THE HOSPITAL HAS NEW X-RAY EQUIPMENT

The Digby General Hospital this week completed the installation of a new, modern X-Ray machine with fluoroscopic equipment, and is now equipped to handle all types of X-Ray and fluoroscopic work. The installation of this machine fills a long felt need of Digby and surrounding country, and makes the Digby General Hospital one of the most modern institutions of its kind in this section of the province. The X-ray room is in the basement of the building, with the "dark room" for developing plates immediately adjoining. It is understood that a partition will be erected across the other end of the room to provide a convenient dressing room. The first plates were successfully taken and developed on Wednesday afternoon.

FIRE TRUCK MAKES GOOD TIME

Fire truck driver, Freddie Muise, was timed on two occasions Wednesday, and both times he had the fire truck on its way within one minute after the final blast of the alarms were sounded. The Digby Volunteer Fire Department answered two calls Wednesday, both for small chimney fires. The first alarm came in the morning for a fire at the residence of Mrs. Sarah Durkee, Warwick St., and the second in the afternoon for a fire in MacKinnon's boarding house on Prince William St.

FINED UNDER LIQUOR CONTROL ACT

The arrests of Augustus VanTassel and Charles H. VanTassel were made by Chief of Police Thibault, Wednesday afternoon. The men were heard on charges under the liquor control act yesterday morning. The first named was fined $15.00 and paid the fine. The second was fined $55 or an alternative of two months in jail. The fine was paid yesterday afternoon. The chief states he has had a busy week. He has ordered ten boboos out of town, and there has been considerable drunkenness. He alleges that most of the wet goods have come from the other shore of Annapolis Basin, where, it is claimed, fishermen picked up a number of kegs of rum on the shore.

Kiwans Meet At Winchester Hotel

Addressing the Digby Kiwanis Club at their supper in the Winchester Hotel dining room Tuesday evening, W. A. Bacon, prominent Hill Grove farmer, scored the practice of buying from mail order houses. Mr. Bacon said it would be to the advantage of both the agriculturist and the town business men if the farmers did less catalogue buying and made more of their purchases from the merchants of the towns where they sell their produce.

He gave an interesting talk on market gardening, bringing out many interesting points pertaining to the successful raising of vegetables, and the importance of the hot bed. He explained an experiment he made last year in raising cucumbers in which he was successful in getting outdoor raised cucumbers from his farm on the market early in August. He plans to go into this experiment more extensively, and next year expects to have cucumbers ready for the domestic and Saint John markets ready by July.

There will be a speaker from each of the following Societies: Bear River, Digby, Weymouth and Centreville, and possibly Culloden and Granville Ferry.

There are always more ways of choking a cat than with butter and there are more ways of changing a miser's name than by leading her to the altar. This latter fact was demonstrated a few days ago when the first reading in the Nova Scotia legislature was given to Bill No. 24, to change the names of five residents of Halifax. The surname they now have is "Outhouse". The new name, sought for by legislation, is "Althouse". The five Outhouses who seek to become Althouses are Delmar, Ethel, Hollis, Darrell and Margaret. The family belong to Tiverton and have a home in that village. Delmar is at present the member for Tiverton in the Municipal Council of Digby.

Between Ourselves

"Bring industry to Digby; bring ships to the port; give the Digby labourer a chance to earn a dollar".

That has been the cry for years. Industries that come to the town receive very little support from the citizens of the town; operators of those industries are condemned for the wages they pay; for the men they hire—and for what not. Ships that come to port to load are practically driven away. At least that's the way it looks to me.

Digby's three largest employers are H. T. Warne, Ltd., the Maritime Fish Corporation and the Canadian Pacific Railway. In good times and in dull each has done much to put Digby on the map; their payrolls probably represent the bulk of the wages paid to labourers in this town; and in many ways they have contributed a big something toward improving conditions in Digby County. Should any one of them leave Digby tomorrow the loss would be felt over the whole county.

Yet it would be difficult to find any three firms that are the butt of more abuse from the laboring class than these three, namely, H. T. Warne, Ltd., the Maritime Fish Corporation and the Canadian Pacific Railway. Without them Digby would be practically a deserted village. Without them a large percentage of the labourers in town would have to seek employment in other towns or go on relief.

Last week a steamer loaded a cargo of lumber at this port. We have been told on the best of authority that the shipper of this cargo will never load another ship in Digby.

Why?

To the casual observer that question, "Why?" is unnecessary. Apparently a certain group of longshoremen, with no other interests in sight but their own, made the loading of the cargo everything but an invitation to come again for another cargo. Trouble was stirred up on the morning the ship started to load; more trouble was stirred up on the afternoon she was ready to sail. It is quite true that the longshoremen may have had some reason for making some of it, but, if they were not looking so hard for trouble they wouldn't have found so much of it for themselves and the shippers of the cargo.

It is rumored that other ships are expected here shortly to take on cargoes for other Nova Scotia lumber shippers. Let us hope that some of the scenes of last year and this year will not be repeated. If they are Digby's hopes of ever becoming a shipping port will be blasted. True, longshoremen deserve a decent wage and in comparison with the wages that are being paid in union ports they receive small compensation here—but the situation in the larger ports is different in many respects.

It may also be true that Digby men should be given the preference on these leading jobs. Many of the out-of-town men have had certain advantages over the town laborers in the municipal districts there has been considerable relief work; the town men have been denied the opportunity of working on these projects.

On the other hand it might be well to bear in mind that there are many labourers in the Acaciaville and Culloden districts, who have families to support, and who, for the most part, spend their earnings in Digby. It is only fair that they should be given something of a show, especially over some local men who couldn't hold down a job three weeks with any employer, even if given the chance.

RUM COMES ASHORE AT GREEN POINT

Rumor has it that anywhere from 23 to 30 kegs of rum were found on the shore at Green Point, on the Bay of Fundy coast, by Victoria Beach fishermen recently. Of this quantity alleged to be found, one keg has been recovered by the R. C. M. P., and stored at the Customs House, Digby. Victoria Beach folk who have been interviewed, assure us the liquor was found, but all seem to be ignorant (when asked) as to the identity of the finders.

REBUILDING SUMMER HOME

The summer home of H. C. Vedder, D.D., retired Chester, Pa., writer and educationalist, which was destroyed by fire after it had been broken into and looted early last January, will be built on the old site in Smith's Cove and ready for occupancy by June 1st. The work of rebuilding is in charge of Charles Foster, of the Joggins Bridge. The new cottage will be a seven-room structure, up-to-date in every way, although rustic in appearance. It will be vermin proof and practically fire proof, and will be built of the best quality of materials, with the interior finished in Douglas fir.

HUMAN ICEBERGS

You've seen them—people who are human icebergs, frigidly cold, impenetrable, congealing everybody and everything about them. You have wondered what part they have in our social economy.

Your guess is as good as that of anybody else—and so is ours, and we have noticed that the dampen enthusiasm, prevent us from getting too gay, plug up our exuberance.

Yet all this is negative, for it hinders people from being natural, contented and happy. What is needed is not a chilly atmosphere, but more warm sunshine.

And Mark Twain may have been right when he observed that "we" could put up with this sort of people much better if they would thaw out once in a while.

As Canadians, we deal largely in second-hand stuff. We accept second-hand beliefs without question; we use second-hand arguments as if they were our own; we use second-hand ideas instead of evolving our own. We're all second-hand dealers, and rarely find out that we've been cheated until it is too late.

MAKING FRIENDS

Many people delude themselves with the idea that they have a host of friends because they are apparently popular.

But being popular and making friends are two totally different propositions.

Anybody with a little tact, a little intelligence, and an ordinarily developed capacity for lying can manufacture popularity; and when a man spends money recklessly, or gives the impression that he is doing so, it is ridiculously easy.

The man who starts out with a determination to be popular may rather to himself some sheep honors, perhaps some wealth; but real friends and real honor are likely to be denied him.

How are we going to make friends? Perfectly simple—just be yourself, making yourself as decent as possible and really worth while—which is one of the most difficult things in the world.

The man that has the most real friends is he who helps the other fellow; not for anything he hopes to gain for himself, but simply because it gives him satisfaction.

He isn't conscious of making sacrifices, he isn't looking for glory or honor, he doesn't think whether he is selfish or unselfish. He is natural, because it is inherent with him, or he has cultivated and acquired a natural manner.

There is only one way to make real friends, and the way is perfectly simple—Be one.

Maybe you ain't good enough to love your enemies, but you can be wise enough not to waste time by getting even with them.

IN REIDEST RUSSIA.

The Boston Christian Science Monitor viewing Russia at the moment, by and large, concludes that the Russian Bolshevik Revolution has now reached the phase which no revolution in history has escaped. It has come to the phase of destroying and crushing its own extremists, of trampling under foot some of its more Utopian early ideals. Oliver Cromwell found it necessary to smash the "Diggers" and "Levellers" the extremist fringe of his revolutionary movement against the British Crown. The French Revolution had its Ninth Thermidor, when Robespierre and other extremists went to the guillotine to which they sentenced others and when the new classes which had risen on the ruins of the old settled down to enjoy fruits of victory.

The Russian Revolution has now entered on its Thermidorian stage of development, when the formidable resources of the system of arbitrary terrorism which it has built up will be directed largely against extreme revolutionaries. How long this Thermidor will last, what forms it will assume, how many victims it will demand cannot be foreseen; the answers to these questions depend largely on the uncertain strength of the underground opposition groups which have evidently formed within the Communist ranks.

A revolution, in the Thermidorian stage of liquidating its own left wing, is not likely to be an international firebrand. And the sentimental appeal of Russia to radicals in other lands is likely to decline in pretty direct proportion to the number of Communists whom Stalin finds it necessary to shoot, jail or exile.

Temperance Table Talks

THE MODERATE DRINKER HANDICAPPED

I listened in not long ago to a group of young people of the church in the conduct of their week-night meeting. They were discussing the question: "Is the moderate drinker under a handicap?" I was interested both in their subject and in their treatment of it. First, one of their number dealt with the law of habit and pointed out that just because alcohol is in itself a "habit-forming drug" the risk of enslavement was always present to a dangerous degree. Then another pointed out on good authority the effects of alcohol upon the blood, that great food distributing agency of the human body, showing how science has sentenced alcohol to death because it hinders the red cells of the blood in their function of distributing life and the white cells in their defensive work of resisting death. A good story of undisputed authenticity was told to illustrate this.

Then the question of alcohol and efficiency was raised. On scientific grounds it was shown that even a little bit of alcoholic liquor makes the drinker less efficient in his task, even though he himself may at the same time think he is really doing better work. The evidence of the life insurance business world was called in to show the injurious effect of alcohol upon health and length of life, as demonstrated from facts and figures covering many decades. And, last of all, came the effects of alcohol upon the higher levels of the brain, the brain cells, by way of which human judgment and conscience function. Thus on every count a most effective answer was given to the question of the evening. "Is the Moderate Drinker under a Handicap?" There is only one answer and that is "Yes."

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

HAEMORRHOIDS

Haemorrhoids are dilated veins at the orifice of the rectum. They may be external, or internal or a combination of both. The internal are covered by the mucous membrane which lines the bowel, while the external are covered by skin.

Haemorrhoids may cause considerable discomfort and for that reason they are of importance. The most common symptom is bleeding. Besides, being the most common symptom, it is by far the most important because bleeding is also a common early symptom of cancer of the rectum.

Many a life is lost needlessly owing to neglect as regards the passage of blood from the rectum, the individual thinking this to be due to haemorrhoids. It is quite possible for the two conditions to exist at the same time in the same patient, so it is obviously important never to neglect any bleeding, no matter how slight, from the rectum.

Soreness, sometimes itching and perhaps an aching sensation, are often experienced with haemorrhoids. Real pain usually means a complication such as a fissure (tear), ulcer or rupture of a small vein forming a tender external tumour under the skin. Internal haemorrhoids tend to prolapse or protrude, but they can usually be pushed back by gentle pressure.

The cause is to be found in any condition which interferes with the free flow of blood in the veins of the rectum. Haemorrhoids are a frequent complication of pregnancy. They are sometimes a result of constipation.

Attention to diet with regular elimination will correct the condition when it has arisen from constipation. The termination of pregnancy usually results in the clearing-up of the haemorrhoids associated with the pregnancy.

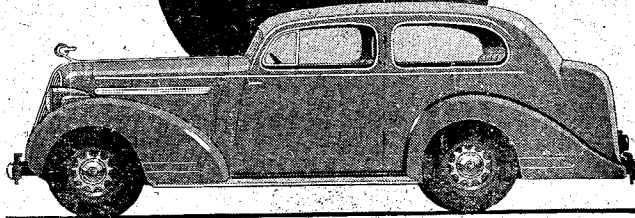

Temporary relief can often be secured by applications of ice and soothing ointments or suppositories, and by attention to elimination. Persistent cases which cause real annoyance, satisfactory treatment by surgical operation or the injection method is available.

The best method in each case depends chiefly on the location and severity of the condition. The injection method is not suitable for external haemorrhoids. By far the most important thing in connection with this annoying affliction is to remember that whenever bleeding occurs, a careful examination is re-

PRIMITIVE WOODEN PLOUGH USED BY MALTESE FARMER

In Malta ploughing of the land is complicated by the stonewall boundaries of the fields. The total area under cultivation is only 43,000 acres distributed among 11,000 holdings. The smaller farmers are run by the farmer, and his family. On the larger farms hired help is utilized and tractors are used to a limited extent. There are only six tractors in Malta.

The smaller farmers use a primitive wooden plough, which is light in weight and can be readily carried by the farmer to his homestead or lifted, as frequently is the case, across the stonewall boundaries.

NOW SORE THROAT EASED IN LESS THAN 3 MINUTES!

Rawness, Irritation Go at Once
Note Directions for New Instant Treatment

Inevitable as it may seem, doctors are now prescribing a way that relieves raw, painful sore throat in as little as 2 to 3 minutes!

All you do is crush and stir 3 Aspirin tablets in 1/2 glass of water—and gargle with it twice.

Aspirin tablets disintegrate so completely no irritating particles are left. Results are immediate. At once soreness is eased—discomfort allayed.

Everywhere throat specialists urge this fundamental treatment instead of less effective old-time "washes" and "antiseptics." Remember this: And when you buy, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer on every Aspirin tablet. Aspirin is the trade mark of the Bayer Company, Limited.

AMERICA'S DEBT TO GREAT BRITAIN

"The American debt to Great Britain is larger at the most moderate computation than the British debt to America," declared Rev. Dr. Hodgson, pastor of the Grace United Church, during the course of his address on "The American Debt to Britain," delivered to the Brotherhood of the United Church, at its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday evening, at which the Brotherhood of the United Baptist church were guests. In his address Dr. Hodgson went back to the days of the American revolution, which, he said, historians now point out, was not brought about by the selfish whims of George III to collect taxes for his personal use. The taxes were imposed by the British who had defended the colonies in the Seven Years' War in order that they (the colonists) should share in the heavy expense involved. Many of the colonists objected, and thus was brought about the American Revolution. However, there were many who believed Great Britain justified. These were known as the "Tories" or the "Loyalists." To them the revolting colonists granted not even the rights of a foreigner in their courts. They could not buy land nor were they allowed to transfer their property to another. If the neighbor of a Loyalist owed him money, he had no legal redress; even his debts of gift were violated. Consequently, when the British evacuated Boston, many of the Loyalists emigrated to Nova Scotia.

After peace was declared, on November 30, 1782, a preliminary treaty, signed on behalf of the United States of America by Richard Oswald, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, and others, was drawn up, which provided that citizens on either side should meet with no lawful impediment to the recovery of full rights in sterling money of all lawful debts contracted. That Congress would earnestly recommend the restoration of all estates, rights, property to residents who had not taken up arms and Loyalists, who had emigrated to other countries, would be free to go to any of the thirteen states and remain for twelve months to endeavor to restore their estates, rights and properties which have been confiscated. The treaty also provided that in the future Loyalist properties would no longer be confiscated nor would Loyalists be persecuted. The United States never lived up to this treaty. Loyalist property confiscated was valued at millions of pounds. Furthermore, due to the fact that the treaty was never lived up to the persecution of the Loyalists continued, and they were not allowed to recover their lost properties or their just debts it cost Great Britain some 6,000,000 pounds sterling to establish them in their new homes. That sum might justly be considered a loan to the United States. But even at a most conservative estimate of 1,000,000 pounds due the Loyalists by this treaty that amount, with interest compounded at 5 per cent, would be more than enough to pay Great Britain's present debt to the United States.

Dr. Hodgson stated that at another time he hoped to speak on America's debt to France.

TAKEN TO THE PENITENTIARY

In charge of Harris W. Bowles, P. Fitzpatrick left yesterday for the Maritime penitentiary in Dorchester, where he was sentenced by County Court Judge W. A. Livingstone, on the charges of misappropriation of funds and obtaining money under false pretences. Fitzpatrick was arrested at Minto, N. B. several weeks ago.

Viewing the measure as one which might create a gasoline monopoly in New Brunswick, opposition members on Tuesday questioned the constitutional right of the New Brunswick legislature to pass an act to provide for the licensing and taxing of the sale of gasoline.

BOARD OF TRADE WILL SPONSOR INDIAN CARNIVAL

Although not specially called as a Board of Trade meeting on Tuesday evening, a majority of the members of the board were present and after Mr. Dykes had retired a formal meeting of the board was called, principally to discuss the proposed Indian Carnival, and a committee was appointed to wait on the Town Council to request that body to guarantee any deficit not exceeding $500, provided the Town of Annapolis Royal did the same, and that the government of Nova Scotia voted an amount.

Last year this event was sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, which itself guaranteed $300 against a possible deficit. As a matter of fact the Carnival last year cleared about $400, the expenses being approximately $1800, and the receipts $2200. Of this $400 the Kiwanis Club received $100; the Order of Good Cheer, at Annapolis Royal, $100; the Indians at Bear River $100; and the remainder was deposited in the bank for use this year.

Committees were appointed to set the wheels in motion.

However, since that time they have been tied up at the pier due to bad weather conditions. The many friends of W. R. Harris, of Weymouth, will be interested to learn of his appointment to the sales staff of Trefry's Garage, Yarmouth, as announced elsewhere in this issue, and wish him success in his new position. In conversation with Mr. Harris, he told the Courier representative, that on Saturday he made sales for an entire car load of new cars, and that to date more cars have been sold than in the entire 1934 season, so it looks as if Old Man Depression had at last taken his departure from our midst.

SONS OF TEMPERANCE HOLD CONCERT-SOCIAL

A large and appreciative audience attended the Concert-Social given by Royal Division, of Bear River, in their Hall on Monday evening.

The programme, directed by Clayton Hirtle, was a varied and especially entertaining one.

The musical numbers were furnished by the local orchestra, under Mr. Hirtle's direction, Mrs. Alva Harris and Miss Alice Morine giving readings.

Other numbers were: vocal solo, Rev. S. Steeves; piano solo, Miss Louise Harris; mixed quartette, Mrs. J. Warren, Miss Warren, Mr. Steeves, Rev. A. A. MacLeod.

The Field Secretary, Rev. A. A. MacLeod, gave a very interesting address on the work being done provincially by the Sons of Temperance, and as D. G. W. P., assisted by Mrs. MacLeod as Grand Conductor, publicly installed the new officers for the quarter as follows:

W. P.—Mrs. R. A. Harris
W. A.—S. F. Steeves
W. Pat.—C. Stewart
Chaplin—Carl Miller
R. S.—C. Coombs
A. R. S.—Mrs. A. A. MacLeod
F. S.—C. Green
Treas.—Elsie Henshaw
Com.—Clayton Hirtle
A. Con.—John Sullivan
I. S.—John Harrow
O. S.—George Wade
P. W. P.—Rev. S. F. Steeves

Refreshments were served under direction of Mrs. C. Stewart, and the sum of $15.00 was realized for the Extension Fund of the Grand Division.

PUBLICITY SUBJECT OF INTERESTING TALK

A meeting under the auspices of the Board of Trade, of those interested in the publicity drive now being made for increased tourist patronage in Nova Scotia, was held in the Court House, on Tuesday evening. It was not largely attended, but those who were present were those who in the past have been most interested in this work and who still are devoting their energies in the development of the tourist business.

J. P. Dykes, of the Montserrat Press Bureau, New York, conducted a round table talk. He first reviewed the steps taken by the provincial government to promote the publicity work of the province. The Montserrat concern—an American firm—had been engaged in preference to a number of Canadian houses, who were just as well qualified to prepare the literature, but they hadn't the connections to use it after it was prepared. At first he had refused to come to Nova Scotia. But after he had visited the exhibit of the Game Association, in Boston, he had been converted to the idea of selling Nova Scotia. He had been approached by Hon. A. S. MacMillan and had agreed to take on the work. The first expenditure had been only $220, but with that amount they had secured publicity, which had it been paid for at regular rates would have cost from $20,000 to $30,000. He outlined the methods by which his firm puts over this publicity—by readers, articles, news, movies, advertising. Articles covering all phases of life in the province will be written and published all over America. Prominent men, such as magazine editors, travel bureau heads, and others have promised to come to Nova Scotia. A popular movie star is coming to the province to take a prominent part in the Apple Blossom Festival. R. H. Mac & Co., the big New York department store, is allowing the use of fifty feet of their window space in which Nova Scotia women will spin homespun etc. Mr. Dykes also went on to say that for every advertising dollar spent by the state of Maine, $120 in cash had been returned; and for every dollar spent by Bermuda $488 had been returned. He urged that the tourist be treated fairly. Nothing hurts the reputation of a tourist resort so much as the knowledge that the tourist has to pay more in the stores than the local resident, and such news is spread broadcast faster than the publicity men can offset it.

"DIME NOVEL" RADIO BROADCASTS

The following excerpts of a news despatch, clipped from a recent issue of The Christian Science Monitor, suggests that "Ye Junior Ed." is not the first to denounce "dime novel" radio programmes, as they are being denounced by none other than the Chairman of the United States Federal Communications Commission.

The exploitation of children through current "blood and thunder" radio programs is denounced by Anning S. Prall, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

"At the same time radio advertising is included for the first time in the tightened restrictions of the new food and drug act now pending before Congress, requiring a measure of responsibility for advertising statements carried into homes by other waves."

"The statement by Mr. Prall, made in a recent radio interview, is one of the most emphatic ever issued by an official in his responsible position. Without qualifications he stated he was 'certain' that in some instances the new dime novels of the air were injuring children; and a minute later he warned that in the case of 'persistent violators' of the standards of public service, the station licenses might not be renewed."

"As you know," he said in this connection, "about half a dozen stations have been taken off the air in recent years because of their failure to live up to proper standards of public service."

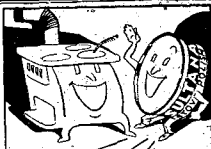

"While I believe that radio presents an unequalled opportunity for the new development of juvenile talent," Mr. Prall said, "I am not sure that it is entirely meeting its obligations with a regard to the effect it is having on the child mind of America. In some cases I am certain that it is having a deleterious effect because of some of the programs that are being presented. I refer to the blood and thunder programs so prevalent in the late afternoons. I am not condemning all of them, for I know many of them that are distinctly educational. I do condemn, however, those that can be compared to the dime novels of the 'Deadeye Dick' and 'Boy Snuggler' variety."

"It is my opinion that the radio people themselves would do well to eliminate programs that arouse the imaginations of children to the point where they can not eat or sleep."

A fellow never realizes how old he is setting until a deep breath fails to blow out all the candles on his birthday cake.

THE TOWN'S TAX DRIVE

We are surprised at the action of our town council in their decision to make a drive for taxes in this month of the year above all others. Our council is made up of business men, some of whom are either in the retail business or have had experience in it. Surely they must know that in March, April and May the average tax payer can not raise money enough to pay his grocery bills, regardless of anything else. The only "new money" coming in to town just now is from old age pensions and similar payments—nothing of any consequence is being earned. A ratepayer said to us, rather bitterly, only last week, "It looks to me as if the council were rigging up a scheme to some of their friends to pick up some cheap property through forced tax sales." We do not take that point of view, but we do think the council has not considered the matter in all its details. If they want to make a drive for taxes August and September are, by far the best months in Digby, and they will get more money then, with less hard feelings and privation than they will now. The use of common sense is a big help in public business.

One-half the world seems to be busy at the present time trying to separate the other half from its coin.

NEW IDEALS AND OLD TRUTHS

Developments in world politics, particularly recent events in European policies, are causing many to throw up their hands in despair. There is no actual need of this. Although a series of experiments has failed, there is still the old system that is not altogether bad, and in the light of experience gained, may well be made much better. In one way or another we are all idealists, but idealism may reach its ends by more than one road.

What is happening at the moment is the collapse of the post-war enthusiasm based on the unjustified assumption that man is in complete control of the forces that decree his destiny. That he has some power to direct affairs to a limited extent may be fully admitted, but until he reaches a state of superlative understanding, until in fact the millennium arrives, his destiny will never be completely subject to his will. Man is still relatively impotent to master fate, however much he may be captivated by his sun. One set of idealists, by leagues and pacts and protocols by open diplomacy, conventions and a wild attempt to imitate in the international fields the working of democracy in national life, have tried with the best of intentions to build a new world order. The events of the day show how they have failed.

The more conservative idealists want exactly the same results, but their approach is fundamentally different. Instead of laying hold of theories, useful for academic discussion, they attempt to gain a more complete understanding of all known facts and then, in the light of proved knowledge gained to make such adjustments as may be necessary in existing systems. The old systems were devised by men no less wise than ourselves to meet conditions as they knew them. If we extend or modify our understanding in the forces at work, it should generally be sufficient to extend or modify the systems and methods already used and tested.

The radical wants immediately to tear down what is imperfect and to build anew; but practice has shown that his new edifice is seldom more perfect than the old and is often far less so. In the post-war international reconstruction he has done this, and the results of his failure are now becoming painfully apparent. He has through over-optimism misjudged man's readiness for the plans he made. He has often lost sight of the fact that the age-old forces continue to operate. This is a fact it is necessary to face boldly and forces cannot be handled by theories, but only by developing other forces, a lengthy business. While the old forces act the old methods will generally prove the most effective. Therefore if Europe now seems to be slipping back, it is not to be taken too tragically. It is necessary to enquire what she is slipping from, and it may be that she is letting go of false ideals and regaining the more solid ground of old truths.

The story of "Mary Ellen" splashed over a continent did not long survive when it was subjected to honest scrutiny, and it is the same with the numberless ghost stories when they are subjected to the microscope. Ontario has been having its own Mary Ellen mystery, flat irons taking to themselves wings, kettles jumping from the stove in the silence of the night, window panes being smashed without human hands and all manner of mysterious happenings calculated to make the flesh creep. "The nine days' wonder" however, has had its day as all such fairy tales do, and it turns out that a lad of thirteen, arrested for setting fire to a building, was the culprit. How the little rascal must have laughed at the credulity of his elders.

Temperance Table Talks By UNCLE JOHN

"FOOLISH IN THE EXTREME"

"It is surely foolish in the extreme to have anything to do with alcohol. There it is in black and white, the teaching of the Canadian Health Book used in the schools of Nova Scotia. I turn to the fly-leaf and find it has been prepared by two members of the staff of Toronto University, the one an Assistant Professor of Hygiene and Preventive Medicine, and the other Director of Health Service. Such men ought to be able to speak with authority, and a school text book is concerned primarily with truth, and not a piece of propaganda for any lopsided 'ism'. So I read the words again with new confidence, and I think of all the boys and girls of the schools of Nova Scotia, reading, analyzing, and thinking themselves through such a statement under the guidance of their teachers."

But I read what goes before this sentence. It is a most telling paragraph: "Since all agree that the excessive use of alcohol is the cause of much crime, disease, and misery, and since the effect of even a small quantity is insidious in lessening self-control and will power, it is surely foolish in the extreme to have anything to do with alcohol." And then that paragraph itself only follows after several others which have been producing undoubted evidence of its truth. In that whole chapter is being taught with any reasonable degree of effectiveness, it ought to send out into the world a steady procession of boys and girls convinced that the use of alcohol as a beverage is bad, surely foolish in the extreme. One might almost think that the battle for total abstinence might well be won in our public schools.

To expect that is to forget the place and power of the social appeal in all shaping of conduct and character. "Surely foolish in the extreme,"—and the boy learns it by heart. But there is that empty cartoon by the roadside that tells its own story of drinkers who passed that way; the government store on front street embellished with the Nova Scotia coat of arms; the man on the street just come out with his bottle for home consumption; the gay evening party in that fine mansion yonder where host and hostess have perhaps stocked up with strong beverages for the occasion; and perhaps the boy's own dog bringing government store; and dad in his regularly to his home the liquor he has learned in school it is "surely foolish in the extreme" to have anything to do with. "What chance has a school book, symbol of mere tasks, against the merry auto party, the gay evening revelers; the respectable government store; and dad in his own home? That was lore—but this is life. But if that text-book is true, does it not lay upon the whole social fabric, from ranges to governments, for the sake of that boy and every body else, the simple solemn duty of directing our social life according to its teaching that it is "surely foolish in the extreme to have anything to do with alcohol?"

A WORD ABOUT RICE KRISPIES from W. K. KELLOGG

OFTEN the introduction of a new product benefits many phases of Canadian life. This has been our experience with Kellogg's Rice Krispies.

We had a double objective in developing Rice Krispies. First, to create a delicious cereal that would appeal to every one. Second, to help mothers in their task of getting children to take sufficient milk. It was thought that a different type of cereal—one that would snap, crackle, and pop when milk or cream was ready-to-eat cereal has resulted in shorter hours for mothers—less time spent in the kitchen—more moments of leisure.

The success of Rice Krispies has opened a large new market for the Canadian farmer. The Kellogg Company is daily creating a demand for tremendous quantities of milk, to say nothing of fruit and honey. The Kellogg Company also uses many million bushels of corn and wheat every year.

Canadian industry also benefits. Thousands of people are kept busily employed in the manufacture and marketing of Kellogg Cereals.

We are pleased that Rice Krispies have added a tempting new ready-to-eat cereal to the Canadian table, and have delighted millions of mothers and children. We are particularly happy that this has helped thousands of people to have better jobs, and to enjoy life more.

poured into the bowl—would stimulate appetites.

Hither and Yon with G.R.T.

Br-r-r, but it's cold! March has come roaring in like a lion, with thunder and lightning, rain, hail and snow, with much wind. I suppose it will go skipping out like a lamb, or possibly like one of Mrs. Casey's young Billy goats. As any rate the hills are covered with snow, and at the higher altitudes the snow lies heavy and deep upon the ground, being great stuff for the ski jumpers and toboggan riders. Hundreds will be found on the highways tomorrow (Sunday) bound for the mountain resorts for a few hours' snowballing, coasting and what not. But none for me, thank you! I have had my share of snow shoeing and that spot which takes you down hill with a "zip", and then takes you for a three-mile walk up the hill for another "zip". My last experience in the snow country was in a little gold mining camp in the mountains of Southern Utah—8,500 feet above sea level—where the first snow storm of the season came about the tenth of September, and concluded the season with one grand snowfall on the 10th of the following May. I put in three glorious winters there, and then migrated to California. I am therefore satisfied to view the snow capped peaks from a distance and I cherish no burning desire to take a job on a snow shovelling gang, even if I could be No. 1 Bossman.

Wild flowers promise to be plentiful this year, even on the desert. Abundant rains have done their part and the warm weather will soon transform the hills and valleys into one vast flower garden. A great sight it is, to drive out into the country and get a good look at the fields and hillside, blanketed with golden California poppies and purple lupin as far as the eye can reach.

The state motor vehicle department has sent out warnings to motorists weekending in the wild flower country, to take along plenty of gasoline. Filling stations are far apart in such districts. If you run out of gas and get stalled on one of the mountain roads, tying up traffic, there is no telling what some of the other motorists might say about it. Several thousand drivers all anxious to get through the jam could think of a lot of things to say that would make your face quite rosy.

Are the saloons coming back? Are they? I'll say they are, but not under the name of saloons. The great democratic party promised that there would be no saloons in the land, never, never, never—fully as many "nevers" as the great Pitt used in one of his famous speeches concerning the war with the American colonies—and the Democrats never break a promise! They promised the forgotten man his light wines and heavy beer—and didn't he get them? Sure he did! Beer parlors are everywhere in this city of alleged angels, even out in the residential districts, where ladies and gentlemen, old and young, may stand up to the bar or sit on high stools, rest their elbows on the highly polished mahogany and drink their wine and beer, mid song and laughter free, and never, never, think of tea. Ample space is also provided for parking of baby buggies while the mothers refresh themselves with beverages not made in Atlanta, Ga. That's a fact!

TRY FASTER WAY TO RELIEVE A COLD

Discovery Bringing Almost Instant Relief to Millions

Follow Simple Directions:

When you have a cold, remember the simple treatment pictured here... prescribed by doctors as the quick, safe way.

Results are amazing. Ache and distress go immediately. Because of Aspirin's quick-dissolving property, Aspirin "takes hold"—almost instantly. Your cold is relieved "quick as you caught it!"

All you do is take Aspirin and drink plenty of water. Do this every 2 to 4 hours the first day—less often afterward... if throat is sore, the Aspirin gargle will ease it in as little as 2 minutes.

Ask your doctor about this. And be sure you get ASPIRIN when you buy. It is made in Canada and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet. Aspirin is the trade mark of the Bayer Company, Limited.

are shaping up now it would seem that the old time temperance societies, the churches and the Salvation Army will have to get back on the job again. These organizations sort of laid back on their oars during the prohibition period and let old John Law fight the battle with John Barleycorn. J. L. put up a good fight but when P. D. R. came to the assistance of his "good friend" J. B. it was much too much for J. L.

SENTENCE SERMONS

Rev. Roy L. Smith

The Best Part

—of a sermon is that in which the preacher tells what he knows;
—of a game is when one team is battling to overcome a handicap;

—of any job is the stimulus it gives to character growth;
—of most vacations is the trip home;
—of any prayer is that in which a man finds himself.

BROTHERHOOD MEETING

The Mens Brotherhood of Brighton-Barton, United Church, held its April meeting on Monday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Russell, Barton.

Fourteen of the Brotherhood were present. The meeting was opened by the President, Rev. M. R. Ewing, with a short devotional period, followed by business.

It was decided to meet on May 6, at Mr. and Mrs. Avar, Adams' Brighton. Mr. Adams and Reg. McNeill were appointed to act with the executive in arranging the program of this meeting.

It is hoped to hold a ladies' night near the end of May. It had been hoped that lantern slides would be available for Monday night's entertainment, but as these had not arrived, the evening was spent in discussing surveys in Western Canada, and later playing crokinole, and in consuming delicious refreshments. Slides of far northwestern Canada will be shown at the May meeting.

Clayton Woodman, of Joggins Bridge, spent the week end in Halifax.

Her Arms and Legs Immovable

Ten Years With Rheumatism

To this woman it must have been like commencing to live a new life, when she began to use her arms and legs again, after they had been helpless, for ten years.

"I suffered with rheumatism," she writes, "and had been bedridden since 1920. I could not move arms or legs and had to be fed like a child. Everybody thought I should be an invalid all my life. I forced myself to fight against it, and tried a number of different things. It was Kruschen that eventually saved time, and today I consider it is saving my life. My condition has greatly improved and my limbs are gradually becoming more supple. Already I can eat with out assistance and dress myself, which I had not done for ten years."—M. H.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are the most effectual solvents of uric acid known to medical science. They swiftly dull the sharp edges of the painful crystals then convert them into a harmless solution. Other ingredients of these Salts have a stimulating effect upon the kidneys, and assist them to expel the dissolved uric needles through the natural channel.

Obituary

Mrs. Herbert Clayton

The passing of Mrs. Herbert Clayton occurred at her home at Parker's Cove, on Sunday morning, after a very short illness. She was a very fond and genial mother to her family. She was a member of the Baptist Church. Mrs. Clayton leaves to mourn a husband and a large family, Ralph, Howard and Frederick, residing in Yarmouth; Oscar, Herbert, George and Harry, all home; also five daughters, Mrs. Ralph Hogan, of Young's Cove; Mrs. Vincent Gail, of Lawrencetown; Mrs. Wm. Balcom, of Middleton; Mrs. L. Rawding, of South Brookfield; and Miss Winnie, of Grandville Ferry. Interment was in Parker's Cove cemetery. Services were conducted by Rev. E. W. Forbes, of the United Church, assisted by Mr. Churchill, Baptist. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

Henry W. Langford, well known colored resident of Conway, had the misfortune to lose a valuable horse on Wednesday. The horse, apparently injured in some way, died of lock jaw. The loss is a bad blow to Mr. Langford, especially at this time of the year.

Easter Morn

Sober, and chaste, and calm, the quiet dawn
Pass'd through the land of Israel, and came Like to a troop of vestals, with their flame,
Pacing the hoary slopes of Lebanon.

No trumpets' wild fanfare made out-spoke About the towers of High Jerusalem;
Undiaper'd by holy flower, or gem,
On vine-clad Ephraim the dayspring woke.

And in a garden, lustful for the sun,
A bended figure saw not morn nor shade;

Mary who came to adore; and to abrade
Sweet ointment on His bruises, one by one.

Near to the open sepulchre she cried,
And knew not Jesus standing at her side.

—William Soutar

A DAY OF GLADNESS

"Thou shalt call his name JESUS for he shall save his people from their sins."

We should not be unmindful of the fact that this same Jesus —Saviour, Friend, Brother—is a King, the Lord of Glory. He proclaimed his Messiahship, on the first day of his Passion as he rode into Jerusalem, and was crowned King on Good Friday, when crucified between two thieves on Calvary's Hill. But the brightest of all days was the day the angels announced to the women early at the tomb, "He is not here, for he is risen." This Easter is a day of gladness and rejoicing for people everywhere, because it signifies hope, faith and courage. I pray God that we may all rise to a newer and richer life at this glad Easter time.

Rev. M. R. Ewing

EASTER COMFORT

The Lord is risen! Behold the place Where he was laid; the angel said.

"Seek ye not the living here Among the dead."

Through centuries those Easter words
Have promised life to trusting men
Who, dying, close their eyes to see

Let all who mourn such friends rejoice—

The penalty for sin was paid;
The tomb—the grave—is but the place

Where they were laid!

—Rebekah Crouse Costanzo.

Well Proved Fact

Taking all the evidence together, it is not too much to say that there is no single historic incident better or more variously supported than the resurrection of Christ.—Westcott.

EASTER GREETINGS

THE evidence that our Lord was risen from the dead we owe altogether that we owe altogether to men who themselves were only with difficulty convinced.
This is an important fact of the whole matter. It is a fact of eternal value for the promulgation of belief in the Risen Christ that even those who first yielded to this belief did so, first, almost with reluctance, and, finally, only under the compulsion of the evidence. There ought, therefore, never at any time to be resentment or impatience, on the part of us who so believe, that others on whom we would urge our faith should hesitate.
The first apostles also hesitated, although the evidence which they were aware of was still trembling with the shock of some amazing reality. It is never a good sign when one moves easily from one belief about life to another view. It is another proof that Jesus had taken pains to choose those on whom, under God, the purpose of His life would for a time depend, that they were men who were by nature rather slow to move, men who, as in the case of Simon Peter, having at length taken a step were afraid lest they might have acted hastily or had gone too far. Easy come, easy go! What comes with the wind goes with the water. Or,
as our Lord put the matter:
there are those in whom the good seed springs up quickly—because they have no deepness of soil. In the case of such people, our Lord gave warning that for the same reason the blade would be apt to wither long before harvest.

It is a fair deduction from the New Testament reports of the first Easter Day to say that those who at length yielded to the evidence took time. It is also a fair deduction from the New Testament reports to say that there was quite an interval in which, after accepting the evidence and speaking breathlessly to one another about it,
they were at a loss to know what it all meant to them. There is a quite frankly acknowledged space of time in which those first witnesses to the Resurrection of Jesus did not know where they stood or what now to do with themselves.

From Faith to Faith

(Editorial from the British Weekly)

I.
We ought, therefore, to derive some new lesson, some new or renewed encouragement or precaution, from recalling the story of that day when Christ brought life and immortality. For it may well be, as it was in our Lord's own day, that there are some of us who are only too ready to believe anything, and that there are others of us who are too slow—even taking pride in our slowness.

But more than that. We always do well to keep up, as long as we are able without pretence, the glow and significance of any celebration. For a celebration should be not a mere day, but should be a beginning of days.
There are a hundred sayings in Holy Scripture to this one intent, that in the eyes of God it is an abomination for people to work themselves up to a fervour from which, when the occasion passes, they permit themselves not so much to slip away as to fall away. For, God help us! we have that within us which will excuse us for the low temperature to which we have sunk by recalling the high temperature to which we had attained! That is a mocking Dawn which, after a brief blaze, is lost in clouds.

This is by no means to deprecate the value of stated celebrations, or to question the natural piety of "days." We agree with Frederick Denison Maurice that "Form may be more spiritual than the absence of form." But Maurice said, "may", and "may" means may not. We would no more dispute the value of a studied celebration which those engage in who are to the manner born, than we would dispute the value of the silence at a meeting or "Friends,"—a silence which in its total rejection of form has created the precise form which in this region is supreme.

II.

The first appearance of Christ risen from the dead occurred in a twilight atmosphere. Those who first saw their Master under the aspect of eternity saw Him through a haze. They had, indeed, one qualification in common: He was their Master. They had already within themselves a knowledge of Him which could be corroborated, and was in each case corroborated. But in no single case, at the outset, was the proof immediately coercive and overwhelming that it was indeed He.

