sick leave. Miss Webster, who has been relieving, has returned to her home in Pictou.

Mrs. Jane Finigan

The death occurred at her home at Freeport, Monday morning, of Mrs. Jane Finigan, who was suddenly stricken with paralysis and passed away in a few moments. Mrs. Finigan had been in her usual good health, attended church on Sunday and was about her household work on Monday when the sudden seizure came. She was a highly esteemed citizen, always ready to assist in any good cause, and will be mourned by a large circle of friends. The deceased was the widow of Charles E. Finigan, who predeceased her some years ago. She was sixty-five years of age and had lived practically all her life in Freeport, being a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ethel Ring. Mrs. Finigan was a faithful member of the Freeport Baptist Church, and had, for many years, been a teacher in the Sunday School; she was also a member of the local Rebekah Lodge. She is survived by four sons, Dr. Lindsay, of Shelburne; Ray, Victor and Avery, of Freeport; two sisters, Mrs. George H. Stevens and Mrs. W. P. Morrell; and two brothers, Edgar and Wellington Ring, all of Freeport. Dr. Finigan arrived Monday evening to attend his mother's funeral.

Basil Lewis

The death of Basil Lewis occurred at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lewis, of Watford, Digby County, recently. The deceased was 26 years of age and his passing followed an illness of several years from tubercular trouble. Besides his parents, he is survived by two brothers, William of Davis Cove, Annapolis Co., and Atwood, of Rossway, and two sisters, Mildred and Myrtle, of Chelsea, Mass. Two half brothers, Charles Comeau, of Yarmouth, and Waters Comeau, of St. Andrew's, and three half sisters, Mrs. Lottie Lewis, Rossway; Mr. Walter Robicheau, St. Andrew's; and Mrs. Clarence Walker, of Lake Midway, also survive.

Mrs. Annie J. Trask

On Sunday last, Annie J., widow of the late Jacob F. Trask, passed away at her home in Marshalltown. Mrs. Trask had been failing in health since the death of her husband a few years ago. She was born at Rossway, seventy-seven years ago, and was the eldest child of James Harvey and Hannah (Timpany) Robbins, and had resided in Marshalltown for over forty years. She is survived by four children, Ida, at home; Mrs. Byron MacNeill, Marshalltown; Henry, of Digby, and Boyd, of Brantree, Mass.; two sisters, Mrs. David Peters, Rossway; Mrs. Ella Redding, Digby; two brothers, James Robbins, Rossway, and Charles, Montrose, Mass.; several grandchildren and two great grandchildren. A loving wife and mother and a kindly friend and neighbor, Mrs. Trask was held in the highest esteem by all who knew her. The funeral services from her late home on Wednesday, were conducted by Rev. E. W. Forbes, pastor of the Grace United Church, of which Mrs. Trask was a faithful member, assisted by Rev. A. E. Gabriel, rector of Holy Trinity, and St. Paul's, Marshalltown. Interment was in Fairview cemetery. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

Claude L. Morgan, of Regina, Sask., arrived home on Tuesday of last week, and is the guest of his sister, Mrs. E. Burton Taylor. "The Locusts," Smith's Cove. He was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Morgan and two children, of British Columbia, who are at the home of their father, I. T. Morgan, Marshalltown. They are receiving a hearty welcome from their many friends after a long absence in the West.

New Spring Hats at Miss Chisholm's.

At a special meeting of the local unit of the Canadian Legion, T. E. G. Lynch, ex-mayor, and Alfred Bodon, were given honorary membership. Brief addresses were given in which the members were complimented on their activities.

Someone entered Dr. Dickie's garage Wednesday and practically emptied the tanks of two cars—owned by the doctor, and the other by his boys—as well as the alcohol from the doctor's car. This is particularly reprehensible as the doctor would have been in a bad position if called out on a life or death case. Possibly if the thief had been the victim of an accident it would have served him right.

Rev. P. C. Burnett and family, who have resided at Hebron, for over four years, are leaving this week to take charge of the Baptist Church at Clementsvalle. He occupied the pulpit in the Baptist Church at Hebron last Sunday morning. At the close of the evening service, Mr. and Mrs. Burnett were called to the platform when Mr. Whitman on behalf of the Church read an address signed by the pastor and clerk and presented them with an electric piano lamp.

On Saturday evening a surprise birthday party was held for Mrs. Charles Greene at Mr. Greene's logging camp, Cedar Lake. Owing to the terrible snow and rain storm of Saturday, only a few of the young people went, but most enjoyable time was had by all present. Molasses candy and toffee were made and later refreshments were served consisting of four kinds of cake, ice cream, coffee and chocolates. Mrs. Greene received several birthday gifts. The party broke up in the wee small hours, after wishing Mrs. Greene many more happy birthdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mullen, of Woodstock, Yarmouth Co., (nee Greave Goudrey) are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son.

Maritime People Like Thick Liqueuring Tea

Maritime Provinces people constitute the most critical tea-drinking contingent in this continent and they will have none of the thin-liqueuring teas that are in common use in the United States and central Canada. They are not only insistent on full flavoured but demand thick-liqueuring teas. In over sixty years of experience specializing on teas alone the firm of J. E. Morse & Company, Canada's oldest tea firm, have determined exactly how Maritime tastes run, and through their special buying agents in Calcutta and Ceylon they are able to get the teas that blend most suitably to the taste of Maritime tea drinkers. This goes far to explain why MORSE'S TEAS occupy the premier position among the teas sold in these provinces and maintain to the day their prestige with Maritime consumers.

V. O. N. VALENTINE PARTY

A very enjoyable Valentine Card Party was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. M. J. Peters for the benefit of the Victorian Order of Nurses. Despite the inclemency of the weather and various other attractions, there was a good attendance. As soon as the guests entered the door they realized that it was St. Valentine's evening, for the sterner sex received a deadly shaft from Cupid's Bow, the said Cupid being little Miss Claire Merlet, who in her dainty costume very cleverly acted the part. All of the rooms were gaily decorated with hearts and Valentines, while the same scheme was carried out in the delicious refreshments. The prizes which were donated by Miss Clinton, Mrs. MacMahon, Mrs. F. Anderson, Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. W. Connell, Mrs. Rupp and Mrs. P. W. Holdsworth were won by Miss Louise Dalloway, Miss Purdy, first contract; Miss Doris Ward, second prize; Miss Bowly and Dr. McCleave, Juniors' first contract; Mrs. McNutt and B. Ruggles, first forty-fives.

The grateful thanks of the guests are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Peters who have tendered the hospitality of their home for such an occasion and the addition of about $46.00 to the funds of the Order.

STORMS RENDER CHURCH POINT WHARF USELESS

Due to the recent storms the breakwater in Church Point has been completely clogged up with gravel. At the end of the breakwater a pile of gravel approximately twelve feet high has been accumulated by the tides which renders it impossible for vessels of any size to harbor. The fishermen can only land their catch there being a narrow channel for them to pass through.

Last year although the situation was half as bad as at present, $500 was appropriated and the wharf made accessible. This year however, although the whole community needs relief work so badly it is understood that no appropriation has been made at Ottawa. There will be no relief work it is said.

Also that all the employment given in handling the lumber that was shipped will be transferred to Belliveau's Cove which is a distance of four miles and the nearest wharf where a vessel can dock.

DIGBY RAVENS DEFEAT BRIDGE-TOWN HAWKS

Lead by Captain Charlie Hyson, who accounted for five goals for his team, the Digby Ravens defeated the Bridge-Town Hawks, 8-3 in an exhibition match at Victoria Rink on Tuesday evening. The game was cleanly fought, only three penalties being handed out. In the first period Hutchinson scored after 10 minutes, followed by Walker half a minute later. Hyson scored three times before the bell. Foley opened the scoring for the Hawks in the second. The Hawks worked hard but could not beat Eldridge, and Hyson found the net again for the Ravens. Honors in the first half of the third went to Bridge-Town. Foley scored at the four minute mark. LeBlanc got another shortly after. Hyson and Smith finished the scoring for the locals, each getting one goal.

TRADE POSSIBILITIES.
NO. 5

By Thomas F. Anderson.

Assuming that Nova Scotia possesses an adequate number of summer hotels and boarding houses, located in the most desirable situation and conducted on modern principles, the next important question that arises is that of the surroundings.

I often think of the day, some years ago, when I dropped in at one of the most attractive villages in the Annapolis Valley and got my first and most lasting impression of the place from the offensive quagmire that surrounded its "leading hotel" and in which pigs were disporting themselves. This community, even at that time, was aspiring to be a vacation resort.

Fortunately, there are today not many such examples to be found in Nova Scotia; on the contrary, there is a disposition everywhere to beautify and adorn the landscape, and in some instances with marked success.

Take, for instance, the impressive landscaping of most of the stations along the line of the Dominion Atlantic Railway and add to these the beautiful flower-gardens that surround many of the hotels scattered throughout the province, and you find in these evidences of the artistic one of the most potent attractions of the province today.

Who could deny that the magnificent flowers and shrubbery of the Grand Pre Memorial Park definitely enhance the drawing power of that shrine of history with visiting tourists? And, what would Halifax be without its incomparable Public Gardens?

The town of Yarmouth, with its lovely gardens and trim hedges, always has led in this respect, but latterly Digby has become its formidable rival, and the floral adornments at the local hotels, not to mention the magnificent display at the Dominion Atlantic Railway station, and the lesser ones at the Soldiers' Memorial and the parsonage grounds of the United Church, give a summer atmosphere to Digby that makes one almost feel that one is in California.

Not only should hotel grounds and parks be beautified for the benefit of the visitor, but it is especially important that the highway approaches to vacation communities should be properly landscaped. This is being done in New England in a large way, and I was lately privileged to inspect some wonderful sketches which a leading Boston landscape architect had made for the beautification of approaches to various vacation resorts. Flowers, shrubs and boulders alike are utilized in this modern method of welcome, and there is an endless field for it.

Indeed, the beautification of roadways, parks and private grounds is one of the most interesting and important movements of the future.

It all has its psychological influence upon the minds of visitors; and even the little girl who comes to the "Express" at Hecanooga in the Spring with her bouquets of mayflowers, and the boys who later board the "Blue-nose" at Weymouth with their bunches of fragrant pond-lilies, have their humble place in the picture.

It is the duty of art-industry—and catering to vacation-seekers surely is an "industry."

TOO MUCH TAXATION

The Toronto Globe very properly points out, in protesting against a proposal to impose a sur-tax on incomes in Toronto that a tax is a fixed charge which the individual or the corporation must provide for and that it leads to individual to reduce purchases of goods and the corporation to employ less help or make other economies that make the general situation worse.

The best way to improve business is to release more money for purchasing purposes and for production that furnishes employment, assuming there is a market for what is produced.

Smilin' Charlie Says:

The more taxes are imposed the less ability there is to do business. This is so clear that the fact need not be stated but for the apparent disregard of it by taxing bodies.

The Bureau of Municipal Research puts the case with great force when it says: "The best bonus to business and industry and citizens employed in business and industry would be a drastic cut in expenditures which would make possible a real cut in taxation. The times demand, not a search for new sources of tax revenue, but a determined cutting of expenditures and not merely the passing on to other years of expense which should be met now."

A FORESTRY AWAKENING

To the Editor of The Courier: Sir—Among the many evidences that our administrators and lumbermen are at last aroused to the necessity for action in connection with the preservation of our remaining forest area I will here quote merely two recent expressions of opinion from widely different sources. One is from no less an authority than the Minister of Lands and Forests for the Province of Ontario, the Hon. William Finlayson, who in an address before the Ontario Agricultural College made the following significant statements in an appeal to the farmers of Ontario, urging them to "co-operate with his department in rehabilitating the dissipated timber resources of the province. We have to change the whole orientation of the Canadian in respect to forestry," Mr. Finlayson said, "the pioneers of this country looked upon trees as an enemy, something to be got rid of. They destroyed valuable timber to bring under cultivation much land which should never have been cleared, and in the process they should go hand in hand. We would like to persuade you that the old aspect with regard to timber is all wrong," he stated.

The other admission referred to was made to me in a letter just received from a prominent lumberman, a large woods operator and manufacturer of wide practical experience who began his successful career in a logging camp and through rare judgment, honesty and energy has accumulated a substantial fortune and a knowledge of Canadian forest conditions obtained by few, a man whose opinion I often seek and invariably accept, who sums up the present situation in a very few terse words as follows:

"Our big men have not the time to devote to the forest question, they think it is not very important. They will wake up before long and discover a big shortage of forest and then everyone will regret when it is too late."

The Hon. Mr. Finlayson states a truism when he says "forestry and agriculture should go hand in hand." A third of every farm should be devoted perpetually to growing trees in order to preserve moisture, fertility of the soil, equable climatic conditions, act as windbreaks, prevent erosion and provide wood and timber. In Canada today there are thousands of farms without a tree, many of which had to be abandoned from that cause alone.

DISCOVERY

Discovery: that is the way of all life, so let us consider it for a moment. To discover is to become conscious of, and so to discover is to find. The unfolding of Life is the Progression of the Soul, to advance ever onward, through one state or condition to another, ever seeking that which is just beyond. This is the nature of Life and that which makes Life ever fascinating, ever alluring and ever interesting and dear to us. Life, the greatest of all mysteries and wonders, the ever-unresolved problem, always beckoning us onward to new surprises and new wonders. Thank our FATHER from the depths of your Souls, men of earth, for this priceless Gift. HE has given you that which no man can take from you and which you yourself cannot lose, that which will bring to you a happiness unknown and unconceived, or an unhappiness

STAY IN BED

While colds and a mild type of flu are prevalent people should remember that even a common cold and no type of flu do not remain mild if they are neglected or ignored. Even the most dread disease has a mild beginning.

There are many, who while suffering with influenza put their sense of professional duty so high as to stagger to work with shivering frame like a spectre, explaining that they ought to be in bed. So they should, for the sake of those with whom they come in contact, if nothing else. Flu and other ailments are easily spread and those suffering should take care of themselves and remain at home so that the disease may be kept confined as closely as possible.

BISHOP OFFICIATES AT NIECE'S WEDDING

Mabelle Zable LeBlanc and George William Melanson Wed in Cathedral

A wedding of much interest to friends in the Maritimes and elsewhere, was celebrated in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, at Saint John, N. B., on Tuesday morning, February 7th, at 7:30 o'clock, when Miss Mabelle Zable LeBlanc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. LeBlanc, of Weymouth, became the bride of George William Melanson, of Philadelphia, son of Mrs. Mary and the late Theophilus Melanson, of Weymouth Mills. His Excellency, Right Rev. E. A. LeBlanc, Bishop of Saint John, officiated at the ceremony and was assisted by Rev. H. F. Gillen and Rev. J. Arthur Burns. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Willis Rene LeBlanc, of Weymouth, wore a becoming ensemble of gray georgette with hat, shoes and gloves of the same shade, and she carried a white prayer book. She was attended by Miss Frances Mary Comeau, of Weymouth, who wore monet blue crepe with hat, shoes and gloves to match and carried a white prayer book. Willis Rene LeBlanc, the bride's brother, was groomsmen. As the wedding party entered the church, Arthur S. Godose, organist of the Cathedral, played the wedding march, and during the offertory of the nuptial mass, John Riondon sang "O Salutaris." As the wedding party left the church Mr. Godose played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

Following the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast in one of the private salons of the Royal Hotel. The bride's table was centred with the bridal cake and had also for decoration a bowl of pink roses and narcissi. The toast to the bride was proposed by Bishop LeBlanc and happily responded to by the bridegroom. Among the guests were Rev. H. F. Gillen and Miss Margaret McCloskey. (The bride had been a guest of the latter, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Long, 155 Main Street, for several days.) Mr. and Mrs. Melanson left that evening for their home in Philadelphia and will visit relatives in Boston, Newark and Washington en route. Both the bride and groom have many friends in Weymouth and vicinity who extend to them best wishes for a long and happy married life. The bride, who was a popular postal clerk here, was tendered a largely attended dance and shower about a week before the wedding.

WHEAT MATHEMATICS CAN DO

Somehow these technocrat intellectuals call to mind an efficiency expert who said that the man employed by the year, working eight hours a day, in reality worked only one day a year, and offered the following as proof of his contention:

Days in year	365
Sleep eight hours a day	122
Rest eight hours a day	122
Sundays	52
Saturday half holidays	26
Legal holidays	43
Lunches, one-half hour per day (five days a week)	16
Summer vacation	15
Total days worked	1

The above table is hardly fair to the employer. When we figure the time lost in watching the clock, lighting pipes and cigarettes, etc., the workman should really pay for the privilege of working.

CAPE ST. MARY

The work on Mande Comeau's new house is advancing and Mr. Comeau and his family will soon be moving in.

Mrs. Dosthe Doucet, accompanied by her husband and son, Robert, left recently for Abram's River, being called there by the illness of her aged mother, Mrs. Mary LeBlanc.

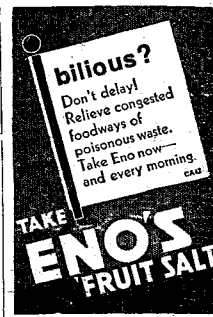

D. W. Byers, of the United States, is a guest of Mrs. Byers' parents.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Robichaud, Willie V. Doucet, Mande Comeau and Nicholas Doucet have returned from Maxwellville, where they were engaged in logging operations.

Mrs. A. A. Doucet spent the 5th with her sister, Mrs. Isaac Jedry, at St. Alphonse de Clare.

Miss Irene A. Robichaud, R. N., who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Louis A. Surette, at Pinkney's Point, has returned home.

Reminiscences, Etc. by

(By G.R.T.)

Shopkeepers Continued—
Leaving the Ned Hagen Shop—which in the years following his death, was used as a sample room for commercial travellers and later as the first office of the Weymouth Free Press—and looking across the road at a building that had been converted into a dwelling but which in earlier years was the store building of Jasper Journeay, who inherited a general merchandising business from his father. How long and how successfully Jasper Journeay operated the business, I do not know, but my recollection of the store building is that it had been vacant for a long time, and then one day it was opened up with a new stock of goods by John McDonald, one of the up and coming young men of that time, who had received his business training in the none too easy going offices of Colin Campbell, founder and owner of the largest and most important businesses in Weymouth at that period. Location seems to have much to do with the success of a retail store. It is so in small communities as well as in large cities.
If a store is located on the wrong side of the street, on the side opposite to that usually travelled by the shopping public or just beyond a certain district where the public has become accustomed to, nothing short of a miracle or the tearing up of the street will divert buyers from their beaten path, or cause them to jump the imaginary fence surrounding their usual shopping haunts. This little matter of location was something that John McDonald overlooked, his location was against him and success was therefore more or less impossible and after struggling bravely for a year or so with this adverse condition, combined with strong competition from the longer established stores, he disposed of his business and later became a successful travelling salesman, representing a well-known wholesale firm in Saint John.

Across the road from the McDonald store was another place of business presided over by a large, portly, and dignified gentleman who greeted his customers with a winning smile and a full and joyous
"How do you do," which immediately put the shopper at ease and enabled him to enter into the spirit of his buying without fear or hesitation.
Ezekiel M. Nichols is the name of the shopkeeper referred to. Ezekiel is a good old Bible name, the name of a famous prophet, but whether the gift of prophecy was passed along with the name I am unable to say. I do not know what the middle initial stood for either, but would not wonder if it was for another name famous in Biblical literature.
I fancy that the forbears of Zeke
Nichols must have been of a religious and poetic turn of mind and taught their son all of those passages from the Bible, Shakespeare, Byron and Scott which he was frequently inclined to recite in an amazingly accurate and melodious voice. I do not know what the middle initial stood for either, but would not wonder if it was for another

all of which, of course, detracted not one whit from his reputation as the best dentist in Digby County.

While we are on the subject of moustaches and still in the same building where moustaches flourish, we might walk up to the top floor where the editorial offices of the Press were located and interview its editor on the subject of facial adornment. Most likely such an interview would have been refused as being entirely too personal by our old friend the Editor, of whom let it be said that he was an intense and serious man engaged in an all-absorbing and important business and those who knew him would never in any circumstances have thought of him allowing anything frivolous to drop from his lips or be connected with his grave and earnest face, therefore it was natural that his, should be an intense and serious moustache. And it was handsome and ornate as well of a natural jet blackness equalled in color—only for a brief period—by that portion of Dit Dunbar's chin whiskers which he inadvertently allowed to become involved with an open can of liquid lamp-black one day while engaged in a heated religious argument with James Lovett.

Passing up the dressmaking parlors of Mary Hollowell and the blacksmith shops of Henry Brooks and William Moore and giving the go-by to the harness shop of Chas. Annis, we will look in upon the tin and sheet metal works of J. D. Elhier, who in those piping times of peace prepared the householder for times of piecing pipe, when the coal days of late fall gave notice that the time for setting up the heating stove in the dining room had arrived, and those who have had an extensive experience in putting up long stretches of stove pipe will know what fun that is—standing on your toes on a rickety chair and balancing yourself with arms extended to the utmost above your head while frantically endeavoring to fit or connect two sections of stove pipe that stubbornly refuse to be connected. Jos. Elhier gave Weymouth its first sheet metal works. The death of Mrs. Lavinia Nicholson occurred Sunday at the home of her niece, Mrs. Arthur Marshall, Clementsport, with whom she had resided the last few months, following her return from Massachusetts. Deceased was 93 years of age and the widow of Peter Nicholson, for many years merchant in Bridgetown. Following the death of her husband she went to live with her daughter, Mrs. Janet Stewart, in Dorchester, Mass., and remained there until last year when she returned to Nova Scotia. Cover Designs
In addition to those mentioned last week, cover designs for February Club News have been received from Marjorie Rice, Grade VIII and Evangeline Ramsay, Grade V. Lake LaRosa school. These designs came too late for the contest, just closed. Perhaps these girls will try again. For March, I would like a design showing something in Human Education, i. e. Kindness to Animals. Do not forget to put "March" and the year on the design.

From Weymouth North
Some time ago the Weymouth North club presented a four-act play called "Mom," from which they realized a total of over sixty-four dollars. Since then they have held Spelling Matches in competition with Weymouth school. The school now has a Bulletin Board for Current events. A lively hockey team is another feature of this club.

Report from Hampton
From Gerald Dunn at Hampton School we have received the following: "Since my last report we have been holding regular meetings. We have had two debates, the subjects being: 'Country Life versus City Life' and 'Reading versus Travel.' The first one was a tie and in the second the negative side won. Our meetings are well attended and the members have been answering roll call with verses of scripture and short poems. As we are changing officers at the next meeting, this will be my last report."

Club Member Ill
We have been advised that Ivan Shortliffe of the Central Grove 4-H Club has been very ill with flu. We trust that ere this Ivan is much improved. Doubtless he is one of the many club members who have been very sick from the flu. At present there seems to be an epidemic of Chicken Pox prevalent over the two counties. If proper care was used this disease could be wiped completely out of the district in a short time.

A Valentine Verse
Joseph Byrne, of the Moschelle club has composed an original Valentine for the Weymouth school. This is a good composition exercise for club members and we would be glad to receive copies of any you write.

Exhibition Work
West Paradise school has an active club and among other committees is one to promote interest in the County exhibition. I am wondering how YOU school is progressing with such work. Are you going to help me double last year's number of exhibits? I know you will try.

How Canada Gets and Spends

A STUDY showing the comparison between the cost of Government in Canada and the farm value of all field crops has been prepared by W. Sanford Evans and released for the National Committee on economy in public finance by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. The study, as illustrated by the chart, indicates that in 1913 the total sum expended by governments for ordinary purposes was equal to 50 per cent. of the farm value of all field crops in Canada. In 1931 Government expenditures expended a sum equal to 216 per cent. of the value of all field crops.

