1877-1977

Now and then a printing job had a save in parchment paper which required a special kind of printers' ink which smelled very bad some days. I always dreaded it when "Mac" would take you to the largest press in spite of the fact he always opened an outside door to lessen the odors on the room itself.

One of the jobs I had to do, besides putting and grinding down the staff, was to... I cleaned one and then... One day not long after I started to get to the grating plant. I decided to climb the floor that apparently hadn't been cleaned for some considerable time.

"J.J." came along and said, "how are you making out Vince?" I assured him that I thought I was beginning to see the floor. "J.J." laughed very heartily. He thought the remark pretty good and whole.

Sometimes the gasoline engine, a piece of machinery would refuse to work, and the "Man" fix it. A man had patiently worked for a certain length of time to get it going again, without results. Man would then stand back and come out dramatically then he would immediately start working. "See," he would say, "all it needed was a bit of coaxing."

On other occasions when some group refused duty for me and seemed to be brokenhearted, I would say, "use a little oil" and vice versa; after that is said, "use a little oil" and vice versa; after that is said, "use a little oil" and vice versa.

I have often since, have I heard of the value of that remark and the actual need of oil in many life situations, applied at the right time, right place and in the right way.

Other things that sort of stick in my memory and come to mind now and then are, like the time I told "Mac" of four teenage boys who in the spring season of 1948 got together and before dark one evening decided to mutilate the newly built outdoor Pease Hotel swimming pool which had just been filled with water. Clothes were taken off near the road just out of the pool, nobody else seemed to be around except the four boys, no thought or time for bathing suits, up in the past they thought. They stood on the edge of the pool and looked at the chilly water, one soon jumped in. The rest quickly followed and across the pool the steam "Mac" intoned to the story and hardly said anything, but the next "Digby Courier" had a good story on the episode. The heading of the story went something like, "Four Boy Swims Officially Open Pease Hotel Swimming Pool." Who were the boys? Many years later they are known as: the late Dr. Carl H. Anderson, veteran of two wars (second world and Korea), was awarded the Vietnam Cross; Sidney L. Smith, now prominent draughtsman for many years in Digby; Clayton D. Snow, Digby telephone operator for many years; and myself.

As a young treasurer I used to like doing some writing about different events interesting to myself and mostly for myself. One day "Mac" said to me how about writing your version of the story told about "The Marooning of Jerome". So I did and read aloud two somewhat different versions of the man who was found marooned on a beach in some point on the French Shore of St. Mary's Bay, Duffy County. When I read this man's torso had been cut out and his legs quite freshly amputated, were surgically well dressed and bound. He was presumably left by some vessel before dawn one morning, all for some mysterious reason.

"Jerome appeared to have been a man of considerable social standing and possibly of considerable wealth. However the one thing I could or would ever say after being asked for by some family in the Forest was something that sounded like 'Oh my God, either you'd run, or... would stay with me who he was or why he was left there.' It was, and is, one of Digby's most interesting and different ideas have been mentioned in reports concerning this man. However, 'Mike' was, I felt so sorry because they were different about this man. The whole thing has been very well explained."

The Town Plot is situated at the east of the township just within the entrance to Annapolis Bay, and twenty miles from Annapolis Town, and six miles distant from the head of H. Mary's Bay. This land, and not from the water's edge, partly is level ground, and partly on the declivity of a modern hill, dry and pleasant, and having with an eastern aspect a view of the Annapolis Bay, and its cultivated shores for twenty miles in extent, it terminates with the Fort and River's mouth at that name. It was secured by Leyden's tract, New York in 1683, the grant of which went nearly to fashion, as, moving to other countries, left the whole

There was a taste of trying to do it outside the plant. Work was a little slack one early fall day and so "Mac" said to me, "How about trying your hand at taking orders for printed personalized Christmas cards?" I tried it, made several calls to sweet-talk the customers and got an order, but

Aged Tourist Loses Life in Bear River

The lifeless body of John Grundy, 79-year-old tourist, who, with his wife, rented the cottage of Clarence Adams, at Bear River, on Thursday last, was found Saturday evening by his wife at the foot of a gaping hole in the so-called "Tom Wallace" wharf, at Bear River. The victim's watch was stopped at 11.15 o'clock.

Mr. Grundy, whose address is 7907 Atlantic Avenue, Wargate, N. J., left the Adams' cottage in the morning to spend the day fishing but did not say where he intended to go. When he did not come home at noon, nothing was thought of the matter until about 4 o'clock when Mrs. Grundy became alarmed and made enquiries.

Valentine Barr had seen Mr. Grundy on the wharf early in the day and he and Mrs. Grundy went to investigate. They found his fishing basket on the old, unused pier. Mrs. Grundy looked down a hole some eight feet wide by fifteen feet deep and saw the body of her husband. Beside the hole was the jagged edge of a broken plank. It is thought that this piece of planking gave way under Mr. Grundy's weight, sending him to his death. A wound on the side of his head indicated that he had struck his head in the fall.

It was decided that no inquest was necessary. The body was brought to Digby, where it rested in the funeral parlour over the week end, and on Monday was taken to New York en route to Philadelphia for interment. Mr. Grundy was retired from the wholesale paint business and had travelled extensively. Both he and Mrs. Grundy impressed the few who had the opportunity of meeting them during their short sojourn, as being very charming and the sympathy of a shocked community goes out to the bereaved.

Valson Rodeniser spent the holiday in Bridgewater.

Many Passengers Arrived on "Acadia"

The tour season between New York Yarmouth and Digby opened yesterday on the arrival of the Acadia from New York via Yarmouth. The palatial 10,000 ton Eastern Steamship liner arrived here in the afternoon with over 300 passengers, and anchored in the stream. The passengers were brought ashore in charge of Capt. G. M. Morrell, and were guests of the Eastern Steamship Line at dinner and dance at the Pines last evening. We understand that there will be another "cruise" arrive from New York this summer. This afternoon the twin sister to the Acadia—the Saint John—will arrive from Boston via Saint John and anchor off in the stream. Passengers will be taken ashore and also entertained at dinner and dance at the Pines. The Saint John will make weekly trips during the tour season, which concludes August 22nd. All boats will remain overnight and leave to return the next morning, thus giving the passengers ample opportunity to make motor trips to nearby points of interest, and to visit many historic landmarks. The opening of the season was marked by the first public open-air concert to be given by the Digby Civic Band this year. The concert was presented at the band stand under the direction of Paul Yates last evening.

CLOSING EXERCISES OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOL

At 10.30 Friday morning last, the children of the public school marched in two to the Bijou Theatre to attend the official closing of school. The exercises were opened by the classes singing, "O Canada". A. A. Dillon, chairman of the board gave the opening address, congratulating the teachers and parents for the splendid co-operation given during the past year. Principal Purdy read the Grade VIII pass list and the diplomas for that grade were awarded by the chairman. The guest speaker of the morning was the Rev. Dr. Hodgson, who pictured life as a piece of clean white paper that was easily blotted, and advised the children to keep their thoughts clear, their words kind and their deeds good.

Principal Purdy's report showed a registration of 345 in the schools, a decrease of 15 over the last year, and a 90 per cent attendance, falling from the lead in Nova Scotia schools, of which our school boasted last year. The staff for the coming year remains unchanged. Large school accommodations was urged in order that we may have a Grade XI and be in line with other leading schools of the province.

Secretary Boden gave a short address and presented two girls—Doris Franklin and Emma Purdy—of Miss Mason's room, with prizes for the highest averages in arithmetic during the year.

Following this the prize list for the entire lower grades was read by Mr. Dillon, and congratulations extended. Mayor Shortliffe gave a brief closing address, and the exercises closed with the National Anthem.

THE ST. BERNARD'S PICNIC

The silver jubilee of the start of Digby St. Bernard, will be observed next month by a mammoth two-day picnic to be held on the church grounds, three miles below Weymouth, for the purpose of raising funds in order that the work of construction may be carried on.

A quarter of a century ago, while the late Rev. Edward LeBlanc (who later became His Excellency Bishop LeBlanc, of the Roman Catholic diocese of Saint John) was parish priest at St. Bernard's, the first sod was turned, and the corner stone of the church was laid.

Since that time each year has seen some new work on this beautiful edifice of gray granite, which, when completed will be one of the most magnificent of all the century churches in Canada. To date upwards of $125,000 have been spent and in order to complete the building at least as much again will have to be raised. Nothing goes into the construction until it is paid for.

Up until a few years ago the annual picnic was one of the chief methods of raising money with which to carry on the work of construction. Three years ago, on account of the conditions at that time, the picnics were discontinued, but this year will witness the revival of the famous St. Bernard's picnics.

The opening day of this two-day affair will be St. Bernard's Day, August 20th. In other days these picnics have realized upwards of $5,000. It will be many years yet before the church is finally dedicated as a house of worship. A great many of those who were present when the corner stone was laid twenty-five years ago have gone to their reward and another generation is continuing with the task they started. In all probability it will be the coming generation who will complete the edifice.

Father Bourneuf, parish priest at St. Bernard, states that plans for this Silver Jubilee picnic are well advanced. He has every reason to believe that the picnic this year will be a big success.

At the present time the exterior of the huge church is about completed.

Miss Florence Gidney, of Sandy Cove, who has been studying in Digby this year, has returned to her home.

Mrs. Edward Winchester and daughter, "Puss", of Digby, are spending their vacation at the Locusts, Smith's Cove.

Miss Violet Woodman, teacher at Western Shore, Lunenburg County, is spending the summer vacation with her parents, Councillor and Mrs. S. E. Woodman.

The sewing circle of the Ladies' Hospital Aid will meet at the Court House, Wednesday afternoon, to consider plans for plain sewing for the hospital. A 10-cent tea will be served. All are welcome. WHAT FOOLS!

Ceasation of hostilities between Bolivia and Paraguay, in South America, offers further proof that no nation ever really wins a war.

These two countries have been fighting since 1928 over a strip of land that is more jungle than anything else. And neither gained a thing. Both are exhausted, physically and economically. Their manhood is sapped. For the long struggle took at least 100,000 of the best lives of the two countries. Both nations are on the verge of bankruptcy. For generations to come they will be paying for these few years of fratricide.

All that either nation got was a next-to-worthless strip of waste land. And the questions at issue were finally settled by mediation and compromise.

The present plight of Europe and the United States gives eloquent testimony to the futility of war. Now we have more evidence to the same effect from South America. Yet how many nations have learned the lesson? Look over Europe today and glimpse the costly preparations being made for another war, for another terrible period of suffering and horror and bloodshed.

Wise indeed was the philosopher who wrote: "What fools ye mortals be!"

The man is best educated who knows what should be done when the thing is to be done, whether he has a diploma or not.

PATRIOTISM

Patriotism is not belonging to a political party and voting for its candidates. That may be merely partisanship.

It is not paying taxes to support government. That's only discharging obligation for privilege, security, freedom, liberty.

It is not boasting institutions that make for the education and enlightenment, institutions which must be preserved after we are gone.

Patriotism is love of country expressed in such immortal words as: "My country, right or wrong"; and "I regret that I have but one life to give to my country."

Have we such patriotism to day? We are afraid not. But it is a question we may well ask ourselves.

The most economical way to enjoy your summer vacation is to stop at a filling station, borrow a road map, and then climb into your hammock and "reamine it."

WARPED VALUES

All about us are things of distorted proportions. Sudden fads and fancies that have appeared overnight, such as jig-saw puzzles and chain letters. Yet we clutch at them eagerly and chase their butterfly apparitions.

Should not we of adult years who pride ourselves for adequate intelligence and experience see far enough ahead to reach for better things, things which have a definite purpose and a worth while aim? Why anesthetize ourselves with these empty bubbles in a vain and childish effort to seek excitement?

It is a common game for a child to play grown-up, but how silly and disgusting for adults to play childish. Yet, in this day of loud ballyhoo, the whole country seems to have turned ers, and their highest aim seems to be, "What can we do for excitement?"

Movie Actress—I have a certificate from my doctor saying I cannot act today.
Manager—Too bad you had to go to all that trouble; I could have given you a certificate saying you never could act.

Like a COOLING BREEZE!

HERE'S a breakfast for a hot morning: A bowl of crisp Kellogg's Corn Flakes, with cool milk or cream, and some berries or sliced fruit. Delicious! And marvelously refreshing.

Kellogg's are rich in energy but light, easy to digest. An ideal dish for any hot-weather meal. The danger of heat-prostration is lessened when Kellogg's Corn Flakes are eaten in place of heavy, slowly digested foods.

Kellogg's are ready to serve. No cooking. They're the largest-selling Corn Flakes in the world because they're crispier—finer in flavor. And the patented heat-sealed WAXTITE bag keeps them oven-fresh, even in hot, sultry weather. Quality guaranteed. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

MOTORISTS PAY HIGHEST TAXES

Nova Scotia motorists contributed $27.30 out of every $100 cash receipt collected by the province in 1934. Of this amount $14.50 out of every $100 represented gasoline tax, while the balance represented registration and license fees.

Comparisons in the provincial financial statements of the last few years prove that out of every $11 received by the provincial treasurer, motorists paid the following: 1930—gas tax $10.40, licenses and registrations $12.90, total $23.30; 1931, in the same order, $10.70, $13.90, total $24.60; 1934, $11.40, $15.80, total $27.20; 1935, $12.20, $14.10, total $26.30; 1934, $14.50, $12.80, total $27.30.

These figures show that the gasoline tax increased from 10.4 per cent in 1930 to 14.5 per cent in 1931, while revenue from licenses and registration fees decreased from 12.5 per cent to 12.8 per cent.

According to the latest figures 8 per cent of the population owned motor vehicles in Nova Scotia in 1934 and in that year, they contributed $2,185,120 or 27.3 per cent of the cash revenue received by the province in the twelve-month period.

Refreshments were served by the social committee, ably assisted by other members of the Club. The Tug-o-war Team was addressed by Dr. Harris, Mrs. Eva Wendell and Joseph Specht, and a toast to Roy Amoro, Captain of the team, responded to the toast, conveying the hearty thanks of the team to the Club for their loyal support and splendid evening's entertainment.

When everything else was over, the girls of the advanced department entertained all out of doors, with the beautiful May pole dance, while four Little Blossom Sprites, robed in colored crepe paper costumes, surrounded the May pole, entering into the gaiety of it all with smiling faces.

Much appreciation and gratitude is conveyed to the principal, Miss Christie, for her wonderful work during her stay of three years in this community.

Marriages

Young - LeBlanc

St. Mary's church, Church Point was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Monday morning of last week, when Miss Minnie LeBlanc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fideli LeBlanc, of that place, and Bernard Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alla Young, of Tiverton, were united in marriage by Rev. Father Hache. The bride looked lovely in her gown of white crepe with long veil and accessories to match, and carried a bouquet of white flowers. She was attended by Miss Dora Thibault, Sen LeBlanc, brother of the bride, served as best man. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home, after which the happy couple left on a trip to Saint John. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Young will make their home in Tiverton.

Pyne - Theriault

A very quiet wedding took place a Little River on Saturday evening when Viola Pearl Theriault, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Theriault, of this place, became the bride of Charles Pyne, of Centreville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. I. Chute. Mr. and Mrs. Pyne will reside in Centreville.

A school mistress, after impressing upon her pupils that "Upper Burma is about as big as Siam," found that half had written in their notebooks "Upper Burma is about as big as she is."

TEN GOOD COUNTS

And up stood good Senator Morris Sheppard in his place in the United States Senate and actually cited ten good counts in favor of the Prohibition law and what it had achieved during its thirteen years' vogue in the great Republic. I haven't read of anyone "flooring" him for his temerity. Indeed he made a pretty good case for a law which had run the gauntlet of so many opposing factors in order to hold its ground. Of course our organized social life is full of laws that prohibit, we simply could not have organized social life at all without lots of prohibitions. But this particular one touched the appetite of millions of people, and the bank accounts of tens of thousands in whose hands money was power. Then there came the "depression" and the discontent and all on-edge-ness that followed, and off went Prohibition from the statute books with a bang. Lots of folks think that settled it for all time. But just wait until new light dawns upon the people, and a new conscience possesses them, and a new citizenship inspires them!

But the achievements of Prohibition in the United States in thirteen years, as outlined by that senator from Texas makes good reading. Here they are:—

- 1—A decrease in the death rate, saving 200,000 lives per year;
- 2—A decrease of two-thirds in drinking compared with the peak wet year of 1914;
- 3—A decrease of 54 per cent of neglected children;
- 4—A decrease of thousands of alcoholic patients in hospitals and sanatoria;
- 5—Almost a complete wiping out of Keeley Cure, Neal and such institutions;
- 6—A decrease of at least 50 per cent in arrests for prostitution;
- 7—A gain of 30 per cent in survival of infants under one year of age;
- 8—A gain of 40 per cent in survival of children under five years of age;
- 9—An unprecedented increase in savings and life insurance;
- 10—And, above all, the abolition of the open saloon.

BREAKS LEG IN SEVERAL PLACES

When he slipped and fell on the engine of his motor boat on Thursday, Simeon Theriault, of Comeauville, struck his leg against the fly wheel with the result that it was broken in three or four places. He was rushed ashore by his partner and his injury attended by Dr. Doiron, of Little Brook.

Mr. Theriault will be laid up for several weeks as a result of the injury, which is a severe one. He has a wife and four children to look after and during the lobster season, just closed, did not have much luck like a good many others making barely enough to live on.

The Vigoro Growing Competition is Now On

Vigoro is a perfectly balanced Plant Food and gives results, if directions are carefully followed that are amazing. It is good for plants, bushes, shrubs, vegetables, flowers and lawns. Plants that in one case normally grow to 18 inches in height, have grown three feet, in another case, from four feet to eleven. We mention these as two of our local grown exhibits but there are many others. When properly applied Vigoro has no equal. Now for the competition—

The Section of the country may be anywhere in Digby or Annapolis Counties.

Any variety of Plant, Flower, Bush or Shrub may be grown. Only Vigoro fed Exhibits are eligible.

A photo snapshot and written description of the progress of the exhibit together with a cover of a Vigoro package, must be mailed to us on or before September 1, 1935, and we will forward them to the judges. Do not send any plants, only the photo description and cover.

Prizes are as follows—First, $30.00; Second, 50-lb. bag Vigoro; Third, $20.00; Fourth, 25-lb. bag Vigoro; Fifth, $10.00.

This contest is open to all and the amateur has just as good a chance to win a prize as the more experienced gardener if the Vigoro directions are carefully followed. Now folks you have up to the first day of September to send in the documents that will dazzle the judges and get yourself a nice prize. Don't forget that it will be a lot of fun watching the plants grow. Ask for a Vigoro Booklet.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
NEW ANGLES

It's the unusual that attracts attention

SOME people have the notion that the only pictures worth taking are those of unusual things. They take a camera along when they travel but seldom use it at home, unless something special is happening. But, believe it or not, some of your greatest picture possibilities are around and near your home. "But," you may say, "I have already made good snaps of the house, the family, the pets, the garden, and the new car. What else is there to shoot?"

It's a safe wager that there are dozens of other picture possibilities, and all of them as interesting as the ones now in your album.

The secret of finding them is simply a matter of keeping your eyes open. Get the habit of looking at things—everything—as though you had never seen it before. It's quite amazing the way this habit will sharpen your interest—now dulled by sheer familiarity—in even the most commonplace things.

Not all of us are interested in photography as an art—and if you don't believe it is an art, visit one of the salons or study some of the pictures in the advertising appearing in the better magazines. Is there any reason why we should not strive for artistic snapshots? Back of every fine, prize-winning picture is some one who has kept his eyes open for the unusual.

Don't be afraid of doing things in unusual ways. It's really a spring tonic to take pictures of old things and scenes from a different viewpoint. "Candid" photography and taking pictures at unusual angles were discussed in a recent Snapshot Guild, but perhaps some of you missed it. The point made in that article was not to have people in stiff, unnatural poses when taking snapshots. Snap them when they are doing something, or at least apparently doing something, instead of having them stand as stiff and straight as a totem pole. Study your various subjects for unusual angles from which you may snap your pictures for unusual effects.

At the present time, take it for granted that present-day cameras, films, and modern photo-flash and photo-flash lamps give you unlimited scope for unusual, fascinating snapshots. Today almost any picture is possible—and at any time.

You are progressing in your use of a camera when you reach that stage when your friends say, "Well, look at that picture! I've seen that spot every day for the last ten years and never dreamed it had the makings of a picture like that." Such praise will surely thrill you. Maybe you have heard those words already! If you have—congratulations!

Miss Edith Bauld Regains Women's Provincial Title

Miss Edith Bauld, of Halifax, on Wednesday regained the Nova Scotia Women's Golf Championship, leading a small but select field by a margin of 18 strokes. The veteran, who has many times won the Provincial and Maritime titles, took the 6,300 yard layout on Wednesday in 88 strokes, one less than she took Tuesday for a two-day 36 hole total of 177. Katherine Ladd, of Yarmouth, last year's winner, finished in runner-up position, twelve strokes behind the champion, but only one stroke in front of Dorothy Holmes, a former Miss Ladd shot a 90 on Wednesday, but Thursday she was off her game, had several bad holes, and shot four 7's. The Nova Scotia Women's Golf Tournament opened over the Pines Course on Tuesday afternoon, and the meet, although a small, was quite successful. Yarmouth, Bridgewater, Halifax and Truro Clubs were represented. The annual banquet of the association was held at the Pines Hotel on Tuesday evening, where it was decided to hold the next tournament at Yarmouth.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows:—President—Mrs. G. D. Raymond, Yarmouth; Vice-Pres.—Mrs. W. N. Allen, Halifax; Sec'y.—Mrs. Miss Eleanor Stairs, Halifax.

Mrs. Ida Burrell, of Deep Brook, visited friends in Windsor recently.

David Ellis, well known Digby pleasure boat captain, met with a serious accident about 9 o'clock Sunday evening, while returning home from the Pines Hotel. Mr. Ellis was walking down the road, and saw a car approaching him. To avoid it he stepped across to the other side of the street, and was struck by another car driven by a Mr. Hopkins. He was taken to the Digby General Hospital by Bill Eldridge, who was driving the car for which Mr. Ellis stepped to one side to let pass. Mr. Ellis had part of his ear cut away, suffered two bad cuts on his head, and his body was covered with bruises.

Search For Missing Child

Just before daybreak, Sunday, little three year old Carl Balse, son of Ernest Balse, was found stated on an empty cardboard carton in a field back of the residence of Harry Ross, near the Digby Golf Course, by Chief of Police, Fred Thibault, and Fred Lawrence. The little chap had been missing since 9 o'clock Saturday evening.

Since the death of his mother shortly after his birth, he has been living with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins. On Saturday night Mrs. Collins got little Carl ready for bed, and then went out for awhile, leaving him in the care of his grandfather and Arch Dennison, who was spending the evening with Mr. Collins.

When she returned home about 9 o'clock, it was discovered that Carl had slipped out of the house, unseen, during her absence. A search was made of the premises and surrounding places in vain, and at midnight Carl Thibault was called. He, with Fred Lawrence, equipped with flashlights, first investigated all the danger spots in the vicinity, such as the reservoir and the bluff in back of the residence of Churchill, Solows.

Just as they had about resolved to sound an alarm calling a general search, they discovered the little lad, shivering, and very much bewildered, but not crying, sitting on a field near the golf course. He was taken home, and after a good rest, seemed little the worse for his all night adventure.

NEW PASTOR INDUCTED

The induction service of the Rev. C. U. MacNevin, new pastor of the United Church of Canada, of this circuit, took place in the Hearts Memorial United Church, Weymouth, on Friday evening.

The ministers of this Presbytery assisting with the induction service were: Rev. T. E. McLennan, of Annapolis Royal; Rev. E. W. Forbes, of Granville Ferry; and Rev. Dr. Hodgson, of Digby.

Rev. T. E. McLennan had the induction service, Rev. E. W. Forbes preached the sermon, Rev. Dr. Hodgson spoke to the minister, and the people. Mrs. George Wagne and Rev. Donald Stockford sang a solo.

After the service a social hour was spent at the parsonage, after which refreshments were served by the Ladies' Aid.

BAND NOTES

Open air concerts by the Digby Civic Band at the pavilion are scheduled for every Thursday night during July at 8 o'clock. Performances for August have not yet been arranged.

There's always something thrilling in a good circus parade with its bands and horsemen, its trapeze artists and clowns and minstrels. Even the wheezy steam Calliope has its merits. At last week's concert the Civic Band brought all this to mind by playing the very latest band hit—THE CIRCUS PARADE. In this humorous descriptive number the blaring trumpets head the procession, followed at an interval by the lively Minstrel Band. The Calliope, imitated to perfection by the reed instruments, is next heard. The Clown Band that follows has a heck of a good time showing off their worst discords, and the full Circus Band ends the performance with a stirring march.

The Digby Band headed the morning parade at the Annapolis celebration July 1st. In the afternoon they escorted the official party to Fort Anne Park, after a long wait at the hotel. Later in the afternoon they gave an excellent concert at the band stand, though much shortened by the lateness of the hour. It is gratifying to note that the boys made an excellent impression by their marching as well as their playing, though they would have looked better and felt better if their uniforms had been complete.

W. J. Agate, formerly of Digby, recently underwent a major operation at St. Joseph's Infirmary, Saint John. We are advised that the operation was a success, and Mr. Agate will be around again shortly.

Two boats who were leaving the Fundy View Hotel, Victoria Beach, this week, were taken for a farewell fishing trip in the Gut. In one hour they had caught almost 1500 pounds of pollock, probably a record for summer visitors. And were they pleased!

There will be a Bridge and 45's at Dunn's Hall, on Tuesday, July 23. Delicious ice cream and cake will be served, and a good time is promised to all—everybody will be made welcome. On Tuesday of last week, in the Church of the Nativity, Sandy Cove, five young people were baptized according to the service of baptism for those of riper years. They were: Garth, Flossie and Victor Dukeshire, and Nellie and Nighall Comeau. The candidates were prepared by Captain Morris, of the Central Grove, and baptized by Rev. A. E. Gabriel, of Digby.

Inez, sixteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Amon, of Springhill, had a narrow escape this week, when she was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Harold McNutt, also of Springhill. Inez is the niece of Mrs. John Amon, of Digby.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Cox and son Louis, of Salem, Mass., are spending the summer here again at their cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Cox have been summer visitors here in Digby for many years, and are always welcomed back by their numerous friends.

Child Has Narrow Escape

Donald Levy, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Levy, met with a narrow escape from drowning on Friday afternoon last, when he fell into the water while attempting to jump across the "V" at the junction of the Spurr Pier at the Long Wharf. He was rescued in the nick of time by Harold Sully, who climbed down a wharf pile to haul the lad out of the water.

In his fall he evidently struck his head on a wharf projection, for there was a bruise alongside his temple. His lower lip was also quite badly cut by his upper front teeth. The plucky chap realized his danger but managed to kick himself to a wharf pile and cling to that until rescued by Sully, who happened to be on the wharf at the time.

Paving Work Making Good Progress

Splendid progress is being made on the paving work at Digby and there is now a continuous stretch of paved highway from the Pines Hotel on the northern side of the Race, along Lower Water Street to Birch Street and Water Street to the corner of Warwick as well as the "flatiron" to the wharf, which makes in at the corner of Birch and Prince William Streets.

As present the pavement is laid through the business and principal parts of the town on the main thoroughfare. Work is being continued on Warwick Street to join the Provincial Highways at the town limits, and from there will continue through Conway, Joggins Bridge and Smith's Cove as far as Victoria Bridge at the mouth of Bear River, which serves as a boundary between Digby and Annapolis Counties.

Another two and one half miles of hard surfaced roads of a different type than that is being laid co-operatively by the Town of Digby, and the Government of Nova Scotia, has been laid on the residential streets.

Local citizens are greatly pleased with the work which has been done, not only through the vast improvement in the highways, but through an almost entire elimination of the dust nuisance.

Mrs. Joseph Thorpe and three children, and Mrs. A. M. Neary, of Canning, were guests of Rev. and Mrs. T. W. Hodgson at the United Church parsonage this week.

NUDIST COLONY?

Is there an unknown nudist colony in the vicinity of Digby? Local and Mounted Police have been called upon to investigate "a naked man" who has been reported seen in and near the town on several occasions—but to date have been unable to catch up to him. No one has been able to give a good description of the unclothed gentleman, who hides his features by wearing a covering over his face. He has been reported seen on three different occasions, and each time near wooded land.

GULLIBILITY

Canadian people are among the most gullible on earth. Their gullibility knows no bounds. A that is needed is a promise or something for nothing, and the "bite".

Once they were told that an automobile manufacturer would give a car for a coin of a certain date, and they showered cash upon him.

More recently the chain letter scheme was revived. If the chain were not broken every body in it would get $1,500. The chain was bound to be broken and somebody else got the cash while millions contributed time they needed for necessities.

A little straight thinking, a little cold reasoning, would have saved these dimes to those whose gullibility made them the victims of racketeers.

The average reformer can talk loud and loud of the road to Utopia, but he always wants somebody else to build it.

EXPERIENCE—THE SUREST CURE

In spite of the fact that humanity has been told for centuries that it is futile to try to get something for nothing, almost every showman or con man that comes to town takes with it the contents of many a native purse. Unquestionably this proves that there are yet a great number of people extant who fall for games of chance, as was evidenced in town last week. Once started, few of them quit until they are broke. For, after they have lost their first dollar it is comparatively easy for the sharper to get their last. Because, in an effort to get that dollar back, they keep on "trying their luck" until the once bulging pocket book is as flat as the proverbial pancake.

All of which is fairly good evidence, we believe, that most individuals can be cured of their thirst to gamble only by a costly encounter with the real thing.

The average member of parliament always represents the group of his constituents who scare him the most.

THE PLODDER

Aesop has given us the price-less fable of the tortoise and the hare in which persistency won out over a flash in the pan.

A good many people may take that story to heart these days. The slow-moving tortoise was a plodder and he had one big idea. It was to take the next step, and the next after that, and so on.

Brer Rabbit had a hundred ideas, all of them good, some of them so very good that he must needs go off at a tangent and investigate. And with what result we know. He lost the race.

The plodder has as hard a row to hoe today as the tortoise of the fable. He is likely to be laughed at and ridiculed: called thick, perhaps, the butt of everybody's wisecracking.

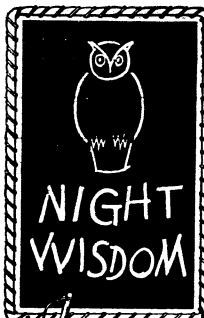

Just the same, one thing that has survived the testing of these days is persistency. The plodder arrives, as of yore. The bounding rabbits are coming in second, as of yore.

People differ as to the value of inspiration and technique. Brer Rabbit had plenty of the first, but the prize winner was strong on the second.

Blessed is the company of the patient, persistent plodders, for they shall arrive.

And it will be the plodders, rather than the hurry-scurry rabbits that will pull us out of our depression troubles.

It seems to us that the efforts of all our governing bodies is to teach us that heaven is the only place where it is profitable to lay up treasures.

GERMANY HAS LEARNED

Motorists in Berlin, Germany, receive with their driver's license, a police card on which is printed the following: "The smallest quantities of alcohol are injurious to the motor driver. It is a widespread error that small quantities have no deleterious effect. On the contrary they cause at first an increase of self-confidence, followed by premature fatigue, and this weakens one's capacity for swift discrimination and reaction in the presence of danger." Though Germany is noted as a beer-drinking nation, beer is listed on the card as one of the tabooed beverages.

The honeymoon is over when you wife starts complaining about the noise you make getting breakfast.

That if a town is to grow it should do it via the better business route.

Every citizen should co-operate in helping to build business for the home town.

Individual efforts count, but more can be done when they cooperate and work together.

Nearly every town has a few citizens who carry the entire load.

With generous help and co-operation on the part of all, more can be accomplished.

Every citizen should join in the good work of town building and assume some of the responsibility.

Temperance Table Talks

By UNCLE JOHN

(Sponsored by the Social Service Council and Temperance Alliance)

"WHAT'S WRONG WITH GAMBLING?"

"What's that you have?" I inquired of a friend who had just tossed on the table a pinkish paper slip that had a sort of official look to it. "Oh, just a ticket I bought on a car that the Club is raffling off."

"Raffling off?" I said. "What for?" "Oh, they want to make some money to help out in some charitable work, and they got a chance of a good car that a man put down cheap for them. So they decided that lots of people would buy tickets. We'll easily get more than double enough to pay for the car, and all the balance goes into the charity fund."

"A regular game, I said. "Yes, I suppose it is," came the reply, "but then you know it is for a good cause, and it doesn't matter so much. Why I heard of church raising money that way and it seemed alright. And then I thought of the people we can help so much with the money." "Well, it do seem to me," I replied, "that a lot of good people have a rather sleep, conscience on this matter, and wouldn't expect it in a community like this where people take a healthy pride in living straight."

"If it comes to that," said my friend, "what is really wrong in gambling anyway?" Now it happened that my friend had but a few minutes to spare that day, and I could say only a few things about the matter, hoping for a chance to talk it over more fully later. But I pointed out first of all that the raffling of that car, even for charity purposes, was against the law of the Dominion, that it is an indictable offence under the Criminal Code of Canada for any one to keep a gaming house or room where games of chance, betting on races or sports, and such like, are carried on; that it is a breach of the law to organize or advertise any scheme for disposing of any property by lotteries of any kind; and, while exception is made "for religious or charitable objects," such raffles cannot be carried on legally until special permission has been given by municipal authorities, and then only after the articles have first been regularly offered for sale, and are under $50.00 value.

And then, in the few minutes I had I asked just why it should be the law. And of course the answer was that the public conscience of our land has judged all forms of gambling as wrong, and that it seemed an anomaly that the law of the land should have to make an exception should have to make an exception for religious or charitable objects, when churches and such like should lead in morals rather than plead tolerance for practices otherwise judged wrong. And why wrong? Herbert Spencer put it in a nutshell when he said that "gambling is first,ly gain without merit, and secondly, gain through another's loss."

All rightful exchange of goods or money is a gain to both parties. But the gambler lives by paying out little or nothing and sweeping in much at the expense of the others who lose. Watch that "wheel of fortune" group and others of that ilk, and see men throwing in their times and dollars, depending upon a mere chance in the turn of a wheel to sweep away other folks' money and sweep it into their hands. How long will the covetous spirit make wise men fools, and brothers, robbers?

WEYMOUTH SCOUTS IN HALIFAX

To the Editor of the Weymouth Courier.

Dear Miss Editor:—What a day this has been for the Scouts and Guides of Nova Scotia! Under climatic conditions which a benign providence must have specially provided, they gathered in their thousands to honor their Chiefs, while other thousands of interested and sympathetic spectators applauded.

Long Baden-Powell, I am sure, instantly captured the hearts of the Scouts and spectators alike by his lovable simplicity and directness, and by the painstaking thoroughness of his inspection. The same is true of his gracious consort, the Chief Guide. Those of us who expected to see a rather alling old gentleman make a prefatory examination were agreeably surprised at the genial and active Scout who scamped over on the campus claspings in his own firm hands those of two mighty proud little Cubs, escorted him to the platform. It is difficult to imagine one radiating grace and modesty, courage and zeal to such an extent as he whom Halifax has proud to honor. All that is best in British tradition seemed to emanate from his noble personality, and I am sure that there is no scout but feels stronger "in the faith" from contact with his Chief.

The Weymouth Troop made a specially fine showing in point of numbers and in appearance. In first class performance, they held their own with the best, and I feel that too much credit cannot be given to our own Baden Powell, to Mr. Geo. Sack, and all who have helped develop this worthwhile organization here in Weymouth.

There is no finer lad than the true Scout, and it is to be hoped that our boys will live up to the best traditions of their movement. Surely, after this great rally, participating can never let the light grow dim, and I am certain that henceforth forever, "B-P." will have a warm place in their hearts.

The splendid co-operation which Scoutmaster Power assures me the boys are receiving from the home town is merited indeed, and that it will be maintained and extended is the proud and confident hope of all ex-Weymouthians who witnessed their performance today.

Yours truly, Daniel F. Filleul
Halifax, Dominion Day, 1935.

Was Constipated For 30 Years

Woman's Long Search for a Remedy

The trouble with most remedies for constipation, as this woman found, is that they give only a temporary relief. Having at last found a permanent cure, she writes to tell us about it:—

"For upwards of 30 years I was a victim of acute constipation. I tried practically everything that it was possible to try. I admit it was a chronic case, and every new remedy I tried helped for a day or two, after that I was just as bad as ever. Three months ago I took my first taste of Kruschen Salts, and every morning since, and every morning so long as I live, my first duty upon rising is to take my Kruschen. I honestly feel a different woman. My bowels, act to the clock and my friends, remark how well I am looking. My only regret is that I didn't try Kruschen years ago."—(Mrs.) A. M.

Kruschen Salts is Nature's recipe for maintaining a condition of internal cleanliness. The six salts in Kruschen stimulate your internal organs to smooth, regular action. Your system is thus kept clear of those impurities which, allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system.

The men of the church deserve high praise for the success of this entertainment, which was much enjoyed by all who attended same.

Hullo Everybody!

No, sir, I haven't lost my little laug and I haven't been snugged on my friend's "shirt tale" either; but to tell the truth I was so overcome by the gorgeousness of those pyja-mas that I haven't had a "lick of sense" or been worth a plugged nickle since. Now I ask you all! wasn't the description overwhelming and how much would you all give to see C. R. T. tucked in for the night with "a cup of tea" on his chest.
That's what he said he had, or perhaps a Russian eagle. I'm a loyal daughter of Nova Scotia but I don't believe I could quite carry my patriotism that far. As for an eagle, well, tut! tut! again. Yes, I will admit that I lost my bet on the old night shirt, but I bet him some more, that he just doesn't dare to send me a picture of himself in those grand pyjamas—cup of tea and all.

I have been moving since I wrote last—not from dear old Connecticut, just to another part of the state, and it's too bad I have delayed so long in writing you a description of our new home. My husband has always wanted an out door position, but circumstances tied him for years to office work, until about three months ago, when he was more than fortunate in securing something very much to his liking—careaker of a small, exclusive Rod and Gun Club with only twenty members. The club land consists of 350 acres, with a trout stream seven miles long. The club house itself is a pretty shingled cottage, Cape Cod style, with old-fashioned dormer windows. The club room in one end of the building is a long narrow room, glass on three sides and thirteen locker rooms on the fourth side. In stone between the windows is a large stone fireplace, and the cool nights and early mornings of our late spring has afforded an opportunity to enjoy open fires. The rest of the building—five rooms—is for the caretaker and wife. There are beautiful orange and black stream winds in and out and around corners like all streams, but right in front of the club house is a big pond crossed by small bridges and fringed around the edge with ferns and wild flowers, and shaded by grand old maple and elm trees. The brook is stocked twice during the season from the hatcheries and 3500 fish were put in this year, weighing 1 lb. to two or more. This year eighty rainbow trout were put in. They are not a native of this part of the country, I believe, but come from the west, and are not speckled like native trout, but striped and have small scales. The biggest rainbow weighed something over two pounds and no one has caught him yet. It is a big day when the fish are put in the stream, all the club members turning out en masse to witness the performance and shouting like small boys as every can full is emptied into the water. It is thrilling to see the big truck drive up with three watertight compartments, filled with live fish, graded according to size. They are taken out in a net and put in large cans filled with water, then emptied into the brook. The State has no hand in stocking. Expense is borne by the Club and as the fish are full grown and cost from fifty cents apiece up, you can figure out for yourself what stocking the stream year after year costs the club. Members are limited to eight; every one over that costs them fifty cents each. Each member is allowed three guests during the season at three dollars a guest. If he exceeds this number his guest fee is five dollars. Each member and guest registers on arriving, and the number of fish—large and small—checked on leaving. There is quite a bit of clerical work to be done, which falls to the lot of myself. The fishing season was extended two weeks this year and lasts until July 15th. This year the Club is stocking pheasants for fall and winter hunting. They were given one hundred full grown English ring neck birds, and have two hundred and fifty eggs hatching at a chicken farm up the road. They will be kept penned up until the season opens then turned loose, which proceeding seems cruel to me.