In each case He encountered them in the twilight. In one case, the thing happened while it was yet dark. In another case, it was "when the day was nearly breaking" that He was observed to be drawing near. In another case it was "toward evening," and when "the day was far spent," that two men whose hearts, as they remembered afterwards, had been warming under a new argument from the lips of a "stranger," suddenly saw something which for one blinding instant made them quite sure that the Stranger was He.

On all this there is much to be said. Still better, on all this, there is much to be pondered.
Our Lord, in His more intimate training of His disciples, urged them to attend to private signs.
He went so far as to say that a public event—even the rising of one from the dead—was finally of a poorer value as evidence than might be some private sign which, happening to us when it did happen (we ourselves being at the moment tender with some recent joy, or bearing some secret burden) was like a kind Hand laid upon our shoulder, or like one whispering to us in a tone of perfect understanding.

A public event might well have the effect of breaking down some opposition. But, even so, a public event might have altogether failed to produce faith.
Or the faith it had produced might be not at all the kind of faith which was His own and is His gift. A faith which rests upon shocks may amaze us, and even crush our souls, making us merely abject before the face of life. But all this may be far short of that deep, enduring, patient, world-withstanding love of the Lord Jesus Christ which,
by His life and death, He would instill into us and evoke from us.

III.

So it was in those first days when a small group of those who had known Him in the body were compelled to dwell for a little while between two worlds
—one dead, the other striving to be born. The evidence which was given them that their Master had not been holden of death might be described as meagre and ambiguous. But, even so, we can see the wisdom of the Divine restraint. They had always been too eager for signs.
They had always been too set upon public events and obvious triumphs. Even on "the night in which He was betrayed, and at the supper which was to be their last together, the Master had been trying to wean them from all dependence upon secular proofs. "Show us the Father and He said, 'Show us the Father, er' they had complained. 'Show us the Father, and it sufficeth us.' Lord, give us some sign.
But how did Jesus meet that challenge? Here we are on most delicate ground, so delicate as to be regarded as properly speaking, Holy Ground. Here we are at the breathless centre of the spiritual world, round which the mighty System rolls eternally, a system which has its circumference in the last circle of infinite space and time.
"Show us the Father and it sufficeth us." Such was their challenge. And how did He answer? "Have I been so long time with you, and yet have not known Me, Philip?" It is

An Easter Prayer

Lord, let the stone o'erturned be
That seals my heart; so Christ shall rise
From prisoned depth within and see
The guardian of His sacrifice.

O send Thine angel strong and calm
Who stood in dark Gethsemane, Strength'ning my Saviour, pouring balm
Into that Spirit given for me.

Let him the shadows scatter far That quench the Dayspring in my heart.

My spirit's Bright and Morning Star!
Let there be light! Let mist depart!

With holy finger let that form—
My dearest Angel!—beckon me
Onward and upward till the storm
And surge of life shall quiet be.

From sepulchres of doubt and fear
Set free and guide my erring feet.
With thoughts and hopes of Heaven cheer
My lagging soul, thou Vision sweet!

—Norman Macleod Caird

A HAPPY EASTER

At the request of the editor
I am sending you this short Easter message. "Jesus and The Resurrection" — this was the message of the Apostles of Christ. It is a message of Power and Joy. Power in the midst of weakness and sin; joy and hope in the midst of sorrow and despair. This message of glad tidings has changed the heart of men. The miracle of today is that in spite of evil and crime the Power of Christ is still triumphant. The faithful few like leaven will eventually leaven all humanity. For centuries the world has celebrated the Resurrection once a week and is still doing so, on Sunday. The Sabbath — Saturday, was kept by the Jews, Christ Himself and the Apostles, until after the Ascension. Then in commemoration of an event even more glorious than that of the Creation, the day of rest and gladness was changed to The First Day of the Week. So every Sunday, as well as Easter Day, proclaims to the Christian the Resurrection of our Lord and Saviour, and is a pledge of our own. May we always remember this with thankful hearts. May God's blessing bring to you all the joys of Easter-Tide.

A. W. L. Smith
Rural Dean, Annapolis Deanery

Which Is Easter

I see no greater difficulty in believing the resurrection of the dead than the creation of the world. Is it less easy to reproduce a human body than it was to produce it at first?—Pascal.

Efforts against the truth sometimes help its progress; the seal and the guard only make it more clear that the Saviour rose from the dead.

GROOVES

All life passes along certain well-defined grooves. Things or people in one groove are seldom conscious, and at most know very little of other things, passing along parallel grooves.We create our own groove.
You yours and we ours. Your vocation limits you to certain set tasks, to intercourse with a certain few congenial or uncongenial acquaintances—with peculiar ideas and prejudices.While you are young you fail to observe the tidal tendency of your life. As you grow older, you may become conscious of it,
but, more likely, think about it not at all.The breadth of your groove will depend upon your own original aim. You cannot trust to accidents to make it broader.
You must make it yourself.Did it ever occur to you that you are your own fate?Think of the grooves in the broadest of life are the ones who, in some capacity, aim to serve. Their sympathies are the broadest, their imagination the most far-reaching, they do the most good, they are the most respected, and they get more of the enduring pleasures out of life.

As you serve, so you grow.

Fortunate is the man who really deserves the opinion he holds of himself.

CROSS-EYED

There are lots of cross-eyed people in this world whose optics are as straight as yours or ours. It's their mental sight that is crossed.Such people see conditions harder on themselves than on anybody else, their own misfortunes greater than those of others; their fortunes incommensurate with their own deserts.They see criticism aimed at society as a whole directed at them personally, and take to themselves commendation meant for others. They are offended when they should be pleased, and pleased when they should resent.They make fools of themselves when, if they kept their mouths shut, they would be giving credit for wisdom.They call to mind the exclamation of Puck: "Lord, what fools these mortals be!"So live that you won't be ashamed to sell the family parrot to the town gossip.TRADE AGREEMENT WITH CANADA WANTED"Facing a condition during the next fifteen months that is tantamount to starvation, the United States still withholds on a reciprocal trade agreement with Canada that would release this country's abundant resources.This is the pointed comment of Thomas Mayne, who writes in Liberty Magazine in conjunction with Charles W. Burkett, noted agricultural authority, who, in the same publication, sees many Americans in the low wage class, facing actual starvation as the result of the drought and the United States' curtain-ment program.Mr. Burkett's statement:
"People can starve just as readily by eating improper food as they can by not having enough food, draws the belief from Mr. Wayland that "red tape and tariff barriers are doing a great injustice in both countries when Canada stands ready to supply fruits, meats, dairy products and vegetables."According to Mr. Burkett, who takes his figures from a bulletin issued by the UnitedStates department of agriculture, every person needs 1,800 pounds of food a year. On this basis the United States production of food-stuffs in 1929 was seventeen per cent less than needed."Yet in 1930, a year later, the American tariff went into effect and Canada food exports to that country went steadily down.
From $22,000,000 in 1930 it dropped to $2,000,000 in 1934,"
Mr. Wayland writes.Life even itself up pretty well.
All of us have relatives who are ashamed of, and also relatives who are ashamed of us.

UNCHANGING ENGLAND

England enjoys great liberty, but within fixed limits and in the shelter of unchanging traditions, says a writer in the New York Herald-Tribune. The king and the royal family preserve an involute prestige; it has even increased in the last century.
The petition to the King remains the supreme recourse of every citizen who thinks he has been deprived of his rights in the common course of the law. In the most remote moving picture house, "God Save the King," heard in silence by a standing audience at the end of the entertainment, creates a national and collective discipline.The families who have governed England during the last four centuries are still influential in public affairs. English public schools arouse the moral energy to great leaders in the young men of these families.
These schools remain true to their past. At Eton boys who break the rules are still punished with strokes of a rod seriously doled out by the headmaster.
Thus the new generations of the English aristocracy, constantly rejuvenated by alliances with fresh blood, learn how to play the game, to serve in a squad, to obey a leader. The public school cultivates a common feeling of honor, which is one of the great forces of the nation.And there is the same concern for tradition and self-respect in the great mercantile and banking houses. This year I paid a visit to Lloyd's, world centre of maritime insurance. In the 18th century this Lloyd, then owner of a London coffee-house, conceived the idea of procuring all the news about ships, rates of exchange, etc., and of posting them in his shop. In a cit-Special

The insurers of ships—maritime insurance has existed since the fifteenth century—fell into the habit of meeting in his coffeehouse. Little by little these chance meetings were transformed into a company, which moved first to the Royal Exchange and then into its present large building. Even up to recent years the address was "Lloyd's Coffee-House." What a pity it was ever changed.But the basic nature of this great financial institution has not been changed. Here, in a vast room, seated at desks like children in a class room, are the members of this great firm or their representatives. Has the broker a boat to insure? He goes from table to table, carrying a little piece of paper which describes the risk. Those underwriters who accept a part of it write down the guaranteed sum and sign with their initials.
That is all that is necessary—those initials pledge their signers.They tell with great pride the following story at Lloyd's: One day a poor fellow came in quite desperate; he had just lost a perfectly new boat. The day before he had intended to insure it, but something had detained him; he had arrived too late, and he was obliged to put it off. He thought "Nothing will happen in twenty-four hours." But the unexpected had happened. At Lloyd's he was known as an honest man. "Could you swear," he was asked, "that you had the intention of insuring that vessel?" "Certainly." "Well, we will share the loss with you."
That is the kind of trust in man that makes men.The essential traits of the national character remain, in 1935, just what they were in 1914. I am always skeptical when some one says, "The younger generation in England is not what it used to be." I always want to ask: "Is, then, the east wind changed?"The spirit of the English people is non-professional. I heard
Mr. Baldwin, in the House of Commons, say that famous phrase, "England's boundary is no longer the cliffs of Dover; it is the banks of the Rhine." He was careful not to declaim the words; he almost whispered them. They made all the more noise because they didn't make any. That is England.A Californian is suffering from an affliction which is making him considerably shorter. So are a lot of the rest of us, but we married ours

now is really dead. Just fifty years ago she saved herself from being buried alive by knocking inside her coffin, en route to a cemetery.The bearers, terrified, dropped it.
Rising from the wreckage, Martha walked back home and resumed work in a laundry. As a memento she used the coffin lid as an ironing board. Certified as dead at 88, she has received a second funeral.

THE WEATHER

On the whole—not bad. Some rain, some sunshine, no snow. Mayflowers are in blossom, and store windows have blossomed out with a display of spring fashions. To date we haven't heard of many who have been following the streams in search of speckled beauties, and the reports we have are that there is still plenty of water and snow in the woods. However, we are of the opinion that many of the disciples of Isaac Walton will be at their old haunts over this week end.

Obituary

Mrs. Alice Maria Woodman

There passed away at her home in Conway, on Thursday of last week, Mrs. Alice Maria Woodman, who a short time ago, celebrated her 89th birthday anniversary. A week previous she was stricken with paralysis and never regained consciousness.

The deceased, who was the widow of the late John Bell Woodman, was a daughter of Churchill and Nancy Wade, of Granville Centre, and came to Conway as a bride 69 years ago. Near surviving relatives are two sons, James, at home, and Lemuel Woodman, of Somerville, Mass., and two daughters, Mrs. Goudy Nichols and Mrs. Duncan MacKay, of Acadiaville; also a number of grand and great grandchildren. She was a woman of fine Christian character and cheerful and unselfish disposition, and was noted as a nurse, never refusing a call for help while health permitted, and will be much missed in the community where she has lived so long. The funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon, those at the house conducted by Rev. F. E. Bishop, pastor of the United Baptist church, Digby, by special request, and at St. Paul's church, Marshalltown, of which the deceased was a consistent member, by Rev. A. E. Gabriel, rector. Interment was in the family lot in St. Paul's cemetery. The large congregation who came to pay a last token of respect, and the beautiful floral offerings gave testimony as to the high esteem in which she was held.

Captain Marly Welch

Captain Marly Welch has stood his last watch. The famous sailing master who won the first international fishermen's race, died peacefully at his home in Gloucester, Mass., on Tuesday, when his 68-year old heart failed him. Capt. Welch was born in Digby. His father was a prominent resident of this town and was one of those instrumental in the erection of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church. While Captain Welch was still a young boy the family moved to Boston. His associations with the sea have made him a well known figure in practically all Nova Scotian ports.

On Monday evening of last week a birthday party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley D. Tidd, in honor of their daughter, Avis. She received a number of pretty gifts, games and music made up the evening's enjoyment.

Miss Frances Morrell, of Barton, spent the week end in Digby with her friend, Miss Mary Baxter.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Easter's Just Around the Corner

"Don't forget the youngsters when you are taking Easter snapshots."

WITH Easter coming on April 21 this year the fair sex will get a "break" and can wear new Easter dresses, suits and coats without shivering from late March or early April winds.

Easter Sunday should also be observed as "Snapshot Sunday" for you will surely want to take several pictures of your mother, wife, sister, daughter or sweetheart in that new Easter outfit.

The suit, the girl, for the picture would not be half as attention-compelling if the photographer had been taken with the garage door, the dark trunk of a tree or some other unattractive object as a background.

And the suggestion for a suitable background for your Easter snapshot might be a church entrance.

If your background is attractive and will add to the appearance of your picture use a small aperture or diaphragm opening. This will not only increase sharpness of focus but bring out charming details in the new Easter outfit. If you stop down to f/11, or f/16 you will, of course, have to adjust your shutter speed accordingly, depending on the amount of light you have to work by. Don't try to take your pictures at less than 1/250 of a second unless you can place the camera on something solid for otherwise, unless you know from experience that you can hold your camera steady through 1/15, 1/10 or 1/8 of a second, your picture will be blurred.

Remember, too, that the group-ups are not the only ones who have new Easter clothes. How about the youngsters? Little Jane (above) is surely getting a great thrill out of the new dress.

Easter offers countless opportunities for interesting, story-telling snapshots. There is the plant you gave mother, or the beautiful white Easter lilies or the baby chicks received by little Jane from her grandmother; and innumerable other subjects. All you need do is give a little thought to the picture possibilities and at the end of the day you will have a collection of snapshots that you, your friends and family will be proud of and enjoy for years to come.

So make Easter Sunday "Snapshot Sunday," too.

LT-Col. F. A. Gascon, recently retired secretary-treasurer, Canadian Pacific Steamships, has been elected president of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association at the annual meeting of the Association held recently, succeeding LT-Col. R. C. Crowe, of the Ministry of National Defence.

"I've seen better days, sir," said the tramp to the man who opened the door.

Gayboy—"I know it, but she's just about due to break it off and send my presents back, and I can use it myself."

DEDICATION OF THE NEW ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

At the afternoon service, Palm Sunday, the beautiful new St. John's church, at Bear River, was dedicated by the Ven. Archdeacon Vroom. Owing to a previous engagement, His Lordship, Bishop Hackett, was not able to be present; this, too, was the case of the clergy of Annapolis Diocese, with the exception of the Rev. A. E. Gabriel, who was able to be there for part of the service; but they sent their congratulations and best wishes. The church was well filled, many from other parts of the parish were in attendance manifesting the interest felt in this work. At the evening service the Church was filled to utmost capacity and numbers were unable to gain admission. The Revs. Blanchard, Stevens and Henderson took part, they and their congregations giving up their services to rejoice with St. John's in their hour of Thanksgiving. At both services the Rev. R. D. Dean Smith, presided, and Ven. Archdeacon Vroom preached. Mr. L. V. Harris, of Bear River, Lay Reader, read the first lesson in the afternoon. The Archdeacon's congratulations and his sermons were from the heart and went to the hearts of those who heard him. He emphasized the true meaning of worship and the value of worship in our lives; also what Holy Week and its message should be to the followers of Christ. The Rector thanked all who had in any way assisted in the building of the new church. The singing was joined in by all and much enjoyed. Mrs. Howard Rice, St. John's organist, was at the organ, while the choir was assisted by members of the choir of local churches. The wonderful work of St. John's Guild, the Building Committee, the members of the congregation and friends at home and abroad, made this church possible. On January 19th, 1934, the old St. John's church, which would have been 100 years old on March 15th, 1934, was destroyed by fire. The present structure is slightly smaller, has no gallery, and a tower instead of a steeple. The designer and builder, William Sanford, of Clements, deserves every congratulation on the beauty and quality of his work as do those who worked with him. The acoustics of the building seem to be perfect. No echo—and one can hear distinctly from every point. The lighting, which is centrally located, is excellent, and with the cream colored walls and dark oak beams and oak furniture gives a most pleasing effect. The dark oak choir stalls, manufactured by Allen & Son, of Middleton, and beautifully made and finished, are a great improvement. Half of these were given by Miss Clara Sulis, of Deep Brook, in memory of her grandfather, Jeremiah Sulis, one of the original pew holders in the old church.

In addition to the prayer and hymn books saved from the fire, the thoughtful and kind gift of three dozen prayer books and three dozen hymn books, given by Miss E. C. Ogden, Smith's Cove, made it possible for the greater number of those present to follow the service. The Church people of Bear River and vicinity now have a home in which to worship and of which they may well be proud. Its doors are always open—and open to all.

Mrs. B. C. Clarke, of Bear River, president of St. John's Guild, and a member of the Building Committee is to be congratulated on her splendid work—never tiring for a moment to encourage others and working at top speed herself. It is largely due to her interest and efforts that this splendid structure is now standing. A rector and parish who will feel proud of such parishioners who, with Mrs. Clarke, can accomplish such a task in so short a time, and do it so well. The efficient St. John's Guild now have the matter of the debt in hand and are working to have it paid and the church consecrated.

Today (Good Friday) the most sacred day in the whole year, the day on which the Saviour of the World died for the sins of the whole world, for you and for me, a united service will be held in St. John's church at 3 o'clock this afternoon. "The Seven Words from the Cross." The ministers of Bear River are taking part and it is hoped the church will be filled with devout worshippers, glad to have the opportunity to meditate upon the Passion of their Saviour.

Mrs. Richard Boswell and Mrs. Robert Montgomery Boswell, of Kingsgrove, Staffordshire, England, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Hatheway.

Miss Patricia Hatheway is spending the Easter vacation at her home here, arriving from Wolfville this week.

A COMMUNITY PARTY

sponsored by the Guild of St. John's Anglican Church, will be held in Oddfellows' Hall, Bear River, Tuesday evening, April 23rd, at 8 o'clock. An interesting programme will be provided, followed by Cards and Dancing. Admission, 25 cents.

THE VOICE OF THE LEGION

The regular meeting of Branch No. 22, of the Canadian Legion, met in the Dug-Out, and although a bear has been seen in this vicinity some of the "old soldiers" think it is not yet time to come out of the den. It is rumored—and that means more than it used to—that we are to move to another sector for our meeting in May, to the Clementsvalle out-post, where our annual secretary relieves between meetings.

The study period was led in the usual way, using the "Monthly News Sheet" of the League of Nations Society as the basis of our discussion. In a revealing section entitled "The New Deal" we read: "March 19th, 1934, reported to his government after inspection that Germany had now fulfilled her promise; it was no time for the strong-armed Allies to follow suit." The Allies failed to fulfil their part of the Versailles Treaty. The disarmament conferences were a farce and the opportunity slipped away. It was not good to read of British first sending airplanes to Germany—and the action was followed by a new campaign to emphasize the German air menace.

The Legion read, with stinging approval, of the action of the Swedish parliament in hearing a Bill for the supervision of the arms and munitions industry.

The Voice of the Legion urges similar action on the part of our government. It also declares the conviction that this can be done only through enlightened public opinion.

Mrs. Herbert Hazleton is leaving today, accompanied by little Charles Bradley, for a visit in Boston, and while there will visit her brother, D. M. Graham, who is proprietor of the Home Restaurant, in Waltham, Mass.

Help the Children

"For inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these, ye have done it unto me."

In Digby town and county there are helpless children crying for help. They need your help; they need mine. Are we going to turn them down? Will their cries go unheeded?

Not if the Children's Aid Society can help it. The Digby Children's Aid Society is the one and only central child welfare association in the county. In the years that have passed this society has gone to the assistance of many needy children and aided many needy families. This society has found homes for the homeless. There are homes in this county that have been kept together by the assistance given them by the Children's Aid Society and the kindly advice of the society's agent, Austin L. Robbins, and his predecessors in office.

The Children's Aid Society has done, and is continuing to do, a noble humanitarian work within the bounds of Digby county. For its support it depends upon town and municipal grants, membership fees and donations. At the present time, in order to carry on its important work with efficiency, the society is badly in need of funds. The Children's Aid Society needs any financial help you can render, and we ask all readers of the Digby Weekly

Courier to come to their assistance. Outside of the usual grants the following membership, fees and donations have been received since October 1st, the beginning of the fiscal year:

Mrs. H. Anderson, $1.00; Miss M. Stewart, $1.00; J. M. Wallis, $1.00; Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Purdy, $2.00; Miss Jean Anderson, $1.00; Miss Ina O'Brien, $1.00; Rev. T. W. Hodgson, $1.00; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Robbins, $2.00; Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Timpany, $2.00; Mrs. George E. Turnbull, $2.00; Mrs. A. D. McKel, $2.00; Mrs. C. Abbott, $1.00; Mrs. E. DuVernet, $1.00; Rev. F. E. Bishop, $1.00; Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Holdsworth, $2.00; Mrs. H. L. Smith, $1.00; Miss D. Moser, $1.00; Rev. A. E. Gabriel, $1.00; Mrs. Sturtevant, $1.00; Mrs. W. E. Tupper, $1; Mrs. T. E. Co-Lench, $1.00; A. Friend, $5.00; A. Friend, $1.00. Total, $33.00.

Let's try and bring this amount up to $100 at least before another week goes by. A contribution of $1.00 entitles you to membership; contributions for any amount, large or small, will be acknowledged through the Courier. Send your contributions to the office of this newspaper; make cheques payable to Dr. J. S. Timpany.

Remember, what you contribute goes to help the needy children of Digby town and county—of your own community. Don't turn down the plea of a little child.

The EASTERN TRUST COMPANY

BORN

Outhouse—At Centerville, Digby Co., April 10, 1935, to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Outhouse, a daughter—Greta Blanchie.

Mullen—At New Tusket, April 16th, 1935, to Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Mullen, a son.

EASTER CONCERT IN CENTREVILLE

An Easter concert, under the direction of Miss Miriam Morehouse, was presented in the Bethel United Church, April 14th, to a large congregation. The church was beautifully decorated with potted plants and artificial flowers.

The programme was sent in for publication but it is of no news value because it only gives the Christian names of those taking part. For instance, "Recitation by Florence," means nothing to our readers outside of Centerville. — Editor Courier.

SCALLOPS MAKE DIGESTIVE JUICES FLOW MORE READILY

If you want your digestive juices to flow in greater quantities, eat scallops. Lobsters come second. Haddock is also of value for this purpose. These findings have been developed as the result of investigations carried on at the Atlantic Biological Station at St. Andrews, N. B., of the Biological Board of Canada. It has been found possible to extract the chemical substances responsible for this secretion from lobster muscles. The findings have an important bearing from a medical point of view when it is desired to increase the flow of digestive juices in the stomach.

JUNGLE CITY MONUMENT TO INDUSTRY

Out of the Brazilian jungle there rises a monumental enterprise created by Yankee ingenuity and dedicated to King Rubber. Seven years ago a tract of jungle land caught the eye of an emissary of Henry Ford, America's chief industrialist, and now Fordlandia has been established, a veritable oasis in the wilds of South America.

Fordlandia lies squarely on the Tapajoz River, one of the greater tributaries of the Amazon. The tract embraces 3,700,000 acres, and the nearest town is some 700 miles distant.

The main idea of purchasing the tract was to build a plantation for the cultivation of rubber. More than 15,000 acres of Fordlandia have already been cleared, and 7,000,000 young rubber saplings planted. It is estimated that Mr. Ford has spent more than $7,500,000 on the plantation up to this time.

Fordlandia boasts nearly 1,000 houses where the 4,000 workers live with their families. Each house has four rooms, a bath and a garden plot. There are storehouses, machine and repair shops, laboratories and an observatory. There is also a cemetery.

The jungle oasis has a modern drainage system, telephone and electric light and power. It has pure drinking water pumped into a huge storage tank and filter. There are motion pictures, a club house, a dance hall and restaurant. Boy scouts and four football teams are active in the community. Night and day schools provide for children and adults, and the educational system conforms to the demands of modern methods.

It will be five or six years before the first batch of rubber saplings now growing in Fordlandia become productive.

After routine business the meeting was given over to the Convener of Home Economics, Mrs. Frank Weir, who conducted a very interesting programme. A prize was offered for the best darning in a stocking, which was won by Mrs. George Weir. The roll call was responded to by each member telling their "pet economy".

The May meeting will be held at the home of Miss Janet M. Cornell. Mrs. Geo. Weir and Mrs. T. O. Brown, will be the refreshment committee. This meeting will be in charge of Miss Ceneth Thomas, convener of "Home Economics" Committee.

MARITIME FISHERMEN ENTHUSIASTIC SCHOLARS

The ancient student who we are told trod many weary miles to slack his thirst for knowledge at that famous seat of learning in Padua, seems to have nothing on the deep sea fishermen who attended the fishermen's school conducted in Halifax last year. They seem to have been hounds for learning. After going through the prescribed course dealing with the preparation of pickle cured and boneless fish; preparation of pickled fish; motor engines; science; first aid and gardening, they asked for evening classes in navigation—and not them, says the Natural Resources Department of the Canadian National Railways. The attendance for all of the subjects was practically 100 per cent.

LOCAL GUIDES MAKING GOOD SHOWING

Nova Scotia's contingent of guides at the world's indoor Championship Guides' Meet, which opened at the Boston Gardens this week, set away to a good start, winning 9 firsts and 10 seconds in the 26 events of the first afternoon and evening of the show.

This type of spectacle which was experimentally inaugurated at Boston last year, has somewhat changed its character. Events have been added and some of last year's contests have been eliminated. The trip race, greased pole walking, four-man canoe race and portage race are all new, or nearly so, to Boston spectators. To the guides' events have also been added a number of exhibitions and contests by and between canoe clubs in the vicinity of Boston. On the whole, the show has a greater variety than that of last year. Lacking, however, is the thrill of the drummers and pipers of the Ottawa pipe band, which last year introduced each performance.

Nova Scotians who won in the first day's events were Harry Peters and Walton Peck, winners of the Canoe Rescue Race; Walter Hubley, winner of the canoe race without paddles or poles; and the pack race; Lawrence Toney, winner of the greased pole contest—Toney walked to the end of the pole; Lawrence Wamboldt, winner of the log chopping contest; Eber Peck and Charles Harlow, winners of the double canoe race. Nova Scotians also won the four-man canoe race.

Second day's won by George T. Allen, Allen Hunt, Henry Peters, Walter Hubley, Lawrence Toney and Frank Gloue, Vernon Peck, Charles Harlow, etc.

THE PASSAMAQUODDY BAY

The following letter by Charles Power, well known summer resident of Digby, appeared in the New York Times of April 16—

To the Editor of the New York Times: The Times editorial says that twice a day the waters of Passamaquoddy Bay rise and fall twenty-seven feet. That is not quite correct, according to the facts of the case.

According to the Canadian Government tide tables, the maximum rise at St. Andrews is twenty-five feet, and that only about three days a month. Toward the middle of the lunar month you will find figures about as follows: High water, plus 20; low water, plus 5. This plainly gives an available head of only fifteen feet.

I am informed that the general scheme is to dam Passamaquoddy Bay, situated in Canada, and Cobscook Bay, in Maine, have water gates in these dams and keep the Canada bay always as full as possible and the Maine bay always as empty as possible, the power house being situated between the two. To generate 500,000 horsepower

THE KING'S JUBILEE

At a meeting of the committee appointed to arrange for a King's Jubilee celebration, to be held in Digby on May 6th, held at the Town Hall, Wednesday afternoon, it was decided that the ministers of the Digby Churches, with the Captain of the Salvation Army form a committee to arrange for a church service to be held at Holy Trinity Church at 11 o'clock of the morning of May 6th.

On motion it was also decided that the town purchase 1,000 Jubilee Badges, to be distributed free to the school children, and the balance be sold at 25 cents each, and the proceeds donated to the Cancer Fund, and that a collection be taken at the church service for this fund, and that the town be reimbursed for the badges apart from those given to the children and that the balance be contributed to the Cancer Fund.

Miss Margaret Stewart and Mrs. G. M. Morrell were appointed a committee to interview the Digby troop of Girl Guides concerning the sale of the badges.

Before the church service in the morning, there will be a parade starting at the town hall to be made up of the Mayor and Town Council; the Band, the Legion, Firemen, Scouts, Cubs, Girl Guides and school children. It was also suggested that the town make arrangements for a motop picture show for the entertainment of the school children, and that a speaker be procured to address the children. The selection of the speaker was left to the committee in charge of the church service.

On motion it was decided to ask the finance committee of the Town Council to purchase fireworks, and that G. W. Connell be placed in charge of the display. The town will also be asked to build bonfire over which the Digby Fire Department will have charge, and the band will be asked to give an evening concert.

Rates on Fish From Maritimes To Be Increased

Freight rates on fish from the Maritimes to the principal markets in the United States will be increased as a result of the emergency freight charges implemented in the United States and to which the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada concurred in respect to international movements. The increase came into effect yesterday.

Fish was not among the commodities excluded from the emergency charges nor among the limited increase list, and, consequently, it will be subject to increased charges as high as seven per cent but limited to five cents per hundred pounds, carload. Less-than-carload freight charges generally will be increased subject to a limit of 10 per cent.

Included among the commodities exported from the Maritimes to the United States on which no emergency charges have been authorized are vegetables, poultry and some specified lumber products.

In the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, emergency charges were authorized on coal, as high as 15 cents per net ton. It is expected that the coal increase will be to the advantage of coal companies in the Maritimes.

The emergency charges are to terminate on June 30, 1935.

WHEN A NOTE IS NOT A NOTE

Decision in the case of Leon P. Gaudet vs. Simeon, Comeau and Denis Boudreau, all of Concession, has been handed down by Judge W. Livingston, of the County Court for District No. 3, in favor of the plaintiff. The case was heard here in February.

The dispute which brought this matter before the court was over a note for $700. Boudreau borrowing the amount from Gaudet and Comeau "backing" the note for Boudreau. The date of the document was October 1st, 1929.

The court, however, rules the document invalid, and on account of a peculiar wording which reads "after twelve months after date", no specific time was given, and thus it could not be considered a note. The document is, however, considered a contract of indemnity.

Obituary

Mrs. Louise Maria Mullen

There passed away at her home on Warwick Street, Digby, at 9 o'clock, Saturday evening, Louise Maria Mullen, widow of the late Charles P. Mullen, Mrs. Mullen was well known in Digby and throughout the county, while she had a host of friends who will regret her passing, and has been living in this town for nearly thirty years. She joined the Centreville Baptist Church sixty years ago, and in 1911 was made a life member of the Women's Missionary Society of the Digby Baptist Church. She was a woman of sterling character and of a most cheerful disposition. Funeral services were conducted at the home of the deceased on Monday afternoon, Rev. F. E. Bishop, pastor of the Digby Baptist Church, assisted by Rev. Stanley Steeves, of the Bear River Baptist Church. She was born at Centreville, Annapolis County, 83 years ago and was the daughter of the late John and Maria (Messenger) Mullen. Interment was made in Riverside Cemetery, Weymouth North beside her husband, who predeceased her nine years. Services at the grave were conducted by Rev. Dr. Timpany. She is survived by one daughter, Miss Edith Mullen, of Digby.

Francois Dwight Theriault
Francois Dwight Theriault passed away at Moncton, on Wednesday, April 15th, at the age of 70 years and 10 months. He was unmarried and leaves to mourn their loss five brothers and one sister, Simeon, Edward E. Charles, of Bellevue's Cove; Oreste, of St. John's; and his wife, Mrs. Annie Gaudet, in Bradford, Mass. Rev. Father Arcand Theriault, of St. Patrick's Home, Halifax, is nephew. Mr. Theriault has carried on a general store business in Bellevue's Cove, and more recently in Church Point, for over thirty years, enjoying the confidence of the public to a high degree. Several years ago, owing to ill health, he closed his business and retired to St. Joseph's Home, Shediac. On the 12th of April he entered the Hotel Dieu Hospital for urgent treatment and underwent an operation from which he did not rally. The remains were brought to the home of his brother, Edward E. Bellevue's Cove, on Friday. The burial took place at St. Bernard's on Sunday afternoon. Rev. Father Bouchard, of St. John's, officiated.

Jacob V. Robblee
Jacob V. Robblee passed away at his home in Lower Granville, Sunday, after a lengthy illness. He was 86 years and 4 months old. He is survived by his widow and six children, Mrs. Frank Whitman (Mary) and Valentine, of Millville, Kings County; Reginald, of Ponsauca, Cal.; Wallace, of St. John's; and Mrs. Lloyd Shaffner (Alice), of Lower Granville.

Mrs. George A. Piper
The funeral of the late Mrs. George A. Piper, who passed away at the home of her son, Frank H. Piper, in Rosindale, Mass., Sunday morning, April 14, was held at her old home, Yarmouth North, on Thursday of last week. Rev. G. W. Schurman, pastor of the South Chegoquin Baptist church, and Rev. J. B. Messenger, pastor of the Milton Baptist church (Yarmouth North), read the Scripture lessons, found in John 14:1-15 and Rev. 7:17, and offered the prayers, while Mrs. Frank Piper touching rendered Mrs. Piper's two favorite hymns, which she had, of request, requested to be sung for her. "An Evening Prayer" and "The Old Rug" were Cross. Mrs. Piper's grandson, Rev. Charles D. Piper, of Rosindale, Mass., gave an address on "No Tears Yonder," which was based on the promise contained in Rev. 7:17: "And God shall wipe away every tear from their eyes." Mr. Piper paid a glowing tribute to the Christian faith, life and work of his grandmother, saying, among other things, "I cannot do her justice. It would be impossible to exaggerate the nobility of her life, the splendor of her character, the Christlikeness of her sacrifice, the perfection of her work, the simplicity and strength of her faith, the majesty of her death and the triumph of her entrance into heavenly places." She leaves to mourn their loss her only son, Frank H., of Rosindale; three grandchildren, Arthur C. Piper, of Yarmouth North; Rev. Charles D. Piper, of Rosindale; and Gladys M. Piper, of Bristol, Tenn.; and four great grandchildren. Among those who attended the service were George Lettney, of Digby; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Webb and Mrs. William Webb, of Port Maitland. Interment was made in the family lot by the side of her husband, who passed away April 1929, in the South Chegoquin cemetery.

FARMERS ARE GETTING BUSY

Farmers in this district are preparing the ground and getting ready for planting in their seeds. Some of them have their peas in the ground. One farmer, W. A. Bacon, of Hill Grove, planted 40 pounds of peas last week, and has about 100,000 cabbages, cauliflowers, etc., already two inches high, to be set out later. He also plans to make something of a specialty of cucumbers this year, and hopes to have them on the market by the latter part of July.

From the reports that come from the rural districts more land will be put under cultivation than for a few years back. It has not yet been learned whether the fishing communities will put their "back to the soil" movement or not. For the past three years, while the fishing has been poor, many of the farmers have been putting their land under cultivation in several of Digby County, and more than 1000 acres had been for over forty years.

The following letter received from Mr. Bacon yesterday, might be of interest:

"I have been asked the question by many, 'Isn't this spring late?' My answer is that it is, but it is true the winds are cold, but there has been little freezing of the ground at night during the last fortnight. Many years ago the spring was so late one year that cabbage and cauliflower plants were frozen in the field on May 13th, and there was also a fall of snow amounting to four inches. For the past few weeks the prevailing winds have been north, but very likely we will have a change soon."

FISHING COMMENCES

There is now considerable activity among the Bay of Fundy shore fishermen of Digby and Annapolis County. To date the catches reported are small, but particularly in the Victoria Beach section, fishermen are doing fairly well at halibutting. Some of these fish caught have tipped the scales at 200 pounds.

It is still too early for haddock, but a few are being taken. Pollock are expected to arrive in quantities along these shores within a few weeks. The fishermen are quite confident that shore fishing is going to pick up somewhat this year.

WE MUST WORK

One wise man has said that a man should work as though he were to live forever, and that he should live as though he were to die tomorrow. A very wise plan indeed!

People with no work to do are always unhappy, but no person can remain unhappy long who has some work to engage and stimulate his mind and absorb his interest and energy. The unhappy man of all is the one who lets some one else do his work for him; the most pathetic, the one who wishes to work but can find no work to do!

Work, if it is of an honest sort, is always honorable. It makes one independent and sure of himself. There is certain beauty about work which only the true worker can discern.

Our work should be given the best that is in us, so that we might in return receive the respect of the world and ourselves.

The federal and provincial deficits are going up again, newspapers inform us. When did they ever go in any other direction?

A SUDDEN CHANGE

Only two years ago in Soviet Russia great processions were held to denounce capitalist England, the enemy of the workers, says the Boston Post. Effigies of Prime Minister MacDonald, Austen Chamberlain and other British officials were paraded, with warnings that England was plotting the downfall of Russia and the destruction of Communism. The other night, Captain Anthony Eden, the special envoy to Russia from Great Britain, was given a banquet in Moscow by the heads of the Soviet government. Before the speaking began the Soviet Foreign Minister, Maxim Litvinoff, rose, glass in hand. "I ask you," he said, "to drink to the health of His Majesty, King George."

There is too much talk about taking the profit out of war, and not enough about putting some profit in peace.

HISTORIC SITES AND MONUMENTS

Since 1919 the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada has been engaged in the work of acquiring and marking historic sites of a national character, and in the period thousands of propositions have been acted upon, favorably or unfavorably, that of the number considered. The Montreal Gazette points out 297 sites have been declared of national importance and 200 have been marked by the erection of appropriate memorials. Details of the work are contained in the annual report of the Commissioner of National Parks of Canada for 1934. During the year under review, quite a few sites were acquired and fitting marks placed, while there was also considerable preservation work on venerable objects. Of particular interest to the people of Quebec was the marking of the landing place of Jacques Cartier, at the entrance to Gaspe harbor four hundred years ago, the exact date being July 24, 1534.

In this instance, the Right Rev. F. X. Rose, D. D., Bishop of Gaspe, granted permission for the erection of a memorial cross and tablet on church property in the town. There was no question as to the fitness of this memorial, for it was in keeping with the character of the great discoverer of Canada who stepped on to these shores four centuries ago. Another Quebec event was remembered during 1934, when a tablet was affixed to the stone wall on the east side of Cote de la Montagne St., adjacent to the steps leading to Laval-Montmorency Park, Quebee, to commemorate the issue of the first patent of invention in Canada. The patent in question was granted on June 8, 1824, in favor of Noah Cushing, of Quebec. Another "first" thing to be honored was the initial submarine telegraph in America, the place being Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. A tablet was affixed to the left-hand pillar of the portico, over the entrance to the Provincial Building in the Island capital. This cable extended from Charlottetown Head, P. E. I., to Cape Tormentine, N. S., and was laid by Frederick Newton Gibson, in November, 1852.

A very old land purchase from the Indians, known as McKee's Purchase, was commemorated at Blenheim, Ont., where a monument, with tablet, was erected in Memorial Park to mark the site where the treaty was made by Alexander McKee, on May 19, 1790, with the Shipewia, Ottawa, Pottawatome and Huron Indians. On that date a great tract of land, comprising most of the present counties of Essex, Kent and Elgin, and part of Middlesex, was peacefully acquired to provide homes for expatriated United Empire Loyalists. Another historic event was taken official notice of at Norway House, Manitoba, where a cairn and tablet were placed near the Hudson Bay Company's building on the east bank of the Nelson River, to mark the site of Norway House. This old trading post, originally built on Jack River in 1812-13 by the company, was rebuilt on the present site in 1825. This was a frequent meeting place of the Council of the Northern Department of Rupert's Land. Just as appropriate and important an event was commemorated at Alexandria, B. C., where a cairn and tablet were erected in the southwest quarter of Lot 47, Cariboo District, to mark the site of Fort Alexandria, the last post established by the North West Company west of the Rocky Mountains, built in 1821. This, it is pointed out in the report, was the farthest point reached by Alexander Mackenzie, the great explorer, in his descent of the Fraser River, in 1793. At this place, Mackenzie, on the advice of the Indians, decided to continue westward by another route, which eventually brought him to the Pacific Ocean at Bella Coola. On a rock there Mackenzie signified his achievement and carved his name.

It is a patriotic work that the Historic Sites and Monuments Board is doing in Canada, for it is well that Canadians of the present day should be constantly reminded of the labors and accomplishments of the heroes of the past who set their marks on the land. These men endured hardships that would deter most moderns, and in the main they depended upon themselves. They were strong and dauntless characters and their rewards as a rule were small. They live in our history, however, and it is well that memorials should be erected to their honor. Such sites deserve to be visited by the Canadians of today.

Fifty years ago Barnum referred to them as "rascals." Now we know them better as taxpayers.

AN AID TO THE FARMER

The Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act has been in operation for a comparatively short time. The number of settlements effected between the farmer and his creditor is the strongest argument that could be used not only for the legislation but for the purpose of convincing everyone as to that element of fairness and honesty which characterizes debtor and creditor alike in this country.

To date there have been 3,200 settlements effected. Up to the end of last March 40,316 farmers appealed to the government for the benefits of the Act, the largest number of applicants being from the province of Quebec. Saskatchewan, Alberta, Ontario, Manitoba, Prince Edward Island, British Columbia, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia followed respectively.