5,000 FACTS ABOUT CANADA

The thirtieth annual issue of "5,000 Facts About Canada" marks a milestone in its history—a remarkable record for one publication and a credit to its originator and compiler, Frank Yeish, who has long been widely known for his literary and platform work, especially in relation to Canada. This yearly record has become a necessity and has achieved a wide circulation in this and other countries as a succinct record of our nation's life and activities, under fifty different heads, from "Agriculture" to "Yukon." No one can understand the story of the Dominion without this handy reference booklet—a story that is a promising one, notwithstanding any lowering of trade and industrial curves. "I never realized I knew so little about my country until I read it," said a prominent leader. Copies may be had from leading dealers; or for 35 cents a copy, or three copies for a dollar, from the Canadian Facts Publishing Co., 588 Huron Street, Toronto.

REDUCTION IN TEA PRICES

Last week the firm of J. E. Morse & Company, who a month ago reduced the price of MORSE'S SELECTED ORANGE PEKOE TEA, announced a reduction in the price of MORSE'S STANDARD TEA whereby "the good old family tea of the Maritimes" will now be sold in grocery stores at 40 cents per pound package or 20 cents per half pound package. As a consequence of this action MORSE'S STANDARD TEA will more than ever be "the good old family tea of the Maritimes." Its present prestige is of long standing and is founded on the special status of the Maritime taste in tea by the blenders, who are the oldest tea firm in Canada. It is pointed out that MORSE'S STANDARD TEA makes 240 cups to the pound, so that the cost to the consumer at the new price works out at one-sixth of a cent per cup. This is surely a low price to pay for a beverage which has the qualities which make MORSE'S STANDARD TEA so popular.

Miss Dorothy Moses was called home to Ohio, Yr. Co., on Tuesday, owing to the serious illness of her father.

DIGBY RAVENS TAKE SERIES FROM BRIDGEWATER, 8-2

Nursing a two goal lead by virtue of their 2-1 victory at Bridgewater Friday night, the Digby Ravens trounced the Bridgewater Hawks 8 goals to one at the Victoria Rink here Monday night, winning the series with a total score of 8-2.

500 fans braved a blinding rainstorm, through a sea of mud to watch a thrilling match featured with terrific checking by both teams. Raymond scored for Digby half way in the first for the only goal of that period.

Hutchinson and Walker tallied for the locals in the second frame while Bridgewater's only came when R. MacPherson broke through to beat Eldridge. Hyson scored a mixup in front of the Hawk's net in the third and three minutes later Walker ended the scoring when he took a pass from Hutchinson and fouled Haines from inside.

Bridgewater forced the play most of the game but a brilliant defence, combined with the superb work of Eldridge in the Digby net, who gave one of the finest exhibitions of netting seen here in years, handing a total of 60 shots, kept the Hawks at bay. In the closing minutes the visitors played 5 men up the ice and bombarded the Digby net from every angle, but the Ravens were just too good.

The game was clean, and, considering soft ice, Referees Turnbull and Simmons had a fairly easy time.

Ravens—Goal, Eldridge; defence, Mulise, Raymond; forwards, Hyson, Hutchinson, Walker, Smith.

Hawks—Goal, Haines; defence, Rafuse, Twiddle; forwards, Montgomerie, Whynot, Reeves, D. MacPherson, R. MacPherson, Wile, Simmons.

Reeves received a cut over the eye at the start of the match and had to retire from the game.

The entertainment given by Elsie McLuhan on Thursday evening last, in the United Church Hall, was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The opening number was an old favorite, "The Horse Race" which Miss McLuhan gave on her previous visit here. All the numbers, grave and gay, were splendidly rendered. Mrs. Walker delighted the audience with two solos, and there was also a piano solo by Mrs. Frank Hayden, who acted as accompanist. Mr. Safford, who has many warm friends in Digby, is one of Salem's outstanding and most versatile citizens. He has the record of having continuously summered in Digby for the longest period of any visitor, with a single exception.

Don't forget the Crokinole and Forty-Fives Party in the "Gym" for High School benefit Monday night. 25 cents to all. At 8 o'clock.

Because of the prevailing economic conditions, barter is much more common now than it was a few years ago. The exchange of raw materials for finished goods or of articles of one kind for another kind is a form of currency now in many places, principally in the Mid-West and West, but we recently heard of an interesting exchange. A local merchant swapped box shooks for vinegar, and the vinegar for the vinegar for groceries, the transaction running into thousands of dollars.

Seldom, indeed, is a business man, or community, so maligned and abused, as was one of Digby's business men, in a paper called "Justice," published in Halifax, in its last issue. There was hardly a word of truth in the whole article. It may be true that in some cases the wages paid are low, but another business man, talking with us, said that those wages were "a d—d sight higher than he would pay to some of the fellows who did the work." That the article was written by a ticket of leave man who had been put in charge of this employer, and treated whiter than a great many others under similar circumstances, would have been, who, when his time was up, vented his spleen and spite in return for the kindness shown. It is a pity he could not be put back in the penitentiary.

Down in Weight and Very Pale

Mrs. Beare Thankful for Way in Which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Helped Her Back to Health

"I can truly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for they did wonders for me," writes Mrs. Mabel R. Beare, New Westminster, B. C. "After a long and very trying illness, I was down to 90 lbs. in weight. I could not eat a hearty meal. In fact, I have had to go away from the table hungry, and from dinner I dared not touch. I was also very pale. I had often read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, so thought I would give them a try. I soon found them able to eat with any one, and life began to look brighter. My weight came up to 118 lbs. and my lips and cheeks had lots of color. I am more than thankful I ever took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I only hope others will try them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually create an abundance of new red blood, which is the reason they have given new vitality and strength to thousands of such nervously exhausted women. Equally helpful for growing girls. Try them. At your druggist's in the new glass container, 50c.

Antigonish Wins in Match With Ravens

Antigonish Bulldogs, Maritime Junior champions last season, scored a four to two victory over the Digby Ravens at the Victoria Rink Wednesday night in the first game of the semi-finals for the Nova Scotia Senior hockey championship. Pat Purcell, flashy Antigonish defenceman, salted the game away for the visitors, when he scored three unassisted goals in the middle frame.

Hyson on a pass from Hutchinson, scored the only goal of the first period when one of the visitors was "serving time." Penalties were numerous for the home team, and Eldridge between the uprights was called upon time after time to save his team from many shots that were marked for sure tallies.

The second period went to Antigonish. After eight minutes Purcell took the puck at the blue line and skated through to score. Before the period ended this speedy defenceman scored two goals unassisted.

In this period Eldridge again turned in a sensational work, and at the end of the second scored 3-2 for the visitors.

The Ravens came back strong in the third period, but were handicapped with only two reliefs, and were firing fast. Purcell tallied after two minutes but the goal was disallowed. At the half way mark McGibbon gave the Bulldogs their fourth goal. The Ravens staged a great rally for the remaining ten minutes, and Hutchinson scored on Walker's pass.

The game was the fastest exhibition of hockey staged on local ice this season. Referees Earl Murray and Dr. G. V. Turnbull handled the game.

Ravens—Goal, Eldridge; defence, Mulise, Raymond; forwards, Hyson, Hutchinson, Walker, Smith, Winchester.

Antigonish—Goal, P. McGibbon; defence, Munro, Purcell; forwards, McGibbon, McIsaac, McKenna, A. MacDonald, D. MacDonald, MacMillan, Lee.

The Ravens left last evening for Antigonish where the final game will take place tonight, total goals to count.

Board of Trade

The annual banquet of the Board of Trade was held at the Waverley Hotel on Tuesday evening. Host Agate spread a splendid table and after the "eats" were enjoyed, the annual "after-dinner" was indulged in. Resolutions re the elimination of the dust nuisance, the placing of signs on the secondary roads, and the publication of local maps for the guidance of tourists were passed, after which the Board of Trade was appointed to look into the matter of increased school accommodation was taken up and, after some discussion, was referred to a joint meeting of the Council of the Board of Trade and the School Board.

Firemen's Social

The largest card social ever held in Digby was put on last Thursday evening at the Court House, by the Digby Fire Company. A total of 32 tables were in play and the proceeds amounted to $46.75. The Firemen deserve credit in putting the social over on such a big scale and the Company again wishes to thank all who in any way helped to make it such a great success. The Ladies' prize was won by Miss Emma White, and was donated by Mrs. B. J. Roop; Gentlemen's prize was won by Dominic Melanson on a draw between him and Allan Stark, both having the same score; the prize was donated by Jones' Drug Store. The Consolation prize was won by Mrs. Lyman Pyne, and was donated by Connell's Store. The Chair prize was won by Mrs. Simon Landry and was donated by T. J. Harris, of the Racquette Gardens. The door prize—a 20-lb. pail of lard, was won by Henry Hum, and was donated by H. T. Warne. The next social (45's) will be held at the same place (Court House) at 8 o'clock on February 28th.

Compared with all the talk on the need of economy, how little action! The Young People's Society of Bethel United Church, Central Nova Scotia, Valentine Society in the Hall, on Thursday evening last, under the leadership of the Literary and Recreation Committee, of which, Miss Miriam Morehouse is convenor, held a Valentine Social in the Hall, with about 65 guests, each member having the privilege of inviting one guest. Games and contests were the order of the evening. Refreshments were served and the evening's enjoyment was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

Band Notes

Mayor Holdsworth likes to know what is going on in town, and so he paid a visit to the band room one day last week and listened to forty-two members of the Junior Band play a bright little march and several selections after which, in honor of his presence, the Director asked the boys to try playing at sight a piece of music they had never seen before. He passed out the music of "The Maple Leaf Forever." Knowing a tune is one thing, but picking up the music and playing only the notes written for your own instrument is something different, but the boys did it in a style that showed the progress they had made, and caused the mayor to make some very complimentary remarks. In a short talk he recalled the old days when he played in a Digby band. He said the growth and the progress made by the present band were phenomenal, and that he was astonished when they dashed off "The Home Town Band" March which they are just learning. He assured the players that the whole town was ready to back them up, and he predicted that Digby would have a splendid band if the boys stuck together and kept up the interest and the hard work they were showing so far. The mayor's interest pleased the band members greatly and gave them the needed encouragement. A visit from other citizens occasionally would stimulate the players and would probably give the visitor a most pleasant surprise.

Jamie Dillon gave the Band a joyful surprise the other day by sending a check for twenty-five dollars toward the purchase of the magnificent Benson silver bass horn which they are now using and are trying to raise the money to pay for. Nine-five dollars more will give the boys a super instrument, and will complete the finest bass section of any band in the province. The Music Council highly appreciate Jamie's generosity, and find in his act another proof that a man who has his heart in the right place never forgets his old home town.

A stranger in town the other night asked a hotel clerk where the "Hack" band belonged, and was assured it wasn't a "hack" band, but was a Digby town band just beginning. "Well," he said "there's the 'hacks' in it. You can always tell a 'hack' in a band because he blows his horn as loud as he can on the way home, just to show off." The stranger is right.

There is an old story concerning an Irish customer who kicked the cause of the size of his water bill. Water, he pointed out, was part of nature's bounty, cost nothing to make, and therefore should be free to all. The water committee agreed with him and granted him a free reservoir—if he would come to the reservoir and get it.

We understand that the late James Hinxman left $100 to St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marshalltown, and a similar sum to the United Church, at Bay View.

Mrs. Clifford Haynes and little son, Douglas, of Digby, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Haynes.

James Hinxman

The death of James Craig Betts Hinxman, an aged and well-known resident of this section of the province, took place at the home of Mr. Wright, in Marshalltown, on Sunday. He was born in 1849, in Bay View and was a son of the late Cornelius and Elizabeth (Turnbull) Hinxman. He was the last of a family of ten. Mr. Hinxman was twice married, his first wife being Ida P. Leimond, who died a number of years ago; his second wife was Mrs. Nelson Turnbull, who died about five years ago. He leaves two nephews, a niece and step-son. The funeral took place on Tuesday.

ANNUAL MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD HELD

The annual meeting of the School Board was held Monday evening, and A. J. Dillon was re-elected Chairman.

A letter from Miss Curry intimating her withdrawal from the School Staff at the end of the present year, was read and her resignation was accepted with regret and appreciation for her several years' service. Miss Jean Anderson, a graduate of Acadia, was appointed Teacher in her stead, her duties to begin after the summer holidays.

We understand that the late James Hinxman left $100 to St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marshalltown, and a similar sum to the United Church, at Bay View.

Mrs. Clifford Haynes and little son, Douglas, of Digby, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Haynes.

TRADE POSSIBILITIES.
NO. 6

By Thomas F. Anderson.

There is at least one organization in Nova Scotia that appears to be doing things, and that is the Land of Evangeline Tourist Association. I was greatly interested in the published reports of this live organization's annual meeting in Kentville, recently, and especially in its expectation to this year issue 15,000 copies of its magnificent booklet, last year's edition having been approximately 10,000.

No piece of advertising matter issued by promotional agencies in Nova Scotia, outside of the government itself, ever has excited in attractiveness this particular booklet, and I am not a bit surprised to learn that the demand for it from the outside has been such as to warrant an increased 1933 edition. I most heartily congratulate the Association on its creative work in behalf of the picturesque Valley it represents. It is a great credit to the section, and I should think that those communities with tourist trade possibilities that are not contributing something to its support would feel rather small.

It was also of interest to note that at this meeting my good friend, Mayor P. W. Holdsworth, of Digby, brought up the timely subject of that substance from which we are all created and to which we must all return.

Dust. It was high time for somebody to raise this question in such a definite way, for last summer, at least in those sections of the province that I honored with my presence, the dust nuisance assuredly took the edge off vacation pleasures. It was the dustiest experience I had ever had, except in Florida, and there the dust is really fine white sand, and, while inconvenient, seems to fit into the subtropical environment. Even "Dusty Rhodes" himself must have been pretty well disgusted with highway conditions in Nova Scotia last summer. We can all stand a few miles of "Washboard" highways, but a continuous dose of dust is "something else again," besides being a real danger to motorists. As Mayor Holdsworth well says, it is useless to spend thousands of dollars on tourist advertising, if visitors are to come to the Province once "and then be so disgusted with road conditions that they will never return."

The Land of Evangeline Tourist Association likewise was well advised to bring up the matter of improving the secondary roads of the province, for many of these are a real delight, as the Halifax Chronicle's ubiquitous "Gasoline Gypsy" well knows.

This interesting writer, by the way, is the one man I envy, for he appears to have been in every nook and corner of his fascinating Province, and it is my belief that he has done more to "sell" Nova Scotia to its inhabitants than anyone since the days of Joseph Howe and Thomas Chandler Haliburton.

And speaking of secondary roads, a Digby friend of mine started out, by himself, one Sunday last summer for a couple of hours' motoring in the side roads of the vicinity, and became so enamored of his trip that he eventually found himself in Yarmouth, too late to return home that night. By all means fix up the secondary roads, and see that they are well-supplied with direction signs.

THE HIT-AND-RUN MENACE

It is hardly necessary to say that every effort should be made to apprehend motorists who flee from the scene of an accident leaving a victim helpless in the road. Such a person offends all sense of decency and every dictate of civilization.

One appreciates that for a moment a motorist might be panic-stricken when he realizes he has struck down a fellow-being. But he who yields only to fear and flees the scene convicts himself of cowardice. But he, who actuated only by cunning, leaves a human being in distress, is worse than a coward.

Smilin' Charlie Says

"It'd be quite a compliment if most of us 't' be told we have th' mentality of a twelve year old—considerin' what a twelve year old youngster knows, now-a-days."

An appeal to manhood where there is no manhood is futile. So long as there is a possibility of escaping the consequences of carelessness there will be those who will attempt it.

The only effective check against the hit-and-run driver is increased efficiency of the police in ferreting out such offenders and a severity of the courts that will make an attempted escape a greater hazard than stopping after an accident to render assistance to the injured and face the consequences. For people who are actuated by fear make the consequences of abandoning a victim a cause for greater fear. Make it clear to the cunning that their greater advantage lies in admitting responsibility for the accident if the fault is theirs. And the public can help abolish the hit-and-run driver by letting the motorist know that should he stop his machine he will not become the victim of mob violence.

COMMUNITY PROGRESS

While Digby has much to boast of as it considers past achievements, it should be shepherded at this stage of its community development to rest content with past laurels and cease striving for further advancement.

Digby's present high standing among centers of equal population has been won by foresight and aggressive policies in the past. This generation should be just as eager to assure an enviable future for the community as were those men of former generations who often fought a stiff-up-hill fight to gain those things upon which the town's present prestige rests.

Never before in its history has Digby been in such good position to go forward in rapid and substantial development as right now. It has all its pristine attractions plus many of relatively recent acquisition.

But to do the things that must be done if the community is to progress along desirable lines of commercial, industrial and residential expansion and betterment there must be no diminution of that spirit of co-operation and willing effort on the part of a considerable number of citizens which has been manifested in all its past accomplishments.

And just as men and women of vision and civic consciousness have always been available in the past, so will they come to the service of the community in future hours of need.

BYGONES

The business man or manufacturer who hope for the future is wrapped up in an expected return to pre-war normalcy is out on a limb. For pre-war normalcy never will return. That's history.

We still hear suggestions and hopes of reverting to old-time methods and the pre-war business basis, but, according to Dr. Julius Klein, of the United States Department of Commerce, such a retrogression would be about as simple as an attempt to return to the middle ages—and as profitable.

There isn't a great deal of room in business these days for Aunt Sarah, who inherited a shoe factory and insisted that the factory go on making high-laced shoes because Uncle Ezra sold 'em in the '70s. Business never was more dynamic and volatile than it is today, with a constantly changing front in practically all lines.

Since 1921, Mr. Klein points out, business has left as monuments of its progress a long succession of junk-heaps of discarded processes, antiquated ideas and obsolete policies. There have been tragedies of those who clung too long to revered and once profitable practices.

The new business man must be eager to take advantage of the slightest changes in trend. It is no day for secrecy. Backward glimpses should not be longed and desirous of what is behind, but intelligently inquisitive of facts.

He who keeps too many irons in the fire gets burned.

Trouble is a lot of fun and fun is a lot of trouble.

The great China question, as seen in most of our homes, is, "Who will wash the dishes?"

Cheap Excursions to New England.

The Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc. announces an excursion for Nova Scotians at the lowest rates ever offered by the company for a round trip between Nova Scotia and Boston.

The excursionists will leave Yarmouth on February 24th, aboard the steamer Yarmouth, and will be permitted to remain in the United States until March 6th. If they wish they may return to Nova Scotia on any sailing of the Yarmouth from Boston up to and including March 6th.

The Eastern Lines, in arranging this excursion has figured on leaving the excursionists in New England during a period when the weather is unusually delightful.

Reservations for the round trip may be made at the offices of the Eastern Lines at Yarmouth or at any railroad office in Nova Scotia.

CELEBRATE FEAST

The Feast of the Purification was celebrated with great solemnity at St. Mary's Church, Church Point, on Sunday, February 12th. At High Mass, Rev. Father Leveque officiated with Rev. Father Letamis as deacon and Rev. Father Ove as subdeacon. Students of the college assisted "en corps" while the college choir under the direction of Rev. Father Kennedy sang the Mass. Professor Ulysse Comeau presided at the organ. The church was decorated by Jean Thibodeau. As the roads were good the ceremony was largely attended.

Annual Report Sun Life Cheering Reading

In a year when business statements, on the whole, are far from cheering, the published experience of life insurance makes heartening reading.

While other investments have too often proved disappointing, every policy held in our life insurance companies is still worth one hundred cents on the dollar, with substantial additions in accumulating dividends.

The steady flow of insurance funds into productive industry is one of the greatest mainstays of business today. But few realize the extent of this financial support in the case of individuals. Payments to policyholders and their dependants during the year for instance, by the Sun Life of Canada, whose statement appears in another column climbed to over $108,000,000. A portion of this represents money that the assured could obtain only on the value of their policies to meet the special exigencies of a distressing period.

These and other conditions during the past three or four years have subjected life insurance companies to a most exacting test. The war and the influenza epidemic, by abnormally increasing mortalities, produced a situation against which human foresight could scarcely provide. The financial catastrophe by which they were so closely followed created conditions that only the strongest institutions could withstand.

Yet, during the three years in question, the business of the Sun Life Company increased by nearly five hundred million dollars and its assets by forty-three million dollars. The number of its policyholders increased, during that period, by over two hundred thousand and now amounts to nearly a million. This resiliency under abnormal strain is both amazing and reassuring to the man in the street.

One explanation of the ability of an insurance company to meet all its obligations under such trying conditions is that its obligations are so scientifically estimated that it is able to provide for all expenditures out of ordinary revenue. This renders it unnecessary to dispose of assets during a period of depressed prices, and makes the fluctuation of security prices a matter of no special concern.

The report of the Sun Life refers to the fact that the total of its assurances in force—nearly three billion dollars—will be payable during the present generation. If to this huge sum be added the amount payable during the same period by other insurance companies the wholesome effect upon the economic and social situation in the coming years can scarcely be overestimated.

END OF THE TRAIL

If I live a life that is clean and square
And aid my fellowman
By lending a hand to help him bear
His burdens the best I can,
I need not fear what its close may be
Nor how critics my life shall assess.
Nor what the future holds out for me
When I reach the end of the trail.
If I speak a word of good cheer to one Whose sorrows have broken him down,
And thus give him hope to struggle on
With a smile instead of a frown,
I shall fear when the shadows fall
And my earthly strength shall fail;
I'll trust in Him, who redeemed us all.
When I reach the end of the trail.
If a part of my life I freely give,
To help those who faint by the way;
Or even pure water, so thirsty ones
Will love.
Not thinking what will be my pay,
Whether I live in a house by the side of the road,
By mountain, by river, or vale,
I'm willing to reap the seed that I've sown.
When I reach the end of the trail.

BY AIR

Eva Phillips Boyd

I visited with God today
And joined the angels in their play!
For just my joy the round earth rolled
And widening strips of brown and black
Where small men crawled the plough-horse track.
Wee women stood in narrow plote;
The flocks of geese were clustered
And widening strips of brown and black
Where small men crawled the plough-horse track.
Wee women stood in narrow plote;
The flocks of geese were clustered

White as the lichen spread to dry—
I smiled upon them from the sky!
Toy cattle grazed, play windmills turned.
And threads of smoke, from hearth fires burned;
Showed where they spent their little days.
"Oh, look!" I called, "Look up and praise!"
For life is more than work and food;
Oh, see how big it is and good!
For I saw today what God can see,
And shared with Him Eternity.

Stepping out of the Ethier shop we find ourselves on the old plank sidewalk that extended from the foot of the hill to the South end of the bridge. There was such a side-walk on each side of the road, made of short lengths of spruce planks laid crosswise and spiked to stringers with here and there a loose plank that had worked away from its fastening and had a tricky way of jumping up from the inside and dropping down on the outer side, and tripping the passing pedestrian much to his or her annoyance and embarrassment.

ism or coddling of employees, but taught them a lot about business and brass tactics. Equipped with this experience and some ready cash Penwick Journey opened the first exclusive dry goods store in Weymouth in the Livingston building. Apparently he knew what the trade demanded and he proceeded to supply that demand with the latest and best in the market, a policy that he continued for many years with satisfaction to his customers and no doubt with considerable profit to himself. Some years ago he retired from business and is still living in Weymouth. I believe the only living storekeeper of that group of retail merchants who were engaged in business at the Bridge in the late eighties and early nineties. The name of Journey in Weymouth retail stores is perpetuated in the business of H. M. Journeay, who for several years was an important member of the Campbell organization before engaging in business for himself.

The next of the old time stores was that of James Lovett, a well-known and a very entertaining Irish gentleman who dealt in a little of everything. Apparently the ups and downs of retail trade did not bother him a great deal, for when he was not arguing politics and religion he amused himself with a bit of a song. A few words from one of his favorite ballads still stick to my memory. They are: "Taypot Taypot are ye there? Cups and saucers broke me heart and left me pocket bare." If there are any of our readers who remember all of that song, I hope they will send it to the Gazette or the Digby Courier for publication. James Lovett was a firm believer in the potency of goat's milk as a cure for what ails you. Some there were, who claimed that the goat's milk referred to, was just another name for Irish whiskey. Be that as it may, from my limited experience with both liquids I am of the opinion that too much of either would be much too much.