There are several acres planted with buckwheat, millet, soy beans and flower seeds, etc., to furnish food for them through the winter, and a tract of wild birds. There are two coops of fancy pheasants here now, just to look at. One is a most beautiful male bird, with dark blue breast, white back and red head. Over the white plumage is a black spangle and black tail feathers, that drag on the ground, like a train on milady's ball gown. His wife is brown with most indecent looking red legs. I call her "Scarlet Sister Mary." I like to listen to them "talking" to each other. They coo like pigeons.
I love the wild birds around the stream and spend many minutes watching them bathe in the pond.
There are beautiful orange and black orioles; red winged black birds and brown thrushes; robins, sparrows, juncoes and swallows. I haven't seen any wrens and miss the little family that built every year in the flower pot house on my porch at "The Patch." I have a flower garden this year except a 16-foot window box across my front windows. It is filled with dwarf nasturtiums and petunias. Up to date there is one yellow nasturtium. As I sit writing by the window overlooking the pond, the shadows of night are gathering and the trout are leaping from the water after night bugs. The whip-poor-wills are calling and I love to hear them, especially in the early morning, and don't care at all if they do wake me from a sound sleep.

I have many pleasant memories of "The Patch", my home for several years, but I think I will end up by liking this place better. There is a feeling in the air that reminds me of Canada. As time goes on I will probably write more and more of the life at The Potlucket Club. More than one hundred years ago the ground was an Indian reservation inhabited by the Potlucket tribe. In 1874 there were just 43 of the tribe left.
They are all gone now and most of the town of Sandy Hook is built on the site of the old reservation. One of the carpenters working at the Club now, tells us about his grandfather, who was a full-blooded Potlu-ucket Indian, and this man has many of the Indian features. Isn't life interesting—and aren't you glad we can only live one day at a time?
Tomorrow brings so much. Do you

GIVE THEM A SQUARE DEAL

EVERY tourist who enters Nova Scotia is entitled to a square deal—courteous treatment and reasonable charges. In our own interests, and theirs, we want them to leave this Province with the impression not only of a lovely country but of a friendly and fair-dealing people.

Whether or not we are to be favoured with return visits by our guests will depend on the impressions they gain and the treatment they receive.

We can let them go dissatisfied, perhaps, to advise their friends never to come... or we can send them away as voluntary salesmen, actively proclaiming the merits of Nova Scotia as an ideal summer vacation land.

Let us each play our part, as citizens, in making visitors to this Province sorry to leave... glad to send their friends... eager to come again.

know Henry VanDyke's little poem in which he says, "I shall grow old, but never lose life's zest; Because the earth's last turn will surely be the best!"

Like G.R.T., I am wondering who has become of our various contributors. He need not worry about the "Rolling Stone" gathering any more. That lad was never still long enough for moss to settle on, and never will be. By the way, Leslie,
I came from Waltham to Hartford with "Aunt Hettie" last week, and we talked about you and what a "great chap" you are. Where is Eve Harvey Nichols, and some more of her adorable poetry. I have her last bit, "Shadows", in my scrap book. "Guess Again" and B. M.
Nicholls seem to have become lost in their memories. Perhaps they couldn't stand their "public" knowing who they are. As for that "brother of a boy" from the Golden West, I just want him to know I have not lost my little dawg, and if I did lose him couldn't I whistle for him?
I can whistle; all the clan can, as he should know, being one of us—
G. R. T. I mean, not the dawg.

My lovely tom-cat, "Spinner", has turned out to be a philanthropist. He leaves his comfortable home and catnip mouse for three days at a time, then comes home tired and footsore, always in the middle of climbing up to the second story and crying at the window until some one wakes up and lets him in. Like all of today's children, he knows where the fattest calf is kept, and makes right for the refrigerator, knowing full well someone will feed him, even if it is three o'clock in the morning. It's all very well for friends to say, "why do you do it?"—but you know me, Al, pete are my weakness

Goodness, I must stop or there won't be room in the 1-4-er for me.
Just want to tell Mr. Editor I like his little editorials and many a gem finds its way to the pages of the old scrap book.

Good night all! M. G. T.

ASHMORE

Miss Alma Bent, of Annapolis Co., was a guest last week of Lucy Kinney.

Miss Gladys Marshall is visiting friends in Annapolis Royal.

Arnold Brooks, who is employed in the woods at Grand Lake, spent the week end with his family.

Miss Marjorie and Cecil Prime have gone to Wolfville to resume their positions at Acadia Dining Hall for the summer season.

Kenneth, a son of Rev. and Mrs. Lucy and Ronald Kinney accompanied by Miss Alma Bent, motored to Annapolis Royal on Saturday.

Mrs. Lowell, of Lynn, Mass., has been a recent guest at the home of Capt. and Mrs. Oliver Comeau.

GONE TO EUROPE

Rev. and Mrs. E. J. Cleveland, who for many years have been annual summer guests at Bayside Farm, will not be coming this summer. Instead, they will sail on July 12, from New York, on a trip to England and France.

They intend visiting the little village where Rev. Mr. Cleveland was stationed for five months after the Armistice, and also the battlefields, where the 36th Division fought.

There is a possibility that Rev. Mr. Cleveland may preach from the pulpit of St. Botolph's Church, Easton, Lincolnshire, on Sunday, July 21st. This service will probably be broadcast, so although he may not be visiting in Weymouth North this summer, his voice may reach there.

Rev. and Mrs. Cleveland state that they shall miss coming to Nova Scotia this year but are looking forward to making the trip again next year.

Miss Phyllis Hoop, R. N., of the Women's General Hospital, of Montreal, is visiting Miss McQuade, of Renfrew, Kings Co., N. B.

Trask—Denton

The Little River Baptist Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding Wednesday, at 10:30 a. m., when Gertrude Arlene, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh P. Denton, of Little River, became the bride of Edgar Alton Trask, son of Kiley Trask, of Little River. Rev. C. L. Chute, pastor of the church, officiated. The bride, who was becomingly attired in a gown of white georgette and lace, wearing a veil and carrying a bouquet of pink and white roses, baby's breath and fern, entered the church on the arm of her mother, (attired in delphine blue rough crepe with white accessories) to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. Lawrence Trask, of Digby. She was attended by her sister, Faye, who wore a gown of green and white polka dot mouseline de soie with white accessories, and carried a bouquet of pink and white peonies, and roses with fern. Betty Marie Trask, as flower girl, looked very charming in a maize organdy dress, carrying a basket of larkspur, roses and fern. The groom was attended by Rex Thiel, of Little River. During the signing of the register Mrs. C. M. Davies, of Clarence, sang "O Promise Me". The church was decorated with fern, orange blossoms and peonies. The ushers were the Messrs. Viola Denton and Mildred Kelley. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, where lunch was served. The happy couple left on a tour through New Brunswick and Maine. The bride's traveling suit was of blue trico crepe with grey accessories. The gifts to the ushers were leather bound five-year diaries, to the bridesmaid an amethyst ring to the best man a smoking set, to the organist and soloist white leather purses. The groom's gift to the bride was a leather travelling case. They were recipients of many beautiful gifts including china, silver, linen and glass. Some of the out of town guests were: Mrs. R. C. Porter, Miss Agnes Porter, Oscar Banks, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Welsh, Henry Wheelock and daughter Thelma, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Davies and son Jackie. The couple will reside in Little River.

Train Hits Truck at Crossing, Driver Killed

The Halifax bound D. A. R. Express struck a Deane Truck, operated by Harold Erna Barr, of Southville, Digby County, at the level crossing near H. T. Warner's mill and machine shop, at the south end of the town, Barr, who was the driver of the truck, was killed by the train about ten minutes after the crash. The accident occurred about 11:20 a. m., standard time, yesterday.

Barr was driving along Queen Street, going south, at a moderate speed, just as the Express, which was carrying a load of lumber, was approaching the crossing near the mill siding. Edward Hanson, employed at the cook house, saw the train approaching and called to Barr, who was on the other side of the crossing, to stop, but too late. The cab of Barr's truck went over the tracks before the locomotive hit the tail end, swinging the vehicle completely around so that it faced in a northerly direction, breaking off a telephone post at the same time.

Witnesses say that Barr made an attempt to leap from the cab just as the crash occurred, and as the truck swung around as the result of the blow, he was between it and the train. The truck crashed against

MORE HELP NEEDED

To the Editor of the Courier:—Sir—This letter is dedicated to all who are inclined to help those who honestly try to help themselves. The story:—Some time in March Clifford Farnsworth lost his home with all its contents, by fire. The men were at work in the neighborhood, and the women, overcome with grief, did not give the alarm in time. When the department arrived the house was down—but the barn was saved. In that barn, with their six children, these poor people have been living until last week, when they moved into the shell of a home. The day after the fire, Douglas Daley, who never fails to help those who are in trouble, went over the town with a pig, to make something like $200, but when the pig was sold, the matter they found a mortgage, with no insurance. They wisely paid the mortgage, and the town sent groceries, bedding, and so the family was provided for. All this was done—but no home to put it in.

Mr. Harvey, our 95-year-old magistrate, made the first gift of a garage, which Clifford pulled down and had the lumber piled up by the ruins of his old home. Other men sold him buildings at a small price, so he gathered all together and began to build. Early and late he slaved, got the building up and boarded in. Anyone who has done any building knows the expense then only begins.

The Kiwanis Club, that splendid organization which has done so much for the people of Digby, picked out a committee of members, and with the president, went up to see the conditions. Result, they ordered a kitchen and a splendid chimney was built, at no small expense, paid for by the Club. Now the limit has been reached.

Farnsworth, with heroic courage, keeps plugging, keeping his place going. The people who have worked for years, find him honest in his dealings. The other day he was presented with a letter from an instant that he was working in his strength, hence my letter, or list is now open, through the Courier, for dollar subscriptions. If we can get one hundred and fifty dollars we can go on and have the house finished before winter sets in, so the family can live in comfort. Anyone who is interested enough to help, who sees his place. It is at the end of Mount Street, near Victoria. All money paid to Mr. Farnsworth, manager of the bank of Canada, who has kindly consented to act as treasurer. Hoping this letter may bring results.

The fire department was called out on Monday morning for what might have been a bad blaze on the roof of the combined dwelling and store of B. H. Ruggles. The fire was soon extinguished.

A heavy limb, with a butt of nearly ten inches, was broken off a huge chestnut tree in front of Dunn's Service Station during the high wind Tuesday afternoon, landing at a spot where Wesley Dunn, assistant manager of the station, had had his car parked not more than five minutes previously. The tip of the limb brushed against the car, and the vicinity but caused no damage.

Last Friday afternoon one of the Hospital Bridge Clubs enjoyed the afternoon and evening with Mr. and Mrs. Torry at their camp on the Lakes. After a pleasant round of Bridge the guests did ample justice to the bountiful supper provided by their hostess, later rowing about the lake and visiting the various other camps tucked in along the water's edge—and a good time was had by all.

Mr. Walker is to be congratulated on the splendid pictures he has been presenting this season, "Little Women" and "Laddie" were certainly the most talked about for some time and Bill Powell and Myrna Loy made a perfect combination. "Evelyn Prentiss," with Una Merkel adding her touch of humor. Next week, the talk of the season, "The Great Dictator" with Charlie Chaplin, will be presented, one of movie land's most popular and captivating stars, Franchot Tone, is to be shown. "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" is being shown as the year's best picture, and we are certainly favored by its early showing at the Bijou Theatre.

CHURCHES BENEFIT BY PICTURE SHOW

For the benefit of the churches of Smith's Cove there was presented on Tuesday evening at the Casino of the Harbor View Hotel, a program of motion pictures, by Duncan MacD. Little, of Smith's Cove and New York City. The entertainment was sponsored by Frank B. Witherbee and Daniel L. Turner, both well known summer residents of the cabin colony at Smith's Cove, Digby and Bear River, and a nice sum was taken to be distributed between St. Ann's Chapel the Baptist church and the United church in Smith's Cove. The program, which was taken to be distributed between St. Ann's Chapel the Baptist church and the United church in Smith's Cove, was as follows:—

"Salmon Fishing on the Margaree River" that world famous stream on Cape Breton Island.

"The Making of Canadian Home- spun," which was filmed last summer in St. Siméon, P. Q., with the cooperation and assistance of the entire population of that little northern village, and particularly three dear old ladies there. The entire process is shown in great detail and very clearly, from the shearing of the sheep on through to the finished cloth.

"Harbor View People" being a varied collection of candid and amusing shots and sequences of the people and about the place. During the years that have passed since this reel was first started, many of those whose faces appear have passed away, so there is great interest in once again seeing old friends almost as it were, come to life on the screen.

"The Start of Amelia Earhart's Flight to Europe," which is the only authentic film record of that historic event in the annals of aviation.

This was another occasion when an amateur "scooped" the news reels. The first portion of this film was made by Edward W. Warren, a friend of Mr. Little, and the last portion by an utter stranger who just happened to be in Harbour Grace, Nfld., when the flier took up from there, and it was his generosity that provided this completion of the sequence.

"The First Sailing of the S. S. Manhattan," being a series of pictures beating the news reels. This film was made at 1.30 a. m. in a down-pour of rain, the light being provided by United States Army searchlights.

"About Our Cabin," being odds and ends of reels recording happy hours at their cabin, of Mr. Little and his family, and of Mr. Little. (Mr. Little is a member of the Amateur Cinema League and of the Institute of Amateur Cinematographers).

Duncan MacD. Little should need no introduction to most of our readers for he has been a summer resident in these parts for many years, first at Deep Brook and later at the Harbor View colony, Smith's Cove, where he also spent a winter several years ago. His many friends scattered throughout the province.

On Wednesday evening, in the Temperance Hall at Smith's Cove, Mr. Little presented a splendid programme of his motion pictures, this being sponsored by Elmer Weir and Edward Payson, of that village, and being a collection of views and incidents of the local countryside that naturally were of great interest to the United States, and his reception at Washington by the president, and at New York City by the Mayor, and the Governor of New York state. It is a film of great historic interest.

"Bridgetown, Bear River and Annapolis Royal," including scenes of Mr. MacD. Little making baskets and being a collection of views and incidents of the local countryside that naturally were of great interest to the United States, and his reception at Washington by the president, and at New York City by the Mayor, and the Governor of New York state. It is a film of great historic interest.

"The Circus Is In Town"—descriptive of the arrival and departure of the greatest show on wheels, and we are soon to have a circus nearby this was particularly of interest. Last year this film was awarded, with nine other films, the Honorary Mention by the American Society of Cinematographers in their international competition for amateurs, at which time it was understood, some 150 films from twenty odd countries were received.

Last evening, as an added feature at the Bijou Theatre, a Digby film was exhibited as well as Mr. Little's film of "Digby and Sandy Cove". Mr. Little wired Eddie Cantor at Hollywood to attend at the Bijou Theatre. Unfortunately, Mr. Cantor, whose picture, "Kid Millions," was showing in the the-

Insurance Men In Session

Over seventy representatives of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company arrived at the Pines Hotel on Monday for a joint meeting of the company's "Two Hundred Thousand Club" for Canada and the United States, and the "One Hundred Thousand Club" Eastern division. These men, who were guests of their company as an award for the business they have written during the past year, are leaving for their homes today. During their stay they had two business sessions, on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings, at which they listened to addresses by members of the head office staff, and others prominent in the insurance business; they also held discussions on matters pertaining to their work.

On Tuesday afternoon they held their golf tournament over the Pines links; in the evening a clam bake Wednesday afternoon they spent at deep sea fishing; in the evening, dancing to the music of Harry Cochrane's Pines Hotel orchestra. Yesterday they enjoyed a motor boat trip to Bear River.

Atre last evening, was unable to attend. The receipts from the showing of the pictures in Smith's Cove were $20.05 on Tuesday, to be divided among the churches, and $28.00 on Wednesday evening for the library and other objects. During the latter showing Miss Lois Walker, with three of the Girl Guides, were present. Miss Walker addressing the audience in connection with last night's showing in town.

INDIAN CARNIVAL PLANS

Well attended and enthusiastic meetings were held Tuesday evening at both Digby and Annapolis Royal, for the purpose of discussing plans in connection with the forthcoming Indian Carnival, to be held here August 5, and at Annapolis Royal, August 6. Mayor A. A. Shorefield presided over the meeting at Digby, while Mayor Owen presided at Annapolis Royal.

In both towns plans are well under way for a most successful carnival. Rehearsals for the pageant are now in full swing. The pageant this year will depict Happy Days in Nova Scotia, and all paths and tragedy will be omitted.

The tentative programme for Digby will be first the parade of the explorers near the bandstand; from there they will take part in the parade, ending the procession at the Cannon Bank, where the Indians, explorers and those connected with the carnival will partake of a feast. The water sports will take place in front of the bandstand in the afternoon. In the evening the pageant will be held on the ball field, and following this will be a street dance on the newly paved Water Street.

Mrs. R. M. Johnston, of Milton, N. S., is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. S. Hines, Seabrook. Mr. Johnston is on a trip through the western provinces, visiting his old home and relatives and friends.

The quilters worked steadily through the afternoon, completing more than half the job before sundown. Supper was served and other refreshments provided as the work went on to its conclusion during the remainder of the evening.

AXIOMS

The dictionary says that an axiom is a self-evident truth. In the course of a man's life he encounters many axioms.

Today he is encountering one but does not appear to recognize it because the proposition is but half stated.

He is told that if wealth were redistributed we would all be safer and happier. And the proposition appeals to those who do not have all of this world's goods they desire.

But the proposition should be fully stated. The experience of Russia, for instance, should be cited. This done, an axiomatic truth would be disclosed.

"There can be no redistribution of wealth without there being a redistribution of poverty."

One trouble with soaking the rich is that you get spattered a good deal yourself.

HIGH PRICE OF HATREDS

The League of Nations has just reported that the enormous sum of $5,000,000,000 was spent last year by the nations of the world for armaments. This was an increase of nearly a half billion dollars over the armament bill for 1933, and will be at least a half billion dollars below the bill for the present year.

This is a tremendous sum of money to be spent on something that comes very close to being sheer waste. Just think of what half this sum might accomplish if it were spent for worthwhile objectives which made for the betterment of humanity, instead of being squandered on guns, and ships, and airplanes, and munitions, and training soldiers. The possibilities for good are as such as to stagger the imagination.

All these billions spent for armament are ground out of the taxpayers of the world. And until such time as these taxpayers arise in their wrath and refuse to bear the burdens, the nations will continue to pay dearly for their fears and hatreds and rivalries.

Our Port

To the Editor of the Courier.

Sir:—According to Campbell's History of Nova Scotia, it was in the early summer of 1604 that the noted explorer, DeMonts, while proceeding up the Bay of Fundy observed a strait—Digby—which he entered. In describing what he found on entering the Gut, the Historian pays worthy tribute to one of the finest sheets of water to be found on this continent. In part he says: "The basin itself is a great expanse of water, so large as to be scarcely comprehended in all its proportions by the keen glance of unaided vision." History also reveals whom this town was named, payed that Rear Admiral Digby, after this port an official visit in the H. M. S. Wye, in 1794 and 1815.

It is only reasonable for the reader to presume that DeMonts found no adequate and safe docking accommodations for his ship in 1604 or Admiral Digby in 1794 and 1815. It is only reasonable for the reader to presume that DeMonts found no adequate and safe docking accommodations for his ship in 1604 or Admiral Digby in 1794 and 1815. It is only reasonable for the reader to presume that DeMonts found no adequate and safe docking accommodations for his ship in 1604 or Admiral Digby in 1794 and 1815.

The town and port of Digby situated as it is, on the Western shores of Annapolis Basin, the Basin itself forming a natural harbour of refuge, is equal in size, area and depth of water to any harbour on the Canadian Atlantic seaboard. It is so strategically situated that it has many advantages that are too numerous to mention but amongst the most important is the fact that its approach, although narrow, contains ample water to float any size ship. Its channel is free from rocks, ledges or any other obstacles to navigation. It is a free harbour open to commerce throughout the year; in area it is the largest and deepest harbour in the Bay of Fundy. It is the only harbour in the Dominion Atlantic Railway. It therefore becomes the natural outlet for the products of one of the richest valleys in Canada and a deep water loading berth at this port should be a benefit to every resident of the newly formed constituency of Evangeline. Its close proximity to Annapolis Royal, the second oldest town in North America, which was once the Capital of Nova Scotia, with its old fortifications and museum and the unequalled scenery to be observed while passing through the Annapolis Valley to the "Land of Evangeline" makes this port the natural gateway to that part of the "Play Ground of the Atlantic" that is the richest in historical events and scenery. But how can we expect to cater to either of these growing industries with absolutely nothing to offer them in the way of safe loading and landing facilities? Do we require any further proof of the lack of docking facilities when we stop and consider what happens here in the spring of '34 and '35 and the sight of the S. S. Acadia and the S. S. Saint John laying in the stream last week and boating the passengers ashore. Did we ever have a deep water loading berth and a dock ever for our own use? Mr. Editor, from the time that the Spur pier was built up until 1929 we loaded 5,000 ton pulp ships and gypsum barges with a draft of 21 feet on the East side of this pier with perfect safety, but in the dying days of the King administration when the contract was let for the remodeling of the main pier we were deprived of this berth. I have been informed that if the engineers had listened to the voice of experience (that of Capt. McDonald of the S. S. Princess Helene) and when widening the wharf had added that twenty-five or thirty feet to the North side of the main pier instead of the South we would still be in possession of the water berth on the East side of the Spur pier. There is no blame on Capt. McDonald—the safety of his ship is his first consideration—but it is a shame for the Port of Digby that the superannuation in the Department of Public Works is not ten years earlier in life. In the early Spring of 1934 we not only asked but petitioned Ottawa for deep water loading berth on the West side of the Spur pier that would accommodate the whole fleet of scap boats, of which there are upwards of fifty, as well as any freight or passenger steamer that would care to make Digby a port of call. This suggestion was again brought to the attention of the Department by the Digby Board of Trade in the Spring of 1935, but to date it would appear that our appeal has fallen on deaf ears. Probably the Department thinks that we should be satisfied with the dredging we got in 1932 and the Fishermen's or Maritime breakwater in 1934, built similar to the house mentioned in the VII Chapter of Matthew the 26th and 27th verses, and will accommodate at least six scap boats without ground-water alongside of each other, at cost, construction and usefulness will be dealt with at a later date and a more opportune time.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the allotted space which you are always glad to give when in the interest of the Port, and trusting that there is a sliver of the eighty million dollar Public Works programme slowed away for better shipping facilities at Digby.

Capt. R. R. Russell,
Digby, N. S.

Their names were: Barbara Birch, Barbara Marsh, Roberta Dittmar, Audrey Hopgood, Marian Tregunno and Douglas Hopgood and little Warren Tregunno acting as ushers, and taking up the collection. Proceeds were given to Rainbow Haven. The programme consisted of tap dancing, songs, piano solos and piano duets, dialogues and recitations. The children made the announcements and organized the programme entirely on their own. Much talent is evident in this group of children and augurs well for the future. A substantial sum was realized. The children were delighted that their efforts afforded some underprivileged child at least a week's holiday at the Haven.

H. Frazer, of Bear River, were united in Holy Matrimony. Rev. Father Leo Murphy officiating. The bride was becomingly attired in white crepe ensemble with turban to match. Miss Margaret Theriault and Augustus Melanson in attendance. A reception was held at the bride's home after the ceremony, after which the couple left for their future home in Bear River. A few nights previous a shower was given in Mrs. Frazer's honor. About twenty-five young ladies surprised her at her home, and a gay evening was spent.

BAND NOTES

A funny mix-up occurred at last week's concert when the band opened with "The Maple Leaf Forever." The band has two versions of this melody one of which had been discarded in favor of the better one, but some of the boys picked up the wrong card and the two didn't harmonize; consequently all sorts of maple leaves were blown about for awhile until the mistake was rectified.

Gordon Burnham, of Halifax, was warmly welcomed by the boys when he took his old place at rehearsal and concert while on his vacation this week. After leaving Digby in 1934 Gordon, a member of the well known Princess Louise Fusiliers Band until obliged to resign from lack of opportunity for home practice.

The town street committee have promised the removal of the dead and scraggly cherry tree from the roadside near the bandstand. The big audiences will be pleased at the disappearance of that eyesore.

Seven brass bands competed for valuable cash prizes at the Halifax Rodeo on Tuesday, first prize being taken by the Princess Louise Fusiliers. The judges were musicians of note, but none of them were bandmen, nor could they be considered an authority on band instrumentation, technique or the many details of band performance. Decisions by experienced adjudicators, such as Capt. Chas. O'Neill or Capt. R. B. Hayward, with their detailed criticisms, would have been extremely valuable, especially to the losing bands.

Hurt While Mowing

On Saturday afternoon last week Oscar Stark, 49 year old Culloden farmer, was badly injured when he fell in front of his mowing machine while he and his wife were at work in their hayfield. Mr. Stark, just before the accident, was following behind his mower, which was being pulled by a yoke of oxen. Coming to the end of the swath, the cattle "hauled" or made the turn toward the driver, who in some unknown manner, stumbled and fell in front of the long mowing machine blade. When he fell the cattle became frightened and commenced to run, dragging the unfortunate man for several feet before they could be brought to a halt.

Arthur Hersey, another farmer, who was working in a nearby field at his hay, heard Mr. Stark's cries as he fell, and rushed at once to the scene, arriving just as Mr. Stark was picking himself up from the ground. With the help of Mr. Stark they took him to his home, and Dr. DuVernet was called from Digby.

On his arrival, Dr. DuVernet saw the nature of the man's wounds, his right arm was badly cut and mangled, and pushed him at once to the Digby General Hospital where he is now reported as making favorable progress.

Obituary

Annes M. Waldron
The Courier received a telegram this week announcing the death of Annes M. (Haley) Waldron, wife of Fred G. Waldron, which occurred at her home 1 Walter Street, Roslinville, Mass., on Monday, September 2, 1935. She was 64 years of age. The late Mrs. Waldron moved from Weymouth Mills to Roslinville forty-nine years ago and was one of the Courier's contributors for our special 60th Anniversary number, September last.

The Hospital Sewing Club held a very successful pantry sale on Saturday afternoon at Scotia Restaurant. Mrs. H. T. Warne was the convenor.

Indian Carnival Going Well

With all committees at work, plans for the success of the Nova Scotia Indian Carnival, which will take place at Digby, and Annapolis Royal, on Monday and Tuesday, August 5 and 6, respectively, are well ahead.

The Carnival this year, in a large way, will commemorate the erection of the first fort on the shores of the Annapolis Basin, which was built 300 years ago this August. Capt. Edward Keane, of Port Wade, is re-rigging his vessel, the Lena K., which last year played the part of the Jonas, Champlain's flagship. This year the craft will carry her ancient rigging, and on Monday, August 5, will carry a party of explorers, headed by D'Aulany (Champlain) to Digby. History tells us that when Champlain was commissioned by the King of France to erect a strong fort on the Basin, he visited several points, and spent a week at what is now the site of our town contemplating building a fort near the Digby Gut. He decided against this, and went to Lower Grandville, where the fort was erected.

On the arrival of the ship at Digby the adventurers will be met by a band of Indians; they will then join the mammoth parade, after which Indians, explorers and carnival officials will partake of a love feast on the Cannon Bank. The parade, of course, will be headed by the Band.

Digby's water sports programme will begin at 2.00 in the afternoon, on the water front in front of the town. It is expected for these events, many of the province's most famous guides and sportsmen will be among the entries. The Band will play during this part of the programme.

Hundreds of young people are now drilling for the pageant which will be staged at the ball field at the close of the school building. This pageant, which will be unique in many ways on account of its most unusual features, will be entitled

THE FIRE FUND

The Editor of the Courier.
Dear Sir:—Dollars are not coming in as fast as I should like to see have given. Was feeling pretty blue yesterday. When I opened my mail, there was a kind note from Dr. Kirkus with his contribution. I am asking for a dollar from everybody.

Half an hour after that, Mr. Arthur Turnbull told me he would give shingles to enable Clifford to go on his house now, in my mind's eye, finished before winter. If only people would realize it is a privilege to help those in need, as lending to the Giver of all. "The quality of mercy is not strained, it is more blessed, it blesseth him who gives, and he who takes it, it falls like the gentle rain from Heaven to the peace beneath."

Gifts of floor boards and hardware would be the same as money. Following are the names of contributors for the past week.

"Nova Scotia's Happy Days", depicting the joyous events of the history of the province in a stepped, section in particular is steeped, from the time of the first white settlers down to the King's Silver Jubilee of this year. The same pageant, with the same cast, will also be repeated at Annapolis Royal, on Tuesday evenings.

Following the pageant at Digby there will be a street dance on Digby's new pavement. In all probability the section from the Bank of Nova Scotia to the Railroad Crossing near the Scotia Restaurant, the dance at Annapolis Royal to follow the pageant, will be held in the Annapolis Royal Town Hall.

BE CAREFUL

When the D. A. R. engine struck poor Harold Barr last week, he fell at the foot of a telephone pole, which bore the sign, "Stop, Look, Listen".

The irony of this is apparent. Had he been on his guard, the accident could not have occurred. He would have heard the sound of the whistle, the ringing of the bell and the rumble of the train.

But, if he was thinking at all at the time, his thoughts were not about his own safety as they should have been. So he did not heed the warning sign, and he paid for his carelessness with his life.

Most of the 35,000 persons who were killed in automobile accidents in America last year would be alive today if they had stopped, looked and listened. Such a slaughter is not at all necessary, and it does not say much for the intelligence of the people who operate motor vehicles and risk their own lives and those of others by their recklessness and folly.

"Stop, Look and Listen" is a motto that would cure most of the other ills of this world if it were observed in all cases. Mankind owes most of the troubles from which it is now suffering to its thoughtlessness and want of wisdom. Foolish people cannot be prosperous and happy. Those who sow folly will reap disaster.

Board of Trade Erects Bathing Houses

The Digby Board of Trade is to be congratulated on the erection of a neat six-compartment house on the beach of the Racquette. Such a utility has been a much felt need for many years, the only bathing houses in the town being those on the Lour Lodge Beach at the Joggins, which are owned by the hotel.

No charges are made for the use of the new bathing house at the Racquette. It was hoped that the Board of Trade in the erection of another bathing house on this beach, but at the time the proposition was put up to them the Council felt they could not afford it at the present time.

Funeral of Harold Barr

The little Christian Church at Southville, Digby County, was filled to its capacity Sunday afternoon, for the funeral service of the late Harold Ezra Barr, killed in a level crossing crash at Digby, on Thursday of last week. It is estimated that more than five hundred persons attended the funeral. Before the service was held at the home of Mrs. Ezra Manzer, mother of the deceased. Both services were conducted by Rev. Donald Stockford, pastor of the church. Interment was in the cemetery at Harlem. Friends and relatives of the province and elsewhere, were present, including many of his fellow workers from Digby, and his employer, H. T. Warne. His sister, Mrs. James Ozmot, of Ellsworth, Ohio, arrived for the funeral.

A Word Of Praise

To the Editor of the Courier.

Sir:—I don't know who looks after the condition of Digby streets, but I want to say a good word for them, whoever they are, and this is the reason: Late Saturday night I thought your down-town streets were the dirtiest I ever saw. They were littered with paper bags, banana peels, candy wrappings and all sorts of rubbish. Then Sunday morning we walked down town, expecting to see the same trash on the streets. Judge our surprise, when we found the front street swept as clean as a polished floor. That's good work. Clean streets are a sure sign of clean people, and the work of your street department is no doubt appreciated by the permanent residents as it surely is by the stranger in town.

Yours truly,

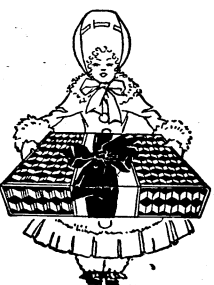

A Visitor.

CONGRATULATIONS

The Courier takes this opportunity of congratulating J. L.
P. Robicheau, of Maxwelton, on his elevation to the Senate of Canada. "Johnnie" is a good fellow—a hard worker in whatever he undertakes, and a friend to everybody. A railway tele-grapher by profession, he spent a great many years in the West in the employ of the C. P. R.
Coming back to Nova Scotia some years ago, he entered public life and represented this county in the local house of Assembly for a term and has contested the country on two occasions since, but unsuccessfully.
He is a progressive farmer, owns the largest orchard in Digby County; and he is a lumberman and operates a mill at Maxwelton. He also has a summer bungalow colony and is interested in a number of other enterprises. His home is always open to his friends—and they are legion. We do not know of any French Acadia who could fill the office so well as our good friend "Johnnie".
May he live long to enjoy the honors of the position.

Asia boasts of sheep in the Himalaya Mountains that can run forty miles an hour. That's the only kind that can keep up with Mary nowa days.

HITLER'S ARMY

German war veterans are said not to have been greatly impressed with the new Reichs-wehr, in the demonstration it gave for their benefit at Kassel.
The infantry parade may have been as striking as ever, with hordes of soldiers plunging along in the exaggerated "para-deschritt" which is still used for such occasions. But it is not goose-stepping that wins battles. The World War men made quiet criticism and inquiries about the lack of mechanical equipment. Those who expected after Hitler's big war to see modern tanks and anti-aircraft guns and heavy artillery and trucks, found little to admire.

It may be that Hitler has armament, defensive and offensive, stationary and mobile, that he is not revealing at present.
Yet the impression grows among outside observers that there is this Nazi war force, as it fitts itself, a good deal of cliff. It is well always, for Germany's potential foe, and for the world in general, to be on guard against any such government as Hitler represents.
At the same time, it is evident that Germany's neighbors are no longer scared out of their wits, as they seemed to be when Hitler came into the open with his confession of rearmament and began defying the other powers.

The old-fashioned father who uses to work his way through life, not has a son who hanks his way through it.

BRITISH BOOTLEGGING

The British Defense of the Realm Act, a war measure which has hung on since war days, has been popularly known as DORA. If some of the tale told of its present working are true, it should be called Duml Dora. At any rate, Canadian in London find that bootlegging long regarded as peculiarly a North American institution, has taken strong hold in England.
That is because Dora fixes the legal closing hours for so many different types of stores. A visitor in a year's stay, it is said, has had slipped to him, against the law, such harmless articles as a loaf of bread, a tooth brush, razor blades, a porket handkerchief and a bottle of medicinal whiskey.

A few frequently bootlegged articles are discussed in a recent news story from London.

One of these is salted peanuts which may not be sold after 8
p. m., unless they are served piping hot on the premises and eaten with a napkin around the neck. That, the correspondent warns, is to be regarded as a somewhat free rendering of the truth, exaggerated in order to make the point clear. The fact remains that drug stores may sell only medicines after a certain hour so that it takes a bit of law-evasion to get a cake of soap or a tooth-brush. The weary proprietor stays within the law if it seems safest but otherwise willingly slips the banned article over the counter unwrapped.

We hope our British brethren do something about this soon, before British character and law abiding spirit are undermined and ruined by dubious DORA.

In the matter of jokes, the radio comedians seem to think that what was good enough for our grandfathers is good enough for us.

AROUND THE CORNER

The most of us have dreamed we would do this, that, and the other thing when our ship came in, and some of us are still dreaming.

Why do we do so? We have learned in the last few years that prosperity is not "just around the corner." There is no corner, never was, and never will be.

We dream idle dreams if we do not get busy and make them
"come true." We plan to no purpose of we do not proceed to carry out our plans.

All the corner there is in ourselves, and we turn that corner when we face facts, reckon with them, envision possibilities, and by sheer will power bend circumstances to our wills.
Man is master of his own destiny when he summons to the accomplishment of his purpose all powers that lie within himself.

WEYMOUTH SCOUTS PRESENT PLAY

The 1st Weymouth Boy Scout Troop presented its concert at the Community Theatre, on Wednesday, July 17, at 8 p. m., to a large and appreciative audience.
The main feature of the programme was the Scout play "Be Prepared", written and directed by the Scoutmaster of the Troop, Baden Powell, and introduced by Scout George Long.

In act I the curtain goes up on an outdoor camping scene—a realistic stage setting, with a background of young spruces against a blue sky, and the Boy Scouts in uniform drilling on their arrival at camp. Finishing drill they go off for a swim in the lake.
Billy Snowden, who has been away to the Scout Camp, against his father's wishes, arrives, and is kidnapped there, and taken to the woods nearby, by Butch Hardman, a crook, who holds a grudge against Billy's father, the Judge.

Soon Constable Lawlor arrives with Judge Snowden, who accuses the Scouts of having him hidden somewhere about the camp. They give him their Word of Honour that they haven't seen him, then leave for breakfast, while Judge Snowden and Constable Lawlor go out in search of the missing boy.

Act II
Billy is still missing. Judge Snowden finds his son's cap near the lake. The Scouts make a thorough search and return without him, declaring that they think he has not been drowned.

One of the boys finds some of his lunch missing—the search continues.
Butch Hardman sneaks back to the camp grounds with Billy, leaves him there, and warns him to wait until he returns for him. Sitting there alone, Billy picks up a guitar belonging to one of the boys, plays and sings "That Silver Haired Daddy of Mine", which impressively ends the second act.

Act III
The Patrol Leader and Second return from the search—they find strange footprints, and trampled and broken branches, where someone has been hiding. Who stole the cake? Whose footprints are these? Patrol Leader calls the Scouts and stations them each at their hiding places.

Butch makes his way through the woods with Billy to drown him in the lake—but the Scouts are too smart for him—he is trapped! Butch Hardman is taken back to town by the Constable, and Billy is safely returned to his father, who takes great pride in the fine work carried out by the Scouts—and Billy is a Boy Scout.

The cast is as follows:—
Judge Snowden—Richard H. Taylor.

Butch Hardman, a crook.—R. Baden Powell.

Constable Lawlor—Bob Ruggles.
Billy, the Judge's son—Hector Cormier.

Patrol Leader—Adolphe Comeau,
2nd, A. Elliot, 3rd, Ed. Comeau, 4th, F. Killam, 5th, J. Dunkley, 6th,
S. Killam, 7th, R. Walker, 8th, J.
McNeill.

Specialties between the acts were tap dancing by Miss Estelle Cormier, which was much enjoyed, and the Scouts in uniform around a campfire, who entertained with instrumental selections and group singing.