However, Prince Edward Island saw more settlements than Nova Scotia and New Brunswick combined. There is no doubt that this piece of government legislation is working admirably. The purpose of this act is not to abolish all farm debts, a task obviously impossible. What it does aim to do, and is doing, is to help farmers adjust their debts, to scale down interest and principle rates, to work out reasonable settlements. In other words, its purpose is to keep farmers on their lands, to give them a fresh start to bring what they owe within reasonable possibilities of payment.

SHAD ON INCREASE, LANDINGS INDICATE

Shad stocks are apparently on the increase again in Canada's Atlantic waters. As all events, the catch has jumped up sharply in the past couple of years and incomplete figures indicate that 1934 production has topped 1933 and 1932 landings.

News that the fish are becoming more abundant is good news for people familiar with them for they are tasty fare. Baked or broiled, fresh shad makes an excellent dish and so does a bit of the salted fish as many more people would have found out if the production from the fishery had not hitherto been relatively small. Increased catch will give Canadians more chances to test out the shad's merits for themselves.

The shad, a member of the Clupeidae family and kin, therefore, of the herring and alewife or gaspereau is indigenous to Atlantic waters. It is taken both in the sea fisheries and the inland or freshwater fisheries, although the greater part of the catch is landed by the sea fishermen. New Brunswick is the Dominion's biggest producer, with Nova Scotia ranking second, the remainder of the commercial catch being caught in Quebec areas.

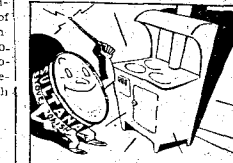

Up Go Totals

A few figures will show how shad landings have increased of late. During the 1926-1931 period the catch ranged between a "low" of less than 4,500 hundredweights in 1927 and a "high" of slightly more than 9,200 hundredweights in 1928. Then, in 1932, there came an increase of 11,540 hundredweights and in 1933 this total rose to 13,460. Last year the catch from the sea fisheries was greater than in 1933 by over 1,600 hundredweights but the statistics covering the results of some of the inland fishing operations are not yet at hand so the full story is not yet known. The probability is, however, that the year's total will show another increase.

While the shad fishery may be spoken of as an Atlantic fishery since it is only in Atlantic waters that shad are taken in any quantity the fact is that the fish are also found in some parts of British Columbia and are taken occasionally by salmon gill-nets. The species were introduced into Pacific areas of North America a number of years ago and a few members of the family appear each year in the Fraser River and in different places between the mainland of the province and Vancouver Island. Last year, by the way, two were caught in Phillip Arm, a British Columbia water where so far as is known, shad had never been found before.

The value of cut flowers sold in 31, 1934, was $876,203. This amount Canada during the year ended May represents 62 per cent of the total value of Canada's floricultural and decorative plant production, which includes outdoor roses, outdoor trees, shrubs, plants, outdoor and indoor, and flowering bulbs.

None of the children seemed to know.

"Well, I'm an orphan," said the teacher, not wishing to make it too plain.

A hand popped up and the owner exclaimed: "An orphan, miss. Is a woman who wants to get married and can't."

Is it not wonderful how quickly youngsters grow up? I have just noticed in my evening paper two pictures of Charlie Chaplin and Jackie Coogan, one when Jackie was six years old, playing in that famous picture of Chaplin's, "The Kid" you remember. Jackie was a very small boy then. The other picture taken today shows Coogan, now 21, standing with Chaplin, and Coogan a full head taller than his old playmate. Jack recently graduated from Santa Clara College, at San Jose, California, and is back in Los Angeles with the intention of getting into the movies again.

Chaplin gave the boy his first change in pictures, which proved to be exceedingly profitable for the Coogan family; but when Jackie began to grow up his services were not so much in demand by the movie producers, which gave him a good opportunity to go to school. But he is now through with school and Chaplin may give him another opportunity. Chaplin's pictures, however, are few and far between. His last one, "City Lights" was put on the screen in 1929. He has been working on another for about a year and we may get to see it some time before Christmas. Chaplin is never in a hurry—works when he feels like it and seems to be able to turn out something, finally, that the people go quite dippy over. Coogan, however, says he wants to play in Western Cowboy pictures, but even so, Chaplin's pictures usually have a lot of horse play in them, and who knows but what the "Kid" will get a chance to ride a bucking broncho in a Chaplin version of "The Last Roundup."

Some of the members of the California Legislature now in session seem to be anxious to get the State into the liquor business, and have introduced a measure which would, if carried, create a state alcohol authority to establish and maintain liquor stores. All package liquor would be sold by the authority through agencies, and the state would keep the profits, estimated at $10,000,000 annually. The author of the bill says, "We want an orderly, decent and sensible use of intoxicants. It is in the interest of temperance to do away with the evils and corruption of the present system."

Under the present system most any one who wants to can get into the retail liquor business in California, and from appearances every one who wanted to has gotten into it. Bottle houses are as numerous as lunch rooms and every store and many of the grocery stores carry a complete stock of liquors and wines which may be purchased by the person, male or female, the dumb, the halt and the blind. The cut rate drug stores seem to be doing most of the bottle trade and many of the regular liquor store proprietors would like to get out of business claiming that they cannot compete with the drug stores. The market is practically flooded with cheap whiskey and the business is what is known as "overdone." Prohibition made liquor somewhat hard to get but produced some very vile brands, much of which is still in circulation. Most of the cheaper brands now on sale are said to be nothing more than "rectified bootleg" from which the government now receives a tax. At that one does not see many drunks on the streets, but drunken drivers of automobiles have increased at a terrifically smashing rate. Perhaps education in the use of liquor should be taught in the schools. Demonstrations of what alcohol does to the brain and body might do more for the cause of temperance than all the temperance societies and laws of the land have been able to do. In spite of all of the laws that have been enacted to put the liquor trade out of business and regardless of all the preaching against the evils of liquor there has always been a large number of people in the "white" countries who insist upon having their wines and liquors in greater or less quantities and who object to all interference with their "personal liberties" in this respect. The way in which the prohibition laws are enforced in the United States seems to have had the effect of making some people drink it who never drank before and of encouraging others to think up ways of violating and evading the liquor law and all other laws which forbade the doing of things that the law breaker wished to do. If people had any way of knowing about the chemical action of some of the foods and all of the liquors that they take into their interiors they might be more careful of their eating and more particular about their drinking. But the knowledge is not available to the great majority, so they are guided largely by what the advertisers say about their products and continue to eat, drink and be merry, satisfied with their knowledge that cocktails and similar concoctions make life seem brighter for the time being. If the morning after brings a headache, they reach for a tablet, maybe two tablets, or a glass of sizzling soda of seltzer, even a spoonful of Worcestershire sauce has been recommended in some cases.

I have noticed recently that the beer and liquor interests have embarked upon a campaign of education working upon the minds of the young people, and endeavoring to show them how beneficial the use of spirituous and malt liquors really are. The liquor interests are getting strong once more, and again they are beginning to pay heavy taxes. Maybe they won't allow the schools to have anything to say about the bad effects of their products upon the minds and bodies of our boys and girls.

If and when the schools do get to demonstrating the effects of alcoholic beverages, they might also undertake to show that good or bad effects of cigarette smoking. The tobacco companies, through their expensive advertising and lavish use of paid testimonials, make it seem that cigarettes are the best things ever for the nerves, even better than that famous vegetable compound that was first marketed in Lynn, Mass. My own experience with habitual cigarette smokers—those using two or more packages per day—has not been entirely satisfactory.

I have found them to be more or less unreliable; and when combined with the whisky habit, reliability is practically zero. A saloon keeper once said to me, "Boy, never depend upon a man who drinks much whiskey, and if he is a 'cig' smoker along with it, forget him." This man had a good opportunity to know what he was talking about. Harking back to the days before the world war, I recall that many employers looked unfavorably upon applications from men who smoked cigarettes even moderately. To those old captains of industry it indicated a weakness of character. Railroad officials were very much down on the habit. I remember one instance when I was connected with one of the big western roads: I was examining the time books of a "hardmaster" at one of the terminals in a western city. This man had quite a large force of switchmen under him. I noticed that over a period of months a good many men had been discharged and after the name of the discharged employee was penciled on the record the letters "C. F." What do those letters mean? I asked the yard master. "Cigarette Fiends," said he; "got no use for them and I send them on their way when I find it out. These 'cig' smokers cause too much trouble and smash up too much equipment through their carelessness so I keep 'em moving and those letters C F tell the story."

Some days ago I read a decision which was handed down in a court in the State of Tennessee and it would seem to disagree with the line of the tobacco companies. The court's opinion was as follows: "The Court will take judicial notice that cigarettes are wholly noxious and deleterious to health. Their use is always harmful and never beneficial. They possess no virtue but are inherently bad and bad only." Well, there has been a great change since the World War. Cigarette smoking got its big boost in that period of destructiveness which did more harm to the world than good, and for which the civilized world is now paying and will continue to pay and pay, some of the payments being in cigarette smoke and decreased energy of our young people.

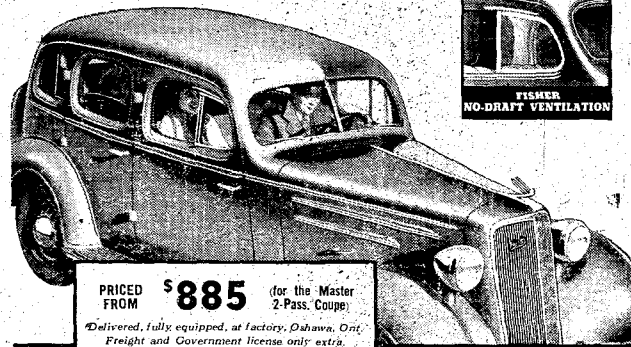

If the employment records of all business and civic institutions today required the tabulating of cigarette smokers there would have to be a special column on the payrolls for the letters C F for not only the male but a large proportion of the female help will be found carrying a package of cigarettes in their pockets. Hand bags, "No smoking during business hours" may be a rule of the shop or office but smoking in public lunch rooms, or street cars, side walks, parks and most anywhere is a habit now indulged in boldly by the grandmothers, mothers, daughters, aunts, and even, Mrs. Hippelwage's little dog, Panny, has been taught to puff a cigarette. Sure does make me laugh to see some of these females hand a cigarette—a cow with a musket could be as graceful. In Los Angeles one sees more girl smokers than boys. In a popular price restaurant today, out of approximately one hundred patrons, there were exactly twenty-three women smokers and eight men smokers—and the rest smoked not at all. To this the tobacco companies would probably say, out of that crowd at least thirty-one per cent knew what is good for them, and so—what?

To M. G. T.—a couple of tut, tut, right back at you. Be yourself, young lady—how should you know what I use for snoring and snoring? When I left N. S. years ago, I forsook the N. S. style of slumber clothes and from the time I landed in Boston I have gone in for pajamas, pyjamas, pyjamas—call 'em what you will, but preferable. I think to the N. S. style—not meaning Nova Scotia, of course. I would almost as soon sleep in the raw as to try to sleep in one of those N. S. kimono. My old college chum, Frank Dahlgren, claimed that he always slept in the raw—said it was healthy. But me, I am no nudist, even in this glorious California climate, where the boys run gaily all the day and far into the night. I find the Russian style of pajamas quite satisfactory: the tunic or jumper slips over your head, the collar buttons close around the neck—sort of military style—a belt around the waist, and trousers stay put with an elastic waist band; they come in black, blue, white or red—and sometimes they have a Russian eagle or maybe a cup of tea or something embroidered on the front of the jumper. They make a very nifty bed time uniform and quite "oké" if you are a sleep walker, but of no use whatever if you are given to talking in your sleep.

I almost forgot—I did wear one of those N. S. things after leaving N. S. It was down in Mexico. M. G. T. chose cook, mozo, wait and what else, and even, Mrs. Hippelwage's little dog, Panny, has been taught to puff a cigarette. Sure does make me laugh to see some of these females lodge and brought back a "Mexican night shirt," the only one in the shop.

It nearly cost me my life. Couldn't sleep in it, so got up and paraded around my bedroom and out on to the porch, in the bright moonlight. A Mexican watchman thought I was a ghost and took a shot at me. I missed me, and I vanished from his sight just as any other ghost might have done. And listen, this is no flimsy shirt tale, but a real happening, which further strengthened my liking for PJs—and so, I think you lose your bet.

HOW TO RELIEVE YOUR COLD
ALMOST AT ONCE

Follow Simple Directions Here
For Quick Relief

1. Take 2 Aspirin tablets.

2. Drink full glass of water.

Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and swallow 4 Aspirin tablets in a glass of water.

Results are amazing. Ache and distress go immediately. Because of Aspirin's quick-disintegrating property, Aspirin "takes hold"—almost instantly. Your cold is relieved "quick as you caught it."

All you do is take Aspirin and drink plenty of water. Do this every 2 to 4 hours the first day—less often afterward... If throat is sore, the Aspirin gargle will ease it in as little as 2 minutes.

Ask your doctor about this. And be sure you get ASPIRIN when you buy. It is made in Canada and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet. Aspirin is the trade mark of the Bayer Company, Limited.

1933. There is already considerable activity in getting the summer hotels in Digby and vicinity ready for the tourist season of 1935.

It is understood that no fewer than six conventions, ranging from two to five days duration, have been "booked" at the Pinta Hotel. Reservations are being made at other resorts, but, in these years' "travels" do not forget to take a degree of certainty, as to the "promise" of the summer business from the tourist viewpoint. Most of the visitors now are transients.

Hotel people, however, are basing their estimate on the increase of the winter tourist traffic to the southern states and the British West Indies. They figure that Digby in particular and Nova Scotia in general, can look forward to a similar increase this summer.

UNITED CHURCH BROTHERHOOD HOLDS LADIES' NIGHT

The men's Brotherhood of Grace United Church held their last supper meeting of the season at the Church Hall, Wednesday evening. At this gathering the ladies were guests. Following a delicious chowder supper, the business of the evening was transacted. This was followed by a most unique programme, of which one of the most unique features was the appearance of the Dionne quintuplets, in the persons of A. R. Turnbull, J. M. Wallis, Fred Turnbull, Roscoe Handparker and Stanley Spry, all "undressed" in long "nipples". Dr. W. R. Dickie took their temperatures with long sugar cane canes. Mrs. J. M. Wallis was nurse. Each of the "nipples" was provided with a bottle and nipple, and a prize was awarded to the one who emptied the bottle first. The prize went to "Yvonne" (Stanley Spry). The attendance was excellent, and for the Red's and the Blues was won by the Reds, who had the best attendance at every meeting.

The Digby Children's Aid Society acknowledges with thanks a donation of $100 from T. E. C. Lynch. This brings the total of donations and membership fees up to $24. The right of the Courier's campaign, conducted to avoid house to house canvassing, has been disappointing. The money asked for is for the benefit of the underprivileged and neglected children of Digby County—there can be spare anything for this noble "home mission" cause. Leave your contributions, large or small, at the Courier office. Make cheques payable to Dr. J. S. Timpany.

Mrs. W. S. Trask, Little River, announces the engagement of her granddaughter, Ardis Christine Cheney, to Jack William Townsend, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Townsend, of Woodville, Maine. The marriage is to take place this month.

DECISION IN CHURCH CASE RE-SERVED

In the Supreme Court chambers at Halifax, Monday, Mr. Justice Hall, presiding, the contentious problem relating to bequests totaling nearly $1,900 to the Methodist churches in Saint John and Centreville, Digby County, and that of Port Wadsworth, Annapolis County, came up for decision. The will in question was made by the late F. W. Thorne, Port Wadsworth, who died in 1919.

Harold A. Nichols, of Digby, representing the trustees of the will, gave a statement of facts which included the information that the will was made in 1917, and that Mr. Thorne died in August, 1919. Mrs. Thorne's death occurred in 1932. The question which arises is whether or not the churches shall take precedence over the remaining heirs, that is whether these bequests were vested at the time of his widow's death, or not. If so, the churches have no claim. A further complication results in the fact that the Methodist church, as such, no longer exists, having been merged in the United Church.

E. J. Theriault, of Digby, is acting for the churches, and Caldwell Stewart, of Annapolis Royal, is acting for the heirs of the will, of which there are some fourteen. Certain points were brought out by Solicitor Theriault, relative to the words "phrases used in the will, but Mr. Justice Hall pointed out that the will was obviously made without legal assistance, consequently no much stress could not be placed on construction. Decision was reserved.

The sewing circle of the Ladies' Hospital Aid met on Wednesday with Mrs. H. A. Nichols. Next Wednesday afternoon they will meet with Mrs. A. E. Dickson.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Collins and grandson Kingsley Ellis, who have been visiting their son, Donald, in Lunenburg, returned home on Saturday.

Since Saturday the department has answered four calls, all originating from chimney fires. CHURCH DIGNITARY VISITS THE COUNTY

His Excellency, the Most Reverend Andrus Cassius, archbishop of Leonopolis, apostolic delegate to Canada and Newfoundland, accompanied by his secretary, Rev. J. Rousseau, arrived here Saturday morning on the Princess Helen, from Saint John, and left immediately by car for Church Point.

They were met at the pier here by Rev. Dr. Legros, superior of Saint Anne's College. The address of the visitors was conveyed to Rev. Leo Murphy, of Annapolis Royal and Digby, and by other priests of the college and the Clare district of the county. The automobile in which the visitors were conveyed to Church Point was tastefully decorated with flowers, and a small cluster of Vatican flags on the radiator. His Excellency arrived at Saint John from Ottawa on Friday, and is now visiting the southwest portion of Nova Scotia, particularly at St. Anne's College, where he was received with due honor by the staff and students of that institution. While in the Maritimes he will visit Catholic educational institutions at Halifax, Antigonish, in Nova Scotia, and Bathurst, in New Brunswick. At the last college of St. Anne's a reception was given in the college immediately after his arrival. The address of welcome on behalf of the institution was given by Rev. Father Superior. Only former college students, together with the present students, were present at this ceremony. On Saturday evening a largely attended religious dramatic concert, staged by the students, was given in this honor. About 10 o'clock Sunday morning His Excellency presided at parochial mass in Church Point. In the evening he again presided at vespers in the college chapel.

Since the above was put in type the department has been again called out, this time at noon yesterday for a chimney fire in the residence of Jerry Surrette, near Warner's mill.

BIG FAMILY RENDERED HOMELESS BY FIRE

Ten persons were made homeless by a fire which totally destroyed the home of Mrs. John Amon, at Brighton, late yesterday afternoon. Embers from the burning building were carried by the heavy southwesterly wind, and ignited roofs of dwellings occupied by George Coleman, Mrs. George Nickerson and the unoccupied dwelling of "Ted" Smith. For some time the section of the village nearest Digby was in great danger.

The fire was discovered by young Joseph Amon, son of Mrs. Amon, who, on going upstairs about four o'clock found the attic a mass of flames. Within a few minutes the fire had possession of the whole building. Neighbors succeeded in removing most of the furnishings from the downstairs portion of the house, although most of the salvaged furniture was badly scorched. Nothing was saved from the upstairs, bedding and much of the clothing belonging to the ten members of the family was lost.

The origin of the fire is unknown but it is thought that it started from a defective chimney.

Last night neighbors sheltered the family. Mrs. Amon, who is badly broken up over her loss, is stopping at the home of Capt. Lorin Morrell.

A call was sent in from the residents of Brighton for the Digby fire apparatus, but owing to a town by-law, this piece of apparatus is not allowed to be taken outside of the town limits. Forest Ranger H. W. B. Warner, put the furnace number on good use, extinguishing the fires of the nearby buildings. This pump had only recently arrived at Barton, and had to be uncrated before being put into service.

The Spring Rummage Sale for the benefit of the V. O. N. will be held May 11, in Jack Rosenthal's antique shop near the A. R. station. Any desirable articles to be called for please ring 124.

At a special session of the County Court Tuesday, at which the review case of Harry Raymond vs. Harvey Barnes, over the sloop sloop Lena R. was on the docket, it was decided to hold the case over for the Supreme Court which meets here the fourth week of this month, Judge Lyvington presiding. The case was out of his jurisdiction.

NO SPILT MILK TO CRY ABOUT

Not many milk route drivers can back their trucks over a twenty-foot embankment without spilling a drop of milk or damaging their car, yet that is what happened at the Racquette here, Wednesday morning, when Larchie's milk truck, in turning near the residence of R. C. Smallie, backed a little too far and went over the embankment. Absolutely no damage was done.

MUNICIPALITY WINS APPEAL

Decision in the case of the Municipality of Digby vs. the Municipality of Annapolis, in the matter of the settlement of the Lewis-Gidney children—children and step-children of Jack Gidney, believed lost two years ago while crossing the Bay of Fundy in an open fishing boat—has been handed down by the Supreme Court on appeal, in favor of the Municipality of Digby, reversing the decision of County Court Judge, W. A. Livingston, who heard the case at a session of the County Court some months ago. Judge Livingston's decision was appealed and heard before the full bench.

This case came under the Child's Protection Act, both municipalities feeling there were grounds by which the settlement of the children, concerned was in the neighboring municipality, Gidney, who was crossing in his fishing boat from Saint John to Centreville, was never heard of after leaving Saint John.

In this matter the decision of the Supreme Court judges was given by Mr. Justice Hall, with Justices Chisholm, Graham and Carroll concurring. Justice Ross also concurred but on different grounds.

BOOKS

Some one once said: "Of the making of books there is no end," and this was never truer than during this age. There's a new book every minute.

But there are books and books some not worth reading, some worth but a few moments of one's time, some to be read only to keep up with the times, and a few to be placed on the shelf for reference.

A careful buyer of books loans them he doesn't want to keep and buys only those that he can read and use frequently. Such a buyer of books said to a friend who was admiring his small but well-selected library:

"That's my tool-chest—each and every book has its particular use in my profession just as have the tools in a carpenter's chest."

Men are known by the friends they have. Books are man's friends—if they are carefully chosen. If they are not carefully chosen they have no friendship worth possessing.

We are informed that when women add shorter skirts they reduced the number of street car and bus accidents by 50 per cent. Now wouldn't it be fine if we could prevent them altogether.

THE TOWN'S GREATEST NEED

What is the world's greatest need? Men and women who give to the town what it ought to have, with their accomplishments usually on a higher level than those of the average run of humanity, lift their fellows to a higher plane of living.

We were talking with a friend recently who shared our admiration for an outstanding man in a noble profession. We were discussing the man and his work, his genius and his achievements. Then we compared him with other men, and our friend remarked, calling that genius by name: "There are not very many men like him."

What a compliment and what a spur to duty, and how it suggests to us that the best work of our town is being performed by relatively few.

The greatest need of our town is of the kind of men and women who will do what should be done. We can talk about education, training, discipline, ideals, objectives and what not, but the plain fact remains that we need people who will deliver the goods, who will produce gratifying results, who will give the world what it has long been waiting for.

When all our pet theories have been expressed, our likes and dislikes, antipathies and prejudices have asserted themselves, we then know what we want, the actual, tangible, and gratifying results. We want the physician who understands our case and can make us well. We want the lawyer who will quickly give us the best advice. We can stay with the insurance agent who gives us service. We never tire of listening to the preacher who has something to say and sends us from his church a better man or woman, strengthened for the good fight.

We want the friend who is agreeable. We go back again and again to the retail store that meets our needs, whose management and staff of clerks tirelessly study us and strive to deliver what we ask for.

The world is greatly in need of more men and women who will admit that many in their field of activity are at least three jumps ahead of them, and, having admitted it, set themselves to the task of self-improvement, of enriching and bettering their entire output.

Far too many of us reach the place where we fail to recognize the importance of growing. We are content to slow down to a milder pace. The race is open to all, but only he who keeps pushing on will make a creditable showing.

How much the town—and the world—needs those who will give their best, who will work toward a great goal, who take so much pride in their task that every bit of work they turn out is a work of art, who are masters of detail but are not mechanical, who are creatures of method but not slaves of routine.

This town has many needs but none so acute as the need of those who will give the town the poise and power that are essential to make it a bigger and better—and more influential—community.

No matter how little the average man knows about operating his own business or running his own affairs, there are two things he is certain he can run perfectly—his government and his newspaper.

by

WHOOPIING-COUGH

Highly contagious at all times; highly dangerous for the child under three years of age and particularly so for the baby; is a fair description of whooping-cough.

Like several other complaints, whooping-cough starts as an ordinary cold, with running of the nose, a dry cough and a little fever. Instead of clearing up like a cold, however, the cough persists until it comes as a series of explosive coughs, ending up with a crowing sound, or whoop, as the child is at last able to draw in his breath.

The child is frightened by this experience. Vomiting frequently occurs, and between loss of food and loss of sleep, the little patient's weight and strength are apt to diminish. The younger the child is, the more serious is the condition.

In Canada, last year, there were 552 deaths from whooping-cough, and no less than 288 of these were of children under one year of age. In the case of older children, whooping-cough is uncomfortable and distressing, but it is seldom dangerous.

The responsible germ comes from the throat and bronchi of those who have the disease. The germ is thrown out in the mouth spray which accompanies coughs and sneezes. The patient is frequently too young to know that a handkerchief should be used to cover coughs and sneezes, and so he sprays his germs into the faces of those who are nearby.

A really practical difficulty in the control of whooping-cough arises out of the fact that, during the week or two when the child who is developing the disease but who apparently has nothing more than a common cold, the infection is being spread to those with whom he comes into contact.

It is obvious that if it is the young child and, above all other, the baby who must be protected. This means that no one who has a cough or cold should come near the child, and that no coughing youngster or sneezing relative should be allowed to hang over baby's crib or cradle.

The child with whooping-cough requires an abundance of fresh air and sunshine. Most deaths occur because a pneumonia develops; the whooping-cough seems to make the lungs ready victims for further disease, such as pneumonia. For some unknown reason, females suffer more frequently than males. One attack usually confers immunity for life.

There is lack of unanimity concerning the value of whooping-cough vaccine as a preventive measure. Some authorities have had good results; others have not. This is something to talk over with your family doctor, but in the meantime, keep your young child away from those who have colds, remembering that what appears to be a cold may be the onset of whooping-cough or measles.

Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Many people in Yarmouth and Digby Counties will be interested to hear that T. C. Glennie, of Oxford, who has extensive lumber interests in both Counties, has won his appeal in the Supreme Court of Canada in the Suit which was originally brought against Mr. Glennie by the holding corporation of McDougall and Cowans, bankrupt Stockbrokers of Halifax. A total sum of $148,484 was involved and for which the holding corporation sued Mr. Glennie. Mr. Justice Hugh Ross gave judgment for Mr. Glennie in the Supreme Court at Halifax, after a jury had found the brokers caused him to lose $148,000 or more and that their advice was not given in good faith. From this finding the full bench of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court which allowed the appeal and which later found Mr. Glennie appealed to the higher Court at Ottawa with judgment in his favor.

Mrs. Mar. E. Melanson

Many friends will learn with regret of the recent passing of Mrs. Mary E. Melanson, widow of the late Theophilus E. Melanson, who predeceased her 20 years ago.

Deceased, who had been in failing health for the past five years, was born in Marshalltown, Digby County, 73 years ago.

She was a well esteemed resident of Weymouth Mills, having lived there for the past fifty-five years. She leaves to mourn their loss, six daughters and four sons: Mrs. Harry Webster, Coatesville, Pa.; Mrs. Edward McNaught, West Orange, N. J.; Miss Mabel Melanson, at home; Mrs. W. J. BOSTON TAR BABY HAS HIS SIGHT RESTORED

They took the bandages off Sam Langford's right eye on Wednesday last week, and for the first time in five years the one-time terror of the ring saw the world about him. The dusky brawler, they called the "Boston Tar Baby", though he came from Weymouth, couldn't find words to express his feelings. He just lay on his back in the Neurologist's hospital repeating, "It's wonderful—just wonderful."

"Some one asked the old fighter if he could see well enough to kick a pass." "Just lower that shade a little and come on," he drawled like a delighted school boy; "I'll try to make it."

"I can see as good as when I was champion of Mexico. I can recognize people now. I went down to Mex in 1922 with this here left eye completely gone and the right just seeing shadows. It was a cataract. They matched me up with Kid Savage for the title. I was blinding through that I could see but I gave myself away. They bet awful heavy on the kid way, the word got round. I just felt my way around and then, wham, I got home. He forgot to shade so I was heavy weight champ of Mexico."

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SERVICE CLUB TAKE CHARGE OF SERVICE

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. M. R. Ewing, who was out of town for the week end, four members of the Young People's Service Club of the Heart Memorial United Church of Canada, Weymouth, motored to Barton on Sunday evening, where they took charge of the Church service at the United Church at that place.

G. R. Pierce, president of the society, conducted the service. Prayers were given by Miss Clara Hankinson; and two stories, "The Two-Second" and "The Resurrection of the House", were given by Miss Kathleen FitzGerald and Mrs. M. R. Ewing. Appropriate music consisting of two anthems by the full choir and a solo by Fred Grant, were rendered by the choir of the Barton Church in a very pleasing manner. Miss Olga VanBlarcom being organist and choir director.

The Primary Department of the Weymouth School is closed this week owing to the illness of the teacher, Miss Clara Hankinson.

Rev. and Mrs. M. R. Ewing, the Misses Mary Anderson and Kathleen FitzGerald and Messrs. Scott Hankinson, Oliver Gibson and Gaius Fries, motored to Digby on Tuesday evening to attend the Inter-Society Convention, Contest of the Young People's Societies of the United Church.

Hither and Yon with G.R.T.

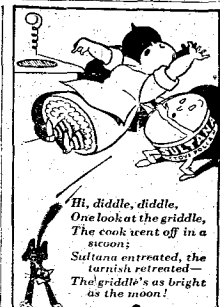

Here I am, out in the country, sitting on a log by the roadside, and resting from a two-mile hike. Ran out of gas on a quiet country road and no service stations in sight, although up to the minute, I would have sworn that here in California there is a gasoline station for every mile of highway and byway. And I guess maybe, I wouldn't be so far off if they were located that way instead of in group formation. For it seems if some enterprising tinker tailor or candlestick maker put in a couple of gasoline pumps in connection with his business and gets any business at all from the motoring public, he will soon find that he has two or three competitors across the road from him, bidding for the gasoline trade, with the result that none of them make any money, but perhaps get a thrill out of the notion that they are in business. Maybe it's the herd instinct that makes them gang up that way.

My! But the country still looks green and beautiful. Heavy rains last week brought joy to the hearts of the barley growers. The brewers are buying barley once more and the crop this year will very likely be a large one. It's orange blossom time also, and out here among the groves the air is heavy with the perfume of the blooms—almost intoxicating. What are you paying per dozen for lemons, now? Lemon groves are still full of unpickered and tree-ripened fruit and storage cellars of the packing houses are filled with carloads—ready for shipment, and on our market for them. Recent returns from Eastern markets show that lemons have been selling in New York as low as $1.82 a box. It costs $2.43 to grow, pick, pack and sell a box of lemons FOB citrus in California. Top many lemons this year! Same way when there are too many eggs, too many apples, cucumbers and parsnips. Over production brings the price down every time. Over production, plus a state of mind called over-optimism, brought on that headache that some call "the depression."

Out toward the foothills where the grapes are still high and green I can see thousands of sheep feeding and I'll bet they are being rapidly turned into fat mutton. Flock masters have moved their herds in from winter ranges over on the Nevada and Arizona desert to the green pastures of Southern California. It's shearing time, also, and time for the plaintive bleating of young lambs.

Tomorrow ("Palm Sunday"), and then only a week 'till Easter, and they have passed before you read this. I hoped you tuned in your radio on the Easter Sunrise service at the Hollywood Bowl. If so you probably heard a symphony by the mocking birds and larks in addition to the beautiful vocal and instrumental selections by Los Angeles best singers and musicians. Thousands attend the Hollywood services in that great open air theatre, which has a seating capacity of about 30,000. But those who want to be sure of seats start going along about midnight, taking a blanket with them in addition to their heavy wraps, for it is a cold spot out there in the hills so early in the morning. Last year I got out there about four o'clock and found the place packed, with standing room only on the hill sides. So there was nothing to do but stand around waiting for the sun to show itself over the mountain top and when the time came the sky was cloudy and foggy that the sun could not be seen at all.

Our forty days of Lent will soon be over and breakfasts of salt hake and boiled potatoes will give way to pork sausage and french fries. This season I surely will have to eat less of the latter. The California Pacific International Exposition, Yamouth bloaters, finnan haddie a la Westport, Labrador herring and some mighty fine scallops, probably from Digby. The restaurant man couldn't say where the scallops came from so I asked Tony, who runs a fish stall in the Central Market, if they came from Nova Scotia. I know they are not found on the Pacific coast. But Tony looked at me with a fishy eye and said, "Dunno, Boss, where come from and where'll they eat Nova Scotia place any way down Mobile? or maybe West Indy?" "Boy!" said I, "you should take up stamp collecting as a hobby; it will improve your geography wonderfully." "But, boss, already I got a hobby. I'm a coin collector," said Tony, and from a corner of a lobster crate he produced an oyster can filled with old silver and copper coins which he spread out on the counter for my inspection. "Meester, just look at these monies, from every country in the world. Some collection, No?" "Yes," said I, "it's a mighty good collection but here are a couple of coins that you do not have." And I dug up from the section of my trousers pocket a Nova Scotia penny and a half penny token each bearing the date of 1832. "Holy mackerel and leaping dog fish—Nova Scotia again!" said Tony. "Say, meester, I trade you a couple lobsters for 'em, no?" "No, Tony, I'm trading them for anything," said I. "Lobsters are forty cents pound to day; might fine and fresh; what say? You trade?" he asked coaxingly. "Nothing doing, old chap," said I. "I wouldn't trade them for a gallon of gold fish and a mess of mountain trout to boot—and that's going some! For mountain trout is my personal weakness. And as I started toward the street Tony called after me. "Mebbe you can take a nice fat shad for them two coppers, eh?" "Get behind me, Satan, I'm beginning to weaken," said I; "you'll be throwing in two lobsters of eye bread and a hunk of smoked salmon next, and I am in no state of mind to withstand such temptation." No? I went my way, then, and my two copper coins made in Nova Scotia in 1832, and believing that the scallops served in Los Angeles restaurants came from Digby, packed in ice and shipped by express, might as well eat them.

This is the season for "Beck" beer. Beck beer is a season beer in aging value for one year, and is usually released about Easter time. It is dark in color, heavy and foamy; too much of it will make you careless about your driving, and earn for you one of those checkers bearing two words, "Traffic Violator," which must be attached to the windshield of the violator's car for sixty to ninety days. This is a decoration handed out by the Los Angeles police corps along with whatever cash fine the case merits. The police department and the State motor officers have been warring relentlessly war upon reckless drivers for the past two months and as a result the jails throughout the city, county and state have had a big increase in business. Maybe the old whippersnapper will have to put into use again to curb the reckless driving menace. The California Pacific International Exposition, which opens in San Diego, next month, is expected to bring about three million visitors and a half million extra automobiles to the State this summer. The highways from Los Angeles to San Diego are wide and roomy and smooth; there should not be many accidents, but what a few crazy drivers can do in heavy traffic is something to make one gasp for breath and wish he had taken the train.

Five little birch trees up the street from where I live are all a-leaf with a bright green foliage. The owner says these trees are twenty-five years old, but they are not much larger than a thrifty plum tree. Birches do not seem to do very well in this warm climate. They shed their leaves in the fall and grow new ones again in the spring as their Canadian ancestors have always done, but otherwise they are slim and scrawny and appear to be sickly. I do not think that they will ever grow to the size of those old birches that we Nova Scotians know so well—birches whose bark made splendid sheathing for the canoe of the Indian and wall for his wigwam, and when cut down by the white man and dragged to his saw mill made splendid lengths of square timbers. Perhaps I am a bit unfair to these California youngsters of 25 years; they may belong to that group where twenty-five years is but a day in nature's scheme of things, and who knows but those stately birches that man cut up with Canadian lumber and fire wood were the product of hundreds of years of growth.

Sorry to hear about poor old Sam Langford and his affliction. "Sam" was a great favorite with the fight fans of the Pacific coast and the sports writers on the Los Angeles and San Francisco newspapers, even today, like to tell their readers about the way he once slammed Jack Johnson around the ring in Los Angeles. Johnson admitted that Sam was the "hittiest" man that he ever did meet, and never would sign up for another match with him. Too bad that Sam did not get a day in nature's scheme of things, and who knows but those stately birches that man cut up with Canadian lumber and fire wood were the product of hundreds of years of growth.

OUT OF THE SKY

Comes a New Service to Maritime Housewives—The Cooking Service of the Air.

The Cooking School of the Air is an answer to the old, old plaint: "What shall I get for lunch, for dinner, for supper?"

Here are new recipes, menu suggestions and food lists wafted into your home at 10 o'clock every weekday morning, just when you need them to settle your Daily Food problems.

In the Maritimes, in spite of vastly improved food service, many out of season articles are often unobtainable. Maritime housewives are consequently keenly interested when a certain food is at its best, most plentiful and consequently, cheapest. The aim of the Cooking School of the Air is to send its scouts out spying in the wholesale markets to find the foods that are the best buys of the day. Around these food menus and the recipes with built-in hints, the result that housewives who follow the suggestions given by the School will be serving meals that are easy to eat, easy to cook and easy to pay for. An ideal combination. In fact, we expect that Maritime housewives will be among the greatest boosters for this new service out of the air.

The G. E. Barbour Company, the Enterprise Foundry and the Robin Hood Flour Mills are sponsoring this programme which will be heard over CPNB, 10 to 10.15 every week day morning from Fredericton, New Brunswick, during the month of May.

You'll get a lot of pleasure and plenty of useful information if you listen in to this new service for Maritime housewives—The Cooking School of the Air!

OUR NATIONAL ANTHEM

The approaching celebration of the King's Silver Jubilee has raised, not for the first time, a chorus of complaint against our unhappy National Anthem, which, it is assumed, will be endlessly sung during the festivities. Most National Anthems lend themselves to criticism, either on the score of the words or the music, but it is chiefly on account of the undeniably atrocious second stanza that "God Save the King" is attacked. Yet it is doubtful whether many people could repeat the lines of it, strong verse off-hand. Everyone is content with knowing the first verse, which can be sung without a trace of compunction.

As for the tune, no musical composition has had to stand here from composers, arrangers and adapters. Beethoven wrote variations, besides introducing it into his Battle Symphony. Weber, too, put it to various uses, and Samuel Sebastian Wesley, nephew of the great John, and an eminent musician in his day, even made a fiasco of it.

Many substitutes have been suggested for that unfortunate second stanza, with its bellicose appeal to the Deity to scatter the King's enemies, and make them fall, but perhaps the wittiest was that of Mr. A. A. Milne, who proposed:

O Lord, our God, arise,
Guard our securities;
Don't let them fall,
Scatter all party hacks
(Save those my party backs)
And make the income tax Optional.

The single word last line is a masterpiece of successful parody.

Old Well to be Uncovered

It is said that very soon after the arrival of the first group of United Empire Loyalists at Digby (then known as Conway) Rear Admiral the Honorable Robert Digby, who, in his flagship the Albatross, supervised the transporting of the colonists, who left New York sometime in May 1783, arriving here on the first day of June, of the same year, ordered a well dug for the purpose of supplying water to the new settlement, and to provide water for the transport ships in the Basin.

The well was supposed to be on the plot of land at the head of the government pier known as the "cannon bank". Long ago it was filled in, and except to "old timers" its whereabouts of the so called Admiral Digby Well was unknown to the citizens of Digby.

A few years ago, while laying the Digby sewer, workmen uncovered several sections of the old pipe which townfolk claimed ran from the old well to the waterfront. The ancient pipe, as sturdy as the day it was buried in the ground, was a series of hollow logs, connected by their butts and tips dovetailing into one another.

Last Fall the matter of the Admiral Digby Well was brought up at one of the weekly luncheons of the Digby Kiwanis Club, who referred the matter to the Digby Board of Trade, who, in turn, petitioned the Town Council to take up the matter of uncovering and marking the ancient well, and beautifying the grounds of the Cannon Bank, with the officials of the Dominion Atlantic Railway, this company having acquired the land a number of years ago.

Last week Mr. MacQuarrie, of the D. A. R., with the help of H. H. Sydes, of Digby, succeeded on their first attempt at locating the old well, which is on the Cannon Bank, near the corner of Prince William Street and Maiden Lane. It is understood that the old well will be marked as one of Digby's historical points of interest, and, eventually, the Cannon Bank will be converted into a park or playground, in fact it is intimated that some work in this connection will be done this year by the Dominion Atlantic Railway, that the grounds will be cleaned up and flower beds set out. For years the ground has been used for drying fish.

Another suggestion is that the town take immediate steps to co-operate by having some of the more beautiful advertising signs removed from that vicinity and that both the town and railway get together in beautifying the walk between the head of the pier where the Princess, Helene docks on her daily trips from Saint John, and the station. The Cannon Bank is located immediately at the head of the pier. After the arrival of the Loyalists from New York in June 1783, they petitioned the government to change the name of the township from Conway to Digby in honor of Admiral Digby, who supervised their transportation.

THE STRENUOUS LIFE

Too many of us, perhaps, are apt to look upon the men who represent us in our governments and legislative halls as men living a life of ease. This is a great fallacy, says an English exchange. It was Stanley Baldwin, Great Britain's outstanding statesman, who told members of the Parliamentary press gallery the other day that he looked forward to the day when he might leave the House, and he added that he expected to look ten years younger a year or two after he had been away. He further confessed that when he escaped from the Parliamentary chamber it was always with relief.