When James Lovett passed away his business was carried on by Mrs. Lovett assisted by her niece, Mary and Emma Adams, the former becoming Mrs. Alex Beaton and the latter, Mrs. Dennis Madden. At the death of Mrs. Lovett the store was sold and as far as this story is concerned, passes out of the picture.

Almost directly across the road was a store that was a store. In addition to its full stock of goods everything in the place was arranged as if it were there for exhibition purposes only. Every article was so placed on shelves and in cases that a clerk could locate and remove it without delay or confusion and not a speck of dust or a fingerprint was ever to be seen on any of the shelf goods or upon any of the show cases. A place for everything and everything in its proper place was the idea predominating in the splendidly arranged and well kept store of George J. Hoyt, merchant and postmaster for many years. And the business of the Weymouth Bridge Post Office was just as carefully handled as that of the Hoyt general store, even the sealing wax and seals upon the mail bags for New Tusket, Corbierie and other frontier points had to be applied in accordance with the Hoyt idea of perfection in all things. When Mr. George Hoyt, long a sufferer from various physical ailments, passed on, his business was continued by his son, Harry S. Hoyt, who since his death has been a close student of business methods and was even more of a stickler for perfection and efficiency than his father had been. Father and son were partners and pals who discussed their affairs with each other with the one purpose of arriving at a complete understanding and deciding upon the proper course of action, which is a fine idea for any parent and son to follow. If more parents took their boys to school with confidence and discussed their problems with them, there would be more successful business men in the world. When Harry S. Hoyt passed away a short time ago, there went out of the business life of Weymouth a man of sterling character, culture, refinement and exemplary habits.

Back across the road again, we find the Jewelry shop of Mr. John Hood, a shop long since vacated by the original owner, and next to the Hood building was the candy shop of Mrs. Mildon, of whose customers there are still a number residing in Weymouth, who remember that charming and generous old lady who never allowed a youngster to go out of her shop without a bit of candy, regardless of whether he had a cent or not—what did money matter to her as long as the kiddie was made happy? Mrs. Mildon closed the doors of her store and passed into the world beyond years ago, beloved and honored by all who knew her. The Mildon Building has been occupied by others at different times, one of the most recent being Robert Bourne, who conducted a provision store on the premises.

And close to the Mildon shop there was built in the late sixties, the store of George Taylor, one of the first graduates from the Campbell institution of trade and commerce. I became acquainted with the owner of this store at a very early age, having been introduced by old Doctor Ruggles, a somewhat noted Master of Ceremonies of that time. I was then given the name of George along with a middle name which the family insisted upon calling me by. A name for some reason I never fancied but had to accept. My father did not relish the idea of there being an Old George and a young George in the family so that perhaps was the real reason for calling me by the middle name. In school I was given one or two other names, which those who gave them to me have no doubt forgotten by this time. The Taylor store was very much like the others, the stock consisted of a general line of Dry Goods, Men's Ready Made Clothing, Woolsens and Trimmings, Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes, Rubbers and Larrigans, some Crockery and Glassware, a lot of needles but no anchor, a stock of groceries, kerosene oil and molasses. The latter I remember so well for the severe reprimand I received when on one unlucky day I got the measuring cans mixed and drew a gallon of molasses in the kerosene measure. The aforesaid sweetening was promptly returned by the wrathful customer who recommended drastic action be taken to cure me of my carelessness. The Taylor store enjoyed a good trade with the French people in and near Weymouth, for George Taylor was a paragon—or of no mean ability, and French men and women loved to trade with him and carry on lengthy conversations or indulge in his famous French making their purchases or exchanging home knit woolen socks for store goods, and a great piece of knitting were those thick woolen socks of grey and various shades of blue which were shipped to Boston, where there was a good demand in winter for such heavy and durable footwear from workers engaged in outdoor labor. I wonder whether they are any of the French people who card and spin their own wool and hand knit the yarn into mittens and socks? Knitting mills have probably put the home knitters out of the running as far as mittens for socks is concerned. In the French people the Taylor store received its share of all other business that the town had to offer for the proprietor had many friends among all the people of Weymouth and its surroundings. In 1916 George Taylor went on that long journey from which no traveler ever returns, leaving the store to his second son, who is still running the business in much the same modest way as did his father before him.

Next to the Taylor store on the same side of the street was a very old building erected years and years ago by the Martin family, but at the time that I best remember, it was occupied by Alonzo D. Foote, as the carriage shop where he labored early and late, repairing old, and building new buggies, carts and wagons, equipped with shafts, poles, whiffletrees and all other attachments and appliances necessary to a first class job. A. D. Foote was one of the first members of the Weymouth Band and one of its most faithful, for he never missed a practice meeting and did his share of the work in building for the organization when boosting was badly needed. As I write this I am looking at an old photograph taken during the first days of the band's existence, and I fondly recognize and salute the subject of this sketch as the man with the bow derby in which style of headgear he has several years the start of the Hon. Al Smith, famous ex-Governor of New York.

Enough for this time about shopkeepers.

California continues to have "unusual" weather, the heaviest storm of the season raged up and down the state today leaving death and property destruction in its wake. A heavy gale in San Francisco Bay tossed ferry boats around, rolling the waves over their lower decks and throwing a bad scare into the passengers. Good seamanship, however, brought the boats safely into their slips. Flooded highways in the valleys and snow-blocked roads in the mountain districts have made the going hard and dangerous for motorists. In Southern California the orange growers are busy with their smudge pots trying to keep back frost out of their orchards. Burning crude oil in sheet iron heaters, made especially for the purpose, is the only way the orchard men can protect their fruit from freezing on the trees. When this work is in progress the black smoke billows out of clouds of smoke which in addition to protecting the fruit raises the mischievous with the washing on the line; the smoke also gets into the house blackening up the walls and curtains and the white woodwork, much to the annoyance and grief of the housewives.

Over at Pipe City the boys are having a more or less hard time keeping warm. Pipe City on the outside of Oakland is a camp of some two hundred homeless and unemployed men who took possession of a storage yard of a concrete pipe manufacturing company, and have converted sections of sewer pipe and culvert pipe into living quarters by closing up one end of the pipe with boards, sheet iron and other material and hanging pieces of canvas or blankets over the other end. There is no way of heating the dwellings, and most of the men have none too much bedding. The camp is supplied with water by the pipe company free of charge and the citizens of Oakland have so far donated food and clothing. The camp is laid out in rows of pipe with walks or streets between. Cooking and washing is done in temporary sheds erected by the men, from boxes and waste material gathered from along the waterfront and the railroad tracks. Many ingenious contrivances have been invented to make camp life more endurable. One of the most interesting that I noticed was a steam heating plant which one of the lagers had fixed up with a piece of iron pipe curled around the inside of his concrete bedroom, and connected with a piece of steam hose attached to a tankette which was heated on an improvised cook-stove set up in the alley. This sounds like one of Professor J. Lucifer Butts' inventions, but the boy said it worked. The "City" is ruled by a "Mayor" and twelve "Captains" who meet in conference each morning and outline the day's work for the camp and check up the commissary supplies. So far the camp has been a peaceful one and has given the City authorities of Oakland no trouble. The campers are not Hobos, but a lot of penniless working men who have found it impossible to get a job. The magic name of Roosevelt has not done much to help them. Perhaps after March 4th, all will be rosy—Mebbe so—I am wondering why there are so many pessimistic Democrats abroad in the land. Something must have gone wrong with the Democratic tug boat that was going to pull us off the rocks—Oh yes, it hasn't gotten up steam yet—O. K.—we are a patient people.

There had been a rear-end collision. One of the drivers climbed out in a fit of temper and strode up to a man standing on the sidewalk, thinking him to be the other driver.

"Say, where's your tail light?" he roared.

"JESUS SHOWS HIS POWER"

Golden Text:—"For I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day."—II Timothy 1:12 b.

Lesson Passage:—

Mark 4: 35-51; 8, 18-20.

Dear Lord, who sought at dawn of day

The solitary woods to pray,
In quietness we come to ask
Thy presence for the daily task.

Strong Pilot, who at midnight hour
Could calm the sea with gentle power,
Grant us the skill to aid the bark
Of those who drift in storm and dark.

—Harry Webb Farrington.

Out-of-Doors, 35, 26

Much of the public ministry of Jesus was spent out-of-doors. His baptism was in the Jordan Valley. His temptation was in the wilderness. His transfiguration was on a hilltop. He walked through a corn field, prayed in a garden and taught crowds on the hillsides and on the lakeshore. Here we see him with his disciples in a boat upon the Sea of Galilee. His visits to the cities and towns were only occasional. Much of his time was spent where the flowers grew, the birds sang and the grain ripened in the field. He knew the power of nature. To him it was his Father's world.

Storm and Calm, 37-41

Jesus was fatigued with teaching, and he lay down in the boat to sleep. He knew that his disciples were fishermen, and therefore experienced hostmen, and he trusted to their seamanship. The Sea of Galilee, however, is treacherous and a violent storm arose. The waves threatened to swamp the ship, and the disciples awoke their Master rather imploring that he was indifferent to their danger. He commanded the sea to be still, and a great calm followed the storm. Those who were in the boat were greatly impressed. Perhaps the control of Jesus over himself amid danger was more significant than the power displayed over the waves. He never lost his self-command. Repeatedly when his disciples were ready to give away to panic he steadied them and gave them peace. Christ has done much to free his followers from fear.

A Soul in Storm, 1-5

The people with whom Jesus associated believed in demonic possession. They had no other explanation for loss of reason. Apart from a few places where civilization has been more advanced, Africa is still tormented by belief in witches. Many people in India and China believe in demon possession. Traces of this belief have lasted long even in so-called Christian countries as witness methods of treating the insane. To day we know that the so-called evil spirits are due to sickness of body, mind and soul. Very often a slight injury may cause mental disorder. Pity and skilled medical treatment and care are due to those thus afflicted rather than cruel penalties.

Calm Restored, 6-8

The unhappy demoniac who lived amongst the tombs and who was the victim of self-torture cried out when he saw Jesus. He was suffering from what is called multiple personality. Jesus asked him, "What is your name?" This was the first step in restoring him to a unified personality. Jesus sought to recall him to something that was definitely his own. This man had seen the Roman legion's marching, and he had that felt his spirit was made up of many different personalities, and he replied, "My name is Legion for we are many." So many contradictory impulses and various voices warred within him that he felt he was more like a whole battalion than one person. Seldom do we realize how Jesus has freed us from superstition and spread fear in evil spirits. Just as he freed the demoniac from mental torment so has he delivered many of his followers from inner conflicts. To troubled souls as to the troubled sea, he brings peace.

The Impulse to Tell, 18-20

When Jesus returned to the boat the man who had been cured wished to go aboard with him. Jesus denied him this privilege, and told him to go and tell his story. What great things had been done for him. He went throughout Decapolis telling what great things Jesus had done for him, and made men marvel at his story. Those who have been signally helped by the power of Christ are usually eager to tell others in order that their friends and acquaintances may be helped also. Christianity could not have survived and spread as it has done had it not been for the personal testimonies of those who have been helped already. Every church suffers in greater or less degree from conquest of the spirit of exclusivity is not desirable nor superficial chatter about religion, but those who have felt the love of Christ must needs tell others of the deepest experience of their lives. "Let the redeemed of the Lord say so." When religion becomes vital it is sure to become vocal. Paul was always eager to bear witness, "For I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day." Such a faith cannot be kept to oneself.

Questions for Discussion:

1. Was it because he knew that his disciples were fishermen and boatmen that Jesus chose them as his followers?
2. Why do so many people lose reason through religious delusion?
3. How do you explain Christ's knowledge of mental laws?
4. Are all Christians incomplete Christians?
5. Why is some form of expression necessary for spiritual health?
6. What did Christ mean when he said, "My peace I give unto you?"

We Live in an Age—
—When speed is mistaken for progress.
—When change is mistaken for improvement.
—When unnecessary things exercise the tyranny of necessities.
—When it seems popular to appear worse than we are.
—When economic chickens are coming home to political roosts.
—When small men try to appear great by making great men appear small.
—When men are seeking a religion that has no duties connected with it.

The pupils of the Intermediate and Primary rooms of the Weymouth School were entertained at a delightful Valentine Party at the School-room on Tuesday afternoon of last week, by their teachers, the Misses Rae and Clara Hankinson. QUAINTNESS IN NAMES

Curious names surround Berlin. There is a forest called "Heaven" and an old monastery christened "Paradise." A Mrs. "Lockround" and a village "Sincenew." A forest, "Dancehall" and a hamlet, "Prettychimey." Some of the hills must have been christened by a chef de cuisine. There are the "Bread Baking Green Hills," the "Butter Hills," and the "Sauerkraut Hills." Hurrying people travelling by car or train will probably never find them, but the patient hiker discovers many such quaint places with surprise and amusement.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Blinn, of Bellevue's Cove, entertained their nieces, the Misses Alda and Anna Buckley, Bernadette Gaudet, Marguerite, May and Zelle Gaudet, and Evelyn Melanson, on Sunday evening of last week.

THE COST OF LIVING PROBLEM

In these days when so many people are watching their expenditure so closely, it will be a matter of satisfaction to know that by the recent reduction in the price of MORSE'S STANDARD TEA one may enjoy tea drinking at a cost of only one-sixth of a cent per cup. The price of MORSE'S STANDARD TEA is now 40 cents per pound package and it has the leaf quality which makes it possible to get 240 cups to the pound. And MORSE'S STANDARD TEA, long known as "the good old family tea of the Maritimes," has particularly satisfying qualities, having been designed to exactly meet the critical taste of Maritime tea drinkers. Who would need to use inferior blends when six cups of full flavoured, thick-liguring tea can be had for one cent?

Simon Landry arrived home last Friday to spend a short time with his family.

The death occurred Monday evening, February 26th, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Morehouse, with whom he had been spending the winter, of Joseph E. Denton, one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Little River, aged 85 years and 11 months. He was the son of the late Kelsey A. Denton and Hannah Trask. He was confined to his bed for only two days, heart trouble being the direct cause of death. The deceased was of a quiet, gentle disposition and beloved by all who knew him. He was a member of the Baptist Church, baptized by the late Rev. J. C. Morse, the first Baptist minister on Digby Neck. His wife, Amanda, predeceased him a year ago. For many years before his retirement, he was foreman of the Thistle Canning Co. The deceased is survived by four sons, Ernest, Omer, Austin and Clayton; two daughters, Mrs. Charles B. Morehouse, and Mrs. G. W. Eldridge, of Sandy Cove; one sister, Mrs. Isabel Tibert; five half-brothers, Dr. L. M. Denton, Kansas City, Mo.; Professor K. C. Denton, Montreal; Wm. B. Denton, Halifax; Walter and Timothy Denton; two half-sisters, Mrs. I. D. Harvey and Mrs. Minnie Trask, and 24 grandchildren. The funeral took place in Wednesday, conducted by Rev. C. L. Chute, assisted by Rev. I. D. Harvey. Interment was in the Baptist cemetery. One of the largest concourses of people seen in years followed him to his last resting place, which shows the esteem in which he was held in the community.

Brief History of Digby County Papers

From an old scrap book in Weymouth, we copy the following:

"DIGBY WEEKLY COURIER, C. E. Farnham, Proprietor.

The first paper started in Digby was named the "Acadian." It was owned and published by Albert Edward Dodge. In the year 1857, and continued to do business here until 1863, when it was removed to Weymouth, where the office was consumed by fire within a year, after which Mr. Dodge went to New York and studied medicine, graduating as a homoeopathic doctor. His health shortly after became impaired, and he returned to this town, where he died of consumption. He was a grandson of the late Benj. Dodge, the first magistrate in the county of Annapolis, appointed by King George. The next paper was "The Examiner," founded in May, 1865, by Byron S. Cossett, which survived until January, 1867, when it was consumed by fire. Its Editor and proprietor, Byron S. Cossett, died a victim to consumption, May 4th, 1874, aged 27 years. "The Digby Weekly Courier" was the next journal to enter the field, the first number being published in September, 1874, with B. S. McCormick as its proprietor and publisher, who continued to publish it until December, 1881, when it was sold out to the Rev. Eugene O'Hanney, who held possession until March, 1885, when the present proprietor, C. E. Farnham took charge, since which time the paper has been enlarged and improved, and at the present time is considered one of the best weeklies in the Maritime Provinces, having a circulation of 1600 copies, and is an excellent advertising medium."

We absolutely refuse to believe this as told us by friend. He said he was going along Water Street during the last session of the council in company with a county councillor when a farmer drove up and said to the latter: "Here, you hold my horse a minute!" "Sir," replied the councillor with dignity, "I am a county councillor." "Oh, well, even if you are," replied the farmer, "I'll take a chance."

FRIDAY, MARCH 3, 1933

NOVA SCOTIA'S TOURIST TRADE POSSIBILITIES.

NO. 7.

By Thomas F. Anderson.

An Apple-Blossom Carnival at Kentville, next June, with the co-operation of other communities in Nova Scotia's Santa Clara Valley?

By all means! Why should not Nova Scotia's famous apple region have its yearly festival just as much as Pasadena, Santa Barbara and Portland, Oregon? All the world has heard of "Apple-Blossom Time in Normandy," but Normandy's spring aspect is not to be compared to that wonderful blanket of blossoms that overspreads the Annapolis Valley in early June.

The Carnival, if held, would have a more local appeal, for it is one of the minor tragedies of Nova Scotia life that both the apple-blossom season and the harvesting of the luscious fruit come at a time that is inconvenient for the average vacationist—the blossoms before the schools in the neighboring republic close for the summer vacation, and the harvest about the time they are re-opening.

Nevertheless, the apple-blossoms of Nova Scotia have been capitalized for half a century by the tourist trade propagandists, and often have they been exploited in booklets, newspaper articles, and lantern-slide lectures.

Our favorite nature-writer, Thoreau, holds that "the flowers of the apple are perhaps the most beautiful of any trees, so copious and so delicious to both sight and scent." Thoreau was not entirely an enthusiast, but I think that even he would have glimpsed the early June glories of those seventy miles of the Annapolis Valley.

Charles G. D. Roberts, Blase Carman, and many other noted writers with a flair for Nova Scotia scenery and romance, have celebrated the wonders of the apple-blossom season, and doubtless other writers to follow them will be doing likewise for many a year to come.

Ever since passenger trains ran through the Valley, conductors and brakemen have been jumping off the platform in June to pick roadside sprays of apple-blossoms for the edification of their feminine customers; and probably the immortal Joe Edwards was the very first of the guild to extend this pleasing service. They especially like to do this when they know that some early bird among the season's vacationists from Yankee-land is in the parlor-car.

Apple-blossoms indeed have a strong influence with all lovers of nature and the beautiful, and two of our American states, Arkansas and Michigan, have adopted them as their official emblems.

That fine upstanding pioneer orchardist, the late Ralph S. Eaton, well understood the drawing power of the Annapolis Valley orchards with the travelling public, both in blossom and harvest time, and, as noted in a recent obituary, was ever zealous in placing the attractions of the Valley before visitors.

If Mr. Eaton were with us he, undoubtedly, would have heartily approved of the suggested Apple-Blossom Festival, and understood its great value as a stimulus to the people of the entire Province, even though no great number of visitors from outside could be expected to view it. It has great publicity possibilities.

It has been most interesting to follow the development of the Annapolis Valley during the past half century; and, as I write this, I am reminded that years ago it was suggested to my old friend, the late Henry M. Whitney, that he organize a syndicate to buy up all of the Valley orchards. Maybe it is just as well Mr. Whitney did not see fit to do this.

Some day a qualified writer

Smilin' Charlie Says—

These new fangled domestic science ideas are alright in the parlor—providin' theys an old fashioned cook in the kitchen—will emblazon in book form the fascinating history of the apple-growing industry of the Annapolis Valley. It will make wonderful reading.

So let us hope there will be a picturesque apple-blossom festival, with a Carnival flavor and plenty of good music, somewhere in the heart of the Valley next June.

Some of us will be thinking then of Lucy Larcom, who wrote:

"Apple-blossoms budding, blowing
In the soft May air;
Cups with sunshine overflowing—
Flakes of fragrance, drifting snow-ins,
Showering everywhere!"

POLITICAL INDEPENDENCE

Commenting on the fact that a local legislator, named MacIntosh, crossed the floor of a western house, a western paper says:

"It does not matter much which political party gained or lost by the passage of Charles MacIntosh across the floor of the chamber. The main thing is that he did cross in compliance with his sense of public duty. Nominally the electors choose their representatives in the legislature, but as a matter of fact they have very little to do with it. A few self-appointed leaders organize a convention, at which a few party heeled gather and 'choose' the name that has been handed to them. To the ordinary voting citizen remains the privilege of making selection between two rival convention nominees, neither of whom might be chosen by him for management of his own personal affairs. Under such a system it is no wonder that democracy is still on trial. The redeeming feature of the silly farce lies in the very occasional appearance of such as MacIntosh who place public duty before party discipline."

EVILS OF PRICE CUTTING

Price cutting covers a multitude of sins. It has been abused and exploited by unscrupulous merchandisers until much with glittering prices is not gold in one's purse.

All business has had to cut prices. Manufacturers and merchants with reputations for fine quality and high prices are selling for less today just as the maker and seller of the cheap and shoddy are doing. Prolonged and widespread unemployment made this an economic necessity. It is no disgrace today to mark down goods but there is a dishonest minority element in business which has disgracefully reduced the quality of merchandise out of proportion to the lower prices.

Price cutting has become a racket in some quarters, a racket made possible by universal price reduction. One cannot conceive of such a thing in normal times when the public considers price in relation to quality and satisfaction. Today unfortunate economic circumstances force millions to ferret out the lowest price regardless of quality or fitness. The racketeers

The cup was offered for the first time last fall, to be won by the best school, taking part in the school fair of Mr. LeBlanc's district. The presentation took place in the community hall of Little Brook. Orators for the occasion were Rev. Fathers Hache and Hebert, of St. Anne's College, Church Point; Mr. Robt. of Sackville, N. The "Helping Hand," Canadian Girl in Training Group met at the home of the Leader, Kathleen Fitzgerald, at Weymouth North, on Friday evening.

The meeting took the form of a "Backwards" night, the girls dressing "backwards" in keeping with the programme. The meeting opened with the singing of "Taps," the closing song, followed by the usual "treat" and the game period, the games being all new ones, played by the group for the first time. The Study period was one of the "curiosity" ones, which have proven very popular with this group, and is also educational and instructive as well as interesting. At the business period several matters of importance were brought up, including the changing of the evening of meeting from Friday to either Monday or Saturday, to be definitely decided upon later; also the Group attending a church service in a body one Sunday during Demonstrative Week (March 19-26) the Rector, having kindly offered to preach an appropriate sermon for this service. The devotional period, on the theme, "Worship the Lord in the Beauty of Holiness" was led by Leslie Rugless. The repeating of the purpose, brought to a close one of the most successful meetings of the season.

Home town boosters have always worked unselfishly for the community as a whole and are entitled to the support of every citizen.

Loyalty and fairness demand that every citizen support local business concerns in every way possible.

Too much praise and credit cannot be given to the home town boosters, as they pave the way to making the home town a better, busier and brighter place in which to live and prosper.

After two years' study of the proper equipment necessary for Digby Co. roads, we have modeled a Funeral Car that is adaptable to our roads at all times, practically similar to the cars used in the larger cities of United States and Canada, demanding instant recognition and traffic rights as a Funeral Car.
Our equipment is valued today at seven times its value eleven years ago, proving our continual growth. We are constantly adding new equipment as it demonstrates its value to the public.
We employ no agents, entirely soliciting patronage by the merits of our service. Prices are kept down to the minimum and our service the best, with transportation easily possible to and from any point in Nova Scotia.