—Lindley Jones, harmonica; J.
Dunkley, guitar; F. and S. Killam, violin and saxophone; Robicheau, Jew's harp. Music for the evening was furnished by Dr. and Mrs. Cormier. Everyone carried out his part exceptionally well, and Scoutmaster Powell deserves credit for the fine work he is doing with his Scout Troop.

Scout George Long, in a very pleasing manner, gave the closing address.

Minister of Highways,

To Cure a Great Evil!

The dust nuisance has for many years constituted a menace to all travellers on our highways, an affliction to property owners, an insurmountable obstacle to progress in our tourist trade.

Efforts to overcome the difficulty by means of dust
"layers" have proved ineffectual and although it involves heavy initial expenditures—the only real cure for dusty roads is a hard surface.

Accordingly, the Provincial Government has embarked on a policy under which, within a few years, all the more heavily travelled roads of Nova Scotia will be thus treated.

In the meantime, where reconstruction is under way, motorists are asked to proceed carefully in the assurance that everything possible will be done to keep traffic running smoothly.

While visiting motorists, in company with our own people, will this year have to bear with a little discomfort at certain points, they will journey home bearing the tidings that the dust evil which has kept thousands of motor-tourists out of Nova Scotia is at last being overcome.

FOUR YEARS OF PROGRESS FOR BROWN-HOLDER

A Check-up That is Well Worth While—The Factory Running Day and Night

Contracts are always interesting. Business men like to compare one year's business with another in order to learn whether they are going ahead or behind. An occasional check-up is worth while for any business or industry. It is particularly worth while in the case of Brown Holder Biscuits, Limited, of Moncton, an industry that in spite of the Depression, is making really remarkable progress.

Organized in 1931, this company produced their first biscuits on November 17th of that year. The staff then numbered fifteen, the travelling salesmen, two. Today, after less than four years of operation, this company has 66 people on the payroll, they employ 18 travelling salesmen and since the first of May last they have been working two eight-hour shifts per day. The turnover for May, 1935, was nearly double what it was in May, 1934, while the output for June, 1935, was considerably ahead of June, 1934. July has started out well with the prospect that the factory will work night and day for some considerable time to come.

In 1934 The Brown Holder Company received a substantial order from Hudson's Bay Company; this year the order was increased to a carload so the Brown Holder products are being eaten and enjoyed in the far North, in the land of the Midnight Sun.

It is gratifying to the people of the Maritimes to know that an industry, born in the Depression, has weathered the storm and is now making splendid progress.

If you are not now using Brown Holder products, begin today; you'll like them.

Regular Monthly Meeting Town Council Held Monday

The Digby Town Council, in their regular monthly meeting on Monday evening, accepted the tender of J. C. Mackintosh & Co. for an issue of $30,000 Town of Digby debentures. The Mackintosh tender of 101.41 per cent was the highest of the eight tenders submitted, all of which were above par, the lowest tender being for 100.34 per cent. The debentures are divided as follows:—$5,000 for water; $4,000 for fire department; and $21,000 for streets.

Another debenture for $4,000 for sewer purposes, in accordance with the Town of Digby sewer act of 1931, will also be issued.

At this meeting the Mayor presided, and all councillors, with the exception of Councillor Morrell, were present.

The superintendent of streets and water, in his monthly report to the council, reported the renewing of a 12-inch service drain for a distance of 80 feet on St. George Street and the cleaning out of the bridge by the residence of B. O. Baxter. Three tons of calcium chloride had been laid on the principal unpaved streets and a curbing put in around the Waverly Hotel corner. He also reported that there was abundance of water in the lake.

The supplementary assessment of the town was passed at this meeting. New assessments on the supplementary list totalled $5,350. Councillor Anderson drew to the attention of the mayor and council several places which had been omitted by the assessors.

Assessors appointed for the year were as follows:—G. H. Peters, A. R. Turnbull and Fritz Dakin.

A letter from J. Vian Andrews, warden of the Municipality of Digby, in the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities, was read, and the council voted to invite the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities to meet in Digby for their 1936 meeting, with the suggestion that the meeting be held some time during the month of September. Mayor A. A. Shortliffe and

Last Week's Circus

Last week the A. G. Barnes Circus played at Annapolis Royal. Yesterday the Jackson Shows were putting up their parabolae on the Cannon Bank, where they intend to stay for several days and take out the money they can clean out of the town of Digby.

The circus first intended coming to Digby, but, when asked to put up a huge bond in case of damage, which might be caused to our streets, they changed their mind about our town, and went to Annapolis Royal. From what we have understood from "advance men" from the circus, and what we have understood from other quarters, the damage the circus might have caused to our streets would have been negligible—possibly some in First Avenue, and Prince William Street.

It is quite true that such an institution as a circus would take some money out of Digby. It is also very true that such an institution as a circus would have left thousands of dollars in Digby. Animals and people with the big show have to be fed. Hundreds of those who would come to town specially to see the circus, would have to eat at local restaurants and hotels. During circus day every store in town would have a "big day"—such as they had at Annapolis Royal.

Somewhat, it seems to us that a big mistake was made in driving the circus out of Digby—and that a bigger mistake was made in letting the smaller shows come to town—still, out of fairness, we understand that these shows travel under a provincial license, and the town has nothing to say about whether they come or not. If such is the case, it is time something was done in regard to these provincial licenses in order that the towns may be better protected.

American Boy Scouts Here

Rev. H. T. Wright, B. D. pastor of the United Baptist Church, Dover, Foxcroft, Me., and former pastor of the West End Baptist Church, Halifax, accompanied by five boy scouts from Katharine Council, of which he is commissioner, was in town on Wednesday leaving the afternoon for Saint John, after spending an entire month touring the province. The scouts carry home a number of their own collection, especially of the good time given them by the Canadian Scouts of South Queens, Nova Scotia, at their annual camp at the Kings County, Queens County. An invitation was given by the visiting troop to King Scout, Roy Sorette, troop No. 3, Liverpool, who will be a passenger on the Princess Helen Thursday next, and will spend some three weeks at Camp Roosevelt, Bangor, Me. While in town Scout Commissioner Wright paid Rev. Dr. Hodgson a visit at the United Church parsonage.

George Ryan to Open Modern Meat Market

In this week's edition we are carrying a one-half page advertisement announcing the opening of a Frigidaire equipped meat market, to be run in conjunction with Ryan's Grocery Store. Mr. Ryan is to be congratulated in the step he has taken, and in the splendid progress he has made since he started business in the little store next Baxter's Barber Shop less than two years ago. Mr. Ryan's present store is as modern and up-to-date a grocery as will be found anywhere in the province.

In opening this meat market, he has installed a Frigidaire—equipped "walk-in" cooler, together with the latest type of display counter. The equipment was purchased through the local agent, R. G. Sypher, who has been installing Frigidaires for the past six years, and has to date installed some thirty in Digby and vicinity. During the past ten years electric refrigeration has been one of the leaders in modern business; Frigidaires equipment, including air cooling devices, is available for domestic as well as commercial uses, and is ideal for hotels, butcher shops and restaurants.

Through the equipment installed at Ryan's, fresh meats and all perishable foods, properly refrigerated from the source of supply to the kitchen, are now obtainable from that store.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cash and two children, Miriam and Carman of East Florenceville, N. B., were week end guests of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Abramson. On Sunday at 2 o'clock a Frigidaire memorial service will be held at the Soldiers' Monument, at Barton. The guest speaker will be the Rev. Dr. Walsh. Other speakers are to be Rev. Mr. McNevin and Rev. Mr. Higgins.

The Watch Hospital M. St. John (Over Troop Building, two doors from Bijou Theatre) DIGBY

The two days of strange doings—the days of the Nova Scotia Indian Carnival—are Monday and Tuesday of this week. Monday will be the big day at Digby, and Tuesday the big day at Annapolis Royal, General and local committees in charge of the programme in both towns are most optimistic over the prospects.

On Monday morning a vessel representing D'Aulnay's craft of long ago, will arrive at the boat slip in front of the band stand in charge of "explorers" and "adventurers" garbed in costumes of the seventeenth century. This group, in charge of D'Aulnay (Charnsey) will arrive at Digby as they did three centuries ago this month to explore the shores of the Annapolis Basin in search of a suitable site on which to build a strong fort. They were commissioned for this task by the King of France, and we are told, spent a week at what is now Digby while looking for a site, having in mind to erect their stronghold just inside the Gut. Their plans were changed, however, and they returned to Port Royal to erect their fort at what is now Lower Granville.

But at Digby, the explorers will be given a grand reception by real Mic-Mac Indians in their native costumes, and by other officials of the pageant. They will then join the parade and take partake of "love feast" with the Indians and officials.

Water sports to be held on the beach in front of the bandstand will be the principal events of the afternoon's programme at Digby. In these events it is expected that many of the best known swimmers, woodmen and guides of this section of Nova Scotia (and that means when it comes to woodcraft and water sports the best on the continent) will participate.

From all accounts, the pageant, "Happy Days of Nova Scotia", which comes from the pen of Rev. Leo Murphy, and will be staged under the capable direction of Paul Kollins, will be something absolutely unique in the history of the province. People have been intelligently practicing in this pageant a cast from Digby will play the parts of the English and French settlers, Mic-Mac Indians from the Bear River reservation will take the Indian parts, while a cast from Annapolis Royal will play the scenes from the King's Jubilee. The pageant from the King's Jubilee will be presented in Fort Anne Park.

Beach amusements programmes will be followed by dance at Digby by an unusual street dance on the new pavement, and at Annapolis Royal by a dance in the town hall. Reasonable admission prices are being charged for all events.

THE FARNSWORTH FIRE FUND

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir—I am grateful to all who have contributed to this fund, either in cash or in "kind", and I am hoping many more will feel constrained to do, especially on the principle that "he who giveth quickly giveth twice."

I fear my bad writing led you into misprinting last week. The third paragraph of my letter should have read: "Gifts of floor boards and hardware would be the same as money." Also the quotation from Shakspeare should have read:

"The quality of mercy is not strained. It droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven upon the place beneath: it is twice blest;

It blesseth him that gives and him that takes."

There are no collectors for this fund. Kindly pay all monies in to the Treasurer Mr. W. R. Fillmore, manager of the Digby Branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

DEVALUED WORDS

We do strange things with words. Take "liquor," for instance. First it meant a liquid of any sort. Then in the last century or so it came to be used, at least in this country, to mean any alcoholic liquor. This wine, beer, ale, whisky, gin, rum, brandy, cider, cordials, all were liquor. But nowadays nearly everyone restricts the term to "hard" or spirituous liquor. Which is a result of the prohibition era and a lazy habit. We have devalued a word by narrowing its meaning.

We do the same thing with "business." It used to mean any kind of occupation. It came then to signify "business transactions" of any kind for profit, whether commercial, industrial, financial or personal service. Now we seem to be narrowing it to the sense of commercial or mercantile activity. So people say "manufacturing, banking and business" when really all those things are business, and we lose such good, definite words as "commerce" and "trade."

When husband and wife are on speaking terms it means that the husband does the listening.

WEAK LANGUAGE

"Today everybody swears too weakly," complains Ida Kruse McFarlane, English instructor on the faculty of the University of Denver. She would like to see, or rather hear, a revival of more vigorous profanity.

The lady's pronouncement, which was applauded by the governor and other state notables, was made at the unveiling of a monument marking the place where silver was first discovered in Colorado. Saying, "Strong languages goes with the pioneer spirit—there is strength and color in it," she pled for preservation of things Western, including "slang, robust talk, pioneer homes," and so on.

Is it a revival of strong language that is needed, or a revival of the strong life which caused it? There are plenty "swear words" used today merely because it seems smart or sophisticated to sprinkle them through casual conversation. They mean nothing. The lady seems to want not merely mule-talk. She wants her Colorado people to show their good old gumption guts and git-up-and-git.

Some folks who spend their honeymoon on the sands, spend their first anniversary on the rocks.

DOUBTERS

There are doubters and doubters. Some doubt on general principles, some do not understand and make no effort to comprehend, and others question and seek information. The first deserve no consideration the second are to be pitied, and the third are to be encouraged.

Honest doubters will be honest with themselves and with everybody else concerning the matter they may question—honest to the point where they will prove their contention or yield their objection. Honest doubt corrects error or certifies truth. By correcting error and establishing truth, these doubters contribute to world knowledge and progress, deserving therefore credit which is not at all ways accorded them.

Thomas, the disciple, deserved more credit than has been given him, for seeing he believed and set a wonderful example to all mankind.

The ideal marriage of the present day unites the girl who can make pies like mother used to make and the boy who can make the dough that father used to make.

CREED TO GOVERN COMMUNITY LIFE

Down in Fort Worth, Texas, the city has a creed to govern its community life. The creed is now being adopted as a policy of personal conduct by the progressive towns and cities. Citizens who refuse to take part in progressive movements but content themselves with destructive criticism, hamper civic progress. All civic movements have weak spots subject to criticism, but the criticism should come from within instead of from without.

Consider, particularly, the potentialities for good in the citizen who refrains from disparaging remarks about his city, its institutions and his fellow citizens; casts his vote on all public questions, civic, provincial and dominion; seeks not to evade jury duty, patronizes home merchants; lets no day pass without doing to the best of his ability some little bit looking to the betterment of his community.

We have never been in Fort Worth, nor do we know much about the place, but if its citizens are to any large degree actuated by the spirit of this creed, it must be a fine city in which to live and do business. Canadian Statesman (Bowmanville, Ont.)

A successful man is one who makes more than his wife can spend, and a successful woman is one who lands such a man.

THE FARMER KNEW

A story is told by the Implement and Machinery Review (England) of two railway officials, who were puzzled by the fact that a local farmer never took a railway ticket when he went to the neighbouring market, but always handed the cash to one of them. These men were brothers and were the general factotums of the depot which was of the wayside, little used kind. But at last they approached the farmer, to learn why he persisted in handing the money to them instead of buying a ticket in the orthodox way. The reply was: "Years ago I lost a cow on the railway and never got compensation, so I vowed the company would never get another penny from me—and I know they never shall while you're here."

An effort is being made by the Prince Edward Island Sheep Breeders' Association, with the co-operation of the Live Stock Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, again to encourage the marketing of wool this year through the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers Association.

SURVEY GOLD AREAS OF NOVA SCOTIA

Extensive geological surveys in Nova Scotia gold districts are being started at once by a large field staff appointed by the Geological Survey of Canada.

The seaboard province, which has goldbearing rock formations over about half its area, has official records of having produced since the early 60's above $20,000,000 worth of the yellow metal.

The project, authorized by Minister of Mines, Hon. W. A. Gordon, is among those financed out of the parliamentary appropriation of $1,000,000 for geological surveys in the supplementary Public Works Construction Act, 1935.

Dr. Paul Armstrong, who left recently for Springfield, N. S., to organize the work, is being assisted by Professor G. Vibert Douglas, of the geological department of Dalhousie University, Dr. G. F. Flaherty, Canadian post-graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and G. M. Pratt, likewise advanced in academic and field geological training. Geological graduates, chiefly from Nova Scotia universities and colleges, will make up the remaining personnel of the parties.

The investigators are to cover 2,500 square miles in the counties of Annapolis, Lunenburg, Queens, Shelburne, Yarmouth and Digby. The greater part of the area of these six counties is underlain by the gold-bearing series of rocks in which most of the Nova Scotia gold deposits occur.

Dr. Armstrong's plans include, besides geological mapping and investigation in the counties mentioned, a systematic re-study of all Nova Scotia's gold properties at present operating.

A conjurer invited a little boy on to the stage to assist him with his next performance.

"Now, my boy," he said kindly, "your mother cannot get eggs without hens, can she?"
"But she can," said the boy without hesitation.
The conjurer looked startled.
"How's that?" he asked.
"Mum keeps ducks, sir," said the boy.

Hither and Yon with G.R.T.

Last week we told you something about the Ford Exhibit at the San Diego Fair—Remember? Well, from the Ford Exhibition building we step out upon the broad sun porch which Mr. Ford has very thoughtfully furnished with an abundance of very comfortable porch chairs and settees upon which you may take your ease and rest up, and at the same time enjoy the beautiful view of the city and harbor and look across the bay and see Point Loma in the distance. The tip of the point is fortified, visitors are permitted but you must leave your cameras with the sentry at the gate. Point Loma is also the headquarters of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society, over which Mrs. Katherine Tingley presided and managed with more or less financial success and benefit to herself—if all reports be true. Mrs. Tingley now in the city of San Diego, is a spirit world may be arguing with Mrs. Besant and Madame Blavatsky over the question as to which of them had the right idea of whether the Karma is all that they claimed for it during their lifetime. As no message has been received from the other side concerning these things which some of us have dabbled in and would like to know more about it, may be assumed that the question has not yet been settled.

Henry Ford has spent a lot of money on this fair, and no doubt it is good advertising if the number of new Ford cars seen on the road these days is any indication. In addition to his automobile exhibit, Mr. Ford has provided some excellent entertainment in the way of music. His company will present five famous orchestras from the Pacific Coast and the Mormon Tabernacle Choir from Salt Lake City during the summer. The Ford Bowl, an outdoor amphitheatre, seats more than 3000 persons. The music is broadcast daily over the Columbia network.

The Hollywood movies have an exhibit here which is supposed to show how "movies" are made. Considering the magnitude of the industry it has put on a mighty poor exhibit.

it represents the moving picture business in about the same ratio that the rabbit growers represent the meat packing industry. The lecturer is entertaining and his talk is rather informing but the demonstration of making a scene in a moving picture leaves you rather flat, you can get a better idea from witnessing some of the vaudeville acts which are supposed to show why movie directors go mad.

Down in a gully filled with Eucalyptus trees and surrounded with semi-tropical shrubbery is the nudist colony. "An enchanting sylvan dell, known as Zoro Gardens" so the guide book says, and continues with this information—"there has been gathered here a group of nature lovers composed of more than a score of beautiful maidens and handsome men." Well, this is part of the great exposition even if it does feature indecent exposure of a lot of beautiful maidens and handsome men. The nudist colony, of course full of them. The men folks of the show were the full dress uniform of a Fiji Island warrior consisting of chin whiskers and a loincloth, the females of the species were nothing at all. The audience seated in the bright light on the hillside, was not supposed to laugh, but just gasp and exclaim "how wonderful—how artistic!" et cetera. While the dryads cavorted in the dim light of the glade below, this well that these nudists live on fruits and vegetables of which quite a lot can be bought for a nickel in California, at this time, otherwise the pangs of hunger might cause them to dress up and go out to work. The audience was made up of about twenty paying customers at twenty-five cents per head, which at that rate would not buy many beefsteaks for the company, and if that event they might decide to become cannibals, and after all I guess that cannibals and nudists have much in common.

And down along the "Zocalo"—Spanish for Midway—one wanders into the "Believe it or not" Ripley show, there to gaze in open mouthed wonder at the human freaks and their three-minute performance. It put me in mind of the old Austin & Stone Museum that operated in downtown Boston years ago. It was an oratorical verbiage the Ripley lecturers have nothing on the old "Believe it or not" show. With long grey hair, high white collar and stiff shirt front, and long black Prince Albert coat, who for so many years held down the lecture platform in Boston's famous dime museum, I was surprised to find a young "Medico" friend of mine here in hospital uniform. Said I, "what are you doing here with this outfit? Ripley hasn't gone in to the medicine business has he?" "No," said he "this is not a medicine show but they are obliged to have a doctor on the pay roll. When

I finished college and received my diploma, I found it rather hard to get a suitable location where I could hang out my M. D. shingle. Then I got the chance to take charge of the emergency hospital connected with this show, it is not such a bad job and there is a good living in it for a few months. You see some people can't stand to look at the performance of some of these freaks and contortionists sort of upset them, and they pass out temporarily, so we have to be on the look-out for such cases and take care of them and bring them to again. We have had as many as 65 cases in a single day. "Look! there goes one now." And sure enough there was a young fellow about 17 turning white and reeling from the sight of one of the freaks preparing to pull with his teeth, a twenty-penny nail from a chunk of wood into which the nail had been driven half its length, in order to get a better grip on the nail, the freak gentleman filled his mouth with a piece of towelling, the sight of which most gazed me and proved to be the boy and he was huddled away to the little hospital in the rear, to recover and view the rest of the show later on. Ripley claims that every act in his show is genuine with no fake about it. And when I saw a Hindu-looking person step on a piece of hot iron without causing him any noticeable pain, I thought perhaps that act was on the level, but when he passed a flaming blow torch across his face and eyes and did not as much as wince an eyebrow, I came to the conclusion that there was some trick about it. However, he might have had something that he like unto the magic aura that surrounded a certain demented French woman who lived back in Corbierre years ago, and one day was reported to have "hop on de back log of the oil fire place make de rooster tree time" and never got scorched either, only this fellow at that rate didn't even when he stepped on the hot iron.

The Indians have a big show at this exposition and it is a very good show of its kind. More than 150 Indians representing thirty different tribes from all parts of the United States, have been gathered together in the Indian Village and their show is called "End of the Trail." Rug weavers, pottery and basket makers are seen working about the same way that their ancestors did two or three hundred years ago. They know how to charge for their products and they are out to get all that the traffic will bear, no more grading of beautiful Navajo rugs for a bottle of fire water, for most of them have received more or less education and training in the Government's Indian Schools, and they represent what is what even if most of them have gone back to their tribes to live as their forefathers did. There are many famous Indians in this segregation who take part in the ancient Sun Dances and Snake Dances of the Arizona tribes. Some of the very old Indians of the California tribes are there too and they put on a dance unto which they enter with all of the enthusiasm and energy of their younger brethren. The voices of some of the Indian singers are wonderful. This is a most interesting show and well worth the time that you may have to spend there.

It is nine p. m. and I must be back in Los Angeles Saturday morning to keep an engagement with a Tanager Peddler, who wants me to fix up his salary return for him. He now owns two of the best restaurants in Los Angeles, but that is another story. I must step on the gas if I am to make L. A. by midnight, more likely 1 a. m., and I do hate night driving. I will be four hours on the road all right enough, and most of it through lonely territory at that time of night, so there will be no sleep for me, for if I do not get to sleep before midnight I do not get to sleep at all. Oh well, I'll make up for it Sunday morning. So long—see you again—I am making another trip to San Diego (Saint James in English) soon to see the rest of the show, perhaps I can tell you something more about it.

WHY PEOPLE STAY YOUNG

The secret of keeping going is keeping growing. The deeper go the roots, the greater the tree. Thousand agents have turned up to keep an engagement with life for man and given him roots. One explanation of the astonishing youth of people today compared with the mental attitude of their forefathers at a similar age is the zest which comes to use from a variety of interests. People today are alert to what is going on around them in the world. Never have so many men and women been conscious of national and international events. Europe used to be a far country whose goings-on were of no concern to anybody but a little company of scholars and diplomats. Today her troubled states are as close to us as the neighboring commonwealth. The world is moving at a faster pace and people are getting more out of their days. Youth is first and foremost a mental alert. We are as young as our interests. By taking thought a man cannot add a cubit to his stature, but he can add years to his life, if in no other way by making the brief years packed with interest. Canada's trade in farm products registered a gain in the fiscal year 1934-35 over the preceding fiscal year. Farm exports increased by $24,712,523, or 10 per cent from $237,718,499 in 1933-34 to $262,431,022 in 1934-35.

Marriages

Comeau-Tebo

A pretty wedding took place in St. Croix Church, Tuesday morning, when Carrie daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Comeau, of Barton, became the bride of Martin Comeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Comeau, of Gulliver's Cove. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Gaudet. The bride, who was attended by her cousin, Regina Tebo, looked charming in a suit of maroon blue, carrying a bouquet of roses. Israel Comeau, brother of the groom, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Comeau will reside in Barton.

SHAMS

There are people who dearly love to wear an atmosphere of mystery about themselves.

They can never be entirely frank and open about anything. They go out of their way to give you the impression that profound secrecy must be observed in even the most ordinary happenings of everyday life.

With hints and winks and gestures, they would whet our curiosity and then leave us guessing.

They aim at being thought deep, mysterious, "in the know."

But mostly such persons are mere simpletons putting on a pose which deceives nobody but themselves.

It is sheer vanity which prompts them to seek always to mystify their associates by the use of their knowledge of things of which the rest of us are ignorant.

In fiction, the mystery man is a fascinating character; in real life, he is a wash-out.

You may be as mysterious as you like. You may pose as you will, but your workmates know all about you. Their winks and gestures are even in our intercourse with strangers. Manners may cloak a man—they do not hide him.

Apples may not be exported from Canada to countries other than United States, "unless a special certificate is issued by an authorized inspector which must be filed with the export papers at the customs port of export," declared a circular issued recently by the department of agriculture.

Why C. C. M. Bicycles Excel All Others

The Crank Hanger of a Bicycle is the power plant and should have fine adjustment with free running large Ball Bearings, no tight spots.
C.C.M. Hangers meet all these specifications and are perfectly balanced. To avoid waste of pedalling effort, the Bicycle should have a straight line drive. The C.C.M. drive is so straight and true that front and back wheels track like one and both sprockets line up perfectly. The brake used on C.C.M.'s is their own genuine HERCULES and has no equal. It is the positive drive principal, coasts freely and stops quickly and smoothly. The Hub Shell is made of bar steel.

Obituary

Allen Young

After a few months' illness Allen Young, of Tiverton passed away on Friday morning last at the age of 68 years. He was a fisherman all his life and will be greatly missed by his fellow townsmen. The funeral took place from the Christian Church on Sunday afternoon, and was largely attended. Rev. Melbourne Cassaboon, of North Canton, Ohio officiated at the church and graveside. Hymns sung by the choir were "Nearer My God to Thee" and "God Will Take Care of You". The pall bearers were Charles Howard, Ruel Outhouse, Nelson Prime and Lee Outhouse. He is survived by his widow; three daughters, Mrs. Norman Outhouse, Mrs. Sylvanus Outhouse, Tiverton; Mrs. Reginald Titus Central Grove; five sons, Ralph, at North Head, Grand Manan; Maxwell, North Sydney; Alvah, Bernard, Bradford, Tiverton; one sister, Mrs. Joseph Snow, Digby.

Mrs. W. R. Tibbets, of Winthrop, Mass., and daughter Miss Elaine Tibbets, are visiting Mrs. Tibbets' brother and sister, J. L. Peters and Mrs. Clark.

The Indian Carnival

Explorers of old, garbed in their picturesque costumes of the 17th century, again sailed the Annapolis Basin, on Monday, Digby's day of the Nova Scotia Indian Carnival and Sports Meet, which was also celebrated at the church and graveside. That the 1935 Carnival was a success would be "putting it mild"; for, in spite of the overcast weather, which prevailed throughout the day, thousands of people flocked to the town to witness the day and evening events of strange doings—a carnival of water sports and pageantry.

The parade, which formed on Maiden Lane, arrived at the boat slip in front of the band stand in time to meet the fully rigged vessel Explorer. The craft, beautifully decked in the rigging of the 17th century, anchored in the stream, while D'Aulnay and his group of explorers were brought ashore in a smaller boat, to be met by a band of real Mic-Macs in their war paint and headresses of feathers. Loud and blood-curdling war whoops rent

THE EDITOR GETS A SURPRISE

Our readers will note that the Courier this week is "dolled up" with new title headings—for the first page and the Bear River and Weymouth pages. We like the looks of them very much. On Sunday afternoon the Pines Hotel called us up at our home and advised us that a visitor had left a parcel of type at the desk for us. We were at a loss to know what it was, but discovered the parcel contained the new headings. They were a present from our good friend, Tom Farnham, at one time foreman of the Courier office. Thanks heaps, Tom!

A baseball game between the crew of the steamer St. John and a picked town team (Digby All Stars) is scheduled for 6:30 this evening at the ball field.

The air as the explorers, D'Aulnay, Champlain, DelMonte, Pontgrave, Poutincourt, Lescazot, Louis Hebert and others stepped ashore, garbed in colorful costumes. Here D'Aulnay told of his mission. He had received a commission from the King of France to protect the colonists at Port Royal, and he, with a band of explorers had arrived to look over the territory.

Here, too, the Carnival was formally opened by Rev. Father Lee Murphy, who in a brief address explained the importance of the carnival, as well as from a standpoint of leaving something in the memory of our summer visitors which would make their visit to Nova Scotia one of their lives. Mayor A. Shortliffe made a short reply to Fr. Murphy.

The explorers and Indians joined the parade of decorated cars and floats, which was headed by the Digby Civic Band, under the leadership of Paul Yates. The parade, although not quite as large as that of 1934, was an excellent one. The Mic Mac Indians, in native costumes, from the reservations at Bear River and Annapolis Royal, were, without question, the greatest attraction.

The floats and decorated cars received many favorable comments from onlookers and visitors. Prizes were awarded as follows:

Digby Entries:—Decorated Cars: 1st, "Chevrolet", MacDonald Motors; 2nd, Bungalow, Mrs. F. W. Nichols.

Decorated Floats:—1st, Original Indian Band, Frank Robinson; 2nd, Royal Store float, honorable mention, Digby Legion.

Comic:—1st, "Touting Nova Scotia", Mrs. G. M. Morrell; 2nd, Bridal Party (in old-time buckboard drawn by span of horses) Lloyd Jefferson; honorable mention, Horton Stark.

Doll Carriages:—1st, Marie Elsener; 2nd, Claire Merkel. Bicycle:—James Baxter.

Out of town entries:—1st, Float, "Hunt and Fish", Milton Morgan, Bear River; 2nd, Pioneers of Prosperity, Chester Isles, Bear River; Honorable mention, Camp Arcade Deep Brook.

On the return of the parade to the band stand, the great love feast of Indians and explorers was held under the trees.

The afternoon's water sports events, in front of the pavilion, will long be regarded as among the best that have ever taken place on these waters. In these Bear River athletes excelled. These sports commenced early in the afternoon, the harbor at first being as calm as the proverbial mill pond, but the slight breeze, which sprang up later in the afternoon, added zest, especially to the yacht race, the first to be witnessed here in many years.

Ten yachts, competing in two groups, those of 15 feet and not over 25 feet, and those under 15 feet made a beautiful picture with their white sails spread. Five minutes before starting time the preparatory gun was fired—after the final gun the craft were becalmed for fully ten minutes before they could get away.

To go twice round the three cornered course, Percy Weir was skipper of the craft, which won the event for the larger boats. Weir was in second position at the end of the first leg, but won with a good lead. Kenneth Adams, of Deep Brook, made a beautiful finish in the smaller boat class.

None of the events on the water-jacked action. The final heat of the single canoe race ended up with Joe Louis less than half a length ahead of his fellow Bear River competitor, Walton Peck, who came in second.

Concerning the criticism made by the Digby Town Council regarding tardiness in the publication of the Land of Evangeline Tourist Association booklet, P. W. Holdsworth, of Digby, states that the purpose of the booklet was not to bring tourists to Nova Scotia, but to induce visitors on their arrival in the province to come to the Annapolis Valley. The books, for the most part, are being distributed at points of entry, with the object of inducing visitors who have already entered Nova Scotia to spend or a part of their vacation in the "Land of Evangeline".

The annual Garden Party of the Digby Baptist Church, will be held on the church grounds on Wednesday, August 14th. See posters.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rafuse of Norwood, Mass., were guests at the Pines Hotel over the week end. Arriving at Yarmouth last week they motored around the South Shore to Liverpool and Bridgewater and through the Annapolis Valley.

Disby, Mrs. Rafuse was formerly Canning, N. S. Mr. Rafuse is superintendent of the Scott Mott type Composition Co., one of the largest plants of its kind in Boston. This was Ray's first visit to Nova Scotia. He was delighted with his motor trip around the South Shore and through the valley, and though Digby an ideal place for summer tourists. He was not so enthusiastic over the water trip, as he had to spend a greater part of the night at the rail wondering what the wild waves were saying about his seamanship. All the other passengers—including Mrs. Rafuse—thought it was a heavenly night and a delightful sea trip.

Valuable Publicity

The financial outcome of the Indian Carnival will not be known until after a meeting of the general committee which will take place shortly, however, the success of the Indian Carnival is not a matter to be measured in dollars and cents.

For this celebration the town of Digby, the town of Annapolis Royal and the Government of Nova Scotia each pledged a sum of $500 to be used in case of a deficit, in which event the loss up to $1500 would be divided pro rata. If these three bodies are called upon to make up any deficit, there is no question in our minds but what they will be getting excellent value for the money they will have to put up.

The town of Digby, the town of Annapolis Royal, and the Province of Nova Scotia in general received through the Indian Carnival valuable publicity which could not be bought for many hundreds of dollars. The advertising value of the Indian Carnival was tremendous.

Furthermore, we have heard many favorable comments from our summer visitors—every one to whom we have spoken to was more than pleased. They will carry back with them reports that in themselves will be worth more than all the publicity given through the press which co-operated so splendidly.

Let us hope that the Indian Carnival will become an annual event. Any moneys spent by our town and local government is for legitimate advertising.

Marriages

VanTassel—King

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Monday at Stella Maris church, East Saint John, when Francis Robert daughter of Mrs. Nora King and the late Robert King, became the bride of Laurence Gram VanTassel, son of Mrs. Fred Oram and the late Almon VanTassel, of Digby. The bride was becomingly dressed in pink satin and a hat of matching shade. Her bouquet was of sweet peas and maiden hair fern. Her sister, Mary King was bridesmaid and wore pale blue crepe, with a bouquet of sweet peas. The groomsmen was Fred Curran. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother.

FIXTURES

Many of you have inquired to your former homes, returned about persons you knew there in years gone by, and have been told: "Oh, he's still here—he's a fixture."

And somehow or other you have felt that word "fixture," uttered in a manner and tone which expressed inappreciation rather than appreciation, was misapprehension of the worth of that man to the community.

There are always exceptions to the rule, but nine times out of ten it's "fixtures" that keep them on the map—not the men who leave and come back and visit once in a while.

In this respect, it is time we all revised our appraisal of human values to ourselves individually and to the community at large.

LIFE'S 14 MISTAKES

Some one has catalogued the mistakes of life, arriving at the conclusion that 14 cover all the possibilities. Many would say that there is no numerical limit to the errors and bad breaks we make: that they are like the dew on the grass or the sands of the beach. But here are the 14:

It is a bad mistake to set up your own standard of right and wrong, and then to judge other people accordingly.

It is a mistake to measure the enjoyment of others by your own tastes; to expect uniformity of opinion in this world; to look for judgment and experience in youth.

It is a mistake to expect to mold all dispositions alike; to hold out for immaterial trifles; to look for perfection in your own actions; to worry yourself and others over what cannot be remedied.

It is a great mistake not to alleviate all that needs alleviation so far as lies in your power; not to make allowances for the infirmities of others; to consider everything impossible that you cannot perform; to believe only what our little minds can grasp; to expect to be able to understand everything.

HADDOCK PLAY IN OWN BACK YARD

Studies made on haddock along the North American coast by the Biological Board of Canada indicate there are three distinct races, or schools, classified as Nova Scotia, New England and Newfoundland, which tend to keep by themselves, being separated by the rather deep Fundian and Laurentian channels. Nova Scotia haddock have more backbone than any of the other races. The vertebrae count of Nova Scotia haddock shows 52.5 to 54.3; New England 53.1 to 53.2; Newfoundland 52.5 to 52.9. As regards Nova Scotia haddock, those taken in the Ingonish region, Cape Breton, are considered the largest and best but where they spend the first years of their lives is not known. It is surmised they spend their first three or four years around the Halifax Harbour area. They have an average vertebral count of 54. Other fishing grounds tested in Nova Scotia were Shelburne, Emerald-Sambro, Sable Island and Quebeque.

KEEP IDEALS MOVING

When worth while ideas are published, they are at once whirled into thought currents, then passed along by word of mouth and by writing until they are fairly incorporated in the thought of the day.

The tendency and duty of civilization is to carry over the good of the past and try to eliminate the bad. A good idea tossed out into the world is quickly caught up and enlarged.

HAVE EDUCATION FIT

In our schools, we try to cram the minds of our children with a little of everything and make them proficient in nothing, and when they are graduated, unless able to go to college, they are hardly mentally equipped to do anything higher than wait on a

HEART KNOWLEDGE

Heart knowledge, through God's teaching, is true wealth, and they are often the poorest who deem themselves most rich. I, in the pulpit, preach with loud words to many a humble widow and stricken man who might well teach me. The student, spectacled and grey with wisdom, and stuffed with lumbered lore, may be childish and ignorant beside some old singing saint who carries the wood into his study, and who, with the lens of his own experience, brings down the orb of truth, and beholds through his faith and humanity, things of which the white-haired scholar never dreamed.

—Henry Ward Beecher.

Wrigley's Silver Jubilee in Canada

This year the Wm. Wrigley Jr. Co. of Canada, Ltd., celebrates its Silver Jubilee—twenty-five years of steady progress and achievement. It was just twenty-five years ago that Allan Ross, president of Wrigley's in Canada, and vice-president of the Wrigley Company in the United States came to Toronto to found a business that has grown to one of the largest in the country. Allan Ross was then only 22, but he had the ability to work hard, a brilliant imagination, and the character to grasp an opportunity when it presented itself. Today Mr. Ross is still a young man at the head of a business that stretches from coast to coast, a company whose name has entered every home, and whose advertising is conducted by every individual in the Dominion. The history of Wrigley's achievements in Canada is well known; it includes the founding of the Marathon Swims at the Canadian National Exhibition, the invention of "radio amateur night," the purchase of the Western wheat with all gum-dollars received, the establishment of unemployment hostels, and hundreds of other contributions to the people of Canada. One particularly outstanding example of a public good deed was illustrated on the occasion that Wrigley's brought over 500 children to see the Canadian National Exhibition, children who had never before visited the famous Ex. Mayors of various towns all over Ontario were asked to name their town's most deserving children, who were then brought to Toronto by Wrigley's to be shown all the wonders of the C. N. E., for three days with all expenses paid.

Mr. Ross says, "Without capable helpers no business can succeed." He has followed that principle and has surrounded himself with unusually capable men. Highly efficient teamwork, possible only with the highest type helpers, has enabled Mr. Ross to build the Wrigley Company from a business whose yearly output would scarcely fill a room 10 x 10 x 10 feet. Today, after twenty-five years of operation, the daily production would bulk tons upon tons. Wrigley's gum is sold to the public through 75,000 retailers—three out of every five retailers in the Dominion.

Certainly, when one reads of such success and accomplishment, it is again brought home that there is a opportunity for any young man in Canada who is willing to work hard and long. "There is only one way," says Mr. Ross, "to make progress; it is to make it slowly. So far as know there is only one way to develop, oneself into a valuable executive officer. It is: start to learn by actual experience—which it will take years to get—the fundamentals of whatever game you tackle."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
VACATION PICTURES

Land or sea offers unlimited opportunities for snapshotting.

WITH the arrival of really warm summer weather, beautiful trees and flowers, we begin to think in earnest about outdoor life and vacation. I suppose one could go on a vacation without a camera but that would be like trying to sail a boat without a rudder. To say the least it would seem that something important was missing.

When planning a vacation you should look forward to the snapshots you are going to get, for your return to home and work, and in later years when your trips become fond memories, you can always turn to your snapshots and enjoy your vacations over and over again. Snapshots pay dividends on your vacation investments in continued pleasure long after your return.