Making a plea for loyalty to the parliamentary system, the veteran British statesman said: "I think you all realize that no one cares less for criticism than I do. It is not complacency and it is not conceit. I am peculiarly susceptible to criticism from my friends or from people I respect, but a good deal of the amount of criticism to which I have been subject leaves me absolutely stone cold. But I do resent criticism of a kind that you see in a small section of the press about Parliament. We must recognize that any organ of public opinion that belittles the work of parliament, that treats parliament as of no account, that treats statesmen as either fools or incapable or dishonest, can do no good and may do an infinity of harm. The very kind of men who indulging in that criticism are the first who would squelch if Parliament went."

Mr. Baldwin referred to deductions which have been made from what he said at the Junior Imperial League meeting a short time ago. "I made some observations about my age," he said, "and that I would not long continue in public life. That I saw in some quarters the tendency as to my imminent retirement. This is putting too fine a point upon it. But I was impelled to make those remarks because a fortnight ago an old friend of mine from the country, a year older than I came to stay with me, and he told me that only the other day in Herefordshire he met a farmer, a contemporary of his, who said, 'We are both of us suffering from the same thing. We have been about a bit too long.' I felt that it was really under the shadow of that observation that I felt it was time that I gave notice that I could not go on forever doing the arduous work I am doing now."

In his observations Mr. Baldwin has expressed the feelings and experience of many men in public life. In Canada our own Prime Minister Bennet is an illustration. Mr. Bennett might well be enjoying a life of ease. But he is not so constituted. He prefers a life of service to his country and to his country he has given much. In the strenuous life he has led while guiding the ship of state in the last five years, he has some what impaired his health, which is a matter of regret and concern to his fellow-Canadians. But there is good reason to believe, as he himself expresses it, that he will return from representing Canada at the King's Silver Jubilee with restored vigor and fit to resume his place in parliament.

Silver Jubilee Fittingly Observed in Digby

May 6th, 1935—the day set aside to mark the 25th anniversary of the reign of their most gracious majesties, King George V and Queen Mary—is a day that will long be remembered in Digby, and throughout the vast British Empire. On this day Digby did her part in celebrating with the rest of the Empire the silver jubilee of their majesties.

Early Monday morning streets, business houses, private residences, and public buildings were beautifully bedecked with bunting. The dull weather of the early hours cleared as the day wore on.

The most impressive part of Digby's programme was the beautiful service at Holy Trinity church. The large edifice was taxed to its capacity and in order to accommodate the crowds who wished to take this means of paying homage to their majesties, chairs had to be placed in the church aisles.

Before the church service at eleven o'clock, a parade, headed by the Digby Civic Band, formed in front of the Town Hall. This lengthy parade was made up of the band, the war veterans, the fire department, the town council, the boy scouts, girl guides and school children.

The service at Holy Trinity was opened by the Rev. A. E. Gabriel, Rev. T. W. Hodgson, pastor of Grace United Church, led in the responsive reading; Capt. A. Selva, of the Salvation Army, read the Scripture lessons, and a splendid address was given by the rector.

Following the address Town Clerk Alfred Boden announced the medals which were presented with the King's Silver medals in recognition of services they have rendered their community. They were as follows: H. B. Short, M. P. for Digby-Annapolis; Mrs. Short.

Miss C. A. Campbell, for eleven years superintendent of the Digby General Hospital.

Miss A. Doucette, of Comeauville for 28 years president of the Digby Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Mrs. Charlotte G. Sturgeon, Victorian Order Nurse.

Gerald E. Syda, for distinguished service overseas.

Ralph O. Wright, king scout and junior forest ranger.

The medals and letters were presented by His Worship the Mayor.

Following the presentation of the medals, Rev. F. E. Bishop, pastor of the Digby Baptist church, conducted the closing exercises of the service. The parade then re-formed and marched to the soldiers' memorial where they were dismissed after a brief talk by H. B. Short, M. P.

In the afternoon the school children were the town's guests at a special matinee at the Bijou Theatre, where an appropriate address was given and patriotic songs sung.

The Digby Civic Band, under the direction of Paul Yates gave a concert at the band stand during the evening.

A huge bonfire was lighted on the beach where there was also a display of fireworks. Over the hill, another bonfire to serve as a beacon, was also lighted. At Point Prim there was also another beacon fire, in charge of O. Wright. It was intended that this fire should act as a beacon for Saint John; however, the Saint John Telegraph-Journal on Tuesday stated that, owing to unfavorable atmospheric conditions, it was impossible to "pick up" the Digby beacon in that city.

Another of the features of the day in Digby was the setting out of some thirty trees along the principal streets of the town.

SESSION MAY EXTEND ANOTHER WEEK

Time worried legislators in Province House this week as a session, expected to last only four or five weeks, threatened to stretch into another seven days for a new record. Premier Macdonald expressed a desire to have the House prorogue today. Hon. G. S. Harrington, leader of the opposition, concurred, making the reservation of a few days so that though business should be expedited, full consideration must be given public matters.

Highways estimates totalling nearly $4,000,000 remain to be voted. The Public Works and Mines Department must get the right to spend nearly $900,000 and both are considered fraught with possibilities of sharp cross-fire, as both sums must be borrowed. Four or five bills, mostly of a minor nature, also must go through several stages before ready for royal assent.

BERNARD HAYES ADDRESSES KIWANIS

Tuesday was memorable day in the history of the Kiwanis Club of Digby, who, at their luncheon, on board the Princess Helene, listened to a stirring address from Bernard Hayes, the oldest resident of the town of Digby—for more than thirty years a school teacher, and for the past forty years the town's Stipendiary Magistrate, which office he still holds. Mr. Hayes, who, Wednesday celebrated his 94th birthday, was also, so a dry goods merchant here for many years.

The subject of his address Tuesday was "The Culture of Loyalty." He opened his remarks with a reference to the cultivation of the Cannon Bank as a park and point of historical interest, and went on to say that we are living in a day of cultivation and improvement in all things.

The aged young gentleman paid special tribute to their Majesties, and stated that with the exception of Victoria the Great King George V was the most estimable monarch who ever sat on the British throne.

He made reference to the declaration of Canadian Statesmen, who, he said, claimed, that, although Canada is a part of the British Empire, Canada would not take part in another war. Similar declarations he said, have been made by Australian statesmen and from other parts of the British Empire. Such declarations, Mr. Hayes said, are foolish. If Great Britain goes to war, Canada is in it. We in Canada are doing little or nothing in the way of protection from an invasion—our protection is given us by Great Britain, and in case of a war in which the "old country" was involved, he could not see how Canada could avoid the fray.

Mr. Hayes, who stood as "straight as a ramrod" while delivering his address, neither did he require references.

At this luncheon he was presented with a birthday cake by the members of the Digby Kiwanis Club. The cake was passed to the members and guests, in order, as Mr. Hayes put it, "to do justice to it," and what was left he presented to Miss C. A. Campbell, to be divided among the nurses on the staff of the Digby General Hospital.

Among the guests at this luncheon were the Digby Jubilee medalists who were able to attend. They were Miss C. A. Campbell, superintendent of the Digby General Hospital; Ex-Sergeant Gerald E. Syda; Rev. F. E. Bishop, president of the Holy Trinity Branch of the V. O. N.; and King Scout and Junior Forest Ranger, Ralph Wright. Gerald Syda thanked the Kiwanians in behalf of the medalists. Rev. J. S. Timpany, M. D., retired medical missionary to India, and son-in-law of Mr. Hayes, was also present.

Municipal Council Holding Semi-Annual Session

The Digby Municipal Council met in its semi-annual session at the Court House on Tuesday afternoon, with Warden J. Van Andrews, presiding. Other councillors present were: William Woodman, Smith's Cove; Amos Hill, Weymouth; North E. B. Hodgson, Weymouth; Samuel Woodman, Conway; Guy Dunn, Culoden; Clarence Cornwell, Rossway; Blanchard Morrell, Freeport; Daniel B. Kenney, Westport; Harvey Chisholm, Hillsburgh; and Henry W. Cosaboon, Centreville. Councillor Allhouse, of Tiverton, was the only absentee.

In his opening address the warden thanked the councillors for their co-operation in the jubilee celebration. He also discussed municipal business as it has been conducted since the council met in January. He felt that conditions regarding employment throughout the municipality were better during the past winter than they have been for some time, but, at the present time, he declared, employment was at a low ebb, and he considered conditions worse than they were last year at this time.

During the first afternoon's session Councillor Dunn gave notice of a motion to reconsider the council's resolution passed last January in which they instructed the solicitor to take whatever means necessary to collect the "fall bill" from the town of Digby. This bill, involving a matter of some $168, was contracted in 1931 when the then chief of police placed transcripts from time to time in the county jail. The town has always maintained that the matter was one of joint expenditure, while the municipal council has held the belief that the town should pay the whole bill. Councillor Dunn's motion was put and passed on Wednesday, and as a result this matter, which threatened to come before the courts has been settled to the satisfaction of all parties concerned.

On Wednesday morning the tenders for the positions of keeper and matron of the County Almshouse were opened and considered by the whole council. It was decided, however, to make no appointments until after the council's annual inspection of the Almshouse. The Courier's reporter was given to understand, from an unofficial source, but nevertheless from one whom he considers good authority, that the council while on their inspection tour, will try to persuade Keeper and Mrs. Balser to reconsider their resignation. The inspection was made yesterday afternoon, but at the time of going to press we are unable to give the result of the interview.

Social welfare conditions as they affect the municipality were the chief subject of discussion at Wednesday's session. This discussion was chiefly in regards to bills from hospitals and similar institutions which have to be paid by the Municipality. These amounts are increasing year after year and the burden to this and all Municipalities is fast becoming a staggering one. Municipal Councillors felt that if the Municipality is forced to meet these bills the time is not far off when it will be impossible to finance for regular operating expenses.

Resolutions passed at this session include one relating to poor cases from the Municipality in the Nova Scotia Sanatorium at Kentville, in which the Municipality of Digby asks the Provincial Government to take charge of all these cases on account of the increasing cost to the Municipality, which is now compelled to pay the cost of board, care and maintenance of such patients confined to this institution. Such costs are becoming a burden to the Municipality.

The Clerk was instructed to send copies of the resolution to the Provincial Government and to all Municipalities.

The resolution recently passed by the Municipal Council of Lunenburg, which asks for the repeal of Section 4, paragraphs 1 and 3 of Chapter 6 of the Acts of 1933, respecting the collection of hospital bills coming under this act, was also passed by the Digby Municipal Council. This resolution asks that these bills be collected by the Provincial Government.

Visitors in Digby on Wednesday included Newman and Lauriston Small, of Tiverton, accompanied by Misses Helena Joyce and Marie Small.

GETTING GOLF COURSE IN CONDITION

The 18-hole Pines Hotel golf course has withstood the rigours of the past winter splendidly, according to reports from workmen who commenced last week to put the splendid course in condition for the coming season. Tees and greens are being repaired and rolled; and in a short time it will be necessary to mow the grass, which appears to be thriving.

Last year this course was the scene of most of the major golf tournaments held in the Maritime provinces. These tournaments included both the Maritime Senior and Maritime Men's Open Championship matches, and the Nova Scotia Women's and Nova Scotia Open Championship tournaments. This summer as far as can be learned the Women's tournament is the only one that will be played over this course, which is considered as one of the finest on the North American continent.

DUE CARE

It will not be long before our highways and byways become alive with automobile traffic, and the perils to which both pedestrian and driver are exposed will assume peak proportions. To safeguard against the ever-increasing toll of accidents every one is asked to use "due care," but what care is "due" in these days of motoring as a business, a pleasure, or (occasionally) a mania?

It may be hard to define "care" but it is not hard to see that "care" should be proportionate to peril. Admittedly the peril is very great. Is the "care" shown by the driver and pedestrian in confronting it, equally great? Is it careful for a pedestrian to step off the pavement and turn to descending traffic, and then to march or leap ahead with an air of sublime indifference, implying that "care," if it is to be taken by anybody, must be taken by the car driver? If it is careful to chatter, hob-nob, dance and dream in mid-street? It is not, but that is what pedestrians continually do.

Motorists, too, do crazy things. But, since it is only too well known that there is craziness about "due care" is a phrase that can be applied only to those who recognize danger; never to those who behave with an amount of caution that would be appropriate to a lonely camel crossing a desert. While the car owner may feel that the adults should look out for themselves, there is the child who plays in the streets—young, impulsive, who fails to recognize danger and "care." The car owner must not only act, but think for these children, and in this connection may it be suggested that all car owners commit the following to memory:

"When I am driving on the street, where little folks I'm apt to meet, Who dash across the street to play I hope I'll drive in just the way That I would drive if mine were there Upon that crowded thoroughfare."

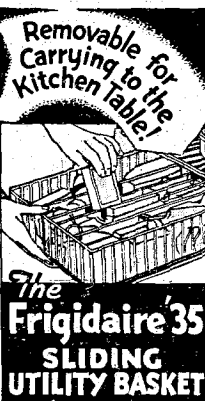

The stork doesn't merely visit some homes; it seems to live there.

BRITISH FREEDOM OF SPEECH

In Winnipeg the other day an alderman declared at the city council that he didn't believe in the monarchical form of government, and this remark led the Winnipeg Tribune, while conceding the alderman's right to make such a statement, that he "must be accounted lucky to have expressed it in a British country." Something distinctly unpleasant would have befallen him, it says, had he remarked on an official occasion in Moscow that he didn't believe in the Soviet system, or if in Berlin he had expressed opposition to the Nazi regime. Indeed he might now be among the missing.

It is sometimes said that too much latitude is given to radicals to publicly express their views in denunciation of British laws and the British constitution, but it must be remembered that freedom of speech and freedom of action so long as they do not run counter to the well-being of the state and do not trespass upon the liberties of the people are the glorious heritages vouchsafed to all who are privileged to have the protection of the British flag.

The British system of government, which the Winnipeg alderman disapproves, gives him complete freedom to denounce that system, and also the right to overthrow it if he can convince the majority of his fellow voters that he has something better to put in its place. It permits him to stand in his place in an official building over

The Union Jack floats and declares his faith, and while some people might question his good taste, it simply would not occur to anybody that he should be suppressed, except through the ballot box.

And this British way, as the Ottawa Journal comments, is a good way, a tried and tested and proved way. Opinion cannot be suppressed—but it may be driven underground and into dangerous channels. It is the great weakness of the dictators that they cannot stand criticism. They are based frankly on force and there is no place for an honest public opinion. But in the British plan the will of the people is the foundation stone, and there is room in the structure for those who think other fields look greener.

There is far too much of the sentiment in this country expressed by a relief case: "Why should I worry? The government will see that I share with the thrifty ones who work and save."

WHAT FOR?

When directed to do something, a little child visiting in town invariably asked, "What for?" At first the question was annoying, but after a while it suggested: "The child is father of the man."

Millions of grown-ups ask that same question. Some don't want to be "bossed," some think they know more than the one giving the order, and some are so independent they will not do as they are told though they know "what for" without asking.

From childhood to old age there's an undertone of defiance to that question which tends to eliminate the one who asks it from the confidence of the other fellow, with the result that there is delay if not obstruction of combined efforts.

Whereas if the question were not asked, the chance is that it would answer itself before combined efforts finished the job. Josh Billings classed "what for" people with balky mules.

If this depression lasts about one more year we shall be reduced to the position where we are only three times better off than were our grandfathers, a half century ago.

CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA

Robert L. Ripley, of the "Believe It or Not" cartoons described the awful conditions of modern Russia in a radio talk which was recently released by the New York Herald-Tribune. We are constrained to reproduce it because we heard a well known citizen of Digby a short time ago, strongly urging that Russia was the freest country in the world and that the men who lived in this d—d country when he was able to get out, was a fool. Ripley, who made a tour of Russia a year ago, charges the Soviet government with causing the deaths of 4,000,000 peasants by starvation in the Ukraine and North Caucasus, in 1932, by robbing the farmers of their grain in order to sell it in foreign countries and acquire foreign currency.

"No worse punishment," Ripley said, "could be inflicted on many communistic crackpots shouting through this country of ours than to exile them to Russia—the 'communist Paradise'—and make them live under the system they preach." Mr. Ripley said that he had no food the first two days after crossing the Russian border from Persia. The average salary of a working man in Russia, he said, was about 150 roubles a month, from which the following deductions were compulsory: Twenty-two roubles to the government, 15 roubles for assessments, and taxes, 2 roubles for union dues and 25 roubles for rent.

From the balance of 80 roubles, Mr. Ripley said, the Russian must buy food and clothing at the following prices, as reported he said in a recent edition of the Moscow "Evening Gazette."

Thirty roubles for a shirt, 175 roubles for a suit, 15 roubles for women's cotton stockings, 20 roubles for a pound of butter, 2½ roubles for a quart of milk, 1½ roubles for a loaf of bread, 10 roubles for a dozen of eggs, and five roubles for a pound of rice.

The communists, delight in appealing to the unemployed in America by telling them there is no unemployed in Russia, Mr. Ripley said.

"Believe it or not, neither are there any unemployed in a penitentiary."

Everybody in Russia is a prisoner of the government. The working man has no choice about his work, or where he lives, or how much he is paid. He has no religion, no home life, and no privacy.

He has utterly no freedom of speech. You might remember this next time you hear one of our many soapbox orators spouting forth, and bear in mind that if he attempted to open his mouth in communist Russia, he would wake up to find himself either dead or on his way to Siberia.

His freedom of movement is denied him. He can't go from one village to another. He can't quit his job or even take a day off. Without warning he is able to be arrested, torn from his family, herded into a freight car and sent thousands of miles away, where he is forced to labor under inhuman conditions in some concentration camp of Northern Russia.

Even death does not set him free. In case of death the clothing and shoes are removed from the body. Even the teeth are extracted, and any gold or silver fillings are melted down and confiscated by the government.

Mr. Ripley added that a dissatisfied worker may try to leave the country, but is shot if he is caught. Even if the worker escapes, he said, and crosses the border successfully his family is exiled to Siberia.

"Never under the old czarist regime were they as miserable and oppressed as they are now," he said. A thousand times more people are being exiled to the frozen wastes of Siberia today than at any time under the czarist rule.

In 1932 for example the red army moved into the Ukraine and loaded 80,000 families into freight cars and sent them to far off Yakutsk, in Eastern Siberia, where they were literally dumped out on the ice in a country where the thermometer seldom rises above zero. Out of the 80,000 families (a total of about 300,000 people) it is estimated today that not more than 5,000 remain alive."

If your luck isn't what it should be, try putting a "p" in front of it.

Temperance Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

COMMON CAUSE OF INEFFICIENCY

"What is the commonest cause of inefficiency?" That is a pretty good question to ask, concerning both the individual and the nation. Certainly it ought to be asked, and asked by any and every person who may have his own and others' interest at heart. Here is the answer given to the question by the late Sir Victor Horsley, F.R.C.S., B.R.C.P., and probably speaking with Great Britain first in mind, as his life work had to do largely with that country. "What is the commonest cause of inefficiency?" he asked. "Unquestionably," he replied, "the custom of drinking alcohol, because the drinking custom means that the nation is constantly drugging itself in a greater or less degree with a narcotic, and this custom being universal, it naturally affects every function of the nation." And who, then, was this Sir Victor Horsley? What did he know about it? Did he really know, or was he just one of those "narrow temperance fanatics" always talking in superlatives about liquor? My encyclopaedia tells me that he was a British surgeon and neurologist. Well, that would give him a pretty wide field of experience, dealing, as he was, with all sorts of life in the human body. And note that he was a specialist in the realm of the nervous system, the feeding ground of alcoholics. The encyclopaedia goes on to tell me that he was for a time secretary to the Royal Commission on Hydropathia, also a surgeon in the National Hospital for Paralysis and Epilepsy, one time professor at the British Medical Association, and a whole lot of other things that give unmistakable evidence of his nation-wide reputation in his sphere. So I am quite prepared to read further on the out of all this experience he was "one of the leaders of the medical crusade against alcoholism." He died in Mesopotamia during the Great War. His words, quoted above, are burning words and will bear application to Canada or the United States or any other country where man and the drinking custom are found. Write it down in letters of living flame "Unquestionably the commonest cause of inefficiency is the custom of drinking alcohol."

FINAL MEETING FOR STUDY CLUB HELD

The regular meeting of the Digby West Teachers' Study Club was held at Union Hall, Barton, on Saturday afternoon, May 4th, with the President, Mrs. Eva Wendell, presiding. As usual the roll call was answered with current events. The chief business of the meeting was to make the final arrangements for the Field Day to be held in Barton on June 10th. It was decided that any rural or village school in Digby municipality would be allowed to compete in the sports, providing a notice from each school asking to compete be sent to the Spelling Director, Galen Pierce, Weymouth, not later than two weeks previous to the day of the meet, and to stimulate interest in the sports Mr. Pierce is donating two medals—one to be given to the girl and the other to the boy having the highest individual score.

Mrs. Beatrice Harris, helping teacher, gave the final instructions for the musical programme. A delicious supper was served by the social committee. Resolutions to be sent in to the Central Council from the Digby County Teachers' Union were also discussed. Those present were: Mrs. Beatrice Harris, helping teacher; Miss Helen Shortliffe, South Range West; Miss Laura Shortliffe, Sissiboo; Miss Ruth Specht and Miss Ethel Foster, North Range; Miss Alice Gougeau, Gilbert's Cove; Miss Grace Whitman, Ashmore; Mrs. Eva Wendell, Barton; Oliver Gibson, Weymouth Point; Galen Pierce, principal, Weymouth; Miss Jessie Co-mau, Southville; Miss Louise Thorne, Riverdale.

In the evening the Teachers' Study Club held a joint meeting with the Burton-Brighton School and Community Club, at which B. W. Tutts, chief migratory bird officer for the Maritime provinces, gave an illustrated lecture on "Common Birds of Nova Scotia," followed by motion pictures of wild life. This instructive and interesting lecture was also enjoyed by the school children of Barton and Brighton and the out-lying districts. Many expressed the opinion that it was the most interesting of the illustrated lectures that have been sponsored by the School and Community Club in the past three years.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Digby Courier of May 6, 1910, gives an account of the marriage of Daniel B. Kenney (now Councillor Kenney), of Westport, to Mary Elizabeth, of Digby, on April 26.

At the Barton Baptist church, Rev. D. W. Dixon, of Annapolis, was officiating.

There is also a thrilling account of the experiences of Roy Leckie and Ernest Sully, of Parker's Cove, who were picked up in the Bay of Fundy after being adrift for forty hours.

At a Sunday school convention at Smith's Cove, the following officers were elected: President, Ross C. Smallie, Digby; Vice-President, W. W. Clarke, Bear River; Secretary, Treasurer, Miss Frances Austin, Smith's Cove; Home Superintendent, Mrs. Lillian Sulis, Smith's Cove; Elementary Superintendent, Mrs. Chas. Carby, Digby; Adult Superintendent, W. B. Snow, Smith's Cove; Educational Superintendent, S. S. Thompson, Smith's Cove; Temperance Superintendent, Rev. I. A. Corbett, Bear River; County Representative, B. Harvey, Digby.

A study of the above list will show that more than half of them are still active in church and Sunday school work.

The Digby Town Council passed a resolution granting the Dominion Atlantic Railway free water for their

Digby Legion Banquet At Bay of Fundy House

There was a splendid attendance at the Digby Legion's Banquet, held at the Bay of Fundy House, on Monday evening, the night of the King's Silver Jubilee Celebration. Weymouth and Digby were well represented. After a lobster chowder supper there followed a few short addresses, and a delightful social evening was spent.

Among the speakers were Major M. C. Denton of Digby, who spoke on the work that has been accomplished through the Legion, and urged that a special effort be made to have all ex-service men join up with this organization.

After congratulations, lately promoted Lieutenant Colonel Hallett, of Weymouth, gave a short talk on "The Possibilities of Future Wars." Gerald E. Syda, who on that day was awarded one of the King's Silver Jubilee Medals, also spoke briefly. Dr. E. A. Ferguson of Weymouth, and J. W. Merkel of Digby, gave humorous talks on overseas incidents.

MASONS INSTALL OFFICERS

The officers of King Solomon lodge No. 34, A. F. and A. M. were installed at the regular communication on Tuesday evening, by D. D. G. M. Joseph E. Langley, of Bear River.

There was a good attendance with quite a large number of visitors. Refreshments were served, the caterer being F. A. Robinson. The officers are as follows:

Worshipful Master W. R. Dickie
Senior Warden E. B. MacGregor
Junior Warden J. P. Hecht
Secretary H. H. Marshall
Treasurer A. J. Dillon

WEYMOUTH DENTIST IN BOSTON

A Nova Scotia partnership is that of Dr. J. R. MacKinnon and Dr. A. P. Hogan, who practice dentistry at 16 Arlington street, Boston. Dr. MacKinnon is a native of Strathmore, Dr. Hogan was born in Weymouth.

Dr. MacKinnon has been in practice in Boston for 27 years. Educated in the public schools of his native province, he went to Boston for his professional education. He is a graduate of both the Boston Dental College and of Tufts, holding the degrees of D.D.S. and D.M.D.

He is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Roderick MacKinnon, Strathmore, and a brother of the late Allan MacKinnon, of the same place. He visits his native Cape Breton every second year and probably will make a trip there this summer.

Dr. Hogan is a brother of the late Dr. Vincent Hogan, noted Halifax surgeon. He spends but half his time in Boston, coming in May of each year to his native Weymouth, where he spends the summer. He is an active Liberal and is an official of the Digby County Liberal Association.

He lives in West Roxbury. His three children, daughters, are all residents of Greater Boston. Miss Catherine is a dental hygienist at Jamaica Plain; Miss Thelma is a school teacher; Miss Rebecca is still a high school student in West Roxbury.

While dragging scallops about five miles off Culloden, Capt. Mansfield Burnham of the Digby scallop fleet, brought up from the bottom an earthenware crock, of one gallon capacity. The crock which is in perfect condition, appears to be the jug of a small churn—but the plunger and dash are missing. It is possible that Capt. Burnham may find these articles in his nets one of these fine days, for, during the winter, while dragging in the same vicinity, he brought up a china cup, and a few days later a saucer which matched perfectly, both without a blemish or a crack. In previous years articles of crockeryware have been brought to the surface in scallop nets, and it is thought that these items were part of the cargo of the ship "Culloden" wrecked off that coast many years ago. The "Culloden" was bound from the old country to Saint John, and crockery comprised a large part of her cargo.

Sydney Smith left for Halifax Tuesday, where he will take the summer shoe shining business at his old stand in front of the Courthouse Office. This season he is blossoming forth with a new awning.

Hardy Bent is "setting up" for his summer shoe shining business at his old stand in front of the Courthouse Office. This season he is blossoming forth with a new awning.

Harry Eldridge, one time manager of the Digby Royal Store, was in Digby on Monday.

SHIPPING

Shipping has been very quiet during the past few weeks. The motor vessel, M. W. Colp, which has been scalloping out of this port since Fall, cleared on Wednesday for Lunenburg. Before sailing, the Colp made a trip to Annapolis Royal last week to make an effort to tow the three master "Maplewood", which has been lying at one of the wharfs in that port away from the pier and to beach the craft at Granville. The effort, however, was unsuccessful, the three master, which only made one trip after she was built—being so firmly embedded in the river mud she could not be cleared. The Colp had some difficulty by getting a piece of hawser in her propeller.

The lobster smack, Willard and Daggett, Capt. G. W. Gilbert, recently cleared from Freeport with 15,000 pounds of live lobsters for Portland, Maine.

The Beatrice L. cleared on the 4th with a cargo of hard cordwood for Boston. This craft was recently washed and given a coat of paint.

The Myrtle Hotel will open for the season on Wednesday of next week, following the Klwanis party which will be held on Tuesday evening. Mr. Spurr, the fine hotel man in readiness, and in conversation with the Courier yesterday, states he is looking forward to a splendid summer season during 1935.

Blames Modern Politicians

Digby Kivianians at their regular luncheon Tuesday, listened to a most interesting address on the ancient colony of Newfoundland from Dr. Blackall, Newfoundland's former Superintendent of Education, and now a resident of Annapolis Royal during the course of his address. Dr. Blackall brought out many interesting facts relating to the history of the colony from the time of the "early visit of the Norsemen in 1001 up to the present commission government." He favored the union of the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland into one province, which would have an area of over 200,000 sq. miles, and a population nearly on a par with that of the Upper Canadian Provinces. He claimed one of the greatest mistakes the people of Newfoundland ever made was when they rejected Confederation with the Canadian Provinces in 1869.

He blamed the modern politician for Newfoundland's present difficulties. They, he said, in an effort to provide labor by public works, piled great debts on the country until it became practically bankrupt. As a result a commission government was appointed to straighten out its affairs. He warned Nova Scotians to "watch their step," for, he feared, this province is heading in the same direction. "Don't elect political sharks to represent you, elect as your representatives men who have the interest of the country at heart," he said.

In his historical references, Dr. Blackall said that one writer claims as many as forty houses were built in the colony as early as 1522; in the year 1650 there were 15 villages, and the population was about 2,000; but due to pressure brought to bear by the merchants of the old country, from the latter half of the seventeenth century until 1806, no one was allowed to reside in Newfoundland. Prior to that time all residents of Newfoundland were regarded as outlaws; and to take themselves they settled in secluded coves along the coast; the first and second settlers were appointed admiral and vice admiral of the community. It is an account of this prohibition of residence that Newfoundland's present settlements are in secluded spots, he explained.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Small and daughter Lillie, of Central Grove, also Clifton Banks, of Sandy Cove, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. McLean, V. Bartheaux, Moschelle, Annapolis County.

Marriages

Lester—Hare

Announcements have been received by relatives in Nova Scotia of the recent marriage at Holy Trinity Church, Edmonton, of Miss Nora Evelyn Hare, eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Hare (Jessie Withycombe), Edmonton, to Carl W. Lester, son of Mrs. Lester and the late T. W. Lester, Truro. The bride is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Hare, Halifax, niece of the late Rev. John M. Withycombe, many years rector of Clementsport and Weymouth, and a cousin of Mrs. W. H. Spurr, Deep Brook. The groom is a civil engineer and holds a responsible position in the Province of Alberta, they will reside in Edmonton.

Poor Luck for Digby Neck Fishermen

Reports that have reached here from Digby Neck, are to the effect that fishing in the Saint Mary's Bay, has been exceptionally poor. Some of the fishermen state that it looks as though the fish have left the bay altogether. The story is the same all the way from Sea Wall to Petite Passage, and catches in this water have been running a mere three and four hundred pounds a set. Lobstering, on the other hand, seems to be picking up somewhat, but, the lobster season, which early in the game, was considered as a most dismal failure, resulted in many of the fishermen hauling up their traps, and setting their boats ready for shore fishing.

A CORRECTION

The Courier regrets an error made, while correcting proofs for last week's edition by the putting of a correction slug in the wrong place. This mistake was in the account of the Jubilee Celebration, in the paragraphs referring to the medalists. It should have read:

Rev. F. E. Bishop, for 8 years President of the Digby Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Miss A. Doucette, Comeauville, 18 years a school teacher.

Except as hereinafter provided, no one shall fish for scallops in territorial waters from the first day of June to the fifteenth day of October. In each year, both days inclusive and in extraterritorial waters from June fifteenth to September thirtieth, in each year, both days inclusive.

Gasoline Thieves are Given Scare

Hearing voices in the yard, the servant girl employed by Forrest C. Eisener, who had retired to her bed, and under whose window Mr. Eisener had parked his car when he returned home last Thursday evening, came downstairs and advised Mr. Eisener, who was sitting in his living room on the other side of the house. Mr. Eisener went out to investigate, and discovered two young men siphoning gasoline from his tank. When he gave chase, the men escaped in a parked car at which another was seated at the wheel. Mr. Eisener believes he knows the identity of the parties.

St. Patrick's Hall to Open With Revue

After months of preparation the New St. Patrick's Hall at Digby will open to the public on May 28 and 29, with a Grand Programme of Music and Novelties. The Digby Civic Band, under the direction of Paul Yates, is preparing a choice selection of popular music, and Miss Daisy Foster, so well known for her work throughout the Province, and particularly from the success of the Indian Carnival Pageant, is working with Mrs. Roy Spow and Miss Frances McNic, on a Novelty Revue with some fifty local people.

The new St. Patrick's Hall will fill a long felt want in the Town of Digby, for its spacious quarters will be adaptable to every type of entertainment which the community as a whole may undertake. Father Murphy and those associated with him are especially desirous that the people of the town and district may look upon the New St. Patrick's Hall as a real community venture.

May 28 and 29 will long be remembered by our people as the marking of a triumph, achieved by Digby labor and Digby talent.

Other soft ball teams are expected to be formed shortly, and it is hoped there will be enough teams to organize a town league. The firemen will hold their first practice on the ball field at 7.00 this evening.

Prosperity Club Letters Arrive

Many of the now famous Prosperity Club Chain Letters arrived for local citizens at this post office last week and this, and several of the recipients whom we know sat down and wrote their five letters as requested, and mailed their dime in the hope of obtaining many more dimes in return.

The following Herald from Tuesday's Halifax Clipper in regard to the Chain Letter Racket, may be of interest:

"Any letters or mail matter passed through the Halifax Post Office, suspected to be in any way connected with the Prosperity Club chain letter 'racket' will be hereafter forwarded to the dead letter office at Ottawa and if found to be such, will be destroyed. It was asserted by Post Office officials last night."

"The racket said to have been started in Montreal, provides that the receiver of one of these 'chain letters' reproduce five duplicate copies, leaving off the name on the top of the six listed and add his own at the bottom, sending the person whose name was detached, a letter with ten cents enclosed. In turn each person to whom one of the duplicate copies is given, deducts the top name and adds his own. Finally as each person's name leaves the top of the list, they will receive donations of individual ten cent pieces amounting to $1562.50. Persons desiring to join in the chain are warned of these further steps being taken."

How and when may the services of a Victorian Order Nurse be secured?

Call before 8.30 a. m., if patient is to be seen before noon of same day, and before 1.00 p. m., if patient is to be seen that afternoon. Only confinement and emergency calls are answered after 5.00 p. m. Each new case reported from any source is visited—but nursing care is continued only under the direction of a physician.

None but new confinement cases and acutely ill patients are visited, on Sundays or holidays.

Under what circumstances should the Victorian Order Nurse be called? The Victorian Order endeavors to meet the special requirements of the many patients whose cases do not demand the full-time services of a nurse, nor household accommodation to offer her, as well as those who for various reasons, cannot, or need not, go into a hospital.

Municipal Council Concludes Semi-Annual Session

The Digby Municipal Council, which met at the Court House here last week, concluded its semi-annual session on Saturday. During this session social welfare problems were among the principal problems discussed, and three resolutions dealing with these problems were passed, two of which were chronicled in last week's Courier; the other is a resolution which asks the Nova Scotia Government to reduce the cost of board for patients at the Nova Scotia Hospital, proportionately to prices and conditions of the time. The preface of the resolution points out that the Municipality is now paying $8.50 per week for board, and at one time the price per week paid was $4.50.

The Council made its annual inspection of the Almshouse at Marshalltown, on Thursday afternoon, while there prevailed upon Keeper and Mrs. Eber Baizer, to reconsider their resignation. Tenders in reply to the Council's advertisement for positions of Keeper and Matron were opened early in the session, but it was decided to make no appointments until after the inspection of the institution was made. County Constable Thomas Denton, of Little River, was given instructions to collect tax arrears due the Municipality for the years 1931 and 1932.

On Saturday morning a resolution authorizing the Digby County Power Board to ask permission from the Nova Scotia Board of Utilities to sell hydro electric power direct in a prescribed area of the Freeport District to users whose requirements are 20 h. p. and over. Under the existing arrangement the Power Board wholesales electricity to the Municipal Distribution System, who, in return, retail to the users. By selling direct to the larger users, electrical energy may be purchased at a lower rate, and thus greater use of electricity for industrial purposes will be encouraged.

The Council's resolution, however, contains a clause whereby the proposed agreement may be cancelled on three months' notice from the Municipal Distribution System, the Distribution System paying the costs.

THE NEWEST SKIN GAME

This send-a-dime chain letter business now sweeping through certain sections of the Middle West, avowedly designed for the distribution of wealth, is finding plenty of patrons, according to the Post Office Department.

Probably it is, and its victims are those who fail to use a little simple arithmetic on the proposition. If people receiving one of these chain letters would take the trouble to sit down and figure out the scheme for a few minutes, they would discover what a gigantic skin game it is.

One postal inspector figured it through to the finish, and the results he obtained were very interesting. Starting from a single letter, we worked the thing out through its first 12 phases, without a single missed letter.

He discovered that more than 305,000,000 persons would receive letters, two and a half times the population of the entire United States. Furthermore, and aha!—he also discovered that the first 2,511 persons receiving these letters are their dimes would get $6,103,505.50. The rest would get nothing. So remember these figures when the inevitable letter is dropped into your post box.

A number of pedestrians killed by automobiles is increasing. The law gives the pedestrian the right of way but make no mention of flowers.

TODAY

Today, yes today. It's the only day you have, or may ever have. Therefore, you should make the most of it.

Some very wise men cognizant of these facts and the obligation they impose advised: "Look at this day, for it is life. In its course lie all the verities and realities of your existence. Live it so that it yesterday becomes a pleasant dream, and its tomorrow an enticing vision."

That's the philosophy which makes every word you work the only thing which really matters. It's the philosophy, too, that brings the largest degree of contentment and happiness.

Pork prices are going up. If they keep on soaring it will be a compliment to be called a hog.

AN EDITOR'S SONG

How dear to our heart is the steady subscriber,
Who pays in advance on the birth of each year,
Who lays down the money and does not quite shakily,
And casts round the office a halo of cheer!

He never says "Stop it; I cannot afford."

I'm getting more magazines now than I read."

But always says, "Send it, our people like it—
In fact we all think it a help and a need."

How welcome his clerk when it reaches our sanctum.

How it makes our pulse throb, how it makes our heart dance.

We outwardly thank him, we inwardly bless him—
The steady subscriber, who pays in advance.

"Did you ever stop to think that just as people are dependent upon the newspapers for their information as to what's going on in the social, political, economic, educational and religious world, so are they dependent on them for their information as to what to buy where to buy it, and what price they should pay?"

"That person, firm or corporation which has something to sell to the public, whether it be service, goods or ideas, and who does not use the columns of the newspaper to do so, is fighting a losing battle. And, if what he has to offer is really worth while, the public is also losing because it is denied knowledge of the matter."

"In the simple matter of eggs, for instance—an item used daily in practically every home—the housewife may be losing money to the extent of five or ten cents, a dozen if she fails to read the grocery ads. We've known that to happen frequently. The same principle applies to all the necessities of life."

"In short, reading the Courier saves one time, worry, and—what they probably have least of—money."

TE OLDER BOYS' CONFERENCE

The Boys' Conference of Digby Neck and the Islands, district was ably represented by members from Westport, Freeport, Central Grove, Little River, Sandy Cove and Centerville. It was held in Sandy Cove this year in response to the need of such a meeting of the boys on the Neck. Mr. I. Judson Levy, the Field Secretary, lead the boys in their meetings No. 3, 4, and 5. He is peculiarly fitted for this work by nature, education and inclination, at once arousing the interest of the boys, being one of them, and at all times having undisputed control of them.

The officers were elected as follows:

Grand Praetor—Ivan Scottville Central Grove.
Deputy Praetor—Godfrey Crowell, Sandy Cove.
Scripser—Charlie Morehouse, Centerville.

The meetings for the most part were held in the Zion United Church at Sandy Cove, and were made successful by the entire cooperation of each of the some thirty-five boys.

The unfolding of early manhood was typified by Mr. Levy, using that period of the life of Christ so resplendent with strength for us all, especially boys. Every service was presented around the main topic "What Christ Means to Us."

Many were the candid discussions, and especially during the meetings on Saturday were diverse opinions expressed. Alcoholic drinks, war, gambling, swearing, were presented in every form, each had been left to work out what should be done about these evils from no uncertain promises.

It is surprising how much material was given a comprehensive presentation in that short week end. There is a good sermon in the clever word "Tuxis" which Mr. Levy made brilliant use of. Another was expressed in the Tuxis Emblem, which is intensely interesting as well as strongly inspiring.

Mr. Levy lead in the research work on "What principles should govern a young man in the choice of his life's work" which should prove of great value to all that heard it.

Saturday evening the people of Sandy Cove deliriously the boys with a banquet. This was a happy affair and a truly enjoyable one. We cannot thank Sandy Cove enough to express our appreciation for their cordial welcome and generous hospitality in having us on this occasion.

We all wish Mr. Levy success in this great work, and after knowing him, we feel that his work is our work.

Temperance Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

IT'S UP TO YOU, DAD.

"Doesn't it keep cold for April?" said a youngster of only five years old the other day, with all the seriousness of some old person who had seen half a hundred Aprils. Of course the hearer knew at once that this youngster had been living with older people, and listened in on several conversations about the weather and had adopted as her own the thought-and-speech-habits of those many years her senior. And with a smile at her quaintness, one could not but see in her an illustration of what is true in the whole realm of childhood and youth. Old and young must necessarily live together. And that is well for both old and young. But it means that what is being lived out in thought, speech and conduct by the home firesides in church and community life, gets itself registered in the thought, speech and behavior forms of those open-eyed, open-ear, open-minded youngsters who are everywhere, beholding the evil and the good. Have you noticed how much the play life of children is around them? Before we are aware we have provided the moulds for the thought and speech and conduct of the younger folk who have none others to look to but ourselves. A child's life inheritance has not been completed with birth—it has really only well begun.