DEATH CLAIMS F. J. BARNJUM ON PARIS VISIT

Frank J. D. Barnjum, millionaire Canadian lumberman, died at Paris on February 18th, after a week's illness. He succumbed at Neuilly, a place where he had been receiving treatment. Author as well as forestry expert, Mr. Barnjum of late resided at Annapolis Royal. His son was in Paris with him while his widow was at present in Lyonsville, Mass. With the death of Mr. Barnjum a colorful career is ended. He was born some 70 years ago in Montreal. His father, who was a physical instructor, immigrated to Canada from England. Due to the early death of his father, Frank Barnjum, when a young boy, had to help support his mother and family. Mr. Barnjum quickly showed his exceptional ability as a merchant and trader. When still in his early twenties, he had been able to gather a small amount of capital, mostly through horse trading. When he devoted his whole time, energy and money to the cause of forest conservation, he is known throughout the whole Dominion of Canada and the United States, as well as in all forestry circles in England, and Europe, as the Canadian Forest Crusader. There is hardly a Canadian newspaper or magazine, which has not monthly carried articles from his prolific pen on forest conservation.

It was while returning from a trip through the Italian Government forests, that death overtook him in Paris. His only son, George Barnjum, a civil engineer, with a large experience in surveying and cruising, was his close co-operator. He leaves also a widow and four daughters living near Boston.

The late Mr. Barnjum was for several years a member of the Nova Scotia Legislature, having been elected in 1925.

CAPT. RICHARD MARSHALL CELEBRATES 92nd BIRTHDAY AT WEYMOUTH NORTH

On February 22nd, Captain Richard Marshall, the oldest resident of Weymouth North, celebrated his 92nd birthday. Captain Marshall, now residing with his wife, at their home in Weymouth North, was born at Dalhousie, Annapolis County in 1841. He came to Weymouth when four years of age. Weymouth at that time was a prosperous village, doing a thriving business in ship-building and shipping.

Capt. Marshall started his seafaring career at the age of sixteen, sailing to the West Indies in the "John Oliver" as cabin boy. His trips followed in the ships, "Prin-

EXCESS FAT MELTS

Under Treatment That Creates Energy

Some folks are naturally fat, but there's a lot of people who put on pounds of unhealthful fat because they haven't got enough energy to move about to keep it off.
It's not laziness in most cases—but a condition brought about by sluggishness of the internal organs—the liver, bowels, and kidneys. As a result, poisons and harmful acids that kill vigor, ambition, and energy get into the blood—the whole general tone of the body is lowered and fat accumulates.

Thousands of overwrought men and women find in Kruschen Salts, a perfectly safe, sure, and beneficial means of reducing.
The "little daily dose" of Kruschen Salts keeps the organs functioning properly every day, and fills you with such a feeling of radiant vitality and vigor that before you know it you are fairly "jumping out of your skin" with energy, instead of "loping around"—and reduction follows as a matter of course—Nature attends to that.

FREE TRIAL OFFER

If you have never tried Kruschen Salts, try it now at my expense. We have distributed a great many special "GIANT" packages to make it easy for you to prove our claims for yourself. This consists of our regular 75c. bottle together with a separate trial bottle for about one week. Upon the trial bottle first, put it to the test, and then, if not entirely convinced that Kruschen does everything we claim it to do, the regular bottle is still as good as new. Take it back. Your druggist is authorized to return your 75c. immediately and without question. You have tried Kruschen free at our expense. What could be fairer?

cess," "Charlotte," "Crosby," "Helen Campbell," "Douglas Campbell," "Colin Campbell," "Susan L. Campbell," "The Two Marys," and the "Frances Rice."

In 1868 he became captain of his first ship, the brigantine, "Two Marys," which he sailed at Annapolis Royal, sailing for Trinidad, back to Barbadoes, loading salt at St. Martin's for Boston. The Captain's last trip was made on the "Frances Rice," which he sailed for several years, a crew of fourteen Norwegians from life-boats, they having had to abandon their ship which went down.

In the forty-two years of his life which he spent in sea-faring, Captain Marshall made only two shipwrecks and ten trips to the West Indies and fifteen to the Old Country, making a total of one hundred and twenty-five trips, chiefly from the ports of Meteghan River, Weymouth, Annapolis Royal, Bear River, Boston, Porto Rico, Rotterdam, Saint John, Cuba, Barbadoes, Trinidad, Jamaica, Philadelphia, Ireland and Demerara.

During his years of sailing the Captain had only two shipwrecks: one in 1867, the barque "Susan L. Campbell," being stranded in Liverpool Bay; the other the "Grace Rice," going ashore on Briar Island in 1885. Only two seamen under his command lost their lives. Doughty and Grant.

With the exception of his falling eyesight, Capt. Marshall is hale and hearty and during the day had many callers who came to meet him and wish him many more happy birthdays.

BRIGHTON AND BARTON

Miss E. Thibault spent one day recently in Brookfield, the guest of Miss Constance Young. Evangelist Frank Fötter, of British Columbia and Clementsport, has been through those parts bringing "The Word" and a new interpretation of the "Book of Revelations." Miss Pearl Lambertson on February 14th, entertained the ladies of the United Church with one of the prettiest parties of this social season. Gay, colorful decorations with the Valentine motif, a general air of light-hearted festivity, and delicious refreshments of heart-shaped confections in great variety well repaid the ladies who made the long cold trip from Brighton down to Jenever Barton. At Mrs. Merritt's suggestion the ladies walked en masse, for warmth, as well as sociability. Who knows? The "Circle" may become a Walking and Reducing Club. The following week Mrs. E. Cosman, V.-e. president, entertained. Mrs. Harris, President, in the chair. Afternoon tea was served; Mrs. Cosman's "sub-deb." daughter poured. This week's meeting has been postponed on account of the death of Mrs. Wilson, an old and honored member of the community, over whose passing much sorrow is felt. Mrs. A. Morehouse, of "Brookfield," had Mrs. W. Krausnick in for "tea and gossip" in the Yellow Room one afternoon last week.

Miss Marguerite Warner, of Plympton, had supper with Mrs. J. Avard Adams last Friday.

Thanks to the prompt action of George Coleman, one of our older citizens who was assisting George Adams to cut ice, was saved from a sad fate! Others who tried the water said it was not too bad.

The ancient expression, "sound and fury," is just high-brow for the modern talkies and critics.

"JESUS GIVING LIFE AND HEALTH"

Golden Text:—"The Lord hath done great things for us; whereof we are glad."—Psalm 126:3.

Lesson Passage: Mark 5:21-24, 34-43

The healing of his seamless dress is by our beds of pain;
We touch him in life's throng and press
And we are whole again. —Whitlister.

Many or One? 21-24

To teach the many or to heal the one that was the question Jesus had to decide that day by the lakeshore.
A great crowd had gathered to hear him and the Great Teacher saw an opportunity to teach. The majority were adults, some of them no doubt influential people, whereas the private was only one little sick girl twelve years of age. Apparently there was no comparison in relative opportunities for service, but the child won attention. It was a matter of life or death for her, whereas the crowd could be taught another day. The earnestness of the father, Jairus, had its effect. He felt at the feet of Jesus and pleaded, saying:
"My little daughter, lie at the point of death; come and lay hands on her, that she may be healed; and she shall live." Who could resist such a touching appeal? Certainly not Jesus who loved children. He turned from the teaching opportunity to save a home from sorrow.
Sickness presented greater immediate urgency than education. He had no doubt as to where duty lay.

Too Late, 35, 36

Though vanquished often by physicians' skill, there are times when death hedges the doctors. Especially heartrending is it when there is a race against time and a life ebbs out before help arrives. As Jesus walked with Jairus, word was brought from the house of this ruler of the synagogue that death had conquered. Jairus was dumb with sorrow and disappointment, but Jesus remained calm. He said to Jairus:
"Be not afraid, only believe." To tell a stricken father who had just learned of his daughter's death to overcome fear with faith, might have appeared heartless in another, but something in the tone and bearing of Jesus gave Jairus confidence.
His one hope was in Jesus. The doctors of his day had little hope to offer. Pity wrote a book recording the remedies prescribed about this time and they were all magical and unscientific. In India an average of about one thousand people are killed every day of the year by poisonous snakes. This ghastly record could be almost wholly eliminated by the prevention and removal of modern civilization in Christian lands. There is no special piety in ignoring the help medical science offers. In fact it is an act of impiety not to avail ourselves of precautions and cures which have been demonstrated to work. Vaccination and inoculation have passed the experimental stage.

Funeral Customs, 37-39

The difference Christ has made is plainly seen in the contrast between ancient and modern funeral custom.
In the house of Jairus, as in the East generally when death has come, were professional mourners who wept and wailed. They were paid to make a show of sorrow. Jesus put the wailers out. They were not practical; they could do nothing but wail, and that only made matters worse. If all those who have used the depression only as an occasion to complain and explain, had tried to cure it, the blight of gloom might have lifted ere now. The day has passed for wailers; what is needed is planners capable of light, cheerful ministrations of the unforseen. Sympathy is helpful, but it cannot be well expressed by wailing. Many followers of Christ are dry-eyed in time of bereavement, not that they do not suffer, but fear has given place to faith. Friends say kind words or give a silent handshake, send flowers, sing hymns of Christian hope, erect stones speaking of the resurrection and the life. Wild demonstrations of grief at a grave side are no longer common, not so much because they are bad form as because they are a self-evident denial of Christian faith and hope.
Christians believe that their loved ones have gone to be with Christ which is far better, and they do not sorrow as those who have no hope.
They comfort one another in the name of him who brought life and immortality to light through the cross. Even from our cemeteries Christ has put out the wailers.

What Was the Sequel? 40-43

Jesus went into the sick room or death room, whichever it was, took the unconscious girl by the hand and said: "Little girl, I am telling you to rise." It was like a get-up call in the morning. To the astonishment of those present, still more to the dismay of the discharged mourners, the little girl arose.
Jesus commanded that she be given something to eat. The restored damsel may have resumed her play.
Imagination lingers on the scene and wonders what was the sequel. The life of the little girl who was rescued from death. Was she a lifelong believer in Jesus? Did she continue to worship in the synagogue where her father was head? Was she always known as a good girl?
One who Jesus had raised? Did she marry and have children to whom she would tell the story of her strange and sudden return to consciousness? Did Jesus ever meet her again, and did she sorrow when she heard of his death on the cross?
Here is a chance for a story writer to complete the narrative.

How Are You?

How many million times a year this salutation is exchanged. "How Are You?" It is not an altogether idle interrogation. Happiness, usefulness, religion even sometimes, depend upon health. Some doctors say that they do not heal; all they claim is that they give nature a chance to cure. They "control the conditions so that nature can work out the cure." Some increasing allments such as insanity and heart disease are the result of wrong modes of living. In China there is little heart disease because of the quiet pulse of the Chinese, while in Canada an increasing number are dying from this in middle life. Religious faith has a great service to render to health. It may banish worry, free from evil habit and give release from dread. Salvation means health, wholesome. Christ has given The Great Physician both to bodies and to souls.

Questions for Discussion:

1. Should medical services be socialized?
2. What is being done in your community to prevent sickness?
3. Why was Jesus so willing to heal the sick?
4. What may the church do for health?
5. How far do Christian ideals govern medical practice to-day?
6. When, if ever, is sickness a sin?

to the temporary withdrawal of the Princess Helene, next Monday's luncheon will be at the Excel Inn.

Tomorrow will be a great day in the United States, as it will see the inauguration of a new president and new cabinet. Well, here's wishing him success, but we'll bet a year's subscription to the Courier against a cent that four months from to-morrow will see the majority of the financial institutions and business houses of that wealthy country closed.

The rumor that the Digby Golf Links would be opened next summer is bringing in a number of protests from regular summer visitors. We have seen two of these letters, one from Frank B. Witherbee, of Boston; the other from G. S.
Barnum, of New York. These gentlemen, who have played on the course for years, voice the opinions of dozens of others when they say that every effort should be made to keep the links open.

AT WEYMOUTH

The Young People's Service Club

inole in play and several Jig Saw gentlemen's first, and Judson Nickerson, consolation. After the games and music the members were seated at the tables which were placed side by side and delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses assisted by the Misses Katharine Blackadar and Rae Hankinson. The members and guests present were: Misses Mary Anderson, Pauline Blackadar, Louise Mullen, Louise Agass and Jean Payson, Rae and Dorothy Hankinson, Rev. and Mrs. Ewing, G.

E. Tingley, Baden Powell, Hugh Pot-

Judson and Victor Nickerson and

MORE ABOUT NOVA SCOTIA

To the Editor of the Courier:
Sir:—Mr. Anderson's timely and interesting articles have inspired me to "speak my piece."

The editorial by the Junior Editor was great—Digby, and all Nova Scotia, should be boosted and advertised more extensively, and more attractively.

If we have anything to sell, be it a pig or a piano, we do not wait for someone to ask us about it—no, we advertise. Nova Scotia has beautiful things in abundance to offer.

Her beauty is overflowing and diversified; sometimes boldly and ruggedly thrust upon one's vision—sometimes discovered accidentally in the quiet, hidden places.

As we pursue Beauty, Health, walks beside us. Humans are ever searching for the "Fountain of Youth," so why not present Digby to the world, in glowing words and pictures?

I re-visited Nova Scotia last summer from Westport to Digby, and what a heart-warming time I had!
More words are too cold and spiritless to express the deep happiness this visit gave to me, but I reveal in it yet.

Westport,—that island of quaint charm and gracious hospitality! Its sparkling harbor and swirling, dipping sea-gulls, whose shrill cries are never still, true, their voices would never do for the "talkies," but how I loved to hear them! All this—and yet, one could only find two varieties of post cards, and those not showing the true beauty of the places (attention, photographers!).

I travelled up Digby's fair Neck, passing through that lovely dimlycalled Sandy Cove,—through Lakeside to Centreville,—home of the hooked rug. After a short, delicious rest there, I left for Digby.

It had been twelve years since I had seen Digby, yet it burst upon my eager gaze as dearly familiar, as if I had been gone but a day. In the short time that I had before my train left, I explored and stored away pictures in my brain to last me a good long time.

Please, Mr. Editor and Mr. Anderson, with your facile pens, keep after the powers that be to advertise the beauty and worth of lovely Nova Scotia.

From the bottom of my heart,
—Pearle Thompson Ellis.

ing for a chimney fire in the post

LITTLE RIVER

Miss Alberta Outhouse, of Tiverton, is spending a week with Miss Meredith Moushore.

The Philatelic Club met at the home of Mrs. Hugh Denton on Friday evening, and with Mrs. Lyndon Collins the previous week.

The Merry Makers' Club, under the direction of Mrs. Omer Denton, presented a comedy, entitled "The Jenkin's Brilliant Idea," in the ning, and on Saturday evening at Sandy Cove. Those in the cast were:

Mrs. Darrell Cheney, Mrs. Arthur Denton, Mrs. Clayton Denton, ena Kelley, Mrs. Omer Denton; organist, Miss Freda Tidd. Those who assisted in music were: Gertrude Denton, Margaret Kelley, Edgar Trask, Omer Denton, Eric Moushore and Lawrence Trask.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Eldridge and family, of Sandy Cove, attended the funeral of her father, at Little River.

We are pleased to see Bowman Collins out again after being confined to the house for some time with the flu.

Burrell Stanton, while sawing wood at Mink Cove recently, had the misfortune to have his little finger almost severed, which necessitated
Dr. Rice amputating it entirely.

Lloyd Trask, while assisting Sydney Denton in sawing, sustained injury to one of his legs, when a huge log fell on it, recently.

Pinkerton's electric Transform! Her were Mrs. H. Morgan, Miss Rita Dakin, Miss Helen Coggins, Frankina Payson, Miss Helen Curry, Mrs. Fred Denton and Lois
Gower as "The Old Males."

"The Moonshine Quartette," consisting of Messrs. Frank Shaw, Malcolm Dakin, Guy Welch and Hanford Glavin was very much enjoyed.
The orchestra, consisting of Mrs.
Frank Shaw and Messrs. Lawrence
Shaw and Wilfred Dakin, furnished music before the concert opened and between the acts.

The old males looked very quaint in their old-fashioned dresses and hats, profusely trimmed with bright flowers and ribbons.

Much credit is due Mrs. H. P.
Bowers, president of the Ladies' Sewing Circle, for her efforts to make the concert a success. The sum of $45.00 was realized for church purposes.

Who says depression? Last week in Digby between $100 and $200 was raised in various card parties; the Board of Trade held their annual banquet, at 75 cents per, and at that banquet, which was attended by about fifty, $115 was raised towards sending the hockey team to Antigonish, and this amount was increased to about $200 the next morning, and the next morning, all well attended, about 1500 being present. Again we ask, who says depression?

Utilities Board Scores Digby for Discrimination

Practice of the Town of Digby in giving preferential rates to special customers was scored in a decision filed this week by the Nova Scotia Board of Public Utilities in an application brought by the town for revised rates. The decision substantially reduced rates asked and set out an amended schedule for electrical energy.

Deprecates Practice

Taking a firm stand against discrimination the decision read in part: "The Board deprecates the practice which evidently has been followed by Town authorities in giving favored rates to special persons. There must be no discrimination between classes of customers or customers in any class and the only rates which can be legally charged and collected are those which the Board has approved.

The Town of Digby purchases power from the Digby County Power Board and it is metered out to the consumers. The case was heard here on October 6.

Please note that the Illustrated Lecture on "Scotland" for the benefit of the V. O. N. will be held on the 16th of March, at the United Church Hall.

"Mine Host" Cossaboom furnished an excellent luncheon for the Kiwanians, at the Excel Inn, on Monday. The guest speaker was Alfred Boden, and, as usual, his address was of a very interesting character.

The New Glasgow town council is calling for tenders for positions on the town police force. As the last council meeting several of the councillors charged that the work of the department had not been satisfactory, particularly in regard to tax collecting and the enforcement of parking by-laws.

Band Notes

A placard has been placed on the wall of the Band Room reading:

"VISITORS ARE WELCOME TO HELP buy our Music. A single tune cost $1.25, and we need FIFTY.

A set of books cost us $10.00, and we need FIVE sets.

Please inspect the Music Box."

This Music Box is apparently an old-fashioned telephone wall set, with crank attached, but it has a slot conveniently placed to receive coins, with a card of instructions:

"(1) Place hand in money pocket. (2) Withdraw coin or bill. (3) Place same in slot. (4) Listen to the Band. (5) If not satisfied—turn the crank." Three young visitors were the first to contribute.

These rehearsals have become very enjoyable since the Band has become quite proficient and visitors can help the Music Room a lot without missing the coins they drop.

The Saxophone Quartet has been invited to attend the Kiwanis luncheon at the Excel Inn next Monday evening. They will no doubt get a cordial reception and will have an opportunity to display the superb qualities of the two large saxophones purchased by the Music Council, as well as the two fine instruments owned by Loran Hayden and Harry Eldridge. The two larger instruments mentioned were priced at over $500 when new, and the other two are proportionately valuable.

Lack of chairs worries the Band a lot. Recent requests for them have not brought a response. There surely must be a lot of old chairs around in attics and store rooms that are not in use, and which would be much appreciated by the players. Even broken chairs are better than none.

NOVA SCOTIA PAID $150,000 FOR POLICE PROTECTION

The Province of Nova Scotia paid for Royal Canadian Mounted Police services in Nova Scotia last year $150,000 under contract with the Dominion Government. Hon. John Dool, Attorney-General, stated recently. A statement made in the House of Commons at Ottawa to the effect that the cost had been in excess of $400,000 was explained by the Attorney-General as covering all police and other federal duties of the police, the cost of which was borne entirely by Ottawa.

The date of the Picture Travel Talk on "Scotland" has been changed from Tuesday, 14th inst., to Thursday, 16th inst. There will be beautiful pictures of Bonnie Scotland and Scottish music. Proceeds for the V. O. N.

A MUCH APPRECIATED REDUCTION

There is no doubt that the tea drinkers of the Maritime Provinces appreciate the reduction in price of MORSE'S STANDARD TEA, recently announced. When a full-flavored, thick-lipped tea with all the satisfying qualities of "the good old family tea of the Maritimes" can be had for 40 cents a pound there is nothing to be said in favor of cheap bulk teas. One can never be sure of getting a bulk tea that exactly accords in flavor and other qualities with the previous purchase, but MORSE'S STANDARD TEA is always uniform in quality and has the strength which produces 240 cups to the pound, as a consequence the cost to the consumer works out at one-sixth of a cent per cup.

It was 64 years ago Monday night when one of the most destructive storms ever experienced on the Grand Banks occurred, when over 250 sail from Gloucester were on the banks. The sch. Charles Haskell, Capt. Clifford Curtis collided with another vessel and only one person lived to tell the story.

The name "Delano" has always bothered some as to its derivation, and not less so it became so prominent as that of Mr. Roosevelt's maternal strain. The Delanos have been successful folk in many lines, and it seems the name is Anglicized from their Dutch ancestor, De In Nore, who came to Plymouth, Mass., in 1621.

George E. Graham and Laurie Ellis were in town on Tuesday.

Tickets for the lecture on "Scotland," on March 16th, will be 25c.

He was born in Mulgrave, but in his youth went to Gloucester, fishing out of that port, as well as being employed on the wharves there. Of an ambitious turn of mind, he applied himself to the study of medicine and attended Harvard Medical school. About 40 years ago he removed to Cambridge where he practised his profession, living in White Magazine street. He has written for national publications and had published volumes of poetry. He was a firm believer in fraternities and belonged to many, including the Masonic order. Six years ago he retired and spent considerable time travelling during which he was engaged in writing a genealogy of the Partridge family.

She was the daughter of the late George H. and Sophia (Timpany) Hurd, of Queens County, who was 90 years and 3 months of age. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Carrie I. Robbins, of California; Mrs. Leslie McKay, of Rossway, and Mrs. Charles S. Cornwall, of Franklin, Mass.; one son, Charles W. The deceased will be greatly missed by her large circle of friends in the United States, as well as in Nova Scotia. She was a woman of sterling character, always ready to help in every way. Her amiable disposition endeared her to all those who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. D. Miller, of Cape Breton; Mrs. B. Brooks, of Yarmouth, Me.; Mrs. Lucy Pyne, of Freeport, and a brother, Jos. MacNeil, of Manchester, Mass.

She leaves mourning one step-daughter (Mrs. Oliver) who resided with her, besides a host of friends. The funeral will take place this afternoon.

Rate Schedule Set for Digby by Public Utilities Board

NEW RATE SCHEDULE FOR CLARE APPROVED

A new schedule of rates for electric power and energy for the Municipality of Clare, Digby County, was approved by the Board of Public Utilities in session at Halifax, this week. H. J. Campbell, Operating Superintendent and H. H. Marshall, Chairman of the Digby County Power Board, appeared in support of the petition. The new domestic rate will be 8 cents per k.w.-hour for the first 3 k.w.h. per 100 square feet of floor space, with corresponding decreases with increased load. There will be a service charge of 3 cents per month per 100 square feet of space.

No Metering Service

The district served is from St. Bernard's on the main Digby to Yarmouth highway, to within one mile of Beaver River and all the surrounding rural territory.

Digby County Power Board supplies the energy and there has never been a meter station set up to measure the current supplied. It has been the practice of the Power Board to bill the applicant monthly on the summation of customers' meters adding an estimated amount to cover all transmission and distribution losses.

Would Be Incentive

H. J. Campbell testified that at the time of the hearing the Municipality of Clare had 200 customers for electricity and there were 400 potential customers in the district being served; showing a steady increase in customers in the last few years. He said it would be an incentive for more to buy the service if the proposed rates were approved. Following is a summary of the approved rates:

Domestic.—Service Charge—3 cents per month per 100 sq. feet; Energy Charge—8 cents per k.w.h.

Commercial Service Charge—$1.00 per month per k.w. load.

A new schedule of rates for electric power and energy supplied to the Municipality of Digby, similar to the rates designated for the Municipality of Clare, was approved by the Public Utilities Board at Halifax, on Wednesday.

J. V. Andrews, Warden of the Municipality, and H. J. Campbell, Operating Superintendent, appeared on behalf of the applicant, while Mayor Holdsworth and A. F. Boden appeared on behalf of the town. The Municipality, purchasing its power from the Power Board, never had a meter service and this schedule of rates, it was claimed, would remedy the situation.

Must Make Reports

In order that the Public Utilities Board might be cognizant of the working out of this rate it directed in the decision handed down Tuesday that the applicant should make a report every six months as to its net income.