There is one important thing to keep in mind in vacation snapshotting and that is the variety of light conditions you may encounter in your travels. Picture taking might well be classed in four groups, according to the exposure they need, and by adopting as a standard exposure for each group, one that is intermediate between the shortest and longest that will make a satisfactory exposure, there will be only four exposures to consider and these can be memorized.

These four groups are as follows: Number one—Marine and beach scenes and extreme distant landscapes. Number two—Ordinary landscapes showing the sky with the principal subject of your picture in the foreground. Number three—Nearby portraits in the open shade.

Almost every dealer in cameras and photographic supplies has printed outdoor exposure tables giving details of exposures, etc., in the four classes mentioned above. Ask your dealer for one of these outdoor exposure guides and then go forth with your camera and take the kind of pictures you'll be proud to show your friends.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

Professional Photographers can give suggestions that will save many disappointing exposures. Take your films to Paul Yates, Digby, for careful finishing and helpful suggestions.

Hither and Yon with G.R.T.

Believe it or not, but, France is buying California oranges. Twelve thousand boxes of the juicy golden fruit of this southland went forward from Los Angeles Harbor yesterday aboard the French liner "Rosandra" bound for Marseilles, France. This ship also had a full passenger list with every stateroom occupied leaving Los Angeles yesterday. Another ship, the Panama-Pacific liner "Pennsylvania" sailed this morning for New York with 523 passengers and a full cargo part of which consisted of 30,000 boxes of oranges equal to about sixty carloads or two railroad fruit trains. So, we are still holding our reputation as a state noted for tourists and oranges.

Some people used to think that it was a case of downright stubbornness when a horse refused to drink water, but he had been led out to the old family cat a favor a day or two ago, and to induce her to take a drink of water. The cat refused and clawed the man's side, but he had to be taken to the hospital. After all, maybe a horse does have a mind of its own.

There is weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth across the border from San Diego, California in the Mexican resorts—Tia Juana and Agua Caliente—Monte Carlo of the West Coast, for the president of Mexico has ordered all gambling to cease at these notorious resorts. This means the closing down of the race track and all of the gambling games at Caliente and the "sure thing" games at Tia Juana. Strange but true, there is no longer such a thing as licensed gambling in Mexico for the new government which claims to be a government for the common people, will have none of it. Architecturally and scientifically Caliente is a beautiful spot. It was established a few years ago by a syndicate of California sporting men with a view to providing a place where gentlemen—and ladies also—who craved quick action for their money and excitement for themselves, could go the limit without fear of being disturbed by annoying police raids. The Caliente syndicate owned everything within the city limits, which includes race track, hotel, bars, the big casino with every gambling game known to the profession, golf links and the hot sulphur baths. Visitors to the place usually left most of their ready cash there so the promoters found their investment quite satisfactory. Now the place is padlocked and will probably remain so until a new regime takes over the governmental reins at Mexico City, which, judging from past history may not be a very long time. Although the enterprise was owned by American capital, ninety per cent of the employees had to be Mexicans according to the laws of the country. It is reported that about 5000 persons have been thrown out of "rainful" employment as the result of the closing order, but most of them will simply move across the line to San Diego or Los Angeles unless the president of Mexico can be shown that it would be good business for his country if the resorts are allowed to reopen. Such things have happened before. Agua Caliente—Ah wah Cal yente—is Spanish for hot water and the town was so named on account of the nearby springs of hot sulphur water. Tia Juana—Te ah Wainna—is Spanish for Aunt Jane and just why the place was so named is another one of those Spanish mysteries. It is just a hole in the desert and abounds with all that is wicked and wicked with drinking places and gambling dens of the worst type and all that goes with such an atmosphere.

Some college trained cooks and research workers, delving into the past and wherefore of roast beef and browned potatoes have just come to the wise conclusion that a chuck of roasting meat—rump, rolled, or otherwise—should not be cooked in a covered roasting pan for then it becomes merely a pot roast. Well, what is the matter with a good pot roast? If there is anything better than a good pot roast with brown gravy and accompanied by the lowly bred but highly satisfying Irish potato, I have not yet discovered it in my travels which have taken me into many of the highways and byways of gastronomic adventure.

I wonder why it is that people so away on week end and longer trips and leave their homes, containing valuable jewels, furs, silver and rugs that the house has been ransacked by thieves during their absence and most of their valuables carried away. Every week the papers report several cases of such robbery. Mrs. Leslie Carter, famous actress, now living in Los Angeles, was one of this week's victims. She had been at her residence during her absence and removed about $30,000 worth of silverware and other valuables.

The Police Department today dumped into the bay of Pedro 300 guns of various types and makes which had been taken away from thieves, gunmen and suspects, were rolls has been the best thing that the average legislator has been able to do for the past three years, which after all, may be very good policies—not that the country at large needs more policies—but candidates for re-election are always interested in more votes for themselves, and one new name on the public pay sheet being equal to five sympathetic voters among friends and relatives in the coming election, it is not hard to figure why clerical expense of federal and local governments has increased by leaps and bounds instead of being reduced by methods approved by efficiency experts. It will be a great day for the country when, and if we ever get back to the economical ideas of Calvin Coolidge, who was a firm believer in the good old New England notion of keeping expenses about ten per cent below income. Great man was Coolidge, he did not believe in extravagance, one slice of ham with the pan cake at a Presidential breakfast being quite enough for any one to start the day's work.

I have before me a copy of the Canadian Digest, No. 1, Vol. 1, a neat little magazine printed in Los Angeles, which has just made its bow to Canadian readers here and throughout the world. The foreword reads, "How to Travel Across Canada in the Digest." "In this little magazine you may travel across Canada, skipping if the spirit moves you, or progressing systematically from the outstanding activity of the month or down to items of personal or passing notice." "Happenings of Dominion wide importance regardless of their Canadian origin will be found in the first pages under the heading of National Affairs. Then comes Press Comment and other features to give you an entertaining, informal, yet condensed graphic picture of the entire Dominion, the only publication of its kind concerning Canada in the world." "We hope the 200,000 Canadians or former Canadians on the Pacific Coast will appreciate the new publication and be generous to it."

BETTER THAN A FIVE-POUND NOTE

There is no duty we so much underestimate as the duty of being happy. By being happy we sow anonymous benefits upon the world, which remain unknown even to ourselves, or, when they are disclosed, surprise nobody so much as the benefactor. A happy man or woman is a better thing to find than a Five-Pound Note. He or she is a radiating focus of goodwill; and their entrance into a room is as though another candle had been lighted—Robert Louis Stevenson.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Moves on: Nor all thy piety nor wit
Shall lure it back to cancel half a line,
Nor all thy tears wash out a word of it.

The human body is said to contain enough phosphorus to make 800,000 matches. Which is probably the reason why so many of us are always getting lit up.

When you're feeling low, try a bowl of Kellogg's Rice Krispies in milk or cream. Their crisp crackle will cheer you. Rich in energy—easy to digest. Children like Rice Krispies because they snap, crackle, and pop in milk or cream. Fine for the nursery supper because they promote restful sleep.

At all grocers in the Mother Goose story package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ont. Quality guaranteed.

Indian Carnival

Go to see the Gay Divorcee, the picture that will thrill you, when Rogers and Fred Astaire go into their dance. The great American dancers, perfect in every phase. They'll make you laugh, and all will be well. You'll applaud the music; you'll thrill at the love scenes; it's a marvel, folks, don't miss it if you want a night worth while—Monday and Tuesday.

Then on the dramatic side, put on for the benefit of the Digby Legion, one of the greatest war pictures of history, "Lest We Forget"—a story of the Great War of 1914-18, and taken from the official archives of the Great Nations and Canada's own film records. Lest We Forget is Canada's own war memorial of the war to end wars. It is an epic of heroism, self-sacrifice, and almost incredible endurance. The Legion's picture is rich in personalities. On the aged Emperor Franz, of Austria, a figure bowed with tragedy, which culminated in the assassination of the Emperor in 1918. Apply by mail giving references, to "M. C.," care Courier office, Digby. 47 2ip

Other events were won as follows: Tub Race: 1st, Henry Peters, 2nd, Watson Peck. Row Boat Race: 1st, Martin Picotou, 2nd, Louis Picotou. Log Bunting: 1st, Henry Peters, 2nd, Watson Peck. Canoe Race Without Paddles: 1st, Joe Louis, 2nd, Wilfred Brooks. Canoe Tripping: 1st, Louis Picotou, 2nd, Henry Peters. Canoe Race Backward: 1st, Joe Louis, 2nd, Gerald Tupper.

For the step dancing competition, music was furnished by the well known m.c. fiddler, Joe Pennell. This competition was won by W. Sibley, of Digby.

The heavyweight boxing contest, Jimmy Rogers, vs. young Foster, was won by Rogers. In the lightweight class, Jim Hall and Harry Harnic fought to a draw.

The pageant, "Nova Scotia's Happy Hours," which comes from the pen of Father Murphy, was presented on a special stage erected in the ball field back of the Academy building Monday evening. This pageant, ably directed by Paul Collins, B. I. I., was given a beautiful setting, and opened with scenes of Indian life before the days of the white men, such scenes as Indian Love Feasts, Wedding Feasts, Tribute to the Aged, Indian Summer were dramatically presented. Then followed the French and English centuries to the Silver Jubilee of 1935. Introduced into this beautiful pageant, in which some 350 people took part, were drills by young and old girls and boys.

Scotia was represented by Miss Harriett Campbell, other girls took part for each of the countries. The part of Aulany was played by Major Emile Stehelin; Champlain by G. M. Morrell; Poutreincourt, by Harry Kirkpatrick; Kings George by R. W. Harris, and Queen Mary by Mrs. (Col.) Eaton. The pageant was followed by a street dance.

THE FARNSWORTH FUND

To the Editor of the Courier: Sir—I wish to thank, through the Courier, all those who helped bring the fund up to double figures, especially the strangers—Mr. Bowers of Westport, and F. B. Wareham, Mass. It is very kind of them, who do not know the family. The story of the fire is in the Courier of July 19th.

These chilly mornings and nights makes me wonder how those little children are getting on in a house that is only boarded in and shingled especially the little one who has been so ill. My aim is to get the lower part finished by the time father's work comes on, viz. looking after furnaces, With his thrift and industry he will then be able to go on and finish the upstairs within the year. So let us, who have good homes, help. We are only going through this world once—let us strew a few flowers by the way to help those who are willing to work and help themselves.

Pay all monies in to Mr. Millmore at the Royal Bank.

BAPTISM SERVICE HELD IN THE OPEN

An open air baptismal service was held at Cossaboom's Beach Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of the Smith's Cove, Deep Brook and Clementsport United Baptist churches. The weather was perfect and there was a large attendance. The Annapolis Royal Band was present and played for the singing and also rendered special sacred music.

The special speaker for the occasion was Rev. A. A. MacLeod, of Bear River. The ordinance was administered by the pastor of the churches, Rev. W. H. Turner, to the following:—Miss Mary Adams, Lloyd and Garnet Adams, Walter Dumas, John McGuire and Marion Dexter. The above will be received into the church on Sunday, Rev. G. C. Warren Wolfville, editor of the Maritime Baptist assisted in the service.

WENT OVER THE WHARF

A peculiar accident occurred at Long Wharf this week when the horse which hauls the delivery wagon of A. R. Turnbull, caught in traffic, became impatient, and backed the rear wheels of the express over the side of the pier in such a way that it weight of the team hauled horse and all overboard to the beach below. Strange to say, the animal was uninjured. The harness buckles came unfastened and the horse was able to pick itself up and step clear of the shafts. Nevertheless, it was necessary to wait for some time for the tide to ebb, then horse and wagon were driven along the shore to a point where they could step off the beach on to more solid ground.

Dr. Connor, of Matland, Hants County, is the guest of his brother, R. W. W. Connor, Lighthouse Roar.

SELF-DENIAL

Plutarch tells of a grim old Roman who disciplined himself by doing without water until he was very thirsty, then taking a drink in his mouth and spitting it out again—and telling no one what he had done.

What good did it do? Well what good is done when a man takes a ten-mile walk, or pitches hay all day, or takes part in a friendly wrestling match? He proves to himself that he is physically fit—that he is strong and sound.

And by any form of self-denial that tests his will by overcoming desire, he proves himself that he is master of his soul—that his character is still strong and sound.

The wisest of books says that one who conquers himself is greater than one who takes a city.

In the life of an individual or a nation, the way of survival is the hard, unpopular way of duty, sacrifice, discipline, and self-denial.

If we Canadians had learned self-control and self-denial six years ago, we wouldn't be eating hushes now.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

Meeting a friend on the street, a businessman asks, "What do you know?" whereupon the friend replied: "Not very much, and some of that may not be so."

And that's the case with most of us. We hear a great many things, read of many, but really know only that which has come within our own experience.

Human experience, always limited, is more so today than ever. There are more of us than there was, life's activities are more largely divided, many of them have become specialized. The "jack-of-all-trades" has virtually disappeared.

Well-informed men really know their own lines and accept from others what they have been told about other activities. People are mainly more intelligent in that they know what little they do know.

WHAT IS RIGHT AND WRONG?

The Gideons report that they placed 46,175 Bibles in hotel rooms in the United States and Canada last year, with about 25,000 of the number required to replace those carried away by guests.

Some there are who will say that the world is growing worse, for people are even stealing Bibles. Others will declare that the world is growing better, for men think so much of the Bibles that they take the book with them.

Your opinion on this matter is as good as that of the next fellow. But the point to be remembered is that any fact, or set of facts, is usually susceptible to more than one conclusion. Listen with an open mind to the fellow who disagrees with you. He stands as much of a chance of being right as you are.

FOR MUTUAL BENEFIT

It is not only loyalty, but a good business policy to buy home products. When you buy home-grown foods, you are enabling the farmer to sell more; thus he will be able to buy more necessities. If you, and he buy only home-manufactured goods, from home-produced raw products, this will put more men and women to work, producing these raw products in this country.

When people are working they buy more, both of foods and manufactured goods, giving more and more people work, and these people in turn will buy more, so that if every one bought only home products this cycle would widen until it touched every life. When buying the cheaper foreign goods, it looks as if you are saving one penny at the risk of losing two.

RESIDENTS OF WEST DELIGHT-ED WITH VISIT TO MARITIMES

Five grandchildren from Saskatchewan, who had never visited the Maritime Provinces, were among the thirty-five members, who gathered at a family reunion at the Sabine Homestead, at Riverside, Digby Co., recently. They were children of Percy R. and J. Bernard Sabine, both of Neidpath, Saskatchewan, who with their families have been visiting in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Both families spent some time at the old home, where their mother and other brothers reside. There were five brothers and one sister present at the reunion, including Rev. L. T. Sabine and family, of Fredericton, N. B.

Percy Sabine with his wife and three sons, left Saint John to return home on Thursday morning in the car, accompanied by Mrs. Sabine, mother, Mrs. Fred Fullerton, of West Saint John, who will be the guest in Saskatchewan.

Bernard Sabine, with his wife and three daughters, are also on the return journey, travelling by auto. The young people from the West are coming back with them, delightfully memories of their visit East and they are particularly delighted with the beauty of the Maritime scenery and the recreational facilities of these provinces.

AFTER FIFTY-FIVE YEARS

Captain George and Mrs. Seeley, who recently motored across the continent from Seattle, have since been visiting in Nova Scotia. This is Mrs. Seeley's first visit east and the Captain's first visit for fifty-five years. They are both loud in their praises of the province and the friendliness and hospitality of its people. The principal places visited were Halifax, Truro, Yarmouth, Brighton, and a longer stay in Barrington. The Captain's boyhood home, at Brighton, the birthplace of his father, he was able to renew happy acquaintance with a near relative, an old boyhood chum, and has been spending three weeks there with Charles Seeley. He is a brother of the late Capt. Seeley who spent so many years in the Pickford & Black service, Halifax. They are leaving at once to return to Seattle via the Panama Canal, and carry with them many kindly memories of the Nova Scotia visit.

"DOWN IN NOVA SCOTIA"

By H. E. Wheeler, in Lowell Evening Leader

If you've followed this column at all consistently, you've probably noticed my marked predilection for books on Nova Scotia, particularly such volumes as include Digby Neck, Long and Briar Islands, and Westport. It's just one of those things and you'll have to bear with me especially today which marked the discovery of a book the author of which took more than the usual pains with my pet obsession.

I wasn't too keen about the book Clara Dennis' "Down in Nova Scotia" (Toronto: The Ryerson Press), after I'd read the first few chapters, but my enthusiasm mounted as the author wandered farther afield from the Halifax. While she had worked her way across the narrow waterway to the Bay of Fundy, my interest picked up amazingly. She is, I realize, one of the first authors to give passing attention to Digby Neck, Long Island and Briar Island. I felt that she could have given them more space but the fact that she had been in the places of which I am particularly fond, and described them, made her book particularly noteworthy to me.

This review is admittedly prejudiced. About the time you're reading it, I'll be showing my copy to "By" Blackford and Newman Small, in Tiverton. "By" runs the ferry between the Neck and Long Island and Newman is his constant companion. He'll read this: "On the beach near the land's end, a huge iron tire is suspended in the centre of a tepee made of wooden poles. An iron bar lies beside it. Whoever would cross this passage must first sound this primitive gong." And he will also find himself quoted about the earlier settlers in Tiverton. I expect that "By" will speak feelingly and at length about that adjective, "primitive."

As a matter of fact, "By" is a lot more modern than most city-dwellers. So, too, is Lloyd Denton, who opens his home to me each summer in Westport, and whose place, although it is not mentioned by name, is the basis of a lengthy description by Miss Dennis. Or at least I think so. When I come back, after I've inspected the register, I'll let you know more definitely. If you're interested.

The thing that endeared Miss Dennis' book to me was the final paragraph of the 10th chapter. She writes about Westport as follows: "But I want to come back to Briar Island—back to its peace and its calm, its freedom and its beauty, and here, sequestered from noise and turmoil, to enjoy the splendid isolation of this little bit of Nova Scotia that has been dropped here in the sea." That about describes Westport. So there once and you'll return. (At this point, I am engaged in bitter struggle not to launch into a detailed description of the island, the town, the people in general and the Denton brothers in particular, and all its other attractions, including fishing.)

I've said that this review is prejudiced. It is. I've lost sight of the book because of my overpowering fondness for a part which the author has dignified by inclusion in her volume. To me, any book that fails to mention Digby Neck and Westport in an account of Nova Scotia is a total loss. (Special aside to "By" and Newman: That includes Tiverton and Preepore.)

I suppose its my function now to disentangle myself from Long and Briar Islands and view "Down in Nova Scotia" objectively and dispassionately. Frankly, as a travel book, it leaves much to be desired. Miss Dennis is cursed with a penchant for trite phrases and adjectives. She employs them almost endlessly. Furthermore, her direct quotations of natives are obviously colored by her own expressions. The quotes, in short, are anything but literal although she has dotted them with authentic colloquialisms.

"Down in Nova Scotia" is written informally and pleasantly, much as if Miss Dennis was personally recounting her experiences instead of writing them. She devotes a great deal of space to local history and appears to be much more concerned with the past than with the present. I liked particularly her stories of incidents told her by Nova Scotians but I believe that her book would have been, generally, more interesting if she had confined herself to personal experiences.

Albeit, I haven't the slightest hesitancy in recommending the book to all prospective visitors to Nova Scotia and to those fortunate who have already been there.

WELL... THE END OF THE VIGORO GROWING COMPETITION IS NEARLY HERE

Looks as if the judges were going to have quite a difficult time deciding and we are glad they will have the job and not ourselves. This simple contest has shown what can be done with flowers, shrubs, etc. when they are properly fertilized and cared for. Now in regard to the prizes. Just as soon as the results come back from the judges the cash will be paid from this store and the Vigoro will come from the makers, The Swift Canadian Company Limited.

BAD ACCIDENT AT BEAR RIVER

Suffering from a bad compound fracture of the right leg, just above the ankle, fifteen-year-old Edward Dion was admitted to the Digby General Hospital yesterday. The lad was the victim of an automobile accident which occurred when two cars collided at the intersection of the Cross and Upper Roads, so called, at Bear River, early yesterday morning. Young Dion was riding on the running board of a Chevrolet coach operated by Bernard C. Seeley, of Marshall's Town. Mrs. Seeley was riding on the other running board. Mr. Seeley was driving the car and in the front seat with him was a three-year-old child. The Seeleys were peddling fish. The other car involved in the accident was a Ford roadster, operated by Adolph Bergman, of Bear River.

Bergman contends that he was going up the hill in second gear and had stopped his car just before the collision. The Seeley car was going down the hill at a high rate of speed. Seeley, travelling to the right and circling in a left direction, brought his car to a stop 126 feet from the Bergman car, having travelled 76 feet on the highway before striking the road.

Both passengers on the running boards of the Seeley car were thrown off by the impact, young Dion with a broken leg and Mrs. Seeley bruised about the face. Seeley contends that he was afraid to jam on his brakes too quickly for fear of throwing the young child riding on the front seat, against the running board.

The Digby detachment of the R. C. M. F. who investigated the accident yesterday are making further enquiries.

AT THE THEATRE

For those who like "wild and woolly" western shows there is nothing better than "The Tombstone Terror" showing tonight and tomorrow. Your favorite Bob Steele is doing his stuff again. The show, of course, for those who don't specially care for these hair-raising stories, the grand comedy, "Paris Interlude" is being shown in more nights. It's a treat, folks! "Madge Evans Otto Kruger, Robert Young, Una Merkle and Ted Healy. Saturday the western feature will be run first and again at the end of the show. Matinee 2.30 Saturday.

"The Star of Midnight" Also 2 short reels, 7.15, 9.00.

A GOOD IDEA

It is clearly the duty of those who have motor cars to be helpful to those who are not so fortunate as themselves. Nevertheless, it has come to be unusual for car drivers to stop and pick up pedestrians on the road. This is not always due to selfishness. If a driver stops and offers to give a lift to a person walking, it very often turns out that the latter is only going a short distance and therefore declines the proffered ride. This, of course, is annoying and inconvenient to the person operating the car, who, after a few such experiences, comes to the conclusion that it is of no use to bother about other people at all.

Would it not be well for those who are walking a distance, say of over half a mile, and would like to have a ride, to wear some badge by which those who overtake them would know what to do. A white band one or two inches wide around the arm would be sufficient. The chances are that few car drivers would pass persons wearing such a badge without offering them a lift, for no one would like to be classed as a road-hog. Why not adopt this plan? It is worth trying.

BAND NOTES

Tonight's concert by the Digby Civic Band is the last of the series of eight engaged by the Town Council. These concerts have been so popular and have added so much to the prestige of the organization that it is expected that it present its supreme effort in a Grand Concert next Thursday night (the 29th), in combination with the Annapolis Regimental Band, making the largest band ever heard in Digby—totalling 60 members and necessitating an extension to the band stand. This concert will be conducted by Bandmaster Charles Wilson, of Annapolis, who is expected to play one of his fine cornet solos. It will be repeated the following night in Annapolis with Bandmaster Yates, of Digby, conducting. The Digby Band will take advantage of this great event to start a fund for necessary instrument repairs and renewals, and to complete their uniforms so that they will not be badly outclassed in appearance as they are now by neighboring bands. (Middleton has just borrowed $1000 for a new outfit.) Digby is justly proud of its fine band and will support them enthusiastically when asked to do so. Subscriptions will be solicited and perhaps tags will be sold during the day if authorized by the council. See advertisement in this issue.
Mr. Whiting, Bandmaster of the 110th Cavalry Band of Massachusetts, made a fine impression on the Digby band by his conducting at the last concert, and gave them some good advice on playing. Mr. Whiting is a master musician and full of "pep" as a conductor. He praised the Digby boys highly as musicians, and said with emphasis, "they are a mighty fine lot of fellows." And he knows.
The boys were given a royal reception and were handsomely entertained at Saulnierville last Sunday when they gave their services at the Soldiers' Monument unveiling, conducted by the veterans of Clare.
The band acknowledges, with appreciation, a generous cash donation from Mrs. (Capt.) Lane (formerly Miss Edrie Titus, of Digby).

MEMORIAL SERVICE AT SAULNIERVILLE

Sunday was the day of a grand celebration at Saulnierville, when, after Vespers, at 3 o'clock, the unveiling and blessing of the soldiers' memorial took place. Mrs. Thimot, the mother of the first soldier from Clare, to fall in action, assisted by the choir sang, "Vive Jesus, Vive sa Croix," then Rev. Fr. Doucet, pastor, blessed the monument. He was assisted by the Rev. Fathers Deveau, P. P., and d'Entremont, curate, at Meteghan; Bourneuf, P. of Saint-Sermain; Leo Thibault, of Edmonton, Alberta; Nil Theriault, curate at Yarmouth; D. Comeau, and A. Comeau, Seminarians, Rev. Fr. Doucet expressed his thanks and congratulations to those who had worked so well for the erection of the monument, the lives for the defense of the Country, and extended his welcome to the dignitaries and strangers who were present, then introduced Rev. Father Nil Theriault, of Yarmouth, who made an eloquent address, both in English and French. Hon. A. L. MacDonald, Premier of Nova Scotia, and His Honor Judge Livingstone, of Annapolis Royal, gave addresses. Hon. J. L. P. Robichaud, Senator, Hon. J. L. P. Robichaud, Senator, were present at the ceremony. The Digby band was in attendance, and soldiers in uniform. There were over 4000 people, the largest gathering ever seen in that place.

The Mounted Police, were called and after investigation placed Herbert Christmas, of Digby, a young colored man, under arrest. It is alleged that the car which struck Theriault did not stop but that the driver continued on to a dance, where he was later picked up. An investigation will be held this morning.

A lot of road work is now being done on the "back roads" so called. Digby Watch Hospital

Now situated next Barter's Barber Shop. First class watch repairing on English, Swiss or American Watches.

Remember that in the last year the balon wheel of your watch revolved 157,680,000 times, which is nearly 4,000 miles. You change the oil in your automobile every thousand miles. Why not oil your watch every 4,000 miles. Proper lubricating and cleaning will prevent many faults which will otherwise stop your watch.

DIGBY HOSPITAL FAIR

More than fourteen hundred people paid admission to the Digby Hospital Fair, held on the grounds of the Manhattan Hotel, Wednesday afternoon and evening. Supper was served in the dining room of the hotel. There was also dancing in the hotel during the evening. The proceeds of the fair were $1409.47.

Among the attractions were gaily decorated booths at which articles of fancy work, home cooking, etc., were sold. Those interested in the Digby General Hospital from Digby and surrounding towns and villages all contributed toward the success of the fair, as well as a great many of our summer visitors, among them Ralph McConnell, of Philadelphia, who donated to the committee a Royal Dresden China Powder Box, appraised at $50, which was ticketed off.

Already many farmers' wells have gone dry, and they are forced to carry water for their cattle and household from nearby brooks and streams, which are also fast drying up.

Mrs. J. S. Ingham and daughter, Miss Mabel, of Somerville, Mass., who are staying a few weeks at their summer home, Terrace Cottage, in Clementsvalle, were the guests of Mrs. E. M. Gates on Saturday.
Guests at the Adams Cottage this week were: Marion Keeler, of Boston; Eveline B. Cook and brother Willard, of Boston; G. MacGregor Willard, of Boston; Rev. MacGregor's father, Dr. K. Grant, Halifax; Estelle Comeau, of Brighton, Mass.; and John Willoughby, of Long Beach, California.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Anderson, of Parker's Cove, and the former's sister, Mrs. Louis Lison, of Williamstown, Mass.; and Mrs. (Capt.) Eugene Coates, of Hillsburn, attended the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Wright, at Barton, on Tuesday last week.

A party of seventeen boys, accompanied by their conductor, arrived on the Princess Helene Tuesday and were met by officials of the Digby Board of Trade. The boys who come from the Museum of Natural History Camp Modin, New Canaan, Maine, visited Bear River and then went to Annapolis Royal where they inspected Fort Anne and the Museum. Florence Gidney, of Sandy Cove, is spending a short time with her sister, Allie Gidney. Miss Gidney was one of the three, in the province to make 100% on Algebra in the Provincial Examinations. She was a student in the Digby Academy last year, and both she and her Algebra teacher are worthy of our highest congratulations.

Picnic To Be Held At Marshalltown

A picnic in aid of St. Teresa's Roman Catholic Church, Marshalltown, will be held on Labor Day. Construction of this little church was commenced in 1930, and although completed, it is still unfinished inside, and the people of the parish are soliciting assistance to complete the work. During the picnic, a chicken dinner will be served, and supper in the evening. One of the features of the supper will be "Ada's Clam Pie". See posters and advertising for further particulars.

Garden Parties And Picnics

Last week the Courier published a list of garden parties which had been held by ten churches, at which $1996.50 had been taken in—an average of almost $200 each. Following is an additional list:

Tag Day, etc., at Saulnierville (Unveiling of Memorial) 360.00

Thursday Night, Aug. 29, Digby Band Stand - - Grand Concert By Band of 60 Players

Annapolis Regimental and Digby Civic Bands Combined

(The concert will be repeated the next night at Annapolis Royal, with Paul Yates, of Digby, Conductor.)

This week we have completed our engagement of 8 concerts sponsored by the Town of Digby, and we trust you have enjoyed them.

We offer this extra concert to solicit your aid in raising a fund of $500.00 needed to complete our uniforms, and to repair or replace defective instruments. Our summer earnings barely pay running expenses for the year, and leave nothing for other purposes.

A circular letter will explain our needs. Your subscriptions (payable in two installments, if desired), may be given our solicitor, or may be handed to Mr. C. L. Bowley, Bank of Nova Scotia, Treasurer, or to Mr. Paul Yates, Director.

This will be the first personal solicitation we have made for funds during our three years existence. Now we earnestly request your generous support in our efforts to maintain an organization that will be a credit to the town of Digby, and a delight to our summer guests.

SILENCE IS AN ASSET

There are those who labor under the delusion that they are known for their glibness of speech. They are. But they are too well known because they talk too much. They are too loquacious. Their vocal parades are a drawback. They are indicted by their own tongues.

It is all right to talk if one has something to say, but to talk excessively is to do a certain amount of talking without thinking. Anybody who talks all of the time is bound to have to spend a certain amount of time explaining, apologizing, adjusting. It requires brains to talk. To keep still requires more brains. To refuse to talk unless we have something to say, is an art.

This may seem like academic prattle, but it is one of the great truths of life.

The Nazarene was mighty in his great silences. He baffled his accusers, he revealed his reserve power when he kept still. Lincoln's mastery of men lay largely in his ability not to fight back when he was condemned. Keep still he would unless a moral issue were at stake, then he waxed eloquent. The political leader who has the most influence, is the one who can hold his tongue. His silence becomes an asset because he does not have the infernal gift of gab that breeds contempt. He speaks so seldom that men will listen when he is constrained to open his mouth.

The sanatorium is filled with people who did not know the value of silence, the art of quietude, the accumulating power of being still and keeping still. The high pace at which the race is travelling, the extreme tension, the overpressure are playing havoc with the human frame, with nerves and muscles. High blood pressure is a condition, not a disease. It usually goes with speed.

We are living in an age that is not only mistaking noise for achievements and confusing action with accomplishments, but also in an age that is very artificial. We are trying to produce natural results by artificial means. It cannot be done any more than we can plant acorns and hope to raise corn.

If we all would be more silent and therefore more sensible, if every one of us would let our work and its results do the talking, and if we all could be judged by what we are and what we do, without the housepot shouting and the colorful advertising which personal egotism begets, how much more constructive would be all of our efforts. Too many are working for praise and recognition rather than for the things which ought to be done.

Many a person would be farther on his way toward gratifying success if he had not spent so much time in life telling about what he has done and hopes to do. The world wants results, wants efforts, wants men to deliver the goods.

A strong personality is usually one whose deeds are greater and more numerous than words, whose words are few but wise, whose silences tell of a great reserve power that stabilizes and enriches and empowers life.

"I DON'T KNOW"

No one is expected to know everything, for that is impossible; but most people know more than they think they know. Unable at the moment to recall, they perhaps answer: "I don't know."

Man's brain can be a storehouse of a vast amount of information if it is properly stored. The trouble is it is not properly stored.

Useful knowledge is too fre-

Labor in this direction would be reduced by a system which would discriminate between useful and unuseful knowledge. Such a system is possible. We call men who use it "walking encyclopedias."

Try this method of storing information, and you will less frequently have to reply, "I don't know."

ONE WAY TO BALANCE THE BUDGET

About twenty years ago a Massachusetts farmer received $5,000 from the Grand Trunk railway for a right of way across his farm. Now he has agreed to buy back that right of way for $35.

The original deal was made when there was talk of making Providence, R. I., a shipping port for Canadian grain. The railroad paid the $5,000 in anticipation of larger profits in that event.

Recently the Canadian National, which absorbed the Grand Trunk, retained a lawyer to dispossess the right of way, and the farmer agreed to pay $35 to get back his land.

ARE AWARDED $488 FOR DAMAGE TO FURNITURE

Damages aggregating $488.66 have been awarded Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Delaney, of Berwick, in a decision filed by Mr. Justice Mellish, who presided at the spring term of the Supreme Court at Kentville. The Delaneys brought suit against Arthur E. Bezanon, also of Berwick, charging him with negligence through which their household furniture was almost completely demolished. The amount they asked in their statement of claim was $892.50.

The accident occurred at Clementon, where the roadway passes under the railway tracks. The furniture coming in contact with the steel girders of the bridge. The plaintiffs claimed that the driver had not taken sufficient precautions in loading the furniture, or before passing underneath the bridge.

The defendant pleaded that he was not liable as his truck was not being used as a common carrier, but rather that it had been placed at the disposal of the plaintiffs, for a consideration, and that the plaintiffs had sent their representative along with the truck driver at the time he went to get the household effects and bring them to Weymouth.

The wording of the decision as handed down by His Lordship is as follows:

This is an action for damages caused to plaintiffs' furniture which defendant contracted to remove from Weymouth to Berwick by motor

Obituary

Mrs. Elizabeth Wright

Mrs. Elizabeth Wright passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wallace Wright, Barton, a few days ago, at the age of 80 years, after a short illness. She died trusting in her Saviour. Since eleven years of age she has been a member of the Baptist Church being baptized by the Rev. Isaiah Wallace, at Lower Granville. Mrs. Wright was born at Bridgetown and was the daughter of the late William Coates, of London, England. Her first husband was the late Isaac T. Anderson, of Hillsboro, Annapolis County. She leaves to mourn three sisters, Mrs. Whitfield Fleet, of Lynn, Mass.; Mrs. Margaret Polk, of Boston, Mass.; and Mrs. John E. Beat, of Middleton, Mass.; two daughters, Mary Jean, of Bangor, Me., and Ida Mae (Mrs. Wallace Wright), of Barton, and one son, A. A. Anderson, of Rhode Island. She spent eleven years of her younger days in Pictou, where she had many friends, going there with the family of the late Capt. Daniel Anderson, of Granville Ferry. A host of relatives and friends will mourn her passing as she was beloved by all who knew her. Interment was at Hillsboro beside her first husband.

Arthur St. C. Perry

Many friends throughout the province will learn with regret of the death of Arthur St. C. Perry, which occurred at his home in Barton, on Saturday last. Mr. Perry, who was 67 years of age, was one of the best known citizens of the county, and for many years was engaged in the lumber business, and had the record for the province for the number of feet of lumber sawed in one day. He was a son of the late Augustus Perry, of Beaver River, Annapolis County, and Linda Hall, of Hainesville, Digby County, and was born in Barton where he lived his entire life. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Lalla Marshall; two daughters, Mrs. William MacKenzie, of Boston, and Mrs. Fred Lewis, of East Gore, Hants County, and one son, Kenneth, at home. Funeral services took place at Barton on Monday, the service at the home being conducted by Rev. M. C. Higgins, pastor of the Barton Baptist church, and at the grave by members of St. George Lodge, I. O. F., of Digby. He was also a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters.

THE NEWS SPOTLIGHT

Because of an outbreak of infantile paralysis in Washington President Roosevelt cancelled the national Boy Scout jamboree which was to have taken place there this week. Nearly 35,000 boys were expected to attend the jamboree.

Kitchen ranges, radios, over-stuffed furniture, and other luxuries are being made ready for the colonists in the Matagorda, B. D. 1935. A thousand men now are at work in the colony, and it is expected that a hundred permanent homes will be completed before the first snow falls.

The number of congressmen in the American Congress who have died during the present session reached four with the death of Representative Charles V. Truax, congressman-at-large for Ohio. He died of a heart attack. He entered the house in 1933.

So that she may have more time to devote to private business interests, Amelia Earhart Putnam, America's most famous woman flier, has resigned her dollar-a-year job as an aeronautical expert in the Department of Commerce of the United States.

Pensions totalling $21,000 a year have been restored to Samuel Insull, one-time utilities magnate, by the Canadian government, which has indicated that all criminal charges in a series of court trials growing out of the collapse of his business empire, Insull now says he desires only one thing—"my own private life".

Former President Herbert Hoover celebrated his 62nd birthday a few days ago. He is now on a business trip in the East.

The battle-scarred sloop Pennsylvania, one of the fleet of Benedict Arnold in the historical Battle of Valcour Island, October 12, 1776, has been raised from the bottom of Lake Champlain. Wreckers have found the bones of some members of the crew, old cannon and rusted cannon balls in the ancient vessel, which was about 45 feet in length.

DIED

Hunt—At Smith's Cove, August 3rd, 1935, Edgar Hunt, aged 78, leaving to mourn one sister Georgiana, of Smith's Cove; two brothers, Charles, Malden, Mass., and Alonzo, of Medford, Mass.; and two nieces, Alice, of Smith's Cove, and Mrs. Geo. Miller, of Jordan Ferry.

The damage I find was caused by the wrongful act of the defendant driver in driving the loaded truck under the bridge which was low, and in loading or permitting the truck to be loaded to an excessive height.

SAILOR TURNS TO NORTHERN WILDS TO EARN HIS LIVING

Olie Ness, jobless Norwegian sailor, who decided to become a hermit in the northern wilds of Saskatchewan, Canada, rather than continue to accept charity, won't return to civilization permanently, but he may pay a brief visit when he finishes his home-made canoe.

Two years ago Ness grew tired of tramping the streets of Regina, Canada, looking for work. He packed his few belongings and turned northward. He built a log cabin on a spot 250 miles north of Prince Albert. So completely did he isolate himself that he did not see a white man for 15 months.

An airplane pilot from Regina spotted Ness' cabin several weeks ago and stopped for a visit. The pilot says Ness has gathered nearly $800 worth of pelts. The hermit plans to trade his furs for food supplies at a post near Lac La Ronge, when the boat is finished.

Our girls used to blush when they were ashamed; now they are ashamed when they blush.

VACATION DAYS

I dipped my nose in a wild rose,
I heard a blue bell ring;
I saw a four-leaf clover
It's good luck promising.

I saw the swallows dip and dart,
With speed yet unsurpassed;
The wonder brushed across my heart
Like small wings, flashing past.

I watched the sun fall in the sea,
And never make a sound;
I heard an echo call to me
And caught it on rebound.

All life is like a fairy tale
Of endless mystery;
When lovely Nova Scotia
Holds out her arms to me.