Our school books teach the inevitably injurious effects of alcohol on body, mind and morals. Very good. And then, Dad, the school-boy's hero yet, keeps a nice bottle of liquor on the cupboard shelf, to be brought out at mealtime or when a friend drops in. Scientific knowledge is presented in books about the injury of tobacco, and then the lad who has passed an examination on it sees every second man he meets fingering or smoking a cigarette, or with his clothes reeking with the odor (I cannot say "perfume" of "Old Chum"). The featured advertisements on printed page and billboard at just the right angle, and the provincial coat of arms glorifying that liquor store, all glare at him as he turns the corner—demonstrating that whatever books may say, adult life, as it is, counts in both alcohol and tobacco among its accepted treasures. That is youth's inheritance. And youth just take from the hand of its elders this treasured inheritance and "take that journey into the far country."

That journey into the far country is the parable of life with its unmistakable warning to youth's elders. How has it come about that we think of education as stopping with youth? Is not adult education the need of the hour, so that we older folks may come to be safe companions for our youth, life witnesses to the truths that science is shouting to us from every quarter? That is the serious challenge to our dads—to so live and speak and act that their lads may have a safe road for their start in life, until they get their bearings for themselves. "A little child shall lead them." "Doesn't it keep cold for April?"

The annual business meeting of the Barton-Brighton Hospital Aid met recently at the home of the President, Mrs. W. C. Harris, with the President in the chair. Reports and minutes were read and approved. The officers were reelected:

The meeting was then open to general discussion. The Secretary was requested to write a note of sympathy to the relatives of Mrs. Elizabeth Dorcy, whose death took place recently. Those present paid their dues for the following year. At the close of the meeting dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Harris.

The Barton-Brighton Hospital Aid have raised $750.50 since it was organized in 1925, until April, 1935. Since September, 1931, when they undertook the payments on a Barton-Brighton Room in the Digby Hospital, they have raised $254.01. This sum has been expended for the following:

Floor covering, blind, 2 beds, mattresses, 2 chairs, 1 dresser, 2

beside tables, 1 screen, 2 hotwater bottles, 2 bed pans, 2 ice bags, 2 rubber sheets, 2 pairs pillows, 3 table covers, 2 dresser covers, 3 face cloths, 8 bath towels, 12 sheets, 12 napkins, 2 towels, 8 pillow slips, 2 Kenwood blankets, muslin curtains, over curtains, and rod, 1 convalescent chair and foot stool, and an electric lamp also shooting for screen filling.

These are all paid for and we have on hand a balance of 75 cents. We still have to get a few more sheets and a name plate for the door. Will those who have not yet paid their membership dues please bring or send them to the Secretary.

Miriam Binney Smith, Secretary.

First, they're so delicious and crisp. Second, they snap, crackle, and pop in milk or cream. And third, there's a Mother Goose story on the back of every package.

Rice Krispies are full of nourishment, yet small stomachs can digest them easily. Ideal for the nursery supper.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BANQUET AT WESTPORT

Exactly twenty-five years ago the first Mother's Day was observed. The idea of a special day of the year in the honor of motherhood, originated in the mind of Miss Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia, Pa. On May 12, 1910, the Governor of the State of Oklahoma issued the first proclamation calling the people to "remember her whose love passeth human understanding." State after State adopted the plan, and finally Congress was asked to set aside Mother's Day as a national holiday.

On May 8, 1914, Congress designated the 2nd Sunday in May as Mother's Day, and the joint resolution was signed by President Wilson. Since that time the idea has grown rapidly, until now it has become a universal and beautiful custom.

In Westport this year a new and special feature was a Mother-and-Daughter Banquet, given to the Mothers and Daughters of the Christian Church by the men and boys.

The menu consisted of lobster soup, apple pie, ice cream, cake and tea. The cake was a large, especially made, beautifully decorated one, bearing the inscription, "To Mother." This was donated by Edward Fugh. The oldest mother present, Mrs. Laila MacDormand, who is 83 years old, cut the cake.

The programme was as follows: Musical Memories, (sung by all).

"Smiles".

"Sweet Adeline".

"Put On Your Old Gray Boinnet".

"Let Me Call You Sweetheart".

"Down By the Old Mill Stream".

Optimistic Odes.

Readings by Alvah Garron, Pauline Titus, Virginia Welch, Carol MacDormand, and Mrs. Mary Garron.

Tasty Toasts.

Toast to Mother by Daughters: Miss Evelyn MacDormand, response: Mrs. E. MacDormand.

Toast to Mother by Men: E. B. Pugh, response: Mrs. H. Garron.

Toast to Men by Ladies: Mrs. Albert Welch, response: F. J. Coggins.

Happy Harmony.

"Showers of Blessing".

"Ulo, Cinderella!" the conductor greeted her, as he pulled the bell to stop the bus.

Puffing and blowing, he came pounding after the bus and handed her the shoe with the best bow he could manage in the rather breathless circumstances.

He—"Who spilled mustard on this waffle, dear?"

She—"Oh John! How could you? This is lemon pie."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Don't Forget Snapshots at Night

ALTHOUGH you may not be one of those lovers of the great outdoors and prefer the warmth of the old fireplace or furnace those cold, damp wintry evenings, there is no reason why you should not enjoy your camera, for it is always ready for action in or outdoors—an all-weather friend.

Time passes quickly and before we realize where the days and weeks have gone the eye begins to get a little blurry and we are thinking of the garden, the yard or those pleasant drives in the car after dinner.

The next three months, however, are ideal for snapshots at night in the house and if you have not already experienced the pleasure of this fascinating pastime you have certainly missed a lot of fun and interest.

Let's suppose that Mary and you are entertaining Betty and Jack and everybody is as happy as the four-room above seem to be. Let's make a snapshot at night of your party.

The diagram indicates the relative placing of the subject, lights and camera for this particular group. For a different setting you can place the lamps accordingly.

After you have located the group in the center and the camera is set, place an ordinary floor lamp, with the shade tilted upward, at position "A" as close to the subject as possible but out of the range of your flasher. Lamp "A" should have sockets for three photo-flood lamps. Two will do if you can have the lamp within three or four feet of your subject. (The light intensity increases as you place the lights closer to the subject and decreases when farther away.) Two photo-flood lamps should be placed in lamp "B." Where shades on home lamps cannot be tipped for directing light on the subject, remove the shade. In such cases, some sort of reflector back of the lamps will throw more light forward. A white cardboard, a pillow case, or even a bright dishpan held directly behind the lights will help.

Set the diaphragm at f.6.3. If your camera is equipped with a self-timer, set the shutter speed at 1/25th of a second, turn on your photo-flood lamps, take your position in the group and click—it has made a snapshot at night for you.

Simple enough, isn't it? The possibilities for indoor pictures taking are endless and you are missing a lot of fun and fascinating pictures—until you try it.

Highway Bridge Collapses At Imbert Mill, Bear River

The collapse of a highway bridge at Imbert Mill, at the head-of-tide, Bear River, nearly claimed the life of three Landsdowne men, Freeman, Rice, his son Gordon, and Fred Mason, on Monday afternoon.

About 2:30 in the afternoon, the men were crossing the bridge in a Chevrolet truck loaded with some seven feet of mixed dry and green hardwood cordwood. They were about half over the wooden structure which spanned the Bear River at that point when it gave way without warning falling toward the right. The truck was thrown clear of the wreckage and landed upside down in the waters of the river. By good fortune, the stream was not at flood, and the tide was out at the time, the depth of the water was less than two feet.

Mason, who was riding on top of the load, was thrown clear, but was struck on the back with a cordwood stick or a piece of the bridge wreckage, causing painful back injuries. Disinjuries were the most severe of the trio. Freeman Rice, who was driving the truck, and his son Gordon, were in the cab, which splintered to matchwood when it struck the stoney bottom of the stream.

Both men were imprisoned, unable to free themselves. In some manner they managed to fall to the floor of the cab, the elder man, with his feet entangled in the steering wheel, falling on top of his son. The crash of the fall of the car and bridge was heard by Floyd and Le Rice, who were sitting on a door on the opposite side of the river. They were the first to appear on the scene. Floyd wading across the upturned truck, and releasing the two men imprisoned in the cab, while Le took the injured Fred Mason, from the water.

The three men were attended by Dr. Campbell, all were badly shaken up and suffered cuts and bruises. Both car and bridge are complete wrecks.

The Courier has been informed that the bridge has been in constant use, heavy loads passing over it daily. Bear River citizens say it has weakened noticeably during the past two days. We have also been informed from sources we believe to be reliable, but cannot give the information as being authentic, that the bridge was condemned this spring.

In the United Church on Mother's Day a special Mother's Day sermon was given by the pastor, Rev. C. L. Blanchard, and a duet, "Mother's Faith" was rendered by Mrs. F. Burdette and Mrs. H. E. Harris. In the evening Mrs. H. R. Purdy gave the solo "The Sinner and the Church."

The service at Landsdowne Church on Mother's Day was a very attractive one. An inspiring address by Pastor Stevens, on "Mother's Standing By," and the duet "Can a Boy Forget His Mother," was sweetly rendered by Mrs. Laura Litchfield and Mrs. Ralph Purdy.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bohaker and young daughter, who have returned from Sydney, N. S., and Rochester, N. Y., were in Bear River on Sunday calling on friends. They left during the week for Sydney, where they will make their home. Mr. Bohaker is District Manager for the Sun Life Insurance Company.

The Executive of the Women's Institute for the district of Digby-Annapolis was held in Bridgetown on Tuesday afternoon, when plans were made for the District Rally on June 18th. Mrs. Lovett, Vice-President of District Executive attended, joining the delegates from the other parts of Digby County at Smith's Cove.

NOT A RHEUMATIC PAIN FOR 4 YEARS

70-Year-Old Man Praises Kruschen

A man who once suffered severely from rheumatism writes:—"For a long time I suffered with rheumatism, and at one time was laid up for about nine weeks. About five years ago I was advised to try Kruschen. I did so, and have continued using them ever since. Kruschen did the trick, as I have not had a rheumatic pain for over four years. I am nearly 70 years of age, and feeling fine, and always able for my day's work—thanks to Kruschen."—A. S.

Kruschen dissolves away those needle-pointed crystals of uric acid which are the cause of all rheumatic troubles. It will also flush these dissolved crystals clean out of the system. Then if you keep up "the little daily dose," excess uric acid will never form again.

O. Wright Addressed Kiwanis on Tuesday

Kiwanian O. Wright, "Righto" was the speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon on Tuesday. Mr. Wright gave a very interesting account of his trip to Florida this winter, commencing with the time he left Digby in January, until his return a few weeks ago. One of the most interesting features of Mr. Wright's talk was his description of Sir Malcolm Campbell's "Blue Bird," which he saw in action at Daytona Beach, Florida, this winter. He also told of his visit to the United States Bureau of Printing and Engraving at Washington, D. C., where he watched the currency and bonds in the process of manufacture.

He stated that in Florida everything possible is done to make the visit of the tourist quite enjoyable. Expense, he said, is hardly given a thought, as he explained the people of Florida believe that every dollar spent for the benefit of the tourist will be returned one hundred fold.

Guests at this luncheon were: Mr. J. Lagett, manager of the Drake Hotel, Chicago; G. H. Peters, Digby, and George Haines, of Saint John. Kiwanian A. T. Spurr was welcomed back, this being the first luncheon he has attended since his return from the South.

YARMOUTH WANTS SNAPSNOTS

The tourist committee of the Yarmouth Board of Trade is asking residents of that town to submit snapsnots they have taken for examination, with a view to having a complete set of picture post cards manufactured and distributed. They consider a splendid idea and should be adopted by other Boards of Trade to supply new material for picture post cards.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Tins, who have been spending the winter months in Florida and Indiana, with the daughter, Mrs. Oscar Lane, returned home on Tuesday.

Obituary

Mrs. Elizabeth A. VanBlarcom

The community of Brighton is mourning the loss of one of its remaining oldest residents in the passing of Mrs. Elizabeth VanBlarcom, on Saturday last, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward Young, with whom she had resided since the death of her husband, Hiram VanBlarcom. She had passed the age of 86, and was a life long resident of this place. Although in poor health for the past few years she was always cheerful and had a smile for everyone, and was deeply interested in the welfare of the community. She was known to old and young as "Aunt Bettie". She will be greatly missed at the home, but her beautiful faith in God has called her to a home on high, and her goodness will still live on. She leaves to mourn their loss four children. Mrs. Lloyd Bailey Westport; Mrs. Edw. Young, Brighton; Fred and Frank VanBlarcom, both of Kentville; three grandsons, a granddaughter, Constance Young, all being present at the funeral, except Mrs. Bailey, who is in ill health. The funeral was held on Wednesday from her home, the address being given by Rev. A. G. Pentz, Aylesford, who spoke very touchingly of the Christian life she had lived. Her favorite Psalm—the 121st, was read by Rev. M. C. Higgins, also a part of the last chapter in Revelation, she having repeated the 5th verse just before she passed away: "And there shall be no night there." Rev. M. R. Ewing offered a very impressive prayer. The interment was in the Barton and Brighton cemetery, beside her husband who predeceased her 33 years. Her favourite hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross," was sung by Fred Grant, and "Abide With Me," and "Peace Perfect Peace," by the choir.

Wants Another Breakwater

Quite a large portion of Freeport—particularly "around the Cove"—is up in arms because of alleged failure to keep pre-election promises. It is claimed that both the liberals and conservatives have for years been promising that, if returned, a breakwater would be erected on the east side of the Cove. A few years ago it was decided to put a breakwater in that portion of Freeport Harbor known as the Cove, and engineers were sent to make a survey. These engineers it is claimed, did not listen to the fishermen—who were the ones to deride the benefit—but listened to others, with the result that they recommended the erection of a breakwater on the western side. The fishermen claim that this breakwater, although a good piece of work, is no good to them, and that it will never be of much use to anyone. In consequence of this a contract of agreement has been drawn up among themselves, and signed by 160 voters of both sides of politics, to the effect that if a breakwater on the eastern side of the Cove is not started before the federal election each of them will vote for the opposite; if a breakwater is started they will vote for the government—and from what we heard on a recent trip they will stick to their agreement.

Rev. A. E. Gabriel, president of the Digby Kiwanis Club, was the guest speaker at the Halifax Kiwanis luncheon on Monday. The topic on his address was "Negro Spirituals" which he illustrated with renditions of "Deep River" and "Swing Away." While in Halifax Mr. Gabriel is attending the annual synod of the Church of England in Nova Scotia.

Plympton, where, for many years, he conducted a general store, occurred at his home in that village on Saturday last week. The deceased was in his 70th year. The late Mr. Warner had been in ill health for about a year, and shortly before his death was taken with a relapse. He is survived by his widow; one son, Anson, of Plympton; and one daughter, Miss Margarette of Melrose Mass., who was with her father at the time of his death. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. C. L. Colvert, of Saint John, and Mrs. O. S. Bosby, of Auburn; who with Mr. Bosby, attended the funeral. Capt. H. C. Warner, of Conquerall Bank, a nephew, and Mrs. Edward Bates of Saint John, a niece also attended the funeral. Mr. Warner was born in Gilbert's Cove, Digby County, and was the son of the late William C. Warner and Eliza Jenkins Warner of Conquerall Bank. For several years he was chairman of the board of overseers of the poor in the Plympton district. Funeral services took place on Thursday of last week, with Rev. M. R. Ewing, pastor of the United Church, Yarmouth, officiating. At the service the choir of the Brighton United Church rendered several selections, and F. M. Grant, of Barton, sang as solo his favorite hymn, "Sometime We'll Understand." Interment was in the Barton cemetery.

Supreme Court Next Week

There are no criminal cases on the Docket for the supreme court session, which sits here commencing Tuesday of next week. Mr. Justice Mellich will preside.

At this session one civil jury case will be heard, and four civil non-jury cases. They are as follows: Jury Case: Woodman vs. Bryant re automobile damages in accident.

Non-Jury Cases: Riordan vs. MacWhinnie et al.

Hall vs. Bove.
Raymond vs. Barnes.
The cases Riordan vs. MacWhinnie et al. and Hall vs. Bove are property matters; the case of Woodman vs. Bryant has to do with damages to an automobile in an accident; the case of Raymond vs. Barnes is a replevin case over the scallop sloop, Lena R. in the case of Hart vs. Sanford, F. R. Hart of Halifax is suing Genos Sanford of Clementvale, as guarantor.

IMPROVEMENTS NEEDED AT THE BAND STAND

The old Digby Band erected the present structure at their own expense, from their earnings more than thirty years ago. In its proportions and size it was well adapted to the purpose, but when the ground was filled in later, it brought the floor too low. If the public realized how its present situation confines the volume of tone, and makes a big band sound like a small one the outcry against being robbed of so much enjoyment would soon bring the needed improvement. Raise the present stand eight feet above the ground (maybe move it back a little) and you think you are hearing a new band. The music will "carry" a greater distance, and be heard by many more people. Strong efforts should be made to bring about this improvement.

Supplying suitable accommodations for a large audience is another problem. Hundreds of listeners are obliged to stand throughout the concert, much to their discomfort, and this shows lack of consideration of our summer guests who greatly enjoy these entertainments. Car owners like to occupy their cars, but parking space is very limited. At the King's Jubilee concert the line of cars extended to the Myrtle Hotel, and the music was entirely lost to many of them. Comfortable seating accommodations would cost little plain benches, with the back at the right angle, would do nicely.

HAIR-SURFACING HAS COM-MENCED

Paving machinery and equipment of the St. George Construction Company arrived in Digby this week, and was unloaded from the flat cars at the station. This company has already commenced work hair-surfacing the No. 1 Highway through the Smith's Cove district, and is giving employment to many men.

This important section of highway is one of the several that comes under this year's paving programme of the provincial government, and is a big step toward further encouragement to tourist travel in this vicinity. Work has already commenced—or is about to commence—on other sections of the provincial highways, and it is to be hoped that eventually all the main highways in the province will be covered with some substantial type of pavement. Paved or hair-surfaced highways have been the crying need of this province in which so many people depend on the tourist traffic—for many years.

When asked the other day, Mayor Shortliffe, of Digby, could not give any definite information when—or if—paving would be commenced on the Digby streets this summer. He expects to have definite information regarding this in a few days.

That personification of enthusiasm and energy, Miss Daisy Foster, in giving a "continuous performance" of drill and rehearsal in preparation of the Novelty Revue she is presenting at the opening of St. Patrick's Hall, next Tuesday and Wednesday, Miss Foster has the faculty of producing wonderful results in a very short time, as if by magic. The Novelty Revue is full of surprises, and will delight old and young. It will constitute the greater part of the evening's entertainment.

Nearly $25 was realized by the High School supper, held in the United Church hall on Friday evening. The proceeds are to be used for athletic purposes. The high school pupils, especially the girls, who served, are to be congratulated on the splendid supper and the excellent service.

Marriages

The home of Mrs. W. S. Trask, of Little River, Digby Co., was the scene of a very pretty wedding at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning, May 22, when her granddaughter, Ardis Christine Cheney, daughter of Capt. Daryl Cheney and the late Gertrude Cheney (nee Trask) became the bride of Jack William Townsend of Woodland, Maine. The bride party took their place under an arch of evergreen twigs and wedding bells to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March played by Mrs. Lawrence Trask. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. L. Chute. During the signing of the register, Miss Kathleen Berdon sang, "O Promise Me," she was accompanied at the piano by Miss Helen Frost. The bride, who was given in marriage by her grandfather, Mrs. W. S. Trask, looked very charming in a gown of white flat crepe, wearing a bridal veil and orange blossoms and carrying a bouquet of carnations. She was attended by her sister, Miss Edna Cheney, who wore a gown of blue flat crepe and carried a bouquet of sweet peas and snapdragons. The ribbon girls, Elma Frost and Barbara Trask, looked charming in pink and white organdie and carried pink and white ribbons. Little Joan Chute acted as flower girl. The groom was supported by Clyde Denton. The groom's gift to the bride was a check to the bridesmaids to the best man a leather bill fold to the soloist a compact to the pianist a white purse and to the ribbon and flower girls, finger rings.

Following the ceremony a reception was held. The bride received many gifts of linen, silver, etc. After a short trip through New Brunswick Mr. and Mrs. Townsend will reside in Woodland, Maine.

Good Will Peace Tablet Unveiled

Commemorating many years of goodwill between the two great countries of United States and Canada a "border goodwill peace tablet" was unveiled as part of the King's Jubilee Celebration on the international bridge between St. Stephen, N. B. and Calais, Me. The tablet was erected jointly by the clubs of the Maritime and New England divisions of Kiwanis International, the sponsoring clubs being those of Augusta, Bangor, Madison and Waterville in Maine, and Halifax, Sydney, Liverpool, Yarmouth, Digby and Truro in Nova Scotia. Saint John and St. Stephen in New Brunswick. At the ceremony International Greetings were extended by Mayor Beckett, of Calais, Me., and Mayor Wilson, of St. Stephen, N. B., followed by the singing of "O Canada" and the "Star Spangled Banner." Addresses were given by Lieutenant Governor Murphy, Halifax, of the Maritime Division of Kiwanis, and Lieutenant Governor Quinn, of Bangor, division No. 9, of the New England District of Kiwanis. Messages were read by the representative of the state of Maine, William S. Tupper, and by the representative of the Province of New Brunswick, Hon. G. H. I. Cockburn, reading of messages from participating Kiwanis Clubs, prayer, Rev. J. T. Abbott, Past Lieutenant Governor of the Maritime Division, "America" and "God Save the King."

April 23rd, by Rev. W. H. Nobbs, of the First Baptist church, of Wintchendon, Mass.: The wedding was the culmination of a childhood romance. Mr. Wright is employed in Waterville. They will reside in Wintchendon, Mass.

C. C. M. BICYCLES . . . and the Parts Problem

The point, so often overlooked when buying one of the imported wheels, is the difficulty in getting parts when a repair has to be made. We note that one concern is importing English Bicycles and it is certainly most inconvenient when you need repair parts not to be able to drop into the local store and get them. With C. C. M. it is entirely different. We stock most of the parts needed in repairing these wheels and can procure, on short notice, any piece for these bicycles. We also note that the imported wheels are not equipped with the old reliable Hercules Brake and we think that we are safe in saying that they are unbeatable and parts are easily procured. Think it over carefully before you purchase an imported Bicycle.

GAMBLING — EVERYBODY'S LOSS

Gambling is a losing game. This is the inescapable conclusion to be drawn from the searching study of commercialized gambling contained in a series of twelve articles completed with a recent issue of the Monitor.

The most alarming thing disclosed by the survey is the tremendous growth of the corporate entity behind gambling innumerable the world over. A threefold force gives impulse to the spread of public gambling: the quest of governments for new sources of tax revenue through licensed gambling; the inclination of people to seek excitement or wealth in gambling; the promoter of gambling who does out thousands of dollars to governments and charities to disguise enterprises that pillage the public of millions.

The series has shown to some extent the process by which dollars lost through commercialized gambling may be translated into misgovernment—graft, bribery, waste, election fraud, crime protection and purchased tolerance of organized vice. More disturbing even than the prodigious volume of monetary losses resulting from exploitation of the public is the increasing tendency of local and national governments throughout the world to authorize gambling schemes for revenue-raising purposes. Governments which tried this method before and discarded it as morally and economically unsound are resorting to it again under the economic stress of the times. And history not only is repeating itself; it is exceeding itself.

The state can prohibit organized gambling facilities, but the gambling habit in people is something legislatures cannot curtail. Public enlightenment on the evils of gambling may be the only solution. But the problem presents a challenge to the state to dissolve its partnership with gambling and assert its responsibility for safeguarding the public welfare.—Christian Science Monitor.

TOURIST PROPAGANDA

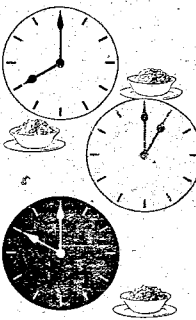

The Pictou Advocate does not enthuse over the introduction of the Mandeville Press Bureau in support of the tourist business for Nova Scotia, and argues that the Provincial Press could do the work quite as effectively.

We fear our contemporary is off on the wrong step in that regard. The purpose of the Mandeville Press Bureau as we understand it, is to advertise Nova Scotia, and its advantages before the people of the larger centres of the Eastern States and Canada.

They have access to the columns of metropolitan dailies with illustrations, stories and articles that will reach millions of people that the Nova Scotia papers could not reach. The Nova Scotia papers having their particular fields will also be enlisted in the movement. But the Mandeville Agency reaches a different and very much larger field. A field that does not know Nova Scotia and what it has to offer. They will fill all the important events for movie house entertainment, and have hotel, railway and steamship contacts that are all of immense value.

What they can do for Nova Scotia remains to be seen, but they are credited with a development in Bermuda and Florida that meant much in tourist interests in both these places.—(Eastern Chronicle.)

EXPLODING A MYTH

Captain Kidd's supposed deposit of fabulous gold on Oak Island, near Chester, has probably caused more heartburning and chasing of rainbows than has any of the world's hidden treasures. For decades men have dug into the bowels of the earth there, have heaved uncounted tons of rock and dirt, have found ancient timbers, old iron and what-not to lure them on to the limits of their endurance and financial resources. Always they have given up the search for the pirate's gold; but as one hope dies, another seems to be born and almost annually there is a new attempt to bring these fabled riches to light.

A New Yorker, it is now announced, is ready to spend $125,000 to determine, once for all whether or not there is gold on Oak Island. The most sensible phase of this newest proposal is the statement that the explorer does not really believe there is treasure on the island, and that his money will be spent for the purpose of proving that there isn't. He can find many people in Nova Scotia to assure him of complete success; and to wish, at the same time, for his willingness to pay for advice that in the end will prove to be as good as experience.

The New Yorker will, of course, choose to accept experience instead of advice, in exchange for his eighth of a million dollars in proving to his own satisfaction, however, that apt. Kidd's buried treasure is myth, it is not at all likely that he will stop the search for pirate's gold on Oak Island. A century hence, if gold then still assesses the value that attaches to it, today, someone, in all likelihood, will be delving on the little island for the old buccaner's imaginary pot of gold.—Windsor Tribune.

The fishermen who never brag about his catch isn't much of a fisherman.

HUMAN PUMPS

You've met up with them, these human pumps who go at you determined to know all you to about something they want or know.

Aware that they have a difficult job, they "prime" you, and then start working the handle with short, quick, coaxing jerks. If information is not forthcoming, they "prime" again and work more vigorously. Only when they are quite defeated will they give up the job in disgust.

Such people are pestiferous, and dangerous, too, for you "authorities" for the information they peddle. One experience is generally enough for most people. When they approach it's best to be a "dry well", even if they know you know.

Jack and Jill sped up the hill. A curve up there was sharp. The car spun, Jack's rolling eye. While Jill plays on a harp.

"Gas attacks are more stupefying when launched from the air," says a military leader. Yes, indeed; over a national hook-up they are positively paralyzing.

The motor vessel Tagati, Capt. George Thurber, of Preport, was hit at Westmouth North on Thursday last week to tow the Government Pile Driver to Yarmouth where it is being used in the work being done at that port.

MARCH SEA CATCH UP. VALUE LOWERED

Figures collected and compiled by the Dominion Department of Fisheries, but not revised, show that the quantity of fish and shellfish taken by Canada's sea fishermen during March was slightly larger than the catch made in March, 1934, but wasn't worth as much money if landed value.

Total catch, 207,000 hundredweights, in round figures, increased by 4,260 hundredweight but its value to the fishermen, as landed, was only $329,800, as compared with $460,800 in the March before.

What happened in connection with a single fishery, the Pacific Coast halibut fishery, explained most of the drop in landed value. Sizing up market conditions, the British Columbia halibut fishermen decided it would be in their interest to defer intensive operations until later in the season and during March they did practically no fishing at all, bringing ashore less than 600 hundredweights of fish, with a landed value of only $6,350, as compared with 22,200 hundredweights and at most $125,500 in March of last year. The fish they didn't want they'll catch later on.

A decrease of nearly $25,000 in the return from the Nova Scotia cod fishery was the other important factor in lessening total landed value for the Dominion. The catch taken by the Nova Scotia cod fishermen, 34,550 hundredweights, was less by about 18,000 hundredweights, than in March, 1934, and its landed value to the fishermen was $54,900, as compared with a figure more than $79,000.

The month's figures, by provinces, were as follows:

	Catch cwt.	Landed value
Nova Scotia	95,285	$204,370
British Columbia	91,920	108,860

New Brunswick 19,530 16,265
Quebec and Prince Edward Island also have valuable sea fisheries resources, of course, but March is a month when little fishing is done in the waters of either province.

In Nova Scotia the March returns from most of the fisheries, except the cod fishery, were larger than a year ago. So, too, in British Columbia, although the landed value of the salmon catch was three of four thousand dollars below the figures for March, 1934. Ling cod landed value in British Columbia, $41,285, increased by more than $19,000. New Brunswick operations were featured by a large increase in sardine landings and value and in clam catch and value. On the other hand, the luck of the New Brunswick scallop fishermen was much poorer than in the 1934 month.

"ASLEEP AT THE SWITCH"

In Christ's parable of the ten virgins, five of whom were wise and five foolish, it will be noted that the wisdom of the wise consisted not in the fact that they had oil in their lamps, but in addition to this, which sufficed for ordinary occasions, they each carried an additional vessel containing an extra supply of oil for use in an emergency. The foolishness of the foolish virgins lay in the fact that they were not thus prepared for an emergency, and so, because in this case the bridegroom tarried long, their lamps were gone out, just when they needed them. The general teaching of the parable is that no person knows just when an emergency may arise and should therefore like the wise virgins, always be equipped with the extra resources. That is the wisdom behind the reserve funds in chartered banks, the whole life insurance principle, and such-like. That is the wisdom of the personal bank account, the spare tire and the emergency brake on the automobile.

Think of the extra resources God has given us in the very make-up of our bodies for the meeting of emergencies. Take it in the matter of the blood system of the body alone. A little bit of knowledge about this wonderful transportation system of the human body teaches us of the red corpuscles in the blood speeding on their food supply mission to every part of the body, and with greater exactness than the very best of express agents, never making a mistake in leaving off the proper parcels at the right stations throughout the whole day, and every day for a life time. And a little more knowledge will teach us of the white corpuscles in the blood stationed on garrison duty to defend the body against the invasions of an enemy germ, marshalling their forces and increasing them on demand as with clockwork accuracy. Then a little more knowledge still will teach us of the deadening, paralyzing effect upon these white corpuscles of even a little alcohol. A man has been a drinker, just a "moderate drinker," and he does not seem to feel any bad effects of the drink. But he is living in a fool's paradise. Those white corpuscles of the blood are being all the time dulled and deadened. The disease germs come along some day, find the gateways of life open and the guards "asleep, at the switch." So they just troop in and have a gala time doing as they like with no defence garrison to say them nay. What a thankless, stupid, immoral thing it is to so frustrate loving God's emergency plans for us—all for what?

NOVA SCOTIA PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION

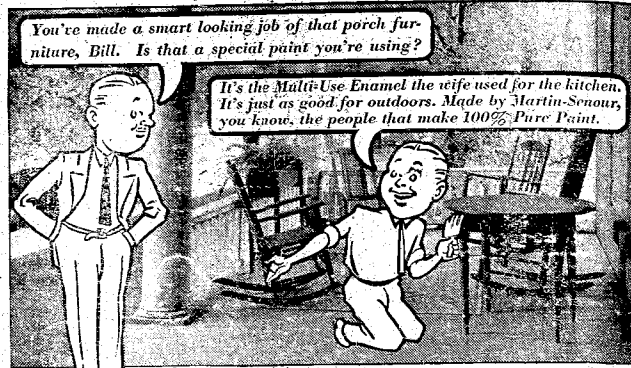

The 1935 edition of the Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition will be as fresh as a new spring chicken, says B. Frank Lordy, newly appointed and ambitious manager.

New ideas will be introduced; old schemes renovated and brought up to date and the keynote of the whole show will be speed and entertainment.

Working swiftly on a series of moves that is calculated to add new life to an old show that hasn't been the financial success it might have been in the past, the serious new manager optimistically predicts a new deal in every department.

The new show will not be an entirely different drama of Nova Scotia life, but there will be enough changes to interest young and old alike.

A good start means a fine finish, it is said, and Lordy has adopted this motto in all seriousness. Already he is months ahead of schedule, working harmoniously with others identified with the Exhibition and preparing to launch a series of new ideas that will at least be refreshingly different.

New commercial and industrial projects will be advertised in the new show the entertainment will be superior to anything attempted in the past, while a closer co-operation between officials of the horse racing programme is calculated to prove that the "start of things" is not a dead issue but a sporting venture that has never reached the heights of Bonnie Brown's Continental Revue, the reigning toast of Broadway, may be in Halifax for the Nova Scotia Fair.

Negotiations between this leading attraction and officials of the Nova Scotia Fair have reached the stage where officials of the Exhibition expect to announce practically any day that this feature has been secured.

Consisting of fifteen people, including the elaborate Bonnie Brown herself, the Continental Revue is not only the smartest revue of its kind on Broadway, but is the single largest, grandest attraction ever mounted by officials of the Provincial Fair.

Paul Davies, master of ceremonies, himself a well known individual in the entertaining world, an ardent performer of unusual ability, ranks next to Miss Brown in a show that features such numbers as the French Can-Can act, a number Frenchman, a French and a Trojan War costume affair that is sensationally different.

Other feature acts including the Wagon, Doll, Tatum Pole, Hotcha-and Miss Brown's solo specialty. This attraction, if secured, will feature part of the Forum show that will be presented every evening of Fair Week. Other attractions are being talked, but the Brownell troupe is the object of much effort by Exhibition officials.

ANOTHER VIEW OF THE TAX QUESTION

Editor, Digby Weekly Courier.

Dear Sir:—Kindly permit me space in your paper to answer "Maledicite", a letter hailing from Weymouth North, that was in last week's issue.

It would be far better for this person to be striving to maintain law and order in our country, by telling these men to pay their taxes and be a man among men, instead of promoting and trying to uphold disobedience of our laws, and this a man that is neither a rate payer or a poll tax payer, to assail and ridicule a body of such men as we have in the Municipal Council without knowledge of government and practically a foreigner in this district. I think he had better call a halt and as for these men who were put in jail for non payment of taxes, they were three able bodied men and single and poll tax payers. Their taxes were due in August 1934, and finally collected in May 1935. So they had time to pay. And according to the letter of the law they should have been paid by December 31st, 1934.

Had this Maledicite been a fair minded person he would have seen that I only did my duty as a Councilor. If I collect from one who not collect from all. It is not my motto as Councilor, to show either partiality or prejudice to any one.

Now, as I understand it, the motive which prompted Maledicite to take such an interest in these law evading men was the fact that he required the services of one of them for a few days in his garden so he made a mountain out of a mole hill. He sent $5.00 to the Judge of Probation and an I. O. U. for the balance instead of $10.48 for the whole amount, and the Judge with good knowledge said "No". The whole amount is required before the prisoner can go free, I therefore paid the balance out of my own pocket and his fare home. He was after his man as soon as he arrived home and he had his $5.00 back by the end of the week, and now he is shouting loud and long what he has done for the poor.

I gave all the men in my district a chance for employment during the winter months in order that they may be able to pay their taxes, and a large number took advantage of it and did so.

I wish further to say a word for our Constable, Mr. Andrew Elliott. He has collected the taxes in a very satisfactory manner and has cleaned up all last year's taxes without distressing any one.

I will here sign my name in full to this bit of correspondence, as I have done nothing or said nothing that I am ashamed of.

Amos R. Hill,

The many friends of A. C. Smith, of Saint John, will be interested to learn that he has been selected as one of the standard bearers for the Government Party as representative of Saint John County, in the coming New Brunswick election.

More About The Candid Camera

In "candid" photography you must shoot with conditions "as is." That's what makes it fascinating.

LAST week we talked about candid photography in general so now let's discuss the personal and mechanical equipment necessary to take candid camera pictures.

First, you must be equipped with a disposition to overcome a few obstacles, for you are going to have them if you are determined to get real candid camera shots. As was pointed out last week, in candid photography you take your pictures "as is."

In candid photography your picture possibilities are limited—or unlimited, as the case may be—by the versatility of your camera, but for the average amateur a small camera with an f/3.5 lens will give all the speed necessary. A fast lens plus super-sensitive panchromatic film is essential if you are to make your candid camera shots under adverse lighting conditions, in or outdoors.

Next in importance is your shutter speed. No an extremely fast shutter speed is not all-important for candid shots, but obviously it has many advantages.

An ideal combination for your miniature candid camera is an f/3.5 lens, for "soft" largest diaphragm opening with shutter speeds ranging from one to 1/300 of a second. With such a shutter you will also find it equipped for "time" and "bulb" exposures.

Slow shutter speeds are important, for there are occasions when you will find it quite necessary to make your candid shot with the lens wide open and then, to get proper exposure, you'll have to shoot at speeds of 1/16, 1/32 or perhaps a full second. Slow shutter speeds will be found necessary, too, when under good lighting conditions you may want to "stop down" to f/16 or f/32 to get good depth of focus.

The rule of photography is to use a tripod when taking pictures at speeds slower than 1/25 of a second, or else place the camera on something solid to prevent any movement when the picture is snapped. You can't always plan on either of these safeguards or conveniences in candid photography, for when a candid camera shot appears you must shoot before your name gets away.

Holding the camera steady at slow shutter speeds may be classified as one of the obstacles to conquer. Practice is the only road to success in overcoming this handicap.

First of all, however, know your camera. Thoroughly familiarize yourself with all the manual operations until they become second nature to you.

Then practice holding the camera steady through such low speeds as 1/32 and 1/10 of a second. Don't try to hold yourself stiff in shooting at slow speeds. Relax all over; steady yourself; hold the camera to your eye and release the shutter, not with a sudden push or pull, but with slow steady pressure on the release.

Candid photography may require a little effort and thought but you will be well repaid in unusual and interesting results. It's a great sport.

FORREST FIRES COST CANADA - 10 MILLION DOLLARS A YEAR

The next time you see a cloud of smoke hanging over some distant hill or read in your newspaper of a disastrous forest fire, just remember that it is your property that is burning. Nine-tenths of the forest land is owned by the people through their Dominion or Provincial Governments. In the last ten years forest fires have cost Canada nearly one hundred million dollars. A sum too staggering to mean much to most of us. But when you realize that 'ten dollars' apiece for every man, woman and child in Canada, ten dollars that may have to be added to our taxes to balance the budget, we begin to see the point.

It is estimated that 60 per cent. of Canada's forest has been burned. Only 15 per cent. has been set free and 25 per cent. remains.

Every year we have about 5700 forest fires in Canada, fires that destroy millions of acres of valuable timber. The tragic part of it is that most of these fires are due to human carelessness, open camp fires that were left smouldering, matches and cigarettes carelessly tossed into the brush, etc. Here are the causes of forest fires, taken from the records of The Canadian Forest Service at Ottawa:

Camp Fires	1074 (18.7%)
Smokers	604 (10.5%)
Settlers	919 (16.0%)
Railways	788 (13.6%)
Lightning	820 (14.2%)
Industrial Operations	208 (3.5%)
Incendiary	334 (5.8%)
Public Works	59 (1.0%)
Unknown	962 (16.7%)

So you see 86.5% of the fires are from human causes. These man-made fires can and must be controlled. Every person entering the forest on business or pleasure is urged to take the necessary precautions against the starting and spread of fires. The observance of a few simple rules like selecting a camp-fire site that is free from underbrush, dead wood, leaves, etc., and making sure that your fire is entirely extinguished before you leave, will help a lot.

But the best way to eliminate forest fires is to do away with the open camp fire menace entirely. For a small sum, much less than the ten dollars per capita that forest fire cost, you can buy an all-metal camp stove that keeps your cooking fire high off the ground and is entirely safe to use in the driest season. These stoves do a real cooking job too. They burn common untreated motor gasoline and light instantly with a regular blue gas flame like your gas range at home. All the time you are cooking the fire is safely enclosed in the metal box. There's no wood to cut, no smoke to get in your eyes and no fire hazard. When you are through cooking you turn a valve and the fire goes out. Simply fold your stove up like a small suitcase and you're ready to hit the trail again.

There are several good camp stove made, but the safest one and the one most deserving of patronage by Canadians is the one made by The Coleman Lamp and Stove Company over in Toronto. This is the only camp stove made in Canada by Canadians.

Among the local organizations that have raised funds for the King George Jubilee Cancer Fund is the Rebekah Lodge. Its members arranged an entertainment in their Hall on Monday evening for this purpose.

HIS LUMBAGO HAS NOT COME BACK

Keeps Free of it With Kruschen

There can be no doubt about the effectiveness of the remedy this man uses against lumbago. Read his letter—

"About four years ago, I had a bad attack of lumbago. After being in hospital for two weeks taking heavy treatment, I started taking Kruschen Salts. Since then I am happy to say I have not been troubled with lumbago. I shall still continue taking Kruschen to be sure the lumbago won't come back."—A. C. C.

Why is it that Kruschen is so effective in keeping lumbago at bay? Simply because it goes right down to the root of the trouble, and removes the cause, which is an impure bloodstream. The six salts in Kruschen keep the bloodstream pure and vigorous by promoting a clockwork regularity of ALL the organs of elimination.