The domestic rate approved is: Service charge, 3 cents per month per 100 sq. feet of floor area; energy charge, eight cents per k.w.-hr. for the first 3 k.w.-hr. per 100 square feet of floor area, four cents per k.w.-hr. for the second block and two cents for all additional.

Commercial rate: Service charge, $1.00 per month per k.w. of connected load or where a demand indicator is installed, $1.50 per month per k.w. of maximum demand. Energy charge eight cents per k.w.-hr. for the first 100 k.w.-hr. per month per k.w. of connected load or maximum demand whichever is basis of service charge, four cents per k.w.-hr. for all additional.

Commercial Service Charge—$1.00 per month per k.w. load.

HEADLIGHTS

Headlight blindness is one of the most dangerous hazards of night motoring, a hazard not only to the occupants of automobiles and to property, but to the pedestrian. In fact, walking at night along provincial roads or even the more remote thoroughfares is a matter of taking one's life in one's hands and might well be termed "The Suicide Club."

To the conscientious driver of an automobile glaring headlights are a source of torment. He sees two moons approaching him down the road. On they come growing into two shafts of light and finally lose their individual identities as they bear down upon the tense driver. For a matter of seconds there is nothing visible before him but a fog of light. That interval of blindness is enough, however, to lead to death and destruction in its path.

Few drivers in these times are so careful that they will bring their cars to a stop at the approach of the glaring headlights. It is not to be wondered at that there are so few, for a pilot cautious enough to stop for the passage of blinding lights would soon find that he had better stayed at home so far as progress on his journey was concerned.

Despite crusades against the glaring headlight the menace continues.

FAIR AND REASONABLE

There is nothing to prevent business from governing itself by agreed rules. All that is required is the will on the part of those involved. If men in business really wish to settle their own disputes, and manage their own affairs without appeal to courts of law, there is no reason why they can not do so. But there is the rub.

As a nation we have fallen so completely into the habit of looking to government departments, commissions, boards, courts, or other devices to regulate everything, that we are predisposed not to exert ourselves. We want somebody to assume our responsibilities.

Perhaps it would be a good thing for business to assume the job of its own regulations. A little less wishbone and a little more backbone might be a valuable alteration, not only for Canadian business, but for the millions of people of Canada.

RIGHTS AND DUTIES

Our faith in freedom is based on the belief that every human soul has its own sovereign right—rights that are not merely granted by society but are an essential of the human character. Since society is nothing apart from the men and women of which it is fashioned, it can never ignore this right of freedom without courting its own destruction.

Yet this freedom is not the freedom for men to do as they please. Even in primitive society this freedom is denied, and the complex demands of civilization deny it in a thousand ways. When men agree to live together for the sake of work or happiness, they set limits to their behavior and agree to live beneath a code and law.

Yet the right of freedom remains. It is a right not to be natural but to spiritual freedom. Its most vital doctrine is that men have the right to think as they please.

Man as a member of society has duties rather than rights. As an individual his rights are supreme. The problem of society is to apportion to each man his duties while scrupulously protecting his rights. For in the right of men to think as they please lies the only hope for the endurance and perfection of society.

About the most expensive thing on earth is money.

More happiness is found accidentally than on purpose.

CODE OF FASCIST BACKS MUS- SOLINI AS ALWAYS RIGHT

Special from Monitor Bureau
ROME—Two fundamental premises of the doctrine of Fascism are that Mussolini is always right and that the Fascist must not believe in perpetual peace.

The first factor justifies the dictatorial authority of the Duce, preventing any kind of criticism, and the second is the natural corollary of the Fascist expansionist idea. Both these axioms form part of the ten commandments of the Black Shirt, which were prominently published recently in the Italian press on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the foundation of the Fascist militia.

The Fascist decalogue, which every Fascist must strictly observe, contains the basis of the Fascist creed. Since much attention is now being given abroad to Fascism as a system of government, it may perhaps be interesting to publish the full text of the Fascist decalogue.

1. Know that the Fascist, and particularly the militiaman, must not believe in perpetual peace.

2. Days of imprisonment are always deserved.

3. Those are serving the fatherland, even when standing silent over a tin of petrol.

4. A comrade must be a brother; firstly, because he lives with you, and secondly, because he thinks as you do.

5. The rifle and the ammunition holder, etc., were entrusted to you, not to spoil them in idleness, but in order to preserve them for war.

6. Never mind, the Government pays," because it is you who pay, and the Government is the one you have willed and for which you wear the uniform.

7. Discipline is the sun of armies; without it there are no soldiers but only confusion and defeat.

8. Mussolini is always right.

9. The volunteer who disobeys has no extenuating circumstances.

10. One thing must be dear to you above all others: the Duce's life.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

In the old days there was a piquancy about the rivalry between Saint John and Halifax which at least added to the variety of nations. A whimsical example of this is found in the Chronicle files of sixty years ago. In 1873 this is the little dig which the Halifax editor gave his New Brunswick brother—

The Editor of a Saint John paper has received a present of a cigar holder and a lot of cheroots from his Sabbath School class. It is a little surprising that Sabbath School children should choose such a present, but it is more surprising that a Saint John Editor should be permitted to act as a Sabbath School teacher.

Sixty years after we can still smile at this good natured banter. "A little nonsense now and then, is relished by the wisest men,"—Halifax Chronicle, Feb. 22, 1933.

JIG-SAW PUZZLES

A fad like the jig-saw puzzle is only a means of amusement to the public at large, but it means bread and butter to the men and women who manufacture and market the little blocks.

One factory in New York is turning out 2,500,000 of the puzzles every week now, and the number of people employed in the industry, in the metropolis alone is estimated at 2,000. Cardboard and paper box plants in the vicinity of Boston, like a little while ago, are producing puzzles at the rate of 15,000 a day. News stands in the railroad terminals and on the streets in New York, Boston and other cities are selling great quantities of such weekly issues as "The Jig of the Week" and "The Every Week Jig-Saw Puzzle."

Married

LeBlanc-Blinn

A wedding of interest to a large circle of friends was solemnized at St. Mary's Church, Church Point, one day recently, when Rev. Father Dreen parish priest, united in matrimony Marie Stella Blinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Blinn, of Grosses Coques, and Edmond LeBlanc, of St. Bernard. The bride, who was charmingly attired in a wedding gown of grey silk with accessories to match, was attended by Miss Helen Belliveau, while Benoit LeBlanc, brother of the groom acted as best man. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was held at the home of the bride's parents, about one hundred and fifty guests being present. The happy couple left in the evening for Yarmouth. They were followed by the best wishes of the people of Clare.

CARD PARTY AT CAPE ST. MARY

A successful whist party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Doucet, at Cape St. Mary, on Shrove Tuesday evening, where twenty tables completed. Ten prizes were awarded, donated by Mrs. W. J. The winners were: Severin Frautain, Mrs. Louis Boudreau, Mrs. Isidore Frautain, Mrs. Walter Doucet, Camille Doucet, Mrs. Nicholas Doucet, Miss Clothilde Saulnier, Roy Doucet, Miss Bertha Frautain and Stanley Maillet. METEGHAN CENTRE CLAIMS

"MEANEST THIEF"

Before Major E. Stehelin, magistrate, at Church Point, Denis LeBlanc, 21, pleaded guilty of having stolen a basin of candy made by the school children of Meteghan Centre in order to celebrate Shrove Tuesday. LeBlanc was given seven days in the Little Brook jail, and costs. While the school pupils were all inside working, he stole the candy which had been placed outside to cool.

BELLIVEAU'S COVE

The French Literary Club held their monthly meeting recently at the home of Miss E. E. Theriault.

Mrs. Rose Theriault is among those on the sick list. The Cercle Littéraire Français de la Bale Ste. Marie, met one evening recently, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edouard Theriault. Due to the bad condition of the roads only eight members were present and it was decided to postpone the meeting until March 24th, when the roads will, it is hoped, be in a better condition. It was also postponed to extend an invitation to the whole teaching staff of Clare for this meeting.

John Mouna, lightkeeper here for years, and one of our oldest residents, recently visited Major Stehelin, at Church Point. Mr. Mouna is one of the best story tellers of the district of Clare, and is highly appreciated for his genial character wherever he goes.

Miss Marie Gaudet, of Southville, spent a recent week-end with friends here.

Miss Clothilde Theriault, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ullyse J. Theriault, entertained a number of friends one evening recently.

Temperance Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service Council of the Temperance Alliance)

Probably some of you read the other day in the newspapers of the young man hereabout who cut loose in his home and on the street in real "wild west" fashion, shouting, shrieking, shooting, swinging axes and what not until all very good law-abiding citizens ran to cover, but even policemen had to mind their "p's and q's" to avoid bloodshed and death in getting him under control. The story ended with the poor fellow who was crazed with drink and did not realize what he was doing. I almost shuddered as I read, to think that a man could so easily become a veritable demon.

Not long ago a promising young lady school teacher was knocked down by an auto driven by a respected young neighbour. He had come to meet her, and while waiting round, so it is said, treated himself to a drink or two of liquor. With day beverage use what at least, no longer fit to drive his car, and today the promising young teacher stepped in an early grave, while her respected young neighbour awaits his trial as a criminal.

Now there are several ways of looking at all this. If a vote were taken you would likely find you differ among yourselves. Some would blame the man who sells for every day beverage use what at least, (or indeed very soon), makes a man unsafe to live with. Some would lay the blame entirely on the man himself, who drinks until he loses self-control. Many would point to themselves as living examples of folks who can take a glass or leave it alone, and perhaps readily dub that man a fool who keeps on drinking until he gets drunk. Some would place all responsibility upon the individual who yields to the temptation overmuch—"let him wallow in his own mire." The trouble is that many innocent folk must wallow in that same mire. Others however, cannot but feel that the man who sells and the society that lets or licenses him, are, at least in part, responsible for what happens as a result of the sale. It is a big question, one of the biggest of our day. Come back next week and we will take up another aspect of it.

An item of interest to many of the older residents of Digby County was the entrance of Miss Dorothy J. Melanson as a novice in the Order of St. Joseph, at Framingham, Mass. Miss Melanson is a granddaughter of the late Mrs. Annie Haney Melanson, a school teacher for many years in Digby County, and daughter of Chester J. Melanson, now a freeman in the city of Boston, but who was born and lived for many years in the Melanson home at Gilbert's Cove. She is a graduate of St. Anthony's School, class of '28, and Brenton, Mass., High School, class of '32. "Dor," as she was known by her associates, was very active in church affairs of her parish, notwithstanding the fact that she was choir organist. She is a talented musician, both vocal and instrumental.

FREED FROM PAIN AT 95

What a great thing it must be for this woman, after suffering from rheumatism for many years, to be free from pain again at her age. She writes: "I should like to tell you that since I commenced taking Kruschen Salts two years ago, I am completely relieved of rheumatism, from which I had been a great sufferer for many years. I am now in my eightieth year, and such appreciation being free from pain, which I attribute to the regular dose of Kruschen." (Mrs.) A. E. S.

If only everyone would realize that the "little daily dose of Kruschen" is just as important to internal cleansing as soap and water are to external cleanliness, there would soon be no more constipation, no more sluggish livers, no more rheumatism, gout or lambo.

Kruschen is a combination of six salts—each one is necessary to some particular organ of the body. Just what you need to persuade your system back into a healthy condition: very gently but very, very, very, sure!

FUNERAL SERVICE

C. C. NICHOLL—Weymouth, N.S.

After two years' study of the proper equipment necessary for Digby Co. roads, we have modeled a Funeral Car that is adaptable to our roads at the same time, practically similar to the cars used in the larger cities of United States and Canada, demanding instant recognition and traffic rights as a Funeral Car.

Our Equipment is valued today at seven times its value eleven years ago, proving our continual growth. We are constantly adding new equipment as it demonstrates its value to the public.

We employ no agents, entirely soliciting patronage by the merits of our service. Prices are kept down to the minimum and our service the best, with transportation easily possible to and from any point in Nova Scotia.

"JESUS MINISTERING TO THE MULTITUDE"

Golden Text:—"The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."—Matthew 20:28.

Lesson Passage:—Mark 6:30-44.

Because I have been sheltered, fed by thy good care,
I cannot see another's lack
And I not share
My glowing fire, my loaf of bread,
My roof's shelter overhead.
That he, too, may be comforted.
Because love has been lavished so
Upon me, Lord,
I know I know that was not meant
For me to hoard.
I shall give love to those in need,
The cold and hungry cloth and feed.
Thus shall I show my thanks indeed.

A Vacation Planned, 30-32

How completely free from fanaticism was the Man of Galilee! There have been religious leaders who sought to validate their teaching by defying physical laws, but Jesus accepted physical laws and obeyed them. He knew that his disciples were only flesh and blood. They had to live in bodies and both body and soul could be incapacitated by fatigue. The disciples had been sent out on a trial missionary journey. Their hearts had been saddened by the death of John the Baptist. Crowds were about them so that they could not possess their own souls—even their meals were interrupted—so Jesus told them to come apart into a desert place to rest. They boarded ship and went to a desert shore. It is no crime to take a holiday. The hardest workers need a holiday the most. Over a long period the majority of people can do "six days work in six days, a week than in seven, and in eleven months a year than in twelve.

Teaching "Out-of-Doors, 33-34

Because of the shortness of the Canadian summer, Christianity in our land is largely an "indoor religion." We worship in churches. We study in Sunday Schools. It is exceptional to have open air services and only a relatively small number of people go to summer schools. Much of the teaching of Jesus, however, was given out of doors—on hillsides, on lakeshores and on the road. Jesus made many references to natural objects—the birds, the flowers, the grain, the sunset. How his heart would go out to "little souls" in our great cities, or even to office and factory workers where sunlight and fresh air are denied. To sail the sea and to tramp the hills, to gaze at a sunset or for the heart to be good for health, but it also has an influence upon the soul. Beauty is a revelation of God. Nature is God's handiwork. We learn of the Worker by his work.

Give Them Food, 35-40

Jesus had compassion on the multitude because they were leaderless and had no living religious faith. He taught the people who followed him around the "lakeshore," but he also fed them before they returned home. At the most they would have missed only one or two meals. In the light of this incident how can Christians today feel complacent when children are under-nourished and when many mothers in beautiful Canada scarcely know where the next meal is to come from? All the higher achievements of man in science,

Crosby's
GOLD STAR

commerce, education and religion are dependent upon an adequate food supply. God's provision has been bountiful. There is plenty of grains and fruits, yet thousands are in want because of the greed of a few, because of the maladministration of leaders and because some people lack the compassionate heart of Christ. It is plain evidence of mismanagement if any one in Canada lacks food, shelter and clothing. There is plenty for all.

A Parable of Truth, 41-44

There has been much discussion as to the method whereby Jesus fed the multitude. The miracle of the multiplying of the loaves and fishes, however, is relatively insignificant compared with the way in which the truth of Christ has spread. At the most only a few thousand heard Jesus teaching that day among the hills, but his truth has become the bread of life to millions of followers through the ages. There is something inexhaustible in his teachings. Judged by the books and magazines being published and the mission stations being opened, Christ's truth is still multiplying.

Jesus Lived to Serve

The Son of man came not to be ministered unto but to minister. His whole life was one of service. He served people because he loved them and saw possibilities in them. He was willing to help them with food, with healing, with truth, with love according to their special need. His aim was not the honor he could win for himself but the service he could render to others. It was out of his own experience that he uttered the beautiful words quoted by Paul: "It is more blessed to give than to receive." Jesus taught the multitude because he had compassion upon them. He fed them from the same motive and his followers should display the same practical social sympathy. This can be done in the name of man as well as in the name of God. The Son of man came to minister.

Questions for Discussion:

- Can churches afford to leave relief work solely to government agencies?
- In our home and church budgets do we pay enough attention to "the underprivileged?"
- Cicero said, "Economy is of itself a great revenue." How?
- Which is more important—what you believe, or what you do?
- Why must Christians concern themselves with economies?
- Why are there bread lines when food is going to waste?
- Is it ever wrong to give?

Obituary

Mrs. Joseph Sabean

There passed away at her home in Deerfield, Yarmouth County, on February 28th, Etta May, wife of Joseph H. Sabean. She was 65 years and 3 months of age, and a daughter of the late Wentworth and Almira Allen, of Weymouth. Mrs. Sabean had been ill for the past year, suffering from that dread disease, cancer, and during the past four months suffered intensely, though she bore it with great patience and fortitude. She was the last surviving member of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Allen, a sister and two brothers having predeceased her several years ago. The remains were forwarded to Weymouth on Thursday morning and the funeral took place in the Baptist Church. She was laid to rest in the family lot at Weymouth. Her sorrowing husband is the only survivor.

Obituary

Hazel (Smith) Harris

The many relatives and friends will learn with great sorrow of the death of Hazel, wife of Frank C. Harris, (formerly of Bear River), which occurred at Montreal, March 5th. Mrs. Harris had been at the hospital for treatment for a few weeks, but death came very sudden. She was the daughter of the late Wm. and Mrs. Smith, of Saint John, and was 45 years of age. She leaves a sorrowing husband, three young daughters, Natalie Mary, Rosalea and Marylou (twins); one brother, Fred, of Saint John. One sister, Ida and brother, Arthur, predeceased her a few years ago. The remains were brought to Saint John for interment in the family lot. The deepest sympathy goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Harris and the three little daughters.

Albert D. Benson

Again Bear River mourns the loss of a prominent citizen in the passing of Albert D. Benson, who was ill for several weeks, but passed away suddenly at his home here, on Thursday morning, March 2nd. The late Mr. Benson was a member of the Benson family identified with the history of Bear River from the time a Loyalist ancestor, Captain Christopher Benson, (of a military unit called the "Rangers"), became one of the earliest settlers of the town. The "Bensons" were also long associated as "Master Builders" and owners, with the local ship-building industry that flourished here in the days of wooden ships, and the late Mr. Benson, had himself been a "Master Builder" and designer of ship models in his earlier years. He was born here in 1855, the son of the late Isaac and Mary Benson, and leaves as his immediate family, a wife, (nee Miss Ruby Spinney, of Kings Co., N.S.); one son, Harding, of Bear River; a granddaughter, Miss Beth Benson, manager of the local Telephone Exchange, and one sister, Mrs. Mary Harris, of Boston. Mr. Benson was a prominent Mason, and a life-long Liberal in politics. His kindly disposition and readiness to help created a large circle of warm friends among his fellow townspeople who deeply regret his passing, and who extend deep sympathy to the bereaved family. The funeral services on Saturday afternoon, were conducted by The Rev. Keith Edge, A. F. & A. M., and the officiating clergyman were Rev. S. Steeves, of the Bear River United Baptist Church, and Rev. C. L. Blanchard, of the United Church of Canada. Interment was in Mount Hope cemetery.

Ian Alexander Marvin

The death of Ian Alexander, seven months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Marvin, occurred suddenly on Saturday morning last, after an illness of only a few days. Due to the severe snowstorm, the body was taken to Annapolis Royal by train on Monday, where with Father Leo Murphy officiating, interment was made in St. Luke's cemetery. Nine brothers and sisters survive.

W. I. MEETING

The Women's Institute held their regular meeting on Monday afternoon, in the Main Reading Room. Routine business was transacted and a number of interesting reports given. A box of books received from the Victoria League in London, will be unpacked and placed in the library for distribution on Saturday. Votes of thanks were given to the many friends outside the Institute, who assisted in making the Minstrel Show such an outstanding success.

SURPRISE PARTY

On Friday evening last, after the Young People's service at the United Church, a goodly number of the members of the United Church went to the parsonage and gave Mr. Blanchard a real surprise, it being his birthday. Music, charades and games were played during the evening. Dr. A. B. Campbell on behalf of the members, presented Mr. Blanchard with a gift, to which he responded. A lovely lunch was served to about twenty-five guests. All left at a late hour, wishing Rev. C. L. Blanchard many more such happy birthdays.

Special mention should be made of a lovely birthday cake, a mass of pink roses. Many gifts of remembrances were received.

DEPRESSION

"The logical way to get through this depression is to patronize the home owned stores yourself whether others do or not."

In the home owned stores you buy goods as cheaply as in any stores in the Maritimes; you get good service and good quality goods and the profit on the purchases remains here for the benefit of our own people—Bear River.

Did you ever stop to think
EDSON R. WAITE
Saskatoon, Okla.

Hon. J. T. M. Anderson, Premier of Saskatchewan, says:

THAT few elements contribute more to human happiness and well being than "Loyalty."

In its personal application it is the epitome of the doctrine of the Nazarene, and in its general acceptance it is the backbone and bulwark of nations. There is no virtue more splendid, and few more universally esteemed. Without it there can be no true patriotism, nor can there be personal fidelity. It may be mistaken in its attachments, but the spirit of its very mistakes may have virtue.

Its practice builds nations and cements the whole fabric of human relationship. Its application to ideals adds a spiritual heaven to life and justifies faith in humanity.

It is admirable alike in the family and in the council chamber of the nation. It elevates the humble, and nothing so becomes those in the seats of the mighty.

It was his recognition of this inherent British quality which led Napoleon to exclaim: "Had my people been British, I could have lost Waterloo and still been Emperor."

Loyalty safeguards the state and develops the country. It surmounts difficulties and generates the patriotic faith that "moves mountains."

It achieves more than the most skillful materialism. It will suffer anything and come from the ordeal refined like a tempered sword blade.

It is beyond price. Skill and brains may be purchased and held for sale, but never true loyalty.

It was loyalty that built the British Empire—loyalty to high traditions of honour, justice and integrity, worked into the woof and warp of this stubborn island race for a thousand years.

Never were true loyalties so much needed as now. Many of the peoples of the world are passing through conditions which are causing widespread distress and suffering. It is by loyalty that we shall come to our own again—patient unswerving loyalty to our friends, to our country, and to our obligations, in respect to people and nation who, although sometimes alien to our blood and race, occupy their own place in the great scheme of common humanity.

THE STORY OF THE ANGLICAN CHURCH IN CANADA

The restoration Fund Committee of the Church of England in Canada, appointed to receive the replacements in full of the last editions of the Province of Rupert's Land, has just issued a series of five historical booklets—"Our Church in Canada," that on the Maritimes written by Canon Fernon, that on Quebec by Canon Kelley, that on Ontario by Professor A. H. Young, that on Rupert's Land by Canon Heene, that on British Columbia by Professor J. Friend Day.

In the belief that the study of history is the best tonic for the present discouragements, these booklets are issued to supply material for Lenten lectures by the clergy on the history of the Anglican Church in Canada. It is hoped that they will be read by every thoughtful Anglican. They are admirably printed by the Toronto Saturday Night Press, well illustrated, and each has an attractive colored cover. They may be obtained at the office of the Restoration Fund, The Church House, 604 Jarvis Street, Toronto 5, ten cents each, forty-five cents for the set of five, or eight dollars a hundred. The proceeds are for the Restoration Fund.

He was a lingering sort of a lover, and when they were saying "Good Night" for the twentieth time he remarked: "We live in a wonderful life, darling. Just think how everything is becoming wireless now!"

"Yes," she acquiesced, "Pa was only saying this morning that even the sofa was becoming wireless!"

WEYMOUTH BRASS BAND

One bright June day long years ago when Dan Ducllo's day was shown as came travelling through the county, a small black eyed boy stood by the dusty roadside and watched with wide eyed wonder the Ducllo circus parade as it came creaking and lurching down the country road. The brightly painted and flag bedecked animal wagons drawn by red plumed and richly caparisoned horses with gaily uniformed drivers accompanied by Queens, Princesses and Fairies arrayed in the dazzling costumes of Europe and romantic lands of distant Asia and Africa, a sad faced and rather discouraged looking elephant with his mahout perched unconcernedly across his neck and a much beleveled Indian Rajah, probably the circus fortune teller, seated majestically in his howdah, a somewhat moth-eaten and foul smelling camel bearing upon his back one of the wise men of the East, a shiek of the desert with colorful headgear and robes, mounted on a spirited Arabian charger, a couple of clowns—grotesque and noisy—leading a one-eyed donkey hitched to a nondescript dump cart loaded with a chicken coop in which strutted a couple of banian roosters and a peacock. All of this cavalcade was a great sight in the eyes of this youngster, a sight wonderful to look at and never to be forgotten. But when the band wagon—with its red and gold decorations—drawn by six white horses, high stepping and proud, in their harnesses of shining patent leather, ornamented with jeweled gawds of polished brass and silver, hove in sight and the bandsmen with their gorgeous uniforms and shining instruments struck up a stirring march tune, the excitement of the small boy reached a pitch where he could no longer be restrained, and breaking away from his father's hand the boy ran after the band wagon and joined the village mob in its march across the bridge, over to Oakes Corner and back again to the circus grounds in the Jones field (near the site of the present school-house) where the boy's father had the devil's own time locating his young son as he dodged around among the circus wagons, horse tents and camp equipment. And it was only with promises of being allowed to attend the afternoon performance that he was finally induced to go home to his dinner.