DOWN BY THE SEA

To the dweller inland, the sea, perhaps, makes a deeper impression than those who are more or less familiar with it. The tides are a never ending source of interest to visitors from interior portions of the continent and their effects are a constant source of wonder.

Nowhere on the North American continent are these tidal effects to be seen in greater profusion than in the Maritime Provinces of Canada. The highest tides in the world, over fifty feet, occur in Minas Basin at the head of the Bay of Fundy, within the confines of the province of Nova Scotia, while the world-famous "bore" of the Pettaquamscutt River, at Moncton, is a tidal phenomenon which draws increasing numbers of visitors from far and near.

Another interesting phase of the tides are the many small streams or creeks which flow into the tidal rivers. At the ebb of the tide they are just ribbons of water trickling through the banks, while at the flood many of the banks of floating vessels of fairly large size. In the heyday of the wooden sailing ship these tidal creeks resounded with the blows of the shipbuilders' hammer as some stately sailing ship reared her framework up from the stocks. Nature provided ideal dockyards in which to build ships. In some cases an excavation was made at the side of the stream in which the ship was built and when the time came for her launching, all that was necessary to cut away the retaining wall and the ship floated out into the bay. Along the shore of the Pettaquamscutt River, at Hopewell Cape, in New Brunswick, about twenty miles from Moncton, occur "The Rocks," grotesque formations of reddish conglomerate. Some rear their vast bulk supported by a slender, neck-like base. The result of the erosive action of the winds and tides, and from the top trees grow out, while others impress with their massive proportions, curious shaped grottoes or caves worn into the side of the cliffs, form a fitting backdrop for this setting for a weird story of the endless expression of the number of visitors who each year climb about among the rocks.

Wherever one goes along the extensive coast line of the Maritime Provinces are to be found wonderful beaches. Smooth sand-covered stretches extend in some cases, for miles, ideal for salt water bathing. Nova Scotia is well endowed in this respect, all along the south shore of the province with its picturesque fishing towns and villages affording many such beaches where bathers can revel in the surf of the Atlantic Ocean. At Wombake, near Liverpool, the beach is composed of a fine white sand on which golf is played with red balls. This South Shore section can be reached overland by way of Halifax where the visitor will find one of the Maritimes' finest hotels, or via the water route from Boston and New York to Yarmouth, Cape Breton also has many places providing ideal bathing beaches. On the other side of the province are delightful bathing beaches, where the surf from the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Strait of Northumberland rolls in. Of these one might mention the Pictou section. On a wooded knoll overlooking the strait is to be found Pictou Lodge, a group of rustic log cabins or bungalows, surrounded by a beautiful beach, about four miles from the picturesque town of Pictou. On one side stretches the beach where bathers gather to enjoy the salt water of the Strait of Northumberland which penetrates, while in front is a fresh water lagoon in which guests may swim or paddle a canoe. Pictou Lodge is owned and operated by the Canadian National Railways whose lines traverse all three provinces, linking the various towns and villages with the larger centres and affording direct connection with centres across Canada and in the United States.

Being in such close proximity to the sea it is natural that deep sea fishing is one of the main industries carried on in the Maritime provinces. In addition to the herring, cod, haddock and halibut fisheries will be found tuna and sword fishing. With an abundance of fresh sea foods, among which the succulent lobster occupies a prominent niche, visitors revel in the epicurean delights of meals in which they form an important part.

The guide had been answering the fussy woman's questions for half an hour, and his patience was exhausted. How were these caves formed? she asked. I wasn't alive then, madam, he replied; but the story goes that a Scotchman dropped a sixpence down a rabbit hole.

Wipe and remove thin slice from the stem end of the tomatoes. Remove seeds and pulp and drain off most of the liquid. Cook onion in butter, add meat or fish, bread crumbs and salt and pepper to taste. Cook five minutes. Remove from fire, add egg and tomato to pulp and stuff tomatoes. Place in buttered pan, sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and bake 15 minutes in a hot oven, 400 degrees F.

Not so many years ago tomatoes were considered dangerously poisonous. They were first grown merely to ornament the garden, then a very brave person plucked one and used it on the table as food. At that time they were served with cream and butter. To be sure, they are a fruit but they are used as a vegetable now, either raw or cooked.

Scientists recommend them for people of all ages as one of the most healthful foods in the diet. They have an alkaline reaction in digestion and are high in Vitamin C. They also have an appreciable amount of Vitamins A, B, and G. One of their chief values in the diet is the fact that they balance the protein and starchy foods.

Doubtless you like to use tomatoes raw most of the summer because of their refreshing texture, but they are nice served as a hot vegetable, or as a hot meat accompaniment. The main thing to bear in mind when you cook them is that their texture is one of their most appealing features, so don't cook them until they wilt down, but just heat them through. They become tender long before they cook down.

The easiest and quickest way to cook them is to cut them in half, sprinkle them with salt, pepper, and sugar, and if you like, minced onion; to dot them with butter or to sprinkle them with minced bacon and bake in a hot oven, or to broil them. It is not necessary to cook them for long. They are better with the short cooking. Fried tomatoes are always popular. Dip them in batter or in flour or cornmeal and fry in deep fat.

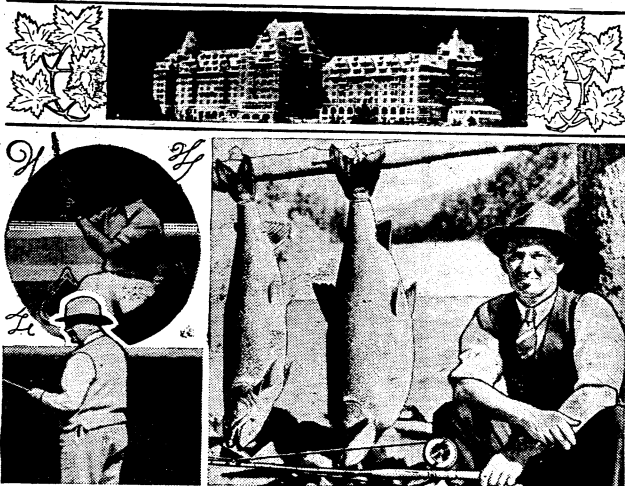

Tomatoes lend themselves especially well to stuffing and are often served raw with a filling of chopped vegetables mixed with mayonnaise, or a filling of crabmeat or chicken, as a substantial luncheon salad. Stuffed with mixtures containing bread crumbs and seasonings, baked tomatoes make an excellent hot vegetable to serve with the meat course.

Here is a recipe for baked stuffed tomatoes which you may enjoy:

6 tomatoes, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1/2 cup leftover meat or fish, 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs, salt, pepper, 1 egg, slightly beaten, browned bread crumbs.

Wipe and remove thin slice from the stem end of the tomatoes. Remove seeds and pulp and drain off most of the liquid. Cook onion in butter, add meat or fish, bread crumbs and salt and pepper to taste. Cook five minutes. Remove from fire, add egg and tomato to pulp and stuff tomatoes. Place in buttered pan, sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and bake 15 minutes in a hot oven, 400 degrees F.

Where Dreams Come True

NOT much has been said about the fishing near Banff Springs Hotel in the Rocky Mountains, probably because when visitors had finished "writing home" about the scenery, facilities for golf, tennis, and swimming, they had to be climbed on foot or horse, the health-giving qualities of the air, and the fun to be found there the year round, there were no suitable descriptive words left for the fish.

But many types of fighting fish abound in the nearby lakes and streams. Minnow, the lake of Indian legends, frozen over for a week after the opening of the fishing season, made a glorious start on the new season by producing more than 650 pounds of trout in two days. Bill Hall, of Banff, led the parade with two trout, the larger one a fisherman's dream tipping the scales at 40 1/2 pounds, and the other registering a more usual 20 1/2 pounds. He was out for only an hour and a quarter in the early afternoon from the time the first cast until the second fish was landed, despite the fact that the pair put up 30 and 40-minute fights.

Visitors have also made good catches this year. On the same day sportsmen got eight fish, averaging about 18 pounds each, and in two days another party of visitors caught 360 pounds of lake trout, running from five to 25 pounds, with the average about 18 pounds.

While catches like these are not at all uncommon in the West, it has been discovered fairly recently that trolling is not at all necessary to get the big ones. Visitors at the Canadian Pacific Railway hotels at Banff Springs and at Lake Louise, as well as the many bungalow camps throughout the Rockies, learn soon after their arrival that there are fine fishing grounds in the near vicinity.

SANDY COVE, NOVA SCOTIA

To thee, sweet haven on Digby Neck,
Where peace and beauty reign supreme,
Fain would I fly—for at thy beck
Live I—awake, asleep, adream.

Midway on the Neck thou liest
Nestling 'twixt two glorious bays:
Fundy, where the tide flows highest
And St. Mary's, of quieter ways.

I love thy changing weather moods:
Misty morn, cool eve, warm noon,
Lashing waves, then stillness broods,
And oh! the splendour of thy moon.

Brave little cove! I love thy bells,
And all thy sighs and scents and Amethyst rocks, pine trees, sea shells,
Boats out on the fishing grounds.

The fishermen put out to sea,
The oxen slowly draw the hay;
The children play on beach and lea,
And so doth pass an August day.

Thou refuge of the fever'd brain
Where throngs not those who crave
A din;
Thy calm dost ease Life's greatest strain,
And healing of the Soul begin.

Fred W. Roop

The community was shocked and saddened when word was received of the death of Fred Roop, which occurred at the Digby General Hospital, on Monday evening, of pleuro pneumonia, after an illness of over four weeks duration. The deceased, who was a son of the late Clarence Roop and Mary Eliza Roop, was born at Plympton, Digby Co., on January 1st, 1887, and went to Hill Grove to live with his parents when quite young, and with the exception of a few years residence at Rockport, Mass., has spent his life in Hill Grove. No near relatives survive, he being the last of the family. Mrs. Darcy Roop, of Hill Grove, a niece, Fred Roop, Joggin Bridge, and Mrs. Joseph Berry, Deep Brook, are the nearest relatives left, with a host of friends to mourn the loss of one whose pleasing personality and never failing good humor endeared him to all with whom he came in contact. A talented singer, his services in the choir of the Hill Grove United Baptist Church will be sadly missed. The funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Darcy Roop, Hill Grove, and the United Baptist Church, of which the deceased was a member. Rev. F. E. Bishop, of Digby, officiating, with interment in the family lot in the Hill Grove Baptist Cemetery. The large congregation who attended to pay their last respects, and the beautiful floral offerings testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held and whose passing in the prime of life leaves a gap in the social and religious life of the community, which will be hard to fill.

Mr. and Mrs. Oran, of New York, are spending a few weeks at the Fairview.

Douglas Russell, accompanied by his daughter Marie of Oxford, have been spending a few days at Mrs. Russell's home, Mrs. Josephine Russell.

Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Forbes, of Granville Ferry, were guests recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Ellis, Bay View.

FARM BUILDINGS DESTROYED

Catching from a bush fire, the farm home and large barn of Wellington Thomas, aged farmer, was destroyed by fire Tuesday evening with a total loss, a number of cattle losing their lives in the flames. Mr. Thomas is a man of 77 years who two years ago met with an accident in his mill that cost him a leg. Living with him were Mr. and Mrs. Wright, who were helping him to operate the farm.

NEW STORE IN ANNAPOLIS ROYAL

Our readers will of course have noticed the advertisements of The Dominion Stores, Annapolis Royal, which are now appearing in the Courier. On Monday the editor found it necessary to make a business trip to the ancient capital, and while there called in the new store to get acquainted with the manager. This was not surprising in any respect, as a tastefully arranged and complete stock, a bright and cheery store, and a staff of capable clerks. In saying this we are not disparaging the other stores, because in our opinion the Annapolis stores compare more favorably with those of any other small town in the province. The new store has possibly a few more city features, as is only natural with a store belonging to one of the leading chains of the Dominion, and no doubt will continue for a good share of the public patronage.

GUIDES GO CAMPING

The Girl Guides returned last Monday from an eight-day camping trip at the Seal Camp, Porters Lake. Three patrols, consisting of 28 girls under the leadership of Harriet Campbell and Lois Walker, spent the week at the camp. The girls learned to swim and dive, and the patrols did their own cooking entirely. A camp paper was composed from all reports, its some of the more interesting being some sketches from it later in the evenings the girls sang around the fires, and were joined by visitors.

Arriving here Tuesday by the Saint John boat, two carloads of the New Brunswick Apple growers left on a tour of the Annapolis Valley as guests of the Nova Scotia Apple Growers' Association, which holds a four-day conference. They were joined by ten carloads of the orchardists of the same province.

Marriages

Morgan—Height

One of the loveliest weddings of the season, and one which will be of interest to many friends in the Maritime Provinces and Western Canada, was solemnized at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. E. Burton Taylor, Smith's Cove, on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, when Ida Alemeda Height, of South Range, was united in marriage to Claude Lorimer Morgan, son of Isaiah T. Morgan, Marshalltown. Rev. W. H. Turner, pastor of the Smith's Cove Baptist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of 150 guests. The house and grounds has been transformed into a bower of bloom by the many friends of the happy couple. The ceremony was performed under an arch of roses and the brilliantly lighted lawn, while gladioli and fern banded both sides of the way leading from the house. The bride was the picture of girlish loveliness in a gown of white crepe with veil and orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and gladioli. Little Misses Jean Veir and Beverly Turner, daintily dressed, held the bride's train. She was given in marriage by her father, and was attended by Miss Vera McHugh, of Smith's Cove, who looked very charming in a dress of pale pink satin, and carried an arm bouquet of gladioli and fern. The groom was supported by Harold Sully, also of Smith's Cove. Miss Blanche U. Morgan and Mrs. Barton Morgan, sisters of the groom, attended as maids of honor, and were very pretty gowns of pale blue chiffon and organdie, and carried bouquets of gladioli and fern. Little Olive Morgan, niece of the groom, Beverly Turner, Joan Veir, Pearl LeRoy Morgan, nephew of the groom, and Carl Height, brother of the bride, carried baskets of flowers and strewed rose petals in the path of the bridal party. The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. W. H. Turner as the bridal party took their places, and Mendelssohn's Wedding March was the recessional and was played by Miss Frances Austin. A reception followed the ceremony, the bride and groom receiving under an arch of roses in the living room. The dining room was profusely decorated with sweet peas, the table being centred with a lovely bride's cake, placed on a lace cloth and lighted by white candles in silver stands. Mrs. T. O. Morgan, of Smith's Cove, and Mrs. C. B. Wetmore, of Wolfville, poured and a number of girls in pretty gowns served. The popularity of the bride and groom was shown by the large number of guests. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan left on Wednesday the Princess Helene, en route to Regina, Saskatchewan, where they will reside, and where the groom holds a position with the Canadian National Railway. They will visit many of the larger cities en route.

Fr. C. Melanson, P. P. The bride was becomingly attired in white satin, with conventional veil and wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white roses and fern; while the bridegroom, Miss Rose Blin, sister of the bride, dressed in light blue satin with hat to match and also carried a bouquet of pink carnations and fern. Little Miss Therese Melanson, daintily dressed in white organdie with veil, acted as flower girl. The groom was supported by an intimate friend, Joseph Doucet, of Hubbard's Point, Yarmouth Co. The church artistically decorated for the occasion, was filled to capacity. The nuptial High Mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Melanson, and sung by the choir of St. Anne's Church, Brook. Mr. Flavian Melanson, a talented musician, played Lohengrin Nuptial March as the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, and on leaving played Mendelssohn's March. At the offertory

Injured When Bicycle Goes Over Bridge

Joe Turnbull, 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Turnbull, of the Lighthouse Road, was badly injured on Tuesday, when the extension post on his bicycle gave out. At the time Joe was going over a hill on the Pines Golf course, and when he noticed the vehicle wouldn't clear he immediately put on the brakes, which jammed, and would not take hold. Joe and bicycle went over a ten foot bridge and landed on some rocks lying there. He was carried to the Club House and Doctor Dickie called immediately. There were six stitches taken in his leg, and one in his head, besides many bruises. Joe is the youngest member of the Digby Civic Band, and we are sure that the citizens as well as the other members of the Band will be glad to see him out again.

To Meet in Digby in 1936

The Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities in session at Amherst last week decided to hold their 1936 meeting at Digby. For several years the union has been anxious to meet in this town, but the invitation to hold their convention here was not forthcoming until this week.

Delegates from the Digby Town Council to attend were Mayor A. A. Shortliffe and Councillor S. S. Aymar. Warden and Mrs. J. V. Andrews attended as delegates from the Municipality of Digby, and Isaac LeBlanc, Municipal Clerk and Treasurer for Clare, as delegate from that municipality.

Warden Andrews of North Range, was elected President for the ensuing year.

THE FARNSWORTH FUND

Owing to the fact of there not being space in last week's "Courier," my letter did not appear, consequently funds were not forthcoming. This fund closes Friday, Sept. 6th.

Through the courtesy of the "Courier" this has been made possible. To all, accept my heartfelt thanks. The house has now been shingled, but with no windows upstairs, the family are suffering with the cold these chilly nights and mornings.

So there is much more to be done. I wonder how those people feel in their comfortable homes, who have not contributed even one dollar.

There has been a great deal of sickness in Digby—some very serious cases. Have they not a thank offering to make, or are they in the class of—"Were there not ten lepers—where are the nine? Not one returns thanks save this stranger?"

This happened in Christ's time, so down through the ages the same selfish spirit has prevailed.

The response has been very small in this fund, and with all the spectacular ways of raising money for other organizations, The Children's Fund has been the only one that I may say is a Charter member of all these organizations and give as far as I am able to all, but I should like to see more co-operation and a sense of fair play.

ENTERTAINMENT AT LITTLE RIVER

A musical entertainment under the direction of Mrs. Douglas Denton was given in the Little River Hall on Monday evening, which was much enjoyed. Wm. B. Denton was, as usual, the comedian, and brought down the house, while Douglas Denton did his part exceptionally well, in assisting several duets. Mrs. Ronald Folkins sang a solo and the programme was a success.

Mrs. Carolyn Rice, who has been visiting relatives in the county, has returned to Boston.

Mrs. Arthur Cronin (formerly Helen Robinson) daughter of Capt. and Mrs. F. A. Robinson, has taken a cottage on the Shore Road for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Ruggles are spending a couple of weeks at their camp at Porter's Lake. While they are there Gordon Ellis is manager of his Hardware Store.

The following two items were omitted from the Hospital Fair prize list last week: Cross Stitch Rug, Mrs. J. D. Syde; Hand Tufted Bed Spread, Miss Mable Holdsworth.

A Barton hen is getting rather ambitious. Last week it presented its owner, D. J. Fraser, with two eggs at once, perfect in shape, but joined like a pair of dumb-bells.

Roy C. Lewis, wife and daughter, Valerie, of Digby, are motoring through the Maritime Provinces, accompanied by Mrs. C. F. Lewis, of Truro, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin H. White, of Halifax. While in town they were the guests of Miss Mable Holdsworth.

Guests at the Adams Cottage this week were: Margaret Smith and Nancy Smith, of New York, and Donald Smith, of Philadelphia; Arthur Woodruff, of Lynn, Mass., accompanied by Albert Richards, of Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. Angus MacKay, of Montreal; Miss E. Storey, Toronto; Mrs. John Day and daughter, Mrs. Bartling, of Liverpool, N. S.

Mrs. John B. Belliveau, the oldest son of Chief Point, motored Friday to St. Anne College, where she was the guest of the College's Sisters for the whole day. Mrs. Belliveau is the mother of a large family including Jean Belliveau, of the Highway Board, and Arcade L. Belliveau, manager of the Digby Church Point Produce Company Ltd. There passed away Monday morning at the Halifax Infirmary, Earl Muir Whyte, 7-year-old son of Dr. Donald Street, Halifax. Muir would have been 8 years old had he lived till tomorrow. Following a short service at her late residence, there was a service at the church, which was filled to its capacity as a tribute to one who was loved and respected by the whole community. The late Mrs. Adams, who, before her marriage, was Miss Eliza Handsaker, of Culloden, was the widow of Charles Adams, who predeceased her about nine years ago. She was twice married, her first husband, who died more than half a century ago, was the late Chesley Stark. She had resided in Bay View for over forty years. FATHER MURPHY HONORED BY PARISHIONERS

At the conclusion of week day Mass Tuesday morning, Aug. 20, the parishioners of St. Alphonsus Church, Bridgetown, met to do honor to their loyal priest, Rev. Fr. Leo Murphy, on the occasion of his birthday. Mr. J. A. Myers, in a few well chosen remarks, and on behalf of the parishioners of Digby, Annapolis Royal, Bridgetown and Bear River, presented Father Murphy with a purse of money. Father Murphy replied in a gracious manner and thanked all most heartily.

Reverend Father Murphy who has been parish priest at Annapolis Royal the past four and a half years, and who has missions at Bridgetown, Bear River and Digby, covering in all a distance of about forty miles, is an exceedingly busy and energetic man. By his indefatigable zeal and energy he manages to have a week day Mass at each of these places, each week, in the summer months, as well as two Masses every Sunday, one at Annapolis Royal, the home parish, at 9 o'clock, and the other at one of the missions at 11 o'clock. During the tourist season he spends three days each week in the town of Digby, where the new St. Patrick's Church has recently been opened under his leadership. In addition to his arduous duties as parish priest, Father Murphy, who is thirty-six years of age, is deeply interested in the tourist industry in the province. He is general chairman of the Indian Carnival for Western Nova Scotia, and is the author of two popular and well-known volumes, "The Golden Heritage" and "The Hill of Triumph." His many friends throughout the province and elsewhere will join with his parishioners in best wishes on the occasion of his birthday.

Mary Marshall spent last week end in Halifax with friends.

After Mrs. James Ellis, of Bay View, and Mrs. Aubrey Fowler, of Auburn; three step sons, Loran, of Bay View; Frank, of Raleigh, N. J., and Charles B., of Montreal.

PHANTOM TROUBLES

An old, familiar line, worthy of perpetuation, runs—"I am an old man and have had many troubles, most of which never happened."

No doubt most people as they near the end of life's road could say the same.

In general our troubles have three dimensions.

They are fearfully large in prospect.

The worst of them is bearable in actual experience.

And they shrink to a mere nothing in retrospect.

The gravest of our troubles are those of anticipation. The longer the perspective, the larger the anxiety. Sudden emergencies find us more than ready for them.

Which proves it is not the difficulty that floors us, but the mind's imaginings which, in the troubles sighted in advance, make mountains out of molehills. There is no specific cure for that dreaded malady, worry, like making comparisons. No trouble is ever as serious as our fretting makes it out to be.

Which ought to admonish us to let fretting alone, and deal with the actualities.

A wise man of old said, "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

And we are equal to the evil if we do not clutter our minds with past regrets and future fears.

The one unsolved problem in this matter of taking and losing remains the best way to make the other fellow pay them.

LEISURE

Recently four young men and women of a graduating class discussed the use and abuse of leisure, basing the discussion on present unemployment.

Leisure is time not devoted to labor on the part of one who has work. One who does not have work can have no leisure.

He is idle, and idleness is not leisure.

The two words are in no degree synonymous, and, believe it or not, idleness is the hardest kind of work. Millior: will testify to that fact—unproductive work that is destructive to morale.

Leisure may be a blessing or a curse—idleness is generally a curse.

Before she marries, a woman prays that she may make her husband a good wife. Afterward she prays that he may be made a better husband.

MY ATTIC

As I sit alone at the end of the day
And watch the sunsets glow,
Through memory's eye I travel back Back to the long ago.

Back to the old white cottage
Where I climb the attic stair;
I smile awhile as I brush from my eye,
A tear that had gathered there.

I see the old brick chimney,
Strings of apples on it to dry;
And setting back, near the eaves,
Are mother's old pots of dye.

The old spinning wheel is idle,
Resting from work well done;
How many times that wheel has turned,
Yards and yards of yarn it has spun.

How oft with my foot on the pedal
I would turn that wheel around;
My fingers spread out on the long narrow spokes,
To produce a harmonious sound.

While the rain on the roof would patter,
We kids took the greatest delight Playing the game of hide and seek
Or a good old pillow fight.

And here we used to play soldiers—
A broom was the captain's gun;
We marched in line round the chimney.

A tin pan was the drummer's drum.
How happy the days of my childhood
The happiest days I know;
But they are now cherished memories
That were so real so long ago.

The loved ones have long departed,
The home is vacant and bare;
Nothing remains that is real—
Just the cobwebs hanging there.

Through memory's eye, as I often sit,
I will climb the attic stair;
Live over again those happy days—
That we kids enjoyed up there.

A SKUNK TALE

An American tourist, who has been summering in Digby and vicinity for well over thirty years, is responsible for the following story: It seems the manager of the hotel where he and his parents stayed was one of the world's best mixers, but his kitchen was not managed to please the young lad's mother, who accordingly volunteered to give him some lessons in good housekeeping. From that time on she insisted on giving advice in the kitchen, much to the hotel keeper's chagrin. "Poor mother," said the tourist; "she must have been somewhat of a stickler to Mr. ...". However he found a way to manage her. One day she said to him, "I want a corset for my wife," he said, "What bust?" asked the clerk. "Nothing. It just wore out."

KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

On Thursday evening of last week, about 10.15, Senator J. L. P. Robichaud, of Maxwellton, and E. R. Gaudet, of Weymouth, were returning home from Digby by car. When they were in front of the residence of George Sabean, at Ashmore, they saw something lying in the road stopping their car and getting out to investigate, they discovered that it was the body of Benjamin (Benny) Theriault, well known blacksmith of Ashmore, which was lying face downwards in a pool of blood. Car tracks leading into the ditch opposite the body led them to believe that he had been struck by a hill-and-run motorist. Frank Anderson, of Digby, then arrived on the scene of the accident, also two young men, Carl and Scott Kinney, of Ashmore, who were returning to their homes after attending church at Weymouth North. Without touching the body, Dr. H. J. Pothier, of Weymouth; Father Luke Gaudet, of Plympton, and the R. C. M. P. were immediately summoned, and later C. C. Nichol, of Weymouth, undertaker. The Kinney boys stated that they had met a car just above the Brook Road that was a Model T Ford, with light truck body, and that it was running on three tires, one of the front ones being missing, in front of the residence of Fred Manthey. They picked up an inner tube, apparently of Ford car size. After the arrival of the police from both Digby and Meteghan, the body was removed to the undertaker's parlors of Mr. Nichol, while the police left in search of the missing car.

At Weymouth Falls, Constable E. D'Eon of the Meteghan detachment, found a Model T Ford with light truck body, having a broken windshield and only three tires on it. He discovered that it was owned by the late Benjamin Theriault, of Conway, who had been accompanied by Trafford Bright, of Weymouth Falls, and Sanford Barton, of Acaciaville. He went to a dance at the Weymouth Falls Hall, where he placed Christmas under arrest. In the quest of Dr. H. J. Pothier, Coronor, who held at C. Nichol, undertaker, the body was removed to the undertaker's parlors on Friday and last week from 10.30 a. m. until 5.30 p. m. Witnesses called were Senator J. L. P. Robichaud, of Maxwellton; E. R. Gaudet, Weymouth; Carl and Scott Kinney, of Ashmore; Herbert Christmas, Conway; Trafford Bright, Weymouth Falls; Sanford Barton of Acaciaville; Lee Langford, Weymouth Falls; and Constable E. D'Eon of Meteghan.

The jury composed of E. F. Hankinson, Foreman; C. C. Nichol, H. L. Brooks, F. L. Munter, Oliver Combe, C. A. Andrews, Donald Comeau, Jack Walker, Stuart MacGowan, Stewart Bonnaman, Donald Munter and James Melanson, brought in the verdict that they found that the deceased, Benjamin Theriault, came to his death by a fracture at the base of the skull, having been caused when struck by a motor car driven by Herbert Christmas, of Conway, N. S.

Christmas, in his statement said that when he was driving along in Ashmore he saw a man in the middle of the road about 10 feet away. He says he made an effort to avoid striking the man, and drove into the ditch, smashing the windshield and upper part of the radiator and causing a flat tire, without getting out of the car. He backed into the ditch under its own power, the front tire came off, he got out picked it up, and without putting the spare tire on proceeded on his way, as it was getting late and he wanted to get to the dance, he says he had no idea that he had struck anybody.

Barton, who was sitting on the opposite side of the car, stated that he saw the man, felt the impact when they struck, saw the man fall and told the driver "We hit a man, go back and see if we hurt him."

Christmas said "No, he did not hit him," and proceeded on.

The funeral service of Mr. Theriault was held on Sunday morning at 9.30 at St. Croix Roman Catholic Church, Gilbert's Cove. Rev. Fr. LeBlanc, of Church Point, officiating, despite the very inclement weather conditions the funeral was an exceptionally large one. Deceased, who was about 63 years of age.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC

The annual picnic of the Baptist and United Churches was planned for Friday, Aug. 23rd, but owing to the splendid rain, that the farmers needed so badly, it was necessary to postpone it until the following day. It is to be regretted that this made it impossible for some of the most faithful helpers to be present, and even kept some of the children away but with school on the following Monday there was no other alternative.

In spite of all these handicaps, there were many who said "it is the best we have had." The programme was about the same as in former years, although the water was too cold for comfortable bathing. Owing to the kindness of certain friends of the Sunday Schools, there were races for all classes in which everyone received a prize. As the writer was a member of one of the teams which strove at baseball, it will be sufficient to say that the added score of both teams made a respectable total. The game of "barn-yard" was greatly enjoyed by one of the contestants insisting on hitting the stake on every second toss. The candy and peanut scramble was very popular.

It is estimated that there were two hundred, or more, at the picnic and the thanks of all are extended to those who worked so hard to feed the multitude and wash up the dishes.

A new and very welcome feature of this year's picnic was the presence of about thirty from the Sunday School at Greenland. We hope that they will be with us next year.

RAMBLINGS OF A ROLLING STONE

In some of her interesting jottings, M. O. T. has written us some of a cat-a-logue of the failings and the virtues of the more or less domestic feline; but I do not recall that she has ever gone into an intimate discussion of the short comings of the canine tribe. I wish, therefore, she might have given us an insight into her reactions along dogish lines. Taken in reasonable doses, dogs are not repugnant to me; but recently we have been the unwilling hosts to a plague of dogs—and when dogs become as plentiful as the grasshoppers are reported to be in Regina, I cease to be an admirer and rise to heights of wrath which can only be assuaged by oceans of canine gore. We have had setter dogs, shepherd dogs, collie dogs, terrier dogs, mongrel dogs, every variety, color, shape and size except the succulent variety dispensed at the roadside emporiums. Relief is, however, in sight, a dog pound has been established wherein the pestiferous brutes may spend an unclaimed day—then oblivion for the dog and an added modicum of peace for the weary householder. If the heart of O. O. McIntyre is wrung until the brain globules course down his gaunt cheek because of this, to us, praise worthy dog-ology, I will gladly resign any share I may have in these howling pests and together, with my blessing, tender them to him that he may add them to those which he has so soulfully counmiled.

For "quite some" years I have secretly cherished the idea that I have exemplified a reasonable amount of modesty and morality both in private and in public. I am somewhat ashamed to learn that not only have I been for some years past, in possession of either of these much to be desired qualities. My self complacency along these lines received a decided jolt a few days ago and was brought about in the following indirect manner. A number of Seattle daddies possessed of children of tender months, entered into a competition to decide which one of their number could the most speedily and scientifically spy out the necessary adjunct of babyhood, the diaper, to their respective offsprings. A prize of ten dollars was the reward for speed and proficiency and was won by one of the fathers in the record time of sixteen seconds.

Whether the professional jealousy, the green-eyed monster of business, played a leading part or not, I cannot say, from personal knowledge as yet, but this I do know that the Associated Women's Clubs in meeting assembled, solemnly declared that what these daddies did was "both immodest and immoral." In times past, during the absence of their mother, it has been incumbent upon me to officiate in a similar manner and it needed this weighty pronouncement to open my eyes to the magnitude of my past transgressions. However, the silver lining is shining on the margins of the murky clouds of yesterday's transgressions—I never liked the job anyway.

The strike of the sawmill and timber workers, which has dragged the north coast into a weary week, is definitely over. A death like pall settled over this city when the more than twelve hundred workers threw down their tools or switched the power off their machines. Through-out the silent days there were no threats of violence. Other lumber centres were not so lucky as we were. In many places the National Guard was called out and the days and nights were made hideous by bombings, tear gas, assault and arson. A death like pall settled over the law and the order battled to uphold the majesty of the law and to preserve the rights of the private citizen.

In their original demands, the union went far beyond the bounds of reason. Their ultimatum called for the six-hour day, seventy-five cents per hour, the closed shop, the week's vacation and one week's sick leave each year with full pay, together with all the cumbersome machinery and dictatorial policies of the closed shop.

A few moments' serious consideration will convince anyone that the industry could not possibly exist under the regime proposed, since the management would become mere puppets in the hands of the union leaders.

After days and nights of negotiation, of proposal and counter proposal, a settlement emerged which gives the employees a minimum wage of fifty cents per hour and collective bargaining either by the unions or by groups unorganized and unaffiliated with the union—which provision, by the way, was in operation before the strike.

The loss in wages to the striking unions amounts to some eight million dollars and to the industry as a whole the loss is estimated at twenty millions. The loss to wage earners in this city will be approximately three hundred and thirty thousand dollars, with the total aggregating about three-fourths of a million. Cold statistics do not tell the whole story. To the monetary loss must be added hunger and privation, hatred and suspicion, broken friendships and broken heads. The physical wounds may heal, but the seeds of future trouble have been planted in a soil made the more fertile by the rankling memory of personal injury, the destruction of homes and autos and the programme of intimidation which brought terror to wives and innocent children.

ADVENTURE CALLS MANY DARE-DEVILS INTO FAR CLIMES

Adventurers are striking out for the ends of the earth in a new wave of exploration this year. The shortage of unknown regions—only a few blank spots remain on the map—has proved no wrench in exploration. "Venerable wo-wo-wo-wo" the machine of exploration. Adventure seekers and scientists are specializing on far journeys in mind, pathfinders had no time to study or even wonder about.

Lincoln Ellsworth is committed to another attempt at an Antarctic flight, while both Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews have far journeys in mind, despite grave handicaps. And rovers less well known are striking out in a dozen directions.

Dr. Andrews once offered an explanation: "I wonder if there will ever come a time when life is no longer a wonderful adventure, when there is no interesting experience in things or personalities waiting just around the corner," he wrote in his book, "Ends of the Earth."

To avoid softening influences of civilization, Lincoln Ellsworth has been climbing the mountains in Switzerland this summer. His flight across the South Pole region has been set for next autumn. Soon after his return from Little America, Admiral Byrd said he was contemplating further exploration, although the hardships of the last trail affected him so severely that he is now seeking health by a complete rest in Maine. Dr. Mary L. Jabe Akely, widow of the famed explorer, Dr. Carl Akely and an American Museum expert, sailed for Africa recently. Frans Bloom, of the Tulane University, and two Michigan biologists Charles E. Altenburg and Bancroft Butler, have departed for the lands of tropical America. Meanwhile, Sudyam Cutting has obtained permission, after trying five years, to seek out the forbidden region of Tibet. He left in June to travel by ship, plane, train and primitive conveyance into the region where the race of man may have originated. Dr. William Beebe, veteran explorer of oceanic wonders, has been experimenting with ultra violet light in an attempt to expand his explorations of the ocean deep a half mile down in the waters of Bermuda. Even Haiti attracted explorers as recently as March, when the American Museum expedition went there to study the Iguanas, cannibalistic people surviving from another era. After all is said, however, the polar regions still are the great lodestones of exploration and adventure.

Capt. Bob Bartlett sailed late in June on the ship Effie M. Morrissey, to hunt and explore the western coast of Greenland. Capt. Bartlett and the Morrissey, an inseparable pair, seem to represent the spirit of northern winds and sails blowing out full under the clean skies of the Land Farther Up.

When a man says he is just as good as another man, he invariably believes he's better.

Sandy was travelling to London to visit a Harley Street specialist. On his way he learned from a fellow-traveller that the specialist's fee would be three guineas for the first visit and half a guinea for each of the others. Arriving outside the specialist's house the Scot hit upon an idea which would save him money. He stalked confidently into the consulting room and banged his half a guinea down on the table. "Hello, doctor," he jovially exclaimed, "here I am again!" "Well, well," said the specialist—also a Scot—he pocketed the money; "just carry on with the same prescription as before."

The EASTERN TRUST COMPANY

The yacht "No. 64 Muir" from Campbell, N. B., arrived this week with Capt. Wilson and a party of six tourists.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robinson, of Boston, were recent visitors of Mr. Robinson's parents, Capt. and Mrs. F. A. Robinson.

Charged under the Nova Scotia Liquor Control Act with being drunk and disorderly, Hugh MacInnes, of Millfort, Sask., who was arrested Wednesday by Chief of Police Thibault, was sentenced by Stipendiary J. A. Taylor to five days in the local jail. Judge Taylor at first sentenced the young man to 15 days, but changed the sentence to 5 days, after he promised to leave town immediately after he was released. Chief Thibault says there has been an invasion of hoboes during the past week, he having sent fourteen of them out of town in two days.

Mullen—At New Tusk, August 19, 1935, to Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Mullen, a son.

V. O. N. Bridge and Afternoon Tea

A very pleasant Bridge and Afternoon Tea was held on Tuesday afternoon, at the Pines Golf Club House, for the benefit of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

First prizes were won by Mrs. Duvernet and Miss Louise Daley, while the consolation prizes went to Mrs. Steele and Mrs. Hubert Warner. The committee wish to thank Mr. Jones for the use of the Pines Golf House; Miss Oliver, Mrs. P. W. Holdsworth, Miss Agatha Stewart and Miss Louise Daley, who donated the prizes; Dr. Timpany, Stewart Raymond and others, who kindly conveyed guests in their cars, and all who assisted in making the party such a success. The receipts amounted to $46.50.

HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE

The home of William Thurber, at Weymouth Point, with all its contents, was destroyed by fire at an early hour Wednesday morning. The house was unoccupied, Mr. Thurber, also Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith, who live with him, being in Freeport for the summer months. Mr. Thurber and Mr. Smith, fishing out of the place. The fire was first noticed about 4 or 5 o'clock when nearby neighbors were awakened by the reflection. It is not known if there was any insurance or not, but it is thought that it was at least partially covered. There was a heavy wind blowing at the time but as it was blowing toward the shore and away from the other houses nothing else caught.

ACACIAVILLE AND HILL GROVE

Our schools opened this week under the direction of the same teachers, Miss Postdown, at Acaciaville, and Miss Margaret Porter, at Hillgrove. Mrs. J. W. Bell entertained the W. M. A. S. at her home on Wednesday evening. Quite a number of members and visitors were present. The usual programmes were much enjoyed. The visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Goldsmith last week were Mr. and Mrs. James Strang, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Foley and Mrs. Charlotte Foley, Saint John. Mrs. Goudy Nichols was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Marshall, in Marshalltown, last week.