Both Worth Their Weight in Gold

Says New Brunswick Lady Of Dodd's Kidney Pills and Dodd's Ointment

Mrs. L. Grondin Always Keeps A Supply In The House

Grand Falls, N. B., May 24 (Special)

"I am never without Dodd's Kidney Pills and Dodd's Ointment. They are both worth their weight in gold," writes Mrs. L. Grondin, a resident of this place. "In 1924 I suffered with kidney trouble, being unable to get up out of my bed. My daughter brought me one of Dodd's Almanacs from the Post Office, and after reading it I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and Ointment. Since that time I have never been without a supply in the house. Dodd's Kidney Pills put me on my feet after giving them a fair trial. My husband also takes them for his Backache and the Ointment is always handy when he gets cuts etc. in the woods."

The road to good health lies through the kidneys, so profit by the experience of others and keep your kidneys in good condition through the regular use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

The sucker lists for the chain letters and prosperity clubs have been opened in Weymouth, but thus far the demands for money have not been excessive. Members of the chain letters can only asking for the small amount of one dime. The prosperity clubs seem to have been introduced here from Freeport and Westport.

In conversation with the Postmaster, we learn that instructions are sent any Postmaster seeing these going through have the right to open them, and if they are letters as they suspected, they may send them to the dead letter office to be destroyed.

ENGLAND'S FIRST UMBRELLA

Who carried the first umbrella in England? Umbrellas were known in this country in the 17th century, but they were not generally used until late in the eighteenth century. Jonas Hanway was the first man to carry an umbrella in London, about 1750, and was laughed at for his trouble. He made a habit of carrying one, however, and the practice soon spread. It was greatly helped by the invention of Samuel Fox in 1852 of metal "ribs," which were a great improvement on the old wooden ones.

Regal Rita Says

"It's the flour that counts in making bread. Even an inexperienced cook can turn out bread fit for a king— if she uses 'REGAL' Flour. There isn't any all-purpose flour that can match 'REGAL'."

ST. LAWRENCE FLOUR MILLS CO. LTD.

England, in 1866,
Captain Marshall was born at West Dalhousie, Annapolis County, Feb. 23, 1840. His parents, William and Elmer (Jackson) Marshall, were pioneer settlers, the father having come from the Isle of Wight and the mother from the North of Ireland, and had been given a tract of land in West Dalhousie by the government. His grandfather came from Whitehall, England, and settled in St. John's, Newfoundland.

Captain Marshall was twice married, his first wife predeceasing him in 1900. By this union there were nine children, five of whom survive. (Ethel), Mrs. Charles Grant, of Weymouth; (Clara), Mrs. Bertram Hardwick, of Annapolis Royal; Capt. Haines Marshall, with the Canadian National Steamship Co., Montreal; George and Bernard Marshall, of Lynn, Mass. His second wife died in 1934, and three brothers have predeceased him. Eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren survive.

Andrew B. Burns, son-in-law of Saint John; Bernard Marshall, of Halifax; Capt. Haines Marshall, of Annapolis Royal; attended the funeral at the Riverside Baptist Church, which was conducted by Rev. Corbett, of Annapolis Royal.

VETERAN MARINER PASSES, AGED 95

Captain Richard Ponsoby Marshall, of Weymouth North, passed away May 13th, after a week's illness of pneumonia, aged 95 years.

Capt. Marshall was one of the few remaining old-time Nova Scotia master mariners who sailed the seven seas, practically before steamships were known, and when the commerce of the world was at work by white-winged clipper ships. His father died when the captain was a small boy, and at an early age he went to sea, taking his marine examinations for captain in his early twenties, which position he held until he retired in 1900.

A notable incident occurred at Deep Brook, in 1938, when Captain Marshall, 87 years of age, of Deep Brook, Capt. Timothy Brooks, 88 years of Weymouth, and Captain Marshall, 90 years, accidentally met, after not seeing each other for 64 years, when they had been officers together on the Susan L. Campbell and were shipwrecked off Liverpool.

Employed Carpenters Fight Fires

Carpenters employed at shingling the roof of the large two family house on Birch Street, owned by A. J. Trohon, proved themselves good fire fighters. The men were at work on the east side of the roof, and were just putting the finishing touches on the peak when they noticed the west side on fire. A large patch of shingles had already been burned off, and the fire had reached the under boards.

To extinguish the blaze without ringing in an alarm. The fire is supposed to have originated from sparks from the chimney. Mrs. Trohon had been burning shingles. These same carpenters had another fire to contend with on the same roof later, this time it was the boss carpenter's trousers on fire—he had put his pipe in his pants pocket.

"Uncle Elmer's" Song Circle to Visit N. S.

"Uncle Elmer" and his "Sunday Song Circle" in response to repeated requests from many of their constant listeners in Nova Scotia, will again visit our Province in June. It will be impossible for them to accept all the invitations that have been offered, but they have arranged their programme so as to allow the greatest number to attend their concerts.

Last year their meetings at Yarmouth were through some of those in attendance having come from a far away as Amherst for the special purpose of meeting and enjoying in person Uncle Elmer and the members of his group.

Uncle Elmer's itinerary will be as follows:

Thursday evening, June 13th, at the United Church, Annapolis Royal. Friday evening, June 14th, at the United Church, Liverpool, Queen's County.

Saturday evening, June 15th, at the Baptist Church, Clark's Harbor, Shelburne County.

Sunday afternoon, June 16th, at the Theatre, Yarmouth.

Sunday evening, June 17th, at the Zion United Baptist Church, Yarmouth.

The group will sail for home on Monday the 17th.

The programs which will be entirely different at each service, will consist of the old, favorite hymns that are loved so well together with new hymns, quartette, duet and solo arrangements. Uncle Elmer's friendly talks have had a real vital influence upon the lives of many listeners. He hopes to meet all of those who have been so good as to write to him, as he feels that he already knows them and also hopes to meet a lot of new friends on his Nova Scotia trip.

SAWMILL OPERATIONS GETTING UNDERWAY

With the ending of the winter season cutting and hauling logs, sawmill operations are getting under way in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. It is estimated that there are 11,900,000 feet to be driven down the Restigouche in New Brunswick, and on another stream in that province, Millstream upwards of 3,000,000 feet will be floated to the mill. In one district in the province the winter's cut was the largest in recent years. These operations will give employment to considerable numbers of men.

The fire department was called out for two chimney fires during the week. One on Sunday evening, at the residence of George Keen, King Street, and on Wednesday morning at the residence of George Lake, St. Mary's Street.

Seized Boat Destroyed by Fire

The open power boat "No. 3," seized on February 15, by the Digby Detachment of the R. C. M. P. near the Gypsum Plant, at Deep Brook, with a cargo of 29 kegs of rum—was no more.

Monday evening, in tow of Capt. Ansel Snow's scallop boat, Edith and Shirley, the "No. 3" took her last voyage to Bear Island, at the mouth of the Bear River, where, under the watchful eye of William MacMahon, Customs Collector for this port, a quantity of gasoline was poured over the craft, and a match applied. The "No. 3" and all her equipment, on orders from the Department at Ottawa, went up in smoke. Before the fire was set, her engines were smashed with a sledge hammer.

The craft's cargo of rum was emptied into the sewer under the supervision of Mr. MacMahon and Mounted Police Officers. The tender of the craft was also destroyed in the fire.

LITTLE PLOUGHING DONE IN NEW ZEALAND

Very little ploughing is done in New Zealand, the soil being kept fertile by chemical fertilizers. What ploughing is done is in the wheat growing districts. A certain quantity of rape is grown for alternative feed for sheep but the general fertility and suitability of the land for all-year-round grassland farming has the effect of making the growing of varieties of crops, desirable in other countries, unnecessary, according to the Agricultural Department of the Canadian National Railways. The wheat produced is of soft varieties and hard wheat is imported from Canada to improve the strength of the local flour made from soft wheats. Apples form the main fruit crop and reach the European market after the North American varieties.

INCREASE IN PIG POPULATION IN IRELAND

The raising of pigs has long been an Irish industry and a twenty per cent increase in the pig population is reported for Northern Ireland, according to the Agricultural Department of the Canadian National Railways. There is a possibility that the export of live pigs from Northern Ireland will be a thing of the past and that henceforth porkers will be exported in the shape of ham and bacon. Efforts are being made to establish bacon factories in Northern Ireland, employing the Wiltshire curing method, to take over from the Danes the job of supplying the requirements of the British market, there being a curtailment of supplies from Denmark. Farmers have been requested not to kill their pigs unless they have contracts with curers.

Rev. Dr. Hodgson was a visitor to Canard, King's Co., last week.

Regular Session of Town Council Held

A resolution was passed at Monday night's regular session of the town council, authorizing the committee on streets to make negotiations with the department of highways for the paving of the Main Street through the town and if possible, have work start immediately. This work is to be done on a 50-50 basis with the provincial department. The mileage involved under this basis is one and nine-tenths. A motion was also passed that the committee on streets investigate further hard-surfacing with the type of road used in the town of Kentville for another two and a half miles, this work to be paid for by the town.

The early part of the session was taken up with child welfare topics. Rev. T. W. Hodgson, president, J. M. Wallis, secretary, and Austin L. Robbins, agent of the Digby Children's Aid Society, addressed the council on matters which the Children's Aid Society and the Town Council have in common.

Rene Richard addressed the council in connection with the condition of the sewers on a section of Maiden Lane. This matter with that of another sewer at the Racquette, will be referred to the Medical Health Officer.

Permission was granted by the council for the construction of three buildings within the town limits. The first request was for the construction of a five-room bungalow for N. G. Wyde, at the Racquette; the next granted was for the construction of a nine-room house for Mrs. Mae Winchester, at the corner of Prince William Street and Maiden Lane; permission was also granted for the erection of a small store, 15 by 20 feet, on part of the ruins of the Warne Block which was destroyed by fire last January. This store, to be built by J. E. Williams, will be erected under the same conditions as other buildings of this type which have been put up recently, namely, under the direction of the streets committee, to be removed at any time on an order from the council.

The superintendent of streets and in his report, told of the laying of several hundred feet of 24-inch pipe for the purpose of carrying off surface water; the planting of some thirty maple trees on May 6th; filling in the hollow between Roop's dry goods store and Baxter's barber shop, and the cleaning up of the north end dump. He also reported on the cleaning out of approximately 12,000 feet of the main water line, which, he believed, was the most important piece of work on the water system since it was extended.

A resolution from the Municipality of Lunenburg re: the collection of hospital accounts was tabled until the next meeting of the town council, when it will be discussed.

A motion that the council take action against transient meat peddlers such as was taken against Alfred Bragg last year, was passed.

Town Solicitor E. J. Theriault reported the settlement of the matter of the fall bill over which the town and municipality have been at loggerheads for some time. The bill was settled on a 50-50 basis, each party to pay its own costs. He also reported the bidding in of the estate of the late Walter Wright, which was sold at auction a short time ago. The house on the property stands on a bad corner and was purchased by the town to make the corner safer. A motion was passed whereby the town will dispose of the buildings to the highest bidder.

At the request of Chief of Police Thibault a motion was passed authorizing signs to be placed at the entrance of the town to give warning of a twenty-mile speed limit town. Another motion was passed that a stop sign be erected at the corner of Church Street and First Avenue.

V. O. N.

The annual collection of membership fees for the V. O. N. will take place next week. 50 cents is the fee for membership, larger or smaller amounts will be gratefully accepted.

The following ladies will call: Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. George Turnbull, Mrs. Morse, Mrs. F. Nichols, Mrs. Morrell, Mrs. H. Nichols, Mrs. MacMahon, Mrs. P. W. Holdsworth, Mrs. V. Turnbull.

Local and Personal

The country roads are getting very dusty.

Miss Marie Flemming, of Halifax, has returned to spend the summer here.

Another sale of Second Hand Books—at the Lending Library.

Mrs. C. H. Saunders, of Sandy Cove, has been visiting Mrs. C. J. Eldridge.

A. D. Daley had the misfortune to break his nose in a fall at his home last week.

Miss Ina O'Brien, of the Digby teaching staff, spent the holiday at her home in Noel.

The sewing circle of the Ladies' Hospital Aid met last week at the home of Mrs. Jules Faust. The next meeting will be on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Howard Anderson.

The rain on Wednesday was most welcome. So far, in this section this has been a very dry spring, and farmers have been hoping for rain for some time. Already one can see a big difference in the foliage. The cherry trees are well in bloom.

Sports

The double header played between the football teams last Friday was sort of a mixed up affair, but served its purpose by getting things started, and at a meeting afterwards, a League was formed and schedule drawn up. Schedule for the month of June is posted in front of the Courty Office.

The Commercial trimmed the Firemen 17-10 Monday night, the first League Game, the outstanding performer being "Marty" Barnes, with two home runs (one with all bases full) and a three-bagger to his credit.

Wednesday night's game, Firemen vs. Cannon Bank, called off on account of rain, was played last night, but since at time of writing, the game was not finished, no score can be given here. Tonight the Cannon Bank meets the Commercial.

Opening of St. Patrick's Hall Tuesday Last

The new St. Patrick's Hall was opened to the public Tuesday evening with a splendid programme of music and novelties. The Novelty Revue, one of the grand attractions of the programme, was staged under the direction of Miss Daisy Foster, well known throughout the province for this class of work, and particularly well known for her success with the Indian Carnival at Annapolis Royal and Digby last summer. She was assisted by Miss Frances MacNutt and Mrs. Roy Snow, of Digby. The Digby Civic Band, under the capable direction of Paul Yates, also rendered several fine selections.

The programme opened with the Toyland Revue with Mother Goose and her popular children taking part. Then followed vocal and instrumental numbers in which Fred Rockwell, Florence Keen, Mrs. J. M. Wallis, Raymond Winchester and Miss Frances MacNutt took part. Among the "big hits" of the evening were a whistling solo by little Miss Leone Surrence; a "magic" act with Arch Dillon as magician and Raymond Winchester as subject; a one-act play "The Lie Detector" in which P. C. Purdy, Victor Cardozo and C. L. Bowley took part; a pantomime number commemorating the erection of St. Patrick's Church in 1833 and the open of the new hall one hundred years later.

In behalf of the people, Miss Foster was presented with a bouquet. Rev. Father Murphy expressed his thanks to the audience and to those, especially those of other congregations in the town, who helped to put on the programme. He also offered the hall free to the school for their closing exercises, and to the Digby General Hospital for their annual fair. J. W. Merkel and J. MacKenzie also congratulated the people of St. Patrick's Church on their new hall and to Father Murphy for the great interest he has taken in the work.

The new hall, which is in reality the basement of a new church, the superstructure of which will be erected when money is forthcoming to carry on the work, fills a long felt want in Digby, its spacious quarters are adaptable for every type of entertainment which the community, as a whole, may undertake.

The programme was repeated Wednesday evening.

Digby Golf Course Opens Tomorrow

The nine hole Digby Golf Course will open tomorrow under the management of Clayton Snow. Mr. Snow who is looking forward to a good season this year, reports the course to be in a splendid condition with greens and fairways in better shape than they have been for several years.

This course has always been one of the favorite courses in Western Nova Scotia. Its usual splendid condition and beautiful situation have made it one of the town's drawing cards for many years, and many, perhaps because it is an easier course, prefer it to the larger and more hazardous one.

Digby as a tourist centre, is very fortunate in having two such fine golf courses—the nine hole Digby Course and the New 18 hole Pine Course.

Mrs. Minnie Appleby and daughter Frances, are spending a few days with relatives at Sandy Cove.

TO AVOID MOTOR ACCIDENTS

Following is a valuable list of rules for the guidance of both children and adults in connection with driving to which would undoubtedly lessen the toll of accidents: 1—Don't ever ride with strangers. 2—Always walk on the left hand side of the road and get clear off the road when you meet an automobile. 3—Don't ever cross a road or highway until you are sure there are no cars coming from either direction. 4—Don't attempt to cross an intersection until you are certain that there is plenty of time. 5—If you see an accident go for help quickly. 6—Keep clear of the wreck. Let grown people give aid to the injured.

Here are some suggestions for drivers: 1—Don't ever pick up strangers. 2—Always drive on the right hand side of the road and when you meet a pedestrian give him plenty of room. 3—Maintain a lookout for persons crossing the road.

A Kansas City preacher asserts that Paul wrote the first chain letter. Maybe so, but the Apostle was not out for times; he played for bigger game.

PATERNALISM

Paternalism is slowly killing this country, said Hon. J. A. Faulkner, Ontario minister of health speaking at Stratford one night recently. Governments are much to blame for this state of affairs. They have been babying people along for many years. It began for political purposes and now paternalism is riding governments like an old man of the sea. People look to the government for everything, where in former decades they depended on their own resources. These were the good old days of sturdy individualism and no relief. Governments will have to take a firm and independent stand if they hope to swing the people back into those better ways of living.

The man who said that conversation was a lost art probably never used a party line.

LEGAL FEUD

An interesting office feud, taken to court, was settled the other day in New York. Both parties were city employees, and they had a row. One of them sought to get even by bringing suit against the other for $25,000, charging that the defendant had called him a crook. The defendant brought a counter suit for $5,000, accusing the plaintiff of slandering him and his family.

When they had fought it all out in court, the jury awarded each of them six cents. That was even-handed justice—probably just about what each of the litigants deserved.

Too many lawsuits are like that.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S FUR INDUSTRY

One of New Brunswick's first industries—trapping—is still carried on but the close of the season at the end of April shows a falling off from former years in the case of weasel, otter, marten, skunk, muskrat, and red fox and a slight increase for wild cats and mink. Muskrats show the greatest decrease. A decrease was also registered at the close of the 1934 season when 18,389 muskrats were taken as against 25,354 for 1933.

Motor Accident

At Journey Town, about a half-mile below Weymouth, at 7:30 Sunday evening, six persons had miraculous brushes with death, and escaped with nothing more serious than shock, minor bruises and cuts, when two cars crashed in head on collision.

One car was operated by Fred Deveau, of Hectanooga, and contained his brother Nezaré Deveau, and the 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Theriault, of North Range.

Young Theriault had one ear so nearly severed that it was necessary to take it off. The second machine, a new Plymouth, was operated by John Colp, of Bridgewater, and contained the Misses Anna Belliveau and Alice Hogan, both of Weymouth.

The Deveau car was just coming over the top of a hill and was proceeding toward Yarmouth, while the Colp car was coasting down the hill in direction of Weymouth. Both cars were complete wrecks. Dr. Pothier was immediately summoned and rendered medical aid.

Dr. H. J. Pothier was in Yarmouth on Monday.

Mrs. Alfred Johnson was a guest of Mrs. Joseph Cornwall, at Weymouth North, for a few days last week.

Mrs. Howard Deveau and Miss Corinne Saulnier, of Methuen, were in Yarmouth for a few days recently, visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. Anderson, who spent the winter in Malden, Mass., with her daughter, Mrs. Gene Auld and Dr. Auld, has returned and opened her home here.

William Hankinson, of the teaching staff of the Windsor High School, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. W. C. Hankinson, spent the week end at their home at Weymouth North.

The motor vessel Tillie, arrived in port at Weymouth North on Sunday to load a cargo of pulp wood for the Messy Plant at Liverpool. N. S. Cargo is being shipped by H. E. Wagner.

In the Magistrate's Court last week, Desire Comeau of Little Brook, arrested by the R. C. M. P. on the charge of breaking and entering the store of Joseph G. Saulnier, of Little Brook, was remanded for further examination, under $2000 bond.

Galen R. Pierce, of Wilmot, Principal of the Weymouth High School, and William C. Hankinson, of Weymouth North, teacher at the Windsor High School, are among those who have been appointed on the Common Examining Board for the summer.

The Windsor Glee Club last week won the Kiwanis Cup, presented for competition between male choruses at the Music Festival in Halifax.

William C. Hankinson, of Weymouth North, is one of the members of the Club. Mr. Hankinson and a young lady were also successful in winning another of the cups for a duet.

It is gratifying to note that the D. A. R. is restoring the Bluenose train service between Halifax and Yarmouth, beginning July 1st. These trains have not been in operation in recent years and the replacement signifies the faith General Manager G. E. Graham has in the return to normal conditions respecting tourist travel.

Practice for the C. G. I. T. play "Comical Country Cousins", which is to be held next week (see ad in another column) was held at the home of the leader, Kathleen FitzGerald, on Monday evening, and at the home of Ruberta Rand on Wednesday evening. Tickets are now on sale by the members of the Group.

As they are only a very small sum it would be appreciated if any who cannot attend the play would purchase a ticket just the same. Donations of candy for sale would also be appreciated. The proceeds are for Camp Funds.

CAPT. RICHARD MARSHALL, A MASTER MARINER
(By L. M. D. H.)

One of the last of our Nova Scotia sea veterans of the days of "wooden ships and iron men" in the person of Capt. Richard Marshall, of Weymouth North, has passed on to weathered 95 years of the storms of the Great Beyond, after having lived a full and useful life.

He was born at West Dalhousie, Annapolis County, Feb. 22, 1840. His parents William and Elmer (Jackson) Marshall, being pioneer settlers from England and Ireland.

Capt. Marshall has made his home in Weymouth since he was a lad of four. Being left fatherless at an early age, he chose the sea-faring life as a means of livelihood, and when only 18 years of age sailed for the West Indies in the brigantine "John Oliver," as cook. Other trips were made in a French schooner, brigantine, "Princess," schooner "Shapiro," brigantine "Crosby," "Quigley Campbell," "Colin Campbell," and "Frances Rice."

In 1863 he left the Colin Campbell, shipping on the barque Susan L. Campbell, making eight voyages to the old country and three to the West Indies. In August, 1867, he shipped on the brigantine "Two Marys," sailing in September for Glasgow, came back to Boston, arriving home in Weymouth on Christmas Day.

Young Marshall had within him an adventurous "seafaring" spirit and although the work on the old brigantines and barques was much harrowing and fatiguing than that of today, and although the land offered him means of livelihood which were far easier, his one aim was to "sail on, sail on and on" until his goal was reached. In September, 1866, he had by constant effort, reached his goal, having obtained his captain's papers. The first vessel under his command was the brigantine Two Marys, loading at Annapolis for Trinidad, back to Barbados, loading sail at St. Martin's for Boston.

The captain has made trips between Meteghan, Weymouth, Annapolis, Bear River, Boston, Porto Rico, Rotterdam, St. John, Barbados, Trinidad, Jamaica, Cuba, Philadelphia, Ireland, Demerara, and other ports. On one trip Capt. Marshall took his son, Haines, upon a captain and in the employ of the Canadian National Steamships, and Robert Hankinson, (also a captain)—mere boys, who wished to go just for the adventure—paying them each $9.00, the two enquiring, one ordinary seaman.

The captain's last was made on the Frances Rice, during which he rescued a crew of fourteen Norwegian sailors from life boats, they having had to abandon their vessel which went down.

In devoting forty-two years of his life to the boundless deep, Capt. Marshall made one hundred and two trips to the West Indies and fifteen to the old country, making a total of one hundred and twenty-five trips. He had only two wrecks, one in 1867, the barque Susan L. Campbell being stranded in Liverpool Bay; the other, the Grace Rice, ashore on Brier Island in 1885, and lost only two seamen—Doubtless and Grant.

Having talked with the captain a short time, as he mentioned recalling to mind thirteen ships which sailed out of the Shipsho River and were never afterwards heard from, he also stated that of all the ships built in his time, those launched and owned by Colin Campbell, in whose service he was, for twenty years, were the staunchest.

During the summer of 1930 an unusual occurrence was that of an incidental meeting of Capt. Austin age 87, of Deep Brook; Capt. Timothy Brooks, age 88, of Weymouth and Capt. Marshall, age 90, all of whom were officers on the Susan L. Campbell, and who had not been to either since the barque was wrecked in 1867. Since then all three have anchored their souls in the haven of rest.

The captain was a highly esteemed citizen, a valued member of the Riverside Baptist church, an interesting and pleasant conversationalist, enjoyed excellent health and was never confined to his bed through illness, until his last illness—an attack of pneumonia—two weeks ago. He first wife predeceased him in 1900 and his second in 1934. He is survived by five children living, namely: Mrs. Charles Grant, of Weymouth North; Mrs. G. B. Hardwick, of Annapolis Royal; Capt. Haines Marshall, of the C. N. Steamships, Montreal; George and Bernard, of Lynn, Mass. Also by eighteen grandchildren, and five great grandchildren.

Interment took place at Riverside Baptist church, on Friday afternoon, May 17th.

Mrs. John Abramson, of Digby, spent the week end with Capt. Abramson, of the Government Dredge, No. 16, at Weymouth North.

Dr. D. V. Manahan, of Rumson, N. J., and A. Palmer, of New York, were recent guests of Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Walsh, at the rectory.

Arlington Crowell, of the Government Dredge, No. 16, attended the Supreme Court at Digby Tuesday, he being one of the Jurymen.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Mullen and son Willis, visited Mrs. Mullen's sister, Mrs. Omer Denton and Mr. Denton at Little River on Sunday.

Miss Bessie Wagner, of Danvers, was a week end guest of Miss Margaret Grant at Weymouth North. Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Simpson and Miss Emily Taylor, of New York, have arrived to spend the summer at their home here.

The Council for the Municipality of the District of Digby met at the Court House on Tuesday, May 27th, 1935. Present, J. V. Andrews, warden; and Councillors Chisholm, S. E. Woodman, Cossaboom, Morrell, Kenney, Hill, Cornwell, W. C. Woodman, Dunn, Hankinson. The warden, presiding, addressed the Council telling of the celebrations held in the various districts in honor of the twenty-fifth year of the reign of King George, a special effort having been made to impress the children and help them realize the vastness and unity of our Empire. The Councillors told of the celebrations held for the school children in their districts.

The minutes of the January meeting were re-read.

Discussion followed re. tax on collection of dog taxes; the increasing amounts for hospital bills; and assessment—the Councillors going over the assessment rolls for their districts.

Mr. H. A. Nichols, solicitor, being present, spoke of the disputed account for transients placed in the jail by the town, the town having offered to settle on a one-half basis. The question was left for further information.

Councillor Dunn gave notice in writing that at the next meeting of the Council he would ask that the motion as passed at the January meeting of the Council be reconsidered.

Councillor Chisholm gave a report re. Direct Relief, stating he had asked Mr. McKay, the supervisor, to meet this Council and arrange for a new agreement, but had not been able to do so, but would ask him to try and come before the Council at the next session.

On motion, the Council adjourned until 10 a. m., Wednesday.

Wednesday, May 28th

Council met at 10 a. m., Wednesday, May 28th, all attending Councillors present. The warden in the chair. Minutes of the previous day were read and approved.

The warden gave a report re. Leonard Amero (deceased), a tubercular patient who had been a municipal charge, and also told of Fred Amero, a brother, also a tubercular patient who was now boarding at Mrs. Kaziah Comeau's. Much discussion followed as to the best method of caring for tubercular patients who are municipal charges.

Moved by Councillor W. C. Woodman that Mrs. Kaziah Comeau be paid four dollars per week for the board of Fred Comeau from the time the Overseers of the Poor were notified that he was at her home; and also recommended that this man be removed from Mrs. Comeau's, as there are children in the home; seconded by Councillor S. E. Woodman and passed.

A letter was read from Dr. Rice, Medical Health Officer, stating that he was recommending that Miss Pauline LeBlanc, of Weymouth North, be admitted to the Nova Scotia Sanatorium as a municipal charge. Councillor Hill reported on this case and moved that Miss LeBlanc be sent as a municipal charge for two months; seconded by Councillor Hankinson and passed.

A resolution as passed by the Council for the Municipality of Lunenburg, re. charges for patients at local hospitals, was read and heartily endorsed by the Council.

Moved by Councillor Chisholm:

Whereas, by section 4 sub-sections 1 and 3 of Chapter 6 of the Acts of 1925, all resident non-payers of taxes are chargeable to the Municipality and no responsibility for the collection of such patient accounts is placed on the Hospital Board; and whereas the practice of placing so many patients in these institutions, who will not make any effort to pay the Municipality their bills (who would pay the Hospital) but over whose admission the Municipality has no control whatever, is placing an unbearable burden of taxation on the Municipality that threatens to become ruinous and from which some relief must be secured; if the Municipality are to carry on:

Resolved, That the Council of the Municipality of the District of Digby in session convened, vote on record as being strongly in favour of the repeal of such sections of the Act, and the introduction of amending sections providing for the collection by the Hospital Board, direct, of all accounts of patients, with the exception of those admitted, or guaranteed by the Overseers of the Poor for any of the Poor Districts of the Municipality or the Poor Committee of the Town, which account would be chargeable to the Municipality or Town;

Further Resolved, That copies of this Resolution be forwarded to Hon. P. R. Davis, Minister of Health; Hon. J. W. Comeau, Judge Arthur Robt. Secretary of the Nova Scotia Municipalities, and all Municipal Clerks in the Province, asking the cooperation in having this change put into effect.

Seconded by Councillor S. E. Woodman, and passed.

Moved by Councillor Dunn that Councillors Hankinson and Morrell be a committee, with the Solicitor, to draft a resolution asking that the Municipality be relieved of the cost of tubercular patients; seconded by Councillor Cornwell and passed.

Councillor Morrell asked information regarding the giving of food in cases where relief is asked, and suggested that a list be compiled as a guide for the Overseers of the Poor.

Councillor Hankinson, chairman of the Tenders and Public Property committee, read a letter from the Keeper of the County Home in which he resigned his position. Mr. Hankinson reported the committee having advertised for tenders for a Keeper and read applications from the following: Bernard Seely and wife; Albert Rigo; Leland J. Elliott; Laurie Thompson; Minard Chute. Moved by Councillor Dunn that these be left on the table until the Councillors had visited the County Home; seconded by Councillor W. C. Woodman, and passed.

A representative from Gandy & Allison came before the Council re. repairs to the walls of the Court House.

Moved by Councillor W. C. Woodman, seconded by Councillor Cossaboom, that the Councillors visit the County Home on the afternoon of Thursday, the 9th. Passed.

On motion the Council adjourned until 2 p. m.

Council re-assembled at 2 p. m.

All attending Councillors present; the warden in the chair.

On motion Mr. E. J. Theriault, solicitor for the Town of Digby, came before the Council speaking of the disputed jail account. A letter from the Town was read in which the offer for settlement was made, the town to pay one-half the disputed account. Moved by Councillor Dunn that this offer be accepted, the Town to pay $4.75 for the settlement of the disputed account; seconded by Councillor Cornwell, and passed.

Councillor Chisholm spoke of the case of a McDormand child, Mrs. Arthur Hazleton having asked to be remunerated for keeping the child after discussion the Council decided that the Municipality had no responsibility in this matter and no action was taken.

The question of the settlement of Mrs. Edward Dukeshire next came before the Council, a notification having come from the Municipality of Yarmouth that this woman was a charge on that Municipality; the question was left for further information.

Councillor Hankinson placed before the Council the Hospital bill for Harry Wagner, his being an emergency case of infantile paralysis, and no arrangement having been made for the payment of this account. Moved by Councillor Hankinson that the Clerk be authorized to pay this account and a bill for the full amount be sent to Mr. Elliott Wagner, father of the patient; seconded by Councillor Dunn, and passed.

Councillor Hill gave a report re. the Harms children, who had been deserted by their father and are now a charge on the Municipality; a letter was read from the R. C. M. P. at Lunenburg stating that the father had promised to pay for the maintenance of the children, but had not kept this promise, and they are asking for instruction for further procedure.

On motion the Council adjourned until 10 a. m., Thursday.

Thursday, May 29th

Council met at 10 a. m., all the Councillors present (Councillor Althouse having arrived); the warden in the chair. Minutes of the previous day were read and approved.

The discussion of the Harms case was resumed, the solicitor being present. Moved by Councillor Hill that a warrant be issued against Harry Harms; seconded by Councillor Chisholm, and passed. (Corporal Hetherington, of the R. C. M. P., came before the Council giving information re. costs for arresting, etc.)

In the question of the settlement of Mrs. Edward Dukeshire there is some doubt as to the correctness of dates given, and the Clerk was instructed to notify the Municipality of Yarmouth that this Municipality does not accept the settlement of this woman as in this Municipality without further investigation.

Moved by Councillor Dunn that the Warden and Councillor Hankinson and Councillor Cossaboom be a committee to arrange for final settlement with the Municipality of Annapolis in the Lewis case; seconded by Councillor Hill, and passed.

Moved by Councillor Hankinson that the Solicitor be instructed to collect the amount due from the Municipality of Kings for Frank O'Neill; seconded by Councillor Hill, and passed.

Moved by Councillor Woodman, seconded by Councillor Cornwell, and passed, that Councillor Hill be a committee of one to investigate the John Dunkley case.

Moved by Councillor W. C. Woodman that the Treasurer of the Town of Windsor be asked to remove Mrs. Frances Jerritt and her children from this Municipality; seconded by Councillor Dunn, and passed.

The Warden told of the Ullman family, the mother and several children being now in the province, the father of the children being an American citizen. The Council decided that the family should be deported and authorized the Warden to take any necessary procedure to have this done.

The following resolution was moved by Councillor Hankinson, seconded by Councillor Morrell, and passed:

Whereas, the Municipality of Digby finds it impossible to pay for patients at the Nova Scotia Hospital for the inmate at Dartmouth at the present rate of eight dollars and fifty cents per week;

And Whereas, a former rate was half that amount, and whereas the Councillors of the Municipality of Digby are of the opinion that the present economic conditions warrant a return to the old rate:

Resolved, That the Government of Nova Scotia give this matter careful attention and consideration, and that the rate per week be reduced proportionately with other existing prices and conditions of the day.

That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Minister of Health, the local member of the Provincial Legislature, the Secretary of the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities and the Municipal Clerks of all the Municipalities in this Province.

On motion the Council adjourned until 1.15 p. m.

Council re-assembled at 1.15 p. m., all Councillors present; the Warden in the chair.

Councillor Morrell gave the report of the Arbitration Committee (they having held a meeting on the evening of the 9th May). This committee recommended that a new form of agreement be made with the Town of Digby. The report was received, but no action taken.

On motion the Council adjourned until 2 p. m.

MORE ABOUT THAT FREEPORT AGREEMENT

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir—Can you allow me space in your good paper to explain a little more in detail the purpose of our agreement referred to in your recent article under the title, "Wants Another Breakwater?"

First, let me quote from said agreement, a section, which I think will show that our ambition is more than just a breakwater.

"Knowing as we do that past methods of handling the public affairs of our community have at times been unsatisfactory, and realizing that such condition has been due in part to lack of interest in matters pertaining to our own welfare, we are using this method of binding ourselves together irrespective of political parties, in order that in the future ALL matters of a public nature can be dealt with openly and directly by the people acting as one in a common cause."

Our much promised and needed breakwater happens to be the first thing that calls for our united action at the polls. The sincerity of our convictions can be well judged on that day.

We strongly desire that other districts with similar troubles, will also see that in unity there is strength and eventually we can work out a programme of mutual benefit to all. Some have construed the meaning of our actions as a threat to the powers that be. We prefer however to be judged on the whole spirit of our agreement which is simply that with a friendly understanding of each other's troubles we are using our votes to help out our own salvation.

We believe, friends, in the principles of a true democracy, one that calls for representatives and not a dictator. Apparently many of those in authority, think otherwise; if not, how can the actions of both low and municipal councils be explained. We ask the many readers of this paper to grasp the whole idea of our efforts and trust that in the future our affairs will be handled by our authorities with a far deeper sense of our many troubles.

We unitedly thank you, Mr. Editor, for your understanding and sympathetic attitude toward those whose struggle is hard.

DISCOVERY OF AMERICA STILL GOING STRONG

The question as to who discovered America is still going strong, state the Tourist Department of the Canadian National Railways. The Norsemen got into the limelight, their period being 1,000 A. D., with exploration in the form of a runic stone in the Public Library at Yarmouth, of a date around 1,007 A. D.

There comes a claim for the Irish some four or five hundred years before this. China puts in a bid from the shores of America, leaving curiously carved stones which have been unearthed in the vicinity of Nanaimo, British Columbia. There is much to bolster up the Chinese discovery of America, the oriental characteristics of the Pacific Coast Indians and the ease with which the Pacific coast of America can be reached by way of the Behring Strait. Even now the passage is made by canoes and it would be an easy matter for a party to leave Asia by the Behring Strait and come down the coast of Alaska.

The regular meeting of the Ladies Hospital Aid Society will be held at the Court House this afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

The work of preparing the Digby streets for paving is forging ahead, and employment is being found for a number of men. On Monday a tractor, steam roller, trucks and men commenced work on Water Street, preparing it for hard surfacing. It is understood that the paved road will extend from the Racquette bridge at the North End to the town line, beyond the hospital, at the South End. The work is being done by the St. George Construction Company, the same concern which has the contract for surfacing the road through Smith's Cove. The provincial government is assisting the town in this work.

Along Water Street the curb stones have been straightened out, ditches on Birch Street, (which is included in the town and government program), have been filled with rock, and several water and sewer lines have been repaired or renewed, and a sidewalk is being laid in the section between Wright's store and McPhee's. Work is also being carried on in the vicinity of the Racquette bridge.

At the last regular meeting of the council, held a few days ago, a resolution was passed authorizing the street committee to make arrangements for paving. The mayor went to Halifax in this connection during the week, returning Saturday. A special session of the Council was called for that afternoon, and the work of preparing began Monday. Quick work!

Other hard surfacing will be carried out by the town without the assistance of the government this year, and will include some two and a half miles of other streets, a portion of which, we understand, will be from the Catholic chapel along King Street to Carleton, down Carleton to Queen and along Queen. Machinery of the Municipal Spraying Company has already arrived. This job, we are told, will be similar to that used in the town of Kentville and is cheaper than the type of material which will be used on Water Street.

The people of Digby have realized the need of hard surfaced roads for a long time, and generally are of the opinion that it will be a wise investment—one that will pay for itself. The cost of maintaining the dirt roads has in the past been a heavy one, and the annual saving made in this way will likely more than make up the cost of the paving. The elimination of much of the dust will also be a decided asset.

A meeting of the executive of the Annapolis, West Young People's Union of the United Churches, was held in the United Church parsonage in Digby, on Saturday last. Several matters of business were attended to. The following have been appointed as delegates to the Maritime Young People's Union, to be held in Sackville, in July: Mrs. Hugh Morehouse, Mrs. Wm. Forsythe, the Misses Clara Hankinson, Helen Morehouse, Annie Chute, Dorothy Saunders and Kathleen FitzGerald.

Lack of complete uniforms and the heavy cost of transportation combined to keep the Digby boys from taking part in the Blossom Festival at Kentville, where six other bands made a fine showing and contributed largely to the success of the day. Before another such event occurs it is hoped the Civic Band will find some means to obtain the necessary capes to complete their outfit. With this latest style uniform on hand in the province will make a better appearance.

BUILDING ACTIVITIES

During the past few months there has been considerable building going on within the town limits. Several permits to build, mostly for residences of the better type, have been granted by the town council since spring. These permits include the large summer house near Loug Lodge, for Channing Lefevre, organist of Trinity Church, New York, who has been a regular summer visitor to Digby for several years; the construction of a five-room bungalow for Mrs. Lantheil, on the Lighthouse Road; another bungalow for Mr. Wyldie, of the Green Point Poultry Farm, on the late Jesse Jefferson property; and for a nine-room residence for Mrs. Mae Winchester, former proprietress of the Winchester Hotel, who, for the past few years, has been living in Fredericton.

Conditional permits have also been granted George Winfield, for the construction of a small store near the railroad crossing, at the foot of Birch Street; and to H. F. Williams, for another small store to occupy part of the Warner Block site.

The Red Indian Service Station, between the Royal store and Wright's, is being torn down and a two-story building is going up on its site. The ground floor is to be for stores and the second floor for offices.

Throughout the county there is also considerable building activity, mostly buildings of a small type, but nevertheless buildings, the construction of which is giving a certain amount of employment.

Baptist District Meeting

The Digby County Baptist district meeting of United Baptists was held at North Range on Thursday and Friday of last week. President Higgins, as pastor of the entertaining church, welcomed the large number of delegates. Rev. J. T. Dimock, of Centreville, responding.

On Thursday night Rev. A. A. MacLeod preached a strong-temperance sermon, condemning the indifference of many Christians toward the evils of liquor, tobacco and profanity.

The Friday morning session was opened by a devotional service led by Rev. St. John's, and closed with a prayer, "The Holy Spirit," by Rev. C. L. Chute. Reports from the churches indicated an encouraging spiritual condition, especially at Westport and North Range. The United Baptist Convention reports increased giving over last year. Denominational work, United Baptists of this county must make a determined effort if they are to equal or exceed last year's giving.

The afternoon session was addressed by Rev. J. T. Dimock, on "The Old Ways" and Rev. F. B. Bishop, on "The Local Church." If the duty activity and spirit that was emphasized in the second address was realized the local church would be travelling in the old ways of consecration and effectiveness.

The Women's Missionary Meeting, led by County President, Mrs. J. V. Andrews, received reports from the W. M. A. S. of the county and was addressed by Dr. Mason, of Wolfville, and Dr. Timpany, of Digby, on Home and Foreign Missions respectively.