Came two o'clock in the afternoon of the same day and there was the same small boy arrayed in his best jolly and tucker among the other arrivals impatiently waiting for the ticket wagon to open its windows for the business of the afternoon. Suddenly up went the slide of the ticket window and one of the men announced in a loud voice, "Here ye are! This way for yoo-ur tick-ets to the big show! Right this way!" The boy's uncle, in whose charge he had been placed, bought the tickets and was glad of the chance to take a youngster to the circus. Into the show they went, down through the menagerie, and on into the "Big Top" where they took seats close enough to the ring so that nothing in the performance could be missed. After what seemed to be a long, long wait, came a blare of trumpets, the band began to play, out came the clowns, into the ring trotted the performing horses with their bare back riders, and trainers, jugglers, and other artists and then the great and only Dan Ducllo, himself, owner, ringmaster and brought the master of ceremonies greetings up the year. Dan cracked his whip, and made his speech. The show was on! And for the next hour and a half the performers went through their stunts, marvelous exciting, breath-taking and thrilling. The small boy missed none of it. But the one thing that excited his admiration more than any other, was the brass band which played almost continuously. Oh to be a bandman, to be able to blow one of those shiny brass horns, and see all the shows, what a life that would be. And the small boy from then on, pestered his dad to buy for him, a cornet. "They cost too much money, besides they are too hard to blow, you might burst a lung or something, no cornet," said his dad. "Well, then, wotch'a buy me a drum, wotch'a?" "Drums don't cost so much," But "No Sir, no drum comes in this house to disturb its peace and quietness," replied the pater. So no cornet or other band instrument made its appearance in the old home for a long, long time, to fill the air with ear-splitting and discordant noises of scale running, bugle calls and other cacophonous disturbances that are often produced by the young student of cornet and trombone. But the hope that he might some day play some kind of an instrument in a brass band was planted that day in the mind of that small boy, who kept pounding away at the idea until one day years later he was to become one of the organizers of the Weymouth Band.

In the meantime circuses came and went with seasonal regularity. Barnstorming companies with bands stopped off in Weymouth for one night stands. After their departure, village kids would set up a show of their own, and put on a street whistler and a harmonica artist came acrobats, jugglers and actors over-night. Harvey Wilson with his concertina tried to organize a band but only managed to gather in a summer, a tambourine player, a tin whistler and a harmonica artist. Harvey was one of the town's leading musicians. At home he played the organ, and he planned to use it in a parade as a calliope, but after all arrangements had been made for all arrangements had been made for loading it on an ox cart, his Aunt Eliza refused to allow him to take it out of the house. So Harvey led the parade with his concertina and out of that old collapsible wind box was simply marvellous. His favorite piece was "Napoleon's Retreat from Moscow," a stirring march that put the marching spirit into our souls for the time being, which was probably more than it did for most of Napoleon's weary men, if we can believe the stories written into the history of that disappointing venture of the noted Frenchman. I know that of that old band, which was Weymouth who will remember Harvey Wilson as a very versatile young man—poet, author, musician, actor and hotel clerk. His folks ran a rooming house, which was the end of the bridge. It was called the "Crown Hotel." An old fashioned sign board—with a golden crown painted thereon and the words "Crown Hotel" in gilt letters above and below the crown—hung upon an iron crane attached to a willow tree in front of the house. This old sign for years creaked back and forth, day and night with every breeze and finally fell down in a March gale and was never replaced. In stage coach days this old hotel enjoyed quite a patronage from the travelling public, but with the coming of the railroad its business drifted away to the corner where the comfortable hotel operated by Forbes Jones. Harvey, however, met all trains and never allowed a stranger to get away from him without being made aware of the comforts and conveniences of the Wilson hostelry. Many amusing incidents resulted from Harvey's solicitations, for he was not at all backward or diffident in the presence of strangers. When the Marquis of Lorne, then Governor-General of Canada, visited our village as the guest of his clansman and our most outstanding citizen, Hon. Colin Campbell, Harvey sought introduction to the Marquis, but he was brushed aside by the welcoming committee. Did this act of rudeness discourage Harvey? Was he cast down? Not in the least. Awaiting a favorable opportunity he approached the Governor-General with extended hand and a "Welcome to our city, my Lord," but his lordship drew back and did not grasp the proffered hand of our friend, remarking that he had not the pleasure of the gentleman's acquaintance. "I'm Mr. Wilson, of the Crown Hotel," replied Harvey, but before he could give the Marquis information concerning the comfortable rooms, excellence of cuisine and special advantages of the Crown Hotel, Harvey was waved back by Major Jolly commanding the Yarmouth troop of fusiliers escorting the Governor-General on his tour of the western counties. So Mr. Wilson failed in his attempt to shake the hand of Royalty and the future Duke of Argyll was left without valuable information as to where he might secure board and lodgings, with the largest bed sheets, the largest dish of porridge and the best bowl of Scotch broth in the town, in case he should ever revisit Weymouth, incognito, as plain Mr. Campbell. A short time later Harvey left Weymouth for the United States and never returned except for a short visit and thus Weymouth lost one of its forward and enterprising young men and the idea of a brass band for the village went into cold storage for a number of years.

Other nearby towns and villages, however, were more successful in organizing brass bands. Little Brook, or Comeauville, I believe it was then called, had a small but very good band which played at Church picnics and gave entertainments in Clare, and occasionally in Weymouth, later the organization went to pieces as its members drifted away from home and the instruments were offered at bargain prices when it was learned that Weymouth was about to form a band. We found that the instruments had not been very well taken care of; they were green from disuse and more or less battered and somewhat out of date so the sale did not go through. Bear River had its band and a very good one as I remember it. The Digby band was a splendid organization and its concerts attracted many visitors from Weymouth. Some of our Weymouth girls were getting very much interested in Digby band boys, which disturbed the peace of mind of some of our young men not a little, but there was nothing that they could do about it. The counter influence of a brass band of their own was not indicated by the cards nor could any crystal gazer have discerned any such good luck for Weymouth's jealous swains and music lovers at that time.

More about the band next week. — G. R. T.

Mrs. Russell Ward, Hilton Beach, Ontario, writes: "This is my secret for keeping my family of six well. For all my children I have used Baby's Own Tablets, and I cannot praise them too much. If my baby is fretful I give her a Baby's Own Tablet, and in a short time she is happy. If there is sign of a cold, I give the tablets, and she is well better. If she is constipated, I find the tablets a wonderful regulator. The tablets are fine during teething. I wouldn't think of being without a box in the house!"

When you bake at home

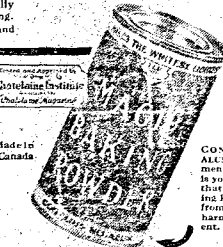

"When I create a recipe," says MISS LILLIAN LOUGHTON, well-known and famous Expert of the Canadian Magazine, "I want it to serve the young, inexperienced cook as well as the older and more skilled housewife. That's why my own baking recipes are planned for Magic, and why I recommend it for all recipes calling for baking powder."

Here's Miss Loughton's Recipe. Can you name it?

- 1 cup butter
- 2 cups fine white sugar
- 3 cups pastry flour or 2 1/2 cups bread flour
- 3 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup finely chopped citron peel
- 2 cups shelled and blanched almonds
- 1/2 cup shredded coconut
- 5 egg whites

The texture and fine flavor of this typically English cake depend upon careful mixing. Cream the butter and sugar till light and fluffy. Sift flour once. Dust peel, nuts and coconut with one-half cup of flour; add Magic Baking Powder and salt to balance of the flour, sift together twice, then gradually add alternately with milk to the creamed butter and sugar; when thoroughly blended add peel, nuts and coconut. Lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Turn into a well-greased loaf pan. Bake 1 1/2 hours in 400° F. oven for the first 20 minutes, then gradually decrease heat.

Contains No ALUM. This statement on every tin is your guarantee that Magic Baking Powder is free from alum or any harmful ingredient.

Two School Kids Express Their Opinion

To the Editor of the Courier,
Sir:—In reading your paper a fortnight ago we saw a letter from a former Digby girl. This letter was written about the school, but we do not think that that item referred to our school, because our school is not like that at all. Our school may not be the best school there is, but it is one of the best.

Take our teachers for instance; they are the best in all Nova Scotia and all the Maritime Provinces. The teachers for the lower grades work for the good of the children, not for their own good. The High School teachers are the best to be found anywhere. Mr. Purdy, our Principal, is the squarest one we have ever had. He has done more for the pupils of the Digby High School than they have done for themselves. He does his best to make our school days full of joy and happiness and he has many amusements for us. Our teaching staff is O. K.—it couldn't be better.

Now we will turn to the building itself which most people consider the most important. We consider the teachers of more importance than the building, as they prepare us for our future work, while the building only gives us a place to stay in. The building may not be as grand as some, but it does for us. People talk about their school after leaving it, but they forget that if it were not for that same old school, they would not have been learning whatever, and would therefore not be so high up (as some people say). There is not much to say for the building, but it serves its purpose and it will do until we get a better one.

The citizens of the town and the members of the School Board of their utmost to make our school more pleasant and they take a great interest in us which we appreciate very much, and we try very hard to make them interested in us while we. We must not forget to mention Mr. Boden, the Town Clerk. He is a good man, and he teaches us many things we do not know. We could sit all day and listen to him talk. You who have not heard him do not know what you are missing by not being a silly school boy or girl again. His talks will remain with us and have influence on us all our lives.

We have heard older people say that our school days are the happiest of our lives and here are two kids who will not deny it although we have not experienced the years of our later lives yet, but we will take older people's word for it. We know. We feel certain that in the later years, when we are grey-headed, we will look back with pleasure on our happy school days and we will not forget Miss McWhinnie or Mr. Purdy especially, but put them with our most pleasant thoughts. We will not forget the other teachers, nor Mr. Boden either. We hope that we will be able to give children a more pleasant picture of school when we leave than some people do. We take this opportunity to express our gratitude of what the members of the School Board and the citizens of the town have done and are still doing for us.

—Just Two School Kids.

Mrs. Charles Lamberton entertained the ladies of the United Church at the Barton House, Feb. 28th. Quelling and a pleasant social hour terminating in a delicious tea, filled the afternoon. Those participating were: Mrs. W. C. Harris, presiding, and Mesdames Bacon, Russell, Krausnick, Morehouse, Nickerson, J. Lamberton, P. Lamberton, A. Lamberton, C. Lamberton, Miss Evelyn Trevoy and tiny Marion Lamberton.

A special meeting of the Board of Trade was held in the Council Chamber in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening. There was a fair attendance. The meeting decided to recommend to the local authorities the advisability of enlarging the town school. Another matter of considerable importance to Digby was a resolution which will be forwarded to Kentville asking that the "Suburban" be restored to passenger service.

Food prices have reached a new low level. For instance, a letter received this week tells us that eggs are 10 cents per dozen, turkeys, 10 cents per pound, and chicken, six cents per pound. Small wonder that the farmers are on the war path.

Come and enjoy an evening of "Scotland" for 25 cents, at the United Church Hall, March 16th. Candy will be sold.

Junior Club News

New Club at Millford Corner

We are glad to welcome a new club this week. It is the 4-H School Improvement Club at Millford Corner, organized recently by the teachers, Miss Ida Clark. The officers are: President, Harry Rice; Vice-President, Frances Balcom; Secretary, Marjorie Chute; Treasurer, Ethel May. We shall look forward to regular reports from the Club Secretary.

New Blackboards

Muriel VanBuskirk, of Bear River East reports new chalkboards all dressed up with new borders and drawings. When the material for the boards arrived at the railway station, Clayton Yarrille, one of the pupils, took a team loaded by Mr. Wheelhouse and went to the Station. The Unionville boys gave a chandelier to the school so now they are all fitted up with good lights for their lessons. By the way, they are going to have a Play on Wed. 1st. The new blackboards will be used for the cost of shrubs ordered for Spring planting on the school grounds. An account of the Valentine Party and an open meeting at which they entertained another school, were other features of this well written and interesting report. Mrs. Wiles has been ill with flu and Clayton Yarrille laid up with a badly sprained ankle. The reporter did not say whether Clayton could handle ankle playing hockey or hauling blackboards.

Another Party

Irma Ramsay of Lake LaRose reports that they are going to entertain the Perotte children. After the business period games taking the form of relay races were played and prizes were given by the teacher. Refreshments were served.

Received Books

From Mount Pleasant we have received seven well written letters acknowledging the books (25) given them by the Helping Teacher and from the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire. These books were a gift from the John Stewart Chapter in Halifax. This Chapter has done a great deal for the rural schools of this district during the present term. The Chapters at Middleton and Annapolis Royal are also much interested in education and have likewise done much in providing books, flags, seat-work equipment, etc. for the rural schools that would otherwise not be able to have such things.

Surprising Growth of Band Pointed Out to Kiwanians

Paul Yates gave some very interesting facts about the Band at Monday's meeting of the Kiwanis. The band is an offspring of the Kiwanis Club, and has only been in existence a few months. The club first organized a Music Council, consisting of 24 members, 12 of whom are Kiwanians; then they appointed a permanent board of trustees in whom is vested the funds and property of the band.

At the present time the band consists of sixty members. Since its organization it has received from the trustees of the old band, $361; membership fees, $108; H. B. Short, donation, $35; Jamie Dillon, donation, $25.

The original equipment consisted of six good horns and two drums; they now have twenty-six horns and two drums.

The most surprising thing is what the players have done. They have paid $2 each in membership fees and have spent $618 for instruments (privately owned solo instruments such as cornets, saxophones, clarinets, etc.).

Last week-end cold weather setting in made possible the harvesting of the ice crop. It was not an intense cold, by any means, but it was cold enough to form good ice and on Saturday every available truck and man was put to work, and they have been at it night and day (except Sunday) ever since. But although good for the ice man it has not helped out the farmers and lumbermen to any extent as it was not cold enough to freeze up all the swamps, to make it possible to get in the woods.

Obituary
J. E. B. Dickson

Word has been received in Digby of the passing of J. E. B. (Edgar) Dickson, in Victoria, B. C., a few days ago. Mr. Dickson was a nephew of J. L. Peters, and a cousin of Mrs. James Warrington, and Mrs. Amelia H. Peters, of this town.

He was about 55 years old and was born in Digby, in the house now occupied by Mrs. Hewitt. When very young the family moved to Saint John, but Edgar spent a number of summers in Digby after that. He moved to Victoria some time ago. A widow and two sons are left to mourn.

Obituary

John L. Sulis
Smith's Cove lost one of its most highly respected citizens and the Baptist Church of the community one of its most exemplary members in the recent passing of John L. Sulis, from his late residence in the village to the life beyond.

John Lawrence Sulis was born on January 27, 1858. He died March 6, 1933, so that he had passed his 95th birthday. On May 19th, 1884 he married Miss Diadamy Rice, who predeceased him 12 years. His grandchildren are Carroll Varrille, North Woburn, Mass., and Lawrence S. Cossett, residing in Smith's Cove.

Mr. Sulis was highly honored in his church relations, which comprised a period of 63 years, during which he was a loved teacher in the Sunday School, and a member of the Division of the Sons of Temperance. He was also a member of the Division of the Sons of Temperance.

He was a Conservative in politics and was a Fish Commissioner for Smith's Cove. In military matters he was distinguished as a Fenian Irish Veteran. Venerable Citizens Appreciate "Two Young Kids" Letter
To the Editor of the Digby Courier: Sir:—I have many things to thank you for, but the last and most important is your letter from two young persons who are pleased to call themselves "Two Kids". I must take the privilege to change the title to "Two Nova Scotians".

As such I beg to reply. Several subjects are treated in the letter, and several points of distinction made, which led me to think that the very good thoughts came from an older brain. It could not be better by old or young.

All the thoughts are grand and worthy—just what I would like to have said myself, but better done. I wish I could show you the little old school house from which came two boys who are now presidents of two colleges in the United States of America.

Many other cases could be given, but I desist. Your two young Nova Scotians are not only correct in their thinking, but their thinking is of a very high order. Nothing is more admirable than their high appreciation of all their teachers. Though not personally acquainted with any one of them, I hear the very best reports. All these reports are corroborated by your Two Young Nova Scotians. I hope they write another letter.

BIRTHDAYS

On the household calendar there is no more important event than birthday anniversaries of the children. Times and customs change and it is said the home is not what it used to be, but a child's birthday anniversary still remains a red-letter day.

Of course there are birthday parties and great confusion during the administering of one spank or one tug of the ear for every year the little heir or heiress has been in the household. And sometimes the occasion is celebrated with a birthday party.

Every fond parent knows it is out of tune to punish Little Ebbey on his birthday, so the day is inaugurated with solemn vows that no matter what he does there are to be no scoldings or whippings that day.

Unfortunately the juvenile hero of the day has more reasons for being naughty on his birthday than at other times. He is excited and full of energy. He cannot understand why he cannot have his own way since it is his birthday party. And he is quick to discover that the bars of parental discipline have been lowered for this day.

Youthful minds do not distinguish between liberty and license. Nor do they realize that there are other rewards for being good than security from punishment. If the parent vows of the morning are broken one usually knows where to place the responsibility.

A birthday anniversary without temper or tears is ardently to be desired, but seldom realized. For though the honored one may have been a gift from the gods, his conduct is most human even on the anniversaries of his presentation.

THE SPRING HABIT

Spring is an untiring miracle, no less so today than when men were more inevitably concerned with the seasonal moods of mother earth. The ancient mystery is renewed each year by which rich life and color and eager growth spring again from the winter-locked land. A few days of kindly sun and the resurrection is begun, the life restores, the world renewed with beauty.

Life endures the winter but blossoms with the spring. All things good and full of promise answer the warm welcome of a friendly sun. Because nature is grown again, the world is once more fruitful.

From this seasonal certainty we may pick a lesson. Men likewise grow better and work better in good weather. Hard times and harsh discipline, whether of men or circumstances, may test and toughen endurance and stiffen courage and fiber, but growth and usefulness flourish better in the warmth of good will and kindness. These are the spring tides of human life, which can awaken all its hidden powers and riches. We grow better, work better and are in all ways happier in the habit of mutual encouragement and the widespread warmth of genuine good will.

Distance lends enchantment to a debt.

No woman is an old maid until she admits it.

No self-made man ever left out the working parts.

Misery loves company. They come and go together.

Spring always visits a few times before coming to stay.

A perfect lady never chews tobacco in public or shoots any man unless he is her husband.

Women don't play ball because the players are too far apart to talk.

Temperance
Table Talk
By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service Council and Temperance Alliance)

"Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them." So says a good book from which Mr. Mary and I were reading only this morning. It is a very pithy way of saying that methods and movements and manners are to be judged by their results. That is the way science talks too. Every theory is to be tested by how it works out. Many an old notion that seemed to own the place for centuries has had to vacate the premises as the tests of the tightening years made new demands. This age in which we live is busy straightening curves, lowering hills, filling valleys, widening bridges on the king's highway travelled thus for generations. Quite good enough for the days of the horse and carriage, perhaps, the narrow bridge and the sharp curve or corner are, in the day of the automobile, a menace to life and property.

Neighbor Ben waxed eloquent in a conversation the other day as he dubbed all this fanatical talk as he called it, about the harm of liquor drinking as "mere bosh." "Why," he said, "my old father was never without his liquor in the house, and we boys were brought up to take it or leave it alone. My father and his father before him were just as good as those people who go up and down the country decrying the moderate use of whiskey and beer and the moderate use of the same. There are a lot of folks just like Neighbor Ben, who seem to be living in the past and don't realize that the new day in which we live has taught us that even the so-called moderate use of alcoholic beverages is as much out of date in this present age of high human demands as is the narrow bridge on the king's highway—good enough for yesterday, perhaps, but entirely inadequate for today.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"Folk who live on the mountains Have a longer day Than the valley dwellers. Where the shadows play If to make days brighter It is your desire. Just, by thinking better thoughts Rise a little higher."

Rev. Roy L. Smith

When a Man Begins—
—To teach others he begins to learn himself.
—To lose his temper he also loses his judgment.
—To make excuses he begins to weaken his own self-respect.
—To seek sympathy he begins to manufacture trouble.
—To make complaints he is very liable to make confessions.
—To make war on his habits he has begun the battle of his life.
—To smother his conscience his last hope begins to die.

Married

Ford-Sabean

A quiet wedding of interest to a large circle of friends was solemnized at the Baptist Parsonage, Weymouth North, on Thursday evening of last week, when Rev. James Neilson united in marriage, Miss Helen Sabean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Sabean, of New Tusket, and Eldon Ford, also of New Tusket. The bride was becomingly attired in a blue ensemble. The couple were unattended.

Vitality Interested

Wife—"You don't seem to take any interest in anything I do now, George."

Husband—"How can you say such a thing? Why, I lay awake all last night wondering what on earth you put in the pudding you made yesterday!"

Slightly Mistaken

"What did they teach you at school today, sonny?"

"Oh, teacher told us all about Columbus, who went 2000 miles on a galleon."

"She did, did she? Well, don't believe all she tells you about those foreign cars, my boy."

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

Lives of great men often remind us. As their pages open we turn. That we're apt to leave behind us. Letters that we ought to burn.

POSTAGE STAMPS AND HAY

There was a touch of bravado in it and perhaps even remnants of the old pony-express spirit, now often exemplified in the air mail, that the mail must go through at any cost, but the shipment of a ton of hay by parcel post from Durango to Silverton, Colo., shows what the postal service can and will do in an emergency. The rail lines were blocked with snow. The mail was being carried over the mountains by pack-horse. Dairy cattle in snowbound Silverton needed the feed. So a Durango shipper packed it in small bundles, placed the legal $14.00 worth of stamps on it and mailed it. And the hay went through by mail on pack mules at a cost to the Government of five cents a pound. So much a matter of routine has the mail service become that few persons when they drop a letter or a package in a mail box realize that the Postal Department is more than an automatic machine. It takes an incident of this sort—a stunt, if you will—to bring back the personal character of the mails, the individual efforts that go to make up a service which still has as its watchword, "The mail must go through."

Our popular fish dealer, Louis H. Comeau, is very busy at this time of lobster fishing. The catch has been very good during this stormy season. Joseph Comeau, who is associated with his father, L. H. Comeau, in the fish business, is remodelling the interior of the ancient office of the late H. Benson, which has been used as a doctor's office, to make a private and cozy residence.

George Trahan, son of Capt. Willie Trahan, has moved into his new residence by the seashore.

Emile Saulnier and family have moved here from Beon and have taken residence with John Melanson.

Miss Stella Aymar has obtained a position at Kentville as seamstress. Our energetic Agricultural Representative, Raymond LeBlanc, is very busy with the farmers at this season.

Very few people realize that right now while Paint and Varnish, along with other commodities at pre-war prices is the time to buy if they possibly can afford it.

Never has Paint and Varnish been so low, if you have any painting to do, do not hesitate, have it done right away, and when prices go up again you will look back and say "how lucky that I had it done while prices were low." But don't forget, "purchase the best," Martin Senour and Pratt & Lambert products in Paints and Varnishes are among the leaders today.

FIRST, came the Chevrolet Master Six—and Canada responded with the greatest welcome given a Chevrolet since 1929. Then, up stepped the leader with another entirely new line of cars, the Standard Six. Down went the Chevrolet base-price to the lowest figure in history for a full-size, six-cylinder based car. And the spotlight of public interest flashed brighter than ever on Chevrolet.