AT THE THEATRE

Did you ever see such pictures as the Bijou has been giving us lately? And still they keep right on—that's the nice part about it. Now tonight and Saturday, Myrna Loy and Cary Grant, in "Wings in the Dark." This picture has not only a lot of good flying in it, but it has a story, and plenty of inventions—those things you have read about and always wanted to see. It shows how "blind flying" is accomplished. You'll like the dog in it, too. Then "Car 99" is a grand action picture, full of cops and the under world at large. You'll like it, folks. The picture of next week, of course, is Bing Crosby and Kitty Carlisle in "Here In My Heart." Plenty of comedy, and the singing, well, that just can't be described in print. Go hear it yourself. Both the stars are at their best, in humor, drama and what ails you. It's a story of exiles from the Russian Revolution—a princess, a couple of princesses, and the hero himself. Don't miss this on Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Dr. and Mrs. Sandeford and daughter Joan, now in Bear River, recently spent a few days in Shelburne, and were guests while there of Dr. and Mrs. G. R. MacKay, of Boston and Florida. Mrs. G. Cain and Miss Mildred Hayes, of Belmont, Mass., who are summering at Lake Annis, spent a day with Dr. and Mrs. Sandeford at the Commercial House recently, as did also Max Young and Miss Mollie Butler, of Bridgetown.

Conventions at The Pines

The Travellers' Life Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., opened their convention at the Pines Hotel, on Tuesday of this week, with some seventy delegates, representing the Canadian Sales Council of the company, attending. Among the delegates are five from Vancouver; one from Calgary; six from Winnipeg; sixteen from Toronto; fourteen from Montreal and four from Halifax, as well as individual delegates from leading Canadian cities. Head office officials attending include L. E. Zacher, president; B. A. Page, J. L. Howard and H. H. Armstrong, vice-presidents; G. V. Kunher, agency superintendent; W. E. Mallory, agency secretary; C. W. VanBeynum, publicity manager; W. J. Flynn, auditor.

Mr. Armstrong, one of the vice-presidents, expressed himself as greatly pleased with Digby, and especially with the Pines Golf Course, which, he says, has no equal that he knows of. He can't understand why more people have not discovered Digby.

William Ward, of Winnipeg, says he can play golf any time when at home, and isn't going to waste his time on the golf course when he can enjoy deep sea fishing. "We can't take the Atlantic Ocean home with us," he says. He claims he has never seen a more beautiful country than this, and to "tell the world we are having the time of our lives."

Last week the "high producers" of the Imperial Life met in convention at the Pines. They, too, were much impressed with Digby.

Horace Hayden, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Josie Hayden, returned to the United States this week.

Work commenced on Wednesday to tear up a section of the new pavement through the business section of Water Street, which has proven unsatisfactory. The section will be relaid.

Mrs. D. D. Moore, who has been visiting the greater part of the summer at her old home town, will return to her home in Glace Bay tomorrow. While in Digby Mrs. Moore was the guest of Miss Margaret Beaman, Birch Street.

PAINTING DIGBY

No-doubt many of you have noticed the water paintings on exhibit in O. Wright's store. If you haven't seen them—don't miss an opportunity of seeing Digby in water colors. These were painted by D. Oranz, of New York City, a photo engraver, who, with Mrs. Oranz, is spending his holidays at the Fairview Hotel. Mr. Oranz is planning to take Digby home with him, in colors, and has found many beautiful scenes in the town itself. None of his paintings are for sale, but are done entirely for his own pleasure. Both he and Mrs. Oranz are very enthusiastic about the scenic beauties of Digby, and the surrounding country, and think it exceeds many of the noted beauty spots in New England and the Maritimes.

Baby Contest Was Held Last Week

Trinity Parish Hall was the centre of attraction on Friday afternoon last, when a Baby Contest, sponsored by the Victorian Order of Nurses, was held. The floral decorations and dainty tables presented a beautiful setting to the lovely babies, who were splendid specimens of future Canadian citizens. Thirty-six babies were weighed, measured and examined. Many of these attend the weekly V. O. N. Clinics, held every Friday afternoon, when the mothers receive advice concerning their care and feeding. Drs. Harris and Ferguson were the physicians in attendance, with Miss Anderson, public health nurse for the county, and two nurses, Mrs. Schaffner, and Mrs. Merkel, assisting Mrs. Sturgeon, V. O. nurse. THE MASSED BAND CONCERT

Who can doubt that a good band is a strong drawing card? Big audiences attended every open-air concert this summer, but last week's concert by the massed bands of Digby and Annapolis broke all records for attendance—probably the largest crowd (estimated at 2500) that ever attended a musical performance in Digby. Approximately 140 cars filled with people were parked as near the band stand as they could get. Hundreds of people listened from their own verandas some of them beyond the town limits, but never before was the crying need for an elevated band stand so forcibly demonstrated. Experts tell us that half the volume of all the delicate shades were smothered by the shut-in position of the band. Nevertheless it was a splendid concert, and the young Digby players proved their skill by following the baton of the guest conductor, Charles Wilson, with precision and in perfect harmony with the older Annapolis bandmen, playing some of their manuscript music at sight, and without any rehearsal together.

The massed bands repeated the concert Annapolis Royal on Friday night, playing on the Garrison grounds under the direction of the Digby bandmaster, Paul Yates. Again this fine aggregation called out one of the largest crowds seen in Annapolis for some time.

Warm praises are being showered on the Digby Band and their director whose initiative and persistent effort finally made this great event possible. It is hoped that the fine spirit of co-operation, and the friendship formed between members of the two organizations will result in a frequent repetition of massed band concerts.

Was Committed for Trial

Herbert Richard Christmas, 24, named by a coroner's jury at Weymouth two weeks ago today as driver of the car which struck and killed Benny Theriault, Ashmore blacksmith, on the night of August 22, was given a preliminary hearing before Stipendiary Magistrate J. A. Taylor, at the court house here, on Friday of last week. E. J. Theriault, of Digby, conducted the prosecution, while R. W. E. Landry and Peter Judge of Yarmouth, were solicitors for the defendant. Christmas was committed to stand trial.

Several witnesses were heard during the day. E. R. Gaudet, of Weymouth, was the first to take the stand. He told of driving from Digby with Senator Robichaud, and finding the body of the unfortunate man lying in the middle of the road. Mr. Landry objected to his description of the tracks of another car which ran into the ditch near where the body lay, the driver, a diagram drawn during the hearing by Mr. Gaudet, was placed among the exhibits.

Dr. Pothier, of Weymouth, was the second witness sworn. He told of his call to Ashmore, and described what he believed caused the death of Mr. Theriault. Death, in his opinion, came as the result of a fracture at the base of the skull, caused by the impact of striking his head against the hard road.

Carl and Scott Kinney were called before the hearing adjourned for lunch. They told of their walk from Weymouth North to their home in Ashmore, and how a little on the Digby side of the Brooks Road, they met a Model T Ford truck, driving on three tires, the tire of the left forward wheel missing. They also told of finding an automobile tire tube in the road in front of the residence of Fred Manzer, and of seeing Senator Robichaud's car stop within a few feet of the body of Mr. Theriault about the time they picked up the tire.

Witnesses called during the afternoon were: Trafford Wright, an employee of H. T. Warne, who resides at Weymouth Falls. He had hired Christmas to drive him home that evening. Christmas was driving a Model T Ford half-ton truck. Sanford Barton, of Acadiaville, accompanied them. In the evidence he gave he testified to purchasing two bottles of beer at a house on the way down; he did not know whose place it was. One bottle was drunk between the three occupants of the car at the house, and the other on the road before they went into the ditch. He told of seeing a man on the road, and could not see how they could avoid hitting him. At that time they went into a ditch and pulled out after stalling. The tire blew out within a few feet after they got out of the ditch. He picked up the tire and they went right along. They had a "spare" but rode along on the rim. They did not go back to see if they had hit anyone, but both he and Barton told Christmas they must have struck a man. Christmas didn't think so. Christmas was driving. They took the shorter back road to Yermouth Falls. Christmas and Barton went to a dance, while he went to his home.

Sanford Barton's testimony was much the same as that given by his companion, except he claimed he saw the where the beer was purchased as the home of Dave Sibley, Marshfield. He said he told Christmas he had struck a man, but Christmas didn't think so, and wouldn't go back to look. He admitted he had been drinking before they started on the trip, and before they stopped at Marshfield, but Christmas nor Wright were not drinking with him at that time.

Christmas did not give evidence at this hearing, but pleaded "not guilty."

Bitten by Dog

Miss Alice O'Neill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford O'Neill, was badly bitten by a dog owned by Horton Stark, on Wednesday evening. The dog was later shot.

Miss O'Neill, who was seated on a sofa in the Stark home, had been stroking the dog shortly before the incident occurred. The animal later turned on her, inflicting a number of bites and punctures on her legs and arms. Two of the bites had to be stitched. There were fifteen in all. Mrs. Melanson, housekeeper for Mr. Stark, was also bitten about the arms when she attempted to beat the animal off. The dog, a large black one, of the collie type, is well known about town and was not thought to be vicious.

THE GOVERNMENT GOT IT BACK

Says the Antipisonist Casket:—Payday for the highway workers in this vicinity came last Friday, when work was held up by heavy rain. A few of the boys who had worked for two weeks in great heat and heavy dust were at a loss as to what they should do with their money. So, bank interest not being worth bothering about these days, they took the fruit of their toil up to the west end store and gave it back to the government. As a result within the next 24 hours or so, half a dozen were convicted and fined for violating regulations of the N. S. Liquor Act.

THE RETURN OF THE COUNTY FAIR

The advent of early September days marks the return of the county fair, a North American institution which finds no counterpart elsewhere in the world, and one that has defied all local attempts to modernize it in the name of greater showmanship.

There is no more typically North American institution than the county fair. It is not a show, and in many instances scarcely warrants the name "exhibit". In reality, it is the annual gathering of family clans at some central point, a long-looked-for day when friends and neighbors from a far-flung community gather to greet each other, to chat, to look over each other's produce, and to find some form of mild amusement. The county fair is essentially an institution for small town and rural people. It finds no counterpart in the larger cities, and it has very little appeal there. Nevertheless, it remains one of the red-letter days in the lives of many millions of our people.

More power to the county fairs and more happiness and contentment to the families whose attendance make of these gatherings a pleasant, beneficial custom.

"A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." And there's no tax on a good name, either.

A NEW THREAT TO CIVILIZATION

It is unfortunate that the world at large, and Canada in particular, cannot take a good look into the future and see what the coming war between Italy and Ethiopia actually portends.

That moment the armies of Mussolini begin their tramp over the desert sands into the mountain fastnesses of the African kingdom of Haile Selassie will mark the complete collapse of the League of Nations, one of the very few real peace efforts of the world since those dark and bloody days of 1919.

With the passing of the league will also go into the discard the Kellogg peace pact, as well as every other hard-won effort to insure treaty sanctity and reasonable national security for the smaller powers of the world. As the banner of war is raised above the soiled, bedraggled emblems of peace, the world will be served notice that the unholy powers of might, conquest, and lust are again in the ascendancy. Thereafter it will be the business of nations to arm themselves for new conflicts, of mothers and fathers to raise more cannon-fodder for grasping statesmen grown great with power.

Has the world learned nothing from the terrible holocaust of 1914-19? Does it not realize that from a spark much smaller than the present Italo-Ethiopian dispute sprang a conflagration that sent 30,000,000 souls into eternity, and brought continuing suffering and hardship to those who escaped death? The world powers should think deeply on these things before they permit the forces of destruction to be unloosed. Civilization itself is at stake.

EARSIGHT

All of us are familiar with the word "eyesight," the ability to see. Not many of us have heard the word "earsight," the ability to hear. We should hear as well as see, yet we don't.

When we see an object we get a brain picture perfect in minutest detail. When we hear a word, a statement, a song, the most of us miss the subtle meaning of the word, the exact import of the statement, the harmonies, the overtones of the music. The brain does not get an impression through the ear as perfectly as through the eye. Yet, in our day, earsight is as important as eyesight, and without good earsight we are missing much that would add to our intelligence, progress, and happiness, for words to us have only their common meaning, statements are understood within the limits of our comprehension, and music appeals only when there is responsive chord. Some years ago Elihu Root said that people must become ear-minded before music could be fully enjoyed. That's true. Develop your earsight.

OLD ALBERTUS HAD A FARM

(From The Maritime Merchant, Aug. 29, 1935)

William Albertus had a large family and a large farm; and like the heads of most families, was sometimes faced with financial problems of a more or less pressing nature. For some years, in fact, William had to borrow from time to time in order to keep farm and family going, and as a conscientious and affectionate parent, he worried to think that his hard-working sons and daughters were not enjoying the good things of life in greater measure. But what could he do? Both the size and the value of his crops depended each year on factors outside his control. The well-meaning William pondered over this matter for some time, to see what could be done for his sons and daughters, and then he had an idea. "This farm is worth much more today than when we came to it," he thought to himself, "and much of its increased value is due to the labours of my family. I cannot sell the farm and realize this wealth in cash, but why should I not give my children a share of this wealth in credit?" So he gathered all his sons and daughters together and told them that each could now spend twenty-five dollars more per month in the local stores than in the past. Most of his children rejoiced and praised his generosity, but one of the sons seemed puzzled and asked, "Father, you could not support us before without incurring a debt that we children must one day inherit. How, then, can you contrive to pay us more without placing an even greater debt upon our shoulders?"

ONCE AGAIN the time for the annual Bear River Agricultural Exhibition has rolled around and it will take place next Thursday and Friday.

It is sixty-two years since the first exhibition was put on and although it was dropped for some years it took a new lease of life and is now looked forward to from year to year. As County exhibitions go it is a good one. The farmers of Bear River and Vicinity, who are among the best in the Province take pride in their "show" and their exhibits are of splendid quality. Live stock which fell off a little following the advent of the motor car, has been coming back from year to year and is a great centre of interest for many. The whole countryside during the past ten years has devoted more space and attention to flowers and shrubs and this is reflected in the show. But be sure and see for yourself what the show is like, next Thursday and Friday.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

LET THE SUN WORK FOR YOU

Watch for unusual lighting when taking snapshots of outdoor scenes.

MANY of you who want to take your photographs seriously and get some really attractive artistic pictures would probably like to have some further information on proper lighting in taking snapshots.

The lighting of the subject has so much to do with securing that quality often referred to as "atmosphere" in a picture. There are a number of ways in which a photograph may be given apparent depth, or third dimension. Taking pictures when there are long shadows, getting a reflection in the foreground, using strong side-lighting or back-lighting, and timing the exposure just right so that the detail of objects in shadow is not blocked out, are precautions that contribute much to the desired effect.

Suppose we consider each of these separately. Shadows, thrown in long drawn-out patches across walls and walks, make one feel, more than anything else, that he is looking into a picture instead of looking on a flat piece of paper carrying images of recorded objects. The foreground should be well broken up with shadows so that there is not too much contrast between it and the rest of the picture.

When a body of water can be included as part of the foreground, then there are really wonderful opportunities for adding depth. The reflection will carry one's attention back and away from the foreground and into the picture—and lead to

Don't just open your camera and shoot when taking pictures. Give your subject some thought and in doing so you will be rewarded with pictures you will be proud of and they will whet your appetite for many more snapshots expeditions. Viewpoint means much and is an important factor in picture taking. If, too, has much to do with the perspective we get in pictures. If the perspective is not pleasing to the eye, it will not be pleasing in the picture, so, as I have said before, study all the possibilities and angles of your proposed picture before you snap it.

TRAVEL PUBLICITY IN U. S. PAPERS
URGES AMERICANS TO VISIT NOVA SCOTIA'S EVANGELINE LAND

LEADING American newspapers for a number of months past have been carrying large-sized advertisements of the Eastern Steamship Lines urging the people of the United States to see Nova Scotia's splendid vacation scenes. As one advertisement puts it—

"You may roam the whole world over but you'll find no spot with quite the varied charm of this quaint old sea-bord province. There is a homespun quality about the French and Scottish fishing hamlets flung along its coast like a mackerel net, in its clean pastoral lowlands and the orchard valleys with the peace of simple centuries still upon them, you'll find refreshment both of mind and body. Even today such brave towns as Lunenburg, Yarmouth, and Annapolis Royal have something heroic about them, while the Evangeline line sleeps as of old in the lap of poetic legend."

Another piece of copy explains—

"No vacation is quite so refreshing as weeks spent among the strange and lovely scenes of Nova Scotia. They are seascapes, too, with the tang of the sea, the cool smell of pine forests, the sweetness of hay meadows, orchards, and wild roses that scampers all over the province. Each day is different—there's so much to see in Nova Scotia every moment is precious."

Still another of this outstanding series, with an illustration based on the block house at Fort Edward at Windsor—

"For a vacation different from any you've ever spent, tour the towns of Nova Scotia. Yarmouth is wholly of the sea, a town with a tang about it and a water-front centuries old. . . . Grand Pré, home of Evangeline and Annapolis Royal, storm-racked cradle of Acadia's history—each of these, and many others, has an air of its own to intrigue you."

In addition to the series of advertisements building up Nova Scotia as a vacation land, frequent pieces of copy featuring weekend cruises from both New York and Boston have driven home to Americans the manifold vacation and sports attractions, fine hotels and Nova Scotian hospitality.

Concerning this remarkably fine work of the Eastern Steamship Lines for Nova Scotia, our contemporary the "Halifax Herald" says editorially—

"We speak a great deal about travel literature—but here is real literature. And illustrated by an artist who has caught the atmosphere of Nova Scotian shores."

"Literature of this kind is bound to have a wide and compelling appeal."

We endorse the "Herald's" sentiments in this regard.

It is our understanding that the Eastern Company has been conducting this special pictorial campaign since early in the spring using the leading papers in Boston, Worcester and Springfield, Mass., Hartford, Conn., Providence, R. I., Philadelphia, Pa., Baltimore, Md., Washington, D. C., Newark, N. J., New York City and Brooklyn, N. Y. The circulation of these papers totals millions.

No portion of Nova Scotia has gone unused in this splendid, effectively illustrated advertising campaign of the Eastern Steamship Lines. Special copy has appeared in connection with unusual Nova Scotia events such as the Apple Blossom Carnival at Kentville, the Ocean Rodeo at Halifax, the 150th Anniversary Celebration at Sydney, and the Guide's Association Sports Meet at Lake William. In both text and illustration this series has caught and conveyed to Americans the unmatched charm and scenic beauty of Nova Scotia."

N. S. EXHIBITION
PRIZES $13,500

Opens Halifax, Sept. 30th

The Provincial Exhibition of 1933 opens in Halifax on September 30 gives every promise of being more interesting than ever before and will be a brilliant affair filled with colorful entertainment, thrilling competitions, and splendid exhibits of all descriptions.

One thing that is urged is the making of this an outstanding Nova Scotia event through an increase of friendly rivalry among Nova Scotians. In previous years there has been noticed a large number of entries from points outside the province. Because the Nova Scotia exhibition is the aim of the management of the Provincial Exhibition to secure as many Nova Scotian entries as possible in all classes. Many of these are certain to win prizes and this will result in giving prominence to Nova Scotia products. Nova Scotia has citizens of marked ability in handicraft and general craftsmanship. In every district there are potential prize winners. The province is sending in their entries now. Be among those who will make the 1933 Provincial Exhibition the greatest ever held, by becoming an exhibitor. This year's prizes total $13,500.

Because the exhibition is later this year, there is much greater interest in the agricultural and stock exhibits. The county exhibitions will be practically all completed by that time and many county champions will be sent in by stock owners to vie for provincial honors. Farm produce entries not available at an earlier date will be full grown, and will be in splendid display at the exhibition.

The horse show, which has always proved a real attraction, promises to be bigger and better than ever. The horse races also are certain to provide real thrills. Primed up by races earlier in the season the horses will be at their best and the cream of Maritime speedsters will be at the starting line to fight for purses in all classes.

Much attention has also been given to entertainment and on the program there are to be daredevil acts such as never before witnessed in this province. The vaudeville program will be made up of the best acts obtainable. Talented dancers, acrobats, acrobats, a trapeze artists, together with clowns and other featured performers will aid in making this the greatest exhibition ever conducted in Nova Scotia.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

School's Ahead. Snapshot
When You Go.

In later years, when you are an alumnus, you will get your greatest enjoyment as you look back over the pictures you snapped at school.

With the opening of schools a new season arrives for snapshotting and what a paradise for the boy or girl who owns a camera.

Whether you go to a little country school with one room, or a great university your opportunity for snapshotting is unlimited, providing you use your eyes and the proper amount of good judgment. Just as a newspaper reporter develops a "nose for news," just so you should develop an "eye for snapshots."

There are, of course, the obvious shots of the school building or buildings, as the case may be, and you will want them; but what about pictures of new classmates, teachers, old friends, baseball and football practice, the basketball team leaving for a game out of town and many other interesting story-telling pictures?

It doesn't make any difference what kind of a camera you have you can take pictures under certain conditions with a dollar box camera that, for record purposes, are about as good as those made with an expensive folding camera.

Did you ever think of taking action pictures with a box camera? It can be done. Suppose you are sitting in the grandstand watching an exciting football or baseball game. You anticipate an exciting play—full of action. If the light is good and you are two hundred or more feet from the scene of action you will get your picture. At that distance, of course, your images will be small but an enlargement of the point of interest in the snapshot will give you a picture you will be proud to show to your friends.

When taking action pictures with a box camera don't snap the picture while the subject is whizzing directly across your line of vision. Always shoot at an angle of approximately 45 degrees.

For those who are not familiar with diaphragm opening and shutter speeds let me explain that a box camera opened to its largest "stop," or lens opening, is comparable to approximately f/11 on a folding camera and the shutter works at approximately 1/25 of a second.

If you are fortunate enough to own a camera with a fast lens and shutter, that is a different story. Suppose, for instance, that your camera has an f/6.3 or f/4.5 lens with shutter speeds up to 1/300 of a second. You are a fortunate person for you can get much closer to the scene of action. Open the diaphragm to its largest aperture, set your shutter speed at 1/100, 1/200 or 1/300, depending on the speed of the action and fire away.

In school you study and experiment to gain knowledge of your subject. The same system applies to snapshotting. Study your camera and experiment and you will find it will pay you profitable dividends in interesting, story-telling pictures that you will enjoy looking at for years to come.

Marriages

Alridge—Oakes

The marriage of Miss Shirley Mae Oakes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alridge Oakes, of Melvern Square, Annapolis County, to Donald John Alridge, son of A. Alridge, of Weymouth, Digby County, and the late Mrs. Alridge, was solemnized on Saturday evening, Aug. 31, at 8:30 o'clock at the Baptist parsonage in Kingston, with Rev. J. J. Sides performing the ceremony. The bride was becomingly attired in a dress of brown silk crepe and carried a bouquet of gladioli and fern. Following the ceremony a small reception was held at the bride's home, where the evening was spent in games and music. The bride spent all her life in Melvern Square and was a favorite among her school friends and the best of wishes go to the young couple for many years of wedded life. The groom is employed with Earl E. Palmer in Melvern Square, Mass. and aunt of the bride, attended the wedding.

WHEN YOU RECEIVE A BILL

To receive a bill is an honor. Instead of getting all riled up when the mail brings you a statement of account, you should be genuinely pleased. For the bill is an indication that someone has faith in your honesty.

If you never received a bill (unless you always pay cash) it might indicate that no one is willing to grant you credit.

Credit is one of the most valuable things a person can have. Money may be had by various means, but credit comes only from years of honesty and prompt meeting of bills when due. When you pay a bill, you are merely being honest.

When you receive a bill, then, meet it if you possibly can. If you cannot, frankly tell your creditor the reason immediately. You will find him more ready to meet you halfway.

Cherish your credit as you do your health, happiness and other priceless boons rare and elusive.

ERRORIANA

You who see typographical errors, study for a moment this little opus on typographical erroriana:

"The typographical error is a slippery thing and silly.

You can hunt all you are dizzy, but it somehow will get by.

Till the forms are off the presses, it is strange how still it keeps;

It shrinks down into a corner and it never stirs or peeps.

That typographical error, too small for human eyes,

Till the ink is on the paper, when it grows to mountain size,

The boss, he stares with horror, then he grabs his hair and groans;

The copy reader drops his head up on his hands and moans.

The remainder of the issue may be clean as clean can be,

But the typographical error is the only thing you see."

Finance Minister, Rhodes, announced yesterday the government had raised a loan of $20,000,000 in New York for five months bearing the lowest rate ever obtained on Dominion administration borrowings.

The loan, running from Sept. 1, to Feb. 1, 1936, bears interest of three quarters of one per cent. It was obtained from a group of Canadian and United States banks and will be used to retire Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada seven per cent debentures due Oct. 1, which are payable in New York.

Horse Victim of Hit-and-Run Driver Saturday

A faithful mare, owned by Dr. F. E. Rice, of Sandy Cove, was, on Saturday night, a victim of a hit and run driver. The animal was mercifully shot, after it was found lying in a pool of blood in the highway in front of the school house at Lake Midway. Both hind legs were broken.

The animal, which had been in pasture for the summer months, had evidently broken loose from its pasture, and wandered on the highway. It was discovered by a number of American tourists, who notified the police.

Marks in the highway indicate the car which struck the mare was bound in the direction of Digby. To the south of the animal, the car had to back up for a distance. Indications are that the horse lay in the roadway suffering agonies for some time before it was discovered.

The Jessie May, Capt. S. G. Tidd, arrived at the Maritime from White Head, Grand Manan, with a cargo of fish; also the Phyllis C. Capt. Crocker, from Freeport.

An increase of $1,000 in revenue this year, to date, over the amount collected last year has been made by the Digby Customs House, Customs Inspectors, E. L. Eason and R. L. McLeichy, made their annual inspection of the Customs, here, this week.

The Pines Hotel closed for the season on Wednesday. Although, the season at the Pines is said to have been a good one, a little slow at the start, and more than brisk during the latter part of July and the month of August. This year there have been four conventions at the hotel, namely, The Maritime Wholesale Hardware Dealers' Association, the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Co.; The Imperial Life Insurance Co.; and the Travellers' Life Insurance Co. The Nova Scotia Ladies Golf Association also held their annual tournament on the Pines Course this year.

Walter Ingram Addresses Kiwanis

Walter Ingram, of Chicago, District Organizer of Kiwanis International, gave a most inspirational address to the Digby Kiwanis at their luncheon on Monday. Walter was the organizer of the Digby Club, and this was his first visit to the club since it was organized in 1931.

Monday's luncheon was held on board the Princess Helene, with the President, Rev. A. E. Gabriel, in the chair. There were also a number of guests present. The attendance of club members was the best for some time.

The speaker in his address, stressed the value of service clubs to the community and emphasized the great amount of good that can be accomplished by wide awake clubs.

In reference to the Kiwanis Clubs in general he stated that Kiwanis is now regaining the ground that it lost during the strenuous years of the depression. More than 30 new clubs have been organized this year and there has been an increase in membership. Kiwanis Clubs last year were the sponsors of over 32,000 community movements.

In closing his address he cited "that man is worth the happiness he is able to put into the world for others", and stressed that an ideal for Kiwanis would be to spread happiness.

Mrs. Marilla Walker, of Digby, was a recent visitor in Bear River. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. (Capt.) H. Moore.

Joggin Bridge Girl is Missing

Considerable alarm is felt in the Joggin Bridge and Smith's Cove district, over the disappearance of Miss Marie Parker, age 23 years. Mounted Police are conducting a search for the missing girl.

On Saturday morning last, about 8.30 o'clock, Miss Parker traded some farm produce at the store of O. F. Goodman, Joggin Bridge, for a quantity of merchandise, stating she would return later and take the merchandise home with her. She never returned. The missing girl, and her brother have, since small children, made their home with Mrs. Ethel Barryman, of Joggin Bridge, who, about two years ago came to that village from Saint John.

In the opinion of several persons in Smith's Cove and Joggin Bridge, the girl is bound for Halifax. She was reported seen crossing the Victoria Bridge about 9.45 Saturday morning and has also been reported seen at Deep Brook, Clementsport and Centrelia.

When last seen she is said to have been wearing a pair of sport shoes a green, and yellow flowered wash silk dress, worn stockings and socks, which she usually wore open in front. She is described as being about 1 foot 5 inches in height, weighing about 130 pounds, fairly stout, brunette with straight black hair, small feet, complexion clear, and other features normal. She was, as far as known, without funds, and without any means of support.

SUCCESSFUL OPENING, BEAR RIVER EXHIBITION

Beautiful exhibition weather marked the opening of the Bear River Exhibition yesterday, and it was ideal for getting the live beauty in place and for the out of door entertainments. As usual, is a good exhibition. It is not a large exhibition at any time, being perhaps more local than any of the provincial exhibitions. It is very interesting in all departments, and the Boys and Girls Garden and Calf Clubs help out tremendously. In the building mats and rugs show a little falling off, but the fancy work and domestic manufactures are a decided improvement. There is a beautiful display of household cookery and of fancy needle work, knitting and crochet work, as well as a lot of other stuff that a mere man reporter knows very little about. Fruit and flowers are better than last year's and are particularly attractive. Garden and field crops look wonderfully well. The live stock department shows a decided improvement all through. The erection of a large shed about two years ago, has helped. Horses seem to be coming back and one would about judge they were back in the nineties, to see so many. There are more swine than usual and the poultry exhibits have also increased. Sheep, however, have fallen off—there were very few. The attendance is good and altogether it looks as though the fair will be a financial success.

The show is being continued to-day and tonight and Digby people should make an effort to attend.

AT THE THEATRE

Last week we were so busy getting out an eight page paper, that there wasn't time to tell you about the new pictures at the Bijou Theatre. They were good though, weren't they—Anna Sten and Fredric March certainly did well together in "We Live Again". But now for this week's layout—Monday and Tuesday we have Wallace Berry and Robert Young in "West Point of the Air", and for our airplane fans, it's just too grand to describe. Stunt flying, heroism, drama, and laughter. Wallace Berry is portrayed as a real father, and yet, well, see just what does happen. On Wednesday and Thursday you'll see Miriam Hopkins in "The Richest Girl in the World", and she is the richest girl in the world. Joel McCrea is the man of course they are a grand pair, don't miss it. Saturday night—we think almost heads the list, with "McFadden's Flats", those delightful Irish in actual home life, you'll laugh, and then laugh some more, although there are parts where you could cheerfully spank Betty Furness, and then probably you might even shed a tear. It is variety in all sense of the word. But then we have forgotten Tom Tyler in "Error of the Plains", on the same night, that sounds exciting enough for many of those who are bored with the quietness of the country and homes.

MOTOR CAR HITS TREE

On Sunday evening, at "Mile Corner" near the town of Annapolis Royal, Louis Munn, an employee of the Pines Hotel, driving a Ford roadster, owned by Allan Stark, of Mt. Pleasant, failed to make the turn, plunging across the sidewalk, and striking a tree on the Delacey Harris property. The front part of the car, which was later towed to Digby, was literally smashed to pieces.

Accompanying Mr. Munn were two waitresses, Miss Bennett and Miss MacDonald, both from the Pines Hotel. Mr. MacKay, where their injuries were treated by Dr. L. B. Braine and Miss G. Anderson. The driver was not seriously injured, but the two girls were badly cut about the face. A gash in the forehead of one required eleven stitches.

The I. B. Nelson estate, at Smith's Cove, brought the highest price, this property was knocked down to Ralph Cossitt, for $750. The lowest acceptable bid was for the Ambrose Cossitt property at Smith's Cove, which was sold to Frank Jones, K. C., of Digby, for $31.00. Mr. Jones was also the successful bidder on the store premises of Sara A. and Eudora Coggin, Main Street, Westport, which was knocked down for $50.00. Kenneth Beckwith, of Digby, bid in the Church Street (Westport) Coggin's residential property for $40.00.

The sale of the Walter Collins estate, at Westport, was withdrawn until October 11, the highest bid was not enough to cover the tax arrears on this property.

The most lively bidding of the morning was for the estate of Burton Stark, Culloden, which went for $400. The successful bidder was Wm. Murphy, of Culloden.

THE HOME TOWN

A Philadelphia newspaper this summer ran a series of articles on a "depression vacation". It told readers with small incomes, unable to take long trips, how to make the most of a vacation spent at home. Museums and places of interest were described and their principal attractions emphasized. Inexpensive one-day jaunts to near-by resorts were outlined, too.

It was a good idea, but need not be confined to vacation time. Many citizens in many communities do not know their own towns well. They keep to a certain route between home and business, including a limited range of entertainment and visiting. The rest of the vicinity, outside this range of interest, is as strange to them as a city they've never visited.

Pointing the way to unfamiliar but interesting and pleasant places would be rendering double service, adding to public information and pleasure and creating a finer civic spirit.

HUNCHES

The other day a New York detective, acting on a hunch, arrested a man and found in his pocket a $100,000 pearl necklace for which police had hunted for years.

That was one time a hunch panned out. They do not always do so, however. Police tell us hunches are good about one time in a thousand.

And that is the experience of every man and woman. Hunches produce success in the lifetime of a very few people. Hard work is the means to that end in most cases.

People who depend on hunches instead of hard work generally die poor, wondering why they too did not have a chance to make a $100,000 strike.

GOLD PROSPERITY

South Africa, whose main industry is gold production, is prosperous again. Its recovery from enough, with general abandonment of the gold standard.

That automatically raised the price of gold, measured in currency, and made it profitable to work abandoned mines and low-grade ores not touched before. Devaluation has a similar effect.

The resulting increase in gold production, in turn, promotes recovery everywhere. It does this by producing a mild expansion of money and credit, which is the safest kind of inflation.

MAKE UP YOUR MIND

Nobody can make up your mind for you. You may be driven or persuaded into doing, but the action comes in response to your will. And the way it comes determines your success or failure in life.

Your will is simply character in action. It is character in action which wins the battle. That is, character under control of intelligence on the part of those who have learned to think things through.

Seven admonitions are given us by the psychologists on this subject. We set them down here, not in the terminology of the professors, but in their practical applications:

When you make up your mind, do it quickly.

Act promptly on your decisions.

Keep your goals always in view.

Think your way through to worthwhile objectives.

Do the hard thing, the thing you fear most to do.

Cultivate strong desires. Finish what you undertake. A poor finish makes the next start that much harder.

Saturday night at Angelus Temple Church of the Foursquare Gospel and the Citadel of Almee Temple McPherson, Saturday night is healing night at the temple when the sick and the lame and the deaf and the blind, gather there to be anointed and have "Sister" Almee lay hands upon them in expectation that they will be made whole again.

I had not seen Sister Almee in action for a long time, but on the first Saturday night of this August, a couple of friends who having heard her talk over the Temple radio station many times, expressed a desire to see her in the flesh, so I took them to the show. I was somewhat curious to see the great female evangelist once more myself. I was surprised to find that she had grown better looking and was more charming than ever. My first visit to Angelus Temple was back in the summer of 1919, and at that time "Sister" was a husky, healthy and attractive looking woman with a fine rosy complexion, a wealth of reddish tinge stout in figure—and did she brown hair and inclined to be a little heavy. I should say so, and there was a ring of sincerity in her voice that indicated an earnestness of purpose—the saving of souls—which brought people from all walks of life into her church, including many business people and not a few of the legal fraternity with one or two well known judges, one of which became Sister's legal adviser and counselor during the annoying days of the famous kidnapping investigation, which developed into a scandal that furnished much copy for the daily newspapers of Los Angeles and other Pacific Coast cities, a scandal that rocked "Sister's" temple to its very foundations. The judge woke one morning to find himself quite famous but later lost his position on the bench, and is now just another practicing attorney, but not on the staff of the Temple legal department nor can his name be found on the Temple membership rolls.

One bright morning in the summer of 1924 Sister McPherson drove out to the seashore at Santa Monica to take a dip in the ocean, and in the quiet of the forenoon to do some work on her Sunday sermon. While engaged in preparing her notes she sent her secretary to one of the refreshment stands for a glass of orange juice and when that young lady returned Sister Almee was nowhere in sight. After waiting a reasonable time for Sister's reappearance the secretary became alarmed and notified the beach life guards that Mrs. McPherson was missing and she feared that she had gone back into the surf and might have been carried out to sea by the heavy undertow that frequently jeopardizes the safety of bathers and swimmers at Santa Monica beach.

The guards immediately started searching the shore and the deep waters of the bay but not a sign of Almee or her bright green bathing suit could be found. Surely Sister must have been drowned, and divers were engaged to search the bottom of the bay for her body. The temple congregation led by the evangelist's mother, better known as Mother Kennedy, went to the beach en masse to pray for Sister Almee's recovery from the sea, and while the prayers were loud and fervent Almee appeared not unto them. Then, about ten days later Sister walked into a Mexican farmer's ranchhouse on the outskirts of the border town of Bisbee Arizona. She was somewhat sunburned and weary but otherwise very much alive. She told a strange story about having been called from her chair on the beach to pray for a sick child in a near by automobile, and was forced into the car, was gagged and bound, and driven for miles and miles, and was finally taken from the car and placed in a deserted cabin in the desert country somewhere below the Mexican border. Rosie and Steve she said were the names of her abductors, and they left her bound hand and foot in the cabin while they drove away to purchase food supplies, having first very thoughtfully provided proper wearing apparel to take the place of the green bathing suit. But the Lord was with Almee, so she said. Noticing an empty oil can with a ragged edge in the corner of her prison shack, she rolled over and over, sort of a holy rolling stunt, some people called it, and then very cleverly sawed apart the hempen cords which bound her hands, and never as much as scratched her lovely wrists. She then escaped from the cabin and walked fifteen miles or more across the hot and thorny sands of the Mexican desert without damage to her foot wear and ankles, and only a trifle thirsty on arrival at the Mexican Ranch house, a performance absolutely unheard of in that part of the country, where the men of the desert never start out on any kind of a trip without a canteen of water slung over their shoulder. Some people said the kidnapping was a hoax and that she had really been away on a little trip with her radio engineer, and that she ought to change her name from Almee Semple to Simple Amy. If she expected people to believe her story, (See Nancy Barr McVittie's book, "Sister Almee: A Jamming in a Chicken Coop" for further details.) Strange, but true, the kidnappers were never found, and neither was Sister Almee able to find or recognize anything that looked like her desert prison, although Arizona Rangers and members of the Mexican Rurales familiar with every foot of the country, drove her to every cabin or shack within thirty miles of the Arizona town where she reappeared. From that time on for the next two years, Almee had to make the fight of her life to keep her foursquare gospel organization from going to smash. The struggle was terrific. Mother Kennedy tried her best to take control, but a small ally, by her, slowly she kept on preaching, singing "Hallelujah Praise the Lord" until today she seems to be able to fill her temple with just as large a crowd as she did in the pre-kidnapping days.

I saw the evangelist two years ago during Christmas week, when she was putting on one of her pageant parades and parades, the more spectacular they are the better they suit her. At that time it seemed to me that she was slipping, physically, she was thin and haggard looking, and her hair had been bleached to a sickly yellow, her voice was harsh and no longer musical. But, on this Saturday night of August 1935, she was a beautiful blonde, with golden yellow hair charmingly coiffured, wonderful peaches and cream complexion, plump cheeks with not a sign of wrinkle or sag, and every gesture of the hands and movement of her body that of the finished actress. The beauty experts and teachers of charm and stage behaviour seem to have worked wonders with her that are even more miraculous than some of her much advertised healings, although they said to have been unable to cure her of one little habit of continuously rubbing her forehead across her nose. Is she not beautiful, remarked my friends, beautiful indeed said I, but, she does not look like the good old wholesome Almee that she used to be. But, of course, she could not go on the way forever the march of time makes many demands on those in public life, but they lady evangelists or just plain every day members of the Friday Morning Club.