Mason spoke on "The Truth from Our Fathers," emphasizing the fact that it is the same Truth that is precious to us today and for which there is no substitute. He was followed by Rev. H. C. Marriages

Emerson - Adams

Miss Bernice Louise Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loran A. Adams, and Harold Stewart Emerson, son of Luther L. Emerson, of Demarest, New Jersey, were married at noon, June 3rd, in the United Church at Bay View. Rev. Dr. Hodgson officiating. The wedding march was played by Mrs. E. M. Ritchey, of Halifax, a cousin of the bride. The bride in a gown of pale pink satin, with picture hat to match, carrying a bouquet of carnations, lilies and sweet peas, was given in marriage by her father. She made a very beautiful bride. She was attended by her sister, Fern, who also looked very lovely, gowned in pale blue orsande, with picture hat to match; she carried a bouquet similar to that of the bride. The groom was supported by Bernard G. Eddy, of Trenton, New Jersey.

The church was decorated with apple blossoms and the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes were tastefully arranged in the back ground. The ushers were Miss Louise Abbott and Miss Inez Bremner, both of Bay View. They were gowned in pastel shades of green and blue flowered chiffon and carried bouquets of sweet peas and ferns. After the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home where a buffet lunch was served. The house was decorated with apple blossoms and spring flowers.

The bride's mother assisted in receiving guests in navy silk crepe with hat to match.

The happy couple left on the train for Yarmouth en route to Bermuda. They were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, including china, silver, cheques and linen.

Two nights of performance on the stage gave the Band Boys a good impression of the acoustic properties of the new St. Patrick's Hall. After the last performance the Bandmaster told the audience he had found no other hall in the province so well adapted to the purpose, the usual blare and confusing echoes being entirely absent. The performance of such contrasting numbers as Beethoven's Minuet in G, Paganini's 12th Regiment, March, Konrad's March of Baden, Waltzes, the Circus Parade and Lassus Trombone being equally agreeable to sensitive ears, making the programme the most pleasing yet rendered by this Band.

Fishermen Petition for Help

Shore fishermen of Digby Neck Long and Briar Islands claim that for the past five years they have been able to earn enough to purchase the necessary gear with which to keep their boats in proper condition for fishing. This they blame principally to the low price paid for hake and pollock, which are among the staples in this vicinity.

These fishermen have drawn up a petition stating their case. This petition is to be presented to both the federal and provincial governments, and asks that a bonus of 20 cents per hundredweight be paid on hake and/or pollock, one-half of this bonus to be paid by the federal government, the other by the provincial. They claim that it is impossible for them to make expenses less than 150 cents per hundred weight on these catches, and the market price is much below that figure.

The Misses Ella and Bessie MacMillan were visitors to Yarmouth this week.

The closing exercises of the Sacred Heart Academy, Meteghan, will take place to next week.

CLIMATE GOVERNS CHOICE OF WOODS

Climate sometimes governs in the choice of woods used for building. Due to the damp climate of North Ireland and Scotland, spruce or white wood is preferred, while in England the staple wood is redwood or Douglas fir. Canadian lumber, including maple and birch flooring, is being used in Northern Ireland with satisfactory results and with construction planned for 1935 the outlook looks promising for Canadian lumber in that portion of the British Isles.

Between Ourselves

There has certainly been a change in "the other side of the street" since I came to Digby. Although there have always been splendid stores, apparently doing a good business, on the east side of Water Street, it has always been regarded as the "wrong side of the street."

Today I wonder if it is still "the wrong side of the street." It certainly has changed.

When I first knew Digby, about seventeen years ago, there was a long vacant stretch between what is now Peck's Barber Shop and Wright's (then Lettens's) store. Herb Woodman put up the fine garage which has since been purchased and enlarged by Morrell & Sypher. Frank Hayden built the building next to that, originally for a bowling academy, later it was converted into a tea room, and a few years ago became the home of the Royal Department Store. Mr. Hayden also built the Red Indian Service Station. I believe it was first known as the Ocean Gardens Service Station, which he is now demolishing to make room for a larger building to contain stores and offices. These three buildings filled in the gap referred to.

A concrete sidewalk has also been laid down on this "wrong side of the street," which is now being continued still further.

As we travel down further toward the south we find Ryan's Grocery Store in the Aymer Building, which has been used for a little bit of everything since I first knew it as a shoe shine parlor—and Bartel's barber shop now in the building next to the Valley Studio.

All Digby's dry good stores are on the "wrong side of the street" so called. Taking the business houses on that side of the street, one by one, travelling south from MacDonald Motors. We find a big change in that building in the past seventeen years. When I came here it was Ben's Restaurant (the name was later changed to Rainbow Cafe); it was a few years ago purchased by Frank Hayden, and remodelled into an automobile show room on the second floor, and a pool room over head—there should also mention Weir's Garage and Machine Shop, a new building erected a little more than a year ago, just north of MacDonald Motors.

Next is a vacant store. For several years the meat market of Stanley Titus, known as the Sanitary Market, and later occupied by the late Mrs. Belle Morse. There has been no change in the building occupied by the Chinese Laundry, now in W. L. Holdsworth's Hardware Store.

The next building is the one now owned by William Webber, who lives overhead, and occupied on the ground floor by the Nova Scotia Liquor Commission. If I remember correctly, when I came to Digby this was a solvent store, known as the "Weymouth," later occupied as a dry goods store by B. Haver. Between that time and the time the Nova Scotia Liquor Commission came into being, it was used for other businesses.

Grace Fountain conducted an ice cream parlor and tea room in the building now occupied by the Paris Beauty Salon and Barber Shop. I have already mentioned Morrell & Sypher's Garage, the Royal Department Store and the Red Indian Service Station. Wright's store has changed hands. I came here shortly after the death of Otis Warner, who conducted a confectionery store in the northern part of the building; this business was later taken over by Miss Kate Campbell, then by Mrs. S. J. Abbott, and then by Mrs. E. VanBlarcom. A short time ago it became the Barber Shop—an up-to-date barber store. The southern part of the building was occupied by S. A. Lettens's dry goods store, later taken over by O. Wright.

Next is Turnbull's Block. The northern store was occupied by the Central Meat Market, with the late Wesley Fairweather as proprietor; later it was taken over by William Lett, now of Weymouth, and still later by his son, Raymond, who carries on at the present time. A. R. Turnbull's, when I came here, was Turnbull & Company; this large grocery business is now one of the M. M. A. group.

The MacPhee Block is still occupied by Angus MacPhee, tailor, and C. A. Lindstrom, jeweler. The monument and memorial garden between this block and Smith's Drug Store came into existence after the war. Smith's Drug Store was then H. E. Jones'. After his death it was carried on by the estate for several years with Dalton MacKinnon as manager. When Mr. MacKinnon purchased a drug business in Wolfville Mr. Smith came as manager, and later acquired the business.

Dakin Brothers are still doing business in the same stand. Ryan's Grocery Store is one of the youngest business places in town.

Yates' Studio is in the same old place but the building has changed owners as since the death of John Daley it has become the property of his grandson, David Daley. Mr. Yates now occupies the whole building. Mr. Daley's office having been abandoned after his death. Next to him was J. L. Peters' carpet rooms. Elmer Weir, of Smith's Cove, bought the building and conducted a feed and grocery store for a time and the late Howard Graham had his carpenter shop in the basement. A couple of years ago Ralph Baxter opened a barber shop in this building. Later when George Ryan started doing business, a partition was put up and he occupied half of the building for a time, and I understand, intends opening a fruit store in his old stand this summer.

Mrs. Roope's store was formerly the dry goods store of J. L. Peters. She took over the business on his retirement. The Farmers' Market, next to Roope's, was known as the Digby Meat Market, and was operated by A. J. Westhaver, who later sold out to Roy Mallett. This was later purchased by Genes Sanford, who still conducts it, with Ralph Berwick as manager.

The above concludes the business section of the "wrong side of the street," I wonder if there isn't as much business done today on "the wrong side" as on the "right side?"

Mrs. Dorothy Lent
The death of Mrs. Dorothy Lent, 91, occurred at Deep Brook, on May 29. She was a daughter of the late Wilbur Parker, of Bear River. Interment was in Mount Hope cemetery, Bear River.

Leonard E. Comeau
The death of Leonard E. Comeau, well known resident of Comeau's Lake, South Range, occurred at his home on June 2nd, at the age of 75 years. Mr. Comeau had been a resident of that place for fifty years. His wife predeceased him three years. Surviving are two sons, Benjie, in New York, and Gilbert, whose whereabouts are unknown. Interment was in the South Range cemetery, with Rev. Dr. Walsh, of the Anglican Church, Weymouth, officiating.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

EVERYTHING considered, snapshots, taken with a camera, will easily give you a part of any positive for magnification. Suppose you have a good apparatus of the youngsters at play in the sandbox—a picture which their grandparents would be delighted to have enlarged, isn't it? But suppose you haven't yet experimented with enlargements, now's the time.

In enlarging a picture you get not only a larger, more realistic image, but the opportunity to select the best part of any negative for magnification. Suppose you have a good apparatus of the youngsters at play in the sandbox—a picture which their grandparents would be delighted to have enlarged, isn't it? But suppose you haven't yet experimented with enlargements, now's the time.

Some of the best enlargements we've seen have been landscapes—or perhaps, mountains usually make good pictures.

A friend of ours makes a practice of taking informal shots of his friends when they are enlarged and displayed in the various rooms of his home, and which simplified his gift they're something to be proud of.

With the coming of summer you will be getting many pictures that will make beautiful enlargements such as a picture of grandmother in the flower garden, or after standing in front of a tree filled with beautiful spring blossoms.

Opportunities for beautiful pictures are countless at this time; or take a snapshot with your camera make a picture 5 or 6 times the size of the original. A sharp 2 1/2

Mrs. E. L. Woodman
Friends here learned with regret of the death of Mrs. E. L. Woodman, aged 34, which occurred recently in Buffalo, New York, after a brief illness with appendicitis. Besides her husband and two sons, John and Roy, she is survived by four sisters and three brothers. Mrs. Woodman and her husband were former residents of Jostin Bridge, and moved to Buffalo a few years ago.

The "Admiral Digby" well, at the corner of Maiden Lane and Prince William Street, which was uncovered some weeks ago, has been dug out and walled, with a very attractive stone top built over it. The top is roofed.

The Young Men's Class of the Digby Baptist Church will present their annual male choir programme at the Sunday evening service, June 23rd.

A specially selected group of old hymns will be sung, and the service will be almost entirely devoted to the male choir. Everybody welcome.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Timpany was the speaker at Tuesday's luncheon of the Digby Kiwanis Club. The subject of his talk was "Finger Prints." Dr. Timpany took up this study as a hobby ten years ago, and put his knowledge of the subject to practical use in co-operating with the Indian police in India. His task was most interesting and he proclaimed the method of finger printing as practically the only sure means of identification.

The farmers of this county plan to "take a day off" on the 20th of this month when they hold their Picnic and Field Day at the Athletic Field, Weymouth. A splendid programme is now being arranged for this occasion, which will include cattle judging, speeches on agricultural subjects, etc. In the morning, and sports in the afternoon. It is understood that for the afternoon session two tug-o-war teams will pull. This promises to be one of the feature events. The old fashioned game of quoits—or horse-shoe pitching—will also be brought into prominence.

Old man trouble came to our door this week—and got in without knocking. As a result we were tied up from Tuesday afternoon until yesterday morning. Our linotype managed to get itself out of commission, and all the dotting we could do seemed to be in vain. We worked on the thing until after midnight Tuesday, and all day Wednesday. On Wednesday we sent a distress call to Fred Beattie, linotype operator on the Bridgetown Monitor staff. Mr. Beattie arrived shortly after 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, located our trouble, and had the machine going by 11. Our sighs of relief were heard all over town. Mr. Beattie was accompanied by his brother, Harold and his wife, and also by John Pigott, of the Bird Haven.

"LEST WE FORGET"

To the Editor of the courier:
Sir—Kindly allow me space in your paper to draw the attention of the public to His Worship, the Mayor's resolution which was moved and unanimously adopted by the Digby Board of Trade at its last regular meeting, a resolution dealing with better shipping facilities for the port of Digby, which received the wholehearted support of the Board at that time and especially that of the president, E. C. Sollows, who has worked untiringly but with no noticeable effect as yet, toward having the shipping facilities of this port improved.

It is no secret that Digby, situated as it is on one of the largest harbours on the Atlantic seaboard, the largest and only harbour that this province can boast of in the Bay of Fundy which is open to commerce throughout the year, has absolutely nothing to offer in the form of a loading berth for such ships as are employed in the deal trade in the Western Ocean. In order to substantiate this broad statement, and more forcibly impress this fact on the minds of those who are interested in the welfare of the port, I will refer them to the shipping news in the Halifax Herald, where on June 6th and 8th respectively, appears the following: "The first bearing the Windsor date line."

"Before leaving Cap. Dengsdad told newspapermen that he was delighted with the port facilities at Windsor, especially with the new steamer berth completed just in time for the Dampier's arrival. Docking was easy, and the ship's officers had no fear of danger when grounding the vessel at each ebb tide, as the 'grid' on which the steamer rested while aground allowed her to remain upright without having to strain her shore lines. Loading, Captain Dengsdad said would have been a creditable piece of work at a port where much of this kind of cargo is handled, and was especially deserving of praise since most of the longshoremen were new to this work."

H. J. Towse, representing George McKean & Co., Saint John, shippers on whose account the cargo was taken, was pleased with the quick despatch given the vessel and highly praised the port facilities. It was at the request of the firm that the "grid" was lengthened and rushed to completion.

Captain Dengsdad said he was in and out of most of the ports of the world, but had never become used to the tides in the Bay of Fundy with their successive great depths at high water, and bare flats at low tide."

The second despatch was dated from Annapolis and reads as follows:

"S. S. Port Royal arrived in port to load lumber for the United Kingdom. She left Saint John on Wednesday and made the trip to Port Wade in four and a half hours. The Port Royal is 783 tons register, and is making her last trip having been sold to Thomas Ward, of Sheffield, England, to be scrapped. The lumber is being shipped by Arkle Mullins, lumber company, of Halifax. The local agent is T. H. H. Fortier."

The two above mentioned companies, namely, George McKean and Arkle Mullins, who loaded these ships, are the only two companies who ever attempted to load a ship of this class at the present loading berth at Digby, upon completion the loading berth was practically condemned by both parties. It is only natural that companies loading this lumber are looking for loading berths that can offer them a quicker and safer despatch, and until such a time as Digby acquires a proper and safe loading berth we must resign in favor of ports that have the required accommodation, much to the discouragement of all who are interested in the advancement of the port, and a financial loss of thousands of dollars to the public in general.

TELLING CHINA

The Japanese know what they want. They keep everything at it until they get it. There is no beating about the bush at Tokyo. The army talks and the state department speaks in military language.

The Jap militarists are engaged just now in their usual spring campaign on Chinese territory. Their procedure is simple. It is the same old strategy of crossing the border to subdue bandits. The United States used to do that in Mexico, but not so effectively as the Japs do, because they had more neighborly scruples.

First Japan benevolently protected Korea from bandits, and assimilated her. Then by degrees she assimilated Manchuria and Jehol. This year, continuing southward, she is apparently assimilating the province of Hopei, which includes the ancient capital, Peking—now called Peiping.

Soldiers entered Hopei and actually suppressed a small troop of bandits, then retired to the China Wall, and subsequent invasion has been by air. New demands have been made of China, and have been protested as impossible. Whereupon Col. Sakai, who commands a Japanese garrison at Tientsin, replies:

"Don't you know that Japanese planes have been flying daily over Peiping in mass formation? Don't you know what these flights mean? We do not want you to accept anything unreasonable, but our policy is flexibly fixed."

A member of the state department at Tokyo says: "We consider this a local military affair capable of settlement by the Japanese army on the spot. We hope China's acceptance of the Japanese request will make military action unnecessary."

That's "telling 'em." And helpless China will soon submit as usual.

One naturalist informs us that alligators are harmless if their mouths are held shut. But why specify alligators?

GREEK CROWN NOT FOR GEORGE

When Princess Marina of Greece and Prince George of England were married last year there was some discussion of the possibility of the young couple ascending the restored Grecian throne.

Recently the conjecture became more lively as monarchists in Greece gained strength and began to urge immediate restoration of royalty. Then the British Minister to Athens ended the matter effectively with this statement:

"Under no circumstances could the British government entertain invitation of a British prince to a Greek throne, since by a protocol between Britain, France and Russia, signed in February, 1830, these powers are pledged that no prince of their houses shall ever accept the Greek throne."

National pledges are sometimes broken but this one seems likely to remain in force for some time. France and Russia have no recognized royal houses now. The king business in other countries isn't so secure and agreeable as it is in Great Britain, so the British are not interested in foreign crowns. Furthermore there seems to be a growing tendency on the part of rulers of some nations to take their pledges and international agreements seriously.

We can understand why a fool and his money are soon parted, but we can't figure how they get together in the first place.

Digby and Annapolis Schools Hold Field Day

At Barton

The annual Field Day, sponsored by the Digby-West Teachers' Study Club, and open to all schools in Digby County, was held on the Barton baseball field Friday, and was probably one of the largest school field days ever held in Nova Scotia.

Seventeen schools with their teachers, in attendance, with approximately five hundred pupils and many spectators.

Mrs. Beatrice Harris, helping teacher for Annapolis-Digby Counties, was in charge of affairs and, much of the success of the day was due to her untiring efforts as well as to the efforts of the teachers of the various schools.

Other officials in charge were:—

Judges—Rev. M. B. Higgins, Dr. Douglas Harris, Barton; Rev. Father Luke Gaudet, Plympton.

TUB PROBLEM

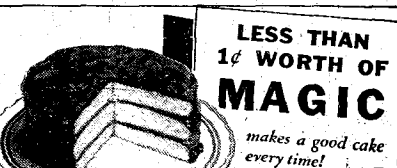

It's hard to tell just what to make of a curious piece of news from Chicago. The water department reports that the city uses 20,000,000 gallons less water on Saturday than on other days of the week.

Chicagoans point to this fact with pride, as indicating that they are not bound to the bucolic Saturday night bath habit. The implication is that they can, and do, take baths on other nights. They may be all cleaned up by Friday night. They may even avoid ablutions on Saturday to show their superiority to the rural tradition.

On the other hand, Chicago people may do their bathing on Sunday morning. Or not at all. We await further particulars.

One lady evangelist says she has never used cosmetics, cigarettes, or make-up, never worn a bathing suit, never had a date, or never been kissed. My, hasn't she a lot to live for!

Why His Headaches Ceased

Wife Put Kruschen in His Coffee

He could not understand why the headaches he had been subject to suddenly ceased. His wife told him, and he at once sat down and wrote the following letter:—

"I am 62 years of age, and ever since I was a boy of ten years, I was subject to very bad headaches. But two years ago the headaches stopped — for what reason I did not know. I was surprised when one day my wife told me that I had been using Kruschen Salts in my coffee for over two years. I am still using them, as I know of nothing finer for the system." J. T.

Headaches can nearly always be traced to a disordered stomach, and to the unsuppressed retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. Remove these poisons—prevent them forming again—and you'll never have to worry any more. And that is just how Kruschen Salts brings swift and lasting relief from headaches. Kruschen Salts aid Nature to cleanse your body completely of all clogging waste matter.

You too can get in the picture if you use the self timer.

"I ENJOYED the Snapshot Guild article last week very much, for taking snapshots of my children is almost a hobby with me," wrote a reader. "I was hoping, however, that you would tell mothers how to include themselves in the picture with their children," she continued.

Perhaps others are interested in this subject. The self timer is a most fascinating little gadget and almost human in its operation. It is an inexpensive accessory that fits over the metal button or plunger, at the end of the cable release which you press to take a snapshot with a folding camera. It cannot, however, be used unless the camera is fitted with a cable release.

Here is how it works. First you locate your subject in the finder and at the same time plan the space you will occupy when you step into the picture. Suppose you want to take a picture of Jane sitting in your lap as you read to her. You will have to have the camera on a tripod, table or something solid. Locate the chair in the finder—and be sure you can see all of the chair, especially the upper part of the back where your head will appear—after you are not careful you will find you have deapitated yourself when the finished prints are returned.

If the picture is to be taken indoors you will have to apply all the rules of indoor snapshotting. The diaphragm should be set at f.8.3, the shutter speed at either 1/10 or 1/25 of a second and you will need one or two photo-flood lamps placed in an ordinary floor lamp (with the shade removed) to give more illumination to the side away from the outside light.

When the diaphragm is set at the proper opening with the correct shutter speed, the same as if you were going to snap the picture yourself, set the self timer for ten seconds or a minute, depending on how long it will take you to get into the chair with Jane comfortably seated in your lap, ready to listen to your story. Turn on the photo-flood lamp, slip the timer over the button at the end of the cable release, press the little release lever on the self timer and it starts buzzing away, and then—click—it has taken your picture.

In spite of the simplicity of the procedure Jane is going to get a thrill out of it and when the picture is snapped she'll probably be poring through a million dollar smile—and this will add much to the value of the picture.

You can purchase the self timer attachment from almost any store that sells cameras. They are not expensive and last a lifetime.

Some cameras have self-timers incorporated in the shutter so if you have this type of camera and have never used the self-timer you have missed a lot of fun and picture possibilities.

COLLEGE AGAIN VICTORIOUS

Weymouth journeyed to Church Point on June 9th, to avenge their defeat of a week ago, only to be handed another defeat by the boys of St. Anne's. The game was fast, but featured by many errors, the visitors having seven and the home team five. A. LeBlanc, hit a home with one on in the fourth, and J. D'Eon smashed out another four bagger in the seventh with one on. D'Eon pitched a good game for the Collegians and was given good support, nine hits were collected off him, by the visitors.

D. Comeau started on the mound for Weymouth and held the College boys scoreless for three innings. They scored two in the fourth, when D'Eon was safe on Murrey's error and A. LeBlanc hit for the circuit. He was relieved by Tooker in the fifth, but two more runs scored when D'Eon doubled to right sending in Des Jardins and Rouse. Two more were scored in the seventh on Pothier's pass and D'Eon's homer.

Weymouth scored three in the first when C. Halliwell singled, Morrisey walked, Muisse singled sending in Halliwell and Morrisey and Muisse romped home when Gaudet's drive went through third. They scored again in the third when Morrisey singled, stole second and came in on Muisse.

Weymouth LOSES TO FREEPORT 3-4

In a tightly contested game played at Freeport on June 8, Weymouth was nosed out by a 4-3 score. The game was fast and was anybody's until the last man was out. B. Campbell pitched a great game for the winners, allowing only 5 hits. Muisse started for Weymouth but was relieved by Tooker in the fourth. The home team gathered five hits off Tooker, collecting two when J. Halliwell singled, Morrisey was safe on R. Haines' error and singles by H. Tooker and C. Halliwell. Freeport scored when H. Prime was safe on Gaudet's error and later scored on Tooker's error.

Dr. A. B. Campbell left on Saturday last to attend the joint convention of the Canadian and American Medical Societies, at Atlantic City. This is the first time a joint convention has been held, and the programme of lectures provided cover all departments of medical and surgical work, with lecturers chosen from both countries. The work of the Council also promised to be most interesting, and will consider the progress made toward State Medicine in various sections of the United States and Canada, where it has been carried out.

On Sunday morning a number of those attending service in the United church, watched with interest while Scott Morine climbed into the high limbs of a large tree standing on the north side of the church, and with his pocket knife cut a string which had made fast a large robin. The other robin of the pair had been circling round, very much disturbed, and when the release was effected, the two flew off across the brook while Scott safely descended and in a few minutes service began.

On Saturday afternoon little Edith Milbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Milbury, who was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. DeForest, Moransville, was attacked by the large collie dog owned by the latter, knocked down, and severely bitten about the face. Mrs. DeForest seized the child in her arms and by turning round and round managed to keep the dog from causing further injury, until Murray Smith, of Morgantown, succeeded in getting the animal away. Had he not been near it is likely that both the child and Mrs. DeForest would have been badly injured. Medical help was summoned and several stitches were necessary to close the cuts, which are of a serious nature, and at the time when this was written, the child was very ill. The dog was destroyed.

ENTERTAINMENT AT CLEMENTS VALE

The Women's Missionary Society of the United Church, Bear River presented "The Old Fotygraf Album" at Clements Vale, on Thursday, June 6th, in the Foresters' Hall. It is a most amusing entertainment and the audience, while not large in numbers, was most appreciative. Hearty laughter, and much applause made it almost impossible, at times, for the reader, Miss Eleanor Morine, to continue. The costumes worn were those of by-gone days, and made all present feel they would not care to return to those styles except on such occasions as that of the evening. A large number of different characters were shown and the W. M. S. received congratulations from many friends who spoke of how much they had enjoyed the performance. By request the W. M. S. will repeat the entertainment this evening in Bear River, and hope for a large attendance.

THE VOICE OF THE LEGION

The regular monthly meeting of the Canadian Legion, Branch 22, was held at the home of Comrade Vroom, at Deep Brook. In the absence of the president, Comrade C. L. Blanchard occupied the chair, and after observing the regular silence in memory of the fallen comrades, Comrade V. L. Harris was appointed secretary, pro tem. Business of a routine nature was put through, after which it was necessary to face the fact that our secretary, Comrade Roy Henshaw, has a "job"! Although our comrade may not have had remunerative employment, we have never felt that he has been unemployed, as he has given very lavishly of his time and energies on behalf of the local branch of the Legion. We were disappointed in not having Comrade Cochran with us for the discussion period. We shall look forward to his visit in the near future. A resolution relating to the proposed Carnival was passed and referred to the trustees of the Pirs Department of Bear River. The Voice of the Legion appeals to the members of the local branch for their support in the regular meetings.

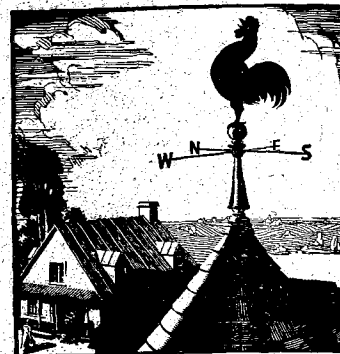

INSTITUTE NOTES

On Wednesday afternoon the June meeting was held in the Masonic Building and considerable business was accomplished, as this was the last regular meeting until September. Committees were appointed to carry on the routine activities and it was decided to close the library during July and August.

Campbell and Mrs. W. M. Romans, assisted by Voorhes Dittmar, the secretary. The courts are in splendid condition

Atlantic Flown First Time Sixteen Years Ago

For many years the world has been diligently fed on the stories of air feats accomplished by aviators of other nations. Undoubtedly there are many Canadians, particularly of the younger generation, who sincerely believe that the first man to fly the Atlantic in a heavier-than-air machine was Colonel Charles Lindbergh. The fact that this Lindbergh flew solo, the tremendous warmth of his welcome when he landed in France, the unassuming demeanor of the aviator himself, all coupled with screaming headlines that shrieked across the pages of every United States newspaper, have overwhelmed in the public mind the actual first flight across the Atlantic.

Alcock and Brown

This honour belongs to Alcock and Brown, the two British war-time pilots, who, in a machine as much inferior to that of Lindbergh's as the modern automobile is to the first cable-drawn street car, traversed that 1,800 miles of open water between Newfoundland and Ireland in 16 hours. That feat was accomplished just 16 years ago today—June 14, 1919.

The bleak, boulder strewn Newfoundland hillside was scoured by a 40-mile gale, and the thick drizzle of rain hid everything beyond a radius of a quarter of a mile, writes T. C. Bridges, in a British exchange.

On a long, narrow strip of fairly level ground at the bottom of the hill stood an aeroplane. Its wings were fastened down with cords tied to posts driven into the stony soil, yet they seemed to be the moan of a forlorn out in the bay.

Such was the scene on that memorable June 14, 1919, when the first non-stop flight across the Atlantic began. Mechanics were busy about the big bomber, making final adjustments, but the pilot, Captain John Alcock, hunched about the field, talking of anything except the risks of the coming flight. His companion, Lieutenant Whitten Brown, seemed every bit as unconcerned.

The wind was blowing in the wrong direction for a take-off, and the two adventurers had been waiting for hours for a change. Such a delay would have frayed the nerves of most men, yet these two were quite unperturbed.

"Once Too Often"

"It's not half as risky as some of the bombing trips I made in the War," smiled Alcock in answer to a question from a newspaperman. "Of course," he added, with a shrug, "if we keep on flying there comes a time when we fly once too often."

Did he foresee his ultimate fate? Not long after his triumph, he was a victim in a flying accident in France. The rain ceased, a fugitive gleam of sunshine broke through a rift in the clouds; then, quite suddenly, the wind shifted. Within a few minutes the two were in their seats, and the twin 375 h.p. Rolls Royce engines were waking the echoes with their thunder. The chocks were pulled out, the machine started.

"She'll never do it! She'll crash. They're leaving it too late!" gasped the watchers, for the big plane, with its load of 865 gallons of petrol and thirty gallons of oil, looked as if it would never leave the ground.

Just when disaster seemed certain she rose in the air, skimmed a low wall, and was away. As the climbed Whitten Brown waved his hand, the engines roared louder than ever, and the aeroplane shot away into the sea mist and vanished from sight.

Flying Blind

"The clouds were at 2,000 feet," Alcock said later, telling of the flight. "They were very thick, and we climbed to 4,000 before we got above the thickest of them. It was 5.13 summer time when we got away—nearly twelve hours later than we had intended—so that we had night before us instead of day."

"Even when we were above the worst of the clouds we could not see the sun and had to depend entirely on our instruments. The only good feature of the weather was that the wind, which at first had been against us, turned and blew from the north-east, thereby increasing our speed across the water by nearly forty miles an hour."

"After it grew dark our difficulties increased. The weather was thicker than ever. Also, it turned bitterly cold and began to sleet. The speed indicator jammed. It was frozen.

"Towards four o'clock in the morning we were flying completely blind and I got into a steep spiral. I believe we actually looped the loop. I had no sense whatever of any horizon. When I got out of her dive we were barely fifty feet above the level of the sea, and the machine was almost upside-down."

"I started climbing and went up to 11,000 feet. Even at that height it was still thick as ever and snowing hard. The machine was covered with ice, and began to feel so heavy that I decided to go down again. We came down to 300 feet and kept at about that height for the rest of the journey."

Land at Last

"Cold? No, we were not cold, for the cockpit remained most comfortably snug and warm. Besides, we wore electrically heated clothing. The danger was to the machine, not ourselves. Dawn came at last and the weather improved a little, but it was still thick. We never saw a ship from the time we started until we reached the Irish coast, nor did we get any wireless messages."

"At a quarter-past nine in the morning Brown saw land ahead. Two small islands which we afterwards found to be Bachel and Turbot Islands, which lie off Clifden. Then we saw a long bay running inland, and when we spotted a wireless mast both knew that all was right, and that we had reached the Irish coast. The inlet was Ardara Bay, which is an arm of Clifden Bay."

Journey's End—An Irish Boy

"We were very bucked, not only at the success of our navigation but at the speed of our passage. We had done 1,800 miles just under sixteen hours." This speed, after fifteen years, still remains a record. It works out at 118 miles an hour.

"We decided to land, and picked what looked like a smooth, green meadow for that purpose."

"Alas! Ireland's soil is treacherous. This was no meadow, but a bog. The Vimy's wheels dug into the soft mud; she toppled on her nose. One lower plane was cracked and both propellers dug deep into the mire."

"Happily, we escaped with nothing worse than a shaking. We crawled out, getting our bag of mail, the first that had ever crossed the Atlantic by air by the time we had reached firm ground, people were already running to greet us, nor shall we easily forget the welcome we received."

Temperance Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

IT WON'T DO TODAY.

Neighbor Ben gave me a call the other day, and found me tilted back in my study chair with my slippers feet nicely ensconced on the table, reading. "What's that you are reading today?" he asked. "Oh, a little book I just added to my library," I replied, and then read the title, "Narcotics and Youth Today" by Corradini. "Humph!" he said, with a bit of a twinkle in his smiling eyes. "Some more of that total abstinence stuff so many folks are having a crush on these times. For my part, I believe in the way my father and grandfather did before me—taking a drink and leaving it alone. Just as and when I like." And I couldn't help giving my good friend a good natured dig: "I notice, however, that most folks who say what you say are better at 'taking it' than they are at 'leaving it alone.'"

"But here, I said, 'listen to a few sentences from this sensible and well balanced book that cannot be classed with the 'roving, ranting Robins' that you dislike, and rightly so.' And so I read him some pointers like these:

"Beverage alcohol, because of its widespread use, is undoubtedly our major narcotic problem in the world today. Many experiments have been carried on by scientists the world over to establish the effects of this particular narcotic drug. It was found that alcohol is capable of interfering with every function of the nervous system."

"Our nervous system develops in the following order: The control of circulation, respiration, large muscles, the senses, and the intelligence. Alcohol affects the system in the reverse order, that is the intelligence and the judgment are affected first of all."

"A few generations ago in a civilization which knew squalor and moved slowly without radios, motion pictures, automobiles and aeroplanes, the blunting of the judgment, so peculiar to alcohol, was not as serious a handicap as it is today when we are often called upon to make decisions, literally of life and death, in doses of beverage alcohol, once split seconds."

"How seriously even moderate doses of beverage alcohol, once considered 'permissible', can affect us today, when we are thrown into almost daily contact with high powered machines is indicated by Dr. A. Vernon Stocks, an English physician, who reports the findings of a British committee of scientists."

Neighbor Ben listened, and as he rose to go, he said quite seriously, "That looks as though what was good enough for the days of father and grandfather is not good enough for our day." And that was the first time that good Neighbor Ben seemed to really see the point.

ROLL CALL OF ST. MARY'S BAY BAPTISTS

(Communicated)

The annual roll call of the St. Mary's Bay Baptist Church was held at Barton on Wednesday of last week. As on previous occasions, this service was an exceedingly profitable and helpful one and gave a marked spiritual uplift of the church.

Ideal weather conditions, beauty and bloom everywhere, added much to the glad expectancy that filled all hearts, as we "entered into His gates with thanksgiving and into His courts with praise."

The guest speaker of the afternoon was Rev. P. E. Bishop, of Digby. As always, Mr. Bishop's timely and helpful message can not soon be forgotten. The theme, as taken from John 15:15, "Friends of Christ," most vividly and earnestly brought before the church the uniqueness and closeness of the tie that unites the membership to the Great Head of the Church—the Lord and Master of us all.

The calling of the roll elicited a splendid response and the special offering was a most excellent one, evincing unified interest, and loyal co-operation.

The church re-union and supper in the vestry was an hour of social intercourse and fellowship, which was both helpful and inspirational.

The evening service was both noteworthy and manifestly inspirational. The speakers for the evening were the Rev. S. Steeves, of Bear River, and Rev. W. E. Turner, of Smith's Cove.

Mr. Steeves' message, taken from Matthew 24:35, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness," will long be remembered as an incentive to lofty purpose and holy endeavour.

Mr. Turner most fittingly brought to a close, a wonderful day of opportunity and privilege. Taking his message from Jeremiah 18:6, "As I have been made to feel that only in absolute surrender to the plan and purpose of our Lord can the Kingdom programme be carried out by the church." The large congregations at both services were deeply moved under the stirring appeals to holy living from the messages of the day. The united choir of the pastorate furnished the music which was exceptionally fine and inspirational.

The combined offering of the day was a grand one and again the church will be privileged to meet the Mission allotment of $100 and the church obligations at home and abroad will be honourably met, as heretofore.

We are looking forward to renewed spiritual opportunity and aggressive endeavour under the leadership of our Lord and King.

Sports

The softball game played last Friday night between the Commercial and the Cannon Bank, was won by the Cannon Bank 15-12. Play at first was held by the Commercial but half way through the game the Cannon Bank team got into their usual stride and took the honors again.

Monday night's game between the Firemen and the Commercial was called off on account of rain.

Before the softball game Wednesday a baseball game between the Cubs and a team picked from the town youngsters was witnessed by more people than have at any time this year watched a softball game. The kids' played in fine style and spectators thought the game worth seeing. Final score - Cubs 8 - Town Team 7.

Neither the Firemen or Cannon Bank had a full turnout despite the fine weather Wednesday night, each team playing a member of the Commercial. This game the Firemen led all the way to a final score of 19-15. This is the first time the Cannon Bank have been trimmed.

Tonight the Commercial meet the Firemen. They would like to see a full turnout of players and a few spectators would not be amiss.

HIGH SCHOOL CLOSING THIS EVENING

The closing exercises of the Digby High School are to be held in the new St. Patrick's Hall this evening when certificates will be awarded to the graduating class. The commencement address will be given by Rev. Father, Murphy. On Friday morning of next week the closing exercises of the common school will be held at the Bitou Theatre, Rev. Dr. Hodgson, of Grace United church, to be the speaker.

The Indian Carnival will be held this year on Monday and Tuesday, August 5 and 6. The first day's activities will be in Digby, the second in Annapolis Royal thus reversing last year's programme. This was decided on at a meeting of the managing committee which was held in the English Inn, Deep Brook, on Wednesday evening.

At this meeting there were present: Rev. Father Murphy, chairman; A. A. Shortliffe, E. C. Sollows, J. W. Merkel, Paul Yates, C. L. Bowley, W. R. Plimore and J. J. Wallis, Digby; A. McKenna, Bear River; Danie Owen, Col. Eaton, H. W. Doull and W. E. Allan, Annapolis Royal.

On motion it was decided to form an association to be known as "The Indian Carnival of Nova Scotia", for which an act of incorporation will be applied for at the next session of the Legislature. The following officers were elected:

President—Rev. Father Murphy.
Vice-President for Digby—The Mayor or his successor in office.
Vice-President for Annapolis Royal—The Mayor or his successor in office.
Vice-President for Bear River—Dr. L. J. Lovett.
Secretary—J. W. Merkel, Digby.
Treasurer—J. A. McKenna, Bear River.

Executive—The above officers are: Col. Eaton, Annapolis Royal, and E. C. Sollows, Digby.

Auditors—The town clerks of Annapolis Royal and Digby.

As this year is the 300th anniversary of the construction of the first fort in Annapolis Royal, it was decided to make this fact the basis of all scenic effects and pageantry.

The festivities will take place at the old fort in Annapolis Royal and at the band stand and ball grounds in Digby.

Sports will be carried on in both towns and it was left for the vice-president in each town to call a meeting of interested citizens to appoint sports and other local committees.

The nature of the evening's entertainments has not yet been decided on. A committee consisting of Rev. Father Murphy, chairman; Miss Isabelle Williams, Digby, and Mrs. W. A. Livingston, Annapolis Royal; Col. Eaton, Daniel Owen, Paul Yates and Rev. C. L. Blanchard was chosen to consider this matter and this committee will meet to-morrow evening at the English Inn.

By the way, the English Inn was selected as the meeting place for the managing committee, it being about half way between the two towns. It will therefore become, to all intents and purposes, the Carnival headquarters.

Plans were discussed for a number of other features but details will have to be worked out later.

Get your car "dolled up" for the Indian Carnival parade.

Sabeau-Dixon

The marriage of Miss Myrna Maud Dixon, of Brookline, Mass., formerly of Digby County, daughter of Mrs. David Dixon and the late Rev. David Dixon, and Elmer C. Sabeau, of 130 Brown Street, Waltham, Mass., formerly of Digby County, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sabeau, took place in Beth Eden Baptist church, on Saturday, June 15. Rev. Clarence Stipp, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, for which the couple had as attendants, Allen Bomeneg and Miss Lillis Dixon, sister of the bride. She was given in marriage by her brother, Herbert Dixon. An arch of roses banked at either side with flowers, made a pretty setting in the church for the wedding, which was followed by a reception at the home of Mrs. Warren Muller, sister of the groom, at 130 Brown Street. Festoons of white and pink crepe paper, a wedding bell and vases of summer flowers decorated the home. The bride wore a gown of white satin and a veil of Maline lace which fell in train from a coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was fashioned of roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore a dress of blue silk and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Ruth Spencer played the wedding march and the ushers were Douglas Dixon and Dawson Sabeau. Guests attending the ceremony and reception represented Lynn, Springfield, Penobscot, Worcester, Dorchester and Nova Scotia. Returning from a wedding trip to Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Sabeau will make their home in Waltham. Mr. Sabeau is manager of a grocery store in Waltham, and the bride is a graduate nurse of the New England Baptist Hospital.

N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Cummings, of Digby, to Milton Bradford Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Russell, Westport, Mass. The double ring ceremony was used. The bride, who was attractively attired in a white silk jacket dress with large white hat and accessories to match, and wearing a shoulder bouquet of gardenias, was attended by her cousin, Miss Margaret Cummings, R. N., of Middleton, who wore a yellow jacket dress, with accessories to match, with a shoulder bouquet of yellow roses and lavender sweet peas. The groom was attended by Leonard Tripp, of Westport, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Reed, who have taken up their residence at 721 Kempton Street, New Bedford, Mass., are receiving the congratulations of their many friends. The groom is an employee of the Luther Manufacturing Company.

IN THE POLICE COURT

Three cases were tried before Stipendiary J. A. Taylor, at the Court House, on Wednesday morning.

Fred Parker, charged with being drunk in a public place and creating a disturbance, was fined $5, or in default of payment, 30 days in jail.

Harry Harries, a resident of Weymouth North, who was arrested at Lunenburg, appeared on a non-support charge for neglecting to maintain his three children, who have been kept by the overseers of the poor since January. Harries paid $50 on account and pledged to make monthly payments toward their support thereafter.

James Nibby, an Indian, who gave his address as Hantsport, was also up on a charge of being drunk on a public street. He was fined $5 or in default of payment, 10 days in jail.

VISITED KIWANIS CLUB

Harry Murphy, Halifax, District Lieutenant Governor of Kiwanis, paid an official visit to the Kiwanis Club of Digby on Tuesday, and delivered an inspiring address on the "Principles of Kiwanis". Following his address there was a round table discussion relating to club matters, and among other things it was suggested that the club hold luncheon at each of the four church garden parties to be held in Digby this summer, and at the Hospital fair.