Now—for the first time—there are two Chevrolet Sixes—the Standard and the Master. Body-styles for everybody. Prices for several different groups of buyers. But only one standard of quality—the very same high standard that has made CHEVROLET the greatest name in low-priced motoring.

Both Standard and Master lines offer Air-Streamed Bodies by Fisher—safety glass windshields—and that newest General Motors sensation: Fisher No-Draft Ventilation. In the Standard Six, you can enjoy all these advantages at the lowest operating cost of any full-size car on the road!

Whichever you choose—to fit your needs and tastes and your idea of price—the mere fact that the leader built it is assurance of outstanding value. But you'll never really know how outstanding it is until you go to a Chevrolet dealer—see it, drive it, yourself!

HAVE NARROW ESCAPES WHEN CAR OVERTURNS

An accident which, providentially, just came short being a tragedy, occurred on Thursday morning of last week, when Fred Smith and son, Harold, of Smith's Cove, and Lloyd Graham, of Centreville, were proceeding by car to Sandy Cove.

At the top of the long steep hill leading to Sandy Cove, Harold Smith, who was driving, in attempting to shift gears, lost control of the car, with the result that it coasted at full speed, without the least guidance, to the bottom of the hill and with undiminished impetus crossed the street, tore through the grounds of Mrs. Jeanette Dakin, struck a barn—the first obstacle in its path—and overturned. With the car resting bottom up, the occupants, who miraculously escaped with only slight injuries, opened the door and crawled out. Mr. Smith sustained a cut on the head which required a few stitches, while the other two received only slight bruises.

The car was, however, badly damaged and the impact when it struck the barn, which was resting on posts, moved the building about six feet.

BARTON—BRIGHTON SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY CLUB

C. Eric Boulden addressed the 4-H Club Thursday evening at the Brighton Club. He outlined the work the government is doing to stimulate co-operating methods in farming and to help the farmers to solve local (rather than individual) problems. He emphasized the importance of having an farm venture (beyond that for family use) based on "economic production units," his main point being "more economical production, rather than greater production."

Dr. W. C. Harris addressed the 4-H Club (and all others interested) on "The Government of Canada" this afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the schoolhouse. Dr. Harris is regularly interested in the study of government and recently has found a new and authoritative work on the subject which he feels would be well worth while to present in outline to the children of the upper grades who are studying related subjects. Needless to say, this work will be equally interesting to the adult population. All are invited.

Mr. Wendell is providing a speaker for next Friday's meeting of the 4-H Beavers. The exact nature of the talk has not been announced as yet.

CARD OF THANKS—Mr. and Mrs. William Barton wish to thank their many friends who assisted in any way during the illness of Mrs. Mary Harris, and also those who offered the use of cars for the funeral.

The death of William Henry Trimmer, aged 96 years, occurred at his home at Waldee West on Wednesday night of last week. He had been ailing for many months, during which time he had been cared for by his grandson, Wallace Trimmer, who came to make his home in Waldee a few years ago. Mr. Trimmer was a familiar figure in that vicinity, having been a life-long resident of Waldee West, where his ancestors settled more than 150 years ago. A son, named William, of the old homestead, funeral services were held on Friday, with burial in the Waldee cemetery.

Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph Albry Northup passed away Saturday morning after a short illness at his home in Canning. Col. Northup had been in his usual health until Thursday evening, when he was suddenly stricken, having into unconsciousness soon after and from which he failed to rally. He was born at Canning, July 5, 1861. He was a partner in the firm of Scotia Lodge, A. F. and A. M. He was a magistrate and for a number of years had an office in Canning. The last few years he was conducted his business at his home. Col. Northup was twice married, his first wife being Miss Lydia Newcombe, Hantsport, and by this marriage, he is survived by one son, Charles, now resident in Vancouver. His second wife, who survives, was Miss Laura Harris, of Canning, and of this union there are three children: Frank F. Northup, at home, and Alice (Mrs. Clifford L. Bowley), Digby. Four grandchildren also survive.

It was with a very deep sense of sorrow and grief when it was learned of the passing of Margaret Joyce Nichols, on Thursday morning, March 16th, after a little more than 24 hours' illness, at the age of three years and three months. She was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Nichols, Deep Brook. An impressive funeral service was held at the Baptist Church, on Saturday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. Turner, assisted by Rev. A. W. L. Smith, rector of St. Clement's parish. Hymns selected by request were rendered by the choir. The children of the public school were present in a body with their teachers. The church was filled to capacity. Surviving the parents and one step-sister, Miss Ellen Nichols and a young brother, James Lincoln. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. The funeral took place in Mount Hope cemetery, Bear River.

With regret we report the sudden death of Eugene Howard, age 32 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Howard, which took place at his home in Tiverton, on Tuesday, March 14th, at 9:30 p.m. He had been ill for some months suffering much, yet hopes were held for his recovery. At

PRICE NEARLY CUT IN TWO

The recent reduction of MORSE'S STANDARD TEA to a new price of 40 cents per pound package brings it down to almost half the price that it sold at about two years ago. Then the price was 75 cents per pound package, and now it is only 40 cents per pound package, and it is exactly the same high quality tea that was regarded as mighty good value at 75 cents two years ago. The explanation of the lower price is the fact that in the tea markets of India and Ceylon; for the blenders of MORSE'S TEAS have followed the primary markets down rung by rung as they descended the ladder. People who once felt they could not afford such a fine tea now find it brought within their reach. Indeed, almost anybody might have the benefit of this delicious, full-flavored, thick-lining, satisfying, gratifying MORSE'S STANDARD TEA, for at 40 cents a pound, and making 240 cups to the pound, the cost to the consumer works out at one-sixth of a cent per cup.

ter taking his medicine which his mother had carefully prepared for him, he would go to sleep. As she turned to leave him she heard a sound and on returning to his side found he had quietly passed away. She has no more to mourn besides his parents are three sisters, Mrs. W. A large gathering of relatives and friends met at the church to pay their last tribute of respect to this young man. Burial took place in Pleasant Hill cemetery. Sympathy is extended to all who mourn.

THAT BUDGET . .

The Finance Minister, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, brought down the budget speech on Tuesday and the country is gasping in astonishment and bewilderment. It imposes a further taxation of $70,000,000 on a people already overburdened with taxes and not knowing which way to turn for an extra dollar. We feel that we would be neglecting our duty to our readers if we did not protest against it. If the country really needed the extra money we would not complain; but it is only necessary to go through the government reports and blue books to see that this $70,000,000 could have been cut from the expenditure without affecting the government machinery. Reading the Auditor-General's report it is easy to see that millions are being thrown away like water. We honestly believe that this extra taxation is not necessary and that the people of Canada will be making a serious mistake if they submit to it. But, it is no use talking about it in the stores, offices, homes or on the street; action is needed and needed at once. Write a letter or post card or wire your representative requesting him to vote against it—that's the way to get action. The Courier is a neutral paper—we keep as far away from politics as it is possible—but here is a case where politics should not count. Party should be completely ignored. We are not saying that the Liberals could do any better, but we do feel that the time is opportune for the independent man to come to the front and shove both parties aside.

Motor Licenses May Run to April 30.

The period during which motor vehicles may be operated on 1932 license plates has been extended in Nova Scotia from March 31st to April 30th.

Announcement of this extension was made on Tuesday by Hon. Percy C. Black, Minister of Highways. In making this announcement through the Registrar of Motor Vehicles the hope was expressed that motorists will make application for 1933 permits, number plates and operators' licenses as early as possible in order to prevent congestion in the Motor Vehicle office.

Mr. William Snow, who has been spending a few weeks in Halifax, has returned home.

The Hospital Sewing Circle which was held last week at the home of Mrs. C. F. McBride, will meet next week at Mrs. DuVernet's.

NOVA SCOTIA'S TOURIST TRADE POSSIBILITIES.

By Thomas F. Anderson.

And, now for that fascinating, surfwashed, historic and rather neglected sector of Nova Scotia's summer playground—the South Shore.

Stretching in a sinuous line from Halifax to the "jumping-off place," and practically, if not geographically, terminating at Yarmouth, the South Shore, so-called, is one of the world's most picturesque and romantic sections of ocean seaboard. Writers have praised its natural beauties for nearly three centuries, and artists have raved over it, and yet somehow the South Shore region never has been exploited by its own inhabitants to the extent that other portions of the province's vacation land have been.

My own earliest recollections of it, as a child, relate to the incomparable St. Margaret's Bay locality—the "Baie de Ste. Marguerite," of Champlain who visited it, away back in 1603, and more fleeting glimpses of its entire contour as a juvenile passenger on the old steamer of Fishwick's Express Line, the "M. A. Starr," which regularly plied, in these far-away days, between Halifax and Yarmouth, with brief stops at Lunenburg, Liverpool, Shelburne and other ports.

When our pioneer New England press delegation visited Nova Scotia, more than forty years ago, there were no communities it stopped at that tendered finer hospitalities than Lunenburg and Bridgewater; and these places figured prominently in the many pages of writeups that resulted from this trip. Comparatively little has been done since that day to boost the South Shore, as far as I am aware, notwithstanding it is one of the loveliest and most restful regions in all Canada.

In the average tourist bureau office of the United States, Chester, of course, has been a familiar name for half a century, and, to a less extent, Hubbard's, but few of these agencies know anything about the superb attractions of Mahone Bay and the multitude of harbors, headlands and bays that stretch along the two hundred odd miles of the South Shore. Lunenburg, Bridgewater, Liverpool, Shelburne, Barrington, and other communities, ought to be doing much more for the exploitation of their summer attractions than they are doing, and the region also, greatly needs more modern publicity by the railroad that nowadays takes the place of the old-time stage line of the 1870's and the primitive steamship service of that period. The prestige of the Annapolis Valley as a vacation region unquestionably is to be credited to the aggressive railway exploitation it has been receiving for many years.

It is not alone in respect to its scenic attractions—its beautiful white beaches, its enticing harbors, and its background of semi-primitive forest—that the South Shore appeals, but it has a distinct interest from its historic and scarcely less so the Annapolis Royal itself. Tradition, if an actual history, connecting the Norsemen with the southern part of Nova Scotia, goes back nearly a thousand years, and those who would like to refresh their recollections regarding this and the activities of La Tour and the early French settlers should read such interesting books as "The Baronnie de Pomfou and the Acadies: a History of the Ancient Department of Cape Sable, Yarmouth and Shelburne Counties," by H. Leander d'Entremont, of East Centre Pubnico; and "Annals of Yarmouth and Barrington, Nova Scotia, in the Revolutionary War," by Edmund Duval Boile. These are but examples of the neglected literature of this section.

One hundred years ago John McGregor, in his "British America," published in London, said of the South Shore that it "is exceedingly picturesque; and the scenery in many places is richly beautiful."

One sometimes wonders if the present inhabitants of the South Shore of Nova Scotia value its scenery and possibilities as much as did those writers of one and two centuries ago.

INSPIRATION IN THE STARS

One of the disadvantages of cities is that they bar man from the stars. City smoke and city lights are twin enemies of astronomy. No country boy, stepping out of doors on a clear and frosty night, can miss the knowledge of other worlds than ours. City lads are less fortunate, for nothing forces them to look higher than the lanterns of the skyscrapers.

Perhaps there are compensations. Inspiration is a fickle jade, bestowing favors by no rule. But it is no small thing that city folk lose the stars. Can it be entirely accident that the birthplace of great ideas have been so largely spots whose skies are clear? Would those somber, glorious figures of the Hebrew prophets have held the world's thoughts for nearly thirty centuries so largely in their fingers if the high hills of Palestine had been forever overcast with clouds?

It is hard to replace nature with art, but it may be partly possible. Some communities are interesting young and old alike in the useful, interesting and romantic science of astronomy by fostering amateur astronomical societies. And the larger cities, which alone have the financial resources, are providing telescopes and planetariums picturing the entire whirling universe as the astronomers know it.

The best gifts of science to personal culture come when the science is a well loved hobby, not a painful task. Humanity, individually and collectively, would benefit from a universal taking-up of such hobbies as astronomy, natural history, the arts and every other department of human knowledge and nature.

STORES AND THE PUBLIC

On political issues the world cannot agree; in matters of religion there are eternal differences of opinion; all people have ideas others think lack sound reasoning; but on one point we all agree: everyone wants to see his home town prosper and grow. The way to a growing, prosperous community is through good stores. And the way to good stores is through trading at home. Buy away from home and watch your town die.

Some experts contend that good trading facilities build population and real estate values; others say that good stores follow population, but again, all agree that local prosperity can never come until adequate trading facilities are established. No town was ever built by money sent to mail order houses or spent in the neighboring town. There are the dollars that build the big cities and their large mercantile fortunes.

A large part of the dollar spent in the home community remains there. It travels from home to grocer, to the butcher, to the hardware merchant, and so on around the wheel of home trade. Spent out of town the dollar has gone forever. Every community likes to take pride in its stores. And yet those stores, which are expected to keep up to the community standard, do not receive all of the shopping dollars. Stores are what the customers, not the proprietors, make them.

THE IDEAL CITIZEN

An ideal citizen is the one who sees clearly and ever something good in the town and never loses the opportunity to spread that good news abroad

From the House of KING COLE

that others might derive the benefits therefrom, whose selfishness prompts him to want others to share opportunities, health and pleasure which his home town offers.

Loyalty is the first requisite for the ideal citizen. The love for the place and his neighbors which dismisses the thought of self interest or policy and resolves itself into the knowledge of duty when he does all in his power to make the town a better place in which to live.

There are three distinct attitudes which a citizen may assume toward the place in which he lives, which furnishes him food, shelter and association for himself, and family, to boost, to remain quiet or to knock. The booster is that ideal citizen who is never forgetful of the obligations which are due the home town. He is ever found at the front when any movement is launched which might tend to the advancement of the interest of the town. While others see darkly, to him good is visible at all times. The quiet citizen is satisfied to let the neighbor do the work and content to lull the town asleep and let it rest. The knocker is the man who is without a country. There is no room for him anywhere, his presence dampens the enthusiasm of every man or group of men who unfortunately come in contact with him. Having no faith in his own ability to go forward, he naturally lacks faith in his home town to do so.

You have the chance to belong to either of the three classes. If you are a booster, your neighbor knows it well and will boost you. If you are aligned with the quiet class, you will not be regarded one way or the other for the man who seeks to steer in the middle of the stream gets no support from either side. If unfortunately, you are a knocker, get ready to be knocked, for eventually it is coming to you. As you give so will it be meted out to you.

Digby would be an ideal town if only there were more ideal citizens. Let us have them.

Between Ourselves

Well, folks, here I am, back on the job again, but I am not going to have much to say this week—just enough to let the world know that I am able to be about and kicking again. To tell the truth, I hardly know how to begin writing my little piece, I am so out of practice after my "extended vacation."

But, first of all I want to say how much I appreciated the many kindnesses shown me during the weeks I spent gazing at the ceiling—I never before realized that there were so many who thought enough of me to bring the little dainties which were always appreciated; to write cheery letters; to send cards and make inquiries; to drop in to "pass the time of day and so many other little things all of which make one feel that this is a great old world to live in in spite of all one hears and reads about it.

There were some who even went so far as to write and say that they missed "Between Ourselves" and hoped that I would soon be broadcasting again—I am honest enough to say that I thoroughly enjoyed their "appreciation"—and who doesn't like a little appreciation once in awhile, just so long as it isn't mixed with too much soft soap.

Of course there are many things I could write about of local interest—and otherwise. During the past eight weeks a few things seem to have happened in Digby and vicinity which are deserving of comment—the assessment farce has been straightened out; three new town councillors are in office; the school situation is being talked about; some, I believe, are still trying to do something in the way of a celebration to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the landing of the United Empire Loyalists—I had a lot of things stored up to say on that subject and I hope still to have the opportunity of getting some of them off my chest.

The Digby Ravens deserve special mention, and I sure wish

I could have seen the games this winter—from all reports they were well worth the price of admission.

I could rave on and on, but feel as though I had better "sign off" for this week.

Some of our readers, gentle and otherwise, will remember the day when a scouting party of the Salvation Army visited Weymouth for the first, and I believe the only time. They had a three-piece band and they were up at the village with a three day revival. The little band played Salvation Army tunes adapted from the popular songs of the day; the music was catchy and folks enjoyed it. A sweet voiced and remarkably good-looking Salvation Lassie won the crowd with a song that told about "Beautiful Rocking Hands." The Captain sang a solo that had to do with drinking at the well of full Salvation and invited the assemblage to come along and have a drink with them. The audience joined in the chorus but that is as far as it could be induced to go beyond the spiritual refreshment offered by the soldiers of General Booth. Collections were taken but the amount realized apparently was not sufficient to encourage the Army to establish a post in Weymouth or ever bring them back again. Nor from a soul-saving point of view either, were the meetings a success. No one in the town seemed to be ready to join the Army. No one seemed to carry the flag, shake a tambourine or pound the big bass drum. Sorrowing sinners who were willing to acknowledge and confess their manifold sins and wickedness or admit having shed a nail keg full of tears of repentance over their wrong doing did not make their appearance at these meetings. Perhaps after all, there were no sinners in the village so far gone that they needed the hallooish and noisy work of the Salvation Army to rescue them. If there were any sinking souls in need of a life line there were two or three expert life line tossers connected with the home town churches who could bring the drifting safe to shore. That little three-piece band, however, did a lot of quiet missionary work for the Brass Band for Weymouth movement.

What did the people of Weymouth do when they needed music for a dance? Sometimes they engaged musicians from Digby or Yarmouth, if the affair was important enough to justify such expense—but mostly, and that was nearly always, Johnny Crowe's one-piece orchestra furnished the music. Johnny, in his own estimation was "some" fiddler, but the tunes that he produced from that combination of fiddle, guitar, banjo and rosin sounded so amazingly alike, that one could easily become confused in his dancing if he had not heard the dance leader announce and would find himself at cross purposes with his partner who might be off with a flying start to a polka step while the party of the first part was endeavoring to do hold the hoofing down to a slow waltz. Little did Johnny care how the dance went. With his chin lifted back against the wall and the toes of his shoes hooked under the front legs of the chair he would directly say on that hook of "wolin" of his, with his mind probably more upon the job of whitewashing that he was going to do next day instead of the dance of the hour. Johnny and his fiddle with the three little red, white and blue ribbons hanging from the scroll of the instrument passed out of the picture of Weymouth's social and musical life years ago, but there are people still living in Weymouth who will remember the little colored man who made the music for the dances about the "bridge" and "down the river" in days gone by.

In the upper room of the old red building just north of the Campbell store, a group of young bloods—not yet old enough to vote—had formed a club. A club without a name, which operated without charter, let alone license from State, County or Local authority. Some people might have called it a "gang," but night patrolman Randolph Payson looked at the crowd over one evening and decided that while it might at times be more or less noisy, at no time would it be a danger and a menace to society, so the club was allowed to live for a while. The club's equipment was meagre. Its paraphernalia consisted of two decks of playing cards, one for Casino and the other for Forty-Fives; two pairs of second hand boxing gloves, one checked board, a punching bag and a stack of dice. An enlarged picture of Charlie Mitchell, British champion in fighting togs, a photograph of John L. Sullivan, world champion, in street attire, and autographed by J. L. S. hung upon the walls. The club received the Weymouth Gazette regularly every week through underground connections with a dealer in such contrabands of art and literature. The furniture, fixtures, attachments and appointments of the club room belonged to the landlord who exacted the fee of three dollars and thirty cents per month, the three dollars being for rent and the thirty cents for kerosene oil and lamp wicks for illuminating purposes. The club supplied the eats and drinks out of its common fund and each member provided his own smokes and matches. Seven day matches—tipped with sulphur and brimstone that came in cards, six cards to a package, wrapped in tissue paper. From the foregoing the reader may be able to imagine the activities of this club were purely social. Others may say that it was merely a lazing place for a bunch of young buckaroos who wanted to get in out of the rain. At all events it was there that the Weymouth Band got its start. One evening someone brought in a magazine which had a full page advertisement describing the instruments made of paper. They were called vophonones. Papier Machie affairs shaped like regular band instruments and into which the performer sang his songs. Great for serenading and much entertainment for everybody, the advertisement said the price for them was only fifteen dollars. The club felt for the "ad." If there was anything that the club needed it was music and song and later they would sell forth and wake up the town and perhaps get the town folks into the notion of providing funds for the band. So the club with only twelve dollars in its treasury levied an assessment upon its members to bring the amount up to the necessary fifteen plus expenses. In due time the horns arrived and the vophonone outfit went into practice. Unfortunately,

BEATS HIGH-PRICED "8" UP MOUNTAIN—A BEAUTY SENSATION ON THE STREET

MORE Dodge cars were bought by Canadians in January and February than in any other January and February in Dodge history—four times as many as in January and February, 1932—and this enthusiastic buying continues.

People have ridden in the New Dodge... have seen its beauty and have agreed with us that the new Dodge is a "Miracle Car"... setting absolutely new standards of value in the lowest priced field.

Value is shown by performance. We wanted to know exactly how Dodge could perform—not only on city streets and level roads—but up the terrific grades of mountain touring. So we gave it a mountain test.

Well, the new Dodge Six wasn't satisfied with merely climbing a mountain, just getting to the top, the way most cars do. It had to do the sporting thing—it had to race up! With a rush, its 75-horsepower engine leaped into the spirit of the race.

Pitted against it was a high-priced eighty-cylinder car. Neck and neck they started out. But midway, the big new Dodge Six began to show its stuff. Inch by inch it crept into the lead. Then it pulled to a full length ahead, leaving the Eight far behind.

That's performance for you.

It's the same big new Dodge Six that's dazzling the younger set everywhere with its beauty. And real beauty, too. Not just flashy trimming but the kind of smart, good looks that grow on you.

So Easy to Drive!

The big new Dodge Six is made for people who don't want bother and fuss in driving. It's easy to drive, simple to handle. Its luxurious interior is roomy and comfortable. With an automatic clutch, there's no need to use the clutch pedal. The gears are quiet in every speed, including reverse. Special "Oilite" lubricated springs, that can't squeak—stay limber for easy riding. Shock-proof steering helps you to drive without feeling the bumps.

No Surplus Weight!

And it's fast! Flashing speed in second, like a shot in high. There's no surplus weight added just to make the car seem big and add to your gasoline expenses. Floating Power engine mountings banish vibration, at every speed. Safety is built right into this big new Dodge Six. Mono-piece steel body welded into a solid steel unit—no joints, no screws to loosen. Double-drop, X Bridge type frame. Safe low center of gravity. HEADACHE Here's Quick Relief

A lot of things can cause a headache or other pain, but there is one thing that will always give you relief! Just take a tablet or two of Aspirin. Your suffering ceases. Relief comes instantly, regardless of what may have been making your head throb with pain. Aspirin is harmless—cannot depress the heart. So there's no use waiting for a headache to "wear off." It is useless to endure pain of any kind when you can get Aspirin. It is a blessing to women who suffer regular systemic pain; to men who must work on, in spite of eye-strain, fatigue or neuralgia.

through the piece, some persons not connected with the band, playfully tossed a couple of chunks of stove wood upon the roof of the Amoro home and these came tumbling down the incline with such a terrifying racket that the folks within were much alarmed, if not actually panicked, causing the doughty captain to grab his trusty shot gun, and rushing to the door, discharged two shots point blank into the space where the serenaders had recently been standing. But the band was no longer there; at the sight of that shot gun they were "on their way" and how! Stray sticks of cordwood, frozen into the road, tripped several of the boys who fell upon their instruments and smashed them beyond repair and they carried scratches and bruises upon their hands and bodies for days as the result of coming into violent contact with the frozen ground. Whether Capt. Amoro ran out of ammunition or whether he thought he had no chance of catching up with the serenaders was never explained. Apparently two shots were enough to satisfy all concerned and evidently he found out that the band was not responsible for his escape. For the members heard nothing more from him on the subject. The episode, resulting in the ruination on several horns, sort of put a damper on the band idea for a while. But it was not very long before we were off to a fresh start, which was at last to develop into something worth while.