The performance at Angelus Temple is always interesting, even if you are not moved by the spirit to go forward and join Almee's crusaders. The temple has two bands of music one composed entirely of women and the other is just an aggregation of males, both groups are attractive, uniformed, their music is not the best in the land but it serves the purpose. However, Almee says her bands are wonderful, and there is, of course, nothing like some of the old Salvation Army songs arranged and played in stirring march time to excite the audience in the proper frame of mind for acceptance of evangelist exhortation.

The temple choir, numbering eighty people, occupy raised seats on each side of the stage about where the boxes were located in the old time theatres. The band occupies the orchestra pit. Doors are open at 7 p. m. and begin promptly at 7:30. The band plays in position about 7:15 and furnishes fifteen minutes of its best selections. At exactly 7:20 the choir files in, followed a minute later by Sister Almee, dressed in her temple uniform, dark blue cape with white facing and white collar worn over a white dress, a crusaders breastplate emblazoned with a white cross completes the outfit. White shoes and stockings, of course, Almee's crowd does not belong to the barefoot cult. As she walks slowly down the long ramp from the first gallery the spot light is turned on her, and the band plays appropriate music for such an entrance. Almee walks to the center of the platform, kneels for a moment in prayer with her back to the audience, and then the service begins. There is much hymn singing and clapping of hands with Almee leading in both. Then comes the scripture reading, followed by a few announcements for the program of the coming week, then the evening offering, which Almee informs the congregation, must not be in pennies, the penny has its place in the business world but will not buy much for the Lord, Almee tells them. Then she relates a story about a gathering of animals and birds, where each of them had to bring something. The duck brought a bill, the goose brought an egg, the fox brought a fur, and there was one little animal who had only a scent, and for that reason he was not admitted, but here in Angelus Temple, whether you bring a ten dollar bill or nothing at all. "But of course we have to buy a new carpet for the temple and I am determined not to go in debt for it. I am thinking of putting a new old carpet into small squares and selling them as souvenirs of the temple. Knowing that thousands and thousands of people have travelled over this old carpet on their way to the newer and better life, I am sure that they will all want to buy one of these souvenirs. And don't forget, tomorrow Sunday is the day of the love offering to your pastor." Almee is reported to be a very rich woman, the love offerings in the past must have been fairly generous.

On Saturday evenings a large part of the lower floor of the temple is reserved for "first nighters" and candidates for healing. The "healing exercises" take place at the close of the regular service, and those who wish to be anointed and cured of their ills by Sister Almee's laying on of hands and fervent prayers are lined up and escorted to the center of the stage by several of the temple attendants, who stand by to catch the weaker ones as they "pass out" in a sort of a faint as the result of coming into close contact with Sister's magnetic personality. Those so affected are gently laid on the stage until they recover and walk off in a daze to tell of their wonderful healing. I noticed that all of these people passed out in exactly the same way and I wondered if the act had not been previously rehearsed. Candidates for healing are required to approach the healer with hands lifted high above their heads. I presume there is a reason for some of the males, who suddenly discover that they are not as sick as they thought they were or become so enthusiastic over their healing have attempted to hug the healer and plant a soul kiss upon her lovely lips, which to say the least, musses the "make up" to a greater or less extent, and Sister Almee having been thrice married and the victim of one kidnapping is a wary person and a keen student and observer of facial expression as well, and when the eye of the restored one takes on that dangerous gleam, it is time to step aside and allow her assistants to escort him, gently but firmly, to his seat among the healed. Some of the cured become quite excited over their healing and do some rather fantastic demonstrating. At one meeting that I attended several years ago, a rather old fashioned boy of the "Hill Billy" type electrified the congregation by shouting "Glory Hallelujah, I feel so good, I could climb a thorn tree with a wild cat under each arm and never get a scratch."

Regardless of what we may think of Almee's healings, her methods certainly contribute a lot to the spiritual comfort of a certain class of people and keeps their minds from drifting to thoughts that could easily prove detrimental to themselves and her friends on the air, that to admit that she is doing much good in this sin ridden world. She also contributes much to the bodily comfort of the poor. As you enter the temple you will notice a small life boat in the lobby piled high with packages containing groceries, canned goods, wearing apparel and other useful merchandise. These are donations to the temple commissary by temple visitors, for Almee never fails to notify her audience and her friends on the air, that whenever they come to the temple to not forget to bring along something for the poor, even if it be only a can of sardines or a package of cornmeal. "Maybe you have a pair of shoes that hurt your feet and cannot wear them, perhaps you have some article of clothing or kitchen utensils that you would like to give away, bring them in and put them in our commissary life boat. We can use everything." Some of the bakeries send her hundreds of loaves of unsold bread, fruit and vegetable markets send in the day's left overs, and grocery stores and meat markets contribute much plain and wholesome food. Every Saturday night she gives an accounting of the week's distribution. On this particular evening it was: 10,000 loaves of bread, 1200 pounds of potatoes, 300 cans of milk, 883 pieces of clothing, and a lot of other supplies too numerous to remember. "Today we ran short of bread for Sunday, so one of our bakery friends has sent us a thousand cakes. Now if Queen Marie Antoinette could have seen this" said Sister, and then she had a company of temple workers file in, each carrying a large box of cakes, pound cake, fruit cake, angel food, devil food, Lady Baltimore and cakes of every kind and description, fully a thousand individual cakes in all.

There is no red tape or formality connected with securing help from the Angelus Temple Commissary, as is the case with county and city welfare offices. When the Los Angeles police department find worthy cases that are in need of immediate help, they notify Angelus Temple first and the City Welfare Department second. Ten minutes after receiving the call a temple commissary car is on its way with a supply of food and such other necessities that the commissary is able to supply. That much I know to be true, having received my information from one of the commissary clerks, whom I have known for years. Good work I call it. Maybe the healings are on the level also, if we can believe the testimonies that come over the temple radio every Wednesday evening, and who are we any way, to be criticizing the methods of Sister Almee, we have never even tried them.

The first regular meeting of the Bear River Women's Institute, since this discontinuance for the months of July and August, was held in the Masonic Reading Room, on Monday afternoon, the President, Mrs. A. G. MacIntyre in the chair.

Mrs. W. Henshaw and correspondents had accumulated during the summer months, came before the meeting, including reports of all committees.

Mrs. Cunningham, convener of the Exhibition Committee, presented requests from the Digby County Agricultural Exhibition Committee, as to assistance in decorating Exhibition Building, and also completed plan for conducting an Institute Booth at the Exhibition on Thursday and Friday of this week.

of these things and at the same time, be in line for substantial prizes.

Similar in many respects to the now famous Major Bowes' amateur program, which is heard each Sunday night from New York, the Exhibition is to have its own amateur contest.

One of the major prizes will be a free trip to New York with free accommodation at one of the big hotels and an opportunity to appear on one of the major Bowes' amateur contest. Preliminary amateur contests will be held in theatres at a number of points throughout the Province, the winners taking part in the finals at Halifax during the Exhibition. Further details will be made known in a few days.

This contest is only one feature of the large program of entertainment to be found at the Exhibition and when the many exhibits and educational features are considered the 1935 Fair is certain to be the greatest ever staged in this province. Beautiful dancing girls in a New York night club revue; a daring motorcycle act in which the rider loops the loop while going at top speed inside a steel ball; together with other musical and acrobatic acts go to make up a vaudeville program that is certain to please everyone.

Arrangements for the horse show have been completed and a large number of fine animals will take part. By the time the Exhibition opens, the horse racing season will be just drawing to a close, and it is indicated that, fresh from competition in meets at Fredericton and Woodstock, some of the best horses in the Maritimes, as well as some fast stepers from Maine, will come to Halifax and compete.

An added attraction to horse owners is the fact that, in addition to the regular purse, the committee in charge is adding the money received in entrance fees.

In addition to these features there is to be a fine livestock show containing many county fair champions, and the cream of Nova Scotian crops will be on display in the agricultural exhibits.

This year there is something for everyone. There is entertainment par excellence, splendid exhibits of all descriptions, a fine midway, and a revised system of catering that will meet with great favor. All in all the Provincial Exhibition at Halifax from September 30 to October 5 is something that no Nova Scotian can afford to miss.

PAINT PRICES SHARPLY REDUCED

A sharp reduction in the price of first quality house paint to $3.75 per gallon is announced by the manufacturers of Canada's best known brands of paint, the reduction to take effect immediately.

In making the announcement, the companies concerned state that the reduction is not justified by any change in market conditions or manufacturing costs. They point out, however, that during the past few years many householders have been misled by "bargain" prices in using inferior paint with results that reacted unfavorably on the whole industry. Drastic action was felt to be necessary to check a situation that seriously threatened property values all over the country.

The new low price is designed to make it easier for property owners to use first quality paint only, with resulting benefit to property and to the community in general.

The companies announcing the reduction are Canada Paint, International Varnish, Martin-Senour and Sherwin-Williams.

On Thursday evening of last week a large number of the residents of the village met at the home of Miss Ruth Mills, giving her a pleasant surprise in the form of a shower consisting of china, linen and many useful gifts. The same afternoon about twenty girl friends met at the home of Mrs. J. A. Ruffee for afternoon tea, and the bride-to-be was presented with a very nice bouidol lamp.

Mrs. Walter Swinn is visiting her daughter, Mrs. George Letson and Mr. Letson, at Saint John.

Miss Grace Shaffer left on Monday for Halifax, where she will enter the Children's Hospital, for training.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Macumber and baby, of Windsor, visited at her old home here recently. James Reed, of Chicago, is spending his vacation with his mother, Mrs. Dick Reed. Mrs. Robert Reed, of Boston, Mass., is a guest at the same home. Mrs. Ronald Bond and two children, who have spent the summer months with Mrs. Bond's mother, Mrs. Dick Reed, well have gone to make their home in Truro. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. E. W. Forbes, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Mills, Saturday evening, Sept. 7th, of their only daughter, Ruth Lavinia, to Arthur Luke McKenzie, of New Castle, N. B.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Watch Your Perspective

WHAT would your girl friend or wife say if you made your appearance with her picture after the Sunday outing, showing her with enormous feet such as those in the picture to the left?

War would probably be declared when you made the familiar statement, "Well, dear, the camera never lies." But the truth is that the camera didn't lie for it caught just what the lens saw.

Evidently the amateur who took this picture held the camera quite low, and probably less than three feet from the two feet of the attractive young lady. Her head and shoulders were at the right distance from the camera to give good perspective but her feet were perhaps thirty-six inches nearer the lens.

Perspective in a picture is determined by the point of view from which the lens makes the picture, so after all the camera did not tell a lie.

A LITTLE "DOGS-OLGY"

"The Rolling Stone" is responsible for this bit! I am amazed that he should write that he doesn't recall my discussing "dogs-ology" when I would think that with me, it was a case of "love me, love my dog". There has never been a "plague of dogs" in M. G. T.'s life. We never had but two, first, my good old "Sporty," whom I never allowed to be called "Spot," and who has gone to his happy hunting ground years ago! And small "Patch," who makes everyone welcome that comes to our door and stands on the steps with his master and missis to bid them farewell when they depart. He is a perfect gentleman, and is so dogged smart that I sometimes think he is a scholar as well. He has many virtues and many faults, one of them being his great love for the lady of the household, but then, other members of his family have that same fault, so he cannot be blamed, and he knows very well that he is loved in return. I know there are many people who can't abide dogs—or any animal for that matter—and abuse them shamelessly. I would not trust a child of mine to the care of a man, or woman either, that would abuse a dumb animal. A dog is man's best friend. He will stand by you when others, called friends, leave you alone. He will starve with you and never complain. I would stake more on the friendship of my dog than I would on many human beings that I know. He is always ready to play with me, walk with me, or lie quietly at my feet when I want to be quiet. He chases the cat, chases the birds, tears up the rugs and hides my slippers. But, when he looks at me with his bright black eyes full of love, and wags his bit of a tail, well, well, I just pick him up and hug him and it will be a sad and sorry day when yours truly loses her little dog. Now, my dear Leslie, you know my opinion of dogs and knowing the sort of chap you are, I will let you pat "Patch" any time you come to see him, and us all.

I have just been plumb lazy for weeks. I wanted to ask you all to come and see us before the warm weather was over, and bring your bathing suits, so you could have a swim in our pond. It has been very warm and it was great to step across the yard and in the cool waters. I would arm myself with a cake of soap and a wash cloth and have a grand time. I can't swim a stroke, but gosh! how I can sit on the bottom and splash. We have a boat and can paddle about half a mile until we reach the falls; and it is so pretty my pen is not able to write about it. The elm and willow trees make an arch overhead and are reflected in the water. The banks are lined with wild flowers of all colors—I never saw so many different kinds. A neighbor gave us an immense Mallard duck and he sails across the pond like a full-rigged ship. I love to watch him dive for worms, or what have you, on the bottom where the mud is deep. He seems to stand on his head with his two yellow feet paddling the air behind him. He has no name but old quick, quick, I am thinking that some time when he is standing on his head like I will crack a bottle of water over his bow, or would it be his stern, and christen him "Big Chief."

Last week sister and Allison arrived, chugging and steaming in the cinder buggy. They informed me they were on a trip to wind up vacation days, and were stopping for me. So next morning, bright and early, we kissed the family, including the cat and dog, good bye, and departed for New York. We stayed three days and visited the Hollis, L.I. folks. Thursday we went shopping in the big city in the morning, and after lunch climbed to the top of a sight-seeing bus and toured Fifth Avenue and Riverside Drive. From six to seven that evening we listened to funeral services for Will Rogers; then I went to the theatre to see one of his late pictures, "Doubting Thomas." It was ghastly to see him walking around and hearing him talk when we knew he had just been buried. Great chap, wasn't he? famous as a person possibly could be, but just as simple and ordinary as you and me. Wealth and fuss meant nothing to him. He loved people and always wanted to be among them. The newspapers have had lots to say about him dying the way he would have wished, "with his boots on," but I can't help thinking that if he had one moment of realization at the last he would have wanted nothing to be among some of the folks whom he loved and who loved him. Everyone is sorry he is gone. We need his fun in the world today.

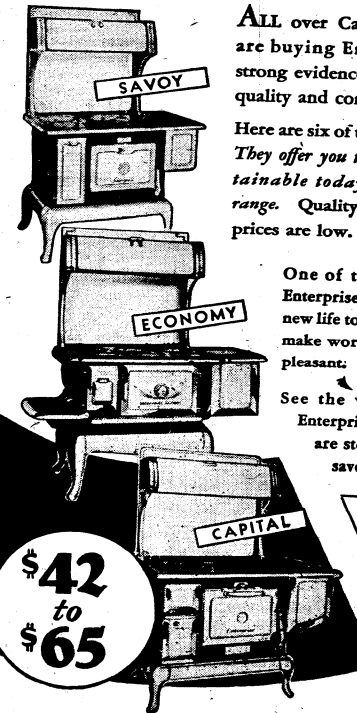

Life at the Potatuck Club goes serenely on from day to day. Our pheasant flock is increasing rapidly, and starting September 15th we are having two more weeks of trout fishing. Then it will not be long until the hunting season opens. I better be getting my first aid book and review some of the things I have forgotten since the boys have grown up. Among our pheasants is one show bird, a golden variety that is a magnificent specimen of feathered beauty. His head is like a cap of pure gold; a bright scarlet breast and the rest green, brown, black and blue. On the back of his neck is a bunch of feathers, about three inches long and when he struts around his cage, these feathers spread open like a peacock's tail. He is very grand and knows it. Everyone that sees him always says, "My, wouldn't I like to have him stuffed, wouldn't you?" and I say, "No, I wouldn't. I'd just as soon have my grandmother stuffed and sitting on a limb as a dead bird or beast." I don't like things like that.

Have just been on a trip to Eva Harvey Nichols' attic. We took her lunch basket along and had a little feast. I like her poetry very much. Good bye until some future day.

TRIBUTE TO RACQUET GARDEN

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir—Recently we experienced the high honor and deep pleasure of an afternoon tea at the Racquet Garden. The nomenclature, y' understand, is no so by derived from the "hunt the slipper" (which, today, has lost its meaning). In my early days slippers were lost beneath many yards of book muslin and brocade silk, extended by many fathoms of steel wire entanglements. How they ever managed to sit down, I dare never, and can't contrive. Probably they never dared to sit down in mixed company.

Just imagine! My brother when a wee puritan kid, thought that the women's feet were attached to the bottom of their dresses. No trouble whatever to tell what their feet are attached to, today; less also (almost) and moreover, also, if you fail to take notice of what's spread out before you get yourself disliked.

When paterfamilias mentioned to materfamilias that he just had a serious and instructive sex talk to the kids, ma naively enquired if he had learned anything.

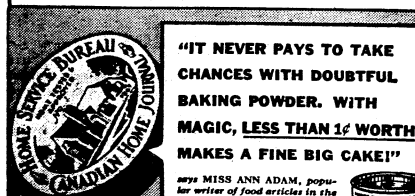

From two trays of flowers a lady and gentleman each selected one. The matched flowers, pairing off and intently searching the lawn for hidden denials, unbelievably obscure, until discovered, then as plain as a nose on an elephant; a white visiting card on the piazza cornice that may be plainly seen from all parts of the lawn, methinks escaped us all; a bright crocheted hook, run through an apple leaf, the most conspicuous on the tree, and in everybody's way, would also have escaped without a hint; a flat iron on top of the hot-house, apropos, but not so hot to find. Each couple given a list of the articles which they were to check as discovered.—A true digby.

Obituary

Mrs. Julia Kinney Jordan

The following appropriate tribute to the memory of Mrs. Julia Kinney Jordan, who passed away Friday evening, Aug. 23rd, has been written at the request of many friends by Mrs. Mabel Freese Dennett:—
In the passing of Mrs. Julia K. Jordan, widow of Robert A. Jordan, Bangor, has experienced a keen loss. She was one of the city's greatest leaders in religious life, inspirer of young and old in Biblical truths, teacher twenty-two years of the undenominational Neighborhood Bible Class, and teacher over sixteen years of the Ridesout Class of the Hammond Street Congregational Church. Mrs. Jordan possessed keen intellect, culture and varied talents, but was especially characterized for true hospitality in her own home, where all classes found a Christian welcome. No. 85 Maple Street has long been a landmark for visiting missionaries, pastors, Ch. A. tireless workers and those in trouble. Of special interest is the fact that several students have been taken into her home and helped to a higher education through her kindness and assistance. Her car, too, was always ready for the service of others. She was a charter member of the Young Women's Christian Association, member of the Athene Club and Woman's Christian Temperance Union and for several years carried on the work at the jail formerly sponsored by the Woman's Crusade. A tireless worker and speaker, she was in constant demand as an interpreter of the Sunday School lessons and more than once confounded modernistic preachers. For years greatly interested in the Christian and Missionary Alliance, she directed an annual convention in Bangor and attended the General Convention of the Alliance at Old Orchard. She was also a loyal friend of the Good Will Homes, Moody Bible Institute and the Bangor Gospel Mission, while her gifts to good workers and missions both at home and abroad were great and varied. In early life Julia Kinney (Jordan), born in Weymouth, N. S., July 9, 1870, began teaching at 14 years of age, near Digby, concluding with seventeen years in Truro, N. S. High School. Later, after advanced summer sessions and special studies at Gordon Bible College, Boston, she came to Bangor as church assistant in summer work; following which occurred her marriage to Secretary Robert Jordan, who she met while both were assisting at a Bangor jail service, and the union was ideal. Although a strong Baptist, Mrs. Jordan united with the All Souls Congregational Church after her marriage, and Dr. Moore's beautiful prayer at her recent funeral, bore testimony to the high esteem in which she was held by her church and friends. Her nearest relatives are: her nephew, Vernon E. Johnson, of Edmonton, Alberta; her stepson, Fred D. Jordan, Bangor; and several cousins in the United States and Canada. Of those from out of the city, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin B. Merritt, Boston, were in attendance at the funeral. While all are bereaved, they are not comfortless for the words: "A man of sorrows and acquainted with grief—touched with the feeling of our infirmities—when my spirit was overwhelmed with me, then thou knewest my path—the Angel of his presence saved them." And so comfort to come to the relatives and many friends—more than most great souls leave to mourn their loss—the comfort whereby we are comforted, who look for His appearing, who shall abolish death and its sting. "Who comforteth us in all our tribulations, that we may be able to comfort them which are in trouble, by the comfort wherewith we ourselves are comforted of God." Mrs. Jordan visited Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Johnson at Weymouth, Mr. and Mrs. Tupper Warne at Digby, and other friends at Smith's Cove and Yarmouth this summer, and passed away only two weeks after returning to her home in Bangor. H. T. Warne, of Digby, is one of the cousins.

Mrs. Mary Harris Walsh

There passed away on Friday morning of last week, at her home in Bear River, Mrs. Mary Harris Walsh, wife of Asa Walsh, after a long illness. She was 71 years of age. Mrs. Walsh was born at Bear River, where she has lived the greater part of her life, and where she had a host of friends who will mourn her passing. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mary, wife of Col. Ernest Harris, of Bear River; also one sister, Mrs. Josephine Chute, residing in the United States, as well as a number of nephews and nieces. The funeral was held from her late residence on Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. A. W. L. Smith, of the Anglican Church, of which Mrs. Walsh was a valued member.

Blanchard A. Outhouse

Tiverton mourns the passing of Blanchard A. Outhouse, age 49, who died on Tuesday evening, Sept. 10, 1935. The deceased was the youngest son of the late Allen and Catherine Outhouse, of Tiverton, was one of the best known and most highly respected residents of the community, and was a member of the Tiverton Baptist Church and Rainbow Lodge, I. O. O. F., Tiverton. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Ena, of Tiverton; one sister, Mrs. Frederick Cossaboom, Tiverton, and two brothers, L. H. Outhouse and Capt. Oscar Outhouse, of Beaver Harbor, N. S. He was a large circle of friends and relatives. Funeral services took place yesterday afternoon from the Christian Church at Tiverton.

Lewis John Simpson

Word was received at Bear River on Sunday of the death of Lewis John Simpson, age 35, which occurred at his home in Medford, Mass. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Simpson, of Bear River, and was home to visit his parents three weeks ago. On his return he was stricken with infantile paralysis. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Hazel Giles, of Bridgetown, N. S.; three small children, two boys and one girl; his parents; three sisters, Mrs. John Purdy; Mrs. Vernon Peck, and Miss Edith Simpson, all of Bear River; two brothers, Roy of New York, and Otis, of Somerville, Mass. The remains arrived at Bear River on Tuesday and the funeral took place from the United Baptist Church, conducted by Rev. F. S. Steeves, pastor of the church.

Children's Aid Society To Launch Drives

A house to house canvass for the benefit of the Children's Aid Society will commence on Monday. It was hoped in the spring that such a drive could be done away with, and that the folk of Digby Town and County would respond readily to the appeals published in the press. The response to these appeals, however, was disappointing.

The Children's Aid Society is doing a wonderful work for neglected children in this county. Since its inception it has taken over as wards more than 80 children, of this number 19 are in boarding homes, 6 in institutions; more than 40 of the remainder are in free homes, the rest are with their parents with the exception of one, who has reached his majority; 2 who are self supporting, and 3 who have died.

Through the work of the Children's Aid Society a considerable saving is made the Town of Digby and the Municipalities of Digby and Clare, for the maintenance cost of children, who are wards of the Children's Aid Society. Only 2.5 is charged against these civic governments, the remaining 2.5 being paid by the Provincial Government. However, it is up to the Society to pay its own operating expenses, such as the salaries and travelling expenses of its efficient agent, Augustus Robbins, and other incidental expenses. Money for this purpose comes from membership fees, voluntary subscriptions and grants from the Town and Municipality. In order to carry out its work effectively, the Children's Aid Society is badly in need of funds, and it is their hope that when the collectors call on you, you will be as generous as possible. All contributions will be gratefully received. Contributions of $1.00 or more entitle the donor to one year's membership to the Society. Surely, a Society which aims to protect, and make life more cheerful for little children, is well worthy of your support.

Picnic At Deep Brook

A very successful picnic for the Sunday School children of St. Patrick's Church, Digby, was held at Deep Brook, on Saturday afternoon last. About forty were present with their Sunday School teachers and Rev. Father Murphy. The day was delightfully fine. After games, scrambles and races, a bountiful supper was taken and a happy crowd left for their homes, raising three rousing cheers for Father Murphy. The winners of the races were:

Small Girls, 50-yard dash—Francis O'Shea.
Small Boys, 50-yard dash—Joe Purdy.
Girls, (medium), 75-yard dash—Priscilla Moulaison.
Boys, (medium), 75-yard dash—Johnny Moulaison.

Mixed, 75-yd. dash—Harold Surette.
Mixed, 50-yard dash—Joe Purdy.
Wheelbarrow—Joe Purdy, Edward Moriarty.
Ballroom Races—Small Girls, Norma Surette; Larger Girls, Roma VanTassel; Boys, Edward Moriarty; Mixed, Harold Surette.

Mrs. Ralph Cummings and daughter, Edna, who have been residents of Digby for the past number of years, are leaving to-morrow for Medford, Mass., where they expect to reside for some time.

Last evening the Anti-Can. Class of the Grace United Church, gave a party for three girls, namely, Edna Cummings, who leaves tomorrow for Medford, Mass., Margaret Hodgson and Margaret Hawkesworth, who are leaving soon to begin studies at Mount Allison Ladies College. The party was held at O. Wright's Camp at Porter's Lake, and was in form of a corn ball. Games were played but the main object was to see who could eat the most corn. About thirty were present. The party was a great success and the camp was an ideal setting for such an informal evening.

PRIZE WINNERS NAMED

Prize winners in the Essay Competition recently sponsored by the Annapolis-Digby Counties Fish and Game Protective Association, for Senior Grades, are: Jean Hutchinson, of Bridgetown, 1st; and Joan Hudson, of Middleton, 2nd. The subject written on was "Our Forests." Writing on the subject, "Why We Should Protect Our Wild Life," numerous entries were submitted by grades 7, 8, and 9, and prizes won by Edward A. Burns and Marie Crocco, of Bridgetown. Essays on both subjects were judged by Rev. A. W. L. Smith, of Clementsport, who commented on the high quality of several of the entries. The splendid cooperation of the teachers and pupils of Bridgetown and Middleton Schools was greatly appreciated by the committee, and it is hoped that next year a greater interest will be given by other schools. Prizes will be awarded at the Annual Meeting of the Association to be held in Annapolis Royal, in November.

John W. Piggott,

Workman is Killed by Slide

A tragedy which cost the life of a workman, aged 30, of Digby, occurred in the Franklin Gravel Pit at Conway, about 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Ossinger with six other men was at work in the pit loading trucks suddenly the bank collapsed, a heavy weight of stone and gravel piling the unfortunate man against the side of the truck, crushing the left side of his chest and puncturing one lung.

Dr. John R. MacCleave was summoned immediately and the man rushed to the Digby General Hospital, where he passed away about one hour later. The remains were removed to the morgue at Keen's Undertaking Parlor.

The funeral of Edward Ossinger was held yesterday afternoon with interment at Rosway. The service was conducted by Rev. F. W. Kirkus, D. D.

Band Concert Next Sunday Afternoon

The twelfth and last open-air concert of the season, by the Digby Civic Band, will be given at the Band Stand next Sunday afternoon, Sept. 22, at 3 o'clock, if the weather is fine. This concert is a complimentary offering of the Band in appreciation of the generous response by all public to their appeal for the Instrument and Uniform Fund. No collection will be taken, but donations from those who have not already contributed to the Fund, will be welcomed at that time.

AT THE THEATRE

Sorry we had an error in our last week's issue—it was really the producer's fault, for changing his mind at the last minute. However we hope things are straight this week. First of all, don't miss the picture to-night and to-morrow night—"McFadden's Flat", but we told you about that last week.

On Monday the Swiss Bell Ringers will give a performance. Tuesday is that grand picture, "The Night is Young" (you know the heart throb, girls, and Evelyn Langley, we'll let the men decide that. Anyway, it's a picture worth seeing.

On Wednesday and Thursday, it's the "Count of Monte Cristo". Those who have read the book will want to see it anyway, and those who haven't read it have heard enough about it to want to see it, and lastly, those who have neither read it nor heard about it should see it to keep up with the rest of the world. Robert Montgomery and Elissa Landi are the stars. Elissa, though Donat, perhaps is not as well known. He is one of the newest and best.

Friday and Saturday, we have another outstanding one, we Shirley Temple in "The Little Colonel". That you've heard enough about so we really don't have to tell you how lovely it is.

Isn't this some lineup for next week? We tell you folks there is not one you can afford to miss. See you all there.

SAD BUT TRUE!

Here's a true story, and only true stories are to be found in our columns. That's one matter we are very fussy about. An American car drove up to one of these fancy red route and blue service stations, not more than one hundred miles from Liverpool, and asked for eight gallons of gas. The young lady driver was more than good looking so she got excellent service from the young man attendant. "Have you a rest room?" she asked. The young man thought she asked for a whisk broom—did not catch what she said. "No," was his reply. "but if you will drive into the garage we can get a vacuum cleaner for you." The lady stepped on the gas and the young man scratched his head in wonderment, but a person standing nearby explained just what had happened. (Liverpool Advance.)

In Trinidad, West Indies, whence much of the grapefruit comes to Canada, the planters have to depend solely on rainfall. Grapefruit grown in the United States, in California, and Florida; in Palestine, in Asia, and in Rhodesia, South Africa is produced under controlled irrigation.

In the Courts

Judge W. A. Livingstone presided over a session of the County Court, here, Wednesday, at which the appeal of Norman Trimmer, convicted some weeks ago in Town Stipendiary B. Havey's Court, of selling meat within the incorporated Town of Digby, without a license, was heard. In this an argument was raised in the point of law as to whether the Town by-law in regard to pedler's licenses was ultra vires or not. Trimmer claiming the town has no right to impose a license on pedlers of produce of the farm, forest or sea. Decision in this case was reserved.

In the case of the King vs. Lloyd Barton, charged with obtaining money under false pretences, Barton elected to be tried by the County Court Judge. The date of trial was set for the 27th of this month.

Stanley A. Keen is spending a few days in Halifax.

Mr. and Mrs. David Orans left on Monday to return to their home in New York, after spending four weeks at the Fair View Hotel here. Mr. Orans, who is a photo engraver, in New York City, was, in the pre-revolution days, editor of a Communist paper in Russia. While in Digby they spent a great part of their time making water colors of many beautiful local views and it is their ambition this winter to have their paintings placed on exhibition in New York.

When some stranger comes to your door collecting for "this, that, or something else" it is wise to ask that credentials be shown, and if in doubt, regardless of how worthy the appeal may seem to you, keep your money in your pocket. We are not referring to collectors for local charities or organizations. We were told yesterday of a man who visited a local store making collections, when asked to show his credentials he produced the necessary form, but no name had been filled in. When the party, who asked "so many unnecessary questions" went to the telephone to inquire from one in town who might know something about the fund, the visitor quietly slipped out, and has not been seen in town since.

Missing Girl Found Near Halifax

Wearry, and almost completely shoeless from her 150 mile trek across the province, 23 year old Marie Parker, of Joggins Bridge, Digby County, missing from the home of her guardian, Mrs. Ethel Berryman, since Sept. 17, was found by the Halifax Detachment of the R. C. M. P. on Friday evening of last week, at Fairview, a few miles from Halifax. She left her home for Halifax, seeking work, she told the police, and hiked almost the entire distance.

Shortly after leaving home the girl visited the store of O. P. Woodman to trade 2-lb produce for merchandise, telling the merchant she would return later for the goods. She never returned for them.

While in Halifax she was cared for by the children's Aid Society of that city. She has since been returned to her home at Joggins Bridge.

Letter to Editor

To the Editor of the Courier,
Sir:—Birdhaven must continue. I therefore appeal to all, who are interested in the conservation of our forests and wild life; in tourist development and in education to visit Birdhaven during the afternoon of Sept. 24, 25, or 26th, and learn at first hand the real nature of the work we are doing and to spend sufficient time here as to grasp something of the possibilities we have of developing an institution of great value to our Province.

The nature of the undertaking is such as to have a growing appeal to the public and with a little more co-operation on the part of those who are, or should be interested, real progress can be made.

A special invitation is extended to the press on any date, by appointment.

John W. Piggett.

Bridgetown, Sept. 16, 1935.

"Now you must be very careful how you answer," said the Counsel, "and not say anything that is not strictly true. You drive a milk cart, don't you?"
"No, sir."
"But I thought you did. What do you do for a living, then?"
"I drive the horse that pulls the milk cart, sir."

Abandoned Off Island Coast

Bound from Clark's Harbor to Annapolis Royal, the 60 foot 14 ton galek motor boat, Col. Ralston, went ashore about 6 o'clock Sunday night on the St. Mary's Bay shore of Long Island, about half way between Freeport and Tiverton. The crew of four men, in command of Capt. Francis Coates, reached Digby Monday morning, wet and weary after their harrowing experience and narrow escape, and proceeded to DeLap's Cove, Annapolis County.

Beside the Captain, other members of the crew were Burton McCaul and Frank Sproule, both of DeLap's Cove, and James Nickerson, of Clark's Harbor. Sproule suffered somewhat from shock and exposure.

The craft, which put in at Yarmouth for the night, proceeded to Annapolis Royal Sunday morning. About 9 o'clock, when opposite Cape St. Mary, the engine failed them, back-fired, and set fire to the boat. The blaze was soon extinguished. Other unsuccessful attempts were made to start the engine.

About 6 o'clock Sunday evening the boat drifted ashore on the coast of Long Island. Deeming it unsafe to stay on board, the crew made for shore, landing at the foot of a high cliff, which in the darkness, they were unable to climb over. They spent the night, during which it rained heavily, on the unsheltered beach. They were without matches with which to light a fire, and without food.

Monday morning at daylight, they climbed over the cliff and arrived at the home of Clarence Tibert, Central Grove, at about 8 o'clock. Here they were fed and warmed and then taken to Tiverton, crossed the Petite Passage from the island to the mainland, and proceeded to Digby.

Capt. Coates and Nickerson, who were interviewed by the Courier stated they were taking the boat, which at one time ran as a ferry between Barrington and Clark's Harbor, to Annapolis Royal, where, it was their intention to take out the engine and install the same in a new boat which they had built this summer for scallop fishing. It was their intention to sell the hull of the Col. Ralston at Annapolis Royal. The boat, which went ashore at low tide Sunday evening, went off on the flood tide.

Monday afternoon word was received from Capt. Ernest Lewis, of the Government Cutter, Capelin, that the Col. Ralston was picked up by his boat about five miles from Petite Passage, on the St. Mary's Bay side of Long Island, about 1 o'clock that afternoon, and towed to Westport. She did not appear to be leaking much, and the cow, which was on board the Ralston, was alive and well, seeming none the worse for her experience.

Mrs. Arthur Cronin, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. F. A. Robinson, left on Saturday for Saint John to visit her sister, Mrs. Osborne Turnbull, before returning to her home in Natik, Mass.

Tiverton Bible Class Meet At Central Grove

The Tiverton, Sunshine Bible Class held the monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Stuart Small, Central Grove, on Thursday evening of last week. Those assisting were: Mrs. Roy Small, Mrs. Lauriston Small, Mrs. Atwood Outhouse and Mrs. Murray Small. After the supper hour, the programme for the evening was presented, under the direction of the President, Mrs. Arthur Powell, and Mrs. Lauriston Small. The theme was "Galilee", and the music and readings were in keeping with this topic. At the close of the meeting a social period followed, after which the guests motored to their homes in Tiverton, feeling that a very pleasant and profitable evening had been spent at the home of Mrs. Small.

MOUNT ALLISON

Mount Allison Ladies College opens on Monday and registration has been going on since with an enrolment practically the same as last year. Particularly encouraging reports come from the Art Gallery, the Conservatory of Music and Matriculation Department.

Miss Constance Young, M. A., the new Principal, has taken charge in a more efficient manner. The residence known as the Ladies College, has been separated into two distinct units, one a residence for University women and the other a girls' school with a separate dining room, class rooms and administration offices.

Miss Young plans to build up a girls' school strong in every area. She is emphasizing the matriculation department, which she will supervise herself. She goes to her new task splendidly prepared. She graduated from Mount Allison with the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1920; she obtained her Master's degree in Education and Philosophy from Columbia University in 1930; she has had some few years' teaching experience in girls' schools in Ontario, Quebec, Western Canada and Trinidad.

She is particularly fortunate in having at the head of her Art School Professor Stanley Royle, R. B. A., a Col. W. A. of Shrewsbury, England, who has achieved in his field an empyrean reputation. Other alterations in her staff are Miss Catherine King, of Lunenburg, N. S., assistant in the Piano Department; Mr. Gordon Black, B. A., Mus. B., of Saint John N. B., assistant in the Organ Department.

Waldo C. Moir, travelling passenger agent of the Canadian National Railways, was in town this week in connection with the departure of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Torrie, who left yesterday for Vancouver, where they will reside in the future.

Kenneth Perry, one time a member of the Courier staff, was a visitor to Digby on Wednesday, enroute to Beaver River, where he will spend a few days with his mother before taking a position at Wolfville.

UNANIMOUS

Mussolini's policy, ultimatum, and economic decrees, as has already been noted, were approved by the Italian cabinet council, consisting of one Premier Mussolini, seven Ministers Mussolini, and six stooges. Waiving for the moment the deserters from the Italian army and the whispering critics of the administration, there are several other conspicuous supporters: the commander-general of the fascist militia, the publisher of Popolo d'Italia, and the Duke (leader) of the fascist party. They too, are Benito Mussolini. That makes it unanimous among the people who count in Italy today.

Some men are so constituted that they can pull a dirty trick in the morning and go to prayer meeting in the evening.

BRASS BUTTONS

One who travels nowadays sees a lot of brass buttons. He sees them on trains, in hotels, in places of amusement, everywhere men are vested with a little authority. He comes to realize that brass buttons are tags for his benefit.

But when he needs service from high-ups, he finds no brass buttons—just plain civilian clothes adorned with not even a badge. These executives, a majority of them at least, once wore brass buttons, but as they rose in rank shed them.

Men and buttons should never be confused. It's the men who wear brj's buttons who give them meaning and value, and not the buttons that give the men distinction.

Generally speaking, men who really amount to something do not have to wear buttons. If compelled to wear them, these men soon convince others that they are dealing with personalities and not buttons.

It would be far more comforting to the average man if his doctor would write his prescriptions in English and send his bill in Latin.

CONSIDER THE SUN DIAL

The most popular sun-dial inscription runs—"I record none but hours of sunshine."

Human affairs would be less snarled if people could take that philosophy to heart.

Nature has made it easy for us to forget the unhappy past. A spell of hot weather is forgotten after the first cooling winds. A night of pain is no longer remembered after the first moments of relief.

People describe the "good old" days. But they were not all good. The memory simply refuses to live over the evil they contained.

Some people are so constituted that remembering the unpleasant and disagreeable things of life brings them solace. These are they who have sad tales to tell and evil foreboding to reveal. But they are not numerous.