GRADUATION DANCE

The High School graduation dance was held Wednesday evening, at the Harbour View Casino. Music was provided by the Silver King orchestra, of this town. The young ladies of the graduation class were charmingly dressed in white frocks, and the gentlemen in navy and white. Principals and Mrs. Purdy were chaperones. The class had with them twenty-eight guests to enjoy their last, big time of the year. Ice cream and cake were served at intermission and the dance broke up about midnight. Cars were graciously provided for this occasion by the pupils and friends.

This evening, at St. Patrick's Hall, these pupils may all be together for the last time. It will be a big event for the graduates and we trust there will be a good attendance.

Decided improvement in the hay and strawberry crop as well as truck garden and other early crops, is noted as the result of the rain that has fallen in the last week. Effects of the continued dry weather in May and the early days of the present month have been overcome according to prominent farmers.

BUGABOOS

There are bugaboos which we ourselves create and bugaboos which others set up for us, and strange it is that we are as afraid of the one as we are of the other.

Perhaps, too, this is because we forget that we created our own bugaboos, therefore fail to realize that what we have done others can do also.

Perhaps bugaboos have a deterrent effect that is, in the end, so wholesome we are glad we are afraid of them.

Whichever the case and whatever their usefulness, bugaboos show, in the final analysis of the human mind, that there is something that closely relates us with our less intelligent ancestors away back.

The more bugaboos they had the more decent they were, and this is very much the same with us.

The Infinite has always moved in mysterious ways his wonders to perform.

What this country needs is a job for every college graduate, for it's no disgrace to work, even with a college diploma.

JOY IN TODAY

There is joy in today. Let each go looking for it.

Many expect to find all their joy in the future—the tomorrows. The tomorrows always become today, so it is wise to look for joy in the present day.

Many expect only big events to bring them exalted feelings.
The small things that seem of no significance often bring greater joy than a momentous occasion. A bird flitting from tree to post, on a bleak day, turns a dull day into a joyous one; a friendly letter in the mail, a telephone call from a neighbor, or a cheery "good morning" from a passer-by puts joy in today.

There is joy in today. Do not wait for joys to walk to you in the tomorrows; seek them in today. They are present right where you live.

Temperance
Table Talks
By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service
Council and Temperance Alliance)

THIS IS A NEW DAY

"Do you know," said Neighbor Ben,
"I have been thinking over some of the things you read from that little book of yours a week ago, and it begins to look to me as though the book is all wrong, or I am all wrong. I have always been inclined to think that those fellows like yourself, who are strong on total abstinence from liquors, have been carrying the thing too far, that a good glass of whiskey now and again, or indeed regularly, does one good, and there isn't much sense in being so awful strict, just because a few folks may make fools of themselves by not knowing when to stop. But the little book puts things different. It claims that it is not simply getting drunk, but just drinking, is bad." "Right you are,"

I said, "the growing body of scientific knowledge about the effects of alcohol is all on the side of the total abstinence."

I reached for the little book again.
"Listen to this," I said.

"Beverage alcohol is consumed mainly for its narcotizing effects on the brain, and its effect in all concentrations is always that of a depressant narcotic drug. In short, alcohol is always "dope." The inevitable result is a diminished physical efficiency, and in work of precision errors occur more frequently. A generation ago, this diminished efficiency did not matter as much as it does today.

"The really dangerous man today is not the one who uses alcohol immoderately, but the moderate drinker who is slightly under the influence of alcohol."
The average individual cannot consider himself normal for several hours after a drink of alcohol, even though he may not feel any particular effect.

"The antiquated notion that an individual is not to be considered under the influence of alcohol until roaring drunk; boisterous, disgusting, reeling, or unable to walk, belongs to the era and the geography of the oxcart and hoop skirts.

"That's going some to what it used to be," muttered Neighbor Ben. And then, as if waking up, "Does that man who writes that there book—scientist, you call him—mean to say that all us fellows who believe in moderate drinking are out of date like the old ox-cart?" And as my good friend walked away I couldn't help but feel that the light was dawning on his honest soul.

pastorate.

Expressing the belief that unemployment is here to stay under the present economic system, Canada's first Youth Congress at their recent meeting in Toronto went on record as favoring a system based on production for use instead of for profit, contending that only so can unemployment be permanently abolished. The congress also recommended non-contributory unemployment insurance, adequate relief to all persons over 16 years of age, cash relief on a basis of union wages and favored immediate action on slum clearance.

Opposition to war was expressed by the congress, which recommended that education and other means of propaganda be used against war and that war preparations and the production of war materials be actively opposed. The Dominion government is to be asked to encourage the League of Nations by every possible means.

The congress also expressed opposition to the dictatorship of the few over the many, the attack on civil rights, the introduction of forced labor and racial and religious intolerance.

Nearly all this knowledge in the world was acquired at the expense of somebody's burnt fingers.

New Brunswick Man Found Relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mr. F. Bouchard Was Battered With Kidneys For Five Years

Lagaceville, N. B., June 21, (Special).—"For five years I suffered terribly with my kidneys," writes Mr. Frank Bouchard, a well known resident of this place. "In the mornings I could hardly get out of bed as my back was so sore, and I was unable to get proper rest at nights. I tried a good lot of different medicines, but they didn't do me any good. One day I was reading the testimonial in Dodd's Almanac, and decided to try your Dodd's Kidney Pills. After I had taken the first half box I began feeling better. I have now taken five boxes and can now get a good night's rest and my appetite is good. I am forty-five years old, but feel ten years younger now. I would advise any person that is troubled with their kidneys to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I am sure they will say that they are a most wonderful medicine and worth their weight in gold."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are no cure-all, but purely and simply a Kidney Remedy. They put the kidneys in shape to strain all the impurities out of the blood.

BOY SCOUTS—1ST WEYMOUTH TROOP

Plans are being made for the coming trip to Halifax, to take part in the Scout Rally on July 1st, to welcome Lord Baden Powell. The Weymouth Scouts were fortunate in finding in their midst a young drummer, Hector Cormier, of the Eagle Patrol. His father is giving him lessons. If model making keeps up the scout's rallying quarters will look like an art gallery, in fact, it looks like one now. GARDENS FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

In Amherst more than 400 garden allotments have been placed at the disposal of unemployed citizens of the town and of those, who have only part-time employment. Amherst, has a gardens commission and its secretary recently announced that the estimated planting of seed potatoes this year is 500 bushels. "Peas, beans, carrots, beets, turnips, asparagus seed will also be given out, with adequate supplies of fertilizer." This garden movement has apparently met with approval and success wherever tried. In some places it has been more successful than in others, but it is difficult to recall a single instance where it has failed.

In the province of Quebec it is operated on a large scale, and as regards Montreal the great problem facing those who direct it is that of finding available land within reasonable travelling distance for those who wish to cultivate a patch and produce for themselves and their families a supply of fresh vegetables and a store to lay up for the winter. Beyond this, gardening furnishes something to do when enforced idleness is liable to break down morale, and it is also admirable on the general principle of making something good where nothing grew before. It is not, of course, set up as a solution of unemployment, but it may be used as a valuable moral and material aid in mitigating some of the world's present economic condition.

BARBER WHO HAD RHEUMATISM

Tells How He Carried On

A barber who had been "a martyr to rheumatism" writes:—

"I have been a martyr to rheumatism for some ten years. For five years I was so affected that it was with the greatest difficulty I was able to carry on my business. I say I am a barber by trade. After having tried numerous remedies I was finally advised to try Kruschen. I am pleased to say that after having used Kruschen for some twelve months, I am now free from aches and pains that I have been for some ten years. In fact, I consider I am rid of rheumatism, thanks to Kruschen Salts."—W. M.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are the most effective solvents of uric acid known to medical science. They swiftly dull the sharp edges of the painful crystals, then convert them into a harmless solution. Other ingredients of these Salts have a stimulating effect upon the kidneys, and assist them to expel the dissolved uric needles through the natural channel.

PRESBYTERIAL MEETING LAST WEEK IN AYLESFORD

The summer rally of the Annapolis Presbyterian was held in the Aylesford United Church of Canada, on Thursday of last week, with a good attendance from all the auxiliaries.

The president, Mrs. Turner, of Middleton, called the executive to a short business period, at which Mrs. Bowby, of Middleton, was elected Recording Secretary, taking the position which has been held by Mrs. A. S. Adams, of Lawrenceville, who is leaving the Presbyterian.

A small token was presented to Mrs. Adams in recognition of the esteem in which she is held by her associates and members.

Two items of business were the deferring of the Winter Presbyterian for 1936, to April or May of that year; and the bringing to the notice of our young people of 21 years or over the Leadership Training Course which will be held this year at the Berwick Camp.

For further information apply to Mrs. H. B. Hicks, Bridgetown.

The meeting adjourned to the auditorium, the entire delegation and some visitors being present. Lawrenceville Auxiliary, led by Mrs. Mercer and Mrs. Longley, conducted the devotional period.

Mrs. J. P. McMahon, president of the Aylesford Auxiliary, gave a very cordial address of welcome, which was fittingly responded to by Mrs. A. S. Adams. Hicks, "Christian Stewardship"; Mrs. Bent, "Our Missionaries"; and Mrs. Sanders, "Finances". All of them were most interesting.

A fine exercise was put on by the Aylesford G. G. I. T. group, after which the guest speaker, Mrs. Frank Dickenson, returned missionary from China, held her audience from the time she left Shanghai, up the Yangtze River, changing to smaller steamer at Hangchow, and so on into the ten missionary stations of the United Church. Her address was illustrated by many colored views, all her own artistry. Quoting Mrs. Dickenson: "All work in China is educational, agriculture being especially stressed. Brave courage and dogged persistence are characteristics of the Chinese. But work in China can only be pushed as we at home push."

The afternoon programme closed with a picnic supper.

Hither and Yon with G.R.T.

Cherries are on the market again but the crop is not up to par, about 75 per cent of normal crop with the Royal Ann variety about 65 per cent of normal. The splash season is here also, the city swimming pools opened today—June 1st. The plungers were pretty well patronized by boys and girls who enjoyed themselves thoroughly under the watchful eyes of the life guards. When cherries are ripe and it is time to go swimming it can be said that summer is here. It takes me back to the old days on the Sissiboo River where the favorite swimming hole was a small cove around behind the old wharf which was once a part of the foundation of the Rice saw mill. Leaving our clothes spread out on the oil mill boilers, where they would be good and warm and dry when we came out of the water, everyone plunged into the river whooping and yelling, ducking the weaker ones until they cried for help and otherwise conducting ourselves like a pack of savages. It was no place for females. Anyone wearing a bathing suit, even of the most abbreviated type was "hubbed a 'sissey". Ladies who went swimming sought a quiet spot farther up the river—Mildon Creek it was called—and there, arrayed in long dresses reaching to the heels, enjoyed their bathing in peace and

Hi, diddle, diddle,
One looked at the griddle,
The cook went off in a swoon;
Sultana retreated,
The griddle's as bright as

absolute seclusion. Ah, me, how times have changed! Ah, yes, indeed. If you are interested in the subject of anatomy and figures, go to any of our bathing beaches and you will obtain quite a lot of information upon the subject; you will note how wonderfully and fearfully some people are made, and perhaps you will wonder what has become of the old-fashioned word—modesty.

It seems that the Chinese are a bit fussy about their moving pictures especially those which pretend to depict life in China as per the picture directors' imagination. The Metro-Goldwyn-Picture Corporation—the one with the growing lion trademark—is making a picture of Pearl Buck's story, "The Good Earth"—you have probably read it. Mrs. Buck lived several years in China as a missionary and is supposed to have written a truthful story about life among the peasant class as she found it or was told about it by some of her converts. The picture company made an agreement with the Chinese government to the effect that a Chinese official should be present at the final filming of the picture to see that the picture is "authentic in every detail and non-biased in its interpretation of Chinese life and customs." So Major General Tzu-Hsin Tz, of the Chinese National Army, has come over from China and is now in Hollywood as the government's official censor. In the meantime Mrs. Buck is reported to be getting a divorce and actually has husband No. 2 ready to speak those fateful words and sign on the dotted line as soon as the judge o.k.'s the divorce.

Greta Garbo has left us and gone back to Sweden for a visit. "All alone," in her compartment in a crack Santa Fe train she is speeding across the country to New York. By the time you read this she will have sped out of New York on a steamer bound for Stockholm. Greta continues to be very shy and continues to have her moments when she wants to be alone which is most of the time. A friend told me some newsboy would recognize her at the train and dashed after a ploughed field to reach the station skinned her shin on the car step and got aboard before any one could get a snap of her. Train officials say there was no one around taking snap shots so it would seem that Garbo had all that bother and shin skinning for nothing. Greta continues to be as mysterious as ever and I would say, just as goofy. As an actress I have always considered her a pretty good chambermaid who fell out of a twelve story hotel and landed on both feet. A good press agent did the rest.

Hast thou the reckless extravagance to pay fifteen dollars for an electric razor? No, neither needed, no bay rum or other shaving lotion required, face free from after-shave soreness, and a friend that owns one claims that it is the truth. But where does one get fifteen dollars to buy a razor with in these days? You can get a rattling good second hand one for a new lawn mower for that money. After using several models of so-called safety razors, getting my skin all rough and sore, I revert to the somewhat primitive methods of my ancestors, and so back to the old fashioned scythe which I purchased in the Campbell store in Weymouth some forty years ago, a trusty blade seven inches in length and three-eighths of an inch in width, bearing the name of "Barn Woodpecker," forged and finished in the Trinity Works of George Butler Sheffield England. And when this old blade is properly manipulated back and forth on a choice strip of pig skin it becomes sharper than the sharpest instrument in an appendix remover's tool kit, and it surely does a fine job of beard removing. For a first class shave there is nothing to compare with the old fashioned razor in the hands of a man who knows how to use it.

Fancy seeing Ex-President Hoover wearing a scythe on that rugged wax doll face of his; can you feature it? Our newspapers report that he is really smiling once more, and they also report that Franklin D. Roosevelt has lost some of his engaging smile and looks a trifle perturbed, while the late Al. Smith is shown in the daily papers with a grin as wide and open as the Straits of Gibraltar, all because of the knockout blow administered by the Supreme Court to F. D. R.'s new deal champ N. R. A., which after all was only fair seeing as how Mr. Will Rogers claims that N. R. A. means "No Republicans Allowed." When Mr. Roosevelt was merely a candidate he took some mighty dirty flings at President Hoover—many of them unnecessary. But President Roosevelt has no doubt learned by this time a lot about the worries of a President's job that Candidate Roosevelt never suspected. Having a large number of his own party turn against him and so flouting with the Republicans seeking a coalition to nominate a presidential candidate in opposition to "The New Deal," in 1936 must be a dose with a taste as pleasant as the old quasia quip. However, the president seems to be able "to jake it" and as a candidate for 1936, ever with the handicap of the new deal around his neck, he could probably run rings around either Hoover or Smith. He now has the largest force of office holders in American history and next year the force will be still larger and they will all be working like beavers to hold on to a good job which will be quite a help to the president seeking to succeed himself. With a strong candidate the Republicans might win in 1936 but our blackest of black republicans here in California admit that there is no such candidate in sight at the present time. In fact the Republican party is at this time very much like a brass band without a leader.

Home building is again in full swing here; new houses are going up all over the city and county. Financing through government loans in amounts ranging from $2,000 to $50,000, provides the stimulus. The loans are re-payable in amounts about the same as rent. A good Democrat should have no trouble if he wants to build a house for himself this year. No large buildings are under construction at this time. There are too many vacant office buildings in the city now to encourage capitalists to put any more money in buildings of that type. Nevertheless the city seems to be moving ahead; some optimist has figured it all out, that by 1935 A. D. Los Angeles will be the largest city in the world. We should worry a lot about that, n'est-ce pas?

BURNED IN GASOLINE FIRE

Digby firemen on Monday afternoon extinguished a slight blaze on board the scullip boat Viole M. owned by Horton Stacey. The boat was tied up at the new breakwater at the Racquette. The real fire occurred an hour before the alarm was sounded. It originated from an explosion of gasoline in the engine room which set fire to the clothing of John Tibbette, one of the crew, who suffered painful, but not serious, burns about the chest. The members of the crew thought they had the fire extinguished, but found later that the explosion had sent the flames into a quantity of bedding, which later broke out, and when the alarm was sounded was burning quite briskly. Damage to the boat was slight.

Closing Exercises and Pass List Digby Academy 1935

A large audience gathered at the new St. Patrick's Hall on Friday evening last for the closing exercises of the Digby High School, on which occasion the graduating class were publicly presented with their diplomas by A. J. Dillon, chairman of the Digby School Board, who with Mayor Shortliffe, Principal F. C. Purdy, Alfred Boden and other members of the School Board, occupied the stage with the graduating class.

The programme was opened with the processional March played by Miss Audrey Holdsworth. Following this was a brief address by Mr. Dillon, who congratulated the graduates and their teachers for their successful work, and who especially thanked Father Murphy for donating the use of the hall for the occasion, and for consenting to address the pupils.

This year's Valedictory Address was given by Miss Jennie Ames Mahon, whose address, prepared by herself and excellently delivered, was a masterpiece. The Valedictory was as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Members of the School Board, our most respected Members of the Faculty, classmates and friends in general:

It has been devolved upon me to give expression tonight to a few thoughts appropriate to this occasion. I do so with a keen appreciation for the relationship we have sustained with each other, the members of our Faculty and of world affairs in general, into which we are about to enter with which we are henceforth to mingle—not knowing what lies before us but hoping in the ardor of young man and womanhood for the best.

Each year from generation to generation waxes forth the youth which go forth into the world to taste the sweetness of true living embittered by the social sadnesses which do crop in unmindful of whom they are affecting or of how they do effect. Each year from father to son passes on the responsibilities that he must accept in entering his position in the world of men and a place that he needs must occupy among them. Each year too, the daughter enters her sphere of womanhood with gracious sweetness and authentic affability in accepting the highest position on earth which God can offer to us. One season brings us joys and victories, another sorrows and troubles; but each doth in itself contribute something to the world at large something of intense value enhancing beauty and memorable distinction—the youth that it has cherished through its declining years. The youth that shall make the world of tomorrow a thing of immortal loveliness and true living, not a world peopled by an avaricious greedy race in search only of world power and unfoundational, nameless, positions. The youth that have been nurtured on the soft, whispered, advice of their parents, thrived on the teachings of God's own will and who are comparable only with Tennyson when he says:

"Strong Son of God, immortal Love Whom we have not seen Thy face

By faith and faith alone embrace Believing where we cannot prove."

The world today is a veritable hot-bed of conflicting emotions; the Tide of Times has almost verged the banks of civilization and the Future is an intangible, mysterious, imperceptible existence about which we know nothing but in which we can only hope. But shall we be content to advance into a future overshadowed by great Warclouds who refuse to retire? Shall we then accept a fate prepared for us by human hands? Shall we be thus overcome by political and economic strife without a murmur of protest? Not No, we cannot, we must not. It is our duty. The duty of this year's Gift of Youth to strive in ever ascending powers to cripple all objectionable forces. We have youth, intellect and good common sense and we must raise ourselves to higher levels and not be satisfied to partake in things so tribute in theme that they not befit the snail to grapple with them.

There is an impervious, universal law of God—Love ever manifest before our eyes as an example to humankind. For the feeling of security in the extreme, faithful guidance and attendance; for the tenderest manifestations of love and pride; in lieu of the heartfelt thoughtfulness and super-abundance of loyalty—we feel an emotional indebtedness difficult to express in homely language, but because of the existent understanding between us we know that you feel the appreciation which we wish extended to you.

We go hence with the profoundest esteem for the wisdom and for bearing the uniform justice and kindness that you have ever manifested to us within our school walls. We have oft been hasty, heedless of your feelings and our own best interests and have at times caused you great annoyance by our own youthful follies. But in all these things you have proven yourselves our true friends and mentors and it was not possible for us to ever cherish manœuvre toward you. I whatever we have given you offence we ask your forgiveness and carry away with us heartfelt gratitude for the many favors we have received at your hands.

Fellow Members of the Undergraduate Classes:

I take a retrospective view as I glance into your faces tonight and I see this graduating class as it was three years ago—a handful of inexperienced, puzzled juniors, the sport of the older classes. What we felt and endured then discouraged by our outward circumstances you now feel and endure. But look up boys and girls! Look up! On your part you have youth, intellect, and the most capable of teachers. If you fail—and I do not believe you will—you will have only your want of attention to your studies to blame for it. We leave you here to so maintain the honor of this institution that you may depart from it with its blessing.

Classmates:

During our High School course we have been companions for three long years. Three years to some of us of diligent application to our studies; three years of light and map national behavior, but we go perpetually on unmindful of it, disregarding all such universal laws. In the sphere of worlds revolving in mid-space the heavenly bodies have ever maintained their identical positions of equality—revolving in splendid accord and union about their central idol. One does not interfere with the other; the larger does not overbear the one of smaller stature; nor do any disregard the Law of Universal attraction which binds them one to the other and all to their central God. So too, we must proceed in our own sphere of activity, retain our proper positions, and relations with each other, not overshadow nor take advantage of because of a feeling of superiority and above all we must obey the Law of Universal attraction which binds us one to the other and in similar accord and union to our one-loved God.

Mr. Chairman and Members of the School Board:

"For your unflinching faith and loyalty we can only say, 'Thank you.' Your interests always with us, eagerness to comply with our slightest request and aid in all ways will be one of the many assets retained in the memory of our High School years."

Mr. Boden:

I think it fitting in this address to say a word of gratitude to you, Mr. Boden. During the course of our High School instruction you have been a main character playing an active part in our instruction. In many of your intimate talks with us you have spoken to us of the deeper problems in life, what we are to expect and how we are to face them. Indeed, Mr. Boden, you have prepared us a long way toward meeting the shade of our lives and we shall always carry in our hearts, mingled feelings of gratitude, friendship—yes, of love for you.

Citizens of Digby:

For the feeling of security in the extreme, faithful guidance and attendance; for the tenderest manifestations of love and pride; in lieu of the heartfelt thoughtfulness and super-abundance of loyalty—we feel an emotional indebtedness difficult to express in homely language, but because of the existent understanding between us we know that you feel the appreciation which we wish extended to you.

On Wednesday evening a moonlight sail was held by fifty of the young people of Digby. On leaving the floating slip in the motor boat Riptide, they sailed around the Basin, then went to Bear River where an impromptu orchestra struck up, and dancing was carried on as best possible on rock bushes and grass. Campfire light took the place of the absent moon. Popular songs were sung "and a good time was enjoyed by all".

After the parade the street from the north side of the Sydney-Water Street corner to the Birch Street railroad crossing will be roped off for a street dance.

The first plans for this year's Indian Carnival programme were made on Saturday evening at a meeting held for that purpose at the English Inn, Deep Brook. At this meeting it was decided to place Paul Kollins in charge of the direction of the pageant. Mr. Kollins will be assisted in the music end of the programme by Professor M. C. MacDonald. The script will be written by Rev. Father Lee Murphy.

The theme of the pageant will centre around the 300th anniversary of the building of the old fort at Annapolis Royal, but all the pathos and tragedy of those days will be forgotten, the story will deal only with the good times of the first Acadian and English settlers, and the Indians.

Turnbull—Porter

A very pretty wedding took place at Hillgrove last evening, when Mildred Bell Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Porter, became the bride of Gordon Robert Turnbull, of Bayview.

The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. F. E. Bishop, pastor of the Digby Baptist church, took place on the veranda of the bride's home under an arch of mock orange. The bride was beautifully attired in white satin and carried a shower bouquet. The bridesmaid, who wore pale pink satin and also carried a bouquet, was Miss Margaret Porter, a sister of the bride. The groom was supported by Basil Porter, brother of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Turnbull have today for Saint John on their wedding trip, and on their return will make their home in Bayview. The many beautiful presents attested to the popularity of the young couple.

LAUGH, AND THEN THINK

There recently walked into a certain town a woman who said she had a complaint to make. Asked to state it she replied:

"Well, my husband and I just can't get along on what we are getting from this relief. We've talked it over several times, and he says that if you won't give us more he's going to go out and try to find a job."

After you get through chuckling over this, you might sit down and think about it. For it constitutes a homely illustration of a state of mind that is becoming far too common for our welfare.

All of us admit that there are persons living on relief who will never live elsewhere as long as relief lasts. Just what proportion of our unemployed can be listed in this class is a matter over which opinions differ widely. But it is far greater than it should be. Just look around and see for yourself. Then try to figure what the end is going to be.

The more a man observes the things thousands of people in this country fail from the more he wonders why swindlers are so few.

SELF-SATISFACTION

A great many people are satisfied with themselves whether or not anybody else is satisfied with them, and about in proportion to their self-satisfaction is the dissatisfaction of others.

Thus self-satisfaction may be a weakness of which others may take advantage. Both friends and enemies take advantage of a man's weak points, though for different purposes.

However, this may be, self-satisfaction is one's worst enemy. It closes his eyes to opportunity, beclouds his vision of possibility, and obstructs his further progress.

Indeed, it precludes his further usefulness to himself or anybody else, and the world goes on without him. He is, as Josh Billings said, "a dead one without any one to mourn his passing."

If you would really live, be dissatisfied rather than satisfied with yourself.

Parliament is still looking for a place that won't blister when it slaps on another tax plaster.

The Britannia, one of five sister ships comprising The British American Oil Company, Limited, Canadian fleet, is shown nosing her way into dock at Saint John last week. The Britannia, in command of Captain Theodore Bursell, native Nova Scotian, carried a cargo of 750,000 gallons of gasoline on her maiden trip to the Maritimes. It is the intention

NEW OIL COMPANY WELCOMED TO THE MARITIMES

Reported intentions of The British American Oil Company, Limited, to market its products in the Maritimes became a reality last week when the British American tanker, Britannia, steamed into Saint John harbor with a capacity cargo of 750,000 gallons of gasoline from the B. A. Oil Refinery at Montreal.

The Britannia, with Captain Bursell, native of Cape Breton Island, in command, and a crew mostly composed of natives of the Maritimes, has been assigned to the regular run between The British American Oil Company Montreal Refinery and Saint John during the regular "St. Lawrence River" navigation season.

Officials of the company stated that in response to numerous requests from dealers and consumers, British American has been surveying the Maritimes market in a quiet way for some time past. These investigations left no doubt as to the favorable attitude of Maritimers towards the company and its products already so widely known through Quebec, Ontario and the Western provinces.

Negotiations were entered into with Putnam Brothers, well known in New Brunswick and some sections of Nova Scotia, and recently the deal was completed for the purchase of the gasoline and service station business in the company. Licenses to operate in both New Brunswick and Nova Scotia have been granted The British American Oil Company, Limited.

British American has the distinction of being a strictly Canadian enterprise, refining every drop of its own gasoline. It began in 1908 as a small refining plant and today British American's five refineries are capable of refining close to 1,000,000 gallons of crude oil per day. Besides these five refineries, British American today owns its own oil wells in the richest producing area, its own pipelines, its own tankers and tank cars, thus controlling production and quality from oil sands to the consumer.

Of still greater import than these material assets, it is claimed, is the heritage of experience gathered in 30 years of refining—a period which synthetic practically the whole area of automotive development. From the Canadian standpoint, it is pointed out that British American is Canadian owned and controlled, with 17,000 shareholders across the Dominion.

Distribution facilities for British American quality products already has been arranged for many of the important centres in New Brunswick and adjacent Nova Scotia. These areas will be supplied from the ample storage tanks which the company has on the Saint John waterfront. President of The British American Oil Company, Limited, is A. L. Ellsworth, native of Welland, Ontario. It was Mr. Ellsworth who started the company on a modest scale of operations in 1905 and it is his guiding genius which has presided over the company and directed its growth during these intervening years. British American has remained independent and strictly Canadian in its control, its ownership now vested in 17,000 shareholders resident in every province of the Dominion. Besides the five tankers owned and operating in Canadian waters, the company charters seven ocean vessels for transporting its crude oil from Gulf of Mexico ports to Montreal—and hence to Toronto refineries. The company owns or has under lease 164 producing wells with a potential capacity of 60,000 barrels daily. Gathering lines are located in East Texas and a trunk line carried crude from the Cudback, Montana, field to the Coombs, Alberta, refinery.

The company has in operation 459 tank cars and distributes its products to the motorist through over 4,500 retail outlets in (including New Brunswick and Nova Scotia) eight of the nine provinces of the Dominion.

CORDWOOD AND PULPWOOD FOR SHIPMENT

Driving around "the lakes" in the South Range district of Digby Co. one notices hundreds of cords of hardwood and pulpwood piled along the roadside and in the farmers' fields. The cut of wood in this section last winter was one of the heaviest in the history of that community.

A large portion of this wood will find its way to the American markets, and shipments are leaving Port Gilbert and Plympton every week.

BASEBALL IN WEYMOUTH

In a return double header, played on the W. A. A. Grounds on Friday afternoon, Weymouth again took both ends from Bear River, 5-4 and 5-3, making it a double revenge for their recent defeat at Bear but teams.

The first game was fast but featureless. The second game was a fine exhibition for the visitors. Picot, ace pitcher for the visitors had things pretty well his own way in all but two innings of the first game, when the locals scored all on a laid down by a punt and beat the play. C. Campbell drove out a sharp single, sending him to third. J. Hallowed sacrificed him to second. Comeau holding third and Morrisey's single drove in both runners. In the ninth one man fan-puzzled, M. A. Muise batted for D. Comeau and was safe on short stops error. Campbell, smashed out a long double to left scoring M. J. Hallowed, who was safe on Sanford's error and both he and Campbell scored on successive errors by Picot, Morrisey and Tooker. The visitors scored in the first off Comeau when Read singled, Sanford lashed out a double and both scored on M. Parker's single. They scored again in the second, when B. Parker singled, stole second and scored on Read's single to centre. The visitors final score came in the fifth when after two were out Hirtle lashed out a double to centre. M. Parker followed with another scoring Hirtle and Comeau was relieved by Morrisey, who fanned the next batter to end the inning and held the visitors scoreless for the rest of the game.

In the second game Hirtle went in for the visitors and was hit in the first inning. J. Hallowed drove a hard one at Read which he fumbled and the runner was safe. C. Hallowed drove out a single, sending him to third, stole second and both scored on Morrisey's double. Morrisey stole third and scored when Tooker was out second to first. The locals scored again in the fourth when Muise walked, stole second and went to third, when Brooks was safe at first on errors.

shade to all of us; three years of social fellowship and pleasant recreation; three years of social improvement; three years of sympathy with each other in sorrows and troubles; lightened each other's hearts in times of sadness, and have enjoyed school life in each other's company—I will venture to say—as well as any other class that ever graduated from these school walls. We go hence with our diplomas which the world looks upon as the key to unlock the doors of science, art, literature, theology and merchandise to us and open the avenues of wealth and honor to us. We go hence as we are, to face the battle of life. What successes we shall have, what victories we may win—the future alone can tell. But we go forth with abiding faith and hope that all will be well with us if we perform our duty faithfully in whatever sphere or calling fate may assign us. Where will fate or fortune place us in the great sea of the future? I see in imagination this class all scattered, many the heads of families engaged in the peaceful pursuits of agriculture and trade, others perhaps on the rough sea of political life, some of whom will doubtless reap honor in national affairs, bestowing benefits and gifts of good-will on their fellow-men whilst they hold high and responsible positions in official life. But as we go forth in the world each to fulfill his own destiny—let us forget every youthful prejudice—if any we may bear toward each other and through our lives be helpful friends as occasion or opportunity may offer. For my part and I, I think for all these school fellowships are too sacred to be lightly broken or forgotten. So, in our farewells and final pressure of hands together let us renew the bonds which the friendship in our school has woven.

The hour of parting draws nigh. In spite of our hopes and faith in the future there is a tinge of sadness in the present which I for one do not fear to cherish and confess as it testifies to the genuineness of our human sympathy and heartfelt friendship. Then as we go forth tonight midst all good wishes for the future to meet our new, and as yet, unknown life, let us ask a prayerful plea from God to guide each and every one of us along his separate path into a future, that holds forth no rosy tint of prospect nor glamorous gleam of glowing prosperity; we have only an everlasting and abiding faith to guide us and above all—the God who gave us birth.

The day is darkening, the shadow falls. There is rest ahead for one and for all; For weary souls where pain has wracked the flesh. And mental suffering ones, God too, will bless.

With his paternal presence of love, laughter and mirth. Mixed with the pain of life—the cross and the dirth. Oh, the Day may seem endless to some. But 'tis not long till the end again comes.

And to the Lord who made us be We thank Thee, Lord, we thank Thee. And to you one and all, who helped us be. We thank thee, we thank thee.

Following the valedictory was a vocal solo by Miss Florence Gidney. Then came the principal's address to the graduating class in which he thanked them for the co-operation they had given himself and Miss MacWhinnie during the years, they have been in their charge and promised that he would follow their future careers with interest. Mr. Purdy told his class that their graduation merely meant that they were just starting out to find themselves in life.

Mr. Dillon then presented the class with their diplomas. The successful students were as follows:—

GRADE XI
Honour Pass (First Class)—MacMahon, Jennie, 88.4; Gidney, Florence, 86.4; Williams, Ronald, 83.2; Germain, Edith, 81.0; Woodman, Beatrice, 80.0.

Honour Pass (Second Class)—Baxter, Milph, 78.6; Hawkesworth, Margaret, 71.2; Dakin, Charlie, 70.1.

Partial Work (in English, Algebra, Economics and History)—Snow, Edith, 60.0.

Passed by Examination—Taylor, Garnet, 62.4; Nichols, Jack, 60.0.

(Note—To obtain first class honor pass the student made an average of 80 or over, with no subjects under 60; second class honor pass, an average of 70 or over, with no subjects under 60.)

The charge to the graduates was delivered by Rev. Father Leo Murphy, who like Mr. Purdy, advised the students that in reality their graduation was just the beginning of the life they were to lead. He urged them to be honest and honest in their dealings with others, more especially did he instruct the boys to be honest with the girls and in their dealings with them to always think of their own mothers and sisters. He also instructed the girls to play fair with the boys.

The next number on the program was a piano solo rendered by Miss Jennie MacMahon, which was followed by the reading of the Class Prophecy, written jointly by Miss MacMahon and Florence Gidney. The prophecy, which was read by Ronald Williams, follows:

Come illusion, come to me
A comfort to my fancy be
From a theme so dear, how can I part,
Ere half-unloaded is my heart.

A beaming young face I now do see
A musical voice is wafted to me
Tis the one who cheers us on our way
And makes us happier day by day.
She solves all problems with great ease,
And in each subject her best does please.

Miss Florence Gidney—"Our Little Round Dream"
Has won for herself the highest esteem.

A quiet black haired lady, with sparkling eyes
At her lessons she studies and every-thing tries.
She's always asking "Who, what, where?"

But never mind, Mary Keen'll get there,
In the winter to school with books on her arm.

She brings us an apple fresh from the farm,
And some day we know she'll be Scientifically planting an apple tree.

And Garnet too, I must not pass
For he's the venerable of our class.
A great politician he's grown of late
And of this matter he's lost much weight.

But he is serious, too, you see
For it's a "Mounty" he wishes to be.
And the day will come in due course
When Garnet trades his Chev car for a horse.

A bright young Miss with dimples quite deep
Who at Physics and Chemistry is so hard to beat.

Is Miss Beatrice Woodman, who lives far away
But to school she does come day after day.

She soon will be teaching those a b c's
To a group of children about her knees.

Then some day she'll settle down
Wearing on her head a motherly crown.

Through a lens in the window, I now do see Miss Jennie MacMahon with books on her knee.

She plays the piano a part of the time
And writes poetry with considerable rhyme.

She's a girl today, a young man tomorrow
And in both sexes her curls cause much sorrow.

Away to college she soon will go
To make fame for herself here below.

The mischievous lad who makes us laugh
Strews mirth and joy along our path.

Is Ronald Williams, sure you know
The youngest of the Williams' fold.
He studies some and reads too much
He likes golf, games of chance and such.

Neath all those sweaters he's quite a scrawney.
Harry Junior to some—but to us just Ronnie.

It will not be—it cannot last
The visions of enchantment now is past.
Like frost-work on the morning dew
The fancied fabric melts away.

Landry, Ruby, 70.0

I could not hold anything, nor could I sew a button on my arm would go dead. I was advised to try Kruschen, and inside of three weeks I found such a change. I have kept on taking it and now I sleep all night—thanks to Kruschen's help and relief."—Mrs. J. H.

ADVENT CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE IN SESSION

(Communicated)

The Nova Scotia Advent Christian Conference held its first session in Bear River, last evening. Rev. Harold J. Wilson, Portsmouth, N. H., was the speaker. Mr. Wilson has often been heard over the radio in Nova Scotia as the Radio Pastor over station WHEB. He will also be the special speaker for tonight and each evening through the Conference.

Other speakers present are Miss Florence Bartlett, Clark's Harbor; Rev. V. W. Burt, West Head, Anticosti; Joshua Huntley, Hall's Harbor.

The Advent Christian Conference has been held in Bear River, with but four exceptions, for over seventy years. It originated with the purpose of proclaiming the soon-coming of Jesus Christ and still features that doctrine. Many mistakes have been made and many disappointments experienced, yet the present leaders and members of the Conference are glad to hear that same old message. Year after year, lovers of the Bible have, and will, gather to "speak often one with another" of the grand themes of the "Grand Book."

Sports

The Firemen trimmed the Cannon Bank, 19-4, in last Friday's Softball game, and the Commercial on Monday, by 6-2. The first game was a decided walk-over, but Monday's game was "even tally" until the Commercial scored in the fifth inning and allowed a four-run margin.

Wednesday's game was close. Although the Commercial made 6 runs in the first inning and only allowed the Cannon Bank one, the latter team gradually closed down the lead until the last inning when the score was 3 all. One run in the seventh put the Commercial ahead one run and although the Cannon Bank went to bat last they were unable to even. Final score, Commercial, 9; Cannon Bank, 8.

To date each team has won 4 games, but since the Firemen had two games which must be played at end of season, called on account of rain, they are ahead on points.

Tonight the Firemen play the Cannon Bank in the last game of the schedule, while the Commercial will journey to Deep Brook to play the local team.

The Digby Civic Band will be paid for four concerts during the month of July, the first concert, to be July 4, on the date of the arrival of the first excursion boat from New York. This matter was discussed at some length by the Council before a vote was taken. The motion passed with three councillors voting in favor, one voting against and one not voting. Councillor Morrill was absent.

WELL KNOWN CAPTAIN DIES IN HALIFAX

Captain Haines R. Marshall, native and resident of Weymouth North passed away at Halifax hospital on Monday evening last, following a major operation. He was 67 years of age. Widely known he had worked on the Canadian National Steamship, playing between Halifax and Australia and the West Indies for the past thirteen years. Previous to that he had been engaged in a number of other steamship lines. He began his seafaring life at an early age. His father, the late Capt. Richard Marshall, also of Weymouth North, predeceased him last month, in his 95th year. Besides his wife, who remained almost continuously at his bedside during the last two weeks of his illness, and who was formerly Miss Lelaiah Grant of Weymouth North, he is survived by two sisters: Mrs. C. R. Grant, of Weymouth North, and Mrs. G. B. Hardwick, of Annapolis Royal; two brothers, George and Bernard, of Lynn, Mass.; several nieces and nephews. Funeral services were held yesterday, with interment in the Riverside Baptist cemetery, Weymouth North.

Frank Jones, K. C., returned this week from a three week's visit with his son Douglas, at Edmonton, Alberta. Mr. Jones, although away only three weeks, says there were many changes in the town during his absence. When he came back he found a large section of the street through the business section paved, the new post master's office on Water Street, as well as an other small one and a large business block under construction.

The town's campaign for the collection of back taxes has to date been quite successful. Amount collected at this date are slightly in excess of $6,200 in comparison with $1,600 at last year this time.

One of the most delightful features of the afternoon was a program of singing by a number of the pupils of the school.

Struck by an automobile driven by Mr. Wickwire, of the Highway Department, Jesse Amero, who was riding a bicycle at the Plympton cross road, was thrown six feet in the air and landed head first on a ditch and a dislocated shoulder. In order to avoid a more serious accident, the Wickwire car ran off into the ditch and turned over once. No damage was done to the car and Mr. Wickwire, escaped injury. Trains were delayed and considerable damage done to the road bridge, over Bear River, on Friday last, when the Norwegian steamer Lillgunvor, from Paraboro, with Capt. Blenkhorn of that place, as pilot, collided with the draw whiplashing the draw, throwing the track and a alignment. A quick job of temporary repairs were made, and trains which had been held in Digby passed over it a few hours later. A writ was issued in the Admiralty Court, Halifax, in which the D. A. R. is bringing action against the steamer for damages. On Wednesday a bond for $8,500 was posted, and the vessel, which had been held in Bear River, released. She proceeded to Bangor, Maine.

Referring to the weekly newspaper as "a history of the town and community brought up to date each week" Stanley A. Keen, in his address to the Digby Kiwanis Club Tuesday, urged the importance of having the back files of the local paper placed in some accessible vault for safe keeping as important records of the community. The trustees, H. H. Marshall and James J. Wallis were appointed to look into this matter. Mr. Keen's address was along historical lines, he cited several instances of valuable documents of unestimated historical importance which have been destroyed when they passed into other hands after the death of their original owners by those who did not realize the importance of the same.