REVIEW: "JESUS OUR EXAMPLE IN SERVICE"

Golden Text: "Jesus of Nazareth went about doing good." Acts 10:38.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 42:1-7

"How would my Master have walked today?"

Had he travelled where I have walked?

And had he been in my words today? How would my Master have talked?

"In all that I think, and speak and do."

Be model, O Saviour, to me: As thou art my Saviour, help me in gladness to pattern from thee."

Our Example

Can Jesus really be our example? He lived in an oriental land nineteen hundred years ago. He never married, and his life ended in his early thirties. He lived here the days of modern newspapers, machinery, transportation and science. He lived before the discovery of North and South America; he worked among people who thought that the earth was flat. He owned no real estate, carried no life insurance, and left no legacy except his garment. In external life he is far different from ours, but in eternal things he is our highest example. His use of time, his faith in God, his love for men, his utter devotion even though it meant a cross -- these are the ways in which his example helps us most. Jesus went about doing good; his example of service is the highest we know.

Jesus Was Sensational

The gospel is good news and also it is news. There was no self-advertising about the public ministry of Jesus, but his ministry was sensational. In the past three months the Sunday School Lessons have followed the story of the life of Jesus as given in the first six Chapters of Mark's Gospel. John the Baptist proclaimed Jesus as the Messiah. The worshippers in the synagogue at Capernaum were astonished at the teaching of Jesus. Because of his deeds of healing his fame spread abroad throughout all the region round about Galilee. In Capernaum "all the city was gathered together at the door." Crowds followed him when he went away to the hillside for solitude. When it became known that he had returned to Capernaum, crowds sought the house where he was. A sick man was let down through the roof because entrance was impossible through the door. So great was the crowd along the lake shore that he had to teach from a boat. When he went away with his disciples for rest and quiet, thousands followed him. People would not leave him alone. They were interested in the truths he taught; they were surprised at the note of authority in his words. People were left them amazed and the kindness of Jesus was altogether novel. His sense of God's presence and his obedience to God's will made him talked about.

Jesus Was Companionable

There were times when Jesus wished to be alone. He experienced a deep loneliness of spirit. He had purposes about which he could take counsel only with God. Yet he could not do his work alone. He called disciples to be with him and his relationship with his disciples gives us an example of companionableness. He talked to them freely; he answered their questions; he made them feel that he was personally interested in each one of them. His enthusiasm was contagious and his friendship became the greatest experience of their lives. The Apostles carried on this fine fellowship. Followers of Christ seek to carry out his spirit in their personal relationships. The Christian Church has been a great agency of friendship. Jesus said to his disciples that he had called them friends: it is still a privilege of followers of Christ to feel that they are his friends and thereby they become friends of one another.

Jesus Was Helpful

It is interesting to go through the Gospels listing the people whom Jesus helped. Doubtless there were many more than mentioned in the four Gospels, but even those total a large number. In the first six chapters of Mark we read of Jesus helping John the Baptist, his own disciples, an irrational man in the synagogue at Capernaum, the mother of Simon's wife, a leper, the man with the palsy, a crowd by the lake shore, the man with the withered hand, his disciples in the storm at sea, the demoniac who lived among the tombs, the daughter of Jesus, the woman who touched the hem of his garment, the five thousand who were fed in a desert place, the countless number who heard him around the villages of Galilee. Jesus found joy in helping people. Varied cases of need came to him, the sick, the mentally deranged, the hungry, the fearful and Jesus was able to help them all. The difference in our outward standards of life matters little if we learn his spirit of helpfulness.

Jesus Was Active

The supreme miracle of the life of Jesus was that in less than three years he was able to accomplish what he did. The Golden Text gives us a clue: "Jesus of Nazareth . . . went about doing good." He lived without haste, yet each moment was conserved and used to the utmost.

His life had pulse and calm, yet he worked unceasingly to a purpose. He knew for what he lived and he lived for it. Carlyle said, "The end of Man is Action, not a Thought, even though it were the noblest." Jesus combined both thought and action. He was a practical idealist. He could think the highest thoughts about life and he could also help a sick child. He could set forth a glowing idea of the kingdom of God on earth and he could be kind to a poor man's aching arm and the tomb. Jesus could act, promptly and at the right time. Religion is often criticized as being other-worldly, but the religion of Jesus was not other-worldly. Jesus helped people where they were. Such mundane matters as food health, friendship concerned him. It is not irrelevant to try to live like Jesus. In his life we see the ideal of what our lives may be. Christ is our example in service.

Questions for Discussion

1. State ways in which the Christian ideal of service have permeated modern life?
2. How may business and politics be Christianized?
3. In how far is the Church serving humanity?
4. In what aspects of life was Jesus most interested?
5. How far are Service Clubs realizing Christ's example of service?
6. Are we consciously making Jesus our example in service?

Council Set Tax Rate for the Year 1933 at 4.60

Home Division, Sons of Temperance, of Smith's Cove, will hold an ice cream social on Tuesday evening next, in their hall. Of course, there will be an entertainment and you will enjoy yourself if you go. No admission—just buy ice cream.

We regret having to hold over a large amount of county news, which owing to pressure of advertising at the last minute, it was impossible to find room for. This will appear in our next issue.

Monday night's meeting of the town council "kind of set the town by the ears" if one could judge by the adverse criticism prevalent on the streets next day. The extra assessment, of course, came in for a lot of discussion, but that discussion was mild compared with that over the grant of $675 voted the other day. People were fairly wild over that—and not without reason. The ratepayers of Digby are not made of money. Directly and indirectly they are being taxed to the limit. When we consider the philanthropic and charitable enterprises this town is keeping up—the hospital, V. O. N., Children's Aid and what have you—an extra tax of $675 to support an added institution seems like the proverbial last straw on the camel's back. A ratepayer remarked to us: "We might as well go the limit; the town is now helping the band, the hockey club, the hall team, the boys' school, and what have you, a cent to any of the girls' clubs. It is time to remember that the girls want some 'pap' as well as the boys."

The regular meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening with Mayor and all the Councillors present.

After the reading of the minutes and the report of the Superintendent of Streets and Water, Fritz Dakin and A. E. Turnbull addressed the council asking for a substantial grant to the band, which could not continue to function unless aided by a grant of money from the town. Rev. E. W. Forbes, President of the Children's Aid, appeared, and asked for a grant of $300. Guy D. Dunn appealed for a reduction in his assessment for stock, etc., at the Pilling Station. He had not appealed to the Appeal Court as he had received his notice very late. The matter was explained by the clerk and on the motion of Councillor Anderson, seconded by Councillor

Obituary

Thomas Marsh

Word has been received of the death of Thomas Marsh, of Richley, Saskatchewan, on March 4th, after an illness of several months. He was born in Wolverhampton, England, where he resided until about twenty-five years ago, when he removed to Western Canada. In January, 1917, he married Lydie Perry, daughter of the late Augustus A. Perry, of Barlow, Digby County. He will be greatly missed in musical circles, having possessed fine bass voice, and he freely gave of his talent to the churches and to musical affairs of the neighboring towns. Before coming to Canada he was soloist for several years at the Cathedral in Wolverhampton. He was buried in Richley, the funeral service being conducted by the Maxims.

The Rev. will speak on "The Oxford Group and the Oxford Movement." The choir is rehearsing a Sacred Cantata to be sung in Trinity Church on Wednesday evening of Holy Week instead of Good Friday.

Miss Esther V. Budd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Budd, of Sea Brook, who has been in training in Saint John, for the past few years, is returning home shortly, having completed her course.

Mr. Aymar, it was decided to reduce his assessment on stock by $200. Fred Barr, on behalf of the Fire Department, asked if the Council would advance $100 to the Firemen's allowance for a few weeks, to be repaid; later in the evening the request was granted on motion of Councillors Morehouse and Anderson.

On motion of Councillors Aymar and Casswell the report of the appeal court, and the amended assessment roll, were received and adopted.

The clerk read the bill prepared by E. J. Theriault to legalize the assessment for the town for the year 1933, and the bill will be forwarded to the local newspaper for publication, for presentation to the Legislature.

The appointment of E. J. Theriault as town solicitor was ratified on motion of Councillors Turnbull and Morehouse.

E. J. Theriault read a draft resolution respecting charges to be made for property owners connecting with the town sewer at the South End and on Birch Street, which considered fixing the entrance charge at $15. But as the whole act needed careful study it was decided to call a special meeting of the Council to deal with it.

The following resolution, moved by Councillor Turnbull and seconded by Councillor Morehouse, was adopted: "That a public meeting of the ratepayers of the Town of Digby be called for Monday, the 10th day of April, 1933, in the Court House, to consider the advisability of expending a sum not exceeding Sixteen Thousand Dollars, for the extension of the present Academy building, to include two additional classrooms with Assembly Hall overhead, with equipment for hall and rooms, together with an improved system of heating, ventilating and lighting of the present building and necessary alterations."

A letter was read from Dr. E. DuVernet, medical health officer, advising the adoption of a bye-law prohibiting the keeping of pigs in the town.

After some discussion Councillor Anderson moved and Councillor Turnbull seconded a resolution to the effect that no action be taken by the Council this year, as such prohibition would entail a hardship upon citizens who relied upon the pig for their winter store of bacon and pork. The motion passed.

Councillor Morehouse reported that the fire truck is now in very good condition, with 1,600 feet of good hose, and other necessary equipment in first class order.

The matter of the grant to the band occasioned a lot of discussion. Some Councillors expressed themselves as being unwilling to make additional grants whilst the salaries of officials were being reduced. All were in favor of assisting the band but not to the extent of the requirements as set forth. Eventually Councillor Morrell moved that the town grant the band the sum of $675; this was seconded by Councillor Morehouse. Councillor Turnbull moved and Councillor Casswell seconded an amendment that the town grant the sum of $300. On being put Councillors Turnbull and Casswell voted for the amendment and Councillors Anderson, Aymar, Morehouse and Morrell voted for the original motion carried by the same vote, reversed.

Councillor Anderson, chairman of the Finance Committee, did not think the school board had cut their estimates as they might have done, and were asked $2,500. He moved that the school board's estimates be returned to that body for revision. Councillor Morehouse seconded this, but on the vote being put they

He ascribed the three principal reasons for physical defects, not normal, and lack of home influence and training, and claimed that the last reason was the greatest of the three. His address was very interesting and was listened to very intently. The speaker next Monday will be Rev. E. W. Forbes.

THE APPEAL COURT'S FINDINGS

The Appeal Court presented their report to the Town Council on Monday. It is too lengthy to reproduce in full, but we can give a few of the high lights. In all twenty-three appeals were heard. The appeals of the Super Service Pilling Station and the Imperial Oil Service Station were made more difficult by reason of the assessment made by Mr. Farham; in the former case he had made a reduction of $3,300. The committee regretted that the total assessment this year is $30,815 less than for 1932; the actual reduction made by the court were $8,065 and additions, $225. A difference of $11,550 in the income assessment appears adversely. The court was also of the opinion that a more careful adjustment of the assessment of real property on the Lighthouse Road should be made, as there is too much difference now.

George VanTassel, Lighthouse Road, appealed against his personal; his son, Harold, had built on a portion of his land and was also assessed; the court reduced George by $300 on real and $100 on personal; they also reduced the assessment on Harold by $200, as the house is not finished.

C. E. Armstrong's assessment on real property was reduced by $100. The Imperial Oil Company, for whom Frank Jones appeared, asked for a reduction of $1,000 on Pilling Station. Comparing it with other properties of like nature the court reduced the real by $500 and the personal by $250.

The Super Service Station had already been reduced by the Assessors; the court thought a reduction of $100 would place the property on a par with the Imperial Oil. F. R. Essner appealed against the assessment of $1,000 on new cars and also on furniture; the former was struck off and the latter reduced by $150.

H. L. Woodman appealed against the assessment of $400 on new cars and this was struck off.

W. S. Troop said he was assessed for two small properties, but not own. This was struck off and a reduction of $350 in the bakery equipment was made.

G. W. Connell, Mrs. B. J. Roop and O. Wright appealed against increased stock assessments. The trouble was that inventories of stock were not forthcoming and the assessors had acted according to their judgment. The court was able to do an inventory that of Mrs. Roop. Eventually the court reduced Mr. Connell's assessment by $500 and Mrs. Roop's by $900, but left Mr. Wright's as it was.

E. J. Theriault's real property on Warwick Street was reduced from $1900 to $1300; that of Hardy Bent was reduced from $1200 to $800; and Samuel Connors for a building on the same property.

An assessment of $100 was placed on a small electrical and radio stock of Harold Mott.

The assessment on the estate of Mrs. J. J. Livingstone was transferred to Mrs. A. Consonant, and that of Mrs. Tobin and Mrs. Bacon, on Water Street, to Fred May.

PRICE DOWN BUT QUALITY MAINTAINED

Once upon a time—that was about two years ago—there was a price of MORSE'S STANDARD TEA was 75 cents a pound. It is now sold in grocery stores at 40 cents per pound.

package. This is due to the drop in the tea market in countries of production. But while the price has dropped, MORSE'S STANDARD TEA is still the same delicious, full-flavoured, quick-liquoring, satisfying, gratifying tea it always was—just as it was when you first tasted it.

Just as it was when you first tasted it, so it is today. Indeed, a tea blended to meet their ideas of what a really good tea should be. Other teas of course have dropped in price also, but MORSE'S STANDARD TEA continues to be the best tea value on the market. At 40 cents per pound package it has quality equal to that of the 50-cent package teas so extensively advertised—perhaps better. This is something you can easily prove for yourself. Compare the leaf as you pour tea from one package alongside tea from the other, then put them to the cup test and you'll see that this is so.

A SECRET OF HAPPINESS

"If you don't care for the things you can't obtain you will be fairly happy."

On the surface it is not an inspiring message. Not to care for the things we can't obtain is to resign, give up, be supine. And when we quit in life's struggle we pay a dear price, indeed, for our meagre mete of happiness. Most of us perhaps, would rather keep on fighting. There is joy in the fight; joy at least to know there is fight in us.

"If you reverse the formula, 'If you care enough for the things you have obtained, you will be supremely happy.'"

The humble farmer, on his little farm—if he loves that farm—may be happy beyond compare. If he loves it well, he will till it well, intelligently, thoroughly, and it will yield him rich store. The widowed mother, in the little cottage, has her children, and if she loves them well they will be her life. The clerk at the desk, if he loves his work, will be happy in it. Or the motorman in his cab of steel, may find in the easy response of the throbbing motors and his rolling palace, a sense of responsibility for the passing multitude that will bring him pride and joy.

To be truly happy in our lot we need not be contented. Indeed, happiness and contentment, while we keep moving on life's highway, are not to be reconciled. If we love the work we do we shall be thrilled not alone to do it well, but to do it better.

Far away fields are always green to too many of us. Only after many fruitless pilgrimages is the simple truth borne home that if the field at our door is not attractive and verdant it is because we do not water its shrubs and grasses. If we love our field we will tend it. And, more important, if we tend it we will come to love it.

And this to them in whom ambition burns. Only by the degree to which you prove yourself true to the modest task of today can you fit yourself for, or inspire others to entrust you with, greater duties tomorrow.

INDISPENSIBLE TO BUSINESS

"Advertising pays!" That epigrammatic declaration is questioned by no one informed in the history of business and commercial development. It is a statement of fact, obvious and indisputable.

Quality and service have built vast commercial and industrial institutions, but with their handmaid, advertising, greater institutions have been built in far less time and at far less cost. Advertising brings buyers and quality; service and advantageous price keeps them.

It is significant that the makers of those products whose copyrighted names are synonymous with the product itself have all been large-scale advertisers. Making a "better mousetrap" wasn't enough.

What these famous national advertisers have accomplished for the trade names of their products has been done by merchants for their business names. Advertising has made one store synonymous with clothing, another with furniture, another with meats and groceries, and another with music.

In every business and community there is some far-seeing and enterprising manufacturer or merchant who raises his product and business name above the common level by making advertising work for him.

THE BUSY MAN

Modern business has engendered several axioms which rival the rarest bits of wisdom of the ancients. Among the most frequently quoted is, "If you want something done take it to the busy man." A companion epigram reads, "A good workman never wants for a job."

Axioms and epigrams that en-

Smilin' Charlie Says

"Yeah! They laughed when I was called on for a speech, but after I had talked for two hours—well, you can imagine!"

sure don't just happen. To go down through the generations they must express in a concise and vivid manner an obvious truth. The axioms of the busy man and the good workman fill this requirement.

There is a reason why one should patronize the busy man and workman who has a job. The busy man is busy because he has earned a reputation of giving service expeditiously and satisfactorily. The best recommendation a workman can desire is the fact that he is not out of work. Very often employers are forced through a labor shortage to accept workers who do not come from another job, but when allowed to choose between the employed and the unemployed they always pick the former.

The axiom of the busy man applies to the professional man, store, hotel, factory, office and every other branch and phase of business. The axiom of the good workman is applicable to all classes of labor. The world wants more busy men and good workmen.

CRIMINAL ACTIONS MAY ARISE FROM CIVIL SUIT

It took nearly three days for His Honor Judge Grierson to hear the highly contradictory and spectacular evidence in the suit of McWhinnie and McGrath which was concluded at Annapolis Royal recently. Rarely has an action been tried in the County Court at Annapolis Royal that has caused such widespread interest as this one. Decision was reserved.

The suit, which was on a claim for expenses in connection with the birth of a child, was bitterly contested from start to finish. The parties, who came from Victoria, Beach, and all of them prominent in the locality. At the conclusion of the trial Judge Grierson stated that in his long experience he has never heard such conflicting testimony and it was quite evident that on one side or the other perjury had been rampant. The end of the case is by no means in sight and it is possible that criminal proceedings may be instituted.

OVER 12 MILLION JARS USED YEARLY

GARDENING NOTES

Winter Activities: Do not imagine that because the weather is cold all work in the garden must cease. Far from it. Now is the time to prepare for the harvest of beautiful flowers next Summer. Lay in a stock of seeds as soon as possible, before all the best have been pinched. There is an art in buying seeds. Go to your seed merchant and ask to see his seeds. Pick up each seed separately, and examine it carefully for wireworm. Reject all seeds obviously suffering from club-root or intestinal parasites. Take home at least a half-dozen of each kind.

Bulbs: There is still time to plant the late flowering bulbs. See that the voltage is the same as the service voltage, or they may blow too soon.

Dressing the Soil: It is usual to give soil a top-dressing during the winter months. Not only does this prevent the worms from catching cold, but undressed soil is likely to cause winter cabbage to bluish or pickling cabbage. It is regarded by all discriminating gardeners that undressed soil is positively indecent, and is just not done.

SENTENCE SERMONS

By Rev. Roy L. Smith.

I Would Rather—
—Make a reputation than inherit one.
—Keep my honor than win honors.
—Save my conscience than my business.
—Face the facts than face defeat.
—Know an unpleasant truth than a pleasant falsehood.
—See my country build friendships than warships.
—Die as a martyr than prosper as a renegade.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

If all things in your dreams had come true,
Would the earth have been very much better for you?
If you'd got what you asked for whenever you prayed
What sort of a place would your prayers have made?
If creating the World had been left to your care
How would you have furnished the Everlasting?
As it is, don't you think things are nicely arranged,
With just yourself that needs to be changed?

"OH, YEAH!"

The average man is proof enough that a woman can take a joke. A wag is somebody who remodels your funny story as you go along. A doctor declares that kissing shortens life; we presume he means single life.

Eye strain is caused by the other woman; carache by the wife. Kissing a girl just because she expects you to, is like scratching a place that isn't itchy. The motor car has completely changed our mode of living, and, of course, our mode of dying. Some women marry for money. Some for love, and others for a home. It is not known why men marry.

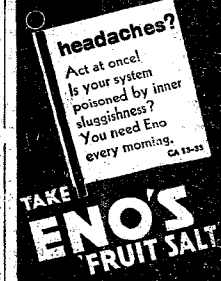

SAULNIERVILLE

Mrs. Frank Deveau is improving after a severe attack of la grippe. Mrs. Camille Melanson, of Saulnierville Station, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doucet, at Cape St. Marys.

Mrs. Arthur Boudreau, of Saulnierville Station, accompanied by friends, visited Miss Charlotte Boudreau, at Sacred Heart Academy, on Sunday.

Judge J. A. Grierson attended Court at Annapolis Royal recently. While there he sentenced two young men to two years in Dorchester, rather than subject them to one year of "demoralizing confinement" in a county jail. He urged recommendations of the Jail Commission be given effect. The Judge was accompanied to Annapolis Royal by Mrs. Grierson, who also spent several days there.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Connell, of Hyde Park, Mass. (nee Miss Bernice Robicheau, of Weymouth North), are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, born at the New England Maternity Hospital, Roxbury, Mass., March 18th. Weight 8 lbs., 14 oz.

Scallops Fisheries

Looking Up

The scallop fishermen are reported to be enjoying the best season in years. Scallops are reported as quite plentiful when weather conditions permit dragging, and prices are the best they have been since the "scallop boom", a few years ago. Quotations as high as $3.50 and $3.00 per gallon have been made within the past few weeks. The Courier has been given to understand that there will be more boats operating next season.

The members of Miss Roberts' Band's Sunday School Class of St. Peter's Church, Weymouth North, hiked to Weymouth on Sunday morning, the 19th, where they attended service at St. Thomas' Church. A special sermon was preached by the Rector and two special children's hymns were sung.

FORMER WESTPORT MAN IN CALIFORNIA EARTHQUAKE

Brooklyn, N. S., March 27, 1933. Word received from Harry F. Porter, of 212 West Manchester Ave., Inglewood, California, states that he and his family are well and safe, although Inglewood was hard hit by the earthquake, it being just nine miles from Compton, which was so stricken and wrecked by the quake. Mr. Porter states at the time of the big tremor he and his wife, son, and daughter and a friend were about ready to sit down to dinner; they had to get in the open as quickly as possible and up to the following Monday were still eating and sleeping in the open, as the house was doing a two-step all the time. He said the houses swayed like the branches of the trees here in a windstorm. He was thankful they were all together and they would keep close tabs on one another until after all trouble was over. The estimate of damage at Inglewood was over $100,000. School houses and apartment houses were all wrecked, chimneys demolished, but there were no dead at Inglewood. From San Diego to Santa Barbara, a distance of 300 miles, there was more or less devastation. On Tuesday or Wednesday all was quiet, but they were going to Los Angeles and other towns to see some of the wreckage; only those with passes were allowed to visit the stricken areas, and they were interfered with relief work. Papers received later showed the terrible havoc at Compton and Long Beach. Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Porter are glad to hear of their safety.

(Mr. Porter is a brother of Mrs. A. C. Payson, of Brooklyn, Yarmouth County, and formerly of Westport—Editor Courier).

He Had to Reduce

Easiest Way Proved the Best

A man who had been advised by his doctor to reduce, writes this: "I had to put on weight to the extent of 205 lbs. This was excessive as I am 5 ft. 6 in. in height. My doctor advised me to reduce, and I tried hot baths and massage. This, however, was too fatiguing and I am a very busy man. I then saw an advertisement about Kruschen Salt, bought a bottle, and commenced taking it. The result was that I sleep well, and eat more heartily. I have spread the good news to my friends who are putting on weight." W. H. R.

Kruschen contains those six mineral salts, proportionately balanced, found in the waters of those famous European Spas used by generations of fat people to reduce weight.

Kruschen helps blood, nerves, glands, and body organs to function properly—you gain new strength and energy—feel years younger—look better, work better. Why postpone sure, steady return to normal weight and vigorous health? Start the Kruschen treatment to-day!

Frank Robinson, Milton Turnbull and Harold Mount are also in line for thanks for services rendered or useful items of supply. Miss E. A. Forsythe has donated a beautiful specimen of her fine lace work to be sold or auctioned for the benefit of the Band. This graceful act of hers is duly appreciated. It is another indication that the Band has a multitude of friends. The Clarinet section of 12 players is making fine progress and will give special training they get every Friday night through the kindness of