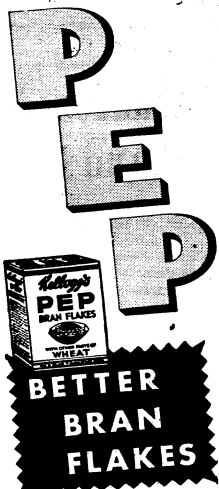

Most people talk up their pleasant experiences. They boost their friends. They regard optimistically their own adventures. They laugh off their troubles.

Nobody has learned the art of living who has not trained his mind to forget every experience from which he may derive no further benefit.

The hours of shadow make no record on the sun-dial. And when the meaning of our mistakes is learned, we can forget the mistakes.

ENTERPRISE QUALITY RANGES B. H. Ruggles, Digby

Pictures, such as this one, are not difficult to make so let your camera furnish you with "Memory Insurance."

DO YOU remember "way back when" your grandmother's "parlor" was furnished with the very latest home-hair furniture, the lovely round "center table" with its marble top, the huge portraits with their deep, heavy gilded frames and the "always present" "what-not" with its assorted display of "bric-a-brac"? Wouldn't you like to have a picture of it to help recall fond memories of days gone by?

Believe it or not but it will not be many years until you will be trying to picture in your mind some of the furniture and furnishings you had in your home when you were a child or perhaps when you were first married. Interior snapshots will serve as "memory insurance."

Don't put off taking these pictures any longer for making them is not at all difficult; in fact you will enjoy it. Here are a few pointers that may help you in making your first shots.

If you take your interior pictures in the daytime the chances are that you will have to take a time exposure unless your camera is equipped with a very fast lens, say f/3.5 or faster. If a time exposure is necessary you will have to use a tripod or else place the camera on some solid support such as a table. Even with an f/3.5 lens you should have some substantial support for your camera for you will probably find it necessary to take your shot at 1/5 or 1/10 of a second, and at speeds slower than 1/25 of a second it is extremely difficult to hold the camera steady. Any movement of the camera will cause a blurred picture.

The secret of success in indoor pictures lies in controlling the light reaching the various parts of the room to be pictured. To begin with, never point your camera directly at the window or door through which the greatest amount of light is coming. Keep the light behind or to the side of the camera. If, as sometimes happens, a sunny window is in a particular part of the house you want to take, you can eliminate sun-glare by a very simple trick. Pull the shade of that particular window clear down and keep it down for an exposure long enough to give you the other features and details. Then, close the shutter and run the shade up to its normal position. Now, go back to the camera and, without changing the film or the camera's position, open the shutter again for a half second longer.

It's a good idea to use a very small lens stop in taking indoor pictures, because you want detail. Focus on a point about half-way between the camera and the far side of the room; then, when the lens is stopped down you will find that practically everything is in sharp focus.

Avoid including large pieces of furniture in the foreground, lest they take up more space in the picture than they deserve.

Exposure time will vary, of course, with the brilliance of the daylight and the degree to which the walls reflect light. On a bright day, pictures in a predominantly light colored room can be taken with an exposure of five or ten seconds. On dull days, in dark rooms having only one window, you will need as much as five minutes, with the lens at f/16.

"Memory Insurance" costs but little; so load your camera today for interior pictures that in later years will be worth a lot.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SUMMER FLOWERS

Summer offers unlimited opportunities for unusual flower pictures.

ALTHOUGH June 21 is considered the first day of summer, it seems that, as far as the well-known public is concerned, summer is already here and the season is open for picnics, week-end trips, vacations and all activities classed under the general heading of "Outdoor Sports."

Heading the list of summer activities, however, should be "snapshotting" for picture taking with the modern day camera is one fascinating, healthful recreation that may be enjoyed by the young or old, and we might add—rich or poor for today cameras are available at prices to meet the capacity of any pocketbook and good pictures can be taken with all of them.

Another thing in favor of amateur photography as a pastime or hobby is the fact that it is not necessary to be an expert to get pleasing results; for modern-day cameras and film have been materially simplified for the snapshotter.

Late spring and summer offer great possibilities for flower and garden pictures, from the first appearance of the colorful crocus through the season to the arrival of the giant chrysanthemum in the fall.

The first rule of flower portraiture is: Avoid harsh lighting. By this, I mean that flowers seldom make good pictures under direct, midday sun.

The light between ten and three in the summer is so intense that you get an over-abundance of chalky highlights and inky shadows. To catch the subtle beauty of the colorings in flowers, it is much better to work under the slanting rays of the sun in early morning or late afternoon.

You will doubtless want to take close-ups of some of the flowers. If your camera will not focus closer than ten feet, or thereabouts, get a portrait attachment (a simple, inexpensive lens that fits over the regular lens). With it you can get very close to your subjects, for striking and beautiful shots.

Here's another trick. To make a particular flower or plant stand out vividly, get a sheet of gray cardboard and stand it up back of the flower, far enough away so that—if you are using direct sunlight—no shadows fall on it.

To catch the color values of flowers, you'll need to use the new super-sensitive panchromatic film. "Panchromatic" means the film is capable of recording, in monochrome of course, a wide range of colors. Your photo dealer will help you select the best film for your special needs, and you will get snapshots to which you can point with pride and say, "I snapped that one."

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

THE WORLD'S EDGE

I have come to the edge of the world, Where the earth steps into the sea With bold, bare feet, it's great toes curled In a matchless symmetry.

Ah, but the sea is fair! Fair as a maiden's eyes, Dreaming here in the lazy air, Sweet and blue neath the summer skies

The sea-gulls lift and float Like white clouds blown apart, The throb of a homing boat, Finds an echo in my heart.

The sea, the earth and the sky Are bound by a golden band; My cradled soul swings hand, Rocked by an unseen hand.

He walks on the rolling sea, On the sunny acres broad; And strength and beauty and peace, Are one, in the Hand of God.

The booth conducted by the local Women's Institute, at the Digby County Agricultural Exhibition, held in Bear River last week, was a great success, both financially and as a point of interest to visitors.

Contributions of dainty cakes and jellies, made by Institute members, found ready sale, and the antique china and brass exhibited, interested many. One beautiful and unique piece of pottery, was especially worth mentioning, an after-dinner coffee pot, over two hundred years old, in the shape of a bird, was loaned by Mrs. Baker, who recently came here to reside, and who brought the coffee pot from her old home in England.

A wonderful collection of ancient relics from the "old world", such as a sling-stone, used by ancient Britons as a piece of the pavement and ancient Pompeii, and others equally interesting, was loaned by Miss Muriel Kinney.

A collection of beautiful Indian shawls, belonging to Mrs. W. Romans, a number of old copper tea kettles, and Staffordshire ornaments loaned by members and children, and modern English china exhibited by Mrs. Boswell, added to the attraction of the booth.

A box of fine Gravenstein apples, donated by J. H. Cunningham, were sold by ticket, and won by A. Snow of Digby. The lucky ticket for the china cup, saucer and plate, went to Miss Ethel Morgan, of Morganville, and the winner of the Pickin' Doll was little Dorothy Thompson, of Bear River.

Mrs. J. H. Cunningham was the efficient convenor of the Institute Exhibition Committee, the other members, Mrs. Romans, and Mrs. Lovett, assisting in arranging booth, and a number of members assisted in supervising.

The Scallop Industry

The scallop fishery of the Canadian Atlantic coast is virtually centered in one port—Digby, Nova Scotia. The beds available to Canadian fishermen are the Bay of Fundy, Mahone Bay, and the Gulf of St.
Lawrence. The scallop fishery of the Gulf of St. Lawrence is rather uncertain and has not as yet proven of commercial value. The fishery of Mahone Bay, while fairly steady, is not of as great economic importance as that of the Bay of Fundy. The beds of the Bay of Fundy in the region of Digby have yielded scallops to the average value of almost $10,000 since the development of the fishery some ten years ago.
Hence Digby has almost a monopoly of the scallop fishery on the Canadian Atlantic Coast. In spite of this monopoly, and in spite of the fact that scallops are considered a luxury food, the price per pound is usually about equal to that of halibut.
It would appear that the industry is not getting from the fishery all that might be obtained from it.

The failure of the industry to obtain the maximum returns is due to both the method of marketing and the method of handling. While the Atlantic Fisheries Experimental Station is not equipped in personnel or experience to assist in marketing, it would appear that the shipping of almost the whole catch to Boston nullifies the benefit of Digby's fortunate position. The reason for the concentration of scallops in the Boston market may be due to the presence of a ready market. On the other hand faulty handling of the catch eliminates all markets but those most readily available.

Before the possible faults in handling are discussed it might be well to call to the attention of the fishermen some of the characteristics of the scallops, whose value to the fisherman or shipper may have been overlooked. The scallop, like practically all sea animals, is cold blooded.
Such animals do not die as readily as warm blooded animals when the heart stops beating and breathing ceases. Neither do all parts of the animal die at the same time. A similar condition is found in the snake.
The tail twitches often for hours after the snake is killed. When the scallop is shucked everything is moved but the muscle, which holds the shell together. This muscle twi-ches when struck and is actually still alive. As long as the muscle stays alive very little spoilage occurs. The shucked meats can be kept alive longer than five days if the proper care is taken. Fortunately such care can be taken with little trouble or expense.

When the scallop is shucked it must be washed. Only clean cold salt water should be used and all surplus water should be drained off.
While on the beds sea water is the best, but the water in Digby Harbour, especially in the region of the town, swarms with spoilage bacteria that it very quickly starts spoilage of the scallops. Scallops shucked at the wharf should be washed in clean cold fresh water to which three pounds of salt have been added to every ten gallons of water.
Fresh water should not be used.
When a scallop meat is placed in fresh water, water goes into the meat, salts, which are necessary to the life of the muscle, pass out, and the muscle dies in a short time. The swelling of scallops in fresh water has been used by unscrupulous individuals to increase the value of the shucked meats. While this practice is illegal, the difficulty of detection has made it difficult to stop it.

Three methods are now available which enable authorities to detect soaked scallops. The first method is that of the actual determination of the water content of the scallop under suspicion. Scallops have a water content of 78 per cent to 80 per cent. A higher water content indicates soaking. This method is so laborious that only a limited number of scallops can be examined in a reasonable time, and it is not very useful therefore in actual practice. A second much simpler method is to weigh the meats and to place them overnight in a 2.75 per cent salt solution. The scallops are then wiped dry with a towel and re-weighed. If the scallops lose weight in the salt solution they have been soaked. This method is of use only when the meats are alive. When soaked scallops are dead and spoilage starts they swell slightly in even 3 percent salt solution. The third method depends on the fact that scallops are considerably heavier than water.
Hence soaked scallops are lighter in weight to their size than unsoak-ed scallops. Unsoaked scallops are always more than 1.070 times as heavy as their own volume of water.
A solution of olive oil in carbon tetrachloride is prepared 1.069 times as heavy as water. In such liquid unsoaked scallops always sink. Scallops soaked very little may sink but if they are soaked to gain in size as much as 10 per cent most of them will float. The method is simple and speedy. A specific gravity spindle placed in the liquid while the test is used ensures the accuracy of the specific gravity of the test solution.
By means of this test method a fishery officer can test a large number of scallops in a relatively short time.
The second very important point in the handling of shucked scallops is the storage. Scallop meats should be kept as near the freezing point as possible. Storage temperature of 32 degrees to 36 degrees will keep properly handled meats alive at least five days. This is ample time to put the scallops on the market in any part of the eastern part of the continent.

To ensure sufficiently low temperatures to keep the scallops alive and to slow up the action of bacteria, the present method of packing the scallops in large containers should be changed. Ice should not be allowed to come in contact with the scallops, as the ice water tends to kill the muscle. Two methods are suggested, either of which should be much superior to the present.
The first is to pack the shucked scallops in metal containers, not more than two and one-half inches wide. The length and height may be of a size to fit a large box. The containers are placed in the larger box with ice between each container and surrounding the sides and the bottom of the containers. A second method is to place the shucked scallops in waterproof cellophane containers, the top of which may be sealed when filled. The whole may be packed in ice in cheap boxes, which may be discarded on reaching the market. This saves return shipment on containers.

The present price of scallops does not appear to be at all in comparison to that of other luxury foods in the same class. The price of such articles is dependent to a very large extent on the quality. By careful handling, complete elimination of fresh water including ice water, and by low shipping temperatures, the fisherman should be able to place his catch on any market in Eastern Canada or the United States. A betterment of the quality and the distribution of the product to several markets should produce a greater demand and as a result a higher price return.—S. A. Beatty.

Railroads

The beginning of the construction work, the turning of the first sod, on New Brunswick's first railway, the European and North American, which occurred on this date 82 years ago, was commemorated in Saint John on Saturday last in the presentation of the original banner carried in the procession held in connection with the celebrations to mark the event, to the New Brunswick Museum there, by W. E. Robinson, superintendent of the Mon-ton Division, on behalf of the Canadian National Railways, this division of the railway including the original line of the European and North American. The banner was received on behalf of the museum by Dr. Wm. MacIntosh, Director.

The history of New Brunswick's railways, as with the Maritimes as a whole, is contemporary with the opening of the first practical steam railway in Great Britain, the Liverpool and Manchester, in 1825. The Stockton and Darlington railway of 1825 had not successfully proven the case of the steam locomotive. It was in connection with the former railway that the famous locomotive trials of 1825 were held to prove the practicability of the steam locomotive in which the "Rocket" of George Stephenson proved victorious, ushering in the era of the steam railway which has changed the face of the world.

Overseas mails brought copies of the leading English newspapers, which carried glowing accounts of the opening of the Liverpool and Manchester Railway and of the railway enterprises which followed and as early as 1833 the people of New Brunswick were talking about a railway. The matter came to a head in 1835, when the merchants and business men of St. Andrews got together and held a meeting for the purpose of organizing a company under the name of the St. Andrews and Quebec Railway. Military engineers were engaged to survey the route of the proposed railway and proved its feasibility. The Imperial authorities backed up the scheme but the Ashburton Treaty of 1842 brought it to a standstill, the projected railway going through part of Maine and into the United States. The matter, however, was kept alive, and in 1853 the European and North American Railway project got under way to connect Saint John, on the Bay of Fundy, with Shediac and Point de Chaleur, the Strait of Northumberland in the Gulf of St.
Lawrence, the line of railway being declared open for traffic in 1860.

At the time the St. Andrews and Quebec Railway was mooted, there was also a project to construct a line of railway from Digby to Quebec and considerable controversy arose between the two schemes. Nova Scotia had a railway used in hauling coal from the mines at Stellarton for loading into vessels at the "Loading Grounds" on Pictou Harbour, a distance of about six miles, on which a steam locomotive, the "Samson", was put into operation early in 1839.
The "Samson", which was constructed by Timothy Hackworth, was brought over from England the year before and is still in existence, bottomed in the Canadian National Railways station in Halifax.
The Hon. Joseph Howe went to Montréal in 1851 and there met influential business men to discuss the proposed railway, a dinner at which about 150 guests were present.
Taking place on July 9th in the Hawthorne House in his honor, Hugh Allan, Esq., President of the Board of Trade, presided, and others present included Hon. Peter McGill, Mr.
Sheriff Boston and Town Major MacDonald. At the dinner the Hon. Mr. Howe stated "the road was as necessary for the people of Montréal, and above it, as for those below. They will visit the lower counties, the inhabitants of the lower will visit the upper. The people of both were important of one another.
He looked forward to the time when the Provinces would be all united in one brotherhood, having a common intelligence, a common feeling, a common interest, and a common public opinion."

Nova Scotia followed New Brunswick the year after, the undertaking of the European and North American Railway with the Nova Scotia Railway, it being the intention to link up the two systems eventually, but the provinces could not agree on terms so the people of Nova Scoti-ans had to wait until the consummation of Confederation in 1867 for through rail connection to the Upper Provinces by means of the Intercolonial Railway, which was made a provision of the confederation compact, the railway being declared open for traffic on July 1, 1876, and now forms part of the Canadian National Railways System. Prince Edward Island commenced its railway construction in 1871 and the line was opened for traffic on May 12, 1875.

The belief is taking root that politics is now becoming a profession, and the people are becoming tired of the meagerness of results produced by the professional politician.

The American and Canadian people are a peace-loving people. They peacefully object to any curbing of personal freedom and are willing to make heavy sacrifices in paying taxes. They live in hopes and expectations of the lightening of the tax burden, but day by day they are asked to add to the burden.

It is hoped the time is not far away when the politicians will discover that the people are beginning to realize that the brightly pictured results promised by the politicians, have produced few results besides added taxes. This fact cannot be camouflaged much longer. The average citizen sees through this and sometimes has bitter things to say, but, with a shrug of the shoulder, carries on, trying to make the best of it.

The Tax Problem is the big problem before the people today.

A very pretty wedding, and one of interest to friends in Digby and Smith's Cove, was solemnized on Sept. 14, at St. Anne's Chapel, Harbor View, Smith's Cove, by the Rev. A. W. L. Smith, when Vera Marie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McHugh, was united in marriage to Harold Sulls, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sulls, both of Smith's Cove. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked very lovely in a dress of dove grey crepe, with navy blue hat and shoes, and carried a bouquet of gladioli, roses and fern. She was attended by her sister, Miss Kathleen McHugh, who wore a lovely dress of powder blue, with a large white hat, and carried a bouquet of gladioli and roses. Following the service a wedding breakfast was held at which only the relatives of the bride and groom, attended, after which they left in mid showers of rice, for a short motor trip, and on their return will reside in Smith's Cove, at the Cossaboom cottage on Sunset Hill.

Scallop Season Opens Tuesday

The scallop fishing season opens on Tuesday, Oct. 1, fifteen days earlier than in previous years. A large fleet of boats are expected to participate in the industry during the 1935-36 season, including several new ones.

Most of the local fleet are ready to commence dragging on the first day of the season. It is understood that the Lunenburg boats will join the fleet later.

Without question, the scallop fishing industry is one of the most important in the Province, and certainly the most important in Digby and Annapolis Counties. During the past ten years upwards to $1,000,000 worth of scallops have been brought through the Digby Gut. The 1934-35 catch was valued in the vicinity of $200,000, and comprised of 93% of all the scallops caught in Canada.

Gateways Welcomed

Enroute home from St. Stephen, N. B., after capturing the Maritime Senior Baseball Championship from the St. Stephen-Milltown Kiwanis, the victorious Yarmouth Gateways were greeted on the Digby Pier on the arrival of the Princess Helene Tuesday morning, by a number of local citizens. The Digby Civic Band was among the welcoming committee, and played a number of selections by way of welcome. In Monday's game at St. Stephen, the Gateways rallied with three runs in the ninth inning, thus ending the four years reign of the New Brunswick team. The 3-1 victory on Monday was the third win for the Gateways out of four playoff games between the two teams, and gave Yarmouth the championship for the first time since 1929.

The fire department was called out last Friday morning to fight a fire at Digby Motors—a car in that garage having caught fire. Despite the fact that the engine was on the way within one minute after the last blast of the siren, the blaze had been extinguished with fire extinguishers before it arrived.

New "Bus" For Digby Neck and Islands

On Saturday afternoon the Courier reporter was a guest of Guy E. Morehouse on the maiden trip of the new Digby Neck and Islands Bus, "Scotian". The new bus is one of the most modern to be used in these parts, and is especially designed for carrying passengers and mails, having comfortable seats for 20, beside the driver.

The bus body was built by Isaac and William LeBlanc, of Church Point, who were also the builders of the Weymouth to Yarmouth bus. The painting was done by Pius LeBlanc, of Little Brook. The chassis and motor are products of General Motors.

Mr. Morehouse has been mail contractor for Digby Neck and Islands since January 1, 1911, and in April of the same year provided the first automobile mail and passenger service for that territory, and except for seasons when the roads have been too heavy for automobiles, "gasoline buggies" have carried mails and passengers over that route ever since. The Digby Neck mainland served by the bus, is over thirty miles in length, and includes the villages (in order going from Digby) of Sea Brook, Roxville, Rossway, Waterford, Centerville, Lake Midway, Sandy Cove, Little River, Tidville and East Ferry. From East Ferry the mails are ferried across to Tiverton on Long Island, and from there by car are taken to Central Grove and Freeport on the same island, and then, across Grand Passage on another ferry, to Westport, forty-three miles from Digby.

The new bus replaces the old "Acadian", which has been in service six years last May. It is a decided improvement over the old, and a credit to Mr. Morehouse and its builders.

To Be Married Sunday

I DID NOT KNOW—
I did not know the sky revealed such colors wondrous fair; One day I gave an upward glance And saw a rainbow there.

I did not know that man could be So gentle and so kind; I spent a peaceful afternoon In company of the blind.

I did not know that common things Were much approved of God; I watched a man with saintly face A-working in the sod.

I did not know a little child Could show the way to live; One taught me how to pray aright Another how to give.

I did not know that any book Could mean much to me; I read: "And ye shall know the Truth. And the Truth shall make you free."—Grenville Kleiser.

Andrew D. Merkel Is Club Speaker

Addressing the regular luncheon of the Kiwanis Club Monday, A. D. Merkel, Atlantic Superintendent of The Canadian Press, revealed something of the manner in which the news of the world is flashed to remote corners of the globe within a matter of minutes.

Within scarcely 90 years, according to Mr. Merkel, news collecting has advanced from the stages and pony express to the point where wireless, cables and automatic printers, allow all sections to share the news almost as fast as it occurs.

The prominent part in this advance played by Halifax in this progress was also recounted by Mr. Merkel in reviewing news gathering in the early days. Prior to the days of cables, news to Europe was brought to America by boat. Not satisfied with waiting until the ships reached Boston, enterprising New York, Baltimore and Philadelphia publishers joined forces in gathering the dispatches at Halifax and rushing them by pony to Digby, thence to Saint John by boat, and on to Portland, where they were transferred to locomotives. This service, according to the speaker was the forerunner of today's press association.

Mr. Merkel stressed the co-operative effort on which the development is based and paid tribute to James Hickey, a Halifaxian, who was manager of the Eastern Press before the formation of The Canadian Press.

Obituary
Capt. Henry H. Steele

The death of Capt. Henry Havelock Steele, 79, occurred at his home, Deep Brook, early Saturday morning last, following a week's illness. Deceased was a son of the late Jonathan and Lavinia (Porter) Steele, and was born at Scott's Bay, Cumberland County. Capt. Steele spent the greater part of his life at sea, and told many interesting tales of his experiences. In 1887 he was decorated by the President of the United States for saving the crew of the schooner Marcus A. Davis. Before going to Deep Brook early in 1932, he lived in Clementsport three years, where his wife (nee Laura Willetta Jess, Scott's Bay) predeceased him in 1929. Surviving are a daughter, Alva, wife of Dr. L. T. Allen, Lethbridge, Alberta; and one son, Capt. Elton H. Steele, Deep Brook. Of a family of seven, three brothers also survive, viz.: Sherman and Oley, Scott's Bay; and Jonathan E. Marblehead, Mass. Funeral services were held from the home Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, conducted by Rev. T. E. MacLennan, United Church minister of Annapolis Royal, assisted by Rev. A. W. L. Smith and Rev. W. H. Turner. Interment was in the Clementsport cemetery beside his wife.

DIGBY BOYS SHOW ENTERPRISE
There really are some things going on in Digby that one doesn't know. The chief one on our minds at present, is Selected Products—produced by two of our town boys, Allan Pyne and Reginald Turnbull. The boys began this scheme in May, with four products, namely, Javelle Water, Soot Remover, Household Ammonia and Radiator Cement. To-day, they have thirty-three different articles on the market, as well as a travelling agent. The products are manufactured at home, in the evenings, and the boys plan to have one hundred products on the market by Spring.

We think the people of Digby should heed these ambitious young men, who are trying to make a name for themselves, as well as put Digby on the map.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Armstrong and son Eric, accompanied by Mrs. S. J. Abbott, made a motor trip last week to the South Shore, by way of Bridgewater, visiting at Chester and Halifax.

Their products are equal in quality to any foreign products, and moreover, the money stays in town. Let's give them a big hand, citizens, and show them we are proud of their efforts.

Christmas Acquitted

Herbert Richard Christmas, 24 year old colored youth of Conway, is at his home today a free man, having been acquitted Wednesday morning at the Clare session of the Supreme Court at Little Brook, Municipality of Clare, Digby County.

Christmas was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Benjamin Theriault, Ashmore blacksmith, who was struck down and killed by an automobile on the main highway at that village on the night of August 22. Christmas was named by a coroner's jury at Weymouth as driver of the death car and was later committed to stand trial at a preliminary hearing before Stipendiary J. A. Taylor, at Digby.

Thirteen witnesses testified at the Supreme Court trial which opened in Little Brook Court House Wednesday morning, presided over by Mr. Justice Doull. Christmas was defended by R. W. E. Landry, K. C. of Yarmouth; the prosecution was conducted by E. J. Theriault, of Digby. All evidence in connection with the case was taken Tuesday. Wednesday morning the councils addressed the jury and the Judge delivered his charge. The jury was only out for about fifteen minutes before bringing in their verdict of "Not Guilty".

Christmas was the only witness for the defence, denied having hit Theriault, but stated he saw an object in the road outside Weymouth, and ran his car in the ditch in order to avoid it. In the car with Christmas at the time were Trafford Wright and Sanford Barton, both of whom testified they had not seen a man struck, nor did they see a man in the road. They felt a jolt when they ran into the ditch, but the car had not been brought to a full stop until after they lost a tire, when they stopped and went back for it.

Other witnesses for the prosecution were Dr. Pothier of Weymouth who examined the deceased after the accident; E. R. Gaudet, of Weymouth and Senator J. L. P. Robichaud of Maxwelton, who found the body; Carl and Scott Kinney, Ashmore, who saw the car running along with one tire off and who later found a tire tube in the road;

AS GREEN GROWS GOLDEN

September, like April, has varying moods, but on the whole 'tis a month in which summer loves to linger. Green is still the predominant arboreal color although each day marks the tempering of its vividness with the beginnings of invading autumnal browns. Where farmers are seizing every hour of daylight building haystacks and thatching them with straw, the laborers still seek the grateful shade of tree or hedge at the short midday respite.

Throughout the temperate zones September showers reach deep into the brown earth and let loose the imprisoned warmth of July and August days. At such a time to walk along a country lane is to wander in Elysian fields odorous with the pungent perfumes which nature sprinkles so generously on the trailing train of summer. Perhaps because the atmosphere is washed so clean, September skies take on a deeper blue. Not really, of course. It just seems so, as across their azure windows fleecy white curtains of gossamer cloud are drawn ever so lightly by the playful breezes of early fall.

Although the September sun leaves western hemispheres earlier of evenings for China and other points east it lingers lovingly over its setting as it floods the heavens with its glorious rose pinks, its rich bronze and old gold. There is a log of the hearth after dusk, and a fragrant smell of smoky pine fills the sun will be warm. And as October draws near the yellow goldenrod and the orange-tinted berries of the mountain, ash splash old earth with their glowing flame.

Is it any wonder summer loves to linger in September?—Christian Science Monitor.

BIG PROVINCIAL FAIR OPENS

SEPTEMBER 30

All is in readiness for the opening of the Provincial Exhibition at Halifax, on September 30. Fine new booths are being built, and with outstanding exhibits and the best of entertainment it is assured that all attending the big fair will have a good time.

A feature that is bringing entries from all parts of the province is the amateur radio broadcasting contest. During each day a microphone will be in use and as many as wish to do so may have auditions. These auditions will not go out over the air but on each of three nights of the week six contestants from these preliminaries will go on the air over CHNS and on the final night six selected during the week will broadcast in the final contest. A schedule of prizes to be awarded to the winners is now being arranged.

Innovations at the Exhibition this year are the track meet for school boys of the province; the horse and the ox pulling contests, and a bicycle race. Many other novel features will contribute to a week of fun.

The horse races, always popular, will bring into competition the outstanding speedsters of the Maritimes as well as some high class animals from Maine. Good purses in all classes in addition to the new feature of adding the entrance fees of the competitors to the prize money has added new life to this branch of the big fair.

Heading the vaudeville attractions will be Bonnie Brownell's New York Nite Club Revue, which is made up of 15 beautiful dancing girls. It is an attractive show with each number bringing out elegant costumes and being elaborately presented. This is really a high class act as are all the others which feature this year's vaudeville program. The acts include: The Ricardos in a thrilling trapeze exhibition in which they combine grace, beauty, skill and great daring. The Balabanow Five will appear in a fantasy of music along with acrobatics. The renowned Rexela troupe, comprising three comely girls and two athletic young men, brings out something entirely new. Whirlwind roller skating, bewildering balancing, tumbling, sping and cartwheels so to make up this amazing skating act.

The most daring act on the program is that of the Leaping Nixies. A man and a woman risk their lives as they loop the loop and do other daredevil stunts inside a steel ball that is called "The Globe of Death." Last but not least is the "Runny Ford." It is an ordinary looking old car until it starts to perform and then it brings more laughs than an entire circus.

BEAUTIFUL WEYMOUTH

One of the most charming, although perhaps least heard of places in Nova Scotia, is the little town of Weymouth. Situated on the main D. A. R. line, about 45 miles from Yarmouth and 20 miles from Digby, it does not display itself from the train, but approached by motor from either direction, there are far stretches of land and sea-scapes, open views with a panorama of great beauty.—St. Mary's Bay and the Sissiboo River (upon the banks of which the town is situated)—with a variety of hills, fields, woodlands, coves and beaches.

Here are situated some of the choicest homes of the Province, many of them very modern, while others are dignified old home-stands, about which there is something of the past generations who have lived in them. At many of these, tourists can find accommodations as well as at hotels, cottages, and cabins. Camp Aldercliff, the popular American Boys' Camp, is also situated at Weymouth North.

The village is equipped with a modern hydro plant, which supplies light and power to the entire County, and practically every need of the tourist can be supplied at the local stores.

Weymouth offers every attraction of out of door life—splendid motor roads, excellent bathing, boating and fishing facilities, including deep sea fishing, tennis, baseball and other sports, while moose and other game are plentiful in the vicinity. It is a town of orchards, lawns, hedges, rows of gardens and alluring nooks.

WEYMOUTH FALLS AFRICAN BAPTIST CHURCH

A service quite out of the ordinary was held in the African Baptist Church, at Weymouth Falls, on Wednesday evening of last week, when Rev. C. U. MacNeil, of the Weymouth United Church, brought to the congregation a message based on Zimmerman's famous picture, "Christ and the Fishermen". Mr. MacNeil had his lantern along with him and so the picture was on the screen while the sermon was being preached.

The picture is based on that scene where Christ met the disciples by the lakeside in Galilee shortly after the Resurrection, and particularly refers to the moment when Jesus asked Peter if he loved Him. The pleading in the eyes of Jesus and the troubled expression on the face of Peter, and the look of understanding in the countenance of John all make a powerful appeal, and as we see the picture, we didn't find it hard to understand why it is considered one of the great pictures of the world.

We understand that Mr. MacNeil has consented to go along with his lantern for another similar service on the 9th of October.

METEGHAN

After only four months of labour, our new Glebe House is completed, and our pastor, Rev. J. M. Deveau, with his assistant, Rev. L. D'Entremont, and their house-keeper Miss Edith Doucet took possession of this elegant building Thursday of last week. The master builder, John Comeau, with his carpenter, Edouard, and their house-keeper Miss Edith Doucet took possession of this elegant building Thursday of last week. The master builder, John Comeau, with his carpenter, Edouard, and their house-keeper Miss Edith Doucet took possession of this elegant building Thursday of last week.

The main requisite is a good, strong sun in the late afternoon or early morning. Late afternoon, perhaps fifteen or twenty minutes before the sun starts gradually to disappear below the horizon, is preferable, for your light is usually stronger at this time and casts deeper and sharper shadows.

The two pictures above are only a couple of examples of the many unusual pictures to be taken with the aid of a strong sun. The picture to the right was the result of an alert amateur's "nose for pictures". As he started down the steps of the elevated train platform—with his always ready camera—says he, "Here is a picture," so hurriedly set the diaphragm at f/11 and shutter speed at 1/25 of a second and snap—he had a fine shadow picture. As the man at the bottom of the steps was walking away from the camera a shutter speed of 1/25 of a second was fast enough to stop action and still give the proper exposure.

Obviously the picture to the left was posed but it shows further possibilities for taking unusual shadow pictures. An ideal place for taking shadow pictures is on light colored ground; the cement sidewalk, the street or better yet—on beaches where the light and accentuates the dark body and outline of the shadow.

You can also get unusual shadow pictures by standing so that your shadow is cast on the side of a building or a house.

Here's one thing to remember. If you take pictures with the shadow cast on a light colored surface the exposure should not be as long as that used in taking pictures with the shadows cast on a dark background. In other words you make your exposure for shadow pictures but little longer than you would for an ordinary snapshot with the same lighting conditions.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

Professional Photographers can give suggestions that will save many disappointing exposures. Take your films to Paul Yates, Digby, for careful finishing and helpful suggestions.

Every town has its share of men who have fought and won—men who have risen to high positions not only in their own home town, but beyond the confines of that town. They have gone ahead with a spirit of comradeship, shouldering their full share of work and responsibility when called on to do so for their town's sake, no matter what sacrifices they had to make. You see these men daily. Real community builders—men who have done things.

Those who drive automobiles to work in business sections should pay for the luxury by parking their cars in private parking grounds or garages so shoppers may park on business streets while they buy.

Every person in the civilized world has become an soldier in the War for friendship and international square dealing, and by taking vigorous exception to the lies of the hate-makers.

No man develops a lasting success without successfully assuming responsibility and discharging it. It is all very well to theorize, but the man who would have lasting success has to learn to apply theory to work. Theorizing alone doesn't get far. Combination of plan and work is the thing.

Advertising has the power of suggestion which creates a desire to possess. Continuous advertising is the most effective kind.

UP-TO-DATE JEWELRY STORE
Annapolis Royal now has a large up to date Jewelry Store. When you go to Annapolis Royal do not fail to notice the way in which Parker's Jewelry Store has been modernized. Where there was only one show window, there are now three large plate glass windows, the one on the front with center door-way and one corner window. Mr. Parker certainly deserves credit for the way he has gone ahead since going to Annapolis Royal.

Starting in the jewelry business eighteen years ago with the former Wholesale Jewellers known as H. R. Bergman & Co., Halifax, and then for five years with the very popular firm of T. C. Johnson & Sons, Halifax. On leaving Johnson's in 1920, he went as manager for the firm of R. R. McLean & Co., Halifax. After being with Mr. McLean several years he entered the employ of Messrs. Palmeters, at Kentville, but through serious illness had to retire. After recovering he carried on business for several years in Bear River, and in 1933 opened the store, known as Parker's Jewelry Store, in Annapolis Royal, in the building then known as the Livingstone block, staying some two years at this stand.

In February, 1935, he bought the Rordian property, situated on St. George Street, just below the Royal Bank, in the heart of the business section. Making temporary repairs, until he got through the summer business, he has now thoroughly renovated the store. It has the appearance now of one of the best looking Jewelry Stores from Halifax to Yarmouth.

One of the reasons for his success in Annapolis Royal is due to the quality of the Merchandise he is handling. He has such well known lines as Bulova & Lorie Watches also showing a large assortment of highest quality silver-ware. Catering to the tourist trade he has shown a very up-to-date stock of Amethyst and Wedgwood China. It is unusual to find in a town of this size a Jewelry Store giving the public as large an assortment of popular lines to choose from as one would find in a city store. He has also one of the most complete repair departments in the Maritimes, being able to do watch repairing and jewelry repairing as well, and was recently appointed watch inspector for the C. P. R.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SUNSETS

Sunset pictures add interest to your snapshot album.

DID you ever stop to realize how considerate Mother Nature is of the amateur photographer? Month after month she changes the appearance of landscapes, trees, shrubs and even the skies, giving us something new to snap almost every day.

She has now shifted her scenery to her autumn display of new flowers, colorful foliage and last but not least—beautiful clouded skies to serve us with fascinating backgrounds for landscapes and sunset snapshots.

Don't overlook the opportunity to capture a few of these beautiful sunsets for your snapshot album. They add interest to your picture collections and usually bring that highly prized remark from your friends—"There's a beautiful picture. How did you take it?"

An artistic sunset picture possibility is not waiting for you every night in the week so don't rush out the door after reading this and expect to get one. Maybe you will but it is doubtful. A good sunset picture is just one of those things you watch and wait for.

You will find that a foreground of water or a background of hills will add much to the interest and artistic appearance of your sunset. By all means wait until there are clouds, for you will find that the clouds "make the picture."

No set rule can be made on the exposure time for sunset pictures but generally you will get a properly exposed negative if you set the diaphragm at f/16 and the shutter speed at 1/100 of a second. This setting of the diaphragm and shutter depends much on the brightness of your setting sun.

Believe it or not, attractive "moonlight" scenes can be made by sunlight. This is best done during the sunset hour and when there are masses of clouds floating in the western sky which create lighting conditions favorable for picturing "moonlight" scenes. The sun can be wholly or partially obscured and if the light is red, yellow or orange a snapshot exposure with a medium stop opening can be given.

To secure a high effect from a negative exposed in this manner, it must be printed long enough so that all but the highlights will be dark. If you don't do your own printing explain what effect you want to your finisher.

You will get a lot of pleasure taking these pictures and the result will be well worth your time and effort.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

Professional Photographers can give suggestions that will save many disappointing exposures. Take your films to Paul Yates, Digby, for careful finishing and helpful suggestions.

Party Given At

Deep Brook

On Saturday evening, Sept. 21, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Shurman, a delightful party was held in honor of Miss Mary Adams and Walter Dumas, whose marriage is taking place this week. About sixty-five relatives and friends made up the party. The wedding march was played by Miss Bernice Purdy, as little Beverlie Turner and Barbara Shine entered the room as bride and groom with a prettily decorated doll carriage, laden with gifts, presenting them to the bride-to-be. The gifts were opened and accompanying motes, read to the pleasure of the guests. Mr. W. H. Turner, pastor of the Baptist Church, of which both young people are members, in a fitting address, spoke of the high esteem in which these young people are held in the community, then presenting them with a very beautiful solid walnut china cabinet, Walter and Mary both replying, expressing their deep appreciation.

The committee in charge were: Mrs. W. H. Turner, Mrs. Raymond Moore and Miss Bernice Purdy. The large living room and dining room were made very attractive by an abundance of fall flowers, the color

Music and games followed by refreshments, made a very pleasant evening. Mrs. W. H. Turner and Mrs. W. H. Spurr had charge of the dining room, others assisting were: Mrs. Raymond Moore, Mrs. Harry Vroom, Miss Bernice Purdy and the Misses Elsie and Vivian Denton.

Slingshot, Not Gun

Shot "Bullet"

A report received by Mounted Police, Halifax, from an excited motorist, phoning from Prince's Lodge that a rifle bullet had been shot through a window of his car "missing him by inches" while he was proceeding along the Bedford highway sent highway patrol officers scurrying to the scene.

The motorist, who gave his name as J. Arnold, Digby, told police that he was proceeding toward Halifax near Prince's Lodge, when the supposed shot passed through the open window on the left side of his car, smashing the pane on the opposite side.

Investigation by police, however, proved the shot was not from a rifle but a stone which had been apparently thrown from a slingshot.
